11. After recording of the prosecution evidence, the incriminating evidence were put to the accused-appellant for confronting with the same under Section 313 Cr.PC. In their statement recorded U/s 313 Cr.P.C. the accused appellant denied his involvement in the commissioning of the offence under Sections 302 and 504 I.P.C. Accused appellant Sultan has specifically stated before the trial court that he has been falsely implicated in this case. He has further stated that the statement of the informant-P.W.-1 is false. Since P.W.-2 to P.W.-3, are the family members of the deceased and due to rivalry, they have given false statements against the accused-appellant. He has further stated that since P.W.-3 to P.W.-7 are government employees, therefore, they have given false statements against the accused-appellant. Though it has been stated before the court that evidence shall be produced in support of the plea of the defence that the accused-appellant has been falsely implicated, but no such evidence has been produced before the conclusion of trial. No witness has been adduced from the defence.

12. The trial court after relying upon the evidence adduced by the prosecution and recording its finding, has come to the conclusion under the impugned judgment of conviction that the prosecution has been able to fully prove that the accused-appellant committed the murder of Jamil on the roof of Iliyash. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, the trial court has held that the accused-appellant is guilty of offence punishable under Sections 302 I.P.C. and 504 I.P.C. for the murder of the deceased, namely, Jamil. As such, the trial court convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant for the aforesaid offences. The trial court has also held the accused-appellant guilty of the offence punishable under Section 25 of the Arms Act. It is against this judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court that the present jail appeal has been filed on the ground that conviction is against the weight of evidence on record and against the law and the sentence awarded to the accused-appellant is too severe.

13. Assailing the impugned judgment and order of conviction, Ms. Archana Singh, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the accused-appellant submits that the entire prosecution version is based upon the statement of P.W.-5. Since P.W.-5 in her examination has stated that she is resident of Police Station and District Baghpat, whereas P.W.-1 who happens to be the real brother of P.W.-5 has stated in his examination that P.W.-5 is resident of District-Ghaziabad, therefore, the recognition of P.W.-5 is doubtful. Further Ms. Singh submits that Nasiruddin, who is an independent eye witness of the incident and could narrate the incident correctly, has not been adduced by the prosecution nor any explanation in that regard has been given by the prosecution. Next submission is that only interested witnesses i.e. P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and P.W.-5, who are real brothers and sister of the deceased have been adduced by the prosecution and no independent witness has been adduced, such evidence of prosecution has no value under the Evidence Act. Argument is that though the Investigating Officer (P.W.-6) has prepared the site plan, but the trial court has not examined the same correctly so as to reach a just conclusion. Further argument is that nobody was present at the place of incident, meaning thereby that neither P.W.-2 nor P.W.5 saw the incident with their own eyes. It is also urged that since the deceased was a person with bad character, as is evident from the cross-examination of P.W.-1,P.W.2 and P.W.-5, therefore, it is possible that his murder was committed by someone else. There is no single iota of evidence available on record to prove the motive of the case.

On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned counsel appearing for the accused-appellant submits that the impugned judgment and order of conviction cannot legally be sustained and is liable to be quashed.

14. On the other-hand, Mrs. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State, supporting the judgment and order of conviction, submits that the first information report has been lodged promptly naming the accused person; there is clinching evidence to support the prosecution's case; the incident in which the deceased Jamil is alleged to have been murdered by the accused-appellant, occurred at 09:30 a.m. i.e. in broad day light; there are two eye witnesses of the alleged incident; the places of occurrence has not been disputed by the defence; and the accused-appellant has strong motive and the same has also been explained by the evidence of prosecution. Therefore, the prosecution has proved the charge levelled against the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt.

15. To bolster the aforesaid submissions, learned A.G.A. has invited the attention of the Court to the latest judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Mekala Sivaiah vs. State of Andhara Pradesh reported in 2022 SCC Online SC 887, whereby the Apex Court in paragraph nos.25 and 26 has held as follows:

"25. The facts and evidence in present case has been squarely abefornalyzed by both Trial Court as well the High Court and the same can be summarized as follows:

i. The prosecution has discharged its duties in proving the guilt of the appellant for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. beyond reasonable doubt.

ii. When there is ample ocular evidence corroborated by medical evidence, mere non-recovery of weapon from the appellant would not materially affect the case of the prosecution.

iii. If the testimony of an eye witness is otherwise found trustworthy and reliable, the same cannot be disbelieved and rejected merely because certain insignificant, normal or natural contradictions have appeared into his testimony.

iv. The deceased has been attacked by the appellant in broad daylight and there is direct evidence available to prove the same and the motive behind the attack is also apparent considering there was previous enmity between the appellant and PW-1.

26. Having considered the aforesaid facts of the present case in juxtaposition with the judgments referred to above and upon appreciation of evidence of the eyewitnesses and other material adduced by the prosecution, the Trial Court as well as the High Court were right in convicting the appellant for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. Therefore, we do not find any ground wa*rranting interference with the findings of the Trial Court and the High Court."*

On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid submissions, learned A.G.A. submits that as this is a case of direct evidence, the impugned judgment and order of conviction does not suffer from any illegally and infirmity so as to warrant any interference by this Court. As such the present jail appeal filed by the accused appellants who committed heinous crime by murdering the deceased Jamil, is liable to be dismissed.

16. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have examined the original records of the court below as well as the impugned judgment and order of conviction challenged before us.

17. The only question which is required to be addressed and determined in this jail appeal is whether the conclusion of guilt arrived at by the learned trial court and the sentence awarded is legal and sustainable under law and suffers from no infirmity and perversity.

18. Before entering into the merits of the case set up by the learned counsel for the appellant and the learned A.G.A. for the State qua impugned judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court referred to above, it is desirable for us to record statements of the prosecution witnesses in brief.

19. P.W.-1/Informant, namely, Aflatoon brother of the deceased has reiterated the same facts as have been narrated in the first information report and in the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In his examination he has stated that he did not see the incident, after hearing gunshots he reached the place of occurrence, where he saw that the deceased was lying dead on the roof. He has further stated that at the time of incident, P.W.-2 was standing on the ground below the roof of Iliyash and P.W.-5 was standing on the roof of her house. They saw the incident with their own eyes. He has also stated that the altercation which took place between the accused-appellant and the deceased at 09:00 a.m. on the same day was seen by him. It has also been stated that the name of the wife of the accused-appellant is Hasina. The accused-appellant has three children. The accused-appellant got divorced from his wife eight to nine months before the incident. There is no relationship with Hasina either of his family or himself nor is there any reconciliation between their family. He has also stated in his cross-examination that the Iliyash has two houses. Iliyash lives in another house and in the house of which roof the incident occurred, he keeps his buffaloes. The house of the accused is adjacent to the said house of Iliyash. The roof of Iliyash's house is below the roof of the accused's house but the roofs of porches of their houses are same in the height. In the cross-examination, P.W.-1 has stated that it is wrong to say that Jamil used to flirt with Ilyash's wife and because of that flirting, Iliyash got Jamil killed by unknown people.

20. P.W.-2 Vakil has stated that the deceased Jamil was his younger brother. Accused-appellant is his cousin brother (son of sister of his father). The accused appellant was having quarrel with his wife Haseena. There was no relation between the deceased Jamil and Haseena but the accused-appellant used to think that his wife Haseena had illegitimate relation with the deceased. On 21st October, 2007, the deceased got married and in the said marriage Rukhsana, brother in law's wife (sarhaj) of his brother Ali Sher had come.

The accused-appellant thought that she is his wife Haseena. On 02.11.07, the accused-appellant came to his house and asked his father to get his wife Haseena and in reply the father of P.W.-2 told him that when he has divorced his wife six to eight months ago, why would she come now. After that the accused-appellant went back to his house. On 03.11.07, the brother of P.W.-2, namely, Jamil was going to his house, then on the way the accused-appellant met him and asked the deceased to get his wife or else it will not be good. On the persuasion of the deceased, the accused-appellant went back. However, at 9:30 a.m. in the morning, when P.W.-2, the deceased and P.W.-5 were standing on the vacant land in front of their house the accused-appellant came on his terrace and told the deceased that as the deceased was son of his maternal uncle and he misbehaved with him, he asked the deceased to come on his terrace expressing remarks. Hearing this, the deceased went to the roof of accused-appellant. When the deceased was two steps away from accused-appellant, he took out the country made pistol (katta) while threatening. Seeing the pistol, the deceased tried to turn back and run away, then the accused-appellant shot the deceased which hit him in the back of the neck and he died on the spot. On hearing the sound of bullet, when he reached the terrace, and that he saw the accused-appellant running away after shooting him. The accused-appellant stepped out of his house and ran away. In the cross-examination, P.W.-2 has stated that about the incident, his statement has been recorded by the Investigating Officer. He has further stated that the accused-appellant thought that the deceased had illegitimate relations with his wife Haseena. P.W.-2 has also denied in his cross-examination that the deceased was murdered by unidentified persons because of his vagabondage and that the accused-appellant has been falsely implicated with the intention of grabbing money.

21. P.W.-3 who conducted the autopsy of the deceased, has stated that the injury No.2- found on the body of the deceased was gunshot wound of exit of size 2.5cm x 2cm on the back just medial to scapula upper inner border, margins everted. He has further stated that inquiry No.1 and No.2 are correspond to each other. Blood vessels of right side of the neck are found to be damaged at the incision of the wound. Further he has submitted that on internal examination, large vessels of blood were found mutilated on the right side of the neck of the dead body. The cause of death of the dead body is likely to be about (6) six hours before the time of post-mortem due to excessive trauma and bleeding. P.W.3 has proved the autopsy report which has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-3. Lastly, P.W.-3 has stated that the deceased was hit by the bullet from the front right side.

22. P.W.-4 Head Constable-90 Ompal Singh has stated that he has written the first information report and he has also proved the chik first information report before the court below.

23. P.W.-5 Hazara has stated in her examination that on the day of the incident, at around nine o'clock in the morning, the accused-appellant had called his brother i.e. deceased from his terrace and the deceased went to Iliyas's terrace and that she also went there with him. The accused-appellant had also come from his roof to the terrace of Iliyas. After coming there, the accused-appellant said the deceased that due to his behaviour he suffered a lot earlier but will not suffer more. After saying this, the accused-appellant took out a country made pistol and shot the deceased and that the deceased had died after being shot. He was shot in the lower part of his right neck and after shooting him, Sultan fled from the spot. P.W.-5 has further stated that she used to go to her maternal home mostly for a day or two as her children were in school. She has further stated that she and the deceased were present at home for almost an hour on the day of the incident. When the accused-appellant called her brother i.e. the deceased from the terrace, she did not stop him. She was two steps away from the deceased when he was shot. The accused-appellant shot the deceased from a distance of two steps. The deceased was standing with his hands folded when the bullet was fired. The accused-appellant had shot saying that earlier he (deceased) was saved and he will not leave him today. The deceased had fallen as soon as he was shot. P.W.-5 could not save him as she was behind while shooting. The deceased died after falling. The head of the deceased was towards the west and the feet were towards the east. The deceased was wearing a grey colored pant. P.W.-5 has also stated that her brother i.e. informant went to Baghpat on the day of the incident. She has also stated that her statement has been recorded by the Investigating Officer. P.W.-5 has again stated that the accused-appellant from a height of one yard, shot the deceased.

24. P.W.-6 Sub-Inspector Rajiv Kumar Kaushik, who has initially investigated the case, has stated that on an information of an informer, he along with other Police personnels and informant reached the Tube-well of one Mool Chand Sharma, where the accused-appellant was hiding and arrested him. P.W.-6 has further stated that one country-made pistol of 315 bore, one empty cartridge and two live cartridges of 315 bore have also been recovered from his possession. P.W.-6 has also prepared Arrest and Recovery memo which has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-11. He has further stated that the recovery memo of plain and blood stained soil collected from the spot by him has been prepared by him as Exhibit-Ka 12. P.W.-6 has also proved the site plan prepared by him. He has then stated that the roofs of the accused-appellant and the house Iliyas have been found to be adjoining.

25. P.W.-7 Sub-Inspector Kunwar Pal Singh who has investigated the case after P.W.-6, has proved the charge-sheet. P.W.-8 Sub-Inspector Kapil Kumar Bhardwaj, who has investigated the case under Section 25 Arms Act and submitted the charge-sheet before the court below and proved the same as P.W.8.

26. From the testimony of the aforesaid nine prosecution witnesses, it is apparently clear that there are two eye witnesses of murder of the deceased Jamil, namely, Vakil (P.W.-2) and Smt. Hazra (P.W.-5) and they have fully supported the prosecution version. It is no doubt true that they being brother and sister of informant and deceased, are interested witnesses but their consistent statements made under Section 161 Cr.P.C., in their examination-in-chief as well as in their cross-examination, cannot be discredited only on the ground that they are interested witnesses. The same is required to be read as a whole prosecution evidence i.e. autopsy report, police reports including recovery memo of arrest of the accused-appellant, country-made pistol of 315 bore, one empty cartridge and two live cartridges of 315 bore from his possession and the site plan of the spot etc.

27. For examining the correctness or otherwise of the judgment and order of conviction, the version of prosecution as well as defence and the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, it is necessary for us to refer certain case laws laid down by the Apex Court on the subject.

28. In the case of Kartik Malhar V State of Bihar reported in 1996 CRL. L.J. 889, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently, being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dalip Singh's case, AIR 1953 SC 364 in which this Court expressed its surprise over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses."

29. The Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Kishan Chand & Others reported in (2004) 7 SCC 629, has opined that just because the witnesses are related to the deceased would be no ground to discard their testimony, if otherwise, their testimony inspire confidence. (Reference-paragraph nos. 9 and 10 of the aforesaid judgment of the Apex Court).

30. The Apex Court in the case of State of Jammu and Kashmir vs. S. Mohan Singh & Others reported in (2006) 9 SCC 272, the Apex Court has observed that it is well settled that in a murder trial, merely because a witness is interested or inimical, his evidence cannot be broadly discarded unless the same is otherwise found to be not trustworthy. In the said case, the view of the Apex Court was that the evidence of these two witnesses is credible more so when witness Ram Lal received injuries. For ready reference, relevant paragraph of the said judgment reads as follows:

"Other two eyewitnesses are the informant Ram Lal and his brother Babu Ram. Ram Lal is father of deceased Yush Paul Singh whereas witness Babu Ram is uncle of deceased Yush Paul Singh. These two witnesses have supported the prosecution case disclosed in the first information report in all material particulars and consistently stated that respondent No. 1 caught hold of the deceased and respondent No. 2 inflicted injuries upon him with knife. We have been taken through the evidence of these two eyewitnesses in extenso. Their evidence is quite consistent, natural and both the witnesses have stood the test of lengthy cross-examination broadby the defence. Out of these two witnesses, Ram Lal was the informant and an injured witness as the doctor who examined him on the date of occurrence itself found that he received injuries by hurling of stone. Nothing could be pointed out on behalf of defence to show that the evidence of these two eyewitnesses is not credible, excepting this that they were interested witnesses. The High Court was not justified in disbelieving them on the sole ground that they were interested persons. It is well settled that in a murder trial, merely because a witness is interested or inimical, his evidence cannot be discarded unless the same is otherwise found to be not trustworthy. In the present case, we are of the view that the evidence of these two witnesses is credible more so when witness Ram Lal received injuries....."

31. Further in Namdeo V State of Maharashtra, reported in (2007) 14 SCC 150, the Apex Court held as under:-

"In the leading case of Shivaji Sahebrao vs. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793, this Court held that even where a case hangs on the evidence of a single eye witness it may be enough to sustain the conviction given sterling testimony of a competent, honest man although as a rule of prudence courts call for corroboration. "It is a platitude to say that witnesses have to be weighed and not counted since quality matters more than quantity in human affairs."In Anil Phukan Vs. State of Assam, (1993) 3 SCC 282 : JT 1993 (2) SC 290, the Court observed; "Indeed, conviction can be based on the testimony of a single eye witness and there is no rule of law or evidence which says to the contrary provided the sole witness passes the test of reliability. So long as the single eyewitness is a wholly reliable witness the courts have no difficulty in basing conviction on his testimony alone. However, where the single eye witness is not found to be a wholly reliable witness, in the sense that there are some circumstances which may show that he could have an interest in the prosecution, then the courts generally insist upon some independent corroboration of his testimony, in material particulars, before recording conviction. It is only when the courts find that the single eye witness is a wholly unreliable witness that his testimony is discarded in toto and no amount of corroboration can cure that defect."

32. In the case of Shyam Babu V State of UP reported in AIR 2012 SC 3311, The Apex Court has held as under:-

"Where the presence of the eye-witnesses is proved to be natural and their statements are nothing but truthful disclosure of actual facts leading to the occurrence, it will not be permissible for the Court to discard the statement of such related or friendly witnesses. There is no bar in law on examining family members or any other person as witnesses. In fact, in cases involving family members of both sides, it is a member of the family or a friend who comes to rescue the injured. If the statement of witnesses, who are relatives or known to the parties affected is credible, reliable, trustworthy and corroborated by other witnesses, there would hardly be any reason for the court to reject such evidence merely on the ground that the witness was a family member or an interested witness or a person known to the affected party or friend etc"

33. It has again been observed by the Apex Court in the case of Kuna @ Sanjaya Behera V State of Orrisa, reported in 2017 SCC Online Supreme Court 1336 that the conviction can be based on the testimony of single eye witness if he or she passes the test of reliability and that it is not the number of witnesses but the quality of evidence that is important.

34. From the above mentioned pronouncements of the Apex Court, it is apparently clear that the evidence of interested or inimical witnesses is to be scrutinised with care but can not be rejected merely on the ground of being a partisan evidence. If on a perusal of the evidence the Court is satisfied that the evidence is creditworthy there is no bar in relying on the said evidence. It is well settled that interested evidence is not necessarily unreliable evidence. All that is necessary is that the evidence of interested witnesses should be subjected to careful scrutiny and accepted with caution. Thus, the evidence cannot be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are related to each other or to the deceased. In case the evidence has a ring of truth to it, is cogent, credible and trustworthy, it can, and certainly should, be relied upon.

35. It is settled law that in case of direct evidence the motive would not be relevant and only in case of circumstantial evidence, motive assumes great significance. In a case in which the evidence is clear and unambiguous and the circumstances proved the guilt of the accused, the same would not get weakened even if the motive is not a very strong one. The motive loses all its importance in a case where direct evidence of eye witnesses is available.

36. In Suresh Chandra Bahri Vs. State of Bihar reported in 1995 Supp (1) SCC 80, the Apex Court has opined that a motive is something which prompts a person to form an opinion or intention to do certain illegal act or even a legal act but with proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the court that the accused was guilty of the offence charged with.

37. In the present case motive as well as direct evidence of two eye witnesses i.e. P.W.-2 and P.W.5 are available. From the records, it is apparent that before half an hour i.e. at about 09:00 a.m. on the date of incident, an altercation took place between the deceased Jamil and the accused-appellant in which the accused-appellant also abused Jamil on the ground that the accused-appellant suspected that his wife Haseena had love affair with the deceased and that is why she took divorce from him and the said relationship between his wife and the deceased was still continued. For the said reason the accused-appellant was angry with the deceased and wanted to take revenge from him. Therefore, it is clear that the accused-appellant had the motive to murder the deceased.

38. Before coming to the conclusion, it is necessary for us to deal with the submissions made by the learned Amicus Curiae, appearing for the accused-appellant and the learned A.G.A. for the State for litmus test. The first submission that the presence of P.W.-5 sister of deceased and informant is doubtful when as a matter of fact, the entire prosecution case is based on her statement, does not appeal to us. We may record that in the examination in chief as well as in the cross-examination, P.W.-5 has stated that she used to go to her maternal home mostly for a day or two days as her children were studying in school. The said submission has also been supported by P.W.-2. She has further stated that at the time of incident, informant was not present as he went to Baghpat and just after the incident, he reached the spot. The same version is also reiterated by P.W.-2. The other evidence also supports the presence of P.W.-5 at the time and place of incident.

39. The next submission made by the learned counsel for the appellant that one Nasiruddin who is an independent witness of incident, who could narrate the correct facts regarding incident, has not been adduced by the prosecution nor any explanation has given for the same by the prosecution, also does not appeal to us. If it is assumed as per the defence that that Nasiruddin is an independent witness of the incident but if he does not want to testify then he cannot be compelled to testify. Even if the defence believed that Nasiruddin was an independent witness who could give correct information about the incident, during the course of trial, the defence should have adduced him as defence witness but it failed to do the same.

40 The submission of the learned Amicus Curiae that since the P.W.-1, P.W.-2 and P.W.-5, who being real brothers and sister of the deceased, are interested witnesses, therefore, their testimony has no value, does not inspire confidence. It is no doubt true that the informant-P.W.-1 and eye witnesses i.e. P.W.-2 and P.W.-5 are real brothers and sister of the deceased but where the presence of the eye-witnesses is proved to be natural and their statements are nothing but truthful disclosure of actual facts leading to the occurrence, it will not be permissible for the Court to discard the statement of such related or friendly witnesses. There is no bar in law on examining family members or any other person as witnesses.

41. The next contention advanced by the learned Amicus Curiae that neither P.W.-2 nor P.W.5 was present at the time and place of occurrence counsel, does not impress us. From the prosecution evidence, the presence of P.W.-2 and P.W.5 has been proved.

42. The last submission made by the learned Amicus Curiae is that since the deceased was a vagabond person, therefore, it was quite possible that deceased was murdered by unidentified persons because of his vagabondage and that the accused-appellant has been falsely implicated with the intention of grabbing money, does not impress us. No evidence or material has been led by the defence to prove that the deceased was a vagabond person and as to why the accused-appellant has been falsely implicated.

43. From the aforesaid facts, which have been noted herein above, we find substance in the submissions made by the learned A.G.A. that this is a case of direct and clinching evidence like two eye witnesses of the incident, namely, P.W.-2 and P.W.-5.The medical evidence fully supports the prosecution evidence. The incident occurred in broad day light i.e. at 09:30 a.m. The first information report lodged by the informant is prompt, which was lodged within a hour of the incident i.e. 3rd November, 2007. The accused-appellant had also motive to commit such offence. The incident and the place of incident were not disputed by the defence side.

44. As already discussed above, we find that both the eye-witnesses i.e. P.W.-2 and P.W.5 have satisfactorily explained about their presence at the places of occurrence. They were subjected to lengthy cross-examination but nothing could be elicited to discredit their testimony. The police documents and statements of Investigating officer including arrest of accused-appellant and recovery of country-made pistol along with cartridges from his possession as well as medical evidence fully support the prosecution version.

45. Taking cumulative effect of the evidence, we are of the view that the trial court was fully justified in convicting the appellant. Accordingly, we confirm the order of trial court.

46. The appeal has no substance and the same is dismissed. The appellant is reported to be on bail. His bail bonds stand cancelled and he be taken into custody for serving the remaining sentence.

47. The dismissal of this criminal appeal however shall not prejudice the rights of the accused-appellant to apply for remission, which shall be dealt with in accordance with law on merits.

48. We record out appreciation for the able assistance rendered in the case by Ms. Archana Singh, learned Amicus Curiae, who would be entitled to her fee from the High Court Legal Service Authority.

49. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Baghpat, who shall transmit the same to the Jail Superintendent concerned for information of the accused-appellant henceforth.

A. Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 374(2)/383 - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 304-challenge to-conviction-circumstantial evidence-accused was last seen by PW-1, 2, 4, 5-only on the basis of last seen he was awarded life imprisonment-they were habitual drinker does not mean the chain is complete-the chain of events as per circumstances should point out the guilt of the accused alone-Conviction on the basis of last seen is a very weak piece of evidence-accused remained in custody for almost 10 years -hence, on the scanty evidence he is not required to confine anymore-The sentence is upturned.(Para 1 to 26)

B. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.(Para 19 to 21)

The appeal is partly allowed. (E-6)

1. This appeal has been preferred by the appellant- Sagar against the judgment and order dated 9.5.2013, passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Saharanpur, in Session Trial No.45 of 2012 (State vs. Sagar son of Rajendra) arising out of Case Crime No.347 of 2011 under Section 304 IPC, Police Station-Behat, District-Saharanpur, whereby the accused was convicted and awarded sentence under Section 304 IPC for life

2. The facts giving rise to this appeal are that on 9.9.2011 complainant- Shyam Singh has given a typed written-report (Ext. ka-03) at the police station stating that on the day of Rakshabandhan on 13.8.2011 at about 10:00 o'clock when his brother Vinod s/o Peerdiyaa alongwith Sagar had gone somwhere from the home, On the way, they were followed by Sumit. When his brother Vinod did not come back home, he searched for him at the relatives and other friends place. On not being found, information was given at the police station on 17.8.2011. On 25.8.2011 at 6:00 p.m. dead body of Vinod was recovered from the canal which is around 3 km from Baraut Police Chowki. On receiving information, the informant and others reached Baraut and identified the dead body of Vinod. His postmortem was conducted in Baghpat itself. Thereafter his funeral was conducted. The complainant was fully assure that Sagar had thrown the dead body in canal after committing murder due to enmity. Pappu s/o Rulha and Aman s/o Ridkaram of his village were the witnesses of the said incident. .

3. On the basis of this information, chik report was prepared by registering the C.C. No.347/11, u/s 302 IPC on 9.9.2011 at 21:40 o'clock by C/- clerk Shri Ram Kashyap wherein the time of incident has been recorded on 13.8.2011 at 11:00 a.m. The distance of the place of occurrence from the police station has been shown to be 5 Km. away. Entry of this report was made in report no.46 of the GD at the same time and on the same day. The investigation of the case was handed over to investigating officer R.S. Bhagor. The investigating officer on 9.9.2011 recorded copy of chik, copy of report complainant's statement and Sumit's statement. On 10.9.2011 the statement of the complainant was again recorded. Statements of witnesses namely Pappu and Aman were recorded as per Section 161 of Cr.P.C. Site plan and recovery memo of slippers of the deceased were prepared after inspection of the spot. On 15.9.2011, inquest report as well as other documents of the deceased was enclosed with the case diary. The Investigation Officer again recorded the statement of the complainant on 19.9.2011.

4. After completing the investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against accused appellant-Sagar, under Sections 304 IPC. The case being exclusively triable by court of session same was committed to the court of session for trial.

5. Learned trial court framed charges against appellant under Sections 304 IPC. Charges were read over to the accused, who denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

6. To bring home the charges, following witnesses were examined by the prosecution:

1.	Shyam Singh	PW1
2.	Aman Kumar	PW2
3.	Rajesh Kumar	PW3
4.	Sumit	PW4
5.	Pappu	PW5
6.	Dr. Ashok Kumar	PW6
7.	SI Rajbeer Singh	PW7
8.	Constable Shreeram Kashyap	PW8

7. Apart from oral evidence, following documentary evidence were produced by prosecution and proved by leading the evidence:

1.	Panchayatnama	Ex. Ka.1
2.	Fard	Ex. Ka.2
3.	Tahreer	Ex. Ka.3
4.	Postmortem report	Ex. Ka.4
5.	Site plan	Ex. Ka.5
6.	FIR	Ex. Ka.6
7.	Site plan	Ex. Ka.7
8.	Charge sheet	Ex. Ka.8

8. After recording of evidence the accused-appellant was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and evidence led by prosecution against him was put to him. Accused stated that false evidence has been led against him. Accused did not examine any witness in his defence.

9. We have heard Sri Anshul Nigam, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that appellant has been falsely implicated in this case. He is innocent. The custody certificate would show that the accused is in jail for more than 10 years. In the alternative it is submitted that if the accused is held guilty, he be given sentence of undergone namely twelve years,three months and ten days with remission and the fine be reduced.

11. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that appellant is named in FIR . The learned Court below has already shown mercy and has convicted the accused appellant under Section 304 IPC. The dead body was thrown in a canal is proved.

12. Before coming to the conclusion that the accused is the perpetrator, we have to evaluate the evidence on record if he hold him guilty of the commission of offence, whether sentence of life imprisonment and fine is adequate or the sentence requires to be modified in the facts and circumstances of this case and in the light of certain judicial pronouncements and precedents applicable in such matters.

13. The fact that the evidence which has been on record only shows that the accused was last seen with the deceased. However, except this the chain which the learned Judge has mentioned does not satisfy the test for punishing an accused where the matter hinges on circumstantial evidence. Conviction on the basis of last seen is a very weak piece of evidence. In our case the chain which is set to be pointing the finger at the accused are very feeble. The learned Judge has held that the following are the instances which complete the chain namely the accused and the deceased were habituate to drink liquor. Just because the deceased was seen with the accused and just because his dead body was immediately recognized by the family members cannot mean that the chain is complete. The judgment in Jaideep Neogi Vs. State of West Bengal, 2010 (68) ACC 227 which was relied by the counsel for the accused before the court below which would apply in the facts of the case.

14. The chain of events as per the circumstances should point out to the guilt of the accused and the accused alone. The decision of Apex Court in Kalu @ Laxmi Versus State of Madhya Pradesh, 2019(10) SCC 211 will also have to looked into. Can a man be convicted for commission of offence under Section 302 of IPC on the basis of last seen together only without any other corroborative evidence.

15. The chain of events which the learned Judge has narrated is not such which would be full proof for Court to concur with the learned Trial Judge about the guilt of the accused. The burden of proof lies on the State which has miserably failed to the adverse interference that the deceased and the accused used the drink of liquor together would not compelling circumstances on neither is it a chain in the chain of events.

16. There are no other incriminating circumstances against the accused even under Section 27 of Evidence Act, 1872 will not permit this Court to concur with the finding of facts by the learned Judge. There are several inconsistencies and contradiction making it impossible to sustain the conviction. We are supported in our view by the recent judgment of the Apex Court report in Ravindra Singh Vs. State of Punjab, (2022)7 SCC 581.

17. Even if we consider the other aspects it is not proved that he was the person who had committed the offence. There is no recovery from the accused. There is nothing incriminating except the confessional statement to one of the witnesses which is not proved to the hilt and could not have been acted upon .

18. In the alternative even if we concur with the court below whether the punishment of life imprisonment is justified for which we will have to go by the facts which we have narrated herein-above. This Court would refer to the following precedents, namely, Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

19. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

20. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

21. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

22. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

23. The accused is in custody for nine years one month and seventeen days as on date of the report sent by the Office which would mean that the undergone period would be 3507 days and the total sentence including remission is twelve years three months and eighteen days on 23.6.2022 and we are in the month of October, 2022. However, on the scanty evidence he is not required to be confined anymore and the sentence is upturned.

24. The facts that it was homicidal death is the fact from record. The decision cited by learned counsel for accused which was not accepted by the Court below would apply to the fact of this case also. He was last seen by PW-1, 2, 4 and 5. Only on the basis of last seen, he has been convicted for commission of offence Section 304 of IPC for life imprisonment which cannot be sustained.

25. Rs.15,000/- as honorarium be paid by Allahabad Legal Service Committee to learned amicus curiae for his valuable service.

26. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed, as modified above.

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Durgesh Kumar Singh, Sri Anshu Chaudhary

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri A.N. Mulla, Sri G.P. Singh, Sri Narain Mishra, A.G.A.'s

A. Criminal Law-Code of Criminal Procedure,1973-Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Section 302 - SC/ST Act, 1989 - Section 3(2)(v) -Challenge to-Conviction-murder-All the three eye witnesses (PW's 1,2,4) have become hostile, PW-1 and 4 clearly denied the presence on spot while PW2 stated that he had not seen who fired shot-appellant convicted while the co-accused acquitted on the similar set of evidence, which is illegal-no evidence regarding intentional insult to the deceased, no offence is made out under SC/ST Act-person who was the cause of incident was not examined-motive not proved-two shots were fired but only one empty cartridge was recovered-deceased was sitting on Chabutra after having dinner while in post morterm report, no solid material found inside the intestine, this also makes the prosecution case doubtful-Moreso, in the present case, mandatory provision of Section 313 CrPC was not complied with-Hence, Prosecution failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.(Para 1 to 34)

B. The examination of accused u/s 313 CrPC is not a mere formality. it prescribes a procedural safeguard for an accused, giving him an opportunity to explain the facts and circumstances appearing against him in the evidence and this opportunity is valuable from the standpoint of the accused. it imposes duty on the Court to question the accused properly and fairly so as to bring home to him to the exact case he will have to meet and thereby, an opportunity is given to him to explain any such point.(Para 25)

The appeal is allowed. (E-6)

7. The accused - appellants in their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C denied the prosecution case and disputed the veracity of the evidence adduced by the prosecution.

8. P.W.1 Ram Khilari has stated in his examination-in-chief took place on 12.05.2008 as follows:-

Accused persons Krishnaveer and Maharaj Singh belong to Jaat caste and they are residents of Dagheta Police station Baldev. His brother Mohanlal's in-laws home is situated at Dagheta. He has been visiting there before the occurrence of this incident that is why he was acquainted with the accused persons. His brother was residing at village Dagheta. He had gone to his brother's in-laws home at Dagheta on 05/06/01. His brother Mohanlal, sister-in-law Sukhdevi and he were sitting on the raised platform after taking food. His brother's in-laws' neighbour Vimla came in the house of Late Devjeet at 9.30 pm and Krishnaveer had also come with her and entered in the house of Vimla with malafide intention. Vimla shouted. His brother Mohanlal saw Krishnaveer coming out of Vimla's house. His brother objected Krishnaveer, then Krishnaveer said, "Saale, shut your mouth otherwise I will kill you." Verbal fight occurred between them. Krishnaveer's father Maharaj Singh came carrying country-made pistol uttering caste based word to Mohanlal, Maharaj Singh opened fire at him with intent to kill him. But this fire passed by the side of Mohanlal. Then Maharaj Singh asked his son Krishnaveer to kill him. Then Krishnaveer took out country-made pistol from his side and opened fire at Mohanlal with intent to kill him which hit on his chest due to which he succumbed on the spot. Atar Singh Bangali belongs to that village came on the spot and saw the incident. It was moonlight in which he had seen the incident. He got the report of this case written by Atar Singh. Atar Singh read over to him and he heard the report.

In the cross examination P.W.1 has stated as follows:- There was no enmity between his brother Mohanlal and accused Krishnaveer and there was no friendship between them. Krishnaveer belongs to Jaat caste and he belong to Jatav caste. Colony of Jatav is separate and colony of Jaat is also separate. He and his brother Mohan Lal had taken meal containing a dish of potato and brinjal, and chapatis at around 8:00 o' clock. The platform (chabutra), where they were sitting, is adjacent to the home in the east. He further stated that he is acquainted with Vimla for many years. Vimla's house is 8-10 steps away from his brother's house to the west. No house falls in-between them, rather there is a vacant land which belongs to them. When Vimla raised alarm, Atar Singh Bengali and his sister-in-law (elder brother's wife) Sukhdevi had also arrived there. He fruther stated that Vimla must be around 35-40 years old.

In the examination in chief took place on 15.04.20017 P.W.1 has stated as follows:-

He lives in Lakshmi Nagar, PS Jamuna Nagar, Mathura. His elder brother Mohan Lal would reside with his in-laws at Village Dagheta, PS Baldev where Mohan Lal was shot dead on the night of 05.06.2001. He had got the report/complaint of this incident being ext. ka-1 written through Atar Singh, a resident of Dagheta against the accused persons Krishnaveer and Maharaj Singh and had submitted the same at PS Baldev. He got to know about the said incident on an information sent by his sister-in-law (bhabhi) in Lakshmi Nagar. He immediately left the village. He reached PS Baldev where many persons from the village were present. Atar Singh was also there. Atar Singh had prepared this report/complaint as stated by the villagers. He had made his signature on the report/complaint. He had directly reached to his brother's in-laws' place Dagheta after making his signature on the report/complaint. The situation there was sorrowful. He found his sister-in-law disturbed there. They could not speak with each other. He had heard from the villagers that it was a murder case and there was a rumour in the village that the accused persons Krishnaveer and Maharaj Singh were involved in this incident. He was not present in Village Dagheta at the time of the incident. He was in Lakshmi Nagar. Earlier he had given his statement on the basis of that very information. Consequent to this, the witness was declared hostile on request by ADGC and opportunity was granted for cross-examination.

In the cross examination P.W.1 has stated as follows:-

In connection with this incident, his statement had been recorded in the court earlier as well. It is correct that in the said statement, he had stated that Krishnaveer and Maharaj Singh had shot Mohan Lal due to which Mohan Lal had died. Volunteered to state today that he had given his statement in line with the case diary at the instance of the police. It is wrong to say that on 05.06.2001 at 9:30 pm, he had witnessed the murder of Mohan Lal by the aforesaid Krishnaveer and Maharaj Singh of Dagheta by way of shooting him with a country made pistol while his brother Mohan Lal was sitting on a platform in the village within PS Baldev. It is also wrong to suggest that he was present in village Dagheta at the time of the incident and had given his previous statement on the basis of witnessing the entire incident. He is Jatav by caste. Accused persons are Jat by caste. It is also wrong to say that he has, in collusion with the accused persons or out of fear, today retracted his earlier statement to save them in this case. No police officer had recorded his statement in connection with this incident. The witness, on hearing his statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C., stated, "I did not give such a statement to the police. I cannot tell any reason as to how they recorded my statement."

9. P.W.2 Atar Singh has stated in his examination in chief took place on 11.01.2011 as follows:-

That on 05.06.2001, he drafted the complaint in this case at the instance of Ram Khiladi, s/o Shri Shriram Jatav, r/o Lakshmi Nagar Bagheecha, Jamunapar, which is available on the record and is before him. It is in his handwriting bearing his signature and marked as ext. ka-1. He further submitted that he has made his signature on the Panchnama 'Paper No. 04 Aa/10'. The Panchnama is related to the deceased Mohan Lal. The deceased Mohan Lal died from bullet injury, but who fired the bullet, it was not seen. On being shown the affidavit (Paper No. 4A/50) submitted by him, the witness said that the photograph affixed on it was his, but whose signature it was, he could not recognise.

In the cross Examination P.W.2 has stated as follows:-

That he did not give any affidavit to CBCID on his own free will. He cannot state if he had given his photos for the card or any other purpose. He can't state who has signed the affidavit. He hasn't seen any occurrence.

10. P.W.3 Dr. Subhash Chandra in his examination-in-chief took place on 02.05.2012 has stated as follows:-

That on 6.6.2001, he was posted as Orthopaedist in the District Hospital, Mathura. On the said date, at 3:40 p.m., He had conducted the post-mortem on the body of Mohan Lal s/o Shri Ram, aged about 50 years, resident of Village - Dagheta, PS - Baldev, District - Mathura. The dead body was brought by Constable - 1090 Vimlesh and Constable - 1174 Munesh, PS - Baldev in a sealed condition along with 08 police papers. He had perused the police papers. The deceased was average build. The effect of rigor mortis from the neck of the deceased had passed after death, but its effect was present in the hands and feet.

He had found the following ante-mortem injury on the body -

The firearm wound of entry, 2 cm x 1.5 cm x chest cavity deep, 100 cm below the nipple at 6 O'clock position. There was blackening, tattooing and scorching on the wound.

On internal examination, the ninth rib bone on the left side of the chest was found to be broken. The right lung and its membrane were found to be ruptured. A metal bullet was recovered from the right chest cavity. The heart and its membranes were ruptured. There was about two litres of blood in the chest cavity. There was about 100 grams of fluid inside the stomach. Fluid and gas were present in the small intestine. Faecal matter and gas were present in the large intestine. The deceased died due to haemorrhage and shock. The death of the deceased occurred about 3/4 (18 hours) - 1 day before the post-mortem examination. He had prepared post-mortem report at the time of post-mortem of the deceased "Paper No. 4A/20', which is in his writing and signature.

That it is possible that the deceased might have been hit with firing from a distance of 01 to 03 feet. The barrel of the firearm was to the left of the deceased at the time of the occurrence. He was saying this on the basis of the direction of injury. The barrel of the firearm must have been slightly upward at the time of the occurrence. There was no solid food in the stomach of the deceased. 100 grams of fluid was present in the stomach. It usually takes about 04 hours for the solids to pass from the stomach to the small intestine. The deceased must have eaten something about 04 hours before the occurrence. For this reason, some digested fluid was found in the small intestine. The said liquid cannot be alcohol. It can be water, tea, cold drink.

took place on 21.03.2013 has stated as follows:-

That the incident took place on 05.06.2001 around 9.30 p.m. She was sitting on the raised-platform of her house with her husband Mohan Lal and her brother-in-law Ram Khiladi and were talking. Just then they heard some hue and cry from the house of her maternal aunt Vimla Devi. Krishna Veer @ Pinku S/o Maharaj Singh, Caste: Jat came outside. Her husband tried to stop Krishnaveer, Krishnaveer shouted, "You bastard, sit quietly or else I will kill you." During this hot exchange, Krishnaveer's father Maharaj came running, holding a katta country made pistol in his hand and started abusing. When her husband forbade Maharaj from abusing, he with the country made pistol in his hand, shot at her husband which narrowly passes beside his hand. Then Maharaj Singh exhorted his son Krishnaveer, ".the bastard Chamra, or else he will create problem again." Then Krishna Veer took out the country made pistol from his pocket and shot at her husband. Immediately after receiving the gunshot, her husband fell down on the raised-platform and died. The gunshot hit her husband in his chest. My brother-in-law Ram Khiladi and others reached the spot. She did not reach the spot (then stated that) she was present at the spot. She further stated that it is around 16 years back. It was 9-10 pm. Her husband Mohan Lal had been murdered by firing bullet shots. Her brother-in-law had lodged the report against Krishnaveer and Maharaj of her village. A woman namely Vimla of her locality had altercation against Krishnaveer. When she returned from Nauhare after giving fodder to her cattle, her husband was lying dead on the chabutara. She had not seen Krishnaveer and Maharaj present in the court firing bullet shots to her husband.

That no Police Officer had recorded her statement in regard to this incident. When the witness was read over her statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C., she stated that she can't tell the reason how the S.I. had recorded it. She had given her statement in this court earlier too. She stated that earlier too, she had given the same statement that she was not present at the spot. It is wrong to state that she had seen accused persons Krishnaveer and Maharaj present in the court firing bullet shots at her husband at the spot. The accused persons are the native of her village. They are Jat by caste, she is Jatav. It is wrong to state that today she is giving false statement in collusion with or under pressure or fear of the accused persons. Her brother-in-law is working in post office. His posting is at Sahawan. After the death of her husband, someone from the village had called her brother-in-law Ram Khiladi for lodging the report. Mostly there are persons of Jat caste. When her brother-in-law came, then he would have lodged the report. She had been unconscious since evening. Earlier, the statements she had given was given on behest of the people of the village.

12. P.W.5 Veer Singh C.O. in his examination-in-chief took place on 28.03.2018 has stated as follows:-

That on 6.6.01 he was posted as C.O. at PS Baldev Circle Jamunapar. On the aforesaid date on being commanded by the then Senior Superintendent of Police, the investigation of C.No. 130/01 was handed over to him. After taking over the investigation, firstly the copy (parcha no. 1) of written report was prepared by him.

Thereafter the statement of HM 74CP Mahendra Giri was recorded by him. Further the statement of informant Ram Khiladi s/o Shri Ram Jatav r/o Lakshminagar PS Jamunapar was recorded. After recording the aforesaid statements, the scene of occurrence was inspected at the instance of informant. The site map was prepared on the spot. In the original file of site map, paper number 4A/3 is enclosed marked as Ex Ka-3. After the inspection of scene of occurrence, the statements of witnesses Horilal s/o Kashiram, Kishan Swaroop s/o Nekram were recorded as hearsay evidence in C.D. (parcha 1). On 6.6.01 as he was transferred from the aforesaid circle, the investigation of the said case was conducted by the then S.P. Dwivedi.

In his cross examination P.W.5 stated as follows:-

That he went on the spot during daytime. He do not remember time. He did not see the house of Vimla, nor did he record her statement. He did not arrest any accused. He did not raid. He issued parcha 1 during investigation. Thereafter he was transferred. It is right that there was no electricity pole or bulb on the spot, thus there was no source of light. Therefore he did not get it written.He cannot tell according to map whether there was any source of light. He did not see (sic) on the spot. Many people were visiting the place. When he went on the spot, nobody told because there was no eye witness. He is not acquainted with Maharaj Singh and Krishnaveer. Ram Khiladi gave statement with reference to report. He did not make any other statement. He did inquire Ram Khiladi about Ram Khiladi's report. He did not inquire anyone. It is wrong to state that he recorded the statements at the police station on the basis of FIR. It is also wrong to state that he did not meet Ram Khiladi. It is also wrong to state that harm was caused during raid at house. It is also wrong that inquiry was made in that regard.

13. P.W.6 Gain Shanker in his examination-in-chief took place on 12.07.2018 has stated as follows:-

That the relative of Jagna belonging to their village died. The police initiated proceeding in this regard. The police conducted inquest of deceased Mohan Lal in village 16-17 years before. Mohan Lal died at night. Next day the police carried away the dead body for inquest. His signature was obtained. The police asked five elderly people to make signatures on inquest report. He does not know that what proceedings were conducted by the police. Inquest report is paper number 4A/9 to 11 on file. It bears his signature. He does not know that how Mohan Lal was killed.

14. P.W.7 Jheeguria in his examination-in-chief took place on 12.07.2018 has stated as follows:-

That Around 17-18 years before Mohan Lal, the son-in-law of Jagna belonging to his village died during night. Next day the police came on information. He came after the police. The police conducted inquest of the dead body. The police asked him to make his signature on document and he did it in accordance with the instructions of the police. The inquest report is paper number 4A/9 to 11 in file. It bears his signature. He does not know that how Mohan Lal died. He does not know that who is being prosecuted for killing Mohan Lal. When he came, the police had sealed(sic). He did not see the dead body of Mohan Lal.

15. P.W.8 Mahendra Giri S.I. in his examination-in-chief took place on 04.10.2018 has stated as follows:-

That On 5.6.2001 he was posted as HM at PS Baldev. On the said date at 10.45 pm informant Ram Khiladi s/o Shri Ram Jatav r/o Lakshminagar PS-Jamunapar District- Mathura came with a report. Informant's report was registered by him as C.C.No. 130/2001 under Section 302 IPC and 3(1) X and 3(2)5 SC/ST Act and investigation was handed over to CO Refinery. Paper number 3A/1 is there on file marked as Ex Ka-4. It is in his handwriting and signature. He entered it in GD number 35 at 22.45 hours. The carbon copy (paper 4A/5) of original GD is present on file. The original is destroyed. He has brought a certificate in this regard. It bears his signature. He certifies it. It was marked as Ex Ka-5. The inquest of deceased Mohan Lal was conducted by Shri Ram Pal Singh after appointing Pyare Lal, Atar Singh, Gauri Shankar, Bhagwan Singh, Jheeguriya as panchas. Ram Pal Singh was posted with him at police station Baldev. He identifies Ram Pal Singh's signature. Inquest report is 4A/9 and 4A/10. It was marked as Ex Ka-6.

In his cross examination P.W.8 has stated as follows:-

That after receiving the information of receiving the SR, C.O. refinery, S.O. Baldev and others had come, but he does not remember as to when the above officers had come on 06.06.2001, nor does he knows when the dead body was picked up from the spot in order to seal and stamp it on the next day. He did not go to the place of occurrence. He does not have any information as to the spot. He knows that the murder-case of Maharaj Singh's brother and Krishnaveer's uncle pre-dates his tenure; whose case was pending.

16. P.W.9 Jag Mohan Shukla in his examination-in-chief took place on 03.07.2019 has stated as follows:-

Parcha no.-IX was prepared by him. On that day, He was posted as CIS 1st at Criminal Investigation Branch, Lucknow. On that day, he received investigation of C.No.-130/01, u/s-302IPC & 3 (2) V SC/ST, Act from previous investigating officer namley Shri Sanjay Kumar Yadav wherein receiving the concerned documents related to the investigation, investigation was initiated. Having prepared C.D. No.-X on 05.09.2002, statements of complainant Ram Khilari, Smt. Shukhadevi w/o Mohan Lal, Atar Singh, Bengali and Smt. Vimla Devi were recorded and after verifying the affidavits given by previous investigating officer, made it the part of his investigating and inspected the place of occurrence at the instance of complainant which has been marked as Ext. ka-03. Parcha no.-XI was prepared on 06.09.2002 wherein statements of witnesses of the inquest report namely Pyare Lal, Gauri Shanker, Jhingariya, Bhagwan Singh and statements of witnesses namely Girij Singh, Ramveer Singh, Vijendra Singh, Karan Singh, Chote Lal, Ajay Pal, Ramji Lal were recorded and other persons of the village were interrogated and statements of witness Ram Khilari and Shukha Devi were again recorded and statements of Smt. Shakunkala, Pipendra, Ramveer Singh and Deep Chand, Maharaj Singh and Smt. Sheela Devi and Krishnaveer Singh, who were present on the spot, were recorded.

Statements of Dr. Shubash Chand, Medical Officer, who conducted the postmortem of deceased Mohan Lal, was recorded in which Medical Officer stated that no injury was found on deceased except a bullet injury on deceased chest. C.D. No.-XII was prepared on 07.09.02 wherein preparing the aforesaid parcha and perusing the parchas of the proceeding done by the previous investigator, investigator of the local police Shri Veer Singh and SP Dwivedi, C.O., prepared parch-1 & parch no.-II 06.06.01 respectively which were inspected. The proceeding done by previous investigator, which includes site-plan, etc., and recovery memo of one empty cartridge which is paper no.4A/06 was prepared by S.I. Rampal in S.I. Rampal's handwriting and signature and the same is before him.

That No lamp-post or light has been mentioned in the site-plan Ext. ka-03 enclosed with the file. It is correct that the incident took place at 9:30 pm. Only one empty cartridge was found on the spot and no mark of any other fire was found. It is correct that Maharaj Singh and Krishna Singh are father and son. It is that during his inquiry the witnesses namely Atar Singh, Bengali and Smt. Vimla mentioned in the FIR did not support the occurrence of the incident, nor did they claim to be eye-witnesses. It has also been stated that prior to him, no investigating officer has recorded any statement regarding this incident. He recorded the statement of witness Atar Singh, who stated in his statement "Jaswant Singh repeatedly gave advise to Ram Khilari that if Maharaj Sigh is named then he will not be able to follow the case and this case will be strong. On being asked, he stated that Jaswant Singh and others are accused of the murder-case of Maharaj Singh's brother namely Sultan Singh, at this time (he) is on bail". It is correct that Jaswant Singh is of criminal-nature. Smt. Vimla stated in her statement to him that Krishnaveer Singh did not come to her home on the fateful day, nor did she raise any noise.

17. The learned Sessions Judge SC/ST Act Mathura after hearing the parties and perusal of the record, acquitted accused Maharaj Singh under Sections 302 IPC and section 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act but convicted accused Krishanveer Singh under section-302 IPC and section 3(2)(v) SC/ST Act, hence this appeal.

18. Learned counsel for the appellant submits as follows:-

(i) The first argument is that all the three alleged eye-witnesses (P.W.'s 1, 2 & 4) have become hostile. He further submitted that P.W.-2 has become hostile on first instance while P.W.'s 1 & 4 have become hostile subsequently at the stage of 319 Cr.P.C., as such, it cannot be said that prosecution has proved his case beyond reasonable doubt.

(ii) The second argument is that on the similar set of evidence, appellant has been convicted and another accused Maharaj Singh has been acquitted which is illegal.

(iii) The third argument is that court below has failed to give an opportunity to offer an explanation of subsequent statement of P.W.'s 1 & 4 which were recorded on 15.4.2017 and 4.2.2017 which is violation of Section 313 Cr.P.C.

(iv) The fourth argument is that appellant cannot be convicted under Section 3(2)(v) of the S.C./S.T. Act as there was no evidence regarding intentional insult to the deceased.

(v) The fifth argument is that Smt. Vimla Devi who was the cause of the alleged incident, has not been examined and the statement of P.W.-9 S.I. Jagmohan Shukla in his cross-examination stated that Smt. Vimla Devi in her statement stated before him that Krishna Veer has not come to her house on the date of incident and she has not made any noise on that day, accordingly, motive was not proved.

(vi) The sixth argument is that two shots were fired as per prosecution case but only one empty cartridge was recovered as per recovery memo.

(vii) The seventh argument is that prosecution version appears to be false as according to prosecution version, deceased and first informant were sitting on Chabutra outside the house of deceased after taking dinner at 8 P.M. but in postmortem report, no solid food was found inside the intestine rather 100 mt. Liquid was found inside the body of the deceased.

(viii) The last argument is that D.W.-1 has stated about false implication of accused-appellant at the suggestion of Jaswant Singh who was involved in the murder of brother of Maharaj Singh but courts below has not considered the same while passing impugned judgment.

19. Learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance upon the following judgments:

(i) Notes published in Indian Law Institute on inseparable and indivisible evidence against all accused (on the point of argument no.ii)

(ii) Veer Singh Verma vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, Criminal Appeal No.(s) 154 of 2019, judgment dated 28.1.2019 (on the point of argument no.ii)

(iii) (2015) 1 SCC 496, Nar Singh vs. State of Haryana (on the point of argument no.iii).

(iv) (2018) 1 SCC 742, Asharfi vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (on the point of argument no.iv).

20. Learned A.G.A. on the other hand supported the impugned judgment and order of conviction by contending that prosecution case is fully proved from the evidence of P.W.'s- 1 to 9 in spite of the fact that eye-witnesses, P.W.-1, P.W.-2 & P.W.-4 have been declared hostile. He placed reliance upon 2006 (2) SCC 450, Radha Mohan Singh @ Lal Saheb and Others vs. State of U.P., on the point of hostility of witnesses and submitted that appeal filed by appellant is liable to be dismissed.

21. With respect to the 1st and 2nd argument of appellant, it is relevant to mention here that P.W.-1, first informant is the real younger brother of deceased and P.W.-4 is the wife of deceased who had supported the prosecution case in their examination-in-chief and cross-examination took place in the year 2008 to 2014 but in their subsequent statement, took place in the year 2017, due to application filed by prosecution under Section 319 Cr.P.C., P.W.-1 and P.W.-4 had clearly denied their presence on spot, as such, they have been declared hostile. So far as P.W.-2 is concerned, he was declared hostile at the first instance as he has stated that he had not seen who fired shot, as such, eye-witness account failed to prove the prosecution case. The argument of the learned A.G.A on this point on the basis of judgment of the Apex Court in Radha Mohan Singh (supra) to the effect that since P.W.-1 & P.W.-4 had supported the prosecution case in their examination-in-chief as well as in cross-examination took place at earlier occasion, as such, entire statement of P.W.'s- 1 & 4 will be seen in spite of the fact that P.W.'s 1 & 4 have been declared hostile.

22. Since P.W.'s- 1 & 4 have been examined in the year 2017 on the basis of the application of the prosecution itself to summon Maharai Singh under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and P.W.'s- 1 & 4 have denied their presence on spot, accordingly, Maharaj Singh was acquitted on the basis of entire evidence, as such, the conviction of appellant on the same evidence will be illegal.

23. The Apex Court in the case of Krishna Govind Patil vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1963 Supreme Court 1413 has held that where, 3 out of the 4 accused charged for an offence under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34, giving them the benefit of doubt in view of the fact that their identity was not established but convicting the 4th accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC on the ground that he had committed the offence along with one or other of the acquitted accused, the conviction of the 4th accused clearly wrong.

Notes of Indian Law Institute as well as the judgment of the Apex Court in Veer Singh Verma (supra) as cited by counsel for the appellant at Sl. No. (i) & (iii) are on the same points.

24. Accordingly, the argument nos. 1 & 2 advanced by counsel for the appellant is accepted and it is held that prosecution has failed to prove his case beyond reasonable doubt.

25. The 3rd argument of appellant and case law cited by him in the case of Nar Singh (supra) that courts below has failed to give an opportunity to offer an explanation of the subsequent statement of prosecution witnesses has also got substance, paragraph nos. 9, 10, 11 & 34 of Nar Singh (supra) are as follows:

9. The power to examine the accused is provided in Section 313 Cr.P.C. which reads as under:-

"313. Power to examine the accused.- (1) In every inquiry or trial, for the purpose of enabling the accused personally to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him, the Court-

(a) may at any stage, without previously warning the accused put such questions to him as the Court considers necessary;

(b) shall, after the witnesses for the prosecution have been examined and before he is called on for his defence, question him generally on the case:

Provided that in a summons-case, where the Court has dispensed with the personal attendance of the accused, it may also dispense with his examination under clause (b).

(2). No oath shall be administered to the accused when he is examined under sub- section (1).

(3). The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment by refusing to answer such questions, or by giving false answers to them.

(4). The answers given by the accused may be taken into consideration in such inquiry or trial, and put in evidence for or against him in any other inquiry into, or trial for, any other offence which such answers may tend to show he has committed.

(5). The Court may take help of Prosecutor and Defence Counsel in preparing relevant questions which are to be put to the accused and the Court may permit filing of written statement by the accused as sufficient compliance of this section."

10. There are two kinds of examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The first under Section 313 (1) (a) Cr.P.C. relates to any stage of the inquiry or trial; while the second under Section 313 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. takes place after the prosecution witnesses are examined and before the accused is called upon to enter upon his defence. The former is particular and optional; but the latter is general and mandatory. In Usha K. Pillai v. Raj K. Srinivas & Ors., (1993) 3 SCC 208, this Court held that the Court is empowered by Section 313 (1) clause (a) to question the accused at any stage of the inquiry or trial; while Section 313(1) clause (b) obligates the Court to question the accused before he enters his defence on any circumstance appearing in prosecution evidence against him.

11. The object of Section 313 (1)(b) Cr.P.C. is to bring the substance of accusation to the accused to enable the accused to explain each and every circumstance appearing in the evidence against him. The provisions of this section are mandatory and cast a duty on the court to afford an opportunity to the accused to explain each and every circumstance and incriminating evidence against him. The examination of accused under Section 313 (1)(b) Cr.P.C. is not a mere formality. Section 313 Cr.P.C. prescribes a procedural safeguard for an accused, giving him an opportunity to explain the facts and circumstances appearing against him in the evidence and this opportunity is valuable from the standpoint of the accused. The real importance of Section 313 Cr.P.C. lies in that, it imposes a duty on the Court to question the accused properly and fairly so as to bring home to him the exact case he will have to meet and thereby, an opportunity is given to him to explain any such point.

34. In our view, accused is not entitled for acquittal on the ground of non-compliance of mandatory provisions of Section 313 Cr.P.C. We agree to some extent that the appellant is prejudiced on account of omission to put the question as to the opinion of Ballistic Expert (Ex-P12) which was relied upon by the trial court as well as by the High Court. Trial court should have been more careful in framing the questions and in ensuring that all material evidence and incriminating circumstances were put to the accused. However, omission on the part of the Court to put questions under Section 313 Cr.P.C. cannot enure to the benefit of the accused.

In the present case, non-compliance of the mandatory provisions of Section 313 Cr.P.C. is not the only ground for acquittal rather it is coupled with other grounds also.

26. The 4th argument of appellant that there was no evidence of intentional insult to the deceased, as such, no offence is made out under Section 3(2)(v) of the S.C./S.T. Act is made out, the case law cited by learned counsel for appellant in the case of Asharfi (supra) will fully applicable, paragraph nos. 8, 9 & 10 are as follows:

8. In the present case, unamended Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act is applicable as the occurrence was on the night of 8/9.12.1995. From the unamended provisions of Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act, it is clear that the statute laid stress on the intention of the accused in committing such offence in order to belittle the person as he/she belongs to Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe community.

9. The evidence and materials on record do not show that the appellant had committed rape on the victim on the ground that she belonged to Scheduled Caste. Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act can be pressed into service only if it is proved that the rape has been committed on the ground that PW-3 Phoola Devi belonged to Scheduled Caste community. In the absence of evidence proving intention of the appellant in committing the offence upon PW-3-Phoola Devi only because she belongs to Scheduled Caste community, the conviction of the appellant under Section 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Prevention of Atrocities Act cannot be sustained.

10. In the result, the conviction of the appellant under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 and the sentence of life imprisonment imposed upon him are set aside and the appeal is partly allowed.

27. In the present case also incident is of 9.30 P.M. i.e. of night and took place in the year 2001 i.e. before Amendment Act 1 of 2016 in respect to Section 3(2)(v) of the S.C./S.T. Act and there is no evidence on record that accused - appellant has committed offence as accused belong to scheduled caste. Accordingly, on the basis of 4th argument, it is held that no offence is made out under Section 3(2)(v) of the S.C./S.T. Act against the appellant.

28. The 5th argument is concerned, the statement of P.W-9, Jag Mohan Shukla, Sub-Inspector will be relevant, the cross examination of P.W.-9 is as follows:

पत्रावली पर संलग्न नक्शा नजरी प्रदर्श क-3 में कोई लैम्पपोस्ट या लाईट का जरिया नहीं दिखाया है। यह सही है कि घटना रात्रि के साढ़े नौ बजे बताई है। मौके वारदात पर केवल एक खोखा मिला और कोई निशानात किसी अन्य फायर के नहीं मिले। यह सही है कि महाराज सिंह व कृष्णवीर सिंह पिता, पुत्र है। यह कि मेरी जांच में fir में लिखे गवाहान अतर सिह, बंगाली व smt. विमला ने घटना का कथित होना समर्थित नहीं किया और न अपने आप को चश्मदीद गवाह होना बताया। यह भी बताया कि मुझसे पूर्व किसी जांच अधिकारी ने इस घटना के सम्बन्ध में कोई बयान नहीं लिये। मैने गवाह अतर सिंह

के बयान दर्ज किये है। अतर सिंह ने मुझे अपने बयान में यह बयान दिया था कि " जसवंत सिंह, वादी मुकदमा राम खिलाडी को बार बार राय मशविरा देते थे कि यदि महाराज सिंह का भी नाम लिखवा दोगे तो यह मुकदमें की पैरवी नहीं कर पायेगा और यह केस पक्का हो जायेगा। पूछने पर यह भी बताया कि जसवन्त सिंह आदि ने महाराज सिंह के भाई सुल्तान सिंह के मर्डर के अभियुक्त है, इस समय जमानत पर आये हुए है। " यह सही है कि जसवन्त सिंह अपराधिक किस्म का है। smt. विमला ने अपने बयान में मुझे यह बताया था कि कृष्णवीर सिंह घटना वाले दिन मेरे घर नहीं आया था और न मैने कोई शोर मचाया था।

29. Perusal of the cross-examination of P.W.-9, it is established that Smt. Vimla Devi has denied that Krishna Veer has not come to her house on the date of incident and she had not made any noise on that day. The further circumstance that Smt. Vimla Devi was not produced in the Court by the prosecution will also go against the prosecution. Accordingly, prosecution case that accused Krishnaveer entered into the house of Smt. Vimla Devi with malafide intention at 9.30 P.M. on 5.6.2001 and Smt. Vimla Devi made noise is false and prosecution case cannot be believed.

30. The 6th argument of learned counsel for the appellant that according to prosecution, two shots were fired on spot, one by Maharaj Singh and other by Krishnaveer but according to recovery memo, only one empty cartridge was recovered from the spot, this also makes the prosecution case doubtful.

31. The 7th argument advanced by counsel for the appellant that according to prosecution case, deceased was sitting on Chabutara in front of his house along with first informant after taking dinner at 8 P.M. while in the postmortem report, no solid material found inside the intestine rather 150 ml. liquid was found inside the body, the cross-examination of P.W.-3, Dr. Subhash Chandra was as follows:-

मृतक के आमाश्य में कोई ठोस पदार्थ नहीं था। 100 ग्राम तरल पदार्थ अमाश्य में था। ठोस पदार्थ को आमाश्य से छोटी आंत में जाने में सामान्यतया 04 घन्टे का समय लगता है। मृतक ने घटना से करीब 04 घण्टे पहले कुछ खाया होगा इसी कारण से छोटी आंत में पचा हुआ कुछ तरल पदार्थ मिला था। उक्त तरल पदार्थ शराब नहीं हो सकता है। वह पानी , चाय, कोल्ड ड्रिंक हो सकता है।

32. From the perusal of cross-examination of P.W.-3 as well as from the postmortem report, the prosecution version that deceased was sitting after taking dinner at 8 P.M. and was murdered at 9.30 P.M. appears to be false.

33. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case and evidence available on record as discussed above, we find that the evidence of the alleged eye-witnesses produced by prosecution does not inspire confidence. There exist a doubt whether they are witnesses of the incident, on the same set of evidence, the courts below has acquitted one accused (Maharaj Singh) and convicted another accused (Krishna Veer-appellant) which is wholly illegal. There can be no conviction under Section 3(2)(v) of S.C./S.T. Act as there is no evidence for the intentional insult to the deceased. There is non-compliance of Section 313

Cr.P.C. on the subsequent statement of P.W.'s- 1 & 4 recorded in 2017. The non-examination of Smt. Vimla Devi by prosecution, statement of P.W.-9 that Vimla denied the fact that Krishna Veer came to her house on the date of incident as well as postmortem report and statement of P.W.-3 (doctor) also demonstrate that the incident has not taken place at 9.30 P.M. after taking dinner, which proves that the prosecution case is doubtful and prosecution has failed to prove the charges against the appellant - accused beyond reasonable doubt.

34. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment / order of conviction and sentence dated 17.12.2019 passed by the Special Judge, S.C./S.T. Act, Mathura is set aside. The accused-appellant Krishna Veer @ Pinkoo in Criminal Appeal No.487/2020 in in jail. He shall be released from the jail forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

35. Let a copy of the judgment along with the original record be sent to the court below for compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. The instant appeal under Section 374 (2) Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short "Cr.P.C.') has been preferred by the appellant Mohd. Akku against the judgement and order dated 02.05.2017 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Balrampur in Special Criminal Case No. 84 of 2013 arising out of Case Crime No. 126 of 2013, under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offence Act, 1912 (in short "POCSO Act'), Police Station- Panchpedwa, District Balrampur, whereby the accused- appellant has been convicted under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of POCSO Act and has been sentenced for the offence under Section 376 IPC for 10 years rigorous imprisonment and of fine of Rs.3000/- with further direction that in default of payment of fine, the appellant has further to undergo three months additional rigorous imprisonment and again has been sentenced for the offence under Section 6 of POCSO Act for the same sentence i.e. 10 years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 3000/- with further direction that any default of payment of fine, the appellant has to further undergo three months additional rigorous imprisonment.

2. The prosecution case, in brief, is that on 30.03.2013 at about 5 P.M. victim aged about six year, daughter of Smt. Shamim Jahan (PW1) along with her elder daughter Sahar Bano (PW4) went to play at her under construction house. The house of the appellant is situated near to the house of Shamim Jahan (PW 1). Sahar Bano (PW 4) elder sister of victim went back to her house and finding the victim alone, appellant took the victim inside his house and undressed her undergarment (panty) and was attempting to rape upon the victim. On the voice raised by the victim, Shamim Jahan (PW1) along with her daughter Sahar Bano (PW 4) sent inside the house of appellant where appellant was attempting for rape laying the victim on earth and seeing the complainant (PW1), the appellant fled away. It was told by the victim to Shamim Jahan (PW1) that after offering toffee to her took the victim inside his room and laying on earth attempting to rape.

3. Complainant Samim Jahan (PW1) preferred a written report (Ex.Ka-1) at the Police Station Panchpedwa, District Balrampur on the basis whereof Chik FIR (Ex. Ka.5) was prepared and the said information was entered in the general diary report dated 30.03.2013 at about 00.45 A.M. (Ex. Ka.4) by constable Kailesh Nath (PW6).

4. The victim was produced before Dr. Subrna Kumar (PW 5) for medico-legal examination on 01.03.2013 at district hospital. In internal examination of the victim, it was found that there was inflamed (redness) on both sides of vagina, hymen was torned and no bleeding was present.

5. On 01.03.2013, the supplementary medico-legal report was prepared and on the basis of medico-legal report as well as pathology report and on the ground of supplementary medico-legal examination, age of victim was determined as 6 years.

6. Investigation of the case was entrusted to Sub-Inspector Narendra Nath Yadav (PW3).

7. The victim was produced by the investigating officer (PW3) before concerned Magistrate, Balrampur and her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded.

8. During the investigation, the appellant was arrested and produced for medical examination and Sub-Inspector Narendra Singh Yadav (PW3) visited the place of occurrence and recorded the statement of witnesses prepared the site plan (Et. Ka.2) and after investigation, submitted charge sheet (Ex.Ka.3) against the appellant under Sections 376/511 IPC and Section 8 of POCSO Act.

9. Learned trial court after hearing the counsel for both sides, on 14.02.2014 framed the charges for offence under Section 376/511 IPC and Section 8 of the POCSO Act against the appellant. Thereafter on the application of the prosecution, learned trial court on 31.08.2016 framed the charges for the offence under Section 376 IPC and on 25.10.2016 framed the charges under Section 6 of POCSO Act against the appellant, who denied the same and claimed trial.

10. The prosecution in order to prove its case, examined PW 1, Smt. Samim Jahan (complaint), PW 2 Ramjan Ali, PW 3 Narendra Singh Yadav, Sub-Inspector, PW 4 Kumari Sahar Bano, PW 5 Dr. Suvarna Kumar, PW 6 Kailesh Nath and PW 7 prosecutrix as child witness, under the order dated 01.02.2017 passed by the trial Court.

11. After conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the statement of appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. who denies the prosecution story as well as the evidence adduced by the prosecution and stated that the victim is tutored witness and has given false deposition before the trial court at the behest of the parents. It was further stated by the appellant that initially the case was registered with allegations of rape was levelled against him with ulterior motive of false implication. It was further stated by the appellant that previously the case was registered with the allegation of attempt to rape but at the time of framing of charge, it was altered with the motive of false implication.

12. In support of his defence to rebut the prosecution story, Smt. Kausar (DW1) wife of appellant was examined as defence witness.

13. After appreciating the entire evidence and material on record and upon conclusion, trial court passed the impugned judgement and order dated 02.05.2017 convicted and sentenced the appellant as mentioned above. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgement and order, the appellant has preferred the present appeal.

14. Per contra, Sri Aniruddh Kumar Singh, learned AGA vehemently opposed the contention aforesaid and submits that from statement of PW 1, PW 2 and PW7 it was comprehensively proved before the trial court that the appellant committed rape upon victim. It was further submitted that the statement of PW 5 Dr. Suverna Kumar is fully corroborated with the prosecution story. He further submits that on the basis of ocular testimony adduced by the prosecution as well as the medical evidence guilt of the appellant is established. He further submits that the victim was minor at the time of commission of offence, and therefore, the offence under Section 6 of the POCSO Act, is established against the appellant and, therefore, there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned judgement and order passed by the trial court and appeal is liable to be dismissed.

15. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

16. After the aforesaid arguments, the things, which emerge, are discussed as under.

17. PW 1 is Smt. Samim Jahan, first informant of the case and mother of the victim, in her deposition before the trial court, has deposed that her daughter (victim) was aged about six years at the time of incident. It was further deposed that her daughter victim went to play along with her elder sister Sahar Bano in their under construction house. It was further deposed that elder sister of victim Sahar Bano returned to her house and victim was still playing over there and appellant, who resides adjacent to the house of the informant, called the victim to his house and committed rape upon her. It was further deposed by PW 1 that due to alarm raised by victim, she reached at the spot and saw the appellant committing rape upon her daughter and appellant fled away. It was also deposed that there was bleeding of the victim and on being asked, the victim told that the appellant offered her toffee and thereafter committed rape upon her.

18. Shamim Jahan (PW 1) in her deposition before the trial court has stated that she has preferred a written application before the police station and proved the same which was marked as Ex.Ka.5 that it was emphasisly deposed by the witness that she is eye witness of the incident and has saw the appellant committing rape upon the victim.

19. PW 2, Ramjan Ali (father of the victim) has deposed before the learned trail court that he has not seen the appellant committing rape upon his daughter as he left her house 8.00 a.m. in the morning with his Rickshaw and when he came back in evening, he was informed regarding incident and what was informed to him has been stated before the court concerned.

20. PW 3 Narendra Singh Yadav, Investigating Officer has deposed before the trial court that investigation of the case was entrusted to him and on the basis of statement of informant/victim and other witnesses, charge sheet under Sections 376/511 IPC and Section 8 of POCSO Act was filed by him against the appellant. He prepared the site plan (Ex.Ka.2), recorded the statement of the witnesses, produced the victim for her statement before the concerned Magistrate under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and filed charge sheet (Ex. Ka.3) under Sections 376/511 IPC and 8 of POCSO Act.

21. PW 4 Sahar Bano was examined before the trial court in her deposition, she stated that she along with her mother saw that the appellant Md. Akku was in objectionable position with victim on cot (khatiya) and her mother took the victim along with her. It was further deposed that appellant attempted to commit rape upon victim.

22. PW 5 Dr. Suverna Kumar, who is Medical Officer examined the victim has deposed that in the internal examination of the victim, it was found that on both sides of the private part of the victim inflammation was present and it can be caused as a result of rape. The witness has proved the medico-legal report which is marked as Ex.4.

23. PW 6 Kailash Nath Constable Muharrir has deposed that on 31.03.2013 posted at Police Station Panchpedwa and first information report was lodged at 00.45 a.m. on written application of the informant Samim Jahan and registered as Case Crime

No. 126 of 2013, under Sections 576/511 IPC and Section 8 of POCSO Act, Police Station Panchpedwa, District Balrampur.

24. The victim has been examined as child witness as PW 7 before the trial court. The victim has deposed that the appellant has committed rape upon her, of which report was lodged by her mother. It was deposed that she went to the police station and she has informed to the police that when she was playing, appellant came there and gave a toffee to her and then asked her to bring water in a jug. It was further deposed that when she came with water, the appellant took her to his home and put her on cot and committed rape upon her. It was further deposed that her mother came and upon which the appellant fled from spot. It was further deposed by the witness that there was bleeding from private part and she was in pain. She further deposed that she was medically examined and incident is of before four years. Appellant took her to his home on pretext of offering toffee where she was put on the cot, thereafter appellant removed her cloth and committed rape upon her. It was further deposed that on alarm being raised, her mother came there and then the appellant left her and fled away. It was further deposed that there was bleeding from her private part.

25. After the statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C., DW 1 Smt. Kaushar wife of the appellant was examined as DW 1. The witness in her examination deposed that she has four daughters and three sons. Her elder daughter is 19 years old and youngest daughter is 8 years. She has purchased the same land out of village over which the appellant has constructed his house. Upon the aforesaid land, Ramjan and Shamim Jahan were trying to forcibly take possession over house but due to purchase of land by the appellant, they could not succeed and due to aforesaid, they were inimical to the appellant. It was further deposed that the appellant is earning his livelihood in Mumbai and has returned to the village upon death of his mother-in-law. It was further deposed that Ramjan and Shamim Jahan have exalted pressure upon the appellant for taking possession of house of appellant and forcibly implicated the appellant in the instant case. It was further deposed that on several times, there was demand of money from her in order to settle the case and on 06.01.2016 Ramjan demanded Rs.4 Lakh for release of her husband which was recorded by her and clip of recording was filed before the trial court which was marked as Ex. Kh-1.

26. In so far as argument of the counsel for the applicant is to the effect that the prosecution story is highly improbable and it will be fruitful to examine the deposition of PW 1, PW 4 and PW 7 before the trial court. PW 1 is complainant and eye witness of the incident, who in her deposition has clearly stated that the victim along with her elder sister were playing in under construction house and house of the appellant is near to the under construction house. It was deposed by PW 1 that upon loud alarm of the victim, when she reached at the place of incident, she saw the appellant committing rape upon the victim. The victim was put in intensive cross examination. PW 4 Sahar Bano, who is elder sister of victim has also supported the prosecution story. The PW 4 in her statement has deposed that when she arrived at the place of incident along with her mother, she saw that the appellant was in objectionable position with the victim upon the cot.

27. Victim was examined as PW 7 before the trial court and in her examination-in-chief has in most clear terms stated that the appellant offered him toffee and asked her to bring water in a Jug and then she came along with water, the appellant called her inside the house where she was laid on cot and clothes were removed and rape was committed upon her by the appellant. Narration of the incident by the witness clearly goes to establish that the appellant offered toffee to the victim and asked her to bring water from jug and when the victim came with the water in jug, she was called by the appellant in house where the appellant removed cloth of the victim and committed rape upon her.

28. Statement of the victim is absolutely intact, consistent and does not show any chance of blemish. There is no inconsistence or anything adverse in her statement to show any doubt upon the prosecution story.

29. Thus, from perusal of the statement of PW 1, PW 4 and PW 7, the presence of the appellant is comprehensively proved that the victim was inside his house and commission of rape by the appellant on the victim is also established, therefore, the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant has no legs to stand and is rejected.

30. The submissions advanced by learned counsel for the appellant to the effect that the prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt is concerned, the statement of the PW 1 informant as well as PW 4 elder sister of the victim as well as statement of victim herself as PW 7 clearly establish and makes abundantly clear that the appellant committed rape upon the victim in his home.

31. There is no inconsistency or contradiction in the statement of the witnesses which can be fatal for the prosecution. All the witnesses relied by the prosecution have given trustworthy testimony before the trial court which inspires confidence and are worth of acceptance.

32. It has been argued by learned counsel for the appellant that there are major contradiction in the statement of PW 1, PW 4 and PW 7 and their statements are inconsistence. It would be relevant to discuss the testimony of PW 1, PW 4 and PW 7, the ocular testimony deposed by the witness goes to show that there are hardly any contradiction in the statement of the witness. All the witness examined by the trail court are inconsistence in their testimony against the appellant and have in unequivocal terms deposed before the trial court that the appellant committed rape upon the victim and PW 1 and PW 4 of the eye witness to the incident.

33. There seems to be no force in the argument of learned counsel for the appellant as aforesaid that there are major contradiction in the statement of the witness are inconsistence to the version of the first information report.

34. It has been argued by learned counsel for the appellant that appellant has been falsely implicated due to dispute of property. This argument of counsel for the appellant is based upon the testimony of DW 1 wife of appellant whose testimony has already been discussed hereinabove.

35. The appellant in support of his contention false implication arising out of property dispute has not placed any reliable documentary evidence regarding property to establish the reason of his false implication. In absence of any such evidence, it cannot be said that he has been falsely implicated in the present case due to property dispute.

36. It is pertinent to mention that PW 7 who herself is victim in her deposition before the trial court, stated that the appellant inside his house committed rape upon her and the same is corroborated with the medco-legal examination of the victim as well as by the statement of PW 5 Dr. Suvarna Kumar. Thus, contention of the appellant regarding the false implication of the appellant due to the property dispute does not inspire any confidence and cannot be accepted.

37. In the light of the aforesaid discussion, the finding recorded by the trial court are well reasoned based on proper appriciation of evidence adduced by the prosecution as well as defence. Trial Court has elaborately discussed the prosecution evidence in the light of the submissions advanced by prosecution as well as defence, the impugned judgement and order passed by the trial court is well reasoned and no interference is required.

38. Accordingly, the judgement and order dated 02.05.2017 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Balrampur in Special Criminal Case No. 84 of 2013 is hereby affirmed.

39. Now question for appreciation left before this Court is that as to whether sentence awarded to the appellant by the trial court should run "concurrently' or "consecutively'.

40. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the appellant has been convicted and sentenced for rigorous imprisonment for 10 years under Section 376 IPC with fine stipulation of Rs.3000/- and further rigorous imprisonment for 10 years under Section 6 of the POCSO Act with fine stipulation.

41. Submission laid by counsel for the appellant that the trial court has committed an error by not holding that both the sentence awarded to the appellant shall run concurrently and in absence of such finding the appellant is constrained to serve both the sentence awarded by the trial court under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of POCSO Act.

42. Section 42 and 42A of POCSO Act is very clear on the aforesaid point. Section 42 and 42A of the POCSO Act is reproduced hereinbelow;

42. Alternate punishment. Where an act or omission constitutes an offence punishable under this Act and also under sections 166A, 354A, 354B, 354C, 354D, 370, 370A, 375, 376 [376A, 376AB, 376B, 376C, 376D, 376DA, 376DB] [376E, Section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or section 67B of the Information Technology Act, 2000 (21 of 2000)], then, notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, the offender found guilty of such offence shall be liable to punishment only under this Act or under the Indian Penal Code as provides for punishment which is greater in degree.

42A. Act not in derogation of any other law.- The provisions of this Act shall be in addition to and not in derogation of the provisions of any other law for the time being in force and, in case of any inconsistency, the provisions of this Act shall have overriding effect on the provisions of any such law to the extent of the inconsistency."

43. In order to settle the controversy, the legal proposition propounded by Hon'ble Apex Court as well as this Court to be discussed.

44. The Hob'ble Apex Court in the case of Nagaraja Rao vs Central Bureau of Investigation reported in (2015) 4 SCC 302 has held as under;

"16. The following observations made by this Court in paras 9 and 10 are apposite (Mohd. Akhtar Hussain case (1998) 4 SCC 183: 1988SCC (Cri) 921: AIR 1988 SC 2143, SCC P. 187, para 9-10

"9. The section relates to administration of criminal justice and provides procedure for sentencing. The sentencing court is, therefore, required to consider and make an appropriate order as to how the sentence passed in the subsequent case is to run. Whether it should be concurrent or consecutive ?

10. The basic rule of thumb over the years has been the so-called single transaction rule for concurrent sentences. If a given transaction constitutes two offences under two enactments generally, it is wrong to have consecutive sentences. It is proper and legitimate to have concurrent sentences. But this rule has no application if the transaction relating to offences is not the same or the facts constituting the two offences are quite different."

17. Likewise, a question arose before the three-judge Bench in State of Maharashtra vs. Najakat Alia Mubarak Ali, (2001) 6 SCC 311, as to whether the accused convicted in two cases one after another was entitled to claim set off the period of detention during investigation, inquiry or trial from the sentence imposed on conviction in both the cases. While interpreting Section 428 of the Code, the majority of the judges answered the question in affirmative. While answering the question, Justice Thomas, J. speaking for majority of the Judges, made the following observations, which are pertinent. (SCC p.320, para 17

"17. In the above context, it is apposite to point out that very often it happens, when an accused is convicted in one case under different counts of offences and sentenced to different terms of imprisonment under each such count, all such sentences are directed to run concurrently. The idea behind it is that the imprisonment to be suffered by him for one count of offence will, in fact and in effect be imprisonment for other counts as well."

18. The aforesaid principle of law was relied upon by this Court in Chatar Singh vs. State of M.P., (2006) 12 SCC 37 and State of Punjab vs. Madan Lal, (2009) 5 SCC 238, and lastly recently in Manoj vs. State of Haryana, (2014) 2 SCC 153, wherein this Court taking recourse to Section 31 of the Code directed in somewhat similar facts that the sentences awarded to the accused to run "concurrently" in place of "consecutively".

45. Thus, in view of law propounded by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Nagaraja Rao (Supra) the sentence awarded to the appellant shall run "concurrently' and not "consecutively'.

46. This Court in its judgement and order dated 18.12.2020 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 309 of 2015 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 309 of 2015 (Ramu vs State of U.P. and others) has dealt with the present situation in para 51, 52 and 54 which are quoted hereinunder;

51. It is settled principle of law that no person can be punished twice for one offence. Normally a criminal court, by virtue of Section 71 I.P.C., in such cases, where any criminal act is punishable in two or more Statute or in different provision of same statutes, convicts and sentence in such provision of such statutes where lesser punishment has been provided. Parliament was aware to this situation. Looking into the gravity of nature of offence of rape offences, particularly, rape with victim below age of 18 years, Section 42 and 42 A of POCSO Act, 2012 were incorporated to deal with such peculiar situation, which read as under:-

52. Thus it is clear that if offence of sexual assault is punishable in relevant provision of POCSO Act and also in relevant provision of I.P.C., like 376 I.P.C., Trial Court is bound to punish the accused either in the relevant provision of POCSO Act, or under I.P.C. which is greater in degree.

54. In view of the provision contained in Section 42 of POCSO Act, Trial Judge ought to have punished appellant only in Section 376 I.P.C., not in Section 4 of POCSO Act, 2012. In addition to it, he ought not to have punished appellant both in Sections 376 I.P.C. and in Section 4 of POCSO Act, 2012.

47. This Court in Jail Appeal No. 6590 of 2016 (Gyanendra Singh @ Raja Singh vs State of U.P.) has held in para 52 and 54 which is quoted herein under;

52. Thus it is clear that if offence of sexual assault is punishable in relevant provision of POCSO Act and also in relevant provision of I.P.C., like 376 I.P.C., Trial Court is bound to punish the accused either in the relevant provision of POCSO Act, or under I.P.C. which is greater in degree.

54. In view of the provision contained in Section 42 of POCSO Act, Trial Judge ought to have punished appellant only in Section 376 (2) (f) (i) I.P.C., not in Section 4 of POCSO Act, 2012. In addition to it, he ought not to have punished appellant both in Sections 376 (2) I.P.C. and in Section 3 /4 of POCSO Act, 2012.

48. Thus, in the light of the abovesaid settled proposition of law and discussions, the judgement and order dated 02.05.2017 passed by Additional Session Judge, Court No.1, Balrampur in Special S.T. No. 84 of 2013 arising out of Case Crime No. 126 of 2013, under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offence Act, 1912 (in short "POCSO Act'), Police Station- Panchpedwa, District Balrampur so far as relates to conviction of appellant is maintained and affirmed but sentence is liable to be modified.

49. In view of above, conviction of appellant under Section 6 of POCSO Act is maintained. The appellant shall serve the sentence of 10 years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.3000/- and in event of default of fine, he shall further serve rigorous imprisonment for three months. No separate sentence is required for the offence under Section 376 of IPC. In case the appellant has served the sentence of imprisonment of 10 years as awarded by the learned trial court, he shall set at liberty forthwith, if not wanted in connection with any other case.

50. In the light of the observations, the appeal is partly allowed to the extent as above.

51. Let the copy of this judgement and lower court record be sent to the trial court for necessary information and compliance.

Jail Appeal No. 1043 of 2015

Ram Sewak @ Baura ...Appellant
Versus

Counsel for the Appellant:
From Jail, Sri Uttar Kumar Goswami, Sri Virendra Pratap Yadav (A.C.)

Counsel for the Opposite Party:
A.G.A.

A. Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 374(2)/383 - Indian Penal Code, 1860-Sections 363 & 376 -challenge to-conviction-no disclosure of name and address of the accused in the FIR-Informant-PW-1 denied to recognize the accused in her statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. as well as in her statement recorded before the court below as PW-1-neither any test identification parade of the accused had been carried out nor the accused was identified by the victim(PW-2)-Statement of the victim (PW-2) had not been recorded-no thumb impression or signature of the victim in the medical report, hence it is not proved that the injury report is of the victim-PW-1 had not seen the incident with her own eyes-other witnesses were not examined in support of the prosecution version-Hence, prosecution failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt.(Para 1 to 38)

B. It is well settled that where a witness identifies an accused who is not known to him in the Court for the first time, his evidence is absolutely valueless unless there has been a previous Test Identification Parade to test his powers of observations. The idea of holding T.I. Parade under Section 9 of the Evidence Act is to test the veracity of the witness on the question of his capability to identify an unknown person whom the witness may have seen only once. If no T.I. parade is held then it will be wholly unsafe to rely on his bare testimony regarding the identification of an accused for the first time in Court.(Para 19)

The appeal is allowed. (E-6)

1. This jail appeal has been preferred by accused-appellant, namely, Ram Sewak @ Baura against the judgment and order dated 21st January, 2015 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Banda in Sessions Trial No. 188 of 2013 (State Vs. Ramsewak @ Baura) arising out of Crime No. 363, 308 and 376 I.P.C., Police Station-Pailani, District-Banda, whereby the accused-appellant has been convicted and sentenced to undergo to (i) life imprisonment under Section 376 I.P.C. with fine of Rs. 40,000/-, in default thereof, he has to further undergo eight months' additional simple imprisonment and (ii) five years rigorous imprisonment under Section 363 I.P.C. with fine of Rs. 10,000/-, in default thereof, he has to further undergo two months' additional imprisonment, with the observations that the total amount of fine which was to be recovered from the accused was to be paid in favour of victim as compensation and also all the sentences were to run concurrently.

2. We have heard Mr. Virendra Pratap Yadav, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the accused-appellant no.1 and Mrs. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State. We have also perused the materials available on record.

3. The prosecution story, as reflected from the records, is as follows:

On the basis of written report submitted by the informant-P.W.1, namely, Chunni wife of Rajava on 17th September, 2001 at 2115 hours for the alleged incident dated 15th September, 2001 between 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. (Exhibit-Ka/1), a first information report has been lodged on 17th September, 2001 as Crime No. 65 of 2001, under Sections 363/308/376 I.P.C. at Police Station-Pailani, District-Banda (Exhibit-Ka/2) alleging therein that on 15th September, 2001 between 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. while seducing the daughter of the informant (hereinafter referred to as the "victim"), who was about six years of age, the relative of her neighbour, namely, Ram Jiyavan son of Ramnath, who was not known and recognized by her, took the victim to jungle where he beat her due to which she fainted and thereafter she was brutally raped by him due to which bleeding occurred from the genitals and ears of the victim. In the written report dated 17th September, 2001 addressed to the Superintendent of Police, Banda, it has been alleged that when the informant, just after the said incident, reached the Police Station for lodging of the first information report, the Station House Officer of the Police Station concerned refused to lodge the same. After lodging of the first information report, the victim was taken to the Women Hospital, Banda by the Constable Madhuri Dubey, Police Station-Women Cell, Police Office, for her medical examination, where Dr. Rekha Rani (P.W.-4), the then Medical Officer, Women Hospital, Banda on 17th September, 2001 has medically examined the victim.

4. On external examination of the victim, the Doctor found that there was no external injury on the body of the victim. On internal examination, the Doctor has opined that:

"Full circumferential recent tear of hymen with reddened brownish margin present post vaginal wall torned at 6 o'clock position in peroneal region with diamond shaped raw area of about 1 cm. x 1.5 cm dimension. Base is bluish white filled with whitish mucoid discharge. Vagina admits one finger easily whose negotiation was very painful and smeared with blood mixed discharge when taken out. Vagina smears taken and sent for pathological examination of spermatozoa. Advised X-ray Right Wrist Joint including all carpel bone and Right Shoulder Joint for confirmation of age. Supplementary report pending till X-ray report and smear report is received from District Hospital, Banda and District Women Hospital, Jhansi."

5. In the vaginal smear report of the victim (Exhibit-Ka/5), it has been reported that vaginal smear is negative for spermatozoa. On examination of vaginal smear report (Exhibit-Ka/5), the Doctor (P.W.-2) has opined that:

"No opinion about rape can be given. Injury in private part is simple in nature and caused by hard and blunt object . Her age is about 6 years."

6. After the medical examination of the victim was conducted, initially one Uma Shanker Singh Chandel, the then Station House Officer, Police Station-Pailani, District-Banda (P.W.-6) investigated the matter and recorded the statements of informant (P.W.-1), the victim (P.W.-2) and other witnesses, thereafter Mr. K.L. Sagar, Station House Officer of Police Station-Pailani (P.W.-5) has investigated the matter. After conclusion of the statutory investigation in the matter under Chapter-XII Cr.P.C., P.W.-5 has submitted Charge-sheet no. 78 of 2001 dated 24th December, 2001 (Exhibit-Ka/6) against the accused-appellant under Sections 363/308/376 I.P.C. The Magistrate concerned took cognizance of the charge-sheet and as the offence was triable by the court of Sessions, the same was committed to the Court of Sessions. Consequently, Sessions Trial No. 188 of 2013 (State of U.P. vs. Ramsewak) was registered in the matter. The trial proceeded in the matter.

7. On 21st November, 2013, the concerned Court framed following charges against the accused-appellant:

"मैं बृजलाल चौरसिया, विशेष न्यायाधीश (आ०व०अधि०)/ अपर सत्र न्यायाधीश, बांदा आप अभियुक्त रामसेवक उर्फ बौरा उर्फ चन्देल पर निम्नलिखित आरोप लगाता हूं- अतएव एतद्द्वारा निर्देशित किया जाता है कि उक्त अरोपो का विचारण इस न्यायालय द्वारा किया जायेग"

The charges were read out to the accused-appellant, who denied the accusation and demanded trial.

8. The prosecution in order to establish the charges levelled against the accused-appellant relied upon documentary evidence, which were duly proved and consequently marked as Exhibits. The same are catalogued herein below:

(i) the written report given by the informant (P.W.-1) dated 17th September, 2001 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-1;

(ii) the first information report registered on 17th September, 2001 on the written report of P.W.-1, has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-2;

(iii) Injury/medical examination report of the victim dated 17th September, 2001 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-4;

(iv) Supplementary medical examination report of the victim dated 15th October, 2001 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-5;

(v) Charge-sheet dated 24th December, 2001 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-6; and

(vi) Site plan with index has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-7.

9. The prosecution has also adduced oral testimony of following witnesses:-

"i). The informant, namely, Chunni mother of the victim has been adduced as P.W.-1; ii). The Victim has been adduced as P.W.-2;

iii) Head Constable-274 Ramnaresh, who has proved the Chik first information report has been adduced as P.W.-3;

iv) Dr. Rekha Rani, who has conducted the medical examination of the victim has been adduced as P.W.-4;

v). Inspector K.L. Sagar who has investigated the matter and submitted the charge-sheet has been adduced as P.W.-5; vi). Sub-Inspector Uma Shanker Singh Chandel, who initially investigated the matter, has been adduced as P.W.-6."

10. After recording of the prosecution evidence, the incriminating evidence were put to the accused-appellant Ramsewak @ Baura for recording his statement under section 313 Cr.PC. In his statement recorded U/s 313 Cr.P.C. on 6th January, 2015, the accused appellant denied his involvement in the crime. Accused appellant has also stated that the statements of the Prosecution witnesses are incorrect, as he has been falsely implicated due to rivalry. No witness on behalf of defence has been produced.

(i) qua the statement given by accused-appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that the oral as well as documentary evidence produced by the prosecution are false, as he has been falsely implicated due to rivalry, the trial court has recorded that neither any evidence with regard to enmity or rivalry has been produced before the court below nor any fact has been borne out from the oral or documentary evidence of prosecution which would prove any fact of implicating the accused due to rivalry. As such, the aforesaid plea of the defence has no legs to stand.

(ii) with regard to the ground taken by the defence that there is delay of two days from the date of incident in lodging of the first information report for which no explanation has been given by the prosecution, therefore, the entire prosecution version is doubtful, the trial court has recorded that the same has also no legs to stand on the ground that on perusal of the evidence it is apparent that the informant (P.W.-1) went to the Police Station for lodging of the first information report on the same day i.e. date of incident but the Station House Officer of the Police Station concerned refused to lodge the same. Such delay of two days in lodging of the same has satisfactorily been explained by the prosecution.

(iii) qua the ground taken by the defence that no case under Section 308 I.P.C. is not proved against the accused-appellant, the trial court finds substance in the same by recording that the necessary ingredients for the offence punishable under Section 308 I.P.C. is not made out against the accused-appellant, as the medical examination report of the victim does not support the prosecution version.

(iv) so far as the offence punishable under Section 363 I.P.C is concerned, the trial court has recorded that it is an admitted fact that the place of occurrence is one kilometre away from the house of victim. As per the statement of the victim, the accused-appellant took her on his shoulder to the place of occurrence from her house. At the time of occurrence, the victim was 6 to 7 years of age and minor and was in lawful guardianship of her parents. The accused-appellant had not taken any permission from the parents of the victim to take her to the place of occurrence. As such, the offence punishable under Section 363 I.P.C. is proved against the accused-appellant.

(v) with regard to the offence punishable under Section 376 I.P.C., the trial court has recorded that from the statement/evidence of the victim, the opinion of the doctor and the medical examination report of the victim prepared by the doctor and the investigation of the investigating officer and evidence, the same is also proved against the accused-appellant.

12. After recording such finding, the trial court has come to the conclusion under the impugned judgment of conviction that the prosecution has been able to fully prove that the accused-appellant, committed the offence of rape upon the victim (P.W.-2). As such, the trial court has found the offence under Sections 363 and 376 I.P.C. to have been committed by the accused person Ramsewak.

13. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and the order of conviction and sentence, the present jail appeal has been filed on the ground that conviction is against the weight of evidence on record and against the law and the sentence awarded to the accused-appellants is too severe.

14. Questioning the impugned judgment and order of conviction, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant submits that the first information report is highly belated for which no plausible explanation has been given by the prosecution, which makes the entire prosecution story doubtful. It is also noteworthy that there is no disclosure of name and address of the accused-appellant in the F.I.R. Informant-P.W.-1, namely,

Chunni wife of Rajava has stated in her cross-examination that she had not disclosed the name of the accused-appellant to the Investigating Officer at the time of recording of statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that is why she was unaware of the name of the accused-appellant. She has also stated that she had not seen the accused-appellant taking her daughter (victim) along with him. She has further stated that she had not seen the incident. She has stated that her daughter had told her about the incident and after that she knew the name of the accused-appellant. Victim (P.W.-2) has also not identified the accused-appellant in her statement given before the court below. The identification parade had also not been done by the Investigating Officer at the time of the investigation. The said offence has not been committed by the accused-appellant, hence, the prosecution story is wholly improbable as also the same has not supported by the evidence that is why the accused-appellant is not guilty of the offence punishable under Sections 363 and 376 I.P.C.

On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid arguments, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the accused-appellant submits that the impugned judgment and order of conviction cannot be legally sustained and is liable to be quashed.

15 On the other hand, Mrs. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State supports the prosecution version by submitting that the impugned judgment and order of conviction does not suffer from any illegality and infirmity so as to warrant any interference by this Court. As such the appeal filed by the accused-appellant who committed heinous offence is liable to be dismissed.

16. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsels for the parties and have gone through the records of the present appeal especially, the judgment and the order of conviction and evidence adduced before the trial court.

17. The only question which is required to be addressed and determined in this appeal is whether the conclusion of guilt arrived at by the trial court and the sentence awarded is legal and sustainable under law and suffers from no infirmity and perversity.

18. In written report submitted by the informant-P.W.-1, namely, Chunni wife of Rajava has not disclosed the name of the accused Ram Sevak. From perusal of the first information report also, it is clear that in the column of accused, name of Ram Jiyavan son of Ramnath Kevat, resident of Nari, Police Station Pailani, District Banda has been mentioned. Name of the accused-appellant Ram Sewak has not been mentioned in the first information report as "accused". The informant who has given typed application to the Superintendent of Police. Banda in which she has admitted that she does not know the accused-appellant nor she recognizes him by his name, meaning thereby that at the time of lodging of the first information report, the informant as well as the victim were unaware of the name and identity of the accused-appellant. The informant has admitted in her cross-examination as P.W.-1 that she had not disclosed the name of accused-appellant to the Investigating Officer at the time of recording of her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. She has further stated in cross-examination that it has also not been disclosed by her to the Investigating Officer that the accused-appellant raped her daughter (victim). She has further stated that her daughter told her the name of the accused-appellant, whereas the victim in her statement before the court has not identified the accused-appellant. With regard to identification of the accused-appellant, no question about the manner as to how the victim and her mother P.W.-1 have recognized the accused-appellant, has been put by the prosecution. From perusal of the case diary, witnesses Phool Kevat and Ram Mohan have stated in their statements recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. while accused-appellant Ram Sevak was taking the victim along with him, they have seen the accused-appellant Ram Sevak but both the witnesses, namely, Ram Mohan and Phool Kevat have not been adduced before the court below to identify the accused-appellant. No identification parade has been done by the Investigating Officer. The informant-P.W.-1 denied to recognize the accused-appellant in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the Investigation Officer as well as in her statement recorded before the court below as P.W.-1. Hence, it is clear that in the prosecution case the alleged offence has been committed by the accused-appellant, is doubtful.

19. For appreciating the aforesaid issue, it would be worthwhile to reproduce judgment of the The Apex Court in the case of Kanan & Ors. Vs. State of Kerala reported in 1979 (3) SCC 319 has opined as under:

".....It is well settled that where a witness Identifies an accused who is not known to him in the Court for the first time, his evidence Is absolutely valueless unless there has been a previous T. I. parade to test his powers of observations. The Idea of holding T. I. parade under Section 9 of the Evidence Act is to test the veracity of the witness on the question of his capability to identify an unknown person whom the witness may have seen only once. If no T. I. parade is held then it will be wholly unsafe to rely on his bare testimony regarding the identification of an accused for the first time in Court. ....."

20. The first informant-P.W.-1, namely, Chunni wife of Rajava has stated in her cross-examination that she had not seen the accused-appellant taking the victim to the forest along with him. She has further stated that her brother-in-law (Devar) namely, Budhram Sajivan and Ram Mohan etc. have seen the accused-appellant taking the victim along with him but all above are not examined in support of the prosecution version. The informant has accepted that she has not disclosed his name in her typed application which was given to Superintendent of Police, Banda. She has further stated that she had not seen the incident with her own eyes as she was not present on the spot when the incident occurred. She has further stated that neither she knew accused-appellant nor she recognized him by his name from before the incident. From the aforesaid it is apparently clear that the informant-P.W.-1 had not seen the incident with her own eyes. Even otherwise, there is inconsistency/improvement in the statements of the P.W.-1.

21. P.W.-2 Victim has stated in her examination-in-chief that the Investigating Officer had prepared site plan on her identification whereas the first informant-P.W.-1 has stated in her examination-in-chief that the site plan was prepared by the Investigating Officer on identification of herself. Therefore, it is not clear as to whose on identification, the Investigating Officer had prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence. In the statements of P.W.-2 also, there is inconsistency/improvement.

22. P.W.-3, Head Constable-274 Ramnaresh, who is the scriber of the first information report has stated in his cross-examination that inspection of the injury of victim was not done by him due to non-appearance of the victim at the police station. He has further admitted that during the course of scribing of the first information report, he did not ask about the victim as to why she did not come to the Police Station. Hence at the time of scribing of the first information report, he had not seen the injuries of the victim. There is also no disclosure in General Diary with regard to the same.

23. P.W.-4 Dr. Rekha Rani, Chief Medical Officer, Mahila Hospital, Budaun has examined the victim on 17.09.2001 and she found following injuries on the which are extracted hereinbelow:-

1. Secondary sex character:-

Breast rudimentary/ infantile. Pubic and axillary hairs absent. No external injury mark seen anywhere on external surface of body

2. Internal Examination:-

Full circumferential recent tear of hymen with reddened brownish margin present post vaginal wall torned at 6 O' clock position in perineal region with diamond shaped raw area of about 1 cm X 1.5 cm dimension. Base is bluish white filled with whitish mucoid discharge. Vagina admits one finger easily whose negotiation was very painful and smeared blood mixed discharge when taken out. Vaginal smear taken and sent for pathological examination of spermatozoa. Advised X-ray Rt. Wrist joint including all carpel bone and Rt. Shoulder joint for confirmation of age. Supplementary report pending till X-ray report and smear report is received from D.H. Banda and D.W.H. Jhansi.

24. In Supplementary medical report of the victim Doctor has opined that no opinion about rape can be given. Injury in private part is simple in nature and caused by hard and blunt object.

25. From perusal of medical examination report of the victim (Exhibit-Ka-4) it is evident that there is no signature of victim on the injury report. There is only a thumb impression of mother of the victim, which is attested by the Medical Officer, Women Hospital, Banda. This fact has been admitted by the Doctor Rekha Rani (P.W.-4) in her cross-examination that the right hand thumb impression of mother of victim has been verified by her (Exhibit-Ka-4). P.W.-4 has admitted that while preparing the report and verifying the thumb impression, inadvertently, she had not mentioned the name of the "mother of victim". She had only mentioned as "mother of the victim". She has further admitted that she had not asked the name of mother of the victim at the time of verifying the thumb impression that is why her name had not been mentioned. The Doctor has also stated in her cross-examination that she has not inquired about the name of the mother of the victim i.e. P.W.-1 at the time of medication examination.

26. In such circumstances, it is not clear whether the injuries shown in the said injury report are of the victim or are of her mother, Chunni Devi. There is no thumb impression or signature of the victim on this very report (Exhibit-Ka-4). Even otherwise, the Doctor has opined that no opinion about rape can be given as vaginal smear is negative for spermatozoa. As such, the said medical evidence of the prosecution is also doubtful.

27. P.W.-5 K. L. Sagar, Sub-Inspector has also been examined. He is a formal witness. He has submitted the charge-sheet before the court below. He has admitted in his cross-examination that he has prepared Parcha No. 13 on 26.11.2001. He has also admitted that in second line of Parcha no. 13 there is overwriting of date and by making such overwriting, the date "14.11.2001" has been mentioned.

28 P.W.-6 S.I. Umashanker Chandel is the second Investigating Officer. He has stated in his cross-examination that on 15.09.2021 the victim had not come alongwith her mother to the police station. He has also admitted that Inspector Indrajeet Singh had not written the injuries of the victim on Parcha No.1. He further admitted that he had not asked about the injuries of the victim. He further admitted that the first informant/ complainant had not disclosed the name of the accused-appellant. Indrajeet Singh, the first Investigating Officer has not been examined by the prosecution to support the prosecution case.

29. It is also noteworthy that from the record it is not clear as to whether the victim has been produced before the Magistrate concerned for recording her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and why such statement has not been recorded. It is also not clear that if such statement has been recorded, why the same has not been produced before the court below during the course of trial so that the same could be exhibited and kept on record.

30. It is also noteworthy that according to medical report the injuries found on the victim were not serious, hence the trial court has not found guilty the accused-appellant of the offence under Section 308 I.P.C.

31. We have examined the judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court, which merely noticed the prosecution version to hold that the prosecution has established guilt of the accused-appellant based on prosecution evidence. The trial court has not carefully examined the statements of the prosecution witnesses so as to evaluate the correctness or otherwise of the same. We have noticed hereinabove that there is material contradictions, inconsistencies and discrepancies in the statements of the prosecution witnesses specially star prosecution witness i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2.

32. Apart from the above, neither any test identification parade of the accused-appellant has been carried out nor the accused-appellant was identified by the victim (P.W.-2). Statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is not on record. The first informant (P.W.-1) and the victim (P.W.-2) both did not know the name of the accused-appellant and they did not recognize him during the course of trial. There is no thumb impression or signature of the victim in the medical examination report (Exhibit-Ka-4). Hence it is not proved that the injury report is of the victim. Doctor has opined that no opinion about rape can be given as vaginal smear is found negative.

33. We may note that on 22nd March, 2014, when the victim has been adduced as P.W.-2 by the court below i.e. after more than 13 years from the date of alleged incident, she recognized him by his name for the first time in the Court, after she came to know about the accused-appellant from some villagers. As already noted above, no identification parade has been done in the present case. Hence it is not possible for a victim who was six years of age at the time of incident, to recognize the accused by his name after long lapse of time in the court.

34. In Suresh Chandra Bahri Vs. State of Bihar, reported in 1995 SCC (Crl.) 60, the Apex Court has observed that identification of accused by the witness in court is substantial piece of evidence. Where accused is not previously known to the witness, Test Identification Parade must be held at the earliest possible. The relevant portion of the said judgment reads as follows:

"78. .....It is well settled that substantive evidence of the witness is his evidence in the court but when the accused person is not previously known to the witness concerned then identification of the accused by the witness soon after his arrest is of great importance because it furnishes an assurance that the investigation is proceeding on right lines in addition to furnishing corroboration of the evidence to be given by the witness later in court at the trial. From this point of view it is a matter of great importance both for the investigating agency and for the accused and a fortiori for the proper administration of justice that such identification is held without avoidable and unreasonable delay after the arrest of the accused and that all the necessary precautions and safeguards were effectively taken so that the investigation proceeds on correct lines for punishing the real culprit. It would, in addition, be fair to the witness concerned also who was a stranger to the accused because in that event the chances of his memory fading away are reduced and he is required to identify the alleged culprit at the earliest possible opportunity after the occurrence. It is in adopting this course alone that justice and fair play can be assured both to the accused as well as to the prosecution. But the position may be different when the accused or a culprit who stands trial had been seen not once but for quite a number of times at different point of time and places which fact may do away with the necessity of TI parade. ....."

35. Again in the case of Dana Yadav @ Dahu & Others Vs. State of Bihar reported in 2002 (7) SCC 295, the Apex Court has opined as follows:

"It is also well settled that failure to hold test identification parade, which should be held with reasonable despatch, does not make the evidence of identification in court inadmissible rather the same is very much admissible in law. Question is what is its probative value? Ordinarily identification of an accused for the first time in court by a witness should not be relied upon, the same being from its very nature, inherently of a weak character, unless it is corroborated by his previous Identification in the test identification parade or any other evidence. The purpose of test identification parade is to test the observation, grasp, memory, capacity to recapitulate what a witness has seen earlier, strength or trustworthiness of the evidence of identification of an accused and to ascertain if it can be used as reliable corroborative evidence of the witness identifying the accused at his trial in court. If a witness identifies the accused in court for the first time, the probative value of such uncorroborated evidence becomes minimal so much so that it becomes, as a rule of prudence and not law, unsafe to rely on such a piece of evidence. We are fortified in our view by catena of decisions of this Court in the cases of of Kanta Prasad v. Delhi Administration, AIR (1958) SC 350, Vaikuntam Chandrappa (supra), Budhsen (supra), Kanan & Ors. Vs. State of Kerala, [1979] 3 SCC 319, Mohanlal Gangaram Gehani v. State of Maharashtra, [1982] l SCC 700, Bollavaram Pedda Narsi Reddy (supra), State of Maharashtra Vs. Sukhdev Singh, [1992] 3 SCC 700, Jaspal Singh alias Pali v. State of Punjab, [1997] l SCC 510, Raju alias Rajendra vs. State of Maharashtra, [1998] l SCC 169, Ronny alias Ronald James Alwaris, (supra), George & Others Vs. State of Kerala & Anr., [1998] 4 SCC 605, Rajesh Govind Jagesha, (supra), State of H.P. Vs. Lekh Raj & Anr., [2000] l SCC 247 and Ramanbhai Naranbhai Patel and Ors. v. State of Gujarat, [2000] l SCC 358."

36. In view of the above discussions, we find that the trial court was not justified in returning the finding of guilt against the accused-appellant on the basis of evidence led by the prosecution. Finding of the court below that the guilt of the accused-appellant has been proved beyond reasonable doubt is perverse. We hold that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt.

37. Consequently, in view of the deliberation held above, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order of conviction 21.01.2015 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Banda in S.T. No. 188 of 2013 cannot be sustained and is hereby set aside. The accused-appellant Ram Sewak @ Baura is clearly entitled to benefit of doubt. As he has already suffered incarceration of almost ten years since the trial was started, he is entitled to be released forthwith.

38. Accordingly, the present appeal stands allowed.

39. The accused-appellant Ram Sewak @ Baura shall be released on compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C., unless he is wanted in any other case forthwith.

40. We record out appreciation of the able assistance rendered in the case by Mr. Virendra Pratap Yadav, learned Amicus Curiae, who would be entitled to his fee from the High Court Legal Service Authority, quantified as Rs. 15,000/-

41. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Banda henceforth, who shall transmit the same to the concerned jail Superintendent for release of the accused-appellant Ram Sewak @ Baura in terms of this judgment.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal has been filed by the accused appellant Manoj Kumar challenging his conviction and sentences vide judgement and order dated 25.4.2006 under Section 302 read with Section 201 I.P.C. in Session Trial No. 122 of 2001 whereby he has been sentenced to life imprisonment and a fine of Rs.50,000/-.

2. It transpires that the mother of the deceased Smt. Ganga Devi, who is the first informant (P.W. 1) gave a written report on 18.1.2000 alleging therein that her daughter Pushpa Devi aged about 25 years was married about six years back to the accused appellant and she had spent Rs.50,000/- towards dowry and marriage expenses. The accused appellant and his family members apparently were not happy with the dowry and used to torture the deceased for demand of more dowry. She was not provided with food, cloths and harassed in different ways. The deceased complained to her mother about the demand of dowry and the accused appellant and his family members were counselled and requested not to do so. However, they did not agree to such request and used to beat her and would often throw her out of the house. On 11.12.1996 the father of the accused appellant and other family members forced the deceased out of the house whereafter a complaint was made and later a compromise was arrived at. However, the deceased was again harassed. The accused appellant allegedly developed relations with another lady and had also solemnized marriage but on being confronted with such accusation, the accused appellant denied having contracted a second marriage. About four months prior to the date of the said incident the accused appellant took the deceased to his house on an assurance that he would keep the deceased happily. The first informant with an intention to ascertain well being of her daughter visited the in-laws place of the deceased about 14 days back and was informed by the family members that the accused appellant had taken her to Pilibhit. The first informant, however, did not find the deceased even at Pilibhit. Despite best endeavours, the deceased could not be traced. The first informant, therefore, made the report stating that the accused appellant along with his family members have kidnapped the deceased and killed her. On such a written report dated 18.1.2000 an FIR was registered as Case Crime No. 92 of 2000 under Section 364 I.P.C. on 3.2.2000 at 12.40 P.M.

3. Despite best efforts, the deceased could not be located. It appears that a letter dated 26.2.2000 was received in the office of the Superintendent of Police on 1.3.2000 intimating that the accused appellant has killed his wife and her dead body has been dumped beneath a culvert near a Foam Factory. This letter is not a part of the record and has not been proved. Investigation however, proceeded on the basis of the letter sent by unknown person and from the place specified in the letter, a recovery has been made by the investigating officer. The recovery included a saree and other woman garments, a pant & shirt, chadar and five bones. The recovery memo thus prepared is marked as Ex. Ka.2. The first informant and her family members were also asked to come and inspect the recovery. The first informant and her family members identified the cloths, hairs and the bones belonging to the deceased. After recovery of bones and clothes the case was converted into Section 302 read with Section 201 I.P.C. It was also noticed that in the interregnum period Section 304B I.P.C. was also added but later on this Section was dropped while submitting the charge-sheet. During investigation, a Tape Recorder has also been recovered, which is marked as Ex.Ka.15, as per which the accused appellant had admitted his guilt with regard to commissioning of the offence. The investigating officer also collected blood stained earth and plain earth from the official quarter of the accused appellant. Five bones recovered after 01.03.2000 were presented for post-mortem examination. The Doctor observed as under :

"Total (5) bones presented for P.M. Examination.

(I) Two tibia bones of different sides are present which has been eaten at both ends partially. Both bones are 26 cm. long at present.

(II) One radius bone is present which has been eaten at both ends. This bone is 24 cms. long at present (This is human bone).

(III) Two long bones which are unidentifiable are present which have been taken away. The length of these bones are 27 cms. and 17.5 cms. Long.

(IV) No mark of cut could be found on any bone.

(V) No soft tissue is present."

4. Dr. S.P. Sharma who conducted the autopsy clearly opined that from the postmortem of bones no definite opinion can be given about them being of male or female. The report of the Forensic Laboratory has also been obtained in which human blood has been found on the blood stained earth and plain earth. However, no definite opinion has been returned on items no. 1 to 3 and 5 to 10 sent for forensic examination as it is found disintegrated. The investigation however culminated in submission of a charge-sheet against the accused appellant.

5. The Magistrate took cognizance of the charge-sheet and committed the case to the Court of Sessions where the proceedings were registered as S.T. No. 122 of 2001. Charge was framed against the accused appellant under section 302, 201 and 34 IPC. The accused appellant denied the charge and claimed trial.

6. Apart from documentary evidence in the form of FIR (Ex.Ka.4), Written Report (Ex.Ka.1), Recovery Memo of cloth (Ex.Ka.2), Recovery memo of Tape Recorder (Ex.Ka.15), Recovery memo of blood stained and plain earth (Ex.Ka.16), Postmortem report (Ex.Ka.3 & Report of Vidhi Vigyan Prayogshala (Ex.Ka.20), the prosecution has examined oral testimony of P.W. 1 Smt. Ganga Devi, who is the first informant and mother of the deceased, P.W. 2 who is the father of the deceased, P.W. 3 who is the witness to identification of cloths, P.W. 4 Dr. S.P. Sharma who has conducted autopsy and examined the bones, P.W. 5 Sohan Singh who is an independent witness to the recovery of blood stained earth on the wall of the house of the accused appellant, but he has turned hostile during trial, P.W. 6 & P.W. 7 namely, Durbasha Yadav & Ganga Singh, who are the independent witnesses and alleged neighbours of the accused appellant, are also 'Bandi Rakshak' and supported the prosecution story that the accused appellant had killed his wife have also turned hostile, P.W. 8 who is the Head Constable and has verified the 'Chik FIR' and P.W. 9 who is the investigating officer. Jai Narayan Tiwari and R. K. Trivedi, who are the Sub Inspectors and were associated with the conduct of the investigation, have been summoned by the court as court witnesses.

7. On the basis of evidence so adduced, the trial court has come to a conclusion that the prosecution has established the guilt of the accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt with regard to commissioning of the offence under Section 302 read with Section 201 I.P.C. The trial court has found that the deceased was strangulated and thereafter, inflicted stab wounds and her dead body was subsequently dumped near the house of the accused appellant on Kanakpur Road so as to destroy the evidence against him. The trial court, however, found the co-accused Nanne Babu to be innocent but the accused appellant has been convicted.

8. Sri Abhishek Sharma, learned Amicus Curiae as well as Sri Rajendra Kumar Tripathi, Advocate representing the present appellant have argued the appeal at length and taken the Court through the evidences which have been brought on record.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant has foremost invited our attention to the statement of Dr. S.P. Sharma who has opined that no definite opinion can be expressed as to whether the bones are of a male or female. He submits that the recovered bones, therefore, cannot be authoritatively said to be that of the deceased and the prosecution case cannot be accepted on such evidence. He further submits that the disclosures about existence of bones and certain cloths of the deceased are based on a letter sent by unknown person who had informed the police about the existence of such material. He submits that sending of this letter by unknown person clearly shows that someone else was also involved in the commissioning of the offence, who was aware about existence of certain bones and cloths of the deceased at a specified place. This unknown person may have conspired by keeping the articles of deceased so as to implicate the accused appellant. It is further stated that the witnesses of fact i.e. P.W. 6 & P.W. 7, who supported the prosecution case about strangulation and stabbing of the deceased by the accused appellant, turned hostile, therefore, there exists no evidence to convict the accused appellant in the present case. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that blood stained earth and plain earth were collected almost six months after actual commissioning of the offence and since in the Forensic Report also, it has been found disintegrated, therefore, such recovery cannot be relied upon against the accused appellant. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that this is a case of circumstantial evidence in which chain of events is incomplete. Learned counsel for the appellant also submits that in the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused appellant had clearly stated that his wife had left for Bareilly and he himself had dropped her at the railway station and therefore, the mere fact that certain bones were allegedly recovered alleging as that of the deceased after a month, would otherwise be a weak evidence in a case where the prosecution claims to have established the guilt relying upon the circumstantial evidence. He also submits that the accused appellant has no previous criminal history and is languishing in jail for last 22 years.

10. Per contra, learned AGA submits that the deceased was subjected to harassment for demand of dowry and relation between the accused appellant and the deceased was strained and the deceased was lastly seen in the company of the accused appellant, who has failed to explain disappearance of his wife. It is also stated that identification of the deceased based upon her cloths is clearly permissible in law and as the appellant otherwise has not explained as to how his wife has disappeared the onus would be upon him to explain the circumstances of her disappearance.

11. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the materials brought on record.

12. The accused appellant is charged of strangulating his wife (the deceased) at 09.30 PM on 20.12.1999 within the jail premises at Pilibhit in the official quarter of accused appellant and stabbing her on her neck and thereby killing her. The second charge is that with an intent to destroy evidence the dead body was concealed/hidden near culvert at Tanakpur Road.

13. So far as the main charge of strangulating the deceased at 09.30 PM on 20.12.1999 at the official quarter of accused appellant in the jail premises is concerned, the prosecution had relied upon the evidence of Sohan Singh P.W.5 and Durwasa Yadav P.W.6, both of whom had supported the prosecution story in their statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. However, at the time of their deposition in court they have turned hostile and have not supported the prosecution version. The allegation that the deceased was strangulated by accused appellant and thereafter inflicted knife blows on her neck has, therefore, not been supported by any of the prosecution witnesses of fact at the stage of trial. There is no other witness who has seen the incident. There is thus no direct evidence to implicate the accused appellant of strangulating the deceased or inflicting knife blows on her.

14. The only other evidence placed by the prosecution is the bloodstain collected from the wall and earth of the house of accused appellant. The bloodstains have been collected by the Investigating Officer on 13.06.2000, which is nearly six months after the alleged incident. Although in the forensic report human blood has been found but considering the long passage of time and no other corroborative piece of evidence in that regard it would not be safe to hold that merely on account of bloodstains found on the wall at the house of accused appellant his culpability could be established.

15. The only other material relied upon by learned A.G.A. is the audio tape which is Exhibit Ka-15 in which the accused appellant is stated to have explained the manner in which he planned the conspiracy to eliminate the deceased and executed it.

16. The tape record contains the conversation allegedly made by the accused appellant on phone which is at best a statement under section 161 Cr.P.C., which cannot be treated to be substantive piece of evidence. This statement has otherwise not lead to any recovery of incriminating material from accused appellant and, therefore, by virtue of section 25 of the Evidence Act such material cannot be read or relied upon against the accused appellant.

17. In view of the above discussion we find that the charge levelled against the accused appellant of strangulating his wife and stabbing her neck is not established by the prosecution by adducing any direct evidence.

18. This takes us next to the circumstantial evidence adduced by the prosecution against the accused appellant to prove the charge. The circumstantial evidence to implicate the accused appellant is the recovery of five bones and some hair and clothes on 05.3.2000 namely Saree, Red Colour Cloth, Green Colour Cloth, Brasserie, Kathari, Thread, Black Shirt, White Shirt, Paint and Hairs. These recoveries have been made vide recovery memo Exhibit Ka-2. The forensic report is on record as per which no blood is found on thread and paint; hairs were of human; no definite result has been found on Brasserie; no blood is found on black shirt and white shirt; on Saree, Green Colour Cloth, Red Colour Cloth, Kathari and Hairs the stain was found disintegrated.

19. Before proceeding to examine the evidentiary value of the recovered items it would be necessary to examine the circumstance in which these articles have been recovered. The deceased was allegedly killed on 20.12.1999. It is after two months that a letter dated 26.02.2000 was received in the office of Superintendent of Police on 01.03.2000 informing about the accused appellant having killed his wife and her dead body alongwith recovered items dumped beneath a culvert near Foam Factory. This letter was marked to the Investigating Officer who found the dead body alongwith the recovered items. The dead body which consisted of certain bones was sent for postmortem and other recovered items (Exhibit Ka. 2) were sent for forensic report. This letter dated 26.02.2000 has not been produced during the course of trial. The author of this letter is unknown. It is not known as to how the author of letter became aware that these clothes and human bones were of the deceased. Even if the clothes have been identified to be of the deceased, by her family members, yet it would not lead to a definite inference that the accused appellant had done this act as it, at best, creates a suspicion against the accused appellant. The possibility of someone else having done the incident and having known that clothes and hairs of deceased were dumped near Foam Factory informed the police cannot be ruled out.

20. Even the bones which have been recovered cannot be connected to the deceased with any certainty. Dr. S. P. Sharma, who has conducted the autopsy, has explained that the skeleton examined by him consisted of two tibia bones eaten by insects from both ends and three other bones recovered were partially eaten by insects. In his opinion although these bones were human bones but he could not say with any certainty whether theses bones are of a man or woman.

21. The recovery of such bones almost after two months of the incident would not be of much help to the prosecution case as it cannot be said that these bones were of the deceased. Similarly, even if it was accepted that the recovered items like clothes etc. were of the deceased yet it would not inculpate the accused appellant since it is not known as to who had kept it there. This is so as some other person was aware about such material lying there and role of this unknown person would remain suspect.

22. Law with regard to the principles to be followed for conviction in a case of circumstantial evidence has been summed up by the Supreme Court in Sharad Birdichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116. The judgment has been followed recently by the Supreme Court in Nagendra Shah vs. State of Bihar, (2021) 10 SCC 725 while applying the five golden principles to observe as under in paragraph 17 of the judgment:-

"17. As the entire case is based on circumstantial evidence, we may make a useful reference to a leading decision of this Court on the subject. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra [Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 : 1984 SCC (Cri) 487] , in para 153, this Court has laid down five golden principles (Panchsheel) which govern a case based only on circumstantial evidence. Para 153 reads thus : (SCC p. 185)

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court inShivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 1033] wherein the following observations were made : (SCC p. 807, para 19)

"19. ... Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.'

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

23. On evaluation of abovenoted circumstantial evidence in light of the law settled, we find that the guilt of accused appellant cannot be treated to have been established. Hypothesis of guilt pointing exclusively to accused appellant is not established in the facts of the present case. The possibility of an alternative hypothesis cannot be ruled out.

24. The trial court has taken into consideration the above material to come to a contrary conclusion so as to implicate the accused appellant. The court below appears to have been persuaded by the prosecution version and the evidence has not been subjected to careful scrutiny in light of the law settled. The court below has proceeded to accept the prosecution version without carefully subjecting the evidence to the law settled. The court below has not taken into consideration the fact that an unknown person was guiding the prosecution and the line of reasoning suggested by him has been blindly followed. The unknown author of this letter or the role which he may have played in either commissioning of the crime or in placing the recovered articles near the culvert has not been examined. If someone was aware that for the last one and a half month the dead body was lying at a particular place and that the murder was committed by the accused appellant why did he not inform the police earlier or why he suppressed his identity remains unexplained. No direct evidence of the complicity of accused appellant is otherwise available. These are crucial aspects and the involvement of any other undisclosed person in commissioning of the offence cannot be ruled out. An alternative hypothesis therefore does exist to implicate someone other than the accused appellant.

25. This takes us to the last aspect of this case i.e. the obligation on part of the accused appellant to explain whereabouts of his wife. The accused appellant in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C has stated that he left his wife at the railway station for catching train to Bareilly. Her alleged dead body has been located in a mysterious manner after about two months from a public place. The presumption in law on part of the accused appellant of explaining the whereabouts of deceased cannot be pressed so as to obviate the prosecution of its responsibility to prove the guilt of the accused appellant by adducing cogent evidence. Such presumption could only have been pressed as corroborative piece of evidence and not as a substantive piece of evidence. We, moreover, find that no incriminating material has been put to the accused appellant by the prosecution under section 313 Cr.P.C. with regard to presumption in law on part of accused appellant of explaining the whereabouts of his wife and, therefore, this aspect also cannot be pressed against the appellant.

26. For the reasons recorded above, we are of the view that the prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt and, therefore, he is entitled to benefit of doubt in the matter. The judgement and order of conviction and sentence dated 25.04.2006 in Session Trial No.122 of 2001 is, thus, set aside. Since the accused appellant is in jail for the last 22 years, he shall be released forthwith, subject to compliance of section 437A of Criminal Procedure Code.

27. We record our appreciation for the assistance rendered to the Court by Amicus Curiae Sri Abhishek Sharma in deciding the appeal and he shall be paid his fee by the High court Legal Services Authority.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shiv Shanker Prasad, J.)

1. This jail appeal has been preferred by the appellant-Manoj Kumar Yadav challenging the judgment and order dated 10th April, 2015 passed by the Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Kannauj in Sessions Trial No. 262 of 2011 (State Vs. Manoj Kumar Yadav), arising out of Crime No. 210 of 2011, under Section 304 I.P.C., Police Station-Tirva, District Kannauj, whereby the accused-appellant has been convicted and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment under Section 304 I.P.C. with fine of Rs. 5,000/-, in default thereof, he has to further undergo three months additional imprisonment.

2. We have heard Sri Sita Ram, learned Amicus curiae for the appellant in the present jail appeal and Ms. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State as also perused the material available on record.

3. Records of the present jail appeal reveal that on the written report (Exhibit-ka/1) dated 3rd July, 2011 of the informant-P.W.-1, namely, Mishri Lal, which was scribed by one Harinath Singh, a first information report was registered under Section 304 I.P.C. as Chik No. 154/11, on 3rd July, 2011 at 11:00 a.m. alleging therein that Ramkali wife of the informant along with her son i.e. accused appellant herein, went to in-laws' place of her daughter, namely, Sidhashi wife of Raghvendra situated at village-Vilandapur, Police Station-Tirva, District Kannauj for treatment of the accused-appellant 10 to 12 days before. On 3rd July, 2022, at around 12.30 a.m. (00:30 hours) at night, during a fight, the accused-appellant hit a wooden stick on his mother i.e. wife of the informant as a result of which she died. As the dead body was lying on the spot, the informant came to the Police Station for giving information about the offence.

4. After lodging of the said first information report, the panchayatnama (Exhibit-Ka/2) of the deceased was conducted on 3rd July, 2011 at 12:00 p.m. (noon) after starting the process at 11:00 a.m. In the opinion of the Panch (Inquest) witnesses, the death of the deceased was homicidal on account of injuries caused to the deceased on her head. Thereafter the dead body of the deceased was sealed and sent to Mortuary for post-mortem.

5. Dr. S.K. Singh (P.W.-4) conducted the post-mortem of the dead body on 4th July, 2022 at 02:30 p.m. and his report is on record as Exhibit-Ka-3 as per which the deceased was nearly 60 years of age and had died due to shock and hemorrhage as a result of following ante-mortem injuries:

"Lacerated wound left temporal region 5 cm. X 1 cm. underlying bone fractured and depressed;

(ii) Contusion right side forehead 7 x 2 cm. just above right eyebrow;

(iii) fractured ribs 4th, 5th and 6th left side chest.

6. Investigation proceeded and P.W.-5/Investigating Officer, namely, Sub-Inspector Parshuram Nirala has recorded the statements of the informant, scriber of the written report and other witnesses. The Investigation Officer went to the spot and prepared the chalan lash, photo lash. He also prepared site plan and collected plain earth, blood stained earth, blood stain from the cot and the stick containing blood, whereafter upon conclusion of statutory investigation under Chapter XII Cr.P.C., charge-sheet came to be submitted against the accused appellant by the Investigating Officer on 15th July, 2011 (Exhibit-Ka/11).

7. On submission of charge-sheet, the concerned Magistrate took cognizance in the matter and committed the case to the Court of Sessions by whom the case was to be tried. On 14th November, 2011, the concerned Court framed following two charges against the accused-appellant:

"मैं चन्द्रपाल विशेष न्यायाधीश एस0 सी0 एस0 टी0 एक्ट. कन्नौज में अभियुक्त मनोज कुमार यादव को निम्न आरोप से आरोपित करता हूँ।

The charges were read out to the accused-appellant, who denied the accusation and demanded trial.

8. The prosecution in order to establish the charges levelled against the accused-appellant has relied upon following documentary evidence, which were duly proved and consequently marked as Exhibits:

"the written report of the informant/P.W.-1 scribed by one Harinath Singh dated 3rd July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/1; the chik first information report dated 3rd July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/12; panchayatnama (inquest report) dated 3rd July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/2; recovery memo of blood stained & plain earth dated 3rd July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/8; the recovery memo of stained "Ban' of cot dated 3rd July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/9; recovery memo of wooden stick dated 3rd July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/10; site plan dated 3rd July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/7, post-mortem of the deceased dated 4th July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/3; and the original charge-sheet dated 15th July, 2011 has been marked as Exhibit-Ka/11"

"P.W.-1/informant, namely, Mishri Lal, husband of the deceased and father of the accused-appellant; P.W.-2, namely, Siddhashi who is married daughter of the deceased and informant and eye-witness of the incident; P.W.-3, namely, Ravendra Singh son-in-law of the deceased and informant; P.W.-4, Dr. S.K. Singh, who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased; P.W. -5, namely, Parshuram Nirala retired Sub-Inspector, who was investigation officer; and P.W.-6, namely, Constable-2785 Omprakash, who prepared the Chik fist information report."

10. After recording of the prosecution evidence, the incriminating evidence were put to the accused for recording his statement under section 313 Cr.PC. In his statement recorded U/s 313 Cr.P.C. the accused-appellant denied his involvement in the crime. Accused appellant specifically stated before the trial court that he has been falsely implicated in this case. The defence did not examine any witness from its side.

11. On the basis of above evidence adduced during the course of trial, the court below has found the accused-appellant guilty of murdering the deceased beyond reasonable doubt after recording following finding:

"i). the prosecution case that after an altercation, the accused hit the deceased with a stick, due to which she sustained injuries and resultantly died has fully corroborated with the post-mortem and the statement of P.W.4, who conducted the post-mortem;

ii). plea of the defence that at the time of incident the mental condition of the accused-appellant was not good cannot be accepted on the ground that no medical certificate or evidence in that regard has been produced during the course of trial as also on the ground that as per the post-mortem report, it is established that the death of the deceased is due to the injuries sustained on her body before her death and the accused-appellant hit her repeatedly till she died.

iii). The plea taken by the defence that no one has seen the incident with his/her own eyes cannot be accepted on the ground that P.W.-2 has specifically stated in her examination-in-chief as well as in her cross-examination that the accused-appellant has committed the said offence by hitting her with the help of a wooden stick. There is no inconsistency or contradiction in the statement of P.W.-2, either in her examination-in-chief or cross-examination, even the accused-appellant had moved towards P.W.-2 with the stick from which it is established that the accused-appellant wanted to kill P.W.2 also; iv). In this way the prosecution statement is proved on the basis of the statements of the witnesses and the medical report shows the criminality of the accused. Resultantly, the guilt is proved against the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt.

12. Being aggrieved with the impugned judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court, the accused-appellant has preferred the present jail appeal.

13. The submission of the learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the accused-appellant is that the accused-appellant is innocent and has been falsely implicated. Next submission is that the accused-appellant is of unsound mind and has not committed the said offence and as the altercation took place between the deceased the accused-appellant, at the spur of the moment the said offence has been committed. Further submission is that the accused-appellant has no motive to kill his own mother i.e. the deceased. The argument is that the accused-appellant has no previous or any subsequent criminal antecedents to his credit except the present one. Next submission is that looking to the oral as well as documentary evidence brought on record, the sentence awarded to the accused-appellant under Section 304 I.P.C., is highly excessive. The maximum punishment which could be imposed upon the accused-appellant is 10 years under Section 304 Part II I.P.C. The learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the accused-appellant lastly submits that since the incident in question occurred on a spur of moment and in the heat of passion upon sudden quarrel, the same would be covered under the 4th Exception to Section 300 I.P.C., which reads as under:

"Exception 4. --Culpable homicide is not murder if it is committed without premeditation in a sudden fight in the heat of passion upon a sudden quarrel and without the offender having taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner."

On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned Amicus Curiae, appearing for the appellant submits that the sentence is excessive and ought not be sustained and the order of sentence must be modified taking lenient view in the matter.

14. Per contra, Mrs. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State, supporting the judgment and order of conviction, submits that the impugned judgment and order of conviction does not suffer from any illegality and infirmity so as to warrant any interference by this Court. As such the present jail appeal filed by the accused appellant who committed heinous crime by murdering the deceased is liable to be dismissed.

15. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have carefully examined the original records of the case as well as the impugned judgment and order of conviction challenged before us.

16. It is in the context of above submissions and materials placed on record before the Court that this Court is required to consider as to whether the prosecution has established the guilt of accused-appellants on the basis of above evidence beyond reasonable doubt?. For examining the same, it is important for us to record statements of the prosecution witnesses in brief.

17. P. W. 1/Informant, namely, Mishri Lal in his examination has stated that his wife's name was Ramkali (since deceased). He has a daughter, namely, Siddhashi. whose marriage was solemnized with Ravendra of village Vilandapur. Accused-appellant is his son and his mental balance was disturbed. He has further stated that about three years ago, he had gone to his daughter in-laws' house for the treatment of the accused-appellant with the deceased. After staying there for three days, he came to his village leaving the deceased and the accused-appellant. P.W.-1 has further stated that at the time when the accused-appellant and the deceased went to the place of his daughter at Vilindapur, the mental condition of the accused-appellant was not good. He had gone to Vilindapur for the treatment of the accused-appellant.

18. In the cross-examination, P.W.-1 has stated that he came to know about the accused-appellant thrashing the deceased. He had not seen anything with his own eyes. The accused-appellant was also sad and crying because of his mother's death. He has also stated that he brought the accused-appellant to his daughter's place after getting treatment from Kanpur, Agra and Lucknow. The mental balance of the accused-appellant was going bad for 10-11 years. After the incident, he had seen the accused-appellant in the police station.

19. P.W.-2, namely, Siddhashi, who is according to the prosecution an eye witness of the incident, has stated that the accused-appellant is her younger brother. He used to have poor mental balance. About three and a half years ago, her parents i.e. the deceased and P.W.-1/informant came to her house to get treatment for the accused-appellant. P.W.-1 went back to his village after leaving the deceased and the accused-appellant and they were living with her. She has further stated that on the night of 02/03 July 2011, the deceased and the accused-appellant were sleeping in the verandah of the house, while she was sleeping in the room with her kids. Since her husband i.e. P.W.3 works in a mill, he went on duty. When she came out of the room after hearing scream of the deceased at around 12.30 in the night, she saw that the accused-appellant was standing near the door with a stick. When he walked towards her, she ran for her life inside the room. She made a noise. The accused-appellant had hit the deceased with a stick due to which she died. She has further stated that her husband i.e. P.W.-3 had come back from duty in the morning. P.W.-1 was informed about the entire incident. She has then stated that the accused-appellant had killed the deceased by hitting her with a stick. She has stated that the accused-appellant's mental balance was not good. Due to his lack of mental balance, he used to do strange things. He had poor mental balance even on the night of the incident. The deceased and P.W.-1 had brought the accused appellant to her place for treatment and exorcism. In her cross examination, P.W.-2 has stated that when the Investigating Officer inquired her about the incident she has narrated the same by stating that the accused-appellant had hit the deceased. P.W.-2 has further stated that her husband was doing duty in the mill on the day of the incident. The deceased and the accused-appellant were lying down in the verandah at the time of incident . The deceased was dead when she came down through stairs. On the spot, it was she and her children. When she came to the deceased, the accused-appellant walked towards her with a stick.

20. P.W.-3, namely, Ravendra Singh, husband of P.W.-2 and son-in-law of the deceased and informant, has stated that the accused-appellant is his brother-in-law. Since the accused-appellant was ill, the deceased and P.W.-1/informant came to his house for his treatment about three and half years ago. P.W.-1, leaving the deceased and the accused-appellant at his house, went back to his village Bangaramau. He has further stated that since he works as a Guard in Uttar Pradesh Setu Department Corporation, on 02.07.11 he left his house for duty. He did his duty overnight and reached home on 03.07.11 at around 07.00 in the morning after completing his duty, he saw that the deceased had died in the verandah outside the house, the accused-appellant was sitting silently near the bathroom. His wife i.e. P.W.1 was crying and she told him that at around 12 to 01 a.m./p.m. the accused-appellant has killed the deceased by hitting her with a wooden stick. She also told him that the accused-appellant had killed the deceased by hitting her with a stick in front of her. After that, P.W.1 was called. In the cross-examination, P.W.-3 has stated that on the date when P.W.-1, the deceased and the accused-appellant came to his house, the accused-appellant was mentally unsound. They had brought him for treatment and exorcism. The accused-appellant's mental balance was not good even on the day of the incident. He was not aware that the accused-apellant had beaten his mother before this incident.

21. P.W. 4. namely, Dr. S.K. Singh, in his examination has stated that he has conducted the post mortem of the deceased

Ramkali aged about 60 years. He has further stated that in his opinion the death of the deceased, was due to excessive bleeding and shock from pre-death injuries. He has further stated that injury number 1 can also come from the bar. Injury number 01 and 02 is possible to come from the same object. No wound was visible from outside in injury number 03. He has further stated that the temporal bone was broken under the head injury. The temporal bone was broken on several sides.

22. P.W.-5, namely, Parshuram Nirala, retired from the post of Sub-Inspector, who has conducted the investigation, has stated in his examination that after taking over the investigation, he reached the spot for panchyatnama. After filling the Panchayatnama of the dead body, he prepared other papers. The dead body was sealed and sent to the Mortuary for post-moretem in the presence of P.W.-5. He has also prepared the site plan and From the spot, plain soil ,blood-stained soil, blood-stained cot and a wooden stick with blood were taken in the possession of P.W.-5. On the basis of the evidence against the accused, under the charge under section 304 IPC, the charge sheet was submitted by P.W.-5. He has further stated that he saw the wounds of the deceased.

23. P.W.-6, namey, Constable 2785 Omprakash has prepared the chik first information report on the basis of written report of the informant and also proved the same.

24. So far as the plea of mental unsoundness of the accused-appellant taken on behalf of the appellant before this Court as well as before the trial court is concerned, we may record that the said plea has been rejected by the trial court on the ground that the defence has failed to produce any medical evidence certifying that at the time of incident, the accused was of unsound mind. It is no doubt true that the defence has not been able to produce any medical evidence about the unsound mind of the accused at the time of incident, but from perusal of the first information report and the statements of the prosecution witnesses nos. 1 to 3, it is crystal clear that at the time of incident, the accused-appellant was not well and his treatment was going on and for the said purpose, the deceased went to in-laws' place of her daughter along with the accused-appellant, where the incident happened.

25. For arriving at a logical conclusion, it would be worthwhile to reproduce the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Dahyabhai Chhaganbhai Thakkar Vs. State of Gujrat, reported in AIR 1964 S.C. 1563, wherein the Apex Court held "when a plea of legal insanity is set up, the Court has to consider whether at the time of commission of the offence the accused, by reason of unsoundness of mind, was incapable of knowing the nature of the act or that he was doing what was either wrong or contrary to law. The crucial point of time for ascertaining the state of mind of the accused is the time when the offence was committed. Whether the accused was in such a state of mind as to be entitled to the benefit of Section 84 of the Indian Penal Code can only be established from the circumstances which preceded, attended and followed the crime." The Apex Court, however, considered the relevant circumstances and found that the appellant did not murder his wife in a fit of insanity and dismissed the appeal.

26. For ascertaining the aforesaid plea of legal insanity, the Apex Court has made following observations in the case of Dahyabhai Chhaganbhai Thakkar (Supra):

"There is no conflict between the general burden to prove the guilt beyond reasonable doubt, which is always on the prosecution and which never shifts, and the special burden that rests on the accused to make out his defence of insanity. (ii) The doctrine of burden of proof in the context of the plea of insanity may be stated in the following propositions:(1).The prosecution must prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused had committed the offence with the requisite, mensrea; and the burden of proving that always rests on the prosecution from the beginning to the end of the trial. (2) There is a rebuttable presumption that the accused was not insane, when he committed the crime, in the sense laid down by Section 84 of the Indian Penal Code: the accused may rebut it by placing before the court all the relevant evidence-oral, documentary or circumstantial, but the burden of proof upon him is no higher than that which rests upon a party to civil proceedings. (3) Even if the accused was not able to establish conclusively that he was insane at the time he committed the offence, the evidence placed before the court by the accused or by the prosecution may raise a reasonable doubt in the mind of the court as regards one or more of the ingredients of the offence, including mens rea of the accused and in that case the court would be entitled to acquit the accused on the ground that the general burden of proof resting on the prosecution was not discharged."

