5. Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 3515 of 2020 (Shailendra Kumar Gupta @ Shailu Vs. State of U.P.)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jayant Banerji, J.)

1. This bail application has been filed to enlarge the applicant on bail in Case Crime No. 224 of 2019, under Sections 18/20 of Narcotic Drug and Psychotropic Substances Act,19851, Police Station Site-5, Greater Noida, District Gautambudh Nagar.

2. The FIR dated 31.8.2019 has been lodged against the applicant and two others alleging recovery of 150 Kg 'Ganja' in 30 bags from the vehicle in which the applicant was traveling.

3. A perusal of the FIR reveals that the first informant, the Station House Officer of P.S. Greater Noida was patrolling the area falling under him in his official vehicle along with other police personnel. On reaching the Sirsa roundabout, a vehicle coming from the roundabout was stopped and checked which was being driven by one Susheel who said that the vehicle is loaded with coconuts. Since the season was not of coconuts, the matter became suspect. Two persons jumped off from the rear side of the vehicle and ran into the jungle in the direction of a flour mill. They were chased by two policemen but they could not be caught. The driver revealed his name as Bitti alias Suneel son of Satyaveer, resident of village Ghanghola, P.S. Site-5, District Gautam Budh Nagar and said that the vehicle was hired by him and it had bags of coconut and below the coconuts bags, packets of illicit 'Ganja' were present. Thereafter, the driver was informed that he could have his physical search done by a Magistrate or Gazetted Officer who could be called by the informant over phone. The driver said that since you have caught me and when full information has been disclosed to you, then you can search me physically as well as the vehicle. Then, the police personnel searched each other to confirm whether any of them had any illicit Ganja. The Station Officer spoke to Circle Officer who said that he was busy with official work. The Gram Pradhan, Sirsa, Sri Prakash was also spoken over mobile about the incident but he also expressed his inability to come. Therefore, under the provisions of Section 50 of the N.D.P.S. Act, the consent letter was got prepared which was signed and then physical search of the vehicle was done. Under five bags of coconuts, 30 packets of illicit 'Ganja' were recovered and to weigh the 'ganja' the Head Constable was sent to village Sirsa to get a weighing scale. In the meantime, the members of the public moving on the road were asked to be witnesses of the incident. However, none of them agreed. The Head Constable returned with an electronic weighing scale and every packet was weighed. Each packet weighed 5 kg and a total of 150 kg 'ganja' was recovered. The driver of the vehicle was asked to tell the names of the persons who had jumped off the vehicle and run away. The names of his elder brother, Sandeep son of Satyaveer (the applicant), and of one Kullan alias Gulab Singh son of Suradpal Singh were disclosed by him. He said that the three of them were taking the narcotic substance to Ghanghola. The accused was informed about his offence under Section 18/20 of the N.D.P.S. Act and was arrested at 23.30 hours. From the recovered material, by way of sample, 100 gm of 'Ganja' were taken and kept in a polythene and sealed in a cloth after affixing stamp. The sample of the stamp was made and the rest of the recovered material was recorded and seized. During arrest, the orders and directions of the Human Right Commission and the Hon'ble Supreme Court were followed. The arrest memo was prepared at the site and was dictated by the Station Officer to the Senior Sub Inspector in the light of a torch on the bonnet of the vehicle. The information of arrest would be given as stated by the accused after reaching the police station. The memo was read out to the other police personnel who made their signatures thereon and a carbon copy of the memo was given to the accused.

4. Sri B.S. Tripathi, Advocate, holding brief of the learned counsel for the applicant has contended that the applicant was not arrested on the spot and no narcotic substance was recovered from his possession. It is contended that the mandatory provisions of Section 42 and 50 of the NDPS Act were not complied with. Learned counsel has referred to the Standing Instruction No.1 of 1988 of the Central Government, which, however, has not been produced for reference before the Court. It is his contention that only 100 gm of 'Ganja' as sample was taken, whereas the mandate of Standing Instruction No. 1 of 1988 is that where there are several packets of narcotic seized, the sample has to be taken from each individual packet and sent for analysis. The analysis has to be done by testing kits approved by the United Nations. It is contended by the learned counsel for the applicant that the co-accused in the matter namely Kullan @ Gulab Singh has already been enlarged on bail by this Court by means of an order dated 22.10.2019 in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 43996 of 2019.

5. It is stated that since the mandate of Standing Instruction No. 1 of 1988 has not been complied with, the recovery of 150 kg of 'Ganja' becomes suspicious and the applicant is entitled to be enlarged on bail. In support of his contention, learned counsel has referred to paragraph nos. 11,12 and 13 of the judgment of the High Court of Rajasthan in Netram Vs. State of Rajasthan2, paragraph nos. 10 and 16 of the judgment of the Supreme Court in the matter of Union of India Vs. Balmukund3, the judgement of the High Court of Rajasthan in Om Praksh Bishnoi Vs. Union of India4 and the order dated 22.5.2018 passed by this Court in the case of Manoj Chaudhari in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 16781 of 2018.

6. Sri Abhishek Singh, learned counsel, brief holder for the State, opposing the bail application, has stated that the charge sheet has already been filed in the trial court against the applicant. It is contended that as far as compliance of Section 42 and 50 of the N.D.P.S. Act is concerned, the consent letter of the applicant is the part of the case diary. He has further contended that the issues that are being raised by the applicant before this Court in support of the bail application, are to be looked into by the trial court during the trial. He contends that given the fact that the recovery of 'Ganja' from the possession of the accused-person exceeds the commercial quantity, strict view may be taken by the Court with regard to bail.

7. Though, admittedly, the applicant was not arrested on the spot, but he was named by his brother, the driver of the vehicle, Bitti alias Suneel. No material has been placed on behalf of the applicant to show whether during investigation, it emerged that the applicant was not present on the spot. In any view of the matter, the presence of the applicant or otherwise at the spot, false implication or not, both are disputed questions of fact. Whether the provisions of Standing Instruction No. 1 of 1988 were duly complied with or not while taking samples of the narcotic drug on the recovery being made from the vehicle is again a question of fact that can be looked into during trial. Further, it is no longer res-integra that compliance of section 50 of the N.D.P.S. Act is a subject matter of trial.

8. The judgement and orders in the case of Netram (supra), Union of India Vs. Balmukund (supra) which have considered Standing Instruction No. 1 of 1988, would not be applicable in the instant application. The judgement in the matter of Netram and Balmukund were delivered in Criminal Appeals that arose out of the judgements of conviction and acquittal respectively and not in bail applications. In those appeals the testimony of witnesses and evidence on record of the trials were noticed. Therefore, the applicant cannot derive any benefit from those judgements.

9. The order of the Rajasthan High Court in the case of Om Praksh Bishnoi and of this Court in Manoj Chaudhari are orders passed on the third Bail Application and on the first bail application respectively of the respective applicants therein granting bail. Reliance in these two orders has been placed on the Standing Instruction No. 1 of 1988 issued by the Narcotic Bureau, New Delhi. However, with due respect, I am unable to treat these two orders in Om Praksh Bishnoi and Manoj Chaudhari as precedents for the purpose of adjudication of the present bail application on merits.

10. Section 37 of the N.D.P.S. Act reads as follows:-

"37. Offences to be cognizable and non-bailable.--(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974),--

(a) every offence punishable under this Act shall be cognizable;

(b) no person accused of an offence punishable for [offences under section 19 or section 24 or section 27A and also for offences involving commercial quantity] shall be released on bail or on his own bond unless--

(i) the Public Prosecutor has been given an opportunity to oppose the application for such release, and

(ii) where the Public Prosecutor opposes the application, the court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail.

(2) The limitations on granting of bail specified in clause (b) of sub-section (1) are in addition to the limitations under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force on granting of bail".

11. Liberal approach in the matter of grant of bail in the cases covered under the provisions of Section 37(1)(b) of the N.D.P.S. Act is not called for and the provisions require strict and mandatory compliance by the court where a person is accused of an offence punishable for offences under Section 19 or section 24 or Section 27A and also for the offences involving commercial quantity. In matters under the N.D.P.S. Act, a reverse onus is placed on the accused to substantiate that he is not guilty of the offences charged. The principles with regard to bail in such cases are no longer res nova, as held in the judgement of this Court dated 5.3.2020 passed in Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 3515 of 2020 (Shailendra Kumar Gupta @ Shailu Vs. State of U.P.). In the notification specifying small quantity and commercial quantity as published in the Gazette of India dated 19.10.2001, the commercial quantity of 'ganja' is shown at sl. no. 55 as 20 kg. The amount allegedly recovered from the vehicle is 150 kg. It is reiterated that whether the provisions of Standing Instruction No. 1 of 1988 were duly complied with or not while taking samples on recovered of the narcotic drug made from the vehicle, is a question of fact, that can be looked into during trial. The Court would be circumspect to look into disputed questions of fact in cases relating to bail in view of provisions of Section 37(1)(b) of the N.D.P.S. Act where testimony of witnesses is yet to be recorded and evidence is yet to be considered.

12. Though, as it appears from the perusal of the bail order enclosed as Annexure No.2 to the affidavit filed in support of the bail application, the co-accused Kullan alias Gulab Singh, who is also alleged to have jumped off the vehicle and run away, has been enlarged on bail by order of this Court dated 22.10.2019 in Criminal Misc. Bail application No. 43996 of 2019. However, with all due respect, I am not inclined to subscribe to the view taken by the learned Judge. In matters under the N.D.P.S. Act, as observed above, since a reverse onus is placed on the accused in view of Section 37(1)(b), no liberal view can be taken.

13. On perusal of the available record before this Court, no satisfaction can be recorded that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the applicant is not guilty of such offence. Moreover, the mere alleged fact that the applicant has no criminal history, does not, under the facts of the case, lead to a satisfaction that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail. This bail application , is, accordingly, rejected.

14. It is clarified that the observations, if any, made in this order are strictly confined to the disposal of this bail application and must not be construed to have any reflection on the ultimate merits of the case.

3. Sri B.S.S.V.V.V. Maharaj Vs. State of U.P. 1999 Cr.L.J. 3661 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam,, J.)

1. This Criminal Revision u/s 397/401 Cr.P.C. has been filed by Rajendra Singh, Vimla Devi, Pankaj Singh and Km. Ranjana against order dated 04.12.2019 passed by learned C.J.M., Chitrakoot, in Final Report Case No. 406 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No. 188 of 2018, u/s 498A, 304B I.P.C. and section 3/ 4 D.P. Act, P.S. Mau, District Chitrakoot, whereby learned Magistrate has rejected final report and ordered for further investigation.

2. Learned counsel for revisionists argued that it was a case of accident, wherein deceased was taken to hospital and was hospitalized there at. But unfortunately she succumbed to above burn injury. Her dying declaration was recorded by Executive Magistrate, wherein nothing incriminating was against the revisionists and on the basis of it, final report was submitted. However, protest petition was filed by informant and on the basis of contention of informant, the Magistrate passed the impugned order. Whereas the Magistrate was not competent to take prosecution version at the time of disposal of final report supplemented by protest petition. Rather it was case diary and contents thereof, which was to be taken into consideration. The Magistrate may proceed under Chapter XV of the Code of Criminal Procedure by examining complainant u/s 200 Cr.P.C. and his witnesses u/s 202 Cr.P.C. But he cannot direct for further investigation particularly upon a particular fact. But in this regard too above impugned order has been passed. Hence this revision.

3. Learned AGA has vehemently opposed the revision.

4. Section 190 Cr.P.C. provides for cognizance of offence by Magistrate. Section 190 Cr.P.C. reads as under:

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub- section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub- section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try."

5. Apex Court in Minu Kumari Vs. State of Bihar, (2006) 4 SCC 399 has propounded that a Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the Investigating Officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case. If he thinks fit and exercise his power under section 190(1)(b). The Magistrate is not bound in such situation to follow the procedure laid down in sections 200 and 202 of the Code for taking cognizance of a case under section 190(1)(a) though it is open to him to act under section 200 or section 202 also.

6. Section 173 Cr.P.C. provides for a report of police officer on completion of investigation. This report may be either a charge sheet or a final report and if final report has been submitted, the Magistrate is not bound by conclusion drawn by the Investigating Officer. If evidence collected in case diary makes some offence then the cognizance may be taken as per section 190 Cr.P.C. of those offences. If investigation is not fair or in accordance with facts given in investigation then final report may be rejected and a direction for further investigation may be given or final report may be accepted. Even if police report i.e. result of investigation under Chapter XII of Cr.P.C. is a conclusion that an investigating officer draws on the basis of materials collected during investigation and such conclusion can only form the basis of a competent court to take cognizance there upon under section 190(1)(b) of the Code and to proceed with the case for trial, and it cannot rely on the investigation or the result thereof, as has been propounded by Apex Court in Kaptan Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (1997) 4 Supreme 211.

7. Apex Court in Sri B.S.S.V.V.V. Maharaj Vs. State of U.P. 1999 Cr.L.J. 3661 (SC) has propounded that power of police to conduct further investigation, even after laying final report is recognized under section 173(8) Cr.P.C.

8. In the present case death by burn and injury caused by burn during treatment at Hospital within nine months of marriage is there. F.I.R. is with contention of dowry death. It was investigated. Final report was submitted and this conclusion was on the basis of statement made by deceased in her dying declaration. The contention of complainant was intact in case diary, but the final report was submitted. It was submitted by complainant that this dying declaration was manufactured and frivolous. There was no dying declaration of deceased. But this was not investigated by the investigating officer. Under all above facts and circumstances, final report was rejected with a direction for further investigation and this order was with no illegality or irregularity or in irregular exercise of jurisdiction by Magistrate.

Ka-11), while granting sanction has signed a virtually printed order wherein only name, address and authorization has been inserted and rest of order is a printed order. Aforesaid exhibit reads as under:-

"In exercise of the powers vested to me under Section 20 of the Food Adulteration Act, 1954 vide U.P. Government Notification No. 6001/XVI-X-722-55 Dated 18-9-76 Published in U.P. Govt. Gazzet Dt. 13-11-76.

I Dr. आर.सी. कटियार Chief Medical Officer, Moradabad after perusal of all papers and records applying my own mind hereby give my written consent for prosecution of Sri दीपक कुमार s/o श्री बुद्धिसेन R/o ekS0 अशोकनगर थाना कोतवाली मुरादाबाद Moradabad under Section 7/16 of Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954 and authorise Sri बी0एल0 अवस्थी खा0नि0 न0पा0 मुरादाबाद to launch and conduct the case in the Court."

4. English part is printed and Hindi part has been filled in by concerned person.

5. It is not disputed that CMO is a competent authority to grant sanction under Section 20 of Act, 1954 having been authorized by U.P. Government, vide Notification dated 18.09.1976, published in U.P. Gazette dated 13.11.1976. Submission is that mention of words "after perusal of all papers and records applying my own mind" are printed in sanction order and does not show actual application of mind by Sanctioning Authority.

6. However, I find no force in the submission. Where a very large number of sanction orders are required to be issued by CMO under the provisions of Act, 1954, for administrative convenience, some part of such orders have been got printed for expeditious disposal of matter unless it is shown that words contained in the order have actually not been performed or acted upon, it cannot be said that Sanctioning Authority has not applied his mind.

7. The issue as to in what manner any irregularity in the order of sanction would affect an otherwise valid order of trial has been considered time and again. In State of Maharashtra and Others Vs. Ishwar Piraji Kalpatri and Others 1996 (1) SCC 542, Court said that order of sanction is an administrative act. It is sufficient that if Sanctioning Authority has stated that prima-facie case is made out and it is in the interest of justice that accused persons should be prosecuted and they shows application of mind on his part and also that he has examined the material placed before him. Court also said that while according sanction, Sanctioning Authority had personally scrutinized file and had arrived at required satisfaction.

8. In State of Orissa Vs. Mrutunjaya Panda 1998 (2) SCC 414, where accused was convicted for offence under Section 161 IPC and Section 5(1)(d) and 5(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947. High Court set aside conviction for want of a valid sanction. Supreme Court reverse order by referring to Section 465 Cr.P.C. and said:

"any error or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution shall not be a ground for reversing an order of conviction by the Appellate Court unless in the opinion of that Court a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby. "

9. Again, in State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Harishankar Bhagwan Pd. Tripathi 2010 (8) SCC 655, the argument was raised that proper sanction was not obtained to prosecute accused persons in a trap case. Supreme Court said that Sanctioning Authority is not required to indicate that he has personally scrutinized the file and arrived at satisfaction for granting sanction and order granting sanction did not suffer from any infirmity to acquit accused persons. Even otherwise, once it is evident that material was placed before Sanctioning Authority and Competent Authority has granted sanction, any error or irregularity in sanction will not be a ground to reverse and order of conviction by Appellate order unless it is shown that three is failure of justice. For this purpose, Section 465 Cr.P.C. may be resorted to which reads as under:-

"465. Finding or sentence when reversible by reason of error, omission irregularity.

(1) Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered by a Court of appeal, confirmation or revision on account of any error, omission or irregularity in the complaint, summons, warrant, proclamation, order, judgment or other proceedings before or during trial or in any inquiry or other proceedings under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution, unless in the opinion of that Court, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby.

(2) In determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in any proceeding under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings."

10. Again, in State of Bihar and Others Vs. Rajmangal Ram and Others 2014 (11) SCC 388, conviction under the provision of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947 was quashed by High Court on the ground of want of valid sanction. Supreme Court taking a different view, said:

"In a situation where under both the enactments any error, omission or irregularity in the sanction, which would also include the competence of the authority to grant sanction, does not vitiate the eventual conclusion in the trial including the conviction and sentence, unless of course a failure of justice has occurred, it is difficult to see how at the intermediary stage a criminal prosecution can be nullified or interdicted on account of any such error, omission or irregularity in the sanction order without arriving at the satisfaction that a failure of justice has also been occasioned. "

11. Court relied on an earlier decision in State by Police Inspector Vs. T. Venkatesh Murthy (2004) 7 SCC 763 wherein, para-14, Court said:

"14. .....Merely because there is any omission, error or irregularity in the matter of according sanction, that does not affect the validity of the proceeding unless the court records the satisfaction that such error, omission or irregularity has resulted in failure of justice. "

12. The above view has been reiterated by a three Judges' Bench of Supreme Court in State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Virender Kumar Tripathi (2009) 15 SCC 533.

13. Similar view has been reiterated by a Full Bench of this Court also in Neera Yadav Vs. C.B.I. (Bharat Singh) 2006 (ILR)1 All 490 and in para-117, Court referred to the judgement of Supreme Court in Central Bureau of Investigation v. V.K. Sehgal and Another 1999 (8) SCC 501. Court held that purpose and object of sanction is to prevent a frivolous or vindictive prosecution and once prosecution has concluded in conviction, it cannot be said that prosecution was frivolous or vindictive. Court quoted following extract of judgement in V.K. Sehgal and another (supra) as under:

"If that case ends in conviction there is no question of failure of justice on the mere premise that no valid sanction was accorded for prosecuting that public servant, because the very purpose of providing such a filtering check is to safeguard public servants from frivolous or mala fide or vindictive prosecution on the allegation that they have committed offence in the discharge of their official duties. But once the judicial filtering process is over on completion of the trial the purpose of providing for the initial sanction would bog down to a sur-plusage. This could be the reason for providing a bridle upon the appellate and revisional forums as envisaged in Section 465 of the Code of Criminal Procedure." (Emphasis added)

14. Recently, above view has also been taken by a Division Bench of this Court in Mohd. Waris and Others Vs. State 2019 (3) Crimes 476 (All) wherein in paras- 37 and 38, Court said as under:-

"37. A perusal of Section 465 Cr.P.C. shows that it runs into two parts; (i) "on any error, omission or irregularity", and three words have been used and it is said that the same will not justify setting aside of conviction in appeal or revision etc. but with reference to "sanction" only two words "error or irregularity" have been used and the word "omission" has not been mentioned. Meaning thereby, in the cases where sanction is required, if there is an error or irregularity in the "sanction", then conviction or finding will not be reversed in appeal or revision. It contemplates that sanction is there but there is some error or irregularity in granting sanction. If there is a complete "omission" of sanction, then in my view, Section 465 Cr.P.C. will not come into picture and will not help prosecution. It, therefore, leads to irresistible inference that if there is no sanction, whatsoever, by competent authority, it will be a serious flaw and an illegality would vitiate the entire proceedings.

38. In the cases, where sanction order has been passed but there exists some error or irregularity therein, then if such an objection raised for the first time in appeal or revision that would not vitiate conviction of an accused and Court will not interfere with such conviction and sentence on this account."

15. In this backdrop, when no illegality or irregularity could be pointed out in trial and further that sanction was granted by Competent Authority, I do not find that any case has been made out to show failure of justice so as to warrant interference in the Revision, only on the ground of alleged irregularity in the order of sanction. However, I have also rejected contention that there was any irregularity in the order of sanction.

16. No other point has been argued.

17. Revision lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

18. Certify the judgment to the Court below immediately.

A. Facts said in-Examination -in-chief-not controverted or cross-examined by other side-unrebutted examination in chief be taken in toto.

Criminal Revision dismissed. (E-9)

Held, The factum of death, owing to above accident, was said by PW-1 and PW-2, but it was not crossexamined by learned counsel for the defence. Hence, it was unrebutted and uncontroverted sentence of both and the same is to be taken with intact evidence. On the basis of those witnesses as well as formal exhibits, proved by Investigating Officer as well as informant, the judgment of conviction and sentence was passed. It was well in accordance with law and facts on record. There was neither any illegality or irregularity or any perversity in the impugned judgment. (Para 6)

List of cases cited:-

1. State of Rajasthan vs Fatehkaran Mehdu, AIR 2017 SC 796

2. Amit Kapoor vs Ramesh Chander & Anr, (2012) 9 SCC 460

3.Kunwar Singh Vs. State of U.P. 1993 (3) AWC 1305 Alld.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This revision under Section 397 read with Section 401 of Code of Criminal Procedure, has been filed by convict-revisionist Hariraj, against State of U.P., with a prayer for setting aside impugned judgment of conviction and sentence made, therein, by trial Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 3, Moradabad, passed in criminal Case No. 2806 of 2014, related with Case Crime No. 202 of 2012, under Sections 279 and 304-A

I.P.C., P.S. Majhola, District Moradabad, along with judgment of Appellate Court of Sessions Judge, Moradabad, passed in Criminal Appeal No. 76 of 2018 (Hariraj Vs. State of U.P.).

2. Learned counsel for the revisionist argued that both the courts below failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it. Thereby, passed impugned judgment, wherein, conviction was awarded and sentence was passed. It was on the basis of statements recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., before trial Court. But, no such statement was made by revisionist, whereas it was written under mistaken facts. The witnesses examined as eye witnesses i.e. PW-1 and PW-2, were of same department of Homegaurd, of which deceased was. They were interested witnesses. Investigating Officer did investigation under influence of department concerned. He did not recorded statements of nearby persons. The arrest was said to be made from his home that too, after 21 days of occurrence. Whereas, the statements recorded thereafter it, and PW-1 has specifically said that driver of the truck concerned ran from spot, after leaving truck there. It was all a concoction and on the basis of this, conviction and sentence was awarded. It was appealed before learned Sessions Judge, Moradabad, where specific arguments of these facts were made, but above Court also failed to appreciate facts and law and thereby, dismissed the appeal. Hence, this revision with above prayer.

3. Learned AGA has vehemently opposed with this contention that trial Court recorded statements of prosecution witnesses, wherein, PW-1 and PW-2, were two eye witnesses of spot. They have categorically said about the occurrence and rash and negligent act of revisionist, whereby, this accident occurred, resulting, injury to deceased, who subsequently succumbed to above injuries. The judgment of conviction and sentences therein, was not on the mere basis of statement recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. Rather, it was upon the appreciation of entire evidence, laid before trial Court and it was well in accordance with law and evidence, on record. Appellate Court has appreciated the arguments raised by learned counsel for appellant and has passed impugned order, whereby, criminal appeal has been dismissed. In this revision, the course open to this revisional Court is limited one. It can never be second appellate court for appreciation of facts, which were confirmed by two subordinate courts. Hence, there is no illegality or irregularity in impugned judgments. This revision be dismissed.

4. Having heard learned counsels for both sides and gone through material placed on record, it is apparent that Section 397 of Code of Criminal Procedure, provided a limited jurisdiction to Court of Session Judge as well as High Court, for summoning and examining any record of any proceeding pending before inferior criminal court, situated within its legal jurisdiction, for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order, recorded or passed, and as to the regularity of any proceeding of such inferior Court. Record may be summoned, for perusal of same i.e. scope of the provision is to set right of patent defect or an error of jurisdiction, or law or the perversity, which crept in the proceeding, under this exercise of Revisional jurisdiction, as has been propounded by Apex Court in State Of Rajasthan vs Fatehkaran Mehdu, AIR 2017 SC 796. It has further been held by Apex Court in Amit Kapoor vs Ramesh Chander & Anr, (2012) 9 SCC 460, that the revisional court is empowered to call for and examine the records of any inferior Court, for the purpose of satisfying itself, as to the illegality and irregularity of any proceeding or order, made in a case. Object of this provision is to set right of patent defect or error of jurisdiction or of law. Meaning thereby, under jurisdiction of this jurisdiction, this Court is not to set as a second appellate Court for analyzing the facts involved therein. Rather, jurisdictional error or legal error or patent error, regarding jurisdiction or law, which has resulted perversity, is to be seen and the same is to set right. Under above pretext of law, the fact of case in hand is to be scrutinized.

5. Case Crime No. 202 of 2012, was got lodged at P.S. Majhola, District Moradabad, for offences punishable under Sections 279 and 304-A I.P.C., upon the report of Shahane Alam, Company Commander Homegaurd, on 30.11.2012, with this contention that Mangu Khan, a homeguard, was on his way upon a motorcycle and when he reached in front of Moradabad Development Authority, a truck Registration No. UP 21 N/9471, being driven by, its driver rashly and negligently, did dash with motorcycle No. UP AC/5083, of Mangu Khan, resulting grievous hurt to him. This occurrence was witnessed by witnesses Sanjeev Kumar Sharma and Irshad Hussain, Homeguard 4005 and Homegaurd 0197, respectively, who were on duty at Moradabad Development Authority Office. This information was received by informant, who got this case lodged. Injured was instantly taken by those witnesses for treatment at District Hospital, Moradabad, where he was declared dead, i.e. he succumbed to this injury. Meaning thereby, this report was against the driver, who was driving above truck Registration No. UP 21 N/9471. Investigation proceeded, wherein, truck was detained. Its technical examination etc. was got conducted. Autopsy examination of deceased was conducted. Then after, charge sheet was filed, wherein, cognizance was taken. Trial proceeded. Statements of those three witnesses, two of fact and one of informant along with Investigating Officer and constable clerk, who got this case lodged, were got recorded. After closing the evidence of prosecution, statement of accused was recorded for an explanation, if any, regarding incriminating evidence, led by prosecution witnesses. There was admission of this accident that too under accident. Then after, no evidence in defence was led and court after hearing both sides, passed impugned judgment of conviction and sentence of six months simple imprisonment under Section 279 I.P.C. and two years simple imprisonment under Section 304-A of I.P.C., with a direction of concurrent running of sentences. This judgment was challenged before Sessions Judge, Moradabad, in Criminal Appeal No. 76 of 2018. The contention of appellant was same, as has been written above in this revision and learned Appellate Judge, after hearing both sides, dismissed the above appeal, holding no illegality in appreciation of law and evidence, by trial Court and this revision has been filed. The judgment of both of the Courts contains this fact that above truck was detained and against it, compensation case was filed, wherein, name of revisionst as driver of that truck, having above registration number, was there. It was contested and then after, compensation was awarded. No point of time it was raised that present revisionist was not driver of above truck at above time, date and place of accident and it was determined by Motor Accident Claim Tribunal, wherein, award of compensation was there. Meaning thereby, this fact that appellant-revisionist was or was not driver of above truck on above date, time and place was adjudicated priorly.

6. PW-1, in his examination-in-Chief, has categorically said that he was present, on that date and time on above spot, when this accident occurred, wherein, driver of above truck, registration UP 21 N/9471, driving the same rashly and negligently, did dash with the motorcycle of Mangu Khan, resulting him serverly hurt. He was instantly taken to district hospital, where he was declared dead. He died owing to above injuries. This fact is very well there in examination-in-Chief. Whereas, no cross questioning is on this fact that it was not a death owing to above accident. The same is the situation with P.W.-2. Investigating Officer has proved his formal investigation. But no variance is there in cross-examination. This Court in Kunwar Singh Vs. State of U.P. 1993 (3) AWC 1305 Alld., has held about the effect of non cross examination of a witness, regarding the averment made in Examination-in-Chief and has held that once the fact has been said in Examination-in-Chief, but has not been controverted or cross-examined in cross-examination by other side, then the unrebutted Examination-in-Chief, will be taken in toto. The factum of death, owing to above accident, was said by PW-1 and PW-2, but it was not cross-examined by learned counsel for the defence. Hence, it was unrebutted and uncontroverted sentence of both and the same is to be taken with intact evidence. On the basis of those witnesses as well as formal exhibits, proved by Investigating Officer as well as informant, the judgment of conviction and sentence was passed. It was well in accordance with law and facts on record. There was neither any illegality or irregularity or any perversity in the impugned judgment. Accordingly, this revision merits its dismissal.

7. Hence, dismissed as such.

8. Record of trial Court with copy of judgment be sent back.

Criminal Procedure Code, 1973- Application u/s 319 -Dying declaration-accusation on husband and father-in -law-not against the prospective accused-statements of PW-1and PW-3 -is no avail-as they were not present on the spot-and statement of Pw-2 do not corroborates with autopsy report-Application u/s 319 Cr.P.C. rightly rejected.

Held, Evidence is to be appreciated at this stage because on the basis of evidence, recorded, before the Trial court, this application has been moved. Hence, at that juncture, evidence is to be appreciated by the Trial court and learned Trial court has appreciated evidence led before it. Neither evidence of informant nor of his wife, PW-1 and PW-3, was of any avail because they were not present on the spot and testimony of PW-2 of this fact is that those in-laws, firstly, beaten and injured the deceased, thenafter, she has been put at ablaze in which she succumbed due to above injuries during treatment, but, in autopsy examination report, there is no anti-mortem injury, except burn injuries. Hence, contention of Muskan, PW-2, is not supported by the autopsy examination report. Therefore, on the basis of law laid down, by the Apex Court, in the case of Hardeep Singh (Supra), as above, as well as discussed by the Trial court in its impugned order, facts and law placed before it, have been rightly appreciated by the Trial court and, thereby, Application, moved, under Section 319 of Cr.P.C., has been rightly rejected. (Para 9)

List of cases Cited:-

1. Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab and others, reported in (2014) 3 Supreme Court Cases

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This Criminal Revision, under Section 397/401 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Hereinafter, in short, referred to as "Cr.P.C."), has been filed by the revisionist, Jamshed Khan, against the order, dated 1.6.2019, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track, court no.2, Hapur, in Sessions Trial No. 332 of 2018, State vs. Shoaib and others, arising out of Case Crime No.302 of 2018, under Sections 498-A and 304-B of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (Hereinafter, in short, referred to as "IPC"), read with 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station-Dhaulana, District-Hapur.

2. Learned counsel for revisionist argued that the first information report of Case Crime No. 302 of 2018 was got lodged, at Police Station-Dhaulana, District Hapur, for offences, punishable, under Sections 498A and 304B of IPC, read with Sections 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, upon a report of the revisionist, Jamshed Khan, against Shoaib, husband, Aslam, father-in-law, Smt. Nazrin, mother-in-law, Parvez, brother-in-law, Gulbej @ Kalu, brother-in-law and Smt. Gullo, sister-in-law, with this contention that informant's daughter, Mumtaz was married with Shoaib and another daughter was married with Salman, and sufficient dowry was given, but, in-laws of his daughter, Mumtaz, were not satisfied with it. Husband, Shoaib, father-in-law, Aslam, Mother-in-law, Smt. Nazrin, brothers-in-law, Parvez and Gulbej @ Kalu, and sister-in-law, Smt. Gullo, wife of Parvez, were persistently demanding an Alto Car, with Rupees Two Lakhs, in cash, as additional dowry, for which cruelty is being done with her. On 13.4.2018, at about 6.00 PM, Shoaib, his mother and father, alongwith his two brothers, named as above, and one sister-in-law, also named in the first information report, assaulted Mumtaz and they, under joint mens-rea, poured kerosene oil over her body and set her at ablaze. This was a death, owing to demand of dowry and cruelty with regard to it. Informant's other daughter, Muskan, who was present at the place of occurrence, has tried to intervene, but, she, too was extended of repeating same occurrence with her. Hence, she informed informant, who rushed at the spot, alongwith other family members and other villagers, where, he found his daughter, Mumtaz, in burn and miserable condition. He, alongwith other persons, took her to Safdarjang Hospital, at Delhi, for her treatment, but, she died at 5.00 AM of 15.6.2018. Report of the incident was submitted.

3. This contention was there, in the statement, recorded, under Section 161 of Cr.P.C., as of informant, his daughter, Mumtaz and his wife, but, chargesheet was filed against Shoaib, husband and Aslam, father-in-law, only, and other accused persons, who have been named in the first information report, were not chargesheeted.

4. During trial, informant, as PW-1, his daughter, as PW-2 and his wife as PW-3, have reiterated same contentions in their statements, recorded before the Trial court. Hence, an application, under Section 319 of Cr.P.C., was filed with a prayer for summoning those leftover accused persons, but, it was rejected by the impugned order.

5. The ground for rejection of the application, moved, under Section 319 of Cr.P.C., was held to be of dying declaration, recorded by the deceased. Even, if this dying declaration is being accepted, offence, for demand of dowry and cruelty with regard to it, is made out and this Court, at this stage, is not to make analytic analysis of evidence on the basis of which existence of a prima facie case is to be seen and the argument regarding statement in dying declaration is to be appreciated at later stage and not at this stage. Hence, Trial court has failed to appreciate facts and law placed before it and, thereby, failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it, and as such, this Criminal Revision, with above prayer, has been preferred, challenging impugned order.

6. Learned counsel for Opposite party no.2, on the other hand, while vehemently opposing arguments advanced by learned counsel for revisionist, has contended that it was deceased, who, in her dying declaration, has categorically narrated scene and sequence of occurrence, wherein, an altercation took placed, in between the deceased and her husband, Shoaib, regarding giving of some lower (a kind of Trouser) to Shoaib, which she asked to be made available subsequently to the husband, after his taking bath. This furiated her husband and he, with the assistance of his father, put the deceased ablaze, after pouring kerosene over her. Hence, role of causing death to the deceased was assigned specifically to the deceased's husband and father-in-law. No contention, against any other family member is there and this dying declaration is fully admissible. Summoning at the stage of 319 of Cr.P.C., never requires a prima facie case, only, rather, it requires much more than initial summoning and in present case not even a single iota of evidence is there against prospective accused persons. Deceased was instantly taken to the hospital by her husband and his cousin and neither the informant nor any other family members of informant were accompanying deceased. She was given treatment at the hospital. This report was got lodged after two days of occurrence and in between no accusation was levelled by the revisionist or any of his family members, including Muskan. This subsequent accusation is under ulterior motive. Hence, learned Trial court has rightly appreciated facts and law placed before it and, thereby, rightly passed impugned order, in accordance with law. This Criminal Revision, challenging the order passed by the learned Trial court, being devoid of merits, is liable to be dismissed.

7. Learned AGA, representing State of U.P., has also vehmently opposed this Revision.

8. First information report reveals that occurrence was of 13.6.2018, but, report was got lodged on 15.6.2018 and in this report it has been stated that Muskan was an eye witness account, but this eye witness, Muskan, has never made any complaint before this registration of this very case crime number. As per the contention of this report, neither informant nor his wife, was present at the place of occurrence. Whatever, he could perceive, it was on the basis of the information given by Muskan and Muskan has not lodged any complaint, prior to registration of this report. Her testimony is with this contention that she too was subjected to demand of dowry, but, her husband was in her favour, whereas, husband of the deceased was not favouring her.

9. Meaning thereby, accusation of demand of dowry and cruelty with regard to it was against the husband of the deceased and her father-in-law. This fact is there in the dying declaration, recorded by the Magistrate, under supervision and Medical Certificate of the Medical Officer, wherein, no such statement or accusation against prospective accused persons was there. Mere contention and guilt, written in dying declaration, is against her husband and father-in-law. General allegation of demand of dowry and cruelty with regard to it and that, too, in this delayed report, by the informant, was there. Apex Court, in the case of Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab and others, reported in (2014) 3 Supreme Court Cases, rendered by Constitution Bench, has elaborately discussed and laid down law, for allowing and rejecting application, moved, under Section 319 of Cr.P.C., wherein, it has been held that at the time of passing an order over an application, moved, under Section 319 of Cr.P.C., much more than initial summoning is required. Evidence is to be appreciated at this stage because on the basis of evidence, recorded, before the Trial court, this application has been moved. Hence, at that juncture, evidence is to be appreciated by the Trial court and learned Trial court has appreciated evidence led before it. Neither evidence of informant nor of his wife, PW-1 and PW-3, was of any avail because they were not present on the spot and testimony of PW-2 of this fact is that those in-laws, firstly, beaten and injured the deceased, thenafter, she has been put at ablaze in which she succumbed due to above injuries during treatment, but, in autopsy examination report, there is no anti-mortem injury, except burn injuries. Hence, contention of Muskan, PW-2, is not supported by the autopsy examination report. Therefore, on the basis of law laid down, by the Apex Court, in the case of Hardeep Singh (Supra), as above, as well as discussed by the Trial court in its impugned order, facts and law placed before it, have been rightly appreciated by the Trial court and, thereby, Application, moved, under Section 319 of Cr.P.C., has been rightly rejected. There is no failure in exercise of jurisdiction vested in Trial court or over-exercise of jurisdiction, vested in it, nor there is any apparent error on the face of impugned order.

Accordingly, in view of what has been discussed, hereinabove, this Criminal Revision, being devoid of merits, deserves dismissal and it stands dismissed as such.

Quantum of compensation - Notional Income - Unless any evidence is led to the contrary, it may be presumed that every family in India leads a reasonably happy and respectable life. If a person has met an accidental death and is survived by dependents, and has no record of income, it would be quite inhuman to presume that he had no income and so his family was leading a beggars life. In the absence of record of income, unless and until proved to the contrary there has to be a presumption that breadwinner of a family was earning sufficiently enough for the survival of his family (Para 10)

Average income of a person to lead a reasonably good and respected life depends upon the size of the family and place where he lives. It will all depend upon the social economic condition of the area where he lives in. Broad classification could be urban, semi urban and rural areas. (Para 12)

The basic requirement for ascertaining the minimum wage in the unskilled sector is two meals a day and medical expenses. (Para 19)

The dependents being the wife, two minor sons, a minor daughters and the mother therefore, 1/5 deduction towards personal expenses will be valid. Multiplier of 16 would be applicable for the decease having died at the age of 33 years (Para 29, 31)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.
Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri M.N. Siddiqui, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Archit Mehrotra, Advocate holding brief of Sri S.K. Mehrotra, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 and perused the record.

2. This first appeal from order is directed against the award dated 19th August, 2010 passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No. 2, Kanpur Nagar allowing the compensation of the petitioners-claimant raised vide claim petition no. 338 of 2008.

3. It has been argued on behalf of the appellants that on the point of determination of compensation, the Tribunal has not correctly appreciated the legal authorities on contemporary law governing the calculation of compensation in cases of motor accident claims.

4. Briefly stated facts of the case are that the husband of appellant no. 1-late Sarju Lal, who is survived by as many as seven dependents (widow, mother and five minor children) suffered the fatal accident on 6th of February, 2008 while he was hit by a tempo in the morning hours at around 9:30 a.m. Sarju Lal was immediately taken to the hospital where he succumbed to the injuries on 12th February, 2008. The claim petition was preferred and as many as four issues were framed. Regarding other three issues, there is no issue between the parties as the Insurance Company has not come up to file any appeal against the award. Regarding issue no. 4, the grievance of the appellants is that the Tribunal has not correctly appreciated the income of the appellants and has wrongly fixed Rs. 6,000/- as an average income. He has placed reliance upon several authorities in this regard particularly (2015) 3 SCC 590, Smt. Neeta w/o Kallappa Kadolkar & Ors. vs. The Div. Manager, MSRTC, Kolhapr.

5. It has been further argued that the deduction of personal expenses of the appellants has also been wrongly calculated as 1/3 whereas it should have been 1/5 as there were five minor children and they can be taken as 2 and 1/2 and the wife and mother of the decease being major. It has been further argued that the prospective income has also not been assessed and no compensation has been awarded to that count and 6% of the interest is also not sufficient enough as has been ordered by the Tribunal.

6. Per contra, counsel appearing for the Insurance Company has justified the order impugned and submits that in the facts of the case, the average income of the deceased was correctly assessed. He submits that no evidence has been led by the claimant in respect of the income of the deceased so as to come to a definite conclusion on the question of future prospective income. It has been argued by learned counsel appearing for the Insurance Company that the legal position has come to be changed only later on and would not be applied retrospectively on the accident is of the year 2008. On the question of interest, learned counsel appearing for Insurance Company submits that the insurance has been genuinely assigned as 6%.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the records, we find that on the issue no. 4, the Court should have taken pragmatic view in the light of the fact that there were five minor children in the family.

8. Coming to the question of income of the deceased, who was a self employed person and was doing business of purchase and sale of buffalo, the tribunal has applied the rule of Rs. 100/- per day as an income as was held in the case of Laxmi Devi vs. Mohammad Tabbar and anothers, 2008 (12) SCC 165. The Court in the case of Laxmi Devi vide paragraph-4 upheld the order of the High Court where the notional income of the deceased was assessed as Rs. 100/- per day being an unskilled labourer on the ground that it was held by the high court to be a labour charge in those days and this is how the monthly income was assessed to be Rs. 3,000/- and yearly income as Rs. 36,000/-.

9. However, later on in the case of Chameli Devi & others vs. Jivrail Mian & others decided by the Apex Court on 4th September, 2019 in Civil Appeal No. 7004 of 2019, where the deceased was a carpenter the notional income was assess as Rs. 200/- per day. In the case of case Chameli Devi it is held that keeping in view the fact that the accident took place in 2001 and the deceased was a carpenter, it would not be unjustified to assess his income at Rs. 200/- per day. It is true that carpenter may not get work every day, hence, we assess the income at Rs. 5,000/-.

10. One, who meets a fatal accident while on board a vehicle becomes entitled to a third party claim. It is a statutory claim for compensation to those who have suffered the loss of their bread winner. In such a situation there arises question of quantum of compensation to be paid. All the factors that contribute to the quantum of compensation are basically borne on income of the deceased. While a professional and employed person may give details of earning but those who are self employed may not be having this kind of statistics in black and white. In India still people do not prefer banking system and both in urban, semi urban and rural areas life goes on with daily cash transactions. Earning in cash, expenditure met and, if money, in case saved is kept for the other day and this is how saved money keeps adding everyday to meet sudden requirement. Ladies are often found keeping money in cash. In recent past when government demonetized currency note of Rs. 1000 and also of Rs. 500, we have seen how even in rural and semi urban areas people lined up before the bank to exchange their currency notes. So all this leads to one conclusion that in majority, family is survived on daily earning. Now, if a deceased did not have the record of his earning, it does not mean that he had no earning. A deceased survived by six members in a family will lead to inevitable presumption that he being the sole bread winner, was earning sufficiently for the survival of his dependents in the family. There is always a presumption, a valid enough, that one leads a reasonably respected life unless of course, he has criminal antecedents in cases of theft, snatching or dacoity etc. Every citizen enjoys a self esteem and so presumption has to be that he lives a respectable life though such a presumption is rebuttable. So unless any evidence is led to the contrary, it may be presumed that every family in India leads a reasonably happy and respectable life. If a person has met an accidental death and is survived by dependents, and has no record of income, it would be quite inhuman to presume that he had no income and so his family was leading a beggars life. It is a slur upon fellow citizen and no civilized society would approve it. So in our ultimate conclusion that we arrive at, is that even in the absence of record of income, unless and until proved to the contrary there has to be a presumption that breadwinner of a family was earning sufficiently enough for the survival of his family.

11. A family has lost its bread winner and the resultant trauma it faces cannot be visualized by others. It may have catastrophic impact on future prospects of minor children. They may not get proper education, medical care in the absence of adequate financial resources and they may suffer from malnutrition more especially in cases where bread winner was self employed. Thus a child, who could have become a well established person of good repute after attaining good education, may not attain even status of a person, who could manage even two meals a day and worse is a case when a self employed is survived by five minor children, as the case in hand is.

12. Now the question would be what should be an average income of a person to lead a reasonably good and respected life. In our considered opinion it should depend upon the size of the family and place where he lives. It will all depend upon the social economic condition of the area where he lives in. Broad classification could be urban, semi urban and rural areas.

13. In India, in present time, both in rural and urban areas more or less basic needs to sustain life are same. Two meals a day means not less that Rs. 50/- for a person to lead a reasonably good life looking to the various factors that are taken into consideration to calculate per capita income in the country. Children we keep at par with adult on the ground that they need more nutritious food because they are often prone to various health problems due to malnutrition, and the medical expenses would go beyond imagination and in case of absence of enough financial source they lead to a crippled life.

14. Apart from daily bread and butter a person needs medical expenses and at least minimum Rs. 50 per head for two young couple a month and at least Rs. 100/- for aged couple. Children need more medical care and so each children may require at least Rs. 100/- per month.

15. So a family of two persons (adult) would require Rs. 200/- daily for two meals and Rs. 100/- at least towards medical treatment. It leads to an average monthly Rs. 6000/- + 100/-= Rs. 6,100/- where family is two adult and two children it would come to Rs. 6,300/-.

16. The above calculation is based upon average expenses incurred reasonably upon every family including adult/major and minor equally and medical expenses may very. In order to make it reasonable we keep it Rs. 200/- per family of four and Rs. 500/- per family of four and it will increase Rs. 50/- on an average per person with every increase of member in a family.

17. This above calculation is based on our assessment qua the daily expenditure that a human being incurs for its sustenance but one should not loose sight of a fact that in India there is still not enough education in semi urban and rural areas regarding population control as emotions still prevail over logic and every family by and large consists of not only aged parents but 3-4 children as dependents. In such a situation, therefore, if every increase of number in the family it results in increase of assessment of income, it could go beyond the prescribed minimum wage as it would be dependent upon the family size. A person of whose, who has not left behind any statistics of his income, cannot be presumed to be earning more than minimum wage and, therefore, it is needed to put a ceiling upon the income at par with a minimum wage while making assessment for the purposes of computation of compensation. The minimum wage has been notified by the Central Government from time to time. If a person's employment is not recorded and he is doing work of a labour, it would be more appropriate to consider the notification issued from time to time. The minimum wage is determined taking into account various considerations and the five important considerations (vide report of Expert Committee, Ministry of Labour and Employment, Government of India, January, 2019) are:-

"a) the standard working class family includes a wife and two children apart from the earning worker, an equivalent of three adult consumption units;

b) a net intake of 2,700 calorie per day per consumption unit, as recommended in 1948 by Dr. Wallace Aykroyd, first director of the Department of Nutrition at the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO);

c) clothing requirements of 72 yeards (6.5 metres) per year per family;

d) a minimum housing rent charged by the government for low-income groups; and

e) fuel, lighting and other miscellaneous items of expenditure to constitute 20 per cent of the total minimum wage."

18. The Apex Court in a number of cases and more importantly in a celebrated judgment in the case of Peoples Union for Democratic Rights vs. Union of India, AIR 1982 (SC) 1473 had observed that no industry has a right to exist unless it is able to pay its workmen at least a bare minimum wage and which are determined by applying principle of subsistence minimum enough to ensure sustenance of workers. It is in the light of this philosophy that concept of minimum wage was held to be a worker's legal right. The 7th pay commission had accordingly expressed its opinion that the need based norms would be calculated on the basis of the cost of food, clothing and detergent products using prices from labour bureau Shimla and raising presumption that the government does not have any unskilled staff provided for additional premium of 25% to count for skilled factor. All this shows that only anxiety that a human life not only deserves respected living but is presumed to be having a respected living. So in our considered opinion even in the absence of any income details of a person, who has met a fatal accident and is survived by dependents, the Court should follow the rule of minimum wage. The worker could be skilled or unskilled, the area could be industrial or non industrial, applying the law of averages the minimum wage standard should be made a standard for computing notionally the average monthly income of the deceased.

19. The Ministry of Labour and Employment has applied certain methodology for fixing notional minimum wage and the different minimum wages have been notified for different sectors. Seven sectors have been defined like agriculture (unskilled) with a minimum INR 360/- minerals and mines (unskilled) with INR 453/-, construction, maintenance and laydown (unskilled) INR 503/-, sweeping and cleaning with INR 503, watch and ward (i) without arms 656/- (ii) with arms 732/- and loading and unloading sector INR 503/- and stone mine sector with different minimum wages between INR 406/- and 326/- in cases of excavation and removal and between INR 2494/- and 1027/- for stone breaking or stone crushing. Those, who are working in well organized sectors, their muster role is prepared and the names are recorded but in agricultural and sweeping and cleaning sector, there would be large number of cases where there is no recorded entry of the workers and the labourers while on field or off the field and in such circumstances, therefore, it would be difficult to get the exact statistics of the earning. Law of averaging is well proved and widely acclaimed mathematical technique to reach out to a kind of reasonable and workable statistically arrived an analytical assessment and, therefore, applying the law, we calculate the average minimum wage prescribed for agricultural unskilled and sweeping and cleaning sector which is 360 and 504 respectively and that comes to 431.5 and rounding of last denomination we make it 432. Since, it could be the case of organized sector one may not get work every day and mostly it happens that out of 30 days one gets work between 20-25 days on an average so we take it that a person, who is self-employed gets work and pay at par with a minimum wages for 20 days. The average, therefore comes to 432 x 20=INR 8640/- rounding off the same would come to INR 8600 which according to us, should be the minimum average income of an individual in present time. The State Government in Uttar Pradesh has notified on December 17, 2018 the minimum wage in the unskilled sector to be around Rs. 200/-per day which according to us by any standard is not acceptable, if a family consists of more than four persons and there is only one breadwinner in the family. We have already discussed above in detail about the basic requirements of two meals a day and in addition thereto the medical expenses. We have not discussed education and other important aspects where the expenditure is incurred. Since we are more concern for minimum requirements for survival, we fail to understand how a family of four can survive at Rs. 200/- per day in modern times.

20. In our view in a dynamic society, truly characterized with good governance and responsive and value based administration, the society warrants that such assessments of economic prosperity or otherwise of any household be credible, specially from the point of view of suitability of compensation measures. And, therefore, dearness must be factored in when such compensatory measures are undertaken. Relying routinely upon the older provisions and norms may not beat the misery of the victim and the bereaved ones.

21. In the case of Laxmi Devi, the victim Rajendra Singh had died on 12.4.2004 and the high court fixed Rs. 100/- as per day income which was uphold by the supreme court whereas in the case of Sarla Verma (2009) 6 SCC 121 the issue was not the average monthly income. In this case the incident had taken place in the year 2008. The Apex Court in the case of Pranay Sethi has referred to Santosh Devi vs. National Insurance Company Limited (2012) 6 SCC 421.

22. In Pranay Sethi, the Apex Court discussed the future prospects of actual salary to be added with different percentages at different age slab. However what should be the actual salary, was left to be dependent upon various factors. As we have discussed above, the various factors in determining the minimum wage and have raised presumption that the deceased was living a reasonably good life for the sustenance on economic front to meet the basic requirements and at least two meals a day for each of the member of the family. We consider it appropriate to presume that a person must be having daily income at par with minimum wage of Rs. 432/- in present time but we may further observe that a family of four may survive upon a daily earning of Rs. 432/- but if it consists of more members, one may have many more sources to earn enough for sustenance of family. So we are of the considered opinion that in present time average notional income per day for a family of four should be 432/- and 10% should be increased with every increase of member in the family as dependent.

23. However, since in the case in hand accident is of the year 2008, considering the number of dependents, who survived upon the sole breadwinner, the deceased, we take Rs. 200/-as his per day income notionally and if he earned for 25 days only, his monthly income must have been Rs. 5,000/-

24. Now coming to the other aspect of the matter regarding deduction on account of personal expenses, future prospects, loss of estate, loss of consortium and other conventional and traditional income, the law is now come to be crystallized in the judgment of the constitution bench in the case of National Insurance Company Limited. vs. Pranay Sethi and others (2017) 16 SCC 680. The constitution bench vide paragraph-10 has held thus:-

"10. Now coming to the aspect of future prospects and claim of compensation in that head for those who are self employed. This issue is no more res integra. The Apex Court in Pranay Sethi (supra) vide paras 56 and 57 has held thus:

"56. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma (supra) has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to get the benefit of addition of future prospects. It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category.

57. Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardization, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardization on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life, etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable."

(emphasis added)

25. For loss of consortium, as he was of quite young age and survived by his wife, minor sons and daughter at a very young age and towards love and affection also, some considerable amount ought to have been awarded. In Pranay Sethi (supra) the Constitution Bench vide para 52 held thus:

"52. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, we find it difficult to agree with the view expressed in Rajesh. It has granted Rs. 25,000/- towards funeral expenses, Rs. 1,00,000/- loss of consortium and Rs. 1,00,000/- towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The head relating to loss of care and minor children does not exist. Though Rajesh refers to Santosh Devi, it does not seem to follow the same. The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the Tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads. (emphasis added)"

26. Ultimately, the Court vide para 59 concluded thus:

"59. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:-

59.1. The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd. (2012) 6 SCC 421 should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma, a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.

59.2. As Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh (2013) 9 SCC 54 has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari, which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh (supra) is not a binding precedent.

59.3. While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

59.4. In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

59.5. For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the Tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paragraphs 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma which we have reproduced hereinbefore.

59.6. The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma read with paragraph 42 of that judgment.

59.7. The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

59.8. Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10% in every three years."

27. The above legal position has not been disputed and, therefore, the compensation is to be awarded after its computation in terms of the judgment in the case of Sarla Verma (Smt.) & ors. vs. Delhi Transport Corporation & Anr. and so far as the income aspect is concerned, we are of the considered view that the judgments in the cases of Laxmi Devi & others v. Mohammad Tabbar & Another (2008) 12 SCC 165 and Sarla Verma & Ors. v. Delhi Tranpsort Corporation & Anr. (2009) 6 SCC 121 have come to be upheld and subsequently noticed in the Constitution Bench judgment (supra), hence need not be reiterated.

28. Considering the age of the deceased to be 33 years, we are of the opinion that 40% income should be added towards the future prospects. On the point of deduction from income towards personal expenses also the law is almost settled by the Constitution Bench. Vide para 59.5, the Bench has approved paras 30 to 32 of the judgment in Sarla Verma (supra). However, for the purpose of the case in hand Para-30 of the judgment is relevant and that runs as under:-

"30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra4, the general practice is to apply standardized deductions. Having considered several subsequent decisions of this (2003) 3 SLR (R) 601 Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married, the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, should be one-third (1/3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3, one-fourth (1/4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six."

29. For the purposes of case in hand, para 30 is relevant. The dependents are the wife, two minor sons, a minor daughters, and mother and therefore, 1/5th deduction towards personal expenses will be valid.

30. On the question of multiplier also we find substance in the argument of learned counsel for the appellants that multiplier of 17 should have been applied. In Pranay Shetty's case the Constitution Bench of the Apex Court concerned with the view taken in Rajesh Kumar that has approved the table given in Sarla Verma. Speaking for the Bench Chief Justice Mishra held that "the multiplier has already been fixed in Sarla Verma which has been approved in eshma Kumari with which we concur." In Sarla Verma (supra) vide paragraph 42 the Court has held thus:

"42. We therefore hold that the multiplier to be used should be as mentioned in column (4) of the table above (prepared by applying Susamma Thomas, Trilok Chandra and Charlie), which starts with an operative multiplier of 18 (for the age groups of 15 of 20 and 21 to 25 years), reduced by one unit for every five years, that is M-17 for 26 to 30 years, M-16 for 31 to 35 years, M-15 for 36 to 40 years, M-14 for 41 to 45 years, M-13 for 46 to 50 years, then reduced by two units for every five years, that is, M-11 for 51 to 55 years, M-9 for 56 to 60 years, M-7 for 61 to 65 years and M-5 for 66 years to 70 years."

31. In view of the above principles laid down in Sarla Verma affirmed in Pranay Sethi, in the present case multiplier of 16 would be applicable and so we do would be applicable for the deceased having died at the age of 33 years and so we do apply.

32. Now coming to conventional heads the Constitution Bench while providing for Rs. 40,000/- for loss of consortium, Rs. 15,00/- for loss of estate and Rs. 15,000/- towards funeral expenses, the Bench recommended 10% hike at every three years. Thus, the Apex Court applied the above principle and fixed amount in different conventional heads to bring about consistency and to avoid any variation in the orders passed by the tribunals or courts.

33. Accordingly, we direct a total compensation admissible for the claimant be given to them is as under:-

Notional Income	5,000/- p.m.	Rs. 60,000/- p.a.
Future Prospects	40% of Rs. 60000/-	Rs. 24,000/-
Total Income		Rs. 84,000/-
Deduction towards personal expenses	1/5th of total income	Rs. 16,800/-
Dependency	84,000-16,800	Rs. 67,200/-
Multiplier		16
Compensation	67,200/- x 16	Rs. 10,75,200/-
Loss of Consortium		Rs. 40,000/-
Funeral Expenses		Rs. 15,000/-
Loss of Estate		Rs. 15,000/-
Total Compensation		Rs. 11,45,200/-

34. Thus, the compensation awarded by the Court below is enhanced from 3,45,000/- to Rs. 11,45,200/- with simple interest @ of 7% per annum from the date of presentation of the application.

35. In view of the above, the appeal stands allowed. The compensation awarded to the claimants/appellants under the order of the Tribunal dated 19.8.2010 is accordingly enhanced and award stands modified to the extent indicated herein above.

List of cases cited:-

1. Smt. Sureshta Devi vs. Om Prakash reported in 1991 2 SCC 25

2. Smruti Pahariya v. Sanjay Pahariya, 2009 13 SCC 338

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned counsel for the sole respondent.

2. This first appeal has been filed by the appellant Prabhat Singh against the judgement and order dated 15.03.2017 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad in Petition No.392 of 2017 (Smt. Shweta Yadav Vs. Prabhat Singh), under Section 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act"), by which the court below has directed the appellant to return the custody of minor child and referred the petition under Section 13-B of the Act to the mediation center on the ground that the respondent-Smt. Shweta Yadav has withdrawn her consent for divorce by mutual consent.

3. It is argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the marriage of the appellant was solemnized with the respondent-Smt. Shweta Yadav on 05.12.2011 and out of the aforesaid wedlock a daughter was born on 21.07.2014 and she has separated from the appellant on 21.06.2015 and living separately.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant further argued that the appellant found it impossible to live without his daughter, hence he pleaded for return of his wife (respondent) but she filed a divorce petition bearing No.1122 of 2015, under Section 13 of the Act in Family Court, Ghaziabad, the respondent never allowed the appellant to meet his daughter which made his life miserable and pathetic.

5. It was further argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the respondent-Smt. Shweta Yadav agreed to give the custody of the minor child to the appellant on the ground that the appellant shall agree for filing a joint petition under Section 13-B of the Act and return the jewelry as demanded by respondent-Smt. Shweta Yadav, the appellant fell in the trap of the respondent-Smt. Shweta Yadav out of the love and affection of his daughter and agreed to file a joint divorce petition under Section 13-B of the Act in the Family Court, Ghaziabad. The divorce petition was filed on 02.03.2017 and numbered as 392 of 2017. The statement of the parties were also recorded at the time of first motion of the divorce petition and the custody of the minor daughter was handed over to the appellant on the same day i.e. 02.03.2017.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the respondent-Smt. Shweta Yadav had moved an application dated 06.03.2017 in the divorce petition filed under Section 13-B of the Act along with an affidavit alleging therein that she cannot meet her minor daughter, hence she wants the custody of the minor daughter and she also mentioned that she is withdrawing her consent.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the action of the respondent-Smt. Shweta Yadav in withdrawing her consent without any valid reason once she has given the consent for divorce by mutual consent was totally against the law, but the Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad without passing the decree of divorce vide order dated 15.03.2017 directed the appellant to return the custody of minor daughter within 24 hours and refer the Case no.392 of 2017, under Section 13-B of the Act to the mediation center, therefore, the order dated 15.03.2017 appears to be wrong and against the provisions of Section 13-B of the Act, as such is liable to be quashed.

8. Per contra, learned counsel for the sole respondent by placing reliance upon a judgement rendered by the Apex Court in Smt. Sureshta Devi vs. Om Prakash reported in 1991 2 SCC 25 submitted that consent can be withdrawn by one of the parties any time before the Court passes a decree of divorce by mutual consent.

9. We have heard learned counsel for the parties.

10. Since the facts of this case are not in dispute, with the consent of the learned counsel for the parties, we are deciding this appeal finally at the admission stage itself as per the High Court Rules.

11. In order to appreciate the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties, it would be useful to extract Section 13-B of the Act.

Section 13B in The Hindu Marriage Act, 1955

13-B. Divorce by mutual consent

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act a petition for dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce may be presented to the district court by both the parties to a marriage together, whether such marriage was solemnised before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976 (68 of 1976), on the ground that they have been living separately for a period of one year or more, that they have not been able to live together and that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.*

(2) On the motion of both the parties made not earlier than six months after the date of the presentation of the petition referred to in sub-section (1) and not later than eighteen months after the said date, if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the court shall, on being satisfied, after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, that a marriage has been solemnised and that the averments in the petition are true, pass a decree of divorce declaring the marriage to be dissolved with effect from the date of the decree.]

12. Even the most superficial reading of sub-section (1) Section 13-B of the Act indicates that subject to the provisions of the Act, a petition for dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce may be presented to the district court by both the parties to a marriage together, on the ground that they have been living separately for a period of one year or more, that they have not been able to live together and that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.

13. Sub-section (2) of Section 13-B of the Act further stipulates that on the motion of both the parties made not earlier than six months after the date of the presentation of the petition referred to in sub-section (1) and not later than 18 months after the said date and if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the court shall, on being satisfied, after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, that a marriage has been solemnized and that the averments in the petition are true, pass a decree of divorce declaring the marriage to be dissolved with effect from the date of the decree.

14. There is nothing in Section 13-B of the Act which may indicate that the consent once given by either of the parties to a petition for divorce by mutual consent, cannot be withdrawn before a decree of divorce by mutual consent is passed.

15. Section 13-B of the Act was examined by the Apex Court in the case of Smt. Sureshta Devi (supra). Paragraph nos. 9, 10 and 13 of the aforesaid judgement which are relevant for our purpose are being reproduced hereinbelow:-

"9. The `living separately' for a period of one year should be immediately preceding the presentation of the petition. It is necessary that immediately preceding the presentation of petition, the parties must have been living separately. The expression `living separately', connotes to our mind not living like husband and wife. It has no reference to the place of living. The parties may live under the same roof by force of circumstances, and yet they may not be living as husband and wife. The parties may be living in different houses and yet they could live as husband and wife. What seems to be necessary is that they have no desire to perform marital obligations and with that mental attitude they have been living separately for a period of one year immediately preceding the presentation of the petition. The second requirement that they `have not been able to live together' seems to indicate the concept of broken down marriage and it would not be possible to reconcile themselves. The third requirement is that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.

10. Under sub-section (2) the parties are required to make a joint motion not earlier than six months after the date of presentation of the petition and not later than 18 months after the said date. This motion enables the court to proceed with the case in order to satisfy itself about the genuineness of the averments in the petition and also to find out whether the consent was not obtained by force, fraud or undue influence. The court may make such inquiry as it thinks fit including the hearing or examination of the parties for the purpose of satisfying itself whether the averments in the petition are true. If the court is satisfied that the consent of parties was not obtained by force, fraud or undue influence and they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved, it must pass a decree of divorce."

13. From the analysis of the Section, it will be apparent that the filing of the petition with mutual consent does not authorise the court to make a decree for divorce. There is a period of waiting from 6 to 18 months. This interregnum was obviously intended to give time and opportunity to the parties to reflect on their move and seek advice from relations and friends. In this transitional period one of the parties may have a second thought and change the mind not to proceed with the petition. The spouse may not be party to the joint motion under sub-section (2). There is nothing in the Section which prevents such course. The Section does not provide that if there is a change of mind it should not be by one party alone, but by both. The High Courts of Bombay and Delhi have proceeded on the ground that the crucial time for giving mutual consent for divorce is the time of filing the petition and not the time when they subsequently move for divorce decree. This approach appears to be untenable. At the time of the petition by mutual consent, the parties are not unaware that their petition does not by itself snap marital ties. They know that they have to take a further step to snap marital ties. Sub-section (2) of Section 13-B is clear on this point. It provides that "on the motion of both the parties .... if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the Court shall pass a decree of divorce What is significant in this provision is that there should also be mutual consent when they move the court with a request to pass a decree of divorce. Secondly, the Court shall be satisfied about the bonafides and the consent of the parties. If there is no mutual consent at the time of the enquiry, the court gets no jurisdiction to make a decree for divorce. If the view is otherwise, the Court could make an enquiry and pass a divorce decree even at the instance of one of the parties and against the consent of the other. Such a decree cannot be regarded as decree by mutual consent.

16. A Bench of three learned Judges of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Smruti Pahariya v. Sanjay Pahariya, reported in 2009 13 SCC 338 while approving the ratio laid down in the case of Smt. Sureshta Devi (supra), took the following view :-

"40. In the Constitution Bench, decision of this Court in Rupa Ashok Hurra (supra), this Court did not express any view contrary to the views of this Court in Sureshta Devi (supra). We endorse the views taken by this Court in Sureshta Devi (supra) as we find that on a proper construction of the provision in Section 13-B (1) and 13-B (2), there is no scope of doubting the views taken in Shreshta Devi (supra). In fact the decision which was rendered by the two learned Judges of this Court in Ashok Hurra (supra) has to be treated to be one rendered in the facts of that case and it is also clear by the observations of the learned Judges in that case.

41. None of the counsel for the parties argued for reconsideration of the ratio in Sureshta Devi (supra).

42. We are of the view that it is only on the continued mutual consent of the parties that decree for divorce under Section 13-B of the said Act can be passed by the Court. If petition for divorce is not formally withdrawn and is kept pending then on the date when the Court grants the decree, the Court has a statutory obligation to hear the parties to ascertain their consent. From the absence of one of the parties for two to three days, the Court cannot presume his/her consent as has been done by the learned Family Court Judge in the instant case and especially in its facts situation, discussed above.

43. In our view it is only the mutual consent of the parties which gives the Court the jurisdiction to pass a decree for divorce under Section 13-B. So in cases under Section 13-B, mutual consent of the parties is a jurisdictional fact. The Court while passing its decree under Section 13-B would be slow and circumspect before it can infer the existence of such jurisdictional fact. The Court has to be satisfied about the existence of mutual consent between the parties on some tangible materials which demonstrably disclose such consent.

17. We have gone through the order passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad and the case law referred above and after giving due consideration to the issue involved. Under the traditional Hindu Law, as it stood prior to the statutory law on the point, marriage is a sacrament and cannot be dissolved by consent. The Act enabled the court to dissolve marriage on statutory grounds. By way of amendment in the year 1976, the concept of divorce by mutual consent was introduced. However, Section 13B(2)contains a bar to divorce being granted before six months of time elapsing after filing of the divorce petition by mutual consent. The said period was laid down to enable the parties to have a rethink so that the court grants divorce by mutual consent only if there is no chance for reconciliation.

18. The object of the provision is to enable the parties to dissolve a marriage by consent if the marriage has irretrievably broken down and to enable them to rehabilitate them as per available options. The amendment was inspired by the thought that forcible perpetuation of status of matrimony between unwilling partners did not serve any purpose. The object of the cooling off period is a safeguard against a hasty decision if there was otherwise possibility of differences being reconciled. The object is not to perpetuate a purposeless marriage or to prolong the agony of the parties when there is no chance of reconciliation. Though every effort has to be made to save a marriage, if there are no chances of reunion and there are chances of fresh rehabilitation, the Court should not be powerless in enabling the parties to have a better option.

19. In determining the question whether provision is mandatory or directory, language alone is not always decisive. The Court has to have the regard to the context, the subject matter and the object of the provision.

20. The study of numerous cases on this topic does not lead to formulation of any universal rule except this that language alone most often is not decisive, and regard must be had to the context, subject-matter and object of the statutory provision in question, in determining whether the same is mandatory or directory. In an oft-quoted passage Lord Campbell said: "No universal rule can be laid down as to whether mandatory enactments shall be considered directory only or obligatory with an implied nullification for disobedience. It is the duty of courts of justice to try to get at the real intention of the legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the statute to be considered.'

21. Thus, in view of the ratio laid down in the case of Smt. Sureshta Devi (supra), we do not find that the Court below committed any illegality or legal infirmity in holding that consent given for divorce by mutual consent can be withdrawn by one of the parties before a Court grants a decree of divorce by mutual consent and when the consent by one of the parties is withdrawn, the Court cannot pass a decree of divorce by mutual consent. Since in this case the respondent has withdrawn his consent before the passing of a decree of divorce by mutual consent, we do not find that the Court below committed any error in passing the order dated 15.03.2017 in Case No.392 of 2017 (Smt. Shweta Yadav Vs. Prabhat Singh).

22. This appeal lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

Tax Law - Unexplained Cash Credits - Income Tax Act, 1961: Section 68, 143(2)/142(1), 143(3) - where the sum is credited in the book of accounts of a firm from a partner, the assessee have to prove the genuineness of the transaction and identity and credit worthiness of the creditor. Once the assessee proves all the three things its onus is discharged. The assessee only needs to prove the source of credit entries and he is not required to prove the source of source of the creditors' credit. (Para 30)

The requirement under Section 68 is that the assessing officer must be satisfied that the explanation offered by the assessee is genuine, but it is also provided that in the absence of a satisfactory explanation, the unexplained cash credit "may" be charged to income tax - therefore, the unsatisfactoriness of the explanation would not automatically result in deeming the amount credited in the books as income of the assessee. (Para 15)

Applicant (partners in the firm) have shown the agricultural income in their personal returns of the past years which had been accepted by the department as such. The partners are all identifiable and separately assessed to tax. The source of investment having been explained, in the event the Assessing Officer was not satisfied the addition could have been considered in the hands of the partners and not in the hands of the firm. The burden of proving the source of the credits having been sufficiently explained the addition could not have been made in the hands of the firm in the facts of the present case. (para 32)

13. Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Kishorilal Santoshilal [1995] 216 ITR 9 (Raj) (followed)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. The present appeal has been filed under Section 260-A of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (in short 'the Act') against the order of the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad Bench, Allahabad (for short 'the I.T.A.T.') dated 30.10.2006, for the assessment year 1999-2000, whereby the Tribunal partly allowed the appeal filed by the Revenue.

2. The instant appeal was admitted on the questions of law, as mentioned in the memo of appeal, which are as follows:-

"(i) Whether, on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, the Tribunal was legally justified in upholding the order of the assessing officer of making addition U/s 68 of the Income Tax Act at Rs.4,00,000/- in the hand of the firm?

(ii) Whether, on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, the Tribunal was correct in holding that the assessee was not able to prove the source of income of partners who have made the deposit with the firm in their capital account therefore addition u/s 68 is justified?"

3. The records of the case before us indicate that the assessee has described itself as a partnership firm having sixteen partners engaged in the business of cold storage. For the assessment year 1999-2000, the assessee filed a return of income on 01.11.1999 declaring an income of Rs.36,92,056/-. The case was selected for scrutiny and notices under Section 143(2)/142(1) of the Act were issued. The assessment was thereafter made under Section 143(3) and in terms of an order dated 26.03.2002 the Assessing Officer noted the following credits in the names of the partners:-

Sr. No.	Name	Amount/ Date	Nature	Evidence
1	Vishwanat Prasad Kesharwani (HUF)	50,000/- 01-03-99	Agricultural Income	Photo copy of hand record
2	Bhairo Nath (HUF)	50,000/- 01-03-99	---do---	---do---
3	Prabhu Nath (HUF)	50,000/- 01-03-99	---do---	---do---
4	Raj Kumar	50,000/- 01-03-99	---do---	---do---
5	Subhash Chandra	50,000/- 01-03-99	---do---	---do---
6	Satish Chandra	50,000/- 01-03-99	---do---	---do---
7	Harish Chandra Kesharwani	50,000/- 01-03-99	---do---	---do---

4. The Assessing Officer held the credits as unproved and made an addition of Rs.4,00,000/- under Section 68 of the Act relying upon a decision of this Court in Commissioner of Income Tax, Lucknow v Kapur Borthers1, which was a case where the assessee had entered deposits in the books of firm in the names of partners and upon the explanations for deposits being rejected the same were treated as income of the firm and not of the individual partners.

5. An appeal was filed by the assessee against the aforesaid order dated 26.03.2002 before the Commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals), Allahabad, which was partly allowed and the addition made by the Assessing Officer under Section 68 of the Act with regard to the cash credits in the names of the partners in their capital accounts was deleted.

6. The deletion of the cash credits was made on the ground that the partners had shown agricultural income in their returns. It was taken note of that the partners were identifiable and separately assessed to tax and the firm had explained the source of investment as agricultural income of the partners, therefore, if at all additions were to be made, then the same had to be made in the hands of the partners and not in the hands of the firm.

7. Aggrieved against the aforesaid order, the Revenue filed an appeal before the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Allahabad being I.T.A. No.344/(Alld) of 2004 to which the assessee filed cross-objections, being C.O. No.16(Alld) of 2006. The I.T.A.T. by the order impugned dated 30.10.2006 partly allowed the appeal filed by the Revenue and dismissed the cross-objections filed by the assessee. The Tribunal held that credits in the names of partners as agricultural income were not proved within the meaning of Section 68 and therefore the order of the Assessing Officer treating the same to be as the firm's deemed income, was restored and the order passed by the I.T.A.T., in that regard, was set aside.

8. We have heard counsel for the parties and perused the records.

9. The principal ground sought to be canvassed by the appellant assessee is that the partners having shown the agricultural income in their personal returns of the previous years, which had been accepted by the Revenue as such without any addition, and out of the said agricultural income the partners having made the deposits with the firm in their capital accounts, the appellant assessee had satisfied the conditions provided under Section 68 of the Act with regard to the identity and capacity of the depositors as well as genuineness of the transactions. It is submitted that the only point which was required to be considered on the question of making addition under Section 68 of the Act in the hands of the firm was the nature and source of the transaction and the appellant assessee was not required to prove the source of the source.

10. It has been further contended that the genuineness of the transactions having been proved and the firm having duly explained the deposit, the impugned order passed by the Tribunal was not justifiable, and deserves to be set aside.

11. Per contra, the learned counsel appearing for the Revenue has supported the order passed by the Tribunal by submitting that the credits having been found in the hands of the firm the onus was on the firm to prove the creditworthiness of the partners as well as genuineness of the transaction and no evidence having been given with regard to agricultural operations of the partners, the transactions in the books of the firm were rightly held to be not genuine and proved within the meaning of Section 68 and there was no infirmity in the order passed by the Tribunal restoring the order of the Assessing Officer and setting aside the order passed by the C.I.T.(A). Reliance has been placed upon the decision in the case of Kapur Brothers (supra) to contend that the cash credits which are unexplained are to be added in the hands of the firm.

12. In order to answer the questions of law upon which the present appeal has been admitted it would be necessary to advert to the provisions contained under Section 68 of the Act. For ease of reference, Section 68 of the Act, as it stood prior to the Finance Act, 2012, is being extracted below:-

"68. Cash credits--Where any sum is found credited in the books of an assessee maintained for any previous year, and the assessee offers no explanation about the nature and source thereof or the explanation offered by him is not, in the opinion of the Assessing Officer, satisfactory, the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax as the income of the Assessee of that previous year."

13. As per Section 68, where any sum is found credited in the books of an assessee maintained for any previous year, and the assessee offers no explanation about the nature and source of the same or the explanation offered by the assessee is not satisfactory, in the opinion of the Assessing Officer, the sum so credited may be charged to income tax as the income of the assessee of that previous year.

14. The conditions for the applicability of Section 68 would therefore be as follows--

(i) the existence of books of accounts made by the assessee itself;

(ii) a credit entry in the books of account; and

(iii) the absence of a satisfactory explanation by the assessee about the nature and source of the amount credited.

15. The requirement under the Section is that the assessee is to submit an explanation about the nature and source of the sum which has been credited. The explanation furnished by the assessee is to be satisfactory and the creditworthiness or financial strength of the creditor is to be proved by showing that it had sufficient balance in its accounts to explain the source and the credits in the books of accounts of the assessee. The assessee would be required to explain the source of credit in the books of accounts but not the source of the source i.e. source of the creditor. It is seen that although the requirement under Section 68 is that the Assessing Officer must be satisfied that the explanation offered by the assessee is genuine, but it is also provided that in the absence of a satisfactory explanation, the unexplained cash credit "may" be charged to income tax - therefore, the unsatisfactoriness of the explanation would not automatically result in deeming the amount credited in the books as income of the assessee.

16. A similar view was taken in the case of Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax v Rohini Builders2, wherein referring to the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Commissioner of Income Tax v Smt. P.K. Noorjahan3, rendered in the context of Section 69 of the Act, it was held as follows:-

"The phraseology of section 68 is clear. The Legislature has laid down that in the absence of a satisfactory explanation, the unexplained cash credit may be charged to income-tax as the income of the assessee of that previous year. In this case the legislative mandate is not in terms of the words "shall be charged to income-tax as the income of the assessee of that previous year". The Supreme Court while interpreting similar phraseology used in section 69 has held that in creating the legal fiction the phraseology employs the word "may" and not "shall". Thus the unsatisfactoriness of the explanation does not and need not automatically result in deeming the amount credited in the books as the income of the assessee as held by the Supreme Court in the case of CIT v. Smt. P.K. Noorjahan [1999] 237 ITR 570."

17. The question of addition under Section 68 in a case of capital introduced by the partners was considered in Commissioner of Income Tax v Taj Borewells4, and taking note of the fact that Section 68 is a charging section and also a deeming provision it was held that once the firm had offered explanation and established that the capital was contributed by the partners, the same could not be assessable in the hands of the firm. The relevant observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"7. Section 68 is a charging section and it is also a deeming provision. Unless the following circumstances exist, the Revenue cannot rely on section 68 of the Act.

(a) Credit in the books of an assessee maintained for the year.

(b) the assessee offers no explanation or if the assessee offers explanation the Assessing Officer is of the opinion that the same is not satisfactory, the sum so credited is chargeable to tax as "income from other sources".

13. ...Once the firm had offered an explanation and established that the capital was contributed by the partners, the same could not be assessable in the hands of the firm. Unless there are contradictions and inconsistencies in the statement of the partners, the credit cannot be treated as unexplained and cannot be added under section 68 of the Act in the hands of the assessee-firm..."

18. The issue relating to addition under Section 68 also came up in Commissioner of Income Tax v Pragati Co-operative Bank Limited5, and taking note of the language of Section 68 it was held that the word "may" indicates that the intention of the legislature is to confer a discretion on the Assessing Officer in the matter of treating the source of investment or credit which had not been satisfactorily explained as income of an assessee, but it is not obligatory to treat such source as income in every case where the explanation offered was found to be not satisfactory. It was held thus:-

"14. Section 68 of the Act requires that there has to be a credit in the books maintained by an assessee; such credit has to be of a sum during the previous year; and the assessee offers no explanation about the nature and source of such credit; or the explanation offered by the assessee is not, in the opinion of the assessing authority, satisfactory, then the sum so credited may be charged to tax as income of the assessee of that previous year. The apex court in the case of CIT v. Smt. P.K. Noorjahan [1999] 237 ITR 570 has laid down that the word "may" indicated the intention of the Legislature that a discretion was conferred on the Assessing Officer in the matter of treating the source of investment/credit which had not been satisfactorily explained as income of an assessee, but it was not obligatory to treat such source as income in every case where the explanation offered was found to be not satisfactory."

19. The nature and scope of Section 68 of the Act fell for consideration before the Supreme Court in Commissioner of Income Tax v P. Mohanakala6, and it was held as follows:-

"16. The question is what is the true nature and scope of section 68 of the Act? When and in what circumstances section 68 of the Act come into play? A bare reading of section 68 suggests that there has to be credit of amounts in the books maintained by an assessees; such credit has to be of a sum during the previous year; and the assessees offer no explanation about the nature and source of such credit found in the books; or the explanation offered by the assessees in the opinion of the Assessing Officer is not satisfactory, it is only then the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax as the income of the assessees of that previous year. The expression "the assessees offer no explanation" means where the assessees offer no proper, reasonable and acceptable explanation as regards the sums found credited in the books maintained by the assessees. It is true the opinion of the Assessing Officer for not accepting the explanation offered by the assessees as not satisfactory is required to be based on proper appreciation of material and other attending circumstances available on record. The opinion of the Assessing Officer is required to be formed objectively with reference to the material available on record. Application of mind is the sine qua non for forming the opinion."

20. The aforementioned principle of law has been reiterated and followed in a recent judgment in Principal Commissioner of Income Tax (Central)-I v NRA Iron and Steel Private Limited7.

21. The judgment in the case of Kapur Brothers, which forms the basis of the order passed by the Assessing Officer and also that of the Tribunal, and upon which strong reliance has been placed by the Revenue, was a case where the entries had been made in the books of account of the assessee firm about three weeks prior to the end of the accounting period and the different explanations furnished by the assessee at different stages of the proceedings were disbelieved for the reason that the assesee had failed to establish that the partners had actually deposited the money and that the entries were not fictitious, and it was in view of the said facts that the court proceeded to answer the question referred to it by holding that the cash credit entries standing in the names of the partners in the account books of the firm could validly be treated as income of the firm from the undisclosed sources. The operative portion of the judgment in the case of Kapur Brothers is being extracted below:-

"In that case, the entries were alleged to have been made a week before the end of the accounting period. In the present case, the entries were made about three weeks prior to the end of the accounting period. Identical amounts were entered as deposited in the name of each partner. Different explanations were given by the assessee at different stages of the proceedings. They were disbelieved. In this view of the matter, the Tribunal was not justified in treating the amount as the income of the individual partner in view of the finding that the assessee had failed to establish that the partners have actually deposited the money and that the entries were not fictitious.

Accordingly, we answer the question referred to us by holding that the cash credit entries standing in the names of the partners in the account books of the firm could validly be treated as the income of the firm from undisclosed sources. As no one appeared on behalf of the assessee, there will be no order as to costs."

22. The question as to whether in a case where there are cash credit entries in the books of the assessee firm in which accounts of individual partners exist and it is found as a fact that the cash was received by the firm from its partners then in the absence of any material to indicate that there were profits of the firm, the sum so credited could be assessed in the hands of the firm was considered in the decision in Commissioner of Income Tax, Allahabad v Jaiswal Motor Finance8, and it was stated thus:-

"...It appears to be well settled that if there are cash credit entries in the books of the firm in which the accounts of the individual partners exist and it is found as a fact that cash was received by the firm from its partners then in the absence of any material to indicate that they were profits of the firm, could not be assessed in the hands of the firm. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the Tribunal did not commit any error of law and rightly held that the deposits shown in its accounts were satisfactorily explained."

23. The questions with regard to burden of proof in respect of an addition under Section 68 came up for consideration in India Rice Mills v Commissioner of Income Tax9, and it was held that where capital contributions are made by the partners prior to the commencement of the business by the assessee firm, it is for the partners to explain the source of such capital contribution and if they failed to discharge such onus then such capital contributions, although entered in the books of accounts of the assessee firm, cannot be regarded as income of the assessee firm but the same were to be added in hands of the partners. Distinguishing the judgment in the case of Kapur Brothers, it was held as follows:-

"Reliance on Kapur Brothers' case [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All) is misplaced, inasmuch as in that case deposits were entered in the books of the firm when it was already carrying on its business. The firm was called upon to explain the source of the deposits. The explanation of the firm was that the deposits represented the sale proceeds of certain assets belonging to the partners. When no evidence was adduced to substantiate that explanation, the assessing authority added the amount as income of the partnership-firm. These facts are materially different from the fact of the Infant case. Most striking feature of the case on hand is that all the deposits came to be made during the accounting year in the books of he assessee-firm before it started its business. Therefore, the onus was on the partners to explain the source in the case on hand and if they failed, the amount could have been added in their hands only and not in the hands of the assessee-firm."

24. The question as to whether in a case where there was credit in the capital account of partners in books of the firm, addition thereof could be made in the hands of the firm or the same had to be considered in the hands of the partners, came up in a reference under Section 256(1) of the Act in Commissioner of Income Tax v Metachem Industries10, and it was held that according to Section 68 the burden was on the assessee to satisfactorily explain the credit entry in the books of account of the previous year and in a case where satisfactory explanation had been given by establishing that the amount had been invested by a particular person, be he a partner or any individual then the burden of the assessee firm is discharged and the credit entry could not be treated to be income of the firm for the purposes of income tax. The relevant observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"...Section 68 of the Act of 1961 says that where any sum is found credited in the books of an assessee maintained for any previous year, and the assessee offers no explanation about the nature and source thereof or the explanation offered by him is not, in the opinion of the Income-tax Officer, satisfactory, the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax as the income of the assessee of that previous year. Therefore, according to section 68, the first burden is on the assessee to satisfactorily explain the credit entry in the books of account of the previous year. If the explanation given by the assessee is satisfactory, then that entry will not be charged with the income of the previous year of the assessee. In case the explanation offered by the assessee is not satisfactory or the source offered by the assessee-firm is not satisfactory, then in that case, the amount should be taken to be the income of the assessee. In the present case, the Assessing Officer did not feel satisfied with the explanation given by the assessee and accordingly assessed all the three credit entries to the account of the assessee as the income.

...Once it is established that the amount has been invested by a particular person, be he a partner or an individual, then the responsibility of the assessee-firm is over. The assessee-firm cannot ask that person who makes investment whether the money invested is properly taxed or not. The assessee is only to explain that this investment has been made by the particular individual and it is the responsibility of that individual to account for the investment made by him. If that person owns that entry, then the burden of the assessee-firm is discharged. It is open to the Assessing Officer to undertake further investigation with regard to that individual who has deposited this amount.

So far as the responsibility of the assessee is concerned, it is satisfactorily discharged. Whether that person is an income-tax payer or not or from where he has brought this money is not the responsibility of the firm. The moment the firm gives a satisfactory explanation and produces the person who has deposited the amount, then the burden of the firm is discharged and in that case that credit entry cannot be treated to be the income of the firm for the purposes of income-tax. It is open to the Assessing Officer to take appropriate action under section 69 of the Act, against the person who has not been able to explain the investment..."

25. A similar question was considered in Commissioner of Income Tax v Burma Electro Corporation11 wherein the deletion of the addition made by the Tribunal, on the ground that though there was no evidence on record to show availability of funds with partners at the time of investment with the assessee firm the concerned partners having admitted to have made those investments and there being no material to indicate that those investments were profits of the assessee firm, the sum so credited could not be assessed as income of the firm in terms of Section 68 but could be assessed in the hands of the individual partners, was upheld.

26. We may also refer to the decision in the case of Abhyudaya Pharmaceuticals v Commissioner of Income Tax12, wherein the earlier decision in the case of Jaiswal Motor Finance was followed on the point that if there are cash credit entries in the books of the assessee firm in which accounts of an individual partner exists, and it is found as a fact that the cash was received by the firm from its partners then in the absence of any material to indicate that the same were profits of the firm, it could not be assessed in the hands of the firm. The judgment in the case of Kapur Brothers was also considered and distinguished on facts. The relevant observations made in the judgment are as follows:-

"13. So far as the second limb of the argument that at whose hands the addition should be made is concerned, it is apt to have a look to section 68 of the Income-tax Act. Heading of the said section is "Cash Credits" and it reads that where any sum is found credited in the books of an assessee maintained for any previous year, and the assessee offers no explanation about the nature and source thereof or the explanation offered by him is not, in the opinion of the Assessing Officer, satisfactory, the sum so credited may be charged to income-tax as income of the assessee of that previous year.

14. It may be noted that section 68 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 is a new provision in the sense that there was no such provision under the old Act, i.e., the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922. Even then the underlying principle of section 68 was given judicial recognition by courts. In other words, the principle has been developed on the basis of judicial decisions which has been given statutory recognition by section 68.

15. CIT v. Jaiswal Motor Finance [1983] 141 ITR 706 (All) is a Division Bench authority of this court wherein it has been laid down that if there are cash credit entries in the books of the assessee-firm in which accounts of an individual partner exists, and it is found as a fact that the cash was received by the firm from its partners then in the absence of any material to indicate that they were profits of the firm, it could not be assessed in the hands of the firm. The learned counsel for the appellant submits that the aforesaid decision applies with full force to the facts of the case on hand. Noticeably, this was also a case where it was the first year of assessment of the firm. The observations made therein if read in the context of the facts of the present case, the submission of the appellant's counsel is well founded. The relevant extract is reproduced below (page 707):-

"It appears to be well settled that if there are cash credit entries in the books of the firm in which the accounts of the individual partners exist and, it is found as a fact that cash was received by the firm from its partners then in the absence of any material to indicate that they were profits of the firm, it could not be assessed in the hands of the firm. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the Tribunal did not commit any error of law and rightly held that the deposits shown in its accounts were satisfactorily explained."

16. At this stage, the learned standing counsel for the Department places reliance upon another Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Kapur Brothers [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All). It is apt to examine the facts of the case of Kapur Brothers (supra). The Assessing Officer found a deposit of certain amount while making assessment of M/s. Kapoor Brothers. The amount was deposited in the name of its partners. The deposits were entered as on October 20, 1966. The accounting period for the assessment year 1967-68 ended on November 11, 1968. The explanation offered by the assessee was not found satisfactory. In this factual background, it was noticed that the entries were made about three weeks prior to the end of the accounting period. In this factual background the High Court held that cash credit entries standing in the name of partners in the account books of the Firm would validly be treated as income of Firm from undisclosed source.

17. On a first flash, it appears that the ratio of the aforesaid decisions given in the case of Kapur Brothers [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All) and Jaiswal Motor Finance [1983] 141 ITR 706 (All) is conflicting, but on a meaningful reading thereof, would show that they were rendered in different factual matrix. The ratio laid down in the case of Kapur Brothers [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All) will be applicable in a case where a partner brings capital amount at the formation of the firm itself, before the commencement of business by the firm. It would not be applicable in a case where the deposit is reflected in the account books of the firm during the currency of the business of the firm. The underlying idea in the case of Kapur Brothers [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All) is that when the assessee-firm has no business, it cannot possibly have any income. Therefore, in such a case the question of presumption of income of the assessee-firm would not arise generally. But it is not appropriate when the assessee-firm is earning income from its business and in that situation the assessee-firm has to explain the cash credit standing in its account. If the above line of distinction is kept in mind, we find that both the decisions are standing on a different factual background.

18. It is interesting to note that the aforesaid two decisions one given in the case of Jaiswal Motor Finance [1983] 141 ITR 706 (All) and another in the case of Kapur Brothers [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All) were again up for consideration before a Division Bench of this court in the case of India Rice Mill v. CIT (1996) 218 ITR 508. The relevant extract is reproduced below (page 510 of 218 ITR):

"However, the Tribunal relying on CIT v. Kapur Brothers [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All), held that since the amount was credited in the books of the assessee-firm, it is for the assessee to explain the source of the deposits and as the assessee-firm failed to discharge that onus, the deposits were rightly taken to be the income of the assessee-firm from undisclosed sources by the assessing authority..."

Reliance on Kapur Brothers' case [1979] 118 ITR 741 (All) is misplaced, inasmuch as in that case deposits were entered in the books of the firm when it was already carrying on its business. The firm was called upon to explain the source of the deposits. The explanation of the firm was that the deposits represented the sale proceeds of certain assets belonging to the partners. When no evidence was adduced to substantiate that explanation, the assessing authority added the amount as income of the partnership-firm. These facts are materially different from the fact of the instant case. Most striking feature of the case on hand is that all the deposits came to be made during the accounting year in the books of the assessee-firm before it started its business. Therefore, the onus was on the partners to explain the source in the case on hand and if they failed, the amount could have been added in their hands only and not in the hands of the assessee-firm."

19. On the facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the considered opinion that the authorities below have committed error as they have failed to take into account that this was the first year of the business of the assessee firm. The partnership firm was formed on July 5, 1990 and on July 7, 1990, Master Shishir Garg deposited Rs.1,90,000 and Rs.72,000 as capital money with the Firm through bank clearance of two bank drafts. The accounting period being financial year, i.e., ending on March 31, 1991, the Firm could not have any income at the time of its formation. The identity of the depositor, i.e., Master Shishir Garg was not in issue at any point of time before the income-tax authorities. They treated the said deposit by Master Shishir Garg. This being so, if for one reason or the other, they were not satisfied with the financial capability of Master Shishir Garg, the amounts could have been added at the hands of Master Shishir Garg and not at the hands of firm.

20. The decision relied upon by the learned counsel for the Department is clearly distinguishable on facts as it was not in respect of first year of the business and has no application whatsoever. The argument put by him that the income was liable to be added in the hands of firm as Master Shishir Garg being minor could not be prosecuted, has no substance.

21. It may be noted that the decision given in the case of Jaiswal Motor (supra) is being constantly followed by this court in the subsequent decisions. Reference can be made to Surendra Mohan Seth v. CIT [1996] 221 ITR 239 (All).

22. The Rajasthan High Court in CIT Vs. Kewal Krishna and Partners [2009] 18 DTR 121 (Raj) has also taken similar view."

27. Section 68 requires the Assessing Officer to satisfy itself of the source of the credit and if during the course of enquiry undertaken, the entries are found to be not genuine then the sum represented by such credit entry is to be added as income of the assessee. The satisfaction of the Assessing Officer thus forms the basis for invocation of the provisions of Section 68. The satisfaction in this regard, however, must not be illusory or imaginary but is required to be based on the facts and the evidence and on the basis of a proper enquiry of the material before the Assessing Officer. The enquiry envisaged under the provision is to be reasonable and just.

28. Under Section 68, the onus is on the assessee to offer explanation where any sum is found credited in the books of account and where the assessee fails to prove to the satisfaction of the Assessing Officer, the source and nature of the amount of cash credits an inference may be drawn that the credit entries represent income taxable in the hands of the assessee. This does not however absolve the responsibility of the Assessing Officer to prove that the cash credits constitute the income of the assessee. The onus on the assessee has to be understood with reference to the facts of each case and if the prima facie inference on the basis of facts is that the assessee's explanation is probable, the onus shifts to the Revenue. It has been consistently held that once the assessee has proved the identity of its creditors, the genuineness of the transactions and the creditworthiness of the creditors vis-a-vis the transactions which it had with the creditors, the burden stands discharged and the burden then shifts to the Revenue to show that the amount in question actually belong to, or was owned by the assessee himself.

29. The question as to whether in a case where money has come from a partner, addition, if any, has to be made in the hands of the partner or of the firm came up for consideration upon the reference under Section 256(1) of the Act in the case of Commissioner of Income Tax v Kishorilal Santoshilal13, and referring to the language used under Section 68 and various authorities on the point it was held that in this regard the following points are required to be noted:-

"On the basis of the language used under section 68 and the various decisions of different High Courts and the apex court, the only conclusion which could be arrived at is :

(i) that there is no distinction between the cash credit entry existing in the books of the firm whether it is of a partner or of a third party,

(ii) that the burden to prove the identity, capacity and genuineness has to be on the assessee,

(iii) if the cash credit is not satisfactorily explained the Income-tax Officer is justified to treat it as income from "undisclosed sources",

(iv) the firm has to establish that the amount was actually given by the lender,

(v) the genuineness and regularity in the maintenance of the account has to be taken into consideration by the taxing authorities,

(vi) if the explanation is not supported by any documentary or other evidence, then the deeming fiction credited by section 68 can be invoked."

30. It is therefore seen that in a case where a sum is credited in the books of account of a firm from a partner, the assessee firm could discharge its onus by proving three things: (i) identity of the creditor; (ii) creditworthiness of the creditor; and (iii) genuineness of transaction in question. Once the assessee proves all the three things its onus is discharged. It has also been consistently held that the assessee only needs to prove the source of credit entries and he is not required to prove the source of the source or the creditors' credit.

31. In a case where the integrity of the creditors is established and the entries are shown to be not fictitious, the burden would shift on the Revenue.

32. In the case at hand, the partners have shown the agricultural income in their personal returns of the past years which had been accepted by the department as such. The partners are all identifiable and separately assessed to tax. The source of investment having been explained, in the event the Assessing Officer was not satisfied the addition could have been considered in the hands of the partners and not in the hands of the firm. The burden of proving the source of the credits having been sufficiently explained the addition could not have been made in the hands of the firm in the facts of the present case.

33. In view of the aforementioned facts and circumstances the questions of law are answered in favour of the assessee and against the Revenue.

34. The appeal stands, accordingly, allowed.

that respondent no.2 has expired on 02.02.2020, however, he submits that respondent no.1 is the son and legal heir of Nitish Kumar Birla, respondent no.2 and he is already impleaded in present revision as respondent no.1, therefore, no substitution of respondent no.2 is required and the Court may proceed with the matter. In view of the statement of Sri Atul Dayal, learned Senior Counsel, the Court proceeds to hear the present revision with the consent of counsel of both the parties.

Order on SCC Revision

1. Heard learned counsel for the revision-applicant and Sri Atul Dayal assisted by Sri Ayush Khanna ,advocate.

2. The respondents/plaintiff instituted SCC Suit No.8 of 2018 (Sri Saurabh Birlaand & Others Vs. Smt. Anju Srivastava) contending inter alia that respondent no.1 (Saurabh Birla) is the owner of Flat No.32B/T, Third Floor, Dhakre Enclave Dhaulpur House, M.G. Road, Agra. The respondent no.2 (Nitish Kumar Birla) was managing the aforesaid flat on behalf of respondent no.1 as caretaker. The respondent no.2 let out half portion of the above flat towards norther side (hereinafter referred to as 'suit property') to the revision-applicant (hereinafter referred as 'applicant') at Rs.6500/- per month for 11 months commencing from 01.07.2014 to 31.05.2015. The tenancy was, thereafter, extended for a further period of 11 months commencing from 01.06.2015 to 31.04.2016 at the agreed rent of Rs.7200/- per month between the parties. After 31.04.2016, the tenancy was allowed to continue further w.e.f. 01.05.2016 to 31.03.2017 at the agreed rent of Rs.8000/- per month. The applicant was also liable to pay other taxes, electricity charges and society charges. The applicant had paid rent at Rs.8000/- per month upto May, 2016. However, the rent from 01.06.2016 onwards was not paid by the applicant.

3. The respondents asked the applicant to pay arrears of rent and taxes, but she on one pretext or the other avoided the payment of rent. However, the applicant made payment of Rs.35,000/- through cheque in March, 2017. Thus, rent of Rs.1,01,000/- from 01.06.2016 upto 31.10.2017 was due after adjustment of Rs.35,000/- paid by the applicant in March, 2017 besides the taxes and other charges on the suit property.

4. The respondents in the aforesaid circumstances served a notice dated 27.11.2017 through Sri Navin Kumar Gupta, Advocate by speed post/A.D. to the applicant terminating the tenancy of the applicant. The respondent by the said notice asked the applicant to vacate the suit property and pay entire arrears of rent and taxes till the delivery of actual physical possession of the suit property to the respondents. The aforesaid notice was duly served upon the applicant, but she failed to comply with the same. As the rent of the suit property was above Rs.2,000/-, therefore, according to the respondents, the suit property was exempted from U.P. Act No.13 of 1972. In the aforesaid backdrop, respondents prayed for a decree of ejectment and recovery of arrears of rent and mesne profits together with 18% interest.

5. The record of the case reveals that the suit was instituted on 30.01.2018 and notice was issued to the applicant. She filed vakalatnama on 08.03.2018 and obtained copy of plaint on 16.04.2018. Thereafter, she did not appear on the date fixed in the suit on 20.04.2018, 04.05.2018, 11.05.2018, 18.05.2018, 23.07.2018 and 06.08.2018 nor filed the written statement.

6. The Judge Small Causes Court No.1, Agra, (hereinafter referred to as 'trial court') on 06.08.2018 granted last opportunity to the applicant to file written statement, despite that the applicant continued to remain absent on 29.08.2018 and 11.09.2018 which were the date fixed in the aforesaid suit. The trial court passed an order on 11.09.2018 to proceed exparte in the suit. The applicant, thereafter, did not appear before the trail court on the date fixed in the suit on 25.09.2018, 16.10.2018, 19.11.2018, 10.12.2018, 19.12.2018, 16.01.2019 and 20.02.2019.

7. The applicant filed an application 19Ga on 26.02.2019 praying for setting aside the order dated 11.09.2018 by which trial court directed the suit to proceed exparte. After filing application 19Ga, the applicant again did not appear on 20.04.2019, 08.05.2019 and 03.07.2019 before the trial court. As the applicant did not appear on several dates fixed in the suit after the filing of application 19Ga, therefore, the trial court by order dated 03.07.2019 dismissed the application 19Ga.

8. The Revision-applicant, thereafter, filed an application 22Ga for setting aside the order dated 03.07.2019 which was rejected by the trial court by order dated 02.09.2019 with liberty to the applicant to remain present on the date fixed in the suit and to cross examine the plaintiff's witnesses and also to argue the matter.

9. It appears that the applicant after about one month and 19 days from the date of order dated 02.09.2019 appeared before the court below and filed an application on 21.10.2019 for adjournment of the suit on the ground that she had filed a revision against the order dated 02.09.2019 rejecting application 22Ga and order dated 03.07.2019 rejecting application 19Ga.

10. On the application of the applicant, the suit was adjourned to 31.10.2019 for exparte hearing. The applicant did not appear before the court below to argue the matter nor filed any application to bring on record that she has preferred revision before the High Court against the order dated 03.07.2019 and 02.09.2019. The court below, accordingly, proceeded ex-parte and decreed the Suit on 05.11.2019. The judgment and decree dated 05.11.2019 is impugned in the present revision.

11. Challenging the ex-parte judgement and order dated 05.11.2019, the only contention advanced by learned counsel for the applicant is that the applicant has paid the agreed rent at the rate of Rs.6500/- per month, hence, there was no default in payment of rent. He further submits that there was no agreement between the parties for enhancement of rent periodically, therefore, the basis of the notice terminating the tenancy given by respondents that the rent of the suit property was Rs.8,000/- per month with effect from 01.05.2016 and the applicant had defaulted in payment of rent is wrong and incorrect. Thus, the submission is that the trial court has erred in decreeing the suit.

12. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents submits that it is not in dispute that provision of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 is not applicable over the suit property and the notice under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 was served upon the applicant, perusal of which clearly elucidates the intention of the lessor/owner of the suit property to terminate the tenancy, therefore, the tenant is liable for eviction even if there is no default in payment of rent. Thus, the submission is that once the notice terminating the tenancy meets the requirement of Section 106 of Act, 1882, the issue of default in payment of rent is not materiel. Accordingly, he submits that the trail court has not committed any illegality or jurisdiction error in decreeing the suit. In support of the aforesaid submissions, he has placed reliance upon the judgements of this Court in the case of Sunita Gupta (Smt.) Vs. Prabhat Chandra Tandon 2010 (2) ARC 236, (Smt.) Prakash Rani @ Prakashwati Vs. VIth Additional District Judge, Bulandshahr and Others 2006 (2) ARC 296 & Waqf Allal Aulad/Waqf Alkhair Allahtala, Dr. Ziaul Haq Vs. Ist ADJ, Bijnor and Another 2008 (3) ARC 428.

13. He further submits that the respondents have proved their case by leading cogent evidence that the notice terminating the tenancy was valid and in the absence of any evidence filed by the applicant rebutting the evidence of the respondent, the trial court has not committed any illegality or jurisdictional error in decreeing the suit. He further submits that the finding of the trial court that the respondents have proved their case is based upon proper evidence on record, and thus, being a finding of fact is not liable to be interfered with by this Court in exercise of its revision jurisdiction.

14. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

15. In the present case, the respondents/landlord had given a notice dated 27.11.2017 through their counsel Sri Navin Kumar Gupta by speed post/A.D. which was duly served upon the applicant. The notice as well as service of notice upon the applicant was duly proved by respondents/landlord by filing affidavit of respondent no.2, Nitish Kumar Birla. The applicant has not denied the service of notice terminating the tenancy. It would be apposite to refer few paragraphs of the notice dated 27.11.2017 which clearly shows the intention of the respondents/landlord to terminate the tenancy of the applicant:-

7. That you have paid rent @ 8,000/- per month only for the month of May, 2016. Rent became due from you in respect of the property in question for the period 01.06.2016 onwards. My client Shri Nisheeth Kumar Birla repeatedly asked you to clear the arrears of rent and also to pay the taxes as claimed above but you dilly-dallied the matter and paid Rs.35,000/- only through Cheque in March 2017.

8. That for the period 1.6.2016 upto 30.6.2017 Rs.1,04,4000/- became due against you towards arrears of rent besides taxes. After adjusting Rs.35,000/- paid by you in March 2017, Rs.69,000/- towards arrears of rent besides taxes still remain due against you in respect of the property in question which you have not paid despite repeated reminders of my client Shri Nisheeth Kumar Birla. Rent and taxes from 01.07.2017 till date have also became due against you.

9. That you are also not paying electricity dues in respect of the electric connection which is in your use and electricity dues for several months have accumulated against you.

10. That in the above circumstances my client does not want to continue your tenancy in respect of the property in question and the same is hereby terminated. Property in question is exempt from U.P. Act 13, 1972.

11. That at present the property in question can easily be let out at the rent of Rs.12,000/- per month.

12. That earlier my client sent a similar notice dt. 5.7.2017 to you but you managed to return the same in collusion with the postman.

I, therefore, call upon you to vacate the property in question, delivering its actual vacant possession to my client Shri Nisheeth Kumar Birla just after the expiry of 30 days from the service of this notice upon you clearing within the aforesaid period the entire arrears of rent & taxes as claimed above. In case of non-compliance of this notice, my clients shall be constrained to file a suit against you for your ejectment from the property in question and for recovering from you the entire arrears of rent & taxes together with interest thereon @ 18% per annum. In case such suit is filed, you shall also be liable to pay mesne profits @ Rs.12,000/- per month and you shall also be saddled with all the costs & consequences of such suit."

16. It is admitted on record that rent of the suit property is more than Rs.2,000/- and, therefore, provisions of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 are not applicable.

17. This Court in the cases relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents has held that where the suit property is out of the purview of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 and a valid notice showing the intention of the landlord to terminate the tenancy has been served upon the tenant, the issue of default in payment of rent is immaterial and the tenant is liable for eviction. Paragraphs 5 & 6 of the judgement of Sunita Gupta (Smt.) (supra) are extracted hereinbelow:-

"5. Heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused record. It is not in dispute that there is a relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties and the monthly rate of rent in respect of the disputed shop is Rs.2500/-. This being so, the provisions of the U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 are not applicable. The learned counsel for the applicant could not point out any legal infirmity in the notice given under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act.

6. The learned counsel for the applicant could submit only this much that the property in dispute was sublet due to financial crisis and now, the sub tenant has been removed from the property in dispute. Be that as it may, in view of the fact that the provisions of the U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 are not applicable and there is no illegality in the notice terminating the tenancy, I do not find any good ground to interfere in the revision. No other point was pressed. The revision lacks merit and it is dismissed summarily".

18. This Court in the case of (Smt.) Prakash Rani @ Prakashwati (supra) held that if provisions of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 is not applicable over the suit property, then even if there is no default in payment of rent , the suit for eviction is liable to be decreed provided a valid notice terminating the tenancy has been served upon the tenant. Paragraph 5 of the judgement is extracted hereinbelow:-

"5. However, as far as the judgment of the Revisional Court in tenant's revision (S.C.C. Revision No. 19 of 1990) is concerned, I find that the said judgment is clearly erroneous in law. The Revisional Court in Para 10 of its judgment clearly held that there was absolutely no dispute that provisions of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 were not applicable on the building in dispute. However, the Revisional Court has held that as at the time of giving notice tenant was not defaulter, hence his tenancy could not be terminated. This view is clearly erroneous in law. If U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 is not applicable, then suit for eviction is liable to be decreed after termination of tenancy, without there being any default in payment of rent or any other ground. For termination of tenancy it is not at all necessary that the tenant must be defaulter. Month to month tenancy is terminable by one month's notice under section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. It has not been found by the Revisional Court that there was any agreement in between the parties against termination of tenancy by one month's notice."

19. Paragraph 6 of the judgement in the case of Waqf Allal Aulad/Waqf Alkhair Allahtala, Dr. Ziaul Haq (supra) is also relevant in the context of the present case, and thus, is extracted hereinbelow:-

"6. If Rent Control Act does not apply, then tenant is liable to eviction simply after termination of tenancy. Default or no default is wholly immaterial. Revisional court itself held that building in dispute belonged to Waqf-allal-aulad and was beyond the purview of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972. Thereafter, there was absolutely no sense in holding that the notice of termination of tenancy was invalid on the ground that tenant was not defaulter when notice was given. The view taken by the lower revisional court is quite strange and utterly untenable. Even if Rent Control Act applies and in the notice wrong period of default and wrong rate of rent is mentioned, still notice does not become invalid vide Full Bench authority of Gokaran Singh Vs. Ist Additional District and Sessions Judge, Hardoi and others, 2000 (1) ARC 653."

20. In the present case, learned counsel for the applicant has failed to point out any illegality in the notice dated 27.11.2017 terminating the tenancy. A perusal of the notice dated 27.11.2017 makes it amply clear that there was clear intendment of the respondents/ landlord to terminate the tenancy of the applicant. In this view of the fact and in the light of the ratio laid down by this Court in aforesaid judgements, this Court finds that the trial court has not committed any jurisdictional error in decreeing the suit.

21. The contention of the counsel for the applicant that there was no rent due is also belied from the averments made in paragraph 15 of the affidavit of the applicant in the present revision wherein she has stated that the rent is due from April, 2007 onwards. Paragraph 15 of the affidavit is extracted hereinbelow:-

"15. That, the rent from April, 2017 to onwards at the rate of Rs.6500/- per month is only due."

22. Further, it is the case of the respondent that the suit property was let out for eleven months commencing from 01.07.2014 to 31.05.2015. The tenancy was ,thereafter, extended for a further period of 11 months commencing from 01.06.2015 to 31.04.2016 at the agreed rent of Rs.7200/- per month between the parties. After 31.04.2016, the tenancy was allowed to continue further w.e.f. 01.05.2016 to 31.03.2017 at the agreed rent of Rs.8000/- per month. The fact that the rent has been periodically enhanced and the rent of the suit property was Rs.8,000/- from 01.05.2016 was proved by the respondent by filing the affidavit of Nishit Kumar Birla. The applicant did not rebut the affidavit of Nitish Kumar Birla nor cross examined him despite permitted by the trail court to cross examine the witnesses, hence, this court finds that the trail court has not committed any illegality in awarding Rs.1,25,000/- towards arrear of rent treating the rent of the suit property to be Rs.8,000/- per month from 01.05.2016.

23. It is also worth to notice that the applicant had adopted all dilatory tactics to delay the disposal of the suit inasmuch as she did not appear on the several dates fixed by the trial court in the suit nor she did chose to file application 19Ga in her absence. The applicant, thereafter, filed application 22Ga on 14.08.2019 to recall the order dated 03.07.2019 which was dismissed by the trial court granting liberty to the applicant to participate in the hearing of the case, yet the applicant sought adjournment of the case on 31.10.2019 on the false ground that she had filed revision against the order dated 02.09.2019 before the High Court, whereas the revision was filed on 19.12.2019 with delay condonation application. From the aforesaid fact, it is manifest that the conduct of the applicant in contesting the suit was mischievous which disentitles her for any relief from this Court in exercise of its revision jurisdiction.

25. The applicant has used the suit property without paying rent, therefore, the trial court has not committed any jurisdictional error in awarding damages at the rate of Rs.12,000/- per month higher than the rent of the suit property from the date of institution of the suit till the delivery of possession of the suit property to the respondent. In this regard, it would be apt to refer paragraphs 10 and 11 of the judgement of this Court in the case of Food Corporation of India and Another Vs. M/s Durga Shakti Enterprises 1996 (1) ARC 153 which are being extracted hereinbelow:-

written statement despite several opportunities granted by the trial court.

24. The insincere approach of the applicant in contesting the suit is also evident from the fact that the applicant filed an application 19Ga under Order 9 Rule 7 of C.P.C. to recall the order of the trail court to proceed ex-parte, but she did not appear on several dates to argue the said application which led the trial court to pass the order dated 03.07.2019 dismissing the

"10. The last contention has been that the mesne profits at the rate of Rs.35,000 per month could not be granted by the Court below. It was contended that mesne profits exceeding the agreed rate of rent cannot be granted. In support of this contention the case of Mahesh Lalwani v. Sardar Uttam Singh, 1989 LCD 1, was referred. In this case it was held that the damages for occupation of premises under tenancy should be equal to such amount which the plaintiff was realising as rent of the premises from the defendant. No excess amount could be awarded by way of penalty, even though the premises is not governed by the Rent Control Act. However, from the side of the opposite party, the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court reported in AIR 1977 SC 2270, Shyam Charan v. Sheoji Bhai, was cited and it was argued that in view of this decision damages can be awarded at enhanced rate. In view of this decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, Single Judge decision of this Court cannot be followed by another Single Judge of the same Court. It is, therefore, clear from the pronouncement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the damages can be awarded at the enhanced rate.

11. In this case mesne profits were claimed at the rate of Rs.6000 per month as against the agreed rate of Rs.1600. The Hon'ble Supreme Court confirmed the award of mesne profits at the rate of Rs.4000 per month."

26. For the reasons given above, this Court finds that trial court has not committed any illegality or jurisdictional error in decreeing the suit. Consequently, the revision lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed with no order as to cost.

DATED: ALLAHABAD 04.03.2020

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.

S.C.C. Revision No. 33 of 2020

Smt. Ranjana Mishra ...Revisionist
Versus
Kamal Kumar & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Sri Rishikesh Tripathi

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure,1908- Section 115-Order XV Rule 5- suit for decree of eviction and arrears of rent-Strike off defence of tenant on failure to deposit the admitted rent-the issue as to whether the tenant was in use or not in the building in question is the subject-matter of evidence-the said submission is not sustainable-the requirement of Order XV Rule 5 is mandatory requirement-thus court below committed no illegality in allowing the application-(Para 3 to 14)

B. The Order XV Rule 5 of CPC provides that in any suit by a lessor for the eviction of a lessee after determination of his lease and for the recovery from him of rent or compensation for use and occupation, the defendant/lessee shall, at or before the first hearing of the suit, deposit the entire amount admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon at the rate of nine percent per annum.(Para 12, 13)

C. The purpose of enacting the provision of Order XV Rule 5 was not to give lever to the landlord to get the tenant punished for insignificant lapses, but to ensure that the dues of the landlord are properly secured and he can get his rent regularly even though the litigation may continue.

Landlord filed a suit against the applicant/revisionist on the ground that the applicant has not paid rent. Notice was given for terminating the tenancy. The applicant denied the same and stated that the applicant is not in use and occupation of the residential building as the landlord has put a lock on the staircase of the building.(Para 3, 4, 5)

The revision is dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revision-applicant.

2. By means of present revision, the revision-applicant has assailed the order dated 03.01.2019 passed by III Additional District Judge/Special Judge (D.A.A.), Agra in SCC Case No.66 of 2015 (Kamal Kumar and others Vs. Smt. Ranjana Mishra) whereby the application of the respondents-landlord under Order XV Rule 5 CPC has been allowed and the defence of the revision-applicant has been struck off.

3. The respondents-landlord has filed SCC Case No.66 of 2015 (Kamal Kumar and others Vs. Smt. Ranjana Mishra) against the revision-applicant for eviction and arrears of rent on the ground that the revision-applicant is a tenant of a residential building at the rate of Rs.2200/- per month. The revision-applicant has not paid rent from 01.01.2010 and has committed default in payment of rent. It is further stated that notice terminating the tenancy was given on 20.08.2015 which was replied by the revision-applicant on 17.09.2015. The suit has been instituted on 29.09.2015 for decree of eviction and arrears of rent.

4. In the aforesaid suit, written statement has been filed by the revision-applicant denying the averments of the plaint. It was stated that the revision-applicant has not defaulted in payment of rent.

5. It appears that subsequent to filing of the written statement, the revision-applicant filed amendment application on 05.12.2017 to incorporate the fact that the revision-applicant is not in use and occupation of the residential building as the respondents-landlord has put a lock on the staircase of the building due to which the revision-applicant is not able to use and occupy the building. The said amendment application was allowed by the trial court.

6. The respondents-landlord filed application under Order XV Rule 5 CPC on 26.10.2017 praying that the defence of revision-applicant be struck off as she has not complied with the mandatory requirement of Order XV Rule 5 CPC in not depositing the admitted amount due with interest.

7. The aforesaid application was contested by the revision-applicant contending inter-alia that since she is not in use and occupation of the aforesaid building, therefore, she is not liable to deposit any amount as contemplated under Order XV Rule 5 CPC.

8. The trial court by order dated 03.01.2019 allowed the application by recording a finding that the issue as to whether the revision-applicant is in use and occupation of the building in question is the subject matter of evidence which can be adjudicated on the basis of evidence led by the parties and thus, the revision-applicant is required to comply with the requirement of Order XV Rule 5 CPC and as the revision-applicant has not complied with the same, her defence is liable to be struck off.

9. Challenging the aforesaid order, learned counsel for the revision-applicant has contended that the court below has committed jurisdictional error in allowing the application inasmuch as it is specific case of the revision-applicant that she is not in use and occupation of the property in question, therefore, the requirement of deposit of admitted amount due with interest contemplated in Order XV Rule 5 CPC is not attracted in the present case.

10. He submits that a bare reading of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC shows that admitted due amount as contemplated under Order XV Rule 5 CPC is to be deposited by the lessee only when he is in use and occupation of the property in question. Thus, the submission is that as the revision-applicant was not in use and occupation of building in question, therefore, he is not liable to comply with the requirement of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC. He further submits that the revision-applicant has also laid set-off claim against the respondents in written statement as contemplated under Order VIII (1) of CPC, and the amount claimed by the revision-applicant is more than the admitted rent and thus, for the said reason also revision-applicant is not liable to comply with the requirement of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC.

11. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the revision-applicant and perused the record.

12. The Order XV Rule 5 of CPC provides that in any suit by a lessor for the eviction of a lessee after the determination of his lease and for the recovery from him of rent or compensation for use and occupation, the defendant/lessee shall, at or before the first hearing of the suit, deposit the entire amount admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon at the rate of nine per cent per annum.

13. Explanation-1 defines the expression 'first hearing' which means that the date for filing written statement or for hearing mentioned in the summons or where more than one of such dates are mentioned, the last of the dates mentioned is the date of first hearing.

14. In the instant case, according to the revision-applicant, she is not liable to comply with the requirement of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC as she is not in use and occupation of the premises. The said submission is not sustainable for the reason that the issue as to whether the revision-applicant is in use and occupation of the property can be decided only upon the evidence of the parties and not on the basis of ex-parte version of revision-applicant that she is not in use and occupation of the property in question. The requirement of Order XV Rule 5 of CPC to deposit entire admitted amount due alongwith interest is statutory requirement which the revision-applicant has to comply with as Order XV Rule 5 of CPC does not contemplate or envisage any situation that in case tenant is not in occupation and use of the property in question or has laid set-off claims against the lessor, the requirement of deposit of admitted amount due alongwith interest as provided in Order XV Rule 5 of CPC is not to be complied with.

15. In view of the aforesaid fact, this Court is of the opinion that the court below has not committed any illegality or jurisdictional error in allowing the application under Order XV Ruel 5 of CPC of respondents-landlord. Consequently, the revision lacks merit and is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kiran Kumar Arora, learned counsel for the revisionists and Sri Ram Pratap Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. The revision-applicant nos.1 & 2 have assailed the judgement and decree dated 06.02.2014 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Bareilly in SCC Suit No.7 of 2011 whereby the trial court has decreed the suit of the respondent.

3. The brief facts of the case are that respondent (plaintiff) instituted SCC Suit No.7 of 2011 contending inter alia that she is the owner of a shop and godown constructed over an area of 72.5 square meters situated in Shyamganj, Rile Godown, Bareilly (hereinafter referred to as 'suit property') described at the foot of the plaint. She has let out the suit property to revision-applicant nos.1 & 2 (hereinafter referred to as 'applicants') on a monthly rent of Rs.25,000/- per month including taxes. The applicants have been carrying on business on the suit property in the name and style of M/s Saraswati Sales. The suit property was let out to applicants on 25.11.2008 for two years on the condition that entire rent of the suit property would be paid in advance by the applicants. The period of tenancy expired on 24.11.2010. The applicants were to vacate the suit property on 25.11.2010 after the expiry of the term of the tenancy. It is further averred that the applicants have not paid rent after 24.11.2010 nor they have vacated the suit property. Consequently, the respondent sent a notice by registered post terminating the tenancy which was duly served and delivered on applicants on 24.01.2011. By the said notice, respondent also claimed arrears of rent and mesne profit to the tune of Rs.37,500/- for the period from 25.02.2011 to 07.04.2011.

4. In the aforesaid factual backdrop, the respondent prayed for a decree of eviction, arrears of rent amounting to Rs.1,12,500/- and future mesne profit @ Rs.25,000/- per month.

5. In the written statement filed by the applicants, they averred that the respondent is the co-owner of the suit property since the suit property was purchased by the respondent alongwith Radheshyam Bhatiya and Smt. Prakashi Devi from Smt. Sadhna Devi by registered sale deed dated 05.05.2004. The applicants denied the rent of the suit property to be Rs.25,000/- per month. According to the applicants, rent of the suit property was Rs.2500/- and no rent was due on the date of institution of the suit. It was also pleaded that an agreement to sell was entered into on 25.11.2008 in respect of the suit property with the concurrence of the three co-owners of the suit property and applicants paid Rs.1 lac through cheque as advance. It was also averred that a sum of Rs.13 lac has been paid to the respondent up till 20.10.2010. The applicants are ready and willing to pay the balance sale consideration and purchase the suit property. The owners of the suit property became dishonest and refused to execute the sale deed according to the agreement to sell dated 15.12.2008.

6. The trial court based on the pleadings of the parties framed five issues. The learned counsel for the applicants has assailed the finding of the trial court on issue nos.1, 2 & 3, which reads as under:-

"1. क्या ज्योति भाटिया विवादित संपत्ति की सह भवन स्वामिनी है और वह प्रतिवादीगण की धारा 106 संपत्ति अन्तरण अधिनियम के अंतर्गत किरायेदारी समाप्त कर सकती है?

2. क्या प्रतिवादीगण विवादित संपत्ति में अंकन 25000/- प्रतिमाह के किरायेदार थे?

3. क्या प्रतिवादीगण ने किराया अदा करने में कोई व्यतिक्रम किया है?"

7. On issue no.1, the trial court by placing reliance upon the judgement of Apex Court in the case of M/s India Umbrella Manufacturing Co. & Others Vs. Bhagvandei Agrawal through Legal Representatives & Others AIR 2004 SC 1321 held that the respondent is co-owner and suit is maintainable at the behest of the respondent. The trial court further held that since the photocopy of the agreement to sell was filed and the original was not filed, therefore, it is not admissible in evidence. It also noticed the statement of DW-1 Hari Om Gupta, (applicant no.1) wherein he admitted that the original agreement to sell is in his possession but he did not give any reason for not filing the original copy of the agreement to sell. Consequently, the trial court disbelieved the execution of the agreement to sell.

8. Issue nos.2 & 3 were jointly decided by the trial court and after appreciating the evidence on record, it found the rent of the suit property was Rs.25,000/- per month.

9. Challenging the aforesaid findings learned counsel for the applicants has contended that though applicants were initially inducted as the tenant, after the execution of the agreement to sell dated 15.12.2008, the applicants continued in the possession of the suit property in furtherance of the agreement to sell. Accordingly, he submits that since the preconditions of Section 53A of Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (hereinafter referred to as 'T.P. Act') are satisfied, therefore, applicants are entitled to the protection of Section 53A of T.P. Act. In support of his aforesaid contention, he has placed reliance upon following judgements:-

(i). Dharamaji alias Baban Bajirao Shinde Vs. Jagannath Shankar Jadhav 1994 AIR (Bombay) 254;

(ii). Bobba Suramma Vs. Peddireddi Chandramma 1959 AIR (AP) 568;

(iii). Ekadashi Vs. Ganga 1981 AIR (All) 373.

10. His further submission is that even if applicants did not file the suit for the enforcement of agreement to sell, the relationship of landlord and tenant extinguished on the execution of the agreement to sell, hence, the suit is not maintainable because of Section 15 read with Entry 4 of Second Schedule of Provincial of Small Causes Courts Act, 1887 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1887').

11. He further contends that trial court has erred in disbelieving the agreement to sell on the ground that the photocopy of the same was filed since according to applicants, photocopy of the agreement to sell is secondary evidence, therefore, in the absence of original agreement to sell, the trial court ought to have accepted the photocopy of the agreement to sell. He further contends that agreement to sell, though not registered, can be read in evidence for collateral purposes because of the proviso to Section 49 of The Registration Act, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1908').

12. It is further urged by learned counsel for the applicants that finding of the trial court in respect of rent of the suit property to be Rs.25,000/- per month is illegal and against the record since the amount of Rs.6 lakhs paid through cheques on various dates was towards the advance in respect of the purchase of the suit property, besides Rs.7 lakhs paid in cash towards advance for the purchase of the property, therefore, finding of the trial court that Rs.6 lakhs paid through cheques for the payment of rent of two years @ Rs.25,000/- per month is erroneous and not sustainable in law.

13. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent contends that the applicants have failed to establish that agreement to sell fulfils all the prerequisites of Section 53A of T.P. Act, therefore, the applicants are not entitled to the protection of Section 53A of T.P. Act. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Vasanthi Vs. Venugupal (Dead) Through Legal Representatives 2017 (4) SCC 723.

14. He further contends that as per the statement of DW-1 Hari Om Gupta (applicant no.1), the original agreement to sell is in his possession and he did not give any reason for not producing the same, therefore, the conditions envisaged in Section 65 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred as 'Act,1872') to lead secondary evidence to prove a document do not exist in the instant case, therefore, the trial court has rightly held that photocopy of original agreement to sell is not admissible in evidence. He further contends that the photocopy of the agreement to sell is not secondary evidence, for this reason also, it cannot be read in evidence. In support of his aforesaid submission, he has placed reliance upon the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Benga Behera and Another Vs. Braja Kishore Nanda and Others (2007) 9 SCC 728.

15. He further urges that if a document is inadmissible in evidence, it cannot be read in evidence even for collateral purposes.

16. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

17. To appreciate the argument of learned counsel for the applicants that they are entitled to protection under Section 53-A of the T.P. Act, it would be useful to refer Section 53-A of the T.P. Act which reads as under:-

"53A. Part performance.--Where any person contracts to transfer for consideration any immoveable property by writing signed by him or on his behalf from which the terms necessary to constitute the transfer can be ascertained with reasonable certainty, and the transferee has, in part performance of the contract, taken possession of the property or any part thereof, or the transferee, being already in possession, continues in possession in part performance of the contract and has done some act in furtherance of the contract, and the transferee has performed or is willing to perform his part of the contract, then, notwithstanding that where there is an instrument of transfer, that the transfer has not been completed in the manner prescribed therefor by the law for the time being in force, the transferor or any person claiming under him shall be debarred from enforcing against the transferee and persons claiming under him any right in respect of the property of which the transferee has taken or continued in possession, other than a right expressly provided by the terms of the contract:

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a transferee for consideration who has no notice of the contract or of the part performance thereof."

18. The apex court in the case of Vasanthi (supra) laid down three prerequisites to exist to claim the benefit of Section 53A of T.P.Act. Paragraphs 18 & 25 of the said judgement are being extracted herein below:-

"18. As would be patent from the above quotes, the protection of a prospective purchaser/transferee of his possession of the property involved, is available subject to the following prerequisites:

(a) There is a contract in writing by the transferor for transfer for consideration of any immovable property signed by him or on his behalf, from which the terms necessary to constitute the transfer can be ascertained with reasonable certainty;

(b) The transferee has, in part performance of the contract, taken possession of the property or any part thereof, or the transferee, being already in possession, continues in possession in part performance of the contract;

(c) The transferee has done some act in furtherance of the contract and has performed or is willing to perform his part of the contract.

25. This Court in Shrimant Shamrao Suryavanshi and another vs. Pralhad Bhairoba Suryavanshi by Lrs. and others (2002) 3 SCC 676, while tracing the incorporation of Section 53A in the TP Act, vide Act of 1929, acting on the recommendations of the Special Committee on the issue, had ruled that mere expiration of the period of limitation for bringing a suit for specific performance would not debar a person in possession of an immovable property by way of part performance from setting up a plea, as contemplated therein in defence to protect his possession of the property involved. It was however underlined that if the conditions precedent, as enumerated, in Section 53A of the Act, are complied with, the law of limitation would not come in the way of the said person to avail the benefit of the protection to his possession as extended thereby even though a suit for specific performance of a contract by him had gone barred by limitation. Explicitly therefore, though mere expiry of the period of limitation for a suit for specific performance may not be a bar for a person in possession of an immovable property in part performance of a contract for transfer thereof for consideration to assert the shield of Section 53A of T.P. Act, it is nevertheless imperative that to avail the benefit of such protection, all the essential pre-requisites therefor would have to be obligatorily complied with.

19. The Court, now, proceeds to analyze whether the preconditions to claim the benefit of Section 53A of T. P. Act exists in the present case to entitle the applicants for protection of Section 53A of T. P. Act.

20. According to applicants, an agreement to sell was executed between the applicants and respondent on 25.11.2008 in respect of the suit property for the purchase of it for a sale consideration of Rs.23 Lacs, and that the terms and conditions of the agreement to sell are explicit and distinct from which the terms necessary to constitute a transfer can be ascertained.

21. The applicants had filed photocopy of the agreement to sell based on which he asserts to seek the protection of Section 53A of T.P.Act. Before proceeding to peruse the terms and conditions of the contract to find out whether it contains the necessary terms to constitute a transfer, the first question to be considered is whether the trial court was justified in disbelieving the photocopy of the agreement to sell as the essential conditions to attract 65 of Act,1872 were lacking. At this stage, it would be apt to refer paragraph 9 of the affidavit of applicant no.1 wherein he has stated about the filing of the photocopy of the agreement to sell dated 15.12.2008. Paragraph 9 of the affidavit is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"9. यह कि विवादित दुकान मय कोठरी को बेचने का इरादा तीनों सहस्वामियों श्रीमती ज्योति भाटिया, राधेश्याम भाटिया व श्रीमती प्रकाशी देवी का हुआ इस पर शपथकर्ता की पत्नी ने इस दुकान मय कोठरी को खरीदने की इच्छा जाहिर की. इस बात पर तीनों सह स्वामियों व श्रीमती सुशीला गुप्ता (पत्नी शपथकर्ता) के बीच एक इकरारनामा मुहायदावय दिनांकित 15.12.2008 निष्पादित हुआ जिस पर श्रीमती ज्योति भाटिया, राधेश्याम भाटिया, श्रीमती प्रकाशी देवी व श्रीमती सुशीला गुप्ता ने अपने हस्ताक्षर शपथकर्ता के समक्ष किये और शपथकर्ता ने भी बतौर गवाह अपने दस्तखत किये फिर इस इकरारनामा मुआहायदावय को नोटरी पब्लिक श्री अनूप कुमार कोहरवाल एडवोकेट के द्वारा सत्यापित कराया गया. इस इकरारनामा मुहायदावय दिनांकित 15.12.2008 की सत्य फोटोस्टेट कॉपी नोटरी द्वारा सत्यापित इस शपथ पत्र के द्वारा संलग्नक-1 के रूप में दाखिल की जा रही है पत्रावली पर भी इस इकरारनामा मुहायदावय की सत्य फोटोकॉपी पेपर न. 27/ग है. इस इकरारनामा मुहायदावय के सम्बन्ध में शपथकर्ता व उसकी पत्नी सक्षम न्यायालय बरेली में विधि अनुसार कार्यवाही करेंगे."

22. The applicant no.1 in his cross-examination has categorically stated that he has the original agreement to sell, but he has not filed the same and he cannot explain the reason for not filing the original copy of the agreement to sell. The relevant extract of the cross-examination of application no.1 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"...मैंने मूल मुहायदा वय दाखिल नहीं किया है. मैं मूल मुहायदा वय दाखिल न करने का कारण नहीं बता सकता. मूल एग्रीमेंट मेरे पास है..."

23. It is pertinent, at this point, to refer a few provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Section 61 of the Act, 1872 deals with proof of contents of documents, which states that the contents of a document may be proved either by primary or by secondary evidence.

24. Section 62 defines primary evidence. Primary evidence means the document itself produced for the inspection of the Court.

25. Section 63 provides for secondary evidence which reads as under:-

"63. Secondary evidence.--Secondary evidence means and includes--

(1) Certified copies given under the provisions hereinafter contained1;1;"

(2) Copies made from the original by mechanical processes which in themselves insure the accuracy of the copy, and copies compared with such copies;

(3) Copies made from or compared with the original;

(4) Counterparts of documents as against the parties who did not execute them;

(5) Oral accounts of the contents of a document given by some person who has himself seen it."

26. Section 65 deals with the eventualities in which secondary evidence relating to a document may be given. Section 65 is quoted hereinbelow:-

"65. Cases in which secondary evidence relating to documents may be given.--Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition, or contents of a document in the following cases:--

(a) When the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power-- of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved, or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court, or of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66, such person does not produce it;

(b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest;

(c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time;

(d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily movable;

(e) when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74;

(f) when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, or by any other law in force in 1 [India] to be given in evidence2; 1[India] to be given in evidence2;"

(g) when the originals consists of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection.

In cases (a), (c) and (d), any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible.

In case (b), the written admission is admissible.

In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible.

In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents."

27. It is trite law that a party must first adduce primary evidence to prove a document and only in eventualities elucidated in Section 65 (a) to (g), secondary evidence can be adduced to prove the existence, conditions or contents of a document.

28. The statement of applicant no.1 is crystal clear on the point that the original agreement to sell is in his possession. At this point, it would be relevant to refer the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Benga Behera and Another (supra) wherein respondent in SLP applied for grant of Letters of Administration based on Will allegedly executed in his favour by one Sarajumani Dasi on or about 15.01.1982, the Apex Court held that a document on which the title rest is required to be proved by primary evidence, and if the original document is lost or destroyed, secondary evidence may be given under Section 65 (c) of the Act, 1872 and loss of original document is required to be proved for the admissibility of secondary evidence. Paragraph 31 & 32 of the judgement are being extracted herein below:-

"31. A document upon which a title is based is required to be proved by primary evidence, and secondary evidence may be given under Section 65(c) of the Evidence Act. The said clause of Section 65 provides as under:

"65. (c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time."

Loss of the original, therefore, was required to be proved.

32. In a case of this nature, it was obligatory on the part of the first respondent to establish the loss of the original Will, beyond all reasonable doubt. His testimony in that behalf remained uncorroborated."

29. In the instant case, the case of the applicants can fall in Section 65 (c) of the Act, 1872. It is clear from the reading of Section 65(c) that secondary evidence of a document is admissible only when the party desirous of proving a document by Secondary evidence proves by cogent evidence that the original document is lost or destroyed or is not in his possession and that he made best effort to procure the production of it but failed. Thus, the party has to account for the non-production of the said document in one of the ways indicated in the said section. This necessarily implies that the party, who wants to give secondary evidence, has to lay down the factual foundation to establish the right to give secondary evidence where the original document cannot be produced.

30. Another question which crops up in the light of the submission of the respondent whether photocopy of a document is Secondary evidence, in this regard, it would be relevant to refer to the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of J.Yashoda Vs. K. Shobha Rani (2007) 5 SCC 730 wherein it has been held that photocopy cannot be admitted as secondary evidence. Paragraphs 7 & 9 of the judgement are being extracted herein below:-

"7. Secondary evidence, as a general rule is admissible only in the absence of primary evidence. If the original itself is found to be inadmissible through failure of the party, who files it to prove it to be valid, the same party is not entitled to introduce secondary evidence of its contents.

9. The rule which is the most universal, namely that the best evidence the nature of the case will admit shall be produced, decides this objection that rule only means that, so long as the higher or superior evidence is within your possession or may be reached by you, you shall give no inferior proof in relation to it. Section 65 deals with the proof of the contents of the documents tendered in evidence. In order to enable a party to produce secondary evidence it is necessary for the party to prove existence and execution of the original document. Under Section 64, documents are to be provided by primary evidence. Section 65, however permits secondary evidence to be given of the existence, condition or contents of documents under the circumstances mentioned. The conditions laid down in the said Section must be fulfilled before secondary evidence can be admitted. Secondary evidence of the contents of a document cannot be admitted without non-production of the original being first accounted for in such a manner as to bring it within one or other of the cases provided for in the Section. In Ashok Dulichand v. Madahavlal Dube and Another [1975(4) SCC 664], it was inter alia held as follows:

"After hearing the learned counsel for the parties, we are of the opinion that the order of the High Court in this respect calls for no interference. According to clause (a) of Section 65 of Indian Evidence Act, Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition or contents of a document when the original is shown or appears to be in possession or power of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in Section 66 such person does not produce it. Clauses (b) to (g) of Section 65 specify some other contingencies wherein secondary evidence relating to a document may be given, but we are not concerned with those clauses as it is the common case of the parties that the present case is not covered by those clauses. In order to bring his case within the purview of clause (a) of Section 65, the appellant filed applications on July 4, 1973, before respondent No. 1 was examined as a witness, praying that the said respondent be ordered to produce the original manuscript of which, according to the appellant, he had filed Photostat copy. Prayer was also made by the appellant that in case respondent no. 1 denied that the said manuscript had been written by him, the photostat copy might be got examined from a handwriting expert. The appellant also filed affidavit in support of his applications. It was however, nowhere stated in the affidavit that the original document of which the Photostat copy had been filed by the appellant was in the possession of Respondent No. 1. There was also no other material on the record to indicate the original document was in the possession of respondent no.1. The appellant further failed to explain as to what were the circumstances under which the Photostat copy was prepared and who was in possession of the original document at the time its photograph was taken. Respondent No. 1 in his affidavit denied being in possession appeared to the High Court to be not above suspicion. In view of all the circumstances, the High Court to be not above suspicion. In view of all the circumstances, the High Court came to the conclusion that no foundation had been laid by the appellant for leading secondary evidence in the shape of the Photostat copy. We find no infirmity in the above order of the High Court as might justify interference by this Court."

31. In the case of Saudul Azeez Vs. District Judge, Gorakhpur and Others 1999 (4) AWC 3213, this Court has held that a photocopy of a document cannot be admitted in evidence. Paragraphs 9 to 12 are being extracted herein below:-

"9. In the present case, there is nothing to indicate that the alleged photocopy was prepared from the original or that it was not prepared from a copy of the original, or that it was compared with (he original if prepared from a copy compared with the original. In the absence of any material, it cannot be treated to be a secondary evidence. It is only orally being claimed to be a photocopy without claiming that what was photographed was the original or that it was compared with the original. Admittedly, it is not a certified copy.

10. Now secondary evidence is permitted only in certain circumstances. It cannot come in automatically as in the case of primary evidence. In order to allow secondary evidence, certain tests as provided in Section 65 and procedure as provided in Section 66 of the Evidence Act are to be satisfied and complied with, as the case may be. Inasmuch as Section 64 of the said Act prescribes that documents must be proved by primary evidence. Exception to this rule is permitted only in cases as provided in Section 65 read with Section 66 of the said Act.

11. Section 65 of the Act permits secondary evidence (a) when the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power of (i) the person against whom the document is sought to be proved, or (ii) any person out of reach of, or not subject to. the process of the Court, or (iii) any person legally bound to produce it. and when after the notice mentioned -in Section 66 such persons mentioned in (i), (ii), (iii) does not produce it ; (b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest ; (c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the parly offering is unable to produce it in reasonable time for reason not arising from his own default or neglect; (d) when the original is such that it is not easily movable; (e) when the original is a public document Within the meaning of Section 74 ; (f) when the original is a document of which certified copy is permitted to be given in evidence either by Evidence Act or by any other law in force in India: (g) when the original consists of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot be conveniently examined by the Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection.

12. The present case does not fit in clause (d). (e), (f) and (g). It. however, could come within clause (a), (b) and (c). But as observed earlier. In the facts and circumstances of the case, it does neither fit in clause (a) nor (b) nor (c). The applicant has not made out any case which could come within the scope and ambit of either of the clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Section 65 of the Act. Therefore, the photocopy cannot be relied upon even as a secondary evidence."

32. In the present case, no factual foundation has been laid by the applicants for giving secondary evidence to prove the agreement to sell and the applicant no.1 admits in his cross-examination that he is in possession of the original agreement to sell. Further, there is no averment either in the written statement or in the affidavits of the applicants that the photocopy of the agreement to sell was prepared from the original or compared with the original. Therefore, from the above facts and law laid down in the above-referred cases that photocopy of a document is not the secondary evidence, it is manifest that necessary ingredients of Section 65 (c) of the Act, 1872 are lacking in the present case. Therefore, the view of the trial court that photocopy of the agreement to sell is not admissible in evidence is not erroneous and the agreement to sell cannot be proved by leading Secondary evidence.

33. The judgement relied upon by the counsel for the applicants of this Court in the case of Ekadashi (supra) is distinguishable on the fact since in the said case the benefit of Section 53-A of T.P. Act was extended to the defendant, who had preferred the second appeal before this Court, on the ground that all the preconditions for claiming the benefit of 53-A were present.

34. The other judgement relied upon by the counsel for the applicants Bobba Suramma (supra) also reiterates the law that to avail the benefit of Section 53A of T.P. Act, essential prerequisites of Section 53A must be present and established. In this case, the plea of the appellant seeking protection of Section 53A of T.P. Act was rejected by Andhra Pradesh High Court by affirming the judgement of the trial court and appeal court decreeing the suit of plaintiff-respondent for possession against the defendant-appellant, who claimed the possession of the suit property under an agreement to sell. Thus, the said judgement is also of no help to the applicants.

35. The judgement of Dharmaji Alias Baban Bajirao Shinde (supra) has also been rendered in a different factual context. The Bombay High Court also reiterated that if the preconditions of Section 53A of T.P. Act are complied with, the transferee cannot be denied the protection of Section 53A of T.P. Act on the pretext that document is unregistered. However, it dismissed the appeal since as per the admission of plaintiff-appellant, he was not in the possession of the suit property. So this judgement also does not come in aid to the applicants.

36. Since the photocopy of the agreement to sell cannot be accepted to prove its execution, therefore, the precondition to avail the benefit of Section 53A of T.P.Act that there should be a contract in writing by the transferor (respondent in the instant case) in respect of the suit property for consideration from which the terms necessary to constitute the transfer can be ascertained with reasonable certainty is lacking in the present case. Accordingly, it is held that the applicants are not entitled to the protection of Section 53A of the T. P. Act and the suit for eviction of the respondent is maintainable and not barred by Section 15 read with Entry 4 of the Second Schedule of Act, 1887.

37. To appreciate the argument of counsel for the applicants that unregistered agreement to sell can be relied on for collateral purposes, it would be necessary to consider ambit of the word 'collateral purposes/collateral transaction' referred in the proviso to Section 49 of the Act 1908. Section 49 of the Act 1908 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"49. Effect of non-registration of documents required to be registered.--No document required by section 17 1[or by any provision of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882)], to be registered shall--

(a) affect any immovable property comprised therein, or

(b) confer any power to adopt, or

(c) be received as evidence of any transaction affecting such property or conferring such power, unless it has been registered:

[Provided that an unregistered document affecting immovable property and required by this Act or the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882), to be registered may be received as evidence of a contract in a suit for specific performance under Chapter II of the Specific Relief Act, 1877 (3 of 1877) 55, 56 [] or as evidence of any collateral transaction not required to be effected by registered instrument.]

State Amendment Uttar Pradesh:

In section 49,--

(i) in the first paragraph, after the words "or by any provision of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882" insert the words "or of any other law for the time being in force",

(ii) substitute clause (b) as under: "(b) confer any power or create any right or relationship, or",

(iii) in clause (c), after the words "such power", insert the words "or creating such right or relationship",

(iv) in the proviso, omit the words "as evidence of a contract in a suit for specific performance under Chapter II of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, or". [Vide Uttar Pradesh Act 57 of 1976, sec. 34 (w.e.f. 1-1-1977)]."

38. In this regard, it would be apt to refer to the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of K.B. Saha and Sons Private Limited Vs. Development Consultant Limited (2008) 8 SCC 564 wherein Apex Court in paragraph 34 of the judgement has laid down when an unregistered document can be read in evidence for collateral purposes. Paragraph 34 of the said judgement is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"34. From the principles laid down in the various decisions of this Court and the High Courts, as referred to hereinabove, it is evident that :-

1. A document required to be registered is not admissible into evidence under Section 49 of the Registration Act.

2. Such unregistered document can however be used as an evidence of collateral purpose as provided in the Proviso to Section 49 of the Registration Act.

3. A collateral transaction must be independent of, or divisible from, the transaction to effect which the law required registration.

4. A collateral transaction must be a transaction not itself required to be effected by a registered document, that is, a transaction creating, etc. any right, title or interest in immoveable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards.

5. If a document is inadmissible in evidence for want of registration, none of its terms can be admitted in evidence and that to use a document for the purpose of proving an important clause would not be using it as a collateral purpose."

39. It would be also relevant to refer paragraph 4 of the judgement of this Court in the case of Ratan Lal and Others Vs. Hari Shanker and Others AIR 1980 (All) 180 which is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"4. The second contention was that the partition deed, even if it was not registered, could certainly be looked into for a collateral purpose. This proposition is correct that if a document is compulsorily registerable and has not been registered, it will be admissible in evidence only for a collateral purpose, but the collateral purpose has a limited scope and meaning. It cannot be used for the purpose of saying that the deed created or declared or assigned or limited or extinguished a right to immovable property. If these could not be established by the collateral purpose, then in that event how could the document be used for showing that the property was partitioned or that particular properties were given to the various parties in the partition. If the document was unregistered, then it could not be used for showing that is created, declared, assigned, limited or extinguished a right to immovable property. The term 'collateral purpose' would not permit the party to establish any of these acts from the deed. In my opinion, the contention that it would be used for collateral purpose does not advance the case of the plaintiffs at all. It still falls short in proving that there was a partition between the parties."

40. It is evident from the law laid down in the aforesaid two cases that an unregistered document may be admitted as evidence for the collateral purpose; the collateral purpose has limited scope and does not mean that the unregistered document can be used to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish a right in the immoveable property. Thus, it can safely be culled out that an unregistered agreement to sell cannot be read in evidence to prove its execution nor its terms can be read in evidence to ascertain that it incorporates all the terms necessary to constitute a transfer to create a right in immovable property and extend the benefit of 53A of the T.P. Act to the applicants. Thus, the applicants are not entitled to the benefit of Proviso to Section 49 of the Act, 1908.

41. Further, as it is held that the photocopy of the agreement to sell is not the secondary evidence and is inadmissible in evidence, therefore, in the instant case it cannot be read in evidence even for collateral purpose.

42. Now, coming to the contention of learned counsel for the applicants that the trial court has erred in holding the rent to be Rs.25,000/- per month. The trial court after appreciating the statement of Dw2 Smt. Sushila Devi, Dw3 Pradeep Arya and other evidence on record held that Rs.6 lac paid by the applicants through cheque on different dates was towards rent for two years. The trial court has given elaborate reasons for recording the aforesaid finding. This Court finds that the aforesaid finding is based on the appreciation of evidence on record and no perversity could be pointed out by the counsel for the applicant, hence, the aforesaid finding being the finding of fact is not liable to be upset by this court in the exercise of its revision power under Section 25 of the Act,1887.

43. Lastly, It is urged by counsel for the applicants that applicants had paid Rs.13 lacs out of which Rs.7 lac was paid in cash and trial court has not returned any finding as to the payment of Rs.7 lac in cash, therefore, the order of the trial court is not sustainable. It is worth to notice paragraph no. 24 & 25 of the written statement wherein they have stated about payment of Rs.13 lakhs as an advance towards sale consideration in compliance of agreement to sell but no details as to how Rs.13 lakhs has been paid have been given in the written statement. The applicants in their evidence for the first time disclosed that out of Rs.13 lakhs paid in advance, Rs.6 lakhs has been paid through cheques on various dates and Rs.7 lakhs in cash and there is no independent evidence on record to support the testimony of applicants for payment of Rs.7 Lakhs in cash. Therefore, this court does not find any merit in the aforesaid submission of the counsel for the applicant. However, if the applicants desire to recover the amount alleged to have been paid by them, they may, if so advised, take recourse to the remedy available to them in law.

44. Thus, for the reasons given above, the revision lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure,1973-Section 482 & Indian Penal Code, 1862-Sections 147, 148, 149, 302 & SC/ST Act, 1989-Section 3(2)(V)- challenge to-order passed by special judge, SC/ST Act-offences u/s 302 can never be tried by the Special Court established u/s 14 of the

SC/ST Act while all other special Acts categorically make provision for those cases under such Special Act, can jointly be tried along with other offences under Other Acts- a proviso has been added by way of new amendment in section 14 of the SC/ST Act w.e.f. 26.01.2016 that special court established under this Act shall have power to directly take cognizance without taking recourse to section 193 Crpc for the commitment of the case because that would result in delay-merely because commitment was not made, all the proceedings would not vitiate the trial on the ground alone as it is necessary to show that by non-compliance, failure of justice had occurred or any deep prejudice was caused to the accused-principle of prejudice or failure of justice be taken into consideration-special court u/s 14 of the SC/ST Act is also conferred with the power of Session judge-the intention of the legislature is to ensure that even if the offence is found to have been committed under IPC as well as under SC/ST Act, the same should be tried by one court i.e. Special Court which has been conferred power to minimize the delay in disposal of the case-cognizance taken by trial court does not suffer from any infirmity. (Para 6, 8,11 ,13)

B. It is the duty of the court to see that victim's right is protected. A direction for retrial is to put the clock back and it would be a travesty of justice to so direct if the trial really has not been unfair and there has been no miscarriage of justice. The legislature deliberately obliterated certain rights conferred on the accused at the committal stage under the new Code. The intention of the legislature to sub serve the substantive objects of the criminal trial.(Para 10)

The application is dismissed. (E-6)

1. Heard Sri Anoop Trivedi learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Abhinav Gaur, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri B.A. Khan, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C has been moved with a prayer to quash the orders dated 05.09.2017 and 17.08.2019 passed by the Special Sessions Judge, SC/ST Act, Meerut in S.S.T. No. 5031 of 2016 (State vs. Sanjay and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 192 of 2016 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC and 3 (2) (V) of SC/ST Act as well as charge-sheets dated 02.10.2016 and 30.11.2016 and also a prayer is made to stay the proceedings in this case till the disposal of this application.

3. In order to understand and appreciate the argument of the learned counsel for the applicant, it would be appropriate to give in brief the facts of this case as they emerged from the FIR.

4. The opposite party no. 2 Mitan Kumar has lodged an FIR dated 13.7.2016 stating therein that about 1 ½ months ago a quarrel had happened between him and co-villagers accused-applicant Sumit and co-accused Sujeet and because of that the accused-applicant and other co-accused were having enmity towards elder brother of the applicant Chetan. On 13.7.2016 when his elder brother Chetan was returning home with his mother Savitri Devi and when all of them reached near the sugarcane field of Vedpal, one motorcycle came from behind, on which the accused-applicant along with co-accused Sujeet, Sumit and Sanjai came there, while another accused Ashok who was already hiding in the sugarcane field also came out on the road and started saying "Aaj Is Chamte ke Bhure Ko Dekh Lo' and they all gheraoved his elder brother Chetan and opened fire upon him and when his mother came to save him, these people also pointed out their weapon towards her and told her to remain quiet otherwise she would also be shot dead. His brother after receiving injuries of bullet, fell down and died on the spot while all the five accused including the applicant fled from there threatening that whoever would incur their enmity would have to face the same consequence. The informant did not chase them because of fear and after the accused fled from there, on the alarm being raised by the informant and also hearing the sound of gun fire, no one came because of fear.

5. On the basis of the written report, a case was registered as Case Crime No. 192 of 2016 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC and section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act against the accused-applicant and four other accused named in the FIR. After investigation, charge-sheet against the accused-applicant has been filed on 2.10.2016 under the above-mentioned sections and on the basis of evidence on record against the accused-applicant, charges under the above-mentioned sections were framed on 5.9.2017.

6. An application 93-Kha was moved thereafter from the side of the applicant and two other co-accused namely, Ashok and Sanjay stating therein that cognizance of the offence under sections 302, 147, 148, 149 IPC has been taken directly by the court below by-passing the provision of section 193 Cr.P.C. Cognizance of the offence under SC/ST Act is taken under proviso to section 14 (1) of the said Act. The proviso to Section 14 (1) of the SC/ST Act provides that "the courts so established or specified, shall have power to directly take cognizance of offences under this Act". Further it is mentioned that section 6 of this Act provides that "Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the provisions of section 34, Chapter III, Chapter IV, Chapter V-A section 149, and Chapter XXIII of IPC, shall, so far as may be, apply for the purposes of this Act as they apply for the purpose of IPC. Further, It is mentioned that section 6 of the Act, makes it clear that other offences either in IPC or any other Act never have their application under this Act. Further it is mentioned that SC/ST Act nowhere provides that all other cases which can be jointly charged with, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, be charged at the same trial, and as such offences under section 302 IPC can never be tried by the Special Court established under section 14 of the SC/ST Act. Further it is mentioned that all other special Acts categorically make provision for those cases under such special Act, can jointly be tried along with other offences under other Acts, which can be jointly tried under Cr.P.C. Further, it is mentioned that the Special Act under Prevention of Corruption Act specifically provides section 4(3) "that a Special Judge under Prevention of Corruption Act, may also try an offence other than an offence specified in section 3 with which the accused may under Cr.P.C. be charged at the same trial. Similarly, the U.P. Gangster Act also provides under section 8 of the Act, the procedure for joint trial of cases under section 2/3 of U.P. Gangster Act along with offences under IPC or other Act, but no such provision exists under SC/ST Act 1988. Further it is mentioned that section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act clearly provides punishments for those offences under IPC punishable with imprisonment for a term of 10 years or more against a person or property of any member belonging to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. As such it is clear that offences under section 302 IPC can never be tried by Special Court established under SC/ST Act. It is further pointed out that one of the accused in the present case namely, Prakash belongs to Scheduled Caste. Further, it is mentioned that the offence under section 3(2)(v) of SC/ST Act in the present case, could be tried along with sections 147, 148, 149 IPC but it cannot jointly be tried along with section 302 IPC. Further, it is mentioned that the cognizance of offence under section 302/147/149 IPC could not be taken under section 14 of the SC/ST Act and provisions of sections 207 to 209 and section 193 Cr.P.C. should have been followed. Further it is mentioned that it is expedient in the interest of justice that the charges under section 302/147/148/149 IPC be dropped against the applicant and prosecution should be directed to file a report under section 173 (8) Cr.P.C. before the Court having jurisdiction.

7. Upon consideration of this application, the trial court has passed the impugned order which shows that in the present case entire evidence of prosecution has been recorded and the case is at the stage of recording the statement of accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. and further the case has to be decided expeditiously as per direction of High Court. Further, it is mentioned that in the present matter after taking cognizance against the accused applicant Sumit, charge was framed on 05.09.2017, although against other accused, charges were framed on separate date after having taken into consideration the prosecution documents. The said order has not been challenged at any stage by the accused till the conclusion of the prosecution evidence. Therefore, the objections which have been raised at this stage, they would be disposed of, in the interest of justice, at the time of final delivery of judgment and hence there was no justifiable reason to pass order on the said application at this stage and the direction is given that the accused shall appear on 21.8.2019 for getting his statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. for which he should appear in person.

8. The submission which has been advanced by the learned counsel for the applicant is that the trial court could not have taken cognizance under section 302 IPC because the same would require committal of the case by the court of Magistrate to the Court of Sessions as has been provided under section 193 Cr.P.C. which provide that no Court of Session shall take cognizance of any offence as a Court of original jurisdiction unless the case has been committed to it by a Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure. Although he did admit that w. e. f. 26.1.2016, by way of new amendment in section 14 of the SC/ST Act, a proviso has been added which shows that special court established under this Act shall have power to directly take cognizance of offence under this Act. However, he has relied upon a judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court decided on 17.2.2012 i.e. Rati Ram and others vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, Criminal Appeal No. 223 of 2008 along with connected appeal [(2012) 4 SCC 516], which is of earlier date i.e. prior to the amendment in the said Act. In this judgment, the matter was referred to Larger Bench in order to deal with the contradictory views as regards the effect and impact of not committing an accused in terms of section 193 Cr.P.C. in cases where charge sheet is filed under section 3 (1) (x) of SC/ST Act and cognizance is directly taken by the Special Judge under the Act. In Moly vs. State of Kerala, (2004) 4 SCC 584, Vidya dharan vs. State of Kerala, (2004) 1 SCC 215, on the one hand wherein it has been held that the conviction by Special Court is not sustainable if Investigating Officer has suo motu entertained and taken cognizance of the complaint directly without the case being committed to it, and therefore there should be retrial or total setting aside of the conviction as the case may be, and on the other hand, in State of M.P. Vs. Bhooraji, (2001) 7 SCC 679, wherein taking aid under section 465 (1) of the code, it has been opined that when a trial has been conducted by the Court of competent jurisdiction and a conviction has been recorded on proper appreciation of evidence, the same cannot be erased or effaced merely on the ground that there had been no committal proceedings and cognizance was taken by the Special Court, inasmuch as the same does not give rise to failure of justice.

9. It is further mentioned in this judgment that the facts were that the appellants were charge-sheeted under section 3 (1) (x) of the Act but eventually the charges were framed under sections 147, 148 and 302 read with section 149 of IPC. The trial court vide judgment and order dated 31.8.1996 convicted all the accused persons barring Mohan for offences under section 302 read with 149 IPC and sentenced them to imprisonment for life with a fine of Rs.one thousand and in default of payment of fine, to suffer further R.I. for three months and sentenced to one month's R.I. under section 147 IPC. The accused Mohan was convicted for the offences under section 148 and 302 IPC and was sentenced to undergo one month's R.I. on the first score and to further life imprisonment and to pay a fine of Rs.one thousand , in default of payment of fine, to suffer further R.I. for three months on the second count.

10. Being dissatisfied with the judgment of conviction and the order of sentence, the appellant along with others preferred Criminal Appeal No. 1568 of 1996 before the High Court of Judicature of Madhya Pradesh at Jabalpur. Apart from raising various contentions on merits, it was pressed that the entire trial was vitiated as it had commenced and concluded without committal of the case to the Court of Sessions as provided under section 193 of the Code. In this judgment very deep comparison is made of the committal procedure as provided under unamended Cr.P.C. as well as the procedure which has been laid in the amended Cr.P.C and it would be relevant to record here-in-below the relevant paragraphs from the judgment in order to understand the reasoning given by Hon'ble Apex Court as to why it found that in the present case there occurred no failure of justice and did not hold the proceedings vitiated only on account of non-committal of proceedings under section 193 Cr.P.C. Paragraph nos. 51 to 68 of the judgment are quoted as under:

"51. Section 209 of the Code deals with the commitment of case to the Court of Session when an offence is triable exclusively by it. The said provision reads as follows:

"209.Commitment of case to Court of Session when offence is triable exclusively by it.--When in a case instituted on a police report or otherwise, the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate and it appears to the Magistrate that the offence is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall--*

(a) commit, after complying with the provisions of Section 207 or Section 208, as the case may be, the case to the Court of Session, and subject to the provisions of this Code relating to bail, remand the accused to custody until such commitment has been made;

(b) subject to the provisions of this Code relating to bail, remand the accused to custody during, and until the conclusion of, the trial;

(c) send to that court the record of the case and the documents and articles, if any, which are to be produced in evidence;

(d) notify the Public Prosecutor of the commitment of the case to the Court of Session."

52. Prior to coming into force of the present Code, Section 207 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 dealt with committal proceedings. By the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1955, Section 207 of the principal Act was substituted by Sections 207 and 207-A. To appreciate the inherent aspects and the conceptual differences in the previous provisions and the present one, it is imperative to reproduce Sections 207 and 207-A of the old Code. They read as under:

"207.Procedure in inquiries preparatory to commitment.--In every inquiry before a Magistrate where the case is triable exclusively by a Court of Session or High Court, or, in the opinion of the Magistrate, ought to be tried by such court, the Magistrate shall--

(a) In any proceeding instituted on a police report, follow the procedure specified in Section 207-A; and

(b) In any other proceeding, follow the procedure specified in the other provisions of this Chapter.

207-A.Procedure to be adopted in proceedings instituted on police report.--(1) When, in any proceeding instituted on a police report, the Magistrate receives the report forwarded under Section 173, he shall, for the purpose of holding an inquiry under this section, fix a date which shall be a date not later than fourteen days from the date of the receipt of the report, unless the Magistrate, for reasons to be recorded, fixes any later date.

(2) If, at any time before such date, the officer conducting the prosecution applies to the Magistrate to issue a process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or thing, the Magistrate shall issue such process unless, for reasons to be recorded, he deems it unnecessary to do so.

(3) At the commencement of the inquiry, the Magistrate shall, when the accused appears or is brought before him, satisfy himself that the documents referred to in Section 173 have been furnished to the accused and if he finds that the accused has not been furnished with such documents or any of them, he shall cause the same to be so furnished.

(4) The Magistrate shall then proceed to take the evidence of such persons, if any, as may be produced by the prosecution as witnesses to the actual commission of the offence alleged; and if the Magistrate is of opinion that it is necessary in the interests of justice to take the evidence of any one or more of the other witnesses for the prosecution, he may take such evidence also.

(5) The accused shall be at liberty to cross-examine the witnesses examined under sub-section (4), and in such case, the prosecutor may re-examine them.

(6) When the evidence referred to in sub-section (4) has been taken and the Magistrate has considered all the documents referred to in Section 173 and has, if necessary, examined the accused for the purpose of enabling him to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him and given the prosecution and the accused an opportunity of being heard, such Magistrate shall, if he is of opinion that such evidence and documents disclose no grounds for committing the accused person for trial, record his reasons and discharge him, unless it appears to the Magistrate that such person should be tried before himself or some other Magistrate, in which case he shall proceed accordingly.

(7) When, upon such evidence being taken, such documents being considered, such examination (if any) being made and the prosecution and the accused being given an opportunity of being heard, the Magistrate is of opinion that the accused should be committed for trial, he shall frame a charge under his hand, declaring with what offence the accused is charged.

(8) As soon as such charge has been framed, it shall be read and explained to the accused and a copy thereof shall be given to him free of cost.

(9) The accused shall be required at once to give in, orally or in writing, a list of the persons, if any, whom he wishes to be summoned to give evidence on his trial:

Provided that the Magistrate may, in his discretion, allow the accused to give in his list or any further list of witnesses at a subsequent time; and, where the accused is committed for trial before the High Court, nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to preclude the accused from giving, at any time before his trial, to the clerk of the State a further list of the persons whom he wishes to be summoned to give evidence on such trial.

(10) When the accused, on being required to give in a list under sub-section

(9), has declined to do so, or when he has given in such list, the Magistrate may make an order committing the accused for trial by the High Court or the Court of Session, as the case may be, and shall also record briefly the reasons for such commitment.

(11) When the accused has given in any list of witnesses under sub-section (9) and has been committed for trial, the Magistrate shall summon the witnesses included in the list to appear before the court to which the accused has been committed:

Provided that where the accused has been committed to the High Court, the Magistrate may, in his discretion, leave such witnesses to be summoned by the clerk of the State and such witnesses may be summoned accordingly:

Provided also that if the Magistrate thinks that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation of delay, or of defeating the ends of justice, the Magistrate may require the accused to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the evidence of such witness is material, and if he is not so satisfied, may refuse to summon the witness (recording his reasons for such refusal), or may before summoning him require such sum to be deposited as such Magistrate thinks necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness and all other proper expenses.