27. From perusal of the entire evidence brought on record specially the statement of P.W.-2, who is none other than the married daughter of the deceased and sister of the accused-appellant as the post-mortem report of the deceased, it is apparently clear that on the date of incident, there was an altercation between the deceased and the accused-appellant and suddenly in a fit of anger, he attacked his mother with a stick due to which she sustained injuries and died. Therefore, it is discernable that it is the accused-appellant who has committed the offence but he had no motive or intention to do the same specifically with his mother, who was making all efforts for his treatment.

28. In Pulicherla Nagaraju @ Nagaraja Reddy Vs. State of Andhara Pradesh reported in (2006) 11 SCC 444 in paragraph-29, the Apex Court has opined that the court should proceed to decide the pivotal question of intention, with care and caution, as that will decide whether the case falls under Section 302 or 304 Part 1 or 304 Part II. In many petty or insignificant matters, plucking of a fruit, straying of cattle, quarrel of children, utterance of a rude word or even an objectionable glance,may lead to altercations and group clashes culminating in deaths. Usual motives like revenge, greed jealously or suspicion may be totally absent in such cases. There may be no intention. There may be no premeditation. In fact, there may not even be criminality. At the other end of the spectrum, there may be cases of murder where the accused attempts to avoid the penalty for murder by attempting to put forth a case that there was no intention to cause death. It is for the courts to ensure that the cases of murder punishable under Section 302, are not covered into offences punishable under Section 304 Part-I/II, or cases of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, are treated as murder punishable under Section 302.

29. On going through the entire evidence on record, we find that the necessary ingredients to attract 4th Exception to section 300 IPC are clearly present in the facts of the present case inasmuch as death is caused; there existed no pre-meditation; it was a sudden fight; the offender has not taken undue advantage or acted in a cruel or unusual manner, therefore, the case in hand clearly falls under fourth exception to section 300 IPC.

30. The issue relating to quantum of sentence under Section 304 I.P.C. depends on background facts of the case, antecedents of the accused, whether the assault was premeditated and pre-planned or not, etc. There are no straight jacket formulae for the determination of the same in law.

31. In view of the above discussions and deliberations, we are of the considered opinion that although the accused-appellant/defence has not been able to establish the plea of his mental unsoundness at the time he has committed the said offence by not producing any medical evidence in support of the said plea during the course of trial but it is to kept in mind by us that the accused-appellant had no motive or intention to commit the said offence. The said offence has been committed by the accused-appellant on a spur of moment and in the heat of passion upon sudden quarrel between him and his mother (deceased), as is evident from the statement of P.W.-2. It is also not in dispute that the accused-appellant was not entirely well and was under treatment, as is clearly discernable from the statements of the prosecution witnesses. It is also to be kept in mind that after committing the said crime, the accused-appellant had not run away from the crime scene like other notorious criminals. When the accused-appellant's anger subsided, he felt a lot of disgrace and remorse and was crying near the bathroom of the house in question, as is evident from the statement of P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and P.W.-5. Seeing the aforesaid circumstances we are of the view that the quantum of sentence to life imprisonment under Section 304 I.P.C. as awarded under the impugned order of sentence is too harsh in the facts of the present case.

32. Attention of the Court has been invited to the statement of Investigating Officer as per which the appellant was arrested on 05.07.2011 and even at the time of pronouncement of judgment by the court below, the appellant was in jail. He has been enlarged on bail by this Court on 23.08.2022. The appellant therefore has undergone incarceration without remission of more than 11 years. With remission the period of incarceration would be more than 13 years.

33. Accordingly, we modify the impugned judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court by holding that the conviction of accused appellant under Section 304 IPC is sustained but the sentenced is modified to the period of incarceration already undergone by the appellant.

34. Accordingly, the present appeal succeeds in part.

35. Since the accused-appellant is reported to be on bail, he needs not be surrender subject to compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C., unless he is wanted in any other case.

36. Learned Amicus Curiae, for the appellant shall be entitled to his fee from the High Court Legal Services Authority, as per the rules.

37. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kannauj, henceforth, for doing the needful in terms of this judgment.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. It appears that name of the revisionist-juvenile has been disclosed in the memo of revision. This fault from the side of revisionist escaped detection by the Registry. The concerned Officer of the Registry is directed to delete the name of the revisionist-minor from the title of the revision as fed and shown in the data on official website and represent him as "Minor 'X' Through His Natural Guardian Father 'Y".

2. Heard Sri Pramod Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Avanish Kumar holding brief of Sri Narendra Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2-the informant and Sri O.P. Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

3. This criminal revision has been filed with the prayer to set aside the order of the Juvenile Justice Board, Prayagraj dated 13.09.2021 and the order of the Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POSCO Act, Allahabad passed on 30.10.2021 in Criminal Appeal No. 101 of 2021 affirming the order of the Juvenile Justice Board, Prayagraj and declining bail to the juvenile in a matter arising out of Case Crime No. 134 of 2021 under Sections 376, 506 IPC, 3/4 of POSCO Act and 3(2)(5) of SC/ST Act, Police Station-Shankargarh, District-Prayagraj with further prayer to admit him to bail.

4. The submissions of the revisionist is that the juvenile who was found to be of the age of 15 years 8 months and 14 days on the date of the incident, by the Juvenile Justice Board vide order dated 26.08.2021, is lodged in an observation home since 01.05.2021 and that the impugned orders have been passed in complete disregard of the provisions of Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act; there has been no material before the Juvenile Justice Board or the appellate Court to arrive at a conclusion that in case the juvenile is released on bail, he shall be exposed to physical, moral and psychological danger and that his release shall not be in the best interest of the juvenile himself; the impugned orders being arbitrary and contrary to law and are liable to be set aside.

5. As per the version of the FIR, a six years old daughter of the informant had gone to gather unripe mangoes from the orchard belonging to Sarjo Master where the juvenile was also present. He dragged the victim to an abandoned hut, sexually assaulted her and also threatened and instructed her not to disclose the incident to anybody else. The victim, however, disclosed the whole matter to her mother, thereafter, the FIR Case Crime No. 0134 of 2021 under Sections 376, 506 IPC, 3/4 of POCSO Act and 3(2)(5) of SC/ST Act was registered same day at 23.47 hours i.e., within seven hours of the occurrence which took place on 30.04.2021 at 17.30 hours in the evening.

6. As per the statement of the victim under Section 161, when she went to gather some mangoes from the place of occurrence i.e., mango orchard, the juvenile taking advantage of the absence of any other in the vicinity, forcibly dragged her to an abandoned hut and ravished her after removing her clothes. After the act, he made her wear the clothes again and sent her back to her house after threatening her and instructing her not to disclose anything to anybody else. As per the medical examination report, she was bleeding from her private parts and there was also rapture of hymen and tear in labia minora and fourchette introitus. She was also bleeding from her vagina and perineum. As per the report of the C.M.O., she was merely 8 years old at the time of the occurrence.

7. First and foremost contention from the side of revisionist is that gravity of the offence is not relevant consideration for refusing bail to the juvenile as has been held by a coordinate Bench of this Court in Criminal Revision No. 2732 of 2010 (Amit Kumar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 14.09.2010, Criminal Revision No. 1266 of 2020 (Kanchan Sonkar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 01.12.2020, Criminal

Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016 and held by the Apex Court in Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan, 2006 Cri.L.J. 1373.

8. In Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016, this Court referred to the earlier judgement in Vijendra Kumar Mali vs. State of U.P., 2003 (1) J.I.C. 103, wherein it was observed that in a number of judgements, it has been categorically held that bail to the juvenile can only be refused if one of the grounds as provided in Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act, existed; so far as the ground of gravity is concerned, it was not covered under the relevant provisions; if the bail application of the juvenile was to be considered under the provisions of Cr.P.C., there would have been absolutely no necessity for the enactment of the aforesaid Act. The Section 12 of the Act contained a non-obstante clause, which indicated that the general provisions of Cr.P.C. shall not apply. Therefore, the gravity or seriousness of the offence should not be taken as an obstacle or hindrance to refuse the bail to delinquent juvenile.

9. It is contended that since there existed no material to justify rejection of bail on the grounds envisaged in Section 12 of the Act; the 'child in conflict with law', who has been in custody for quite some time deserved to be released on bail otherwise, the purpose of provisions of Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act shall stand defeated; that care of the juvenile in a child care institution cannot be preferred over his care in his biological family.

10. In Om Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan and another; (2012) 5 SCC 201, the Apex Court observed that the Juvenile Justice Act was enacted with a laudable object of providing a separate forum or a special court for holding trial of juvenile as it was felt that child become delinquent by force of circumstance and not by choice and hence they need to be treated with care and sensitivity while dealing and trying cases involving criminal offence. It was further observed that when an accused is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed in a well planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind the court ought to be more careful. It may be noted that the Hon'ble Apex Court gave aforesaid view in the background of facts that age of the juvenile determined by the courts below was not free from doubts. In those peculiar circumstances, the Apex Court commanded attention of the Courts that where accused commited grave and heinous offence and thereafter he attempted to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording his age, is not acceptable. It was also observed that the shelter of the principle of benevolent legislation of the Juvenile Justice Act is meant for minors, who are innocent law breakers.

11. All said and done, the nature of crime where its grave and heinous cannot be simply passed over. In this context, I choose to mention the observations made by a coordinate Bench of this Court in Mangesh Rajbhar vs. State of U.P. and Another; 2018 (2) ACR 1941, which reads as under:-

25. It is not that this aspect of the gravity of the offence has been considered irrelevant to the issue of grant or refusal of bail to a minor in the past and before the present Act of 2015 came into force. In a decision of this Court under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 where the interest of the society were placed seemingly not on a level of playing field with the juvenile, this Court in construing the provisions of Section 12 in that Act that were pari materia to Section 12 of the Act in the matter of grant of bail to a minor held in the case of Monu @ Moni @ Rahul @ Rohit v. State of U.P., 2011 (74) ACC 353 in paragraph Nos. 14 and 15 of the report as under:

"14. Aforesaid section no where ordains that bail to a juvenile is a must in all cases as it can be denied for the reasons".....if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring him into association with any known criminal or expose him to moral, physical or psychological danger or that his release would defeat the ends of justice."

15. In the light of above statutory provision bail prayer of the juvenile revisionist has to be considered on the surrounding facts and circumstances. Merely by declaration of being a juvenile does not entitle a juvenile in conflict with law to be released on bail as a matter of right. The Act has a solemn purpose to achieve betterment of juvenile offenders but it is not a shelter home for those juvenile offenders who have got criminal proclivities and a criminal psychology. It has a reformative approach but does not completely shun retributive theory. Legislature has preserved larger interest of society even in cases of bail to a juvenile. The Act seeks to achieve moral physical and psychological betterment of juvenile offender and therefore if, it is found that the ends of justice will be defeated or that goal desired by the legislature can be achieved by detaining a juvenile offender in a juvenile home, bail can be denied to him. This is perceptible from phraseology of section 12 itself. Legislature in its wisdom has therefore carved out exceptions to the rule of bail to a juvenile."

12. Ordinarily, the merits of the matter may not be unduly important where the Courts are inclined to give benefit of bail as envisaged in Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act. This is not to say that once a person is found a juvenile, it is mandatory to grant him bail and that merits of matter shall have no relevance. In my view, the nature of the crime and factors connected thereto never went into oblivion and this particular aspect have been usefully illuminated by the Courts time and again. In fact nature of the offence and merits of the matter may assume ample significance when the Court has to form an opinion about the ends of justice. It may be noted that the phrase 'ends of justice', cannot exist in a vacuum. Unarguably and undeniably, the Courts are under obligation to address the concerns of both the sides and strike a delicate balance between competing and often conflicting demands of justice of the two sides. When viewing the matters of bail from this particular angle of deciphering the ends of justice not only the nature of crime, but also the manner of commission thereof, methodology applied, the mental state, the extent of involvement, the evidence available shall be the factors to reckon with. To my mind, from this particular point of view, no artificial line can be drawn to differentiate cases of juvenile

13. Following facts are important in the present matter before me:-

Firstly, the nature of the crime that a little innocent girl of tender age had gone to an orchard not apprehending something untoward may happen to her. Obviously, she was not in a position to physically resist a sufficiently grown up boy, who over-powered her and was made to undergo ordeal of such atrocious crime in a merciless manner. The kind of injuries, she sustained, is enough to shake once conscience. The act in itself indicates the physical and mental maturity of the juvenile and also impels this Court to think about the need for professional counseling with the object of inculcating in him a healthy mind when he grows up into an adult. Therefore, secondly, in my view, he actually needs strict supervision and intervention of the authorities as per the scheme of the Act for his own welfare and well being. Thirdly, the aim and object of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 cannot be achieved if crimes committed by the juveniles are not viewed from the angle of concerns of the society at large as well.

14. I am of the firm view that when considering the bail, the matter is to be assessed from the angle of the (i) principle of best interest, i.e., welfare of the juvenile, (ii) angle of the demands of justice of both the sides and (iii) also the concern of the society at large. He grows into an adult with a healthy mind inside, is in the larger interest of the society. The aim and object of the Act cannot be achieved unless the statutory provisions are not interpreted according to the growing needs of the times. The laws need constant updation of meanings to achieve the goals set in the statement of objects and reasons at the time of enactment.

15. The Juvenile Justice Board did not find it a fit case to release the juvenile on bail, considering the fact that his act must have caused a lot of outrage in the public and local people of the village including the family of the victim and trauma to the victim herself. The Juvenile Justice Board observed that the provisions of Juvenile Justice Act do not mean that once the person is adjudged juvenile, he is entitled to bail, irrespective of all other factors. The Board has taken into consideration the social investigation report submitted by the District Probation Officer. Likewise, the learned appellate Court expressed its opinion that in case the juvenile is released and brought back to his family, he will fall in the same company and environs where he used to be earlier and from where he needs to be protected and rescued, hence, the demands of the best interest of the child required that he should not be released to his family members. Moreover, the learned courts below took into consideration the demands of justice of the victim's family and came to a conclusion that his release shall defeat the ends of justice. I am of the view that the orders of the learned Appellate Court and the Juvenile Justice Board, thus cannot be faulted and the revision is liable to be dismissed as it lacks merits.

16. The revision is, accordingly, dismissed.

17. The Court/concerned Board is directed to expedite the hearing and conclude the same at the earliest without getting influenced by any of the observations made in this order.

18. Copy of the order be certified to the Court concerned

Note- Copy of the order be sent to concerned Section of the Registry for immediate compliance of direction given in Para-1 of the order.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Santosh Kumar Chaubey, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri J.B. Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This criminal revision has been filed under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 with a prayer to set aside the order of the Juvenile Justice Board dated 26.03.2021 passed in age determination inquiry in Misc. Application No. 43 of 2020 arising out of Crime No. 439 of 2020 under Sections 302, 120-B IPC, Police Station Hasanpur, District-Amroha (J.P. Nagar) with a further prayer to set aside the order passed in criminal appeal affirming the order of the Juvenile Justice Board and to declare the revisionist a juvenile under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015.

3. The submission of the revisionist are that the learned courts below have committed a manifest error of law in passing the impugned orders; in the school certificate the date of birth was shown as 10.08.2006, which clearly established the age of the revisionist as 14 years and 12 days on the date of the occurrence; the courts below ignored the school certificate thereby flouting the provisions of law; the school certificate was proved by the evidence of the teacher of the concerned primary school and by the Ex-Principal of the same institution examined as CW2 and CW3; the learned courts below instead of relying upon the original and the documentary evidence took into consideration the report of the Medical Board and disbelieved the date of birth, as shown in the certificate; the impugned order is illegal because it is founded on the fact that the copy of the pariwar register was not produced by the revisionist at the right time; at the same time, the age of the juvenile, as shown in the driving licence was accepted against the provisions of law, hence, the impugned orders are liable to be set aside and the revisionist deserves to be declared a juvenile.

4. The revisionist has relied on Ajay Kumar Singh @ Babloo Singh vs. State of U.P. and Uday Pratap Singh; 2022 (6) ADJ 85 (LB), wherein the Court observed that the matriculation certificate was available, therefore, there was no occasion to have gone for other documents, such as birth certificate issued by the local bodies. In the above case before the court the arguments of the revisionist that the Juvenile Justice Board should have gone for ossification test, was discarded as misconceived in the light of specific provisions given in clause (iii) of Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 which said that only in the absence of document mentioned in clause (i) and (ii), age shall be determined by an ossification test. The Court discarded the plea that the original document of the school first attended should have been summoned and held that the court below rightly determined the age of the juvenile on the basis of the matriculation certificate and it was opined that unless some documentary proof or evidence is produced before the Board or the lower appellate court, which may negate the correctness of the high school certificate, the order cannot be faulted.

5. The revisionist also relied upon the judgment of this Court in Buddhu vs. State of U.P.; (2021) 12 ILR A144, to stress the point that the educational certificate is to be preferred over any other evidence and the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Ashwani Kumar Saxena vs. State of Madhya Pradesh; (2012) 9 SCC 750, wherein the Court stated its opinion in the following words:

"34.....There may be situations where the entry made in the matriculation or equivalent certificates, date of birth certificate from the school first attended and even the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat may not be correct. But court, Juvenile Justice Board or a committee functioning under the JJ Act is not expected to conduct such a roving enquiry and to go behind those certificates to examine the correctness of those documents, kept during the normal course of business. Only in cases where those documents or certificates are found to be fabricated or manipulated, the court, the Juvenile Justice Board or the committee need to go for medical report for age determination."

6. The Hon'ble Court in Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra), then proceeded to examine the essential difference between the words 'inquiry, investigation and trial' as we find in the Cr.P.C. Thereafter held that the procedure to be followed under the Juvenile Justice Act in conducting the inquiry is the procedure as laid down in that statute itself i.e., Rule 12 of 2007 Rules and held that the age determination inquiry contemplated under the Juvenile Justice Act and Rules had nothing to do with the inquiry under other legislations like entry in service, retirement and promotion. The Court observed that where the entry made in the school certificates is available, the Court or the Juvenile Justice Board is not expected to conduct a roving inquiry and go beyond those certificates to examine their correctness when those documents have been kept during the normal course of business. The Hon'ble Court held that the credibility and acceptability of the documents, including the school leaving certificate, would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard and fast rule as such could be laid down in that regard. The Hon'ble Court also held that the certificates shall not be viewed as doubtful on a notion that the parents usually get entered a wrong date of birth in the admission registers.

7. On the other hand, the dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in Rashipal Singh Solanki vs. State of U.P. and Others; 2021 (11) ADJ 489 decided on 18.11.2021 has been presented before me wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court had considered the judgments given in Parag Bhati vs. State of U.P.; (2016) 12 SCC 744, Sanjeev Kumar Gupta vs. State of U.P. and Another; (2019) 12 SCC 370 and Abuzar Hossain vs. State of West Bengal; (2012) 10 SCC 489, Ashwani Kumar Saxena vs. State of M.P.; (2012) 9 SCC 750, Babloo Pasi vs. State of Jharkhand; (2008) 13 SCC 133, Arnit Das vs. State of Bihar; (2000) 5 SCC 488, Jitendra Ram vs. State of Jharkhand; (2006) 9 SCC 428 and several others.

8. In Para-25 of the above judgment (Rashipal Singh Solanki), the Hon'ble Apex Court has pointed out the difference in the procedure under the two enactments i.e., the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 and the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, as to inquiry into determination of age of the juvenile and also the power to seek evidence, how and when to exercise that power and when to go for ossification test. The Hon'ble Court, in nutshell, held that each case may be dealt with in the light of its own peculiar facts and circumstances while keeping certain principles as guiding factor in mind as described in concluding para of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court. The concluding para shall be reproduced verbatim in para 13 of present judgment.

9. At the same time, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rashipal Singh Solanki (supra), in the same para pointed out the similarity between the Rule 12 of the Juvenile Justice Rules, 2007 and sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, as a substantive provisions. The Hon'ble Apex Court referred to a judgment in Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) and also Abuzar Hossain (supra) highlighting the fact that only in cases where certificates are found to be fabricated and manipulated, the Juvenile Justice Board need to go for medical report and also highlighted the fact that the yardstick for depending on the school certificates may be a bit different where the school leaving certificate or voter list etc., is obtained after conviction.

10. In may view, the Hon'ble Court kept in mind the facts and circumstances attached to production of documents/certificates, as required by the provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act before those documents could be relied upon. In another words, it appears that the opinion largely is that even if the documents are found to be prima facie correct, there may be facts and circumstances to alert the Court to go into the inquiry to satisfy itself as to correctness of the claim. In the same breath, the Court referred to an opinion given in the judgment of Abuzar Hossain (supra) that when any claimant or any of the parents or a siblings in support of the claim of the juvenility raised for the first time in appeal or revision depends on mere affidavits, it shall not be sufficient to justify the inquiry for determination of age unless there exist circumstances which cannot be ignored.

11. In Sanjeev Kumar Gupta (supra), the credibility and authenticity of the matriculation certificate for the purpose of determination of age under Section 7(A) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 came up for consideration. In the said case, the Juvenile Justice Board had rejected the claim of the juvenility and that decision of the Juvenile Justice Board was restored by the Hon'ble Apex Court by rejecting the order of the Hon'ble High Court. It was observed therein that the records maintained by the C.B.S.C. were purely on the basis of final list of the students forwarded by the Senior Secondary School where the juvenile had studied from Class 5 to 10 and not on the basis of any other underlying documents. On the other hand, there was clear and unimpeachable evidence of date of birth which had been recorded in the records of another school, which the second respondent therein had attended till class 4 and which was supported by voluntary disclosure made by the accused while obtaining both, Aadhaar Card and driving license. It was observed that the date of birth reflected in the matriculation certificate could not be accepted as authentic or credible. In the said case, it was held that the date of birth of the second respondent therein was 17.12.1995 and that he was not entitled to claim juvenility as the date of the alleged incident was 18.08.2015.

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjeev Kumar Gupta (supra) considered the judgment in Ashwani Kumar Saxena (supra) and also judgment in Abuzar Hossain @ Gulam Hossain (supra), and observed that the credibility and acceptability of the documents including the school leaving certificate would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard and fast rule as such could be laid down in that regard. The Hon'ble Apex Court reproduced the observation of itself in Abuzar Hossain @ Gulam Hossain (supra) which is below:

".....directing an inquiry is not the same thing as declaring the accused to be a juvenile. In the former, the Court simply records a prima facie conclusion, while a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Hence, the approach at the stage of directing an inquiry has to be more liberal lest, there is miscarriage of justice. The standard of proof required is different for both. In the former, the Court simply records the prima facie conclusion. It would eventually depend on how the Court evaluates such material for a prima facie conclusion and the Court may or may not direct an inquiry. In the latter, the Court makes a declaration on evidence that it scrutinises and accepts such evidence only if it is worthy of acceptance."

13 . The Hon'ble Apex Court in Rashipal Singh Solanki (supra), after considering all the judgments held as below:

"29. What emerges on a cumulative consideration of the aforesaid catena of judgments is as follows:

(i) A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage of a criminal proceeding, even after a final disposal of the case. A delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. It can also be raised for the first time before this Court.

(ii) An application claiming juvenility could be made either before the Court or the JJ Board.

(ii-a) When the issue of juvenility arises before a Court, it would be under sub-section (2) and (3) of section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015 but when a person is brought before a Committee or JJ Board, section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 applies.

(ii-b) If an application is filed before the Court claiming juvenility, the provision of sub-section (2) of section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with sub-section (2) of section 9 so as to seek evidence for the purpose of recording a finding stating the age of the person as nearly as may be.

(ii-c) When an application claiming juvenility is made under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 before the JJ Board when the matter regarding the alleged commission of offence is pending before a Court, then the procedure contemplated under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would apply. Under the said provision if the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Board shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence and the age recorded by the JJ Board to be the age of the person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the JJ Act, 2015, be deemed to be true age of that person. Hence the degree of proof required in such a proceeding before the JJ Board, when an application is filed seeking a claim of juvenility when the trial is before the concerned criminal court, is higher than when an inquiry is made by a court before which the case regarding the commission of the offence is pending (vide section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015).

(iii) That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the Court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rule 12(3)(a)(i), (ii), and (iii) of the JJ Rules 2007 made under the JJ Act, 2000 or sub-section (2) of section 94 of JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the Court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

(iv) The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

(v) That the procedure of an inquiry by a Court is not the same thing as declaring the age of the person as a juvenile sought before the JJ Board when the case is pending for trial before the concerned criminal court. In case of an inquiry, the Court records a prima facie conclusion but when there is a determination of age as per sub-section (2) of section 94of 2015 Act, a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Also the age recorded by the JJ Board shall be deemed to be the true age of the person brought before it. Thus, the standard of proof in an inquiry is different from that required in a proceeding where the determination and declaration of the age of a person has to be made on the basis of evidence scrutinised and accepted only if worthy of such acceptance.

(vi) That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

(vii) This Court has observed that a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

(viii) If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the Court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

(ix) That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Indian Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

(x) Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the Court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act viz., section 35 and other provisions.

(xi) Ossification Test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015."

14. The Hon'ble Court, referring to the fact that there was no other document contradicting the date of birth as shown in the matriculation certificate, held that the medical evidence is not required and upheld the order of the Hon'ble High Court which sustained the judgment of the Sessions Court as well as the Juvenile Justice Board.

15. Coming to the facts of this matter admittedly, the school leaving certificate, wherein the date of birth was shown as 10.08.2006, issued on 25.11.2020 by the Primary School, Bawan Kheri, Thana-Hasanpur, Amroha was produced, however, the authenticity and the acceptability of that certificate was challenged by the respondent-informant by producing a copy of pariwar register showing date of birth of juvenile as of the year 1999 as well as a driving licence showing the same year of birth. Thereafter, in rebuttal another copy of pariwar register was produced on behalf of the juvenile showing his date of birth as 10.08.2006.

16. In the above circumstances, an inquiry into the age determination was directed and several witnesses were examined. CW1-father of juvenile admitted that he knows about the date of birth of his son only on the basis of entry in the school leaving certificate and that he does not remember his exact date of birth. CW2-Mariyam, Principal of the school, though, verified the fact that the transfer certificate was issued by the school and also produced the S.R. register, the attendance register etc., however, she stated that she was unaware of the basis of entry of date of birth as 10.08.2006 and the reasons for juvenile's admission in that institutions in Class-IInd. CW3-the Ex-principal of that school stated that at the time of his admission, he recorded the age of the juvenile and the date of birth as 10.08.2006 as told by his elder brother, the only person who accompanied the juvenile at the time of his admission. Admittedly, admission register was never produced. The medical examination and the X-ray of the juvenile indicated that his radiological age was about 19 years. The radiologist namely, Dr. Kuldeep Singh found that the bones of wrist, elbow, knees and clavicle were all fused.

17. From the perusal of the impugned order, it appears that finding the school leaving certificate quite doubtful and finding that there was no underlying document to record his age at the time of admission in the concerned institution coupled with the facts that other documents like copy of pariwar register and driving licence showed different age of the juvenile, in my view, the Juvenile Justice Board and the learned Appellate Court below rightly embarked on an inquiry and radiological age was ordered to be conducted. The courts below cannot be faulted for depending upon the medical/radiological age of the juvenile and declaring him as an adult on the basis of the evidence available in the facts and circumstance of the case. Before this Court, copy of bail order passed in Bail Application No. 70/2022 dated 15.01.2022 passed by the Incharge, Sessions Judge, Amroha and copy of the order passed by this Court on 24.05.2022 in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 7301 of 2022 moved on behalf of the present revisionist, who claim himself to be a juvenile, has been brought on record. In the bail application moved before the Sessions Judge, the applicant-revisionist has shown his age as 19 years, which goes against his own claim.

18. In my view, there were enough of reasons to discard the documented age of the juvenile and to call for ossification test, the Board was perfectly justified in seeking evidence for determination of age and drawing its own conclusion based on the evidence available including evidence of radiological test. The Board as well as appellate court both have given a concurrent finding which is not liable to be disturbed by this Court while exercising revisional powers under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, therefore, I do not find any illegality or impropriety in the impugned order.

19. The revision is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gajendra Kumar, J.)

1. It appears that name of the revisionist-juvenile has been disclosed in the memo of revision. This fault from the side of revisionist escaped detection by the Registry. The concerned Officer of the Registry is directed to delete the name of the revisionist-minor from the title of the revision as fed and shown in the data on website and represent him as "Minor 'X'

Through His Natural Guardian Father Arjun Singh".

2. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned AGA for the State as well as learned counsel for the private respondents and perused the record.

3. This criminal revision under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, has been filed on behalf of the minor 'X' through his natural guardian/father Arjun Singh s/o Mohan singh, R/o Village-Gokulpur, Police Station Nidhauli Kalan, District Etah with the prayer to admit the minor on bail alongwith the prayer to set aside the order dated 15.11.2021 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Etah and order dated 20.01.2022 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POCSO Act, Etah in Criminal Appeal No.48 of 2021 arising out of Case Crime No.26 of 2019 under Section 376-D, 354, 506, 452, 306 IPC and 4 POCSO Act, Police Station-Nidhauli Kalan, District-Etah by which the criminal appeal No.48 of 2021 was rejected.

4. As per the prosecution version, instant FIR has been lodged by Veerpal Singh, father of the victim, alleging therein that his minor daughter/victim was being teased and molested since after Diwali festival by the juvenile son of Arjun along with his cousin brother Pushpendra and Manpal. and the complaint's family along with victim were also terrorised and threatened with dire consequences by them. In the evening of 23.02.2021, Juvenile and Manpal had caught the victim near Marghat with bad intention when they (accused) were returning back from the house of the victim after taking 'Aata'. On hearing the scream of the victim, some people came on the spot, thereafter she save herself. Thereafter, when victim came to her house and told about the said incident to her mother, and on getting information about the above incident, the complainant's wife scolded the juvenile and Manpal for which, the victim was threatened and scared in the said night by the juvenile and other accused persons. On 24.02.2021, at about 05:00 am, when victim was making tea in her house, finding her alone, the juvenile trespassed into the house and caught her; when she tried to save her, then the juvenile poured diesel upon her and set her on fire with the intention to kill her. Thereafter, victim in burnt condition was brought by Munnesh R/O Fatehpur in Bolero vehicle to Etah Distt. Hospital, Whereafter first aid, she was sent in an ambulance to Aligarh Medical College. According to the complainant, victim has been gangraped by the accused-persons, due to which she was pregnant and after treatment of some days, ultimately she died on 15.03.2021. Hence, F.I.R regarding this incident was lodged on 03.03.2021 at about 14:40 hours being case crime no. 26/2021 u/s 376-D, 354, 506, 452, 307 I.P.C and 4 POSCO act, at P.S Nidhauli Kalan, Distt. Etah against the Juvenile, Pushpendra and Manpal, in which after investigation charge-sheet has been submitted against the juvenile and Malla @ Manpal u/s 376-D, 354, 506, 306 I.P.C and 4 POSCO Act, on which cognizance has been taken by the Court of Special Judge (Exclusive POSCO Act), Etah on 06.05.2021.

5. During the proceedings before the Juvenile Justice Board, the revisionist was found to be the age of 16 years, 10 months and 13 days on the date of the incident and was declared juvenile vide order dated 04.10.2021. A bail application through guardian was moved before the Juvenile Justice Board, Etah, but the same was rejected. Thereafter, a criminal appeal No.48/2021 was preferred by the father and guardian of the juvenile and the same was also dismissed vide order dated 20.01.2022.

6. Aggrieved by the above orders, this criminal revision has been preferred to set-aside the same and to admit the juvenile to bail.

7. First and foremost contention is that gravity of the offence is not relevant consideration for refusing bail to the juvenile as has been held by a coordinate Bench of that Court in Criminal Revision No. 379 of 2009 (Shiv Kumar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 22.12.2009, Criminal Revision No. 4141 of 2017 (Dharmendra vs. State of U.P.) decided on 13.04.2018, Criminal Revision No.1693 of 2021 (Juvenile X vs. State of U.P.) decided on 22.02.2022 and Criminal Revision No.860 of 2022 (X vs State of U.P.) decided on 21.03.2022 and Criminal Revision No.1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016.

8. In Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016, the Court referred to the earlier judgement in Vijendra Kumar Mali vs. State of U.P., 2003 (1) J.I.C. 103, wherein it was observed that in a number of judgements, it has been categorically held that bail to the juvenile can only be refused if one of the grounds as provided in proviso to Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 exists. So far as the ground of gravity is concerned, it is not covered under the relevant provisions. If the bail application of the juvenile was to be considered under the provisions of Cr.P.C., there would have been absolutely no necessity for the enactment of the aforesaid Act. The Section 12 of the Act contains a non-obstante clause, which indicates that the general provisions of Cr.P.C. shall not apply. Therefore, the gravity or seriousness of the offence should not be taken as an obstacle or hindrance to refuse the bail to delinquent juvenile.

9. It is contended that there existed no material to justify rejection of bail on the grounds envisaged in Section 12 of the Act. In view of the above provisions, the 'child in conflict with law', who has been in custody for quite some time deserves to be released on bail otherwise, the purpose of provisions of Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act shall stand defeated. It is also contended that care of the juvenile in a child care institution cannot be preferred over his care in his biological family.

10. Learned AGA and learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 have opposed the prayer for bail.

11. The court is conscious of the fact, which has been held in case of Om Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan and another; (2012) 5 SCC 201, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the Juvenile Justice Act was enacted with a laudable object of providing a separate forum or a special court for holding trial of juvenile as it was felt that child become delinquent by force of circumstance and not by choice and hence they need to be treated with care and sensitivity while dealing and trying cases involving criminal offence. It was further observed that in cases when an accused is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed in a well planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind the court ought to be more careful. Thus, the Hon'ble Apex Court has clearly brought in focus the nature of crime, conduct of an accused as reflected in the method employed in the commission of crime as a relevant consideration while considering the matters of juvenile.

12. It may be noted that the Hon'ble Apex Court gave this view in the background of the facts that age of the juvenile as determined by the courts below was not free from doubts. In the circumstances, the Court observed that where accused commits grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording his age, is not acceptable. It is also observed that the shelter of the principle of benevolent legislation of the Juvenile Justice Act is meant for minors, who are innocent law breakers. Nevertheless, in my view, the nature of crime the juvenile was found involved in, is again at the center stage.

13. In Mangesh Rajbhar Vs. State of U.P. and Another; 2018 (2) ACR 1941, a coordinate Bench of this Court noted down very important observations which I choose to refer avidly:

25. It is not that this aspect of the gravity of the offence has been considered irrelevant to the issue of grant or refusal of bail to a minor in the past and before the present Act of 2015 came into force. In a decision of this Court under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 where the interest of the society were placed seemingly not on a level of playing field with the juvenile, this Court in construing the provisions of Section 12 in that Act that were pari materia to Section 12 of the Act in the matter of grant of bail to a minor held in the case of Monu @ Moni @ Rahul @ Rohit v. State of U.P., 2011 (74) ACC 353 in paragraph Nos. 14 and 15 of the report as under:

"14. Aforesaid section no where ordains that bail to a juvenile is a must in all cases as it can be denied for the reasons".....if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring him into association with any known criminal or expose him to moral, physical or psychological danger or that his release would defeat the ends of justice."

15. In the light of above statutory provision bail prayer of the juvenile revisionist has to be considered on the surrounding facts and circumstances. Merely by declaration of being a juvenile does not entitle a juvenile in conflict with law to be released on bail as a matter of right. The Act has a solemn purpose to achieve betterment of juvenile offenders but it is not a shelter home for those juvenile offenders who have got criminal proclivities and a criminal psychology. It has a reformative approach but does not completely shun retributive theory. Legislature has preserved larger interest of society even in cases of bail to a juvenile. The Act seeks to achieve moral physical and psychological betterment of juvenile offender and therefore if, it is found that the ends of justice will be defeated or that goal desired by the legislature can be achieved by detaining a juvenile offender in a juvenile home, bail can be denied to him.

This is perceptible from phraseology of section 12 itself. Legislature in its wisdom has therefore carved out exceptions to the rule of bail to a juvenile."

14. I am in respectful agreement with the above observations. Ordinarily, the merits of the matter may not be important where the Courts are inclined to give benefit of bail as envisaged in Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act, I am of the firm view that nature of crime including other merits of the matter may assume ample significance when the Court has to form an opinion about the ends of justice. It may be noted that the phrase 'ends of justice', cannot stand in a vacuum. The manner of commission of the crime, the nature thereof cannot be ignored while striking a balance between the demands of justice of either of the sides. Hence, it cannot be said that the nature of the crime, the manner or methodology applied, the extent of involvement and evidence available are of no relevance when judging the entitlement of a juveniles to bail in cases where heinous crimes are committed. The ends of justice is undoubtedly a meaningful phrase with multidimensional implications. The Courts are under obligation to address the concerns of both the sides and strike a delicate balance between the competing and often conflicting the demands of justice. When viewing the matters of bail from this particular angle of deciphering the ends of justice not only the nature of crime, but the manner of commission thereof, methodology applied, the mental state, the extent of involvement, the evidence available shall be the factors to reckon with. The phrase 'ends of justice' may bring in within its interpretation such factors which may otherwise seem not so material or may be seemingly extraneous, irrelevant or unimportant at first glance for the purpose of applicability of last part of the proviso to Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act.

15. Following facts cannot go in oblivion that victim was admitted in the hospital on 24.02.2021 with suicidal thermal burns by kerosene; gang-rape has been committed with the victim by the juvenile and other accused; at the time of admission in the hospital she was pregnant; On request of her family, victim underwent Medical Termination of Pregnancy (MTP); victim was managed with regular debridement, fasciotomey for right hand and forearm, intraveinous fluids, antibiotics and other supportive medication, and ultimately, she died due to septic shock on 15.03.2021. Statement of the victim recorded as dying declaration, as well as Post-mortem Report of the victim dated 15.03.2021 has also supported the story of the prosecution.

16. In nutshell, it can be inferred that the juvenile was found to have complicity in this frightful crime. The juvenile was found above 16 years i.e., 16 years, 10 months and 13 days on the date of the occurrence. It was a borderline case where the accused was reaching the age of adulthood. The manner, in which, the crime was committed and the nature thereof impels me to draw a conclusion that in case the juvenile is released on bail, he shall fall of in the same hands and environs which most probably contributed towards his criminal bent of mind.

17. This Court has considered the rival submissions and perused the record. It may be true that the Courts below have not undertaken a careful exercise by evaluating the social investigation report while forming their opinion on the first of the two dis-entitling parameters under the proviso to Section 12 of the Act, that is to say, the prospect of release bringing the child in conflict into association with some known criminal or exposing him to moral, physical or psychological danger. But, that does not end the matter. It is a case where the revisionist, though below the age of 17 years, has ravished a very young prosecutorix. About the factum of the incident, there is reasonable assurance at this stage, short of the charge being tested at the trial. The prosecution is consistent in the FIR lodged by the prosecutorix's father, the statement of the prosecutorix and her mother, recorded by the police, under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and the statement of the prosecutorix, as dying declaration, in which she has stated that juvenile along with Manpal used to tease and catch her wherever and whenever they wish and she got pregnant, when she apprised them about the same, they said to her to set herself on fire and resultantly she self immolated herself.

18. In view of the above, this Court wishes to say is that for the present, the Court seized as it is of the bail matter, there is a reasonable assurance about the charge being prima facie credible. It is true that the merits of the case or prima facie tenability of the charge, like an adult, is not entirely decisive to the fate of the bail plea. At the same time, it is not altogether irrelevant. The gravity of the charge, manner of its perpetration, circumstances in which the offence is alleged to have been committed, its immediate and not so immediate impact on the society at large and the locality, in particular, besides its impact on the aggrieved family, are all matters to be taken into reckoning while judging a juvenile's bail plea. All these factors are relevant under the last dis-entitling clause postulated under the proviso to Section 12(1) of the Act, which says that release of the juvenile would "defeat the ends of justice'. After all "defeat the ends of justice' is not a word of art. It has been thoughtfully introduced by the legislature to arm the Court with a right to overcome an otherwise absolute right to bail, where in the totality of the circumstances, release on bail would adversely impact the law and order and the equilibrium of an ordered society.

19. The case in hand shows that the revisionist by his action, if true, has put the society and its surroundings on alarm. His actions have led to a situation, where prima facie no child of tender years, and more than that the parents or the guardians of a young child, would feel safe during their daily routine, when there is nothing otherwise to call extra caution. In the opinion of this Court, it is a case where release of the child in conflict with law would lead to ends of justice being defeated.

20. The learned appellate Court and the Board have given concurrent view and have found him not at all entitled to bail and have given observation that an effective protection and supervision is needed. Such an observation for declining the bail cannot be faulted in the totality of the circumstances of the matter. I am of the view that it is not a fit case to grant bail to the present revisionist.

21. The revision is, accordingly, dismissed.

22. Copy of the order be sent to concerned Section of the Registry for immediate compliance of direction given in Para-1 of the order.

8. Mangesh Rajbhar Vs St. of U.P. & anr.; 2018 (2) ACR 1941

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gajendra Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri N.D. Shukla, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri M.P.S. Gaur, learned AGA for the State as well as learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, has been filed on behalf of the minor 'X' through his natural guardian/mother Anita w/o Shri Prakash, R/o Village- Merdha, Police Station Khutahan, District Jaunpur with the prayer to admit the minor on bail alongwith the prayer to set aside the order dated 15.12.2021 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Jaunpur and order dated 01.02.2022 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge, POCSO Act, Jaunpur in Misc. Case No. 102/2021 arising out of Case Crime No. 81 of 2021 under Section 377, 352, 504 IPC and 3/4 POCSO Act, Police Station-Khutahan, District-Jaunpur by which the criminal appeal No.88 of 2021 was rejected.

3. As per the version of the FIR lodged by Sanjeet Singh (informant) father of the victim, it is alleged that on 04.04.2021 at 5.00 P.M. the accused revisionist and co-accused Nitin Tiwari lured his son (victim) aged about 06 years and took him to a secrete place where the accused persons established unnatural relation with the son of the informant. At that point of time, the informant was not present at his home as he had gone to his relatives' house and when he came back to his house, his wife and the victim had apprised him about the incident. Thereafter, when he went to the house of the accused-persons and made complaint, they abused him in filthy-language and also threatened him. On the basis of the said FIR, Case Crime No. 0081/2021 under Sections 377, 352, 504 IPC and 3/4 POCSO Act was registered and investigated upon. During the investigation, after collection of some evidence and recording of statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the witnesses, the victim was medically examined and his statements u/s 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. were also recorded.

4. During the proceedings before the Juvenile Justice Board, after giving him benefit of one year on lowerside, though in medical report his age on 12.11.2021 was shown about 19 years, the revisionist was found to be the age of below 18 years on the date of the incident and was declared juvenile vide order dated 18.11.2021. A bail application through his guardian was moved before the Juvenile Justice Board, Jaunpur, but the same was rejected. Thereafter, a criminal appeal No.88/2021 was preferred by the father and guardian of the juvenile and the same was also dismissed vide order dated 01.02.2022.

5. Aggrieved by the above orders, this criminal revision has been preferred to set aside the same and to admit the juvenile on bail.

6. First and foremost contention is that gravity of the offence is not relevant consideration for refusing bail to the juvenile as has been held by a coordinate Benches of this Court in Criminal Revision No.379 of 2009 (Shiv Kumar vs. State of U.P.) decided on 22.12.2009, Criminal Revision No. 4141 of 2017 (Dharmendra vs. State of U.P.) decided on 13.04.2018, Criminal Revision No.1693 of 2021 (Juvenile X vs. State of U.P.) decided on 22.02.2022 and Criminal Revision No.860 of 2022 (X vs State of U.P.) decided 0n 21.03,2022 and Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016.

7. In Criminal Revision No. 1852 of 2015 (Amit vs. State of U.P.) decided on 16.03.2016, the Court referred to the earlier judgement in Vijendra Kumar Mali vs. State of U.P., 2003 (1) J.I.C. 103, wherein it was observed that in a number of judgements, it has been categorically held that bail to the juvenile can only be refused if one of the grounds as provided in proviso to Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 exist. So far as the ground of gravity is concerned, it is not covered under the relevant provisions. If the bail application of the juvenile was to be considered under the provisions of Cr.P.C., there would have been absolutely no necessity for the enactment of the aforesaid Act. The Section 12 of the Act contains a non-obstante clause, which indicates that the general provisions of Cr.P.C. shall not apply. Therefore, the gravity or seriousness of the offence should not be taken as an obstacle or hindrance to refuse the bail to delinquent juvenile.

8. It is contended that there existed no material to justify rejection of bail on the grounds envisaged in Section 12 of the Act. In view of the above provisions, the 'child in conflict with law', who has been in custody for quite some time deserves to be released on bail otherwise, the purpose of provisions of Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act shall stand defeated. It is also contended that care of the juvenile in a child care institution cannot be preferred over his care in his biological family.

9. Learned AGA and learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 have opposed the prayer for bail.

10. The Court is conscious of the fact in case of Om Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan and another; (2012) 5 SCC 201, the Hon'ble Apex Court, wherein the Court has observed that the "Juvenile Justice Act was enacted with a laudable object of providing a separate forum or a special court for holding trial of juvenile as it was felt that child become delinquent by force of circumstance and not by choice and hence they need to be treated with care and sensitivity while dealing and trying cases involving criminal offence. It was further observed that in cases when an accused is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed in a well planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind the court ought to be more careful. Thus, the Hon'ble Apex Court has clearly brought in focus the nature of crime, conduct of an accused as reflected in the method employed in the commission of crime as a relevant consideration while considering the matters of juvenile."

11. It may be noted that the Hon'ble Apex Court gave this view in the background of the facts that age of the juvenile as determined by the courts below was not free from doubts. In the circumstances, the Court observed that where accused commits grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording his age, is not acceptable. It is also observed that the shelter of the principle of benevolent legislation of the Juvenile Justice Act is meant for minors, who are innocent law breakers. Nevertheless, in my view, the nature of crime the juvenile was found involved in, is again at the center stage.

12. In Mangesh Rajbhar vs. State of U.P. and Another; 2018 (2) ACR 1941, a coordinate Bench of this Court noted down very important observations which I choose to refer avidly:

25. It is not that this aspect of the gravity of the offence has been considered irrelevant to the issue of grant or refusal of bail to a minor in the past and before the present Act of 2015 came into force. In a decision of this Court under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 where the interest of the society were placed seemingly not on a level of playing field with the juvenile, this Court in construing the provisions of Section 12 in that Act that were pari materia to Section 12 of the Act in the matter of grant of bail to a minor held in the case of Monu @ Moni @ Rahul @ Rohit v. State of U.P., 2011 (74) ACC 353 in paragraph Nos. 14 and 15 of the report as under:

likely to bring him into association with any known criminal or expose him to moral, physical or psychological danger or that his release would defeat the ends of justice."

15. In the light of above statutory provision bail prayer of the juvenile revisionist has to be considered on the surrounding facts and circumstances. Merely by declaration of being a juvenile does not entitle a juvenile in conflict with law to be released on bail as a matter of right. The Act has a solemn purpose to achieve betterment of juvenile offenders but it is not a shelter home for those juvenile offenders who have got criminal proclivities and a criminal psychology. It has a reformative approach but does not completely shun retributive theory. Legislature has preserved larger interest of society even in cases of bail to a juvenile. The Act seeks to achieve moral physical and psychological betterment of juvenile offender and therefore if, it is found that the ends of justice will be defeated or that goal desired by the legislature can be achieved by detaining a juvenile offender in a juvenile home, bail can be denied to him. This is perceptible from phraseology of section 12 itself. Legislature in its wisdom has therefore carved out exceptions to the rule of bail to a juvenile."

13. I am in respectful agreement with the above observations. Ordinarily, the merits of the matter may not be important where the Courts are inclined to give benefit of bail as envisaged in Section 12 of the Juvenile Justice Act, I am of the firm view that nature of crime including other merits of the matter may assume ample significance when the Court has to form an opinion about the ends of justice. It may be noted that the phrase 'ends of justice', cannot stand in a vacuum. The manner of commission of the crime, the nature thereof cannot be ignored while striking a balance between the demands of justice of either of the sides. Hence, it cannot be said that the nature of the crime, the manner or methodology applied, the extent of involvement and evidence available are of no relevance when judging the entitlement of a juveniles to bail in cases where heinous crimes are committed. The ends of justice is undoubtedly a meaningful phrase with multidimensional implications. The Courts are under obligation to address the concerns of both the sides and strike a delicate balance between the competing and often conflicting the demands of justice. When viewing the matters of bail from this particular angle of deciphering the ends of justice not only the nature of crime, but the manner of commission thereof, methodology applied, the mental state, the extent of involvement, the evidence available shall be the factors to reckon with. The phrase 'ends of justice' may bring in within its interpretation such factors which may otherwise seem not so material or may be seemingly extraneous, irrelevant or unimportant at first glance for the purpose of applicability of last part of the proviso to Section 12(1) of the Juvenile Justice Act.

14. Following facts cannot go in oblivion that alleged incident happened has been done intentionally with a conspiracy by the accused revisionist, which is evident in the statements of the victim recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. as well as 164 Cr.P.C. wherein, victim has specifically stated that accused-revisionist has made unnatural sex with him.

15. In nutshell, it can be inferred that the juvenile was found to have complicity in this frightful crime. The juvenile was found to be the age of below 18 years on the date of the occurrence, after giving him benefit of one year on lower side, though in medical report his age on 12.11.2021 was shown about 19 years. It was a borderline case where the accused was reaching the age of adulthood. The manner, in which, the crime was committed and the nature thereof impels me to draw a conclusion that in case the juvenile is released on bail, he shall fall of in the same hands and environs which most probably contributed towards his criminal bent of mind.

16. This Court has considered the rival submissions and perused the record. It may be true that the Courts below have not undertaken a careful exercise by evaluating the social investigation report while forming their opinion on the first of the two dis-entitling parameters under the proviso to Section 12(1) of the Act, that is to say, the prospect of release bringing the child in conflict with into association with some known criminal or exposing him to moral, physical or psychological danger. But, that does not end the matter. It is a case where the revisionist, though below the age of 18 years, has ravished a very young victim, who is just six years old. About the factum of the incident, there is reasonable assurance at this stage, short of the charge being tested at the trial. The prosecution is consistent in the FIR lodged by the victim's father, the statement of the victim and his father, recorded by the police, under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and the statement of the prosecutrix, under Section 164 Cr.P.C. before the Magistrate.

17. In view of the above, these remarks may not be understood as the Court's intendment to express any opinion on the merits of the charge. All that this Court wishes to say is that for the present, the Court seized as it is of the bail matter, there is a reasonable assurance about the charge being prima facie credible. It is true that the merits of the case or prima facie tenability of the charge, like an adult, is not entirely decisive to the fate of the bail plea. At the same time, it is not altogether irrelevant. The gravity of the charge, manner of its perpetration, circumstances in which the offence is alleged to have been committed, its immediate and not so immediate impact on the society at large and the locality, in particular, besides its impact on the aggrieved family, are all matters to be taken into reckoning while judging a juvenile's bail plea. All these factors are relevant under the last dis-entitling clause postulated under the proviso to Section 12(1) of the Act, which says that release of the juvenile would "defeat the ends of justice'. After all "defeat the ends of justice' is not a word of art. It has been thoughtfully introduced by the legislature to arm the Court with a right to overcome an otherwise absolute right to bail, where in the totality of the circumstances, release on bail would adversely impact the law and order and the equilibrium of an ordered society.

18. The case in hand shows that the revisionist by his action, if true, has put the society and its surroundings on alarm. 19. The learned appellate Court and the Board have given concurrent view and have found him not at all entitled to bail.

20. For all the reasons recorded above and considering the above-mentioned case laws, I am of the considered opinion that it is not a fit case to grant bail to the present revisionist.

21. The revision is, accordingly, dismissed.

22. Copy of the order be certified to the Court concerned.

23. The Court/concerned Board is directed to expedite the hearing and conclude the same at the earliest without getting influenced by any of the observations made in this order.

4. Rahul Patel Vs St. of U.P. & anr., [2018 (1) JIC 357 (All)]

(Delivered by Hon'ble Narendra Kumar Johari, J.)

1. The instant Revision has been filed on behalf of Revisionist-Juvenile through his father/natural guardian against the order dated 19.01.2022 passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur in Criminal Appeal No.53 of 2021 (Juvenile through natural guardian father Vs. State of U.P.) and order dated 17.09.2021 passed by Juvenile Justice Board, Fatehpur in Case No.111/2020, arising out of Case Crime No.489/2020, under Sections 376-A, B, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 5/6 of POCSO Act, Police Station- Bindki, District -Fatehpur.

2. The record indicates that notice has sufficiently been served on opposite party No.2 but none is present on behalf of the opposite party No.2.

3. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

4. The facts of the case in brief are that on 18.11.2020 when the minor daughter of informant had gone for grazing the goats the revisionist/juvenile penetrated his finger in her vagina which caused pain to the victim consequently she started weeping and crying. Hearing the alarm of victim, the witness Khushi reached on the spot, then after that the revisionist by extending threat for life, ran away from the spot. The private part of his daughter was bleeding. The F.I.R. of the occurrence was lodged on 18.11.2020 at about 23.05 hours against the sole revisionist.

5. The revisionist approached to the Juvenile Justice Board stating that he was innocent. he had been implicated falsely in the case. He had no criminal history and he was not involved in any criminal activities also. Vide order dated 04.09.2021, the Juvenile Justice Board, Fatehpur declared him juvenile, his age on the date of occurrence was found 15 years 04 months and 03 days. Accordingly, the revisionist had been declared juvenile in conflict with law. Subsequently, an application for bail was moved by the revisionist before the Juvenile Justice Board, which was rejected by the Juvenile Justice Board vide order dated 17.09.2021 on the ground that the Juvenile had the offence which is heinous in nature. If the juvenile is released on bail, then in that case his release will defeat the ends of justice. Apart from that his release will also affect the rights of victim adversely. His moral, physical and psychological development will also be affected adversely. Against the above order, the juvenile filed the criminal appeal No. 53 of 2021, before the Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur which too was dismissed by the appellate court vide order dated 19.01.2022 on the ground that if the appellant/juvenile is released on bail his psychological, physical and moral development will be affected adversely and the object of law shall also be defeated. Against both the rejection orders, present criminal revision has been filed through natural guardian/father of juvenile.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that revisionist has falsely been implicated in the case, he has no previous criminal history. He is in observation home since 19.11.2020. In the medical examination report, the hymen of victim was found intact. Only redness was found in the area of introitus with oedema which can be caused by victim herself. The medical examination has been done within 24 hours of alleged offence wherein no sign of bleeding has been found. Accordingly, the medical evidence is not supporting the F.I.R. version.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist has further stated that the ingredients of proviso of Section 12 (1) of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, which provides the ground for rejection of bail, is not applicable in the present case. If the juvenile is released on bail, the father of revisionist undertakes that he will supervise him and will provide better atmosphere for his over all development and educate him. He further assures that his son will not misuse the liberty of bail. He will also take care for moral, physical and psychological development of his son.

8. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has contended that considering the nature of offence, the revision petition is liable to be dismissed. The revisionist has committed a heinous offence. If the revisionist is released on bail, the object of law as well as justice shall defeat.

9. Before dealing with the matter, it would be appropriate to take into account Section 12 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, which is reproduced as under:-

"12. Bail to a person who is apparently a child alleged to be in conflict with law.

When any person, who is apparently a child and is alleged to have committed a bailable or non-bailable offence, is apprehended or detained by the police or appears or brought before a Board, such person shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 or in any other law for the time being in force, be released on bail with or without surety or placed under the supervision of a probation officer or under the care of any fit person:

Provided that such person shall not be so released if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that the release is likely to bring that person into association with any known criminal or expose the said person to moral, physical or psychological danger or the person's release would defeat the ends of justice, and the Board shall record the reasons for denying the bail and circumstances that led to such a decision.

2. When such person having been apprehended is not released on bail under subsection (1) by the officer-in-charge of the police station, such officer shall cause the person to be kept only in an observation home in such manner as may be prescribed until the person can be brought before a Board.

3. When such person is not released on bail under sub-section (1) by the Board, it shall make an order sending him to an observation home or a place of safety, as the case may be, for such period during the pendency of the inquiry regarding the person, as may be specified in the order.

4. When a child in conflict with law is unable to fulfill the conditions of bail order within seven days of the bail order, such child shall be produced before the Board for modification of the conditions of bail."

10. According to the provisions of Section 12 (1), the wording used "notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure or in any other law for the time being in force" is non-obstante clause which has been used by legislation, therefore, the delinquent juvenile may be released on bail irrespective of the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure. The exception of such release has been mentioned in proviso of Section 12 (1) i.e. if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that release is likely to bring the juvenile into association of known criminals or expose the said juvenile to moral, physical or psychological danger or the person's release would defeat ends of justice.

11. The Act, namely, Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 being benevolent and social reforms oriented legislation, should be given full effect by all concerned whenever matters relating to juvenile comes for consideration before them. Therefore, for rejection of his bail application, there must be any material or evidence reflecting reasonable ground to believe that delinquent juvenile, if released on bail is likely to fall into association with known criminal persons or such liberty may expose him to moral, physical or psychological danger, or his release would defeat the ends of justice. In absence of such reasonable grounds the bail of juvenile should not be refused. In Sanjay Chaurasia Vs. State of U.P. 2006 Cr.L.J. 2957 it has been observed that :-

"10. In case of the refusal of the bail, some reasonable grounds for believing above-mentioned exceptions must be brought before the Courts concerned by the prosecution but in the present case, no such ground for believing any of the above-mentioned exceptions has been brought by the prosecution before the Juvenile Justice Board and Appellate Court. The Appellate Court dismissed the appeal only on the presumption that due to commission of this offence, the father and other relatives of other kidnapped boy had developed enmity with the revisionist, that is why in case of his release, the physical and mental life of the revisionist will be in danger and his release will defeat the ends of justice but substantial to this presumption no material has been brought before the Appellate Court and the same has not been discussed and only on the basis of the presumption, Juvenile Justice Board has refused the Bail of the revisionist which is in the present case is unjustified and against the spirit of the Act. It appears that the impugned order dated 27.06.2005 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Meerut and order dated 28.05.2005 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board are illegal and set aside."

The reason to believe means there should be sufficient cause to believe such thing but not otherwise it excludes a mere suspicion. In other words, we may say that the reason means something more than the prima facie ground.

12. Learned Magistrate by its order dated 17.09.2021 has rejected the bail of revisionist mentioning that the offence committed by juvenile is heinous and non-bailable in nature.

13. In the case of A. Juvenile Vs. State of Orissa, 2009 Cr.L.J., 2002, it has been held that :

"(6) A close reading of the aforementioned provision shows that it has been mandated upon the Court to release a person who is apparently a juvenile on bail with or without surety, howsoever heinous the crime may be and whatever the legal or other restrictions containing in the Cr.P.C. or any other law may be. The only restriction is that if there appears reasonable grounds for believing that his release is likely to bring him into association with any moral, physical or psychological danger or his release would defeat the ends of justice, he shall not be so released."

14. In the light of facts, circumstances and law laid down and fundamental legal principle regarding the juvenile justice, the court has to examine that whether the release of juvenile will expose him to moral, physical and psychological danger and his release on bail would affect the ends of justice.

15. The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 has been enacted by the Parliament, is a reformative and benevolent in nature. Section 3 of the Act, 2015, provides general principles to be followed in administration of the Act.

"Section 3. General Principles to be followed in administration of Act*.- The Central Government, the State Governments, the Board, and other agencies, as the case may be, while* implementing the provisions of this Act shall be guided by the following fundamental principles, namely:--

(i) Principle of presumption of innocence : Any child shall be presumed to be an innocent of any mala fide or criminal intent up to the age of eighteen years.

(ii) Principle of dignity and worth : All human beings shall be treated with equal dignity and rights.

(iii) Principle of participation : Every child shall have a right to be heard and to participate in all processes and decisions affecting his interest and the child's views shall be taken into consideration with due regard to the age and maturity of the child.

(iv) Principle of best interest: All decisions regarding the child shall be based on the primary consideration that they are in the best interest of the child and to help the child to develop full potential.

(v) Principle of family responsibility: The primary responsibility of care, nurture and protection of the child shall be that of the biological family or adoptive or foster parents, as the case may be.

(vi) Principle of safety: All measures shall be taken to ensure that the child is safe and is not subjected to any harm, abuse or maltreatment while in contact with the care and protection system, and thereafter.

(vii) Positive measures: All resources are to be mobilised including those of family and community, for promoting the well-being, facilitating development of identity and providing an inclusive and enabling environment, to reduce vulnerabilities of children and the need for intervention under this Act.

(viii) Principle of non-stigmatising semantics : Adversarial or accusatory words are not to be used in the processes pertaining to a child.

(ix) Principle of non-waiver of rights: No waiver of any of the right of the child is permissible or valid, whether sought by the child or person acting on behalf of the child, or a Board or a Committee and any non-exercise of a fundamental right shall not amount to waiver.

(x) Principle of equality and non-discrimination: There shall be no discrimination against a child on any grounds including sex, caste, ethnicity, place of birth, disability and equality of access, opportunity and treatment shall be provided to every child. General principles to be followed in administration of Act.

(xi) Principle of right to privacy and confidentiality: Every child shall have a right to protection of his privacy and confidentiality, by all means and throughout the judicial process.

(xii) Principle of institutionalisation as a measure of last resort: A child shall be placed in institutional care as a step of last resort after making a reasonable inquiry.

(xiii) Principle of repatriation and restoration: Every child in the juvenile justice system shall have the right to be re-united with his family at the earliest and to be restored to the same socio-economic and cultural status that he was in, before coming under the purview of this Act, unless such restoration and repatriation is not in his best interest.

(xiv) Principle of fresh start : All past records of any child under the Juvenile Justice system should be erased except in special circumstances.

(xv) Principle of diversion: Measures for dealing with children in conflict with law without resorting to judicial proceedings shall be promoted unless it is in the best interest of the child or the society as a whole.

(xvi) Principles of natural justice: Basic procedural standards of fairness shall be adhered to, including the right to a fair hearing, rule against bias and the right to review, by all persons or bodies, acting in a judicial capacity under this Act.

16. In the case of Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta Vs. State of Maharastra 2011 (72) ACC 699, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that :-

"Every accused is presumed to be innocent unless his guilt is proved. The presumption of innocence is a human right. Subject to the statutory exceptions, the said principle forms the basis of criminal jurisprudence in India. The nature of the offence, its seriousness and gravity has to be taken into consideration.

The Appellate Court should bear in mind the presumption of innocence of the accused, and further, that the Trial Court's acquittal bolsters the presumption of his innocence. Interference with the decision of the Trail Court in a casual or cavalier manner where the other view is possible should be avoided, unless there are good reasons for such interference."

17. In the case of Rahul Patel Vs. State of U.P. & another, [2018 (1) JIC 357 (All)], this Court has held as under :-

"8. The Apex Court in a catena of judgements has constantly held that gravity of the offence is not a ground to deny bail to a juvenile accused. Unless the conduct of the accused is such to indicate that in all likelihood, after being released on bail, the juvenile-accused will indulge into more crimes. If there are no imminent chances of his repeating the crime, bail to a juvenile should not be ordinarily refused."

18. During enquiry in proceedings before Juvenile Justice Board, District Probation Officer, Fatehpur has mentioned that father of the juvenile is a labourer. Juvenile is a student of Class IX. The economical condition of his family is weak and social status is normal. The juvenile needs strict discipline and rehabilitation by keeping him away from bad company also.

19. No criminal history of either revisionist or his father has been shown. No material to establish reason to believe has been brought on record. The report of District Probation Officer further indicates that a strict discipline may keep him away from bad company and his reform is possible. The father of revisionist also undertakes that he will take care for moral, physical and psychological development of his son.

20. Keeping in view the fact of the case, arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and legal provisions/law laid down by Apex Court and by this Court, it can be concluded that in present revision no ground is available on record to reject the application of juvenile for bail. Hence, the revision deserves to be allowed. Both the courts below could not appreciate the legal position while rejecting bail application of delinquent juvenile. The revision stands allowed. Consequently, the impugned orders dated 19.01.2022, passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Additional Session Judge, Fatehpur in Criminal Appeal No. 53 of 2021 (Juvenile through guardian father Vs. State of U.P.) and order dated 17.09.2021 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, Fatehpur in Case No.111/2020, arising out of Case Crime No.489/2020, under Sections 376-A, B, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section 5/6 of POCSO Act, Police Station - Bindki, District -Fatehpur are set aside.

21. It is directed that the revisionist shall be released on bail executing personal bond by his natural guardian/father with two solvent sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of Principal Magistrate, Juvenile Justice Board, Fatehpur with the stipulation that on subsequent dates of hearing, he shall produce the delinquent juvenile before the Board during the pendency of the case. His guardian/father shall also submit an undertaking before the Board that, (i) he shall keep proper control and look after the juvenile, (ii) He will keep away him from the company of known criminals and will do all of his endeavour to improve his better future, (iii) he will take care for moral, physical and psychological development of his son, (iv) the revisionist or his father shall not tamper with the evidence or cause threat to the witnesses. The revisionist through his guardian shall also file undertaking to the effect that he shall not seek an adjournment on the date fixed for evidence when the witnesses are present before the Juvenile Justice Board.

22. The District Probation Officer will keep strict vigil on the activities of the revisionist and regularly draw up his social investigation report that would be submitted to the Juvenile Justice Board, Fatehpur on such periodical basis as the Juvenile Justice Board determines.

23. In case of default, the Board would be competent to cancel the bail of revisionist after giving opportunity of hearing to him.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gajendra Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Vikas Sharma, learned counsel for revisionist, learned counsel for the State-respondents and perused the record.

2. This criminal revision has been filed challenging order dated 13.05.2022, passed by learned court of Additional District and Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar, in Sessions Trial No.660 of 2020 (State Vs. Hemant), under section 302 IPC, Police Station- Araniya, District Bulandshahar, arising out of Case Crime No.313 of 2019, whereby application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., filed by first informant/opposite party-2 Raj Kumar has been allowed. Consequently, applicant has been summoned to face trial in above mentioned case.

3. From perusal of the records, it is evident that in respect of an incident, first informant/opposite party-2 Raj Kumar lodged a F.I.R. dated 21.12.2019, which was registered as under section 302 IPC, Police Station- Araniya, District Bulandshahar, arising out of Case Crime No.313 of 2019. In the aforesaid F.I.R., as many as three named persons namely, Hemant, Mahendra Singh, Lalit and two unknown persons have been nominated.

4. In brief prosecution story as unfolded in F.I.R dated 21.12.2019, alleging therein that 1-1/2 years ago, co-accused, Hemant borrowed Rs.6,50,000/- from the informant's uncle namely, Gyanendra Pratap Singh and despite several requests made by Gyanendra Singh, he did not return the aforesaid amount. Due to this, co-accused-Hemant feeling enmity with Gyanendra Pratap Singh, on 21.12.2019 at about 09:24 a.m., he called him by his mobile-phone bearing No.9311444194 near Dashahara Mobile Tower and when his uncle Gyanendra Pratap Singh along with one Laxmi Raj and Sateyendra Pratap Singh reached to the Bridge, then co-accused-persons namely, Hemant (revisionist), Lalit and two unknown persons started firing by using the pistol and revolver at Gyanendra Pratap Singh, as a result, he seriously injured and during treatment in the hospital, he died.

5. During the course of investigation, Investigating Officer examined first informant and other witnesses, who have supported the prosecution story, as unfolded in F.I.R. On the basis of above, as well as other material collected by Investigating Officer, during course of investigation, Investigating Officer opined to submit a charge sheet. Accordingly, Investigating Officer submitted charge sheet dated 15.03.2020, whereby one named accused namely, Hemant (revisionist) has been charge sheeted under Section 302 IPC and Section 30 of Arms Act, 1959, whereas other co-accused, namely, Mahendra Singh Chauhan s/o Dalbir Singh, Lokendra Singh @ Lalit s/o Sarjeet Singh have been exonerated. Perusal of charge sheet further goes to show that as many as 34 prosecution witnesses have been nominated therein.

6. After submission of above mentioned charge sheet, cognizance was taken upon the same by the concerned Magistrate. Since offence complained was triable by Court of Sessions, accordingly, concerned Magistrate, committed the case to the Court of Sessions. Resultantly, Sessions Trial No.660 of 2020 (State Vs. Hemant), came to be registered.

7. Trial commenced. Charges were framed against charge sheeted accused who denied the same. Consequently, burden fell upon prosecution to establish the charges so framed by leading evidence.

8. In discharge of aforesaid burden, prosecution adduced first informant (Raj Kumar) and was examined as P.W. 1. His statements were recorded. Thereafter, first informant/opposite party-2, who is also P.W.1, filed an application dated 19.04.2022, in terms of Section 319 Cr.P.C., praying therein, that since complicity of non charge sheeted but named accused Mahendra Singh s/o Dalveer Singh and Lalit s/o Sarjeet Singh are also established in the crime in question, as per his testimony therefore, they be also summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial in above mentioned case.

9. While aforesaid application was pending, statement of P.W.2 (Satyendra Pratap Singh) was also recorded.

10. Application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. filed by first informant/opposite party-2 was opposed by charge sheeted accused-Hemant. Ultimately, court below by means of order dated 13.05.2022, allowed the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and consequently, summoned co-accused, namely, Mahendra Singh s/o Dalveer Singh and Lalit s/o Sarjeet Singh to face trial in above mentioned criminal case.

11. Feeling aggrieved by the above, revisionist- Mahendra Singh s/o Dalveer Singh has now approached this Court by means of instant criminal revision.

12. Mr. Vikas Sharma, learned counsel for revisionist submits that order impugned in present criminal revision is manifestly illegal and without jurisdiction and the same is unsustainable in law and fact. It is then contended by the learned counsel for revisionist that revisionist was nominated as one of the named accused in F.I.R. dated 21.12.2019. However, during investigation, no such material was gathered by the Investigating Officer on the basis of which, complicity of present applicant was found to be established in the crime in question. Resultantly, applicant has been exculpated in the charge sheet dated 15.03.2020. He, further, submits that Investigating Officer of concerned case crime number has not yet been examined by Court below. In such circumstance, court below ought to have deferred the disposal of application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. filed by first informant/opposite party-2, till statement-in-chief of Investigating Officer was recorded as he will be the best person to demonstrate as to under what circumstances, complicity of present applicant was not found to be established in the crime in question. As court below has pre-empted the disposal of application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., serious prejudice has been caused to applicant. It is lastly submitted that no cast iron case is made out for summoning the present applicant as per testimonies of P.W.1 Raj Kumar and P.W.2 Satendra Pratap Singh. Nothing new has been stated by P.W.1 and P.W.2 in their deposition before Court below than what was stated in their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. before Investigating Officer. Impugned order passed by the Court below is, thus, in teeth of Constitution Bench judgement in case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and Others, (2014) 3 SCC 92, as well as law laid down in S. Mohammed Ispahani Vs. Yogendra Chandak and Others, (2017) 16 SCC 226 and Brijendra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2017) SCC 706 and court below has thus failed to exercise its jurisdiction "diligently" and has summoned revisionist in a "casual and cavalier manner", inasmuch as, there is no "strong nor cogent evidence" against revisionist, which is a pre-condition for summoning a prospective accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

13. On the cumulative strength of above, Mr. Vikas Sharma, learned counsel for revisionist vehemently contends that present criminal revision is liable to be allowed and impugned order be set aside.

14. Per contra, learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 has opposed this criminal revision and contends that statement of P.W.1-Raj Kumar is alone material for deciding the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. as he is a prosecution witnesses of fact,. as per law laid down by Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh (Supra). However, in the present case, cross examination of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have also been conducted before the court below. No illegality has been committed by court below in placing reliance upon testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.2, who have been cross-examined. Statements of P.W.1 and P.W.2- thus falls in the realm of legal evidence. Therefore court below has rightly proceeded to pass order dated 13.05.2022 by placing reliance upon same. No irregularity or illegality has been committed by the court below in passing impugned order dated 13.05.2022. From perusal of testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.2 complicity of present applicant in the crime in question is fully established.

P.W.1 and P.W.2 are eye witnesses of the occurrence and their testimonies have to be held to be more credible and reliable. As such Court below has exercised its jurisdiction "diligently" and not in a "casual and caviliar manner". Applicant has been summoned on the basis of "strong and cogent" evidence that has emerged against him during course of above mentioned sessions trial. It cannot be said at this stage that "applicants cannot be tried along with other accused" and further that "if the evidence which has been recorded up to this stage goes unrebutted would not lead to conviction of revisionist". Police report submitted by Investigating Officer is not conclusive proof of innocence of revisionist. Even though, revisionist has been exonerated by Investigating Officer, same cannot be taken as a ground to urge that revisionist cannot be subsequently summoned to face trial. Revisionist will have adequate opportunity to prove his innocence before court below during course of trial by adducing Investigating Officer as a defence witness also. No ground has been raised in the grounds of revision that P.W.1 and P.W.2 have not stated anything new in their depositions before the court below than what was stated by them in their statements. On the aforesaid premise, it is, thus, urged by learned A.G.A. that revisionist is not entitled to any indulgence by this Court. Consequently, present criminal revision is liable to be dismissed.

15. Having heard learned counsel for revisionist, learned A.G.A. for State and upon perusal of record, this Court finds that the issue, which arises for determination in present criminal revision is: What are the parameters for exercise of jurisdiction under Section 319 Cr.P.C As a corollary to above, whether the order impugned is within the established parameters or not.

16. Parameters regarding exercise of jurisdiction by the courts under Section 319 Cr.P.C. has been considered time and again by Supreme Court. The chronology of the same is reads as under:

(i) Dharam Pal and Others Vs. State of Haryana and Another, (2014) 3 SCC 306 (Constitution Bench)

(ii) Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and Others, (2014) 3 SCC 92 (Constitution Bench)

(xvi) Sartaj Singh Vs. State of Haryana and Another, (2021) 5 SCC 337

(xvii) Manjeet Singh Vs. State of Haryana and Others, 2021 SCC Online SC 632.

17. To begin with, a constitution Bench of Supreme Court in Dharam Pal (Supra) considered the provisions of Sections 193, 190, 319, 209, 173(2) and 200 to 204 Cr.P.C. and held that Sessions Judge has power to summon non charge sheeted accused after the case has been committed to Court of Sessions under section 193 Cr.P.C and for this purpose need not wait for evidence to be recorded so that non charge sheeted accused could be summoned under section 319 Cr.P.C.

18. Subsequently, in Hardeep Singh (Supra), another constitution Bench of Supreme Court considered the parameters for exercise of jurisdiction under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The Constitution Bench upon consideration of various provisions of Indian Evidence Act, Code of Criminal Procedure as well as underlying principles of Section 319 Cr.P.C. framed five questions for defining the parameters for exercising jurisdiction under Section 319 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, Court held as under in paragraphs 4, 5, 6, 6.5, 7, 11, 55, 56, 57, 85, 92, 105, 106, 116, 117.1 to 117.6:

"4. Reference made in Dharam Pal (Supra) came to be answered in relation to the power of a Court of Sessions to invoke Section 319 Cr.P.C. at the stage of committal of the case to a Court of Sessions. The said reference was answered by the Constitution Bench in the case of Dharam Pal & Ors. v. State of Haryana & Anr., AIR 2013 SC 3018 [hereinafter called 'Dharam Pal (CB)'], wherein it was held that a Court of Sessions can with the aid of Section 193 Cr.P.C. proceed to array any other person and summon him for being tried even if the provisions of Section 319 Cr.P.C. could not be pressed in service at the stage of committal.

5. Thus, after the reference was made by a three-Judge Bench in the present case, the powers so far as the Court of Sessions is concerned, to invoke Section 319 Cr.P.C. at the stage of committal, stood answered finally in the aforesaid background.

6. On the consideration of the submissions raised and in view of what has been noted above, the following questions are to be answered by this Bench:

6.1 (i) What is the stage at which power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised?

6.2 (ii) Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?

6.3 (iii) Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. has been used in a comprehensive sense and includes the evidence collected during investigation or the word "evidence" is limited to the evidence recorded during trial?

6.4 (iv) What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused? Whether the power under Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood convicted?

6.5 (v) Does the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. extend to persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR but not charged or who have been discharged?

7. In this reference what we are primarily concerned with, is the stage at which such powers can be invoked and, secondly, the material on the basis whereof the invoking of such powers can be justified. To add as a corollary to the same, thirdly, the manner in which such power has to be exercised, also has to be considered.

11. Section 319 Cr.P.C. as it exists today, is quoted hereunder:

"319 Cr.P.C. -Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence:-

(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court, he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under sub- section (1), then-

(5) (a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and the witnesses re-heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced."

55. Accordingly, we hold that the court can exercise the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. only after the trial proceeds and commences with the recording of the evidence and also in exceptional circumstances as explained herein above.

56. There is yet another set of provisions which form part of inquiry relevant for the purposes of Section 319 Cr.P.C. i.e. provisions of Sections 200, 201, 202, etc. Cr.P.C. applicable in the case of Complaint Cases. As has been discussed herein, evidence means evidence adduced before the court. Complaint Cases is a distinct category of criminal trial where some sort of evidence in the strict legal sense of Section 3 of the Evidence Act 1872, (hereinafter referred to as the 'Evidence Act') comes before the court. There does not seem to be any restriction in the provisions of Section 319 Cr.P.C. so as to preclude such evidence as coming before the court in Complaint Cases even before charges have been framed or the process has been issued. But at that stage as there is no accused before the Court, such evidence can be used only to corroborate the evidence recorded during the trial for the purpose of Section 319 Cr.P.C., if so required. What is essential for the purpose of the section is that there should appear some evidence against a person not proceeded against and the stage of the proceedings is irrelevant. Where the complainant is circumspect in proceeding against several persons, but the court is of the opinion that there appears to be some evidence pointing to the complicity of some other persons as well, Section 319 Cr.P.C. acts as an empowering provision enabling the court/Magistrate to initiate proceedings against such other persons. The purpose of Section 319 Cr.P.C. is to do complete justice and to ensure that persons who ought to have been tried as well are also tried. Therefore, there does not appear to be any difficulty in invoking powers of Section 319 Cr.P.C. at the stage of trial in a complaint case when the evidence of the complainant as well as his witnesses is being recorded.

57. Thus, the application of the provisions of Section 319 Cr.P.C., at the stage of inquiry is to be understood in its correct perspective. The power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised only on the basis of the evidence adduced before the court during a trial. So far as its application during the course of inquiry is concerned, it remains limited as referred to hereinabove, adding a person as an accused, whose name has been mentioned in Column 2 of the charge sheet or any other person who might be an accomplice

85. In view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn hereinabove, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under ~~Section 319~~ Cr.P.C. The 'evidence' is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial.

92. Thus, in view of the above, we hold that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised at the stage of completion of examination in chief and court does not need to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination for it is the satisfaction of the court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the court, in respect of complicity of some other person(s), not facing the trial in the offence.

105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. In Section 319 Cr.P.C. the purpose of providing if 'it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence' is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused." The words used are not 'for which such person could be convicted'. There is, therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused.

116. Thus, it is evident that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised against a person not subjected to investigation, or a person placed in the Column 2 of the Charge-Sheet and against whom cognizance had not been taken, or a person who has been discharged. However, concerning a person who has been discharged, no proceedings can be commenced against him directly under Section 319 Cr.P.C. without taking recourse to provisions of Section 300(5) read with Section 398 Cr.P.C.

117. We accordingly sum up our conclusions as follows:

Questions (i) and (iii)

- What is the stage at which power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised?

AND

- Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. has been used in a comprehensive sense and includes the evidence collected during investigation or the word "evidence" is limited to the evidence recorded during trial?

Answer 117.1. In Dharam Pal case, the Constitution Bench has already held that after committal, cognizance of an offence can be taken against a person not named as an accused but against whom materials are available from the papers filed by the police after completion of investigation. Such cognizance can be taken under Section 193 Cr.P.C. and the Sessions Judge need not wait till 'evidence' under Section 319 Cr.P.C. becomes available for summoning an additional accused.

117.2. Section 319 Cr.P.C., significantly, uses two expressions that have to be taken note of i.e. (1) Inquiry (2) Trial. As a trial commences after framing of charge, an inquiry can only be understood to be a pre-trial inquiry. Inquiries under Sections 200, 201, 202 Cr.P.C.; and under Section 398 Cr.P.C. are species of the inquiry contemplated by Section 319 Cr.P.C. Materials coming before the Court in course of such enquiries can be used for corroboration of the evidence recorded in the court after the trial commences, for the exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C., and also to add an accused whose name has been shown in Column 2 of the charge-sheet.

117.3. In view of the above position the word 'evidence' in Section 319 Cr.P.C. has to be broadly understood and not literally i.e. as evidence brought during a trial.

Question (ii)- Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?

Answer 117.4. Considering the fact that under Section 319 Cr.P.C. a person against whom material is disclosed is only summoned to face the trial and in such an event under Section 319(4) Cr.P.C. the proceeding against such person is to commence from the stage of taking of cognizance, the Court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination.

Question (iv)- What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused? Whether the power under Section 319 (1) Cr.P.C. can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood be convicted?

Answer.

117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b) Cr.P.C. the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the Court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. would be the same as for ?framing a charge. The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial - therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different.

Question (v)- Does the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. extend to persons not named in the FIR or named in the FIR but not charge-sheeted or who have been discharged?

Answer 117.6. A person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. provided from the evidence it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial. However, in so far as an accused who has been discharged is concerned the requirement of ?Sections 300 and 398 Cr.P.C. has to be complied with before he can be summoned afresh."

19. After aforesaid Constitution Bench judgement, the issue as involved in present application again came up for consideration before Supreme Court in Babubhai Bhimabhai Bokhiria (Supra), wherein Court dealt with the issue of summoning of a non charge sheeted accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. who was alleged to be involved in the crime in question on the basis of dying declaration. The issue that arose for consideration was whether on the basis of dying declaration an inference of guilt could be drawn against non-charge sheeted accused sought to be summoned in a case, which arose out of an F.I.R. registered at Kalambaug Police Station Porbandar under Sections- 302, 201, 34, 120B, 465, 468, 471 I.P.C. and Section- 25 of Arms Act. Court took notice of paragraphs 105 and 106 of the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh's case (Supra) and deduced as follows in paragraphs 7, 8, 9, 15, 20, 21 and 22:

"7. Before we proceed to deal with the evidence against the appellant and address whether in light of the evidence available, power under Section 319 of the Code was validly exercised, it would be expedient to understand the position of law in this regard. The issue regarding the scope and extent of powers of the court to arraign any person as an accused during the course of inquiry or trial in exercise of power under Section 319 of the Code has been set at rest by a Constitution Bench of this Court in Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab [(2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86 : (2014) 1 Scale 241]. On a review of the authorities, this Court summarised the legal position in the following words: (SCC p. 138, paras 105-06) "105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

8. Section 319 of the Code confers power on the trial court to find out whether a person who ought to have been added as an accused has erroneously been omitted or has deliberately been excluded by the investigating agency and that satisfaction has to be arrived at on the basis of the evidence so led during the trial. On the degree of satisfaction for invoking power under Section 319 of the Code, this Court observed that though the test of prima facie case being made out is same as that when the cognizance of the offence is taken and process issued, the degree of satisfaction under Section 319 of the Code is much higher.

9. Having summarised the law on the degree of satisfaction required by the courts to summon an accused to face trial in exercise of power under Section 319 of the Code, we now proceed to consider the submissions advanced by the learned counsel.

15. In the present case, except the apprehension expressed by the deceased, the statement made by him does not relate to the cause of his death or to any circumstance of the transaction which resulted in his death. Once we hold so, the note does not satisfy the requirement of Section 32 of the Act. The note, therefore, in our opinion, is not admissible in evidence and, thus, cannot be considered as such to enable exercise of power under Section 319 of the Code.

20.Now we revert to the authority of this Court in Rattan Singh [Rattan Singhv. State of H.P., (1997) 4 SCC 161 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 525] relied on by Dr Singhvi. In the said case, the deceased immediately before she was fired at, spoke out that the accused was standing nearby with a gun. In a split second the sound of firearm shot was heard and in a trice her life snuffed off. In the said background, this Court held that the words spoken by the deceased have connection with the circumstance of transaction which resulted into death. In the case in hand, excepting apprehension, there is nothing in the note. No circumstance of any transaction resulting in the death of the deceased is found in the note. Hence, this decision in no way supports the contention of Dr Singhvi.

21. The other evidence sought to be relied for summoning the appellant is the alleged conversation between the appellant and the accused on and immediately after the day of the occurrence. But, nothing has come during the course of trial regarding the content of the conversation and from the call records alone, the appellant's complicity in the crime does not surface at all.

22.From what we have observed above, it is evident that no evidence has at all come during the trial which shows even a prima facie complicity of the appellant in the crime. In that view of the matter, the order passed by the trial court summoning the appellant, as affirmed by the High Court, cannot be allowed to stand."

20. Subsequently in Jogendra yadav (Supra), Court considered the issue as to whether a non-charge sheeted accused summoned under section 319 Cr.P.C. can claim discharge under section 227 Cr.P.C. Court referred to observations contained in paragraphs 105 and 106 of the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh's case in paragraph 10 of the judgement and delineated the rights of an accused summoned under section 319 Cr.P.C. to claim discharge in paragraph-13 of the judgement, which reads as under:

"13. We are not unmindful of the fact that the interpretation placed by us on the scheme of Sections 319 and 227 makes Section 227 unavailable to an accused who has been added under Section 319 CrPC. We are of the view, for the reasons given above, that this must necessarily be so since a view to the contrary would render the exercise undertaken by a court under Section 319 CrPC, for summoning an accused, on the basis of a higher standard of proof totally infructuous and futile if the same court were to subsequently discharge the same accused by exercise of the power under Section 227 CrPC, on the basis of a mere prima facie view. The exercise of the power under Section 319 CrPC, must be placed on a higher pedestal. Needless to say the accused summoned under Section 319 CrPC, are entitled to invoke remedy under law against an illegal or improper exercise of the power under Section 319, but cannot have the effect of the order undone by seeking a discharge under Section 227 CrPC. If allowed to, such an action of discharge would not be in accordance with the purpose of Criminal Procedure Code in enacting Section 319 which empowers the Court to summon a person for being tried along with the other accused where it appears from the evidence that he has committed an offence."

21. In spite of above noted judgements, issue did not come to rest, but again cropped up for consideration in Brijendra Singh (supra) wherein Court considered the observations made in paragraphs 8, 12, 13, 19, 105 and 106 of Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and applying the ratio as mentioned in aforesaid paragraphs widened the scope of parameters regarding exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. In this case, Court was examining the summoning of a non-charge-sheeted accused in a Sessions Trial under Sections-147, 148, 149, 323, 448, 302/149 I.P.C. and Section- 3 and 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. Court went a step further. A parallel was drawn with the deposition of prosecution witnesses before court and their statements recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. to find out whether something new has come out in their depositions or not. Having done so, Court summed up as follows in paragraphs 13, 14, 15:-

"13. In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh's case may be recapitulated: power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the trial court at any stage during the trial, i.e., before the conclusion of trial, to summon any person as an accused and face the trial in the ongoing case, once the trial court finds that there is some 'evidence' against such a person on the basis of which evidence it can be gathered that he appears to be guilty of offence. The 'evidence' herein means the material that is brought before the Court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the I.O. at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. No doubt, such evidence that has surfaced in examination-in-chief, without cross- examination of witnesses, can also be taken into consideration. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the Court under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrants. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom chargesheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the Court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity.

14. When we translate the aforesaid principles with their application to the facts of this case, we gather an impression that the trial court acted in a casual and cavalier manner in passing the summoning order against the appellants. The appellants were named in the FIR. Investigation was carried out by the police. On the basis of material collected during investigation, which has been referred to by us above, the IO found that these appellants were in Jaipur city when the incident took place in Kanaur, at a distance of 175 kms. The complainant and others who supported the version in the FIR regarding alleged presence of the appellants at the place of incident had also made statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the same effect. Notwithstanding the same, the police investigation revealed that the statements of these persons regarding the presence of the appellants at the place of occurrence was doubtful and did not inspire confidence, in view of the documentary and other evidence collected during the investigation, which depicted another story and clinchingly showed that appellants plea of alibi was correct.

15. This record was before the trial court. Notwithstanding the same, the trial court went by the deposition of complainant and some other persons in their examination-in-chief, with no other material to support their so- called verbal/ocular version. Thus, the 'evidence' recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the Revision Petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny."

22. In spite of law having been settled by Apex Court in Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and two Judges Bench judgement in Brijendra Singh (Supra) which made substantial advancement in favour of prospective accused, the issue as noted above, again arose for consideration in S Mohammed Ispahani (Supra). In this case, Court was considering the summoning of non charge-sheeted accused in a case under Sections-379, 427, 341, 379/34 read with Section 3(1) of Tamil Nadu Property Prevention of Damage and Loss Act, 1992. Court again took notice of observations made in paragraphs 19 as well as paragraphs 10 to 13 of Brijendra Singh's Case and by making departure from the settled meaning of evidence for the purpose of exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. opined that prospective accused can be summoned only when "strong and cogent evidence" occurs against him during course of trial and not in a "casual and cavalier manner". Ultimately, Court opined as follows in paragraphs 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, and 36:

"31.The order of the learned Chief Metropolitan Magistrate reveals that while dismissing the application of the complainant under Section 319 CrPC, the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate was swayed by two considerations:

(a) The complainant (PW 1) in his examination-in-chief had not spoken anything with regard to the alleged conspiracy entered into between the appellants i.e. the landlords and the bailiff. Also other witnesses i.e. PWs 2, 3 and 4, who were working in the company of the de facto complainant had not spoken anything with regard to the appellants. There was no documentary evidence produced by the complainant. Therefore, the available "evidence" was not sufficient to implead the appellants/proposed accused as accused in the case.

(b) The police, after thorough investigation, had filed the charge-sheet in which the appellants were not implicated. However, the complainant never filed any protest petition at that stage.

32. Taking the aforesaid grounds as their arguments, the learned counsel for the appellants have argued that there is no "evidence" within the meaning of Section 319 CrPC. The argument advanced is that the application filed by the complainant under Section 319 CrPC was an afterthought and belated effort on the part of the complainant, which was filed much after the recording of evidence of PW 1, that too when the prosecution evidence had already been concluded.

33. As against the above, the High Court, in the impugned judgment, has been influenced by the fact that names of the appellants were mentioned in the FIR and even in the statement of witnesses recorded under Section 161 CrPC these appellants were named and such statements under Section 161 CrPC would constitute "documents". In this context, the High Court has observed that "evidence" within the meaning of Section 319 CrPC would include the aforesaid statements and, therefore, the appellants could be summoned.

34. The aforesaid reasons given by the High Court do not stand the judicial scrutiny. The High Court has not dealt with the subject-matter properly and even in the absence of strong and cogent evidence against the appellant, it has set aside the order of the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate and exercised its discretion in summoning the appellants as accused persons. No doubt, at one place the Constitution Bench observed in Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v.State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] that the word "evidence" has to be understood in its wider sense, both at the stage of trial and even at the stage of inquiry. In para 105 of the judgment, however, it is observed that "only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner". This sentence gives an impression that only that evidence which has been led before the Court is to be seen and not the evidence which was collected at the stage of inquiry. However there is no contradiction between the two observations as the Court also clarified that the "evidence", on the basis of which an accused is to be summoned to face the trial in an ongoing case, has to be the material that is brought before the Court during trial. The material/evidence collected by the investigating officer at the stage of inquiry can only be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 CrPC.

35. It needs to be highlighted that when a person is named in the FIR by the complainant, but police, after investigation, finds no role of that particular person and files the charge-sheet without implicating him, the Court is not powerless, and at the stage of summoning, if the trial court finds that a particular person should be summoned as accused, even though not named in the charge-sheet, it can do so. At that stage, chance is given to the complainant also to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet. Once that stage has gone, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 CrPC. However, this section gets triggered when during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

36. In view of the above, it was not open to the High Court to rely upon the statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC as independent evidence. It could only be corroborative material. In the first instance, "evidence" led before the Court had to be taken into consideration. As far as deposition of PW 1 which was given in the Court is concerned, on going through the said statement, it becomes clear that he has not alleged any conspiracy on the part of the appellant landlords. In fact, none of the witness has said so. In the absence thereof, along with the important fact that these appellant landlords were admittedly not present at the site when the alleged incident took place, we do not find any "evidence" within the meaning of Section 319 CrPC on the basis of which they could be summoned as accused persons. PW 1 and PW 4 have deposed about the incident that took place at the site and the manner in which the persons who are present allegedly behaved. In the statement of PW 4, he has alleged that "Subsequently I came to know the said people is not police officials the people was sent by landlords of the building...". That statement may not be enough for roping in the appellants/landlords to face the charge under those provisions of IPC with which others are charged. The standard of evidence mentioned in Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , namely, "strong and cogent evidence", is lacking."

23. In Dev Wati (Supra), Court considered the correctness of an order passed by the High Court, whereby it upheld the order passed by Sessions Court allowing an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. in a case under Sections- 302/34 I.P.C. Court took notice of the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh's case. Court referred to the words "appear" and 'proved' as interpreted by Constitution Bench, with reference to Section 319 Cr.P.C. and on basis thereof examined the veracity of order impugned. Following was determined in paragraphs- 8 and 9 of the judgement:

"8. Section 319(1) CrPC empowers the court to proceed against other persons who "appear" to be guilty of an offence, though not accused before the court. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] has ruled that the word "appear" means "clear to the comprehension", or a phrase near to, if not synonymous with "proved", and imparts a lesser degree of probability than proof. Though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the Court, it requires much stronger evidence than a mere probability of the complicity of the persons against whom the deponent has deposed. The test that has to be applied is of a degree of satisfaction which is more than that of a prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, may lead to conviction of the proposed accused. In the absence of such satisfaction, the Court should refrain from exercising the power under Section 319 CrPC. In our considered opinion, the impugned judgment has been passed by the High Court keeping the aforementioned principle in mind, though the said judgment has not been cited before the High Court.

9. On considering the deposition of PW 9, we do not find any valid ground to take a different view from that of the High Court and the Sessions Court. Additionally, though the advocate for the appellants raised certain issues on facts, the same cannot be considered at this stage, inasmuch as such factors will have to be considered by the Sessions Court while deciding the matter before it on merits."

24. In spite of law relating to summoning of a non-charge sheeted accused having been fairly settled, the issue regarding summoning of a non charge sheeted accused under section 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial for offences under Sections-147, 448, 294B and 506 I.P.C., on the basis of statements of witnesses examined under section 161 Cr.P.C. came to be considered in Periyasamai (Supra). Here again Court took notice of paragraphs 105 and 106 of Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh's case as well as paragraph 12 of the judgement in Labhuji Amratji Thakor Vs. State of Gujarat, (2019) 12 SCC 644, which provides the nature of evidence, required to summon a non charge sheeted accused. Upon evaluation of statements of prosecution witnesses who had deposed before Court in the light of above Court expressed itself as follows in paragraphs 13, 14, 15 and 16:

"13. In the statements recorded under Section 161 of the Code during the course of investigation, the complainant and his witnesses have not disclosed any other name except the 11 persons named in the FIR. Thus, the complainant has sought to cast net wide so as to include numerous other persons while moving an application under Section 319 of the Code without there being primary evidence about their role in house trespass or of threatening the complainant. Large number of people will not come to the house of the complainant and would return without causing any injury as they were said to be armed with weapons like crowbar, knife and ripper, etc.

14. In the first information report or in the statements recorded under Section 161 of the Code, the names of the appellants or any other description has not been given so as to identify them. The allegations in the FIR are vague and can be used any time to include any person in the absence of description in the first information report to identify such person. There is no assertion in respect of the villages to which the additional accused belong. Therefore, there is no strong or cogent evidence to make the appellants stand the trial for the offences under Sections 147, 448, 294(b) and 506 IPC in view of the judgment inHardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] . The additional accused cannot be summoned under Section 319 of the Code in casual and cavalier manner in the absence of strong and cogent evidence. Under Section 319 of the Code additional accused can be summoned only if there is more than prima facie case as is required at the time of framing of charge but which is less than the satisfaction required at the time of conclusion of the trial convicting the accused.

15. The High Court has set aside the order passed by the learned Magistrate only on the basis of the statements of some of the witnesses examined by the complainant. Mere disclosing the names of the appellants cannot be said to be strong and cogent evidence to make them to stand trial for the offence under Section 319 of the Code, especially when the complainant is a husband and has initiated criminal proceedings against the family of his in-laws and when their names or other identity were not disclosed at the first opportunity.

16. Consequently, the order passed by the learned High Court is set aside and that of the trial court is restored and the application under Section 319 of the Code is dismissed. The appeal is allowed."

25. In Sunil Kumar Gupta (Supra), Court considered the issue regarding summoning of a prospective accused under section 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial under Sections- 498A, 304B/302 I.P.C. and Sections- ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act, on the strength of an oral dying declaration even when his name was not mentioned in F.I.R, dying declaration or the statements of P.W.1 and P.W.3. In this case also, Court noticed the observations made in paragraphs 21 to 23 and 105 to 106 by Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh's case. Having noticed the ratio laid down in above judgment, Court proceeded to apply the principles laid down therein and ultimately decided as follows in paragraphs 13 and 14:

"13. Applying the above principles to the case in hand, in our considered view, no prima facie case is made out for summoning the appellants and to proceed against the appellants for the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. As pointed out earlier, in the dying declaration, deceased Shilpa has only mentioned the name of Chanchal alias Babita; but she has not mentioned the names of others. In his complaint lodged before the police on the next day i.e. 20-8-2012, Sudhir Kumar Gupta PW 1 has stated that his daughter Shilpa told him that Chanchal alias Babita and all other people set her on fire after pouring kerosene. PW 1 has neither stated the names of the appellants nor attributed any overt act. Likewise, in their evidence before the court, PWs 1 and 3 have only stated that Shilpa told them that Chanchal alias Babita and all others have set fire on deceased Shilpa. Neither the complaint nor the evidence of witnesses indicates as to the role played by the appellants in the commission of the offence and which accused has committed what offence. Under such circumstances, it cannot be said that the prosecution has shown prima facie material for summoning the accused for the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC.

14. Under Section 319 CrPC, a person can be added as an accused invoking the provisions not only for the same offence for which the accused is tried but for "any offence"; but that offence shall be such that in respect of which all the accused could be tried together. It is to be seen whether the appellants could be summoned for the offence under Section 498-A IPC and under Sections 3 and 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. The statement of PW 1 both in the complaint and in his evidence before the court is very general stating that he had given sufficient dowry to Shilpa according to his status and that the groom side were not satisfied with the dowry and that they used to demand dowry each and every time. Insofar as the demand of dowry and the dowry harassment, there are no particulars given as to the time of demand and what was the nature of demand. The averments in the complaint and the evidence is vague and no specific demand is attributed to any of the appellants. In such circumstances, there is no justification for summoning the appellants even under Section 498-A IPC and under Sections 3 and 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. It is also pertinent to point out that upon completion of investigation, the investigating officer felt that no offence under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and under Sections 3 and 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act is made out. Charge-sheet was filed for the offence punishable only under Section 302 IPC against Chanchal alias Babita. As held in the Constitution Bench judgment in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , for summoning an accused under Section 319 CrPC it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity which is lacking in the present case. The trial court and the High Court, in our considered view, has not examined the matter in the light of the well-settled principles and the impugned order is liable to be set aside."

26. In Rajesh and Others (Supra), Court again considered the principles governing the exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C in a situation, where a person is named in F.I.R., and specific allegations are made against him yet not charge sheeted nor any protest petition having been filed in Court by first informant after submission of charge sheet. Here again Court took notice of the law laid down by Apex Court in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and Brijendra Singh (Supra) and then evaluated oral testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2 whose testimonies did implicate the non charge sheeted accused in a case under Sections- 302, 307, 148, 149, 323, 324, 325 and 506 I.P.C. Ultimately, Court settled the issue as follows in paragraphs 6.8, 6.9, 6.10, 7 and 8:

"6.8. Considering the law laid down by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] and the observations and findings referred to and reproduced hereinabove, it emerges that (i) the Court can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned and the Court need not wait till the cross-examination of such a witness and the Court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination; and (ii) a person not named in the FIR or a person though named in the FIR but has not been charge-sheeted or a person who has been discharged can be summoned under Section 319 CrPC, provided from the evidence (may be on the basis of the evidence collected in the form of statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned), it appears that such person can be tried along with the accused already facing trial.

6.9. In S. Mohammed Ispahaniv.Yogendra Chandak [S. Mohammed Ispahani v.Yogendra Chandak, (2017) 16 SCC 226 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 138] , SCC para 35, this Court has observed and held as under : (SCC p. 243) "35. It needs to be highlighted that when a person is named in the FIR by the complainant, but police, after investigation, finds no role of that particular person and files the charge-sheet without implicating him, the Court is not powerless, and at the stage of summoning, if the trial court finds that a particular person should be summoned as accused, even though not named in the charge-sheet, it can do so. At that stage, chance is given to the complainant also to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet. Once that stage has gone, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 CrPC. However, this section gets triggered when during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused."

6.10. Thus, even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 CrPC and even those persons named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

7. Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decisions to the facts of the case on hand, we are of the opinion that, in the facts and circumstances of the case, neither the learned trial court nor the High Court have committed any error in summoning the appellants herein to face the trial along with other co-accused. As observed hereinabove, the appellants herein were also named in the FIR. However, they were not shown as accused in the challan/charge-sheet. As observed hereinabove, nothing is on record whether at any point of time the complainant was given an opportunity to submit the protest application against non-filing of the charge-sheet against the appellants. In the deposition before the Court, PW 1 and PW 2 have specifically stated against the appellants herein and the specific role is attributed to the appellant-accused herein. Thus, the statement of PW 1 and PW 2 before the Court can be said to be "evidence" during the trial and, therefore, on the basis of the same and as held by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , the persons against whom no charge-sheet is filed can be summoned to face the trial. Therefore, we are of the opinion that no error has been committed by the courts below to summon the appellants herein to face the trial in exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC.

8. Now, so far as the submissions made on behalf of the appellants herein relying upon the orders passed by the learned Magistrate dated 1-9-2016 and 28-10-2016 that once the appellants herein were discharged by the learned Magistrate on an application submitted by the investigating officer/SHO and, therefore, thereafter it was not open to the learned Magistrate to summon the accused to face the trial in exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC is concerned, it appears that there is some misconception on the part of the appellants. At the outset, it is required to be noted that the orders dated 1-9-2016 and 28-10-2016 cannot be said to be the orders discharging the accused. If the applications submitted by the investigating officer/SHO and the orders passed thereon are considered, those were the applications to discharge/release the appellants herein from custody as at that stage the appellants were in judicial custody. Therefore, as such, those orders cannot be said to be the orders of discharge in stricto sensu. Those are the orders discharging the appellants from custody. Under the circumstances, the submission on behalf of the accused that as they were discharged by the learned Magistrate and therefore it was not open to the learned Magistrate to exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC and to summon the appellants to face the trial, cannot be accepted."

27. In spite of above noted judgements of Apex Court, wherein parameters regarding exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. and the nature of evidence required to summon a prospective accused has been fairly crystallized, yet the necessity to refer the matter again to a Constitution Bench for re-consideration arose in Sukhpal Singh Khaira (Supra). In aforesaid case, court was considering the summoning of a non charge-sheeted accused to face trial in a Sessions Trial under Sections- 302 read with Sections- 149 and 323 I.P.C. and Section 27 of Arms Act. Court noticed the observations made in paragraph 47 of Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh's case but still opined that the matter requires consideration by a Constitution Bench as certain questions still remain unanswered in Hardeep Singh's case and further the parameters regarding the exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. need to be re laid down. Following was observed by the Court in paragraphs 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27:

"22. It was contended that the question of law herein is unique to the present case, and the earlier judgment of Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] did not have an opportunity to cast any light about the validity of summoning orders pronounced after the passing of the judgment. They further argued that, Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , treats Section 319 in an isolated manner without taking into consideration the spirit and the mandate of the Code.

23. To strengthen the aforesaid submission, the State further contended that Section 465 CrPC was introduced to provide for a balanced mechanism under the Criminal Justice System and to stop the courts from getting into hypertechnicalities and committing serious violations. This Court in Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] has not considered the above principles or the issues which could possibly arise before the trial court while dealing with applications under Section 319 CrPC. The State therefore submitted that, Section 319 CrPC should not be treated as an isolated island and should instead be given a pragmatic interpretation by keeping in view the entire mandate of the Code to render complete justice.

24. Furthermore, it needs to be determined whether the trial is said to be fully concluded even if the bifurcated trial in respect of the absconded accused is still pending consideration.

25. The appellant herein contended that, the observations made in Hardeep Singh case [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] , cannot be diluted by a Bench of this strength. We have considered the averments made by the counsel on behalf of both parties, we feel that it would be appropriate to place the same for consideration before a larger Bench. However, we are of the considered opinion that, power under Section 319 CrPC being extraordinary in nature, the trial courts should be cautious while summoning the accused to avoid complexities and to ensure fair trial. We must remind ourselves that, timely disposal of the matters furthers the interest of justice.

26. After pursuing the relevant facts and circumstances, the following substantial questions of law arise for further consideration--

26.1.(i) Whether the trial court has the power under Section 319 CrPC for summoning additional accused when the trial with respect to other co-accused has ended and the judgment of conviction rendered on the same date before pronouncing the summoning order?

26.2.(ii) Whether the trial court has the power under Section 319 CrPC for summoning additional accused when the trial in respect of certain other absconding accused (whose presence is subsequently secured) is ongoing/pending, having been bifurcated from the main trial?

26.3.(iii) What are the guidelines that the competent court must follow while exercising power under Section 319 CrPC?

27. In the light of the same, we direct the Registry to place these matters before the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of India for constitution of a Bench of appropriate strength for considering the aforesaid questions."

28. In Mani Pushpak Joshi (Supra), Court was considering correctness of an order passed by High Court refusing to set aside an order passed by trial Court allowing an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. in a case under Sections- 376(2) I.P.C. and Sections- 5/6 POCSO Act. In this case, Court noticed the observations made by Constitution Bench in Hardeep's Singh case in paragraphs 100, 105 and 106 of the judgement and paragraph 13 of the judgement in Labhuji Amratji Thakor Vs State of Gujarat, (2019) 12 SCC 644, which is regarding the nature of evidence required for summoning of a non charge sheeted accused and applying the principles laid down therein, Court ultimately resolved as follows in paragraphs 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16:

"12. In Labhuji Amratji Thakor v. State of Gujarat [Labhuji Amratji Thakor v. State of Gujarat, (2019) 12 SCC 644 : AIR 2019 SC 734] , this Court held that the Court has to consider substance of the evidence, which has come before it and has to apply the test i.e. "more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. It was held as under: (SCC p. 649, paras 13-14) "13. The High Court [Meruji Jesuji Thakore v. State of Gujarat, 2018 SCC OnLine Guj 4765] does not even record any satisfaction that the evidence on record as revealed by the statement of victim and her mother even makes out a prima facie case of offence against the appellants. The mere fact that the Court has power under Section 319 CrPC to proceed against any person who is not named in the FIR or in the charge-sheet does not mean that whenever in a statement recorded before the Court, name of any person is taken, the Court has to mechanically issue process under Section 319 CrPC. The Court has to consider substance of the evidence, which has come before it and as laid down by the Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh[Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] has to apply the test i.e. 'more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction'.

14. Although, the High Court has not adverted to the test laid down by the Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] nor has given any cogent reasons for exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC, but for our satisfaction, we have looked into the evidence, which has come on record before the trial court ... The observations of the trial court while rejecting the application having that the application appears to be filed with mala fide intention, has not even been adverted to by the High Court."

13. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties at some length, we find that the order summoning the appellant for the offences under Section 376(2) of the Penal Code, 1860 (for short "IPC") read with Sections 5/6 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (for short "the Pocso Act") is not sustainable in law.

14. The prosecutrix is a small child. It is parents of the child who have taken the photographs either from the website of the school or from Facebook to introduce a person with spectacles as an accused. The initial version of the father of the prosecutrix and of the prosecutrix herself, as disclosed by her father in the FIR, is assault by one person. But in view of statement of Gauri Vohra (PW 11), the anger was directed against the management of the school of which the appellant is a part. Even if the father of the child has basis to be angry with the management of the school but, we find that no prima facie case of any active part on the part of the appellant is made out in violating the small child. The involvement of other persons on the statement of the child of impressionable age does not inspire confidence that the appellant is liable to be proceeded under Section 319 CrPC. In fact, it is suggestive role of the family which influences the mind of the child to indirectly implicate the appellant.

15. Obviously, the father of the child must have anger against the management of the school as his child was violated when she was studying in the school managed by the appellant but, we find that the anger of the father against the management of the school including the appellant is not sufficient to make him to stand trial for the offences punishable under Section 376(2) IPC read with Sections 5/6 of the Pocso Act.

16. The statement of the child so as to involve a person wearing spectacles as an accused does not inspire confidence disclosing more than prima facie to make him to stand trial of the offences. Therefore, we hold that the order of summoning the appellant under Section

319 CrPC is not legal. The fact, that the prosecution after investigations has found no material to charge the present appellant also cannot be ignored. The heinous crime committed should not be led into prosecuting a person only because he was part of the management of the school. We have extracted the evidence led by the prosecution only to find out if there is any prima facie case against the appellant. We are satisfied that there is no prima facie case against the appellant, which warrants his trial for the offences pending before the Court."

29. I n Sugreev Kumar (Supra), Court was examining correctness of an order passed by High Court, whereby order passed by trial Court allowing an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. in a case under Sections- 302, 307, 341, 34 I.P.C. and Sections- 25, 54 and 59 Arms Act, was upheld by the High Court. In this case also, Court considered the ratio laid down by Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh's Case in paragraphs 95, 105 and 106 and thereafter Court formulated its view as follows in paragraphs 18, 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23:

"18. Thus, the provisions contained in Section 319 CrPC sanction the summoning of any person on the basis of any relevant evidence as available on record. However, it being a discretionary power and an extraordinary one, is to be exercised sparingly and only when cogent evidence is available. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed for exercise of this power requires stronger evidence than mere probability of complicity of a person. The test to be applied is the one which is more than a prima facie case as examined at the time of framing charge but not of satisfaction to the extent that the evidence, if goes uncontroverted, would lead to the conviction of the accused.

19. While applying the abovementioned principles to the facts of the present case, we are of the view that the consideration of the application under Section 319 CrPC in the orders impugned had been as if the existence of a case beyond reasonable doubt was being examined against the proposed accused persons. In other words, the trial court and the High Court have proceeded as if an infallible case was required to be shown by the prosecution in order to proceed against the proposed accused persons. That had clearly been an erroneous approach towards the prayer for proceeding against a person with reference to the evidence available on record.

20 The appellant (PW 1) has made the statement assigning specific roles to the proposed accused persons. At the stage of consideration of the application under Section 319 CrPC, of course, the trial court was to look at something more than a prima facie case but could not have gone to the extent of enquiring as to whether the matter would ultimately result in conviction of the proposed accused persons.

21. The other application moved by the prosecution after leading of further evidence in the matter has been rejected by the trial court essentially with reference to the impugned orders dated 24-7-2014 and 2-7-2018 [Sugreev Kumar v. State of Punjab, 2018 SCC OnLine P&H 1848] , which are the subject-matter of challenge in this appeal.

22. In the totality of the circumstances of this case, rather than dilating further on the evidence, suffice it would be to observe for the present purpose that the prayer of the prosecution for proceeding against other accused persons, having not been examined in the proper perspective and with due regard to the applicable principles, deserves to be restored for reconsideration of the trial court.

23. Accordingly, this appeal is allowed in part, to the extent and in the manner that the impugned orders are set aside and the applications made by the prosecution under Section 319 CrPC are restored for reconsideration of the trial court. In the interest of justice, it is made clear that we have not pronounced on the merits of the case either way and it would be expected of the trial court to reconsider the prayer of prosecution for proceeding against the proposed accused persons totally uninfluenced by any observation herein regarding facts of the case but with due regard to the evidence on record and to the law applicable."

30. In Labhuji Amratji Thakor (Supra), a three Judges Bench of Supreme Court considered correctness of an order passed by High Court, whereby order passed by trial court rejecting an application under section 319 Cr.P.C in a case under Sections- 363, 366 I.P.C. and Sections- 3/4 POCSO Act, was set aside. Again Court took notice of paragraphs 105 and 106 of judgement in Hardeep Singh's case, and then applied the principles laid down therein to the facts of the case. Upon evaluation of facts in the light of above, Court concurred with the view of the trial court by observing as under in paragraphs 10, 11 and 12:

"10. In the present case, there are not even suggestions of any act done by the appellants amounting to an offence referred to in Sections 3 and 4 of the Pocso Act. Thus, there was no occasion to proceed against the appellants under the Pocso Act.

11. Now, we come back to the reasons given by the High Court in allowing the criminal revision and setting aside the order of the Pocso Judge. The judgment of the High Court runs into four paragraphs and the only reason given by the High Court for allowing the revision is contained in para 3, which is to the following effect:

"3. On going through the depositions of the victim as well as her mother, some overtact and participation on the part of Respondents 3 to 5 are clearly revealing. But, this Court is not inclined to opine either way as the said fact was not stated before the police at the time of recording of their statements. But, taking into consideration the provision of Section 319 of the Criminal Procedure Code, this Court deems it appropriate to summon them and put them to trial...."

12. The High Court does not even record any satisfaction that the evidence on record as revealed by the statement of victim and her mother even makes out a prima facie case of offence against the appellants. The mere fact that the Court has power under Section 319 CrPC to proceed against any person who is not named in the FIR or in the charge-sheet does not mean that whenever in a statement recorded before the Court, name of any person is taken, the Court has to mechanically issue process under Section 319 CrPC. The Court has to consider substance of the evidence, which has come before it and as laid down by the Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] has to apply the test i.e. "more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction." Although, the High Court has not adverted to the test laid down by the Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh[Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] nor has given any cogent reasons for exercise of power under Section 319 CrPC, but for our satisfaction, we have looked into the evidence, which has come on record before the trial court as statements of PW 3 and PW 4. PW 3 is mother of the victim, who has clearly stated that her daughter has informed that she was abducted by the appellants and Natuji, who had taken her to the Morbi in the vehicle of Labhuji. The statement of the mother of the victim was a hearsay statement and could not have been relied for proceeding against the appellants. Now, coming to the statement of the victim, PW 4, she has only stated that Natuji, the accused had come along with his three friends, i.e. appellants and she was taken in the jeep to Morbi. She does not even allege complicity of the appellants in the offence. Her further statement was that she was taken to Morbi in the jeep driven by Labhuji and subsequently was taken to Modasa from Morbi in the jeep of Labhuji which also could not furnish any basis to proceed against the appellants. The mere fact that the jeep, in which she was taken to Modasa, the appellants were also present cannot be treated to be any allegation of complicity of the appellants in the offence. The observations of the trial court while rejecting the application holding that the application appears to be filed with mala fide intention, has not even been adverted to by the High Court."

31. In Shiv Prakash Mishra (Supra), Court again considered the veracity of an order passed on an application under section 482 Cr.P.C., whereby High Court refused to interfere with the order passed by trial Court declining to exercise jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. in a case arising out of Case Crime No. 328A/2013, under Sections- 148, 148, 149, 302, 307, 323 and 504 I.P.C. Again observations made by Constitution Bench in paragraphs 105 and 106 of judgement in Hardeep Singh's case as explained in paragraphs 13 of Brijendra Singh's case were noticed and on basis thereof court considered the nature of evidence required for summoning a non charge sheeted accused. It was in aforesaid background that Court examined the testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.2 therein and summarized its views as follows in paragraphs 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17 of the judgement:

"13. In the light of the above principles, considering the present case, having regard to the contradictory statements of the witnesses and other circumstances, in our view, the trial court and the High Court rightly held that Respondent 2 cannot be summoned as an accused. The FIR in Case Crime No. 328-A/2013 was registered on 6-9-2013 at 1815 hours. The name of the second respondent is no doubt mentioned in the FIR and overt act is attributed to him. It is clear from the record that during the course of investigation, the investigating officer recorded the statements of witnesses, namely, Rajesh Kumar, Nizamuddin, Nand Kishore, Tribhuwan Singh, Bintu Rai and Nageshwar Kumar and other seven witnesses who have stated that Respondent 2 was not present at the place of occurrence at the time of the incident. The investigating officer has also recorded the statement of one Shiv Kumar Gupta and Sandeep Gupta who are working in the same office in which Respondent 2 was employed who had stated that Respondent 2 was in the office at the time of incident. Based on the statements recorded from the witnesses, the investigating officer found that the second respondent was posted on the post of Junior Engineer in the Bridge Construction Unit of Bridge Corporation, Lucknow and he usually resided there and on 6-9-2013, he was present at his workplace and discharging his official duties. Based on the materials collected during the investigation, the investigating officer recorded the finding that on the date and time of incident, Subhash Chandra Shukla was not present at the place of occurrence. Accordingly, the name of Subhash Chandra Shukla was dropped when the first charge-sheet was filed on 19-9-2014. The supplementary charge-sheet was filed against Rahul Shukla on 15-10-2014. Though the name of the second respondent was mentioned in the FIR, during investigation, it was thus found that the second respondent was not present in the place of incident and on the basis of the findings of the investigating officer, he was not charge-sheeted. Be it noted that the appellant complainant has not filed any protest petition then and there. During investigation, when it was found that the accused was not present at the place of incident, the courts below were right in refusing to summon Respondent 2 as an accused.

14. As pointed out by the trial court, PW 1 was examined on various dates from 22-10-2016 to 2-8-2017 and examined on nine hearing dates. Though, in his chief-examination on 22-10-2016, PW 1 has stated about the presence of Subhash Chandra Shukla and attributing overt act to him that he had beaten the deceased Sangam Lal Mishra with butt of home-made pistol, on 28-2-2017, PW 1 in his cross-examination stated that Subhash Chandra Shukla was on duty at that time. The relevant portion of the statement of PW 1 reads as under:

"... Subhash Chandra Shukla does not live in the house. He does service/job. At the same time in Jigna Police Station, District Mirjapur he was making bridge and due to this reason, he was on duty there...."

15. As pointed out by the trial court and the High Court, PW 1 has made contradictory statements in the course of his examination in connection with the presence of Subhash Chandra Shukla.

16. Anand Kumar Mishra (PW 2) has been examined who is stated to be the eyewitness. PW 2 has been working as Assistant Teacher (Shiksha Mitra). His duty time is from 7.00 a.m. till 12.00 noon. PW 2 though stated that he was on leave on the date of occurrence i.e. 6-9-2013, the trial court expressed doubts about his presence at the time of occurrence. Considering the fact that PW 2 is working as a teacher and that PW 2 is a co-accused in the cross-case, the trial court and the High Court expressed doubts about the evidence of PW 2 as to the presence of the second respondent. The evidence brought on record during trial does not prima facie show the complicity of Respondent 2 in the occurrence and the High Court was justified in refusing to summon Respondent 2 as an accused.

17. The High Court and the trial court concurrently held that the materials brought on record are not sufficient to summon the second respondent as an accused in the present case. No substantial ground is made out warranting interference and the appeal is liable to be dismissed."

32. In Sartaj Singh (Supra), Court was examining correctness of an order passed by the High Court, whereby High Court allowed the revision and set-aside the order passed by trial court on an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., whereby non charge sheeted accused were summoned to face trial in a sessions case, arising out of an F.I.R. under Sections- 148, 149, 341, 323, 324, 307 and 506 I.P.C. Court noticed the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh's case as well as the judgement in S. Mohammed Ispahani (Supra). After applying the law laid down therein, Court proceeded to deduce the nature of evidence that is required for summoning of a non charge-sheeted accused and upon evaluation, disagreed with the view expressed by High Court by drawing its disagreement as follows in paragraphs 14, 15, 16 and 17 of the judgement:

"14. Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decisions to the case of the accused on hand, we are of the opinion that the learned trial court was justified in summoning the private respondents herein to face the trial as accused on the basis of the deposition of the appellant--injured eyewitness. As held by this Court in the aforesaid decisions, the accused can be summoned on the basis of even examination-in-chief of the witness and the court need not wait till his cross-examination. If on the basis of the examination-in-chief of the witness the court is satisfied that there is a prima facie case against the proposed accused, the court may in exercise of powers under Section 319 CrPC array such a person as accused and summon him to face the trial.

15. At this stage, it is required to be noted that right from the beginning the appellant herein-injured eyewitness, who was the first informant, disclosed the names of private respondents herein and specifically named them in the FIR. But on the basis of some enquiry by the DSP they were not charge-sheeted. What will be the evidentiary value of the enquiry report submitted by the DSP is another question. It is not that the investigating officer did not find the case against the private respondents herein and therefore they were not charge-sheeted. In any case, in the examination-in-chief of the appellant-injured eyewitness, the names of the private respondents herein are disclosed. It might be that whatever is stated in the examination-in-chief is the same which was stated in the FIR. The same is bound to be there and ultimately the appellant herein-injured eyewitness is the first informant and he is bound to again state what was stated in the FIR, otherwise he would be accused of contradictions in the FIR and the statement before the court. Therefore, as such, the learned trial court was justified in directing to issue summons against the private respondents herein to face the trial.

16. Now, so far as the impugned judgment and order [Manjeet Singh v. State of Haryana, 2020 SCC OnLine P&H 2782] passed by the High Court is concerned, it appears that while quashing and setting aside the order passed by the learned trial court, the High Court has considered/observed as under: (Manjeet Singh case [Manjeet Singh v. State of Haryana, 2020 SCC OnLine P&H 2782] , SCC OnLine P&H paras 29-30) "29. No evidence except the statement of Sartaj Singh, which has already been investigated into by the DSPs concerned was relied upon by the trial court to summon, which was not sufficient for exercising power under Section 319 CrPC.

30. As per statement of Sartaj Singh, Palwinder Singh and Satkar Singh gave him lathi-blows on the head. Manjeet Singh, Amarjeet Singh, Rajwant Singh, Narvair Singh and Sukhdev Singh were holding gandasi. Manjeet Singh, Amarjeet Singh and Rajwant Singh gave him gandasi-blows on the head and face. All the injuries are stated to fall in the offence under Sections 323, 324, 326, 341 read with Section 149 IPC. In case, so many people as mentioned above were giving gandasi and lathis blows on the head, Sartaj Singh was bound to have suffered more injuries, which would not have left him alive and probably he would have been killed on the spot. He seems to have escaped with only such injuries as have invited offence only under Sections 323, 324, 326, 341 read with Section 149 IPC. Therefore, the trial court erred in exercising his jurisdiction summoning the other accused where exaggeration and implication is evident on both sides."

17. The aforesaid reasons assigned by the High Court are unsustainable in law and on facts. At this stage, the High Court was not required to appreciate the deposition of the injured eyewitness and what was required to be considered at this stage was whether there is any prima facie case and not whether on the basis of such material the proposed accused is likely to be convicted or not and/or whatever is stated by the injured eyewitness in his examination-in-chief is exaggeration or not. The aforesaid aspects are required to be considered during the trial and while appreciating the entire evidence on record."

33. In Manjeet Singh (Supra), Court was considering the correctness of an order passed by High Court dismissing the revision preferred against an order passed by Sessions Judge allowing the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. filed in a case under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC and Sections 3/4 Protection of Children From Sexual Offences, (POCSO) Act, 2012 Court again examined the issue relating to parameters for exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. Court took notice of the constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and S. Mohammed Ispahani (Supra) and on basis of ratio laid down therein evolved the ambit and scope of powers of Court under section 319 Cr.P.C. in paragraphs 34 of judgement. Having done so, Court examined the testimony of P.W.1 Manjeet who is an injured witness and on basis thereof tested the veracity of orders passed by High Court as well as trial court whereby summoning of non charge sheeted accused was declined. Court upon evaluation of evidence on record disagreed with the view taken by High Court as well as trial court. Following disagreement was expressed by court in paragraphs 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38 of the judgement:

"34. The ratio of the aforesaid decisions on the scope and ambit of the powers of the Court under Section 319 CrPC can be summarized as under:

(i) That while exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC and to summon the persons not charge-sheeted, the entire effort is not to allow the real perpetrator of an offence to get away unpunished;

(ii) for the empowerment of the courts to ensure that the criminal administration of justice works properly;

(iii) the law has been properly codified and modified by the legislature under the CrPC indicating as to how the courts should proceed to ultimately find out the truth so that the innocent does not get punished but at the same time, the guilty are brought to book under the law;

(iv) to discharge duty of the court to find out the real truth and to ensure that the guilty does not go unpunished;

(v) where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial;

(vi) Section 319 CrPC allows the court to proceed against any person who is not an accused in a case before it;

(vii) the court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency;

(viii) Section 319 CrPC is an enabling provision empowering the court to take appropriate steps for proceeding against any person not being an accused for also having committed the offence under trial;

(ix) the power under Section 319(1) CrPC can be exercised at any stage after the charge-sheet is filed and before the pronouncement of judgment, except during the stage of Sections 207/208 CrPC, committal, etc. which is only a pre-trial stage intended to put the process into motion;

(x) the court can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC only after the trial proceeds and commences with the recording of the evidence;

(xi) the word "evidence" in Section 319 CrPC means only such evidence as is made before the court, in relation to statements, and as produced before the court, in relation to documents;

(xii) it is only such evidence that can be taken into account by the Magistrate or the court to decide whether the power under Section 319 CrPC is to be exercised and not on the basis of material collected during the investigation;

(xiii) if the Magistrate/court is convinced even on the basis of evidence appearing in examination-in-chief, it can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC and can proceed against such other person(s);

(xiv) that the Magistrate/court is convinced even on the basis of evidence appearing in examination-in-chief, powers under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised;

(xv) that power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised even at the stage of completion of examination-in-chief and the court need not has to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination;

(xvi) even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 CrPC and even those persons named in FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial, provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused (may be in the form of examination-in-chief of the prosecution witnesses);

35. Applying the law laid down in the aforesaid decisions to the facts of the case on hand we are of the opinion that the Learned trial Court as well as the High Court have materially erred in dismissing the application under Section 319 CrPC and refusing to summon the private respondents herein to face the trial in exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC. It is required to be noted that in the FIR No. 477 all the private respondents herein who are sought to be arraigned as additional accused were specifically named with specific role attributed to them. It is specifically mentioned that while they were returning back, Mahendra XUV bearing no. HR-40A-4352 was standing on the road which belongs to Sartaj Singh and Sukhpal. Tejpal, Parab Saran Singh, Preet Samrat and Sartaj were standing. Parab Sharan was having lathi in his hand, Tejpal was having a gandsi, Sukhpal was having a danda, Sartaj was having a revolver and Preet Singh was sitting in the jeep. It is specifically mentioned in the FIR that all the aforesaid persons with common intention parked the Mahendra XUV HR-40A-4352 in a manner which blocks the entire road and they were armed with the weapons. Despite the above specific allegations, when the charge-sheet/final report came to be filed only two persons came to be charge-sheeted and the private respondents herein though named in the FIR were put/kept in column no. 2. It is the case on behalf of the private respondents herein that four different DSPs inquired into the matter and thereafter when no evidence was found against them the private respondents herein were put in column no. 2 and therefore the same is to be given much weightage rather than considering/believing the examination-in-chief of the appellant herein. Heavy reliance is placed on the case of Brijendra Singh (Supra). However none of DSPs and/or their reports, if any, are part of the charge-sheet. None of the DSPs are shown as witnesses. None of the DSPs are Investigating Officer. Even on considering the final report/charge-sheet as a whole there does not appear to be any consideration on the specific allegations qua the accused the private respondents herein who are kept in column no. 2. Entire discussion in the charge-sheet/final report is against Sartaj Singh only.

36. So far as the private respondents are concerned only thing which is stated is "During the investigation of the present case, Shri Baljinder Singh, HPS, DSP Assandh and Shri Kushalpal, HPS, DSP Indri found accused Tejpal Singh, Sukhpal Singh, sons of Gurdev Singh, Parab Sharan Singh and Preet Samrat Singh sons of Mohan Sarup Singh caste Jat Sikh, residents of Bandrala innocent and accordingly Sections 148, 149 and 341 of the IPC were deleted in the case and they were kept in column no. 2, whereas challan against accused Sartaj has been presented in the Court."

37. Now thereafter when in the examination-in-chief the appellant herein - victim - injured eye witness has specifically named the private respondents herein with specific role attributed to them, the Learned trial Court as well as the High Court ought to have summoned the private respondents herein to face the trial. At this stage it is required to be noted that so far as the appellant herein is concerned he is an injured eye-witness. As observed by this Court in the cases of State of MP v. Mansingh(2003) 10 SCC 414 (para 9); Abdul Sayeed v. State of MP (2010) 10 SCC 259; State of Uttar Pradesh v. Naresh (2011) 4 SCC 324, the evidence of an injured eye witness has greater evidential value and unless compelling reasons exist, their statements are not to be discarded lightly. As observed hereinabove while exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC the Court has not to wait till the cross-examination and on the basis of the examination-in-chief of a witness if a case is made out, a person can be summoned to face the trial under Section 319 CrPC.

38. Now so far as the reasoning given by the High Court while dismissing the revision application and confirming the order passed by the Learned trial Court dismissing the application under Section 319 CrPC is concerned, the High Court itself has observed that PW1 Manjeet Singh is the injured witness and therefore his presence cannot be doubted as he has received fire arm injuries along with the deceased. However, thereafter the High Court has observed that the statement of Manjeet Singh indicates over implication and that no injury has been attributed to either of the respondents except they were armed with weapons and the concerned injuries are attributed only to Sartaj Singh even for the sake of arguments someone was present with Sartaj Singh it cannot be said that they had any common intention or there was meeting of mind or knew that Sartaj would be firing. The aforesaid reasonings are not sustainable at all. At the stage of exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC, the Court is not required to appreciate and/or enter on the merits of the allegations of the case. The High Court has lost sight of the fact that the allegations against all the accused persons right from the very beginning were for the offences under Sections 302, 307, 341, 148 & 149 IPC. The High Court has failed to appreciate the fact that for attracting the offence under Section 149 IPC only forming part of unlawful assembly is sufficient and the individual role and/or overt act is immaterial. Therefore, the reasoning given by the High Court that no injury has been attributed to either of the respondents except that they were armed with weapons and therefore, they cannot be added as accused is unsustainable. The Learned trial Court and the High Court have failed to exercise the jurisdiction and/or powers while exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC."

34. With the aid of the above, Court now proceeds to examine the correctness of impugned order dated 13.05.2022, passed by learned court of Additional District and Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar, in Sessions Trial No.660 of 2020 (State Vs. Hemant), under section 302 IPC, Police Station-Araniya, District Bulandshahar, arising out of Case Crime No.313 of 2019, whereby revisionist has been summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial in above-mentioned sessions trial.

35. Before proceeding to do so, it must be noticed that following issues stand settled as per the judgements mentioned herein above and, therefore, they are not required to be dealt with.

36. The ambit and scope of powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. now stands crystalized by Supreme Court in paragraph-34 of the judgement in Manjeet Singh (supra).

37. The summoning of a non charge-sheeted accused in exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. cannot be done in a "casual and cavalier manner". Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is "an extraordinary discretionary power which should be exercised sparingly". Vide paragraphs- 34 and 36 of the judgement in S. Mohammed Ispahani (supra) and paragraph- 105 of the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (supra).

38. The nature of evidence required for summoning a non charge-sheeted accused to face trial, has been summarized in paragraph-106 of the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (supra) wherein Constitution Bench has held that a prospective accused can be summoned on the basis of Statement-in-Chief of prosecution witness of fact. The only requirement is that such statement discloses more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence if goes unrebutted would lead to conviction. The second test laid down therein is that such person could be tried with other accused. In paragraph- 36 of the judgement in S Court held that a non charge sheeted accused can be summoned only on the basis of "strong and cogent evidence".

39. The evidence of an eye witness has greater evidentiary value and unless compelling reasons exist, their statements are not to be discarded lightly. Vide paragraph 37 of judgement in Manjeet Singh (Supra).

40. Having noted the settled position, the Court is now required to consider whether on the testimonies of P.W.1 and P.W.2, revisionist could have been summoned by court below. As an ancillary issue, Court will also have to consider as to whether court below has exercised it's jurisdiction "diligently" or as termed by Apex Court in a "casual and cavalier manner."

41. P.W.1 Raj Kumar is first informant. He is also an eye-witness of the occurrence. His statement-in-chief as well as cross-examination have also been recorded. As such his testimony falls in the realm of legal evidence. While considering an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., Court can rely upon the statement-in-chief of a witness, vide paragraph- 92 of the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (supra). Therefore, no illegality has been committed by court below in relying upon statement-in-chief as well as cross-examination of this witness.

42. Statement-in-chief/cross examination of P.W.1-Ram Kumar is on record as Annexure-19 to the affidavit filed in support of present revision.

43. Perusal of same goes to show that P.W.1 has categorically stated about the time, place and manner of occurrence. This witness has clearly implicated revisionist alongwith others in the crime in question.

His presence at the time and place of occurrence along with others has been categorically stated by this witnesses. This witness in his deposition has clearly stated that revisionist was present at the time and place of occurrence alongwith other accused. As such, complicity of revisionist in crime in question is established. P.W.1 has also been cross-examined. However, upon perusal of examination-in-chief of P.W.1, Court does not find that any such material was culled out from this witness, on the basis of which his testimony could be discarded at this stage. Testimony of P.W.1 clearly satisfies the test as noted in paragraph- 106 of the Constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (supra), wherein Court has noticed Section 319 Cr.P.C. and has laid emphasis on the term "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". His testimony also satisfies the other test laid down in aforesaid paragraphs of above-noted judgement which is as follows: The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In view of fact that P.W.1 has been cross examined, wherein presence of revisionist at the time and place of occurrence stands established, as such, his testimony falls in the realm of "strong and cogent evidence." As such, testimony of this witness also satisfies the test laid down in S. Mohammaed Ispahani (Supra).

44. P.W.2, Satendra Pratap Singh is also an eye-witness of the occurrence. His presence at the time and place of occurrence, cannot be doubted. He has categorically detailed the manner of and, as such, credibility of this witness is higher and opposite party could not cull out any such statement on the basis of which, it can be said that his testimony is neither "strong nor cogent". There is nothing on record to disbelieve this witness. The nature of evidence required for summoning an accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. as noted herein above is also satisfied in respect of this witness also.

44. In view of above, submission urged by the learned counsel for revisionist that court below has pre-empted the disposal of application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., inasmuch as, the Investigating Officer has not yet been examined and he was the best person to disclose the circumstances on the basis of which, revisionist was exculpated in the charge-sheet, though appears fanciful at the first flush, but is misconceived in view of law laid down by Constitution Bench in Hardeep Singh (supra).

45. The submission urged by learned counsel for revisionist that nothing new has been stated by P.W.1 and P.W.2 in their depositions before the Court than what was stated before Investigating Officer in their statements under section 161 Cr.P.C., the Court finds that no ground regarding above has been raised in the memo of revision. However, upon perusal of statements of P.W.1 and P.W.2 as recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C. which are on record as Annexure-2 and Annexure-5 to the affidavit, the Court finds that aforesaid witnesses in their statements as well as depositions before Court below have supported the prosecution story as unfolded in F.I.R. In their cross examination, defence has failed to cull out any such fact on the basis of which their testimonies could be discarded being unworthy of acceptance at this stage. For the conclusion drawn regarding nature of evidence of

P.W.1 and P.W.2 herein above, submission urged by learned counsel for revisionist is by itself unable to dislodge the credibility and reliability of P.W.1 and P.W.2 at this stage, wherein complicity of revisionist in the crime in question stands established.

46. Apex Court in Rajesh and Others (Supra), Sugreev Kumar (Supra), Shiv Prakash Mishra (Supra) and Sartaj Singh (Supra) considered the veracity of order passed on an application under section 319 Cr.P.C. wherein prospective accused were summoned in cases under section 302, 307 IPC or both. In all the cases referred to above, Court has meticulously examined the testimonies of prosecution witnesses in each of above mentioned case in the light of tests laid down by Apex Court in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and S.Mohammed Ispahani (Supra) and after undertaking aforesaid exercise has proceeded to decide whether on the testimony of prosecution witnesses, prospective accused could be summoned or not.

47. The same procedure as adopted by Court in judgements referred to above in preceding paragraph has been applied in present case. Court has not come across any such material to conclude that Court below has not exercised its jurisdiction "diligently" and revisionist has been summoned by Court below in a "casual and caviliar manner". Deposition of P.W.1 and P.W.2 falls in the realm of "strong and cogent evidence" and satisfies the twin test laid down by Constitution Bench in paragraph 105 of the judgement in Hardeep Singh (Supra). It clearly establishes complicity of revisionist in the crime in question.

48. For all the facts and reasons recorded above, this Court does not find any good ground to interfere in this revision. The Revision lacks merit, therefore, same is liable to be dismissed.

49. It is, accordingly, dismissed.

This is a claimant's appeal, arising out of the judgment and award passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.12, Allahabad, dated 31.10.2009 in Motor Accident Claims Petition No. 420 of 2008. The claimant, who

2. The facts giving rise to this appeal lie in a narrow compass. Narrower still, would be the reference to facts of the case, and proceedings before the Tribunal, because the issue involved in this appeal is about adequacy of compensation alone. Smt. Ganpati Devi is the claimant, who is in appeal. She will hereinafter be referred to as "the claimant". Her husband was the victim of a motor accident caused by the vehicle bearing Registration No. UP-70M/5044, said to be driven rashly and negligently. The claimant's husband, in consequence of the accident, sustained injuries, to which he succumbed. The accident occurred on 23.04.2008 at the Imli Tiraha, Transport Nagar, P.S. Dhoomanganj, District Prayagraj. The deceased was aged 49 years at the time of the mishap. He was employed as a driver with the Jal Nigam and drew a monthly salary of ₹8,933/-.

3. The claimant asserts that on account of her husband's demise in the accident, she has sustained financial loss, besides suffering mental agony. She moved the Tribunal to recover from the owner of the vehicle as well as the insurer, a sum of ₹14,73,000/- in compensation. The Tribunal, by the impugned judgment, has awarded a sum of ₹1,61,232/- together with 6% simple interest from the date of institution of the claim petition until realization.

4. Aggrieved by the quantum of compensation awarded by the Tribunal, the claimant has come up in appeal.

5. Ishtiak Ahmad is the owner of the offending vehicle, whereas the National Insurance Company, Civil Lines, Allahabad are its insurers. Ishtiak Ahmad shall hereinafter be referred to as "the owner", whereas the National Insurance Company Limited, Civil Lines, Allahabad shall hereinafter be called "the insurers".

6. The learned Counsel for parties have addressed this Court on the issue of quantum alone and not the other issues dealt with by the Tribunal, about which there is no cavil before this Court.

7. Heard Mr. Ram Singh, learned Counsel for the claimant and Mr. Anand Kumar Sinha, learned Counsel for the insurers. No one appeared on behalf of the owner. I have perused the record.

8. The deceased, Banshilal Yadav was a driver in the employ of the Uttar Pradesh

Jal Nigam, Allahabad and attached with the Executive Engineer, Construction Division of the said Nigam. He was drawing a salary of ₹8,033/- per month. In order to prove the deceased's income, the claimant has filed her husband's salary certificate bearing Paper No. 19 ग1. The said certificate has been issued by the Executive Engineer, Construction Division, U.P. Jal Nigam, Allahabad. The Tribunal has recorded a finding that no evidence in rebuttal, or to contradict the said salary certificate, has been produced by the owner or the insurers. In the circumstances, the salary certificate has been accepted. The Tribunal has recorded that the basic salary of the deceased was ₹4700/-, to which was added a sum of ₹3478/- towards dearness allowance. In addition, the deceased was also in receipt of ₹680/- per month towards house rent allowance, which was added to his salary. The deceased was, thus, found to be in receipt of a monthly salary of ₹8,858/-.

9. The Tribunal proceeded to determine the compensation payable on the basis of the aforesaid monthly income. The annual income was determined by the Tribunal at a figure of ₹1,61,296/- by multiplying the monthly income with the figure of '12'. A one-third was deducted towards personal expenses of the deceased, which would be a sum of ₹35,432/-. Thus, the annual dependency was determined at a sum of ₹71,864/-. The Tribunal, however, did not take the sum last mentioned to be the annual dependency, on the basis of which, compensation would be calculated. The Tribunal took note of the evidence of the claimant, who testified as PW-1, to hold that it was acknowledged that the claimant was in receipt of a pension of ₹5000/- per mensem. The Tribunal, accordingly, held that the claimant received a sum of ₹60,000/- annually towards pension. The evidence of the witness was also considered to conclude that the deceased's son Pramod Kumar had been granted employment under The U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying-in-Harness Rules, 19741. The Tribunal, therefore, concluded that the sum of money received by the claimant in pension had to be deducted from the annual dependency. Thus, out of the annual dependency of ₹71,864/-, a sum of ₹60,000/- was deducted to determine the annual dependency for the claimant at a sum of ₹11,864/-. To the aforesaid sum, a multiplier of '13' was applied in accordance with the Second Schedule to the Motor Vehicles Act. This was done as the deceased was aged 49 years. The dependency of ₹11,864/-, upon application of the multiplier of '13', led the Tribunal to determine the substantive compensation payable at a figure of ₹1,54,232/-. To this were added, under the conventional heads, a sum of ₹5000/- towards compensation for loss of consortium and a sum of ₹2000/- towards funeral expenses. Accordingly, the total compensation determined was a figure of ₹1,62,232/-. The Tribunal directed that the compensation awarded would carry interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition until realization. There were certain directions regarding investment of ₹25,000/- each in Fixed Deposits in the names of Km. Kiran and Punit Kumar, the daughter and the son of the deceased. There were some other ancillary directions regarding investment of the sum of money payable to the claimant.

10. It has been noticed that though the claim petition has been solely filed by the claimant, who is the deceased's widow, but she is not the only heir and dependent. The deceased in this case left behind six heirs, to wit, the claimant, a son Pramod Kumar Yadav aged about 29 years, a married man, Suman Devi aged about 24 years, a married daughter, Km. Kiran aged about 19 years, an unmarried daughter, Punit Kumar Yadav aged about 18 years, an unmarried son and Bachai Lal Yadav aged about 65 years, his father.

11. The Tribunal has remarked that since Pramod Kumar Yadav has been given compassionate appointment, he cannot be regarded a dependent of the deceased. Likewise, the married daughter, Suman Devi is not a dependent of her father's. The widow, that is to say, the claimant besides Km. Kiran and Punit Kumar alone have been regarded as the deceased's dependents. There is absolutely no mention made of the deceased's father, a man of 65 years.

12. Mr. Ram Singh, learned Counsel for the claimant, has criticized the exclusion of the adult son, who has been granted compassionate appointment from amongst the deceased's dependants for the purpose of determining the personal expenses. He has also assailed the exclusion of the deceased's old father from amongst his dependants by the Tribunal. It is argued that the deceased's son, prior to his compassionate appointment and post the deceased's demise, was as much a dependant of his father's as the other two unmarried siblings. It has been further argued that the deceased's father was an old man of 65 years, and there is no evidence that he was financially independant at that age. He is a senior citizen, with no recorded income of his own. As such, according to the learned Counsel for the claimant, he has to be counted as one of the deceased's dependants. Counting in the deceased's son Pramod Kumar Yadav and his father, the deceased's dependants would figure five souls in all - not three, entitling the claimant to a deduction of one-fourth towards personal expenses, rather than a one-third, as directed by the Tribunal.

13. On the other hand, Mr. Anand Kumar Sinha, learned Counsel for the insurers has supported the Tribunal's determination of the deduction to be directed on account of personal expenses of the deceased. He submits that the elder son, Pramod Kumar Yadav, has been granted compassionate appointment, which would not entitle him to qualify as a dependant of anyone. The father is a 65-year-old man and it has to be presumed that he would have an income of his own. He cannot also be regarded as a dependant. Learned Counsel for the insurers, therefore, says that the Tribunal is right in deducting a one-third from the deceased's income towards personal expenses, inasmuch as the deceased had no more than three dependants, already indicated.

14. Upon a consideration of the matter, this Court finds that the deceased's elder son, Pramod Kumar Yadav was, no doubt, a man of mature years, being aged 29 years, and a married man, at that. Still, in these days of scarcity of employment, no presumption of gainful occupation about a 29-year-old man, even married, who has a father to support, with a recorded source of income, can be drawn.

15. To the contrary, this Court is of opinion that the fact that Pramod Kumar Yadav has been granted compassionate appointment by his father's employers, who are a State employer under the Rules of 1974, treating him to be the deceased's dependant family member, is evidence enough to infer that Pramod Kumar Yadav was not gainfully employed at the time of his father's demise. He was a dependant of his father's. Likewise, regarding the deceased's father aged about 65 years, there is not the slightest evidence to show that that he had a gainful employment at that age or an income of his own.

16. Amongst the dependents, the claimant has testified in her examination-in-chief that her father-in-law is alive. She has described the members of her family and gone on to say that all of them were dependant upon the deceased's salary. In the cross-examination of P.W.-1 Ganpat Devi, there is no question or suggestion put to her on behalf of the insurers that the deceased's father was gainfully employed at the age of 65 years or that he had an income of his own from any source. In the circumstances, being a senior citizen of 65 years, this Court is of opinion that the deceased's father must be regarded as one of his dependants.

17. There is one more issue which Mr. Sinha has raised, and that brings us back to Pramod Kumar's entitlement as a dependant. This issue is that once appointed on compassionate grounds in the deceased's stead, Pramod Kumar Yadav may not be regarded as a dependant at all. The Tribunal has accepted the said submission. In the opinion of this Court, the Tribunal has done so in manifest error. The mere fact that the elder son got an employment on compassionate basis in place of the deceased would not lead to the conclusion that he was not a dependant.

18. I had occasion to consider this question in United India Insurance Company v. Smt. Mamta Rani and others2. Repelling an identical contention advanced there on behalf of the insurers, it was held in Smt. Mamta Rani (supra) :

31. The submission of learned Counsel for the insurers that the adult son of the deceased, who has been given compassionate appointment, must not be counted amongst his dependents, is not worthy of acceptance. This submission has been urged in the past to claim deduction from the dependency put forth by the claimants. This was the issue before the Supreme Court, put in a different manner on behalf of the insurers, in National Insurance Company Limited v. Rekhaben and others3. There the issue was raised in terms that can best be understood by reference to the words of their Lordships in the report. These read :

11. The main contention of the appellant in these appeals is that the amount of salary received by the claimants being appointed by the employers of the deceased on compassionate grounds must be reduced from the award of compensation made in favour of the claimants. Thus, the only issue before us in these appeals is whether the income of the claimants from compassionate employment is liable to be deducted from the compensation amount awarded by the Tribunal under the statute.

32. The issue was differently posed in Rekhaben (supra), but ultimately at the bottom of it, it is identical to the contention that Mr. Sinha raises before this Court. The contention, perhaps, has been differently put on behalf of the insurers in order to escape the principle that is laid down in Rekhaben and a number of other decisions of various High Courts that have not favoured any deductions from the compensation on account of compassionate

33. Mr. Sinha has sought to argue that the deceased's adult son was no longer a dependent of the deceased, being favoured with compassionate appointment in consequence of his demise. The issue, in substance, is answered against the insurers in Rekhaben by the Supreme Court, but, to dispose of a novel rendition of the same contention urged on behalf of the insurers by Mr. Sinha, it must be remarked that until time that the deceased passed away in consequence of the accident, the adult son was one of the deceased's dependents. Right to compensation stood crystallized on the date of the victim's death. The day the deceased passed away, the claimants sustained the loss, which was the dependency. The deceased's adult son was 24 years old. If the deceased had survived, the adult son might have improved his educational qualifications or looked for better prospects. There is no logic or principle by which on the grant of compassionate appointment, the adult son of the deceased is to be counted out of the dependents.

19. In view of my holding in Smt. Mamta Rani and the guidance of the Supreme Court in National Insurance Company Limited v. Rekhaben and others4, there is absolutely no substance in the submission put forth on behalf of the insurers or the opinion of the Tribunal that upon compassionate appointment being granted to the deceased's son, he is no longer to be counted as one of the dependants. The deceased's elder son is, therefore, held to be one of the family members dependent upon him at the time of his demise. Likewise, the deceased's father, who is a senior citizen with no evidence about gainful employment at that age, or income, has also to be regarded as one of the dependants. In the circumstances, the deceased must be held to have left behind five dependants, counting out, of course, the married daughter Smt. Suman Devi.

20. In view of the principle about deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased laid down by the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others v. Delhi Transport Corporation and another5, the deduction of a one-fourth towards the deceased's personal expenses would be the correct quantification on this count. In Sarla Verma (supra) it has been held :

30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra[(1996) 4 SCC 362] , the general practice is to apply standardised deductions. Having considered several subsequent decisions of this Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married, the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, should be one-third (1/3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3, one-fourth (1/4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six.

21. The deceased having left behind five dependent family members, the case would fall in the bracket of 4-6, which would attract the deduction of a one-fourth from the deceased's income towards personal expenses, as already remarked. The Tribunal was, therefore, not right in directing a deduction of a one-third towards personal expenses of the deceased while working out the dependency.

22. The other deduction, that the learned Counsel for the appellant has scathingly criticised, is on account of family pension that the claimant receives for her husband's services rendered to his employers. The Tribunal has, in working out the dependency, deducted the entire sum of family pension, being a figure of ₹60,000/-, from the annual dependency of ₹71,864/-. It is on the annual dependency of ₹11,864/- alone, that the Tribunal has applied the multiplier to work out the substantive dependency, that would serve as the basis for determining the compensation payable. The learned Counsel for the Insurance Company, Mr. Sinha has supported the said view and submits that the pension that the claimant receives from the employers would constitute "pecuniary advantage' that is liable to be deducted from the dependency. This Court is afraid that Mr. Sinha is not right in the aforesaid submission of his. This question has engaged the attention of the Supreme Court more that once and has been squarely answered against the insurers in Vimal Kanwar and others v. Kishore Dan6, where it was held :

18. The first issue is "whether provident fund, pension and insurance receivable by the claimants come within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as "pecuniary advantage' liable for deduction".

19. The aforesaid issue fell for consideration before this Court in Helen C. Rebello v. Maharashtra SRTC [(1999) 1 SCC 90 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 197] . In the said case, this Court held that provident fund, pension, insurance and similarly any cash, bank balance, shares, fixed deposits, etc. are all a "pecuniary advantage" receivable by the heirs on account of one's death but all these have no correlation with the amount receivable under a statute occasioned only on account of accidental death. Such an amount will not come within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as "pecuniary advantage" liable for deduction. The following was the observation and finding of this Court: (SCC pp. 111-12, para 35)

"35. Broadly, we may examine the receipt of the provident fund which is a deferred payment out of the contribution made by an employee during the tenure of his service. Such employee or his heirs are entitled to receive this amount irrespective of the accidental death. This amount is secured, is certain to be received, while the amount under the Motor Vehicles Act is uncertain and is receivable only on the happening of the event viz. accident, which may not take place at all. Similarly, family pension is also earned by an employee for the benefit of his family in the form of his contribution in the service in terms of the service conditions receivable by the heirs after his death. The heirs receive family pension even otherwise than the accidental death. No co-relation between the two. Similarly, life insurance policy is received either by the insured or the heirs of the insured on account of the contract with the insurer, for which the insured contributes in the form of premium. It is receivable even by the insured if he lives till maturity after paying all the premiums. In the case of death, the insurer indemnifies to pay the sum to the heirs, again in terms of the contract for the premium paid. Again, this amount is receivable by the claimant not on account of any accidental death but otherwise on the insured's death. Death is only a step or contingency in terms of the contract, to receive the amount. Similarly any cash, bank balance, shares, fixed deposits, etc. though are all a pecuniary advantage receivable by the heirs on account of one's death but all these have no co-relation with the amount receivable under a statute occasioned only on account of accidental death. How could such an amount come within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as "pecuniary advantage' liable for deduction. When we seek the principle of loss and gain, it has to be on a similar and same plane having nexus, inter se, between them and not to which there is no semblance of any co-relation. The insured (the deceased) contributes his own money for which he receives the amount which has no co-relation to the compensation computed as against the tortfeasor for his negligence on account of the accident. As aforesaid, the amount receivable as compensation under the Act is on account of the injury or death without making any contribution towards it, then how can the fruits of an amount received through contributions of the insured be deducted out of the amount receivable under the Motor Vehicles Act. The amount under this Act he receives without any contribution. As we have said, the compensation payable under the Motor Vehicles Act is statutory while the amount receivable under the life insurance policy is contractual."

23. In view of the aforesaid position of the law, it is held that the Tribunal was in error in directing from the annual dependency, deduction of the monthly pension received by the claimant. So far as the applicable multiplier is concerned, the same is governed by the Schedule set out in Paragraph No. 40 of the decision in Sarla Verma. The deceased has been unquestionably held to be aged 49 years and would, therefore, fall in the age bracket of 46-50 years stipulated in Sarla Verma. The applicable multiplier is "13'. The Tribunal has applied a multiplier of "13' to the annual dependency to work out the total dependency. This Court is in agreement with the Tribunal about the applicable multiplier. Learned Counsel for parties also do not seriously dispute the aforesaid view of the Tribunal.

24. The next limb of the submission that has been advanced by learned Counsel for the claimant and which has been vociferously opposed by learned Counsel for the insurers is about the future prospects. Mr. Ram Singh, learned Counsel for the claimant argues that Rule 220-A(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Motor Vehicles Rules, 19987 would govern the award of future prospects in this case, because the deceased was a government servant, a salaried employee. Mr. Anand Kumar Sinha learned Counsel for the insurers, on the other hand, is equally emphatic in his submissions that Rules of 1998 would not apply. He submits that, at best, future prospects can be determined in accordance with the principles laid down in National Insurance Company v. Pranay Sethi and others8. Mr. Sinha submits that the Rules of 1998 would not be attracted to the present case, because the said rule was introduced by way of an amendment, which was enforced w.e.f 26.09.2011 governing the issue of future prospects, whereas the accident in this case occurred on 23.04.2008. He submits that amendment to Rule 220-A(3) being one that introduces a new right, is substantive law and would not operate retrospectively in the absence of an express provision in that behalf.

25. Elaborating his submissions, Mr. Sinha says that right to add future prospects to one's income was, for the first time, introduced by the decision of the Supreme Court in Sarla Verma, which was decided on 15.04.2009. The amendment in the Rules of 1998, inserting inter-alia Rule 220-A, of which sub-Rule (3) is a part, is inspired by the decision in Sarla Verma. Sarla Verma had, for the first time, granted future prospects to permanent employees in a government job, as the learned Counsel argues. The Rule grants it to government employees and the self-employed also. The Rule, therefore, brings in a new right and cannot be construed to retrospective in operation.

26. This Court is not in agreement with the aforesaid submission advanced on behalf of the learned Counsel for the insurers. The question is whether Rule 220-A(3) would apply to the present case because the accident happened on 23.04.2008, whereas Rule 220-A(3) was introduced vide Notification No. 777/XXX-4-2011-4(3)-2010 dated September 26, 2011 (Eleventh Amendment Rules, 2011). The said rules have been held by me to apply retrospectively in Smt. Shanti and others v. Anil Awasthi alias Anil Kumar Awasthi and another9, following the decision of a Division Bench of this Court in Sushil Kumar and others v. M/s. Sampark Lojastic Private Limited and others10. There is, therefore, no doubt that Rule 220-A(3) of Rules of 1998 would govern future prospects payable to the claimant here. Rule 220-A(3) of the Rules of 1998 reads :

220-A. Determination of Compensation-

(1) X X X

(2) X X X

(3) The future prospects of a deceased, shall be added in the actual salary or minimum wages of the deceased as under-

(i)	Below 40 years of age	:	50% of the salary
(ii)	Between 40-50 years of age	:	30% of the salary
(iii)	More than 50 years	:	20% of the salary
(iv)	When wages no sufficiently proved	:	50% towards inflation and price index

27. The issue whether future prospects would be governed by the decision of the Supreme Court in Pranay Sethi or Rule 220-A(3), since both govern the same right, was considered by the Supreme Court in New India Assurance Company Limited v. Urmila Shukla11. Urmila Shukla (supra) was an appeal that arose out of a decision of this Court and is, therefore, applicable, without doubt, to the determination of future prospects in the State of Uttar Pradesh. In Urmila Shukla, the question that was considered by their Lordships reads :

4. The basic ground of challenge by the appellant is that sub-rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A is contrary to the conclusions arrived at by the Constitution Bench of this Court in National Insurance Company Ltd v. Pranay Sethi reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680.

28. The issue was answered in Urmila Shukla thus :

9. It is to be noted that the validity of the Rules was not, in any way, questioned in the instant matter and thus the only question that we are called upon to consider is whether in its application, sub-Rule 3(iii) of Rule 220A of the Rules must be given restricted scope or it must be allowed to operate fully.

10. The discussion on the point in Pranay Sethiwas from the standpoint of arriving at "just compensation" in terms of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

11. If an indicia is made available in the form of a statutory instrument which affords a favourable treatment, the decision in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken to have limited the operation of such statutory provision specially when the validity of the Rules was not put under any challenge. The prescription of 15% in cases where the deceased was in the age bracket of 50-60 years as stated in Pranay Sethi cannot be taken as maxima. In the absence of any governing principle available in the statutory regime, it was only in the form of an indication. If a statutory instrument has devised a formula which affords better or greater benefit, such statutory instrument must be allowed to operate unless the statutory instrument is otherwise found to be invalid.

12. We, therefore, reject the submission advanced on behalf of the appellant and affirm the view taken by the Tribunal as well as the High Court and dismiss this appeal without any order as to costs."

29. In the opinion of this Court, therefore, so long as Rule 220-A(3) is there on the statute book, future prospects have to be worked out according to the Rules of 1998, and not by the principles for determination thereof laid down in Pranay Sethi. Once it is held that future prospects are to be determined in accordance with Rule 220-A(3), there is little doubt that the deceased, under the said rule, is to be placed in the age bracket of 40-50 years, where, future prospects are to be added to the extent of 30% of the salary. The Tribunal has not awarded any future prospects in working out the dependency and calculating the compensation payable.

30. There is still one more issue which the learned Counsel for the claimant has much emphasized, and that is the award of the compensation under the conventional heads. There is little doubt that the Tribunal, in awarding compensation under the conventional heads, has manifestly erred in law, inasmuch as in Pranay Sethi, there are three distinct heads under which compensation has to be awarded, so far as the conventional heads go viz. Loss of Estate, Loss of Consortium and Funeral Expenses. I had occasion to consider the question of award of compensation under the conventional heads in Smt. Shanti (supra), where it was held :

28. Again, so far as the conventional heads are concerned, this Court is of opinion that far less than what is to be awarded for the loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses has been directed by the Tribunal. Moreover, loss of consortium is not confined to the widow alone, but the parents too are entitled to be compensated for the loss of filial consortium. The two minor children are entitled to compensation on account of loss of parental consortium. In this regard, the holding of the Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi is again of much relevance, where it is observed:

"48. This aspect needs to be clarified and appositely stated. The conventional sum has been provided in the Second Schedule to the Act. The said Schedule has been found to be defective as stated by the Court in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v. Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] . Recently, in Puttamma v. K.L. Narayana Reddy [Puttamma v.K.L. Narayana Reddy, (2013) 15 SCC 45 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 384 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 574] it has been reiterated by stating : (SCC p. 80, para 54)

"54. ... we hold that the Second Schedule as was enacted in 1994 has now become redundant, irrational and unworkable due to changed scenario including the present cost of living and current rate of inflation and increased life expectancy."

49. As far as multiplier or multiplicand is concerned, the same has been put to rest by the judgments of this Court. Para 3 of the Second Schedule also provides for general damages in case of death. It is as follows:

"3. General damages (in case of death):

The following general damages shall be payable in addition to compensation outlined above:

(i)	Funeral expenses	Rs. 2000
(ii)	Loss of consortium, if beneficiary is the spouse	Rs. 5000
(iii)	Loss of estate	Rs. 2500
(iv)	Medical expenses - actual expenses incurred before death supported by bills/vouchers but not exceeding	Rs. 15,000

50. On a perusal of various decisions of this Court, it is manifest that the Second Schedule has not been followed starting from the decision in Trilok Chandra [UP SRTC v.Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362] and there has been no amendment to the same. The conventional damage amount needs to be appositely determined. As we notice, in different cases different amounts have been granted. A sum of Rs 1,00,000 was granted towards consortium inRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . The justification for grant of consortium, as we find fromRajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] , is founded on the observation as we have reproduced hereinbefore.

51. On the aforesaid basis, the Court has revisited the practice of awarding compensation under conventional heads.

52. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, we find it difficult to agree with the view expressed in Rajesh[Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . It has granted Rs 25,000 towards funeral expenses, Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of consortium and Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The head relating to loss of care and minor children does not exist. Though*Rajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh*, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC

(Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] refers to Santosh Devi [Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2012) 6 SCC 421 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 726 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 160 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 167] , it does not seem to follow the same. The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads."

29. The principles governing award of compensation under conventional heads, particularly with regard to award for loss of consortium, have been laid down by the Supreme Court in Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. v. Nanu Ram alias Chuhru Ram and others, (2018) 18 SCC 130. In Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. (supra), it has been held:

"21. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Pranay Sethi[National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] dealt with the various heads under which compensation is to be awarded in a death case. One of these heads is loss of consortium. In legal parlance, "consortium" is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium", "parental consortium", and "filial consortium". The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse : [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149]

21.1. Spousal consortium is generally defined as rights pertaining to the relationship of a husband-wife which allows compensation to the surviving spouse for loss of "company, society, cooperation, affection, and aid of the other in every conjugal relation". [Black's Law Dictionary(5th Edn., 1979).]

21.2. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of "parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training".

21.3. Filial consortium is the right of the parents to compensation in the case of an accidental death of a child. An accident leading to the death of a child causes great shock and agony to the parents and family of the deceased. The greatest agony for a parent is to lose their child during their lifetime. Children are valued for their love, affection, companionship and their role in the family unit.

22. Consortium is a special prism reflecting changing norms about the status and worth of actual relationships. Modern jurisdictions world-over have recognised that the value of a child's consortium far exceeds the economic value of the compensation awarded in the case of the death of a child. Most jurisdictions therefore permit parents to be awarded compensation under loss of consortium on the death of a child. The amount awarded to the parents is a compensation for loss of the love, affection, care and companionship of the deceased child.

23. The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, in cases of genuine claims. In case where a parent has lost their minor child, or unmarried son or daughter, the parents are entitled to be awarded loss of consortium under the head of filial consortium. Parental consortium is awarded to children who lose their parents in motor vehicle accidents under the Act. A few High Courts have awarded compensation on this count [Rajasthan High Court in Jagmala Ram v. Sohi Ram, 2017 SCC OnLine Raj 3848 : (2017) 4 RLW 3368; Uttarakhand High Court in Rita Rana v. Pradeep Kumar, 2013 SCC OnLine Utt 2435 : (2014) 3 UC 1687; Karnataka High Court in Lakshman v. Susheela Chand Choudhary, 1996 SCC OnLine Kar 74 : (1996) 3 Kant LJ 570] . However, there was no clarity with respect to the principles on which compensation could be awarded on loss of filial consortium.

24. The amount of compensation to be awarded as consortium will be governed by the principles of awarding compensation under "loss of consortium" as laid down in Pr*anay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi,* (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] . In the present case, we deem it appropriate to award the father and the sister of the deceased, an amount of Rs 40,000 each for loss of filial consortium."

30. It must be noted that under Rule 220-A(4) of the Rules of 1998, compensation or damages under the non pecuniary heads or the conventional heads have been stipulated. But, these are disadvantageous to the claimants and do not confer better or greater benefit upon them in comparison to liquidated figures laid down in Pranay Sethi. The figures under the conventional heads have been arrived at, bearing in mind the price index, falling bank interest, escalation of rates in different cases. There is a provision for 10% upward revision to be done in a span of three years. By contrast, the Rules of 1998, that have been amended to bring in Rule 220-A more than ten years ago, in the year 2011, cannot serve as a realistic index to award compensation under the conventional heads. The determination of compensation in Pranay Sethi would, therefore, be applicable. The revised and dynamic determination of compensation payable under the conventional heads stipulated in Pranay Sethi would prevail over that under the Rules of 1998. It is held, accordingly.

31. So far as entitlement to compensation for the loss of parental consortium to the children of the deceased is concerned, there is a distinction to be made between children who are minors and those adults. I dealt with the question in Jiuti Devi and others v. Manoj Kumar and others12 and held :

39. Loss of consortium, that includes parental consortium, unlike dependency, is not some tangible economic loss. It is an emotional loss to the next of kin of the deceased-victim of a motor accident. In case of parental loss, it causes a particular deprivation to minors and young children, about whom it is said by the Supreme Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Satinder Kaur alias Satwinder Kaur, to borrow the words of their Lordships, "Parental Consortium is awarded to the children who lose the care and protection of their parents in motor vehicle accidents".

40. To the understanding of this Court, the impact of loss of parental consortium upon the deceased's children, in the very nature of that loss, is dependent upon the children's age. The loss of parent is a disheartening and emotional event for the child at any age of his maturity, but by the nature of the principle governing award of compensation under the head of parental consortium, the deprivation, that is suffered by a child or a minor, appears to be the determinative and entitling fact. A child, who has advanced into matured adulthood, is married or otherwise in the mainstream of life, would not be entitled to compensation under that head.

32. In the present case, all children being adults, compensation for the loss of parental consortium would not be payable. The claimant would be entitled to compensation for the loss of spousal consortium and the deceased's father on account of loss of filial consortium.

33. However, so far as the loss of estate and financial expenses are concerned, that has to be awarded in one set, according to the rule in Pranay Sethi. Thus, the awarded compensation under the conventional heads, as determined by the Tribunal, is erroneous and the same too has to be modified.

34. In view of the principles applicable for the determination of compensation payable to the claimant and the other dependants, this Court proceeds to work out the same as follows :

Sl. No.	Particulars	=	Amount
(i)	Monthly Income of the deceased	=	₹8,858/-
(ii)	Monthly Income + Future Prospects (monthly income x 30%) = ₹8858 + ₹2657 (rounded-off)	=	₹11,515/-
(iii)	Annual Income of the deceased = ₹11515 x 12	=	₹1,38,180/-
(iv)	Annual Dependency = Annual Income - one-fourth deduction towards personal expenses of the deceased (₹ 138180 - ₹34545)	=	₹1,03,635/-
(v)	Total dependency	=	₹13,47,

	= Annual Dependency x Applied Multiplier = ₹ 103635 x 13		255/-
(vi)	Claimant's entitlement under the conventional heads = Loss of Estate + Funeral Expenses +Dependents' consortium = ₹ 15,000 + 15,000 + 40,000 x 2	=	₹1,10,000/-
(vii)	Total Compensation = Total Dependency + Claimant's entitlement under the conventional heads	=	₹14,57,255/-

Total Compensation (in words) = Rupees Fourteen Lac, Fifty Seven Thousand, Two Hundred and Fifty Five only.

35. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed with costs. The impugned award passed by the Tribunal is modified and the compensation awarded enhanced to a total sum of ₹14,57,255/- (Rupees Fourteen Lac, Fifty Seven Thousand, Two Hundred and Fifty Five only). The compensation would carry Simple Interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of institution of the claim petition, until realisation. However, the sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the impugned award or interim orders of this Court) shall be adjusted.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Sanjai Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel for respondent Nos.1, 2, 3, 6 and 8, Mr. S.K. Tiwari for respondent No.4 and Mr. S. K. Pandey, learned counsel for respondent No.5.

2. Brief facts of the case are that plaintiff-respondent No.4 filed a case under Section 176 of the U. P .Z. A. & L. R. Act for partition of plot No. 364 area 0.683 hectare. There was defect in the suit as such, suit was dismissed with liberty to file a fresh suit vide order dated 27.07.2012. A fresh Suit has been filed by plaintiff-respondent No.4 on 20.11.2014 in which petitioners were plaintiff/defendants have filed their written statement and declined plaint allegations. Trial Court/Sub-Divisional Officer, Bilsi, Badaun considering the evidence on record dismissed the plaint suit vide judgment and decree dated 29.03.2016. Against the judgment and decree dated 29.03.2016, passed by trial court plaintiff-respondent No.4 filed an appeal before the Court of Commissioner and the Additional Commissioner vide judgment and decree dated 07.09.2017 allowed the suit, setting aside the judgment and decree of trial court dated 29.03.2016 and remanded the matter back before trial court with direction to decide the matter afresh after providing opportunity of hearing and leading evidence to both the parties. After remand, the trial court, registered the suit under Section 116 of the U.P. Revenue Code 2006 and decided the suit vide judgment and decree dated 10.09.2018 passing preliminary decree in the suit. Trial Court after passing the preliminary decree in disputed plot No.364 summoned the Lekhpal for filing kurra in the suit. Petitioners challenged the order of the trial court dated 10.09.2018 by way of Revision before the Revisional Court, which was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 10.08.2021 on the ground that trial court has already passed final decree on 22.03.2021 as such Revision is not maintained against the preliminary decree passed by the trial court. The Lekhpal prepared the Kurra on 05.10.2018 and the same was filed before the trial court on 28.09.2018. Trial Court further invited objection of the parties to the kurra accordingly, petitioner Nos.5 and 6 filed their objections against the kurra on 22.10.2018 and petitioner Nos. 2 and 4 filed their objection against the kurra on 18.01.2018 and by their objection, they prayed that kurra dated 18.09.2018 and 05.10.2018 be rejected. Lekhpal was examined before the trial court. Trial Court heard the objection filed by the petitioners to the kurra and found that kurra has been wrongly prepared and submitted as such kurra submitted by the area Lekhpal was rejected vide order dated 25.03.2019 and the area Lekhpal was again directed for making proper spot inspect and prepared kurra in accordance with law as provided under the Act and Rules. Plaintiff-respondent No.4 aggrieved with order dated 25.03.2019 filed a Revision under Section 210 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 before the Commissioner, but there was no interim order in the Revision, as such Area Lekhpal filed a fresh kurra before the trial court on 13.03.2020. After submission of fresh Kurra dated 13.03.2020 Additional Commissioner Bareilly, Division Bareilly without considering the material facts allow the Revision filed by contesting respondent vide order dated 24.02.2021 setting aside the order dated 25.03.2019 and sent the matter back before the trial court and proceed further according the Kurra dated 28.09.2018/5.10.2018. Petitioners challenged the order dated 24.02.2021 passed by Additional Commissioner through Revision before respondent No.1 but no order has been passed in the Revision and trial court proceeded with the matter in pursuance of the order dated 24.02.2021 and passed final order/decree on 22.03.2021/31.03.2021. Petitioners challenged the order dated 10.09.2018/ 22.03.2021/ 31.03.2021 through Appeal before respondent No.2 under section 207 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, who dismissed the Appeal vide order dated 10.08.2021. Against the appellate court judgment dated 10.08.2021 as well as judgment and decree passed by the courts below Second Appeal under section 208 of U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 preferred by the petitioners was also dismissed on the same ground vide order dated 21.02.2022. Hence this writ petition.

3. This Court after hearing the writ petition for admission passed the following interim order dated 30.05.2022:

"Heard Sri Sanjai Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Sanjay Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents and Sri Santosh Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for respondent No.4.

Learned counsel for the petitioners points out that neither the first appellate court nor the second appellate court has adverted to the objections raised by the petitioners against the decree passed by the trial court.

Learned counsel for respondent No.4 submits that the possession has been delivered pursuant to the decree of the trial court; he prays for two weeks' time to take instructions and to file a counter affidavit.

The petitioners would have two weeks thereafter for filing rejoinder affidavit.

List on 25.07.2022 as fresh.

Till the next date of listing, parties shall maintain status quo with regard to the possession over the land in question."

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that objections against the kurra prepared by Area Lekhpal on 08.09.2018/ 09.02.2018 has not been considered in accordance with law as provided under the U.P. Revenue Code and the rules framed thereunder and same has been illegally confirmed without considering the points mentioned in the objections. He further submitted that subsequent kurra prepared and filed before the trial court on 13.03.2020 has not been taken into consideration and the earlier kurra was confirmed.

5. He further submitted that provisions of Rule 109 of U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 has not been considered by the courts below, as such the impugned orders are wholly illegal. He placed reliance upon the Rules 109 of the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016, which is as follows:

"Rule 109 of the U.P. Revenue Code , 2016

109. Preliminary and Final decrees (Section 117)-

(1) If the plaint referred to in rule 107 or rule 108 is in order, it shall be registered as a suit and the defendants shall be called upon to file their written statements. The suit shall then be decided according to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

(2) Before making a division the court shall-

(a) determine separately the share of the plaintiff and each of the other co-tenure holders ;

(b) record which, if any, of the co-tenure holders wish to remain joint ; and

(c) make valuation of the holding (or holdings) in accordance with the circle rate fixed by the Collector applicable to each plot in the holding.

(3) If the suit is decreed, the Court shall pass a preliminary decree declaring the share of the plaintiff.

(4) After the preparation of preliminary decree the Sub Divisional Officer shall get the Kurra prepared through the Lekhpal.

(5) The Lekhpal shall submit the Kurra report within a period of one month from the date of receiving the order in this regard and at the time of preparation of Kurra he shall observe the following principles-

(a) the plot or plots shall be allotted to each party in proportionate to his share in the holding;

(b) the portion allotted to each party shall be as compact as possible;

(c) as far as possible no party shall be given all the inferior or all the superior classes of land;

(d) as far as possible existing fields shall not be split up;

(e) Plots which are in the separate possession of a tenure holder shall, as far as possible, be allotted to such tenure holder if they are not in access of his share;

(f) If the plot or any part thereof is of commercial value or is adjacent to road, abadi or any other land of commercial value, the same shall be allotted to each tenure holder proportionately and in the case of second condition the same shall be allotted proportionately adjacent to road, abadi or other land of commercial value; and

(g) If the co-tenure holders are in separate possession on the basis of mutual consent or family settlement, the Kurra shall, as far as possible, be fixed accordingly.

(6) When the report regarding Kurra is submitted by the Lekhpal, the objection shall be invited thereon and thereafter the appropriate order shall be passed by the Sub Divisional Officer after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties and considering the objection, if any, filed against the report submitted by the Lekhpal.

(7) If the report and Kurra is confirmed by the Sub Divisional Officer, the final decree shall follow it.

(8) At the stage of the final decree, the Court shall-

(a) Separate the share of the plaintiff from that of the defendant by metes and bounds.

(b) Place on record a map showing in different colours the properties given to plaintiff as distinct from those given to the defendant.

(c) Apportion the land revenue payable by the parties.

(d) Direct the record of rights and map to be corrected accordingly.

(9) If, for adjusting the equities between the parties, payment of compensation regarding trees, wells or other improvements becomes necessary, the revenue Court concerned may also pass necessary orders at the stage of final decree.

(10) The Sub-Divisional Officer shall make an endeavour to decide the suit within the period of six months and if the suit is not decided within such period, the reason shall be recorded."

6. He next submitted that first and second appellate court even have not considered objections raised by the petitioners against the decree of the trial court, as such the impugned judgment and order passed by first and second appellate court are manifestly erroneous. He also submitted that trial court in pursuance of the order dated 24.02.2021 passed by Additional Commissioner proceeded with the matter in spite of fact that petitioners have challenged the order before the Board of Revenue, but trial court without any opportunity of hearing passed the final judgment and decree on 22.03.2021/ 31.03.2021, which are wholly illegal.

7. On the other hand, contesting respondents submitted that kurra was rightly prepared by the Lekhapl and submitted before the trial court on 08.09.2018/05.10.2018. Kurra was prepared considering the provisions of the U.P. Revenue Code and Rules framed thereunder i.e. as per possession of each party over the land in question. He further submitted that proper opportunity of hearing has been afforded by the courts below to the petitioner by maintaining kurra prepared and submitted in pursuance of the judgment and decree passed by the courts below. He further submitted that suit for partition was filed in the year 2018 and petitioners are not permitted by the court to finalize the proceeding for partition. He further submitted that trial court vide order dated 25.03.2019 has rejected the kurra prepared on 08.09.2018/05.10.2018 on the technical grounds, as such the order dated 25.03.2019 was set aside vide order dated 24.02.2021. He further submitted that no interference is required against the impugned judgment and writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that suit for partition filed under Section 176 of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act was decreed and order was passed for partition of kurra accordingly, kurra was prepared but petitioners filed objection against the kurra, which has been decided against the petitioners and the kurra prepared on 08.09.2018/ 05.10.2018 has been maintained by the impugned judgment.

9. Since on the basis of the objection of the petitioners to the kurra dated 28.09.2018/05.10.2018 Sub-Divisional Officer vide order dated 25.03.2019 has found that kurra dated 28.09.2018/ 05.10.2018 is legally erroneous as such the same was cancelled and Lekhpal was directed to prepare fresh kurra after making spot inspection in presence of both parties. In compliance of the order dated 25.03.2019 even fresh kurra was prepared and filed before trial court on 13.03.2020 which was according to Rule-109 of U.P. Revenue Code Rules 2016 taking into consideration the possession of the parties also, but revisonal court without considering the subsequent kurra dated 13.03.2020 has maintained the earlier kurra dated 28.09.2018/05.10.2018 which is wholly illegal and against the provisions contained under Rule 109 of U.P. Revenue Code Rules 2016. This Court in the case of Paras Nath vs. Board of Revenue U.P. At Allahabad and others 2019 (144) R.D. 604 has held that plots in separate possession of tenure holders have to be allotted to him, if possible. Paragraph Nos. 6, 7, 8 and 9 of the judgment are as follows:

6. A perusal of the records shows that in the plaint filed by respondent No. 5 instituting the suit registered under Section 176 of the Act, 1950, the plaintiff had himself pleaded that there had been a family settlement between the parties and the parties were in separate possession of the plots on the basis of the family settlement. The said fact was also pleaded by the petitioner as defendant in his written statement. Evidently, the issue regarding family settlement and the fact that the parties were in separate possession of the different plots or different areas of the plots was the admitted case of the parties and was before the trial court even at the time of the preliminary decree was passed by the trial court. The preliminary decree in a partition suit only determines the shares of the parties in the suit property and does not determine the possession of the parties or the portion to be allotted to them in final decree. The final decree in a suit registered under Section 176 of the Act, 1950 has to be prepared in accordance with Rule 131 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred to as, 'Rules, 1952'). Rule 131(1)(e) of the Rules, 1952 provides that in making partition of a holding into two or more portions, plots which are in separate possession of a tenure-holder shall, as far as possible be allotted to such tenure-holder if they are not in excess of his share. The petitioner may not be necessarily entitled to be allotted the portion in which he allegedly in separate possession, but the said factor had to be taken into consideration by the courts below before passing the final decree and in case the petitioner was in separate possession, the said plot had to be allotted to the petitioner, if possible.

7. In view of the aforesaid, the orders dated 4.7.2014 passed by the Deputy District Magistrate, i.e., respondent No. 3 in Case No. 15/209, 6.5.2016 passed by the Commissioner, Gorakhpur Division, Gorakhpur, i.e., respondent No. 2 in Appeal No. 1103/D-2014/C2014054901562 and 26.7.2016 passed by the Board of Revenue, U.P. at Allahabad, i.e., respondent No. 1 in Second Appeal No. 881/16 are evidently contrary to law and are hereby quashed.

8. The matter is remanded back to the trial court, i.e., the Deputy District Magistrate, Tehsil-Sadar, District-Maharajganj to pass fresh orders on the objections filed by the petitioner to the report of the Lekhpal within a period of three months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before him by either of the parties.

9. With the aforesaid direction, the writ petition is allowed.

10. Rule-109 (5) (e) of U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 is similar to that of Rule-131 (1) (e) of U.P.Z.A & L.R. Rules.

11. This Court in another case reported in 2016 (133) RD 459 Babu Ram and others Vs. Board of Revenue, Meerut and others has explained the principles provided under Rule-131 (1) (a) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Rules and has held that provision of Rules have not been followed as such the impugned orders passed for preparation of kurras as well as appellate orders were set aside and matter was remitted back before trial court for obtaining fresh kurra and for fresh proceeding for final decree. Paragraph Nos 8, 9, 10 and 11 of the judgment are as follows:

"8. Rule 131 (1) (a) provides that the valuation of the portion allotted to each party shall be proportionate to his share in the holding. The petitioners took plea that plot 55 situates on Dastoi-Hapur main road and has commercial value. The respondents have not denied this fact but stated that in east of plot 67 also there is a road. Lekhpal, in his statement, has admitted that this eastern road is a kachcha road and in between this road and plot 67 there is 10 feet wide nala. Market value of plot 55 and 67 cannot be said to be equal. According to the principles under Rule 131 (1) (a), valuation of the portion allotted to each party shall be proportionate to his share in the holding. Assistant Collector is not justified in allotting share to some of the co-sharers giving frontage on roadside in plot 55 and totally depriving the petitioners from plot 55. Supreme Court in M.L. Subbaraya Setty v. M.L. Nagappa Setty, (2002) 4 SCC 743, held that the legal position is well settled that on mere severance of status of joint family, the character of any joint family property does not change with such severance. It retains the character of joint family property till partition. We may also clarify that the direction that the present possession of the parties shall be respected as far as possible also does not mean that if the plaintiff is not in possession of any immovable property and the same are in possession of the defendants, he could not be allotted the immovable property even though he is so entitled as per his share. If that was so, the words "as far as possible" in the said direction would become redundant.

9. Plot 54 is adjacent to plot 55 and form a compact area on the spot. Plot 55 has a big frontage on Dastoi-Hapur road. Total area of plot 54 and 55 is 1.0880 hectare. Tenure holders of kurra-1 together have 17/30 share. They were allotted an area of 0.8381 hectare in plots 54 and 55. The petitioners together have 7/30 share but they were not allotted any land in plots-54 and 55. The principles as provided under Rule 131 (1) (a) have not been followed, in as much as the petitioners have been deprived from land of commercial value.

10. In final decree 8 kurras were prepared. Plots 54 and 55 form compact area. In the same way plots 66 and 67 form compact area. In case plots 54 and 55 are divided in north south giving frontage to all the co-sharers on Dastoi-Hapur road according to their share then partition according to principles contained under Rule 131 (1) (a) may be complied with. Similarly compact area of plots 66 and 67 may be divided in east west giving a common rast in west, according to their share.

11. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The kurra dated 24.09.2014, orders of Assistant Collector dated 10.08.2015, Additional Commissioner dated 20.10.2015 and Board of Revenue, U.P. dated 12.05.2016 are set aside. The matter is remanded to Assistant Collector for obtaining fresh kurra relating partition and after hearing the parties pass fresh final decree in partition suit."

12. In view of ratio of law laid down in Paras Nath (Supra), Babu Ram (Supra) as well as according to the provisions contained under Rule 109 of the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 for preparation of the kurra, the authorities have to observe certain principles, which are mentioned in the said Rule 109 of U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016, but the same has not been followed and the objection against the kurra filed by the petitioners has been arbitrarily rejected by the trial court and maintained by the first and second appellate court, which is wholly illegal and against the provisions contained under Rule 109 of U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016, as such the impugned judgment and order dated 21.02.2022 passed by respondent No.1 i.e. Board of Revenue, U.P. Allahabad, judgment and order dated 10.08.2021 passed by the respondent No.2 i.e. Additional Commissioner, (Administration) Bareilly Mandal Bareilly, judgment dated 22.03.2021 and decree dated 31.03.2021 passed by Sub Divisional Officer, Bilsi, Budaun are wholly illegal and liable to be set aside, the same are hereby set aside. The writ petition is allowed and the matter is remanded back before the trial court to decide the objection of the petitioners dated 22.10.2018 afresh in accordance with the provisions contained under rules 109 of the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 expeditiously preferably within a period of four months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

Act, though provisions of section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 has been made applicable, for the limited purposes in proceedings under U.P.C.H. Act by virtue of Section 53-B of the U.P.C.H. Act (Para 17)

Grievance of the petitioner is that the Settlement Officer of Consolidation illegally allowed the substitution application on the same day of its filing, without giving opportunity of hearing to the present petitioner - Held - mere furnishing an information qua death of any party, along with the details of his heir and legal representatives, would be suffice for the purpose of survival of the cause of action involved in the matter - petitioner failed to demonstrate as to how he is prejudiced due to the order passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation in allowing the substitution or there is any likelihood of causing miscarriage of justice to the present petitioner (Para 18)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned counsel for the contesting respondent no. 6 and learned Standing Counsel representing respondent nos. 1, 2, 3 and 10.

2. Grievance of the petitioner is that the Settlement Officer of Consolidation has illegally allowed the substitution application on the same day of its filing, without giving opportunity of hearing to the present petitioner.

3. Record reveals that, during pendency of the appeal, a substitution application dated 17.02.2021 along with delay condonation application have been filed by the heirs and legal representatives of appellant Munir-ud-deen with an averment that he has died six months before, therefore, his name may be deleted and in his place names of his sons namely Mohd. Shafi, Mohd. Rahis, Mohd. Ishaq, Mohd. Rafiq, Khushi, Mohammad and Nafees Mohd. may be ordered to be substituted. Aforesaid substitution application along with delay condonation application was entertained on the same day by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, who has jotted in the margin of the application allowing the substitution application and issued notices to the parties fixing 03.03.2021. At subsequent stage, present petitioner has filed objection dated 17.03.2021. The objection field by the petitioner was rejected by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation vide order dated 22.12.2021. Having being aggrieved with the orders passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, present petitioner has preferred a revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation which was dismissed as well affirming the order passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. Being aggrieved petitioner has filed instant writ petition assailing orders of Settlement Officer of Consolidation (respondent no. 2) and Deputy Director of Consolidation (respondent no. 1).

4. Counsel for the petitioner submits that substitution application has been allowed on the same day of filing of the application without giving opportunity of hearing. It is next submitted that delay in filing the substitution has not been condoned. Deputy Director of Consolidation has illegally dismissed the revision on the ground of maintainability being filed against the interlocutory order, therefore, orders passed by respondent No. 1 and 2 are illegal, unwarranted under the law and tained with irregularities which deserves to be quashed.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the contesting respondent has contended that substitution order dated 17.2.2021 was passed in presence of opposite party (in appeal) and he has not denied his presence at any stage. In deciding the revision, respondent No. 1 has discussed the merits of the substitution as well. Petitioner (opposite party in appeal) only wants to linger the matter on the ground of technicalities which is not sustainable in the eye of law. It next contended that orders passed by respondents No. 1 and 2 are legal and suffers no infirmity, therefore, they are liable to be affirmed and instant writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

6. Having considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record, I am of the considered opinion that the purpose of substitution is only for the survival of the case. No right, title and interest confers upon the substituted person with respect to the property in question. If there is any dispute qua right, title and interest of the substituted person/s, same would be adjudicated upon by the court competent in a befitting proceeding as advised. There is nothing on record to demonstrate that the persons, who are proposed to be substituted in place of deceased Munir-ud-deen, are not the heirs and legal representatives of the deceased. This aspect of the matter has properly been considered by the Deputy Director of Consolidation and has given specific finding that revisionist has not adduced any evidence to prove that there are other heirs and legal representatives of the deceased than the persons who have been substituted. Respondent no. 1 has also considered the death certificate and family membership certificate (succession) adduced by the sons of the deceased. Findings of fact given by respondent no. 1, in this respect as mentioned above, have not been contradicted by the petitioner in the instant writ petition.

7. Moreover, order dated 17.2.2021 evince presence of both the parties. For ready reference, order dated 17.2.2021 is quoted herein under:-

"उभयपक्षों को सुना गया, न्यायहित में प्रतिस्थापन प्रार्थना पत्र स्वीकार किया जाता है। पक्षों को नोटिस जारी होकर पत्रावली दिनांक 03.03.2021 को पेश हो।"

8. Finding returned by Settlement Officer of Consolidation, that substitution application was allowed in presence of both the parties, has not been challenged by the petitioner at any stage even before this Court. In objection dated 17.3.2021 (annexure No. 5) petitioner has raised objection qua sufficiency of grounds for delay condonation in filing substitution application. Apart form that paragraph 9 of memo of revision dated 11.1.2022 (annexure No. 7) it has been averred that court subordinate has passed order without giving opportunity of hearing and against the provisions of law. Plea of not affording opportunity of hearing has been taken as well in paragraph 17 of the writ petition, however, finding of fact returned by Settlement Officer of Consolidation qua "both parties heard" has not been challenged by the petitioner.

9. Prima facie, in particular facts and circumstances of the instant case, it appears that, while allowing the substitution application, Settlement Officer of Consolidation was not oblivious of the delay caused in filing the substitution application, though specific order has not been passed for the condonation of delay. Substitution application was filed along with the delay condonation application and after considering both the application order dated 17.2.2021 has been passed. In paragraph 1 of the delay condonation application, sufficient reason has been assigned that expences and instructions were provided to the previous counsel Shri R.L. Lal, Advocate, however, after engaging another counsel, this fact came to knowledge that steps were not taken to substitute the heirs of the deceased. Therefore, there is no deliberate delay in moving substitution application, which is liable to be condoned. Cause shown for the delay has neither been assailed in the objection dated 17.3.2021 nor in the memo of revision. For the first time, in paragraph 19 of the writ petition, it is averred that "there is no documentary evidence filed with the substitution application proving that Shri RS Lal, Advocate was appellant's counsel". In paragraph 19, petitioner has referred the name of counsel as "Shri RS Lal" whereas in delay condonation application name of counsel is shown as "Shri RL Lal". Petitioner, in paragraph 3 of the memo of revision, has admitted that the counsel for Munir-ud-deen was through out pursing the appeal but heirs of Munir-ud-deen have not filed substitution application.

10. In my opinion, contesting respondents have sufficiently explained the delay of six months (as averred in delay condonation application) in filing the substitution application owing to death of appellant namely Munir-ud-deen and, therefore, it will have an effect of obliterating the ramification of delay in filing the substitution application.

11. Even otherwise it would not be appropriate to shut the door of justice due to little delay caused in filing the substitution application. In catena of judgments Hon'ble Supreme Court has expressed the view that endeavour should be made for extending the substantial justice rather to shut the door of justice on technical ground.

12. It is settled law that all Courts of law are established for furtherance of interest of substantial justice and not to obstruct the same on technicalities. Reference-- Jai Jai Ram Manohar Lal Vs. National Building Material Supply; AIR 1969 SC 1267, wherein it has been held that the substantial justice and technicalities, if pitted against each other, the cause of substantial justice should not be defeated on technicalities. No procedure in a Court of law should be allowed to defeat the cause of substantial justice on some technicalities. Reference - Ghanshyam Dass & Ors. Vs. Dominion of India & Ors., AIR (1984) 3 SCC 46.

13. Apart from that in recent judgment of Bhivchandra Shankar More vs. Balu Gangaram More & Ors (decided by Hon'ble Supreme Court on 07.05.2019), reported in 2019(6) SCC 387 it is expounded that in condoning the delay "sufficient cause" should be given liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice. The relevant paragraph nos. 15 and 16 of the aforesaid judgment are being quoted herein below:-

"15. It is a fairly well settled law that "sufficient cause" should be given liberal construction so as to advance sustainable justice when there is no inaction, no negligence nor want of bonafide could be imputable to the appellant. After referring to various judgments, in B. Madhuri, this Court held as under:-

"6. The expression "sufficient cause" used in Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 and other statutes is elastic enough to enable the courts to apply the law in a meaningful manner which serves the ends of justice. No hard-and-fast rule has been or can be laid down for deciding the applications for condonation of delay but over the years courts have repeatedly observed that a liberal approach needs to be adopted in such matters so that substantive rights of the parties are not defeated only on the ground of delay."

16. Observing that the rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of the parties, in N. Balakrishnan v. M. Krishnamurthy (1998) 7 SCC 123, this Court held as under:-

"11. Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of parties. They are meant to see that parties do not resort to dilatory tactics, but seek their remedy promptly. The object of providing a legal remedy is to repair the damage caused by reason of legal injury. The law of limitation fixes a lifespan for such legal remedy for the redress of the legal injury so suffered. Time is precious and wasted time would never revisit. During the efflux of time, newer causes would sprout up necessitating newer persons to seek legal remedy by approaching the courts.

So a lifespan must be fixed for each remedy. Unending period for launching the remedy may lead to unending uncertainty and consequential anarchy. The law of limitation is thus founded on public policy. It is enshrined in the maxim interest reipublicae up sit finis litium (it is for the general welfare that a period be put to litigation). Rules of limitation are not meant to destroy the rights of the parties. They are meant to see that parties do not resort to dilatory tactics but seek their remedy promptly. The idea is that every legal remedy must be kept alive for a legislatively fixed period of time." As pointed out earlier, an appeal under Section 96 CPC is a statutory right. Generally, delays in preferring appeals are required to be condoned, in the interest of justice, where there is no gross negligence or deliberate inaction or lack of bonafide is imputable to the party seeking condonation of delay."

14. Moreover, applicability of provisions as enunciated under Order 22 of Code of Civil Procedure (in brevity "Code") would also be a paramount question to be considered by this Court in the instant matter. Order 22 of Code deals with the substitution of heirs and legal representatives of the deceased, who arrayed as a party in the cause title of suit/appeal being plaintiff/appellant or defendant/opposite party. U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (in brevity "U.P.C.H. Act") is an special enactment and under the provisions as enunciated under Section 4 of Code the provisions of the Code shall not be deemed to limit or otherwise affect the provisions of U.P.C.H. Act. For the purposes of proceedings before the consolidation courts, procedure has been provided under Section 38 of U.P.C.H. Act read with Rule 26 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules (in brevity "Rules"). In additional to these provisions, Section 41 of U.P.C.H. Act enunciates that unless otherwise specially provided by or under U.P.C.H. Act, the provisions of Chapter IX and X of U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 shall apply to all proceedings including appeal and application under U.P.C.H. Act. No doubt that by virtue of Section 40 of U.P.C.H. Act proceedings before the consolidation authorities have been treated as a judicial proceeding but it does not mean that the provisions of Code are made applicable in the proceeding under the U.P.C.H. Act.

15. Considering the applicability of Code in proceedings under the U.P. C.H. Act, Full Bench of this Court in the case of Bijai Narain Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in A.I.R. 1970 All 241 (FB) has expounded that provisions of Code are not fully applicable in the proceeding under U.P.C.H. Act. Relevant paragraph no. 32 of the judgment is being quoted herein under:-

"32. It may now be seen as to whether the various authorities constituted under the Act are governed by the Code of Civil Procedure in the matter of procedure. On an examination of the various provisions of the Act it would appear that all the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure have not been made applicable to the proceedings under the Act. Some limited powers have been specifically given under Section 38 and enlarged by Rule 26, which have been again supplemented by S. 41, which says that the provisions of Chapters IX and X of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, shall apply to all proceedings under the Act. On a perusal of the provisions of Section 38 and Rule 26 it would appear that they make a mention of the application of only some provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. In the same way the provisions in Chapter IX and X of the Land Revenue Act show that all the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure have not been made applicable to the proceedings under that Act also. As such, it could not be held that all the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure have been made applicable to the proceedings under the Act. Had the intention of the legislature been to make all the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure applicable to the proceedings under the Act, it could have said so just in one sentence."

16. In the matter of Anand Narayan and others vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Gorakhpur and others, reported in 2013(121) RD 45, question relating to applicability of Order 22 of Code was considered and answered by the coordinate Bench of this Court that the provisions as enunciated under Order 22 of Code qua substitution of the heirs and legal representatives of the deceased on the record is not applicable in the cases/appeal/revision under the U.P.C.H. Act. Relevant paragraph no. 12 of the judgment in Anand Narayan (supra) is being quoted herein under:-

"12. In such circumstances, the provisions of Order 22 Rule 3(2) and Rule 4(3) CPC which provides for abatement of the suit and proceeding for not filing the substitution application within 90 days of the death of the parties will not automatically apply to the proceeding before the consolidation authorities and in view of Section 4 CPC, the special provisions regulating the proceedings before the consolidation authorities will have overriding effect and the provisions of CPC will not be imported to the proceeding in the consolidation. The case law relied by counsel for the respondents in the cases of Khedan Vs. Vishwanath, 1989 RD 364, Dibhag Singh Vs. DDC and others, 1990 RD 151, Ishwari Vs. DDC and others, 1990 RD 175 and Ranvir Singh Vs. JDC and others, 2007 (102) RD 42 as well as the Full Bench judgment of this Court in Bijai Narain Singh and Others v. State of U.P. and Others AIR 1970 All 241 (FB) squarely cover the controversy. In such circumstances, the argument of counsel for the petitioner is not liable to be accepted."

17. In this view of the matter, even assuming that substitution application was filed at a belated stage, there will be no abatement in the matter inasmuch as provisions as enunciated under Order 22 of Code and the provisions as enunciated under Article 120 and 121 of the Limitation Act are not applicable in a proceeding under the U.P.C.H. Act, though provisions of section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 has been made applicable, for the limited purposes in proceedings under U.P.C.H. Act by virtue of Section 53-B of the U.P.C.H. Act. Therefore, mere furnishing an information qua death of any party, along with the details of his heir and legal representatives, arrayed in the cause title of any proceeding under U.P.C.H. Act would be suffice for the purpose of survival of the cause of action involved in the matter.

18. Learned counsel for the petitioner has failed to demonstrate as to how he is prejudiced due to the order passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation in allowing the substitution or there is any likelihood of causing miscarriage of justice to the present petitioner. I do not find any justifiable ground to interfere in the impugned orders passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation and the Deputy Director of Consolidation.

19. Accordingly, the present writ petition, being misconceived and devoid on merits, is dismissed with no order as to the costs.

20. However, before parting the matter, counsel for both the parties have requested for issuance of a direction for expeditious disposal of the appeal pending before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation.

21. Considering the old matter, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, before whom the appeal is pending, is hereby directed to decide the appeal expeditiously, preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

22. It is expected that it should be decided by reasoned and speaking order, in accordance with law, after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned without granting unnecessary adjournments.

Hindu Law - Hindu Adoption & Maintenance Act, 1956 - Section 16 - Proof of Adoption deed - Under the Hindu Law, there cannot be a valid adoption unless the adoptive boy is transferred from one family to another and that can be done only by the ceremony of giving and taking- it is essential to have a formal ceremony. - law requires that the natural parent shall hand over the adoptive boy and the adoptive parent shall receive him - ceremony of giving and taking is essential to validate adoption - Indian Evidence Act, S. 90 - so far as admissibility of the document being 20 year old under Section 90 of Evidence Act, 1872 it has nothing to do with the ceremonies of the adoption which has to be proved either by direct evidence or presumption has to be raised according to the provisions of

Section 16 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act (Para 19, 21)

Finding recorded by revisional court on the admissibility of adoption deed dated 23.3.1948 cannot be sustained as the adoption deed dated 23.3.1948 has no signature of person giving his child for adoption - Non-filing of original adoption deed before Consolidation Officer go against the respondent nos. 4 to 7 - Continuance of name of natural father of Hira Lal in Voter List, Kutumb Register as well as in the registered sale deed executed by Hira Lal raises presumption of the fact that adoption deed set up by Hira Lal is doubtful - Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) have rightly disbelieved the adoption deed executed on 23.3.1948 which was basis of claim of respondent nos. 4 to 7 - Revisional court exceeded his jurisdiction in reversing the order of Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) and upholding the adoption deed as valid and genuine and maintaining the basic year entry (Para 24)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh along with Mr. Krishna Kant Vishwakarma, counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Ram Sajiwan Mishra, counsel for Respondent Nos. 4 to 7. Mr. Praveen Chandra Mishra has put in appearance for Respondents No. 8 to 18.

2. Briefs facts of the case are that dispute relates to plots of Khata No. 81 situated in Village- Dewapur, Pergana- Nawabganj, District- Allahabad. Particulars of plots of Khata No.81, its area and Basic Year entry are as follows:-

S.No.	Khata No.	Plots Nos.	Area	Name of the tenure holder recorded in Basic Year
1.	81	52 (Bhumidhari)	5-4-12	Hira Lal adopted son of Ram Charan
2.	81	23 (sirdari)	0-5-0
3.	81	24 (Sirdari)	2-10-11
4.	81	55(Sirdari)	0-5-0

Status of revenue entry in C.H. Form 45 in respect to 1st consolidation operation, are as follows:-

S.No.	Khata No.	Plots Nos.	Area	Name of the tenure holder recorded in Basic Year
1.	1	52	(Class-1 ka Bhumidhar) 5-4-12	Ram Charan son of Sheetal, Ram Lakhan (major), Hira Lal, (16 year minor) guardian Ram Lakhan real brother, sons of Mahavir

S.No.	Khata No.	Plots Nos.	Area (Class-2 Sirdar)	Name of the tenure holder recorded in Basic Year
1.	68	23	0.5.0	Ram Charan son of Sheetal
		24	2.10.11

3. Against the Basic Year Entry, an objection under section- 9A(2) of U.P.C.H. Act was filed by petitioner's father Ram Lakhan with the prayer that he should be recorded alongwith Hira Lal over plot No. 52 and their share should be recorded as ½ each. A further prayer was made that sale deed executed by Hira Lal in favour of the Mata Prasad in respect to plot no. 52 be cancelled. In respect to plot Nos. 23, 24 and 25, petitioner's father prayed to record his name exclusively after expunging the name of Hira Lal, Father of respondent No.4.

4. Hira Lal son of Ram Charan filed his written statement and opposed the objection filed by Ram Lakhan. Hira Lal claimed the right on the basis of the adoption deed executed by Ram Charan in his favour on 23.3.1948.

5. Mata Prasad claimed the right on the basis of registered sale deed executed by the Hira Lal in his favour on 5.7.1983 in respect to 1.0.0 area of plot no. 52 so his name be recorded in place of Hira Lal. Ayodhya Prasad and Nanhe Lal claimed the right on the basis of the registered sale deed executed on 3.7.1973 by Ram Lakhan in their favour in respect to 2-12-6 area of plot no.52. Accordingly, Ayodhya Prasad, Nanhe Lal (ancestor of respondent nos. 8 to 18) prayed for recording their names after expunging the name of vendor Ram Lakhan.

6. Nine issues were framed before the Consolidation Officer and parties adduced oral and documentary evidences in support of their cases. Consolidation Officer while deciding the issues nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 & 9 recorded finding of fact that adoption deed as claimed by Hira Lal is void and ineffective as ceremony of adoption has not been proved by Hira Lal. Consolidation Officer further recorded finding that even after adoption, Hira Lal executed a registered sale deed in 1974, showing his age as 32 years and his father's name as Mahavir (natural father) which demonstrate that adoption deed is void. Accordingly, Consolidation Officer ordered to record the name of Ram Lakhan (deceased), substituted by Ram Murat for ½ share along with Hira Lal, son of Mahavir in the place of Hira Lal, adopted son of Ram Charan.

7. While deciding the Issue Nos. 5 & 6, Consolidation Officer ordered to record the name of Ayodhya and Nanhe Lal, being vendees of Ram Lakhan, son of Mahavir as claim for ½ share of Ram Lakhan was accepted.

8. While deciding Issue Nos. 7 & 8, plot nos.23, 24 & 55 were ordered to be vested in state after expunging the name of recorded tenure holder by order of Consolidation Officer dated 7.10.2008.

9. Against the order of Consolidation Officer dated 7.10.2008, three appeals were filed under Section 11(1) of U.P. C.H. Act, one appeal by Hira Lal (father of respondent no.4), one appeal by petitioner Ram Murat and one appeal by Mata Prasad (respondent no.1). All the three appeals were consolidated and heard together by Settlement Officer (Consolidation) and by order dated 10.9.2014, Settlement Officer (Consolidation) dismissed all the three appeals.

10. Against the appellate order dated 10.9.2014, three revisions under Section 48 of the U.P. C.H. Act were filed, one by petitioner Ram Murat, one by Raja Ram and others (respondent nos. 4 to 6) and one by Mata Prasad (respondent no.7). All the three revisions were heard together by Deputy Director of Consolidation. Deputy Director of Consolidation vide order dated 8.3.2008, allowed the revisions of respondent nos. 4 to 7 and dismissed the revision filed by petitioner, setting aside the orders passed by Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) dated 7.10.2008 & 10.9.2014 and maintained the basic year entry of khata no.81 as well as ordered to record the names of Mata Prasad, vendees of Hira Lal in place of Hira Lal in respect of plot no. 52, area 1-0.0. Hence this writ petition on behalf of the petitioner.

11. Counsel for the petitioner submitted that Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) have recorded finding of fact that adoption deed is void and ineffective but Deputy Director of Consolidation has illegally held in exercise of revisional jurisdiction that civil court in Suit No.12 of 1979 has recorded finding that Ram Charan has adopted Hira Lal while the fact is the Suit No.12 of 1979 filed by Hira Lal for cancellation of sale deed dated 3.6.1973 executed by Ram Lakhan in favour of Ayodhya Prasad and Nanhe Lal was dismissed by judgment dated 8.12.1982 on the ground of lack of jurisdiction, as such, finding on any other point which were not in issue in the suit will be irrelevant. He further submitted that certified copy of adoption deed dated 23.3.1948 was filed before Consolidation Officer but original adoption deed was not filed nor there was any explanation for the same, as such, in view of the provisions contained under Sections 64, 65, 74 & 76 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, certified copy of adoption deed will not be admissible. He further submitted that Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) after considering the orders and entries of earlier consolidation operation, have rightly held that petitioner and his vendees are entitled to be recorded over plot no.52 but revisional court has illegally interfered with findings of act, as such, revisional order is liable to be set aside. He further submitted that court of Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) have illegally vested the plot nos. 23, 24 & 55 in the state in spite of the fact that the petitioner's father was recorded in the 1st consolidation operation over the plot nos. 23, 24 & 55. He also submitted that provisions of Section 175 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act was not taken into consideration, as such, impugned orders are illegal. He placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Shri Jagdamba Prasad (dead) thr. L.R.'s and Others vs. Kripa Shankar (Dead) thr. L.R. and Others, 2014 (124) R.D. 1 in which it is held that Section 48 of the U.P. C.H. Act is pari materia to Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Power of revisional authority only extends to ascertaining whether the subordinate courts have exceeded their jurisdiction in coming to the conclusion, if not, revisional authority cannot come to a contrary conclusion by admitting new fats either in form of documents or otherwise. He further placed reliance upon a judgment of this Court in the case of Ram Udit vs. D.D.C. and Others, 2014 (125) R.D. 627 in which judgment of the Apex Court rendered in Shri Jagdamba Prasad (supra) has been followed.

12. On the other hand, counsel for the respondent nos. 4 to 7 submitted that revisional court has rightly exercised the jurisdiction as vested in him under Section 48 as well as explanation nos. 1, 2 & 3 of Section 48 of the U.P. C.H. Act, as such, no interference is required against the impugned revisional order. He further submitted that adoption deed executed on 23.3.1948 is more than 20 year old, as such, respondent nos. 4 to 6 are entitled to benefit of Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. He further submitted that entries made in the first consolidation operation were manipulated as Hiralal, father of respondent no.4 was minor during that period, as such, no reliance can be placed upon the entries of first consolidation operation. He further submitted that sale deed executed by Hiralal on 20.5.1974, although, contain the name of natural father but it was the creation of his elder brother Ram Lakhan (father of petitioner) being guardian of Ram Lakhan. Counsel for the respondent placed reliance upon paragraph no.21 of the written statement filed by Ram Lakhan in Civil Suit No.12 of 1979 by which, according to him, Ram Lakhan admitted adoption deed preferred by Hira Lal. He further placed portion of the judgment of civil court dated 8.2.1982 where civil court on the basis of averment of paragraph no.21 of the written statement found that Hira Lal is adopted son of Ram Charan, accordingly, counsel for the respondent nos. 4 to 7 submitted that no interference is required against the impugned revisional order.

13. In reply, counsel for the petitioner submitted that at the time of execution of sale deed by Hira Lal in the year 1974, Hira Lal was very much major and was aged about 32 years. He further submitted that father's name of Hira Lal as Mahavir is also mentioned in Voter List, kutumb register as well as in C.H. Form 45 of earlier consolidation operation which cannot be ignored while considering the case of adoption set up by Hira Lal (father of respondent no.4). He further placed reliance upon paragraph no.16 of the written statement where it was specifically stated that there was no adoption of plaintiff (Hira Lal) according to Hindu religion. He further submitted that there was no issue framed in Suit No.12 of 1979 regarding adoption deed dated 23.3.1998 nor there was any adjudication of Civil Suit No.12 of 1979 on merit rather the suit was dismissed for the lack of jurisdiction of the court, as such, no reliance can be placed upon the judgment of Suit No.12 of 1979.

14. I have considered the argument advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

15. There is no dispute about the fact that in the basic year of the consolidation operation, Hiralal, adopted son of Ram Charan was recorded in the basic year of the consolidation operation. Against the basic year entry, an objection under Section 9-A(2) of the U.P.C.H. Act was filed by petitioner's father Ram Lakhan that he should be recorded along with Hira Lal over plot no.52 and share should be ½ each. He further prayed that in respect to plot nos. 23 to 25, petitioner's father be recorded exclusively after expunging the name of Hira Lal. On the other hand, Hiralal contested the objection on the basis of adoption deed alleged to be executed in his favour on 23.3.1948 by Ram Charan. Respondent no.7 claimed the right on 1.0.0 area of plot no.52 on the basis of sale deed executed in his favour by Hira Lal and Ayodhya Prasad and Nanhe Lal claimed the right on the basis of registered sale deed executed in their favour by Ram Lakhan in respect to 2.12.6 area of plot no.52. Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) have given right to petitioner's father to be recorded over plot no.52 having ½ share, accordingly, right of vendees of petitioner's father was also accepted but the claim of Hiralal on the basis of adoption deed alleged to be executed on 23.3.1948 was rejected, accordingly, the claim of vendees of Hiralal was also rejected. Consolidation Officer has further ordered to vest the plot nos. 23 to 25 in the state as nobody was found heir of Ram Charan. Deputy Director of Consolidation has allowed the revisions of respondent nos. 4 to 7 and dismissed the revision of petitioner, accordingly, basic year entry was maintained and the case of adoption was found proved by Deputy Director of Consolidation.

16. Since in the 1st consolidation operation Ram Charan, son of Sheetal, Ram Lakhan, son of Mahavir and Hiralal, minor son of Mahavir under guardianship of Ram Lakhan were recorded over plot no.52 in C.H. Form No.45, as such, that entry cannot be ignored where the name of natural father Mahavir is mentioned against the name of Hira Lal. It is further relevant that first consolidation operation were completed in the year 1960 but no steps were taken by Hiralal to correct the entry on the basis of adoption deed nor Ram Charan has taken any steps being father of Hiralal. So far as adoption deed of 23.3.1948 is concerned, there is no signature of the person who is giving his child for adoption. It is further relevant that original adoption deed has not been filed before Consolidation Officer rather certified copy of adoption deed was filed and there is no explanation regarding original adoption deed. It is further relevant that name of natural father of Hiralal has been mentioned in Voter List, Kutumb Register even in the registered sale deed executed in the year 1974 when the Hiralal was 32 years of age, as such, this fact is also relevant which was considered by Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (consolidation). So far as the judgment of civil court passed in civil suit no.12/1979 filed by Hiralal for cancellation of sale deed executed by Ram Lakhan infavour of Ayodhya Prasad and Nanhe Lal are concerned, since that suit was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction and there was no issue in the suit with respect to adoption deed dated 23.3.1948, as such, any observation in that suit regarding adoption deed will not be conclusive proof of adoption deed. Revisional court has illegally held that civil court has found the adoption deed dated 23.3.1948 as genuine. On the question of admissibility of adoption deed. It will be relevant to mention here that adoption deed is of 23.3.1948 that is before the enforcement of the Hindu Adoption & Maintenance act, 1956. In 1948, one could not claim validity of his adoption merely because registered document was executed and no presumption in law about the validity of adoption arose, according to the then prevalent law. The registered document regarding adoption has assumed significance after the enforcement of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956.

17. On the question of admissibility of certified copy of adoption deed, the perusal of Section 64, 65, 74 & 76 of the Evidence Act, shall be relevant, which are as follows:

"64. Proof of documents by primary evidence.--Documents must be proved by primary evidence except in the cases hereinafter mentioned.

65. Cases in which secondary evidence relating to documents may be given.--Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition, or contents of a document in the following cases:--

(a) When the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power-- of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved, or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court, or of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66, such person does not produce it;

(b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest;

(c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time;

(d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily movable;

(e) when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74;

(g) when the originals consists of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection. In cases (a), (c) and (d), any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible. In case (b), the written admission is admissible. In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible. In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents.

74. Public documents.--The following documents are public documents :--

(1) Documents forming the acts, or records of the acts--

(i) of the sovereign authority, (ii) of official bodies and tribunals, and

(iii) of public officers, legislative, judicial and executive, of any part of India or of the Commonwealth, or of a foreign country;

(2) Public records kept in any State of private documents.

76. Certified copies of public documents.--Every public officer having the custody of a public document, which any person has a right to inspect, shall give that person on demand a copy of it on payment of the legal fees therefore, together with a certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy of such document or part thereof, as the case may be, and such certificate shall be dated and subscribed by such officer with his name and his official title, and shall be sealed, whenever such officer is authorized by law to make use of a seal; and such copies so certified shall be called certified copies.

Explanation.--Any officer who, by the ordinary course of official duty, is authorized to deliver such copies, shall be deemed to have the custody of such documents within the meaning of this section.

18. On the point of presumption of document, more than 20 years old Section 90 of the Evidence Act, 1872 shall be relevant which is as follows:-

90. Presumption as to documents thirty years old.--Where any document, purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested. Explanation.--Documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable. This Explanation applies also to section 81.

STATE AMENDMENTS

Uttar Pradesh.

(a) Renumber section 90 as sub-section (1) thereof;

(b) in sub-section (1) as so renumbered, for the words "thirty years", substitute the words "twenty years";

(c) after sub-section (1) as so renumbered, insert the following sub-section, namely:--

"(2) Where any such document as is referred to in sub-section (1) was registered in accordance with the law relating to registration of documents and a duly certified copy thereof is produced, the court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, it is that person's handwriting, and in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the person by whom it purports to have been executed or attested".

(d) After section 90, insert the following section, namely:--

"90A. (1) Where any registered document or a duly certified copy thereof or any certified copy of a document which is part of the record of a Court of Justice, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the original was executed by the person by whom it purports to have been executed.

(2) This presumption shall not be made in respect of any document which is the basis of a suit or of defence or is relied upon in the plaint or written statement."

The Explanation to sub-section (1) of section 90 will also apply to this section; [Vide Uttar Pradesh Act 24 of 1954, sec. 2 and Sch. (w.e.f. 30-11-1954).]"

19. On the point of Section 90 of Indian Evidence Act as well as on the point of proof of adoption deed this Court in a case of Harihar Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Mau and Others 2015 (127) RD 144 has held that so far as admissibility of the document being 20 year old under Section 90 of Evidence Act, 1872 it has nothing to do with the ceremonies of the adoption which has to be proved either by direct evidence or presumption has to be raised according to the provisions of Section 16 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act. Paragraph No.7, 8 and 9 of Harihar (supra) is as follows:

"7. I have considered the arguments of the counsel for the parties and examined the record. Admittedly, the ceremonies of adoption have not been proved by any witness. Thus the only evidence relating to adoption is adoption deed dated 12.08.1964. The arguments of the counsel for the petitioner that the document, being twenty years old was admissible in evidence without any formal proof under Section 90 of the Act as such the consolidation authorities are bound to raise presumption of the ceremonies of adoption as provided under Section 16 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956. Section 16 of which is relevant is quoted below:-.

16. Presumption as to registered documents relating to adoption.-- Whenever any document registered under any law for the time being in force is produced before any court purporting to record an adoption made and is signed by the person giving and the person taking the child in adoption, the court shall presume that the adoption has been made in compliance with the provisions of this Act unless and until it is disproved.

8. In order to raise presumption regarding adoption on the basis of adoption deed, the deed must have been signed by the person giving and the person taking the child in adoption both. Admittedly, deed dated 12.08.1964 was not signed by natural father and mother of the petitioner. As such presumption regarding ceremonies of adoption on its basis cannot be raised. In order to be valid adoption, the child must have been adopted according to the rites and custom of Hindu law. So far as admissibility of the document being 20 years old under Section 90 of Evidence Act, 1872, it has nothing to do with ceremonies of the adoption which has to be proved either by direct evidence or presumption has to be raised according to the provisions of Section 16 above.

9. Findings regarding Udasi being daughter of Soti and Khedani is based upon Pariwar Register as well as oral evidence of Udasi, which is admissible under Section 50 of the Evidence Act, 1872. There is no illegality in respect of findings of fact in this respect and no interference is required by this Court in exercise of writ jurisdiction. Similarly, the consolidation authorities have jurisdiction to correct the revenue entries of other khatas, even there was no objection by Udasi. In view of aforesaid discussions, orders of respondents-1 and 2 do not suffer from any illegality. The writ petition has no merit and is dismissed."

20. This Court in another judgment in a case of Dr. Jeevan Bahadur Samaddar Vs. Govind Charan Samaddar and Others 2013 (120) RD 717 has held that if certified copy has not been placed on record after satisfying the requirements of Section 64/65 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, the mere fact that it was a certified copy by itself, would not make it admissible in evidence since it is secondary evidence and can be adduced in evidence only as provided in statute and not otherwise. Paragraph No.39 and 40 of Dr. Jeevan Bahadur Sammaddar (supra) will be relevant to appreciate the present controversy which is as follows:

42. The above discussion also leads to the inference that, (1) presumption under Section 90 is discretionary, though the discretion is to be exercised judiciously; (2) sub-section (1) of Section 90 (as amended in U.P. or otherwise) is applicable only in respect to original document and not copies or certified copies; (3) the document must be 20/30 years old and must have come from proper custody; (4) the presumption is in respect of execution and attestation of document as also the handwriting of person concerned; (5) sub-section (2) (as available in U.P.) is applicable to certified copies when the same are adduced in evidence in accordance with law, i.e., as per the requirement of Sections 64 and 65 of Act, 1872. "

"5. Besides the controversy that whether the adoption deed being tweenty year old, no further proof was required and document was to be accepted as it is, this Court has to consider various other facts and circumstances besides voluminous evidence as was available before the Courts below and as has been placed before this Court also. Petitioner has brought on record bulk of documentary evidence in the shape of school record, Khasra extracts and documents relating to proceedings of earlier cases. In all the school record, respondent No. 3 is shown to be the son of Sahadeo. In the Transfer Certificate, School Leaving Certificate, admission documents and in the declaration in the University, respondent No. 3 was shown to be recorded as son of Sahadeo. The adoption deed is said to be dated 13.12.1946 but thereafter when for the first time, respondent No. 3 was admitted in school, form was filed by Sahadeo himself and Sahadeo was shown to be father of Ram Chandra. There is a mention in the documents so filed by petitioner that college staff asked the signatory on the form namely Sahadeo about parentage upon which, a declaration was given that Ram Chandra is the son of Sahadeo. In all Khasra extracts, Ram Chandra is shown to be the son of Sahadeo. There are several money order receipts from which, it is clear that the petitioner has been sending money to Sahadeo who happened to be elder brother. In Khasra extracts, petitioner is shown to be in possession as ''marfat' to Sahadeo. The adoption deed is not signed by Sahadeo who is said to have given his son in adoption to Ram Cheez. The Consolidation Officer by referring these factors in a precise manner, gave a clear finding that the name of Ram Chandra alone came in the papers without any reference to any amaldaramad in 1354 Fasli. Beeran Tiwari and Thag Tiwari the marginal witnesses of the adoption deed have not been examined. In all the school papers, revenue papers throughout Ram Chandra is shown to be son of Sahadeo. For the first time when Ram Chandra was admitted in School which was after the alleged adoption deed, he was shown to be son of Sahadeo. At no point of time, till the last Ram Chandra ever tried to get his parentage corrected as adopted son of Ram Cheez. In his service book also, he is shown to be son of Sahadeo. Oral evidence is contradictory in respect to the ceremony of giving and taking. It is on all these findings, genuineness of deed was rejected by the Consolidation Officer and the petitioner was accepted to be co-tenant with the respondents along with his legitimate share according to the pedigree. The appellate authority and the Revisional Court mainly on the ground that deed is twenty year old and it has not been cancelled in any competent Court have negatived the petitioner's claim and have reversed the judgment of the Consolidation Officer. The Deputy Director of Consolidation appears to have made wrong observation by saying that the land was throughout recorded in the name of Bikkan and thereafter Ram Cheez whereas the record placed before this Court states otherwise. A further wrong finding was given that Ram Chandra is entered as adopted son of Ram Cheez in the record which is not so. There is a further wrong finding that in no document, the petitioner has been shown to be in possession whereas Khasra extracts have been filed to show his name in possession as ''marfat'. The Deputy director of Consolidation has concluded by saying that in any view of the matter, entry of Ram Chandra showing his long possession, confers independent rights on him which appears to be totally misconceived as it was not the case of even respondent and on the other hand, all three were shown to be in possession in the shape of ''marfat' entry. The appellate authority in a very cryptic manner only by giving emphasis about the document being twenty year old, allowed the appeal and the Revisional Court by recording varous findings on the question of fact as noticed above, which apparently do not born out from the record has dismissed the revision. In view of the aforesaid discussion, it is clear that besides adoption deed, own conduct of the respondent No. 3 and his father throughout as is apparent from voluminous evidence was liable to be taken note of by Appellate Court and the Revisional Court. By adoption, mode of succession stands changed and therefore, that is to be accepted with all care. Even in presence of adoption deed, ceremony of giving and taking as stated in the principle ofHindu Lawas has been noticed by the Apex Court in the case ofLakshman Singh(supra) has to be kept in mind. Few observations as are contained in the judgment of the Apex Court will be useful to be quoted here;

"That a formal ceremony of giving and taking is essential to validate the adoption has been emphasized by the Judicial. Committee again in Krishna Rao v. Sundara Siva Rao."

Further observation as has been made by the Apex Court in paras-9 and 10 will be useful to be referred at this place;

Para-9: Strong reliance is placed by learned Counsel for the appellant on the decision of the Judicial Committee in Biradhmal v. Prabhabhati. There a widow executed a deed of adoption whereby she purported to have adopted son to her deceased husband a boy. The Sub-Registrar before whom the document was registered put to the boy's natural father and to the widow questions whether they had executed the deed. The boy was also present at that time. The Judicial Committee held that, under the said circumstances, there was proof of giving and taking. The question posed by the Privy Council was stated thus: "The sole issue discussed before their Lordships was the question of fact whether on 30th June, 1924, at about 6 P.M. when the adoption deed was being registered the boy was present and was given by Bhanwarmal and taken by the widow." The question so posed was answered thus at p. 155--

"..... Their Lordships think that the evidence that the boy was present at the time when the sub-registrar put to his father and to the widow the questions whether they had executed the deed is sufficient to prove a giving and taking." This sentence is rather laconic and may lend support to the argument that mere putting questions by the sub-registrar would amount to giving and taking of the adoptive boy but the subsequent discussion makes it clear that the Privy Council had not laid down any such wide proposition. Their Lordships proceeded to observe:

"Even if the suggestion be accepted that the auspicious day ended at noon on the 30th and that the deed was executed before noon and before the boy arrived at Ajmer, it seems quite probable that the registration proceedings which were arranged for 6 P.M. would be regarded as a suitable occasion for carrying out the very simple ceremony that was necessary." These observations indicate that on the material placed before the Privy Council-it is not necessary to say that we would come to the same conclusion on the same material it held that there was giving and taking of the boy at about 6 p.m. when the judicial committee, in our view, did not intend to depart from the well recognized doctrine of Hindu Law that there should be a ceremony of giving and taking to validate an adoption.

Para-10: The law may be briefly stated thus: Under the Hindu Law, whether among the regenerate caste or among Sudras, there cannot be a valid adoption unless the adoptive boy is transferred from one family to another and that can be done only by the ceremony of giving and taking. The object of the corporeal giving and receiving in adoption is obviously to secure due publicity. To achieve this object, it is essential to have a formal ceremony. No particular form is prescribed for the ceremony, but the law required that the natural parent shall hand over the adoptive boy and the adoptive parent shall receive him. The nature of the ceremony may vary depending upon the circumstances of the case. But a ceremony there shall be part of the exigencies of the situation arising out of diverse circumstances necessitated to the introduction of the doctrine of delegation and therefore, the parents, after exercising their volition to give and take the boy in adoption, may both or either of them delegate the physical act of handing over the boy or receiving him, as the case may be, to a third party."

22. In view of ratio of law laid down by this Court in Harihar (supra), Dr. Jeevan Bahadur Sammadar (supra) and Ram Vrat Tripathi (supra), the finding recorded by revisional court on the admissibility of adoption deed dated 23.3.1948 cannot be sustained as the adoption deed dated 23.3.1948 has no signature of person giving his child for adoption, as such, presumption regarding ceremonies of adoption on its basis cannot be raised so far as admissibility of document under Section 90 of the Evidence Act is concerned, it has nothing to do with ceremonies of adoption. Non-filing of original adoption deed before Consolidation Officer will also go against the respondent nos. 4 to 7, as such, according to provisions contained under Sections 64, 65, 74 & 76 of the Indian Evidence Act, secondary evidence will not be admissible in evidence. Continuance of name of natural father of Hira Lal in Voter List, Kutumb Register as well as in the registered sale deed executed by Hira Lal himself in 1974 when Hira Lal was about 32 years old, raises presumption of the fact that adoption deed set up by Hira Lal is doubtful. Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) have rightly disbelieved the adoption deed executed on 23.3.1948 which was basis of claim of respondent nos. 4 to 7, accordingly, both parties were given ½ share in the bhumidhari plot no.52 but so far as sirdari plot nos.23,24 & 55 are concerned that were rightly vested in state as claim of Hira Lal on the basis of adoption was disbelieved and Ram Charan was exclusively recorded over plot nos. 23, 24 & 55 and the order dated 24.7.1960 passed by the Assistant Consolidation Officer in Case No.26 in respect to recording of the name of Ram Lakhan over plot nos. 23, 24 & 55 in place of Ram Charan was rightly found doubtful as under which provision the order was passed, has not been mentioned in the order.

23. So far as revisional jurisdiction under Section 48 of Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act is concerned as argued by respective counsel for the parties, the decision of this Court in a case of Nathu Ram and Others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Varanasi and Others 2017 (136) RD 480 will be relevant in which this Court after considering the various amendment made in Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act as well as the ratio of law laid down by Apex Court in Ram Dular Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Jaunpur and Others 1994 RD 290 (SC), Sheshmani and Another Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation District- Basti U.P. and Others 2001 RD 210 (SC) and Sri Jagdamba Prasad (dead) through LRs and Others Vs. Kripa Shankar (dead) through LRs and Others 2014 (124) RD 1 (SC), has held that revisional power is not a power of first or second appellate Court, the finding recorded therein would be possible to be interfered under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act only on the grounds discussed in Ram Dular (supra), Sheshmani (supra) and Jagdamba Prasad (supra).

24. Revisional court exceeded his jurisdiction in reversing the order of Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer (Consolidation) and upholding the adoption deed as valid and genuine and maintaining the basic year entry, the revisional court has failed to consider the evidences and findings recorded by courts below, as such, impugned revisional order is wholly illegal. No useful purpose will be served by sending the matter back before revisional court for fresh decision as the order passed by Consolidation Officer dated 7.10.2008 and Settlement Officer (Consolidation Officer) dated 10.9.2014 are based upon evidence on record as well as on the principle laid down by this Court in Harihar (supra). Dr. Jeevan Bahadur Samaddar (supra) and Ram Vrat Tripathi (supra), accordingly, the same are hereby maintained.

25. Writ petition is allowed in part. Impugned revisional order dated 8.3.2018 passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation, Allahabad in Revision Nos. 759, 431 & 770 is quashed and the order dated 7.10.2008 passed by Consolidation Officer and order dated 10.9.2014 passed by Settlement Officer (Consolidation) are hereby maintained. No order as to costs.

Civil Law - U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 - Section 9A (2) - U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 - Section 132 - Natural Justice - Opportunity of hearing - Petitioners challenged the order passed by the Consolidation Officer, under Section 9A (2) of UP Consolidation of Holdings Act whereby name of the petitioners have been ordered to be expunged from the revenue record treating the land in question covered under Section 132 of U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act - Aforesaid order was passed behind the back of the petitioners without issuing any notice and without affording them opportunity of hearing - Held - - Long standing entries in the name of the recorded tenure holders, who have conferred their right as bhumidhar-with-transferable right by operation of law under Section 131-A of UPZA and LR Act, cannot be expunged in a rough and casual manner - impugned orders are passed in blatant violation of natural justice and fair play - order impugned quashed - Parties relegated before the Consolidation Officer to get the matter decided de novo (Para 11, 12)

Allowed. (E-5)

List of Cases cited:

1. Hinch Lal Tiwari Vs Kamala Devi and Ors., AIR 2001 SC 3215

2. Canara Bank & ors. Vs Shri Debasis Das & ors. reported in AIR 2003 Supreme Court 2041

3. Ram Bachan Yadav and another Vs State of UP & ors., reported in 2018 (140) RD 39

1. In this batch of cases, common question of fact and law are involved qua post order opportunity of hearing to the persons adversely affected due to the impugned orders passed ex-parte, as the principles of natural justice and fair play has been violated.

2. The grievance of the petitioners is that they have been deprived of from their valuable right, title and interest over the land in question by the order under challenge passed behind their back sans opportunity of hearing accorded to them.

3. The Writ Petition (B) No. - 2093 of 2021 (Fakira and 12 others Vs. State of UP and 4 others) is treated as a leading file in the batch of the cases as captioned above and, accordingly, remaining cases are being decided.

4. It is apposite to mention that all writ petitions relate to the land in question situated in village Mustafapur, Thakurdwara, Moradabad. Order dated 19.10.2016 passed by the Consolidation Officer, under challenge, is common in all the writ petitions. Apart from that, in some of the writ petitions i.e. Writ Petition Nos. 1734 of 2021, 2094 of 2021, 2181 of 2021, 310 of 2021 order dated 23.12.2020 and in Writ Petition No. 2394 of 2021 order dated 23.11.2020 and in Writ Petition No. 1233 of 2022 & Writ Petition No. 1071 of 2022 order dated 19.11.2020 passed by the Consolidation Officer are challenged as well whereby name of the petitioners have been ordered to be expunged from the revenue record treating the land in question covered under Section 132 of UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (in brevity UPZA and LR Act).

5. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners, learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha, learned standing counsel representing State respondents and perused the record.

6. In view of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case and order proposed to be passed, this Court proceeds to decide the instant writ petition at admission stage with the consent of the counsel for the parties present, without their respective affidavits (counter and rejoinder), with liberty to the respondents that they may move recall application if any facts, as averred in the instant writ petition are found incorrect or misleading. It is apposite to mentioned that, in maximum writ petitions, respective affidavits could not be exchanged between both the parties despite the direction given by this Court to the parties concerned.

7. The petitioners have invoked extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India challenging the order dated 19.10.2016 and 23.12.2020 passed by the Consolidation Officer under Section 9A (2) of UP Consolidation of Holdings Act (In brevity, "UPCH Act').

8. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that the petitioners are the allottee of the land in question as Sirdar. Subsequently, by operation of law, they became bhumidhar with transferable right under Section 131-A of UPZA and LR Act. Long standing entry made in favour of the petitioners has illegally been disturbed by the order/s under challenge passed by the Consolidation Officer in proceeding under Section 9A(2) of UPCH Act, which was initiated on the basis of the ex-parte report submitted by the Assistant Consolidation Officer. It is furhter submitted that the Consolidation Officer by order/s under challenge, has directed to delete the exchange value of the plot in question and keep the same out of consolidation operation. Aforesaid order was passed behind the back of the petitioners without issuing any notice and without affording them opportunity of hearing. At subsequent stage, the Consolidation Officer has passed fresh order dated 23.12.2020 that too on the basis of the ex-parte report submitted by the Assistant Consolidation Officer/Consolidator. Aforesaid report was registered as well under Section 9A (2) of UP Consolidation of Holdings Act. The Consolidation Officer, vide impugned order dated 23.12.2020, has issued a direction to expunge the name of the recorded tenure holders from the land in question and the same was ordered to be recorded in the name of Ram Ganga under Class 6(2). It is further submitted that even before passing the order dated 23.12.2020 neither any notice has been issued to the petitioners nor opportunity of hearing had been afforded to them.

9. On the pointed query raised to the learned standing counsel qua opportunity of hearing being accorded to the recorded tenure holders whose name are expunged from the revenue record, he has shown his inability to contradict, despite sufficient time granted to him, the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioners.

11. Perusal of the impugned order dated 19.10.2016 and 23.12.2020 reveal that no notice has been issued to the recorded tenure holders. Entire proceeding has been concluded only on the basis of the report submitted by the Assistant Consolidation Officer/Consolidator. In the impugned order dated 23.12.2020, there is an observation that the government counsel for the State has been heard and submitted that in view of the order dated 25.7.2001 passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Hinch Lal Tiwari Vs. Kamala Devi and Ors., AIR 2001 SC 3215, name of the recorded tenure holders were liable to be expunged. There is nothing in the orders dated 19.10.2016 and 23.12.2020 to demonstrate that the version of the recorded tenure holders has also been considered. There is no indication that the present petitioners were heard or afforded an opportunity of hearing before expunging their names from the revenue record.

"5. But the matter does not end here. The possibility of an error creeping in by authority concerned cannot be ruled out. The authority passed order without hearing person adversely affected. In such matters possibility cannot be ruled out that the person affected be possessed of sufficient material by which he may be able to show that the order giving rise to entry in dispute is not a forged one. This requires safeguarding of interest of person adversely affected by correction of entry in revenue papers. This interest of affected person can be safeguarded by providing him a post order opportunity of hearing. This will also exclude possibility of error, which may arise due to want of opportunity of hearing and a possible error will also stand rectified in maintenance of correct revenue entries. For said reason a post order opportunity of hearing is necessary to person adversely affected in cases where an entry is expunged or corrected in revenue records and order correcting entry is passed without affording opportunity of hearing to person adversely affected. Correcting an entry to be based on forged or non-existing order, to which person aggrieved raises an objection that the order of correction has been wrongly passed, the aggrieved person is entitled to be heard after correction being done."

13. Explaining the principle of natural justice in the matter of Canara Bank and others Vs. Shri Debasis Das and others reported in AIR 2003 Supreme Court 2041, Hon'ble Supreme Court has expounded that order passed in violation of natural justice is no final decision on the case. Relevant paragraphs 16 and 21 of the judgment passed in Canara Bank and others (supra) is quoted hereinbelow:

"16. Principles of natural justice are those rules which have been laid down by the Courts as being the minimum protection of the rights of the individual against the arbitrary procedure that may be adopted by a judicial, quasi-judicial and administrative authority while making an order affecting those rights. These rules are intended to prevent such authority from doing injustice.

21. How then have the principles of natural justice been interpreted in the Courts and within what limits are they to be confined? Over the years by a process of judicial interpretation two rules have been evolved as representing the principles of natural justice in judicial process, including therein quasi judicial and administrative process. They constitute the basic elements of a fair hearing, having their roots in the innate sense of man for fair-play and justice which is not the preserve of any particular race or country but is shared in common by all men. The first rule is 'nemo judex in causa sua' or 'nemo debet esse judex in propria causa sua' as stated in (1605) 12 Co.Rep.114 that is, 'no man shall be a judge in his own cause'. Coke used the form 'aliquis non debet esse judex in propria causa quia non potest esse judex at pars' (Co.Litt. 1418), that is, 'no man ought to be a judge in his own case, because he cannot act as Judge and at the same time be a party'. The form 'nemo potest esse simul actor et judex', that is, 'no one can be at once suitor and judge' is also at times used. The second rule is 'audi alteram partem', that is, 'hear the other side'. At times and particularly in continental countries, the form 'audietur at altera pars' is used, meaning very much the same thing. A corollary has been deduced from the above two rules and particularly the audi alteram partem rule, namely 'qui aliquid statuerit parte inaudita alteram actquam licet dixerit, haud acquum facerit' that is, 'he who shall decide anything without the other side having been heard, although he may have said what is right, will not have been what is right' (See Bosewell's case (1605) 6 Co.Rep. 48-b, 52-a) or in other words, as it is now expressed, 'justice should not only be done but should manifestly be seen to be done'. Whenever an order is struck down as invalid being in violation of principles of natural justice, there is no final decision of the case and fresh proceedings are left upon. All that is done is to vacate the order assailed by virtue of its inherent defect, but the proceedings are not terminated."

14. In the case of Ram Bachan Yadav and another Vs. State of UP and others, reported in 2018 (140) RD 39, co-ordinate Bench of this Court has considered the requirement of opportunity of hearing before passing the adverse order against the recorded tenure holder expunging his name from the revenue record. The relevant paragraphs No. 14, 16 and 17 of the judgment in the case of Ram Bachan (supra) are quoted hereinunder:

"14. In the following authorities the Supreme Court has held that even before passing administrative orders affecting rights of parties opportunity of hearing shall be granted :

(1) Ashok v. Union of India, AIR 1997 SC 2298 (It was a case of ban of particular insecticides).

(2) Sahi Ram v. Awtar Singh, AIR 1999 SC 2169 (It was a case of mining lease).

(3) G. Pharmaceuticals v. State of U. P., AIR 2001 SC 3707 (It was a case of black listing of contractor).

(4) H.A. Shakoor v. Union of India, AIR 2002 SC 2423 (It was a case of reduction of category of a contractor).

(5) Director General of Police v. M. Sarkar, [1996] 3 SCR 530 (In this case constables were discharged from service on the ground that they produces a fake list from Employment Exchange without providing opportunity of hearing. Supreme Court approved the order of High Court setting aside discharge order on the ground of denial of opportunity of hearing).

(6) All India S.C. and S.T. Employees Association v. A.A. Jeen, [2001] 2 SCR 1183 (In this case hundreds of employees were affected hence Supreme Court held that they might be served in representative capacity).

(7) Godawat Pan Masala Products v. Union of India, AIR 2004 SC 4057 (In this case it was held that notification prohibiting manufacture and sale etc. of pan masala and gutka was bad in law as it had been issued without providing opportunity to the manufactures of meeting the facts relied upon in the notification in respect of injurious effects of pan masala and gutka).

(8) Canara Bank v. Debasis Das, (2003) 2 LLJ 531 (SC) (In this authority several principles of natural justice expressed in Latin words have been discussed in detail giving their history (since 1215), scope and applicability.

16. Accordingly, it is held that whenever an entry in the revenue record is to be cancelled and substituted particularly when the entry is continuing for more than a year, notice must be given to the party in whose favour entry stands even if prima facie, authority/court concerned (i.e. Deputy Collector/Sub Divisional Officer in most of the cases) is of the opinion that the entry is result of fake order or fraud.

17. Revenue, authorities/courts must remember that a party can in some cases successfully show that entry of his name in the revenue record is correct and not fake or based upon fake order. This question can be decided only and only after hearing the party concerned and likely to be affected."

15. In this conspectus as above, I find substance in the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioners that orders under challenge are passed behind the back of recorded tenure holders who are adversely affected owing to orders passed disturbing the revenue entries made in their favour. There is no indication in the orders impugned passed by the Consolidation Officer qua issuance of notice to the recorded tenure holders and affording them opportunity of hearing. The impugned orders are passed in blatant violation of natural justice and fair play. Long standing entries in the name of the recorded tenure holders, who have conferred their right as bhumidhar-with-transferable right by operation of law under Section 131-A of UPZA and LR Act, cannot be expunged in such a rough and casual manner. Considering the long standing entry based on allotment of land in lease, this Court cannot remain oblivious to the valuable rights vested in the recorded tenure holders and they deserve fair trial to protect their title over the property in question.

16. With this observation, without considering the merits of the case as a averred in the writ petition qua right and title of the petitioners, the present writ petition succeeds and is allowed, on the limited point of opportunity of hearing. The order impugned dated 19.10.2016 and 23.12.2020 are hereby quashed. The matter before the Consolidation Officer is restored to its file. Parties are relegated before the Consolidation Officer to get the matter decided de novo.

17. Petitioners are at liberty to file all the relevant documents and take all possible pleas available to them to defend their right and title over the property in question. The petitioners are hereby directed to submit their complete pleading along with the corroborative evidences in support of their claim before the Consolidation Officer possibly on or before 30.9.2022. The Consolidation Officer, in turn, shall make all endeavour to consider and decide the case expeditiously preferably within a period of five months from September 30, 2022.

18. It is expected that the case of every individual shall be considered and decided by a reasoned and speaking order, in accordance with law, after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned without granting them unnecessary adjournments.

19. Remaining writ petitions in batch of cases as captioned above are decided/ allowed as well in the terms and conditions as discussed above and impugned orders under challenge in said writ petitions are, accordingly, quashed.

THE HON'BLE SAURABH SHYAM SHAMSHERY, J.

Yamuna Singh & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri P.K. Upadhyay, Kalpana Upadhyay

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings along with Criminal Proceedings - U.P. Police Officers of Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 - Rule 14(1); U.P. Police Regulations: Regulation Nos. 486, 492 and 493 - Before taking a decision whether to proceed or not with the departmental inquiry, the concerned authority has to apply mind on facts of the charge in departmental proceedings as well as contents of F.I.R. and the charge if framed in the criminal proceedings and if the authority arrived at a conclusion that departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on, identical set of facts and continuation of departmental proceedings would adversely effect, the case of delinquent or he would be prejudiced, then only, a decision could be taken not to proceed with departmental inquiry till the trial is over. Even thereafter, if there is an inordinate delay in conclusion of trial, after a reasonable time, the concerned authority may review the decision and would have a liberty to proceed with the departmental proceedings. (Para 13, 15)

B. U.P. Police Regulations: Regulation Nos. 486 - The Regulation 486(II) would come into picture when a complaint is made to police authority against any police personnel about his involvement in a non-cognizable offence, and the police authority would be at liberty to lodge an F.I.R. or initiate departmental proceedings and for that purpose, preliminary inquiry has to be conducted. So far as report of cognizable of-fence is concerned, procedure is prescribed u/Regulation 486(I) that police investigation be carried on and in case final report is accepted, departmental inquiry can be initiated, however, it is now mandatory to register F.I.R. where the in-formation discloses commission of cognizable offence and further there may be a different situation when criminal investigation is initiated on an F.I.R. lodged by complainant/victim and departmental proceedings are initiated separately on same or similar facts and in these circumstances, the department has also liberty to take a decision in terms of Regulation 492 and 493 as well as considering the judgment of Capt. M. Paul Anthony (infra), which lays down the factors to be considered for continuation/staying of departmental proceedings in case of simultaneous criminal proceedings. (Para 16)

C. Standard of proof - The standard of proof required in a departmental proceedings and in a criminal case is different, as the proof required in a departmental proceedings is one of preponderances of probability whereas in a criminal case, charge has to be proved by prosecution beyond reasonable doubt and further that the evidence led in the departmental inquiry could not be read in a criminal case. A criminal trial is considered to be commenced only before a Court of Sessions u/Chapter XVIII of Cr.P.C. when u/s 226 (opening case of prosecution) after commitment of the case u/s 209 Cr.P.C., therefore, till proceedings are reached upto that stage, Regulations No. 492 and 493 have no role. (Para 7, 17)

In the present case, in criminal case, investigation is still not concluded, therefore, as held earlier, stage has still not come for consideration of Regulations No. 492 and 493. The contents of charge in the departmental proceedings are referred in para 11 of this judgment that are of negligence and due process was not followed by the petitioners when victim was kept under detention, so much as no medical facility was provided as well as he was not produced before the Magistrate within 24 hours as prescribed under Criminal Procedure Code whereas in the first part of F.I.R., there was no allegation against petitioners, however, in later part of F.I.R., an allegation against the petitioners was also made that deceased was kept under detention illegally and no medical treatment was given to him. (Para 19)

Therefore, it cannot be said that departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on absolutely identical set of facts, though, similar to some extent. In the memo of charge, proposed witnesses are mentioned, however, till date investigation is not concluded. Therefore, outcome of the investigation is not on record and details of proposed witnesses are unknown at present stage. (Para 20)

D. At this stage, there is no bar to continue with the departmental proceedings. At this stage to take a definite view that proposed witnesses, if any, be identical in the criminal case would not be a correct approach and since trial is not commenced till date and therefore, even the contents of Regulation No. 492 and 493 does not bar to continue with the departmental proceedings. However, during proceedings, the petitioners are at liberty, in case investigation is concluded and further in case any charge-sheet is filed, and the proposed witnesses are same and the petitioners are able to show that continuance of departmental proceedings would cause prejudice to them, the concerned authority, if such departmental proceedings are not concluded, would be under obligation to consider grievance of the petitioners and at that stage, appropriate decision could be taken to continue with the departmental inquiry or not. Till that time, the respondents are directed to proceed further with the departmental proceedings. (Para 21, 22, 23)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. The legal issue which requires consideration of this Court is that : "whether departmental disciplinary proceedings initiated under Rule (14) 1 of U.P. Police Officers of Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (for short "Rules, 1991") can proceed simultaneously along with criminal proceedings initiated in pursuance of a first information lodged against same delinquent, arising out of same or similar facts?'.

2. Sri P.K. Upadhyay, learned counsel for petitioners and Sri G.N. Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents have relied upon different judgments passed by this Court and Supreme Court in support of their respective submissions. The submission of learned counsel for petitioners is that, there is an absolute bar to proceed with departmental disciplinary proceedings till the trial arising out of criminal proceedings is concluded, whereas stand of the State is that bar, if any, is not absolute. Both counsel have placed different interpretation of Regulations 486, 492, and 493 of Uttar Pradesh Police Regulations in their favour.

3. Learned counsel for petitioners has relied upon judgment passed by the coordinate Bench at Lucknow in Sanjay Rai Vs. State of U.P. and others and other connected cases, 2016 LawSuit(All) 3133 wherein it has been held that :-

"28. From the above discussion, the protections made available to police officers in departmental proceedings, where the offence, apart from being one under Section 7 of the Act 1861 is also a cognizable or a non-cognizable offence under the Criminal Law, becomes clear. In the event of a cognizable offence, it is mandatory to lodge an F.I.R. In a case involving a cognizable offence the protections under Regulation 486(I) are available as mentioned hereinabove, i.e. police officer cannot be subjected to disciplinary action unless an FIR is lodged, investigation is done, there is reason to believe that the charge is true, but, on account of insufficiency of evidence or for any other reason, final report is submitted and is accepted under Section 173 Cr.P.C. Unless this happens, the departmental proceedings cannot go on. Furthermore, if a chargesheet is filed in the criminal case, that is the charges are not only believed to be true but there is evidence to establish the same then also the disciplinary proceedings cannot go on, as, the intent of the regulations is that the police personnel should have the benefit of a trial by a competent Court of Criminal Jurisdiction so as to protect them from mala fide action. There is nothing in the regulations which permits the holding of a departmental inquiry where a chargesheet has been filed for commission of a cognizable criminal offence before a Court of competent Criminal jurisdiction.

29. In this context the judgments of the Supreme Court in the case of State of Punjab vs Raj Kumar, (1988) 1 SCC 701; State of U.P. and others vs Surender Pal, (1989) 2 SCC 470; and State of U.P and others vs. Babu Ram Upadhyay, AIR 1961 SC 751, where the Supreme Court had the occasion to consider the object and purport of regulation 486 of the UP Police regulations and a similar provision as was existing in the State of Punjab, were considered, may be referred. The Supreme Court in the case of Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra) mentioned the object behind Regulation 486 of the U P Police regulations in para 30 which reads as under :

"30. Now what is the object of rule I of para. 486 of the Police Regulations? In our opinion, it is conceived not only to enable the Superintendent of Police to gather information but also to protect the interests of subordinate officers against whom departmental trial is sought to be held. After making the necessary investigation under chapter XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code, the Superintendent of Police may as well come to the conclusion that the officer concerned is innocent, and on that basis drop the entire proceedings. He may also hold that it is a fit case for criminal prosecution, which, under certain circumstances, an honest officer against whom false charges are framed may prefer to face than to submit himself to a departmental trial. Therefore, the rules are conceived in the interest of the department as well as the officer. From the stand point of the department as well as the officer against whom departmental inquiry is sought to be initiated, the preliminary inquiry is very important and it serves a real purpose. Here the setting aside of the order of dismissal will not affect the public in general and the only consequence will be that the officer will have to be proceeded against in the manner prescribed by the rules. ..."

41. Regulation 490 lays down the procedure for holding departmental proceedings. To the extent the procedure laid down therein is in conflict with the procedure prescribed in the Rules of 1991, same stands superseded for the reasons already mentioned earlier.

42. As far as Regulation 492 is concerned, though the same is not directly involved herein, but suffice it to say that it has been held to be directory, and not mandatory, by a Division Bench of this court in the case of Vijay Shanker Tiwari v. State of U.P. & ors., 1996 (14) LCD 126 which has been followed by the Full Bench of the Delhi High Court in the case of Commissioner of Police v. Sukhbeer Singh , 2014 SCC Online Delhi Delhi 1985.

43. As far as Regulation 493 is concerned, though the same is not directly attracted in the present case, nevertheless, it needs to be mentioned that there being nothing to the contrary contained in the Rules of 1991, the same is still binding upon the departmental officials, therefore, it is not open for the Superintendent of Police in the course of departmental proceedings against a police officer who has been tried judicially to re-examine the truth of any fact in issue at his judicial trial and the finding of the court on this count must be taken as final. As far as purport of the Ist part of Regulation 493 is concerned, it will depend upon the facts of a case, as, if a police officer is exonerated on the ground of insufficiency of evidence and the offence not being proved beyond reasonable doubt, which is the standard of proof applicable in criminal trials then it would be a moot point as to how far the observations or findings of the court, would be binding upon a Superintendent of Police in a departmental action, specially in view of the recitals contained in Clause (c) of Regulation 493. As far as Clause (a) and (b) of Regulation 493 are concerned a word of caution needs to be sounded as in view of the ratio in Kedar Nath Yadav's case (supra), the Superintendent of Police would not be justified in passing an order of dismissal straightway on the ground of conviction and sentence to rigorous imprisonment of a police officer regarding a criminal offence, as, the conduct leading to such conviction would have to be considered in view of Article 311(2)(c) of the Constitution of India to which the Regulations are subject, as mentioned in Regulation 477. In fact, they would be subject to it even otherwise.

44. As far as the entitlement of the department to proceed departmentally after judicial trial, is concerned, if it has resulted in conviction, then in view of Article 311(2)(c) of the Constitution action can be taken on the basis of the conduct leading to his conviction, but not otherwise. In this regard the Department does not have to wait for expiry of the period for filing a criminal appeal nor for a decision thereon, as this would be contrary to Article 311(2)(c) of the Constitution as held in Kedar Nath Yadav's case (supra). In the event of an acquittal Clause (c) of Regulation 493 would apply.

45. Thus, on a survey of the relevant provisions referred hereinabove it is evident that except in the case of non-cognizable offences, if an act constitutes an offence under Section 7 of the Act 1861 as also a cognizable offence under Criminal Law, no departmental action can be undertaken unless the eventualities mentioned in Regulation 486(I), specially Clause (6) thereof, are satisfied. In a case where chargesheet is filed such departmental action cannot be taken till the conclusion of the judicial trial. After its conclusion it can be held in the case of a conviction on the basis of conduct leading to such conviction and in the case of acquittal or discharge, in terms of Clause (c) of Regulation 493 keeping in mind the dictum of the Supreme Court in Kedar Nath Yadav's case (supra).

46. As far as the judgment of a Single Judge Bench of this Court in Case of Surendra Singh v. State of U.P., rendered in Writ Petition No.1735(SS) of 2011 on 6.1.2012, is concerned, in the said judgment the provisions of Regulation 483 and 486, though referred, its purport, object and effect have not been considered. Moreover, in view of the above discussion, the said judgment does not help the cause of the respondent, specially as the view taken herein is supported by a subsequent Division Bench judgment rendered in the case of Shiv Lal Sonkar v. the State of U.P., 2014 (107) ALR 91, as also, a Single Judge decision reported in AIR 1968 Alld. 20, U.P. Government v. Ramakant Shukla, wherein it was also held that departmental action means entire departmental proceedings, and not merely punishment."

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners has further relied upon a judgment of coordinate Bench in the case of Mool Chand Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ A No. 6405 of 2021, decided on 02.08.2021 and relevant paragraph Nos. 14 and 15 thereof are extracted hereinbelow :-

"14. Bare perusal of Regulations 492 and 493 would go to show that whenever a police officer has been judicially tried, the Superintendent must await the decision of the judicial proceeding, if any, before deciding whether further departmental action is necessary. Regulation 493 mentions that it will not be permissible for the Superintendent of Police in the course of a departmental proceeding against a Police Officer who has been tried judicially to re-examine the truth of any facts in issue at his judicial trial and the finding of the Court on these facts must be taken as final. Division Bench of this Court in the Case of Kedar Nath Yadav Vs. State of U.P. 2005(3) E.& C 1955, while considering these very Regulations, has taken the view, that even after enforcement of 1991 Rules, these two Regulations continue to hold the field.

15. Considering the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, the writ petition is disposed of with direction to the competent authority to decide the issue, as to whether disciplinary enquiry is to continue at all or not, and whether result of criminal trial is to be awaited, keeping in view overall fact and situation as prevailing on the spot, in the light of judgements rendered in Sanjay Rai's case (supra) and Somendra Singh's case (supra) within a period of two months from the date of receipt of copy of the order."

5. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents has relied upon a judgment of coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Rinku Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ A No. 6978 of 2021 decided on 08.10.2021 and relevant paragraphs thereof are quoted below :-

"21. In the light of interpretation given by this Court in the case of Surendra Singh (supra) relating to Regulations 492 & 493 of Police Regulation, this Court finds that submission of learned counsel for the petitioner based upon Regulations 492 & 493 of Police Regulation is misplaced and is not sustainable in law, since in the instant case only charge sheet in the criminal case has been filed, and trial is yet to begin.

22. Now, coming to the second limb of argument that whether disciplinary proceeding and the criminal proceeding can proceed simultaneously where both proceedings have been initiated on the same set of charges and evidence in both the proceedings are identical and shall prejudice the criminal proceeding since petitioner would have to disclose the defence which he wants to take in the criminal proceeding. In the opinion of the Court, the said submission is also misconceived for two reasons; firstly, as detailed above, the charge against the petitioner in the criminal proceeding and disciplinary proceeding are not identical as there is one additional charge in the disciplinary proceeding which has been delineated above. Secondly, to succeed, the petitioner has to demonstrate that charge against the petitioner is grave and involves complicated questions of fact and law, and further if the disciplinary proceeding is continued that would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner.

23. In the case in hand, though a bald averment has been made in the writ petition in paragraph 31 that continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial, there is no pleading in the writ petition as to how continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner.

24. As the petitioner has failed to demonstrate that charge against the petitioner is grave and involves complicated questions of fact and law, and further how the continuance of disciplinary proceeding would prejudice the criminal trial of the petitioner, this Court is not inclined to accept the aforesaid submission of learned counsel for the petitioner. At this stage, it is pertinent to mention that early conclusion of the disciplinary proceeding is good in the interest of the employee as well as the department for the reason that if the employee is exonerated from the charges, he may not be out of service unnecessarily and may be reinstated, and if the employee is found guilty, the department will get rid of such employee who is not worth continuing in the employment."

6. Learned counsel for State has further relied upon another judgment of a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Prakash Ram Arya Vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ A No. 5818 of 2019, decided on 16.04.2019 of which relevant part is extracted hereinbelow :-

"In the facts of the case at hand, the charge against the petitioner is that the petitioner had overstayed the leave without approval and sanction and that he is charge-sheeted in criminal case under Section 302 I.P.C. for hatching criminal conspiracy to eliminate Vishal Williams for having illicit relationship with his wife. The department has set up two witnesses for departmental enquiry; (i) Sub-Inspector (Clerk) to substantiate that the petitioner proceeded on leave and overstayed the leave; (ii) the Investigating Officer of the criminal case to substantiate that petitioner is involved in the commission of the said crime and charge sheet has been filed against the petitioner. Whereas, in the criminal case, there are more than twenty prosecution witnesses in support of the charge.

On specific query, learned counsel for the petitioner is unable to point out as to how the charge in the disciplinary proceedings is based on the same facts and evidence which is subject matter of criminal trial; the witnesses in the disciplinary proceedings and criminal case are entirely different and the only witness, the Investigating Officer who has filed the charge-sheet in the Court is witness in the disciplinary proceedings, to only substantiate that criminal case has been instituted against the petitioner for heinous crime. The charge in disciplinary proceedings is overstayal without information and involvement in heinous crime. Petitioner is a fairly senior officer and being a member of the disciplined force, it is open to the disciplinary authority to proceed in departmental proceedings pending criminal trial. The learned counsel for the petitioner failed to show from the material placed on record as to whether the petitioner would be prejudiced in the criminal trial, in case the disciplinary proceeding is continued and proceeded with.

Having due regard the facts and circumstances of the case, I do not find any merit in the case."

7. Learned Standing Counsel has also placed reliance on another judgment of this Court in the case of Sudesh Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ A No. 9672 of 2018, decided on 10.04.2018. Relevant part is extracted below :-

"In the instant case, however, noticing the fact that cognizance in criminal case has been taken on 6.8.2015 and not much has been proceeded in the criminal case and that the standard of proof required in the departmental proceedings is one of preponderance of probability whereas in a criminal case, the charge has to be proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt, this Court does not find any merit in the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner to postpone the departmental enquiry or to quash the departmental charge-sheet.

In view of the above, no merit is found in the present petition. However, looking to the fact that the charge-sheet has been served upon the petitioner on 9.2.2016 and the petitioner has submitted his reply, the Disciplinary Authority is hereby directed to make an endeavour to conclude the departmental proceedings expeditiously, preferably, within a period of four months from the date of submission of certified copy of this order, provided the petitioner co-operates."

8. Learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents has lastly placed reliance on another judgment passed by the coordinate Bench at Lucknow in the leading case of Surendra Singh S/o Ram Shanker Singh and another Vs. State of U.P. and another, Service Single No. 1735 of 2011, decided on 06.01.2012 of which relevant paragraphs are quoted hereinafter :-

"27. The above exposition of law clearly shows that the term "has been" in simple language means a thing already happened and here the term "judicially tried" means that police officer concerned's trial in the court of law is already complete but the decision is awaited.

28. Similarly Regulation 493 is attracted when trial is complete and judgment of trial court has also come, resulting in recording a finding in favour of police officer. It restrain the competent authority in such matter to create a situation where a contrary finding can be recorded in departmental proceedings vis a vis court's verdict and the Regulation provides that such a contingency should not occur hence it prohibits such a course to be followed by competent authority.

29. Going by the above discussion it becomes apparently clear that situation in the present cases do not attract either Regulation 492 or 493 in both these matters since the only stage at which the criminal cases proceeding presently are that a charge sheet has been filed against petitioners. The petitioners cannot be said to have undergone judicial trial so far. The trial is still awaited. For the purpose of understanding the meaning of word "Trial" one may simply refer to the provisions of Cr.P.C. and that would clearly show that an accused can be said to have tried when evidence by prosecution and defence has already led and matter has been argued before trial court. This itself leaves inescapable conclusion that both these writ petitions at this stage have to fail.

36. From bare perusal of charges levelled in departmental inquiry and criminal case it is evident that though the same emanate from a common incident but charges ex facie are different. In departmental proceeding the charges relates to violation of conduct rules and departmental rules while the charges in criminal case relates to an offence under Section 223 and 224 IPC. One of the basic difference besides others in these two are that in criminal case the element of mens rea, i.e., intention to commit offence is a necessary ingredient which has no place in respect to charges levelled in departmental inquiry. It is also true that evidence in two proceedings may be similar but the procedure of inquiry/trial, the assessment of evidence and other legal principle in two proceedings are totally different.

37. It is now well settled that departmental proceedings can proceed simultaneously with criminal proceedings and there is no bar as such therein as held by the Apex Court in the case of Capt. M. Paul Anthony Vs. Bharat Gold Mines Ltd. & Another 1999 (3) SCC 679 where it has been clearly held that the departmental as well as criminal, both the proceedings, can go on simultaneously as there is no bar in their being conducted simultaneously. The question as to whether during the pendency of criminal proceeding, the departmental proceeding should be stayed depends upon the facts and circumstances of the individual case. In Ajit Kumar Nag Vs. General Manager I.O.C. JT 2005 (8) SC 425, the Apex Court said that the procedure followed in both the cases as well as the subject matter of the departmental enquiry and criminal proceeding has different scope and it cannot not be said that when a criminal proceeding is going on a particular criminal charge, in that regard, the departmental proceeding cannot be allowed to proceed. The same view has been reiterated subsequently, in Chairman/ Managing Director TNCS Corporation Ltd. & others Vs. K. Meerabai JT 2006 (1) SC 444, Suresh Pathrella Vs. Oriental Bank of Commerce AIR 2007 SC 199 and Union of India & others Vs. Naman Singh Shekhawat 2008 (4) SCC 1.

38. Referring to Capt. M. Paul Anthony (supra), recently the Apex Court in Managing Director, State Bank of Hyderabad & another Vs. P. Kata Rao JT 2008 (4) SC 577 observed that the legal principle enunciated to the effect that on the same set of facts, the delinquent shall not be proceeded in a departmental proceeding and in a criminal proceeding simultaneously has been deviated from. It it also said that the dicta laid down by the Apex Court in Capt. M. Paul Anthony (supra), though has remained unshaken but its applicability has been found to be dependent on the facts and situations obtained in each case.

39. Similarly, in the case of Noida Entrepreneurs Assn. Vs. NOIDA & others JT 2007 (2) SC 620, the Court has reproduced the following conclusion deducible from various judgments as noticed in para-22 of the judgment in Capt. M. Paul Anthony (supra), namely :

"(i) Departmental proceedings and proceedings in a criminal case can proceed simultaneously as there is no bar in their being conducted simultaneously, though separately.

(ii) If the departmental proceedings and the criminal case are based on identical and similar set of facts and the charge in the criminal case against the delinquent employee is of a grave nature, which involved complicated questions of law and fact, it would be desirable to stay the departmental proceedings till the conclusion of the criminal case.

(iii) Whether the nature of a charge in a criminal case is grave and whether complicated questions of fact and law are involved in that case, will depend upon the nature of offence, the nature of the case launched against the employee on the basis of evidence and material collected against him during investigation or as reflected in the charge-sheet.

(iv) The factors mentioned at (ii) and (iii) above cannot be considered in isolation to stay the departmental proceedings but due regard has to be given to the fact that the departmental proceedings cannot be unduly delayed.

(v) If the criminal case does not proceed or its disposal is being unduly delayed, the departmental proceedings, even if they were stayed on account of the pendency of the criminal case, can be resumed and proceeded with so as to conclude them at an early date, so that if the employee is found not guilty his honour may be vindicated and in case he is found guilty, the administration may get rid of him at the earliest."

40. A similar view has also been taken in Indian Overseas Bank Vs. P. Ganesan & others AIR 2008 SC 553 and the Court held that where a prayer is made that so long as criminal proceedings are going on, departmental proceeding may not be proceeded, the Court must record a finding that the non grant of stay on departmental proceeding would not only prejudice the delinquent officer, but the matter also involve a complicated question of law. Nothing of that sort has been shown by the learned Counsel for the petitioner in the case in hand.

41. Following the aforesaid authorities of the Apex Court, this Court has taken a similar view in Priti Chauhan vs. State of U.P. & others 2008 (9) ADJ 388.

42. I, therefore, have no hesitation to hold that here is a case where it cannot be said that charges in departmental proceedings are same as in the criminal trial and thus also the submission that departmental inquiry cannot proceed simultaneously, cannot be accepted particularly."

(underline is the emphasis supplied by the learned counsel for respective parties)

9. The facts of the case are that a preliminary inquiry was conducted and thereafter following charge was framed on the petitioners under the above referred Rules, 1991 :-

"मैं आपको निम्नानुसार आरोपों से आरोपित करता हूँ।

11. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

12. The judgments cited on behalf of counsel from both side have proceeded on the basis of a different approach and interpretation to the relevant Regulations bearing No. 486, 492 and 493 of U.P. Police Regulations. For reference, they are mentioned herein :-

"486. When the offence alleged against a police officer amounts to an offence only under Section 7 of the Police Act, there can be no magisterial inquiry under the Criminal Procedure Code. In such cases, and in other cases until and unless a magisterial inquiry is ordered, inquiry will be made under the direction of this Superintendent of Police in accordance with the following rules :

I.- Every information received by the police relating the commission of a cognizable offence by a police officer shall be dealt with in the first place under Chapter XII, Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (2 of 1974) according to law, a case under the appropriate section being registered in the police station concerned provided that -

(1) if the information is received, in the first instance, by a Magistrate and forwarded by the District Magistrate to the police, no case will be registered by the police;

(2) if the information is received, in the first instance by the police, the report required by Section 157, Criminal Procedure Code, shall be forwarded to the District Magistrate, and when forwarding it the Superintendent of Police shall note on it with his own hand what steps are being taken as regards investigation or the reasons for refraining from investigation.

(3) unless investigation is refused by the Superintendent of Police under Section 157(1)(b), Criminal Procedure Code and not ordered by the District Magistrate under Section 159, or unless the District Magistrate orders a magisterial inquiry under Section 159, investigation under Section 159, Criminal Procedure Code, shall be made by a police officer selected by the Superintendent of Police and higher in rank than the officer charged;

(4) on the conclusion of the investigation and before the report required by Section 173, Criminal Procedure Code is prepared, the question whether the officer charged should or should not be sent for trial shall be decided by the Superintendent of Police. Provided that before an officer whose dismissal would require the concurrence of the Deputy Inspector General under paragraph 479 is sent for trial by the Superintendent of Police, the concurrence of the Deputy Inspector General must be obtained;

(5) the charge sheet or final report under Section 173, or Section 169, Criminal Procedure Code, as the case may be, shall be sent to the District Magistrate; if the Superintendent of Police or the Deputy Inspector General had decided against a prosecution, a note by the Superintendent of Police giving the reasons for this decision shall be endorsed on, or attached to the final report;

(6) When the reasons for not instituting a prosecution is that the charge is believed to be baseless, no further action will be necessary; if the charged is believed to be true and a prosecution is not undertaken own to the evidence being considered insufficient or for any other reasons the Superintendent may, when the final report under Section 173, Criminal Procedure Code, has been accepted by the District Magistrate, take departmental action as laid down in paragraph 490.

II. When information of the commission by a police officer of a noncognizable offence (including an offence under Section 29 of the Police Act) is given in the first instance to the police, the Superintendent of Police may, if he sees reason to take action, either (a) proceed departmentally as laid down under head III of this paragraph and in paragraph 490, or (b) as an alternative to, or at any stage of the departmental proceedings, forward a report in writing to the District Magistrate with a request that he will take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(b), Criminal Procedure Code, provided that report against Police Officers of having committed non-cognizable offence will (when made to the police and unless there are special reasons for desiring a magisterial inquiry or formal police investigation under the Code) ordinarily be inquired into departmental and will not ordinarily and then only if be referred to the District Magistrate until departmental inquiry is complete, a criminal prosecution is desired.

On receiving information either by means of a report in writing from the Superintendent of Police as laid down above, or otherwise as laid down in Section 190(1)(a) and (c), Criminal Procedure, of the commission by a Police Officer of a noncognizable offence, the District Magistrate may, subject to the general provisions of Chapter XIII, Part B, Criminal Procedure Code -

(a) proceed with the case under Chapter XVI Criminal Procedure Code;

(b) order an inquiry by a Magistrate or an investigation by the police under Section 202, Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (2 of 1974); or an investigation by the police under Section 155(2);

(c) decline to proceed under Section 203, Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (2 of 1974).

If an investigation by the police is ordered, it would be made under Section 155(3), Criminal Procedure Code by an officer selected by the Superintendent of Police and higher in rank that the officer charged and all further proceedings will be exactly as laid down for cognizable cases in paragraph 486 (1), (4), (5) and (6) above.

If no investigation by the police is ordered, and the District Magistrate, after or without magisterial inquiry, declines to proceed criminally with the case, the Superintendent of Police will decide, in accordance with the principles set forth in paragraph 486 (1) (6) above and subject to the orders contained in paragraph 494, whether departmental proceedings under paragraph 490 are required.

III.- When a Superintendent of Police sees reasons to take action or information given to him, or on his own knowledge or suspicion, that a Police Officer subordinate to him committed an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act or non-cognizable offence (including an offence under Section 29 of the Police Act) of which he considers it unnecessary at that stage to forward a report in writing to the District Magistrate under Rule II above he will make or cause to be made by an officer senior in rank to the officer charged, a departmental inquiry sufficient to test the truth of the charge. On the conclusion of this inquiry he will decide whether further action is necessary and if so, whether the officer charged should be departmentally tried, or whether the District Magistrate should be moved to take cognizance of the case under the Criminal Procedure Code; provided that before the District Magistrate is moved by the Superintendent of Police to proceed criminally with a case under Section 29 of the Police Act or other non-cognizable section of the law against an Inspector or Sub-Inspector, the concurrence of the Deputy Inspector General must be obtained. Prosecution under Section 29 should rarely be instituted and only when the offence cannot be adequately dealt with under Section 7.

492. Whenever a police officer has been judicially tried, the Superintendent must await the decision of the judicial appeal, if any, before deciding whether further departmental action is necessary.

493. It will not be permissible for the Superintendent of Police in the course of a departmental proceeding against a Police Officer who has been tried judicially to re-examine the truth of any facts in issue at his judicial trial, and the finding of the Court on these facts be taken as final.

Thus, (a) if the accused has been convicted and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment, no departmental trial will be necessary, as the fact that he has been found deserving of rigorous imprisonment must be taken as conclusively providing his unfitness for the discharge of his duty within the meaning of Section 7 of the Police Act. In such cases the Superintendent of Police will without further proceedings ordinarily pass an order of dismissal, obtaining the formal order of the Deputy Inspector General when necessary under paragraph 479(a). Should he wish to do otherwise he must refer the matter to the Deputy Inspector General of the range for orders.

(b) If the accused has been convicted but sentenced to a punishment less than of rigorous imprisonment a departmental trial will be necessary, if further action is thought desirable, but the question in issue at this trial will be merely (1) whether the offence of which the accused has been convicted amounts to an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act, (2) if so, what punishment should be imposed. In such cases the Superintendent of Police will (i) call upon the accused to show cause why any particular penalty should not be inflicted on him, (ii) record anything the accused officer has to urge against such penalty without allowing him to dispute the findings of the Court, and (iii) write a finding and order in the ordinary way dealing with any plea raised by the accused officer which is relevant to (1) and (2) above.

(c) If the accused has been judicially acquitted or discharged, and the period for filing an appeal has elapsed and / or no appeal has been filed the Superintendent of Police must at once reinstate him if he has been suspended; but should the findings of the Court not be inconsistent with the view that the accused has been guilty of negligence in, or unfitness for, the discharge of his duty within the meaning of Section 7 of the Police Act, the Superintendent of Police may refer the matter to the Deputy Inspector General and ask for permission to try the accused departmentally for such negligence or unfitness."

13. The judgments relied upon on behalf of petitioners have taken a strict interpretation of the above referred police Regulations that in a case where on basis of same or similar act, simultaneous proceedings i.e. departmental inquiry as well as investigation in pursuance of F.I.R., are undertaken there would be an absolute bar for the department to proceed with the departmenal inquiry till the conclusion of the criminal trial. However, the approach in the judgments relied upon by the respondents are on the basis of the interpretation of word "trial' and that in a case where facts are not only same, but similar also, the departmental proceedings can go on simultaneously with the police investigation if the delinquent fails to demonstrate that in such case, he would be prejudice. The petitioners' side have mainly relied upon a judgment passed by the coordinate Bench at Lucknow in Sanjay Rai (supra), wherein the coordinate Bench has taken a strict view of the interpretation of the above referred Rules. However, Bench missed to take note of judgment passed by the Supreme Court in the case of Capt. M. Paul Anthony Vs. Bharat Gold Mines Ltd. & Another 1999 (3) SCC 679 which has been taken consideration by the coordinate Bench in the case of Surendra Singh (supra) which has been heavily relied upon by learned Standing Counsel. The conclusion in Capt. M. Paul Anthony (supra) despite being repetition are mentioned hereinafter :-

"(i) Departmental proceedings and proceedings in a criminal case can proceed simultaneously as there is no bar in their being conducted simultaneously, though separately.

(ii) If the departmental proceedings and the criminal case are based on identical and similar set of facts and the charge in the criminal case against the delinquent employee is of a grave nature, which involved complicated questions of law and fact, it would be desirable to stay the departmental proceedings till the conclusion of the criminal case.

(iii) Whether the nature of a charge in a criminal case is grave and whether complicated questions of fact and law are involved in that case, will depend upon the nature of offence, the nature of the case launched against the employee on the basis of evidence and material collected against him during investigation or as reflected in the charge-sheet.

(iv) The factors mentioned at (ii) and (iii) above cannot be considered in isolation to stay the departmental proceedings but due regard has to be given to the fact that the departmental proceedings cannot be unduly delayed.

(v) If the criminal case does not proceed or its disposal is being unduly delayed, the departmental proceedings, even if they were stayed on account of the pendency of the criminal case, can be resumed and proceeded with so as to conclude them at an early date, so that if the employee is found not guilty his honour may be vindicated and in case he is found guilty, the administration may get rid of him at the earliest."

14. The coordinate Bench in Sanjay Rai (supra) has also placed reliance on State of U.P. and others Vs. Babu Ram Upadhyay (5 Judges), (1961) 2 SCR 679 : AIR 1961 SC 751, whereby majority has considered interest of both department of police as well as of delinquent that before taking decision to continue with departmental inquiry, a preliminary inquiry was held to be important. The Court was considering that on a complaint to police on administrative side, the department may take action or conduct inquiry as envisaged in Regulations. It would be relevant to quote paragraph No. 50 from the above referred judgment (minority):-

"50. It appears to us that the object of Rule 486 is that the authority concerned should first make a preliminary inquiry to find out if there is a case against the officer complained against either to proceed in a court or to take departmental action. The investigation prescribed by Rule 486 is only for this purpose. Incidentally it may be that after such an investigation, the authority concerned may come to the conclusion that there in no case either to send the case to court or to hold a departmental inquiry. But that in our opinion is what would happen in any case of complaint against a public servant in any department of Government. No authority entitled to take action against a public servant would straightaway proceed to put the case in court or to hold a departmental inquiry. It seems to us axiomatic if a complaint is received against any public servant of any department, that the authority concerned would first always make some kind of a preliminary inquiry to satisfy itself whether there is any case for taking action at all; but that is in our opinion for the satisfaction of the authority and has nothing to do with the protection afforded to a public servant under Article 311. Rule 486 of the Police Regulations also in our opinion is meant for this purpose only and not meant to carry out the object contained in Article 311(2). The opportunity envisaged by Article 311(2) will be given to the public servant after the authority has satisfied itself by preliminary inquiry that there is a case for taking action. Therefore, Rule 486 which is only meant to gather materials for the satisfaction of the authority concerned, whether to take action or not, even though a statutory rule cannot be considered to be mandatory as that would be forging a further fetter than those contained in Article 311 on the power of the Governor to dismiss at pleasure. We are therefore of opinion that Rule 486 is only directory and failure to comply with it strictly or otherwise will not vitiate the subsequent proceedings."

15. From the above discussion, the Court is of the view that before reaching to any conclusion, a holistic approach has to be taken including the purport of the above referred relevant Regulations of U.P. Police Regulations as well as the judgments referred hereinbefore especially the judgment passed by the Supreme Court in Capt. M. Paul Anthony and Babu Ram Upadhyay (supra). Therefore, before taking a decision whether to proceed or not with the departmental inquiry, the concerned authority has to apply mind on facts of the charge in departmental proceedings as well as contents of F.I.R. and the charge if framed in the criminal proceedings and if the authority arrived at a conclusion that departmental proceedings and criminal case are based on identical set of facts and continuation of departmental proceedings would adversely effect, the case of delinquent or he would be prejudiced, then only, a decision could be taken not to proceed with departmental inquiry till the trial is over. Even thereafter, if there is an inordinate delay in conclusion of trial, after a reasonable time, the concerned authority may review the decision and would have a liberty to proceed with the departmental proceedings.

16. The Regulation 486(II) would come into picture when a complaint is made to police authority against any police personnel about his involvement in a non-cognizable offence, and the police authority would be at liberty to lodge an F.I.R. or initiate departmental proceedings and for that purpose, preliminary inquiry has to be conducted. So far as report of cognizable offence is concerned, procedure is prescribed under Regulation 486 (I) that police investigation be carried on and in case final report is accepted, departmental inquiry can be initiated, however, in view of judgment of the Supreme Court in case of Lalita Kumari Vs. Government of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2008) 14 SCC 337, it is now mandatory to register F.I.R. where the information discloses commission of cognizable offence and further there may be a different situation when criminal investigation is initiated on an F.I.R. lodged by complainant/victim and departmental proceedings are initiated separately on same or similar facts and in these circumstances, the department has also liberty to take a decision in terms of Regulation 492 and 493 as well as considering the judgment of Capt. M. Paul Anthony (supra).

17. The above observation of this Court based on the basic difference in regard to standard of proof required in a departmental proceedings and in a criminal case which is different so much as the proof required in a departmental proceedings is one of preponderances of probability whereas in a criminal case, charge has to be proved by prosecution beyond reasonable doubt and further that the evidence led in the departmental inquiry could not be read in a criminal case. A criminal trial is considered to be commenced only before a Court of Sessions under Chapter XVIII of Cr.P.C. when under Section 226 (opening case of prosecution) after commitment of the case under Section 209 Cr.P.C., therefore, till proceedings are reached upto that stage, Regulations No. 492 and 493 have no role.

18. In the above background, the Court proceeded to consider the contents of charge framed against the petitioners in departmental proceedings as well as the contents of F.I.R. lodged against the petitioners.

19. On instructions, it has been stated at Bar by learned counsel for parties that in criminal case, investigation is still not concluded, therefore, as held earlier stage has still not come for consideration of Regulations No. 492 and 493. The contents of charge in the departmental proceedings are referred in paragraph No. 11 of this judgment that are of negligence and due process was not followed by the petitioners when victim was kept under detention, so much as no medical facility was provided as well as he was not produced before the Magistrate within 24 hours as prescribed under Criminal Procedure Code whereas in the first part of F.I.R., there was no allegation against petitioners, however, in later part of F.I.R., an allegation against the petitioners was also made that deceased was kept under detention illegally and no medical treatment was given to him.

21. At this stage to take a definite view that proposed witnesses, if any, be identical in the criminal case would not be a correct approach and since trial is not commenced till date and therefore, even the contents of Regulation No. 492 and 493 does not bar to continue with the departmental proceedings. However, during proceedings, the petitioners are at liberty, in case investigation is concluded and further in case any charge sheet is filed, and the proposed witnesses are same and the petitioners are able to show that continuance of departmental proceedings would cause prejudice to them, the concerned authority, if such departmental proceedings are not concluded, would be under obligation to consider grievance of the petitioners and at that stage, appropriate decision could be taken to continue with the departmental inquiry or not.

22. However, at this stage, the Court is of the view that there is no bar to continue with the departmental proceedings.

23. In view of above, the prayers made in this petition are rejected and the respondents are directed to proceed further with the departmental proceedings. However, after filing of the charge sheet, if any, and at the stage of commencement of trial the petitioners would have liberty to bring subsequent event on record in departmental proceedings, that continuation of the departmental proceedings may cause prejudice to them and in that case, the respondents shall take an appropriate decision.

24. In view of above and also considering the law on issue as well as facts of the present case, this writ petition is dismissed with aforesaid observations.

Writ-A No. 12181 of 2022

Harshit Prakash ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment - U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974: Rule 5 - The very language of Rule 5 of 1974 Rules is explicitly clear that it shall apply only in those cases where the government servant dies in harness and his/her spouse is not already employed with the government, only in that case the application for compassionate appointment shall be considered. (Para 6)

It is admitted case of the petitioner that his father was working with the State Government at the time of death of his mother who was already a government servant, therefore, in view of the clear statutory provision of Rule-5 of 1974 Rules, the petitioner is not entitled for being considered on compassionate grounds and therefore his candidature has rightly been rejected by the impugned order. (Para 7)

Perusal of the impugned order dated 17.10.2016 shows that the candidature of the petitioner has not been rejected on the ground of his sound financial status rather has been rejected as the other spouse i.e. father of the petitioner was in government service at the time of death of the deceased (mother of the petitioner) who was also in government service. (Para 8, 9)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Present petition assails order dated 17.10.2016, passed by Director, Directorate of Child Development, Nursing and Nutrition, U.P., Lucknow and orders dated 21.10.2016 and 13.06.2022, passed by District Program Officer, Kanpur Nagar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent no. 1 to 4.

2. Through this petition the petitioner has prayed for the following relief:-

"a) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 17.10.2016 (Annexure - '1' to this writ petition) passed by the respondent no.2 as well as impugned order dated 21.10.2016 and 13.06.2022 (Annexure - '2' & '3' respectively to this writ petition) passed by the respondent no.3.

b) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding upon the respondents to grant compassionate appointment to the petitioner in the respondent department, forthwith."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the mother of the petitioner who was a government servant and was serving as Mukhya Sevika in the office of Child Development Project Kanpur (Pratham), Kanpur Nagar has died on 20.02.2016 while she was in service. The petitioner being the elder son along with two sisters in the family submitted an application for compassionate appointment on 03.05.2016 along with requisite documents. The Director Child Development, Nursing and Nutrition, U.P. Lucknow rejected the petitioner's application for compassionate appointment vide impugned order dated 17.10.2016 and by a consequent order, the District Program Officer Kanpur has also issued impugned order dated 21.10.2016. Thereafter he gave a representation before the authorities that was also rejected vide order dated 13.06.2022 by the District Program Officer, Kanpur.

4. Learned Standing Counsel has opposed the petition submitting that both the parents of the petitioner were in government service. The mother Munni Devi @ Munni Kushwaha who was working as Mukhya Sevika in the office of Child Development Project Kanpur (Pratham), Kanpur Nagar died in the year 2016, however, Shri Umesh Kumar who is the father of the petitioner was working in the State Secretariat, therefore, the authorities found that since the father of the petitioner who is the bread earner of the family was still employed with the State Government, there is no occasion for giving the benefit of compassionate appointment to the petitioner.

5. The compassionate appointment to the dependents of the deceased, government servant is provided under Rule-5 of The U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred as 1974 Rules) which are extracted below:-

"5. Recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased. - (1) In case a Government servant dies in harness after the commencement of these rules and the spouse of the deceased Government servant is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government, one member of his family who is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government shall, on making an application for the purposes, be given a suitable employment in Government service on a post except the post which is within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission, in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules, if such person-

(i) fulfils the educational qualifications prescribed for the post,

(ii) is otherwise qualified for Government service, and

(iii) makes the application for employment within five years from the date of the death of the Government servant:

Provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time limit fixed for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner. (2) As far as possible, such an employment should be given in the same department in which the deceased Government servant was employed prior to his death."

6. Perusal of Rule 5 of 1974 Rules shows that in case the death of the government servant during service after the commencement of the rules and the spouse of the deceased government servant is not already employed under the Central Government or the State Government etc. then on making an application by the dependent of the deceased government servant for the purpose of giving suitable appointment in government service he can be appointed on compassionate ground. The very language of Rule 5 of 1974 Rules is explicitly clear that it shall apply only in those cases where the government servant dies in harness and his/her spouse is not already employed with the government, only in that case the application for compassionate appointment shall be considered.

7. It is admitted case of the petitioner that his father was working with the State Government at the time of death of his mother who was already a government servant, therefore, in view of the clear statutory provision of Rule-5 of 1974 Rules, the petitioner is not entitled for being considered on compassionate grounds and therefore his candidature has rightly been rejected by the impugned order.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner at this stage has drawn attention of the Court towards government order dated 17.06.2014 which is on record at page no. 32 of the petition and has submitted that the appointment under the Rules 5 of 1974 Rules cannot be refused merely on the ground that financial status of the applicant is sound.

9. Perusal of the impugned order dated 17.10.2016 shows that the candidature of the petitioner has not been rejected on the ground of his sound financial status rather has been rejected as the other spouse i.e. father of the petitioner was in government service at the time of death of the deceased (mother of the petitioner) who was also in government service and thus, the authority has rejected the claim of the petitioner on the ground that since the other spouse of the deceased was already in government service at the time of death of the mother of the petitioner, therefore, as per Rule - 5 of 1974 Rules, there was no occasion for providing compassionate appointment to the petitioner.

10. The petition being devoid of merits and is accordingly dismissed.

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment - U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974; The Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness (Twelfth Amendment) Rules, 2021 - Language of Rules is very much clear, which provides that first right of appointment on compassionate ground goes to husband or wife as the case may be in case of death of Government employee. (Para 6)

In the present case, there is no dispute of fact that deceased-employee was married and his wife is alive and also claiming appointment on compassionate ground. Therefore, under the Rules, she is only entitled for appointment and no relief can be granted to petitioner-sister, which is at Serial No. 4 in order of hierarchy given in Rules, 1974 read with amended Rules 2021, in case deceased Government employee is unmarried. Therefore, petition is having no force and liable to be dismissed. (Para 7)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for respondent no. 1, Sri Yashwant Singh, learned counsel for respondent nos. 2 and 3 and Sri S.N. Pandey, learned counsel for respondent no. 4.

2. Present petition has been filed with following prayers;

"(i). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to decide the representation dated 01.12.2021 for compassionate appointment of the petitioner within a month.