(12) Witnesses for the prosecution, whose attendance before the Court of Session or the High Court is necessary and who appear before the Magistrate, shall execute before him bonds binding themselves to be in attendance when called upon by the Court of Session or the High Court to give evidence.

(13) If any witness refuses to attend before the Court of Session or the High Court, or execute the bond above directed, the Magistrate may detain him in custody until he executes such bond or until his attendance at the Court of Session or the High Court is required, when the Magistrate shall send him in custody to the Court of Session or the High Court as the case may be.

(14) When the accused is committed for trial, the Magistrate shall issue an order to such person as may be appointed by the State Government in this behalf, notifying the commitment, and stating the offence in the same form as the charge; and shall send the charge, the record of the inquiry and any weapon or other thing which is to be produced in evidence, to the Court of Session or where the commitment is made to the High Court, to the clerk of the State or other officer appointed in this behalf by the High Court.

(15) When the commitment is made to the High Court and any part of the record is not in English, an English translation of such part shall be forwarded with the record.

(16) Until and during the trial, the Magistrate shall, subject to the provisions of this Code regarding the taking of bail, commit the accused by warrant to custody."

53. On a bare perusal of the abovequoted provisions, it is plain as day that an exhaustive procedure was enumerated prior to commitment of the case to the Court of Session. As is evincible, earlier if a case was instituted on a police report, the Magistrate was required to hold enquiry, record satisfaction about various aspects, take evidence as regards the actual commission of the offence alleged and further was vested with the discretion to record evidence of one or more witnesses. Quite apart from the above, the accused was at liberty to cross-examine the witnesses and it was incumbent on the Magistrate to consider the documents and, if necessary, examine the accused for the purpose of enabling him to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him by the prosecution and afford the accused an opportunity of being heard and if there was no ground for committing the accused person for trial, record reasons and discharge him.

54. Thus, the accused enjoyed a substantial right prior to commitment of the case. It was indeed a vital stage. But, in the committal proceedings in praesenti, the Magistrate is only required to see whether the offence is exclusively triable by the Court of Session. Mr Fakhruddin, learned Senior Counsel, would submit that the use of the words "it appears to the Magistrate" are of immense signification and the Magistrate has the discretion to form an opinion about the case and not to accept the police report.

55. To appreciate the said submission, it is apposite to refer to Section 207 of the 1973 Code which lays down for furnishing of certain documents to the accused free of cost. Section 209(a) clearly stipulates that providing of the documents as per Section 207 or Section 208 is the only condition precedent for commitment. It is noteworthy that after the words, namely, "it appears to the Magistrate", the words that follow are "that the offence is triable exclusively by the Court of Session". The limited jurisdiction conferred on the Magistrate is only to verify the nature of the offence. It is also worth noting that thereafter, a mandate is cast that he "shall commit".

56. Evidently, there is a sea of difference in the proceeding for commitment to the Court of Session under the old Code and under the existing Code. There is nothing in Section 209 of the Code to even remotely suggest that any of the protections as provided under the old Code has been telescoped to the existing one.

57. It is worth noting that under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, a full-fledged Magisterial enquiry was postulated in the committal proceeding and the prosecution was then required to examine all the witnesses at this stage itself. In 1955, Parliament by Act 26 of 1955 curtailed the said procedure and brought in Section 207-A to the old Code. Later on, the Law Commission of India in its 41st Report, recommended thus:

"18.19.Abolition of committal proceedings recommended.--After a careful consideration we are of the unanimous opinion that committal proceedings are largely a waste of time and effort and do not contribute appreciably to the efficiency of the trial before the Court of Session. While they are obviously time-consuming, they do not serve any essential purpose. There can be no doubt or dispute as to the desirability of every trial, and more particularly of the trial for a grave offence, beginning as soon as practicable after the completion of investigation. Committal proceedings which only serve to delay this step, do not advance the cause of justice. The primary object of protecting the innocent accused from the ordeal of a sessions trial has not been achieved in practice; and the other main object of apprising the accused in sufficient detail of the case he has to meet at the trial could be achieved by other methods without going through a very partial and ineffective trial rehearsal before a Magistrate. We recommend that committal proceedings should be abolished."

We have reproduced the same to accentuate the change that has taken place in the existing Code. True it is, the committal proceedings have not been totally abolished but in the present incarnation, it has really been metamorphosed and the role of the Magistrate has been absolutely constricted.

58. In our considered opinion, because of the restricted role assigned to the Magistrate at the stage of commitment under the new Code, the non-compliance with the same and raising of any objection in that regard after conviction attracts the applicability of the principle of "failure of justice" and the convict appellant becomes obliged in law to satisfy the appellate court that he has been prejudiced and deprived of a fair trial or there has been miscarriage of justice. The concept of fair trial and the conception of miscarriage of justice are not in the realm of abstraction. They do not operate in a vacuum. They are to be concretely established on the bedrock of facts and not to be deduced from procedural lapse or an interdict like commitment as enshrined under Section 193 of the Code for taking cognizance under the Act. It should be a manifestation of reflectible and visible reality but not a routine matter which has roots in appearance sans any reality. Tested on the aforesaid premised reasons, it is well-nigh impossible to conceive of any failure of justice or causation of prejudice or miscarriage of justice on such non-compliance. It would be totally inapposite and inappropriate to hold that such non-compliance vitiates the trial.

59. At this juncture, we would like to refer to two other concepts, namely, speedy trial and treatment of a victim in criminal jurisprudence based on the constitutional paradigm and principle. The entitlement of the accused to speedy trial has been repeatedly emphasised by this Court. It has been recognized as an inherent and implicit aspect in the spectrum of Article 21 of the Constitution. The whole purpose of speedy trial is intended to avoid oppression and prevent delay. It is a sacrosanct obligation of all concerned with the justice dispensation system to see that the administration of criminal justice becomes effective, vibrant and meaningful. The concept of speedy trial cannot be allowed to remain a mere formality [see Hussainara Khatoon (1) v. State of Bihar [(1980) 1 SCC 81 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 23] ,Moti Lal Saraf v. State of J&K [(2006) 10 SCC 560 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 180 : AIR 2007 SC 56] and Raj Deo Sharma v. State of Bihar [(1998) 7 SCC 507 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1692 : AIR 1998 SC 3281]].

60. While delineating on the facets of speedy trial, it cannot be regarded as an exclusive right of the accused. The right of a victim has been given recognition in Mangal Singh v. Kishan Singh[(2009) 17 SCC 303 : (2011) 1 SCC (Cri) 1019 : AIR 2009 SC 1535] wherein it has been observed thus: (SCC p. 307, para 14)

"14. ... Any inordinate delay in conclusion of a criminal trial undoubtedly has a highly deleterious effect on the society generally, and particularly on the two sides of the case. But it will be a grave mistake to assume that delay in trial does not cause acute suffering and anguish to the victim of the offence. In many cases the victim may suffer even more than the accused. There is, therefore, no reason to give all the benefits on account of the delay in trial to the accused and to completely deny all justice to the victim of the offence."

61. It is worth noting that the Constitution Bench in Iqbal Singh Marwah v. Meenakshi Marwah[(2005) 4 SCC 370 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1101 : AIR 2005 SC 2119] (SCC p. 387, para 24) though in a different context, had also observed that delay in the prosecution of a guilty person comes to his advantage as witnesses become reluctant to give evidence and the evidence gets lost.

62. We have referred to the aforesaid authorities to illumine and elucidate that the delay in conclusion of trial has a direct nexus with the collective cry of the society and the anguish and agony of an accused (quaere a victim). Decidedly, there has to be a fair trial and no miscarriage of justice and under no circumstances, prejudice should be caused to the accused but, a pregnant one, every procedural lapse or every interdict that has been acceded to and not objected at the appropriate stage would not get the trial dented or make it unfair. Treating it to be unfair would amount to an undesirable state of pink of perfection in procedure. An absolute apple-pie order in carrying out the adjective law, would only be sound and fury signifying nothing.

63. In the case at hand, as is perceivable, no objection was raised at the time of framing of charge or any other relevant time but only propounded after conviction. Under these circumstances, the right of the collective as well as the right of the victim springs to the forefront and then it becomes obligatory on the part of the accused to satisfy the court that there has been failure of justice or prejudice has been caused to him. Unless the same is established, setting aside of conviction as a natural corollary or direction for retrial as the third step of the syllogism solely on the said foundation would be an anathema to justice.

64. Be it noted, one cannot afford to treat the victim as an alien or a total stranger to the criminal trial. The criminal jurisprudence, with the passage of time, has laid emphasis on victimology which fundamentally is a perception of a trial from the viewpoint of the criminal as well as the victim. Both are viewed in the social context. The view of the victim is given due regard and respect in certain countries. In respect of certain offences in our existing criminal jurisprudence, the testimony of the victim is given paramount importance. Sometimes it is perceived that it is the duty of the court to see that the victim's right is protected. A direction for retrial is to put the clock back and it would be a travesty of justice to so direct if the trial really has not been unfair and there has been no miscarriage of justice or failure of justice.

65. We may state without any fear of contradiction that if the failure of justice is not bestowed its due signification in a case of the present nature, every procedural lapse or interdict would be given a privileged place on the pulpit. It would, with unnecessary interpretative dynamism, have the effect potentiality to cause a dent in the criminal justice delivery system and eventually, justice would become illusory like a mirage. It is to be borne in mind that the legislature deliberately obliterated certain rights conferred on the accused at the committal stage under the new Code. The intendment of the legislature in the plainest sense is that every stage is not to be treated as vital and it is to be interpreted to subserve the substantive objects of the criminal trial.

66. Judged from these spectrums and analysed on the aforesaid premises, we come to the irresistible conclusion that the objection relating to non-compliance with Section 193 of the Code, which eventually has resulted in directly entertaining and taking cognizance by the Special Judge under the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, does not vitiate the trial and on the said ground alone, the conviction cannot be set aside or there cannot be a direction of retrial and, therefore, the decision rendered in Bhooraji [(2001) 7

SCC 679 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1373 : AIR 2001 SC 3372] lays down the correct law inasmuch as there is no failure of justice or no prejudice is caused to the accused.

67. The decisions rendered in Moly [(2004) 4 SCC 584 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 1348 : AIR 2004 SC 1890] and Vidyadharan [(2004) 1 SCC 215 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 260] have not noted the decision in Bhooraji [(2001) 7 SCC 679 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 1373 : AIR 2001 SC 3372] , a binding precedent, and hence they are per incuriam and further, the law laid down therein, whereby the conviction is set aside or the matter is remanded after setting aside the conviction for fresh trial, does not expound the correct proposition of law and, accordingly, they are hereby, to that extent, overruled.

68. The appeals be placed before the appropriate Bench for hearing on merits."

11. It is apparent from the above judgment that the principle of failure of justice has been stuck in the above mentioned case by Hon'ble Supreme Court and it has also held that the procedure of commitment of case in amended Cr.P.C. has been made of very superficial nature as the Magistrate committing the case, does not enjoy any power to make deeper analysis of the evidence which he was supposed to collect under unamended Cr.P.C. and now he has simply to commit the case irrespective of what were the facts and evidence on record. Therefore, no deeper scrutiny is required to be made of the evidence gathered by the Investigating Officer under the provision of 193 Cr.P.C. nor does he have any discretion to commit the case to the Court of Sessions as he is bound to commit the case. Therefore, it is held that merely because in this case commitment was not made, all the proceedings would not vitiate the trial on that ground alone as it was necessary to show that by non-compliance, failure of justice had occurred or any deep prejudice was caused to the accused, though I am of the view that this judgment would not apply in the present case because this judgment belongs to a period prior to amendment in section 14 of SC/ST Act which provides for the power to the Special Court to directly take cognizance. But even if, what has been mentioned in this ruling as I have discussed above, i.e principle of prejudice or failure of justice be taken into consideration, in the light of the facts of present case I find that the entire evidence has already been collected in this case and it is thereafter that the accused has resorted to this objection that the case was not committed to the Special Court, hence it did not have power to try this case, I do not see any prejudice to have been caused to the accused nor do I see that failure of justice would occur in this case because the Special Court created under section 14 of the SC/ST Act is also conferred with the power of Sessions Judge. In the present case, the offence under section 3(2) (V) of the SC/ST Act is alleged to have been committed along with offence under section 302 IPC, therefore, it would result in failure of justice if a separate Sessions Court be asked to decide the offence under section 302 IPC while the Special Court be allowed to hold trial for offence under section 3 (2) (V) of SC/ST Act. That would seem to be anomalous situation.

12. In order to gather the objective of the amendment in the SC/ST Act, it would be pertinent to take into consideration the Annual Report of the Government of India under section 21 (4) of the SC/ST Act for the year 2016, which speaks that ---

"1.1 THE SCHEDULED CASTES AND THE SCHEDULED TRIBES (PREVENTION OF ATROCITIES) ACT, 1989 AND THE SCHEDULED CASTES AND THE SCHEDULED TRIBES (PREVENTION OF ATROCITIES) RULES, 1995.

The Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (No.33 of 1989) (hereinafter referred as ' PoA ' Act) came into force with effect from 30.01.1990. This legislation aims at preventing commission of offences by persons other than Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes against members of Scheduled Castes (SCs) and Scheduled Tribes (STs) to provide for Special Courts for trial of such offences and for relief and rehabilitation of the victims of such offences. The PoA Act extends to whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir. With an objective to deliver members of SCs and STs, a greater justice, the PoA Act has been amended by the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Act, 2015 (No.1 of 2016), notified in the Gazette of India Extraordinary on 01.01.2016 and enforced with effect from 26.01.2016. The amendments broadly relate to rephrasing and expansion of some of earlier offences and addition of several new offences, addition of certain IPC offences attracting less than ten years of imprisonment committed against members of SCs and STs, as offences punishable under the PoA Act, establishment of Exclusive Special Courts and specification of Exclusive Special Public Prosecutors to exclusively try the offences under the PoA Act to enable expeditious disposal of cases, power of Special Courts and Exclusive Special Courts to take direct cognizance of offence and as far as possible, completion of trial of the case within two months from the date of filing of the charge sheet, addition of chapter on the ''Rights of Victims and Witnesses' and wilful negligence of a public servant in discharging duties for registration of complaints, recording statement of witnesses, conducting investigation and filing charges and any other duties specified in the Act and Rules. The PoA Act is implemented by the respective State Governments and Union Territory Administrations, which are provided admissible Central assistance under the Centrally Sponsored Scheme for effective implementation of the provisions of the Act. Main provisions of the PoA Act are as under: -

(i) Defines offences of atrocities and prescribes punishment therefor, (Section 3).

(ii) Punishment for wilful neglect of duties by non-SC/ST public servants (Section 4).

(iii) Establishing an Exclusive Special Court for one or more districts, specifying Court of Session to be a Special Court for speedy trial of offences under the Act. Powers of these Courts to take direct cognizance of offences under the Act, duty of the State Government to establish adequate number of Courts to ensure that cases under the Act are disposed of within a period of two months as far as possible (Section 14).

(iv) An appeal against judgment of Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court to the High Court (Section 14A).

(v) Appointment of Exclusive Special Public Prosecutors and Special Public Prosecutors for conducting cases in Exclusive Special Courts and Special Courts (Section 15).

(vi) Rights of Victims and Witnesses (Section 15A).

(vii) Preventive action to be taken by the law and order machinery (Section 17).

(viii) Measures to be taken by State Governments for effective implementation of the Act, including: - a. Adequate facilities including legal aid, to the persons subjected to atrocities to enable them to avail themselves of justice;

b. Economic and social rehabilitation of victims of the atrocities;

c. Appointment of officers for initiating or exercising supervision over prosecution for contravention of the provisions of the Act; and

d. Setting up of Committees at appropriate levels to assist the Government in implementation of the Act;

e. Delineation of "Identified Areas"(commonly known as "Atrocity Prone Areas") where members of SC/ST are vulnerable to being subjected to atrocities and adoption of necessary measures to ensure their safety. {Section 21 (2)}.

The Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Rules,1995 under the PoA Act were notified on 31.03.1995, which, among other things, prescribed minimum scale of relief and rehabilitation for the affected persons. The prescribed minimum scale of relief and rehabilitation under the Rules has been amended from time to time.

Consequent upon amendments done in the PoA Act, certain amendments had been necessitated in the PoA Rules. Accordingly necessary amendments have been done in the PoA Rules by the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Amendment Rules, 2016, notified in the Gazette of India on 14.04.2016, which broadly relate to provision of relief amount for 47 offences of atrocity, rationalization of the phasing of payment of relief amount to victims for various offences of atrocities, enhancement of relief amount to Rs. 85000/- to Rs. 8,25,000/-, depending upon the nature of the offences, payable of admissible relief amount within seven days, completion of investigation and filing of charge sheet in court within sixty days, to enable timely commencement of prosecution and periodic review of the Scheme for the rights and entitlements of victims and witnesses in accessing justice, by the State, District and Sub-Division Level Vigilance and Monitoring Committees in their respective meetings.

Salient provisions of the PoA Rules notified under the PoA Act are as under: -

(i) Precautionary and Preventive Measures to be taken by the State Governments regarding offences of atrocities (Rule 3).

(ii) Investigation of offences under the Act to be done by not below the rank of a DSP level Officer {Rule 7 (1)}.

(iii) Completion of investigation and filing of charge sheet in court within sixty days and report forwarded to Director General of Police or Commissioner of Police of the State {Rule 7 (2)}.

(iv) Setting up of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes Protection Cell at State headquarters under the charge of Director General of Police/IG Police (Rule 8).

(v) Nomination of (a) a Nodal Officer at the State level (not below the rank of a Secretary to the State Government), and (b) a Special Officer at the district level (not below the rank of an Additional District Magistrate) for districts with identified atrocity prone areas to co-ordinate the functioning of DMs, SPs and other concerned officers, at the State and District levels, respectively. (Rule 9 and 10).

(vi) Provision of relief in cash or kind or both to victims of atrocities as per prescribed norms within seven days. (Rule 12 (4) and Schedule).

(vii) State Government/Union Territory Administration to provide necessary authorization and powers to the District Magistrate for immediate withdrawal of money from treasury so as to timely provide the relief amount to atrocity victims (Rule 12(4A).

(viii) State Level Vigilance and Monitoring Committee under the Chief Minister to meet at least twice a year (Rule 16).

(ix) District Level Vigilance and Monitoring Committees under the District Magistrate to meet at least once every quarter (Rule 17).

(x) Sub-Divisional Level Vigilance and Monitoring under the Sub-Divisional Magistrate to meet at least once every quarter (Rule 17 A)."

13. It is apparent from the said report that the main aim for introducing the amendment was to ensure expeditious disposal of offences pertaining to this Act, hence keeping in mind the said aim, the amendment has been incorporated in the said Act conferring upon Special Judge power to directly try the case and not wait for the commitment of the case to it because that would result in delay. A deeper scrutiny of entire report which is too long, would indicate that whatever data has been collected with respect to pendency and disposal of cases pertaining to SC/ST Act, also included the cases under SC/ST Act coupled with the offence falling under IPC, therefore, it appears that the intention of the legislature would have been, while passing the Act, to ensure that even if an offence is found to have been committed under IPC as well as under SC/ST Act, the same should be tried by one court only i.e. Special Court which has been conferred the power of taking cognizance directly to minimize the delay in disposal of the case, therefore, I am of the view that in the present case the cognizance which has been taken by the trial court directly under the above-mentioned sections, does not suffer from any infirmity and the objection raised by the learned counsel for the applicant is not found to have any force.

14. In view of the aforesaid, the application deserves to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed.

Pawan Kumar Goel', as well as the entire proceedings of Criminal Complaint Case No.152/9 of 2013, 'Pawan Kumar Goel Vs. Devendra Kumar Garg' under Section 138 of N.I.Act, Police Station-Civil Lines, District-Muzaffarnagar, presently pending before the Court of learned A.C.J.M. IInd, Muzaffarnagar."

2. Heard Shri. Amit Daga, learned counsel for the applicant, Shri. Ajay Kumar Sharma, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the State O.P. No.2 is represented through his counsel Shri. Pankaj Bharti, but none appeared on his behalf even in the revised call and the judgment was reserved.

3. The facts as narrated in the application are as follows:

(i) The O.P. No.2 filed a criminal complaint against the applicant under Section 138 of the N.I. Act before the Court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.II, Muzaffarnagar, on 28.1.2013. In the complaint it was alleged that the complainant's firm indulged in the business of Machineries and the accused/applicant was running a chemical factory in the name and style "Ravi Organics Ltd." It was further alleged that during the course of transaction, accused applicant being director of his firm issued one cheque bearing No.802275 dated 31.10.2012 of Rs.10 lakhs payable at Union Bank of India, Muzaffar Nagar. It was further alleged in the complaint that the said cheque was deposited in the complainant's bank at State Bank of Patiala Court Road, Muzaffarnagar for encashment however, the same was returned by the bankers of the accused applicant with an endorsement "Exceeds Arrangement." It was further alleged that complainant sent one registered legal demand notice to the applicant on 29.12.2012 through registered post however, when the amount was not paid, the aforesaid complaint was filed.

(ii) On the basis of the complaint as well as other materials on record, the learned Magistrate took cognizance and called the complainant to record his statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. The complainant filed the statement by way of an affidavit. On the basis of materials available on record, the learned A.C.J.M. Court No.II, Muzaffarnagar took cognizance by order dated 17.7.2013.

(iii) The applicant being aggrieved by the summoning order dated 17.7.2013 preferred a Criminal Revision No.290 of 2013, before the Additional Sessions Judge, Muzaffarnagar which was dismissed by the learned Sessions Court on 17.7.2013. The applicant thereafter preferred present application for quashing of the order dated 17.7.2013 as well as the order dated 05.12.2015.

(iv) Shri. Pankaj Bharti has filed his Vakalatnama on behalf of O.P. No.2 on 22.1.206 however, no counter affidavit was filed despite the matter was listed on many occasions as well as counsel was not even present when judgment was reserved on 07.2.2020.

(v) This Court passed the following order on 05.12.2016:

"Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned counsel for the complainant as well as learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant with the prayer to quash the order dated 17.07.2013 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 2, Muzaffarnagar in Criminal Complaint Case No. 152/9 of 2013, and order dated 05.12.2015 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 10, Muzaffarnagar in Criminal Revision No. 290 of 2013, under Section 138 of Negotiable Instrument Act, Police Station Civil Lines, District Muzaffarnagar.

Submission of the learned counsel for the applicant is that complaint has been filed without making party to the company though complainant case is that cheque in question had been issued by the applicant in capacity of the director of Ravi Organics Limited. At this stage learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance on the following case laws.

I. S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. Vs. Neeta Bhalla and another (2005)8 Supreme Court Cases 89.

II. Yogendra Kumar Khullar @ Bittoo Vs. State of U.P. and another 2012 (79) ACC 789.

III. Anita Hada Vs. Godfather Travels and Tours Private Limited (2012) 5 Supreme Court Cases 661.

Learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the complainant argued that non-bailable warrant has been issued in the matter. Applicant is authorized signatory hence complaint can go on.

Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and in view of the law laid down in Anita Hada (supra), Yogendra Kumar Khullar@ Bittoo (supra) and S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. (supra), matter requires thorough consideration.

All the opposite parties may file counter affidavit within four weeks. Rejoinder affidavit may be filed within two weeks thereafter.

List on 25.04.2016 before the appropriate Bench.

Till the next date of listing, further proceedings of the aforesaid complaint case shall remain stayed only against the applicant."

4. Shri. Amit Daga, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the applicant submitted that if any complaint under Section 138 of the N.I. Act is filed in respect of dishonour of cheque issued from the account of a Company, it is incumbent on the part of the complainant to make necessary averments in the complaint that at the time when offence was committed, the person accused was incharge and was responsible for the conduct and business of the Company. However, in the complaint in question, the company was not made a party as an accused. He further submitted that it is settled position of law that for maintaining the prosecution under Section 141 of the N.I. Act arraigning of a company as an accused is imperative. In support of his submission he relied upon a judgment of three Judges of the Apex Court in Aneeta Hada Vs. Godfather Travels and Tours Private Limited (2012) 5 SCC 661. He further relied on paragraph nos.58 and 59 of the said judgment.

"58. Applying the doctrine of strict construction, we are of the considered opinion that commission of offence by the company is an express condition precedent to attract the vicarious liability of others. Thus, the words "as well as the company" appearing in the section make it absolutely unmistakably clear that when the company can be prosecuted, then only the persons mentioned in the other categories could be vicariously liable for the offence subject to the averments in the petition and proof thereof. One cannot be oblivious of the fact that the company is a juristic person and it has its own respectability. If a finding is recorded against it, it would create a concavity in its reputation. There can be situations when the corporate reputation is affected when a Director is indicted.

59. In view of our aforesaid analysis, we arrive at the irresistible conclusion that for maintaining the prosecution under Section 141 of the Act, arraigning of a company as an accused is imperative. The other categories of offenders can only be brought in the dragnet on the touchstone of vicarious liability as the same has been stipulated in the provision itself. We say so on the basis of the ratio laid down in State of Madras v. C.V. Parekh (1970) 3 SCC 491, which is a three-Judge Bench decision. Thus, the view expressed in Sheoratan Agarwal v. State of M.P. does not correctly lay down the law and, accordingly, is hereby overruled. The decision in Anil Hada v. Indian Acrylic Ltd, (2000) 1 SCC 1 is overruled with the qualifier as stated in paragraph 51. The decision in U.P. Pollution Control Board v. Modi Distillery, (1987) 3 SCC 684 has to be treated to be restricted to its own facts as has been explained by us hereinabove." (Emphasis supplied)

5. He further relied upon a recent judgment in Himanshu Vs. B.Shivamurthy & Anr,2019 (3) SCC 797, wherein in paras 12, 13 and 14 it has been held that:

"12.The provisions of Section 141 postulate that if the person committing an offence under Section 138 is a company, every person, who at the time when the offence was committed was in charge of or was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished.

13. In the absence of the company being arraigned as an accused, a complaint against the appellant was therefore not maintainable.

The appellant had signed the cheque as a Director of the company and for and on its behalf. Moreover, in the absence of a notice of demand being served on the company and without compliance with the proviso to Section 138, the High Court was in error in holding that the company could now be arraigned as an accused.

14. We, accordingly, are of the view that the High Court was in erorr in rejecting the petition under Section 482 of the CrPC. We hence allow the appeal and set aside the judgment of the High Court. In consequence, the complaint, being C.R.P No. 27/2004 shall stand quashed." (Emphasis supplied)

6. He further relied upon various orders passed by a co-ordinate bench of this Court where on the basis of similar contention relief has been granted to the applicant. Details of said petitions are as follows: (i) Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.25369 of 2013 dated 19.11.2019; (ii) Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.24377 of 2013 dated 19.11.2019; (iii) Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.24632 of 2013 order dated 19.11.2019; (iv) Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.25491 of 2013 order dated 19.11.2019.

7. Shri. Ajay Kumar Sharma, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the State has not disputed the legal position as submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant.

8. From perusal of the contents of the notice and complaint, it is evident that the notice as well as the complaint was filed against the applicant in his individual capacity. Company was not arrayed as a party neither in the notice nor in the complaint. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Aneeta Hada (supra) has held that for maintaining the prosecution under Section 141 of the Act, arraigning of a company as an accused is imperative.

9. Judgment passed in Aneeta Hada (supra) is also followed in the case of Himanshu (supra), wherein the Apex Court has dismissed the complaint, since company was not arraigned as an accused. Present case is squarely covered by the judgment passed in Aneeta Hada (supra) and Himanshu (supra).

10. In view of the above discussions, this application is allowed and the order dated 17.7.2013 passed by A.C.J.M., Court No.2, Muzaffarnagar in Criminal Complaint Case No.152/9 of 2013, "Pawan Kumar Goel Vs. Devendra Kumar Garg" and order dated 05.12.2015 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court no.10, Muzaffarnagar in Criminal Revision No.290 of 2013, 'Devendra Kumar Garg Vs. Pawan Kumar Goel', as well as the entire proceedings of Criminal Complaint Case No.152/9 of 2013, 'Pawan Kumar Goel Vs. Devendra Kumar Garg' under Section 138 of N.I.Act, Police Station-Civil Lines, District-Muzaffarnagar, presently pending before the Court of learned A.C.J.M. IInd, Muzaffarnagar are hereby quashed.

1. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by applicant Anoop Keshari alias Anoop Chowdhary against State of U.P. and three others with a prayer for quashing impugned order dated 24.12.2019 passed u/s 146(1) Cr.P.C. as well as impugned order dated 28.11.2019 passed u/s 145(1) Cr.P.C. by the City Magistrate, Allahabad, in Case No. D-201902030007120 of 2019, Pratap Narain Mishra Vs. Anoop Keshari and others, P.S. Kotwali, District Allahabad, as well as entire proceeding of above mentioned case.

2. Learned counsel for applicant argued that the matter in question was not with regard to ownership and possession of any individual immovable property. Rather property in question is of Arya Samaj Temple having two colleges running with it and it is belonging of Arya Pratinidhi Sabha, U.P., Lucknow, under general superintendence of Sarvdeshik Arya Pratinidhi Sabha, New Delhi, for whole of India since mid of 19th century and everybody is having right and use to worship in above temple. There occurred no apprehension of breach of peace regarding above Arya Samaj Temple because O.P. No. 2 as well as applicant use to visit and worship in above temple. The dispute was regarding office of management and O.P. No. 2 was Secretary. In the year 2017 election of office bearers took place wherein the applicant was elected as Mantri to manage the affairs of above Arya Samaj Temple and its allied subject at Allahabad. This was duly recognized by State Unit at Lucknow. Representation was made by O.P. No. 2, but it was rejected by State Level Unit. In between two cases regarding criminal breach of trust and other mismanagement of property of Society, Arya Pratinidhi Sabha, was got lodged against O.P. No. 2 and one Pawan Jaiswal, wherein other co-accused preferred a proceeding u/s 482 Cr.P.C. before this court, which was rejected. Then after a Special Leave Petition was filed before Apex Court where the S.L.P. was rejected. Only after this failure to have some relief, manipulation was made by O.P. No. 2 under connivance with local police as well as Executive Magistrate. Thereafter a proceeding u/s 107/116 Cr.P.C. was undertaken and on this, report for proceeding u/s 145 Cr.P.C. was submitted before the City Magistrate wherein likelihood of breach of peace in Arya Samaj Temple, Chowk, Allahabad, was reported and the Magistrate in a routine way issued notices to both sides fixing a date. Though, there was no apprehension of breach of peace nor it was an individual immovable property, requiring any interference by Executive Magistrate u/s 145 Cr.P.C. Moreso, a civil suit was also pending on behalf of O.P. No. 2 for determination of right of Secretaryship of Management Committee of Arya Samaj Temple, Chowk, Allahabad, and its allied property. But the learned Magistrate, without applying his judicial mind, passed the impugned order u/s 145(1) Cr.P.C. Both sides appeared before the City Magistrate, therein, documents with reply were filed, wherein, it was specifically mentioned that no dispute regarding ownership or possession of immovable property of Arya Samaj Temple, Chowk, Allahabad, is there, because the Temple is under ownership of Almighty and worship of deities are done by each member belonging to Arya Samaj. The dispute was regarding office of management of Temple and it is within the domain of Assistant Registrar, Societies, as Arya Samaj Temple, Chowk, Allahabad, is a registered Society registered under Societies Registration Act. In case there arises a dispute regarding Management of the Society, it is to be referred to the Sub Divisional Magistrate concerned, who will decide the same. But the learned City Magistrate without making any appreciation of facts and law; by giving any reason, passed the impugned order of attachment of the Temple as well School Property of Arya Samaj Temple, Chowk, Allahabad, under section 146(1) Cr.P.C. whereby work of receivership has been assigned to consignee (supurdagar), which was not within the jurisdiction of the City Magistrate. The dispute regarding office of Management of a Society is to be resolved either by its State Unit or by Central Unit regarding its internal management or by the Assistant Registrar, Societies, under the Societies Registration Act and in case of its failure, reference is to be made under Rule 4 of the Societies Registration Act to the Court of Sub Divisional Magistrate concerned, who will decide as per rules given in the Societies Registration Act. But the learned City Magistrate did not give any reason and without applying its judicial mind passed the impugned order of attachment u/s 146(1) Cr.P.C. and appointed a receiver. It was a mechanical order. It is apparently under abuse of process of law. Hence this application with above prayer.

3. Learned counsel for O.P. No. 2 vehemently opposed the application with contention that O.P. No. 2 is elected Secretary of Committee of Management of Arya Samaj Temple, Chowk, Allahabad, and he was rightly in the office of Management, for which, effort was made by applicant for dispossessing him. Owing to which apprehension of breach of peace was reported by the police to the Executive Magistrate. The jurisdiction u/s 145(1) Cr.P.C. was invoked by the City Magistrate, Allahabad, following the order of attachment u/s 146(1) Cr.P.C. It was well in accordance with law with no abuse of process of law. However, it is being admitted that the property is of Arya Samaj Temple, district Unit Allahabad, open for worship to everybody. The property of Arya Samaj Temple, unit Allahabad, is property of Almighty. Hence, there is no dispute regarding ownership and possession of the property. Rather the dispute is regarding office of management of the Unit. If this Court directs the City Magistrate for disposal of proceeding then O.P. No. 2 is having no objection.

4. Learned AGA has vehemently opposed the application.

5. Section 145 Cr.P.C. provides that whenever an Executive Magistrate is satisfied from a report of a police officer or upon other information that a dispute, likely to cause a breach of the peace, exists concerning any land or water or the boundaries thereof, within his local jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing, stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court in person or by pleader, on a specified date and time, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute.

6. Hon'ble Apex Court in Ram Sumer Puri Mahant vs State Of U.P. and others, (1985) 1 SCC 427 has propounded that when a civil litigation is pending in regard to some immovable property wherein question of possession is involved, the parties in possession to approach civil court for interim order such as injunction or appointment of receiver for adequate protection of the property, during pendency of suit, then there is no jurisdiction for initiating a parallel criminal proceeding under section 145 Cr.P.C. The order made under section 145 Cr.P.C. deals only with the factum of possession of party as on a particular date. It confers no title to remain in possession of disputed property against any decision of civil court.

7. Admittedly, immovable property in dispute is a Arya Samaj Temple, Chowk, Allahabad. Meaning thereby it is a property of religious endowment. Admittedly, the Society, being a registered Society under Societies Registration Act, is having its full control by its Divisional Unit for whole of Division, State Unit of Lucknow for whole of the State of U.P. and National Unit Delhi for whole of the nation. Meaning thereby it is not a property of either of the party. It is a property dedicated to Almighty and open for worship by all. Hence no question of dispute regarding ownership or possession of the property is there. The dispute is only regarding office of Management of the Society. In the impugned order, the Magistrate, for initiating proceeding u/s 145 Cr.P.C., has written about dispute regarding ownership and possession of the property, which is apparently against facts on record. This reveals that the Magistrate, while passing the impugned order, has not applied its judicial mind. This order is with no reason. Whereas initial order is to be passed with reason, as has been mentioned in section 145 Cr.P.C. The condition precedent for passing order by the Magistrate is that the Magistrate has to give proper reasons for his satisfaction for invoking jurisdiction u/s 145 Cr.P.C. But in the impugned order there is no reason at all. On this score only the impugned order u/s 145(1) Cr.P.C. is not to be sustained.

8. Regarding second impugned order u/s 146(1) Cr.P.C., the parties appeared before the Magistrate, they filed their reply and documents in support of their contentions. What were the documents, how it was appreciated, what questions were involved, what were facts of documents, what were contentions of parties have not been mentioned in the impugned order. It itself shows that the Executive Magistrate, while passing impugned orders u/s 145(1) Cr.P.C. as well as u/s 146(1) Cr.P.C., has not followed the mandate of Legislature given under sections 145 and 146 Cr.P.C. Order of this character can never be said to be an order after application of judicial mind. There is principle of legislative expectancy that when a dispute is there, both sides are filing their reply and documents in support of their claim then the man, who is making decision, has to mention both sides' contentions and the documents filed by them in support of their respective claim, then the reasons for taking the decision and then only the order can be held to be on application of judicial mind. Hence both the impugned orders are not to be sustained, as such they are under abuse of process of law.

9. The dispute regarding office of management of Society, registered under Societies Registration Act, can never be held as a dispute regarding ownership and possession of immovable property and for this Legislature has given Societies Registration Act with rules framed there under. Assistant Registrar has the authority to decide the dispute regarding management of office of Society. In case of its failure, reference is to be made to the Sub Divisional Magistrate of the area under Rule of the above Act for adjudication. But by these impugned orders, under challenge, the City Magistrate has decided to take over possession of the property and has appointed some receiver for making management of the above property, which was of Almighty having no dispute regarding its ownership and possession. Under garb of attachment order, receiver has been appointed, which power never vests with the Executive Magistrate, particularly when a civil suit has already been filed by O.P. No. 2. There is a chapter under Code of Civil Procedure for appointment of receiver to protect the property in dispute. Hence this application merits to be allowed.

10. The application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed and both the impugned orders passed by the City Magistrate u/s 145(1) and 146(1) Cr.P.C. are hereby quashed with this specific mention that an officer of City Magistrate rank i.e. a senior Executive officer should be careful in future in making such type of decision without any reason in order.

11. The file is being remanded back to the Magistrate concerned to make decision in accordance with law, provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure along with precedents of Apex Court and this court.

(English Translation by Court)

5. Section 420 is "cheating" which is defined in Section 415 and both these provisions read as under:

"415. Cheating.- Whoever, by deceiving any person, fraudulently or dishonestly induces the person so deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or intentionally induces the person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived, and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property, is said to "cheat".

Explanation.--A dishonest concealment of facts is a deception within the meaning of this section."

"420. Cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property.- Whoever cheats and thereby dishonestly induces the person deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to make, alter or destroy the whole or any part of a valuable security, or anything which is signed or sealed, and which is capable of being converted into a valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."

6. In order to attract allegations of "cheating", following things must exist:

(i) The person deceived, delivered to someone or consented that certain person shall retain property.

(ii) Person deceived was induced by accused to do as above.

(iii) Such person acted upon such inducement and consequently was deceived by the accused.

(iv) Accused acted fraudulently or dishonestly.

(v) Accused did it intentionally.

(vi) such act or omission caused or likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, property or reputation. (Emphasis added)

7. Then in order to attract Section 420 I.P.C., essential ingredients are:

(i) cheating;

(ii) dishonest inducement to deliver property or to make or destroy any valuable security or any thing which is sealed or signed or is capable of being converted into a valuable security; and,

(iii) mens rea of accused at the time of making inducement and which act of omission.

8. In Mahadeo Prasad Vs. State of West Bengal, AIR 1954 SC 724 it was observed that to constitute offence of cheating, intention to deceive should be in existence at the time when inducement was offered.

9. In Jaswantrai Manilal Akhaney Vs. State of Bombay, AIR 1956 SC 575, Court said that a guilty intention is an essential ingredient of the offence of cheating. For the offence of cheating, "mens rea" on the part of that person, must be established.

10. In G.V. Rao Vs. L.H.V. Prasad and others, 2000(3) SCC 693, Court said that Section 415 has two parts. While in the first part, the person must "dishonestly" or "fraudulently" induce the complainant to deliver any property and in the second part the person should intentionally induce the complainant to do or omit to do a thing. In other words in the first part, inducement must be dishonest or fraudulent while in the second part, inducement should be intentional.

11. In Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma and others Vs. State of Bihar and another, 2000(4) SCC 168 Court said that in the definition of 'cheating', there are set forth two separate classes of acts which the person deceived may be induced to do. In the first place he may be induced fraudulently or dishonestly to deliver any property to any person. The second class of acts set forth in the section is the doing or omitting to do anything which the person deceived would not do or omit to do if he were not so deceived. In the first class of cases, inducing must be fraudulent or dishonest. In the second class of acts, the inducing must be intentional but not fraudulent or dishonest. It was pointed out that there is a fine distinction between mere breach of contract and the offence of cheating. It depends upon the intention of accused at the time to inducement which may be judged by his subsequent conduct but for this subsequent conduct is not the sole test. Mere breach of contract cannot give rise to criminal prosecution for cheating unless fraudulent or dishonest intention is shown right at the beginning of the transaction, that is the time when the offence is said to have been committed. Therefore it is the intention which is the gist of the offence. In order to hold a person guilty of cheating it would be obligatory to show that he had fraudulent or dishonest intention at the time of making the promise. Mere failure to keep up promise subsequently such a culpable intention right at the beginning, i.e, when he made the promise cannot be presumed.

12. In S.W. Palanitkar and others Vs. State of Bihar and another, 2002(1) SCC 241, while examining the ingredients of Section 415 IPC, the aforesaid authorities were followed.

13. In Hira Lal Hari lal Bhagwati Vs. CBI, New Delhi, 2003(5) SCC 257, Court said that to hold a person guilty of cheating under Section 415 IPC it is necessary to show that he has fraudulent or dishonest intention at the time of making promise with an intention to retain property. The Court further said:

"Section 415 of the Indian Penal Code which defines cheating, requires deception of any person (a) inducing that person to: (i) to deliver any property to any person, or (ii) to consent that any person shall retain any property OR (b) intentionally inducing that person to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person, anybody's mind, reputation or property. In view of the aforesaid provisions, the appellants state that person may be induced fraudulently or dishonestly to deliver any property to any person. The second class of acts set forth in the Section is the doing or omitting to do anything which the person deceived would not do or omit to do if he were not so deceived. In the first class of cases, the inducing must be fraudulent or dishonest. In the second class of acts, the inducing must be intentional but not fraudulent or dishonest."

14. In Devender Kumar Singla Vs. Baldev Krishan Singh 2004 (2) JT 539 (SC), it was held that making of a false representation is one of the ingredients of offence of cheating.

15. In Indian Oil Corporation Vs. NEPC India Ltd., 2006(6) SCC 736 in similar circumstances of advancement of loan against hypothecation, the complainant relied on Illustrations (f) and (g) to Section 415, which read as under:

"(f) A intentionally deceives Z into a belief that A means to repay any money that Z may lend to him and thereby dishonestly induces Z to lend him money, A not intending to repay it. A cheats."

"(g). A intentionally deceives Z into a belief that A means to deliver to Z a certain quantity of indigo plant which he does not intend to deliver, and thereby dishonestly induces Z to advance money upon the faith of such delivery. A cheats; but if A, at the time of obtaining the money, intends to deliver the indigo plant, and afterwards breaks his contact and does not deliver it, he does not cheat, but is liable only to a civil action for breach of contract."

16. Court said that crux of the postulate is intention of the person who induces victim of his representation and not the nature of the transaction which would become decisive in discerning whether there was commission of offence or not. Court also referred to its earlier decisions in Rajesh Bajaj Vs. State NCT of Delhi,

1999(3) SCC 259 and held that it is not necessary that a complainant should verbatim reproduce in the body of his complaint all the ingredients of the offence he is alleging. Nor is it necessary that the complainant should state in so many words that the intention of the accused was dishonest or fraudulent.

17. In Vir Prakash Sharma Vs. Anil Kumar Agarwal and another, 2007(7) SCC 373 it was held that if no act of inducement on the part of accused is alleged and no allegation is made in the complaint that there was any intention to cheat from the very inception, the requirement of Section 415 read with Section 420 IPC would not be satisfied. The Court relied on the earlier decisions in Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma (supra) and Indian Oil Corporation Vs. NEPC India Ltd.(supra).

18. The aforesaid authorities have been referred to and relied on in reference to offence under Section 420 I.P.C. by a Division Bench of this Court in which one of us (Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.) was also a member in Sh. Suneel Galgotia and another Vs. State of U.P. and others 2016 (92) ACC 40.

19. Looking to allegation made in complaint and in the light of exposition of law in respect of Section 420 IPC, as discussed above, I find that in the present case there is no allegation of dishonest inducement on the part of applicants. The basic ingredients of Section 420 read with 415 IPC i.e. dishonest inducement to person so deceived to deliver any property is clearly absent.

20. Once necessary ingredient is absent, offence under the said provision cannot be made out. In R.K. Vijayasarathy and others vs. Sudha Seetharam and others 2019(3) SCALE 563, in similar circumstances, Supreme Court, in para 18 said :

"The condition necessary for an act to constitute an offence under Section 415 of the Penal Code is that there was dishonest inducement by the accused. The first respondent admitted that the disputed sum was transferred by the son of the appellants to her bank account on 17 February 2010. She alleges that she transferred the money belonging to the son of the appellants at his behest. No act on part of the appellants has been alleged that discloses an intention to induce the delivery of any property to the appellants by the first respondent. There is thus nothing on the face of the complaint to indicate that the appellants dishonestly induced the first respondent to deliver any property to them. Cheating is an essential ingredient to an offence under Section 420 of the Penal Code. The ingredient necessary to constitute the offence of cheating is not made out from the face of the complaint and consequently, no offence under Section 420 is made out." (emphasis added)

21. For constituting offence under Section 420 IPC, it has to be a Cheating and dishonest inducement for delivery of property. Cheating is defined in Section 415 IPC and ingredient, I have already discussed above, are not available in the case in hand. In fact complaint basically refers to offence under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1881") but Complainant having failed to act in accordance with requirement of Section 138 of Act, 1881 and was not in a position to lodge a complaint under the said provision, has implicated applicants under Sections 406, 420 IPC though from contents of complaint, ingredients of aforesaid provision are not satisfied at all. In the circumstances, proceedings against Accused-applicants under Section 420 IPC is illegal and gross abuse of process of law.

22. Similarly, Section 406 I.P.C. also I do not find is attracted in the case in hand. It talks of punishment for "criminal breach of trust" which is defined in Section 405 I.P.C. and both these provisions read as under:

"405. Criminal breach of trust.

Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits "criminal breach of trust".

Explanation 1.-- A person, being an employer of an establishment whether exempted under section 17 of the Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 (19 of 1952), or not, who deducts the employee's contribution from the wages payable to the employee for credit to a Provident Fund or Family Pension Fund established by any law for the time being in force, shall be deemed to have been entrusted with the amount of the contribution so deducted by him and if he makes default in the payment of such contribution to the said Fund in violation of the said law, shall be deemed to have dishonestly used the amount of the said contribution in violation of a direction of law as aforesaid.*

Explanation 2.-- A person, being an employer, who deducts the employees' contribution from the wages payable to the employee for credit to the Employees' State Insurance Fund held and administered by the Employees' State Insurance Corporation established under the Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948, shall be deemed to have been entrusted with the amount of the contribution so deducted by him and if he makes default in the payment of such contribution to the said Fund in violation of the said Act, shall be deemed to have dishonestly used the amount of the said contribution in violation of a direction of law as aforesaid."*

"406. Punishment for criminal breach of trust.

Whoever commits criminal breach of trust shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both."

23. In order to attract allegation of "criminal breach of trust", following things must exist :

i. Accused was entrusted with some property.

ii. Accused had dominion over certain property.

iii. Accused (i) misappropriated, (ii) converted to his own use, (iii) used or disposed off that property or wilfully suffered any person to dispose off that property.

iv. Accused did in violation of (i) any direction of law, (ii) any legal contract express or implied relating to carrying out the trust.

v. He did so dishonestly.

24. "Criminal breach of trust" talks of entrustment of property and dishonest misappropriation or conversion thereof for own use or dishonest use or disposal of property in violation of any direction of law prescribing mode in which property in which such trust is to be discharged, or of Accused-applicants to Complainant in respect whereof a cheque was issued by Accused-applicants being Cheque No.224449 dated 10.12.2008 for Rs.1,99,000/- payable at HDFC Bank but when it was submitted for collection, the same was dishonoured on the ground of 'insufficient fund'. Complainant again went to Accused-applicants, who issued another Cheque No.224450 dated 11.06.2009 for Rs.4,50,000/- payable at HDFC Bank but this was returned on the ground that account has been closed. There is no averment in the complaint that thereafter any demand was made by giving any notice, as provided under Section 138 of Act, 1881 and compliance thereof was made. Instead, Complainant has filed above complaint for trial under Section 406/506 IPC but Magistrate, after recording evidence under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., has summoned applicants under Sections 406, 420 IPC.

26. Section 406 IPC deals with offence of criminal breach of trust which is defined in Section 405 IPC. The first requirement of Section 406 IPC is 'entrustment of property' by victim to Accused but there is no such entrustment. As per complaint, dues payable by Accused-Applicants according to averments made by Complainant satisfy liability as 'debt' but cannot be treated to be entrustment of property by Complainant to Accused persons and when there is no entrustment, question of dishonest misappropriation or conversion of such property to own use by such persons does not arise. Even Explanation 1 and 2 of any legal contract by a person who has contravened the said provision.

25. Complaint in the present case shows that there was dues payable by Section 405 IPC are not attracted in the case in hand since there is no deduction of wages by employer for deposit in concern fund under Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 and Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948. Therefore, Section 406 is not at all attracted.

27. In view of discussions made hereinabove and considering the allegations contained in the complaint in the case in hand, in the light of above authorities, proceedings are liable to be quashed.

28. The application is allowed. Criminal proceedings in Complaint Case No. 2688 of 2011, Babu Lal Gaur vs. Smt. Archana Gupta and others, under Sections 406 and 420 IPC, pending in the Court of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate (Custom), Lucknow are hereby quashed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard Sri Suresh Kumar Verma, learned counsel for applicant, learned AGA for State and perused the material available on record.

2. Applicants Yashpal. Vikas and Subhash have filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., with the following prayer :-

"to quash the entire proceeding as well as charge sheet dated 10.08.2018 and cognizance order dated 23.07.2019 filed in Criminal Case No.207/9 of 2019 (State Vs. Subhash Chandra and others) arising out of Case Crime No.211 of 2018 under Section 308, 323, 504 I.P.C., Police Station- Rajpura, District- Bheem Nagar, pending in the court of Civil Judge (Senior Division)/ Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate Chandausi."

3. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the applicants are innocent and they have committed no offence. No case is made out under Section 308 I.P.C.. Investigating Officer did not collected proper evidence. This is a counter blast case. Victim has not been medically examined by the panel of the Doctors. As per injury report of injured Rahul, all the injuries found on his person hard and blunt object and simple in nature. He showed some document and statement in support of his contentions.

4. Learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer of application and submitted that as per supplementary report of victim Fracture temporal parietal bone and injury was found grevious in nature. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that applicants have committed crime. Investigating Officer rightly collected the evidence and finding sufficient evidence against accused submitted the charge-sheet. There is no illegality or irregularities in submitting the charge-sheet.

5. Brief facts of the case which need to be noted for disposal of present case are:-

On 12.06.2018 at about 08.30 P.M. accused Yaspal, Vikash and Subhash started abusing him. When he objected to abuse, all accused persons started beating him with lathi and danda causing serious head injury. Incident was witness by Nauvatram and Kaushal who saved him. Accused persons ran away extending thread to kill him. On the basis of medical report of victim, case was converted into the aforesaid section. Matter was investigated and Investigating Officer who collected the evidence and found sufficient evidence and submitted charge-sheet against the accused applicant which is under challenge in the present application.

6. As per injury report of injured Rahul three injuries were found on his person out of them one Traumatic swelling on the left side of skull injury was kept under observation and two others contusions.

7. I have considered the rival submissions made by the parties and perused the records.

8. Before I enter into the facts of the present case it is necessary to consider the ambit and scope of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. vested in the High Court. Section 482 Cr.P.C. saves the inherent power of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.

9. It is settled that the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is not to be exercised in a routine manner, but it is for limited purposes, namely, to give effect to any order under the Code, or to prevent abuse of process of any Court or otherwise to secure ends of justice.

10. Time and again, Apex Court and various High Courts, have reminded when exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. would be justified, which cannot be placed in straight jacket formula, but one thing is very clear that it should not pre-empt a trial and cannot be used in a routine manner so as to cut short the entire process of trial before the Courts below. If from a bare perusal of first information report or complaint, it is evident that it does not disclose any offence at all or it is frivolous, collusive or oppressive from the face of it, the Court may exercise its inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. but it should be exercised sparingly. This will not include as to whether prosecution is likely to establish its case or not, whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable appreciation of it, accusation would not be sustained, or the other circumstances, which would not justify exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (See : State of Haryana and others Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal and others 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 and Iridium India Telecom Ltd. Vs. Motorola Incorporated and Ors. 2011 (1) SCC 74.

11. In Anil Arya v. State of U.P. and Others, Criminal Revision No. 1216 of 2005, decided on 09.09.2016, this Court held as under :-

"Whether evidence is correct or not or credible enough or not to sustain conviction and punishment is a matter which would be seen after revisionist put in appearance, lead evidence and thereafter Trial Court examine the entire evidence and record its finding thereon, but at the stage of summoning of revisionist on the basis of aforesaid statement in Trial under Section 319 Cr.P.C., the probable defence of accused summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. cannot be examined for the first time in a revisional jurisdiction by this Court."

12. In Md. Allauddin Khan Vs. The State of Bihar and others, (2019) 6 SCC

107, Court observed as to what should be examined by High Court in an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and in paras 15, 16 and 17 said as under :-

"12. The High Court should have seen that when a specific grievance of the appellant in his complaint was that respondent Nos. 2 and 3 have committed the offences punishable under Sections 323, 379 read with Section 34 IPC, then the question to be examined is as to whether there are allegations of commission of these two offences in the complaint or not. In other words, in order to see whether any prima facie case against the accused for taking its cognizable is made out or not, the Court is only required to see the allegations made in the complaint. In the absence of any finding recorded by the High Court on this material question, the impugned order is legally unsustainable.

13. The second error is that the High Court in para 6 held that there are contradictions in the statements of the witnesses on the point of occurrence.

14. In our view, the High Court had no jurisdiction to appreciate the evidence of the proceedings under Section 482 of the Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short "Cr.P.C.") because whether there are contradictions or/and inconsistencies in the statements of the witnesses is essentially an issue relating to appreciation of evidence and the same can be gone into by the Judicial Magistrate during trial when the entire evidence is adduced by the parties. That stage is yet to come in this case."

13. In State of Haryana and others v. Bhajan Lal and others, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335, Court has elaborately considered the scope and ambit of Section 482 Cr.P.C. Although in the above case Court was considering the power of the High Court to quash the entire criminal proceeding including the FIR, the case arose out of an FIR registered under Section 161, 165 IPC and Section 5(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947. Court elaborately considered the scope of Section 482 Cr.P.C./ Article 226 of the Constitution of India in the context of quashing the proceedings in criminal investigation. After noticing various earlier pronouncements of Court, Court enumerated certain Categories of cases by way of illustration where power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. can be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of the Court or secure ends of justice. Paragraph 102 which enumerates 7 categories of cases where power can be exercised under Section 482 Cr.P.C. are extracted as follows:

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

14. From the perusal of allegations made in the F.I.R. and evidence collected by I.O. during investigation, it is not a case of grave injustice. not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code. Learned counsel for applicants could not show any irregularity and illegality to investigation.

15. The allegation levelled against them can be adjudicated only after the evidence and truthfulness of allegation cannot be considered in the proceeding under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before this Court and trial must go on.

16. Considering facts and circumstances of the case, allegation made in F.I.R., injury report of victim and legal preposition discussed herein before, application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. fails and is accordingly dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Shailendra Kumar Yadav and Mr. Mahesh Prasad Yadav, learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. Prashant Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State assisted by Mr. P.K. Shahi, learned special counsel for the State.

2. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the judgment and order dated 15th March, 2018 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad in Complaint Case No. 1521 of 2015 (Geetanjali Vs. Dr. R.P. Shukla & Others), whereby the complaint made by the applicant through an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. has been rejected. The applicant has also challenged the judgment and order dated 1st October, 2019 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.21, Allahabad in Criminal Revision No. 120 of 2018 (Geetanjali Vs. Dr. R.P. Shukla & Others) whereby the revision filed by the applicant has been dismissed and the judgment and order passed by the concerned Magistrate dated 15th March, 2018 has been affirmed.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the case of applicant is that the husband of applicant, namely, Shyamendra Kaushal became suddenly ill on 27th July, 2015, the applicant and her father-in-law, namely, Achhe Lal Yadav got him admitted in Emergency Ward of Nazreth Hospital for his medical aid after depositing requisite charges towards fees of emergency ward, medicines, doctors etc. Opposite party no.2, Dr. R.P. Shukla was assigned the work of medically treating the husband of the applicant. After medically test etc., opposite party no.2 told the applicant that presently the condition of her husband is normal and further asked the applicant to take him to her home and on the next day i.e. 28th July, 2015, she would take him to the OPD of the hospital, where he will medically examine him again, but seeing the condition of her husband, the applicant and other family members requested opposite party to admit her husband and provide medical aid for whole night. Consequently, the husband of the applicant was admitted by opposite party no.2 namely, Dr.R.P. Shukla and on his advise medicine was given to her husband and whole night treatment was continued but despite consuming medicine as per advise of the opposite party no.2 (Dr. R.P. Shukla), the health condition of her husband became critical, due to which a hot talk was exchanged between the applicant and the opposite party no.2. Because of aforesaid hot talk it appears that opposite party no.2 being the doctor might have provided noxious medicine to her husband deliberately and ultimately on 28th July, 2015 at about 04:00 p.m. her husband died in Nazreth Hospital, Allahabad. On being asked the reason by the applicant that at morning in pathology test report, ailment of malaria was reported and platelets were found less than accurate and the applicant thereafter had been praying for providing medicine for increasing platelets but all went in vain and after some time husband of the applicant died due to negligence and improper treatment of the opposite party no.2, therefore, for punishing him, the applicant has moved an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. on 17th September, 2015, but the same has been treated as a complaint case i.e. the present complaint case. With a view to prove prima facie negligence on the part of the opposite party no.2 and the management of Nazreth Hospital, the applicant got her statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. The applicant has also got examined Achhe Lal Yadav as P.W.-1 and another witness, namely, Amar Nath Yadav. The concerned Magistrate has proceeded further. However, without considering the contents of the application and statements of the witnesses, the concerned Magistrate has illegally rejected the complaint of the applicant filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.PC. The grounds mentioned in rejecting the complaint of the applicant are that on 12th October, 2015, the Chief Medical Officer, Allahabad was directed to constitute a medical board, which would conduct an enquiry with reference to the averments made in the complaint and submit report before the court of concerned Magistrate. It is further submitted that the report of the medical board appears to have submitted its report and about the cause of death the opinion of the medical board is mentioned in the impugned order. With reference to the report of the medical board, it is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that no notice was ever given to the applicant by the medical board, so that the applicant could have factual scenario and negligence of the opposite party no.2. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that in the judgment and order, there is no recital that the medical board has made an inquiry about the skill of opposite party no.2 as to whether he was competent person to exercise ordinary skill particularly with regard to ailment of applicant's husband.

4. It is lastly submitted that at the stage of issuing process, the concerned Magistrate is only required to be prima facie satisfied on the basis of allegations made in the complaint and entering into a detailed discussion of merits and demerits at this state is not permissible as held by the Apex Court in its various judgments. Both the courts below have committed manifest error in law and facts in dismissing the complaint case as framed and filed by the applicant.

5. On the commutative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the applicant urges that the both the impugned orders are liable to be quashed and the concerned Magistrate be directed to revisit the complaint filed by the applicant.

6. Per contra, Mr. Prashant Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that if the application under section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. contains the allegations of commission of a cognizable offence, then the Magistrate is under obligation to direct investigation after registration of the FIR in each and every case. It is then submitted that the present complaint case made by the applicant, namely, Geetanjali through an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. is nothing but a bundle of lie and the same has been made only for exploiting the opposite party nos. 2 and 3 by indulging their names in a fake, false and frivolous case. The entire prosecution story as unfolded in the present complaint case is absolutely a self-made story projected by the applicant. The application made by the applicant under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., which has been treated to be complaint case, has been filed after more than one month and twenty days from the date of death of the husband of the applicant. Neither in the affidavit filed in support of the present application nor in the application filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. by the applicant, there is any averment that initially the applicant has tried to lodge first information report before filing the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., which makes the prosecution case doubtful. Apart from the above, learned A.G.A. further submits that the court below has not found any substance in the prosecution case and he has rightly rejected the application of the applicant, which has been treated as complaint case, on the basis of enquiry report submitted by the Police and the report of the medical board submitted by the Chief Medical Officer, wherein it has been mentioned that due to septicemia, ARDS (Acute Respiratory Distress Syndrome), Fever Multi Organ Failure, husband of the applicant had expired. The court below has not committed any error while passing the impugned order. The court below has recorded pure finding of fact after relying upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Jacob Mathew Vs. State of Punjab & Others (Criminal Appeal No. 144-145/2004, decided on 5th August, 2005). The appellate court has also rightly rejected the appeal filed by the applicant and affirmed the order of the concerned Magistrate. He, therefore, submits that the impugned orders passed by the courts below are legal and just and the same do not warrant any interference by this Court.

7. I have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

8. In Mahboob and others vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2017 (2) JIC, 320, (All) (LB), specifically in paragraph Nos. 10, 11 and 12, this Court has observed as follows:-

"(10) Hon'ble Apex Court has further dealt with the nature of inquiry which is required to be conducted by the Magistrate and referring the case of Vijay Dhanuka (supra) it was held as under:

"14. In view of our answer to the aforesaid question, the next question which falls for our determination is whether the learned Magistrate before issuing summons has held the inquiry as mandated under Section 202 of the Code. The word "inquiry

" has been defined under Section 2(g) of the Code, the same reads as follows:

"2. (g) "inquiry' means every inquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Code by a Magistrate or court,"

It is evident from the aforesaid provision, every inquiry other than a trial conducted by the Magistrate or the court is an inquiry. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided under Section 202 of the Code. In the inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code, the witnesses are examined whereas under Section 200 of the Code, examination of the complainant only is necessary with the option of examining the witnesses present, if any. This exercise by the Magistrate, for purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, is nothing but an inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code."

(11) In the present case, the learned Magistrate has not conducted any inquiry so as to satisfy himself that the allegations in the complaint constitute an offence and when considered alongwith the statements recorded and the result of such inquiry. There is ground for proceedings against the petitioners under Section 204 CrPC. There is nothing on record to show that the learned Magistrate has applied his mind to arrive at a prima facie conclusion. It must be recalled that summoning of accused to appear the criminal court is a serious matter affecting the dignity self-respect and image in the society. A process of criminal court cannot be made a weapon of harassment.

(12) Learned Magistrate has passed a very cryptic order simply by saying that the statement of complainant as well as witnesses recorded under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC are perused and accused are summoned such order per se itself illegal which could not stand the test of law."

9. Reliance is also placed upon the judgement of this Court in the case of Smt. Shiv Kumar and others vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2017 (2) JIC, 589, (All) (LB). Paragraph No. 10 of the aforesaid judgement is relevant for the controversy in hand. The same is as under:-

"Learned Magistrate was required to atleast mention in the order about the prima facie satisfaction for summoning the accused. The order must reflect that the learned Magistrate has exercised his jurisdiction in accordance with law after satisfying himself about the prima facie allegations made in the complaint. The accused cannot be summoned mechanically merely by writing that perused the statements under Sections 200 and 202 Cr. P. C."

10. Reference may also be made to the judgement of this Court in the case of Hariram Verma and 4 Others Vs. State of U.P. and Anohter, reported in 2017 (99) ALL CC 104, wherein the following observations have been made in paragraphs 7 to 16:

"7. A perusal of this impugned summoning order indicates that learned Magistrate had noted in the impugned order the contents of complaint and evidences u/s 200 and 202 CrPC but had neither any discussion of evidence was made, nor was it considered as to what overt act had allegedly been committed by accused. This contention of learned counsel for the applicants cannot be ruled out that leaned counsel have noted the contents of complaint and statements without considering its probability or prima facie case, and whether he had actually considered statements u/ss 200, 202 CrPC or the documents of the original. At stage of summoning, the Magistrate is not required to meticulously examine or evaluate the evidence. He is not required to record detailed reasons. A brief order which indicate the application of mind is all that is expected of him at the stage.

8. But in impugned order there is nothing which may indicate that learned Magistrate had even considered facts of the case in hand before passing the summoning order. Impugned order clearly lacks the reflection of application of judicial discretion or mind. Nothing is there which may show that learned Magistrate, before passing of the order under challenge had considered facts of the case and evidence or law. Therefore it appears that, in fact, no judicial mind was applied before the passing of impugned order of summoning. Such order cannot be accepted as a proper legal judicial order passed after following due procedure of law.

9. In ruling "M/s. Pepsi Food Ltd. & another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate & others, 1998 UPCrR 118" Hon'ble Supreme Court held :-

"Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning the accused. Magistrate had to carefully scrutinize the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

10. In "Paul George vs. State, 2002 Cri.L.J. 996" Hon'ble Supreme Court held :-

"We feel that whatever be the outcome of the pleas raised by the appellant on merit, the order disposing of the matter must indicate application of mind to the case and some reasons be assigned for negating or accepting such pleas.- - - - - It is true that it may depend upon the nature of the matter which is being dealt with by the Court and the nature of the jurisdiction being exercised as to in what manner the reasons may be recorded e.g. in an order of affirmance detailed reasons or discussion may not be necessary but some brief indication by the application of mind may be traceable to affirm an order would certainly be required. Mere ritual of repeating the words or language used in the provisions, saying that no illegality, impropriety or jurisdictional error is found in the judgment under challenge without even a whisper of the merits of the matter or nature of pleas raised does not meet the requirement of decision of a case judicially."

11. In S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. Neeta Bhalla, (2005) 8 SCC 89 the Apex Court had held :

"Section 203 of the Code empowers a Magistrate to dismiss a complaint without even issuing a process. It uses the words "after considering" and "the Magistrate is of opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding". These words suggest that the Magistrate has to apply his mind to a complaint at the initial stage itself and see whether a case is made out against the accused persons before issuing process to them on the basis of the complaint. For applying his mind and forming an opinion as to whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding, a complaint must make out a prima facie case to proceed. This, in other words, means that a complaint must contain material to enable the Magistrate to make up his mind for issuing process. If this were not the requirement, consequences could be far-reaching. If a Magistrate had to issue process in every case, the burden of work before the Magistrate as well as the harassment caused to the respondents to whom process is issued would be tremendous. Even Section 204 of the Code starts with the words "if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence there is sufficient ground for proceeding". The words "sufficient ground for proceeding" again suggest that ground should be made out in the complaint for proceeding against the respondent. It is settled law that at the time of issuing of the process the Magistrate is required to see only the allegations in the complaint and where allegations in the complaint or the charge-sheet do not constitute an offence against a person, the complaint is liable to be dismissed."

12. It is settled principle that while summoning an accused, the court has to see prima facie evidence. The "prima facie evidence' means the evidence sufficient for summoning the accused and not the evidence sufficient to warrant conviction. The enquiry u/s 202 CrPC is limited only to ascertain of truth or falsehood of allegations made in the complaint and whether on the material placed by the complainant a prima facie case was made out for summoning the accused or not.

13. As held by the Courts as above, the passing of order of summoning any person as accused is a very important matter, which initiates criminal proceeding against him. Such orders cannot be passed summarily or without applying judicial mind.

14. In light of this legal position I have gone through the impugned order. A perusal of this order indicates that neither any discussion of evidence was made by learned, nor was it considered as to which accused had allegedly committed what overt act. The five accused persons of complaint were summoned for offences mentioned in it. Impugned order clearly lacks the reflection of application of judicial discretion or mind. Nothing is there which may show that learned Magistrate, before passing of the order under challenge had considered the facts and circumstances of the case and the evidence or the law. Therefore it appears that, in fact, no judicial mind was applied before the passing of impugned order of summoning. Such order cannot be accepted as a proper legal judicial order passed after following due procedure of law. Therefore it is liable to be quashed.

15. In Anita Malhotra v. Apparel Export Promotion Council, (2012) 1 SCC 520 the Apex Court had hld as under:

"20. As rightly stated so, though it is not proper for the High Court to consider the defence of the accused or conduct a roving enquiry in respect of merits of the accusation, but if on the face of the document which is beyond suspicion or doubt, placed by the accused and if it is considered that the accusation against her cannot stand, in such a matter, in order to prevent injustice or abuse of process, it is incumbent on the High Court to look into those document/documents which have a bearing on the matter even at the initial stage and grant relief to the person concerned by exercising jurisdiction u/s 482 of the Code."

16. Considering the uncontroverted averment of present petition u/s 482 CrPC as well as affidavit supporting it, the incorrect and unbelievable complaint case, and false implication of five petitioners and the general allegations levelled by informant in her FIR without allegations of any specific act, the incorrectness of cause of action for the complaint and considering the vagueness of information mentioned in complaint, and in light of verdict mentioned in aforesaid rulings of Hon'ble Apex Court, this appears to be a case in which applicants should succeed and the impugned summoning order as well as the complaint case are liable to be quashed.

11. From the perusal of the aforesaid laws laid down by the Apex Court, this Court is of the firm opinion that Section 203 of the Code empowers a Magistrate to dismiss a complaint without even issuing a process. It uses the words "after considering" and "the Magistrate is of opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding". These words suggest that the Magistrate has to apply his mind to a complaint at the initial stage itself and see whether a case is made out against the accused persons before issuing process to them on the basis of the complaint. For applying his mind and forming an opinion as to whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding, a complaint must make out a prima facie case to proceed. This, in other words, means that a complaint must contain material to enable the Magistrate to make up his mind for issuing process. If these were not the requirement, consequences could be far-reaching. If a Magistrate had to issue process in every case, the burden of work before the Magistrate as well as the harassment caused to the respondents to whom process is issued would be tremendous. Even Section 204 of the Code starts with the words "if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence there is sufficient ground for proceeding". The words "sufficient ground for proceeding" again suggest that ground should be made out in the complaint for proceeding against the opposite party/respondent. It is settled law that at the time of issuing of the process the Magistrate is required to see only the allegations in the complaint and where allegations in the complaint or the charge-sheet do not constitute an offence against a person, the complaint is liable to be dismissed.

12. From the aforesaid, this court finds substance in the submissions made by the learned A.G.A. for the State that entire prosecution story as unfolded in the present complaint case is absolutely a self-made story projected by the applicant. The application made by the applicant under Section 156 (3), which has been treated to be complaint case, has been filed after more than one month and twenty days from the date of death of the husband of the applicant. Neither in the affidavit filed in support of the present application nor in the application filed under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. by the applicant, there is any averment that initially the applicant has tried to lodge first information report before filing the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C.

13. In light of the above facts and above proposition of law, this Court is of the view that the court below has not found any substance in the prosecution case and he has rightly rejected the application of the applicant, which has been treated as complaint case, on the basis of enquiry report submitted by the Police and the report of the medical board submitted by the Chief Medical Officer, wherein it has been mentioned that due to septicemia, ARDS (Acute Respiratory Distress Syndrome), Fever Multi Organ Failure, husband of the applicant had expired. The appellate court has also rightly rejected the appeal filed by the applicant and affirmed the order of the concerned Magistrate. Both the courts below have not committed any error while passing the impugned orders. The court below have recorded pure finding of fact after relying upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Jacob Mathew Vs. State of Punjab & Others (Criminal Appeal No. 144-145/2004, decided on 5th August, 2005). Thus, the complaint of the applicant has rightly been rejected by the court below under the order impugned.

14. In light of above facts, this Court is of the view that both the orders impugned do not warrant any interference by this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The present application lacks merit and deserves to be dismissed. It is accordingly dismissed.

7.St. of Haryana & ors. Vs Bhajan Lal & ors. (1992) Supp (1) SCC 335

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajendra Kumar-IV, J.)

1. Heard Sri S. K. Tiwari, learned counsel for applicant, learned AGA for State and perused the material available on record.

2. Applicant has invoked jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "Cr.P.C.") challenging the order dated 31.08.2018, passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kannauj, in Complaint Case No. 2386 of 2017, Smt. Neeraj v. Rajeev Gupta and Another, under Sections 376-D and 506 IPC, Police Station Chhibramau, District Kannauj along with entire proceeding of the said case, whereby applicant has been summoned to face the trial under the aforesaid Sections.

3. Brief facts giving rise to present case are that the complainant-Smt. Neeraj moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the CJM concerned stating that on 4.9.2016, at about 7:30 pm, accused Rajeev Gupta and his friend Prashant came to her house by Car with driver and told that her brother was ill believing them she went with them by Car. They reached near Akbarpur stopped the Car at lonely place and accused persons Rajeev and Prashant molested her, put off her clothes by force and committed rape and took Rs. 9,000/- from her purse. Accused persons extended threat to kill her brother, if any complaint is made to anywhere. On the application of Informant, a Case Crime No. 99 of 2017 under the aforesaid sections in the Police Station concerned was registered. Matter was investigated by Investigating Officer who submitted final report. Protest application was made by Informant on the Final Report (FR) submitted by Investigating Officer, came to be registered as complaint case. Trial Court proceeded to record the statement of prosecutrix under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and statement of Shakuntala Devi (her mother) and Ishwari Devi under Section 202 Cr.P.C., found prima facie evidence and sufficient ground for proceedings, summoned the present applicant to face the trial under the aforesaid Sections by impugned order dated 31.8.2018, which is under challenge.

4. Informant herself supported the prosecution case in her statement under Section 202 Cr.P.C. and mainly stated that accused applicant along with other co-accused committed rape with her and took Rs. 9,000/- from her purse. Smt. Shakuntala and Ishwari Devi also supported the case before them that accused Rajeev and Prashant took victim with them by Car on the pretext that her brother was seriously ill. It is further stated in their statement that victim told them on returning that accused applicant and other co-accused committed rape with her.

5. Learned counsel for applicant submits that the applicant is innocent; he has committed no offence and has been falsely implicated in the present case by complainant. In the matter, Investigating Officer, finding no evidence during investigation submitted final report. It is further submitted that there is no medical of victim, no statement of victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C., there is no public witness of incident. It is a counter blast case because applicant has filed a complaint case against the mother of complainant prior to the present incident. Prosecution story is false and fake and sheer concoction.

6. It is further submitted that from the allegation made in application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and from the statement of victim and her witnesses, no case under Section 376-D and 506 IPC is made out but learned counsel for applicant showed some documents and statements in support of his contention. Despite repeated query by the Court whether these papers, which are being shown before this Court, have been brought to the notice of Magistrate before passing the summoning order or not? He remained silent and could not satisfy the query of the Court.

7. Learned AGA submitted that Trial Court, finding prima facie case and sufficient ground for proceedings against the applicant, summoned the accused-applicant for facing trial and all the submissions made by learned counsel for applicant relates to disputed question of fact which cannot be adjudged at this stage under Section 482 Cr.P.C. He further submitted that defence of learned counsel for applicant can be considered in Lower Court after the evidence is produced by both the parties.

8. I have considered the rival submissions made by the parties and perused the records.

9. Before I enter into the facts of the present case it is necessary to consider the ambit and scope of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. vested in the High Court. Section 482 Cr.P.C. saves the inherent power of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.

10. It is settled that the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is not to be exercised in a routine manner, but it is for limited purposes, namely, to give effect to any order under the Code, or to prevent abuse of process of any Court or otherwise to secure ends of justice.

11. Time and again, Apex Court and various High Courts, have reminded when exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. would be justified, which cannot be placed in straight jacket formula, but one thing is very clear that it should not pre-empt a trial and cannot be used in a routine manner so as to cut short the entire process of trial before the Courts below. If from a bare perusal of first information report or complaint, it is evident that it does not disclose any offence at all or it is frivolous, collusive or oppressive from the face of it, the Court may exercise its inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. but it should be exercised sparingly. This will not include as to whether prosecution is likely to establish its case or not, whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable appreciation of it, accusation would not be sustained, or the other circumstances, which would not justify exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (See : State of Haryana and others Vs. Ch. Bhajan Lal and others 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 and Iridium India Telecom Ltd. Vs. Motorola Incorporated and Ors. 2011 (1) SCC 74.

12. In Priya Vrat Singh and others vs. Shyam Ji Sahai, 2008 (8) SCC 232, Court observed that the inherent power should not be exercised to stifle a legitimate prosecution. The High Court being the highest court of a State should normally refrain from giving a prima-facie decision in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy, more so when the evidence has not been collected and produced before the Court and the issues involved, whether factual or legal, are of magnitude and cannot be seen in their true perspective without sufficient material. Of course, no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down in regard to cases in which the High Court will exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction of quashing the proceeding at any stage.

13. In M/s Eicher Tractor Ltd. And Others v. Harihar Singh and Another, 2009 (64) ACC 296, Court said in para 5 of the judgment, which reads as under :-

"5. Exercise of power under Section 482 of the Code in a case of this nature is an exception and not the rule. The section does not confer any new powers on the High Court. It only saves the inherent power which the Court possessed before the enactment of the Code. It envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised, namely, (i) to give effect to an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. It is neither possible nor desirable to lay down any inflexible rule which would govern the exercise of inherent jurisdiction. No legislative enactment dealing with procedure can provide for all cases that may possibly arise. Courts, therefore, have inherent powers apart from express provisions of law which are necessary for proper discharge of functions and duties imposed upon them by law. That is the doctrine which finds expression in the section which merely recognizes and preserves inherent powers of the High Courts. All courts, whether civil or criminal, possess, in the absence of any express provision, as inherent in their constitution, all such powers as are necessary to do the right and to undo a wrong in the course of administration of justice on the principle quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest (when the law gives a person anything it gives him that without which it cannot exist). While exercising powers under the section, the Court does not function as a court of appeal or revision. Inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. It is to be exercised ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone courts exist. Authority of the court exists for advancement of justice and if any attempt is made to abuse that authority so as to produce injustice, the court has power to prevent such abuse. It would be an abuse of process of the court to allow any action which would result in injustice and prevent promotion of justice. In exercise of the powers, court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation/continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. When no offence is disclosed by the complaint, the court may examine the question of fact. When a complaint is sought to be quashed, it is permissible to look into the materials to assess what the complainant has alleged and whether any offence is made out even if the allegations are accepted in toto."

14. In Anil Arya v. State of U.P. and Others, Criminal Revision No. 1216 of 2005, decided on 09.09.2016, this Court held as under :-

"Whether evidence is correct or not or credible enough or not to sustain conviction and punishment is a matter which would be seen after revisionist put in appearance, lead evidence and thereafter Trial Court examine the entire evidence and record its finding thereon, but at the stage of summoning of revisionist on the basis of aforesaid statement in Trial under Section 319 Cr.P.C., the probable defence of accused summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. cannot be examined for the first time in a revisional jurisdiction by this Court."

15. In Md. Allauddin Khan Vs. The State of Bihar and others, (2019) 6 SCC 107, Court observed as to what should be examined by High Court in an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and in paras 15, 16 and 17 said as under :-

"12. The High Court should have seen that when a specific grievance of the appellant in his complaint was that respondent Nos. 2 and 3 have committed the offences punishable under Sections 323, 379 read with Section 34 IPC, then the question to be examined is as to whether there are allegations of commission of these two offences in the complaint or not. In other words, in order to see whether any prima facie case against the accused for taking its cognizable is made out or not, the Court is only required to see the allegations made in the complaint. In the absence of any finding recorded by the High Court on this material question, the impugned order is legally unsustainable.

13. The second error is that the High Court in para 6 held that there are contradictions in the statements of the witnesses on the point of occurrence.

14. In our view, the High Court had no jurisdiction to appreciate the evidence of the proceedings under Section 482 of the Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short "Cr.P.C.") because whether there are contradictions or/and inconsistencies in the statements of the witnesses is essentially an issue relating to appreciation of evidence and the same can be gone into by the Judicial Magistrate during trial when the entire evidence is adduced by the parties. That stage is yet to come in this case."

16. In State of Haryana and others v. Bhajan Lal and others, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335, Court has elaborately considered the scope and ambit of Section 482 Cr.P.C. Although in the above case Court was considering the power of the High Court to quash the entire criminal proceeding including the FIR, the case arose out of an FIR registered under Section 161, 165 IPC and Section 5(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947. Court elaborately considered the scope of Section 482 Cr.P.C./ Article 226 of the Constitution of India in the context of quashing the proceedings in criminal investigation. After noticing various earlier pronouncements of Court, Court enumerated certain Categories of cases by way of illustration where power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. can be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of the Court or secure ends of justice. Paragraph 102 which enumerates 7 categories of cases where power can be exercised under Section 482 Cr.P.C. are extracted as follows:

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

17. From the perusal of allegations made in the complaint and statement of complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and his witnesses Shakuntala Devi (her mother) and Ishwari Devi under Section 202 Cr.P.C., it cannot be said that no prima facie case against the accused-applicant is made out. At the time of passing summoning order, Magistrate is only required to see prima facie evidence and sufficient ground for proceeding.

18. The allegation levelled against him can be adjudicated only after the evidence and truthfulness of allegation cannot be considered in the proceeding under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before this Court and trial must go on.

19. Considering facts and circumstances of the case, allegation made in complaint, statement of complainant and witnesses under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. respectively and legal preposition discussed herein before, application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. fails and is accordingly dismissed.

1. This Application, under Section 482 / 483 Cr.P.C., has been filed by applicant with a prayer for setting aside the order dated 01.08.2009, passed in Criminal Case No. 987 of 2009, State Vs. Manish Jain, under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506, 408 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, P.S. Hathras Gata, District Mahamayanagar.

2. Learned counsel for applicant argued that there had been a mediation in between, wherein Delhi High Court passed following order:-

"...The respondent, who is present in Court, submits that she is ready and willing to withdraw all pending cases. In respect of the F.I.R. lodged against the petitioner under Section 498-A I.P.C. etc., she submits that the petition had been drafted and had been provided to the petitioner. The petitioner submits that he has filed his own petition before the Allahabad High Court under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. being Crl. M.A. No.5330 of 2012. A copy of the order dated 10.2.2012 passed in those proceedings has been shown to the Court. It appears that the Court has directed the listing of the case after the expiry of four weeks time which was granted for filing of the counter affidavits. Since the period has expired, it appears that it is open to the parties to now again approach the Allahabad High Court to have the F.I.R. quashed. The parties agree that they would jointly move an application before the Allahabad for that purpose without any delay. The respondent states that she is willing to accompany the petitioner in the next week itself for moving the said application...."

It appears that this matrimonial dispute has been taken to mediation centre, Tis Hazari Court, Delhi wherein following compromise was filed:-

3. Despite this order, opposite party no. 2 has not filed joint affidavit before trial court. Applicant has given an accommodation for residence, in view of above mediation agreement, wherein she is residing. Huge amount of money has also been given to opposite party no. 2. But, in disregard of above settlement, entered in between, opposite party no. 2 is making hindrance in disposal of this case, whereas in a proceeding, in between, High Court of Delhi, has passed order on 06.09.2012 that respondent was present in Court and submitted that she is ready and willing to withdraw all pending cases in respect of F.I.R. lodged against petitioner under Section 498-A I.P.C. etc. She had submitted that mediation had been drafted and had been provided to the petitioner. The petitioner submitted that he had filed his own application before Allahabad High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. being Criminal Misc. Application No. 5330 of 2012. Meaning thereby, there had been mediation. Terms were agreed. It was there that this criminal proceeding shall be withdrawn. Opposite party no. 2 had made settlement before Delhi High Court in CONT. CAS(C) 789/2011 & CM APPL. 19484 of 2011 & CM APPL. 19793/12; Shikha Jain through Mr. A.K. Tripathi, Advocate Versus Munish Jain through Mr. Sunil Satyarthi, Advocate, but the recital entered in between is being retracted by opposite party no. 2, which she can never retract. This Court had ordered for disposal of this case, after disposal of Transfer Application, moved before apex court. The apex court vide order dated 21st February, 2017, passed in Transfer Petition (Criminal) No. 45 of 2016; Shikha Jain Vs. Munish Jain and another, has dismissed the transfer application with an option to the petitioner to approach this High Court for expeditious hearing of matter. Hence, now nothing remained for adjudication, but to quash the proceeding in view of agreement entered in mediation, in this matrimonial dispute, in view of law laid down in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab, (2012) 10 SCC 303.

4. Smt. Shikha Jain, in person, argued that mediation proceeding was taken at Delhi High Court. Therein agreement was there. Terms argued were very well there. The same were accepted before Delhi High Court, in above alleged proceeding. But this agreement was to reunite the family. It was very well written in mediation proceeding that husband will unite with his family and he will live together and on this assurance, above mediation agreement was occurred. But this was not complied with by husband. Money given was nothing new to be given, rather the fixed deposits and other securities, which were already in her name and were under custody of husband, were agreed and delivered to opposite party no. 2. A divorce petition by husband has been filed before Delhi High Court. Hence, mediation was denied by husband himself and in this criminal proceeding, no compromise was entered, in view of above defiance. Hence, this petition be dismissed.

5. Apex court in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab, (2012) 10 SCC 303 as well as many other cases has propounded that in matrimonial disputes, if the parties are amenable to compromise, then, even if offence, punishable under Section 498-A I.P.C. i.e. cruelty with regard to dowry, is not compoundable by Legislature, High Court of Judicature in exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. may quash proceeding for peaceful living of family. This power is there in High Court, under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

6. Section 320 of the Code articulates public policy with regard to the compounding of offences. It catalogues the offences punishable under IPC which may be compounded by the parties without permission of the Court and the composition of certain offences with the permission of the court. The offences punishable under the special statutes are not covered by Section 320. When an offence is compoundable under Section 320, abatement of such offence or an attempt to commit such offence or where the accused is liable under Section 34 or 149 of the IPC can also be compounded in the same manner. A person who is under 18 years of age or is an idiot or a lunatic is not competent to contract compounding of offence but the same can be done on his behalf with the permission of the court. If a person is otherwise competent to compound an offence is dead, his legal representatives may also compound the offence with the permission of the court. Where the accused has been committed for trial or he has been convicted and the appeal is pending, composition can only be done with the leave of the court to which he has been committed or with the leave of the appeal court, as the case may be. The revisional court is also competent to allow any person to compound any offence who is competent to compound. The consequence of the composition of an offence is acquittal of the accused. Sub-section (9) of Section 320 mandates that no offence shall be compounded except as provided by this Section. Obviously, in view thereof the composition of an offence has to be in accord with Section 320 and in no other manner.

7. Compounding of offence, as has been given by Legislature in Section 320 Cr.P.C., has given first table, wherein few of offences are to be compounded, upon the consent and option of victims. In the second table, offences are compoundable on the option of victim with permission of Court concerned. Those offences are of grave nature, but with permission of Court, offence given in second table, may be compounded. Regarding those offences, which have not been compoundable, under provision of Legislature, this law has been developed by apex court that where union of family seems to be probable and the dispute is of matrimonial nature and they are not of heinous offence, then in the interest of justice, with a view to avoid children from any ruin, out of dispute in between parents, the offence punishable under Section 498-A I.P.C or likewise, which are not of grave consequences and effect into society, may be quashed, in exercise of inherent jurisdiction of High Court acknowledged under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Under this provision of law, developed by Hon'ble Apex Court, quashing of proceeding for offence of dowry demand and cruelty etc., where compromise has been entered in between, are being made by High Court, though it is not within domain of trial court Magistrate or Sessions Judge.

8. Section 482 of the Code, as its very language suggests, saves the inherent power of the High Court which it has by virtue of it being a superior court to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It begins with the words, "nothing in this Code' which means that the provision is an overriding provision. These words leave no manner of doubt that none of the provisions of the Code limits or restricts the inherent power. The guideline for exercise of such power is provided in Section 482 itself i.e., to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. As has been repeatedly stated that Section 482 confers no new powers on High Court; it merely safeguards existing inherent powers possessed by High Court necessary to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or to secure the ends of justice. It is equally well settled that the power is not to be resorted to if there is specific provision in the Code for the redress of the grievance of an aggrieved party. It should be exercised very sparingly and it should not be exercised as against the express bar of law engrafted in any other provision of the Code.

9. In different situations, the inherent power may be exercised in different ways to achieve its ultimate objective. Formation of opinion by the High Court before it exercises inherent power under Section 482 on either of the twin objectives, (i) to prevent abuse of the process of any court or (ii) to secure the ends of justice, is a sine qua non.

10. In the very nature of its constitution, it is the judicial obligation of the High Court to undo a wrong in course of administration of justice or to prevent continuation of unnecessary judicial process. This is founded on the legal maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, conceditur et id sine qua res ipsa esse non potest. The full import of which is whenever anything is authorised, and especially if, as a matter of duty, required to be done by law, it is found impossible to do that thing unless something else not authorised in express terms be also done, may also be done, then that something else will be supplied by necessary intendment. Ex debito justitiae is inbuilt in such exercise; the whole idea is to do real, complete and substantial justice for which it exists. The power possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Code is of wide amplitude but requires exercise with great caution and circumspection.

11. It needs no emphasis that exercise of inherent power by the High Court would entirely depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. It is neither permissible nor proper for the court to provide a straitjacket formula regulating the exercise of inherent powers under Section 482. No precise and inflexible guidelines can also be provided.

12. In present case, the compromise agreed at Mediation Centre of Delhi High Court, is with specific recital that family will unite. Husband and wife along with children will reunite and all cases filed by wife including that civil case, wherein mediation was referred, will be withdrawn. There were all prospective acts to be taken, but this all was with prime condition of union of family, but admittedly union of family did not occur, rather a proceeding for divorce has been filed and is pending. Hence, the terms, for which, there was mediation and agreement, could not be fulfilled. The mediation proceeding took place on the reference made in a civil case by Civil Judge before Mediation Centre of Delhi High Court, wherein other cases were also taken in reference including present case. Parties entered in agreement that the family will unite. Husband and wife along with children will live together and wife will withdraw her all cases. Money etc., as per above agreement written, as above, was to be exchanged. But, admittedly the union of family could not be happened, rather divorce petition has been filed by husband. Hence, above mediation agreement could not be complied by both sides. But, in this criminal case, for compounding, as per Section 320 Cr.P.C., the fact of compromise, entered voluntarily and duly verified by Magistrate, in presence of both sides, is required and the same is not there. Admittedly, neither parties have filed a compromise duly and freely entered in between before court of Magistrate, before whom this trial is pending nor it has been verified by trial court concerned. Hence, this Court, in exercise of inherent jurisdiction, under Section 482 Cr.P.C., is not to embark upon question of fact, because it may prejudice fair trial and it remain within domain of trial court, which is to be decided on the basis of evidence led by parties before trial court, but apparently there was an F.I.R. of demand of dowry coupled with cruelty and it was registered as case crime number, wherein investigation was made. There was statement of informant victim with other witnesses, examined under Section 161 Cr.P.C., and on the basis of these evidence, collected by Investigating Officer, charge sheet was submitted, whereupon cognizance has been taken by Magistrate concerned. Hence, prima facie there was evidence for taking of cognizance and it was taken. Now compromise is not there. Hence, nothing appears to be abuse of process of law. Accordingly, this application merits its dismissal. The application is dismissed as such.

Application allowed. (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned A. G. A. and perused the record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr. P. C. has been filed by applicants with a prayer for quashing the entire proceedings of NCR No. 193 of 2015 (State vs. Savita Devi and another), under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C., P.S. Rohniya, district-Varanasi, pending in the court of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi.

3. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that initially an NCR was lodged by the opposite party no. 2 at P.S.- Rohniya, district-Varanasi in the aforesaid case. However, after completion of investigation charge sheet was submitted by the Investigation Officer under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the offence under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C. is non-cognizable, hence in view of the Explanation to Section 2 (d) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the case could not proceed as State Case and it has to proceed as a complaint case. He further submitted that the learned Magistrate has erroneously taken the charge-sheet as a State case.

5. Learned A. G. A. vehemently opposed the submissions made by learned counsel for the applicants.

6. It is not disputed that the offence under Sections 323 and 504 I. P. C. is non-cognizable.

7. Explanation to Section 2 (d) of the Cr. P. C. runs as under:

"Explanation- A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant." 8. In view of the said Explanation, report of the police officer after investigation disclosing commission of non-cognizable offence is to be deemed to be a complaint and the police officer who submitted the report has to be deemed to be a complainant. In other words the charge-sheet submitted by the police in a non-cognizable offence shall be treated to be a complaint and the procedure prescribed for hearing of complaint case shall be applicable to that case."

9. In the present case from the material brought on record it transpires that the charge-sheet submitted by the Investigating Officer instead of being treated as a complaint, has been treated as a State Case by the concerned Magistrate, which is not permissible under law.

10. In view of the discussions made above, this Court came to the conclusion that impugned order of cognizance and summoning order dated 01.04.2017 upon charge-sheet in a case arising out of NCR in respect of bailable and non-cognizable offences is wrong and incorrect and is liable to be quashed.

11. The application is allowed accordingly and the impugned order dated 01.04.2017 is quashed with a direction to learned Magistrate for passing appropriate order in accordance with law as well as provisions of explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C.

12. Let a copy of this order be sent to court below for proceeding with the case in accordance with law.

The Magistrate has taken cognizance without considering the provisions of Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. and its explanation clause. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A.

2. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the order dated 21.10.2019 passed by the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 5, Meerut in Case No. 25579 of 2018 (State Vs. Rajiv Kaushik), arising out of Case Crime No. 0249 of 2018, under Sections 323, 506 of IPC, PS Civil Lines, District Meerut along with entire proceedings.

3. By the impugned order dated 21.10.2019 the application moved by the accused applicant in relation to Section 2 (d) has been rejected by the learned Trial Court.

4. The learned counsel for accused applicant submits that the offences as alleged are non conginzable and therefore neither the charge sheet could have been submitted by the Investigating Officer nor the learned Magistrate could have taken cognizance in view of Section 2(d) of Cr.P.c. and it was further submitted that only course open to the learned Magistrate was to have treated it as a complaint case and, accordingly, ought to have proceeded with in accordance with law.

5. On the other hand, the learned AGA appearing for the State submits that the impugned order passed by the learned Magistrate is perfectly valid and correct as it was passed in consonance with the ratio of the judgments passed by this Court in Raj Kapoor @ Lallu Vs. State of U.P. and another, 2017 (1) JIC 322, Allahabad and others and has further contended that the relief sought by means of this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing of the impugned order is malafide, misconceived and the application is liable to be dismissed.

6. In this matter it is necessary to have a glance on Section 2 (d) of Cr.P.C., therefore, the relevant provisions of the same are being reproduced below:-

Section 2(d) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973

2. Definitions. - In this Code, unless the context otherwise requires, -

(d) "complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report.

Explanation*. - A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognisable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant."*

7. It is settled position of law that the offences under Sections 323 and 504 of IPC are bailable and non-cognizable. Therefore, the Explanation to Section 2 (d) is applicable. The offence under Section 323 of IPC is bailable and non cognizable and Section 506 is cognizable and non bailable and not compoundable. So the provisions of Explanation to Section 2 (d) are not applicable to the present case. Offence under Section 506 IPC has been made non bailable and congnizable vide Notification 777/VIII 9-4 (2)87 dated 31.07.1989 published in Gazette, Extra, Pt-A Section (Kha) dated 2nd August, 1989 and the provisions of Section 2 (d) of Cr.P.C. do not apply to the present case.

8. In the case of Mata Sevak Upadhyaya and another Vs. State of U.P. and others, 1995 JIC 1168 (Alld.) wherein the validity of the above provisions was upheld observing that the above notification still holds good and has not been deleted or withdrawn in pursuance of the Division Bench judgment in the case of Virendra Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2002 (45) ACC 609.

9. Having heard the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and also having gone through the record of the case, the controversy involved in this case has to be decided taking into consideration the relevant statutory provisions of Section 10 of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932, Section 506 of I.P.C., as also relevant part of Ist Schedule of Cr.P.C. relating to the offence under Section 506 IPC with State Amendment, as well as the provisions of Section 2 (d) of Cr.P.C. are being reproduced for ready reference as under:-

Section 2(d) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973

2. Definitions.--In this Code, unless the context otherwise requires,--*

(d) "complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report.

Explanation.- A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non- cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant."*

10. Regard being had to the aforesaid statutory provisions, this Court finds that though in the Ist Schedule of Cr.P.C. , the offence under Section 506 I.P.C. is described as non-cognizable and bailable but by virtue of Section 10 of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932 the same was made cognizable and non-bailable in U.P. by the U.P. Government Notification no.777/VIII-9-4(2)87 dated 31.07.1989. Section 10 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932 gives power to the State Government to declare certain offences including offences under Section 506 IPC to be cognizable and non-bailable and it provided that on issuance of such notification the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 shall stand amended accordingly.

11. The Full Bench of this Court has considered the legality and validity of this notification in the case of Mata Sewak Upadhyay and another versus State of U.P. and others (supra) and it has been laid down by the Full Bench that Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932 is not merely an Amending Act but that is a blend of substantive provisions as well as the provisions amending Cr.P.C. of 1898. So the Act of 1932 is still on the statute book, notwithstanding the repeal of Cr.P.C. 1898. It was further held by the Full Bench that applying the rule of construction as laid down in Section 8 of the General Clauses Act, it becomes clear that the notification issued u/s 10 with reference to Cr.P.C. 1998 should be read as having been issued with reference to the Cr.P.C. 1973 and that the law has to be construed in such a fashion as to make it workable and enforceable, than to make it redundant. It was also held by the Full Bench of this Court that Section 10 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932 and Government Notification no.777/VIII-94 (2)-87 dated 2.8.1998 making Section 506 I.P.C. cognizable and non-bailable offence are valid.

12. Again an occasion arose for consideration of the above matter before this Court and this Court in the case of Parveen Kumar and others Vs. State of U.P. and another, ADJ 2011 (5) 418, wherein it was observed that since the Full Bench decision of this Court in Mata Sevak Upadhyaya and another Vs. State of U.P. and others (supra) has not been overruled or the learned counsel for the applicant has not stated that above decision has been set aside by the Apex Court, so the decision of Division Bench in Virendra Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others (supra) case cannot given effect.

13. From a perusal of judgment of Virendra Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others (supra) case, it is clear that the Full Bench decision of this Court in the case of Mata Sevak Upadhyaya and another Vs. State of U.P. and others (supra) was not brought before the Division Bench and, it was neither considered nor discussed nor distinguished by the Division Bench.

14. In the result, I am of the considered view that offence under Section 506 I.P.C. may not be treated as non-cognizable as per submissions made by the learned counsel for the applicant and since the offence under Section 506 I.P.C. has been made, cognizable, non-bailable and non-compoundable vide above mentioned notification in the State of U.P., the provisions of Section 2 (d) of Cr.P.C. do not apply to the present case and so the impugned order dated 29.6.2015 of cognizance passed by Judicial Magistrate may not be considered to be wrong and illegal and is not liable to be quashed.

15. In view of the discussions made above, I find that the applicant has failed to show that in view of decision in Virendra

Singh' s case (supra) or provisions of Section 2 (d) of Cr.P.C., the impugned order of cognizance dated 21.10.2019 passed upon submission of charge-sheet under Sections 323 and 506 of IPC is perfectly valid and no abuse of process of law is evident or apparent from the impugned order. It does not require the exercise of inherent power by this Court for securing the ends of justice. The application is devoid of merits and is liable to be dismissed.

16. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed accordingly.

17. However, if the applicant appears before the Court below and moves application for bail, the same shall be disposed of expeditiously, in accordance with law.

7.Bodhi Sattwa Gautam Vs Subhra Chakraborty AIR (1996) SC 922

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mrs. Swati Agrawal Srivastava, learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Rabindra Kumar Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate assisted by Sri Prashant Kumar Singh, learned Brief Holder for the State/opposite party no.1 and perused the record with the assistance of learned counsel for the parties.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicants to quash the entire proceedings of case no. 10 of 2020 (State Vs. Ram Milan @ Pintu and others) arising out of case crime no. 301 of 2019, under Sections 323, 328, 376, 120B IPC, Police Station Pipari, District - Kaushambi pending in the court of learned Magistrate, Kaushambi.

3. In short compass, the facts of this case are that FIR of the prosecutrix/opposite party no.2 was registered on 30.07.2019 through an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. dated 24.06.2019 with regard to alleged incident dated 21.12.2016 making allegation inter-alia that her father was admitted in P.G.I., Lucknow. She along with her husband (applicant no.2) had gone to see and take care of him on 21.12.2016. On returning in the night at about 9.00 P.M., her husband took her in the house of applicant no.3, where she was stayed in the night. Accused persons fed her at night mixing alcoholic substance in the food, due to which she fell asleep. Next day in the morning when she wake up, she found her in naked condition and accused-applicants were found standing there. It is further alleged that on raising objection by her, she was shown a video by the applicants and threatened that if she will disclose anything, the said video will be uploaded on Whatsapp, Facebook and it will be given to all news channels. It is also alleged that she was afraid and applicant no.3 (Ram Bahadur) used to commit rape upon her in collusion with applicant nos. 1 and 2, because her husband (applicant no.2) was having illicit relation with applicant no.1 (wife of applicant no.3/Ram Bahadur). It is also alleged that on 25.05.2019, when she was alone in her house, the applicants along with unknown persons came there and insisted her to have sex with that unknown persons. On making resistance, she was beaten by them and thereafter on 26.05.2019 she went to her Maika saving her life and told her mother what had happened with her. It is also mentioned that on 3.6.2019 information about the said incident was given by prosecutrix/opposite party no.2 personally to Superintendent of Police, Kaushambi as well as other officers, sending her application by registered post, but no action was taken. Thereafter, she moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the Magistrate concerned seeking direction to get her First Information Report registered. During investigation, statement of victim/prosecutrix under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 1.8.2019 and statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 13.08.2019, in which she has reiterated her version as mentioned in the FIR. X-ray of the prosecutrix was done on 8.8.2019 and as per radiological report, age of the prosecutrix was found 20-25 years. Investigating Officer, after investigation submitted charge-sheet dated 11.01.2020 against applicant nos. 1 and 2 under Sections 323, 328, 120B IPC and against applicant no.3 under Sections 323, 328, 376, 120B IPC.

4. On the aforesaid fact, it is submitted by learned counsel for the applicants that applicant no.1 is cousin sister-in-law (Jethani), applicant no.2 is husband and applicant no.3 is cousin brother-in-law (Jeith) of the prosecutrix/opposite party no.2. There is a family dispute between the applicant no.2 and opposite party no.2, therefore, applicants have been falsely implicated in this case. There are major contradiction in the version of FIR, statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. of the victim/prosecutrix. Statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of victim was recorded on 13.08.2019, in which she has stated that since last four months she is living in her Maika. Giving much emphasis on the said averment, it is submitted by learned counsel for the applicants that meaning thereby since April, 2019 she was living in her parental house (Maika), but in the FIR she has shown one of the incident dated 25.05.2019 and also mentioned that she went to her Maika on 26.05.2019. As such, one of the date of incident is not corroborated from the statement of victim. It is also submitted that since the opposite party no.2 has no brother and she has three sisters, therefore, opposite party no.2 and her parents were insisting applicant no.2 (husband of victim) to live in in-law's house, but on refusal of the said proposal of opposite party no.2 by the applicant no.2, the dispute arose between them. It is also submitted that so far as allegation of making video is concerned, there is no alleged video clipping is on record in this case, while charge-sheet has been submitted in the present case. It is further submitted that though the allegations have been levelled against the applicants, but there is no corroborative evidence on record in support thereof. It is next submitted that in the medical examination report dated 7.8.2019 of victim, no external or internal injury has been found. It is further submitted that applicants, namely, Hemlata, Ram Milan @ Pintu and Ram Bahadur have already been granted bail vide orders dated 6.1.2020, 17.1.2020 and 20.12.2019 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application Nos. 56539 of 2019, 2698 of 2020 and 57610 of 2019 respectively by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court. The prosecution story as set up by opposite party no.2 in order to settle her personal score is not liable to be believed and criminal proceedings in this case against the applicants is nothing but abuse of the process of the Court, therefore, same is liable to be quashed. Lastly, it is submitted that in case this Court is not inclined to quash the proceedings, then this matter may be referred to mediation and conciliation center of this Court, because applicants are also willing to settle the issue by way of compromise/mediation.

5. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State of U.P. refuting the submissions advanced on behalf of the applicants submitted that upon perusal of First Information Report and on the basis of the allegations made therein as well as material evidence against the accused-applicants, as per prosecution case, the cognizable offence against the applicants is made out. The criminal proceedings against the applicants cannot be said to be abuse of the process of the Court. Hence, this application is liable to be dismissed. It is also pointed out that in the present application charge-sheet dated 11.01.2020 filed against the accused-applicants has not been challenged, therefore, prayer of the applicants to quash the entire criminal proceedings of the case, without challenging the charge-sheet filed against them, is not maintainable.

6. After having heard the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and perusing the entire record, I find that there is specific allegation of committing rape upon the victim/opposite party no.2 against applicant no.3 (Ram Bahadur). The connivance and involvement of applicant nos. 1 and 2 in the aforesaid incident has also been mentioned in the First Information Report showing the motive against the applicants mentioning that since her husband (applicant no.2) is having illicit relation with applicant no.1 (wife of applicant no.3), therefore, applicant nos. 1 and 2 in lieu thereof were insisting the victim to establish physical relationship with applicant no.3 (Ram Bahadur). I also find that in this case, allegation of wife swapping has been levelled by the victim/opposite party no.2 against the accused-applicants. Victim in her statements under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. have supported the prosecution case reiterating the main allegations against the accused-applicants. At the time of medical examination of victim, the doctor concerned has also noted the brief description of the incident as narrated by the victim, in which also, victim has made similar allegation against the applicants. Though, it is submitted from the side of accused-applicants that it is a family dispute, but no documentary evidence has been brought on record alongwith this application except oral submissions made on behalf of the applicants. The grounds taken in the application reveal that many of them relate to disputed question of fact. This Court is of the view that it is well settled that the appreciation of evidence is a function of the trial court. This Court in exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. cannot assume such jurisdiction and put to an end to the process of trial provided under the law. It is also settled by the Apex Court in catena of judgments that the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. at pre-trial stage should not be used in a routine manner but it has to be used sparingly, only in such an appropriate cases, where it manifestly appears that there is a legal bar against the institution or continuance of the criminal proceedings or where allegations made in First Information Report or charge-sheet and the materials relied in support of same, on taking their face value and accepting in their entirety, do not disclose the commission of any offence against the accused. The disputed questions of facts and defence of the accused cannot be taken into consideration at this pre-trial stage. Factual submissions and defence as raised in the application can be more appropriately gone into by the trial court at the appropriate stage. The applicants have an alternative statutory remedy of moving discharge application at the appropriate stage.

7. The Apex Court in the case of Md. Allauddin Khan Vs. The State of Bihar and others 2019 (6) SCC 107 has laid down the jurisdiction of High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The observation made by the Apex Court in paragraph No.17 is reproduced herein below:

"In our view, the High Court had no jurisdiction to appreciate the evidence of the proceedings under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short "Cr.P.C.") because whether there are contradictions or/and inconsistencies in the statements of the witnesses is essentially an issue relating to appreciation of evidence and the same can be gone into by the Judicial Magistrate during trial when the entire evidence is adduced by the parties. That stage is yet to come in this case."

8. The Apex Court on 31.01.2020 in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Yogendra Singh Jadon and another passed in Criminal Appeal No. 175 of 2020 has held that 'power under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure cannot be exercised where the allegations are required to be proved in court of law'.

9. Recently on 11.02.2020, the Apex Court in case of Rajeev Kourav Vs. Baisahab and others passed in Criminal Appeal No. 232 of 2020 (arising out of S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 1174 of 2017) has held that quashing the criminal proceedings by the High Court on the basis of its assessment of the statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is not proper. The relevant paragraph nos. 8, 9, 10 and 11 of the aforesaid judgment are as under:-

"8. We do not agree with the submissions made on behalf of Respondent Nos.1 to 3. The conclusion of the High Court to quash the criminal proceedings is on the basis of its assessment of the statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC. Statements of witnesses recorded under Section 161 CrPC being wholly inadmissible in evidence cannot be taken into consideration by the Court, while adjudicating a petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

9. Moreover, the High Court was aware that one of the witnesses mentioned that the deceased informed him about the harassment meted out by Respondent Nos.1 to 3 which she was not able to bear and hence wanted to commit suicide. The High Court committed an error in quashing criminal proceedings by assessing the statements under Section 161 Cr. P.C.

10. We have not expressed any opinion on the merits of the matter. The High Court ought not to have quashed the proceedings at this stage, scuttling a full-fledged trial in which Respondent Nos.1 to 3 would have a fair opportunity to prove their innocence.

11. For the aforementioned reasons, the judgment of the High Court is set aside and the Appeal is allowed."

10. So far as submission of learned counsel for the applicants that the applicants are willing to settle the issue by way of compromise/settlement is concerned, it is relevant to mention that Three Judge Bench of the Apex Court in the matter of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Laxmi Narayan and others AIR 2019 SC 1296 considering the guideline laid down by the Apex Court in case of Parbatbhai Aahir Vs. State of Gujarat (2017) 9 SCC 641 has ruled that the criminal proceedings for the offence of "rape" cannot be quashed merely on the basis of compromise made between the victim and offender. The guideline laid down by the Apex Court in paragraph 13 of the said judgment is reproduced herein-below:-

"13. Considering the law on the point and the other decisions of this Court on the point, referred to hereinabove, it is observed and held as under:

i) that the power conferred under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings for the non-compoundable offences under Section 320 of the Code can be exercised having overwhelmingly and predominantly the civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes and when the parties have resolved the entire dispute amongst themselves;

ii) such power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involved heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society;

iii) similarly, such power is not to be exercised for the offences under the special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender;

iv) offences under Section 307 IPC and the Arms Act etc. would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone, and therefore, the criminal proceedings for the offence under Section 307 IPC and/or the Arms Act etc., which have a serious impact on the society cannot be quashed in exercise of powers under Section 482 of the Code, on the ground that the parties have resolved their entire dispute amongst themselves. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to framing the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. However, such an exercise by the High Court would be permissible only after the evidence is collected after investigation and the charge sheet is filed/charge is framed and/or during the trial. Such exercise is not permissible when the matter is still under investigation. Therefore, the ultimate conclusion in paragraphs 29.6 and 29.7 of the decision of this Court in the case of Narinder Singh (supra) should be read harmoniously and to be read as a whole and in the circumstances stated hereinabove;

v) while exercising the power under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings in respect of non-compoundable offences, which are private in nature and do not have a serious impart on society, on the ground that there is a settlement/compromise between the victim and the offender, the High Court is required to consider the antecedents of the accused; the conduct of the accused, namely, whether the accused was absconding and why he was absconding, how he had managed with the complainant to enter into a compromise etc."

11. Here it is also apposite to mention that in case of Ramphal Vs. State of Haryana AIR Online 2019 SC 1716 it was brought to the notice of the Apex Court that during pendency of appeal, the appellants, who have been convicted by the trial court, have paid Rs. 1.5 lakhs each in favour of the prosecutrix and she has accepted the same willingly for getting the matter compromised. On the said fact, the Apex Court has observed that "it is imperative to emphasis that we do not accept such compromise in matters relating to offence of rape and similar cases of sexual assault".

12. Apex Court on 10.02.2020 in case of Arun Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. through its Secretary and another passed in Criminal Appeal No. 250 of 2020 while considering case under Section 493 I.P.C. and 3 read with Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act did not approve the issue of compromise in such offences, which are against the society and not private in nature. The relevant observation made by the Apex Court in paragraph no. 15 of the said judgment is quoted herein-below:-

"15. Bearing in mind the above principles which have been laid down, we are of the view that offences for which the appellants have been charged are infact offences against society and not private in nature. Such offences have serious impact upon society and continuance of trial of such cases is founded on the overridding effect of public interests in punishing persons for such serious offences. It is neither an offence arising out of commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or such similar transactions or has any element of civil dispute thus it stands on a distinct footing. In such cases, settlement even if arrived at between the complainant and the accused, the same cannot constitute a valid ground to quash the F.I.R. or the charge sheet".

13. In Bodhi Sattwa Gautam Vs. Subhra Chakraborty, AIR 1996 SC 922, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed, inter alia, as under:-

"Unfortunately, a woman, in our country, belongs to a class or group of society who are in a disadvantaged position on account of several social barriers and impediments and have, therefore, been the victim of tyranny at the hands of men with whom they, fortunately, under the Constitution enjoy equal status. Women also have the right to life and liberty; they also have the right to be respected and treated as equal citizens. Their honour and dignity cannot be touched or violated. They also have the right to lead an honourable and peaceful life.

Women, in them, have many personalities combined. They are mother, daughter, sister and wife and not play things for centre spreads in various magazines, periodicals or newspapers nor can they be exploited for obscene purposes. They must have the liberty, the freedom and, of course, independence to live the roles assigned to them by nature so that the society may flourish as they alone have the talents and capacity to shape the destiny and character of men anywhere and in every part of the world.

Rape is thus not only a crime against the person of a woman (victim), it is a crime against the entire society. It destroys the entire psychology of a woman and pushes her into deep emotional crisis. It is only by her sheer will-power that she rehabilitates herself in the society which, on coming to know of the rape, looks down upon her in derision and contempt. Rape is, therefore, the most hated crime. It is a crime against basic human rights and is also violative of the victim's most cherished of the Fundamental Rights, namely, the Right to Life contained in Article 21. To many feminists and psychiatrists, rape is less a sexual offence than an act of aggression aimed at degrading and humiliating women. The rape laws do not, unfortunately, take care of the social aspect of the matter and are inept in many respects."

14. Sexual offences constitute an altogether different class of crime which is the result of a perverse mind. By their very nature these crimes cannot be treated at par with matrimonial offence. Sexual violence apart from being a dehumanizing act is an unlawful intrusion of the right of privacy and sanctity of a female and is a serious blow to her supreme honor offending her self-esteem and dignity. Allowing quashing of charge-sheet, pursuant to a compromise, will, in such cases, only embolden the perpetrators of such crimes, which otherwise are on the increase, in society. If the accused in such a case is an affluent person and the prosecutrix comes from a socially or economically weaker strata of the society, quashing in such a case would only encourage commission of such offences, as the accused, using his money power or otherwise, may be able to induce the prosecutrix/victim to enter in to settlement with him and then seek quashing of criminal proceedings, on the strength of that settlement.

15. This Court does not find that this case fall in categories as recognized by the Apex Court for quashing the criminal proceedings of the trial court at pre-trial stage. Considering the facts, circumstances and nature of allegations against the applicants in this case, the cognizable offence is made out. At this stage, it would not be appropriate to adjudge whether the case shall ultimately end in conviction or not. Only prima facie satisfaction of the Court about the existence of sufficient ground to proceed in the matter is required. The impugned criminal proceedings under the facts of this case cannot be said to be abuse of the process of the Court. There is no good ground to invoke inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. by this Court.

16. The relief as sought by the applicants through the instant application is hereby refused.

17. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

18. Office is directed to communicate this order to the concerned court below as well as victim/opposite party no.2 of this case within two weeks.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the entire deposition/material is a matter of trial and not required to be examined while framing charge- Appreciation of evidence on merit is to be done proceedings of the Complaint Case No. 21 of 2017 (Naeem Ahmed Ansari Vs. Purna Agencies Pvt. Ltd. & Others), under Sections 138/141 of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881 as well as the order dated 18th December, 2019 passed by the Additional Judge, Saharanpur on applications filed by the applicants being paper nos. 12-B and 13-B under Sections 251 read with Section 245 Cr.P.C. for seeking discharge in the aforesaid complaint case, whereby the concerned Magistrate has rejected both the applications.

2. Heard Mr. Anil Kumar Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Ravi Jha and Ram Bahadur, learned counsel for the applicants and Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan and Mr. Pankaj Srivastava, learned Additional Government Advocates.

3. Perused the material available on record.

4. All these three applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. raise common questions of law, issue and facts, therefore, clubbed together and are being decided by means of this common order. Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. No. 7263 of 2020 is being treated to be the leading case.

5. Brief facts, as are borne out from the records of the present application, are as follows:

Opposite party no.2, namely, Naeem Ahmad has made complaint Sections 138/141 of the Negotiable Instrument Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as the "N.I. Act") before the Additional Judge/Fast Track Court, Saharanpur on 11th January, 2017 against the company, namely, M/s Purna Agencies Private Ltd., IX/Raghubarpura No.2, Gandhi Nagar, Delhi East, Delhi through Authorized Signatory, namely, Kanika Aggi as well as four named accused persons, namely, Kanika Aggi, Kanwal Kumar, Ashok Chaudhary, Harshit Viz (all are alleged to be directors of the said company). In the said complaint it has been stated that Kanika Aggi is the director and authorized signatory and she is responsible for all the work and transactions done against the said company. Regarding payment of money of the opposite party no.2, which was due against the company, a cheque bearing no. 099242 dated 19th October, 2016 for a sum of Rs. 50,00,000/- (Rupees fifty lacs only) drawn on bank account of Purna Agencies Pvt. Ltd. with State Bank of Bikaner and Jaipur, G.T. Road, Ludhiana Branch, bearing the signature of Ms. Kanika Aggi on behalf of the all the directors of the company was handed over to opposite party no.2 towards payments of certain monies with an assurance that the same would be honoured immediately on presentation. On the assurance given by all the directors including Kanika Aggi, on 20th October, 2016 when the said cheque was presented by opposite party no.2 with his bank bearing Jammu and Kashmir Bank, Branch Parshwnath Plaza Court Road, Saharanpur, the same was dishonoured and was returned with the Wollongong endorsement on the memo of return: "payment stopped by the drawer". It has further been stated that when opposite party no.2 conveyed the above to the accused, he was orally informed that the said cheque be presented again in the first week of December, 2016 with an assurance that the cheque would be cleared.

On 5th December, 2016 opposite party no.2, on the basis of such assurance, presented the said cheque again with his bank, being Jammu and Kashmir Bank, Branch Parshwnath Plaza Court Road, Saaharanpur. However, once again, the same was dishonoured and was returned with the following endorsement on the memo of return dated 5th December, 2016:"payment stopped by drawer".

On 15th December, 2016, a statutory legal notice under Section 138 N.I. Act was issued by opposite party no.2 through his advocate to the applicants, the said company, Kanika Aggi and Kanwar Kumar inter alia seeking payment of Rs. 50,00,000/- (Rupess fifty lacs only) due to opposite party no.2 within a period of 15 days of receipt of notice. However, the aforesaid amount has not been paid to opposite party no.2.

In view of above, opposite party no.2 filed the present complaint seeking that proceedings under Section 138 N.I. Act and Section 420 I.P.C. be initiated against the accused persons including the applicant. Along with the complaint, opposite party no.2 has also an affidavit dated 11th January, 2017 in lieu of statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C., bank return memos and cheque. On the complaint being filed, the concerned Magistrate has taken cognizance vide order dated 14th July, 2017 and thereafter passed an order dated 14th July, 2017 summoning the all accused persons including the applicants. Both the applicants have been granted bail by the court below vide orders dated 24th August, 2017 and 7th September, 2017 respectively.

On 7th September, 2017, applicants filed separate applicantion being application no. 12-B by applicant no.1 and application no.13-B by applicant no.2, under Section 251 read with Section 245

Cr.P.C. seeking discharge in the said complaint case. On 18th December, 2019, both the applications have been dismissed by the concerned Magistrate. It is against this order, summoning order and entire proceedings of the aforesaid complaint case that the present application has been filed.

6. Mr. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the applicants submits that except a mere bald cursory statement that the applicants are directors and authorized signatories of the said company, no specific averment has been made as to their role in the day-to-day affairs of the company. As aforesaid, while the applicant no.1 ceased to be a director of the said company on 1st April, 2016, applicant no.2 resigned as the director thereof on 5th October, 2016. As such the applicants were neither directors of the said company nor engaged in day-to-day affairs thereof as on the date of the commission of the alleged offence or on the date of issuance of cheque in question. The applicants cannot in any manner be held liable for the alleged offence. Thus, the entire proceedings against the applicants are based on erroneous facts.

7. Learned counsel appearing for the applicants further submits that the present complaint has been filed by suppressing the crucial facts in respect of the applicants' position in the said company, disclosure of which would have revealed that the said complaint cannot under any circumstances lie against the applicants. Opposite party no.2 thus approached the court with clean hands and on this ground the entire proceedings of the present complaint is liable to be quashed. Despite the above, the applicants have been erroneously and in a mechanical manner arrayed as accused nos. 4 and 5 in the present complaint, the same is nothing but an attempt to harass the applicants and extort money from them.

8. It is further submitted that the amount of Rs. 50,00,000/- alleged to be payable to opposite party no.2 is not supported by any purchase order, invoice or any documentation whatsoever. Thus, the entire case of opposite party no.2 is based on a mere avement that the cheque was issued by the said company to opposite party no.2 towards payments of certain monies. Thus, even prima facie the said complaint has failed to disclose the existence of any legally enforceable debt.

9. It is further submitted that the concerned Magistrate erred in holding that the cognizance of the complaint has already been taken, therefore, the applications filed by the applicants seeking discharge would not be maintainable. The judgments referred to in the impugned order by the concerned Magistrate i.e. Adalat Prasad Vs. Roop Lal Jindal; (2004) SCC (Cri) 1927 and Iris Computers Ltd. Vs. Askari Infortech Pvt. Ltd.; (2016) 2 SCC (Cri) 389, are not applicable to the case of the applicants.

10. It is lastly submitted that while passing the impugned order, the concerned Magistrate failed to consider, much less distinguish, the decisions of the Apex Court cited by the applicants. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the applicants urges that the said complaint is mala fide and is liable to be quashed and asking the applicants to stand the trial in the present case would be abuse of the process of the court.

11. In support of his case, Mr. Srivastava, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicants has referred to paragraph nos. 17, 18, 23, 24, 25A, 27 and 28 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pooja Ravinder Devidasani Vs.

State of Maharashtra & Another reported in (2014) 16 SCC.

12. Per contra, Mr. Amit Singh Chauhan and Mr. Pankaj Srivastava, learned Additional Government Advocates for the State have vehementally opposed the prayer made by the learned counsel for the applicants by contending that the submissions made by the learned counsel for the applicants relate to disputes questions of fact and legality, veracity or otherwise of the same cannot be examined at summoning or pre-trial stage. In support of their submissions, they have referred paragraph no.20 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Rajeshbhai Muljibhai Patel & Others Etc. Vs. State of Gujarat & Another Etc. reported in 2020 0 Supreme (SC) 137.

13. On the issue of rejection of discharge applications filed by the applicants, learned A.G.As. submits that the concerned Magistrate after considering all the documents available on record and after relying upon the various judgments of the Apex Court has rightly rejected the applications of the applicants for seeking discharge. There is no illegality or infirmity in the order passed by the concerned Magistrate rejecting the discharge applications of the applicants. In support of their case, they have referred paragraph nos. 15, 25, 26, 27 and 28 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of M.E. Shivalingamurthy Vs. Central Bureau of investigation, Bengaluru reported in 2020 1 Supreme 169/2020 0 Supreme (SC) 12. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned Additional Government Advocates urge that the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is liable to be rejected.

14. I have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the applicants and have gone through the records of the present application as also the orders impugned.

15. Before going on the merits of the case set up by learned counsel for the parties, this Court comes to the paragraphs of the judgments of the Apex Court as relied upon by the learned counsel for the parties herein-above.

16. Paragraph nos. 17, 18, 23, 24, 25A, 27 and 28 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pooja Ravinder Devidasani (Supra), as relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicants, are as follows:

"17. There is no dispute that the appellant, who was wife of the Managing Director, was appointed as a Director of the Company-M/S Elite International Pvt. Ltd. on 1st July, 2004 and had also executed a Letter of Guarantee on 19th January, 2005. The cheques in question were issued during April, 2008 to September, 2008. So far as the dishonor of Cheques is concerned, admittedly the cheques were not signed by the appellant. There is also no dispute that the appellant was not the Managing Director but only a non-executive Director of the Company. Non-executive Director is no doubt a custodian of the governance of the Company but does not involve in the day-to-day affairs of the running of its business and only monitors the executive activity. To fasten vicarious liability under Section 141 of the Act on a person, at the material time that person shall have been at the helm of affairs of the Company, one who actively looks after the day-to-day activities of the Company and particularly responsible for the conduct of its business. Simply because a person is a Director of a Company, does not make him liable under the N.I. Act. Every person connected with the Company will not fall into the ambit of the provision.

Time and again, it has been asserted by this Court that only those persons who were in charge of and responsible for the conduct of the business of the Company at the time of commission of an offence will be liable for criminal action. A Director, who was not in charge of and was not responsible for the conduct of the business of the Company at the relevant time, will not be liable for an offence under Section 141 of the N.I. Act. In National Small Industries Corporation (supra) this Court observed:

"Section 141 is a penal provision creating vicarious liability, and which, as per settled law, must be strictly construed. It is therefore, not sufficient to make a bald cursory statement in a complaint that the Director (arrayed as an accused) is in charge of and responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company without anything more as to the role of the Director. But the complaint should spell out as to how and in what manner Respondent 1 was in charge of or was responsible to the accused Company for the conduct of its business. This is in consonance with strict interpretation of penal statutes, especially, where such statutes create vicarious liability.

A company may have a number of Directors and to make any or all the Directors as accused in a complaint merely on the basis of a statement that they are in charge of and responsible for the conduct of the business of the company without anything more is not a sufficient or adequate fulfillment of the requirements under Section 141.

18. In Girdhari Lal Gupta Vs. D.H. Mehta & Anr. (1971) 3 SCC 189, this Court observed that a person 'in charge of a business' means that the person should be in overall control of the day to day business of the Company.

23. In Gunmala Sales Private Ltd. (supra) on which learned counsel for the respondents has heavily relied, this Court at Para 33(c) held : "In the facts of a given case, on an overall reading of the complaint, the High Court may, despite the presence of the basic averment, quash the complaint because of the absence of more particulars about role of the Director in the complaint. It may do so having come across some unimpeachable, uncontrovertible evidence which is beyond suspicion or doubt or totally acceptable circumstances which may clearly indicate that the Director could not have been concerned with the issuance of cheques and asking him to stand the trial would be abuse of the process of the court. Despite the presence of basic averment, it may come to a conclusion that no case is made out against the Director. Take for instance a case of a Director suffering from a terminal illness who was bedridden at the relevant time or a Director who had resigned long before issuance of cheques. In such cases, if the High Court is convinced that prosecuting such a Director is merely an arm- twisting tactics, the High Court may quash the proceedings. It bears repetition to state that to establish such case unimpeachable, uncontrovertible evidence which is beyond suspicion or doubt or some totally acceptable circumstances will have to be brought to the notice of the High Court. Such cases may be few and far between but the possibility of such a case being there cannot be ruled out".

24. In the light of the law laid down by this Court, the present case be examined. It is not in dispute that two persons, namely, Parag Tejani and Hitesh Haria, were inducted as Director-Operations of the Company w.e.f. 17th December, 2005 by virtue of a resolution passed by the Company on the same date. It is on the same date the appellant had ceased to be a Director as per the Annual Report which is not disputed by the Respondent No. 2. A perusal of the Complaint shows that Respondent No. 2 has made the newly appointed Directors-Operations Parag Tejani and Hitesh Haria also as accused stating that all the accused approached him with a request for trade finance facility and accordingly the said facility was granted as per their request. It thus gives an impression that Respondent No. 2 is well aware of the change of Directors in the accused Company. In spite of knowing the developments taken place in the Company that the appellant was no longer a Director of the Company and two new Directors were inducted, the Respondent No. 2 has chosen to array all of them as accused in the Complaints. Moreover, Respondent No. 2 had not disputed this fact emphatically in the proceedings before the High Court. We have gone though the reply affidavit filed by Respondent No. 2 before the High Court of Bombay.

25. A bare reading of the averment of Respondent No. 2 before the High Court, suggests that his case appears to be that the appellant has not proved her resignation in unequivocal terms and it is a disputed question of fact. It is noteworthy that the respondent No. 2 except making a bald statement and throwing the burden on the appellant to prove authenticity of documents, has not pleaded anywhere that the public documents Form 32 and Annual Return are forged and fabricated documents. Curiously, respondent No. 2 on the one hand raises a doubt about the genuineness of Form 32, a public document, through which the default Company had communicated the change of Directors to the Registrar of the Companies with the effect of resignation of the appellant and induction of two Directors-Operations and on the other hand, he has arrayed the two newly appointed Directors-Operations as accused whose names were communicated to the Registrar of Companies by the very same Form 32. The respondent/complainant cannot be permitted to blow hot and cold at the same time. When he denies the genuineness of the document, he cannot act upon it and array the newly appointed Directors as accused.

27. Unfortunately, the High Court did not deal the issue in a proper perspective and committed error in dismissing the writ petitions by holding that in the Complaints filed by the Respondent No. 2, specific averments were made against the appellant. But on the contrary, taking the complaint as a whole, it can be inferred that in the entire complaint, no specific role is attributed to the appellant in the commission of offence. It is settled law that to attract a case under Section 141 of the N.I. Act a specific role must have been played by a Director of the Company for fastening vicarious liability. But in this case, the appellant was neither a Director of the accused Company nor in charge of or involved in the day to day affairs of the Company at the time of commission of the alleged offence. There is not even a whisper or shred of evidence on record to show that there is any act committed by the appellant from which a reasonable inference can be drawn that the appellant could be vicariously held liable for the offence with which she is charged.

28. In the entire complaint, neither the role of the appellant in the affairs of the Company was explained nor in what manner the appellant is responsible for the conduct of business of the Company, was explained. From the record it appears that the trade finance facility was extended by the Respondent No. 2 to the default Company during the period from 13th April, 2008 to 14th October, 2008, against which the Cheques were issued by the Company which stood dishonored. Much before that on 17th December, 2005 the appellant resigned from the Board of Directors. Hence, we have no hesitation to hold that continuation of the criminal proceedings against the appellant under Section 138read with Section 141 of the N.I. Act is a pure abuse of process of law and it has to be interdicted at the threshold."

17. Paragraph no.20 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Rajeshbhai Muljibhai Patel (Supra) as relied upon by the learned Additional Government Advocates for the State, is as follows:

"20. The High Court, in our view, erred in quashing the criminal case in C.C.No.367/2016 filed by appellant No.3-Hasmukhbhai under Section 138 of N.I. Act. As pointed out earlier, Yogeshbhai has admitted the issuance of cheques. When once the issuance of cheque is admitted/established, the presumption would arise under Section 139 of the N.I. Act in favour of the holder of cheque that is the complainant-appellant No.3. The nature of presumptions under Section139 of the N.I. Act and Section 118(a) of the Indian Evidence Act are rebuttable. Yogeshbhai has of course, raised the defence that there is no illegally enforceable debt and he issued the cheques to help appellant No.3-Hasmukhbhai for purchase of lands. The burden lies upon the accused to rebut the presumption by adducing evidence. The High Court did not keep in view that until the accused discharges his burden, the presumption under Section 139 of N.I. Act will continue to remain. It is for Yogeshbhai to adduce evidence to rebut the statutory presumption. When disputed questions of facts are involved which need to be adjudicated after the parties adduce evidence, the complaint under Section 138 of the N.I. Act ought not to have been quashed by the High Court by taking recourse to Section 482 Cr.P.C. Though, the Court has the power to quash the criminal complaint filed under Section 138 of the N.I. Act on the legal issues like limitation, etc. Criminal complaint filed under Section 138 of the N.I. Act against Yogeshbhai ought not have been quashed merely on the ground that there are inter se dispute between appellant No.3 and respondent No.2. Without keeping in view the statutory presumption raised under Section 139 of the N.I. Act, the High Court, in our view, committed a serious error in quashing the criminal complaint in C.C.No.367/2016 filed under Section 138 of N.I. Act.

(Emphasis added)

18. Paragraph nos. 15, 25 to 27 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of M.E. Shivalingamurthy (Supra) as relied upon by the learned Additional Government Advocates for the State, are as follows:

"15. The defence of the accused is not to be looked into at the stage when the accused seeks to be discharged under Section 227 of the Cr.PC (See State of J & K v. Sudershan Chakkar and another, AIR 1995 SC 1954). The expression, "the record of the case", used in Section 227 of the Cr.PC, is to be understood as the documents and the articles, if any, produced by the prosecution. The Code does not give any right to the accused to produce any document at the stage of framing of the charge. At the stage of framing of the charge, the submission of the accused is to be confined to the material produced by the Police (See State of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi, AIR 2005 SC 359).

25. It is here that again it becomes necessary that we remind ourselves of the contours of the jurisdiction under Section 227 of the Cr.PC. The principle established is to take the materials produced by the prosecution, both in the form of oral statements and also documentary material, and act upon it without it been subjected to questioning through cross-examination and everything assumed in favour of the prosecution, if a scenario emerges where no offence, as alleged, is made out against the accused, it, undoubtedly, would enure to the benefit of the accused warranting the Trial Court to discharge the accused.

26. It is not open to the accused to rely on material by way of defence and persuade the court to discharge him.

27. However, what is the meaning of the expression "materials on the basis of which grave suspicion is aroused in the mind of the court's", which is not explained away? Can the accused explain away the material only with reference to the materials produced by the prosecution? Can the accused rely upon material which he chooses to produce at the stage?

28. In view of the decisions of this Court that the accused can only rely on the materials which are produced by the prosecution, it must be understood that the grave suspicion, if it is established on the materials, should be explained away only in terms of the materials made available by the prosecution. No doubt, the accused may appeal to the broad probabilities to the case to persuade the court to discharge him."

19. Now, this Court comes on the issues whether it is appropriate for this Court being the Highest Court to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash the charge-sheet and the proceedings at the stage when the Magistrate has merely issued process against the applicants. The aforesaid issue has elaborately been discussed by the Apex Court the following judgments:

(i) R.P. Kapur Versus State of Punjab; AIR 1960 SC 866,

(ii) State of Haryana & Ors. Versus Ch. Bhajan Lal & Ors.;1992 Supp.(1) SCC 335,

(iii) State of Bihar & Anr. Versus P.P. Sharma & Anr.; 1992 Supp (1) SCC 222,

(iv) Zandu Pharmaceuticals Works Ltd. & Ors. Versus Mohammad Shariful Haque & Anr.; 2005 (1) SCC 122, and

(v) M. N. Ojha Vs. Alok Kumar Srivastava; 2009 (9) SCC 682.

20. In the case of R.P. Kapur (Supra), the following has been observed by the Apex Court in paragraph 6:

"Before dealing with the merits of the appeal it is necessary to consider the nature and scope of the inherent power of the High Court under s. 561 -A of the Code. The said section saves the inherent power of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code or to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. There is no doubt that this inherent power cannot be exercised in regard to matters specifically covered by the other provisions of the Code. In the present case the magistrate before whom the police report has been filed under s. 173 of the Code has yet not applied his mind to the merits of the said report and it may be assumed in favour of the appellant that his request for the quashing of the .proceedings is not at the present stage covered by any specific provision of the Code. It is well-established that the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court can be exercised to quash proceedings in a proper case either to prevent the abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Ordinarily criminal proceedings instituted against an accused person must be tried under the provisions of the Code, and the High Court would be reluctant to interfere with the said proceedings at an interlocutory stage. It is not possible, desirable or expedient to lay down any inflexible rule which would govern the exercise of this inherent jurisdiction. However, we may indicate some categories of cases where the inherent jurisdiction can and should be exercised for quashing the proceedings. There may be cases where it may be possible for the High Court to take the view that the institution or continuance of criminal proceedings against an accused person may amount to the abuse of the process of the court or that the quashing of the impugned proceedings would secure the ends of justice. If the criminal proceeding in question is in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by an accused person and it manifestly appears that there is a legal bar against the institution or continuance of the said proceeding the High Court would be justified in quashing the proceeding on that ground. Absence of the requisite sanction may, for instance, furnish cases under this category. Cases may also arise where the a11egations in the First Information Report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, do not constitute the offence alleged; in such cases no ques- tion of appreciating evidence arises; it is a matter merely of looking at the complaint or the First Information Report to decide whether the offence alleged is disclosed or not. In such cases it would be legitimate for the High Court to hold that it would be manifestly unjust to allow the process of the criminal court to be issued against the accused person. A third category of cases in which the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court can be successfully invoked may also arise. In cases falling under this category the allegations made against the accused person do constitute an offence alleged but there is either no legal evidence adduced in support of the case or evidence adduced clearly or manifestly fails to prove the charge. In dealing with this class of cases it is important to bear in mind the distinction between a case where there is no legal evidence or where there is evidence which is manifestly and clearly inconsistent with the accusation made and cases where there is legal evidence which on its appreciation may or may not support the accusation in question. In exercising its jurisdiction under s. 561-A the High Court would not embark upon an enquiry as to whether the evidence in question is reliable or not. That is the function of the trial magis- trate, and ordinarily it would not be open to any party to invoke the High Court's inherent jurisdiction and' contend that on a reasonable appreciation of the evidence the accusation made against the accused would not be sustained. Broadly stated that is the nature and scope of the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court under s. 561-A in the matter of quashing criminal proceedings, and that is the effect of the judicial decisions on the point (Vide: In Re: Shripad G. Chandavarkar AIR 1928 Bom 184, Jagat Ohandra Mozumdar v. Queen Empress ILR 26 Cal 786), Dr. Shanker Singh v. The State of Punjab 56 Pun LR 54 : (AIR 1954 Punj 193), Nripendra Bhusan Ray v. Govind Bandhu Majumdar, AIR 1924 Cal 1018 and Ramanathan Chettiyar v. K. Sivarama Subrahmanya Ayyar ILR 47 Mad 722: (AIR 1925 Mad 39)."

21. In the case of State of Haryana (Supra), the following has been observed by the Apex Court in paragraph 105:

"105. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extra-ordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers Under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

1. Where the allegations made in the First Information Report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima-facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

2. Where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the F.I.R. do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers Under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

3. Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

4. Where, the allegations in the F.I.R. do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated Under Section 155(2) of the Code.

5. Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

6. Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

7. Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

22. In the case of State of Bihar (Supra), the following has been observed by the Apex Court in paragraph 22. :-

"The question of mala fide exercise of power assumes significance only when the criminal prosecution is initiated on extraneous considerations and for an unauthorised purpose. There is no material whatsoever is this case to show that on the date when the FIR was lodged by R.K. Singh he was activated by bias or had any reason to act maliciously. The dominant purpose of registering the case against the respondents was to have an investigation done into the allegations contained in the FIR and in the event of there being sufficient material in support of the allegations to present the charge sheet before the court. There is no material to show that the dominant object of registering the case was the character assassination of the respondents or to harass and humiliate them. This Court in State of Bihar v J.A.C. Saldhana and Ors., [1980] 2 SCR 16 has held that when the information is lodged at the police station and an offence is registered, the mala fides of the informant would be of secondary importance. It is the material collected during the investigation which decides the fate of the accused person. This Court in State of Haryana and Ors. v. Ch. Bhajan Lal and Ors., J.T. 1990 (4) S.C. 650 permitted the State Government to hold investigation afresh against Ch. Bhajan Lal inspite of the fact the prosecution was lodged at the instance of Dharam Pal who was enimical towards Bhajan Lal."

23. In the case of Zandu Pharmaceuticals Works Ltd. (Supra), the following has been observed by the Apex Court in paragraphs nos. 8 to 12:

"8. Exercise of power under Section 482 of the Code in a case of this nature is the exception and not the rule. The Section does not confer any new powers on the High Court. It only saves the inherent power which the Court possessed before the enactment of the Code. It envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised, namely, (i) to give effect to an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. It is neither possible nor desirable to lay down any inflexible rule which would govern the exercise of inherent jurisdiction. No legislative enactment dealing with procedure can provide for all cases that may possibly arise. Courts, therefore, have inherent powers apart from express provisions of law which are necessary for proper discharge of functions and duties imposed upon them by law. That is the doctrine which finds expression in the section which merely recognizes and preserves inherent powers of the High Courts. All courts, whether civil or criminal possess, in the absence of any express provision, as inherent in their constitution, all such powers as are necessary to do the right and to undo a wrong in course of administration of justice on the principle "quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur et id sine quo res ipsae esse non potest" (when the law gives a person anything it gives him that without which it cannot exist). While exercising powers under the section, the court does not function as a court of appeal or revision. Inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. It is to be exercised ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone courts exist. Authority of the court exists for advancement of justice and if any attempt is made to abuse that authority so as to produce injustice, the court has power to prevent abuse. It would be an abuse of process of the court to allow any action which would result in injustice and prevent promotion of justice. In exercise of the powers court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation/continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. When no offence is disclosed by the complaint, the court may examine the question of fact. When a complaint is sought to be quashed, it is permissible to look into the materials to assess what the complainant has alleged and whether any offence is made out even if the allegations are accepted in toto.

9. In R. P. Kapur v. State of Punjab (AIR 1960 SC 866) this Court summarized some categories of cases where inherent power can and should be exercised to quash the proceedings.

(i) where it manifestly appears that there is a legal bar against the institution or continuance e.g. want of sanction;

(ii) where the allegations in the first information report or complaint taken at its face value and accepted in their entirety do not constitute the offence alleged;

(iii) where the allegations constitute an offence, but there is no legal evidence adduced or the evidence adduced clearly or manifestly fails to prove the charge.

10. In dealing with the last case, it is important to bear in mind the distinction between a case where there is no legal evidence or where there is evidence which is clearly inconsistent with the accusations made, and a case where there is legal evidence which, on appreciation, may or may not support the accusations. When exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable appreciation of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge. Judicial process should not be an instrument of oppression, or, needless harassment. Court should be circumspect and judicious in exercising discretion and should take all relevant facts and circumstances into consideration before issuing process, lest it would be an instrument in the hands of a private complainant to unleash vendetta to harass any person needlessly. At the same time the section is not an instrument handed over to an accused to short-circuit a prosecution and bring about its sudden death.

11. The scope of exercise of power under Section 482 of the Code and the categories of cases where the High Court may exercise its power under it relating to cognizable offences to prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice were set out in some detail by this Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal (1992 Supp (1) 335). A note of caution was, however, added that the power should be exercised sparingly and that too in rarest of rare cases. The illustrative categories indicated by this Court are as follows:

"(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused. (4) Where the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code. (5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the Act concerned (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or Act concerned, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

As noted above, the powers possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are very wide and the very plenitude of the power requires great caution in its exercise. Court must be careful to see that its decision in exercise of this power is based on sound principles. The inherent power should not be exercised to stifle a legitimate prosecution. The High Court being the highest court of a State should normally refrain from giving a prima facie decision in a case where the entire facts are incomplete and hazy, more so when the evidence has not been collected and produced before the Court and the issues involved, whether factual or legal, are of magnitude and cannot be seen in their true perspective without sufficient material. Of course, no hard-and-fast rule can be laid down in regard to cases in which the High Court will exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction of quashing the proceeding at any stage. (See: Janata Dal v. H. S. Chowdhary (1992 (4) SCC 305), and Raghubir Saran (Dr.) v. State of Bihar (AIR 1964 SC 1). It would not be proper for the High Court to analyse the case of the complainant in the light of all probabilities in order to determine whether a conviction would be sustainable and on such premises arrive at a conclusion that the proceedings are to be quashed. It would be erroneous to assess the material before it and conclude that the complaint cannot be proceeded with. In a proceeding instituted on complaint, exercise of the inherent powers to quash the proceedings is called for only in a case where the complaint does not disclose any offence or is frivolous, vexatious or oppressive. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognizance has been taken by the Magistrate, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code. It is not, however, necessary that there should be meticulous analysis of the case before the trial to find out whether the case would end in conviction or acquittal. The complaint has to be read as a whole. If it appears that on consideration of the allegations in the light of the statement made on oath of the complainant that the ingredients of the offence or offences are disclosed and there is no material to show that the complaint is mala fide, frivolous or vexatious, in that event there would be no justification for interference by the High Court. When an information is lodged at the police station and an offence is registered, then the mala fides of the informant would be of secondary importance. It is the material collected during the investigation and evidence led in court which decides the fate of the accused person. The allegations of mala fides against the informant are of no consequence and cannot by themselves be the basis for quashing the proceedings. (See: Dhanalakshmi v. R. Prasanna Kumar (1990 Supp SCC 686), State of Bihar v. P. P. Sharma (AIR 1996 SC 309), Rupan Deol Bajaj v. Kanwar Pal Singh Gill (1995 (6) SCC 194), State of Kerala v. O. C. Kuttan (AIR 1999 SC 1044), State of U.P. v. O. P. Sharma (1996 (7) SCC 705), Rashmi Kumar v. Mahesh Kumar Bhada (1997 (2) SCC 397), Satvinder Kaur v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi) (AIR 1996 SC 2983) and Rajesh Bajaj v. State NCT of Delhi (1999 (3) SCC 259.

12. The above position was recently highlighted in State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa and Another (2002 (3) SCC 89)."

24. Thereafter, in the case of M.N. Ojha Vs. Alok Kumar Srivastava, reported in 2009 (9) SCC 682 has made observations in paragraphs 25, 27, 28, 29 and 30 regarding the exercise of power under section 482 Cr.P.C. as well as the principles governing the exercise of such jurisdiction:-

"25. Had the learned SDJM applied his mind to the facts and circumstances and sequence of events and as well as the documents filed by the complainant himself along with the complaint, surely he would have dismissed the complaint. He would have realized that the complaint was only a counter blast to the FIR lodged by the Bank against the complainant and others with regard to same transaction.

26. This Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. & Anr. Vs. Special Judicial Magistrate & Ors. [(1998)5 SCC 749 held:

"28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. The Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

27. The case on hand is a classic illustration of non-application of mind by the learned Magistrate. The learned Magistrate did not scrutinize even the contents of the complaint, leave aside the material documents available on record. The learned Magistrate truly was a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning the appellants.

28. The High Court committed a manifest error in disposing of the petition filed by the appellants under Section 482 of the Code without even adverting to the basic facts which were placed before it for its consideration.

29. It is true that the court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure cannot go into the truth or otherwise of the allegations and appreciate the evidence if any available on record. Normally, the High Court would not intervene in the criminal proceedings at the preliminary stage/when the investigation/enquiry is pending.

30. Interference by the High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure can only be where a clear case for such interference is made out. Frequent and uncalled for interference even at the preliminary stage by the High Court may result in causing obstruction in progress of the inquiry in a criminal case which may not be in the public interest. But at the same time the High Court cannot refuse to exercise its jurisdiction if the interest of justice so required where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no fair-minded and informed observer can ever reach a just and proper conclusion as to the existence of sufficient grounds for proceeding. In such cases refusal to exercise the jurisdiction may equally result in injustice more particularly in cases where the Complainant sets the criminal law in motion with a view to exert pressure and harass the persons arrayed as accused in the complaint." (emphasis added)

25. The Apex Court in its latest judgment in the case of Nallapareddy Sridhar Reddy Vs. The State of Andhra Pradesh & Ors. reported in 2020 0 Supreme (SC) 45, dealing with a cases under Sections 406 and 420 I.P.C. has observed that the Court does not have to delve deep into probative value of evidence regarding the charge. It has only to see if a prima facie case has been made out. Veracity of deposition/material is a matter of trial and not required to be examined while framing charge. The Apex Court further observed that the veracity of the depositions made by the witnesses is a question of trial and need not be determined at the time of framing of charge. Appreciation of evidence on merit is to be done by the court only after the charges have been framed and the trial has commenced. However, for the purpose of framing of charge the court needs to prima facie determine that there exists sufficient material for the commencement of trial. The Apex Court in paragraph nos. 21, 22 and 24 has observed as follows:

"21 The appellant has relied upon a two-judge Bench decision of this Court in Onkar Nath Mishra v The State, (2008) 2 SCC 561 to substantiate the point that the ingredients of Sections 406 and 420 of the IPC have not been established. This Court while dealing with the nature of evaluation by a court at the stage of framing of charge, held thus:

*"11. It is trite that at the stage of framing of charge the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to finding out if the facts emerging therefrom, taken at their face value, disclosed the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. At that stage, the court is not expected to go deep into the probative value of the material on record. What needs to be considered is whether there is a ground for presuming that the offence has been committed and not a ground for convicting the accused has been made out. At that stage, even strong suspicion founded on material which leads the court to form a presumptive opinion as to the existence of the factual ingredients constituting the offence alleged would justify the framing of charge against the accused in respect of the commission of that offence."

22 In the present case, the High Court while directing the framing the additional charges has evaluated the material and evidence brought on record after investigation and held:

"LW1 is the father of the de facto complainant, who states that his son in law i.e., the first accused promised that he would look after his daughter at United Kingdom (UK) and promised to provide Doctor job at UK and claimed Rs.5 lakhs for the said purpose and received the same and he took his daughter to the UK. He states that his son-in-law made him believe and received Rs.5 lakhs in the presence of elders. He states that he could not mention about the cheating done by his son-in- law, when he was examined earlier. LW13, who is an independent witness, also supports the version of LW1 and states that Rs.5 lakhs were received by A1 with a promise that he would secure doctor job to the complainant's daughter. He states that A1 cheated LW1, stating that he would provide job and received Rs.5 lakhs. LW14, also is an independent witness and he supported the version of LW13. He further states that A1 left his wife and child in India and went away after receiving Rs.5 lakhs.

Hence, from the above facts, stated by LWs. 13 and 14, prima facie, the version of LW1 that he gave Rs.5 lakhs to A1 on a promise that he would provide a job to his daughter and that A1 did not provide any job and cheated him, receives support from LWs. 13 and 14. When the amount is entrusted to A1, with a promise to provide a job and when he fails to provide the job and does not return the amount, it can be made out that A1 did not have any intention to provide job to his wife and that he utilised the amount for a purpose other than the purpose for which he collected the amount from LW1, which would suffice to attract the offences under Sections 406 and 420 IPC. Whether there is truth in the improved version of LW.1 and what have been the reasons for his lapse in not stating the same in his earlier statement, can be adjudicated at the time of trial.

It is also evidence from the record that the additional charge sheet filed by the investigating officer, missed the attention of the lower court due to which the additional charges could not be framed."

24 The veracity of the depositions made by the witnesses is a question of trial and need not be determined at the time of framing of charge. Appreciation of evidence on merit is to be done by the court only after the charges have been framed and the trial has commenced. However, for the purpose of framing of charge the court needs to prima facie determine that there exists sufficient material for the commencement of trial. The High Court has relied upon the materials on record and concluded that the ingredients of the offences under Sections 406 and 420 of the IPC are attracted. The High Court has spelt out the reasons that have necessitated the addition of the charge and hence, the impugned order does not warrant any interference."

26. In view of the aforesaid, this Court finds substance in the submissions made by the learned Additional Government Advocates for the State. It is admitted case of the applicants that they tendered their resignations from the post of directors of the said company in the year 2016. When once the issuance of cheque is admitted/established, the presumption would arise under Section 139 of the N.I. Act in favour of the holder of cheque that is the complainant-appellant No.3. The nature of presumptions under Section139 of the N.I. Act and Section 118(a) of the Indian Evidence Act are rebuttable. The submissions made by the applicants' learned counsel call for adjudication on pure questions of fact which may adequately be adjudicated upon only by the trial court and while doing so even the submissions made on points of law can also be more appropriately gone into by the trial court in this case. This Court does not deem it proper, and therefore cannot be persuaded to have a pre-trial before the actual trial begins. A threadbare discussion of various facts and circumstances, as they emerge from the allegations made against the accused, is being purposely avoided by the Court for the reason, lest the same might cause any prejudice to either side during trial. But it shall suffice to observe that the perusal of the complaint and the material available before the court below on the basis of which the applicants have been summoned makes out a prima facie case against the applicants at this stage and there appear to be sufficient ground for proceeding against the applicants. I do not find any justification to quash the complaint or the proceedings against the applicants arising out of them as the case does not fall in any of the categories recognized by the Apex Court which may justify their quashing. The judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pooja Ravinder Devidasani (Supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicants is distinguishable in the facts of the present case.

27. So far as the legality, veracity or otherwise of the order passed by the concerned Magistrate rejecting the discharge applications of the applicants are concerned, before proceeding to adjudge the validity of the impugned order it may be useful to cast a fleeting glance to some of the representative cases decided by the Apex Court have expatiated upon the legal approach to be adopted at the time of framing of the charge or at the time of deciding whether the accused ought to be discharged. It shall be advantageous to refer to the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Bihar vs. Ramesh Singh reported in 1977 (4) SCC 39 which are as follows :-

"4. Under S. 226 of the Code while opening the case for the prosecution the prosecutor has got to describe the charge against the accused and State by what evidence he proposes to prove the guilt of the accused. Thereafter, comes at the initial stage, the duty of the Court to consider the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith and to hear the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in that behalf. The Judge has to pass thereafter an order either u/s. 227 or u/s. 228 of the Code. If "the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing", so enjoined by s. 227. If, on the other hand, "the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which .....

(b) in exclusively triable by the court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused," as provided in S. 228.

Reading the two provisions together in juxtaposition, as they have got to be, it would be clear that at the beginning and the initial stage of the trial the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. Nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The standard of test and judgment which is to be finally applied before recording a finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at this stage of deciding the matter under s. 227 and 228 of the Code. At that stage the court is not to see whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction. Strong suspicion against the accused, if the matter remains in the region of suspicion, cannot take the place of proof of his guilt at the conclusion of the trial. But at the initial stage if there is a strong suspicion which leads the court to think that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence then it is not open to the court to say that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The presumption of the guilt of the accused which is to be drawn at the initial stage is not in the sense of the law governing the trial of criminal cases in France where the accused is presumed to be guilty unless the contrary is proved. But it is only for the purpose of deciding prima facie whether the court should proceed with the trial or not. If the evidence which the Prosecutor proposes to adduce to prove the guilt of the accused even if fully accepted before it is challenged in cross-examination or rebutted by the defence, if any, cannot show that the accused committed the offence, there will be no sufficient ground for proceeding with the trial. An exhaustive list of the circumstances to indicate as to what will lead to one conclusion or the other is neither possible nor advisable. We may just illustrate the difference of the law by one more example. If the scales of pan as to the guilt or innocence of the accused are something like even at the conclusion of the trial, then, on the theory of benefit of doubt the case is to end in his acquittal. But if, on the other hand, it is so at the initial stage of making an order under S. 227 or S. 228, then in such a situation ordinarily and generally the order which will have to be made will be one under S. 228 and not under S. 227."

28. Aforesaid case was again referred to in another Apex Court's decision Superintendent and Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, West Bengal Versus Anil Kumar Bhunja reported in AIR 1980 (SC) 52 and the Apex Court proceeded to observe as follows:

"18. It may be remembered that the case was at the stage of framing charges; the prosecution evidence had not yet commenced. The Magistrate had, therefore, to consider the above question on a general consideration of the materials placed before him by the investigating police officer. At this stage, as was pointed out by this Court in State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh, AIR 1977 SC 2018, the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. The standard of test, proof and judgment which is to be applied finally before finding the accused guilty or otherwise, is not exactly to be applied at the stage of Section 227 or 228 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. At this stage, even a very strong suspicion founded upon materials before the Magistrate, which leads him to form a presumptive opinion as to the existence of the factual ingredients constituting the offence alleged; may justify the framing of charge against the accused in respect of the commission of that offence."

29. In yet another case of Palwinder Singh Vs. Balvinder Singh reported in AIR 2009 SC 887 the Apex Court had the occasion to reflect upon the scope of adjudication and its ambit at the time of framing of the charge and also about the scope to consider the material produced by the accused at that stage. Following extract may be profitably quoted to clarify the situation :

"12. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, we are of the opinion that the High Court committed a serious error in passing the impugned judgment insofar as it entered into the realm of appreciation of evidence at the stage of the framing of the charges itself. The jurisdiction of the learned Sessions Judge while exercising power under Section 227 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is limited. Charges can be framed also on the basis of strong suspicion. Marshalling and appreciation of evidence is not in the domain of the Court at that point of time. This aspect of the matter has been considered by this Court in state of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi, (2005) 1 SCC 568 wherein it was held as under :

"23. As a result of the aforesaid discussion, in our view, clearly the law is that at the time of framing charge or taking cognizance the accused has no right to produce any material. Satish Mehra's Case holding that the trial Court has powers to consider even materials which the accused may produce at the stage of Section 227 of the Code has not been correctly decided."

30. The following observations made by the Apex Court in the case of Sanghi Brothers (Indore) Pvt. Ltd. v. Sanjay Choudhary reported in AIR 2009 SC 9 also reiterated the same position of law :-

"10. After analyzing the terminology used in the three pairs of sections it was held that despite the differences there is no scope for doubt that at the stage at which the Court is required to consider the question of framing of charge, the test of a prima facie case to be applied.

11. The present case is not one where the High Court ought to have interfered with the order of framing the charge. As rightly submitted by learned counsel for the appellant, even if there is a strong suspicion about the commission of offence and the involvement of the accused, it is sufficient for the Court to frame a charge. At that stage, there is no necessity of formulating the opinion about the prospect of conviction. That being so, the impugned order of the High Court cannot be sustained and is set aside. The appeal is allowed."

31. The prayer for quashing or setting aside the impugned orders summoning the accused and rejecting the discharge applications of the applicants as also quash the entire proceedings of the complaint case at this stage is refused as I do not see any illegality, impropriety and incorrectness in the impugned order or the proceedings under challenge. There is absolutely no abuse of court's process perceptible in the same. The present matter also does not fall in any of the categories recognized by the Apex Court which might justify interference by this Court in order to upset or quash them.

32. The present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is accordingly rejected. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Applicants have approached before this Court by way of filing the instant Criminal Misc. Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing of charge sheet dated 06.12.2019 as well as summoning order dated 01.01.2020 and all its consequential proceedings in Case No. 26 of 2020, arising out of F.I.R. No. 0212/2019 under Sections 323 and 504 IPC, Police Station Khanpur, District Bulandshahar pending in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bulandshahar. A prayer has also been sought that the learned Court below be directed to proceed with the present case as complaint case as per Chapter XV of Code of Criminal Procedure. Lastly, it has been prayed that during the pendency of the present Judicial Magistrate, Bulandshahar be stayed.

2. The impugned order dated 01.01.2020, which has been passed by the concerned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bulandshahar taking coginizance of the charge sheet dated 06.12.2019, reads as such:-

"आज दिनांक 1.1.2020 को उक्त अपराध संख्या में विवेचक ने आरोप पत्र मय केस डायरी प्रेषित किया है। सम्पूर्ण केस डायरी का विधिनुसार परशीलन किया गया अपराध का प्रसंज्ञान लिया गया आधार पर्याप्त है। दर्ज रजिस्टर हो। नकल दी जावे एवम अभियुक्तगणों को सम्मन दिनाँक 2.2.2020 क़े लिये तलब किया जाये ।"

3. Learned counsel for the applicants has submitted that as the charge sheet has been submitted for non-cognizance offences (Sections 323/504 IPC), therefore, it shall be deemed to be complaint under Explanation to Section 2 (d) of Cr.P.C. Hence, the order taking cognizance as well as summoning order, as a State case, is not a correct procedure and, therefore, the order of cognizance and summoning order is liable to be quashed.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants in support of his submissions has relied upon the judgment passed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the matter of "Rakesh Kumar Sharma vs. State of U.P. and another" reported in 2007 (3) JIC 654 (All), 2007 (9) ADJ 478: 2007 Law Suit (All) 2322 and specifically para Nos. 5 and 6 of the said judgment, which is mentioned hereinafter, states that:-

" 5. He submitted that in the present case originally the F.I.R. Was lodged under Section 307 IPC but after investigation the Investigating Officer came to the conclusion that no offence under Section 307 IPC was made out and only a case under Section 504 IPC was mad out against the applicant and so a charge-sheet under Section 504 IPC was submitted against the applicant. He contended that in view of the aforesaid Explanation to Section 2 (d), Cr.P.C. the case could not proceed as a police case in respect of an offence punishable under Section 504 I.P.C. Because the offence under Section 504. I.P.C. Is non-cognizable and so the case could proceed only as a complaint case in view of the aforesaid Explanation.

6. The above contention of the learned counsel for the applicant is correct. I, therefore, allow this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to this extent that the cognizance taken by the Magistrate in the case on the basis of the report of the police for the offence punishable under Section 504 I.P.C. and the orders passed by him for issuing warrant against the applicant are hereby quashed. The Magistrate shall not proceed with the case as a State case but he shall proceed with it as a complaint case as provided in the Explanation to Section 2 (d), Cr.P.C. and he shall follow the procedure prescribed for hearing of a complaint case."

5. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned AGA for the State.

Since the legal issue is involved in the present matter, I am deciding it on merits at the admission stage only.

6. The relevant provisions of law involved in the present case are mentioned hereinafter :-

Explanation to Section 2 (d) Cr.P.C.- A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complaint;

Section 155 Cr.P.C.- Information as to non-cognizable cases and investigation of such cases:-

(1) When information is given to an officer in charge of a police station of the commission within the limits of such station of a non-cognizable offence, he shall enter or cause to be entered the substance of the information in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf, and refer the informant to the Magistrate.

(2) No police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial.

(3) Any police officer receiving such order may exercise the same powers in respect of the investigation (except the power to arrest without warrant) as an officer in charge of a police station may exercise in a cognizable case.

(4) Where a case relates to two or more offences of which at least one is cognizable, the case shall be deemed to be a cognizable case, notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable.

Section 190 Cr.P.C. - Cognizance of offences by Magistrates :-

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section (2), may take cognizance of any offence -

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try.

Section 200 Cr.P.C.- Provided that, when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses-

(a) if a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint; or

(b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under Section 192."

7. In "Balwant Singh and another vs. State of U.P. and another" (Application u/s 482 No. 45945 of 2014, decided on 14.11.2014), wherein the co-ordinate Bench of this Court has held that :-

"But in the case of Ghansahyam Dubey alias Little and others Vs. State of U.P. and another (supra) as well as in case of Budhi Ram and 3 others Vs. State of U.P. and another mentioned above Honourable Single Judges of this Court have held that charge sheet submitted by police in non-cognizable case even after investigation made by police in pursuance of order passed by Magistrate shall be deemed to be complaint under section 2(d) of Cr.P.C. In these cases provisions of section 155(2) and 15(3) Cr.P.C. as well as pronouncements of Honourable Apex Court rendered in the case of Keshab Lal Thakur Vs. State of Bihar (supra) have not been considered and these pronouncements do not lay correct law.

In view of above I am of the view that this matter should be placed before Hon'ble Division Bench for consideration."

8. Another co-ordinate Bench of this Court is the case of "Smt. Saroj Devi vs. State of U.P. and Another" (Application u/s 482 No. 30184 of 2016, decided on 6.10.2016) after considering the judgments passed in Rakesh Kumar Sharma (Supra), Ghanshyam Dubey @ Little & others vs. State of U.P. & Ors. 2010 Law Suit (All) 3093 and Balwant Singh and Another vs. State of U.P. & Another (Application u/s 482 No.45945 of 2014, decided on 14.11.2014) has held that:-

"In pursuance of this order without registering the check F.I.R the investigation was conducted and during the investigation the charge sheet was submitted only under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C. The offence under section 307 I.P.C alleged by the opposite party No.2 was found to be not made out.

Now the question arises whether the investigation conducted by the Investigating Officer can be said to be illegal in the present case, I do not think so. Now came to a situation where while investigating a cognizable offence, the police officer conducting an investigation subsequently opines that only non-cognizable offences are made out. This report has to be treated as complaint under section 2(d) Cr.P.C. Now the question arises whether the cognizance on such complaint has been rightly taken by the Magistrate or it is barred by law or without jurisdiction. In this regard section 190 Cr.P.C comes into play which is quoted herein below:-

Cognizance of offence by Magistrate. (1) subject to the provision of this chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in his behalf under sub-secion (2), may take cognizable of any offence (a) upon receiving a complaint of fact which which constitute such offence ; (b) upon a police report of such facts; (c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offense has been committed.

Clause-(1) herein above authorises the Magistrate to take cognizance upon receiving a complaint of that facts which constitute offences. vide Fakhruddin Ahmad Vs. State, 2008 (Cri. L.J, 4377 (SC).

Now the question arises whether on a complaint the summoning of the accused after having taken cognizance under section 190(1)(a) Cr.P.C can be made without examining the witnesses. Ist Proviso to section 200 Cr.P.C answer this question whether it provides the following:-

Provided that, when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses-

(a) If a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint: or

(b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under section 192:

Thus, when a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint and his witnesses the Magistrate is fully empowered to take cognizance and proceed with the matter. Therefore, issue of process against the present applicant cannot be said to be illegal and neither cognizance is barred nor the prosecution is vitiated.

Now first submission made on behalf of the applicant stands negated by the proviso to section 200 Cr.P.C.

The second submission that the instant case has to be tried as a complaint case and not as a State case, this submission is also without comprehending the procedure prescribed in Chapters XIX and XX of the Code of Criminal Procedure. As is evident from these chapters for the cases instituted on a police report if it is a warrant trial a different procedure has to be applied by the Magistrate and for other kind of cases Part-B (Sections 244-247) prescribes a departure from the first kind of case but Chapter XX of the Code of Criminal Procedure for trial of summon cases, as the present one is, no separate procedure has been prescribed either it may be a case instituted on a police report or other case. Thus, the second submission has no bearing to make the trial of case No.417 of 2016 (State of U.P. Vs. Dinesh Chandra Pathak and another), under sections 323 and 504 I.P.C illegal.