(ii). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to grant compassionate appointment to the petitioner."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that father of petitioner was working on the post of "Safai Karmchari Ward 99/107" at Nagar Nigam, Kanpur and during the course of service, he died. After his death, brother of petitioner (son of deceased- employee) has been granted appointment on compassionate ground under the provisions of U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1974") as "Safai Karmchari" to cater the need of all family members dependent upon deceased-employee including petitioner- sister. Unfortunately, in a road accident, brother of petitioner also died on 16.10.2021. After his death, her mother has given consent for appointment of petitioner on compassionate ground. Petitioner has filed representation dated 01.12.2021 before respondent no. 2 for appointment, which is pending for decision, therefore, a direction may be issued to respondent no. 2 to decide the same and appoint the petitioner on compassionate ground under the provisions of Rules, 1974 amended vide The Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying In Harness (Twelfth Amendment) Rules, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2021).

4. Learned counsels for the respondents objected the submissions raised by learned counsel for the petitioner and submitted that as per Rules, 1974 readwith amended Rules 2021, definition of family is given in order of hierarchy. After death of deceased- employee, first right goes to husband or wife, second right goes to sons/ adopted sons, third right goes to daughters (including adopted daughters) and widowed daughter-in-law and fourth right goes to unmarried brothers, unmarried sisters and widowed mother dependent on the deceased Government servant, if the deceased Government servant was unmarried. He next submitted that in the present case, there is no dispute that deceased- employee was married and his wife has also raised a claim for appointment on compassionate ground after death of her husband. Therefore, as per Rules, 1974 readwith amended Rules 2021, petitioner has no right of appointment after death of deceased- employee and respondent no. 4 is only having right to be appointed on the compassionate ground after death of her husband.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner could not dispute the aforesaid facts and only submitted that earlier appointment was given to her brother to cater the need of all family members dependant upon her father, therefore, petitioner is also entitled to get appointment after death of her brother.

6. I have considered the rival submissions raised by learned counsel for the parties as well as perused the record and Rules, 1974 readwith amended Rules 2021. Language of Rules is very much clear, which provides that first right of appointment on compassionate ground goes to husband or wife as the case may be in case of death of Government employee. For ready reference, Rules, 1974 is being quoted hereinbelow;

(v) aforementioned relations of such missing Government servant who has been declared as "dead" by the competent court:	(v) aforementioned relations of such missing Government servant who has been declared as "dead" by the competent court:
Provided that if a person belonging to any of the above mentioned relations of the deceased Government servant is not available or is found to be physically and mentally unfit and thus ineligible for employment in Government service, then only in such situation the word "family" shall also include the grandsons and the unmarried granddaughters of the deceased Government servant dependent on him.	Provided that if a person belonging to any of the above mentioned relations of the deceased Government servant is not available or is found to be physically and mentally unfit and thus ineligible for employment in Government service, then only in such situation the word "family" shall also include the grandsons and the unmarried granddaughters of the deceased Government servant dependent on him.

By order,

(Dr. Devesh Chaturvedi)
Additional Chief Secretary.

7. In the present case, there is no dispute of fact that deceased- employee was married and his wife is alive and also claiming appointment on compassionate ground. Therefore, under the Rules, she is only entitled for appointment and no relief can be granted to petitioner- sister, which is at Serial No. 4 in order of hierarchy given in Rules, 1974 readwith amended Rules 2021, in case deceased Government employee is unmarried. Therefore, petition is having no force and liable to be dismissed.

8. So far as claim of petitioner about her maintenance is concerned, it is open for her to seek appropriate remedy against respondent no. 4, if any Rule provides for the same.

9. Accordingly, writ petition is dismissed with aforesaid observations. No order as to costs.

Special Appeal No. 395 of 2022

Rajeev Kumar ...Appellant
Versus

Counsel for the Appellant:
Lalta Prasad Misra

Counsel for the Respondents:
Amrendra Nath Tripathi, C.S.C.

A. Administrative Law – Nomination of Chairman – Jurisdiction - U.P. Technical Education Act, 1962 - Scheme of Administration: Clause 7 - It is observed that cancellation of earlier panel and preparation of fresh panel because the earlier panel was non-existent, is not acceptable for the reason that the occasion for the Committee of Management to prepare new panel did not arise in this case as the State Government had not taken any decision on the first panel before the second panel was proposed by the Committee of Management. (Para 28)

(1) Interpretation - The answer to the point for determination that whether in terms of the provisions contained in Clauses 7(2)(a) and 7(2)(b) of the Scheme of Administration, the State Government could have acted upon the earlier panel and whether appointment from the said panel could have been made, though one of the persons of panel suggested by the Committee of Management of the institution, had died., lies in correctly interpreting the provision contained in Clause 7(2)(b) of the Scheme of Administration. The said provision clearly states that in case no one is nominated as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution from amongst the persons of the panel suggested by the Committee of Management, the Committee of Management shall submit a second panel containing three names. (Para 17, 18)

(2) Jurisdiction to recommend second panel - A plain reading of Clause 7(2)(b) of the Scheme of Administration reveals that second panel can be recommended/sent/proposed by the Committee of Management only if the State Government does not nominate any person from the first panel. It would simply mean that the Committee of Management will assume jurisdiction to recommend the second panel if the State Government rejects all the names in the first panel and refuses to nominate anyone of them. (Para 19)

In the instant case, the process of nomination of Chairman in case of any vacancy in the office of Chairman will start from the resolution of the Committee of Management proposing a panel of three persons, as per Clause 7(2)(a) of the approved Scheme of Administration. The process further proceeds with the recommendation to be made by the Director, Technical Education, U.P. on the panel suggested/sent/proposed by the Committee of Management and this process comes to an end only once the decision on the panel proposed/sent/suggested by the Committee of Management and on the recommendation made by the Director, Technical Education, is taken by the State Government. The process thus terminates only once the decision is taken by the State Government. In our considered opinion, the Committee of Management will assume jurisdiction to propose/send/suggest the second panel only on completion/termination of the process which commences proposal/submission of first panel by the Committee of Management. (Para 20)

In the present case, before the process which commenced on resolution of the Committee of Management proposing three names in the first panel could logically culminate in the decision by the State Government, the Committee of Management cancelled the earlier panel and proposed a new panel. Such a course, is not envisaged, neither is it provided for in the Clauses 7(2)(a) and 7(2)(b) of the approved Scheme of Administration. (Para 21)

(3) "Not taking decision" and "not nominating" are two different acts - Forwarding the name of three different persons as second and subsequent panel is not envisaged in a situation where the State Government does not take decision. It is rather permissible only if the State Government takes a decision and does not nominate any of the person from the panel. Clause 7(2)(b) states that the Committee of Management shall recommend second panel in case the State Government does not nominate a person to be Chairman. Thus, pending decision by the State Government Committee of Management will not get authority to recommend the second panel. (Para 24)

(4) Insistence of the learned counsel representing the respondent No. 1-petitioner that it will be incumbent upon the State Government to take decision to nominate the Chairman only if the panel consists of three persons in all circumstances and situations, is thus, in our opinion, not correct. Any panel prepared by the Committee of Management and forwarded after recommendation by the Director, Technical Education will exhaust only on decision on the said panel is taken by the State Government. (Para 25)

(5) By shrinkage of panel of three persons to two, no individual right gets infringed - To be included in the panel for nomination as Chairman by the Committee of Management cannot be said to be right of any individual. It is the right of the Committee of Management conferred on it by the Clause 7(2) of the approved Scheme of Administration to prepare a panel of three persons of its choice. Since the remaining two persons on the first panel were also the persons of choice of the Committee of Management, as such by shrinkage of panel of three persons to two, no individual right gets infringed. Even if, on account of such exigency as death the panel shrinks to two persons, before final decision for nomination is taken by the State Government, the person who may be nominated as Chairman will still be the choice of Committee of Management. (Para 26, 27)

B. Independent application of mind – It has been argued that the decision of the State Government cannot be said to be the decision emanating from independent application of mind by the authority who took decision. It has been observed by the Court that different departments of the State Government have been created for convenience. Any decision of the State Government in a particular department, even if it is based on opinion of Law Department or any other department, cannot be said to be vitiated merely because opinion of some other department was taken before arriving at the decision in question. (Para 29)

C. Absence of challenge to the order dated 13.01.2021 – It is argued that in absence of challenge to the order dated 13.01.2021, passed by the Director, Technical Education whereby a fresh panel was invited, the procedure which followed thereafter cannot be faulted with. Court held that the letter of the Director, Technical Education, dated 13.01.2021 was only an intermediate step in the process which culminated in the decision of the State Government finally taken on 12.05.2022 whereby the appellant was nominated as a Chairman of the Committee of Management. (Para 30, 31)

Special appeal allowed. (E-4)

Present special appeal lays a challenge to the judgment and order dated 07.09.2022, passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-C No. 2957 of 2022 which setting aside the order of the State Government dated 12.05.2022, nominating the appellant as Chairman of the Committee of Management of Town Polytechnic, Ballia.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya, J.
Hon'ble Saurabh Srivastava, J.)

1. This intra-court appeal filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court lays a challenge to the judgment and order dated 07.09.2022, passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-C No.2957 of 2022 whereby after setting aside the order of the State Government dated 12.05.2022, nominating the appellant as Chairman of the Committee of Management of Town Polytechnic, Ballia, a direction has been given to the Committee of Management of Town Polytechnic, Ballia to take decision afresh for preparing a panel of three persons and to forward the same to the Director, Technical Education, U.P. who, in turn, has been directed to forward the same to the State Government whereupon the State Government has been directed to take decision nominating Chairman of the Committee of Management of the said institution.

2. Heard Dr. L.P. Mishra along with Ms. Neha Chaddha and Sri Prafulla Tewari, learned counsel representing the appellant, Sri Anand Kumar Singh, learned State Counsel representing the State-respondents, Sri Amrendra Nath Tripathi along with Sri Anas Sherwani, learned counsel representing the respondent No.1-petitioner and perused the record available before us on this Special Appeal.

3. Before adverting to the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel representing the parties, it is apposite to note certain facts of the case which are necessary for appropriate adjudication of the issues involved in this case.

4. Town Polytechnic, Ballia is an institution which is governed by the provisions of U.P. Technical Education Act, 1962 and the regulations framed under the said Act. The State has approved a Scheme of Administration which, inter-alia, provides for constitution of the Committee of Management to be headed by a Chairman who is to be nominated by the State Government.

5. The controversy in this case commenced with the occurrence of a vacancy in the office of the Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution. Clause 7 of the approved Scheme of Administration provides that Chairman of the Committee of Management shall be nominated by the State Government. As per Clause 7(2)(अ) of the Scheme of Administration, the Committee of Management will send a panel of three persons for appointment of Chairman of the Committee of Management to the Director, Technical Education, U.P. It further provides that the State Government on the recommendation of the Director, Technical Education, U.P. shall appoint one of the three persons of the panel which may be proposed by the Committee of Management. Clause 7(2)(ब) of the Scheme of Administration provides that in case the State Government does not nominate any of the person from the panel, the Committee of Management shall propose the second panel containing three names who shall be different from the persons proposed in the first panel. Clause

7 of the approved Scheme of Administration is quoted herein under :

"(7) अध्यक्ष प्रबन्ध समिति की नियुक्ति :–

(1) प्रबन्ध समिति का अध्यक्ष उ0 प्र0 शासन द्वारा नामित किया जायेंगा ।

2(अ) संस्था की सोसाइटी की संस्तुति पर प्रबन्ध समिति तीन नामों का पैनल (आवश्यक नहीं कि इसके सदस्य हों) अध्यक्ष प्रबन्ध समिति की नियुक्ति हेतु निदेशक प्राविधिक शिक्षा उ0 प्र0 को भेजेगा।

निदेशक प्राविधिक शिक्षा की संस्तुति पर उत्तर प्रदेश शासन तीन नामों के पैनल में से किसी एक व्यक्ति को अध्यक्ष प्रबन्ध समिति के पद पर नामित कर सकता है।

2(ब) यदि शासन द्वारा उपरोक्त पैनल में से किसी व्यक्ति को अध्यक्ष पद हेतु नामित नहीं किया जाता है तो संस्था की प्रबन्ध समिति द्वारा तीन नामों का दूसरा पैनल संस्तुत किया जायेगा जो प्रथम पैनल में शामिल तीन नामों से भिन्न होगें।"

6. On occurrence of vacancy in the office of the Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution, a meeting of Committee of Management is said to have taken place on 25.11.2020 which prepared a panel of three persons, namely, (1) Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava, (2) Sri Rajiv Kumar and (3) Sri Ajay Kumar Ojha. The decision taken by the Committee of Management in its meeting dated 25.11.2020 was communicated by the Secretary of the Committee of Management to the Director, Technical Education, U.P. by means of his letter dated 26.11.2020. The Director, Technical Education, vide his letter dated 01.12.2020 recommended that out of the aforesaid three persons in the panel prepared by the Committee of Management, Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava be nominated as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution. However, before the State Government could take decision on the panel proposed by the Committee of Management and the recommendation made by the Director, Technical Education by means of letter dated 01.12.2020, Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava died and accordingly a letter was written by the Secretary of the Committee of Management of the instition to the Director, Technical Education on 06.01.2021 intimating him about the death of Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava and further intimating that Sri Kamlesh Kumar Singh (respondent No.1-petitioner) has been nominated as officiating Chairman till the meeting of the Committee of Management is convened and the Committee of Management appoints an officiating Chairman.

7. The Director, Technical Education on the said letter dated 06.01.2021 approved the nomination/appointment of Sri Kamlesh Kumar Singh as officiating Chairman till the Committee of Management elected its new officiating Chairman, vide letter dated 13.01.2021. It, thus, appears that the nomination of Sri Kamlesh Kumar Singh was an interim arrangement which was to last till Committee of Management nominated a new officiating Chairman. By the said letter, a direction was issued by the Director, Technical Education to the Joint Director, Technical Education, Varanasi to convene a meeting of the Committee of Management within 15 days for preparing a panel of three names till nomination of regular Chairman is made.

8. The Committee of Management held its meeting on 24.01.2021 and decided to cancel the earlier panel and further resolved to nominate a panel of three persons, namely, (1) Sri Kamlesh Kumar Singh, (2) Sri Sudhir Kumar Srivastava and (3) Sri Kamlesh Kumar Srivastava. It was also resolved that till the regular Chairman is nominated by the State Government, Sri Kamlesh Kumar Singh shall continue to officiate on the said post. The new panel as resolved by the Committee of Management was sent to the Director, Technical Education by means of letter dated 27.01.2021 whereupon the Director, Technical Education by means of his letter dated 22.02.2021 sent the penal to the State Government with his recommendation to nominate Sri Kamlesh Kumar Singh, who was placed at Serial No.1 of the new panel, as Chairman of the Committee of Management. The State Government wrote a letter to the Director on 22.12.2021 after seeking legal advice from the Law Department and sought clear proposal in the light of the legal opinion tendered by the Law Department.

9. A perusal of the letter dated 22.12.2021 addressed to the Director, Technical Education and written by the State Government reveals that the Law Department had opined that in case of death of a person in the earlier panel, the panel will not be incomplete nor will it lapse.

10. The Director, Technical Education thereafter wrote a letter dated 24.12.2021 in pursuance of the letter of the State Government dated 22.12.2021 making a recommendation that the decision for nomination of the Chairman be taken pursuant to the earlier proposal dated 01.12.2020. On the said recommendation made by the Director, Technical Education, the State Government took a decision to nominate the appellant as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution which is embodied in the order dated 12.05.2022. It is this order dated 12.05.2022 appointing the appellant as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution which was challenged by the respondent No.1-petitioner in the writ petition, which has been decided by means of judgment and order dated 07.09.2022, passed by the learned Single Judge, which is under appeal before us.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued that merely because of the death of one of the persons named in the earlier panel, namely, Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava, the earlier panel could not be treated to have lapsed or defective in any manner. It has further been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the State Government thus has acted lawfully by passing the order dated 12.05.2022 nominating the appellant as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution and there is no illegality in the said order. It has also been argued on behalf of the appellant that on receipt of the earlier panel with the recommendation of the Director, Technical Education, before the State Government could act upon and take decision to nominate one of the persons named in the earlier panel as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution, Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava died and on account of his death the panel did not lapse and accordingly the State Government has rightly acted upon the earlier panel and has lawfully appointed the appellant as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution.

12. Dr. Mishra further arguing on behalf of the appellant has submitted that on receipt of the earlier panel since the death of one of the persons occurred before the decision on the said panel could be taken by the State Government, the State had three options. The first option available to the State Government was that it could have appointed one of the two remaining persons in the first panel, secondly, it could have rejected the panel of remaining two persons and thirdly, the State Government could have asked for one additional name by the Committee of Management. His submission, thus, is that it was not open to the Committee of Management to have cancelled the earlier panel and proposed the new panel for the reason that earlier panel had not exhausted on account of the fact that Government had not taken any decision on the same and in absence of any defect or lapse in the earlier panel, on account of death of Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava it was incumbent upon the State Government to have taken the decision. He further states that however, in its discretion, the State Government could have rejected the remaining two names from the first panel and it is only after such decision that the Committee of Management would have assumed the jurisdiction to nominate a fresh panel. On behalf of the appellant, it has, thus, been argued that learned Single Judge has not correctly construed the provisions of Clauses 7(2)(v) and 7(2) (c) of the approved Scheme of Administration and has thus arrived at the conclusion which is not borne out from the said provisions. Further submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that in the aforesaid view of the matter the finding recorded by the learned Single Judge that the first panel of three names stood lapsed on account of death of one of the persons in the panel, is not as per the Scheme of Administration.

13. It has also been urged on behalf of the appellant that Clauses 7(2)(अ) and 7(2)(ब) of the Scheme of Administration appear to have been misread by the learned Single Judge and he records a finding that in all exigencies, the State Government can act upon only in case where all the three persons in the panel suggested by the Committee of Management are surviving. It has thus been urged on behalf of the appellant that the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge is erroneous which deserves to be set aside and the Special Appeal deserves to be allowed.

14. Learned State Counsel while arguing on behalf of the State-respondents has submitted that the order passed by the State Government, dated 12.05.2022 whereby the appellant was nominated as Chairman of the Committee of Management does not suffer from any illegality and, in fact, the same is in accordance with the approved Scheme of Administration, as such the said order did not warrant any interference by the learned Single Judge in the writ petition filed by the respondent No.1-petitioner.

15. Sri Amrendra Nath Tripathi, learned counsel representing the respondent No.1-petitioner has argued that the order dated 13.01.2021 whereby the Director, Technical Education had required the Committee of Management to send a fresh panel, was not challenged and in absence of challenge to the said order, the earlier panel could not have been acted upon and accordingly no appointment from the earlier panel could have been made. He has further argued that the Committee of Management had decided in its meeting held on 24.01.2021 to cancel the earlier panel which power is vested in the Committee of Management and accordingly nomination of Chairman from the panel which stood cancelled by the Committee of Management, could not have been made. His submission is that once the fresh panel was proposed the earlier panel ceased to exist. Sri Tripathi also argued that the decision dated 12.05.2022, passed by the State Government suffers from the vice of non-application of mind as the same is based on solely on the opinion of the Law Department and the authority passing the said order does not appear to have applied his independent mind. It has further been argued that the earlier panel could not have been acted upon for the reason that the panel included a dead person (Arvind Kumar Srivastava).

16. It has also been submitted by the learned counsel representing the respondent No.1-petitioner that Clause 7(2)(v) uses the words, "a panel of three (तीन नामों का पैनल)' and on the death of Sri Arvind Kumar Srivastava, the panel comprised of only two living persons and hence in absence of panel of three persons, as envisaged in Clause 7(2)(v) of the Scheme of Administration, the State Government erred in appointing the appellant from the said panel of two persons as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution. In this view, the submission is that such course to the State Government was not available in absence of panel of three living persons. He has thus argued that the learned Single Judge while passing the judgment and order under appeal herein has taken the correct view in the matter and has rightly interpreted the provisions of Clauses 7(2)(v) and 7(2)(c) of the Scheme of Administration and has, thus, rightly set aside the order of State Government, dated 12.05.2022, appointing the appellant as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution. He, thus, prays that the Special Appeal may be dismissed at its threshold.

17. On consideration of the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the respective parties, the point for consideration which emerges in this case is as to whether in terms of the provisions contained in Clauses 7(2)(अ) and 7(2)(ब) of the Scheme of Administration, the State Government could have acted upon the earlier panel and whether appointment from the said panel could have been made, though one of the persons of panel suggested by the Committee of Management of the institution, had died.

18. The answer to the point for determination, as culled out above, lies in correctly interpreting the provision contained in Clause7(2)(c) of the Scheme of Administration. The said provision clearly states that in case no one is nominated as Chairman of the Committee of Management of the institution from amongst the persons of the panel suggested by the Committee of Management, the Committee of Management shall submit a second panel containing three names.

19. The question, thus, is as to when does the Committee of Management assumes the jurisdiction to recommend/propose/send the second panel. A plain reading of Clause 7(2)(c) of the Scheme of Administration reveals that second panel can be recommended/sent/proposed by the Committee of Management only if the the State Government does not nominate any person from the first panel. It would simply mean that the Committee of Management will assume jurisdiction to recommend the second panel if the State Government rejects all the names in the first panel and refuses to nominate anyone of them.

20. In the instant case, the process of nomination of Chairman in case of any vacancy in the office of Chairman will start from the resolution of the Committee of Management proposing a panel of three persons, as per Clause 7(2)(अ) of the approved Scheme of Administration. The process further proceeds with the recommendation to be made by the Director, Technical Education, U.P. on the panel suggested/sent/proposed by the Committee of Management and this process comes to an end only once the decision on the panel proposed/sent/suggested by the Committee of Management and on the recommendation made by the Director, Technical Education, is taken by the State Government. The process thus terminates only once the decision is taken by the State Government. In our considered opinion, the Committee of Management will assume jurisdiction to propose/send/suggest the second panel only on completion/termination of the process which commences proposal/submission of first panel by the Committee of Management.

21. If we analyze the facts of this case, what we find is that before the process which commenced on resolution of the Committee of Management proposing three names in the first panel could logically culminate in the decision by the State Government, the Committee of Management cancelled the earlier panel and proposed a new panel. Such a course, in our considered opinion, is not envisaged, neither is it provided for in the Clauses 7(2)(अ) and 7(2)(ब) of the approved Scheme of Administration.

22. Admittedly, before final decision on the first panel as proposed by the Committee of Management could be taken by the State Government, one person on the said panel died, however, the fact remains that no final decision on the first panel was taken by the State Government and accordingly, in our considered opinion, the Committee of Management did not have any jurisdiction to suggest/send/propose the second panel.

23. In the aforesaid back-ground, when we look at the judgment rendered by the learned Single Judge, the same appears to be based on erroneous interpretation of Clause 7(2)(ब) of the approved Scheme of Administration. Learned Single Judge has opined that the intent and purpose of the said provision is that the State Government should get an opportunity to nominate the person as a Chairman out of three persons at the first instance and if the State Government does not take a decision the name of three different persons is to be forwarded.

24. We are unable to agree with the aforesaid finding recorded by learned Single Judge regarding interpretation of Clause 7(2)(ब) of the approved Scheme of Administration. Forwarding the name of three different persons as second and subsequent panel is not envisaged in a situation where the State Government does not take decision. It is rather permissible only if the State Government takes a decision and does not nominate any of the person from the panel. "Not taking decision" and "not nominating" are two different acts. Clause 7(2)(ब) states that the Committee of Management shall recommend second panel in case the State Government does not nominate a person to be Chairman. Thus, pending decision by the State Government Committee of Management will not get authority to recommend the second panel. It thus follows that the basic premise on which the learned Single Judge has interpreted the Clause 7(2)(ब) of the approved Scheme of Administration, in our opinion, is erroneous.

25. Any panel prepared by the Committee of Management and forwarded after recommendation by the Director, Technical Education will exhaust only on decision on the said panel is taken by the State Government. Insistence of the learned counsel representing the respondent No.1-petitioner that it will be incumbent upon the State Government to take decision to nominate the Chairman only if the panel consists of three persons in all circumstances and situations, is thus, in our opinion, not correct. The question or point for preparation of second panel in terms of the provision contained in Clause 7(2)(ब) of the approved Scheme of Administration will arrive only if the process gets completed and the process initiated on the resolution of the Committee of Management nominating a panel of three persons will get concluded only once the decision by the State Government is taken.

26. We may also consider as to what is the impact of consideration by the State Government for nomination of Chairman of the Committee of Management from the panel of two persons only which situation in this case had arisen on account of death of third person of the panel. It is to be seen that all the three persons in the panel form collective choice of the Committee of Management. Even if, on account of such exigency as death the panel shrinks to two persons, before final decision for nomination is taken by the State Government, the person who may be nominated as Chairman will still be the choice of Committee of Management.

27. To be included in the panel for nomination as Chairman by the Committee of Management cannot be said to be right of any individual. It is the right of the Committee of Management conferred on it by the Clause 7(2)(अ) of the approved Scheme of Administration to prepare a panel of three persons of its choice. Since the remaining two persons on the first panel were also the persons of choice of the Committee of Management, as such by shrinkage of panel of three persons to two, no individual right gets infringed and accordingly, in our opinion, for this reason as well the conclusion arrived at by the learned Single Judge regarding interpretation of Clause 7(2)(ब) of the approved Scheme of Administration appears to be erroneous.

28. Thus, submission made by Sri Amrendra Nath Tripathi, learned counsel representing the respondent No.1-petitioner that on cancellation of earlier panel and preparation of fresh panel, the earlier panel was non-existent, in our opinion, is not acceptable for the reason that the occasion for the Committee of Management to prepare new panel did not arise in this case as the State Government had not taken any decision on the first panel before the second panel was proposed by the Committee of Management.

29. As far as the submission made by Sri Tripathi that the decision of the State Government cannot be said to be the decision emanating from independent application of mind by the authority who took decision is concerned, we may only observe that different departments of the State Government have been created for convenience. Any decision of the State Government in a particular department, even if it is based on opinion of Law Department or any other department, cannot be said to be vitiated merely because opinion of some other department was taken before arriving at the decision in question.

30. Sri Tripathi has also argued that in absence of challenge to the order dated 13.01.2021, passed by the Director, Technical Education whereby a fresh panel was invited, the procedure which followed thereafter cannot be faulted with.

31. If we consider the aforesaid argument of Sri Tripathi, we do not find ourselves in agreement with him for the reason that the letter of the Director, Technical Education, dated 13.01.2021 was only an intermediate step in the process which culminated in the decision of the State Government finally taken on 12.05.2022 whereby the appellant was nominated as a Chairman of the Committee of Management.

32. In view of the discussion made and reasons given above, we are unable to find ourselves in agreement with the judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge, which is under appeal herein.

33. Resultantly, the Special Appeal is allowed and the judgment and order dated 07.09.2022, passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-C No. 2957 of 2022 is hereby set aside.

34. Consequences to follow.

35. There will be no order as to costs.

Criminal Appeal No. 2216 of 2014

Saroj Kumar Tiwari ...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P. ...Opp. Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Sudhir Kumar Srivastava, Sri Sanjeev Srivastava, Sri Sushil Kumar Dwivedi

Counsel for the Respondents:
Govt. Advocate

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Circumstantial Evidence-The most fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence is that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.

In a case based upon circumstantial evidence it is incumbent upon the prosecution to connect the links of the circumstances in a single chain which must establish the culpability of the accused.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 8- Motive- Whatever motive is shown is in the confessional statement of the appellant before the police which is, firstly, not admissible in evidence and, secondly, no such disclosure statement has been exhibited.

Settled law that confession of accused is inadmissible in evidence and further in absence of any disclosure statement being exhibited by the prosecution, no reliance can be placed on any such confession for proving the motive behind the commission of the offence.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 27- From the two site plans and the recovery memos two separate places from where recoveries were shown- from the statement of PW-7 (I.O.) both recoveries were effected from the house of Sapan Kumar- The witnesses of the recoveries have not been produced by the prosecution. Rather, they have appeared as defence witnesses (DW-2 and DW-3) and have challenged the recovery by stating that they were made to sign plain papers.

As the recoveries are not corroborated by the prosecution witness and witnesses of the recoveries have been examined by the defence, hence no reliance can be placed on the recoveries. (Para 28, 30, 33, 34)

6. An incised wound 8 cm x ½ cm in size in back of left forearm.

Cause of death:

Shock and haemorrhage due to ante mortem injuries.

Time since death

About two days

6. During the course of investigation, the Investigating Officer (I.O.) recovered slipper of one leg of the deceased red in colour and light yellow colour watch strap of which recovery memo (Ex.Ka-3) was prepared. The I.O also showed recovered of a semi-circular sickle having wooden handle measuring six fingers (angul); a shirt with full sleeves having blue stripes; and a blue coloured jeans, blood-stained, on the pointing out of appellant (Saroj Kumar Tiwari) of which recovery memo (Ex.Ka-10) was prepared. Investigation of Case Crime No.145 of 2000 was completed and chargesheet (Ex.Ka-12) was submitted by CO, namely, D.P. Shukla, P.W.-7 against Saroj Kumar Tiwari (appellant), Smt. Munni Devi and Anju Tiwari under Section 302/201 IPC. After taking cognizance, the case was committed to the Court of Session giving rise to S.T. No.325 of 2003. On 17.05.2004, accused persons, namely, Saroj Kumar Tiwari, Smt. Munni Devi and Anju Tiwari were charged for offences punishable under Section 302/201 IPC. All of them pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The trial court examined nine prosecution witnesses, namely, P.W.-1 Shyam Lal - the informant; P.W.-2 Rajkumar - witness of inquest; P.W.-3 Daya Ram - another witness of the inquest, P.W.-4 Bhuvneshwar Tiwari - uncle of the deceased, P.W.-5 Awadh Kishor Singh - neighbour of the deceased residing at Patna; P.W.-6 Surya Mani Pandey - the constable who prepared the chik report and GD entry of Case Crime No.145 of 2000; P.W.-7 D.P. Shukla, C.O. Crime, the Investigating Officer of Case Crime No.145 of 2000; P.W.-8 Dr. Yatindra Kumar Pathak who conducted the autopsy; and P.W.-9 Constable Ramdev who proved the signatures of S.I. Panna Lal (since dead) on the inquest report and papers prepared in connection therewith for autopsy.

Prosecution Evidence

8. The testimony of above mentioned prosecution witnesses, in brief, is as under:-

9. P.W.-1- Shyam Lal- Informant:- He stated that the incident occurred four years ago. At around 10 a.m., some villagers told him that a dead body has been lying beneath a tree in the grove of Daya Ram Dhobi, he went there and saw a beheaded dead body of an unknown person, without clothes, lying there. He gave information at the police station. He proved his thumb impression over the written report which was marked as Ex.Ka-1.

During cross-examination, P.W.-1 stated that he did not carry a written complaint to the police station. He gave oral information regarding discovery of dead body. At the police station, constable took his thumb impression over Ex.Ka-1. At the time when he put his thumb impression, the paper was blank and nothing was written on it. He arrived at the police station in between 10-11 a.m. He stayed at the police station for two hours. When he was present at the police station, neither S.I. nor anyone inquired from him and no statement was recorded. After two hours when constable permitted him, he returned from the police station to the place where the dead body was lying. He again visited the place of incident at around 1 p.m., at that time, the dead body was not there and neither police nor any person was available there. When he saw the dead body, it was without clothes. Immediately thereafter, he stated that it had lower under-garment. He also stated that when he arrived near the dead body, there was no article lying beside it and there was no whisper in the village as to whose dead body it was.

10. P.W.-2 - Rajkumar - witness of inquest:- He admitted his signature on the inquest report (Ex. Ka-2) and memo of recovery (Ex. Ka-3). He reiterated about noticing a beheaded dead body lying under a tree in the grove of Daya Ram Dhobi wearing under-garments (i.e. baniyan and chaddhi). He stated that S.I. Panna Lal sealed the dead body and conducted inquest in his presence. During his presence, S.I. did not collect any article or earth. There was no article lying near the dead body, only blood was spread nearby. He was not sure whether the blood spread there was collected by the S.I.

During cross-examination, P.W.-2 stated that he arrived at the spot at about 12 noon. There were many police personnels available at that place. Members of public were few. S.I. received his signatures over a blank paper and informed him that this paper is for sealing the dead body. S.I. did not collect any slipper or strap of watch in his presence and those items were not noticed by him there. P.W.-2 further stated that S.I. received his signatures over 3-4 blank papers and nothing was written over the same.

11. P.W.-3 - Daya Ram - another witness of the inquest:- In his statement in chief, he stated that about four or four and half years ago, a beheaded dead body was found in his grove. Neither he saw the dead body nor the S.I. sealed the dead body or performed inquest in his presence. After looking at the papers, he denied his thumb impression thereon. He stated that he is literate and can sign. On the application of the prosecution, the witness was declared hostile and prosecution was allowed to cross examine him.

During cross-examination by the prosecution, P.W.-3 stated that with regard to the incident, S.I. never recorded his statement. On being confronted with his statement under Section 161 of the Cr.P.C., he denied having made any such statement. He also denied the suggestion that he has colluded with the accused.

12. P.W.-4 - Bhuvneshwar Tiwari - Uncle of the deceased:- In his examination in chief, P.W.-4 stated that the deceased Pranesh Kumar Tiwari is his nephew. At the time of his murder, his age was near about 25 years. His nephew was an English teacher in Anishabad English Convent School. In the year 1998, his nephew (the deceased) performed court marriage with the daughter of Saroj Tiwari (appellant before the court). Thereafter, again, marriage ceremony was performed in a temple at Patna in the year 2000. That marriage ceremony was attended by both sides in a congenial atmosphere and both sides happily returned to their respective homes. After that, Pranesh (the deceased) told his mother that he will go to his Sasural at Barkhi and shall have Sheetla Maa Darshan on 21.05.2000. P.W.-4 stated that he and few others went to Patna Railway Station to see off the deceased. After seeing off the deceased they returned to their respective houses. Whereafter, on 25.05.2000, Lal Bahadur Singh, Police Station Saini, showed one identity card to inquire whether that person is known to PW-4. P.W.-4 acknowledged that it was of his nephew. The police then informed P.W.-4 that that person has been murdered within the jurisdiction of Police Station Saini. The police personnel thereafter returned. On getting that information, P.W.-4, Geeta Devi (mother of Pranesh) and Awadh Kishor (PW-5) arrived at Police Station Saini. At the police station, SHO showed clothes, sickle- the murder weapon, rope, pant and blood stained clothes and red slippers along with album. On seeing those articles P.W.-4 identified them as that of his nephew. He also recognised a Kada of his nephew Pranesh Tiwari. PW-4 stated that Pranesh Kumar Tiwari has been murdered by Saroj Kumar Tiwari, his wife Munni Devi and his daughter Anju Devi. After narrating all that, P.W.-4 stated that before this marriage, Pranesh Tiwari was married to another girl who was insane and handicapped. The family members of that insane girl did not object to his re-marriage therefore, Pranesh entered into a second marriage. P.W.-4 stated that Saroj Tiwari knew that it was the second marriage of Pranesh yet it was performed in a most harmonious atmosphere. P.W.-4 stated that when his nephew came with his wife and in-laws on 22nd, he was murdered by them. A bundle of clothes etc was opened before the court. Inside that, blue stripe shirt, blood stained jeans pant, one red colour slippers and one sickle were kept which were shown to P.W.-4. He identified the clothes as that of Pranesh Kumar Tiwari and the same were made material exhibits. A second bundle was also de-sealed before the court wherein two clean pant-shirt were there. P.W.-4 spotted and identified these clothes as that of Pranesh and they were marked material exhibits. Another bundle opened had a small Khaki colour envelop with one coin of Re.5 and one coin of Rs.2 with two Rs.1 coins and two coins of 50 paisa. Two separate boxes were also opened, one was having blood stained earth and the other box was empty. P.W.-4 proved his signatures on a memorandum regarding showing of certain articles of the deceased for identification. The memorandum was marked as Ex.Ka-4.

During cross-examination, P.W.-4 stated that when he arrived at the police station, he was shown two bundles. In one bundle, blood stained clothes, sickle, nylon rope, slippers and in another bundle, two pants and two shirts were there. In next bundle, there was nothing except two shirts. At that time, these bundles were sealed. P.W.4 expressed his inability to state as to how many papers were signed by him. P.W.-4 also stated in his cross-examination that when these bundles were shown to him at the police station, there were no outsiders except police personnel. The papers signed by him were not bearing any other signature except of Awadh Kishor. In respect of first marriage of Pranesh Kumar, P.W.-4 stated that he can not tell in which season the first marriage of Pranesh Kumar was solemnised though the second marriage was performed just 2-4 months after first marriage. In the year 1998, when Anju Devi came for the first time after marriage, she stayed for 15 days in her in-laws house. At that time, the first wife was not there. She was at her native place. After 1998, Anju Devi never came to stay with her in-laws. PW-4 stated that his house is 52 kilometres away from Patna in the village. PW-4's family and Pranesh's entire family reside in the village. Pranesh use to reside in a room provided by the institution where he used to teach. Nobody of PW-4's family resided with him. Pranesh Kumar used to visit the village every Sunday. One brother of PW-4, namely, Brij Nandan Tiwari was residing in a building of custom department whereas PW-4 and his family resided in the village. On 16.05.2000, Pranesh informed that he would be going to his in-laws village on 21.05.2000 and had requested PW-4 and his family to be at the railway station. On a specific question as to whether P.W.-4 used to see off Pranesh whenever he departed, PW-4 stated that it was not a custom/habit to come to the railway station to see him off but on 21.05.2000, it was felt necessary to see him off therefore, they went to the railway station in the morning at about 5 a.m. P.W.-4 then clarified that when they reached Patna Station, Pranesh had met them outside the station. After meeting Pranesh, they left. Outside the station, Pranesh was alone. PW-4 stated that neither he met Saroj Kumar Tiwari nor he met his wife or daughter at the railway station.

P.W.-4 stated that after getting information from the police on 25th regarding Pranesh's death, they left for Saini on 29th by Toofan (train) in the evening and reached Sirathu next day morning at 5 o'clock. From there they went straightaway to police station Saini. They reached Saini police station at about 6.30 a.m. Clothes etc. were shown at nine o'clock. They remained at the police station till 11 o'clock. After 11 o'clock they returned. Between 9 o'clock and 11 o'clock, PW-4 met the I.O. There, P.W.-4 and Awadh Kishore signed two or three papers but Geeta Devi did not sign any paper. The village where the deceased was married was known from before but, that day, it was not considered appropriate to visit the village. Saroj Kumar used to work in the Agriculture Department of the government at Patna.

P.W.-4 denied the suggestions that on 21.5.2000, Pranesh Kumar along with his father-in-law Saroj Tiwari, wife and mother-in-law did not leave for Saini; and that Pranesh Kumar had gone to Fatehpur alone on 21.5.2000 to attend his friend's wedding. PW-4 stated that he does not know whether Saroj Kumar Tiwari had told Pranesh that after attending the wedding, he should meet him in the village on 24.5.2000. P.W.-4 denied the suggestion that Saroj Kumar Tiwari remained at Patna on 22.05.2000 and did government work in his office at Patna on 22-5-2000. PW-4 stated that he does not know that when Saroj Kumar Tiwari reached his village on 24th, the police arrested him. PW-4 denied the suggestion that the clothes shown in the bundle were the clothes brought by the police personnel, who came to inform PW-4 at Patna, from the village house to show a false recovery. He also denied the suggestion that Pranesh Kumar was killed and robbed by unknown miscreants while he was returning alone to his in-laws' house after attending the wedding. P.W.-4 also denied the suggestion that Saroj Kumar Tiwari did not commit murder of Pranesh but was implicated on the basis of suspicion. He also denied the suggestion that Pranesh did not marry anyone other than Anju Devi.

13. P.W.-5 - Awadh Kishor Singh - Neighbour of the deceased residing at Patna- He stated he knows Pranesh Kumar Tiwari who was a resident of his village and a teacher at Girdhar Niwas Patna; he had married a mentally retarded girl in the year 1995 but, on the basis of mutual understanding and panchayat, that marriage was dissolved. PW-5 had heard that Pranesh had a second marriage. The second marriage was solemnized in Patan Mandir at Patna with the daughter of Saroj Kumar Tiwari. Saroj Tiwari was a resident of Kaushambi district in U.P. After few days of marriage, it came to his knowledge on 20.5.2000 that Pranesh was going to his in-laws place at village Happu Nagar, P.S. Saini, district Kaushambi. Pranesh Tiwari was dropped at Patna Junction by his uncle and his mother. PW-5 himself did not witness it, but Pranesh's uncle told him that Pranesh's father-in-law Saroj Tiwari and Saroj Tiwari's wife and their daughter were there. On 25.05.2000, UP Police arrived and showed some photo identity cards and asked him whether they knew that person. PW-5 was also told that he has been murdered. Thereafter, Bhuvneshwar Tiwari and PW-5 left Patna on 29.05.2000 and they reached Saini Police station on 30.05.2000. After reaching the police station, the Inspector showed them some articles i.e. clothes, rope, slipper, sickle (hansiya) and inquired whether they could recognise those articles. Pranesh was seen wearing one of those clothes few days ago.

During cross-examination, P.W.-5 stated that he is a teacher at Barh. At the time of occurrence, he was working as a teacher. The distance between Barh and Patna is around 64 KM. There is a railway station at Barh. The distance of Barh to Rana Bigha is 4 KM. There is a metalled road from Barh to Rana Bigha. Twice a week, PW-5 used to visit Patna. He did not know in which school Pranesh Kumar Tiwari was a teacher. He also did not know as to in which house in Patna he used to live.

P.W.-5 further stated that he never saw Saroj Tiwari in Patna. He stated that he has not seen Saroj Tiwari till date. PW-5 stated that first marriage of Pranesh Tiwari was solemnised after his consent. Four years after the first marriage, the second marriage of Pranesh Tiwari was solemnised. PW-5 did not participate in the second marriage of Pranesh Kumar. But he had heard that the second marriage was solemnised at Patan temple in Patna.

He further stated that Bhuvaneshwar Tiwari and he left for U.P. by Toofan Express. They reached Sirathu Railway Station next day at 4-5 am. They reached PS Saini by about 7-8 am. There, the sub-inspector recorded his statement as also of Bhuvaneshwar Tiwari. In respect of Pranesh Kumar's second marriage, PW-5 stated that it was solemnized after three years of the first marriage; that he does not remember whether Pranesh Kumar's second wife ever visited the village; that he neither saw nor heard of second wife of Pranesh visiting the village. He denied the suggestions (a) that he never visited the police station Saini to see the articles; (b) that the constable who had visited his village had obtained Bhuvaneshwar Tiwari's and his signature on a blank paper; (c) that no articles were shown to him at PS Saini; and (d) that whatever statement he has given before the court has been tutored by government advocate Shri T.C. Kesarwani.

14. P.W.-6 - Suryamani Pandey - Chik maker- He proved the registration of the FIR, preparation of the Chik Report and GD Entry thereof . During cross-examination, he stated that the complainant had come alone to the police station to lodge the report. He had brought a scribed report though he did not mention as to who scribed it. The S.H.O. was not present at the time of registration of the FIR. The original chik was sent to the C.O. Office on the next day.

15. P.W.-7- D.P. Shukla- Investigating Officer- He stated that on 22.05.2000, he was posted as the Inspector-in-charge, P S Saini. On that day, Case Crime No.-145/2000 u/s. 302, 201 I.P.C. was registered at the police-station on the basis of written complaint made by PW-1. On 22.05.2000, he prepared C.D. and took copy of the chik, copy of the report, recorded statement of the complainant, statement of the witnesses of the inquest report and tried to identify the dead body. After preparing the inquest report, he lifted one slipper, strap of watch and blood stained earth from the spot. On 24.05.2000 he arrested the accused persons i.e. Saroj Kumar Tiwari, Smt. Munni Tiwari and Anju Tiwari on the basis of information received from an informer. After their arrest they confessed their guilt and disclosed the name of the deceased as Pranesh Kumar s/o Late Chandra Bhushan Tiwari r/o Rana Beegha, P.S. Barh, district-Patna, Bihar. PW-7 also got the murder weapon i.e. the sickle (blood stained) recovered at the instance of Saroj Tiwari from the house of his Behnoi (brother in law) Sapan Kumar. It was hidden in a haystick kept in a room. He also recovered blood-stained clothes of the deceased, suitcase and railway ticket from the same room and recovery-memo of these articles were prepared. On 22.5.2000, the inspection of the scene of occurrence was carried out at the instance of the complainant and site-plan was prepared, which was marked as Ext.Ka-7. He also prepared site plans of the place from where he recovered murder-weapon sickle and nylon rope and clothes of deceased Pranesh Kumar, which were marked Ex. Ka-8 and Ex. Ka-9. Recovery-memo of the murder-weapon and blood stained clothes was proved by him as Ext.Ka-10 and recovery-memo of nylon rope and other clothes was proved as Ext.Ka-11. PW-7 stated that medical examination of accused Saroj Tivari was got done; that the medical-report is attached with CD. On 27.5.2000, Lal Bahadur Singh was sent with appropriate direction to inform family of the deceased Pranesh Kumar Tiwari and collect evidence. On 30.5.2000, statement of the constable who was sent to inform the family of the deceased and show photos was recorded. The details of the information received from him was entered in the case-diary and statements of the other witnesses were recorded. Statements of Shri Bhuwaneshwar Tivari, Smt. Geeta Devi, Awadh Kishor and others were recorded. On 2.6.2000, C.D. No.5 was prepared in which details of original P.M.

report and inquest-report were mentioned. Statements of Dr. Awasthi P.H.C. Sirathu and Constable Narendra were recorded and materials were dispatched to Forensic Lab Lucknow for examination. Whereafter, charge-sheet was filed against the accused persons after investigation. Charge-sheet was marked as Ext.Ka-12.

During cross-examination, he stated that he arrested the accused on 24.05.2000 on the basis of tip given by an informer. He further stated that witness Jainul had informed that it was a matter of discussion in the village that Saroj Tewari, his wife, daughter and son-in-law had come from Saini to Daranagar by Tempo in the evening and after getting off, they walked on foot and that the dead body is of their son-in-law. The witness Jainul had also stated that on 21.5.2000, at 8.00 p.m., he saw Saroj Tewari, his wife, daughter and a boy aged around 25 years getting off the tempo at Daranagar and going on foot to their house. PW-7 however admitted that he has not made Jainul a witness in the case. PW-7 stated that witnesses had disclosed to him that the accused had come to attend thirteenth day rituals and that they have murdered their son-in-law. On the basis of this information, he arrested the accused and collected evidence. PW-7 stated that during investigation, he recorded statement of Gaya Ram, Ram Naresh Tripathi, Dwarika Prasad and the village Pradhan Mayawati on 22.5.2000. These witnesses also stated about discussion in the village that the accused have murdered their son-in-law. On the basis of this information, the accused were arrested for interrogation and the weapon of murder was recovered. He proved various seizure memos but admitted that the recovered material is not before him in the court. He denied the suggestion that he did not recover weapon of murder on the pointing out of the accused. He denied the suggestion that he managed to bring the clothes by sending a constable to show a false recovery. He also denied the suggestion that he has purposely not mentioned names of public witnesses of the recovery memo in the charge-sheet. PW-7 stated that he does not remember whether any identity card of the deceased was found or not. Then he stated that no identity card of the deceased was found. Rather, photographs of the deceased were sent to his home through the constable.

PW-7 denied the suggestions (a) that entire investigation was bogus and a false charge-sheet has been submitted; (b) that the recoveries have been fabricated; and (c) that all the parchas have been fabricated while sitting at the police station and the papers have been back dated.

16. P.W.-8 - Dr. Yatindra Kumar Pathak - Autopsy Surgeon - He proved the autopsy report details of which we have noticed above. In respect of the internal examination, he stated that there was no semi-digested food in the stomach; the stomach was empty; small intestine was half-filled and large intestine too was semi-filled. There was no mark of circumcision on penis. The death could have occurred on 21.05.2000 at 9:30 pm.

During cross-examination, he stated that he received the dead body on 23.05.2000 at 1:10 pm in the mortuary. Documents relating to inquest report were received. The dead body was received as unknown. He did not get videography of the postmortem examination. He noticed two incised wounds on the body of the deceased. Those could be caused by a knife. Head of the deceased was severed off. This may be caused with a heavy and sharp cutting weapon such as farsa and gandasa. It is not possible to cause it with a sickle used for cutting the grass. The body had started decomposing. The injury might be 2 ½ days old but not 3 days. It is likely to be of the morning of 21.05.2000. No semi-digested food was found in the stomach. It is wrong to state that he prepared the postmortem report at the instance of his subordinate.

17. P.W. -9 - Ramdev - Constable - He proved the signature of S.I. Panna Lal on the inquest report and other papers relating to dispatch of the body for autopsy.

18. It be noted that during the pendency of the trial a serologist report dated 13.09.2000 (Ex. Ka-19) was produced as per which, 8 articles were sent for determining presence/ absence of human blood. These were: (1) blood-stained earth; (2) plain earth; (3) Chappal (slipper); (4) watch strap; (5) Coins; (6) piece of cloth; (7) shirt; (8) Jeans pant; (9) Hansiya / sickle with butt. Except coin, blood was found on each article. In piece of cloth and shirt, human blood was found. In rest of the articles blood had disintegrated therefore, its origin could not be ascertained. With respect to the articles where blood of human origin could be found, the blood group could not be ascertained as sample was found unfit for such test.

Statement under section 313 CrPC

19. The incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence were put to Saroj Kumar Tiwari and his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 09.05.2013, 25.11.2013 and 15.04.2014. In his statement made on 09.05.2013, the appellant admitted that his daughter Anju had married Pranesh Kumar but denied the remaining allegations. The fact of recovery of blood-stained earth; weapon of assault, nylon rope and site plans prepared in respect thereof were put vide question no.8. The appellant denied those recoveries and claimed that they are totally fabricated; no recovery was made at his pointing out. On being questioned as to why he has been implicated, he stated that he has been implicated only on the basis of suspicion. In response to the question as to what he has to say, appellant stated that at the time of the incident he was working as a store assistant in the Agriculture Department at Patna. On 21.5.2000 he was on duty. His son-in-law Pranesh, on 21.05.2000 left Patna to go to Fatehpur to attend marriage of his friend. Appellant did not accompany him. When appellant came home on 23.05.2000, police arrested him. On 25.11.2013, the forensic report Ex. Ka-19 was put to him. In response to which, the appellant stated that he has nothing to say. On 15.04.2014 when another statement under section 313 CrPC was recorded, he reiterated what he had stated earlier and also claimed that the forensic report is not admissible.

Defence Evidence

20. After the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of the appellant was recorded, four defence witnesses, namely, Jainul Abdeen - D.W.-1; Jabar Ali - D.W.-2; Sapan Kumar Mishra - D.W.-3; and Awadh Kishor Sharma - D.W.-4, were examined. Their testimony in brief is noticed below.

21. D.W.-1- Jainul Abdin - Note: This witness according to I.O. had informed the I.O. that the deceased had come with the appellant and the other co-accused and they were noticed alighting together from a Tempo. D.W-1 stated that he is acquainted with Saroj Tiwari of Habbu Nagar for last 20-25 years. The distance of Saroj Tiwari's village is 3¼ km from his village. He never met children of Saroj Tiwari, nor he knows about them. They do not live here. They have been living in Patna for 30-35 years. He stated that neither 12-13 years ago nor ever, he saw Saroj Tiwari and his children going to their home after getting off from the tempo at Daranagar; neither he has knowledge about recovery of the dead body from an orchard in the village of Saroj Tiwari nor he heard that the dead body was of Saroj Tiwari's son-in-law. He stated that he has been Block Pramukh from 1988 to 1994 and from 2000 to 2005. The villagers had told him that Saroj Tiwari has been arrested. He stated that no police officer recorded his statement nor had interrogated him regarding the case in which Saroj Tiwari was arrested.

During cross-examination, D.W-1 stated that he has not received any summon or notice from the court for recording his statement; that he is deposing at the request of Saroj Kumar Tiwari; that he is unaware about the murder of Pranesh; and he is also unaware that 13 years ago, a dead body was found lying in the grove of Daya Ram. D.W.-1 also stated that he does not know Anju Tiwari daughter of Saroj Tiwari; he is not aware about the marriage of Anju Tiwari; and that he was never ever interrogated by the police of police station Saini. Note: DW-1 was not confronted with any of his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

22. D.W.-2 Zabar Ali - Note: He is a witness of the seizure memos (Ex. Ka-10 and Ka-11) of weapon of assault, blood stained shirt and trouser, clothes etc. He stated that he knows Saroj Tiwari who is of his own village; Saroj Tiwari had been residing at Patna for last 32 to 35 years; but used to visit his village where he has his own house and land; 13 years ago, he heard that a beheaded dead body was found in a grove of his village, he never went there; he did not have information as to whose body it was; it was not heard by D.W.-1 that the dead body was of the son-in-law of Saroj Tiwari. He denied that Saroj Tiwari handed over the blood stained sickle and blood stained clothes such as pant and shirt, nylon rope to the police. The police never went to the house of Saroj Tiwari along with him. D.W.-1, however, accepted his signatures on Ex.Ka-10 and Ex.Ka-11. But stated that his signatures over the Ex.Ka-10 and Ex.Ka-11, were obtained by I.O. in front of the house of the Principal and when he inquired about that, the police personnel informed that nothing is serious and, therefore, he signed the papers. D.W.-2 also stated that he had informed the IO that he is not a literate person but on insistence of the IO, he had put his signatures over the papers which, at the time of making signatures were blank. D.W.-2 also stated that he was never interrogated and his statement was never recorded to confirm the recovery.

During cross-examination, D.W.-2 stated that he has not received any summon from the court and that he has given his statement on the request of Saroj Tiwari. He stated that he does not know about the marriage of Anju Tiwari, daughter of Saroj Tiwari. D.W.-2 stated that he does not know anything about the beheaded body found in the grove of Daya Ram. He stated that he had put his signatures over 2 or 3 blank papers. At that time, neither there was a sickle nor pant or shirt or anything there. D.W.-2 stated that as and when Saroj Tiwari visited the village they used to formally greet each other. He denied the suggestion that being a resident of the same village, he is making his statement to save Saroj Tiwari.

23. D.W.-3 - Sapan Kumar Mishra - Note: He is another witness of the seizure memos (Ex. Ka-10 and Ka-11) of weapon of assault, blood stained shirt and trouser, clothes etc. He stated that Saroj Kumar Tiwari is his mama (maternal uncle) who has his own house in DW-3's village though, he had been working in Patna for last many years and living there with family. He stated that on 24.05.2000, it was death anniversary of his father. Saroj Tiwari along with his family, had come on 23.05.2000 from Patna. The Police arrested him from his home that very night, and took him to the police-station. Neither Saroj Tiwari nor his family members had taken out or handed over blood stained sickle, blood stained clothes and nylon rope. Next day, the I.O. and Police had come to DW-3's house and asked him to put signatures on two blank papers. When he refused to sign on blank paper, they threatened him to put him in jail. Then he put his signature on both papers i.e. Ex Ka-10 and Ex Ka-11. When he had put his signature, there was nothing written on it. The I.O had not recorded his statement.

During cross-examination, DW-3 stated that he had not received notice/summon from the court for giving his testimony. He came at the request of his uncle i.e. accused-appellant. Nothing much could come out from his cross-examination except that his mama had come from Patna along with his family on 23.05.2000 on DW-3's father's death anniversary and the Police had arrested Saroj Tiwari, Munni Devi and Manju in the night of 23.05.2000; and that a dead body without head was recovered from the orchard of Dayaram near Dubna village. He did not know whose dead body it was. Anju's marriage had been solemnized, as was told by his mama. He denied the suggestion that while putting signature on the papers i.e. Ex.Ka-10 and Ka-11, they were written. He admitted that in addition to his signature, signature of Jabar Ali was also obtained on those papers. He denied the suggestion that he was giving false statement to defend Saroj Tiwari i.e. his mama.

24. D.W.-4- Awadh Kishor Sharma - DW-4 stated that Saroj Kumar Tiwari has been working as a store assistant in Bihar State with Agro Industries Development Corporation Ltd. in its base work Shop at Patliputra, Patna since 01.01.77 and is to retire in June, 2015. DW-4 stated that he had been posted as an Administrative Officer there and he retired from there in July 2010 and now, he is working on contract in the same corporation. DW-4 stated that S.K. Tiwari had worked on 22.05.2000 at Patliputra and was on earned leave from 23.05.2000 to 15.07.2000 and joined his duties on 17.07.2000. DW-4 stated that the duty hours in the factory are from 8.30 am to 5.00 pm. DW-4 produced the attendance register from May, 2000 to July 2000. He identified Saroj Tiwari in the court. The original attendance register was produced and photo copies thereof verified under his signature were marked as Ex. Kha-1 to Ex. Kha-3.

During cross-examination, he stated that when he got date from the court, he came to give his testimony. He stated that in this Corporation in the year 2000 he was Senior Assistant. Attendance register Ex. Kha-1 to Ex. Kha-3 was not in his handwriting; his signature is not on the register; 21.05.2000 was Sunday; it would take 6 hours to reach Allahabad from Patna by train; he has not brought the application for earned leave from 23.05.2000 to 15.07.2000; the Administrative Officer Laxman Prasad used to take the signatures of employees on the attendance register; his signature is not in that register; signature of Sri Laxman Paswan is nowhere in the register; if one starts from Allahabad to Patna in the evening or night of May, 21.05.2000 then one can reach Patna by 8.30 on 22.05.2000. He also stated that on 22.05.2000, he was not working with S.K. Tiwari in the factory because he was in the Head Quarter; he did not meet S.K. Tiwari on 22.05.2000. He denied the suggestion that he is giving a false statement to benefit S.K. Tiwari.

Trial Court Findings

25. The trial court held that it was proved by the evidence on record that the deceased had to visit his Sasural (in-laws house) at Kaushambi on 21.5.2000 and he boarded a train to go there; that he got killed there; that the murder weapon and blood-stained clothes were recovered at the pointing out of the accused-appellant; that the defence evidence raising plea of alibi was inconclusive and not confidence inspiring as 21.05.2000 was Sunday; that the motive to commit murder was there as the accused suppressed his first marriage to marry appellant's daughter and, therefore, when the first marriage came to light motive developed. Finding these circumstances as to constitute a chain so complete that it pointed conclusively that it was the appellant and appellant alone who committed the murder and to destroy the evidence, threw headless body in a grove, convicted and sentenced the appellant accordingly. The trial court however acquitted the other two co-accused, namely, Anju Tiwari (wife of the deceased) and Munni Devi (wife of the appellant) on the ground that there was no recovery at their instance hence, they were entitled to the benefit of doubt.

Submissions of the learned counsel for the Appellant

26. The learned counsel for the appellant submitted (a) that the body was naked and headless therefore, there is no basis to assume that it was the body of the son in law of the appellant; (b) that there is no evidence that the deceased and the appellant were seen together in the village in the night preceding, or anytime before, the morning when the headless body of the deceased was recovered; (c) that the recovery of blood-stained clothes, weapon of assault, etc is not proved beyond reasonable doubt, even the witnesses to the recovery have resiled from it; (d) even otherwise, the recovery does not inspire confidence inasmuch as why the articles would be hidden in some one else's house; (e) there is no strong motive for the crime; (f) there was no credible information to arrest therefore, the whole exercise of arrest and subsequent recovery becomes doubtful; (f) that it appears to be a case where the appellant and his family, on the basis of suspicion and to solve out a puzzling murder, have been falsely implicated. It was urged that the trial court did not properly evaluate the evidence hence, the judgment and order of conviction is liable to be set aside.

Submissions on behalf of the State

27. The learned AGA submitted that from the suggestions given by the defence to the prosecution witnesses it was established that the body was of the son in law of the deceased; otherwise also, the clothes etc of the deceased recovered at the instance of the appellant proved that the deceased had been in the village. The appellant in his statement under section 313 CrPC admitted that the deceased was married to his daughter. The witnesses had proved that the deceased left Patna to go to his Sasural and that he were to go with his in-laws and wife therefore, it was proved that they were in company of each other. In such circumstances, in absence of explanation as to when they parted company and in view of recovery of incriminating articles, the chain of circumstances stood complete. Consequently, the trial court was justified in recording conviction, particularly, when the plea of alibi was inconclusive.

28. Having noticed the entire evidence and the rival submissions, before we proceed to evaluate the evidence we must bear in mind that this a case where there is no ocular account of murder. Considering that we are dealing with a case which is to be decided on the basis of circumstantial evidence, it would be useful to bear in mind the legal principles as to when the court can convict an accused on the basis of circumstantial evidence. In Vijay Shankar V. State of Haryana, (2015) 12 SCC 644, the Supreme Court following its earlier decisions in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda V. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 and Bablu V. State of Rajasthan, (2006) 13 SCC 116 held that "in a case based on circumstantial evidence the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established; that these circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused; that the circumstances taken cumulatively should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and they should be incapable of explanation of hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the accused and inconsistent with their innocence". Further, in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda's case (supra), it was clarified that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established meaning thereby they 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. In addition to above, we must bear in mind that the most fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence is that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions (vide Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Another v. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793). These settled legal principles have again been reiterated in a three-judge Bench decision of the Supreme Court in Devi Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2019) 19 SCC 447 wherein, in paragraphs 18 and 19 of the judgment, it was held as follows:-

"18. On an analysis of the overall fact situation in the instant case, and considering the chain of circumstantial evidence relied upon by the prosecution and noticed by the High Court in the impugned judgment, to prove the charge is visibly incomplete and incoherent to permit conviction of the appellants on the basis thereof without any trace of doubt. Though the materials on record hold some suspicion towards them, but the prosecution has failed to elevate its case from the realm of "may be true" to the plane of "must be true" as is indispensably required in law for conviction on a criminal charge. It is trite to state that in a criminal trial, suspicion, howsoever grave, cannot substitute proof.

19. That apart, in the case of circumstantial evidence, two views are possible on the case of record, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other his innocence. The accused is indeed entitled to have the benefit of one which is favourable to him. All the judicially laid parameters, defining the quality and content of the circumstantial evidence, bring home the guilt of the accused on a criminal charge, we find no difficulty to hold that the prosecution, in the case in hand, has failed to meet the same."

29. Bearing the legal principles noticed above we shall evaluate the evidence brought by the prosecution. The prosecution seeks to bring home the charge by following circumstances: (a) that the deceased was married to the daughter of the appellant; (b) that it was second marriage of the deceased by hiding the first marriage therefore, the accused held motive for the crime; (c) that on 21.05.2000 deceased came to the village of the appellant with the appellant, appellant's daughter and wife by boarding an early morning train at Patna; (d) next day morning, at about 10 am deceased's beheaded body was noticed; (e) the investigating officer, during the course of investigation received information about the deceased being the son in law of the appellant and of being with the appellant and other co-accused in the evening preceding recovery of his body therefore, acting on this information, appellant was arrested on 24.05.2000; (f) whereafter, on the confessional statement of the appellant and at his pointing out, blood stained clothes including plain clothes of the deceased and murder weapon etc was recovered on 24.05.2000; (g) thereafter, information was given to the family members of the deceased who identified the clothes etc. These circumstances according to the prosecution were duly proved and they constituted a chain so complete as to point conclusively towards the guilt of the appellant by ruling out all hypothesis consistent with his innocence.

30. Now we shall deal with each of the above circumstances to find out whether they have been duly proved. In so far as circumstance (a) i.e. the deceased was married to the daughter of the appellant is concerned, it stands proved by the statement of PW-4 and this fact is admitted to the appellant as would be clear from his answer to question no.5 made while recording his statement under section 313 CrPC on 09.05.2013. In so far as circumstance (b) i.e. the motive for the crime is concerned, the prosecution set out the theory of second marriage with the daughter of the appellant without disclosure of first marriage. No doubt, PW-4, uncle of the deceased has proved that the deceased was earlier married to a mentally challenged girl and the marriage with the daughter of the appellant was second marriage of the deceased, but there is no disclosure in his statement or of any other witness that the second marriage was performed by suppression of first marriage or that there were strained relations between the appellant and the deceased. Whatever motive is shown is in the confessional statement of the appellant before the police which is, firstly, not admissible in evidence and, secondly, no such disclosure statement has been exhibited. That apart, from the statement of PW-4, it appears, the second marriage was performed in a cordial atmosphere. Further, there is no admissible evidence that the daughter of the appellant was being harassed by the deceased. In these circumstances, we are of the view that there is no motive proved for the crime and the finding to the contrary returned by the trial court is based on inadmissible evidence and is therefore liable to be reversed. However, as motive is a mental element and, therefore, even if the prosecution has failed to prove a cogent motive for the crime, it would have to be assessed whether other circumstances have been proved. If so, whether they constitute a chain so complete as to point out that in all human probability it is the appellant and no one else who has committed the murder.

31. Before we proceed to dwell on other issues, it would be relevant to notice and address the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that prosecution has failed to fix the identity of the corpse. It has been argued that the corpse was a headless body with no clothes on it. Nothing has been brought on record as to on what basis the body was identified, particularly, when there is no scientific evidence such as DNA test on record. At first blush the submission appears attractive but when we deeply probed into the evidence on record, we noticed that there is no serious challenge to the body being that of the son in law of the appellant. Even in the statement recorded under section 313 CrPC, dated 09.05.2013, while answering question no.13 (i.e. a general question as to whether the accused has anything to say), the appellant did not state that his son in law Pranesh is not dead. Rather, he stated that Pranesh had left Patna on 21.05.2000 to go to Fatehpur to attend a friend's wedding. Interestingly, PW-4, uncle of the deceased, who had deposed that his nephew Pranesh has been killed by the accused, was given a suggestion, during cross-examination by the defence, that Pranesh Kumar had come to attend a wedding and after attending the wedding on his way back to his Sasural, at a secluded place, he was attacked, robbed and killed by unknown miscreants. By this suggestion the defence indirectly admitted that Pranesh was killed. Further, vide identification memorandum Ex. Ka-4, the chappal and clothes as well as photo of the deceased were identified on 30.05.2000 by PW-4 and PW-5 as that of the deceased. Hence, we reject the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant that the prosecution could not fix the identity of the headless body.

32. In so far as circumstance (c) i.e. that on 21.05.2000 deceased came to the village of the appellant with the appellant, appellant's daughter and wife by boarding an early morning train at Patna is concerned, except the evidence of PW-4 there is no direct evidence that the deceased boarded a train early morning at Patna to go to Allahabad. Interestingly, the appellant also admits in his statement under section 313 CrPC that his son in law left Patna on 21.05.2000 to go to Fatehpur to attend a friend's wedding. But the appellant denied that he and his family also came with the deceased (i.e. appellant's son in law). Rather, appellant's case is that the appellant and his family arrived at their village on 23.05.2000 when the police arrested them. What is important is that PW-4, the only witness of fact who states that the deceased left Patna to go to his Sasural, does not indicate that he saw the appellant and other co-accused with the deceased at the Patna railway station or noticed them there or had seen the appellant and other co-accused boarding the train. His statement is that the deceased met him outside the station. There is no other witness examined to indicate that the appellant along with other co-accused were seen together with the deceased on 21.05.2000. In view of the discussion above, circumstance (c) above is partly proved to the extent that the deceased left Patna on 21.05.2000. But it is not proved that the deceased left Patna with the appellant or/and the other co-accused.

33. As we have already found that the headless body was of Pranesh Kumar i.e. appellant's son in law, we also notice that it was proved by PW-1 that the headless body was found on 22.05.2000 in the grove of Daya Ram. Further, from the spot a red colour chappal (slipper) and watch strap was recovered which has been proved by seizure memo dated 22.05.2000 (Ex. Ka-3). Now, what is crucial is whether the police arrested the appellant along with the co-accused on 24.05.2000 and effected recovery of articles as reflected by seizure memos (Ex. Ka-10 and Ex Ka-11). Ex. Ka-10 is recovery memo dated 24.05.2000 showing recovery of weapon of assault (Sickle - Hansiya), a full sleeve blue stripe shirt and a jeans pant blood-stained at the pointing out of the appellant. The recovery memo does not record the disclosure statement but states that recovery was made at the pointing out of the appellant. Jabar Ali (DW-2) and Sapan Kumar Mishra (DW-3) are witnesses of the seizure memo. It also bears signature of Saroj Kumar Tiwari. Similarly, Ex Ka-11 is recovery memo dated 24.05.2000 showing recovery of Nylon rope, one shirt, colour light red with stripes, one shirt full sleeves, brownish colour, with stripes, one jeans pant, grey colour and one black colour trouser. This recovery memo Ex. Ka-11 also does not record the disclosure statement but states that recovery was made at the pointing out of the appellant. Here also Jabar Ali (DW-2) and Sapan Kumar Mishra (DW-3) are witnesses of the seizure memo. It also bears signature of Saroj Kumar Tiwari. Interestingly, in support of the two recovery memos, two site plans dated 24.05.2000 have been prepared by PW-7. One is Ex Ka-8 and the other is Ex. Ka-9. Ex. Ka-8 is titled as Naksha Najri (site plan) of deceased's blood-stained clothes. The contents of the plan would reflect that it is a grove of Daya Ram having Mahua trees. The index of the site plan (Ex. Ka-8) would suggest that the spot from where the blood-stained clothes of the deceased were taken out is shown by point A. Just north of that spot is grove of Daya Ram. When we compare it with site plan (Ex. Ka-7) prepared in respect of the spot from where the headless body was recovered on 22.05.2000 it becomes clear that the spot disclosed in site plan Ex. Ka-8 and site plan Ex Ka-7 is the same grove. Notably, as per prosecution case, body of the deceased was found lying in the grove of Daya Ram. What is important to note is that Ex Ka-8 does not indicate from where the sickle was recovered. But when we come to the statement of PW-7 (I.O.), who effected the recovery of blood stained clothes and sickle, we find that according to him recovery of blood-stained clothes was made from a room of the house of Sapan Kumar where in a haystack the sickle was hidden. Thus, the site plan which shows recovery of blood-stained shirt from near the grove of Daya Ram, where the body was found, is at complete variance with the statement of PW-7. All of this would suggest that the recovery of blood-stained shirt was from the spot i.e. where the body was found and the same was attributed to the appellant. What is also important to note is that the two witnesses of the recovery memo DW-2 and DW-3 have claimed that their signatures were obtained on plain papers and DW-3 was threatened that if he does not sign, he would be put behind bars.

34. Similarly, when we come to the site plan (Ex. Ka-9), prepared in respect of the other recovery memo, it is noticed that it is tilted as Naksha Najri (site plan) of recovery of murder weapon Hansiya (Sickle), nylon rope and other clothes of deceased Pranesh Kumar. The contents of the site plan would reflect that it relates to a house. Point A is shown as the place from where the murder weapon has been taken out. It is shown to be from haystack kept in a room. Point B is a room in the house from where two shirts and pants of Pranesh Kumar were taken out. It be noted that the index of the site plan (Ex. Ka-9) does not speak of recovery of blood-stained shirt or blood-stained pant of the deceased, it only speaks of other clothes of the deceased. Thus, what is clear from the two site plans and the recovery memos is that there were two separate places from where recoveries were shown. One, from where recovery of blood-stained clothes was shown, as per site plan (Ex. Ka-8), was near the grove of Daya Ram where the body was found and the other was the house of Sapan Kumar (DW-3) from where the Sickle and other clothes of the deceased was recovered. But, surprisingly, from the statement of PW-7 (I.O.) both recoveries were effected from the house of Sapan Kumar. Notably, the witnesses of the recoveries have not been produced by the prosecution. Rather, they have appeared as defence witnesses (DW-2 and DW-3) and have challenged the recovery by stating that they were made to sign plain papers. DW-3 from whose house recovery was made claimed that he was made to sign those papers under threat of implication. In such circumstances, as the accused-appellant claimed that the recovery was fabricated after arresting him on 23.05.2000, there arises a serious doubt with regard to the genuineness of the recovery more so, because we find no evidence on the basis of which arrest of the appellant was effected. Notably, according to the defence, the appellant was working at Patna, he took train from Patna to reach the village on 23.05.2000. At the village, he was arrested and implicated. If the appellant had been in the village from before, and information had been received regarding murder of his son in law, he would for sure been interrogated on 22.05.2000 itself, particularly, when headless body was found in the morning of 22.05.2000. As to when and from whom information was received about the involvement of the appellant and his family, warranting their arrest, the prosecution evidence is shaky. PW-7 (I.O.) only speaks of receipt of information from an informer. Another person, namely, Jainul, from whom the I.O. claims receipt of information with regard to the accused and the deceased being noticed together alighting from a Tempo in the night of 21.05.2000 has not been examined as a prosecution witness. Rather, he appeared as a defence witness (DW-1). DW-1 completely denies witnessing any such thing and denies giving information to the police. Noticeably, DW-1 was not confronted with any of his previous statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC. Further, if the appellant had his own house in the village, what was the occasion to keep clothes of the deceased in the house of Sapan Kumar. All of this would probalize the defence case that the appellant was at Patna till 22.05.2000; his son in law (i.e. the deceased) came alone, whereas the appellant arrived in the village on 23.05.2000 whereafter he was arrested and implicated. For all the reasons above, the recoveries set up by the prosecution at the instance of the appellant do not inspire our confidence, particularly, when there is no separate disclosure statement exhibited to support the recovery. Rather, it appears to be a case where the blood-stained shirt etc was recovered from near the spot from where the headless body was lifted and since the deceased had come to the village, his plain clothes and other articles were found in the house of Sapan Kumar with whom he may be staying, in absence of his father in law, as a relative of his father in law. In so far as Sickle is concerned it is a common agriculture tool. Its presence by itself is not incriminating. Interestingly, the doctor (PW-8) stated that the head could not have been severed with a grass cutting Sickle. Otherwise also, the origin of the blood found on the Sickle could not be ascertained as it had disintegrated.

35. Once we discard the alleged recoveries at the instance of the appellant, and notice that there is complete absence of evidence that the deceased was last seen alive with the appellant or the other co-accused on 21.05.2000 in the village or even in the train from which the deceased arrived, there is very little evidence against the accused appellant and, therefore, it would be highly unsafe to convict the appellant, particularly, when even the motive for the crime was not proved as already discussed above.

36. For all the reasons above, we are of the view that the prosecution has not been able to bring sufficient evidence to raise its case from the plane of suspicion to the level of proof. Further, the prosecution has not been able to rule out alternative hypothesis consistent with the innocence of the appellant. Thus, we have no option but to allow the appeal by extending the benefit of doubt to the appellant. The appeal is, accordingly, allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charge for which he has been tried and convicted. He is reported to be in jail. he shall be released forthwith unless wanted in any other case subject to fulfilment of the requirement of section 437-A CrPC to the satisfaction of trial court below.

37. Let a copy of the order be sent to the trial court for information and compliance.

Pratap Singh & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
The State of U.P. ...Opp. Party

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Ravi Shankar Tripathi, Sri S. Raizada

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 65-B (4)- Once genuineness of the CDRs was admitted by the counsel representing the appellants before the trial court and, consequent to that admission, they were marked, objection with regard to their admissibility for want of certificate contemplated under section 65-B(4) of the Evidence Act, raised for the first time before appellate court, is liable to be rejected.

Where the defence has admitted the genuineness of the call detail records before the trial court, then no objection to the same can be raised at the appellate stage.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 27- Recovery without disclosure-It appears very strange as to why would the accused-appellant no.1 carry mobile no. 9808068517 with him for 14 days without even using the same. Had it been hidden and recovered on the basis of a disclosure statement, the incriminating value of the recovery would have been much greater. But here the recovery is not on the basis of a disclosure statement made at the time of arrest. Moreover, PW-1 the witness of recovery, as per memorandum (Exb. Ka-11), does not support recovery of the phone. Further, there is a serious doubt about the timing of arrest as noticed above-The owner of the instrument i.e. PW-1's son has not been produced as a witness and the CDRs of the mobiles do not give the tower location details to enable us to connect the location of the two mobiles qua each other as also qua the place where the body of the deceased was found, we are of the considered view that the circumstance of recovery of mobile of the deceased from the appellant no.1 (Pratap) is unworthy of acceptance and is accordingly discarded.

In order to qualify as a valid recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act, the said recovery should be upon the basis of a disclosure statement and the circumstances of the recovery should be credible and trustworthy.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Last Seen theory-Chance Witness-The deceased in the company of the appellants- PW-2 is a mere chance witness who made no prompt disclosure to the police despite being fully aware of the incriminating value of what he witnessed, which renders his testimony highly doubtful. Last seen theory operates when there is close proximity between the time and place when the deceased is last seen alive with the accused and recovery of the body of the deceased. But where there is a big gap, possibility of intervening circumstances cannot be ruled out. In such a scenario, the circumstance may only raise suspicion but it would not travel to the level of proof of guilt.

The testimony of a chance witness who had last seen the deceased in the company of the accused, should be treated with caution as it is required from the said witness to give a credible explanation for his presence at the spot and there has to be a close proximity between the time when the deceased was last seen alive with the accused and the time of his death. All sentences to run concurrently.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS

2. On 03.05.2010, Mewa Ram (PW-1) gave a written missing report, dated 02.05.2010, (Exb. Ka-1) at P.S. Izzatnagar, District Bareilly which was entered in GD as report no. 70 (Exb. Ka-3), at 21.15 hours, by Head Constable Braj Raj Singh (PW-6). The written report (Exb. Ka-1) was scribed by Brij Nand Kumar Gola (son of PW-1 - not examined). In the missing report it is alleged that on 29.04.2010 at about 8.30 am, PW-1 left home to attend to his duties. When he returned at 5.30 pm, he did not find his wife Munni Devi (the deceased), aged 47 years, present. On finding his wife absent, he dialled his wife's Mobile No. 9808068517 which was found switched off. After waiting for her till 8 pm, he made efforts to contact his relatives to ascertain her whereabouts, but could get no information about her. During search of her possessions, it was found that her bank passbook of U.P. Regional Gramin Bank, Branch Partapur, Bareilly and Rs. 5,000/- including gold chain, earrings and other jewellery articles were missing. Suspecting foul play, missing report was lodged without naming any suspect.

3. As per prosecution story on 12.05.2010, PW-5 (Rajesh Kumar Singh) got information that discovery of an unknown female body was reported at P.S. Moosajhag, Badaun. On getting this information, PW-5, with PW-1 and Head Constable Vinod Kumar (not examined) went to P.S. Moosajagh, Budaun. There, on the basis of clothes and photograph, PW-1 could identify that the photograph was of his missing wife Munni Devi's body. As a result whereof papers concerning inquest, autopsy, etc of that body were brought to P.S. Izatnagar, Bareilly and on 13.05.2010, vide report no. 33, at 10.30 hours, the missing report was converted into Case Crime No. 1073 of 2010 under Sections 364, 302, 201 I.P.C.

4. According to the prosecution case the appellants were arrested on 13.05.2010; at the time of arrest, appellant no.1 (Pratap Singh) was found in possession of two mobile instruments of Nokia model no. 1208 and 1209, with SIM of numbers 8954197544 and 9808068517. Evidencing that seizure, a memorandum (Exb. Ka-11), witnessed by PW-1 and other police personnel, was prepared. After investigation it was found that Mobile No. 8954177544 was of Pratap Singh (appellant no.1) whereas Mobile No. 9808068517 was of Munni Devi's son Yatindra. The call detail records collected indicated that calls were exchanged between the two mobile numbers on 25.04.2010, 26.04.2010, 27.04.2010 and 29.04.2010.

5. During investigation, on 05.06.2010 statement of Jagan Lal (PW-2) was recorded. He disclosed that on 29.04.2010, at about 11 am, he noticed Pratap Singh and Raju (appellants) with Munni Devi (the deceased) at Pachlore Chauraha on Rampur road.

6. After completing the investigation, on 05.06.2010 charge-sheet (Exb. Ka-13) was submitted by Pradeep Kumar Tripathi (PW-8) against the appellants. Cognisance was taken on the charge-sheet and thereafter the case was committed to the Court of Session. On 04.05.2012, the Court of Session charged both the appellants with offences punishable under Sections 364/34, 302/34, 201 and 404/34 I.P.C. The appellants pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

7. During the course of trial, the prosecution examined as many as nine witnesses. Their testimony, in brief, is as follows:-

8. PW-1 - Mewa Ram (husband of the deceased). He reiterated the contents of the written report (Exb. Ka-1). Thereafter, PW-1 stated that missing report of his wife was published in the newspaper. [Note: The newspaper report was produced, which was marked material exhibit-1] (*This newspaper cutting reveals that news item was published on 05.05.2010 with photograph of the deceased). PW-1 stated that thirteen days after the incident, he came to know from the police that an unknown female body has been found within the jurisdiction of P.S. Moosajhag, District Budaun. On this information, PW-1 and police personnel from police station Izzatnagar went to police station Moosajhag where, from clothes and photograph it was ascertained that the photograph was of the body of the deceased. It was also discovered that the inquest and autopsy of the body had been done and it was cremated. In respect of recovery of the mobile which his wife (the deceased) was using, PW-1 stated that it was not recovered in his presence. Rather, the police had recovered it. In respect of relationship with his wife (the deceased), PW-1 stated that on 02.05.1999 while they were travelling together they met with an accident in which his wife sustained injuries. Since then, his wife (the deceased) had behavioural issues. She used to make false accusations and used to speak loudly. To cure herself of these behavioural issues she came in the grip of ''Tantrik' (sorcerer) and ''Sadhus' (saints). PW-1 stated that he learnt that when he used to be away from his house, ''Tantrik' (Pratap) used to visit her.

On 25.07.2013, PW-1 was examined again to identify the seized clothes etc. worn by the deceased at the time of her death. On the basis of their identification by PW-1, those clothes etc were made material exhibits.

During cross-examination, PW-1 stated that he had been with his wife for 25 years; that the written report (Exb. Ka-1) was scribed by his son Brijendra Kumar Gola and it was given on 02.05.2010. The information regarding his wife being missing was published in the newspaper; that neither her abduction nor murder was witnessed by him; and that neither in the written report (Exb. Ka-1), nor in the article published in the newspaper, suspicion was expressed against anyone. He denied the suggestion that he had lodged a false missing report.

9. PW-2 -Jagan Lal - This witness has been examined by the prosecution as a witness of last seen circumstance.

PW-2 stated that he knows PW-1 and his wife (Munni Devi-the deceased) as earlier they used to reside in CB Colony near PW-2's house. He also knows accused Pratap Singh and Raju as Pratap's sister is married in village Pinidher where PW-2's sister is married. Pratap Singh and Raju were residing as tenants of Sriram, which is half a kilometre from PW-2's house. Village Pachlore falls within the jurisdiction of P.S. CB Colony. In respect of the incident, PW-2 stated that on 29.04.2010, at about 11 am, he saw Pratap Singh and Raju with Munni Devi at Pachlore Chauraha, Rampur road. They were waiting for a conveyance. All three were wearing clothes of yellow colour. When PW-2 asked them as to where they were going, all three told him that they were going to Sai Baba's Darbaar. PW-2 stated that few days later, he read in the newspaper that Munni Devi had gone missing. He also learnt that body of Munni Devi was found within the jurisdiction of PS Moosajhag, District Budaun. He stated that in the newspaper, photograph of Munni Devi was published. When he met Mewa Ram (PW-1), he informed PW-1 that he had noticed Munni Devi in the company of Pratap Singh and Raju on 29.04.2010.

During cross-examination, PW-2 stated that Mewa Ram's house in CB Colony was at a distance of 200-300 meters from his house; that now in that house of Mewa Ram, Mewa Ram's son is residing. On being questioned as to when Mewa Ram shifted from CB Colony's house, PW-2 stated that he does not remember. But he clarified by stating that PW-1 and his wife had been visiting CB Colony. PW-2 stated that his relations with Mewa Ram are cordial and being residents of the same locality, they had been on visiting terms. PW-2 stated that though he had not met Mewa Ram in those 10-15 days preceding the date of the incident but he had met him (Mewa Ram) 5-6 days after the incident.

PW-2 further stated that he has a furniture shop at Rampur road. In respect of the day of the incident i.e. 29.04.2010, PW-2 stated he had left his house at quarter to 11 in the morning to go to his furniture shop. He arrived at his shop at quarter to 12. That day, he was in his shop till the evening. When he left his house for the shop, he did not meet anyone. Immediately thereafter, PW-2 clarified that when he was returning in the evening from his shop he did not meet anyone but, while he was going to his shop, he met Pratap, Raju and Munni Devi.

In respect of his reaction on the missing report published in the newspaper, PW-2 stated that the newspaper report about Munni Devi going missing was published 3-4 days after the incident. The day he read the missing report in the newspaper, he gave information to Mewa Ram (PW-1). Mewa Ram had come to his house with his son. The relevant extracts of PW-2's statement in this regard are reproduced below:-

'मेरी घटना से पहले महीना दो महीना पहले मुन्नी देवी, प्रताप से मुलाकात नही हुयी थी अखबार मे निकला था मुन्नी देवी गायब हो गयी है अखबार मे तीन चार दिन बाद निकला था। जिस दिन मैने पेपर मे पढ़ा उस दिन मैने मेवाराम को सूचना दी थी। उसी दिन मेवाराम अपने पत्नी के विषय मे पूछताछ करने आये थे मेवाराम के साथ उसका बेटा भी था।''

On further questioning, PW-2 stated that he gave information to the police about 15 days after the incident. The police had interrogated him at P.S. Izzatnagar. PW-2 admitted the suggestion that his sister is married in the same village where Pratap's sister was married. However, PW-2 denied the suggestion that as relations between his sister and Pratap's sister are sour, he is making a false statement.

10. PW-3 - Majid - A village chowkidar who discovered the body of the deceased. He stated that about 3-1/2 years ago, at about 5 pm, while he was herding his goats in the jungle, he found a female body in a Barsati Naala. The body was in a yellow colour sari and blouse. He gave information about discovering the body. Upon his information, the police arrived at the spot, conducted inquest and sent it for autopsy.

During cross-examination, he stated that he found the body at about 5.30 pm. He stated that he is not a literate person; he had just put his thumb impression on the report; that the body had marks of injury around the neck.

11. PW-4 - Dr. Harpal Singh- He is the autopsy surgeon who conducted the autopsy. He stated that on 01.05.2010, while he was posted as Medical Superintendent at District Hospital, Budaun, at about 3.30 pm, he conducted autopsy of an unknown female body. PW-4 stated that in his report he described the body as of average built and that rigor mortis had passed off; decomposition had started; skin was peeling off; abdomen was distended; and the entire body including face was swollen. No external ante-mortem injury was noticed but, on dissection of neck, trachea was found congested; hyoid bone was found fractured; brain and lungs were congested; stomach was empty; small intestine had chyme and gases; large intestine had faecal matter and gases. According to him, death was a result of asphyxia due to injuries noticed on the neck. On the basis of his statement, autopsy report was marked Exb. Ka-2. PW-4 stated that time since death before autopsy was about 2-3 days.

Opportunity to cross-examine PW-4 was given but it was not availed.

12. PW-5 - Rajesh Kumar Singh. He stated that on 03.05.2010, he was posted at Chowki of PS Izzatnagar when PW-1 (Mewa Ram) lodged a missing report regarding his wife Munni Devi. During investigation, he learnt that an unknown female body was found within the jurisdiction of PS Moosajhag, Budaun. On getting that information, he, PW-1 and Head Constable Vinod Kumar went to PS Moosajhag and there from the clothes and photograph of the body, PW-1 identified that the photograph was of his wife's body. Consequently, he obtained inquest report and other papers and gave information to SHO Pradeep Kumar Tripathi (PW-8) whereafter, vide report no. 33, dated 13.05.2010, at 10.30 hours, the missing report was converted into Case Crime No. 1073 of 2010, under Sections 364/302/201 I.P.C. PW-5 stated that on 13.05.2010 itself, he, along with S.O. Pradeep Kumar Tripathi (PW-8), arrested the accused Pratap Singh and Raju from near CB Ganj Railway Station at about 19.30 hours. From the possession of Pratap Singh mobile set of Munni Devi (the deceased) was recovered, which was identified by PW-1.

During cross-examination, PW-5 denied the suggestion that the accused was wrongly shown arrested on 13.05.2010 at 19.30 hrs when, in fact, he was lifted from his house in the morning at 5.00 am on 13.05.2010 and thereafter was made to sit at the police station. Note: It appears from paper no. 32 Kha/89 on the trial court record that PW-5 was shown the news paper report wherein arrest of the appellant Pratap on the previous date was published. In that context, PW-5 admitted that such information was published in the newspaper. He, however, denied the suggestion that a false case was fabricated against the accused. At this stage, the witness was given another suggestion, which was, that Pratap's servant was lifted on 12.05.2010 and was made to sit at the police station, which was published in newspaper. PW-2 denied this suggestion and claimed that no such news was published in the newspaper. He also denied the suggestion that the accused persons were lifted from their shop and falsely implicated.

13. PW-6- Head Constable Braj Raj Singh. He is the person who made GD Entry of the missing report (Exb. Ka-1) submitted by PW-1. He stated that in the month of May, 2010, he was posted as Head Constable at PS Izzatnagar. On 03.05.2010, Mewa Ram (PW-1) gave a written missing report which was entered in the GD on 03.05.2010 at 21.15 hours vide report no.70. He proved the copy of the GD entry, which was marked Exb. Ka-3. He stated that on 13.05.2010, S.I. Rajesh Kumar Singh (PW-5) returned to the police station with information about the death of Smt. Munni Devi and had deposited the inquest report, autopsy report along with a bunch of papers. PW-5 also told PW-6 that the informant has been able to identify the body of his wife on the basis of clothes and photographs. PW-6 stated that the autopsy report indicated that death was a result of strangulation therefore, vide report no. 33, dated 13.05.2010, at 10.30 hours, the missing report was converted into Case Crime No. 1073 of 2010, under Sections 364/302/201 I.P.C. He proved copy of the GD entry of conversion, which was marked Exb. Ka-4.

During cross-examination, PW-6 confirmed that the missing report was given by PW-1 on 03.05.2010 at 21.15 hours which was entered in the GD by Constable Clerk Virendra Kumar. He stated that Constable Virendra Kumar was posted with him at the police station. He identified the signature of Virendra Kumar. He stated that the GD entry of conversion was made on return of S.I. Rajesh Kumar Singh when he had come with inquest report, clothes etc. of the deceased. He denied the suggestion that the conversion entry was made under pressure of S.I. Rajesh Kumar Singh. He also denied the suggestion that the Constable Clerk Virendra Kumar was not posted with him at the police station concerned. He also denied the suggestion that missing report was fabricated.

14. PW-7 - S.I. Virendra Pal Singh. He is a witness of preparation of inquest report and papers relating to autopsy of the body. He stated that on 30.04.2010, he was posted at PS Moosajhag, Budaun. On that day, village Chowkidar-Majid gave information with regard to discovery of a female body in his area. On receipt of that information, PW-7 and fellow police personnel went to the spot and conducted inquest. After conducting inquest, he prepared papers such as challan lash, photo lash, etc. for autopsy of the body. The inquest report and autopsy related papers were marked Exb. Ka-5 to Exb. Ka-10.

15. PW-8 - Pradeep Kumar Tripathi -The Investigating Officer. He stated that he was posted as In-charge of P.S. Izzatnagar. On 13.05.2010, he took over investigation of Case Crime No. 1073 of 2010; that after collecting copy of inquest report, autopsy report, etc he recorded the statements of Constable Braj Raj Singh and Mewa Ram (the informant) and made search for the accused persons; that the accused persons were arrested; they confessed their guilt and from Pratap, Mobile No. 8954197544 and 9808068517 (which was of Munni Devi) were recovered. Both mobiles were seized and sealed in a cloth; a seizure memo was prepared, which was signed by him, the witnesses and Pratap (the accused). The seizure memo was marked Exb. Ka-11. The second CD parcha was prepared on 22.05.2010 when statement of I.O., who prepared inquest report, village chowkidar and other inquest witnesses were recorded and on the instructions of that village chowkidar, the site plan of the place from where body was recovered was prepared, which was marked Exb. Ka-12. He stated that on the same day, he recorded statement of Raksh Pal, Sukhbir Singh and the Constable, who took the body for autopsy. On 27.05.2010, he obtained ID of the two mobiles as also their call detail records (CDRs). From the CDRs it was noticed that calls were exchanged between the two mobiles on 25.4.2010, 26.04.2010, 27.04.2010 and 29.04.2010. After 29.04.2010, there were no calls made, inter se, the two mobiles. He stated that one mobile recovered from Pratap was in the ID of Pratap whereas the other mobile, which was allegedly in use of the deceased (Munni Devi), was in the name of her son (Yatindra). PW-8 stated that on 03.06.2010, he recorded the statement of S.I. Rajesh Singh, S.I. S.S. Mishra, Head Constable Vinod Kumar, Constable Bhupendra Kumar and Constable Amit Kumar. Thereafter, on 05.06.2010, he recorded statement of Jagan Lal (PW-2). After completing the investigation, he submitted charge-sheet under Sections 302 364, 201 and 404 I.P.C., which was marked Exb. Ka-13.

During cross-examination, he stated that he took over investigation of the case on 13.05.2010; by then, on 12.05.2010, the body of Munni Devi (the deceased) had already been identified on the basis of photograph at P.S. Moosajhag, District Budaun. He stated that he had not gone to PS Moosajhag. Rather, the Chowki Incharge S.I. Rajesh Kumar Singh and Head Constable Vinod Kumar had gone to PS Moosajhag. With them, deceased's husband Mewa Ram had also gone. He denied the suggestion that he did not properly investigate the case and submitted a false charge-sheet.

On 31.03.2017, PW-8 was re-examined. He stated that the mobile instrument mentioned in the seizure memo (Exb. Ka-11) is not before him because, despite request for its production, report was received that due to fire in the Malkhana, the mobiles got destroyed in respect of which a GD entry was made on 13.05.2013, vide report no. 68 at 22.30 hours.

During cross-examination, the witness confirmed that the mobile was destroyed in the fire that took place in the Malkhana.

On 02.11.2018, PW-8 was again re-examined under order of the court dated 27.06.2018. During re-examination, PW-8 stated that when the accused Pratap was arrested, two mobile phones were recovered, namely, 8954197544, which was of Pratap, and 9808068517, which was of the deceased; and the call detail records indicated that inter se the two mobiles multiple calls were exchanged. PW-8 clarified that Mobile no. 8954197544stood in the name of Pratap Singh whereas Mobile no. 9808068517 stood in the name of Yatindra son of Munni Devi. PW-8 proved the CDRs obtained by him from Call Detail Electronic System. Those CDRs were marked Exb. Ka-15 to Exb. Ka-22.

16. PW-9 - Ved Prakash Agnihotri. He stated that he was posted at Sadar Malkhana police station, Bareilly. In the Malkhana register vide Serial No. 1168/12 articles were deposited in connection with Case Crime No. 1073 of 2010. On 24.07.2014, there was a fire accident in Sadar Malkhana, Bareilly and the articles got destroyed. He proved the report in connection therewith which was exhibited as Exb. Ka-14.

During cross-examination, PW-9 stated that clothes etc. of the deceased, which were also deposited vide report no. 1168/12 in connection with Case Crime No. 1073 of 2010, were produced on 25.07.2013. He reiterated that the fire accident in the Malkhana took place on 24.07.2014.

STATEMENT OF THE ACCUSED U/S 313 CRPC

17. (a) Statement of accused Raju:

In his first statement recorded on 04.02.2015, he denied the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence against him and stated that he met Munni Devi only when Mewa Ram (PW-1) used to visit Budaun with her; on his own, he never visited Bareilly. He claimed himself innocent and falsely implicated. He denied the incriminating circumstance in respect of recovery of mobile of Munni Devi as also with regard to the call detail records.

In his additional statement recorded on 03.11.2017, he stated that he is innocent and this is the first criminal case against him.

On 17.01.2019, yet another additional statement of accused Raju was recorded in which, in response to Question No. 2, Raju stated that there was no recovery of mobile of Munni Devi from him. He again denied the call detail records put to him. He also denied having conversations with Munni Devi on the mobile.

(b) Statement of accused-appellant Pratap:

His first statement u/s 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 04.02.2015 in which he denied the incriminating circumstances including the recovery of mobile phone of Munni Devi from him which was put to him vide question no. 6. He also denied telephonic conversation with Munni Devi, which was put to him vide question no. 9. He stated that the investigation was not fair; that a false charge-sheet has been submitted; that there is enmity between him and Jagan Lal (PW-2) and he has been falsely implicated.

Additional statement was recorded on 03.11.2017 in respect of report of fire accident at Malkhana on 24.7.2014 and destruction of articles in that fire.

He denied the said circumstance and claimed that this is the first criminal case against him.

In addition to above, another additional statement of Pratap was recorded u/s 313 Cr.P.C. on 17.01.2019 wherein, in response to question no.2 put to him, he again denied the recovery of mobile of Munni Devi from him. Further, he did not admit the CDRs put to him vide question no. 3; and denied having talks with Munni Devi from Mobile No. 8954197544 on Mobile No. 9808068517. But he did not deny that mobile no. 8954197544 was in his name and that mobile no.9808068517 stood in the name of son of Munni Devi. He claimed that the prosecution has failed to prove its case and therefore, he be acquitted.

DEFENCE EVIDENCE

18. A defence witness was examined, namely, Smt. Ratnesh, as DW-1.

19. DW-1 stated that she is a neighbour of Pratap; she has been residing in Budaun for last 10 years; that the lady who has been killed, was never seen in her mohalla; Pratap has a shop; in that shop, Raju works as an employee. They have been falsely implicated.

During cross-examination, DW-1 stated that she is illiterate; she appeared as a witness without being summoned; she was informed by Pratap that she has to give her evidence; she gave her statement as a neighbour of Pratap and whatever she has stated is correct. She admitted that when Pratap leaves his house, he does not inform her; she does not know whether Pratap had visited Pachlore, Bareilly on 29.04.2010. She denied the suggestion that she has made a false statement to save Pratap. She also denied the suggestion that Pratap is a "Tantrik" and practiced sorcery for the purposes of extorting money, jewellery etc.

To the Court, DW-1 informed that she is a household lady and remains in her house. She admitted that there are several houses in her colony and she is not aware as to who visits her neighbour.

TRIAL COURT FINDINGS

20. The trial court found following circumstances proved:- that on 29.04.2010, the deceased went missing from her home; that the deceased was not keeping well, therefore she use to take help of "Tantrik" etc.; that the deceased had been in touch with the appellant Pratap as could be elicited from the CDRs of the two mobiles; that on the day when she went missing i.e. 29.04.2014, there were exchange of calls inter se mobile of the deceased and mobile of the accused Pratap; that on 29.04.2010, PW-2 saw the accused Pratap and Raju with the deceased at about 11 am in a yellow saree; that the deceased was not seen alive thereafter; that on 30.04.2010 the body of the deceased was discovered wearing yellow colour saree; that the autopsy report confirmed homicidal death; that the medical evidence indicated that her death could have occurred on 29.04.2010; and that the accused Pratap was found in possession of the mobile of the deceased. Upon finding all the above circumstances proved, the trial court found these circumstances constituting a chain so complete that in absence of any explanation from the appellants as to when they parted company of the deceased and how the mobile phone of the deceased came in their possession, it pointed conclusively that except the appellants there was no one else who committed murder of the deceased and to hide evidence thereof disposed off the body in the jungle. After holding as above, the appellants were convicted and sentenced as above.

21. We have heard Sri R.S. Tripathi for the appellants and Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned A.G.A., for the State and have perused the record.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANTS

22. The learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence. Firstly, the incriminating circumstances have not been proved beyond reasonable doubt and, secondly, it does not form a chain so complete as to conclusively point towards the guilt of the appellants by ruling out hypotheses consistent with the innocence of the appellants. That apart, the prosecution story appears inherently improbable and does not at all inspire confidence for the following reasons:-

(i) The deceased went missing from home on 29.04.2010 yet, PW-1 (husband of the deceased) who came to learn about the deceased having gone missing in the evening of 29.04.2010 lodged no report till the night of 03.05.2010. Moreover, PW-1 himself stated that his wife had behavioural issues since 1999 and she used to make false accusations on him and use to speak loudly and had fallen in the grip of Tantriks and saints; and that it was learnt that in his absence Tantrik Pratap (the appellant no.1) used to visit her house yet, there is no mention of these facts in the missing report, which was lodged after three clear days. Further, these circumstances would indicate that PW-1 had motive to get rid off his wife and, therefore, his conduct of delaying the missing report shrouds the prosecution story in doubt and throws a serious possibility of PW-1 having a hand in the murder of his wife;

(ii) PW-5 stated that during investigation on the missing report he received information with regard to discovery of an unknown female body within the jurisdiction of P.S. Moosajhag, Budaun but the date, time and source when and from whom PW-5 received that information is not disclosed. PW-8 also does not disclose the source of that information. PW-1 only states this much that after 13 days he learnt from the police station that a dead body was found within the jurisdiction of P.S. Moosajhag, Budaun. No witness from police station Moosajhag, Budaun, except PW-7, has been produced to prove as to when information of discovery of body was given either to PW-1 or to the police of police station Izatnagar, Bareilly. PW-7 who was posted at P.S. Moosajhag, Budaun at the relevant time speaks of holding inquest on 30.04.2010. He does not give any information as to when information with regard to discovery of body was provided to PW-1 and the police of P.S. Izatnagar. Thus, the prosecution evidence is silent as to how the information about discovery of body came to P.S. Izzatnagar. Further, from the testimony of both PW-1 and PW-2 it is clear that news item of the deceased going missing with her photograph was published in newspaper on 05.05.2010, giving numbers of persons to be contacted on getting any information (See Material Exb. 1), yet, till 12.05.2010 no information about the deceased could be gathered, which is unbelievable. It therefore appears to be a case where the investigation agency in collusion with PW-1 was building up a story and when they found a soft target, the story was given its shape. It may also be a case where the investigating agency was groping in the dark and just to solve out the case developed the prosecution story. These two possibilities derive strength also from the circumstance that if the body was identified on 12.05.2010, as per testimony of PW-8, then why there was no conversion entry of the missing report till 13.05.2010 and why there was no recording of statement of the informant (PW-1) till 13.5.2010. All of this would suggest that either the investigating agency in collusion with PW-1 was building up a case with ulterior motive or it had no clue about the murder and just to solve out the case, the story was developed by guess work upon finding a soft target.

23. The recovery of mobile phone of deceased's son, alleged to be in use of the deceased, from Pratap on 13.05.2010 is completely bogus and false for the following reasons: (a) the recovery memorandum says that recovery was made in the presence of PW-1 on 13.05.2010 but PW-1, in his statement, specifically stated that mobile of his wife was not recovered in his presence rather, the police on its own recovered the mobile; (b) the recovery is neither on the basis of a disclosure statement nor from any place where the mobile might have been hidden, rather, it was found in possession of the appellant-Pratap at the time of his arrest on 13.05.2010. There appears a news paper report, publication of which is accepted by PW-5 on the suggestion given to him, that Pratap was lifted from home earlier. Therefore, the entire recovery becomes doubtful. Further, as per call detail record, there is no call made from Mobile No. 9808068517 after 29.04.2010 therefore, what was the purpose of carrying the said mobile by the accused from 29.04.2010 till 13.05.2010. Otherwise also, the tower location of the mobile was not obtained to ascertain whether the two mobiles at any given time were found at one location. All of this would suggest that this mobile was very much in possession of the informant or a member of his family and was planted only to create evidence of recovery against the appellant.

24. The CDRs are not proved inasmuch as there is no certificate as contemplated by section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act. Even otherwise, as there is no evidence in respect of location of the mobile, even if calls were exchanged between the two instruments, namely, one of the appellant Pratap and the other of the deceased, it can be of no help in drawing an inference with regard to the guilt of the accused appellants for the offences of abduction or murder.

25. In so far as the last seen circumstance narrated by PW-2 is concerned, firstly, the testimony of PW-2 is highly unreliable as he is just a chance witness, secondly, his statement was recorded after a month on 05.06.2010 even though, according to PW-2, he had good relations with PW-1 and had noticed the missing report published in the newspaper just 3-4 days after she had gone missing and, thirdly, PW-2 claims that he gave information of the last seen circumstance to PW-1 immediately on reading missing report in the newspaper but, if that was so, PW-1 would have made a prompt disclosure to the police about complicity of the appellants. Interestingly, there was no such disclosure by PW-1 even in his statement to the I.O. on 13.05.2010. All of this would suggest that the police was groping in the dark and just to solve out the case, false evidence was created.

26. It was argued that the trial court has failed to evaluate the evidence in proper perspective and it took the evidence fabricated against the appellant as gospel truth. Hence, it was prayed that the judgment and order of the trial court be set aside and the appellant be acquitted.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

27. Sri J.K. Upadhyay, learned A.G.A., appearing for the State, submitted that the delay in lodging the missing report is not sufficient to draw an adverse inference against the prosecution because it is quite natural that a person would be on the look out for his wife and only when he finds himself helpless that he would lodge a report. It was argued that there is no dispute that out of the two mobiles recovered from the possession of the appellant no.1, one was of appellant no.1. The call detail records were exhibited and no objection to its admissibility was raised. Rather, the counsel for the accused-appellants, namely, Sri S. Raizada, made an endorsement on the CDRs to the effect that he accepts their genuineness. Therefore, its admissibility cannot be challenged in appeal. The call detail records indicated exchange of calls between the mobile of the appellant and the other mobile, which stood in the name of deceased's son Yatindra and was in use of the deceased. There is no explanation of the appellant no.1 as to in what connection calls were made to and received from the other mobile. This clearly means that the appellants are hiding true facts. It was submitted that since the police witnesses have proved the recovery of the two mobiles from appellant no.1 and the CDRs indicate that there were exchange of calls between the two mobiles, the burden was on the accused to explain as to in what circumstances the other mobile was in his possession. In absence whereof, an adverse inference in respect of the guilt of the appellant was rightly drawn by the trial court.

28. Learned A.G.A. also submitted that PW-2 had noticed the deceased in the company of the two appellants on 29.04.2010 at about 11 am and thereafter the deceased was not seen alive. Nothing much could be pointed out with regard to any malice or enmity of PW-2 with the two accused as to doubt his testimony therefore, the burden was on the two accused to explain whether they parted company with the deceased or not. In absence of any explanation and in view of recovery of the mobile of the deceased from the appellant no.1, the trial court was justified in holding that the chain of circumstances stood complete pointing conclusively that in all human probability it was the appellant and no one else who committed the murder of the deceased and to remove the evidence of murder, threw her body in a Naala. Learned A.G.A. therefore prayed that the appeal be dismissed and the judgment and order of conviction and sentence be confirmed.

29. Having noticed the rival submissions and the entire evidence on record, admittedly, there is no direct evidence of the crime therefore, before we proceed to evaluate the evidence, we must bear in mind the legal principles as regards when an accused can be convicted on evidence circumstantial in nature. The law in this regard is well settled. In the oft-quoted and consistently followed decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra (1984) 4 SCC 116, the legal principles in this regard have been summarised, in paragraph 153 of the judgment, as follows:-

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established: (1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra (1973) 2 SCC 793 where the following observations were made:

"19. .....Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between

'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and (5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

30. In light of the legal principles noticed above, we would have to ascertain, firstly, as to what were the incriminating circumstances relied upon by the prosecution, secondly, whether those were of conclusive nature and tendency, thirdly, whether the prosecution has been successful in proving those circumstances beyond reasonable doubt and, fourthly, whether they form a chain so complete as to show, by excluding all reasonable hypotheses consistent with the innocence of the accused, that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused and no one else.

31. In the instant case, the prosecution seeks to rely on following circumstances:-

(a) The deceased, wife of PW-1, after her accident in the year 1999, had behavioural issues as a result whereof she was seeking advice and had fallen in the grip of "Tantriks/Priests". The accused-appellant no.1 was a "Tantrik". The deceased was in touch with the accused-appellant no.1 as could be gathered from CDRs of the mobile of the appellant no.1 and the mobile in use of the deceased. On 29.04.2010 at about 5.30 pm, when PW-1 returned from office, he discovered his wife (the deceased) missing. Upon which, when PW-1 dialled the mobile of the deceased it was found switched off. Despite hectic search when deceased could not be traced out and when it was noticed that she had taken Rs.5000/- cash, a missing report was lodged by PW-1 at P.S. Izatnagar, Bareilly on 03.05.2010. Whereafter, when it was learnt that a female body was found within the jurisdiction of PS Moosajhag, Budaun, on 12.05.2010 PW-1 with the police team of P.S. Izzatnagar, Bareilly went to P.S. Moosajhag, Budaun where, from clothes and photograph of the body, it was identified that the body which was found on 30.04.2010 and cremated thereafter was of the deceased.

(b) Inquest report dated 30.04.2010 and autopsy report dated 01.05.2010, collected from P.S. Moosajhag, Bareilly, confirmed a homicidal death. Autopsy report prepared on 01.05.2010 at 3.30 pm indicated that the deceased could have died about 2-3 days before, which correlates with the date 29.04.2010 i.e. the date when she went missing;

(c) PW-2 saw the deceased and the two appellants together at 11.00 am on 29.04.2010. When PW-2 noticed the deceased she was wearing a yellow colour saree. The body of the deceased was clothed in the same colour, which fact is confirmed by its photograph, inquest report and clothes seized at the time of inquest/ autopsy;

(d) On 13.05.2010 two mobile phones were recovered from the appellant no.1; one of those two, was of the son of the deceased in use of the deceased. The CDRs of the two mobile phones confirmed exchange of calls inter se the two mobile phones. The last call from/on the mobile used by the deceased was on 29.04.2010 which corroborates PW-1's statement that deceased's mobile was found switched off when he dialled her number;

(e) No explanation came from the appellants as to under what circumstances they were together with the deceased and whether they parted company of each other, if so, when. Further, there is no explanation as to in what circumstances appellant Pratap was found in possession of the mobile phone of the deceased.

According to the prosecution, these circumstances formed a chain so complete that pointed conclusively that in all human probability it was the appellants and no one else who committed the murder of the deceased for the money which the deceased was carrying when she left her home on 29.04.2010.

32. Having narrated the circumstances on which the prosecution seeks to build its case against the appellants, for a convenient and effective analysis of the evidence, we divide the evidence led by the prosecution into multiple parts, namely, (a) that the deceased was wife of PW-1; (b) she had an accident in 1999 due to which she used to have behavioural issues; (c) for treatment of those issues she used to consult Tantrik etc in which connection Pratap Tantrik used to visit her house; (d) that on 29.04.2010 at 8.30 am PW-1 left his house to attend to his duties and returned at 5.30 pm to find his wife absent; (e) upon finding his wife absent, he dialled her number 9808068517, which was found switched off; (f) when, despite hectic search, PW-1 could not find his wife, he submitted missing report (Exb. Ka-1), dated 02.05.2010, on 03.05.2010 at 21.15 hrs at P.S. Izzatnagar; (g) that on 12.05.2010, upon information that an unknown body was found within the jurisdiction of P.S. Moosajhag, Budaun, PW-1 and PW-5 visited the said police station and identified the body from its photograph and clothes; (h) that from the police papers received from P.S. Moosajhag, Budaun it was noticed that the body was discovered by PW-3 in the Naala of a jungle on 30.04.2010 at about 5.00 pm or so and that the autopsy confirmed that it was a homicidal death; (i) that on 13.05.2010, vide report no.33, at 10.30 hrs, on the basis of papers received from P.S. Moosajhag, case was converted to case crime no.1073 of 2010 at P.S. Izzatnagar, Bareilly and investigation was taken over by PW-8; (j) on 13.05.2010, statement of PW-1 was recorded; (k) on 13.05.2010 at 19.30 hrs both the appellants were arrested from CB Ganj, Railway Station and from the possession of appellant Pratap two mobiles were recovered, one was of the appellant Pratap and the other was of deceased's son, which was claimed to be in use of the deceased, of which seizure memorandum (Ex. Ka-11) was prepared; (l) the call detail records of the two mobiles indicated that there had been exchange of calls between the two mobiles from 25.04.2010 to 29.04.2010 and the last call on/from the mobile in use of the deceased was made on 29.04.2010 i.e. the date when the deceased went missing; (m) on 29.04.2010 at 11 am, PW-2 had noticed the deceased in the company of two appellants and at that time the deceased was wearing yellow colour saree; (n) that the body of the deceased which was found next day on 30.04 2010 had a saree of yellow colour; and (o) the autopsy report dated 01.05.2010 not only proved that death was homicidal but it also indicated that it occurred two or three days before, which correlates with the date when she was last seen alive in the company of the appellants.

Admissibility of the CDRs without the certificate

33. Before we proceed to determine whether each of the above narrated circumstances have been proved beyond reasonable doubt, we would deal with the legal submission of the learned counsel for the appellant with regard to the admissibility of the CDRs brought on record without the certificate as contemplated under section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act. It is now settled by a three-judge Bench decision of the Supreme Court in Arjun Panditrao Khotkar v. Kailash Kushanrao Gorantyal and others, (2020) 7 SCC 1, following an earlier three-judge Bench decision in Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer and others, (2014) 10 SCC 473, that the certificate required under section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act is a condition precedent to the admissibility of secondary evidence of an electronic record and that the secondary evidence is admissible only if led in the manner stated and not otherwise. In that decision it was held that section 65-B differentiates between the original information contained in the computer itself and copies made therefrom -- the former is the primary evidence and the latter being secondary evidence. It was held that certificate required under section 65-B (4) is unnecessary if the primary evidence, such as a laptop, computer, computer tablet or even a mobile phone, etc is produced and proved by its owner by entering the witness box and proving that the device concerned, on which the original information is first stored, is owned and/or operated by him. However, where the computer happens to be a part of the computer system or computer network and it becomes impossible to physically bring such system or network to the court, then the only means of providing information contained in such electronic record can be in accordance with S.65-B(1), together with the requisite certificate under section 65-B (4).

34. In this case the issue that arises for our consideration is a bit different. Here, we notice from the trial court record that the genuineness of the call detail records (CDRs) was admitted by Sri S. Raizada Advocate, counsel representing the accused-appellants. On the basis of his admission, the CDRs were exhibited as Exb. Ka-15 to Exb. Ka-20 and Exb. Ka-21. However, there is no certificate on record as contemplated by section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act. In this context, the moot question that arises for our consideration is whether, once the secondary evidence of the CDRs is taken on record as an exhibited document consequent to acceptance of its genuineness by the counsel for the accused-appellants, the same is to be eschewed from consideration for want of a certificate as contemplated by section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act. This issue is no longer res integra. In Sonu alias Amar v. State of Haryana, (2017) 8 SCC 570, an identical issue came up for consideration before the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court relying on earlier decisions including one in R.V.E. Venkatchala Gounder v. Arulmigu Viswesaraswami & V.P. Temple, (2003) 8 SCC 752 held that objections regarding admissibility of documents which are per se inadmissible can be taken even at the appellate stage but where objection is with regard to the mode or method of proof, the same being procedural, if not taken at trial, cannot be permitted at appellate stage. The Supreme Court held that it is nobody's case that CDRs which are a form of an electronic record printed on paper are not inherently admissible in evidence. The objection is only in respect of mode or method of proof. If an objection was taken to CDRs being marked without a certificate, the trial court could have given the prosecution an opportunity to rectify the deficiency. The Supreme Court observed that an objection relating to mode or method of proof is to be raised at the time of marking of document as an exhibit i.e. at the trial stage, and not later. With the above reasoning, upon finding that the CDRs were already exhibited in the records of the trial court and the objection was only with regard to the mode of proof, the Supreme Court overruled the objection as to the admissibility of the CDRs without the certificate contemplated under Section 65-B(4). The above decision of the Supreme Court was followed in Rajender alias Rajesh alias Raju v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2019) 10 SCC 623 where also, the Supreme Court did not allow raising of objection at the appellate forum as to the admissibility of CDRs for want of certificate under section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act. In light of the decisions noticed above, we are of the view that once genuineness of the CDRs was admitted by the counsel representing the appellants before the trial court and, consequent to that admission, they were marked Exb. Ka-15 to Exb. Ka-20 and Exb. Ka-21, objection with regard to their admissibility for want of certificate contemplated under section 65-B(4) of the Evidence Act, raised for the first time before appellate court, is liable to be rejected and is, accordingly, rejected.

Relevance of the CDRs

35. Although the CDRs may be admissible in evidence but as to how far they are relevant to indicate the involvement of the appellants in the crime is another issue altogether. It be noted that the exhibited CDRs only indicate exchange of calls between two mobiles, namely, No. 8954197544 and No. 9808068517. The latter is claimed to be in use of the deceased, though it stands in the name of her son, whereas the former is of the appellant. The CDRs produced do not indicate the tower location as to show that at any time the two instruments were found at one location. Further, there is no voice call recording to indicate as to who was talking with whom. In these circumstances, the CDRs produced would only indicate some kind of acquaintance between the caller and the recipient of the call and nothing more. Had the CDRs indicated that the mobile instrument seized had used both SIMs, that is, one of the accused-appellant Pratap and the other of the deceased, then an inference could have been drawn that both instruments at some stage were in possession of one person. But here the CDRs do not indicate that same instrument was used for making calls by using both SIMs. In these circumstances, the relevance of CDRs is only to show that the caller and recipient of the call were acquainted with each other.

Evaluation of the Evidence

36. Now we shall advert to the evidence in respect of the facts culled out in paragraph 32 herein above. The facts that the deceased is the wife of PW-1, used to live with PW-1, had an accident in the year 1999, giving rise to behavioural issues, are proved by the testimony of PW-1 as regards which, there appears no serious cross-examination by the defence. However, the allegation that in connection with her behavioural issues she was in contact with Tantriks (sorcerers) or saints including the appellant Pratap is not proved by any cogent evidence. Testimony of PW-1 in this regard is that he had heard that when he used to be away, Tantrik Pratap used to visit his house. This statement is hearsay and is not admissible in proof of that fact. PW-2, the other witness of fact, neither states that Pratap is a Tantrik nor states that he saw Pratap visiting the house of deceased/ PW-1. PW-2, however, stated that on 29.04.2010 at 11 am he saw the deceased in the company of the appellants near Pachlore Chauraha. PW-2 also stated that they had told him that they were going to Sai Darbaar. But since PW-2 did not state that Pratap is a Tantrik and use to visit the house of the deceased or that the deceased used to visit his house in connection with Tantrik Kriya (sorcery), the testimony of PW-2 does not at all prove that, firstly, appellant Pratap was a Tantrik and, secondly, the deceased was in the grip of the appellant (Pratap) in connection with Tantrik Kriya (sorcery). Even if we accept the testimony of PW-2 that the deceased, wearing a yellow colour dress, was noticed with the appellants at Pachlore Chauraha on 29.04.2010 at 11 am and they reported to PW-2 that they were going to Sai Darbaar, in absence of further details in the testimony, no inference can be drawn with regard to appellant (Pratap) being a Tantrik and of him having a grip on the deceased. Notably, there is no evidence that the deceased was taken by the appellants from her place of residence at Sun City. Further, no witness of Sun City colony, where the deceased resided with her husband, has been examined to prove that in absence of PW-1 the appellant used to visit the deceased. In these circumstances there is no worthwhile evidence to prove that the appellant was a Tantrik and that he visited the house of the deceased or that the deceased was in his grip. We are therefore of the firm view that the prosecution has failed to prove that, firstly, appellant was a Tantrik, secondly, that he had been visiting the house of the deceased, or vice versa, in connection with Tantrik Kriya (sorcery) and, thirdly, that the deceased was in the grip of the appellant (Pratap).

37. We shall now evaluate the evidence in respect of alleged recovery of mobile of the deceased from appellant Pratap and of the deceased being last seen alive with the appellants on 29.04.2010. Before evaluating the evidence in respect of these two circumstances, we would like to put on record that the mobile alleged to be in use of the deceased and recovered from the appellant Pratap was in the name of the son of the deceased. Son of the deceased has not been produced as a witness. In this context, it would be worthwhile to examine whether the son of the deceased resided at the same place where deceased resided or he resided elsewhere. According to PW-1 he resided with his wife at Sun City. In his testimony PW-1 does not state where his son, whose mobile was used, resided. From PW-1's statement during investigation, it appears that Yatindra, in whose name the mobile was, had been in Noida in connection with his studies. However, this part of his statement is not admissible. Interestingly, PW-2 stated that the deceased and her husband (PW-1), earlier, use to reside in C B Colony where PW-2 also had his house. From there, they (deceased and her husband) shifted to Sun City colony. As per PW-2, son of PW-1 continued to reside in C. B. Colony. It is not disclosed whether the mobile recovered was of that son who resided at C.B. Colony. Be that as it may, it is not proved on record that the son of the deceased, whose mobile was being allegedly used by the deceased, resided with the deceased. Using phone of a family member who resides under the same roof is not uncommon. But using phone of a person, even though part of the family, who resides elsewhere is an unnatural circumstance which requires an explanation. In this regard PW-1's son who was the owner of the mobile phone, allegedly recovered from the appellant Pratap, was a material witness, which the prosecution did not produce. He could have thrown light on the issue whether the mobile recovered was in regular use of the deceased or he had handed over the mobile to her that day itself. Notably, PW-2, who allegedly noticed the deceased with the appellants near Pachlore Chauraha at 11 am on 29.04.2010, stated that village Pachlore falls in P.S. C B Colony. Interestingly, as per PW-2, the son of the deceased continued to reside in C B Colony. In such circumstances, a doubt is created in our mind whether the deceased on that fateful day had come to C B Colony to her son's house and from there, after taking his mobile, went to some other place. For clarity on all these issues, testimony of PW-1's son, who was the scribe of the FIR, was important. He was a material witness whom the prosecution did not produce. That apart, there is inordinate delay in making a missing report. All these circumstances do not inspire our confidence in the prosecution story therefore, we would have to carefully scrutinise the evidence in respect of alleged recovery of mobile as well as the circumstance of the deceased being last seen alive in the company of the appellants.

38. As to whether the prosecution has been successful in proving beyond reasonable doubt the recovery of the mobile in use of the deceased from the appellant is an issue which we shall address now. Notably, the appellant Pratap in his statement under section 313 CrPC has claimed the alleged recovery as bogus. It is noteworthy that the recovery is not on the basis of a disclosure statement from a place where the mobile might have been kept or hidden. Rather, it is from the appellant Pratap when he was arrested on 13.05.2010 at 19.30 hrs of which a seizure memorandum (Ex. Ka-11) was prepared. PW-1 who is a witness to the memorandum (Exb. Ka-11) states that the police did not recover the mobile phone in his presence. Importantly, a suggestion was given to PW-5, who effected arrest and recovery, that arrest was made much earlier than stated and the fact of arrest was reported in newspaper earlier than the disclosed time of arrest. Though, this suggestion has been refuted but the fact that it was so published in the newspaper has been admitted by PW-5 during cross-examination. What is also interesting is that there is no arrest memorandum on record. On perusal of the case diary we noticed that when on 13.05.2010 the statement of PW-1 was recorded he had not disclosed the name and description of the accused but has only given information regarding involvement of a Tantrik. Notably, arrest was shown to have been made at C B Ganj Railway Station on the tip off given by PW-1. In such circumstances whether the case was built against the appellants after their arrest or the arrest followed receipt of credible information against them is an issue which comes for our consideration. The former appears more probable because, firstly, the case diary contains no material to show as to what was the credible information available against the appellants before their arrest and, secondly, as per CDRs of Mobile Phone no. 9808068517 (alleged to be in use of the deceased), no call was made by using that SIM or that mobile instrument after 29.04.2010. It appears very strange as to why would the accused-appellant no.1 carry mobile no. 9808068517 with him for 14 days without even using the same. Had it been hidden and recovered on the basis of a disclosure statement, the incriminating value of the recovery would have been much greater. But here the recovery is not on the basis of a disclosure statement made at the time of arrest. Moreover, PW-1 the witness of recovery, as per memorandum (Exb. Ka-

11), does not support recovery of the phone. Further, there is a serious doubt about the timing of arrest as noticed above. Thus, keeping in mind that the owner of the instrument i.e. PW-1's son has not been produced as a witness and the CDRs of the mobiles do not give the tower location details to enable us to connect the location of the two mobiles qua each other as also qua the place where the body of the deceased was found, we are of the considered view that the circumstance of recovery of mobile of the deceased from the appellant no.1 (Pratap) is unworthy of acceptance and is accordingly discarded.

39. Now we shall examine whether the testimony of PW-2 that he saw the deceased in the company of the appellants on 29.04.2010 at 11 am is worthy of acceptance. PW-2 is a person who resides in CB Ganj Colony where the informant (PW-1) used to reside before shifting to his new residence in Sun City Extension Colony. PW-2 states that he knew the deceased and her family as they were residents of the same colony. PW-2 also states that he also knows the accused because accused Pratap Singh's sister is married in the same village where PW-2's sister is married. PW-2 stated that few days after 29.04.2010, he had learnt about Munni Devi being missing. He had also come to know about recovery of the body of Munni Devi. He stated that news paper report, with photograph, of Munni Devi going missing was published. He stated that it was published 3-4 days after the incident; and the day he read the newspaper, he informed PW-1 that he had witnessed the accused and Munni Devi together on 29.04.2010. Notably, Ex. 1 (newspaper report) is dated 5.5.2010. We fail to understand that if PW-2 was so close to PW-1 that he immediately informed PW-1 what he saw on the day when the news was published, why there was no disclosure by PW-1 to the police before 13.05.2010. Notably, statement of PW-1 recorded in case diary on 13.05.2010 does not even disclose about receipt of information from PW-2. Otherwise also, if PW-2 was really a witness and had informed PW-1 of what he witnessed, why the statement of PW-2 was recorded by the I.O. on 05.06.2010 and not before. All these circumstances seriously dent the credibility of this witness. Other than that, PW-2 is a mere chance witness. He states that while he was going to his shop he noticed the accused and the deceased together at the Chauraha. The exact location of his shop is not disclosed. How close it was to the Chauraha is not disclosed. PW-2 therefore is a mere chance witness who made no prompt disclosure to the police despite being fully aware of the incriminating value of what he witnessed, which renders his testimony highly doubtful. More over, the fact that his statement was recorded on 05.06.2010, that is, at the fag end of investigation, would suggest that he is a got up witness to provide a link to an otherwise weak case of the prosecution. In these circumstances, the statement of PW-2 that he noticed the yellow colour saree of the deceased is not of much relevance to corroborate his testimony as, by this time, he could have easily been made aware of the colour of dress worn by the deceased when her body was found. We therefore hold that the last seen circumstance has not been proved beyond reasonable doubt.

40. Even otherwise, last seen theory operates when there is close proximity between the time and place when the deceased is last seen alive with the accused and recovery of the body of the deceased. But where there is a big gap, possibility of intervening circumstances cannot be ruled out. In such a scenario, the circumstance may only raise suspicion but it would not travel to the level of proof of guilt. In the instant case, the last seen circumstance is of 11 am on 29.04.2010 whereas the body of the deceased was found in a jungle naala on 30.04.2010 at about 5.00 pm. The distance of that spot from the place where the deceased was last seen alive with the appellants is not disclosed specifically. Even the CDRs do not reflect location of the mobiles alleged to have been recovered. In such an event, reasonable probability of involvement of some one else cannot be ruled out. Thus, in a nut shell there is no worthwhile evidence to sustain conviction.

41. In view of our analysis above, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has failed to prove the charge against the appellants. The trial court has failed to properly evaluate and test the prosecution evidence. Consequently, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court is set aside. The accused appellants are acquitted of the charges for which they have been tried and convicted. The appellants are reported to be in jail. They shall be released forthwith, unless wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the court below.

42. Let a copy of this order along with record of the court below be sent to the court below for information and compliance.

Crl. Appeal No. 1984 of 1984

Manni Singh @ Mannu ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, Sri Anurag Shukla, Sri Mewa Lal Shukla

Counsel for the Opp. Party:
A.G.A.

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure,1973- Section 313 - The Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 106 - The appellant in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. did not utter even a single word as to ever finding his wife missing or else making any effort to find her thereafter. Being husband, the appellant failed to offer any acceptable explanation for this ignorance-The appellant has failed to discharge his burden as cast upon him under section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872 to prove the whereabouts of his wife after she was found to be missing. The appellant only stated that after returning to his village he came to know that a criminal case was registered against him. However, he did not say anything about the status of the whereabouts of his wife. In these circumstances, it was the liability of the appellant to offer any explanation about his missing wife.

Section 106 of the Evidence Act casts the burden of proof upon the accused to give an explanation about the facts especially in his knowledge and where he gives no explanation, or false explanation, in his statement u/s 313 of the Cr.Pc. then an adverse inference is bound to be drawn against him. (Delivered by Hon'ble Mayank Kumar Jain, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 19.07.1984 passed by the Learned 1st Additional Sessions Judge, Jhansi in Sessions Trial No.107 of 1983 (State Vs. Manni Singh @ Mannu Lal), arising out of Case Crime No.68 of 1983, under Sections 302/201 of IPC, Police Station Navabad, District Jhansi, whereby the accused-appellant Manni Singh @ Mannu Lal was convicted under section 302 of IPC and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment. He was also convicted under Section 201 of IPC and sentenced to undergo three years of rigorous imprisonment. Both the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. Facts giving rise to the prosecution case are that Sri Krishna Dutt Mishra, Sub-Inspector received information on 20.02.1983 at 6.30 p.m. from constable Shrawan Kumar that a dead body of a female is lying in the well situated in the University Campus. He along with constable Matole Rajak and constable Shivcharan Sharma reached the place of occurrence and with the assistance of some villagers, the dead body of the deceased was taken out from the well. Since the source of light was not available, inquest could not be made. On inquiring, it came to the knowledge that the dead body so recovered is of Smt. Lad Kunwar, w/o Mannu Kumhar, chaukidar of the University Quarter. The inquest report of the dead body was prepared the next day and the dead body was handed over to constable Rananjay Singh and Constable Mahesh Prasad for post-mortem examination.

3. After lodging of First Information Report, S.I. Krishna Dutt Mishra started the investigation and it was revealed that the husband of the deceased, Mannu Kumhar had killed his wife as both of them quarrelled. The accused-appellant Mannu Kumhar had caused injuries on the body of his wife and after her death, he threw the body in the nearby well to conceal the evidence. Based on this, the first information report of this case was registered as Case Crime No. 68 of 1983 under Sections 302, 201 IPC against the accused-appellant Manni Singh alias Mannu Lal, which was entered in the G.D. of the police station concerned. One Taveez, one chain of Gilat, and one chain of brass were recovered from the body of the deceased and were taken into possession by the Investigating Officer. A recovery memo was prepared which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-2. During the investigation, the Investigating Officer prepared the recovery memo of a torch through which PW-2 Laxman Singh, the guard of the University Campus, had seen the accused-appellant near the well on the fateful night. This recovery memo was exhibited as Exhibit Ka -12. On 22.02.1983, the Investigating Officer, in the presence of witnesses Khushal and Hariram, reached the place of occurrence, i.e. the quarter of the accused-appellant, and recovered one bloodstained coat, a piece of the plaster from the wall on which blood was present, bloodstained "baan' (rope used to knit the cot), few broken pieces of bangles, one earring made of steel and one "Bichhiya'. Apart from these, one bent (danda) with blood stains over it was also recovered. The recovery memo was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-9. Recovered articles were sent for examination to the Forensic Science Laboratory and a report was obtained from there, which is available on record. After the conclusion of the investigation, the charge sheet was submitted by the Investigating Officer under Sections 302/201 of IPC against the accused-appellant, which was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-11. Thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions, and charges under Section 302/201 of IPC were framed against the accused-appellant Manni Singh alias Mannu Lal. The accused-appellant pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

4. To prove its case, the prosecution produced nine witnesses. PW-1-Roop Singh, PW-2-Laxman Singh, PW-3-Masalti, PW-4 Ramesh, PW-5 Bhagwan Das (brother of the deceased,) PW-6 Khushali, PW-7 S.I. Krishna Dutt Mishra, First Investigating Officer, who prepared the inquest report of the dead body, PW-8 Jai Pal Singh, second Investigating Officer, and PW-9 Dr. R.N. Sharma, who conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased Lad Kunwar.

5. After the conclusion of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused-appellant under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. was recorded, in which the accused denied that he has committed the crime and stated that the witnesses have given false evidence against him and deposed based on doubt only. He further stated that witness Masalti is the cousin of his brother-in-law (sadhu), witness Laxman Singh is the friend of witness Khushali, and witness Ramesh is the pocket witness of the police and has given false evidence against the accused. The accused-appellant also stated that he had gone to his village on 19.02.1983 and returned on the third day, thereafter he came to know that he has been implicated in this case.

6. Hearing both sides and after vetting the evidence, facts and circumstances of the case, the trial Judge recorded conviction and passed sentence against the Appellant as aforesaid.

7. Being aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order, the accused-appellant has preferred the present criminal appeal.

8. We have heard Shri Mewa Lal Shukla, learned counsel for the accused-appellant, Shri Sunil Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State, and perused the record.

9. On the basis of the evidence available on record, it has to be determined as to whether on the intervening night of 19.02.1983 the accused-appellant committed the murder of his wife Lad Kunwar and with the intention to cause disappearance of the evidence threw away her dead body in the well.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that there is no direct evidence that the appellant has committed the murder of his wife Lad Kunwar. The appellant has falsely been implicated due to village enmity and the appellant was not even present in the village at the time of occurrence since he had gone to his village on 19th morning and when he returned after 2-3 days, he came to know that a case has been registered against him. Further, it is submitted that the witnesses examined by the prosecution are inimical with the appellant and have, therefore, given false evidence against him. The oral evidence is not in consonance with the medical report since incised wounds were also mentioned in the medical report and the prosecution has not stated how these injuries were inflicted upon the deceased by the appellant. It is also submitted that the alleged recovery made from the house of the appellant is concocted and false and no such recovery was made. To make his submission good, the learned counsel for the appellant argued that no motive has been assigned by the prosecution against the appellant, and hence, the prosecution has utterly failed to prove the charges against the appellant. The appellant is liable to be acquitted and the appeal deserves to be allowed.

11. Per contra, learned AGA argued that the case of the prosecution rests upon circumstantial evidence. The appellant was last seen together with the deceased by the witnesses who witnessed that the appellant was mercilessly beating his wife Lad Kunwar and these witnesses suggested to the appellant that he should consult the doctor since she was bleeding profusely. On being asked why the appellant was beating his wife, they were told that she was always abusing him. Deceased Lad Kunwar was not seen alive by anyone after these witnesses saw her with the appellant till her body was recovered from the well. It is apparent that deceased Lad Kunwar suffered nineteen injuries on her body and the cause of the death was ascertained as a result of ante-mortem injuries. After throwing the dead body of his wife in the well, the appellant was seen by the Chowkidar of the village at around 1 AM and he identified the appellant under the torch light.

12. Further, it is submitted that since the appellant was absconding, his house was searched by the investigating officer, and incriminating articles such as blood-stained "dhurrie', broken pieces of bangles, and one bent, which was used by the appellant to beat the deceased, were recovered. Apart from these, the investigating officer also took the piece of the floor on which blood was found. All these articles were sent to Forensic Laboratory and as per the report of this laboratory, human blood was found on these articles. The prosecution witnesses have stated that the appellant used to frequently quarrel with his wife Lad Kunwar. The deceased Lad Kunwar told her brother Bhagwan Das (PW-5) that the appellant beats her and she apprehended that he would kill her.

13. To buttress his arguments, the learned AGA further submitted that being the husband it was the duty of the appellant to know about the whereabouts of his wife while he only stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that after returning from his village he came to know that a case has been registered against him. The appellant did not utter even a word about his wife. The presumption under section 106 of the Evidence Act is to be drawn against the Appellant. These circumstances indicate that the Appellant is only and the only author of the crime and he has rightly been convicted and sentenced by the trial Court. Judgment and order of the trial Court are based upon the material available on record. Thus, the appeal of the appellant is liable to be dismissed.

14. Admittedly, the case of the prosecution rests upon circumstantial evidence.

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court while discussing the case of circumstantial evidence in Mohd. Mannan Alias Abdul Mannan Vs. State of Bihar, (2011) 2 Supreme Court Cases (Cri) 626 held that:-

"In our opinion to bring home the guilt on the basis of circumstantial evidence the prosecution has to establish that the circumstances proved lead to one and the only conclusion towards the guilt of the accused. In a case based on circumstantial evidence the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn are to be cogently and firmly established. The circumstances so proved must unerringly point towards the guilt of the accused. It should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that the crime was committed by the accused and none else. It has to be considered within all human probability and not in a fanciful manner. In order to sustain conviction circumstantial evidence must be complete and must point towards the guilt of the accused. Such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but inconsistent with his innocence. No hard and fast rule can be laid down to say that particular circumstances are conclusive to establish guilt. It is basically a question of appreciation of evidence which exercise is to be done in the facts and circumstances of each case."

16. In Md. Younus Ali Tarafdar v. State of West Bengal A.I.R. 2020 Supreme Court 1057: A.I.R. Online 2020 SC Page-238 the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid out the factors to be considered while adjudicating the case of circumstantial evidence observed that:-

" There is no direct evidence regarding the involvement of the Appellant in the crime. The case of the prosecution is on basis of circumstantial evidence. Factors to be taken into account in adjudication of cases of circumstantial evidence as laid down by this Court are :

Admittedly, this is a case of circumstantial evidence. Factors to be taken into account in adjudication of cases of circumstantial evidence laid down by this Court are :-

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hyopothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not be leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

17. In Pattu Rajan V. State of Tamil Nadu (2019) 4 SCC 771, the Apex Court observed the nature of evidence in the case of circumstantial evidence and held that:-

"30. Before we undertake a consideration of the evidence supporting such circumstances, we would like to note that the law relating to circumstantial evidence is well settled. The Judge while deciding matters resting on circumstantial evidence should always tread cautiously so as to not allow conjectures or suspicion, however strong, to take the place of proof. If the alleged circumstances are conclusively proved before the Court by leading cogent and reliable evidence, the Court need look any further before affirming the guilt of the accused. Moreover, human agency may be faulty in expressing the picturisation of the actual incident, but circumstances cannot fail or be ignored. As aptly put in this oft-quoted phrase:" Men may lie, but circumstances do not".

31. As mentioned supra, the circumstances relied upon by the prosecution should be of a conclusive nature and they should be such as to exclude every other hyopothesis except the one to be proved by the prosecution regarding the guilt of the accused. There must be a chain of evidence proving the circumstances so complete so as to not leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion of innocence of the accused. Although it is not necessary for this Court to refer to decisions concerning this legal proposition, we prefer to quote the following observations made in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda V. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 (SCC p. 185 para 153-154) : (AIR 1984 SC 1622, at p. 1655-56, paras 152-153):

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobde V. State of Maharashtra 1973 Cri L.J 1783 where the following observations were made:

Certainly, it is a primary principle that accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a Court can convict and the mental distance between "may be and "must be" is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

154. These five golden principles, is we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court concerning the cases based on circumstantial evidence in Ganpat Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2018) 2 Supreme Court Cases (Criminal) 159, held that:-

"There are no eyewitnesses to the crime. In a case which rests on circumstantial evidence, the law postulates a twofold requirement. First, every link in the chain of circumstances necessary to establish the guilt of the accused must be established by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt. Second, all the circumstances must be consistent only with the guilt of the accused. The principle has been consistently formulated thus:

"The normal principle in a case based on circumstantial evidence is that the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established; that those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused; that the circumstances taken cumulatively should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and they should be incapable of explanation on any hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the accused and inconsistent with his innocence."

19. The present case of the prosecution consisted of the following circumstances:-

(i) Evidence of last seen of the deceased together with the appellant

(ii) Motive of commission of the crime by the appellant

(iii) Recovery of the incriminating articles from the place of occurrence

(iv) Concealment of evidence by the appellant

Evidence of last seen of the deceased together with the appellant

20. The investigation commenced on the basis of the information given by PW-1-Roop Singh, the Chaukidar of Bundelkhand University. PW-1 after receiving information that one dead body was lying in the well near the university quarter, visited the spot and informed the police telephonically. The police took out a dead body of a woman who was later identified as Lad Kunwar, wife of Mannu Lal.

21. PW-3-Masalti and PW-4 Ramesh are the witnesses of the fact that they saw Lad Kunwar alive for the last time in the company of the appellant on the day of occurrence around 10:00 pm inside the quarter of the appellant. Thereafter, her body was recovered, and she was not seen alive by anyone in the intervening period. PW-3-Masalti and PW-4 Ramesh have stated in their evidence that they were passing by the quarter of the appellant when they heard and saw Lad Kunwar, wife of the appellant, weeping. Besides, they saw that Lad Kunwar was sitting on the floor and the appellant was mercilessly beating her with bent. Both the witnesses have stated that they have witnessed the incident and they suggested the appellant to take his wife to the hospital. No material contradiction occurred in the testimony of these two witnesses in their cross-examination that deceased Lad Kunwar was last seen alive by them and after the incident, her body was found in the well.

22. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Ganpat Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2018) 2 Supreme Court Cases (Criminal) 159 while observing the significance of last seen theory held that:-

"Evidence that the accused was last seen in the company of the deceased assumes significance when the lapse of time between the point when the accused and the deceased were seen together and when the deceased is found dead is so minimal as to exclude the possibility of a supervening event involving the death at the hands of another. The settled formulation of law is as follows:

"The last-seen theory comes into play where the time gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were seen last alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of crime becomes impossible. It would be difficult in some cases to positively establish that the deceased was last seen with the accused when there is a long gap and possibility of other persons coming in between exists. In the absence of any other positive evidence to conclude that the accused and the deceased were last seen together, it would be hazardous to come to a conclusion of guilt in those cases."

Motive of commission of the crime by the appellant

23. PW-1 Roop Singh has stated in his testimony that the appellant was residing adjacent to his quarter and very often the husband and the wife used to quarrel with each other. PW-3 Maslati and PW-4 Ramesh stated in their testimony that when they reached inside the quarter of the appellant, they witnessed that the appellant was mercilessly beating his wife with a bent. On being enquired about the reason for such action, the appellant told them that her wife, Lad Kunwar used to quarrel often and used abusive language against him. PW-5 Bhagwan Das, who is the brother of the deceased Lad Kunwar, has also stated in his testimony that approximately five days before the occurrence of the incident, he had heard about the fight between his sister and the appellant. After hearing this news, he went to his sister, the deceased, to bring her back along with him but the appellant did not permit him from doing so and asked him to go back. The deceased confided with PW-5 that the appellant used to beat her frequently and she feared for her life. She, thus, requested PW-5 to take her back along with him. Thus, this witness has also corroborated the version of PW-3 and PW-4 about the motive behind the commission of the crime by the appellant as the appellant frequently had quarrels with his wife and used to beat her often.

Recovery of the incriminating articles from the place of occurrence

24. PW-6 Khushali is the witness of recovery from the place of occurrence, i.e. the house (quarter) of the appellant. He has proved the recovery of a bloodstained dhurrie and a bloodstained bent. The police also took possession of a piece of the plaster from the wall on which blood was present along with bloodstained baan (rope used to knit the cot). Apart from these, one ear pin, few broken pieces of bangles, and one Bichhiya (foot ring) were also recovered from the place of occurrence. PW-6 is the witness of the recovery memo (Ex Ka 9)

25. PW-8 Jai Pal Singh, SHO, who is the second investigating officer of the case, has proved the recovery memo as Ex Ka 9. This witness also stated in his evidence that in the presence of independent witnesses, the lock of the quarter of the appellant was broken and a bloodstained dhurrie, a bloodstained bent, piece of the plaster from the wall on which blood was present along with bloodstained baan (rope used to knit the cot), one ear pin, few broken pieces of bangles, and one Bichhiya (foot ring) were recovered from the place of occurrence. This witness proved the recovered article as Ex 12 to Ex 14. These articles were sent to Forensic Laboratory for chemical examination. The report of the Forensic Lab Ex Ka 15 concluded that human blood was found on these articles. Thus, the recovery of incriminating articles from the appellant's quarter indicates that the appellant mercilessly beat his wife at the place of occurrence, and owing to such beating, blood injuries were inflicted upon her, as evidenced by the blood stains on such recovered articles.

Concealment of evidence by the Appellant

26. The body of the deceased Lad Kunwar was recovered from a well by PW-7 S.I. Krishna Dutt Mishra after receiving the information from Constable Shravan Kumar that a body of a woman is lying in the well situated in the campus of the University. The body was taken out which was identified as the body of Lad Kunwar, the wife of the appellant. PW-7 prepared the site plan of the place of recovery of the dead body (Ex Ka- 3). This witness had stated in his evidence that he prepared the inquest report of the dead body and prepared requisite documents for post-mortem.

27. PW-1 Roop Singh is the informant, gave information to the police (station) about the presence of a dead body inside the well and also the witness of fact of the dead body being taken out from the well. He identified the dead body as that of Lad Kunwar-the wife of the appellant.

28. PW-2 Laxman Singh stated that he was deputed as Chowkidar from 5 PM to 5 AM in the university campus. On the day of occurrence, at around 1 AM, he heard some sound and approached the well and found that the engine of the well was intact in its place. appellant Mannu Lal was returning from the well. On being asked, the appellant told that he came there to ease himself and he hit the stone with his leg which fell inside the well. This witness identified the appellant in the light of a torch that he had at that time. On the next day, he came to know that body of a woman was lying inside the well. He reached there and found that the dead body was of Lad Kunwar, wife of the Appellant. He handed over the torch to the investigating officer who prepared the recovery memo (Ex Ka-2) which bore his signature. PW-7 SI Krishna Dutt has proved the execution of Ex Ka 2. He also stated that after receiving the information about the discovery of a dead body inside the well, he along with other police personnel reached the site of the well and with assistance of the villagers, took out the body from the well. At the same time, he came to know that it was the body of the wife of the appellant.

29. On the basis of appreciation of the above evidence it is proved that the appellant after committing the murder of his wife Lad Kunwar, with the intention to cause disappearance of the evidence, threw her body inside the well which was recovered later on and identified by the witnesses as the wife of the appellant. The presence of the appellant as proved by PW-2 Laxman near the well at 1 AM on the night of occurrence indicates that the appellant was there to dispose off the body thus, causing disappearance of the evidence.

30. Apart from the appreciation of the evidence available on record, it is pertinent to mention here that PW-7 Krishna Dutt and PW-8 Jai Pal Singh, the first and second Investigating Officer respectively, have stated in their evidence that they completed all the formalities during the course of the investigation. The inquest of the dead body was conducted, and it was sent for post-mortem. Formal documents were executed. A site plan of the place of occurrence and the place of recovery of the body was prepared. The torch through the light of which, witness Laxman saw the appellant on the night of the incident was also taken and is proved as exhibit.

31. PW-9 Dr. R.N. Sharma has conducted the post-mortem of the deceased Lad Kunwar and prepared his report. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased:-

"1- दाई खोपडी पर उभरे भाग के सामने Horizontal 1 -1/2" x 1/2" x हड्डी तक गहरा साफ कटा घाव है। हड्डी पर नीचे घाव का निशान था।

2- बाऐं कन्धे से लेकर हाथ तक दोनों तरफ ¼" x 1/4" से लेकर ½" x ½" की अनेक खराशें हैं।

3- बाई भुजा के निचले भाग में पीछे ½" x ¼ " x मांस तक गहरा साफ कटा घाव है।

4- बाई जांग के नीचे बाहरी ओर 5" x ½" की खराश है।

5- बाऐं Cubital fossa के उपर 3" x ½" लाल नीला नीलगू निशान। नीचे काटने पर खून जमा है व humerus हड्डी टूटी है।

6- बाई जांग के निचले अन्दर के भाग में 2" x ¼" की खराश।

7-बाई टांग के निचले सामने के भाग में व टखने के बाहरी भाग पर एक एक ¼" x ¼" की खराशें हैं।

8- बाएं अंगूठा व उंगलियों पर तलवे की तरफ लाल नीले नीलगू निशान हैं।

9- दाएं पंजे के अंगूठा व उंगलिओं पर लाल नीले नीलगू निशान हैं।

10- दाई टांग के निचले पीछे के भाग पर ¼" x ¼" की खराश हैं।

11- दाई जांग के बीच में सामने पास पास दो क्रमशः 3" x ¼" व 2" x 1/4" की खराशें हैं।

12- दाई जांग की बीच से लेकर उपर भाग तक फैला बाहरी ओर 5" x ½" का लाल नीला नीलगू निशान था। निशान के बीच (कागज फटा) जगह खाल सामान्य थी।

13- दाऐं कूलहे पर 3" x ½ " का लाल नीला नीलगू निशान

14- दाई अग्रबाहु के पीछे बीच में व अन्दर की तरफ बीच में एक एक 1" x ¼" की खराशें हैं। हलकी पपडी जमी है।

. 15- दाएं कंधे पर 1" x 1" का लाल नीला नीलगू निशान।

16- बाएं स्तन पर 1" x ¼ " की खराश

17- बाएं कन्धे के पीछे 2" x 2" की खराश।

18- दाई आंख के उपरी व निचले पलकों पर ¼" x ¼ " की एक एक खराश है।

19- बाएं कन्धे पर ¼ " x ¼ " की खराश है।

32. The doctor has opined that the death of the deceased was caused due to bleeding and shock and may be caused by bent and danda. The deceased died due to ante mortem injuries. Further, he stated that the injuries might have been caused during the intervening night of 19/20.02.1983.

33. The medical evidence is in consonance with the oral evidence of PW-3 Masalti and PW-4 Ramesh who are the witnesses of the fact that they saw the appellant beating his wife using a bent mercilessly and she was bleeding profusely. The nature of injuries caused to the deceased indicates that the appellant caused severe injuries to his wife Lad Kunwar and she succumbed to such injuries.

34. Appellant in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. pleaded not guilty and stated that he has falsely been implicated. He was not present in the village on the day of occurrence, and he had gone to his village on 19th morning and came back after 2-3 days. Thereafter, he came to know a case has been registered against him.

35. Section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872 reads thus:-

"106. Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge.--When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him."

36. The appellant in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. did not utter even a single word as to ever finding his wife missing or else making any effort to find her thereafter. Being husband, the appellant failed to offer any acceptable explanation for this ignorance.

37. In the case of Pattu Rajan Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2019) 4 SCC 771 (2019) 2 SCC (Criminal) 354, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

"The doctrine of last seen, if proved, shifts the burden of proof onto accused, placing on him the onus to explain how the incident occurred and what happened to victim who was last seen with him. Failure on the part of accused to furnish any explanation in his regard, as in the case in hand, or furnishing false explanation would give rise to a strong presumption against him, and in favour of his guilt, and would provide an additional link in the chain of circumstances."

38. In Sudru v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2019) 8 SCC 333, the Hon'ble Court observed:-

"In this view of the matter, after the prosecution has established the aforesaid fact, the burden would shift upon the appellant under Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Once the prosecution proves, that it is the deceased and the appellant, who were alone in that room and on the next day morning the dead body of the deceased was found, the onus shifts on the appellant to explain, as to what has happened in that night and as to how the death of the deceased has occurred.

9. In this respect reference can be made to the following observation of this Court in Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra [Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra, (2006) 10 SCC 681 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 80] : (SCC p. 694, para 21)

"21. In a case based on circumstantial evidence where no eyewitness account is available, there is another principle of law which must be kept in mind. The principle is that when an incriminating circumstance is put to the accused and the said accused either offers no explanation or offers an explanation which is found to be untrue, then the same becomes an additional link in the chain of circumstances to make it complete."

39. In view of the above factual and legal matrix, it transpires that the appellant has failed to discharge his burden as cast upon him under section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872 to prove the whereabouts of his wife after she was found to be missing. The appellant only stated that after returning to his village he came to know that a criminal case was registered against him. However, he did not say anything about the status of the whereabouts of his wife. In these circumstances, it was the liability of the appellant to offer any explanation about his missing wife.

40. On the basis of the above discussion, we have concluded that the circumstances clearly indicate that the appellant committed murder of his wife Lad Kunwar, causing severe injuries on her body. The incident was witnessed by the eye-witnesses namely PW-3 Masalti and PW-4 Ramesh. The motive of the incident is also proved by the prosecution with the evidence of PW-1 Roop Singh, PW-2 Laxman Singh, PW-3 Masalti, PW-4 Ramesh, and PW-5 Bhagwan Das. The recovery of incriminating articles in the presence of PW-6 Khushali and the recovery memo prepared by PW-7 Krishna Dutt as exhibited as EX Ka 2 also indicate the circumstances leading to the murder of Lad Kunwar by the appellant. The presence of the appellant on the intervening night at around 1 AM near the well where later dead body was found, also indicates the conduct of the appellant to try to cause disappearance of the evidence. Further, the appellant failed to discharge his burden as cast upon him under section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872. All this evidence indicates that appellant Manni Lal is the author of the crime and he committed the murder of his wife Lad Kunwar. The prosecution has succeeded to bring home the charges against the appellant under section 302/201 IPC beyond reasonable doubt. The trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant Manni Lal. Therefore, the impugned judgment and order of the trial court do not require any interference and are liable to be confirmed.

41. The criminal appeal is accordingly dismissed.

42. In this case, the Appellant is on bail, his personal bond and surety bonds are cancelled. He be taken into custody forthwith and be sent to jail to serve out the remaining part of his sentence.

43. Let the certified copy of this order be transmitted to the trial court for ensuring compliance.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- From perusal of the aforesaid framing charge order, it is apparent that the place of occurrence is the shop of Satendra, which is situated in village Tanda Vahad, Police Station-Bhudana District Muzaffarnagar. All the evidence has however been led by the prosecution over the place of occurrence i.e. Point-A+ which is Tiraha at a distance of 40 passes from the shop of Satendra alleged to be place of occurrence in Charge Paper No.10/A. It means that the incident had not occurred at ''Point A+' as shown in site plan as ''Exhibit-Ka/12'. Thus, in these circumstances, the place of occurrence is shifting. This anomaly creates a doubt upon the prosecution version.

Where the prosecution fails to establish the place of occurrence and the testimony of the witnesses is inconsistent with regard to the place of occurrence, then the same renders the story of the prosecution doubtful.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- There is inconsistency with respect to weapon used by the accused persons- There is major discrepancy and inconsistency in the statements of the witnesses which also creates doubt in prosecution version.

It is settled law that although minor inconsistencies and contradictions have to be ignored, but where the inconsistencies and contradictions are major in nature and go to the root of the case of prosecution, then the same have to be taken into consideration by the Court.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 114 (g)- Inspite of the fact that Devendra is the witness and his information is the basis of disclosure about the manner in which the fight erupted on the spot leading to the murder of deceased yet Devendra is not adduced in evidence.

Where the prosecution withholds the evidence of a material witness whose testimony may be unfavourable for the case of the prosecution, then the court may draw an adverse inference against the prosecution.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3 - It is clear that the source of light at the time of occurrence is not explained. In the absence of any source of light, it would be difficult for witnesses to recognise the accused persons at the time of occurrence.

Where the occurrence is of night hours, then source of light would be a relevant factor for identification of the accused.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3 - P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are interested witnesses as P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are brother and cousin brother of the deceased respectively and as such their statements were liable to have been minutely examined when there is no independent witness.

Settled law that testimony of interested and related witnesses has to be considered with abundant caution by the court. (Para 21, 27, 28,29, 30, 32, 39)

1. This appeal has been preferred by accused-appellants, namely, Balister and Smt. Kamla against the judgment and order dated 21st March, 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.6, Muzaffarnagar in Sessions Trial No. 830 of 2006 (State of U.P. Vs. Balister and Another), under Sections 302/34 I.P.C. arising out of Crime No. 838 of 2005, Police Station-Budhana, District-Muzaffarnagar, whereby both the accused-appellants have been convicted and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment under Section 302/34 I.P.C. with fine of Rs. 7,000/- each, in default thereof, they have to further undergo one year additional imprisonment.

2. We have heard Mr. Sheshadri Trivedi, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the accused-appellant no.1 and Kumari Meena, learned A.G.A. for the State. Appellant no.2 has died and her appeal has already abated by this Court vide order dated 8th September, 2022. We have also perused the entire materials available on record.

3. The prosecution story, as reflected from the records, is as follows:

On the basis of a written report submitted by the informant-P.W.1, namely Jagendra Singh dated 23rd November, 2005 (which was marked as Exhibit-Ka-1), a first information report (Exhibit-Ka-9) was lodged on 23rd November, 2005 at 06:30 p.m. (in evening), which was registered as Crime No. 231 of 2005 under Section 302 I.P.C., at Police Station-Badhana, District-Muzaffarnagar against three persons, namely, Puran, Balister and Smt. Kamla. In the said report, it has been alleged that on 23rd November, 2005 at 06:30 p.m., the brother of the informant-P.W.-2, namely, Anil Kumar went to the grocery shop of Satendra for buying some goods, where Puran, his brother Balister and his mother Smt. Kamla, who are residents of same village, were already standing there. When Anil Kumar, brother of the informant-P.W.-1, after buying goods, returned to his house from the said grocery shop, then the above three persons in front of the street of their house, started abusing and threatening him that they will see him today. When Anil Kumar brother of the informant-P.W.2 objected not to do the same, then Balister and Kamla grabbed Anil Kumar from behind and Puran started hitting him by Tabal. When Anil Kumar fell on the ground then Balister also started hitting him with Balkati. At the same time, the informant-P.W.-1, Krishnapal Singh, Mahipal and Sanjeev Kumar were coming from their fields through the front road. Hearing the sound in the street, informant-P.W.-1, Krishnapal Singh, Mahipal and Sanjeev Kumar reached the spot and tried to save him as also they raised alarm. On seeing informant-P.W.-1, Krishnapal Singh, Mahipal and Sanjeev Kumar, all the accused persons, namely, Puran, Balister and Smt. Kamla, ran away after threatening them. They chased them but did not succeed in catching them. Thereafter, they picked up Anil Kumar from the spot and took him to the hospital by a Car, where he was declared dead. Thereafter they went to the Police Station along with the dead body of Anil Kumar. Resultantly, on the written report of the informant-P.W.-1, Crime No. 231 of 2005 was registered. On registration of the said case, the inquest of the body of the deceased, which was lying in a Marshal jeep outside the Police Station, was conducted by Sub-Inspector Vijay Pal Singh (P.W.4) on 23rd November, 2005 at 2200 hours. Since injuries were found on the body of the deceased, in the opinion of the inquest witnesses, the cause of death of the deceased was homicidal. The inquest report was marked as Exhibit-Ka-3. As such, after sealing the dead body of the deceased, the same was sent to Mortuary for post-mortem on 23rd November, 2022 through Constables Yadram and Maheshpal.

4. The post-mortem of the dead body of the deceased Anil Kumar was conducted by Dr. U.S. Fauzdar (P.W.-3) on 24th November, 205 at 03:30 p.m. and in his opinion, the cause of death of deceased was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. On post-mortem of the dead body of the deceased, following ante-mortem injuries were reported:

"(1). Incised wound 7 cm. x 1/2 cm x scalp deep on the back of skull (occipital region), 8 cm. above to hair line of back,

(2). Incised wound 8 cm. x 1 cm. x muscle deep over left cheek;

(3) Incised wound 15 cm. x 3 cm. x bone deep on left side of neck, underneath tissues are sharply cut with severed of cortical vessels, veins, partial cut of on left side trachea, Fifth cervical body of vertebra is partially cut;

(4) Incised wound lower 1/2 of outer helix of left Pinna. Cut;

(5) Contused abrasion 3 cm. x ½ cm. on top of left shoulder;

(13) Incised wound 1 cm. x 1/2 cm. muscle deep on flexor aspect of left middle finger; and

5. It would be worth noticing that the accused-appellant, namely, Balister @ Kallu and Smt. Kamla were also got medically examined by Dr. Vineet Kaushik, In-charge Medical Officer, Primary Health Centre, Budhana, Disrict Muzaffarnagar 13th November, 2005, wherein no fresh visible injury were seen on the bodies of the accused-appellants.

6. After sending the body of the deceased for post-mortem, the Investigating Officer, namely, Jagdish Singh, the then Station House Officer, Badhaut, District Baghpat, P.W.-6, went to the place of occurrence and collected blood stained earth and plain earth, thereafter prepared memo of recovery (Exhibit-13). He also prepared Site Plan of the place of occurrence. He recorded statements of witnesses. On 12th December, 2005, the Investigating Officer arrested the named accused persons, namely, Ballister and Smt. Kamla and on their pointing out, he recovered Balkati and Tabal which were alleged to have been used in the crime of which the recovery memo was also prepared (Exhibit-Ka-14). After completion of statutory investigation in terms of Chapter XII Cr.P.C., the Investigating Officer submitted the charge-sheet against the accused persons. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence on the charge-sheet and committed the case to the court of Sessions Judge.

7. It would also worth noticing that the recovered weapons i.e. Tabal and Balkati as also the clothes and article, which were collected from the body of the deceased, namely, pant along with belt, T-shirt, Baniyan, underwear and kardhan, were sent for forensic examination to the Forensic Science Laboratory, U.P. Agra. After examining the same, the Forensic Science Laboratory has submitted its report dated 16th June, 2006. Though in the said report, it has been reported that human blood stain was found on all the objects sent for forensic examination, but it was preposterous.

8. On 21st November, 2006, the learned Trial Court framed charges against the accused persons for offences punishable under Sections 302 I.P.C. read with Section 34

9. In order to prove its case, the prosecution relied upon documentary evidence, which were duly proved and consequently marked as Exhibits. The same are catalogued herein below:-

"i). First information report was marked as Exhibit Ka -9 ; ii). The written report of informant/P.W.-1 Jagendra Singh Jaat, was marked as Exhibit Ka-1; iii). Recovery memo of blood stained and plain earth collected from the place of occurrence was marked as Exhibit Ka-13; iv). Recovery memo of blood stained Tabal and Balkati was marked as Exhibit Ka-14;

v). The post-mortem report of the deceased Anil Kumar was marked as Exhibit Ka-2; vi). Report of Forensic Science Laboratory, U.P. Agra was marked as Exhibit Ka-7; and vii). Site plan with index was marked as Exhibit Ka-15."

10. The prosecution also examined total nine witnesses in the following manner:-

"i). The Informant, namely, Jagendra Singh, brother of the deceased has been adduced as P.W.-1; ii). Sanjeev Kumar, who is alleged to be an independent witness, has been adduced as P.W.-2;

iii) Dr. U.S. Fauzdar, District Hospital, Muzaffarnagar, who conducted the post-mortem of the body of the deceased Anil Kumar has been adduced as P.W.-3;

iv) Sub-Inspector Vijaypal Singh, who prepared the inquest report of dead body of the deceased, has been adduced as P.W.-4;

v). Constable-378 Shashi Kawar Rana, who prepared the Chik first information report (Exhibit-ka-9) on the basis of written report of the informant Jagendra Singh has been adduced as P.W.-5; and vi). Sub-Inspector Jagdish Singh, the then Station House Officer, Police Station-Budhana, who conducted the investigation of the alleged crime.

11. After recording of the prosecution evidence, the incriminating evidence were put to the accused-appellants Balister and Smt. Kamla for recording their statements under section 313 Cr.PC. In their statements recorded U/s 313 Cr.P.C. on 19th January, 2007, the accused appellants denied their involvement in the crime. Accused appellants Balister and Smt. Kamla specifically stated before the trial court that they have been falsely implicated in this case. The defence has also adduced Yogendra Singh resident of the same village, as D.W.-1.

12. It would also be worth noticing that the trial court under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has summoned Balesh Kumar, the then teacher of Dayanand Bal Vidyalaya, Junior High Court, Budhana, Police-Station Budhana, District-Muzzafarnagar and has also recorded his statement as Court Witness.

13. While passing the impugned judgment of conviction, the trial court after relying upon the documentary as well as oral evidence adduced by the prosecution, has recorded its finding that it has been proved that the prosecution has mentioned the immediate reason for the murder of Anil by the accused from the very beginning and has also proved by the evidence. The informant-P.W.-1 took the injured Anil, who was breathing a little, immediately to the Primary Health Center where he was declared dead and immediately thereafter he was taken from there to the Police Station, where on the written report of the informant, the first information report has been lodged. The first information is prompt in which date, time and place of incident; the immediate reason for commissioning of the offence; the details of the weapons used by the accused-appellants; the name of the witnesses; the brief details of the incident have been mentioned and there is no possibility of any false facts being mentioned in the first information report. The entire prosecution version has been proved by the eye-witnesses, namely, P.W.-1 and P.W.-2. Though both eye-witnesses are brothers of the deceased yet their presence on the spot is proven and despite the fact that they have faced a long cross-examination but they stand in the test of truth. There is no possibility of false implication of the accused in the alleged offence by the prosecution even if they do not have any prior enmity with the accused without any reason. Despite the fact that they are real brother of the deceased. It is also not likely that they will falsely implicate an innocent person except the real accused. The medical evidence has also supported the statements of the eye witnesses and the prosecution version. The investigation in the matter has been done promptly following due procedure known to law. There is no defect in the investigation done in the matter so that the benefit of the same could accrue to the defense party. After recording such finding, the trial court has come to the conclusion under the impugned judgment of conviction that the prosecution has been able to fully prove that both the accused, in furtherance of their common intention, committed the murder of Anil Kumar in front of their street. As such, the trial court has found the offence under Section 302 read with 34 I.P.C. to have been committed by the accused persons Balistar and Smt. Kamla. Consequently, the trial court has awarded sentence of life imprisonment along with a fine of Rs. 7,000/- each.

14. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and the order of conviction and sentence, the present jail appeal has been filed on the ground that conviction is against the weight of evidence on record and against the law and the sentence awarded to the accused-appellants is too severe.

15. Questioning the impugned judgment and order of conviction, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant no.1 Balister submits that:

(i) the alleged incident took place on 23.11.2005 when the brother of informant Anil Kumar S/o of Dhara Singh R/o Tanda P/s Bhudhana, Muzaffarnagar had gone to purchase few items from the shop of Satendra at about 6:30 p.m. When the deceased was returning to his house after purchasing the said items, he was surrounded by Puran, his brother Balister and mother of Balister, namely, Smt. Kamla, who threatened and abused informant's younger brother Anil. In the meantime, Balister and Kamla grabbed Anil and Puran attacked him with Tabal. Consequently, Anil fell down on the ground. Balister also attacked him with Balkati. This incident was seen by Kishan Pal Singh, Mahi Pal and Sanjeev Kumar, who were returning from their fields. When they heard screams of Anil Kumar, they tried to rescue him. Thereafter, Puran, Balister and his mother Kamla Devi ran away from the place of occurrence. The injured Anil was brought to the hospital where he was declared dead. After that, the informant (P.W.-1) along with other took him in a Jeep to the Police Station, where on the written report of the informant the first information report has been lodged. Henceforth, it is evident that the alleged incident took place on 23.11.2005 at 6:30 p.m. Whereas, the first information report has been lodged by the informant P.W. 1 on 23.11.2005 at 20:50 p.m. The distance between the place of occurrence and the P.S. concerned is about 7 kms;

(ii) in support of prosecution story, prosecution has adduced two eyewitnesses P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh and P.W.-2 Sanjeev Kumar. These two are the star witnesses of the prosecution. However, there are major contradictions in their statements and that is why, in the first information report, it is stated that Puran attacked Anil with Tabbal and Balister attacked him with Balkati. The same has been stated in chief-examination by Jogendra Singh P.W.-1, whereas P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh has stated in his statement under 161 Cr.P.C. that Puran as well as Balister had attacked the deceased Anil with Tabbal. Hence, there is contradiction with regard to the weapons, which are alleged to have been used by both the accused Puran and Balister for assaulting the deceased Anil;

(iv) there was no source of light at the place of occurrence. Although P.W.-2 Sanjeev Kumar has stated that there were two gas lanterns, which were lighting. It has also been stated that P.W.- 2 Sanjeev Kumar had seen the occurrence in the light of these two lanterns. Whereas, P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh has stated in his examination-in-chief that there was no electric light at the place of occurrence. He has further stated that there was no light of lanterns at the place of occurrence because there were no gas lanterns, which were lightning at the time of occurrence;

(v) in the month of November at about 6:30 p.m. in evening, according to Indian climate, it becomes dark. Prosecution witness P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh has stated in his cross-examination that at the time of occurrence there was dense darkness. Therefore, it is apparently clear that in the absence of source of light, it was impossible for witnesses to recognize the accused persons. Sanjeev Kumar P.W.-2 has stated in his cross-examination that the Investigating Officer had recorded his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. after a month from the date of incident. Thus, there is a possibility of development/improvement in the statements of the witnesses;

(vi) P.W.- 2 Sanjeev Kumar has stated that, "I heard the incident at tiraha from the main road". While in the order of framing of charge passed by the trial judge on 21.11.2006, it has been mentioned that the incident occurred at the shop of Satendra, which is situated at village-Tanda Vahad Police Statiton Bhudhana, District Muzaffarnagar. From the perusal of the site plan which is marked as Exhibit Ka-12, which have been prepared by the Investigating Officer, tiraha is shown as "Point A+' and shop of Satendra is situated in the east side of this very tiraha which is 40 passes (Kadam) away from "Tiraha Point A+', meaning thereby that the place of occurrence has shifted. As such, due to shifting of place of occurrence, the prosecution story is wholly unreliable;

(vii) it has been stated in the first information report as well as in the cross-examination of P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh that at the time of incident Mahipal, Sanjeev and Kishan Pal were present, but the prosecution has not examined Mahipal and Kishan Pal except Sanjeev Kumar as P.W.-2. P.W.- 1 Jogendra Singh has stated in cross-examination that when he arrived at the place of occurrence, his brother was lying injured. Blood of his brother was spilled on the ground. Whereas, in the first information report, it has been stated that the accused Puran and Balister attacked Anil with Tabbal and Balkati. The same has been stated by P.W.- 2 Sanjeev Kumar in his examination-in-chief. It is therefore, clear that there are major contradictions in the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 as well as in the first information report;

(ix) Jagendra P.W. 1 and Sanjeev P.W. 2 have not seen the incident because when they arrived at the spot, the incident had already occurred, meaning thereby that after the occurrence of the incident, witnesses reached the spot. On the basis of which it can be said that before arrival of the witnesses including P.W.-1 and P.W.2 at the spot, the accused persons ran away, meaning thereby that they have not seen the incident by their own eyes. Therefore, the prosecution story is wholly improbable as also the same has not been supported by the evidence and that is why, the accused appellants are not guilty of the offence under Section 302 read with 34 I.P.C.

On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant no.1 submits that the impugned judgment and order of conviction cannot be legally sustained and is liable to be quashed.

16. On the other-hand, Kumari Meena, learned A.G.A. for the State, supports the prosecution version by submitting that the statements of P.W.-1 Jagendra and P.W. 2-Sanjeev are credible in the facts and circumstances of the case and since they are eyewitnesses and have clearly disclosed about the commissioning of the offence of murder, therefore, the trial court has not committed any error in holding conviction of the accused appellants under Section 302 read with 34 I.P.C. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid submissions, learned A.G.A. submits that as this is a case of direct evidence, the impugned judgment and order of conviction does not suffer from any illegality and infirmity so as to warrant any interference by this Court. As such the present appeal filed by the accused-appellant who committed heinous crime by murdering deceased Anil Kumar, is liable to be dismissed.

17. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsels for the parties and have gone through the records of the present appeal especially, the judgment and the order of conviction and evidence adduced before the trial court.

18. The only question which is required to be addressed and determined in this appeal is whether the conclusion of guilt arrived at by the trial court and the sentence awarded is legal and sustainable under law and suffers from no infirmity and perversity.

19. The facts, as have been noticed above, would clearly go to show that the incident of this case has occurred on 23.11.2005 at 6:30 p.m. in the evening. The first information report qua the incident has been lodged on 23.11.2005 at 20:50 p.m. According to prosecution, the first information report is well within time and prompt. As per the first information report, the incident took place on the relevant date as on 23.11.2005 at 6:30 p.m. when Anil Kumar had gone to purchase a few items from the shop of Satendra. When the deceased Anil was returning to his house after purchasing the said items, he was surrounded by Puran, his brother Balister and his mother Kamla, who threatened and abused the informant's younger brother Anil. In the meantime, Balister and Kamla grabbed Anil and Puran attacked Anil with Tabal. Resultantly, Anil fell down on the ground. Balister also attacked Anil with Balkati. In the first information report, it has been stated that the incident occurred in the street which is situated in front of the house of the accused persons. The house of accused persons shown by the Investigating Officer is situated in the east side from the shop of Satendra, whereas, as per the site plan, the place of occurrence has been shown by the Investigating Officer on tiraha at "Point A+'. This place of occurrence is situated west side from the shop of Satendra which is 40 passes (Kadam) away from the shop of Satendra. On 21st November, 2006, the trial court has framed charge against the accused person namely, Balister and Kamla, the said order has been numbered as 10/A and a copy of which is brought on record at page-12 of the paper book.

20. For examining veracity or genuineness or otherwise of the fact as to what is the actual place of occurrence, it would be worthwhile to reproduce, the order of trial court framing charge against the accused-appellants, which is quoted hereinafter:

"मै, अशोक कुमार पाठक, अपर सत्र न्यायाधीश, कोर्ट नम्बर 6, मुजफ्फरनगर आप 1. बालिस्टर एवं 2. श्रीमती कमला को निम्न आरोप से आरोपित करता हूॅरू यह कि दिनांक 23.11.2005 को समय करीब 6.30 बजे शाम स्थान सतेन्द्र की दुकान गांव टाण्डा बहद थाना बुढ़ाना जिला मुजफ्फरनगर में आपने सामान्य आशय से इस आशय, ज्ञान व परिस्थिति में वादी जगेन्द्र सिंह के भाई अनिल की कोहली भर ली तथा आपके एक अन्य सह अभियुक्त पूरन ने तबल व पलकटी से तथा आपने भी पलकटी से अनिल को उपहतियॉ कारित कर उसकी हत्या कारित की। इस प्रकार आपने धारा 302 सपठित धारा 34 भ0द0सं0 के अर्न्तगत दण्डनीय अपराध कारित किया जो इस न्यायालय के प्रसंज्ञान में है।

मै एतद् द्वारा निर्देश देता हूॅ कि उक्त आरोप हेतु आपका विचारण इस न्यायालय द्वारा किया जाये।"

21. From perusal of the aforesaid framing charge order, it is apparent that the the place of occurrence is the shop of Satendra, which is situated in village Tanda Vahad, Police Station-Bhudana District Muzaffarnagar. All the evidence has however been led by the prosecution over the place of occurrence i.e. Point-A+ which is Tiraha at a distance of 40 passes from the shop of Satendra alleged to be place of occurrence in Charge Paper No.10/A. In the circumstances as elaborated herein-above, the place of occurrence is shifting. The same has been alleged by P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh in his examination-in-chief that when Anil Kumar deceased had gone to purchase some items from the shop of Satendra, Puran, Balister and Kamla were already there and after surrounding Anil, all the accused persons threatened and attacked him. From the perusal of this version of P.W. 1, the incident occurred in the street, which is situated between the shop of Satendra and house of the accused persons. As per Jogendra Singh P.W.-1, the incident did not occur at "Place A+' as shown by Investigating Officer, in site plan as "Exhibit-Ka/12'. Moreover, P.W.-1 Jagendra Singh has admitted in his cross-examination that, "tiraha is situated 10-15 passes (Kadam) away from the place of occurrence." On the contrary, in site plan, the Investigating Officer has indicated the place of occurrence at "Point A+'. P.W.-2 Sanjeev Kumar has stated in his cross-examination that shouting was heard by him at tiraha which is on the street. It means that the incident had not occurred at "Point A+' as shown in site plan as "Exhibit-Ka/12'. Thus, in these circumstances, the place of occurrence is shifting. This anomaly creates a doubt upon the prosecution version.

22. In Matlab Ali v. State of U.P. (Crimininal Appeal No. 175 of 1971, decided on 9th August, 1971), this Court has observed that, "shifting of place of occurrence is a serious matter and must necessarily cast a grave doubt as to the correctness of prosecution version. If place of occurrence is different, there could be no question of alleged eyewitnesses seeing anything."

23. It is pertinent to note that in Syed Ibrahim v. State of A.P., reported in (2006) 10 SCC 601, the Hon'ble apex court has observed that, "when the place of occurrence itself has not been established it would not be proper to accept the prosecution version".

24. In State of U.P. v. Mangal Singh and Ors., reported in (2009) 12 SCC 306, the Hon'ble apex court has observed that, "whereon a reading of evidence it is clear that occurrence as claimed is changed, it was noticed that the witnesses were shifting their versions almost at every stage. This itself was sufficient to doubt the veracity of the prosecution version".

25. Again, in Asraf Biswas v. State of W.B., reported in 2016 SCC OnLine Cal 4342, the Hon'ble Apex Court made reference to the case of Syed Ibrahim v. State of A.P., reported in (2006) 10 SCC 601, wherein it has been stated that, "it would not be proper to accept the prosecution case when the place of occurrence itself has not established. The place of occurrence was not proved beyond all reasonable doubts in the instant case and as a result, we have no hesitation to arrive at a conclusion that there was infirmity in decision making process of the learned Trial Judge. Once it is held that the place of occurrence has not been established beyond all reasonable doubts, then the other circumstances are hardly sufficient to establish the guilt of the accused".

26. In Jumma Vs. State of U.P. reported in MANU/UP/1104/1992, Pr.-19; a Division Bench of this Court has observed that, "shifting of place of occurrence is a serious matter and must necessarily cast a grave doubt as to the correctness of prosecution version. If place of occurrence is different, there could be no question of alleged eyewitnesses seeing anything."

27. As per the first information report, at the time of occurrence, accused Balister and Kamla had grabbed Anil, whereas the accused Puran attacked Anil with Tabbal and thereafter the accused Balister attacked him with Balkati. On the other hand, P.W.-2 Sanjeev Kumar has stated in his examination-in-chief that Balister caught hold of left hand of Anil and Kamla caught hold of right hand of Anil. Puran was attacking Anil with Tabbal and when Anil fell down on ground, Balister attacked him with Balkati. On the contrary, P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has stated that the accused Puran as well as accused Balister both attacked Anil with Tabbal. Therefore, there is inconsistency with respect to weapon used by the accused persons.

28. In the first information report as well as in the examination-in-chief of P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh it has been alleged that accused Balister and Kamla had grabbed deceased Anil at the time of occurrence, but P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh has stated in his cross-examination that Kamla caught hold of the hand of Anil from left side. Whereas, P.W.-2 Sanjeev Kumar has stated in his examination-in-chief that Balister had caught hold of the left hand of Anil and Kamla had caught hold of right hand of Anil. At this point of juncture, there is major discrepancy and inconsistency in the statements of the witnesses which also creates doubt in prosecution version.

29. It is also noteworthy that when Balister caught hold of left hand of deceased Anil and Kamla caught hold of right hand of Anil at the time of incident as is stated by P.W.-2 Sanjeev Kumar in his examination-in-chief or Kamla had caught hold of left hand of deceased Anil at the time of occurrence, as stated by P.W. 1 Jogendra in his cross-examination, it is not possible that the accused persons, who had caught deceased Anil, did not receive any injury. From the perusal of Photo-Lash (Exhibit-Ka/4) and the Post-mortem report (Exhibit-Ka/2), it is apparent that there were 14 ante-mortem injuries, which are on the left-side of the deceased. If Kamla or Balister had caught hold of the left/right hand of deceased Anil then, it is not possible for them not to receive any injury on the point of catching hold of the hands of deceased. Therefore, there are major contradictions, inconsistency and discrepancy which again creates doubt in the prosecution version.

30. P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh has stated in examination-in-chief that Sanjeev Kumar, Kishan Pal and Mahi Pal arrived at the time of occurrence but except Sanjeev Kumar as P.W.-2, neither Kishan Pal nor Mahi Pal have been examined in support of prosecution story. Even Satendra and Devendra have also not been examined in support of prosecution story. P.W.-1 in his statement has disclosed that the fact about the three accused persons including the appellant no.1 of abusing the deceased was informed by Devendra. Devendra however is not produced. As per the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.2, it was Devendra, who told Jogendra (informant-P.W.1), Sanjeev Kumar (P.W.-2), Kishan Pal and Mahipal that in front of his shop, there was altercation between the deceased Anil Kumar and accused persons, namely, Puran, Balister and Kamla and at that time, the accused persons were having Tabal and Balkati. Inspite of the fact that Devendra is the witness and his information is the basis of disclosure about the manner in which the fight erupted on the spot leading to the murder of deceased yet Devendra is not adduced in evidence.

31. It would also be worth noticing that as per the version of the first information report as well as the statement of P.W.-1 in his examination-in-chief that on the date of incident, the deceased went to the shop of Devendra for buying some goods and when he was returning to his house after buying the same, on the way in front of their street, the accused persons, namely, Puran, Balister and Kamla assaulted the deceased, whereas in the cross examination, P.W.-1 has stated as follows:

"देवेन्द्र ने यह बात भी मुझे बतायी थी कि उसकी दुकान पर मुलजिमान की मेरे भाई अनिल के साथ कहन सुनन हुयी थी। क्या कहन सुनन हुयी थी यह उसने नहीं बताया था। देवेन्द्र ने मुझे यह भी बताया था कि उसकी दुकान पर जब मुलजिमान से मेरे भाई की कहन सुनन हुयी थी तब मुलजिमान बलकटी व तवल लिए हुए थे मेरे ध्यान नहीं है कि मैने दरोगा जी को देवेन्द्र द्वारा बतायी जाने वाली बात बतायी थी या नहीं। यह बात देवेन्द्र ने बतायी थी तहरीर में मैने नहीं लिखी।"

Similarly, in his cross examination, P.W.-2 has stated as follows:

"मैने पूर्ण व अनिल को देखा था। वे लोग कहा से आये थे मैने नहीं देखा था। मैने दरोगा जो को यह बात बतायी थी कि घटना से पहले अनील मृतक व मुलजिमान देवेन्द्र की दुकान से आये थे। दरोगा जी ने मुझसे सारी बाते पूछी थी। मोटी–2 बाते घटना के बारे में पूँछी थी।"

Perusal of the aforesaid statements would go to show that there is material contradiction as to at whose shop, either Devendra or Satendra, the deceased went to buy the goods.

32. As per prosecution story, the incident occurred on 23.11.2005 at 6:30 p.m. in the evening. According to Indian climate, in the month of November, at about 6:30 p.m. it gets dark, meaning thereby that at the time of occurrence, there was darkness. This fact is admitted by P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh in his cross-examination that at the time of occurrence, it was deep dark. P.W.-1 Jogendra has also admitted that at the time of occurrence, there was no supply of electricity. P.W.-2 Sanjeev Kumar in his cross examination has also admitted that at the time of occurrence, it was dark night. P.W.-1 Jogendra has however stated in his cross-examination that at the time of occurrence, gas lantern was lightning at the gate of the house of Narendra. However, no gas lantern was recovered by the Investigating Officer during the course of investigation. Hence, it is clear that the source of light at the time of occurrence is not explained. In the absence of any source of light, it would be difficult for witnesses to recognise the accused persons at the time of occurrence.

33. P.W.-1 Jogendra in his cross-examination has also stated that which of two accused had assaulted the deceased, how many injuries were inflicted upon the body of the deceased and in which part, he sustained injuries, are not known to him. He has further stated that accused Puran has assaulted Anil on his waist but from the perusal of the post-mortem report, no injury was found on the waist of deceased Anil. From the aforesaid it is apparent that there is inconsistency in the statements of this star witness i.e. P.W.-1 which also makes the prosecution story doubtful.

34. P.W. 2 Sanjeev Kumar has also stated in his cross-examination that he is unable to say as to which of two accused has assaulted Anil and on which part of his body, he sustained injuries. His statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has been recorded by the Investigating Officer after one month from the date of alleged incident. He further stated in his cross-examination that the deceased Anil and accused persons had come at the place of occurrence from the shop of Devendra before the incident occurred. Whereas, the prosecution version as unfolded in the first information report as well as in the statement of P.W.-1 Jogendra Singh, the deceased Anil had gone to purchase something from the shop of Satendra. There is again major discrepancy and inconsistency in the statement of this second star witness which creates major doubt in the prosecution version. Apart from the above, P.W.-2 has admitted in his cross-examination that he is cousin brother i.e. son of real uncle of the deceased Anil, that is why it can be said that he is an interested witness, as argued on behalf of accused-appellant.

35. P.W. 3 Doctor U.S. Faujdar who did autopsy of the dead body of deceased Anil and found 14 injuries on his dead body but stated in his cross-examination that there was no injury on the waist of the dead body of the deceased.

36. P.W. 5 Constable 378 Shashi Kawar Rana has admitted in his cross-examination that it is true that the then Chief Judicial Magistrate C.J.M. has perused the first information report on 29.11.2005. He has admitted that he is unable to tell as to why the the first information report reached to the court so late. The argument of learned Amicus Curaie is that the first information report is ante-timed as the delay in its dispatch to Magistrate is not disclosed.

39. P.W. 6 the Station House Officer, Jagdish Singh has admitted in his cross-examination that it is true that there is no signature of Sub-Inspector Chandrashekhar on Alaqatal recovery memo. Henceforth, recovery memo of alaqatal as well as alaqatal has not been proved by this witness P.W. 6. This witness has also admitted that on the date of occurrence, it was dark night. He further stated that informant Jogendra in his statement had stated to him that, at the time of occurrence, Balister and Puran had Tabbal. He has also admitted that no gas lantern was taken in the possession of Police. He further stated that on the inspection of place of occurrence, no slippers of deceased Anil were recovered. He is also unable to tell as to why first information report dated 23.11.2005 reached the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate on 29.11.2005.

38. Accused Balister has stated under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he has been falsely implicated owing to village animosity. During the pendency of the present appeal, accused Kamla has died. With regards to said accused Kamla, vide order of this Court dated 8th September, 2022, the present appeal at her behest has been abated.

39. We have examined the judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial court, which merely noticed the prosecution version and thereafter has referred to various judgments to hold that the prosecution has established guilt of the accused-appellants based on prosecution evidence. The trial court has not carefully examined the statements of the prosecution witnesses so as to evaluate the correctness or otherwise of the same. We have noticed hereinabove that there are material contradictions, inconsistencies and discrepancies in the statements of the prosecution witnesses specially its star prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, who are alleged to be eye-witnesses of the incident in question. Apart from the above P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are interested witnesses as P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are brother and cousin brother of the deceased respectively and as such their statements were liable to have been minutely examined when there is no independent witness. The trial court has also not carefully examined the site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer qua the shifting of place of occurrence.

40. In view of the above discussions, we find that the trial court was not justified in returning the finding of guilt against the accused-appellants on the basis of evidence led by the prosecution. Finding of the court below that the guilt of the accused appellant has been proved beyond reasonable doubt, is thus rendered unsustainable. We hold that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of accused-appellants beyond reasonable doubt.

41. Consequently, in view of the deliberation held above, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order of conviction of accused-appellants dated 21.03.2007 passed in Session Trial No. 830/06, by the Additional Session Judge Court No. 6 Muzaffarnagar cannot be legally sustained and is, hereby, set aside. The accused-appellant no.1 Balister is clearly entitled to benefit of doubt. As he has already suffered incarceration of almost 15 years since the date of his conviction, he is entitled to be released forthwith.

42. Accordingly, the present appeal stands allowed.

43. The accused-appellant no.1 Balister shall be released on compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C., unless he is wanted in any other case forthwith.

46. We record our appreciation for the able assistance rendered in the case by Mr. Sheshadri Trivedi, learned Amicus Curiae, who would be entitled to his fee from the High Court Legal Service Authority, quantified as Rs. 15,000/-

47. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffarnagar henceforth, who shall transmit the same to the concerned Jail Superintendent for release of the accused-appellant no.1 Balister in terms of this judgment.

Criminal Law- Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 154- Ante-Timed FIR- As per Tehrir Exhibit Ka-15, it was moved before the S.H.O, Police Station New Agra on 27.06.2005 and the same was also entered in the G.D (Exhibit Ka-4) on the very same day, at 6:30 p.m. at Rapat no. 62 and Chik No. 224/2005. Consequently a Case U/s 364-A I.P.C was lodged- On the back of the Chik F.I.R, the contents of Tehrir had not been copied- It was the duty of the concerned Constable Moharrir to get the Tehrir copied on the back of Chik F.I.R, if it is not so copied then it was not the fault of the informant, and in fact it was the mistake of Constable Moharrir.

Merely because the constable moharrir omitted to copy the tehrir on the back of the Chik FIR, the FIR cannot be said to be ante timed.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Inquest report- It is not a substantive piece of evidence- The whole purpose of preparing the inquest report under Section 174 Cr.P.C. is to investigate into the cause of death and also to draw up a report of the apparent cause of it. The object of the proceedings under Section 174 Cr.P.C is only to ascertain whether a person had died under suspicious circumstances or on account of an unnatural death. The effort is also to find out the apparent cause. The question regarding details as to how the deceased was assaulted or who assaulted him or under what circumstances he was assaulted, or who were the witnesses of the assault is foreign to the ambit and scope of such proceedings.

The purpose of an Inquest report is to only ascertain the cause and manner of death with description of the injuries on the body and is therefore not a substantive piece of evidence.

The Indian Evidence Act , 1872- Section 6 - The conversation between the informant Banwari Lal Sharma and the deceased Jeevan alias Amar Sharma with regard to their reaching Agra for employment and with regard to the fact that the latter was received by the accused Pawan Mishra, and that both the deceased boys stayed in hotel arranged by the accused and that the accused demanded of ransom everything is part of the same transaction. The connected facts and evidence thereon are relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 6 of The Indian Evidence Act.

The facts regarding the arrival of the deceased at Agra, the accused having received them and arranged for their accommodation would be relevant facts as they form the part of the same transaction resulting in the death of the deceased.

The Indian Evidence Act , 1872- Section 32(1)- Conversation of the deceased Jeevan alias Amar to the informant while coming from Devghar and also from Agra to the informant at Devghar is also relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act- Though hear-say evidence is not admissible in evidence but in the event the victim dies, his previous statements to any living person become relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 32 (1) of The Indian Evidence Act if it relates to cause of his death. The statement would be relevant in every case or proceeding in which the cause of death of that person is in issue. In Indian Law it is not necessary that the person who made any declaration was actually expecting an assault which would kill him.

Although hear say evidence is not admissible in evidence but any previous statement of the deceased relating to his cause of death would be relevant and the same will be treated as a dying declaration.

The Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 106- Deceased persons were in company of all the three accused persons, therefore, it is the burden of all the accused-appellants to discharge their burden of proof under section 106 of The Indian Evidence Act.

Settled law that once the prosecution discharges its initial burden proving that the deceased was in the company of the accused before he met a homicidal death, then the onus shifts upon the accused to discharge the said burden by explaining the circumstances behind the death of the deceased. (1) Heard learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Vindeshwari Prasad and the learned A.G.A for the State in Jail Appeal No. 3367 of 2010 and Sri Phoolbadan Yadav along with Sri Vishnu Shanker Gupta (Amicus Curiae) for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State in Criminal Appeal No. 3490 of 2010 and perused the material available on record.

(2) The instant appeal has been preferred against the judgement and order dated 13.04.2010 passed by Special Judge (D.A.A), Agra in S.T No. 121 of 2005 (State Vs. Pawan Mishra & Ors), arising out of Case Crime No. 356 of 2005, under Section 364A, 302/201 I.P.C, Police Station New Agra, District Agra whereby the accused-appellants have been convicted under Section 302 I.P.C sentencing them to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life. They were to pay Rs. 10,000/- each as fine. It was further provided that on default of payment of fine the appellants were to further undergo two years of additional simple imprisonment.

(3) The court further convicted the appellants under section 364-A I.P.C. and sentenced the appellants to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and imposed fine of Rs. 5000/- on each of the appellants. Here again it was provided that in default of payment of fine the appellants would undergo one year additional simple imprisonment.

(4) The trial court has further convicted the appellants under section 201 I.P.C. sentencing the appellants to undergo

5 years of rigorous imprisonment and also imposed fine of Rs. 5,000/- and further provided that in default of payment of fine the appellants would undergo one years additional simple imprisonment. All the sentences were to run concurrently.

(5) Brief facts of the case are that informant Banwari Lal Sharma, s/o Rameshwar Lal Sharma resident of Gali Devghar P.S.- Devghar, District-Devghar, Jharkhand lodged an F.I.R. (Exhibit-Ka-15) on 27.06.2005 with the allegation that his nephew Pawan Mishra, s/o Vashudev Mishra, resident of Mausoli Bazar, Raniganj, P.S.- Raniganj, District- Bardhaman, West Bengal presently residing in the house of Natholi Ram Godala, Bizapur Road, District- Agra left Raniganj and came to Agra after killing his cousin there. It was stated in the F.I.R. that occasionally he used to come to the house of the first informant and also used to talk to the informant by his mobile no. 09219799101. In this conversation he also promised to provide job to the informant's nephew Amar @ Jivan Sharma, s/o Puranmal Sharma. Owing to this promise of Pawan Mishra on 11.06.2005, the informant's nephew Amar Sharma and a friend of his Victor @ Potan, s/o Vishnu Dev Varnwal, resident of Kanutola, District- Devghar, Jharkhand reached Agra and on 12.06.2006, Amar @ Jivan informed the first informant that he along with his friend had reached Agra and also informed the first informant about their meeting with Pawan Mishra. After 2-3 days had passed, Jeevan rang up the first informant and told him that there was no arrangement of any job. In response the first informant told him to come back. On 15.06.2005, Pawan Mishra informed the appellant that he was sending both the boys back via Purva Express. When on 16.06.2005, the boys did not reach home at the given time then the first informant tried to talk to Pawan Mishra to inform him that the boys had not reached home. Pawan threatened the first informant that they would reach only when he would send them and informed that he had abducted both of them. On 17.06.2005, Pawan again informed via telephone that the boys will be released only after the ransom money was paid. On 18.06.2005, the first informant informed the Deputy Superintendent of Police, Devghar regarding the incident who in his turn wrote a letter to the Superintendent of Police, Agra, U.P. In the evening of 18.06.2005, Pawan Mishra demanded Rs. 7,00,000/- ransom via telephone and threatened that he would cut the boys into several pieces if the amount of ransom was not provided to him. On 20.06.2005, Pawan again asked via telephone and asked the first informant to reach Gwalior with the money. He also told him as to who was to be given the money would also be informed. Thereafter, the first informant without giving second thoughts came to Agra and contacted the District Magistrate, Agra who sent him to the Superintendent of Police, Agra. Since then the informant was searching for the boys but they could not be traced out. He requested the police to lodge an F.I.R. The first information report was lodged and also chik F.I.R. was prepared.

(6) Upon receiving the Tehrir (written information), a case bring Crime No. 356/05 under Sections 364 I.P.C was registered in Police Station- New Agra, District Agra, and Chik F.I.R Exhibit-Ka-3 was prepared and entry of the said F.I.R was made in G.D in Ex. Ka-4.

(7) After recovery of the dead bodies of the abducted deceased persons namely Victor @ Potan and Amar @ Jeewan Sharma, Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C were also added. The Investigating Officer prepared the recovery memo of the dead bodies and proved the same as Exhibit Ka-16. He also prepared Ex. Ka-17 when the two farm Shovels/Hoes and plain soil were recovered. He also proved the map prepared by him as Ext. K-18.

(8) After completing the investigating he had submitted the charge sheets against all the three accused appellants and had proved them as Ext. Ka-19.

(9) Cognizance was taken on the charge-sheets and trial commenced in the Court of Sessions. From there the case was transferred for trial to the Court of Special Judge (Dacoity Affected Area), presided over by Sri Dileep Singh, who recorded oral evidence. After the closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C, in which the accused persons denied the charges. The accused did not come up with any oral or documentary evidence in their defence. After conclusion of the trial and hearing of the arguments, the lower court below found the accused guilty for the commission of offences of under Sections 364A, 302 and 201 I.P.C and convicted and sentenced the accused persons.

(10) Prosecution has produced witnesses to prove the case. In brief evidence of witnesses is reproduced as under:

1. P.W.1 Dr. Amitabh, District Jail, Agra deposed on oath that on 28.6.2005 he was posted in Emergency Department of District Hospital, Agra. That day at 4 p.m. he had done autopsy of the dead-bodies of deceased Amar Sharma alias Jeevan son of Pooran. The dead body of one of the deceased, namely, Amar Sharma alias Jeevan alias was recognized by CP 345 Vijender and C.P. 982 Ram Rautang,P.S. New Agra, The deceased was about 22 years old who had died two weeks ago.

On external examination following facts were found. The body was rotten. The teeth were loose and the brain was in a fluid state. The tissues of the body were soft and loose (cracked) and in semi liquid state and had turned black in colour. There was mud all around the bodies. The neck muscles were partially in a fluid state. The hyoid bone of the neck was found to be broken. The stomach of the deceased was stored. One kidney, the whole spleen, liver and some parts of the intestines were also stored.

Decay was present in the skin of the deceased.

In the internal examination, it was found that the brain and membranes were in liquid state, Chest and pleura were in liquid state, both lungs and heart were in liquid state, abdominal muscles and membrane were in a liquid state. Red stops were found in the stomach, gas was present in the chest and large intestine. It was soft and loose. Spleen and kidney had become soft. As the cause of death was not fixed the viscera was pserved. According to this witness P.W.1 the deceased had died in between 12.6.2005 and 15.6.2005. This witness recognized his signature and writing on Ext. A-1 and A-2, in both the Post mortem reports. During the course of cross-examination this witness admitted that he could not say as to how these two dead persons had died because their dead bodies were rotten and it was not possible to identify the ante mortem injuries. He admitted that he had mentioned the time of death about two weeks prior to the post mortem in which there may be possibility of three days variations. He admitted that the condition of the dead bodies were such that they were not easily identifiable. He had not mentioned any identification mark on the body of the dead bodies. Further he deposed in cross examination that temperature in the month of June remains 45 degree Celsius and decomposition starts after 24 to 36 hours after death. According to him the bone and flesh were not separated.

On the same day he did post-mortem of the dead-body of deceased Victor alias Potan. According to him the deceased was about 23 years old and had died about two weeks ago.

External Examination:-

There was decomposition in the body. The teeth in the socket were loose. The brain had changed to a fluid state. The tissues of the body had become soft and loose and had turned into a semi liquid state. The stomach and intestine were coming out of the stomach. There was soil on the body. The muscles of the neck were partially liquid. The neck (hyoid bone) was broken (from left side). Viscera was preserved. In Jar-'A' the stomach, in Jar-'B' the kidney, the whole spleen and the piece of intestine were kept in Jar-'C'. Salt solution was also kept. The genital skin had rotten.

Internal Examination:-

The brain and membranes were in liquid state, Chest wall was in a liquid state, both lungs and heart were partially in liquid state. The abdominal muscle and membranes were in a liquid state, red coloured spot were found in the stomach, gas was present in the chest and large intestine, liver was soft and loose. As the cause of death could not be ascertained, therefore, the viscera was preserved.

This Court is of the opinion that from the oral evidence it is established that after administering sleeping pills in lassi to the deceased persons when they became unconscious, they were strangulated and thereafter were buried one by one. Thus it is obvious that the cause of death of the deceased persons was the breaking of their hyoid bones. Thereafter they were buried under the earth. In Ka-24 FSL Report Agra no poison has been found in the viscera and other parts of the body of the deceased persons. It is also noteworthy that no suggestion has been given to this witness that dead bodies were not of the alleged persons but of some other persons.

P.W.2 S.I. Satya Veer Singh has deposed that on 27.6.2005 he was posted as constable clerk in P.S. New Agra. He further deposed that on the basis of tahrir of the informant Banwari Lal Sharma written by Amit Kumar a case as Crime No356/2005 under Section 364-A IPC State Vs. Pawan Mishra was registered and a chick no.224 was prepared. This witness has proved this chick FIR as Ex.Ka-3. Further he deposed that at 6.30 p.m. he had also prepared GD No.62. He also proved it by comparing it with the original GD as Ex.Ka-4. In cross-examination this witness deposed that he had given statement to the IO on 27.06.2005.

P.W.3 Anupam Sharma, SI deposed that on 27/28.6.2005 he was posted as SI at P.S. New Agra and had prepared inquest of deceased Amar Sharma @ Jivan and Victor @ Potan. This witness has proved inquest Ex.Ka-5 and related papers such as challan nash, photonash letter to RI and CMO as Ex.Ka-6 to Ex.Ka-9 and Ex.Ka-11 to Ex.Ka-14. In the cross-examination this witness admitted that skin and flesh of both the dead bodies were rotten. Bones were visible. There was no identification mark on the corpse. The flesh of nose, ear were also rotten.

It is noteworthy that no suggestion has been given to this witness that dead bodies were not of the alleged persons.

P.W.4 Banwari Lal Sharma son of Rameshwar Lal Sharma aged about 50 years resident of Vaijnath, P.S. Devghar, Jharkhand has deposed on oath that deceased Amar Sharma @ Jivan Sharma was his real nephew. Another deceased Potan @ Victor Barnwal was friend of his nephew. Accused Pawan Mishra who was present in the Court is his nephew (sister's son) who after committing murder of his cousin (brother) in Raniganj Bardwan, West Bengal had come to Agra. He used to visit the informant's house regularly. Pawan Mishra called the first informant's nephew Amar Sharma to Agra on the pretext of getting him a job. On 12.06.2005 Amar Sharma reached Agra with his friend Victor @ Potan. His nephew thereafter phoned up the first informant and told him that he and his friend had reached Agra and were with Pawan Bhaiya. When till 15.06.2005 the nephew could not get any job then P.W. 4 told his nephew to come back to Devghar on 15.06.2005. Pawan Mishra told P.W.4 on the phone that both the boys had been sent back by the Purva Express. When on 16.06.2005 they did not reach home on the scheduled time, the P.W.4 was informed by Pawan Mishra that the children had not reached home yet. Then Pawan Mishra told the first informant that the children would reach only when he would send them. Further he told the first informant that he had kidnapped both the boys and after saying so the accused Pawan Mishra hung up. On 17.06.2005 Pawan Mishra called him up again and said that only if money was given to him would he release the children. On 18.06.2005 he informed DSP, Devghar about the incident who in his turn gave him a departmental letter in the name of the DSP, Agra. On 18.06.2005 in the evening Pawan Mishra again made a call that only if Rs. 7 lac were given would he release the children else he could cut them into pieces. Pawan Mishra used to talk through his mobile phone till the 15th June, 2005 and after 15.06.2005 he called from a P&T booth (STD). Pawan Mishra had again made a call on 20.06.2005 and had said that the money could be delivered in Gwalior. He had said that he would, ofcourse, tell later as to where and when the money would be given. Further this witness deposed that on 22.06.2005 he had left Devghar for Agra and had reached Agra and met the DM Agra and had given the application regarding the incident. The D.M. in his turn sent him to the SP, Agra. Thereafter he, with his companion, Munna Kumar, elder brother of the deceased Victor and others met the S.S.P., Agra and also gave him the departmental letter. Further, he deposed that he with other persons remained busy with the searching of the children. The S.S.P. asked him to report the matter at the PS New Agra. Resultantly on 27.06.2005 he presented a tahrir written by one Sri Amit Kumar on his direction on which a report was lodged in PS New Agra. This witness admitted that Amit Kumar had written what he had told him. This witness has admitted his signature on the tahrir which is exhibited as Ex.Ka-15. According to him IO had recorded his statement. On 27.06.2005 when he and his friends were searching his nephew and his friend with SHO PS New Agra on a government vehicle and were going from Deevani Cross Road to Khandari via Bhagwan Talkies, he found Pawan Mishra who was coming from the side of the RBS College. On the pointing of the P.W.4 the Inspector saw Pawan Mishra for the first time. Seeing the police Pawan Mishra started running and the police chased him and ultimately caught him and told him that a case was registered against him and brought him to the police station and interrogated him. He admitted his guilt and also confessed that he with his friends Kripal Kumar Sahu and Dinesh Kumar Sahu had administered sleeping pills in lassi and thereafter has strangulated the two boys and had buried them in the temporary hut of Dinesh Sahu near Friends Apartment at Mau Road. When the present witness with the police and Pawan Mishra reached the house of Kripal Sahu and Dinesh Kumar Sahu they were found there. Pawan Mishra recognized them and confessed that he along with them had committed the murder. On the pointing of the accused persons they went to the hut of accused Dinesh Sahu where two shovels/hoes used for digging the earth were also recovered. For hiding the dead bodies, the floor was cemented. When the floor was dug the dead body of Victor appeared first and after some more digging the dead body of Amar Sharma @ Jivan Sharma was also found. Both the dead bodies were taken out and recognized. Police prepared inquest report and made him witness of the inquest. The police had made the recovery memo by taking two shovels and plain soil from the spot. IO had recorded his statement on 28.06.2005.

The witness has been cross-examined by the accused persons Dinesh and Kripal. In the cross-examination this witness admitted that the tahrir was written by Amit Kumar while sitting in the hotel President. On 27.06.2005 he knew that accused Pawan Mishra lives in the house of Natholi Ram at Bichpuri Road. He deposed that Pawan Mishra himself had taken the deceased from the railway station. He had deposed that he had faith in Pawan and had thought bonafidely that he would help the boys in getting the jobs and, therefore, he had sent the two boys. This witness admitted that he had come to Agra on 23.06.2005 and had searched for the accused and the deceased at his own level while staying at Hotel President. Further he deposed that he was not knowing the accused Dinesh and Kripal prior to the recovery of the dead bodies. He admitted that he had visited the place of occurrence twice, once at the time of recovery and again when IO was preparing the site plan. He admits that at the time of recovery he saw that there was under garment on the body of deceased Victor @ Potan but the dead body of deceased Amar @ Jivan was naked. According to him Pawan Mishra had informed that the hut was of Dinesh. Dinesh and Kripal had admitted before him and the police that they had killed both the boys. Accused Pawan Mishra had not cross-examined the witness in spite of many opportunities being given by the court.

P.W.5 Sawar Mishra has deposed that on 27.06.2005 he had come to Agra after receiving the information of the informant Banwari Lal Sharma. He has deposed that informant Banwari Lal Sharma narranted to him the story that Pawan Mishra had called the deceased Amar @ Jivan and his friend Victor for providing them employment in Agra. When after 2-3 days they had informed that they had not found any job then Banwari Lal Sharma had asked them to come back. When they did not reach then Banwari Lal Sharma had contacted Pawan Mishra who informed that he had sent them by Purva Express. When still both the boys did not reach at the scheduled time, Banwari Lal Sharma again had contacted Pawan Mishra who had informed that the boys had been kidnapped by him. On this information he also came to Agra and had met the District Magistrate who had sent them to SSP, Agra who had assured help and thereafter on 27.06.2005 Banwari Lal went to P.S. New Agra and had given the written tahrir. Thereafter police with their assistence had arrested the accused Pawan Mishra who was present in the court at the time of deposition of this witness. This witness further deposed that Pawan Mishra confessed before him and the police that he with the help of Dinesh and Kripal had killed both the boys. Thereafter when they reached the place of occurrence with him, Dinesh and Kripal were also found. All the three accused persons also confessed that after killing Jeevan Sharma and Victor they had buried them under the earth and had cemented the floor after keeping bricks below the cement. There were two Shovels inside the hut. On asking by police all three dug the the floor and the earth. First the dead body of Victor was found and there after the dead body of Jeevan was recovered. The legs of deceased Amar and Jeevan were tightened with ropes. They recognized the dead bodies. Recovery memo was prepared on the spot. This witness recognized his signature on the recovery memo. This witness has been cross examined by Accused Dinesh and Kripal where he admitted in the cross examination that he was brother-in-law of Banwari Lal. According to him all the accused persons had pointed out the place of burial of the dead bodies. He admitted that it is not in his memory as to whether the recovery memo was read over or not. He admits that he signed the recovery memo without reading. He admitted that the dead bodies were rotten but they could be recognized. According to him the last ritual of dead bodies were conducted by him, Banwari Lal and Munna on the cremation ghat at Agra. Accused Pawan Mishra did not cross-examine this witness.

P.W. 6 Tejbeer Singh, Inspector, I.O. of the case has deposed that on 27.6.2005 he was posted as SHO New Agra where, in his presence at 6.30 p.m., informant Banwari Lal Sharma had lodged the FIR. He started investigation, copied FIR, G.D., wrote the statements of constable Moharir, Satya Veer Singh and informant Banwari Lal Sharma. According to him informant had told him that Pawan Mishra had demanded ransom money from him. When he, the S.P., Sri R.K. Tiwari with the informant and his companions reached Bhagwan Talkies, the SOG team met there. When he, along with the first informant and his companion, was going towards Khandari Chauraha, Banwari Lal and his friends informed that the person who was coming from the side of the RBS College was Pawan Mishra. Thereafter the vehicle was stopped and after chasing and after using the usual force, arrested him at 7.45 p.m. Accused Pawan Mishra was lodged in the lockup of New Agra P.S. as per G.D. No. 65 at 8.15 p.m. When Pawan Mishra was interrogated before the informant Banwari Lal and Sawar Mishra, he had informed that due to family enmity he had killed his cousin Shiv Mishra aged about 1-1/2 years. After being released from jail he had gone to Agra for labour work. During the course of construction in Pushpanjali Mariya, Katra he came in contact of Dinesh Sahu and Beldar Kripal Sahu and started labour work together. His house at Raniganj was occupied and sold by his uncle. He therefore wanted to repurchase it and for that he needed money. For this purpose he thought that his maternal Uncle Puran Lal Sharma and Banwari Lal Sharma could be used. He used to talk with Jeevan.

On 11.6.2005 Jeevan informed that he was coming to Agra with his friend Victor by express train. They had stayed with him for two to three days in the Shalimar Hotel. On 14.6.2005 he with the two boys had gone to the room of Dinesh Sahu at Mau Road where Dinesh and Kripal met him. They had already made up a plan. After reaching there he procured Lassi and diluted Sleeping Pills therein. After drinking the same they became unconscious. There after a problem arose that where they would be kept. As no proper place was available for hiding them and there was fear of exposure of the plan, they strangulated both the deceased persons in the hut of Dinesh and after digging the earth buried them. After keeping some bricks on the dead bodies they cemented the floor. Clothes and shoes of the deceased were burnt in the vacant plot of land. After the confession of the accused Pawan Mishra, he was taken from the lock up to the house of Dinesh Sahu, where on Pawan Mishra's pointing two persons namely Dinesh Sahu and Kripal Sahu were found who also informed that they had killed the Deceased Jeevan Sharma and Victor. The other two accused persons were also arrested. They were apologetic for their act and informed that owing to their greed for money they had killed the deceased persons and had buried them after digging a pit in the hut of Dinesh Sahu. They also pointed out the two shovels and told that with those two shovels they had dug the pit and had buried the dead bodies. This witness proved both the shovels as material Ext.-1 and 2. All the three accused persons after removing the bricks from the cemented floor had dug further for three feet and took out the corpse of the deceased Victor which was recognized by his brother Munna and informant Banwari Lal. After digging a further one and half feet soil another dead body which was of Jeevan was taken out by the accused persons which was recognized by Banwari Lal Sharma and his friends. After recognizing both the corpses he prepared fard of shovels and plain soil in the hand writing of R.K. Tiwari which was signed by the accused persons also. The witness proved this recovery memo as Ext. Ka-17. Recovery of dead body was also prepared in the hand writing of R.K. Tiwari which has been signed by the witnesses. This witness has proved the recovery memo as Ka-16. The box of plain soil was marked as material Ext.-3 and Soil as material Ext.-4. According to this witness in the night after making arrangement of light, inquest and map of the place was prepared there in his hand writing and signature. Map is exhibited as Ext.-Ka-18. He recorded the statements of Accused Dinesh and Kripal on the spot and also recorded the statements of Munna Kumar elder brother of the deceased Victor and informant Banwari Lal Sharma, Amit Kumar and Sawar Mishra. He copied the inquest on 29.6.2005 and recorded the statements of the witnesses of the inquest. He recorded the statements of SI, Anupam Sharma and Ram Ratan on 3th July, 2005. He again recorded the statements of accused Pawan Mishra on 13.8.2005 with the permission of the Court and on 30.8.2005 he submitted charge-sheet Ext-Ka-19 against the accused Pawan Mishra, Dinesh Sahu and Kripal Sahu.

Only accused Dinesh and Kripal cross-examined the witness. Accused Pawan Mishra was provided ample opportunity but he did not cross-examine this witness also. In cross-examination he has admitted that the copy of the chick FIR was provided to the informant. He admitted that he had taken photographs of the deceased persons but they were not on record. He admitted that in the map which was Ext. Ka-18 date of preparation had been left but denied the suggestion that it was made prior to the lodging of the FIR. According to this witness there were 10-12 huts in the shape of rooms where labourers used to live. He admitted that except the informant and his companions no other person had been made a witness. He admitted that he had not written the length and width of shovels and its sticks. He admitted that a part of one of the shovels was broken but it is not written in recovery memo. He admitted that no chemical poison was found in the viscera. The rope by which the legs of the deceased were tied was not before him in the Court. He admitted that mobile number 9219799101 was in the name of Ajanta Agarwal and not in the name of accused Pawan Mishra. He denied the suggestion that both the deceased are alive and they had not died. He denied that accused Dinesh and Kripal were caught from the place of thekedar Om Prakash and they were not living at the place of occurrence.

Accused Pawan Mishra has denied all the allegations in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and though he had stated that he was filing papers in his defence but had not filed any documentary evidence in defence. He said nothing about the incident.

Accused Dinesh has also denied all the questions asked under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and has said that he was living in Bichpuri and used to work with Thekar Om Prakash wherefrom the Police had caught him.

Accused Kripal Kumar Sahu has also denied all the questions asked under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and had stated that he had come for doing labour work from Bilaspur and was living with Om Prakash and used to do labour work.

During the course of trial accused Pawan Mishra did not properly participate. He neither arranged for any private counsel nor took the help of any amicus curiae. Lastly, an advocate was arranged by him but he did not permit him to argue the case. On several dates he had not signed the order sheet. He moved several complaints against the investigating officer and the Presiding Officer due to which investigation was also transferred many times. Several times he did not cross-examine the witnesses, therefore, the trial took long to conclude. The trial however had ended in conviction.

(11) Being aggrieved, the present appeals have been preferred.

(12) The appellants in Criminal Appeal No. 3490 of 2010 have taken following grounds:

(i) That the conviction and sentence is against the weight of evidence on record, contrary to law and very severe. No independent witness has been examined by prosecution during the trial. The impugned judgment and order is wholly illegal, arbitrary and not sustainable in the eye of law and is liable to be quashed as it has been passed without considering the facts and evidence used by prosecution. The impugned judgment and order is against the principles of law and cannot be sustained in the eyes of law, therefore, the appeal be allowed and the impugned judgment and order dated 13.4.2010 be set aside.

(ii) In Jail Appeal No. 3367 of 2010 appellant Pawan Mishra has simply forwarded an application from the jail treating the same to be memo of appeal.

It is noteworthy that the appellant Pawan Mishra has not cooperated during the course of trial. He did not engage any private counsel and when he was asked to take the help of amicus curiae he had refused to take the help of any legal professional as amicus curiae and even he himself did not cross examine any of the witnesses.

Though he had denied the charges as levelled against him and had sought trial but when the lower court provided opportunities for cross examining the witnesses, he refused to do so and lastly the trial court had closed the cross examination on his behalf.

(13) This appeal is being decided as under :-

The Tehrir Ex. Ka -1 5 to lodge F.I.R was lodged before the S.H.O, P.S New Agra, District Agra, by the first informant Banwari Lal Sharma. It was reduced into writing by one Sri Amit Kumar. Thereafter Chik F.I.R was prepared as Exhibit Ka-3, in which it was mentioned that there was delay in lodging the F.I.R. Under Section 154 Cr.P.C information in cognizable case can be given orally or in writing, which information shall be entered in the General Diary. A copy of the same is given free of cost to the informant. According to the F.I.R, Banwari Lal Sharma his nephew Amar @ Jeewan were residents of Pandey Lane, Deoghar, P.S and District Deoghar, (Jharkhand). Banwari Lal Sharma who was the first informant had a bhanja (nephew, sister's son), Pawan Mishra who was a resident of Musahuli Bazar, P.S. Raniganj, District Burdwan (West Bengal). The informant had mentioned in the FIR that Pawan Mishra had after killing his cousin (brother) he had left Raniganj and had shifted to Agra. It was also mentioned that some times he used to visit the house of the informant and also talked at times from his mobile no. 9219799101. He had assured that he would land a job for the informant's nephew Amar @ Jeewan Sharma son of Puran Mal Sharma. On the assurance of the accused Amar @ Jeewan Sharma had gone to Agra on 11.06.2005 with one Victor @ Potan son of Vishnu Deo Baranbal, R/o Bhanutola, District Deoghar (Jharkhand). On 12.06.2005, Amar @ Jeewan Sharma had informed that he along with Victor had reached Agra and had met Pawan Mishra. Two or three days later Amar had informed the informant on phone that no arrangement for job/service was there. Upon knowing this the first informant had asked him to return.

(14) On 15.06.2005, Pawan Mishra had informed the informant that the boys had been sent back by train Purwa Express. However, when the boys did not reach on 16.06.2005, then the informant contacted Pawan Mishra on his mobile phone regarding the fact that the boys had not returned. Pawan Mishra, therefore, had said that the abducted boys had infact not been sent by him and that they would be only returned once the ransom is paid. This was told by Pawan Mishra on phone on 17.06.2005 On 18.06.2005, the informant informed the C.O. Deoghar regarding the incident. Thereafter C.O. Deoghar had contacted D.S.P. Agra, (UP). In the evening of 18.06.2005, Pawan Mishra again rang up the first informant and demanded Rs.7,00,000/- (seven lac) and also threatened that in case of non-payment of the said money, he shall cut the boys into pieces. On 20.06.2005 Pawan Mishra again rang up the first informant and asked him to give the money in Gwalior. On 23.06.2005 he rang up to inform as to whom the money had to be paid. Thereafter the first informant came to Agra and met the District Magistrate, who in his turn sent the first informant to the Superintendent of Police, Agra. The said information was entered in the G.D and Chik F.I.R was prepared accordingly. About this fact, it has already been enumerated earlier in this judgment.

(15) According to the defence counsel, the F.I.R was ante timed and it was lodged only after the recovery of the dead bodies. In this regard he could not create any substantive doubt in the mind of the Court. As per Tehrir Exhibit Ka-15, it was moved before the S.H.O, Police Station New Agra on 27.06.2005 and the same was also entered in the G.D (Exhibit Ka-4) on the very same day, at 6:30 p.m. at Rapat no. 62 and Chik No. 224/2005. Consequently a Case U/s 364-A I.P.C was lodged.

(16) It is also noticed by this Court that on the back of the Chik F.I.R, the contents of Tehrir had not been copied. On this basis also the defence counsel had argued that Chik F.I.R was not in accordance with law. He, therefore, questions the veracity of the F.I.R. According to the Court, it was the duty of the concerned Constable Moharrir to get the Tehrir copied on the back of Chik F.I.R, if it is not so copied then it was not the fault of the informant, and in fact it was the mistake of Constable Moharrir. This fact would definitely not affect the merit of the case. On the basis of Tehrir, a Chik F.I.R was prepared on the same day. In the Chik F.I.R only Section 364-A I.P.C, has been entered. This proves that till the lodging of F.I.R, the dead bodies were not recovered on the pointing of the accused persons. If the F.I.R would have been ante timed then Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C would have been mentioned in the Chik F.I.R. There is no averment in Chik F.I.R that dead bodies of the deceased persons had also been recovered. Another argument of the appellants counsel is that lodging of the FIR in New Agra was unnatural does not find favour with the Court.

(17) It is very much mentioned in the FIR that the informant had informed the Police that accused Pawan Mishra used to call him from Mau Road, which falls under the P.S. New Agra, therefore the F.I.R was lodged in P.S New Agra. It is obvious from the Tehrir Exhibit Ka-15 that before lodging the F.I.R, the first informant had contacted the D.S.P, District Deoghar (Jharkhand), who had contacted D.S.P. Agra. Thereafter initially the informant had gone to District Magistrate, Agra. Thereafter upon the direction of District Magistrate, Agra he had approached Superintendent of Police, Agra, wherefrom he was directed to go to Police Station, New Agra. Therefore there was nothing unnatural in the lodging of the FIR in Police Station, New Agra.

(18) On the basis of aforesaid discussions, the defence plea that why F.I.R was not lodged in any other Police Station, is fully explained.

(19) It is true that no time has been mentioned in Exhibit Ka-17 which is the Recovery Memo, regarding the recovery of the two Shovels/Hoes, and the sample of the plain soil. Also, no time is mentioned in the recovery memo of the dead bodies which is Ext. Ka-17. From the evidence of the Investigating Officer and the case diary it is proved that after lodging of the FIR the Investigating Officer of the case proceeded on the same day with the complaint for arresting the accused and for searching the abducted persons. Accused Pawan Mishra was arrested on the pointing out of the first informant when he was going past the RBS College. When the informant saw him he recognized the accused and, police, thereafter, chased him and arrested him. As per the case diary the accused was arrested at about 7.45 p.m. and an arrest memo was also prepared and information about it was also entered in the General Diary at serial No. 65. The FIR was lodged on 6.30 p.m. and the accused was thereafter arrested about about 7.45 p.m. It can, therefore, be said that the FIR was lodged prior in point of time and that the arrest had followed the lodging of the FIR. The police upon the arresting of the accused Pawan Mishra interrogated him who thereafter confessed the commission of the offence on 27.6.2005 itself. During the interrogation the accused confessed that he had killed his cousin (mamera bhai) Shiv Mishra aged about 1-1/2 years for which he was in jail for two years. Upon his release he had left home and had gone to Agra and had started working there. At Agra he used to work as a labour. In Agra he came in contact with Dinesh Sahu (Mistri) Kripal Sahu (Beldar). As he was in the need of money for repurchasing his paternal house at Raniganj which was sold away earlier by his uncle, he divulged that he had hatched a plan whereby he would asked for money from Puran Lal Sharma and Banwari Lal Sharma after kidnapping Amar and his friend Victor. For operating in a planned fashion he had purchased a mobile phone and had got the mobile No. 9219799101 at the address of Anjali Agrawal, Sanjai Palace, Agra. From this very phone he used to talk to the first informant, Jeevan Sharma and his friend Victor. Accused during investigation had also narrated as to how Jeevan and Victor were kept in a hotel and how thereafter they were taken on 14.6.2005 to the place where Dinesh Sahu and Kripal had taken rooms on rent. Upon reaching the rented accommodation, they mixed sleeping pills in the lassi. After consuming the lassi they became unconscious. Thereafter they were stripped off their clothes, strangulated to death and then were buried in the room. Thereafter the dead bodies were covered with mud. Bricks were laid and the floor was plastered with cement. The clothes and the shoes were burnt in the neighbouring plot. On 21.6.2005 upon reading in the newspaper about the abduction the accused destroyed the sim cards and threw the mobile in the nala (sewer) near Kaushalpur. On 27th June, 2005 he made a call from Belanganj STD booth and made the demand for ransom.

(20) On the pointing of the accused-Pawan Mishra, two other accused persons Dinesh Sahu and Kripal Sahu were also arrested from the place they were staying at Mau Road, near Friends Apartment. The three accused, thereafter, took the police to the place of occurrence where from the dead bodies of the deceased persons were recovered along with the Shovels/Hoes, which were used in digging and burying the two dead bodies; Jeevan and Victor.

(21) As noted earlier in the judgment, recovery memo of dead bodies was marked as Exhibit Ka-16, the recovery of the two Shovels/Hoes and that of the plain soil was marked as Exhibit Ka-17. After ascertaining that the abducted persons had been killed, the I.O. added Sections 302 & 201 of I.P.C in the Parcha of C.D. and therefore these two Sections were mentioned in the above two recovery memos.

(22) Thus, from the above discussion, it is crystal clear that the F.I.R is not ante timed. Certainly in the inquest of Amar @ Jeewan Sharma Exhibit Ka-5 and in the inquest of Victor @ Potan Exhibit Ka-10, the I.O. had not mentioned the Sections and Case Crime Number regarding which the F.I.R was lodged but at the bottom of both these inquest reports, a mention was there of the fact that copies of Chik F.I.R, were entered as Annexure. This goes to prove that when the inquest was initiated, the copy of Chik F.I.R which was prepared on the basis of Tehrir was there with the I.O. of the case. Though the defence counsel had not pointed out these defects, the Court is dealing with them as it occurred to it at the time of the passing of the judgment. It may be noted that it is an established principle of law that Chik F.I.R and inquest reports are not substantive pieces of evidence.

(23) In the case of Bable @ Gurdeep Singh vs State Of Chattisgarh A.I.R 2012 S.C. 2621, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that an FIR is not a substantive piece of evidence. In this case the scribe Amit Kumar of the Tehrir (informant) had not been examined. It has also been held by the Supreme Court in the case of Moti lal Vs. State of U.P. (2010) 1 SCC 581 that non examination of the scribe would not be fatal for the prosecution.

(24) In Jarnail Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2009) 9 SCC 219, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of all the facts relating to the FIR.

(25) Similarly in the case Radha Mohan Singh alias lal Saheb Vs. State of U.P, (2006) 2 SCC 450 (Hon'ble Supreme Court (Three Judges Bench), it has been held that there is no requirement in the law to mention the details in the F.I.R. Names of the accused or names of the eye witnesses or the gist of their statements need not be mentioned in the report.

(26) In the instant case it is noteworthy that in the Tehrir and the Chik F.I.R the name of Pawan Mishra was mentioned as an accused. If the F.I.R would have been ante timed, the names of the remaining two accused persons would also have been mentioned.

(27) On the basis of aforesaid discussions till now, this Court is of the opinion that in the present case, the F.I.R is not ante timed and the cause of delay has been properly explained.

(28) The importance of an inquest report has been discussed in the case of Brahm Swaroop Vs. State of U.P., A.I.R 2011 S.C. 280, by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and has held that it is not a substantive piece of evidence. Omission of crime number, name of the accused persons, provisions under which the offence was being investigated etc would not be fatal for the prosecution case. Such omission would definitely not lead to the inference that F.I.R was ante timed. The whole purpose of preparing the inquest report under Section 174 Cr.P.C. is to investigate into the cause of death and also to draw up a report of the apparent cause of it. The object of the proceedings under Section 174 Cr.P.C is only to ascertain whether a person had died under suspicious circumstances or on account of an unnatural death. The effort is also to find out the apparent cause. The question regarding details as to how the deceased was assaulted or who assaulted him or under what circumstances he was assaulted, or who were the witnesses of the assault is foreign to the ambit and scope of such proceedings.

(29) The occurrence and the case both are based on circumstantial evidence and the motive for the crime from all the evidence present is also established. As the evidence is dealt with it becomes clear that Pawan Mishra had made several demands on the phone from Sri Jeewal Lal Sharma. Details of the phone calls are mentioned in the case diary. The informant P.W-1, Jeewan Lal Sharma, was informed by his deceased nephew through telephone on 12.06.2005 regarding the fact that he and his friend had contacted the accused Pawan Mishra. After 2- 3 days, his nephew had again informed through the telephone that he would not get any job.

(30) On 15.06.2005, according to the first informant P.W 4, Pawan Mishra, the accused had informed him that he had sent back the boys by Purwa Express Train and when they did not reach home then on 16.06.2005, the informant had called up Pawan Mishra and had informed him about the fact that boys had not reached home. Thereafter the first informant that Pavan Mishra had narrated that the accused had told him that the boys would reach home only if he would send them. He told him that in fact he had kidnapped them. According to informant, accused Pawan Mishra had made a demand of ransom on the 17th 18th & 20th June of 2005. The accused Pawan Mishra had not cross-examined the informant P.W 4 Banwari Lal Sharma and other witnesses. Rest accused persons did the cross-examination. However, there is no cross examination on the point of motive from the side of any of the accused. However, the informant P.W 4 had constantly deposed about the fact that there was demand of ransom from the side of the accused Pawan Mishra. Thus, this fact about the demand and ransom has remained unrebutted and uncontroverted. It is, therefore, proved that the co-accused persons had motive to kill the deceased persons as has been held in Nagaraj

Vs. State Rep. (2015) 4 SCC 739 (para 13) and in Babu Vs. State of Kerala (2010) 9 SCC 189. If a conviction is to be based on circumstantial evidence motive should be clear and proved.

(31) In this case electronic documents are also very relevant and which also assisted the Investigating Officer in submitting the charge-sheet against the accused persons. During the course of investigation the investigating officer found following electronic evidence through C.D.R. against the main mastermind accused Pawan Mishra.

(32) Followings are the the details of telephone and mobile numbers of the informant and the accused Pawan Mishra. Call details have been annexed by the Investigating Officer with Charge-sheet (Paper No. 10B/9 and 10B/23 and 24). From the papers attached with charge-sheet and case diary it is established that followings are the telephone and mobile numbers of informant Banwari Lal Sharma:-

(i) Telephone No. - 06432222399, 06432225476,

(ii) Mobile No.- 9431150613

Mobile number in the possession and use of the accused Pawan Mishra:-

(i) 09219799101 (Tata Indicom, in the name of Smt. Ajali Agarwal, 36, Bhagya Nagar, Agra. It has come in evidence that Accused Pawan Mishra was working as a thekedar for the construction of the house of Smt. Anjali Agarwal. Since accused Pawan Mishra was not having proper ID proof, therefore, a mobile sim was provided to him by her on her ID)

In connection of commission of crime accused Pawan Mishra had contacted the informant Banwari Lal Sharma on following dates and time. The mobile and telephone numbers namely number 06432222399 are being reproduced herein below:

S. No	Date	Time	Mobile andTelephone Numbers used by the accused Pawan Mishra	Purpose of the conversation
1	15.6.2005	2.10 pm	9219799101	Telephone No. 06432222399 that boys are sitting in the train at 8.30 p.m.
2	16.6.2005	8 p.m.	0562 2253256	Children have been kidnapped
3	17.6.2005	6.40 p.m.	0562 2253148	I will tell later, how much money is needed
4	17.6.2005	6.50 p.m	0562 2253148	Do
5	18.6.2005	7.50 p.m.	9219799101	Seven lac rupees are needed otherwise the body of the boys shall be spread in 150 pieces.
6	20.6.2005	5.05 p.m.	9219799101	Missed call
7	20.6.2005	5.10 p.m.	9219799101	Missed call
8	20.6	7.35	0562	Money has

	.2005	p.m.	2524679	to be sent at Gwalior
9	Do	8.30 p.m.	0562 2524773	When and where money has to be sent, will inform on Thursday (23.6.2005)

From the above, paper No. 10B/23 and 24 it is also established that during the relevant period and with respect to commission of crime accused Pawan Mishra had talked with the informant Banwari Lal Shamra 17 times from the mobile number 9219799101 at his telephone number 06432 222399 (16 times) and 06432 225476 (once).

(33) In this case, there are no eye witnesses. Only P.W.4, P.W.5 and police witnesses were the witnesses of recovery of the dead bodies and that too on the pointing out of the accused. Thus the chain of evidence also gets completed. In the case of G. Parshwanath vs State of Karnataka A.I.R 2010 S.C 2914, it was held that in a case of circumstantial evidence the chain of evidence should be complete and should be proved by cogent evidence.

(34) The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the Case of Sadik Vs. State of Gujarat (2016) 10 SCC 663 and in Dasin Bai Vs. State of Chhattisgarh (2015) 89 ACC 337 SC has held that in the event the link of chain of circumstances is well established, proof of motive or ill-will is always not necessary. In the case of Sanjeev Vs. State of Haryana (2015) 4 SCC 387 (para 16), the Supreme Court has held that to establish an offence (murder) by an accused, motive is not required to be always proved. Motive is something which prompts a man to form an intention. The intention can be formed even at the place of incident at the time of commission of the crime. It is only either intention or knowledge on the part of the accused which is required to be seen in respect of the offence of culpable homicide. In order to read either intention or knowledge, the courts have to examine the circumstances, as there cannot be any direct evidence as to the state of mind of the accused.

(35) In this case the motive of the accused persons to get the ransom has been proved beyond doubt by cogent oral and documentary evidence.

(36) In this case only two witnesses of fact P.W. 4 informant Banwari Lal Sharma and P.W. 5 Sawar Mishra have been examined. The occurrence was committed far away from the residences of P.W 4 and P.W 5. When the deceased boys did not reach home, the informant P.W 4 and P.W 5 Sawar Mishra started their journey to Agra after informing the C.O. Police in District Deoghar (Jharkhand). It is from no where established that the informant P.W 4 and P.W 5 had any intention of falsely implicating the accused persons. Only the accused Pawan Mishra was known to the first informant and when Pawan Mishra had promised job for the boys the first informant had sent the boys in the hope that the accused Pavan Mishra shall provide them jobs. They had absolutely no dispute or enmity with the accused person. Therefore there is no occasion of false implication from the side of informant and Sawar Mishra.

(37) In Mahavir Singh Vs. State of Haryana (2014) 6 SCC Page 716 Para 16, the Supreme Court has settled the legal proposition that in the event a witness is not cross-examined with regard to a particular issue, the correctness or legality of that issue cannot be questioned. Undoubtedly, it is the prosecution's duty to prove its side of story. However, in the light of section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act, the Apex Court has observed in Harendra v. State of Assam AIR. 2008 Supreme Court 2467 & Himanchal Prashasan v. Om Prakash AIR. 1972 Supreme Court page 975 that benefit of doubt should be given only on the basis of logical, reasonable and honest conclusion.

(38) Further in Ramanand v. State of Himanchal Pradesh AIR 1981 Supreme Court page 3617 the Apex Court held that proving a case beyond reasonable doubt is a guideline not a-fetish.

(39) In the case of State of U.P. v. Ramveen Singh and another 2007 (6) Supreme Court page 164 the Apex Court has held that the ultimate object of any court is to avoid miscarriage of justice.

Hence, in the light of above analysis we embark upon the evaluation of the evidence as is available in the case.

(40) The defence counsel has questioned the identity of the deceased persons by arguing that the dead bodies were in such a state that no person could have recognized them and it was not proved beyond reasonable doubt that these two dead bodies were of Amar @ Jeewan Sharma and Victor @ Potan. In this respect it has to be kept in mind that the dead bodies were recovered upon the pointing of accused persons especially on the pointing of the accused Pawan Mishra, who had called the deceased to Agra for giving them employment. He had informed the informant on phone that both the boys had been sent back by Purwa Express Train, but the fact was that they never reached their destination. Nobody else claimed the dead bodies to be known to them.

(41) From perusal of the Exhibit Ka-6, recovery memo regarding dead bodies, it is evident that the accused had confessed about the killing of the two and had also definitely pointed to the place where the deceased persons were buried. On their pointing the pit was dug and the dead bodies of Victor alias Potan and Amar were exhumed and were also recognized by Munna and the informant Banwari Lal Sharma and the friends of the deceased. Though the dead bodies were in a rotten stage but they were not in the form of skeleton. During cross-examination also no question was raised with regard to the identity of the dead bodies. This question cannot now be allowed to be raised in this appeal. It was never the case of the defence/appellants that the police had recovered the dead bodies of some other persons and that the deceased persons were still alive.

(42) It is also noteworthy that family members recognise their near and dear ones even in very bare conditions, on account of their height, weight, colour, hair, toe, fingers nails, face, arms etc.

(43) From a perusal of the inquest Exhibit Ka-5 and Exbibit ka-10, it is clear and proved that before sending the dead bodies for post mortem, the dead bodies were recognized by their family members. Exhibit Ka-5 is the inquest report regarding deceased Amar @ Jeewan Sharma, in which it is mentioned that after seeing the dead body of the deceased Amar @ Jeewan Sharma, the informant Banwari Lal

Sharma, was convinced that it was the dead body of Amar @ Jeewan Sharma. Similarly, as per the inquest report of Victor @ Potan his brother was convinced that it was the dead body of his brother Victor @ Potan therefore we are of the opinion that no question regarding identity of the deceased persons arises. Therefore the contention of the defence counsel regarding non-identification of the dead bodies is not tenable, hence is being rejected.

(44) The appellant's counsel argued that though viscera was preserved and the same was sent to the forensic laboratory for expert opinion/examination, it was not evaluated in its correct perspective as no poison was found in it. Quite contrary to what the appellant's counsel has argued, the court finds that prosecution case is based on the confessional statements of accused persons which was that the sleeping pills were used to make the deceased unconscious. The sleeping pills were diluted in the Lassi and the same was given to the deceased to drink, therefore, they became unconscious. The two boys were put to death and thereafter buried. The dead bodies were exhumed from the place where they were buried in the same sequence as it was mentioned by the accused. Thus, non-finding of poison in viscera does not adversely affect the prosecution case.

(45) The post mortem report also corroborates the oral evidence. Except the accused person none else saw the commission of crime. The hyoid bones and the necks were broken, therefore there was no occasion to opine by the Doctor that the cause of death could not be ascertained. Hyoid bone can only be broken if the deceased has been strangulated forcefully. There was no injury whatsoever on the rest part of the body of both the deceased person. Thus, it is concluded that the deceased persons were strangulated by which the hyoid bones of both the deceased persons were broken, which caused death of both of the deceased persons and, thereafter they were buried there.

(46) It is a case based on circumstantial evidence. None else has seen the commission of crime but the witnesses are not inimical to the accused persons.

(47) In cases Nathiya Vs. State (2016) 10 SCC 298, Bhim Singh Vs. State of Uttarakhand (2015) 4 SCC 281 (para 23), Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 (paras 120 and 121), State of West Bengal Vs. Dipak Halder, (2009) 7 SCC (Three Judge Bench) the Supreme Court has laid down the following principles regarding cases based on circumstantial evidence:

(i) The circumstance from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely "may be" fully established;

(ii) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(iii) the circumstances should conclusive in nature and tendency;

(iv) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(v) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must be so that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

(48) In Bhim Singh (supra) it is held that when the conclusion is to be based on circumstantial evidence solely, then there should not be any snap in the chain of circumstances.

(49) In State of Goa Vs. Pandurang Mohite, AIR 2009 SC 1066 and in State of U.P. Vs. Satish, 2005 (3) SCC 114 the Supreme Court held that circumstances of "last seen together" do not by themselves and necessarily lead to the inference that it was accused who committed the crime. There must be something more establishing connectivity between the accused and the crime. The time gap between last seen alive and the recovery of dead body must be so small that the possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible.

(50) In Rohtash Kumar Vs. State of Haryana, 2013 (82) ACC 401 (SC) (para 25) and in Prithipal Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2012) 1 SCC 10 the Supreme Court held that if it is established that victim and the accused were lastly seen together then the burden of proof shifts on the accused requiring him to explain how the incident had occurred. Failure on the part of the accused to furnish any explanation in this regard would give rise to a very strong presumption against him.

(51) In Ashok Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 4 SCC 393 the Supreme Court held that initial burden of proof is on the prosecution to adduce sufficient evidence pointing towards the guilt of the accused. However, in case it is established that accused was last seen together with the deceased, prosecution is exempted to prove exactly as to what happened in the incident as the accused himself would have special knowledge of the incident and would have the burden of proof on himself as per Section 106 of the Evidence Act. But last seen together itself is not a conclusive proof. Along with other circumstances surrounding the incident like relations between accused and deceased, enmity between them, previous history of hostility, recovery of weapon from accused etc. non-explanation of death of deceased, etc. may lead to a presumption of guilt of the accused.

(52) In this case the conversation between the informant Banwari Lal Sharma and the deceased Jeevan alias Amar Sharma with regard to their reaching Agra for employment and with regard to the fact that the latter was received by the accused Pawan Mishra, and that both the deceased boys stayed in hotel arranged by the accused and that the accused demanded of ransom everything is part of the same transaction. So, the connected facts and evidence thereon are relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 6 of The Indian Evidence Act and conversation of the deceased Jeevan alias Amar to the informant while coming from Devghar and also from Agra to the informant at Devghar is also relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act. All evidence on the above facts shall be read against the accused appellants only. For reference Section 6 of the Indian Evidence Act is noted hereinbelo

S.6: Relevancy of facts forming part of same transaction.--Facts which, though not in issue, are so connected with a fact in issue as to form part of the same transaction, are relevant, whether they occurred at the same time and place or at different times and places.

Illustrations

(a) A is accused of the murder of B by beating him. Whatever was said or done by A or B or the by-standers at the beating, or so shortly before or after it as to form part of the transaction, is a relevant fact.

(b) A is accused of waging war against the 1[Government of India] by taking part in an armed insurrection in which property is destroyed, troops are attacked, and goals are broken open. The occurrence of these facts is relevant, as forming part of the general transaction, though A may not have been present at all of them.

(c) A sues B for a libel contained in a letter forming part of a correspondence. Letters between the parties relating to the subject out of which the libel arose, and forming part of the correspondence in which it is contained, are relevant facts, though they do not contain the libel itself.

(d) The question is, whether certain goods ordered from B were delivered to A. The goods were delivered to several intermediate persons successively. Each delivery is a relevant fact.

(53) Though hear-say evidence is not admissible in evidence but in the event the victim dies, his previous statements to any living person become relevant and admissible in evidence under Section 32 (1) of The Indian Evidence Act if it relates to cause of his death. If he had made any statement in this regard the same can be taken into consideration. The statement would be relevant in every case or proceeding in which the cause of death of that person is in issue. In Indian Law it is not necessary that the person who made any declaration was actually expecting an assault which would kill him. It is, therefore, unlike the English Law. (Sharad Birdichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharastra AIR 1984 SC 1622), In Bhagirath Vs. State of Haryana (1977) 1 SCC 481, Supreme Court held that if the declarant has in fact died and the statement explains the circumstances surrounding his death, the statement will be relevant even if no cause of death was stated at the time of the making of the statement.

(54) In Pakla Narayan Swami Vs. Emperor AIR 1939 Privy Council 47, the wife of the accused had taken a debt of Rs. 3,000 from the deceased at 18% interest about a year before the tragedy. A number of letters signed by the accused's wife were discovered from the house of the deceased had clearly proven this fact. On 20nd March, 1937, the deceased whose name was K.N. received a letter which was not signed by anybody but from which, it was reasonably clear that it had come from the wife of the accused, inviting him to come that day or next day to Berhampur. K.N.'s widow told the court that on that day her husband showed her a letter and said that he was going to Berhampur as Swami's wife had written to him, inviting him to come to receive payment of his dues. K.N. and the wife of accused were known to each other as she was the daughter of an officer in whose office K.N. was employed as a peon. K.N. left his house the next day in time to catch the train to Behrampur. On Tuesday, 23rd March, his body, cut into seven pieces, was found in a steel trunk in a third class compartment of a train at Puri, where the trunk had been left unclaimed.

The accused was convicted of murder and sentenced to death. The evidence against him was, firstly his indebtedness to the deceased, secondly, the statement of the deceased to his wife that he was goint to the accused, thirdly, the steel trunk was purchased by a Dhobi (washerman) for and on behalf of the accused. Some other details about arrival of the deceased at the accused's house, discovery of blood stained clothes and transportation of the trunk to the station were also proved. The accused appealed to the Privy Council on the ground that the statement of the deceased to his wife that he was going to the accused was wrongly admitted under Section 32 (1) and that the statement of the accused to the police that the deceased arrived at his place was admittedly in violation of Section 162 Cr.P.C. Lord Etkin and other Lordships were of the opinion that the natural meaning of the word used do not convey any of these limitations. The statement may be made before the cause of death had arisen or before the deceased had any reason to anticipate his murder. The circumstances must be circumstances of the same transaction; general expression including fear or suspicion whether of a particular individual or otherwise and not directly related to the occasion of the death would not be admissible. But statements made by the deceased that he was proceeding to the spot where he was in fact killed, or any such statement which might give reasons for so proceeding, would be "circumstances" in the same transaction and would be so whether the person was known or was unknown to the accused. "Circumstances of the same transaction" is a phrase which no doubt conveys some limitation. It cannot be analogous to the term "circumstantial evidence", which includes evidence of all relevant facts. It is on the other hand narrower than "res gestae." Circumstances must have proximate relations to the actual occurrence.

If we compare the fact of the case in hand with the facts of the case, of Pakla Naraya Swami (supra) we find any number of similarities. In Swami's case the deceased K.N. had gone to Behrampur in the hope getting the money lent back. Similarly in the case in hand both the deceased boys had gone to Agra in the hope of employment. Thus the information given by the deceased persons before their death to the informant was admissible in evidence against the accused persons under Section 32 (1) of The Indian Evidence Act and on this score also the accused persons are liable to be convicted and sentenced.

(55) After establishment of the fact that the deceased persons had gone to Agra where they were in the direct control of the accused Pawan Mishra and others, the burden of proving that what happened to the deceased persons and how hey died, lay on the accused Pawan Mishra and others. It is also established that deceased persons were in company of all the three accused persons, therefore, it is the burden of all the accused-appellants to discharge their burden of proof under section 106 of The Indian Evidence Act.

Section 106 of The Indian Evidence Act is as under:

S: 106. Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge-

When any fact is specially within the knowledge of any preson, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.

Where a fact is specially within the knowledge of a party the burden of proving that fact lies upon him. In a case of similar fact Sucha Singh Vs. State of Punjab AIR 2001 SC 1436 the victim was first abducted and later on murdered. It was held that the court, depending on the factual situation, could draw the presumption that all the adbuctors were responsible for the murder. It was upon the abductor to explain that they were not guilty of the murder.

Here the abductors/appellants have not been able to give any explanation of the death of the deceased persons.

In Sunder Vs. State AIR 2013 SC 777 the accused kidnapped a child of seven years for ransom, annihilated him on not receiving the ransom amount. There was no enmity between the accused and the child, nor the child was a stranger, nor there was any proof that the accused had released the child, yet it was held that Section 106 was attracted and the accused was under the responsibility to explain as to what happened to the child, failing which he became liable for the murder. The facts of the case cited are similar to the case in hand, therefore, the principle laid down in the cited case applies to the case at hand.

(56) During the course of investigation and recovery accused persons had admitted that legs of deceased Jeevan Sharma were tied with a rope and as there was no place to hide them, therefore, both were strangulated and buried one by one. Accused persons had also accepted in the recovery memo that they had administered sleeping pills in the Lassi and therefore both the deceased had become unconscious and they were easily strangulated.

(57) This admission and contents of recovery memo also finds support from the post-mortem report in which Hyoid bones of both the deceased were found broken and this occurs only when the dead are strangulated.

(58) From perusal of the facts and the evidence brought in case it is established that the accused had mens-rea to kidnap and abduct the deceased persons for obtaining ransom. For this first of all they prepared a plan and in furtherance of the plan, the accused Pawan Mishra contacted his maternal uncle to send the boys for employment which was never available for them and when they came to Agra they were killed and thereafter buried.

(59) From the prosecution evidence it is established that the deceased persons had not been seen in the company of any other criminal or group of criminals other than the accused persons before or after the commissioning of the crime and there was no one else known to them.

(60) It is further established from the evidence of P.W.4 and P.W. 5 that ransom was demanded by the accused Pawan Mishra on his behalf and on behalf of the other two accused persons who had actively participated in the crime. For Pawan Misra it was not possible to handle both the deceased persons all by himself.

(61) Thus the evidence in totality goes to prove that there was motive as also evidence for the accused to kill the two deceased persons.

(62) The course of this case began on 11.6.2005 when the deceased commenced their journey and reached Agra on 12.6.2005. Thereafter they ended in the hands of accused persons. In between the chain of all the facts and evidence have been fully connected and established by the prosecution. The chain of circumstantial evidence is intact and established without breaking. Therefore, this Court is of the opinion that by proving motive, *Mens-re*a, demand of ransom and lastly recovery of the dead bodies from the person who had demanded ransom, the prosecution has successfully proved the case beyond all reasonable doubt against the accused persons. It is established that except the accused persons none else would have committed the murder and have buried both the deceased persons under the earth at the place of occurrence. Therefore, we find no infirmity in the appreciation of evidence in connection with conclusion drawn by the trial court.

(63) In this case charges were framed under Sections 364A, 302 and 201 IPC. From the evidence produced by the prosecution it is fully proved that deceased were cleverly called by the accused persons and after they reached Agra they were kidnapped and abducted. There they were administered sleeping pills, and thereafter their hyoid bones were broken by strangulation and were buried under the earth. Thus the ingredients of Section 364A IPC is completed. They were thereafter buried alive and in an unconscious state of mind. The accused persons while committing such acts were always knowing that their acts were so imminently dangerous that they would in all probability, cause death. Thus the act of convicted accused persons is covered under Section 300 (4) IPC. By burying the deceased persons and by burning their clothes and shoes the accused persons had also committed the offence under section 201 IPC. Thus this court is of the considered view that charges against the all accused appellants have been proved beyond reasonable doubt and they were correctly convicted by the learned trial court.

(64) So far as the sentencing is concerned the lower court had opined that it is not a rarest of the rare cases and therefore awarded them minimum sentence. The State or the informant have not preferred any appeal against the order of sentencing. Under Sections 302 and 364A IPC the minimum sentence is life imprisonment and fine which has already been awarded by the trial court. The trial court has already awarded five years rigorous imprisonment and 5,000/- fine each under Section 201 IPC. Thus the sentence awarded by the trial court is neither excessive nor harsh.

(65) On the basis of above discussion, both the appeals fail and are liable to be dismissed accordingly.

(66) Accordingly, Jail Appeal No. 3367/2010 (Pawan Mishra Vs. State of U.P) and Criminal Appeal No. 3490 of 2010 (Dinesh Sahu & Kripal Sahu Vs. State of U.P.) are hereby dismissed. The order of conviction and sentencing passed by Special Judge (D.A.A.), Agra in ST No. 121 of 2005 (State Vs. Pawan Mishra and others) Crime No. 356/ 2005 under Section 364, 302/ 201 IPC, P.S. New Agra, District-Agra is hereby confirmed.

(67) Let a copy of this Judgement be sent to Jail Authorities and court concerned for compliance. Lower court's records along with a copy of this judgment be also sent back to the court concerned.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- The dying declaration is generally accepted, but has to be accepted with caution. The declarant is not available for cross examination. It is not the case of the prosecution that after receiving gunshot injury deceased was in a position to speak. Had it been so, the Medical Officer or the hospital staff would have said so or informed the police or the magistrate to record the statement of the deceased. Further, the prosecution has not produced any evidence to corroborate the testimony of dying declaration. There is no requirement of law that such a statement must necessarily be made to a Magistrate. What evidentiary value or weight has to be attached to such statement, must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. In a proper case, it may be permissible to convict a person only on the basis of a dying declaration in the light of the facts and circumstances of the case. The trial court committed an error in resting conviction of the accused on the dying declaration of the deceased alleged to have made to his father (PW-3).

Where the dying declaration is truthful and inspires confidence of the court then conviction can be secured solely upon the basis of dying declaration without further corroboration but where the dying declaration is suspicious then the court has to look for other evidence to corroborate the dying declaration and where the same fails to corroborate but contradicts the dying declaration then reliance cannot be placed on such dying declaration.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 27- The accused confessed of committing the crime with the other accused with the recovered weapon. The prosecution miserably failed to establish the link of the assault weapon with the crime- The word "distinctly' means "directly', "indubitably', "strictly', "unmistakably'. The word has been advisedly used to limit and define the scope of the provable information. The phrase "distinctly relates to the fact thereby discovered' is the linchpin of the provision. This phrase refers to that part of the information supplied by the accused which is the direct and immediate cause of the discovery- The recovery of the alleged assault weapon has not been connected with the commission of the crime by the prosecution.

Disclosure made by the accused must be distinctly related to the discovery and recovery made in pursuance thereof and it is incumbent upon the prosecution to connect the recovery so made with the commission of the offence. (Para 21, 22, 28, 30)

3. Heikrujam Chaoba Singh Vs St. of Manipur,1998 (8) SCC 458

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Mridul Tripathi, learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellant, Shri Om Prakash Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocate and perused the lower court record with the assistance of the learned counsel for the parties.

2. The instant appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 18 November 2010, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C. No. 7, Shahjahanpur, in Session Trial No. 526 of 2004, along with Session Trial No. 527 of 2004, arising out of Crime No. 283 of 2003 connected with Crime No. 287 of 2003, P.S. Kanth, District Shahjahanpur, whereby, convicting the appellant no.2 Ram Kishore under Section 302 IPC and further convicting the appellant no. 1 Ram Bhajan and appellant no. 3 Udai Veer under Section 302/34 IPC and sentencing them to imprisonment for life and fine of Rs. 5,000/- each, further convicting the appellant no. 1 Ram Bhajan under Section 25/27 of Arms Act and sentencing him to 3 years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1,000/-. In case of the default of payment, the appellant will have to undergo further 1 month simple imprisonment.

3. The prosecution case setup in the FIR is that on 5 November 2003, Mool Shankar, son of the complainant (P.W.-3) had gone to Kanntha town to get the quilt stuffed. The complainant had gone to the market, where he was informed by Jagdish and Pratap, residents of his village, that his son Mool Shankar (deceased) was caught by accused Rambhajan and Udayveer at about 2 PM on Kurriya Road and their brother Ramkishore shot his son in the stomach with a country-made pistol. The injured Mool Shankar was taken to the Shahjahanpur Hospital on a tempo by some persons. It is further stated that complainant reached the Government Hospital and found his son admitted. It is further alleged that injured Mool Shankar told the complainant that accused Ramkishore shot with a country-made pistol in his stomach while accused Udayveer and Rambhajan caught him. It was further alleged that 5-6 months earlier a case under Section 307 IPC was lodged by accused Rambhajan against the son of the complainant and Tej Ram. It is due to this enmity the accused have committed the crime. Mool Shankar (deceased) succumbed to the injury in the hospital during treatment on 8 November 2003.

4. A report came to be lodged and registered on the written complaint of the informant on 9 November 2003. The Investigating Officer (IO) recorded the statement of the witnesses, prepared the site plan on the pointing out of the complainant. Postmortem on the dead-body of the deceased was conducted on the same day at 3:30 PM. On the arrest of accused Rambhajan, the country-made pistol of 315 bore, empty cartridge and one live cartridge was recovered on the disclosure made by the accused on 15 November 2003. Recovery memo was prepared on the spot. On the basis of recovery memo, Case Crime No. 287 of 2003 was registered against accused Rambhajan under Section 25/27 of Arms Act.

5. The Investigating Officer prepared the site plan after investigating the spot. The blood stained clothes of the deceased, the bullet recovered from the body of the deceased and the country-made pistol, the empty cartridge and one live cartridge recovered on pointing of accused Rambhajan was sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory (for short "FSL') for chemical examination. The charge-sheet under Section 302 IPC came to be filed against all the accused persons, whereas, charge-sheet under Section 25/27 Arms Act was filed against accused Rambhajan.

6. Upon committal of both the cases Sessions court framed charges against the accused Ramkishore, Rambhajan and others under Section 302, read with, Section 34 IPC. The Sessions court framed charges against Rambhajan under Section 25/27 Arms Act. The accused denied the charges and claimed trial.

7. In support of the charge prosecution examined the following witnesses:

1. P.W.-1 Jagdish, eyewitness.

2 P.W.-2 Pratap Singh, eyewitness.

3. P.W.-3 Kaptan, complainant, father of the deceased.

4. P.W.-4 Inspector-in-Charge, Sri Babu Ram Sagar (I.O.), in the case of Section

302 IPC and complainant in the case of Section 25/27 Arms. Act.

5. P.W.-5 Dr. Prem Prakash, conducted post-mortem

6. P.W.-6 Sub-Inspector, Sri Hari Singh (I.O.), of case under Section 25/27 of the Arms Act.

7. P.W.-7 Constable Jitendra Kumar Singh, writer of the chick FIR and G.D. of the registered case

8. P.W.-8 Sub-Inspector, Sri Tej Bahadur prepared panchayatnama

9. P.W.-9 Constable Clerk Sri Mahesh Chandra, writer of the chick and G.D. of the registered case Section 25/27 of Arms Act.

8. The details of the documents which was proved on behalf of the prosecution are as follows:

1. Exhibit Ka-1, written report, which has been proved by P.W.-3 complainant Kaptan.

2. Exhibit Ka-2, site plan, regarding case of Section 302 of I.P.C.

3. Exhibit Ka-3, recovery memo of country-made pistol and cartridge.

4. Exhibit Ka-4, charge-sheet regarding case of Section 302 of I.P.C.

5. Exhibit Ka-5, letter sent to forensic science laboratory, Exhibit Ka-2 to Exhibit Ka-5 has been proved by Dr. Prem Prakash.

6. Exhibit Ka-6, post-mortem report, which has been proved by Dr. Prem Prakash.

7. Exhibit Ka-7, site plan regarding the case of Section 25/27 of Arms Act.

8. Exhibit Ka-8, sanction for prosecuting, regarding Section 25/27 of Arms Act.

9. Exhibit Ka-9, charge-sheet regarding Section 25/27 of Arms Act. Exhibit Ka-7 to Exhibit Ka-9 have been proved by P.W.-6 Sub-Inspector Hari Singh.

10. Exhibit Ka-10, chick F.I.R. regarding Section 302 of I.P.C.

11. Exhibit Ka-11, G.D. of the registered case regarding Section 302 of I.P.C. Exhibit Ka-10 and Exhibit Ka-11 has been proved by P.W.-7 Jitendra Kumar.

12. Exhibit Ka-12, panchayatnama which has been proved by P.W.-8 S.I. Tej Bahadur Singh.

13. Exhibit Ka-13, challan body.

14. Exhibit Ka-14, sealed samples.

15. Exhibit Ka-15, photo of the body.

16. Exhibit Ka-16, report of C.M.O. Exhibit Ka-12 to Exhibit Ka-16 has been proved by P.W.-8 Tej Bahadur Singh.

17. Exhibit Ka-17, chick F.I.R. regarding section 25/27 of Arms Act.

18. Exhibit Ka-18, G.D. of the registered case regarding Section 25/27 of Arms Act. Exhibit Ka-17 and Exhibit Ka-18 have been proved by P.W.-9 Constable Mahesh Chandra.

9. The accused persons on being confronted with the prosecution evidence, denied of having committed the crime. They further stated that they have been falsely implicated due to enmity. In defence the accused persons did not produce any evidence.

10. The trial court upon scrutiny of the oral and documentary evidence reached a finding that the prosecution has been able to prove the charges beyond reasonable doubt against the accused persons, accordingly, recorded conviction and sentence, hence, the present appeal.

11. Learned Amicus Curiae appearing for the appellants submits that the witnesses of fact P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 claim to be eye-witnesses of the incident, but have not supported the prosecution case and stated that they had not seen the accused either catching hold the deceased or being shot by the accused Ramkishore. The witnesses were declared hostile. The conviction of the appellants rests on the testimony of P.W.-3 complainant/father of the deceased who admittedly is not an eye-witness and his testimony rests of the information given by the deceased during treatment that the accused-appellants had committed the crime.

12. Learned counsel submits that the testimony of P.W.-3 is not corroborated by any independent evidence, therefore, is merely a hearsay evidence. He further submits that recovery of the assault weapon from accused Rambhajan is planted and the weapon has not been connected with commission of the offence. It is urged that the finding reached by the trial court is per se perverse and the conviction is not based on credible evidence, but merely on the uncorroborated confessional statement of the accused.

13. As per prosecution case, complainant (P.W.-3) is not the eye-witness of the incident. At the market he received information from Jagdish (P.W.-1) and Pratap Singh (P.W.-2) that his son has been shot by accused Ramkishore while the other accused held him. It is further stated by P.W.-3 that during treatment deceased informed him that the accused persons had committed the crime. The eye-witness i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have not supported the prosecution case and were declared hostile. P.W.-3 in examination-in-chief reiterates the prosecution version and further states that injured was taken to the hospital by some police personnel. He further states that he first directly went to the thana where his son was not found and was informed that his son is admitted in the hospital. From thana complainant went to the hospital where his son informed him that accused had committed the offence.

14. He further stated that a civil case is pending against accused persons, therefore, are inimical, and 4-5 months earlier a report was lodged against his son by accused Udayveer. He further stated that his son succumbed to the injury in the hospital after three days (08.11.2003). Complainant got the report transcribed by Chhavi Nath and was submitted to the thana on the following day i.e. 9 November 2003, the report came to be registered at 12:45 PM. In cross-examination, he admitted that he first visited the thana and then the spot of the incident where Ramavtar a shop owner told him about the incident of firing on his son. He reached the hospital at about 4-5 PM and found his son admitted. He further stated that his son had informed him about the incident being committed by the accused. He further admitted that he alone was attending his son in the hospital. P.W.-3 further admitted that he is one of the witnesses to the Panchayatnama and further stated that he had informed the police officer preparing the Panchayatnama about the accused persons who had committed the crime.

15. He further stated that he had got arrested the accused Rambhajan from a sugarcane field.

16. P.W.-4 Babu Ram Sagar the Investigating Officer stated that the FIR came to be registered on the written complaint of the complainant on 9 November 2003, the statement of the complainant was taken on the same day and that of Jagdish (P.W.-1). The site of the incident was inspected in the presence of the complainant and the witnesses; the site map (exhibit-Ka-2) was prepared. Accused Rambhajan came to be arrested on 14 November 2003 (7:30 AM) on the information of Mukhbir. The assault weapon, country-made pistol of 315 bore, an empty cartridge and live cartridge was recovered on the disclosure and at the pointing out of the accused. The accused confessed of committing the crime with the recovered weapon.

17. P.W.-5 Dr. Prem Prakash Srivastava conducted autopsy on the body of the deceased on 9 November 2003 at 3:30 PM. The following injuries were found on the body of the deceased:

"1. Gunshot wound of entry was 0.9 cm x 0.8 cm (illegible) abdominal cavity deep. The said wound was present on the left side of the chest and was 10 cm below the left nipple. It was from inside to outside. There was blackening and tattooing around the wound. The left lung was lacerated. The diaphragm was lacerated. The horizontal collar was lacerated. The stomach was also lacerated. The right side of the liver was lacerated.

Rigor mortis was present on the upper part and lower part of the body i.e. on the whole body. In the internal examination of the deceased, he found that the brain, spleen and both kidneys were dry. There was no blood. The left pleura was lacerated. Semi-digested food was present in the small intestine. The urine bag and heart were empty. Feces were present at many place in the large intestine. The right side of the liver was lacerated and dry. A metallic bullet was found on the right side of the cavity. About 2 liters of blood mixed with feces were present in the abdominal cavity. In his opinion, the death of the deceased Mool Shankar was due to the bleeding caused by the bullet and the shock caused by it. The injuries of the deceased was possible to come on the date of 5.11.2003 at 2:00 pm. Injuries were possible to come from firearms such as country-made pistols.

The deceased died on 8.11.2003 at around 6:10 pm in the district hospital."

18. The trial court on the evidence of P.W.-3-complainant and the confessional statement recorded by the accused-Ram Bhajan and recovery of the assault weapon on his pointing out recorded conviction. The relevant portion of the trial court order is extracted:

"The son of the complainant i.e., the deceased Mool Shankar had told the complainant about the incident. The complainant says that there was no one there at that time. There is no reason not to believe his statement. When the complainant's son narrated the incident to the complainant, no one else was present there.

The complainant also states that deceased Mool Shankar did not have any other attendant other than the complainant. The complainant has got his report written from Chhavinath Singh. It is true that Chhavinath Singh is not an eyewitness to the incident. The non-appearance of Chhavinath Singh in evidence does not adversely affect the prosecution story.

Before lodging the report in police station, Kanth, Sub-Inspector P.W.-8 Tej Bahadur Singh of police station Kotwali, District Shahjahanpur has filled the panchayatnama of deceased Mool Shankar in District Hosapital, Shahjahanpur, and the dead body was sealed there. At that time complainant himself was present there. If the complainant has stated the names of the accused to the witness filling the Panchayatnama i.e. P.W.-8 Tej Bahadur Singh and he has not written the names of the accused on the Panchayatnama, then it does not adversely affect the prosecution story because the case was not investigated by Sub-Inspector Tej Bahadur nor this witness recorded the statement under Section 161 Code of Criminal Procedure.

Recovery memo was made by the police on the spot and the pistol and cartridges was sealed. It is recorded in the recovery memo Exhibit Ka-3 that on 15.11.2003, S.H.O. Babu Ram Sagar, along with other police personnel, arrested accused, Rambhajan S/o Ramdulare, resident of Bhudhia police station, Shahjahanpur, at present in lock-up, after handcuffing, in the hope of recovery of murder weapon [country made pistol] regarding the main crime number 283/03 under Section 302 Indian Penal Code, Police Station Kanth, in a government jeep, No. UP 27 B/ 6000, left from police station with constable driver Shrikrishna, and handing over report number 6, at 6:45 A.M., before the saw machine of Munshilal Lohar R/o Rawatpur, on Kurriya road, accused asked to stop the vehicle and the accused got out of the jeep, the persons commuting were asked to testify stating the purpose of arrest, but everyone went away without revealing their names and addresses. That after searching each other's clothes and on being assured that no one has any firearm, cartridge, then the accused Rambhajan went ahead and recovered a country made pistol 315 bore, wherein, a empty cartridge was stuck in the barrel and a live cartridge 315 bore, from the bunch of patail and the accused stated that this is the same country made pistol that I had given to my brother Ramkishore on the day of the incident, all three of us shot Mool Shankar in front of the agency of Ram Avatar at 2:00 P.M. All three of us had run away after shooting. The police station was nearby from the spot, so out of fear, the pistol with empty cartridge and the cartridge was hidden in this patail. Mool Shankar shot my brother. All three of us have avenged his killing. This pistol belongs to him. Therefore, the crime of accused Rambhajan reaches the extent of Section 25/27 Arms Act. The police took possession of the country made pistol, cartridges at 7:30 A.M., on the spot, the signatures of fellow officials were made after reading aloud the recovery memo written by HCP Shri Krishna Yadav. The country made pistol and cartridge was sealed. Samples were sealed.

The evidence collected by the investigator under Section 27, Evidence Act, is credible.

To prove a criminal incident, it is not necessary that the eyewitnesses should be available on the spot, because the accused wants to execute any criminal incident in such a way that no one can see or recognize them at the time of causing the incident and are able to escape safely after causing the incident. As happened in this case. Those who are said to be eye-witness of the incident have not supported the incident. In this case, the deceased Mool Shankar did not die on the spot and he told his father in the hospital about the incident caused by the accused.

Thus, in the opinion of the Court, the prosecution has proved its case beyond doubt."

(English Translation by the Court)

19. In the given facts, prosecution case rests upon motive; the testimony of PW-3, father of the deceased, and confession of the accused made in the disclosure statement before the police that the accused committed the offence with the recovered assault weapon.

20. The question that arises is as to whether the dying declaration made by the deceased to his father during treatment in secrecy is reliable and credit worthy. PW-3 is not the eye witness. PW-1 and PW-2 setup as eyewitnesses in the FIR did not support the prosecution case. They flatly denied their presence on the spot and at the time of the incident. As per PW-3 he was informed by PW-1 and PW-2, while he was in the market that his son was shot by Ramkishore while other accused were catching hold the deceased. In cross examination PW-3 admits that first he went to the thana, where he was informed that his son has been hospitalised. He, thereafter, went to the hospital. PW-3 reached the hospital between 4 to 5 PM, whereas, the incident is of 2 PM. He further, deposed that his son succumbed to the injuries after three days of the incident on 8 Nov 2013. He (PW-3) further stated that he was the lone person attending to his son in the hospital; the deceased during treatment informed him that the accused had committed the offence. Ramkishore shot him while others held him. PW-3 further clarifies in cross examination that he was alone, Medical Officer or staff of the hospital was not present at the moment deceased informed him the names of the accused persons.

21. The dying declaration is generally accepted, but has to be accepted with caution. The declarant is not available for cross examination. It is not the case of the prosecution that after receiving gunshot injury deceased was in a position to speak. Had it been so, the Medical Officer or the hospital staff would have said so or informed the police or the magistrate to record the statement of the deceased. Further, the prosecution has not produced any evidence to corroborate the testimony of dying declaration. The eye witnesses setup in the FIR (PW-1 and PW-2) have not supported the prosecution case. PW-3 being an interested witness and his statement is without corroboration from independent witness, is not sufficient to prove the prosecution case.

22. There is no requirement of law that such a statement must necessarily be made to a Magistrate. What evidentiary value or weight has to be attached to such statement, must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. In a proper case, it may be permissible to convict a person only on the basis of a dying declaration in the light of the facts and circumstances of the case.

23. In the case of Laxman Vs. State of Maharashtra1, at para 3, it was observed as follows :-

The juristic theory regarding acceptability of a dying declaration is that such declaration is made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death and when every hope of this world is gone, when every motive to falsehood is silenced, and the man is induced by the most powerful consideration to speak only the truth. Notwithstanding the same, great caution must be exercised in considering the weight to be given to this species of evidence on account of the existence of many circumstances which may affect their truth. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness.

24. In Arun Bhanudas Pawar Versus State of Maharashtra2, Supreme Court declined to accept the testimony of the mother of the deceased that deceased upon regaining consciousness disclosed the name of the accused to her. The mother of the deceased categorically deposed that when she went to civil hospital she found her son in unconsciousness condition, however, later on, deceased regaining consciousness informed her the names of accused who assaulted him with knife. She further stated that doctor was present when the deceased made oral dying declaration to her. The Court declined to accept her testimony being an interested witness and her testimony was not without corroboration from independent witness, including, medical officer. The court observed as follows:

"21....It is well-settled law that the oral dying declaration made by the deceased ought to be treated with care and caution since the maker of the statement cannot be subjected to any cross-examination. In the present case, admittedly, the alleged dying declaration had not been made to any doctor or to any independent witness, but only to the mother...The prosecution has not brought on record any medical certification to prove that after operation the deceased was in a fit condition to make the declaration before his mother."

26. Similarly Heikrujam Chaoba Singh vs. State of Manipur3, Supreme Court declined to accept the testimony of the brother of the injured made to him in the ambulance by the injured/deceased. The relevant portion of the report is extracted:

We are, therefore, called upon to examine the evidence of PW 2 and 5 to find out whether the Courts below were justified in relying upon their testimony and in believing the statements alleged to have been made by the deceased while being carried to the hospital in ambulance and thereafter while he was an indoor patient in the hospital itself. So far as the statement in the ambulance is concerned, it was made to PW 2 who is the brother of the deceased. He stated in his evidence that on inquiry about the injuries sustained by his brother, Hera Singh the injured told him that he had been given blows by Heikrujam Chaoba Singh with a dao, Yumlembam Paka Singh with a hockey stick and another person with a lathi. In his cross-examination, he candidly admitted that there were three or four persons inside the ambulance when his brother told him the names of his assailants but none of those disinterested persons have been examined by the prosecution to corroborate said PW 2. He also admitted in his cross-examination that those persons who were in the ambulance were present near him when his brother stated the words and yet the prosecution has not offered any explanation as to why none of those persons were examined who could have been disinterested persons deposing about the dying declaration said to have been made by the deceased inside the ambulance while he was being carried to the hospital. ..... In the aforesaid premise, we do not think it safe to hold the evidence of PW 2 to be reliable and, therefore, the oral dying declaration as deposed to him by him cannot be pressed into service for bringing home the charges leveled against the accused/appellant.

27. Further, no suggestion was given to the doctor (PW-5), as to whether the deceased was conscious or able to communicate verbally or by gestures. The postmortem report notes blackening and tattooing, meaning thereby, that the deceased was shot from a close range. The wound is abdominal cavity deep. Left lung lacerated; diaphram lacerated; stomach lacerated, right side of the liver lacerated. In internal examination PW-5 noted that brain, spleen and kidneys were dry. There was no blood. About two litre blood was present in the abdominal cavity. The condition of the deceased was not such to suggest he was conscious, his vital organs were dry and blood had drained and collected in the abdomen. The prosecution had not produced the Bed-Head ticket of the deceased. The Investigating Officer PW-4 had stated that he had not recorded the statement of the treating doctor or medical staff. In the circumstances, the trial court committed an error in resting conviction of the accused on the dying declaration of the deceased alleged to have made to his father (PW-3). The finding reached by the trial court is perse perverse.

28. Further, the conviction of the accused rests upon the disclosure/confession made to the police. The trial court found the evidence collected by the Investing Officer under Section 27 of the Evidence Act credible. Investigating Officer PW-4, arrested accused Rambhajan after five days of lodging of the FIR (14.11.2013); on his pointing out a 315 bore country made pistol, one empty cartridge and live cartridge was recovered. The accused confessed of committing the crime with the other accused with the recovered weapon. The prosecution miserably failed to establish the link of the assault weapon with the crime. The recovery of the assault weapon is one circumstance in the chain of circumstances. The statement of the accused during arrest that he shot the deceased cannot be read in evidence.

29. Section 27 of Evidence Act reads thus:-

"27.How much of information received from accused may be proved.--Provided that, when any fact is deposed to as discovered in consequence of information received from a person accused of any offence, in the custody of a police officer, so much of such information, whether it amounts to a confession or not, as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered, may be proved.'

30. The expression "provided' that together with the phrase "whether it amounts to a confession or not' show that the section is in the nature of an exception to the preceding provisions particularly Sections 25 and 26. It is not necessary in this case to consider if this section qualifies, to any extent, Section 24, also. It will be seen that the first condition necessary for bringing this section into operation is the discovery of a fact, albeit a relevant fact, in consequence of the information received from a person accused of an offence. The second is that the discovery of such fact must be deposed to. The third is that at the time of the receipt of the information the accused must be in police custody. The last but the most important condition is that only "so much of the information' as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered is admissible. The rest of the information has to be excluded. The word "distinctly' means "directly', "indubitably', "strictly', "unmistakably'. The word has been advisedly used to limit and define the scope of the provable information. The phrase "distinctly relates to the fact thereby discovered' is the linchpin of the provision. This phrase refers to that part of the information supplied by the accused which is the direct and immediate cause of the discovery.

31. The testimony of P.W.-3 having been found to be unreliable, doubtful and fails to inspire confidence of the Court, in the circumstances the prosecution case stands demolished. The independent witnesses P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 claiming to have witnessed the incident have turned hostile. They decline their presence on the spot. Ram Avtar, before whose shop the incident is alleged to have occurred was not examined. Chabinath, scribe of the complaint, visited P.W.-3 at the hospital and was informed of the incident by P.W.-3 was not examined by the prosecution to support the version of P.W.-3 that the injured was in a state of consciousness and was in a position to speak. The police personnel that carried the injured and admitted him to the hospital was not examined. It is not the case of the prosecution that initially FIR was lodged under Section 307 IPC. The medical officer/staff of the hospital was not examined, nor, their statement taken of the I.O.

32. Having regard to the postmortem report and the testimony of the doctor P.W.-5 it appears in all probability the injured was not in a position to speak. The FSL report was not produced by the I.O. In this backdrop, the trial court committed gross error in resting the conviction on the disclosure statement of the accused, that they committed the crime with the recovered weapon which is not admissible in evidence. The recovery of the alleged assault weapon has not been connected with the commission of the crime by the prosecution.

33. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case we are unable to persuade ourselves to uphold the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence, therefore, appeal is liable to be allowed and the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence is liable to be set aside.

34. The criminal appeal is, accordingly, allowed. The impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence is set aside. The appellants are directed to be released forthwith, if not required in any other offence.

34. The appellants on being released the mandate of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. to be complied.

35. Let the lower court record be sent back to court below along with a copy of this judgment, for ascertaining necessary compliance.

36. It is provided that fees assessed at Rs. 20,000/- shall be released in favour of Amicus Curiae.

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Vikas Tripathi

Criminal Law- Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 498 A- Section 304B- Dowry Prohibition Act- Section 4- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- So far Section 498A IPC is concerned, the accused was sentenced to two years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 5,000/-, under Section 304B IPC, he was sentenced to ten years rigorous imprisonment and under Section 4 of D.P. Act, he was sentenced to one year imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1,000/- All these sentences were to run concurrently. Accused is under trial convict having incarceration of 5 years and more, therefore, it can be safely said that he has undergone the punishment under section 498A IPC read with section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act- Evidence of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 corroborates each other- It cannot be said that the evidence of the witnesses should not believed because they are family members of the deceased. There is no need for any independent witness to be examined. There is no delay in lodging the FIR- The death in fact was in an unnatural condition- Sentence of 10 years is reduced to 7 years fine and default sentence maintained.

Where the testimony of the prosecution witnesses corroborates each other and appears to be truthful then there is no need for examination of any independent witnesses, however as the accused has already served out the sentence u/s 498A and u/s 4 of the D.P Act and half of the sentence awarded u/s 304B of the IPC, hence sentence reduced to 7 years. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 378- Appeal against acquittal- While exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court- The appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper- The appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

The appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court as the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused stands fortified by his acquittal and the appellate court can also not substitute its findings unless the judgement of the trial court is wholly perverse or illegal. 1. Heard Sri Ram Milan Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Vikas Goswami, learned AGA for the State and Sri Vikas Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent informant and perused the record. There is a connected defective criminal appeal which is of the year 2018, preferred by the original informant. This appeal is also heard along with the present appeal.

3. Appeal No. 6058 of 2018 has been preferred by the appellant Mahendra Kumar against the judgment and order dated 25.09.2018 passed by Additional Session Judge/FTC (Crime against Women) Jaunpur, in S.T. No. 306 OF 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 262 of 2015, under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act (State vs. Mahendra Kumar and another), P.S. Sujanganj, District Jaunpur, whereby the appellant is convicted and sentenced for the commission of offence under Section 498A IPC, for 2 years R.I. and fine of Rs. 5,000/- and in default of payment of fine for two months additional imprisonment to the accussed appellant and further sentincing under Section 304B IPC for 10 years R.I., under section 4 D.P. Act for one year imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1,000/- and in default of payment of fine one month additional imprisonment and all the sentences shall run concurrently. .

4. The brief facts as revealed from the record and proceedings are that the incident occurred on 16th May, 2015 namely within one year of the marriage, as the marriage took place on 08.06.2014 between appellant Mahendra Kumar and the deceased. The father of the deceaed lodged the FIR alleging therein that his daughter was being harassed for not bringing proper dowry. It was alleged that her in-laws demanded a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- (Rs. One lakh) and a gold chain. Immediately before the death for harassing her she has also been physically tortured. After having knowledge of this atrocity of the in-laws, the complainant along with his family members went to house of the in-laws of his daughter and showed their inability to pay a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- and a gold chain, but they were threatened with dire consequences. On 16.05.2015 in the night, the accused persons/in-laws of his daughter along with her husband committed murder of the deceased and hanged her. The informant or his family members were not communicated about anything regarding the death of the deceased. The informant got the information about the incident from village people. The first information report was lodged by the complainant / father of the deceased on 27.05.2015. The investigation was conducted by investigating officer and after recording statement of the witnesses under section 161 Cr.P.C. and preparing the punchanama, and after the post mortem of the deceased, conducted by Dr. Ashutosh Pandey who opined that the cause of death was Asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem hanging, the Investigating Officer submitted the charge sheet against the accused Mahendra Kumar and Champa Devi.

5. The learned magistrate before whom charge sheet was laid, as the offences were triable by court of sessions, committed the case to the court of sessions, The Additional Sessions Judge framed the charges on 04.07.2016 and accused persons denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

6. The prosecution examined following witnesses:-

1.	Ram Awadh Patel	P.W.1
2.	Ramdeen Patel	P.W.2
3.	Dr. Ashutosh Pandey	P.W. 3
4.	Arvind Kumar Mishra	P.W. 4
5.	Deep Narayan Singh	P.W. 5
6.	Surya Nath Singh	P.W. 6

7. Apart from aforesaid witnesses prosecution submitted following documentary evidence which were exhibited as they were proved by leading oral evidence:-

1.	Tehrir	Ex. Ka. 1
2.	Panchayatnama	Ex. Ka. 2
3.	Postmortem Report	Ex. Ka. 3
4.	Photonas	Ex. Ka. 4
5.	Police papers	Ex. Ka. 5
6.	Namunamohar	Ex Ka. 6
7.	Letter to Pratisar Nirikshak	Ex. Ka 7
8.	Letter CMO	Ex, Ka 8
9.	Nakshanajari	Ex. Ka 9
10.	Charge-sheet	Ex. Ka 10
11.	FIR	Ex. Ka 11
12.	Carbon copy of GD	Ex. Ka 12

8. After completion of prosecution evidence, the statement of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 of Criminal Procedure Code,1973 (Cr.P.C.), in which they denied their involvement in the crime and contended that false evidence was led against them. The accused persons have not examined any witness in defence.

9. The accused Mahendra Kumar has been convicted by the trial court whereas acquittal order for accused Champa Devi has been passed.

10. The learned court below returned the finding of guilt and sentenced Mahendra Kumar to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 10 years of commission of offence under Section 304 (B) and 498A IPC and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act.

11. So far Section 498A IPC is concerned, the accused was sentenced to two years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs. 5,000/-, under Section 304B IPC, he was sentenced to ten years rigorous imprisonment and under Section 4 of D.P. Act, he was sentenced to one year imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1,000/-. All these sentences were to run concurrently. Accused is under trial convict having incarceration of 5 years and more, therefore, it can be safely said that he has undergone the punishment under section 498A IPC read with section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. The matter is now being argued for acquital/ sentencing under Section 304B IPC, learned counsel Sri Mishra has taken us through the oral testimony of all the witnesses who have been examined by the prosecution.

12. As against this, Sri Goswami has submitted that it is a homicidal death and the learned Trial Judge has rightly come to the conclusion from the evidence on record that it was a homicidal death. It is further submitted that death occurred in the matrimonial home of the deceased.

14. Learned counsel for the respondent State has heavily relied on the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Trimukh Maruti Kirken vs.State of Maharastra 2006 (3) 1426 SC:-

"If an offence takes place inside the privacy of a house and in such circumstances where the assailants have all the opportunity to plan and commit the offence at the time and in circumstances of their choice, it will be extremely difficult for the prosecution to lead evidence to establish the guilt of the accused if the strict principle of circumstantial evidence, as noticed above, is insisted upon by the Courts. A Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Hon'ble Supreme Court further observed that Where an offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution, but the nature and amount of evidence to be led by it to establish the charge cannot be of the same degree as is required in other cases of circumstantial evidence. The burden would be of a comparatively lighter character. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give a cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution and there is no duty at all on an accused to offer any explanation."

15. While going through the testimony of the witnesses namely Ram Awadh Patel and Ram Deen Patel, the fact which comes before the Court is that the deceased was married to Mahendra on 8.6.2014. P.W.1 and P.W. 2 in their Examination-in-Chief categorically mentioned that the deceased was being beaten and the applicant was always demanding that the amount should be given by way of additional dowry, namely, Rs. one lakh and a gold chain. The informant had requested the accused and his mother and all relatives that he was not capable to fulfill their demand. Further, no information regarding the death of the deceased was given to informant. The informant P.W. 1 has also clearly mentioned that he came to know about the death of the deceased only when the people in the village started talking about her death. PW-2 has also deposed the similar facts and also stated that Mahendra, who was serving in Bombay had left for Bombay where he was serving. This witness does not know whether Mahendra was at his place (namely home) when the incident occurred or not. It was further submitted that at the third time when the deceased went to the matrimonial home the demand of dowry was also made.

16. While going through the judgment of the trial court which has convicted the accused, a finding of fact is recorded that evidence of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 corroborates each other. After second time deceased came to her parental home and during third time when she visited her parental home, she complained about demand of dowry. The witnesses and her father went to her in-laws home and requested that he has no capacity to pay the said amount. Despite that, demand continued. The learned court below had also relied on the judgment which has been referred above namely Trimukh Maruti Kirken (supra) and, therefore, also it cannot be said that the evidence of the witnesses should not believed because they are family members of the deceased. There is no need for any independent witness to be examined. There is no delay in lodging the FIR and in view of the judgment relied upon in the case of Trimukh Maruti Kirken (supra), the finding of learned trial judge cannot be found fault with. The death in fact was in an unnatural condition. However, considering the facts that the appellant has also raised certain facts which required consideration namely he was serving in Bombay, that Mahendra Kumar and others were demanding Rs. 1,00,000/- and gold chain and they physically harassed the deceased but these facts did not find corroboration from the FIR. Be that as it may be, the death has occurred in the house of the accused. The Medical evidence which has been produced is as under:-

Skin under line ligature mark is ecchymosed and on cut section skin and musclesure are ecchymosed petechial hemorrhage are present on the face upper chest left hands, venus congestion on upperchest and hands,mouth. Partially opened and drivling of saliva present from right side of mouth finger nails are pale.

17. The oral testimony of P.W.3 Dr. Ashutosh Pandey, who had performed the post mortem of the dead body, it is clear that deceased died from asphyxia due to ante mortem injuries.

18. In the result, this appeal is partly allowed fine and default sentence maintained.

19. Sentence of 10 years is reduced to 7 years fine and default sentence maintained.

20. This court is thankful to both the counsels for assisting this Court.

Order Date :- 30.8.2022

Judgment in Crl. Misc. Application Defecetive U/S 372 Cr.P.C. (Leave to Appeal) No. 108 of 2018, Ram Awadh Patel vs. State of U.P. and another.

1. Heard Sri Vikas Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Vikas Goswami, learned AGA for the State and Sri Vikas Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent informant and perused the record. There is a connected defective criminal appeal which is of the year 2018, preferred by the original informant.

2. This appeal is also heard along with the present appeal.

3. This appeal has been preferred by the appellant Ram Awadh patel against the judgment and order dated 25.09.2018 passed by Additional Session Judge/FTC (Crime against Women) Jaunpur, in S.T. No. 306 OF 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 262 of 2015, under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and ¾ D.P. Act (State vs. Mahendra Kumar and another), P.S. Sujanganj, District Jaunpur, whereby the appellant is convicted and sentenced for the commission of offence under Section 498A IPC, for 2 years R.I. and fine of Rs. 5,000/- and in default of payment of fine for two months additional imprisonment to the accussed appellant and further sentencing under Section 304B IPC for 10 years R.I., under section 4 D.P. Act for one year imprisonment and fine of Rs. 1,000/- and in default of payment of fine one month additional imprisonment and all the sentences shall run concurrently. .