The application is without substance, hence dismissed."

9. Another Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the matter of "Arjun Yadav and 2 Ors. vs. State of U.P. and Another" (Application u/s 482 No.31491 of 2016, decided on 19.10.2016), in similar circumstances has held that charge-sheet should be treated as complaint.

10. In the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme has held in the matter of "Keshav Lal Thakur vs. State of Bihar" reported in 1996 (11) SCC 557 has held that :-

"3. We need not go into the question whether in the facts of the instant case the above view of the High Court is proper or not for the impugned proceeding has got to be quashed as neither the police was entitled to investigate into the offence in question nor the Chief Judicial Magistrate to take cognizance upon the report submitted on completion of such investigation. On the own showing of the police, the offence under Section 31 of the Act is non-cognizable and therefore, the police could not have registered a case for such an offence under Section 154 Cr. P.C, Of course, the police is entitled to investigate into a non- cognizable offence pursuant to an order of a competent Magistrate under Section 155(2) Cr. P.C. but, admittedly, no such order was passed in the instant case. That necessarily means, that neither the police could investigate into the offence in question nor submit a report on which the question of taking cognizance could have arisen. While on this point, it may be mentioned that in view of the proviso to Section 2(d) Cr. P.C., which defines 'complaint', the police is entitled to submit, after investigation, a report relating to a non-cognizable offence in which case such a report is to be treated as a 'complaint' of the police officer concerned, but that explanation will not be available to the prosecution here as that relates to a case where the police initiates investigation into a cognizable offence - unlike the present one - but ultimately finds that only a non- cognizable offence has been made out."

11. In the present matter, investigation was undertaken for non-cognizance offence and charge-sheet filed under non-cognizance offences only, therefore, charge-sheet should be treated as a complaint. Therefore, the order impugned i.e. order of taking cognizance is set aside and the learned trial court shall proceed the case as a complaint case under Chapter XV of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

12. With these observations, the application stands disposed off.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Gyanedra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Mr. P.K. Shahi, learned A.G.A assisted by Mr. Madnesh Prasad Singh, learned counsel for the State as also perused the record.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State agree that the present application may be disposed of at this stage without issuing notice or calling for any further affidavits in view of the order proposed to be passed today.

3. This application 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed to quash the judgment and order dated 24.01.2020 passed by the District and Sessions Judge, Lalitpur in Criminal Appeal No. 15 of 2019 (Smt. Manju Tiwari Vs. State of and another), which has been filed against the judgment and order dated 12.03.2019 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lalitpur, under Section 138 N.I. Act, Police Station-Lalitpur, District-Lalitpur. Under the impugned judgment, the appellate court has issued recovery notice for recovery of interim compensation amount.

4. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that a complaint was filed by the opposite party no.2 against the applicant under Section 138 N.I. Act before the concerned court below. On the complaint filed by the opposite party no.2, the concerned court below took cognizance and summoned the applicant for facing the trial. After conclusion of trial, the concerned court below vide judgment and order dated 12.03.2019 convicted the applicant under Section 138 N.I. Act for six months simple imprisonment and awarded fine of Rs. 4,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine one month additional simple imprisonment. The concerned court below has also clarified that out of total amount of fine/compensation of Rs. 4 lacs, Rs. 3.90 lacs has been directed to be paid in favour of opposite party no.2. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment and order of the trial court dated 12.03.2019, the applicant preferred Criminal Appeal No. 15 of 2019 before the Sessions Judge, Lalitpur on 11.04.2019 along with interim bail application. Thereafter, the Appellate Court vide order dated 11.04.2019 has admitted the appeal and released the applicant on bail with furnishing two sureties of Rs. 25,000/- and further directed the applicant to deposit 50% amount of total fine imposed by the trial court. Subsequently, against the order dated 11.04.2019 passed by the Appellate Court, the applicant approached before this Court and the co-ordinate Bench of this Court has modified the order dated 11.04.2019 passed by the Appellate Court to the extent that applicant would deposit 20% of total fine imposed by the trial court. Taking into account the order passed by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court, the Appellate Court vide order dated 24.01.2020 directed the applicant to deposit 20 % of the compensation amount.

5. It has further been submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that husband of the applicant died in jail on 11.11.2019 during medical treatment and the applicant is also continuously ill and undergoing treatment after death of her husband. Therefore, she is not in a position to deposit 20% of compensation amount. In such circumstances, considering the condition of the applicant, till disposal of appeal, the amount of fine/penalty, which is to be paid by the applicant may be kept in abeyance. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the judgment of this Court in the case of Manoj Kumar Vishwakarma vs. State of U.P. and another reported in 2019(10) ACC (SH) 329, wherein, it has been held that since the appeal was admitted for final hearing and the applicant is hopeful of being successful in the appeal, it is justifiable to keep the amount of penalty in abeyance till disposal of appeal.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has conceded the submission advanced by the learned counsel for the applicant and submitted that in the special circumstances, wherein the appeal has been admitted for final hearing and it is hopeful that the applicant may succeed in the appeal, it is justifiable to keep the amount of penalty/fine in abeyance till the disposal of appeal.

7. I have considered the argument of the counsel for the applicant as well as learned A.G.A. for the State. Provision of Section 389 of Cr.P.C is reproduced as under:-

"389. Suspension of sentence pending the appeal; release of appellant on bail.

(1) Pending any appeal by a convicted person, the Appellate Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, order that the execution of the sentence or order appealed against be suspended and, also, if he is in confinement, that he be released on bail, or on his own bond.

(2) The power conferred by this section on an Appellate Court may be exercised also by the High Court in the case of an appeal by a convicted person to a Court subordinate thereto.

(3) Where the convicted person satisfies the Court by which he is convicted that he intends to present an appeal, the Court shall,-

(i) where such person, being on bail, is sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or

(ii) where the offence of which such person has been convicted is a bailable one, and he is on bail, order that the convicted person be released on bail, unless there are special reasons for refusing bail, for such period as will afford sufficient time to present the appeal and obtain the orders of the Appellate Court under sub- section (1); and the sentence of imprisonment shall, so long as he is so released on bail, be deemed to be suspended.

(4) When the appellant is ultimately sentenced to imprisonment for a term or to imprisonment for life, the time during which he is so released shall be excluded in computing the term for which he is so sentenced."

8. A Bench of three Hon'ble Judges of Apex Court in the case of Rama Narang v. Ramesh Narang reported in (1995) 2 SCC 513 wherein the Apex Court has held that in certain situation the order of conviction can be executable and in such a case the power under Section 389(1) of the Code could be invoked. The ratio of the judgment can be traced out, which is extracted below:-

"In certain situations the order of conviction can be executable, in the sense it may incur a disqualification as in the instant case. In such a case the power under Section 389 (1) of the Code could be invoked. In such situations the attention of the appellate court must be specifically invited to the consequences which are likely to fall to enable it to apply its mind to the issue since under Section 389(1) it is under an obligation to support its order for reasons to be recorded by it in writing. If the attention of the Court is not invited to this specific consequence which is likely to fall upon conviction how can it be expected to assign reasons relevant thereto? No one can be allowed to play hide and seek with the Court; he cannot suppress the precise purpose for which he seeks suspension of the conviction and obtain a general order of stay and then contend that the disqualification has ceased to operate."

9. Again three Hon'ble Judges Bench of the Apex Court in Ravikant S. Patil v. Sarvabhouma S. Bagali reported in (2007) 1 SCC 673, held that though the power to suspend an order of conviction, apart from the order of sentence, is not alien to Section 389(1) of the Code, its exercise should be limited to very exceptional cases. In the paragraph nos.11 and 12.3 has held as follows:-

"11) It deserves to be clarified that an order granting stay of conviction is not the rule but is an exception to be resorted to in rare cases depending upon the facts of a case. Where the execution of the sentence is stayed, the conviction continues to operate. But where the conviction itself is stayed, the effect is that the conviction will not be operative from the date of stay. An order of stay, of course, does not render the conviction non-existent, but only non-operative. Be that as it may. Insofar as the present case is concerned, an application was filed specifically seeking stay of the order of conviction specifying that consequences if conviction was not stayed, that is, the appellant would incur disqualification to contest the election. The High Court after considering the special reason, granted the order staying the conviction. As the conviction itself is stayed in contrast to a stay of execution of the sentence, it is not possible to accept the contention of the respondent that the disqualification arising out of conviction continues to operate even after stay of conviction.

12.3) In K.C. Sareen vs. CBI, Chandigarh, (2001) 6 SCC 584, it was held that though the power to suspend an order of conviction, apart from the order of sentence, is not alien to Section 389(1) of the Code, its exercise should be limited to very exceptional cases. It was further held that merely because the convicted person files an appeal to challenge his conviction, the court should not suspend the operation of the conviction and the court has a duty to look at all aspects including the ramifications of keeping such conviction in abeyance. The Bench also noted that the evil of corruption has reached a monstrous dimension. While declining the prayer of the appellant for grant of an order of stay of conviction, the Bench observed that when conviction is on a corruption charge against a public servant, the appellate court should not suspend the order of conviction during the pendency of the appeal, even if the sentence of imprisonment is suspended. The Bench further observed that it would be a sublime public policy that the convicted public servant is kept under disability of the conviction in spite of keeping the sentence of imprisonment in abeyance till the disposal of the appeal or revision. These observations would equally apply when a prayer for stay of order of conviction is made so as to remove the disability to contest an election except, as already noted, in a very exceptional and rare case.

10. A careful reading of the aforesaid judgments of the Apex Court, while recognizing the power to stay conviction or compensation, have cautioned and clarified that such power should be exercised only in exceptional circumstances where failure to stay the conviction, would lead to injustice and irreversible consequences. In the present case, the husband of the applicant died, who was the sole earning member of the family and financial condition of the applicant is very weak. The applicant does not have any source of income. Therefore, in such situation, the applicant is not in a position to deposit 20% of compensation amount. Since the appeal of the applicant has been admitted for final hearing and she was released on bail and the applicant is hopeful of succeeding in the appeal, it is justifiable to keep the amount of penalty in abeyance till disposal of appeal.

11. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, the amount of penalty/fine imposed by the Appellate Court vide order dated 24.01.2020 shall be kept in abeyance till the disposal of the appeal. It is further directed that the Appellate Court may decide the appeal, in accordance with law, preferably within a period of four months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order, if there is no other legal impediment.

12. With the aforesaid observations, this application is finally disposed of.

13. It is made clear that any observations made hereinabove, shall not affect the right or claim of any of the parties in the appeal pending before the Appellate Court.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure,1973-Section 482 - Indian Penal Code,1862-Sections 392,504,506- quashing of-complaint-trial court neglected to make a searching enquiry into the veracity of the allegations and credibility of witnesses-criminal trial cannot be set in motion in a cursory manner-the dispute is of civil nature-concealment of material facts while instituting the criminal proceedings just to harass the applicant is established-A litigant at his own whim cannot invoke the authority of the Magistrate-A really grieved person with clean hands must have access to invoke the said power-the conduct of the complainant has been that of a defaulting borrower who has abused the process of law to defeat his creditors-the complaint clearly mislead the court as it was based on false and frivoulous story.(Para 43,44, 45 ,63, 64,65 to 70)

1. The application under Section 482 has been instituted with the following prayer:-

"Quash entire proceedings along with complaint of Criminal Case No. 1635 (7635) of 2004, Pradeep Kumar Singh Vs Ashish Pandey & others (initiated on the application i.e. under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., dated 20.12.2002 which has been treated by order dated 24.03.2004 as (Criminal Complaint), pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 1, Varanasi under the sections 392, 504, 506, I.P.C. Police Station Jaitpura, District Varanasi as well as the order dated 13.07.2005 of the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 1, Varanasi (Annexure-19)."

2. Sri C. K. Parekh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri M.A. Ansari, learned counsel for the applicants, assailing the impugned orders and the proceedings before the court below, contends that the court at Varanasi does not possess the jurisdiction to try the offences even if the allegations in the complaint are taken on their face value (though the said allegations are denied as false). Learned counsel further contends that the dispute is essentially of civil profile. The criminal proceedings have been instituted to defeat the creditors. The proceedings are actuated by malafide. He further contends that even if evidences in the record are taken on their face value, no offence is disclosed against the applicants. Learned Senior Counsel for the applicants lastly submits, that the complaint is an abuse of process of court. The respondent no. 3 concealed material facts and documents before the learned trial court. The conduct of the complainant/respondent no. 3 deserves to be severely censured and held accountable to law. The complainant/respondent no. 3 has mislead the court by concealing material facts.

3. Per contra, Sri A. K. Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 submits that part of the offence was committed in District Varanasi and the trial court at Varanasi has the territorial jurisdiction to try the offence. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 thereafter contends that on a perusal of the material in the record a prima facie offence is made out against the applicants.

4. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

5. The facts leading upto the instant Section 482 Cr.P.C. proceedings, shall be considered.

6. An application was filed by respondent no. 3, Pradeep Kumar Singh under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi.

7. According to the application the complainant/respondent no. 3 is engaged in the business of running buses, under the name and style of an entity M/s Kumar Travels. One bus in the ownership of the complainant/respondent no. 3, bearing registration no. UP65 R 1659 was booked to transport a marriage party from Varanasi to Lucknow, on 27/28.11.2002.

8. On 27.11.2002 when the aforesaid bus arrived at the office of respondent no. 3/complainant at Varanasi, some persons including Satish Mishra, Ashish Pandey, Rajeev Dixit, threatened the bus driver Kamlesh that they will deal with him at Lucknow. The aforesaid persons tailed the bus in a Tata Sumo till Lucknow. On the night of 27/28.11.2002 at about 1.30 a.m. the said Ashish Pandey, Rajeev Dixit, Satish Mishra and two other persons carrying fire arms with criminal intent and common intention entered the lodging place of the marriage party at Milan Guest House, Manak Nagar, Lucknow. The said persons threatened and assaulted the driver and the cleaner of the bus, robbed a sum of Rs. 5000/-, and escaped with the bus and a VCR fixed therein. The bus driver and one member of the marriage party Raghunath Singh informed the Police Station, Manak Nagar, Lucknow about the aforesaid incident. When the bus driver Kamlesh and the members of the marriage party arrived at Lucknow Bus Station on 28.11.2002 for return journey to Varanasi, at about 1.00 p.m. Ashish Pandey, Rajeev Dixit, Satish Mishra and two other persons forcefully evicted bus driver Kamlesh from the bus by holding a gun to his head. The said persons abducted the bus driver Kamlesh and escaped in their Tata Sumo. The said persons threatened members of the marriage party namely Ravi Chaubey, Rajesh Chaubey and Shashi Singh, who had resisted them. The complaint concludes by summing up the allegation that Ashish Pandey, Satish Mishra, Rajeev Dixit and two other persons with the common intent committed the criminal act of robbing the applicant of his bus and abducted the driver of the bus. Members of the marriage party informed the applicant about the incident. The applicant intimated the Superintendent of Police, Lucknow and Senior Superintendent of Police, Varanasi about the incident on 29.11.2002, however no action in regard thereto was taken by the concerned officials.

9. The learned Trial Court by order dated 03.01.2003 directed the police authorities "to register the case and submit the report of the investigator".

10. The custody of the vehicle was taken by the police authorities. On an application made by respondent no. 3, the aforesaid bus bearing registration no. UP65 R 1659 was released by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 1 Varanasi by order dated 04.04.2003. The order dated 04.04.2003 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 1 Varanasi, releasing the vehicle in favour of the respondent no. 3 described the respondent no. 3 as the registered the owner of the vehicle and consequently entrusted the same to his custody with the following conditions;

The respondent no. 3, was required to deposit the installments, as per the law, during the pendency of the case. The registered owner (respondent no. 3) was also required to produce the vehicle at his own cost before the learned Trial Court as and when required. The S.O. Jaitpura, District Varanasi was directed to make over the possession of the bus to the registered owner of the bus.

11. Pursuant to the investigation under taken by the police authorities on the first information report registered as Case Crime No. 25 of 2002, the police authorities submitted a final report before the learned Trial Court on 10.05.2003. The final report submitted by the police authorities records that upon investigation it came to light that the "matter related to finance". The bus was financed by Tata Finance Ltd. The applicant failed to deposit the amount due to the finance company. The applicant got the criminal proceedings registered, as he was not inclined to deposit the amount due from him to the finance company. The investigating officer concluded that the dispute was civil in nature and no criminal case was made out against the accused persons.

12. The respondent no. 3 filed a protest petition, refuting the final report submitted by the police authorities after investigation.

13. The learned Trial Court allowed the protest petition submitted by the respondent no. 3 by the impugned order dated 24.03.2004. The order dated 24.03.2004 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 1, District Varanasi, rejected the final report submitted by the police authorities, after investigation and directed that the matter be treated as a complaint case.

14. The learned Trial Court in the order dated 24.03.2004, found that the investigating officer was not justified in submitting the final report, merely on the foot that the matter related to finance. In the wake of such discussion the final report submitted by the investigating officer was rejected.

15. The complainant-Pradeep Kumar Singh, respondent no. 3, testified before the learned trial court and gave a statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C., on 24.04.2004. In his statement before the learned trial court P.W.1 Pradeep Kumar Singh stated that on 27.11.2002 when the bus bearing Registration No.U.P. 65 R/1659 was departing from Varanasi to Lucknow with the marriage party, Ashish Pandey, Satish Misra and Rajeev Dixit and two or three other persons accompanying them came to the office and made enquiries regarding the aforesaid bus. The said persons with criminal intent chased after the bus till Lucknow. On the night of 27/28.11.2002 at about 1.30 a.m., the accused persons armed with gun and rifle entered the Milan Restaurant and Guest House at Lucknow, with criminal intent and assaulted the bus driver-Kamlesh. The said persons threatened the bus driver and dragged out him from the bus. The aforesaid persons looted Rs.5,000/- from the person of the driver, and sped away with the bus with the TV and VCR (fixtures in the bus). The information regarding the incident was given immediately thereafter, to the Police Station Manak Nagar, District-Lucknow immediately on 28.11.2002. The accused then arrived at Roadways Bus Stand at about 1.30 a.m. on 28.11.2002, where the driver Kamlesh was awaiting his bus for Varanasi. The said accused persons abducted the driver Kamlesh at gun point. The information about the incident was given to him (complainant) by the members of the marriage party on 29.11.2002. The respondent no. 3 (complainant) submitted a complaint to the Superintendent of Police, Lucknow, Senior Superintendent of Police (Crime Branch), Lucknow and Senior Superintendent of Police, Varanasi. However, no action was taken on the aforesaid complaints.

16. Shashi Singh S/o Shiv Shanker Singh, PW-2 testified before the learned Trial Court. Shashi Singh in his statement under Section 202 Cr.P.C. deposed before the learned Trial Court, that on 27.11.2002, he travelled Varanasi to Lucknow in Bus No. UP 65 R 1659 as part of the marriage party. The bus was parked at Manak Nagar at Milan Guest House, when at 1.00 a.m. many persons bearing arms (gun and rifle) were seen assaulting the driver Kamlesh. When he came close to the bus, he saw the accused Ashish Pandey, Rajeev Dixit, Satish Mishra and two or three other persons forcibly pushed driver Kamlesh out the bus. Thereafter the said persons made a get away with the bus. The information of the incident was given to the Police Station, Manak Nagar on 27/28.11.2002. On 28.11.2002, when the marriage party was set to board a bus to Varanasi from Lucknow bus station, the said accused persons arrived and abducted the driver from the bus at about 1.00 p.m. The information in regard to the said incident was given to the Investigating Officer, Police Station, Jaitpura.

17. One Ravi Chaubey S/o Bachhan Chaubey also testified before the learned Trial Court as PW-3, and got his statement recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C. In his testimony before the Trial Court the said PW-3, Ravi Chaubey deposed that on 27.02.2003 he travelled from Varanasi to Lucknow on 27.11.2002 in Bus No. UP 65 R 1659. The marriage party was staying at Milan Guest House, Manak Nagar, Lucknow. After dinner as he was preparing to go to bed, a sudden noise was heard. He went in the direction of the noise. When he approached the bus he saw many persons armed with rifle and gun assaulting the bus driver. They forced the bus driver out the bus and escaped with the bus. Information regarding the incident was given to the Police Station, Manak Nagar on the same day. On the next date i.e. 28.11.2002, the marriage party had assembled at Lucknow Roadways (bus stand). He had boarded the bus when he saw the same accused arrived at 1.00 p.m. and abducted the driver Kamlesh, at gun point. The said Ravi Chaubey witnessed the incident and recognised the accused persons. He also gave a statement to this effect to the investigating officer. However, he was not aware whether his correct statement was recorded by the investigating officer.

18. In the wake of the aforesaid evidences, the learned trial court in criminal case no.236 of 2003, summoned the applicants under Sections 392, 504 and 506 IPC by order dated 25.05.2004. The applicants assailed the said order by instituting criminal revisions, registered as Criminal Revision No.2891 of 2004, Ashish Pandey Vs. State of U.P. and Criminal Revision No.2890 Satish Misra and another Vs. State of U.P. before this court. The aforesaid companion criminal revisions were decided by a common order and judgement dated 03.12.2004 rendered by this Court.

19. The operative portion of the said judgement is extracted hereunder:

"The learned Magistrate may, however, again consider the criminal complaint along with any other evidence, which may be produced before it and pass suitable orders thereafter in accordance with law."

20. Pursuant to the order passed by this Court, the respondent No.3 introduced two more witnesses, to support his case in the complaint. Sri Kamlesh Singh as P.W.4 testified before the learned trial court. In his statement under Section 202 of the Cr.P.C., the said Kamlesh deposed that he was the driver of the bus No.U.P.65 R 1659. The owner of the bus is Pradeep Kumar Singh. On 27.11.2002, he took the bus to Kumar Travels Agency of respondent no. 3 at Lanka (Varanasi), for obtaining the permit to purchase diesel for onward journey to Lucknow. When he stopped the bus at Kumar Travels, one unnumbered Tata Sumo carrying Ashish Pandey, Satish Mishra and Rajeev Dixit and two other persons came to the office and started a disputation in regard to the ownership of the bus. The said persons asked him for the destination of the marriage party. When he declined to provide such information, they threatened him. When the bus started its onward journey to Lucknow, the said Ashish Pandey, Satish Mishra and Rajeev Dixit and two or three others persons started following the bus. They chased the bus till Milan Guest House at Lucknow. On 26/27.11.2002 at about 1.30 a.m. the aforesaid accused persons armed with a rifle and gun entered into the bus and assaulted him grievously with the buts of the gun. The said persons also threatened him. The said persons extorted Rs.5,000/- from him (which was paid by the marriage party as fare), and forcibly took away the bus, along with the VCR which was installed in the bus. The information regarding the incident was given by one Jadunath Singh, a member of the marriage party to Police Station Manak Nagar, Lucknow. On 28.11.2002 at about 1.00 pm. when he was standing at the roadways bus stand, for return journey to Varanasi, the said accused persons came and abducted him at gun point in a Tata Sumo. The said incident was in the knowledge of the members of the marriage party, who informed the bus owner. The said accused persons wanted him to sign some blank papers, which he refused to do. The statement was given before the learned Magistrate on 21.03.2005.

21. The second witness introduced by the applicant/respondent no. 3, was one P.W. 5 Rajesh. In his deposition before the learned trial court under Section 202 Cr.P.C. the said P.W. 4 Rajesh stated that on 27.11.2002 he was part of the marriage party which was travelling in bus No.U.P. 65 R 1659 from Lanka, Varanasi to Lucknow. The bus stopped at the office of Kumar Travels for taking out the permit. Some persons in an unnumbered Tata Sumo arrived at that point of time and started an altercation with the owner of the bus. The said persons threatened to take the money at Lucknow. The said persons tailed the bus from Varanasi to Lucknow. The driver of the bus informed him that the said persons Ashish Pandey, Satish Misra and Rajeev Dixit and another person, had criminal antecedents. On the night of 27/28.11.2002 at about 1.30 a.m., the said persons carrying a rifle and a gun, boarded the bus while it was located at Milan Guest House, Lucknow. The accused persons looted a sum of Rs.5,000/- from the bus driver, and escaped with the bus and the fixtures therein (CD VCR). The said persons threatened the members of the marriage party, who resisted them and assaulted the driver grievously. On 28.11.2002 at 1.00 pm. when the members of the marriage party gathered for their return journey from Lucknow, the accused persons abducted the driver Kamlesh at the gun point and made a get away in the Tata Sumo vehicle.

22. In the light of the aforesaid evidences and the order passed by this Court, the learned trial court considered the controversy afresh. The learned trial court summoned the applicants under Sections 392, 504, 506(2) IPC, by order dated 13.07.2005.

23. Learned trial court in its order dated 13.07.2005, referenced the earlier proceedings including the complaint and the deposition of P.W. 1 as well as P.W. 2, the order passed by the learned trial court on 25.05.2004 and the judgement and order of this Court dated 03.12.2004. Thereafter, the order dated 13.07.2005, embarks on a consideration of the deposition of P.Ws. 3 and 4. The learned trial court noticed the statements of P.W. 4, Driver Kamlesh and P.W. 5 Rajesh a member of the marriage party, who had testified that the accused persons had threatened the Driver at Varanasi by saying that "he will deal with you". On the foot of the aforesaid testimonies of the P.Ws. 3 and 4, the trial court found that it possessed the jurisdiction to try the accused persons since part of the offence was committed in the territorial jurisdiction of district Varanasi.

24. In the wake of these findings, the trial court summoned the applicants under Sections 392, 504, 506(2) I.P.C. by recording that a prima facie offence was made out against the accused persons under the provisions of the Indian Penal Code.

25. Some facts relevant for a judgment in the instant case have been established beyond a pale of dispute and are admitted by the parties.

26. As per undisputed averments in the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the applicant no. 1 was an Assistant Manager in Tata Finance Ltd. at Lucknow at the time of the incident. The applicants no. 2 and 3 are the employees of Motor and General Sales Limited, 45, Muir Road, Rajapur, Allahabad. M/s Motor and General Sales Limited is a dealer of Tata Engineering and Locomotive Companry (TELCO).

27. The respondent no. 3 had availed financial assistance from Tata Finance to purchase the bus which came into subsequent dispute. A hire purchase agreement was duly executed on 31.03.2001 between the respondent no. 3 and the Tata Finance Ltd. Company. The agreement and the execution thereof is not disputed by the respondent no. 3, though it was not disclosed before the trial court in the complaint. The agreement is annexed as annexure 1 to the application.

28. The document is admitted by both parties, and most relevant to the dispute, is being looked into by this Court.

29. The jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to consider material produced by the accused for the first time when the said material is not before the trial court came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajiv Thapar and others Vs Madan Lal Kapoor reported at 2013 (3) SCC 330. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajiv Thapar (supra) allowed consideration of unimpeachable material tendered by the accused under Section 482 Cr.P.C. proceedings by holding thus:

"29. The issue being examined in the instant case is the jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC, if it chooses to quash the initiation of the prosecution against an accused at the stage of issuing process, or at the stage of committal, or even at the stage of framing of charges. These are all stages before the commencement of the actual trial. The same parameters would naturally be available for later stages as well. The power vested in the High Court under Section 482 CrPC, at the stages referred to hereinabove, would have far-reaching consequences inasmuch as it would negate the prosecution's/complainant's case without allowing the prosecution/complainant to lead evidence. Such a determination must always be rendered with caution, care and circumspection. To invoke its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC the High Court has to be fully satisfied that the material produced by the accused is such that would lead to the conclusion that his/their defence is based on sound, reasonable, and indubitable facts; the material produced is such as would rule out and displace the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused; and the material produced is such as would clearly reject and overrule the veracity of the allegations contained in the accusations levelled by the prosecution/complainant. It should be sufficient to rule out, reject and discard the accusations levelled by the prosecution/complainant, without the necessity of recording any evidence. For this the material relied upon by the defence should not have been refuted, or alternatively, cannot be justifiably refuted, being material of sterling and impeccable quality. The material relied upon by the accused should be such as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the actual basis of the accusations as false. In such a situation, the judicial conscience of the High Court would persuade it to exercise its power under Section 482 CrPC to quash such criminal proceedings, for that would prevent abuse of process of the court, and secure the ends of justice.

30. Based on the factors canvassed in the foregoing paragraphs, we would delineate the following steps to determine the veracity of a prayer for quashment raised by an accused by invoking the power vested in the High Court under Section 482 CrPC."

30. The material in the nature of the hire-purchase agreement and other related documents relied upon by the applicants are of unimpeachable quality and are not disputed by the complainant/respondent no. 3.

31. The first covenant of the hire purchase agreement describes the parties to the agreement as follows:-

(I) Tata Finance Ltd. a Company incorporated under the Companies Act. 1956, having its Registered Office at Ahura Centre, Mahakali Caves Road, Andheri(E), Mumbai (hereinafter called "The Owners", which expression shall include their successors and assigns, where the context so admits) and the owners are parties to the first part. The respondent no. 3/complainant Pradeep Kumar Singh is described as follows Pradeep Kumar Singh (hereinafter called the 'Hirer'). Trilokinath the last party is described as under (hereinafter called the 'Guarantor').

32. The consequence of default in payment are described in Clause 17 of the agreement:-

"17. An event of default shall occur hereunder if the Hirer:-

"(a) fails to pay any of the hire charges or part thereof or other payment required hereunder when due and such failure in the opinion of the Owners, continues for a period of 14 days after notice is sent to the Hirer; or"

33. The options available at the discretion of the owner upon default by the borrower/hirer are described in Clause 18:-

"18. Upon the occurrence of any event of default and at any time thereafter, the Owners shall be entitled to declare all sums due and to become due hereunder for the full term of the Agrement as immediately due and payable and upon the Hirer failing to make the said payment in full within 14 days thereof, the Owners may, at their sole discretion, do any one or more of the following:

(a) Upon notice to the Hirer terminate this Agreement.

(b) Demand that the Hirer return the Vehicle to the Owners at the risk and expenses of the Hirer in the same condition as delivered (ordinary wear and tear excepted), at such location as the Owners may designate and upon failure of the Hirer to do so within 14 days from the date of demand, enter upon premises where the vehicle is located and take immediate possession of and remove the same without liability to the Owners of their Agents for such entry or for damage to property or otherwise.

(c) On such terms and conditions and for such consideration as the Owners may deem fit and with or without any notice to the Hirer sell the vehicle at a public or private sale, otherwise dispose of, hold, use, operate, lease to others or keep idle such Vehicle, all free and clear of any rights to the Hirer and without any duty to account to the Hirer for such action or inaction or for any proceeds in respect thereof.

(e) Exercise any other right or remedy which may be available to them under the applicable law."

34. An arbitration clause is also provided for resolution of any dispute, differences or claim arises out of a contract. Clause 25 is the arbitration clause:

"25. All disputes, differences and/or claims arising out of these presents or as to the construction, meaning or effect hereof or as to the rights and liabilities of the parties hereunder shall be settled by Arbitration to be held in Mumbai in accordance with the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Ordinance, 1996 or any statutory amendments thereof or any statute enacted for replacement thereof and shall be referred to the sole arbitration of a person to be nominated by the Owners in the even of death, refusal, neglect, inability or incapability of the person so appointed to act as an Arbitrator, the Owners may appoint a new arbitrator. The award including interim award/s of the arbitrator shall be final and binding on all parties concerned. The arbitrator shall not give any reason for his award including interim award/s. The arbitrator may lay down from time to time the procedure to be followed by him in conducting arbitration proceedings and shall conduct arbitration proceedings in such manner as he considers appropriate."

35. The rights interse the parties are created by the agreement mentioned herein above. In terms of the agreement the Tata Finance Company is the absolute owner of the vehicle at all points in time. The status of the respondent no. 3 is that of an hirer. In terms of the agreement, the hirer can become the owner of the vehicle after he has paid the entire due amount by way of principal and interest to the Tata Finance Company Ltd. A critical feature of the contract is that the owner (Tata Finance Company Ltd.) has an irrevocable right to enter any premises or places where the vehicle is located and recover possession of the same in the event of default by the hirer. The owner of the vehicle shall not be liable for any criminal or civil action for any attempt on his part to respossess the vehicle in the event of a default.

36. The vehicle sales invoice attest the fact of the delivery to the Hirer by respondent no.3 by Motor and General Sales Limited is also an undisputed document. The vehicle was duly insured by the New India Assurance Company Ltd.

37. The vehicle sales invoice is appended as annexure 3 to the application. The aforesaid document is also not in dispute.

38. The contractual relationship between the parties is established beyond any doubt being duly admitted. The relationship between the complainant/respondent no. 3, and the applicants is governed and regulated by the aforesaid contract. The complainant/respondent no. 3 was a hirer, under the terms of the agreement and not the owner. Respondent no. 3 had not become the owner in terms of the contract.

39. The vehicle was financed by the Tata Finance Ltd. The complainant/respondent no. 3 had not paid timely installments and had defaulted in the payment. The details of the default in payment brought in the record by the applicant could not be disputed by the complainant. On the date of seizure of the vehicle by the Tata Finance Ltd., the complainant/respondent no. 3 was clearly a defaulter.

40. The vehicle was seized by the Tata Finance Ltd., under the clauses of the contract which enable it to take all necessary steps to take possession of the vehicle. The right to resume possession was legally vested in the Tata Finance Ltd. by the covenants of the contract. The actions taken by the applicants/accused to resume possession of the vehicle was at the instance of Tata Finance Ltd. On the date possession was resumed Tata Finance Ltd. was the undisputed owner of the bus while the complainant was admittedly a hirer in default. The action flows entirely from the contract between the parties and being consistent with the same, no criminal liability can be fastened upon the applicant/accused. The dispute is entirely civil in nature.

41. Finance companies have to take steps to repossess the financed properties, in the event of a default in payment of loan. Such clauses are clearly made part of the contracts between the hirer and financer. These rights of the financer are critical to protect the credibility of the financial system.

42. The courts have however noticed, that a number of borrowers adopted novel devices, to avoid paying the loan installments and defeating their creditors. One such ingenious device, is institution of false criminal cases. Even institution of false criminal cases, triggers prolonged prosecution of the officials named therein. This results in the harassment of the officials of the finance company. Very often the finance company and the officials succumb to this black mailing of the defaulting borrowers. This is no doubt an the abuse of the process of court by the defaulting borrowers. Such conduct of defaulting borrowers of instituting false cases to defeat their creditors, cannot be countenanced by the courts, if the stream of justice is to remain pure. In such matters, the courts have to come down with a strong hand as per law, against the persons who abuse the process of courts. If any leniency is shown in these matters or false prosecutions are simply permitted to take their course, it would not only destroy the credibility of the judicial process, but also inflict a mortal blow to the financial system. The courts have to ensure that the sanctity of the contract is protected and the process of the courts is not prone to abuse.

43. In the facts of this case the conduct of the complainant/respondent no. 3 has been that of a defaulting borrower who has abused the process of courts to defeat his creditors.

44. The falsity of the allegations made in the complaint is apparent. The abduction story was totally bald and was never established, even in a primafacie manner before the trial court. No injuries on the person of the driver have been established by any corroborative medical report. The version of grievous assault on the driver by the accused with buts of rifles is clearly figment of a fertile and conspiring imagination. Such exaggerated versions are regular features in the play book of unscrupulous, defaulting borrowers.

45. There is another and most critical aspect of the matter. The complainant while instituting the complaint, concealed material facts and evidences. The suppression of these material facts was akin to assertion of false facts. The complaint clearly mislead the court. His hands were not clean.

46. In the instant case the complainant/respondent no. 3 did not bring the contractual agreement between the complainant/respondent no. 3 and Tata Finance Ltd. in the record before the trial court. The complainant/respondent no. 3 did not reveal his status as that of a hirer who had got the vehicle financed from the Tata Finance Ltd. Nor was the default in payment by the complainant disclosed by respondent no. 3/complainant before the trial court.

47. On the contrary, the complainant/respondent no. 3 created an illusion of ownership of the bus before the courts below. This is evident from a perusal of the order of the court, which made over the custody of the vehicle, to the complainant/respondent no. 3, on the foot that he was the owner of the vehicle.

48. The act of taking custody of the bus by the financier was clearly relatable to a covenant in the contract between the parties. The action taken in exercise of contractual powers and obligations cannot be given a criminal colour to frustrate the contract and avoid the obligation to repay the loan. The criminal prosecution set on foot by concealing such material facts is an abuse of the process of the court.

49. The cause of action of the complaint, if any, even as per the case of the complainant taken on its face value, took place entirely at Lucknow. Even according to the complaint no part of the offence was committed in the territorial jurisdiction of Varanasi. The learned Court below at Varanasi exceeded its territorial jurisdiction by entertaining the complaint in the instant case. The proceedings are liable to be set aside on the ground of lack of territorial jurisdiction alone.

There is good authority to hold that the learned court lacked territorial jurisdiction to entertain the complaint in these facts.

50. In Y. Abraham Ajith and others Vs Inspector of Police, Chennai and Another, reported at (2004) 8 SCC 100, the issue regarding territorial jurisdiction in regard to a criminal complaint came to be challenged. The facts of the case as recorded in Y. Abraham Ajith and others (supra) were thus:

"When the matter stood thus, the appellants filed an application under Section 482 of the Code before the High Court alleging that the Magistrate concerned has no jurisdiction even to entertain the complaint even if the allegations contained therein are accepted in toto. According to them, no part of the cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the court concerned. The complaint itself disclosed that after 15-4-1997, the respondent left Nagercoil and came to Chennai and was staying there. All the allegations which are per se without any basis took place according to the complainant at Nagercoil, and therefore, the courts at Chennai did not have the jurisdiction to deal with the matter. It was further submitted that earlier a complaint was lodged by the complainant before the police officials concerned having jurisdiction; but after inquiry no action was deemed necessary.

51. Interpreting Section 177 Cr.P.C. as regards territorial jurisdiction of a criminal court the Hon'ble Supreme Court held thus:

"12. The crucial question is whether any part of the cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the court concerned. In terms of Section 177 of the Code, it is the place where the offence was committed. In essence it is the cause of action for initiation of the proceedings against the accused.

13. While in civil cases, normally the expression "cause of action" is used, in criminal cases as stated in Section 177 of the Code, reference is to the local jurisdiction where the offence is committed. These variations in etymological expression do not really make the position different. The expression "cause of action" is, therefore, not a stranger to criminal cases.

14. It is settled law that cause of action consists of a bundle of facts, which give cause to enforce the legal inquiry for redress in a court of law. In other words, it is a bundle of facts, which taken with the law applicable to them, gives the allegedly affected party a right to claim relief against the opponent. It must include some act done by the latter since in the absence of such an act no cause of action would possibly accrue or would arise.

15. The expression "cause of action" has acquired a judicially settled meaning. In the restricted sense cause of action means the circumstances forming the infraction of the right or the immediate occasion for the action. In the wider sense, it means the necessary conditions for the maintenance of the proceeding including not only the alleged infraction, but also the infraction coupled with the right itself. Compendiously, the expression means every fact, which it would be necessary for the complainant to prove, if traversed, in order to support his right or grievance to the judgment of the court. Every fact, which is necessary to be proved, as distinguished from every piece of evidence, which is necessary to prove such fact, comprises in "cause of action".

16. The expression "cause of action" has sometimes been employed to convey the restricted idea of facts or circumstances which constitute either the infringement or the basis of a right and no more. In a wider and more comprehensive sense, it has been used to denote the whole bundle of material facts.

17. The expression "cause of action" is generally understood to mean a situation or state of facts that entitles a party to maintain an action in a court or a tribunal; a group of operative facts giving rise to one or more bases for sitting; a factual situation that entitles one person to obtain a remedy in court from another person. In Black's Law Dictionary a "cause of action" is stated to be the entire set of facts that gives rise to an enforceable claim; the phrase comprises every fact, which, if traversed, the plaintiff must prove in order to obtain judgment. In Words and Phrases (4th Edn.), the meaning attributed to the phrase "cause of action" in common legal parlance is existence of those facts, which give a party a right to judicial interference on his behalf.

18. In Halsbury's Laws of England (4th Edn.) it has been stated as follows:

" "Cause of action' has been defined as meaning simply a factual situation, the existence of which entitles one person to obtain from the court a remedy against another person. The phrase has been held from earliest time to include every fact which is material to be proved to entitle the plaintiff to succeed, and every fact which a defendant would have a right to traverse. "Cause of action' has also been taken to mean that a particular act on the part of the defendant which gives the plaintiff his cause of complaint, or the subject-matter of grievance founding the action, not merely the technical cause of action."

52. Thereafter applying the aforesaid principles the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Y. Abraham Ajith and others (supra) concluded the controversy in the following manner:

"19. When the aforesaid legal principles are applied, to the factual scenario disclosed by the complainant in the complaint petition, the inevitable conclusion is that no part of cause of action arose in Chennai and, therefore, the Magistrate concerned had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter. The proceedings are quashed. The complaint be returned to Respondent 2 who, if she so chooses, may file the same in the appropriate court to be dealt with in accordance with law. The appeal is accordingly allowed."

53. The stage is now set for discussion on the judicial authorities in point on the maintainability of the complaints. The validity of criminal proceedings instituted by a defaulting borrower upon lodgment of a complaint with exaggerated versions of an offence fell for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sardar Trilok Singh and others Vs Satya Deo Tripathi reported at AIR 1979 SC 850.

54. In Sardar Trilok Singh (supra) the complainant acquired the truck with financial assistance rendered by the firm of the appellant/accused Triloki Singh under the name and style of Sardar Finance Corporation, Kanpur. The agreement between the parties which was in the form of a duly executed formal agreement was a hire purchase agreement. The complainant defaulted in the payment of installments. The truck was seized by the financier upon the default. This led to the criminal complaint against the financier. The complaint was lodged under Sections 395, 468, 465, 471, 412, 120-B/34 I.P.C. in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kanpur. Initially a first information report was lodged in regard to the said offence. The final report was submitted by the investigating officer. The final report was rejected by the learned trial court. The Sessions court dismissed the revision. This court rejected the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Thereafter a complaint was filed against the applicant under the aforesaid provisions of IPC. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sardar Trilok Singh (supra) quashed the criminal proceedings by holding thus:

"5. We are clearly of the view that it was not a case where any processes ought to have been directed to be issued against any of the accused. On the well-settled principles of law if was very suitable case where the criminal proceeding ought to have been quashed by the High Court in exercise of its inherent power. The dispute raised by the respondent was purely of a civil nature even assuming the facts stated by him to be substantially correct. Money must have been advanced to him and his partner by the financier on the basis of some terms settled between the parties. Even assuming that the agreement entered on 29th March, 1973 was not duly filled up and the signature of the complainant was obtained on a blank form, it is to be noticed that the amount of the two monthly installments admittedly paid by him was to the tune of Rs. 3,566/- exactly @ Rs. 1,783/- per month. The complaint does not say as to when these two monthly installments were paid. In the First Information Report which he had lodged he had not, stated that the third monthly installment was payable on July 31, 1973. Rather, from the statement in the First Information Report it appears that the installment had already become due on 28-7-1973 when the complainant went out of Kanpur according to his case. The question as to what were the terms of the settlement and whether they were duly incorporated In the printed agreement or not were all questions which could be properly and adequately decided in a civil court. Obtaining signature of a person on blank sheet of paper by itself is not an offence of forgery or the like. It becomes an offence when the paper is fabricated into a document of the kind which attracts the relevant provisions of the Penal Code making it an offence or when such a documents is used as a genuine document. Even assuming that the appellants either by themselves or in the company of some others went and seized the truck on 30-7-1973 from the house of the respondent they could and did claim to have done so in exercise of their bonafide right of seizing the truck on the respondent's failure to pay the third monthly installment in time. It was therefore, a bona fide civil dispute which led to the seizure of the truck. On the face of the complaint petition itself the highly exaggerated rated version given by the respondent that the appellants went to his house with a mob aimed with deadly weapons and committed the offence of dacoity in taking away the truck was so very unnatural and untrustworthy that it could not sake the matter out of the realm of civil dispute. No body on the side of the respondent was hurt. Even a scratch was cot given to any body.

6. In our opinion on the facts and in the circumstances of this case the criminal prosecution deserves to be quashed. On behalf of the respondent it was argued that the appellants' filing petition in the High Court for quashing the proceeding before issuance of the summons was pre mature and the high Court could not have quashed it. In our opinion the point is so wholly with out substance that it has been stated merely to be rejected. Since the parties during the course of the hearing in this appeal showed their inclination to settle up and end all their disputes and quarrels in relation to the matter in question after we indicated our view that we are going to allow the appeal and quash the proceeding, we have not thought it necessary to elaborately give other reasons in support of our order."

55. Similarly lawfulness of criminal proceedings arising upon exercise of the right by a financier to resume possession of vehicle flowing from a hire purchase agreement in which the borrower had defaulted in the loan instalment arose for determination before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.A. Mathai alias Babu Vs Kora Bibbikutty reported at 1996 (7) SCC 212. The case arose out of a conviction in criminal appeal by the High Court under Section 379 IPC read with Section 114 IPC in the said fact situation. The Hon'ble Supreme Court held thus:

"3. It is more than clear that the hire-purchase agreement with the financier was entered into much prior in time, whereafter the agreement of sale between A-2 and the complainant took place, and which was subject to the rights of the financier. It is even otherwise understandable that A-2 could not have passed a better title of the bus to the complainant than that she had acquired for herself under the hire-purchase agreement. Though we do not have the advantage of reading the hire-purchase agreement, but as normally drawn it would have contained the clause that in the event of the failure to make payment of instalment/s the financier had the right to resume possession of the vehicle. Since the financier's agreement with A-2 contained that clause of resumption of possession, that has to be read, if not specifically provided in the agreement, as part of the sale agreement between A-2 and the complainant. It is, in these circumstances, the financier took possession of the bus from the complainant with the aid of the appellants. It cannot thus be said that the appellants, in any way, had committed the offence of theft and that too, with the requisite mens rea and requisite dishonest intention. The assertion of rights and obligations, accruing to the appellants under the aforesaid two agreements, wiped out any dishonest pretence in that regard from which it could be inferred that they had done so with a guilty intention. In this view of the matter, we think that the High Court was in error in upsetting the well-considered judgment of the Court of Session. We thus set aside the impugned judgment and order of the High Court and acquit the appellants of the charges. They are on bail. Their bail bonds stand cancelled. Fine if already paid, be refunded to the appellants. The appeal is, thus allowed."

56. In the case of Charanjit Singh Chadha Vs Sudhir Mehra reported at 2001 (7) SCC 417, the legality of criminal proceedings instituted against a non banking financial institution which had seized possession of a financed vehicle upon default by the borrower by recourse to the provisions of hire purchase agreement between the parties was in issue. The Hon'ble Supreme Court likened to hire purchase agreement to a contract of bailment. Relying upon the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.L. Johar and Co. Vs Deputy Commercial Tax Officer reported at AIR 1965 SC 1082, the elements of hire purchase agreement were crystalised as follows "(1) element of bailment; and (2) element of sale, in the sense that it contemplates an eventual sale. The element of sale fructifies when the option is exercised by the intending purchaser after fulfilling the terms of the agreement. When all the terms of the agreement are satisfied and the option is exercised a sale takes place of the goods which till then had been hired."

57. In Charan Singh Chadha (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court set forth the rationale and elements of a hire purchase agreement as follows:

"5. Hire-purchase agreements are executory contracts under which the goods are let on hire and the hirer has an option to purchase in accordance with the terms of the agreement. These types of agreements were originally entered into between the dealer and the customer and the dealer used to extend credit to the customer. But as hire-purchase scheme gained in popularity and in size, the dealers who were not endowed with liberal amount of working capital found it difficult to extend the scheme to many customers. Then the financiers came into the picture. The finance company would buy the goods from the dealer and let them to the customer under hire-purchase agreement. The dealer would deliver the goods to the customer who would then drop out of the transaction leaving the finance company to collect instalments directly from the customer.

Under hire-purchase agreement, the hirer is simply paying for the use of the goods and for the option to purchase them. The finance charge, representing the difference between the cash price and the hire-purchase price, is not interest but represents a sum which the hirer has to pay for the privilege of being allowed to discharge the purchase price of goods by instalments."

58. Finally in Charan Singh Chadha (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court ruled out the applicability of Section 378 IPC in view of the hire-purchase agreement on the foot of the following reasons:

"12.Before the learned Single Judge, the respondent had contended that the vehicle was in the possession of the respondent and it was taken out of his custody without his consent and therefore, the offence of theft is made out. This plea is also without any basis as the appellants have taken repossession of the vehicle in exercise of their right under the agreement. There may be instances where the owner of the goods may commit theft of his own goods. Illustration (k) of Section 378 IPC, which is an instance of such a theft, is to the following effect:

"(k) Again, if A, having pawned his watch to Z, takes it out of Z's possession withoutZ's consent, not having paid what he borrowed on the watch, he commits theft, though the watch is his own property inasmuch as he takes it dishonestly."

13. But in the instant case, the owner repossessing the vehicle delivered to the hirer under the hire-purchase agreement will not amount to theft as the vital element of "dishonest intention" is lacking. The element of "dishonest intention" which is an essential element to constitute the offence of theft cannot be attributed to a person exercising his right under an agreement entered into between the parties as he may not have an intention of causing wrongful gain or to cause wrongful loss to the hirer. It is appropriate to note that the term "dishonestly" is defined under Section 24 IPC as follows:

"24. "Dishonestly'.--Whoever does anything with the intention of causing wrongful gain to one person or wrongful loss to another person, is said to do that thing "dishonestly'."

59. Finally after reiterating the law laid down in Sardar Triloki Singh (supra) and K.A. Mathai (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Charan Singh Chadha (supra) held:

"17. The hire-purchase agreement in law is an executory contract of sale and confers no right in rem on the hirer until the conditions for transfer of the property to him have been fulfilled. Therefore, the repossession of goods as per the term of the agreement may not amount to any criminal offence. The agreement (Annexure P-1) specifically gave authority to the appellants to repossess the vehicle and their agents have been given the right to enter any property or building wherein the motor vehicle was likely to be kept. Under the hire-purchase agreement, the appellants have continued to be the owners of the vehicle and even if the entire allegations against them are taken as true, no offence was made out against them. The learned Single Judge seriously flawed in his decision and failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in him by not quashing the proceedings initiated against the appellants. We, therefore, allow this appeal and set aside the impugned judgment. The complaint and any other proceedings initiated pursuant to such complaint are quashed."

60. Lastly in the case of Anup Sarmah Vs Bhola Nath Sharma and others, reported at 2013 (1) SCC 400, the Hon'ble Supreme Court adopting the reasoning in Trilok Singh and others (supra) and following the ratio of Charanjit Singh Chadha and others (supra), K.A. Mathai alias Babu and another (supra) summarised the legal position in similar terms:

"8. In view of the above, the law can be summarised that in an agreement of hire purchase, the purchaser remains merely a trustee/bailee on behalf of the financier/financial institution and ownership remains with the latter. Thus, in case the vehicle is seized by the financier, no criminal action can be taken against him as he is repossessing the goods owned by him.

61. The authorities cited in the preceding paragraphs are fully applicable to the facts of this case and the impugned criminal proceedings are vulnerable to a judicial interdict.

62. The courts have set their face against the abuse of process of law by unscrupulous litigants. The courts have consistently adopted various stringent measures to discourage unscrupulous litigants by imposing costs and institution of criminal prosecution for false cases.

63. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Priyanka Srivastava and another Vs State of Uttar Pradesh and others reported at 2015 (6) SCC 287, considered an issue relating to institution of false criminal proceedings only to harass an adversary. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Priyanka Srivastava (supra) with a view to curb the abuse of court by institution of false complaint and triggering criminal prosecution to harass or ward of creditors held:

"29. At this stage it is seemly to state that power under Section 156(3) warrants application of judicial mind. A court of law is involved. It is not the police taking steps at the stage of Section 154 of the Code. A litigant at his own whim cannot invoke the authority of the Magistrate. A principled and really grieved citizen with clean hands must have free access to invoke the said power. It protects the citizens but when pervert litigations takes this route to harass their fellow citizens, efforts are to be made to scuttle and curb the same.

30. In our considered opinion, a stage has come in this country where Section 156(3) CrPC applications are to be supported by an affidavit duly sworn by the applicant who seeks the invocation of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. That apart, in an appropriate case, the learned Magistrate would be well advised to verify the truth and also can verify the veracity of the allegations. This affidavit can make the applicant more responsible. We are compelled to say so as such kind of applications are being filed in a routine manner without taking any responsibility whatsoever only to harass certain persons. That apart, it becomes more disturbing and alarming when one tries to pick up people who are passing orders under a statutory provision which can be challenged under the framework of the said Act or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. But it cannot be done to take undue advantage in a criminal court as if somebody is determined to settle the scores.

32. The present lis can be perceived from another angle. We are slightly surprised that the financial institution has been compelled to settle the dispute and we are also disposed to think that it has so happened because the complaint cases were filed. Such a situation should not happen."

64. The trial court is thus under obligation to make a searching enquiry and accord full consideration to the veracity of allegations before finding a prima facie case to set the trial on foot. Criminal trial cannot be set in motion in a cursory manner by the trial court.

65. In the instant case, the learned trial court neglected to make a searching enquiry into the veracity of the allegations and credibility of witnesses. The approach of the learned trial court was superficial and cursory to say the least. This factor vitiates the impugned orders passed by the learned trial court.

66. The cumulative effect of the preceding discussion is a prima facie offence was not made out against the applicants for the trial to proceed.

67. In the wake of the preceding discussion this Court finds that the criminal proceedings instituted against the applicants are not only unlawful but an abuse of the process of court and are liable to be quashed.

68. The proceedings along with complaint of Criminal Case No. 1635 (7635) of 2004, Pradeep Kumar Singh Vs. Ashish Pandey and Others (initiated on the application under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. dated 20.12.2002 which has been treated by order dated 24.03.2004 as Criminal Complaint), pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 1, Varanasi under Sections 392, 504, 506 IPC, Police Station Jaitpura, District Varanasi as well as the order dated 13.07.2005 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 1, Varanasi, are quashed.

69. Concealment of material facts while instituting and processing the criminal proceedings has been established. The complaint is an abuse of the process of court. The respondent no. 3 cannot escape the consequences of coming to the court with unclean hands.

70. In these facts the ends of justice will be secured by imposition of costs upon the respondent no. 3. The respondent no. 3 shall pay Rs. 25,000/- to each of three applicants and Rs. 25,000/- to the State Legal Services Authority. The entire payment shall be deposited within eight weeks before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi. In case of default the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi, shall ensure recovery of the amount as arrears of land revenue.

71. The application is allowed.

B. If possibility of conviction is remote and continuation of criminal cases would cause extreme injustice to the accused, high courts may quash the criminal proceedings. (Para 8,9)

1. The matter has been placed at the behest of Hon'ble the Chief Justice.

2. Shri R.P. Yadav has filed his Vakalatnama for the original complainant Lakhan Singh son of Sri Shankar.

3. The parties are litigating since 1989, the accused eight in numbers belong to a group of persons of the same village.

4. Mahendra Singh Accused No.1, now 65 years old and has been authorized to litigate for all. It appears that compromise came to be entered into on 7.2.2020, the complaint came to be filed noncompoundableoffence,butfortheendofjustice, exactly 35 years back in 1985. The dispute/incident occurred on 4.9.1984, it was not that major issue between the family members.

5. The learned Magistrate on 3.2.1988 took cognizance and summoned the accused for facing trial under Sections 147, 149, 452, 323, 504 and 506 of Indian Penal Code. The Trial Court has not proceeded further for 35 years, no witnesses were examined on 7th February, 2020 compromise before a notary has been entered into which has been filed as Annexure-3 to the petition.

6. The learned counsel for respondent-complainant has also accepted there is a compromise between the parties. The fact that many of the offences are in the realm of non compoundable offence, but the question is what would be end result of the litigation which is pending since 1985. If this Court does not accept the compromise and relegates the parties to undergo the process of going before the trial court, what would be the end result? It would be that the evidences would be led and at the end of the trial for want of evidence, the accused would be acquitted. It would be resulting into what I would call default acquittal when we are faced with both the pendamic and pendency as there is no element of morality or public damage at large. The Dispute being in the realm of petty dispute, the doctrine of judicial restrain cannot be brought into action here in this case.

7. The recent judgments of the Apex Court and this High Court will permit this Court to quash the proceedings defile the same and direct the court below to defile the proceedings. The reliance placed by the counsel for the petitioners on the decisions of the Apex Court for similar matter under Sections 149, 147, 452 relied by my brother (Justice Om Prakash VII) would be applicable.

8. The guidelines laid down in 2014 6 SCC 466, Navindra Singh and others versus State of Punjab would apply to the facts of this case. The material on record would go to show that end of the justice would justify exercising the power under Section 482 of Criminal Procedure Code. I am also supported in my view by 2013 SCC OnLine Ald 5681, Saifula versus State of U.P.

9. The petition is accepted. The proceedings of Complaint Case No.481 of 1989 (Lakhan Singh Versus Basudev and others), under Sections 323, 147, 149, 452, 504, 506 I.P.C. in the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Jhansi are quashed and set aside.

10. The learned Judge to defile the matter without insisting the presence of parties.

[1] On 29.01.2020, Registrar(Listing) of this Court has apprised me about two orders of Hon'ble the Apex Court dated 12.09.2019 and 30.01.2020, by which Hon'ble the Apex Court has expressed its desire to decide aforementioned cases as expeditiously as possible within a period of two months. Since, there was a clear and unambigous directions from Hon'ble the Apex Cout, both the applications filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. numbered above, should be taken at top most priority but for one reason or other, the matter is being deferred till 05.03.2020. Today(05.03.2020), this Court heard learned counsel for the parties at length and judgments are ordered to be dictated in chamber.

[2] Since parties, its genesis as well as dates and its events are almost one and same in both the cases and thus, for the sake of convience and brevity, the Court is proposing to decide/dispose of the matter by one common judgment after hearing the counsels for both the parties on merits.

APPLICATION U/S 482 No. - 12176 of 2013 (Sunil Pathak And 7 Others vs. State of U.P. and Another

[3] Heard Sri Anurag Shukla and Sri Bharat Bhushan Dubey, learned counsels for the applicants, Sri Satya Dheer Singh Jadaun, learned counsel for opposite party as well as learned A.G.A. Pleadings have been exchanged between the parties and the matter is ripe for final submissions.

[4] There are eight applicants who are jointly invoking the extra-ordinary jurisdiction of this Court under section 482 Cr.P.C. with the prayer to quash the entire proceeding of complaint case no.52 of 2011(Smt. Sunita Vs. Sunil Pathak and others) under section 395 IPC, Police Station-Dibiyapur, District-Auraiya pending in the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge(D.A.A) District-Auraiya and summoning order dated 15.02.2013. Bench of this Court vide its order dated 11.04.2013 has granted interim protection by staying the proceedings of the case referred above by issuing notices to the private parties.

Before deciding the case, it is imperative to spell out the bare skelton facts of the case in hand.

[5] Contention raised by learned counsel for the applicants is that the contesting parties are at the warring ends since long. Wayback in the year 1994, husband and other family members of Ms. Sunita Tiwari(opposite party no.2) have brutally assaulted and killed one Ram Asre, brother of applicant nos. 4, 5 and 6. An FIR to this effect was lodged by one Ram Das Pathak against five named persons specifying the role of actual assault on the deceased to one Pintu@Pradyum Tiwari, husband of opposite party no.2. The said FIR was registered as Case Crime No.444 of 1994 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 504, 506 IPC, Police Station-Dibiyapur, District-Etawah. Few of the named assailants were on run and the police has submitted its report under section 173(2) Cr.P.C. endorsing the names in the column of "Absconders".

[6] Again, in the year 2007, history has repeated when husband and family members of opposite party no.2 again assaulted and committed yet another murder of brother of present applicant namely Ram Das Pathak(now deceased) of which Ram Swaroop Pathak has got an FIR registered against seven named accused persons including the husband of opposite party no.2, Pintu@Praduman Tiwari as one of the named accused. The incident took place on 18.11.2007 at 1:30 p.m. of which the FIR was got registered on the same day at 15:30 p.m. as Case crime no.300 of 2007 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307 IPC, Police Station-Dibiyapur, Distric-Auraiya.

The story set up in the instant FIR was that at 18.11.2007 around 1:30 in the afternoon, informant's brother Ram Das@Allu Pathak and informants neice Km. Sarita went to purchase some domestic goods from Hari Kishan Tiwari, a quota dealer, all of sudden, named accused persons who are eight in numbers including Pintu@Praduman Tiwari all armed with lethal fire arms assaulted upon informant's brother Ram Das@Allu. All the assailants armed with deadly fire arms(licensed or even otherwise) virtually pumped bullets in the body of deceased Ram Das@Allu Pathak causing a cold-blooded murder of the deceased in broad day light in a most brutal and barbaric way. An FIR of this case too was registered as Case Crime No.300 of 2007 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307 IPC, Police Station-Dibiyapur, District-Auraiya on 18.11.2007 at 15:30 hrs against Pintoo@Praduman Tiwari and six others causing murder of Ram Das Pathak@Allu Pathak and injuring Anuj.

[7] Prompt FIR was got registered at 15:30 hours at Police Station-Dibiyapur, District-Auraiya. It is next contended that place of incident is near the shop of Hari Kishan Tiwari, Quota Dealer, village-Chapauli. It is also worthwhile to point out here that Pintoo@Praduman Tiwari is the common name in both the case crime numbers of 1994 as well as 2007.

[8] The next contention raised by learned counsel is that in order to "create" counter pressure/case and to save themselves from the wrath of the present FIR i.e. case crime no.300 of 2007, opposite party no.2, left no stone unturned to lodge the FIR against the applicants by creating an imaginary story. When all the attempts went in vain, thereafter, with the aid and help of local political leaders, on 06.05.2008(almost six months after), opposite party no.2 has succeeded in lodging the FIR as case crime no.300A of 2007 under section 395 IPC against as many as eleven named accused persons for committing dacoity on 18.11.2007 around 2:00 p.m. on the same day of which, earlier FIR, having case crime no.300 of 2007 was got registered. At this juncture, learned counsel for the applicants has drawn attention of the Court to the date and time of both the incidents. Intrestingly, time and date of case crime no.300 of 2007 is 18.11.2007 at 1:30 in the day, whereas, time and date of incident of case crime no.300A of 2007 is 18.11.2007 itself but at 2:00 p.m, whereby allegations of dacoity has been pasted upon all the applicants. It is contended that no plausible justification coming forward explaining the inordinate delay of six months in lodging the FIR having Case Crime No.300A of 2007.

[9] After conducting thorough investigation, police has submitted "closure report" under section 173(2) Cr.P.C. on 17.11.2008 in case crime no.300A of 2007 under section 395 IPC against applicants. Dissatisified by the ultimate result of invsetigation of case crime no.300A of 2007, opposite party no.2 has filed protest petition before the court below which too was consigned to records after being rejected on 08.06.2011 and learned Special Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya has accepted the final outcome of the investigation and put a seal of approval over the said "Closure Report. Aggrieved by the order of Special Judge, D.A.A., an application under section 482 Cr.P.C. was preferred before Bench of this Court bearing No.20615 of 2011 decided on 05.07.2011 and this Court too did not oblige the opposite party no.2 in upsetting the orders of Special Judge, D.A.A. and rejected the aforesaid application, part of which is quoted hereinbelow :-

"From perusal of the record, it appears that the learned Special Judge has passed well reasoned order dated 08.06.2011. The trial court has not committed any error in passing the impugned order. Therefore, the prayer for quashing the aforesaid order is refused.

It shall be open to the applicant to file a complaint in respect of the commission of alleged offence. In case, any complaint is filed by the applicant before the court concerned, the court concerned shall proceed further in accordance with law.

With the above direction, this application is finally disposed of. "

[10] While passing the aforesaid order confirming the orders of Special Judge(D.A.A.) Auraiya, a tangent/casual observation was made by this Court that it shall be open for the applicant that applicant, if so advised, may file complaint in respect of the alleged offence and in case such application is filed, the court concerned shall proceed strictly in accordance with law. There was no obligation or mandate by the High Court to file complaint case.

[11] On the strength of abovementioned casual and tangent observation of the court, opposite party no.2, just to create counter pressure on 23.07.2011, has filed complaint case against the accused persons with the allegation of committing dacoity of Rs.9,000/- from the complainant. As per the procedure laid down in Chapter XV of Cr.P.C., statement of opposite party no.2 was recorded under section 202 Cr.P.C. on 08.08.2011. Thereafter, on 04.10.2011, statements under section 200 Cr.P.C. of Mithelesh Kumari(CW-1), Shashi Prabha(CW-2) were recorded and on 27.03.2012 statements of Virendra Kumar(CW-3) and Sita Ram(CW-4) were recorded. The entire endeavour and attempt on the part of opposite party no.2 is to anyhow create counter version/pressure of the aforementioned muder case may be diluted and mellow down. In this spree, they managed to procure the injury report of one Anurag Krishna the alleged injured from the doctor on 23.11.2007 which is annexed on record. Learned Special Judge/Additional Sessions Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya vide order dated 15.02.2013 was pleased to summon the applicants under section 395 IPC by passing an order without furnishing necessary details for recording his satisfaction it it. It seems that learned Judge was over-awed by the alleged criminal antecendents few of applicants

[12] Submission advanced by learned counsel for the applicants is that impugned summoning order dated 15.02.2013 by learned Special Judge(D.A.A.) Auraiya is a usual one. In the opening paragraph, there is narration of prosecution case and its genesis. Not only this, learned trial Judge has completely misread the orders of this Court while disposing the earlier 482 Cr.P.C. application. This Court has never directed or granted any liberty to file the complaint as mentioned in the impugned summoning order. In the next paragraph, the material supplied by the complainant in support of her case, including the alleged criminal history of few of the applicants and in the last paragraph of impugned summoning order, it is dedicated to drop the names of Smt. Shakuntl Devi and Smt. Shanti Devi as an accused. Being ladies, no case against them is make out under section 395 IPC. Since, the rest of the accused are male members and few of them are having criminal history, thus, per opinion of the Additional Sessions Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya, they are prima facie culprit of Section 395 IPC. Except, this, no other reason has been attributed by the court concerned after assigning any other good reason for summoning the applicants as accused.

[13] Per contra, Sri S.D. Jadaun, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has filed counter affidavit sworn by none other than Smt. Sunita Tiwari herself. In the counter affidavit, answering respondents has seriously disputed the contents of paragraph no.4 of the affidavit. In paragraph no.6 of the counter affidavit, much emphasis has been laid upon the injury report of Anurag Krishan(Devar of opposite party no.2) who has allegedly sustained the fire arm injury. In this paragraph, number of lame excuses were extended for not lodging case crime no.300A of 2007 within time. In paragraph no.8 of the counter affidavit, strange averment has been made, that case crime no.300 of 2007 and present case are related to same incident and the applicants have succeeded in lodging their FIR against husband of opposite party no.2 and other family members on account of his political approach. Besides this, there is not even reference that the applicants have got long criminal history to their credit.

[14] Learned counsel for the applicants has drawn the attention of the Court with regard to time and date of incident of both the cases is 18.11.2007. In case crime no.300 of 2007 is at 1:30 p.m. whereas time and date of incident in case crime no.300A of 2007 is at 2:00 p.m. in the day. There is a difference of only half hour between these two incidents but there are two different places of incident. In case crime no.300 of 2007, place of incident is in front of shop of Hari Kishan Tiwari, Quota dealer whereas in the instant complaint case, place of incident is residence of complaint village chapauli. Secondly in paragraph no.2 of the complaint, it has been mentioned that on the date and time of the incident, all the accused persons armed with rifle, gun, tamancha, kanta, bhala barged into the house of applicants. They started firing by their respective fire arms and looted Rs.9,000/- from the coffers of Mithelesh Kumar and various jewellery and ornaments including golden chain, finger rings, silver ornaments etc. During this transaction, it is allged in paragraph no.3 that since, accused persons were assaulted upon indiscriminately, therefore, deceased Ram Das Pathak has sustained gun shot injury from his own persons and Anurag Krishna has also sustained injuries. In this firing, informant's family members has also sustained gun shot injury. In paragraph no.6 of the complaint, it has been mentioned that investigation of case crime no.300A of 2007 was transmitted to C.B.C.I.D who after holding indepth investigation, has submitted final report which was eventually accepted by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A, Auraiya. After misreading orders of this Court dated 05.07.2011, whereby application under section 482 Cr.P.C. preferred by opposite party no.2 was rejected after making a tangent remark regarding filing of the complaint case. Opposite party no.2 has taken it as "direction" to file complaint case and accordingly, present complaint case was filed.

[15] I have perused the impugned summoning order dated 15.02.2013 as well as the injury report of Anurag Krishna, an alleged injured from the side of complainant of which learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has laid much emphasis. This injury report is of 23.11.2007 issued/procured from one doctor of Unnao and after observing singular injury over his person that too on the right side of the leg. The doctor concerned has opined, that duration of the injury is three days back. If it is computed then, these injuries sustained by alleged injured Anurag Krishna would come around 20.11.2007, whereas the incident is of 18.11.2007. Therefore, there is no parallel between the incident and the injuries sustained by Anurag.

[16] It is lastly argued by learned counsel for the applicants that in paragraph no.2 of the complaint, it has been alleged that assailants were armed with rifal, bhala, kanta, tamancha but Smt. Sunita Tiwari in her statement under section 200 Cr.P.C., has specified that Sunil was carrying rifal and Pawan was having gun only. Rest of the persons were unarmed who barged into the house. There is marked deviaton and shift from the prosecution story and the eye witness account given by Ms. Sunita Tiwari-opposite party no.2. A perusal of the impugned summoning order dated 15.02.2013 clearly shows that names as mentioned above i.e. Shakuntla Devi and Shanti Devi have been dropped and it seems that learned Additional Sessions Judge was got extra conscious of the fact that the applicants are having criminal antecendents and therefore, they might have committed this offence. Though, there is no concrete or confidence generating material on record to indict the applicants in commission of present offence. Without bothering the fact that there is no recovery of any incriminating material or looted article, just because that the applicants have got criminal antecedent, has summoned the applicants in perfunctory manner.

[17] In the summoning order, learned court concerned has narrated the material available on record and other facts but no prima facie satisfaction has been recorded to summon the applicants under section 395 IPC. In fact, it is non-speaking order without any application of judicial mind without recording prima facie satisfaction. The criminal antecedent of accused/applicants do carries weigth but solely on that ground, they cannot be summoned unless, prima facie satisfaction is not on record showing the complicity of the accused in commission of the present offence and proximity to commit the offence. At this juncture, learned counsel for the applicants targetted the impugned summoning order passed by learned Special Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya is in the stark contrast with the consistent stand of Hon'ble the Apex Court in this regard viz (i) Vijay Dhanuka etc. Vs. Naijma Mamtaz (2014) 14 SCC 638 ;(ii) Abhijit Pawar Vs. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar and others (2017) 3 SCC 528 ;(iii) Mehmood Ul Rehman and others Vs. Khazir Mohd. Tunda and others AIR 2015 SC 2195 whereby Hon'ble the Apex Court has casted an obligation upon learned Judge that steps taken by the Magistrate under section 190(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. followed by Section 204 Cr.P.C. should reflect that Magistrate has applied his mind to the facts and statements and he is satisfied that there is ground for proceeding further in the matter by asking the person against whom the violation of law is alleged to appear before the Court. The satisfaction on the ground for proceeding would mean that the facts alleged in the complaint would constitute an offence and when considered along with the statement recorded would prima facie make the accused answerable before the Court. In other words, the Magistrate is not to act as post office as a matter of course. There must be sufficient indication in the order passed by the Magistrate that he is satisfied that allegations in the complaint constitute an offence, when it is considered along with statements recorded. Application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. If there is no such indication in a case where the Magistrate proceeds under section 190/204 Cr.P.C., the High Court must quash such orders in exercise of powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. Para 23 of Mehmood Ul Rehman and others (supra) is quoted hereinunder :-

"Having gone through the order passed by the Magistrate, we are satisfied that there is no indication on the application of mind by the learned Magistrate in taking cognizance and issuing process to the appellants. The contention that the application of mind has to be inferred cannot appreciated. The further contention that without application of mind, the process will not be issued cannot also be appreciated. Though no formal or speaking or reasons orders are required at the stage of Section 194/204 Cr.P.C., there must be sufficient indication on the application of mind by the Magistrate to the facts constituting commission of an offence and the statements recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. so as to proceed against the offender. No doubt, the High Court is right in holding that the veracity of the allegations is a question of evidence. Question is not about about veracity of allegations' but whether the respondent are answerable at all before the criminal court. There is no indication in that regard in the order passed by learned Magistrate"

The court concern has not taken into account the abovementioned glaring discrepancies while forming the prima facie opinion against the applicants. It seems that this subsequent complaint case has been lodged just to counter the cold blooded murder of late Ram Das in which husband of opposite party no.2 and other named accused persons are facing prosecution. Learned counsel has enumerated the statements of complaint and witness and documents in support of their case including the criminal antecedents of the applicants.

I am of the considered opinion that the criminal history of any accused applicants do carry weight but on this ground alone, the applicants cannot be summoned. Moreover, there is mark difference and deviation in the averments of complaint and statements of complainant put a serious question mark to the authencity and genesis of the criminal case against the applicants. The injury report of the alleged injured too seems to be a procured document. All these factors cumulatively shakes confidence of this court at the threshold stage. But ignoring all these aspects of the issue, learned Special Judge(D.A.A.) Auraiya for the strange reasons has hold that prima facie case is made out against the applicants. But to my mind, the order impugned is tangent to the established norms set up by this Court as well as by Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard and deserves to be set-aside at this stage alone.

[18] To buttress his contention, learned counsel for the applicants has relied upon few other judgments of this Court in the case of Mahboob and others vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2017 (2) JIC, 320, (All) (LB). Paragraph No. 12 of the said judgement is relevant for the controversy in hand and is accordingly reproduced herein under :

"(12) Learned Magistrate has passed a very cryptic order simply by saying that the statement of complainant as well as witnesses recorded under Sections 200 and 202 CrPC are perused and accused are summoned such order per se itself illegal which could not stand the test of law."

[19] Learned counsel for the applicants has also relied upon the judgement of this Court in the case of Smt. Shiv Kumar and others vs. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2017 (2) JIC, 589, (All) (LB). Paragraph No. 10 of the aforesaid judgement is relevant for the controversy in hand. The same is as under:-

"Learned Magistrate was required to atleast mention in the order about the prima facie satisfaction for summoning the accused. The order must reflect that the learned Magistrate has exercised his jurisdiction in accordance with law after satisfying himself about the prima facie allegations made in the complaint. The accused cannot be summoned mechanically merely by writing that perused the statements under Sections 200 and 202 Cr. P. C."

[20] Reference may also be made to the judgement of this Court in the case of Hariram Verma and 4 Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another, reported in 2017 (99) ALL CC 104, wherein the following observations has been made in paragraphs 8 :-

"8. But in impugned order there is nothing which may indicate that learned Magistrate had even considered facts of the case in hand before passing the summoning order. Impugned order clearly lacks the reflection of application of judicial discretion or mind. Nothing is there which may show that learned Magistrate, before passing of the order under challenge had considered facts of the case and evidence or law. Therefore it appears that, in fact, no judicial mind was applied before the passing of impugned order of summoning. Such order cannot be accepted as a proper legal judicial order passed after following due procedure of law.

[21] In ruling "M/s. Pepsi Food Ltd. & another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate & others, 1998 UPCrR 118" Hon'ble Supreme Court held :-

"Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning the accused. Magistrate had to carefully scrutinize the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

[22] For the foregoing reasons spelled out in paragraph nos.15, 16 and 17 of the judgment, I am of the considered opinion that the impugned summoning order is a non-speaking order, abrupt without any cogent reasons and connecting the applicants in commission of the alleged offence. The learned trial Judge has miserably failed to assess the materials on record in its correct prospective. He seems overawed by criminal antecedent of few of the applicants and jumped into conclusion that these applicants are prima facie involve in the commission of alleged offence under section 395 IPC.

[23] Accordingly, the present application stands allowed and impugned summoning order dated 15.02.2013 and all the subsequent proceedings is hereby set-aside for the reasons mentioned above.

APPLICATION U/S 482 No. - 41464 of 2013

(Smt. Mithlesh Kumari Vs. State of U.P. and another)

[1] Smt. Mithlesh Kumari, wife of late Krishna Babu Tiwari and mother of Pintu@Praduman Tiwari, prime accused of Case Crime No.300 of 2007 has filed the present 482 Cr.P.C. application with the following prayer :-

(a) Quashing the order dated 26.06.2013 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya in S.T. No.53 of 2012, "State Vs. Mithlesh Kumari" arising out of case crime no.300 of 2007 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307 IPC, Police Station-Dibiyapur, District-Auraiya ;

(b) Stay the further proceeding of S.T. No.53 of 2012, "State Vs. Mithlesh Kumari" pending in the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya arising out of the same case crime number.

[2] I have keenly perused the order impugned dated 26.06.2013 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya whereby learned trial Judge after hearing the parties, has held that S.T. No.53 of 2012 and S.T. No. 52 of 2011 are the cross-case and it is expedient in the interest of justice that both the cases should be heard and decided but it is not feasible or expedient to record the evidence on the same date, and therefore, proceedings cannot be stayed.

[3] Aggrieved by this order, Smt. Mithlesh Kumar(applicant) preferred the present 482 Cr.P.C. application and this Court on 19.11.2013 directed to list this case along with Application U/S 482 No.12176 of 2013 and has stayed the proceeding of S.T. no.53 of 2012 arising out of case crime no.300 of 2007 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307 IPC, Police Station-Dibiyapur, District-Auraiya pending in the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A. Auraiya.

[4] After hearing the parties, I, in the earlier part of the judgment have allowed in Application U/S 482 No.12176 of 2013 while quashing the summoning order dated 15.02.2013 in complaint case no.52 of 2011 and thus as natural corollary, the entire castle goes to shambles. The entire sessions trial arising out of complaint case would be in nullity and the proceeding arising out of case crime no.300 of 2007 in S.T. No.53 of 2012 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307 IPC pending in the court concerned shall proceed unabated.

[5] Under the changed circumstances, when the impugned order dated 15.02.2013 arising from complaint case no.52 of 2011 initiated by Smt. Sunita Tiwari has already been quashed, as a natural outcome, court concerned is absolutely free to proceed with sessions trial arising out of case crime no.300 of 2007 and S.T. No.53 of 2012, State VS. Mithilesh and others, under sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 307 IPC and conclude the same as expeditiously as possible.

[6] The present application stands rejected. Interim order granted on 19.11.2013 is hereby discharged.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This application, under Section 482 Cr.P.C., has been filed by Jiya Afzal and Akhlaq Ahmad against State of U.P. and another, with a prayer for setting aside entire proceeding of Criminal Case No. 3520 of 2011 (State Vs. Akhlaq Ahmad and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 550 of 2011, under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Mau, pending in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mau.

2. Learned counsel for applicants argued that accused-applicants are innocent. They have been falsely implicated and charge sheeted for offences, as above. Institution known as Madarsa Talimul Qurran Mohsinpura (Makkhanwan), Maunath Bhanjan, District Mau is recognized by Arbi and Farsi Madarsa Board, U.P., governed under the recognition and Service Rules, 1987, approved by State of U.P. (Education Department of State of U.P.). This Institution obtained recognition from Arbi and Farsi Madarsa Board, of which certificate of recognition to this Institution dated 16.06.2003 was issued by Registrar Arbi and Farsi Examination U.P., Lucknow. Above institution was being regulated by a society of Committee of Management, registered under Society Registration Act, of which applicant no. 2 was member. He had submitted his resignation from membership of the Committee, before Manager of Committee of Management on 01.05.2008, which was accepted by Committee of Management in above meeting held on 11.05.2008, wherein agenda regarding resignation and acceptance of resignation of applicant no. 2 Akhlaq Ahmad, S/o Late Abdul Latif, was drawn. After acceptance of resignation in meeting of Committee of Management, held on 11.05.2008, he was not a member of Management Committee anymore. State of U.P. Government, under the scheme of Sarv Shiksha Abhiyan, issued a circular for guaranteeing education at primary level to each children of State, wherein Shiksha Guarantee Yojna was proclaimed and directed to be implemented by every District Basic Education Officer in U.P. A direction for appointment on the post of Anudeshak for imparting education to the children at primary level, on the contractual basis, was provisioned. This scheme was operative in Madarsas, recognized and imparting education till primary level. The Director of Education of State Programme, Uttar Pradesh, had issued a circular letter to each District Basic Education Officer, U.P. for ensuring compliance of above programme, thereby providing guidelines and appointing Anudeshak at every primary school as well as Madarsa level, imparting primary level education to children. Under said scheme, Committee of Management of Madarsa Talimul Qurran Mohsinpura (Makkhanwan), Maunath Bhanjan, District Mau, invited applications for appointment on the post of Anudeshak in his Institution under above Shiksha Guarantee Yojna, for which applicant no. 1 was eligible. Manager of Institution as well as its Committee, by way of resolution, appointed applicant no. 1 as Anudeshak on 25.05.2008. This was submitted for approval by Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Mau and after its approval, applicant no. 1 imparted teaching as Anudeshak in above Madarsa. Mohd. Hanif, one native of area, moved a complaint before Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Mau making a complaint of appointment of applicant no. 1 illegally. A notice was issued to Management Committee of Madarsa concerned on 28.07.2010, wherein reply by Madarsa was submitted mentioning therein that applicant no. 2 had not been a member of above Committee of Management on the date of appointment of applicant no. 1. Moreso, Anudeshak was not a regular service, either in Group D or as a Clerk, for which there was bar in Basic Education Act with Rules framed therein. Even after it, District Basic Education Officer, Mau ceased appointment of applicant no. 1. Again Shamim Ahmad, who was earlier Manager of Madarsa concerned and was replaced by the then Manager Kabir Ahmad, created a disturbance in the peaceful functioning of Madarsa and with mala fide motive, moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. against the applicants as well as Manager of Institution with other members with contention of fabrication of documents for getting job of Anudeshak by applicant. This application was allowed by Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate with a direction for registration of Case Crime No. 550 of 2011, under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Nagar, District Mau. Investigation of this case crime number resulted submission of charge sheet for those offences, whereas no investigation was there nor any offence was made out. Merely on the statement of Basic Shiksha Adhikari Dr. Chandra Pal and Shamim Ahmad, above charge sheet was filed and under routine manner, with no application of judicial mind by Magistrate concerned, cognizance for offence was taken, wherein cognizance order dated 05.10.2011 was passed. U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972 with Service Rules 1984 was not applicable regarding appointment of Anudeshak in Sarv Shiksha Abhiyan under Shiksha Guarantee Yojna in a Madarsa, having recognition from Arbi and Farsi Madarsa Board. Moreso, at the time of appointment of applicant no. 1 as Anudeshak, applicant no. 2 was not member of society, hence, this allegation was of no substance. Application was filed by erstwhile Manager, having no locus. Hence, this application with above prayer.

3. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 vehemently opposed argument of learned counsel for applicants by way of pressing counter affidavit, filed by him, that as per statement of Dr. Chandra Pal, Basic Shiksha Adhikari as well as Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh, recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., opposite party no. 2 was registered member of Management Committee of Madarsa concerned. This forged and fictitious resignation and its acceptance by Management Committee, having members, who are accused in this proceeding, were subsequently manufactured. It was never communicated to Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh, for making any change in list of member of Management Committee of Madarsa concerned. Rather, a certificate dated 07.07.2011 was issued by Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh, mentioning name of applicant no. 2 at serial no. 14 of list of members of Management Committee of Madarsa concerned. Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Mau in his statement has categorically said that it was an appointment under fraud and misconception of fact. Applicant no. 2 was member of Management Committee and his son applicant no. 1 was appointed as an Anudeshak against the Rules, because of being close relative of Management Committee's member. Madarsa was initially recognized under U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972. Thus, U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972 and Rules made therein of 1984 is fully applicable on Madarsa in question. Registrar, Arbi and Farsi Examination, U.P. Lucknow had accepted recognition given under above Act. Hence, it can never be said that subsequent Rules of 1987 was only applicable for Madarsa and its employees. Hence, opposite party no. 2 was erstwhile Manager of Committee of Management and he brought this proceeding in motion for the fraud committed with above Institution, for which he was fully competent, having locus. Hence, this application deserves to be dismissed.

4. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the application with this contention that prima facie, there was evidence of complainant, District Basis Education Officer Dr. Chandra Pal and Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh with documentary evidence, having mention that till 2011, on the date of issuing certificate by Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh, concerned Madarsa and its Management Committee was having name of applicant no. 2 at serial no. 14. Hence, entire contention of submission of resignation and acceptance of it was a forged and fictitious proceeding. There was a provision that no relative of any member of Management be appointed in any primary school or Madarsa and in utter disregard of it, appointment of Anudeshak was made. This was not disclosed to Basic Shiksha Adhikari, who subsequently ceased this appointment and this order was not challenged before any higher Court. Hence, the defence taken by learned counsel for applicants are not to be seen till cognizance stage and this Court in exercise of inherent jurisdiction, under Section 482 Cr.P.C., is not expected to embark upon factual matrix. Hence, this application be dismissed.

5. Having heard learned counsel for both sides and gone through material placed on record, it is undisputed fact that Madarsa Talimul Qurran Mohsinpura (Makkhanwan), Maunath Bhanjan, District Mau was a registered Madarsa, having its recognition under Code of Education at Article 65. As per recognition and Service Rules, 1987, recognition from Arbi and Farsi Madarsa Board, U.P., to this Madarsa was there. It was being managed by Committee of Management, registered under Society Registration Act with Rules made therein. Applicant no. 2 was the member of Management and it was shown at serial no. 14 of list of members of Committee of Management in the office of Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh, wherein members from 01.05.2008 to date of issuance of certificate in 2011 were entered and applicant no. 2 was with mention in it. Applicant no. 1 is son of applicant no. 2. Applicant no. 1 was appointed as Anudeshak in above Madarsa under Sarv Shiksha Abhiyan / Shiksha Guarantee Yojna under U.P. Education Programme Scheme. Prior to this issuance of recognition, on 11.06.2003 under Code of Education under Article 65, this Madarsa was recognized under U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972 and Service Rules 1984 was applicable for it. This Rule prohibits appointment of any relative of any member of Management Committee at any Clerical or Class IV post in above Madarsa. District Basic Education Officer, after an enquiry over a complaint made by Mohd. Hanif, did found that above appointment was against the law. Hence, he ceased above appointment and no order of any higher court, quashing above order of District Basic Education Officer, has been placed before this Court on record or before Investigating Officer. The submission of resignation on 01.05.2008 and its acceptance on 11.05.2008 has been disputed by opposite party no. 2 learned A.G.A. as well as by District Basic Education Officer and Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh. No such resignation was forwarded or submitted before Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh for deleting name of applicant no. 2 from the list of members of Management Committee of Madarsa concerned. This manufacturing of resignation and acceptance of same by Management Committee along with preparation of agenda, as above, has been challenged to be product of fraud and manufacturing of fictitious document, having no mention in the office of Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh, and this is a question of fact to be seen by trial court. Apparently, it seems to be with substance, because no change or recital of acceptance of resignation, if any, is there in the office of Assistant Registrar responsible for keeping register of members of Management of a Society and its committee. Applicant no. 1 was appointed as Anudeshak to impart education at primary level in above Madarsa. Though, he was not a regular employee, but was a contractual teacher, but he received money and honorarium from public exchequer, for which there was guidelines for his appointment, upon recommendation of Village Education Committee, but the documents filed by applicants on this record is not of this fact i.e. when this advertisement was made, how many candidates applied, who were held to be not eligible and how this applicant no. 1 was only found to be recommended for appointment. Hence, this allegation and accusation of forged and fictitious appointment is also a question of fact to be seen by trial court upon the appreciation of evidence, but apparently there is sufficient prima facie evidence in case diary, on the basis of which charge sheet was filed for offences, as above, and cognizance over it was taken by Magistrate.

6. Regarding locus or competence to file an application for lodging a criminal proceeding apex court in Vishwa Mitter of M/s Vijay Bharat Cigarette Stores, Dalhousie Road, Pathan-Kot versus O.P. Poddar and others; 1983 (20) ACC 367 has propounded that it is clear that anyone can set the criminal law in motion by filing a complaint of fact, constituting an offence, before a Magistrate, entitle to take cognizance. It has been held that no court can decline to take cognizance on the sole ground that the complainant was not competent to file a complaint. It has been held that if any special statute prescribes offence and makes special provision for taking cognizance of such offence under the statute, then the complainant, requesting the Magistrate to take cognizance of offence, must satisfy the eligibility criteria prescribed by the statute. In present case, the allegation levelled were of offence of forgery, fraud, manufacturing of fraudulent document and thereby having appointment in public office, requiring no condition precedent or competence of any person to lodge any criminal proceeding. Moreso, complainant i.e. opposite party no. 2 is erstwhile Manager of Madarsa concerned, having locus to initiate a proceeding regarding fraudulent appointment in above Madarsa. Hence, on this score too, this application is not with any merit.

7. Accordingly, this application merits its dismissal. The application is dismissed as such.

Stay order, if any, shall continue till the next date of listing."

5. I have heard Shri Adil Jamal, learned counsel for the applicants, Shri Rajesh Kumar, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A.

6. Shri Adil Jamal, learned counsel for the applicants has submitted that the present application is filed by the relatives of Waris Khan, who is the husband of opposite party no.2 (complainant). Applicants are father-in-law, mother-in-law, elder brothers of husband of opposite party no.2 and their respective wife. Learned counsel further submitted that the husband of opposite party no.2 is not before this Court and he is facing criminal proceedings. Learned counsel read out the contents of the complaint, statement of the complainant recorded u/s 200 Cr.P.C. The recorded statements of PW-1 and PW-2, being father and mother of opposite party no.2, recorded u/s 202 Cr.P.C. as well as the summoning order dated 22.12.2015 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistarte, Banda and stated that the entire allegations against the applicants are general and vague, there is no specific details with regard to nature of harassment and the role played by each of the applicants in harassing the complainants and even the places and dates when the alleged harassment was made are not indicated in the complaint as well as the statements recorded u/s 200 & 202 Cr.P.C. In support of his contention, learned counsel has relied upon a judgment passed by the Apex Court in the matter of "Geeta Mehrotra vs. State of U.P. reported in LAWS(SC) 2012 (10) 53; 2012 (10) SCC 741 and specifically relied upon paragraph no.24, for reference, same is reproduced hereinafter :-

"24. However, we deem it appropriate to add by way of caution that we may not be misunderstood so as to infer that even if there are allegation of overt act indicating the complicity of the members of the family named in the FIR in a given case, cognizance would be unjustified but what we wish to emphasize by highlighting is that, if the FIR as it stands does not disclose specific allegation against accused more so against the co-accused specially in a matter arising out of matrimonial bickering, it would be clear abuse of the legal and judicial process to mechanically send the named accused in the FIR to undergo the trial unless of course the FIR discloses specific allegations which would persuade the court to take cognisance of the offence alleged against the relatives of the main accused who are prima facie not found to have indulged in physical and mental torture of the complainant-wife. It is the well settled principle laid down in cases too numerous to mention, that if the FIR did not disclose the commission of an offence, the court would be justified in quashing the proceedings preventing the abuse of the process of law.

Simultaneously, the courts are expected to adopt a cautious approach in matters of quashing specially in cases of matrimonial dispute whether the FIR in fact discloses commission of an offence by the relatives of the principal accused or the FIR prima facie discloses a case of over-implication by involving the entire family of the accused at the instance of the complainant, who is out to settle her scores arising out of the teething problem or skirmish of domestic bickering while settling down in her new matrimonial surrounding."

7. In view of the abovementioned submissions, learned counsel for the applicants prayed that prayer made in the present application be allowed and the entire proceedings initiated against the applicants in the complaint case in question including summoning order be quashed.

8. Shri Rajesh Kumar, learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no.2 vehemently opposed the submissions made on behalf of the applicants. He stated that the contents of the complaint, statements recorded u/s 200 & 202 Cr.P.C. discloses offences u/s 498A, 323, 504 and 506 IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act. He further submitted that learned court below has rightly taken cognizance on the basis of the complaint and the statements. He further submitted that the exercise of inherent power to quash proceedings is called for only in case where the complaint does not disclose any offence. He further submitted that the power u/s 482 Cr.P.C. should be sparingly invoked. The High Court may not embark upon an inquiry as to the probability, reliability or the genuineness of the allegations made in a complaint.

9. Learned A.G.A. has relied upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in Binod Kumar and Others vs. State of Bihar and Another; 2014 (10) SCC 663 wherein the Apex Court while dealing with the scope u/s 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing of the proceedings has relied upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in the case of Smt. Nagawwa vs. Veeranna reported in (1976) 3 SCC 736 and held in para 9 (ii) that when proceeding could be quashed :-

"(ii) where the allegations made in the complaint are patently absurd and inherently improbable so that no prudent person can ever reach a conclusion that there is a sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused."

10. I have heard learned counsel for the rival parties and perused the record.

10. In the matter of Indian Oil Corporation vs. NEPC India Ltd.; (2006) 6 SCC 736, the Apex Court has summarized the principles relating to the exercise of jurisdiction u/s 482 Cr.P.C. to quash complaints and criminal proceedings, which are as under :-

"12. The principles relating to exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to quash complaints and criminal proceedings have been stated and reiterated by this Court in several decisions. To mention a few-- Madhavrao Jiwaijirao Scindia v. Sambhajirao Chandrojirao Angre (1988) 1 SCC 692, State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335; Rupan Deol Bajaj v. Kanwar Pal Singh Gill (1995) 6 SCC 194, Central Bureau of Investigation v. Duncans Agro Industries Ltd (1996) 5 SCC 591; State of Bihar v. Rajendra Agrawalla (1996) 8 SCC 164, Rajesh Bajaj v. State NCT of Delhi (1999) 3 SCC 259; Medchl Chemicals & Pharma (P) Ltd. Biological E. Ltd (2000) 3 SCC 269, Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma v. State of Bihar (2000) 4 SCC 168, M. Krishnan v. Vijay Singh (2001) 8 SCC 645 and Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. v. Mohd. Sharaful Haque (2005) 1 SCC 122. The principles, relevant to our purpose are:

(i) A complaint can be quashed where the allegations made in the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out the case alleged against the accused.

For this purpose, the complaint has to be examined as a whole, but without examining the merits of the allegations. Neither a detailed inquiry nor a meticulous analysis of the material nor an assessment of the reliability or genuineness of the allegations in the complaint, is warranted while examining prayer for quashing of a complaint.

(ii) A complaint may also be quashed where it is a clear abuse of the process of the court, as when the criminal proceeding is found to have been initiated with mala fides/malice for wreaking vengeance or to cause harm, or where the allegations are absurd and inherently improbable.

(iii) The power to quash shall not, however, be used to stifle or scuttle a legitimate prosecution. The power should be used sparingly and with abundant caution.

(iv) The complaint is not required to verbatim reproduce the legal ingredients of the offence alleged. If the necessary factual foundation is laid in the complaint, merely on the ground that a few ingredients have not been stated in detail, the proceedings should not be quashed. Quashing of the complaint is warranted only where the complaint is so bereft of even the basic facts which are absolutely necessary for making out the offence.

(v) A given set of facts may make out: (a) purely a civil wrong; or

(b) purely a criminal offence; or (c) a civil wrong as also a criminal offence. A commercial transaction or a contractual dispute, apart from furnishing a cause of action for seeking remedy in civil law, may also involve a criminal offence. As the nature and scope of a civil proceeding are different from a criminal proceeding, the mere fact that the complaint relates to a commercial transaction or breach of contract, for which a civil remedy is available or has been availed, is not by itself a ground to quash the criminal proceedings. The test is whether the allegations in the complaint disclose a criminal offence or not."

11. In view of the abovementioned judgments passed by the Apex Court, the High Court can quash a complaint only when allegation made in the complaint even they are taken at their face and accepted in their entirety, do not prima facie constitute any offence to make out a case alleged against the accused. While dealing with the complaint case in regard to the matrimonial disputes, the High Court should be more cautious as held in Geeta Malhotra (Supra) as well as in G.V. Rao vs. L.H.V. Prasad and Others; (2000) 3 SCC 693; B.S. Joshi and others vs. State of Haryana and others; AIR 2003 SC 1386. The Apex Court has held that in case of general and vague allegations and in the absence of specific allegations, the powers u/s 482 Cr.P.C. could be exercised, however, the Apex Court has cautioned that in case there are allegations of overact indicating the complacity of the accused named in the complaint or FIR, the High Court should not interfere with the criminal proceedings. In case, there is a clear abuse of legal and judicial process and the relatives of the main accused have been prima facie implicated falsely, the High Court should not shy away in exercising the powers granted u/s 482 Cr.P.C.

12. In the light of abovementioned legal position, I have to see whether on the basis of the complaint, statement recorded u/s 200 & 202 Cr.P.C., prima facie offence is disclosed or not. The opposite party no.2 in her complaint has mentioned that :-

2. यह कि प्रार्थिया को प्रार्थिया के पिता द्वारा अपनी सामर्थ्य के अनुसार दान-दहेज देकर ससुराल विदा किया गया था परन्तु उक्त सभी विपक्षीगण दिये गये दहेज से सन्तुष्ट नहीं हुये एवं प्रार्थिया को गाली-गलौज पर मारपीट करते हुये 2 लाख रूपये की और दहेज की मांग करने लगे। प्रार्थिया जब मायके ससुराल से वापस आयी तो अपने माता-पिता व परिवारीजन को सारी बातें बताई।

3. यह कि प्रार्थिया के पिता ने पंचायत बुलाकर उक्त सभी विपक्षीगणों से हाथ जोड़कर प्रार्थना किया था कि मेरी हैसियत अब दो लाख रूपये देने की नहीं है एवं प्रार्थिया को यह कहकर दोबारा विदा कर दिया था कि कुछ दिन में सब ठीक हो जायेगा।

4. यह कि प्रार्थिया जीवन जीने की गरज से उक्त विपक्षीगणों के द्वारा दहेज की मांग को लेकर दी जा रही रूहानी व जिस्मानी तकलीफों को बर्दाश्त करती रही परन्तु विपक्षीगण नहीं माने।

5. यह कि दिनांक 29.09.2013को सुबह करीब 10 बजे उक्त सभी विपक्षीगण उक्त दहेज की मांग को लेकर एकराय होकर जान से मार डालने की नियत से प्रार्थिया को मारने पीटने लगे। प्रार्थिया की चिल्लाहट सुनकर मुहल्ले के व रास्ते से निकल रहे तमाम लोगों ने आकर प्रार्थिया की जान बचायी। लोगों के जाने के बाद उक्त विपक्षीगणों ने प्रार्थिया को मात्र तन में पहने कपड़ों के बच्चों सहित अपने घर से यह कहकर निकाल दिया कि जब तक अपने पिता से 2 लाख रूपये नहीं लाओंगी तब तक हम तुम्हें अपने घर में नहीं रखेगें तभी से प्रार्थिया मजबूरन अपने बच्चों सहित अपने पिता के घर में उपेक्षित जीवन जी रही है।

8. यह कि इसके बावजूद आपसी रिश्तेदारों ने पुनः पंचायत कर कोशिश की शायद विपक्षीगण मान जायें, परन्तु विपक्षीगण नहीं माने और अपनी जिद पर दहेज की मांग पर अड़े हुये हैं तब मजबूरन प्रार्थिया माननीय न्यायालय में यह वाद दायर कर रही है।

13. In her statement recorded u/s 200 Cr.P.C. opposite party no.2 has stated that :-

"सशपथ बयान किया कि मेरी शादी 11 जून 2007 को वारिस खां से हुई थी। वारिस खां मैजिक गाड़ी चलाता है मैने एक मुकदमा घरेलू हिंसा का पहले किया है कोई अधिवक्ता नहीं मिल रहा है। मेरे पति एवं ससुरालीजन कल्लू ससुर, सास रहिसिया जेठ अलीम जेठानी रेहाना, आरिफ, शाबादा दहेज के लिए प्रताड़ित किया। दहेज नहीं देने पर गाली गलोज मारपीट कर भगा दिया। मेरे दो बच्चे हैं जो मेरे पास रहते है। दहेज में 2 लाख रूपये की मांग की गई। मैंने सूचना पुलिस को दी एवं एस०पी० को रिपोर्ट किया। कोई कार्यवाही नहीं हुई।"

14. PW-1 - father of opposite party no.2 has stated in his statement recorded u/s 202 Cr.P.C. that :-

मैने अपनी पुत्री तरन्नुम खातून उर्फ सनोवर का निकाह दिनांक 11.06.2007 को श्री वारिस खां पुत्र कल्लू खां निवासी रंजीतपुर थाना नरैनी के साथ किया था। एवं अपनी हैसियत के अनुसार दान-दहेज देकर लड़की को विदा किया था। जब मेरी पुत्री ससुराल गयी तो पति वारिस खां, ससुर, कल्लू खां, सास रहिशिया, जेठ अलीम, जेठानी रिहाना, एवं दूसरा जेठ आरिफ व जेठानी शाबदा दिये गये दान-दहेज से सन्तुष्ट न होने के कारण तरन्नुम को मार पीट गाली गलौज जैसी यातनाए देकर रू० दो लाख और चौथी में लेकर दहेज के रूप में आने को कहे। जब मेरी पुत्री घर आई तो सारी बाते बतायी। दुबारा जब पति सहित ससुराल जन पुत्री को लेने आये तो मैने पंचायत जोड़कर कहा कि मैं अब और दहेज देने लायक नहीं हूँ अश्वासन के बाद मैंने पुत्री को सब कुछ ठीक कुछ दिन में हो जायेगा। कह कर उनके साथ विदा कर दिया। परन्तु उक्त ससुराली जन दहेज की मांग को लेकर मेरी पुत्री को प्रताडित करते रहे। एवं दिनांक 29.9.2013 को सुबह करीब 10.00 बजे उक्त ने एकराय होकर मेरी पुत्री के ऊपर मिट्टी का तेल डालकर जान से मार डालने की नियत से मारने की कोशिश की प्रार्थी की पुत्री को चिल्लाने पर मुहल्ले व रास्ते के राहगीर इकट्ठा होकर अभि०गण को ललकारा तब कहीं मेरी पुत्री की जान बची। उसके बाद ससुरालीजन ने मेरी पुत्री को मात्र पहने हुए कपड़ों में बच्चों सहित घर से निकाल दिया और कहा कि जब तक रू० दो लाख और नहीं लाओगी तब तक हम तुम्हें नहीं रखेंगे। तब से मेरी पुत्री मेरे घर पर बच्चों सहित रह रही है।

15. PW-2 - mother of opposite party no.2 in her statement has stated that :-

"मेरी पुत्री तरन्नुम का विवाह आज से करीब 8 वर्ष पूर्व वारिस पुत्र कल्लू निवासी रन्जीतपुर थाना नरैनी के साथ किया था। दिये गये दान दहेज से ससुरालीजन खुश नहीं थे। जिस की वजह से पति वारिश, ससुर कल्लू, सास रहिसिया, जेठ अलीम, जेठानी रेहाना एवं दूसरा जेइ आरिफ व जेठानी साबदा आये दिन मार पीट करके दो लाख रू० की मांग करते थे पंचायत कर समझाने की कोशिश की पर नहीं माने। आज से करीब दो साल पूर्व तरन्नुम को गाली गलोज व मारपीट करते हुए मिट्टी का तेल ऊपर डालकर जान से मार डालने की कोशिश की। तरन्नुम के चिल्लाने पर मुहल्ले के लोगों ने आकर बचा लिया। इसके बाद उक्त सभी ससुरालीजन मेरी पुत्री को उसके बच्चों सहित मात्र पहने कपड़ो में घर से निकाल दिया कहाकि जब तक दहेज के दो लाख रूपये नहीं लाओंगे तब तक तुम्हें अपने घर में नहीं रखेगें। तब से मेरे घर में तरन्नुम अपने बच्चों के साथ रह रही है। ससुरालीजन कोई खोज खबर नहीं ले रहे हैं।"

16. In the abovementioned complaint and statements, it has specifically been mentioned that the applicants have harassed the complainant/opposite party no.2 and demanded dowry of Rs.2,00,000/-. They even attempted to cause injuries to opposite party no.2 earlier also, however, due to negotiations, the complainant was allowed to live with them. There are specific allegations against all the applicants that on

29.9.2013, they have tried to cause injuries to the complainant/opposite party no.2 and they used to demand a dowry of Rs.2,00,000/- and also caused physical injuries to victim. The statements of PW-1 and PW-2 corroborated the allegations made by the complainant/opposite party no.2. and thus it can not be said that no offence under the Dowry Prohibition Act are made out against the appellants. There being direct allegations of demand of Dowry in the First Information Report, the allegations prima-facie constitute a commission of an offence under the Dowry Prohibition Act and thus the charges leveled against the appellants under Section 3/4 of the said Act, are not liable to be quashed." (emphasis supplied)

17. The learned court below after considering the contents of the complaint as well as the statements recorded u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. found sufficient ground for proceedings and accordingly summoned all the applicants u/s 204 Cr.P.C.

18. In the present case, the allegations made in the complaint case are not general in nature rather the allegations are specific and even the earlier incident has also been specifically mentioned in the complaint as well as the statements. Present case is not a case where it could be said that general allegations are made against the applicants rather this case falls under the categories of cases where even the Apex Court in Geeta Mehrotra (Supra) has directed to adopt a cautious approach.

19. Recently, the Apex Court in Arun Singh and others vs. State of U.P.; 2020 SCC Online SC 164 in similar circumstances has declined to quash criminal proceedings u/s 3/4 D.P. Act. For reference, para 30 of the said judgment is reproduced hereinafter :-

"30. A reading of the above provisions shows that essential ingredients of the offence under Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act are that the persons accused should have made demand directly or indirectly from the parents or other relatives or guardians of a bride or a bridegroom as the case may be any dowry and/or abets the giving and taking of dowry. The allegations of the F.I.R. quoted hereinabove clearly go to show that a demand of dowry of Rs.5 Lakhs was made by the appellants from the complainants

20. In view of above discussion, it is my considered opinion that present case is a case where the inherent powers should not be used to stifle or scuttle the legitimate prosecution.

21. In view of the above, the present application being sans merit, accordingly dismissed.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482 & Indian Penal Code,1860- Section 406-quashing of- summoning order- Factual correctness or incorrectness or appreciation of same cannot be made-at this stage only prima facie case is to be seen in the light of the law laid down- disputed defence of the accused cannot be considered while exercising power u/s 482.(Para 6, 7)

B. The grounds on which power u/s 482 can be exercised basically are (1) where the allegations made in the F.I.R. or complaint, even if they are taken at their fact value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence (2) where the uncontroverted allegations made in the F.I.R. or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence (3) where there is express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure or the concerned Act to the institution and continuance of the proceedings. But this power has to be exercised in a rare case and with great caution. (Para 6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anil Kumar-IX, J.)

Heard learned counsel for applicants, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 and learned A.G.A. for State.

2. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicants with the prayer to quash impugned summoning order dated 20.07.2019 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Firozabad and further proceedings of Complaint Case No. 2916 of 2018 (Smt. Neetu Singh Vs. Pushpendra and others) under Section 406 I.P.C., P.S. South, District-Firozabad pending in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Firozabad.

3. The brief facts of the case is that opposite party no. 2 was married with applicant no. 1 on 06.03.2002. Applicant nos. 2 and 3 are father and mother of applicant no. 1 respectively. At the time of marriage ornaments received by opposite party no. 2 as "Streedhan" was entrusted to the appellant nos. 1 and 2 and it was ensured by them that they will return it back to opposite party no. 2 after reaching to her-in-laws house. They misappropriated her "Streedhan" and handed over to appellant no. 3. On complaint moved by opposite party no. 2, statement of complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and statement of two witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C. were recorded and by impugned order dated 20.07.2019 appellants have been summoned by learned Magistrate under Section 406 I.P.C.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants contended that no offence is disclosed against the applicants and they have been falsely implicated in this case. He further argued that applicant no. 1 was married to opposite party no. 2 but due to her bad conduct and ill behaviour with family members, on his petition ex-parte divorce decree has been passed in his favour by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Firozabad on 29.09.2018 and after this ex-parte decree he did his second marriage on 05.10.2018 and in counterblast of it opposite party no. 2 has filed complaint against the applicants after 16 years of the marriage.

5. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 and learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer of the applicants and submitted that at this state it cannot be said that no offence is made out against the applicants. Impugned summoning order has been passed on sufficient ground.

6. The applicants have been summoned on the basis of allegation made in complaint and statement of complainant recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and statements of two witnesses recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C. In the case of Monika Kumar Vs. State of U.P. reported in (2008) 8 SCC 781, it has been held by Hon'ble Apex Court that inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down under section itself. In the case of Union of India Vs. Prakash P. Hinduja and another reported in A.I.R. 2003 SC 2612, Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as follows:-

"The grounds on which power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. can be exercised to quash the criminal proceedings basically are (1) where the allegations made in the F.I.R. or complaint, even if they are taken at their fact value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused (2) where the uncontroverted allegations made in the F.I.R. or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and made out a case against the accused, (3) where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure or the concerned Act to the institution and continuance of the proceedings. But this power has to be exercised in a rare case and with great circumspection."

7. From the perusal of material on the record and looking into the facts of the case, at this stage it cannot be said that no offence is made out against the applicants.All the submission made by learned counsel for applicants relates to the disputed question of fact, which cannot be adjudicated upon by this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. At this stage only prima facie case is to be seen in the light of the law laid down by Supreme Court in cases of R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab, A.I.R. 1960 S.C. 866, State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 SCC (Cr.) 426. The disputed defence of the accused cannot be considered at this stage.

8. The prayer for quashing the impugned summoning order as well as further proceeding in the aforesaid case is hereby refused.

9. With the aforesaid observation, this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed.

1. Heard learned counsel for applicants and learned A.G.A. for State.

2. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicants with the prayer to quash the order dated 15.10.2019 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur in Misc. Criminal Appeal No. 5/11/18 (State Vs. Lalloo and others) under Section 378 Cr.P.C. P.S.- Sumerpur, District- Hamirpur whereby the court below has allowed delay condonation application (4Ka) of opposite party on cost Rs. 200/- condoning the delay in filing the criminal appeal.

3. The brief facts of the case is that Criminal Appeal No. 1008 of 2017 (State Vs. Lalloo and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 112/2017 under Section 41, 42, 26 Indian Forest Act 1927, Section 3/28 Uttar Pradesh Aara Machine Establishment and Regulation Rules 1978 and Sections 379 & 411 I.P.C., P.S.- Sumerpur, District- Hamirpur, was finally decided by the court of A.C.J.M. Hamirpur on 30.10.2017. The applicants- accused persons were acquitted from the charges. Appeal against the above judgment was preferred by the State beyond 12 days from the limitation period with an application under Section 5 of Limitation Act on the ground that public prosecutor was busy in other government work therefore appeal could not be filed within limitation period. This application moved under Section 5 Limitation Act was allowed by Sessions Judge, Hamirpur by impugned order dated 15.10.2019 and delay in filing the appeal was condoned.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants contended that learned Sessions Judge acted illegally in allowing the application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal. The application moved under Section 5 Limitation Act was not supported by the affidavit.

5. Learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer of the applicants and submitted that delay was only of 12 days and there was sufficient ground for allowing the application.

6. In the instant case application under Section 5 Limitation Act for condoning the delay was filed by the State and in matter concerning State it should be taken at various level which causes delay therefore court should consider this aspect in deciding whether delay should be condoned or not. In case in hand ground mentioned in the application was that public prosecutor was busy in other government works due to which appeal could be filed beyond 12 days from the limitation period. Learned court below has rightly concluded that there was sufficient ground for the delay.

7. Learned counsel for applicants vehemently contended that application moved under Section 5 Limitation Act was not supported with affidavit therefore it was argued that it was illegally allowed by the court below but when the court is satisfied that ground mentioned in the application was sufficient for filing the appeal beyond 12 days from the limitation then it was not necessary to support the application with a separate affidavit. In the case of Davinder Pal Sehgal & Another Vs. M/s. Pratap Steel Rolling Mills reported in A.I.R. 2001 SC 451, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that even separate application for condonation of delay is not necessary for condoning the delay.

8. In view of the above, the prayer made by learned counsel for applicant is hereby refused.

9. In view of the above, I am of the opinion that court below has not acted in kept in mind that generally decision is taken at various level which takes time. In State Vs Heera reported in (2004) 13 SCC 582, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that when State comes with a prayer for condonation of delay it is to be remembered that decision is required to be the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity.

10. With the aforesaid observation, this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed.

Civil Law - Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950: Section 178 to 182

The present dispute relates to the fact whether the plot in dispute could be auctioned as the total area of the plot in the name of one persons would become less then 3-1/8 acres in view of the Section 178 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act as it existed before the amendment Act 27 of 2004

dated 20.8.2004. It is observed that after the deletion of Section 178 to 182 by way of amendment, it was permitted that plot can be transferred in fragments and all the parties should have been granted their share of the plots and there was no occasion for auctioning the property, confirming the sale and distributing the auction proceeds among remaining parties.(Para 12)

The petitioners are nowhere being prejudiced as they got their share vide order dated 16.04.2001 and since no writ petition or any proceeding was filed against aforesaid order the same would be considered to be admitted to the parties. (Para 12)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. This writ petition has been filed by the petitioners with the following prayer:

"i). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned orders dated 14.3.2007 and 29.3.2006 passed by respondents no. 1 and 2 respectively and to call for the record. (Annexure Nos. 7 and 6 to this writ petition).

ii). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents not to interfere in the possession of the petitioners.

iii). Issue any other writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case.

iv). Award the cost to the petition in favour of the petitioner."

2. The fact of the case as argued by the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the petitioners filed a suit under Section 176 of the U.P. Z.A. and L.R. Act, in the Court of Assistant Collector (I) S.D.M. Ghatampur, District Kanpur Nagar, which was numbered as 34 of 1998, in which the petitioners claimed that Gata No. 233 area 0.883 hectare, which is the joint land of the petitioners and respondent nos. 5 and 6 and the land of their shares be given to them. The said suit was contested by the respondent nos. 5 and 6 and they denied the averments made by the petitioners in the suit.

3. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate, considered all the facts and pleadings of the parties and the share of the parties were decided by order dated 23.10.1998 and petitioners got their shares in the property.

4. That aggrieved by the order dated 23.10.1998 passed by the S.D.M., the respondent no. 5 and 6 preferred an appeal before Commissioner Kanpur, Division Kanpur, which was allowed.

5. That aggrieved by the order of the Commissioner, the petitioners filed a Second Appeal No. 45 of 1998-99, before the Board of Revenue U.P., Allahabad, which was allowed vide order dated 16.4.2001 and the order dated 18.6.1999 and 14.7.1999 passed by the respondent no. 2 were set-aside. The Board of Revenue in the order dated 16.4.2001 observed that the petitioners as well as respondents are recorded tenure holders of the land in question and the parties were in possession of their respective shares and the land is less than prescribed limit it would be suitable to sell it in accordance with the provisions of law.

6. Thereafter, the petitioners filed Suit No. 22/34/2002 under Section 176 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, before the Court of Assistant Collector (I) S.D.M. Ghatampur, District Kanpur Nagar, in which a preliminaty order was passed and the petitioners share was declared as 2/3 and respondents no. 5 and 6 share was declared as 1/3 on the ground that the land was less than 3-1/8 acre, therefore, vide order dated 17.6.2004, the order for auctionining the land was passed and the auction was held on 29.7.2004 and the petitioners were the highest bidder and were given the possession of land and vide order dated 17.12.2004 and decree dated 23.12.2004, the name of the petitioners were recorded in Revenue Records and the name of respondents no. 5 and 6 were deleted.

7. Thereafter, the respondent nos. 5 and 6 filed an appeal bearing number 80 of 2005 against the order dated 17.12.2004 and decree dated 23.12.2004 on the ground that the respondent nos. 5 and 6 were not given opportunity of hearing nor they were given opportunity to adduce their evidence. The trial Court finding that the land was less than 3-1/8 hectare, therefore, the land was directed to be auctioned is perverse, the trial Court fails to consider that Section 178 to 182 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, was deleted by New Amendment Act No. 27 of 2004, therefore, in these circumstances, the proceedings of auction is against the provision of law and automatically come to an end and parties should be given their shares, the ground taken by respondent nos. 5 and 6 was considered by the appellate Court and the appeal was allowed vide order dated 29.3.2006 and the order dated 17.12.2004 and the decree dated 23.12.2004 of trial Court was set-aside and the matter was remanded back before the trial Court to consider the matter afresh in accordance with law.

8. Aggrieved by the order dated 29.3.2006, the petitioners filed Revision bearing no. 34 of 2006-07 before the Board of Revenue U.P. Allahabad. The Board of Revenue vide order dated 14.3.2007 dismissed the revision of the petitioners on the ground that Section 178 to 182 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, is deleted as per Amendment Act 27 of 2004 and the area of land measuring 3-1/8 hectares be now being partitioned between the parties as per their shares and refused to interfere in the order dated 29.3.2006.

9. Aggrieved by the order dated 14.3.2007 passed by the Board of Revenue, Allahabad- respondent no. 1 and against the order dated 29.3.2006 passed by respondent no. 2. The petitioners have preferred the present writ petition before this Court.

10. Learned counsel for the respondent nos. 5 and 6 filed their counter affidavit and denied all the averments made in the writ petition. Rejoinder affidavit filed by petitioners but no new ground was taken by petitioners.

11. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned counsel for respondent nos. 5 and 6 and learned Standing Counsel for other respondetns.

12. I have perused the orders dated 29.3.2006 and 14.3.2007 passed by respondents no. 1 and 2 and considered the legal ground taken by the respondent nos. 5 and 6 in the counter affidavit, once Section 178 to 182 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, is deleted from the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, as per Amendment Act 27 of 2004, there is no justification for auctioning the land in question and the land in question can be partitioned between the parties and the parties shall enjoy their shares. The Board of Revenue in its order dated 14.3.2007 need not consider the effect of the order dated 16.4.2001 by which the share of the parties was decided as the same was not in dispute. The share of the parties was given in the order dated 16.4.2001, and the petitioners are nowhere being prejudiced as they also got their share, since no writ petition or any other proceeding was filed against the order dated 16.4.2001, therefore, the same would be considered to be admitted to the parties. The present dispute relates to the fact whether the plot in dispute could be auctioned as the total area of the plot in the name of one persons would become less then 3-1/8 acres in view of the Section 178 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act as it existed before the amendment Act 27 of 2004 dated 20.8.2004. It is relevant to observed herethat after the amendment it was permitted that plot can be transferred in fragments also in view of the fact that Section 178 to 182 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act is deleted from the Act, as such all the parties should have been granted their share of the plots and there was no occasion for auctioning the property, confirming the sale and distributing the auction proceeds among remaining parties, the entire proceeding was against the provision of law. The order dated 14.3.2007 and 29.3.2006 are merely remand order and the writ petition against the remand order is not maintainable before this Hon'ble Court.

13. In the opinion of the Court there is no illegality in the order passed by the appellate Court dated 29.3.2006 and the order passed by the revisional Court dated 14.3.2007 and the finding recorded by both the Courts below is as per law and no interference is required by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

14. In view of the legal position and considereing the arguments advanced by the parties, the present writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

15. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

16. The parties shall bear their own costs.

Civil Law - Revenue Entries - U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939: Section 35, 36(1), 180(2) - U.P. Zaminadri Abolition & Land Revenue Act, 1950: Section 229B - Claiming a right based on long standing revenue entries is that the revenue entries of long standing in favour of a land holder or co-sharer would raise a presumption and title, but would not be a conclusive about it. These entries continuing over a long period of time cannot defeat the rights of a person who has not abandoned or relinquished it, but for some oversight, has not been able to seek requisite correction. (Para 44)

The present suits have been brought to rectify revenue entries alone by expunging the name of Sadarani from the revenue records relating to suit property over which she recorded when she inherited it, and the right to which she was divested of on remarriage, going by the law governing rights of parties at that time. Here it has to be clarified that entries of howsoever long standing in the revenue records, that do not have a valid legal basis about them cannot be permitted to continue, inasmuch as such entries cannot confer title by mere long continuance. They do raise a presumption of good title but in the case in hand, it being clearly established that there is no basis to Sadarani's right to continue to be recorded, the merely long continuing entries would not be basis in themselves to perpetuate. The presumption in this case about long continuing revenue entries stands squarely rebutted. (Para 56)

B. Indian Evidence Act, 1872: Section 101, 102 - onus probandi on an issue is the burden to let in evidence on an issue and lies upon that party who would fail, if no evidence on either side were led. (Para 48)

In the instant case, Smt. Sadarani had both the onus and burden to prove that Smt. Prema was Parikshit's daughter. The case introduced by Sadarai claiming a right for Prema as Parikshit's daughter and therefore his heir entitled to inherit his share, is beyond the scope of this suit as entries are in favour of Sadarani that were recorded upon the death of her first husband, Parikshit and there is no entry in favour of Smt. Prema, in her right as Parikshit's daughter, ever recorded. The suit do not, therefore, seek any relief to expunge Prema's name. The relief sought is against Sadarani based on the continuing entries in her name. The Court further observed that in the present petition Smt. Prema is contesting is not in her right as Parikshit's daughter but as Sadarani's daughter, representing her estate after her death. The independent rights that she set up claiming to be Parikshit's daughter are not established even by as much a semblance, that may afford her any locus standi in that right. The pleaded case of Sadarani, however, indicates that she does not even remotely indicate the slightest of animus possidendi in relation to the suit property that she, from her pleaded case, acknowledges to have lost upon her remarriage to Chimman. (Para 49, 50)

C. Jurisprudence - 'Possession in fact', 'Possession in law' - The element of intent to possess or animus possidendi is the requirement of possession in fact as much as it is about possession in law. (Para 53)

10. Shri Ram and ors. Vs. DDC Allahabad Camp Fatehpur and ors. 2011 All. C.J. 635

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against judgments and decrees dated 28.04.1994 passed by the Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad in Second Appeal Nos. 151, 152 and 153 of 1989-90, reversing a judgment and decree of the Additional Commissioner, Jhansi Division, Jhansi dated 24th April, 1990 passed in Appeal No. 90/6/1986-87, 91/7/1986-87, 92/8/1986-87 and restoring the decree of the Sub Divisional Officer, Jhansi dated 27.07.1987 passed in Suit No. 105 of 1984-85, dismissing the petitioner's suit.

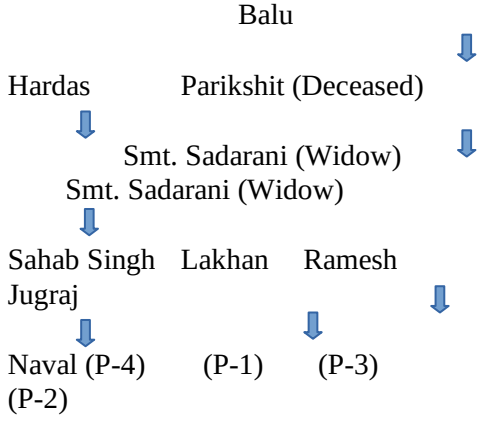
2. Petitioners are plaintiffs of four suits being Suit Nos. 83, 84, 85 and 86 all brought against one Sadarani and various proforma respondents, all co-sharers of Khata No. 60 and 57 of village Dongari, Tehsil and District Jhansi (hereinafter referred to as "the suit property').

3. By the suits aforesaid, brought under Section 229B, the plaintiffs, sought a declaration that the name of Sadarani, widow of Parikshit, recorded co-tenureholder in the suit property, be expunged and that of the plaintiffs, along with proforma respondents to the suit, be recorded to the exclusion of Sadarani over the suit property. It must be mentioned here that from the papers placed on record of the writ petition, there is some discrepant description of the precise numbers of suit filed and there respective suit numbers. The judgment of the Trial Court indicates that two suits were filed being Suit No. 87/1984-85 and Suit No. 85/1984, both of which were consolidated into a single suit bearing No. 105/1984-85. How two suits could be consolidated and given a single suit number, is not in keeping with fundamental principals of numbering suits. But, that is how it is described in the judgment of the Trial Court. In the proceedings in Appeal before the Commissioner and in Second Appeal before the Board, four suits brought by these plaintiffs-petitioners find clear mention, bearing suit Nos. 83, 84, 85 and 86 all of 1984-85. Whichever way the proceedings have been registered and dealt with, but in substance the suits under reference were brought for a declaration to exclude the name of Sadarani, the common defendant to all the suits from the revenue records, pertaining to the suit property. Sadarani is now dead and represented by her daughter respondent no. 3, Smt. Prema before this Court.

4. The facts giving rise to the suits that have culmiated in this writ petition can be better appreciated with the aid of the following pedigree:



5. It is common ground between parties that the original owner of the suit property was one Balu, who had two sons Hardas and Parikshit. The suit property was inherited in equal share by Hardas and Parikshit. Hardas had four sons, Sahab Singh, Lakhan, Ramesh and Jugraj. In the array of parties, petitioner no. 4, Naval is shown as son of Hardas but the name of Sahab Singh is not mentioned. It is pointed out by learned counsel for the petitioner that Naval has been incorrectly described in the array as son of Hardas. In fact, he is the son of Sahab Singh, who died pendentelite. The other son of Balu, Parikshit, is said to have died some time in the year 1944 leaving behind his widow, Sadarani. Parikshit died issueless. Some issue has been raised about this matter by Sadarani which in due course would be noticed and dealt with. Again, it is common ground between parties that Sadarani's name was recorded over the half share of Parikshit in the suit property, all before the abolition of Zamindari. Sadarani remarried one Chhimman, two years later. This is also not in issue between parties. The name of Sadarani continued to remain recorded in the revenue records relating to the suit property, to the extent of Parikshit's share, along with the other co-sharers that she had inherited, her remarriage notwithstanding.

6. It is the petitioner's case that their father, Hardas entered cultivatory possession of his brother's share as he had died issueless, when his widow remarried. It is the petitioners stand that after death of Parikshit and upon remarriage of Sadarani to Chhimman two years later, she lost her share in the suit property inherited from Parikshit under Section 35 of the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 (For short , "the Act of 1939') which by operation of law went back to Parikshit's reversionary heir, Hardas and after him his sons, the petitioners. This loss of title for Smt. Sadarani upon remarriage and its reversion to Hardas, came about under the provisions of Section 36(1) of the Act of 1939, according to the petitioner. It is pointed out with some emphasis by the petitioners that this was the law prevalent at the time, under the regime of the U.P. Tenancy Act when Parikshit died; and also, two years later when Sadarani remarried.

7. It is the petitioners' further case that their father, Hardas could not know about this entry in the name of Sadarani, continuing post her remarriage. After death of Hardas, the petitioners' mother applied for mutation in favour of her then minor children, the petitioners (here it must be mentioned that in all that record the name of Naval, petitioner No. 4, does not figure but of Sahab Singh, who is said to be his father and now dead). It was at this point of time that the petitioners' mother acting as their guardian in the mutation matter came across the illegal entry in the name of Sadarani, surviving in the revenue records. It is claimed that Sadarani was never in possession after her remarriage to Chhimman. Accordingly, the petitioners' mother brought these suits in the petitioners' name, representing them as their next friend, under Section 229B U.P.Z.A&L.R. Act, seeking declarations to expunge Sadarani's name and morefully detailed hereinbefore. This suit was contested by Sadarani who filed a written statement dated 24.04.1984. Details of her case pleaded in the written statement would be mentioned hereinafter.

8. Similar written statements have been filed in the other suits also and the stand brought to the notice of this Court during hearing is vindicated by what is recorded about it in the judgment of the Trial Court. Now, in the written statements Sadarani has not apparently claimed a right for herself in defence of the continuing revenue entries in her favour. The manner in which the Trial Court has spoken about proceedings of the suit, the evidence is noticed with reference to suit nos. 87/84 and 85/84. In suit no. 87/84, the following documents were filed on behalf of the plaintiffs-petitioners: (1) copy of a Khatauni for the Fasli Years 1389-1394 relating to Khata No. 60; (2) a copy of the notice under Section 80 CPC; (3) a copy of notice under Section 106 U.P. Panchayat Raj Act: (4) the postal receipt showing dispatch of notice to Gram Pradhan Dongri; and (5) the postal acknowledgment from Gram Pradhan Dongri relative to the notice.

9. On the pleadings of the parties the Trial Court framed the following issues (translated into English from Hindi vernacular):

1. Whether the plaintiffs are co-sharers of a 1/4th share and Bhumidhar with transferable rights in the property in dispute comprising Khata Khatauni No. 50 comprising two plots admeasuring 5-5.6 acres and Khata Khatauni No. 57 comprising 14 plots, admeasuring 104-73 acres and are, accordingly, in possession of the same?

2. Whether defendant No. 1 Smt. Sadarani widow of Parikshit has remarried Chhimman s/o Ranjor leading to a divesting of her right and title in the property in dispute?

3. Whether the plaintiffs have served the Government of U.P. with a valid notice under Section 80 CPC and the Gaon Sabha with a valid notice under Section 106 U.P. Panchayat Raj Act? If not, its effect?

4. Whether of the wedlock of Sadarani and Parikshit, a daughter Prema was born who is alive and the sole heir of Parikshit?

5. Whether the property in dispute has been partitioned by a Court of competent jurisdication between Parikshit and Hardas? If yes, its effect?

6. Whether the suit is bad for misjoinder of parties? If so, its effect?

7. Whether the suit is barred by Section 49 U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act?

8. Whether the plaintiffs suit is liable to be dismissed?

9. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled to relief?

10. Likewise, the plaintiffs-petitioners have filed the following documents in Suit No. 85/84: (1) a copy of the Khatauni for the Fasli years 1389-1394 relative to Khata No. 57; (2) copy of the notice under Section 80 C.P.C.; (3) a copy of the notice under Section 106 U.P. Panchayat Raj Act; (4)a copy of the registered postal receipts of notice dispatched to Gram Pradhan Dongri; (5) a copy of the postal acknowledgment received from Gram Pradhan, Dongri relative to the notice; (6) a photostat copy of the revenue receipt in the name of Sadarani, widow of Parikshit; (7) a revenue receipt in the name of Sadarani widow of Parikshit; (8) a receipt in the name of Hardas and Sadarani, widow of Parikshit; (9) a copy of the Khatauni in the name of Smt. Sadarani, widow of Chhimman; (10) a copy of the family register relating to Smt. Prema, daughter of Chhimman; (11) a copy of the voter list showing the name of Smt. Sadarani, wife of Chhimman; (12) a certificate from the Gram Sabha, Raksha that there is no family there (possibly referring to Sadarani but not clear from citation of this evidence in the Trial Court's judgment); (13) a copy of the extract of register of births and deaths showing the name of Smt. Prema daughter of Chhimman; (14) a copy of death certificate from Gram Sabha, Raksha dated 04.08.44, showing the date of death of Parikshi; (15) a copy of the Khatauni relating to the Fasli Year 1389-1391 for Khata No. 237; (16) a copy of the revenue receipt, dated 25.07.1986.

11. The Trial Court has recorded that since the two suits under reference were consolidated, both the plaintiffs and defendant, Sadarani testified in the witness box, in one instance with their evidence being read in both suits.

12. On behalf of the plaintiffs, Saligram, Pradhan Gram Sabha, Dongri was examined as PW-1. One Dhaniram as PW-2 and Smt. Goma was examined as PW-3. It is required to be clarified here that Smt. Goma is the plaintiffs' mother and their next friend through whom the plaintiffs, then minors, brought the suits. No documentary evidence was filed on behalf of the defendant, Smt. Sadarani and all that was placed in evidence of her side was her oral testimony in support of her case.

13. Heard Sri Triveni Shankar, learned counsel for the petitioner along with Sri Awadhesh Kumar, Advocate on behalf of the petitioner and Sri Vishnu Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No. 3. The learned Standing Counsel has addressed this Court on behalf of respondent nos. 1,2 and 4.

14. Sri Triveni Shankar, learned counsel for the plaintiffs-petitioners submits that their short case is that upon death of Parikshit, Sadarani's name came to be recorded in the revenue records of his family as his widow. It is urged by Sri Triveni Shankar, learned counsel for the petitioner that Smt. Sadarani admitted her remarriage to Chhimman two years after death of Parikshit and by her case pleaded in paragraph 13 of the written statement has acknowledged extinguishment of her right in the suit property by non traverse. This read together with her sole defence that her daughter, Smt. Prema is begotten of Parikshit during wedlock and that she has inherited Parikshit's share in the suit property, no case of any right, title or interest in the said property remaining with Sadarani is pleaded.

15. It is pointed out by Sri Triveni Shankar that there is a pleading further, also in paragraph 13 to the effect that two years after Smt. Prema was born, Parikshit died. Sadarani has averred that two years after Parikshit's death, she remarried Chimman. It is then pleaded that Smt. Prema (written there as Smt. Prem), the sole heir of the late Parikshit, is in cultivatory possession of Parikshit's share and pays land revenue, ever since (bearing reference to Sadarani's remarriage). Sri Triveni Shankar submits that this categorical stand of Smt. Sadarani in her pleadings excludes any case of her continuing in possession of her share that she had inherited from the late Parikshit. It is emphatically urged that in the absence of a pleading that Sadarani continued in possession after her remarriage with Chhimman, there is no question about her perfecting her right under Section 180(2) of the Act of 1939, read with the IVth schedule, Group B to the said Act. Learned counsel for the petitioner, therefore, urges that the effect of failure on the plaintiffs part to bring a suit within the limitation of two years, against Sadarani, would not lead to perfection of a right based on adverse possession, once she does not plead a case of possession for herself continuing after her remarriage.

16. So far as the rights of Smt. Prema claimed for her by Smt. Sadarani are concerned, learned Counsel for the petitioners submits that there was a categorical denial that Smt. Prema was the daughter of Parikshit. Rather, it is the plaintiffs case that she was born after Sadarani's marriage to Chhimman. It is pointed out also that the family register of Chhimman has been filed in evidence on his behalf which shows that Smt. Prema was born in the year 1950, six years after Parikshit's death. An issue about Smt. Prema being daughter of Parikshit was framed but neither any evidence was led by Smt. Sadarani or Smt. Prema, in support of that issue or that issue was ever decided by the Trial Court.

17. It is further argued by learned Counsel for the petitioner that the Courts below in failing to decide issue No. 4 have acted in breach of Order XX Rule 5 C.P.C., that mandates all issues to be decided. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the Board of Revenue has committed a manifest error of law in dismissing the suit, holding that Sadarani had perfected her right to her share in the suit property, under Section 180(2) of the Act of 1939 due to the plaintiffs' failure to sue her for ejectment, within two years of her remarriage. Learned counsel for the petitioner has urged that an admission is the best form of evidence against its maker. Sadarani having admitted that she is not in possession of her share in the suit property since her remarriage to Chhimman, there is absolutely no reasoning sound in law by which the Board of Revenue could have reached the conclusions it did.

18. In support of his contention that admission is the best evidence against its maker. Shri Triveni Shankar he has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Sharda Prasad vs. RCEO, Allahabad, 1998 (34) ALR 509, where it is held:

"5. In the present case, it is an undisputed fact that the petitioner has acquired in a vacant state a residential building within the city of Allahabad. However, the tenant-petitioner asserted before the Rent Control and Eviction Officer that Section 12 (3) has no application since the tenanted accommodation is not a residential building and was being used by the petitioner for commercial purposes only. The Rent Control and Eviction Officer, however, has not accepted this assertion of the petitioner and on the other hand, has recorded a clear finding of fact that the dominant purpose of the building in question has been residential. While arriving at the said finding, the Rent Control and Eviction Officer has taken into consideration various circumstances and evidence including an important piece of evidence which is in the form of the own admission of the petitioner which he had made in the plaint filed by him in Suit No. 371 of 1998. In that plaint, the petitioner in clear and unequivocal terms admitted that in the disputed accommodation, he has been living with his son. his son's wife and children. An admission is the best piece of evidence against its maker and unless the same is satisfactorily explained it is of conclusive nature. It has been held by me in the case of Smt. Urmila Devi v. IInd A.D.J., Meerut 1998 (2) ARC 6, that an admission made by a party or his agent in earlier judicial proceedings is binding upon the party in subsequent proceedings and can be relied upon for proving the truth-incorporated therein and such an admission has the effect of shifting the onus of proving to the contrary on the party against whom it is produced and in the absence of a satisfactory explanation, it is presumed to be true. It is correct that before an admission can be acted upon as conclusive, it should be clear, definite and certain and not ambiguous, vague or confused."

19. To buttress his case that Smt. Prema is in fact born of the wedlock of Sadarani and Chhimman, much after Parikshit's death, learned Counsel for the petitioner has emphasised the importance of the family register that shows the records of births and deaths in a family and is maintained under Rule 2 of the Rules, framed under the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947. In support of the weight to be attached to a register of this kind, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Jagdish vs. State of U.P. through Secretary, Revenue Department Lucknow and others, 2013 (121) RD 756, where it has been held:

"17. It is trite law that a voter list does prima facie reflect the status of a person but a voter list is prepared under the provisions of a statutory law relating to elections which only confers a limited right to vote and is not a clinching evidence with regard to the status of the identity of that person. The same has to be supported by further material and in this regard the respondent No. 6 had filed the extract of the family register which has been completely overlooked. The entries made in a family register are made under a statutory law relating to the status of the family of a person under the Births and Deaths Register Act and Rules framed thereunder in relation to Local Laws including Municipal Laws.

18. Thus the same has a statutory status and the impact thereof or the impact of a certified copy of the extract thereof being a public document has to be considered by the authority or by the Court while proceeding to assess the evidence led in this regard....."

20. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also urged that the Board of Revenue committed a manifest illegality in virtually dismissing the suit as not maintainable, holding it to be barred by Section 180 (2) Land Revenue Act, when no such plea was raised in the written statement on behalf of Sadarani. He points out that in the absence of a plea to that effect by the Sadarani in her written statement, no issue to the effect whether the suit was maintainable in view of the provisions of Section 180(2) of the Act of 1939 was framed by the Trial Court. In the absence of that plea and issue, it was not open to the Board in Second Appeal to consider that ground as the basis to reverse the decree. In support of this part of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Sri Shivaji Balaram Haibatti vs. Sri Avinash Maruthi Pawar, (2018) SCC 652 : 2018 All C.J. 119. He has drawn the attention of this Court to paragraph 24, 25 and 26 of the report, where it is held:

"24. First, the respondent (defendant) had not raised such plea in his written statement. In other words, the respondent did not set up such defence in the written statement. Second, the trial court, therefore, had no occasion to frame any issue on such plea for want of any factual foundation in the written statement. Third, the trial court and the first appellate court, in these circumstances, had no occasion to record any finding on this plea either way. Fourth, in the light of these three reasonings, the High Court ought to have seen that such plea really did not arise for consideration because in order that any question is involved in the case, the party concerned should lay its factual foundation in the pleading and invite finding on such plea. Fifth, the High Court failed to see the case set up by the respondent in his written statement. As mentioned above, the defence of the respondent was that he had denied the appellant's title over the suit shop and then set up a plea of adverse possession contending that he has become the owner of the suit shop by virtue of adverse possession, which according to him, was from time immemorial.

25. It was clear that the respondent never claimed that he was in possession of the suit shop as tenant of the appellant's predecessor-in-title. On the other hand, the respondent had asserted his ownership right over the suit shop on the strength of his long adverse possession.

26. It is these issues, which were gone into by the two courts and were concurrently decided by them against the respondent. These issues, in our opinion, should have been examined by the High Court with a view to find out as to whether these findings contain any legal error so as to call for any interference in second appeal. The High Court, however, did not undertake this exercise and rather affirmed these findings when it did not consider it proper to frame any substantial question of law. It is a settled principle of law that the parties to the suit cannot travel beyond the pleadings so also the court cannot record any finding on the issues which are not part of pleadings. In other words, the court has to record the findings only on the issues which are part of the pleadings on which parties are contesting the case. Any finding recorded on an issue dehors the pleadings is without jurisdiction. Such is the case here."

21. Sri Vishnu Singh, learned counsel for respondent no. 3, Smt. Prema on the other hand has supported the impugned judgment on the foot of a case that Smt. Sadarani had asserted that she remained in possession over the land in dispute, even after the death of her husband, Parikshit. Smt. Sadarani's interest is now represented by respondent no. 3, her daughter, besides that which is claimed for her in her own right as Parikshit's daughter.

22. Learned Counsel for respondent no.3 has submitted that the Trial Court has rightly opined that Smt. Sadarani continued in possession of the suit property with her name recorded as a co-sharer in the revenue records, even after her remarriage to Parikshit. And, since no suit was brought by Hardas to eject her on extingushment of her rights upon remarriage within the statutory period of limitation of two years, under Section 180 of the Act of 1939, she had perfected her title in view of the provisions of Section 180 (2). On these findings, in the submission of the learned Counsel for respondent no.3, the suit was rightly dismissed by the Trial Court.

23. Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for respondent no.3, however, has criticized the Additional Commissioner's approach in Appeal, where he has held that no suit for ejectment of Sadarani was required to be filed. Learned Counsel for the third respondent has submitted that the Additional Commissioner went wrong in holding that no such suit was required to be filed since Smt. Sadarani had failed to prove her possession beyond doubt, and that in consequence, the possession of Sadarani over the suit property is doubtful. The finding of the Additional Commissioner to the effect that since Sadarani admitted the possession of Smt. Prema in her oral evidence over the suit property, there is no case of Sadarani continuing in possession is contrary to documentary evidence on record. In the submission of the learned Counsel for the third respondent, once Smt. Sadarani has been recorded throughout as a co-sharer over the suit property along with the plaintiff-petitioners, it was necessary for the petitioners, rather their predecessor-in-interest to have brought a suit seeking to eject her. The possession of Smt. Prema, according to learned Counsel for respondent no.3 though not recorded, is in aid of Smt. Sadarani's possession. On this score supporting the finding of the Board of Revenue, learned Counsel for respondent no.3 submits that Smt. Sadarani had established her possession over the suit property by the fact that her name was recorded and the plaintiff-petitioners had to bring these suits, seeking to expunge her name and seeking their names to be recorded over that part of the suit property, where the name of Smt. Sadarani was recorded.

24. It is urged on behalf of respondent no.3 that even if it be assumed that Smt. Prema, daughter Smt. Sadarani was in possession of the suit property, that does not derogate from Smt. Sadarani's possession; or of Smt. Prema either. This is so as in the submission of the learned Counsel for respondent no.3, Smt. Prema's possession could be in aid of Smt. Sadarani, or in her own right as the lawful heir of the late Parikshit. He submits that the Board for all reasons assigned in the judgment has rightly concluded in favour of the third respondent.

25. Summing up his contentions, Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for respondent no.3 has emphasized that on the admitted case of parties, Smt. Sadarani remarried after death of Parikshit. At that time, the Act of 1939 was in force. Her name was recorded as a co-sharer by virtue of being Parikshit's widow. But, that right she lost upon her remarriage, two years after Parikshit's death. However so, no attempt was made to get her name mutated out on the basis that she lost title to the reversionary heirs in accordance with the provisions of Section 36(1) of the Act of 1939. Thus, when Hardas, father of the plaintiff-petitioners permitted the name of Smt. Sadarani to continue and did not take steps to get her name mutated out and to sue her for ejectment, under Section 180 of the Act of 1939, she perfected her right under Section 180(2), upon expiry of two years of her remarriage, that is said to be sometime in the year 1946. She became a khud kasht holder at the end of expiry of the two years' limitation to bring a suit for ejectment, along with other co-sharers, and upon the date of vesting a bhumidhar under the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act.

26. Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for the third respondent has also urged that the plaintiff-petitioners have not set up a case of ouster of Smt. Sadarani. She has continued as a co-sharer recorded in the revenue records over a period of 40 years, until these Suits were brought. She has, thus, perfected her rights. He has emphasized the well settled principle that unless ouster is pleaded and proved, possession of one co-tenant would be possession of the other.

27. Thus, even if Smt. Sadarani is not established to be in actual cultivatory possession, her recorded name continuing for over 40 years, would establish her possession through her co-sharers, that is to say, the plaintiff-petitioners as well as the others. Learned Counsel for the third respondent also submits that inaction of Hardas to seek correction of mutation entries after remarriage, by not suing for ejectment shows the plaintiff-petitioners acquiesced in the matter of Smt. Sadarani continuing as a tenant, a right that she must be credited with maturing after expiry of the period of limitation to bring a suit, and in any case, after the date of vesting.

28. In support of his contention, learned Counsel for respondent no.3 has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Devi Died Sri Sia Ram substituted and another vs. Mohd. Hanif and others, 1963 RD 153, where it has been held:

"In the case before us the question of any adverse possession or acquisition of rights by prescription by Jamna does not arise at all. What is to be seen is whether the plaintiffs' suit for possession is within time. As soon as Jamna re-married, she ceased to have any title to retain possession over the plots in question. Thereafter she will be deemed to have been retaining possession over the plots without the consent of the person entitled to admit her to occupy such plots or otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of law for the time being in force within the meaning of sub-section (1) of Section 180 of the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939. A suit should have, therefore, been filed against her within the period of limitation prescribed under serial No.18 of group B of Schedule IV of the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939. This period of limitation was three years by 1947, and thereafter reduced to two years. Jamna may easily be said to have re-married by 1352 fasli, which will correspond to 1945. The suit should have in any case, therefore, been filed by 1948. Thereafter the plaintiffs' suit against Jamna became barred by time and they did not acquire any fresh right to file the suit after her death.

No decision of this Court regarding the interpretation of Section 36(1) read with section 180(1) of the U.P. Tenancy Act was cited on either side. There are, however, two decisions of the Board of Revenue, Harnath Kurmi v. Mst. Sunder Bibi. (3) and Bhagwati Prasad v. Munna Kuar (4). They are cases in which the tenancy rights reverted to the land-holder and it was held that the rights inherited by the widow of a deceased tenant expired on her re-marriage, and if she is allowed to remain in possession by the land-holder, thereafter she begins to acquire new rights in her own name from that date.

Sub-section (2) of Section 180 of the U.P. Tenancy Act lays down that where no suit is filed against a person for possession over a tenancy plot under sub-section (1) of Section 180 within the period prescribed, therefore, the person in possession becomes hereditary tenant of the land in his possession. On the expiry of the period of limitation, therefore, Jamna became a hereditary tenant of the plots."

29. Further relying on the same principle, that bars a suit by the reversionary heirs to recover possession after expiry of the period of limitation envisaged under Section 180(1) of the Act of 1939 and perfection of the widow's right, after expiry of limitation from the date of her remarriage, learned Counsel for respondent no.3 has relied upon a decision of this Court in Ram Kumar and others vs. Board of Revenue, 1982 RD 314, where it is held:

"No doubt, before the enforcement of the Act, a Hindu female under the provisions of Hindu law and only life interest in the Sir and Khudkasht property left by her husband. There is no provision under the Act which takes away the right of a Hindu female in the land in which she had a limited interest. The limited ownership in its nature must be a bundle of rights constituting in their totality, not full ownership but something less. She holds the same for her enjoyment as long as she lives. Nobody is entitled to deprive her of it or to deal with the property in any manner to her detriment. She is in full occupation and control of the usufrous of it to the exclusion of all others. Therefore, in absence of expressed provisions in the Act taking away the right to make disposition inter-vivos, she becomes, on enforcement of the Act, fledged Bhumidhar and is entitled to exercise all right and benefits available to any other male Bhumidhar.

Considering the case from the other aspect, on the finding of the lower appellate court, Smt. Jurawan Dullaiya remarried long before the date of vesting and continued in possession. Therefore, the cause of action accrued in favour of the plaintiff to file a suit for her ejectment as soon as she remarried because her possession thereafter became adverse as she was not entitled to continue in possession on remarriage. Obviously, no suit was filed for her ejectment by the plaintiff within the time prescribed. Therefore, plaintiff's title extinguished in the land in occupation of Smt. Jurawan Dullaiya."

30. On the point that possession of one co-sharer must be deemed to be possession on his behalf and all the other co-sharers, constructively, even if the others are not in actual cultivatory possession, learned Counsel for respondent no.3 has relied upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Kailash Rai vs. Jai Jai Ram and others, AIR 1973 SC 893 : (1973) 1 SCC 527, where it is held:

"9. It should be remembered that the District Court has recorded a definite finding that the defendants have not set up any plea of ouster. This finding, so far as we could see, has not been disturbed by the High Court. The decree in Suit No. 918 of 1945 clearly recognises the right of the appellant as a co-sharer along with the defendants. In law the possession of one co-sharer is possession both on his behalf as well as on behalf of all the other co-sharers, unless ouster is pleaded and established. In this case, as pointed out by us earlier, the finding is that the defendants have not raised the plea of ouster. There is no indication in the Abolition Act or the Tenancy Act that bhumidhari rights are not intended to be conferred on all the co-sharers or co-proprietors, who are entitled to the properties, though only some of them may be in actual cultivation. One can very well visualise a family consisting of father and two sons, both of whom are minors. Normally, the cultivation will be done only by the father. Does it mean that when the father is found to be cultivating the land on June 30, 1952, he alone is entitled to the bhumidhari rights in the land and that his two minor sons are not entitled to any such rights? In our opinion, the normal principle that possession by one co-sharer is possession for all has to be applied. Further, even when one co-sharer is in possession of the land, the other co-sharers must be considered to be in constructive possession of the land. The expression "possession" in clause (a), in our opinion, takes in not only actual physical possession, but also constructive possession that a person has in law. If so, when the defendants were in possession of the lands and when no plea of ouster had been raised or established, such possession is also on behalf of the plaintiff-appellant. Under such circumstances, the lands can be considered to be in the "possession" of the appellant or, at any rate, in his constructive possession."

31. Since the reliefs in these Suits are for correction of revenue entries, that are of long standing, that is to say, 40 years until time when the Suits were instituted, learned Counsel for the third respondent has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Mangroo and others vs. Ram Sumer and others, 2006 All C.J. 1924, where in the context of facts there objections under Section 9-A(2) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 were brought to correct recorded rights based on old and consistent revenue entries. It was held in Mangroo (supra):

"7. In consolidation maters, often it happens that people start challenging revenue entries standing for more than half, half or quarter century. The presumption attached with the correctness of revenue entries particularly if they are continuing for a very long time and since before Zamindari Abolition cannot be lightly taken to be rebutted. Oral evidence of the things which may have happened long before is not easy to find except in rare cases where something extraordinary is shown to exist. Certainly in respect of property rights is very essential. General uncertainty in respect of revenue entries standing since long and before Zamindari Abolition may lead to anarchy. In several cases consolidation Courts have done exactly the same. The purpose of consolidation is taken to be resurrection of dead (buried) disputes or revival of dormant ones. In fact this is not the spirit of consolidation Act. Under Section 9(2) of U.P.C.H. Act only disputes of recent past may be raised. Consolidation Act provides a new forum for adjudication of disputes but not a new opportunity for the same. In some cases people assert their rights on the basis of revenue entries which discontinued about 100 years before and consolidation Courts seriously entertain the said objections and some times direct reversal of revenue entries continuing for about 100 years. There are several doctrines of law on the basis of which such exercise is prohibited like Limitation, Acquiescence, Estoppel, Presumption of Correctness of Official Acts including revenue entries becoming stronger and stronger by passage of time, waiver, implied surrender and implied ouster etc. However independently of all these principles, such exercise is to be nipped in the bud on the doctrine of public policy. It is against public policy to permit a person to seek reversal of state of affairs continuing for scores of years. A certain but some what erroneous state of affairs is better than almost correct but uncertain state of affairs. To maintain state of affairs continuing since very long which may have some elements of inaccuracy is better than to thoroughly analyse the inaccuracy after expiry of long time since inception of the said affairs and reverse the same after thorough discussion of attending circumstances at the time of start of said state of affairs.

8. Revenue entries in respect of agricultural lands have got great value. A meticulous procedure has been prescribed for recording, correcting and maintaining the same under U.P. Land Revenue Act 1901 and Land Record Manual. Of course it is true that revenue entries do not confer title, however, short of that, revenue entries are most important evidence in respect of rights in respect of agricultural lands and possession thereof. These entries can not be equated with entries for the purposes of house tax etc. under Municipalities Act (or Nagar Mahapalika Adhiniyam) in respect of buildings."

This decision was followed in Jagdev vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, 2006 (101) RD 216.

32. Quite distinct and apart from all these contentions, it is submitted by the learned Counsel for respondent no.3 that Smt. Sadarani who was a recorded co-tenant holder along with the petitioners and had come to be recorded as such, upon the death of her husband, Parikshit, cannot be divested of her title to the suit property, her remarriage two years later notwithstanding. This right for Smt. Sadarani is claimed as she continued to be recorded after the date of vesting for many years, in view of the provisions of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1951. In support of this foundation of Sadarani's right to her husband's property, learned Counsel for the third respondent has placed reliance upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Smt. Gajodhari Devi vs. Gokul, AIR 1990 SC 46 : 1989 Supp (2) SCC 160. It has been held in Smt. Gajodhari Devi (supra):

"3. The short question for determination in this appeal is as to whether the appellant being admittedly the widow of a co-sharer of the holding at the time Ram Sewak died, she ceased to be a co-sharer or tenureholder on getting remarried to Raghuraj. The appellant became widow in 1953. Ram Sewak died some time in 1961. At the time of death of Ram Sewak the appellant was the widow of his son and was entitled to a share in the property on that basis. Admittedly, she remarried subsequently. The right of the appellant has to be determined with reference to the time when Ram Sewak died. There is no law which takes away the appellant's right which vested in her when succession opened and it is not the case of the respondents that on remarriage there has to be divesting. Unnecessary emphasis was laid on the fact of remarriage by the Tribunals below. We set aside the judgment of the Board of Revenue affirming the order of the Additional Commissioner which upheld the decision of the Sub-Divisional Officer in the suit for partition under Section 176 of the Act."

33. This Court has considered the rival submission of parties. The case of the petitioners who have come up seeking to quash the judgment and decree of the Board is founded on a right of reversion from Smt. Sadarani, that fructified according to the petitioners in favour of Hardas when Sadarani remarried, after Parikshit's death. There appears to be no issue between parties that the death of Parikshit and remarriage of Sadarani to Chhimman occurred at a time when the Act of 1939 was in force, which governs the rights of parties. The Trial Court has returned a finding of fact on appreciation of evidence that at the time of Sadarani's remarriage, Act of 1939 was in force. Nevertheless, to probe the matter a little further, this Court finds that there is a document recording the death of Parikshit, filed by the petitioners referred to in the summary of evidence in the Trial Court's judgment as a certificate of death, dated 14.08.1944. This would indicate that Parikshit died sometime in the year 1944 and going by Sadarani's stand in the written statement and her testimony that she remarried two years after Parikshit's death, her remarriage would be about the year 1946. It is relying on this evidence and acceptance of the fact by parties that the Trial Court held that at the time of Sadarani's remarriage, Act of 1939 was in force. This finding has not been disturbed by any of the Courts below, and they have proceeded on the basis that it was the Act last mentioned that governed rights of parties to succession when Sadarani remarried after Parikshit's death. This Court, therefore, proceeds on the basis that it was the Act of 1939, that would govern the rights of parties to succession.

34. The petitioners who claim through Hardas have founded their right on a succession to the suit property in favour of Hardas upon remarriage by Parikshit's widow. It is claimed by them that upon Parikshit's death, his share went to Sadarani in accordance with Section 35 of the Act of 1939. This share, that is to say, the suit property on remarriage of Sadarani to Chhimman devolved upon Hardas, Parikshit's brother being the next heir entitled of the last male tenant, Parikshit. This succession is claimed to be in accordance with Section 36 of the Act of 1939.

35. Here, this Court may refer to the provisions of Sections 35 and 36 of the Act of 1939, that are quoted in extenso:

"Section 35. Succession to a male tenant. - When a male tenant, other than a tenant mentioned in Section 34 dies, interest in his holding shall devolve in accordance with the order of succession given below:-

(a) male lineal descendants in the male line of descent:

Provided that no member of this class shall inherit if any male descendant between him and the deceased is alive;

(b) widow;

(c) father;

(d) mother, being a widow;

(e) step-mother, being a widow;

(f) father's father;

(g) father's mother, being a widow;

(h) widow of male lineal descendant in the male line of descent;

(i) unmarried daughter;

(j) brother, being the son of the same father as the deceased;

(k) daughter's son;

(l) brother's son, the brother having been a son of the same father as the deceased;

(m) father's brother;

(n) father's brother's son;

Section. 36 Succession to a female tenant holding an interest inherited as a widow etc. - (1) When a female tenant, other than a tenant mentioned in Section 34, who either before or after the commencement of this Act has inherited an interest in a holding as a widow, as a mother, as a step-mother, as a father's mother, or as a daughter dies or abandons such holding, surrenders such holding, or a part of such holding or, in the case of a tenant inheriting as a widow or as a daughter, marries, such holding or such part of such holding shall, notwithstanding anything in Section 45, devolve in accordance with the order of succession laid down in Section 35 of the heir of the last male tenant, other than a tenant who inherited as a father's father under the provisions of that section.

(2) When a tenant who inherits an interest in a holding as a father's father in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1), or of Section 35, abandons such holding or surrenders such holding or a part of such holding or dies, such holding or such part shall, notwithstanding anything in Section 45, devolve upon the nearest surviving heir of the last male tenant, such heir being ascertained in accordance with the provisions of Section 35."

36. It is true that going by the events of death of Parikshit and his widow's remarriage two years later, the time when it happened and the law that was in force at the time, the suit property would go to Hardas upon Sadarani's remarriage. It would go by virtue of Section 36(1) of the Act of 1939. This legal position is not in issue between parties and has been accepted by all the Courts below, even so that the Courts below have disagreed on different grounds. The reason that has weighed with the Trial Court and the Board in Second Appeal to dismiss the petitioners' Suits seeking expunction of Sadarani's name from the revenue records and mutation of the petitioners in her place, along with other co-sharers, is a right that Sadarani matured to the suit property on account of the failure of Hardas to bring a suit for her ejectment within the prescribed limitation of two years, in accordance with the provisions of Section 180(2) of the Act of 1939. Sadarani, no doubt, has remained recorded in all these years over the suit property based on the succession, that opened in her favour upon Parikshit's death. It is equally true that in accordance with Section 36 of the Act of 1939, Hardas would be the heir entitled to succeed Sadarani in place of Parikshit. It is also trite that no Suit was filed for Sadarani's ejectment under Section 180(1) of the Act of 1939 within the period of limitation prescribed under Serial no.18 of Group B of Schedule IV to the Act, last mentioned. It is also true for a proposition of law that if no Suit is brought under sub-Section (1) of Section 180 within the prescribed period of limitation, the person in possession if a co-sharer would become a khud kasht holder. Here, it would profit to extract the provisions of Section 180 of the Act of 1939. These read as under:

"Section 180. Ejectment of person occupying land without consent. - (1) A person taking or retaining possession of a plot of land without the consent of the person entitled to admit him to occupy such plot and otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the law for the time being in force, shall be liable to ejectment under this section on the suit of the person so entitled, and also to pay damages which may extend to four times the annual rental value calculated in accordance with the sanctioned rates applicable to hereditary tenant :

Provided that, notwithstanding the provisions of sub-section (1) of Section 246, where such a person taking or retaining possession is one of the co-sharers whose joint consent is required to bring such suit, he shall not be required to join as plaintiff in the suit. In such a case, the decree passed in favour of the plaintiff shall be deemed to be in favour of all such co-sharers.

Explanation I. - A co-sharer in the proprietary rights in a plot of land taking or retaining possession of such plot without the consent of the whole body of co-sharers or of an agent appointed to act on behalf of all of them, shall be deemed to be in possession of such plot otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the law within the meaning of this section.

Explanation II. - A tenant entitled to sub-let a plot of land in accordance with the provisions of the law for the time being in force may maintain a suit under this section against the person taking or retaining possession of such plot otherwise than in the circumstances for which provision is made in Section 183.

(2) If no suit is brought under this section, or if a decree obtained under this section is not executed, the person in possession shall become a hereditary tenant of such plot, or if such person is a co-sharer, he shall become a khudkasht holder, on the expiry of the period of limitation prescribed for such suit or for the execution of land decree, as the case may be.

Provided that where the person in possession cannot be admitted to such plot except as sub-tenant by the person entitled to admit, the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply until the interest of the person so entitled to admit is extinguished in such plot under Section 45(f)."

37. To the understanding of this Court, the moot question is whether on the case of parties the fact that revenue entries continued to remain recorded in favour of Sadarani would by itself indicate her continuing possession over the said property, so as to necessitate within limitation the institution of a suit for her ejectment, under Section 180 (1) of the Act of 1939.

38. Sri Vishnu Singh has pressed in aid the decisions of this Court in Mangroo (supra) and Jagdev (supra) which go to say that revenue entries are of particular importance, in the context of title to agricultural land. The Court has gone in that decision to the extent that while revenue entries may not confer title, but short of that, these are the most important evidence about rights of parties to agricultural land and possession thereof. The Court has differentiated the worth and value of revenue entries about their bearing on title and possession, with entries for the purpose of house tax under the Municipalities Act, or Nagar Mahapalika Adhiniyam in respect of buildings, which do not have similar worth, bearing on the question of title and possession. This Court in Mangroo (supra) also emphasised the need to uphold long standing revenue entries on the foundation of public policy. In the Court's opinion expressed in Mangroo (supra) it is against public policy to approve reversal of a state of affairs continuing for scores of years. The same principles have been reiterated in Jagdev (supra).

39. Sri Vishnu Singh, learned counsel for the third respondent has urged that the revenue entries here continued for 40 years before institution of these suits. In between, the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1951 came into force with the date of vesting there being 01.07.1949. Under the Act of 1939, since a suit for ejectment was not brought by the petitioners within the prescribed period of limitation under Sub Section (1) of Section 180 of the Act, last mentioned, Sadarani being a co-sharer of Jagdev became a Khudkast holder under Sub Section (2) of Section 180. Upon enforcement of these U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, the suit property being Khudkast became her Bhumidhari under Section 9 of the latter Act. This, according to Sri Vishnu Singh, is the effect of the 40 years long continuing revenue entries, regarding which no steps were taken by the petitioners or their predecessor-in-title, Jagdev by bringing a suit for ejectment or short of that to seek rectification of the revenue records within limitation.

40. Learned counsel for the third respondent has buttressed his argument that founds title as well as possession on long standing revenue entries by a submission, that is a sequel or a corollary to the first. In this part of his submissions, Sri Vishnu Singh has urged that on the point of possession, possession of one co-sharer must be deemed to be possession on behalf of all other co-sharers, constructively, even if the others are not in actual cultivatory possession. He has drawn support from the decisions of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Kailash Rai (supra) that has been noticed and the relevant part quoted hereinbefore. On the foot of this principle, learned counsel for the third respondent submits that the mere fact that Sadarani, after her remarriage had not remained in cultivatory possession, could not lead to her ouster and consequent loss of possession or title. He submits with much emphasis that the long standing revenue entries speak for a unimpeachable title through the changing statutory regime of the Act of 1939 and the Zamindari Abolition Act, which now constitute her into a Bhumidhar with transferable rights - and a co-sharer with the petitioners.

41. The fact that she has not remained in cultivatory possession of the suit property would not be of any consequence as she is protected by the principle regarding community of possession and title between co-sharers. In any case, she must be held to be in constructive possession through the other co-sharer going by the principle in Kailash Rai (supra). It is also emphasized that there is no plea of ouster raised on behalf of the petitioners so as to denude Sadarani of her possession and consequently her title.

42. This Court must record straightway that the law laid down in Mangroo (supra) and Jagdev (supra) that has placed revenue entries on a sacrosanct pedestal if they be of long standing, almost as an unimpeachable evidence of valid possession and good title, is no longer good law in view of the decision of a Division Bench of this Court in Shri Ram and others vs. DDC Allahabad Camp Fatehpur and others, 2011 All.C.J.635, where the correctness of the aforesaid two decisions rendered by a learned Single Judge of this Court was in issue. Their Lordships of the Division Bench in Sri Ram and others (supra) while answering questions nos. 3, 4 and 5 held with reference to question nos. III and V, that would be best appreciated by a juxtaposition of the questions framed and their Lordships answer:

(III) Whether the learned single Judge in Jagdeo's case was justified in invoking the principles of the doctrine of estoppel and acquiescence for creating an implied bar merely because a co-tenant had failed to asset his rights under The U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act and was, therefore, barred from raising an objection under the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 and the rules framed thereunder?

(3) The learned Single Judge in Jagdeo's case (supra) was not justified in invoking the principles of doctrine of estoppel and acquiesence for creating an implied bar merely because a co-tenant had failed to assert his rights under the Act, 1950, and a co-tenant is not barred in raising objections under the Act, 1953.

(V) Whether "long standing entries which are questioned in an objection filed under the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act hold only a presumptory value or they can be taken to be an absolute proof in law on the principle of estoppel, acquiescence and waiver and thereby attract an automatic bar of Section 49 of the U.P.C.H.Act".

(5) Long Standing entries which are questioned in an objection filed under the Uttar Pradesh Consoli-dation of Holdings Act, 1953 hold only a presumptory value and they cannot be taken to be an absolute proof for pressing the principle of estoppel, acquiescence and waiver and no automatic bar of Section 49 of the Uttar Pradesh Consoli-dation of Holdings Act, 1953 is attracted.

43. The decision of the learned Single Judge in Mangroo (supra) and Jagdev (supra) were overruled by their Lordships of the Division Bench in Sri Ram (supra), though all rendered in the context of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953. Nevertheless, the decision Sri Ram (supra) firmly put in place a principle that long standing revenue entries do raise a presumption in favour of the person whose name is entered but they cannot be regarded as absolute proof, by invoking the principles of estoppel acquiescence and waiver. Their Lordships have disapproved of the learned Single Judge's approach in Mangroo (supra) and Jagdev (supra) according sacrosanctity to long standing revenue entries on the principle of public policy "that a certain but somewhat erroneous state of affairs is better than almost correct but uncertain state of affairs", to quote the words of the learned Single Judge in Mangroo (supra). This disapproval of the principle laid down by the learned Single Judge in Mangroo (supra) and followed in Jagdev (supra) was expressed in the following words, by their Lordships of the Division Bench:

56. We are unable to subscribe to the above view. No public policy can be found out which does not permit a person to seek reversal of the state of affairs continuing for scores of years, if he has a right to do so. The view of the learned Single Judge "that a certain but some what erroneous state of affairs is better than almost correct but uncertain state of affairs" an also not be approved. A person who has a right to a property which right he has neither abandoned nor relinquished can be claimed even after a lapse of considerable period, provided the claim is not barred by any law of limitation.

57. Law pertaining to land tenure is principally for determining rights of peasants of this country who earn their livelihood from agriculture. Most of them are not literate enough to know their rights and vigilantly assert their rights. Unless the claim of such person is barred by any law, barring their objection on the principle of estoppel and acquiescence is not in accordance with the purpose and object of that Act.

(Emphasis supplied in the report)

44. What, therefore, turns on the question of claiming a right based on long standing revenue entries is that the revenue entries of long standing in favour of a land holder or co-sharer would raise a presumption about possession and title, but would not be conclusive about it. These entries continuing over a long period of time cannot defeat the rights of a person who has not abandoned or relinquished it, but for some oversight, has not been able to seek requisite correction. Here, for instance, there is no evidence that Jagdev was a highly accomplished man or even literate enough to understand his obligations about checking up on the revenue records. He did understand the law as then in force that once his brother's widow remarried, she lost her right and, therefore, he entered upon his brother's share and took the same into his cultivatory possession, exercising dominion over it based on title as well as possession. It was upon his death that Jagdev's widow, according to her case, took steps to secure mutation for the petitioners, who were then minors, acting for them as their next friend (guardian as it is described). It is then that she chanced upon revenue entries continuing in favour of Sadarani over the part that she had inherited from Parikshit, her deceased husband. The petitioners' mother knowing that Sadarani had lost title upon remarriage to Chhimman, brought the present suits for rectification of the revenue records, seeking to expunge her name and to record the petitioners over that part.

45. Now, this case of the petitioners would have to be tested in the face of long standing revenue entries in favour of Sadarani over her late husband's share, as the said entries do raise a presumption about her possession and title. The question that would, therefore, arise in the face of this presumption based on long standing entries of 40 years in this case would be, whether Sadarani upon her marriage to Chhimman, two years after her husband's death, continued to exercise dominion over her share, even if she did not actually cultivate the land. Or, is it a case where upon her remarriage, knowing the law of the time she relinquished all her rights in the suit property, never to look back, and the entries that are now impugned in the suits brought by the petitioners, continued by sheer oversight.

46. This Court is of opinion that upon her remarriage, Sadarani knowing and going by the law in force at the time, gave up her possession and title to the suit property. Even now, she has not asserted that she has title to or possession of the suit property, as her pleaded case goes in paragraph 13 of the written statement, which reads to the following effect:

"१३. यह कि प्रेम के पैदा होने के २ वर्ष बाद मेरे पूर्व पति अर्थात प्रेम के पिता श्री परीक्षत की मृत्यु हो गयी उसके २ वर्ष बाद मिन प्रतिवादिनी ने विरादरी के रीत रिवाज के अनुसार छिम्मान पुत्र रन्जोर निवासी रकसा से दूसरा विवाह कर लिया तथा परीक्षित के हिस्से की भूमि पर मौके पर परीक्षित की एक मात्र वारिस श्रीमती प्रेम उसी समय से काबिज व दाखिल है तथा खेती कराती है व सरकारी लगान अदा करती है"

47. She has no doubt tried to assert her possession and title that she had acquired to the suit property upon Parikshit's death, in her testimony in the witness box, where she has asserted that she is cultivating the suit property with the help of her son-in-law, Ramlal but, that evidence cannot be looked into in the face of a specific case that Sadarani has taken in the written statement, where she almost admits the petitioners' case of having nothing to do with the suit property consequent upon her remarriage. Rather, she has introduced a different case that would support inheritance in favour of her daughter Prema, whom she says is begotten of Parikshit. This is contrary to the petitioners' case that Parikshit died issueless and that Sadarani after her remarriage had begotten two children of her other husband, Chhimman. Smt. Prema is, therefore, claimed to be the daughter of Chhimman and not Parikshit by the petitioners. Issue no. 4 was framed by the Trial Court to the effect: whether Prema was born of the wedlock of Smt. Sadarani and Parikshit, who is alive and his sole heir? The said issue has not been decided by the Trial Court or gone into by the Appellate Courts. It must be remarked here that issue no. 4 is ex facie a defendant's issue, and, therefore, the onus probandi as well as the burden of proof lay upon Smt. Sadarani, so far as this issue was concerned.

48. The principle concerning onus probandi and the discharge of it is embodied in Section 101 of the Evidence Act, as distinguished from burden of proof that is the subject matter of Section 102 of the said Act. Onus probandi on an issue is the burden to let in evidence on an issue and lies upon that party who would fail, if no evidence on either side were led. Here is a case where Sadarani had both the onus and burden to prove that Smt. Prema was Parikshit's daughter. She almost let in no evidence about it, except her oral testimony. On the other hand there is evidence led on behalf of the petitioners' in the form of a Family Register, maintained under Rules framed under the Panchayat Raj Act that show the profile of Sadarani's family after her second marriage to Chhimman. There the name of Smt. Prema, described as Prem Kunvar finds place. Her date of birth is mentioned to be 1951 whereas Parikshit died in the year 1944. Also, there is consistent evidence of the three witnesses who deposed for the petitioners that Parikshit died issueless. It was perhaps in the face of this hopelessly untriable issue no. 4 about Prema being Parikshit's daughter that the same was not pressed before the Trial Court; and, therefore, never decided.

49. This apart the issue that is involved, is about entries in favour of Smt. Sadarani that were recorded upon the death of her first husband, Parikshit. There is no entry in favor of Smt. Prema, in her right as Parikshit's daughter, ever recorded. The suits do not, therefore, seek any relief to expunge Prema's name.

The relief sought is against Sadarani based on the continuing entries in her name. The case, therefore, introduced by Sadarani claiming a right for Prema as Parikshit's daughter and, therefore, his heir entitled to inherit his share, is beyond the scope of this suit. It is not part of the cause of action involved here. It is also not the third respondent's case that Sadarani ever brought a suit on behalf of Prema in order to establish her right to inherit Parikshit's share on the foot of a case that Prema is Parikshit's daughter. In these suits also, Smt. Prema has appeared and filed her written statements, through an impleadment, but neither Sadarani or Smt. Prema have sought to bring a counter-claim to establish a right that Prema is Parikshit's daughter, and, therefore, entitled to inherit his share. These suits are about Sadarani's inheritance in the first instance from Parikshit which according to the petitioner, she lost on remarriage to Chhimman. Here, it needs to be remarked that the present petition that Smt. Prema is contesting is not in her right as Parikshit's daughter but as Sadarani's daughter, representing her estate after her death. The independent rights that she has set up claiming to be Parikshit's daughter are not established even by as much a semblance, that may afford her any locus standi in that right.

50. The written statement filed on behalf of Sadarani clearly indicates that she has not put forward by as much as a hint that she has continued in possession of the suit property or that she has remained a co-sharer thereof, though without cultivating the same alongwith other co-sharers, constructively or on the principle that possession of one co-sharer is possession of all. Rather, she has said in the written statement that she remarried Chhimman of Raksha and possession of Parikshit's share on the spot is with his sole heir, Smt. Prem (variously described as Smt. Prem, Smt. Prema or Prem Kunvar in different documents). Since time of her remarriage, it is also pleaded, that Prema gets the suit property cultivated and pays land revenue.

The case set up about Smt. Prema need not detain this Court any further as it has been pointed out that the suits are about the right title and interest of Sadarani, based on revenue entries in her favour. The pleaded case of Sadarani, however, indicates that she does not even remotely indicate the slightest of animus possidendi in relation to the suit property that she, from her pleaded case, acknowledges to have lost upon her remarriage to Chhimman.

51. In this connection, it would be profitable to go to what possession "in fact' and "in law' would mean on fundamental principles of jurisprudence, so far these are relevant here. In this connection reference may be made to certain principles about "possession in fact" and "possession in law" enunciated in the celebrated treatise, Salmond on Jurisprudence, Twelfth Edition by P J Fitzgerald (Indian Economy Reprint 2007 and published by Universal Law Book Company Private Limited). There, it has been exposited what possession in fact would mean, in Chapter 9 (pages 272 to 274) thus:

So far no distinction has been made between the mental and physical aspects of possession. Many jurists have distinguished two such elements. Salmond considered that possession consisted of a corpus possessionis and an animus possidendi. The former, he thought, comprised both the power to use the thing possessed and the existence of grounds for the expectation that the possessor's use will not be interfered with. The latter consisted of an intent to appropriate to oneself the exclusive use of the thing possessed.

It is certainly true that in assessing whether possession has been acquired, lost or abandoned intention may be highly relevant. Moreover, it is doubtful whether in ordinary usage possession could be ascribed to a person utterly unable to form any intentions whatsoever: it would be odd to describe a day-old baby or a man in a protracted coma as actually (as opposed to legally) possessing anything at all. As against this, however, we may find counter-examples of possession unaccompanied by intentin. I should normally be said to possess the coins in my pocket, even if unaware of their existence and so unable to form any intention in respect of them. Can we say then that what the possessor needs is at least a minimum intention, an intent to exclude others from whatever may be in his pocket? To this there are two replies. First, in its widest and loosest sense, the sense in which "possesses" simply means "has", I can be said to possess such things as a find head of hair, a stout heart or a good sense of humour without any question of intent arising. Secondly, in the narrower sense, where the subject-matter of possession consists of material objects other than parts of the possessor's own body, it is misleading to assert that the possessor must actually be intending anything at all. If I possess something, then it is true that if my possession is challenged or attacked I shall probably display an intention of excluding such interference. But unless my possession is under attack and in the normal course of events it is not; further more it would be highly unusual to find a man's possession under constant attack no question of, or need for, intent is involved.

The test then for determining whether a man is in possession of anything is whether he is in general control of it. Unless he is actually holding or using it in which event he clearly has possession we have to ask whether the facts are such that we can expect him to be able to enjoy the use of it without interference on the part of others. There will always, of course, be border-line cases. Suppose I become paralysed: am I still in possession of the coat by my side? Such questions need not detain us, for the ordinary concept of possession is not designed to cope with such marginal cases, while the existence of legal rules relating to legal possession will answer such questions and obviate the need for any decision in terms of possession in fact.

52. Similarly about "possession in law', it is said in Chapter 9, at pages 274 to 276:

A legal system could of course content itself with providing that in law the existence of possession should depend solely on the criteria of common sense. In this case possession in law would be identical with possession in fact; a man would in law possess only those things which in ordinary language he would be said to possess. Such a system of law, then, would concern itself only with actual possession. Even so, the concept of possession would not be free of difficulty. For possession in fact, a we saw, is not a wholly simple notion; the question whether I am in fact in possession of an article depends on such factors as the nature of the article itself and the attitudes and activities of other people. But the general outline of the concept of possession in fact, as given in the preceding section, would suffice for the purposes of a legal system that adopted this approach.

Even with such a legal system, however, there would no doubt arise borderline questions to which lay usage gave no answer but which the law would have to resolve: if A loses his golf-ball on B's golf-links and the ball is found by C, we cannot proceed with in the matter of safeguarding possession until we know who in such a case actually has possession. Yet, at the moment when C has found the ball but h as not yet picked it up, it is by no means clear which of these three parties would ordinarily, and outside the law, be held to be in possession. A legal system's solutions to such marginal problems would inevitably refine the notion of possession and produce divergences between the factual and the legal concepts.

Apart from this type of development however, the two concepts could quite easily coincide. Nor need such coincidence restrict legal protection to cases of actual possession. If A wrongfully takes possession of B's watch, the law can still afford all its possessory remedies to B, on the ground that B did originally have, and therefore ought to have, possession. The fact that the law regards as possessors only those who are actually in possession need not prevent it from protecting those who are not in possession but who in the general view of society ought to be Indeed the protection of possession would be of little point if legal protection ceased the moment possession was lost : the protection of possession entails supporting the dispossessed against the dispossessor.

But when a system of law allows possessory rights and remedies to persons not in actual possession, it may do so, not by considering them simply as entitled to possession and its attendant rights, but by regarding them as being for legal purposes in possession. Thus, we may find that one who is not actually a possessor is nevertheless considered as such in the eyes of the law; and conversely Untitled 1 one who actually has possession may be looked on by law as a non-possessor. Accordingly the concept of legal possession parts company still further from the ordinary notion of possession, as law tends to invent instances of constructive possession, i.e., cases where something less than possession in one person is deemed possession in law, and where conversely the actual possession of some other party is reduced to something less than legal possession.

53. The principles above adumbrated so far as they bear on the case in hand would show that possession in fact certainly is one of the most obvious index to possession in law. The finer principles of possession in law apart, there has to be a definite element of intention about the person who claims possession or is claimed to have it. Apart from extreme and marginal cases that have been discussed in the exposition by the learned Author (supra), the element of intent to possess or animus possidendi is the requirement of possession in fact as much as it is about possession in law. There could be cases of a person in possession but not in the legal sense of it, and vice versa. Again, those finer shades of the concept need not detain this Court in answering whether Sadarani must be deemed on the basis of revenue entries over a long period of time, to be either actually in possession of the suit property or in law, through her co-sharers. As noticed above, her clear stand in the written statement discloses an animus on her part to relinquish her right and possession upon the event of her remarriage, two years after she inherited it from Parikshit. Its quite another matter and absolutely irrelevant that she set up right in a third person, about which there is no cause of action, right or relief involved in these suits.

54. This Court is also of considered opinion that the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Kailash Rai (supra) relied upon by the third respondent to canvass the point that possession of one co-sharer must be deemed possession on his own behalf, and all other co-sharers, constructively though all of them may not be in actual possession, is not at all attracted to the issue that arises on the facts here. This is so because it is not even remotely established by any evidence by Sadarani, that she has continued as a co-sharer in the suit property. The specific case of hers, to be a little repetitive, in paragraph 13 of the written statement is that after her remarriage, it is Smt. Prema who has inherited the suit property from Parikshit, claimed to be her father. There is indeed an admission by Sadarani that she lost her share/her title or interest in the suit property, once she remarried Chhimman two years after Parikshit's death. This stand about Sadarani's rights is indeed an unqualified admission that she is no longer a co-sharer. The principle in Sharda Prasad (supra) that admission is the best piece of evidence against its maker applies squarely to Sadarani, looking to the stand in her pleadings. The decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Kailash Rai (supra) does not help the third respondent. There has been much ado at the instance of both parties, and in the judgments of the Courts below too, about Sadarani acquiring Khudkast rights under sub Section (2) of Section 180 of the Act of 1939, for the petitioners or their predecessor failure to bring a suit against her for ejectment within the statutory period of limitation, under Sub Section (1) of Section 180.

55. This Court is of clear opinion that the said question does not at all arise in this case as Sadarani never asserts to have continued in possession or as a co-sharer after her remarriage. It is for this reason that Hardas never brought a suit, seeking to eject her within the prescribed period of limitation. Thus, Sadarani must be held not to have acquired any rights under sub Section (2) of Section 180 of the Act of 1939, and lateron, Bhumidhari on the basis of those Khudkast rights. The Board and the Trial Court while pronouncing upon the rights of parties to reach a conclusion in favour of Sadarani, therefore, assumed on specious ground that failure of the petitioner or their predecessor to bring a suit for ejectment against Sadarani, would defeat these suits, as Sadarani would have perfected her right under Section 180(2).

56. The present suits have been brought to rectify revenue entries alone by expunging the name of Sadarani from the revenue records relating to suit property over which she was recorded when she inherited it, and the right to which she was divested of on remarriage, going by the law governing rights of parties at that time. Here, it has to be clarified that entries of howsoever long standing in the revenue records, that do not have a valid legal basis about them cannot be permitted to continue, inasmuch as such entries cannot confer title by mere long continuance. They do raise a presumption of good title but in the case in hand, it being clearly established that there is no basis to Sadarani's right to continue to be recorded, the merely long continuing entries would not be basis in themselves to perpetuate. The presumption in this case about long continuing revenue entries stands squarely rebutted. It is precisely this contingency which their Lordhsips of the Division Bench in Shri Ram and others (supra) answered to overrule the two earlier decisions by the learned Single Judge in Mangroo (supra) and Jagdev (supra).

57. The submission that learned counsel for the third respondent, urged for a last, is on the authority of the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Gajodhari Devi (supra). He submits that the decision is an authority for the principle that a widow once she inherits property, she cannot be divested upon remarriage. The said decision in the opinion of this Court is of no assistance to the third respondent inasmuch as the principle laid down by their Lordships in Smt. Gajodhari Devi (supra) was in the context of a case, where succession had opened out in favour of the widow, of a pre-deceased son of the tenure holder. The tenure holder died in the year 1961 and the widow inherited a share in the property in her right as the widow of the deceased Bhumidhar's son. The rights of the widow were governed by the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act, 1951 whereas in the present case, the rights of parties, on common ground are governed by a very different law in force at the relevant time, that is to say, the Act of 1939. The U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act does not envisage any such principle about divesting, upon remarriage of a widow, of the share that she has inherited from her husband or the husband's father. This position under the U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act is in sharp contrast to sub Section (1) of Section 36 of the Act of 1939, where upon remarriage the widow looses her share that she had inherited from her husband, which would then devolve upon the heir of the last male tenant, that is her husband. As such, the third respondent's case is not at all remotely covered by the principle in Smt. Gajodhari (supra).

58. In the result, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed with costs. The impugned judgment and decrees dated 28th April, 1994 passed in Second Appeal Nos. 151, 152 and 153 of 1989-90 passed by the Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad are hereby set aside and judgments and decrees of the Additional Commissioner, Jhansi Division, Jhansi dated 24th April, 1990, passed in Appeal No. 90/6/1986-87, 91/7/1986-87 and 92/8/1986-87 stand restored.

A. Civil Law - Primary and Secondary Evidences - Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953: Section 9-A(2), 4(2) - Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950: Section 171(2)(h), 172(2)(b) read with 171- Uttar Pradesh Tenancy Act, 1939 - Indian Evidence Act 1872: Section 90 - If both primary and secondary evidences are on record and there is a conflict between the contents of the two, the contents of the primary evidence, i.e., the original, are to be accepted. The certified copy loses its evidentiary value if it does not correctly reflect the contents of the original. The certified copy and its contents are by themselves not an evidence of any tampering or forgery in the original if the contents of the original are different from the contents of the certified copy. The alleged tampering or manipulation in the original has to be proved by other evidence. (Para 18)

The Court observed that the S.O.C and the D.D.C. in their impugned orders have noted that a mere dot in Persian Script can change the word itself, and have, therefore concluded that the original register have been tampered and entries in the original have been changed. The aforesaid opinion is a mere surmise as no linguistic expert was called by the respondent no. 3 or the consolidation courts to verify the aforesaid fact. The Court further analyzed the Persian Script of the words 'Keoyri' and 'Lohar' and it is apparent that the script of the two words is totally different and a mere dot would not change the word itself. The way 'Keoyri' is written in the Persian Script is totally different from the way 'Lohar' is written in the Persian Script and it cannot be said that a mere addition of dot in the word 'Lohar' would change it to the word 'Keoyri'. (Para 19)

B. Probative Value - Will - Indian Evidence Act, 1872: Section 32(5), 32(6), 68 - 'Void' and 'non-est' are two different concepts.

The concept of void refers to the enforceability of a contract/document/transaction and when a contract or a document is referred as void it implies that the same is not legally enforceable. 'Non-est' means 'non-existent' and is used to deny the execution of the document itself. A void document is not necessarily 'non-est'. It is only an existing document which a party can plead to be 'void'. If a document is void then it cannot be sued upon and enforced but the aforesaid does not mean that other legal consequences of the document shall not follow. (Para 23)

Even if the Will dated 29.03.1946 is not enforceable for being void or may not be relevant under Section 32(6) of the Act of 1872 as Will it would still be admissible and relevant recital in the Will is a statement in writing of the deceased and relates to the existence of a relationship by blood about which the testator had special means of knowledge as a husband of Shivraj. The statement is obviously ante litem motam i.e., made before any dispute regarding the succession to the estate of the testator started between the parties. The recitals of the Will was a material evidence which was not considered by the appellate and revisional courts. (Para 26, 27)

1. Heard Shri Sanjeev Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri T.P. Singh, Senior Counsel, assisted by Shri Siddharth Nandan, Advocate, representing respondent no. 3 and the learned Standing Counsel, representing respondent Nos. 1 and 2. The counsel for the parties have also filed their written arguments which are part of record.

2. The present writ petition arises from proceedings registered under Section 9-A(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1953'). The plots in dispute in the consolidation proceedings and in the present writ petition are Plot Nos. 448/2, 381/2, 447/1 and 396/1 (hereinafter referred to as, 'disputed plots') included in Khata Nos. 59 and 116 and situated in Village-Singaha, District-Kushinagar (previously District-Deoria). One Gaya, son of Parag, was the original tenure holder of the disputed plots. Shivraji was the widow of Gaya. Munia was the daughter of Gaya and Shivraji. Petitioners are the sons of Munia. Gaya belonged to the Lohar community. Gaya died before the date of vesting as defined in Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1950'), and in the revenue records of 1359 Fasli and 1379 Fasli Shivraji was recorded as tenant of the disputed plots. After the death of Shivraji, the petitioners were recorded as tenants of the disputed plots and continued to be recorded as such in the basic year records of the village, i.e., the records available on the date the notification under Section 4(2) of the Act, 1953 was published notifying the village under consolidation operations.

3. During the consolidation operations, the respondent no. 3 filed objections against the entries in the basic year records claiming himself to be the sole tenant of the disputed plots. On the objections of respondent no. 3, Case no. 1016 under Section 9-A(2) of the Act, 1953 was registered before the Consolidation Officer, Hata at Kasya, District-Deoria (hereinafter referred to as, 'C.O.'). The case set up by respondent no. 3 was that Gaya and Shivraji had two sons, namely Thakur and Pheku, and respondent no. 3 was the son of Thakur. Thakur died before Gaya. It was the case of respondent no. 3 that Pheku had died issueless, therefore, the share of Pheku also devolved on respondent no. 3.

4. The petitioners contested the.case set up by respondent no. 3. The petitioners denied that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya or that respondent no. 3 was the grandson of Gaya. However, the petitioners admitted that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Shivraji. The case of the petitioners was that Gaya had only one daughter namely Munia, and the petitioners were the sons of Munia. The petitioners alleged that, before her marriage with Gaya, Shivraji was married to one Budhai, resident of Village-Khairatiya and Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Budhai. The petitioners alleged that Thakur and Pheku came with Shivraji after her marriage to Gaya. On their aforesaid pleadings, the petitioners claimed to be the tenants of the disputed plots under Section 171(2)(h) of the Act, 1950 because they were the sons of the daughter of Gaya. In the alternative, the petitioners also alleged that before his death, Gaya had executed a registered Will dated 29.3.1946 bequeathing his entire property, including the disputed plots, in favour of petitioner no. 1. On the aforesaid pleadings, the petitioners prayed that the objections of respondent no. 3 be rejected and the entries in the basic year records be retained.

5. In order to decide the dispute as who was the heir of Gaya and consequently the tenant of the disputed plots, the C.O. framed issues relating to the validity of the Will dated 29.3.1946 and correctness of the rival pedigrees pleaded by the parties. Before the C.O., respondent no. 3 filed certified copies of the extracts of birth register of 1916 and 1928 and certified copy of the death certificate of 1943 to prove that Thakur was the son of Gaya. The certified copies of the extracts of birth registers of 1916 and 1928 indicated that sons were born to Gaya in the said years and the death certificate indicated that one Thakur, son of Gaya had died in the aforesaid year. The petitioners, in support of their case, filed a copy of the Will dated 29.3.1946, family register of Village-Singaha and a copy of the birth register of birth for the year 1918 and 1916 to show that Thakur, referred by respondent no. 3, was not the son of Gaya Lohar, but was the son of one Gaya Koeyri. The Will dated 29.3.1946 contains a recital allegedly made by Gaya that he had no son but only one daughter namely Munia, who had one son named Bhrigurasan. Bhrigurasan is petitioner no. 1 in the present writ petition. Apart from the aforesaid evidence filed by the parties, the C.O. also summoned the original birth register of 1916, a perusal of which revealed that the entry in the original birth register related to Gaya Koeri and not Gaya Lohar and the certified copy filed by respondent no. 3 did not correctly reflect the contents of the original. Other evidence were also filed by the parties to prove their respective cases, but I am not referring to them as they are not relevant for a decision of the present writ petition and in view of the final orders proposed to be passed in the present writ petitions. It is also relevant to note that before the C.O., the respondent no. 3 admitted in his cross-examination that Munia was the daughter of Gaya and the petitioners were the sons of Munia.

6. The C.O. vide his order dated 31.12.1984 dismissed the objections filed by respondent no. 3 and held the petitioners to be the tenure holders of the disputed plots with 1/3 share each. The C.O. rejected the certified copy of birth register of 1916 filed by respondent no. 3 because a perusal of the original birth register showed that a son was born to Gaya Koeri and not to Gaya Lohar who was the original tenure holder of the disputed plots. The certified copy of the birth register of birth for the year 1927-28 filed by respondent no. 3 showed that a son was born to Gaya Lohar but the evidence was rejected by the C.O. on the ground that it was inconsistent with the case of respondent no. 3 that Gaya had two sons namely Thakur and Pheku. The Will dated 29.3.1946 pleaded by the petitioners was also rejected by the C.O. on the ground that under the Uttar Pradesh Tenancy Act, 1939 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1939') Gaya had no right to transfer the disputed plots and, therefore, the Will was not enforceable. However, while accepting the case of the petitioners, the C.O. relied on the recital in the Will wherein Gaya had allegedly stated that he had no son, but only one daughter Munia, who had one son Bhrigurasan (the petitioner no. 1). The C.O. held the Will to be proved in light of Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1872'). Consequently, the C.O. held that the respondent no. 3 had not been able to prove that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya. The C.O. further held that after the death of Gaya, Shivraji, being the widow of Gaya, became the tenant of the disputed plots and after her death, succession had to be determined in accordance with Section 172(2)(b) read with Section 171 of the Act, 1950, and the petitioners being the sons of Munia, the daughter of Gaya, were the heirs and successors of Gaya and thus the tenants of the disputed plots under Section 171(2)(h) of the Act, 1950.

7. Against the order dated 31.12.1984, the respondent no. 3 filed Appeal no. 0839 under Section 11 of the Act, 1953, which was allowed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Kasya, District-Kushinagar, i.e., respondent no. 2 (hereinafter referred to as, 'S.O.C.') vide his judgment and order dated 28.2.2003. Against the judgement and order dated 28.2.2003 passed by the S.O.C., the petitioners filed Revision no. 157/161 under Section 48 of the Act, 1953, which was dismissed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Kushinagar, i.e., respondent no. 1 (hereinafter referred to as, 'D.D.C.') vide her judgement and order dated 30.4.2013. In their judgement and orders dated 28.2.2003 and 30.4.2013, the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. held that the original birth register of 1916 had been tampered by changing the word 'Lohar' to 'Koeri', after the certified copy of its extract was issued to respondent no. 3 and the certified copy of the extract of birth register filed by respondent no. 3 proved the case of respondent no. 3 that a son was born to Gaya who was the original tenure holder of the disputed plots. The S.O.C. and the D.D.C. reasoned that the entries in the birth register were in 'Urdu' language and transcribed in the Persian Script where even a dot could change the alphabets and consequently the word itself. The S.O.C. and the D.D.C. also relied on the death certificate filed by respondent no. 3 which showed that Thakur had died in 1943 and indicated that he was the son of Gaya. The S.O.C. and the D.D.C. reasoned that as the petitioners had admitted the marriage of Shivraji and Gaya and also that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Sjivraji, therefore, the burden to prove that Thakur and Pheku were not the sons of Gaya but the sons of Budhai was on the petitioners and the petitioners had failed to prove the same. The S.O.C. and the D.D.C. rejected the Will dated 29.3.1946 on the ground that it was void. The S.O.C. and the D.D.C. held that it was proved from evidence that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya Lohar and respondent no. 3 was the son of Thakur and, therefore, respondent no. 3 was entitled to succeed to the estate of Gaya. On their aforesaid reasoning, the S.O.C. set aside the order dated 31.12.1984 passed by the C.O. and the revision filed by the petitioners was rejected by the D.D.C. The orders dated 30.4.2013 and 28.2.2003 passed by the D.D.C. and the S.O.C. have been challenged in the present writ petition.

8. Before proceeding further, it would be relevant to note that the petitioners have filed a supplementary affidavit annexing certain revenue records and proceedings of some Case No. 1002 registered under Section 9-A(2) of the Act, 1953 before the C.O. The aforesaid case relates to some Khata No. 565 of which Pheku appears to be the recorded tenant and has been registered at the instance of respondent no. 3 in which Godhani has been impleaded as the opposite party. Godhani is the daughter of Pheku. The proceedings of Case no. 1002 have been filed by the petitioners to show that Pheku had a daughter namely Godhani. The records of Case No. 1002 annexed with the supplementary affidavit reveal that in the said case, the respondent No. 3 claims himself to be the heir of Pheku on the basis of some Will executed by Pheku in his favour. It is also pertinent to note that the facts disclosed in the supplementary affidavit that Pheku had a daughter namely Godhani or that respondent no. 3 claims himelf to be heir of Pheku in Khata No. 565 on the basis of a Will executed by Pheku has not been denied by respondent no. 3 in his supplementary counter affidavit. The revenue records annexed with the supplementary affidavit are of 1333 Fasli and 1347 Fasli and the said revenue records have been annexed in support of the averment in the supplementary affidavit that one Gaya, son of Mantu Lohar, resided in the same village and respondent no. 3 had taken advantage of the records relating to Gaya, son of Mantu Lohar to prove his case. The petitioners have also annexed with the supplementary affidavit a copy of the revenue records of 1356 Fasli which shows that Shivraji was recorded as tenant of the disputed plots in 1356 Fasli. The revenue records annexed with the supplementary affidavit show that Gaya had died before the Act, 1950 came in operation.

9. Challenging the orders dated 28.2.2003 and 30.4.2013 passed by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C., the counsel for petitioners has argued that Gaya had a heritable and transferable interest in the disputed plots as he was a hereditary tenant with special privilege, i.e., Class-9 tenant as shown in Paragraph No. 124 of the Uttar Pradesh Land Records Manual, therefore, the Will dated 29.3.1946 was valid and enforceable and the findings recorded by the consolidation courts that the Will was void is contrary to law. It was further argued that the recital in the Will dated 29.3.1946 made by Gaya that he had no son and only one daughter namely Munia, who had a son, i.e., petitioner no. 1, proved that Thakur and Pheku were not the sons of Gaya Lohar. It was argued that even if the Will dated 29.3.1946 executed by Gaya was void , the Will and the recital in the same were still admissible under Section 32(6) of the Indian Evidence Act, Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Act, 1872') and were relevant and material evidence to be considered while deciding the issue as to whether Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya and the failure of the SO.C. and the D.D.C. to consider the Will vitiates the impugned orders for non-consideration of relevant materials. It was further argued by the counsel for the petitioners that the burden to prove the pedigree as alleged by respondent no. 3 was on respondent no. 3, who had failed to prove the pedigree as alleged by him inasmuch as the original birth register of 1916 summoned by the C.O. clearly indicated that a son was born to Gaya Koeyri and not to Gaya Lohar. Relying on the revenue records of 1333 Fasli and 1347 Fasli filed alongwith the supplementary affidavit, the counsel for the petitioners has argued that there was another person by the name of Gaya in the same village and respondent no. 3 took advantage of the records relating to the aforesaid Gaya, son of Mantu Lohar to prove his relationship with Gaya Lohar who was the original tenure holder of the disputed plots. It was further argued that the entries in the birth registers and the family registers, though relevant, are not conclusive of genealogy and relationship, but require corroboration to prove the pedigree and respondent no. 3 had not produced any evidence to corroborate the alleged entries in the certified copies of the extracts of birth registers filed by him. It was argued by the counsel for the petitioners that after the death of Gaya, his widow Shivraji, became the tenant of the disputed plots under Section 35(b) of the Act, 1939 and after the death of Shivraji succession had to be decided in accordance with Section 171 read with Section 172(2)(b) of the Act, 1950 and the disputed plots would devolve on the nearest surviving heir of Gaya, the last male tenant of the disputed plots. It was argued that the petitioners being the sons of the daughter of Gaya, became the tenants of the disputed plots under Section 171(2)(h) of the Act, 1950. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the orders dated 28.2.2003 and 30.4.2013 passed by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. are illegal and contrary to law and liable to be quashed. In support of his contention, the counsel for the petitioners has relied on the judgements of Supreme Court and of this Court reported in State of Bihar Vs. Radha Krishna Singh, AIR 1983 SC 683, M Vs. Board of Revenue, 1962 RD, (1) (H.C.), Ram Prasad Sharma Vs. State of Bihar, AIR 1970 SC 326, Madhuri Devi & Another Vs. Board of Revenue, U.P. at Lucknow & Others, 2011 (114) RD 465, Sebastiao Luis Fernandes Vs. K.V.P. Shashtri, 2014 AIR SCW 155, Anil Rishi Vs. Gurbaksh Singh, AIR 2006 SC 1971; and Vinod Kumar Dhall Vs. Dharampal Dhall & Others, AIR 2018 SC 3470.

10. Rebutting the argument of the counsel for the petitioners, the counsel for respondent no. 3 has supported the reasons given by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. in their orders dated 28.2.2003 and 30.4.2013. The counsel for respondent no. 3 has argued that in view of Section 33 of the Act, 1939 the interest of Gaya in the disputed plots was heritable but not transferable and, therefore, Gaya had no right to execute a Will regarding the disputed plots and the Will dated 29.3.1946 was void ab initio and non est and had no legal consequences. It was argued that both the C.O. and the S.O.C. had held that the Will dated 29.3.1946 was void and the said findings were not challenged by the petitioners in the revision filed by them before the D.D.C. and, therefore, the findings recorded by the consolidation courts that the Will was not enforceable cannot be challenged by the petitioners for the first time before this Court. It was further argued that as the Will dated 29.3.1946 was void ab initio, therefore, it cannot be read in evidence and any recital in the same allegedly made by Gaya was also inadmissible in evidence and was rightly ignored by the appellate and the revisional courts. It was argued that the copies of the birth registers produced by respondent no. 3 for the year 1916 and 1928 showed that sons were born to Gaya, the original tenure holder of the disputed plots and the death register of 1943 proved that Thakur was the son of Gaya and no illegality has been committed by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. in relying on the aforesaid documents to hold that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya and respondent no. 3 was the grandson of Thakur. It was argued by the counsel for respondent no. 3 that the original birth register was tampered by adding the word 'Koeyri' after the name of Gaya after the certified copy was issued to respondent no. 3. It was argued that the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. have rightly accepted the certified copies of the extracts of birth registers filed by the respondent no. 3 to hold that Gaya had two sons. It was argued that, admittedly, Shivraji was married to Gaya and also that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Shivraji, therefore, the burden to prove that Thakur and Pheku were not the sons of Gaya Lohar was on the petitioners and the petitioners had failed to discharge their burden as they could not produce any evidence to prove that any person named Gaya Koeyri resided in the village or any evidence to prove the marriage of Shivraji with Budhai. It was argued that the findings recorded by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. in their impugned orders dated 28.2.2003 and 30.4.2013 are based on evidence on record and not subject to interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It was argued that for the aforesaid reasons, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed. In support of his argument, the counsel for respondent no. 3 has relied on the judgements of the Supreme Court and this High Court reported in Prem Singh & Others Vs. Birbal & Others, 2006 (5) SCC 353, Ibrahim Khan Vs. Additional Collector (Administration) Lucknow & Others, 2016 (131) RD 161, Suzuki Parasrampuria Suitings Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Official Liquidator of Mahendra Petrochemicals Ltd. & Others, AIR 2018 SC 4769, Kalpesh Hemantbhai Shah Vs. Manhar Auto Stores & Others, 2014 AIR SCW 1959; and State of U.P. & Others Vs. Maharaj Dharmander Prasad Singh, AIR 1989 SC 997.

11. I have considered the rival submissions of the counsel for the parties.

12. It is not disputed by the parties that Gaya had died before the date of vesting as defined in the Act, 1950 and Shivraji was recorded as tenant of the disputed plots in the revenue records of 1356 Fasli and 1359 Fasli. It is also admitted between the parties that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Shivraji and also that Munia was the daughter of Shivraji and Gaya. The dispute between the parties relates to the paternity of Thakur and Pheku. Respondent no. 3 pleads that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya while the petitioners allege that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Budhai to whom Shivraji was married before her marriage to Gaya. The dispute as to whether Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya is relevant to decide the heir of Gaya and the tenancy of the disputed plots under Section 171 of the Act, 1950. The answer to the question as to who is the heir of Gaya and on whom the tenancy of the disputed plots devolve is also dependent on the validity of the Will dated 29.3.1946 allegedly executed by Gaya. The Will is a registered document. The consolidation courts have rejected the Will on the ground that Gaya had no transferable interest in the suit property and, therefore, the Will was void. The petitioners have challenged the said findings of the consolidation courts. The issue regarding the relationship of Gaya with Thakur and Pheku would be relevant only if the findings of the consolidation courts on the Will dated 29.3.1946 is affirmed. Therefore, first, the issue regarding the validity of the Will.

13. The counsel for the petitioners, while challenging the findings of the consolidation courts that Gaya had no right to execute the Will dated 29.3.1946, has argued that Gaya was a hereditary tenant with special privilege, i.e., Class-9 as enumerated in Paragraph No. 124 of the U.P. Land Records Manual, and therefore, the interest of Gaya in the disputed plots was both heritable and transferable and thus the Will dated 29.3.1946 was valid and legally enforceable.

14. The contention of the counsel for the petitioners can not be accepted. The petitioners have not brought on record any document to show that Gaya was a hereditary tenant or Class-9 tenant of the disputed plots. Any consideration of the tenancy rights of Gaya, in light of the arguments raised by the counsel for the petitioner would require an enquiry into disputed question of facts, i.e., the tenancy rights of Gaya in the disputed plots, the records relating to which have not been produced before this Court. Apart from the aforesaid, a perusal of the revenue record of 1347 Fasli, annexed as Annexure no. SA-2 to the supplementary affidavit, shows that Gaya was an occupancy tenant and was recorded as Class 6(1) tenant in the revenue records. Under Section 33 of the United Provinces Tenancy Act, 1939 an occupancy tenant had no transferable interest except in the circumstances mentioned in Act, 1939. It is not the case of the petitioners that any of the circumstances mentioned in Act, 1939 existed which gave Gaya a transferable interest in the disputed plots. The said document does not support the contention of the petitioners regarding the nature of tenancy of Gaya in the disputed plots. Further, the findings recorded by the C.O. and the S.O.C. that Gaya did not have a transferable interest in the disputed plots and, therefore, the Will dated 29.3.1946 was void and not legally enforceable was not challenged by the petitioners in the revision filed by them before the D.D.C. In the circumstances the petitioners can not, for the first time before this Court in proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India be permitted to challenge the said findings of the S.O.C. and D.D.C.

15. At this stage it is necessary to clarify that no statutory provision in the Act, 1939 was brought to the notice of this Court by the counsel for the respondent to show that Act 1939 prohibited bequest by the class of tenants included in Section 33 of the Act, 1939. But as the counsel for the petitioners did not raise any argument challenging the approach of the consolidation courts in treating the Will to be a transfer of property, I am not expressing any opinion on the correctness of the findings of the consolidation courts regarding the legality of the Will on the said ground. The challenge by the petitioners to the findings of the consolidation courts regarding the validity of the Will is being rejected only on the ground that the petitioners, can not for the first time, be permitted to raise the said argument in the writ petition and because the argument of the petitioners that the Will was enforceable and not void is based on the nature of tenancy rights of Gaya in the disputed plots and the documents annexed with the supplementary affidavit negate the facts pleaded by the petitioners to support their argument that Gaya had a transferable interest in the plots.

16. In order to prove their respective cases, regarding the descendants of Gaya, i.e., as to whether Munia was the only child of Gaya or whether Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya, the parties relied on the certified copies of the extracts of different birth and death registers. The petitioners also relied on the recital in the Will to prove their case and disprove the pedigree pleaded by respondent no. 3.

17. The respondent no. 3, in order to prove his case, filed a certified copy of the extract of Birth register of 1916 which showed that a son was born to Gaya. A reading of the judgement dated 31.12.1984 passed by the C.O. indicates that there was some doubt regarding the authenticity of the certified copy and, therefore, the C.O. summoned the original birth register. The original birth register indicated that the entries related to one Gaya who belonged to the Koeyri community. Gaya who was the original tenure holder of the disputed plots belonged to the Lohar community. The C.O., therefore, relying on the entries in the original register held that birth register of 1916 did not prove that Thakur was the son of Gaya who was the original tenure holder of the disputed plots. The findings of the C.O. was reversed by the S.O.C. on the ground that entries in the birth birth are in Urdu language and in the Persian Script where a mere dot can completely change the transcribed Urdu word. The S.O.C. and the D.D.C. relied on the certified copy filed by respondent no. 3 to hold that Thakur was the son of Gaya Lohar and held that the entries in the original birth register had been tampered because admittedly the certified copy filed by respondent no. 3 was issued to him.

18. The contents of the certified copy filed by respondent no. 3 differed from the original. The consolidation courts did not summon any officer from the concerned department to verify the genuineness of the certified copy filed by respondent no. 3. The certified copy of a document is a secondary evidence under Section 63 of the Evidence Act, 1872. The original document is a primary evidence under Section 62 of the Act, 1872. The contents of a document are, except in circumstances mentioned in Section 65 of the Act, 1872 must be proved by the primary evidence, i.e., the document itself (section 64 of the Act, 1872). It is true that certified copy of a public document is admissible in evidence under Section 77 read with Section 65(e) of the Evidence Act, 1872 in proof of the contents of the public document or part of the public document of which it purports to be a copy. Under Sections 77 and 79 of the Act, 1872 the courts raise a presumption that the certified copy reflects the contents of the original. The presumption in favour of the certified copy is not conclusive but a rebuttable presumption. The presumption in favour of the certified copy that it reflects the contents of the original can be rebutted by production and perusal of the original record. The utility of a certified copy as evidence is to prove the contents of the original public document where the original is not on record. A reading of Sections 61 to 65 of the Evidence Act, 1872 indicates that secondary evidence in proof of the document or its contents can be given only where the original, i.e., the primary evidence can not or is not produced as evidence. If both primary and secondary evidences are on record and there is a conflict between the contents of the two, the contents of the primary evidence, i.e., the original, are to be accepted. The certified copy loses its evidentiary value if it does not correctly reflect the contents of the original. The certified copy and its contents are by themselves not an evidence of any tampering or forgery in the original if the contents of the original are different from the contents of the certified copy. The alleged tampering or manipulation in the original has to be proved by other evidence. Thus, the certified copy of birth register of 1916 filed by respondent No. 3 was not a material evidence to hold that the original birth register had been tempered and the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. by relying on the certified copy of birth register of 1916 have considered irrelevant material to hold that the original birth register of 1916 had been tampered.

19. In their impugned orders the S.O.C and the D.D.C. have noted that a mere dot in Persian Script can change the word itself, and have, therefore, concluded that the original register has been tampered and entries in the original have been changed. The aforesaid opinion is a mere surmise. No linguistic expert was called by the respondent No. 3 or the consolidation courts to verify the aforesaid fact. I have myself looked at the Persian Script of the words 'Koeyri' and 'Lohar' and it is apparent that the script of the two words is totally different and a mere dot would not change the word itself. The way 'Koeyri' is written in the Persian Script is totally different from the way 'Lohar' is written in the Persian Script and it can not be said that a mere addition of dot in the word 'Lohar' would change it to the word 'Koeyri'. Further, even if the birth register of 1916 was tampered and entries forged, the said tampering only reduces or extinguishes the probative value of the entries and does not prove the case of respondent no. 3 because there is nothing on record to indicate the initial entry in the records.

20. The birth register of the year 1928 indicates that one son was born to Gaya Lohar and the copy of the death register of 1943 filed by respondent no. 3 indicates that one Thakur, son of Gaya had died in the aforesaid year.

21. However, it was held by this Court in Madhuri Devi (Supra) that, "an entry in a revenue record or in the family register is no final proof of the parentage of a person". (Paragraph no. 13). The death and the birth registers, by themselves, are not conclusive proof of a pedigree pleaded by a party and the entries in the said documents require corroboration. There is no evidence on record corroborating the entries in the birth register of 1928 and the death register of 1943. In any case, the probative value of the entries in the different registers mentioned above and filed by respondent no. 3 had to be assessed in light of other evidences brought on record by the parties. The petitioners, in order to disprove that Thakur and Pheku were the sons of Gaya, had filed the Will dated 29.3.1946 which contained a recital by Gaya that he had no son but only a daughter named Munia. The recital in the aforesaid Will has not been considered by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. while assessing the different evidence filed by the parties to prove their respective cases. The issue before this Court is as to whether the failure of the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. to consider the Will dated 29.3.1946 and the recital in it vitiates their orders requiring interference by this Court?

22. The counsel for the petitioners has argued that the Will, even if void because Gaya had no right to execute the said Will, was admissible in evidence under Section 32(6) of the Act, 1872 to disprove the alleged relationship between Thakur and Gaya. The counsel for respondent no. 3 has argued that the Will was void and thus non est and therefore the Will or any part of it was not admissible in evidence and can not be read in evidence for any purpose and the appellate and the revisional courts rightly refused to consider the same. In support of his argument the counsel for respondent no. 3 has relied on the judgement of this Court in Ibrahim Khan (Supra) and of the Supreme Court in Prem Singh (Supra).

23. 'Void' and 'non-est' are two different concepts. The concept of void refers to the enforceability of a contract/document/ transaction and when a contract or a document is referred as void it implies that the same is not legally enforceable. 'Non-est' means 'non-existent' and is used to deny the execution of the document itself. A void document is not necessarily 'non-est'. It is only an existing document which a party can plead to be 'void'. If a document is executed by a person who had no authority to execute it or no authority to indulge in the transactions incorporated in the document, the document would be void but not 'non-est'. If a document is void then it can not be sued upon and enforced but the aforesaid does not mean that other legal consequences of the document shall not follow. A contract or any other document which creates a right would be enforced by a court only if the person who executed the document has the authority to execute it, the document is admitted in evidence and proved in accordance with the provisions of Evidence Act, 1872. The admissibility in evidence or the probative value of a document or its contents does not depend on its enforceability by the courts. For example, if a Will is not proved in accordance with Section 68 of the Act, 1872 because no attesting witness of the Will who is alive, and subject to the process of the court and capable of giving evidence has been called to prove its due execution, the Will would not be enforced and the Will shall not be read in evidence for the purposes of enforcing the Will but can still be read in evidence for any purpose other than for enforcing the Will. In such a case, the document purporting to be a Will will be read in evidence not as Will but as any other document provided it has been proved in accordance with Sections 67, 72 and other provisions of the Evidence Act, 1872. Similarly in case, where a Will is not used or relied upon as a document conferring any enforceable right, the same can be read in evidence even if the requirement of Section 68 are not fulfilled and the said document is proved in accordance with Sections 67 and 72 of the Act, 1872. A Will which is executed by a person who had no right to make a bequest of the properties would not be enforceable by a court and in that sense it would be void. But, the said Will can be used for purposes other than its enforcement and would be admissible in evidence for such other purposes.

24. In my aforesaid view, I am supported by a Division Bench judgement of this Court rendered in Mahadeo Prasad Vs. Ghulam Mohammad, AIR 1947 ALL 161. Paragraph Nos. 9 and 9A of the aforesaid judgement are relevant for the purpose and are reproduced below :-

"9. The main question which has to be decided in this appeal is whether the statement contained in Mt. Sahodra's will referred to above was admissible in evidence and the learned judge was right in relying on the same. it must be remembered that in the present case we are not concerned with the validity or invalidity of the will as such. It is obvious that Mt. Sahodra, being in possession of the property as a limited owner under the Hindu Law, whether as the widow of the last owner Bhau Ram or as the mother of the last owner Kallu Ram had no right to transfer the property by will. Section 68, Evidence Act would certainly come into play if any of the two parties to this litigation had founded his claim on the will but that is not the case here. This will of Mt. Sahodra is a registered document and it has been specifically referred to in the sale deed in favour of the defendant. It has been exhibited by the Court of first instance as Ex. QQ and, therefore, it is clear that it was tendered in evidence. The statement of the defendant's witness, Sheo Cham, in favour of whose wife Mt. Moti Kunwar, the will was executed has definitely stated in the course of his deposition that Mt. Sahodra executed "a will" in favour of his wife Moti Kunwar in 1934. No objection seems to have been raised in the course of the proceedings in the Court of first instance with regard to the existence of this Will or its execution by Mt. Sahodra. A glance at the statement of Sheo Charan would show that first of all he referred to this will in his examination in-chief. In cross-examination learned counsel for the plaintiff appears to have repeatedly questioned Sheo Charan with reference to this will, but the questions were all put to the witness with a view to eliciting from him the facts bearing upon the invalidity of the will. It is true that the will Ex.QQ does not bear on it any statement to the effect that its execution was admitted, but on a careful examination of the long statement of Sheo Charan there can be no doubt whatsoever that the cross-examination of Sheo Charan proceeded on the footing that the registered document dated 10-9-1934 purporting to be a will of Mt. Sahodra was a document executed by Mt. Sahodra.

9A. It must, therefore, be taken that the only contention raised on behalf of the plaintiff with regard to this document in the trial Court was that it has not been proved in accordance with the provisions S.68, Evidence Act. And it is well settled that an objection that a document which per se is not admissible (inadmissible?) in evidence, has been improperly admitted in evidence in the trial Court, can not be entertained in the court of appeal. If such an objection had been taken in the trial Court it might have been easily met and the proceedings regularised : vide AIR 1931 Pat 224, AIR 1915 PC 111, 34 Cal 1059: 34 IA 194 and AIR 1923 CAL 378. As mentioned already, S.68 would apply only if the document were relied upon as a Will and therefore as a document requiring attestation. It has been repeatedly held that non-compliance with the provisions of S.68 does not prevent the document from being used in evidence under S.72 for any other or collateral purpose. Reference might be made to the case in 13 ALJ553; also to the case in 16 ALJ 121. Similarly reference might be made to the decision of a Bench of two learned Judges of this Court in 1939 ALJ 142."

25. Previously, a Division Bench of this Court in a judgement reported in Ft. Shyam Lal Vs. Lakshmi Narain, AIR 1939 ALL 269, held that, "Section 68 on the other hand states : if a document is required by law to be attested it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence. The question at issue is whether the words : it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called", etc. are to be held to imply the words "it shall not be so used as evidence for any purpose", or whether the words are to be held merely as applying to a suit for enforcement to the document leaving the ordinary provisions of law in Sec. 67 to apply where the document is to be used for any other purpose. On general considerations it would appear difficult to hold that Sec. 68 must always apply to the use of a document in evidence which is required by law to be attested". It was further observed by the Division Bench that, "The Evidence Act codified the law and we should have expected that if s.68 was intended to express that a document required by law to be attested should not be used as evidence for any purpose until on attesting witness at least had been called, then the words "for any purpose" would have found a place in the Section. Those words are not in the Section and therefore we conclude that this was not the intention of the framers of the Act. It is not possible to see why an admission in one document should require a different kind of proof from an admission in another document. The mere fact that one of the document requires to be executed with attestation and that attestation must be proved for the purpose of giving legal effect to the document does not appear to have any bearing on the question as to what proof should be given of the document where it is tendered merely to prove an admission in writing. For these reasons we consider that the view of the appellant is correct and S. 68 does not apply to the case of a document which is merely to be proved for the purpose of an admission."

(Emphasis added)

26. Thus, even if the Will dated 29.3.1946 is not enforceable for being void or may not be relevant under Section 32(6) of the Act, 1872 as a Will, it would still be admissible and relevant under Section 32(5) of the Act, 1872 because the relevant recital in the Will is a statement in writing of the deceased and relates to the existence of a relationship by blood about which the testator had special means of knowledge as the husband of Shivraji. The statement is obviously ante litem motam, i.e., made before any dispute regarding the succession to the estate of the testator started between the parties. Thus, the Will dated 29.3.1946 was admissible in evidence and was relevant under Section 32(5) of the Act, 1872 to decide the pedigree of respondent No. 3 and had to be considered by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. while assessing the different evidence filed by the parties to prove or disprove the pedigrees as pleaded by them.

27. A reading of the impugned orders passed by the appellate and the revisional courts shows that the recital in the Will has not been considered by the said courts. The recital was a material evidence, the non-consideration of which vitiates the judgements of the appellate and the revisional courts.

28. The judgements of this Court in Ibrahim Khan (Supra) and of Supreme Court in Prem Singh (Supra) referred by respondent no. 3 do not deal with the issue regarding the relevance or admissibility in evidence of a void and uneforceable document for purposes other than the enforceability of the document and are therefore not applicable in the present case.

29. It is true that this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, does not interfere in findings of fact recorded by the tribunals but in the present case the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. have ignored material evidence, i.e., the Will dated 29.3.1946 and the original birth register of 1916, and have also considered an irrelevant material, i.e., the certified copy of the birth register of 1916 filed by respondent no. 3, to support their findings. The reasons recorded by the consolidation courts to not consider the Will dated 29.3.1946 and the recital in it while assessing the different evidence filed by the parties is vitiated by error of law which is apparent on the face of record. Thus, the impugned orders passed by the S.O.C. and the D.D.C. are liable to be quashed and the matter is liable to be remanded back to the S.O.C. to pass fresh orders in accordance with law.

30. In view of the reasons recorded previously, no opinion is required to be expressed on the probative value of other evidences filed by the parties which shall be considered by the S.O.C. in light of the observations previously made in the present judgement.

31. For the aforesaid reasons, the orders dated 30.4.2013 and 28.2.2003 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Kushinagar and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Kasya, District-Kushinagar are hereby quashed. The matter is remanded back to the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Kasya, District-Kushinagar to pass fresh orders in accordance with law and in light of the observations made in the judgement. The settlement Officer of Consolidation shall pass fresh orders within a period of six months from today and the consequential revision filed by the aggrieved parties shall also be decided by the Deputy Director of Consolidation within two months from the date of filing. It is clarified that in any case, the proceedings restarted as a consequence of the present order shall be completed within a period of one year from today. In order to ensure that the proceedings are completed within one year from today the consolidation authorities shall be at liberty to hold day to day hearing in the cases filed before them. The Collector, Kushinagar, is directed to ensure compliance of the present order.

32. The Register General of this Court is directed to send a copy of this order to the Collector, Kushinagar.

33. The parties shall maintain status quo and not create any third party rights in the disputed plot till the culmination of the proceedings as directed above.

34. With the aforesaid directions, the writ petition is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble SiddharthaVarma, J.)

1. Writ Petition No.4682 of 2011 has been filed against the award of the Central Government Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court. The respondent nos.2 and 3, who are petitioners in Writ Petition No.37335 of 2011 had raised an industrial dispute and a Reference was made by the relevant Government on 23/24 June 1999 which was to the following effect :-

"Whether the action of the management of State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur in terminating the services of Shri Dinesh Kumar Bansal and Shri Ravindra Kumar and not giving them opportunity for re-employment is legal and justified? If not, to what relief the said workmen are entitled?"

2. Respondent no.2 had come up with a case that he was engaged with the petitioner-Bank on 21.11.1983 as a temporary Clerk-cum-Cashier and was thereafter disengaged from service on 8.2.1984. The respondent no.3 also had a similar case and he stated that he was engaged on 21.3.1983 as a temporary Clerk and was disengaged on 8.6.1983. The respondent nos.2 and 3 had come up with a case that they were entitled to be absorbed as regular employees. They had taken a case that when they were retrenched they were not the junior most temporary employees in the organization, meaning thereby their services were done away with in violation of the provisions of Section 25G of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as the "Central Act"); and it was stated after they were removed, fresh hands were recruited in violation of the provisions of section 25H of the Central Act. It was stated that these actions of the employer were in violation of the SASTRY Award and the bipartite agreement between the bank and Workers' Union. The petitioner-Bank had opposed the claim of the respondent nos.2 and 3 before the Tribunal.

3. However, the Tribunal, before which pleadings were filed and oral evidence were led, on 15.7.2010 passed an award by which the respondent nos. 2 and 3 were reinstated but without back-wages.

4. Sri Satish Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the petitioner assailed the award on the following amongst other grounds :-

(i) The Reference to the Tribunal did not mention either the date of the alleged termination or the posts on which the respondent nos.2 and 3 were engaged, making the Reference vague.

(ii) Even though there was no Reference with regard to the violation of Rules 77 and 78 of "The Industrial Disputes (Central) Rules, 1957" (hereinafter referred to as the "Central Rules") yet, the Tribunal had given findings with regard to the violation of the provisions of those Rules and had found that there was definite violation of the provisions of Rules 77 and 78 of the Central Rules. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the Tribunal was a Court of Reference and it was bound by the Reference made to it. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon (2004) 10 SCC 460 : Mukand Ltd. vs. Mukand Staff & Officers' Association. He further submitted that if the Tribunal exceeded its jurisdiction then the award was bad on account of a jurisdictional error. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon (2006) 5 SCC 123 : State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur vs. Om Prakash Sharma.

(iii) When the Reference to the Tribunal in effect was as to whether there was any violation of the provisions of section 25H of the Central Act and when no information was provided as to who were the employees junior to the respondents working in the establishment then the award could not be sustained. Learned counsel submitted that Ashok Kumar Jain and Anil Kumar who were appointed in 1983 and 1984 were appointed at the time the respondents were also appointed. So far as Shyam Singh and Mukesh Kumar were concerned, they were of a different category as they had been recruited through the Bank. Learned counsel therefore submitted that regularising persons who had already been working would not attract the provisions of section 25H of the Central

Act. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon (2019) 2 SCC 743 : Management of the Barara Cooperative Marketing-cum-Processing Society Ltd. vs. Workman Pratap Singh. Learned counsel in order to give strength to his argument that a retrenched employee had no absolute right for re-employment relied upon 2009 (9) ADJ 141 : State Bank of Bikaner and Jaipur vs. Anurag Sharma. Learned counsel further submitted that since the Reference was only with regard to the alleged violation of the provisions of section 25H of the Central Act, the only issue which was required to be seen was as to whether any opportunity to the retrenched workman was given or not for re-employment when vacancies arose and others were given employment. In this regard, learned counsel submitted that the Circular dated 16.8.1990 which was made a part of the record of the Tribunal and was also a part of the record of the writ petition was an opportunity enough for the respondent-employees to have approached the Bank. He further submitted that there was earlier to 16.8.1990, another Circular issued on 23.4.1987 in various newspapers. The respondents had purposely not responded to the Circulars and, therefore, now they could not claim any right under the provisions of section 25H of the Central Act.

(iv) Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the Tribunal erred in insisting that notice to the respondents ought to have been as per the provisions of Rules 77 and 78 of the Central Rules.

(v) When there was no pleading then oral evidence as was led by the respondents was not to be read. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon (1999) 4 SCC 403 : Prataprai N. Kothari vs. Jhon Braganza.

(vi) In the end, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the respondent nos.2 and 3 after being disengaged, raised the industrial dispute very late in the day. The Reference itself was made on 23/24 June 1999; the award came in the year 2010; the workmen were not in employment of the petitioner since the last 37 years; the respondent no.2, at the time of filing of the counter affidavit, was aged about 48 years and now was more than 57 years of age whereas respondent no.3, at the time of filing of the counter affidavit was aged about 46 years and now he was more than 55 years of age and, therefore, they be not granted any relief. Learned counsel also submitted that the respondents were not entitled for any back-wages as they had raised the industrial dispute very belatedly and, therefore, the connected writ petition being Writ Petition No.37335 of 2011 be dismissed.

5. Learned counsel for the respondent nos.2 and 3 in Writ Petition No.4682 of 2011 (and as a counsel for the petitioners in Writ Petition No.37335 of 2011) however, supported the award to the extent that it had directed for the reinstatement of the respondent nos.2 and 3 and submitted that when the issue with regard to the violation of the provisions of section 25H of the Central Act was being considered, then it became imperative that the findings with regard to the provisions of section 25G of the Central Act and Rules 77 and 78 of the Central Rules be given. In this regard, learned counsel for respondent nos.2 and 3 relied upon 1997 (76) FLR 393 : Oriental Bank of Commerce vs. Union of India & Ors. and 1987 (55) FLR 527 : Gujarat State Machine Tools Corporation Limited, Bhavnagar vs. Deepak J. Desai. Learned counsel further submitted that when there was violation of the provisions of Rules 77 and 78 of the Central Rules and when it was evident from the award that juniors were absorbed to the detriment of the petitioners then the award could not be interfered with so far as it reinstated the workmen-respondent nos.2 and 3. Learned counsel further submitted that the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 was a welfare legislation and when an industrial dispute was raised by the respondents upon gaining knowledge of the fact that persons junior to them were being regularised then it was in the fitness of things that the delay of a few years was condoned by the Tribunal. However, learned counsel for respondent nos.2 and 3 submitted that the delay of almost 11 years which was committed by the Tribunal should not have been there. Learned counsel submitted that the High Court had protected the interest of the respondents when the orders dated 23.8.2011 and 13.7.2012 were passed. The orders dated 23.8.2011 and 13.7.2012 as were read out by the learned counsel are being reproduced here as under :-

"Counter affidavit and rejoinder affidavits have been exchanged. Heard counsel for the parties.

The petition is admitted for hearing.

The interim order dated 27.1.2011 is modified to the extent that petitioner shall reinstate the workmen in view of section 17-B of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as the workman is said to have filed affidavit that they were not gainfully employed after alleged illegal termination from service and that the court below has recorded a categorical finding of fact that the workmen were not gainfully employed. The employer/petitioner will reinstate the workmen within a period of one month from today and pay them their salary month to month in accordance with law till further orders."

Order dated 13.7.2012 passed in Writ-C No.4682 of 2011

"(Order on Modification Application)

Heard learned counsel for the parties.

This Court vide order dated 23.8.2011 had modified its interim order dated 27.1.2011 in the following terms:

"The interim order dated 27.1.2011 is modified to the extent that petitioner shall reinstate the workmen in view of section 17-B of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as the workman is said to have filed affidavit that they were not gainfully employed after alleged illegal termination from service and that the court below has recorded a categorical finding of fact that the workmen were not gainfully employed. The employer/petitioner will reinstate the workmen within a period of one month from today and pay them their salary month to month in accordance with law till further orders."

Learned counsel for the petitioner advanced an argument that it is always open to the employer to take work from the employee or not to take work from the employee and paid him his wages/salary. Section 17-B of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 provides for salary last drawn by the workman in whose favour award is given. It is stated that the workmen concerned are being paid wages accordingly as directed by this Court vide order dated 27.1.2011 and a modification application by the workmen concerned has been filed as the employer were compelled by the reason of contempt application filed by the workmen concerned that they are entitled the current salary even without working.

Learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that in the meantime they will not press the contempt petition and further they may be granted time to file objection to the modification application. The petitioner has sought the modification application for not compelling to take the work from the workmen concerned.

As prayed, two weeks time is allowed to Shri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the respondents for filing objection to the application for modification of the order. Learned counsel for the applicant is also allowed two weeks' time to file reply to the objection, if any, filed by Shri Siddharth Khare.

List immediately after expiry of the aforesaid four weeks."

6. This would mean that the respondents had been taken back in service and must have also been granted their salaries. However, learned counsel for the respondent-workmen submitted that the Tribunal erred in not granting the back-wages and relied upon (1999) 6 SCC 82 : Ajaib Singh vs. The Sirhind Co-Operative Marketing-cum-Processing Service Society Limited & Ors.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the Bank and the workmen, I am of the view that the award requires no interference. Since sections 25G and 25H of the Central Act and Rules 77 and 78 of the Central Rules were referred to by the learned counsel, they are being reproduced here as under :-

"Section 25G. Procedure for retrenchment.--Where any workman in an industrial establishment, who is a citizen of India, is to be retrenched and he belongs to a particular category of workman in that establishment, in the absence of any agreement between the employer and the workman in this behalf, the employer shall ordinarily retrench the workman who was the last person to be employed in that category, unless for reasons to be recorded the employer retrenches any other workman.

Section 25H. Re-employment of retrenched workmen.--Where any workmen are retrenched, and the employer proposes to take into his employ any persons, he shall, in such manner as may be prescribed, give an opportunity to the retrenched workmen who are citizens of India to offer themselves for re-employment, and such retrenched workmen who offer themselves for re-employment shall have preference over other persons.

Rule 77. Maintenance of seniority list of workmen.--The employer shall prepare a list of all workmen in the particular category from which retrenchment is contemplated arranged according to the seniority of their service in that category and cause a copy thereof to be pasted on a notice board in a conspicuous place in the premises of the industrial establishment at least seven days before the actual date of retrenchment.

Rule 78. Re-employment of retrenched workmen.--(1) At least ten days before the date on which vacancies are to be filled, the employer shall arrange for the display on a notice board in a conspicuous place in the premises of the industrial establishment details of those vacancies and shall also give intimation of those vacancies by registered post to every one of all the retrenched workmen eligible to be considered thereof, to the address given by him at the time of retrenchment or at any time thereafter:

Provided that where the number of such vacancies is less than the number of retrenched workmen, it shall be sufficient if intimation is given by the employer individually to the senior-most retrenched workmen in the list referred to in rule 77 the number of such senior-most workmen being double the number of such vacancies:

Provided further that where the vacancy is of a duration of less than one month there shall be no obligation on the employer to send intimation of such vacancy to individual retrenched workmen:

Provided also that if a retrenched workman, without sufficient cause being shown in writing to the employer, does not offer himself for re-employment on the date or dates specified in the intimation sent to him by the employer under this sub-rule, the employer may not intimate to him the vacancies that may be filled on any subsequent occasion.

(2) Immediately after complying with the provisions of sub-rule (1), the employer shall also inform the trade unions connected with the industrial establishment, of the number of vacancies to be filled and names of the retrenched workmen to whom intimation has been sent under that sub-rule:

Provided that the provisions of this sub-rule need not be complied with by the employer in any case where intimation is sent to every one of the workmen mentioned in the list prepared under rule 77."

8. The submission of the learned counsel for the Bank that the Reference when was with regard to the opportunity as was to be granted under section 25H, then the Tribunal could not have given further findings with regard to the provisions of section 25G and Rules 77 and 78 of the Central Rules is absolutely misplaced. I am of the view that unless findings with regard to the provisions of Rules 77 and 78 of the Central Rules and with regard to the provisions of section 25G are given, the Tribunal could not have arrived at a proper conclusion as to whether the provisions of section 25H were violated. The Tribunal, in the fitness of things, found that no proper seniority list was maintained; no proper opportunity to the respondents, as was required to be given under the Rules, was provided before regularising persons junior to them and further the Tribunal correctly found that the delay on the part of the respondent-workmen was negligible. No fault can also be found with regard to the findings viz-a-viz. the application of the SASTRY Award and bipartite agreement in the case.

9. The workmen must have been taken back in service as per the interim orders of this Court and, therefore, I do not find it appropriate to grant any back-wages as since 2011 they must have been getting their regular salaries.

10. Under such circumstances, I find that no interference is warranted in both the writ petitions. The writ petitions are, therefore, dismissed. However, if in pursuance of the interim orders, the workmen have not been reinstated, then it would be deemed that they were reinstated on the date when the first interim order dated 23.8.2011 was passed and all wages which were payable to the workman viz-a-viz. the date of the interim order dated 23.8.2011 would be granted to them. It may be stated that all consequential benefits of the award whereby the workmen were required to be reinstated shall also be provided to the respondent-workmen.

A. Civil Law - Code of Civil Procedure ,1908 - Section 5 - Order 9 Rule 13 - The Limitation Act, 1963 - allowing application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. - setting aside decree ex parte against defendant - S.D.M committed jurisdictional error - no proper application for condonation of delay - rightly corrected by the revision court in exercise of its revisional power - order of the revision court based on settled principles of law - no illegality or infirmity in the said order - if the act of advocate is not in furtherance to accomplish the purpose for which he has been engaged by his client or against the statutory provisions or rules, such an act of advocate would not be binding upon the client (Director of Elementary Education Odisha & Others Vs. Pramod Kumar Sahoo 2019 (10) SCC 674). (Para - 23,27)

Respondent no.2 instituted partition suit before Sub-Divisional Magistrate - under Section 176 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 - ex-parte judgement and decree passed - preliminary decree prepared - quras prepared by lekhpal - application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. filed by the petitioners - delay of four years after the exparte judgement - no application under Section 5 of The Limitation Act, 1963 filed by the petitioners - specific objection raised by respondent no.2 - regarding maintainability of application under 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. being barred by time - S.D.M. did not consider objections - passed a cryptic order - allowing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C with cost of Rs.300/- - objection of the petitioners - once the cost of Rs.300/- is accepted by counsel for respondent no.2, it is not open to respondent no.2 to challenge the said order. (Para - 14,15,24)

HELD:- Acceptance of cost by the advocate of the respondent no.2 is not an act in furtherance to accomplish the purpose for which he was engaged and also in violation of statutory provision as the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. was incompetent in absence of delay condoantion application and any order passed condoning the delay in filing the aforesaid application - Such an act of respondent no.2 would not debar him from challenging the order of S.D.M. setting aside ex-parte judgment and decree. Order on Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application No.268647 of 2012.

1. The delay condonation application has been filed to condone the delay in filing the Substitution Application No.268649 of 2012 to substitute the legal heirs of respondent no.3 Sariful Hasan, who died on 06.03.2009 and legal heirs of respondent no.4, Nazmul Hasan, who died on 06.06.2010.

2. A joint affidavit in support of aforesaid two applications has been file by one Abul Hasan. The aforesaid substitution application has been filed on 10.09.2012. The reason for delay has been stated in paragraph 5 to 8 of the affidavit which are being extracted hereinbelow:-

"5. That subsequent to the death of the aforesaid respondents although substitution application, for bringing their heirs on record, was filed on behalf of the petitioner in case no. 54/2008 (Shamsul Hasan Versus Saliya Khatoon) which is pending before the Civil Judge (Jr. Div.) Khaga District Fatehpur but due to inadvertent mistake this substitution application, immediately after death of the deceased/respondents, could not be filed in the present writ petition.

6. That recently on 20.4.2012 an abatement application with regard to the deceased respondent no.3 and 4 was received in the office of the learned counsel for the petitioners whereby the deponent received information for taking necessary steps and for filing of reply to the same.

7. That immediately thereafter the deponent rush to Allahabad, informed the aforesaid necessary facts to his learned counsel immediately where after without any further delay, the present substitution application is being filed.

8. That the delay occurred in filing the present substitution application is neither intentionally nor knowingly as such same may be condoned and present substitution application may be allowed setting aside the abatement if any."

3. The respondent no.2 filed counter affidavit to the aforesaid delay condonation application contending inter alia that petitioner in paragraph 5 of the affidavit has not stated the date of filing the substitution application in Case No.54 of 2008 (Shamsul Hasan Vs. Saliya Khatoon) pending before Civil Judge (Junior Division), Khaga, District Fatehpur. It is further stated that the deceased and petitioners belonged to one family and were neighbours, and petitioners had full knowledge about the death of respondent nos.3 & 4. Thus, the delay in filing the substitution application was deliberate and intentional. It is further stated that the abatement application filed by respondent no.2 was served in the office of counsel for petitioner on 20.04.2012, and petitioners filed substitution application on 09.09.2012 after 114 days from the date of receiving the abatement application without stating the cause for delay of 114 days in filing the substitution application. On the basis of aforesaid pleadings, respondent no.2 has prayed for dismissal of the delay condonation application.

4. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

5. The respondent no.3 had died on 06.03.2009 and respondent no.4 had died on 06.06.2010, therefore, there was delay of about more than three years from the date of death of respondent no.3 and more than two years from the date of death of respondent no.4 in filing the substitution application. The paragraph 5 of the affidavit filed in support of the delay condonation application, extracted above, clearly reveals that petitioners had knowledge about the death of respondent nos.3 & 4 and they had filed the substitution application to bring the legal heirs of respondent nos.3 & 4 on record in Case No.54 of 2008 (Shamsul Hasan Vs. Saliya Khatoon), but no reason has been given by the petitioners in the affidavit which prevented the petitioners from filing the substitution application in the present case.

6. Further, it is also admitted on record that petitioners had received abatement application filed by respondent no.2 on 20.04.2012, yet petitioners did file substitution application, and no explanation has been tendered by the petitioners in the affidavit for 114 days delay in filing the substitution application after receiving the abatement application.

7. In view of this fact, the Court is of the opinion that there is inordinate delay of more than three years from the date of death of respondent no.3 and more than two years from the date of death of respondent no..4 in filing the substitution application, and no cogent and sufficient explanation has been tendered by the petitioners which prevented them from filing the substitution application in time, therefore, delay in filing the substitution application was not bona-fide.

8. At this juncture, it would be apt to refer the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Balwant Singh (dead) Vs. Jagdish Singh and others, AIR 2010 SC 3043 wherein Apex Court has refused to condone the delay of 778 days in filing the substitution application by heirs of appellant who died on 28.11.2007. Paragraph 13 of the judgement is extracted hereinbelow:-

"13. As held by this Court in the case of Mithailal Dalsangar Singh (supra), the abatement results in the denial of hearing on the merits of the case, the provision of abatement has to be construed strictly. On the other hand, the prayer for setting aside an abatement and the dismissal consequent upon an abatement, have to be construed liberally. We may state that even if the term `sufficient cause' has to receive liberal construction, it must squarely fall within the concept of reasonable time and proper conduct of the concerned party. The purpose of introducing liberal construction normally is to introduce the concept of `reasonableness' as it is understood in its general connotation. The law of limitation is a substantive law and has definite consequences on the right and obligation of a party to arise. These principles should be adhered to and applied appropriately depending on the facts and circumstances of a given case. Once a valuable right, as accrued in favour of one party as a result of the failure of the other party to explain the delay by showing sufficient cause and its own conduct, it will be unreasonable to take away that right on the mere asking of the applicant, particularly when the delay is directly a result of negligence, default or inaction of that party. Justice must be done to both parties equally. Then alone the ends of justice can be achieved. If a party has been thoroughly negligent in implementing its rights and remedies, it will be equally unfair to deprive the other party of a valuable right that has accrued to it in law as a result of his acting vigilantly. The application filed by the applicants lack in details. Even the averments made are not correct and ex-facie lack bona fide. The explanation has to be reasonable or plausible, so as to persuade the Court to believe that the explanation rendered is not only true, but is worthy of exercising judicial discretion in favour of the applicant. If it does not specify any of the enunciated ingredients of judicial pronouncements, then the application should be dismissed. On the other hand, if the application is bona fide and based upon true and plausible explanations, as well as reflect normal behaviour of a common prudent person on the part of the applicant, the Court would normally tilt the judicial discretion in favour of such an applicant. Liberal construction cannot be equated with doing injustice to the other party. In the case of State of Bihar v. Kameshwar Prasad Singh [(2000) 9 SCC 94], this Court had taken a liberal approach for condoning the delay in cases of the Government, to do substantial justice. Facts of that case were entirely different as that was the case of fixation of seniority of 400 officers and the facts were required to be verified. But what we are impressing upon is that delay should be condoned to do substantial justice without resulting in injustice to the other party. This balance has to be kept in mind by the Court while deciding such applications. In the case of Ramlal and others v. Rewa Coalfields Ltd., [AIR 1962 SC 361] this Court took the view:

"7. In construing Section 5 is relevant to bear in mind two important considerations.

The first consideration is that the expiration of the period of limitation prescribed for making an appeal gives rise to a right in favour of the decree holder to treat the decree as binding between the parties. In other words, when the period of limitation prescribed has expired the decree-holder has obtained a benefit under the law of limitation to treat the decree as beyond challenge, and this legal right which has accrued to the decree holder by lapse of time should not be light heartedly disturbed. The other consideration which cannot be ignored is that if sufficient cause for excusing delay is shown discretion is given to the Court to condone delay and admit the appeal. This discretion has been deliberately conferred on the Court in order that judicial power and discretion in that behalf should be exercised to advance substantial justice. As has been observed by the Madras High Court in Krishna v. Chathappan, ILR 13 Mad 269.

It is however, necessary to emphasize that even after sufficient cause has been shown a party is not entitled to the condonation of delay in question as a matter of right. The proof of a sufficient cause is a condition precedent for the exercise of the discretionary jurisdiction vested in the court by Section 5. If sufficient cause is not proved nothing further has to be done; the application for condoning delay has to be dismissed on that ground alone. If sufficient cause is shown then the Court has to enquire whether in its discretion it should condone the delay. This aspect of the matter naturally introduces the consideration of all relevant facts and it is at this stage that diligence of the party or its bona fides may fall for consideration;...

9. Thus, for the reasons given above and in the light of judgement of Apex Court in the case of Balwant Singh (dead) (supra), the delay condonation application lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed. Consequently, substitution application is also dismissed and abatement application No.128911 of 2012 filed by the respondent no.2 is allowed and writ petition is abated against the respondent nos.3 and 4.

Order on Writ Petition.

1. The petitioners by means of the present writ petition have assailed the order dated 14.08.2006 passed by the Additional Commissioner (Second), Allahabad Division, Allahabad in Revision No.333 of 2005 (Smt. Saiyda Saleha Khatoon Vs.

Manzar Hasan and Others) and order dated 20.12.2008 passed by Additional Commissioner (Second), Allahabad Division, Allahabad on Review Application of petitioners in Revision No.333 of 2005.

2. The facts of the present case in nutshell are that respondent no.2 Smt. Saiyda Saleha Khatoon instituted Case No.10 of 1998-99 under Section 176 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 in the court of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Khaga, Fatehpur (hereinafter referred to as "S.D.M, Fatehpur') praying for decree of partition of Gata No.66 having an area of 0.767 hectare, Gata No.826 having an area of 0.065 hectare and Gata No.850 having an area of 0.720 hectare situated in Araji Mauja Bahera Sadat, Pargana Hathgaam, Tehsil Khaga, District Fatehpur.

3. The aforesaid suit has been instituted by respondent no.2 contending inter alia that she is the owner of half of the aforesaid gatas and respondent nos.3 to 5 and 7 (defendants in the suit) are the owner of remaining half of the aforesaid gatas. It appears that the suit proceeded exparte against the petitioners as well as respondent nos.3 to 5 and 7. The suit was decreed ex-parte by judgement and order dated 23.06.1999 passed by S.D.M., Khaga, Fatehpur. Thereafter, a preliminary decree was prepared on 28.05.1999. Pursuant to the aforesaid decree, quras were also prepared on 23.06.1999.

4. The petitioners allege that they came to know about the exparte decree only when quras were sought to be executed on spot on 23.06.1999. The petitioners, thereafter, filed an application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. on 28.1.2003 registered as Misc. Case No.10 of 1998-99 before the S.D.M, Fatehpur for setting aside the exparte judgement dated 23.06.1999, preliminary decree dated 28.05.1999 and order dated 23.06.1999 directing for preparation of quras.

5. In the aforesaid application, petitioners alleged that they came to know about the exparte decree from Lekhpal when he sought to execute the quras prepared pursuant to the exparte decree. It is further stated that mother of applicant was suffering from cancer and was undergoing treatment at Sanjay Gandhi Postgraduate Institute of Medical Sciences where she died and after funeral and observing other rituals, petitioners got the record of the case inspected and came to know on 22.01.2003 about the exparte decree. It is further stated that there was no service of summons upon the petitioners and by plying fraud, respondent no.2 has obtained exparte decree. The necessary averments has been made in paragraph 3, 4 & 5 of the application which are being extracted hereinbelow:-

6. The aforesaid application was contested by respondent no.2 by filing objection contending inter alia that restoration application filed by petitioners is highly time barred as it has been filed after four years from the date of the judgement in the partition suit. It is also contended that claim of Badrul Hasan, Kamrul Hasan and Faqrul Hasan, fathers of defendants in respect of property in dispute on the basis of some sale deed alleged to have been executed in the year 1923 was turned down by the consolidation officer by judgement dated 13.04.1976.

7. It is further averred that respondent no.2 filed a mutation case under Section 34 of L.R. Act which was opposed by judgement debtors and they lost the case upto the court of Additional Commissioner and name of respondent no.2 has been mutated in the revenue records. In the said application, respondent no.2 also gave reference to several other litigations which had been contested between the parties. In respect of service of notice, respondent no.2 gave details in paragraph 7 of the objection as to how the service of summons were effected upon the petitioner as well as other defendants in the suit. Paragraph 7 of the objection is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"7 That so far the question of so-called technical service of summon and notice is concerned, this court made every effort to procure the attendance of all the J.Ds and the deponent complied all the orders of this court in this regard. For example:-

"(I). The applicants Hasnain Hasan and Aijaz Hasan Nos. 3 and 4 are the real brothers and pairokar of the applicant nos.2 and 5 were personally served by process-server of this court on 14.12.1998 and their brothers summons was served by affixation.

(II). That later the Gram Sabha and the opposite parties Nos.2 and 3 and 4, the J.Ds were also personally served who are no other an the real uncle's son of Manzar Hasan the Chief Mischief monger and this court having been satisfied that Manzar Hasan wielding his influence is deliberately avoiding service of summons. However, this court passed orders for summoning them by publication which was published on 13.12.1998.

(III). That none of the J.Ds appeared in the court and as such the 1/2 (Half) share purchased by the Saleha Khatoon was held and ordered to be separated. The court provided full opportunity to the defendants and passed the decree and final decree, delivered the possession. The J.Ds were taking false and lame excuses. Moreover, the share of the Vendor and that of Saleha Khatoon is not disputed now and cannot be asserted under law as the same is not only barred by principles of Resjudicata but also Role of Estoppel and the section 49 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act.

(IV). That the J.Ds have suffered no loss or injury or prejudice by the preliminary/final decree as nothing has been written in this regard and as such the application under Order 9 Rule 13 is totally untenable which will mean the turning round the whole judicial process and creating confusion and dispute on spot regarding possession.

(V). That the application and affidavit of some of the Judgment Debtors are totally false and is time barred and also has no merit and is liable to be dismissed."

8. The S.D.M, Fatehpur allowed the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. by order dated 05.07.2005. The order dated 05.07.2005 reads as:-

"पक्षों को सुना। पत्रावली देखा। न्यायहित में एकपक्षीय आदेश दि 13.01.99, 25.05.99, व 23.06.99 मु0 300/– (तीन सौ रूपया) हर्जाना की अदायगी पर निरस्त किया जाता है।

9. Against the order dated 05.07.2005, respondent no.2 preferred Revision No.333 of 2005 before Commissioner, Allahabad which was later on transferred to the court of Additional Commissioner-II Allahabad Division, Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as "Additional Commissioner'). The revision was allowed by the Additional Commissioner by order dated 14.08.2006 by recording a finding that S.D.M., Fatehpur should have given notice of recall application to respondent no.2 (revision-applicant). It further recorded that the court below did not return any finding in respect of delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. and without any order having been passed condoning the delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C., the ex-parte judgement and decree could not have been set aside by the S.D.M, Fatehpur.

10. The petitioner, thereafter, preferred a review application against the order dated 14.08.2006 contending therein that finding of Additional Commissioner that revision-applicant (respondent no.2 in writ petition) was not heard before passing the order on the recall application was wrong and against the record inasmuch as the counsel for revision-applicant had accepted the cost of Rs.300/-. It is further stated in the review application that no order for condoning the delay in filing the recall application is needed, and revision court has erred in setting aside the order passed by the S.D.M., Fatehpur dated 05.07.2005. The aforesaid review application was dismissed by the Additional Commissioner by order dated 20.12.2008 as the Additional Commissioner found no merit in the review application.

11. Challenging the aforesaid order, learned counsel for the petitioner has contended that the revision court has erred in setting aside the ex-parte judgment and decree inasmuch as respondent no.2 is bound by the act of acceptance of cost by his counsel which amounted to acquiescing to the order of S.D.M., Fatehpur. Thus, he submits that once the cost has been accepted by counsel of the respondent no.2, the revision court has committed jurisdictional error in allowing the revision and setting aside the order dated 05.07.2005 passed by the S.D.M., Fatehpur.

12. Per contra, learned counsel for respondents has contended that detail objections were filed by the respondent no.2 before the S.D.M., Fatehpur against the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. wherein respondent no.2 has averred that there was inordinate delay in filing the recall application and further, facts in detail have been stated in the said objection regarding the service of summons upon the petitioners as well as other defendants, but the S.D.M., Fatehpur while passing the order dated 05.07.2005 has failed to record any finding on the said objection. He further contends that unless the delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. was condoned, the S.D.M, Fatehpur had no jurisdiction to decide the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. He further submits that no application under Section 5 of Limitation Act had been filed praying for condonation of delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. and thus, in the absence of any such application praying for condonation of delay and any order passed by the S.D.M., Fatehpur condoning the delay in filing the recall application, the order of S.D.M., Fatehpur dated 05.07.2005 is per se illegal and without jurisdiction. Thus, the submission is that revision court has not committed any jurisdictional error which calls for interference by this Court in exercise of power under Article 226 of Constitution of India.

13. I have considered the rival submissions of the parties and perused the record.

14. In the case in hand, the ex-parte judgement and decree was passed on 23.06.1999. The preliminary decree was prepared on 28.05.1999 and quras pursuant to the preliminary decree were prepared on 23.06.1999. The application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. was filed by the petitioners on 28.01.2003 which was four years after the exparte judgement dated 23.06.1999. The record reveals that no application under Section 5 of The Limitation Act, 1963 was filed by the petitioners praying for condonation of delay in filing application to set aside ex-parte judgment and decree. Even in application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C., the petitioners have not made any averment explaining the delay in filing the application. Paragraph 3 to 5 of the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C., extracted above, clearly reveals that vague averment has been made regarding the knowledge of the exparte judgement.

15. The respondent no.2 raised a specific objection regarding the maintainability of application under 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. being barred by time in paragraph 7 (v) of the objection extracted above. The S.D.M. while allowing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. did not deal with the objection of respondent no.2 regarding the maintainability of the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C being barred by time. Further, in paragraph 7 (i) to (v) of the objection, extracted above, petitioners have also made specific averment regarding the service of notice upon the petitioners. The S.D.M., Fatehpur did not consider the aforesaid objections and passed a cryptic order allowing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C with cost of Rs.300/-.

16. The petitioners raised specific objection in revision that application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C was barred by time and not maintainable and further, summons were duly served upon the petitioners and burden was upon the petitioners to prove that summons were not served upon them which the petitioners had utterly failed to do as they did not lead any evidence to substantiate the averment made in application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C that summons were not served upon them.

17. The revision court after hearing parties recorded specific finding that in absence of any delay condonation application or any order passed by the S.D.M., Fatehpur condoning the delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C, the S.D.M., Fatehpur had no jurisdiction to decide application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. The revision court also noticed the fact that no notice fixing the date of hearing on application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C was served upon respondent no.2, and therefore, the order of S.D.M, Fatehpur dated 05.07.2005 is not sustainable as the same was without hearing the respondent no.2. The Additional Commissioner while deciding the review application found that there was no error committed by the revision court in deciding the revision and, consequently, Additional Commissioner found no merit in the review application and rejected the same by order dated 20.10.2008.

18. Now, the question that arises for consideration in the present case is as to whether S.D.M, Fatehpur had jurisdiction to proceed with the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C filed after the period of limitation without condoning the delay in filing the application.

19. Article 123 of schedule of the Limitation Act, 1963 provides for limitation in filing an application to set aside a decree passed exparte or heard exparte. Article 123 is extracted hereinbelow:-

"THIRD DIVISION-APPLICATIONS

Description of application	Period of Limitation	Time from which period begins to run.
123. To set aside a decree passed ex parte or to re-hear an appeal decreed or heard ex parte.	Thirty days	The date of the decree or where the summons or notice was not duly served, when the applicant had knowledge of the decree. Explanation- For the purpose of this article, substituted service under Rule 20 of Order V of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) shall not be deemed to be due service."

20. Thus, Article 123 provides 30 days time for filing application to set aside the ex-parte decree from the date of the decree or where the summons or notice was not duly served, when the applicant had knowledge of the decree.

21. It would be apt to refer the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Ramesh Chand Sharma Vs. Udham Singh Kamal and Others 1999 (8) SCC 304 where Apex Court had set aside the judgement of Central Administrative Tribunal whereby the Central Administrative Tribunal had allowed the original application without condoning the delay in filing the original application which was admittedly filed after the period of limitation. Paragraph 6 & 7 of the judgement is extracted hereinbelow:-

"6. Learned Counsel for the first respondent urged that after his representation was rejected by the Himachal Pradesh Government on 2nd July, 1991. he had made another representation pointing out the factual position and, therefore, the period of limitation needs to be counted not from 2nd July, 1991 but from the date of rejection of his second representation (no date mentioned). He also urged that the vacancy arose because one Shri Sita Ram Dholeta who was holding the post and working as Translator-cum- Legal Assistant went on deputation in March, 1990 by keeping a Hen on the said post. This respondent was under a bonafide belief that until the lien comes to an end, there may not be a clear vacancy and, therefore, as and when such vacancy arises, his claim would be considered. It is in these circumstances, he did not file O.A. at an early date. If there be any delay, the same may be condoned.

7. On perusal of the materials on record and after hearing counsel for the parties, we are of the opinion that the explanation sought to be given before us cannot be entertained as no foundation thereof was laid before the Tribunal. It was open to the first respondent to make proper application under Section 21(3) of the Act for condonation of delay and having not done so, he cannot be permitted to take up such contention at this late stage. In our opinion, the O.A. filed before the Tribunal after the expiry of three years could not have been admitted and disposed of on merits in view of the statutory provision contained in Section 21(1) of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985. The law in this behalf is now settled, (see Secretary to Government of India and Others v. Shivam Mahadu Gaikwad, [1995] Supp. 3 SCC 231)"

22. The S.D.M, Fatehpur while allowing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C has failed to appreciate that the application of the petitioners under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. was not maintainable in absence of delay condonation application. Further, even in application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C, the petitioners have not averred any fact explaining the delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C nor they had disclosed the date of knowledge of the ex-parte judgement.

23. The respondent no.2 has raised the issue of maintainability of application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C being barred by time and further, summons were duly served upon the petitioners. The aforesaid objections raised by the respondent no.2 were not dealt by S.D.M., Fatehpur in allowing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. Thus, this Court finds that S.D.M, Fatehpur has committed jurisdictional error in allowing application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. without there being any proper application for condonation of delay which has been rightly corrected by the revision court in exercise of its revisional power. Thus, the order of the revision court is based on settled principles of law and there is no illegality or infirmity in the said order.

24. As regards the objection of the petitioners that once the cost of Rs.300/- is accepted by counsel for respondent no.2, it is not open to respondent no.2 to challenge the said order. In this regard, it would be worth to refer two judgements of Apex Court namely, Himalayan Cooperative Group Housing Society Vs. Balwan Singh 2015 (7) SCC 373 and Director of Elementary Education Odisha & Others Vs. Pramod Kumar Sahoo 2019 (10) SCC 674 relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents which deals with the clients and lawyers relationship.

25. Paragraph 23 of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Himalayan Cooperative Group Housing Society (supra) is being extracted hereinbelow:-

"23. Apart from the above, in our view lawyers are perceived to be their client's agents. The law of agency may not strictly apply to the client - lawyer's relationship as lawyers or agents, lawyers have certain authority and certain duties. Because lawyers are also fiduciaries, their duties will sometimes more demanding than those imposed on other agents. The authority-agency status affords the lawyers to act for the client on the subject matter of the retainer. One of the most basic principles of the lawyer-client relationships is that lawyers owe fiduciary duties to their clients. As part of those duties, lawyers assume all the traditional duties that agents owe their principals and, thus, have to respect the client's autonomy to make decisions at a minimum, as to the objectives of the representation. Thus, according to generally accepted notions of professional responsibility, lawyers should follow the client's instructions rather than substitute their judgment for that of the client. The law is now well settled that a lawyer must be specifically authorised to settle and compromise a claim, that merely on the basis of his employment he has no implied or ostensible authority to bind his client to a compromise/ settlement. To put it alternatively that a lawyer by virtue of retention, has the authority to choose the means for achieving the client's legal goal, while the client has the right to decide on what the goal will be. If the decision in question falls within those that clearly belong to the client, the lawyers conduct in failing to consult the client or in making the decision for the client, is more likely to constitute ineffective assistance of counsel"

26. Paragraphs 8 and 11 of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Director of Elementary Education Odisha (supra) relevant in the present case are extracted hereinbelow:-

"8. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the separate pay scales are provided for Untrained Matric Teachers (Rs.975-25-1, 150-E.B.-30-1,660) and for Trained Matric Teachers (Rs.1,080-30- 1,440-EB-30-1,800). Merely because the respondent is intermediate, that is higher qualification than the Matric, does not make him a Trained Teacher. Therefore, the concession given by the State counsel is erroneous concession in law and, does not bind the appellant. Reference was made to Himalayan Coop. Group Housing Society v. Balwan Singh & Ors.2 wherein, this Court held as under:

"32. Generally, admissions of fact made by a counsel are binding upon their principals as long as they are unequivocal; where, however, doubt exists as to a purported admission, the court should be wary to accept such admissions until and unless the counsel or the advocate is authorised by his principal to make such admissions. Furthermore, a client is not bound by a statement or admission which he or his lawyer was not authorised to make. A lawyer generally has no implied or apparent authority to make an admission or statement which would directly surrender or conclude the substantial legal rights of the client unless such an admission or statement is clearly a proper step in accomplishing the purpose for which the lawyer was employed. We hasten to add neither the client nor the court is bound by the lawyer's statements or admissions as to matters of law or legal conclusions...."

11. The concession given by the learned State Counsel before the Tribunal was a concession in law and contrary to the statutory rules. Such concession is not binding on the State for the reason that there cannot be any estoppel against law. The rules provide for a specific Grade of Pay, therefore, the concession given by the learned State Counsel before the Tribunal is not binding on the appellant".

27. In the aforesaid cases, the Apex Court has held that if the act of advocate is not in furtherance to accomplish the purpose for which he has been engaged by his client or against the statutory provisions or rules, such an act of advocate would not be binding upon the client. In the present case, acceptance of cost by the advocate of the respondent no.2 is not an act in furtherance to accomplish the purpose for which he was engaged and also in violation of statutory provision as the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of C.P.C. was incompetent in absence of delay condoantion application and any order passed condoning the delay in filing the aforesaid application. Thus, such an act of respondent no.2 would not debar the respondent no. 2 from challenging the order of S.D.M., Fatehpur setting aside ex-parte judgment and decree. Thus, the contention of petitioners that the acceptance of cost by the advocate would debar the respondents from challenging the order dated 05.07.2005 is misconceived and not sustainable in law.

28. Thus, for the reasons given above, this Court finds no merit in the submission of the counsel for the petitioner. The writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. There is no order as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal, J.
The Hon'ble Vipin Chandra Dixit, J.)

1. The petitioner no. 1 Raj Nagar Extension (NH-58) Developers Association is a registered society under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 having 25 Real Estate Developers as its members.

2. The aforesaid Society and its General Manager have preferred this writ petition aggrieved by the certain demands raised by the Ghaziabad Development Authority with regard to external development fees which includes development of elevated road and metro station, as well as fee for additional Floor Area Ratio (in short "F.A.R.") and security for rain water harvesting while sanctioning the lay out plan of each of the members of the Society.

3. The petitioners accordingly have prayed for quashing of some of the demand notices issued against the members of the Society and at the same time for deciding its representation disputing the aforesaid demands.

4. The parties have exchanged pleadings and have agreed for disposal of the petition at the stage of admission itself.

5. We have heard Sri Shashi Nandan, Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Pankaj Agrawal for the petitioners, learned Standing counsel and Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, Senior counsel assisted by Sri Mahesh Narain Singh, learned counsel appearing for respondents no. 2, 3 and 4 i.e. Ghaziabad Development Authority (hereinafter "G.D.A.").

6. Sri Shashi Nandan argued that the demand of additional external development charges under the head elevated road cess & metro cess as also demand of fee for additional F.A.R. and security for the rain water harvesting system is completely alien to the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 (for short the Act) and the Rules framed thereunder and as such are illegal and without jurisdiction. He submits that the individual developers/builders or the members of the Society are not concerned with the construction of any elevated road or metro station and therefore no fee on account of the same can be demanded under the head external development charges. The F.A.R. for the group housing is admissible to the extent of 2.5 and therefore the demand of fee for the additional F.A.R. from 1.5 to 2.5 is illegal. Similarly, there is no provision for demanding security of Rs. 2 lakhs for the rain harvesting system.

7. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, Senior counsel rebuts the above arguments; first, on the ground that the demand of the above charges are against the individual Developers and not against the petitioner Society. Therefore, the petitioner Society has no locus to espouse the cause of individuals which is independent to each one of them. He submits that all the members of the petitioner Society were sanctioned their lay out plan on different dates and all of them have accepted the conditions of the sanction which includes the aforesaid demands without any let or hindrance and they even started paying the amounts as demanded.

8. In short, he contends that the members of the petitioner Society by paying part of the aforesaid demands have accepted the same and are estopped in law from disputing the said demands at this juncture.

9. The petitioner no. 1 as stated earlier is a Society of the Real Estate Developers which is duly registered. The petitioners have given the list of its members also and have even enclosed the resolution of the Society dated 24.5.2017 authorizing it to file the present writ petition on behalf of its members.

10. In view of the aforesaid even though all the members of the Society may be having a separate cause of action for challenging the demands raised against them but since the demands are of common nature, the Society is not denuded of the power to espouse the cause of its members and to file consolidated petition on behalf of all its members.

11. Accordingly, objections raised by Sri M.C. Chaturvedi in this regard are of no avail and stands overruled.

12. Now the primary question which is for our adjudication is whether the GDA can demand additional external development charges in connection with elevated road and metro station, fees on the increased additional F.A.R. other than which has been purchased by the Developers over and above the increased

F.A.R and security for rain harvesting system.

13. Article 265 of the Constitution of India in relation to imposition of tax and its collection mandates that no tax shall be levied and collected except by authority of law. Therefore, it has been well settled as a fiscal principle that no demand shall be raised and amount be collected except by an authority of law. On this very principle the State or its instrumentalities can not raise any demand or collect any amount from any individual without statutory backing.

14. The GDA is an authority constituted under the Act as a body corporate to administer the development of the area of the authority in accordance with the provisions of the said Act and the Rules framed thereunder. Therefore, all development plans, lay out plans, building maps, etc. have to be sanctioned by the Development Authority in accordance with the aforesaid Act subject to demand/payment of fees, cess and other charges as may be permitted under the Act and the Rules.

15. The "development fee" has been defined under Section 2 (ggg) of the said Act to mean a fee levied upon a person under Section 15 of the Act for construction of roads, drains, sewer lines, electric and water supplies by the development authority.

16. Section 15 of the Act provides for sanction of the plans in accordance with the bye laws and the Development Authority has been empowered to levy development fees, mutation charges, staking fees and water fees at such rate as may be prescribed, for sanctioning the plans.

17. A simple reading of the aforesaid two provisions of the Act would reveal that the authority can inter alia demand development fee which is primarily on account of construction of roads, drains, sewer lines and water and electric supply lines.

18. In this context it may pertinent to mention here that whenever the definition of any word begins with the word 'means' it is clearly indicative of the fact that the meaning of the said word has to be restricted to the meaning assigned therein and it would not mean anything else.1 In other words, development fee as defined under Section 2 (ggg) of the Act since it means fee for certain specific purposes, it would be confined to those charges alone and would not include within its fold any other charge or thing. Thus, the construction of elevated road or of the metro station would not be covered within the definition of development fee whether it happens to be internal or external so as to authorize the Development Authority to demand and collect the same.

19. Sri Shashi Nandan has also placed before us the U.P. Urban Planning and Development (Assessment, Levy and Collection of Development Fee) Rules, 2014 which have been framed under section 55 of the Act and notified on 17th November 2014.

20. A perusal of the aforesaid Rules would also reveal that there is no provision for demanding or collecting any development fee in context with elevated road or metro station.

21. There is no dispute to the fact that initially the GDA has permitted F.A.R. of 1.5 for group housing but subsequently the State of U.P., vide notification dated 25.9.2008 inter alia provided additional F.A.R. for group housing and increased it from 1.5 to 2.5.

22. Since all the Developers who are members of the petitioners Society are engaged in group housing activity, they were entitle to F.A.R of 2.5 according to the above notification but the GDA has demanded fee on this increased F.A.R. also.

23. In this regard Sri Chaturvedi, Senior Counsel submitted that the aforesaid increased F.A.R. was again reduced to 1.5 and later on it was permitted to be increased to 2.5 and each of the development authority was left free to adopt the said increase, if necessary. The GDA has not adopted the aforesaid increase and therefore all these Developers are liable for the payment of fees in respect of the aforesaid increased F.A.R., also.

24. It is not in dispute that the order by which increase in F.A.R. was left to be adopted by each of the developers ie., the Government Order dated 4.8.2011 was not accepted by the Division Bench of this Court and it was held that when the permissible F.A.R. is 2.5 as per the notification dated 25.9.2008, then reliance on the Government Order dated 4.8.2011 is impermissible. Accordingly, the demand of fee on the aforesaid increase of F.A.R. was held to be illegal but observed that in case the Developers or Builders purchases additional F.A.R in excess of 2.5 then definitely they have to pay for the same.

25. In view of the above decision, the GDA can not demand any fee for increased F.A.R. upto 2.5. The Developers who are members of the petitioners Society are not disputing the fee/charges for the additional F.A.R. that they may have purchased beyond 2.5 upto the permissible limit of 4 as per the notification dated 25.9.2008.

26. No provision whatsoever was placed before us which empowers the Development Authority to demand development fee in reference to construction of elevated road and metro station and for the increased F.A.R. other than the F.A.R. purchased by the Developers/Builders. No provision permitting demand of any security for the purposes of rain harvesting system has also been brought to our notice. At the same time we ourselves are unable to find any provision in respect to any of the above demands raised by the Development Authority.

27. No doubt the above demands are part of the conditions of the sanction granted to the lay out plans of each of the Developers/Builders and they have started depositing the amount as demanded, Sri Shashi Nandan contended that the aforesaid amount was deposited by the Developers/Builders under duress as they have no other option as otherwise their lay out/map could not have been sanctioned jeopardizing the entire development work. This has been denied from the the side of the GDA and it is alleged that there is no material to show that any pressure was exerted upon the Developers or the Builders to deposit the amount. They have voluntarily accepted the demand and started depositing the amount and as such are estopped in law to challenge the said demands.

28. It is a cardinal principle of law that there is no estopple against the Statute. The necessary corollary of it is that if the Statute does not provide for a thing, the same can not be done and even if accepted, the person is not debarred from disputing the demand subsequently.

29. It is settled legal proposition that conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and no authority under law can derive jurisdiction otherwise than from the Statues. It can neither be conferred with the consent of the parties or by any order of the Court, may be a superior Court. Thus, if any order is passed without jurisdiction it would be a nullity and its validity can be challenged at any stage. In such a situation, the doctrine of waiver or acquiescence are at times not allowed to prevail as it would perpetuate and perpetrate defeat of the legislative intent.

30. As stated earlier that any order which is patently without jurisdiction is a nullity in the eyes of law and its validity can be challenged at any stage. Thus, as the demands aforesaid are ex-facie without jurisdiction, the petitioners or the members of the petitioner Society are not precluded from challenging the same even if they may have acquiesced to the said demand earlier.

31. Moreover, waiver is in the nature of an agreement where the party accepts not to assert his rights. The waiver, therefore, is an intentional relinquishment of a right and involves a conscience decision to forgo a legal right, benefit or privilege and, as such, can not be ascertained by mere conduct of the party unless the intention to abandon the right is proved.

32. It is also tirite to mention that inaction in every case does not lead to an inference or implicate consent or acquiescence. It is also well recognized in law, when consideration of public interest are involved, there may be no estopple.

33. The doctrine of estopple by acquiescence is not permissible to be invoked to render a transaction valid even if it is otherwise not valid under the Statutes.2

34. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we find no force in the submission of Sri Chaturvedi in regard to estopple by acquiescence.

35. Accordingly, the demands of external development fee under the head elevated road and metro station; fee for the increased F.A.R from 1.5 to 2.5; and security for rain water harvesting are held to be illegal and without jurisdiction. The said demands are hereby quashed in so far as they relate to the members of the petitioner Society.

36. The writ petition stands allowed to the above extent with no order as to costs.

(Para-9,10)

List of Cases Cited:-

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.)

1. The petitioners, in these petitions, had taken admission on 17.8.2012 and thereafter had commenced their study of the course of Graduation-cum-D.Phil. and had thereafter completed their 10th Semester by 25.4.2017. When instead of admitting the petitioners to D.Phil. courses, they were being directed to take the Combined Research Entrance Test-2017 by which they were required to take an admission test for admission to D.Phil. course in Globalization and Development Studies, then the present writ petitions were filed praying that the petitioners be granted admission in D.Phil courses in the terms of the admission which was granted to them in the year 2012.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioners in both the writ petitions have submitted that the Academic Council of the University of Allahabad had introduced for the first time a course in the name of Globalization and Development Studies and the Council on 6.8.2011 had resolved that the Degree of Philosophy in Globalization and Development Studies could be taken through a programme of Bachelor/D.Phil. dual degree integrated programme. They have submitted that it was also resolved in the Academic Council meet on 6.8.2011 that the course would start from the Academic Session 2012-13 and would end with the grant of D.Phil. Thereafter the University of Allahabad also issued various brochures and informed the public at large that the Graduation-cum-D.Phil. programme could be pursued by students. The petitioners in both the writ petitions applied for admission and also after being admitted deposited their fee. They were admitted on 17.8.2012. From time to time the Academic Council used to assemble and decide as to in what time frame the course would be completed and as to what would be the fee structure etc.. The last resolution, with regard to the fee structure, of the Academic Council of the University of Allahabad was passed on 12.5.2015.

3. It is the contention of the learned counsel appearing for the petitioners that along with the Academic Council of the University, the University Grants Commission had also from time to time issued notifications with regard to the manner in which admissions to D.Phil. course had to be done by the Universities. The first resolution concerning the instant case was passed on 1.6.2009 and the same is being reproduced here as under :

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners also stressed on the fact that the University, upon being made aware of the various notifications of the University Grants Commission, had from time to time passed various resolutions. On 9.10.2016, the Centre for Globalization and Development Studies, University of Allahabad met under the Chairmanship of the Programme Committee Professor V.P. Singh and had resolved that such students who had been enrolled prior to the commencement of the programme which was subsequently being changed in the year 2016-17 would be eligible to continue with D.Phil. programme as per the provisions which were existing prior to the commencement of the programme of 2016-17. The resolution of the Programme Committee dated 9-10 February 2016 was placed before the Vice-Chancellor who, on 24.2.2016, approved the same. The resolution dated 9-10 February 2016 which was approved by the Vice-Chancellor is being reproduced here as under :-

Agenda Item no.1 To review Bachelor cum D.Phil (Integrated) programme.

The matter was discussed intesively. Prof. V.P. Singh shared experience of this programme and said that in-take of this programme was relatively better and had immense protential for improvement. Therefore, the programme should remain in force with provisions of lateral entry after the completion of the six semesters (Bachelor degree).

The following resolutions were adopted unanimously.

Resolution No.1. The D.Phil. Component of the existing Bachelor-cum-D.Phil. programme has been delinked and henceforth it will remain only five years integrated programme with Bachelor and Master Degrees.

Resolution No.2. It was resolved that programme will have a provision of the lateral entry after three years. Those students who have obtained 6.0 CGPA in case of General and OBC category and 5.5. CGPA in case of SC and ST shall be automatically enrolled in the Master in Development Studies Programme. Remaining vacant seats shall be filled-in through the AU PGAT.

Resolution No.3. Eligibility criteria for the remaining seats have been determined as follows: and it was asserted that these criteria should be adhered to strictly. having lateral entry after three years, Two Years Master in Development Studies, be dropped from the academic session 2016-17.

Other items on the agenda were deferred for the next meeting."

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners relying upon the various notifications of the University Grants Commission and the resolution of the Programme Committee of the Centre for Globalization and Development Studies submitted that as per the Regulations of 2009 of the University Grants Commission there was no provision for taking separate admissions for the courses of graduation, post-graduation and D.Phil. and, therefore, the University correctly commenced with the admission to the Bachelor-cum-D.Phil. dual degree course. Learned counsel for the petitioners further relying upon the notification dated 5.5.2016 (which was published on a later date in the Gazette of India) submitted that Clause 12 of the notification very clearly stated that such candidates who were registered for D.Phil. programme on or after 11.7.2009 and till the date of the notification of 2016 would be governed by the provisions of 2009 Regulations. Learned counsel for the petitioners further relied upon the minutes of the meeting of the Programme Committee of the Centre for Globalization and Development Studies, University of Allahabad dated 9/12 February 2016 and stated that if Resolution 5 of it was perused, it would become crystal clear that those who had enrolled prior to the commencement of the Programme of 2016-17 would be eligible to get upgraded in the D.Phil Programme as per the provisions which were in existence prior to the commencement of the Programme of 2016-17 and, therefore, learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that when the entrance examination was being conducted in the year 2017 then the petitioners were not expected to get admission in the D.Phil course through any entrance examination. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that when the petitioners had taken admission in the Graduation-cum-D.Phil. Dual Degree Programme in Globalization and Development Studies (integrated programme) then it was taken as granted that as and when they got the requisite marks in a particular semester, they would be promoted to the next semester. Accordingly, they presumed that they would be promoted from Graduation to Post-Graduation classes and thereafter they would be deemed to be admitted to D.Phil. classes; provided they got the Cumulative Grade Point average of 6 or more points. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that when the petitioners obtained more than 6 points in the Cumulative Grade Point average then the respondent-University had no other option but to admit them to D.Phil course. Learned counsel, therefore, submitted that there was absolutely nothing which could suggest that the petitioners were not entitled for the admission in the D.Phil course without any entrance examination. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submitted that mere admission in the D.Phil. course did not mean that they would get their degrees automatically. They would be evaluated by the University and only thereafter the degrees would be awarded to them and, therefore, it could not be stated that if the petitioners, after obtaining their post-graduation degrees, took admission in the D.Phil. courses then they would in any manner be sub-standard students.

7. Learned counsel appearing for the University, however, submitted that even though the petitioners were admitted as per the resolution of the Academic Council and as per the advertisement etc. issued by the University, the University had to give admission in the D.Phil course only by means of an entrance examination. This he submitted was only for the benefit of the students as in the notification of the University Grants Commission of the year 2016 it had been provided that if admissions were done in contravention of the notifications issued by the University Grants Commission then the degrees would not be recognized. He further submitted that the U.G.C. notification of 1.6.2009 was, though not prohibiting the Universities from coming up with integrated courses, has not very clearly stated that what would be the procedure.

8. Learned counsel appearing for the University Grants Commission also submitted that the University was bound by the notifications of the University Grants Commission and, therefore, it could not digress from the notifications issued by the University Grants Commission.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioners, learned counsel appearing for the University and the learned counsel appearing for the University Grants Commission, I am convinced that the University and the University Grants Commission both were bound by their initial actions. In the year 2009, the University Grants Commission had given the University the freedom to admit students to D.Phil courses in the manner they would decide. When in the year 2011 the University of Allahabad, in the Department of Globalization and Development Studies, had decided to take students in the integrated course of Graduation and D.Phil. then they did not commit anything wrong. When the University Grants Commission came up with certain directions that the D.Phil admissions had to be done after an entrance examination then the University had issued a notification on 9/10 February 2016 and by means of Resolution No.5 it had provided that such students who had been enrolled prior to the commencement of the Programme of 2016-17 would be eligible to get themselves upgraded to the D.Phil course as per the provisions which were in existence before the commencement of the 2016-17 programme. In fact the University Grants Commission also by its notification dated 5.5.2016 had very categorically in clause 12.1 stated that degrees to the candidates registered on or after 11 July 2009 but prior to the issuance of the notification dated 5.5.2016 would be governed by the provisions of the University Grants Commission Resolution of the year 2009. I, therefore, hold that when the petitioners had obtained their admissions in the year 2012 in accordance with the Rules/Regulations/Notifications of the University and also of the University Grants Commission, then there was nothing illegal in the admission. The University and the University Grants Commission both were bound by their Resolutions and Notifications. In fact they were estopped from digressing from their earlier stands. The petitioners had taken admission on the promise of the University that they would be allowed to continue with their D.Phil courses after they had got the requisite number of Cumulative Grade Points Average which had to be more than 6 and, therefore, the University was bound to give admission as per their notification dated 6.8.2011 which was never in effect rescinded or superseded. The University Grants Commission also by its notification dated 5.5.2016 (specially Clause 12.1) had very categorically stated that such candidates who were registered for programmes on or after 11.7.2009 but before the notification of 5.5.2016 would continue to be governed by the provisions of the 2009 Regulations.

10. Under such circumstances, the petitioners would be entitled for admission to the D.Phil courses. The petitioners may now be admitted in the course forthwith.

11. The writ petitions are, accordingly, allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. The present petitions have been filed challenging the order dated 8.5.2008 (Annexure-1), whereby the leases granted to the petitioners under the Uttar Pradesh

Bhoodan Yagna Act, 1952, has been cancelled in exercise of powers under Section 15-A of the said Act.

2. The facts of all the writ petitions are the same, however, the facts in Writ-C No. 26944 of 2008 are being considered and decided as a leading case.

3. The brief facts, giving rise to the present petition, are as under:-

The petitioners before this Court are Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and only the petitioner no. 18 belongs to General Category, they all being landless agricultural labourers were allotted Plot No. 2495/25 of different areas from the period 24.5.1982 to 7.6.1982 by the Bhoodan Yagna Sub Committee, Orai, copies of the said allotment lease have been collectively marked as Annexure-2. In terms of the said allotment, the petitioners continue to be in occupation of the properties, allotted to them. It is further alleged that consolidation operation was carried out in the village Dakore and in respect of the petitioners, one Dr. Ram Sewak Niranjan, Sanyojak, filed his objections challenging the allotments made by the earlier Sanyojak Dhani Ram, however the said proceedings culminated in a settlement and the names of the petitioners were mutated over the properties in question. Several ancillary proceedings took place, however the same are not subject matter of the present petitions.

4. This Court had called for the records pertaining to the allotments, which are subject matter of the present petitions, a perusal of the record shows that the Commissioner, Jhansi issued directions on 17.1.2003 for investigation relating to the allotments made in favour of the petitioners, in pursuance whereof, an investigation was carried out. A perusal of the said report reveals that detailed investigations were carried out and the conclusion drawn was as under:-

"In respect of 44 leases, mutation was carried out in respect of 28 leases by the Consolidation Officer and for the rest 16, the mutation was carried out and it was recorded that at the time of the allotment, the directions under Section 14 were not carried out. It was further recorded that in terms of the provisions of Section 14 (4-A) at least 50% of the allotments should have been done in favour of Scheduled Castes persons and thus it was recommended that the same were liable to be quashed. Curiously, in the said report, itself it was mentioned that the original file was not available on record, as such it could not be said conclusively as to which Sanyojak executed the leases in respect of 21 allottees."

5. The record further reveals that specific detailed reply was submitted to the show cause notices served upon the petitioners, wherein it was specifically requested that a copy of the reports, which are proposed to be relied upon, should be supplied to the petitioners. It was further pleaded that any report although can be a ground for initiating action, a full-fledged enquiry should be conducted while passing the orders under Section 15-A of the Act. The copies of the reports were never supplied to the petitioners, as the same were held to be confidential.

6. In the supplementary counter affidavit filed by the State, yet another report dated 6th February, 2003 has been relied upon, which indicates that in respect of 21 persons, the original file is not available, however as the mutation is based only upon Form No. 23, whereas there is no inscription in Form No. 45, which makes it clear that the mutation must have been carried out in back date.

7. Based upon the said two reports dated 6th February, 2003 as well as the report in pursuance to the directions dated 17.1.2003, show cause notices were served upon the petitioners, which are available on the record, as produced by the Standing Counsel. The show cause notice alleged that the Collector was satisfied with the report dated 6.2.2003 and was of the view that the agricultural leases granted by the Bhoodan Yagna Committee on 26.5.1983 were irregular and illegal and were granted without following the instructions issued under Section 14 of the Act and, thus, the petitioners were called upon to show cause as to why the leases granted on 26.5.1982 may not be set aside. The show cause notice, from record, reveals was issued on 6.2.2003. In the said show cause notices there were no allegations with regards to the eligibility of the petitioners for allotment.

8. The petitioners filed their joint objections to the show cause notice, denying the allegations referred and also took a ground that general objections of non-compliance of Section 14 were made without there being any specific ground indicated in the show cause notice recording the error in allotment, thus the show cause notices were vague. It was also stated that the petitioners are in occupation of the land since the last 21 years and thus the show cause notice are liable to be dropped. In support of their objections, the petitioners filed the copy of Government Order No. 4381 dated 13.7.1953, copy of the order of Board of Revenue dated 14.11.1959, copy of judgment and order dated 13.3.1987 in case no. 76 to 117, 285, 286 under section 9(a) (2) of U.P. C.H. Act, copy of order of Consolidation Officer Camp at Orai in case No. 142 to 148, Hari Ram Versus Bhoodan Yagna Samiti dated 22.8.1989, copy of order dated 17.9.1998, passed by Board of Revenue accepting the reference no. 64/1995-96, Munsukh Lal and others Versus Baladin and others; photocopy of the stay order passed by Hon'ble High Court in Writ Petition No. 20796/2003, Mansukh Versus Deputy Director of Consolidation and others and copies of khatauni and khasra. Specific request was made to provide copies of the report, which were denied to be provided holding that the same were confidential and a specific defence was taken that in fact 50% of the land was allotted to the persons of the Scheduled Castes and in this respect a list of allottees showing that 50% of allottees were persons of Scheduled Castes was also annexed, which was marked as Exhibit "Ka'.

9. The hearing, in respect of the proceedings initiated, were conducted on 8.10.2007 and vide order dated 21.5.2008, an order was passed cancelling the allotment in favour of the petitioners and directions were issued for evicting the petitioners and vesting the property in favour of the State. Further directions were also issued for allotment of the lands in favour of the eligible persons, the said order dated 8.5.2008 has been challenged in the present petitions.

10. Heard counsel for the petitioners Sri L.P. Singh and Standing Counsel for the State of U.P.

11. An impleadment application has also been filed by the persons claiming themselves to be the subsequent allottees, they are represented by Sri Arvind Srivastava, Advocate.

12. Counsel for the petitioners Shri L.P. Singh has argued that the order passed are wholly arbitrary and illegal for the following reasons:-

(i) The show cause notice was vague and there was no allegation as to what illegality was committed while granting leases.

(ii) Although Section 15-A confers the power of cancellation on the Collector, and no limitation is prescribed, the said power cannot be exercised by the Collector, after the expiry of reasonable period, whereas in the present case the proceedings have been initiated after about 21 years and the orders have been passed after about 27 years which cannot be termed as reasonable period and thus are liable to be quashed on that count also.

(iii) In terms of the reports, which are the basis for initiation of proceedings, no proceedings could have been initiated, as the same were never provided to the petitioners stating it to be confidential, and because those very reports record that the original files are missing.

13. The Standing Counsel, on the other hand, argues that the allotments have been rightly cancelled, as the same were done in contravention of the directions under Section 14 of the Act. He further stressed that in terms of Section 14, 50% of the allotments had to be done in favour of persons of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes and thus the entire allotments were wholly arbitrary and illegal. Reliance in this regard was placed on the provisions of Section 14 (4) (a).

14. Relevant statutory provisions of the Bhoodan Act being Sections 14 and 15-A are quoted hereinbelow:-

"14. Grant of land to landless persons. - (1) The Committee or such other authority or person as the Committee with the approval of the State Government, specify either generally or in respect of any area, may, in the manner prescribed, grant lands which have vested in it to the landless agricultural labourers, and the grantee of the land shall-

(i) where the land is situate in any state which has vested in the State Government under and in accordance with section 4 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, acquire in such land the right and the liabilities of a bhumidhar with non-transferable rights, and

(ii) where it is situate in any other area, acquire therein such rights and liabilities and subject to such conditions, restrictions and limitations as may be prescribed and they shall have effect of any law to the contrary notwithstanding.

(2) Where the committee or other authority or person as aforesaid fails to grant any land in accordance with sub-section (1) within a period of three years from the date of vesting of such land in the committee or from the date of commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Bhoodan Yagna (Amendment) Act, 1975, whichever is later, the Collector may himself grant such land to the landless agricultural labourers in the manner prescribed, and thereupon the grantee shall acquire the rights and liabilities mentioned in sub-section (1) as if the grant were made by the committee itself.

(3) [* ]

(4) In making grant of land under this section, the committee or other authority or person as aforesaid or the Collector, as the case may be, shall observe the following principles:

(a) At least fifty per cent of the land available for grant shall be granted to persons belonging to the Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and persons belonging to the Kol, Pathari, Khairwar, Baiga, Dharikar, Panika and Gond Tribes and such other tribes as the State Government on the recommendation of the Committee may notify in this behalf;

(b) The land situate in one village shall, as far as possible, be granted to persons residing in that very village.

Explanation. - For the purposes of this section, the expression "landless agricultural labourer" means a person whose main source of livelihood is agricultural labour or cultivation and who at the relevant time either holds no land or holds lands not exceeding 0.40468564 hectares (one acre) in Uttar Pradesh as a bhumidhar, asami or Government lessee.

15. Grants to be made in accordance with Bhoodan Yagna Scheme. - All grants shall be made as far as may be, in accordance with the scheme of Bhoodan Yagna.*

15-A. Cancellation of certain grants. - (1) The Collector may of his own motion and shall on the report of the committee or on the application of any person aggrieved by the grant of any land made under Section 14, whether before or after the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Bhoodan Yagna (Amendment) Act, 1975, inquire into such grant, and if he is satisfied that the grant was irregular or was obtained by the grantee by misrepresentation or fraud, he may:*

(i) cancel the grant, and on such cancellation, notwithstanding anything contained in Section 14 or in any other law for the time being in force, the rights, title and interest of the grantee or any person claiming through him in such land shall cease, and the land shall revert to the committee; and

(ii) direct delivery of possession of such land to the committee after ejectment of every person holding or retaining possession thereof, and may for that purpose use or cause to be used such force as may be necessary.

(2) Notice of every proceeding under sub-section (1) shall be given to the committee, and any representation made by the committee in relation thereto shall be taken into consideration by the Collector.

(3) No order shall be passed under sub-section (1) except after giving an opportunity of being heard to the grantee or any person known to the Collector to be claiming under him.

(4) The order of the Collector passed under sub-section (1) shall be final and conclusive."

15. On the basis of the pleadings exchanged, perusal of the record produced by the Standing Counsel and the arguments advanced, the first question to be decided is whether the power under Section 15-A of the said Act can be exercised at any time, when there is no limitation prescribed under the Act itself, moreso, when there is no allegation of fraud or forgery in allotment.

16. Counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another v. D. Narsing Rao and others, (2015) 3 SCC 695 and judgment of this Court in the case of Smt. Shakuntala and 25 others v. State of U.P.; 2019(5) AWC 5007 All.

17. In the case of Smt. Shankutala and 25 Others (Supra), this Court was considering the power of cancellation of leases under Section 198(4) of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act and a specific argument was raised that where no limitation is prescribed, the action for cancellation can be taken at any point of time. This Court on the basis of the pleading exchanged, framed four questions. Question No. (D) framed by the Court is as under:-

"(d) Whether in the case of fraud an action can be taken for cancellation of the lease without any period of limitation?"

18. This Court answering the said question relying on the judgment of Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another v. D. Narsing Rao and others (Supra) recorded as under:-

"The last question is to be considered whether no limitation is applicable where the allegations of fraud exists. I have already held in foregoing paras that the allegations of fraud were not existent. However, even if the allegations of fraud are existent the question to be considered is whether any limitation period is applicable or not. The Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the said question in the case of Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and another vs. D. Narsing Rao and others, 2015 3 SCC 695 and held as under:

"25. The legal position is fairly well-settled by a long line of decisions of this Court which have laid down that even when there is no period of limitation prescribed for the exercise of any power, revisional or otherwise, such power must be exercised within a reasonable period. This is so even in cases where allegations of fraud have necessitated the exercise of any corrective power. We may briefly refer to some of the decisions only to bring home the point that the absence of a stipulated period of limitation makes little or no difference in so far as the exercise of the power is concerned which ought to be permissible only when the power is invoked within a reasonable period.

31. To sum up, delayed exercise of revisional jurisdiction is frowned upon because if actions or transactions were to remain forever open to challenge, it will mean avoidable and endless uncertainty in human affairs, which is not the policy of law. Because, even when there is no period of limitation prescribed for exercise of such powers, the intervening delay, may have led to creation of third party rights, that cannot be trampled by a belated exercise of a discretionary power especially when no cogent explanation for the delay is in sight. Rule of law it is said must run closely with the rule of life. Even in cases where the orders sought to be revised are fraudulent, the exercise of power must be within a reasonable period of the discovery of fraud. Simply describing an act or transaction to be fraudulent will not extend the time for its correction to infinity; for otherwise the exercise of revisional power would itself be tantamount to a fraud upon the statute that vests such power in an authority.

32. In the case at hand, while the entry sought to be corrected is described as fraudulent, there is nothing in the notice impugned before the High Court as to when was the alleged fraud discovered by the State. A specific statement in that regard was essential for it was a jurisdictional fact, which ought to be clearly asserted in the notice issued to the respondents. The attempt of the appellant-State to demonstrate that the notice was issued within a reasonable period of the discovery of the alleged fraud is, therefore, futile. At any rate, when the Government allowed the land in question for housing sites to be given to Government employees in the year 1991, it must be presumed to have known about the record and the revenue entries concerning the parcel of land made in the ordinary course of official business. In as much as, the notice was issued as late as on 31st December, 2004, it was delayed by nearly 13 years. No explanation has been offered even for this delay assuming that the same ought to be counted only from the year 1991. Judged from any angle the notice seeking to reverse the entries made half a century ago, was clearly beyond reasonable time and was rightly quashed."

Thus even the Supreme Court has held that even in the cases of fraud the action should be taken within a reasonable time. In the present case, the action has been taken after a period of 12 years which cannot be termed as reasonable time and thus I hold that even in the cases of fraud action has to be taken within the period of limitation."

19. In the facts of the present case, even as per the show cause notices, the leases were granted on 26.5.1982 and the show cause notice was issued on 6.2.2003 i.e. after more than 20 years. There is no pleading or material on record as to on what date the alleged irregularity in allotment was discovered. Following the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Joint Collector, Ranga Reddy (Supra) and Smt. Shakuntala (Supra), I have no hesitation in holding that the initiation of proceedings was well beyond the period, which can be termed as reasonable. Thus, the order dated 8.5.2008 is liable to be set aside on that count alone.

20. Coming to the perversity of the impugned order and the perversity in the decision making process, it is clear from perusal of the record that a specific request was made for providing copy of the reports, proposed to be relied upon against the petitioners, as they were not supplied to the petitioners on the ground that the same were confidential documents. The specific defence of the petitioners that in fact 50% of the allottees were persons of Scheduled Castes and a list was also annexed along with their defence has not even been considered while passing the orders impugned. The order impugned is based upon the two reports, which were never supplied to the petitioners and were not even based upon the inspection of original files. Thus, on all these counts, the orders impugned are wholly perverse and liable to be set aside.

21. I am also not inclined to accept the submission of the Standing Counsel that merely because 50% of the land was not allotted to the persons belonging to the Scheduled Castes in consonance with the mandate of Section 14 (4) (a), the allotments are liable to be set aside for the following reasons:-

22. Although on a plain reading of Sub Section 4 (a) of Section 14 it is clear that it prescribes for allotment of at least 50% of the land in favour of the persons belonging to the Scheduled Castes and persons belonging to Kol, Pathari, Khairwar, Baiga, Dharikar, Panika and Gond Tribes and such other tribes as the State Government on the recommendation of the Committee may notify in this behalf. To attract the mischief of Section 14 (4) (a) there has to be specific allegation as to how much land was available for grant and how much was granted to the persons specified in Clause (a) of Section 4 (4). There is nothing on record to demonstrate as to what was the extent of land available for allotment before the Committee, which had allotted the lands and how much part of the said land was allotted to the persons specified in Sub Section (4) (a) of Section 14 and how much was allotted to the persons, who are not specified in Sub Section 4 (a) of Section 14 and thus there was no material on record to come to a conclusion that the allotment was not carried out in consonance with the mandate of Section 14 (4) (a). In fact the list of allottees relied upon by the petitioners was not even considered while passing impugned order.

23. The other important aspect to be considered is the show cause notice issued in the present cases, which only alleged that the allotments did not follow the mandate of Section 14, without there being any specific averments, as to which part of Section 14 was not observed while allotment. A show cause notice serves the purpose of putting the noticee on guard in respect of the allegations levelled in the show cause notice. A valid show cause notice must explain and allege specifically the charge, on which the action is proposed and only then the noticee can be expected to give a reply. The scope of a valid show cause notice has been explained by the Supreme Court in the case of Oryx Fisheries (P) Ltd. v. Union of India, (2010) 13 SCC 427, in the following terms:-

"27. It is no doubt true that at the stage of show cause, the person proceeded against must be told the charges against him so that he can take his defense and prove his innocence. It is obvious that at that stage the authority issuing the charge-sheet, cannot, instead of telling him the charges, confront him with definite conclusions of his alleged guilt. If that is done, as has been done in this instant case, the entire proceeding initiated by the show cause notice gets vitiated by unfairness and bias and the subsequent proceedings become an idle ceremony.

31. It is of course true that the show cause notice cannot be read hypertechnically and it is well settled that it is to be read reasonably. But one thing is clear that while reading a show cause notice the person who is subject to it must get an impression that he will get an effective opportunity to rebut the allegations contained in the show cause notice and prove his innocence. If on a reasonable reading of a show cause notice a person of ordinary prudence gets the feeling that his reply to the show cause notice will be an empty ceremony and he will merely knock his head against the impregnable wall of prejudged opinion, such a show cause notice does not commence a fair procedure..."

24. The present show cause notice is entirely vague and no prudent person could be expected to give a reply to such a vague show cause notice and thus the proceedings initiated and culminated on the basis of a vague show cause notice, are liable to be quashed.

25. For all the reasons, recorded above, the order dated 8.5.2008 are set aside, with further directions that the names of the allottees or their heirs shall be mutated over the revenue records. Needless to add that the allotments made in respect of the said lands, after passing of the order dated 8.5.2008, cannot have any effect.

26. The writ petitions are allowed in terms of the said order.

27. The original records are being returned to Shri Mohd. Naushad Siddiqui, Standing Counsel.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shrawan Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of the present petition, petitioner has challenged the order bearing No. 705 जि0पू0अ0/मा0उ0न्या0/2017 dated 5.12.2017 passed by the District Magistrate, Mahoba, District Mahoba (Annexure-7 to the writ petition) rejecting the petitioner's application/representation dated 7.11.2017 for opening of an additional fair price shop in Gram Panchyat, Jaitpur, District Mahoba. Prayer has also been made to direct the respondents to pass fresh order after taking a fresh report from Block-Jaitpur regarding present population and the number of units with further direction to the respondents that if the population as well as number of units are more than 20,000 at present, to permit the petitioner to distribute the food grains after adjusting the number of units of all fair price shop keepers.

3. The facts of the present case are that initially one fair price shop in Gram Panchyat Jaitpur was granted to Pratap Kumar which was cancelled by order dated 07.01.2017 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Kulpahar, District Mahoba. Thereafter the said fair price shop was allotted to the petitioner by order dated 4.5.2017 (Annexure No.2) after passing of the resolution dated 24.4.2017 in the open meeting in petitioner's favour. The petitioner did not commit any irregularity in distribution of essential commodities and there were no complaints against her.

4. Pratap Kumar filed Writ C No. 32931 of 2017 (Pratap Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and another) against the order of cancellation dated 7.1.2017 which was allowed by this Court vide judgment and order dated 31.7.2017 (Annexure No.3) whereby the order dated 7.1.2017 was quashed and the respondents were directed to restore the licence of the petitioner therein/Pratap Kumar and to resume supply to his shop forthwith. The Sub Divisional Magistrate, Kulpahar by order dated 18.9.2017 restored the allotment of the fair price shop of Pratap Kumar in compliance of the order of this Court dated 31.7.2017 and by the same order the allotment which was made in favour of Smt. Jasoda Devi (present petitioner) on 15.5.2017 was also stayed till further orders. The present petitioner thereafter filed Writ C No. 49901 of 2017 (Smt. Jasoda Devi Vs. State of U.P. and 4 others) in which this Court passed the order dated 27.10.2017 (Annexure-5.), without entering into the merits of the order dated 18.9.2017, directing the District Magistrate to decide the representation of the petitioner filed against the order dated 18.9.2017.

5. The petitioner thereafter filed representation dated 7.11.2017 before the District-Magistrate, District-Mahoba, (Annexure No.6), for opening of an additional fair price shop (6th shop) and to restore the supply of the essential commodities to her after allocation of equal units to all the fair price shops. This representation of the petitioner was rejected by the District Magistrate-Mahoba by means of the order dated 5.12.2017 (Annexure No.7), under challenge in the present writ petition.

6. This petition was filed on 31.8.2018. This Court by order dated 5.9.2018 granted time to the learned Standing Counsel to file counter affidavit. The petitioner was granted time to file rejoinder affidavit. It was made clear that the question of laches shall remain open.

7. The learned Standing Counsel filed counter affidavit and raised a plea in paragraph 13 thereof that the writ petition should be dismissed on the ground of delay. However, at the time of hearing the learned Standing Counsel did not press the plea of laches and submitted that the matter may be heard on merits.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that there is some delay in filing writ petition but the same was caused as the petitioner was trying to collect some documents about the existing population of Gram Panchyat-Jaitpur and to ascertain at what ratio the population in the concerned gram panchyat increased. The petitioner obtained the letter dated 6.11.2008 (Annexure No.1) according to which the population of Gram Panchyat-Jaitpur in the year 2008 was about 22000/- and thereafter the petitioner approached this Court and in view thereof the bonafide delay deserve to be condoned.

9. Being satisfied with the explanation offered in the writ petition the Court hereby condones the latches in filing the present petition and proceeds to decide the matter on merits.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the order impugned is vitiated and deserves to be quashed as the population of Gram Panchyat Jaitpur is about 25000 as per the letter dated 6.11.2008 of the District Magistrate, sent to the Director, Local Bodies, Lucknow in which it is mentioned that as the population in Gram Panchyat Jaitpur was 15976 and in 2008 after increase @ 5% annually, the population is 21970. His submission is that in view of the letter dated 6.11.2008, taking the annual increase in the population @ 5%, the population of Gram Panchyat Jaitpur would be about 25,000 in 2017 but in the impugned order the population mentioned is 18783. He has submitted that the number of ration cards are about more than 4000 and the number of units are more than 21000.

11. The learned Standing Counsel has supported the order dated 5.12.2017 on the ground it has been passed. He has submitted that as per the last census of 2011 the population was 18783 which is verified from letter No. 4/398/2014-4/53/2014 sent by the Director, Panchyati Raj, U.P., Lucknow to all the District Magistrates of the State of U.P. (annexure No.CA-1). He has further submitted that as per the Government Order No. 2715/29-6-2002-162 Sa/2001 dated 17.8.2002 (Annexure No.CA2) if any Gram Panchyat has more than 4000 units then opening of more than one fair price shop can be considered. However, as in the concerned gram panchyat, as per the eligibility list of National Food Security Act (Annexure No.CA3) uptill 9.10.2018 there were total number of 3854 ration cards including of all the categories, comprising 15858 units and as 5 fair price shops were already existing and were operational, no additional fair price shop could be opened as per the government order on the subject under which unit is the criterion and not the population. He has next submitted that the petitioner is also not an aggrieved person to maintain the writ petition.

12. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as the learned Standing Counsel and have perused the records.

13. The matter which requires first consideration is as to whether the petitioner is an aggrieved person to maintain the writ petition against the order dated 5.12.2017 and in this respect it would be appropriate to have a look at some judgments on the point as to who is the "person aggrieved' to maintain the writ petition.

14. In the case of Jasbhai Motibhai Desai Vs. Roshan Kumar, Haji Bashir Ahmed and others AIR 1976 SC 578 the Hon'ble Apex Court held that a person aggrieved must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance, a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something or wrongfully refused him something or wrongfully affected his title to something. The relevant paragraph Nos. 27, 29, 33, 46 and 47 of the said report are being reproduced as under:

"27. In Bar Council of Maharashtra v. M.V. Dabholkar [1975] 2 SCC 703=(AIR 1975 SC 2092) a Bench of seven learned Judges of this Court considered the Question whether the Bar Council of a State was a 'person aggrieved' to maintain an appeal under Section of the Advocates' Act, 1961. Answering the question in the affirmative , this Court, speaking through Ray C.J. indicated how the expression "person aggrieved" is to be interpreted in the context of a statute, thus:

The meaning of the words "a person, aggrieved" may vary according to the context of the statute. One of the meanings is that a person will be held to be aggrieved by a decision if that decision is materially adverse to him. Normally, one is required to establish that one has been denied or deprived of something to which one is legally entitled in order to make one "a person aggrieved". Again a person is aggrieved if a legal burden is imposed on him. The meaning of the words "a person aggrieved" is sometimes given a restricted meaning in certain statutes which provide remedies for the protection of private legal rights. The restricted meaning requires denial or deprivation of legal rights. A more liberal approach is required in the background of statutes which do not deal with property rights but deal with professional conduct and morality. The role of the Bar Council under the Advocates' Act is comparable to the role of a guardian in professional ethics. The words "person aggrieved" in Sections 37 and 38 of the Act are of wide import and should not be subjected to a restricted interpretation of possession or denial of legal rights or burdens or financial interests.

29. Typical of the cases in which a strict construction was put on the expression "person aggrieved", is Buxton v. Minister of Housing and Local Govt. . There, an appeal by a Company against the refusal of the Local Planning Authority of permission to develop land owned by the Company by digging chalk, was allowed by the Minister. Owners of adjacent property applied to the High Court under Section 31(1) of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1959 to quash the decision of the Minister on the ground that the proposed operations by the company would injure their land and that they were 'persons aggrieved' by the action of the Minister. It was held that the expression 'person aggrieved' in a statute meant a person who had suffered a legal grievance; anyone given the right under Section 37 of the Act of 1959 to have his representation considered by the Minister was a person aggrieved, thus Section applied, If those rights were infringed; but the applicants had no right under the statute and no legal rights had been infringed and therefore they were not entitled to challenge the Minister's decision, Salmon J. quoted with approval these observations of James LJ in Re Sidebothem .

"The words 'person aggrieved' do not really mean a man who is disappointed of a benefit which he might have received if some other order had been made. A 'person aggrieved' must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance, a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something or wrongfully refused him something, or wrongfully affected his title to something."

33. This Court has laid down in a number of decisions that in order to have the locus standi to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 an applicant should ordinarily be one who has & personal or individual right in the subject-matter of the application, though in the case of some of the writs like habeas corpus or quo warranto this rule is relaxed or modified. In other words, as a general rule, infringement of some legal right or prejudice to some legal interest inhering in the petitioner is necessary to give him a locus standi in the matter-(See State of Orissa v. Madan Gopal, 1952 SCR28= (AIR 1952 SC 12); Calcutta Gas Co. v. State of West Bengal, 1962 Supp 1 SCR 1= (AIR 1962 SC 1044); Ram Umeshwari Suthoo v. Member, Board of Revenue Orissa (1967) 1 SCA 413; Gadda Venkateshwara Rao v. Government of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 1966 SC 828; State of Orissa Vs. Rajasaheb Chandanmall, AIR 1972 SC 2112; Dr. Satyanarayana Sinha v. S. Lal & Co. AIR 1973 SC 2720.

46. Thus, in substance, the appellant's stand is that the setting up of a rival cinema house in the town will adversely affect his monopolistic commercial interest, causing pecuniary harm and loss of business from competition. Such harm or Loss is not wrongful in the eye of law, because it does not result in injury to a legal right or a legally protected interest, the business competition causing it being a lawful activity. Juridically, harm of this description is called demnum sine injuria, the term injuria being here used in its true sense of an act contrary to law(1). The reason why the law suffers a person knowingly to inflict harm of this description on another, without holding him accountable for it, is that such harm done to an individual is a gain to society at large.

47. In the light of the above discussion, it is demonstrably clear that the appellant has not been denied or deprived of a legal right. He has not sustained injury to any legally protected interest. In fact, the impugned order does not operate as a decision against him, much less does it wrongfully affect his title to something. He has not been subjected to a legal wrong. He has suffered no legal grievance. He 'has no legal peg for' a justiciable claim to hang on. Therefore he is not a 'person aggrieved' and has no locus standi to challenge the grant of the No-objection Certificate.

15. In the case of Ayaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan Vs. The State of Maharashtra and others reported in (2013) 4 SCC 465 the Hon'ble Apex Court held as under in Paragraph Nos. 9 to 12 and 17 which are being reproduced as follows:

9. It is a settled legal proposition that a stranger cannot be permitted to meddle in any proceeding, unless he satisfies the Authority/Court, that he falls within the category of the aggrieved persons.

Only a person who has suffered, or suffers from legal injury can challenge the act/action/order etc. in a court of law. A writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable either for the purpose of enforcing a statutory or legal right, or when there is a complaint by the appellant that there has been a breach of statutory duty on the part of the authorities. Therefore, there must be judicially enforceable right available for enforcement, on the basis of which writ jurisdiction is resorted to. The Court can of course, enforce the performance of a statutory duty by a public body, using its writ jurisdiction at the behest of a person provided that such person satisfies the Court that he has a legal right to insist on such performance. The existence of such right is a condition precedent for invoking a writ jurisdiction of the courts. It is implicit in the exercise of such extraordinary jurisdiction that, the relief prayed for must be one to enforce a legal right. Infact, the existence of such right, is the foundation of the exercise of the said jurisdiction by the Court. The legal right that can be enforced must ordinarily be the right of the appellant himself, who complains of infraction of such right and approaches the Court for relief as regards the same. (Vide:State of Orissa Vs. Madan Gopal Rungta, AIR 1952 SC 12; Saghir Ahmad & Anr. v. State of U.P. AIR 1954 SC 728; Calcutta Gas Company (Proprietary) Ltd Vs. State of west Bengal & others, AIR 1962 SC 1044; Rajendra Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1996 SC 2736; and Tamilnad Mercantile Bank Shareholders Welfare Association (2) v. S.C. Sekar & Others, (2009) 2 SCC 784).

10. A "legal right", means an entitlement arising out of legal rules. Thus, it may be defined as an advantage, or a benefit conferred upon a person by the rule of law. The expression, "person aggrieved" does not include a person who suffers from a psychological or an imaginary injury; a person aggrieved must therefore, necessarily be one, whose right or interest has been adversely affected or jeopardised. (Vide: Shanti Kumar R. Chanji v. Home Insurance Co. of New York, AIR 1974 SC 1719; and State of Rajasthan & Others v. Union of India & Others, AIR 1977 SC 1361.

11. In Anand Sharadchandra Oka Vs. University of Mumbai, AIR 2008 SC 1289, a similar view was taken by this Court, observing that, if a person claiming relief is not eligible as per requirement, then he cannot be said to be a person aggrieved regarding the election or the selection of other persons.

12. In A. Subhash Babu v. State of A.P., AIR 2011 SC 3031, this Court held:

"The expression "aggrieved person' denotes an elastic and an elusive concept. It cannot be confined within the bounds of a rigid, exact and comprehensive definition. Its scope and meaning depends on diverse, variable factors such as the content and intent of the statute of which contravention is alleged, the specific circumstances of the case, the nature and extent of complainant's interest and the nature and the extent of the prejudice or injury suffered by the complainant."

16. In the case of Delhi Development Authority (2015) 14 SCC 254 the Hon'ble Apex Court held as under in Paragraph No. 19 which is being reproduced as follows:

19. In Director of Settlements, Andhra Pradesh and Ors. vs. M.R. Apparao and Anr., (2002) 4 SCC 638, while considering the scope of the power of High Court to issue a writ of mandamus under Article 226 of the Constitution, this Court has held as under:

"17. ....It is, therefore essentially, a power upon the High Court for issuance of high prerogative writs for enforcement of fundamental rights as well as non-fundamental or ordinary legal rights, which may come within the expression "for any other purpose". The powers of the High Courts under Article 226 though are discretionary and no limits can be placed upon their discretion, they must be exercised along the recognised lines and subject to certain self-imposed limitations. The expression "for any other purpose" in Article 226, makes the jurisdiction of the High Courts more extensive but yet the Courts must exercise the same with certain restraints and within some parameters. One of the conditions for exercising power under Article 226 for issuance of a mandamus is that the Court must come to the conclusion that the aggrieved person has a legal right, which entitles him to any of the rights and that such right has been infringed..."

17. In view of the above, the law on the said point can be summarized to the effect that a person who raises a grievance, must show how he has suffered legal injury. Generally, a stranger having no right whatsoever to any post or property, cannot be permitted to intervene in the affairs of others.

18. It has thus been settled that as a general rule inringement of some legal right or prejudice to some legal interest inhering in the petitioner is necessary to give him a locus standi in the matter. Existence of a legal right is a condition precedent for invoking the writ jurisdiction. The legal right that can be enforced must ordinarily be the right of the petitioner himself who complains of a fraction of such right. Legal right means an entitlement arising out of legal rules. If the person claiming relief is not eligible as per the requirement, he cannot be said to be a person aggrieved. Further, mere harm or loss is not wrongful in the eye of law unless it results in injury to a legal right or legally protected interest.

19. Now it requires consideration if the petitioner has any legal right or a legally protected interest to which any harm has been caused and for enforcement of such legal right the present writ petition can be maintained.

20. A person appointed to run the fair price shop is appointed by the Government for proper distribution of essential commodities at fair prices to the public at large. The objective is to make essential commodities, which are bare need of the public, available to the public at fair prices. The engagement of the agents is the means to achieve that goal. The object is not to benefit certain individuals who are engaged as agents nor such engagement creates any fundamental or legal right in such person to run the fair price shop. Such persons have no fundamental or legal right to deal with the essential commodities on behalf of the government for its distribution.

21. In the case of Gopi Vs. State of U.P. 2007 (6) ADJ 2001 (DB) this Court held as under:

"25. Realising the importance of the Public Distribution System, Parliament while bringing about the 73rd constitutional amendment included the Public Distribution System as one of the primary functions of the Gram Panchayat and it has been incorporated in Article 243-G of Part 9 of the Constitution. The Public Distribution System is obviously an avowed function of the State in order to ensure the distribution of essential commodities fairly. The object is clearly to provide benefit to the public at large in order to ensure supply of essential commodities which is necessary for the sustenance of daily life. The aforesaid object, therefore, has to be fulfilled keeping in view the intention of the legislature which is to promote public awareness and ensure distribution of essential commodities. In essence, the object is to provide benefit to the public at large. As a necessary corollary to the same, the object is not to set up any trade for the benefit of any individual. It may be that by virtue of this licensing system, an individual also gets the opportunity to benefit himself by setting up a fair price distribution unit. However, such a licence does not fall within the category of a fundamental right to carry on trade and business as understood under Article 19(1)(g) of the Constitution of India. The Government Order which has been issued under the provisions of the Essential Commodities Act, is to regulate the supply and distribution of essential commodities fairly."

22. In the case of Kallu Khan Vs. State of U.P. and another [2008 (6) ADJ 453 (DB)] this Court held as under:

"19. It would be appropriate to consider the basic idea of distribution of essential commodities under the 1955 Act and the system of appointment of agents in furtherance of discharge of the aforesaid function. It cannot be disputed that even before 73rd Amendment of the Constitution the Government has undertaken the responsibility of distribution of essential commodities to public at large at controlled or fair price. The purpose of the said responsibility is obvious. The majority of the citizens in the country live either below poverty live or almost at par or little above thereof. They are not able to meet their two times meals by the meagre income they earn and, therefore, the market forces, if are allowed to operate freely without any protection to such persons, probably majority of such people would be forced to die of starvation and they may not be able to survive at all. This experience we had even before independence and immediately after independence when the hoarders created a situation of scarcity of food items causing virtual revolution in different parts of the country at times. Various social and welfare measure were taken by the then Government and one of the major decisions taken with the intervention of Parliament is enactment of 1955 Act conferring power upon the Government to control production, supply and distribution of, and trade and commerce in certain commodities, namely, essential commodities as defined under Section 2(1) of 1955 Act. Therefore, the basic idea and intention of the legislature under the Act is to make available essential commodities to the public at large at fair price except of the cases where the availability and equitable distribution would be necessary for defence of India or for any efficient conduct of military operations. The Act intends to provide welfare measure for availability of essential commodities to public at large at fair price and rest of the machinery or mechanism is incidental for achieving the aforesaid goal. The appointment of fair price shop dealers, therefore, as such, is not the primary objective of 1955 Act but it is a channel by which the objective of making essential commodities available to public at large at fair price is to be achieved. It is always permissible and open to the Government to make the essential commodities available to public at large at fair price through the agencies or instrumentalities of its own namely, its own officers or officials or by creating a department or alike. Simultaneously, instead of undertaking the said job on its own it can discharge the aforesaid obligation through private persons or bodies by appointing them as its agents. Bereft of the authority conferred upon such agents by the Government for distribution of essential commodities at fair price, such persons had no fundamental or legal right of dealing with such essential commodities on behalf of the Government to distribute to public at large the essential commodities at fair prices, though on their own, in their private capacity, it is always open to them to make the commodities which are essential commodities under the Act available to public at large at fair price without having any corresponding burden upon the Government if there is no otherwise prohibition under any other law and the statutory provisions otherwise controlling the production, storage etc. of such essential commodities are observed by them."

23. Indisputably, the petitioner was allotted fair price shop by order dated 4.5.2017 for the interregnum period i.e. in the vacancy caused due to cancellation of fair price shop allotted to Pratap Kumar. The order of the petitioner itself provided that it was subject to the orders passed by the competent court in the pending cases which shall be binding on the petitioner and, as such, the writ petition filed by Pratap Kumar having been allowed, the petitioner's allotment came to an end for which the order dated 18.9.2017 was passed.

24. In the case of Smt. Uma Kumari Vs. Assistant Commissioner, Food & Civil Supply and others reported in 2011 (29) LCD 1319, in which an interregnum arrangement made in favour of the petitioner therein was brought to an end as the appeal of the original allottee was allowed, this Court held that such person (the subsequent allottee) was not an "aggrieved person' as he was not deprived of any of his legal entitlement. Paragraph Nos. 5,6,7 and 8 are being reproduced as under:

"5. While entertaining the writ petition, this Court vide order dated 27.5.2005 provided that fair price shop license of the petitioner would not be cancelled on the ground that license of opposite party No.4 has been restored. In this regard, it is mentioned that it is an interregnum arrangement and once the appeal has been decided in favour of the opposite party no.4, the petitioner has no locus to file the instant writ petition. Furthermore, the petitioner is not an aggrieved party. As the judicial proceedings have come to an end and the order passed by the Appellate Authority attains finality, no relief can be granted to the petitioner.

6. According to my opinion, a person aggrieved means a person who is wrongly deprived of his entitlement which he is legally entitled to receive and it does not include any kind of disappointment or personal inconvenience. "Person aggrieved' means a person who is injured or he is adversely affected in a legal sense.

7. It is settled law that a person who suffers from legal injury only can challenge the act/action/order etc. by filing a writ petition. Writ Petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable for enforcing a statutory or legal right or when there is a complaint by the petitioner that there is a breach of the statutory duty on the part of the authorities. Therefore, there must be a judicially enforceable right for the enforcement of which the writ jurisdiction can be resorted to. The Court can enforce the performance of a statutory duty by public bodies through its writ jurisdiction at the behest of a person, provided such person satisfied the Court that he has a legal right to insist on such performance. The existence of the said right is the condition precedent to invoke the writ jurisdiction. [Utkal university etc. vs. Dr. Nrusingha Charan Sarangi and others. (AIR 1999 SC 943) and Laxminarayan R. Bhattad and others v. State of Maharashtra and another (2003) 5 SCC 413.

8. Legal right is an averment of entitlement arising out of law. It is, in fact, an advantage or benefit conferred upon a person by a rule of law [Shanti Kumar R. Canji v. Home Insurance Co. of New York, (AIR 1974 SC 1719) and State of Rajasthan v. Union of India and others, (AIR 1977 SC 1361)]."

25. Similarly in the case of Sabbo Khatun Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 2012 (30) LCD 1968 it was held as under in paragraph Nos 6 and 7 of the said judgment:

6. In support of his submission, learned Standing Counsel has relied upon the case reported in [2009 (74) ALR 61], Sri Pal Jatav vs. State of U.P. and others, in which the Division Bench of this Court has observed that on account of cancellation of licence of the Fair Price Shop of opposite party no.3, the petitioner was permitted to run the Fair Price Shop as a stop gap arrangement and since the licence of the opposite party no.3 has been restored, the petitioner evidently cannot be permitted to run the Fair Price Shop in question any longer and the same would now be run by the opposite party no.3.

7. This Court has also expressed the view in its judgment reported in 2011 (29) LCD 626, Sita Devi vs. Commissioner, Lucknow and others (W.P.No.1436 (M/S) of 2008) that a person appointed to run the Fair Price Shop, as an interim arrangement during pendency of appeal, has no locus standi. The relevant para-7 is being reproduced below:-

"So far as the grievance of the opposite party no.3 is concerned, he has no locus, as he was appointed during the period interregnum, when the appeal of the petitioner was pending and will only be a temporary arrangement, whether such arrangement was made by following due process of making regular arrangement or otherwise on the discretion of the opposite party no.2 and, as such, the opposite party no.3 has no locus to defend the order passed by the authorities."

Having considered the matter in all, its pros and cons, I am of the view that the submission made by the learned counsel for the petitioner cannot be accepted. As is evident from the narration of the facts given above, the licence was given to the opposite party no.4 for running the Fair Price Shop in question and on account of cancellation of licence of the Fair Price Shop of opposite party no.4, the petitioner was permitted to run the Fair Price Shop as a stop gap arrangement. As licence of the opposite party no.4 has been restored by the order dated 09.08.2012, the petitioner evidently cannot be permitted to run the Fair Price Shop in question any longer and the same is to be run by the opposite party no.4."

26. Thus considered I find that the petitioner has no fundamental or legal right to be engaged as an agent nor any of her legal rights has been infringed by order dated 5.12.2007. The petitioner cannot be said to be a person aggrieved from the order dated 5.12.2017 as it does not infringe any of her legal or fundamental rights. Although, by the impugned order dated 5.12.2017 the petitioner's representation has been rejected but the criteria to determine if a person is "aggrieved person' is if the impugned order infringes or takes away any of the fundamental or legal rights or legally protected interests and not mere rejection of the representation. The order may be against the petitioner as his representation has been rejected but the order does not adversely affect any of her legal or fundamental rights.

27. So far as the submission of the petitioner's counsel, based on the letter dated 6.11.2008 (Annexure No.1) is concerned, that in 2008 the population in Gram Panchyat Jaitpur was 15976 and taking the increase at the rate of 5% annually the population would be 21970 in the year 2011 and about 25000 in 2017 and consequently the number of units in the gram panchyat must have also increased, the same deserves to be rejected inasmuch as the criterion for opening of an additional fair price shop in the concerned Gram Panchyat, as per the Government Order bearing number 2715/29.6.2002-162/2002 dated 17.8.2002, is the number of units in the concerned Gram Panchyat and not the population.

28. The Government Order dated 17.8.2002 is being reproduced as under:-

खाद्य तथा रसद अनुभाग-6 लखनऊः दिनांक 17 अगस्त, 2002

विषयः- सार्वजनिक वितरण प्रणाली के अन्तर्गत ग्रामीण क्षेत्र की उचित दर की दुकानों के आवंटन में वर्तमान आरक्षण व्यवस्था कार्यान्वित किये जाने हेतु आवंटन प्रारम्भ किये जाने हेतु नीति-निर्देश।

उपरोक्त के सम्बन्ध में शासनादेश संख्या- 112/29-6-2002-162 सा०/2001 दिनांक 10 जनवरी, 2001 का सन्दर्भ लेने का कष्ट करें जिसके द्वारा राशन की दुकानों/पेटी डीजल डीलर्स की नियुक्ति/आवंटन को स्थगित रखने के निर्देश दिये गये थे।

2. इस सम्बन्ध में मुझे आपसे यह कहना का निदेश हुआ है कि विधायी अनुभाग-1 की अधिसूचना संख्या- 919/सत्रह-वि-1-2(क)-3-2002, दिनांक 06 जून, 2002 को दृष्टिगत रखते हुए शासनादेश संख्या- 2227/29-6-2001-162 सा०/2001, दिनांक 09 अक्टूबर, 2001 को अतिक्रमित करते हुए उचित दर की दुकानों के आवंटन/चयन हेतु निम्न आरक्षण व्यवस्था

1- अनुसूचित जाति - 21 प्रतिशत

2- अनुसूचित जनजाति - 02 प्रतिशत

3- अन्य पिछड़े वर्ग - 27 प्रतिशत

3. उपर्युक्तानुसार आरक्षित श्रेणियों में निम्नलिखित होरिजेन्टल आरक्षण भी अनुमन्य होगा--

(क) सम्बन्धित आरक्षित श्रेणी की महिलाओ को 20 प्रतिशत

(ख) सम्बन्धित आरक्षित श्रेणी के लड़ाई में मारे गये सैनिक के परिवार के सदस्य लड़ाई में घायल हुए सैनिक के परिवार के सदस्य, भूतपूर्व सैनिक 08 प्रतिशत।

(ग) सम्बन्धित आरक्षित श्रेणी के स्वतंत्रता संग्राम सेनानी, उनकी पत्नी को 5 प्रतिशत।

(घ) सम्बन्धित आरक्षित श्रेणी के विकलांग व्यक्तियों को 02 प्रतिशत

इस शासनादेश के अनुसार वर्तमान में रिक्त दुकानों में आरक्षण के प्रतिशत का ध्यान रखा जायेगा किन्तु उक्त प्रतिशत को पूर्ण करने के लिये वर्तमान में चल रही दुकानों को निरस्त नहीं किया जायेगा। यदि कोई दुकान किसी कारणवश निरस्त होती है तब उस पर नई नियुक्ति के समय इस शासनादेश के अनुसार आरक्षण पूर्ण करने की कार्यवाही की जायेगी।

4. (1) विकास खण्ड को एक यूनिट मानते हुए तहसील में आरक्षण की व्यवस्था की गणना की जायेगी। प्रत्येक विकास खण्ड में कुल स्वीकृत दुकानों में प्रस्तर संख्या 2 एवं 3 के अनुसार आरक्षण की गणना तथा चिन्हीकरण किया जायेगा।

(2) जनसंख्या के अवरोही क्रम (डिसेडिंग आर्डर) के अनुसार जिस प्रकार पंचायती राज व्यवस्था में ग्राम प्रधान के पदों में आरक्षण व्यवस्था लागू की गई है, उसी प्रकार आरक्षण की व्यवस्था दुकानों के चिन्हाँकन में लागू की जायेगी। ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में राशन की दुकानों में आरक्षण सुनिश्चित करने हेतु यही मुख्य आधार होगा।

(3) वर्तमान में कार्यरत दुकानों की यथास्थिति बनाये रखते हुए जितनी रिक्तियाँ हैं उनमें आरक्षण की गणना निम्नानुसार की जायेगी:-

(क) कुल स्वीकृत दुकानों के सापेक्ष आरक्षण 50 प्रतिशत तक ही किया जायेगा।

(ख) भविष्य में आरक्षित श्रेणी के अन्तर्गत चिन्हित दुकानें जैसे-जैसे रिक्त होती जायेगी, उनका आवंटन उसी श्रेणी के अभ्यार्थियों को किया जायेगा।

(4) इस सम्बन्ध में दिनांक 3.7.90 के शासनादेश संख्या 3967/29- खाद्य-6 में दी गई शर्ते भी प्रभावी होगी और यदि उपर्युक्त शासनादेश की शर्ते तथा वर्तमान शासनादेश की किसी शर्त/प्रतिबन्ध में विरोधाभास हो तो वर्तमान शासनादेश की शर्ते एवं प्रतिबन्ध प्रभावी होंगे।

5- ग्राणीण क्षेत्र में राशन की दुकानों के आवंटन हेतु निम्नानुसार गठित तहसील स्तरीय समिति द्वारा किया जायेगा:-

1. उप जिला धिकारी - अध्यक्ष

2. सम्बन्धित खण्ड विकास अधिकारी - सदस्य

3. अनुसूचित जाति/जनजाति एवं पिछड़ी- सदस्य

जाति का एक-एक अधिकारी जो
जिलाधिकारी द्वारा नामित किया जाये
(यदि उपर्युक्त अधिकारियों में से कोई
इस वर्ग का हो तो अलग से नामांकन करने
की आवश्यकता नहीं होगी)
4. क्षेत्रीय खाद्य अधिकारी - सदस्य/संयोजक

6. इस शासनादेश के परिप्रेक्ष्य में उपर्युक्तानुसार विकास खण्ड की वर्गवार कुल रिक्त दुकानों की संख्या निर्धारित तथा चिन्हाँकित की जायेगी तथा होरिजेन्टल आरक्षण के अन्तर्गत महिला, लड़ाई में मारे गये सैनिक परिवार के सदस्य/घायल सैनिक अथवा उसके परिवार के सदस्य, भूतपूर्व सैनिक, स्वतन्त्रता सेनानी, उनकी पत्नी तथा विकलांग व्यक्तियों के आरक्षण को सुनिश्चित करने हेतु ग्राम सभाओं का चिन्हाँकन निर्धारित प्रतिशत तक लाटरी पद्धति के आधार पर ही किया जायेगा। प्रस्तर-3 के "क", "ख", "ग", "घ" हेतु प्रत्येक के लिये क्रमवार एक-एक पर्ची तब तक निकाली जायेगी जब तक निर्धारित आरक्षण पूर्ण नहीं हो जाता।

7. ग्रामसभाओं के उपर्युक्तानुसार चिन्हाँकन के पश्चात् ग्रामीण क्षेत्र में राशन की दुकानों का चयन ग्राम सभा की खुली बैठक में प्रस्ताव पास करके किया जायेगा तथा तीन नामों के पैनल उप जिलाधिकारी की अध्यक्षता में गठित समिति को नियुक्ति हेतु प्रेषित किया जायेगे। यदि अभ्यर्थियों की संख्या तीन से कम है तो पैनल में दो अथवा एक का नाम भी भेजा जा सकता है। ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में यथासम्भव प्रत्येक ग्रामसभा में एक राशन की दुकान होगी और यदि ग्राम सभा में चार हजार यूनिट से अधिक हो तो एक से अधिक दुकान नियुक्त किये जाने पर विचार किया जा सकता है।

8. किसी भी आरक्षित श्रेणी की रिक्ति उसी श्रेणी के अभ्यर्थियों से ही निर्धारित प्रक्रिया के अनुसार भरी जायेगी। परन्तु किसी भी दशा में उक्त रिक्त अनारक्षित नहीं की जायेगी।

9. अनारक्षित ग्राम सभाओं हेतु किसी भी वर्ग का अभ्यर्थी निर्धारित औपचारिकताओं को पूर्ण करके आवेदन कर सकता है।

10. ग्रामीण क्षेत्र में राशन की दुकानों का चयन निम्नलिखित अनिवार्य अर्हताओं एवं शर्तों को दृष्टिगत रखते हुए किया जायेगाः-

(क) अभ्यर्थी के खाते में कम से कम 40 हजार रूपया उपलब्ध हो ताकि वह अपनी दुकान को आवंटित एक माह की सामाग्री का एक बार में उठान करने के लिए आर्थिक रूप से सक्षम हो।

(ख) सामान्य ख्याति अच्छी हो।

(ग) शिक्षित हो ताकि वह दुकान का हिसाब किताब सही रूप से रख सके।

(घ) अभ्यर्थी के विरूद्ध कोई आपराधिक मामले पंजीकृत न हो और न ही वह किसी आपराधिक मामले में दण्डित किया गया हो।

(ड़) अभ्यर्थी की आयु 21 वर्ष से अधिक हो और परिवार में किसी अन्य सदस्य के नाम कोई दुकान आवंटित न हो।

(च) दुकानदार स्थानीय निवासी हो।

(छ) अभ्यर्थी द्वारा 1000/- रूपये की अर्नेस्ट मनी का बैंक ड्राफ्ट जिलापूर्ति अधिकारी के पक्ष में जमा किया जायेगा। उपरोक्त अर्नेस्ट मनी दुकानों के आवंटन की

स्थित में प्रतिभूति राशि में समायोजित कर ली जायेगी।

(ज) दुकानों की नियुक्ति की स्थिति में अभ्यर्थी को 5000/- रूपये की प्रति भूति जमी करनी होगी तथा 100/- रूपये का नानजूडिशियल स्टाम्प पेपर लगाना होगा। यह प्रतिभूति केवल नये नियुक्ति होने वाले दुकान के अभ्यर्थियों से ली जायेगी। जिनकी दुकान पूर्व से ही नियुक्त है और संचालित है उनमे नये दर पर प्रतिभूति नहीं जमा करवायी जायेगी।

(झ) यदि दुकानदार अच्छी ख्याति का हो तो उसकी मृत्यु के उपरान्त दुकान का आवंटन उसके आश्रित को करने पर विचार किया जा सकता है। आश्रित का तात्पर्य पत्नी, पुत्र तथा अविवाहित पुत्री से है।

11. ग्रामीण क्षेत्र में जहाँ ग्रामसभा प्रस्ताव नहीं पारित करती है अथवा जहाँ-जहाँ प्रस्ताव में विवाद उत्पन्न हो जाता है जनहित में ऐसे ग्रामसभा के लिये जिलाधिकारी को यह अधिकारी होगा कि वह शासनादेशों के निर्देशों के अनुसार उप जिलाधिकारी की अध्यक्षता में गठित समिति की संस्तुति पर दुकान के आवंटन का निर्देश दे सकते है।

12. जिला पूर्ति अधिकारी को यह अधिकार होगा कि ग्रामीण क्षेत्र की दुकानों का निरीक्षण तथा अनियमितता पाये जाने पर दुकानदारों के विरूद्ध दण्डात्मक कार्यवाही कर सकते है।

13. वितरण में अनियमितता पाये जाने पर राशन की दुकान नजदीकी ग्रामसभा की दुकानदार से सम्बद्ध की जायेगी। जिस पूर्व ग्रामससभा में दुकान कार्यशील थी उसी ग्रामसभा के प्रधान पर नियत स्थल/तिथि को सम्बद्ध दुकानदार द्वारा खाद्यान्न, चीनी मिट्टी का तेल का मासिक वितरण सुनिश्चित कराया जायेगा। दोनों ग्रामसभाओं में आवश्यक सामग्री का वितरण करने हेतु नियत दिवसों में सम्बन्धित उपजिलाधिकारी को समायोजन की अनुमति देने का अधिकारी होगा।

14. शासनादेश 09 अक्टूबर, 01 के परिपालन में अनारक्षित वर्ग हेतु यदि चयन की कार्यवाही पूर्ण कर ली गई थी तो उन रिक्तियों को चयन/आवंटन की प्रक्रिया में पुनः सम्मिलित नहीं किया जायेगा।

15. चूँकि शासन स्तर पर उपलब्ध सूचनानुसार प्रदेश के लगभग सभी जनपदों में वर्तमान में उचित दर की दुकानें रिक्त चल रही है जिससे उपभोक्ताओं को सही समय पर खाद्यान्न एवं अन्य वस्तुयें उपलब्ध कराने में कठिनाई हो रही है अतएव जनहित में इन रिक्तियों को शीघ्र भरा जाना नितान्त आवश्यक है।

29. A perusal of paragraph 7 of the Government Order shows that, as far as possible, in rural areas every gram panchyat shall have at least one fair price shop and if in the concerned Gram Panchyat the number of units are more than 4000 then the opening of an additional shop may be considered by the committee constituted under the said government order. Reading of the government order makes it very clear that the criterion for opening an additional shop is the number of units in the Gram Panchyat i.e. if the units exceed 4000 then such consideration may be made.