4. The brief facts as revealed from the record of proceedings are that the incident occurred on 16th May, 2015 within one year of the marriage, as the marriage took place on 08.06.2014 between appellant Mahendra Kumar and the deceased. The father of the deceaed lodged the FIR alleging therein that his daughter was being harassed for not bringing proper dowry. It was alleged that her in-laws demanded a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- (Rs. One lakh) and a gold chain. Immediately before the death for harassing her she has also been physically tortured. After having knowledge of this atrocity of the in-laws, the complainant along with his family members went to house of the in-laws of his daughter and showed their inability to pay a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- and a gold chain, but they were threatened with dire consequences. On 16.05.2015 in the night, the accused persons/in-laws of his daughter along with her husband committed murder of the deceased and hanged her. The informant or his family members were not communicated about anything regarding the death of the deceased. The informant got the information about the incident from village people. The first information report was lodged by the complainant / father of the deceased on 27.05.2015. The investigation was conducted by investigating officer and after recording statement of the witnesses under section 161 Cr.P.C. and preparing the punchanama, the post mortem of the deceased was conducted by Dr. Ashutosh Pandey who opined that the cause of death was Asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem hanging. The Investigating Officer submitted the charge sheet against the accused Mahendra Kumar and Champa Devi.

5. The appellant Ram Awadh patel has challenged the judgment of acquittal. The case is that the deceased was married with son of respondent no. 2 Smt. Champa Devi. General allegation against family members have been levelled.

6. Nothing is brought on record to show that the judgment of learned court below has wrongly acquitted the accused.

7. Before we embark on testimony and appreciate the reasonings in the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused have been held to be not guilty would require to be discussed.

8. The principles which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court, against an order of acquittal passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of "M.S. NARAYANA MENON @ MANI VS. STATE OF KERALA & ANR", (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

9. Further, in the case of "CHANDRAPPA Vs. STATE OF KARNATAKA", reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

10. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

11. In the case titled "STATE OF GOA Vs. SANJAY THAKRAN & ANR.", reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in appeals against acquittal. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

12. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases titled "STATE OF UTTAR PRADESH VS. RAM VEER SINGH & ORS.", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in "GIRJA PRASAD (DEAD) BY L.R.s VS. STATE OF MP", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

13. In the case of "LUNA RAM VS. BHUPAT SINGH AND ORS.", reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

15. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of "STATE OF KARNATAKA VS. HEMAREDDY", AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

"...This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

16. The Apex Court in "SHIVASHARANAPPA & ORS. VS. STATE OF KARNATAKA", JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

17. Further, in the case of "STATE OF PUNJAB VS. MADAN MOHAN LAL VERMA", (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

18. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10.It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

19. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

20. We have relied upon the judgment of apex Court in the Case of Jwala Prasad vs. State of Chhattisgarh, (2019) II SCC 702 and Mahesh Kumar vs. State of Haryana, (2019) 8 SCC 128, in which it is held that there is no hesitation in holding that all the ingredients necessary to draw the presumption of commission of the offence under Section 304B IPC, do not exist.

21. We have perused the depositions of prosecution witnesses, documentary evidence supporting ocular versions, arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties. We have been taken through the record. We are unable to accept the submissions of the State counsel for the following reasons and the judgments of the Apex Court which lay down the criteria for consideration of appeals against acquittal. The chain has been found to be incomplete. While going through the judgment it is very clear that the court below has given a categorical finding that the evidence is so scanty that the accused cannot punished or convicted for the offences for which they are charged. The factual scenario in the present case will not permit us to take a different view than that taken by the court below. In that view of the matter we are unable to satisfy ourselves. Thus we concur with the findings of the court below.

22. After considering the facts and circumstances of the present case and appraisal of the evidence available on record and on the contours laid down by the judgment of the Apex Court, we have no other option but to concur with the reasoning of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge for the aforesaid reasons.

23. The Government Appeal sans merits and is dismissed. The record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below.

DATED: LUCKNOW 19.10.2022

THE HON'BLE RAMESH SINHA, J.
THE HON'BLE MRS. RENU AGARWAL, J.

Capital Case No. 2 of 2021 connected with Crl. Appeal No. 704 of 2021 and Jail Appeal No. 592 of 2021

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Laeek ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
G.A.

Counsel for the Respondents:

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Non-examination of independent witnesses-It is well known fact that when such a heinous occurrence takes place where two appellants caused death of three persons at 05.00 p.m., people were shutting their shops and hiding themselves behind their doors and crowd was terrorized, then there is least chance that the independent witness will dare to depose about the incident in the court. The evidence of witnesses cannot be discarded only because they are in any way related to the deceased if they are reliable and inspire confidence of truthfulness. Moreover, the witness no. 2, is an injured witness in the case, who tried to save her sons from assault of the accused and in turn, she sustained injuries. Thus, there is no reason to discard the evidence of prosecution witnesses just because they are related witnesses to the extent that they have inspired confidence.

Where the offence has been committed in a gruesome and heinous manner then there is no likelihood of any independent witnesses coming forward to depose out of fear and the testimony of related/ injured witnesses cannot be discarded merely because of their relation with the deceased so long as their testimony is truthful, credible and inspires the confidence of the court.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 3 - It is clear that the Investigating Officer did not depose in court to support prosecution case. However, learned counsel for the convict-appellants could not explain as to what damage was caused to the credibility and reliability in prosecution case, if Investigating Officer has not deposed in the court. The case is based on ocular evidence. The injured witness appeared in witness box and proved the case, therefore, merely absence of the Investigating Officer does not affect adversely of the complete prosecution case.

The case of the prosecution will not be adversely affected merely because the investigating officer did not testify during the trial as the case is based on ocular evidence and the defence has failed to show as to what prejudice was caused to it by the non examination of the investigating officer.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 34- Common Intention- It is not necessary for constituting common intention that there must be meeting of minds or preponderance for commission of the crime days before. It is sufficient, if at the spur of moment, the meeting of minds arrived at besides, Mohd. Umar actively participated in the commission of crime. Therefore, it cannot be said that the ingredients for invoking section 34 I.P.C. are missing.

Common intention can be formed even at the spur of the moment and can be inferred from the act done by the accused during the course of commission of the offence.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 313- It is a settled principle of law that the statement of an accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. can be used as evidence against the accused, in so far as it supports the case of the prosecution. Equally true is that the statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. simplicitor normally cannot be made the basis for conviction of the accused. But where the statement of the accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. is in line with the case of the prosecution, then certainly the heavy onus of proof on the prosecution is, to some extent, reduced- The reliance on the statements of the convict-appellants under section 313 Cr.P.C. by trial court is in consonance with the provisions of law.

Where the statement of the accused, under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C , supports the case of the prosecution then not only can the said statement be used against the accused, but also the same reduces the burden of proof upon the prosecution.

Quantum of Punishment- Proportionate punishment-Capital punishment- Aggravating and Mitigating Factors- Capital punishment has been the subject-matter of great social and judicial discussion and catechism. From whatever point of view it is examined, one undisputed statement of law follows that it is neither possible nor prudent to state any universal formula which apply to all the cases of criminology where capital punishment has been prescribed. Thus, the Court must examine each case on its own facts, in the light of enunciated principles and before option for death penalty, the circumstances of the offender are also required to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the crime for the reason that life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception.There is no evidence to the effect that the convict-appellant, Laeek committed crime with pre-planning or preponderance. The occurrence happened suddenly when the hot exchanges arose due to urination in the lane of the complainant while Aamina was preparing for Wazu. The convict-appellant had no motive or intention to kill anybody at the time of occurrence. However, once he started stabbing, he continued to stab till the death of three persons caused at the spot and one person while he was being carried to the hospital and one person was badly injured. He himself admitted during his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. that he lost control over himself- The circumstances of the crime and criminal do not go to show that instant matter falls into the category of rarest of rare case or that the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the convict-appellant-Laeek is unquestionably fore-closed-life imprisonment is a rule and the death penalty is an exception only when the life imprisonment would be inadequate in proportion to the crime committed and the death penalty is imposed only when alternative life imprisonment is totally inadequate. The instant case does not fall in the category of rarest of rare cases, where life imprisonment would suffice to the ends of justice.

Settled law that life imprisonment is the rule and death penalty is the exception hence, every case has to be considered on its own facts and circumstances for determining the quantum of punishment and even where the offence committed is heinous and has shocked the collective conscience of the society but the circumstances of the accused are also relevant for awarding the punishment. Accordingly, death sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.

1. Capital Sentence No. 02 of 2021, arises out of the reference made by the learned trial court under section 366(1) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 to this court for confirmation of death sentence of convict-appellant, Laeek.

2. Jail Appeal No. 592 of 2021 under section 383 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the convict-appellant Laeek against the judgment and order dated 09-03-2021 passed-by Smt. Poonam Singh, learned Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-II, Sultanpur in Sessions Trial No. 40 of 2016, arising out of Case Crime No. 348 of 2015, under sections 302/34, 307/34,504,506(2) I.P.C., Police Station-Chanda, district-Sultanpur by which the convict-appellant Laeek has been awarded death penalty under section 302 readwith section 34 I.P.C. He was convicted and sentenced under section 307/34 I.P.C. for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 10,000/- In default of payment of fine, the convict-appellant was further directed to undergo additional one month imprisonment. Under section 504 I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Laeek was convicted and sentenced for two years' imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 2,000/- In default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo 7 days additional imprisonment. Under section 506(2) I.P.C., convict-appellant, Laeek was convicted and sentenced for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 5,000/- In default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo 15 days additional imprisonment and all the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Criminal Appeal No. 704 of 2021 under section 374(2) Cr.P.C. has been preferred by convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar against the judgment and order dated 09-03-2021 passed by Smt. Poonam Singh, learned Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-II, Sultanpur in Sessions Trial No. 40 of 2016, arising out of Case Crime No. 348 of 2015, under sections 302/34, 307/34,504,506(2) I.P.C., Police Station-Chanda, district-Sultanpur. Under section 302 readwith section 34 I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar has been convicted and sentenced for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 10,000/- In default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo one month additional imprisonment. Under section 307/34 I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar has been convicted and sentenced for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 10,000/- In default of payment of fine, he has further been directed to undergo one month additional imprisonment. Under section 506(2) I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar was convicted and sentenced for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 5,000/- In default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo 15 days additional imprisonment and all the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

4. Shorn off the unnecessary details of the F.I.R., the brief facts of the case are that on 07-10-2015 at about 06.00 P.M., the convict-appellant, Laeek, was urinating in front of the door of the complainant. When the ladies of the house of the complainant objected to it, he started abusing them. The son of the complainant tried to restrain Laeek from abusing the ladies of the house, then convict-appellant, Laeek threatened him. Convict-appellant, Laeek alongwith co-accused, Mohd. Umar assaulted on the neck of Jauhar with meat chopper. When Jauhar Ali, Javed and Aamina, the wife of complainant and his elder son, Moinuddin reached the place of occurrence, the convicts-appellants, Mohd. Umar and Laeek started assaulting them by meat choppers. On the alarm raised by them, the brother of the complainant, Alauddin and his wife, Khairulnisha reached on the spot. The accused followed them having meat choppers in their hands. Many neighbours assembled there and witnessed the incident. When the crowd challenged the accused, then leaving the family members of the complainant, accused threatened the crowd that if any of them tried to come forward, they would kill them too. The convict-appellants created chaos and terror in the society. The crowd present there, started dispersing and saving their lives behind the doors of their houses. The shopkeepers also shut down their shops. Then the convict-appellants took to their heels threatening the complainant and his family members and crowd.

5. The complainant carried all the injured to the government hospital, Chanda, district-Sultanpur, but, due to serious injuries sustained to victims, the doctors referred all the injured to the district hospital. While taking to district hospital, injured, Gauhar Ali and Javed Ahmad died due to the ante-mortem injuries caused by both the convict-appellants and the remaining injured were admitted in the hospital.

6. On the basis of written report, Case Crime No. 348 of 2015, under sections 302, 307, 504, 506 I.P.C. was registered against convict-appellants, Mohd. Umar S/o Farookh and Laeek S/o Khalil at Police Station-Chanda, district-Sultanpur on the very day i.e. 07-10-2015.

7. The inquest reports of the deceased, Jauhar Ali and Gauhar Ali, Javed Ahmad were prepared and dead bodies of all the three deceased were sealed and after preparation of all the required papers, their dead bodies were sent for autopsy. The Chik Report and the G.D. were prepared and the investigation was entrusted upon the Investigating Officer.

8. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the witnesses under section 161 Cr.P.C. He inspected the spot and prepared the site plan. He collected the clothes of all the deceased and sent it to the Forensic Science Laboratory for examination.

9. The police procured the custody of the convict-appellants, Laeek and Mohd. Umar from jail and recovered two meat choppers which were alleged to have been used in causing death to the deceased. The police prepared the recovery memo. The autopsy of all the three deceased were conducted by the doctors of the District Hospital, Sultanpur and the fourth deceased, who died in Civil Hospital, Lucknow, his autopsy was conducted by the doctors of the Civil Hospital, Lucknow.

10. After collecting all the relevant evidences against both the convicts-appellants, the Investigating Officer filed Chargesheet No. 153 of 2015 against the accused, Lallu @ Mohd. Shabbir S/o of Dauran @ Mohd. Hasan, Laeek S/o Khalil and Mohd. Umar S/o Farookh, under sections 302,307 readwith section 34 I.P.C. & section 506 I.P.C. The injury report of injured, Smt. Aamina is also filed with the Case Diary with the report of Forensic Science Laboratory dated 29-04-2016.

11. The convicts-appellants appeared in the court and after taking cognizance, the court concerned committed the case to the Court of Session for trial. The Sessions Court framed charges against accused,Laeek, Mohd. Umar and Lallu @ Mohd. Shabbir under sections 302,307,504 & 506 I.P.C. readwith section 34 I.P.C. and the charges were read-over to them. The convict-appellants abjured from the charges and claimed to be tried.

12. In order to prove the case against the convict-appellants, the prosecution adduced the following witnesses :-

1. Sri Sarfuddin, P.W.-1, complainant of the case.

2. Smt. Aamina w/o Sarfuddin, P.W.-2 and injured.

3. Sri Habib Ahmad, P.W.-3, witness of recovery memo

4. Sri Sagir Ahmad, P.W.-4, witness of the inquest of the deceased Moinuddin, who died in Civil Hospital, Lucknow.

5. Sri Azharuddin, P.W.-5, witness of the inquest of the deceased Gauhar Ali, Jauhar Ali & Javed Ahmad.

6. Dr. Kaushal Kishore Bhatt, witness of the autopsy of the deceased Gauhar Ali, Jauhar Ali & Javed Ahmad.

7. Sri Ajay Pratap Singh, P.W.-7, Sub. Inspector, the then Chauki Incharge, Police Station-Chanda Kotwali, district-Sultanpur. witness of inquest of deceased Gauhar Ali.

8. Sri Nirbhay Kumar Singh, P.W.-8, Sub. Inspector, witness of inquest of the deceased Jauhar Ali.

9. Dr. R.K.Gautam, P.W.-9, Senior Consultant, Dr. Shyama Prasad Mukherji

Hospital, Lucknow, witness of the autopsy of the deceased, Moinuddin.

10. Sri Rana Pratap Singh, P.W.-10, Sub. Inspector, who recovered two meat choppers, used in the alleged incident on the pointing of the accused. He identified his signatures on Recovery Memo, Exhibits 10 & 11 and proved them. He proved site plan, chargesheet etc. prepared by the Investigating Officer, Ramesh Chandra as secondary evidence.

13. Besides ocular evidences, the prosecution produced following documentary evidence :-

1. Exhibit Ka-1, Written Report.
2.Exhibit Ka-2, Inquest report of the deceased Moinuddin
3. Exhibit Ka-3, Inquest report of the deceased Gauhar Ali
4. Exhibit Ka-4, Inquest report of the deceased Jauhar Ali
5. Exhibit Ka-5, Inquest report of the deceased Javed Ahmad
6. Exhibit Ka-6, Autopsy report of the deceased Gauhar Ali
7. Exhibit Ka-7, Autopsy report of the deceased Javed Ahmad
8. Exhibit Ka-8, Autopsy report of the deceased Jauhar Ali
9. Exhibit Ka-9, Autopsy report of the deceased Moinuddin
10. Exhibit Ka-10, Recovery memo of knife recovered from the possession of accused Mohd. Umar.
11. Exhibit Ka-11, Recovery memo of knife recovered from the possession of Laeek.
12. Exhibit Ka-12, Site plan of incident.
13. Exhibit Ka-13, Chargesheet.

14. After concluding the evidence from the side of prosecution, statements of the accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded. In his statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C., the convict-appellant, Laeek Ahmad stated that he was urinating near the dustbin lying adjacent to Pant Nagar Chauraha on 07-10-2015. Immediately, Smt. Aamina came and abused him. When the convict-appellant, Laeek Ahmad was passing through the Pant Nagar Chauraha next day, Smt. Aamina, her son alongwith sons of Alauddin collectively assaulted him to the extent that he urinated in his clothes. One of the sons of Alauddin had meat chopper in his hands. He snatched the meat chopper from him and defended himself. It is also stated in the statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. that he was a labourer with Lallu and he also served in the footwear shop of Mohd. Umar.

15. Convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar stated in his statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. that he is a Hafiz and teaches Arbi and Urdu. On the fateful day, he was sitting by Taj Mohd., tenant of Sarfuddin and he intervened to resolve the dispute on humanitarian ground, but, all the four deceased alongwith Aamina assaulted badly upon co-accused, Laeek. The convict-appellant,Laeek defended himself. Smt Aamina caught hold of the convict-appellant, Laeek from the collar of his shirt, but, he managed to escape from the grip of Aamina. Mohd. Umar denied the recovery of meat chopper from himself. The accused was afforded the opportunity to adduce his defence. D.W.-3, Taj Mohammad was adduced as defence witness on behalf of the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar and no witness was produced on behalf of the convict-appellant, Laeek in defence.

16. After hearing both the parties and perusal of the record, learned trial court reached to the conclusion that evidences of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are genuine, natural and reliable and there is no reason to falsely implicate the two convict-appellants, Mohd. Laeek and Mohd. Umar. When convict-appellant, Laeek escaped from the place of occurrence, the other convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar also followed him. The incident occurred in furtherance of common intention of both the accused and the accused caused injuries to Smt. Aamina and caused death to four other persons of the same family.

17. Learned trial court convicted both the convict-appellants, Laeek and Mohd. Umar and punished them under sections 302/34, 307/34,504,506(2) I.P.C. in Sessions Trial No. 40 of 2016 Police Station-Chanda, district-Sultanpur.

18. Under section 302 readwith section 34 I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar has been convicted and sentenced for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo one month additional imprisonment. Under section 307 readwith section 34 I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar has been convicted and sentenced for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo one month additional imprisonment. Under section 506(2) I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar was convicted and sentenced for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 5,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo 15 days additional imprisonment and all the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

19. Under section 302 readwith section 34 I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Laeek has been awarded death penalty. He was convicted and sentenced under section 307/34 I.P.C. for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 10,000/- In default of payment of fine, the convict-appellant was further directed to undergo additional one month imprisonment. Under section 504 I.P.C., the convict-appellant, Laeek was convicted and sentenced for two years' imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 2,000/- In default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo 7 days additional imprisonment. Under section 506(2) I.P.C., convict-appellant, Laeek was convicted and sentenced for 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 5,000/- In default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo 15 days additional imprisonment and all sentences were directed to run concurrently.

20. Aggrieved by the judgment of conviction and punishment, two separate appeals are filed by the convict-appellants, Laeek and Mohd. Umar. Convict-appellant, Laeek has filed appeal from jail.

21. Besides these two appeals, Reference No. 2 of 2021 is made by District Judge, Sultanpur for confirmation of the death penalty to the convict-appellant, Laeek.

22. Heard Sri R.B.S.Rathaur, learned counsel for the convict-appellants in both the appeals and learned A.G.A. for the State-respondents.

23. Learned counsel for the convict-appellants argued that the witnesses, P.W.-1 & P.W.-2 are highly interested witnesses and they are relatives inter-se to the deceased also. The incident occurred at the public place, inspite of this fact, no public witness is produced by the prosecution in order to prove its case. The Investigating Officer conducted the investigation with too much lacuna. The name of the Investigating Officer is missing from the chargesheet and convict-appellants cannot be convicted on the basis of such a shoddy investigation. The dispute arose between accused and family members of the complainant on a minor issue and when the family members of the complainant started assaulting convict-appellant, Laeek with meat chopper, then he snatched the meat chopper and attacked with the meat chopper in self-defence. The punishment awarded to the convict-appellant, Laeek is very severe in relation to the crime committed by him.

24. It is also argued that the trial court based its conviction on the basis of statements of the accused recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C., which is completely beyond the scope of permissibility to base judgment on the statements of the accused. Recovery of weapons is doubtful. There was no prior meeting of mind of the accused. The convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar just intervened on humanitarian ground to disperse the crowd at the time of the incident. Convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar has not done any overt act in the commission of crime, therefore, the judgment and punishment awarded by the trial court is liable to be set aside.

25. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the convict-appellants and argued that it is a brutal murder of four persons who belongs to one family at the public place by stabbing and three of them expired on the spot and one of them expired when he was being carried to the hospital. The convict-appellants created chaos and terror in the public at large. People started closing the doors of their houses and the shopkeepers started shutting down their shops. The Investigating Officer after taking the accused in police custody recovered blood stained meat choppers on pointing out of the convict-appellants and made recovery under section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. The prosecution witnesses including the injured, Aamina proved the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt, therefore, learned A.G.A. requested to uphold the judgment passed by the learned trial court.

26. Before proceeding with the analysis of evidence, it will be proper to mention here the evidences produced by the prosecution in brief.

27. P.W.-1,Sarfuddin stated on oath before the court that he is an illiterate person and on the very fateful day of the incident when the women of his house were preparing for Wazu in the adjoining lane on 07-10-2015 at about 06.00 p.m., the accused started urinating and when the women of his house objected to it, he started abusing them. His son, Javed Ahmad forbade Laeek from abusing, threatening his son Javed convict-appellant, Laeek went away alongwith Mohd. Umar and they returned with meat choppers and assaulted Gauhar Ali and Jauhar Ali, sons of his brother, Alauddin. Laeek attacked on the neck of Gauhar Ali. When he made hue and cry, his nephew Jauhar Ali & Javed and his wife Aamina and his elder son, Moinuddin arrived at the place of occurrence. Then, convict-appellants, Umar and Laeek assaulted all of them by meat choppers. The wife of his younger brother, Khairulnisha and Alauddin shouted for help. The people arrived at the place of occurrence, but, on account of the terror of both the convict-appellants, none could come forward to save them. Gauhar Ali, Jauhar Ali, Javed, Moinuddin and Aamina received grievous injuries and they became unconscious. In the meantime, someone called ambulance and they brought all the five injured to Community Health Centre, Chanda, district-Sultanpur from where they were referred to district-hospital, Sultanpur. Jauhar Ali, Gauhar Ali and Javed could not survive and died on the way to hospital while Aamina and Moinuddin were referred to Trauma Centre, Lucknow. P.W.-1 further stated that convict-appellants Laeek and Mohd. Umar assaulted his children infront of him with meat choppers. In this assault, one of his sons sustained deep cut on the neck and intestine of his other son came out due to the assault on his stomach. His wife was preparing for Wazu at that time. She caught the accused to save his children, but, accused attacked on her abdomen with meat chopper and she fell down and became unconscious.

28. P.W.-2, Smt. Aamina corroborated the statement of P.W.-1, Sarfuddin and deposed that when she was preparing for Wazu, convict-appellant, Laeek started urinating at about 06.00 p.m. on 07-10-2015. When she forbade him from doing so, he started abusing her and came with co-accused, Mohd. Umar, having meat choppers in their hands and attacked on the neck of Gauhar Ali and on the stomach of Javed. When she tried to defend her son, Laeek attacked on her chest and abdomen also. In the Trauma Centre, Lucknow, she came to know that Gauhar Ali, Jauhar Ali and Javed expired on the very day and Moinuddin expired during his treatment in Lucknow.

29. P.W.-3, Habib Ahmad is a witness of recovery who proved that the meat chopper was recovered on the pointing out of the accused,Laeek and proved the meat chopper as Item Exhibit-Kha-1. P.W.-3 also proved the recovery of meat chopper on the pointing out of accused Mohd. Umar and proved the meat chopper used in the incident as Item Exhibit Kha-2.

30. P.W.-4, Sagir Ahmad certified his signatures on inquest report, Exhibit Ka-2.

31. P.W.-5, Azharuddin certified his signatures on Exhibits Ka-3, Ka-4 & Ka-5 i.e. inquest reports of deceased, Gauhar Ali, Jauhar Ali and Javed.

32. P.W.-6, Dr. Kaushal Kishore Bhatt conducted autopsy of deceased Jauhar Ali and declared him "brought dead' in the district hospital, Sultanpur at 08.15 P.M. on 07-10-2015. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased Jauhar Ali :-

Ante-mortem Injuries.

"(1) Incised wound 1 cm. x 0.5 cm. on back of left elbow.

Cause of death occurred due to Hemorrhage & Shock as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

33. P.W.-6, Dr. Kaushal Kishore Bhatt also conducted autopsy of deceased Javed & Gauhar Ali in the district hospital, Sultanpur. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on the dead bodies of the deceased Javed & Gauhar Ali :-

Ante-mortem injuries of Javed

(1) Incised wound 5 cm. X 2 cm. X cavity deep on front of chest 12 cm. Below the manubrium sterni.

(2) Incised wound 2 cm. X 1 cm. on left side of abdomen at 5 O'Clock position 6 cm. away from umbilicus.

(3) Linear abrasion 7 cm. x 0.2 cm. on left side of abdomen 5 cm. away from umbilicus

(4) Abrasion 1 cm x 0.1 cm. on left side of face just above lateral end of left eye brow.

Cause of death occurred due to Hemorrhage & Shock as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

Ante mortem injuries of Gauhar Ali

1. Incised Wound 4 cm. X 1 cm. on left side of neck 4 cm. below left angle of mandible, underlying tissue(let carotid artery lacerated).

Cause of death occurred due to Hemorrhage & Shock as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

34. P.W.-7, Sub. Inspector,Ajay Pratap Singh Yadav, the then Chowki Incharge,Laxmanpur, Police Station-Kotwali Nagar, Sultanpur prepared inquest report of the deceased Gauhar Ali.

35. P.W.-8, Sub. Inspector, Nirbhay Kumar Singh prepared inquest report of the deceased Jauhar Ali and identified his signatures on the inquest report,Exhibit Ka-4; prepared relevant papers to be sent for conducting autopsy of the deceased; sealed Photo lash, Challan lash, Memorandum of specimen signature, letters to R.I. & C.M.O. etc. and sent the dead body of the deceased Jauhar Ali through Constable Abhishek Dwivedi in the sealed condition to Mortuary House.

36. P.W.-09, Dr. R.K.Gautam, Senior Consultant, Dr. Shyama Prasad Mukherji Civil Hospital, Lucknow, prepared post mortem report of deceased Moinuddin in the hospital and found the following ante-mortem injuries on the dead body of the deceased Moinuddin :-

Ante-mortem Injuries

"(1) Stitched wound 2cm long alongwith two stitches present on outer aspect of both side chest.

Cause of death is due to shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

37. It is stated in grounds of appeal that the injury report of injured Aamina is not on record as such it cannot be said that she sustained injuries during the incident. The injured-Aamina also received injuries in the incident and she was referred to Trauma Centre, Lucknow. Her injury report paper no.70-Ka/1 is on record. Medical report reveals that "minimal peritoneal" collection noted. No c/o pleural collection noted through abdominal window. Supplementary report paper no 20-Kha/2 prepared by doctor in the Trauma Centre is on record which is as under :-

"MLC noted from District Hospital Sultanpur.

Patient came to Trauma Centre on 08-10-2015 was admitted and emergency management was done.

Patient presented as an alleged case of stab injury over abdomen.

Emergency surgical management done. Exploratory laparotomy with peritoneal lavage with jejunojejunal resection anastomois at approx. 3 feet distal to dudenojejunal junction with bilateral drain placement.

Patient's hospital course was uneventful and discharged on 16-10-2015."

38. P.W.-10, Sub. Inspector, Rana Pratap Singh, recovered two meat choppers on the pointing of the accused and proved the recovery memo in court. This witness deposed that the incident was very sensitive and police force remained at the place of occurrence for many days. The village was turned into police cantonment.

39. D.W.-01, Haseena, in her statement recorded on 19-02-2021 stated that the incident took place five years ago, but, she did not remember the exact date of the incident. She stated that she was busy in the engagement ceremony of her daughter. After knowing about the incident from the neighbours, she did not go to the place of the incident and she stated about Lallu only.

40. D.W.-02, Lallu, in his statement recorded on 19-02-2021 stated that the incident took place five years ago. He knew both the convict-appellants, Mohd. Umar & Laeek and he had no enmity with them. He deposed all the things about himself only.

Since, D.W.-01 & D.W.-02 in their statements stated only about the fact that Lallu was not present on the spot, therefore, their statements are irrelevant in regard with the involvement of present convict-appellants.

41. D.W.-3, Taj Mohd., corroborated the happening of the incident, but, he stated that convict-appellant, Laeek was attacked by complainant's son and other family members. Laeek snatched the meat chopper and attacked on the victims in self defence.

42. Learned counsel for the convict-appellants submitted that there is no independent witness of the incident. The crowd is stated to have gathered at the place of occurrence, but, no independent witness was adduced and the witnesses produced by prosecution are the highly interested witnesses.

43. In Kartik Malhar Vs. State of Bihar (1996) 1 SCC 614, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently, being a partisan witnesses, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh's case (supra) in which this Court expressed its surprise over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the members of the Bar that relative were not independent witnesses. Speaking through Vivian Bose, J., the Court observed :

We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of High Court that the testimony of the two eye-witnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rules. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this Court endeavored to idspeal in Rameshwar v. The State of Rajasthan [1952] SCR 377= AIR 1952 SC 54. We find, however, that it is unfortunately still persist, if not in the judgments of the Courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel."

In this case, the Court further observed as under:

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause such an enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must he laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth.

In another case of Mohd. Rojali Versus State of Assam: (2019) 19 SCC 567, the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has held as under:-

*"As regards the contention that all the eyewitnesses are close relatives of the deceased, it is by now well settled that a related witness cannot be said to be an ''interested' witnesses merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. This court has elucidated the difference between ''interested' and '' related' witness in a plethora of cases, stating that a witness may be called interested only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation, which in the context of a criminal case would mean that the witness has a direct or indirect interest in seeing the accused punished due to prior enmity or other reasons, and thus has a motive to falsely implicate the accused (for instance, see State of Rajasthan v. Kalki (1981) 2 SCC 752; Amit v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2012) 4 Scc 107; and Gangabhavani v. Rayapati Venkat Reddy, (2013) 15 SCC 298). Receltly, this difference was reiterated in Ganapathi v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2018) 5 SCC 549, in the following terms, by referring to the three Judge bench decision in State of Rajasthan v. Kalki (supra): "14. "Related" is not equivalent to "interested". A witness may be called "interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possib*le eye witness in the circumstances of the case cannot be said to be "interested".."

11. In criminal cases, it is often the case that the offence is witnessed by a close relative of the victim, whose presence on the scene of the offence would be natural. The evidence of such a witness cannot automatically be discarded by labelling the witness as interested. Indeed, one of the earliest statements with respect to interested witnesses in criminal case was made by this Court in Dalip Singh v. State of Panjab 1954 SCR 145, wherein this Court observed:

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to whish to implicae him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person..."

12. In case of related witness, the Court may not treat his or her testimony as inherently tainted, and needs to ensure only that the evidence is inherently reliable, probable, cogent and consistent. We may refer to the observations of this Court in Jayabalan v. Union Territory of Pondicherry, (2010) 1 SCC 199;

"23. We are of the considered view that in cases where the Court is called upon to deal with the evidence of the interested witnesses, the approach of the Court while appreciating the evidence of such witnesses must not be pedantic. The Court must be cautious in appreciating and accepting the evidence given by the interested witnesses but the Court must not be suspicious of such evidence. The primary endeavor of the Court must be to look for consistency. The evidence of a witnesses cannot be ignored or shown out solely because it comes from the mouth of a person who is closely related to the victim."

"29. In the case of Bhaskarrao V. State of Maharashtra reported in (2018) 6 SCC, 591, Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under :-

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the Accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that here is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalisation. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general Rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

34. In Darya Singh and Ors. v. State of Punjab, [(1964) 3 SCR 397 : AIR 1965 SC 328 : (1965) 1 Cri LJ 350] this Court held that evidence of an eye witness who is a near relative of the victim, should be closely scrutinized but no corroboration is necessary for acceptance of his evidence. In Harbans Kaur and Anr. v. State of Haryana, [(2005) 9 SCC 195 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1213 : 2005 Cri LJ 2199], this Court observed that: (SCC p. 277, para 6)

"6. There is no proposition in law that relatives are to be treated as untruthful witnesses. On the contrary, reason has to be shown when a plea of partiality is raised to show that the witnesses had reason to shield actual culprit and falsely implicate the Accused."

35. In the case of Namdeo v. State of Maharashtra, [(2007) 14 SCC 150 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 773] wherein this Court after observing previous precedents has summarized the law in the following manner: (SCC p. 164, para 38)

"38. .....it is clear that a close relative cannot be characterised as an 'interested' witness. He is a 'natural' witness. His evidence, however, must be scrutinized carefully. If on such scrutiny, his evidence is found to be intrinsically reliable, inherently probable and wholly trustworthy conviction can be based on the 'sole' testimony of such witness. Close relationship of witness with the deceased or victim is no ground to reject his evidence. On the contrary, close relative of the deceased would normally be most reluctant to spare the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent one."

44. It is well known fact that when such a heinous occurrence takes place where two appellants caused death of three persons at 05.00 p.m., people were shutting their shops and hiding themselves behind their doors and crowd was terrorized, then there is least chance that the independent witness will dare to depose about the incident in the court. The evidence of witnesses cannot be discarded only because they are in any way related to the deceased if they are reliable and inspire confidence of truthfulness. Moreover, the witness no. 2, Aamina is an injured witness in the case, who tried to save her sons from assault of the accused and in turn, she sustained injuries. Thus, there is no reason to discard the evidence of prosecution witnesses just because they are related witnesses to the extent that they have inspired confidence.

45. It is stated that the Investigating Officer of the case was not produced as a witness in the court. From perusal of the file of the trial court, it transpires that initial investigation of the case was conducted by the Investigating Officer, Sri Jasbir Singh and later on by the Investigating Officer, Ramesh Chandra Singh, who prepared the site plan and submitted chargesheet in court, but, the Investigating Officers, Jasbir Singh and Ramesh Chandra Singh were not produced in the court rather P.W.-10, Sub. Inspector, Rana Pratap Singh proved these documents by way of secondary evidence. However, it is stated by P.W.-10 that the Investigating Officer is alive.

46. Considering these facts, it is clear that the Investigating Officer did not depose in court to support prosecution case. However, learned counsel for the convict-appellants could not explain as to what damage was caused to the credibility and reliability in prosecution case, if Investigating Officer has not deposed in the court. The case is based on ocular evidence. The injured witness appeared in witness box and proved the case, therefore, merely absence of the Investigating Officer does not affect adversely of the complete prosecution case.

47. Learned counsel for the convict-appellants argued that the recovery of alleged weapons of assault from convict-appellants is highly doubtful. It transpires from the record that the accused were arrested and admitted to jail and the Investigating Officer had taken the accused in police custody by the order of the concerned court and subject to the conditions imposed by the court concerned; the recovery was made by the Investigating Officer on the pointing out of the accused from the space between the roof of latrine and the roof of his house. Appellant Laeek confessed during recovery that this is the weapon with which he assaulted the sons of Sarfuddin and Alauddin. P.W.-3 recovered one meat chopper on the pointing out of convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar from under roof of his house who confessed that with the recovered weapon, he assaulted the sons of Sarfuddin and Alauddin. Both the meat choppers were stained with dry blood. Recovery memo is proved by P.W.-3 and no explanation is given by the accused about the recovery of the meat choppers from their respective houses. Therefore, there is no doubt in the recovery of weapons from convict-appellants.

48. Learned counsel for the convict-appellants argued that the learned trial court did not address the controversies and contradictions in the statements of the witnesses. However, the incident ignited when the injured Aamina forbade Appellant Laeek from urinating in home where she was preparing for Waju. She also sustained injuries when she tried to save deceased.

49. Hon'ble Apex Court relying upon the judgment in State of U.P. Vs. Anil Singh reported at (1998) supp SCC 686:

"17. It is also our experience that invariably the witnesses add embroidery to prosecution story perhaps for the fear of being disbelieved. But that is no ground to throw the case overboard, if true, in the main. If there is a ring of truth in the main, the case should not be rejected. It is the duty of the court to cull out the nuggets of truth from the evidence unless there is reason to believe that the inconsistencies or falsehood are so glaring as utterly to destroy confidence in the witnesses. It is necessary to remember that a Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. One is as important as the other. Both are public duties which the Judge has to perform" It has been further emphasized that if discrepancies in the depositions are minor, that that witnesses contradict themselves during their testimonies as opposed to their previous police statements what is important is that the nature of contradictions.

50. In Rammi @ Rameshwar Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:

"24. ... Courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witnesses are so incompatible with the credibility of his versions that the Court is justified in jettisoning his evidence. But too serious a view to be adopted on mere variations falling in the narration of an incident (either as between the evidence of two witnesses or as between two statements of the same witness) is an unrealistic approach for judicial scrutiny"

51. He further argued that there are vital discrepancies in the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 recorded before the trial court, but, trial court did not address the said controversies. From the perusal of statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, it transpires that P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 who are the witnesses of facts; unequivocally stated in so many words that convict-appellant, Laeek Ahmad assaulted deceased, Jauhar Ali, Gauhar Ali, Javed Ahmad and Moinuddin and injured Aamina by meat choppers. There is no discrepancy on the point of genesis of dispute, on the "place of occurrence', or on the weapons used to commit the crime. P.W.-2, Aamina was herself injured in the case, who proved the incident in details. Therefore, there are no contradictions, discrepancies or controversy in the statements of witnesses. We do not consider it appropriate or permissible to embark upon the reappraisal or re-appreciate of the evidence in the contest of the minor controversies or discrepancies in view of he law laid down by the Apex Court reported in (1983) 3 SCC,217, Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai Versus State of Gujarat.

52. It is also submitted by the learned counsel for the convict-appellants that no overt act has been assigned to convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar and necessary ingredients for invoking section 34 I.P.C. are missing. However, from perusal of the record, it is proved that convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar picked the meat chopper from the shop of meat seller, Lallu and supplied the said meat chopper to convict-appellant, Laeek Ahmad. It is not necessary for constituting common intention that there must be meeting of minds or preponderance for commission of the crime days before. It is sufficient, if at the spur of moment, the meeting of minds arrived at besides, Mohd. Umar actively participated in the commission of crime. Therefore, it cannot be said that the ingredients for invoking section 34 I.P.C. are missing.

53. Learned trial court discussed the evidence at length. From perusal of the record of the trial court, it transpires that initially the incident occurred between Aamina and convict-appellant Laeek and when convict-appellant Laeek attacked on Aamina with meat chopper, his son reached at the spot to save Aamina, then convict-appellant, Laeek assaulted all the four persons with meat chopper.

54. All the witnesses proved the incident against convict-appellants, Mohd. Umar and Laeek beyond reasonable doubt and the injuries inflicted upon the deceased. The injuries are well corroborated by the statements of doctors who conducted autopsy of the dead bodies of the deceased. The injuries on the person of injured Aamina are also corroborated by medical evidence on record. The evidences of all the witnesses of facts inspire confidence of veracity and truthfulness. There is nothing on record which can create doubt on the evidence of witnesses.

55. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sachchey Lal Tiwari Vs. State of U.P. reported in (SCC, 414-15, para 7), held as under :-

"Murders are not committed with previous notice to witnesses; soliciting their presence. If murder is committed in a dwelling house, the inmates of the house are natural witnesses. If murder is committed in a street, only passers-by will be witnesses. Their evidence cannot be brushed aside or viewed with suspicion on the ground that they are mere chance witnesses.

In view of the above, it can safely be held that natural witnesses may not be labelled as interested witnesses. Interested witnesses are those who want to derive some benefit out of the litigation/case. In case the circumstances reveal that a witness was present on the scene of the occurrence and had witnessed the crime, his deposition cannot be discarded merely on the ground of being closely related to the victim/deceased."

56. Learned counsel for the convict-appellants submitted that learned trial court placed reliance on the statements of the convict-appellants recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. and based the conviction of the convict-appellants on their own statements.

57. It is a settled principle of law that the statement of an accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. can be used as evidence against the accused, in so far as it supports the case of the prosecution. Equally true is that the statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. simplicitor normally cannot be made the basis for conviction of the accused. But where the statement of the accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. is in line with the case of the prosecution, then certainly the heavy onus of proof on the prosecution is, to some extent, reduced as has been held in the case of (Brajendra Singh Vs. State of M.P. dated 28th February,2012).

58. In the light of this argument, we have perused the statement of the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. Initially, convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar denied the allegations levelled against him and stated that he intervened on humanitarian ground to defend the quarrel, but, when he was asked to explain in his defence, he narrated the story in the line of prosecution case. It is also stated that convict-appellant, Laeek continued to stab the deceased and injured. Likewise, convict-appellant, Laeek Ahmad also denied all the prosecution evidences in his statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. and when he was asked to explain in his defence, he narrated the story in the line of the prosecution case. It is further submitted that the dispute in question arose on trivial issue but, when the sons of complainant started beating him and one of the deceased had meat chopper in his hands, he snatched meat chopper and assaulted them in self defence and lost control over himself.

59. It is also pertinent to mention here that the statements of both the convict-appellants under section 313 Cr.P.C. are also reliable on the tune that both the convict-appellants were taken by the Investigating Officer in police custody remand from jail and meat choppers were recovered from the pointing of said convict-appellants from their houses between the roof of latrine and under roofs. Therefore, the reliance on the statements of the convict-appellants under section 313 Cr.P.C. by trial court is in consonance with the provisions of law and the recovery of meat choppers on their pointing out is under section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. Thus, there is no infirmity in the judgment passed by the trial court and the judgment of the trial court is based on factual and legal aspects of law.

60. The facts of this case lead that convict-appellants terrorized all the residents of the village and continued to stab till the three deceased died at the spot and one, Moinuddin expired when he was being carried to the hospital and injured, Aamina was badly injured on her chest and abdomen. The evidence of prosecution also proves that during this incident, the villagers of the village shut the doors of their houses and the shopkeepers also shut down their shops as they were put to terror by the brutal act of convict-appellants. Therefore, the judgment of the trial court is in conformity with the facts on record and is liable to be upheld.

61. Now, while upholding the conviction of the convict-appellants, we proceed to consider the question of death sentence awarded by trial court under Section 302 IPC to convict-appellant Laeek.

62. Capital punishment has been the subject-matter of great social and judicial discussion and catechism. From whatever point of view it is examined, one undisputed statement of law follows that it is neither possible nor prudent to state any universal formula which apply to all the cases of criminology where capital punishment has been prescribed. Thus, the Court must examine each case on its own facts, in the light of enunciated principles and before option for death penalty, the circumstances of the offender are also required to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the crime for the reason that life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception.

"132. To sum up, the question whether or not death penalty serves any penological purpose is a difficult, complex and intractable issue. It has evoked strong, divergent views. For the purpose of testing the constitutionality of the impugned provision as to death penalty in Section 302 of the penal Code on the ground of reasonableness in the light of Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution, it is not necessary for us to express any categorical opinion, one way or the other, as to which of these two antithetical views, held by the Abolitionists and Retentionists, is correct. It is sufficient to say that the very fact that persons of reason, learning and light are rationally and deeply divided in their opinion on this issue, is a ground among others, for rejecting the petitioners argument that retention of death penalty in the impugned provision, is totally devoid of reason and purpose. If, notwithstanding the view of the Abolitionists to the contrary, a very large segment of people, the world over, including sociologists, legislators, jurists, judges and administrators still firmly believe in the worth and necessity of capital punishment for the protection of society, if in the perspective of prevailing crime conditions in India, contemporary public opinion channelized through the people's representatives in Parliament, has repeatedly in the last three decades, rejected all attempts, including the one made recently, to abolish or specifically restrict the area of death penalty, if death penalty is still a recognised legal sanction for murder or some types of murder in most of the civilised countries in the world, if the farmers of the Indian Constitution were fully aware-- as we shall presently show they were-- of the existence of death penalty as punishment for murder, under the Indian Penal code, if the 35th Report and subsequent reports of the Law Commission suggesting retention of death penalty, and recommending revision of the Criminal Procedure Code and the insertion of the new Sections 235(2) and 354(3) in that code providing for presentence hearing and sentencing procedure on conviction for murder and other capital offences were before the Parliament and presumably considered by it when in 1972-1973 it took up revision of the Code of 1898 and replaced it by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, it is not possible to hold that the provision of death penalty as an alternative punishment for murder, in Section 302 of the Penal Code is unreasonable and not in the public interest. We would, therefore, conclude that the impugned provision in Section 302, violates neither the letter nor the ethos of Article 19.

200. Drawing upon the penal statutes of the States in U.S.A framed after Furman vs. Georgia, in general, and Clauses 2(a), (b), (c) and (d) of the Indian Penal code (Amendment) Bill passed in 1978 by the Rajya Sabha, in particular, Dr. Chitale has suggested these "aggravating circumstances":

57. Aggravating circumstances: A court may however, in the following cases impose the penalty of death in its discretion:

(a) if the murder has been committed after previous planning and involves extreme brutality; or

(b) if the murder involves exceptional depravity; or

(c) if the murder is of a member of any of the armed forces of the Union or of a member of any police force or of any public servant and was committed-

(i) while such member or public servant was on duty; or

(ii) in consequent of anything done or attempted to be done by such member or public servant in the lawful discharge of his duty as such member or public servant whether at the time of murder he was such member or public servant, as the case may be, or had ceased to be such member or public servant; or

(d) if the murder is of a person who had acted in the lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 of the CrPC, 1973 or who had rendered assistance to a Magistrate or a police officer demanding his aid or requiring his assistance under Section 37 and Section 129 of the said Code.

201. Stated broadly, there can be no objection to the acceptance of these indicators but as we have indicated already, we would prefer not not fetter judicial discretion by attempting to make an exhaustive enumeration one way or the other.

204. Dr. Chitaley has suggested these mitigating factors:

"Mitigating circumstances";- in the exercise of its discretion in the above cases, the Court shall take into account the following circumstances:

(1) That the offence was committed under the influence of extreme mental or

(2) The age of the accused. It the accused is young or old, he shall not be sentenced to death.

(3) The probability that the accused would not commit criminal acts of violence as would constitute a continuing threat to society.

(4) The probability that the accused can be reformed and rehabilitated. The State shall by evidence prove that the accused does not satisfy the condition 3 and 4 above.

(5) That in the facts and circumstances of the case the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) That the accused acted under the duress or domination of another person.

(7) That the conditional of the accused showed that he was mentally defective and that the said defect unpaired his capacity to appreciate the criminality of his conduct.

207. We will do no more than to say that these are undoubtedly relevant circumstances and must be given great weight in the determination of the sentence.

209. There are numerous other circumstances justifying the passing of the lighter sentence; as there are countervailing circumstances of aggravation. "We cannot obviously feed into a judicial computer all such situations since they are astrological imponderable and an imperfect and undulating society. "Nonetheless, it cannot be over-emphasised that the scope and concept of mitigating factors in the area of death penalty must receive a liberal and expansive construction by the courts in accord with the sentencing policy writ large in Section 354 (3). Judges should never be blood thirsty. Hanging of murders has never been too good for them. Facts and figures albeit incomplete, furnished by the Union of India , show that the past Courts have inflicted the extreme penalty with extreme infrequency- a fact which attests to the caution and compassion which they have always brought to bear on the exercise of their sentencing discretion in so grave a matter. It is, therefore, imperative to voice the concern that courts, aided by the broad illustrative guidelines indicated by us, will discharge the onerous function with evermore scrupulous care and humane concern, directed along the high-road of legislative police outlined in Section 354 (3) viz., that for persons convicted of murder, life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence an exception. A real and abiding concern for the dignity of human life through law's instrumentality. That ought not to be done save the rarest of rare cases when the alternative option is unquestionable foreclosed."

In Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab reported in (1983) 3 SCC 470, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has made an attempt to cull out certain aggravating and mitigating circumstances and it has been held that it was only in ''rarest of rare' cases, when the collective conscience of the community is to shocked that it will expect the holders of the judicial power centre to inflict death penalty irrespective of their personal opinion as regards desirability or otherwise of retaining death penalty. In this Judgment the Hon'be Supreme Court has summarized the instances on which death sentence may be imposed, which reads thus:

"38.xxxx

(i) The extreme penalty of death need not be inflicted except in gravest cases of extreme culpability;

(ii) Before option for the death penalty the circumstances of the ''offender' also requires to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the ''crime'.

(iii) Life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception. In other words death sentence must be imposed only when life imprisonment appears to be an altogether inadequate punishment having regard to the relevant circumstances of the crime, and provided, and only provided, the option to impose sentence of imprisonment for life cannot be conscientiously exercised having regard to the nature and circumstances of the crime and all the relevant circumstances;

(iv) A balance-sheet of aggravating and mitigating circumstances has to be drawn up and in doing so the mitigating circumstances has to be accorded full weightage and a just balance has to be struck between the aggravating and the mitigating circumstances before the option is exercised."

39. In order to apply these guidelines inter alia the following question may be asked and answered:

(a) Is there something uncommon about the crime which renders sentence of imprisonment for life inadequate and calls for a death sentence?

(b) Are the circumstances of the crime such that there is no alternative but to impose death sentence even after according maximum weightage to the mitigating circumstances which speak in favour of the offender?

40. If upon taking an overall global view of all the circumstances in the light of the aforesaid proposition and taking into account the answers to the questions posed herein above, the circumstances of the case are such that death sentence is warranted, the court would proceed to do so."

(Emphasis supplied)

required to be taken into consideration while applying the doctrine of "rarest of rare" case. Relevant para of the same reads thus:-

"76. The law enunciated by this Court in its recent judgments, as already noticed, adds and elaborates the principles that were stated in the case of Bachan Singh (supra) and thereafter, in the case of Machhi Singh, (supra). The aforesaid judgments, primarily dissect these principles into two different compartments- one being the "aggravating circumstances" while the other being the "mitigating circumstances". The Court would consider the cumulative effect of both these aspect and normally, it may not be very appropriate for the Court to decide the most significant aspect of sentencing policy with reference to the classes under any of the following beads while completely ignoring other classes under other heads. To balance the two is the primary duty of the Court. It will be appropriate for the Court to come to a final conclusion upon balancing the exercise that would help to administer the criminal justice system better and provide an effective and meaningful reasoning by the Court as contemplated under Section 354 (3) of Cr.P.C.

Aggravating Circumstances:

(1) The offences relating to the commission of heinous crime like murder, rape, armed dacoity, kidnapping etc. By the accused with prior record of conviction for capital felony or offences committed by the person having a substantial history of serious assaults and criminal convicts.

(2) The offence was committed while the offender was engaged in the commission of another serious offence.

(3) The offence was committed with the intention to create a fear psychosis in the public at large and was committed in a public place by a weapon or device which clearly could be hazardous to the life of more than one person.

(4) The offence of murder was committed for ransom or like offences to receive money or monetary benefits.

(5) Hired killings.

(6) The offence was committed outrageously for want only while involving inhumane treatment and torture to the victim.

(7) The offence was committed by a person while in lawful custody.

(8) The murder or the offence was committed to prevent a person lawfully carrying out his duty like arrest or custody in a place of lawful confinement of himself or another. For instance, murder is of a person who had acted in lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 Cr.P.C.

(9) When the crime is enormous in proportion like making an attempt of murder of the entire family or members of a particular community.

(10) When the victim is innocent, helpless or a person relies upon the trust of relationship and social norms, like a child, helpless woman, a daughter or a niece staying with a father/uncle and is inflicted with the crime by such a trusted person.

(11) When murder is committed for a motive which evidences total depravity and meanness.

(12) When there is a cold blooded murder with provocation.

(13) The crime is committed so brutally that it pricks or shocks not only the judicial conscience but even the conscience of the society.

Mitigating Circumstances:

(1) The manner and circumstances in an under which the offence was committed, for example, extreme mental or emotional disturbance or extreme provocation in contradistinction to all these situations in normal course.

(2) The age of the accused is a relevant consideration but not a determinative factor by itself.

(3) The chances of the accused of not indulging in commission of the crime again and the probability of the accused being reformed and rehabilitated.

(4) The condition of the accused shows that he was mentally defective and the defect impaired his capacity to appreciate the circumstances of his criminal conduct.

(5) The circumstances which, in normal course of life, would render such behaviour possible and cold have the effect of giving rise to mental imbalance in that given situation like persistent harassment or, in fact, leading to such a peak of human behaviour that, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) Where the Court upon proper appreciation of evidence is of the view that the crime was not committed in a pre-ordained manner and the death resulted in the course of commission f another crime and that there was a possibility of it being construed as consequences to the commission of the primary crime.

(7) Where it is absolutely unsafe to rely upon the testimony of a sole eye witness though prosecution has brought home the guilty of the accused."

65. In the matter of Dharam Deo Yadav Vs. State of U.P. reported in (2014) 5 SCC 509, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held thus:

"36. We may not consider whether the case falls under the category of rarest of the rare case so as to award death sentence for which, as already held, in Shankar Kisanrao Khade vs. State of Maharashtra (2013) 5 SCC 546 this Court laid down three tests, namely, Crime Test, Criminal Test and RR test. So far as the present case is concerned, both the Crime Test and Criminal Test have been satisfied as against the accused. Learned counsel appearing for the accused, however, submitted that he had no previous criminal records and that apart from the circumstantial evidence, there is no eye-witness in the above case, and hence, the manner in which the crime was committed is not in evidence. Consequently, it was pointed out that it would not be possible for this Court to come to the conclusion that the crime was committed in a barbaric manner and, hence the instant case would fall under the category of rarest of rare. We find some force in that contention.

Taking in consideration all aspect of the matter, we are of the view that, due to lack of any evidence with regard to the manner in which the crime was committed, the case will not fall under the category of the rarest of rare case.

Consequently, we are inclined to commute the death sentence to life and award 20 years of rigorous imprisonment, over and above the period already undergone by the accused, without any remission, which, in our view, would meet the ends of justice.

In Kalu Khan v. State of Rajasthan report in (2015) 16 SCC 492, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held that:-

"30. In Mahesh Dhanaji Shinde v. State of Maharashtra, the conviction of the appellant-accused was upheld keeping in view that the circumstantial evidence pointed only in the direction of their guilt given that the modus operandi of the crime, homicidal death, identity of 9 of 10 victims, last seen theory and other incriminating circumstances were proved.

However, the Court has thought it fit to commute the sentence of death to imprisonment for life considering the age, socioeconomic conditions, custodial behaviour of the appellant-accused persons and that the case was entirely based on circumstantial evidence. This Court has placed reliance on the observations in Sunil Dutt Sharma Vs. State (Govt. Of NCT of Delhi) as follows: (Mahest Dhanaji case SCC p. 314, para 35)

"35. In a recent pronouncement in Sunil Dutt Sharma v. State (Govt. Of NCT of Delhi), it has been observed by this Court that the principles of sentencing in our country are fairly well settled- the difficulty is not in identifying such principles but lies in the application thereof. Such application, we may respectfully add, is a matter of judicial expertise and experience where judicial wisdom must search for an answer to the vexed question-whether the option of life sentence is unquestionably foreclosed? The unbiased and trained judicial mind free from all prejudices and notions is the only asset which would guide the Judge to reach the "truth'."

66. In the light of above proposition of law, we require to scrutinize the case in hands mainly to find out whether this case falls within the category of rarest of rare case and imposition of death penalty would be the only appropriate sentence and imposition of life imprisonment which is a rule would not be adequate to meet out the ends of justice.

67. By awarding death sentence to the convict-appellant, Laeek, learned trial court has mentioned the mitigating circumstances as such that convict-appellant is a young man and is married and having his family liabilities. Convict-appellant, Laeek assaulted the injured and the deceased in his self defence.

68. The following aggravating circumstances are noted in the judgment of the trial court (i) that four members of the same family were murdered with meat choppers and one sustained injuries on her chest and abdomen; (ii) that all three injured persons lost their lives on the spot and the intestines came out of their bodies;(iii) Injured, Aamina is still under treatment and she could lead her normal life after this incident; (iv) the incident occurred by the convict-appellants challenging the law and order and creating terror in whole of the village and after this incident, the lives and business of the villagers remained obstructed for months; (v) the incident in question occurred only on the petty issue of urination by the convict-appellants and the convict-appellants reacted in such a brutal way which deprived of a family from his four members. After evaluating, mitigating and aggravating circumstances, the trial court reached to the conclusion that the convict-appellant, Laeek is liable be hanged till death for this brutal genocide.

69. It is also found by the trial court that convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar by his overt act assisted in the commission of crime, therefore, learned trial court punished the convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar with the imprisonment for life.

70. The convict-appellants committed the crime which is abominable, vicious and ferocious in nature. If the crime is said to be of such a brutal depraved & heinous in nature so as to fall in the category of rarest of rare, accused convicts should be adequately punished for that, but, we have to consider the circumstances of convicts before awarding punishment.

71. There is no evidence to the effect that the convict-appellant, Laeek committed crime with pre-planning or preponderance. The occurrence happened suddenly when the hot exchanges arose due to urination in the lane of the complainant while Aamina was preparing for Wazu. The convict-appellant had no motive or intention to kill anybody at the time of occurrence. However, once he started stabbing, he continued to stab till the death of three persons caused at the spot and one person while he was being carried to the hospital and one person was badly injured. He himself admitted during his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. that he lost control over himself.

72. We also find ourselves unable to agree with the view of the trial court that the convict-appellant-Laeek is menace to the society that he cannot be allowed to stay alive. On the other hand, we are of the view that the prosecution could not establish that convict-appellant-Laeek is beyond reform. We are also mindful that the convict-appellant-Laeek has no criminal antecedents prior to the commission of this crime, that too, was committed in the spur of moment. Therefore, the circumstances of the crime and criminal do not go to show that instant matter falls into the category of rarest of rare case or that the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the convict-appellant-Laeek is unquestionably fore-closed.

73. Before proceeding further, it would be pertinent to mention here that life imprisonment is a rule and the death penalty is an exception only when the life imprisonment would be inadequate in proportion to the crime committed and the death penalty is imposed only when alternative life imprisonment is totally inadequate. The instant case does not fall in the category of rarest of rare cases, where life imprisonment would suffice to the ends of justice. Therefore, in totality of facts and circumstances of this case, we find it a fit case to commute the death sentence of the convict-appellant, Laeek into life imprisonment.

74. While affirming the conviction of the convict-appellant-Laeek under Section 302 IPC, we set aside the death penalty of the appellant, Laeek awarded by the trial court and modify his sentence from death penalty to life imprisonment without remission.

75. The Jail Appeal No. 592 of 2021 is partly allowed. In the light of the above discussion, Reference No. 02 of 2021 for confirmation of death penalty is liable to be rejected and is accordingly rejected.

76. So far as conviction of convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar is concerned, he was convicted with convict-appellant, Laeek under sections 302/34,307/34,504 & 506 I.P.C., However, initially he had no prior meeting of mind with co-appellant, Laeek but he assisted with his overt act and played an active role in commission of crime. His role is not less than convict, Laeek. Therefore, the punishment awarded to convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar does not call for any interference by this court. Hence, the Criminal Appeal No. 704 of 2021 filed by convict-appellant, Mohd. Umar is dismissed accordingly.

77. The convict-appellants,Laeek and Mohd. Umar are in jail and shall serve out their sentences as have been awarded by the trial court and modified by this Court respectively.

78. Let a copy of this judgment along with lower court record be transmitted to the trial court forthwith for necessary information and compliance.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32-The law on the issue of dying declaration can be summarized to the effect that in case the court comes to the conclusion that the dying declaration is true and reliable, has been recorded by a person at a time when the deceased was fit physically and mentally to make the declaration and it has not been made under any tutoring/duress/prompting; it can be the sole basis for recording conviction. In such an eventuality no corroboration is required- A dying declaration recorded by a competent Magistrate would stand on a much higher footing than the declaration recorded by office of lower rank, for the reason that the competent Magistrate has no axe to grind against the person named in the dying declaration of the victim.

Where the dying declaration is found to be true and reliable and has been recorded by a magistrate then the same requires no further corroboration and conviction can be secured solely on the basis of the dying declaration.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 304-B- Section 304 Part- I- Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream- Perusal of record goes to show that motive is absent for causing death of the deceased by the appellant as it is evident from the statement of P.W.1 and P.W.3. The allegation of demand of dowry was also not proved by the prosecution as P.W.2 mother of the deceased in her statement herself admitted that the deceased never made any complaint about her husband or about his family members. Therefore, only on the basis of dying declaration, learned trial court has awarded very harsh and severe punishment, which is life imprisonment-Sentence is reduced to the period of 10 years under Section 304 part-I of I.P.C. Fine imposed is reduced to Rs.5,000/- and sentence in default payment of fine is also maintained.

Settled law that the judicial trend in our Country is reformative and not retributive hence punishment awarded should be proportionate and undue harshness has to be avoided. As motive has not been proved by the prosecution, the deceased has died after four days of the occurrence and the intention and knowledge was present that the act was likely to cause death of the deceased, hence the offence would come within the purview of Section 304 Part – I of IPC. (Para 18, 19, 21, 29, 31, 32)

9. Ravada Sasikala Vs St. of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. The appeal has been preferred by the appellant- Sonu against the judgment and order dated 11.02.2015, passed by learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Gautam Budh Nagar in Session Trail No. 144 of 2012 (State of UP vs. Sonu and another), arising out of Case Crime No. 581 of 2011, under Sections 498-A, 304B Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in short "I.P.C.') and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station-Dadri, District Gautam Budh Nagar whereby the appellant is convicted and sentenced for the offence under Section 302 I.P.C. for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs.25,000/- and in default of payment of fine, further imprisonment for one year. Accused Krishnapal Sharma was acquitted by the Court below, therefore this appeal has been preferred only for appellant-Sonu.

2. Brief facts of the case giving rise to this appeal are that a written report was submitted by complainant Brahm Deo (father of the deceased) at Police Station Dadri, District Gautam Budh Nagar with the averments that marriage of his daughter Priyanka was solemnized with accused-Sonu on 14.7.2010. He had given dowry as per his capacity. After marriage accused-Sonu and his family members demanded additional dowry. It is further averred that on 07.11.2011, appellant- Sonu and his family members poured kerosene on his daughter and set her ablaze. It is a fact that during treatment the deceased succumbed to the injuries.

3. On the basis of above written report, a case crime no.581 of 2011 was registered at Police Station Dadri, under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. Investigation was taken up by Circle Officer, who visited the spot, prepared the site plan and recorded the statement of witnesses. the dying declaration of the deceased was also recorded on 10.11.2011. F.I.R. was registered as written report on 24.11.201. Inquest report was prepared and post-mortem of the dead body was conduced and its report was also prepared by doctor. After completion of investigation, I.O. submitted the charge sheet against accused-Sonu and Krishnapal, who are the husband and father-in-law of the deceased.

4. Case being exclusively triable by the court of session was committed to the court of session for trial. The accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried.

5. Learned Sessions Court framed the charges against accused- Sonu and Krishnapal, under Section 3 r/w 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, under Section 498-A and 304-B I.P.C. Charges were read over to the accused, who denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

6. To bring home the charges, the prosecution examined following witnesses:

1.	Brahm Deo Dubey	P.W.-1
2.	Arti Devi	P.W.-2
3.	Neha	P.W.-3
4.	Dr. Mohit Gupta	P.W.-4
5.	Krishna Mohan Uppu	P.W.-5
6.	Bheem Singh	P.W.-6
7.	Udayveer Singh Pokhar	P.W.-7
8.	Brajesh Singh	P.W.-8

7. In support of oral evidence, prosecution submitted following documentary evidence, which were proved by leading oral evidence and proving the contents of the said documents.

1.	FIR	Ex.ka-11
2.	Written report	Ex.ka-1
3.	Dying Declaration	Ex. ka-6/10
4.	Medico-Legal Report	Ex. ka-7
5.	Post-mortem report	Ex.ka-3
6.	Letter of Executive Magistrate	Ex. ka-4
7.	Brief Facts	Ex. ka-5
8.	Death Summary	Ex. ka-8
9.	Death Report	Ex. ka-2
10	Death Report	Ex. ka-9
11.	Charge-sheet (Mool)	Ex.ka-14
12.	Site plan with index	Ex.ka-13

8. After completion of prosecution evidence, the statement of accused was recorded under Section 313 of Criminal Procedure Code (Cr.P.C.), in which the accused denied involvement in the crime and deposed that false evidence was led against accused. The accused examined D.W-1 Smt. Vijay and D.W.-2 Radhey Shyam in defence.

9. Heard Shri Dharmendra Kumar Chaubey, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri N.K. Srivastava, learned counsel for the State. Record has been perused.

10. Leaned counsel for the appellant has submitted that as per the F.I.R., father of the appellant was also involved in the offence but no evidence was found against him, which goes to show that entire F.I.R. is fabricated and false averments were made by the complainant to rope in all the family members of the appellant. The FIR was also lodged much after the incidence. Such type of delayed F.I.R. raises refutable proof and is highly suspicious and cannot be relied upon so as to convict the accused. It is further submitted there are no specific allegations against the appellant so far as demand of dowry is concerned which is also evident from the version of F.I.R.

11. It is next submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that prosecution has examined P.W.-1, Brahm Deo Dubey, father of the deceased and P.W.-2 Arti Devi, mother of the deceased, as a witnesses of fact but their testimony has material contradictions, which go to the root of the case. Demand of additional dowry is not proved, even the F.I.R. does not mention any demand of any article as dowry on the part of the appellant.

12. It is borne out from the record and dying declaration that deceased was hospitalised after the occurrence. The deceased died after 7 days of the occurrence during the course of treatment and therefore the conviction of accused under section 302 of I.P.C. was not warranted.

13. After the aforesaid arguments, learned counsel for the appellant submits that he would press the appeal only for quantum of sentence and it is also submitted that learned trial court has awarded very severe punishment of life imprisonment while it is proved that there was no torture either mental or physical on the part of the accused-appellant, which is finding returned by the court below.

14. It is further submitted that death of the deceased was due to septicaemia and therefore the punishment be converted from 302 to 304 Part-I in view of the recent decisions of Apex Court in Khokan @ Khokhan Vishwas Vs. State of Chhattisgarh 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 73, State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Subhash Alias Pappu 2022 0 Supreme (SC) 260 and Smt. Sudha and Another Vs. State of U.P. 2021 0 Supreme (All) 1220 cited by learned counsel for the appellant.

15. Learned A.G.A. for the State has vehemently objected to the submissions of learned counsel for the accused-appellant and submitted that death of deceased had taken place within 7 years of her marriage. It is also submitted that even the death was caused due to burn injuries which is covered within the category of dowry death. Learned trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that the court below has given cogent and sufficient reasons for awarding punishment of life imprisonment which does not require any interference by this Court

"1) What is your name ?
Priyanka Sharma
2) Age ?
25Yrs
3) Where do you live ?
Dadri, U.P.
4) How long were you married ?
Since 14th July, 2010
5) Do you have any children ?
8 month old child (Shaurya) and pregnant for 2 months
6) name of your husband ?
Sonu Sharma
7) who do you live with ?
I live with my husband and in-laws
8) What happened after yours marriage ?
First two months were good but latter we started having quarrels. My, husband started beating me as I opposed him from having liquor. These quarrels became big in course of time
9) How did the burning happen ?
On 07.11.11 at around 0800 pm I had a quarrel with my husband. He beat me up very badly and took out oil from his bike and poured over me. I tried to oppose but he pushed me to the stove on which milk was being boiled and I caught fire. My sister (neha) and brother-in-law (bhumesh) were in another room in the house. My sister and brother-in-law thought that we were only quarrelling but when I started shouting they came and stopped the fire with clothes and blankets."

17. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that dying declaration is doubtful and not corroborated by witnesses of fact, hence, it cannot be the sole basis of conviction. Legal position of dying declaration to be the sole basis of conviction is that it can be done so if it is not tutored, made voluntarily and is wholly reliable. In this regard, Hon'ble Apex Court has summarized the law regarding dying declaration in Lakhan vs. State of Madhya Pradesh [(2010) 8 Supreme Court Cases 514], in this case, Hon'ble Apex Court held that the doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in the legal maxim nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire, which means, "a man will not meet his Maker with a lie in his mouth". The doctrine of dying declaration is enshrined in Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872, as an exception to the general rule contained in Section 60 of Evidence Act, which provides that oral evidence in all cases must be directed, i.e., it must be the evidence of a witness, who says he saw it. The dying declaration is, in fact, the statement of a person, who cannot be called as witness and, therefore, cannot be cross-examined. Such statements themselves are relevant facts in certain cases.

18. The law on the issue of dying declaration can be summarized to the effect that in case the court comes to the conclusion that the dying declaration is true and reliable, has been recorded by a person at a time when the deceased was fit physically and mentally to make the declaration and it has not been made under any tutoring/duress/prompting; it can be the sole basis for recording conviction. In such an eventuality no corroboration is required. It is also held by Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid case, that a dying declaration recorded by a competent Magistrate would stand on a much higher footing than the declaration recorded by office of lower rank, for the reason that the competent Magistrate has no axe to grind against the person named in the dying declaration of the victim.

19. Deceased survived for 7 days after the incident took place. Her dying declaration was recorded by Krishna Mohan Uppu, District Magistrate after obtaining the certificate of medical fitness from the concerned doctor. This dying declaration was proved by PW-5, Krishna Mohan Uppu, District Magistrate. These witnesses have absolutely independent witnesses. In the wake of aforesaid judgments of Lakhan (supra), dying declaration cannot be disbelieved, if it inspires confidence. On reliability of dying declaration and acting on it without corroboration, Hon'ble Apex Court held in Krishan vs. State of Haryana [(2013) 3 Supreme Court Cases 280] that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. Hence, in order to pass the test reliability, a dying declaration has to be subjected to a very close scrutiny, keeping in view the fact that the statement has been made in the absence of the accused, who had no opportunity of testing the veracity of the statement by cross-examination. But once, the court has come to the conclusion that the dying declaration was the truthful version as to the circumstance of the death and the assailants of the victim, there is no question of further corroboration.

20. In Ramilaben Hasmukhbhai Khristi vs. State of Gujarat, [(2002) 7 SCC 56], the Hon'ble Apex Court held that under the law, dying declaration can form the sole basis of conviction, if it is free from any kind of doubt and it has been recorded in the manner as provided under the law. It may not be necessary to look for corroboration of the dying declaration. As envisaged, a dying declaration is generally to be recorded by an Executive Magistrate with the certificate of a medical doctor about the mental fitness of the declarant to make the statement. It may be in the from of question and answer and the answers be written in the words of the person making the declaration. But the court cannot be too technical and in substance if it feels convinced about the trustworthiness of the statement which may inspire confidence such a dying declaration can be acted upon without any corroboration.

21. From the above precedents, it clearly emerges that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused when such dying declaration is true, reliable and has been recorded in accordance with established practice and principles and if it is recorded so then there cannot be any challenge regarding its correctness and authenticity.

22. In dying deceleration of the deceased, it is also relevant to note that deceased died after four days of recording it. It means that she remains alive for four days after making dying declaration, therefore, truthfulness of dying declaration can further be evaluated from the fact that she survived for four days. After making it from which it can reasonably be that inferred she was in a fit mental condition to make the statement at the relevant time.

23. In this regard, we have to analyse the theory of punishment prevailing in India as to whether the case would be one causing murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

24. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 of I.P.C. of the Indian Penal Code should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted as punishment under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

"299. Culpable homicide: Whoever causes death by doing an act with the intention of causing death, or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death, commits the offence of culpable homicide."

25. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts lose sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections and allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.C. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

26. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

27. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

28. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in cases titled Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

29. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

30. Since the learned counsel for the appellant has not pressed the appeal on its merit, however, after perusal of entire evidence on record and judgment of the trial court, we consider that the conviction of the appellant requires to be upheld but whether under section 304 part-I & 2 or section 302 I.P.C. will have to be decided.

31. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

32. Perusal of record goes to show that motive is absent for causing death of the deceased by the appellant as it is evident from the statement of P.W.1 and P.W.3. The allegation of demand of dowry was also not proved by the prosecution as P.W.2 mother of the deceased in her statement herself admitted that the deceased never made any complaint about her husband or about his family members. Therefore, only on the basis of dying declaration, learned trial court has awarded very harsh and severe punishment, which is life imprisonment.

33. Keeping overall facts and circumstances of this case, in our opinion, ends of justice would be met if the sentence is reduced to the period of 10 years under Section 304 part-I of I.P.C. Fine imposed is reduced to Rs.5,000/- and sentence in default payment of fine is also maintained.

34. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed, as modified above.

35. Record be sent to trial court immediately.

THE HON'BLE RAMESH SINHA, J.

THE HON'BLE MRS. RENU AGARWAL, J.

Capital Case No. 1 of 2018
connected with
Crl. Appeal No. 1004 of 2018

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Govind Pasi ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Govt. Advocate

Counsel for the Respondents:
Manish Bajpai

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Circumstantial Evidence- "Last Seen Theory"- Prosecution proved last seen evidence. The chain of circumstances is also closely related and proves that the victim was going to school and the accused was near the field of Shri Pal and when the deceased "X' reached near the field, the convicted appellant Govind Pasi lifted her in her arms and moved towards the filed. Thereafter, she was found dead in the field of Shripal.

For proving the theory of last seeing the deceased in the company as one of the relevant links in the chain of circumstances, it has to be proved by the prosecution that the time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3 - It has been further emphasized that if discrepancies in the depositions are minor, that that witnesses contradict themselves during their testimonies as opposed to their previous police statements what is important is that the nature of contradictions.

Settled law that minor contradictions, improvements and embellishments in the testimony of the witnesses are to be ignored unless the contradictions are major and go to the root of the case of the prosecution.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 8- Insofar as the question of motive is concerned in the case of circumstantial evidence the prosecution has to prove the motive behind the crime but in cases of sexual assault motive loses its importance to be proved. Besides, the motive is something in the mind of accused which is not always possible to be proved by prosecution. Apparently accused/appellant raped the deceased who was a ten year oLd girl to satisfy his lust and murdered her in order to suppress the evidence against him- In case of circumstantial evidence motive assumes importance and it holds one of the link in the chain of circumstances however failure to provide motive is not fatal by itself.

Although motive is one of the relevant links in a case resting upon circumstantial evidence, but in cases involving sexual assault motive can merely be lust and hence even if not proved, the same would not be fatal for the prosecution.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872, Section 3- Section 134 - Evidence of relative witness cannot be brushed aside only for the reason that he is related to the complainant if they inspire confidence to the level of independent, impartial, cogent and consistent witness.

Where the testimony of a person related to the deceased is found to be cogent and credible then the same is to be relied upon by the court.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- The prosecution established a complete chain which leads to the conclusion that only convicted appellant can commit the alleged crime and none other than the convicted appellant can be suspected to have committed this crime similarly every hypothesis suggesting innocence of appellant is ruled out by such evidence and the irresistible inference which follows is his guilt.

Settled law that in a case of circumstantial evidence it is incumbent upon the prosecution to connect all the links of the circumstances in such a manner that the only inescapable conclusion is the guilt of the accused and no other.

Death Sentence - Proportionate Punishment- Aggravating and Mitigating Circumstances- One indisputed statement of law follows that is is neither possible nor prudent to state any universal formula which apply to all the cases of criminology where capital punishment has been prescribed. Thus, the Court must examine each case on its facts, in the light of enunciated principles and before option for death penalty, the circumstances of the offender are also required to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the crime for the reason that life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception-The convict/ appellant committed the crime which is abominable, vicious and ferocious in nature and has caused scar on the society. If crime is said to be of such a brutal, depraved or heinous nature so as to fall in the category of rarest of rare, he must be adequately punished for that. But we have to consider the circumstances of accused also before awarding punishment. Convict/appellant was of 20 years of age at the time of commission of crime now he has dependents in the form of wife and children. There is no evidence that the accused committed the crime with pre-planning or pre-ponderance. There is no evidence on record that there is no possibility of improvement in the conduct of the accused. No such evidence is adduced in the trial court that the accused is a hardened criminal. No criminal history of the appellant is stated during the trial- The instant case does not fall in the category of rarest of rare case warranting capital punishment. Before proceeding further, it would be pertinent to mention that death penalty is an exception only when life imprisonment would be inadequate to the crime. Therefore, the death sentence awarded to the convict under Section 302 IPC is liable to be commuted into life imprisonment which will accomplish the ends of justice.

Settled law that life imprisonment is the rule and death penalty is the exception hence, every case has to be considered on its own facts and circumstances for determining the quantum of punishment and even where the offence committed is heinous and has shocked the collective conscience of the society but the circumstances of the accused are also relevant for awarding the punishment. Accordingly, death sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. (Para 36, 43, 44, 45, 48, 50, 56, 64, 65)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Renu Agarwal, J.)

1. The capital reference No. 1 of 2018 arises out of reference made by learned trial court under Section 366 (1) of Cr.P.C, 1973 to this Court for confirmation of death sentence awarded to appellant Govind Pasi.

2. The Criminal Appeal No. 1004 of 2018 has also been preferred by the convict appellant Govind Pasi s/o Hari Prasad Pasi R/o Gram Kumbh Police Station Gyanatnagar District Faizabad against the judgment and order dated 17. 5.2018 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, F.T.C.-I, Faizabad in Sessions Trial No. 122 of 2013 State Vs. Govind Pasi, arising out of Case Crime No. 27 of 2013 Police Station Inayat Nagar District Faizabad vide which the accused has been convicted and punished with imprisonment for life and fine of Rs. 20,000/- under Section 376 IPC, imprisonment for the period of three months in default of payment of fine and has been convicted and punished with death penalty with 20,000/- fine under Section 302 IPC.

3. The facts of the case in brief are that:

4. An FIR was lodged by the complainant Jamuna Prasad on 29.01.2013 that his niece aged about 10 years went to school but did not return. On search the dead body of deceased "X' was found in the field at about 7:30 p.m. Her scarf was wrapped around her neck.

5. On the basis of written report in Police Station Inayat Nagar District Faizabad, a case was registered as Case Crime No. 27 of 2013 on the same day i.e. on 29.01.2013 at about 08:30 p.m. against some unknown persons under Section 302 IPC and the same was entered in general diary No. 38 at 20:30 p.m. The investigation was entrusted upon the Station House Officer, Ajay Prakash Mishra who recorded the statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C, inspected the spot and prepared the site plan, collected plain and blood contained earth, prepared recovery memo and prepared recovery memo of under-garments, leggings (Pajama), shoes and school bag of the deceased "X' and conducted inquest and prepared inquest report and all the relevant papers relating to the postmortem of the deceased "X'. The postmortem of the deceased "X' was conducted by Dr. S.K. Tripathi.

6. The name of convicted/appellant Govind Pasi came into light during investigation. The arrest and recovery memo of under-garments of accused were also prepared. The Investigating Officer collected evidences against the convicted/ appellant Govind Pasi and filed the chargesheet in the Court.

7. The accused was provided copies of the police papers in compliance of the provisions of Section 207 Cr.P.C and the concerned court committed the case to the Court of Session.

8. The charges were framed against the convicted/appellant Govind Pasi under Section 302, 376 IPC and read over to convicted/ appellant Govind Pasi. The accused abjured himself from charges and claimed to be tried.

9. The prosecution, in order to prove its case produced 11 witnesses:

(A) P.W.-1 Jamuna Prasad-complainant;

(B) P.W. -2 Ram Prakash, last seen witness of the deceased "X';

(C) P.W.-3-Phool Chand, who has seen the deceased "X' being carried by the appellant Govind Pasi towards the sugarcane field of Shri Pal.

(D) P.W.-4- Vinod Kumar, who is also the witness of fact and said to have seen the deceased "X' when she was running towards her school to the north west near the grove.

(E) P.W.-5 Dr. S.K. Tripathi, who assisted Dr. S.P. Bansal in conducting post mortem of deceased. P.W.-5 deposed that the dead body of the deceased was identified by Jamuna Prasad who revealed his identity as the uncle of the deceased. The postmortem was conducted at 8:15 a.m. on 30.01.2013. P.W.-5 also narrated the ante mortem injuries found on the body of the deceased.

(F) P.W.-6 constable clerk Rahul Singh proved the Chik report No. 7/13. P.W-6 prepared and signed the chik report in his hand writing. The chik report is exhibited (Ka-3).

(G) P.W-7 Uma Shankar Yadav, Principal of M.D. Public School deposed that the name of the deceased "X' was entered in register prepared in the school in due course of business and the name of the deceased "X' was registered at page number 42 in the register. Her name was deleted by red pen after her death.

(H) P.W.-8 Dinesh Kumar is the witness of recovery of the under- garments of the appellant recovered at the pointing out of the appellant. He has proved the recovery memo 9A/1 exhibit (Ka-7).

(I) P.W.-9 Raj Kumar Kannojiya is also the witness to recovery of undergarments recovered at the pointing of the appellant from the fields of Shri Pal. He has also corroborated the exhibit (Ka-7).

(J) P.W.-10 Dr. Vipin Kumar Verma, who medically examined the appellant on 31.01.2013 and prepared medico-legal report exhibit (Ka-8).

(K) P.W.-11 Ajay Prakash Mishra, the Investigating Officer of the Case No. 27/13, who recorded the statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C, inspected the spot wherefrom the dead body of the deceased "X' was recovered and prepared the map exhibit (Ka-9). This witness collected blood contained and simple earth and prepared the recovery memo exhibit (Ka-10), and further prepared the recovery memo of under-garments and other materials recovered from the body of the deceased "X' exhibit (Ka-11), recovery memo of black shoes of deceased "X' is exhibit (Ka-12). The Investigating Officer prepared inquest report and other relevant papers relating to postmortem, photo-lash, challan-lash, letter written to CMO, and letter written to R.I. etc (exhibits Ka-14 to Ka-19), site plan of recovery (exhibit Ka-20) and after completing investigation submitted charge-sheet (exhibit Ka-21), in Court.

10. Besides ocular evidence following relevant documents were also produced by the prosecution:-

(a) Written report (exhibit Ka-3),

(b) FIR of case crime No. 27 of 2013 (exhibit Ka-7),

(c) Recovery memo of under-garments of accused (exhibit Ka-7).

(d) Medico-legal report of accused Govind Pasi (exhibit ka-8).

(e) Site plan of Crime No. 27 of 2013 (exhibit Ka-9).

(f) Recovery memo of blood contained and plain earth (exhibit Ka-10).

(g) Recovery memo of undergarments and leggings of deceased "X' (Exhibit Ka-11).

(h) Recovery memo of shoes of deceased "X'(exhibit Ka-12).

(i) Recovery memo of school bag containing copies and books of deceased "X' (exhibit Ka-13).

(j) inquest report (exhibit Ka-14).

(i) The site plan of Crime No. 27 of 2013 (exhibit Ka-20).

11. After completion of ocular and documentary evidence adduced by the prosecution, the statement of accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The appellant denied the allegations levelled against him and stated that he has been falsely implicated in the case. The appellant also denied the recovery of article on his pointing out and the site plan prepared by the Investigating Officer. The appellant stated that he was arrested from his house by showing fabricated recovery from the accused and has falsely been implicated in this case. The medico-legal report is also prepared under the pressure of complainant. All the witnesses are interested witnesses and therefore, their evidence cannot be relied upon.

12. The appellant adduced defence evidence in his favour to rebut the case of prosecution. D.W 1 Bihari Lal appeared in Court and deposed that he is residing in village after his retirement since 31.07.2008. The appellant resides in front of his house. On the relevant date i.e. on 29.01.2013, the accused Govind was sitting with his grand parents in his chappar around the bonfire. Due to cold weather the accused including his grand parents and three sisters were at home.

13. No other witnesses was adduced by the accused in his defence.

14. After hearing the submission of D.G.C and learned counsel for accused and upon perusal of record, learned trial court found that the accused was guilty of offence under Section 376, 302 IPC and sentenced the accused with life imprisonment and Rs. 20,000 as fine under Section 376 IPC further simple imprisonment in default of payment of fine and further sentenced the accused with death penalty and with fine 20,000 under Section 302 IPC.

15. Being aggrieved with the impugned judgment and order of the trial court the accused/appellant has filed this criminal appeal No. 937 of 2015 from jail.

16. Heard Shri Manish Bajpai, learned Amicus Curiae, for the convicted/appellant and Shri Vimal Kumar Srivastava, learned Government Advocate, assisted by Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

17. The learned counsel for the appellant has assailed the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court on the ground that it is neither warranted in law nor on facts. The judgment is perverse and contradictory to the facts on record. The trial court has committed error in the eyes of law. The accused is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the present case due to political rivalry with the help of police. He was not named in the first information report and his name was dragged in the case after the recovery of the dead body. P.W.-3 did not support the prosecution story and has been declared hostile. The case is based on circumstantial evidence and the chain of circumstances is not complete one.

18. No Forensic Science Laboratory report in respect of the alleged recovery of undergarments, semen and blood of the appellant is placed on record. No DNA test has been ever conducted by the prosecution. As per the prosecution story the blood stain spots were found on the alleged recovered undergarments of the appellant as well as on the undergarments of the deceased "X'. They were not send to Forensic Science Laboratory for obtaining report by the prosecution. Semen slide of the appellant was also unable to compete successfully with the semen slide of the deceased "X'. No Forensic Science Laboratory report was obtained to ascertain that the alleged scratch marks, found on the face of the appellant, were caused by the nails of the deceased "X'. The owner of the sugarcane field Shri Pal is not produced in court as a witnesses. The alleged recovery is highly suspicious. There was no material on record before the learned trial court to prove the story of the incident. Therefore, the judgment of the trial court is totally biased against the appellant.

19. Learned trial court has not taken into consideration the evidence of defence witness Bihari Lal who is an independent witness. The learned trial court has given fanciful presumption and reasons in the judgment in favour of the prosecution. There are major contradictions on material points in the statement of prosecution witness of fact and their statement did not inspire any confidence and the same are not reliable and trustworthy. The prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The provisions of section 313 Cr.P.C has not been properly complied with. The investigation of the case is highly tainted. The sentence awarded by the learned trial court against the appellant is too severe. The appellant is a young boy having no criminal history. Therefore by way of this appeal the appellant has prayed for setting aside the judgment and order dated 17/5/2018 passed by the trial court.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the learned trial court has erred in convicting and sentencing the appellant as there is no evidence against him. The prosecution has not proved its version. The post mortem report does not corroborate the version of eye witnesses. He was not named in the FIR which came into the light only after the recovery of the dead body. The sentence awarded by trial court is too severe, therefore, the judgment and sentence passed by trial court is liable to be set aside.

21 To the contrary, learned Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State has argued that the victim was 10 years old and when she was returning from school, the appellant lifted her in his lap, carried her to sugarcane field of Shripal, committed rape and brutally murdered her. She was strangulated by her own scarf which she was wearing on her head at the time of going to school. It is also stated by learned A.G.A that this is a rarest of the rare case where the appellant has murdered 10 years old girl after committing rape therefore the judgment passed by the learned trial court is based on ocular and documentary evidence as well as the recovery of under-garments of the deceased "X' which were recovered at the pointing out of the accused appellant. Therefore the judgment of the trial court is sustainable and is liable to be upheld.

22. We have considered the rival submissions and perused the record of the lower court as well as record of this appeal and gone through the settled case law.

23. In the present matter FIR was lodged by the informant against the unknown person stating that the deceased "X' was his niece. She was studying in M.D. Public School in Class III. On the date of occurrence on 29.01.2013 she went to the school at about 9:30 a.m. but did not return from the school. During search the dead body of the deceased "X' was found in the field of Shripal. She was strangulated by her own scarf.

24. In order to prove the case, the prosecution adduced evidence of P.W.-1 who stated on oath that her niece was studying in M.D. Public School in Class III. She did not return from school at due time and on being searched the dead body was found in the field of Shripal.

25. P.W.-2 deposed in Court and stated that on 29.01.2013 when he was carrying paddy at his horse-cart he saw Govind Pasi standing at the chak road near the sugarcane field and he saw the deceased "X' running towards the school carrying her school bag thereafter P.W.-2 returned his home.

26. P.W.-3 deposed that at about 10 a.m. on 29.01.2013 he was passing through the road and when he reached the chak road near Gurwa Kumbhi he saw the appellant standing in front of sugarcane field of Shripal and the deceased "X' was going towards school via Gorwa Chak Marg. As soon as she reached near the sugar cane field of Shripal, the convict appellant Govind Pasi lifted her in his arms and moved towards the field of Shripal. Thereafter, the P.W.-3 got shaved and went to his duty. Afterwards on his return from duty when he came to know about the death of the deceased "X'. Then he became assured that the incident must have been committed by the accused Govind Pasi and no one else.

27. P.W.-4 stated on oath that when he was returning from defecation on 29.01.2013 at about 10 a.m, he saw the deceased going to school carrying her school bag. The deceased did not return thereafter.

28. P.W.-5 stated on oath that he conducted autopsy on the body of the deceased along with Dr. S.P. Bansal. The dead body of the deceased was brought by Constable Sirajuddin and Constable Angad Verma in the sealed condition. The body was identified by the uncle of the deceased. The whole proceedings of postmortem was videographed. The following ante mortem injuries were found on the body of deceased "X'.

(i) Two contusions on the right side of the face 3cm below the eye, 0.3x0.2cm in lower jaw area.

(iii) Ligature marks 0.8x3 cm on the upper side of the neck on the left side in the middle line.

29. After conducting postmortem both the doctors opined that the cause of death is asphyxia due to strangulation. P.W.-5 collected and prepared vaginal swab slide and sixth left rib for the purposes of DNA test.

30. P.W.-6 Constable Rahul Singh stated that he lodged the FIR on the basis of written report by Jamuna Prasad and reduced in writing the chik report No. 7 of 2013 at about 20:30 p.m. and the chik report (Ka-3) G.D No. 38 as K-4.

31. The P.W.-7 appeared in trial court with the S.R. Register and prove that the name of the deceased was entered at page No. 42 and her name was deleted when she passed away. P.W.-7 further stated that class teacher Sukh Raj Maurya marked absence of deceased in the attendence register on 29.01.2013. The copy of register is produced exhibit Ka-6.

32. P.W.-8 Dinesh Chand Chaurasiya deposed that on 30.01.2013 at 8:30 p.m., Investigating Officer recovered under-garments of appellant Govind Pasi at his pointing out which was hidden near the well situated on the western side of the sugarcane field. The convicted Govind Pasi gave his blood sample, semen and under-garments to Investigating officer who sealed them and prepared recovery memo which was signed by him and by witness Ram Kumar as well as by the accused Govind Pasi which is exhibit Ka-a7. P.W.-9 also corroborated the evidence of P.W.-8.

33. P.W.-10 Dr. Vipin Verma stated on oath that he medically examined the appellant and abrasions were found on the face of the appellant caused by pointed object which were 48 to 72 hours old. The witness also stated that these abrasions may be caused by nails of 10 years old girl. The following injuries were found on the accused appellant:

(1) Multiple abrasion (3.5x 1.5 cms) right side of face 03 cms away from right angle of mouth.

(2) Abrasion (01x0.3 cms) left side of face 3.5 cms away from left angle of mouth.

Duration: 48 to 72 hours.

Opinion: All injuries are caused by some hard and blunt object and simple in nature.

34. It is the case based on circumstantial evidence. Hon'ble Apex Court had laid down certain principles applicable to appreciation of evidence in cases involving circumstantial evidence in Manoj and others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported at 2022 LiveLave (SC) 510:

"149. In one of its earlier decisions this court had in Hanumant v. The State of Madhya Pradesh indicated that the correct approach of courts trying criminal cases involving circumstantial evidence should be that the circumstances alleged, be fully established;all the facts so established should be consistent only with hypothesis of the guilt of the accused; circumstances should be conclusive and of such tendency that they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. This view was followed later in Tufail v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Ram Gopal v. State of Maharashtra. All these and other decisions were revisited in the three-judge bench decision in Sharad Birdi Chand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra and the court enunciated a set of principles that every court trying criminal cases entirely based on circumstantial evidence had to follow.

150. The conclusions recorded by this court in Sarda were listed in Para 152 (which were characterised in Para 153 as "five golden principles").They are extracted below:

"(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr v State of Maharashtra where the following observations were made:

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say. they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

151. These principles have stood the test of time, and the evidence in all criminal cases, have been evaluated in their light, throughout the country. In light of these binding principles this court would now examine whether the circumstances supported by evidence, i.e., those accepted by this court in the previous part of the judgement, was of such conclusion as to stand the test of the five golden principles enunciated in Sarda (supra).

35. P.W.-1 Jamuna Prasad stated that deceased was his niece who was going to school on the fateful day. When she did not return from school at due time, he started search and during search he found the dead body of the deceased in the sugar case field. Her scarf was tied on her neck. Apparently, he presumed that she was murdered. This witness is not the witness of fact rather he proved exhibit-Ka 2. PW-2 in his statement proved the fact that at about 8 to 8:30 a.m. on 29.01.2013, he unloaded paddy in the field of Mata Badan r/o Village Kumbhi situated near government tubewell and loaded rice belonging to Ram Abhilash and delivered the same. As soon as he reached near the field of Shripal he saw convict/appellant Govind Pasi standing there and his bicycle was also lying there. This witness proved the the deceased "X' was running towards the school carrying her bag. When he returned home in the evening, he came to know that the deceased "X' did not return from school and he along with the complainant started searching the deceased "X'. As soon as they reached the place where the accused was standing in the morning and deceased "X' was moving towards the school, the dead body of the deceased "X' was found in the field of Shripal. The body of the deceased "X' was naked and pooled in blood at that time. P.W.-3 also corroborated the testimony of P.W.-2 and stated that he was going to government tube well in village Kumbhi and saw that convicted appellant Govind Pasi standing near the sugarcane field of Shri Pal and the deceased "X' aged about 10 years was going to school via Gorwa Chak Marg. The witnesses also deposed that as soon as the deceased "X' reached near the sugar cane field of Shripal, Govind Pasi lifted her in his arms and went towards the field. Thereafter the witnesses went on his duties and came to know in the evening that the dead body of the deceased "X' was found in the field of Shripal. He firmly believed that this must have been done by convict appellant Govind Pasi.

36. All the prosecution witnesses No. 2 to 4 had seen the accused Govind Pasi standing in front of the sugar cane field of Shripal and the victim running towards her school. P.W.-3 had also proved that the deceased "X' was being taken towards the field by the appellant. P.W.-7 who is the Principal has proved that the victim did not attend the school on the fateful day i.e. on 29.01.2013 which further corroborates that fact that the deceased "X' was picked up by accused-appellant before she reached her school. . She was not seen thereafter by any of the villagers. Thus prosecution proved last seen evidence. The chain of circumstances is also closely related and proves that the victim was going to school and the accused was near the field of Shri Pal and when the deceased "X' reached near the field, the convicted appellant Govind Pasi lifted her in her arms and moved towards the filed. Thereafter, she was found dead in the field of Shripal.

37. In State of U.P. Vs. Satish (2005) 3 Supreme Court Cases page no. 114, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held thus:

" 22. The last-seen theory comes into play where the time-gap between the point of time when the accusd and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible. It would be difficult in some cases to positively establish that the deceased was last seen with the accused when there is a long gap and possibility of other persons coming in between exists. In the absence of any other positive evidence to conclude that the accused and the deceased were last seen together, it would be hazardous to come to a conclusion of guild in those cases. In this case there is positive evidence that the deceased and the accused were seen together by witnesses Pws 3 and 5, in addition to the evidence of PW 2."

38. Duryodhan Rout Vs State of Orissa 2014 (86) ACC 574 Hon'ble Supreme Court has held thus:

"11. The trial court convicted the appellant on the basis of the chain of circumstantial evidence available against the accused. It was found that the accused carried the deceased on his cycle at about 4 pm but returned alone at 5p.m. He confessed to have murdered the deceased before Mulia Bhoi (P.W 5) ..... Thus, the accused was last seen with the deceased. There is nothing to indicate that within one hour, there was any scope for anybody else, other than the accused to commit rape and murder of the deceased. The chain of circumstances of the case thereby leads to the hypothesis that the accused and the accused alone was the author of the crime, and therefore, the trial court rightly convicted the accused under Sections 376 (2) (f)/ 302/201 IPC."

39. In Purna Chandra Kusal Vs. State of Orissa 2012 (78) ACC 957; Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as follows:

"6. We find absolutely no reason to interfere with the conviction of the appellant. In addition to the last seen evidence of P W 5 and PW10, we have the evidence of the recoveries made at the instance of the appellant. The clothes that the appellant and the deceased had been wearing had also been taken into possession by the investigating agency and were found to be stained with human blood. We find, therefore, that the last seen evidence finds full corroboration from the recoveries."

40. We have gone through all the documents and evidence produced in the impugned case by the prosecution. The witness produced by the prosecution unequivocally stated that the girl was seen by the witnesses in the arms of appellant who was carrying the victim towards the sugarcane field of Shri Pal. P.W.-7 deposed that she did not attend the school on that day as per the register and she was not seen by any one in village. It is also pertinent to mention here that in the present case abrasion were also found on the face of the accused. P.W.-10 Dr. Vipin Kumar Verma proved that convict Govind had injuries in the nature of abrasion 3.5 cm x 1.5. cm at the distance of 3 cm from the right side of the face of the appellant and 1.0x0.3 which is found 3.5 cm away from the left side of the lips. The injuries are proved by the doctor during the trial and it is stated that these injuries may be caused to the appellant by nails of 10 years old girl.

41. The accused denied the allegation in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C but did not explain how the injuries on his face were caused. P.W.- 3 though declared hostile in court under cross-examination made by the ADGC, has admitted that the accused confessed in the police station that he committed rape upon the victim and strangulated her.

42. Hon'ble Apex Court held in State of U.P. Vs. Anil Singh reported at (1998) supp SCC 686 that:

"17. It is also our experience that invariably the witnesses add embroidery to prosecution story perhaps for the fear of being disbelieved. But that is no ground to throw the case overboard, if true, in the main. If there is a ring of truth in the main, the case should not be rejected. It is the duty of the court to cull out the nuggets of truth from the evidence unless there is reason to believe that the inconsistencies or falsehood are so glaring as utterly to destroy confidence in the witnesses. It is necessary to remember that a Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. One is as important as the other. Both are public duties which the Judge has to perform"

43. It has been further emphasized that if discrepancies in the depositions are minor, that that witnesses contradict themselves during their testimonies as opposed to their previous police statements what is important is that the nature of contradictions. In Rammi @ Rameshwar Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:

"24. ... Courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witnesses are so incompatible with the credibility of his versions that the Court is justified in jettisoning his evidence. But too serious a view to be adopted on mere variations falling in the narration of an incident (either as between the evidence of two witnesses or as between two statements of the same witness) is an unrealistic approach for judicial scrutiny"

44. Thus in view of the above said facts prosecution has proved complete chain of circumstances to prove the guilt of appellant to the extent that no other conclusion can be arrived at except the guilt of the appellant. There is cogent evidence to prove that the the victim was subjected to rape and murder by convicted appellant only.

45. Insofar as the question of motive is concerned in the case of circumstantial evidence the prosecution has to prove the motive behind the crime but in cases of sexual assault motive looses its importance to be proved. Besides, the motive is something in the mind of accused which is not always possible to be proved by prosecution. Apparently accused/appellant raped the deceased who was a ten year od girl to satisfy his lust and murdered her in order to suppress the evidence against him.

46. In the case of State of U.P. Vs. Krishanpal 2008 (16) SCC 73 it has been held by the Supreme Court that the motive can be considered as a circumstances which is relevant for evidence. Similarly in the case of Shriaji Genu Mohite Vs. State of Maharashtra 1973 Supreme Court 55 it is observed by the Supreme Court that in case the prosecution is not able to discover motive the same shall not reflect upon the credibility of the witness proved to be reliable eyewitnesses. However, the evidence as to motive would not do away a case where the case is dependent upon circumstantial evidence, said evidence would fall as one of the link in the chain of circumstantial evidence.

47. In the case of Amitava Benerjee @ Amit @ Bappa Banerjee Vs. State of West Bengal AIR 2011 Supreme Court 2193, it was held by Apex Court that the motive for commission of offence no doubt assumes greater importance in cases of circumstantial evidence than those of direct evidence yet failure to prove motive in cases rest on circumstantial evidence is not fatal by itself.

48. In view of the aforesaid pronouncement by the Supreme Court it is apparent that in case of circumstantial evidence motive assumes importance and it holds one of the link in the chain of circumstances however failure to provide motive is not fatal by itself.

49. In the instant case, as stated above, it has been established that P.W.-2 proved that the appellant was standing on the way of school and P.W.-3 though declared hostile yet stated that the accused confessed his crime to Sub-Inspector in his presence. P.W-4 has also proved the fact he saw the victim going to school victim was not seen thereafter. P.W.-7 proved her absence in school. Injuries of the victim are proved and the injuries sustained by the appellant are not explained.

50. Thus the prosecution established a complete chain which leads to the conclusion that only convicted appellant can commit the alleged crime and none other than the convicted appellant can be suspected to have committed this crime similarly every hypothesis suggesting innocence of appellant is ruled out by such evidence and the irresistible inference which follows is his guilt.

51. In Darga Ram Vs. State of Rajasthan 2015 (88) ACC 634, Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down that if recovery is made at the pointing out of the accused then this type of recovery shall be admissible in evidence under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. Thus in view of the above the recovery of under-garments at the pointing out of the convict is covered by Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act and admissible in evidence. The prosecution has also proved by medical evidence that private parts of the victim were found pooled in blood. Vagina was torned, Hymen was torned, stool was coming out of anus and abrasion was present 10 cm below the right eye 0.3x 0.2 cm and 0.3 x 02 cm on the lower jaw. Five abrasions were also found on the face below the left eye extended to the neck and cheek and ligature marks 0.8x3 cm were found on midline of neck. Dead body was recovered with her scarf tied around her neck which also corroborates the prosecution case that she was murdered by strangulation with her scarf after rape.

52. Learned counsel for the convicted appellant argued that all witnesses of fact are relative of the deceased "X' therefore they are highly interested witnesses hence their evidence could not be relied upon. This argument has no force. It is a well settled law that evidence of relative witness cannot be brushed aside only for the reason that he is related to the complainant if they inspire confidence to the level of independent, impartial, cogent and consistent witness.

53. In Kartik Malhar Vs. State of Bihar (1996) 1 SCC 614, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

"We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently, being a partisan witnesses, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dilip Singh's case (supra) in which this Court expressed its surprise over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the members of the Bar that relative were not independent witnesses. Speaking through Vivian Bose, J., the Court observed :

We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of High Court that the testimony of the two eye-witnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rules. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this Court endeavoured to dispel in Rameshwar v. The State of Rajasthan [1952] SCR 377= AIR 1952 SC 54. We find, however, that it is unfortunately still persist, if not in the judgments of the Courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel."

In this case, the Court further observed as under:

"A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause such an enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. ` In another case of Mohd. Rojali Versus State of Assam: (2019) 19 SCC 567*, the Hon'ble Apex Court in this regard has held as under:-*

"As regards the contention that all the eyewitnesses are close relatives of the deceased, it is by now wellsettled that a related witness cannot be said to be an "interested' witnesses merely by virtue of being a relative of the victim. This court has elucidated the difference between "interested' and " related' witness in a plethora of cases, stating that a witness may be called interested only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation, which in the context of a criminal case would mean that the witness has a direct or indirect interest in seeing the accused punished due to prior enmity or other reasons, and thus has a motive to falsely implicate the accused (for instance, see State of Rajasthan v. Kalki (1981) 2 SCC 752; Amit v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2012) 4 Scc 107; and Gangabhavani v. Rayapati Venkat Reddy, (2013) 15 SCC 298). Recently, this difference was reiterated in Ganapathi v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2018) 5 SCC 549, in the following erms, by referring to the three Judge bench decision in State of Rajasthan v. Kalki (supra): "14. "Related" is not equivalent to "interested". A witness may be called "interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of the case cannot be said to be "interested"."

11. In criminal cases, it is often the case that the offence is witnessed by a close relative of the victim, whose presence on the scene of the offence would be natural. The evidence of such a witness cannot automatically be discarded by labelling the witness as interested. Indeed, one of the earliest statements with respect to interested witnesses in criminal case was made by this Court in Dalip Singh v. State of Panjab 1954 SCR 145*, wherein this Court observed:*

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily, a close relative would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person..."

12. In case of related witness, the Court may not treat his or her testimony as inherently tainted, and needs to ensure only that the evidence is inherently reliable, probable, cogent and conistent. We may refer to the observations of this Court in Jayabalan v. Union Territory of Pondicherry, (2010) 1 SCC 199;

"23. We are of the considered view that in cases where the Court is called upon to deal with the evidence of the interested witnesses, the approach of the Court while appreciating the evidence of such witnesses must not be pedantic. The Court must be cautious in appreciating and accepting the evidence given by the interested witnesses but the Court must not be suspicious of such evidence. The primary endeavour of the Court must be to look for consistency. The evidence of a witnesses cannot be ignored or shown out solely because it comes from the mouth of a person who is closely related to the victim."

54. Having considered the fact and circumstances and the material in the record, we are of the view that the prosecution has established the case of circumstantial evidence beyond reasonable doubt and the chain is also complete so as to suggest that only accused can commit the crime and there is no possibility that can lead to the conclusion that any person other than the accused can commit this crime. After due consideration of evidence on record we are of the view that the trial court has rightly convicted the appellant Govind Pasi and there is no legal infirmity in the judgment with regard to the conviction of the convict appellant.

55. Now, while upholding the conviction of the convict-appellant, we proceed to consider the question of death sentence awarded by him by the trial court under Section 302 IPC.

56. Capital punishment has been the subject-matter of great social and judicial discussion and catechism. From whatever point of view it is examined, one indisputed statement of law follows that is is neither possible nor prudent to state any universal formula which apply to all the cases of criminology where capital punishment has been prescribed. Thus, the Court must examine each case on its facts, in the light of enunciated principles and before option for death penalty, the circumstances of the offender are also required to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the crime for the reason that life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception.

57. Before going into the legality and propriety of question of sentence imposed upon the convict/appellant, it is desirable to look at the various decisions of the Apex court in the matter. The decision in Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab reported in AIR 1980 SC 898 pronounced by the Constitutional Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court stands first among the class making a detailed discussion after the amendment of Cr.P.C in 1974. In this case, the Apex Court had held that provision of death penalty was an alternative punishment for murder and is not violative of Article 19 of the Constitution of India. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are relevant and the same are reproduced herein below:-

"132. To sum up, the question whether or not death penalty serves any penological purpose is a difficult, complex and intractable issue. It has evoked strong, divergent views. For the purpose of testing the constitutionality of the impugned provision as to death penalty in Section 302 of the penal Code on the ground of reasonableness in the light of Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution, it is not necessary for us to express any categorical opinion, one way or the other, as to which of these two antithetical views, held by the Abolitionists and Retentionists, is correct. It is sufficient to say that the very fact that persons of reason, learning and light are rationally and deeply divided in their opinion on this issue, is a ground among others, for rejecting the petitioners argument that retention of death penalty in the impugned provision, is totally devoid of reason and purpose. If, notwithstanding the view of the Abolitionists to the contrary, a very large segment of people, the world over, including sociologists, legislators, jurists, judges and administrators still firmly believe in the worth and necessity of capital punishment for the protection of society, in the perspective of prevailing crime conditions in India, contemporary public opinion channelized through the people's representatives in Parliament, has repeatedly in the last three decades, rejected all attempts, including the one made recently, to abolish or specifically restrict the area of death penalty, if death penalty is still a recognised legal sanction for murder or some types of murder in most of the civilised countries in the world, if the farmers of the Indian Constitution were fully aware-- as we shall presently show they were-- of the existence of death penalty as punishment for murder, under the Indian Penal code, if the 35th Report and subsequent reports of the Law Commission suggesting retention of death penalty, and recommending revision of the Criminal Procedure Code and the insertion of the new Sections 235(2) and 354(3) in that code providing for presentence hearing and sentencing procedure on conviction for murder and other capital offences were before the Parliament and presumably considered by it when in 1972-1973 it took up revision of the Code of 1898 and replaced it by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, it is not possible to hold that the provision of death penalty as an alternative punishment for murder, in Section 302 of the Penal Code is unreasonable and not in the public interest. We would, therefore, conclude that the impugned provision in Section 302, violates neither the letter nor the ethos of Article 19.

200. Drawing upon the penal statutes of the States in U.S.A framed after Furman vs. Georgia, in general, and Clauses 2(a), (b), (c) and (d) of the Indian Penal code (Amendment) Bill passed in 1978 by the Rajya Sabha, in particular, Dr. Chitale has suggested these "aggravating circumstances":

Aggravating circumstances: A court may however, in the following cases impose the penalty of death in its discretion:

(a) if the murder has been committed after previous planning and involves extreme brutality; or

(b) if the murder involves exceptional depravity; or

(c) if the murder is of a member of any of the armed forces of the Union or of a member of any police force or of any public servant and was committed-

(i) while such member or public servant was on duty; or

(d) if the murder is of a person who had acted in the lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 of the CrPC, 1973 or who had rendered assistance to a Magistrate or a police officer demanding his aid or requiring his assistance under Section 37 and Section 129 of the said Code.

201. Stated broadly, there can be no objection to the acceptance of these indicators but as we have indicated already, we would prefer not to fetter judicial discretion by attempting to make an exhaustive enumeration one way or the other.

204. Dr. Chitaley has suggested these mitigating factors:

"Mitigating circumstances";- in the exercise of its discretion in the above cases, the Court shall take into account the following circumstances:

(1) That the offence was committed under the influence of extreme mental or emotional disturbance.

(2) The age of the accused. It the accused is young or old, he shall not be sentenced to death.

(3) The probability that the accused would not commit criminal acts of violence as would constitute a continuing threat to society.

(4) The probability that the accused can be reformed and rehabilitated. The State shall by evidence prove that the accused does not satisfy the condition 3 and 4 above.

(5) That in the facts and circumstances of the case the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) That the accused acted under the duress or domination of another person.

(7) That the conditional of the accused showed that he was mentally defective and that the said defect unpaired his capacity to appreciate the criminality of his conduct.

207. We will do no more than to say that these are undoubtedly relevant circumstances and must be given great weight in the determination of the sentence.

209. There are numerous other circumstances justifying the passing of the lighter sentence; as there are countervailing circumstances of aggravation. "We cannot obviously feed into a judicial computer all such situations since they are astrological imponderables and an imperfect and undulating society. "Nonetheless, it cannot be over-emphasised that the scope and concept of mitigating factors in the area of death penalty must receive a liberal and expansive construction by the courts in accord with the sentencing policy writ large in Section 354 (3). Judges should never be blood thirsty. Hanging of murders has never been too good for them. Facts and figures albeit incomplete, furnished by the Union of India , show that the past Courts have inflicted the extreme penalty with extreme infrequency- a fact which attests to the caution and compassion which they have always brought to bear on the exercise of their sentencing discretion in so grave a matter. It is, therefore, imperative to voice the concern that courts, aided by the broad illustrative guidelines indicated by us, will discharge the onerous function with evermore scrupulous care and humane concern, directed along the high-road of legislative police outlined in Section 354 (3) viz., that for persons convicted of murder, life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence an exception. A real and abiding concern for the dignity of human life through law's instrumentality. That ought not to be done save the rarest of rare cases when the alternative option is unquestionable foreclosed."

58. In Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab reported in (1983) 3 SCC 470, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has made an attempt to cull out certain aggravating and mitigating circumstances and it has been held that it was only in "rarest of rare' cases, when the collective conscience of the community is to shocked that it will expect the holders of the judicial power center to inflict death penalty irrespective of their personal opinion as regards desirability or otherwise of retaining death penalty. In this Judgment the Hon'be Supreme Court has summarized the instances on which death sentence may be imposed, which reads thus:

(i) The extreme penalty of death need not be inflicted except in gravest cases of extreme culpability;

(ii) Before option for the death penalty the circumstances of the "offender' also requires to be taken into consideration along with the circumstances of the "crime'.

(iii) Life imprisonment is the rule and death sentence is an exception. In other words death sentence must be imposed only when life imprisonment appears to be an altogether inadequate punishment having regard to the relevant circumstances of the crime, and provided, and only provided, the option to impose sentence of imprisonment for life cannot be conscientiously exercised having regard to the nature and circumstances of the crime and all the relevant circumstances;

(iv) A balance-sheet of aggravating and mitigating circumstances has to be drawn up and in doing so the mitigating circumstances has to be accorded full weightage and a just balance has to be struck between the aggravating and the mitigating circumstances before the option is exercised."

39. In order to apply these guidelines inter alia the following question may be asked and answered:

(a) Is there something uncommon about the crime which renders sentence of imprisonment for life inadequate and calls for a death sentence?

(b) Are the circumstances of the crime such that there is no alternative but to impose death sentence even after according maximum weightage to the mitigating circumstances which speak in favour of the offender?

40. If upon taking an overall global view of all the circumstances in the light of the aforesaid proposition and taking into account the answers to the questions posed herein above, the circumstances of the case are such that death sentence is warranted, the court would proceed to do so."

(Emphasis supplied)

"76. The law enunciated by this Court in its recent judgments, as already noticed, adds and elaborates the principles that were stated in the case of Bachan Singh (supra) and thereafter, in the case of Machhi Singh, (supra). The aforesaid judgments, primarily dissect these principles into two different compartments- one being the "aggravating circumstances" while the other being the "mitigating circumstances". The Court would consider the cumulative effect of both these aspect and normally, it may not be very appropriate for the Court to decide the most significant aspect of sentencing policy with reference to the classes under any of the following beads while completely ignoring other classes under other heads. To balance the two is the primary duty of the Court. It will be appropriate for the Court to come to a final conclusion upon balancing the exercise that would help to administer the criminal justice system better and provide an effective and meaningful reasoning by the Court as contemplated under Section 354 (3) of Cr.P.C.

Aggravating Circumstances:

(1) The offences relating to the commission of heinous crime like murder, rape, armed dacoity, kidnapping etc. By the accused with prior record of conviction for capital felony or offences committed by the person having a substantial history of serious assaults and criminal convicts.

(2) The offence was committed while the offender was engaged in the commission of another serious offence.

(3) The offence was committed with the intention to create a fear psychosis in the public at large and was committed in a public place by a weapon or device which clearly could be hazardous to the life of more than one person.

(4) The offence of murder was committed for ransom or like offences to receive money or monetary benefits.

(5) Hired killings.

(6) The offence was committed outrageously for want only while involving inhumane treatment and torture to the victim.

(7) The offence was committed by a person while in lawful custody.

(8) The murder or the offence was committed to prevent a person lawfully carrying out his duty like arrest or custody in a place of lawful confinement of himself or another. For instance, murder is of a person who had acted in lawful discharge of his duty under Section 43 Cr.P.C.

(9) When the crime is enormous in proportion like making an attempt of murder of the entire family or members of a particular community.

(10) When the victim is innocent, helpless or a person relies upon the trust of relationship and social norms, like a child, helpless woman, a daughter or a niece staying with a father/uncle and is inflicted with the crime by such a trusted person.

(11) When murder is committed for a motive evidences total depravity and meanness.

(12) When there is a cold blooded murder with provocation.

(13) The crime is committed so brutally that it pricks or shocks not only the judical conscience but even the conscience of the society.

Mitigating Circumstances:

(1) The manner and circumstances under which the offence was committed, for example, extreme mental or emotional disturbance or extreme provocation in contradistinction to all these situations in normal course.

(2) The age of the accused is a relevant consideration but not a determinative factor by itself.

(3) The chances of the accused of not indulging in commission of the crime again and the probability of the accused being reformed and rehabilitated.

(4) The condition of the accused shows that he was mentally defective and the defect impaired his capacity to appreciate the circumstances of his criminal conduct.

(5) The circumstances which, in normal course of life, would render such behaviour possible and cold have the effect of giving rise to mental imbalance in that given situation like persistent harassment or, in fact, leading to such a peak of human behaviour that, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the accused believed that he was morally justified in committing the offence.

(6) Where the Court upon proper appreciation of evidence is of the view that the crime was not committed in a pre-ordained manner and the death resulted in the course of commission of another crime and that there was a possibility of it being construed as consequences to the commission of the primary crime.

(7) Where it is absolutely unsafe to rely upon the testimony of a sole eye witness though prosecution has brought home the guilty of the accused."

60. In the matter of Dharam Deo Yadav Vs. State of U.P. reported in (2014) 5 SCC 509, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held thus:

"36. We may not consider whether the case falls under the category of rarest of the rare case so as to award death sentence for which, as already held, in Shankar Kisanrao Khade vs. State of Maharashtra (2013) 5 SCC 546 this Court laid down three tests, namely, Crime Test, Criminal Test and RR test. So far as the present case is concerned, both the Crime Test and Criminal Test have been satisfied as against the accused. Learned counsel appearing for the accused, however, submitted that he had no previous criminal records and that apart from the circumstantial evidence, there is no eye-witness in the above case, and hence, the manner in which the crime was committed is not in evidence. Consequently, it was pointed out that it would not be possible for this Court to come to the conclusion that the crime was committed in a barbaric manner and, hence the instant case would fall under the category of rarest of rare. We find some force in that contention.

Taking in consideration all aspect of the matter, we are of the view that, due to lack of any evidence with regard to the manner in which the crime was committed, the case will not fall under the category of the rarest of rare case.

Consequently, we are inclined to commute the death sentence to life and award 20 years of rigorous imprisonment, over and above the period already undergone by the accused, without any remission, which, in our view, would meet the ends of justice.

61. In Kalu Khan v. State of Rajasthan report in (2015) 16 SCC 492, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held that:-

"30. In Mahesh Dhanaji Shinde v. State of Maharashtra, the conviction of the appellant-accused was upheld keeping in view that the circumstantial evidence pointed only in the direction of their guilt given that the modus operandi of the crime, homicidal death, identity of 9 of 10 victims, last seen theory and other incriminating circumstances were proved.

However, the Court has thought it fit to commute the sentence of death to imprisonment for life considering the age, socio-economic conditions, custodial behaviour of the appellant-accused persons and that the case was entirely based on circumstantial evidence. This Court has placed reliance on the observations in Sunil Dutt Sharma Vs. State (Govt. Of NCT of Delhi) as follows: (Mahest Dhanaji case SCC p. 314, para 35)

"35. In a recent pronouncement in Sunil Dutt Sharma v. State (Govt. Of NCT of Delhi), it has been observed by this Court that the principles of sentencing in our country are fairly well settled- the difficulty is not in identifying such principles but lies in the application thereof. Such application, we may respectfully add, is a matter of judicial expertise and experience where judicial wisdom must search for an answer to the vexed question-- whether the option of life sentence is unquestionably foreclosed? The unbiased and trained judicial mind free from all prejudices and notions is the only asset which would guide the Judge to reach the "truth'."

62. In the light of the proposition of law we are required to scrutinize the case in hand mainly to find out whether the case was in the category of rarest of the rare case and imposition of death penalty would be the only appropriate sentence and the imposition of life imprisonment, which is a rule, would not be adequate to meet the ends of justice. While awarding death sentence to the appellant, the trial court has drawn the conclusion that the convicted has committed rape of 10 years old innocent child hence she sustained grievous injuries on her private parts and was brutally murdered by appellant the same come under the category of rarest of the rare case.

63. From the perusal of the above it is clear that the aggravated circumstances assessed by the trial court for awarding the extreme penalty of death are that the crime was committed with an innocent child of 10 years who was living alone with her maternal grandparents (Nana and Nani) and her parents were living in Delhi for livelihood of family. The special reason assigned by the trial court held that the balance sheet of gravity and mitigating circumstances heavily weight against the appellant making it the rarest of rare case and consequently awarded death sentence.

64. However, the convict/ appellant committed the crime which is abominable, vicious and ferocious in nature and has caused scar on the society. If crime is said to be of such a brutal, depraved or heinous nature so as to fall in the category of rarest of rare, he must be adequately punished for that. But we have to consider the circumstances of accused also before awarding punishment. Convict/appellant was of 20 years of age at the time of commission of crime now he has dependents in the form of wife and children. There is no evidence that the accused committed the crime with pre-planning or pre-ponderance. There is no evidence on record that there is no possibility of improvement in the conduct of the accused. No such evidence is adduced in the trial court that the accused is a hardened criminal. No criminal history of the appellant is stated during the trial.

65. Hence after considering the above facts and circumstances we are of the view that each link in the chain of circumstantial evidence has been adequately established by prosecution and conviction is hereby affirmed but that the instant case does not fall in the category of rarest of rare case warranting capital punishment. Before proceeding further, it would be pertinent to mention that death penalty is an exception only when life imprisonment would be inadequate to the crime. Therefore, the death sentence awarded to the convict under Section 302 IPC is liable to be commuted into life imprisonment which will accomplish the ends of justice.

Conclusion

66. While affirming the conviction of the appellant under Section 376 and 302 IPC we set aside the death penalty of the appellant awarded by the trial court under Section 302 I.P.C. and this Court modify his sentence from death penalty to life imprisonment without remission under Section 302 I.P.C.

67. The Criminal Appeal No. 1004 of 2018 is partly allowed. In the light of the above discussion reference for confirmation of death penalty is liable to be rejected and is accordingly rejected.

68. The appellant is in jail and shall serve out his sentence as has been ordered and modified by this Court.

69. We appreciate the able assistance of Shri Manish Bajpai, learned Amicus Curiae who assisted the Court in disposal of the present reference and appeal.

70. Let a copy of this judgment as well as lower court record be transmitted to the trial court forthwith for necessary information and compliance.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
DATED: ALLAHABAD 27.09.2022

THE HON'BLE SAMIT GOPAL, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 355 of 2018

Krishnakant ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Anuruddh Chaturvedi, Sri Ajay Kumar Giri, Sri Ram Milan Dwivedi, Sri Surendra Kumar, Sri Satya Sinha, Sri Lallu Singh Kanchan Ranjan, Sri Saurav Chaturvedi, Sri I.K. Chaturvedi (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376- Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012- Section 4 - Section 42- Punishment under Section 4 POCSO Act is greater in degree as under Section 376 IPC, the punishment of imprisonment for life was with no fine but punishment which was with fine was up-to ten years only- Hence as per Section 42 POCSO Act, in case of a conviction under Section 376 IPC and for penetrative sexual assault punishable under Section 4 POCSO Act, the sentence has to be awarded under Section 4 POCSO Act only because it is a sentence of greater degree- As such the sentence as awarded under Section 376 IPC is set-aside.

As per the mandate of Section 42 of the POCSO Act, sentence of the greater degree has to be awarded.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 64- Section 65- An unproved and unexibited document cannot be treated as evidence in a case- There is a departure from the said settled proposition of law as the trial court has during arguments taken the High School Certificate of the victim and considered it along with the date of birth mentioned in the protest petition for reaching to a conclusion with regards to the age of the victim. The same is an incorrect approach of the trial court- The radiologist has opined as per the radiological examination in his cross-examination as her being aged about 18 years of age. Thus, even by giving a benefit of variation of two years, she would be a major.

Settled law that an unproved and unexhibited document is inadmissible in evidence and hence the opinion of the radiologist opining the age of the victim shall be accepted.

Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Section 3(1) 11- A perusal of the FIR shows that there is no such averment in it that the victim belongs to the caste which came in the category of SC/ST. There was no document filed to establish the caste of the prosecutrix. The prosecution has not established that the first informant belong to a caste falling within the SC/ST Act- POCSO Act, Section 4 of the Act deals with punishment for penetrative for sexual assault. The medical evidence does not corroborate with the prosecution story.

In order to bring home the charge under the SC/ST Act it is incumbent for the prosecution to prove that the victim belongs to the SC/ST category. (Para 25, 28, 29, 30, 32, 34, 35)

Criminal Appeal allowed. (E-3)

Case law/Judgements relied upon:-

Ram Murti Vs St. of Har. (1970) 3 SCC 21

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. The present Criminal Appeal under Section 374 (2) Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 read with Section 14-A (2) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 ("SC/ST Act") has been filed by the accused appellant Krishnakant against the judgment and order dated 30.11.2017 passed in Special Criminal Case No. 73 of 2014 (State Vs. Krishnakant) convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 376 Indian Penal Code, 1860 ("IPC") to 15 years Rigorous Imprisonment and a fine of Rs.15,000/-, under Section 4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 ("POCSO Act") to 15 years Rigorous Imprisonment and fine of Rs.15,000/-, under Section 3 (1) 11 SC/ST Act to 2 years Rigorous Imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 2,000/-, under Section 506 IPC to 1 year Rigorous Imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1,000/-. It is further ordered that in default of payment of fine under Section 376 IPC and Section 4 POCSO Act the appellant shall undergo 2 years each additional imprisonment, under Section 3 (1) 11 SC/ST Act to 2 months additional imprisonment and under Section 506 IPC to 1 month additional imprisonment. The sentences have been ordered to run concurrently. It is further ordered that out of the fine as deposited, Rs.15,000/- as compensation shall be paid to the victim.

2. The name of the prosecutrix is not being disclosed and mentioned in the present judgment in the light of directions of the Apex Court in various judgments and Section 228A of the IPC. She is, thus, referred to as 'X' in the judgment.

3. The prosecution case as per an application dated 9.6.2013 given by victim "X' to police of police station Kamasin, District Banda is that she is daughter of Shiv Poojan residing in village Pachauha, Police Station Kamasin, District Banda. On 23.5.2013 at about 10 a.m. she had gone towards the Southern Nala of the village to bring her buffaloes wherein Krishnakant Dwivedi of the village came from behind, caught hold of her, put a country-made pistol on her chest and committed rape on her. He threatened her that if she discloses it to anyone in the house then he would murder her brother and father. The incident has been witnessed by Chota S/o Babu Lal of the village. She came back home and told about the incident to her mother and father. On 1.6.2013, she along with her mother Smt. Siya Sakhi and father Shiv Poojan went to Police Station Kamasin and gave information on which her medical examination was done at the District Hospital, Banda. Her date of birth is 28.6.1996. She prays that a case be registered and legal action be taken.

The said application is Exb : Ka-1 to the records.

4. On the basis of the said application, an FIR was lodged as Case Crime No.144 of 2013 under Section 376, 506 IPC and 3(Ka)/4 POCSO Act, 2012 and Section 3(1)XII of the SC/ST Act, P.S. Kamasin, District Banda against Krishnakant Dwivedi on 9.6.2013 at 12.30 hours.

The Chik FIR is Exb : Ka-3 to the records.

5. The victim 'X' was medically examined by Dr. Charu Gautam, Medical Officer, Female District Hospital Banda while being brought by Constable Jamuna Devi on 1.6.2013 at 3 p.m. On her general examination, the doctor noted as follows:-

"No injury over arm, fore arm, axilla, breast, abdomen, back, thigh and legs.

On examining the external genital, the doctor noted as follows:-

"No injury over labia majora, minora and clitoris."

On examination of internal genital, the doctor noted as follows:-

"Hymen torn old and healed. Vagina admits two fingers easily. Vaginal smear prepared and send to pathologist, P.H. Banda for confirmation of spermatozoa and urine pregnancy test for confirmation of pregnancy."

X-Ray was advised for determination of her age. The opinion as drawn by the doctor is as follows:-

"Final opinion to be given after radiology and pathology report."

The said report is Exb : Ka-5 to the records.

A supplementary report dated 10.06.2013 was prepared by Dr. Charu Gautam in which the finding as per pathological report is as follows:-

"Vaginal smear shows no dead or alive spermatozoa. Urine pregnancy shows negative results."

The opinion according to radiological examination is as follows:-

Left and right wrist- AP epiphysis at lower end of right and left ulna are fused. Line of fusion seen in right and left radius with partial fusion in wrist joint."

The opinion about rape is given as follows:-

"It is very difficult to say that rape is committed on her or not."

The said report is Exb : Ka-6 to the records.

The X-Ray examination report dated 3.6.2013 is Exb : Ka-7 to the records which has been given by Dr. Gyanendra Neekhra.

6. The investigation concluded and a final report was submitted in favour of the accused-appellant stating therein that no case is made out against him and he has been falsely implicated. On the said final report, a protest petition was filed on which the accused-appellant was summoned to face trial.

7. Subsequently vide order dated 1.1.2016 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court, Banda, charge under Section 376 - Jha, 506 IPC, Section 4 POCSO Act, 2012 and 3 (1) XI SC/ST Act was framed against the accused appellant.

The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. The prosecution in order to prove its case produced and examined victim "X' as P.W.1, Shiv Poojan, the father of the victim as P.W.2, Smt. Shiv Dhuliya, the maternal aunt/mausi of the victim "X' as P.W.3, Smt. Siya Sakhi, the mother of the victim "X' as P.W.4, Head Constable Ayodhya Prasad as P.W.5, Dr. Charu Gautam as P.W.6 and Dr. Gyanendra Neekhra as P.W.7.

9. The statement of victim 'X' recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was filed and proved as Exb : Ka-2 to the records.

10. The accused-appellant in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has denied the prosecution case and has stated that he has been falsely implicated in the present case.

In defence he produced Anil Singh as D.W.1 and Sumer as D.W.2 and further filed the parivar register 57 Kha and papers of medical examination 58-Kha to 60-Kha.

11. The trial court after conclusion of trial convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as stated above.

12. Heard Sri I.K. Chaturvedi, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Saurav Chaturvedi holding brief of Sri Ram Milan Dwivedi, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Ankit Srivastava, learned Brief Holder for the State of U.P. and perused the materials on record.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the appellant has been falsely implicated in the present case. It is argued that victim 'X' is a major girl. It is argued that there is an enmity of the accused-appellant with the mother and mausi of victim 'X'. The matter was investigated and it was found that the accused-appellant has been falsely implicated and as such a final report was submitted in his favour after which he was summoned on a protest petition filed in the matter. It is argued that the medical examination of victim 'X' does not corroborate with the prosecution case. The doctor did not opine of any rape being committed on her but to the contrary looking to the medical examination report dated 1.6.2013 (Exb : Ka-5) specifically the examination of internal organs, it is clear that victim 'X' was habitual to sexual intercourse. The doctor in the supplementary medical examination report has given an inconclusive finding with regards to the allegation of rape stating that it is difficult to say that rape is committed on her or not and as such an inference can be drawn that there was no rape committed on her. It is argued that the present FIR has been lodged after an unexplained delay of 16 days. The incident is alleged to have taken place on 23.5.2013 after which the present FIR has been lodged on 9.6.2013. There is no explanation whatsoever regarding the delay in lodging of the FIR. It is argued that the medical examination of the victim 'X' was conducted on 1.6.2013 which was prior to lodging of the FIR and even in the same there was no suggestion of rape being committed on her. Even till the time of her medical examination which was after about 8 days of the occurrence, there was no whisper regarding the accused-appellant being involved in the matter. It is argued that as per the FIR, the victim has disclosed her date of birth as 28.6.1996 and as such at the time of occurrence, she would be around 17 years of age. It is argued that the trial court in its judgement and order of conviction has stated that at the time of arguments, the copy of the High School certificate of the victim 'X' was produced before the court in which her date of birth was written as 28.6.1997 which was taken to be true by the trial court and her age was assessed as about 15 years 10 months and 25 days at the time of occurrence which is an incorrect and illegal approach as the said document was not produced in evidence before the trial court and even the accused was not given an opportunity to challenge the same. It is argued that a document produced in the trial all of a sudden without it being proved and without the accused being given the opportunity to challenge it cannot be considered. It is argued that there is nothing on record to show that the victim girl belongs to a caste falling within the SC/ST. The accused-appellant cannot be convicted under Section 376 IPC as per Section 42 POCSO Act. It is further argued that Chota, the alleged eye-witness of the case has not been produced by the prosecution. It is argued that looking to the glaring irregularities, illegalities and lack of evidence, the accused-appellant deserves to be acquitted. He has been in jail since 30.11.2015 and as such has undergone about 6 years and 10 months of incarceration. The appeal deserves to be allowed.

14. Per contra learned counsel for the State has opposed the arguments of learned counsel for the appellant and argued that the occurrence of the present case is of 23.5.2013 of which the FIR was lodged on 9.6.2013. It is argued that the information about the incident was given by the victim herself at the police station on 1.6.2013 after which her medical examination was done. It is argued that there is no chance of false implication in the matter or even misidentity as the accused-appellant was known to the victim 'X'. It is argued that the contradictions in the statement of the witnesses are minor in nature as their statements have been recorded after 3 years of the incident and as such cropping of some contradictions is a natural consequence. The appellant is named in the FIR and there are allegations against him of committing rape on victim 'X'. The FIR has been lodged by the victim herself. There is no reason stated by the accused-appellant in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. for his false implication. The appellant has active role in the present case. The trial court after examining the evidence on record has convicted the appellant. The present appeal deserves to be dismissed.

15. Victim 'X' P.W.1 states that the incident is of 23.5.2013 when she was giving water to her buffaloes and the animals suddenly started running towards the South nala. She ran behind them wherein Krishna Kumar Dwivedi of the village caught hold of her from behind and threw her on the ground, threatened her with a country-made pistol and took out her salvar and committed rape on her. She tried to shout but he threatened her with a country-made pistol and stated that if she tells it to her family members, he would murder them. She came back home and told about the incident to her family members but the side of the accused were pressurizing them regularly for not lodging a report. After that on 9.6.2013, she went to the police station with her parents and gave a tehrir written by her which is on record. She proves the same as Exb : Ka-1 to the records. She states that on 1.6.2013 she had given an information at the police station on the basis of which her medical examination report was done and her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded. She proves her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and her signature on it. She states that she had given her statement before the Magistrate but in the same it is written that she did not know Krishna Kumar Dwivedi from before and came to know when with a boy Chotu disclosed about him and then she came to know of his name, is incorrect but he is of the same village and she knew him from before. She proves her statement which was marked as Exb : Ka-2 to the records.

In her cross-examination, she states that she is a student of B.A IInd year. She had studied class Xth at the time of incident. She does not remember when her class Xth board examination has finished. She was giving water to her buffaloes on 23.5.2013 at 10 a.m. Her house in village Pachauha on the Narayanpur Road at the corner. The South nala is about ½ km. away from her house where her buffaloes started running. Her buffaloes had run outside the village towards nala. They had reached the nala. They sat inside the nala. She tried to get them out of the nala but they did not come out and then she sat on the south corner. When she had reached the nala, Krishna Kant Dwivedi was not there. Chota @ Babu Lal Chamar was not there. She reached the nala at about 10 a.m. After about 2-4 minutes, the accused and Chota reached there. When the accused Krishna Kumar Dwivedi caught hold of her, Chota was about 2-4-10 steps away. The accused had caught her when she was sitting at the corner of the nala. The ground was rough and with rubbles. She was thrown on the ground from her back side. After throwing her down, her salvar was taken out. She tried to save herself at the time of incident and resisted the occurrence. She had received injury on her back at the time of incident. Her back did not get injured but there was pain which she is telling. The accused was on her top. The rape continued for 15-20 minutes. The accused was there for about 21-22 minutes and till that time Chota was also there. After that the accused went away along with Chota. She then wore her clothes and came back. She reached at about 10.30 a.m. She told about the incident after returning home to her parents. She went to the police station Kamasin with her parents on 1.6.2013. She reached police station at about 10 a.m. Prior to 1.6.2013 neither her parents nor she gave any complaint to the administration or police. On 1.6.2013, the police of police station Kamasin got her medical done. Her X-Ray was done after three days. After her medical examination, she did not return back to the police station but went to the house of her mausi in village Maki. She was called for her X-Ray examination at the police station. She went there with her parents and then she was taken for X-Ray by a police constable. On 1.6.2013, no report was lodged. The police got her medical examination and X-Ray done without any report. From 1.6.2013 to 8.6.2013 no Fax was done with regards to the incident. She does not have any copy of the Fax and neither is there any application on record. She went to the police station Kamasin on 9.6.2013 on her own. She did not call anyone. She reached the police station at 10 a.m. She got the report lodged on her own. Her report was lodged on 9.6.2013. Her statement was recorded before the Magistrate. Certain things had been written wrong in the statement and certain things are correct. There was no enmity at that time. She had stated that earlier her statement was recorded wrongly by the Magistrate but she does not know as to why the same was recorded as such. She states that it is incorrect that on the advice of her Advocate, she had given a wrong statement before the Magistrate. She further states that it is incorrect that the accused Krishna Kumar Dwivedi did not commit rape on her and threatened her with a country-made pistol. She states that the incident is not a false incident and story is not a fabrication and untrue that no such incident took place. She states that on the basis of her report, the case was lodged in which after investigation, final report was submitted. She states that it is incorrect that the Investigating Officer found the story to be false and filed final report. She filed an application through her lawyer after filing of the final report and then the case again started. She denies that the entire story is false and with enmity. She further denies the suggestion that there was some dispute with regards to the harvesting of wheat and money between her parents and the family of the accused. She further denies that due to the said dispute, false case has been lodged and the accused-appellant has been implicated who threatened for it. She further denies that the accused has been falsely implicated under conspiracy. She further states that it is incorrect that after consultation and discussion her parents pressurized her for lodging of a report and under their pressure, she is given the false statement.

16. Shiv Poojan, P.W.2 is the father of victim "X'. He states about the incident to have taken place on 23.5.2013. He states that the age of victim 'X' was about 17 years at that time. The victim 'X' had gone to bring her buffaloes at about 10 a.m. who had run away. Krishna Kumar Dwivedi was hiding near the nala who caught-hold of his daughter, threatened her with a country-made pistol and committed rape on her. He then threatened her of not disclosing it to anyone otherwise he would kill her. His daughter when came back home, told him about the incident after which he went to the police station with his daughter but his report was not lodged. He then gave an application to higher officials after which his report was lodged. The medical examination of his daughter was done. His statement was recorded during investigation.

In cross-examination, he states that his original village is Babu Ka Purva. Pachauha is his Sasural. He had come to village Pachauha around 9-10 years ago and was living there. He had constructed a house around 5-6 years back. The land was given for construction of his house by Kailash Nath Dwivedi who is the grand-father of accused Krishna Kant Dwivedi. He does not work in the fields of Kailash Nath Dwivedi and the accused. To a suggestion given to him, he denies that due to present dispute he is being pressurized by the family members of the accused to vacate his house which is on their land and he has denied that he has threatened the accused of implicating him in a case. He further denies the suggestion that due to the said dispute after consultation he has implicated the accused in a false case.

17. Shiv Dhuliya, P.W.3 is the mausi of the victim 'X'. She states that the incident had taken place about 3 years ago. The victim 'X' is the daughter of her sister. She had gone to give water to the buffaloes. The victim is resident of village Pachaunha, Police Station Kamasin. She has reached on the information given by the father of the victim 'X'. She was told about the incident by victim 'X'. Her daughter was raped by Shivakant. After the incident, she went to the police station with her daughter and lodged an FIR. Shivakant is the son of Suresh Tiwari Brahmin and resident of village Pachauha. Her daughter was medically examined in P.H.C. Her statement was recorded in the said matter.

In her cross-examination, she states that she is not an eye-witness of the incident. She is telling about it on hearing it from someone.

18. Siya Sakhi, P.W.4 the mother of victim 'X' states that the incident is of 3 years ago. On that date the mother of Jagmohan of the village had died and she had gone there. Her husband Shiv Poojan had gone to do work in the village. Her daughter victim 'X' and one small child were in the house. Her buffaloes freed themselves and ran towards nala. Her daughter victim 'X' had gone behind the animals where Krishna Kant Dwivedi was present from before who called her daughter and threatened her with a country-made pistol and told her not to tell about the incident to anyone otherwise he would kill her parents and brother. He had committed rape on her. Her daughter told about the incident when she came back to her. Then she told it to her husband after which her daughter victim 'X' was taken by her husband to the police station where their report was not lodged. The report was lodged after ten days. Her daughter was medically examined in District Hospital, Banda.

In her cross-examination to a suggestion that there was some fight between the accused and her husband, she denies it. She states that it is incorrect that due to the said fight, the accused has told her husband to vacate the house which was constructed on his ancestral property. She states that it is correct that there is threat being extended of their being thrown out the house. She denies the suggestion that a false case has been lodged on the saying of persons.

19. Head Constable Ayodhya Prasad, P.W.5 transcribed the Chik FIR of the case and the corresponding G.D. He proves the same.

In cross-examination he states that the incident is of 23.5.2013. The FIR was lodged on 9.6.2013. He did not ask especially as to why the FIR is being lodged with delay. He states that Tejvali had also come with the first informant. He does not know as to which political party does he belong to. He states that he does not belong to Kamasin area and is of Maki area. Along with Tejvali, his wife had also come. No FIR has been lodged by the victim 'X' prior to 9.6.2013. She has not received any injury on her body otherwise the same would have been mentioned in the G.D. She did not bring any clothes which she was wearing at the time of the incident and also documents with regards to her age. He states that the Chik is on a printed proforma which is empty and is filled by him. It is his responsibility. He states that if any column is left blank then it is illegal but sometimes there is something left blank but the reference of the same in G.D. is important. He states that the page number is not filled in it. There is no signature of the first informant in it. He denies the suggestion that a FIR was lodged on the saying of politicians and S.O under pressure.

20. Dr. Charu Gautam, P.W.6 had conducted the medical examination of victim 'X' on 1.6.2013. The details of the same have already been given above. She has also prepared the supplementary medical examination report. The details of the same have also been given above. She proves the same.

21. Dr. Gyanendra Neekhra, P.W.7 states that on 3.6.2013, he was posted as Consultant in District Hospital, Jhansi. He was posted on the post of Radiologist.

Under his supervision X-Ray of victim 'X' was done and report was prepared. He proves the X-Ray report and X-Ray plates.

In cross-examination, he states that he did not give any opinion regarding age in the X-Ray report as he did not do the physical examination of the victim 'X'. He states that as per the X-Ray, victim 'X' was aged about 18 years.

22. Anil Singh, D.W.1 has stated that Shiv Poojan who is the father of victim has a dispute with regards to harvesting of wheat with accused Krishnakant. Shiv Poojan has constructed a house on the ancestral land of Krishnakant. Due to the dispute of harvesting of wheat, Krishnakant had told Shiv Poojan to vacate his land. The brother-in-law (Sardu) of Shiv Poojan lives in village Sarda Marka and is issue less who is a politician of Bahujan Samaj Party and is very close to the local MLA. Victim 'X' was living with Tejbali from before the incident. Tejbali is her Mausa. Victim 'X' was living in village Sarda Marka. Tejbali in conspiracy with the MLA Gaya Charan Dinkar, had got a false FIR lodged under pressure against Krishnakant for money. He was a village Pradhan at that time. He had got conducted a panchayat for both the parties but the dispute could not be settled due to greed of money. Around 25 people had given an affidavit to C.O. Baberu. He filed the affidavit which was marked as Exb : Kha-1 to the records and stated that the said affidavit was taken by the C.O on 28.06.2013.

23. Sumeru, D.W.2 has stated that he is not well educated. He is the neighbour of Shiv Poojan, the father of victim 'X'. Victim 'X' was living at the house of her Mausa in Sarda Marka at the time of incident. He states that there was a dispute between Krishnakant and Shiv Poojan relating to the harvesting of wheat and Shiv Poojan had told him that he would get him implicated in a case. He states that no such incident had happened with victim 'X'. Tejbali is brother-in-law (Sardu) of Shiv Poojan who for money got a false FIR lodged. Accused Krishnakant has been falsely implicated in the case.

24. This Court first deals with the argument of learned counsel for the appellant that the conviction of the accused-appellant under Section 376 IPC and Section 4 POCSO Act for a maximum sentence of 15 years in both is not justified as per Section 42 of the POCSO Act, the same would be illegal and incorrect.

25. Section 42 POCSO Act provides that the offender found guilty of such offence shall be liable to punishment either under the POCSO Act or under IPC whichever is greater in degree. It reads as under:-

"42:- Alternate punishment. - Where an act or omission constitutes an offence punishable under this Act and also under sections 166A, 354A, 354B, 354C, 354D, 370, 370A, 375, 376, 376A, 376AB, 376B, 376C, 376D, 376DA, 376DB, 376E, section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) or section 67B of the Information Technology Act, 2000 (21 of 2000) then, notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, the offender found guilty of such offence shall be liable to punishment only under this Act or under the Indian Penal Code as provides for punishment which is greater in degree."

26. The sentence awarded to the accused-appellant by the trial court under Section 376 IPC is 15 years R.I., Rs.15,000/- as fine and in default of payment of fine 2 years additional imprisonment. Then under Section 4 POCSO Act to 15 years rigorous imprisonment, Rs.15,000/- as fine and in default of payment of fine to 2 years additional imprisonment.

27. For determination regarding higher degree of sentence, Section 376 IPC is to be seen. It provides that whoever except in the cases provided in sub-section (2), commits rape, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than seven years, but which may extend to imprisonment for life, or for a term which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine, unless the women raped is his own wife and is not under 12 years of age, in which case he shall be punished with either description for a term which may extend to two years or fine or both. Thus, the punishment is under two parts in this Section being:-

1. Not less than seven years, which may extend to life,

2. For a term which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine.

Section 376 IPC reads as under:-

"376. Punishment for rape. -

(1) Whoever, except in the cases provided for by sub-section (2), commits rape shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may be for life or for a term which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine unless the women raped is his own wife and is not under twelve years of age, in which cases, he shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years or with fine or with both:

Provided that the court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment for a term of less than seven years.

(2) Whoever,--

(a) being a police officer commits rape-

(i) within the limits of the police station to which he is appointed; or

(ii) in the premises of any station house whether or not situated in the police station to which he is appointed; or

(iii) on a woman in his custody or in the custody of a police officer subordinate to him; or

(b) being a public servant, takes advantage of his official position and commits rape on a woman in his custody as such public servant or in the custody of a public servant subordinate to him; or

(c) being on the management or on the staff of a jail, remand home or other place of custody established by or under any law for the time being in force or of a woman's or children's institution lakes advantage of his official position and commits rape on any inmate of such jail, remand home, place or institution; or

(d) being on the management or on the staff of a hospital, takes advantage of his official position and commits rape on a woman in that hospital; or

(e) commits rape on a woman knowing her to be pregnant; or

(f) commits rape on a woman when she is under twelve years of age; or

(g) commits gang rape, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may be for life and shall also be liable to fine:

Provided that the court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment of either description for a term of less than ten years,

Explanation I.--Where a woman is raped by one or more in a group of persons acting in furtherance of their common intention, each of the persons shall be deemed to have committed gang rape within the meaning of this sub-section.

Explanation 2.--"Women's or children's institution" means an institution, whether called an orphanage or a home for neglected woman or children or a widows' home or by any other name, which is established and maintained for the reception and care of woman or children.

Explanation 3.--"Hospital" means the precincts of the hospital and includes the precincts of any institution for the reception and treatment of persons during convalescence or of persons requiring medical attention or rehabilitation."

28. In the present case the trial court has resorted to the second part of the conviction under Section 376 IPC whereas under Section 4 POCSO Act while dealing with penetrative sexual assault, the trial court while holding the victim to be less than 16 years of age (being of 15 years, 10 months and 25 days old) has resorted to the punishment of 15 years being not less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life and has also imposed fine as is also provided in it.

29. Hence punishment under Section 4 POCSO Act is greater in degree as under Section 376 IPC, the punishment of imprisonment for life was with no fine but punishment which was with fine was up-to ten years only.

30. The Court thus comes to the conclusion that the punishment under Section 4 POCSO Act is a graver punishment. Hence as per Section 42 POCSO Act, in case of a conviction under Section 376 IPC and for penetrative sexual assault punishable under Section 4 POCSO Act, the sentence has to be awarded under Section 4 POCSO Act only because it is a sentence of greater degree.

31. Hence the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant that the accused-appellant cannot be convicted under Section 376 IPC finds force. As such the sentence as awarded under Section 376 IPC is set-aside.

32. Now coming to the issue of the age of the victim 'X' in the FIR lodged by herself, she discloses her date of birth as 28.6.1996. Her medical examination was done and her X-Ray examination was done for ascertainment of her age but in the supplementary examination report, the doctor did not opine with regards to the estimation of her age. Dr. Gyanendra Neekhra, P.W.7 in his cross-examination has stated that as per the X-Ray examination, the victim was aged about 18 years. The trial court in the impugned judgement and order while giving a finding with regards to the estimation of age has stated that at the time of arguments, a copy of the High School Certificate of victim 'X' was produced which showed her date of birth as 28.6.1997. It is further stated that in the protest petition, the date of birth of the victim was stated as 28.6.1997 and since the incident is of 23.5.2013, the victim would be aged about 15 years 10 months and 25 days of age. It is trite law that for relying upon a document, it has to be proved in the trial. A document which has not been proved in the trial, cannot be considered by just providing it at the fag end of trial by one of the parties and no finding can be based on the basis of the same.

33. The Apex Court in the case of Ram Murti v. State of Haryana : (1970) 3 SCC 21 has held that an unproved and unexibited document cannot be treated as evidence in a case. The observations in paragraph 6 and 7 of the said judgment are as follows:

"6. The trial court, in support of its conclusion on the question of age of the prosecutrix, relied on the birth certificate Ex. PL and the report of Dr Ajmer Kaur, Ex. PA. The omission on the part of the prosecuting agency to get Satnam Kaur's bones X-rayed as advised by Dr Ajmer Kaur was not considered by that court to be very material. Considering that the prosecutrix was only a student of 9th Class at the time of the occurrence that court felt that Dr Ajmer Kaur's estimate other age was trustworthy and the prosecutrix was held to be definitely below 18 years of age. That court also took into consideration an unproved and unexhibited school certificate which appears to have been obtained by the Investigating Officer from the Dev Samaj School. According to this certificate the date of Satnam Kaur's birth is stated by the trial court to be August 5, 1948. We had a look at this document. It is dated April 9, 1965 and purports to certify the date of Satnam Kaur's birth according to the school register to be November 5, 1948 and is signed by someone describing herself as Head Mistress, Dev Samaj Girls' High School. We fail to understand how the trial court felt justified in taking this document into consideration and holding the date of birth as entered in this document to be August 5, 1948. We, however, need not say anything more about the merits of this document because the Counsel for the State in this Court has rightly declined to place any reliance on it. In the High Court the learned single Judge dealt with the question of age in the following manner:

"According to her medical examination by Dr Ajmer Kaur, mentioned above, the was between 16 and 17 years of age. During the course of investigation, her birth entry PL was obtained showing that a daughter was born to Hans Raj on 25th September, 1949, with the aid of Bhagwanti Dai. This entry was made in the register on 27th September, 1949. There is evidence on the record that Bhagwanti was acting as a Dai at the time of the birth of Satnam Kaur. Moreover it is also amply clear from the statements of Hans Raj and his wife that she was below 18 years of age. Besides the above, there is the school entry which shows that Satnam Kaur was born on 5th August, 1948. It is true that there is discrepancy between the school certificate and the birth entry PL. But in any case, her age was proved to be below 18 years at the time of the commission of this offence. The learned Counsel for the appellant submitted that Dr Ajmer Kaur advised X-ray examination of the prosecutrix to find out her age, but that was not done. The Counsel, therefore, maintained that there was no satisfactory evidence on the record to show that she was below 18 years at the time of this occurrence. As remarked above, I have no doubt in my mind that taking into consideration the statement of Hans Raj, father of Satnam Kaur, and her mother as also the medical examination by Dr Ajmer Kaur, entry PL, and school certificate, she was definitely below 18 years."

7. It is clear that in the High Court also it was not appreciated that the unproved and unexhibited school certificate could not be treated as evidence in the case. Nor was it noticed that according to this document Satnam Kaur's date of birth was November 5, 1948. The question of age of the prosecutrix in cases under Sections 366 and 376 IPC is always of importance. It was particularly so in this case because according to the medical evidence the prosecutrix was found to have been used to sexual intercourse and the rupture of the hymen was old. The High Court having acquitted the appellant for an offence under Section 376 IPC, because the prosecutrix appeared to be a consenting party not only to the impugned acts of sexual intercourse in question but even on earlier occasions, it was, in our opinion, a fit case in which that court should have examined the question of her age more closely. On the evidence on the record we are far from satisfied that there is any trustworthy evidence on the record on which the conclusion that Satnam Kaur, prosecutrix, was under 18 years of age in March, 1965 can safely be founded."

34. In the present case, there is a departure from the said settled proposition of law as the trial court has during arguments taken the High School Certificate of the victim and considered it along with the date of birth mentioned in the protest petition for reaching to a conclusion with regards to the age of the victim. The same is an incorrect approach of the trial court. In the FIR, the victim has disclosed her date of birth as 28.6.1996. The radiologist has opined as per the radiological examination in his cross-examination as her being aged about 18 years of age. Thus, even by giving a benefit of variation of two years, she would be a major.

35. The next question to be dealt with is with regards to the offence under the SC/ST Act. The accused-appellant has been convicted under Section 3(1) 11 of the said Act. The trial court has in it's finding with regards to the said offence stated that from the records it finds that charge has been framed under the SC/ST Act. It further opines that there is no dispute that the victim girl belongs to the category of SC/ST and the accused is not belonging to the said group. A perusal of the FIR shows that there is no such averment in it that the victim belongs to the caste which came in the category of SC/ST. There was no document filed to establish the caste of the prosecutrix. The prosecution has not established that the first informant belong to a caste falling within the SC/ST Act. The trial court while giving its finding with regards to the same has fallen back on the fact that charge has been framed under the SC/ST Act and there is no dispute that the victim belongs to the same which is not based on any evidence and is not a proper approach.

36. With regards to the offence under the POCSO Act, Section 4 of the Act deals with punishment for penetrative for sexual assault. The medical evidence does not corroborate with the prosecution story. The medical examination report Exb : Ka-5 and the statement of Dr. Charu Gautam, P.W.6 does not anywhere state that rape was committed upon the victim. The doctor in her statement stated that she has given a supplementary report and in her opinion it cannot be said as to whether rape was committed upon the victim or not. In such circumstances it is seen that there is no corroboration of the allegation that penetrative sexual assault was committed upon the victim 'X'.

37. Even the enmity between the first informant and the accused-appellant as has been stated by the accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is corroborated by the statement of Anil Singh, D.W.1 and Sumeru, D.W.2. The same would go to show that the parties were enmical to each other. There was even a panchayat held for resolving their dispute but the same could not be resolved, as such it cannot be said that there was no enmity between the parties.

38. In view of the discussions as stated above, the present appeal deserves to be allowed. The appellant deserves to be acquitted of the charges levelled against him.

39. The appeal stands allowed. The judgment and order of the trial court is hereby set-aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charges levelled against him.

40. The accused-appellant is stated to be in jail since 30.11.2015. He is directed to be released from jail forthwith if not wanted in any other case.

41. The office is directed to send the certified copy of this judgment along with the trial court records to the trial court concerned forthwith for necessary information and follow-up action.

CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 26.09.2022

THE HON'BLE DR. KAUSHAL JAYENDRA THAKER, J.
THE HON'BLE NALIN KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

Government Appeal No. 230 of 2021

Smt. Alka ...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Nirvikar Gupta, Sri Akhilesh Srivastava, Sri Bhanu Pratap Pal, Sri Mohammad, Sri Saksham Srivastava, Sri Kamlesh Kumar Dubey

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32- Dying declaration could have been acted upon as there is no material contradictions in the dying declaration. The dying declaration when taken in its totality goes to show that her sister-in-law had poured kerosene on the deceased and set her ablaze, her husband has saved her and she died after several days out of septicemic death.

Where the dying declaration is recorded by the magistrate and there is nothing to doubt the same then conviction of the accused can be secured solely upon the dying declaration.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- Section 304 (Part-1)- On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer we are of the considered opinion that it was a case of homicidal death not amounting to murder-It appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused though had knowledge and intention that her act would cause bodily harm to the deceased but did not want to do away with the deceased. Hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC-The offence is not punishable under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable U/s 304 (Part I) of I.P.C.

As the deceased had died several days after the occurrence due to septicaemia, the offence was not premeditated and it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased, hence the offence would fall within the ambit of Section 304 (Part-1) IPC. (Para 18, 19, 24, 25, 26, 27)

Criminal Appeal partly allowed. (E-3)

Code of Criminal Procedure 1973- Section 378 (1)- Appeal against acquittal-It is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court- In acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper- While going through the finding of facts and even dying declaration which we have held is accepted under Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, name of only Alka was given by the deceased. There is no overt act perpetrated on any of the other accused and, therefore, we cannot agree with the submission of learned A.G.A. for the St. that the judgment is perverse and requires to be upturned.

Settled law that the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused stands fortified by his acquittal in the trial and therefore the appellate court will not interfere with the findings of the trial court unless they are wholly perverse and illegal. (Para 44, 46)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Nalin Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Both these appeals arise out of common impugned order dated 28.3.2017 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No.1, Aligarh in Sessions Trial No.67 of 2011 whereby the learned Additional Sessions Judge has convicted the accused-appellant, Alka, for commission of offence under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (for short 'IPC') and sentenced her to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/-.

2. Criminal Appeal No. 2275 of 2017 has been preferred by accused-appellant, Alka against her conviction whereas the Government Appeal No. 230 of 2021 has been preferred by the State against the acquittal of respondents, Sanjiv Kumar, Rajiv Kumar & Rajendra Prasad under Section 498A, 304B, 302/34 of IPC and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (for short 'Act, 1961').

3. Heard Sri Noor Mohammad, learned counsel for accused-appellant, Alka and acquitted respondents in Government Appeal. Heard Sri Vikas Goswami, learned A.G.A. for respondent-State in Criminal Appeal and Sri Patanjali Mishra, learned A.G.A. in Government Appeal.

4. Brief facts of the case are that the informant Gopal Varshney, uncle of the deceased made a complaint before the police authority stating therein that marriage of his niece was solemnized with Sanjeev s/o Rajendra Prasad one and half years ago and the informant had given money and households as dowry as per his capacity. It was further alleged that the in-laws of the deceased were persistently demanding amount of Rs.20,000/- and one motorcycle as additional dowry. Many time settlements were taken place but the things were not pacified and on the fateful day of 13.4.2010 at 11.00 p.m., the in-laws of the deceased namely Sanjeev (husband), Manoj (brother-in-law/Jeth), Rajeev (brother-in-law/Devar), Anita (mother-in-law), Alka (Sister-in-law/Jethani) and Rajendra (father-in-law) poured kerosene on Julie and set her ablaze. It was further alleged by the informant that on being informed by his nephew, he reached at Medical College, Aligarh on 14.4.2010 where he found his niece, Julie unconscious and she was being treated there.

5. On the basis of above, complaint, Case Crime No.221 of 2010 under Sections 498A, 307 of IPC and Section 3/4 of the Act, 1961 was registered against the above accused.

6. On investigation being put into motion, the investigating officer recorded the statements of all the witnesses and submitted the charge-sheet to the learned Magistrate.

7. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed the case to the Sessions Court as the offences alleged to have been committed were triable by the Sessions Court as prima facie offences were alleged to be falling under Sections 498A, 304 B of the Indian Penal Code and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act. Section 304B of IPC was included as the deceased died.

8. On being summoned, the accused-persons pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried.

9. On 1.9.2011, the charges were framed under Sections 498A, 304B & 302 read with Section 34 of IPC.

10. The Trial started and the prosecution examined 11 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Gopal Varshney	PW1
2	Radha Raman	PW2
3	Kailash Chandra	PW3
4	K.K. Gupta	PW4
5	Ramendra Singh	PW5
6	K.L. Verma	PW6
7	Mohd. Gaffar	PW7
8	Atul Kumar Gautam	PW8
9	Sunil Kumar Singh	PW9
10	Dr. P. Kumar	PW10
11	Dr. Ahastan Ahmad	PW11

11. In support of ocular version following documents were filed and proved:

1	F.I.R. & G.D.	Ex.Ka.4 & Ex. Ka.5
2	Written Report	Ex.Ka.1
3	Dying Declaration	Ex. Ka.10
4	Postmortem Report	Ex.Ka.3 &19
5	Papers relating to Postmortem	Ex.Ka.6, Ka.7, Ka.8 & Ka.9
6	Panchayatnama	Ex.Ka.2
7	Charge-sheet	Ex. Ka.18
8	Site Plan	Ex.Ka.11 & 12

12. At the end of the trial and after recording the statements of the accused under section 313 of Cr.P.C., and hearing arguments on behalf of prosecution and the defence, the learned Sessions Judge convicted the accused-appellant, Alka and acquitted the other accused as mentioned above.

13. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the incident occurred at the spur of moment as is clear from the dying declaration. The accused had not premeditated to do away with the deceased. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently submitted that dying declaration is not worth believing and it is an admitted position of fact that deceased died due to septicemia.

14. It is further submitted that conviction under Section 302 IPC is not made out as no overt act as per Section 300 IPC is made out. In alternative, it is submitted that at the most, the death can be homicidal death not amounting to murder and punishable under Section 304 II or Section 304 I of I.P.C. If the Court decides that the accused is guilty, then the accused may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration.

15. Learned counsel for the State has submitted that though it is septicemic death, the dying declaration and evidence of other prosecution witnesses will not permit this Court to show any leniency in the matter. It is further submitted by learned A.G.A. that ingredients of Section 300 of IPC are rightly held to be made out by the learned Sessions Judge who has applied the law to the facts in case.

16. While considering evidence of P.W.1, who is the uncle of the deceased, we find that he has proved the complaint lodged by him which has been exhibited and has opined that in his ocular version that the marriage took place before 1 & 1/2 years. About Rs.2,50,000/- was spent but her in-laws were not happy with the same. The husband and other family members started demanding additional dowry. The family members of the deceased tried to request the in-laws not to demand more dowry but the in-laws were not accepting the request and on 13.4.2010 the deceased was set ablaze. On 14.4.2010 when they went to Medical College Hospital they found her unconscious. The First Information Report was lodged after three days. P.W. 2 & 3 who are family members have also corroborated the evidence of P.W.1. As far as independent witness namely P.W.4, Doctor K.K. Gupta is concerned, he had performed postmortem of the deceased. P.W.5 & 8 are police officials and P.W.6, 7 & 9 are government officials who had jotted down the dying declaration. P.W.7, Mohd. Gaffar, Retd. District Magistrate has deposed before the Trial Court that he had recorded the dying declaration of the deceased. He has deposed that while giving her statement she was conscious and she told that uncle of her husband had admitted her in the hospital and that her husband had saved her. P.W.7 has further deposed that nothing else was stated by her in her dying declaration.

17. The learned Sessions Judge has not accepted the statement recorded by I.O. ten days after the recording of the dying declaration of the deceased by the Magistrate. The learned Sessions Judge has taken recourse of Lella Srinivasa Rao Versus State of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 2004 SC 1720 and on the basis of this judgment, he has opined that the statement recorded by the I.O. after recording of the dying declaration by the Magistrate was not reliable and has found that the dying declaration recorded by the Magistrate cannot be found fault with.

18. In the light of the decision in Govindappa and others Versus State of Karnataka, (2010) 6 SCC 533, there is no reason for us not to accept the dying declaration recorded by the Magistrate and its evidentiary value under Section 32 of Evidence Act, 1872.

19. Principle for accepting dying declaration will permit us to concur with the finding of the learned Sessions Judge that dying declaration could have been acted upon as there is no material contradictions in the dying declaration. The dying declaration when taken in its totality goes to show that her sister-in-law had poured kerosene on the deceased and set her ablaze, her husband has saved her and she died after several days out of septicemic death and, therefore, we are convinced that it is homicidal death but, it would be seen whether it is homicidal death punishable under Section 302 or Section 304 Part I or Part II of IPC?

20. It would be relevant to refer to Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

21. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts loose sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, and allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be is to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of I.P.Code. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder is the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

22. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused. Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

16. In the present case, we have come to the irresistible conclusion that the role of the appellants is clear from the dying declaration and other records. However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

17. The conviction of the appellants - original accused under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2007 arising from Sessions Case No. 149 of 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 6, Ahmedabad is converted to conviction under Section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code. However, the conviction of the appellants - original accused under section 452 of Indian Penal Code is upheld. The appellants - original accused are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/- each in default rigorous imprisonment for six months under section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code instead of life imprisonment and sentence in default of fine as awarded by the trial court under section 302 IPC. The sentence imposed in default of fine under section 452 IPC is also reduced to two months. Accordingly, the appellants are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for six months for offence punishable under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and rigorous imprisonment for a period of five years and fine of Rs. 2,000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under section 452 of Indian Penal Code. Both sentences shall run concurrently. The judgement and order dated 19.12.2007 is modified accordingly. The period of sentence already undergone shall be considered for remission of sentence qua appellants - original accused. R & P to be sent back to the trial court forthwith."

23. In latest decision in Khokhan @ Khokhan Supra where the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant and altered the sentence. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Decisions in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

24. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that it was a case of homicidal death not amounting to murder.

25. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused though had knowledge and intention that her act would cause bodily harm to the deceased but did not want to do away with the deceased. Hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

26. We come to the definite conclusion that the death was due to septicemia. The precedents discussed by us would permit us to uphold our finding which we conclusively hold that the offence is not punishable under Section 302 of I.P.C. but is culpable homicide not amounting to murder, punishable U/s 304 (Part I) of I.P.C.

27. Therefore, accused-appellant, Alka, is punished under Section 304 (Part I) of IPC and sentenced to the period undergone. The fine is reduced to Rs.5,000/-. The fine if she has yet not deposited, will deposit the same within four weeks from the date of release from jail. The jail authority shall see that the accused-appellant is lodged in the jail to re-incarcerate for the default period if fine is not paid after she is released.

28. In view of the above, the criminal appeal is partly allowed.

29. As discussed above, this Government Appeal challenges the acquittal of Sanjiv Kumar, Rajiv Kumar & Rajendra Prasad.

30. In order the challenge the judgment of acquittal, learned A.G.A. for the state has submitted that the learned Sessions Judge has mistakenly disbelieved statements of the prosecution witnesses and without assigning any cogent reasons has disbelieved prosecution story. It is further submitted that the evidence on record and surrounding circumstances have not been properly appreciated by the Trial Court as far as acquittal of accused-respondents are concerned.

31. As against this, learned counsel for the respondents have submitted that judgment of the learned Sessions Judge is just and proper as no infirmity can be found in the finding given by the learned Sessions Judge. It is further submitted that this Court should go by the well settled principles concerning criminal appeal against acquittal and that the finding of the learned Sessions Judge are not so perverse as even in the dying declaration, nothing has been assigned against the present three acquitted respondents.

32. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non guilty would require to be discussed.

33. The principles which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court, against an order of acquittal passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of "M.S. NARAYANA MENON @ MANI VS. STATE OF KERALA & ANR", (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

34. Further, in the case of "CHANDRAPPA Vs. STATE OF KARNATAKA", reported in (2007) 4 S.C.C. 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

35. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

36. In the case titled "STATE OF GOA Vs. SANJAY THAKRAN & ANR.", reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in appeals against acquital. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

37. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases titled "STATE OF UTTAR PRADESH VS. RAM VEER SINGH & ORS.", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in "GIRJA PRASAD (DEAD) BY L.R.s VS. STATE OF MP", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

38. In the case of "LUNA RAM VS. BHUPAT SINGH AND ORS.", reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

40. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of "STATE OF KARNATAKA VS. HEMAREDDY", AIR 1981 SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

"...This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

41. The Apex Court in "SHIVASHARANAPPA & ORS. VS.

STATE OF KARNATAKA", JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

42. Further, in the case of "STATE OF PUNJAB VS. MADAN MOHAN LAL VERMA", (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

43. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10.It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

44. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

45. We have perused the depositions of prosecution witnesses, documentary evidence supporting ocular versions, arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties. We have also perused the findings recorded by the learned Sessions Judge.

46. While going through the finding of facts and even dying declaration which we have held is accepted under Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, name of only Alka was given by the deceased. There is no overt act perpetrated on any of the other accused and, therefore, we cannot agree with the submission of learned A.G.A. for the State that the judgment is perverse and requires to be upturned.

47. After considering the facts and circumstances of the present case and appraisal of the evidence available on record and on the contours of the judgment of the Apex Court, we have no other option but to concur with the judgment of acquittal by the the learned Sessions Judge.

48. The appeal sans merits and is dismissed. The record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE DR. KAUSHAL JAYENDRA THAKER, J.
THE HON'BLE NALIN KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2455 of 2017

Shailesh & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Siya Ram Pandey, Sri Thakur Prasad Dubey, Sri Vijay Singh Sengar

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Sri Amit Kumar Chaudhary, Sri Ashish Kumar, Sri Prashant Kumar Tripathi, Sri Tapa Kumar Mishra

Criminal Law- Indian Penal Cade, 1860- Sections 299 & 302 – Section 304 Part-I- The death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I-The factual scenario as it emerges would go to show that the incident occurred when the accused along with the deceased conveyed that he would pay on the next day that infuriated the accused and therefore they beat the deceased. The incident occurred out of a quarrel.

Where the offence resulted from a sudden quarrel, without pre-meditation and intention to cause death but the injuries were sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, then the offence will be culpable homicide not amounting to murder and would be punishable u/s 304 Part- I of the IPC.

'Proper Sentence'-While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically. In operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment-Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

Settled law that punishment should be proportionate to the gravity of the offence and the manner of its commission and undue harshness should be avoided hence, while striking a balance between deterrence and reform, endeavour should be to provide an opportunity to the convict to be reformed and assimilated in the national mainstream. (Para 22, 23, 26, 27, 30, 31, 33, 37)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.)

1. Heard Heard Sri Siya Ram Pandey, learned counsel for appellants and Sri Vikas Goswami, learned counsel for State.

2. This appeal has been preferred by the accused-appellants against the judgment and order dated 4.5.2017, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hapur in Sessions Trial No.71 of 2016 (State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Shailesh and others) arising out of Case Crime No.328 of 2015 convicting the accused - appellants under Sections 302 read with 34 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in brevity 'IPC'), Police Station Gardhmukteshwar, District Hapur and sentenced the accused-appellants to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.5,000/- and in case of default of payment of fine, further to undergo imprisonment for a period of one month.

3. The facts of the present case are that on 31.7.2015, while the informant and his father Babu Ram(deceased) were returning home after closing their tea shop, they were intercepted by accused - appellant-Raju, who asked them to pay Rs.150/-for the grocery items which were purchased by the deceased earlier. The accused- appellant Raju was told that the amount will be paid the next day, hearing which he got annoyed and abused the complainant-Sanjay, son of the deceased and his father (deceased). At this stage, while the complainant-Sanjay and the deceased were proceeding on their way, the accused- appellants surrounded them. The accused- appellants then started beating and kicking the deceased, till he breath his last.

After killing the deceased, the accused-appellants fled away. Pursuant to this an FIR, Case Crime No.202 of 2015 was registered by the complainant-Sanjay against the accused- appellants, under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC. Consequently, the accused- appellants were arrested.

4. On trial, the trial court vide order dated 4.5.2015 found the accused - appellants guilty under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and sentenced them to imprisonment of life and a fine of Rs.5000/- each.

5. After investigation, the charge-sheet u/s 302 I.P.C. against the accused persons Shailesh, Mahadev, Kuldeep and Raju was filed. The cognizance was taken on the charge-sheet by the concerned Magistrate and the case was committed to the court of session under section 302/34 I.P.C. The charge against the accused; Shailesh, Mahadev, Kuldeep and Raju was ordered to framed, to which the accused persons pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried. The prosecution was directed to produce the complete evidence in support of their statement.

6. On being summoned, the accused-appellants pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried, hence, the trial started and the prosecution examined about 9 witnesses who are as follows:

1	Deposition of Sanjay@ Kalwa	29.4.2016 25.10.2016	PW1
2	Deposition of Sumit	7.6.2016	PW2
3	Deposition of Yad Ram	11.8.2016	PW3
4	Deposition of Dr. Gajendra Singh	29.11.2016	PW4
5	Deposition of Jitendra Kardam	29.11.2016	PW5
6	Deposition of Rajendra Singh	30.11.2016	PW6
7	Deposition of Arvind Kumar Nirwal	30.11.2016	PW7
8	Deposition of Peetam Pal Singh	16.12.2016	PW8
9	Deposition of Yatesh Kumar Puniya	20.1.2017	PW9

7. In support of ocular version following documents were filed and proved:-

1	F.I.R.	31.7.2015	Ex.Ka.4
2	General Diary	31.7.2015
3	Written report	31.7.2015	Ex.Ka.1
4	Postmortum report	1.8.2015	Ex.Ka.2
5	Panchayatnama	31.7.2015	Ex.Ka.5
6	Final Form / Report	1.9.2015	Ex.Ka.9
	General diary		Ex.Ka.3
	Site plan		Ex.Ka.5 A

8. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that no offence as alleged has been committed by the accused. It is further submitted that the accused had no motive to do away with the deceased and that the death of the deceased was due to petty dispute which had arisen and there is a single blow. P.W.-1 the informant Sanjay @ Kalwa was got examined on behalf of the prosecution who has proved the tehrir Ex.Ka-1 and supported the prosecution case. P.W.-2 namely is Sumit, the brother of informant who has been got examined. This witness too, has supported the prosecution case. P.W.-3 Yaad Ram has been examined. He has corroborated the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2.

9. P.W.-09 sub-inspector Yatesh Kumar Puniya has been examined who is also the investigating officer of this case. He too has conducted the investigation of the case who recorded the statements of sub-inspector Arvind Kumar Nirwal, C/- Manoj Kumar and C/- Kardam, who all got the post-mortem conducted and of the FIR scribe namely C/- Rajendra Singh and Dr. Gajendra Singh who conducted the post-mortem. After investigation, charge-sheet was forwarded against the accused. He has verified his signature present on the charge-sheet. Charge-sheet has been marked as Ext. ka-09.

10. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused persons u/s. 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded, wherein denying the prosecution version, they have stated that the witnesses have given wrong and false statements due to enmity, and all of the accused persons have also stated that the complainant has developed enmity with them and their family and therefore they have been falsely implicated in the aforesaid case, and that they didn't commit any offence and they were not present at the spot and that they are innocent. The accused persons claimed to adduce the evidence in defence, but even after providing adequate time, no evidence in defence was produced by the accused persons.

11. P.W.-1 the informant Sanjay @ Kalwa was got examined on behalf of the prosecution who has proved the tehrir Ex.Ka-1 and supported the prosecution case. P.W.-2 namely is Sumit, the brother of informant who has been got examined. This witness too, has supported the prosecution case. P.W.-3 Yaad Ram has been examined. He has corroborated the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2.

12. P.W.-09 sub-inspector Yatesh Kumar Puniya has been examined who is also the investigating officer of this case. He too has conducted the investigation of the case who recorded the statements of sub-inspector Arvind Kumar Nirwal, C/- Manoj Kumar and C/- Kardam, who all got the post-mortem conducted and of the FIR scribe namely C/- Rajendra Singh and Dr. Gajendra Singh who conducted the post-mortem. After investigation, charge-sheet was forwarded against the accused. He has verified his signature present on the charge-sheet. Charge-sheet has been marked as Ext. ka-09.

13. After completion of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused persons u/s. 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded, wherein denying the prosecution version, they have stated that the witnesses have given wrong and false statements due to enmity, and all of the accused persons have also stated that the complainant has developed enmity with them and their family and therefore they have been falsely implicated in the aforesaid case, and that they didn't commit any offence and they were not present at the spot and that they are innocent. The accused persons claimed to adduce the evidence in defence, but even after providing adequate time, no evidence in defence was produced by the accused persons.

14. Learned counsel for the appellant has relied on the decisions of Apex Court in (a) Nishan Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 1994 0 Supreme (SC)273 (b) Manjeet Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2014 LawSuit(SC) 341 (c) Rajju son of Jagveer Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1992 0 Supreme(All) 546 (d) Pinkoo @ Jitendra Vs. State of U.P., 2022 0 Supreme (All) 166 (e) VencilPushpraj Vs. State of Rajasthan, 1990 0 Supreme (SC) 662 (f) Kala Singh @ Gurnam Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 2021 LawSuit(SC) 536 (g) Ramesh Alias Dapinder Singh Vs. State of Himachala Pradesh, 2021 0 Supreme (SC) 152 and (h) Virender Vs. State of Haryana, 2019 LawSuit(SC) 2024 so as to contend that the decision of imprisonment for life is bad and life could not be till the last breath and the conviction under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC is not made out and the accused are entitled to be acquitted. However, at the outset it is mentioned that on shifting their decisions as they lay down law about lessor sentence precisely under Section 304 read with Section 34 of IPC

15. Learned counsel for the appellants after submitting for clean acquittal submitted that he is not pressing this appeal on its merit, but he prays only for reduction of the sentence as the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the appellants by the trial court is very harsh. Learned counsel also submitted that appellant is languishing in jail for the past more than five years.

16. Sri Vikas Goswami, learned counsel appearing on behalf of State submits that presence of all the accused is proved as per the evidence of PW- 1 and 2 and there is no denial of presence of the accused. Learned counsel further submits that Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC is made out against all the accused - appellants.

17. As learned counsel for the appellant is not pressing this appeal on its merit, but prays only for reduction of the sentence as the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh. Learned counsel also submitted that appellant is languishing in jail for the past more than 5 years.

18. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellants as far as death of deceased is concerned.

19. However, the question which falls for our consideration is whether, on reappraisal of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. should be upheld or the conviction deserves to be converted under Section 304 Part-I or Part-II of the Indian Penal Code. It would be relevant to refer Section 299 of the Indian Penal Code, which read as under:

20. The academic distinction between "murder' and "culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the Courts. The confusion is caused, if Courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Section 299 and 300 of IPC. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences.

A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder is the act by which the death is caused is done.
INTENTION
(a) with the intention of causing death; or	(1) with the intention of causing death; or
(b) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2) with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused;
KNOWLEDGE	KNOWLEDGE
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death.	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so immediately dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above.

21. The deceased was aged 65 years. The postmortem of the deceased was conducted.

22. On overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors Vs. State of Maharashtra, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 250 and in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another Vs. State of Karnataka, reported in 1994 SUPP (1) SCC 304, we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC.

23. From the upshot of the aforesaid discussions, it appears that the death caused by the accused was not premeditated, accused had no intention to cause death of deceased, the injuries were though sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to have caused death, accused had no intention to do away with deceased, hence the instant case falls under the Exceptions 1 and 4 to Section 300 of IPC. While considering Section 299 as reproduced herein above offence committed will fall under Section 304 Part-I as per the observations of the Apex Court in Veeran and others Vs. State of M.P. Decided, (2011) 5 SCR 300 which have to be also kept in mind.

24. We can safely rely upon the decision of the Gujarat High court in Criminal Appeal No.83 of 2008 (Gautam Manubhai Makwana Vs. State of Gujarat) decided on 11.9.2013 wherein the Court held as under:

"12. In fact, in the case of Krishan vs. State of Haryana reported in (2013) 3 SCC 280, the Apex Court has held that it is not an absolute principle of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction of an accused.

Where the dying declaration is true and correct, the attendant circumstances show it to be reliable and it has been recorded in accordance with law, the deceased made the dying declaration of her own accord and upon due certification by the doctor with regard to the state of mind and body, then it may not be necessary for the court to look for corroboration. In such cases, the dying declaration alone can form the basis for the conviction of the accused. But where the dying declaration itself is attended by suspicious circumstances, has not been recorded in accordance with law and settled procedures and practices, then, it may be necessary for the court to look for corroboration of the same.

13. However, the complaint given by the deceased and the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the history before the doctor is consistent and seems to be trustworthy. The same is also duly corroborated with the evidence of witnesses and the medical reports as well as panchnama and it is clear that the deceased died a homicidal death due to the act of the appellants in pouring kerosene and setting him ablaze. We do find that the dying declaration is trust worthy.

14. However, we have also not lost sight of the fact that the deceased had died after a month of treatment. From the medical reports, it is clear that the deceased suffered from Septicemia which happened due to extensive burns.

15. In the case of the B.N. Kavatakar and another (supra), the Apex Court in a similar case of septicemia where the deceased therein had died in the hospital after five days of the occurrence of the incident in question, converted the conviction under section 302 to under section 326 and modified the sentence accordingly.

"18. The deceased was admitted in the hospital with about 60% burn injuries and during the course of treatment developed septicemia, which was the main cause of death of the deceased. It is, therefore, established that during the aforesaid period of 8 days the injuries aggravated and worsened to the extent that it led to ripening of the injuries and the deceased died due to poisonous effect of the injuries.

19. It is established from the dying declaration of the deceased that she was living separately from her mother-in-law, the appellant herein, for many years and that on the day in question she had a quarrel with the appellant at her house. It is also clear from the evidence on record that immediately after the quarrel she along with her daughter came to fetch water and when she was returning, the appellant came and threw a burning tonsil on the clothes of the deceased. Since the deceased was wearing a terylene cloth at that relevant point of time, it aggravated the fire which caused the burn injuries.

20. There is also evidence on record to prove and establish that the action of the appellant to throw the burning tonsil was preceded by a quarrel between the deceased and the appellant. From the aforesaid evidence on record it cannot be said that the appellant had the intention that such action on her part would cause the death or such bodily injury to the deceased, which was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause the death of the deceased. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the case cannot be said to be covered under clause (4) of Section 300 of IPC. We are, however, of the considered opinion that the case of the appellant is covered under Section 304 Part II of IPC."

However, the point which has also weighed with this court are that the deceased had survived for around 30 days in the hospital and that his condition worsened after around 5 days and ultimately died of septicemia. In fact he had sustained about 35% burns. In that view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the conviction of the appellants under section 302 of Indian Penal Code is required to be converted to that under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and in view of the same appeal is partly allowed.

17. The conviction of the appellants - original accused under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2007 arising from Sessions Case No. 149 of 2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No. 6, Ahmedabad is converted to conviction under Section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code. However, the conviction of the appellants - original accused under section 452 of Indian Penal Code is upheld. The appellants - original accused are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/- each in default rigorous imprisonment for six months under section 304 (Part I) of Indian Penal Code instead of life imprisonment and sentence in default of fine as awarded by the trial court under section 302 IPC. The sentence imposed in default of fine under section 452 IPC is also reduced to two months. Accordingly, the appellants are ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and fine of Rs. 5000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for six months for offence punishable under section 304(I) of Indian Penal Code and rigorous imprisonment for a period of five years and fine of Rs. 2,000/-, in default, rigorous imprisonment for two months for offence punishable under section 452 of Indian Penal Code. Both sentences shall run concurrently. The judgement and order dated 19.12.2007 is modified accordingly. The period of sentence already undergone shall be considered for remission of sentence qua appellants - original accused. R & P to be sent back to the trial court forthwith."

25. In latest decision in Khokan@ Khokhan Vishwas Vs. State of Chattisgarh, 2021 LawSuit (SC) 80 on which the court relies wherein the facts were similar to this case, the Apex Court has allowed the appeal of the accused appellant and sentenced under Section 304 of IPC. The decision of the Apex Court in the case of Anversinh v. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12 which was related to kidnapping from legal guardian, wherein it was established that the Court while respecting the concerns of both society and victim, propounded that the twin principle of deterrence and correction would be served by reducing the period of incarceration already undergone by the accused. In our case, this is not that gruesome matter where the accused cannot be dealt with in light of all these judgments. Judgments in Pravat Chandra Mohanty v. State of Odisha, (2021) 3 SCC 529 & Pardeshiram v. State of M.P., (2021) 3 SCC 238 will also enure for the benefit of the accused.

26. The factual scenario as it emerges would go to show that the incident occurred when the accused along with the deceased conveyed that he would pay on the next day that infuriated the accused and therefore they beat the deceased. The incident occuued out of a quarrel.

27. As narrated herein above the decision of commission of offence under Section 302 IPC cannot be concurred by us in view of the As narrated herein above as on overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the present case coupled with the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Apex Court in the Case of Tukaram and Ors (supra) and we are fortified in our view by the judgment of Apex Court in the case of B.N. Kavatakar and Another (supra) and therefore , we are of the considered opinion that the offence would be one punishable under Section 304 part-I of the IPC and not under Section 302 of IPC or Section 304 Part -II of IPC.

28. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

29. 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

30. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

31. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

32. Since the learned counsel for the appellant has later not pressed the appeal on merit, however, after perusal of entire evidence on record and judgment of the trial court, we consider that the appeal is required to be partly allowed.

33. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

34. We are unable to agree with the submission of learned learned A.G.A. as far as it relates to the finding of the court below that the death was a premeditated murder and falls within provisions of Section 300 of IPC and the sentence under Section 302 IPC is just and proper. The reason for the same is that the deceased did not die and insistence death had it been a premeditated murder, the injuries on the body would have caused his immediate death. We are unable to subscribe the submission of Sri Pandey that the matter would fall under Section 323 of IPC. The evidence is so clinching that we cannot accept the submission that the accused-appellants have not caused the death though it is the matter of fact that no weapons and instrument is used . There is a strong motive to do away that the deceased was 65 years of age. P.W.-1 the informant Sanjay @ Kalwa was got examined on behalf of the prosecution who has proved the tehrir Ex.Ka-1 and supported the prosecution case. P.W.-2 namely is Sumit, the brother of informant who has been got examined. This witness too, has supported the prosecution case. P.W.-3 Yaad Ram has been examined. He has corroborated the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2.

35. While perusing the FIR and other fact, it cannot be said that there was no common intention. All the accused had an unison after the incident come to the place of offence and assaulted the deceased though the incident occurred due to petty dispute which had arisen and there is a single blow.

36. We are in agreement with the submission of Sri Vikas Goswami, learned AGA that the presence of all the accused is proved as per the evidence of PW- 1 and 2 and there is no denial of presence of the accused. Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC is made out.

37. On the overall scrutiny of the facts and circumstances of the case coupled with medical evidence and the opinion of the Medical Officer and considering the principle laid down by the Courts in above referred case laws, we are of the considered opinion that in the case at hand, the offence would be punishable under Section 304 (Part-I) IPC.

Punishment:

38. The main accused- Kuldeep has died during the pendency of this litigation.

39. The accused is in jail since 4.5.2017. The Apex Court in such cases has converted the conviction under Section 302 read with Section 34 of I.P.C. to Section 304 Part I of I.P.C. which will come to the aid of the accused.

40. In view of the aforementioned discussion, we are of the view that the appeal has to be partly allowed, hence, appeal is partly allowed.

41. Appellant-accused is in jail since 4.5.2017. On completion of seven years of incarceration with remission is over for all the offences and if fine is not deposited, the default sentence would start after the period of seven years. The accused- appellants shall be released on completion of said period, if not required in any other case. The accused-appellants would be entitled to all remissions. The judgment and order impugned in this appeal shall stand modified accordingly.

42. Let a copy of this judgment along with the trial court record be sent to the Court and Jail Authorities concerned for compliance.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE DR. KAUSHAL JAYENDRA THAKER, J.
THE HON'BLE NALIN KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2601 of 2016

Devendra Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Mrs. Vatsala, Sri Pankaj Srivastava, Sri S.S. Rajput, Sri Shri Krishan Yadav, Sri R.S. Nisit

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A.

Criminal Law- Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32 – Dying Declaration recorded by Investigating Officer- The statement of the deceased under Section 161 CrPC recorded by the Investigating Officer is a cogent and reliable piece of evidence and is admissible as dying declaration and the prosecution undoubtedly can rely upon this statement.

Settled law that the statement of the deceased recorded u/s 161 of the CrPc would be treated as a dying declaration as there is no reason for the police officer to falsely implicate the accused.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Sections 11 & 106- The fact that at the time of occurrence accused was not present on the spot was especially within the knowledge of the accused and since the prosecution had discharged its burden on the basis of dying declaration Ext. ka-9, the onus was shifted upon the accused to show that his plea of alibi was true. Section 106 Evidence Act is not intended to relieve prosecution from discharging its duty to prove guilt of accused. Prosecution must discharge its primary onus of proof and establish the basic facts against the accused in accordance with law and only thereafter may Section 106 be restored to, in the facts and circumstances of each case-The accused has not succeeded to discharge his onus / burden to prove his plea of alibi.

Once the prosecution discharges its initial burden by proving the dying declaration, which is admissible under section 32 of the Evidence Act, then the onus shifts upon the accused to prove the plea of alibi as well as the burden of giving a credible explanation of the facts especially within his knowledge that led to the death of the deceased.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 304 IPC - life imprisonment – Quantum of Sentence- Proportionate Sentence- While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically. The criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided- Keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system the sentence of life imprisonment awarded under Section 304 IPC by learned trial court to the appellant is too harsh and severe keeping in view the facts and circumstances of this case. The appellant is in jail for the last more than 9 years. Since the appellant has already served-out more than 9 years sentence, the sentence of life imprisonment under Section 304 IPC is converted into the sentence already undergone.

Settled law that punishment should be proportionate to the gravity of the offence and the manner of its commission and undue harshness should be avoided hence, while striking a balance between deterrence and reform, endeavour should be to provide an opportunity to the convict to be reformed and assimilated in the national mainstream. Accordingly sentence of life imprisonment modified to period already undergone by the accused/appellant. (Para 13, 15, 16, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J.
Hon’ble Nalin Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Present Criminal Appeal has been directed against the judgment and order dated 8.4.2016 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge Court No.1, Hathras in Sessions Trial No. 51 of 2014 (Case Crime No. 134 of 2013), P.S. Hasayan, District Hathras convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 304 I.P.C. for life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 20,000/- with stipulation of default clause.

2. Brief facts, as culled out from the record, are that a First Information Report was lodged by the informant, Yogesh Kumar son of Rohan Singh, resident of village Pakshi Bihar, Police Station Jalesar, Etah, at Police Station Hasayan, District Hathras with the averments that marriage of her sister, Vimlesh, was solemnized with Devendra Ram son of Tikam Singh, resident of Buzurg about 12 years back. Two children were born out from their wedlock. On 10.4.2013 at about 4.00 p.m. Devendra poured kerosene upon the sister of informant and set her ablaze due to which she received burn injuries. Devendra had brought the victim to Aligarh for treatment but he fled from hospital leaving the victim there. Informant brought the victim from the hospital to the police station in an injured condition to lodge the F.I.R..

3. On the basis of the written report (Ext. ka-1), chik First Information Report (Ext. Ka-11) was registered at Police Station concerned on 11.4.2013 at 11.35 p.m. against the applicant Devendra.

4. Matter was investigated by Sub-Inspector Jiya Lal. During the course of investigation, the Investigating Officer recorded the statement of witnesses and the victim /deceased, prepared site plan, inquest report was also prepared and post mortem was performed. After making thorough investigation, charge sheet was submitted against the accused appellant. The learned Magistrate summoned the accused and committed the case to Court of Sessions, as prima facie charge was for the sessions triable offence.

5. The charge framed was under Section 304 IPC. The accused pleaded not guilty and wanted to be tried. Trial started and in support of its case, prosecution examined 7 witnesses, who are as follows:

1	Yogesh Kumar	PW-1 informant (brother of the deceased)
2	S.I. Mohd. Aslam	PW-2 (performed the inquest and prepared other papers)
3	Dr. R.P. Singh	PW-3 (prepared injury report of the victim)
4	Radhapyari	PW-4
5	Rohan Singh	PW-5
6	S.I. Jiya Lal	PW-6 (Investigating Officer)
7	Dr. Iqrar Ahmad	PW-7 (performed the post mortem of the deceased)

6. In support of oral version, following documents were filed and proved on behalf of the prosecution:

1	Written report	Ext. A-1
2	Inquest Report	Ext. A-2
3	Challan Nash	Ext. A-3
4	Letter to R.I.	Ext. A-4
5	Letter to C.M.O.	Ext. A-5
7	Injury report	Ext. A-7
8	Site Plan	Ext. A-8
9	Copy of case diary	Ext. A-9
10	Charge sheet	Ext. A-10
11	Chik F.I.R.	Ext. A-11
12	Copy G.D.	Ext. A-12
13	Post mortem report	Ext. A-13

7. Deceased was hospitalised after the occurrence by her husband. She died after 7 days of the occurrence during the course of treatment.

8. After conclusion of evidence, statement of accused was recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., in which he pleaded his false implication and claimed alibi. In support of its case defence has examined Ranvir Singh as DW-1.

9. Heard Shri S.S. Rajput, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Patanjali Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

10. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that accused has been falsely implicated in this case. He has not committed the present offence. Deceased was the wife of the appellant. It is further argued that on the basis of analysis of prosecution evidence, no guilt against the accused appellant is established and proved. Learned trial court misread the evidence and convicted and sentenced the appellant. In alternative, it is submitted that this appeal relates to the year 2016 and the appellant is in jail since 07.10.2013 i.e. for more than nine years. The sentence for life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh and excessive. If the Court deems it appropriate, as the accused has been in jail for more than 9 years without remission, he may be granted fixed term punishment of incarceration.

11. No other point or argument was raised by the learned counsel for the appellant and he confined his arguments on above points only.

12. Learned AGA for the State vehemently opposed the submissions made on behalf of the appellant and submitted that PW-4, the mother of the deceased and PW-5, father of the deceased, have supported the prosecution case in their testimonies. Several burn injuries were found on the body of the deceased. Hence, while going through the evidence on record, it cannot be said that the offence under Section 304 IPC is not made out against he appellant. The learned trial court has not committed any error in convicting and sentencing the accused-appellant under Section 304 IPC. There is no merit in the appeal and the same may be dismissed.

13. Learned Judge has categorically relied upon the testimony of PW-7 Dr. Iqrar Ahmad and has opined that deceased died out of septicemia as a result of ante mortem thermal burn. The postmortem was conducted on 18.4.2013. Though P.W.-1 - informant in his examination-in-chief has supported the prosecution case yet in his cross-examination he did not support and resiled from his earlier statement. PW-4 and PW-5 have supported the prosecution case and stated that the accused used to beat the deceased. There was a quarrel between them for returning the borrowed money from one Jaipal Singh. Deceased has stated before the Investigating Officer that the appellant has set her ablaze by pouring kerosene due to which she was severely burnt. The genesis of setting her ablaze was non-payment of borrowed money. The said statement has been proved by PW-6 in verbatim, the Investigating Officer as Ext. K-9, which was admissible under Section 32 of Evidence Act. As per Ext. A-9 the deceased had stated before the Investigating Officer as under :

"मेरी शादी देवेन्द्र के साथ हुई थी और वो मुझे परेशान करता था, मारता-पीटता था। उधार के रूपये वापस करने के ऊपर मार-पीट की थी, झगड़ा हुआ था। इस कारण "दिनांक 10.4.13 को मेरे पति देवन्द्र ने खेत से जौ निकलवाकर बाजार में बेच दिया था------- इसी बात पर दिन के चार बजे मेरे पति देवेन्द्र ने मेरे ऊपर मिट्टी का तेल डाल आग लगा दी और मैं काफी जल गई।"

14. In Mukesh Bhai Gopal Bhai Barot vs. State of Gujarat, 2010 AIR SCW 5614 it was held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that statement of a person recorded under Section 161 CrPC would be treated as dying declaration after his death. Likewise, in Pradeep Bisoi Vs. State of Odisha, (2019) 11 SCC 500, it was reiterated that the statement of victim recorded under Section 161 CrPC before three months of the death will cover under Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act and admissible as dying declaration after death of the victim.

15. PW-6, the Investigating Officer, is a responsible police officer. He has no grudge or enmity with the accused and there is no possibility of false implication of the accused by this witness. In the present case the statement of the deceased under Section 161 CrPC recorded by the Investigating Officer is a cogent and reliable piece of evidence and is admissible as dying declaration and the prosecution undoubtedly can reply upon this statement.

16. The accused has taken a specific plea in his statement under Section 313 CrPC that at the time of occurrence he was not present at his home and had gone to the market. To prove this fact, DW-1 Ranvir Singh has been examined on behalf of accused. Learned trial court has elaborately discussed the entire evidence of DW-1 and has found that his evidence is not cogent and trustworthy. We have also analyzed the evidence of DW-1 and found that in the facts and circumstances of the case and also in the light of topography of the place of occurrence, as has been shown in the site plan Ext. ka-8 prepared by the Investigating Officer, the evidence of DW-1 Ranvir Singh is not believable. It is also pertinent to mention here that the fact that at the time of occurrence accused was not present on the spot was especially within the knowledge of the accused and since the prosecution had discharged its burden on the basis of dying declaration Ext. ka-9, the onus was shifted upon the accused to show that his plea of alibi was true. It has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Satye Singh and Another v. State of Uttarakhand, (2022) 5 SCC 438 that Section 106 Evidence Act is not intended to relieve prosecution from discharging its duty to prove guilt of accused. Prosecution must discharge its primary onus of proof and establish the basic facts against the accused in accordance with law and only thereafter may Section 106 be restored to, in the facts and circumstances of each case.

17. In Shambu Nath Mehra vs. State of Ajmer, AIR 1956 SC 404, wherein the basic law on the subject was discussed, has been relied upon in the case of Satye Singh (supra). It has been held by Hon'ble Apex Court that :

"11. This lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible, or at any rate disproportionately difficult, for the prosecution to establish facts which are "especially" within the knowledge of the accused and which he could prove without difficulty or inconvenience. The word "especially" stresses that. It means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within his knowledge. If the section were to be interpreted otherwise, it would lead to the very startling conclusion that in a murder case the burden lies on the accused to prove that he did not commit the murder because who could know better than he whether he did or did not. It is evident that that cannot be the intention and the Privy Council has twice refused to construe this section, as reproduced in certain other Acts outside India, to mean that the burden lies on an accused person to show that he did not commit the crime for which he is tried. These cases are Attygalle v. Emperor [Attygalle v. Emperor, 1936 SCC OnLine PC 20 : AIR 1936 PC 169] and Seneviratne v. R. [Seneviratne v. R., (1936) 3 All ER 36] , All ER at p. 49."

18. It has already been held above that the accused has not succeeded to discharge his onus / burden to prove his plea of alibi, hence, this legal position also stands against him.

19. The learned Sessions Judge has relied upon the testimony of PW-4, PW-5, PW-6 and PW-7 and convicted and sentenced the appellant for the offence under Section 304 IPC. As per the finding of the learned trial court, the incident happened out of quarrel and death has happened due to septicemia as a result of thermal burn.

20. Considering the evidence of the witnesses and also considering the medical evidence including post mortem report and more particularly the dying declaration, there is no doubt left in our mind about the guilt of the present appellant, as concluded by the trial court. We concur with the same.

21. Now it takes us to the quantum of sentence, specifically under Section 304 IPC, where life imprisonment has been awarded by learned trial court. For awarding the sentence, we have to keep in mind the theories of punishment in our country.

22. In Mohd. Giasuddin Vs. State of AP, [AIR 1977 SC 1926], explaining rehabilitary & reformative aspects in sentencing it has been observed by the Supreme Court:

"Crime is a pathological aberration. The criminal can ordinarily be redeemed and the state has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to ante-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by reculturization. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology in the individual and the goal is salvaging him for the society.

The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today vies sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of a social defence. Hence a therapeutic, rather than an 'in terrorem' outlook should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind. If you are to punish a man retributively, you must injure him. If you are to reform him, you must improve him and, men are not improved by injuries."

23. The term 'Proper Sentence' was explained in Deo Narain Mandal Vs. State of UP [(2004) 7 SCC 257] by observing that Sentence should not be either excessively harsh or ridiculously low. While determining the quantum of sentence, the court should bear in mind the 'principle of proportionality'. Sentence should be based on facts of a given case. Gravity of offence, manner of commission of crime, age and sex of accused should be taken into account. Discretion of Court in awarding sentence cannot be exercised arbitrarily or whimsically.

24. In Ravada Sasikala vs. State of A.P. AIR 2017 SC 1166, the Supreme Court referred the judgments in Jameel vs State of UP [(2010) 12 SCC 532], Guru Basavraj vs State of Karnatak, [(2012) 8 SCC 734], Sumer Singh vs Surajbhan Singh, [(2014) 7 SCC 323], State of Punjab vs Bawa Singh, [(2015) 3 SCC 441], and Raj Bala vs State of Haryana, [(2016) 1 SCC 463] and has reiterated that, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. Facts and given circumstances in each case, nature of crime, manner in which it was planned and committed, motive for commission of crime, conduct of accused, nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into area of consideration. Further, undue sympathy in sentencing would do more harm to justice dispensations and would undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to nature of offence and manner of its commission. The supreme court further said that courts must not only keep in view the right of victim of crime but also society at large. While considering imposition of appropriate punishment, the impact of crime on the society as a whole and rule of law needs to be balanced. The judicial trend in the country has been towards striking a balance between reform and punishment. The protection of society and stamping out criminal proclivity must be the object of law which can be achieved by imposing appropriate sentence on criminals and wrongdoers. Law, as a tool to maintain order and peace, should effectively meet challenges confronting the society, as society could not long endure and develop under serious threats of crime and disharmony. It is therefore, necessary to avoid undue leniency in imposition of sentence. Thus, the criminal justice jurisprudence adopted in the country is not retributive but reformative and corrective. At the same time, undue harshness should also be avoided keeping in view the reformative approach underlying in our criminal justice system.

25. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and also keeping in view criminal jurisprudence in our country which is reformative and corrective and not retributive, this Court considers that no accused person is incapable of being reformed and therefore, all measures should be applied to give them an opportunity of reformation in order to bring them in the social stream.

26. As discussed above, 'reformative theory of punishment' is to be adopted and for that reason, it is necessary to impose punishment keeping in view the 'doctrine of proportionality'. It appears from perusal of impugned judgment that sentence awarded by learned trial court for life term is very harsh keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances of the case and gravity of offence. Hon'ble Apex Court, as discussed above, has held that undue harshness should be avoided taking into account the reformative approach underlying in criminal justice system.

27. Keeping in view the reformative theory of punishment and "doctrine of proportionality", it appears to us that the sentence of life imprisonment awarded under Section 304 IPC by learned trial court to the appellant is too harsh and severe keeping in view the facts and circumstances of this case. The appellant is in jail for the last more than 9 years. This fact is also admitted by learned AGA.

28. Hence, we are of the considered view that since the appellant has already served-out more than 9 years sentence, the sentence of life imprisonment under Section 304 IPC is converted into the sentence already undergone. Fine amount is reduced to Rs. 10,000/-. If fine is not paid within 12 weeks from the date of release, appellant shall undergo six months' further incarceration.

29. The appeal is accordingly partly allowed, as modified above.

30. The office is directed to transmit the record to the court below.

THE HON'BLE DINESH PATHAK, J.

Writ-B No. 978 of 2022

Chandrashekhar ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Arun Kumar Srivastava

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

Civil Law - Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 - Section 4-A, 6 & 44 - Issue - whether High Court can examine the legality and validity of issuance of notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act or not ? – Held - St. Government has power to promulgate the notifications, as required in it's opinion and such notifications are part of legislative functions which are not open in ordinary course for judicial review unless it suffers with the grounds of ultra vires or lack of competence of legislation or unreasonableness - it would not be proper to interfere in the notification issued by the St. Government to carry out consolidation operation or its cancellation - when the Director of the Consolidation issues a notification u/s 4 or 6 of the Act, he performs neither a quasi-judicial function nor exercises any administrative power but performs a legislative function - The Director of Consolidation cannot be required to give either a reasoned order or to accord hearing to the tenure holders concerned before issuing a notification under Section 6 of the Act (13, 14, 15, 16)

Grievance of the petitioner is that the village has illegally been brought under the consolidation operation by issuing notification under Section 4-A of 'U.P.C.H. Act - Held - Consolidation Commissioner has returned finding of fact emphasizing the need to carry out the consolidation operation in the village/unit in question - it was directed that minimal area should be disturbed/shifted while allotment of chaks to the chak holders considering their convenience - order under challenge passed by the Consolidation Commissioner on the representation moved by villagers is not a judicial order - He has returned finding of fact after conducting proper enquiry by the authorities concerned, who have submitted their report, and accorded proper opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned - petitioner failed to substantiate his submission in assailing the impugned notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act. (Para 21, 22)

6. Jasmeet Singh Vs St. of U.P. & ors. Writ-B No. 8706 of 2016 dt 07.04.2016

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Present writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 04.03.2022 (Annexure-8) passed by the Consolidation Commissioner (respondent no. 4), rejecting the representation dated 31.12.2021 moved by one Awadhesh Mishra, in pursuance of the order dated 18.11.2021 passed by this Court in Writ-B No. 1764 of 2021; Awadhesh Mishra vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others (Annexure-7).

3. Grievance of the petitioner is that village Chandadih, Pargana Sikendarpur, Tehsil Belthara Road, District Ballia has illegally been brought under the consolidation operation by issuing notification under Section 4-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act (in brevity 'U.P.C.H. Act') promulgated on 27.05.2016 and the Consolidation Commissioner has illegally rejected the representation without adverting to the grievance raised before him.

4. Facts culled out from the averments made in the writ petition are that some of the villagers have shown their dissatisfaction against the issuance of notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act, inter alia, on the grounds that previously, consolidation operation had already been finalized in the year 1971 and there was no occasion to carry out second round consolidation operation. Feeling aggrieved against the said notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act, one Awadhesh Mishra had filed writ petition before this Court challenging the said notification being Writ-B No. 1764 of 2021 (Awdhesh Mishra vs. State of U.P. & 3 Others). While deciding the said writ petition, this Court has observed that there was a sharp division of opinion amongst the villagers qua carrying out second round consolidation operation. Some of the villagers are in favour of carrying out consolidation operation and some are in favour of cancellation of the notification, consequently, this Court, vide order dated 18.11.2021, has disposed of the writ petition with a direction to the Consolidation Commissioner to decide the representation of the petitioner, which is quoted herein below :-

"1. Heard Sri Deepak Kumar Jaiswal, Advocate holding brief of Sri Arun Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Supplementary affidavit and instructions are taken on record.

3. Sri Girish Chandra Maurya, Advocate has filed impleadment application for impleadment of applicants as respondents as they are necessary party to the case. The impleadment application is not objected by learned counsel for the petitioner, same is accordingly allowed and learned counsel for the applicants is directed to incorporate necessary impleadment during course of the day.

4. In the present writ petition, notification under Section 4 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act was issued on 30.09.2021, but it seems that the petitioner is aggrieved by the said proceedings inasmuch as according to him majority of villagers are not in favour of such proceedings as according to him no fruitful purpose would be served by the same.

5. On the other hand an application for impleadment has been moved claiming to be representing majority of villagers, who, according to him are in favour of the consolidation proceedings. He further submits that a report has been submitted by the Consolidation Committee to the authorities concerned in favour of the consolidation proceedings.

6. The question involved in this writ petition is as to whether consolidation proceedings should proceed or not. In the present circumstances, as there are clearly two versions available contradicting each other and consequently it would be appropriate that the issue need be suitable considered by the Consolidation Commissioner, U.P. at Lucknow.

7. Accordingly, in the light of above, with the consent of learned counsel for the parties, present writ petition is disposed of with direction that the Consolidation Commissioner, U.P. at Lucknow shall look into the matter and pass reasoned and speaking order on the representation of the petitioner within two months, from the date of production of certified copy of this order, after giving opportunity of hearing to all the concerned, in accordance with law.

8. The effected persons who have approached this Court may approach the Consolidation Commissioner for redressal of their grievance along with the decision on the representation of the petitioner.

9. With above observations/directions the writ petition stands disposed of."

5. In pursuance of the order dated 18.11.2021, respondent no. 4 has passed impugned order dated 04.03.2022 rejecting the representation dated 31.12.2021 moved by Awadhesh Mishra (petitioner in Writ Petition No. 1764 of 2021) for cancellation of the notification under Section 4A of the U.P.C.H. Act and has further directed to the authorities concerned for preparation of the provisional consolidation scheme as enunciated under Section 19 & 19A of the U.P.C.H. Act.

6. Said impugned order dated 04.03.2022 passed by respondent No. 4 is being challenged in the presnt writ petition by third person namely Chandrashekhar (the petitioner herein) who is claiming himself to be the resident of said village.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that no justifiable ground was available to the State authority to put the village in question under consolidation operation. Representation moved by Awadhesh Mishra has illegally been rejected by the Consolidation Commissioner without adverting to the grievance as raised by the villagers in the representation. It is further submitted that material available on the record has illegally been ignored by the Consolidation Commissioner in deciding the representation. Counsel for the petitioner has drawn the attention of the Court towards the provisions as enunciated under Rule 17 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules (in brevity 'U.P.C.H. Rules') in support of his submission that tenure holder of the village are generally satisfied with the present position, therefore, they do not want any consolidation operation in the village and owing to party factions in the villagers, proper consolidation proceeding in the village is very difficult. It is further submitted that the Consolidation Commissioner has passed the impugned order in a very cursory manner without application of mind which is illegal, unwarranted under the law and tainted with irregularities, therefore, liable to be quashed and the consolidation authorities may be directed not to carry out consolidation operation in the village in pursuance of notification promulgated on 27.05.2016.

8. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel has contended that respondent No. 4 has rightly decided the matter after calling for the report from the District Magistrate/District Deputy Director of Consolidation and the joint report of Settlement Officer of Consolidation and the Additional District Magistrate. Before passing order the Consolidation Commissioner has given full opportunity of hearing to the villagers including the Village Pradhan and Awadhesh Mishra who was the petitioner in previous writ petition. It is further contended that the notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act is not assailable in the court of law being conditional legislation and the State is not under legal obligation to record the reason for exercising its legislative power in a peculiar way. It is also contended that the legislation cannot legislate on the sweet will of any person, therefore, the instant writ petition, challenging the order impugned and seeking a mandamus against the authorities concerned not to proceed with the notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act, is nothing but an abuse of process of law, misconceived and devoid of merits which is liable to be dismissed in limine.

9. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record, the question for consideration in the present petition lies in a very narrow compass as to whether this Court can examine the legality and validity of issuance of notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act or not.

10. Before considering the scope of judicial review qua issuance of notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act, it would be befitting to go through the relevant provisions relating to cancellation of notification under Section 4 or 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act, as enunciated under Section 6 of the U.P. Act read with Rule 17 of the U.P.C.H. Rules which are reproduced hereinunder :-

" Section 6. Cancellation of notification under Section 4.--(1) It shall be lawful for the State Government at any time to cancel the [notification] made under Section 4 in respect of the whole or any part of the area specified therein.

[(2) Where a [notification] has been canceled in respect of any unit under sub-section (1), such area shall, subject to the final orders relating to the correction of land records, if any, passed on or before the date of such cancellation, cease to be under consolidation operations with effect from the date of the cancellation.]

'Rule 17'. Section 6.--The [notification] made under Section 4 of the Act, may among other reasons, be cancelled in respect of whole or any part of the area on one or more of the following grounds, viz, that --

(a) the area is under a development scheme of such a nature as when completed would render the consolidation operations inequitable to a section of the peasantry;

(b) the holdings of the village are already consolidated for one reason or the other and the tenure-holders are generally satisfied with the present position;

(c) the village is so torn up by party factions as to render proper consolidation proceedings in the village very difficult; and

(d) that a co-operative society has been formed for carrying out cultivation in the area after pooling all the land of the area for this purpose."

11. Sections 4(1)(a), 4-A(1) and 6 (1) of the U.P.C.H. Act entrusts power to the State Government for issuing notification to bring a district or part thereof under the consolidation operation or its cancellation as mentioned in the said sections respectively. The State Government exercises its power for issuing notification through delegated legislation as enunciated under Section 44 of U.P.C.H. Act and to delegate its power under the provisions of Section 44 of the U.P.C.H. Act, the State Government has issued notification dated October 19, 1956 authorizing the Director of Consolidation (Consolidation Commissioner) of the State to issue notification under Sections 4(1)(a), 4-A (1) & 6 (1) of U.P.C.H. Act respectively. For ready reference, provisions as enunciated under Section 44 of the U.P.C.H. Act is quoted hereinunder:-

"Section 44. Delegation.-- The State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, and subject to such restrictions and conditions as may be specified in the notification.

(i) delegate to any officer or authority any of the powers conferred upon it by this Act; and

(ii) confer power of the Director of Consolidation, Deputy Director, Consolidation, the Settlement Officer, Consolidation, and the Consolidation Officer under this Act or the rules, made thereunder on any officer or authority."

12. The provisions, as mentioned above, succinct the power of State Government to promulgate the notifications, as required in it's opinion and such notifications are part of legislative functions which are not open in ordinary course for judicial review unless it suffers with the grounds of ultra vires or lack of competence of legislation or unreasonableness.

13. Scope of judicial review against the notification under Sections 4 & 6 of the U.P.C.H. Act has been examined by the Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Agricultural & Industrial Syndicate Ltd. vs. State of U.P. reported in 1976 RD 35 and it has been expounded that "when the Director of the Consolidation issued a notification under Section 4 or 6 of the Act, he performs neither a quasi judicial function nor exercises any administrative power but performs a legislative function. To judge the validity of the notification, the Court must apply the same as it would apply to a piece of legislation. Just as, it cannot be contended that any legislative authority should given reason in support of its legislation or give a hearing to those affected before proceeding to legislate. The Director of Consolidation also cannot be required to give either a reasoned order or to accord hearing to the tenure holders concerned before issuing a notification under Section 6 of the Act."

14. More over, the Division Bench has further held that "If the High Court allows the writ petition and quashes the notification issued under Section 6, the result would be in substance a direction to the State Government to continue the consolidation proceedings in the area in question in spite of the fact that it has not considered it fit to do so in exercise of powers vested in it by the legislature. As the notification under Section 4 & 6 are issued by the State Government in exercise of conditional legislative power, it cannot be conceivably contended that the High Court can issue a mandamus to the legislature to legislate on any subject or to apply any law to any area. The High Court cannot pass an order making it obligatory on the State Government to enforce the scheme of consolidation in an area where, in its opinion, such scheme should not be enforced. It would amount to compel the State Government to exercise its power of conditional legislation."

15. In case of Deo Nath Kewat vs. Dy. Director of Consolidation and others (1990 RD 177), co-ordinate Bench of this Court has held that as the issuance of notification under Section 6 for cancellation of the notification under Section 4 (four) is an administrative-cum-policy matter to be decided by the State Government, either to issue notification under Section 4 for the consolidation operation to commence in the area or to issue notification under Section 6. As a matter of fact the scope of writ of mandamus can not be extended to such an extent as to enforce administrative or legislative powers. In fact, either to issue notification under Section 6 for cancellation of notification is a sort of legislative power of the state. The jurisdiction of High Court under Article 226 need not be stretched to such an extent so as to compel the State Government to legislate on a particular subject, particularly when it does not give a corresponding right in favour of the petitioner.

16. Relying upon the judgment of the Division Bench in the case of Agricultural & Industrial Syndicate Ltd. (Supra), a Coordinate Bench of this Court in batch of cases, leading Writ Petition No. 337 of 1990 (Rajaram Ojha vs. Consolidation Commissioner) decided on 31.03.2014 reported in MANU/UP/2782/2014, has held as well that it would not be proper to interfere in the notification issued by the State Government to carry out consolidation operation or its cancellation. Relevant paragraph nos. 8 & 9 of this judgment is quoted hereinunder :-

"8. Coming to the authorities cited on behalf of the State, it is appropriate to refer to the Division Bench decision of this Court in the Case of the Agricultural and Industrial Syndicate Limited v. State of U.P. 1976 RD 35. In this case it was held that the notifications issued either under section 6 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act are not in exercise of an executive function but a legislative function. This judgment records as follows "As already held, the notifications under section 4 and 6 of the Act are issued by the State Government in exercise of conditional legislative powers. It cannot be conceivably contended that this Court can issue a mandamus to the legislature to legislate on any subject or to apply any law to any area. It was observed by the Supreme Court in The State of Bihar v. Sir Kamleshwar Singh MANU/SC/8741/2006:-

"It cannot possibly have been intended that the legislature should be under an obligation to make a law in exercise of that power, for no obligation of that kind can be enforced by the Court against a legislative body." Similarly, this Court could not pass an order which would make it obligatory on the State Government to enforce the scheme of consolidation in an area where in its opinion such scheme should not be enforced. It would amount to compel the State Government to exercise its powers of conditional legislation."

9. The Second judgment relied upon by the State is Dev Nath Kewat v. Deputy Director of Consolidation 1990 RD 175. This judgment, relying upon the ratio laid down in the case of Agricultural and Industrial Syndicate Limited (supra), has held as follows :--

"The scope of writ of mandamus is by now well settled that unless there is some denial of the statutory duty cast upon the State and authority and the State has refused to carry out the statutory duty, in that event writ of mandamus cannot be issued. In the instant case by refusing to issue notification under section 6(1) of the Act it cannot be said that the State Government has refused to carry out any statutory duty imposed upon it. In such matters no writ of mandamus can be issued. However, it is open to the petitioners to approach the State Government with their representation if so advised."

17. In the case of Smt. Kalpi Devi vs. Consolidation Commissioner & Another reported in 2016 (131) R.D., 738, a Division Bench of this Court has shown its agreement with the decision of previous Division Bench of this Court in the case of Agricultural & Industrial Syndicate Ltd. (Supra). It is apposite to mention that in the said judgment the Division Bench has also considered the another judgment of the Division Bench of this Court rendered in the matter of Dalip & 3 Others vs. Vikram Singh & 6 Others reported in 2015 (128) R.D., 666. Relevant paragraph no. 3 of the judgment in the case of Smt. Kalpi Devi (Supra) is quoted hereinunder :-

"3. This Court obviously cannot issue a writ which would make it obligatory upon the State Government to enforce a scheme of consolidation in an area where in its opinion such a scheme should not or cannot be enforced. It would amount to compelling the State Government to exercise its power of conditional legislation. The law as declared by the Division Bench in Agricultural & Industrial Syndicate Limited has been consistently followed by this Court and stood reiterated in the recent pronouncement of the Court in Dalip Singh. We therefore find no ground which would warrant interference with the view taken by the learned Single Judge especially when the same was itself founded on what had been consistently held by the Division Benches of this Court."

18. So far as the applicability of Rule 17 of U.P.C.H. Rules is concerned, from perusal of Rules, it is clear that rules are made by the State Government by applying its power under Section 54 of the U.P.C.H. Act. Rule 17 of the U.P.C.H. Rules are neither exhaustive nor mandatory for the purposes of issuance of notification under Section 6(1) of the U.P.C.H. Act to cancel the consolidation operation carrying out in pursuance of notification promulgated under Section 4 or Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act. It is noteworthy to state that all these rules as framed under Section 54 of the U.P.C.H. Act are subject to provisions as enunciated under Section 54(3) of the U.P.C.H. Act.

19. Considering the scope and nature of Rule 17 of the U.P.C.H. Rules, a Coordinate Bench of this Court in Writ-B No. 8706 of 2016 (Jasmeet Singh vs. State of U.P. & 2 Others) decided on 07.04.2016 has held as under :-

"The only other point which survives for consideration is as to whether the provisions contained in Rule 17 of the Act are mandatory. I have in the judgment dated 31.03.2014 in a bunch of cases, the leading case wherein was Writ Consolidation No. 535 pf 2-15, Raja Ram Ojha Vs. Consolidation Commissioner and others, already considered this aspect and have held that the opening words in Rule 17 are :'the notification made under Section 4 of the Act may among other reasons be cancelled" are such that the conditions mentioned in Rule 17 are rendered merely illustrative. Anything which is only illustrative cannot be mandatory. The wording of Rule 17 is not such that would lead to a conclusion that these conditions are comprehensive or mandatory. Besides the Division Bench decision in the case of Agricultural & Industrial Syndicate Limited has already laid down that no reasons are required to be disclosed for issuing the notification either under Section 4 or Section 6 of the Act. It therefore, necessarily follows that it is the subjective satisfaction of the Authority competent to issue the notification which alone is of any consequence. If reasons are not to be assigned for issuing the notification, it is not open for the writ Court to scrutinize the reasons for the same. The conditions enumerated in Rule 17 are therefore, mere guidance for the Authority taking the decision in this regard and for this reason also, the conditions in Section 17 cannot be held to be mandatory by any stretch of imagination."

20. Applying the legal proposition, as discussed above, in the facts and circumstances of the instant case, I am of the view that the present petition does not deserve any indulgence of this Court. Perusal of the impugned order dated 04.03.2022 reveals that before deciding the representation, the Consolidation Commissioner has called for the report dated 08.02.2022 from the District Magistrate/District Deputy Director of Consolidation and the joint report dated 03.02.2022 submitted by the Additional District Magistrate and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. In the said reports it has been pointed out that the considerable area of Gaon Sabha is in the possession of illegal occupants. In the joint meeting with villagers, 97 chak holders have opposed the consolidation operation whereas 243 chak holders were in favour of carrying out the consolidation operation. Total area of village is measuring 362 hectare and there are 1094 plots (holdings). During spot inspection only 263 plots were found along side the chak road and remaining 841 plots were found without facility of chak road. In the impugned order, the Consolidation Commissioner considered the points as raised on behalf of villagers including Awadhesh Mishra (petitioner in the previous writ petition) and the village Pradhan. Maximum villagers and the Village Pradhan have categorically stated that there is a shortage of drainage, chak road and place for public convenience. Having considered the rival submissions and the reports submitted by the authority concerned, the Consolidation Commissioner has given a categorical finding that the maximum land of public utility, belongs to the Gaon Sabha, are in the illegal occupation of miscreants. Apart from that only 253 plots (23.12%) are with the facility of chak road and remaining 75% of the land are without the facility of chak road which is causing difficulty to access the holdings. It is also observed by the Consolidation Commissioner that land of the maximum chak holders are in scattered position without the facility of drainage and chak road. A categorical finding has also been recorded that maximum number of villagers are in favour of carrying out the consolidation operation. Even Awadhesh Mishra (petitioner in previous writ petition) has also agreed to carry out the consolidation operation with the condition of minimum deduction and to avoid unnecessary shifting of chaks.

21. After discussing all the material available on record and the averments made by the parties concerned in detail, the Consolidation Commissioner has returned the finding of fact emphasizing the need to carry out the consolidation operation in the village/unit in question and issued a direction to proceed with the consolidation operation and issuance of notification under Section 19 & 19-A of U.P.C.H. Act to carry out the provisional consolidation scheme. It has also been directed that minimal area should be disturbed/shifted while allotment of chaks to the chak holders considering their convenience. Finding of fact as returned by the Consolidation Commissioner in the impugned order with respect to the necessity for carrying out the consolidation operation, as discussed in the impugned order, has not been challenged by the petitioner in this writ petition. It is also apposite to mention that the petitioner of earlier writ petition has accepted the carrying out of consolidation operation with a condition to avoid unnecessary shifting of chak which has appropriately been accepted by the Consolidation Commissioner and, accordingly, issued direction to complete consolidation operation. Moreover, order under challenge passed by the Consolidation Commissioner on the representation moved by villagers is not a judicial order. He has returned finding of fact after conducting proper enquiry by the authorities concerned, who have submitted their report, and accorded proper opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned.

22. In this conspectus as above, I am of the considered view that no justifiable ground is made out to interfere in the order under challenge. Counsel for the petitioner has failed to substantiate his submission in assailing the impugned order and the issuance of notification under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act. There is nothing on the record to demonstrate as to how the petitioner is prejudiced or is there any likelihood of causing miscarriage of justice to him due to the order under challenge. There is no illegality, perversity and ambiguity in the order under challenge which may warrant indulgence of this Court in exercise of its extra ordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Even otherwise there is no justification to review the intent of legislation promulgated under Section 4-A of the U.P.C.H. Act.

23. Resultantly, instant writ petition, being misconceived and devoid of merits, is dismissed with no order as to costs.

Gaya Din & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus
Dy. Director of Consolidation & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Yogesh Agarwal, Sri Sanjay Singh, Mrs. Vatsala, Sri Ravi Kant

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri A.N. Bhargawa, Sri Ashutosh Kumar Tiwari

A. Civil Law - U.P Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 – Section 9A - Res-judicata - decree of Civil Court passed in injunction suit in respect of agricultural land will not operate as res-judicata in the title objection under Section 9A (2) of the U.P.C.H. Act (Para 13)

B. Civil Law - U.P Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 – Section 9A - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Section 64, 65 & 90 - if certified copy has not been placed on record after satisfying the requirements of Section 64/65 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, the mere fact that it was a certified copy by itself, would not make it admissible in evidence since it is secondary evidence and can be adduced in evidence only as provided in statute and not otherwise (Para 15)

Petitioners' father was recorded over disputed plots till the basic year of consolidation - respondent no.2 (Jairaji) claimed that Gift deed was executed in her favour as such, she is the sole-bhumidhar - Respondent no.2 although was not recorded in the revenue records filed a civil suit for injunction in respect of Bhumidari disputed plots which was decreed in her favour which attained finality by dismissal of civil appeal filed by petitioners' father - On the basis of civil Court's injunction decree, respondent no.2 initiated proceedings for recording her name over disputed Khata - Against the Basic Year Entry objection was filed by respondent no.2 for recording her name after expunging the name of petitioners' father Kashi Ram - Original copy of gift deed was not filed before Consolidation Court rather certified copy was filed before Consolidation Officer without any explanation about the original Gift deed - Consolidation Officer, dismissed the objection of respondent no.2 and maintained the Basic Year Entry and held that original of the Gift deed has not been filed which goes against respondent no.2 & further held that judgment of civil Court passed in injunction suit will not operate as res-judicata in the proceeding initiated under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act - Appeal filed by respondent no. 2 dismissed - Revisional Court directed to record the name of respondent no.2 over the disputed plots after expunging the name of petitioners - Revisional order passed on the ground that certified Gift deed is more than 20 years old as such, in view of the provisions contained under Section 90A of the Evidence Act, the Gift deed will be presumed to be executed genuine & on the basis of certified copy of Gift deed, right can be given to opposite party no.2 - Held - Revisional Court failed to notice about the original Gift deed and that there was no explanation or pleading about the non filing of original Gift deed either in the courts below or before High Court - revisional order passed on the second ground that Gift deed is more than 20 year old, as such, on the basis of certified copy of Gift deed, right can be given to opposite party no.2 without examining anything cannot be sustained - injunction decree cannot operate as resjudicata in the proceedings arising out of Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act but revisional Court has illegally held that injunction decree passed by civil Court will operate as res - judicata - Impugned revisional orders passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation, Jaunpur quashed - order passed by consolidation office & order passed by Settlement Officer of Consolidation are maintained (Para 16, 18, 19, 20)

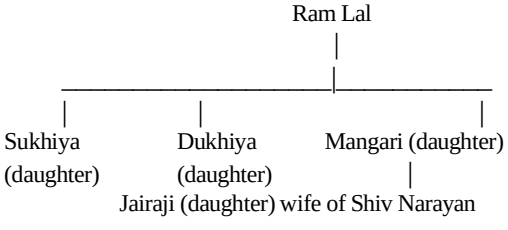
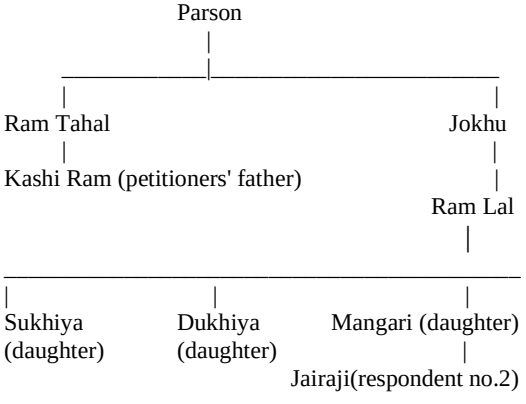
(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Brief facts of the case are that Khata No.116 situated in Village- Sultanpur Khas, Pargana-Garwara, Tehsil- Machhali Shahar, District- Jaunpur was recorded in the name of petitioners' father, Kashi Ram son of Ram Tahal. Against the Basic Year Entry, one objection under Section 9A (2) of the U.P.C.H. Act was filed by Shri Ram and Others in respect of Plot No.728 area 38 decimal of Khata No.161 that Kashi Ram is wrongly recorded over the same so his name be recorded after expunging the name of the Kashi Ram. Another objection against the Basic Year Entry was filed by respondent no.2, Smt. Jairagi daughter of Smt. Mangri in respect of Plot Nos.663, 664, 686, 687 and 695 of Khata No.161 to record her name exclusively after expunging the name of Kashi Ram. Respondent no.2 has placed following pedigree in support of her case:-



2. The basis of the claim of respondent no.2 (Jairaji) was that Ram Lal has executed Gift deed on 14.4.1950 in favour of his three daughters, namely, Sukhiya, Dukhiya and Mangri, who have died, as such, she is the sole-bhumidhar being daughter's daughter of disputed plots.

3. Another Pedigree has been mentioned in Para No.4 of the order of Revisional Court dated 11.8.1982 which is mentioned as undisputed, the same is as follows:-



4. Before Consolidation Officer following three issues were framed:-

(i) Whether Shri Ram is bhumidhar of Plot No.728 area 38 decimal.

(ii) Whether Smt. Jairaji daughter of Mangri is exclusive owner of plots in dispute as given in her objection.

(iii) Whether name of Kashi Ram is wrongly recorded over disputed plots.

5. Issue no.1 was decided in favour of objector Shri Ram as the same was wrongly recorded in 1360 fasli in the name of Ram Lal without any basis while earlier it was recorded in the name of ancestor of Shri Ram.

6. With respect to issue Nos.2 and 3 petitioners' father Kashi Ram and respondent no.2, Smt. Jairaji adduced oral and documentary evidences in support of their cases.

7. According to Kashi Ram his father Ram Tahal and father of deceased Ram Lal were real brothers, as such, Ram Lal was cousin of Kashi Ram. He further alleged that Smt. Mangari died first in the three daughters, Sukhiya died after Mangari and Dukhiya died after Sukhiya, all the three daughters were married in the life time of their father Ram Lal and all of them were residing in their in-laws house (Sasural).

8. From the side of respondent no.2, judgment of civil Court passed in Suit No.435 of 1959 (Sukhiya and Others Vs. Kashi Ram) was filed, the suit was for injunction, which was decreed on 10.11.1960 in favour of plaintiffs and Civil Appeal No.148 of 961 filed by Kashi Ram was dismissed. From the side of petitioners' father Kashi Ram, order dated 26.7.1957 passed by Naib Teshildar in Case No.3488 was filed before Consolidation Officer by which name of Kashi Ram was ordered to be recorded after expunging the name of Ram Lal. Smt. Jairaji filed a case in revenue Court on the basis of civil Court decree for injunction was dismissed by Assistant Collector by order dated 28.5.1962 and further the case under Section 33/39 of U.P. Land Revenue Act filed by respondent no.2 was also dismissed by Sub-Divisional Officer which proves that petitioners' father remained recorded over disputed plots in pursuance of the order dated 26.7.1957 till the basic year of consolidation. Operation, objection and appeal against the Basic Year Entry were dismissed by Consolidation Courts. Both parties filed revenue entries in support of their cases. Consolidation Officer considered the oral evidences and documentary evidence adduced by both parties. Consolidation Officer noticed the fact that Sukhiya, Dukhiya and Mangri in whose favour Gift deed is alleged to be executed on 10.5.1950 had not filed an objection before Consolidation Court, respondent no.2 claimed right on the basis of alleged Gift deed which was not proved even before Civil Court as mentioned in the judgment of civil Court. Consolidation Officer further held that judgment of civil Court passed in injunction suit will not operate as res-judicata in the proceeding initiated under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act. Consolidation Officer further held that original of the Gift deed has not been filed which goes against respondent no.2 accordingly, Consolidation Officer vide order dated 24.11.1976 dismissed the objection of respondent no.2 and maintained the Basic Year Entry, the objection of one Shri Ram in respect to one Plot no.728 was allowed. Appeal filed by respondent no.2 under Section 11 of U.P.C.H. Act against the order of Consolidation Officer dated 24.11.1976 was dismissed vide order dated 13.12.1977. Respondent no.2 challenged the orders of Courts below before revisional Court under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act in which petitioners have put in appearance but on the date of hearing petitioners could not appear and the revision was allowed ex-parte vide order dated 11.8.1982 by which order of Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation were set aside and further direction was issued to record the name of respondent no.2 over the disputed plots after expunging the name of petitioners. When petitioners came to know about the revisional order dated 11.8.1982, an application for setting aside the ex-parte order dated 11.8.1982 was filed on 21.8.1982, the same was dismissed by revisional Court vide order dated 22.2.1985 holding that earlier order dated 11.8.1982 was passed on merit hence this writ petition on behalf of petitioners challenging both the orders dated 11.8.1982 and 22.2.1985.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioners Shri Ravi Kant holding the brief of Mrs. Vatsala submitted that revisional Court has not afforded opportunity of hearing to the petitioners, as such, revisional order will be treated exparte against the petitioners. He further submitted that revisional Court has exceeded his jurisdiction while allowing the revision and expunging the Basic Year Entry which was continuing much before the basic year of consolidation operation. He further submitted that entire evidences (oral and documentary) as considered by Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation have not been considered at all by revisional Court and the judgment of reversal has been passed. He next submitted that decree of Civil Court passed in injunction suit in respect of agricultural land will not operate as res-judicata in the title objection under Section 9A (2) of the U.P.C.H. Act, Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation have rightly held that decree of injunction suit passed by Civil Court will not operate as res-judicata in the proceeding arising out of Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act but revisional Court has arbitrarily held that decree of Civil Court relating to injunction suit will operate as res-judicata in the title objection before Consolidation Court. He next submitted that original copy of gift deed dated 14.4.1950 has not been filed at all before Consolidation Court rather certified copy of the will-deed dated 10.5.1950 has been filed before Consolidation Officer without any explanation about the original Gift deed and the revisional Court arbitrarily relying upon Section 90 A of the Indian Evidence Act presumed its execution. He further submitted that oral evidences which were considered by Consolidation officer has not been taken into consideration and revision was outrightly allowed. He placed reliance upon AIR 1954 S.C. 340, Kiran Singh Vs. Chaman Paswan in which it is held that if the order and decree is ab initio void no reliance can be placed upon it at any stage, subsequently, counsel for the petitioner submitted written argument also in which it is mentioned that respondent no.1 mistakenly appreciated that unregistered Gift deed can be read as admissible evidence without considering the provisions contained under Section 17 (1) (a) of the Registration Act 1908. In point no.7 of the written argument, it is mentioned that respondent no.1 mistakenly appreciated that Section 90A of the Evidence Act does apply on the contrary certified copy of the Gift deed does not fulfil the ingredients of Section 74 and 76 of the Indian Evidence Act thus cannot be read as secondary evidence when there is no pleading or explanation about the original Gift deed.

10. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent no.2 Shri Ashutosh Kumar Tiwari submitted that revisional order dated 11.8.1982 was passed on merit and the Consolidation Court have no power of review in view of law laid down by full Bench of this Court reported in 1997 R.D. 562, Smt. Shivraji and Others Vs. D.D.C. Allahabad and Others. He further submitted that Civil Court has decided the injunction suit in favour of respondent no.2 as such the same will operate as res-judicata in consolidation proceeding relating to title matter. He further submitted that Ram Lal had full and absolute right to transfer his agricultural land through Gift deed to his daughter as the disputed plots were the Sharamuian Abog before the date of vesting. He next submitted that Gift deed has been rightly believed to be a genuine document by revisional Court as provided under Sections 61, 63, 65 and 74 of the Evidence Act. Learned counsel for respondent no.2 has also submitted written argument which has been perused by me in which the above mentioned points have been taken. He finally submitted that revisional jurisdiction has been rightly exercised in view of provisions contained under Section 48 Explanation-3 of U.P.C.H. Act as such, no interference in required against the impugned revisional orders and writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

11. I have considered the argument advanced by learned counsel for the respective parties and perused the records.

12. There is no dispute about the fact that Ram Lal was real nephew of petitioners' father and respondent no.2 was daughter of married daughter of Ram Lal, petitioners' father Kashi Ram was recorded in revenue record since 1957 by the order of Naib Tehsildar in respect of plots of Khata No.71 and the name of recorded tenure holder Ram Lal was expunged from the revenue records. The name of petitioners' father continued over the disputed Khata No.71 even in the Basic Year of the consolidation operation. Respondent no.2 although was not recorded in the revenue records filed a civil suit in the year 1959 for injunction in respect of Bhumidari disputed plots which was decreed in her favour by judgment and decree dated 10.11.1960 which attained finality by dismissal of civil appeal filed by petitioners' father by judgment and decree dated 6.7.1961. On the basis of civil Court's injunction decree, respondent no.2 initiated two revenue proceedings for recording her name over disputed Khata but both the revenue proceedings were decided against the respondent no.2 in the year 1962. Against the Basic Year Entry objection was filed by respondent no.2 for recording her name after expunging the name of petitioners' father Kashi Ram. Objection under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act was dismissed by Consolidation Officer and appeal filed by respondent no.2 under Section 11 of U.P.C.H. Act was also dismissed by Settlement Officer Consolidation. Revisional Court allowed the revision filed by respondent no.2 under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act setting aside the order of Consolidation Officer and Settlement Officer of Consolidation, the Basic Year Entry was expunged and name of respondent no.2 was ordered to be recorded over disputed plots. This Court while admitting the writ petition stayed the operation of the revisional order dated 11.8.1982 and 22.2.1985 vide order dated 20.3.85. On the stay vacation application filed by respondent no.2 interim order dated 20.3.1985 was confirmed with further direction that whichever party is in possession of the disputed land shall not be dispossessed till further orders.

13. Since the civil suit filed by respondent no.2 was for decree of injunction although respondent no.2 was not recorded in the revenue record, the injunction decree cannot operate as resjudicata in the proceedings arising out of Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act but revisional Court has illegally held that injunction decree passed by civil Court will operate as res judicata. The case law of Apex Court cited by counsel for the petitioners in Kiran Singh (supra) will be relevant on this issue. The revisional order passed on the first ground that injunction decree of Civil Court will operate as res-judicata in title proceeding before Consolidation Court cannot be sustained.

14. Revisional order passed on the second ground that certified Gift deed dated 14.4.1950 is more than 20 years old as such, in view of the provisions contained under Section 90A of the Evidence Act, the Gift deed will be presumed to be executed genuine. Revisional Court has failed to consider the oral evidence adduced by the parties before the Consolidation Officer which were taken into consideration while rejecting the objection under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act filed by respondent no.2. Revisional Court has also failed to notice about the original Gift deed and there is no explanation or pleading about the non filing of original Gift deed either in the courts below or before this Court. Perusal of Section 64, 65, 74, 76 and 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 will be necessary to consider the arguments of respective counsel on the point of production of certified copy of Gift deed. Section 64, 65, 74, 76 and 90 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872 are as follows:

65. Cases in which secondary evidence relating to documents may be given.--Secondary evidence may be given of the existence, condition, or contents of a document in the following cases:--*

(a) When the original is shown or appears to be in the possession or power-- of the person against whom the document is sought to be proved, or of any person out of reach of, or not subject to, the process of the Court, or of any person legally bound to produce it, and when, after the notice mentioned in section 66, such person does not produce it;

(b) when the existence, condition or contents of the original have been proved to be admitted in writing by the person against whom it is proved or by his representative in interest;

(c) when the original has been destroyed or lost, or when the party offering evidence of its contents cannot, for any other reason not arising from his own default or neglect, produce it in reasonable time;

(d) when the original is of such a nature as not to be easily movable;

(e) when the original is a public document within the meaning of section 74;

(f) when the original is a document of which a certified copy is permitted by this Act, or by any other law in force in [India] to be given in evidence; [India] to be given in evidence;"

(g) when the originals consists of numerous accounts or other documents which cannot conveniently be examined in Court, and the fact to be proved is the general result of the whole collection. In cases (a), (c) and (d), any secondary evidence of the contents of the document is admissible. In case (b), the written admission is admissible. In case (e) or (f), a certified copy of the document, but no other kind of secondary evidence, is admissible. In case (g), evidence may be given as to the general result of the documents by any person who has examined them, and who is skilled in the examination of such documents.

74. Public documents.--The following documents are public documents :--*

(1) Documents forming the acts, or records of the acts--

(i) of the sovereign authority,

(ii) of official bodies and tribunals, and

(iii) of public officers, legislative, judicial and executive, of any part of India or of the Commonwealth, or of a foreign country;

(2) Public records kept in any State of private documents.

76. Certified copies of public documents.--Every public officer having the custody of a public document, which any person has a right to inspect, shall give that person on demand a copy of it on payment of the legal fees therefore, together with a certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy of such document or part thereof, as the case may be, and such certificate shall be dated and subscribed by such officer with his name and his official title, and shall be sealed, whenever such officer is authorized by law to make use of a seal; and such copies so certified shall be called certified copies.*

Explanation.--Any officer who, by the ordinary course of official duty, is authorized to deliver such copies, shall be deemed to have the custody of such documents within the meaning of this section.

90. Presumption as to documents thirty years old.--Where any document, purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested. Explanation.--Documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable. This Explanation applies also to section 81.*

STATE AMENDMENTS

Uttar Pradesh.

(a) Renumber section 90 as sub-section (1) thereof;

(b) in sub-section (1) as so renumbered, for the words "thirty years", substitute the words "twenty years";

(c) after sub-section (1) as so renumbered, insert the following sub-section, namely:--

"(2) Where any such document as is referred to in sub-section (1) was registered in accordance with the law relating to registration of documents and a duly certified copy thereof is produced, the court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document which purports to be in the handwriting of any particular person, it is that person's handwriting, and in the case of a document executed or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the person by whom it purports to have been executed or attested".

(d) After section 90, insert the following section, namely:--

"90A. (1) Where any registered document or a duly certified copy thereof or any certified copy of a document which is part of the record of a Court of Justice, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the original was executed by the person by whom it purports to have been executed.

(2) This presumption shall not be made in respect of any document which is the basis of a suit or of defence or is relied upon in the plaint or written statement."

The Explanation to sub-section (1) of section 90 will also apply to this section; [Vide Uttar Pradesh Act 24 of 1954, sec. 2 and Sch. (w.e.f. 30-11-1954).]"

15. On the point of Section 90 of Indian Evidence Act as well as on the point of proof of Gift deed this Court in a case of Dr. Jeevan Bahadur Samaddar Vs. Govind Charan Samaddar and Others 2013 (120) RD 717 has held that if certified copy has not been placed on record after satisfying the requirements of Section 64/65 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, the mere fact that it was a certified copy by itself, would not make it admissible in evidence since it is secondary evidence and can be adduced in evidence only as provided in statute and not otherwise. Paragraph Nos.36 to 42 of Dr. Jeevan Bahadur Sammaddar (supra) will be relevant to appreciate the present controvercy which is as follows:

"36. In view of above reasoning the Court upheld the view taken by High Court that presumption under Section 90 would not be available on the certified copy produced by defendants and, hence it was rightly declined. The Court also said:

"We may also indicate that it is the discretion of the Court to refuse to give such presumption in favour of a party, if otherwise, there is occasion to doubt due execution of the document in question."

37. The above view however has to be applied in U.P. with slight variation. The U.P. Amendment in Section 90(1) has made difference only of the period from 30 years to 20 years but for all other purposes, it is the same. A Division Bench of this Court in Om Prakash Vs. Bhagwan, AIR 1974 All 389 has also said that benefit of Section 90 of Indian Evidence Act, as it stood un-amended would not be available to defendants-appellants as the original was not produced in evidence. However, here the legislature has introduced sub-section (2) for drawing a presumption in regard to a 'certified copy'. An argument was advanced that in that case, by virtue of sub-section (2), as amended in U.P. the presumption would be available. This was also considered by Division Bench in Om Prakash Vs. Bhagwan (supra) and it said:

". . . . learned counsel relied upon the amendment made to Section 90 by the U. P. Civil Laws (Amendment) Act, which permits a presumption to be drawn when a certified copy of a document, which has been registered under the Registration Act, is produced in evidence. However, the U. P. Civil Laws (Amendment) Act introduced Section 90-A also. Sub-section (2) of this new section lays down that the presumption shall not be made in respect of any document which is the basis of a suit or of a defence and is relied upon in the plaint or in the written statement. It is not disputed by the learned counsel for the defendants-appellants that the sale deed in question was the basis of the defence and was relied upon by the defendants in their written statement. Nothing therefore, in Section 90 or Section 90-A of the Evidence Act as amended by the U. P. Civil Laws (Amendment) Act, 1954 will come to the assistance of the defendants-appellants and the Court will not draw a legal presumption in favour of the defendants-appellants that it was executed by Smt. Reoti Devi."

38. Here the Court clearly misconstrued Section 90(2) by reading it alongwith Section 90-A, though both are independent.

39. The correctness of aforesaid decision was doubted. The matter was considered by a Full Bench in Ram Jas Vs. Surendra Nath, AIR 1980 All 385. It was answered by Full Bench by overruling the decision in Omprakash Vs. Bhagwan (supra). The Full Bench dealt with Section 90 and 90-A, both at length. The Court traced the history of amendment made by U.P. Legislature, felt necessary in view of decision of Privy Council in Basant Singh v. Brji Raj Saran Singh (1935) ALJ 847, whereby certified copies were not held entitled for presumption under Section 90 in respect of document which is over 30 years when the original are not traceable or lost. The Court also referred to the interpretation given to U.P. Amendment in Dalsingar Vs. Sitaram 1969 All.W.R.(HC) 188 observing that Sections 90 and 90-A both are independent and not controlled by each other. Sub-section (2) of Section 90, therefore, shall not create a bar for raising a presumption under Section 90. This view was reiterated in Risal Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, U. P., Lucknow, 1970 All.W.R. (HC) 634 and Deo Chand Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation 1971 All.L.J. 992. The Full Bench approving aforesaid three decisions and overruling Division Bench judgement said, when law permits presumption which a Court can draw under any provision of procedural law, in absence of any controlling provision available otherwise, such provision pertaining to presumption cannot be made inapplicable. The Court said that if presumption is available or would have been available under Section 90, it shall not be defeated by referring to Section 90-A, which is independent and does not control Section 90. The Court also highlighted distinction between Sections 90 and 90-A. Section 90 deals with documents which are more than 20 years old. Section 90-A is not confined to the documents which are more than 20 years old but it also includes documents from judicial record. The Court found that aforesaid provisions occupy different fields, different circumstances and permits different types of presumption.

40. Same view was reiterated by a learned Single Judge (N.N. Mithal, J.) in Smt. Vidya Devi and others Vs. Nand Kumar, AIR 1981 All 274 (para 17).

41.Thus presumption under Section 90(1) is attracted in respect of original document. However, sub-section (2) is applicable in respect of certified copies but it would be attracted only when certified copy has been adduced in evidence in accordance with procedure prescribed in law, or after satisfying the requirement of law, i.e., Sections 64 and 65 of Act, 1872 and not otherwise. Under Act, 1872 certified copy as such is not admissible in evidence being a secondary evidence unless the procedural requirement thereof is satisfied. It is only when a certified copy has been adduced in evidence in accordance with requirement of the statute, the question of presumption under Section 90(2) would be attracted and not otherwise. Section 90(2) cannot be read in isolation. It has to be read in harmony with other provisions of the Act, 1872.

42. The above discussion also leads to the inference that, (1) presumption under Section 90 is discretionary, though the discretion is to be exercised judiciously; (2) sub-section (1) of Section 90 (as amended in U.P. or otherwise) is applicable only in respect to original document and not copies or certified copies; (3) the document must be 20/30 years old and must have come from proper custody; (4) the presumption is in respect of execution and attestation of document as also the handwriting of person concerned; (5) sub-section (2) (as available in U.P.) is applicable to certified copies when the same are adduced in evidence in accordance with law, i.e., as per the requirement of Sections 64 and 65 of Act, 1872. "

16. In view of ratio of law laid down by this Court in Dr. Jeevan Bahadur Sammadar (supra) as well as considering the provisions of Sections 64 and 65 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 as well as Section 90 and 90A of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, the revisional order passed on the second ground that Gift deed is more than 20 year old, as such, on the basis of certified copy of Gift deed, right can be given to opposite party no.2 without examining anything cannot be sustained.

17. So far as revisional jurisdiction under Section 48 of Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act is concerned as argued by respective counsel for the parties, the decision of this Court in a case of Nathu Ram and Others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Varanasi and Others 2017 (136) RD 480 will be relevant in which this Court after considering the various amendment made in Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act as well as the ratio of law laid down by Apex Court in Ram Dular Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Jaunpur and Others 1994 RD 290 (SC), Sheshmani and Another Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation District- Basti U.P. and Others 2001 RD 210 (SC) and Sri Jagdamba Prasad (dead) through LRs and Others Vs. Kripa Shankar (dead) through LRs and Others 2014 (124) RD 1 (SC), has held that revisional power is not a power of first or second appellate Court, the finding recorded therein would be possible to be interfered under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act only on the grounds discussed in Ram Dular (supra), Sheshmani (supra) and Jagdamba Prasad (supra).

18. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case as well as ratio of law laid down by this Court, the impugned revisional orders dated 11.8.1982 and 22.2.1985 passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation, Jaunpur cannot be sustained and are liable to be quashed accordingly, the impugned orders are quashed.

19. The writ petition is allowed.

20. Since order of Consolidation Officer dated 24.11.1976 was passed after considering each and every evidence adduced by the parties on the point of injunction decree passed by Civil Court and Gift deed, as such, there is no need to remand the matter to revisional Court for any further consideration of fact and law. The order dated 24.11.1976 passed by consolidation office and order dated 23.12.1977 passed by Settlement Officer of Consolidation are hereby maintained.

21. No order as to costs.

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Jitendra Narayan Rai, Addl. C.S.C., Sri Pradeep Kumar Tiwari, S.C.

Civil Law - U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 - Section 49 - Bar to Civil Courts jurisdiction - disputed Plot recorded as Navin Parti during consolidation operation and no proceeding was initiated by plaintiff during consolidation operation to get the entry corrected, as such, civil suit of plaintiff rightly held to the barred by Section 49 of the U.P.C.H. Act - if no claim is raised during consolidation operation, claim after close of consolidation operations would be barred by Section 49 of U.P.C.H. Act - civil suit by the plaintiff who is not recorded in revenue record cannot be entertained by civil Court - In respect to Abadi land title cannot be adjudicated by consolidation Court rather consolidation Court can only order to make entry of the nature of land as Abadi (Para 15, 18, 19)

7. Kamla Prasad & ors. Vs. Krishna Kant Pathak & ors. (2007) 4 Supreme Court Cases 213

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and Mr. Jitendra Narayan Rai, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel along with Mr. Pradeep Kumar Tiwari, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The present second appeal under Section 100 of Civil Procedure Code has been filed on behalf of plaintiff against the judgment and decree dated 30.8.2018 / 5.9.2018 passed by District Judge Bhadohi Gyanpur in Civil Appeal No.21 of 2018 arising out of Suit No.112 of 2013, the trial Court vide judgment and decree dated 2.4.2018/13.4.2018 dismissed the plaintiff's suit for declaration and injunction and the decree of trial Court has been maintained by lower Appellate Court.

3. The plaint case as pleaded in brief is that Plot No.146 area 0.183 hectare situated in Village- Sherpur Gopalaha, District Sant Ravidas Nagar Bhadohi is recorded as Navin Parti in the revenue records. The old number of Plot No.146 before consolation operation was 3755, 3756, 3757, 3758, 3759, 3760, 3761 and 3763. It is further mentioned in the plaint that actual owner of the aforementioned plot were Hanuman Baksh Singh and others, Jokhai, Dangar, Kashav (plaintiff's father) and Ram Prasad Singh. It is further pleaded that aforementioned plots are situated adjacent to Abadi Plot No.317 (old no.3820) in which plaintiff's old residential house is situated. It is further pleaded that at the time of the partal during consolidation operation disputed plot was Abadi on spot but due to the fault of Consolidation Authorities, the plot in dispute was recorded as Navin Parti in the revenue records, as such, defendants threatened to interfere with the possession as well as to dispossess the plaintiff from the disputed Abadi land and further threatened to allot the same to other person, hence the suit.

4. Defendant No.1 and 2 (State and Gram Panchayat) have not filed any written statement in spite of service of notices upon them, hence suit was proceeded against defendant nos. 1 and 2 under Order 8 Rule 10 of Civil Procedure Code. Plaintiff adduced oral and documentary evidence in support of his case.

5. Before trial Court following issues were framed:

"1. क्या वादी वाद पत्र के कथनों के आधार पर विवादित भूमि का मालिक काबिज दाखिल है?

2. क्या वादी विवादित भूमि को व्यक्तिगत आबादी घोषित करा पाने का अधिकार है?"

6. While deciding the Issue No.1, trial Court after considering the oral and documentary evidences adduced by plaintiff recorded finding of fact that disputed land is recorded as Navin Parti and is a Gaon Sabha land, plaintiff is not allottee or Patta holder of the Gaon Sabha, as such, plaintiff is not entitled to any injunction against the owner of the land, accordingly, Issue No.1 was decided against the plaintiff in negative. While deciding the Issue No.2, trial Court recorded finding of fact that during consolidation disputed land was recorded as Navin Parti but plaintiff has not taken any step to get the entry corrected during consolidation operation, as such, Civil Court cannot pass decree in the nature of declaration or injunction in respect of disputed land that the same is plaintiffs Abadi, accordingly, Issue No.2 was also decided against the plaintiff in negative, the trial Court by judgment and decree dated 2.4.2018 dismissed the plaintiff's suit.

7. Against the judgment and decree of the trial Court dated 2.4.2018, plaintiff filed civil appeal under Section 96 of the Civil Procedure Code before District Judge which was registered as Civil Appeal No.21 of 2018. In Civil Appeal following points of determinations as provided under Order 41 Rule 31 of the Civil Procedure Code were framed:-

"1. क्या वादग्रस्त भूमि अपीलार्थीवादी की आबादी की भूमि है और इस पर वादी चकबन्दी के पूर्व से क्तौर आबादी का बिज दखील रहकर उस पर अपना मकान, नाद, खूटा, चरनी व पम्पिंगसेट कायम कर आबाद है?

2. क्या वादग्रस्त भूमि नवीन परती की भूमि है और उससे वादी अपीलार्थी से कोई वास्ता सरोकार नहीं है।

3. क्या दावा धारा 49 उ०प्र० जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम से बाधित है?"

8. Lower Appellate Court while deciding the points of determinations considered the revenue entries, provisions of Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act as well as provisions of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act and came to the conclusion that civil suit filed by plaintiff for declaration and injunction in respect of Gaon Sabha Land (Navin Parti) to the effect that the same is Abadi of plaintiff since long is barred by provisions of Section 49 of the U.P.C.H. Act as plaintiff has not taken any step during consolidation operation to get the entry corrected from the Navin Parti to Abadi. Lower Appellate Court has also recorded finding that area of disputed plot is 14 Biswa, 10 Dhoor which cannot become Abadi of any person, accordingly, lower Appellate Court came to the conclusion that no interference is required against judgment and decree passed by trial Court and dismissed the civil appeal by judgment and decree dated 30.08.2018, hence present second appeal on behalf of plaintiff formulating following substantial questions of law in memorandum of second appeal:

"1. Whether the plot in dispute can be settled in favour of plaintiff/appellant in view of Section 123 (1) Of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act?

2. Whether, the possession and Sahan of the predecessor of the plaintiff/ appellant thereafter the plaintiff/ appellant starts from 1960 up till now, can be ignored when the land in dispute is subsequently recorded as Navin Parti?

3. Whether, the right and title of the plaintiff/appellant can be perfected over the land in dispute on the basis of long possession?

4. Whether, the Court Amin report regarding the possession over the land in question, which is unrebutted can be ignored?

5. Whether, the unrebutted claim/relief of the plaintiff/ appellant in the plaint suit can be ignored by the Courts below?"

9. Counsel for the appellant submitted that plaintiff is in possession of disputed plot since 1960, as such, plaintiff perfected his title over the land on the basis of long possession. He further submitted that plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of Section 123 (1) of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act but Courts below have illegally dismissed the plaintiff's suit without considering the plaintiff's case. He further submitted that defendants have not filed any written statement in the suit nor adduced any evidence, as such, the plaintiff's suit was to be decreed but Courts below have erred in dismissing the plaintiff's suit. Counsel for the appellant placed reliance upon the following judgments:

1. 2007 (207) R.D. 761, Ramdeo and Others Vs Deputy Director of Consolidation and Others.

2. 2004 (96) R.D. 303, Ram Prasad and Others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Pratapgarh and Others.

3. 2004 (97) R.D. 705, Jai Narain and Others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation Deoria

4. 2007 (102) R.D. 761

10. On the other hand, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submitted that land in dispute is recorded as Navin Parti in the revenue records and plaintiff has not filed any objection during consolidation operation, as such, civil suit is barred as provided under Section 49 of U.P.C.H. Act. He further submitted no right will accrue to the plaintiff in respect of Gaon Sabha / State land in spite of the fact that defendants have not contested the suit in Courts below. He finally submitted that second appeal filed by plaintiff-appellant is concluded by findings of fact, as such, is liable to be dismissed.

11. I have considered the argument advanced by learned counsel of the parties and perused the record of this Court as well as record of the Courts below which were summoned by this Court vide order dated 7.12.2018.

12. There is no dispute about the fact that Plot No.146 area 0.183 hectare was recorded as Navin Parti during consolidation operation which is supported by entry of C.H. Form 2 Ka, Paper No.30 Ga, the village in question came under consolidation operation in the year 1964 and village was de-notified under Section 52 of U.P.C.H. Act in the year 1979-80. There is also no dispute about the fact that plaintiff has not filed any objection etc. to get the entry corrected with respect to disputed Plot No.146 area 0.183 hectare.

13. In order to appreciate the argument of learned counsel for the appellant as well as substantial questions of law as framed in memorandum of second appeal as quoted above the perusal "Section 49 of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act" will be necessary which is as follows:

"49. Bar to civil Courts jurisdiction.- Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the declaration and adjudication of right of tenure-holders in respect of land lying in an area, for which a [notification] has been issued [under sub-section (2) of Section 4] or adjudication of any other right arising out of consolidation proceedings and in regard to which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under this Act, shall be done in accordance with the provisions of this Act and no Civil or Revenue Court shall entertain any suit or proceeding with respect to rights in such land or with respect to any other matters for which a proceeding could or ought to have been taken under this Act :

Provided that nothing in this section shall preclude the Assistant Collector from initiating proceedings under Section 122-B of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 in respect of any land, possession over which has been delivered or deemed to be delivered to a Gaon Sabha under or in accordance with the provisions of this Act."

14. This Court in the case of Abhairaj and Others Vs. Gaon Sabha / Gram Panchayat, LMC and Another reported in 2017 (136) R.D. 603 has held that if no claim has been raised during consolidation operation, claim after close of consolidation operations would be clearly barred by Section 49 of U.P.C.H. Act. Paragraph No.18 of the judgment rendered in Abhairaj (supra) is as follows:

"18. Since, no claim was admittedly raised during consolidation operations, any claim after the close of consolidation operations was clearly barred by Section 49 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. Moreover, no injunction could be granted regarding land of public utility covered by Section 132 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act."

15. After considering the provisions of Section 49 of the U.P.C.H. Act as well as after considering the findings of Courts below on the basis of evidence on record it is very much clear that disputed Plot No.146 was recorded as Navin Parti during consolidation operation and no proceeding was initiated by plaintiff during consolidation operation to get the entry corrected, as such, civil suit of plaintiff was rightly held to the barred by Section 49 of the U.P.C.H. Act and no right will accrue to the plaintiff in respect of Gaon Sabha land.

16. So far as the argument advanced by appellant as well as substantial questions of law framed by appellant with respect to Section 123 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act is concerned the perusal of Section 123 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act will be necessary, the Section 123 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act was as follows:

"123. Certain house sites to be settled with existing owner thereof. -[(1)] Without prejudice to the provisions of Section 9, where any person referred to in sub-section (3) of Section 122-C has built a house on any land referred to in sub-section (2) of that section, not being land reserved for any public purpose, and such house exists on [May 13, 2007] the site of such house shall be held by the owner of the house on terms and conditions as may be prescribed.

[(2) Where any person referred to in sub-section (3) of Section 122-C has built a house on any land held by a tenure-holder (not being a Government lessee) and such house exists on [June 3, 1995] the site of such house shall, notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, be deemed to be settled with the owner of such house by the tenure-holder on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed.

Explanation - For the purposes of sub-section (2), a house existing on [June 3, 1995] on any land held by a tenure-holder shall, unless the contrary is proved, be presumed to have been built by the occupant thereof, and where the occupants are members of one family by the head of that family.]"

17. After reading the provisions of Section 123 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act and considering the revenue entry of Navin Parti in respect to disputed Plot No.146 as well as considering the plaint allegation that disputed land is Abadi of the plaintiff but the same was wrongly recorded as Navin Parti during partal of consolidation operation, there will be no application of Section 123 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act. In the present dispute as the land in dispute was recorded as Navin Parti in the revenue record during consolidation operation, as such, the argument advanced on behalf of appellant has no merit and the substantial question of law also does not arise with respect to benefit of Section 123 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act.

18. So far as case law cited by learned counsel for the appellant are concerned that will not apply in the present dispute as all the three case law relates to Abadi land and order was passed by consolidation Courts with respect to title of Abadi land, as such, this Court has held that in respect to Abadi land title cannot be adjudicated by consolidation Court rather consolidation Court can only order to make entry of the nature of land as Abadi.

19. So far as the maintainability of civil suit in respect of the land which is not recorded in the name of plaintiff the civil suit will not be maintainable at the instance of the plaintiff as held by Apex Court in the case of Shri Ram Vs. First Additional District Judge and Others, J.T. 2001 (2) S.C. 573. The Paragraph No.7 of the judgment of Shri Ram (supra) is as follows:

"7. On analysis of the decisions cited above, we are of the opinion that where a recorded tenure holder having a prima facie title and in possession files suit in the civil court for cancellation of sale deed having obtained on the ground of fraud or impersonation cannot be directed to file a suit for declaration in the revenue court reason being that in such a case, prima facie, the title of the recorded tenure holder is not under cloud. He does not require declaration of his title to the land. The position would be different where a person not being a recorded tenure holder seeks cancellation of sale deed by filing a suit in the civil court on the ground of fraud or impersonation. There necessarily the plaintiff is required to seek a declaration of his title and, therefore, he may be directed to approach the revenue court, as the sale deed being void has to be ignored for giving him relief for declaration and possession."

20. Apex Court again in the Case of Kamla Prasad and Others Vs. Krishna Kant Pathak and Others (2007) 4 Supreme Court Cases 213 has followed the decision of Shri Ram (supra), the Paragraph Nos.12, 13 and 16 of the judgment of Kamla Prasad (supra) are as follows:

"12. Having heard the learned advocates for the parties, in our opinion, the submission of the learned counsel for the appellants deserves to be accepted. So far as abadi land is concerned, the trial Court held that Civil Court had jurisdiction and the said decision has become final. But as far as agricultural land is concerned, in our opinion, the Trial Court as well as Appellate Court were right in coming to the conclusion that only Revenue Court could have entertained the suit on two grounds. Firstly, the case of the plaintiff himself in the plaint was that he was not the sole owner of the property and defendant Nos. 10 to 12 who were proforma defendants, had also right, title and interest therein. He had also stated in the plaint that though in the Revenue Record, only his name had appeared but defendant Nos. 10 to 12 have also right in the property. In our opinion, both the Courts below were right in holding that such a question can be decided by a Revenue Court in a suit instituted under Section 229B of the Act. The said section reads thus:

"229B. Declaratory suit by person claiming to be an asami of a holding or part thereof.-

(1) Any person claiming to be an asami of a holding or any part thereof, whether exclusively or jointly with any other person, may sue the landholder for a declaration of his rights as asami in such holding or part, as the case may be.

(2) In any suit under sub-section (1) any other person claiming to hold as asami under the landholder shall be impleaded as defendant.

(3) The provisions of sub-sections (1) and (2) shall mutatis mutandis apply to a suit by a person claiming to be a bhumidhar, with the amendment that for the word 'landholder' the words "the State

Government and the Gaon Sabha" are substituted therein."

13. On second question also, in our view, Courts below were right in coming to the conclusion that legality or otherwise of insertion of names of purchasers in Record of Rights and deletion of name of the plaintiff from such record can only be decided by Revenue Court since the names of the purchasers had already been entered into. Only Revenue Court can record a finding whether such an action was in accordance with law or not and it cannot be decided by a Civil Court.

16.The instant case is covered by the above observations. The lower Appellate Court has expressly stated that the name of the plaintiff had been deleted from Record of Rights and the names of purchasers had been entered. The said fact had been brought on record by the contesting defendants and it was stated that the plaintiff himself appeared as a witness before the Mutation Court, admitted execution of the sale deed, receipt of sale consideration and the factum of putting vendees into possession of the property purchased by them. It was also stated that the records revealed that the names of contesting defendants had been mutated into Record of Rights and the name of plaintiff was deleted."

21. In view of ratio of law laid down by Apex Court on the question of maintainability of civil suit by plaintiff who is not recorded in revenue record the civil suit filed by plaintiff cannot be entertained by civil Court.

22. Considering the findings of fact recorded by both the Courts below to the effect the plaintiff is neither owner nor recorded in the revenue records rather disputed plots was recorded as Navin Parti, as such, suit is barred by Section 49 of U.P.C.H. Act. No substantial question of law arises in the second appeal. No interference is required against the impugned judgment and decree passed by Courts below.

23. The present Second Appeal lacks merit and same is hereby dismissed under Order 41 Rule 11 of Civil Procedure Code

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri Rajeev Upadhyay

Civil Law - Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 - Section 13 B (2) - relaxing the period of second motion of six months - period mentioned in Section 13 B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is not mandatory but directory and it is open to the Court to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case - For exercise of the discretion to waive the statutory waiting period of six months for moving the motion for divorce under Section 13B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, the Court would consider the following amongst other factors: (i) the length of time for which the parties had been married; (ii) how long the parties had stayed together as husband and wife; (iii) the length of time the parties had been staying apart; (iv) the length of time for which the litigation had been pending; (v) whether there were any other proceedings between the parties;(vi) whether there was any possibility of reconciliation; (vii) whether there were any children born out of the wedlock; (viii) whether the parties had freely, of their own accord, without any coercion or pressure, arrived at a genuine settlement which took care of alimony, if any, maintenance and custody of children, etc." (Para 12)

Parties application u/s 13 B of the Act, 1965 for relaxing the period of second motion of six months rejected by the impugned order - Both parties jointly submitted that since all efforts for mediation/reconciliation to reunite the parties have failed and there is no likelihood of success in that direction, and the parties have genuinely settled their differences including alimony therefore breathing period of second motion as provided in Section 13 B(2) of the Act, 1955 will only prolong their agony - Held - impugned judgment set aside - Matter remitted back to the Principal Judge, Family Court, to pass an order afresh in accordance with law (Para 12)

List of Cases cited:

1. Amardeep Singh Vs Harveen Kaur, (2017) 8 SCC 746

2. Amit Kumar Vs Suman Beniwal, (Civil Appeal No.7650 of 2021 decided on 11.12.2021)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. & Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Jamal Ahmad Khan, learned counsel for the defendant - appellant/wife and Sri Rajeev Upadhyay, learned counsel for the plaintiff - respondent/husband.

2. This First Appeal under Section 19 of Family Courts Act, 1984 has been filed praying to set aside the judgment and order dated 01.08.2022 in Case No.1542 of 2022 (Sumant Kumar Vs. Smt. Shyamshri) under Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad, whereby joint application 16 Ga 2 filed by the parties for relaxing the period of second motion of six months, has been rejected.

Facts

3. Briefly stated undisputed facts are that the plaintiff and the defendant were married with each other on 02.12.2014. Some disputes developed between them and they started living separately since 26.12.2017. It also appears that the plaintiff - husband filed a divorce petition No.1248 of 2019 under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, in the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad, which according to both the parties; remained pending. It appears that in the mean time both the parties have agreed to dissolve their marriage with consent. Therefore, they filed a joint divorce petition No.1542 of 2021 (Sumant Kumar Vs. Smt. Shyamshri) under Section 13 B of the Act, 1955.

4. In paragraphs 6, 7, 8, 9 and 11 of the aforesaid joint divorce petition under Section 13 B, the parties has states as under :

"(6) यह कि वादीगण के विचारों में आए मतभेदों को समाप्त करके दोनों को एक साथ पति पत्नी के रूप में वैवाहिक जीवन यापन करने

के लिये दोनों वादीगण के परिवार वालों व रिश्तेदारों तथा समाज के लोगों द्वारा काफी समझाया गया, किन्तु वादीगण के विचारों मे इतना अधिक आपसी मतभेद हो गया है कि दोनों एक साथ पति पत्नी के रूप में रहकर वैवाहिक जीवन यापन करने के लिये किसी भी तरह से सहमत नहीं है।

(7) यह कि वादीगण 26.12.2017 से अलग–अलग निवास कर रहें है, इसीलिए वादीगण के मध्य पति पत्नी के रूप में किसी भी प्रकार के सम्बंध स्थापित नहीं हुए है।

(8) यह कि हाल ही वादीगण के मध्य हुए आपसी समझौते के अनुसार कुल अंकन राशि 8 लाख पचास हजार रूपये में तक हुआ है। जिसमें 4 लाख पच्चीस हजार डी0डी0 सं0 005315 जोकि वादी सं0 1 द्वारा वादी सं0 2 को प्रथम मोशन पर अदा कर दिया जायेगा तथा शेष 4 लाख पच्चीस हजार रूपये द्वितीय मोशन पर अदा किये जायेंगे।

(9) यह कि वादीगण द्वारा आज दिनांक तक एक दूसरे पर किये गये सभी मुकदमों को प्रथम मोशन के पश्चात् दोनों वादीगण द्वारा वापस ले लिया जायेगा।

(11) यह कि वादीगण के विचारों इतना अधिक मतभेद आ गया है कि आज भी दोनो एक साथ पति पत्नी के रूप में रहकर वैवाहिक जीवन यापन करने के लिये सहमत नही है और आपसी सहमती से विवाह विच्छेद हेतु उक्त वाद पत्र माननीय न्यायालय में दायर किया है ।'

5. It appears that matter of the parties was referred to mediation on 01.07.2022 but as report of Mediation and Conciliation Center, District - Ghaziabad, dated 01.08.2022 the mediation has failed as both the parties are adamant for divorce.

6. On these facts the parties have moved the application 16 Ga 2 dated 01.08.2022 in the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court No.1, Ghaziabad in divorce petition No.1542 of 2022, under Section 13 B of the Act, 1965 for relaxing the period of second motion of six months which has been rejected by the impugned order dated 01.08.2022.

Submissions

7. Both the learned counsels for the parties jointly submit that since all efforts for mediation/reconciliation to reunite the parties have failed and there is no likelihood of success in that direction, therefore, the parties have genuinely settled their differences including alimony. Therefore, the breathing period of second motion as provided in Section 13 B(2) of the Act, 1955 will only prolong their agony. They, therefore, jointly submit that the court below has committed manifest error of law not to allow the application for relaxing the period.

Discussion & Findings

8. We have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and perused the record of the appeal before us.

9. T he object of Section 13 B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 and its nature has been authoritatively explained by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Amardeep Singh Vs. Harveen Kaur, (2017) 8 SCC 746 (para 17 and 20), as under :

"17. The object of the provision is to enable the parties to dissolve a marriage by consent if the marriage has irretrievably broken down and to enable them to rehabilitate them as per available options. The amendment was inspired by the thought that forcible perpetuation of status of matrimony between unwilling partners did not serve any purpose. The object of the cooling off period was to safeguard against a hurried decision if there was otherwise possibility of differences being reconciled. The object was not to perpetuate a purposeless marriage or to prolong the agony of the parties when there was no chance of reconciliation. Though every effort has to be made to save a marriage, if there are no chances of reunion and there are chances of fresh rehabilitation, the Court should not be powerless in enabling the parties to have a better option.

20. Since we are of the view that the period mentioned in Section 13B(2) is not mandatory but directory, it will be open to the Court to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case where there is no possibility of parties resuming cohabitation and there are chances of alternative rehabilitation."

10. The law laid down in the case of Amardeep Singh (supra) has been reiterated by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Amit Kumar Vs. Suman Beniwal, (Civil Appeal No.7650 of 2021 decided on 11.12.2021) and the factors to be considered for relaxing the period of second motion have been summarised in paragraph 27, as under :

"27. For exercise of the discretion to waive the statutory waiting period of six months for moving the motion for divorce under Section 13B (2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, the Court would consider the following amongst other factors:

(i) the length of time for which the parties had been married;

(ii) how long the parties had stayed together as husband and wife;

(iii) the length of time the parties had been staying apart;

(iv) the length of time for which the litigation had been pending;

(v) whether there were any other proceedings between the parties;

(vi) whether there was any possibility of reconciliation;

(vii) whether there were any children born out of the wedlock;

(viii) whether the parties had freely, of their own accord, without any coercion or pressure, arrived at a genuine settlement which took care of alimony, if any, maintenance and custody of children, etc."

11. Thus, we find no difficulty to hold that the period mentioned in Section 13 B(2) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is not mandatory but directory and it is open to the Court to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case. The factors for exercising the discretion have been enumerated by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Amardeep Singh (supra) and Amit Kumar (supra) which have been reproduced above.

12. For the reasons aforestated, the impugned judgment and order dated 01.08.2022 can not be sustained and is hereby set aside. Matter is remitted back to the Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghaziabad, to pass an order afresh in accordance with law within one month from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order. Liberty is granted to the parties to file a supplementary affidavit before the court below if they want to add any circumstance in their application under Section 13 B(2) of the Act, 1955.

Special Appeal No. 420 of 2022

Prin./Chief Medical Superintendent Saraswati Medical College, Unnao & Ors.
...Appellants
Versus
Mohammad Shakir Hussain & Ors.
...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Apoorva Tewari, Aditya Tewari

Counsel for the Respondents:
Kapil Gupta, C.S.C., Gyanendra Kumar Srivastava, Kshitij Mishra, Savitra Vardhan Singh

A. Education Law – Rustication/Ragging - National Medical Commission (Prevention and Prohibition of Ragging in Medical Colleges and Institutions) Regulations 2021 - Regulations 23(1), 24 - National Medical Commission Act, 2019 - Section 57 - Regulations 2021 have been framed and published only recently as on 18.11.2021 and are, thus, in their nascent stage. Implementation of Regulations 2021…thus require some amount of understanding as to how the Regulations are to apply not only as a measure to check the menace of ragging, but also as a measure to conduct the inquiry/investigation as contemplated in Regulation 23 in a fair and appropriate manner. (Para 24)

B. Legal protection available to a student, accused of ragging, when he is subjected to an inquiry/investigation u/Regulation 23(2). The consequence of action against such a student which may ensue ultimately u/Regulation 24, may be far-reaching even to the extent that in a given case it may ruin his career. Having regard to the seriousness of the consequences in respect of future career of a student pursuing a vocational course, Regulation 23 of 2021 Regulations ought to be followed meticulously and in its letter and spirit.

C. Principles as a precautionary measure are laid down to aid the provisions of 2021 Regulations. The authorities of a Medical College or any other Institution are to be primarily, governed by the statutory regulations namely Regulations 2021. They may, however, seek some guidance from the observations. (Para 26)

These guidelines are not in any manner, in derogation of the 2021 regulations, rather only to facilitate appropriate implementation of the Regulations including Regulations 23 and 24 and accordingly observations are to be understood in this perspective and context alone. (Para 27)

In the present case, it is noticeable that the respondent no. 1-petitioner was neither provided the copies of the statements of the complainant/witnesses nor was he ever confronted with the copy of the report said to have been submitted by the Anti-Ragging Committee to the Head of the Institution and accordingly the inquiry as contemplated in Regulation 23 of 2021 Regulations 2021 against the respondent no. 1-petitioner be conducted afresh by furnishing him copy of the complaint, statement of the complainants and witnesses made before the Specific Committee on 21.7.2022 and inviting his reply to the same and permitting him to make statement in his defence. Thereafter the appellant-Institution shall complete the inquiry in terms of Regulation 2021 as also keeping in view the observations made hereinabove. (Para 28)

The order under appeal dated 13.9.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-C No. 5622 of 2022 is hereby set aside. The decision of the Principal of the Institution, dated 25.7.2022

shall abide by the decision which may be taken finally in terms of this order. (Para 30)

Special appeal disposed off. (E-4)

Present special appeal lays a challenge to the judgment and order dated 13.09.2022, by which the learned Single Judge allowed Writ-C No. 5622 of 2022 and order of rustication dated 25.07.2022 has been set aside.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya, J.
Hon'ble Saurabh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Apoorva Tiwari and Sri Aditya Tiwari, learned counsel appearing for the appellant, Sri Akash Dixit, learned counsel representing the respondent no.1-petitioner, learned State counsel representing the State-respondent No. 2, Sri Kshitij Mishra, learned counsel representing the respondent no. 3, Sri Savitra Vardhan Singh, learned counsel representing the respondent no. 4 and Sri Gyanendra Srivastava, learned counsel representing the respondent no. 5.

2. This special appeal has been preferred challenging the judgment and order dated 13.09.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge, whereby Writ-C No. 5622 of 2022 filed by the respondent no. 1-petitioner therein has been allowed and the order dated 25.7.2022 passed by the appellant-Institution whereby respondent no. 1-petitioner was rusticated temporarily for a period of three months as intern in the Institution has been set aside. Learned Single Judge has also directed that the certificate which may be awarded to the respondent no. 1-petitioner on completion of internship shall not record that he was found guilty of ragging in the Institution.

3. Submission of the learned counsel for the appellants is that the finding recorded by the learned Single Judge that there was no material on record, which could form the basis of guilt of ragging against the respondent no. 1-petitioner, is not correct in as much as on record there was enough material to form the opinion that he was guilty of ragging.

4. It has further been argued by learned counsel for the appellants that while conducting the inquiry which culminated in passing of the order impugned in the writ petition before the learned Single Judge, the provisions contained in the statutory regulations known as National Medical Commission (Prevention and Prohibition of Ragging in Medical Colleges and Institutions) Regulations 2021 (hereinafter referred as 'Regulations 2021') were meticulously followed and as such the finding recorded by the learned Single Judge Bench that the respondent no. 1-petitioner was not given any opportunity to confront with the inquiry report, is misplaced for the reason that under the procedure prescribed in the said Regulations no such prescription is available. It is also argued that the finding recorded by the learned Single Judge that no show-cause notice inviting explanation/reply to the inquiry report was given, also does not have any bearing in the matters of inquiries to be conducted in terms of the Regulations 2021 for the reason that the Regulations do not contemplate any such procedure.

5. Lastly, Sri Apoorva Tiwari, learned counsel representing the appellant-Institution has submitted that in any eventuality in case any flaw in the procedure followed for conducting the inquiry was found by the learned Single Judge, right of the Institution to complete the inquiry as per the legal procedure could not have been curtailed and in the instant case the conduct of the respondent no. 1-petitioner warranted that some exemplary action against the respondent no. 1-petitioner ought to have been taken in order to fulfil the aims and objectives for which Regulations 2021 have been framed.

6. On the other hand, Sri Akash Dixit, learned counsel representing the respondent no. 1-petitioner submitted that in view of the admission made by the appellant-Institution that the respondent no. 1-petitioner was not confronted with the inquiry report on the basis of which impugned action has precipitated, the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge, which is under appeal herein, does not warrant any interference by this court in this special appeal. He has also stated that as a matter of fact enough material was brought to the notice of the learned Single Judge depicting the clear bias of the parties/Management of the appellant-Institution against the respondent no. 1-petitioner and it is only on accout of this bias and mala fide that the impugned action against him whereby he was rusticated temporarily for a period of three months had actuated. In this view of the matter, the submission is that the special appeal is liable to be dismissed at its threshold.

7. We have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel representing the respective parties and have also perused the material available on record before us on this special appeal.

8. The respondent no. 1-petitioner after completing his 5-years study in MBBS Course got himself enrolled as an Intern, which is compulsory for award of MBBS degree. On 19.7.2022 the College administration received a complaint by two students of 2020 batch, who were pursuing their MBBS Course in the appellant-Institution, against the respondent no. 1-petitioner with the allegation that the respondent no. 1-petitioner has not only misbehaved with them, but as a matter of fact on account of the threat extended by him to the complainants they were not feeling secure to complete their studies. The complainants, thus, requested that appropriate action be taken against the respondent no. 1-petitioner. On the said complaint the Chief Medical Superintendent-cum-Officiating Principal of the appellant-Institution issued a notice, whereby a specific committee comprising of one Chairman, One Secretary, four Members and two Special Invitees was constituted in terms of the provisions contained in Regulation 23(1) of the 2021 Regulations. Constitution of the said specific committee was based on an urgent investigation report, which was approved by the Chairman, Anti Ragging Committee of the Institution. Consequently, by means of a notice dated 20.7.2021, intimation was given to the complainants, respondent no. 1-petitioner as also three other students, who are said to be witnesses and were pursuing their IIIrd Year MBBS Course, to participate in the proceedings of the Committee, which was held on 21.7.2020.

9. On 21.7.2022 in the proceedings before the specific committee, statements of the complainants, those of the witnesses and also that of the respondent no. 1-petitioner were recorded. The CCTV footage of 19.7.2022 at 12.30 p.m. was also summoned by the specific committee. The Specific Committee on a consideration of the material which could be gathered by it submitted its report on 21.7.2022 and based on the said report decision by the Anti-Ragging Committee was taken in its meeting held on 22.7.2022, whereby it was resolved that the respondent no. 1-petitioner be rusticated temporarily for a period of three months from his internship in the appellant-Institution. On the basis of this decision and recommendation of the Anti-Ragging Committee dated 22.7.2022 that the order dated 25.5.2022 was passed by Head of the Institution which became the subject matter of challenge before the learned Single Judge.

10. Before adverting to the respective submissions made by the learned counsel appearing for the parties we may notice certain provisions of the Regulations 2021. Regulations 2021 have been framed by the National Medical Commission in exercise of its power vested in it under section 57 of the National Medical Commission Act 2019. "Ragging" is defined in Regulation 2(l) of the Regulations to mean "Any act of misconduct of students towards one another". Definition of 'Ragging' can also be found in Regulation (4). Regulation 3 mentions certain acts that may constitute "Ragging". Regulation 3 in Chapter 2 of the said Regulations states that Ragging shall mean any disorderly conduct, whether verbal or in writing, which has the effect of "teasing" "treating" or "handling" a student with rudeness, indulging in any rowdy or in disciplined activities, which may cause annoyance, hardship or psychological harms. Regulations 3 and 4 of Regulations 2021 are quoted hereunder:

"3. Definition of Ragging-Ragging shall mean any disorderly conduct, whether by words spoken or written or by an act which has the effect of teasing, treating or handling with rudeness any other student, indulging in rowdy or undisciplined activities which causes or is likely to cause annoyance, hardship or psychological harm or to raise fear or apprehension thereof in a fresher or a junior student or asking the students to do any act or perform something which such student will not in the ordinary course and which has the effect of causing or generating a sense of shame or embarrassment so as to adversely affect the physique or psyche of a fresher or a junior student.

4. Actions that may constitute ragging-The following actions shall be included but not limited to those that may constitute ragging, namely*

(a) any conduct by any student or students whether by words spoken or written or by an act which has the effect of teasing, treating or handling with rudeness a fresher or any other student;

(b) indulging in rowdy or undisciplined activities by any student or students which causes or is likely to cause annoyance, hardship, physical or psychological harm or to raise fear or apprehension thereof in any fresher or any other student;

(c) asking any student to do any act which such the student will not in the ordinary course do and which has the effect of causing or generating a sense of shame, or torment or embarrassment so as to adversely affect the physique or psyche of such fresher or any other student;

(d) any act by a senior student that prevents, disrupts or disturbs the regular academic activity of any other student or a fresher,

(e) exploiting the services of a fresher or any other student for completing the academic tasks assigned to an individual or a group of students;

(f) any act of financial extortion or forceful expenditure burden put on a fresher or any other student by students;

(g) any act of physical abuse including all variants of it, such as, sexual abuse, homosexual assaults, stripping, forcing obscene and lewd acts, gestures, causing bodily harm or any other danger to health or person:

(h) any act or abuse by spoken words, emails, post, snail-mails, blogs, public insults which would also include deriving perverted pleasure, vicarious or sadistic thrill from actively or passively participating in the discomfiture to fresher or any other student;

(i) any act of physical or mental abuse (including bullying and exclusion) targeted at another student (fresher or otherwise) on the ground of colour, race, religion, caste, ethnicity, gender (including transgender), sexual orientation, appearance, nationality, regional origins, linguistic identity, place of birth, place of residence or economic background;

(j) any act that undermines human dignity and respect through humiliation or otherwise;

(k) any act that affects the mental health and self-confidence of a fresher or any other student with or without an intent to derive a sadistic pleasure or off power, authority or superiority by a student over any fresher or any other student;

(l) any other act not explicitly mentioned above but otherwise construed as an act of ragging in the letter and spirit of the definition for ragging as provided under regulations 3 and 4."

11. From the aforequoted provisions of Regulations 3 and 4 as also the definition in Clause 2(l) of Regulations 2021 what can be noticed is that various kinds of acts having some adverse psychological or physical impact on a student constitute 'Ragging'. Ragging, thus, is not confined to physical assault alone. Regulation 7(3)(v) casts a duty on the Medical Colleges or other Institutions to device certain methods and measures which are necessary for checking menace of Ragging. One of the measures provided in the said Regulation under Clause (g) is that Medical Colleges and other Institutions should evolve a robust measure, so that message and intent of the Institution may be loud and clear enough to ensure report of every incident of Ragging and also to ensure that every case of Ragging is dealt with according to the provisions of the Regulations 2021 and any other applicable laws for the time being in force.

12. Regulation 8 of Regulation 2021 clearly mandates that migration certificate or transfer certificate or conduct certificate, which may be issued to the student after completion of his studies by the Institution, shall have an entry in addition to other entries as to whether the student concerned has been punished for the offence of committing or abetting Ragging or not and further as to whether the student has displayed persistent violent or aggresive conduct ?

13. The Regulations provide for other measures to be taken by the Institutions, such as constitution of Anti Ragging Squad and establishing Anti Ragging Control Room or Helpline/Monitoring Committee or Monitoring Cell etc.