30. The impugned order has been passed specifically stating that the total number of card holders in Gram Panchyat-Jaitpur is 3309 out of which there are 250 Antodaya Card Holders and 3059 Patragrasthi (eligible household card holders). The total number of units under the above schemes are 13990. There are already five fair price shops in operation and considering the number of units there is no requirement of 6th additional fair price shop, as for that purpose there should be more than 20000 units in the Gram Panchyats.

31. Petitioner's counsel has drawn attention of this Court to paragraph 12 of the counter affidavit in which it is stated that the total units in the Gram Panchyat is 15858 and in view thereof he has submitted that there is difference in the number of units as mentioned in the counter affidavit and in the impugned order.

32. The Court finds that even if there is some difference in the number of units as mentioned in the counter affidavit and in the impugned order, still the number of units is less than 20000. There being already five fair price shops, on the ground of such difference as pointed out by the petitioner's counsel, there would be no requirement of sixth shop as per the Government Order.

33. This Court in the exercise of writ jurisdiction will not pass an order directing the respondents to make a roving inquiry for making fresh determination of number of units considering alleged increase of population for opening of a fair price shop for the petitioner who has no legal or fundamental right for engagement as an agent.

34. Thus considered I do not find any merit in the writ petition which is hereby dismissed.

List of Case Cited:-

BHEL Vs. Mahendra Prasad Jakhmola & ors. (2019) 13 SCC 82

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.)

1. Upon an industrial dispute being raised by the respondent no.3-Pramod Kumar Mishra, a Reference was made by the State Government to the respondent no-2 on 11.6.2007. The Reference reads as under :-

"क्या सेवायोजकों द्वारा अपने श्रमिक श्री प्रमोद कुमार मिश्रा पुत्र स्व0 भगवती प्रसाद मिश्रा की सेवायें दि0 05.02.2007 से समाप्त किया जाना उचित एवं वैद्यानिक है, यदि नहीं तो संबंधित श्रमिक क्या हितलाभ/अनुतोष पाने का अधिकारी है तथा अन्य किस विवरण सहित।"

2. However, when the respondent no.2 i.e. the Industrial Tribunal (3), Uttar Pradesh, Sarvodaya Nagar, Kanpur answered the Reference in favour of the respondent no.3, the instant writ petition was filed.

3. The case of the respondent no.3 had been that he was posted as a Security Guard with the petitioner on 19.6.2003 through the respondent no.4-U.P. Poorva Sainik Kalyan Nigam Limited. However, when on 5.2.2007, the respondent no.3 was, without any reason, removed from service and that too orally without any notice etc. as was contemplated under section 6-N of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the cause of action arose. The further case of the respondent no.3 was that upon his removal another Guard namely Baij Nath was engaged in his place. The case was contested by the petitioner and it had taken a stand that the respondent no.3 was in fact an employee of respondent no.4 and was only sent to the petitioner for performing certain functions; there was no relationship of employer and employee between the petitioner and respondent no.3 and in fact the respondent no.4 was the employer of the respondent no.3. In fact it was pleaded and argued by the petitioner before the Labour Court that the petitioner never made any payment to the respondent no.3. It was also stated before the Labour Court that the petitioner never terminated the services of respondent no.3.

4. The respondent no.4 had also contested the case before the Labour Court and had taken a stand that the respondent no.4 was not the employer and in fact it was the petitioner who was the employer of respondent no.3.

5. However, when the award was passed in favour of the respondent no.3 by the respondent no.2 by which the respondent no.3 was reinstated in service and was also granted back-wages from the date of termination, the present writ petition was filed.

6. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that if the replication filed by the respondent no.3 to the Written Statement filed by the petitioner, before the Labour Court was perused then it could be seen that there was a clear admission of the respondent no.3 that he was sent for performing security guard's duty in the petitioner's establishment by the respondent no.4 i.e. the U.P. Poorva Sainik Kalyan Nigam Limited and that the respondent no.4 had replaced the respondent no.3 by sending in his place one Sri Baij Nath. Still further, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the workman i.e. the respondent no.3 in his replication to the Written Statement filed on 24.10.2007 had stated in paragraph 2 that the petitioner's establishment used to make bulk payment to respondent no.4 who in its turn made payments to workmen. Since the learned counsel for the petitioner immensely relied upon paragraph 2 of the replication of the workman, the same is being reproduced here as under :-

"यह कि सेवायोजक प्रथम के लिखित कथन का परिच्छेद–दो भ्रामक है अतः अस्वीकार है। पक्षकार–2 केवल बिचौलिया था न कि मालिक क्योंकि उनके द्वारा केस्को संस्थान में कर्मचारी वादी को कार्य करने हेतु उपलब्ध कराया गया था। सेवायोजक– प्रथम ही कर्मचारी वादी के वेतन का प्रतिमाह रू0 6500/– भुगतान बिचौलिये पक्षकार–2 को करते थे जो केवल रू0 5650/– प्रतिमाह वेतन का भुगतान कर्मचारी वादी को करते थे।"

7. Further learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the cross-examination of the respondent no.3 and brought to the notice of the Court about the functions that the respondent no.4 was performing as an employer. Learned counsel for the petitioner relying upon the judgment of the Supreme Court reported in (2019) 13 SCC 82 : Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd. Vs. Mahendra Prasad Jakhmola & Ors. submitted that the Labour Court had to, while seeing as to whether there was an employer-employee relationship, give definite findings with regard to the following :-

"(i) who appoints the workers;

(ii) who pays the salary/remuneration;

(iii) who has the authority to dismiss;

(iv) who can take disciplinary action;

(v) Whether there is continuity of service; and

(vi) extent of control and supervision i.e. whether there exists complete control and supervision."

8. Learned counsel appearing for respondent no.3, however, submitted that the award of the Industrial Tribunal required no interference as the Labour Court had definitely found that it was the petitioner who was the employer.

9. The respondent no.4 had also appeared and supported the stand taken by the respondent no.3.

10. I have carefully considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties.

11. A perusal of the award shows that the oral statements of the workman-respondent no.3 have not been considered in their right perspective. The Labour Court was duty bound to have given a definite finding with regard to the fact as to who had appointed the respondent no.3; who was paying the salary; who had the authority to dismiss; who could take disciplinary action; whether there was continuity of service and also what exactly was the extent of control and supervision of the petitioner. A perusal of the award shows that the statements of the parties were not considered in their right perspective and the finding as was required to be arrived at to come to a proper conclusion as to whether there was relationship of employer and employee was not arrived at correctly.

12. Under such circumstances, the writ petition is allowed. The award dated 28.8.2015 is set-aside. The matter shall now be re-considered and decided by the respondent no.2 within a period of two months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order, in the light of the law laid down in the judgment of the Supreme Court reported in (2019) 13 SCC 82 : Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd. Vs. Mahendra Prasad Jakhmola & Others.

2. Smt. Raj Kumari Vs St. of U.P. & ors. (2011) 3 ADJ 638

1. This writ petition was, even though by an order of this Court dated 19.10.2019 directed to be heard with Writ-C No.31076 of 2019, it was heard separately and a separate order is being passed in this writ petition after hearing the learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel.

2. The petition in this case was served with a show-cause notice dated 28.3.2018 asking as to why her licence to run the Fair Price Shop be not cancelled. The show-cause notice dated 28.3.2018 was also accompanied by an order of suspension. Against the order of suspension, the petitioner had filed a writ petition being Writ-C No.18621 of 2018 which was disposed of with a direction that the petitioner might submit her detailed reply before the District Supply Officer and the enquiry thereafter had to be conducted. The petitioner submitted her reply and thereafter the District Supply Officer on 4.12.2018 cancelled the licence of the petitioner to run the Fair Price Shop. The petitioner thereafter filed an Appeal before the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut which when was dismissed on 30.4.2019, the petitioner filed the instant writ petition.

3. In the meantime, a First Information Report dated 21.3.2018 under section 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 which had preceded the suspension order had resulted in the submission of a Final Report by the prosecution on 19.9.2018. This Final Report was also accepted by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate on 21.6.2019. No protest petition was filed against the acceptance of the Final Report.

4. The contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner was that after the lodging of the First Information Report on 21.3.2018, the proceedings by the Sub-Divisional Officer, on the basis of the show-cause notice issued on 28.3.2018, were illegal inasmuch as the show-cause notice and the suspension order both were based on the very same grounds which had resulted in the lodging of the First Information Report. Learned counsel for the petitioner relying upon a judgment reported in 2011 (3) ADJ 638 : Smt. Raj Kumari vs. State of U.P. & Ors., submitted that a mere filing of the First Information Report under section 3/7 of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 could not be made a ground for the cancellation of a dealership of a Fair Price Shop. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that if the charges as were levied against the petitioner in the First Information Report were perused and the charges as were there in the show-cause notice were seen, then it would become evident that both the charges were absolutely the same and, therefore, the order passed for the cancellation of the licence to run the Fair Price Shop could not be sustained in the eyes of law. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that when the order cancelling the licence of the Fair Price Shop was passed, it was preceded by an approval from the District Magistrate under the relevant Government Orders. This he submits would be evident from the order dated 4.12.2018 i.e. the cancellation order itself. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the very same District Magistrate who had granted the approval to pass the order dated 4.12.2018 had also allowed the submission of the Final Report. He submitted that the filing of Final Report was only after the permission of the District Magistrate vide order dated 4.9.2018 and thereafter the A.C.J.M. Meerut had accepted the Final Report. Learned counsel for the petitioner still further submitted that the enquiry as was undergone against the petitioner did not comply with the provisions of the various Government Orders which had contemplated for a full-fledged enquiry. Learned counsel submitted that before the final order was passed, no place or time was fixed for the conducting of the enquiry. Learned counsel submitted that the petitioner could not produce any witness of her. She could not produce any witness to rebut the evidence which were brought-forth by the Licensing Authorities. Essentially learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that malice and ill-will were writ large. On the one hand the District Magistrate was giving approval to the passing of the order of passed after the approval of the District Magistrate. Learned Standing Counsel had made his oral submissions.

6. Learned Standing Counsel had submitted that the enquiry by the Licensing Authorities was based on the "doctrine of preponderance of probabilities" whereas the investigation by the police and the acceptance of the Final Report submitted by the prosecution were not based on the doctrine of "preponderance of probabilities". Learned Standing Counsel, therefore, submitted that the fact that the Final Report was submitted and that too on the basis of the permission granted by the District Magistrate would not affect the order of termination which was upheld by the Appellate Court.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel, I find that the First Information Report had preceded the show-cause notice. I also find that virtually all the charges levied in the First Information Report were similar to the charges made in the show-cause notice. I fail to understand that when the prosecution had found that the petitioner was not guilty and this finding was affirmed by the District termination and on the other he was allowing the submission of the Final Report. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that apart from malice and ill-will, no application of mind was also there.

5. No counter affidavit has been filed by the learned Standing Counsel as the case was heard only on a pure question of law as to whether when the Final Report was submitted on the approval of the District Magistrate then could the order of termination be upheld which also was Magistrate, then how the order of termination could stand. I also find that there was virtually no application of mind by the District Magistrate when the approval was given before the termination order was passed. In fact malice is writ large. On the one hand approval for the termination of licence was granted by the District Magistrate and on the other he gave his consent for the submission of the Final Report. I also find that the enquiry was not conducted in the manner as was contemplated in the relevant Government Orders. No time was fixed when the petitioner could have brought her witnesses to rebut the evidence placed by the Licensing Authorities. I also find that no place was ever fixed where an enquiry had to be conducted.

8. Since, in the decision rendered by the Supreme Court in Poonam vs. State of U.P. & Ors. reported in (2016) 2 SCC 779, it has been held that an allottee who had been allotted a shop during the pendency of the litigation had no right to challenge the restoration of the licence, I find that there is no requirement to hear the subsequent allottee and, therefore, the writ petition is being allowed in the absence of the subsequent allottee.

9. The orders dated 28.3.2018, 4.12.2018 and 30.4.2019 by which the licence of the petitioner was suspended, the licence was cancelled and thereafter the appeal was dismissed, respectively, are being set-aside. The licence of the petitioner to run the Fair Price Shop shall now be restored.

10. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed with the aforesaid observations.

1. The present writ petition has been preferred seeking the following relief:

(a) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus appointing petitioner No.1, namely Uma Mittal, W/o Sri Sunil Kumar Mittal, as the guardian of her husband to protect his interest, administer bank accounts, investments, proprietorship business, etc. and in the event of necessity, to sell the immovable property standing in the name of her husband and to use the proceeds towards medical treatment of her husband and family welfare expenses;

Backdrop

2. The material facts of the case as pleaded in the writ petition are as follows:

3. Petitioner No.1, is the wife of Sri Sunil Kumar Mittal (in short 'SKM'), son of Late Visheshwar Dayal Mittal. The couple had four children (Petitioners Nos. 2 to 5) i.e. three daughters namely Mrs. Mohini Mittal Raizada, Ms. Ritika Mittal, Ms. Ruchika Mittal and a son Mr. Raghav Mittal; Petitioner No. 2 is a married daughter, married to Sri Mukul Raizada and is presently residing with her husband at Gurgaon, Haryana. However, Petitioners No. 3 and 4 are unmarried daughters and Petitioner No. 5 is the son. The Petitioners No. 3, 4 and 5 are residing with Petitioner No. 1 at their parental house 43-A/9B, Clive Road, Civil Lines, Prayagraj;

4. It has been pleaded that on 22-12-2018 at about 1:30 a.m., it was discovered that SKM had fallen in the bathroom of his residence where he was lying unconscious, suffering from a severe head injury, nasal bleeding and vomiting. He was immediately taken to Haridaya Super-speciality Centre and thereafter to Kriti Scanning Centre where C.T. scan of his brain was carried out. On the same day about 3:30 AM, he was discharged from Haridaya Nursing Home. The discharge card mentioned that he was suffering from intracranial bleeding. The Glasgow Coma Scale (GCS) was 6 (E1V1M4) and pupil right NSRL and left dilated non-reacting; Subsequently, he was taken to Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia Institute of Medical Sciences, Lucknow where he was operated upon on 22-12-2018. Tracheostomy tube was inserted on 24-12-2018 and he was shifted to incentive care unit for almost fifteen days. The certificate dated 01-01-2019 shows that treatment of brain haemorrhage is going on and patient is in a comatose state; since treatment did not show any sign of meaningful neurological recovery at R.M.L. Institute, SKM was flown to New Delhi where he was admitted in Indraprastha Apollo Hospital on 07-01-2019, where he was kept in incentive care unit; after being hospitalized almost for five months, SKM was discharged from Apollo Hospital on 01-05-2019 at GCS E4VtM4, which means that he was in a comatose state. He was taken to his sister's residence in Noida on 01-05-2019, which is near to Apollo Hospital. The petitioner arranged two nursing staff from H.D.U. Care Unit, New Delhi to look after SKM. Petitioner No.1 stayed together with him up to 26-08-2019 for routine check-ups.

5. On 29-05-2019, SKM was again admitted for routine check-up. Thereafter he was discharged on 01-06-2019 at GCS 7 (E4VtM2). It is noteworthy that during the routine check-up, the Doctors opined that till his eventual demise, patient would remain in comatose condition. Petitioner No.1 has been further advised that continued supportive treatments have to be followed up for his entire life time; In these circumstances, SKM was brought back home at Prayagraj. A room in the house of the petitioners, has been converted into a ward (like ICU) and petitioner No.1 has arranged two nursing staff for the care and comfort of SKM. After being discharged from the Apollo Hospital, SKM has not been able to communicate and has been breathing with the help of 'Tracheotomy Tube' in his throat.

6. It has been further pleaded that petitioner No. 1 applied for a disability certificate before the Chief Medical Officer, Prayagaraj. According to Chief Medical Officer, SKM does not come within the definition of a person with multiple disabilities within the meaning of "National Trust for the Welfare of Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation, and Multiple Disabilities Act, 1999' (hereinafter referred to as "the National Trust Act, 1999"). The Chief Medical Officer issued a certificate on 04-11-2019, to the effect that he is bed ridden, in a comatose state; SKM is being fed by a 'Peg Tube' attached to his stomach. His position has to be changed after intermittent intervals to avoid bedsores. It is stated that the expenses of the treatment and nursing care of SKM has been met by the family savings and by taking loans from relatives and partly from the rent earned from his properties; SKM needs to be taken to the hospital for his periodic review. Apart from that the Petitioner No. 1 is also responsible for the marriage of the second and third petitioners for which she has to arrange the necessary expenses while also meeting the other needs of the family; medical expenses for the day-to-day treatment, are also more than the rent being received and the petitioners are also unable to repay the loans without drawing money from the bank accounts. However, the Bank accounts stand in the name of SKM, and as such petitioners are not in a position to operate the same; Petitioner No.1 has already incurred huge expenses, by borrowing money from various quarters for his treatment. Having exhausted all her financial resources, Petitioner No.1 is in state of depression, despair and abandonment, besides undergoing from irretrievable agony, stress and suffering on account of the plight of her husband lying in a vegetative state; parents of SKM have already expired. After the family settlement, the petitioners are residing in the family house at 43-A/9B Clive Road, Civil Lines, Prayagraj. The said residential house is mortgaged with the State Bank of India against two loans bearing Account Nos. 30867822772 and 31948452304.

7. It has been further pleaded that SKM was carrying on business as a sole proprietor, till December 2018. He also owns a shop bearing no. B-36, Upper Basement, Indra Bhawan, Civil Lines, Prayagraj. However, in the year 2015, he sold the shop to one Sri Zakir Husain after receiving consideration, which has been shown in his books of accounts but the registry of the said shop could not be done as SKM is lying in a comatose state; SKM is the owner of property in Vinayak Enclave, M.G. Marg, Civil Lines, Prayagraj fetching a rent of Rs. 54,000/- per month; the aforesaid property has been let out to UPTEC Computer Consultancy Ltd. at the rate of Rs. 33,110/- in terms of agreement dated 15-11-2007; SKM also owns a shop bearing Shop No. G-1, Gayatri Dham, Milan Square, 128/24, M.G. Marg, Civil Lines, Prayagraj wherein Plywood retail business was being carried out in the name of Ply House. This shop was purchased on 24-05-2012 in the name of petitioner no. 1. The said shop is also mortgaged with South Indian Bank Ltd. against cash credit limit for running the business of Ply House as well as for getting an overdraft loan.

8. SKM has Savings Bank Account, Current Account, PPF Account, Loan Account, Overdraft Account and Cash Credit Limit Account with the Respondent No. 5, State Bank of India and Respondent No. 6, South Indian Bank Limited. SKM is the sole signatory of the accounts and being in a comatose condition, the Petitioners are unable to operate the various bank accounts, the details of which are as follows:

Bank Name	Name of Account Holder	Account Number	Type of Account
S.B.I.	SKM	11076362778	PPF
S.B.I.	SKM (HUF)	11076362778	PPF
S.I.B.L.	SKM	06270530000003369	Saving

S.I.B.L.	Furniture	06270840000000	Current
	House	03

9. It has been further pleaded that apart from the aforesaid immovable properties, SKM also holds some investments in "Anand Rathi' having customer I.D. as ALBDS176 and ALBDS177, out of which some of them are mutual funds, shares and S.I.P.'s. SKM also holds various LIC Policies, Insurance Policies from various companies;

Submissions of the learned counsel for the parties.

10. Sri Bidhan Chandra Rai, learned counsel for the petitioner, submitted that the Reserve Bank of India, in order to help sick and disabled people to operate their accounts, has issued circulars No.RBI/2007-2008 /189; DBOD No. LegB.C.51/ 09.07.005/2007-08 dated 19-11-2007 advising the Banks to accept Guardianship Certificates issued under National Trust Act, 1999 but the circular, as stated, is not applicable in respect of a person lying in a comatose state.

11. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the following decisions:-

(I) Aruna Ramchandra Shanbaug Vs. Union of India; (2011) 4 SCC 454 (Paras 127 & 131);

(II) Shafin Jahan Vs. Asokan KM; (2018) 16 SCC 368 (Paras 45 & 46);

(III) Shobha Gopalakrishnan and others Vs. State of Kerala and others; (2019) SCC Online Ker 739 (Para 42 & 43)

(IV) Vandana Tyagi Vs. Government of National Capital Territory of Delhi and others; (2020) SCC Online Del 32 (Para 76)

(V) Philomena Leo Lobo Vs. Union of India and others; (2017) SCC Online Bom 8836 (Para 6)

(VI) Dr. Kuldeep Chand Maria Vs. Union of India & Others; (2016) SCC Online HP 497 (Para 4)

12. He further submitted that this Court in exercise of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can invoke the doctrine of Parens patriae and appoint the petitioner No. 1, Uma Mittal as a Guardian of her husband SKM, who is still lying in a comatose state. Learned counsel for the petitioner while referring to various legislative enactments has submitted that none of the provisions of any of the Acts provide for appointment of guardians for a person in a comatose state, unlike legislations for appointment of guardian for minors and persons with other multiple disabilities or mental illnesses like mental retardation etc. In this regard he referred to the provisions of the following enactments:

(a) The Guardians and Wards Act, 1890,

(b) The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908,

(c) The Indian Lunacy Act, 1912 (repealed),

(d) The Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956,

(e) The Mental Health Act, 1987 (repealed),

(f) The Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995 (repealed),

(g) The National Trust Act for the Welfare of Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities Act, 1999,

(h) The Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, 2016 and The Mental Health Care Act, 2017

13. Sri Saurabh Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel, appearing on behalf of the Respondents No. 2 to 4 has not disputed the averments made by the petitioner and has filed a short counter affidavit annexing the Medical Report of SKM by a Three Members Committee constituted for the purpose, in pursuance of the earlier directions issued by this Court.

14. Sri Amrish Sahai, learned counsel for the Respondent No. 5, State Bank of India, has not disputed the facts narrated in the writ petition, but has raised a sole objection to the effect that the State Bank of India should have been impleaded through its main Branch, but the same has no bearing on the merit of the matter and as such we find no substance in the preliminary objection so raised.

Discussion

15. Heard learned counsel for the parties through Video Conferencing and perused the record.

16. A perusal of the order sheet dated 7.12.2019 passed by this Court indicates that the learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of Respondents No. 2 to 4 was granted two weeks' time to file counter affidavit annexing the medical report of SKM, husband of Petitioner No. 1. In pursuance of the aforesaid direction, a short counter affidavit has been filed annexing therewith a medical report by a "Medical Board" consisting of Dr. Rahul Singh, Deputy Chief Medical Officer, Dr. R.C. Pandey, Deputy Chief Medical Officer, Prayagraj and Dr. Anil Kumar, Additional Chief Medical Officer, Prayagraj. For ready reference, the said report is quoted hereinebelow:-

"Medical Examination Report

As per order of Hon'ble High Court Prayagraj dated 06/01/2020, in respect to WRIT PETITION No. 40096 OF 2019, Uma Mittal and (4) Four others versus Union of India with 5 (Five) Others and C.M.O. Prayagraj, Order No. ..... A Medical board is constituted that comprised of Dr. Anil Kumar A.C.M.O Prayagraj, Dr. R.C. Pandey, Deputy C.M.O Prayagraj and Dr. Rahul Singh, Deputy C.M.O. Prayagraj, the board thoroughly examined the patient at his residence, 43A/9B, Clive Road, Civil Lines, Prayagraj at 11.30 AM on 11/01/2020.

As per records available, the patient had sustained injuries on 22/12/2018. His general condition is very poor state.

The Examination report is as follows:

Patient was found lying on bed with life support, (Tracheostomy tube is present in situ with oxygen support, pulse omimeter is there and SPO2 reading-100% on 1.5 Litre of Oxygen, with heart rate 92 beats per minute, Peg tube was in situ and Foley's Catheter is in situ.)

On examination, the patient is found in Unconscious state is not oriented in time place and person and also was not responding to any painful stimulus.

Patient is not in position to recognize surrounding people around him and not in position to make any signature or perform any other physical activity.

Medical Board Members:

Dr. Anil Kumar Dr. R.C. Pandey Dr. Rahul Singh

A.C.M.O, Prayagraj Deputy C.M.O, Prayagraj Dy.C.M.O Prayagraj"

17. A perusal of the said report clearly indicates that on examination, the patient was found in an unconscious state and is not oriented in time or place and was also not responding to any painful stimuli. Patient is also not in a position to recognize the people around him and not in a position to make any signatures or perform any other physical activity. Thus, the husband of Petitioner No. 1 was found in a vegetative state.

18. From a perusal of the record and the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioner, it is evident that the husband of the petitioner, SKM is lying in a comatose state. The petitioners have already incurred huge expenses in connection with the treatment and have exhausted their financial resources. They are in a state of despair, abandonment, isolation and are undergoing agony, stress and depression on account of pathetic condition of the victim who is lying in a vegetative state, as such, the petitioners were compelled to approach this Court for appointing the petitioner no. 1, wife of the SKM to be his Guardian submitting that no legislation in India provides for appointment of Guardian for a person lying in comatose state unlike legislation for appointment of Guardians for minor and persons with other disabilities like mental retardation etc. While referring to the judgment passed by Kerala High Court in the case of Shobha Gopalkrishnan (supra), learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that, while invoking the doctrine of "parens patriae", the Kerala High Court, has appointed the legal heir of the victim as a guardian, holding that no legislation in India provides for appointment of guardian to a person in a comatose state. The said judgment of Shobha Gopalkrishnan (supra) has been followed by the Delhi High Court in the case of Vandana Tyagi (supra), wherein discussions in this regard, have been made from Paragraphs 57 to 68 which are being quoted hereinbelow:-

"57. A bare perusal of the Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 (in short "the 1890 Act") would show that it deals with appointment of guardians qua minors. The 1890 Act, thus, has no applicability to persons who are major.

58. Insofar as the 1987 Act is concerned, it cannot be relied upon by the SBI which, as noticed above, even according to the SBI, stands repealed. This Act, once again, would have no applicability. The 1987 Act was repealed with the enactment of the 2017 Act. The provision qua repeal is made in Section 126 of the 2017 Act. The 1987 Act, thus, as noticed above, can have no applicability in the instant case.

59. Insofar as the Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995 (in short "PWD Act") is concerned, the same also stands repealed with the enactment of the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, 2016 (in short "RPWD Act"). The provision to this effect is made in Section 102 of the latter Act.

60. This, essentially, leaves one with the task of considering the scope and ambit of three statutes i.e. the 2017 Act, the 2019 Act, and the RPWD Act.

61. Insofar as the RPWD Act is concerned, it was enacted with the view to give effect to the United Nations Conventions on the rights of persons with disabilities and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. The United Nations General Assembly adopted the aforementioned convention on 13.12.2006. India is a signatory to this convention which was ratified by it on 01.10.2007. The convention came into effect from 03.05.2008. Though, India enacted the PWD Act in 1995, subsequent learning propelled India to adopt a rights based approach. Consequent thereto, the PWD Act, as adverted to above, was repealed and RPWD Act was enacted. While, this Act, inter alia, makes provisions for rights and entitlements of persons with disability, persons with benchmark disability, and persons with disability with high support needs, there appears to be no provision in this statute concerning persons in comatose state. It is relevant to note that Section 14 of the RPWD Act makes a provision for guardianship with respect to persons with disability. The definition provided under Section 2(s) of the very same Act, qua persons with disability, does not cover a person, who is in comatose state :

"2. Definitions.-

xxx xxx xxx

(s)"person with disability" means a person with long term physical, mental, intellectual, or sensory impairment which, in interaction with barriers, hinders his full and effective participation in society equally with others."

62. Likewise, the 2017 Act which was enacted to provide for mental healthcare and services of persons with mental illness and matters connected and incidental thereto it does not take within its sweep a person, who is in comatose state. Section 2(s) of the 2017 Act which defines mental illness reads as follows:

"2. Definitions.-

xxx xxx xxx

(s) "mental illness" means a substantial disorder of thinking, mood, perception, orientation or memory that grossly impairs judgment, behaviour, capacity to recognise reality or ability to meet the ordinary demands of life, mental conditions associated with the abuse of alcohol and drugs, but does not include mental retardation which is a condition of arrested or incomplete development of mind of a person, specially characterised by sub-normality of intelligence."

63. A bare perusal of the same shows that a person who is in comatose state is not covered.

64. The 1999 Act which was enacted to create a national trust for welfare of persons afflicted with autism, cerebral palsy, mental retardation and multiple disability also does not appear to cover a person, who is in comatose state. The definition of autism, cerebral palsy and mental retardation given in Sections 2(a), 2(c) and 2(g) respectively, on a plain reading, are suggestive of the fact that a person, who is in comatose state cannot fall within the scope and ambit of any of the three diseases defined in these sections.

65. Insofar as the multiple disabilities are concerned, the said expression has been defined in Section 2(h) of the 1999 Act. This provision reads as follows :

"2. Definitions.-

xxx xxx xxx

(h) "Multiple Disabilities" means a combination of two or more disabilities as defined in clause (i) of section 2 of the Person with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995 (1 of 1996)."

66. As would be evident, the definition of multiple disabilities has been tied in with Section 2(i) of the PWD Act which, as noticed above, stands repealed. However, for the sake of convenience, Section 2(i) of the PWD Act is extracted hereafter :

"2. Definitions.-

xxx xxx xxx

(i) "disability" means-

(i) blindness;

(ii) low vision;

(iii) leprocy-cured;

(iv) hearing impairment;

(v) locomotor disability;

(vi) mental retardation;

(vii) mental illness."

67. As is obvious, there are seven disabilities adverted to in Section 2(i) of the PWD Act. The definition of "mental retardation" in Section 2(r) of the PWD Act is identical to the definition of the expression "mental retardation" given in Section 2(g) of the 1999 Act. The expression "mental illness" has been defined in Section 2(q) of the PWD Act, which reads as follows:

"2. Definition.-

xxx xxx xxx

(q)"mental illness" means any mental disorder other than mental retardation."

68. A careful perusal of these definitions would show that a person who is in comatose state is not covered."

19. We have gone carefully through the aforementioned judgments of Kerala High Court and Delhi High Court as referred to hereinabove. We are in total agreement with the analysis and the view expressed by them holding that none of legislative enactments provide for appointment of a guardian for a person lying in a comatose state.

20. Now the question arises that when there is no legislative enactment, providing for appointment of a guardian for a person lying in a comatose state, how the matter with regard to appointment of guardian should be dealt with. We cannot lose sight of the fact that we have been called upon to discharge 'parens patriae' jurisdiction. The Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can pass orders and given directions as are necessary for subserving the ends of justice when no remedy is provided in any statute in respect to persons lying in comatose condition.

21. The doctrine of Parens Patriae (father of the country) had originated in British law as early as the 13th century. It implies that the King is the father of the country and is under obligation to look after the interest of those who are unable to look after themselves. The idea behind 'Parens Patriae' is that if a citizen is in need of someone who can act as a parent who can make decisions and take some other action, sometimes the State is best qualified to take on this role.

22. In the Constitution Bench decision of this Court in Charan Lal Sahu vs. Union of India (1990) 1 SCC 613 (vide paras 35 and 36), the doctrine has been explained in some detail as follows:

"In the "Words and Phrases" Permanent Edition, Vol. 33 at page 99, it is stated that parens patriae is the inherent power and authority of a legislature to provide protection to the person and property of persons non sui juris, such as minor, insane, and incompetent persons, but the words parens patriae meaning thereby `the father of the country', were applied originally to the King and are used to designate the State referring to its sovereign power of guardianship over persons under disability. Parens patriae jurisdiction, it has been explained, is the right of the sovereign and imposes a duty on the sovereign, in public interest, to protect persons under disability who have no rightful protector. The connotation of the term parens patriae differs from country to country, for instance, in England it is the King, in America it is the people, etc. The government is within its duty to protect and to control persons under disability".

23. The duty of the King in feudal times to act as parens patriae (father of the country) has been taken over in modern times by the State.

24. The Apex Court in the case of Shafin Jahan (supra) has further expanded the jurisdiction of the Court in application of doctrine of parens patriae and has held as under:

"45. Thus, the Constitutional Courts may also act as Parens Patriae so as to meet the ends of justice. But the said exercise of power is not without limitation. The courts cannot in every and any case invoke the Parens Patriae doctrine. The said doctrine has to be invoked only in exceptional cases where the parties before it are either mentally incompetent or have not come of age and it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that the said parties have either no parent/legal guardian or have an abusive or negligent parent/legal guardian.

46. Mr. Shyam Divan, learned senior counsel for the first respondent, has submitted that the said doctrine has been expanded by the England and Wales Court of Appeal in a case DL v. A Local Authority and others19. The case was in the context of "elder abuse" wherein a man in his 50s behaved aggressively towards his parents, physically and verbally, controlling access to visitors and seeking to coerce his father into moving into a care home against his wishes. While it was assumed that the elderly parents did have capacity within the meaning of the Mental Capacity Act, 2005 in that neither was subject to "an impairment of, or a disturbance in the functioning of the mind or brain", it was found that the interference with the process of their decision making arose from undue influence and duress inflicted by their son. The Court of Appeal referred to the judgment in Re: SA (Vulnerable Adult with Capacity : Marriage)20 to find that the parens patriae jurisdiction of the High Court existed in relation to "vulnerable if 'capacitous' adults". The cited decision of the England and Wales High Court (Family Division) affirmed the existence of a "great safety net" of the inherent jurisdiction in relation to all vulnerable adults. The term "great safety net" was coined by Lord Donaldson in the Court of Appeal judgment which was later quoted with approval by the House of Lords in In Re F (Mental Patient: Sterilisation21. In paragraph 79 of Re: SA (Vulnerable Adult with Capacity : Marriage), Justice Munby observes:"

The inherent jurisdiction can be invoked wherever a vulnerable adult is, or is reasonably believed to be, for some reason deprived of the capacity to make the relevant decision, or disabled from making a free choice, or incapacitated or disabled from giving or expressing a real and genuine consent. The cause may be, but is not for this purpose limited to, mental disorder or mental illness. A vulnerable adult who does not suffer from any kind of mental incapacity may nonetheless be entitled to the protection of the inherent jurisdiction if he is, or is reasonably believed to be, incapacitated from making the relevant decision by reason of such things as constraint, coercion, undue influence or other vitiating factors."

25. Thus, a perusal of the aforesaid decisions clearly indicates that the Constitutional Courts may also act as parens patriae so as to meet the ends of justice. The Constitutional Courts in the country have exercised parens patriae jurisdiction in the matter of child custody, treating the issue of custody of a child to be of paramount concern. Similarly, the doctrine has been invoked in cases where a person who is mentally retarded, is produced before a Court in a writ of Habeas Corpus. These are the rare situations, when the Court can invoke the aforesaid doctrine.

26. In our opinion, in the present case this Court cannot shirk its responsibility when a distress call is given by a sinking family of a person lying in a comatose state for the past year and a half. The dominant factor, after all, is not enforcement of rights guaranteeing protection of life of warring parties under Article 226 of the Constitution but the protection of the rights of a human being lying in a comatose state under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. The Court under Article 226 can pass orders and give direction as are necessary for subserving the ends of justice or to protect the person who is lying in a vegetative state. Under the circumstances, this Court, under Article 226 of the Constitutions of India, is the ultimate guardian of a person who is lying in a comatose/vegetative state and may provide adequate relief of appointment of a Guardian.

27. It may be noted that the Division Bench of Kerala High Court in the case of Shobha Gopalakrishnan (supra) has framed certain broad guidelines with regard to appointment of guardian qua a person lying in a comatose state since no specific provision was available in any statute in this regard, The guidelines framed by the Division Bench of Kerala High Court appear to be formidable and sound and, therefore, can be used as framework for formulating guidelines that need to be implemented in the State of Uttar Pradesh till such time, the legislative enactments are framed and specific provisions are made as to how guardians are to be appointed qua persons in a comatose state.

28. Thus, taking a cue from the decision of Shobha Gopalakrishnan (supra), we fix the following norms/guidelines as a temporary measure till an appropriate enactment is legislated as to how guardians are to be appointed vis-a-vis an individual who is lying in comatose state:-

"Guidelines

(i) A person(s) who seek(s) to be appointed as guardians vis-à-vis an individual, who is lying in comatose state, shall in their petition to the High Court (in short 'Court') disclose the details of all tangible and intangible assets of such an individual. The details as to their location and approximate market value shall also be disclosed. In case of bank accounts, stocks, shares, and debentures and other investments are concerned, material particulars will be provided.

(ii) The Court will have the person lying in comatose examined by a duly constituted medical board which would include, inter alia, a neurologist.

(iii) The court will also direct the concerned SDM/Tehsildar in whose jurisdiction the person lying in comatose is said to be located to carry out an enquiry to establish the veracity of the assertion and to gather material particulars concerning the person(s) who approach the court for being appointed as guardians. The enquiry will, inter alia, gather information as regards the relationship that the person(s) who wish to be appointed as guardians has/have with the person lying in comatose state. Information with regard to the financial condition of persons wanting to be appointed as guardians shall also be collected apart from other aspects which may have a material bearing in their discharging the duties of a guardian. Any conflict of interest concerning the affairs of the person lying in comatose state will be brought to fore in the report generated during the course of the enquiry.

(iv) Ordinarily only that person will be appointed as guardian who is a spouse or a progeny of the person lying in comatose. The person seeking appointment as a guardian in his petition to the court will, however, disclose the particulars of all legal heirs of the person lying in comatose. In the event, the person lying in comatose has neither a spouse nor any children or even any legal heirs or if he/she has such persons in his life but stands abandoned by them subject to the permission of the court his next friend who wishes to be appointed as a guardian can approach the court with such a request. In the alternative, the Court could direct the Department of Social Welfare, GNCTD to appoint a public official such as a Social Welfare Officer or a person holding equivalent rank to act as the guardian of the person lying in comatose state.

(v) Only that person shall be appointed as a guardian who is otherwise in law competent to act as a guardian.

(vi) The order directing appointment of a guardian shall specify the assets qua which the guardianship order is passed. The court will be empowered to modify the order and bring within its sweep other assets, if required, in the interest of the person lying in comatose state. In case liquid funds are not available and there is a requirement to sell the assets of the person lying in comatose state, upon the guardian approaching the court, necessary directions could be passed in that behalf.

(vii) The person appointed as a guardian will file every six (6) months (or within such period as the court may indicate in its order) a report with the Registrar General of this court. The report shall advert to the transactions undertaken by the guardian in respect of the assets of the person lying in comatose state. Besides this, the report shall also indicate the funds, if any, received by the guardian and their utilization for the purposes of maintaining the person lying in comatose state.

(viii) The Registrar General of this court will cause a separate register to be maintained which will set out inter alia the details of the proceedings, the particulars of the person appointed as a guardian and orders, if any, passed after the appointment of the guardian. Measures will also be taken by the Registrar General to preserve the reports filed by the guardian from time to time.

(ix) It will be open to the court to appoint a guardian either temporarily or for a limited period, as may be deemed fit.

(x) In the event, the guardian appointed by the court misuses his/her power or misappropriates, siphons or misutilizes the assets of the person lying in comatose state or fails to utilize the assets in the best interest of the person lying in comatose state, the court would have the power to remove the guardian and appoint another person in his/her place. The substituted person could also be a public officer such as a Social Welfare Officer or an officer holding an equivalent rank.

(xi) The guardian appointed by the court will ensure that the transactions entered into by him or her comport with the relevant provisions of the law.

(xii) In case a relative or a next friend of the person lying in comatose state finds that the guardian is not acting in the best interest of the person lying in comatose state, such person will also have the locus to approach the court for issuance of appropriate directions and/or for removal of the guardian.

(xii) In case, the guardian wishes to move the person lying in comatose state to another state or even to another country for the purposes of securing better medical treatment for the person lying in comatose state, he/she would approach the court for necessary permission before undertaking such an exercise."

29. That it goes without saying that the aforesaid guidelines are general in nature and the Court would always have the power to relax the same or add certain other conditions as may be required in each case.

Conclusion:

30. Having gone through the medical examination report, (annexed with the short counter affidavit) prepared by the Medical Board constituted in pursuance of the directions given by this Court and the averments made in the writ petition, we are satisfied that SKM, husband of the petitioner No. 1, who was the sole bread earner in the family, is lying in a comatose state. Perusal of the record further indicates that SKM, has properties (immovable/movable, investments, bank accounts, deposits etc.) in his name, but the petitioners are not in a position to deal with the same due to legal hurdles. Further the Petitioners have incurred huge expenses for his treatment which has already lasted for more than a year and a half, for which they have even resorted to borrowing money from relatives and friends. Thus, petitioners who are in precarious financial condition are knocking on the door of this Court for redressal of their grievances.

31. Also, in view of the above discussions made hereinabove, there appears to be no dispute that none of legislative enactments as discussed in the earlier part of the judgment are applicable qua SKM, a person lying in a comatose state. Further, the petitioners are in dire need of money towards medical treatment of SKM and for the welfare of the family as they have exhausted their financial resources in the past one and a half years.

32. It is worthwhile to note, that the instant writ petition has been filed jointly by all the legal heirs of SKM namely Smt. Uma Mittal, Petitioner No. 1 (wife), Smt. Mohini Mittal Raizada, Petitioner No. 2 (married daughter), Ms. Ritika Mittal and Ms. Ruchika Mittal, Petitioners No. 3 and 4 (unmarried daughters) and Mr. Raghav Mittal, Petitioner No. 5 (son) with a prayer to appoint the Petitioner No. 1, Uma Mittal, wife of the SKM as guardian of her husband for the purpose of protecting his interest, administer bank accounts, investments, proprietorship business, etc. and in the event of necessity, to sale the immovable property standing in the name of SKM and to use the proceeds towards medical treatment of her husband and family welfare expenses. Thus, it is also clear that there is no dispute amongst the legal heirs of SKM.

33. Accordingly, while accepting the medical report of SKM submitted by the Medical Board, we hereby appoint the Petitioner No. 1, Uma Mittal, wife of SKM as the guardian of her husband SKM, who is in a comatose condition, vested with the property of her husband SKM to do all acts, deeds and things for the proper medical treatment, nursing care, welfare and benefit of the SKM and his children and with power to do all acts, deeds and things with respect to assets and properties of the SKM including; (i) operate bank accounts in the name of SKM; (ii) deal with shares, bonds, debentures in the name of SKM; (iii) invest the monies to earn optimum returns thereon; (iv) utilise the monies for proper upkeep and for fulfilling the needs of SKM and his children (v) represent the SKM before all persons/authorities/bodies; (vi) sign wherever required as guardian of SKM including for discharging any person/authority/body from duty/obligation/liability owed to SKM (vii) take possession and charge of all properties movable or immovable to SKM; (viii) take actions in law to protect interest of SKM; (ix) sign all deeds, documents, cheques as guardian of SKM; (x)petitioner No. 1 shall also be entitled to incur expenses for the family welfare purposes including marriages of her daughters namely Ms. Ritika Mittal, Petitioner No. 3 & Ms. Ruchika Mittal, Petitioner No. 4.

34. It is reiterated that the upon fulfilment of requisite formalities, the conc erned Banks (Respondents No. 5 and 6)/any other financial institutes will permit the Petitioner No. 1, Uma Mittal to operate the bank accounts and deal with other financial affairs standing in the name of SKM.

35. It is made clear that the Petitioner No. 1, Uma Mittal shall not sell, alienate encumber any of the immovable properties of the SKM except with the express permission of the Registrar General of this Court. The same will however not come in the way of the petitioner no. 1 letting out the immovable properties of the SKM from time to time and getting back the possession thereof. The petitioner No. 1, Uma Mittal shall comply with other requirements of being the guardian of petitioner No.1. Needless to state, such appointment is till SKM is unable to look after his affairs and subject to revocation in accordance with law.

36. It is further directed that the Petitioner No. 1 would file a report with the Registrar General of this Court every six months, detailing the transactions in respect of the assets of SKM.

37. Before parting, we wish to recommend to the Central Government to consider enacting an appropriate legislation pertaining to appointment of guardians qua persons lying in a comatose state, as no remedy is provided in any statute to persons in comatose/vegetative state, (as already discussed in detail in earlier part of this judgment), unlike legislations for appointment of guardians for minors and persons with other disabilities, including like mental retardation etc.

38. With these observations, this petition stands disposed of finally.

39. The Copy of this Order be placed before the Registrar General for necessary follow up/compliance in the matter.

40. Registry is required to forward a copy of this judgment to the Secretary, Law, Ministry of Law and Justice, Government of India, for information and appropriate steps.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Mithal, J. & Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. In pursuance to the advertisement dated 03.02.2004 issued by the Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority (GNIDA), the petitioner vide order dated 04.06.2004 was allotted plot No.1 Cassia Fistula Estate, Sector CHI-IV of 1000 sq. mtrs.

2. On actual measurement there was some extra land of 22.4 sq. mtrs. in the aforesaid plot for which additional premium was demanded and charged.

3. After the petitioner completed all formalities and fulfilled the conditions of allotment by depositing the premium amount, lease rent etc., a registered lease deed in respect to the whole of the said plot having an area of 1022.4 sq. mtrs. was executed in his favour on 17.12.2008. Consequently, its possession was also delivered on 18.12.08 to him.

4. The petitioner has preferred this writ petition seeking a direction that the location of the said plot from that of a corner plot adjoining to the green belt may not be changed and to declare any change or proposed change in this regard to be illegal and arbitrary. In other words, the plot should remain in its original form as a corner plot facing green belt.

5. The argument is that the petitioner had paid 15% additional amount as location charges in accordance with the terms and conditions of the allotment and that under the allotment order as well as the lease deed, the petitioner was allotted and delivered possession of a corner plot facing 18/24 meter wide road adjoining the green belt. The said location cannot be changed after the execution of the lease deed by converting the green belt into an another plot.

6. The petitioner in response to one of his letters pertaining to the lay out plan of the scheme has been informed vide letter dated 30.06.2009 issued by the General Manager (Niyojan & Vastu) that according to the approved lay out plan plot No.1, Cassia Fistula Estate, Sector CHI-IV which has been allotted to the petitioner is not a corner plot.

7. It is alleged that this is totally in contravention of the terms and conditions of the allotment order and the lease deed. Therefore, the status of the said plot as allotted and leased out to the petitioner be restored as a corner plot.

8. We have heard Sri B.C.Rai, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri B.B. Jauhari, learned counsel for the respondent No.2 (GNIDA) and have perused the pleadings exchanged between the parties.

9. GNIDA in the counter affidavit has admitted that in accordance with Clause A-7.2 of the brochure which provide for location charges for corner plots, plots facing park/green belt or plot facing 18/24 meter wide road, premium of 5% for the benefit of each type of location was payable and that the petitioner had paid a total of 15% additional premium over and above the fixed rate of premium on account of superior location. However, the stand taken is that the plot allotted to the petitioner was not a corner plot. In fact the plan annexed with the lease deed was not prepared by the Planning Department and therefore, it was incorrectly described as the corner plot. The area of the green belt in the entire sector is as per the approved standard and does not stand reduced on account of carving out of an additional plot in the area which the petitioner claims to be green belt. The lay out plan was amended after a report was submitted by the Senior Executive (Planning) on 05.12.2006 on the recommendation made by the Deputy General Manager (Planning) on 13.12.2006 for amending the lay out plan. Due to the change in the lay out plan to some extent, the boundaries of the plot allotted to the petitioner was altered and at present the plot allotted to the petitioner is not the corner plot or adjacent to the green belt.

10. In short, the only issue which arises in this petition, on the aforesaid pleadings and rival claims, is whether the location of the plot allotted to the petitioner facing 18/24 meter wide road; adjoining/facing park/green belt; and as a corner plot for which the petitioner has been charged additional premium to the extent of 5% for each location benefit, total 15% of the fixed premium can be altered or changed by the GNIDA after the execution and registration of the lease deed simply by an executive fiat.

11. There is no dispute that GNIDA issued an advertisement on 03.02.2004 inviting applications for allotment/lease of residential plots inter alia in Cassia Fistula Estate, Sector CHI-IV.

12. In pursuance of the above advertisement, the petitioner also applied for allotment of one residential plot of an area of 1000 sq. mtrs by depositing the registration money of Rs.3,10,000/-. The premium amount was intimated to be Rs.26,22,600/- with location charges for all the three beneficial locations as 15% of the premium fixed.

13. The petitioner deposited all the aforesaid amounts including the revised rates and the lump sum premium amount whereupon lease deed was executed in his favour on 17.12.2008 and the possession was delivered on 18.12.2018.

14. The brochure containing the terms and conditions of allotment/lease apart from other things vide Class A-7 provided that the area of the plot may slightly vary at the time of handing over possession and therefore, premium may also proportionately vary accordingly. It further vide Clause A-7.2 provides as under:-

> A-7.2 Location Charges
> For Corner plots:
> 5% of the premium
> For plots facing park/green belt:
> 5% of the premium
> For plots facing 18/24 m. wide road:
> 5% of the premium
> Note For plots having more than one location benefit, location charges will be additive.

15. The allotment-cum-allocation letter dated 04.06.2004/17.07.2004 clearly provides that the location of the plot allotted to the petitioner is adjoining to green belt and that it is a corner plot facing 18/24 meter wide road for which 15% of the premium amount has been charged as additional premium amount.

16. The possession certificate dated 18.12.2008 mentions the area and the dimensions of the plot allotted to the petitioner as 1022.40 sq. mtrs. and that its boundaries are as per the lease plan enclosed. The enclosed lease plan clearly describes that the aforesaid plot No.1 is having an area of 1022.40 sq. mtrs. and on its one side is plot No.1-A & on the other side is the green belt. The plot faces 18 meter wide road and on its back is plot No.14. Thus, making the plot a corner plot facing 18 mtrs wide road with green belt on one side.

17. The lease deed dated 17.12.2008 is also on record and apart from mentioning the other details of the plot it mentions that the boundaries of the plot are as per the lease plan. Again the same lease plan is enclosed with the lease deed as is part of the allotment letter. It again describes the boundaries of the plot with green belt on one side and 18 meter wide road on the front thus making it a corner plot.

18. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, it is ample clear that the plot allotted to the petitioner was a corner plot facing 18 mtrs. wide road and green belt on one side for which additional premium was charged from him.

19. The letter of the GNIDA dated 30.06.09 of the General Manager (Niyojan & Vastu) clearly states that according to the approved lay out plan the aforesaid plot is not a corner plot.

20. It is accepted in the counter affidavit that in the area shown as green belt adjoining to the aforesaid plot, an additional plot has been carved out. Thus, materially changing the location of the said plot. On carving out of the aforesaid additional plot not only the adjoining green belt to the plot goes away but it also reduces its status from that of a corner plot to any other normal plot.

21. There is no dispute that as per the allotment order, lease deed and the site plan forming part of it, the plot allotted to the petitioner is a corner plot with green belt on one of its side and 18 mtrs. wide road in its front.

22. Now the sole question is whether GNIDA is justified in changing the location of the said plot after the execution and registration of the lease deed with the map of plot allotted forming part of it with boundaries.

23. The submission that the site plan annexed with the possession letter and the lease dead is incorrect has no substance and cannot be accepted. The allotment letter/order mentions the same boundaries of the plot as described in the lease plan. The lay out plan was amended and corrected in the year 2006 as stated earlier whereas the lease deed was extended and registered on 17.12.2008 enclosing the lease plan. The lease plan enclosed with it is presumed to be according to the amended lay out plan of the year 2006. There is no explanation as to why the lease plan could not be corrected as per the amended lay out plan before making it a part of the lease deed. No effort was made even to rectify the allotment letter/order which describes the boundaries in words also. Thus,GNIDA have not cared at any stage to correct/rectify the aforesaid lease plan despite coming to know that it is incorrect.

24. Sri Jauhari, draws the attention of the court to condition Q-1 of the brochure which provides that the Chief Executive Officer or any officer authorised by him has the right to make such additions/alterations/modifications in the terms and conditions of allotment from time to time as may be considered just or/and expedient.

25. A similar condition is contained in Clause-F of part-3 of the lease deed which provides that the Chief Executive Officer reserves the right to make such alterations or modifications in terms and conditions as may be considered just and expedient.

26. A reading of the aforesaid two Clauses, no doubt establishes that the Chief Executive Officer has the power to add, alter or modify the terms and conditions of allotment/lease but it fails to describe the manner in which the same can be added, altered or modified or till which stage it can be done.

27. The right reserved by the Chief Executive Officer to alter and modify the terms and conditions of allotment is in context with the general terms and conditions viz the nature of the lease, its term, mode of its cancellation, the mode of payment and other liabilities and not in respect of alteration of the status/boundaries of the plot allotted which would continue to be the same as mentioned in the allotment letter, lease deed or the lease plan unless changed in a legal and valid manner.

28. The Chief Executive Officer in exercise of the powers conferred by Q-1 of the brochure would have made changes in the terms an conditions of the lease or the nature of the plot before the execution of the lease and its registration but it was not done. He is not authorised or empowered to change the terms and conditions of the lease deed which has been registered simply by an administrative order.

29. Even if clause-F of part 3 of the lease is pressed in motion to change the nature of the plot or its boundaries it has to be done in accordance with law.

30. It is well acknowledged principle of contract law that the parties are bound by the terms and conditions of the agreement and the basic rule is that the promissory must perform exactly what he has undertaken to do. The application of this rule is absolute and no party to a contract can avoid the same. Thus, where the terms and conditions of the agreement/lease expressly or impliedly provides that the performance is to be done in a particular manner, it must be performed in the manner so provided.

31. Accordingly, if the lease deed provides for leasing out a plot of land as described therein then the lease deed has to be executed in that context and not otherwise.

32. Thus in the case at hand the lease has to be in respect of the plot as qualified in the site plan enclosed with the lease. Any deviation from the same has to be in accordance of law and not otherwise i.e. after following the procedure prescribed.

33. It is also settled legal position that where an instrument is required to be registered compulsorily either by virtue of the statute under which it is executed or registered any changes or alteration in the said registered instrument has to be necessarily by a registered instrument.

34. In the absence of any registered instrument changing the location of the plot allotted from a corner plot to any normal plot, is illegal and unsustainable.

35. The change of the status/boundaries of the plot as disclosed in the lease deed would not fall within the ambit of alteration or modification of the terms and conditions of the lease deed and that too without executing a proper instrument.

36. Lastly, it has been submitted that as the dispute in the petition has arisen out of a concluded contract, the petitioner is not entitle to maintain the writ petition.

37. There cannot be any doubt whatsoever that GNIDA is a "State" within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India and as such its action must satisfy the principle of Article 14 of the Constitution and have to be reasonable and fair. Although, the terms and conditions of the contract entered into by GNIDA can be altered or modified as provided but this cannot be done unilaterally unless their exist any provision either in the contract itself or in law. The petitioner was not taken into confidence or was given any opportunity of hearing before changing the nature of the plot allotted to him. It was simply by a letter that he has been informed that the plot allotted to him is no longer a corner plot as on the area of green belt a new plot has been created.

38. This is nothing but novation of a binding contract which could not have been done without making the proposed change known to the petitioner.

39. Accordingly, the alteration so made in the nature of the plot is against the principle of fair play which is heart and soul of Article 14 of the Constitution.

40. The effort made by Sri Jauhari, to get the petition dismissed on technicality that it is not maintainable as it arises out of a concluded contract is bereft of merit as in Delhi Development Authority1 it has provided that when a contract emanates from a statute or is otherwise governed by the provisions thereof, the superior court can also exercise the power of judicial review more particularly when there is infringement of Article 14 of the Constitution.

41. In Sundstrand Forms (P) Ltd.2 another Division Bench of this court was confronted with a similar question as to the additional amount payable as location charges in respect of a corner plot or a plot facing 30 mtrs. wide road, the court held that when the premium of the plot was fixed and the scheme provided that for the corner plot 5% of the premium and for the plot facing 30 mtrs. wide road a further 20% premium would be payable the allottee is liable to pay the additional 25% for the location charges and accordingly, directions were issued to its Executive Officer, NOIDA to execute the lease deed of the plot in question and to handover possession thereof.

42. The reliance placed by Sri Jauhari upon State of Bihar3 to object to the maintainability of the petition is not of much help to him for the simple reason that in the aforesaid decision itself it has been held that the existence of alternative remedy does not affect the jurisdiction of the writ court though it may be a ground for not entertaining the petition and it is only where seriously disputed questions or rival claims arise out of a breach of contract which requires investigation and determination on the basis of evidence that the party can be directed to avail the remedy of civil suit. Thus, the jurisdiction of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution does not stand ousted completely.

43. Moreover, in the instant case the petitioner is not seeking enforcement of a statutory contract. The contract in the form of lease exists between the parties and it has been acted upon but in doing so the nature of the plot leased out has been changed by carving a new plot in the adjoining green belt. This action is apparently unfair and has been held to be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution.

44. In Lal Bahadur4 more popularly known as "Janeshwar Misra Park" case it has been held that even the statutory power to modify the plan so as to change green belt into residential area cannot be exercised in violation of public trust doctrine. Therefore, the area earmarked as green belt, park or open space cannot be changed to residential area. This is exactly the position in the instant case. The area of green belt adjoining to the plot allotted to the petitioner has been converted into one another plot for residential purpose after the execution and registration of the lease deed in favour of the petitioner clearly describing the nature of the plot. This action of GNIDA is ex facie hit by the dictum of law laid down in the above decision.

45. Accordingly, brushing aside the objection as to the maintainability of the writ petition as the action of the GNIDA in altering the nature of the plot allotted to the petitioner is unfair and the alteration has not been done in a valid manner as contemplated in law, we issue a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the GNIDA to maintain the nature of the plot allotted to the petitioner i.e. plot No.1 Cassia Fistula Estate, Sector CHI-IV of 1022 sq. mtrs. as a corner plot facing 18 mtrs. wide road with the green belt adjacent to it as has been described in the leased plan forming part of the lease deed.

46. The writ petition is allowed with no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. The present writ petition has filed by petitioner under Article 226 of the Constitution of India with the following prayers:

"(i) To issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing the order dated 10.04.2017 (Annexure No.3) passed by District Magistrate, Bareilly and 1.11.2019 (Annexure No.4) passed by Commissioner, Bareilly Region, Bareilly.

(ii) To issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus staying the operation of the order dated dated 10.04.2017 (Annexure No.3) passed by District Magistrate, Bareilly and 1.11.2019 (Annexure No.4) passed by Commissioner, Bareilly Region, Bareilly.

(iii) To issue any other writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in this circumstances of the case to mee the ends of justice.

(iv) To award cost of the petition to the petitioners."

2. The learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner was having a fire arms licence No.1132/2013 on which N.P.P. Rifle No.AB-84-2136 is registered and a first information report dated 28.07.2015 was lodged against the petitioner and a Case Crime No.123/2015, under sections 307/504 IPC, P.S. Bhamana, District Bareilly was registered and on the basis of the aforesaid F.I.R, Senior Superintendent of Police, Bareilly sent a show cause notice dated 25.08.2016 to the petitioner for cancelling the fire arms licence of the petitioner and the petitioner was directed to submit his reply. In response to the said show cause notice, petitioner has submitted his reply on 16.12.2016 and it was stated in the reply of the petitioner that he was enlarged on bail in the case and his fire arms was not used in that incident and the session trial is pending before the Court of Additional Session Judge, Court No.13, Bareilly.

3. Learned counsel for he petitioner further submitted that on the basis of the above allegations and notice a case was registered against the petitioner, under Section 17(3) of the Arms Act, 1959 (State Vs. Sunil) before the Court of District Magistrate, Bareilly, the District Magistrate, Bareily by his order dated 10.04.2017 cancelled the firm arms licence of the petitoner. Thereafter the petitioner challenged the above order by filing an appeal under Section 18 of the Arms Act before the Commissioner, Bareilly Region, Bareilly.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the petitioner was acquitted by order dated 21.09.2017 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.13, Bareilly in Case No.191 of 2016 (State Vs. Rishipal and others). The copy of the judgment and order dated 21.09.2017 was filed before the Court of Commissioner, Bareilly Region, Bareilly, but without considering the judgment and order dated 21.09.2017, the learned Commissioner, Bareilly Region Bareilly vide order dated 01.11.2019 dismissed the appeal of the petitioner.

5. The petitioner's counsel further submits that the impugned orders passed by the District Magistrate, Bareilly and the Commissioner, Bareilly Region, Bareilly are arbitrary, perverse, without jurisdiction and based on surmises and conjecture.

6. Learned counsel for the petiitoner further submitted that merely named in the criminal case is not a good ground for cancellation of the arms licence and it is clear cut case of the petiitoner that the fire arms was not used in the alleged incident on the basis of which the first information report was lodged against the petitioner and in the appeal the Commissioner has not considered the judgment and order dated 21.09.2017 passed in Case No.191 of 2016 by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.13, Bareily, by which, the petitioner was acquitted in the criminal case. The finding recorded by the learned Commissioner that the petitioner was acquited on the basis of benefit of doubt and his involvement in the criminal case cannot be denied and is not bound to consider the order passed by the Criminal Court once the order is passed, under Section 17(3) of the Arms Act,1959 and the arm license is cancelled, is a perverse finding.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that while dismissing the appeal of the petitioner, the learned Commissioner has discussed about the incident, on the basis of which, he presumed that the petitioner is a person of criminal manner and he may be involved in some other criminal activities after being acquitted in the criminal case. The order passed by the learned Commissioner is totally criptic and based on surmises and conjuctures and against the provisions of Section 17 of the Arms Act, 1959 therefore, the arms licence of the petitioner may be restored and the impugned orders may be quashed.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner further drawn the attention of the Court towards the provisions of Section 17 (3) and 17 (7) of the Arms Act, 1959 and submits that as per Section 17(3) of the Arms Act, there is no ground exists against the petitioner for cancellation of arms licence, once the acquittal order is passed in his favour.

9. Learned Standing Counsel who appears on behalf of all the respondents countered the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner and submitted that there is no illegality in the impugned orders by which the Arms licence of the petitioner was cancelled and if the petitioner possesses the arms licence, it is not in the interest of public safety and the petitioner may further involved in any other criminal activity and may use his fire arm.

10. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. From perusal of the record, this Court finds that only one criminal case was lodged against the petitioner being Case Crime No.123 of 2015, under Sections 307, 504 IPC, P.S. Bhamana, District Bareilly and on the report submitted by the authorities concerned, the arms licence was canceled by the District Magistrate, Bareilly. Thereafter, in the criminal case, the petitioner was acquitted by the judgment and order dated 21.09.2017 passed by the learned Additonal Sessions Judge, Court No.13, Bareilly in Case No.191 of 2016 (State Vs. Rishipal and others). The Appellate Court also not considered this fact that the petitioner was already acquitted by the Session Court and no adverse finding was recorded by the Court, therefore, the order rejecting the appeal by the Commissioner Bareilly Region, Bareilly was passed without application of mind and was a cryptic order. It is also not out of place to mention here that after the acquittal order dated 21.09.2017, nothing has been mentioned in the counter affidavit filed by the respondent Nos. 2 and 3 that the petitioner was thereafter involved in any criminal activities causing danger to public peace or public safety or has used his fire arm.

12. From perusal of Section 17(3) and proviso to Section 17(7) of the Arms Act, 1959, it is crystal clear that not a single ground of Section 17(3) of the Arms Act, 1959 is applicable in the case of the petitioner, undisputedly petitioner was involved only in one criminal case and the respondents could not brought on record any material to show that the petitioner was involved in any other criminal case except the present one.

13. It is also relevant to mention here that in sole criminal case petitioner has already got the order of acquital passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.13, Bareilly vide order dated 21.09.2017. It is not out of place to mention here that as per proviso of Section 17(7) of the Arms Act, 1959 which providing that if the conviction is set aside in appeal or otherwise the suspension or revocation shall become void. It is necessary to quote Sections 17(3) and 17(7) of the Arms Act, 1959 herein as under:-

"Section 17(3)- The licensing authority may by order in writing suspend a licence for such period as it thinks fit or revoke a licence-

(a) if the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder of the licence is prohibited by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, from acquiring, having in his possession or carrying any arms or ammunition, or is of unsound mind, or is for any reason unfit for a licence under this Act; or

(b) if the licensing authority deems it necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to suspend or revoke the licence; or

(c) if the licence was obtained by the suppression of material information or on the basis of wrong information provided by the holder of the licence or any other person on his behalf at the time of applying for it; or

(d) if any of the conditions of the licence has been contravened; or

(e) if the holder of the licence has failed to comply with a notice under sub-section (1) requiring him to deliver-up the licence."

"Section 17(7)- A court convicting the holder of a licence of any offence under this Act or the rules made thereunder may also suspend or revoke the licence:

Provided that if the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the suspension or revocation shall become void."

14. In the facts of the present case, this Court come to the conclusion that none of the ground mentioned in section 17(3) of the Arms Act 1959, is applicable in the petitioner case. The petitioner was involved in only one criminal case and was finally acquitted by order dated 21.09.2017 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.13, Baeilly in Case No.191 of 2016, further as provided under section 17(7) of the Arms Act, if the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the suspension or revocation shall became void, therefore in that case too also the petitioner is entitled for restoration of his fire arm licence by the Authority concerned, in view of the above, the impugned orders are not sutainable in the eyes of law.

15. It is undoubtedly to say that merely pendency of the criminal case or with the apprehention that the petitioner may be involved in future in any other criminal case cannot be a ground for cancellation of the arms licence under the Arms Act, 1959, unless and until a clear cutt finding is recorded by the Competent Authorities that the possession of the fire arms caused threatening of the public peace and is danger for the safety of human being which the Competent Authorities fail to record any such finding in the impugned orders.

16. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Sheo Prasad Mishra Vs. District Magistrate, Basti and others, 1978 AWC 122 was pleased to held that merely involved in the criminal case or pendency of criminal case cannot be the ground for cancellation of arms licence and the pendency of criminal case cannot in any way effect the public security or public interest.

17. This Court in the case of Rajendra Deo Pandey Vs. State of U.P. And others, reported in 2012 (4) ADJ 716 was pleased to held that merely due to pendency of criminal case or after acquittal in the criminal case, arms licence cannot be cancelled, the same view was followed in the case of Rajendra Pandit Vs. State of U.P. And others, 2012 (10) ADJ 435 .

It is relevant to mention that in the above referred case, the acquittal order was passed in three cases and in the fourth case, a final report was submitted by the police, even though, the licence was cancelled. The High Court finally allowed the writ petition and the District Magistrate was directed to re-issue the arms licence to the petitioner.

18. This issue was further dealth with in the case of Ram Charan Vs. State of U.P. And two others, 2016 (11) ADJ 185 and the Hon'ble Court was pleased to consider all the previous judgment in this regard and was pleased to observe in paragraph nos. 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 as under:

"11. The distinction between the concept of public order and that of law and order has been adverted to by the Apex Court in a catena of decisions. The question whether a man has only committed a breach of law and order or acted in a manner leading to disturbance of public order is a question of degree of the reach of the act upon society is no more res integra. In the case reported in AIR 1966 SC 740, Dr Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar it was observed that the contravention 'of law' always affects 'order' but before it could be said to affect 'public order', it must affect the community or the public at large. One has to imagine three concentric circles, the largest representing "law and order", the next representing "public order" and the smallest representing "security of State". An act may affect "law and order" but not "public order", just as an act may affect "public order" but not "security of the State".

12. The principles settled way back in the year 1966 in the case of Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia (Supra) has been repeatedly quoted with respect and approval.

13. In 1998 (16) LCD 905, Ram Murti Madhukar Vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur, in paragrah 8 & 9 of the judgment, this Court has held as follows:-

"8. It is also well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of Arms Act, are not sufficient ground for passing of the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 of the Act. A reference in this regard may be made to the decisions of this Court in Ganesh Chandra Bhatt v. D.M. Almora (AIR 1993 Allahabad-291).

9. It is also well settled in law that before passing of the order of suspension or revocation, under clause (b) of sub section (3) of Section 13 of the Act, the licensing authority must apply its mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case. Licence cannot be suspended or revoked on the ground of 'Jan Hit'."

14. In 2002 (44) ACC 783, Habib Vs. State of U.P. & Ors. in paragraph 3 & 4 of the judgment, this Court has held as follows:-

"3. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court reported in Sheo Prasad Misra v. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision reported in Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of firearm has been set aside. The present impugned orders also suffer from the same infirmity as was pointed out by the Division Bench in abovementioned cases. I am in full agreement with the view taken by the Division Bench that these orders cannot be sustained and deserve to be quashed and are hereby quashed.

4. There is yet another reason that during the pendency of the present writ petition, the petitioner has been acquitted from the aforesaid criminal cases and at present there is neither any case pending, nor any conviction has been attributed to the petitioner, as is evident from Annexure SA-1 and II to the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner. In this view of the matter, the petitioner is entitled to have the fire-arm licence. It is submitted by petitioner's counsel that the petitioner has been acquitted of the charges."

15. In 2009 (10) ADJ 635, Ashiq Hussain Vs. Commissioner, Moradabad & Ors., in paragraph 6 of the judgment, this Court has held as under: -

"6. The mere involvement in a solitary criminal case cannot be a ground for cancellation of a firearm license as held by this Court in case of Mohd. Haroon Vs. The District Magistrate, Siddharth Nagar reported in 2003 (1) ACJ 124, unless and until it is shown on the basis of material on record that there was grave danger to public law and order. In the instant case it is only a solitary incident, which was not arising out of any disturbance of public law and order, that has been made the basis for ordering cancellation."

16. In 2011 (29) LCD 1045, Rama Kushwaha Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., a Single Judge of this Court in paragraph 10

& 11 of the judgment of this Court has held as follows:-

"10. In Ram Murli Madhukar Vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998(16) LCD 905], this Court has held that licence can not be suspended or revoked on the ground of public interest (Janhit).

11. It is well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of arms act are not sufficient grounds for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 (3) of the Act. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti & others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision of Masiuddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. The law propounded in the said decisions has been subsequently followed in Habib Vs. State of U.P. Reported in 2002 ACC 783, Ram Sanehi Vs. Commissioner, Devi Patan Division, Gonda & another."

17. In 2011 (29) LCD 829, Hiramani Singh Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., this Court in paragraph no.8 of the judgment has held as follows:-

"8. This Court in the case of Ashok Rao v. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2010 (68) ACC 441 while considering the authority to be exercised under Section 17 of the Indian Arms Act has taken the view that mere pendency of criminal case cannot be ground for cancellation of firearm license unless and until finding is returned by the authority concerned that possession of firearm has the tendency of threatening public peace and public safety."

18. In 1994 (12) LCD 1109, Anil Kumar Singh Vs. Distt. Magistrate, Pratapgarh, in paragraph no. 6 of the judgment, this Court has been held as follows:-

"6. ...Therefore, it is clear that at the time of passing the order order dated 6-2-79 by the Commissioner, there was no ground on which the gun licence of the petitioner could have been cancelled. Both the grounds were wiped off before passing of the order of the learned Commissioner and the learned Commissioner could not have passed this order unless there was some fresh material against the petitioner be that date. In this connection it will by useful to refer to the case of Ram Bodh Singh v. State of U.P. & others, 1985 (11) Allahabad Law Reports, 114, in which it has been held that once petitioner was acquitted those cases could not furnish material for cancellation of his licence. Therefore, on the date on which the Commissioner passed his licence. Therefore, on the date on which the Commissioner passed his order, it cannot be said that the cancellation of licence was in the public interest and this fact could not be substantiated by the State."

19. This Court after considering the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and from perusal of record and considering the case laws on the issue involved observed here that in the present case the petitioner was involved in sole criminal case and has been acquitted by the order dated 21.09.2017 in Case No.191 of 2016 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.13, Bareilly and as per the provision contained under section 17(7) of the Arms Act, 1959, if the conviction is set aside in appeal or otherwise the suspension or revocation shall become void, therefore the arm licence has to be restored considering the provisions contained under Sections 17(3) and 17(7) of the Arms Act, 1959. The fire arm licence of the petitioner could not have been cancelled in public interest as has been done in the present case, no incident of breach of security of the public peace or public safety at the behest of the petitioner has been pointed out. The petitioner has no previous criminal history. The police report on the basis of which the proceedings were initiated against the petitioner does not indicate that the petitioner had utilized the fire arm during the said incicent, no such averment was made by the authorities concerned. There is nothing on record to establish that petitioner was involved in the act resulting in disturbance to public peace or public safety.

20. In view of the well-settled legal proposition and the relevant case law referred above and the provisions contained under Sections 17(3) and 17(7) of the Arms Act, 1959 and going through the entire facts, this Court is of the view that the impugned order dated 10.04.2017 passed by District Magistrate, Bareilly and order dated 01.11.2019 passed by the Commissioner, Bareilly Region, Bareilly are not sustainable in the eyes of law, therefore both the orders are hereby quashed. The writ petition is allowed.

21. The matter is remitted back to the District Magistrate, Bareily, respndent No.3 to pass a reasoned and speaking order afresh, for restoring the arms licence of the petitioner in accordance with law, preferrably within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before him and communicate the same to the petitioner forthwith.

22. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. Heard Shri Shashi Nandan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Anupam Kulshrestha, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that he does not want to press the prayer no.1 of the writ petition and confined his relief in respect of prayer nos. 2 to 5 only.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that one Shri Rakesh Chandra Sharma and his wife Smt. Kunti Sharma had purchased plot nos.26 and 27 measuring area 324 Sq. meters in Khasra Nos. 86/3, 86/2, 83, 84/2, 87/2 situated in village Navada, District Bareilly by registered sale deed dated 14.02.1989 and thereafter, their names were recorded in the revenue records. Thereafter, the aforesaid couple on 14.03.2004 executed a power of attorney in favour of the petitioner in respect of the said property. It is also submitted that in the aforesaid power of attorney, the signatures of the persons were attested by a notary/ advocate whose registration number and all the details were mentioned in the seal on the stamp paper. Thereafter, petitioner on 29.07.2013 presented three sale deeds to be registered in the office of the Sub Registrar Ist, Bareilly (respondent no.3) in respect of the same property, which was bequeathed upon the petitioner through the Power of Attorney dated 14.03.2004 by Shri Rakesh Chandra Sharma and Smt. Kunti Sharma. It was further argued that the first sale deed was in respect of area 108.693 square meters, second sale deed was in respect of area 108.3 Sq. meters and the third sale-deed was in respect of the area 107.02 sq meters and the total area of the above sale-deed is 324 sq. meters, for which area, the petitioner has been given Power of Attorney by the aforesaid couples.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that on the presentation of the aforesaid sale-deed before the respondent No.3 to register them under the Registration Act, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), the respondent No.3 in an illegal manner and exceeding his jurisdiction has rejected the registration of all the aforesaid three sale-deeds vide order dated 13.08.2013, copy of the order is filed as Annexure No.4 to the writ petition. He further submits that the respondent no.3 has illegally rejected registration of the three sale-deed mainly on five points, the first point is in respect of power of attorney is attested by notary and in the notary, serial number and year is not mentioned. Regarding point no.2, it was mentioned that Khasra number and area and boundaries of the property is not mentioned, only plot nos. 26 and 27 is mentioned, the third point raised in the impugned order is in respect of the stamp duty paid in respect of the Power of Attorney, which is not paid by the executors Shri Rakesh Chandra Sharma and Smt.Kunti Sharma and in the fourth point, it is mentioned that Section 4 of the Power of Attorney Act is not applied in the case of petitioner and in the fifth point, it is mentioned that the Power of Attorney should be registered as per order dated 03.07.2013 of the Directorate General Registration, which is mentioned as Bahi No.1 and there is no evidence that the Power of Attorney is executed by Shri Rakesh Chandra Sharma and his wife and the Power of Attorney is not registered as the same is governed under Section 17 of the Registration Act.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that all the points taken in the impugned order are illegal, arbitrary and without application of mind and the respondent No.3 has exceeded his jurisdiction while passing the impugned order dated 13.08.2013 and the same is against the provisions of the Act.

6. In reply to the objection raised regarding point no.1 in the impugned order, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the objection is illegal and baseless as the registration number of Advocate/Notary is given as 3132/2000 in the seal on the stamp paper in the Power of Attorney. In respect of point no.2, it is submitted that the said objection is also illegal in the Power of Attorney dated 14.03.2004, the details of the registered sale-deed dated 14.02.1989, through which the property was purchased by the executor of the Power of Attorney was duly registered before the Sub Registrar, Bareilly mentioning the details of the property including Khasra number, area etc. The third point raised by respondent No.3 in the impugned order is also illegal, baseless as the stamp was purchased by the petitioner, who is vendee in the aforesaid sale-deed, hence as per the law, the stamp can be purchased by the vendor or by the vendee.

7. In reply to the objection raised regarding fourth point in the impugned order by the respondent no.3 regarding Section 4 of the Power of Attorney Act, 1882, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the original instrument creating the Power of Attorney has been submitted before respondent no.3 and the petitioner had followed the procedure prescribed under Section 4 of the Power of Attorney Act, 1882 and there is no illegality done by the petitioner.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that as per the objection raised regarding point no.5 in the impugned order, it is submitted that as far as registration of documents of moveable or immovable property is concerned, it has to be dealt in accordance with the provisions of Sections 17 and 18 of the Act and as per Section 17 of the Act, there exists no such condition of registration of Power of Attorney, therefore, the objection raised by respondent no.3 is illegal and baseless.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that the registration of the Power of Attorney is not mandatory as per Section 17 and his case is falling under section 18 of the Act, were in registration of the Power of Attorney is not mandatory and submitted that the reference of order dated 03.07.2013 of Directorate General Registration is against the provision of Registration Act and hence requirement for registering of Power of Attorney in view of order dated 03.07.2013 is per se illegal and the same is without jurisdiction and the grounds taken are baseless and illegal, this order is not applicable in the case of petitioner and respondent no.3 be directed to forthwith registered the three sale deed dated 29.07.2013.

10. Learned Senior Advocate Shri Shashi Nandan further argued that in the present case when the executor of the Power-of-attorney has no objection nor he has made any allegation against the petitioner regarding fraud or misrepresentation of fact or cheating, then the respondent no.3 must have no objection for registration of the three sale deed presented by the petitioner and has drawn our attention regarding applicability of Sections 32 and 33 of the Act. He further submitted that it is not mandatory that the Power-of-attorney can only be authenticated document when it is registered document and it is also not necessary that the actual executant of the Power-of-attorney should present the document for registration, once he has executed the Power-of-attorney in favour of the petitioner, he is legally competent to execute the sale deed and present the same for registration, unless the allegation of fraud is made against the petitioner.

11. In counter affidavit, learned Standing Counsel who represents the respondents submits that the impugned order dated 13.08.2013 was rightly passed by the respondent No.3 and there is no illegality in the order impugned and was passed as per the provision of Section 4 of the Power of Attorney Act and Sections 17, 32 and 33 of the Act.

12. In rejoinder affidavit, learned counsel for the petitioner denied the averments made in the counter affidavit.

13. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, it is not disputed that the Power of Attorney dated 14.03.2004 is an unregistered document on the basis of which, the vendee has executed three sale-deeds dated 29.07.2013 and presented for registration before respondent no.3 in respect of the same property mentioned in the Power of Attorney. The ground of rejection taken in the impugned order was carefully examined by us and we find that point no.1 taken in the impugned order was in respect of the Power of Attorney is notarized and is attested by the Notary but serial number and year are not mentioned, whereas from perusal of the documents i.e. Power of Attorney, which is filed as Annexure No.2 to the writ petition, we find that the signatures on the documents was duly attested by the Notary/Advocate, whose registration number is given as 3132/2000 in the seal on the stamp paper in the power-of-attorney, which clearly shows the serial number and year exist in the document which does not create any doubt. The signature of the parties were duly attested, therefore, the objection regarding point no.1 in the impugned order have no force in our opinion.

14. From perusal of the Power of Attorney dated 14.03.2004, the detail of registered sale-deeds dated 14.02.1989 through which the property was purchased by the executor of Power-of-attorney who became owner of the plot nos.26 and 27 measuring area 324 sq. meters which was duly registered before the Sub Registrar, Bareilly at Zild No.2942, Page No.267, 268, Silsila No.5192, therefore, it could not be said that the executor of the Power of Attorney holder has not mentioned the correct description of the property. The objection regarding point no.2 in the impugned order has also no force in our opinion.

15. From perusal of the impugned order, the case of respondent itself in respect of point no.3 is that the stamp was purchased by the petitioner. In our opinion there is no force in the objection raised by respondent no.3 in the impugned order, the petitioner who is vendee in the sale deed and as per the Indian Stamp Act and Registration Act, the vendor or the vendee can purchased the stamp and persent the document for registration.

16. In respect of the objection raised regarding point no.4 in the impugned order, we have considered the arguments raised by the parties, and from perusal of the record, it is beyond doubt to say that the petitioner has not submitted the original instrument creating the Power of Attorney before respondent no.3, the petitioner has fairly submitted in para 14 of the writ petition that "whereas the petitioner has submitted the original instrument creating the power-of-attorney and the petitioner had followed the procedure prescribed as per the provision of Section 4 of the Power-of-attorney Act, 1882".

17. For adjudication of this point, Section 4 of the Power of Attorney Act, 1882 is quoted as under:-

"4. Deposit of original instruments, creating powers-of-attorney.-- (a) An instrument creating a power-of-attorney, its execution being verified by affidavit, statutory declaration or other sufficient evidence, may, with the affidavit or declaration, if any, be deposited in the High Court [or District Court] within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the instrument may be.

(b) A separate file of instruments so deposited shall be kept; and any person may search that file, and inspect every instrument so deposited, and a certified copy thereof shall be delivered out to him on request.

(c) A copy of an instrument so deposited may be presented at the office and may be stamped or marked as a certified copy, and, when so stamped or marked, shall become and be a certified copy.

(d) A certified copy of an instrument so deposited shall, without further proof, be sufficient evidence of the contents of the instrument and of the deposit thereof in the High Court [or District Court].

(e) The High Court may, from time to time, make rules for the purposes of this section, and prescribing, with the concurrence of the State Government, the fees to be taken under clauses (a), (b) and (c).

(g) This section applies to instruments creating powers-of-attorney executed either before or after this Act come into force."

18. Therefore, the objection regarding point no.4 in the impugned order has also no force in our opinion.

19. In respect of objection raised regarding point no.5 in the impugned order, we have no doubt that the Power of Attorney on the basis of which the petitioner wants to execute the three sale deeds are unregistered Power of Attorney and in our opinion there is no bar in the Act for execution of sale deed on the basis of unregistered power-of-attorney. The case of the petitioner falls under Section 18 of the Act and not under Section 17 of the Act and there is no hurdle that unregistered Power of Attorney holder cannot execute the sale-deed unless and until there is a case of fraud established against the executor and if no allegation of fraud is made the registration is held to be proper in the eye of law. Moreso, in the present case the Power-of-attorney holder was the executant of the document, he was also legally competent to present the document for registration. Object of Registration Act, 1908 is to prevent fraud and no allegation of fraud is made against the petitioner, therefore, he is entitled to present the document for registration as per law.

20. For adjudication of this point, Sections 17 and 18 of the Registration Act, 1908 are being quoted as under:-

"17. Documents of which registration is compulsory.--(l) The following documents shall be registered, if the property to which they relate is situate in a district in which, and if they have been executed on or after the date on which, Act No. XVI of 1864, or the Indian Registration Act, 1866, or the Indian Registration Act, 1871, or the Indian Registration Act, 1877, or this Act came or comes into force, namely:--

(a) instruments of gift of immovable property;

(c) non-testamentary instruments which acknowledge the receipt or payment of any consideration on account of the creation, declaration, assignment, limitation or extinction of any such right, title or interest; and

(2) Nothing in clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (l) applies to--

(iv) any endorsement upon or transfer of any debenture issued by any such Company; or

(v)[any document other than the documents specified in sub-section (1A)] not itself creating, declaring, assigning, limiting or extinguishing any right, title or interest of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards to or in immovable property, but merely creating a right to obtain another document which will, when executed, create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any such right, title or interest; or

(vi) any decree or order of a Court [except a decree or order expressed to be made on a compromise and comprising immovable property other than that which is the subject-matter of the suit or proceeding]; or

(vii) any grant of immovable property by [Government]; or

(viii) any instrument of partition made by a Revenue-Officer; or

(ix) any order granting a loan or instrument of collateral security granted under the Land Improvement Act, 1871, or the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883; or

(x) any order granting a loan under the Agriculturists, Loans Act, 1884, or instrument for securing the repayment of a loan made under that Act; or

18. Documents of which registration is optional.--Any of the following documents may be registered under this Act, namely:--

(a) instruments (other than instruments of gift and wills) which purport or operate to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, of a value less then one hundred rupees, to or in immovable property;

(b) instruments acknowledging the receipt or payment of any consideration on account of the creation, declaration, assignment, limitation or extinction of any such right, title or interest;

(c) leases of immovable property for any term not exceeding one year, and leases exempted under section 17;

1[(cc) instruments transferring or assigning any decree or order of a Court or any award when such decree or order or award purports or operates to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest, whether vested or contingent, of a value less than one hundred rupees, to or in immovable property;]

(d) instruments (other than wills) which purport or operate to create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any right, title or interest to or in movable property;

(e) wills; and

(f) all other documents not required by section 17 to be registered."

21. In the impugned order, the respondent No.3 has not made out any allegation against the petitioner that the Power of Attorney was obtained by playing fraud or has obtained from Shri Rakesh Chandra Sharma and Smt. Kunti Sharma by suppression of material fact or by way of cheating and is trying to execute the sale-deed of the property in question with malafide intention. Nor any such complaint was ever made by Sri Rakesh Chandra Sharma and Smt. Kunti Sharma against the petitioner before respondent no.3. We are in agreement with the argument raised by Shir Shashi Nandan, Senior Advocate that the reference of order dated 03.07.2013 of Directorate General Registration given in the impugned order is not applicable in the case of the petitioner, in view of the provision contained under Section 18 of the Act. Therefore, the objection regarding point no.5 in the impugned order has also no force in our opinion.

22. We have considered all the five objections raised in the impugned order dated 13.08.2013 for not considering the registration of the documents presented by the petitioner and we are not satisfied with the finding given by the respondent no.3. Further, it is necessary to deal with the legal argument raised by Shri Shashi Nandan, Senior Advocate that when the executor of the Power-of-attorney has no objection nor he has made any allegation against the petitioner regarding fraud or misrepresentation of fact or cheating, then the respondent no.3 must have no objection for registration of the three sale deed presented by the petitioner and has drawn our attention regarding applicability of Sections 32 and 33 of the Act. He further submitted that it is not mandatory that the Power-of-attorney can only be authenticated document when it is registered document and it is also not necessary that the actual executant of the Power-of-attorney should present the document for registration, once he has executed the Power-of-attorney in favour of the petitioner, he is legally competent to execute the sale deed and present the same for registration, unless the allegation of fraud is made against the petitioner.

23. Section 32 deals with "Persons to present documents for registration" and Section 33 deals with "Power of Attorney recognizable for purposes of Section 32", which is in Part VI of the Registration Act, 1908, Section 32 and 33 of the Registration Act are quoted as under :-

"Section 32. Persons to present documents for registration.-- Except in the cases mentioned in 1[sections 31, 88 and 89], every document to be registered under this Act, whether such registration be compulsory or optional, shall be presented at the proper registration-office,--

(a) by some person executing or claiming under the same, or, in the case of a copy of a decree or order, claiming under the decree or order, or

(b) by the representative or assign of such a person, or

(c) by the agent of such a person, representative or assign, duly authorised by power-of-attorney executed and authenticated in manner hereinafter mentioned.

Section 32-A. Compulsory affixing of photograph, etc.--Every person presenting any document at the proper registration office under section 32 shall affix his passport size photograph and fingerprints to the document:*

Provided that where such document relates to the transfer of ownership of immovable property, the passport size photograph and fingerprints of each buyer and seller of such property mentioned in the document shall also be affixed to the document.]

Section 33. Power-of-attorney recognizable for purposes of section 32.--(l) For the purposes of section 32, the following powers-of-attorney shall alone be recognized, namely:--*

(a) if the principal at the time of executing the power-of-attorney resides in any part of 45 [India] in which this Act is for the time being in force, a power-of-attorney executed before and authenticated by the Registrar or Sub-Registrar within whose district or sub-district the principal resides;

(b) if the principal at the time aforesaid 46 [resides in any part of India in which this Act is not in force], a power-of-attorney executed before and authenticated by any Magistrate;

(c) if the principal at the time aforesaid does not reside in 45 [India], a power-of-attorney executed before and authenticated by a Notary Public, or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, 47 [Indian] Consul or Vice-Consul, or representative 48 [] of the Central Government: Provided that the following persons shall not be required to attend at any registration-office or Court for the purpose of executing any such power-of-attorney as is mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) of this section, namely:--

(i) persons who by reason of bodily infirmity are unable without risk or serious inconvenience so to attend;

(ii) persons who are in jail under civil or criminal process; and

(iii) persons exempt by law from personal appearance in Court. 49 [Explanation.--In this sub-section "India" means India, as defined in clause (28) of section 3 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 (10 of 1897).]

(2) In the case of every such person the Registrar or Sub-Registrar or Magistrate, as the case may be, if satisfied that the power-of-attorney has been voluntarily executed by the person purporting to be the principal, may attest the same without requiring his personal attendance at the office or Court aforesaid.

(3) To obtain evidence as to the voluntary nature of the execution, the Registrar or Sub-Registrar or Magistrate may either himself go to the house of the person purporting to be the principal, or to the jail in which he is confined, and examine him, or issue a commission for his examination.

(4) Any power-of-attorney mentioned in this section may be proved by the production of it without further proof when it purports on the face of it to have been executed before and authenticated by the person or Court hereinbefore mentioned in that behalf.

24. From plain reading of Section 32 of the Act it speaks that who are those person to be legally entitled to present the instrument for registration before the proper registration office whether such registration be compulsory or optional. As per Section 32(c) of the Act, the agent, representatives or assigns of the persons mentioned in Section 32(a), can present the instrument for registration if they are duly authorized by the Power-of-attorney executed and authenticated.

25. It is also relevant to mention here that Section 32 refers to documents presented for registration by a holder of "Power-of-attorney" as per Section 32(c) and it therefore, follows that the procedure specified under Section 33 of the Act would be attracted where a document is presented by a person holding "Power of attorney" of the person as mentioned in Section 32(a) of the Act.

26. Therefore, from the above discussion and legal position, it is carved out that as per Section 32 of the Act, the documents required to be registered before the registering authority shall be presented by the person executing it, meaning thereby that the executor of the said document has to be present personally for registration of the said document before the registering officer i.e. Sub Registrar meaning thereby that the "Person executing" the document is the person who is the actual executor of the document, whose signature exist in the document, whether it is on behalf of the Power-of-attorney or personally presenting before the registering authority along with the documents for registration.

27. The document can be presented by the Principal who executes by means of agent. The Power-of-attorney holder can execute a document as agent for someone else and present the document for registration and get it registered. Whether the Power-of-attorney is a registered or unregistered document in both the case he is the actual executant of the documents and is entitled under Section 32(a) to present it for registration and get it registered.

28. In the facts of the present case, it is not disputed that the petitioner was given full authority by Rakesh Chandra Sharma and his wife Smt. Kunti Sharma under the unregistered Power-of-attorney dated 14.03.2004 to transfer the property and to execute the document before the authorities concerned. It is admitted fact that three sale deed which were presented before the respondent no.3 for registration by the petitioner in the name and on behalf of Rakesh Chandra Sharma and Smt. Kunti Sharma, therefore, for the purpose of registration of the said three sale deed as per Section 32(a) of the Registration Act, the petitioner is certainly the "person executing" the document and is the person to present the same for registration.

29. The only purpose of registering any document is to prevent fraud or misrepresentation and in the present case there is no allegation of fraud is made by the executor of Power-of-attorney namely Rakesh Chandra Sharma and Smt. Kunti Sharma against the petitioner. Therefore, the respondent no.3 is under obligation as per Section 32 of the Registration Act was only to satisfy himself that the documents was executed by the person by whom it is signed and could not see whether it is registered or unregistered Power-of-attorney if compliance of Section 4 of the Power-of-attorney Act is made, the Sub Registrar upon being so satisfied and upon being presented with the documents to be registered had to proceed with the registration of the said document.

30. This issue was also considered by the Calcutta High Court in the case of Goswami Malti Vahuji Maharaj Vs. Purushottam Lal Poddar, AIR 1984 Cal 297 and was pleased to observe in paragraph no. 13 of the judgment as under:-

"13. It is, therefore, clear that the presumption arising out of registration of a document can be rebutted by the party challenging its validity by adducing positive evidence proving the invalidity of the power-of-attorney or some other infirmity. The facts of the present case are that none of the co-owners had executed the partition deed personally. On behalf of both the co-sharers, their respective constituted attorneys executed the document. It has been repeatedly held by the Courts in India, including our Court, that where a person holds a power-of-attorney authorising him to execute the document on behalf of his principal and he executes the document, he is treated as the executant of the document for the purpose of registration. He is entitled to admit execution and to present the document for registration under Section 32(a) of the Act as the executant without production of any power-of-attorney as required under Section 33 of the Act."

31. The same view was taken by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in the case of Ram Gopal Vs. L. Mohan Lal and Others, AIR 1960 P & H 226, and was pleased to observe in paragraph nos.11 and 12 of the judgment as under:-

"11. In my view, however, on the facts of the present case this question does not at all arise for consideration. The sale deed has actually been executed by Dalip Singh himself as mukhtar-i-am of Smt. Surat Piari and not by Smt. Surat Piari herself, with the result that this sale deed was in actual fact presented to the Sub-Registrar by the executant himself and by an agent of the executant duly authorised by a power of attorney to present the document as contemplated by S. 32 of the Registration Act.

12. This vital aspect of the matter seems to have been completely lost sight of by the Court below. Section 32 of the Registration Act requires the document sought to be registered, to be presented, inter alia by "some person executing" it; this expression, in my view, means the person actually and in fact executing the document and it does not refer to the principal who may be considered to be executing the document by means of an agent. The basic principle underlying these provisions of the Registration Act is to get before the Sub-registrar the actual executant who in fact executes the document in question."

32. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rajni Tandaon Vs. Dulal Ranjan Gosh Dastidar and Another, 2009 (14) SCC 782, was pleased to consider most of the judgment of the High Court regarding similar issue and was pleased to observe that the object of registration is designed to guard against fraud by obtaining a contemporaneus publication and an unimpeachable record of each document. The instant case is one where no allegation of fraud has been raised. In view thereof the duty cast on the registering officer under Section 32 of the Act was only to satisfy himself that the document was executed by the person by whom it purports to have been signed. The registrar upon being so satisfied and upon being presented with a document to be registered had to proceed with the registration of the same reliance is placed in paragraph nos. 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32 and 34 of the above judgment, which are quoted as under:-

"26. It is important to bear in mind that one of the categories of persons who are eligible to present documents before the registration office in terms of Section 32 of the Act is the "person executing" the document. The expression "person executing" used in Section 32 of the Act, can only refer to the person who actually signs or marks the document in token of execution, whether for himself or on behalf of some other person. Thus, "person executing" as used in Section 32 (a) of the Act signifies the person actually executing the document and includes a principal who executes by means of an agent. Where a person hold a power of attorney which authorises him to execute a document as agent for some one else, and he executes a document under the terms of the power of attorney, he is, so far as the registration office is concerned, the actual executant of the document and is entitled under Section 32(a) to present it for registration and get it registered.

27. In view of the aforesaid legal position, we are of the considered view that the law laid down by the Andhra Pradesh High Court in D. Sardar Singh v. Seth Pissumal Harbhagwandas Bankers [AIR 1958 Andhra Pradesh 107] and the decision of Calcutta High Court in Abdus Samad v. Majitan Bibi & Anr. [AIR 1961 Calcutta 540] with regard to the interpretation of Section 32 and 33 of the Act is not the correct legal position.

28. In the facts of the present case, it is quite clear that Indra Kumar Halani, was given the full authority by Nandalal Tantia under the power of attorney to transfer the suit property and to execute the necessary document. It is an accepted position that the said document had been executed by Indra Kumar Halani in the name and on the behalf of Nandalal Tantia thereof. Therefore, for the purposes of registration office under Section 32 (a) of the Act Indra Kumar Halani is clearly the "person executing" the document. Therefore, it follows that the said sale deed which was executed and authenticated by Indra Kumar Halani could be presented for registration by him. We are of the considered view that Indra Kumar Halani acted in the aforesaid manner mandated under Section 32 (a) of the Act.

29. The object of registration is designed to guard against fraud by obtaining a contemporaneous publication and an unimpeachable record of each document. The instant case is one where no allegation of fraud has been raised. In view thereof the duty cast on the Registering Officer underSection 32 of the Act was only to satisfy himself that the document was executed by the person by whom it purports to have been signed. The Registrar upon being so satisfied and upon being presented with a document to be registered had to proceed with the registration of the same.

30. The High Court held that since the power of attorney was not registered document, Indra Kumar Halani, was not authorized to execute and present the sale deed before the Sub-Registrar for registration. It was, therefore, held by the High Court that no right and title had passed to the Plaintiff on the basis of the aforesaid sale deed.

31. The High Court also held that upon a conjoint reading ofSection 32, Section 33 (1) (a) and Section 34 of the Act, it was difficult to conclude that Indra Kumar Halani became the executant by himself on the basis of the power of attorney which was neither executed nor authenticated in the manner provided under Section 33 (1) (a) of the Act so as to enable him to present the sale deed for registration in compliance with the provisions of Section 32 (a) of the Act.

32. We do not agree with the said findings of the High Court.

33. Where a deed is executed by an agent for a principal and the same agent signs, appears and presents the deed or admits execution before the Registering Officer, that is not a case of presentation underSection 32 (c) of the Act. As mentioned earlier the provisions of Section 33 will come into play only in cases where presentation is in terms of Section 32 (c) of the Act. In other words, only in cases where the person(s) signing the document cannot present the document before the registering officer and gives a power of attorney to another to present the document that the provisions of Section 33 get attracted. It is only in such a case, that the said power of attorney has to be necessarily executed and authenticated in the manner provided under Section 33 (1) (a) of the Act.

34. In the instant case, Indra Kumar Halani executed the document on behalf of Shri N. L. Tantia under the terms of this power of attorney. He then presented it for registration at the Registration Office and it was registered. The plea taken by the Respondents that in order to enable him to present the document it was necessary that he should hold a power of attorney authenticated before the Sub-Registrar under the provisions of Section 33 is thus not supported by the language of Section 32. The provisions of Section 33 therefore only apply where the person presenting a document is the general attorney of the person executing it, and not where it is presented for registration by the actual executant, even though he may have executed it as agent for some one else. In this case, the presentation is by the actual executant himself and is hence is entitled under Section 32 (a) to present it for registration and to get it registered.

33. In view of the legal position and discussion made above, it is not a case of the respondents that the executor of the sale-deed is not present and there is any allegation of fraud against the petitioner, therefore, the grounds taken in the impugned order in rejecting the registration of three sale-deeds, prima faice, as per the record appears to be illegal and without application of mind and the respondent no.3 has not considered the provisions contained under Section 4 of the Power of Attorney Act, 1882 and Sections 17, 18, 32 and 33 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908.

34. In view of the above, the impugned order dated 13.08.2013 passed by respondent no.3 is hereby quashed and the writ petition is allowed. The matter is remanded back to the respondent no.3 to pass an appropriate order for the registration of three sale-deed dated 29.07.2013 afresh in the light of the discussions made above and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rajni Tandon (supra) preferably within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order before him.

35. No order as to costs.

A. Labour Law - The U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 - Section 4-K - The U.P. Industrial Disputes Rules, 1957 - Rule 12-E – Dubbing a transfer order as one of termination Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946 - Certified Standing Orders of the Employers - Model Standing Orders framed under the Act of 1946 - Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Central Rules, 1946 - The Uttar Pradesh Industrial Employment Model Standing Orders, 1991 - Model Standing Orders, 1991 - Clause 13(6) - General Clauses Act, 1897 - Section 21 - Labour Court is a Court of referred jurisdiction and a creature of the statute - Its jurisdiction is limited to answering questions that are expressly referred to it under Section 4-K of the Act - Authority empowered under Section 4-K of the Act has utterly failed to refer what on its plain terms was an industrial dispute - termination was not referable to any other cause, act or misconduct, but the workmen' refusal to obey the order of transfer - reference in the terms made does not clothe the Labour Court with jurisdiction to look into the validity of the order of transfer. (Par 38, 41,45)

This case is one where for the disobedience of a transfer order, the workman was dismissed from service and the validity of the dismissal for no other reason but disobedience to the transfer order was the subject matter of reference - here there was no order of termination from service, dated 10.02.1996, but a simple order of transfer that might have led to adverse consequences for the workman. (Para - 42,44)

HELD:- Reference made is without any basis, and on the date it was made or with reference to the Employers' order that it was made, there was no termination of services for the workman. The industrial dispute in the terms it was referred was completely non-existent. The Labour Court being a Court of referred jurisdiction, could not have gone beyond or behind the terms of reference in which the industrial dispute sent to it was cast.(Para – 45)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an award of the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., NOIDA, Gautam Budh Nagar, dated 02.08.2017 (published on 04.10.2017) passed in Adjudication Case no.35 of 2008. The aforesaid Adjudication Case commenced on the determination of Conciliation proceedings by the Additional Labour Commissioner, Ghaziabad vide order dated 08.07.1996 made in C.P. Case no.155 of 1996. Based on the said order made by the Additional Labour Commissioner, an industrial dispute, under Section 4-K of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (for short, the Act) in the following terms was referred vide order dated 08.07.1996 to the adjudication of the Labour Court, Ist, Ghaziabad:

Whether act of the Employers in terminating the services of their workman, Shailesh Rai son of Sri O.P. Sangram, Operator w.e.f. 10.02.1996 is lawful and/ or valid? If not, to what benefit/ compensation/ relief is the concerned workman entitled; with what other particulars and with effect from what date?

2. Upon receipt of reference by the Labour Court, the case was registered as Adjudication Case no.258 of 1997 on the file of the Labour Court, Ghaziabad. The case aforesaid was registered between the third respondent, Shailesh Rai, represented by the Secretary of the Workers' Union (hereinafter referred to as the workman) and the petitioner here, that is to say, M/s. Super Cassettes Industries Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as the Employers). Notice was issued to both parties, whereupon the workman filed his written statement, dated 01.09.1997. The Employers filed their written statement, a copy of which is on record as Annexure-8 to the writ petition.

3. The course of proceedings show that rejoinder statement, dated 26.10.1998 was filed on behalf of the workman, and likewise, a rejoinder statement was filed on behalf of the Employers, dated 16.12.2002. The workman filed documents in support of his claim, numbering nineteen through a list of documents, dated 02.12.1998. The Employers for their part also filed documents through a list dated 06.05.2003, bearing paper no. 10-B(i), carrying eight documents with the list aforesaid, including a mention that the Employers seek leave of the Court to file additional documents at any stage of the proceedings. An undertaking was also made part of the list of documents that the original/ carbon copies of the documents would be produced at the stage of evidence, or as and when required/ directed by the Court.

4. The workman in support of his case examined himself as a witness, WW-1 on 25.08.2006 and was cross-examined by the Employers' representative. The workman was further cross-examined after an adjournment by the Employers' representative. It appears that after the workman's cross-examination was over, the Employers served a notice of closure of their Unit, where the workman was employed, that is to say, the Employers' Unit at C-26-27, Sector III, NOIDA, District Gautam Budh Nagar, U.P. upon the State Government through the Secretary in the Department of Labour Welfare, the District Magistrate, Gautam Budh Nagar, U.P., the Labour Commissioner, U.P., Kanpur, the Deputy Labour Commissioner, NOIDA, U.P., the Director of Factories, U.P., Kanpur, besides a host of other Authorities. They also pasted the closure notice on their Notice-Board. About this time, another development that took place was that the proceedings of Adjudication Case no.258 of 1997, that were in progress before the Labour Court-I, U.P., Ghaziabad were transferred to the Labour Court, NOIDA, Gautam Budh Nagar. Before the Labour Court, U.P., NOIDA, Gautam Budh Nagar, Adjudication Case no.258 of 1997 was renumbered as Adjudication Case no.35 of 2008. A notice in this regard was issued to the parties by the Labour Court, dated 22.10.2008 directing the parties to appear before the Labour Court at NOIDA, Gautam Budh Nagar for further proceedings on 17.11.2008.

5. The Employers in the resumed proceedings before the Labour Court, NOIDA, Gautam Budh Nagar, examined one Puneet Jain, Deputy General Manager (P&A) of the Employers' Unit at Gautam Budh Nagar in support of their case, who was examined as EW-1 on 02.12.2008. He was cross-examined on 02.12.2008 by the workman's authorized representative. The cross-examination was deferred and concluded on an adjourned date. In view of the closure of the Factory/ Unit where the workman was employed, the Employers moved an application seeking amendment to their written statement by adding paragraph 20 thereto, in the following terms:

"20. That the factory had been closed down finally w.e.f. 26.12.2007 and there is neither any activities of production and no dues payable to ex-employee."

6. The aforesaid amendment was sought under Rule 12-E of the U.P. Industrial Disputes Rules, 1957. Also, along with the affidavit accompanying the application was annexed as Annexure-A, a copy of the notice of closure, dated 26.12.2007, that the Employers sought to bring on record as a document in support of the amended plea.

7. The Labour Court by means of its impugned judgment and award answered the reference in favour of the workman holding that termination of his services by the Employers w.e.f. 10.02.1996 was unlawful. It was further awarded that the workman is entitled to reinstatement, together with back-wages with effect from the date of his unlawful termination and other consequential benefits.

8. Aggrieved, the Employers have instituted the present writ petition.

9. A perusal of the workman's case set out in the written statement shows that he claims that the Employers are an electronics industry who own a number of factories/ units at NOIDA, Greater NOIDA. The Employers for the purpose of activities of production and sale employ workmen of various categories in large numbers. The workman has pleaded that he was employed by an oral order w.e.f. 01.08.1990 on the post of AC Operator on a permanent basis. During the period of his service, his work and conduct were appreciated by the Employers. The workman, however, protested against illegal reduction in the available facilities, like free tea, provision of some food and free transport etc., and, in furtherance of his protest, participated in a lawful strike. The Employers on that account are claimed to have harboured malice and ill-will against the workman. It is the workman's further case that the Employers mala fide demanded the workman's resignation from his permanent service; and, on protest by the workman, they suspended him on baseless, false and trumped up charges, all of which were contrary to the record and evidence. In the disciplinary proceedings that ensued, the charges could not be established. Thereupon, the Employers again demanded the workman's resignation. The workman declined to resign. Since the charges were not established at the inquiry, the Employers revoked the workman's suspension, but did not permit him to join or assign him duties. When the workman protested, the Employers transferred him unlawfully to a very distant Unit of theirs, located at Golden Chariot Studio, Plot No.B-14, New Link Road, Behind Oshiwada, Andheri (West), Bombay-400058; and, through this unlawful transfer, they terminated the workman's services with effect from 10.02.1996.

10. It is also pleaded that the workmen who are juniors have been retained in regular service and fresh recruitment to the workman's post has been made illegally. It was also pleaded that the Employers have work available with them, that the workman was earlier discharging. It is also asserted that the Employers before terminating the workman's services did not serve him any notice or tender him notice pay, or retrenchment allowance. There is a specific plea that despite effort to secure suitable employment, the workman has been unsuccessful at it.

11. The Employers in their written statement pleaded that they are an industrial establishment registered under the Factories Act, and are engaged in manufacture as well as sale of electronic products. It is acknowledged that the workman was appointed as an Operator AC Plant w.e.f. 01.08.1990. The Employers in paragraphs 3 to 11 have raised preliminary objections, variously said, but the substance of it all is that there was no industrial dispute in existence on 10.02.1996, that could be referred to the Labour Court. It is asserted that there was no cause of action on 10.02.1996 which the order of reference regards as an industrial dispute, inasmuch as, on the said date the relationship of master and servant between the Employers and workman was subsisting. The reference order made was, therefore, infructuous and void. The basis of this preliminary objection, on facts is set out in paragraph 9 of the written statement, that reads to the following effect:

"(9) That the Opposite Party never terminated the services of the applicant. In fact the Opposite Party in order to reorganise/ restructive the working of the other Units/ branches the services of the experienced persons were required. Thus applicant being are of the experienced persons was accordingly deputed to another unit/ branch of the Opposite Party namely M/s. Super Cassettes Industries, Golden Chariot, Plot No. B-14, New Link Road, Behind Oshiwada, Andheri West Bombay (Mumbai) as per the requirements of business and administrative exigencies, vide letter dated 10.02.1996. The applicant was required to report at the assigned place of working on 19.02.1996 after availing the joining time. The letter dated 10.02.1996 was duly received by the applicant on 16.02.1996 without any objection or demur. Thus the question of termination of services on 10.02.1996 did not arise at all. The reference as such is bad in law, hence not maintainable."

12. It is on the merits pleaded by the Employers that due to administrative exigencies and requirement of work/ business, the workman was deputed to another Unit/ Factory of the Employers vide letter dated 10.02.1996. The workman vide the aforesaid letter was assigned his place of work at Bombay (Mumbai), where he was required to report on 19.02.1996, after availing joining time. It is also asserted that the workman apart from his monthly salary was also offered outstation allowance at the rate of Rs.250/- per month, besides travelling expenses/ train fare, in order to enable him to report for duty at the assigned place at Bombay (Mumbai). Also, the Employers' case is that the workman received the letter dated 10.02.1996 without any objection or demur, on 16.02.1996. It is pleaded that the relationship of master and servant was, thus, existing between the Employers and the workman on 10.02.1996, and even thereafter. It is also the Employers' case that they never terminated the workman's services on the alleged date or thereafter. It is asserted that to the contrary, in disregard of the bona fide and lawful orders of the Employers, the workman failed to report for duty at the station of transfer/ assigned place of work. It is pleaded also, that the workman has raised this industrial dispute against the Employers alleging termination of his services with effect from 10.02.1996, under some foul advice, as on that date he was in employment. It is also claimed on behalf of the Employers that they have reasons to believe that the workman is gainfully employed elsewhere and is pursuing this industrial dispute under some foul advice, by resort to abuse of process of law.

13. The workman in his rejoinder statement has claimed this transfer to be a contrivance and a device to terminate his services. He claims the transfer to be an instance of unfair labour practice which the Employers took resort to, in order to get rid of him in an insidious manner. The Employers, according to the workman, harboured malice and ill-will against him for his activities in the trade Union. On this account by a stratagem of transferring him to a station as far off as Mumbai, for a low paid workman like him domiciled in Gautam Budh Nagar, they have effectively terminated his services. The transfer, vide order dated 10.02.1996, has been impeached by the workman as unlawful. It appears also that the workman urged before the Labour Court that in the Certified Standing Orders of the Employers, that are said to be certified under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946 (for short, the Act of 1946), there is provision for transfer of a workman, but under the Model Standing Orders framed under the Act of 1946, there is no provision for the transfer of a workman from one State to another without his consent. It was also urged before the Labour Court on behalf of the workman that if any provision about 'transfer' has been incorporated in the Certified Standing Orders of the Employers, it would be illegal and not binding on the workman. He relied on authority also in support of the said proposition.

14. On the other hand, the Employers appear to have urged before the Labour Court that there is no provision in the Model Standing Orders, appended to the Schedule to the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Central Rules, 1946 (for short, the Rules of 1946) on the subject of transfer, and, therefore, not lawful for the Employers to provide about it in their Certified Standing Orders. It was also urged that the subject of transfer would, therefore, be governed by terms of the order of appointment or by some other contract inter se the parties. Some authorities also appear to have been cited on behalf of the Employers, that transfer is a general incident of service, that can always be invoked. It must be remarked here that the workman was somewhat confounded about the provision regarding transfer, in the Certified Standing Orders of the Employers, evident from his stand before the Labour Court. Likewise, the Employers too were confounded about their stand regarding the provision about transfer in the Certified Standing Orders applicable to them, as also that provided under the Model Standing Orders, on the subject. But, this confusion was not reflected in the parties' stand before this Court. It was all confined to proceedings before the Labour Court.

15. Heard Shri Diptiman Singh, learned Counsel for the Employers and Shri Shekhar Srivastava, learned Counsel for the workman.

16. A perusal of the impugned award shows that the Labour Court has looked into the evidence to conclude in substance that the Employer, in the first instance, suspended the workman vide order dated 27.04.1995 on charges, and, initiated disciplinary proceedings against him. However, in the disciplinary proceedings, those charges could not be established. The Employer, thereafter reinstated the workman in service vide order dated 10.02.1996, considering that the charges could not be established, and also adopting a benevolent approach in consideration of the workman's good service record. The Labour Court has, however, held that by an order of the same day i.e 10.02.1996 when the workman was reinstated, the Employers transferred him to a unit located far away from Noida at Mumbai; that the Labour Court upon evaluation of the two orders dated 10.02.1996, one revoking the workman's suspension, and the other transferring him to a far off unit, located at Mumbai, concluded that the Employers have been persecuting the workman, now and then. They suspended him on charges and initiated disciplinary proceedings. But, when they could not establish the charges in disciplinary proceedings, they revoked the workman's suspension ordered pending inquiry, and contemporaneously with the revocation of suspension, transferred the workman to a distant Unit at Mumbai. The Labour Court has held this act of the Employers to be unfair labour practice within the meaning of Section 2(ra) read with item 7 of the Fifth Schedule of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

17. It is recorded by the Labour Court that the Employers have also said that by not complying the transfer order, the workman has abandoned his post. About this stand, the Labour Court has held that it is not at all tenable. It has also been remarked by the Labour Court that the Employers have not brought to its notice any rule or provision in the Act, to show that the transfer is a part of the workman's service conditions. It has also been held that contrary to the Employers' stand, the Model Standing Orders, 1991 vide Clause 13(6) clearly provide that without the workman's consent, he cannot be transferred from one State to another. It has been concluded, therefore, that the workman's transfer is an instance of unfair labour practice, contrary to law and the rules, where the workman has been illegally transferred by the Employers to a far off unit located at Mumbai. It has also been held that the act of the Employers in not passing a speaking order on the workman's representation against the transfer, the Employer's refusal to take the workman back in employment, the Employer's failure to give the workman a warning to present himself for duties, or to seek his explanation followed by the disciplinary proceedings on charges of unauthorized absence, and, taking the workman's stand about his transfer to be an abandonment of service, amounts to retrenchment with effect from 10.02.1996.

18. It has, particularly, been emphasized by the Labour Court in its findings that the Employer's act in taking the workman to have abandoned service without calling for an explanation, or serving him a chargesheet, or subjecting him to disciplinary proceedings, constitutes illegal retrenchment. It has also been noted by the Labour Court that during the conciliation proceedings, or the hearing before the Labour Court, no proposal has been put forward by the Employers to take back the workman in service. Relying upon an authority of this Court in Jeevan Prasad vs. Labour Court, Kanpur 1999(76) FLR 110 and the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in D.K. Yadav vs. J.M.A. Industries Limited 1993 (67) FLR 111 (SC), it has been held that absence from duty cannot lead to an inference of abandonment. The Labour Court has further held that to infer abandonment would be contrary to the principles of natural justice, and would fall squarely within the definition of retrenchment. The Labour Court has also held that the workman was not engaged in any gainful employment and his casual exertions to earn his livelihood, cannot be equated with gainful employment.

19. The submission of learned counsel for the Employers that after the closure of the unit, where the workman was employed, he cannot be given any relief, has been rejected by the Labour Court, holding that the closure notice on its own terms shows that 23 workman employed in the unit have been adjusted in another unit. There is no justification for the Employers not to do so in the workman's case. The Labour Court has concluded that the services of the workman have been illegally terminated that falls within the definition of retrenchment, and that it has been done in violation of Section 6N of the Act. It has further been held that the workman was not gainfully employed elsewhere, and, that notwithstanding the closure, he is entitled to relief. In accord with these findings, the Labour Court answered the reference in favour of the workman, and, made an award in terms already detailed.

20. The principal issue on which the parties have addressed this Court is: whether in the garb of a transfer order, the services of a workman can be terminated in violation of the Certified Standing Orders?

21. It is submitted by Sri Diptiman Singh, learned Counsel for the Employers that the workman was appointed as an Operator (A.C. Plant), vide appointment letter dated 01.08.1990, drawn up in accordance with the Certified Standing Orders of the Employers. Clause 5 of the appointment letter clearly provides for transfer to any unit of the Employers, wherever it may be located. It is contented on behalf of the Employers that the workman duly received the letter of appointment and did not protest or object to the transfer clause that is an integral part of the workman's conditions of service, spelt out by the letter of appointment.

22. It is submitted further that it is not that the Certified Standing Orders have introduced a service condition about transfer unauthorisedly. Transfer is one of the conditions of service postulated under clause (4) of the 'MODEL STANDING ORDERS ON ADDITIONAL ITEMS APPLICABLE TO ALL INDUSTRIES', detailed in Schedule 1-B to the Rules of 1946. It is pointed out by the learned Counsel for the Employers that the only restriction under clause (4) of the Model Standing Orders, carried in Schedule 1-B, last mentioned is that such transfer, in case of an inter-State transfer, can either take place with the consent of the workman, or in case there is a specific provision to that effect in the workman's appointment letter.

The transfer when made in either of two contingencies is also subject to reasonable notice to the workman and allowance of reasonable time to join at the other station. The workman is also entitled to receive travelling allowance, including transport charges etc.

23. It is pointed out by Sri Diptiman Singh, learned counsel for the Employers that the transfer order was duly received by the workman on 16.02.1996. The transfer order dated 10.02.1996 is in keeping with the provisions of Clause (4) of the Model Standing Orders set out in Schedule 1-B to the Rules of the 1946, inasmuch as the letter of appointment of the workman specifically provides for a transfer to any unit of the Employers, at whatever place located. Also, the Certified Standing Orders of the Employers provide for an inter-State transfer in keeping with the Model Standing Orders, last mentioned. It is submitted, therefore, that the workman cannot really say that he has an industrial dispute to raise about his transfer.

24. It is also urged on behalf of the Employers that no dispute regarding the validity of transfer was referred to the Labour Court. Instead, the workman moved an application under Section 2-A of the Act before the Conciliation Officer, dubbing his transfer as retrenchment. In this connection, learned Counsel for the Employers has drawn the attention of the Court to the workman's application, dated 29.03.1996, which is on record as Annexure-5 to the writ petition. It is pointed out that in paragraph 1-ग it is categorically urged that the workman's services have been terminated by way of retrenchment with effect from 10.02.1996, which in fact is the date of the workman's transfer.

25. It is submitted that reference has been made under Section 4-K of the Act vide order dated 08.07.1996, relating to termination of the workman's services by the Employers on 10.02.1996. The reference order does not at all speak about the validity of transfer to be the subject matter. In this connection, learned Counsel for the Employers has drawn the attention of the Court to the workman's written statement, particularly, the averments in paragraphs 4 and 5, about which it is said that the case pleaded by the workman is one of illegal transfer.

26. It is also submitted by the learned Counsel for the Employers that they raised a preliminary objection in their written statement regarding the maintainability of the reference on ground that the workman's services were never terminated. They averred that the master and servant relationship continued between the Employers and the workman on 10.02.1996 and even thereafter, inasmuch as, on 10.02.1996 the workman was transferred, but not retrenched, or his services terminated. In this connection, it must be remarked that the relevant paragraph being no.9 of the written statement filed by the Employers has been extracted hereinabove, on the basis of which in the togetherness with pleadings in paragraphs nos.3, 4, 5, 6, 7 & 8 of the written statement aforesaid, the Employers have come up with this plea that the reference is infructuous and void; or so to speak, there was no industrial dispute in existence when the reference was made.

27. In support of the aforesaid contention, Sri Diptiman Singh, learned Counsel for the Employers has relied upon an unreported decision of this Court in Writ - C No.689 of 2012, M/S Triveni Engineering and Industrial Ltd. vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 30.01.2013. He has relied upon the principle in that case and referred to the following paragraph in the judgment:

"From the aforesaid admission of the workman concerned, it is undisputed position that even after alleged oral termination on 29th February, 2008, the employee concerned was called for duty as seasonal clerk in the employment of the petitioner industry and he had actually worked in the crushing season 2008-09 i.e. season following the order dated 29th February, 2008. It is therefore apparent that the services of the workman were not actually terminated on 29th February, 2008. He had been invited to work and he had worked in the crushing season 2008-09. Therefore there being no actual termination of the services of the workman on 29th February, 2008, the reference itself was bad."

28. He submits on the principle of the decision in M/s Triveni Engineering and Industrial Ltd. (supra) that in the present case there was no termination of service ordered by the Employers with effect from 10.02.1996. On the said date, a transfer order alone was passed that was received by the workman on 16.02.1996 requiring him to proceed to Mumbai and join at the station of transfer. Thus, the reference to the effect that termination of service of the workman with effect from 10.02.1996 was unlawful, is bad in law.

29. Learned counsel for the Employers has further placed reliance upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Addisons Paints & Chemicals Ltd. vs. Workmen represented by the Secretary (A.P. & C.) Assistants' Association and another, (2001) 2 SCC 289, in support of an obligation on the workman to have joined the station of transfer, and then raised an industrial dispute about it. He submits that the workman could not have declined to join. Learned counsel for the Employers has placed reliance upon paragraph 6 of the report in Addisons Paints & Chemicals Ltd. (supra), where it is held:

"6. We have heard the parties, read the impugned judgment as well as the judgment of the Single Judge and the award of the Tribunal. In our view, there is no infirmity either in the award or in the judgment of the Single Judge or in the judgment of the Division Bench. The employee Nagarajan had refused to accept the transfer order and refused to report for duty after his transfer. We see no substance in the contention that he was entitled not to join. In our view the dispute could have been raised and agitated even after joining. There was no justification for not reporting for duty. In spite of Nagarajan not having worked he has been awarded 25% of back wages. This was within the discretion of the Court and we see no reason to interfere. At the request of the appellants in CA No. 392 of 1997, they are granted time of eight weeks from today to pay 25% of the back wages."

30. Learned counsel for the Employers has also referred to the decision in Tata Iron and Steel Company Limited vs. State of Jharkhand and others, (2014) 1 SCC 536, in support of his contention that the Labour Court never had a dispute about the validity of the transfer order referred to it, entitling it to decide that dispute. The Labour Court had a dispute referred to it about the validity of the workman's termination, with effect from 10.02.1996 and nothing more. Learned counsel for the Employers has referred to paragraph nos. 11, 16 and 18 of the report

"11. Having said so, we are of the opinion that the terms of reference are not appropriately worded inasmuch as these terms of reference do not reflect the real dispute between the parties. The reference presupposes that the respondent workmen are the employees of the appellant. The reference also proceeds on the foundation that their services have been "transferred" to M/s Lafarge. On these suppositions the limited scope of adjudication is confined to decide as to whether the appellant is under an obligation to take back these workmen in service. Obviously, it is not reflective of the real dispute between the parties. It not only depicts the version of the respondent workmen, but in fact accepts the same viz. they are the employees of the appellant and mandates the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal to only decide as to whether the appellant is required to take them back in its fold. On the contrary, as pointed out above, the case set up by the appellant is that it was not the case of transfer of the workmen to M/s Lafarge but their services were taken over by M/s Lafarge which is a different company/entity altogether. As per the appellant they were issued fresh appointment letters by the new employer and the relationship of employer-employee between the appellant and the workmen stood snapped. This version of the appellant goes to the root of the matter. Not only it is not included in the reference, the appellant's right to put it as its defence, as a demurer, is altogether shut and taken away, in the manner the references are worded.

16. The Industrial Tribunal/Labour Court constituted under the Industrial Disputes Act is a creature of that statute. It acquires jurisdiction on the basis of reference made to it. The Tribunal has to confine itself within the scope of the subject-matter of reference and cannot travel beyond the same. This is the view taken by this Court in a number of cases including in National Engg. Industries Ltd. v. State of Rajasthan [(2000) 1 SCC 371 : (2007) 2 SCC (L&S) 264] . It is for this reason that it becomes the bounden duty of the appropriate Government to make the reference appropriately which is reflective of the real/exact nature of "dispute" between the parties.

18. It follows from the above that the reference in the present form is clearly defective as it does not take care of the correct and precise nature of the dispute between the parties. On the contrary, the manner in which the reference is worded shows that it has already been decided that the respondent workmen continue to be the employees of the appellant and further that their services were simply transferred to M/s Lafarge. This shall preclude the appellant to put forth and prove its case as it would deter the Labour Court to go into those issues. It also implies that by presuming so, the appropriate Government has itself decided those contentious issues and assumed the role of an adjudicator which is, otherwise, reserved for the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal."

31. Sri Shekhar Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing for the workman has urged that the workman has been transferred mala fide in the guise of following the management's policy regarding transfer.

32. Sri Shekhar Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the workman submits that the workman's services could not be terminated in effect, in the garb of a transfer order, when there was no authority with the Employers to transfer the petitioner outside State without his consent, in the absence of a provision to that effect in the Certified Standing Orders applicable to the Employer-establishment, or the presence of a provision in the workman's appointment letter, authorizing such a transfer. He has referred to a decision of the Delhi High Court in Tobu Enterprises Limited vs. Presiding Officer, Industrial Tribunal, (2009) 122 FLR 71, where it was held:

"6. I find considerable force in the submissions made on behalf of the workmen. In the present case it is seen that (a) there was no unit outside Delhi when the workmen were appointed, (b) there was no stipulation in the appointment letters that the workmen could be transferred outside Delhi, and (c) the management closed down its unit in Delhi in violation of the relevant provisions of the ID Act. It is, therefore, seen that although the certified Standing Orders of the management provided that the workmen could be transferred from one job to another or from one department/section to another or from one unit to another, as observed by the Single Judge in Civil Writ No. 3861 of 2000, the appointment letter did not give any indication that the workmen could be transferred outside Delhi, and that, therefore, in terms of the decision of the Supreme Court in*Kundan Sugar Millsv.Ziyauddin*(supra), which clearly holds that there was no inherent right in an employer to transfer his employee to another place where he chooses to start a business subsequent to the date of employment in the absence of an express term in this behalf in the contract of service, the workmen employed with the management in the instant case could not be transferred to some other independent concern started by the same management at Bhiwadi (Alwar) at a stage subsequent to the date of the employment. Also, insofar as, the contention of the management in respect of the workmen not being entitled to any relief on account of having refused to carry out the transfer orders is concerned, it is seen that under the provision of Rule 14(3)(a) of the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Central Rules, 1946, a wilful disobedience amounts to misconduct only if workman disobeys a lawful and reasonable order of his superior, which order in the present case has been held by the Industrial Adjudicator to be neither legal nor justified."

33. Reliance has also been placed by the learned counsel for the workman upon a decision of this Court in Hamdard (Waqf) Laboratories vs. State of U.P. and others 2014(1) AWC 367 and also on a decision of their Lordship of the Supreme Court in Kundan Sugar Mills vs. Ziyauddin AIR 1960 SC 650. Learned counsel for the workman has referred to paragraph no. 7 of the report in Kundan Sugar Mills (supra), where their Lordships have held:

"7. We have referred to the decisions only to distinguish them from the present case, and not to express our opinion as to the correctness of the decisions therein. It would be enough to point out that in all the said decisions the workers had been employed in a business or a concern and the question that arose was whether in the circumstances of each case the transfer from one branch to another was valid or amounted to victimization. None of these decisions deals with a case similar to that presented in this appeal, namely, whether a person employed in a factory can be transferred to some other independent concern started by the same employer at a stage subsequent to the date of his employment. None of these cases holds, as it is suggested by the learned counsel for the appellant, that every employer has the inherent right to transfer his employee to another place where he chooses to start a business subsequent to the date of the employment. We, therefore, hold that it was not a condition of service of employment of the respondents either express or implied that the employer has the right to transfer them to a new concern stared by him subsequent to the date of their employment."

34. Expositing the same principle that the authority relied upon by Sri Shekhar Srivastava lays down, this Court has noticed a decision of the Gauhati High Court in Woman of Bijlibari Tea Estate vs. Management of Bijlibari Tea Estate, (2010) 4 Gauhati Law Reports 849, where considering the question of validity of dismissal from service of the workman on his refusal to accept an unlawful transfer, it was held by B.P. Katakey, J:

"14. In the instant case, it is evident from the domestic enquiry proceeding (Exhibit-1) conducted against the concerned workman, relating to the charge levelled against him that the workman had participated in such proceeding and the reasonable opportunity of being heard was given. There is no allegation of victimisation or unfair labour practice as well as the allegation against the management that it had not acted in good faith. It appears that the case of the Union is that the domestic enquiry is not fair and valid as no finding has been recorded into the charge of misconduct levelled against the workman and no reason has also been recorded, inasmuch as, the Enquiry Officer did not go into the aspect as to whether by the order of transfer the conditions of employment has been violated. According to the Union, disobedience of a transfer order which is lawful and reasonable, only amounts to the misconduct under clause 10 of the standing order in force and in the instant case, as the workman was engaged in Bijlibari Tea Estate, he cannot be transferred out of the said Tea Estate and to a new venture/Tea Estate, which was not in existence at the time of his appointment. The further case, as it appears from the evidences adduced before the labour court, is that in any case, he cannot be transferred out of Dibrugarh district and the transfer order amounts to depriving him from the enjoyment of other benefits attached to his service like housing facilities, etc.

15. The Enquiry Officer though in his report had rejected the contention of the workman that he cannot be transferred out of Dibrugarh district and also relating to deprivation from enjoyment of certain benefits, had not, however, recorded any finding relating to the plea of the workman that since he was appointed in respect of Bijlibari Tea Estate only, he cannot be transferred to any other Tea Estate subsequently established by the management, while recording the finding that the lawful order of transfer has been disobeyed by the concerned workman, which amounts to misconduct, without, however, considering as to whether the order of transfer is lawful as the concerned workman was appointed only in respect of Bijlibari Tea Estate. That aspect of the matter has also not been gone into by the labour court.

16. Clause 10 of the standing order in force provides the acts or omissions of the workman constituting gross misconduct. Clause 10(a)(1) of the standing order provides that the wilful insubordination or disobedience of only a lawful or a reasonable order of a superior constitutes gross misconduct. In the case in hand, the charge against the concerned workman was that he did not obey the order of transfer, which was the basis for taking disciplinary action against the concerned workman. The management, therefore, has to prove that the order of transfer is lawful and reasonable so as to constitute misconduct within the meaning of clause 10 of the standing order. The concerned workman, as noticed above, has all along pleaded that he being appointed in Bijlibari Tea Estate, he cannot be transferred out of the said Tea Estate. If such plea is accepted then he cannot be transferred out of Bijlibari Tea Estate and in that case the order of transfer would not be lawful and consequently, the concerned workman cannot be punished for not carry out such an order, the same having not constituted misconduct within the meaning of clause 10 of the standing order in force.

17. As discussed above, the Enquiry Officer did not record any finding on the vital aspect of the matter as to whether the workman could be transferred out of Bijlibari Tea Estate, his appointment being in respect of Bijlibari Tea Estate only. It has not been disputed by the learned senior counsel for the management that the concerned workman was appointed in respect of Bijlibari Tea Estate and there was no other venture of the management at the point of time when the concerned workman was appointed. It is also not in dispute that by the order dated 8.8.1994, he was sought to be transferred to a new venture, which according to the management, is the out garden. The domestic enquiry held against the concerned workman, therefore, cannot be held to be fair and valid so as not to go into the merit of the case by the labour court, as has been done in the instant case, as the Enquiry Officer did not go into the vital aspect of the matter, as noticed above, which amounts to violation of the principles of natural justice.

22. It appears from the order of transfer dated 8.8.1994 that the pay and other benefits of the concerned workman had not been disturbed. The management by, proving the communication dated 7.9.1994 (Exhibit-6) has proved that all his service benefits including the salary and other incentives would be paid and he would be provided with rental housing facility or house rent commensurate to his status. That being the position, the concerned workman's salary, other incentives and the housing facilities etc. were not disturbed and he would continue to enjoy the same, which he was enjoying in Bijlibari Tea Estate. The plea of the concerned workman that he cannot be transferred out of Dibrugarh district was also rightly found to be not acceptable by the Enquiry Officer in his report. However, it is an admitted position of fact that the concerned workman was appointed initially as trainee and thereafter, as Hazira Maharar for Bijlibari Tea Estate only. It is also not in dispute that by the order of transfer dated 8.8.1994, the workman was sought to be transferred to a proposed new venture at Margherita, which naturally was not in existence while the concerned workman was appointed. Unless there is a specific condition in the order of appointment that he can be transferred out of the Tea Estate, where he was appointed and even to a new venture, the management in exercise of its right of transfer of its workman cannot transfer such workman to a new venture, as such right of the management cannot be implied as conditions of service. If a workman is appointed in respect of one Tea Estate, he cannot be transferred to another Tea Estate, as it would be the violation of his conditions of employment he being appointed in respect of a particular Tea

Estate only. In the case in hand, as noticed above, there is no dispute that the concerned workman was appointed in respect of Bijlibari Tea Estate only and hence, he cannot be transferred out of Bijlibari Tea Estate, even though the new venture is under the same management, but he can definitely be transferred to another section or to any other transferable post within the tea estate. The management though has taken the plea that the said new venture is nothing but an extension of Bijlibari Tea Estate, did not produce any evidence before the labour court in that regard. The order of transfer reveals that the concerned workman was transferred to a new venture proposed to be started.

23. The Apex Court in Kundan Sugar Mills, (supra) while considering almost the similar facts involved in the case in hand, has held that the employer has no inherent right to transfer his employee to another place where he chooses to start a business subsequent to the date of the employment, when there was no condition of service of employment of the employee either express or implied that the employer has the right to transfer to such new venture started or proposed to be started subsequent to the date of his employment. The Apex Court in that case has uphold the judgment of the labour Appellate Tribunal holding that the management had no right to transfer the workman to a new factory and hence, the order dismissing him from service was illegal, based on the fact that such workman employed in a factory owned by the management was sought to be transferred to a new venture. The Single Bench decision of this court in Kakodanga Tea Estate (P.) Ltd., (supra), on which the learned senior counsel for the management places reliance, cannot be applied in the case in hand, in view of the aforesaid discussion and as in that case, the concerned workman was transferred from a post in the tea garden to the Head Quarter of the Tea Company."

35. This Court has keenly considered the matter urged on behalf of both sides.

36. There is much debate on both sides about the issue whether the workman could be transferred, given the provisions of the Model Standing Orders framed by the Government, called, 'The Uttar Pradesh Industrial Employment Model Standing Orders, 1991'. The aforesaid Standing Orders shall hereinafter be called the 'Model Standing Orders, 1991'.

37. The attention of the Court has been drawn to the Model Standing Orders, 1991, framed by the State Government in exercise of their powers under Clause (b) of sub-Section (2) of Section 15 of the Act of 1946 read with Section 21 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. It has been impressed upon the the Court under that Clause 13(6) of the Model Standing Orders, 1991, there is an absolute prohibition on transfer of a workman outside the State without his prior consent, if the Employers have some of their units outside the State. It has also been argued that the Model Standing Orders appended to Schedule I-B of the Rules of 1946 must give way to the Model Standing Orders, 1991 considering the definition of 'appropriate Government', under Section 2(b) of the Act of 1946, which in the case of the Employers would be the State Government. It has also been brought to the notice of this Court that there are Certified Standing Orders approved for the Employers by the Certifying Officer for Standing Orders and the Additional Labour Commissioner, Ghaziabad Region, Ghaziabad, certified on 16th August, 1993, where after an amendment directed in Clause 41 of the Certified Standing Orders governing the Employers' establishment, their workmen can be transferred to any place or any unit of theirs, but within NOIDA or Greater NOIDA.

38. It may be true or otherwise that under the Certified Standing Orders, the Employers have power to transfer the workman away to the unit at Mumbai. The Model Standing Orders, 1991, if they apply in preference to the Certified Standing Orders, may or may not permit a transfer for the workman outside the State without his consent. This Court, however, would refrain from expressing any opinion about the issue. The reason is that the Labour Court is a Court of referred jurisdiction and a creature of the statute. Its jurisdiction is limited to answering questions that are expressly referred to it under Section 2-K of the Act. It may, however, go into incidental questions while answering the reference.

39. The very persuasive submission of Sri Shekhar Srivastava urging this Court to take the view that the order of transfer, dated 10.06.1996 is in fact an order of termination, that is camouflaged as a transfer order, cannot be regarded as an incidental issue to the reference made. The reference is express in its terms and speaks about an order of termination dated 10.02.1996. It does not speak about the validity of the transfer order, dated 10.02.1996. In fact, there is no order of termination from service passed on 10.02.1996. Even if the order of transfer were a camouflage to terminate the workman's services, and that too unlawful, consistent judicial opinion confines the Labour Court in its jurisdiction to answer whatever is referred to it by the appropriate Government. Unlike a Court of general jurisdiction or a Court of superior jurisdiction, it does not have authority to determine its own jurisdiction. Its jurisdiction flows from the terms of the order of reference, and in no way can the Labour Court travel beyond its terms. Incidental questions are quite different and these could be like the date from which wages are to be granted in the case of termination, that is declared unlawful, but would not include the rate of wages in a case where the reference is against the validity of an order of termination. Rate of wages can be decided if that is the subject matter of reference to the Labour Court; not otherwise. This would well illustrate the difference between incidental questions and those that are substantial, but not referred to adjudication. This principle is most eloquently expressed in the decision of their Lordships in Tata Iron and Steel Company Limited (supra) and also by this Court in M/s Triveni Engineering and Industrial Ltd. (supra).

40. The decision of the Delhi High Court in Tobu Enterprises Limited (supra) relates to a cause of action where the workmen were transferred outside Delhi by the Employers when they shifted their units to Bhiwadi due to dwindling business prospects in Delhi. The workmen flouted the orders of transfer and were held by the Employers to have abandoned employment in terms of a certain Clause-C, under Head Note-I of the Standing Orders. The workmen' services were, therefore, terminated in terms of Clause-C under Head Note-I of those Standing Orders. In those circumstances, the following reference was made to the Industrial Adjudicator, under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 [quoted verbatim from the report of the judgment in Tobu Enterprises Limited (supra)]:

"Whether the transfer of Sarvshri Ranjit Kumar, Ram Asrey, Raj Kumar, Ramesh Kumar, Vinod Kumar, and Gupteshwar from Delhi to Bhiwadi by the management is illegal, and/ or unjustified, and if so, to what relief they are entitled and what directions are necessary in this respect."

41. It was in the context of the aforesaid reference, that the Delhi High Court held the award of the Industrial Adjudicator ordering reinstatement to be valid, when challenged by the Employers. Here, it would seen that what was referred for adjudication to the Industrial Adjudicator was the validity of the transfer order, of which termination was but a consequence. The termination was not referable to any other cause, act or misconduct, but the workmen' refusal to obey the order of transfer. The fact, therefore, that it was the transfer that was subject matter of reference to the Industrial Adjudicator, its validity was adjudged by the Court to be rightly held bad. In the present case, as already said, the reference is one thoughtlessly made, to say least. If anything had to be referred to the Labour Court for adjudication of its validity, it was the validity of the transfer order, the incidents of which, including abandonment of service, termination could then well have been gone into by the Labour Court. The decision in Hamdard (Waqf) Laboratories (supra) has little bearing on the facts of the case here. However, so far as the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Kundan Sugar Mills (supra) relied upon by the workmen to support the impugned award is concerned, it does show that for the violation of a transfer order from the sugar mill of the Employer at Kichha to a new sugar mill of the Employer at Bulandshahr, they were held guilty of misconduct and dismissed from service vide order dated 2nd February, 1955. It was in those circumstances, that a reference was made to the State Industrial Tribunal for U.P. at Allahabad in the following terms [quoted verbatim from the report of the judgment in Kundan Sugar Mill (supra)]:

"Whether the employers have wrongfully and/ or unjustifiably terminated the services of Sarva Shri Zia Uddin, Raisuddin, Shafiquddin and Ahmed Bux for refusal to obey the orders of transfer to M/s. Pannijee Sugar and General Mills Co. Bulandshahr. If so, to what relief are the workmen entitled."

42. This case is one where for the disobedience of a transfer order, the workman was dismissed from service and the validity of the dismissal for no other reason but disobedience to the transfer order was the subject matter of reference. It was in that context that their Lordships went into validity of the charge, that led to the workman's dismissal, and, that charge was whether the order of transfer was disobeyed unlawfully. The validity of the transfer order, therefore, that fell for consideration of the Supreme Court in Kundan Sugar Mill (supra) was both, a concomitant and an incident of the order of dismissal that was a subject matter of the reference. Unlike the case before their Lordships, here there was no order of termination from service, dated 10.02.1996, but a simple order of transfer that might have led to adverse consequences for the workman. Therefore, what was required to be referred by the State Government was the validity of the order of transfer dated 10.02.1996, with provision in the reference for incidental relief, that may flow from the transfer order being adjudged bad by the Labour Court, if that were so.

43. The decision of the Gauhati High Court in Workman of Bijlibari Tea Estate (supra) was also a case where the workman who was appointed to the aforesaid Tea

Estate as a Hazira Maharar was transferred by the Employers to another tea garden, located near a place known as Margherita, where they had set up a new venture. The workman disputed the order of transfer on ground that it was violative of his conditions of service, as well as the Standing Orders, applicable to the Employers. He was charge sheeted for disobeying the order of transfer and after a domestic inquiry, dismissed from service. The reference that was made by the State Government to the adjudication of the Labour Court was in the following terms [quoted verbatim from the report of the judgment in Workman of Bijlibari Tea Estate (supra)]:

"(a) Whether the management of Bijlibari T.E., Hoogrijan, PO-Hoogrijan, Dist. Dibrugarh is justified in dismissing Sri Sankar Dutta, Hazira, Mohurrer from service or not?

(b) It not, is he entitled to reinstatement with full back wages or any other relief in lieu thereof?"

44. Here also, not much is required to be pondered over, for this to be said that the validity of the dismissal order was referred to the adjudication of the Labour Court, the underlying basis of which was the validity of the transfer order. It was in those circumstances that the validity of the transfer order was gone into by the Court and held to be bad.

45. Unfortunately for the workman here, the reference in the terms made does not clothe the Labour Court with jurisdiction to look into the validity of the order of transfer, dated 10.02.1996. The industrial dispute here has been referred in most callously worded terms dubbing a transfer order as one of termination, rendering the entire exercise before the Labour Court a nullity, whatever be the merits of the parties' case. Here, the Authority empowered under Section 4-K of the Act has utterly failed to refer what on its plain terms was an industrial dispute, relating to the validity of the transfer order dated 10.02.1996. If the dispute that actually arose between the parties were referred, depending upon the finding of the Labour Court about the validity of the order of transfer, the logical incidents of it would flow, to whichever parties' gain or prejudice it might have been. About this reference, this Court has no hesitation to hold that it is without any basis, and on the date it was made or with reference to the Employers' order that it was made, there was no termination of services for the workman. The industrial dispute in the terms it was referred was completely non-existent. The Labour Court being a Court of referred jurisdiction, could not have gone beyond or behind the terms of reference in which the industrial dispute sent to it was cast.

46. A number of other submissions were advanced by learned Counsel for the parties in challenge to and defence of the impugned award. But, those are not required to be gone into, looking to the conclusion of this Court about the validity of the reference.

47. Considering the fact that the workman is after all neither educationally or financially equipped to litigate and for the present, whatever be the merits of his case has come to suffer for the fault in good part of the Authority making the reference, and also in some part, of the Employers, in not challenging the reference at the threshold, that would have set the wrong right without the loss of all these years, this Court is of opinion that the sum of

Rs.50,000/- paid to workman out of the sum of Rupees One Lakh deposited by the Employers with the Labour Court, U.P., NOIDA, District Gautam Budh Nagar, in compliance with the interim order dated 09.11.2017, shall not be recovered from the workman. However, the balance of Rs.50,000/- lying in deposit with the Labour Court ought to be refunded to the Employers forthwith.

48. In the result, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned award dated 02.08.2017 (published on 04.10.2017) passed by the Presiding Officer, Labour Court, U.P., NOIDA, Gautam Budh Nagar in Adjudication Case no.35 of 2008 and the reference dated 08.07.1996 made by the Additional Labour Commissioner, Ghaziabad are hereby quashed. The State Government or such other Authority as may be competent in this behalf shall, however, make reference afresh appropriately framed, bearing in mind what has been said in this judgment, within a period of two months of the receipt of a certified copy of this judgment. It is further directed that out of the sum of Rupees One Lakh deposited by the Employers with the Labour Court, U.P., NOIDA, District Gautam Budh Nagar, in compliance with the interim order dated 09.11.2017, the sum of Rs.50,000/- already paid to the workman, shall not be recovered from him. However, the balance sum of Rs.50,000/- lying in deposit with the Labour Court, shall be refunded to the Employers forthwith.

49. There shall be no order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J. & Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Aijaz Ahmad Khan, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Jagdish Lal Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the record.

2. By means of this petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, the petitioner has challenged the order dated 17th May, 2005, whereby the claim of the petitioner for the benefit of insurance policy with the dependent of the deceased has come to be repudiated on the ground that there has been deliberate statement withholding the correct material information regarding health of insured, as well as the order dated 16th December, 2005, whereby the review application of the petitioner has been rejected and the order passed by the authorities dated 17th May, 2005 has been upheld. The petitioner has also challenged the order dated 9th June, 2006, whereby an award of negative has been passed by the Insurance Company.

3. Assailing the order impugned it has been argued by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the deceased insured had died due to dengue fever as it has come to be reported in the medical certificate issued by the Hospital, namely, Priti Hospital, where the deceased was admitted on 20th October, 2004 and died on 25th October, 2004. The death certificate issued by the Hospital states that the death is due to cardiac respiratory arrest. However, the medical history of the insured (deceased) claims that she was suffering from Dengue fever and not for any other disease. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Sulbha Prakash Motegaonkar and others v. Life Insurance Corporation of India 2015 LawSuit (SC) 1706.

4. Per contra, the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the respondent-Insurance Company is that the insured (deceased) insured had the problem of palpitation at the time of pregnancy in the year 2003 which has come to be admitted and since insurance policy was issued on 28th June, 2004 after May, 2003 when the deceased was pregnant, this should have been disclosed in the application for the policy and having not done so the policy was obtained on wrong information of medical history and, therefore, as per the terms and conditions of policy the dependent were not entitled benefit under claim. He has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Mithoolal Nayak v. Life Insurance Corporation of India, AIR 1962 SC 814.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, their arguments advanced across the Bar and having gone through the documents brought on records, pleadings raised by the respective parties in their affidavits, we find that the controversy centres around the only issue whether the insured (deceased) had obtained the life insurance policy by concealing material facts. Under the order impugned dated 17th May, 2005 which has been confirmed in appeal, the ground taken is that three questions that were raised to be answered by insured (deceased), were answered contrary to the facts of the health issues that the deceased person had in the past i.e. prior to his application for the policy. The three questions were as follows:-

11 (ka). Whether you have suffered from any such disease in the past five years that required you to undergo treatment for more than a week and did you consult any physician?

11 (gha). Whether you have been patient of any stomach, heart, lung, kidney, liver, brain disease or any disease relating to nerve system?

11 (jha). Whether your condition is generally good?

6. While two of the above questions 11(ka) and 11(gha) were answered in negative and third one 11 (jha) was answered in affirmative.

7. These three answers, it is claimed by Insurance Company, were found to be wrong declaration in the form for policy because it had come to be proved that the petitioner was suffering from disease of pain in bones and that he had consulted different physicians for the said purpose. The deceased had admittedly died on 25th October, 2004 whereas the policy was executed by the Corporation on three different dates. One is on 28th March, 2003 bearing Policy No.- 311757148 for a sum of Rs.5,00,000/- as sum assured whereas two policy on 28th March, 2004 and 28th May, 2004 bearing No.- 311854482 and 311854472 for a sum assured of Rs.2,50,000/- each. The issue of concealment of fact has arisen on account of one fact, as per the order impugned, that while the deceased was admitted to the hospital for past history, some ailment was stated, then the issue was, according to the respondents, got further confirmed in a written statement on 24th May, 2006 submitted by the husband of the deceased. It was clearly stated that the wife was suffering from body ache, joint pain and wrist pain and at different points of time she had suffered different type of attack and she had consulted physician also.

8. The issue of non-disclosure of these facts became crucial only on account of fact that the insured (deceased) died within four months of the issuance of the policy. Thus, the respondent held that the contract of insurance cover is based on good faith and, therefore, the insured is under obligation to make correct disclosure about the health. What we further notice on facts that the petitioner has been denied the insurance benefit only in respect of his wife as the insured had declared categorically that in respect of two diseases she had not made disclosure and had simply filled the form in negative.

9. Insofar as the question No. 11(ka) and 11 (gha) are concerned, we are of the opinion that these diseases are not related to the kind of disease mentioned in the statement of the husband of the deceased while submitting claim and it is also a fact that the deceased had died only on account of the dengue fever. One may realize the pain on a day and on the other day it may vanish. The respondents have no credential evidence to establish that there was statement of fact by the claimant that the deceased had, in fact, suffered from a particular disease of the kind referred to in question 11 (ka) and 11 (gha) and yet she had failed to disclose the same. The life insurance cover are generally granted to cover life risk unless a person is suffering from such a disease, which if it would have been disclosed, the life cover would not have been granted, but there is no such discloser of disease with which it can be said that the insured was suffering and was fatal enough to deny the insurance cover.

10. In the case of Mithoolal Nayak (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents we find that in the said case there was a clear report of the physician that the insured under the proposal was anemic, looked about 55 years old (though he was only 45 years old), had a dilated heart and his right lung showed indications of an old attack of pneumonia or pleurisy. The doctor further said that the general health was very much run down and he was totally physically wreck.

11. Thus, in that case the health of deceased was such that in normal circumstances he would not have been granted a risk cover at the age of 45 years because all these diseases are referable to Clause 11(ka) and 11(gha).

12. We further find that in that case there were two reports of the same Dr. B.D. Desai. One report was submitted through the agent, which was false report whereas the other report which was in a confidential cover and which was meant for the deceased, who was suffering from ailment and it is this second report was stated to be the correct report. So, in that backdrop of facts it was held that the petitioner suffered from disease and had a report in that regard and yet he concealed that material fact. The Apex Court, accordingly, held that the policy stood vitiated vide Sections16 and 19 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

13. We do not find any such case on facts in connection with the case in hand and, therefore, the said judgment is quite distinguishable.

14. There is yet another recent judgment in the case of Life Insurance Corporation of India v. Manish Gupta, AIR 2019 SC 2606, in which the Apex Court observed that it is a solemn duty of a person seeking health insurance policy to truthfully fill up the details required by the insurer in the proposal form or on the basis of which insurer takes a decision in regard to issuance of the policy. The Apex Court held that it is duty cast upon the insured to provide material particulars on health in case there is medical examination is not mandated and since in that case the past history of rheumatic heart disease since childhood was not disclosed, the Court found it to be an ex facie breach on the part of the insured and held that by such suppression of the material facts the insured who had obtained 'Health Plus' policy was not entitled for the benefit of the policy. In the said case the 'Health Plus' policy was for certain category of diseases to be covered under the policy and there was a specific query to be answered that the proposer had ever suffered from cardiovascular disease (palpitations, heart attack, stroke and chest pain). The proposer had such disease in the past since childhood days as it came to be discovered and was reported in the resume of history by the Department of Cardiovascular and Thoracic Surgery of the Fortis Hospital. So, it is in that background that the Court held non-disclosure was an ex facie breach on the part of the insured in suppressing the information.

15. In the present case, there is no such certificate of the hospital or otherwise any physician that the insured suffered from such disease. It was merely on the basis of the statement of the beneficiary that the insured had been under treatment for quite some time for palpitations etc. that the respondent- Insurance Company has proceeded to consider it to be a deliberate suppression of the material facts regarding health of the insured. Accordingly, in our considered opinion, the decision of the Apex Court in a peculiar facts of that case would not be attracted in the present case and, therefore, on facts the judgment is distinguishable.

16. Insofar as the judgment in the case of Sulbha Prakash Motegaonkar (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner is concerned, in paragraphs 7 to 9 of the judgment it has been held as under:-

"7. It is not the case of the Insurance Company that the ailment that the deceased was suffering from was a life threatening disease which could or did cause the death of the insured. In fact, the clear case is that the deceased died due to ischaemic heart disease and also because of myocardial infarction. The concealment of lumbar spondylitis with PID with sciatica persuaded the respondent not to grant the insurance claim.

8. We are of the opinion that National Commission was in error in denying to the appellants the insurance claim and accepting the repudiation of the claim by the respondent. The death of the insured due to ischaemic heart disease and myocardial infarction had nothing to do with this lumbar spondylitis with PID with sciatica. In our considered opinion, since the alleged concealment was not of such a nature as would disentitle the deceased from getting his life insured, the repudiation of the claim was incorrect and not justified."

9. Accordingly, we set aside the order passed by the National Commission and allow the appeal. The respondent will accept the claim made by the appellants within a period of four weeks from today and make the due payment."

17. Further in the present case also we find that the respondents have gone only on this technical aspect of the matter that the fact that deceased was suffering from body pain was not disclosed, however, there is no disease which could be said to be fatal for the purposes of insurance cover nor, do we find that any such statement of fact has been discussed that the insured had died on account of any such disease. The insured in the present case in fact died on account of dengue fever only. There is no medical resume in the present case by the hospital where the insured had died, to arrive at a definite conclusion that insured suppressed material fact of her par ailment.

18. Under the circumstances, therefore, in the absence of any material and substantial evidence to the contrary being available in the records, the findings returned in the order, therefore, cannot be sustained and it cannot be presumed that the insured suppressed any material fact in so far as the question Nos. 11(ka) and 11(gha) are concerned. Since there is no evidence to the contrary and the Insurance Policy had been granted, it will be presumed that there was a correct disclosure regarding question No.11(jha) that the insured was having good health conditions at the time of filling up the proposal form for the policy.

19. The view taken by the Insurance Company, in our considered opinion, suffers from manifest error of law and facts and both the impugned orders passed by the respondent authorities, therefore, deserve to be set aside.

20. The writ petition, accordingly, succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 17th May, 2005, 16th December, 2005 and 9th June, 2006 are hereby quashed.

21. The respondent Corporation is directed to release the insurance amount in favour of the claimant if he is able to establish his claim as successor/ nominee of the policy in accordance with law, within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Y.S. Bohra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Dinesh Pathak and Ms. Sandhya Singh, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. The petitioner by means of the present writ petition has assailed the order dated 8.11.2011 passed by Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Bulandshahr in Misc. Appeal No. 26 of 2011 (Kalyan Singh Vs. Brajpal) whereby the Appellate Court has condoned the delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as 'CPC') of the respondent and further allowed the application under Order 9 Rule 13 of CPC and set aside the ex-parte judgement dated 13.9.2005.

3. Brief facts giving rise to the present writ petition are that the respondent-Kalyan Singh executed an agreement to sale in favour of Brajpal Singh-petitioner in respect of 1/4th share of Plot No. 329 total area 1.564 situated at Village Khanauda, Pargana and Tehsil Anupshahr, District Bulandshahr for a sale consideration of Rs. 1,50,000/-. The petitioner paid Rs. 1,25,000/- in advance on 1.7.2002 to Kalyan Singh . As per terms and conditions of the agreement to sale, the sale deed was to be executed within one year from the date of agreement to sale i.e. on or before 30.6.2003.

4. As the sale deed was to be executed on or before 30.6.2003, the petitioner gave a notice dated 2.6.2003 through Advocate to the respondent asking him to execute the sale deed within 15 days from the date of receiving of registered notice. By the said notice, the petitioner also requested the respondent to inform the date on which the sale deed is to be executed so that he may remain present in the registry office for the execution of sale deed. The respondent did not reply to the notice dated 2.6.2003. However, the petitioner was present in the registry office with the balance sale consideration of Rs. 25,000/- and other incidental expenses for the purpose of execution of sale deed. The respondents did not turn up for execution of sale deed. When the respondent did not execute the sale deed despite the request by petitioner several times, the petitioner gave another notice dated 25.4.2004 asking the respondent for execution of sale deed. The respondent despite service of notice dated 25.4.2004 did not execute the sale deed.

5. In the aforesaid factual backdrop, the petitioner instituted an Original Suit No. 479 of 2004 before the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Bulandshahr praying for a decree of specific performance of contract for execution of sale deed in respect of the aforesaid property.

6. In the suit, summons were issued to the respondent. The summons were sent to the respondent trough process server as well as by registered post. The summons sent by the registered post was refused by the respondent on 18.10.2004. The postal department returned the summons with endorsement " लेने से मना किया ".

7. The wife of the respondent refused to accept the summons sought to be served through process server and also refused to tell the address of her husband. The process server submitted a report on the back side of the summon which contained signature of two witnesses namely (1) Brajpal Singh s/o Arjun Singh and (2) Om Prakash Raghav s/o Kuwarpal Singh Raghav. The report of process server stated that the wife of the respondent Kalyan Singh refused to receive the summon and also refused to tell the address of Kalyan Singh, therefore, the summon was affixed on the door of the house. In view of the aforesaid fact, the Trial Court found service of summons upon the respondent sufficient, and consequently, it passed an order dated 20.4.2005 to proceed ex-parte in the suit. The order of the court below dated 20.4.2005 reads as under:-

वाद पुकारा गया। वादी मय विद्वान अधिवक्ता उपस्थित। पत्रावली का परिशीलन किया गया। कागज संख्या – 11 ए रजिस्ट्री को प्रतिवादी द्वारा लेने से इन्कार के सम्बन्ध मे प्रविष्टि की गयी है। इन्कारी से तामील पर्याप्त है। प्रतिवादी अनुपस्थित है। पत्रावली वास्ते प्रतिवाद पत्र एवं संरचना विवाधक नियत है। प्रतिवादी पर तामील पर्याप्त है। प्रतिवादी की अनुपस्थिति के कारण वाद प्रतिवादी के विरुद्ध एक पक्षीय श्रवण किया जायेगा। पत्रावली वास्ते एक पक्ष साक्ष्य दिनांक 28.04.2005 को पेश हो।

8. Thereafter, the Trial Court proceeded ex-parte and decreed the suit by judgement and order dated 13.9.2005. The petitioners, thereafter, filed Execution Case No. 30 of 2005 for execution of the decree in which the notices were sent to the judgement-debtor i.e. respondent. The respondent refused to accept the notice. Consequently, the Executing Court on 1.4.2006 passed an order to proceed ex-parte as the service of summon upon the respondent is sufficient. The order dated 1.4.2006 passed in Execution Case No. 30 of 2005, is extracted herein below:-

9. By the said order, the Executing Court also directed the decree holder i.e. the petitioner to produce draft sale deed and also deposit the expenses. The petitioner in compliance of court's order produced draft sale deed before the Executing Court. On depositing the balance sale consideration of Rs. 25,000/-, the Executing Court sent the sale deed for registration to the Sub Registrar by order dated 18.4.2006. The sale deed was registered on 1.5.2006 in the Office of Sub Registrar, Anupshahr, District Bulandshahr. The Executing Court after receiving the sale deed passed an order on 2.12.2006 for delivery of possession of the aforesaid plot to the petitioner through Court Amin. The Court Amin executed the delivery of possession on 22.2.2007 after completing all the formalities in the presence of witnesses and submitted report and possession memo to the Executing Court. It appears that subsequent to the execution of the sale deed, the name of the petitioner was mutated in the revenue record.

10. The respondent after about four years from the date of ex-parte judgement and decree dated 13.9.2005 filed application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC for setting aside the ex-parte judgement and order dated 13.9.2005 which was numbered as Misc. Case No. 14 of 2009. The respondent also filed an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 praying for condonation of delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC.

11. In the affidavit in the delay condonation application, the respondent stated that the respondent had not refused to receive any summon sent by registered post or through process server, and the refusal has been endorsed on the registry by postman in collusion with the petitioner. He further stated that the respondent came to know about the execution of sale deed for the first time on 16.2.2009 when he visited the Lekhpal of the village to obtain khasara and khatauni of the property, and he was told by the Lekhpal about the mutation of the name of the petitioner in the revenue records. The respondent, thereafter, contacted his counsel on 18.2.2009, and after inspection of record, he found that ex-parte judgment has been passed by the Court treating the service of summons sufficient on account of refusal by the respondent to accept summons sent through registered post. The respondent immediately filed an application for setting aside the ex-parte decree. The respondent has prayed for condonation of delay on the basis of averments made in the delay condonation application detailed above.

12. The aforesaid application was contested by the petitioner by filing reply to the delay condonation application as well as application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC. The petitioner in his reply to the delay condonation application stated that the respondent has falsely stated that he came to know about the ex-parte order on 16.2.2009. It was further stated that the judgement-debtor i.e. respondent had full knowledge about the decree and delivery of possession of the property to the petitioner in execution of the said decree. He denied the fact that there was any collusion with the postman in obtaining the endorsement of refusal. The petitioner had further stated that there was inordinate delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC; and the respondent had failed to establish that the delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC was bonafide. It was also stated that the respondent had failed to make out any case for setting aside the ex-parte judgment and decree dated 13.9.2005. Accordingly, he prayed that the delay condonation application as well as application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC is liable to be dismissed.

13. The Trial Court vide judgement and order dated 26.2.2011 rejected the delay condonation application, and consequently, dismissed the application of respondent under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC. The Trial Court recorded specific finding that the petitioner had denied the fact that the respondent came to know about the ex-parte judgement on 16.2.2009 when he visited the Lekhpal to obtain the khasara and khatauni of the aforesaid property and he (petitioner) had colluded with the postman to put endorsement of refusal on the registered notice, hence, the burden was upon the respondent to prove that the endorsement of refusal was obtained by fraud, but the respondent failed to discharge the said burden as he did not lead any evidence to establish that there was any collusion between the petitioner and the postman. The Trial Court further noticed the fact that the order to proceed ex-parte was passed prior to transfer of case to the Court of Additional Civil Judge as stated by the respondent in paragraph No. 7 of the rejoinder affidavit, therefore, there was no occasion to issue fresh notice to the respondent. The Trial Court found that the cause shown by the respondent for delay in not filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC within time was not sufficient, accordingly, it rejected the application under Section 5 of The Limitation Act, and also the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC.

14. Feeling aggrieved by the order dated 26.2.2011 passed by the Additional Civil Judge, Pravar Khand, Court No. 3, Bulandshahr dismissing the Misc. Case No. 14 of 2009, the respondent preferred First Appeal From Order under Order 43 Rule 1 (d) of CPC which was numbered as Misc. Civil Appeal No. 26 of 2011. The Appellate Court by the judgement and order dated 8.11.2011 allowed the delay condonation application of respondent as well as the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC and set aside the ex-parte judgement and decree dated 13.9.2005 on payment of cost of Rs. 500/- and restored the Original Suit No. 479 of 2004 to its original number.

15. The Appellate Court proceeded on the presumption that the copy of the plaint was not enclosed with the registered summons whereas as per order 5 Rule 2 CPC, it is mandatory to enclose the copy of plaint with registered summons. The Appellate Court further on the basis of affidavit filed by the respondent and report of Amin held that the possession of the land in dispute was delivered without beating drums by the Ardali of the Amin on the ground that the name of Ardali, who was assigned the duty of beating drums, was not recorded in the Amin's report. The Appellate Court further relied upon the affidavit of some persons filed by the respondent on the ground that all affidavits were of the person who were resident of Village Khanauda where the property in dispute was situated whereas the affidavit filed by the petitioner in support of his case were of persons who were not the resident of Village Khanauda. The Appellate Court was of the view that as the respondent has filed application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC within time from the date of knowledge of ex-parte decree, hence, the cause shown by the respondent for delay in filing the application under O9R13 C.P.C. is sufficient. Accordingly, it allowed the delay condonation application and also the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioner challenging the aforesaid order contended that the Appellate Court while allowing the appeal has carved out a new case inasmuch as neither in the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC nor in the delay condonation application under Section 5 of The Limitation Act, the respondent has stated that the registered summon did not contain the copy of the plaint. He submits that there is a presumption that the officials act are deemed to have been done regularly, and thus, finding of the Appellate Court that copy of plaint was not enclosed with the registered summons is illegal and based upon no evidence on record. In support of the said submission he has placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the case of Raj Kumar Vs. Jai Prakash, 1987 ARC 234.

17. He further submits that there is no pleading in the application of the respondent under Section 5 of The Limitation Act, 1963 and Order 9 Rule 13 CPC to the effect that there was no beating of drum by the 'Ardali' of the Amin at the time of delivery of possession nor the report of the Amin was challenged by the appellant on the ground that it did not state the name of Ardali of the Amin who was assigned with the duty of beating drums in the aforesaid two applications of the respondents. Thus, the submission is that the Appellate Court has committed manifest error of law apparent on the face of record in allowing the application of the respondent under Section 5 of The Limitation Act as well as under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC by carving out a new case which was not pleaded by the respondent. He submits that in the present case, a valuable right has accrued to the petitioner, and the Appellate Court had failed to consider this aspect of the matter while allowing the delay condonation application. He has placed reliance upon the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Balwant Singh (dead) Vs. Jagdish Singh and others, AIR 2010 SC 3043.

18. He further submits that the Appellate Court has acted illegally in relying upon the additional evidence filed by the respondent in the form of affidavit in appeal in the absence of any order passed by the Appellate Court to admit the additional evidence at the appellate stage.

19. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent contends that the Appellate Court has not committed any jurisdictional error in allowing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC, therefore, this Court should refrain from exercising its power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In support of his submission, he has placed reliance on the judgement of Uttarakhand High Court at Nainital in the case of Pradeep Kumar Vs. Kamal Kant and others in Writ Petition (M/S) No. 2444 of 2019 decided on 2.9.2019. He further submits that the Court should adopt liberal approach to consider sufficient cause in condoning the delay in order to do substantial justice. Learned counsel for the respondent further contends that the summons have not been properly served and the procedure of service of notice has not been followed and this aspect has not been considered by the Trial Court while rejecting the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC.

20. I have heard rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

21. The moot question which arise for consideration is as to whether the Appellate Court was justified in condoning the inordinate delay of about 4 years in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC of the respondent.

22. It transpires from the record that the Trial Court after having been satisfied with the sufficiency of service of summons upon the respondent passed an order on 20.4.2005 to proceed ex-parte. The Trial Court, thereafter, proceeded to hear the suit and passed the ex-parte judgment and decree on 13.9.2005.

23. Thereafter, the petitioner preferred Execution Case No. 30 of 2005 in which Executing Court after being satisfied with the service of notice upon the respondent passed an order on 1.4.2006 to proceed ex-parte and directed the petitioner to produce the draft sale deed and also deposit the required expenses. Pursuant to the order dated 1.4.2006 passed by the Executing Court, the petitioner deposited expenses and filed draft sale deed which was registered on 1.5.2006. The Executing Court passed an order on 2.12.2006 for delivery of possession which was given to the petitioner through Amin on 22.2.2007.

24. In the facts of the present case, it would be appropriate at this stage to refer the averments made by respondent in application dated 19.2.2009 under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC which are extracted herein below:-

25. The respondent also filed delay condonation application stating therein that he had never received notice served through registered post or summon alleged to have been served upon him, and the endorsement of refusal made on the registered summon by the postman was an act of fraud of petitioner in collusion with the postman. He further averred that when he visited the Lekhpal to obtain khasara and khatauni of the aforesaid property on 16.2.2009, he came to know about the execution of the sale deed and mutation of name of respondent in the revenue record in respect of the aforesaid property. Thereafter, he inspected the record of the Trial Court on 18.2.2009 and immediately filed an application on 19.2.2009 for recall of the ex-parte judgment and decree. On the basis the of the aforesaid averments, he prayed for condonation of inordinate delay in filing the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC of about four years.

26. It would be apposite to refer the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Balwant Singh (dead) Vs. Jagdish Singh and others, AIR 2010 SC 3043 wherein the Apex Court has refused to condone the inordinate delay of 778 days in filing the substitution application by the heirs of the appellant who died on 28.11.2007. The Apex Court held that even if the term 'sufficient cause' has to receive liberal construction, it must squarely fall within the concept of reasonable time and proper conduct of the concerned party. Paragraph Nos. 13 and 16 of the Balwant Singh (dead) (supra) reads as under:-

"13. As held by this Court in the case of Mithailal Dalsangar Singh (supra), the abatement results in the denial of hearing on the merits of the case, the provision of abatement has to be construed strictly. On the other hand, the prayer for setting aside an abatement and the dismissal consequent upon an abatement, have to be construed liberally. We may state that even if the term `sufficient cause' has to receive liberal construction, it must squarely fall within the concept of reasonable time and proper conduct of the concerned party. The purpose of introducing liberal construction normally is to introduce the concept of `reasonableness' as it is understood in its general connotation. The law of limitation is a substantive law and has definite consequences on the right and obligation of a party to arise. These principles should be adhered to and applied appropriately depending on the facts and circumstances of a given case. Once a valuable right, as accrued in favour of one party as a result of the failure of the other party to explain the delay by showing sufficient cause and its own conduct, it will be unreasonable to take away that right on the mere asking of the applicant, particularly when the delay is directly a result of negligence, default or inaction of that party. Justice must be done to both parties equally. Then alone the ends of justice can be achieved. If a party has been thoroughly negligent in implementing its rights and remedies, it will be equally unfair to deprive the other party of a valuable right that has accrued to it in law as a result of his acting vigilantly. The application filed by the applicants lack in details. Even the averments made are not correct and ex-facie lack bona fide. The explanation has to be reasonable or plausible, so as to persuade the Court to believe that the explanation rendered is not only true, but is worthy of exercising judicial discretion in favour of the applicant. If it does not specify any of the enunciated ingredients of judicial pronouncements, then the application should be dismissed. On the other hand, if the application is bona fide and based upon true and plausible explanations, as well as reflect normal behaviour of a common prudent person on the part of the applicant, the Court would normally tilt the judicial discretion in favour of such an applicant. Liberal construction cannot be equated with doing injustice to the other party. In the case of State of Bihar v. Kameshwar Prasad Singh [(2000) 9 SCC 94], this Court had taken a liberal approach for condoning the delay in cases of the Government, to do substantial justice. Facts of that case were entirely different as that was the case of fixation of seniority of 400 officers and the facts were required to be verified. But what we are impressing upon is that delay should be condoned to do substantial justice without resulting in injustice to the other party. This balance has to be kept in mind by the Court while deciding such applications. In the case of Ramlal and others v. Rewa Coalfields Ltd., [AIR 1962 SC 361] this Court took the view:

"7. In construing Section 5 is relevant to bear in mind two important considerations.

The first consideration is that the expiration of the period of limitation prescribed for making an appeal gives rise to a right in favour of the decree holder to treat the decree as binding between the parties. In other words, when the period of limitation prescribed has expired the decree-holder has obtained a benefit under the law of limitation to treat the decree as beyond challenge, and this legal right which has accrued to the decree holder by lapse of time should not be light heartedly disturbed. The other consideration which cannot be ignored is that if sufficient cause for excusing delay is shown discretion is given to the Court to condone delay and admit the appeal. This discretion has been deliberately conferred on the Court in order that judicial power and discretion in that behalf should be exercised to advance substantial justice. As has been observed by the Madras High Court in Krishna v. Chathappan, ILR 13 Mad 269.

It is however, necessary to emphasize that even after sufficient cause has been shown a party is not entitled to the condonation of delay in question as a matter of right. The proof of a sufficient cause is a condition precedent for the exercise of the discretionary jurisdiction vested in the court by Section 5. If sufficient cause is not proved nothing further has to be done; the application for condoning delay has to be dismissed on that ground alone. If sufficient cause is shown then the Court has to enquire whether in its discretion it should condone the delay. This aspect of the matter naturally introduces the consideration of all relevant facts and it is at this stage that diligence of the party or its bona fides may fall for consideration;...

16. Above are the principles which should control the exercise of judicial discretion vested in the Court under these provisions. The explained delay should be clearly understood in contradistinction to inordinate unexplained delay. Delay is just one of the ingredients which has to be considered by the Court. In addition to this, the Court must also take into account the conduct of the parties, bona fide reasons for condonation of delay and whether such delay could easily be avoided by the applicant acting with normal care and caution. The statutory provisions mandate that applications for condonation of delay and applications belatedly filed beyond the prescribed period of limitation for bringing the legal representatives on record, should be rejected unless sufficient cause is shown for condonation of delay. The larger benches as well as equi-benches of this Court have consistently followed these principles and have either allowed or declined to condone the delay in filing such applications. Thus, it is the requirement of law that these applications cannot be allowed as a matter of right and even in a routine manner. An applicant must essentially satisfy the above stated ingredients; then alone the Court would be inclined to condone the delay in the filing of such applications."

27. In the light of parameters laid down by the Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment, now the Court proceeds to examine as to whether the explanation tendered by the respondent in delay condonation application is sufficient to condone the inordinate delay of four years in filing the application under O9R13 C.P.C.

28. In the case in hand, the respondent has denied the fact that he had ever refused to accept the notice or summons of suit through process server or by registered post, and he came to know about the ex-parte judgment as well as execution of the sale deed on 16.2.2009 when he visited the Lekhpal to obtain copy of khasara and khatauni. At this stage, it is relevant to point out that neither the delay condonation application nor the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC disputes the correctness of the finding recorded by the Executing Court in order dt. 1.4.2006 in Execution Case No. 30 of 2005 regarding the sufficiency of service of notice of execution case upon the respondent-judgement debtor. It is also important to note that the aforesaid two applications do not contain any averment that the Ardali of the Amin did not beat the drums at the time of delivery of possession nor theses two applications doubted the correctness of the report of the Amin. In this view of the fact, it is highly improbable that the delivery of possession of the property could have been effected by the Amin to the petitioner without knowledge of the respondent.

29. Thus, the aforesaid facts clearly indicates that the respondent had knowledge about the ex-parte judgment and decree much before the filing of application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC and delay in filing the application under O9 R13 C.P.C. was not sufficiently explained.

30. The Apex Court in the case of N. Balakrishnan Vs. M. Krishnamurthy, 1998 (89) RD 607 has held that the acceptability of the explanation is the only criteria to condone the delay; sometimes delay of very short period is not condonable for want of unacceptable explanation. The relevant portion of the said judgement is extracted hereinbelow:-

"It is axiomatic that condonation of delay is a matter of discretion of the court. Section 5 of the Limitation Act does not say that such discretion can be exercised only if the delay is within a certain limit. Length of delay is no matter, acceptability of the explanation is the only criterion. Sometimes delay of the shortest range may be uncondonable due to want of acceptable explanation whereas in certain other cases delay of very long range can be condoned as the explanation thereof is satisfactory. "

31. The judgment of N.Balakrishnan (supra) is of no help to respondent inasmuch as the respondent has not tendered plausible and cogent explanation which can be said to be sufficient and acceptable for condoning the inordinate delay of four years in filing the application under O9R13 C.P.C.

32. Further, though a bald averment has been made by the respondent in both the applications that he had not refused to accept the service of summons but this fact was denied by the petitioner. In such an event, the burden of proof was on the respondent to establish by leading evidence that the endorsement of refusal on registered notice was an act of fraud of the petitioner in collusion with the postman. The respondent did not lead any evidence to establish the aforesaid facts, and in this view of the fact, the Trial Court rightly recorded finding that the respondent had failed to discharge burden to prove that the endorsement of refusal was obtained by fraud on the registered notice. The aforesaid finding of the Trial Court is supported by the judgement of this Court in the case of S.P. Srivastava Vs. Prem Lata AIR 1980 All 336 wherein it has been held that an ex-parte decree should not be set aside lightly, and the burden is upon the applicant to prove that the summons or notices was never served upon him and he got knowledge of the ex-parte decree on a particular date. Relevant extract of paragraph 6 of the judgment is reproduced herein:

"6. The first point raises a question of fact. When did the wife first come to know of the ex parte decree? She stated that she came to know of the ex parte decree on the 15th April, 1976 after inspection of the relevant papers. On the 13th April, 1976 she had come to know of a proceeding of divorce instituted by the husband. The ex parte decree was passed on the 2nd June, 1973. Her knowledge was, therefore after 34 months. It is obvious that she was not living with the husband during this period. The question whether she had knowledge of the suit would not depend on what she stated, for her statement remained wholly uncorroborated. On the question whether there was a service of the summons of the the suit on her, there was a bare denial. The positive evidence that could be led in the case had been led by the husband. Firstly, the process server was examined and also a witness of the service. The process server had been disbelieved for the following reasons; The process server is said to nave served the summons on the 22nd April, 1973. It was a Sunday. It was stated by the process server that the husband had come to the Nazarat to enquire as to who would be taking the summons to the opposite party. The court below opined that it was amazing that the office of Nazarat would remain open on a Sunday. The court below also relied on the circumstance that there was no compliance with the Order 5, Rule 17 by the process server, inasmuch as the summons had not been pasted on the outer door of the house. Thus, the court below came to the conclusion that there was no service of the summons on the wife. The finding of the court below that she came to know of the ex parte decree only on the 15th April, 1976 was based on no other consideration than believing her. She had also to lead sufficient evidence to show that she had no knowledge whatsoever of the ex parte decree. It is a relevant circumstance to be considered when the application for setting aside the ex parte decree was being moved after 34 months. What was she doing all this time? If there was a separation and she was not living with her husband, what prompted her to visit her husband's place on the 14th April, 1976. In any event, there is neither any consideration nor any finding as to whether she had visited her husband's place on the 14th April, 1976. If she did not visit her husband's place on the 14th April, 1976, what made her to see the record on the 15th April, 1976? The court below has not considered any of these matters and has set aside the ex parte decree without considering the relevant and material circumstance. An ex parte decree is not to be set aside lightly. The wife seeking to set aside the ex parte decree has got to prove to the entire satisfaction of the court that the summons or notice was never served on her and secondly that she got the knowledge of the suit or proceeding on a particular date. The burden is still more heavy when the application for setting aside the ex parte decree is made after the period of limitation provided for moving the said application. The applicant must satisfy the court with cogent and reliable evidence, the reasons which prevented him or her from making the application within time."

33. Now, the court proceed to analyze as to whether the reasons recorded by the Appellate Court in allowing delay condonation application as well as application under O9R13 C.P.C. are sustainable in law.

34. It is evident from the order of the Appellate Court that it had carved out a new case in allowing the application of respondent under Section 5 of The Limitation Act inasmuch as no foundation had been laid by the respondent in application under Section 5 of The Limitation Act, 1963 or in the application under Order 9 Rule 13 C.P.C. alleging that the Ardali of the Amin did not beat the drum at the time of delivery of possession nor the respondent had disputed the correctness of report of Amin in the aforesaid two applications.

35. Further, the finding of the Appellate Court that the copy of the plaint was not enclosed with the registered summons, therefore, the procedure prescribed under Order 5 Rule 2 was not followed is also not sustainable for two reasons, firstly, there is no such case of the respondent either in application under Section 5 of Limitation Act or in the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC that the plaint was not enclosed with the registered summons. In the absence of any pleading that the plaint was not enclosed with the registered notice, the presumption lay that the plaint was enclosed with the summons as the official acts are done regularly unless proved otherwise. It would be apposite to refer the case of Raj Kumar (supra) wherein it has been held in paragraph No. 7 that when the defendant had refused to accept the summons, he had also refused to accept service of the plaint, hence he can make no legitimate grievance of the fact that he was not supplied with a copy of the plaint.

36. Secondly, non enclosure of copy of plaint with summons is merely an irregularity. At this stage, it is worth to refer the case of Raghubir Sahai Bhatnagar Vs. Bhakt Sajjan, AIR 1978 All 139 wherein this Court has held that the expression "irregularity in the service of summons" occurring in the proviso appended to O9R13 of C.P.C. would mean defect in following the procedure for the service of summons. Paragraph No. 6 & 7 of the judgement in Raghubir Sahai Bhatnagar (supra) is extracted herein :

"6. It is true that the process server did not make any effort to affix the copy of the summons at the outer door of the defendant's place of residence on his refusal to accept the same. In our opinion, this defect was not substantial enough to vitiate the service of summons. The purpose of issuing summons is to give intimation to the defendant of the suit, the court, and the date fixed for his appearance and in order to achieve that purpose the legislature has laid down detailed procedure for service of summons on the defendant. Where ex parte decree is passed in the defendant's absence, he is entitled to get the decree set aside under Order 9 Rule 13 if he satisfies the court that the summons was not duly served on him and he had sufficient cause for his absence. But in view of the proviso added by the Allahabad High Court to Order 9 Rule 13 an ex parte decree cannot be set aside on the ground of any irregularity in the service of summons, if the court is satisfied that the defendant had knowledge, but for his wilful conduct he had sufficient time to appear and answer the plaintiff's claim. The proviso added by this Court has now been ingrafted in Rule 13 itself by Parliament by the Amending Act No. 104 of 1976. Admittedly, at the relevant period when the question arose before the courts below the proviso as added by this Court ?was in force. Both the courts held that the process server's failure to affix the summons at the outer door of the defendant-applicant's place of residence was a mere irregularity and since the defendant-applicant had knowledge of the date of hearing, he had no sufficient cause for his absence. We. are of the opinion that the courts below have rightly held that the defect, if any, in the service of summons was a mere irregularity and since the defendant-applicant had knowledge of the date of hearing he had no sufficient cause for his absence and as such the ex parte decree could not be set aside.

7. Sri K. C. Saksena contended that failure to affix the summons at the outer door of the defendant's place of residence or business was not an irregularity, instead it was an illegality, as such the proviso to Order IX Rule 13 C. P. C. was not applicable. We find no merit in the contention. As noted earlier, the primary purpose of prescribing procedure for service of summons is to ensure that the defendant receives information and knowledge of the plaintiffs suit and the date of hearing. If the procedure prescribed under Order V Rule 17 is not strictly followed and if it is established that the defendant had knowledge of the plaintiff's claim as also of the date of hearing the proviso to Order IX Rule 13 would be attracted and the ex parte decree cannot be set aside. The proviso comes into play when some irregularity occurs in the service of summons. There is difference in illegality and irregularity. Irregularity contemplates defect in procedure and non-compliance of the prescribed formality which may not be of substantial nature. Illegality, on the other hand, connotes contravention of statute which may in some cases make the action void. Illegality contemplates an action forbidden by law while irregularity is mere defect in procedure. If this basic difference in the two expressions is kept in mind, the expression 'irregularity' in the service of summons occurring in the proviso added to Order IX Rule 13 would mean defect in following the procedure prescribed for the service of summons. Not doubt. Order V Rule 17 requires that on defendant's refusal to accept the summons the process server should affix the same on the outer door of the defendant's place of residence or business, but failure of the process server to go through the prescribed formality of affixing the summons at the outer door is a technical fault amounting to an irregularity."

37. At this stage, it would also be appropriate to refer judgment of apex court in the case of Commissioner of Income Tax Vs. Hindustan Bulk Carriers AIR 2003 SC 3942 wherein apex court has held that a construction which reduces the statute or any provision to a futility has to be avoided. Paragraph 23 to 27 of the judgment is extracted below:

"23. A construction which reduces the statute to a futility has to be avoided. A statute or any enacting provision therein must be so construed as to make it effective and operative on the principle expressed in the maxim ut res magis valeat quam pereat i.e. a liberal construction should be put upon written instruments, so as to uphold them, if possible, and carry into effect the intention of the parties.

24. A statute is designed to be workable and the interpretation thereof by a court should be to secure that object unless crucial omission or clear direction makes that end unattainable.

25. The courts will have to reject that construction which will defeat the plain intention of the legislature even though there may be some inexactitude in the language used.

26. If the choice is between two interpretations, the narrower of which would fail to achieve the manifest purpose of the legislation, we should avoid a construction which would reduce the legislation to futility, and should rather accept the bolder construction, based on the view that Parliament would legislate only for the purpose of bringing about an effective result.

27. The statute must be read as a whole and one provision of the Act should be construed with reference to other provisions in the same Act so as to make a consistent enactment of the whole statute."

38. O5R2 of C.P.C., requires that every summon shall be accompanied by a coy of plaint. The purpose of summons is to inform the defendant in the suit to appear and answer the claim and file written statement. Once the service of summon is proved, it means that the defendant has knowledge about institution of suit for certain claim against him. If the copy of the plaint is not enclosed with the summon, he can demand copy of plaint and other documents to enable him to answer plaintiff's claim. Non enclosure of copy of plaint with summons is only a defect in procedure, and if it is not considered as an irregularity, it would render proviso appended to O9R13 of C.P.C. otiose.

39. Now, coming to the question as to whether the Appellate Court correctly relied upon affidavits filed by the respondent in appeal, the order-sheet of appeal enclosed with the writ petition reveals that there is no order of the Appellate Court accepting and admitting those affidavit in the appeal as evidence. Therefore, this Court is of the opinion that the Appellate Court has acted illegally in relying upon the affidavits filed by the respondent in appeal inasmuch as those affidavits could have been relied upon in appeal only if the Appellate Court had passed an order on the touchstone of O41R27 of C.P.C. accepting those affidavits as evidence in appeal.

40. Learned counsel for the respondent has also urged that the Rule 138, 139 and 140 of General Rules (Civil), 1957 have not been followed while serving summons upon the respondent. The said contention is also not sustainable for the reason that no such pleading has been made by the respondent in the application under Order 9 Rule 13 CPC or in the appeal, therefore, the said contention cannot be allowed to advance for the first time in the writ petition.

41. Thus, for the reasons delineated above, the Appellate Court has committed manifest illegality in allowing the appeal and setting aside the order dated order dated 26.2.2011 passed by the trial court rejecting the application of respondent to set aside ex-parte judgment and decree dated 13.9.2005. Accordingly, judgement of Uttarakhand High Court at Nainital in the case of Pradeep Kumar (supra) does not come to the aid of the respondent.

42. Thus, for the reasons given above, the order of the Appellate Court dated 8.11.2011 passed in Misc. Appeal No. 26 of 2011 (Kalyan Singh Vs. Brajpal) is set aside. The writ petition is allowed. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Criminal Law - The Narcotics Drugs And Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 42, Section 51- Indian Evidence Act- Section 3- Seizure and Recovery- Witnesses only Police Officers- The law with regards to recovery not supported by public witness or non-availability of public witness has been clarified time and again by the Supreme Court and it has been held that the statement of police witness cannot be discarded only because of his being a police and if his statement is trustworthy, conviction can be based.

Recovery by police officers and absence of independent witnesses of the same would not vitiate the recovery if the statements of the Police Officers are trustworthy, credible and reliable.

The Narcotics Drugs And Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 50- Compliance- No personal search- Since, personal search of accused has not been conducted nor there is any evidence to that effect, this case is not covered under section 50 of NDPS Act.

There is no requirement of complying with the provisions of Section 50 of the Act where the illegal contraband is not recovered from the personal search of the accused.

Criminal Law - The Narcotics Drugs And Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 293 (4)- Code of Criminal Procedure- Report of Chemical Analyst- Because, both brown sugar and heroine are illegal contraband, it makes no difference if the recovered article was mentioned as brown sugar.

Even if the Substance reported by the Chemical Examiner may be different from the one said to be recovered, the same would make no difference since the recovered and reported Substances, though different, are both contraband.

Criminal Law - The Narcotics Drugs And Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 42- Recovery Memo- The recovery was made from the house of appellant in the midnight without obtaining warrant. The legal procedure is that the recovery memo so prepared should be read over and explained to the accused and his signature should be obtained on the memo. Section 42(2) requires that where an officer takes down information in writing under sub-Section (1) he shall send a copy thereof to his immediate officer senior who is Circle Officer. In the present case, there is no case that any ground for belief as contemplated by proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 42 or Sub-section (2) of Section 42 was ever recorded. Since reasons to believe have not been recorded, therefore, under Section 42(2) it is not found on record that copy thereof has been sent to the senior officials. In a case based on recovery of illegal drug, recovery memo forms the basis of prosecution and if same has not been prepared according to legal procedure, it amounts to serious infirmity.

A search of a private place between sunset and sunrise without a warrant and without recording the grounds of belief of such an Officer, would vitiate the search and if the recovery memo of the contraband is not prepared in a legal manner then the recovery would result in a serious infirmity. The provisions of Section 42 of the Act are mandatory and absolute non-compliance of the said provisions cannot be countenanced.

Criminal Law - The Narcotics Drugs And Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Sections 42, 50 and 57- The purpose of these provisions is to provide due protection to a suspect against false implication and ensure that these provisions are strictly complied with to further the legislative mandate of fair investigation and trial. In a crime based on recovery of illegal drugs for which stringent provision in terms of procedure and punishment has been provided in the NDPS Act, it is necessary to ensure free and fair investigation without any objectionable features and infirmities. Fairness and purity in investigation is so necessary for criminal justice administration that without it fair trial will become a mockery and will result in miscarriage of justice.

The compliance of the provisions of Sections 42, 50 and 57 of the Act is mandatory and have been provided by the Legislature to afford safeguards and ensure fair investigation and trial.

The search team did not comply with the mandatory provision of section 42 of NDPS Act; the recovered drug was not weighted and on the basis of guess work the quantity was mentioned; the recovery was made from the house of appellant in the midnight without obtaining warrant from the magistrate and without recording grounds of belief as required under the Proviso of section 42 and the legal procedure in preparing the recovery memo was not followed and the signature of the accused was not obtained after preparing the same. The learned trial court has ignored the shortcomings and lapse in the prosecution version, recovery process and evidence and the finding of the learned trial court is perverse and illegal. The impugned judgement convicting and sentencing the accused is not sustainable under law and is liable to be set aside. (Para 11, 12,14, 17, 18, 21, 25, 27, 32, 33, 34)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pradeep Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Jai Prakash Prasad, Advocate learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Ravi Kant Kushwaha, learned AGA for the State.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed against the impugned judgement dated 16.1.2013 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Jyotibha Phule Nagar in ST No.256 of 2002, Crime No. 62 of 2002, Police Station Amroha Nagar, District J.P. Nagar, by which the accused-appellant Ram Charan Jatav has been convicted and sentenced under Section 18/20 of NDPS Act for 10 years RI and Rs. 1,00,000/- fine and in default for additional one year imprisonment.

3. The brief prosecution case is that on 1.2.2002 Sub Inspector K.P. Sharma (Incharge SOG), J.P. Nagar with constable Rajendra Singh, constable Jai Prakash, constable Abhimanyu, constable Laxman Singh and constable driver Harender Singh, on the basis of information received from arrested accused Ram Kunwar Verma from Gandhi Murti Tiraha with brown sugar and on his information expecting recovery of brown sugar from the house of Ram Charan Jatav resident of Jai Om Nagar, Amroha went near Madho Cinema. There, In-charge Inspector Ram Bachan Singh, SI Jitendra Singh, constable Gul Haider Jaidi, constable Paramjeet Singh with constable driver Sabban Khan met on their Government jeep. The police party tried to search out some public witness but it was night and no witness could be traced. The police party conducted search of each other to ensure that they are not carrying any illegal narcotics substance. They tried to inform the Gazetted Officer, but, they could not contact him. Along with accused Ram Kunwar, the police party reached the house of Ram Charan Jatav at about 12:30 in the mid night, Accused Ram Kunwar knocked the door and the door was opened by a person. Accused Ram Kunwar said that he is Ram Charan Jatav from whom he purchased brown sugar. On being asked, the person disclosed his name to be Ram Charan Jatav son of Sukhi Singh resident of Jai Om, Police Station Amroha Nagar. On being asked he said that he had given 100 gram brown sugar for selling the same and he is having about half kg of brown sugar in his possession. He was asked whether he would like to be searched before any Gazetted Officer or the Magistrate whereupon he responded that he believed on the police party and permitted search. Instead, he said that he would himself give the brown sugar and he picked out about 500 gm brown sugar packed in a polythene from a black colour bag, which was hanging on the wall. The police personnel opened the same and smelled the same and found it to be brown sugar and the same was taken into possession by the police. In the light of torch, 50 gm of brown sugar was picked out from the recovered brown sugar as sample and was kept in polythene packet. The samples and remaining brown sugar was separately kept in a plastic packet and was sealed in white cloth and samples seal was pasted. Accused Ram Charan Jatav was asked about the person he obtained brown sugar and he informed that he obtained brown sugar from Tika Ram, resident of Jabdi and Rehan resident of Katkui, Amroha. He also told that they are still in possession of more brown sugar which they have kept in their house. He offered that he can show their house. The accused Ram Charan Jatav was informed about the offence he committed and was taken into custody. The recovery memo was prepared in the light of torch and after reading and hearing the same, the signature of the police personnel was obtained and a copy thereof was given to the accused. On the basis of the recovery memo, on 1.2.2002 at 3:30 AM, offence against accused Ram Charan Jatav was registered under the aforesaid section, chik was prepared and entry thereof was made in the GD. The offence was investigated by the police and Investigating Officer M.P. Tyagi recorded the statements of the witnesses, prepared site plan of place of recovery and after obtaining the report from the Forensic Science Laboratory, on the basis of evidence collected by him, he filed a charge sheet against the accused under Section 18/20 of NDPS Act. The charge was framed against the accused who denied the charge and claimed trial.

4. The prosecution examined as many as three witnesses. The statement of accused Ram Charan Jatav was recorded under Section 313 CrPC, who put forward the case of denial and stated that the prosecution case is false and he has been implicated on the basis of enmity and the police has filed a wrong charge sheet against him. He is innocent.

5. After hearing prosecution and defence and perusing the evidence on record, the learned trial court passed the impugned judgement and convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant.

6. Aggrieved by the impugned judgement, the accused appellant filed this appeal and has challenged the impugned judgment on the ground that the mandatory requirement under Sections 50 and 57 of the NDPS Act was not complied with and the recovered contraband was not weighted at the time of recovery. The recovered contraband was alleged to be brown sugar but in chemical examination the same has been reported to be heroine, the recovery memo was not signed by the accused-appellant and the same is false and fabricated. The information of his arrest was not given to his wife although the contraband was recovered from his house. No independent witness or public witness of recovery was present at the time of recovery and the police party did not comply the provision of Section 100 of the Criminal Procedure Code and section 42, 50 and 57 of NDPS Act and no information of arrest of accused was given to superior officer. The conviction of the accused-appellant is against the weight of evidence on record and is against law and the sentence awarded is too severe. Therefore, the appeal is liable to be allowed and the accused-appellant is entitled for acquittal.

7. Learned AGA submits that the accused-appellant was found to be in possession of contraband in commercial quantity and on the basis of evidence on record, the learned trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant.

8. In view of the rival argument of both the sides, the evidence given by the prosecution is required to be analysed to examine the legality of the impugned judgement.

9. PW-1 SI K.P. Sharma and PW-2 SI Bachchan Singh have been examined as witness of recovery and they have proved the recovery memo and recovered contraband as Ext. Ka-2, Ext. Ka-3, Ext. Ka-4, Ext. Ka-5, Ext. Ka-6, Ext. Ka-8, Ext. Ka-9, Ext. Ka-10, Ext. Ka-11 and Ext. Ka-12. PW-3 SI Madan Pal (Investigating Officer) is the formal witness and he has proved the police papers such as site plan Ext. Ka-16, charge-sheet Ext. Ka-17, FSL report Ext. Ka-18, chik FIR Ext. Ka-18A, GD report Ext. Ka-19.

10. The submission of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant is that despite the presence of Gazetted Officer and the Magistrate near the place of recovery, the police party did not inform the accused about his legal right and just to complete formality, it was written in the memo that the accused said that he believes on police party and does not want to be searched before any superior officer and the police party may take his search. Further submission is that the recovery team did not ensure compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act, which is mandatory. It has been further submitted that 500 gram of brown sugar was said to have been recovered from the accused-appellant but the same was found to be heroine by Forensic Science Laboratory. Further submission is that the police was well informed that the accused-appellant is in possession of contraband but no effort was made for his search before Gazetted Officer or the Magistrate. The information was neither reduced in writing nor communicated to immediate superior and as such, the requirement of section 42 (2) and 50 was not complied. Within 48 hours from the recovery, the superior officers were not informed and as such Section 57 of NDPS Act was not complied with. The wife of the accused-appellant was also not informed. No signature of the accused-appellant was obtained on recovery memo.

11. From the reading of the statement of the recovery officer PW-1 SI K.P. Sharma and other witness of recovery PW-2 SI Ram Bachan Singh, it is clear that they have proved the version of recovery memo and FIR. The recovery was made in the midnight and despite the efforts made, no public witness could be traced. The law with regards to recovery not supported by public witness or non-availability of public witness has been clarified time and again by the Supreme Court and it has been held that the statement of police witness cannot be discarded only because of his being a police and if his statement is trustworthy, conviction can be based. Thus, in Jarnail Singh v State of Punjab, 2011 CRLJ 1738(SC), Ajmer Singh v State of Haryana, (2010) 3 SCC 746, State of Punjab v Makhan Chand, AIR 2004 SC 306 and Dharam Pal Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 2010(71) ACC 548 (SC), it has been held by the Supreme Court that the obligation to take public witnesses(independent witness) is not absolute. If after making efforts which the court considers in the circumstances of the case reasonable the police officer is not able to get public witnesses to associate with the raid or arrest of the culprit, the arrest and the recovery made would not be necessarily vitiated. The court will have to appreciate the relevant evidence and will have to determine whether the evidence of the police officer is believable after taking due care and caution in evaluating their evidence.

12. Again, in Gian Chand v State of Haryana, AIR 2013 SC 3395, it was held that mere non-joining of an independent witness where the evidence of the prosecution witnesses may be found to be cogent, convincing, creditable and reliable, cannot cast doubt on the version forwarded by the prosecution if there seems to be no reason on record to falsely implicate the appellants. The legal maxim omnia praesumuntur rite it dowee probetur in contrarium solenniter esse acta i.e., all the acts are presumed to have been done rightly and regularly, applies. When acts are of official nature and went through the process of scrutiny by official persons, a presumption arises that the said acts have regularly been performed. In view of the above, on facts and circumstances of this case, I do not find any force in the contention of defence regarding non-availability of public witness.

13. I find that during cross-examination PW-1 S.I. K.P. Sharma has stated that there was no recovery from accused Ram Charan Jatav from his cloths and the recovery was made from the bag, which was hanging on the wall. PW-2 SI Ram Bachan Singh has also stated that on the voice raised by Ram Kunwar, accused Ram Charan opened the door and the moment the door was opened, he was caught. It also appears from the reading of the statement of PW-1 and PW-2 that after Ram Charan Jatav was caught, he was informed that Ram Kunwar has said that he used to take brown sugar from him and before personal search the accused Ram Charan Jatav told that he was having brown sugar. The brown sugar was not recovered from personal search but was recovered from the bag, which was hanging on the wall. Prior to that there was no recovery from him. Since, personal search of accused has not been conducted nor there is any evidence to that effect, this case is not covered under section 50 of NDPS Act. Therefore, the plea of appellant regarding non-compliance of section 50 NDPS Act has no force.

14. PW-1 has admitted that he has not written the colour of the contraband so recovered. It has been submitted that the case of prosecution was about recovery of brown sugar and on chemical examination the same was found to be heroine. It makes the recovery doubtful. Because, both brown sugar and heroine are illegal contraband, it makes no difference if the recovered article was mentioned as brown sugar. However, I am of the view that merely because the witness has admitted that the heroine, smack and brown sugar are different kind of narcotic substance, it cannot be said the recovery of contraband was suspected and it also falsified the whole prosecution case.

15. The bag from which the contraband was recovered was 8 to 10 steps away from the main door and the door in between was open and the wife of the accused was in the house. The submission of the learned counsel to the appellant is that no information was given to the wife. I however find that Ext. Ka-4 is on record from the perusal of which it is clear that the information was prepared in writing and a copy thereof was given to the wife of accused.

16. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the chik FIR has not been proved by the scriber and it has been proved by PW-2 as secondary witness, which is not admissible in evidence. A close reading of the evidence shows that PW-2 has stated that the chick was prepared by HM Indradeo Shukla who had been posted with him and he had seen him writing and is acquainted with his writing and signature. Therefore, the subission on the admissibility of chick does not appear to be sound.

17. It has been submitted by the learned counsel to the appellant that the signature of the accused was not obtained on the recovery memo and the same is a tainted document. I find that PW-1 has also admitted that after preparation of memo and before supplying the copy thereof to the accused-appellant, his signature was not obtained and the signature was obtained only after providing the copy. The legal procedure is that the recovery memo so prepared should be read over and explained to the accused and his signature should be obtained on the memo. In a case based on recovery of illegal drug, recovery memo forms the basis of prosecution and if same has not been prepared according to legal procedure, it amounts to serious infirmity.

18. it has been also submitted that the recovered drug was not weighted and weight of the recovered drug is essentially required to ascertain whether the recovery was of commercial quantity or otherwise. In the recovery memo it has not been mentioned that the recovered drug was weighted. PW-1 who led the search team has not said in his examination-in-chief even that the recovered drug was weighted whereas PW-2 has stated that the recovered charas was not measured and the quantity has been written by way of guess work. In the cross-examination, PW-1 has said that the recovered drug was weighted by weighing machine which was kept in the police-jeep. No such statement has been given by him to the IO. It appears to be an improvement in his statement to cover the lapse and which is clear from the statement of PW-2 who has categorically stated that the weight of the recovered drug was just a guess work and the same was not weighted.

19. It has been argued that the search has been conducted in violation of the provision of section 42 NDPS Act and the search has been conducted in the midnight without any search warrant. Under Section 41 of the Act, the Magistrate has been authorized to issue warrant for the arrest of any person whom he has reason to believe to have committed any offence punishable under the Act, for the search, irrespective of time, of any building conveyance, place. In terms of Section 41(2) of the Act, some sort of relaxation is found with regard to status of the officers being that of gazetted one. Section 42 the NDPS Act is as under:

"42. Power of entry, search, seizure and arrest without warrant or authorisation. (1) Any such officer (being an officer superior in rank to a peon, sepoy or constable) of the departments of central excise, narcotics, customs, revenue intellegence or any other department of the Central Government including para-military forces or armed forces as is empowered in this behalf by general or special order by the Central Government, or any such officer (being an officer superior in rank to a peon, sepoy or constable) of the revenue, drugs control, excise, police or any other department of a State Government as is empowered in this behalf by general or special order of the State Government, if he has reason to believe from persons knowledge or information given by any person and taken down in writing that any narcotic drug, or psychotropic substance, or controlled substance in respect of which an offence punishable under this Act has been committed or any document or other article which may furnish evidence of the commission of such offence or any illegally acquired property or any document or other article which may furnish evidence of holding any illegally acquired property which is liable for seizure or freezing or forfeiture under Chapter VA of this Act is kept or concealed in any building, conveyance or enclosed place, may between sunrise and sunset,-

(a) enter into and search any such building, conveyance or place;

(b) in case of resistance, break open any door and remove any obstacle to such entry;

(c) seize such drug or substance and all materials used in the manufacture thereof and any other article and any animal or conveyance which he has reason to believe to be liable to confiscation under this Act and any document or other article which he has reason to believe may furnish evidence of the commission of any offence punishable under this Act or furnish evidence of holding any illegally acquired property which is liable for seizure or freezing or forfeiture under Chapter VA of this Act; and

(d) detain and search, and, if he thinks proper, arrest any person whom he has reason to believe to have committed any offence punishable under this Act:"

20. Thus, section 42 provides that the officer of designated rank may enter in a building, conveyance or place and conduct search of a illegal drug etc and seize the same and in case of resistance, may break open the door etc and may also detain or arrest any person who might have committed or suspected to have committed any offence under the Act. The second proviso to section 42(1), however, provides as follows:

"provided further that if such officer has reason to believe that a search warrant or authorisation cannot be obtained without affording opportunity for the concealment of evidence or facility for the escape of an offender, he may enter and search such building, conveyance or enclosed place at any time between sunset and sunrise after recording the grounds of his belief."

Section 42 (2) further provides:

"Where an officer takes down any information in writing under sub-section (1) or records grounds for his belief under the proviso thereto, he shall within seventy-two hours send a copy thereof to his immediate official superior."

21. Section 42 is a mandatory provision as held in Krishna Kunwar v State of Rajasthan, (2004) 2 SCC 608 and it has two components. One relates to the basis of information, from personal knowledge and information given by a person and taken down in writing. Secondly, the information must relate to commission of an offence punishable under Chapter IV of the Act and/or keeping or concealment of document or article in any building, conveyance or enclosed place which may furnish evidence of commission of such offence. Section 42 is applicable only when search is made by a police officer or authority concerned. It has been held in Sekhar Suman Verma v Narcotics Control Bureau, (2016) 11 SCC 1 that compliance of section 42 is not necessary where search and seizure has been conducted by a gazetted officer himself acting under section 41.

22. Section 42 is not applicable in case of search of public place. Public place, as mentioned in Explanation to section 43, includes 'public conveyance, hotel, shop or other place intended for use by, or accessible to, the public'. It has been held in Directorate of Revenue v Mohd. Nisar Halia, (2008) 2 SCC 370 that a room in a hotel is a public place but occupied by a guest may not be so in view of the right of privacy available to such person and the authority has restricted power to infringe the right of privacy. In K.S. Puttaswamy v Union of India, (2017) 10 SCC 1, it has been remarked that right to privacy is a fundamental right and is not lost in public places, but attaches to the person.

23. In State of Punjab v Balbir Singh, (1994) 3 SCC 299, referring to the provision of section 42 (1) and (2), the Supreme Court has laid down that the arrest and seizure may be carried out between sunrise and sunset and for that there is no need of warrant. But, if the search is to be conducted in between sunset to sunrise, a warrant is required. But the exception is that if the officer conducting search has reason to believe that a warrant cannot be obtained without affording an opportunity of concealment or escape to the offender and he must record in writing his reason for such belief. The warrant is also not needed if the arrest and search is being affected by a gazetted officer as held in Sekhar Suman Verma v NCB, (2016) 11 SCC 368.

24. The question of effect of non-compliance or delayed compliance of section 42 has been considered by the Supreme Court in several cases. Thus, in Karnail Singh vs. State of Haryana (2009)8 SCC 539 held that total non-compliance requirements of Sub-section 1 and 2 of Section 42 of the Act is impermissible, however, delayed compliance with satisfactory explanation about the delay will be acceptable compliance of Section 42 of the Act. From the evidence, it is evident that none of the prosecution witnesses, more particularly PW-1 and PW-2, who played a vital role, spoke regarding compliance of the Section 42(2) of the NDPS Act.

25. The NDPS Act happens to be a Special Act providing severe punishment and on account thereof, there happens to be consistent view that all the requirements, so prescribed thereunder, is to be strictly followed. In case of failure on the part of prosecution, the same is bound to give adverse impact irrespective of nature of evidence having produced in order to substantiate its case. From perusal of the case record, it is apparent that there happens to be serious lapses on the part of the prosecution in complying with the mandatory provisions of the law and that being so, the order impugned would not survive. In this case, none of the police personnel conducting search and arrest have claimed themselves to be a Gazetted Officer. Therefore, the case has to be examined keeping in view whether the recovery officer has recorded reason in writing for his belief that obtaining warrant will afford the accused opportunity to conceal the contraband and to escape in view of proviso to section 42(1) of the NDPS Act and the matter was reported to the superior officer within 72 hours in terms of section 42(2).

26. In State Of Punjab vs. Balbir Singh, 1994 (3) SCC 299, the Supreme Court has made the following observations:

"The object of NDPS Act is to make stringent provisions for control and regulation of operations relating to those drugs and substances. At the same time, to avoid harm to the innocent persons and to avoid abuse of the provisions by the officers, certain safeguards are provided which in the context have to be observed strictly. Therefore these provisions make it obligatory that such of those officers mentioned therein, on receiving an information, should reduce the same to writing and also record reasons for the belief while carrying out arrest or search as provided under the proviso to Section 42(1). To that extent they are mandatory. Consequently the failure to comply with these requirements thus affects the prosecution case and therefore vitiates the trial."

To the similar effect are the observations of this Court in Saiyad Mohd. Saiyad Umar Saiyed vs. The State of Gujarat, (1995) 3 SCC 610.

27. What Section 42(2) requires is that where an officer takes down information in writing under sub-Section (1) he shall send a copy thereof to his immediate officer senior who is Circle Officer. There appears to be no evidence on record that the information taken from accused Ram Kunwar was reduced in writing. It is not disputed that the search was conducted after sunset and before sunrise. Prior to conducting search in such situation, it is provided that the officer conducting search should record in writing the grounds for belief and within 72 hours, the same should be communicated to the immediate superior. The scheme indicates that in event the search has to be made between sun set and sun rise, the warrant would be necessary unless officer has reasons to believe that a search warrant or authorisation cannot be obtained without affording the opportunity for escape of offender which grounds of his belief has to be recorded. In the present case, there is no case that any ground for belief as contemplated by proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 42 or Sub-section (2) of Section 42 was ever recorded by PW-1. He simply incorporated in the recovery memo that there is possibility of concealment and escape. He has also not stated any such facts in his statements that he has conducted any proceedings in regard to compliance of proviso of Section 42(1). Since reasons to believe have not been recorded, therefore, under Section 42(2) it is not found on record that copy thereof has been sent to the senior officials. In the statement, he has said that he did not inform to the Kotwali, Amroha. He has stated that on his information to Kotwali, Amroha Incharge SI Bacan Singh came. Bachan Singh has been examined as PW-2, but he has also not stated about any such communication and moreover he is also equally ranked.

28. In Mohan Lal v State of Rajasthan, 2015 CRLJ 2811 (SC), the court referred to the decision in Karnail Singh v. State of Haryana (2009) 8 SCC 539, wherein the issue emerged for consideration is whether Section 42 of the NDPS Act is mandatory and failure to take down the information in writing and forthwith sending a report to his immediate officer superior would cause prejudice to the accused. The Court was required to reconcile the decisions in Abdul Rashid Ibrahim Mansuri v. State of Gujarat (2000)2 SCC 513 and Sajan Abraham v. State of Kerala (2001) 6 SCC 692. The Constitution Bench explaining the position opined that Abdul Rashid (supra) did not require about literal compliance with the requirements of Section 42(1) and 42(2) nor did Sajan Abraham (supra) held that requirement of Section 42(1) and 42(2) need not be fulfilled at all. The larger Bench summarized the effect of two decisions which the Court reproduced as below:

"(a) The officer on receiving the information of the nature referred to in sub-section (1) of Section 42 from any person had to record it in writing in the register concerned and forthwith send a copy to his immediate official superior, before proceeding to take action in terms of clauses (a) to (d) of Section 42(1).

(b) But if the information was received when the officer was not in the police station, but while he was on the move either on patrol duty or otherwise, either by mobile phone, or other means, and the information calls for immediate action and any delay would have resulted in the goods or evidence being removed or destroyed, it would not be feasible or practical to take down in writing the information given to him, in such a situation, he could take action as per clauses (a) to (d) of Section 42(1) and thereafter, as soon as it is practical, record the information in writing and forthwith inform the same to the official superior.

(c) In other words, the compliance with the requirements of Section 42(1) and 42(2) in regard to writing down the information received and sending a copy thereof to the superior officer, should normally precede the entry, search and seizure by the officer. But in special circumstances involving emergent situations, the recording of the information in writing and sending a copy thereof to the official superior may get postponed by a reasonable period, that is, after the search, entry and seizure. The question is one of urgency and expediency.

(d) While total non-compliance with requirements of sub-sections (1) and (2) of Section 42 is impermissible, delayed compliance with satisfactory explanation about the delay will be acceptable compliance with Section 42. To illustrate, if any delay may result in the accused escaping or the goods or evidence being destroyed or removed, not recording in writing the information received, before initiating action, or non-sending of a copy of such information to the official superior forthwith, may not be treated as violation of Section 42. But if the information was received when the police officer was in the police station with sufficient time to take action, and if the police officer fails to record in writing the information received, or fails to send a copy thereof, to the official superior, then it will be a suspicious circumstance being a clear violation of Section 42 of the Act. Similarly, where the police officer does not record the information at all, and does not inform the official superior at all, then also it will be a clear violation of Section 42 of the Act. Whether there is adequate or substantial compliance with Section 42 or not is a question of fact to be decided in each case. The above position got strengthened with the amendment to Section 42 by Act 9 of 2001."

29. Earlier, in Rajinder Singh v. State of Haryana (2011) 8 SCC 130, placing reliance on the Constitution Bench, it has been opined that total non-compliance with the provisions of sub-sections (1) and (2) of Section 42 of the Act is impermissible but delayed compliance with satisfactory explanation for the delay can, however, be countenanced.

30. Learned counsel for the appellant has also contended that there has been non-compliance of Section 57 of the NDPS Act, which reads as follows:

"Report of arrest and seizure - Whenever any person makes any arrest or seizure under this Act, he shall, within fortyeight hours next after such arrest or seizure, make a full report of all the particulars of such arrest or seizure to his immediate official superior."

31. I find that in Sajan Abraham (supra), placing reliance on State of Punjab v. Balbir Singh (1994)3 SCC 299, it has been held that Section 57 is not mandatory in nature and when substantial compliance is made, it would not vitiate the prosecution case. In Kishan Chand v. State of Haryana (2013) 2 SCC 502, the Court while dealing with the compliance of Sections 42, 50 and 57, has opined thus:

"When there is total and definite non- compliance with such statutory provisions, the question of prejudice loses its significance. It will per se amount to prejudice. These are indefeasible, protective rights vested in a suspect and are incapable of being shadowed on the strength of substantial compliance."

32. It is pertinent to mention that the purpose of these provisions is to provide due protection to a suspect against false implication and ensure that these provisions are strictly complied with to further the legislative mandate of fair investigation and trial. It will be opposed to the very essence of criminal jurisprudence, if upon apparent and admitted non-compliance with these provisions in their entirety, the court has to examine the element of prejudice. The element of prejudice is of some significance where provisions are directory or are of the nature admitting substantial compliance. Where the duty is absolute, the element of prejudice would be of least relevance.

33. In a crime based on recovery of illegal drugs for which stringent provision in terms of procedure and punishment has been provided in the NDPS Act, it is necessary to ensure free and fair investigation without any objectionable features and infirmities. Presumption against innocence based on possession of illegal drug and shifting the burden of proof on accused requires fair and untainted investigation without any glimpse of malice, mischief, doubt, falsity, fabrication and prejudice to the accused. Fairness and purity in investigation is so necessary for criminal justice administration that without it fair trial will become a mockery and will result in miscarriage of justice.

34. From the above discussion, it is clear that the search team did not comply with the mandatory provision of section 42 of NDPS Act; the recovered drug was not weighted and on the basis of guess work the quantity was mentioned; the recovery was made from the house of appellant in the midnight without obtaining warrant from the magistrate and without recording grounds of belief as required under the Proviso of section 42 and the legal procedure in preparing the recovery memo was not followed and the signature of the accused was not obtained after preparing the same. The learned trial court has ignored the shortcomings and lapse in the prosecution version, recovery process and evidence and the finding of the learned trial court is perverse and illegal. The impugned judgement convicting and sentencing the accused is not sustainable under law and is liable to be set aside.

35. The appeal is therefore allowed. The impugned judgement dated 16.1.2013 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court no.3, in Sessions Trial No. 256 of 2002 is set aside and accused-appellant Ram Charan Jatav is acquitted from the charge under sections 18/20 of the NDPS Act. If he is in jail, he be released forthwith.

36. Office is directed to transmit the lower court record along with copy of this judgement to the learned court below for information and necessary compliance.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, Section 157- Ante-Timed F.I.R- Upon going through the evidence of P.W4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, we find that the time at which the special report was dispatched to the higher authority in Badaun has been deliberately suppressed by him and hence, an adverse inference can safely be drawn against the prosecution from the fact that the police constable who had gone to Badaun to deliver the special report to the higher authorities, had returned at 8 P.M. on 30.07.1989 that there was an inordinate delay on the part of the prosecution in dispatching the special report to the higher authority which indicates that the F.I.R. of the incident is ante-timed and it was not lodged at the time mentioned in the check F.I.R.

Deliberate suppression of the Special Report and inordinate delay in sending the same to the Magistrate is indicative of the F.I.R being ante-timed.

The absence of any blood under the cot of the deceased although each of the accused-appellants had fired at him, gives rise to a very strong suspicion that the incident had not taken place at the place alleged by the prosecution and P.W.1 by deposing that a lot of blood was found spilled on the ground, had spoken a lie before the trial court.

The testimony of a witness, unsupported and contradicted by other evidence (Blood marks), renders the case of the prosecution suspicious and unreliable.

B. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 – Section 3- Testimony of Related Witnesses- Reliability- In a case where the occurrence takes place partly inside the house and partly outside the family members and the close relatives are bound to be the natural witnesses and they cannot be said to be the chance witnesses. The mere fact that the witnesses are related to the deceased cannot be ground to discard their evidence. Both the natural witnesses and the chance witnesses have to be relied upon subject to their evidence being trustworthy and admissible in accordance with law.

Relatives of the deceased who are present in the house at the time of the commission of the offence are natural witnesses and relationship of the witnesses cannot be a factor to discard their evidence, provided the same is legally admissible and trustworthy.

C. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 114 (g)- Withholding evidence- Adverse Inference by the Court- Jagan, in whose chaupal murder of Dhanpal was committed would have been the best witness to prove the prosecution's claim that the deceased along with his father and cousin brother, had slept in his chaupal on the night of the incident, was strangely not produced as witness by the prosecution during the trial. Since no reason is forthcoming for non-production of Jagan as a witness during the trial, we have no option but to draw an adverse inference that in case he was examined as a witness, he would not have supported the prosecution case.

Where the prosecution withholds the best evidence deliberately, then the Court may draw an adverse inference that if produced, the said witness would not have supported the case of the prosecution.

D. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 – Section 155- Credibility of witness- Contradiction between ocular and oral evidence- The inconsistency in the medical and ocular evidence goes to show that the incident had not taken place in the manner alleged and also that the two witnesses produced by the prosecution were actually not present on the spot.
Where the medical evidence contradicts the ocular version, then the same leads to the conclusion that the witnesses are untrustworthy and their presence on the spot is doubtful. (Para 21,22,25,27,33)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Bala Krishna Narayana, J. & Hon'ble Arvind Kumar Mishra-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rahul Mishra and Sri Pradeep Kumar, learned counsel for the appellants and Smt. Manju Thakur, State Law Officer for the State.

2. This appeal has been preferred by the appellants against the judgement and order dated 19.04.1991 passed by Ist Additional Session Judge, Badaun in S.T. No.17 of 1990, State Vs. Nathoo and others, by which the appellants have been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C.

3. Briefly stated the facts of this case are that deceased Dhanpal was on friendly terms with accused Nathoo (A1) and used to visit the latter's house. Accused Prem Pal (A2) and Jai Lal (A3) were the friends of Nathoo (A1). The deceased developed intimate relations with Smt. Sushila, wife of Nathoo (A1). About 10 days before the incident, Smt. Sushila eloped and Nathoo (A1) held the deceased responsible for it and started bearing enmity against him. On 29.07.1989, informant Balak Ram, deceased Dhanpal and Raja Ram, nephew of the informant were sleeping in the chaupal of Jagan. A lit lantern was hanging on the wall-peg. Balak Ram and Raja Ram also had torches with them. At about 11.30 P.M., the informant was awakened by some noise and he flashed the torch. He saw the three accused-appellants, all armed with pistols. Nathoo (A1) then said that Dhanpal had eloped with his wife, he will kill him. Thereafter, each of the three accused fired a shot at Dhanpal and he died on the spot. The informant and Raja Ram raised an alarm but none came to the spot. The accused-appellants then ran away towards east.

4. On 30.07.1989, the informant went to the police station with the village chaukidar, and gave a written report of the occurrence (Ext.Ka.1) at P.S.- Binawar, District- Badaun at 6.30 A.M., scribed by one Shiv Kumar Sharma. On the basis of the written report (Ext.Ka.1), check F.I.R. (Ext.Ka.13) and G.D. Entry (Ext.Ka.14) were prepared and a case, namely, Crime No. 341/89 u/s 302 I.P.C. was registered against the accused-appellants.

5. P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta was entrusted with the investigation of the case, who recorded the statements of the informant and the Head Moharrir at the police station and then reached the place of occurrence. He inspected the place of the occurrence on the pointing out of the P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram, and prepared its site plan (Ext.Ka.4). He then prepared the inquest report (Ext.Ka.5) and other related papers (Exts.Ka.6 to Ka.10). He got the dead body of the deceased sealed and dispatched for postmortem through Constable Ganga Saran and village chowkidar Om Prakash. On the same day, he interrogated P.W.2 Raja Ram and took blood-stained 'baan' of the cot and mattress from the place of occurrence and sealed them separately vide memo (Ext.Ka.11). He inspected the lantern which was said to be burning on the spot at the relevant time and also the torches of the complainant and Raja Ram and gave them back in their supurdagi, vide memo (Ext.Ka.2).

6. P.W.3 Dr. S.P. Behal, the then Emergency Medical Officer, District Hospital- Badaun, conducted the postmortem on the dead body of the deceased on 30.07.1989 at 4 P.M. According to his opinion, the deceased was aged about 22 years and had died about 3/4 day ago. The deceased was of average built. Rigor mortis was present in upper and lower limbs but had passed off from the neck. The doctor found the following antemortem injuries on the person of the deceased :-

(1) A firearm injury on the right side of abdomen 9 cm away from umblicus at 10 o'clock position size 2 cm x 2 cm x cavity deep. Direction medially and backwards. Surrounded by blackening and tattooing in an area of 6 cm circular. Margins charred and inverted.

(2) A firearm injury on the left side of skull at parietal bone 10 cm above the left ear, size 2 cm x 2 cm x skull deep. Margins inverted. Blackening and tattooing present.

(3) An abraded firearm wound on the right side of chest 9.5 cm above the nipple at 10 o'clock position, size 1.5 cm x 1 cm x skin deep. Tattoing present at margins.

(4) Multiple small puncted firearm abrasions on the right side of chest at and around clavicular area front of chest and right side of chin and face in an area of 18 cm x 10 cm. Tattooing of skin present.

7. On internal examination, the doctor found that in the antemortem injury of skull, there was a circular fracture in left parietal bone and its size was 2 cm x 2 cm. A long bullet was recovered from the brain matter. Membranes of the brain were lacerated and they corresponded to the skull injury. There was blood clot about 100 gms, in the left side of brain. Peritoneum was lacerated in the abdomen. Blood clot, weighing about 200 gms, was present in the abdominal cavity. Intestines were lacerated at places and 9 small pellets and two wadding pieces were recovered from the abdominal cavity. Indigested food was present in small intestine. Some faecal matter and gases were present in large intestine. According to P.W.3 Dr. S.P. Behal, the death of the deceased had been caused due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of antemortem injuries on the skull and stomach. The doctor prepared the postmortem report and proved the same as (Ext.Ka.3). The doctor sealed the bullet, pellets and wadding pieces which were recovered from the dead body and handed them over to the constable along with one vest, one underwear and one amulet which were worn by the deceased.

8. The Investigating Officer, after completing the investigation, submitted charge-sheet (Ext.Ka.12) against all the accused-appellants u/s 302 I.P.C. before Chief Judicial Magistrate, Badaun. Since the offence mentioned in the charge sheet was triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions, Chief Judicial Magistrate, Badaun committed the the accused-appellants for trial to the Court of Sessions Judge, Badaun where the case was registered as S.T. No.17 of 1990, State Vs. Nathoo and others and made over for trial from there to the Court of Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Badaun, who on the basis of material collected during investigation and after hearing the prosecution as well as accused-appellants on the point of charge, framed charge u/s 302/34 I.P.C. against the accused-appellants. The accused-appellants abjured the charge and claimed trial.

9. The prosecution in order to prove its case examined as many as four witnesses of whom P.W.1 informant Balak Ram, father of the deceased and P.W.2 Raja Ram, nephew of the informant were examined as witnesses of fact while P.W.3 Dr. S.P. Behal, the medical officer who had conducted the postmortem on the dead body of the deceased and P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, the Investigating Officer of the case were produced as formal witnesses.

10. The accused-appellants in their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. alleged false implication in the case due to enmity and village partibandi. Accused-appellant no.2, Prem Pal further stated that he and the other accused-appellants were real brothers.

11. The accused-appellants examined D.W.1 Sri Arvind Kumar, Advocate Oath Commissioner and D.W.2 Sri Gyanendra Nath Gupta, Advocate Oath Commissioner to show that P.W.2 Raja Ram had twice on 07.03.1990 and 14.03.1990, sworn two affidavits (Exts.Kha.4 and Kha.3) in which he had mentioned that in the night of 29.07.1989 at about 11.30 P.M. he was sleeping in his field and that he had not seen the incident and that he had falsely been made an eye witness of the incident by Balak Ram.

12. Learned Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Badaun, after considering the submissions advanced before him by the learned counsel for the parties and scrutinizing the entire evidence on record, both oral as well as documentary, convicted the accused-appellants u/s 302/34 I.P.C. and sentenced them to imprisonment for life.

13. Hence, this appeal.

14. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the appellants that the F.I.R. in this case which is highly belated was scribed after due deliberations and consultations with the police after the dead body of the deceased was discovered falsely implicating the appellants and is ante-timed. The prosecution has miserably failed to prove the motive spelt out in the F.I.R. for the accused-appellants to commit the murder of the deceased. Learned trial Judge committed a patent error of law in placing reliance on the so-called eye-account of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram who are father and cousin brother of the deceased and hence, highly interested in seeing the accused-appellants convicted for the murder of deceased on account of admitted previous enmity and whose presence at the time and place of occurrence is wholly unnatural and doubtful. The medical evidence on record neither corroborates the time of occurrence nor the manner in which the murder of the deceased was allegedly committed by the accused-appellants, as narrated in the F.I.R. Absence of any blood at the place of occurrence clearly indicated that the deceased had not been murdered at the place mentioned in the F.I.R. and after he was found dead, his body was brought from the place of actual occurrence to the chaupal of Jagan and kept there. Neither the recorded conviction of the accused-appellants nor the sentences awarded to them can be sustained and are liable to be set-aside.

15. Per contra Smt. Manju Thakur, State Law Officer appearing for the State advanced her submissions in support of the impugned judgement and order. She submitted that it is fully proved from the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram that the deceased Dhanpal was murdered by the accused-appellants while he was sleeping in the chaupal of Jagan with P.W.1 and P.W.2 at about 11.30 P.M. on 29.07.1989. There is no material discrepancy in the medical evidence vis-a-vis the eye witness account. It was proved beyond all reasonable doubts from the eye witness account of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram and other evidence on record that deceased Dhanpal was shot dead by the accused-appellants while he was sleeping on a cot in the chaupal of Jagan. Absence of blood below the cot on which he was sleeping at the place of occurrence is not sufficient to disbelieve the prosecution claim that the deceased Dhanpal was shot dead at the place mentioned in the F.I.R. The motive as well as the time, place and manner of attack as well as the identity of the perpetrators of crime stood fully proved from the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram. The conviction of the accused-appellants recorded by the trial court is based on cogent reasons and the sentence awarded to them is supported by relevant considerations. The impugned judgement and order do not suffer from any illegality or legal infirmity and do not require any interference by this Court. This appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

16. The only question which arises for our consideration in this appeal is that whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case against the accused-appellants beyond all reasonable doubts or not ?

17. The first ground on which the learned counsel for the appellants have challenged the appellants conviction is that the F.I.R. in this case is ante-timed. There is an inordinate and unexplained delay of seven hours in lodging the same and upon perusal of the facts deposed by P.W.2 Raja Ram in the last paragraph of his examination-in-chief, it transpires that the same was prepared after due deliberations and consultations with the police and after the police had seen the deceased's body and inspected the crime scene, falsely implicating the accused-appellants on account of which the very foundation of the prosecution case is shattered and the entire case becomes suspicious and doubtful. Record of this case shows that the incident had taken place at about 11.30 P.M. on 29.07.1989 in the chaupal of Jagan in village Bhooripur, P.S.- Binawar, District- Badaun. The distance between the place of occurrence and P.S.- Binawar where the written report of the incident (Ext.Ka.1) was given by P.W.1 informant Balak Ram as mentioned in the check F.I.R. is about 8 km. The check F.I.R. (Ext.Ka.13) shows that the case was registered on 30.07.1989 at 6.30 A.M. As far as the question of delay in lodging the F.I.R. of the occurrence is concerned, in our opinion the same was satisfactorily explained by P.W.1 informant Balak Ram by deposing in his examination-in-chief on page 20 of the paper book that he had not gone to the police station immediately after the occurrence but had left for the police station in the early hours of the morning with the village chowkidar.

18. Now coming to the question whether the F.I.R. in this case was actually registered at 6.30 A.M. on 30.07.1989 or not, we have before us the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram, the two eye witnesses of the occurrence. Another issue which is interconnected with this issue is that whether the police had arrived at the place of occurrence before the F.I.R. was registered and had then returned to the police station with P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and the village chowkidar and then the F.I.R. of the incident was registered or the police had arrived at the place of occurrence after the F.I.R. of the incident had been lodged by P.W.1 informant Balak Ram at P.S.- Binawar, District- Badaun where he had gone with the village chowkidar early in the morning after the incident had taken place at about 11.30 P.M.

19. P.W.1 informant Balak Ram in his examination-in-chief on page 17 of the paper book has deposed that he had gone to P.S.- Binawar with the village chowkidar in the morning. He had got the written report of the incident scribed in front of the police station by a man and he had written whatever P.W.1 informant Balak Ram had dictated and after the contents of the written report were read over to him, he had put his thumb impression thereon. He proved the written report of the incident as (Ext.Ka.1). On the same page, he further deposed that the police had reached the village at about 10 A.M. However, P.W.2 Raja Ram in paragraph 27 of his cross-examination on page 41 of the paper book deposed that when the police had come to the village, thereafter P.W.1 informant Balak Ram had returned with the police to the police station and he had heard the police personnel telling P.W.1 informant Balak Ram that he should lodge the F.I.R. of the incident on which P.W.1 informant Balak Ram had gone to the police station with the police personnel. The aforesaid discrepancy in the testimonies of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram on the point whether the F.I.R. of the incident was lodged before the police had arrived at the place of occurrence or the police on receiving information about the incident from some other source, had reached the place of occurrence and thereafter, returned with P.W.1 informant Balak Ram to the police station and then the F.I.R. of the incident was then lodged, gives rise to a very strong doubt that the F.I.R. of the incident is a product of police interference. It is significant to note that the learned D.G.C. (Criminal) did not recall P.W.2 Raja Ram for getting the facts deposed by him in paragraph 27 of his cross-examination clarified. Although, the prosecution case is that the F.I.R. was lodged at 6.30 A.M. on 30.07.1989 but the facts of the case and the evidence of the witnesses show that the F.I.R. could not have been lodged at 6.30 A.M. The distance between the place of occurrence and the place of incident is about 8 km. P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, the Investigating Officer of this case, on page 56 of the paper book in his statement recorded before the trial court, has stated that it takes about four hours on foot to reach the police station from the village where the incident had taken place. P.W.1 informant Balak Ram in his examination-in-chief on page 17 of the paper book to which we have already referred to hereinabove, has stated that he had left for P.S.- Binawar with the village chowkidar early in the morning. Although he has not disclosed the exact time but we can safely presume that he had left for the police station between 4.30 and 5 A.M. by which time some light is visible in that part of the year in which the incident had taken place. P.W.1 informant Balak Ram in his statement has not deposed that he had gone to the police station by a vehicle. Therefore, we can safely infer that he had gone to the police station with the village chowkidar on foot and in that case, it was not possible for him to have reached the police station and lodge the F.I.R. at 6.30 A.M. after getting the same scribed in front of the police station and he could not have reached the police station before 8.30 A.M.

20. Another very clinching circumstance which supports the argument of the learned counsel for the appellants that the F.I.R. in this case is ante-timed is that the police had arrived at the place of incident by jeep as deposed by P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta in his cross-examination on page 57 of the paper book around 11 A.M. which is the time at which the inquest had commenced as is evident from the perusal of the inquest report (Ext.Ka.5). Now the question which arises for our consideration is that if the F.I.R. in this case was lodged at 6.30 A.M., why it took more than four hours for the police to reach the place of incident. P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, the Investigating Officer of this case, in his examination-in-chief on page 48 of the paper book has categorically deposed that the case was registered on 30.07.1989 at about 6.30 A.M. at P.S.- Binawar, District- Badaun in his presence and he had taken up the investigation of the case. There is no whisper of any explanation in his evidence for his failure to reach the place of occurrence promptly or atleast within a reasonable time. No prudent man can presume that it will take three or four hours for a police jeep to cover a distance of 8 kms.

21. There is another very significant aspect of the matter which was brought to our notice by the learned counsel for the appellants by referring to paragraph 16 of the statement of P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, in which he had stated that the constable who had gone to Badaun to deliver the special report to the higher authorities had returned to the police station at 8 P.M. Placing reliance on the aforesaid extract of the statement of P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, the learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the aforesaid fact shows that the F.I.R. was written much later and was ante-timed and its special report was dispatched sometime in the afternoon on 30.07.1989. Upon going through the evidence of P.W4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, we find that the time at which the special report was dispatched to the higher authority in Badaun has been deliberately suppressed by him and hence, an adverse inference can safely be drawn against the prosecution from the fact that the police constable who had gone to Badaun to deliver the special report to the higher authorities, had returned at 8 P.M. on 30.07.1989 that there was an inordinate delay on the part of the prosecution in dispatching the special report to the higher authority which indicates that the F.I.R. of the incident is ante-timed and it was not lodged at the time mentioned in the check F.I.R.

22. The next ground on which the learned counsel for the appellants has assailed the accused-appellants conviction is that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove the place of occurrence by any cogent and reliable evidence. As per the prosecution case, the deceased Dhanpal was shot dead by the accused-appellants while he was sleeping on a cot in the chaupal of Jagan along with P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram who were also sleeping on adjacent cots. Both P.W.1 and P.W.2 in their statements recorded before the trial court have deposed that the deceased was shot dead by the accused-appellants while he was sleeping in the chaupal of Jagan. P.W.1 informant Balak Ram in his cross-examination on page 23 of the paper book had further deposed that blood was spilled over an area of about 1 and ½ ft. on the ground and the Investigating Officer had collected plain and blood-stained earth from the place of occurrence. However, P.W.4 S.I. Chandra Shekhar Gupta, in paragraph 21 of his statement on page 25 of the paper book, has categorically deposed that he had neither found any blood under the cot of the deceased nor any pellet. The absence of any blood under the cot of the deceased although each of the accused-appellants had fired at him, gives rise to a very strong suspicion that the incident had not taken place at the place alleged by the prosecution and P.W.1 by deposing that a lot of blood was found spilled on the ground, had spoken a lie before the trial court.

23. The third ground on which the learned counsel for the appellants has castigated the accused-appellants conviction is that the prosecution has failed to prove the motive, as disclosed by the informant in the F.I.R., for the appellants to commit the murder of the deceased. It appears from the perusal of the F.I.R. and the evidence of the two witnesses of fact, P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram that Smt. Sushila, wife of Nathoo (A1) had eloped and Nathoo (A1) suspected that his wife had eloped with deceased Dhanpal and on account of aforesaid suspicion about 10 days before the occurrence, a quarrel had taken place between Nathoo (A1) and the deceased whereafter Nathoo (A1) had threatened to kill him and the murder of the deceased was the outcome of the aforesaid animosity. It is significant to note that there is nothing in the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram which may indicate that either P.W.1 informant Balak Ram or P.W.2 Raja Ram had witnessed the alleged quarrel which had taken place between the deceased Dhanpal and Nathoo (A1) after which he had threatened to kill the deceased Dhanpal. No report regarding the alleged quarrel was lodged by the deceased with the police. There is also no direct evidence on record showing that the wife of Nathoo (A1) had actually eloped with the deceased and the theory of elopment is based primarily upon suspicion. Both the witnesses of fact had categorically deposed in their evidence that they had heard of Smt. Sushila, wife of Nathoo (A1) having an affair with deceased Dhanpal. The evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram on the point of motive is legally inadmissible being hearsay. Moreover, it has come in the evidence that Smt. Sushila had returned to her husband Nathoo (A1) and on the date of the occurrence, she was living with him. Thus, in the absence of any direct evidence of the incident involving the quarrel between the deceased and Nathoo (A1) in which he had allegedly stated over the elopment of Smt. Sushila, wife of Nathoo (A1) with the deceased whereafter he had threatened to kill Dhanpal, we cannot presume that no such incident had taken place and the motive spelt out by the prosecution in the F.I.R. and as later testified by the prosecution witnesses in fact appears to have been concocted for the purpose of the case. Thus, we hold that the prosecution has failed to prove the motive for the accused-appellants to commit the offence.

24. The fourth ground on which the learned counsel for the appellants has challenged the appellants' conviction is that the trial court had committed a patent error of law in placing reliance upon the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram who claimed themselves to be the eye witnesses of the occurrence for the purpose of convicting the accused-appellants. In this regard, it has been canvassed that both P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram are closely related to the deceased Dhanpal. P.W.1 informant Balak Ram being his father and P.W.2 Raja Ram his cousin brother and hence, both were partisan and inimical towards the accused-appellants and highly interested in getting them convicted. Moreover, their presence as well as the presence of the deceased at the time and place of occurrence is absolutely unnatural. No reason has been given by P.W.1 informant Balak Ram for not sleeping in his own house. He has merely stated that on the date of the incident, his four sons, three daughters and his wife were sleeping in the house. He has nowhere deposed that no space was left for him and his son deceased Dhanpal to sleep in his house. The reason given by P.W.2 Raja Ram for P.W.1 informant Balak Ram sleeping along with the deceased Dhanpal in the chaupal of Jagan despite having their own separate fairly huge house in the village, does not inspire confidence. Moreover P.W.2 Raja Ram has failed to furnish any reason for his sleeping in the chaupal along with the deceased and P.W.1 informant Balak Ram, leaving the comfort of his own house. Before proceeding to examine the sustainability of the aforesaid ground of challenge to the accused-appellants conviction, we consider it proper to first have a glance at the law on the issue :-

The Apex Court in Waman and others v. State of Maharashtra reported in 2011 Crl. L.J. 4827 has observed in paragraph no.9 which reads as follows :

"In Balraje @ Trimbak v. State of Maharashtra, 2010 (70) ACC 12 (SC) = 2010 (90) AIC 32, this Court held that mere fact that the witnesses were related to the deceased cannot be a ground to discard their evidence. It was further held that when the eye witnesses are stated to be interested and inimically disposed towards the accused, it has to be noted that it would not be proper to conclude that they would shield the real culprit and rope in innocent persons. The truth or otherwise of the evidence has to be weighed pragmatically and the Court would be required to analyse the evidence of related witnesses and those witnesses who are inimically disposed toward the accused. After saying so, this Court held that if after careful analysis and scrutiny of their evidence, the version given by the witnesses appears to be clear, cogent and credible, there is no reason to discard the same."

It has been further observed in Waman (supra) that relationship cannot be a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. The evidence of a witness cannot be discarded solely on the ground of his relationship with the victim of the offence. The plea relating to relatives' evidence remains without any substance in case the evidence has credence and it can be relied upon. In such a case the defence, has to lay foundation if plea of false implication is made and the Court has to analyse evidence of related witnesses carefully to find out whether it is cogent and credible. The same view has been reiterated in State of U.P. v. Naresh and others*, reported in* 2011 (75) ACC 215 (SC) = 2011 (106) AIC 76 (SC).

In Thoti Manohar v. State of A.P., reported in 2012 (78) ACC 511 (SC), it has recently been observed by Hon'ble Supreme Court that in case the occurrence partly takes place inside the house and partly outside it, the family members and the close relatives are bound to be the natural witnesses. They cannot be said to be chance witnesses but they are most natural witnesses. Further it has also been observed that the minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the matter cannot bring discredit to the story of the prosecution.

Regarding evidentiary value of testimony of the interested or relatives witnesses, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mano Dutt and another v. State of U.P., reported in 2012 (77) ACC 209*, has observed in paragraph no.19 referring to the case of* Namdeo v. State of Maharashtra*, reported in* 2007 (58) ACC 414 (52) = 2007 (54) AIC 162, that this Court drew a clear distinction between a chance witness and a natural witness. Both these witnesses have to be relied upon subject to their evidence being trustworthy and admissible in accordance with law.

25. Thus, what follows from the reading of the aforesaid authorities is that in a case where the occurrence takes place partly inside the house and partly outside the family members and the close relatives are bound to be the natural witnesses and they cannot be said to be the chance witnesses. The mere fact that the witnesses are related to the deceased cannot be ground to discard their evidence. Both the natural witnesses and the chance witnesses have to be relied upon subject to their evidence being trustworthy and admissible in accordance with law.

26. We now propose to evaluate the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram on the touchstone of the principles enunciated by the Apex Court hereinabove.

27. The occurrence in this case had neither taken place partly inside the deceased's house nor partly outside it. Thus, the two eye witnesses, P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram cannot be said to be the natural witnesses. Both the witnesses admittedly have their own houses in the village which were at some distance from the place of occurrence. Both the witnesses have deposed that on the night of the occurrence, they along with the deceased had gone to sleep in the chaupal of Jagan. We have very carefully gone through the statements of both the eye witnesses and we have found that P.W.1 informant Balak Ram has failed to come up with any reason in his examination-in-chief for the deceased and himself not sleeping in their house. Similarly, P.W.2 Raja Ram has in his examination-in-chief deposed that P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and deceased had slept in the chaupal of Jagan due to paucity of place in their house but he has failed to come up with any reason for his sleeping along with P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and the deceased in the chaupal of Jagan. P.W.1 has not stated anywhere in his evidence that on the night of the occurrence, he was forced to sleep along with the deceased Dhanpal in the chaupal of Jagan due to scarcity of space in his house. Moreover, there is a material discrepancy in the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram which creates a doubt about the genuineness of their claim of being the eye witnesses of the occurrence. P.W.1 informant Balak Ram in his cross-examination on page 20 of the paper book has submitted that the appellants had shot Dhanpal while he was sleeping and he had died instantaneously. However, P.W.2 Raja Ram in his cross-examination on page 38 of the paper book has stated that after Dhanpal had received injury, he had got up and sat on the bed and then he had fallen back on the bed. While getting up, he had made a distress call "ki dadaa chalo". But neither he nor P.W.1 informant Balak Ram assured him that they were coming. The aforesaid discrepancy in the statements of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram gives rise to an irresistible conclusion that neither P.W.1 nor P.W.2 had witnessed the occurrence. The prosecution having failed to come up with any feasible explanation for the deceased, his father P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and his cousin P.W.2 Raja Ram choosing to sleep in the chaupal of Jagan, instead of sleeping in their own houses coupled with the absence of blood on the ground below the cot of the deceased evinces that neither the incident had taken place at the place mentioned in the F.I.R., as already held by us hereinabove nor any of the two eye witnesses had witnessed the same. Jagan, in whose chaupal murder of Dhanpal was committed would have been the best witness to prove the prosecution's claim that the deceased along with his father and cousin brother, had slept in his chaupal on the night of the incident, was strangely not produced as witness by the prosecution during the trial. Since no reason is forthcoming for non-production of Jagan as a witness during the trial, we have no option but to draw an adverse inference that in case he was examined as a witness, he would not have supported the prosecution case that the deceased Dhanpal and P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram had slept in his chaupal on the night of occurrence.

28. Thus, after a careful analysis of the evidence of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram, we are of the view that the entire prosecution story which has been woven around the testimony of P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram that the deceased was shot dead by the accused-appellants at about 11.30 A.M. on the date of the incident while they were sleeping in the chaupal of Jagan, does not inspire confidence.

29. The final ground on which the learned counsel for the appellants has challenged the accused-appellants conviction is that the medical evidence on record does not corroborate the ocular evidence vis-a-vis the manner of incident. It is contended by the learned counsel for the appellants that the injuries found on the body of the deceased Dhanpal could not have been inflicted on him in case the shots were fired at him by the accused-appellants if he was sleeping on the cot with his head towards west and his legs towards east. P.W.1 informant Balak Ram in paragraph 10 of his statement has stated that the deceased was shot at while he was lying down on the cot. His head was towards east. The accused-appellants were at a distance of about 1 and ½ pace and Nathoo (A1) was facing westwards. The postmortem report of the deceased shows that the antemortem injury nos.1, 3 and 4 noted on the body of the deceased were on the right side of his body while antemortem injury no.2 was on the left side of the corpse.

30. It is contended that the aforesaid injuries could not have been caused while the deceased was sleeping if the shots were fired by the accused-appellants while standing at the feet of the deceased, as shown in the site plan (Ext.Ka.4). The direction of these injuries should have been upwards and thus the inconsistency in the medical and ocular evidence goes to show that the incident had not taken place in the manner alleged and also that the two witnesses produced by the prosecution had not witnessed the incident. In this regard, it would be useful to refer to the evidence of P.W.3 Dr. S.P. Behal, who had conducted postmortem on the body of the deceased. P.W.3 in his cross-examination on page 46 of the paper book has deposed that the antemortem injury no.1 found on the deceased's body could be caused only if he was shot from the right side. But if the deceased was standing, then the injury could be caused even if the shot fired by the assailant was from the front or from the right side. As regards antemortem injury no.2, he opined that the same could be inflicted only if the shot was fired by the assailant in a standing posture from the left side at the head. Qua antemortem injury no.3 , he stated that the same could be caused if the shot was fired from the right side and injury nos.3 and 4 could be caused by a single shot. The direction of none of the injuries was upward.

31. A perusal of the site plan of the incident (Ext.Ka.4) indicates that the three cots on which the deceased, P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram had slept, were laid in east-west direction. The deceased was in the middle. In the site plan (Ext.Ka.4), the position of the accused-appellants has been denoted by the letter "C" which is towards south-east of the cot of the deceased. The distance has been given as one pace. The accused-appellants were standing towards the feet of the deceased as both P.W.1 informant Balak Ram and P.W.2 Raja Ram have deposed that they had slept with their head towards west and legs towards east. In view of the evidence of P.W.3 Dr. S.P. Behal, if the shots were fired at the deceased from the point "C", which was from the right side of the deceased's bed while he was lying, in that case it was possible for the deceased to have received antemortem injury nos. 1, 3 and 4 which were described as firearm wound :-

1) on the right side of abdomen 9 cm away from umblicus at 10 o'clock position size 2 cm x 2 cm x cavity deep. Direction medially and backwards. Surrounded by blackening and tattooing in an area of 6 cm circular. Margins charred and inverted.

3) on the right side of chest 9.5 cm above the nipple at 10 o'clock position, size 1.5 cm x 1 cm x skin deep. Tattooing present at margins.

4) on the right side of chest at and around clavicular area front of chest and right side of chin and face in an area of 18 cm x 10 cm. Tattooing of skin present.

32. No explanation is forthcoming from the prosecution's side as to how the antemortem injury no.2 was caused if the shots were fired by the accused-appellants from the right side of the cot on which the deceased was sleeping with his head towards west and legs towards east while accused-appellants were standing in the south-east of the deceased's cot.

33. Thus, the inconsistency in the medical and ocular evidence goes to show that the incident had not taken place in the manner alleged and also that the two witnesses produced by the prosecution were actually not present on the spot.

34. Thus, after a meticulous marshalling of the facts of the case and a threadbare scrutiny of the evidence on record, we have no hesitation in holding that the prosecution failed to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts. Neither the recorded conviction of the accused-appellants nor the sentences awarded to them can be sustained and are liable to be set-aside.

35. Thus, in view of the above, this appeal is accordingly allowed.

36. The impugned judgement and order is hereby set-aside.

37. The accused-appellants are acquitted of all the charges. They are on bail. They need not surrender. Their personal bonds are cancelled and their sureties discharged. However, the accused-appellants shall comply with the provisions of Section 437A of Cr.P.C.

A. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 118- Evidence of Child Witness- Sole witness- Reliability of- No serious effort was made by the learned trial Judge to satisfy himself whether P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav who was aged about six years old on the date of the incident and eight years on the date of recording of his statement was fit for deposition. His evidence came after eleven days of the incident and during this period, he had remained with his maternal grand parents. Considering his tender age on the date of occurrence, the possibility of his being tutored and influenced by his maternal grand father, cannot be ruled out. The unusual conduct of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav immediately after alleged murder by his father, is another circumstance, which creates a doubt about the credibility of his evidence.

It is incumbent upon the trial court to make a serious effort to determine the intellectual capacity of a child witness and satisfy itself that the child is a competent witness and has not been tutored while staying for a long period with the prosecution witnesses.

B.Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 118- Evidence of Child Witness- Sole witness- Reliability of - The trial Judge erred in law in convicting the appellant on the sole testimony of the child witness, son of the appellant without seeking corroboration from any other evidence. It has been repeatedly held that the evidence of a child witness is always risky and dangerous unless it is available immediately after the occurrence and before there is any possibility of coaching and tutoring.

It is risky to place reliance upon the evidence of a Child Witness unless it is available immediately after the occurrence and is not tutored, and recording the conviction of the accused without seeking corroboration of the sole testimony of the child witness from other evidence would be an illegality.

C. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 65 –B (4)- Admissibility of Electronic Records- C.D.R. of the appellant's cell phone brought on record by the prosecution to prove that the appellant was present in Vrindawan are wholly inadmissible in evidence on account of the fact that the same were not accompanied with necessary certificate as required under Section 65 B (4) of the Indian Evidence Act.
Where the Call Detail Records obtained by the prosecution are not accompanied with the necessary Certificate as mandated by Section 65 B (4) of the Evidence Act, then the same are wholly inadmissible in evidence. (Para 21,22,25,27,30,31)

Criminal Appeal Allowed. (E-3)

Case Law relied upon/ Discussed:-

1. Bhagwan Singh & ors.Vs St. of M. P. (2003) 3 SCC 21

(Delivered by Hon'ble Bala Krishna Narayana, J. & Hon'ble Rahul Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shyam Lal, learned counsel for the appellant, assisted by Mrs. Abhilasha Singh and Sri J. K. Upadhyay, learned A. G. A. assisted by Sri Abhijeet Mukherjee, learned State Law Officer for the State.

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred by appellant, Raj Kumar against the judgement and order dated 7.2.2013 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Hathras in S. T. No. 90/2011; State Versus Raj Kumar by which the appellant has been convicted under Section 302 I. P. C. and sentenced to imprisonment for life together with fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in case of default in payment of fine, one year's additional imprisonment.

3. The charge against the appellant Raj Kumar is that he had committed the murder of his wife Manju Devi on 20.7.2010 in his house in Mohalla-Jatan Kailash Nagar, district-Hathras by inflicting incised wounds on her neck with a knife.

4. It is interesting to note that the written report of the incident (Ext. Ka 11) was lodged by the accused-appellant himself at P. S.-Hathras, district-Hathras on 20.7.2010 at about 11.00 hrs. with regard to the incident which had taken place in the intervening night of 19/20.07.2010. In the written report it was stated by the accused-appellant that he had gone for Gowardhan Parikrama. On that night, his son Ritik had called him on phone asking him to return immediately and when he inquired about his wife, he told him that she was sleeping but he should come back to home immediately, on which, he became suspicious and came back to his home on motorcycle and on reaching there, he saw his wife, Manju Devi lying dead on the floor and blood was oozing out from her neck. Some un-known person had killed his wife by slitting her throat.

5. On the basis of the written report, Ext. Ka 11, chek F. I. R. (Ext. Ka 12) and the relevant G. D. entries were prepared vide nakal rapat No. 20, time 11.00 A. M.

6. The investigation of the case was entrusted to P. W. 8 S. I. Maan Pal Singh, who immediately after registration of the case recorded the statement of the scribe of the chek F. I. R. and the informant/accused-applicant, reached the place of occurrence and held inquest on the dead body of the deceased and prepared the inquest report (Ext. Ka 1) and other connected documents and then inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site plan (Ext. Ka 10). He recovered the bangles of Manju Devi, plain and blood stained earth from the place of occurrence and sealed the same on the spot and prepared the recovery memo of the aforesaid articles (Ext. Ka 3). He sealed the dead body of the deceased and dispatched the same to the mortuary where post mortem on the dead body of Manju Devi was conducted by P. W. 5 Dr. Navneet Kumar Arora on 20.7.2010 who also prepared and proved her post mortem report as (Ext. Ka 4). The post mortem report of the deceased indicates the following ante mortem injuries on the deceased's body :-

1) An abraded contusion on ant. aspect of neck 10 cm x 0.5 cm.

2) An incised wound on ant. aspect of neck 9 cm x 1 cm.

3) 3 stab wound on ant. aspect of neck 1 cm x 0.3 cm; 2 cm x 0.5 cm; 1 cm x 0.3 cm trachea cavity deep.

7. The cause of death was opined to be Asphyxia as a result of strangulation due to ante mortem chop injury over throat.

8. The investigation of the case was transferred on 20.7.2010 to P. W. 6 S.I. Ashok Vikrant at about 17.36 hrs. and thereafter to P. W. 8 S. I. Maan Pal Singh. On 24.7.2010 P. W. 2 Bhagwan Das Yadav, the father of the deceased, Manju Devi filed an application before the Circle Officer (City), Hathras stating therein that the murder of his daughter, Manju Devi had been committed by the appellant and his friend Vinod and in the said application the appellant's son Ritik Yadav was cited as eye-witness of the occurrence. The investigating officer recorded the statement of P. W. 2 Bhagwan Das Yadav and P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav, son of the appellant Raj Kumar on 31.7.2010. On 01.08.2010 the Investigating Officer arrested the appellant, Raj Kumar and co-accused Vinod made a confession before the police after his arrest that he had committed the murder of Manju Devi with the aid of the appellant, Raj Kumar and on his alleged pointing out the knife allegedly used in committing the deceased's murder was recovered on 01.08.2010 at about 1.00 P. M. The knife was seized and its' seizure memo (Ext. Ka 6) was prepared on the spot. The appellant, Raj Kumar in his statement recorded during the investigation pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. The Investigating Officer after completing the investigation submitted charge-sheet (Ext. Ka 6) against the appellant and the co-accused Vinod before the C. J. M., Hathras.

9. Since the offence mentioned in the charge-sheet was triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions, C. J. M., Hathras committed the case for the trial of the accused to the Court of Sessions Judge, Hathras where it was registered as S. T. No. 90 of 2011; State Versus Raj Kumar and made over for trial from there to the Court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Hathras who on the basis of the material on record and after giving an opportunity of hearing to the prosecution as well as the defence, framed charge against the accused under Section-302 I. P. C. Since co-accused Vinod was absconding, his trial was separated from the appellant, Raj Kumar. The accused-appellant Raj Kumar abjured the charge and claimed trial.

10. The prosecution in order to prove its case against the appellant examined as many as ten witnesses, out of whom P. W. 1 Shyam Babu witness of Panchayatnama, P. W. 2 Bhagwan Das Yadav, father of the deceased, P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav, who is the son of the appellant and deceased Manju Devi and eye-witness of the incident P. W. 4 Suresh, witness of recoveries and P. W. 9 Ram Babu Singh, the scribe of the written report of the incident (Ext. Ka 11) were examined as witnesses of fact, while P. W. 5 Dr. Navneet Arora who had conducted the post mortem and P. W. 6 S. I. Ashok Vikrant, the second investigating officer of the case, who had completed the investigation and filed charge-sheet (Ext. Ka 7), P. W. 7 Bhupendra Singh, witness of arrest of accused-appellant Raj Kumar, P. W. 8 S. I. Maan Pal Singh, the first investigating officer of the case who had conducted the inquest and proved the other related documents, site plan of the place of occurrence, recovery memo of the deceased's bangles and blood stained earth and P.W.10 Constable Anand Prakash who had registered the chek F. I. R. (Ext. Ka 12) and the relevant G.D. Entry of Case Crime No. 528 of 2010, were examined as formal witnesses.

11. The accused-appellant in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr. P. C. denied the prosecution case as false and alleged false implication. He further stated that his son P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav had given evidence against him under the influence of his maternal-grand father (Nana) and he was a totally tutored witness.

12. The Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Hathras after considering the submissions advanced before him by learned counsel for the parties and scrutinizing the evidence on record convicted the appellant under Section 302 I. P. C. and awarded aforesaid sentence of life imprisonment to him by the impugned judgement and order.

13. Hence this appeal.

14. Sri S. Lal, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the appellant's wife had been murdered by some un-known person while he had gone to Gowardhan for orbiting Gowardhan Parwat and when he received a phone call from his son Ritik Yadav frantically asking him to come back and on reaching his home, he found his wife lying dead on the floor and blood was oozing out from his neck. He had promptly lodged the F. I. R. of the incident and since after the death of his wife Manju Devi, his son had gone to live with his maternal grand parents, it appears that they influenced and prevailed upon him by taking advantage of his tender age and his having remained in their custody for more than ten days after the death of his murder, he gave a tutored statement before the police falsely implicating him in the murder of his wife at the behest of maternal grand father. He has next submitted that there being evidence on record that immediately after the occurrence the maternal aunt of P. W. 3 and his maternal grand parents had arrived at the scene of occurrence but P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav had not told them anything indicating at the complicity of the accused-appellant in the murder of his wife, it is established that the statement of P. W. 3, which saw the light of the day after twenty one days of the incident was clearly manipulated and tutored and as such no reliance could have been placed by the learned trial Judge on his statement for the purpose of convicting the accused-appellant. He has further submitted that the trial Judge erred in law in convicting the appellant for the murder of his wife on the solitary evidence of his son, P. W. 3, Ritik Yadav, who on the date of the incident was hardly six year's old young lad without seeking corroboration from any other evidence. C. D. R. (call detail record) pertaining to appellant's cell phone brought on record by the prosecution and proved by P. W. 3 for proving that appellant was not present at the place disclosed, were inadmissible in the absence of the recovery certificate as required under Section 65B (4) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. He has lastly submitted that such being the state of the evidence, neither the recorded conviction of the appellant nor the punishment awarded to him can be sustained and are liable to be set aside.

15. Per contra, Sri J. K. Upadhyay, learned A. G. A. has submitted that the child witness in this case P. W. 3, Ritik Yadav has given a vivid and cogent description of the occurrence and hence the trial judge did not commit any illegality or infirmity in convicting the appellant on the basis of his evidence. There is no material on record indicating any possibility of his tutoring and the delay in recording the statement of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav by the police does not, in any manner, render his testimony un-reliable. This appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

16. The only question which arises for our consideration in this appeal is whether the prosecution has been able to prove its' case against the appellant beyond all reasonable doubts or not ?

17. It is proved from the evidence of P. W. 5 Dr Navneet Kumar Arora, who had conducted autopsy on the body of the deceased and the post mortem report of the deceased (Ext. Ka 4) that the death of the deceased was homicidal. The issue which requires determination is whether the appellant is the author of the ante mortem injuries found on the dead body of Manju Devi ?

18. The main evidence led by the prosecution against the accused-appellant is the sole testimony of alleged child witness P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav, son of the appellant who was aged about six years' old at the relevant time of the incident. The corroborating evidence relied upon by the prosecution are that on the night of the incident, he had left his house with Vinod Yadav for relevant place with the object of orbiting Gowardhan Parwat is C. D. R. (Call Detail Record) of the appellant and Vinod which indicated that their cell phones location in the date of the incident was not in place disclosed by him, which were proved by P. W. 6 S. I. Ashok Vikrant, the second investigating officer of the case. Record shows that, it is not in dispute that at the time of the occurrence P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav was not alone in his house. It has come in his evidence that after the appellant had committed the murder of his mother, he started weeping, on which his father threatened to kill him also in case, he narrated the episode to anyone and thereafter his father took him to one Rinkoo Bhaiyya who lived in another room of his house and asked him to sleep with him. Thereafter, Rinkoo made him asleep. He had not told anything to Rinkoo Bhaiyya about the occurrence. It has also come in his evidence that one servant also used to sleep in his house and on the date of occurrence the servant whose name was Chhotu, was sleeping in the house.

19. Record further shows that although the incident had taken place on 20.7.2010, the prosecution version implicating the appellant and the co-accused Vinod saw the light of the day on 24.7.2010, which was in the form of an application given to the Circle Officer (City), Hathras by the father-in-law of the appellant, P. W. 2 Bhagwan Das yadav and maternal grand father of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav. Record also shows that the statement of P. W. 3 was not recorded by the Investigating Officer till 31.7.2010 whereafter the prosecution claims the appellant and the co-accused Vinod Yadav were arrested and on the pointing out of Vinod Yadav, crime weapon was recovered on 1.8.2010. Prosecution has failed to furnish any explanation for the inordinate delay on the part of the Investigating Officer in recording the statement of P. W. 3 Rinkoo Yadav.

20. It is not the case of the prosecution that any incriminating article was recovered either from the appellant or on his pointing out pursuant to any disclosure statement made by him before the police after his arrest.

21. From the perusal of the statement of P. W. 3 firstly, it transpires that no serious effort was made by the learned trial Judge to satisfy himself whether P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav who was aged about six years old on the date of the incident and eight years on the date of recording of his statement was fit for deposition. He simply asked him about the class in which he was studying, to which, he replied that he was studying in Class-II. He has further stated that it was not right to lie and it was good to serve one's parents.

22. We have very carefully gone through the statement of P. W. 3 and we cannot hold ourselves from expressing our surprise at the precision and vividness with which a young boy of six years had given his evidence before the trial Court. He seems to be remembering the minutest detail of the incident which took place in the night of the occurrence. He had gone to live with his maternal-grand parents on 20.7.2010 immediately after the incident and his statement under Section 161 Cr. P. C. was recorded by the Investigating Officer on eleventh day of the occurrence, i. e. 31.7.2010, during which period, he had remained in the exclusive custody of his maternal-grand parents and who since the date of the incident, as deposed by P. W. 3 were bearing the expenses of his studies, the possibility of his being under the influence of his maternal-grand parents cannot be ruled out. P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav in his examination-in-chief deposed that about two years back, his father, whose name is Raj Kumar Yadav and who is present in the Court had on the pretext of going to Gorwardan Parwat with the object of orbiting it, had left his house at about 8.00 P. M. accompanied by one Vinod Yadav. His father returned at about 12.00 hrs. in the midnight with Vinod Yadav whose house is behind Ram Mandir. His other house is in Vijay Nagar. They came at about 12.00 hrs. in the midnight. Vinod knocked at the door. His mother, whose name was Manju Yadav, opened the door and on seeing his father, she said that he had gone to Gowardhan Parwat with the object of orbiting it, then how he had returned so early on which his father replied that since he was not feeling well, he returned. Vinod strangulated his mother with a wire while his father stabbed her on the neck. Thereafter his mother died and then he started weeping, on which his father told him not to weep. He also told him that in case he told anyone about the incident, he would kill him also. Thereafter his father had taken him to Rinkoo Bhaiyya and asked Rinkoo Bhaiyya to make him asleep, on which Rinkoo asked his father why cannot he sleep in his room. Then Rinkoo Bhaiyya made him asleep. His father had asked him to call him on phone after sometime. Thereafter Vinod and his father went somewhere. In the morning, he called his father from the phone of Rinkoo Bhaiyya.

23. Yet another aspect of the issue is, it is quite unnatural and highly improbable, that appellant and Vinod would slaughter the deceased right in front of his son, P. W. 3. This is explicitly self destructive conduct, while creating an eye-witness of the entire incident. No sane person would commit hara-kiri by creating an eye-witness.

24. Now, from the evidence of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav, it transpires that despite his mother being murdered in his presence, he went back to sleep with Rinkoo bhaiyya.

25. The unusual conduct of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav taken into consideration, having regard to child psychology coupled with the fact that his statement was not recorded by the police immediately after the occurrence but it was recorded after eleven days, the possibility of his having not seen the incident and his version being tutored, cannot be ruled out and hence his testimony does not appear to be reliable. Moreover, no explanation is coming forth from the side of the prosecution as to why Rinkoo and and the servant Chhotu, who as per the evidence of P. W. 3, were also present in the house, were not examined.

26. There is yet another very unusual aspect of the evidence of P. W. 3 that he in his cross examination stated that he had not stated anything about his mother being murdered by her father and co-accused Vinod either to Rinkoo, who was present in the house and the time of incident or the policeman who had come to his house in the morning. He had also deposed that when he had gone to his village, he had not told anything about the occurrence either to his Tau, Tai or Bua. He had not narrated anything to the police when it had come to his house in the morning about the occurrence. He further deposed in his cross-examination (on page 30 of the paper-book) that in the morning of the occurrence he had gone to the house of his aunt but he did not tell her anything about the occurrence.

27. Thus, in view of the foregoing analysis and evaluation of evidence of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav, we are of the view that the trial Judge erred in law in convicting the appellant on the sole testimony of the child witness, son of the appellant without seeking corroboration from any other evidence. It has been repeatedly held that the evidence of a child witness is always risky and dangerous unless it is available immediately after the occurrence and before there is any possibility of coaching and tutoring.

28. A bare perusal of the deposition of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav convinces us that whatever he had deposed before the trial Court was as a result of tutoring by his maternal-grand parents. Moreover, the evidence of a child in this case, which saw the light of the day after eleven days, his failure to disclose the occurrence either to the police which reached the place of occurrence immediately after lodging of the F. I. R. or to Rinkoo with whom he had allegedly slept or to his maternal aunt or to his maternal grand parents who had arrived at the place of occurrence in the morning immediately after learning about the murder of his mother.

29. The Apex Court in the case of Bhagwan Singh and others Versus State of M. P. (2003) 3 SCC 21 while dealing with the issue of feasibility of recording the conviction on the basis of sole evidence of child witness without any corroborative evidence has observed as hereunder:

"20. In the case before us, the trial Judge has recorded demeanour of the child. The child was vacillating in the course of his deposition. From a child of six years of age, absolute consistency in deposition cannot be expected but if it appears that there was a possibility of his being tutored the court should be careful in relying on his evidence. We have already noted above that Agyaram, maternal uncle of the child, who first met him after the incident and took him along with his younger brothers to his father's village, has not been produced by the prosecution as witness in the court. It was most likely that if the child had seen the incident and identified the three accused, he would not have narrated it to Agyaram as the latter would have naturally inquired about the same. The conduct of his father Radheshyam who was produced as a witness by the prosecution is also unnatural that before recording the statement of the child by the police, he made no enquiries from the child.

21. We find some force in the submissions made by the learned counsel appearing for the State of Madhya Pradesh that looking to the age of child and his two younger brothers, it was most likely that they were with the mother and sleeping with her when she had gone to stay with her deceased father Mata Prasad. But the other possibility of the children being fast asleep when the elders of the house were attacked and killed cannot be ruled out as the incident is alleged to have happened in the midnight. Mere presence of the children in the house at the time of the incident is no assurance to the case of the prosecution that the eldest child got up on hearing hue and cries and had not only seen the incident but also identified the accused. Taking into consideration the child psychology a lad of six years having seen his mother being assaulted would have raised a cry; but he says that he quietly went back to sleep. It is also most unnatural even for a child that after witnessing his mother being assaulted by known persons he would go back to sleep to wake up late in the morning only when his maternal uncle Agyaram came to fetch him and his younger brothers to his father's village Alampur.

22. It is hazardous to rely on the sole testimony of the child witness as it is not available immediately after the occurrence of the incident and before there were any possibility of coaching and tutoring him. (See : Paras 14 15 of State of Assam vs. Mafizuddin Ahmed (1983) 2 SCC 14. In that case evidence of child witness is appreciated and held unreliable thus :

"14. The other direct evidence is the deposition of PW 7, the son of the deceased, a lad of 7 years. The High Court has observed in its Judgment :-

.. the evidence of a child witness is always dangerous unless it is available immediately after the occurrence and before there were any possibility of coaching and tutoring.

15. A bare perusal of the deposition of PW-7 convinces us that he was vacillating throughout and has deposed as he was asked to depose either by his Nana or by his own uncle. It is true that we cannot expect much consistency in the deposition of this witness who was only a lad of 7 years. But from the tenor of his deposition it is evident that he was not a free agent and has been tutored at all stages by someone or the other".

30. Thus, upon a careful appraisal and appreciation of the evidence of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav, child witness in this case, we find that his evidence came after eleven days of the incident and during this period, he had remained with his maternal grand parents. Considering his tender age on the date of occurrence, the possibility of his being tutored and influenced by his maternal grand father, cannot be ruled out. The unusual conduct of P. W. 3 Ritik Yadav immediately after alleged murder by his father, is another circumstance, which creates a doubt about the credibility of his evidence.

31. C. D. R. of the appellant's cell phone brought on record by the prosecution to prove that the appellant was present in Vrindawan are wholly inadmissible in evidence on account of the fact that the same were not accompanied with necessary certificate as required under Section 65 B (4) of the Indian Evidence Act.

32. Upon a wholesome consideration of the facts of the case, attending circumstances and the evidence on record, we are of the view that neither the recoded conviction of the appellant nor the sentence awarded to him, can be sustained and is liable to be set aside.

33. Thus, the appeal succeeds and is allowed and the impugned judgement and order dated 7.2.2013 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Hathras is set-aside and the appellant is acquitted of all the charges framed against him. Since he is in jail, he shall be released forthwith unless he is wanted in some other case subject to his complying with the mandatory requirement of Section 437-A Cr. P. C.

Criminal Appeal No. 1263 of 2015

Criminal Appeal No. 745 of 2015

Mohd. Azam ...Appellants (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Hemant Kumar, Sri Anoop Trivedi, Sri Dileep Kumar, Sri Kamal Krishna, Sri Rajrshi Gupta, Sri Vivek Prakash Mishra

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A., Sri Vijay Kumar Pandey

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 154- Ante-Timed First Information Report-Two written reports of the incident were given at the police station one by P. W. 1 and the other by P. W. 2 , which was given at the police station after the inquest proceedings had concluded- Strangely instead of registering the case on the basis of the written report given by P. W. 1 at the police station, the case was registered on the written report of the occurrence allegedly given by P. W. 2- The fact that the FIR of the incident which had taken place on 28.12.1995 at 10:00 A.M. was registered on the same day at the same time is in itself an impossible feat-The inquest report does not mention the number of the case crime and that the name of the person on whose information the inquest proceedings had commenced has been shown as P. W. 1 and not P. W. 2. Since the FIR in this case itself appears to be a devious, bogus and fictitious document, hence no reliance on the prosecution story as spelt out therein can be placed.

Where the First Information Report is apparently a suspicious document and finds no corroboration from the Inquest report, then no reliance can be placed on the story of the prosecution as alleged therein.

B. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 114(g) - Adverse Inference against the prosecution-The Head Constable / Head Moharrir who had prepared the chek FIR was deliberately not examined by the prosecution with oblique motive. He having not been produced as a witness, the defence was deprived of the opportunity to cross-examine him.
Where the First Information Report is questionable and doubtful, the withholding of the Head Constable / Head Moharrir by the prosecution would lead the Court to take an adverse inference against the case of the Prosecution.

C. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 45- Forensic Evidence-Insufficiency of- Admittedly the firearm weapons which were allegedly used by the accused-appellants for committing the murder of the deceased were never recovered during investigation. We are absolutely in the dark about the kind of weapons which were used by the culprits. The report of forensic expert vis-a-vis the bullet and the pellet which were recovered from the body of the deceased, Imamuddin @ Buggu, plain and bloodstained earth recovered from the place of occurrence and the clothes of the deceased Ext. Ka12 merely states that the blood was found on the bloodstained earth and other articles sent for forensic examination but the same were either totally disintegrated or not capable of classification. We are afraid that the forensic evidence on record is not at all sufficient to link the appellants with the offence for which they have been convicted.
The absence of recovery of any fire arms from the accused coupled with the fact that the blood stains were either totally disintegrated or not capable of any classification in the report of the serologist would render the forensic evidence insufficient to link the accused with the commission of the alleged offence.

D. Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Conflict between ocular and medical evidence – It is the duty of the Court to separate the chaff from the grain- The manner of assault as described in the FIR and later testified by the three witnesses of fact produced during the trial by the prosecution does not find corroboration from the medical evidence on record which puts a big question mark against their claim of being eye-witnesses of the occurrence. Considering the material contradictions in their testimonies inter alia on the point of time and the identity of the person who had lodged the FIR of the occurrence and the irreconcilable conflict between the ocular version and the medical evidence with regard to the number of shots fired at the deceased by the accused-appellants, it cannot be said that the three witnesses of fact have given cogent and correct description of the occurrence and that their evidence is wholly reliable and trustworthy.
The irreconcilable conflict between the ocular and medical evidence as well as the material contradictions in the testimonies of the eye witnesses would render the testimonies of the witnesses unreliable and untrustworthy.
The prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case against the appellants beyond all reasonable doubts. Hence neither the recorded conviction of the appellants nor the sentences awarded to them can be sustained and are liable to be set aside. (Para 17,18,19,22,24)

Criminal Appeal Allowed. (E-3)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Bala Krishna Narayana, J.)

1. These two connected appeals were heard by us on 29.3.2018 on which date we had passed the following order :

"Heard Sri Dileep Kumar, Advocate assisted by Sri Rajrshi Gupta, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant, Sri Vijay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the complainant and Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned AGA for the State.

We will give reasons later. But we are making the operative order here and now.

Since both the aforesaid appeals arise out of one and the same judgment and order dated 18.02.2005 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Azamgarh, therefore, both the appeals are being decided of by way of a common judgment.

Both the criminal appeals are allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 18.02.2015 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Azamgarh in S.T. No. 341 of 1996 (State Versus Mohd. Azam and others) by which the appellant-Mohd. Azam in Criminal Appeal No. 1263 of 2015 has been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs. 30,000/- under Section 302 IPC and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment while appellants-Liaqat and Alauddin in Criminal Appeal No. 745 of 2015 have been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs. 30,000/-each and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment each, are hereby set aside.

The appellants in both the aforesaid appeals are acquitted of all the charges framed against them. Appellant-Mohd. Azam in Criminal Appeal No. 1263 of 2015 is in jail. He shall be released forthwith unless he is wanted in any other criminal case while appellants-Liaqat and Alauddin in Criminal Appeal No. 745 of 2015 are on bail. They need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and the sureties are discharged. The appellants shall comply with Section 437A of Cr.P.C. within three weeks."

We are now giving reasons :

1. These two criminal appeals namely, criminal appeal nos. 1263 of 2015 and 745 of 2015 have been preferred by Mohd. Azam, appellant in criminal appeal no. 1263 of 2015 and Liaqat and Alauddin, appellants in criminal appeal no. 745 of 2015 against the judgment and order dated 18.2.2015 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Azamgarh in S.T. No. 341 of 1996 (State Versus Mohd. Azam and others) by which the appellant-Mohd. Azam in Criminal Appeal No. 1263 of 2015 has been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs. 30,000/- under Section 302 IPC and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment while appellants-Liaqat and Alauddin in Criminal Appeal No. 745 of 2015 have been convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life with fine of Rs. 30,000/- each and in default of payment of fine six months additional rigorous imprisonment each u/s 302 IPC.

2. Briefly stated the facts of this case are that P. W. 2 Ashahad gave a written report Ext. Ka1 at Police Station Devgaon, District Azamgarh on 28.12.1995 stating therein that he is a resident of Katauli Khurd, Police Station Devgaon, Distrcit Azamgarh. On 28.12.1995 while Imamuddin @ Buggu was coming to him to bring the key of his vehicle he met accused, Azam son of Ali Hasan, Liaqat son of Haji Tauheed, Alauddin son of Rauf and Ajaz son of Mannan in the lane and on seeing them, they taunted him for filing a case against them and started chasing them on which they ran towards the east of the lane, Azam shot at Imamuddin @ Buggu with his firearm. Thereafter, Ajaz (non-appellant) also shot Imamuddin @ Buggu who died on the spot and on hearing the sounds of gun shots Javed Khan son of Aslam Khan and Abdul Kalam son of Ayyub also reached the place of occurrence and witnessed the incident which had taken place at about 10 A.M.

3. On the basis of the aforesaid written report Ext. Ka1, case crime no. 295 of 1995, under Section 302 IPC was registered against the appellants and one Ajza Ahmad, chek FIR Ext. Ka13 and corresponding G.D. entry Ext. Ka14 were prepared by P. W. 4 Asharafi Lal.

4. The investigation of the case was taken over by P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal who at the relevant point of time was posted at Police Station Devgaon, District Azamgarh. He after receiving the information tendered to him by P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam son of Ayyub who was accompanied with 4 to 5 persons, at Police Station Devgaon, District Azamgarh on 28.12.1995 at 10 A.M. that Imamuddin @ Buggu resident of village Katauli Khurd had been shot dead, reached the place of incident and after nominating the inquest witnesses, he conducted the inquest proceedings on the body of the deceased at 11:00 A.M. and after completing the inquest, prepared the inquest report of the deceased along with other related papers namely police form no. 13, photo nash, report addressed to R.I. Ext. Ka4 to Ext. Ka7 and report addressed to C.M.O. Ext. Ka8. Thereafter, he got the dead body of the deceased, Imamuddin @ Guggu sealed and dispatched to the District Hospital Azamgarh for conducting postmortem. The postmortem on the body of the deceased was conducted by late Dr. J.S. Govind on 29.12.1995 at about 12:15 P.M. which was proved by P. W. 3 Dr. Rajendra Prasad, Chief Pharmacist, Police Hospital, District Azamgarh. The postmortem report Ext. Ka3 indicated following ante mortem injuries on the deceased's body :

(ii) Firearm wound of exit 2.50 cm x 2 cm x bone deep and communication to injury no. 1 margin lacerated invented under laying bone fracture.

(iii) Firearm wound of entry 2 cm x 2.50 cm x muscle deep on the outer aspect of right upper arm 16 cm below right shoulder joint margin invent.

(iv) Firearm wound of exit 3 cm x 2.50 cm x muscle deep on right upper arm inner aspect 18 cm below right shoulder and it is communicating with injury no. 3.

(vi) Firearm wound exit 4 cm x 2.75 cm x abdomin and chest cavity deep on left side abdomin upper part near right side with axillary line margin invented lacerated injury is communicating to injury no. 5 recovered one plastic piece and corte.

According to the postmortem report of the deceased, cause of death was shock and hemorrhage due to ante mortem injuries.

5. P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal, the Investigating Officer of the case after completing the investigation filed charge-sheet against all the accused including the appellants under Section 302 IPC before C.J.M. Azamgarh who by his committal order order dated 24.7.1996 committed the accused for trial to the Court of Sessions Judge, Azamgarh where the case was registered as S.T. No. 341 of 1996 and made over from there for trial to the Court of Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Azamgarh who on the basis of the material collected during investigation and after hearing the prosecution as well as the accused on the point of charge, framed charge on 8.1.1999 under Section 302 IPC against accused-appellant, Mohd. Azam and under Section 302/34 IPC against the other accused-appellants Liaqat and Alauddin. The accused-appellants abjured the charge and claimed trial.

6. The prosecution in order to prove its case examined as many as five witnesses of whom P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam, P. W. 2, informant, Ashahad and P. W. 5 Javed Khan were produced as witnesses of fact while P. W. 3 Dr. Rajendra Prasad, Chief Pharmacist who proved the photo stat copy of the postmortem report of the deceased as Ext. Ka2. P. W. 4 S.I. Asharfi Lal, Investigating Officer of the case who had prepared and proved the inquest report Ext. Ka4, police form no. 13 Ext. Ka5, photo nash Ext. Ka6, R.I. report Ext. Ka7, C.M.O. report Ext. Ka8, site plan of the incident Ext. Ka9, recovery memo of bloodstained and simple earth from the place of occurrence Ext. Ka10, charge-sheet Ext. Ka11, report of the forensic expert of the bullet recovered from the dead body of the deceased Ext. Ka12, chek FIR Ext. Ka13 and carbon copy of the corresponding G.D. entry Ext. Ka14, were produced as formal witnesses.

7. The accused-appellants in their examinations under Section 313 Cr.P.C. denied the prosecution case as false and claimed themselves to be innocent and examined D.W. 1 Mohd. Ikhlaq as defence witness.

8. The learned Trial Judge after considering the submissions advanced before him by the learned counsel for the parties and scrutinizing the evidence on record, both oral as well as documentary, convicted the appellants under the aforesaid sections and sentenced them to life imprisonment together with fine.

9. Hence this appeal.

10. Sri Dileep Kumar, learned counsel appearing for the appellants has submitted that the FIR in this case is ante-timed. The written report of the incident which was signed and given by P. W. 2 Ashahad at Police Station Devgaon, District Azamgarh was suppressed and the same did not see the light of the day and the report which was signed and given by P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam at the police station as is evident from the perusal of the chek FIR and the corresponding G.D. entry Ext. Ka13 and Ext. Ka14 was not the first information report of the incident but the same was prepared on the advice of the police personnel as is evident from the evidence of P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal, the Investigating Officer of the case itself. He next submitted that none of the so called eye witnesses had seen the occurrence. This fact is self evident in view of the irreconcilable conflicts vis-a-vis the ocular version and the medical evidence on record. The prosecution case as spelt out in the FIR which was lodged by P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam claiming himself to be an eye witness of the occurrence was that the deceased had received one gun shot each from the appellant, Mohd. Azam and non-appellant, Ajaz whereas the postmortem report of the deceased Ext. Ka3 indicated as many as three firearm wounds of entry with corresponding firearm wounds of exit. The eye witness account in this case does not inspire confidence and false implication of the appellants in the present case is writ large on the face of the record. Neither the recorded conviction of the appellants nor the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to them can be sustained and the same are liable to be set aside.

11. Per contra Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned counsel appearing for the State submitted that the prosecution having succeeded in establishing the charge framed against the appellants by leading cogent and reliable evidence, the recorded conviction of the appellants by the trial court is not liable to be interfered with on account of there being some minor inconsistencies vis-a-vis the medical evidence and the ocular version. The FIR in this case is not ante-timed. The three witnesses of fact examined by the prosecution during the trial to prove the charge framed against the appellants have consistently supported the prosecution case on all material aspects of the incident and their evidence is not liable to be discarded merely on account of there being some minor contradictions in their evidence which are wholly immaterial and do not affect the core of the prosecution case. This appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

12. The only question which arises for our consideration in this appeal is that whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case against the accused-appellants beyond all reasonable doubts or not.

13. Record shows that the incident had taken place at about 10 A.M. on 28.12.1995 within the limits of village Katauli Khurd, District Azamgarh. The written report of the incident Ext. Ka1 is said to have been given by P. W. 2 Ashahad, brother of the deceased at Police Station Devgaon, District Azamgarh on the same day at about 10 A.M. as deposed by P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal, the Investigating Officer of the case in his examination-in-chief on page 32 of the paper book. The distance between the police station and the place of occurrence as mentioned in the chek FIR Ext. Ka13 is about 3 km. P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam, the real brother of the deceased on page 17 and 18 of the paper book in his cross-examination twice deposed that the report of the incident was lodged by him, although on page 19 of the paper book he corrected himself by saying that the FIR was lodged by his brother Ashahad P. W. 2 and he and Javed had accompanied him to the police station and on the same page he stated that they had gone to the police station on their motorcycle and had reached the police station some time between 3 P.M. to 4 P.M. The FIR was scribed at the police station and given to Daroga Ji of Police Station Devgaon.

14. P. W. 2 Ashahad on page 26 of the paper book in his examination-in-chief deposed that he and his maternal grandfather, Mohd. Zakariya had gone to the police station along with Atahar to lodge the FIR of the incident on one motorcycle along with Javed Khan P. W. 5 who was on another motorcycle and the FIR was scribed on the paper which was brought by P. W. 5 Javed Khan from the market, he had signed the report after the same had been read over to him. He proved the written report which was given by him at Police Station Devgaon. He further deposed on page 27 of the paper book that he along with his maternal grand-father (Nana) who accompanied with Atahar had gone to the police station and given Ext. Ka1 at the Police Station Devgaon. He was given a copy of the report and thereafter, they along with the Daroga Ji had returned to the place of occurrence where his statement was recorded after the completion of inquest proceedings. On page 29 of the paper book, he in his cross-examination denied the suggestions given to him that on the date and at the time of the incident he was not present in Azamgarh and he had reached the crime scene after the completion of inquest proceedings. On the same page where it was suggested to him by the defence counsel that his brother Abdul Kalam had given a written report against the Jaipuriya people on the basis of which inquest was conducted, he did not specifically deny the same and feigned ignorance.

15. P. W. 2 Ashahad has neither disclosed the time at which he had left the place of occurrence for the police station nor the time at which he reached thereon.

16. P. W. 5 Javed Khan also has not disclosed in his evidence the time at which he and the informant P. W. 2 Ashahad and the other persons accompanying them had reached the police station. He denied the suggestion given to him that the first information report of the incident was given at the police station against unknown persons and on the basis of which inquest proceedings were conducted.

17. We now proceed to evaluate the evidence of P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal on the aforesaid aspect of the matter. P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal in his examination-in-chief on page 32 of the paper book has deposed that he was posted as Officer-In-Charge of Police Station Devgaon on 28.12.1995. On that day at about 10 A.M., P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam son of Mohd. Islam along with his 4 or 5 companions had come to the police station at about 10 A.M. On the information given to him by P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam that one Imamuddin @ Buggu resident of Village Katauli Khurd had been shot dead, he after issuing the necessary directions to register the case, reached the place of occurrence along with his force in a government jeep in village katauli Khurd and on reaching there he saw a dead body lying on cot. He after nominating the inquest witnesses commenced the inquest proceedings at 11 A.M. The inquest report which is on record as Ext. Ka4 also indicates that inquest proceedings had commenced pursuant to the information given at the police station by Abdul Kalam son of Mohd. Islam that Imamuddin @ Buggu had been shot dead. The inquest report Ext. Ka4 neither mentions the case crime number nor the names of the accused. P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal was re-examined and he in his re-examination on page 37 of the paper book deposed that the FIR of the incident which was on the record of the case was prepared on the basis of the written complaint given by Mohd. Ashahad son of Ayyub Ahmad on 28.12.1995 which is on record as Ext. Ka1. He further deposed before the Court that he was not aware about the fact whether there was any other person in village Katauli Khurd called Abdul Kalam son of Islam or not. He was also not aware whether the name of the father of Abdul Kalam is Ayyub or not. Chek FIR was not prepared on the basis of the written report given to him at the place of occurrence at the time when he had gone there to conduct inquest proceedings. He had received the written report of the occurrence when he had returned to the police station after completing the inquest proceedings which was signed by P. W. 2 Ashahad. The written report signed by Ashahad was received by him after 4 hours. He had scolded the Munshi for his having not prepared the chek FIR after receiving the written complaint of Abdul Kalam.

18. Thus, upon perusing the evidence of P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam, P. W. 2 Ashahad,

P. W. 5. Javed Khan, the eye-witnesses of the occurrence and P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal, investigating officer of the case, we have no hesitation in holding that the FIR in this case is ante-timed. It is proved from the evidence of P. W. 1, P. W. 2 and P. W. 4 that two written reports of the incident were given at the police station one by Abdul Kalam P. W. 1 and the other by P. W. 2 Ashahad, which was given at the police station after the inquest proceedings had concluded. The report given by P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam was anterior in point of time is proved from the evidence of P. W. 4 Asharfi Lal and also recitals contained in the inquest report which described the informant as Abdul Kalam P. W. 1 but strangely instead of registering the case on the basis of the written report given by P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam at the police station, the case was registered on the written report of the occurrence allegedly given by P. W. 2 Ashahad at Police Station Devgaon 4 to 5 hours after the occurrence which was apparently prepared after due deliberations and consultations falsely implicating the appellants due to admitted previous enmity between the parties. The Head Constable / Head Moharrir who had prepared the chek FIR was deliberately not examined by the prosecution with oblique motive. He having not been produced as a witness, the defence was deprived of the opportunity to cross-examine him. Moreover, the fact that the FIR of the incident which had taken place on 28.12.1995 at 10:00 A.M. was registered on the same day at the same time is in itself an impossible feat notwithstanding the fact that the distance between the police station and the place of occurrence is only 3 km and the informant's claim is that he had gone to the police station to lodge the FIR on a motorcycle, because as a normal human reaction after the incident, sometime must have been lost in grieving over the death of Imamuddin @ Buggu and procuring the piece of paper from the market on which written report was scribed by P. W. 5 Javed Khan on the dictation of P. W. 2 Ashahad. Moreover, there are other attendant circumstances which indicate that the FIR in this case is ante-timed and the information of the incident was not given by P. W. 2 Ashahad but P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam and the FIR of the incident which was lodged by P. W. 2 Ashahad was not in existence at the time of holding of the inquest, inter alia that the inquest report Ext. Ka4 does not mention the number of the case crime ; and that the name of the person on whose information the inquest proceedings had commenced has been shown as P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam and not P. W. 2 Ashahad.

19. Thus, the credibility of the FIR in this case stands totally shattered in view of the evidence on record. Since the FIR in this case itself appears to be a devious, bogus and fictitious document, hence no reliance on the prosecution story as spelt out therein can be placed.

20. The veracity of the evidence of the three eye-witnesses produced by the prosecution during the trial has been castigated by the learned counsel for the appellants on the ground that ocular testimony in this case is contrary to the medical evidence. It has been held by the Apex Court in a catena of decisions that where there is direct evidence on record minor variance between the direct evidence and the medical evidence or inconsistency in the direct evidence vis-a-vis medical evidence, it is the duty of the Court to remove the chaff from grain and ascertain the truth. In the instant case, the prosecution has come up with a categorical case that appellant, Mohd. Azam and non-appellant, Ajaz had each fired a single shot at the deceased, Imamuddin @ Buggu. All the three witnesses of fact, P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam, P. W. 2 Ashahad as well as P. W. 5 Javed Khan have consistently deposed before the trial Court in the same voice. However, the postmortem report of the deceased which was prepared by Dr. J.S. Govind on 29.12.1995 at about 12:15 P.M. and proved by P. W. 3 Dr. Rajendra Prasad, Chief Pharmacist, Police Hospital, District Azamgarh as Dr. J.S. Govind had unfortunately expired clearly indicates that the deceased had received three firearm wounds of entry namely (i) firearm wound of entry 1cm x 1cm bone deep on the left side face over left ear triangular margins lacerated invented under laying bone fracture, (ii) firearm wound of exit 2.50 cm x 2 cm x bone deep and communication to injury no. 1 margin lacerated invented under laying bone fracture, (iii) Firearm wound of entry 2 cm x 2.50 cm x muscle deep on the outer aspect of right upper arm 16 cm below right shoulder joint margin invent.

21. We have very carefully scanned the evidence of P. W. 3 Rajendra Prasad, Chief Pharmacist, Police Hospital, District Azamgarh who was examined by the prosecution during the trial to prove the postmortem report of the deceased but we have not found anything in his evidence which may indicate that the three ante mortem firearm wounds of entry found on the dead body of Imamuddin @ Buggu could be result of two shots. Infact the testimony of P. W. 3 Dr. Rajendra Prasad is wholly silent on the aforesaid aspect of the matter.

22. Admittedly the firearm weapons which were allegedly used by the accused-appellants for committing the murder of the deceased were never recovered during investigation. We are absolutely in the dark about the kind of weapons which were used by the culprits. The report of forensic expert vis-a-vis the bullet and the pellet which were recovered from the body of the deceased, Imamuddin @ Buggu, plain and bloodstained earth recovered from the place of occurrence and the clothes of the deceased Ext. Ka12 merely states that the blood was found on the bloodstained earth and other articles sent for forensic examination but the same were either totally disintegrated or not capable of classification. We are afraid that the forensic evidence on record is not at all sufficient to link the appellants with the offence for which they have been convicted. Moreover, neither there is any evidence nor any suggestion which may indicate as to which out of two accused, Mohd. Azam and non-appellant, Ajaz had shot at the deceased with the double barrel gun. The three ante mortem injuries noted by P. W. 3 Dr. Rajendra Prasad, Chief Pharmacist, Police Hospital, District Azamgarh on the body of the deceased, Imamuddin @ Buggu are on different parts of his dead body, although, the three witnesses of the occurrence have stated in unison that the two shots were fired by the appellants at the deceased.

23. In the instant case, the accused-appellants were neither apprehended on the spot nor any firearm was recovered from them or on their pointing out at any stage of the investigation.

24. Thus, in the present case, we find that the manner of assault as described in the FIR and later testified by the three witnesses of fact produced during the trial by the prosecution does not find corroboration from the medical evidence on record which puts a big question mark against their claim of being eye-witnesses of the occurrence. Moreover, all the three witnesses of fact, two of them namely P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam and P. W. 2 Ashahad being the real brothers of the deceased while P. W. 5 Javed Khan his cousin brother, are highly interested witnesses. It is true that the evidence of a witness cannot be discarded merely on account of his being a relative of the deceased if upon a cautious appraisal of his evidence, the Court comes to the conclusion that he has given correct and cogent description of the incident but considering the material contradictions in their testimonies inter alia on the point of time and the identity of the person who had lodged the FIR of the occurrence and the irreconcilable conflict between the ocular version and the medical evidence with regard to the number of shots fired at the deceased by the accused-appellants, it cannot be said that the three witnesses of fact have given cogent and correct description of the occurrence and that their evidence is wholly reliable and trustworthy. The previous enmity between the parties could be a very strong reason for them to falsely implicate the appellants after the dead body of the deceased was found.

25. The motive for the accused-appellants to commit the murder of the deceased as spelt out in the FIR and as deposed by P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam and P. W. 2 Ashahad in their evidence tendered before the trial court is that on the date of occurrence while Zakariya, the maternal grand-father of the deceased was going to lodge the FIR with regard to an occurrence which had taken place one day before the date of occurrence in which two persons Naushad and Seraj had dealt a lathi blow to Zakariya, the accused had shot the deceased in reaction. There is no evidence on record showing that the appellants had also participated in the earlier incident or they were either relatives of Naushad and Seraj or they had committed the offence at their behest. No reason is forthcoming as to why the appellants would have shot the deceased Imamuddin @ Buggu instead of shooting Zakariya, the maternal grand-father of P. W. 1 Abdul Kalam and P. W. 2 Ashahd who according to the prosecution was going to lodge the FIR of the incident which had taken place on the date of occurrence at about 7 A.M. if they had acted at the behest of Naushad and Seraj.

26. The prosecution, in our opinion has totally failed to prove the motive for the appellants to commit the murder of the deceased.

27. Thus, upon a holistic view of the facts of the case and a careful appraisal and evaluation of the evidence on record, both oral as well as documentary, we find that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case against the appellants beyond all reasonable doubts. Hence neither the recorded conviction of the appellants nor the sentences awarded to them can be sustained and are liable to be set aside.

28. These are the reasons for which we had allowed this criminal appeal.

Settled position of law that the testimony of a witness cannot be discarded in toto merely due to the presence of embellishments or exaggerations. The doctrine of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus has been held inapplicable in Indian scenario, where the tendency to exaggerate is common. It is the duty of the court to separate the chaff from the grain. Moreover, minor variations in the evidence will not affect the root of the matter, inasmuch as minor variations need not be given major importance and they would not materially alter the evidence/credibility of the eye-witness as a whole- The testimony of the eye-witnesses, though they are family members, does stand corroborated by the medical evidence and are also in consonance with the site plan which has been made by the investigating officer-It is not necessary that if an accused has been acquitted on particular evidence, the other co-accused also deserve to be acquitted on the same evidence-According to the correct position of law if abscondance of the appellants was the only ground for the trial court to hold them guilty by distinguishing their case from the other co-accused Genda Singh, the said evidence ought to have been clearly put to the accused appellants at the time of recording their statements under sections 313 Cr. P.C., hence that not being done would certainly make the finding in this regard of the lower court to be questionable, but simultaneously we are of the view that even if that piece of evidence be excluded, we find that there is sufficient evidence both ocular, supported by medical evidence and the circumstantial evidence to hold the appellants guilty.- Case in which prompt FIR has been lodged and the eye-witnesses of incident have actually seen the appellants along with co-accused Genda Singh assaulting the deceased by the weapons and the injuries received by the deceased are also corroborated by the post-mortem report of the deceased. The testimonies of the three eye-witnesses are found partly believable regarding their having seen the deceased being assaulted by the appellants as well as Genda Singh. It is also noteworthy that the Kotha in which the dead body of the deceased was found belonged to the co-accused Genda Singh, although the defence version was that the said house belonged to sister of Genda Singh, but the investigating officer had stated that the same belonged to Genda Singh. In view of this the burden also stood shifted to the accused to prove as to how the deceased was found dead in Kotha belonging to them which could not be discharged by them.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act- Section 5-"falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus" (false in one thing, false in everything) - The doctrine of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus has been held inapplicable in Indian scenario, where the tendency to exaggerate is common - It is the duty of the court to separate the grain from the chaff but minor variations cannot be given much importance as the same do not materially alter the evidence of the witnesses taken as a whole.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 3- Interested/ Related witnesses- The testimony of the eye-witnesses, though they are family members, does stand corroborated by the medical evidence and are also in consonance with the site plan- Where the evidence of the witnesses is corroborated from the medical evidence and site plan then the same cannot be discarded only on the ground that the witnesses are related to the deceased.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 3- Appreciation of Evidence- It is not necessary that if an accused has been acquitted on particular evidence, the other co-accused also deserve to be acquitted on the same evidence- Where chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the Court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient to prove guilt of other accused persons.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 313, Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3 - If abscondance of the appellants was the only ground for the trial court to hold them guilty by distinguishing their case from the other co-accused, the said evidence ought to have been clearly put to the accused appellants at the time of recording their statements under sections 313 Cr. P.C., hence that not being done would certainly make the finding in this regard of the lower court to be questionable, but simultaneously even if that piece of evidence be excluded ,there is sufficient evidence both ocular, supported by medical evidence and the circumstantial evidence to hold the appellants guilty.

Even if the question relating to the absconding of the Appellants was not put to them u/s 313 Cr.Pc, the Court can convict the accused on the basis of other evidence which is credible and trustworthy.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 106- Burden of proving the fact especially within the knowledge of the accused-the burden also stood shifted to the accused to prove as to how the deceased was found dead in Kotha belonging to them which could not be discharged by them.

Where the accused failed to discharge the burden as to how the body of the deceased was found in their home then a presumption is created against them for having committed the offence in question. (Para 63,67,69,76,79)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Kumar Singh-I, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dileep Kumar, Advocate assisted by Sri Bhuvnesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Jai Narayan, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 19.6.1981 passed in S.T. No.236 of 1979 State Vs. Genda and four others u/s 147, 148, 302 read with 149 IPC, Police Station Sheohara, district Bijnore whereby the appellant Vijay and Udai have been convicted and sentenced u/s 302 read with 34 IPC with life imprisonment each while rest of the accused have been acquitted.

3. In brief the prosecution case is that the informant Layak Singh (P.W.6) and his maternal uncle Genda Singh (accused) used to live in the same house separately and had a common Sehan. Till about four years ago, his uncle used to plough the whole land and also used to keep the crop and when he separated from him, he started causing harm due to enmity at several times. Yesterday the son of Genda Singh namely Vijay had taken away rassi (rope) regarding which at about 8 p.m., his son Veer Singh told him as to why he had taken away the rope without permission and why he had been causing harm to agriculture almost everyday and how long they should tolerate this. At this Vijay and Udai and their father Genda Singh (co-accused) (all the three accused) started abusing his son Veer Singh (deceased) and told him that they would certainly return the entire loss caused to him. Thereafter both the sides got into an altercation which was settled by the relative Bishan Kumar (Mama of the deceased) but Genda Lal told him that he had rehabilitated him and he only would ruin him. Thereafter in the night informant Layak Singh, his wife Smt. Dulari, his daughter Smt. Kusum Kumari and their other small children were sleeping in the courtyard and his son Veer Singh was sleeping nearby on a separate cot under a Chappar in which a lantern was burning as usual. The accused Genda, his sons Vijay and Udai, his wife Smt. Shanti, wife of Vijay, Chandrakala and Munni were talking to each other and in their Kotha also lantern was burning. At about 1 a.m. in the night, his son Veer Singh raised alarm, hearing which he, his wife and daughter got up and they saw that Shanti wife of Genda Singh, Chandrakala wife of Vijay had caught hold of Veer Singh while Vijay, Udai and Genda Singh out of whom Vijay was armed with Barchi and Genda and Udai were armed with knife were assaulting his son and when they raised alarm, one Raj Kumar S/o Harswaroop Singh, Suresh S/o Maharaj Singh and Khem Singh, S/o Banwari Singh along with various other persons came there with their torches towards main door of their house. Right then Genda Singh and others after having seen the said persons coming there, had dragged away his son Veer Singh in their Kotha where he was murdered. None of them (complainant side) could have courage to come forward because the accused-appellant Vijay and Udai threatened them if anyone would try to intervene, he would have to face the same consequences and thereafter after having killed his son, the accused-appellant fled from there from the main door. The Chik FIR was prepared as Ext. Ka-2. The written report (Ext. Ka-6) (containing the above facts) having been given by the informant at police station Sheohara Case Crime No.126 of 1979 was registered u/s 147, 148, 302 IPC on 1.7.1979 at 7 a.m. against Vijay, S/o Genda Singh, Udai S/o Genda Singh, Genda Singh S/o Jhandu, Smt. Shanti wife of Genda Singh, Chandrakala wife of Vijay and entry of the case was made in G.D. at report no.8 at 7 a.m. on 1.7.79 which is marked as Ext. Ka-3.

4. The investigation was handed over to S.I. Vijai Pal Singh (P.W.8) in whose presence the case was registered at the police station. He recorded the statement of the informant Layak Singh at police station and also of Chaukidar Ameer Hussain and thereafter proceeded towards place of occurrence i.e. village Raini and reached the house of the informant where he found dead-body of Veer Singh in the Kotha of Genda Singh on the floor where lot of blood was spread. After having taken the dead-body into possession, he appointed the Panchas and got the inquest report prepared in his handwriting which is Ext. Ka-7. He prepared Chalan Lash, Photo Lash, Chitthi for post-mortem which were written in his handwriting which are marked as Ext. Ka-6, Ka-9 and Ka-10 respectively. After sealing the dead-body, the same was dispatched for post-mortem and handed over to Constable 78 Jagdish Chandra, Constable No.112 Govind Singh along with connected papers. He recorded the statements of Smt. Dulari wife of Layak Singh, Kusum Kumari daughter of Layak Singh and Khem Singh etc. on the spot and thereafter at the instance of informant made inspection of the place of occurrence and prepared site plan which is marked as Ext. Ka-11. One Sari was found tied around the neck of deceased Veer Singh which was blood-stained which was taken in his possession and was sealed on the spot and it's memorandum was prepared in his handwriting which is marked as Ext.Ka-12 and the said Sari is marked as material Ext.-1. From the cot of the deceased, the blood-stained Khes (bed sheet) was also taken into possession which was lying on the floor and it's memo was also prepared and was sealed which is marked as Ext.Ka-13 and Khes is material Ext.-2.

5. In the Kotha of Genda Singh, a lantern was hanging by the latch of the door which was also taken in possession and memorandum was prepared which is marked as Ext.Ka-14 and the lantern as material Ext. 3. Another lantern was also taken from Osara of informant Layak Singh which was hanging by the peg on Southern wall and it's memorandum was prepared which is marked as Ext.Ka-15 and lantern was marked asmaterial Ext.-4. He had also found trail of the drops of blood from the Osara where the informant Layak Singh's son Veer Singh was sleeping up to the Kotha of Genda Singh where the cot of Veer Singh was placed. He had taken blood-stained and plain soil from the place of occurrence and sealed in separate containers and prepared it's memorandum which is marked as Ext.Ka-16 and both the containers containing blood-stained and plain soil are material Ext.5 and 6 respectively. The blood which was found on the ground near the dead-body in Kotha of Genda Singh, from there also the blood-stained as well as plain soil was taken and kept in two separate containers, the memorandum of which was prepared as Ext. Ka-17 and both containers were marked as material Ext. 7 and 8 respectively. Both the lantern which were marked as material Ext.-3 and 4 were found in running condition which were full of kerosene oil. The witness Raj Kumar, Suresh and Khem Singh also presented their batteries (torches) which were in running condition and were taken in the possession and thereafter were handed over in their supurdagi. The supurdaginama of the said torches is Ext. Ka.18. Thereafter he recorded the statements of witnesses of recovery and panchas. None of the accused were found in his house nor in the village and their search was made but could not be traced. Further it is stated by this witness in examination-in-chief that on the information given by the informer, accused Genda Singh, Chandrakala, Shanti were arrested on the road which was going from Nawada towards East to Hiranpura and after their arrest, their statements were recorded and they were brought back to the police station around 10 p.m. He also made entry about it at report no.32 in his handwriting and on 3.7.1979, 4.3.1979 he made search of other accused Vijay and Udai who could not be found, hence report u/s 82-83 Cr.P.C was submitted and thereafter on 11.7.1979 both Vijay and Udai appeared in Court and on 10.8.1979 he submitted charge sheet against them which is marked as Ext. Ka-19.

6. Against the accused-appellants and three other co-accused charges were framed u/s 147, 148, 302 read with 149 IPC on 21.12.1979 to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. Thereafter to prove the prosecution case, Smt. Kusum (P.W.1), Dr. R.P. Saxena (P.W.2), Smt. Dulari (P.W.3), Khem Singh (P.W.4), C.P. Ram Krishan Pandey (P.W.5), Layak Singh (P.W.6), H.C. Nadir Ali (P.W.7), S.I. Vijaipal Singh (P.W.8), C.P. Jagdish Chand (P.W.9) and C.P. Jagdish Saran (P.W.10), Abaran Singh (P.W.11), Gendan Lal (P.W.12) have been examined. Thereafter prosecution evidence was closed and statement of accused were recorded u/s 313 Cr.P.C.

8. The accused-appellant Udai admitted that the evidence on record was correct to the effect that the informant Layak Singh was earlier resident of village Himayupur whose parents had died earlier leaving him behind and thereafter father of Genda Singh S/o Jhandu Singh had brought him to village Raini under police station Sheohara and had kept in his haweli and had given him one Kotha for his residential purpose and after the death of Jhandu Singh, Genda Singh had brought him up and got him married also. He denied the evidence that Genda Singh used to look after 150 bigha of land of Layak Singh and out of the income earned, he used to give him only some money which was sufficient for his survival. He also denied the evidence that the son of Layak Singh i.e. deceased Veer Singh when he got married and his expenses increased, pursuant to which he had taken the land back from Genda Singh and started cultivating the same because of which Genda Singh started harboring enmity towards him and time to time used to cause harm to his agricultural land. He also denied the evidence that on 30.6.1979, Vijay had taken the rope (Barahi) from his house in village Raini on which at about 7-8 p.m. Veer Singh had protested thereafter Genda Singh told him that he would be ruined and their whole loss would be made good. He further denied the evidence that at the time of quarrel with respect to Barahi, informant Layak Singh and his brother-in-law Bishan Kumar, wife of Layak Singh (Smt. Dulari) and his daughter were present and that Bishan Kumar had mediated the dispute. Further he denied the evidence that in the intervening night of 30.6.1979 and 1.7.1979, the deceased Veer Singh was sleeping on his cot in village Raini under the police station Sheohara in the Eastern Kotha in front of Osara where lantern was burning and informant Layak Singh, his wife Dulari, daughter Kusum etc. were lying on four cots in front of Osara in their Sehan. He further denied the evidence that on the date and time of the incident at about 1 a.m. in the night, informant Layak Singh, wife Dulari, daughter Kusum and others had woken up at the alarm raised by Veer Singh and had seen in the light of lantern that she along with other accused persons Smt. Shanti, Chandrakala had pinned down the deceased on his cot while accused-appellant Vijay armed with barchi and Udai and Genda Singh armed with knife were assaulting the deceased. Thereafter they raised alarm on which the accused-appellants dragged away the deceased from his cot towards their Kotha. He also denied the evidence that on the date and time of the incident on the alarm being raised by the informant and his family persons mentioned above, the witness Raj Kumar, Suresh and Khemi came there with torches from Eastern door of their house and had seen him along with co-accused dragging the deceased towards the Kotha of Genda Singh and when they tried to rescue him, he along with other co-accused had threatened that if anyone would come forward, he would also meet the same consequences and thereafter Veer Singh had been murdered in the same Kotha and when the witness challenged them, he along with co-accused had run away from the Northern door. He also denied the evidence that on the report of the informant, S.O of police station Sheohara Vijay Pal had visited the village Raini on 1.7.1979 on the place of incident at about 8.30 p.m. and found the dead-body of the deceased in the Kotha of Genda Singh where lot of blood was found and in Sehan drops of blood were found and on the cot on which the deceased was lying, the 'Khes' (bed-sheet) was also found blood-stained which were taken into possession. Further he denied the evidence that he had assaulted the deceased by knife or barchi and stated that he was falsely implicated in the present case because of enmity. Further he stated that in the evening when the occurrence happened, he had gone to Sheohara hospital and stayed there only in the night because his bhabhi (sister-in-law) had suffered an attack and he abstained from saying anything with regard to blood which was found in the chemical examination report on the aforementioned clothes and soil.

9. The other appellant Vijay has also repeated the same reply as given by the co-appellant and nothing additional has been stated by him.

10. In defence, Bhoj Singh (D.W.1), Dr. A.P. Gupta (D.W.2), record keeper (D.W.3), Ashok Kumar Goyal (D.W.4), K.N. Verma medical practitioner (D.W.5) have been examined.

11. After having considered the entire evidence led by the prosecution and having heard the arguments of both the sides, learned trial court has held the accused-appellants guilty having believed the statements of the prosecution witnesses.

12. The learned counsel for the appellants before initiating his arguments had given pedigree of the family of accused so as to facilitate the appreciation of evidence on record and thereafter argued that the petty dispute with respect to rope (barhi) being taken away by the accused without permission, alleged by the prosecution to be reason which led to quarrel between the two sides was not believable because for such a petty dispute, murder could be committed. It was further argued that in fact the father of Genda Singh, Jhandu Singh was instrumental in rehabilitation of the father of the deceased, in the said village as he had got him married and thereafter also looked after his agricultural land. Therefore, he always wanted well being of the deceased and his father and there was no reason as to why he would murder the deceased for such a petty/frivolous dispute. The learned trial court has acquitted the co-accused Genda Singh who is the father of the appellant although he is alleged to be involved in the occurrence and has been assigned the role of assaulting the deceased with knife. The case of the appellants is at par with the case of co-accused Genda Singh. Hence the trial court ought to have acquitted the appellants also. It is further argued that after appreciation of evidence the co-accused Smt. Chandrakala, Smt. Shanti were acquitted because there was no possibility that these ladies would catch hold the deceased because all the other three accused were armed and were capable of assaulting the deceased. Hence it was held by the trial court that there was no occasion for these ladies to pin down the accused so that the other accused could assault them easily. It was further argued that a lot of improvement in the prosecution version was made because one sari was found tied around the neck of the deceased at the time of inquest as well as post-mortem. Therefore, to meet out the said fact, it was developed that the accused Chandrakala had taken off her sari and was reduced to be just in the petticoat and blouse and her sari was used for dragging the deceased from the place where he was sleeping to the Kotha where he was found dead. Further it is argued that three witnesses were named in the FIR namely, Raj Kumar, Suresh and Khem Singh out of whom Khem Singh has been examined as P.W.4. Other witness Raj Kumar and Suresh were not examined who were material witnesses. Further it was argued that Guddi and Vipin who were in the house and are stated to have seen the incident, have also not been examined. It was also emphasized by learned counsel for the appellants during the argument that the accused were not in the house when the incident happened as Smt. Chandrakala had fallen sick and she was taken to the hospital in the night in question and none was present there and to substantiate the same four defence witnesses named above have been examined. Apart from this a large number of discrepancies have been pointed out to have been noticed in the statement of witnesses so as to emphasize that the said witnesses had not witnessed the incident and on that count, it was argued that the testimony of all of them so called eye-witnesses ought to be disbelieved. He further argued that even P.W.4 Khem Singh cannot be held to be wholly believable witness as was the case with other witnesses and that even his testimony deserves to be discarded. It was also argued emphatically that learned trial court has held the accused-appellant guilty solely on the ground that they were absconding after the incident for about 11-12 days and had against them warrants u/s 82 and 83 Cr.P.C issued and because of their such conduct, they were held guilty. It was further argued that the circumstance that they were absconding immediately after the incident, was not put to the accused-appellants u/s 313 Cr.P.C, hence on that count they could not have been convicted by the trial court. It was also argued that in all there were eight persons in the family of the accused, therefore, even if the principle as laid down u/s 106 of the Evidence Act be taken into consideration, by that yard-shick also only two appellants could not have been held guilty and lastly it was argued that it was not a case in which there was any eye-witnesses, in fact the dead-body was found of the deceased lying in Kotha of the accused Genda Singh which was actually the Kotha of sister of Genda Singh namely Swarupiya. It was only after having found dead-body of the deceased that the prosecution has tried to fabricate the entire false story implicating the accused. These points which have been raised by learned counsel for the appellant would be dealt with by us at the relevant time when we would discuss the evidence of the eye-witnesses and other witnesses.

13. On the other hand learned AGA vehemently argued that there was no infirmity in the impugned judgment because the same has been passed on the basis of credible evidence which comprises not only the statement of eye-witnesses namely Smt. Kusum Kumari (P.W.1), Smt. Dulari (P.W.3), Khem Singh (P.W.4), Layak Singh (P.W.6) who all have clearly stated that they had seen the incident and the same stands corroborated by the medical evidence as deceased was found to have suffered as many as nine injuries which included incised wound, punctured wound and other kind of injuries which could have easily been caused by the knife as well as barchi. He further argued that the present appeal deserves to be dismissed out-rightly.

14. Now we would consider the evidence of the witness one by one and proceed towards the evidence of P.W.1 Kusum.

15. The P.W.1 Smt. Kusum Kumari has stated in her examination-in-chief that Genda Singh (accused) son of Jhandu Singh is the father of accused-appellant Vijay and Udai. Smt. Shanti is the wife of accused Genda Singh and Smt. Chandrakala is the wife of accused Vijay. Her father Layak Singh was actually resident of village Himayunpur which was about 1 km. away from village Rainipur. Her father was brought by her maternal grand-father Jhandu Singh to village Raini after nothing was left in village Himayunpur. After the death of Jhandu Singh, her father was being looked after by accused Genda Singh. Her father had 150 bigha of land in village Himayunpur which was being looked after by Genda Singh who got her father married also. The accused Genda Singh and his haveli had common sehan near which there was kotha, in front of which there was chappar. Genda Singh had two kotha which were towards North of her kotha and in front of them, there was also chappar. All the three kothas were towards East and in-front of them, there was sehan and the main door was towards East. Outside of this main door towards East, there was her gher as well as gher of Genda Singh and towards Southern side of the said gher, there was her baithak, the main door of which used to open in the Sehan. The baithak is towards North and it's door would open towards North in the osara of Genda Singh and towards North of osara, there was boundary-wall.

16. About four years prior to the incident, his brother had started cultivating the land and only 11 bigha of land was left with the accused to be taken back. Her brother had started cultivation because of feeling financial crunch and he had started doing very well and one year prior to that he had also purchased a tractor and all this progress was being disliked by Genda Singh who started harbouring enmity, as a result of which he started causing harm to him in various ways. About one year back at about 1 a.m. in the night, she, her sister and her parents were sleeping in the courtyard in front of kotha and her brother Veer Singh (deceased) was sleeping in the haveli under neath the chappar in osara towards South. There was a lantern burning, the light of which was extending towards the cot of her brother. She woke up at the alarm being raised by her brother. All of them had woken up because Vijay, Udai and Genda Singh were assaulting her brother Veer Singh. Vijay was armed with barchi, Udai and Genda Singh were armed with knife and Smt. Shanti and Smt. Chandrakala were also present there and had caught her brother pressing him. When all of them raised alarm, Suresh, Raj Kumar and Khem Singh came there with torches in their hands who also raised alarm, hearing which the accused persons started taking away Veer Singh to their kotha. All of them tried to get her brother freed from them but accused stated that if anyone intervened, then he would also be dealt in the same way as was Veer Singh and therefore because of fear, they did not proceed further, as a result of which the accused had dragged Veer Singh in their kotha where also lantern was burning and after taking him there, he was murdered. When the villagers raised alarm, the accused fled away from the door towards Northern side and thereafter when she along with others went inside the kotha, they saw her brother had died and lot of blood was lying around in kotha. The cot on which her brother was lying, there was khes (bed-sheet) on the same, which was also blood-stained. She further stated that when the accused had taken away Veer Singh from osara to kotha, a trail of blood drops was found between the two places i.e. from osara to kotha. She further stated that her father had gone to lodge report about the incident.

17. She has further stated that on the date of incident at about 9-10 a.m. accused Vijay had come to her house and took the rassi (rope) which he did not return because of which his brother had told him as to why he used to cause harm in this manner and till when he would be tolerated like this, on which altercation had happened at 7-8 p.m. On this Vijay had told him that whatever damage was caused to him, all would be paid back and Genda Singh and Udai were also present and Genda Singh stated that he had rehabilitated him and he only would ruin him and 16-17 days prior to the incident, these people had put sugar in their tractor because of which tractor had become dis-functional. In cross-examination, this witness has stated that prior to this incident, Veer Singh, S/o Gori (not deceased) had received gunshot wound but she does not know whether the said Veer Singh had lodged any report against her brother and the two witnesses of this case i.e. Khem Singh and Raj Kumar. No case had been initiated against her brother. He has further stated that prior to this incident, a quarrel had happened between Shera and her brother but she has no knowledge whether Shera had lodged report against her brother or not. The police had not launched any case against him. She also denied that Shera had renounced his resolve to settle the said quarrel and she also denied that Shera got himself shaved only after the murder of her brother.

18. The above statement was pointed out by learned counsel for the appellant with a view to emphasizing that the deceased had enmity with others also and therefore it was possible that he may have been killed in some other manner by some other persons and not as alleged in the FIR.

19. In cross-examination she has stated that Genda Singh was the eldest in the family and it was wrong to say that when Veer Singh received fire-arm injury, then her brother was advised not to sit with Khem Singh, Raj Kumar and Hasveer Singh. She has further stated that since last about four years, her cultivation was being done separate from Genda Singh but she has no knowledge as to where her fields were located but there was a dispute with respect to 11 bigha of land about which her father told her. She has not seen that the land of younger brother of Genda Singh namely Chotey Singh was adjoining to the said land. The fact that accused were not returning 11 bigha of land used to be disliked by them. She had denied that on the said land, Genda Singh had built any wall. She has also denied that Genda Singh had taken debt about ten to eleven thousand for construction of the said wall but there was dispute between her father and Genda Singh with respect to this wall also but denied that Genda Singh used to claim that wall as his own. During chakbandi (consolidation proceedings), Genda Singh had got 40 bigha of land of his father in his name and it was promised by him that in-lieu of that he would be given share in his haveli, but instead of that since last two years, he had started saying that he should go away leaving haveli and thus 6-7 months after that her father had constructed another haveli and till the said haveli was constructed, she had lived at the house of Raj Kumar. There was no enmity between them for last two years except the incident which happened of lifting the rassi when the said rope was taken away by Vijay. She had seen with her own eyes the same being taken away by all of them but none of them had told anything to him because of fear and the said rope was not returned. At that time, there were only ladies in the house and her brother and father were not there, who had come after some time as they were in the jungle and when they returned at about 5-6 p.m in the evening and about one hour thereafter, they talked in respect of it. During that time, there was no one else there except the family members of both the sides, but also thereafter stated that her maternal uncle Bishan Kumar was also there who had come there, who did not live at the place of Khem Singh, rather stayed there only and after quarrel, he had gone to Ameenabad which was about 1-1.5 miles away from her village. She denied that on the said date Bishan Kumar had stayed at the house of Khem Singh and returned next day in the morning at about 11 a.m. His maternal uncle continued to remain at home. She also denied that her maternal uncle immediately after the murder had gone to the house of Khem Singh. She further stated that at the time of incident, about 50 persons had assembled there but none of them told as to who had killed her brother. She had sent information for chaukidar who had come in the morning as he had gone to nearby village. Nobody had given advise that she should go for lodging the FIR after taking 10-15 persons to the police station rather everyone told her that she should call chaukidar who would inform the police. The said chaukidar came at about 5-6 a.m. in the morning. His father became unconscious. The police was called by her father and chaukidar. Her brother stayed in the house only, after Vijay had taken away the rope. She does not recollect as to who had taken meals at what time, although she used to cook the food at that time and used to also serve the same. In the said night, they had taken meals some time before the incident of quarrel. Veer Singh had not eaten anything. She does not recollect whether Veer Singh had eaten anything prior to the incident. In the said night she stayed at home. She had not seen the deceased having food after the incident. All of them had gone to their cots for sleeping at 10-11 p.m. and Veer Singh had gone to sleep at the same time. All of them slept after having taken meals.

20. Learned counsel for the appellants had drawn attention of this Court towards above piece of evidence and argued that in the post-mortem, stomach was found empty hence it was argued that it indicated that death did not take place at the time when it is being alleged to have happened by the prosecution side.

21. It is further stated that the cots of the accused were situated about 12-13 paces away from their cots and that there was a screen (parda) between the cot of the father-in-law and daughter-in-law, but when the S.I visited the spot he did not find the said screen (parda) hanging there nor any rope. She could not tell as to who had removed the rope and the said parda from the said place although she continued to remain at home till the I.O had reached there.

22. The learned counsel for the appellants had drawn the attention of the court towards the evidence and argued that the I.O did not find on the spot any cot of the accused side nor the same has been shown in site-plan which belies the statement of the said witness.

23. She further stated that there are three kothas in her haveli in the Eastern side. The real sister of Genda Singh namely Swarupiya is widow lady who is still alive. The Southern most kotha was in her possession. Swarupiya used to live at the place of her Samadhi since the time her son was married. It was wrong to say that in the Northern most, kotha Swarupiya used to live. Her marriage was performed 7-8 years ago but Eastern door of the haveli was in the middle and had doors in it. One door was opening towards East from the baithak and the same was opening in the Sehan in which there was no door. It is wrong to say that at the time of the incident, Northern wall of the sehan was broken. Rather in the said wall, there were doors and all these three doors used to remain open in the night which used to be closed without any latch and would remain open throughout the night.

24. Learned counsel for the appellants further argued that the testimony of this witness is absolutely unbelievable as she has stated that the main door would be left open even during the night which is unusual.

25. She has further stated that she had woken up on the alarm raised by Veer Singh who was crying loudly "marr diya bachao". She saw that accused were assaulting her brother with their weapons but she could not see as to where they were assaulting. The two persons were assaulting by knife and one was assaulting by barchi. The complainant side was also shouting loudly "bhaiya ko maar diya bachao". The accused had taken away Veer Singh in the kotha even before the witnesses could reach there which was about 8-9 paces away from the chappar. At this stage, the court made inquiry from this witness to which she has stated that her statement was correct to the effect that at the time of alarm being raised by the witnesses, Veer Singh was being taken away and that she has not given this statement that before the witnesses reached there Veer Singh had been taken away.

26. She has further stated that when witnesses came there, the accused were in-front of the middle kotha and it was not that after seeing the witnesses coming, the accused had lifted her brother. She does not recollect whether she has given statement to the police to the effect that soon after the witnesses were coming, seeing them coming the accused had started dragging her brother from the cot towards their house. If the same has been written she could not tell it's reason. When her brother was being taken away forcibly her brother was crying loudly and thereafter as soon as he reached inside the kotha, his cry became silent. At the time when accused were taking her brother towards kotha all the four persons had assembled there but none of them made any effort to close the door of the room from outside front latch on it wherein the deceased had been taken. None had tried to chase the accused persons. When the accused had taken away the deceased from the cot, at that time, a saari was thrown around the neck of deceased belonging to Chandrakala who had taken off her saari and was left in petticoat and blouse. Though about this she had not stated to I.O as to from where the said saari had come. One question was put to her as to whether prior to the murder at 1 a.m. in the night accused were talking in low tone and she answered in the affirmative and further stated that by 1 a.m. murder had already been committed. Thereafter the court also cross-examined her in which she has stated that prior to murder she had not heard any accused talking to each other. At the time when she was sleeping, she had heard some talk going on between the accused at about 10-11 p.m. in a low tone but she could not comprehend as to what was being discussed among them. Further she has stated that it was wrong to say that her brother used to go often with Raj Kumar and on the date of incident in the night no drizzling had taken place at 3-4 a.m and it was wrong to say that when at about 3-4 a.m., she had woken up she found Veer Singh in dead condition in Northern courtyard and this case had been lodged against the accused persons in collusion with police. She has denied that Chandrakala had fallen sick in the night of incident and was taken to Syohara.

27. Dr. R.B. Saxena (P.W.2) has stated that on 1.7.1979 at about 2 p.m., he had conducted the post-mortem of Veer Singh, S/o Layak Singh (deceased), r/o Raini, P.S. Syohara who was brought by constable 74 Jagdish Chandra and constable 112 Govind Singh Sarav and found following injuries :-

(2) Punctured incised wound margins clean cut 1/2"x2/10"x4/10" at middle and front of neck.

(3) Punctured incised wound one 3/4"x3/4"x2" (oblique right To left) i.e. from right side neck to middle of neck) on right side neck 1" outer to injury no.2.

(4) Punctured incised wound margins clean cut ¾"x4/10"x2" on right side neck 1/2" outer and below injury no.3.

(5) Punctured incised wound 1/2"x1"x1/2" at root and upper chest right side.

(6) Stab wound margins clear cut 1"x1½"x4/10" right abdomen lower side towards middle, depth of wound is oblique and upto fatty layer.

(7) Stab wound 1"x1½"x2" right lower abdomen 3½" outer to (6) depth superficial and horizontal up to muscular layer.

(8) Incised wound 1"x½"x1/10" between thumb and first finger right hand.

(9) Two incised wound 1½"x½"x1/10" each and 1/4" apart between left thumb and under finger on left hand.

28. He has further stated that the cause of death was hemorrhage, shock, asphyxia due to injury in the neck and the death of the deceased had taken place within one day of conducting the post-mortem report. He has proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-1. In cross-examination, this witness has stated that there could be difference of three hours in death on either side. The injuries could have been caused to the deceased by some sharp-edged weapon like knife.

29. P.W.3 Dulari, W/o Layak Singh has stated in examination-in-chief on 8.7.1980 that about one year ago in the night at about 1 a.m., she along with her husband and her daughters was sleeping in-front of their kotha and accused were sleeping towards Northern side. Her son was sleeping in Osara where lantern was burning. When she woke up, hearing alarm raised by her son and other persons also had woken up, she saw that Genda Singh, Udai and Vijay were assaulting her son with knife and barchi and Chandrakala and Shanti were pressing him down. When she along with others raised alarm, the accused had taken away her son Veer Singh in their kotha from Sehan and right then witness Khemi, Raj Kumar and Suresh also came with their batteries (torches) and when they focused their torch and tried to set her son free from the clutches of the accused, the accused stated that if anyone came forward, they would have to face the same consequences and stopped them. Thereafter the accused after having taken her son inside the room killed him and when further alarm was raised by entire villagers including her and her family members, the accused fled away from the Northern door and thereafter they all went near her son Veer Singh and found him dead and lot of blood was found spread on kotha and the sehan and on the cot whereon khes (bed-sheet) was also full of blood. On the same night, at about 9 p.m., an altercation had taken place between her son and accused with respect to rope which dispute was settled by her brother Bishan Kumar. In cross-examination this witness has stated that Bishan Kumar is her real brother and Chandrapal and Shiv Kumar are brothers of Bishan Kumar. The daughter of Genda Singh is married to Shiv Kumar. Since the time her son was killed, she (Urmila) was staying in her father's house on her own free-will and she was not turned out. Chandrapal was married with daughter of Banwari Singh resident of Buapur. Banwari the father-in-law of Chandrapal used to live with Chandrapal. She had never borrowed any money by pledging her jewelleries with Chandrapal. She also denied the knowledge of any case in respect of beating the son of Pokhar being taken away her brothers. Bishan Kumar was also known as Buddhu. One case regarding abduction of Brajraj and thereafter of murdering him was proceeding in Moradabad against Bishan Kumar in which his name was taken. Bishan Kumar was in her house one day before the incident of murder. The murder took place at about 8 p.m. and it was wrong to say that he stayed with witness Khemi and that he came to the place of occurrence next day in the morning after the murder had already taken place. Bishan Kumar used to come to her house and used to help in various works and she has sold ten bigha land for consideration of Rs.20,000/- but denied that for the execution of sale-deed, Bishan Kumar had gone. She further stated that a tractor was sold by her for Rs.50,000/- but not at the instance of Bishan Kumar. The Sheesham which was in her field was sold for Rs.4,000/- after the murder of her son and she had also sold her buffalo, but he denied that all these sale were made at the advice and after discussion with Bishan Kumar. She further denied that Bishan Kumar was in the village during the night when incident of murder happened and she was not concealing this fact. Bishan Kumar had not come today rather her brother Chandrapal had come because Bishan Kumar was having some ailment.

30. It was argued by learned counsel for the appellants that the accused-appellants have been falsely implicated in the present case. In fact Bishan Kumar who is the brother of mother of the deceased used to interfere in vital decisions such as sale of property and other things. He was instrumental in killing of the deceased and not the appellants. It was further argued that there was no enmity with the accused of the complainant side.

31. This witness further stated that in haveli there are three kotha facing the East and all these three have latch (sankal/bolt) at the top of the door and not at the bottom but what is the position of this latch, she does not know as six months have gone by since the incident. There were four cots for the complainant side to sleep and there were 5-6 cots of the accused side at a distance of about 12 paces towards North. Prior to the murder, she used to do parda from Genda Singh. There was no screen between the cots of complainant side as well as accused side. On the date of incident at about 3-4 a.m. in the night, there was no rainfall. At about 1 a.m. in the night incident happened and by 2 a.m., villagers had assembled there. On arrival of Inspector, he did not find any cot rather one cot was lying under the chappar on which deceased had slept. She heard the deceased crying "maar diya, bachao" and when she woke up, the accused were assaulting her son and thereafter she was also pleading the villagers to rush as her son was being killed and by the time, the villagers arrived there with their torches, the accused had thrown a knot of sari in the neck of the deceased which was done by accused Vijay. After the accused had gone away from there and she went inside, then the face of the deceased was not covered by saari. The deceased was made to sit on the cot and sari was tied around him. Two persons had caught his one hand and the other two persons had caught his other hand and accused Vijay was giving him push. All of them had caught the deceased with their hands and made him stand up. Veer Singh was taken inside the kotha with his hands being held by the accused. When they were tightening the sari around the deceased, she and other witnesses did not make any effort to reach there because of threat given by the accused that they would also meet the same fate. Initially three people had come there and later on other persons had reached there. This witness has further stated that Kusum Kumari had taken the meals at about 10 a.m. Veer Singh had taken his meals in the evening after time of sun set.

32. Citing above statement, the learned counsel for the appellants has pointed out that the statement was not believable because it is self contradictory because on the one hand she has stated that after the accused had gone away from the place of occurrence and when she along with others went inside the kotha, she found that the deceased had died while on the other hand her statement shows that the deceased was being made to sit him on the cot by the accused, therefore the statement of this witness cannot be held to be trust-worthy.

33. On the other hand learned AGA stated that it is often seen that the witness over state because of anxiety so that the accused may not be allowed to go unpunished and therefore the statement of this witness cannot be discarded in totality and part of the statement which is found trustworthy requires to be relied upon discarding the remaining which is found to be untrustworthy, relying upon the established proposition of law of separating grain from the cheff and stated that her statement is believable at least to the extent that the accused Genda Singh, Vijay and Udai had assaulted the deceased when he was sleeping in osara and thereafter he was dragged towards the kotha where he was finally killed by them. Hence circumstances reveal that the testimony of this witness is partly believable to that extent and when accused had fled from kotha where the deceased was found dead.

34. Khem Singh who is the neighbour and is an independent witness has stated as P.W.4 in examination-in-chief on 8.7.1980 that about one year ago at about 1 a.m. in the night he had gone for taking paneer at the house of Raj Kumar, soon he heard commotion as a result of which he reached the house of Genda Singh which was at a distance of about 15 paces from there, with Raj Kumar and both of them were having batteries (torches) with them. He found Suresh coming from his house and he also had a battery and all of them reached near the Eastern door of the parties and lighted their torches, they saw that Genda Singh, Chandrakala, Shanti Devi, Vijay and Udai all were taking away Veer Singh towards their kotha. When they tried to set him free, the accused had threatened them. Vijay was armed with barchi and Genda and Udai were armed with knife. Veer Singh was bleeding and he was being dragged towards kotha and after having taken him there, he was assaulted and killed. On their making noise when other persons started coming, the accused fled from the Northern door and thereafter they saw inside the room and found Veer Singh in dead condition and there was lot of blood in the kotha and sehan. The lantern was burning there and all five accused were present in the court.

35. In cross-examination, this witness has stated that Veer Singh, S/o Bholu had never lodged any report against him although marpit had also taken place between them. Veer Singh S/o Bholu had lodged report against Raj Kumar and Veer Singh S/o Layak Singh (deceased) in which police filed final report. He knows Bishan Kumar S/o Dhan Singh but denied the suggestion that on the date of incident he was sitting in his house and stated that he had come in the morning after the murder had already taken place. He has 20 bigha of land for agricultural purpose which belongs to Shyam Lal. He further stated that he used to sow Paneer (appears to be some kind of crop) in one bigha of land every year but his half crop had wasted in that year when incident happened. He started sowing munji and thereafter stated that he had already sown the said crop in 5-6 bigha of land. In 5-6 bigha of land, paneer had already been sown. He has no knowledge whether one day prior to the incident Raj Kumar had come in the village or not. On the date of incident, he had sown Munji till 4 p.m. in the evening and had come home and slept at about 12-1 a.m. in the night. He had not gone to the house of Raj Kumar at about 4 p.m., rather had gone in the night at about 10 p.m. After reaching his house, he came to know that he had gone to take paneer. Thereafter he had gone to the house of Raj Kumar at about 12 in the night. He was having roti and came out after about 10 minutes and after having talks about paneer, he was about to go from there when it was suggested that he should take beedi and thereafter both of them started talking to each other. He has further stated that he had stated to the I.O that about 10 p.m. in the night he had gone to the place of Raj Kumar to take paneer but had not told him about beedi being smoken by him. He was present on the place of incident when the I.O had visited there in the morning and he had recorded his statement after dispatching the dead-body. The main door of the haveli is 10-15 paces away from the door of gher. To go to the house of Raj Kumar one would have to travel about 40 paces from the gher. From the turn, his house is 10 paces. He had not got opened the doors of haveli as the doors were already open. He had heard the call "bachao maar diya" and that Raj Kumar and he, both had batteries and they forthwith proceeded towards the place of occurrence and Suresh had met at a distance of 10-12 paces from the gher of Genda Singh, but no talk happened with him and all of them were standing at a distance of 2-3 paces in the south from the main door of the haveli. At that time Veer Singh was sleeping on his cot at a distance of 2-4 paces away from the chappar outside. At that time, he had seen blood dripping from his body but could not tell as to from which part of body blood was dripping. He had stated to the I.O about this fact and also found that 'niwar' of the said cot was not stained with blood while the khes (bed-sheet) had stains of blood. Right from the place where the cot was there up-to kotha, there were blood spots which was forming a line of blood. Veer Singh was proceeding in standing position as he was being dragged and saari was held by Chandrakala from the right side and by the Shanti from the left side and he was being dragged forward. His left shoulder was held by Genda Singh and right shoulder was held by Udai Singh. His neck was tied around by saari. The ladies were holding the palla of saari at a distance of one hand from Veer Singh. Barchi was fixed in the lathi and both the knife were in open condition. These people had caught hold by one hand and in another hand, they had weapons and were dragging the deceased. At that time, he was at a distance of 8-10 paces. Initially three persons were there and as soon as other persons started streaming in there, the accused fled from there. He had seen the cots of Genda Singh which were lying there without bedding but when I.O reached there, they were in horizontal position.

36. This witness has further stated that he had found the rope tied on the kotha of Genda Singh. This rope was used for screen but when accused had fled from there and many people reached there, the said screen was not found there. Nobody had tried to close the latch from outside the door of the kotha belonging to the accused nor any of them tried to catch the accused because of fear and he had gone inside kotha only after the accused had fled from there. He had seen one injury upon the neck of Veer Singh and one upon his abdomen and on hand. The saari was tied around his neck but not on his face and the same was found in that condition when the I.O had reached there. This witness has stated that the I.O had made recovery memo of torch next day in the morning at about 8-9 a.m. which was signed by him and Raj Kumar. The chaukidar had come in the morning though he was informed in the night but he was not found at home. The incident which happened inside the kotha was seen by him for the first time from a distance of 4-5 paces towards North and had also been shown to the I.O. when the accused had fled away from the North door, the said door remained open. The kotha in which Veer Singh was taken by the accused was about 7 paces in length towards North and South and 3-4 yard from East to West in width and was having one door in it and the dead-body was lying at a distance of one hand from the door inside the kotha.

37. The report was lodged at about 1-1/2 a.m. in the night by Jai Prakash which was dictated by Layak Singh at Chaupal, in the light of lantern. After the day break at about 5.30 a.m. Layak Singh and Chaukidar had gone for lodging the FIR at the police station on foot where he was not accompanying them. Layak Singh had told him at 3 O clock that he had lodged the report but he did not ask him as to who were made witnesses in the same nor who were the accused named therein because all this happened in-front of him, hence there was no need to inquire about the same. He has denied that Genda Singh used to tell him to leave the company of Veer Singh. It was not that since after the incident of Veer Singh S/o Bholu, Veer Singh was not sitting in his company. He (Veer Singh) also used to sit with him regularly and he used to sit regularly with Genda Singh and stated that Genda Singh and Veer Singh had good relationship but he had come to know later on, that some quarrel had happened with respect to rope after about 8 p.m. when it was being discussed in the village and has denied that he was giving false statement in the Court.

38. About the testimony of this witness, learned counsel for the appellants has stated that he is not trust-worthy witness because it is unusual that in the night he would go for taking paneer and on hearing such kind of noise he would go there and would see deceased being dragged to the kotha from the place where he was sleeping in osara i.e. in-front of chappar as alleged by the prosecution. He has narrated the deceased being held by the accused persons also does not inspire confidence and therefore it was argued that his evidence requires to be discarded.

39. On the other hand learned AGA argued that the statement of P.W.4 is believable as he is an independent witness. He was present at the time of incident and has given the details as to how occurrence happened. Although he has admitted that the detailed version of the incident given in respect of accused committing offense inside the kotha appear to be exaggerated but again the same point was pressed that his statement must be believed by the Court to the extent that he has seen the accused assaulting the deceased when he was sleeping under the chappar. Thereafter he was dragged to the kotha where he was ultimately found dead.

40. Constable Ram Krishna Pandey (P.W.5) is the formal witness who has simply proved the Chik FIR as Ext. Ka-2 and G.D. as Ext. Ka-3 but nothing has been argued by either side about the statement of this witness. Hence we do not see it necessary to discuss the statement of this witness in detail.

41. Layak Singh (P.W.6) is the informant of this case who has stated that actually he is resident of village Himayupur which was about 1 mile away from village Raini. He had his agricultural land in the same mauja. His parents had died during his childhood. Thereafter nothing was left in the said mauja for him to survive and hence his maternal uncle Jhandu Singh had brought him to his village and had nurtured him and used to look after his land. After the death of his maternal grand father (Nana) he was looked after by son of his Nana namely Genda Singh (accused) present in court. Genda Singh (accused) had got him married and after his marriage, he had given him a kotha in his haveli for residential purpose. Genda Singh also used to give him some grains and some times he gave nothing. After his marriage, there were two sons and three daughters born to him and only two daughters are alive. His elder son was Veer Singh (deceased) and other son was younger in age. Veer Singh had also been married and on the date of incident, his wife was living in her matrimonial home. Four years prior to the murder of his son, he had started agricultural work separately from Genda Singh and he was flourishing as he had also purchased a tractor but this was not relished by the accused and they started causing harm to his agriculture also.

42. About one and a quarter year ago at about 11 p.m. in the night, he, his wife Dulari, daughters Kusum and Guddi were sleeping in sehan and son Veer Singh (deceased) was sleeping beneath the chappar in sehan where lantern was also burning, the accused Genda Singh, Vijay, Udai, Shanti and Chandrakala were also sleeping in the same sehan in-front of kotha. Veer Singh raised alarm whereon he had woken up along with his wife, children and saw that all the above named accused out of whom Genda Singh and Udai armed with knife and Vijay armed with barchi were assaulting the deceased while Shanti and Chandrakala were pressing down Veer Singh. Thereafter the statement of this witness has been recorded by the trial court in question-answer form in which he has stated that he had seen the accused assaulting the deceased and on the alarm raised by him and his family members Khemi, Raj Kumar and Suresh came there with their batteries from Eastern door inside the sehan. The accused told them that they would meet same fate as Veer Singh if they tried to interfere. Genda Singh told him that he had rehabilitated him and he would only ruin him. All the five accused fled away through the Northern door. At the time when accused were assaulting Veer Singh, he was lying on the cot on which there was bed-sheet. When he raised alarm, all the five accused had taken away Veer Singh inside their kotha and there they had murdered him and when the accused had fled away, he and his witnesses remained in their house only near his son. When he reached near his son, he was found dead and lot of blood was found spread in kotha and also khes was found blood-stained from which blood was dripping. He had dictated the report to Jai who is son of Ganga Sharan and affixed his thumb impression which is Ext.Ka-6 and the same was given at the police station in the morning whereafter police had interrogated him and had accompanied the police. He has stated that in the night when the incident happened, on the said date, no quarrel had happened with accused and on the said day when he was in jungle, Vijay and Genda Singh had taken away his rope and when he returned in the evening, Veer Singh told Vijay, Udai and Genda Singh as to why they were causing harm whereon they stated that he would make good entire loss today and stated that they had rehabilitated them and would also ruin them.

43. In cross-examination this witness has stated that two days prior to the incident, he had gone to jungle and rassi (rope) was taken away by the accused on that day. There was no outsiders or any person of the village present when the quarrel with respect to rope had taken place. Except present report, he had not lodged any report against Genda Singh nor had he any kind of enmity towards him and he used to respect him just like his father and the accused also used to treat him like son.

44. Referring to the above statement, learned counsel for the appellants argued that this admission would go to show that there was no question of the accused eliminating the son of the informant as the Genda Singh used to treat the informant just like his son.

45. This witness has further stated that his statement given above that on the date of murder in the evening, quarrel had happened with respect to rope was wrong because the said quarrel had happened two days prior to the murder and that the said statement given above, was given by mistake because he was too much nervous due to the murder of his son. This witness has stated that on the date when occurrence took place, they used to take food by 6 p.m in the evening and would go to sleep and the work of cooking food was being done by Dulari. On the date of incident, Veer Singh had come from outside and had not taken his lunch till afternoon. Veer Singh had come to him after half hour of cooking of food at 7 p.m. on that date. He (P.W.6) was suffering fever for three days. At the time when his son had taken food, other family members had also taken food and had gone to sleep in sehan and both accused as well as complainant side had gone to sleep in their respective sehan. Four cots were in his sehan and 4-5 cots were there on the accused side. At about 3-4 a.m. in the night, when it started drizzling, the cots were drawn in when he saw inside, he found that murder had already happened.

46. Thereafter court cross-examined this witness and asked that he had given statement above that all of them had woken up on alarm being raised by his son and saw accused persons assaulting the deceased by kinfe and on their making noise, witnesses came and accused dragged the deceased inside their kotha and murdered him and now he was saying that he woke up on drizzling he went inside and found the deceased dead which of his statement was correct, to which this witness has replied that his statement is correct that at 11 p.m., he had seen accused persons assaulting Veer Singh and he was taken in their kotha and from there, they fled away. It is wrong to say that at 4 a.m. it was drizzling and he got up and saw that his son was in dead condition. Subsequently given statement is wrong because many things crossed his mind but it is not so that he was so much purturbed that he could state anything.

47. He further stated that he had 150 bighas of land and had not sold any part of that land. After the murder of his son, he had not executed any sale-deed. His wife might have sold land which was in his name. Tractor would have been sold by his wife and about this writing work might have been done by her only. He had not put his thumb impression. The tractor was in Milak while he lives in village Raini.

48. In regard to the above statement, it was argued by learned counsel for the appellants that the statement of the witness is unbelievable because if any land belonging to him was alienated that was not possible without his consent and also hammered the point that he was dominated by his wife who sold the properties owned by him in collusion with his brother-in-law Bishan Singh who might have been involved in the murder of the deceased, because he wanted to grab the property of P.W.6.

49. Further this witness stated that in the night when murder had taken place, the rain had happened. Their cots were dragged in sehan where his son was sleeping on his cot. His son was not found in dead condition rather he was dragged in front of him from there by the accused in their kotha. The dazzling had happened around 3-4 a.m. in the night.

50. It is further recorded in his statement that drizzling had happened about 3-4 a.m. in the night, this statement was given by this witness on the suggestion/prompting of his counsel. Earlier he had stated that just prior to his getting up, it has drizzled. He has further stated that when he heard the noise, he got up and after 10-20 minutes it drizzled and thereafter he had not gone rather remained there only. It had drizzled then only when accused fled from there and thereafter stated that it drizzled 20 minutes after the accused had fled. The cots in the sehan were placed in horizontal condition. When this witness was asked whether he had taken cots of accused Genda Singh and others inside, he replied that he did not know where those cots were kept. Thereafter he has stated that just before it had started drizzling, Veer Singh was taken away by the accused and witnesses were standing where he was present but the court has recorded that whenever contradictory statement was confronted to him, he replied that it was not so that after the quarrel in respect of rope he had gone somewhere. He has further stated that the sale-deed of tractor and land were done by his wife without his consent and stated he did not know why they were sold by his wife although he lives in the same house with his wife and children. When murder was committed, his wife was doing all the work on her own. She could not tell whey she would not consult him in such matters. Again he stated that in the night of murder no drizzling happened and it drizzled for 8-

10 minutes and thereafter stopped. The incident happened at about 11 a.m. in the night. Again a question was put that there was lot of difference in 2.30 a.m. and 11 p.m., to which he responded that there is difference of only three hours and further he stated when he was confronted with difference of three hours, that he was only in the position to say whatever he has stated. The court cross-examined this witness on it's own and thereafter the defence again started cross-examination and he stated that he could not tell on whose advice or suggestion his wife had sold the aforesaid things. She might be doing so on the advice of her brother Khem Singh and others. Having seen dead-body of the deceased, he had become unconscious and became conscious when the I.O reached there. He denied that the inspector had got the report lodged by taking him and Jai Prakash to police station.

51. Head Constable Nadir Ali was examined as P.W.7 who is also a formal witness. He has simply proved that small containers along with blood-stained soil and plain soil etc. and other articles which were collected by the police during investigation. As he is a formal witness, nothing much has been argued about his statement by either side, hence we do not consider it necessary to discuss his statement at length.

52. S.I. V.P. Singh has been examined as P.W.8 who has investigated this case and has stated in his cross-examination that on 1.7.79 he was posted as S.O at police station Syohara and had been assigned investigation of this case and he has recorded the statement of informant Layak Singh and Chaukidar Ameer Hussain at the police station and thereafter after having received copies of FIR and G.D proceeded towards the place of occurrence in village Raini. On reaching the house of the informant he found the dead-body of Veer Singh in the kotha of Genda Singh lying on the floor where lot of blood was spread. After taking the dead-body in possession, Panchas were appointed and Panchayatnama Ext. Ka-7 was prepared in his handwriting. Photo lash, chalan lash and chitthi with respect to post-mortem were prepared in his handwriting which were marked as Ext.Ka-8, Ka-9 and Ka-10 respectively. The dead-body was sealed and was sent for post-mortem through constable Jagdish Chand and Govind Singh along with relevant papers and thereafter he recorded statements of Ram Dulari wife of Layak Singh and Km. Kusum, D/o Layak Singh and Khem Singh and others. At the instance of informant and witness, he inspected the place of incident and prepared the site-plan which was marked as Ext.Ka-11. He found the sari tied around the neck of deceased Veer Singh which was blood-stained and the same after having been taken off, was taken into police custody and sealed on the spot. It's memorandum was prepared in his handwriting which was marked as Ext.Ka-12 and Sari is material Ext.1. Blood-stained khes (bed-sheet) was also taken in possession. The recovery memo was prepared by him which is marked as Ext.Ka-13 and the Khes as material Ext.2. In the Kotha of Genda Singh, one lantern was also recovered which was marked as Ext. Ka-14 and lantern as material Ext.3. The said lantern was found hanging by the peg on the wall. It's recovery memo was prepared as Ext.Ka-15 and lantern as material Ext.4. He also found the drop of blood starting from osara of informant Layak Singh where the deceased had slept up to the Kotha of Genda Singh and there was Sehan in between. From there also blood-stained and plain soil was taken by him and both were sealed in separate containers and it's recovery memo was prepared which is Ext.Ka-16 and the said containers were marked as material Ext.5 and 6 respectively. From near the place where dead-body was lying in the kotha of Genda Singh, from there also, blood-stained soil and plain soil was collected and recovery memo was prepared which was marked as Ext. Ka-17 and the said containers were marked as material Ext.7 and 8 respectively. Lanterns were marked as material Ext.3 and 4 which were found in running condition and oil was in it. The batteries collected from witnesses Raj Kumar, Suresh and Khem Singh were also in running condition and recovery memo was prepared which is Ext.Ka-18. Thereafter he recorded the statements of witnesses of recovery and panchnama and thereafter he made search for the accused who were not found in the village. The same day on the information of the mukhbir (informer) accused Genda Singh was arrested on the road towards Hiranpura towards Eastern side at about 8 p.m along with Chandrakala and Shanti Devi and thereafter statements were recorded. Thereafter he returned to police station along with all the case property and deposited them at the police station. In G.D. No.32 time 10 p.m., he made entry of his return and thereafter on 3.7.79, 4.7.79, 7.7.79, 10.7.79 he made search for the accused Vijay and Udai but they were not found and hence warrants u/s 82/83 Cr.P.C. were obtained. Thereafter on 17.7.79 they appeared before the court and on 10.8.79 he submitted charge sheet.

53. In cross-examination he has stated that he did not consider it necessary to write in the G.D as to where the accused were arrested and how they were arrested. He did not consider the importance to write in panchayatnama the weapon by which the said injuries were found to have been caused. The sister of Genda Singh namely Swarupiya Devi who is widow lady was also interrogated by him. In site-plan, the kotha shown in Northern most side was not that of Swarupiya Devi. He had not made any search of the kotha of Genda Singh where the dead-body of the deceased was found. He denied that he had wrongly shown the recovery of the dead-body from the said kotha deliberately. In sehan, he has shown place "G" from where witnesses had seen the occurrence which is 15 paces away from the main door towards North-West. From the cot up to the door, line of blood was found by him. In that night, there was no rain nor there was water in "Lautiyon". It is wrong to say that he has made false evidence of blood. There was no blood found beneath the cot on which Khes was spread. The Khes was found lying on the floor which was given to him by the informant after picking the same up. The witness Kusum (P.W.1) has given statement to him that she and her family members had raised alarm, hearing which Raj Kumar, Suresh and Khem and many other persons came there with their torches from the Eastern door to the place of occurrence. She has also stated that having seen her and other persons of the village these (accused persons) caught-hold of the cot, the same was started to be dragged towards their house. The witness Khem Singh (P.W.4) had not stated to have gone to take Paneer from Raj Kumar for two times rather he stated that he had gone once. He had taken statement of Bishan Kumar on 1.7.79. This witness has denied that he had lodged the report of this incident falsely after consulting Khem Singh, Raj Kumar and Bishan Kumar and had made false investigation and prepared and submitted false report.

54. Constable Jagdish Chandra (P.W.9) is the formal witness. He had taken the dead-body of the deceased in a sealed condition for post-mortem.

55. Jagdish Saran (P.W.10) is the formal witness in-front of whom the case property was deposited in Malkhana.

56. Ahivaran Singh (P.W.11) is also formal witness who had also deposited the case property in Malkhana.

57. Constable Gendan Lal (P.W.12) is also formal witness who has also deposited some part of case property in Malkhana. All the above four statements are not discussed at length by learned counsel for the appellant, hence we do not find any relevance to discuss the statements here.

58. It is apparent from the details mentioned above that according to prosecution story, the accused-appellants along with accused Genda Singh, Shanti and Chandrakala who have been acquitted by the trial court had committed murder of the deceased Veer Singh on 1.7.79 in village Raini under the jurisdiction of police station Syohara, district Bijnore and the appellants and their father Genda Singh are stated to have assaulted the deceased. The accused-appellant Vijay was armed with Barchi and Genda and Udai armed with knife were assaulting the deceased while Chandrakala, W/o Vijay and Shanti, W/o Genda Singh caught-hold of the deceased by pressing the deceased. As per FIR this incident was given effect to by the accused side because of quarrel which had taken place a day before this incident between the complainant side and accused side when one of the appellants Vijay had taken away rope without permission of the complainant side and did not return the same, on which the deceased had protested and gone there to the accused stating that why they were causing harm to his property, at which Bishan Kumar (Mama) of the deceased had mediated the matter which was settled but this quarrel ultimately gave rise to present incident.

59. From the side of learned counsel for the appellants, it was vehemently argued that according to the admission of the informant, father of Genda Singh namely Jhandu Singh had brought him to village Raini and had rehabilitated him. hence there could be no reason why the accused would murder the son of the informant. It was further argued that the motive which has been stated by the prosecution is so petty that it could not be treated to be the reason for causing murder of the informant's son because it is stated that accused Vijay, son of co-accused Genda Singh had taken away a rope without permission from the house of the deceased which was protested from the side of the informant's son and in the night the present incident happened. The motive is also suggested by the prosecution that the father of Genda Singh had brought up the informant in village Raini as the informant Layak Singh had lost his parents at an early age. Thereafter Genda Singh used to look after 150 bigha of land of Layak Singh and out of the income earned, he used to give him only some money and some time did not give anything therefore, the said land was taken back by the informant from Genda Singh and informant had started doing agriculture on his own and maintained a tractor as well which the accused did not like. Eleven bigha of land was still left to be taken from the accused, but nothing much was argued from the side of the appellants in this respect. It is the prosecution version that it was this enmity because of which this occurrence has happened. Now we have to see as to whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused appellants on the basis of evidence on record. Further, it would be pertinent to refer here the details of the site plan so that the statement of the prosecution's witnesses could be examined in the light of the site plan which would facilitate testing their veracity. The site-plan is as follows:-

By "A" has been shown the place where Layak Singh is shown to be sleeping on Cot.

By "B" is shown the place where Dulari wife of Layak Singh was sleeping on Cot.

By "C" is shown the place where the daughter of the informant Kusum Kumari was sleeping.

By "D" is shown the place where the Pappu and Guddi children of the informant were sleeping.

By "E" is shown Cot of deceased Veer Singh.

By "F" is shown the place wherein in kotha of Genda Singh the deceased Veer Singh was also stated to have assaulted and murdered and blood-stained and plain soil was collected from there also.

By "G" is shown the place from where informant, his son and witnesses have seen Veer Singh having been assaulted.

By "H" is shown the place where the witness Suresh was sleeping in his house and reached the place of incident.

By "I" is shown the place from where witness Raj Kumar came after hearing the noise to the place of occurrence.

By "J" is shown the passage from where accused fled away. Although it is difficult to read from the original site-plan but still it is being gathered from it that by "J" appears to have been shown the place from where the witness Raj Kumar and Suresh had entered the gher of Genda Singh and the informant.

By "K" is shown the place where the lantern was burning.

By "L" is shown the place where the lantern was burning in the kotha of Genda Singh.

The distance of A, B, C and D from the place is shown by E is mentioned meaning thereby the informant and his family members were sleeping about 12 paces away in-front of chappar. The distance of F is shown about 20 paces which would indicate that the place where the deceased was sleeping and from where he was stated to have been dragged by the accused persons towards their kotha. The distance of 'F' and 'G' is nine paces. This would indicate the distance from which the witnesses have seen the incident which was being committed inside the kotha. The width of that kotha is 5 paces and length is 4 paces. From 'E' to 'F' dots are shown by which it is indicated that on the entire place blood was found. From 'H', the house of informant is 25 paces and from 'I' house of the informant is shown 55 yards.

60. It is argued by learned counsel for the appellant that the sole basis of conviction of accused-appellants is that both the appellants had absconded and remained absconded for approximately eleven days which conduct was found to be suspicious one, on the basis of which the trial court has held them guilty. It was also argued that the circumstances that they had absconded for eleven days was never put to the accused u/s 313 Cr.P.C., hence said piece of evidence could not have relied upon by the trial court. We are convinced by argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellants to the extent that if the sole ground of conviction is that appellants remained absconded for eleven days, then it would be improper for the trial court to base their conviction on that. Unless that circumstance was put to the accused u/s 313 Cr.P.C. But if there were other eye-witnesses also pointing the guilt of the accused persons sufficient enough to prove them guilty, their conviction would not be faulted.

61. We have seen above in the statement of PW 1 who is sister of the deceased that 11 bighas of land was still left to be taken from the accused side because of which the accused Genda Singh had animosity towards the informant and nothing has been suggested in cross-examination in this regard therefore the testimony of this witness with respect to the above piece of land stil being in possession of the accused side is established and it has also come in evidence that to trigger dispute on the fateful night the incident of the rope having been taken away by the accused side had also happened which was protested and which was the immediate cause for the occurrence. It has also been stated by her that the rise of informant was not being liked by the accused side because they had started cultivation work on their own. We find that though PW 1 is real sister of the deceased but her restatement with respect to the motive as stated above seems to be believable and the same cannot be discarded only because she is real sister of the deceased. The Supreme Court has laid down in the case of Motiram Pandu Joshi and others vs State of Maharastra, (2018) 9 Supreme Court Cases 429 that relationship is not a ground affecting credibility of witness, however judicial approach has to be cautious in dealing with such evidence. Even evidence given by related witness should not be discarded only on the ground that such witness is related.

62. Now we would like to deal with the manner in which the occurrence has taken place and the testimony of eye-witnesses given in this regard and to see as to whether their testimonies are trustworthy or discardable.

63. It is apparent from the statement of PW 1 that initially the incident happened in front of Chappar shown by "E' where in the light of lantern she had seen accused Vijay with barchi, Udai and Genda Singh with knives in their hands who were assaulting his brother (deceased) and apart from them accused Shanti and Chandrakala were pressing the deceased down when she was sleeping in courtyard with her parents, when she had woken up at the scream of the deceased and thereafter when all of them raised alarm witness Suresh, Rajkumar and Khemi also reached there. From there the accused had taken away the deceased towards their Kotha and when they tried to rescue him, they were threatened to be killed due to which they could not come forward to save the deceased from their clutches. The accused thereafter murdered the deceased in the said Kotha which is shown by "F', which is the 2nd place of incident, where the deceased was found dead. She has stated to have seen this incident in the light of lantern which was hanging there both near the Chappar as well as Kotha and also in the light of the torches which the witnesses were having. A long cross-examination has been made of this witness but we find the testimony of this witness to be partly liable to the extent that the appellants with co-accused Genda Singh were involved in assaulting with above-mentioned weapons in an open place i.e. when he was sleeping in front of Chappar and thereafter he was dragged up to the Kotha which was situated little away from there, but it has come in evidence that cry was heard of the deceased when he was inside Kotha and thereafter it subsided and when she and other witnesses saw inside the Kotha, the deceased was found dead. Therefore it reveals that partly she was an eye-witness of the deceased being assaulted as is stated above and partly the case rests on circumstantial evidence that when the deceased had been taken inside the Kotha, where the deceased was crying and thereafter the said cry subsided and the accused fled away from there, which would indicate that it could be the accused only who had killed the deceased and no one else. Moreover the place where the dead body was found lying is Kotha of Genda Singh, therefore under section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, the burden lay upon the defence to disclose how the deceased was found dead in their Kotha, which has not been discharged. The presence of this witness on the scene of occurrence is very natural because she was sleeping very close to the deceased and that even accused were also residing in one part of the said house in which this incident happened and it was night time. Although we find little exaggeration in the description as to how the deceased was taken to Kotha from the place where he was sleeping, but in judgment dated 28/08/2018 in Criminal Appeal No. 1198 of 2006 Menoka Mallik and others vs the State of West Bengal and others the Apex Court has held that it is settled position of law that the testimony of a witness cannot be discarded in toto merely due to the presence of embellishments or exaggerations. The doctrine of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus has been held inapplicable in Indian scenario, where the tendency to exaggerate is common. It is the duty of the court to separate the chaff from the grain. Moreover, minor variations in the evidence will not affect the root of the matter, inasmuch as minor variations need not be given major importance and they would not materially alter the evidence/credibility of the eye-witness as a whole.

64. The statement of P.W.1 has been corroborated by PW 3 who is mother of the deceased who was also sleeping by the side of the PW 1 and close to the deceased. She was also cross-examined at length but we do not find that her testimony suffers from any infirmity with respect to her having seen the occurrence which happened in front of the Chappar and thereafter she also has stated that the deceased was found dead when the accused had dragged him away to their Kotha and soon after the cry of deceased subsided and the accused fled from there, the deceased was found dead by her. Therefore her testimony is also found to be partly reliable despite several embellishments and exaggerations.

65. The informant Layak Singh (PW 6) has also clearly stated to have seen the appellants and the co-accused Genda Singh to have assaulted his son in front of Chappar where he was sleeping and thereafter he was dragged to the Kotha where he was found dead. In cross-examination of this witness nothing such could be elicited by the defence so as to render his testimony unbelievable in totality and we find that he was an eye-witness to the extent that he saw his son having been assaulted by the above accused despite the fact that he also exaggerated on several counts.

66. PW 4, Khem Singh, who is an independent eye-witness of the occurrence is also found by us to be partly believable because he has clearly stated that he had reached the place of incident after hearing the noise and saw in the light of torch that the accused were carrying the deceased towards their Kotha and that when he tried to rescue him, he was also threatened to be killed and subsequently the deceased was found dead in Kotha and the accused had fled from there. We find that though this witness has stated to have reached the place of incident in the night when the occurrence happened, but he being a neighbour who was residing not at a great distance, his testimony also is found to have corroborated the statements given by the other above-mentioned eye-witnesses supporting that he had seen the accused being dragging the deceased away to the Kotha, where the deceased was found dead when the accused had fled from there. His testimony would fall in the category of proving the circumstance of the deceased having been found dead in quota after having been dragged there by the accused persons.

67. We also find that the testimony of the above-mentioned eye-witnesses, though they are family members, does stand corroborated by the medical evidence because the doctor who conducted post-mortem of the deceased and has been examined as PW 2 had found as many as 9 injuries on the body of the deceased which included cut injuries as well as punctured wounds which could have been caused by the weapons which are stated to have been wielded by the appellants as well as co-accused Genda Singh. We also find that the statement of above mentioned witnesses are also in consonance with the site plan which has been made by the investigating officer, who has also clearly proved that a blood trail was found from the place where the deceased was sleeping in Chappar up to the place where he was found dead i.e. Kotha, which supports the version of the prosecution witnesses.

68. Next, we would like to deal with the most important argument made by the learned counsel for the appellants i.e. when the co-accused Genda Singh had been acquitted by the trial court, therefore on the same piece of evidence how the appellants could have been held guilty and punished and therefore it was prayed that the appellants also deserve to be acquitted. Further it was vehemently argued that the basis of convicting the appellants has mainly been that both of them had absconded for about 11 days and because of that conduct only they were found guilty, despite the fact that the said evidence was not put to them when their statement was being recorded under section 313 Cr. P.C., and therefore they could not been held guilty.

69. As regards the co-accused Genda Singh having been acquitted on the same evidence, on the basis of which the appellants have been held guilty, we are not inclined to accept the argument of learned counsel for the appellants. For this we would rely on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Gangadhar Bahera and others Vs. State of Orissa Cr. Appeal No.1282 of 2001 decided on Oct.10.2002. The paragraph no.15 is as follows:-

"To the same effect is the decision in State of Punjab v. Jagir Singh (AIR 1973 SC 2407) and Lehna v. State of Haryana (2002 (3) SCC 76). Stress was laid by the accused-appellants on the non-acceptance of evidence tendered by some witnesses to contend about desirability to throw out entire prosecution case. In essence prayer is to apply the principle of "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" (false in one thing, false in everything). This plea is clearly untenable. Even if major portion of evidence is found to be deficient, in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, notwithstanding acquittal of number of other co-accused persons, his conviction can be maintained. It is the duty of Court to separate grain from chaff. Where chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the Court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient to prove guilt of other accused persons. Falsity of particular material witness or material particular would not ruin it from the beginning to end. The maxim "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has no application in India and the witnesses cannot be branded as liar. The maxim "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has not received general acceptance nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of rule of law. It is merely a rule of caution. All that it amounts to, is that in such cases testimony may be disregarded, and not that it must be disregarded. The doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a Court may apply in a given set of circumstances, but it is not what may be called 'a mandatory rule of evidence'. (See Nisar Alli v. The State of Uttar Pradesh AIR 1957 SC 366.

Merely because some of the accused persons have been acquitted, though evidence against all of them, so far as direct testimony went, was the same does not lead as a necessary corollary that those who have been convicted must also be acquitted. It is always open to a Court to differentiate accused who had been acquitted from those who were convicted. (See Gurucharan Singh and Anr. v. State of Punjab AIR 1956 SC 460. The doctrine is a dangerous one specially in India for if a whole body of the testimony were to be rejected, because witness was evidently speaking an untruth in some aspect, it is to be feared that administration of criminal justice would come to a dead-stop. Witnesses just cannot help in giving embroidery to a story, however, true in the main. Therefore, it has to be appraised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance, and merely because in some respects the Court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respects as well. The evidence has to be shifted with care. The aforesaid dictum is not a sound rule for the reason that one hardly comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggeration, embroideries or embellishment. (See Sohrab s/o Beli Nayata and Anr. v. The State of Madhya Pradesh 1972 3 SCC 751) and Ugar Ahir and Ors. v. The State of Bihar AIR 1965 SC 277). An attempt has to be made to, as noted above, in terms of felicitous metaphor, separate grain from the chaff, truth from falsehood. Where it is not feasible to separate truth from falsehood, because grain and chaff are inextricably mixed up, and in the process of separation an absolutely new case has to be reconstructed by divorcing essential details presented by the prosecution completely from the context and the background against which they are made, the only available course to be made is to discard the evidence in toto. (See Zwinglee Ariel v.

State of Madhya Pradesh (AIR 1954 SC 15) and Balaka Singh and Ors. v. The State of Punjab. (AIR 1975 SC 1962). As observed by this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki and Anr. (AIR 1981 SC 1390), normal discrepancies in evidence are those which are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence and those are always there however honest and truthful a witness may be. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal, and not expected of a normal person. Courts have to label the category to which a discrepancy may be categorized. While normal discrepancies do not corrode the credibility of a party's case, material discrepancies do so. These aspects were highlighted recently in Krishna Mochi and Ors. v. State of Bihar etc. (JT 2002 (4) SC 186). Accusations have been clearly established against accused-appellants in the case at hand. The Courts below have categorically indicated the distinguishing features in evidence so far as acquitted and convicted accused are concerned.

Thus it is apparent from above ruling that it is not necessary that if an accused has been acquitted on particular evidence, the other co-accused also deserve to be acquitted on the same evidence.

70. It is also made clear that the other two co-accused Shanti wife of Genda Singh and Chandra Kala wife of appellant Vijay have been acquitted by the trial court on the ground that when the accused were well armed and were assaulting the deceased, there was hardly any reason to take support of two ladies to catch hold of the deceased so that the deceased could be assaulted, and on that ground these two accused appear to have been acquitted.

71. Learned counsel for the appellants in support of his contention has relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court reported in 2015(2) SCC 513 Naushad @ Naura.

72. In this case appellants no.1, 2 and 3 along with 40 others armed with deadly weapons caused injuries with their weapons to the deceased resulting in his death and on the basis of the statements of nine prosecution witnesses, the trial court convicted the accused-appellant no.1 to 5 and accused-appellant no. 29 out of 44 accused persons. The High Court allowed the appeal preferred by the accused no.4, 5 and 29 and confirmed conviction of accused-appellant no.1 to 3 only. The trial court had made it clear that so called star witness P.W.11 and another were unreliable and unbelievable but used their statements for corroboration of prosecution version regarding appellants. In this case it will be wholly unsafe to rely on such evidence in order to confirm conviction imposed on appellant no.1 to 3, though the very version spoken to by such witness persuaded trial court to acquit all other accused, except accused appellant no.1 to 5 and accused-appellant no.29 and High Court to acquit accused-appellant no.4, 5 and 29 for the same very reasoning. Hence conviction of the appellant nos.1, 2 and 3 would not be sustained.

73. The facts of the present case are not akin to the facts of the above mentioned case and there is no denying the fact that in criminal case each case has it's own facts of which the application of law is required to be made. We do not find that said ruling would be of any help to the appellants in the present case.

74. Learned counsel for the appellants further relied on the judgement of the Apex

Court in the case of Vadivelu Thevar Vs. State of Madras, 1957, SCR 1981.

75. In this case it has been laid down by the Apex Court that the court need not insist upon plurality of witnesses in the murder case. The court may convict if the evidence is wholly reliable and may acquit if it is wholly unreliable and may lack corroboration in material particulars of reliable testimony direct or circumstantial if it is neither wholly reliable nor unreliable we have no quarrel with this principle of law.

76. We would like to point out here that we do admit that according to the correct position of law if abscondance of the appellants was the only ground for the trial court to hold them guilty by distinguishing their case from the other co-accused Genda Singh, the said evidence ought to have been clearly put to the accused appellants at the time of recording their statements under sections 313 Cr. P.C., hence that not being done would certainly make the finding in this regard of the lower court to be questionable, but simultaneously we are of the view that even if that piece of evidence be excluded, we find that there is sufficient evidence both ocular, supported by medical evidence and the circumstantial evidence to hold the appellants guilty and in our opinion even Genda Singh ought to have been held guilty, but his acquittal by the trial court would not confer benefit upon the other co-accused to be acquitted in terms of the law laid down in Gangadhar Bahera case (supra). The finding with regard to the co-accused Genda Singh is not found to be in accordance with law but the acquittal of Genda Singh has not been challenged before us. As regards other co-accused Shanti and Chandrakala, we do not find any infirmity in the finding of the trial court.

77. We would also like to take into consideration the defence evidence extended on behalf of the accused appellants so as to take plea of alibi. In this regard, the defence version was that accused Genda Singh had, on the date of incident at about 4 PM gone to the hospital for the treatment of his daughter in law, Chandrakala along with his wife Shanti, also along with appellants and had stayed in the Government hospital Syohara in the night and returned in the morning, then they came to know that Veer Singh had been murdered, whereafter they went to the police station at about 9 AM, where they were detained and the condition of Shanti deteriorated due to which Doctor was called. Doctor after coming to the Police Station had given her medicine and the next day the police challaned them. To prove the defence version, Bhoj Singh DW 1, constable clerk at PS Kotwali City, Bijnor has proved remand sheet, Exhibit Kha - 1. Dr. AP Gupta, Medical Officer, Incharge PHC, Syohara has been examined as DW 2 who stated that on 30/06/1979, he was posted at the said PHC and had examined Chandrakala as outdoor patient and had made an entry in register. She suffered from fits and pain chest and has proved certificate in his handwriting, Exhibit Kha - 2 but in the cross examination he did not recollect when the said certificate was issued. Either the patient or his attendant had moved an application that a certificate in that behalf should be issued, and after having taken the same, the patient had gone though he had not given any treatment to the patient. He also did not recollect whether any medical practitioner had referred her case. The entry of the patient was recorded at 5:30 PM, which was written by different ink, which was closing time of the hospital. Three - four persons were accompanying the patient and there was no thumb impression on Exhibit Kha 2 nor was there mentioned the name of husband or father of Chandrakala. The said statement clearly reflects that the patient, if it be taken to be true, who was taken to the hospital, was not found to suffer from any serious ailment as she was treated as an outdoor patient and was not admitted, therefore it could not be believed that she would have been admitted and remained in the night there only, which belies the defence version of accused persons staying in the hospital in the night of incident. DW 3 is record keeper, Police Office, Bijnor who had brought general diary of July 1979 of PS Syohara according to which Genda Singh, Shanti and Chandrakala were sent to jail in crime no. 126 under sections 147, 148, 149, 302 IPC as per report no. 16 at 8 AM and the GD was proved as Exhibit Kha - 3. He appears to be a formal witness only. Ashok Kumar Goel, Medical Officer has been examined as DW 4 who has stated that the medical certificate of Doctor Nripendra dated 25/05/1981 was issued by him who was suffering from fever. He has no prescription of medicine on record as the same might be with the patient. The statement of this witness also does not help the case of defence because the Doctor who actually had prepared certificate has not been examined nor does this witness prove that the patient was under treatment in the night of the incident. Later on Dr. N K Verma who was examined as DW 6, has stated that he knew accused Vijay since before, who was not present in court. About 2 years ago at about 11 - 12 a.m. SO, Vijay Pal Singh had telephoned him, in response to which he had gone to PS Syohara, where Genda Singh, his wife and one more lady who had covered her face, were present. Shanti Devi, who had fainted, was given medicine by him. He had asked Genda Singh as to how his wife had fainted, and then he told that she had become nervous. He has stated in cross-examination that he knew Genda Singh from before as he was their family doctor because of which he made no entry in the register. He is a practising doctor for last 20 - 21 years. The said statement does not come to the help of the appellants because it could not be concluded from it that appellants were not present in their house on the date of incident. Therefore from these witnesses it could not be concluded that all the accused including the appellants were away from the place of incident in respect of treatment of Chandrakala on the date of incident.

78. It is pertinent to mention here that the informant Layak Singh has filed Criminal Revision No.1426 of 1981 against the acquittal of co-accused Genda Singh, Smt. Shanti Devi and Smt. Chandrakala @ Munni which is pending before this Court. However, an statement has been made at Bar that the informant Layak Singh as well as co-accused Genda Singh and Smt. Shanti Devi have also expired and with respect to their death, report has been summoned by the Court and as soon as the same is received, the said revision would be disposed of by this Court separately.

79. Therefore, from above analysis, we are convinced that this is a case in which prompt FIR has been lodged and the eye-witnesses of incident named above have actually seen the appellants along with co-accused Genda Singh assaulting the deceased by the weapons mentioned above and the injuries received by the deceased are also corroborated by the post-mortem report of the deceased. The testimonies of the three above mentioned eye-witnesses are found partly believable regarding their having seen the deceased being assaulted by the appellants as well as Genda Singh and thereafter the circumstantial evidence to the effect that the accused had dragged the deceased in their Kotha, where he was murdered and thereafter the accused fled from there, and after the accused had fled, the witnesses entered the room and found the deceased in dead condition. It is also noteworthy that the Kotha in which the dead body of the deceased was found belonged to the co-accused Genda Singh, although the defence version was that the said house belonged to sister of Genda Singh, but the investigating officer had stated that the same belonged to Genda Singh. In view of this the burden also stood shifted to the accused to prove as to how the deceased was found dead in Kotha belonging to them which could not be discharged by them. Therefore, in view of foregoing discussion we are of the view that the trial court has rightly convicted the accused appellants for the offences mentioned above and the appeal deserves to be dismissed and is accordingly dismissed.

80. The appellants are on bail. They may be taken into custody forthwith and sent to jail to serve out the sentence imposed on them by the trial court.

81. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the trial court forthwith along with lower court record for necessary compliance.

Civil Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act' 2015- Section 94(2) - The claim of juvenility can be raised at any stage of the proceeding by a person even in the appeal court - For making a claim of juvenility after conviction, the claimant has to produce some material before the appellate court so as to prima facie prove that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary. Initial burden in such a claim has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility that too before the court where the lis is going on.- As to what would prima facie satisfy the Court cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility. However, the documents referred in sub section (2) of Section 94 of the Act' 2015 have to be treated as sufficient for prima faice satisfaction of the Court about the age of the delinquent to initiate an inquiry under the Act' 2015.
The burden of proof lies upon the person who makes a claim for juvenility before the Court and a prima facie case for the said claim shall be made out on the basis of the requirement of the documents prescribed u/s 94(2) of the Act, 2015.

Civil Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act' 2015- Section 94 - Inquiry- No need of if the claim is bogus and frivolous- If on a prima facie inquiry, the Court before whom the claim of juvenility is raised, finds that the claim is frivolous, bogus or absurd or improbable, it can reject the same at the threshold without referring to the inquiry before the Juvenile Justice Board as it would be a futile exercise and also abuse of the process of the Court. The reason being that a person who raised a claim has to approach a Court with clean hands and the process of law cannot be allowed to be abused at the hands of an unscrupulous person - Once the Statute provides complete procedure and manner of inquiry and enumerates the material evidence which could be considered in inquiry, no deviation is permissible in the course of inquiry. The Juvenile Justice Board or the Committee, as the case may be, has to strictly follow the procedure and the manner in which inquiry has to be conducted.

There is no requirement to conduct any inquiry by the Juvenile Justice Board if at the very beginning the claim is found to be false and frivolous and that the person has not approached the Court with clean hands. The provisions of the Act have to be strictly adhered to and no deviation from the same is permissible.

Civil Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act' 2015- Section 94 – Medical Opinion- Can be used as a last resort only for corroborating the documentary evidence- As far as medical evidence is concerned, the same has been considered as a last resort in the matter of determination of age - The legislative intent to give primacy to the school record regarding the date of birth and the mark sheet containing the said information is clear and categorical. The medical opinion, if obtained, can only be of corroborative value in case of any doubt in the minds of the courts on the documentary evidences.

While determining the claim of juvenility, primacy has to be given to the school records and the medical opinion can only be used for corroboration of the documentary evidence.

Civil Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act' 2015 - Section 102 - Section 94 - The power to examine the validity of the order of the Juvenile Justice Board in appeal is drawn under Section 102 of the Act' 2015 which confers supervisory revisional jurisdiction on the High Court to call for the records of any proceeding conducted by the Board on its own motion so as to satisfy itself with regard to the legality or propriety of an order passed in such proceeding- An application was moved by the appellant directly before the Juvenile Justice Board without disclosing the fact of pendency of the present appeal. Without making any inquiry regarding pendency of the instant appeal or without any direction of this Court, the Juvenile Justice Board had proceeded to make an inquiry into the claim of juvenility of a convicted accused.

The High Court can examine the legality and propriety of an order passed by the Juvenile Justice Board u/s 102 of the Act- Filing of application claiming juvenility by the Appellant before the Juvenile Justice Board during the pendency of the Criminal Appeal and without disclosing the same, is an abuse of the process of the Court and the inquiry conducted by the Board would be an illegality.

Civil Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act' 2015-Section 94 – The Statute requires that the Board shall conduct an inquiry (in the matter of determination of age) by summoning evidences from the School authorities as the words used in sub section (2) of Section 94 are "by seeking evidence by obtaining" the birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation certificate from the concerned Board of examination- Sufficient evidences were not before the Juvenile Justice Board and it has proceeded to declare the appellant/applicant juvenile on inadmissible evidence such as original (duplicate) school leaving certificate and self attested copy of the admission register produced by the applicant- No prima facie satisfaction can be recorded regarding the claim of the applicant being a juvenile on the date of the incident- the appellant has not approached this Court with clean hands and the plea of juvenility has been raised as a shield to cover his misdeeds that too by placing reliance on insufficient material.

In the absence of any sufficient evidence that could prima facie make out a claim for juvenility of the appellant, the Board could not have declared the appellant juvenile on the date of the incident. Also in view of the fact that the appellant has not come with clean hands before the Court and the claim for juvenility is clearly a shield and a cover to escape from his criminal liability. (Order on application No.20 of 2019 dated 24.09.2019)

1. Heard Sri Noor Mohammad learned counsel for the appellant No.2 Mahesh and Sri Jai Narayan learned A.G.A.-1 for the State.

2. We have heard learned counsel for the appellant on the application dated 24.09.2019 filed on behalf of the appellant No.2 Mahesh to take on record the order dated 25.08.2018 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board as an additional evidence and direct an inquiry with regard to the plea of juvenility raised by the applicant/appellant.

3. To ascertain the claim of the appellant seeking declaration of his juvenility, it would be pertinent to note certain relevant facts of the case.

4. An application dated 24.09.2019 supported by affidavit of brother of the appellant/applicant Rinku aged about 38 years has been filed herein stating that during pendency of the present appeal, the appellant moved an application through his counsel directly before the Juvenile Justice Board, Hathras for declaring him juvenile taking the plea that the appellant was born on 11.08.1991 and he studied upto Class III in Harcharan Lal Poorva Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Nai Ka Nagla, Hathras. The date of birth of the appellant was sought to be proved from the School Leaving Certificate dated 05.07.2018 appended as Annexure No.'1' to the affidavit accompanying the aforesaid application. It is contended that the Juvenile Justice Board after hearing both the parties and perusal of the documents appended by the appellant in support of his application, declared him juvenile by an order dated 25.08.2018. The copy of the said order has been brought on record by means of a supplementary affidavit dated 06.01.2019. It appears that when the matter came up for hearing before this Court on 19.09.2019 on the prayer made by the counsel for the appellant he was permitted to move a fresh application claiming juvenility in the present appeal. As a result of the direction issued by this Court vide order dated 19.09.2019, the appellant has moved the present application for the reliefs as noted above.

5. It is contended that the date of incident is 11.08.2008 and on the said date, the appellant was about 17 years old. It is then contended that an inquiry is to be conducted as per the procedure under the Juvenile Justice Act under the directions issued by this Court.

6. To the above application, a counter affidavit dated 14/26.11.2019 has been filed on behalf of the State to bring on record the order dated 25.08.2018 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board as also the copy of the mark sheet of Class III and the School Leaving Certificate dated 05.07.2018, the documents relied by the Juvenile Justice Board. It is pertinent to note that alongwith the supplementary affidavit dated 06.01.2019, sworn by the brother of the appellant, the copy of application dated 21.07.2018 moved by the appellant before the Juvenile Justice Board and the order dated 25.08.2018 passed by it have also been brought on record.

7. Considering the above documents, the questions for adjudication before this Court are:- (i) as to whether the appellant was justified in approaching the Juvenile Justice Board directly for making inquiry for declaring him juvenile on the date of the incident i.e. 11.08.2008, without moving any application, at the first instance in the instant appeal more so when the said fact was not disclosed to the Juvenile Justice Board. (ii) Second issue is about the legality and propriety of the order dated 25.08.2018 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board.

8. The issues before us have serious ramification, therefore, it would be apt to go through the entire Scheme of the Juvenile Justice Act alongwith the amendments in the statutory provision relating to Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act brought from time to time to understand the legal position prevailing on the date of the claim made by the appellant for declaring him juvenile. And further to examine the manner in which, inquiry has to be conducted by the Juvenile Justice Board. We would also be required to refer to the judicial pronouncements holding the field.

9. The Juvenile Justice Act' 1986 (Act No.53 of 1986) was incorporated by the Parliament as a result of ratification of the convention on the right of the Child, adopted on 20th November 1989 by the General Assembly of the United Nations. To achieve the objectives of the Convention, the Juvenile Justice (Card and Protection of Children) bill was introduced in the Parliament. On a review of the working of the Juvenile Justice Act' 1986, it was found that the justice system as available for adults was not suitable for being applied to a juvenile or the Child or anyone on their behalf including the police, voluntary organisations, social workers, or parents and guardians, throughout the country. An urgent need was felt for creating adequate infrastructure necessary for the implementation of the proposed legislation with a larger involvement of informal systems specially the family, the voluntary organisations and the community. An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to juvenile in conflict with law and Children in need of care and protection, by providing proper care, protection and treatment, by catering to their development needs, and by adopting a Child-friendly approach in the adjudication and disposition of matters in the best interest of child and for their ultimate rehabilitation and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto, was enacted w.e.f 30.12.2000, which is known as the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act'2000 (56 of 2000) (in short 'The Act' 2000)

10. Exhaustive amendment was brought in the Act' 2000 by the Amendment Act 33 of 2006 introduced w.e.f. 22.08.2006. Some relevant provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act' 2000 have also been amended in the year 2011. The relevant amendment dated 22.08.2006 for ready reference are to be quoted as under:-

"Section 2 (k) "juvenile" or "child" means a person who has not completed eighteenth year of age"

Section 2(l) "juvenile in conflict with law" means a juvenile who is alleged to have committed an offence and has not completed eighteenth year of age as on the date of commission of such offence;';

Section 2(s) "probation officer" means an officer appointed by the State Government as a probation officer under the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (20 of 1958);"

11. Section 3 of 2000 Act reads as under:-

"Section 3 Continuation of inquiry in respect of juvenile who has ceased to be a juvenile.--Where an inquiry has been initiated against a juvenile in conflict with law or a child in need of care and protection and during the course of such inquiry the juvenile or the child ceases to be such, then, notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or in any other law for the time being in force, the inquiry may be continued and orders may be made in respect of such person as if such person had continued to be a juvenile or a child."

12. Section 7-A providing procedure to be followed when claim of juvenility is raised before any Court is as under:-

"Section 7-A 7-A (1) Whenever a claim of juvenility is raised before any court or a court is of the opinion that an accused person was a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, the court shall make an inquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) so as to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or a child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be: Provided that a claim of juvenility may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such claim shall be determined in terms of the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder, even if the juvenile has ceased to be so on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(2) If the court finds a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence under sub-section (1), it shall forward the juvenile to the Board for passing appropriate orders and the sentence, if any, passed by a court shall be deemed to have no effect.

13. The scope of Section 7-A of the Juvenile Justice Act' 2000 came up for consideration before the Apex Court in Ashwani Kumar Saxena vs State Of M.P1 and Anil Agarwala & another VS. State of West Bengal2.

14. In a previous decision in Dharmbir vs State(Nct Of Delhi) & another3, the effect of insertion of Section 7-A in the Act' 2000 w.e.f. 22.08.2006 was considered to hold as under:-

"12. At this juncture, it will be profitable to take note of Section 7A, inserted in the Act of 2000 with effect from 22nd August, 2006. It reads as follows: ----

Proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 7A contemplates that a claim of juvenility can be raised before any court and has to be recognised at any stage even after disposal of the case and such claim is required to be determined in terms of the provisions contained in the Act of 2000 and the rules framed thereunder, even if the juvenile has ceased to be so on or before the date of the commencement of the Act of 2000. The effect of the proviso is that a juvenile who had not completed eighteen years of age on the date of commission of the offence would also be entitled to the benefit of the Act of 2000 as if the provisions of Section 2(k) of the said Act, which defines "juvenile" or "child" to mean a person who has not completed eighteenth year of age, had always been in existence even during the operation of the 1986 Act. It is, thus, manifest from a conjoint reading of Sections 2(k), 2(l),7A, 20 and 49 of the Act of 2000, read with Rules 12 and 98 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 that all persons who were below the age of eighteen years on the date of commission of the offence even prior to 1st April, 2001 would be treated as juveniles even if the claim of juvenility is raised after they have attained the age of eighteen years on or before the date of the commencement of the Act of 2000 and were undergoing sentences upon being convicted."

15. In Anil Agarwal2, the order passed by the High Court in rejection of application of the appellant therein on the ground of being filed at the belated stage came up for consideration. It was held therein:-

"6. Having regard to the above provisions, we set aside the order passed by the High Court which is incompatible with the provisions of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 and direct the trial court to first of all look into the question of juvenility, as claimed by the appellants herein and after disposal of the claim made by the appellants that they were minors on the date of the alleged incident, it shall proceed with the trial. In the event the trial court comes to a finding that the appellants were minors at the time of commission of the offence, it shall immediately send them to the Juvenile Justice Board concerned for considering their cases in accordance with the provisions of the 2000 Act. It is expected that these applications which have been filed on behalf of the appellants will be disposed of within three months from the date of receipt a copy of this order."

16. In Ashwani Kumar Saxena1 while examining the scope of Section 7-A of the Act, it was held that the said statutory provisions obliges the Court to make an inquiry under the Juvenile Justice Act regarding age of the accused/appellant on the date of incident.

17. As far as the scope and the manner of inquiry into the scheme of juvenility of an applicant is concerned, in exercise of powers conferred by Section 68 of the Juvenile Justice Act' 2000, the Central Government framed Rules namely Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 (In short referred as "the Rules' 2007), and it was provided therein that in case, the State has not framed any rule, the rules framed by the Central Government shall apply in every State till the time the State Government frames rules in consonance with the rules framed by the Central Government. It is pertinent to note that though the State of U.P. framed rules in the year 2004 after the Juvenile Justice Act' 2000 came into force but no fresh rules had been framed in consonance with the Model Rules' 2007 framed by the Central Government.

18. Rule 12 of the Model Rules' 2007 provided the procedure to be followed in determination of age as under:-

"12. Procedure to be followed in determination of Age.

(1) In every case concerning a child or a juvenile in conflict with law, the court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee referred to in rule 19 of these rules shall determine the age of such juvenile or child or a juvenile in conflict with law within a period of thirty days from the date of making of the application for that purpose.

(2) The Court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee shall decide the juvenility or otherwise of the juvenile or the child or as the case may be the juvenile in conflict with law, prima facie on the basis of physical appearance or documents, if available, and send him to the observation home or in jail.

(3) In every case concerning a child or juvenile in conflict with law, the age determination inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee by seeking evidence by obtaining—

(a) (i) the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available; and in the absence whereof;

(ii) the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof;

(iii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(b) and only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

and, while passing orders in such case shall, after taking into consideration such evidence as may be available, or the medical opinion, as the case may be, record a finding in respect of his age and either of the evidence specified in any of the clauses (a)(i), (ii), (iii) or in the absence whereof, clause (b) shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or Ihe juvenile in conflict with law.

(4) If the age of a juvenile or child or the juvenile in conflict with law is found to be below 18 years on the date of offence, on the basis of any of the conclusive proof specified in sub-rule (3), the Court or the Board or as the case may be the Committee shall in writing pass an order stating the age and declaring the status of juvenility or otherwise, for the purpose of the Act and these rules and a copy of the order shall be given to such juvenile or the person concerned.

(5) Save and except where, further inquiry or otherwise is required, inter alia, in terms of section 7A, section 64 of the Act and these rules, no further inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board after examining and obtaining the certificate or any other documentary proof referred to in sub-rule (3) of this rule.

(6) The provisions contained in this rule shall also apply to those disposed of cases, where the status of juvenility has not been determined in accordance with the provisions contained in sub-rule (3) and the Act, requiring dispensation of the sentence under the Act for passing appropriate order in the interest of the juvenile in conflict with law."

19. A question came up for consideration before the Apex Court in Abuzar Hossain @ Gulam Hossain vs State Of West Bengal4 as to when should a claim of juvenility be recognized and sent for determination when it is raised for the first time on the appeal or before the Apex Court. It was also examined as to what would be the effect when a claim of juvenility was raised in trial and appeal but not pressed and then pressed for the first time before the Apex Court or even raised for the first time after final disposal of the case. The three judges Bench of the Apex Court while dealing with the said issue in light of the provisions under the Juvenile Justice Act' 2000 and the Rules' 2007 has laid down in the report that the expression, "any court' in Section 7A is too wide and comprehensive; it include the Apex Court. Even the Supreme Court Rules do not limit the operation of Section 7-A to the Courts other than the Supreme Court where the plea of juvenility is raised for the first time after disposal of the case. The position of law summarized therein is as under:-

"36 (i) A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage even after final disposal of the case. It may be raised for the first time before this Court as well after final disposal of the case. The delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. The claim of juvenility can be raised in appeal even if not pressed before the trial court and can be raised for the first time before this Court though not pressed before the trial court and in appeal court.

(ii) For making a claim with regard to juvenility after conviction, the claimant must produce some material which may prima facie satisfy the court that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary. Initial burden has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility.

(iii) As to what materials would prima facie satisfy the court and/or are sufficient for discharging the initial burden cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility but the documents referred to in Rule 12(3)(a)(i) to (iii) shall definitely be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court about the age of the delinquent necessitating further inquiry under Rule 12. The statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code is too tentative and may not by itself be sufficient ordinarily to justify or reject the claim of juvenility. The credibility and/or acceptability of the documents like the school leaving certificate or the voters' list, etc. obtained after conviction would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard and fast rule can be prescribed that they must be prima facie accepted or rejected. In Akbar Sheikh2 and Pawan8 these documents were not found prima facie credible while in Jitendra Singh10 the documents viz., school leaving certificate, marksheet and the medical report were treated sufficient for directing an inquiry and verification of the appellant's age. If such documents prima facie inspire confidence of the court, the court may act upon such documents for the purposes of Section 7A and order an inquiry for determination of the age of the delinquent.

(iv) An affidavit of the claimant or any of the parents or a sibling or a relative in support of the claim of juvenility raised for the first time in appeal or revision or before this Court during the pendency of the matter or after disposal of the case shall not be sufficient justifying an inquiry to determine the age of such person unless the circumstances of the case are so glaring that satisfy the judicial conscience of the court to order an inquiry into determination of age of the delinquent.

(v) The court where the plea of juvenility is raised for the first time should always be guided by the objectives of the 2000 Act and be alive to the position that the beneficent and salutary provisions contained in 2000 Act are not defeated by hyper-technical approach and the persons who are entitled to get benefits of 2000 Act get such benefits. The courts should not be unnecessarily influenced by any general impression that in schools the parents/guardians understate the age of their wards by one or two years for future benefits or that age determination by medical examination is not very precise. The matter should be considered prima facie on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

(vi) Claim of juvenility lacking in credibility or frivolous claim of juvenility or patently absurd or inherently improbable claim of juvenility must be rejected by the court at threshold whenever raised."

20. In his concurring judgment, Hon'ble Mr. Justice T.S. Thakur (as he then was) speaking for the Bench elaborated paragraph No.36 (iv) noted above to state that the said point sounds a note of caution that an affidavit of a parent or a sibling or other relative would not ordinarily suffice to trigger an inquiry into the question of juvenility of the accused, unless the circumstances of the case are so glaring that the court is left with no option except to record a prima facie satisfaction that a case for directing an inquiry is made out. It was observed that what would constitute a glaring case cannot be put in a strait jacket formula as the said question cannot be easily answered by enumerating exhaustively the situations where an inquiry may be justified even in the absence of documentary support for the claim of juvenility. As far as the words "physical appearance" of the accused used in Rule 12(2) of the Rules 2007 are concerned, the same has lost its efficacy with the passage of time in a case where claim of juvenility is made before the Apex Court, as longer the interval between the incident and the court's decision on the question of juvenility, the lesser the chances of the court making a correct assessment of the age of the accused. It was observed that where the claim is made before the Apex Court for the first time, the advantage of "physical appearance" of the accused is further reduced as there is considerable time lapse between the incident and hearing of the matter by the Court.

21. It was further observed that another situation in the matter of claim of juvenility where the accused does not have any evidence, showing his date of birth, by reference to any public document such as register of birth, certificate from school etc. may not be available as the accused was never admitted to any school was to be considered. It was observed that there may be cases in which accused may not be in a position to provide a birth certificate from the Corporation, the Municipalities or the Panchayat as the register of birth and death may not be maintained and if maintained may not be regular and accurate and at times truthful. The expression "absence" in Rule 12(3) of the Rules 2007 was considered in light of literal (dictionary) meaning of the said expression to hold that mere non-production of a document of registration of birth or certificate of school may not, therefore, disentitle the accused of the benefit of the Act nor can it tantamount to deliberate non-production giving rise to an adverse inference unless the Court in the peculiar facts and circumstances of a case is of the opinion that the non-production is deliberate or intended to mislead the Court or suppress the truth. It was held that approach at the stage of directing the inquiry has of necessity to be more liberal, lest, there is avoidable miscarriage of justice. It was held that while affidavits may not be generally accepted as a good enough basis for directing an inquiry, their non acceptance, however, is not rule of law but a rule of prudence. The Court would, therefore, in each case weigh the relevant factors, insist upon filing of better affidavits if the need so arises, and even direct, any additional information considered relevant including information regarding the age of the parents, the age of siblings and the like, to be furnished before it decides on a case-to-case, basis whether or not an inquiry under Section 7-A ought to be conducted. It will eventually depend on how the court evaluates such material for a prima-facie conclusion that the Court may or may not direct an inquiry.

22. In Om Prakash Vs. State of Rajasthan5, the question which arose for consideration before the Apex Court are:-

"(i) whether the respondent/accused herein who is alleged to have committed an offence of rape under Section 376 IPC and other allied sections along with a co-accused who already stands convicted for the offence under Section 376 IPC, can be allowed to avail the benefit of protection to a juvenile in order to refer him for trial to a juvenile court under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (shortly referred to as the "Juvenile Justice Act') although the trial court and the High Court could not record a conclusive finding of fact that the respondent-accused was below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident?

(ii) whether the principle and benefit of "benevolent legislation' relating to Juvenile Justice Act could be applied in cases where two views regarding determination of the age of child/accused was possible and the so-called child could not be held to be a juvenile on the basis of evidence adduced?

(iii) whether medical evidence and other attending circumstances would be of any value and assistance while determining the age of a juvenile, if the academic record certificates do not conclusively prove the age of the accused ? "

23. While dealing with the said questions, the Apex Court had observed that the Juvenile Justice Act was enacted with a laudable object of providing a separate forum or a Special Court for holding trial of children/juvenile by the juvenile court as it was felt that children become delinquent by force of circumstance and not by choice and hence they need to be treated with care and sensitivity while dealing and trying cases involving criminal offence. It was held that procedure for determination of age of a person claiming juvenility has been provided under the Act read with the Rules. However, when the claim of juvenility was made the benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation can be made applicable in favour of only those delinquents who undoubtedly have been held to be a juvenile which leaves no scope for speculation about the age of the alleged accused. It was found by the Apex Court in that case that the trial court as well as the High Court could not arrive at any finding at all as to whether the accused was a major or minor on the date of the incident and yet gave the benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation to an accused whose plea of minority that he was below the age of 18 years itself was in doubt.

24. It was held that in such a situation, the scales of justice is required to be put on an even keel by insisting for a reliable and cogent proof in support of the plea of juvenility. It was held in paragraph No.'22' & '23' as under:-

"22. It is no doubt true that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence at least prima facie proves the same, he would be entitled for this special protection under the Juvenile Justice Act. But when an accused commits a grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether an accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted as the courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of protecting the confidence of common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice.

23. Hence, while the courts must be sensitive in dealing with the juvenile who is involved in cases of serious nature like sexual molestation, rape, gang rape, murder and host of other offences, the accused cannot be allowed to abuse the statutory protection by attempting to prove himself as a minor when the documentary evidence to prove his minority gives rise to a reasonable doubt about his assertion of minority. Under such circumstance, the medical evidence based on scientific investigation will have to be given due weight and precedence over the evidence based on school administration records which give rise to hypothesis and speculation about the age of the accused. The matter however would stand on a different footing if the academic certificates ad school records are alleged to have been with held deliberately with ulterior motive and authenticity of the medical evidence is under challenge by the prosecution."

25. In Parag Bhati Vs. State of U.P.6, the point for consideration before the Apex Court was as to whether in the fact and circumstance of the said case as to when the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate was doubtful, an ossification test can be the last resort to prove the juvenility of the accused?

26. The Court having gone through the scheme of Juvenile Justice Act (Section 2 and 7-A) as also the Rules 12 of the Rules 2007 held that under the statutory scheme, the Board is enjoined to take evidence by obtaining the matriculation certificate if available, and in its absence, the date of birth certificate from the school first attended and if the same is also not available then the birth certificate given by the local body. In case any of the above certificates are not available, then medical opinion can be resorted to.

27. Considering the decision of the Apex Court in Ashwani Kumar1, Abuzar Hossain4 Om Prakash5, it was held therein that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence atleast prima facie proves the same, he would be entitled to the special protection under the Juvenile Justice Act. But when an accused commits a grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether the accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted. As the Court are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object to protect the confidence of common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice.

28. It is, thus, held in paragraph Nos.'35' & '36' of the reports as under:-

"35. The benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation attached to the JJ Act would thus apply to only such cases wherein the accused is held to be a juvenile on the basis of at least prima facie evidence regarding his minority as the benefit of the possibilities of two views in regard to the age of the alleged accused who is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed and gave effect to it in a well-planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind rather than innocence indicating that his plea of juvenility is more in the nature of a shield to dodge or dupe the arms of law, cannot be allowed to come to his rescue."

"36. It is settled position of law that if the matriculation or equivalent certificates are available and there is no other material to prove the correctness of date of birth, the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate has to be treated as a conclusive proof of the date of birth of the accused. However, if there is any doubt or a contradictory stand is being taken by the accused which raises a doubt on the correctness of the date of birth then as laid down by this Court in Abuzar Hossain, an enquiry for determination of the age of the accused is permissible which has been done in the present case."

29. The position of law as laid down therein is that if the matriculation certificate is available and there is no other material to disprove the correctness of date of birth, the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate has to be treated as a conclusive proof of the date of birth of the accused. However, in case of any doubt or contradictory stand being taken by the accused which raises a doubt on the correctness of date of birth recorded in the matriculation certificate, an inquiry for determination of age of the accused is permissible.

30. All the above decisions pertain to the procedure "for determination of the age" as provided in the Rules' 2007 which was framed by the Central Government in exercise of power under Section 68 of the Juvenile Justice Act' 2000, when claim of juvenility is raised before the Court.

31. The Juvenile Justice Act, however, has underwent a drastic amendment with the repeal of the Juvenile Justice Act' 2000 and enactment of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act' 2015 which has been brought into force on 15.01.2016.

32. This enactment was brought as it was felt that increasing cases of crime committed by the children in the age group of 16 to 18 years in the recent past made it evident that the provisions and system of Juvenile Justice Act' 2000 were ill equipped to tackle child offender in this age group. Numerous changes have been brought by re-enacting a comprehensive legislation to provide for general principles of care and protection of children, procedures in case of children in need of care and protection and children in conflict with law, rehabilitation and social re-integration measures for such children, adoption of orphan, abandoned and surrendered children, and offences committed against children.

33. In Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act' 2015, the definition of 'juvenile' under Section 2 sub section (35) reads as under:-

"juvenile" means the child below the age of 18 years.

The "child" and "child in conflict with law" has been defined in sub Section (12) & (13) of Section 2 as under:-

"child means a person who has not completed eighteen years of age"

"child in conflict with law means a child who is alleged or found to have committed an offence and who has not completed eighteen years of age on the date of commission of such offence."

Sub section (14) of Section 12 defines "child in need of care and protection" whereas Sub-Section (9) defines "best interest of child".

34. The insistence in the existing legislation, i.e. Act' 2015 is to adopt a wholesome approach for ensuring proper care, protection, development, treatment and social integration of children in difficult circumstances by adopting a child friendly approach keeping in view the best interest of the child in mind.

35. The Juvenile Justice Board has been constituted under Section 7 of the Act' 2015. The Board's function and responsibilities provided under Section 8 of the Act shows that the Board constituted for any district shall have the power to deal exclusively with all the proceedings under the Act' 2015, relating to children in conflict with law in the area of jurisdiction of the Board. The functions and responsibility of the Board includes inquiry for declaring "a fit person regarding care of children in conflict with law and registration of FIR for offences committed against any child in need of care and protection".

36. Section 5 provides for continuation of inquiry in respect of any 'child' under the Act' 2015, even if during the course of such inquiry, the child completes the age of 18 years. This provision, thus, clarifies that the inquiry may be continued by the Board and orders may be passed in respect of a person as if that person had continued to be a child.

37. Section 6 provides that the date of commission of offence would be an equivalent date for treating a person as a child during the process of inquiry. It provides that, if any, person who has completed 18 years of age, and he is apprehended for committing an offence when he was below the age of eighteen years, then, such person shall, subject to the provision of this section, be treated as a child during the process of inquiry.

38. Section 25 provides that notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, all proceedings in respect of a child alleged or found to be in conflict with law pending before any Board or Court on the date of commencement of this Act, shall be continued in that Board or Court as if this Act had not been enacted.

39. Section 94 provides the criteria of presumption and determination of age by the Committee or the Board on the appearance of a person before it and is relevant for our purposes. For ready reference, the same is reproduced as under:-

"94. Presumption and determination of age- (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining –

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person."

40. Section 101 provides for appeal by any person aggrieved by an order passed by the committee or the Board under the Act within 30 days of such order. Section 102 confers power on the High Court to call for the record of any proceeding in which any Committee or Board or Children's Court, or Court has passed an order, for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any such order and the High Court may pass such order in relation thereto as he thinks fits. Only rider is that no such order may be passed which may be prejudicial to any person without giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

41. The procedure in inquiries, appeal and revision proceeding under the Act' 2015 has been provided in Section 103 as under:-

"103. Procedure in inquries, appeals and revision proceedings. (1) Save as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, a Committee or a Board while holding any inquiry under any of the provisions of this Act, shall follow such procedure as may be prescribed and subject thereto, shall follow, as far as may be, the procedure laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 for trial of summons cases.

(2) Save as otherwise expressly provided by or under this Act, the procedure to be followed in hearing appeals or revision proceedings under this Act shall be, as far as practicable, in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973."

42. In exercise of power conferred by sub section (1) of Section 110 of the Act' 2015, the Central Government framed model rules known as the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Model Rules' 2016. The said rule provides for functions of the Board, procedure to be followed by the Board in relation to children in conflict with law and completion of any inquiry under sub section (1) of Section 103 of the Act.

43. Similarly, in exercise of the powers conferred by the proviso to sub section (1) of Section 110 of the Act 2015, the Governor of U.P. has framed rules in conformity with the Model Rules framed by the Government of India, known as as the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules' 2019. A careful comparison of both the Rules' 2016 framed by the Central Government and Rules' 2019 framed by the State of Uttar Pradesh, it is evident that there is no conflict or inconsistency in the same. As noted above, the rules provides for function of the Board, procedure in relation to children in conflict with law and children in need and care and protection as also the procedure for completion of any inquiry conducted by the Board in sub section (1) of Section 103 of the Act. Rule 90 of the Rules' 2019 framed by the State of U.P. provides as under:-

"90. (1) No child shall be denied the benefits of the Act and the rules made thereunder.

(2) The benefits referred to in sub-rule (1) shall be made available to all persons who were children at the time of the commission of the offence, even if they ceased to be children during the pendency of the inquiry or trial.

(3) While computing the period of detention or stay or sentence of a child in conflict with law, all such period which the child had already spent in custody, detention, stay or sentence of imprisonment shall be counted as a part of the period of stay or detention or sentence of imprisonment contained in the final order of the court or the Board."

44. Having exhaustively dealt with the Juvenile Justice Act and the rules framed thereunder from time to time, it is evident that the statutory provision in the matter of determination of age of the person brought before the Board is a complete code in itself. The Rule 12 of Rules' 2007 and Section 94 of the Act' 2015 deal with the said issue. The manner of inquiry into the matter of determination of age of the person provided in the above statutes, if compared, it is found that;-

(i) On the appearance of the person before the Board, the Board or the committee or the Court, as the case may be, has to decide the juvenility prima facie on the basis of "physical appearance" and has to record its observation stating the age of child as nearly as possible before proceeding to make an inquiry under Section 14 or Section 36 of the Act' 2015.

(ii) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds to doubt the age of the person brought before it, in order to ascertain that whether he is child or not, the Committee or the Board has to undertake the process of age determination for which evidence has to be collected/placed/sought from the authority concerned.

(iii) The evidence to be collected by the Board or the Committee in the matter of determination of age of a person brought before it, are clearly enumerated in clauses (i) to (iii) of sub section (2) of Section 94 of the Act' 2015.

(iv) Sub section (3) of Section 94 attaches finality to the decision of the Board or the Committee in the matter of determination of age, subject to any challenge to its decision under Section 101 and 102 of the Act' 2015.

45. A careful reading of sub section (2) of Section 94 of the Act 2015 and Rule 12(3) of Rules 2007 shows that a little departure in the matter of taking evidence was made in the Act' 2015 as Rules' 2007 [Rule 12 (3)] gives primacy to the matriculation or equivalent certificate in sub clause (a)(i), whereas Section 94 treat both the date of birth certificate from the school or the matriculation or the equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board at the same level/pedestal.

46. In the matter of consideration of evidence for determination of age of a child considering the language of Section 94 of the Act' 2015 (prevailing as on the date), the inquiry is to complete by seeking evidence from the concerned school or examination board, or the local body who issued the relevant certificate/document and only in the absence of such certificates, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board. That means, the date of birth certificate from the school or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board has been given primacy over the birth certificate issued by the Corporation or a Municipal authority or a Panchayat. The medical opinion has been included as a last resort in such an inquiry, where no documentary evidences as noted above are available.

47. We may further note that there remained no dispute as to the stage of initiation of the said inquiry, in as much as, it is settled position in law that the claim of juvenility can be raised at any stage of the proceeding by a person even in the appeal court. But considering the position of law summarized in Abuzar Hossain4, it is evident that for making a claim of juvenility after conviction, the claimant has to produce some material before the appellate court so as to prima facie prove that an inquiry into the claim of juvenility is necessary. Initial burden in such a claim has to be discharged by the person who claims juvenility that too before the court where the lis is going on.

48. It is equally well settled that as to what would prima facie satisfy the Court cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility. However, the documents referred in sub section (2) of Section 94 of the Act' 2015 have to be treated as sufficient for prima faice satisfaction of the Court about the age of the delinquent to initiate an inquiry under the Act' 2015.

49. The Court before whom the matter is pending has to prima facie ascertain genuineness of the document brought before it to assess the convict being juvenile person at the time of commission of crime. The credibility and/ or acceptability of the documents noted above brought before the Court or obtained by the Board after conviction would depend on the fact and circumstances of each case and no strait-jacket formula can be prescribed as to how and when the Court can record its prima facie satisfaction or reject the claim of juvenility to initiate an inquiry. In any case, it is for the Court wherever the claim has been raised for the first time either in appeal or revision during the pendency of the matter to examine the documents brought before it to ascertain the genuineness of the plea and decide as to whether the same satisfies the judicial conscious of the Court to order an inquiry for determination of age of the accused. (Reference paragraph '39.3', '39.4' of Abuzar Hossain4) emphasis added. It has been held in Abuzar Hossain4 that while examining the plea of juvenility raised by an accused for the first time in appeal, the Court has to be alive to the objectives of the Juvenile Justice Act being benevolent legislation and to ensure that its purpose and object is not defeated by the hyper technical approach. However, at the same time, the claim of juvenility which lacks in credibility or frivolous claim of juvenility or patently absurd or inherently impossible claims of juvenility have to be rejected by the Court at the threshold whenever raised. (emphasis added).

50. This means if on a prima facie inquiry, the Court before whom the claim of juvenility is raised, finds that the claim is frivolous, bogus or absurd or improbable, it can reject the same at the threshold without referring to the inquiry before the Juvenile Justice Board as it would be a futile exercise and also abuse of the process of the Court. The reason being that a person who raised a claim has to approach a Court with clean hands and the process of law cannot be allowed to be abused at the hands of an unscrupulous person.

51. We may note that lot of time of the Appellate Court is wasted in sending the matter to the Juvenile Justice Board for inquiry, if such an inquiry is ordered in a casual manner. In many appeal hearing is prolonged on account of such frivolous claims. We may clarify that we may not be misunderstood so as to infer that every claim made before the Appellate Court can be rejected out-rightly or has to be viewed with great circumspection. Our emphasis is that before relegating the matter to the Juvenile Justice Board for making an inquiry in accordance with the statutory scheme, the Appellate Court may examine the record to make a prima facie satisfaction as to whether the claim is genuine or not. If upon such an inquiry, the Court finds that the document, brought before it to raise a claim for juvenility are not genuine or manufactured documents or insufficient to direct for inquiry by the Board, it can reject the application out-rightly seeking relegation to the Juvenile Justice Board for determination of age of the appellant. This conclusion of ours is based upon the decision of the Apex Court in Abuzar Hossain4.

52. Our view is further fortified from the decision of the Apex Court in Om Prakash5, Parag Bhati6 wherein the Apex Court has observed that the claim of juvenility cannot be allowed to be raised merely to create a mist or a smokescreen to seek shelter by using it as a protective umbrella or Statutory shield. The provisions of a benevolent legislation (Juvenile Justice Act) cannot be used to subvert or dupe the cause of justice.

53. As observed by the Apex Court in Ramdeo Chauhan Vs. State of Assam7, the Courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of strengthening the confidence of the common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice. Any effort which weakens the system or shakes the faith of the common man in the justice dispensation system has to be discouraged. The plea of juvenility when made a shield to dodge or dupe the arms of law, cannot be allowed to come to the rescue of a claimant.

54. We also find that the claim of juvenility whenever raised has to be finally determined by the Juvenile Justice Board within the parameters prescribed in the Act' 2015 read with the Rules framed thereunder.

55. As far as the inquiry by the Board, it has been mandated to make an inquiry based on the evidence and there is no scope of speculation. The document such as school leaving certificate, the mark sheet and the birth certificate etc. are to be treated as relevant documents for directing an inquiry and verification of the age of the person concerned.

56. The inquiry has to be strictly made in accordance with the statutory provision (Section 94 of the Act' 2015) and no deviation or departure in this regard is permissible. The Juvenile Justice Board while making an inquiry has to necessarily satisfy itself about the genuineness of the claim by summoning necessary documents from the School or the Board concerned. The genuineness of the documents appended with the application to claim juvenility has also to be ascertained by the Board. No doubt, roving or fishing inquiry cannot be done by the Board but inquiry regarding due execution of the document(s) relied upon by the applicant has to be made by summoning necessary original records from the School or the Board concerned, as the case may be. The authenticity or genuineness of the School leaving certificate with reference to the date of admission and the date of leaving school, the Class of study and other surrounding circumstances has to be ascertained with reference to the material particulars obtained from the concerned school. Similarly genuineness of the mark sheet or the birth certificate placed before the Board to assert the claim of juvenility has to be verified from the examination board or the School which had issued the document/certificate. Such an inquiry is necessary so that no unscrupulous person can get benefit of such a benevolent legislation. In any case, cavalier or casual approach by the Board in the matter of inquiry to grant benefit of benevolent legislation under the Juvenile Justice Board cannot be accepted.

57. To substantiate the above, we would be benefited by the following observation of the Apex Court in Om Prakash5 and Parag Bhati6 as under:-

"(Om Prakash)5 para 37*.....Juvenile Justice Act which undoubtedly is a benevolent legislation but cannot be allowed to be availed of by an accused who has taken the plea of juvenility merely as an effort to hide his real age so as to create a doubt in the mind of the courts below who thought it appropriate to grant him the benefit of a juvenile merely by adopting the principle of benevolent legislation but missing its vital implication that although the Juvenile Justice Act by itself is a piece of benevolent legislation, the protection under the same cannot be made available to an accused who in fact is not a juvenile but seeks shelter merely by using it as a protective umbrella or statutory shield. We are under constraint to observe that this will have to be discouraged if the evidence and other materials on record fail to prove that the accused was a juvenile at the time of commission of the offence."*

"(Parag Bhati)6 para 35. The benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation attached to the JJ Act would thus apply to only such cases wherein the accused is held to be a juvenile on the basis of at least prima facie evidene regarding his minority as the benefit of the possibilities of two vies in regard to the age of the alleged accused who is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed and gave effect to it in a well-planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind rather than innocence indicating that his plea of juvenility is more in the nature of a shield to dodge or dube the arms of law, cannot be allowed to come to his rescue."

58. It was held that in a case of commission of heinous crime, the plea of juvenility cannot be allowed to be raised merely on a doubtful School admission record. It is no doubt true that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence at least prima facie proves the same, he would be entitled for the special protection under the Juvenile Justice Act. But when an accused commits a grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether an accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted as the courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of protecting the confidence of common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice. (Reference para '22' in Om Prakash) (emphasis added).

59. In this context only, the Apex Court in Om Prakash5 drawn a parallel between the plea of minor or plea of alibi to observe as under:-

"32. Drawing parallel between the plea of minority and the plea of alibi, it may be worthwhile to state that it is not uncommon to come across criminal cases wherein an accused makes an effort to take shelter under the plea of alibi which has to be raised at the first instance but has to be subjected to strict proof of evidence by the court trying the offence and cannot be allowed lightly in spite of lack of evidence merely with the aid of salutary principle that an innocent man may not have to suffer injustice by recording an order of conviction in spite of his plea of alibi.

33. Similarly, if the conduct of an accused or the method and manner of commission of the offence indicates an evil and a well planned design of the accused committing the offence which indicates more towards the matured skill of an accused than that of an innocent child, then in the absence of reliable documentary evidence in support of the age of the accused, medical evidence indicating that the accused was a major cannot be allowed to be ignored taking shelter of the principle of benevolent legislation like the Juvenile Justice Act, subverting the course of justice as statutory protection of the Juvenile Justice Act is meant for minors who are innocent law breakers and not accused of matured mind who uses the plea of minority as a ploy or shield to protect himself from the sentence of the offence committed by him."

60. While considering the nature of inquiry, it was observed in paragraph No.'34' in Om Prakash5 that the benefit of benevolent legislation under the Juvenile Justice Act obviously will offer protection to a genuine child accused/juvenile whose claim is not based on shaky evidence like the school admission register or oral evidence based on the conjectures leading to further ambiguity and by putting the Court into any dilemma on adducing evidence in support of the plea of minority. Such an evidence cannot be relied upon to grant benefit of the Juvenile Justice Act.

61. In the same context, while considering the relevance and value of medical evidence in the inquiry by the Board in Ramdeo Chauhan7 the Apex Court has observed that:-

"21. .....The doctor has opined the age of the accused to be admittedly more than 20 years and less than 25 years. The statement of the doctor is no more than an opinion. the court has to base its conclusions upon all the facts and circumstances disclosed on examining of the physical features of the person whose age is in question, in conjunction with such oral testimony as may be available. An X-ray ossification test may provide a surer basis for determining the age of an individual than the opinion of a medical expert but it can by no means be so infallible and accurate a test as to indicate the exact date of birth of the person concerned. Too much of reliance cannot be placed upon text books, on medical jurisprudence and texicology while determining the age of an accused. In this vast country with varied latitude, heights, environment, vegetation and nutrition, the height and weight cannot be expected to be uniform." (emphasis supplied)

"22. .....there is not an iota of doubt in my mind to hold that the petitioner was not a child or near or about the age of being a child within the meaning of the Juvenile Justice Act or the Children Act. He is proved to be a major at the time of the commission of the offence. No doubt, much less a reasonable doubt is created in the mind of the Court, for the accused entitling him the benefit of a lesser punishment. It is true that the accused tried to create a smoke screen with respect to his age but such efforts appear to have been made only to hide his real age and not to create any doubt in our mind. The judicial system cannot be allowed to be taken to ransom by having resort to imaginative and concocted grounds by taking advantage of loose sentences appearing in the evidence of some of the witnesses, particularly at the stage of special leave petition. The law insists for finality of judgments and is more concerned with the strengthening of the judicial system. The courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of strengthening the confidence of the common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice. Any effort which weakens the system and shakens the faith of the common man in the justice dispensation system has to be discouraged."

"23. After committing the crime of murder of four innocent persons, the petitioner cannot be permitted to resort to adopt means and tactics or to take measures which, if accepted or condoned, may result in the murder of the judicial system itself. The efforts made by the accused by way of this petition, are not likely to advance the interests of justice but on the contrary frustrate it."

62. From the analysis of the statutory provision and the judicial pronouncements holding to the field noted above. We find that once the Statute provides complete procedure and manner of inquiry and enumerates the material evidence which could be considered in inquiry, no deviation is permissible in the course of inquiry. The Juvenile Justice Board or the Committee, as the case may be, has to strictly follow the procedure and the manner in which inquiry has to be conducted.

63. It is evident that as far as medical evidence is concerned, the same has been considered as a last resort in the matter of determination of age. The reason being that the doctor's estimation of age is merely an opinion though based on scientific medical test like ossification and radio-logical examination. In absence of all other acceptable materials, if such opinion points to a reasonable possibility regarding the range of age of the person it has to be considered having corroborative value while determining the age of the alleged juvenile accused. The medical evidence neither can be given primacy nor such a course can be resorted to lean in favour of an accused claiming juvenility who relied upon documentary evidences such as academic record to determine his age or declare him juvenile. If the documents pertaining to academic record of the accused are filed to state that the accused had gone to the school and his date of birth was duly recorded in the school admission register or the academic record, then genuineness/authenticity of such a claim has to be ascertained instead of resorting to ascertain his age by getting medical opinion. The legislative intent to give primacy to the school record regarding the date of birth and the mark sheet containing the said information is clear and categorical. The medical opinion, if obtained, can only be of corroborative value in case of any doubt in the minds of the courts on the documentary evidences. The question whether the medical evidences should be relied upon or not will obviously depend on the value of the evidence laid by the contesting party. Thus, in an inquiry into the claim of juvenility, the Juvenile Justice Board has to examine each case within the parameters of the legislation by making a careful scrutiny regarding the genuineness of the claim.

64. In light of the above, while examining the facts of the present case we find that during pendency of the instant appeal, an application dated 21.07.2018 was moved by the appellant directly before the Juvenile Justice Board without disclosing the fact of pendency of the present appeal. The said application, found on record, states in a casual manner that the applicant was convicted by the Sessions Court vide judgement and order dated 11.03.2011 under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced for imprisonment for life alongwith fine and that the applicant was languishing in jail and was juvenile on the date of the incident which is 11.08.2008. It was then stated therein that the appellant had studied upto Class III in Harcharan Lal Poorva Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Nai Ka Nagla, Hathras. This application was supported by the affidavit of brother of the appellant. A perusal of the record of the Juvenile Justice Board indicates that on presentation of such an application, without making any inquiry regarding pendency of the instant appeal or without any direction of this Court, the Juvenile Justice Board had proceeded to make an inquiry into the claim of juvenility of a convicted accused. We note our displeasure on such a casual approach being adopted by the Juvenile Justice Board. Had the decision of the Apex Court in Abuzar Hossain4 been kept in mind, the Juvenile Justice Board would have relegated the appellant to approach this Court by moving a proper application to raise his claim of juvenility in the instant appeal.

65. It appears that for this reason, this Court while passing the order dated 19.09.2019 allowed the appellant to move a fresh application for claiming juvenility in the present appeal. The application dated 24.09.2019 has thus, been moved by the appellant appending the school leaving certificate issued on 05.07.2018 noticing the date of birth of the appellant as 11.08.1991.

66. We may also note that the plea of juvenility put forth by the appellant herein is based on the same document into which an inquiry had already been conducted by the Juvenile Justice Board though without any order or direction of this Court or any reference to the instant pending appeal. We are, therefore, are not inclined to entertain the plea of the learned counsel for the appellant to relegate the matter for ascertaining the claim of juvenility of the appellant afresh.

67. We have heard the learned counsel for the appellant and the learned AGA on the merits of the order of the Juvenile Justice Board.

68. As to the power to examine the validity of the order of the Juvenile Justice Board in appeal, we may draw such power in Section 102 of the Act' 2015 which confers supervisory revisional jurisdiction on the High Court to call for the records of any proceeding conducted by the Board on its own motion so as to satisfy itself with regard to the legality or propriety of an order passed in such proceeding.

69. Drawing source from the above provision, we have summoned the original record of the Juvenile Justice Board and having examined the same we find that the Board has adopted a completely casual approach in making the inquiry. Two witnesses namely a teacher Sahab Singh and mother of the appellant had appeared in the witness box as EPW-1 and EPW-2. Sahab Singh made a statement that the appellant was admitted in the School in July 1999 when his date of birth was recorded as 11.08.1991. The admission form was filled by his father and he was duly granted admission. In S.R. register (scholar register) at serial No.3488, name of the appellant is recorded and he had passed Class III on 20.05.2000. The duplicate copy of the transfer certificate was issued to the father of the appellant on 05.07.2018 which was on record. This witness was cross-examined by the public prosecutor and he has reiterated that the transfer certificate dated 05.07.2018 was issued by him which records date of birth of the appellant as 11.08.1991 and all entries in the said document are based on the records available in the School office. It appears that the applicant had filed original copy of the School Leaving Certificate and the self attested photo stat copy of the admission register.

70. Considering the above evidences, the Juvenile Justice Board believing the date of birth of the applicant as 11.08.1991 recorded that as it appears that on the date of incident i.e. 11.08.2008, the appellant was aged about 17 years and being less than 18 years, he was declared juvenile.

71. From the above, it is evident that the Juvenile Justice Board has not conducted proper inquiry in the matter of age determination of the application, as genuineness or authenticity of the duplicate copy of the School Leaving Certificate by obtaining original academic record from the School has not been ascertained. The teacher/principal of the institution had only verified issuance or execution of the duplicate copy of the transfer certificate, which was issued during pendency of the present appeal on 05.07.2018. It is not known nor proved as to when the original copy of the transfer certificate was issued to the appellant or his parent and why the occasion had arisen for issuance of the duplicate copy of the transfer certificate on 05.07.2018. The Juvenile Justice Board has not ascertained from the School records that the appellant was admitted in the School concerned in July 1989 and had passed Class III on 20.05.2000. The said fact has been held proved only on the basis of statement of the Principal/Teacher namely Sahab Singh examined as EPW-2.

72. Even accepting his statement, the said witness examined as EPW-2 has simply proved execution of the School Leaving Certificate dated 05.07.2018 in his own handwriting and signature but did not prove the relevant entries in the same by bringing the material documents before the Juvenile Justice Board such as the Original Scholar Register, the admission register and the register for issuance of the transfer certificate (both original and duplicate). The self attested photo stat copy of the admission register produced by the applicant/appellant on his own was inadmissible in evidence as it was not verified from the original brought by the competent person, who is custodian of the said document. The statement of the Principal/teacher of the institution cannot be taken as a gospel truth and, moreover, has only corroborative value of due execution of the documents brought on record.

73. The statement of EPW-1 cannot be treated as sufficient evidence to attach genuineness to the duplicate copy of the transfer certificate dated 05.07.2018 filed in evidence as a proof of date of birth of the accused/appellant.

74. Moreover, the Statue requires that the Board shall conduct an inquiry (in the matter of determination of age) by summoning evidences from the School authorities as the words used in sub section (2) of Section 94 are "by seeking evidence by obtaining" the birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation certificate from the concerned Board of examination. The documents brought on record were to be verified by the Juvenile Justice Board from the School and from the Board concerned by summoning the original register such as admission register, scholar register and other relevant academic records before returning its finding to determine the age of the applicant. The casual and cavalier approach of the Juvenile Justice Board in granting the benefit of benevolent legislation of the Juvenile Justice Act to the applicant/accused appellant cannot be approved of. The statement of mother of the applicant cannot have any corroborative value in light of the requirements of the legislation for conducting an inquiry for determination of age.

75. As we find that sufficient evidences were not before the Juvenile Justice Board and it has proceeded to declare the appellant/applicant juvenile on inadmissible evidence such as original (duplicate) school leaving certificate and self attested copy of the admission register produced by the applicant, the order dated 25.08.2018 passed by it allowing the claim of juvenility of the applicant on the date of the incident is liable to be set aside.

76. We, therefore, find that the order dated 25.08.2018 cannot be sustained and is, accordingly, being set aside.

77. Now on the question as to whether the matter is to be relegated to the Board for fresh decision, we find that while raising the plea of juvenility in the application dated 21.07.2018, supported by the affidavit of the brother of the applicant, it is not indicated as to when and why the appellant had left the school after he took admission in July 1999 in Class III in the school-in-question. It is not disclosed as to whether the appellant had attended any school prior to Class III. It is also not disclosed as to whether the appellant had studied further or had appeared in the matriculation examination which could have been undertaken by him either in the Academic Session 2006-07 or 2007-08, which fall prior to the date of the incident, which is 11.08.2008 in the instant case. It is also not disclosed as to whether the appellant was studying and if so, in which class at the time of the incident or when he had left his studies. The application to raise claim of juvenility is silent on all these aspect. Further, we may note here that the appellant has not come up with clean hands in the matter of raising claim of juvenility as he did not move any application in the instant appeal at the first instance. The action of the appellant in approaching the Juvenile Justice Board directly without disclosing the pendency of the present appeal proves that his claim is not genuine. Further the ignorance shown by the Juvnile Justice Board in the proceeding for inquiry about the fact of pendency of the appeal is liable to be condemned.

78. We may record, at the cost of repetition, that an unscrupulous person who is trying to cover his misdeed under the shield of juvenility by raising a false and frivolous claim cannot be allowed to use the process of law as a tool. A person who is claiming the benefit of benevolent legislation under the Juvenile Justice Act has to approach the competent court with clean hands. In the instant case, it was required for the appellant to move an application raising the claim of juvenility by bringing necessary material before the appellate court who after recording prima facie satisfaction on the material before it could have relegated the matter for detail inquiry by the Juvenile Justice Board, strictly in accordance with the provisions of Juvenile Justice Act.

79. All this has not been done in the instant case. Further on careful scrutiny of the material before us, we are unable to record any prima facie satisfaction regarding the claim of the appellant being juvenile on the date of the incident i.e. 11.08.2008. The material brought before us do not inspire our confidence. We do not find it just, fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the instant case to relegate the matter to the Juvenile Justice Board for making fresh inquiry into the claim made by the applicant as such an exercise would be an exercise in futility. Further we are convinced that the appellant has not approached this Court with clean hands and the plea of juvenility has been raised as a shield to cover his misdeeds that too by placing reliance on insufficient material.

80. In the totality of facts and circumstances of the instant case, we do not find any merit in the application dated 24.09.2019 filed with the prayer to take the order of the Juvenile Justice Board dated 25.08.2018 on record or to treat the same as an additional evidence to direct a full-fledged inquiry regarding the claim of juvenility raised by the applicant/appellant.

81. The application No.20 of 2019 dated 24.09.2019 is found misconceived and is rejected as such.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sunita Agarwal, J. & Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. The hearing of the appeal has been delayed since 2018 on account of the application moved by the appellant. The appeal is of the year 2011. We propose to proceed for hearing of the appeal for final disposal.

2. Lower court record has been received.

3. Office is directed to prepare the paper book within three weeks from today. The copy of the same be obtained by the learned Advocate for the appellant on payment of usual charges, immediately thereafter.

4. List this matter for final hearing/disposal on 13.04.2020.

Criminal Appeal No. 2001 of 1995

Ram Bhajan & Anr. ...Appellants (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri S.S. Rathore, Sri Awadh Bihari Pandey, Sri Sarvesh, Sri Vinay Saran, Sri K.K. Singh, Sri Ghanshyam Chaubey, Sri S.K. Verma

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

P.W.1 in his evidence tendered during the trial has fully supported the prosecution case as spelt out in the F.I.R. on all material points relating to the occurrence. P.W.2 has fully corroborated the evidence of P.W.1 on all material aspects of the matter although their evidence qua Rinkal being shot by Jitendra (A2) accidentally may not be believable but on that score alone, their entire evidence cannot be thrown out- The maxim "falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus" has neither received general acceptance nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of rule of law. It is merely rule of caution. All that it amounts to, is that in such cases testimony may be disregarded and not that it must be disregarded. Even if major portion of evidence is found to be deficient in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, his conviction can be maintained and it is the duty of Court to separate grain from chaff and whether chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the Court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient or to be not wholly reliable - If the statement of P.W.1 was not recorded by the Investigating Officer promptly, the defence will not get any benefit due to any laxity on the part of the Investigating Officer - The actions of Jitendra (A2) namely bringing his father's gun from his house, his firing at deceased Sarvesh although the shot did not hit him, and then his father snatching the same from his hands and firing at deceased Sarvesh amount to acts done in furtherance of a common intention. Therefore, we do not find that the trial Judge committed any illegality or infirmity in convicting Jitendra (A2) u/s 302/34 I.P.C. the prosecution has not been able to prove by any cogent evidence that Rinkal had received fire-arm injuries at the hands of Jitendra (A2). Hence, the conviction of the accused-appellants recorded u/s 307/34 I.P.C. cannot be sustained and is liable to be set-aside.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act- Section 5-"falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus" (false in one thing, false in everything) - The maxim has not received general acceptance in different jurisdiction in India, nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of rule of law- It is merely a rule of caution- It is the duty of the court to separate the grain from the chaff but where the two are inextricably mixed up, then the evidence has to be discarded completely. Although the injured witness (PW3) has turned hostile and neither the medical evidence and nor the site plan supports the case of the prosecution that the Accused/Appellants shot him , but that would not mean that the evidence of the other witnesses can be discarded on the point of the Accused/ Appellants having committed the murder of the deceased.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure 1973- Section 161- Delay in recording statement of witness by the investigating officer- Defects in investigation- If the statement of P.W.1 was not recorded by the Investigating Officer promptly, the defence will not get any benefit due to any laxity on the part of the Investigating Officer.- It is settled law that the accused cannot take benefit of the laxities, omissions and commissions of the investigating officer.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 34- Common Intention- The actions of Jitendra (A2) namely bringing his father's gun from his house, his firing at deceased Sarvesh although the shot did not hit him, and then his father snatching the same from his hands and firing at deceased Sarvesh amount to acts done in furtherance of a common intention.- Even though A2 did not cause any injury to the deceased but the fact that he fired at the deceased and then provided the gun to A1 who shot the deceased, establishes the common intention of A2 with A1 to commit the offence.

The prosecution has not been able to prove by any cogent evidence that Rinkal had received fire-arm injuries at the hands of Jitendra (A2). Hence, the conviction of the accused-appellants recorded u/s 307/34 I.P.C. cannot be sustained and is liable to be set-aside while the conviction of the Appellants u/s 302/34 IPC is upheld. 1. Heard Sri Vinay Saran, assisted by Sri Awadh Bihari Pandey learned counsel for appellant no.1 Ram Bhajan, Sri Sarvesh, learned counsel for the appellant no.2 Jitendra and Kumari Meena, learned AGA for the State.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed by the appellants Ram Bhajan and Jitendra who are father and son against the judgement and order dated 08.12.1995 passed by VIth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar in S.T. No. 115 of 1993, State Vs. Ram Bhajan and Another, by which both the appellants were convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life u/s 302/34 I.P.C., five years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 500/-, in default of payment of fine, one month rigorous imprisonment u/s 307 r/w 34 I.P.C. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Briefly stated the facts of this case are that on the basis of the written report (Ext.Ka.1) given by P.W.1 informant Banshi at P.S.- Narval, District- Kanpur Nagar on 19.03.1992 at 1745 hours, Case Crime No. 28/92 u/s 302/307 I.P.C. was registered against four persons namely Ram Bhajan (A1), Jitendra (A2), Moti Lal and Mauji Lal. In the written report of the occurrence, it was alleged by P.W.1 informant Banshi that while the festival of Holi was being celebrated by the residents of the village- Dalpatpur including Jitendra (A2) son of Ram Bhajan (A1) and Sarvesh, son of P.W.1 informant Banshi, a heated argument took place between them which attracted Ram Bhajan (A1), Moti Lal and Mauji Lal to the place where they were arguing and abusing each other. On noticing his son, Jitendra (A2) and Sarvesh, son of informant Banshi abusing each other, Ram Bhajan (A1) exhorted his son to bring his licensed gun from his house and kill Sarvesh on which Jitendra (A2) ran to his house and returned with the licensed gun of his father Ram Bhajan (A1) and fired at Sarvesh with the intention of committing his murder. But the shot fired by Jitendra (A2) hit Rinkal who was standing next to Sarvesh causing fire-arm injuries to him, as a result of which he fell on the ground. Thereafter, Ram Bhajan (A1) grabbed his gun from the hands of his son Jitendra (A2) and fired at Sarvesh with the object of killing him. The shot so fired by him hit him on his chest causing fire-arm injury to him which resulted in his falling down on the ground and dying instantaneously. The incident which had taken place in the lane in-front of house of Raghuvar Dayal was witnessed by Ramesh Chandra, Uresh Chandra, Brijpal, Indrapal, Satish and several other villagers. On being challenged by the villagers, the assailants retreated from the place of occurrence, challenging and abusing the villagers. Injured Rinkal was taken by his maternal grandfather and maternal uncle for treatment to Ursula Hospital. Leaving behind the dead body of his son, the informant went to the police station to lodge the F.I.R. of the occurrence.

4. The investigation of the case was entrusted to S.I. Ramesh Chandra Patel who reached the place of occurrence promptly and after taking the possession of dead body of Sarvesh, conducted the inquest and prepared the inquest report (Ext.Ka.4) and other related documents, letters addressed to C.M.O and R.I., photo nash, challan lash, impression of specimen seal, etc (Ext.Ka.5 to Ka.10).

5. After completing the inquest, he got the dead body of Sarvesh sealed and dispatched through Constable Sahdev Singh and Ram Charan to morturary for conducting postmortem. He also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site plan (Ext.Ka.14). He seized plain and blood-stained earth from the place of occurrence and kept the same in two different containers and then sealed the same and prepared the recovery memos (Ext.Ka.11 and Ka.12). He also seized two empty cartridges of 12 bore from the crime scene and prepared recovery memo (Ext.Ka.13). He recorded the statements of P.W.1 informant Banshi and other witnesses and then proceeded to search Ram Bhajan (A1). On 30.04.1992, he seized the licensed gun (bearing no.64459) of Ram Bhajan (A1) from an almirah in his house in the presence of witnesses, sealed the same on the spot and prepared its recovery memo (Ext.Ka.18). The seized weapon was sent to the ballistic expert for its examination. The report of the ballistic expert was received on 31.03.1993. The postmortem on the dead body of deceased Sarvesh was conducted by P.W.3 Dr. M.K. Jain in K.P.M. Hospital, Kanpur Nagar who also prepared his postmortem report (Ext.Ka.2).

6. The Investigating Officer after completing the investigation submitted charge-sheet (Ext.Ka.16) against both the accused-appellants u/s 307/34 I.P.C. and 302/34 I.P.C. before Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar. Since the offences mentioned in the charge-sheet were triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions, Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar committed the case for trial of the accused-appellants to the Court of Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar where it was registered as S.T. No. 115 of 1993, State Vs. Ram Bhajan and another and made over for trial from there to the Court of VIth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar, who on the basis of material collected during investigation and after hearing the prosecution as well as accused-appellants on the point of charge, framed charge u/s 307/34 I.P.C. and 302/34 I.P.C. against the accused-appellants. The accused-appellants pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

7. The prosecution in order to prove the charges framed against the accused-appellants examined as many as six witnesses of whom P.W.1 informant Banshi, P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra and P.W.4 Rinkal who had received injuries in the occurrence but had failed to support the prosecution case and declared hostile, were examined as witnesses of fact while P.W.3 Dr. M.K. Jain who had conducted the postmortem on the dead body of Sarvesh and proved his postmortem report (Ext.Ka.2), P.W.5 Ramesh Chandra Patel, Investigating Officer of the case and P.W.6 Dr. R.B. Gautam who had examined the injuries of P.W.4 Rinkal and proved his injury report (Ext.Ka.18) were produced as formal witnesses.

8. The accused-appellants in their statements recorded u/s 313 Cr.P.C. alleged that they were falsely implicated in the present case due to enmity with the witnesses. They also alleged that Awadh Narayana Shukla, Ex-pradhan of the village was inimical towards them and it was he who had got the instant case registered against them pursuant to a conspiracy hatched by him against them. The accused-appellants did not examine any witness in defence.

9. Learned VIth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar after considering the submissions advanced before him by the learned counsel for the parties and scrutinizing the evidence on record, both oral as well as documentary, convicted the accused-appellant no.1, Ram Bhajan and accused-appellant no.2, Jitendra u/s 307/34 I.P.C. and 302/34 I.P.C. and awarded aforesaid sentences to them while co-accused Moti Lal and Mauji Lal were acquitted of all the charges.

10. Hence, this appeal.

11. It has been submitted by Sri Vinay Saran, learned counsel for the appellants that the testimonies of the two witnesses examined during the trial by the prosecution are inconsistent and do not inspire confidence in view of the inherent contradictions in their evidence. The acquittal of co-accused Moti Lal and Mauji Lal on the non-acceptance of evidence tendered by P.W.1 informant Banshi and P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra to a large extent warranted throwing out the entire prosecution case. In essence prayer was made to apply the principle of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus (false in one thing, false in everything). He further submitted that the medical evidence on record does not corroborate the eye-witness account. The prosecution has not been able to establish the motive for the accused-appellants to commit the murder of Sarvesh. The recording of the statements of the eye-witnesses of the occurrence after 5 or 6 days is clearly indicative of the fact that none of the so-called eye-witnesses had neither actually seen the occurrence as they were neither present in the village on the date of occurrence nor they were available for recording of their statements u/s 161 Cr.P.C. till lapse of 4-5 days. Since the prosecution miserably failed to prove its case at the trial, neither the recorded conviction of the accused-appellants nor the sentences awarded to them can be sustained.

12. Per contra Kumari Meena, learned AGA appearing for the State submitted that the prosecution has succeeded in establishing both the charges framed against the accused-appellants by leading cogent evidence. P.W.1 informant Banshi in his evidence tendered during the trial has fully supported the prosecution case as spelt out in the F.I.R. His evidence has been fully corroborated by P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra on all material points relating to the time, place and manner of assault as well as the identity of the perpetrators of the crime. There is no irreconcilable conflict between the ocular version and the medical evidence on record. The prosecution has proved that the murder of Sarvesh was committed by the accused-appellants as a fallout of the fight which had taken place between them 15 days prior to the occurrence with regard to a raising of boundary wall by the accused-appellants on the land of public passage which was objected to by the informant by cogent evidence. The impugned judgement and order do not suffer from any illegality or infirmity requiring any interference by this Court. This appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

13. The only question which arises for our consideration in this appeal is whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case against the accused-appellants beyond all reasonable doubts or not.

14. Record shows that the occurrence in which Sarvesh, son of P.W.1 informant Banshi was allegedly shot dead by Ram Bhajan (A1) and one Rinkal had received fire-arm injury, author whereof was Jitendra (A2), had taken place on 19.03.1992 at about 4 P.M. when the villagers were celebrating Holi, the festival of colours. The F.I.R. of the incident was promptly lodged by P.W.1 informant Banshi, father of deceased Sarvesh on the same day at 1745 hours. The postmortem report on the dead body of Sarvesh was conducted by P.W.3 Dr. M.K. Jain in K.P.M. Hospital, Kanpur Nagar on 20.03.1992 who had also prepared his postmortem report (Ext.Ka.2).

15. P.W.1 informant Banshi, in his evidence recorded before trial court, apart from supporting the prosecution case as spelt out by him in the F.I.R., further deposed that 15 days prior to the incident, accused Moti Lal and Mauji Lal had encroached upon the public passage existing in the south of the village by raising a boundary wall thereon which was demolished by his sons Dinesh and Sarvesh after Moti Lal and Mauji Lal had refused to remove the aforesaid wall. On account of demolition of the aforesaid wall by Dinesh and Sarvesh, sons of P.W.1 informant Banshi, the accused Moti Lal, Mauji Lal and Ex-pradhan of the village, Awadh Narayana Shukla had become inimical towards the first informant and his family members. Due to intervention of Awadh Narayana Shukla, the matter was compromised and it was agreed that Moti Lal would reconstruct the wall after leaving the area of passage on which he had earlier encroached. However, next day Ram Bhajan (A1), Moti Lal and Mauji Lal again constructed the boundary wall on the same place where it was existing earlier and after constructing it, accused Moti Lal, Mauji Lal and Ram Bhajan (A1) challenged the first informant and his family members to dare to demolish the wall constructed by them on the village passage. He also deposed that he got the written report scribed by Dinesh Kumar.

16. P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra, the other eye-witness of the occurrence deposed before the trial court that the incident had taken place in the village on 19.03.1992 when the villagers were celebrating Holi in the southern corner of the lane running east to west in-front of the house of Raghuvar Dayal where Sarvesh and Jitendra were arguing. Moti Lal, Mauji Lal and Ram Bhajan also reached the place of occurrence where Sarvesh and Jitendra were arguing and challenged Sarvesh and Ram Bhajan (A1) ordered Jitendra to bring his licensed gun from his house on which Jitendra went to his house and returned with the licensed gun of his father and fired at Sarvesh from a place which was at a distance of 4-5 paces from the door of his house. The gunshot hit a small boy Rinkal who was standing next to Sarvesh. As a result, he fell on the ground and started wriggling with pain. Thereafter, Ram Bhajan snatched his gun from his son and on the exhortation of Moti Lal and Mauji Lal, Ram Bhajan reloaded his gun and fired a shot at Sarvesh which stuck him on his chest, as a result of which he fell on the ground and died instantaneously. He further deposed that the distance between the place from where Ram Bhajan had fired and the spot where Sarvesh was hit was about 14-15 paces approximately. The incident, apart from himself, was witnessed by Uresh Chandra, Brijpal, Indrapal, Satish and several other villagers. He and the other persons present at the place of occurrence had tried to catch the accused but since one of them, Ram Bhajan (A1) was armed with a gun and had threatened anyone who dared to follow them, with dire consequences, they retreated and the accused fled towards the field in the east, hurling abuses at the villagers. He also deposed that about 15 days before the occurrence, Moti Lal and Mauji Lal, the cousin brothers of Ram Bhajan, in the process of constructing boundary wall of their house, had encroached upon some portion of the village passage on account of which deceased Sarvesh, his family members and family members of Moti Lal had quarreled with each other and the dispute was referred to Ex-Pradhan of the village, Awadh Narayana Shukla who after inspecting the disputed site had succeeded in pacifying both the parties. But the accused-appellant Ram Bhajan did not abide with compromise and declared that he was going to build his boundary wall on the same land and dared anybody to stop him. Injured Rinkal was taken to Kanpur for treatment by his maternal uncle and maternal grandfather. P.W.2 identified the accused present in the Court room as the same persons who had committed the murder of Sarvesh and shot Rinkal.

17. Dr. M.K. Jain, who had conducted the postmortem on the cadaver of Sarvesh on 20.03.1992 in K.P.M Hospital, Kanpur Nagar, was examined as P.W.3. He proved the postmortem report of the deceased (Ext.Ka.2). The postmortem report of the deceased indicates following ante-mortem injuries on his dead body:-

1) Multiple fire-arm wounds of entries in number 19 left side of chest and abdomen

2) Multiple wounds of entries twenty-four in number over right side of chest and abdomen

3) Two wounds of entries over left upper part of front of thigh

4) Three wounds of entries over right upper front of thigh

5) Five wounds of entries over left front of upper arm

6) Three wounds of entries over left front of fore arm

7) Two wounds of entries over right shoulder

8) Five wounds of entries over back of right fore arm

9) Two wounds of entries over right submental area

10) One wound of entry over right eye.

All the above wounds are size 0.25 to 8 cm round with blackening and skin, muscle to cavity deep.

18. He deposed that the shot was fired from a considerable distance. But he was not in a position to say with precision about the distance from which the shot was fired as the aforesaid issue fell within the domain of a ballistic expert. As regards the presence of blackening around the wound, he deposed that it could be due to the heat of the pellets. He further deposed that it was possible that the deceased had died on 19.03.1992 at about 4 P.M. The ante-mortem injuries found on the dead body of Sarvesh could be caused by one or two gunshots. Thus, from the evidence of P.W.3, it is proved that the deceased had died as a result of the ante-mortem injuries received by him on 19.03.1992 at about 4 P.M. which could have been caused by a single shot. In his cross-examination on page 35 of the paper book, he deposed that when a shot is fired from a distance of 4-5 feet then the blackening is caused around the wound due to gun powder.

19. Rinkal, who was also allegedly injured in the incident in which Sarvesh had lost his life, was examined as P.W.4. However, he in his evidence tendered before the trial court failed to attribute the gunshot which had caused fire-arm injuries to any of the accused. Rather he deposed that he had not seen the person who had shot him because as soon as he received the gunshot injury, he became unconscious and he was not aware as to who had died in the occurrence. P.W.4 Rinkal was declared hostile on the request of the prosecution and cross-examined by ADGC (Criminal) with the permission of trial court. Upon being confronted with his statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. in which he had stated that Jitendra (A2) had fired at him, he denied having made any such statement before the Investigating Officer and he could not say why the Investigating Officer had recorded aforesaid fact in his statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. He denied that he knew the accused-appellants who were present in the Court.

20. P.W.5 S.I. Ramesh Chandra Patel, the Investigating Officer of the case in his evidence tendered during the trial proved the check F.I.R. (Ext.Ka.3) which was in the hand-writing of Head Moharrir. He proved the inquest report (Ext.Ka.4), letters addressed to the C.M.O. and R.I., photo nash, challan lash and other documents (Ext.Ka.5 to Ka.10). He also proved the recovery memos of plain, simple earth and blood-stained earth and two empty cartridges of 12 bore collected from the place of occurrence (Ext.Ka.11, Ka.12 and Ka.13). He also proved the site plan of the occurrence (Ext.Ka.14) and the charge-sheet (Ext.Ka.16). He further deposed that on 30.04.1992 on the information received by him from the police informer, he seized the licensed gun of Ram Bhajan from his house, Serial No. whereof was 64459 and deposited it in the malkhana of the police station. He proved the check F.I.R. of the case registered against the accused-appellant no.1, Ram Bhajan under the Arms Act and the carbon copy of the G.D. of the case which were in the hand-writings of Constables Sahdev Singh and Ram Charan as (Ext.Ka.17) and recovery memo of the gun (Ext.Ka.18).

21. Dr. R.B. Gautam, who had examined the injuries of P.W.4 Rinkal was produced as P.W.6. He in his evidence tendered before the trial court proved the injury report of the injured Rinkal. The injury report of the injured Rinkal indicated following injuries on his person:-

1) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.3 cm x 0.3 cm, depth not measured, on right side of forehead 4 and ½ cm above the eyebrow. Blood oozing out from wound.

2) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.3 cm x 0.3 cm, on outer portion of left forearm and 3 and ½ cm below the shoulder

3) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm, from behind the chest 4 cm below the shoulder

4) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.1 cm x 0.2 cm, on right arm 6 cm below the elbow. Blood oozing out from the wound.

5) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.4 cm x 0.4 cm, depth not measured which was on upper part of the abdomen on epigastrium

6) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.3 cm x 0.3 cm, on upper left side of abdomen which was 20 cm below the auxila

7) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm, on the lower part of abdomen which was 10 cm below the navel

22. Both P.W.1 informant Banshi and P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra were cross-examined extensively by the defence counsel but their evidence on the point of deceased Sarvesh having been shot by Ram Bhajan (A1) has throughout remained clinching and consistent. Both the witnesses have proved the presence of each other at the time and place of occurrence. Learned counsel for the appellants has relied heavily upon the site plan and the medical evidence on record, namely the postmortem report of the deceased Sarvesh and the injury report of Rinkal for proving that none of the two witnesses had seen the incident. Inviting our attention to the ante-mortem injuries noted by P.W.3 Dr. M.K. Jain on the dead body of the deceased and recorded by him in the postmortem report (Ext.Ka.2) which indicated the presence of blackening around the multiple fire-arm wounds of entry, 19 in number over left side of chest and abdomen, multiple fire-arm wounds of entry, 24 in number, over right side of chest and the deceased's abdomen, two fire-arm wounds of entry over left upper part of front of thigh, three fire-arm wounds of entry over right upper part of front of thigh, five fire-arm wounds of entry over left front of upper arm, three fire-arm wounds of entry over left front of fore arm, two fire-arm wounds of entry over right shoulder, five fire-arm wounds of entry over back of right fore arm, two fire-arm wounds of entry over right submental area and one fire-arm wound of entry over right eye, he submitted that the blackening around the wounds unequivocally suggested that the fire was shot at the deceased from a distance of not more than 4-5 paces. He further invited our attention to the injury report of P.W.4 Rinkal which indicated that he had received 7 fire-arm wounds of entry but no blackening was present around his wounds which according to the learned counsel for the appellants indicated that the shot which had caused fire-arm injuries to injured Rinkal was not shot from the same place from where the deceased was shot at and Rinkal was not standing next to Sarvesh when he was shot. In the site plan of the place of incident prepared by the Investigating Officer, the spot where the dead body of deceased Sarvesh was found lying, has been shown by letter 'A'. The place where Rinkal received gunshot injury is denoted by letter 'XB'. The place from where the accused had fired at the injured and the deceased, has been shown by letter 'C'. The distance between the point 'C' and point 'A' and 'XB' has been mentioned as 27 paces which comes to about 68 feet.

23. The question which arises for our consideration is whether the consistent case of prosecution that when Rinkal was shot unintentionally by Jitendra (A2), he was standing next to Sarvesh and on being shot, he immediately fell on the ground and became unconscious and thereafter Ram Bhajan snatched the gun from Jitendra (A2) and shot Sarvesh, stands totally demolished in view of the factual position that dead body of Sarvesh was found lying at a distance of about 54 paces from the place where Rinkal was shot, as is evident from the perusal of the site plan. If both the accused-appellants had fired at deceased Sarvesh and injured Rinkal from the same point and both the victims were standing at the same distance from the place where the accused had stationed themselves, then the dead body of the deceased Sarvesh should have been found lying at the same place where Rinkal was shot or vice-versa. But it is not like that.

24. Kumari Meena, learned AGA for the State by inviting our attention to the diagram of the dead body prepared at the time of the inquest, submitted that the blackening present around the fire-arm wounds found on the dead body of Sarvesh was due to the heat of the pellets which had entered into his body after the shot was fired. The blackening in this case is not due to the gun powder. If the blackening was present around the area enclosing the multiple fire-arm wounds found on the dead part of the deceased's dead body, then in that case it could be said that the shot was fired from a close distance. In the instant case, the presence of blackening around the pellet entry wounds does not indicate that the shot was fired from a close range and hence there is no discrepancy between the ocular version and the medical evidence on record. However, Kumari Meena has not been able to explain how the injured Rinkal had received gunshot injuries at a place which was at the distance of about 54 paces from the spot where the deceased was shot.

25. The moot question which arises for our consideration is whether the entire prosecution case is liable to be discarded due to the aforesaid inconsistencies in the evidence led by the prosecution and also on the ground of non-acceptance of evidence tendered by P.W.1 informant Banshi and P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra qua co-accused Moti Lal and Mauji Lal which resulted in their acquittal. The evidence of witnesses of fact produced during the trial may not be found to be reliable on the point of Rinkal receiving injuries as a result of the gunshot which was aimed by Jitendra (A2) at Sarvesh, accidentally hitting him, in view of the above inconsistencies and the evidence of Rinkal himself and also with regard to the participation of co-accused Moti Lal and Mauji Lal in the occurrence. But whether the evidence of the two prosecution witnesses on the point of deceased Sarvesh having been shot by Ram Bhajan (A1) after snatching his gun from his son's hands which he had brought from his house on his father Ram Bhajan's order is also liable to be disbelieved. The substantive evidence on record consists of the statements of P.W.1 informant Banshi and P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra, recorded during the trial. We have already held that P.W.1 in his evidence tendered during the trial has fully supported the prosecution case as spelt out in the F.I.R. on all material points relating to the occurrence. P.W.2 has fully corroborated the evidence of P.W.1 on all material aspects of the matter although their evidence qua Rinkal being shot by Jitendra (A2) accidentally may not be believable but on that score alone, their entire evidence cannot be thrown out in view of the principle of law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Gunnana Pentayya @ Pentadu and others v. State of A.P., 2008 (62) ACC 898 (SC) = 2008 (69) AIC 57 (SC). The Apex Court in paragraph 15 of its judgement rendered in the aforesaid case has held as hereunder:-

"The next plea as noted above related to the acquittal of number of persons. Stress was laid by the accused-appellants on the non-acceptance of evidence tendered by P.W.1 to a large extent to contend about desirability to throw out entire prosecution case. In essence prayer is to apply the principle of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" (false in one thing, false in everything). This plea is clearly untenable. Even if major portion of evidence is found to be deficient, in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, his conviction can be maintained. It is the duty of Court to separate grain from chaff. Where chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the Court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient, or to be not wholly credible. Falsity of material particular would not ruin it from the beginning to end. The maxim falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has no application in India and the witness or witnesses cannot be branded as liar(s). The maxim "falsus in uno falsus in omnibus" has not received general acceptance nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of rule of law. It is merely rule of caution. All that it amounts to, is that in such cases testimony may be disregarded, and not that it must be disregarded. The doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a Court may apply in a given set of circumstances, but it is not what may be called 'a mandatory rule of evidence' (See Nisar Ali v. The State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1957 SC 366). In a given case, it is always open to a Court to differentiate accused who had been acquitted from those who were convicted where there are a number of accused persons (See Gurucharan Singh and another v. State of Punjab, AIR 1956 SC 460). The doctrine is a dangerous one specially in India for if a whole body of the testimony were to be rejected, because witness was evidently speaking an untruth in some aspect, it is to be feared that administration of criminal justice would come to a dead-stop. Witnesses just cannot help in giving embroidery to a story, however, true in the main. Therefore, it has to be appraised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance, and merely because in some respects the Court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respect as well. The evidence has to be sifted with care. The aforesaid dictum is not a sound rule for the reason that one hardly comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggeration, embroideries or embellishment."

26. In Triloki Nath v. State of U.P., 2006 (54) ACC 591 (SC) = 2006 (38) AIC 206 it has been observed by the apex Court as under:-

"30. 'Falsus in uno, Falsus in omnibus' is not a rule of evidence in criminal trial and it is the duty of the Court to disengage the truth from falsehood, to sift the grain from the chaff."

27. Thus, what follows from the reading of the aforesaid law reports is that the maxim "falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus" has neither received general acceptance nor has this maxim come to occupy the status of rule of law. It is merely rule of caution. All that it amounts to, is that in such cases testimony may be disregarded and not that it must be disregarded. The doctrine merely involves the question of weight of evidence which a Court may apply in a given set of circumstances. Even if major portion of evidence is found to be deficient in case residue is sufficient to prove guilt of an accused, his conviction can be maintained and it is the duty of Court to separate grain from chaff and whether chaff can be separated from grain, it would be open to the Court to convict an accused notwithstanding the fact that evidence has been found to be deficient or to be not wholly reliable.

28. After carefully scrutinizing the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2, we find that there evidence on the point of deceased having been shot dead by Ram Bhajan (A1) inspires full confidence. The defence has neither challenged the time nor place or manner of incident qua deceased Sarvesh.

29. Another circumstance which has been relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellants for proving that P.W.1 informant Banshi was not present at the place of occurrence is that the statements of P.W.1 informant Banshi u/s 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded by the Investigating Officer after 5-6 days of the occurrence.

30. If the statement of P.W.1 was not recorded by the Investigating Officer promptly, the defence will not get any benefit due to any laxity on the part of the Investigating Officer. Moreover, it is proved from the G.D. entry (Ext.Ka.4) that the written report of the occurrence was given by P.W.1 Banshi himself at P.S.-Narval, District- Kanpur Nagar on the basis of which Case Crime No. 28/92 u/s 302/307 I.P.C. was registered against the accused-appellants. The defence has not challenged the aforesaid entry recorded in G.D. (Ext.Ka.4).

31. As far as motive in this case is concerned, it is true that the same has not been mentioned in the F.I.R. but P.W.1 informant Banshi in his examination-in-chief has categorically deposed that about 15 days before the occurrence, Moti Lal and Mauji Lal, cousin brothers of Ram Bhajan (A1) while constructing the boundary wall of their house had encroached upon some portion of the common passage in the south of the village to which deceased Sarvesh and his family members had objected and requested them to remove the wall. The informant's son and deceased Sarvesh had demolished the boundary wall when they refused. The dispute was referred to Awadh Narayana Shukla, Ex-Pradhan of the village who had persuaded the parties to enter into some kind of compromise under which Moti Lal and Mauji Lal had agreed to reconstruct their boundary wall after leaving the area of public passage. But the accused-appellants did not abide with the terms of the compromise and Ram Bhajan (A1) reconstructed the boundary wall on the same place where he had constructed the boundary wall earlier and thereafter he had threatened anyone including Ex-Pradhan, Awadh Narayana Shukla, who dared to demolish the boundary wall with dire consequences and on the account of the aforesaid enmity, the offence was committed by the accused-appellants. P.W.2 Ramesh Chandra has substantially corroborated the evidence of P.W.1 on the aforesaid aspect of the matter. Thus, we find that the prosecution has also succeeded in proving the motive for the accused-appellants to commit the murder of the deceased.

32. The question which arises for our consideration next is whether the conviction of Jitendra (A2) recorded by the trial court u/s 302 I.P.C. by invoking aid of Section 34 of the I.P.C. can be maintained or not as admittedly Jitendra (A2) has not caused any injury to the deceased. There is no evidence on record showing that Jitendra (A2) had exhorted Ram Bhajan (A1) to kill Sarvesh. The incriminating circumstances against him which appear to have weighed with the trial court while convicting Jitendra (A2) are that on the command of his father Ram Bhajan, (A1), while deceased Sarvesh and Jitendra (A2) were arguing with each other, to get his licensed gun from his house, he had gone to his house and returned with his father's licensed gun and had fired at deceased Sarvesh at the instigation of his father. But the shot fired by him instead of hitting Sarvesh had struck P.W.4 Rinkal. We have already held that there is no reliable evidence on record proving the aforesaid part of occurrence. But the fact remains that if he had not obeyed the command of his father and had not brought his father's licensed gun from his house, the incident may not have taken place at all. The actions of Jitendra (A2) namely bringing his father's gun from his house, his firing at deceased Sarvesh although the shot did not hit him, and then his father snatching the same from his hands and firing at deceased Sarvesh amount to acts done in furtherance of a common intention. Therefore, we do not find that the trial Judge committed any illegality or infirmity in convicting Jitendra (A2) u/s 302/34 I.P.C.

33. Thus, upon a holistic view of the entire facts and circumstances of the case and a critical appraisal and evaluation of the evidence on record both oral as well as documentary, we find that although the prosecution has succeeded in proving that deceased Sarvesh had died as a result of fire-arm injuries received by him from the gunshot fired by Ram Bhajan (A1) from his gun which was brought by his son Jitendra (A2) from his house on his instructions but the prosecution has not been able to prove by any cogent evidence that Rinkal had received fire-arm injuries at the hands of Jitendra (A2). Hence, the conviction of the accused-appellants recorded u/s 307/34 I.P.C. cannot be sustained and is liable to be set-aside.

34. Thus for the aforesaid reasons, the conviction of accused-appellants recorded u/s 302/34 I.P.C. and the sentence of imprisonment for life awarded to them is confirmed. But the accused-appellants are acquitted of the charge u/s 307/34 I.P.C. framed against them.

35. The appeal stands allowed in part and the impugned judgement and order stands modified to the aforesaid extent.

36. The accused-appellants are on bail. Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar shall forthwith get the accused-appellants, Ram Bhajan and Jitendra arrested and sent to jail for serving out the remaining part of their sentences.

No eye-witness account to the incident and the entire case of the prosecution is based on circumstantial evidence - The only piece of evidence against the appellants is the evidence of last seen by (PW-2) and (PW-3) - - The evidence of last seen is being treated as a weak evidence and the same can be made basis for conviction only when it is trustworthy and inspire the confidence of the Court - It is a settled proposition of law that suspicion howsoever grave it is, it cannot take place of evidence - The quality of evidence of PW-2 and PW-3 regarding last seen of the accused persons in the company of the deceased is not very conclusive and clinching. It does not inspire the confidence of the Court because but for this evidence there is no other evidence on record connecting the appellants in commission of murder of the deceased- Where dead body of the deceased was found near a canal in an open space and thus it is difficult to hold that it is the accused persons alone, who have killed her - No FSL report on record and no other evidence to establish as to in what manner these two articles have been used in commission of murder or carrying the dead body of the deceased. Importantly, this seizure has been made from the open place accessible to everyone.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Circumstantial Evidence- Law is well settled that while scrutinising the circumstantial evidence, a Court has to evaluate it to ensure the chain of events is established clearly and completely to rule out any reasonable likelihood of innocence of the accused.
In a case of circumstantial evidence, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established and should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Circumstantial Evidence- Evidence of " last seen"- The evidence of last seen is being treated as a weak evidence and the same can be made basis for conviction only when it is trustworthy and inspire the confidence of the Court - It is a settled proposition of law that suspicion howsoever grave it is, it cannot take place of evidence.
The evidence of the deceased having been " last seen" in the company of the deceased is a weak type of evidence and in order to secure the conviction of the accused, the said evidence has to be clinching and conclusive. It is settled law that suspicion, however strong, cannot be allowed to take the place of proof.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Section 106- Where dead body of the deceased was found near a canal in an open space and thus it is difficult to hold that it is the accused persons alone, who have killed her.
The fact that the dead body of the deceased was found at an open place, easily accessible to all, would not shift the burden of proof upon the accused persons as the said fact cannot be especially within the knowledge of the accused.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 27- Recovery and seizure- Of a rope and gunny bag upon the instance of the accused from an open place- No FSL report on record and no other evidence to establish as to in what manner these two articles have been used in commission of murder or carrying the dead body of the deceased. Importantly, this seizure has been made from the open place accessible to everyone.
The recovery of two articles upon the instance of the accused from an open place , easily accessible to all, and without any corroborative evidence of the Forensic Science Laboratory would not be a relevant fact under Section 27 of the Evidence Act so as to connect the accused with the commission of the offence. 1. As all these four appeals arise out of a common judgement and order dated 27.04.2017 passed by Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 13, Aligarh in Sessions Trial No. 575 of 2012 (State vs. Kaptan Singh & Ors.), convicting the accused-appellants under Sections 498A, 302/149, 201, 120B of IPC, P.S. Khair, District Aligarh and sentencing accused-appellants Satya Pal Singh, Smt. Munesha Devi and Pankaj under Section 302/149 of I.P.C. to undergo imprisonment for life and a fine of Rs. 25,000/- each, in default thereof, to further undergo one year rigorous imprisonment, further sentencing all the accused-appellants to undergo five years rigorous imprisonment under Section 201 and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- each, in default thereof, to further undergo three months additional rigorous imprisonment; to undergo imprisonment for life under Section 120B and a fine of Rs. 15,000/- each, in default thereof, to further undergo one year rigorous imprisonment and to undergo three years simple imprisonment under Section 498A and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- each, in default thereof, to further undergo one month's additional simple imprisonment, they are being disposed of by this common order.

2. In the present case, the name of deceased is Smt. Anita, wife of accused Kaptan Singh. Their marriage was solemnized about 6-7 years prior to the date of incident i.e. 02.02.2012. It is alleged that deceased was subjected to cruelty for demand of Rs. 2 lakhs for expansion of business of her husband. However, the same could not be paid to the husband on account of poor financial condition of the father and brother of the deceased. It is said that a month prior to the date of incident, a Panchayat meeting was called at village Nandpur Pala, which was attended by the accused persons including villagers and in the said meeting, complainant Nagendra Singh (PW-1), brother of the deceased and his family members were threatened for either giving Rs.2 lakhs or to face dire consequences. Further case of the prosecution is that on 02.02.2012, there was a marriage in the relation of the complainant at Delhi, deceased left her house from village Nandpur Pala but she did not reach to Delhi. Near village Khair, at a place called Barka, dead body of the deceased was found near a canal. On the basis of written report lodged by Nagendra Singh (PW-1), brother of the deceased on 03.02.2012, FIR Ex. Ka.2 was registered at 01.30 p.m. against the accused persons, Kanti Devi and one Subhash under Sections 498A, 304B, 201 of IPC read with Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

3. Inquest on dead body was conducted vide Ex. Ka.11 on 03.02.2012 and the body was sent for postmortem, which was conducted on 04.02.2012 vide Ex. Ka.6 by PW-6 Dr. R. Bihari.

4. As per Autopsy Surgeon, following injuries have been found on the body of the deceased:

"(i) Contusion 4cm x 3cm over left forehead.

(ii) Abraded contusion 5cm x 4cm over right forehead.

(iii) Ligature mark 26cm x 1.5cm over front of both side of neck between chin and thyroid cartilage interrupted on back of neck area of 4cm ligature mark directed upward and backward on both brown hard. On dissection glistering white present underneath the ligature mark echymosis present in subcutaneous tissue."

The cause of death of the deceased was due to asphyxia as a result of antemortem hanging.

5. Though Subhash has been made accused in the FIR but after investigation, charge-sheet was not filed against him. It was filed against the appellants and one Kanti Devi, Jethani of the deceased. However, the said Kanti Devi expired during pendency of the trial.

6. While framing charge, the trial court has framed charge against the accused persons under Sections 498A, 302/149, 201, 120B of IPC.

7. So as to hold the accused appellants guilty, prosecution has examined eight witnesses. Statements of accused persons were also recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which, they pleaded their innocence and false implication.

8. By the impugned judgment, the trial Judge has convicted the accused appellants under Sections 498A, 302/149, 201, 120B of IPC and sentenced them as mentioned in paragraph no. 1 of this judgement. Hence these appeals.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants submits:

(i) that there is no eye-witness account to the incident and the appellants have been convicted solely on the basis of weak circumstantial evidence.

(ii) that the main piece of evidence against the accused persons is the evidence of last seen by Rajendra Pal Singh (PW-2) and Raju (PW-3). However, the said evidence is not conclusive in nature and merely based on the same, the appellants cannot be convicted specially when there is no other evidence against them.

(iii) that in Section 313 Cr.P.C. statement, accused Kaptan Singh, husband of the deceased, had taken specific defence that while the deceased was going to Delhi to attend the marriage in her relative's house, she appears to have been killed by someone. Learned counsel for the appellants have placed their strong reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in Vikramjit Singh @ Vicky vs. State of Punjab (2006) AIR (SCW) 6197.

10. On the other hand, supporting the impugned judgment, it has been argued by the State counsel:

(i) that the conviction of the appellants is in accordance with law and there is no infirmity in the same. He submits that conviction can be based even solely on the basis of last seen evidence provided that the said evidence inspires the confidence of this Court and present is one of such case.

(ii) that there was strong motive for the appellants to commit the murder of the deceased as in the Panchayat meeting, the accused persons have openly threatened the family members of the deceased for dire consequences.

(iii) that once the deceased died homicidal death, burden lies on the appellants to explain as to how she died.

(iv) that when the appellants were supposed to go along with the deceased to Delhi, they are under the obligation to offer suitable explanation as to under what circumstances, the deceased died. Admitting for the sake of argument that the deceased might have been killed by third person and could not reach to Delhi, appellants were under the obligation to at least search the deceased as to where she had gone. He placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in Satpal vs. State of Haryana; AIR 2018 SC 2142.

11. We have heard counsel for the parties and perused the record.

12. Nagendra Singh (PW-1), is the brother of deceased and the informant. He states that the marriage of deceased was solemnized with Kaptan Singh about 6-7 years prior to the incident and about Rs. 5 lacks were spent in the said marriage. The accused persons were not satisfied with the dowry given in the marriage and for expansion of their business, they were demanding Rs. 2 lacks from the deceased. He states that all the accused persons were residing at Nandpur Pala at Khair. About a month prior to the incident, he was called by the accused persons in their house and there also, the demand was repeated. He further states that at village Nandpur Pala, a Panchayat meeting was also called, which was attended by the accused persons including accused Vinod and Chota and in the said meeting also, demand was repeated and a threat for dire consequences was extended. He states that on 02.02.2012, marriage of his cousin was to take place at Delhi and deceased was also supposed to attend the same. On 02.02.2012, on phone, accused Kaptan Singh had informed him that he would also be attending the said marriage along with the deceased and two other accused persons namely Vinod and Chota and another relative Subhash. He states that when accused persons and the deceased did not reach to Delhi, he called one Rajendra Pal Singh, who informed him that all of them had gone to Delhi. On the next day, accused Satyapal Singh called him and enquired about the deceased and his other family members but as they did not reach to Delhi, he informed them accordingly. He further states that when he was going to village Khair, on the way near Barka, he met certain persons, who informed him that a dead body of a lady is lying near the canal and the said dead body was of the deceased. Naming all the accused persons as accused, he states that they have killed the deceased. He further states that he could not get the whereabouts of his niece Priyanshi aged 5 years for some time and then the police recovered the said child and handed over to him on 'Supurdhnama'. This witness was subjected to various unnecessary questions in the cross-examination. However, the contents of the said cross-examination are that the deceased was subjected to cruelty. He states that the Panchayat was also attended by him and he returned from the Panchayat by saying that whenever he would arrange Rs.2 lacks, the same would be given to the accused persons. There are some contradictions in the Court statement of this witness, from his diary statement and that of FIR lodged by him.

13. Rajendra Pal Singh (PW-2) was the mediator in the marriage of deceased and Kaptan Singh. He is a resident of village Nandpur Pala where some of the accused persons were also residing. He states that in the marriage about Rs. 5 lakhs were spent by the family members of the deceased. However, the accused Kaptan Singh and his brother-in-law Subhash were insisting for further Rs. 2 lakhs for which all the accused persons used to harass the deceased. He states that deceased was ousted from village Khair and then she was residing in her village Ballor. He further states that from Ballor, deceased called him and requested for settlement by saying that how long she would reside in her parents' house and accordingly a village Panchayat was called. However, the accused persons had insisted for Rs. 2 lakhs and somehow deceased started living at Nandpur Pala. On 02.02.2012, there was a marriage of cousin of the deceased at Delhi and on the same day, at about 03.00 p.m., accused appellant Kaptan Singh on his motorcycle took the deceased and his daughter to Delhi and before that the other accused persons namely Vinod, Chota and Kanti Devi had already left for Delhi. At about 08.00 p.m., he received a call from Nagendra Singh (PW-1) that the deceased and her husband have not reach Delhi and then they were searched and later an information was received about the dead body of one lady, which was later identified to be that of the deceased. He was suggested for falsely implicating the accused persons for various reasons but he has denied all those suggestions.

14. Raju (PW-3) has also been examined as witness of last seen. He states that on 02.02.2012 at about 4.30 p.m., when he and his brother Narendra were returning from the market of Khair, at Somna trijunction, he saw accused Vinod, Chota and Kanti Devi on a motorcycle, who had covered their faces and on the other bike he saw accused Kaptan Singh, his daughter and the deceased and that they were coming towards their house at Khair. He further states that on the second day, he came to know about the death of the deceased and the fact that her dead body was lying near a canal. He states that he had gone to see the accused persons in their house but their house was found to be locked.

15. Rakesh Kumar (PW-4) is a police constable who has proved the general diary and the FIR. Om Prakash (PW-5) is the Station House Officer of Khair, states that at the instance of the accused Kaptan Singh, from the field of one Prem Pal, one gunny bag and a rope of about one meter was seized vide Ex.Ka.5.

16. Dr. R. Bihari (PW-6) conducted postmortem on the body of the deceased. The cause of death of the deceased was asphyxia due to hanging. He states that the deceased died about one and a half day prior to the date of postmortem, which was conducted on 04.02.2012 at 00.15 a.m.

17. S.S. Rathi (PW-7) is the Investigating Officer of the case. Vikram Singh (PW-8) is a constable who assisted during investigation.

18. Close scrutiny of the evidence makes it clear that there is no eye-witness account to the incident and the entire case of the prosecution is based on circumstantial evidence. Law in respect of circumstantial evidence is very clear.

19. In Sattatiya @ Satish Rajanna Kartalla Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2008) 3 SCC 210, the Supreme Court, while dealing with circumstantial evidence, observed as under:

"11. In Hanumant Govind Nargundkar v. State of M.P. [AIR 1952 SC

343], which is one of the earliest decisions on the subject, this court observed as under:

"10. ..... It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be in the first instance be fully established and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

12. In Padala Veera Reddy v. State of AP [(1989) Supp (2) SCC 706], this court held that when a case rests upon circumstantial evidence, the following tests must be satisfied:

"(1) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(2) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards guilt of the accused;

(3) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else."

13. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra [(1984) 4 SCC 116], it was held that the onus was on the prosecution to prove that the chain is complete and falsity or untenability of the defence set up by the accused cannot be made basis for ignoring serious infirmity or lacuna in the prosecution case. The Court then proceeded to indicate the conditions which must be fully established before conviction can be based on circumstantial evidence. These are:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. The circumstances concerned must or should and not may be established;

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

Further in Satpal Vs. State of Haryana; (2018) 6 SCC 610, the Supreme Court has observed as under:

"6. We have considered the respective submissions and the evidence on record. There is no eye witness to the occurrence but only circumstances coupled with the fact of the deceased having been last seen with the appellant. Criminal jurisprudence and the plethora of judicial precedents leave little room for reconsideration of the basic principles for invocation of the last seen theory as a facet of circumstantial evidence. Succinctly stated, it may be a weak kind of evidence by itself to found conviction upon the same singularly.

But when it is coupled with other circumstances such as the time when the deceased was last seen with the accused, and the recovery of the corpse being in very close proximity of time, the accused owes an explanation under Section 106 of the Evidence Act with regard to the circumstances under which death may have taken place.

If the accused offers no explanation, or furnishes a wrong explanation, absconds, motive is established, and there is corroborative evidence available inter alia in the form of recovery or otherwise forming a chain of circumstances leading to the only inference for guilt of the accused, incompatible with any possible hypothesis of innocence, conviction can be based on the same. If there be any doubt or break in the link of chain of circumstances, the benefit of doubt must go to the accused. Each case will therefore have to be examined on its own facts for invocation of the doctrine."

Recently, in Devi Lal vs. State of Rajasthan, Criminal Appeal No.148 of 2010, decided on 08.01.2019, the Supreme Court, while dealing with circumstantial evidence, observed as under:

14. The classic enunciation of law pertaining to circumstantial evidence, its relevance and decisiveness, as a proof of charge of a criminal offence, is amongst others traceable decision of the Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra 1984 (4) SCC 116. The relevant excerpts from para 153 of the decision is assuredly apposite:

153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr. Vs. State of Maharashtra [(1973) 2 SCC 793 where the observations were made:

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

15. It has further been considered by this Court in Sujit Biswas Vs. State of Assam 2013 (12) SCC 406 and Raja alias Rajinder Vs. State of Haryana 2015 (11) SCC 43. It has been propounded that while scrutinising the circumstantial evidence, a Court has to evaluate it to ensure the chain of events is established clearly and completely to rule out any reasonable likelihood of innocence of the accused. The underlying principle is whether the chain is complete or not, indeed it would depend on the facts of each case emanating from the evidence and there cannot be a straight jacket formula which can be laid down for the purpose. But the circumstances adduced when considered collectively, it must lead only to the conclusion that there cannot be a person other than the accused who alone is the perpetrator of the crime alleged and the circumstances must establish the conclusive nature consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused."

Most recently, in Digamber Vaishnav Vs. State of Chhattisgarh; AIR 2019 SC 1367 decided on 05.03.2019, the Apex Court has held as under (with respect to circumstantial evidence):

"15. One of the fundamental principles of criminal jurisprudence is undeniably that the burden of proof squarely rests on the prosecution and that the general burden never shifts. There can be no conviction on the basis of surmises and conjectures or suspicion howsoever grave it may be. Strong suspicion, strong coincidences and grave doubt cannot take the place of legal proof. The onus of the prosecution cannot be discharged by referring to very strong suspicion and existence of highly suspicious factors to inculpate the accused nor falsity of defence could take the place of proof which the prosecution has to establish in order to succeed, though a false plea by the defence at best, be considered as an additional circumstance, if other circumstances unfailingly point to the guilt.

16. This Court inJaharlal Das v. State of Orissa, (1991) 3 SCC 27, has held that even if the offence is a shocking one, the gravity of offence cannot by itself overweigh as far as legal proof is concerned. In cases depending highly upon the circumstantial evidence, there is always a danger that the conjecture or suspicion may take the place of legal proof. The court has to be watchful and ensure that the conjecture and suspicion do not take the place of legal proof. The court must satisfy itself that various circumstances in the chain of evidence should be established clearly and that the completed chain must be such as to rule out a reasonable likelihood of the innocence of the accused. In order to sustain the conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence, the following three conditions must be satisfied:

i.) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established; ii.) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused; and iii.) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else, and it should also be incapable of explanation on any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused."

20. If the above principles of law is applied in the present case, what emerges is that the only piece of evidence against the appellants is the evidence of last seen by Rajendra Pal Singh (PW-2) and Raju (PW-3). If we analyze the evidence of these two witnesses, both of them have stated that they saw the accused persons coming toward their own village Khair and not towards the place Barka where the dead body of the deceased was found. Raju

(PW-3) saw the accused Vinod, Chota and Kanti Devi on a motorcycle, these persons had covered their faces, and on the other vehicle, he saw Kaptan Singh, the deceased and their daughter. Here also evidence of these witnesses becomes doubtful because once some of the persons had covered their faces, while sitting on motorcycle, identification of such persons can be doubted. It is not a case of PW-2 and PW-3 that they saw the accused persons taking the deceased towards the place Barka where her dead body was found. The quality of evidence of PW-2 and PW-3 regarding last seen of the accused persons in the company of the deceased is not very conclusive and clinching. It does not inspire the confidence of the Court because but for this evidence there is no other evidence on record connecting the appellants in commission of murder of the deceased.

21. The evidence of last seen is being treated as a weak evidence and the same can be made basis for conviction only when it is trustworthy and inspire the confidence of the Court. Law in this regard is well settled. In the case of Anjan Kumar Sarma And Ors. Vs. State of Assam; (2017) 14 SCC 359, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"14. Admittedly, this is a case of circumstantial evidence. Factors to be taken into account in adjudication of cases of circumstantial evidence laid down by this Court are:

(1) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. The circumstances concerned "must' or "should' and not "may be' established;

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(3) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(4) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(5) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused. (See: Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra (1984) 4 SCC 116 (para 185 & 153); M.G. Agarwal v. State of Maharashtra AIR 1963 SC 200 (para 18).

19. The circumstance of last seen together cannot by itself form the basis of holding the accused guilty of the offence. In Kanhaiya Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2014) 4 SCC 715, this court held that:

"12. The circumstance of last seen together does not by itself and necessarily lead to the inference that it was the accused who committed the crime. There must be something more establishing connectivity between the accused and the crime. Mere non-explanation on the part of the appellant, in our considered opinion, by itself cannot lead to proof of guilt against the appellant. .....

15. The theory of last seen--the appellant having gone with the deceased in the manner noticed hereinbefore, is the singular piece of circumstantial evidence available against him. The conviction of the appellant cannot be maintained merely on suspicion, however strong it may be, or on his conduct. These facts assume further importance on account of absence of proof of motive particularly when it is proved that there was cordial relationship between the accused and the deceased for a long time. The fact situation bears great similarity to that in Madho Singh v. State of Rajasthan [(2010) 15 SCC 588]."

22. Mr. R. Venkataramani relied upon Deonandan Mishra v. State of Bihar, (1955) 2 SCR 570 at p.582, to buttress his submission that the circumstance of last seen together coupled with lack of any satisfactory explanation by the accused is a very strong circumstance on the basis of which the accused can be convicted. It was held by this Court in the above judgment as follows: (AIR pp. 806-07, para 9)

"It is true that in a case of circumstantial evidence not only should the various links in the chain of evidence be clearly established, but the completed chain must be such as to rule out a reasonable likelihood of the innocence of the accused. But in a case like this where the various links as stated above have been satisfactorily made out and the circumstances point to the appellant as the probable assailant, with reasonable definiteness and in proximity to the deceased as regards time and situation, and he offers no explanation, which if accepted, though not proved, would afford a reasonable basis for a conclusion on the entire case consistent with his innocence, such absence of explanation or false explanation would itself be an additional link which completes the chain. We are, therefore, of the opinion that this is a case which satisfies the standards requisite for conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence."

23. It is clear from the above that in a case where the other links have been satisfactorily made out and the circumstances point to the guilt of the accused, the circumstance of last seen together and absence of explanation would provide an additional link which completes the chain. In the absence of proof of other circumstances, the only circumstance of last seen together and absence of satisfactory explanation cannot be made the basis of conviction. The other judgments on this point that are cited by Mr. Venkataramani do not take a different view and, thus, need not be adverted to. He also relied upon the judgment of this Court in State of Goa v. Sanjay Thakran, (2007) 3 SCC 755 in support of his submission that the circumstance of last seen together would be a relevant circumstance in a case where there was no possibility of any other persons meeting or approaching the deceased at the place of incident or before the commission of crime in the intervening period. It was held in the above judgment as under:- (SCC p.776, para 34).

"34. From the principle laid down by this Court, the circumstance of last seen together would normally be taken into consideration for finding the accused guilty of the offence charged with when it is established by the prosecution that the time gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were found together alive and when the deceased was found dead is so small that possibility of any other person being with the deceased could completely be ruled out. The time gap between the accused persons seen in the company of the deceased and the detection of the crime would be a material consideration for appreciation of the evidence and placing reliance on it as a circumstance against the accused. But, in all cases, it cannot be said that the evidence of last seen together is to be rejected merely because the time gap between the accused persons and the deceased last seen together and the crime coming to light is after (sic of) a considerable long duration. There can be no fixed or straitjacket formula for the duration of time gap in this regard and it would depend upon the evidence led by the prosecution to remove the possibility of any other person meeting the deceased in the intervening period, that is to say, if the prosecution is able to lead such an evidence that likelihood of any person other than the accused, being the author of the crime, becomes impossible, then the evidence of circumstance of last seen together, although there is long duration of time, can be considered as one of the circumstances in the chain of circumstances to prove the guilt against such accused persons. Hence, if the prosecution proves that in the light of the facts and circumstances of the case, there was no possibility of any other person meeting or approaching the deceased at the place of incident or before the commission of the crime, in the intervening period, the proof of last seen together would be relevant evidence. For instance, if it can be demonstrated by showing that the accused persons were in exclusive possession of the place where the incident occurred or where they were last seen together with the deceased, and there was no possibility of any intrusion to that place by any third party, then a relatively wider time gap would not affect the prosecution case."

22. Though there is no explanation from the accused persons in particular accused Kaptan Singh as to how the deceased died but present is a case where dead body of the deceased was found near a canal in an open space and thus it is difficult to hold that it is the accused persons alone, who have killed her. There are as many as six accused appellants in the present case and in absence of any specific role assigned to individual accused, it will not be safe for this Court to uphold the conviction of all the accused persons. Accused Vinod and Pushpendra were made accused merely on the evidence that they attended the village Panchayat and there they threatened the family members of the deceased for giving the dowry amount or to face dire consequences. Likewise, what role has been played by accused Satyapal Sing, Smt. Munisha Devi and Pankaj has also not been made very clear. It is a settled proposition of law that suspicion howsoever grave it is, it cannot take place of evidence. Recently in Devi Lal vs. State of Rajasthan; AIR 2019 SC 688 the Apex Court, while dealing with a case, observed as under:

"On an analysis of the overall fact situation in the instant case, and considering the chain of circumstantial evidence relied upon by the prosecution and noticed by the High Court in the impugned judgment, to prove the charge is visibly incomplete and incoherent to permit conviction of the appellants on the basis thereof without any trace of doubt. Though the materials on record hold some suspicion towards them, but the prosecution has failed to elevate its case from the realm of "may be true" to the plane of "must be true" as is indispensably required in law for conviction on a criminal charge. It is trite to state that in a criminal trial, suspicion, howsoever grave, cannot substitute proof."

Recently, in the case of Digamber Vaishnav Vs. State of Chhattisgarh (Supra) decided on 05.03.2019, the Apex Court has held as under (with respect to last seen):

"40 The prosecution has relied upon the evidence of PW-8 to show that the accused and victims were last seen together. It is settled that the circumstance of last seen together cannot by itself form the basis of holding accused guilty of offence. If there is any credible evidence that just before or immediately prior to the death of the victims, they were last seen along with the accused at or near about the place of occurrence, the needle of suspicion would certainly point to the accused being the culprits and this would be one of the strong factors or circumstances inculpating them with the alleged crime purported on the victims. However, if the last seen evidence does not inspire the confidence or is not trust worthy, there can be no conviction. To constitute the last seen together factor as an incriminating circumstance, there must be close proximity between the time of seeing and recovery of dead body."

23. At the instance of Kaptan Singh, seizure of one rope and gunny bag has been made but there is no FSL report on record and no other evidence to establish as to in what manner these two articles have been used in commission of murder or carrying the dead body of the deceased. Importantly, this seizure has been made from the open place accessible to everyone.

24. Considering the nature of evidence available on record, we are of the view that the accused persons are entitled to get the benefit of doubt. Law in this respect is also very clear. In Kali Ram vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, the Supreme Court; 1973 AIR 2773, while dealing with the issue relating to withholding or affording benefit of doubt, observed as under:

"26. It needs all the same to be re-emphasised that if a reasonable doubt arises regarding the guilt of the accused, the benefit of that cannot be withheld from the accused. The courts would not be justified in withholding that benefit because the acquittal might have an impact upon the law and order situation or create adverse reaction in society or amongst those members of the society who believe the accused to be guilty. The guilt of the accused has to be adjudged not by the fact that a vast number of people believe him to be guilty but whether his guilt has been established by the evidence brought on record. Indeed, the courts have hardly any other yardstick or material to adjudge the guilt of the person arraigned as accused. Reference is sometimes made to the clash of public interest and that of the individual accused. The conflict in this respect, in our opinion, is more apparent than real. As observed on page 3 of the book entitled "The Accused" by J.A. Coutts 1966 Edition, "When once it is realised, however, that the public interest is limited to the conviction, not of the guilty, but of those proved guilty, so that the function of the prosecutor is limited to securing the conviction only of those who can legitimately be proved guilty, the clash of interest is seen to operate only within a very narrow limit, namely, where the evidence is such that the guilt of the accused should be established. In the case of an accused who is innocent, or whose guilt cannot be proved, the public interest and the interest of the accused alike require an acquittal.

27. It is no doubt true that wrongful acquittals are undesirable and shake the confidence of the people in the judicial system, much worse, however, is the wrongful conviction of an innocent person. The consequences of the conviction of an innocent person are far more serious and its reverberations cannot but be felt in a civilized society. Suppose an innocent person is convicted of the offence of murder and is hanged, nothing further can undo the mischief for the wrong resulting from the unmerited conviction is irretrievable. To take another instance, if an innocent person is sent to jail and undergoes the sentence, the scars left by the miscarriage of justice cannot be erased by any subsequent act of expiation. Not many persons undergoing the pangs of wrongful conviction are fortunate like Dreyfus to have an Emile Zola to champion their cause and succeed in getting the verdict of guilt annulled. All this highlights the importance of ensuring, as far as possible, that there should be no wrongful conviction of an innocent person. Some risk of the conviction of the innocent, of course, is always there in any system of the administration of criminal justice. Such a risk can be minimised but not ruled out altogether. It may in this connection be apposite to refer to the following observations of Sir Carleton Allen quoted on page 157 of "The Proof of Guilt" by Glanville Williams, Second Edition:

"I dare say some sentimentalists would assent to the proposition that it is better that a thousand, or even a million, guilty persons should escape than that one innocent person should suffer; but no responsible and practical person would accept such a view. For it is obvious that if our ratio is extended indefinitely, there comes a point when the whole system of justice has broken down and society is in a state of chaos."

The fact that there has to be clear evidence of the guilt of the accused and that in the absence of that it is not possible to record a finding of his guilt was stressed by this Court in the case of Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr. (AIR 1973 SC 2622) as is clear from the following observations:

"Certainly it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distinction between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure considerations."

25. Taking cumulative effect of the evidence, we find it difficult to uphold the conviction of the appellants. They are entitled to get the benefit of doubt.

26. Accordingly, the appeals succeed and are allowed. The impugned judgment is set-aside.

27. Appellant Satyapal Singh, Smt. Munisha Devi and Pankaj are on bail and, therefore, no further order is required in their respect.

28. Rest of the appellants are in jail, they be set free forthwith if not required in any other case

THE HON'BLE AJIT SINGH, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2378 of 2018

Mahipal & Anr. ...Appellants (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Brijesh Kumar Pandey

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

Criminal Law – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 307 and 504 - Sentence to the appellant of five years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 2000 - Modification of the order of the sentence for the period already undergone by the appellant-. He was awarded maximum sentence of five years - The substantive period already undergone by the appellant in this case and the fact that the appellant is a young person and he is the only bread earner in the family and that he might have realized the mistake committed by him and might remorseful of his conduct to the society to which he belongs, he should be given a chance to reform himself and his better contribution to the society to which he belongs to - He has already served about four years and it would be appropriate and proper that the accused be sentenced with the period already undergone and the amount of fine be enhanced- The accused-appellant is sentenced to the period already undergone by him in jail during trial and after conviction an amount of fine of Rs. 4000/- be enhanced to Rs. 10,000/-.

Quantum of Sentence- Reformative Theory- The substantive period already undergone by the appellant in this case and the fact that the appellant is a young person and he is the only bread earner in the family and that he might have realized the mistake committed by him and might remorseful of his conduct to the society to which he belongs, I am of the considered opinion that he should be given a chance to reform himself and his better contribution to the society to which he belongs to.

The reformative approach to punishment as a measure to reclaim the offender, lays emphasis on rehabilitation so that the offender is transformed into a good citizen. Accordingly, in view of the fact that the appellant has already undergone more than half period of his sentence he should be given a chance to reform himself. Sentence modified to the period already undergone by the appellant and fine enhanced. (Para 9, 10)

Criminal Appeal partly allowed. (E-3)

Case Law relied upon:-

1. B.G. Goswami Vs Delhi Administration, (1973) AIR 1457 SC

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Learned counsel for the appellants has very fairly stated that appellant no. 2, Amar Singh has already served the sentence and in view of the above, the appeal against the appellant no. 2, Amar Singh has become infructuous.

2. Having regard to the submission made by the learned counsel for the appellant, the appeal against appellant no. 2, Amar Singh is dismissed as infructuous.

3. This criminal appeal has been filed against the judgement and order dated 13.3.2018 passed by Addl. Sessions Judge, Court no. 1, Budaun in S.T. No. 472 of 2014 (State vs. Munendra and others), under Sections 307 and 504 I.P.C., P.S. Bisauli, district-Budaun, whereby learned Judge convicted and sentenced the appellant to five years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 2000/- and in default of payment of fine further additional imprisonment for three months, one year rigorous imprisonment under Section 504 I.P.C. with a fine of Rs. 1000/- and in default of payment of fine, further additional imprisonment for one month.

4. Both the sentences shall run concurrently.

5. The prosecution story in brief is that on 14.6.2014 the complainant along with his other family members had returned back from the 'Lagun ceremony' of his daughter Vimlesh and his other daughter Kanti had come from her in-laws house to attend the marriage. On 15.6.2014 all the family members were present at home in preparation for the procession. Resident of same village Munendra son of Amar Singh who was armed with firearm started abusing them. Along with Munendra, the residents of same village namely, Mahipal and Amar Singh, son of Natthu, who were having firearms in their hands also came before us and started abusing. When they objected for abusing then at about 6:00 p.m. Munendra started firing with the intention to kill us, which was hit Kanti, as a result of which she collapsed on the 'kharanja'. The incident was witnessed by the residents of the village namely, Gaurav Kumar, Arvind, son of Chatrapal, Dinesh, son of Munshi and several others. All the accused persons after firing ran away towards fields.

6. At the very outset, Sri Umesh Chandra Tiwari, learned counsel for the appellant, on instructions, stated that he does not propose to challenge the impugned judgement and order on its merits. He, however, prayed for modification of the order of the sentence for the period already undergone by the appellant.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that only single shot was fired by the accused Munendra and no overt act of any kind has been attributed to appellant no. 1, Mahipal. He next submitted that at the time of incident the accused was aged about 25 years and at present the accused is more than 31 years of age. He has next submitted that it was the first offence of the accused and after conviction the accused had not indulged in any other criminal activity. He further submitted that on the question of legality of sentence he is not pressing this appeal and only pressing on the quantum of sentence and he has prayed for taking lenient view considering the family status. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that the appellant was awarded rigorous imprisonment of five years and that he has already undergone two years before conviction and about two years after conviction, meaning thereby that he has undergone about four years of the awarded sentence.

8. While dealing with the quantum of sentence, Hon'ble Supreme Court in B.G. Goswami Vs. Delhi Administration, 1973 AIR 1457, held as under:

"Now the question of sentence is always a difficult question, requiring as it does, proper adjustment and balancing of various considerations, which weigh with a judicial mind in determining its appropriate quantum in a given case. The main purpose of the sentence broadly stated is that the accused must realise that he has committed an act, which is not only harmful to the society of which he forms an integral part but is also harmful to his own future, both as an individual and as a member of the society. Punishment is designed to protect society by deterring potential offenders as also by preventing the guilty party from repeating the offence; it is also designed to reform the offender and reclaim him as a law abiding citizen for the good of the society as a whole.

Reformatory, deterrent and punitive aspects of punishment thus play their due part in judicial thinking while determining this question. In modern civilized societies, however, reformatory aspect is being given somewhat greater importance. Too lenient as well as too harsh sentences both lose their efficaciousness. One does not deter and the other may frustrate thereby making the offender a hardened criminal. In the present case, after weighing the considerations already noticed by us and the fact that to send the appellant back to jail now after 7 years of the annoy and harassment of these proceedings when he is also going to lose his job and to earn a living for himself and for his family members and for those dependent on him, we feel that it would meet the ends of justice if we reduce the sentence of imprisonment to that already undergone but increase the sentence of fine from Rs- 200/- to Rs. 400/-. Period of imprisonment in case of default will remain the same."

9. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and the substantive period already undergone by the appellant in this case and the fact that the appellant is a young person and he is the only bread earner in the family and that he might have realized the mistake committed by him and might remorseful of his conduct to the society to which he belongs, I am of the considered opinion that he should be given a chance to reform himself and his better contribution to the society to which he belongs to.

10. Considering the fact that the accused is in jail since 13.3.2018. He was awarded maximum sentence of five years; that he has served two years before conviction and about two years after conviction; that he has already served about four years and it would be appropriate and proper that the accused be sentenced with the period already undergone and the amount of fine be enhanced.

11. Considering all the facts and circumstances of the case, the accused-appellant is sentenced to the period already undergone by him in jail during trial and after conviction an amount of fine of Rs. 4000/- be enhanced to Rs. 10,000/-.

12. Accused-appellant is directed to deposit the fine of Rs. 10,000/- before learned lower court at the time of applying for release order, out of which Rs. 9000/- shall be paid to the injured, if he/she is alive and in case he/she is dead, then it would be paid to his/her legal heirs.

13. Appeal is partly allowed in the above terms.

14. Copy of this order be transmitted to the concerned lower court forthwith for compliance.

Hukam Singh & Anr. ...Appellants (In Jail)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Conviction of the appellants under Sections 394, 307 read with Section 34, 411 - and sentenced to undergo 8 years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.10,000/- each under Section 307 read with Section 34 I.P.C.. under Section 394 I.P.C. for seven years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- and under Section 411 I.P.C. for three years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/- The doctrine of proportionality sentencing for any offence has a social goal. Sentence is to be imposed with regard being had to the nature of the offence and the manner in which the offence has been committed. The fundamental purpose of imposition of sentence is based on the principle that the accused must realize that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in the life of the victim but also a concavity in the social fabric.The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers - In our country the reformative and corrective approach has been adopted in criminal justice administration. There is nothing on record to show that the accused-appellants are incapable of being reformed. The accused-appellants are in jail continuously for more than five years. Every convict is entitled for the advantage of reformative and corrective jurisprudence-The accused-appellants had assaulted the injured causing grievous and serious injuries, which were fatal to life. Therefore, their appeals on merit are dismissed and only heard on the quantum of sentence - Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and looking to the facts that appellants are in jail and more than five years have elapsed; they are married persons and they have to support their families; there is no one to look after their families and their families are at the verge of starvation and also considering the status of the appellants this Court considers that end of justice would be served if the appellants are punished for the period already undergone and with fine only. The fine is enhanced from Rs.20,000/- to Rs.25,000/- each.

Quantum of sentence- Doctrine of Proportionality of Sentence – Has a social goal and is based on the principle that the accused must realize that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in the life of the victim but also a concavity in the social fabric.

It is settled law that sentence awaded should be proportionate to the gravity of the offence committed by the accused so that the accused must realize the effect of the offence on the life of the victim and the society.

Quantum of Sentence- Reformative Theory of Punishment- In our country the reformative and corrective approach has been adopted in criminal justice administration- The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The accused-appellants had assaulted the injured causing grievous and serious injuries, which were fatal to life- Therefore, their appeals on merit are dismissed and only heard on the quantum of sentence- end of justice would be served if the appellants are punished for the period already undergone and with fine only.

The reformative approach to punishment as a measure to reclaim the offender, lays emphasis on rehabilitation so that the offender is transformed into a good citizen. Accordingly, in view of the fact that the appellant has already undergone more than half period of his sentence he should be given a chance to reform himself. Sentence modified to the period already undergone by the appellant and fine enhanced. (Para 18, 19,22, 25, 26)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1- Short counter affidavit filed on behalf of the complainant is taken on record.

2- Heard Sri Anil Kumar Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants in (Criminal Appeal No. 4156 of 2017) and Sri N.I. Zafri, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellant in (Criminal Appeal No. 1807 of 2019), Sri Bharat Singh, learned counsel appearing for the complainant and Sri Ravi Prakash Pandey and Sri Dinesh Kumar Singh learned A.G.A. for the State.

3- Delay, if any, in filing the Criminal Appeal No. 1807 of 2019 is condoned and the application for condonation of delay, if any, is allowed.

4- With the consent of learned counsel for both the parties, these two above criminal appeals have been heard together and they are being decided by a common judgment.

5- These criminal appeals have been preferred by the appellants-Hukam Singh, Chainpal and Raksha Pal against the judgment and order dated 05.06.2017 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A., Budaun in Special Sessions Trial No. 109 of 2014 (State Vs. Rakashpal and others) convicting the appellants under Sections 394, 307 read with Section 34, 411 I.P.C. and sentencing them to undergo 8 years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.10,000/- each under Section 307 read with Section 34 I.P.C.. In case of default of payment of fine, they shall further undergo one year additional imprisonment, under Section 394 I.P.C. for seven years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/-. In case of default of payment of fine, they shall further undergo six months additional imprisonment and under Section 411 I.P.C. for three years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5,000/-. In case of default of payment of fine, they shall further undergo six months additional imprisonment. All the sentences awarded to the appellants shall run concurrently. The period of detention spent by the appellants in jail shall be adjusted.

6- In nutshell, according to prosecution case, an F.I..R. was lodged against the appellants under Sections 394/37 I.P.C. alleging therein that on 09.08.2014 at about 5-00 P.M. when the informant was closing the shop of jewellery then Rakashpal, Hukam Singh and Chainpal and another unknown person, who were armed with iron rods and sariya in their hands, came in front of informant shop with intention to kill him and badly beaten him as a result of which he received injuries on head, hand and leg and while going they had taken away 400 gramsof golden jewellery, five kilograms of silver jewellery along with cash of Rs.65,000/-. At the time of incident, some shopkeepers had gathered there but due to threat nobody came forward to save him. Before this incident, there was some 'marpits'; between the complainant and accused persons. Accused looted his motorcycle. In this regard a report was lodged at the Police Station and the accused were arrested and sent to jail.

7- A case was registered. After investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against the appellants under Sections 394, 307 & 411 I.P.C. and charges were framed to which appellants pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8- In support of its case, the prosecution examined five witnesses, namely, P.W.1-Deepak Varma-injured, P.W.2- Sunil Varma, P.W.3 - S.I./Investigating Officer Amit Kumar, P.W.4 -Dr. Brajeshwar Singh and P.W.5 - Dr. Manoj Mishra and they proved the relevant documents relating to this crime.

9- Statement of the accused/appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which they stated that they have been falsely implicated in this case.

10- After hearing learned counsel for the appellants as well as District Government Counsel (Criminal), impugned judgment and order dated 05.06.2017 was passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A., Budaun convicting the appellants-Hukam Singh, Chainpal and Raksha Pal, under Sections 394, 307 read with Section 34, 411 I.P.C.

11- Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the impugned judgment is against law and fact. Sentences awarded by the court below are excessive and harsh. No offence under Sections 394, 307 read with Section 34, 411 I.P.C. is made out against the appellants. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that accused-appellants faced trial from jail and they were not bailed out during trial and more than five and half years have elapsed and two accused amongst three are real brothers (Hukam singh and Chainpal) and third accused-appellant is a family member of the aforesaid two appellants. At the time of incident, the age of the appellants, namely, Hukam singh was 35 years, Chainpal 30 years and Rakshpal Pal 26 years, respectively. At present, the age of the appellants is 40-41 years, 36 years and 30 years, respectively. They are married persons and they have to support their families. The appellants belong to the rural area; they are very poor persons; there is no criminal antecedent/criminal history against the appellants and reformative theory is prevailing in India, hence ends of justice would be served if the appellants are sentenced to the period already undergone and with same fine only.

12- Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that F.I.R. was lodged against three accused-appellants only on the basis of the fact that assault was committed by the appellants on the injured.

13- Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that all the witnesses of fact have clearly stated that all accused had assaulted the injured and general role of causing injury to injured was assigned to all accused/appellants, it is not clear who is the author of injury caused on head, hand and leg of the injured. Learned counsel for the appellants has further submitted that he does not want to press these appeals on merits. He wanted to press these appeals only on the quantum of sentence and on the quantum of sentence has submitted that the accused are in jail since they have been arrested in this crime and they were not released on bail during the trial and after their conviction. They are in jail since more than five and half years. They are poor persons. They are the only bread earners of their families and their families are at the verge of starvation.

14- On the other hand, learned A.G.A. has supported the judgment of the trial court by saying that injured had deposed in the court below against the appellants which is corroborated by the medical evidence; hence the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

15- In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, AIR 1977 SC 1926, explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:-

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by re-culturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

16- In Sham Sunder vs Puran, (1990) 4 SCC 731, where the high court reduced the sentence for the offence under section 304 part I into undergone, the supreme court opined that the sentence needs to be enhanced being inadequate. It was held:

"The court in fixing the punishment for any particular crime should take into consideration the nature of offence, the circumstances in which it was committed, the degree of deliberation shown by the offender. The measure of punishment should be proportionate to the gravity of offence."

17- In State of MP vs Najab Khan, (2013) 9 SCC 509, the high court, while upholding conviction, reduced the sentence of 3 years by already undergone which was only 15 days. The supreme court restored the sentence awarded by the trial court. Referring the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP (2010) 12 SCC 532, Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, (2012) 8 SCC 734, the court observed as follows:-

"In operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or the deterrence based on factual matrix. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration. We also reiterate that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice dispensation system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The courts must not only keep in view the rights of victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment."

18- Earlier, "Proper Sentence" was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP (2004) 7 SCC 257 by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the principle of proportionately. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

19- In subsequent decisions, the supreme court has laid emphasis on proportional sentencing by affirming the doctrine of proportionality. In Shyam Narain vs State (NCT of delhi), (2013) 7 SCC 77, it was pointed out that sentencing for any offence has a social goal. Sentence is to be imposed with regard being had to the nature of the offence and the manner in which the offence has been committed. The fundamental purpose of imposition of sentence is based on the principle that the accused must realize that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in the life of the victim but also a concavity in the social fabric. The purpose of just punishment is that the society may not suffer again by such crime. The principle of proportionality between the crime committed and the penalty imposed are to be kept in mind. The impact on the society as a whole has to be seen. Similar view has been expressed in Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, (2014) 7 SCC 323, State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441, and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, (2016) 1 SCC 463.

20- In Kokaiyabai Yadav vs State of Chhattisgarh(2017) 13 SCC 449, it has been observed that reforming criminals who understand their wrongdoing, are able to comprehend their acts,have grown and nartured into citizens with a desire to live a fruitful life in the outside world, have the capacity of humanising the world.

21- In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP (2010) 12 SCC 532, Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, (2012) 8 SCC 734, Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, (2014) 7 SCC 323 , State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, (2015) 3 SCC 441, and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, (2016) 1 SCC 463 and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced.

22- The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

23- In view of the above, it is clear that in our country the reformative and corrective approach has been adopted in criminal justice administration. There is nothing on record to show that the accused-appellants are incapable of being reformated. The accused-appellants are in jail continuously for more than five years. Every convict is entitled for the advantage of reformative and corrective jurisprudence.

24- I have heard learned counsel for the appellants, learned A.G.A. for the State as well as perused the injury report of the injured which shows that the accused-appellants had assaulted the injured causing grievous and serious injuries, which were fatal to life. Therefore, their appeals on merit are dismissed and only heard on the quantum of sentence.

25- After considering the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and considering the facts and circumstances of the case and looking to the facts that appellants are in jail since 17.8.2014 and more than five years have elapsed; they are married persons and they have to support their families; there is no one to look after their families and their families are at the verge of starvation and also considering the status of the appellants and considering that the incident took place on 9.8.2014 and the accused-appellants were arrested and and since then they are in jail, this Court considers that end of justice would be served if the appellants are punished for the period already undergone and with fine only. The fine is enhanced from Rs.20,000/- to Rs.25,000/- each.

26- In above backdrop, both the appeals are partly allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 05.06.2017 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, D.A.A., Budaun is modified to the extent that the appellants are sentenced to the period already undergone under Sections 394, 307/34 & 411 with fine of Rs.25,000/- (Twenty five thousand). In case of default of payment of fine, they shall further undergo six months simple imprisonment. The appellants shall be released forthwith if they are not wanted in any other case.

27- The appellants are directed to deposit the fine of Rs.25,000/- (Twenty five thousand) within a period of six months from today, which shall he paid to the injured (Deepak Varma).

28- Office is directed to send the copy of this order along with lower court record to the court concerned immediately for necessary compliance. Compliance report shall be submitted within three months, which shall be kept on record.

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

Nowhere it has been mentioned by the prosecution in its evidence as to wherefrom the weighing machine was brought and from whom it was brought- It was a public duty cast upon the concerned police official to disclose the name of the shop keeper in the FIR as well as in the charge sheet, but the name of shop keeper has not been disclosed for the reasons best known to the prosecution side and this lacuna is sufficient to make the prosecution story doubtful- Nowhere it has been mentioned by the prosecution that the report of the seizure of the contraband and arrest of the accused was given to the Superior Officer as laid down by the Section 42 of the NDPS Act- Nor, the prosecution has adduced any evidence regarding the sending of special report to the Superior Officer, hence compliance of the provisions of Section 42 has not been proved by the prosecution- Compliance of Section 55 was not made- No evidence by the prosecution has been led that the recovered articles were given in the charge of concerned officer of the police station and the alleged recovered contraband was kept in safe custody- No evidence has been adduced by the prosecution that the matter was produced before the Station House Officer and he put his signature and seal over the alleged recovered contraband and then, it was kept in safe custody or it was given to the Maalkhana Moharrir who could place it in the safe custody because no Malkhana register was ever produced in evidence before the Trial Court and no such oral evidence in this regard was ever produced by the prosecution before the Trial Judge - Non compliance of Section 57- No such evidence is led by the prosecution in the present case during the trial that any report was ever submitted about the such arrest and seizure in compliance of the Section 57 to the superior officer- Section 50 of the NDPS Act was not complied with and the non compliance of this Section has vitiated the whole prosecution story seriously which makes the conviction of the appellant by the learned Trial Court contrary to the law-The requirements of Section 50 of the NDPS Act are mandatory and, therefore, the provisions of Section 50 must be strictly complied with- It cannot be ascertained that the provisions laid down in Section 50 of the Act were complied with in its entirety. In this context PW-3, Vidya Kant Patel, has said only that the arrested person was apprised of his right if he wished that his search be conducted before any Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, he was not agree for his search before Magistrate and he consented that search be made by the police party itself.

Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 20 – Seizure of Ganja- No disclosure by prosecution about the person from whom the weighing machine was obtained- Owner of weighing machine not a witness in the Charge sheet- It was a public duty cast upon the concerned police official to disclose the name of the shop keeper in the FIR as well as in the charge sheet, but the name of shop keeper has not been disclosed for the reasons best known to the prosecution side and this lacuna is sufficient to make the prosecution story doubtful.
In order to prove it's case it was incumbent upon the prosecution to disclose the owner of the weighing machine and make him a witness in the police report / charge sheet, in absence of which the case of the prosecution becomes doubtful.

Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 42- Non- compliance of- No report of seizure of contraband and arrest of the accused sent to the superior officer- The prosecution has not adduced any evidence regarding the sending of special report to the Superior Officer, hence compliance of the provisions of Section 42 has not been proved by the prosecution.

It is settled law that the total non-compliance of the provisions of sub-Sections (1) and (2) of Section 42 of the Act is impermissible but delayed compliance with a satisfactory explanation for delay can, however, be countenanced. In the present case there is total non- compliance of the provisions of Section 42 which is impermissible.

Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 55- Link Evidence- No Maalkhana register produced by the prosecution- No oral evidence evidence led before the trial court regarding compliance of Section 55 of the Act- Non compliance of Section 55 also casts a doubt on the veracity of the prosecution case as there is no evidence on file that the alleged seized contraband was ever produced before the officer in charge of the concerned police station.

Failure of the prosecution to bring on record the Maalkhana register, which is an important link in the case of the prosecution, and to lead oral evidence pertaining to the compliance of the provision of Section 55 of the Act casts a serious doubt upon the recovery of the contraband from the accused.

Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 57- Report of search and seizure- Non-compliance of-No such evidence is led by the prosecution in the present case during the trial that any report was ever submitted about the such arrest and seizure in compliance of the Section 57 to the superior officer.

Non- compliance of the provisions of Section 57 of the Act is bound to reflect on the credibility of the case of the prosecution and render it doubtful.

Criminal Law - Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985- Section 50- Requirement of strict compliance- The non compliance of Section 50 of the Act has vitiated the whole prosecution story seriously which makes the conviction of the appellant by the learned Trial Court contrary to the law .The requirements of Section 50 of the NDPS Act are mandatory and, therefore, the provisions of Section 50 must be strictly complied with.
Law is settled that it is imperative on the part of the Police Officer to apprise the person intended to be searched of his right under Section 50 to be searched only before a Gazetted officer or a Magistrate and it is mandatory for the officer to make the suspect aware of the existence of his right to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate. Non- compliance of the provisions of Section 50 will vitiate the whole trial. (Para 13, 16, 19, 20, 21, 23, 24, 26)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for appellant, learned A.G.A. appearing for State and perused the record of this case.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 31.07.2018 passed by learned Sessions Judge (F.T.C.), District Jalaun at Orai in Special Session Trial No. 19 of 2014 (State Vs. Darshan Singh Dhimar) arising out of Case Crime No. 1175 of 2013, under Section 20 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act (hereinafter referred to as "the NDPS Act"), Police Station Kotwali, Orai, District Jalaun. By the impugned judgment and order the appellant has been convicted and sentenced to undergo five years' rigorous imprisonment under Section 20 of the N.D.P.S. Act with a fine of Rs. 10,000/-. It has also been stipulated by the learned Trial Court in the order impugned that in case of failure to pay the fine, the appellant will undergo an additional sentence of six months' simple imprisonment.

3. The prosecution case in brief is that on 02.06.2013 SI G.P. Ojha along with Constable Vidya Kant Patel were on patrolling duty at Vinawar area in O.P. Deputyganj and were going towards Ramleela Maidan. They saw a person coming carrying with him a plastic bag (sack) filled with some light weight substance. All of a sudden seeing the police men, he stopped, turned around and tried to run towards Pani Ki Tanki Road. On suspicion, he was asked to stop, but he did not stop. At about 11:00 P.M. in night with the help of companion constable the accused appellant was caught with plastic bag in his hand. It being a sudden incident and happened in night, no public witnesses could be found. The arrested person told his name and address. He gave a written consent (Ext. Ka. 7) and on his written consent, the search was done and on search so made, it was found that he was having contraband namely Ganaj in the plastic bag (sack) and a sum of Rs. 450/- was also recovered from his pocket, about which it was told by accused to have been obtained by sale of Ganja.

4. The aforesaid contraband substance was seized and the accused was taken in police custody. From a shop weight and balance were brought by Constable Vidya Kant Patel and weight of the seized item was done, which weighed to be 9 Kgs. Recovery memo (Ext. Ka.6) was prepared and the seized item along with Rs. 450/- was packed and sealed in the said plastic bag; a sample of 100 Gms. of the said recovered Ganja was taken and was got packed and sealed in a separate packet (Ext. Ka. 5) to be sent to Forensic Science Laboratory. Thereafter, First Information Report (Ext. Ka.1) was lodged on 03.06.2013 on the written information of complainant SI Shri G.P. Ojha, Police Station - Kotwali, Orai.

5. After lodging of the First Information Report, investigation was done by SI Shri Sudhakar Singh and charge sheet dated 19.07.2013 (Ext. Ka. 4) was submitted against appellant under Section 20 of the NDPS Act. The case against appellant was registered as Special Session Trial No. 19 of 2014. On 03.12.2014 charge was framed against accused appellant and trial proceedings commenced in this case.

6. The Trial Court recorded the prosecution evidence and also recorded the statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The defence evidence of DW-1 Ram Kisun was also recorded. After considering the evidences available on record, the learned Trial Court found him guilty of the charges levelled upon him and by impugned judgment and order, the Trial Court convicted and sentenced the appellant, who is languishing in jail since the date of the judgment.

7. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the impugned judgment and order is not correct in the eyes of law because the learned Lower Court has not considered the provisions of Sections 42, 43, 50, 55 and 57 of the NDPS Act in their right perspective.

8. The learned counsel has further argued that there are various contradictions and infirmities in the statement of the PW-3 who is the only witness of the alleged recovery. The other argument raised by the learned counsel for the appellant is that there is no link evidence produced by the prosecution to prove its case as per mandate of Sections 42, 55 and Section 57 of the Act.

9. On the other hand, the learned AGA has submitted that the accused has been rightly convicted by the Trial Court and because the incident has happened in the night and no public witness could be procured at that time, there is no infirmity or illegality on the part of the prosecution in conducting the case. The impugned judgment deserves to be affirmed.

10. I have heard the arguments of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record of the case.

11. This Court finds that nowhere it has been mentioned by the prosecution in its evidence as to wherefrom the weighing machine was brought and from whom it was brought. No statement regarding this has been recorded by the Investigating Officer, which casts a serious doubt on the veracity of the prosecution case. The statement of prosecution witness Vidya Kant Patel, PW-3 as well as the version of informant both read as under:-

"कांटा बाँट दरोगाजी एक दुकान से लाये थे किस दुकान से लेकर आये थे. यह भी याद नहीं है कि तराजू इलेक्ट्रॉनिक था या बाँट वाला था."

In the recovery memo dated 02.06.2013 (Ex. Ka-6) the following version has been recorded:-

"हमराही Con. विद्या कांत पटेल को भेजकर दुकान से कांटा बाँट मंगा कर वजन किया गया तो कुल भर नौ केजी तौल में आया।"

12. From the above quoted statements, it is evident that nothing specific has been said either by PW-3 in his statement or by the informant in the FIR. The informant has used word "Dukan" and PW-3 has used words "Ek Dukan", which appears to be vague. PW-3 says that weighing machine was brought by Darogaji and FIR version says that it was brought by Vidya Kant Patel, PW-3, there being serious contradiction, it cannot be said that the prosecution had proved its case before Trial Court beyond reasonable doubts.

13. This Court has gone through the charge sheet as well as the lower court record along with the impugned order and finds that there is nowhere mention about the details of the shop from where kanta-baant were allegedly brought. The Investigating Officer had not attempted to record and identify the name of the shop or shop keeper who had given kanta-baant in night to weigh the contraband. It was a public duty cast upon the concerned police official to disclose the name of the shop keeper in the FIR as well as in the charge sheet, but the name of shop keeper has not been disclosed for the reasons best known to the prosecution side and this lacuna is sufficient to make the prosecution story doubtful. I find that the only witness of fact Vidya Kant Patel examined by the prosecution to prove its case has not supported the prosecution case fully and there are various inconsistencies, contradictions in his statement as noted down above. This witness who was said to be present at the place of occurrence along with the informant when the alleged contraband seized from the present appellant, has deposed before the learned Trial Court in his examination in chief that he brought the weighing machine with which the alleged contraband was weighed but in his cross examination this witness has said that the weighing machine was brought by Daroga Ji from any shop. This is a material fact which casts doubt about the recovery of the contraband from the accused appellant.

14. Although there was a serious contradictions in the statement of the prosecution witness on the question of who brought the weighing scale for weighing the alleged contraband as PW -3 has stated that he does not remember as to who brought the weighing machine and in the recovery memo SI J.P. Ojha has noted down that the police constable Vidya Kant Patel was sent to get the weighing scale from a shop, yet the learned Trial Court has taken their statements to be reliable and trustworthy only on the ground that the evidence of police officials has to be taken as valuable and qualitative without there being any strait jacket formula in this regard.

15. Moreover, the relevant provisions of the NDPS Act which were mandatory to be complied with, were not complied with by the police officials since the very inception, but this aspect of the matter has not been dealt with by the learned Trial Court in right perspective in its judgment and order. That is why the impugned judgment and order suffers from manifest error of law and fact.

16. I have perused the entire evidence to find out the compliance of Section 42 of the NDPS Act and I find that nowhere it has been mentioned by the prosecution that the report of the seizure of the contraband and arrest of the accused was given to the Superior Officer as laid down by the Section 42 of the NDPS Act. I have also gone through the entries of the G.D. regarding this argument and find that the provisions of Section 42 of the NDPA Act were not complied with. Nor, the prosecution has adduced any evidence regarding the sending of special report to the Superior Officer, hence compliance of the provisions of Section 42 has not been proved by the prosecution, which casts serious doubt on the veracity of the prosecution case.

17. In Kishan Chand Vs. State of Haryana, LAWS (SC) 2012-12-55 the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"In our considered view, this controversy is no more res integra and stands answered by a Constitution Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Karnail Singh (supra). In that judgment, the Court in the very opening paragraph noticed that in the case of Abdul Rashid Ibrahim Mansuri v. State of Gujarat [(2000) 2 SCC 513], a three Judge Bench of the Court had held that compliance of Section 42 of the Act is mandatory and failure to take down the information in writing and sending the report forthwith to the immediate officer superior may cause prejudice to the accused. However, in the case of Sajan Abraham (supra), again a Bench of three Judges, held that this provision is not mandatory and substantial compliance was sufficient. The Court noticed, if there is total non-compliance of the provisions of Section 42 of the Act, it would adversely affect the prosecution case and to that extent, it is mandatory. But, if there is delay, whether it was undue or whether the same was explained or not, will be a question of fact in each case. The Court in paragraph 35 of the judgment held as under:-

35. In conclusion, what is to be noticed is that Abdul Rashid did not require literal compliance with the requirements of Sections 42 (1) and 42(2) nor did Sajan Abraham hold that the requirements of Sections 42 (1) and 42(2) need not be fulfilled at all. The effect of the two decisions was as follows:

(a) The officer on receiving the information [of the nature referred to in sub-section (1) of Section 42] from any person had to record it in writing in the register concerned and forthwith send a copy to his immediate official superior, before proceeding to take action in terms of clauses (a) to

(b) But if the information was received when the officer was not in the police station, but while he was on the move either on patrol duty or otherwise, either by mobile phone, or other means, and the information calls for immediate action and any delay would have resulted in the goods or evidence being removed or destroyed, it would not be feasible or practical to take down in writing the information given to him, in such a situation, he could take action as per clauses (a) to (d) of Section 42 (1) and thereafter, as soon as it is practical, record the information in writing and forthwith inform the same to the official superior.

(c) In other words, the compliance with the requirements of Sections 42 (1) and 42 (2) in regard to writing down the information received and sending a copy thereof to the superior officer, should normally precede the entry, search and seizure by the officer. But in special circumstances involving emergent situations, the recording of the information in writing and sending a copy thereof to the official superior may get postponed by a reasonable period, that is, after the search, entry and seizure. The question is one of urgency and expediency.

(d) While total non-compliance with requirements of sub- sections (1) and (2) of Section 42 is impermissible, delayed compliance with satisfactory explanation about the delay will be acceptable compliance with Section 42. To illustrate, if any delay may result in the accused escaping or the goods or evidence being destroyed or removed, not recording in writing the information received, before initiating action, or non- sending of a copy of such information to the official superior forthwith, may not be treated as violation of Section 42 . But if the information was received when the police officer was in the police station with sufficient time to take action, and if the police officer fails to record in writing the information received, or fails to send a copy thereof, to the official superior, then it will be a suspicious circumstance being a clear violation of Section 42 of the Act. Similarly, where the police officer does not record the information at all, and does not inform the official superior at all, then also it will be a clear violation of Section 42 of the Act. Whether there is adequate or substantial compliance with Section 42 or not is a question of fact to be decided in each case. The above position got strengthened with the amendment to Section 42 by Act 9 of 2001." (emphasis supplied)

18. Following the above judgment, a Bench of this Court in the case of Rajinder Singh Vs. State of Haryana [(2011) 8 SCC 130 took the view that total non-compliance of the provisions of sub-Sections (1) and (2) of Section 42 of the Act is impermissible but delayed compliance with a satisfactory explanation for delay can, however, be countenanced.

19. As regards the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that compliance of Section 55 was not made, this Court finds that no evidence by the prosecution has been led that the recovered articles were given in the charge of concerned officer of the police station and the alleged recovered contraband was kept in safe custody. Section 55 reads as under:-

Section 55 in The Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985.

"55. Police to take charge of articles seized and delivered.—An officer-in-charge of a police station shall take charge of and keep in safe custody, pending the orders of the Magistrate, all articles seized under this Act within the local area of that police station and which may be delivered to him, and shall allow any officer who may accompany such articles to the police station or who may be deputed for the purpose, to affix his seal to such articles or to take samples of and from them and all samples so taken shall also be sealed with a seal of the officer-in-charge of the police station."

20. The prosecution has not led any evidence in this regard and compliance of Section 55 does not find any mention in the papers produced by the prosecution during the trial of this case. This Court finds that non compliance of Section 55 also casts a doubt on the veracity of the prosecution case as there is no evidence on file that the alleged seized contraband was ever produced before the officer in charge of the concerned police station. No evidence has been adduced by the prosecution that the matter was produced before the Station House Officer and he put his signature and seal over the alleged recovered contraband and then, it was kept in safe custody or it was given to the Maalkhana Moharrir who could place it in the safe custody because no Malkhana register was ever produced in evidence before the Trial Court and no such oral evidence in this regard was ever produced by the prosecution before the Trial Judge.

21. As regards the non compliance of Section 57 of the NDPS Act which lays down that whenever a person makes any arrest or search under this Act, he shall, within forty-eight hours next after such arrest or seizure, make a full report of all the particulars of such arrest or seizure to his immediate official superior, this Court finds that no such evidence is led by the prosecution in the present case during the trial that any report was ever submitted about the such arrest and seizure in compliance of the Section 57 to the superior officer.

22. In Gurbax Singh Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2001 (SC) 1002 the Hon'ble Apex Court has held in para 9 thus:-

".....In our view, there is much substance in this submission. It is true that provisions of Sections 52 and 57 are directory. Violation of these provisions would not ipso facto violate the trial or conviction. However, I.O. cannot totally ignore these provisions and such failure will have a bearing on appreciation of evidence regarding arrest of the accused or seizure of the article*. In the present case, I.O. has admitted that the seal which was affixed on the muddamal article was handed over to the witness P.W.1 and was kept with him for 10 days. He has also* admitted that the muddamal parcels were not sealed by the officer in charge of the police station as required under Section 55 of the N.D.P.S. Act. The prosecution has not led any evidence whether the Chemical Analyser received the sample with proper intact seals. It creates a doubt whether the same sample was sent to the Chemical Analyser. Further, it is apparent that the I.O. has not followed the procedure prescribed under Section 57 of the N.D.P.S. Act of making full report of all particulars of arrest and seizure to his immediate superior officer. The conduct of panch witness is unusual as he offered himself to be a witness for search and seizure despite being not asked by the I.O., particularly when he did not know that the substance was poppy husk., but came to know about it only after being informed by the police. Further, it is the say of the Panch witness that Muddamal seal used by the PSI was a wooden seal. As against this, it is the say of PW2 SI/IO that it was a brass seal. On the basis of the aforesaid evidence and faulty investigation by the prosecution, in our view, it would not be safe to convict the appellant for a serious offence of possessingpoppy-husk."

23. This Court finds that in the present case Malkhana register was not produced by the prosecution during trial before the Court. Thus, there is non compliance of the relevant Section of the NDPS Act and the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused appellant in proper perspective.

24. Now, this Court is of the considered opinion that Section 50 of the NDPS Act was not complied with and the non compliance of this Section has vitiated the whole prosecution story seriously which makes the conviction of the appellant by the learned Trial Court contrary to the law as the provisions of Section 50 of the Act were not properly followed. Section 50 of the Act is qouted below:-

"50. Conditions under which search of persons shall be conducted.--(1) When any officer duly authorised under Section 42 is about to search any person under the provisions of Section 41, Section 42 or Section 43, he shall, if such person so requires, take such person without unnecessary delay to the nearest Gazetted Officer of any of the departments mentioned in Section 42 or to the nearest Magistrate.

(2) If such requisition is made, the officer may detain the person until he can bring him before the Gazetted Officer or the Magistrate referred to in sub-section (1).

(3) The Gazetted Officer or the Magistrate before whom any such person is brought shall, if he sees no reasonable ground for search, forthwith discharge the person but otherwise shall direct that search be made.

(4) No female shall be searched by anyone excepting a female.

(5) When an officer duly authorised under Section 42 has reason to believe that it is not possible to take the person to be searched to the nearest Gazetted Officer or Magistrate without the possibility of the person to be searched parting with possession of any narcotic drug or psychotropic substance, or controlled substance or article or document, he may, instead of taking such person to the nearest Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, proceed to search the person as provided under section 100 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

(6) After a search is conducted under sub-section (5), the officer shall record the reasons for such belief which necessitated such search and within seventy-two hours send a copy thereof to his immediate official superior."

25. In Ashok Kumar Sharma Versus State of Rajastha, 2013 (2) SCC 67 the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed thus:-

"7. We are in this case concerned only with the question whether PW1, the officer who had conducted the search on the person of the appellant had followed the procedure laid down under Section 50 of the NDPS Act. On this question, there were conflicts of views by different Benches of this Court and the matter was referred to a five Judge Bench. This Court in Vijaysingh Chandubha Jadeja (supra) answered the question, stating that it is imperative on the part of the officer to apprise the person intended to be searched of his right under Section 50 of the NDPS Act, to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate. This Court also held that it is mandatory on the part of the authorized officer to make the accused aware of the existence of his right to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate, if so required by him and this mandatory provision requires strict compliance. The suspect may or may not choose to exercise the right provided to him under the said provision, but so far as the officer concerned, an obligation is cast on him under Section 50 of the NDPS Act to apprise the person of his right to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate. The question, as to whether this procedure has been complied with or not, in this case the deposition of PW1 assumes importance, which reads as follows:

"He was apprised while telling the reason of being searched that he could be searched before any Magistrate or any Gazetted Officer if he wished. He gave his consent in written and said that I have faith on you, you can search me. Fard regarding apprising and consent is Ex.P- 3 on which I put my signature from A to B and the accused put his signature from C to D. E to F is the endorsement of the consent of the accused and G to H is signature, which has been written by the accused."

13. The above statement of PW1 would clearly indicate that he had only informed the accused that he could be searched before any Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer if he so wished. The fact that the accused person has a right under Section 50 of the NDPS Act to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate was not made known to him. We are of the view that there is an obligation on the part of the empowered officer to inform the accused or the suspect of the existence of such a right to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate, if so required by him. Only if the suspect does not choose to exercise the right in spite of apprising him of his right, the empowered officer could conduct the search on the body of the person.

14. We may, in this connection, also examine the general maxim "ignorantia juris non excusat" and whether in such a situation the accused could take a defence that he was unaware of the procedure laid down in Section 50 of the NDPS Act. Ignorance does not normally afford any defence under the criminal law, since a person is presumed to know the law. Indisputedly ignorance of law often in reality exists, though as a general proposition, it is true, that knowledge of law must be imputed to every person. But it must be too much to impute knowledge in certain situations, for example, we cannot expect a rustic villager, totally illiterate, a poor man on the street, to be aware of the various law laid down in this country i.e. leave aside the NDPS Act. We notice this fact is also within the knowledge of the legislature, possibly for that reason the legislature in its wisdom imposed an obligation on the authorized officer acting under Section 50 of the NDPS Act to inform the suspect of his right under Section 50 to be searched in the presence of a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate warranting strict compliance of that procedure.

15. We are of the view that non-compliance of this mandatory procedure has vitiated the entire proceedings initiated against the accused- appellant. We are of the view that the Special Court as well as the High Court has committed an error in not properly appreciating the scope of Section 50 of the NDPS Act. The appeal is, therefore, allowed. Consequently the conviction and sentence imposed by the Sessions Court and affirmed by the High Court are set aside. The accused-appellant, who is in jail, to be released forthwith, if not required in connection with any other case." (emphasis supplied)

26. A Full Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vijaysinh Chandubha Jadeja vs. State of Gujarat, 2011(1) SCC 609 has held that the requirements of Section 50 of the NDPS Act are mandatory and, therefore, the provisions of Section 50 must be strictly complied with. It is held that it is imperative on the part of the Police Officer to apprise the person intended to be searched of his right under Section 50 to be searched only before a Gazetted officer or a Magistrate. It is held that it is equally mandatory on the part of the authorized officer to make the suspect aware of the existence of his right to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate, if so required by him and this requires a strict compliance. It is ruled that the suspect person may or may not choose to exercise the right provided to him under Section 50 of the NDPS Act but so far as the officer is concerned, an obligation is cast upon him under Section 50 of the NDPS Act to apprise the suspect of his right to be searched before a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate. In the present case, from perusal of the entire evidence available on record it cannot be ascertained that the provisions laid down in Section 50 of the Act were complied with in its entirety. In this context PW-3, Vidya Kant Patel, has said only that the arrested person was apprised of his right if he wished that his search be conducted before any Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, he was not agree for his search before Magistrate and he consented that search be made by the police party itself.

27. From perusal of the entire record, it is evident that the prosecution has not adduced any evidence regarding that recovered contraband was kept in a safe custody after it was recovered and it was sent from that safe custody to the Forensic Science Laboratory. No such evidence regarding this aspect of the matter is available on record which also casts a serious doubt on the veracity of the prosecution story.

28. Thus, from the aforesaid discussions and evidence on record, it is evidence that the recovery of the contraband article from the possession of the appellant appears to be doubtful and the prosecution has not proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellant proving the recovery against him in strict compliance of the provisions of N.D.P.S. Act, hence his conviction and sentence by the trial court is not sustainable in the eyes of law. Thus, the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial court convicting and sentencing the appellant is hereby set aside. The appeal stands allowed.

29. The appellant shall be released forthwith from the jail, if he is not wanted in any other case. It is further directed that the lower court record be sent to the Trial Court.

Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Apul Mishra, Sri Amit Tripathi, Sri Anees Ahmad, Sri Arvendra Singh, Sri Pradeep Saxena, Sri Pravin Kumar , Sri Rakesh Kumar Rathore, Sri Sanjeev Kumar Rathore

Counsel for the Respondent:
A.G.A., Sri N.K. Maurya, Sri Vinay Saran, Sri Pravendra Kumar Chauhan, Sri Pradeep Kumar Mishra

Conduct of PW1 goes to show that he tried to implicate co-accused Chandan Tiwari during the course of investigation in the present case falsely for conspiring the murder of the deceased, but the said fact was not disclose by him in the F.I.R. It is true that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of the prosecution case but the said conduct of PW1 definitely cast doubt about his credibility and trustworthiness stating about the incident raising suspicion about his testimony relating to the prosecution case- The unnatural conduct of PW1 and PW2 soon after the incident further reflects that their presence at the place of occurrence is not established on account of the fact that when the deceased was dragged from the car by the appellants and was shot with their respective firearms weapons, they have stated that they were witnessing the incident while they were sitting in the car and did not come out immediately coupled with the fact that after the incident when the deceased Ambarish Kumar was lying in a seriously injured condition, no effort was made by PW1 and PW2 to touch him or to help the other persons who had picked the injured in the Opel Astra Car of PW1 as no blood stains were found either on the clothes of PW1 or PW2 nor, the same was found in the Opel Astra Car- The recovery of two weapons from the said accused after one month of the incident has been disbelieved by the trial Court when they were put to trial under the Arms Act- The metallic bullet was recovered from the occipital region of the deceased but the same was not sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory in order to ensure whether the same was shot by the respective weapons which were recovered from the two appellants - No doubt that PW1 and PW2 are the parents of the deceased and claimed themselves to be the eye witness of the occurrence, but after going through their testimony they can be put in the category of neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable witness as their evidence does not conclusively prove the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt though their evidence examined by the Court for corroboration in material particulars by direct and circumstantial testimony- It is first duty of the prosecution to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused than to question the accused for their false implication which the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 155- Code of Criminal Procedure- Section 154- Credibility of witness- Accused implicated during course of investigation though not named in FIR- It is true that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of the prosecution case but the said conduct of PW1 definitely cast doubt about his credibility and trustworthiness stating about the incident raising suspicion about his testimony relating to the prosecution case.
The fact that one of the accused was subsequently implicated by the prosecution witness, assigning him the role of hatching the conspiracy, during the course of investigation creates doubt about the credibility of the witness.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 8 – Conduct of witnesses- The unnatural conduct of PW1 and PW2 soon after the incident further reflects that their presence at the place of occurrence is not established on account of the fact that when the deceased was dragged from the car by the appellants and was shot with their respective firearms weapons, they have stated that they were witnessing the incident while they were sitting in the car and did not come out immediately - When the deceased was lying in a seriously injured condition, no effort was made by PW1 and PW2 to touch him or to help the other persons who had picked the injured in the Opel Astra Car of PW1 as no blood stains were found either on the clothes of PW1 or PW2 nor, the same was found in the Opel Astra Car.
The unnatural conduct of the prosecution witness at the time of the occurrence and immediately thereafter would be a relevant fact reflecting their absence from the place of the occurrence.

Civil Law - The Arms Act, 1959- Section 25, Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 157-Aquittal u/s 25 of the Arms Act- Absence of independent/ scientific corroboration- The recovery of two weapons from the said accused after one month of the incident has been disbelieved by the trial Court when they were put to trial under the Arms Act- The metallic bullet was recovered from the occipital region of the deceased but the same was not sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory in order to ensure whether the same was shot by the respective weapons which were recovered from the two appellants.
The fact that the accused have been acquitted u/s 25 of the Arms Act and the recovered bullet was not sent to the FSL demonstrates that there is no independent corroboration of the oral testimony.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 134 – Quality of evidence - Category of neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable witness - No doubt that PW1 and PW2 are the parents of the deceased and claimed themselves to be the eye witness of the occurrence, but after going through their testimony they can be put in the category of neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable witness as their evidence does not conclusively prove the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt through their evidence examined by the Court for corroboration in material particulars by direct and circumstantial testimony.
Where the witnesses are neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable, then the Court has to be circumspect and look for corroboration in material particulars and if there is no corroboration , then no reliance can be placed on such witness for the purpose of securing the conviction of the accused.

Evidence Law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 101- Burden of Proof- It is first duty of the prosecution to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused than to question the accused for their false implication which the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants.

The burden of proving the guilt of the accused beyond all reasonable doubt always rests on the prosecution and it is impermissible for the prosecution to question the accused for their false implication when the prosecution has failed to discharge its burden. (Para 94, 95, 97, 101, 104) produced in the Court and was only shown to the investigating officer and he had taken the car to the police station in the morning on 13.12.2006. the Station Officer had given Supurdgi of the said car to him. There is no partner in the said shop. In the city there were eight fair price shops and his son only used to run the fair price shop and did not other work.

26. This witness further deposed that they were returning after taking medicine from Dr. Pramod Gupta who was an Orthopedic. He used to have pain in his knees, shoulder and neck and the doctor used to give medicine and used to issue prescription but the doctor did not give any prescription to him. He had given medicine to the witness himself. He had gone to take medicines probably between 3- 3 ½ p.m. and proceeded back to Mainpuri at about 3.45 p.m. He had not written in the F.I.R. that he was coming back after taking medicine from Dr. Pramod Gupta nor he has given the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the investigating officer that he was having pain in his body. He told about taking of the medicine to the investigating officer. He had brought the medicine on the day of the incident only and prior to it he had never visited Dr. Pramod or had taken any medicine from him. Prior to the incident accused Chandan Gupta had not said any bad words to him, his wife was not suffering from any disease, except taking medicine this witness had no work in District Mainpuri. Firstly, he had gone to the office of his son Anoop at Bajaj Alliance and thereafter had gone to the doctor for taking medicine. His son used to live in the office of Bajaj Alliance. At the place of occurrence, the shops were open and the shop keepers were sitting on their shops and there were customers also standing in the market as it was a day of the market. There were no trees on the either side of the road where the incident had taken place. The dispute of his son was with all the four accused. He had not given any application. Whether his son had given any application or not he was not aware of the same and only oral information was given. His son had told him that on telephone he was being abused and when he came to know about the same he did nothing. He did not take any action. He was not aware about the fact that Updesh Singh Chauhan had grabbed the house of Chandan Gupta. He was also not aware of the fact that the shop of the father of Chandan Gupta was given to some other person and further he did not know whether any person of the family of Chandan Gupta resides in Kasba Bewar or not.

Head Constable Shyam Singh had given him the statement regarding registration of the FIR. Head Constable Shyam Singh has not given his statement that he had admitted the injured in the hospital or he was with him. He does not remember whether he interrogated Head Constable Shyam Singh that he was with injured or he had admitted him on 12.12.2006 in the hospital. After perusing the case diary he stated that he has not mentioned that Shyam Singh had admitted the injured. He also did not remember whether he had asked from Head Constable Shyam Singh that who was accused involved in the incident or the deceased in the injured condition or his father had disclosed the name of any accused or not. The statement of Head Constable Shyam Singh in this regard has not been mentioned in the case diary. The shop keepers of the nearby areas had not given an eye-witness account and they have only given hearsay evidence. He has not mentioned in the case diary whether the informant has stated in the statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C. for taking medicines from Dr. Pramod Gupta. In the statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. of informant Ghurai Lal Gupta and his wife does not find fact about taking the medicines from Dr. Pramod Gupta. He did not record the statement of Dr. Pramod Gupta under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He has given the supurdagi of the car which was used in the incident to the informant and he does not remember who is the owner of the said car. He did not remember whether he has seen the papers of registration or not. In the case diary he also could not mention about the registration of the vehicle. He has seen that blood-stains were found on the seat inside the car but did not take the same in his custody. He did not remember whether Ghurai Lal Gupta or Smt. Ram Khushi had shown blood-stained clothes or not. He further stated that if the blood-stains were found on their clothes then he did not think to be relevant to make a mention of the same. He did not remember whether he had made a query from the informant regarding the conspiracy hatched by Chandan Tiwari or not. He had seen the chik FIR and tehrir FIR in which it was written that the deceased was taken in an injured condition to District Hospital, Mainpuri for treatment and from where he was referred to Agra. The medical certificate of the deceased from District Hospital was not collected by him during investigation. He was not present at the time of the incident at the police station, hence he had not mentioned about the said fact in the G.D. He had met Head Constable Shyam Singh and in his presence the FIR was registered. He did not remember whether he had made any query from Head Constable Shyam Singh regarding the injured. The witnesses of the incident had told him that the injured was medically examined at District Hospital, Mainpuri. He did not collect any papers of the injured regarding his treatment at Agra. He stated that during the course of investigation it was necessary to collect the papers but he did not collect the same. He denied the suggestion that he deliberately did not collect the papers regarding his medical treatment. He had seen the place of occurrence and distance of the place of occurrence from the police station is 200 meters He has further seen the house of the informant. He could not tell approximate distance of the police station from the house of the informant. He visited the house of the informant on several occasions and the distance of the house of the informant from the place of occurrence is 300 meters towards North East. The place of occurrence from the police station is towards South-West. It is correct that the incident has taken place on old G.T. Road. He could not tell that from how much distance the fire shot can be heard. It is not necessary that the fire shot can be heard at the police station from the place of occurrence. He admitted the fact that on 12.12.2006 at 16.37 hours in the G.D. there is an endorsement of fire shot from the side of District Hospital. S.I. Ompal Singh on receiving the information of firing had left towards place of occurrence. The information was received at the police station by wireless and the higher officials were also informed about the incident from the police station by wireless. S.I. Ompal Singh and Head Constable Shyam Singh had not disclosed the names of the accused persons. He did not come to know about the medical examination of the injuries of the injured Ambarish at the time of the registration of the FIR and when he had recorded the statement of the informant he came to know about the said fact. He did not remember that when the deceased was injured, he was speaking or not and he did not ask any witness about the said fact. He further did not remember whether he had asked Head Constable Shyam Singh that whether the injured Ambarish while being admitted to the hospital was speaking or not. He did not go to the doctor who had medically examined the injured Ambarish while he was in District Hospital, Mainpuri. He further did not record the statement of the doctor who had medically examined the injured. He further did not remember whether any declaration was made by the injured to the doctor or not. He further did not take the statement of Anoop Kumar Gupta, the brother of the deceased. He did not remember that who were the persons who got the deceased medically treated while he was alive. It is a relevant fact that the informant and his wife had taken the deceased while being injured for medical examination. Blood-stains were found in the car but he did not take the same in his custody. He took the blood from the place of occurrence. The informant in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has stated that Nishu Dixit, Lalit Dixit, Chandan Kumar Gupta had got the car stopped. It was further stated by the informant that the deceased was dragged from the car and he did not got down himself. He did not remember that whether he made any query that who were the persons who had picked up the injured and kept him in the car. He did not remember whether he made a similar query at the place of occurrence. He had recorded the statement of Head Constable Shyam Singh under Section 161 Cr.P.C. on 13.12.2006. He admitted the fact that in the statement of Head Constable Shyam Singh it has not been mentioned that by which vehicle the injured was taken to the hospital. He further stated that it is correct fact that on each day the copy of the G.D is signed by the Station Officer and sent to the higher authorities and he was the Station Officer of the concerned police station. On 12.12.2006 also he must have countersigned the G.D. and sent to higher authorities. When the G.D. dated 12.12.2006 was shown to the witness then he identified and proved his signatures on the same. On 12.12.2006 he had read the G.D and then signed the same. He did not take the blood-stains on the seat of the vehicle by cutting the same in his custody and further did not think it necessary for taking any documents. Rs.5,000/- per month was being demanded as Chauth (goonda tax) by the accused Chandan Gupta from the deceased on account of which his mobile was snatched. He denied the suggestion that at the behest of the informant he has not carried the impartial investigation. He further denied the suggestion that during the course of investigation the real culprits have not been brought to book.

58. P.W.6 Subodh Kumar has deposed before the trial court that as on date on 12.12.2006 he was posted in the District Hospital, Mainpuri as Surgeon and at 5 p.m. on the said day he had medically examined Ambarish Kumar Gupta who was brought by Head Constable Shyam Singh and he found following injuries on his person:-

" (I) Fire-arm wound of entry 0.5 cm x 1 cm x depth not probed present on left side of face just below left eye. Margins inverted, bleeding present over the wound, advised X-ray, tattooing present over the face.

(ii) Fire-arm wound of entry present on outer part of right fore-arm 0.5 cm x 0.5 cm x bone deep on the inner side 1 cm above right wrist. Margins inverted, fresh bleeding present, tattooing present around the wound, advised X-ray.

(iii) Fire-arm wound of exit present on radial side of right fore-arm 2 cm x 1.5 cm x bone deep. Margins averted. Wound through and through to injury no.2 (advised X-ray) bleeding present."

59. He has proved the medical examination report as Ext. Ka-14 and further advised X-Ray and he was bleeding. The general condition was critical. His nerves were weak and he was unconscious. As his condition was critical, he was referred to higher centre. The injuries were caused by gun-shot and kept under observation. X-Ray was advised. The injuries were fresh. He was referred to S.N. College, Agra. The said injuries can be caused on 12.12.2006 at 4.35 p.m. by country-made pistol.

60. In his cross-examination the witness was shown medical examination Ext.Ka-14 of the injured and he could not tell on which register said injury report was endorsed. The person who brings the injured, his name is mentioned in the medical examination report and the bed-head ticket on which medical examination of the patient was mentioned. On showing the medical examination he could not tell whether the same was written on Chitthi Majroobi or not. In his cross-examination he has further stated that the injured Ambarish Kumar Gupta was admitted by Head Constable Shyam Singh and Anoop Kumar Gupta. He was admitted on 12.12.2006 at 5 p.m. in the evening. The condition of the injured was mentioned in the bed head ticket and his condition was critical. The injured was referred to S.N. Hospital, Agra at 5.15 hours. On the bed head ticket paper no.87-A was marked as material Ext.Kha-1 and medical examination report paper no.88-A was marked as material Ext.Kha-1. On the bed head ticket, there is signature of Head Constable Shyam Singh and Anoop Kumar Gupta (brother of the injured) who had brought the injured and both of them have signed the same in his presence. The medical examination register which he had brought in the Court was an accidental register and it was not a police case register. The injured was brought by the police personnel. Whether the police was informed or not can be only stated after seeing the police register. The injured was unconscious and in critical stage who was immediately referred to Agra, hence could not record his dying-declaration. He could not remember to ask by the police personnel whether it was a case of accident or a police case. After the medical examination of the injured and giving him medical treatment, he was referred to Agra. It is correct that any police personnel who brings the patient comes along with Chitthi Majrubi. Head Constable Shyam Singh has not brought Chitthi Majroobi and the medical examination was endorsed in the accidental register.

61. P.W.7 S.I. Virendra Kumar Singh has deposed before the trial court that on 18.01.2007 he was posed as S.I. at police station Bewar, district Mainpuri and vide G.D. No.41 time 21.10 hours of the said police station he along with S.I. Ompal Singh, S.I. Suleman Khan and three constables were on patrolling duty for the wanted accused and on 19.1.2007 while he was present in the morning at Vand hotel, they received an information from a police informer that accused for the murder of Ambarish Kumar Gupta few days before are present on crossing of G.T Road near P.C.O and waiting to go somewhere. On believing the said information, the police party proceeded towards it and also tried to take witnesses but no one was ready and they arrested the accused Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit on 19.1.2007 at 7.15 p.m. On his search a country-made pistol of 315 bore along with two empty cartridges in it was recovered from his right pocket and fresh smell of the same was coming out and other accused Chandan Gupta from whom identical recovery was made was also arrested and confessed their guilt about the murder of the deceased Ambarish Gupta. A country-made pistol and two cartridges which were recovered from them and recovery memo was prepared and case was registered against them. The charge-sheet was also submitted under Section 25-A of the Arms Act and put to trial in S.T. No.237 of 2007 under the Arms Act. The said weapons were sealed along with cartridges and the same was proved as material Ext.Ka-1 to Ka-4 and Case Crime No.67 of 2007 under Section 307 IPC and Case Crime No.68 of 2007 and 69 of 2007 under Section 3/25 Arms Act were also registered against two accused and the site-plan regarding recovery was also made by the witness.

62. The accused in their defence have examined Dr. P.K. Gupta as D.W.1 before the trial court who stated that he was running an Ortho and Fracture Clinic at Kutchehry Road, Mainpuri. He stated that he did not know Ghurai Lal personally. He further could not tell whether he had medically examined him or not and he only gives treatment to the patient who have suffered any injury or suffering from any ailment of bones and those patients only who prepares bed head ticket and he does not treat any general patient. In December, 2006 he has not made any bed head ticket of Ghurai Lal. The patients whose he had prepared the bed head ticket on 12.12.2006, he is not having the record of the same before the Court and on 12.12.2006 the patients in whose respect bed head tickets were prepared, their names he does not remember. On 12.12.2006 the patients who have been treated their names he does not remember. On 12.12.2006 the patients indoor and outdoor register he has not brought. He used to right prescriptions of small patients. The persons who complain the pain in bones he used to give prescriptions and the patients who are known to him, he gives them sample medicines. Ghurai Lal Gupta was not familiar to him. Daily he used to see 10 to 20 patients and he could not tell their names after five years. There is none other doctor of his name as Orthodox Surgeon in district Mainpuri nor there is any doctor by the said name. He was not aware of the fact that the accused had any relationship with Kishan Dubey, Advocate. He denied the suggestion that at the instance of Kishan Dubey, Advocate he has come to the Court and stated that he has come on the summons and denied the suggestion that he is falsely deposing.

63. The trial Court after examining and considering the prosecution evidence and defence version, has convicted and sentenced the appellants for the offence in question. Being aggrieved by the same, the appellants have preferred the instant appeal.

64. Heard Sri R.K. Rathore, learned counsel for the appellant no.1, Sri S.K. Singh Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant no.2, Sri Amit Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondent no.3, Sri Vinay Saran, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri P.K. Mishra, learned counsel for the complainant and Sri Gaurav Pratap Singh, learned AGA for the State and perused the lower court record.

65. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that the FIR of the incident was lodged after an inordinate delay as the incident had taken place on 12.12.2006 at 4.35 p.m. but the F.I.R. of the same was lodged on 13.12.2006 at 4 a.m. It has been further argued that there are material omissions in the F.I.R. which affects the credibility of the prosecution witnesses, i.e., PW 1 & PW2 such as that in the F.I.R. it has been mentioned by PW1 about the conspiracy and involvement of the co-accused Chandan Tiwari for the murder of the deceased along with the appellants.

66. It was further pointed out that the story with respect to snatching of the mobile phone of the deceased by the appellants Nishu Dixit, Chandan Kumar and Chandan Tiwari has also not been mentioned in the F.I.R. and it has been subsequently developed during the course of investigation and trial.

67. It was next argued that PW1-Ghurai Lal Gupta and PW2-Smt. Ram Khushi who are eye witnesses of the occurrence and are the parents of the deceased, their presence at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful as is apparent from the evidence recorded before the trial Court. It this regard, it has been further pointed out that in the statement of PW1 before the trial Court it has been categorically stated by him that soon after the incident he rushed his son in an injured condition along with his wife to the Mainpuri Hospital, but as per the medical examination report of the deceased Ambarish conducted at Mainpuri Hospital shows that he was brought by Head Moharrir Shyam Singh (CP 59) of Police Station Bewar on 12.12.2006 at 5 p.m. and after giving some treatment he was referred to S.N.Medical College, Agra for further treatment.

68. Learned counsel for the appellants has also drawn the attention of the Court towards the statement of DW1-P.K.Gupta where it has been stated by PW1 Ghurai Lal Gupta that he had gone along with his son and wife for taking medical treatment from the said doctor at Mainpuri and thereafter when they were returning from there, the incident had taken place. He argued that from the statement of DW1 it is not at all clear that PW1 along with his wife and son had actually gone to take medicine from him for pain in knee, neck and shoulder as he could not place any prescription or documentary evidence to show that he had visited Dr. Pramod Gupta.

69. It was further argued that there appears to be material contradiction in the statements of PW1 and PW2 with respect to the circumstances led to the incident. Though the incident had taken place in the busiest market place but not even a single independent witness has come to support the incident as has been stated by PW1 and PW2. In this regard, he has also drawn the attention of the Court towards the statements of PW1 and PW2 who have categorically stated that many shop keepers of the area had arrived at the place of occurrence but none had come to support the prosecution case, though the statements of some of the shop keepers who were the eye witnesses of the incident, were recorded by the investigating officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

70. It was next argued that the incident had taken place just 200 meters away from the police station and it appears from the evidence of PW4 Head Constable Shyam Singh that the police had arrived at the place of occurrence and had taken the injured to the hospital but PW1 and PW2 did not disclose the names and involvement of the appellants in the present case as the first opportune time to the Head Constable Shyam Singh and police personnel along with him who had arrived, which further goes to show that neither PW1 nor PW2 were present at the place of occurrence.

71. It is argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that Anoop Kumar who was the younger son of PW1 and PW2 was stated to be informed by them about the incident had also taken the injured Ambarish Kumar to Mainpuri Hospital, which is apparent from the Bed Head Ticket of the injured Ambarish Kumar of District Hospital, Mainpuri, was not produced by the prosecution before the trial Court to give evidence to support its case.

72. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the recovery of Opel Astra Car on which the deceased along with PW 1 and PW2 were returning after taking medicine from Mainpuri, was shown to be recovered by the police on the next date, i.e., on 13.12.2006. He submitted that if the said car was present on the spot and recovered by the police on the next day, then it is not clear from the prosecution evidence as from which car the deceased while being injured, was taken by PW1 and PW2 to Mainpuri Hospital.

73. It was further argued by learned counsel for the appellants that three used cartridges of 315 bore were recovered from the place of occurrence and blood was also found at the place of occurrence, but the said recoveries were made on the next day of occurrence, i.e., on 13.12.2006, which itself appears to be doubtful as the place of incident was a busy road and it was not possible that such recoveries could have been made by the investigating officer PW5-Udai Bhan Singh.

74. It was also submitted by the learned counsel for the appellants that unnatural conduct of PW1 and PW2 who are parents of the deceased soon after the incident goes to show that they were not present at the place of occurrence as from their evidence it is clear that neither they rushed to the victim nor, they catch-hold of their son and they even did not extend support to their son who fell on the ground after getting injured. It was also vehemently argued that though the injured Ambarish who was seriously injured was rushed to the Mainpuri Hospital in Opel Astra Car but no blood was found in the said car.

75. It was also pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants that in the F.I.R. PW1 has categorically stated that he took the dead body of the deceased to the police station when he went to lodge the F.I.R. but the panchayatnama of the deceased was conducted at the house of the informant PW1 which goes to show that prosecution is not coming up with clean hands.

76. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that the Investigating Officer has given the supurdagi of Opel Astra Car on which the deceased had gone with his parents, i.e., PW1 & PW2 to take medicine for PW1at Mainpuri and while returning to their house the incident took place, was recovered by the Investigating Officer on the next date of the incident, i.e., on 13.12.2006 after preparing the recovery memo of it, was given in the custody of PW1 though it was stated that there were blood stain on the seat which was wiped off by the relatives of PW1. Further, PW2 has stated in her evidence that she had shown her blood stained clothes to PW5-Udai Bhan Singh, Investigating Officer, but it was not taken into custody by the Investigating Officer which all raises doubt about the prosecution case and the manner in which the incident has taken place.

77. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that the house of PW1 and PW2 was also at a close distance from the place of occurrence and the Police Station Bewar, as it transpires from their evidence. He argued that it appears that soon after the incident the police arrived at the place of occurrence and the injured Ambarish Kumar was rushed to the Mainpuri Hospital by PW4 HCP 37 Shyam Singh and the parents of Ambarish Kumar when came to know about the incident when they were present at their house as it had taken place in the market of Kasba Bewar they informed their son Anoop Kumar on mobile as it transpires from the evidence of PW2 Smt. Ram Khushi who also reached the Mainpuri Hospital. Thus, he argued that the presence of PW1 and PW2 at the place of occurrence is doubtful.

78. The learned counsel for the appellants argued that the story of conspiring of murder of the deceased before the co-accsued Chandan Tiwari and the appellants and also of snatching of mobile phone of the deceased by the appellants has not been found to be true. Moreover, co-accused Chandan Tiwari has been acquitted by the trial Court, hence, the conviction of the appellants by the trial Court is not at all sustainable on the basis of evidence of PW1 and PW2. Further, the appellant Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit and Chandan Tiwari have been acquitted by the trial Court under Section 25/3 of the Arms Act disbelieving the recovery of the country-made pistols of 315 bore and live cartridges from them at the time of their arrest on 19.1.2007.

79. Thus, on the basis of the aforesaid arguments, it is lastly argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubts against the appellants and they are liable to be acquitted by this Court by setting aside the judgment and order dated 30.10.2013 passed by the trial Court. Moreover, the appellants, namely, Nishu Dixit and Chandan Kumar are languishing in jail for more than 13 years, i.e., since 19.1.2007.

80. Per-contra, on the other hand, Sri Vinay Saran, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri P.K. Mishra, appearing on behalf of the complainant has vehemently opposed the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants and submitted that it is a broad day light murder which had taken place on 12.12.2006 at 4.35 p.m. in the market of Kasba Bewar and the deceased along with his parents, i.e., PW1 and PW2 was returning on his Opel Astra Car after getting his father medicines for his ailment from Mainpuri and the appellants who were demanding free essential commodities including kerosene oil from his fair price shop and further Rs.5000/- per month as Chauth (Gunda Tax) from the deceased who refused to give them, was dragged from his car after stopping the same by the appellants and shot dead by the appellants Nishu Dixit and Chandan Kumar with their respective firearm weapons on the exhortation of appellant Lalit Dixit. The deceased received two gun shot injuries on his person (i) on his forehead and (ii) two gunshot of wound of entry on medial aspect of right fore-arm and the other on right side of face. One metallic bullet was also recovered from his brain and the cause of death as per the post mortem report of the deceased was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injuries.

81. He next argued that the presence of PW1 and PW2 who were accompanying the deceased at the time of the incident is quite natural as all of them were returning from Mainpuri after taking treatment from the Dr. Pramod Kumar Gupta where PW1 had gone alongwith his son and wife for his ailment in his body with respect to knee, neck and shoulder pain and their presence at the place of occurrence is well established as is apparent from their evidence before the trial Court. The medical evidence fully corroborates the evidence of PW1 and PW 2. There appears to be no discrepancy in their evidence which may caste doubt about their presence at the place of occurrence.

82. He next pointed out that the appellant Nishu Dixit in a pre-planned manner had conspired the murder of the deceased and has committed the murder of the deceased and from the evidence of PW5 Udai Bhan Singh, he has tried to demonstrate that the appellant Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit was wanted in Case Crime No.506 of 2006, under Sections 392, 411 I.P.C. and he along with his parents and younger brother Ishu had got his brother Ishu arrested in the said case in place of Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit at District Jail Fatehgarh to commit the murder of the deceased, who also filed a carbon copy of the report of Inspector In-charge of Gursahaiganj, District Kannauj as paper No.11A/6 which has been marked as Ext. Ka.12.

83. He further submitted that the argument of learned counsel for the appellants that there has been inordinate delay in lodging the F.I.R. is not at all sustainable because soon as after the incident when the deceased was seriously injured, PW1 rushed him to the hospital at Mainpuri from where he was referred to Agra for further medical treatment and PW1 along with his wife and other relatives rushed him to Agra and admitted the Ambarish to Kamayani Hospital, Agra where he was given medical treatment and at 12.30 a.m. in the night on 12.12.2006/ 13.12.2006 the deceased succumbed to his injuries and from where he was brought back to his house and thereafter at 4 a.m. in the morning the informant PW1 had gone to lodge the F.I.R. at police Station Bewar, District Mainpuri, hence, it was quite natural conduct of PW1 to first save the life of his injured son instead of reporting the incident at the police station immediately.

84. He further submitted that the accused appellants have failed to state the reason for their false implication the present case by the informant (PW1) who is father of the deceased in the present case. He further pointed out that the recovery of empty cartridges, blood stained concrete chips from the place of occurrence and recovery of pistol from Nishu Dixit about which there is a report of Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra further proves that the prosecution has successfully established its case. He submitted that it is well established law that the F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of the prosecution version. Non-mentioning of the conspiracy in the F.I.R. is not fatal as during investigation this conspiracy was fully unearthed. Further, prosecution witnesses from their deposition have fully established the conspiracy hatched and involvement of the accused Chandan Tiwari.

85. He next submitted that so far as the non-examination of independent witnesses are concerned, it is hardly of a significance as in a murder case it is general tendency of the independent witnesses not to come forward to invite them to any trouble, hence, they avoid the same and it is only the family members who come forward to bring book to the actual assailants who are involved in the present case, as has been done by PW1 and PW2.

86. On the basis of aforesaid argument, learned A.G.A. has also adopted the arguments of Sri Vinay Saran, learned Senior Advocate, appearing on behalf of the complainant, hence, for the sake of brevity it is not repeated again.

87. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, we have gone through the entire evidence of the prosecution as well as defence version and other materials on record.

88. In the F.I.R. which has been lodged by PW1 Ghurai Lal Gupta, it is quite apparent that he has stated categorically that while he was returning along with his son and wife after taking medicines from Mainpuri and arrived at Kasba Bewar on 12.12.2006 at 4.35 p.m. and as soon as his car reached at Kasba Bewar near District Hospital, Mainpuri, the appellants Nishu Dixit, Lalit Dixit and Chandan Kumar came out with their country-made pistols, stopped the car and Nishu Dixit and Chandan Kumar dragged the deceased Ambarish from the car after abusing him and stating that he poses himself to be a big ration dealer and without ration card he has to supply the ration and kerosene along with Rs.5000/- per month to them which was resisted by the deceased Ambarish and he told that he would not give any Chauth (Gunda Tax) and at that moment the appellant Lalit Dixit started abusing him and stated that the deceased Ambarish poses himself to be a big leader and he would not concede to the demand and exhorted, on which appellants Nishu Dixit and Chandan Kumar who were carrying country-made pistols in their hands fired shot at him with an intention to kill him, on account of which Ambarish Kumar was seriously injured and on the alarm raised by the informant, all the three accused fired in the air and had fled away from the place of occurrence. Several shop keepers because of the terror and commotion created in the area started closing down their shops.The informant and his wife took their son Ambarish Kumar in a seriously injured condition to the District Hospital Mainpuri where seeing his critical condition he was referred to Agra and at Agra they went to Kamayani Hospital and during treatment his son succumbed to his injuries. He further stated in the F.I.R. that he had brought the dead body of the deceased and had come to report about the incident.

89. The argument of learned counsel for the appellants that in the F.I.R. PW1 has not mentioned about the conspiracy which was hatched by the co-accused Chandan Tiwari along with the appellants as the Chandan Tiwari was a helper in the shop of the deceased who was running a fair price shop as because of some illegal activities of Chandan Tiwari, the deceased after noticing the same had ousted him and Chandan Tiwari was pressurizing the deceased along with the assistance of the appellants Nishu Dixit and Chandan Kumar for taking him back in his shop as a helper which was refused by him. Further, 2-3 days prior to the incident, appellants Nishu Dixit and Chandan Gupta had snatched the mobile phone of son of PW1 who went to the house of Lalit Dixit where he heard the conversation of Chandan Tiwari, Chandan Gupta, Nishu Dixit and Lalit Tiwari that if Ambarish Kumar would not pay any heed to their demands, hence, within 2-3 days he should be eliminated, on which PW1 opened the door and went inside the house and asked Lalit Dixit that his son had snatched the mobile phone of Ambarish Kumar and to return the same but he did not pay any heed and PW1 also paid Rs.5000 for returning the same. This conduct of PW1 goes to show that he tried to implicate co-accused Chandan Tiwari during the course of investigation in the present case falsely for conspiring the murder of the deceased, but the said fact was not disclose by him in the F.I.R. It is true that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of the prosecution case but the said conduct of PW1 definitely cast doubt about his credibility and trustworthiness stating about the incident raising suspicion about his testimony relating to the prosecution case.

90. Another circumstance which goes to show regarding reliability of PW1 with respect to the prosecution version given by him that he was returning from Mainpuri to Bewar to his house after taking medicine from Dr. Pramod Gupta on the day of incident, if tested in the light of the evidence of DW1, it creates doubt that PW1 along with his wife and son had gone to him for taking medicines regarding ailment of knee, neck and shoulder of PW1. No documentary evidence has been produced by PW1 to show that he had actually visited DW1 Dr. Pramod Gupta for his ailment.

91. Moreover, it is apparent from the statements of PW1 and PW2 that it was for the first time that they had gone to DW1 on the day of the incident for getting medicines of PW1 and PW2 casually stated that one year prior to the incident her grand-son (Nati) had got fractured his hand and was also treated by DW1, but there appears to be no documentary evidence regarding the same. Thus, the version given by the PW1 that he had gone along with his wife and son to take medicines at Mainpuri to Dr. Pramod Gupta (DW1) is not established from the evidence of PW1 and PW2.

92. So far the fact that PW1 and PW2 had actually seen the incident and were present at the place of occurrence, as has been argued on behalf of the appellants vehemently, appears to be highly doubtful, firstly, on the count that it has been categorically stated by PW1 in his evidence before the trial Court as well as apparent from the F.I.R. that soon after the incident he along with his wife had rushed his son in a seriously injured condition to District Hospital, Mainpuri but from the medical examination report of the injured Ambarish Kumar dated 12.12.2006 conducted at 5 p.m. shows that he was brought by Head Constable Shyam Singh (HC 37) and PW1 in his cross-examination has categorically stated as under:-

"मैं लड़के को चुटैल हालत में लेकर मैनपुरी अस्पताल करीब 5 बजे पहुंचा था। हम व मेरी पत्नी थी, उसके अलावा कोई नहीं था। जिला अस्पताल में 10–15 मिनट रूके होंगे। जिला अस्पताल बोतल औतल लगाई थी आगरा के लिये रैफर कर दिया था।"

93. It further transpires from the evidence of PW1 and PW4 Head Constable Shyam Singh of Police Station Bewar that he had arrived at the place of occurrence and younger son of PW1, namely, Anoop Kumar had also arrived there and in the Bed Head Ticket it has been mentioned that Ambarish Kumar was brought by Constable Shyam Singh and Anoop Kumar but the said Anoop Kumar was not produced by the prosecution to support its case, which further raises doubt about the fact that PW1 and PW2 (wife of PW1) had actually took Ambarish Kumar to District Hospital, Mainpuri.

94. The unnatural conduct of PW1 and PW2 soon after the incident further reflects that their presence at the place of occurrence is not established on account of the fact that when the deceased was dragged from the car by the appellants and was shot with their respective firearms weapons, they have stated that they were witnessing the incident while they were sitting in the car and did not come out immediately coupled with the fact that after the incident when the deceased Ambarish Kumar was lying in a seriously injured condition, no effort was made by PW1 and PW2 to touch him or to help the other persons who had picked the injured in the Opel Astra Car of PW1 as no blood stains were found either on the clothes of PW1 or PW2 nor, the same was found in the Opel Astra Car. It appears that the prosecution was conscious of the fact that if it comes with a case that the deceased was taken in lap of PW2 or PW2 had helped the other persons to keep the injured in the car then definitely their clothes would have been blood stained because the blood was oozing from the body of the injured but as no blood stained clothe was either shown or taken in to custody by the investigating officer PW5. The prosecution thought it more proper to ensure that the deceased while being injured was not picked or touched by PW1 or PW2 though the learned counsel for the complainant pointed out that the blood stain which was found in the car, in the cross-examination questions were put to the witnesses regarding the same and it was stated by PW1 and PW2 that their relatives had wiped off blood in the car while the injured was taken to the hospital from Mainpuri to Agra in an Ambulance, but from this circumstance the prosecution cannot escape the responsibility of proving its case beyond reasonable doubts against the appellants.

95. It further transpires from the recovery of the three empty cartridges from the place of occurrence on 13.12.2006 by the police, out of which one cartridge recovered was tallied with the weapon which was recovered from the appellant

Nishu Dixit as is apparent from the Forensic Science Laboratory dated 6.1.2007. In this regard it would be necessary to take into account that the accused appellant Nishu Dixit @ Brijesh Dixit was arrested by the police after more than one month of the incident on 19.1.2007 and country-made pistol of 315 bore was recovered from him, it would be highly improbable and beyond imagination to think that the said accused would carry the said country-made pistol with him which was used in the crime, hence, the recovery of said country-made pistol appears to be doubtful.

96. Similarly, appellant Chandan Kumar was also arrested on the same day, i.e., on 19.1.2007 along with the co-accused Nishu Dixit with country-made pistol of 315 bore and some live cartridges and both the accused have been acquitted by the trial Court for the offence under Section 25/3 of Arms Act. Thus, the recovery of two weapons from the said accused after one month of the incident has been disbelieved by the trial Court when they were put to trial under the Arms Act.

97. It is noteworthy to mention here that the metallic bullet was recovered from the occipital region of the deceased but the same was not sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory in order to ensure whether the same was shot by the respective weapons which were recovered from the two appellants, namely, Nishu Dixit @ Brijesh Dixit and Chandan Kumar.

98. Another circumstance which further raises doubt about the prosecution case is that in the F.I.R. it has been categorically mentioned by PW1 that he had brought the dead body of the deceased when he went to the police station to report the matter on 13.12.2006 at 4 a.m. but from the panchayatnama of the deceased it is apparent that inquest proceedings were conducted at the house of the deceased. In this regard, the statement of PW1 in his cross-examination before the trial Court is necessary to be taken into note, which is reproduced here-in-below:

99. Thus, it is clear that the prosecution is not coming with clean hands and is concealing the origin of the incident. The defence has categorically given the suggestions to PW1 and PW2 questioning their presence at the place of occurrence and they being not the eye witness of the occurrence were falsely deposing against the appellants though they have denied the same.

100. It is true that no independent witness has come forward to support the prosecution case though it appears from the evidence of PW1 and PW2 that several persons had arrived at the place of occurrence soon after the incident as it was a busy market place. The evidence of PW1 and PW2 who are parents of the deceased simply because they being highly interested and partisan witnesses cannot be thrown out by this Court in view of the settled principle of law laid by the by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In this regard, it is equally true that the evidence of the family members of the deceased should be examined by the Court carefully and put to strict scrutiny and if from the evidence it is established that the same is worthy of credence and support the prosecution case, then their evidence should not be thrown out on the count that they being highly interested and partisan witness being related to the deceased.

101. In the instant case, it is no doubt that PW1 and PW2 are the parents of the deceased and claimed themselves to be the eye witness of the occurrence, but after going through their testimony they can be put in the category of neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable witness as their evidence does not conclusively prove the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt though their evidence examined by the Court for corroboration in material particulars by direct and circumstantial testimony.

102. In this regard, a reference may be made to a decision of the Apex Court in the case of Vedivelu Thevar Vs. State of Madras, reported in AIR 1957 SC614, wherein the Apex Court has classified the testimony of a witness into three categories viz. (i) wholly reliable (ii) wholly unreliable and (iii) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable and observed that though in the first two categories of classification, there may not be any difficulty in coming to conclusion neither accepting or rejecting the testimony, but it is in the third category of cases that the court has to be circumspect and has to look for corroboration in material particulars by reliable testimony either direct of circumstantial.

103. It was also argued on behalf of the learned counsel for the complainant that the appellant Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit in collusion with his parents had got his younger brother Ishu arrested and sent to jail at Fatehgarh in his place in Case Crime No.506 of 2006, under Sections 392, 411 I.P.C. in which he was involved to commit the murder of the deceased as he has raised the said argument from the evidence of PW5-Udai Bhan Singh, the Investigating Officer of the case, but he has failed to demonstrate before the Court by cogent evidence the said argument. Further, there appears to be no evidence to show that the appellant Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit who was wanted in Case Crime No.506 of 2006 managed escaped his arrest in the said case to commit the murder of the deceased in the present case and no further evidence was led in this regard before the trial Court against the appellant Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit in this context. Only a casual reference of Case Crime No.506 of 2006, under Sections 392, 411 I.P.C. was made from the evidence of PW5 without there being any material to corroborate the same by any other circumstances or evidence. Hence, the said argument of learned counsel for the complainant does not appear to be sound one and cannot be accepted.

104. The argument of learned counsel for the complainant that the accused appellants could not demonstrate before this Court the reason for their false implication in the present case by PW1 as he was having no enmity with them, but in this regard it is to be noted that it is first duty of the prosecution to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused than to question the accused for their false implication which the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants. Thus, the said argument of counsel for the complainant does not hold good in our considered opinion.

105. The learned counsel for the complainant further failed to reply as to what was the reason for implicating the appellant Lalit Dixit who is the father of the appellant Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit by giving an ornamental role of exhortation to him on which the other two appellants are stated to have fired at the deceased, though as per the prosecution case the dispute, if any, was between the appellant Nishu Dixit and Chandan Kumar and the deceased.Thus, this circumstance further shows that PW1 Ghurai Lal Gupta was being guided by some one for falsely implicating persons for oblique motives and one of the co-accused Chandan Tiwari who was further implicated by him during the course of investigation and arrayed as an accused during the investigation, was put to trial and ultimately acquitted by the trial Court finding his involvement to be false.

106. Thus, in view of the aforesaid foregoing discussions, the Court after scanning and scrutinizing the prosecution evidence and findings recorded by the trial Court in convicting and sentencing the appellants finds that the conviction and sentence of the appellants recorded by the trial Court is not sustainable on the basis of the evidence on record. The appellants are entitled for the benefit of doubt, as this Court has found evidence of PW1 and PW2 neither wholly reliable nor unreliable as from their evidence the guilt of the appellants is not fully established beyond reasonable doubt and it would be quite unsafe to hold them guilty. Hence, in view of the same, the judgement and order dated 30.10.2013 passed by the trial Court is liable to be set aside by this Court. It is, accordingly, set aside and the appellants are acquitted of the charges. The appeal stands allowed.

107. The appellant no.1-Nishu @ Brijesh Dixit and appellant no.3-Chandan Kumar are stated to be in jail, they shall be released forthwith, unless otherwise wanted in any other criminal case.

108. The appellant No.2-Lalit Dixit is stated to be on bail. His bail bonds and sureties are discharged. He need not surrender.

109. It is further directed that the appellants shall furnish bail bond with surety to the satisfaction of the Court concerned in terms of the provision of Section 437-A of Cr.P.C.

110. The Registrar General of this Court is directed to ensure that the certified copy of this order along with the lower court record be transmitted to the trial Court concerned for its information and compliance forthwith.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code,1860- Exception 4 to Section 300 of the IPC - Applies in the absence of any premeditation. The help of Exception 4 can be invoked if death is caused (a) without premeditation, (b) in a sudden fight, (c) without the offenders having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner, and (d) the fight must have been with the person killed. For the application of Exception 4, it is not sufficient to show that there was a sudden quarrel and there was no premeditation. It must further be shown that the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner. The expression "undue advantage" as used in the provision means "unfair advantage".

In order to come within the purview of Exception 4 to Section 300, it is equally important to show that the offender/ accused has not taken " undue advantage" or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code- Section 304 - Culpable Homicide not amounting to Murder- whenever a court is confronted with the question whether the offence is "murder" or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", on the facts of a case, it will be convenient for it to approach the problem in three stages. The question to be considered at the first stage would be, whether the accused has done an act by doing which he has caused the death of another. Proof of such causal connection between the act of the accused and the death, leads to the second stage for considering whether that act of the accused amounts to "culpable homicide" as defined in Section 299. If the answer to this question is prima facie found in the affirmative, the stage for considering the operation of Section 300 of the Penal Code, is reached. This is the stage at which the court should determine whether the facts proved by the prosecution bring the case within the ambit of any of the four clauses of the definition of "murder" contained in Section 300. If the answer to this question is in the negative the offence would be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first or the second part of Section 304, depending, respectively, on whether the second or the third clause of Section 299 is applicable. If this question is found in the positive, but the case comes within any of the exceptions enumerated in Section 300, the offence would still be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first part of Section 304, of the Penal Code."

If the facts proved by the prosecution do not bring the case within the ambit of any of the four clauses to Section 300 IPC, then the offence would be of " Culpable Homicide not amounting to Murder" being punishable under the First or Second Part of Section 304 IPC.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 304 Part II- Sudden fight- No pre-meditation- Absence of intention-The case in hand is of a sudden fight without any premeditation or overreacted while committing the crime in question, and without there being any intention on the part of the appellant and, accordingly, Exception 4 to Section 300 of IPC would be attracted in the facts and circumstances of the case. The crime committed by the accused-appellant, as such, does not travel beyond an offence described under Section 304 Part II of Indian Penal Code.

In the facts of the present case, there was a heated altercation initially between the deceased and the accused persons when suddenly one accused assaulted the deceased with a knife. Hence, the case is one of sudden quarrel without any premeditation and intention on part of the accused and will come within the ambit of Section 304 Part II of the IPC. Sentence reduced to period already undergone by the appellants in jail and fine enhanced to Rs. 50,000/-.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Instant Jail Appeal arises out of impugned judgment and order dated 09.09.2010 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.12, Aligarh in Sessions Trial No.1019 of 2008, convicting the appellant under Section 302/34 of Indian Penal Code and sentencing him to undergo imprisonment for life with a fine of Rs.10,000/-; in default thereof, three months additional simple imprisonment.

2. The entire case, in a nutshell is, that complainant Smt. Rani (PW-1) w/o Kalyan Singh, lodged a complaint (Ex Ka.1) on 07.03.2008 at 00.15 am, alleging that on 06.03.2008 at 10.30 pm, her son Santosh was repairing electric wire from an electric pole adjoining wall of the accused on which accused Raju came and had hot talk to deceased Santosh. After hearing noise, complaint (PW-1), her husband Kalyan Singh (PW-2) and her brother-in-law (Devar) [not examined], reached to the place of incident; they saw Raju caught hold her son Santosh; appellant Shravan was assaulting to the deceased with knife and when they saw their son, then accused Raju and Shravan fled away. The deceased brought to the hospital by his parents for treatment, but the doctor declared him dead.

3. On the basis of aforesaid written complaint, a First Information Report (Ex. Ka.3) was registered as Crime No.91 of 2008 contemplating offences punishable under Section 302 of IPC against the accused persons.

4. Immediately after registration of the FIR, investigation was undertaken by Sub Inspector Sansar Singh Rathi (PW-6); he prepared Inquest Report (Ex Ka-5) and sent the dead body of deceased Santosh in a sealed cover for post-moretm in the custody of Constable Jai Prakash Yadav and Surajpal. Blood-stained earth as well as simple earth and one knife (Ex Ka.2) dated 26.04.2010 were recovered from the place of occurrence. The Investigating Officer also recorded the statements of eye witnesses.

5. Post-mortem of deceased Santosh was conducted on 07.03.2008 at about 4.00 pm by Dr. L.K. Saxena (PW-3), ENT Surgeon, District Malkhan Singh Hospital, Aligarh. He prepared post-mortem report (Ex Ka.2 dated 21.05.2010) and noticed the following injuries on the dead body of the deceased:

"(i) Incised wound 3.0 cm x 1.0 cm x bone deep on front of upper part of right thigh. Horizontal in place. Margie clean cut right femoral arty and vain are both ruptured 4.5 cm lateral to scrotum.

(ii) Abrasion 3.0 cm x 2.0 cm on right side fold lateral malleolus."

As per post-mortem report, cause of death of deceased Santosh was "haemorrhage and shock due to anti-mortem injuries".

6. Investigating Officer, after completing the investigation, submitted charge sheet (Ex Ka-11) against the accused persons under Section 302/34 of IPC.

7. The case, being a Sessions Triable, was committed to the Court of Sessions Judge. On 03.11.2009, the Sessions Judge heard the arguments and after considering the entire material available on record, framed charge against the accused persons under Section 302/34 of IPC. The aforesaid charge was read over and explained to the accused persons. On denial of the same, trial commenced.

8. During the course of trial, prosecution supported its case with the aid of seven witnesses. After completing the prosecution evidence, the accused persons were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which, they have pleaded their innocence and false implication and claimed trial.

9. Learned trial Court, relying upon the statements of PWs, recorded the conviction of the accused persons for the offence punishable under Section 302/34 of IPC and sentenced them, as mentioned in paragraph no.1 of this judgment. Hence, this appeal.

10. Contention of learned counsel for the appellant is as under:

(i) that the incident took place suddenly and there was no premeditation on the part of the accused-appellant, therefore, it falls under Exception 4 to Section 300 of IPC.

(ii) that even if the entire case of prosecution is taken as it is, offence under Section 302/34 of IPC is not made out against the appellant and he is liable to be convicted under Section 304 Part I or Part II of IPC.

11. Per contra, in support of the impugned judgment, learned AGA, inter-alia, submitted that the conviction of the appellant is strictly in accordance with law. He further submitted that the trial Court has rightly convicted the appellant after due and proper consideration of the evidence available on record; hence, the order impugned does not warrant any interference.

12. We have heard Mr. Manoj Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Amit Sinha, learned AGA for the State and perused the material available on record.

13. Smt. Rani (PW-1), is the mother of deceased Santosh, who is an eye witness to the incident. She has stated that on the fateful day, while deceased was repairing electric wire from the electric pole on which, some altercation took place between deceased Santosh and accused Raju. Accused Raju caught hold the deceased and Shravan s/o Raju was assaulting him with knife. After hearing noise of quarrel, she and her husband Kalyan Singh (PW-2) and brother-in-law Vijay came there, then accused Raju and Shravan fled away. She has further stated that she saw the incident in the electrical right and she had identified the accused.

14. Sri Kalyan Singh (PW-2), is the father of deceased Santosh, who is also an eye witness to the incident. He has stated that after hearing noise of quarrel between his son and accused, he reached to the place of incident and saw that Raju caught hold his son and Shravan was assaulting to the deceased with knife, thereafter, the accused persons fled away from the spot.

15. In the present case, the incident took place on 06.03.2008 at 10.30 pm. There was some hot talks between accused persons and the deceased and then appellant has caused injuries to deceased Santosh with knife. After sustaining injuries, the injured was taken to hospital by Smt. Rani (PW-1) and Sri Kalyan Singh (PW-2), mother and father of the deceased, wherein doctor declared him dead. Both the eye-witnesses have duly supported the prosecution case and have categorically stated as to the manner in which the incident occurred. Eye-witnesses of the incident, namely, Smt. Rani (PW-1) and Sri Kalyan Singh (PW-2), mother and father of the deceased, have been cross-examined at great length, but except some minor variations and natural contradictions, nothing useful to the defence has come out.

16. A close scrutiny of the depositions of the eye-witnesses, would go to show that on fateful day, while deceased was repairing electric wire from electric pole, some heated altercation took place between deceased Santosh and the accused persons. Co-accused Raju caught hold the deceased and the deceased was assaulted all of a sudden by the appellant with knife, as a result of which, he died.

17. Considering all these aspects of the case, we are of the view that the complicity of the accused persons in commission of offence has been duly proved by the prosecution.

18. Now the next question, which arises for consideration of this Court is, as to whether the act of accused-appellant would fall within the definition of 'murder' or it would be 'culpable homicide not amounting to murder'.

19. Before proceeding further, it is relevant to refer to the provisions of Section 300 of IPC, which read as under:

"300. Murder.- Except in the cases hereinafter excepted, culpable homicide is murder, if the act by which the death is caused is done with the intention of causing death, or-

Secondly.- If it is done with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused, or -

Thirdly.- If it is done with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, or -

Fourthly.- If the person committing the act knows that it is so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid.

Exception 1.- When culpable homicide is not murder.-Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, whilst deprived of the power of self-control by grave and sudden provocation, causes the death of the person who gave the provocation or causes the death of any other person by mistake or accident.

The above Exception is subject to the following provisos:-

First.- That the provocation is not sought or voluntarily provoked by the offender as an excuse for killing or doing harm to any person.

Secondly.- That the provocation is not given by anything done in obedience to the law, or by a public servant in the lawful exercise of the powers of such public servant.

Thirdly. - That the provocation is not given by anything done in the lawful exercise of the right of private defence.

Explanation.- Whether the provocation was grave and sudden enough to prevent the offence from amounting to murder is a question of fact.

Exception 2.- Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, in the exercise in good faith of the right of private defence of person or property, exceeds the power given to him by law and causes the death of the person against whom he is exercising such right of defence without premeditation, and without any intention of doing more harm than is necessary for the purpose of such defence.

Exception 3.- Culpable homicide is not murder if the offender, being a public servant or aiding a public servant acting for the advancement of public justice, exceeds the powers given to him by law, and causes death by doing an act which he, in good faith, believes to be lawful and necessary for the due discharge of his duty as such public servant and without ill-will towards the person whose death is caused.

Exception 4.-Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner.

Explanation.- It is immaterial in such cases which party offers the provocation or commits the first assault.

Exception 5.- Culpable homicide is not murder when the person whose death is caused, being above the age of eighteen years, suffers death or takes the risk of death with his own consent."

Exception 4 to Section 300 of the IPC applies in the absence of any premeditation. This is very clear from the wordings of the Exception itself. The exception contemplates that the sudden fight shall start upon the heat of passion on a sudden quarrel. The fourth exception to Section 300 IPC covers acts done in a sudden fight. The said Exception deals with a case of provocation not covered by the first exception, after which its place would have been more appropriate. The Exception is founded upon the same principle, for in both there is absence of premeditation. But, while in the case of Exception 1 there is total deprivation of self-control, in case of Exception 4, there is only that heat of passion which clouds men's sober reason and urges them to deeds which they would not otherwise do. There is provocation in Exception 4 as in Exception 1, but the injury done is not the direct consequence of that provocation. In fact, Exception 4 deals with cases in which notwithstanding that a blow may have been struck, or some provocation given in the origin of the dispute or in whatever way the quarrel may have originated, yet the subsequent conduct of both parties puts them in respect of guilt upon an equal footing. A "sudden fight" implies mutual provocation and blows on each side. The homicide committed is then clearly not traceable to unilateral provocation, nor could in such cases the whole blame be placed on one side. For if it were so, the Exception more appropriately applicable would be Exception 1. There is no previous deliberation or determination to fight. A fight suddenly takes place, for which both parties are more or less to be blamed. It may be that one of them starts it, but if the other had not aggravated it by his own conduct it would not have taken the serious turn it did. There is then mutual provocation and aggravation, and it is difficult to apportion the share of blame which attaches to each fighter. The help of Exception 4 can be invoked if death is caused (a) without premeditation, (b) in a sudden fight, (c) without the offenders having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner, and (d) the fight must have been with the person killed. To bring a case within Exception 4 all the ingredients mentioned in it must be found. It is to be noted that the "fight" occurring in Exception 4 to Section 300 IPC is not defined in IPC. It takes two to make a fight. Heat of passion requires that there must be no time for the passions to cool down and in this case, the parties had worked themselves into a fury on account of the verbal altercation in the beginning. A fight is a combat between two and more persons whether with or without weapons. It is not possible to enunciate any general rule as to what shall be deemed to be a sudden quarrel. It is a question of fact and whether a quarrel is sudden or not must necessarily depend upon the proved facts of each case. For the application of Exception 4, it is not sufficient to show that there was a sudden quarrel and there was no premeditation. It must further be shown that the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner. The expression "undue advantage" as used in the provision means "unfair advantage".

20. Considering all the aspects of the case, we are of the view that there was no premeditation on the part of the accused-appellant to kill the deceased.

21. The Apex Court in State of Andhara Pradesh vs. Rayavarapu Punnayya and Another1, while drawing a distinction between Section 302 and Section 304 of IPC, held as under:

"12. In the scheme of the Penal Code, "culpable homicide" is genus and "murder" its specie. All "murder" is "culpable homicide" but not vice-versa. Speaking generally, "culpable homicide" sans "special characteristics of murder", is "culpable homicide not amounting to murder". For the purpose of fixing punishment, proportionate to the gravity of this generic offence, the Code practically recognises three degrees of culpable homicide. The first is, what may be called, "culpable homicide of the first degree". This is the greatest form of culpable homicide, which is defined in Section 300 as "murder". The second may be termed as "culpable homicide of the second degree". This is punishable under the first part of Section 304. Then, there is "culpable homicide of the third degree". This is the lowest type of culpable homicide and the punishment provided for it is, also, the lowest among the punishments provided for the three grades. Culpable homicide of this degree is punishable under the second part of Section 304.

21. From the above conspectus, it emerges that whenever a court is confronted with the question whether the offence is "murder" or "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", on the facts of a case, it will be convenient for it to approach the problem in three stages. The question to be considered at the first stage would be, whether the accused has done an act by doing which he has caused the death of another. Proof of such causal connection between the act of the accused and the death, leads to the second stage for considering whether that act of the accused amounts to "culpable homicide" as defined in Section 299. If the answer to this question is prima facie found in the affirmative, the stage for considering the operation of Section 300 of the Penal Code, is reached. This is the stage at which the court should determine whether the facts proved by the prosecution bring the case within the ambit of any of the four clauses of the definition of "murder" contained in Section 300. If the answer to this question is in the negative the offence would be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first or the second part of Section 304, depending, respectively, on whether the second or the third clause of Section 299 is applicable. If this question is found in the positive, but the case comes within any of the exceptions enumerated in Section 300, the offence would still be "culpable homicide not amounting to murder", punishable under the first part of Section 304, of the Penal Code."

22. In Budhi Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh2, the Supreme Court, held as under:

18. The doctrine of sudden and grave provocation is incapable of rigid construction leading to or stating any principle of universal application. This will always have to depend on the facts of a given case. While applying this principle, the primary obligation of the court is to examine from the point of view of a person of reasonable prudence if there was such grave and sudden provocation so as to reasonably conclude that it was possible to commit the offence of culpable homicide, and as per the facts, was not a culpable homicide amounting to murder. An offence resulting from grave and sudden provocation would normally mean that a person placed in such circumstances could lose self-control but only temporarily and that too, in proximity to the time of provocation. The provocation could be an act or series of acts done by the deceased to the accused resulting in inflicting of injury.

19. Another test that is applied more often than not is that the behaviour of the assailant was that of a reasonable person. A fine distinction has to be kept in mind between sudden and grave provocation resulting in sudden and temporary loss of self-control and the one which inspires an actual intention to kill. Such act should have been done during the continuation of the state of mind and the time for such person to kill and reasons to regain the dominion over the mind. Once there is premeditated act with the intention to kill, it will obviously fall beyond the scope of culpable homicide not amounting to murder.…."

23. In Kikar Singh vs. State of Rajasthan3, the Apex Court held as under:

"8. The counsel attempted to bring the case within Exception 4. For its application all the conditions enumerated therein must be satisfied. The act must be committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion; (2) upon a sudden quarrel; (3) without the offender's having taken undue advantage; (4) and the accused had not acted in a cruel or unusual manner. Therefore, there must be a mutual combat or exchanging blows on each other. And however slight the first blow, or provocation, every fresh blow becomes a fresh provocation. The blood is already heated or warms up at every subsequent stroke. The voice of reason is heard on neither side in the heat of passion. Therefore, it is difficult to apportion between them respective degrees of blame with reference to the state of things at the commencement of the fray but it must occur as a consequence of a sudden fight i.e. mutual combat and not one side track. It matters not what the cause of the quarrel is, whether real or imaginary, or who draws or strikes first. The strike of the blow must be without any intention to kill or seriously injure the other. If two men start fighting and one of them is unarmed while the other uses a deadly weapon, the one who uses such weapon must be held to have taken an undue advantage denying him the entitlement to Exception 4. True the number of wounds is not the criterion, but the position of the accused and the deceased with regard to their arms used, the manner of combat must be kept in mind when applying Exception 4. When the deceased was not armed but the accused was and caused injuries to the deceased with fatal results, the Exception 4 engrafted to Section 300 is excepted and the offences committed would be one of murder.

9. The occasion for sudden quarrel must not only be sudden but the party assaulted must be on an equal footing in point of defence, at least at the onset. This is specially so where the attack is made with dangerous weapons. Where the deceased was unarmed and did not cause any injury to the accused even following a sudden quarrel if the accused has inflicted fatal blows on the deceased, Exception 4 is not attracted and commission must be one of murder punishable under Section 302. Equally for attracting Exception 4 it is necessary that blows should be exchanged even if they do not all find their target. Even if the fight is unpremeditated and sudden, yet if the instrument or manner of retaliation be greatly disproportionate to the offence given, and cruel and dangerous in its nature, the accused cannot be protected under Exception 4.…"

24. All the above three cases were considered by the Apex Court in Surain Singh vs. The State of Punjab4 and ultimately, it has been held by the Apex Court in that particular case, that the accused was liable to be convicted under Section 304 Part II of IPC and not under Section 302 of IPC.

25. As a matter of fact, thus, the case in hand is of a sudden fight without any premeditation or overreacted while committing the crime in question, and without there being any intention on the part of the appellant and, accordingly, Exception 4 to Section 300 of IPC would be attracted in the facts and circumstances of the case.

26. In totality of the facts available, the crime committed by the accused-appellant, as such, does not travel beyond an offence described under Section 304 Part II of Indian Penal Code.

27. In view of the above, we are of the considered opinion that the trial Court has erred in law, while convicting the accused appellant under Section 302 of IPC. The judgment and order impugned dated 09.09.2010, hence, is set aside. The accused appellant is held guilty for commission of an offence punishable under Section 304 Part II of Indian Penal Code.

28. So far as sentence part is concerned, the accused-appellant has already remained in jail for about 11 years and 11 months. According to us, ends of justice would be served, if his sentence is reduced to the period already undergone by him order accordingly. As the appellant is reported to be in jail, he be set free forthwith, if not required in any other case.

29. However, considering the provisions of Section 357 of Cr.P.C. and judgment of the Apex Court in Ankush Shivaji Gaikwad vs. State of Maharashtra5, we are of the view that the accused-appellant is liable to compensate Smt. Rani (PW-1) and Sri Kalyan Singh (PW-2), mother and father of the deceased by paying a total compensation of Rs.50,000/- (Fifty Thousands). Accordingly, accused-appellant is directed to deposit Rs.50,000/- within a period of three months, after being released from jail before the trial court and, in turn, the trial court shall disburse the said amount to Smt. Rani (PW-1) and Sri Kalyan Singh (PW-2), mother and father of the deceased respectively. In case, the appellant fails to deposit the said compensation amount within the stipulated time, the court below shall proceed against him in the light of judgment of the Apex Court reported in Kumaran vs. State of Kerala and another, (2017) 7 SCC 471.

30. The appeal is partly allowed.

31. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the concerned trial Court forthwith for compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J. & Hon'ble Rajeev Misra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Raj Kumar Sharma, Advocate for petitioner and Sri Udit Chandra, learned A.G.A. as well as Sri R.P.S. Chauhan, Advocate for respondents.

2. Petitioner has assailed constitutional validity of Section 197(1) of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "Cr.P.C.") as violative of Articles 14 and 16 of Constitution of India to the extent those public servants are excluded who are not removable by State Government. It has also sought a mandamus commanding Respondents-1 and 2 to amend Section 197(1) so as to include petitioner as well as those public servants who are not removable by State Government or Central Government. Petitioner has further sought a writ of certiorari to quash entire criminal proceedings in Criminal Case No. 5375 of 2005 as also order dated 10.12.2015 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghazipur taking cognizance upon charge sheet No. 41A/14 dated 30.08.2014, arising out of Case Crime No. 244 of 2014, under Sections 323, 504, 325, 302 IPC, Police Station Kotwali Ghazipur, District Ghazipur. Petitioner has also sought a writ of mandamus commanding respondents to obtain sanction from appropriate authority before prosecuting petitioner.

3. Facts, in brief, giving rise to present writ petition are that petitioner was appointed as Deputy Jailer in 2001 and initially posted at District Jail, Pratapgarh wherefrom he was transferred to different District Jails and in 2014 posted at District Jail Ghazipur. On 14.02.2014 petitioner was discharging his duties as Deputy Jailer as also Jailer Incharge of District Jail, Ghazipur since the post of Jailer was vacant and Jail Superintendent was on leave. On the said day petitioner alongwith other Jail Officials made search operations to find out use of illegal means for communication, i.e., Mobile Phones etc., when some inmates resisted and even attacked petitioner and his colleagues in planned manner so as to escape from Jail. They also started pelting stones forcing petitioner and his team to return to barracks. Aforesaid inmates while causing violence on petitioner and his team also caused destruction of Government property in order to break main gate of Jail. In respect of above destruction of public property and violence caused by some prisoners, petitioner lodged First Information Report (hereinafter referred to as "FIR") dated 14.02.2014 as Case Crime No. 243 of 2014 for the offences under Sections 353, 332, 147, 148, 149, 307, 336, 436, 436, 427 IPC at Police Station Kotwali Ghazipur. The violence also caused injury to petitioner and his colleagues. Petitioner sustained injury in his left hand leading to fracture of second metacarpal bone of left index finger, besides other injuries. The miscreants in Jail also attacked jail vehicles parked in jail campus. The said incident caused death of one, Vishwanath Prajapati, a prisoner, due to gun shot injury, he sustained on his left thigh, and later succumbed due to excessive bleeding.

4. Prisoners in Jail also lodged FIR against petitioner and five other Jail Warders, registered as Case Crime No. 244 of 2014, under Sections 147, 323, 504, 307 IPC, Police Station Kotwali Ghazipur, District Ghazipur. During investigation, Sections 148, 149, 109, 120B IPC were added and Section 307 IPC was converted into Section 302 IPC.

5. Petitioner also moved a Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 10730 of 2014, which was allowed by this Court on 17.04.2014.

6. Police after making investigation submitted charge sheet No. 41A/14 dated 30.08.2014 and another charge sheet No. 41/14 dated 11.05.2014 in Case Crime No. 244 of 2014. Charge sheet No. 41/14 was filed against 11 prisoners and charge sheet No. 41A/14 was filed against petitioner and other jail officials.

7. Respondent-5 before filing charge sheet against petitioner opined that sanction from Government under Section 197 Cr.P.C. be obtained whereupon Respondent-4, i.e., Inspector General, Prison Administration and Reforms, U.P., Lucknow opined, vide letter dated 26.08.2014, that petitioner is a "Deputy Jailer" and for his removal sanction of State Government is not required, therefore, he is not a public servant, who is within the ambit of Section 197(1) Cr.P.C., hence no sanction under Section 197 is admissible.

8. Learned counsel for petitioner contended that making Section 197 Cr.P.C. inapplicable to petitioner is arbitrary. Statutory duties of petitioner as Deputy Jailer are at par with that of Jailer and for this purpose he placed reliance on Paras 838 to 840 of U.P. Jail Manual, which read as under:

"838. Duties of Jailors or Deputy Jailors before arrival of Superintendent:-Pending the arrival of the Superintendent, the jailor or the deputy jailor shall act in accordance with the following instructions:

(1) He shall post sentries above the main gate to observe and report the movement of the prisoners and detail a parity of warders of duty around the main wall of the jail.

(2) If the sentries on the main gate roof report that the main gate is clear, he shall take the remainder of the guard inside the jail, and in the event of an outbreak proceed to the scene, and if the circumstances are such as a necessitate immediate action, he shall warn the prironers three times in a loud voice that if they do not atonce submit and peacefully disperse, they shall be fired upon. If the circumstances are such delay the warning need not be repeated. If upon being warned, the prisoners do not submit and disperse, and if there appear to be no other immediate means of quelling the disturbance, he shall order the guard to fire upon them. But the firing shall cease the moment the prisoners disperse or yield.

839. Superintendent to assume charge of operations.--The Superintendent shall on arrival assume charge of the operations.

840. Use of arms at outbreaks or attempted escape-The following rules have been made under clause (6), Section 59 of the Prisons Act, 1894 (Act IX of 1894), regulating the use of arms against any prisoners or body of prisoners in the case of an outbreak of attempt to escape:

(1) Any officer of the prison may use a sword, baynot, firearm or any other weapon against any prisoner escaping or attempting to escape; provided that resort shall not be had to the use of any such weapon unless such officer has reasonable ground to believe that he cannot otherwise prevent the escape.

(2) Any officer of the prison may use a sword, baynot, firearm or any other weapon on any prisoner engaged in any combined outbreak or any attempt to force or break open the outer gate or enclosure wall of the prison, and may continue to use such weapon so long as such combined outbreak or attempt is being actually prosecuted.

(3) Any officer of the prison may use a sword, bayonet, firearm or any other weapon against any prisoner using violence to any offfice of the prisoner or other person; provided that the such officer of the prison or other person is in danger of life or limb, or that other grievous hurt is likely to be caused to him.

(4) Before using firearm against a prisoner under this paragraph, the officer of the prison shall, except where circumstances make such course impossible, give a warning to the prisoner that he is about to fire on him.

(5) No officer of the prison shall, when a superior officer is present, use any arms against a prisoner under this paragraph except under the orders of such superior officer."

9. It is contended that confining the scope of sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. only to such public servants who are not removable except by sanction of State Government and thereby creating two classes of public servants, i.e., those who are removable and those who are not so, is arbitrary creating an artificial discrimination, hence violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution o India. Reliance is placed by petitioner in this regard on State of Orissa through Kumar Raghvendra Singh and Ors. vs. Ganesh Chandra Jew, 2004(8) SCC 40; D.T. Virupakshappa vs. C. Subhash, 2015(12) SCC 231; R.S. Nayak vs. A.R. Antulay, AIR 1984 SC 684; Ram Krishna Dalmia vs. Shri Justice S.R. Tendolkar and Ors., 1959 SCR 279; The State of West Bengal vs. Anwar Ali Sarkar, 1952 SCR 284; and, Western M.P. Electric Power and Supply Company Ltd. vs. State of U.P. and Anr., 1969(3) SCR 865. He further submits that under Section 6 of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1947") there is no such classification in respect of public servants as has been carved out in Section 197 Cr.P.C. and this also shows that classification under Section 197 Cr.P.C. is artificial and illegal, has no rationale with object sought to be achieved.

10. On the contrary, learned A.G.A. submitted that petitioner is basically challenging entire proceedings on the ground of lack of sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. but this is in accordance with law since Section 197 Cr.P.C. is not attracted in the case of petitioner. Validity of Section 197 Cr.P.C. has already been upheld by Supreme Court and, therefore, it is not open to petitioner to re-agitate the same issue, hence writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

11. Learned counsel for petitioner submitted that validity of Section 197 Cr.P.C. is upheld when it was challenged on the classification of treating public servants as one class vis-a-vis other common offenders but he submits that it has never been examined that Section 197 Cr.P.C. is creating two classes of public servants, i.e., those who are removable with sanction of State Government and those who are not so and this classification made is illogical and arbitrary, hence this Court can examine validity of Section 197 Cr.P.C. in the light of aforesaid ground.

12. The submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner, in fact, raise following issues:

(i) Whether exclusion of petitioner or alike public servants is a reasonable classification founded on an intelligible differentia which distinguishes the public servants that are grouped together on the basis of "removable by State Government" from the others left-out of the group, "who are not removable by State Government".

(ii) Whether the above differentia/classification created by law has a rational relation to the object of Section 197 Cr.P.C. (safeguard from unnecessary harassment of public servant).

(iii) Whether petitioner be treated equally to those public servants, who avail protection under Section 197(1) Cr.P.C. and does he stand in equal circumstance to those public servants, who avail protection under Section 197(1) Cr.P.C.

13. Though we have noted the submission by framing three issues but we find that all the issues are interconnected and can be examined collectively.

14. Since entire controversy is centered around Section 197 Cr.P.C., it would be appropriate to reproduce the same as under:

*"197. Prosecution of Judges and public servants.-(1) When any person who is or was a Judge or Magistrate or a public servant not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government is accused of any offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, no Court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction-

*(a) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of the Union, of the Central Government;

*(b) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of a State, of the State Government:

Provided that where the alleged offence was committed by a person referred to in clause (b) during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of Article 356 of the Constitution was in force in a State, clause (b) will apply as if for the expression" State Government" occurring therein, the expression" Central Government" were substituted.

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence alleged to have been committed by any member of the Armed Forces of the Union while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government.

(3) The State Government may, by notification, direct that the provisions of sub- section (2) shall apply to such class or category of the members of the Forces charged with the maintenance of public order as may be specified therein, wherever they may be serving, and thereupon the provisions of that sub- section will apply as if for the expression "Central Government" occurring therein, the expression "State Government" were substituted.

(3A) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub- section (3), no court shall take cognizance of any offence, alleged to have been committed by any member of the Forces charged with the maintenance of public order in a State while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of article 356 of the Constitution was in force therein, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government.

(3B) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Code or any other law, it is hereby declared that any sanction accorded by the State Government or any cognizance taken by a court upon such sanction, during the period commencing on the 20th day of August, 1991 and ending with the date immediately preceding the date on which the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1991 , receives the assent of the President, with respect to an offence alleged to have been committed during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of article 356 of the Constitution was in force in the State, shall be invalid and it shall be competent for the Central Government in such matter to accord sanction and for the court to take cognizance thereon.

(4) The Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, may determine the person by whom, the manner in which, and the offence or offences for which, the prosecution of such Judge, Magistrate or public servant is to be conducted, and may specify the Court before which the trial is to be held."

15. Section 197 Cr.P.C. has referred to two terms. One is the "public servant" and another "offence".

16. The term "offence" has been defined in Section 2(n) of Cr.P.C. and Section 40 IPC and both may be reproduced as under:

"(n) "Offence" means any act or omission made punishable by any law for the time being in force and includes any act in respect of which a complaint may be made under Section 20 of the Cattle-trespass Act, 1891 (1 of 1871)."

"40. "Offence"-Except in the Chapters and Sections mentioned in clauses 2 and 3 of this Section, the word "offence" denotes a thing made punishable by this Code.

In Chapter IV, Chapter V-A and in the following sections, namely, Sections 64, 65, 66, 67, 71, 109, 110, 112, 114, 115, 116, 117, 187, 194, 195, 203, 211, 213, 214, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 347, 348, 388, 389 and 445, the word "offence" denotes a thing punishable under this Code, or under any special or local law as hereinafter defined.

And in Sections 141, 176, 177, 201, 202, 212, 216 and 441, the word "offence" has the same meaning when the thing punishable under the special or local law is punishable under such law with imprisonment for a term of six months or upwards, whether with or without fine."

17. Term "public servant" has not been defined in Cr.P.C. but is defined in Section 21 IPC. We may refer the definition of "public servant" at a later stage whenever it is necessary.

18. At this stage suffice it to mention that learned counsel for parties have admitted that Rules governing recruitment and conditions of service of "Deputy Jailer" have been framed under proviso to Article 309 of Constitution are U.P. Jail Executive Subordinate (Non Gazetted) Service Rules, 1980 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1980"). Under the Rules, initially framed in 1980, as per Rule 3(a), "appointing authority" means Inspector General of Prisons, Uttar Pradesh. Said Rules, 1980 have been amended by U.P. Jail Executive Subordinate (Non Gazetted) Service (First Amendment) Rules, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2006") published in U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 22.06.2006 and thereby Rule 3(a) has been substituted and now "appointing authority" means Director General of Prison Administration and Reforms Services, U.P.

19. Rules, 1980 has further been amended by U.P. Prison Administration and Reforms Executive Subordinate (Non-Gazetted) Service (Second Amendment) Rules, 2014 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2014") published in U.P. Gazette (Extraordinary) dated 27.06.2014 and thereby cause title of Rules has been changed. Earlier Rules comprised of only Group C posts and now includes Group B posts also, but the same remained to be in the status of Non-Gazetted Subordinate Services.

20. Since in the present case, incident is of 2014, learned counsel for parties admitted that petitioner, a Deputy Jailer, can be appointed by Director General of Prison Administration and Reforms Services, U.P. and also can be removed by him and sanction of State Government is not required.

21. Now we proceed to consider applicability of Section 197 Cr.P.C. providing sanction of criminal prosecution and the purpose and objective of aforesaid provision.

22. Section 197 Cr.P.C. was also available in Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898. It came up for consideration before Bombay High Court in Hanumant Shrinivas Kulkarni Versus Emperor, (31) 1930 Crl.L.J. 353. Court observed that object of sanction is to guard against vexatious proceedings against public servants and to secure the well considered opinion of a superior authority before their prosecution.

23. In E Versus G. Sadagopan, 1953 Crl.L.J.1929 Madras High Court said that the object of sanction is nothing more than to ensure the discouragement of frivolous, doubtful and impolite prosecution.

24. In Indu Bhushan Chatterjee Versus State, AIR 1955 Cal.430 Calcutta High Court said that provision for sanction is a most salutary safeguard. The sanctioning authority is placed somewhat in the position of a sentinel at the door of Criminal Courts in order that no irresponsible or malicious prosecution can pass the portals of the Court of Justice.

25. In Gurbachan Singh Versus State, AIR 1970 Delhi 102 Delhi Bench of Punjab High Court said that intention of legislature in providing for a sanction in respect of offences covered by Section 6 of Act, 1947 is merely to afford a reasonable protection to public servants in discharge of their official functions. It is not the object of section that a public servant who is guilty of the particular offence mentioned in that section should escape the consequences of his criminal act by raising the technical plea of invalidity of sanction. The sanction is a safeguard for innocent and is not a shield for guilty.

26. In R. Bala Krishna Pillai Vs. State of Kerala, (1996) 1 SCC 478 Supreme Court while referring to the Law Commission's 41st Report with respect to Section 197 quoted the following observations of Law Commission:

"The protection afforded by the section would be rendered illusory if it were open to a private person harbouring a grievance to wait until the public servant ceased to hold his official position, and then to lodge a complaint. The ultimate justification for the protection conferred by section 197 is the public interest in seeking that official acts do not lead to needless or vexatious prosecutions." (emphasis added)

27. In P.V. Narsimha Rao Versus The State, AIR 1998 SC 2120 Supreme Court said:

"The requirement of sanction under Section 19(1) is intended as a safeguard against criminal prosecution of a public servant on the basis of malicious or frivolous alleging by interested persons. The object underlying the said requirement is not to condone the commission of an offence by a public servant." (emphasis added)

28. In Gauri Shankar Prasad Vs. State of Bihar, 2000 SCC (Cri) 872 Supre Court held:

"The object of the section is to save officials from vexatious proceedings against Judges, magistrates and public servants but it is no part of the policy to set an official above the common law. If he commits an offence not connected with his official duty he has no privilege. But if one of his official acts is alleged to be an offence, the State will not allow him to be prosecuted without its sanction. Section 197 embodies one of the exceptions to the general rules laid down in Section 190 Cr.P.C., that any offence may be taken cognizance of by the Magistrates enumerated therein. Before this section can be invoked in the case of a public servant two conditions must be satisfied i.e.(1) that the accused was a public servant who was removable from his office only with the sanction of the State Government or the Central Government; and (2) he must be accused of an offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty." (Emphasis added)

29. In State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. M.P. Gupta, 2004(2) SCC 349 it was said:

"The protection given under Section 197 is to protect responsible public servants against the institution of possible vexatious criminal proceedings for offence alleged to have been committed by them while they are acting or purporting to act as public servants. The policy of the legislature is to afford adequate protection to public servants to ensure that they are not prosecuted for anything done by them in the discharge of their official duties without reasonable cause, and if sanction is granted, to confer on the Government, if they choose to exercise it, complete control of the prosecution." (Emphasis added)

30. In State of Orissa and others Vs. Ganesh Chandra Jew, AIR 2004 SC 2179 it was held:

"The protection given under Section 197 is to protect responsible public servants against the institution of possibly vexatious criminal proceedings for offences alleged to have been committed by them while they are acting or purporting to act as public servants. The policy of the legislature is to afford adequate protection to public servants to ensure that they are not prosecuted for anything done by them in the discharge of their official duties without reasonable cause, and if sanction is granted, to confer on the Government, if they choose to exercise it, complete control of the prosecution."

(Emphasis added)

31. Supreme Court has again reiterated in Rakesh Kumar Mishra Versus State of Bihar, JT 2006 (1) SC 1 as under:

"The protection given under Section 197 is to protect responsible public servants against the institution of possibly vexatious criminal proceedings...." (emphasis added)

32. The above authorities have also been followed in Devinder Singh and others vs. State of Punjab through CBI, (2016) 12 SCC 87.

33. The object of the legislature for making provision pertaining to sanction seems to be clear. Where a public servant is prosecuted for an offence, which challenges his honesty and integrity, the issue in such a case is not only between the prosecutor and the offender but the State is also vitally concerned in it as it affects the morale of the public servants and also the administrative interests of the State. For these reasons, the discretion to prosecute appears to be taken away from the prosecuting agency and is vested in departmental authorities, i.e., the employer probably with the view that they may assess and weigh the accusation in a far more dispassionate and responsible manner. The ultimate justification is public interest. It, however, does not condone the commission of an offence by a public servant or to use it as shield to escape from legal proceedings on mere technicalities.

34. The observations of Supreme Court in State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. M.P. Gupta (supra); State of Orissa and others Vs. Ganesh Chandra Jew (supra); and, Rakesh Kumar Mishra Versus State of Bihar (supra) clearly shows that protection provided in Section 197 is for "responsible public servants" who are mainly involved in superior duties including policy decision so that such superior officials may not be harassed in taking policy decision etc. This protection is not available to every public servant. When State itself has made a distinction based on degree of responsibility, nature of duties, nature of functions etc., and that is why the public servants who are removal with sanction of Government and those who are not, are treated in a two different classes, it cannot be said that distinction is artificial and has no nexus to the object sought to be achieved. The very distinction in the category of two government servants, namely, those who are supposed to take responsible decisions and those who are not, shows that neither it is artificial nor irrational nor lack nexus to the object sought to be achieved.

35. Parity sought to be drawn by learned counsel for petitioner with reference to the provisions of Act, 1947 and Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1988") is misconceived since both statutes, i.e., Prevention of Corruption Act and Cr.P.C. have different ambit and scope.

36. Section 6 of Act, 1947 and Section 19 of Act, 1988 is much wider comparing to Section 197 Cr.P.C. The definition of "public servant" under Act, 1988 is wider than Section 6 of Act, 1947 and, therefore, scope of Section 6 of Act, 1947 and Section 19 of Act, 1988 is much different than Section 197 Cr.P.C. Section 197 Cr.P.C. is a part of procedural law since Cr.P.C. is procedural law while Act, 1947 and Act, 1988 is special enactment having its own independent procedural provisions.

37. Further while considering Section 6 of Act, 1947 and Section 197 Cr.P.C. Supreme Court in S.A. Venkataraman Versus State, 1958 SCR 1040 has observed that Section 6 of Act, 1947 must be considered with reference to the words used in the Section independent of any construction which may have been placed by the decisions on the words used in Section 197 Cr.P.C.

38. In this regard reference may be made to Supreme Court's decision in Dilawar Singh Versus Parvinder Singh @ Iqbal Singh & another, (2005) 12 SCC 709 wherein Court said:

"The Prevention of Corruption Act is a special statute and as the preamble shows this Act has been enacted to consolidate and amend the law relating to the prevention of corruption and for matters connected therewith. Here, the principle expressed in the maxim Generalia specialibus non derogant would apply which means that if a special provision has been made on a certain matter, that matter is excluded from the general provisions. (See Venkateshwar Rao V. Govt. of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 1966 Supreme Court 828, State of Bihar Vs. Yogendra Singh AIR 1982 Supreme Court 882 and Maharashtra State Board of Secondary Education V. Paritosh Bhupesh Kumar Sheth AIR 1984 Supreme Court 1543. Therefore, the provisions of Section 19 of the Act will have an overriding effect over the general provisions contained in Section 190 or 319 Cr.P.C. A Special Judge while trying an offence under the Provisions of Corruption Act, 1988, cannot summon another person and proceed against him in the purported exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. if no sanction has been granted by the appropriate authority for prosecution of such a person as the existence of a sanction is sine quo non for taking cognizance of the offence qua that person." (Emphasis added)

39. Therefore, the submission that Section 197 Cr.P.C. is discriminatory by excluding such public servants who are not removable with sanction of State Government, has no substance and has to be rejected.

40. Petitioner has further sought a writ of mandamus commanding respondents to amend Section 197 Cr.P.C. but I am afraid that such a mandamus cannot be issued since it is within the realm of policy and legislative in character, in respect whereto no mandamus can be issued. This aspect has been settled in

Union of India & ors Vs. Parul Debnath & ors JT 2009 (9) SC 134 wherein Court has held as under:

"....Court cannot direct the creation of posts since the same is prerogative of the executive or the legislative authorities and the Court could not arrogate to itself this purely executive or legislative function and direct creation of the posts in the organization. It was also observed that this Court has, time and again, pointed out that the creation of a post is an executive and legislative function as it involves economic factors". (emphasis added)

41. The same view has been reiterated in Maharastra State Road Transport Corporation & Anr Vs. Casteribe Rajya P. Karmchari Sanghatana JT 2009 (11) SC 609.

42. Next prayer that respondents be directed not to proceed unless sanction is granted by State Government also cannot be accepted for the reason that, whether sanction can be granted or not is within the authority of State Government. This Court can only examine whether sanction is necessary or not and if necessary, whether it has been granted before taking cognizance but no mandamus can be issued to competent authority to act in a particular manner.

43. In the entirety of facts and circumstances, we find no merit in the writ petition. Dismissed accordingly. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

Held, Comments or taunting of a person in respect of his 16 specialization of knowledge in a close door meeting i.e. during the course of interview cannot be said to be a publication of something which affects the reputation of any person and such observations or comments, in our view, will not attract Section 500 IPC. Sir, 1-My name is Subramanyam Sadrela and my appointment was made in the Aerospace Department, IIT Kanpur on 28th December, 2017. 2- Before this, the IIT Kanpur had advertised the special drive for recruitment related to SC/ST/OBC/PWD category faculties in all departments, and I had applied under the drive. I have done my post graduation and PhD from IIT Kanpur. 3-As a process of the recruitment by IIT Kanpur, I was called in October, 2017 to participate in a seminar at the Aerospace Engineering Department. During the seminar, Dr. Ishan Sharma, Chemical Engineering Department, made comment against me, and while leading a group, he kept making comments against me. Through statements, he declared me a person of low intelligence; I felt frightened and disgraced. Despite this, I tried my best to give replies to the questions, because I had knowledge and speciality on the subject, of which I had given my presentation at national and international level. 4-Despite attempt of Dr. Ishan Sharma to show me in poor light, the Department and the Institution had recommended my candidature. Thereafter, a committee of the external specialists conducted, in this respect, an examination on 26th January, 2017 and recommended for my appointment. After recommendation by Chairman of the Board, appointment letter was issued to me on 28th December, 2017. I took charge on 1st January, 2018. 5-On 04.01.2018, immediately after I joined the department, Sri Sanjay Mittal made sarcastic and derogatory remarks against me in a seminar that as the result of joining of new faculty, the standards of the department are not maintained properly. Thereafter on 09.01.2018 Dr. Sanjay Mittal sent an e-mail to all faculty members of the Department of Aerospace Engineering except me and Dr. Raghavendra, and he convened a meeting of faculty. 6- Maximum faculty members of the Department of Aerospace Engineering were present during the meeting where discussion in respect of my appointment held for more than three hours. During the meeting, it has been found that Dr. Sanjay Mittal, Dr. Chandrashekar and Dr. Dabopam Das, all the senior professors of the Department of Aerospace Engineering, tried to convenience the junior professors to the effect that my appointment is not suitable for this department and I am mentally ineligible also. 7- During it all, Dr. C.S. Upadhaya initiated a movement to wrongly present my educational certificates wherein it has been stated that I am not eligible to be appointed as Faculty. 8-Being vexed with these things, on 12.1.2018 I intimated my agony to the Director and Head of Department through an e-mail that I and my family have been subject to mental torture by this propaganda and this is all because I belong to the Scheduled Caste Community. 9-Taking cognizance of my application and on the advice of the Board of Governor (BOG), the Director constituted a committee (Fact Finding Committee) that was directed to bring out the following facts - (a) to establish discrimination and torture against "me i.e. Dr. Saidrala" (b) on finding it to be correct, identification of these persons and to establish steps taken by them. 10- Hardly had the abetted propaganda by Dr. Upadhyaya not stopped still when on 01.02.2018 Dr. Rajiv Shekar sent an e-mail to all the Senators wherein it was written that incident that occurred 10 years before has reoccurred which has completely jolted the educational foundation. He further wrote that curse has again effected. I would like to mention here that not only Professors of IIT Kanpur, but also those of other educational institutions attend Senators. Dr. Rajiv Shekhar has tried to drag all those in this propaganda. 11- I came to know about Dr. Rajeev Shekhar's aforesaid e-mail and due to this, my family and I became upset. On 1.2.2018, I requested permission to take this incident to National SC/ST Commission through a written-application addressing to the Director. 12- The committee (fact Finding Committee) submitted its report before the Director on 8.3.2018. In the enquiry, the committee found me right on my appointment and held Dr. Ishan, Dr. Sanjay Mittal, Dr. Rajeev Shekhar and Dr. Chandrashekhar Upadhyay guilty for my harassment committed by them. The committee also recommended for action under SC/ST Act. 13- Taking cognizance of the aforesaid incident, the National SC/ST Commission issued a notice to the Director on 13.03.2018 and recommended him individually to initiate a departmental enquiry against those four professors in the meeting with the complainant and head of the department held in the commission on 10.4.2018 by taking cognizance of the gravity of the whole incident. 15-10.4.2018, hearing took place in chairmanship of hon'ble chairman of the commission Dr. Ram Shankar Katheria and on the same day, the commission passed its order which was handed over to the institution on 13.4. 2018. 16-Thereafter, the four faculty members namely Dr. Sanjay Mittal, Dr. Chandrashekhar Upadhyay, Dr. Ishan Sharma and Dr. Rajeev Shekhar approached Allahabad High Court and the Court passed stay order against the guidelines of the National Commission for Scheduled Castes. 17- Even after the stay order, it was allowed that the institution itself may get the enquiry conducted on these subjects. The charge to conduct enquiry was handed over to the Hon'ble Justice Siddiqui as an Enquiry Officer through order No. IITK/DC-125/LC-43 on 05 E. 2018. One respected faculty member (retired) was also appointed as an Assistant to Justice Shri Siddiqui. 18-On17.08.2018, Hon'ble Justice Shri Siddiqui submitted his enquiry report BOG as an enclosure. In the report, the following facts were mainly established. (A) The procedure of my appointment in IIT was found absolutely correct. (B) The four faculty members namely Dr. Sanjay Mittal, Dr. Chandrashekhar Upadhyay, Dr. Ishan Sharma and Dr. Rajeev Shekhar were found guilty of serious misconduct under Conduct Rule (Schedule-B) rule 3 (a) and (b) Under Status 13 (17) of IIT Status. (C) The four faculty members namely Dr. Sanjay Mittal, Dr. Chandrashekhar Upadhyay, Dr. Ishan Sharma and Dr. Rajeev Shekhar were found guilty to publicly mock at and harass the person related to the Scheduled Caste under Section 3 of A Act No.-33 of 1989. 19-It has been learnt from the B.O.G meeting held on 06.09.2018 that due to pressure from two faculty representatives namely Dr. Devopam Das and Dr. M.L.N Rao, only CCS violation has been accepted while offence under Sec. 3 of A Act No. 33 of 1989 " Prevention of atrocities Act" has been rejected. 20- In the meantime, Dr. Sadrela, De. A.K. Ghosh, IIT Kanpur Director were summoned by National Scheduled Caste Commission on 10.9.2018 in context of report by Hon'ble Justice Siddhiqui At their New Delhi Office. In the meeting held there, serious resentment was expressed on the decision taken in B.O.G.(IITK) as well as on the negation of offence made under Sec. 3 of A Act No. 33 of 1989 "Prevention of Atrocities Act" and commission again passed the directions. 21-All four accused persons again got these directions stayed on 26.09.2018 vide Writ Petition 32585/2018. 22-Prior to the meeting of the members of BOG, in order to influence the BOG, one mail dt:15.10.2018, by some unknown person, through the e-mail ID - studentiitk@gmail.com was sent to the members in a large numbers, to show that I (Dr. Sadrela) completed my Ph.D by copying others. Further, it has also been claimed in the said e-mail that this degree of mine (Dr. Sadrela) of PhD should be withdrawn (and which will cause me loose my job). This mail ID is now not functional. It shows that this e-mail was created only in order to humiliate me. It has all been done in order to establish that I belong to the scheduled caste and that my mental level is not adequate enough to teach in I.I.T. It has hurt my self-respect and caused damage to my position in society, and I had to go through excessive mental depression. I doubt that this e-mail has been sent/spread by some unknown person under the direction of those four faculty members and in order to protect them, who were found guilty by Hon'ble Justice Mr. Siddiqui u/s 3 Act-33 of 1989 'Prevention of Atrocities Act'. I have a copy of that anonymous mail, a copy of the inquiry report by Hon'ble Justice Siddiqui and the information after the e-mail account studentiitka@gmail.com (?) and all other facts. I will provide all the relevant facts to the inquiry officer during the inquiry.

You are hereby requested that a case be lodged against the concerned persons on the basis of the e-mail containing false information, and necessary action be taken up."

(English Translation by Court)

5. A perusal of aforesaid report shows that Informant Dr. Subramanyam Sadrela stated that a Special Recruitment Drive was conducted in the Aerospace Department of IIT Kanpur for making recruitment of SC/ST, OBC and other reserved category candidates. Informant had completed his Post Graduation and Ph.D., from IIT, Kanpur itself. He applied for appointment in Aerospace Department. He was called in October, 2017 for interview. During interview, Dr.Ishan Sharma, Mechanical Engineering Department, IIT Kanpur led group and made comments and taunts upon Informant stating that he is a person of low IQ. Informant fell frightened and dishonored, still made attempt to reply the questions put to him by Dr.Ishan Sharma since he had good knowledge of subject as he had represented at National and International Forum. Despite Dr. Ishan Sharma's comment, Department/Institution recommended Informant's candidature for appointment. On 26.12.2017, an Outside Expert examined Informant and recommended his appointment. Consequently, Chairman of Board approved candidature of Informant and letter of appointment was issued to him on 28.12.2017. Informant joined on 01.01.2018. Thereafter, in a meeting, Dr. Sanjay Mittal made comments in a taunting manner and ridiculed Informant stating that due to engagement of new faculty member, Department's standards have gone down. On 09.01.2018, Dr. Sanjay Mittal sent an E-mail to all faculty members in Aerospace Engineering Department except Informant and Dr. Raghvendra and called a meeting on 10.01.2018. In the said meeting, matter of appointment of Informant was discussed for about three hours and Dr. Sanjay Mittal, Dr. Chandra Shekhar Upadhyay and Dr.Dabopam Das all tried to explain to Junior Professors that appointment of Informant in the Department of Aerospace was not justified and he was not suitable. Dr. Chandra Shekhar Upadhyay also presented Informant's testimonials in a wrongful manner and tried to explain that he was not suitable for appointment as Faculty Member. Informant got disturbed and expressed his predicament and embarrassment to Head of the Department through an E-mail and said that he and his family has suffered mental exploitation due to malicious conversation and it is all since Informant belongs to Scheduled Caste community.

6. Taking note of the complaint, on the advice of Board of Governors, a Fact Finding Committee was constituted which was entrusted to find out alleged discrimination, and harassment of petitioner; and identification of guilty persons and also to find out misconduct, if any committed and if so, by whom.

7. On 01.02.2018, Dr. Rajeev Shekhar sent an E-mail stating that incident occurred 10 years back has happened again. Rumors and false conversation by Dr. Rajeev Shekhar caused mental disturbance to Informant and his family. Again, Informant sent a letter to Director and seeks permission to raise the matter in National Commission of Scheduled Castes (hereinafter referred to as "NCSC"). Fact Finding Committee submitted report on 08.03.2018 to Director and found appointment of Informant to be correct; that Dr. Ishan Sharma, Dr. Sanjay Mittal, Dr. Rajeev Shekhar and Dr. Chandra Shekhar Upadhyay, guilty to suppression of Informant, and recommended action against said persons under SC/ST Act. Taking note of said incident, NCSC also issued a notice on 13.03.2018 and summoned them in Commission on 10.04.2018. On the issue of Informant's exploitation, a meeting was held by Board of Directors on 19.03.2018 wherein Departmental enquiry was recommended against four erring Faculty Members.

8. NCSC heard the matter and passed an order against four Faculty Members who challenged the same before Court and obtained stay order.

9. A retired Judge was appointed as Enquiry Officer who submitted report dated 17.08.2018 holding appointment of Informant, correct and prima facie holding four Faculty Members of guilty of violating Rule 3(a) and (b) of Conduct Rules (Schedule-B) framed under the Statute 13(17) of IIT, Kanpur Statute and also committing offence under Section 3 of Act No.33 of 1989. However, in the Board of Governor's meeting, two Faculty Members impressed upon that four Faculty Members were guilty of violating Conduct Rules only and not offence under Act, 1989. In the meantime, an unknown person forwarded an E-mail wherein it was attempted to show that Informant has completed Doctorate by copying some others thesis and it should be withdrawn. It appears that said E-mail was forwarded just to belittle Informant and this shows that Informant being Members of Scheduled Castes, is not upto mark to be a Faculty Member of IIT, Kanpur. This all has caused serious damage to self-respect and social status of Informant and has caused serious mental torture to Informant.

10. Having given anxious thoughts, we find that basic grievance of Informant is that he has not been given a good treatment by petitioners. They have taunted, commented and ridiculed him time to time. He has not stated anywhere that whatever has been done by petitioners is after knowing it that he is a member of Scheduled Caste, to insult or intimidate or humiliate as such but what he has said that certain acts and omissions have been done by petitioners and according to Informant, same has been done as Informant is a member of Scheduled Caste.

11. In order to find out "whether offence under the provisions wherein FIR has been registered are made out or not", we first proceed to consider "whether offence under Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989 has been made out or not".

12. Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989 is reproduced as under:-

"3(2)(va) commits any offence specified in the Schedule, against a person or property, knowing that such person is a member of a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe or such property belongs to such member, shall be punishable with such punishment as specified under the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) for such offences and shall also be liable to fine."

13. The gravamen of Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989 is pre information and knowledge of accused that person being offended is a member of a Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes or property concern belongs to such member. Therefore, it is not sufficient that offended person is a member of scheduled castes or property belongs to a member is a scheduled castes but knowledge of offender that such person is a Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes is the basic ingredient to attract Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989.

14. In the entire complaint we have reproduced above, we do not find even a whisper that accused-petitioners were knowing that Informant/Complainant is a member of Scheduled Castes and with this knowledge, they committed offence specified in the Schedule.

15. Thus, the basic ingredient to attract Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989 is not present, hence, it cannot be said that aforesaid provision is attracted even if whatever stated in FIR is treated to be correct. We further required counsel for respondent-4 to show as to which offence mentioned in the Schedule of Act, 1989 has been committed by offenders i.e. accused-petitioners but despite repeated query, Sri T.P.Singh, learned Senior Counsel appearing for respondent-4 could not referred to any section of IPC mentioned in the Schedule of Act, 1989 which is said to have attracted in the case in hand. He said that it is Section 500 IPC which is attracted but we find that Section 500 IPC is not one of the provisions mentioned in Schedule of Act, 1989, therefore, Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989 is not at all attracted and it cannot be said that even if what is alleged in FIR is taken to be true, any offence under Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989 is made out.

16. Now, we come to Section 500 IPC. Section 500 IPC is an offence of "defamation" as defined in Section 499 IPC.

17. Section 499 IPC provides as to what is "defamation" and reads as under:-

"499. Defamation.--Whoever, by words either spoken or intended to be read, or by signs or by visible representations, makes or publishes any imputation concerning any person intending to harm, or knowing or having reason to believe that such imputation will harm, the reputation of such person, is said, except in the cases hereinafter expected, to defame that person."*
(Emphasis added)

18. There are four Explanations and ten Exceptions in Section 499 IPC which I have not quoted.

19. Explanations covers some shades of the words, spoken or intended to be read etc., which may amount to "defamation" while exceptions give the illustrations of what will not constitute "defamation". To be more particular, Explanations-1, 2 and 3 provide certain aspects which would amount to defamation and Explanation-4 explains the words "will harm the reputation of such person" which is a necessary and integral part of Section 499 IPC so as to constitute defamation. Offence of defamation, therefore, consists of three essential ingredients. (i) making or publishing an imputation concerning a person; (ii) such imputation must have been made by words either spoken or intended to be read or by signs or by visible representations; and, (iii) the said imputation must have been made with the intention of harming or with the knowledge or having reason to believe that it will harm the reputation of the person concerned.

20. Thus, to bring an offence under Section 500 IPC, prosecution has to show, (a) that an imputation was made consisting of words spoken or written or intended to be read or made by signs or by visible representations; (b) that the imputation concerned the complainant i.e. the person defamed and the person who has come forward qua complainant alleging that defamation concerned him, are identical persons; (c) that the accused made or published the incriminating imputation; and, (d) that the intention behind making and publishing words causing harm to the reputation of such person.

21. Offence punishable under Section 500 IPC, therefore, is to protect a fundamental right of a person i.e. 'reputation' which is part of right to enjoyment of life and liberty and property having an ancient origin as explained by Supreme Court in Smt. Kiran Bedi v. Committee of Inquiry and another 1989 (1) SCC 494 wherein Court reproduced the observations from D.F. Marion v. Davis 10 55 ALR 171 as under:-

"The right to enjoyment of a private reputation, unassailed by malicious slander is of ancient origin, and is necessary to human society. A good reputation is an element of personal security, and is protected by the Constitution equally with the right to the enjoyment of life, liberty and property. " (emphasis added)

22. In Board of Trustees of the Port of Bombay vs. Dilipkumar Raghavendranath Nadkarni and Others (1983) 1 SCC 124, Court said that "right to reputation" is a facet of right to life of a citizen under Article 21 of Constitution.

23. In Vishwanath S/o Sitaram Agrawal v. Sau. Sarla Vishwanath Agrawal 2012 (6) SCALE 190, Court dealt with the aspect of "reputation" though in a different context, and said:-

".....reputation which is not only the salt of life, but also the purest treasure and the most precious perfume of life. It is extremely delicate and a cherished value this side of the grave. It is a revenue generator for the present as well as for the posterity. " (emphasis added)

24. In Kishore Samrite Vs. State of U.P. and Others 2013 (2) SCC 398, Court said:-

"The term 'person' includes not only the physical body and members but also every bodily sense and personal attribute among which is the reputation a man has acquired. Reputation can also be defined to be good name, the credit, honour or character which is derived from a favourable public opinion or esteem, and character by report. The right to enjoyment of a good reputation is a valuable privilege of ancient origin and necessary to human society. 'Reputation' is an element of personal security and is protected by Constitution equally with the right to enjoyment of life, liberty and property. Although 'character' and 'reputation' are often used synonymously, but these terms are distinguishable. 'Character' is what a man is and 'reputation' is what he is supposed to be in what people say he is. 'Character' depends on attributes possessed and 'reputation' on attributes which others believe one to possess. The former signifies reality and the latter merely what is accepted to be reality at present. " (emphasis added)

25. Offence under Section 500 IPC, therefore, covers a very important aspect involving a person's right to life and liberty, hence when a complaint is made that a person's reputation has been jeopardized, and Magistrate, if has taken cognizance in the matter by initiating proceedings, Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or in writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of Constitution should not interfere lightly unless a clear case of abuse of process of law is made out. I, therefore, would examine the matter in question, whether a case of abuse of process has been made out or not.

26. Comments or taunting of a person in respect of his specialization of knowledge in a close door meeting i.e. during the course of interview cannot be said to be a publication of something which affects the reputation of any person and such observations or comments, in our view, will not attract Section 500 IPC. This situation, if accepted, may result in everyday complaints against the member of interview board or the persons performing judicial or quasi judicial functions whenever they make any observation with regard to understanding or knowledge of another person.

27. So far as publication of E-mail is concerned, complaint itself shows that it was sent by some unknown person and there is nothing to show that E-mail was sent by any of these petitioners and, therefore, for the said E-mail, Section 500 IPC cannot be attracted against petitioners.

28. Now, we come to Section 66-D of Amendment Act, 2008. Section 66-D inserted in Act, 2000 which came into force on 05.02.2009 i.e. the date on which it was published in the Official Gazette. Section 66-D of Amendment Act, 2008 reads as under:-

"66D Punishment for cheating bypersonationby using computer resource--- Whoever, by means of any communication device or computer resource cheats by personation, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine which may extend to one lakh rupees."

29. It applies where there is any cheating by personation but the entire contents of FIR make no allegation of cheating of Informant/Complainant by personation, therefore, Section 66-D of Amendment Act, 2008, ex facie has no application.

30. We may also place on record that Amendment Act, 2008 has been enforced with effect from 27.10.2009 by notification issued by Central Government under Section 1(2) of Amendment Act, 2008.

31. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for respondent-4 however, contended that in an internationally recognized temple of a professional education, the faculty members of higher caste have ill-treated and ridiculed colleague faculty member of outburst caste i.e. Scheduled Castes, hence, in such a matter, this Court should not interfere in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition under Article 226 and the matter should be left for trial.

32. We do not find that the above submission is correct for the reason that if no offence is made out, even if what is stated in the FIR is treated to be correct then no person can be allowed to unnecessarily suffer the trauma of criminal trial.

33. In view thereof, we are satisfied that no offence under the sections in which report has been registered are made out even if allegations stated in FIR are taken to be correct ex facie and that being so, criminal proceedings initiated against petitioners cannot be said to be justified.

34. In the result, writ petition is allowed. FIR dated 18.11.2018 registered as Case Crime No.1283 of 2018, under Sections 500 IPC, Section 66D of Amendment Act, 2008 and Section 3(2)(va) of Act, 1989, at Police Station Kalyanpur, District Kanpur Nagar and also subsequent proceedings thereto are hereby quashed.

List of cases cited:-

1. Amresh Tiwari vs. Lalta Prasad Dubey and others, reported in 2000 (2) J.I.C. 44 (SC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This petition, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has been filed by the petitioner, Nathoo Das, with a prayer for setting aside impugned order of the court of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Nichlaul, Maharajganj, dated 30.7.2018, passed in a proceeding, under Section 145 of Code of Criminal Procedure (Hereinafter, in short, referred to as Cr.P.C.) as well as, order, dated 09.01.2018 of learned Sessions Judge, Maharajganj, passed in Criminal Revision No.43 of 2019.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that the impugned order by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Nichlaul, District Maharajganj, was passed over an application, moved by Mutur Das, dropping proceeding, under Section 145 of Cr.P.C., whereas, there is every likelihood of breach of peace, but, proceeding, under Section 145 of Cr.P.C., has been dropped.

3. This order of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Nichlaul, Maharajganj, was challenged in a Criminal Revision before the Sessions Judge, Maharajganj, as Criminal Revision No.43 of 2019, and it was rejected vide order, dated 9.1.2020.

4. Both of the courts below have failed to appreciate facts and law placed before them. It was failure of observance of settled position of law. Hence, for invoking power of general superintendence, conferred upon the High Court, by Article 227 of the Constitution of India, over its subordinate court, this petition has been preferred by the petitioner, with above prayer.

5. Learned counsel for other side has vehemently opposed this petition with this contention that this proceeding was pending since 2004 and there was a judgment of revenue court, in a suit, filed by the applicant, for ownership and possession over disputed land and after its decision nothing remained there for likelihood of breach of peace. Hence this proceeding was dismissed by the learned Magistrate. Impugned order was challenged before the revisional court, where too, it was dismissed.

6. Section 145 of Cr.P.C. provides procedure where dispute concerning land or water is likely to cause breach of peace, which says that "whenever an Executive Magistrate is satisfied from a report of a Police Officer or upon other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any land or water or the boundaries thereof, within his local jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing, stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court in person or by pleader, on a specified date and time, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute".

7. Meaning thereby, the Executive Magistrate is to satisfy about existence of any likelihood of breach of peace. This satisfaction may be either on the report of the Police Station, concerned, or by otherwise, but, the condition precedent for exercising power, under this power, conferred by Section 145 of Cr.P.C., is the satisfaction of the Executive Magistrate, regarding existence of any likelihood of breach of peace and this was reported by the Station Officer of the Police Station, concerned, that there remained some dispute over agricultural land, detailed in the report, in between Mutur Ddas and Nathoo Das, wheresas, land is recorded in the revenue record, in the name of Mutur

Das and one other persons, who are in possession over the land in question. They have sown the crop and had harvested the same, but, Nathoo Das, applicant herein, had filed a case, regarding ownership, in the revenue court as well as in Civil court and he claimed possession over it, thereby, creating a likelihood of breach of peace. Upon this report, proceeding, under Section 145 of Cr.P.C., was initiated, wherein, opportunity to both sides was afforded and this proceeding was pending since 2004, and ultimately, the Magistrate opined that there is no likelihood of breach of peace, hence, proceeding was dropped.

8. A criminal revision, against this order, was filed, wherein, revisional court has directed for proceeding, in above proceeding, thenafter, proceeding was initiated, but, an application by Mutur Das was filed mentioning therein that the judgment of revenue court, in pending suit, is there and there is no likelihood of breach of peace. On the basis of it, Magistrate, passed impugned order, whereby, proceeding, under Section 145 of Cr.P.C., was dropped.

9. This order was challenged before the court of Sessions, i.e., revisional court, wherein, learned revisional Judge opined that even in Police report, it was specifically mentioned that Mutur Das and Shiv Mangal were entered in the revenue record as owners of the agricultural land, in question, and they have sown the crop and had harvested it. Meaning thereby, there is no likelihood of breach of peace, regarding possession over the immovable property at that point of time. It was Nathoo Das, applicant herein, who was claiming his right over the agricultural land in question and for which, he had filed suit in revenue court as well as in civil court, wherein, judgment of revenue court was passed.

10. As per law laid down by the Apex Court, in the case of Amresh Tiwari vs. Lalta Prasad Dubey and others, reported in 2000 (2) J.I.C. 44 (SC), if a civil suit is pending or proceeding for determination of right and possession, in between the parties, has been instituted and is pending, then, proceeding, under Section 145 of Cr.P.C., is not to be taken course.

11. In present case, since beginning, there was no likelihood of breach of peace or a dispute, regarding possession, because agricultural land, in question, was reported to be recorded in the name of Mutur Das and Shiv Mangal, who are in possession and since 2004 till 2018, there occurred no breach of peace at any point of time, rather, case in revenue court was decided by the court, concerned. Hence, both of the courts below have rightly and appropriately appreciated facts and law placed before them. There is no failure of justice, requiring any indulgence of this Court, in exercise of power of general superintendence by the High Court over its subordinate courts, conferred by Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

12. Accordingly, in view of what has been discussed above, this petition, under Article 227 of Constitution of India, being devoid of merits, fails and is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This petition, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has been filed with a prayer for setting aside impugned order dated 10.12.2019 of court of Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4, Aligarh, passed in Criminal Revision No. 375 of 2019 along with cognizance taking order dated 02.07.2019, passed by court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 4, Aligarh in Criminal Case No. 1034 of 2019, under Section 323, 504, 308 I.P.C., Police Station Akarabad, District Aligarh.

2. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned A.G.A. for State.

3. Learned counsel for petitioners argued that it was failure of appreciation of facts and law, placed before both the courts below. Initially a report of non-cognizable offence was filed under Sections 323, 504 I.P.C. Subsequently, without moving an application under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C., the same occurrence was registered for offence punishable under Sections 323, 504, 308 I.P.C., wherein investigation resulted submission of charge sheet, as above, but injuries were found to be simple in first medico legal report, followed by subsequent medico legal report as well as C.T. Scan, whereas a cross case on behalf of present petitioners are there against present opposite side. This cognizance was taken for offence punishable, as above, whereas no evidence for offence punishable under Section 308 I.P.C. was there. This cognizance taking order was challenged before court of revision, which was decided by revisional court, as above, wherein revision was dismissed. Hence, both the courts below failed to appreciate facts, placed on record. Hence, under power of General Superintendence of High Court over Subordinate Courts in Uttar Pradesh, this petition is with above prayer.

4. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the petition with this contention that injured was having injuries, written in medico legal report, and still he is under treatment for it.

5. From the very perusal of first information report, lodged on 22.05.2018, as non-cognizable offence information report, under Section 155 Cr.P.C., it is apparent that present petitioners were accused in it and they have been assigned role of giving assault to Noor Hassan on 11.05.2018 at about 1 P.M., under joint mens rea, with common intention. When Irfan tried to intervene. He too was badly beaten by them. He was under medical treatment. Meaning thereby, at that very time, it was written that accused persons have badly assaulted them, causing grievous hurt on 11.05.2018 and Irfan was under treatment in hospital till above date of 22.05.2018. Meaning thereby, for about 10 days, he was under treatment in the hospital, even then, this non-cognizable report was lodged, which shows the error apparent in registering of above case crime number. However, it is not to be commented by this Court, because subsequently this was cured by registering first information report for offence punishable under Sections 323, 504, 308 I.P.C. on the information of same day on 24.01.2019. The medico legal report of Irfan Khan, medically examined on 11.05.2018 at 4.30 P.M., was there, wherein injuries were (i) Lacerated wound 4cm x 1.5cm middle part of right and left M deep V type parietal region (ii) Lacerated wound 2.5cm x 0.5cm left side of occipital region 8.5cm far from lateral ear (iii) complaint of pain over back side (4) Traumatic swelling 3cm x 2cm just below left eyebrow (v) Lacerated wound 1.0 x 2cm front part of middle finger. Though, these injuries were opined to be simple, but it was a medical report of hospital, where he was under treatment i.e. J.N. Medical College Hospital, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, when general condition of patient was unstable with his condition, written in this report, and thereafter in his local examination, those lacerated wounds over forehead fronto parietal region were found, resulting unconsciousness and agitated, which was confirmed by CT scan and X-ray, thereafter, he was referred for Neurosurgeon. The other injuries too over occipital region and suspected to be grievous, for which C.T. Scan was referred. In C.T. Scan the large extra-axial hyper density with CT value of blood overlying the right fronto parietal lobe 8/0 extra-axial bleed (maximum thickness 1.6cm) with mass effect in the form of effacement of cortical sulei of B/L (R>L) Cerebral Hemisphere and midline shift of 8mm towards left was there. Meaning thereby, there was abnormality in above hemisphere and it was under above injury, for which C.T. Scan was referred. Hence seat, size and nature of injuries found in C.T. Scan was fully sufficient, for filing of charge sheet, for offence punishable under Section 308 I.P.C. Accordingly, charge sheet was filed and Magistrate has taken cognizance for these offences, on the basis of evidence in case diary, because of which, learned revisional court has dismissed revision and it was with full reason.

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Atul Dayal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Manish Tandon, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioners are defendants in Suit No.225 of 2007 and have assailed the judgement and order dated 10.12.2019 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No.14, Kanpur Nagar whereby he has allowed the SCC Revision No.37 of 2017 and decreed the Suit No.225 of 2007 of respondents (plaintiffs in the suit) against petitioners for eviction.

3. The facts of the case, in brief, are that respondents no.1 Smt. Bhagwan Dei (since deceased) and respondent no.2/1 Smt. Renu Gupta instituted Suit No.225 of 2007 (hereinafter referred as 'Suit') against petitioners praying for a decree of eviction from House No.5/167, Purana Kanpur Nagar Road, Kanpur Nagar (hereinafter referred to as 'suit property'), and for recovery of arrears of rent and damages. The case of the respondents in the plaint was that the maternal uncle of respondent no.1 was the owner of the suit property. After his death, his sister Smt. Rani Devi and respondent no.1 became joint owner of the suit property. Smt. Rani Devi died on 20.06.2005 and after her death, her share devolved upon respondent no.2/1. One Shiv Mangal Gupta was the tenant of one room facing Ganga river @ Rs. 5/- per month and two rooms facing roadside @ Rs. 100/- per month. It was further pleaded that Shiv Mangal Gupta tried to encroach upon the land appurtenant to the suit property which led to the institution of another Suit No.610 of 1999 by respondents against Shiv Mangal Gupta in which temporary injunction was granted.

4. In the said suit, Shiv Mangal Gupta filed written statement admitting the tenancy of one room towards river Ganga but denied the tenancy of two rooms towards the roadside. Shiv Mangal Gupta died on 16.02.2007. After his death, Petitioners being legal heirs of Late Shiv Mangal Gupta became the tenant of the suit property. It was further stated that neither Shiv Mangal Gupta nor his heirs paid rent of the suit property. Consequently, a notice dated 12.06.2007 was sent to the petitioners terminating the tenancy which returned unserved on 21.06.2007 with the endorsement 'not claimed'. It is further averred that the tenancy of the petitioners came to an end on expiry of 30 days from 21.07.2007; the petitioners are in unauthorized occupation of the suit property since 22.07.2007. Since the major portion of the rent had become time-barred, therefore, respondents prayed for a decree of rent of three years before the institution of the suit beside the decree for eviction.

5. The suit was contested by all the petitioners by filing two written statements, one by petitioner nos.2, 3 and 5 jointly and the other by petitioner nos.1 & 4.

6. The petitioner no. 2, 3 & 5 averred in their written statement that Late Shiv Mangal Gupta was the tenant of one room of the suit property since last 40-45 years. They further pleaded that suit property has been acquired by Kanpur Development Authority (hereinafter referred to as 'K.D.A.') for construction of Ganga road, therefore, the respondents had no title or interest in the suit property and on the acquisition of the suit property, relationship of tenant and landlord between the parties came to an end due to which no rent was paid to the respondents. It was further stated in the written statement that the two rooms have been constructed by the petitioners and they are the owner of the two rooms. It was further stated that respondents have instituted another Original Suit No.814 of 2000 against K. D.A., which is pending in the court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kanpur Nagar, seeking a decree of declaration in respect of the suit property.

7. The stand of petitioner nos.1 & 4 in the written statement was similar to the stand taken by the petitioner nos.2, 3 & 5 in their written statement. The petitioner nos.1 & 4 also admitted the tenancy of the suit property in their written statement.

8. The trial court framed four issues based on pleadings between the parties. The issue no.1 was concerning the relationship of landlord and tenant between respondents and petitioners. Issue no.2 was in respect of default in payment of rent by the petitioners. Issue no.3 was as to whether tenancy of the petitioners has been terminated by a valid notice, and the issue no.4 was in respect of relief which the respondents are entitled to.