14. Regulation 21(4) of the Regulations 2021 clearly mandates that without any exception, name of the complainant in all instances shall be kept confidential, unless of course it is otherwise permissible. The procedure for conducting the institutional inquiry or investigation and report etc. is provided in Regulation 23. Regulation 24 permits the administration of Medical College or any other Institution to take any administrative action on the recommendation of the Anti Ragging Committee. Regulations 23 and 24 of the Regulations 2021 are extracted hereinbelow:

"23. Institutional inquiry or investigation and report.- (1) The Head of the Institution shall constitute specific committee to inquire into or investigate the incident of ragging without waiting for the report of any other authority, even if this is being investigated by the police or local authorities.

(2) The inquiry or investigation shall be conducted thoroughly including on-the-spot or site of the incident in a fair and transparent manner, without any bias or prejudice, upholding the principles of natural justice and giving adequate opportunity to the student or students accused of ragging and other witnesses to place before it the facts, documents and views concerning the incident of ragging, and considering such other relevant information as may be required.

(3) The entire process shall be completed and a report duly submitted within seven days of the information or reporting of the incident of ragging.

(4) The report shall be placed before the Head of the Institution or the Anti-Ragging Committee.

(5) The Anti-Ragging Committee shall examine the report, decide on and recommend further administrative action to the Head of the Institution.

24. Institutional administrative and penal actions.- (1) Every medical college or institution shall, after receiving the recommendations of the Anti-Ragging Committee under regulation 23, take necessary administrative action as it may deem fit,

(2) The Anti-Ragging Committee, on accepting the report of the institutional inquiry or investigation by the appropriate committee, shall recommend one or more of the actions provided under sub-regulations (5) and (6) depending on the nature, gravity and seriousness of the guilt established of the act of ragging as given under the provisions of Chapter II with the understanding that the action shall be exemplary and justifiably harsh to act as a deterrent against recurrence of such incidents:

(3) Where the individual person committing or abetting an act of ragging is not identified on the basis of the findings of the institutional inquiry or investigations, and the subsequent recommendations thereof, the medical college or institution thereof shall resort to collective punishment of more than one or a group of persons, as deemed fit, as a deterrent to ensure community pressure on the potential raggers.

(4) The broad ingredients that may call for punitive actions on receipt and approval of the recommendations include but is not limited to

(i) abetment to ragging;

(ii) criminal conspiracy to ragging;

(iii) unlawful assembly and rioting while ragging: public nuisance created during ragging;

(iv) public nuisance created during ragging;

(v) violation of decency and morals through ragging;

(vi) physical or psychological humiliation;

(vii) causing injury to body, causing hurt or grievous hurt;

(viii) wrongful restraint;

(ix) wrongful confinement;

(x) use of criminal force;

(xi) assault as well as sexual offences or even unnatural offences;

(xii) extortion in any forms;

(xiii) criminal intimidation;

(xiv) criminal trespass;

(xv) offences against property;

(xvi) any other act construed as provided under regulations 3 and 4.

(5) The nature of punitive actions that may be decided shall include the following, but shall not be limited to one or more of these actions that may be imposed, as deemed fit, namely :-

(i) suspension from attending classes and academic privileges:

(ii) withholding or withdrawing scholarship or fellowship and other benefits;

(iii) debarring from appearing in any test or examination or other evaluation process:

(iv) withholding results;

(v) debarring from attending conferences, and other academic programmes;

(vi) debarring from representing the institution in any regional, national or international meet, tournament, youth festival, etc.;

(vii) suspension or expulsion from the hostel;

(viii) imposition of a fine ranging from twenty-five thousand rupees to one lakh rupees

(ix) cancellation of admission;

(x) rustication from the medical college or institution for a period ranging from one to four semesters;

(xi) expulsion from the medical colleges or institutions and consequent debarring from admission to any other institution for a specified period.

(6) Without prejudice to the provisions of regulation 8, it shall be mandatory upon the medical college or institution to enter in the Migration Certificate or Transfer Certificate issued to the student as to whether the student has been punished for the offence of committing or abetting ragging, or not, as also whether the student has displayed persistent violent or aggressive behaviour or any inclination to harm others.

(7) Any other measure as directed by Courts of law shall be followed by the medical college or institution.

(8) The Head of the Institution shall follow-up the information regarding the incident of ragging provided under sub-regulation (4) of regulation 22, to the University to which the medical college or institution is affiliated with a report regarding the findings of the institutional level inquiry or investigation and the actions taken thereof.

(9) The Head of the Institution shall provide a report regarding the incident of ragging and the actions taken thereof to the Commission having informed earlier according to the provisions of sub-regulation (4) of regulation 22."

15. As per the aforesaid statutory prescriptions available in Regulation 23, Head of the Institution is to constitute a specific committee to inquire into or investigate the incident of ragging. Sub-Regulation (2) of Regulation 23 categorically provides that the inquiry or investigation has to be conducted thoroughly in a fair and transparent manner, without any bias or prejudice, upholding the principles of Natural Justice and giving adequate opportunity to the student or students accused of ragging. It also provides that the inquiry/investigation shall be conducted by providing opportunity to the witnesses to place the facts, documents and their views concerning the incident of ragging and by considering any such material which may be relevant. The inquiry/investigation to be conducted by the specific committee is to be placed before the Head of the Institution or the Anti Ragging Committee. The Anti-Ragging Committee thereafter is to examine the report, decide and recommend further administrative action to the Head of the Institution. Under Regulation 24, as observed above, Head of the Institution is to take final decision.

16. The Regulations 2021 are statutory in nature having been framed under section 57 of the National Medical Commission Act 2019 and hence are binding and no deviation from the same is permissible under law.

17. While we applaud the purpose and object of framing such regulations, we may also notice that Regulations, on one hand, provide for adequate measures to check the menace of ragging, which is rampant in the Medical Colleges/other institutions and, on the other hand, it also provides for taking due care in conducting the inquiry against the students in respect of whom complaint or charges of ragging is received.

18. Regulation 23(2) clearly provides that the inquiry/investigation by the specific committee shall be conducted not only in fair and transparent manner, but also without any bias or prejudice. It further provides that the specific committee while conducting the inquiry/investigation shall uphold the principals of Natural Justice giving adequate opportunity to the student or students against whom charges/complaint of ragging are leveled/made. It, thus, clearly encompasses in its fold adequate protection to a studengt facing the charge of ragging. Occurrence of the words "Upholding the principles of Natural Justice and giving adequate opportunity to the students or students, accused of ragging" in Regulation 23(2) makes it more than clear that condemning a student of any alleged act of ragging is not permissible without affording him opportunity of hearing, placing the facts, making his statement as also confronting with any material, which is proposed to be relied upon by the Institution for taking action against such student.

19. Whether or not the material available on record forms/constitutes a conduct on the part of the respondent no. 1-petitioner, amounting to ragging, is an issue which this court while deciding the instant special appeal does not intend to dwelve upon for the reason that it is apparent that the respondent no. 1-petitioner was not only not confronted with all the material on the basis of which the impugned action has precipitated against him, but also that, in our considered opinion, he has been deprived of adequate opportunity in terms of the provisions contained in Regulation 23(2) of the regulations 2021 for putting forth his case.

20. There is no denial of the fact that neither the report submitted by the specific committee nor the report submitted by the Anti-Ragging Committee on the basis of which final decision was taken by the Principal of the Institution on 25.7.2022 was provided to the respondent no. 1-petitioner. We also notice that even copies of the statements made by the complainants as also by the witnesses were not provided to the respondent no. 1-petitioner.

21. Regulation 23(2), as quoted above, clearly prescribes that inquiry/investigation is to be held giving adequate opportunity to the student/students, accused of ragging. It also clearly provides that inquiry/investigation is to be held in a manner which shall uphold the principles of Natural Justice. Holding institutional inquiry/investigation by the specific committee in terms of Regulation 23 may not be treated equivalent to a criminal trial, however, since the Regulations 2021, contain an unambiguous and unequivocal mandate that such inquiry/investigation shall be held upholding the principles of Natural Justice and giving adequate opportunity to the student accused of ragging, in our considered opinion, certain facets of principles of Natural Justice while conducting such an institutional inquiry need to be followed in every such inquiry/investigation.

22. We are also conscious of the fact that ragging in the Medical Colleges and other colleges of professional studies is a menace, which is rampant and if it is not checked appropriately, it causes great mental, physical and psychological harassment of the students entering into such institutions with a hope of completing their studies relating to professional courses. We are also conscious of the fact that in case any new entrant as a student in such courses of studies is subjected to ragging or any other misconduct, that too by a student who is quite senior to him, the same may have an impact on him which may be difficult to erase from his psyche throughout his life.

23. It is common knowledge that incidents of ragging and other misconducts by seniors in institutions of vocational studies sometimes have such a deep and long-lasting adverse impact on the junior students that it becomes difficult for such students to come out of the trauma and agony which may sometimes hamper his studies and in turn spoil his future as well. In this view of the matter, we have no doubt in our mind that the menace of ragging is to be dealt with the sternest of measures by the authorities of the institution as also by various regulatory authorities like the Universities and the National Medical Commission. It is for fulfillment of such objective that Regulations 2021 have been framed.

24. Having observed as above, we may fail in our duty if we do not discuss the legal protection available to a student, accused of ragging, when he is subjected to an inquiry/investigation under Regulation 23(2). The consequence of action against such a student which may ensue ultimately under Regulation 24, may be far-reaching even to the extent that in a given case it may ruin his career. Having regard to the seriousness of the consequences in respect of future career of a student pursuing a vocational course, we also are of the opinion that Regulation 23 of 2021 Regulations ought to be followed meticulously and in its letter and spirit. It is only when the Institution/Medical Colleges strictly follow and act upon the Regulation 23 in its entirety and in its true respect that a balance between the rights of the students accused of ragging and a student who is victim of ragging can be maintained. We are also conscious of the fact that Regulations 2021 have been framed and published only recently as on 18.11.2021 and are, thus, in their nascent stage. Implementation of Regulations 2021 will thus require some amount of understanding as to how the Regulations are to apply not only as a measure to check the menace of ragging, but also as a measure to conduct the inquiry/investigation as contemplated in Regulation 23 in a fair and appropriate manner.

25. Since in this case we are primarily concerned with the nature and kind of inquiry/investigation to be conducted as envisaged in Regulation 23 of 2021 Regulations, we find it appropriate to lay down certain principles as a caution while conducting the inquiry in such matters, which are described below.

26. We may make it clear that the principles as a precautionary measure as are being laid down by us in this judgment are only to aid the provisions of 2021 Regulations and they are not in any manner to supersede or even to supplant the same. The authorities of a Medical College or any other Institution are to be primarily, thus, governed by the statutory regulations namely Regulations 2021. They may, however, seek some guidance from our observations, which are as follows:

(a.) On receiving report of any misconduct or ragging, the statutory mechanism, as provided in 2021 Regulations, shall be activated immediately, without any delay of any kind. Once the specific committee is constituted by the Head of the Institution to enquire/investigate and report into the complaint received by the authorities of the institution, the specific committee, the Anti-Ragging Committee as also the Head of the Institution shall maintain complete confidentiality about the name of the complainant, however, if it becomes necessary to disclose the name during the course of inquiry, such disclosure shall be confined only to the Members of the specific committee, Members of the Anti-Ragging Committee, Principal of the Institution and if deemed fit, to the student who is charged with ragging as well.

(b) On constitution of the specific committee, the committee shall give notice to the complainant, witnesses and the student accused of ragging, for being present in the inquiry to be conducted by it. If statement of the complainant or the witnesses are recorded, the student accused of ragging, shall be provided with a copy thereof, inviting his reply to such statements, however, having regard to the nature of inquiry it will not be permissible to the student accused of ragging, to cross-examine the complainant/witnesses.

(c) On recording the statement of the complainant/witnesses opportunity of making statement in defence shall be provided to the student against whom the charge of ragging has been made. The statement of complainant, that of witnesses, statement in reply to such statements to be made by the student accused of ragging, as also the defence statement of the student accused of ragging, shall be recorded and reduced in writing as far as possible on the same day and if for some reason it is not possible to record the statement on the same day, on the next working day.

(d) The specific committee shall thereafter prepare its report and submit it to the Anti-Ragging Committee in terms of the provisions contained in Regulation 23(3) and 23(4) of 2021 Regulations, which shall submit its report/recommendation to Head of the Institution as envisaged under Regulation 23(5).

(e) As observed above in (d), on receipt of report from the specific committee, the Anti-Ragging Committee shall examine the report and make recommendation for further administrative action to the Head of the Institution.

(f) The Head of the Institution before taking final decision/action in terms of Regulation 24 shall provide a copy of the report/recommendation which may be made by the Anti-Ragging Committee, to the student facing the charge of ragging. The Head of the Institution will, thus, invite comments/explanation/reply from the student who is accused of ragging on the report/recommendation which may be made by the Anti-Ragging Committee and shall take decision on consideration of the report/recommendation of the Anti-Ragging Committee as also the reply/explanation which may be submitted by the student accused of ragging to the report/recommendation of the Anti-Ragging Committee and other relevant material which may be available on record.

(g) On receipt of report/recommendation made by the Anti-Ragging Committee, the Head of the Institution shall give not more than two days time to the student accused of ragging for furnishing his explanation/reply/comments to the report of the Anti-Ragging Committee and thereupon take a final decision, as aforesaid.

27. We have evolved these guidelines, as already observed above, not in any manner, in derogation of the 2021 regulations, rather only to facilitate appropriate implementation of the Regulations including Regulations 23 and 24 and accordingly our observations are to be understood in this perspective and context alone.

28. So far as the facts of the present case are concerned, it is noticeable that the respondent no. 1-petitioner was neither provided the copies of the statements of the complainant/witnesses nor was he ever confronted with the copy of the report said to have been submitted by the Anti-Ragging Committee to the Head of the Institution and accordingly we are of the opinion that the inquiry as contemplated in Regulation 23 of 2021 Regulations 2021 against the respondent no. 1-petitioner be conducted afresh by furnishing him copy of the complaint, statement of the complainants and witnesses made before the Specific Committee on 21.7.2022 and inviting his reply to the same and permitting him to make statement in his defence. Thereafter the appellant-Institution shall complete the inquiry in terms of Regulation 2021 as also keeping in view the observations made hereinabove.

We order accordingly.

29. The entire exercise under this order shall be completed within 15-days from today. The respondent no.1-petitioner is directed to cooperate fully with the authorities of the institution and in case at any point of time he is found not cooperating with the authorities of the appellant-Institution, the Institution shall proceed ahead in terms of the provisions of the regulations, as clarified above.

30. The order under appeal dated 13.9.2022 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-C No. 5622 of 2022 is hereby set aside. The decision of the Principal of the Institution, dated 25.7.2022 shall abide by the decision which may be taken finally in terms of this order.

31. The special appeal is, thus, disposed of in the aforesaid terms.

32. There will be no order as to costs.

A. Service Law – Compassionate Appointment - U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974: Rule 5 - While the right to compassionate appointment is not a right in the sense a right is understood in law stricto sensu, it is certainly an entitlement which a member of the deceased's family eligible, can invoke for consideration in order to save the family from debilitating financial distress caused by the deceased's sudden exit from the mortal world. The State employer, where there is a regime for compassionate appointment introduced by Rules etc., cannot toss a claim by the deceased's dependent family member by application of a rigorous Rule of Limitation in a manner that defeats the very object for which the regime of compassionate appointment has been introduced. (Para 17)

The 1974 Rules postulate by presumption that in the course of 5 years, the deceased's family, by whatever means, would tide over the financial crisis caused by the breadwinner's death. The first proviso to Rule 5(1) of the 1974 Rules nevertheless acknowledges the possibility that in the facts of a particular case, the crisis may continue and unless the rule of limitation is dispensed with or relaxed to consider the case of a member of the deceased's family for compassionate appointment, 'undue hardship' may be caused. To blindfoldedly infer that the family have tided over the financial crisis within a period of 5 years, acting on the statutory presumption, is to defeat the wisdom that the proviso carries. (Para 17, 23)

B. Burden no doubt lies upon the applicant for compassionate appointment, where there is a delay in making the claim, taking it beyond the period of 5 years, to make out a case for relaxation by coming up with a justification for the same. At the same time, it is the duty of the employer to look into all relevant evidence, that is on record, to find out whether the financial distress, that is the direct result of the deceased government servant's untimely death, is still plaguing the family in a given case. If the deceased government servant's death has plunged the family into a lasting financial distress from which they are not able to emerge, there might be a case of undue hardship that merits relaxation of the Rule of Limitation. Mere count of the calendar, where the claim is made after 5 years, may not be decisive. It is no doubt relevant. (Para 18)

C. Utter disregard of the order of remand passed by this Court dated August 20, 2016 - In the present case, the Secretary in passing the impugned order has apparently flouted the directions of this Court carried in the judgment and order dated 20.08.2016, where the report of the Circle Officer, Hariparwat, Agra dated 22.07.2014 was referred to as indicative of relevant facts existing to show that the family were still facing financial crisis. The Secretary, while passing the impugned order, ought to have referred to the Circle Officer's report dated 22.07.2014 and in not doing so, it has acted contrary to the command of this Court, carried in the judgment and order dated 20.08.2016, which has become final inter parties. The learned Single Judge could not have remarked that the Judge who dealt with the earlier writ petition inter parties and passed the judgment and order dated 20.08.2016, did not independently deal with the decision of the Full

Bench in Shiv Kumar Dubey's case (infra) after noticing the principles laid down therein. The earlier judgment inter parties was as much binding on the learned Single Judge, who passed the impugned order, as it is on the parties, because the findings there are indeed res judicata. It is not a case, where the earlier decision was cited by way of precedent and ignored as per incuriam. (Para 19)

If the Secretary had carefully looked into either of the two reports dated 21.10.2016 or the earlier one dated 22.07.2014, it was not difficult to miss the fact that the writ petitioner in making his claim for compassionate appointment had to wait for two decisive events, i.e., attaining the age of majority and completing his education. It is not disputed that for a compassionate appointment, it is not the age of majority alone that entitles one for consideration. The necessary educational qualification too has to be acquired. (Para 20 to 22)

This Special Appeal, accordingly, succeeds and is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated December 5, 2018 is hereby set aside and reversed. The writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated December 7, 2016 passed by the Secretary, Department of Home Affairs (Police), Anubhag-10, Government of U.P., Lucknow is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to respondent no. 1 to consider the writ petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment afresh in accordance with the directions in this judgment. (Para 25)

Special appeal allowed. (E-4)

ORDER

1. This is a petitioner's appeal arising out of the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge, dated December 5, 2018, dismissing Writ - A No. 751 of 2017.

2. The late Brijesh Parasher, the writ petitioner Amar Parasher's father, was employed with the Uttar Pradesh Radio Police as a Head Operator and posted at the Police Radio Head Quarters, Firozabad. He died in harness on December 13, 2004. Not only did the writ petitioner's father die in harness, but it appears from a communication dated October 19, 2005, addressed to the Station House Officers of Police Station Etmadpur/ New Agra/ Bah by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Agra, that he died on duty. As a token of acknowledgment to the fact that the writ petitioner's father died on duty, his widow and dependent, Smt. Meera Parasher were called on the Police Commemoration Day to accept for her husband a Martyrs' Honour. There is on record an application made by the writ petitioner's mother, Smt. Meera Parasher and the deceased's widow, indicating the personal profile of the family members that the late Brijesh Parasher left behind. The application shows that the family comprised of minor children numbering two, including the writ petitioner, then aged 12 years and an aged mother of the deceased, who was of 74 years. The widow was 35 years and in the application, she indicated the need that the family had for a compassionate appointment to tide over the sudden financial crisis into which the family had plunged. Yet, she did not claim for herself on the ground that the children were young and pursuing their studies, which required the widow's complete attention and management. She requested that while she considered herself disabled from seeking compassionate appointment on the above account, she was willing to seek appointment for her son/ daughter upon either turning a major. It was also indicated that the son or the daughter of the deceased would seek compassionate appointment upon attaining the age of majority and completing the requisite education.

3. On the application dated September 29, 2005, the Superintendent of Police, Firozabad passed an order dated October 15, 2005, saying that her son, the writ petitioner was 12 years old and still shy by 6 years of the age of majority, when he would be eligible for consideration under the Dying-in-Harness Rules. It was said in the order that once the writ petitioner turns 18, upon an application made for the purpose, necessary action would be taken. Upon the writ petitioner turning eighter years, an application seeking compassionate appointment for him was made by his mother, addressed to the Additional Director General of Police/ Director (Telecom), U.P. Police Radio Head Quarters, Lucknow, with copies to other Officers of the Police, mentioned at the foot of the application. The respondents do not seem to acknowledge this application and discount it from their record. Though the respondents say that this application by the writ petitioner's mother was not received, there is a communication dated March 21, 2013, addressed to the State Radio Officer (Administration), U.P., Police Radio Head Quarters, Lucknow from the Superintendent of Police, Firozabad forwarding the said application, as the writ petitioner asserts. A copy of the memo dated March 21, 2013 from the Superintendent of Police, Firozabad addressed to the State Radio Officer, Administration is on record of the writ petition as Annexure No.6.

4. There is then a communication by the State Radio Officer (Administration) to the State Government dated March 19, 2014 recommending consideration of the writ petitioner's case for compassionate appointment, after granting relaxation of the time period of 5 years from the death of the concerned government servant, within which an application for compassionate appointment must normally be made under Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (for short, "1974 Rules'). The power is exercisable by the State Government to dispense with or relax the requirement of the time period of 5 years under the Proviso to Rule 5(1) of the 1974 Rules.

5. It appears that a report regarding the circumstances of the writ petitioner's family, particularly, the economic condition was called for by the State Government. The inquiry into the relevant circumstances was entrusted to the Circle Officer, Hariparwat, Agra vide an order dated July 4, 2014. In compliance with the last mentioned order, the Circle Officer conducted an inquiry and submitted his report dated July 22, 2014 to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Agra. A copy of the said report is on record as Annexure No.8 to the writ petition. The report has evaluated in minute detail not only the financial circumstances of the family that the writ petitioner's father left behind, but the impact that his untimely demise still had upon the surviving members. Allusion to the said report would be made during the course of this judgment.

6. The Deputy Secretary to the Government of U.P., before whom the writ petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment came up for consideration after grant of relaxation in the stipulated time period, rejected it by his order dated March 3, 2015. The order noted the fact that the family were in receipt of an extraordinary pension of ₹10,346/-, and, thereafter referred to various authorities of this Court and the Supreme Court that say that compassionate appointment is not a source of employment. The report submitted by the Circle Officer, Hariparwat, Agra regarding the circumstances and status on various relevant parameters, that would be germane to determine if a case of "undue hardship' for relaxation in the period of 5 years under the Proviso to Rule 5(1) of the 1974 Rules was made out, did not find the slightest consideration in the order dated March 3, 2015, rejecting the writ petitioner's claim.

7. The writ petitioner challenged the said order by instituting Writ - A No. 58536 of 2015. This Court vide order dated August 20, 2016, after noticing the facts of the case and the law governing the principles on which a claim for compassionate appointment under the 1974 Rules is to be considered, also took note of all the details regarding the circumstances of the deceased employee's family and held:

"Considering the fact and circumstances of the present case, it is found that the petitioner had applied soon after attaining majority and certain material was placed before respondent no.1 to make out the case of undue hardship for grant of relaxation under first proviso to Rule 5. However, it appears that respondent no.1 has rejected the claim of the petitioner only on two grounds that the wife of the deceased did not apply for compassionate appointment and second was of delay and it is concluded that no case for relaxation under first Proviso to Rule 5 is made out. The hardship being faced by the family of the deceased employee is reflected from the enquiry report submitted by the Enquiry Officer namely the Circle Officer, Hariparvat Agra, as per the Government Order dated 23.02.2014 and 17.07.2014. It is indicated that the family is still facing financial crisis. They are dependent only upon the pension which is a meager amount of Rs.10,346/-. There are three female dependants of the deceased including his old mother and the family has no other source of income."

8. In view of the aforesaid findings in the judgment August 20, 2016 passed inter partes in Writ - A No. 58536 of 2015, this Court quashed the Deputy Secretary's order dated March 3, 2015 acting for the Government and remitted the matter for re-consideration to the Government, in terms of the following orders:

"All these attending circumstances have not been found reference in the order impugned at all. The rejection order dated 03.03.2015 passed by respondent no.1, therefore, cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed. The matter is remanded back to respondent no.1 to take a fresh decision on the merits of the application giving due consideration to all the attending circumstances and pass a reasoned and speaking order keeping in view the directions given by the Full Bench of this Court in Shiv Kumar Dubey (Supra) expeditiously preferably within a period of three weeks from the date of production of the certified copy of this order.

With the above observations and directions, the writ petition is allowed.

9. This is how the matter went back to the State Government and the writ petitioner moved the Government again seeking re-consideration of his case for compassionate appointment, after relaxing the normal period of 5 years. The writ petitioner for the purpose moved an application dated September 6, 2016 along with a copy of this Court's order dated August 20, 2016 passed in the writ petition last mentioned. The State Government again appear to have called for a report in the matter vide order dated September 22, 2016. In response to the said inquiry, the Circle Officer, Hariparwat, Agra once again inquired into the financial and other circumstances of the deceased employee's family, including the writ petitioner's. A report dated October 21, 2016 was submitted to the Competent Authority. The contents of the report dated October 21, 2016 shall also be referred to later in this judgment, together with those of the earlier report.

10. The writ petitioner's case was rejected once again by the State Government, taking note of this Court's judgment and order dated August 20, 2016. The Secretary to the State Government, who dealt with the writ petitioner's claim, remarked that the writ petitioner had laid his claim for compassionate appointment 8 years after his father's death. He has made it 3 years 2 months and 13 days beyond the prescribed time limit of 5 years. It has also been recorded by the Secretary that Amar Parasher attained the age of majority on October 9, 2010, but did not immediately apply. He waited for a further period of 2 years 4 months and 13 days after attaining the age of majority. It is remarked that the aforesaid delay is entirely on the writ petitioner's part. It is, therefore, explicit that upon death of the deceased government servant, no eligible member of his family applied promptly or immediately upon attaining majority. It could be done by them, but they did not. The affected family of the deceased waited for his son, the writ petitioner, to turn a major, in consequence whereof, the time period of 5 years, prescribed under the 1974 Rules elapsed.

11. Doing a calendaring of these events, the Secretary has drawn an inference that the members of the deceased's family have tided over the sudden financial crisis, which no longer appears to afflict them. It has then been remarked in the order impugned that under the 1974 Rules, 5 years is the prescribed period of time, within which an application for compassionate appointment can be entertained. The 1974 Rules envisage an immediate measure to bail out the deceased's family from the sudden financial crisis that have plunged into, upon the breadwinner's sudden demise. It is not the purpose of the 1974 Rules to guarantee a right of recruitment that can be retained to be availed at will and convenience in order to secure employment. It has been opined that considering the delay of 3 years 2 months and 13 days on the writ petitioner's part in applying for compassionate appointment, no case for granting relaxation from the prescribed time limit of 5 years is made out, and consequently by the order impugned dated December 7, 2016 passed by the Secretary, the writ petitioner's claim has been rejected.

12. The writ petitioner challenged this order before the learned Single Judge, who took note of the fact that rejection of the writ petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment earlier, had been quashed by this Court and the matter was remitted to the Government to consider afresh bearing in mind the guidance in the judgment. It was noted by the learned Single Judge that this Court on the earlier occasion had held that the respondent has not correctly appreciated the ambit of the Proviso to Rule 5(1) while disposing of the writ petitioner's claim. The learned Single Judge has then gone on to remark about the judgment of remand rendered by the learned Judge in the earlier writ petition, preferred by the writ petitioner, in the following terms:

"Although, the learned Judge noticed the principles enunciated by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Shiv Kumar Dubey and others vs. State of U.P. and others, 2014 (2) ADJ 312 (FB), the Court notes that the following principles as elucidated were not independently dealt with in this decision."

(emphasis by Court)

13. The learned Single Judge has then referred to principles culled out under Para (v) and (viii) of the decision of the Full Bench in Shiv Kumar Kumar Dubey's case (supra) to hold that the Secretary has rightly applied the law to reject the writ petitioner's claim. It has been remarked that appointment under the 1974 Rules is an exception to the principles of equality in employment under the State, guaranteed under Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution. It has also been observed that that the Secretary while passing the impugned order had rightly come to the conclusion that no case for enlargement of time envisaged under Rule 10 of the 1974 Rules is made out by the writ petitioner. The learned Judge has, accordingly, dismissed the writ petition.

14. Aggrieved, the present Special Appeal has been filed.

15. The learned Counsel for the writ petitioner has assailed the impugned judgment saying that it runs in the teeth of the earlier judgment and order dated August 20, 2016 passed in Writ - A No. 58536 of 2015, which has attained finality inter partes. It is submitted that the impugned order has not at all considered the writ petitioner's case by reference to circumstances elucidated in the inquiry report dated July 22, 2014, which this Court had required them to do by the judgment and order dated August 20, 2016 for the purpose of determining whether a case of undue hardship, entitling the writ petitioner to a relaxation of the limitation in Rule 5 of the 1974 Rules, is made out.

16. The learned Standing Counsel has supported the impugned order and says that it accords with the law laid down by consistent authority, elucidating the principles governing consideration of claims for compassionate appointment.

17. Upon hearing the learned Counsel for parties, we are of opinion that there is no cavil about the fact that a claim for compassionate appointment cannot be considered a matter of right to employment under the State. It is not an additional source of employment. At the same time, the purpose of compassionate appointment is to bail out the family of a deceased government servant, who have plunged into a deep financial distress, on account of the breadwinner's sudden and untimely demise. The object and purpose of a compassionate appointment, therefore, survives so long as the financial deprivation brought about by the sudden death of the breadwinner lasts. The 1974 Rules postulate by presumption that in the course of 5 years, the deceased's family, by whatever means, would tide over the financial crisis caused by the breadwinner's death. The first proviso to Rule 5(1) of the 1974 Rules nevertheless acknowledges the possibility that in the facts of a particular case, the crisis may continue and unless the rule of limitation is dispensed with or relaxed to consider the case of a member of the deceased's family for compassionate appointment, 'undue hardship' may be caused. The proviso directs that if the State Government is satisfied that undue hardship would be caused in a particular case on account of non-relaxation of the rule of limitation, it may consider the case for compassionate appointment, dealing with it in a just and equitable manner. While the right to compassionate appointment is not a right in the sense a right is understood in law stricto sensu, it is certainly an entitlement which a member of the deceased's family eligible, can invoke for consideration in order to save the family from debilitating financial distress caused by the deceased's sudden exit from the mortal world. The State employer, where there is a regime for compassionate appointment introduced by Rules etc., cannot toss a claim by the deceased's dependent family member by application of a rigorous Rule of Limitation in a manner that defeats the very object for which the regime of compassionate appointment has been introduced.

18. The rules by which a claim for compassionate appointment, including relaxation in the period of limitation under Rule 5 has to be considered, have been exhaustively laid down by the Full Bench decision in Shiv Kumar Dubey's (supra) and the same need not be recapitulated. Under the principles laid down in Shiv Kumar Dubey's case, burden no doubt lies upon the applicant for compassionate appointment, where there is a delay in making the claim, taking it beyond the period of 5 years, to make out a case for relaxation by coming up with a justification for the same. At the same time, it is the duty of the employer to look into all relevant evidence, that is on record, to find out whether the financial distress, that is the direct result of the deceased government servant's untimely death, is still plaguing the family in a given case. If the deceased government servant's death has plunged the family into a lasting financial distress from which they are not able to emerge, there might be a case of undue hardship that merits relaxation of the Rule of Limitation. Mere count of the calendar, where the claim is made after 5 years, may not be decisive. It is no doubt relevant.

19. The Secretary in passing the impugned order has apparently flouted the directions of this Court carried in the judgment and order dated August 20, 2016, where the report of the Circle Officer, Hariparwat, Agra dated July 22, 2014 was referred to as indicative of relevant facts existing to show that the family were still facing financial crisis. The Secretary, while passing the impugned order, ought to have referred to the Circle Officer's report dated July 22, 2014 and in not doing so, it has acted contrary to the command of this Court, carried in the judgment and order dated August 20, 2016, which has become final inter partes. With utmost respect, we must say that the learned Single Judge could not have remarked that the Judge who dealt with the earlier writ petition inter partes and passed the judgment and order dated August 20, 2016 in Writ - A No. 58536 of 2015, did not independently deal with the decision of the Full Bench in Shiv Kumar Dubey's case (supra) after noticing the principles laid down therein. The earlier judgment inter partes was as much binding on the learned Single Judge, who passed the impugned order, as it is on the parties, because the findings there are indeed res judicata. It is not a case, where the earlier decision was cited by way of precedent and ignored as per incuriam.

20. The inquiry report dated July 22, 2014 notes down the following salient circumstances regarding the dependent family members of the deceased:

(1) After the death of the concerned employee, the family members are surviving on the extraordinary pension that they are receiving (a sum of ₹8,550/-) at the relevant time;

(2) The deceased's family comprises his widow, his mother, son and daughter;

(3) The members of the deceased's family do not have any agricultural land, on which they may depend for sustenance;

(4) During the period of time between the employee's death and the claim, his children were completing their education and the pension received was their source of income;

(5) The writ petitioner made his claim for compassionate appointment, because at the time of his father's death, he was aged a mere 10 years. The delay in making the claim was caused by the fact that the writ petitioner was awaiting attaining the age of majority and completing his education;

(6) The members of the deceased's family, apart from the pension they receive, do not own a house of their own.

In the concluding part of the report dated 22.07.2014 submitted by the Circle Officer, Hariparwat, it has been again emphasized that upon completing his education and turning a major, the writ petitioner applied for compassionate appointment.

21. It is this report of the Circle Officer, Hariparwat, Agra that this Court by the earlier judgment and order dated August 20, 2016 passed in Writ - A No. 58536 of 2015 had required consideration by the Government while judging the writ petitioner's claim for relaxation in the prescribed time period for consideration of his compassionate appointment claim. The impugned order does not show the slightest consideration of the report dated July 22, 2014, as required by this Court. Now, after the order of remand was passed by this Court, the subsequent report submitted by the Circle Officer, Hariparwat reports in identical terms on the continuing financial distress of the Parasher family. Surprisingly, this report was called for by the State Government and yet while passing the impugned order, the subsequent report dated October 21, 2016 submitted by the Circle Officer, Hariparwat has also not been referred to in the least by the Secretary, writing the order impugned. All that the Secretary has said in the impugned order is too harp on the numerical of delay that the writ petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment is hit by.

22. This Court must remark that if the delay of years and months by numerical figure alone were the only factor to be considered, there might have been no reason for the first proviso to Rule 5(1) of the 1974 Rules being there, envisaging relaxation in the period of time, prescribed by the 1974 Rules. It must also be remarked that if the Secretary had carefully looked into either of the two reports dated October 21, 2016 or the earlier one dated July 22, 2014, it was not difficult to miss the fact that the writ petitioner in making his claim for compassionate appointment had to wait for two decisive events, to wit, attaining the age of majority and completing his education. It is not disputed that for a compassionate appointment, it is not the age of majority alone that entitles one for consideration. The necessary educational qualification too have been acquired. No doubt, the two inquiry reports dated July 22, 2014 and October 21, 2016 do not indicate what educational qualification the writ petitioner acquired and on what date after which he applied, a little sensitive handling of the claim by the Secretary would have led him to find out when the writ petitioner earned his essential eligibility educational qualifications. Perhaps, that would explain the delay that the Secretary has numerically counted to deny the writ petitioner relaxation in the prescribed period of time for making a claim. We must observe that the circumstances of the family that have come on record show that the deceased has an old mother, the widow and a daughter, of which this Court took due note in the judgment and order dated August 20, 2016 passed earlier, which has not at all been considered by the Secretary. There is a remark in the judgment dated August 20, 2016 that there are three female dependents of the deceased, including his old mother and the family have no other source of income, except the meager pension of ₹10,346/-.

23. We must remark that in these circumstances, to blindfoldedly infer that the family have tided over the financial crisis within a period of 5 years, acting on the statutory presumption, is to defeat the wisdom that the proviso carries. Also, the impugned order, we must observe, has been written in utter disregard of the order of remand passed by this Court dated August 20, 2016, which we do not appreciate.

24. We are satisfied for all the reasons indicated above that the learned Single Judge was in error in approving the Secretary's order, impugned in the writ petition, rejecting the writ petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment.

25. This Special Appeal, accordingly, succeeds and is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated December 5, 2018 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ - A No.751 of 2017 is hereby set aside and reversed. The writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated December 7, 2016 passed by the Secretary, Department of Home Affairs (Police), Anubhag-10, Government of U.P., Lucknow is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to respondent no.1 to consider the writ petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment afresh in accordance with the directions in this judgment within a period of two months of receipt of a copy of this judgment. The writ petitioner shall be at liberty to file an additional memorandum explaining the delay, annexing therewith such evidence on which he relies to seek relaxation in the matter of limitation under the proviso to Rule 5(1) of the 1974 Rules.

A. Service Law – Appointment – Salary - Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978 - Rule 4 - National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993 - Section 12(d) read with Section 12A - Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 - Section 23 - Acting on the result drawn up by the Selection Committee, a proposal dated 08.07.2016 to obtain approval for the petitioner's appointment as the Headmistress of the institution, was forwarded to the District Basic Education Officer, Rampur, by the Manager of the institution. The District Basic Education Officer, Rampur, by means of his order dated 26.07.2016, declined the proposal to approve the writ petitioner's appointment on the ground that she does not hold the certificate of TET (Junior High School Level), an essential educational qualification for the post. (Para 5)

The writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher with a recognised school on 01.07.2009 i.e. prior to amendment in the 1978 Rules w.e.f. 05.12.2012. The writ petitioner was, thus, appointed as an assistant teacher with a recognised school at a time when the 1978 Rules had not been amended to bring in the qualification of passing the TET as essential for an assistant teacher. (Para 16)

B. Central Law prevailing over State Law - Assuming that the National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE) Guidelines dated 11.02.2011, issued u/s 12(d) r/w S.12A of the National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993 and S.23 of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, prevail over the 1978 Rules as they stood prior to the Sixth Amendment w.e.f. 05.12.2012, for reason of the Central law prevailing over the State law on a subject falling in the concurrent list, as held in Om Prakash Tripathi's case (infra), the writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher in a recognized school on 01.07.2009. At that time, there were no NCTE Guidelines at variance with the 1978 Rules. Thus, at the time that the writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher, there was no requirement of passing the TET. The writ petitioner, therefore, was validly appointed an assistant teacher and at the time of consideration of her candidature for the post of Headmistress, neither the amendment made to the 1978 Rule w.e.f. 05.12.2012 nor the NCTE Guidelines, that came after the writ petitioner's appointment as an assistant teacher, can be read retrospectively to render her appointment as an assistant teacher a nullity.

Her experience as such, in recognised schools, qualifies her for the post of a headmistress under the 1978 Rules. This is particularly so, inasmuch as there is no requirement for a headmistress as such, passing the TET under the 1978 Rules. No other provision has been brought to our notice, which may directly require a headmistress of a Junior High School to pass the TET for the purpose of maintaining her candidature as such. (Para 18)

Special appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Om Prakash Tripathi Vs St. of U.P. Through Secretary, Basic Education & ors., S.S. No. 22454 of 2018, decided on 22.12.2019 (Para 17)

Present special appeal is against judgment and order dated 01.04.2022, passed by Learned Single Judge, in Civil Misc. WP No. 10041/2017.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Bindal, C.J.
&

Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Ramanand Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants and Mr. Vikrant Pandey, learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the respondent.

2. There is a delay of 95 days reported by the Stamp Reporter. Upon a perusal of the affidavit filed in support of the delay condonation application, we find that there is sufficient cause made out to condone the delay. The delay in filing the appeal is condoned.

3. The application is allowed.

4. This appeal has been preferred by the five respondents-the State respondents of Writ-A No.10041 of 2017, questioning the judgment and order of the learned Single Judge dated 1st April, 2022, allowing the writ petition.

5. The writ petitioner is respondent No.1 to this appeal. She will hereinafter be called as "the writ petitioner'. The Manager, Public Balika Junior High School, Rampur, District Rampur sought and was granted prior approval by the District Basic Education Officer, Rampur, the fourth appellant here, permitting the institution aforesaid to initiate the process to recruit, select and appoint a suitable person as the Headmistress of the institution. Permission for recruitment of two Assistant Teachers was also sought and granted. Based on the permission granted by the District Basic Education Officer, the Manager of the Public Balika Junior High School, Civil Lines, Rampur (for short, "the institution') issued an advertisement dated 21.01.2016, published in the Hindi Daily "Hindustan', issue dated 22.01.2016 and also in the "Shah Times, Rampur', issue dated 22nd January, 2016. The advertisement indicated personnel eligibility qualifications for the post of Headmistress as the candidate being a woman, who should have attained the age of 30 years as on 1st July, 2016. The minimum education and experience required for the eligibility was indicated to the effect that the candidate should be a trained graduate with a minimum of five years teaching experience in a recognized school. There was no mention in this advertisement about the candidate being required to possess a certificate of passing the Teachers Eligibility Test (for short, "the TET') as an essential qualification to maintain a valid candidature. The writ petitioner is admittedly a trained graduate with five years of teaching experience in a recognized school. The writ petitioner was called for interview for the post of Headmistress, held on 05.07.2016. It is pleaded in the writ petition that out of ten candidates, who participated in the interview, the writ petitioner secured the highest marks and was ranked at the first place. Acting on the result drawn up by the Selection Committee, a proposal dated 08.07.2016 to obtain approval for the petitioner's appointment as the Headmistress of the institution, was forwarded to the District Basic Education Officer, Rampur, appellant no.5, by the Manager of the institution. A copy of the proposal is on record as Annexure No.8 to the writ petition. The District Basic Education Officer, Rampur, by means of his order dated 26.07.2016, declined the proposal to approve the writ petitioner's appointment on the ground that she does not hold the certificate of TET (Junior High School Level), an essential educational qualification for the post.

6. It is the absence of the aforesaid qualification with the writ petitioner that has become the bone of contention between parties. The writ petitioner questioned the order dated 26.07.2016 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Rampur, declining the Management's proposal to appoint her as the Headmistress, by instituting the writ petition giving rise to this appeal. After exchange of affidavits, the learned Single Judge by means of the judgment and order impugned has allowed the writ petition and quashed the order dated 26.07.2016 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Rampur. A mandamus has been issued to the District Basic Education Officer, to grant approval to the petitioner's selection on the post of Headmistress of the institution within a period of four weeks and issue her the necessary letter of appointment. It has further been ordered by the learned Judge that the writ petitioner shall be paid arrears of salary from the date approval for her appointment was denied by the District Basic Education Officer i.e. 26.07.2016. The arrears have been directed to be paid within a period of two months, after the issue of her appointment letter. It has also been ordered that in case the arrears of salary are not paid to the writ petitioner within the time provided by the learned Judge, simple interest at the rate of 6% p.a. would also be payable to the writ petition till actual payment is made.

7. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge, the State-respondents have appealed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules of the Court.

8. Heard Mr. Ramanand Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the appellants and Mr. Vikrant Pandey, learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the writ petitioner.

9. It is argued by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State that the educational qualification of passing the TET, conducted by the Government of Uttar Pradesh or by the Government of India, is an essential qualification for appointment as an assistant teacher under Rule 4 of the Uttar Pradesh Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978 (for short, 'the 1978 Rules'). It is submitted with much emphasis by Mr. Ramanand Pandey, that the minimum qualification for appointment on the post of Headmaster/ Headmistress under Rule 4(2) of the 1978 Rules is a degree from a recognized university or an equivalent examination recognized as such, besides qualification of passing a Teachers Training Court, as specified in the Rule. In addition, the essential qualification also includes five years teaching experience in a recognized school. Carrying the submission further, it is urged on behalf of the State that the advertisement issued by the institution was not in accordance with the Government Orders, departmental instructions and the provisions of the 1978 Rules, as amended by the Sixth Amendment Rules, 2012. It is, therefore, argued on behalf of the appellants that in order to qualify for the post of a headmistress, the five years teaching experience postulated as an assistant teacher would mean experience earned as an assistant teacher, possessing the essential qualifications for the latter post. It is submitted that the writ petitioner not having passed the TET before she was appointed as an assistant teacher, her experience of five years teaching is a nullity. It would not qualify her for the post of Headmistress under Rule 4(2) of the 1978 Rules.

10. The submission of the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel goes as far as that the qualification of passing the TET being essential for an assistant teacher, it is a fortiori essential for a headmistress, because an assistant teacher of five years experience would postulate the candidate possessing qualification of having passed the TET. It is argued that the learned Single Judge has gone wrong in holding that passing the TET is not one of the essential qualifications for the post of a headmistress, stipulated by Rule 4(2) of the 1978 Rules.

11. On the other hand, Mr. Vikrant Pandey, the learned Counsel appearing for the writ petitioner, supported the impugned order and says that the writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher in accordance with the 1978 Rules on 01.07.2009 and functioned as such up to 30.11.2012 in Smt. Shanti Devi Junior High School, Bareilly, and again earned two years teaching experience from 01.07.2013 to 03.12.2015 in Smt. Shanti Devi Children Academy, Bareilly. It is urged that the Sixth Amendment to the 1978 Rules were introduced w.e.f. 05.12.2012, whereas the writ petitioner was appointed on 01.07.2009, and thereafter, completed her experience as an assistant teacher in two spells, exceeding five years on the date she applied for the post of headmistress.

12. It is emphasized that when the writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher on 01.07.2009, there was no requirement of passing the TET. It is for the said reason that she was permitted to continue as an assistant teacher even after the amendment of the 1978 Rules by the Sixth Amendment w.e.f. 05.12.2012. It is, therefore, the writ petitioner's case is that in her case, the requirement of passing the TET would not at all be attracted. The learned Single Judge has more or less accepted the writ petitioner's contention and allowed the writ petition in the terms indicate hereinabove.

13. Upon consideration of the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for parties and perusal of the records, we are in agreement with the conclusions reached by the learned Single Judge. Rule 4 of the 1978 Rules are extracted below:

"4. Minimum Qualifications.- (1) The minimum qualifications for the post of Assistant Teacher of recognized school shall be a Graduation Degree from a University recognized by U.G.C., and a teachers training course recognized by the State Government or U.G.C. or the Board as follows-

1. Basic Teaching Certificate.

2. A regular B.Ed. degree from a duly recognized institution.

3. Certificate of Teaching.

4. Junior Teaching Certificate.

5. Hindustani Teaching Certificate

And

Teacher eligibility test passed conducted by the Government of Uttar Pradesh or by the Government of India.

(2) The minimum qualifications for the appointment to the post of head master of a recognized school shall be as follows-

(a) A degree from a recognized University or an equivalent examination recognized as such.

(b) A teacher's training course recognized by the State Government U.G.C. or Board as follows-

1. Basic Teaching Certificate.

2. A regular B.Ed degree from a duly recognized Institution.

3. Certificate of Teaching.

4. Junior Teaching Certificate.

5. Hindustani Teaching Certificate.

(c) Five years teaching experience in a recognised schools."

14. A reading of the Rule shows that it is nowhere prescribed as an essential qualification for a candidate to be appointed a headmaster/ headmistress that the person concerned must have passed the TET. There is no quarrel about the fact that the writ petitioner had earned her degree of Bachelor of Arts from Dr. Bhimrao Ambedkar University in the year 2003 and a degree of Bachelor of Education from the same University in the year 2007. She is, thus, a trained graduate within the meaning of Rule 4(2) of the 1978 Rules.

15. The issue is about the lack of her qualification relating to the TET. There is clear averment in Paragraph No.11 of the writ petition that the writ petitioner has teaching experience of five years from a recognised school i.e. Smt. Shanti Devi Junior High School, Bareilly, where she has taught from 01.07.2009 to 30.11.2012, and thereafter, in Smt. Shanti Devi Children Academy, Bareilly w.e.f. 01.07.2013 to 03.12.2015. Certificates of her experience have been issued by the two institutions, copies whereof are annexed as Annexure No. 5 to the writ petition. These certificates are countersigned by the District Basic Education Officer, Bareilly. In the counter affidavit filed by the State/ respondent no.5 in the writ petition, the contents of Paragraph No.11 to the writ petition have been admitted.

16. The inexplicable conclusion on facts, therefore, is that the writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher with a recognised school on 01.07.2009 i.e. prior to amendment in the 1978 Rules w.e.f. 05.12.2012. The writ petitioner was, thus, appointed as an assistant teacher with a recognised school at a time when the 1978 Rules had not been amended to bring in the qualification of passing the TET as essential for an assistant teacher.

17. A learned Single Judge of this Court in S.S. No. 22454 of 2018, Om Prakash Tripathi v. State of U.P. Through Secretary, Basic Education and others, decided on 22.12.2019, before whom the same issue came up for consideration, after considering the law laid down by the Supreme Court and two Full Benches, held:

(22) In Full Bench's judgment of this Court in the case of Shiv Sharma and others v. State of U.P. and others reported 2013 (6) ADJ 310 (FB), it has been held that Notification dated 23.8.2010 and the qualifications determined by the NCTE would have overriding effect in so far State Legislation Act, Rules or Regulations are in conflict with the notification issued by the NCTE which, therefore, has to be ignored.

(23) The principle has also been reiterated in the subsequent Full Bench's decision rendered in Anand Kumar Yadav and others v. Union of India and others reported in 2015 (8) ADJ 338 (FB). The decision has been confirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of U.P. v. Anand Yadav, 2017 Vol ADJ 173.

(24) While dealing with the aforesaid provisions, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that in the State of Uttar Pradesh, the State Government in a clear violation of mandate of Section 23(2), which vests the power to relax the minimum qualifications is in the Central Government has arrogated to its power which it lacks to grant exemption from the mandatory qualification which are laid down by the NCTE in their application to Shiksha Mitra in the State. Parliament has legislated to provide, in no uncertain terms, that any relaxation of the minimum educational qualifications can only be made by the Central Government.

(25) In State of U.P. v. Shiv Kumar Pathak reported in 2017 (8) ADJ 164, the question posed before the Supreme Court was with regard to the validity of the decision of the State of Uttar Pradesh in prescribing qualifications for a recruitment of teachers at variance with the guidelines of the National Council for Teachers Education (NCTE) dated 11th February, 2011 under Section 12 (d) read with Section 12 A of the National Council for Teachers Education Act, 1993 (NCTE Act) and Section 23 of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Act Education, 2009 (RTE Act) on the ground of repugnancy of State Law with the Central law on a subject falling in concurrent list.

(26) In pursuance to the Notification referred hereinabove, the State Government has issued notification dated 27 November, 2017, whereby notifications issued by the National Council for Teacher Education (hereinafter referred to as "N.C.T.E." on 23 August 2010, 29 July, 2011, 12 November 2014 and 28 November 2014, prescribing qualification for the post of Assistant Teacher in Primary Institutions of the State has been incorporated.

(27) The Full Bench of this Court as well as the Supreme Court in the decisions referred hereinabove leaves no room for doubt that the competent authority to determine the essential qualifications for appointment of teachers in primary schools throughout the country, is vested with the N.C.T.E. The notification issued by the N.C.T.E. would apply from the date, on which the qualification was notified by the N.C.T.E. and not from the date on which the N.C.T.E. notifications was incorporated in the State Act or Rules governing appointment and selection of Primary Teacher.

(28) In U.P. Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978 which was added by way of amendment dated 5.12.2012 prescribing qualifications for the post of Assistant Teachers in addition to other qualifications. It has also been provided that a candidate must have possessed qualification of T.E.T.

(29) Under sub Rule (2) of Rule 4 of the Rules of 1978 it has been provided that essential qualification of possessing T.E.T. is must for the post of Assistant Teacher and Rule 4 sub Rule (2) reveals that the qualification for the post of Head Master is that he should have the qualification of five years of experience from a recognized Institution as a teacher.

(30) In the present case, the petitioner was granted appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in Ram Sawak Inter College, Dhamoha, Babaganj, District Pratapgarh in July, 2007 prior to amendment incorporated under Rule 4 of the Rules of 1978.

(31) At the relevant point of time, there was no requirement of having T.E.T. qualification for the appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in the year 2007. First time, amendment was incorporated on 23 August, 2010 and 29 July, 2011 by the N.C.T.E.

(32) On perusal of Rule 4 sub Rule (2), it is reflected that Head Master is the Principle and only such a teacher who has five years experience from a recognized School in addition to other qualifications would be eligible for the post of Headmaster in order to qualify after amendment. A teacher is required to have an essential qualification of T.E.T. after amendment in Rule 4 on 5.12.2012, therefore it flows therefrom that the candidates from the post of Head Master also have possessed the qualification of T.E.T.. The petitioner being appointed prior to the amendment prescribing T.E.T. qualification on the post of Assistant Teacher is not required to have T.E.T. qualification for the post of Head Master.

18. In writing the impugned judgment, the learned Single has also followed the law laid down in Om Prakash Tripathi's case (supra) and we see no reason to differ from it. Assuming that the National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE) Guidelines dated 11.02.2011, issued under Section 12(d) read with Section 12A of the National Council for Teacher Education Act, 1993 and Section 23 of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, prevail over the 1978 Rules as they stood prior to the Sixth Amendment w.e.f. 05.12.2012, for reason of the Central law prevailing over the State law on a subject falling in the concurrent list, as held in Om Prakash Tripathi's case (supra), the writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher in a recognized school on 01.07.2009. At that time, there were no NCTE Guidelines at variance with the 1978 Rules. Thus, at the time that the writ petitioner was appointed as an assistant teacher, there was no requirement of passing the TET. The writ petitioner, therefore, was validly appointed an assistant teacher and at the time of consideration of her candidature for the post of Headmistress, neither the amendment made to the 1978 Rule w.e.f 05.12.2012 nor the NCTE Guidelines, that came after the writ petitioner's appointment as an assistant teacher, can be read retrospectively to render her appointment as an assistant teacher a nullity. The writ petitioner was validly appointed as an assistant teacher. Her experience as such, in recognised schools, qualifies her for the post of a headmistress under the 1978 Rules. This is particularly so, inasmuch as there is no requirement for a headmistress as such, passing the TET under the 1978 Rules. No other provision has been brought to our notice, which may directly require a headmistress of a Junior High School to pass the TET for the purpose of maintaining her candidature as such.

19. No other point was pressed.

20. In view of the aforesaid facts, we do not find any merit in this appeal. It is dismissed.

THE HON'BLE SIDDHARTHA VARMA, J.

Matters under Art. 227 (Civil) No. 4126 of 2019

Colonel Mukul Dev ...Petitioner
Versus
Smt. Deveshwari Devi ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Vinayak Mithal

Counsel for the Respondent:
Sri Avneesh Tripathi, Sri Sikhar Tondon

A. Civil Law – Declaration and Injunction - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order VII Rule 14, Order XIII Rule 1, Order XVIII Rule 4, Order XVIII Rule 17-A, Order XIII Rule 1(3) - Under the specific provisions of CPC i.e. under Order VII Rule 14 and under Order XIII Rule 1, the Court had no power to allow the parties to adduce further evidence after the relevant stages were over. The relevant stages were: (i) when the suit was filed; and (ii) before the issues were settled. (Para 6)

B. U/Order XIII Rule 1(3) CPC, document could be produced for the cross-examination of the witnesses but this does not mean that documents could be produced even after the cross-examination had concluded. It was the bounden duty of the Court to have, even u/s 151 CPC, seen as to whether the documents which were being sought to be produced, were within the knowledge of the parties who were trying to produce the document or whether even after exercise of due diligence, the documents could not be produced by the party which was producing the document at the relevant point of time. (Para 7)

The plaintiff was required to file all the relevant documents, when the suit was filed and before the issues were settled. However, the Court finds that nowhere in the CPC is there any prohibition for bringing any document by way of additional evidence subsequently and, therefore, if in the interest of justice any document was to be produced then the Court had to use its power with circumspection and care and when the bona fide of the applicant could not be doubted and also when it was absolutely essential to bring on record the additional evidence to meet the ends of justice. (Para 8)

The plaintiff had not exercised the right which she had. The Court, finds that when the case of the plaintiff was dependent upon the two wills dated 29.4.1974 and 19.5.2002 then definitely the two wills ought to have been brought on record either at the time of filing of the suit or before the settlement of the issues. Keeping in mind that injustice may not occur, the Court under its powers under section 151 C.P.C. directs that the documents may be taken on record as additional evidence. (Para 8)

Under such circumstances, the impugned order by which the documents were allowed to be taken on record, is not being interfered with. Any other document should not be allowed to be taken as evidence. (Para 9)

The documents which have been permitted to be taken on record by this Court were available to the plaintiff at the time when the suit was filed and also at the time when the issues were settled, the Court concludes that the plaintiff for this carelessness and laxness should be penalized. (Para 10)

Writ petition partly allowed. (E-4)

K.K. Velusamy Vs N. Palanisamy, (2011) 11 Supreme Court 275 (Para 5, 7)

Present petition assails order dated 26.02.2019, passed by the Trial Court, permitting the plaintiff-respondent to bring on record some of the documents after the evidence was closed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.)

1. The respondent-plaintiff filed a suit being Suit No.848 of 2002 for declaration and also for a permanent injunction praying that the suit property situate at 142, Jattiwara, Meerut be declared as the property of the plaintiff and also the defendant be restrained by a permanent injunction from causing any interference in the peaceful possession and occupation of the property 142, Jattiwara, Meerut. The claim was set up by stating that the husband of the plaintiff-respondent namely late Surendra Dayal, who had expired on

17.6.2002, had bequeathed the property in question by a will dated 19.5.2002. A further allegation was there in the plaint that the father of the deceased-husband of the plaintiff late Sri Shiv Dayal had willed his self-earned property on 29.4.1974 to the deceased-husband of the plaintiff. The suit was filed sometime in the year 2002 and thereafter the petitioner-defendant Colonel Mukul Dev filed a written statement on 18.6.2002. Thereafter issues were struck and the parties submitted their affidavits by way of examination-in-chief. The plaintiff and the defendant were put to cross-examination and before the settlement of the issues and at the time of filing of the suit, all relevant documents, which were to be relied upon by the parties as documentary evidence in original, were also filed. After the cross-examination of the plaintiff who was produced as PW-1 and the cross-examination of PW-2 Smt. Payal Agarwal, the daughter of the plaintiff was concluded on 19.7.2018, the evidence viz.-a-viz. the plaintiff was closed. The defendant, after the production of his affidavit as examination-in-chief on 17.9.2018 was put to cross-examination with effect from 5.11.2018. While the evidence of the defendant-petitioner was being adduced in the cross-examination, the plaintiff filed an application no.155-C on 22.2.2019 and sought permission to file certain fresh documents as evidence. The documents which were to be filed were around 9 in number. The defendant-petitioner objected to the filing of fresh evidence on 25.2.2019. However, when the Trial Court by its order dated 26.2.2019 permitted the plaintiff-respondent to bring on record some of the documents which she had prayed for being brought on recor

2. From the perusal of the order impugned, it appears that Paper Nos.164-Ka to 166-Ga, which were sought to be brought in as additional evidence were refused but the other papers were admitted in evidence.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has assailed the order by stating that when the evidence viz.-a-viz. the plaintiff had been closed then without recalling the order by which the plaintiff's evidence was closed, the Trial Court could not have admitted in evidence/further documents. The additional documents which were sought to be brought in as additional evidence could not have been allowed to be filed. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that when there was no law to permit the adducing of evidence by the plaintiff after the evidence of the defendant-petitioner had commenced then the additional evidence could not have been allowed to be brought on record. Learned counsel assailed the order by stating that the Trial Court had not given any reason as to why the additional evidence had been brought on record. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that bringing on record documents by way of additional evidence was a dilatory tactics which was being adopted by the plaintiff. Learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon Order VII Rule 14 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the "CPC") and submitted that at the time of the filing of the suit, the documents, which were to be relied upon and which were in the possession of the plaintiff, should have been entered in the list which had accompanied the plaint and those documents should have been produced in the Court when the plaint was presented by the plaintiff. He submitted that if the documents were not in the possession of the plaintiff, she should have stated that in whose possession exactly the documents were. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the plaintiff's case in paragraph nos.2 and 3 of the plaint was specifically to the effect that initially Sri Shiv Dayal had willed the property in question to the husband of the plaintiff Sri Surendra Dayal on 29.4.1974 and thereafter the husband of the plaintiff namely Surendra Dayal had willed the property to the plaintiff on 19.5.2002. These facts when had been denied in the written statement then it was the bounden duty of the plaintiff to have filed the original documents under Order XIII Rule 1 CPC. Learned counsel for the petitioner-defendant further submitted that under Order XVIII Rule 4 CPC when the recording of evidence was done and when the plaintiff found that there were certain lacuna in her evidence then she could not have been permitted to file the additional documents. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that earlier under Order XVIII Rule 17-A CPC, documents could have been submitted but thereto there was a condition that the documents which would have been submitted after the conclusion of the evidence were to be such documents/evidence which were not within the knowledge of the plaintiff or could not be produced by the plaintiff at the time when the plaintiff was leading his/her evidence.

4. Since, learned counsel for the petitioner states that, the provisions of Order XVIII Rule 17-A CPC were being misused by the litigants to prolong proceedings, the said provision of Order XVIII Rule 17-A CPC itself was deleted from the Code. Learned counsel for the petitioner, therefore, stated that the order impugned cannot be sustained in the eyes of law and may be set-aside.

5. Sri Avneesh Tripathi, learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff-respondent, however, submitted that when there was denial of certain existing facts by the defendant in his cross-examination then it was essential that the documents which the plaintiff was bringing on record be brought on record. This, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent submitted would facilitate the Court in passing the judgment in the case. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent submitted that under Order XIII Rule 1(3) CPC any document could be produced for the cross-examination of the witnesses or other parties and, therefore, the document in question could have definitely been produced. He further submitted that even if there was no provision in the CPC for the production of additional documents then the same could be allowed to be done by the Court in its inherent powers under section 151 CPC. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent to bolster his case relied upon a decision of Delhi High Court in Subhash Chander vs. Bhagwan Yadav reported in 2010 (114) DRJ 306 decided on 25.11.2009 and submitted that under Order XIII Rule 1(3) CPC the document could be produced. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondent further relied upon a decision of the Supreme Court in K.K. Velusamy vs. N. Palanisamy reported in (2011) 11 SCC 275 and submitted that even if there was no power bestowed upon the Court under the CPC to allow the parties to produce any material or evidence, the same could be done under section 151 CPC to facilitate the Court to adjudicate the case.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, the Court is of the view that definitely under the specific provisions of CPC i.e. under Order VII Rule 14 and under Order XIII Rule 1, the Court had no power to allow the parties to adduce further evidence after the relevant stages were over. The relevant stages were : (i) when the suit was filed; and (ii) before the issues were settled. For proper appreciation of the law, which is being dealt with, the provisions of Order VII Rule 14 CPC and Order XIII Rule 1 are being reproduced here as under :-

"Order VII Rule 14. Production of document on which plaintiff sues or relies

.--(1) Where a plaintiff sues upon a document or relies upon document in his possession or power in support of his claim, he shall enter such documents in a list, and shall produce it in Court when the plaint is presented by him and shall, at the same time deliver the document and a copy thereof, to be filed with the plaint.

(2) Where any such document is not in the possession or power of the plaintiff, he shall, wherever possible, state in whose possession or power it is.

(3) A document which ought to be produced in Court by the plaintiff when the plaint is presented, or to be entered in the list to be added or annexed to the plaint but is not produced or entered accordingly, shall not, without the leave of the Court, be received in evidence on his behalf at the hearing of the suit.]

(4) Nothing in this rule shall apply to document produced for the cross examination of the plaintiffs witnesses, or, handed over to a witness merely to refresh his memory.

"Order XIII Rule 1. Original documents to be produced at or before the settlement of issues

.--(1) The parties or their pleader shall produce on or before the settlement of issues, all the documentary evidence in original where the copies thereof have been filed along with plaint or written statement.

(2) The Court shall receive the documents so produced:

Provided that they are accompanied by an accurate list thereof prepared in such form as the High Court directs.

(3) Nothing in sub-rule (1) shall apply to documents-

(a) produced for the cross-examination of the witnesses of the other party; or

(b) handed over to a witness merely to refresh his memory."

7. Definitely under Order XIII Rule 1(3) CPC, document could be produced for the cross-examination of the witnesses but this does not mean that documents could be produced even after the cross-examination had concluded. It was the bounden duty of the Court to have, even under section 151 CPC, seen as to whether the documents which were being sought to be produced, were within the knowledge of the parties who were trying to produce the document or whether even after exercise of due diligence, the documents could not be produced by the party which was producing the document at the relevant point of time. The powers under section 151 CPC could be exercised, as has been stated in the case

of K.K. Velusamy (supra), only under the following circumstances :-

"(a) Section 151 is not a substantive provision which creates or confers any power or jurisdiction on courts. It merely recognizes the discretionary power inherent in every court as a necessary corollary for rendering justice in accordance with law, to do what is 'right' and undo what is 'wrong', that is, to do all things necessary to secure the ends of justice and prevent abuse of its process.

(b) As the provisions of the Code are not exhaustive, Section 151 recognizes and confirms that if the Code does not expressly or impliedly cover any particular procedural aspect, the inherent power can be used to deal with such situation or aspect, if the ends of justice warrant it. The breadth of such power is co-extensive with the need to exercise such power on the facts and circumstances.

(c) A Court has no power to do that which is prohibited by law or the Code, by purported exercise of its inherent powers. If the Code contains provisions dealing with a particular topic or aspect, and such provisions either expressly or necessary implication exhaust the scope of the power of the court or the jurisdiction that may exercised in relation to that matter, the inherent power cannot be invoked in order to cut across the powers conferred by the Code or a manner inconsistent with such provisions. In other words the court cannot make use of the special provisions of Section 151 of the Code, where the remedy or procedure is provided in the Code.

(d) The inherent powers of the court being complementary to the powers specifically conferred, a court is free to exercise them for the purposes mentioned in Section 151 of the Code when the matter is not covered by any specific provision in the Code and the exercise of those powers would not in any way be in conflict with what has been expressly provided in the Code or be against the intention of the Legislature.

(e) While exercising the inherent power, the court will be doubly cautious, as there is no legislative guidance to deal with the procedural situation and the exercise of power depends upon the discretion and wisdom of the court, and the facts and circumstances of the case. The absence of an express provision in the code and the recognition and saving of the inherent power of a court, should not however be treated as a carte blanche to grant any relief.

(f) The power under Section 151 will have to be used with circumspection and care, only where it is absolutely necessary, when there is no provision in the Code governing the matter, when the bona fides of the applicant cannot be doubted, when such exercise is to meet the ends of justice and to prevent abuse of process of court."

8. In the instant case, the Court finds that after the stages of Order VII Rule 14 and Order XIII Rule 1 CPC i.e. when the suit was filed and before the issues were settled, the plaintiff was required to file all the relevant documents. However, the Court finds that nowhere in the CPC is there any prohibition for bringing any document by way of additional evidence subsequently and, therefore, if in the interest of justice any document was to be produced then the Court had to use its power with circumspection and care and when the bona fide of the applicant could not be doubted and also when it was absolutely essential to bring on record the additional evidence to meet the ends of justice. In the instant case the Court finds that, definitely the plaintiff had not exercised the right which she had, to file the relevant evidence at the time of filing of the suit and also before the settlement of the issues. The Court, however, finds that when the case of the plaintiff was dependent upon the two wills dated 29.4.1974 and 19.5.2002 then definitely the two wills ought to have been brought on record either at the time of filing of the suit or before the settlement of the issues. Keeping in mind that injustice may not occur, the Court under its powers under section 151 C.P.C. directs that the documents which find place in the list of documents at Serial Nos.4, 5 and 6, which were filed on 22.2.2019, may be taken on record as additional evidence.

9. Under such circumstances, the impugned order by which the documents at Serial Nos.4 to 6 were allowed to be taken on record, is not being interfered with. Any other document should not be allowed to be taken as evidence. These documents definitely, if proved or disproved, would give a different turn to the case. When the documents are taken on record, the parties shall be allowed to lead evidence which shall definitely be concluded within a period of one month and thereafter the suit itself would be decided within a period of six months.

10. Since, the Court finds that the documents which have been permitted to be taken on record by this Court were available to the plaintiff at the time when the suit was filed and also at the time when the issues were settled, the Court concludes that the plaintiff for this carelessness and laxness should be penalized and, therefore, the documents which are sought to be taken in as additional evidence which were there in the list of documents at Serial Nos.4, 5 and 6, be admitted only if the plaintiff deposits a cost of Rs.10,000/-.

11. The impugned order, accordingly, stands modified.

12. The instant application under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, accordingly, stands party allowed.

A. Civil Law – Reference of dispute to Arbitrator - Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Section 8 - Transfer of Property Act, 1982 - Section 111(a); U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959 - Section 571 – An agreement or a clause in an agreement can be construed as an arbitration agreement, only if,

(i) it provides for or contemplates reference of disputes or difference by either party to a private forum (other than a Court or Tribunal) or decision;

(ii) it provides either expressly or impliedly, for an enquiry by the private forum giving due opportunity to both parties to put forth their cases; and

(iii) it provides that the decision of the forum is final and binding upon the parties, without recourse to any other remedy and both would abide by such decision.

Where there is no provision either for reference of disputes to a private forum, or for a fair and judicious enquiry, or for a decision which is final and binding on parties to the dispute, there is no arbitration agreement. (Para 25)

B. The definition of arbitration agreement and one of the necessary condition to construe an agreement to be an arbitration agreement is that the parties had desired and intended that a dispute must be referred to arbitration for decision and they would undertake to abide by the decision. On the presence of such condition, there cannot be any difficulty to hold that the intention of the parties was to have an arbitration agreement, and thus, the arbitration agreement immediately comes into existence. Though, it is true that the mention of word 'Arbitration' in the clause may not be necessary to construe an agreement to be an arbitration agreement, but the relevant clause which is being termed as 'arbitration agreement' has to conform to the requirement of arbitration as contained in Section 7 of the Arbitration Act - It is evident from the clause extracted, which has been relied upon by the petitioner for referring the dispute to the arbitrator in the opinion of the Court lacks necessary ingredients of arbitration agreement that the decision of the arbitrator shall be binding upon the parties. (Para 26, 27)

Perusal of the clause does not in any way indicate the intention of the parties that the decision of the United Province shall be binding upon the parties, therefore, in absence of such a mandatory condition, the aforesaid clause cannot be termed as arbitration clause. Since, this Court has held that the clause referred, is not an arbitration clause, therefore, there is no question of referring the matter to the arbitration and application u/s 8Ga2 of the defendant/petitioner was not maintainable. (Para 28)

C. Parties to the lease deed - If the plaintiff/respondents have not stepped into the shoes of the lessor Haji Sheikh Alauddin and lease deed is not considered to have been executed between the plaintiffs/respondents and Chairman, Municipal Board, Meerut, the terms and conditions of the lease deed was not binding upon the plaintiffs/respondent which means that the above clause which the defendant/petitioner is referring to an arbitration agreement, even otherwise, shall not be binding upon the plaintiffs/respondents. Present petition assails order dated 21.08.2014, passed by Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Meerut, rejecting the application 28Ga of the petitioner for referring the dispute to the Arbitrator u/s 8 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, and order dated 28.02.2019 passed by 1st Additional District Judge, Meerut dismissing the revision of petitioner.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pankaj Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri P.K. Jain, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Vinayak Mithal, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioner, by means of the present writ petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has assailed the order dated 21.08.2014 passed by Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Meerut in Original Suit No.539 of 2011 (Dr. Jagat Narayan Vs. Nagar Nigam, Meerut) rejecting the application 28Ga of the petitioner for referring the dispute to the Arbitrator under Section 8 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act, 1996') and order dated 28.02.2019 passed by the 1st Additional District Judge, Meerut in Civil Revision No.05 of 2015 (Nagar Nigam Meerut Vs.Sharad Rohtagi) dismissing the revision of the petitioner.

3. The facts in brief are that Original Suit No.539 of 2011 has been instituted by respondent Nos. 1 to 7 (hereinafter referred to as "plaintiff/respondents) against the petitioner (hereinafter referred to as "defendant/petitioner') alleging that by a registered sale deed dated 18.06.2013, predecessor in title of the plaintiffs/respondents, Late Haji Sheikh Alauddin, son of Late Shaikh Gulam Muhiuddin of Lalkurti Bazar, Meerut had let out part of land measuring about 11 Bighas, 16 Biswas pukhta situated at Budhana Gate, Meerut, formally known as "Barfkhana' to the then Municipal Board, Meerut and now occupied under Gymkhana Maidan, Bachcha Park and Ladies Park under the terms and conditions stipulated in the said lease deed on payment of Rs.1/- per annum by the then Municipal Board to the lessor Late Haji Sheikh Alauddin. Besides others stipulation in the lease deed, the lease was for the term of 99 years commencing w.e.f. 01.04.1911. Another relevant clause of the lease deed in the instant case is that the lease shall be renewable at the option of the lessor at the expiration of original term of 99 years on same term for a period of not less than 30 years. If on the determination of the lease, the lessor shall not elect to renew the lease, it shall be the duty of the lessee to make over the land hereby demised, to the lessor in a condition not worse than its condition at present, but it shall not be bound in that case to restore any trees that may have been removed or otherwise have ceased to exist.

4. According to the plaint, the defendant/respondent i.e., Municipal Corporation (Nagar Nigam), Meerut now represents the former Municipal Board, Meerut which is bound by the terms and conditions of the lease deed dated 18.06.2013. It is further stated that Late Haji Sheikh Allauddin, son of Sheikh Gulam Mohiuddin had transferred his rights in the land to Sheikh Manzoor Mohiuddin, son of Sheikh Gaush Mohiuddin of Lal Kurti, Meerut by registered Gift Deed dated 13.06.1939/21.06.1939 registered on 22.06.1941, therefore, Sheikh Manzoor Mohiuddin stepped into the shoes of original lessor. Subsequently the said Sheikh Manzoor Mohiuddin made an Exchange Deed with Gulzari Mal, the successor of plaintiff/respondent in respect of 2/3rd portion of the said leased land vide registered deed dated 11.07.1945 and transferred the remaining 1/3rd share in the said leased land to the said Gulzari Mal vide registered sale deed dated 18.04.1949.

5. In para-8 of the plaint, the plaintiffs/respondents had stated the details as to how the property has devolved on the plaintiffs/respondents. It is further stated that Late Gulzari Mal (predecessors of respondents) in the year1978 informed the then Municipal Board about his right to realize rent from the Municipal Board, Meerut under the said lease deed dated 18.06.1913 (herein-after referred to as the 'lease deed'). In reply to the said letter, the then Municipal Board, Meerut vide letter dated 179/ME/PWD dated 26.07.1978 asked for some clarification regarding his ownership and rights and other particulars. It is further stated that Sri Awadh Bihari Lal, son of Late Gulzari Mal replied the said letter addressing to the application of Civil Abhiyanta, Nagar Palika, Meerut on 15.07.1978, clarifying about his ownership and his rights as one of the lessor after the transfer of property by Haji Sheikh Allauddin.

6. Further case of the plaintiffs/respondents is that the period of lease has expired by efflux of time on 31.03.2010, and thereafter the possession of the defendant/revisionist is unauthorized, illegal and is that of trespasser. It is also stated that the defendant/revisionist in contravention of the terms and conditions of the lease deed had raised unauthorized constructions on the land which is absolutely illegal and liable to be removed.

7. It is further stated that since the tenancy has been determined by efflux of time under Section 111 (a) of the Transfer of of Property Act, 1982 (herein-after referred to as "T.P.Act'), therefore, there is no need to serve notice under Section 106 of the T.P. Act. The plaintiffs/respondents served a notice upon the defendant/revisionist through their counsel Sri Ashutosh Garga, Advocate, Meerut on 14.03.2011 under Section 571 of the U.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1959 stating therein that after the expiry of period of two months, the suit for the arrears of rent, eviction and mesne profit shall be filed in the competent court having jurisdiction.

8. In the aforesaid backdrop, the plaintiff/respondents prayed for the following reliefs:-

"(a) That by a decree of this Hon'ble Court, the plaintiffs be got delivered the actual physical and vacant possession of the demised land and measuring about 11 Bigha, 16 Biswa situated at Budhana Gate Meerut formely known as Barf Khana and Now occupied under Gymkhana Maidan, Bachcha Park and Ladies Park, the boundaries of which are mentioned at the foot of this Plaint, from the defendant or any other person found in occupation thereof, after removing the superstructures/ constructions raised on the said land.

(b) That the plaintiffs be got awarded a sum of Rs.3,00,000/- (Rs. Three lacs only) towards mesne profit for 17.05.2011.

(c) That the plaintiffs be got awarded mesne profit at the rate of Rs.3,00,000/- (Rs. Three lacs only) per day from the date of filing of the suit till the date of delivery of the possession of the demised property as mentioned in paragraph (A) supra the court fees on the said amount shall be paid at the time of execution.

(d) That such other relief as the Hon'ble Court may deem think fit and proper may kindly be awarded to the plaintiffs again the defendant under the facts and circumstances of the present case.

(e) That the cost of the suit be awarded to the plaintiffs against the defendant."

9. In the aforesaid suit, defendant/revisionist filed an application 28Ga2 under Section 8 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act,1996 (herein-after referred to 'Act 1996') stating therein that under Clause 9 of the lease deed, if any dispute arises between the parties, the matter shall be referred to the State of U.P. and the decision taken thereon by the State of U.P. shall be final and binding upon the parties.

10. Plaintiff/respondents filed an objection against the said application 28Ga 2 of the defendant/revisionist taking a plea that Clause 9 of the lease deed cannot be termed to be an arbitration clause as alleged by the defendant/revisionist. It is further stated that there is no dispute in respect of covenants of the deed or proper fulfillment of the deed. The term mentioned in the lease deed has already expired, thus, the present case does not fall within the ambit of purview and scope of clause 9 of the lease deed as alleged by the defendant/revisionist.

11. It is further stated that it is not mentioned in the clause that the decision shall be binding on the parties to the deed as alleged by the defendant/revisionist.

12. The trial Court by order dated 21.08.2014 by placing reliance of a judgement of this Court in the case reported in 2014 (138) L.I.C. 901, All., Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited Vs. Ashok Kumar held that the terms and conditions of the lease deed are binding upon the parties during the subsistence of lease deed, and as the term of the lease deed has expired on 31.03.2010, therefore, the dispute is not referable under Section 8 of the Act, 1996.

13. In the revision, preferred by the petitioner/defendant, the revisional Court after considering various clauses of the agreement found that after expiry of the lease deed, the lessor i.e., plaintiffs/respondents are entitled to regain the possession of the leased property. The revisional court further held that the suit is for possession of the property leased out to the defendant/petitioner for a fixed period of 99 years and after expiry of the term of the lease, the lease has not been renewed between the parties. Accordingly, it held that as the dispute between the parties about the rights of the plaintiffs to regain the possession of the property is not one which relates to the rights and liabilities to the parties under the terms of the lease deed and the claim of the plaintiffs/respondents is clearly one that arose only after expiry of the term of the lease, and thus, the dispute is beyond the term of lease deed executed between the parties in the year 1911. Accordingly, it held that the matter is not referable to the Arbitration under Section 8 of the Act, 1996 and accordingly,it dismissed the revision.

14. Challenging the said order, learned counsel for the petitioner has contend that the finding of the trial Court in rejecting the application 28Ga2 of the defendant/petitioner is perverse and illegal as there was no lease agreement between the plaintiffs/respondents and defendant/petitioner. It is further submitted that the Court below has incorrectly narrated the basic facts which clearly indicate that the impugned orders have been passed in a very casual manner. He further contends that the defendant/petitioner cited number of judgements before the Court below but none of the judgements cited by the defendant/ petitioner have been dealt with by the Court below and this reflects that very casual approach had been adopted by the Court below in deciding the application 28Ga2, therefore, the impugned orders are liable to be set aside.

15. Lastly, it is urged that there is an arbitration clause and even after the lease deed is expired, the arbitration clause shall remain in existence and is binding upon the parties, and thus, both the Courts below were obliged to refer the dispute under Section 8 of the Act, 1996 and it is only the domain of the Arbitrator to see whether the dispute falls within the ambit of the arbitration clause or not, and, thus, it is contended that the Court below has committed jurisdictional error in rejecting the revision of the defendant/petitioner.

16. In support of his case, learned counsel for the defendant petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgement of the Apex Court reported in 2000 (4) SCC 539 P. Anand Gajapati Raju Vs. P.V.G Raju, 2003 (6) SCC 503 Hindustan Petrolium Corporation Ltd. Vs. Pinkcity Midway Petroleums, 2004 (1) SCC 372 Mallikarjun vs. Gulbarga University, 2005 (2) CTC 487 Ford Credit Kotak Mahindra Ltd., vs M. Swaminathan , 2007 (5) SCC 692 National Agricultural Corp. Marketing Federation India Ltd. vs Cains Trading Ltd., 2007 (5) SCC 28 Punjab State and Ors. Vs Dina Nath, 2008 (2) Alld. ALJ 663, M/S A.R.C Overseas Private Limited vs M/S Bougainvillea Multiplies and Entertainment Centre Pvt. Ltd.& 2009 (10) SCC 103, Branch Manager, Magma Leasing And Finance Ltd and Another vs Potluri Madhavilata And Another.

17. Per contra, learned counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents has submitted that the Clause on which reliance is placed by the defendant/petitioner is not an arbitration agreement as it does not conform to Section 7 of the Arbitration Act,1996.It is further contended that the cause of action for filing the suit for eviction had arisen after expiry of the lease deed on 31/03/2010,therefore, there is no claim with regard to the period during which the lease was in subsistence, hence, there is no dispute regarding the terms and conditions of the agreement or breach of any terms and conditions of the agreement when lease deed was in force, therefore, the dispute does not come within the ambit of alleged arbitration clause.

18. It is further contended that the defendant/petitioner did not hand over the actual physical vacant possession of the land after expiry of the lease deed on 31.03.2010. The plaintiffs/ respondents did not consent to the occupation of the tenant after the expiry of the lease deed, therefore, the status of the defendant/petitioner is that of a tenant at sufferance (unauthorized occupant), hence, is liable to be ejected forthwith without issuance of any prior notice. In support of his case, he has relied upon the upon the judgement of the Apex Court as well as this Court reported in 2014 (2) SCC 201 P. Dasaratharama Reddy Complex vs. Government of Karnataka and Ors., 2014 (5) ADJ 644, Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited vs. Ashok Kumar, 2011 (5) SCC 532 Booz Allen and Hamilton Inc. vs. SBI Home Finance Ltd. and Ors., 2021 (2) SCC 1 Vidya Drolia and Ors. vs. Durga Trading Corporation and Ors & 2018 (2) SCC 21 Syed Sughra Zaidi vs. Laeeq Ahmad (Dead) through L.Rs. and Ors.

19. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

20. The fact as to how the plaintiffs/respondents came to be the owner of the property has been delineated in the earlier part of the judgement. They claimed the eviction of the petitioner/ defendant from the property on the ground that the term of the lease period has expired and after expiration of the lease period, the possession of the petitioner/defendant is illegal and their status is that of a trespasser.

21. Now, the petitioner/defendant has instituted an application 28Ga2 under Section 8 of the Act, 1996 on the basis of stipulation referred as arbitration clause in the lease deed contending that the dispute in the instant case is covered under the said stipulation and as such, the suit is not maintainable and it is only the Arbitrator who has jurisdiction to decide the dispute. The stipulations on which the petitioner/defendant are harping is reproduced herein-below:-

"Provided further that should any dispute arise at any time in future between the parties to the deed as to the proper fulfillment or otherwise covenants or of any matter with reference to this deed, the dispute shall be referred to the Government of the United of Province of Agra and Oudh, and the decision of the Government shall be accepted as final by the parties and their representative and assigns;"

22. According to the defendant/petitioner, the aforesaid clause is an arbitration agreement and conforms to the requirement of Section 7 of the Act, 1996 which defines the arbitration agreement. It is contended that even if the word 'Arbitration' is not used in a clause relating to the settlement of disputes, it does not detract from the clause being an arbitration agreement if it has the attributes or elements of an arbitration agreement.

23. In support of the aforesaid contention, petitioner has relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court reported in 2007 (5) SCC 28. Paras- 8 & 10 of the said judgement are reproduced herein-below:-

"8. A bare perusal of the definition of arbitration agreement would clearly show that an arbitration agreement is not required to be in any particular form. What is required to be ascertained is whether the parties have agreed that if any dispute arises between them in respect of the subject matter of the contract, such dispute shall be referred to arbitration. In that case, such agreement would certainly spell out an arbitration agreement. [See Rukmani Bai Gupta v. Collector of Jabalpur AIR 1981 SC 479. However, from the definition of the arbitration agreement, it is also clear that the agreement must be in writing and to interpret the agreement as an "arbitration agreement" one has to ascertain the intention of the parties and also treatment of the decision as final. If the parties had desired and intended that a dispute must be referred to arbitration for decision and they would undertake to abide by that decision, there cannot be any difficulty to hold that the intention of the parties was to have an arbitration agreement, that is to say, an arbitration agreement immediately comes into existence.

10. We have already noted clause 4 of the Work Order as discussed hereinabove. It is true that in the aforesaid clause 4 of the Work Order, the words "arbitration" and "arbitrator" are not indicated; but in our view, omission to mention the words "arbitration" and "arbitrator" as noted herein earlier cannot be a ground to hold that the said clause was not an arbitration agreement within the meaning of Section 2[a] of the Act. The essential requirements as pointed out herein earlier are that the parties have intended to make a reference to an arbitration and treat the decision of the arbitrator as final. As the conditions to constitute an "arbitration agreement" have been satisfied, we hold that clause 4 of the Work Order must be construed to be an arbitration agreement and dispute raised by the parties must be referred to the arbitrator. In K.K. Modi v. K.N. Modi [1998] 3 SCC5 73 this Court had laid down the test as to when a clause can be construed to be an arbitration agreement when it appears from the same that there was an agreement between the parties that any dispute shall be referred to the arbitrator. This would be clear when we read para 17 of the said judgment and Points 5 and 6 of the same which read as under:

5. that the agreement of the parties to refer their disputes to the decision of the tribunal must be intended to be enforceable in law, and lastly

6. the agreement must contemplate that the tribunal will make a decision upon a dispute which is already formulated at the time when reference is made to tribunal. "

24. On the other hand, learned counsel for the plaintiffs/ respondents has contended that stipulation extracted above, is not an arbitration clause, inasmuch as it does not fulfill the test laid down by the Apex Court for it to be a valid arbitration agreement. It is submitted that the aforesaid clause does not refer to word 'Arbitration' as the mode of settlement of dispute between the parties. The perusal of the said clause does not indicate the intention of the parties that the decision of the Government of United Province of Agra and Awadh is binding on either party, therefore, the aforesaid clause is not an arbitration clause.

25. In support of the said argument, learned counsel for the respondent has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court reported in 2014 (2) SCC 201 P. Dasaratharama Reddy Complex vs. Government of Karnataka and Ors. He has placed reliance upon paras-14 & 27 of the said judgement, which are being reproduced herein-below:-

"14. In Mysore Construction Co. v. Karnataka Power Corporation Limited and Ors. (supra), the learned Designated Judge referred to the passage from Russell on Arbitration (19th Edition, page 59), the judgments of this Court in K.K. Modi v. K.N. Modi and Ors. (supra), Chief Conservator of Forests, Rewa v. Ratan Singh Hans MANU/SC/0066/1966 : AIR 1967 SC 166; Smt. Rukmanibai Gupta v. the Collector, Jabalpur (supra); State of Uttar Pradesh v. Tipper Chand (1980) 2 SCC 341; State of Orissa v. Damodar Das (1996) 2 SCC 216; Bharat Bhushan Bansal v. Uttar Pradesh Small Industries Corporation Limited, Kanpur (1999) 2 SCC 166 and observed:

The above decisions make it clear that an agreement or a clause in an agreement can be construed as an arbitration agreement, only if,

(i) it provides for or contemplates reference of disputes or difference by either party to a private forum (other than a Court or Tribunal) or decision;

(ii) it provides either expressly or impliedly, for an enquiry by the private forum giving due opportunity to both parties to put forth their cases; and

(iii) it provides that the decision of the forum is final and binding upon the parties, without recourse to any other remedy and both would abide by such decision.

Where there is no provision either for reference of disputes to a private forum, or for a fair and judicious enquiry, or for a decision which is final and binding on parties to the dispute, there is no arbitration agreement.

27. To the aforesaid proposition, we may add that in terms of Clause 29(a) and similar other clauses, any dispute or difference irrespective of its nomenclature in matters relating to specifications, designs, drawings, quality of workmanship or material used or any question relating to claim, right in any way arising out of or relating to the contract designs, drawings etc. or failure on the contractor's part to execute the work, whether arising during the progress of the work or after its completion, termination or abandonment has to be first referred to the Chief Engineer or the Designated Officer of the Department. The Chief Engineer or the Designated Officer is not an independent authority or person, who has no connection or control over the work. As a matter of fact, he is having over all supervision and charge of the execution of the work. He is not required to hear the parties or to take evidence, oral or documentary. He is not invested with the power to adjudicate upon the rights of the parties to the dispute or difference and his decision is subject to the right of the aggrieved party to seek relief in a Court of Law. The decision of the Chief Engineer or the Designated Officer is treated as binding on the contractor subject to his right to avail remedy before an appropriate Court. The use of the expression 'in the first place' unmistakably shows that non-adjudicatory decision of the Chief Engineer is subject to the right of the aggrieved party to seek remedy. Therefore, Clause 29 which is subject matter of consideration in most of the appeals and similar clauses cannot be treated as an Arbitration Clause.

26. Para-8 of the judgment in the case of Punjab State and Ors vs Dina Nath (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner, extracted above, also defines the definition of arbitration agreement and one of the necessary condition to construe an agreement to be an arbitration agreement is that the parties had desired and intended that a dispute must be referred to arbitration for decision and they would undertake to abide by the decision. On the presence of such condition, there cannot be any difficulty to hold that the intention of the parties was to have an arbitration agreement, and thus, the arbitration agreement immediately comes into existence. Though, it is true that the mention of word 'Arbitration' in the clause may not be necessary to construe an agreement to be an arbitration agreement, but the relevant clause which is being termed as 'arbitration agreement' has to conform to the requirement of arbitration as contained in Section 7 of the Arbitration Act and elaborated by the judgement of the Apex Court .

27. The Court now on the principles set out by the Apex Court proceeds to find out whether in the instant case, the stipulation referred as an arbitration agreement, can be termed an arbitration agreement; it is evident from the clause extracted above, which has been relied upon by the petitioner for referring the dispute to the arbitrator in the opinion of the Court lacks necessary ingredients of arbitration agreement that the decision of the arbitrator shall be binding upon the parties.

28. Perusal of the aforesaid clause does not in any way indicate the intention of the parties that the decision of the United Province shall be binding upon the parties, therefore, in absence of such a mandatory condition, the aforesaid clause cannot be termed as arbitration clause. Since, this Court has held that the clause referred above, is not an arbitration clause, therefore, there is no question of referring the matter to the arbitration and application under Section 8Ga2 of the defendant/ petitioner was not maintainable.

29. It is also pertinent to note one of the arguments raised by the counsel for the petitioner that the Court below has noted wrong fact in the order that the lease deed was executed between the plaintiffs/ respondent and defendant/petitioner and this reflects that the impugned orders were passed in a most casual manner. In this regard, para-39 of the writ petition is being reproduced herein-below:-

"39. That the additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Meerut in its order dated 21.08.2014 has incorrectly mentioned and discussed the facts which were not even the case of the plaintiff. The court below stated that there was a Lease deed dated 1.4.1911 between the plaintiff and defendant. But it was not even the case set up in the plaint.

A bare perusal of the lease deed also however shows that there was no lease deed executed between the plaintiffs and defendant Rather it was between Haji Sheikh Alauddin and Chairman Municipal Board, Meerut. The court below had incorrectly narrated the basis facts which clearly indicate that the impugned order was passed in a most casual manner."

30. If that argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner is accepted, which means that if the plaintiff/respondents have not stepped into the shoes of the lessor Haji Sheikh Alauddin and lease deed is not considered to have been executed between the plaintiffs/respondents and Chairman,

Municipal Board, Meerut, the terms and conditions of the lease deed was not binding upon the plaintiffs/respondent which means that the above clause which the defendant/petitioner is referring to an arbitration agreement, even otherwise, shall not be binding upon the plaintiffs/ respondents.

31. In view of the finding that the stipulation referred as 'arbitration agreement' of the lease deed is not an 'arbitration agreement', therefore, in the opinion of the Court, the application 8Ga2 under Section 8 of the Act, 1996 filed by the defendant/petitioner is misconceived and was not maintainable. In such view of the fact, the Court is not proceeding to deal with the other contentions of the parties to unnecessarily burden the judgement.

32. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit. It is, accordingly, dismissed.

A. Criminal Law – Hate Speech - Indian Penal Code: Section 295(A), 298, 419, 420, 501; Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 200, 202, 203.

Jurisdiction - Summoning of a person is a serious issue and a person cannot be summoned merely by making an allegation against him - The Apex Court in the case of Mahendra Singh Dhoni (infra) has specifically sounded word of caution to the Magistrates conferred with the power of taking cognizance and issuing summons to satisfy themselves with regard to concept of territorial jurisdiction apart from the other aspects of the matter. In the present case, the trial court has rightly followed the procedure and passed the impugned order dated 11.03.2022. The trial court was even cognizant of the fact that summoning of a person in a criminal case is a serious matter. The order of the trial court is thus found to be a proper and judicious exercise of its power. The revisional court while deciding the revision against the order dated 11.03.2022 passed by the trial court has also considered every aspect of the matter and then has come to its conclusion that the order impugned therein does not suffer from any illegality and has dismissed the revision. The place of occurrence in the present case is Malakheda, District Alwar (Rajasthan). The complaint, inquiry on it in the nature of statements u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. are vague in so far as accruing of the cause of action to the complainant at the place of filing of the complaint is concerned. This Court does not find any irregularity, illegality or perversity in the judgment and order dated 26.04.2022 passed by the revisional court also. Thus looking to the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court comes to the conclusion that the Court at Mau had no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the said complaint. (Para 27, 28)

B. It is trite law that there has to be legal evidence in support of the allegations levelled against a person. In the present case the only evidence relied upon is the newspaper reporting and nothing else. As per the settled legal position, a newspaper report is not a "legal evidence". (Para 21)

C. Conveying a press conference and/or giving an interview to the press is a totally different act than addressing a general public meeting in elections. A person holding a press conference and a person giving an interview to the press has a clear intention and message to the persons present that his speech or lecture or answers be published in newspaper and magazines. Addressing a general public meeting during elections for the purposes of canvassing in elections is a totally different act with a different intention and object. The same is to address the gathering present at the spot so as to imbibe a thought in them for supporting the said political party. (Para 23)

D. Words and Phrases – 'consequence' - the word "consequence" appearing in S.179 of Cr.P.C., has been held as a consequence which forms a part and parcel of the offence. It does not mean a consequence which is not such a direct result of the act of the offender as to form no part of that offence. It embraces consequences which modify or complete the acts alleged to be an offence. (Para 26)

Present petition assails judgment and order dated 26.4.2022, passed by Sessions Judge, Mau as well as judgment and order dated 11.03.2022, passed by Civil Judge (S.D.)/Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate/M.P. M.L.A. Court, Mau.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mohammed Iftekhar Farooqui, Advocate learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Manish Goyal, learned Senior Advocate/Additional Advocate General, Sri S.K. Pal, learned Government Advocate, Sri A.K. Sand, learned Additional Government Advocate, all assisted by Sri Rupak Chaubey, Sri B.B. Upadhyay, Sri S.B. Maurya and Sri Raj Kumar Gupta, learned counsels for the State of U.P. and perused the records.

2. The present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed by Naval Kishor Sharma, S/o Deonath Sharma with the following prayers:-

"It is therefore most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to set aside the judgement and order dated 26.4.2022 passed by Sessions Judge, Mau in Criminal Revision No. 54 of 2022, Nawal Kishor Sharma Versus State of U.P. as well as judgement and order dated 11.03.2022 passed by Civil Judge (S.D.)/Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate/M.P. M.L.A. Court, Mau in Misc. Case No.128 of 2019, Nawal Kishore Sharma Vs. Ajay Singh Vishtha @ Yogi Adityanath. Otherwise petitioner would suffer with irreparable loss.

It is further prayed that the court below may be directed to register complaint case against respondent no.2 and hear the matter accordingly.

Or may pass any such further order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case."

3. The brief facts of the case are that a complaint dated 11.1.2019 was filed by the petitioner against Ajay Singh Bist alias Yogi Adityanath for offences under Section 295 (A), 298, 419, 420, 501 IPC, Police Station Dohrighat, District Mau titled as Naval Kishor Sharma Versus Ajay Singh Bist alias Yogi Adityanath mentioning therein the date of occurrence as 28.11.2018, the names and addresses of the witnesses as Naval Kishor (complainant), Yugal Kishore Sharma, S/o Devnath Sharma, Santosh Prajapati, S/o Sidhari Prajapati and other witnesses and record keeper Superintendent Police, Mau alleging therein that the respondent-accused is a Mahant of Gorakshapeeth, Gorakhnath, Police Station Gorakhnath and at present the Chief Minister, Government of Uttar Pradesh. On 28.11.2018, he addressed a public meeting with regards to general Vidhan Sabha Elections in Malakheda, Alwar (Rajasthan) in which he stated certain words for Lord Bajrangbali due to which the religious sentiments of public who are followers of Sri Bajrangbali have been hurt. The respondent knowing that his speech will cause hurt to the sentiments of a specific group of people has stated about it in his general public meeting. He has also caused disrepute to his position as Chief Minister which is a constitutional post and has also not followed the circular issued by the Election Commission, Government of India. The said acts have been done by him for benefits in a wrongful manner to his party in elections and also to separate two group of persons so that they may start hating each other and may fight. The said fact has been read by the complainant and other persons in daily newspapers due to which the religious sentiments of other persons also got hurt. A legal notice dated 30.11.2018 was sent by the complainant but despite service of notice calling upon the respondent to tender apology to the public in writing and orally, he did not do it and by taking law in his hands the presiding deity of the complainant has been humiliated and to cause gain to his political party, humiliated Lord Bajrangbali in a public meeting. The faith of the complainant has been hurt. The complainant tried to lodge a report at the local police station and also gave a report to the Superintendent of Police, Mau on 1.1.2019 but no action has been taken and hence he has filed the present complaint. He prays that after taking the evidence, the accused be punished for offences under Section 295 (A), 298, 419, 420, 501 IPC.

4. In support of the complaint, the complainant was examined under Section 200 Cr.P.C. wherein he reiterated the version of the complaint. Under Section 202 Cr.P.C. Yugal Kishore Sharma, S/o Devnath Sharma was examined as P.W.1

and Anoop Kumar Yadav, S/o Rajendra Yadav was examined as P.W.2. The complainant also filed a copy of a newspaper named "Jansandesh Times" along with complaint, the copy of the same has been annexed as Annexure No. - S.A-1 to the supplementary affidavit dated 7.9.2022.

5. The complaint as filed was numbered as Criminal Complaint Case No.128 of 2019, Naval Kishor Sharma Versus Ajay Singh Bist alias Yogi Adityanath.

6. Vide order dated 11.03.2022 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division)/Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, M.P. M.L.A, Mau the said complaint was dismissed under Section 203 Cr.P.C. with the observation that the court has no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the same. Against the said order dated 11.03.2022 the complainant/petitioner filed a criminal revision before the Sessions Judge, Mau which was numbered as Criminal Revision No.54 of 2022, Naval Kishor Sharma Versus State of U.P. and another. The said revision was also dismissed vide judgement and order dated 26.04.2022 passed by the Sessions Judge, Mau. The present petition under Article 227 o

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that:-

1) The hate speech was a deliberate intention in the general rally during election campaign. The opposite party no.2 was in his knowledge that it would cause turmoil and agitation throughout the country.

2) Due to the deliberate speech against Lord Bajrangbali, crores of his followers were pained.

3) The words used against Lord Bajrangbali were to impress people of reserved constituency.

4) The hate speech was read by the petitioner which hurt his religious sentiments and thus he pursued the remedy available under law.

5) This is not the first incident by the opposite party no.2 but is a repeated incident by a person holding a prestigious and constitutional post.

6) The complaint is maintainable in view of Section 179 Cr.P.C. which states that the offence may be inquired into or tried by a court within whose local jurisdiction such thing has been done or such consequence has ensued and in the present matter the consequence has ensued being the petitioner reading the said newspaper which has hurt his religious feelings.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the following judgements:-

(i.) Dr. Subramaniam Swamy Vs. Prabhakar S. Pai and another, 1983 (2) BomCR 129 (para 9).

(ii.) P. Lankesh & another Vs. H. Shivappa & another, 1994 0 CrLJ 3510 (para 10).

(iii.) Dilip Hazarika Vs. Nalin Ch Buragohain, 2002 CrLJ 1608 (para 6).

(iv.) Pankaj Jyoti Borah Vs. The State of Assam and others, 2018 0 CrLJ 1908 (para 9).

(v.) Ashok Singhal Vs. State of U.P. and another, 2005 2 Crimes (HC) 7 (para 10).

(vi.) Lee Kun Hee, President, Samsung Corporation, South Korea and others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2012) 3 SCC 132 (para 35).

9. It is argued that in all the said cases, the courts concerned have held that the place where the consequence has ensued is the place where a court gets territorial jurisdiction.

10. Learned Additional Advocate General for the State of U.P. vehemently opposed the present petition and the arguments of learned counsel for the petitioner. It is argued that:-

1. The opposite party no.2 in the present petition who has been arrayed as the accused in the complaint is a non-existent person. A person who has renounced the world and has entered into Sanyasi world and has become a Yogi cannot be called by any other name except for the name which he has adopted after becoming a Yogi. It is argued that the complaint states of a non-existent person as the accused and even the same person has been made as a respondent no.2 in the present petition.

2. The complaint is totally silent inasmuch as where and when the complainant read the newspaper. The complainant has not even stated that he was a subscriber to the said newspaper. It is also not stated either in the complaint or in his statement that the said newspaper was having any circulation in his area. It is argued that the newspaper is the foundation of creation of territorial jurisdiction in the present matter. The description about the same is totally missing.

3. The complainant has not made the Editor of the newspaper as an accused. The bare reading of the said newspaper shows that it is some postal edition of the newspaper. There is no averment by the complainant that the said newspaper is circulated in his area. It is argued that Section 179 Cr.P.C. is not attracted at all in the present matter. The provision which applies is Section 177 Cr.P.C. The complainant does not anywhere stated about the credentials of the newspaper which would go to show that the same was a paper being circulated in his area. In the complaint he states of the news item to be read in daily newspaper but in his statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C., he states that the said news was heard, seen and read by him in print media and electronic media. The witnesses produced by him have also stated that they and other persons have read the news in daily newspaper but even the said witnesses have not stated about the date of the said newspaper, their names and the place where they have read it.

4. In so far as the alleged witnesses produced by the complainant are concerned, Yugal Kishore Sharma, P.W.1 who was examined under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is his real brother as is apparent from his parentage and also his address. The said fact has been concealed by the complainant and even by the said witness.

5. It is argued that the present petition is under Article 227 of the Constitution of India. The Court is a supervisory court under the said jurisdiction. There has been concurrent findings by two courts below being the trial court and the revisional court. This Court cannot act as a Court of first appeal to reappreciate, reweight evidence or facts upon which determination under challenge is based. When a final finding is justified or can be supported, the supervisory jurisdiction cannot be used to correct it.

6. The document at page 22 of the supplementary affidavit which is being stated to be the list of cases lodged against the respondent no.2 is a new document filed before this Court. There is no reference of the same before the trial court and even before the revisional court and as such the same cannot be considered at this stage.

11. Learned counsel has relied upon the following judgements:-

(I) Aroon Purie Vs. Jayakumar Hiremath : (2017) 7 SCC 767 (para 3).

(II) Mahendra Singh Dhoni Vs. Yerraguntla Shyamsundar : (2017) 7 SCC 760 (para 14).

12. By placing the judgement in the case of Aroon Purie (Supra), it is argued that the inquiry in the matter was completed by the learned Magistrate who then came to the conclusion that the court has no territorial jurisdiction over it and then by a detailed order dismissed the same. Further by placing the judgement in the case of Mahendra Singh Dhoni (Supra), it is argued that the Apex Court has put a word of caution that the Magistrates who have been conferred with the power of taking cognizance and issuing summons are required to carefully scrutinize whether the allegations made in the complaint proceeding meet the basic ingredients of the offence, whether the concept of territorial jurisdiction is satisfied and whether the accused is really required to be summoned and the said things are to be treated as the primary judicial responsibility of the Court issuing process. In the present case, the learned Magistrate has made an inquiry with regards to territorial jurisdiction of the matter and the jurisdiction of the said court and then has reached to its satisfaction that the court has no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the said complaint and as such dismissed the same under Section 203 Cr.P.C. It is argued that the present case is a case which deserves to be dismissed with exemplary cost as the petitioner is abusing the process of law and courts for vested interest knowing the actual position of law as he is an Advocate.

13. After having heard learned counsels for the parties and perusing the records, the facts which emerge out are that the petitioner herein had filed a complaint dated 11.1.2019 against the opposite party no.2 for offences under Section 295 (A), 298, 419, 420, 501 IPC for an incident which is said to have taken place on 28.11.2018 in Malakheda, District Alwar (Rajasthan). The complaint has been filed before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mau, District Mau by the petitioner who is a resident of Mau for attracting territorial jurisdiction there. The complainant states that he and other persons have read in daily newspaper a news item relating to a hate speech given by the accused in Malakheda, District Alwar (Rajasthan) on 28.11.2018 by which words being derogatory in nature against Lord Bajrangbali were used which has hurt his religious sentiments. It is relevant to state here that it is stated that the said speech was addressed in a public meeting of general Vidhan Sabha Elections at the said place. The complainant in the inquiry under Section 200 Cr.P.C. then states that the accused with an intention to hurt the religious sentiments of a group of persons had given the speech which was heard, seen and read by him in print media and electronic media. Yugal Kishore Sharma, P.W.1 and Anoop Kumar Yadav, P.W.2 in their statements under Section 202 Cr.P.C. have stated that the complainant, they and other people have read in daily newspaper about the said speech due to which their religious sentiments have been hurt. The details of the newspaper and its credentials are conspicuously missing in the complaint, statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. of the complainant and the statements of the alleged witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C. The complainant does not anywhere state about the date and time when he read the said news item. His witnesses are also silent about the same. A copy of Jansandesh Times newspaper has been filed before the trial court which has also been filed before this Court as Annexure S.A-1 to the supplementary affidavit. The relevant paragraphs in which it has been addressed in the said supplementary affidavit is para no.4 in which the same has been described as newspaper dated 29.11.2018 and for the first time, it is stated in the said paragraph that the said newspaper is having its circulation and selling in district Jaunpur, Azamgarh, Mau and Gorakhpur and is published from Varanasi. The said averments are missing in the complaint, statement of the complainant and in the statement of his witnesses.

14. The backbone of the present complaint is the news published in a local newspaper. The basis for making allegations is an article relied by the petitioner said to have been published in a newspaper named as "Jansandesh Times". Admittedly the complainant and his witnesses were not present in the said meeting where the words as said to have been hurt their religious sentiments, faith and have caused disrepute to Lord Bajrangbali were said. The complainant in his statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. states that he heard, saw and read the same in print media and electronic media but his witnesses in the inquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. stated of reading the same in daily newspapers but there is nothing on record to corroborate the same and it is too vague to be believed. Only a newspaper cutting has been placed by the complainant on record as evidence although he states to have seen and heard it in electronic media also.

15. The reporting in newspaper has to be fortified whether it is correct or not. It is a hearsay secondary evidence in itself and unless the person reporting it is examined, is not admissible. Any other person before whom the incident has occurred can also be examined to prove the said fact and make it admissible.

16. The admissibility of news paper reports in evidence has been considered and decided many times. In the case of Samant N. Balkrishna v. George Fernandez : (1969) 3 SCC 238, the Apex Court in paragraph 47 has held as under:-

"47. The meeting at Shivaji Park about which we shall say something presently, was not held in Mr Fernandez's constituency. The similarity of ideas or even of words cannot be pressed into service to show consent. There was a stated policy of Sampurna Maharashtra Samiti which wanted to join in Maharashtra all the areas which had not so far been joined and statements in that behalf must have been made not only by Mr Atrey but by several other persons. Since Mr Atrey was not appointed as agent we cannot go by the similarity of language alone. It is also very significant that not a single speech of Mr Fernandez was relied upon and only one speech of Mr Fernandez namely, that at Shivaji Park was brought into arguments before us by an amendment which we disallowed. The best proof would have been his own speech or some propaganda material such as leaflets or pamphlets etc. but none was produced. The "Maratha" was an independent newspaper not under the control of the Sampurna Maharashtra Samiti or the S.S.P. which was sponsoring Mr Fernandez or Mr Fernandez himself. Further we have ruled out news items which it is the function of the newspaper to publish. A news item without any further proof of what had actually happened through witnesses is of no value. It is at best a second-hand secondary evidence. It is well-known that reporters collect information and pass it on to the editor who edits the news item and then publishes it. In this process the truth might get perverted or garbled. Such news items cannot be said to prove themselves although they may be taken into account with other evidence if the other evidence is forcible. In the present case the only attempt to prove a speech of Mr Fernandez was made in connection with the Shivaji Park meeting. Similarly the editorials state the policy of the newspaper and its comment upon the events. Many of the news items were published in other papers also. For example Free Press Journal, the Blitz and writers like Welles Hengens had also published similar statements. If they could not be regarded as agents of Mr Fernandez we do not see any reason to hold that the "Maratha" or Mr Atrey can safely be regarded as agent of Mr Fernandez when acting for the newspaper so as to prove his consent to the publication of the defamatory matter. We are therefore of opinion that consent cannot reasonably be inferred to the publications in the "Maratha". We are supported in our approach to the problem by a large body of case law to which our attention was drawn by Mr Chari. We may refer to a few cases here : Bishwanath Upadhaya v. Hardal Das [1958 Ass 97] ; Abdul Majeed v. Bhargavan (Krishnan) [AIR 1963 Ker 18] ; Rustom Satin v. Dr Sampoornanand [20 ELR 221] ; Sarla Devi Pathak v. Birendra Singh [20 ELR 275] ; Krishna Kumar v. Krishna Gopal [AIR 1964 Raj 21] ; Lalsing Kesbrising Sehvar v. Vallabhdas Shankarlal Phekdi [AIR 1967 Guj 62] ; Badri Narain Singh v. Kamdeo Prasad Singh [AIR 1951 Pat 41] and Sarat Chandra Rabba v. Khagendranath Math [AIR 1961 SC 334] . It is not necessary to refer to these cases in detail except to point out that the Rajasthan case dissents from the case from Assam on which Mr Jethamalani relied. The principle of law is settled that consent may be inferred from circumstantial evidence but the circumstances must point unerringly to the conclusion and must not admit of any other explanation. Although the trial of an election petition is made in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure, it has been laid down that a corrupt practice must be proved in the same way as a criminal charge is proved. In other words, the election petitioner must exclude every hypothesis except that of guilt on the part of the returned candidate or his election agent. Since we have held that Mr Atrey's activities must be viewed in two compartments, one connected with Mr Fernandez and the other connected with the newspaper we have to find out whether there is an irresistable inference of guilt on the part of Mr Fernandez. Some of the English cases cited by Mr Jethamalani are not a safeguide because in England a distinction is made between "illegal practices" and "corrupt practices". Cases dealing with "illegal practices" in which the candidate is held responsible for the acts of his agent are not a proper guide. It is to be noticed that making of a false statement is regarded as "corrupt practice" and not an "illegal practice" and the tests are different for a corrupt practice. In India all corrupt practices stand on the same footing. The only difference made is that when consent is proved on the part of the candidate or his election agent to the commission of corrupt practice, that itself is sufficient. When a corrupt practice is committed by an agent and there is no such consent then the petitioner must go further and prove that the result of the election insofar as the returned candidate is concerned was materially affected. In Bayley v. Edmunds, Byron and Marshall [(1894) 11 TLR 537] strongly relied upon by Mr Daphtary, the publication in the newspaper was not held to be a corrupt practice but the paragraph taken from a newspaper and printed as a leaflet was held to be a corrupt practice. That is not the case here. Mr Patil's own attitude during the election and after is significant. During the election he did not once protest that Mr Fernandez charged his workers with hooliganism. Even after the election Mr Patil did not attribute anything to Mr Fernandez. He even said that the Bombay election was conducted with propriety. Even at the filing of the election petition he did not think of Mr Fernandez but concentrated on the "Maratha"."

17. In the case of Laxmi Raj Shetty v. State of T.N. : (1988) 3 SCC 319 the Apex Court in paragraphs 25 and 26 has held as under:-

"25. As to the first, the accused Laxmi Raj Shetty was entitled to tender the newspaper report from the Indian Express of the 29th and the regional newspapers of the 30th along with his statement under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. Both the accused at the stage of their defence in denial of the charge had summoned the editors of Tamil dailies Malai Murasu and Makkal Kural and the news reporters of the Indian Express and Dina Thanthi to prove the contents of the facts stated in the news item but they dispensed with their examination on the date fixed for the defence evidence. We cannot take judicial notice of the facts stated in a news item being in the nature of hearsay secondary evidence, unless proved by evidence aliunde. A report in a newspaper is only hearsay evidence. A newspaper is not one of the documents referred to in Section 78(2) of the Evidence Act, 1872 by which an allegation of fact can be proved. The presumption of genuineness attached under Section 81 of the Evidence Act to a newspaper report cannot be treated as proved of the facts reported therein.

26. It is now well settled that a statement of fact contained in a newspaper is merely hearsay and therefore inadmissible in evidence in absence of the maker of the statement appearing in court and deposing to have perceived the fact reported. The accused should have therefore produced the persons in whose presence the seizure of the stolen money from Appellant 2's house at Mangalore was effected or examined the press correspondents in proof of the truth of the contents of the news item. The question as to the admissibility of newspaper reports has been dealt with by this Court in Samant N. Balkrishna v.George Fernandez [(1969) 3 SCC 238 : (1969) 3 SCR 603 : AIR 1969 SC 1201] . There the question arose whether Shri George Fernandez, the successful candidate returned to Parliament from the Bombay South Parliamentary Constituency had delivered a speech at Shivaji Park attributed to him as reported in the Maratha, a widely circulated Marathi newspaper in Bombay, and it was said: (SCC p. 261, para 47)

"A newspaper item without any further proof of what had actually happened through witnesses is of no value. It is at best a second-hand secondary evidence. It is well known that reporters collect information and pass it on to the editor who edits the news item and then publishes it. In this process the truth might get perverted or garbled. Such news items cannot be said to prove themselves although they may be taken into account with other evidence if the other evidence is forcible."

*We need not burden the judgment with many citations. There is nothing on record to substantiate the facts as reported in the newspapers showing recovery of the stolen amount from the residence of Appellant 2 at Mangalore. We have therefore no reason to discard the testimony of PW 50 and the seizure witnesses which go to establish that the amount in question was actually re*covered at Madras on the 29th and the 30th as alleged."

18. In the case of Quamarul Islam v. S.K. Kanta : 1994 Supp (3) SCC 5 in paragraph 48 it has been held by the Apex Court as under:-

"48. Newspaper reports by themselves are not evidence of the contents thereof. Those reports are only hearsay evidence. These have to be proved and the manner of proving a newspaper report is well settled. Since, in this case, neither the reporter who heard the speech and sent the report was examined nor even his reports produced, the production of the newspaper by the Editor and Publisher, PW 4 by itself cannot amount to proving the contents of the newspaper reports. Newspaper, is at the best secondary evidence of its contents and is not admissible in evidence without proper proof of the contents under the Indian Evidence Act. The learned trial Judge could not treat the newspaper reports as duly "proved' only by the production of the copies of the newspaper. The election petitioner also examined Abrar Razi, PW 5, who was the polling agent of the election petitioner and a resident of the locality in support of the correctness of the elereports including advertisements and messages as published in the said newspaper. We have carefully perused his testimony and find that his evidence also falls short of proving the contents of the reports of the alleged speeches or the messages and the advertisements, which appeared in different issues of the newspaper. Since, the maker of the report which formed basis of the publications, did not appear in the court to depose about the facts as perceived by him, the facts contained in the published reports were clearly inadmissible. No evidence was led by the election petitioner to prove the contents of the messages and the advertisements as the original manuscript of the advertisements or the messages was not produced at the trial. No witness came forward to prove the receipt of the manuscript of any of the advertisements or the messages or the publication of the same in accordance with the manuscript. There is no satisfactory and reliable evidence on the record to even establish that the same were actually issued by IUML or MYL, ignoring for the time being, whether or not the appellant had any connection with IUML or MYL or that the same were published by him or with his consent by any other person or published by his election agent or by any other person with the consent of his election agent. The evidence of the election petitioner himself or of PW 4 and PW 5 to prove the contents of the messages and advertisements in the newspaper in our opinion was wrongly admitted and relied upon as evidence of the contents of the statement contained therein."

19. In the case of Ghanshyam Upadhyay v. State of U.P. : (2020) 16 SCC 811 it has been held by the Apex Court in paragraphs 6, 7 and 8 as under:-

"6. As noted, the entire basis for making the allegations as contained in the miscellaneous petition is an article relied on by the petitioner said to have been published in the newspaper. There is no other material on record to confirm the truth or otherwise of the statement made in the newspaper. In our view this Court will have to be very circumspect while accepting such contentions based only on certain newspaper reports. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly held that the newspaper item without any further proof is of no evidentiary value. The said principle laid down has thereafter been taken note in several public interest litigations to reject the allegations contained in the petition supported by newspaper report.

7. It would be appropriate to notice the decision in Kushum Lata v. Union of India [Kushum Lata v. Union of India, (2006) 6 SCC 180] wherein it is observed thus : (SCC p. 186, para 17)

"17. ... It is also noticed that the petitions are based on newspaper reports without any attempt to verify their authenticity. As observed by this Court in several cases, newspaper reports do not constitute evidence. A petition based on unconfirmed news reports, without verifying their authenticity should not normally be entertained. As noted above, such petitions do not provide any basis for verifying the correctness of statements made and information given in the petition."

8. This Court in Rohit Pandey v. Union of India [Rohit Pandey v. Union of India, (2005) 13 SCC 702] while considering the petition purporting to be in public interest filed by a member of the legal fraternity had come down heavily on the petitioner, since the said petition was based only on two newspaper reports without further verification."

20. From the above judgements it is clear that newspaper report by itself does not constitute an evidence of the contents of it. The reports are only hearsay evidence. They have to be proved either by production of the reporter who heard the said statements and sent them for reporting or by production of report sent by such reporter and production of the Editor of the newspaper or it's publisher to prove the said report. It has been held by the Apex Court that newspaper reports are at best secondary evidence and not admissible in evidence without proper proof of its content under the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. It is thus clear that newspaper report is not a "legal evidence" which can be examined in support of the complainant.

21. It is trite law that there has to be legal evidence in support of the allegations levelled against a person. In the present case the only evidence relied upon is the newspaper reporting and nothing else. For what has been stated above and as per the settled legal position, a newspaper report is not a "legal evidence".

22. In so far as the judgements relied by learned counsel for the petitioner are concerned, in the case of Dr. Subramaniam Swamy (Supra) the same related to a press conference which was held by the accused at Chandigarh in which he had made certain statements which were said to be defamatory. The same was made in the presence of several newspaper reporters and others and then on the next day it was published in the newspaper. In the case of P. Lankesh (Supra), the accused were the printer, editor and publisher of a news magazine "Lankesh Patrika" in which an article containing alleged defamatory imputations against the complainant was published. In the case of Dilip Hazarika (Supra), the two accused were the Managing Director and the Editor of a weekly "Raijer Prahri" which had published a news item against which a complaint was filed. In the case of Pankaj Jyoti Borah (Supra), the accused persons had held a press meeting at a press club which was covered by the electronic media and print media and was published in newspaper. In the case of Ashok Singhal (Supra), an article had appeared in a weekly news magazine "Panchjanya" which had carried an interview of the accused in which it was alleged that there were certain offending things said by him. The case of Lee Kun Hee (Supra), is totally different on facts and distinguishable from the present case. The said case arises out of an agreement between two parties with regards to supply of certain products and the dispute related to business transaction. It has no application as such in the present case.

23. Conveying a press conference and/or giving an interview to the press is a totally different act than addressing a general public meeting in elections. A person holding a press conference and a person giving an interview to the press has a clear intention and message to the persons present that his speech or lecture or answers be published in newspaper and magazines. Addressing a general public meeting during elections for the purposes of canvasing in elections is a totally different act with a different intention and object. The same is to address the gathering present at the spot so as to imbibe a thought in them for supporting the said political party.

24. Section 177 of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 reads as under:-

"177. Ordinary place of inquiry and trial. - Every offence shall ordinarily be inquired into and tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction it was committed."

25. Section 179 of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 reads as under:-

"179. Offence triable where act is done or consequence ensues. - When an act is an offence by reason of anything which has been done and of a consequence which has ensued, the offence may be inquired into or tried by a Court within whose local jurisdiction such thing has been done or such consequence has ensued."

26. While dealing with the word "consequence" appearing in Section 179 of Cr.P.C., in the case of Ganeshi Lal Vs. Nand Kishore : 1912 SCC Online All 76 : 1912 (Vol. X) A.L.J.R. 45, it has been held as under:-

"The word "consequence" in this section, in my opinion, means a consequence which forms a part and parcel of the offence. It does not mean a consequence which is not such a direct result of the act of the offender as to form no part of that offence. In Babu Lal Vs. Ghansham Dass : (1908) 5 A.L.J.R. 333, it is remarked: "it is contended that section 179 by reason of the words "contained in it' and "of any consequence which has ensued' gives the Magistrate at Aligarh in this case jurisdiction. But the only reasonable interpretation which can be put upon these words is that they are intended to embrace only such consequences as modify or complete the acts alleged to be an offence." The above remarks support the view I take."

27. The Apex Court in the case of Mahendra Singh Dhoni (Supra) has specifically in para 14 sounded word of caution to the Magistrates conferred with the power of taking cognizance and issuing summons to satisfy themselves with regard to concept of territorial jurisdiction apart from the other aspects of the matter. In the present case, the trial court has rightly followed the procedure and passed the impugned order dated 11.03.2022. The trial court was even cognizant of the fact that summoning of a person in a criminal case is a serious matter. Times and again the Apex Court and this Court has been reminding the legal position that summoning of a person is a serious issue and a person cannot be summoned merely by making an allegation against him. The order of the trial court is thus found to be a proper and judicious exercise of its power. The revisional court while deciding the revision against the order dated 11.03.2022 passed by the trial court has also considered every aspect of the matter and then has come to its conclusion that the order impugned therein does not suffer from any illegality and has dismissed the revision. The place of occurrence in the present case is Malakheda, District Alwar (Rajasthan). The complaint, inquiry on it in the nature of statements under section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. are vague in so far as accruing of the cause of action to the complainant at the place of filing of the complaint is concerned. This Court does not find any irregularity, illegality or perversity in the judgement and order dated 26.04.2022 passed by the revisional court also.

28. Thus looking to the facts and circumstances of the case, the legal pronouncements as enumerated above, this Court comes to the conclusion that the Court at Mau had no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the said complaint. The dismissal of the same vide order dated 11.03.2022 under Section 203 Cr.P.C. is just and proper. Further the dismissal of the revision vide judgment and order dated 26.04.2022 (wherein the order dated 11.03.2022 was challenged) is also without any illegality, irregularity and perversity.

29. The present petition is thus dismissed.

30. At this stage it would be apt to state that there has been a concurrent finding by two courts with regards to the question of territorial jurisdiction. The same is also been affirmed by this court.

31. The complainant/petitioner is an Advocate by profession as has been declared by him in the affidavit given in the present petition before this Court. Even in the alleged legal notice dated 07.01.2019 sent by him, the copy of which is annexed as Annexure No. S.A-3 to the supplementary affidavit dated 07.09.2022 in the bottom at the place of his signature he has disclosed himself to be an Advocate. He has clearly abused the process of law. In these circumstances, this Court imposes a token cost of Rs. 5,000/- on him to be paid within 30 days from today in the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court for utilization therein.

A. Civil Law – Tenancy – Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order XV Rule 5 - Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 - Section 30.

Tenant's Obligation - Deposit at the first hearing of the suit is to be made of all arrears of rent, admitted by the tenant to be due, together with interest at the rate of 9% per annum. This is one part of the tenant's obligation. The other is that, throughout the continuation of the suit, the tenant has to regularly deposit the monthly rent within a week from the date of its accrual. In the event of default, either in the deposit of the admitted rent due on the first date of hearing, or the regular deposit of monthly rent within a week of its falling due, the Court is empowered to strike off the tenant's defence. (Para 15)

There is a clear period of 10 days only during which, in respect of the first part of the obligation under sub-Rule (1) or under the second part, the Court may consider a representation regarding the delay in deposit. Beyond that period of time, that is to say, 10 days, in one case from the date of first hearing and in the other from the expiry of a week, when the rent falls due, the Court cannot consider the tenant's representation against the order striking off the defence. The first part of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 clearly relates to the accrued arrears of rent/damages for use and occupation at the time of institution of the suit, which have to be made good, on or before the first hearing of the suit. (Para 17)

In the present case, on two occasions, in the first round of agitation of his rights by the tenant, the Trial Court as well as the Revisional Court passed some non-conservative orders, granting indulgence of an extended time before defence of the tenant would stand struck off. It might have been a decision taken in the background of the Covid-19 pandemic, though not said so by the Courts in the orders impugned. (Para 24)

The Revisional Court in the earlier instance extended time for the tenant to comply with the order dated 15.02.2021 (which granted him indulgence of not striking off his defence by extending some time to deposit the rent due) passed by the Trial Court, the benefit whereof

he had lost, which the tenant again did not avail. Instead, he took up cudgels again against the landlords by moving the Trial Court for a different relief in the matter of deposit of rent. The aforesaid conduct of the tenant does not entitle him to any further indulgence. The provisions of Order XV Rule 5 CPC cannot come to the tenant's aid any further, the time for compliance thereunder having long expired. Moreover, the stand of the tenant, that has been consistently vacillating and smacking of in equity, does not entitle him to relief in the exercise of our jurisdiction u/Article 227 of the Constitution. (Para 25)

B. Words and Phrases – (i) 'entire amount admitted to be due' - Explanation 2 to sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV defines the expression "entire amount admitted to be due" as the gross sum of money, due on account of rent or damages for use and occupation, calculated at the admitted rate of rent, for the admitted period that it is in arrears after deduction of nothing else but taxes, if any, paid to the Local Authority, relating to the tenanted premises on the lessor's account and the amount, if any, deposited u/s 30 of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972. (Para 15)

(ii) 'monthly amount due' - By virtue of Explanation 3, the monthly amount due has been defined as the amount due every month, whether on account of rent or damages for use and occupation, at the admitted rate of rent, without deducting anything except taxes paid to a Local Authority on the lessor's account, in respect of the tenanted premises. By the provisions of sub-Rule (2) of Rule 5 of Order XV, it has been made explicit that while making an order striking off defence, the Court may consider any representation made by the tenant in that behalf, provided the representation is preferred within 10 days of the first hearing or of the expiry of the week, referred to in sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5. Present petition assails judgment and order dated 16.08.2021 and 17.01.2022, passed by District Judge, Meerut.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is directed against the judgment and order dated 16.08.2021 passed by the District Judge, Meerut in S.C.C. Revision No. 12 of 2021, dismissing the said revision preferred by the petitioner-tenant and upholding the order of the Judge, Small Cause Court dated 16.03.2021 in S.C.C. Suit No. 78 of 2014, clarifying the position that the tenant's defence stood stuck off in terms of an earlier order passed by the Trial Court on 15.02.2021. Also, under challenge is a judgment and order dated 17.01.2022 passed by the District Judge, Meerut, dismissing S.C.C. Revision No. 19 of 2021 and affirming an order dated 31.08.2021 passed by the Judge, Small Cause Court, Meerut in S.C.C. Suit No. 78 of 2014. The latter orders of the Revisional Court and the Trial Court are a sequel to the two earlier orders, hereinabove mentioned, passed by the Revisional Court and the Trial Court.

2. Heard learned Counsel for the petitioner in support of the motion to admit this petition to hearing.

3. According to the plaintiff-respondents (for short, "the landlords'), the defendant-petitioner/ tenant (for short, "the tenant') is a tenant in a part of Bungalow No. 143, B.C. Lines, Civil Lines, Meerut since 12.08.2010. The rate of rent is Rs.6000/- per month. The tenancy is one from month to month. The provisions of the U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 are not applicable. The tenancy has been determined through a notice to quit dated 23.08.2014, served upon the tenant on 26.08.2014. Upon receipt of notice, the tenant paid arrears of rent and electricity charges until August, 2014.

4. A suit for eviction has been instituted, where arrears of rent w.e.f. 01.09.2014 and damages for use and occupation at the rate of Rs. 250/- per day w.e.f. 25.09.2014 have been sought.

5. The tenant has contested the suit on various pleas raised in the written statement and amongst others has asserted the facts that for the months of September and October, 2014, he had remitted rent vide Cheque No. 184886 dated 01.10.2014 and Cheque No. 184894 dated 05.11.2014, which the landlords did not present to their Bank for collection. Again, rent for the month of November and December, 2014 was remitted by registered post, which was not accepted. Thereafter, the rent was remitted, according to the tenant, by money order dated 02.12.2014 together with electricity charge, but the landlords maliciously in connivance with the Postman, did not receive it. This part of the pleadings of the tenant this Court has referred to, because otherwise from a reading of the written statement, it is difficult to comprehend the tenant's stand.

6. From what this Court understands is that the suit for eviction has proceeded, wherein the landlords have moved two successive applications bearing Paper No. 58-C and 71-C, asking the Court to strike off the tenant's defence. In these applications, the case made out is that rent has not beeen paid for 41 months preceding, amounting to Rs.2,46,000/-. These applications were rejected so far as the prayer for striking off the defence is concerned, but the Court gave opportunity to deposit the entire rent etc. within 10 days. It has figured in the orders passed by the Courts below, to which reference shall shortly be made that the tenant filed objections to these applications bearing Paper No. 60-C, 62-C and 180-C urging a plea that he had spent a sum of Rs. 1,66,310/- on repairs, painting and maintenance of the tenanted premises under an oral permission by the landlords.

7. The Trial Court while disposing of the application dated 15.02.2021 noticed the landlords' stand about the plea for a set off against arrears of rent, of money claimed by the tenant to have been spent on repairs under an oral permission of the landlords. It is recorded that the landlords have denied granting any such consent. The Court has, therefore, remarked in the order dated 15.02.2021 that the issue can be determined at the trial or the tenant may bring a separate suit for recovery of the expenditure claimed to be made, if so advised. Still, as already noted, the Trial Court did not strike off the tenant's defence vide order dated 15.02.2021. The tenant did not comply with the order dated 15.02.2021. Instead, he moved an application bearing Paper No. 182-C pointing out discrepancies in the order passed by the Trial Court.

8. Amongst these, it was pointed out that the Trial Court, by its order dated 15.02.2021, on the one hand had remarked that no finding about the expenditure incurred by the tenant on repairs etc. could be recorded at the stage of disposal of applications, Paper Nos. 58-C and 78-C by the landlord for striking off the tenant's defence, which has to await trial, but on the other the prayer for setting off the said expenditure incurred by the tenant was rejected. This was criticized as an inherent contradiction vitiating the order dated 15.02.2021 passed by the Trial Court. The order dated 15.02.2021 was also criticized for the reason that under Order XV Rule 5 CPC, according to the tenant, the Trial Court could either reject the application, which he did, but could not issue a direction to the tenant to deposit the dues within 10 days, going by the provisions of the Statute.

9. There was a prayer made in the application, Paper No. 182-C that the part of the Trial Court's order dated 15.02.2021, by which a direction had been made requiring the tenant to deposit the rent within 10 days, may be reviewed in terms of the lease deed and a proper order passed. The said application was objected to by the landlords putting in their reply to the effect that the application was moved to delay proceedings. A sum of Rs. 2,58,000/- had fallen due as arrears of rent, which the tenant had to make good. The rent that had accrued was for a period of 43 months at the rate of Rs. 6000/- per month. The application was not maintainable. The Trial Court vide order dated 16.03.2021 rejected the tenant's application, Paper No. 182-C and held that since the order dated 15.02.2021, earlier passed by the Court, had not been complied with by depositing all the dues of rent etc. within the time allowed, the tenant's defence stood struck off in terms of the order dated 15.02.2021.

10. The tenant preferred an S.C.C. Revision from the said order to the District Judge of Meerut, that was registered on the file of the learned Judge as S.C.C. Revision No. 12 of 2021. The revision has been heard and decided by means of the order dated 16.08.2021, substantially upholding the order made by the Trial Court, but as a matter of equity, justice and good conscience, much like the Trial Court, granting 14 days' further time to the tenant to comply with the order dated 15.02.2021, that is to say, w.e.f. the date of the Revisional Court's order. To the above extent alone, the revision was allowed, substantially upholding the Trial Court's order dated 16.03.2021.

11. After the Revisional Court's judgment dated 16.08.2021, the tenant did not take advantage of the relief granted by depositing the entire outstandings within 14 days of the said judgment. Instead, he made two applications bearing Paper No. 205ग and 208ग, to which replies bearing Paper Nos. 206ग and 209ग were filed by the landlords. On occasion the relief sought by the applications bearing Paper Nos. 205ग and 208ग, is substantially to the same effect as the one earlier sought and refused. It was urged in both these applications that on account of the unexpected loss of livelihood arising out of the Covid-19 pandemic, he was not in a position to make good the deposit of rent etc. as ordered by the Court within the time allowed. The tenant prayed that he may be permitted to make good the deposit of the entire outstanding rent in monthly installments of Rs.25,000/-. The said applications were held to be not maintainable, inasmuch as the Trial Court remarked that it was bound by the orders of the Revisional Court, which had not granted any such relief to the tenant. It was also held that the Court did not have any jurisdiction to permit the tenant to deposit the rent due in installments. The applications 205ग and 208ग were accordingly rejected by the Trial Court vide order dated 31.08.2021.

12. Aggrieved by the said order, an S.C.C. Revsion was instituted by the tenant before the District Judge of Meerut. This revision came to be numbered as S.C.C. Revision No. 19 of 2021 on the file of the learned District Judge, Meerut. It was heard and dismissed by the Revisional Court vide judgment and order dated 17.01.2022. While dismissing the S.C.C. Revision No. 19 of 2021, the District Judge has expedited the trial of the suit, taking note of a Circular dated 29.10.2003 issued by this Court on the administrative side. This has been done bearing in mind that the landlords are senior citizens. The Trial Court has been directed to decide the suit within three months after normal functioning of the Court is restored.

13. The tenant has instituted this Petition under Article 227 of the Constitution challenging the order dated 31.08.2021 passed by the Judge, Small Cause Court, rejecting the tenant's applications, Paper Nos. 205ग and 208ग and the order dated 17.01.2022, affirming it in Revision No. 19 of 2022, passed by the learned District Judge, Meerut. The tenant has also prayed that the order dated 15.02.2021 passed by the Judge, Small Cause Court and the order dated 16.08.2021 passed by the learned District Judge in S.C.C. Revision No. 12 of 2021 be set aside. The tenant has further sought a direction to the Judge, Small Cause Court to accept the rent due in monthly installments of Rs.25,000/-.

14. Upon hearing the learned Counsel for the tenant and perusing the record, this Court is of clear opinion that this petition is singularly devoid of merit. The provisions of Order XV Rule 5 CPC, as amended in their application to the State of Uttar Pradesh, read:

*"5. Striking off defence on failure to deposit admitted rent, etc.--(*1) In any suit by a lessor for the eviction of a lessee after the determination of his lease and for the recovery from him of rent or compensation for use and occupation, the defendant shall, at or before the first hearing of the suit, deposit the entire amount admitted by him to be due together with interest thereon at the rate of nine per centum per annum and whether or not he admits any amount to be due, he shall throughout the continuation of the suit regularly deposit the monthly amount due within a week from the date of its accrual, and in the event of any default in making, the deposit of the entire amount admitted by him to be due or the monthly amount due as aforesaid, the Court may, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2), strike off his defence.

Explanation 1.--The expression "first hearing' means the date for filing written statement or for hearing mentioned in the summons or where more than one of such dates are mentioned, the last of the dates mentioned.

Explanation 2.--The expression "entire amount admitted by him to be due' means the entire gross amount, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation, calculated at the admitted rate of rent for the admitted period of arrears after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority in respect of the building on lessor's account *[and the amount, if any, paid to the lessor acknowledged by the lessor in writing signed by him] and the amount, if any, deposited in any Court under Section 30 of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972.

Explanation 3.--(1) The expression "monthly amount due' means the amount due every month, whether as rent or compensation for use and occupation at the admitted rate of rent, after making no other deduction except the taxes, if any, paid to a local authority in respect of the building on lessor's account.

(2) Before making an order for striking off defence, the Court may consider any representation made by the defendant in that behalf provided such representation is made within 10 days, of the first hearing or, of the expiry of the week referred to in sub-section (1), as the case may be.

(3) The amount deposited under this rule may at any time be withdrawn by the plaintiff:

Provided that such withdrawal shall not have the effect of prejudicing any claim by the plaintiff disputing the correctness of the amount deposited:

Provided further that if the amount deposited includes any sums claimed by the depositor to be deductible on any account, the Court may require the plaintiff to furnish the security for such sum before he is allowed to withdraw the same."

15. A reading of the provisions of Rule 5 does not spare a shadow of doubt that deposit at the first hearing of the suit is to be made of all arrears of rent, admitted by the tenant to be due, together with interest at the rate of 9% per annum. This is one part of the tenant's obligation. The other is that, throughout the continuation of the suit, the tenant has to regularly deposit the monthly rent within a week from the date of its accrual. In the event of default, either in the deposit of the admitted rent due on the first date of hearing, or the regular deposit of monthly rent within a week of its falling due, the Court is empowered to strike off the tenant's defence. Explanation 2 to sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 of Order XV defines the expression "entire amount admitted to be due" as the gross sum of money, due on account of rent or damages for use and occupation, calculated at the admitted rate of rent, for the admitted period that it is in arrears after deduction of nothing else but taxes, if any, paid to the Local Authority, relating to the tenanted premises on the lessor's account and the amount, if any, deposited under Section 30 of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972.

16. By virtue of Explanation 3, the monthly amount due has been defined as the amount due every month, whether on account of rent or damages for use and occupation, at the admitted rate of rent, without deducting anything except taxes paid to a Local Authority on the lessor's account, in respect of the tenanted premises. By the provisions of sub-Rule (2) of Rule 5 of Order XV, it has been made explicit that while making an order striking off defence, the Court may consider any representation made by the tenant in that behalf, provided the representation is preferred within 10 days of the first hearing or of the expiry of the week, referred to in sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5.

17. Thus, there is a clear period of 10 days only during which, in respect of the first part of the obligation under sub-Rule (1) or under the second part, the Court may consider a representation regarding the delay in deposit. Beyond that period of time, that is to say, 10 days, in one case from the date of first hearing and in the other from the expiry of a week, when the rent falls due, the Court cannot consider the tenant's representation against the order striking off the defence. The first part of sub-Rule (1) of Rule 5 clearly relates to the accrued arrears of rent/ damages for use and occupation at the time of institution of the suit, which have to be made good, on or before the first hearing of the suit.

18. In this case, the condonable 10 days are to be reckoned with effect from the date of first hearing. For the second part of sub-Rule (1) aforesaid, it is after the lapse of a week during the course of every month, when the rent falls due and is not paid within the week, that the Court may consider a representation against striking off defence, if made within 10 days of the expiry of one week as aforesaid. This is a schedule of time, beyond which the Court has no discretion to consider any representation or extend time to deposit the rent due; both as regards the first part of the Rule as well as the second part.

19. Here, a reading of the impugned order dated 15.02.2021 passed by the Trial Judge shows that it is a case, where the tenant deposited monthly rent, lastly for the period 01.07.2017 to 31.07.2017 on 10.10.2017. Thereafter, for the period 01.08.2017 to 31.12.2020, for a period of 41 months, the tenant did not deposit the monthly rent due, within a week of its accrual, in accordance with his liability under the second part of Order XV Rule 5(1) CPC. Instead, he made applications for adjustment of rent due against expenses towards painting and repairs etc., which is not at all relevant under Order XV Rule 5 CPC. It was for a very valid reason and on good grounds that the Trial Court declined to accept the tenant's application to set off expenditure incurred towards panting and maintenance of the demised premises, as claimed by the tenant. Still, however, the Trial Court refused to strike off the tenant's defence and granted him one opportunity to deposit all the outstandings of rent within 10 days. It was, however, ordered that in case all outstandings of rent were not made good within the period of 10 days, the tenant's defence would automatically stand struck off.

20. In the opinion of this Court, the order dated 15.02.2021 is an instance of some error committed that goes to the tenant's benefit. And, that is that on the findings recorded, the Trial Court did not immediately strike off the tenant's defence. Rather, 10 days' time was granted to deposit the rent due with a default clause that upon failure to do so, the defence would stand automatically struck off. Obviously, if the Trial Court has erred in granting time to the tenant to make good the deposit of all rent due, failing which the defence would stand automatically struck off on the expiry of 10 days, it is an infirmity which the tenant cannot capitalize upon. Strangely enough, the tenant has criticized the aforesaid error in the order that is to his advantage, while assailing the order dated 15.02.2021 and the later order dated 16.03.2021, in Revision No. 12 of 2021 before the learned District Judge. Since the due rent was not deposited within 10 days and the tenant made a further application, Paper No. 182ग, asking the Judge, Small Cause Court, to review his order dated 15.02.2021, bearing in mind the terms of lease deed dated 28.09.2010 between parties and pass orders afresh, the Trial Judge rejected the said application, holding that the defence stood struck off for non-compliance of the order dated 15.02.2021. Both these orders when assailed in revision, were upheld on merits by the learned District Judge, Meerut vide judgment and order dated 16.08.2021. But, again with an indulgence in favour of the tenant. This time, the tenant was granted 14 days' time to comply with the order dated 15.02.2021, failing which the consequences of the defence being struck off, would revive.

21. This Court must say again that this direction too was not warranted under the law. It was an equity, overstepping the law. That done, the tenant did not, as already said, take advantage of the order and has persisted in his dilatory efforts. He moved applications, Paper Nos. 205ग and 208ग for deposit of due rent in installments. Those applications were rightly rejected by the Judge, Small Cause Court and affirmed in revision, also rightly by the learned District Judge, vide judgment and order dated 17.01.2022.

22. Whatever the learned Counsel for the tenant has said in assail of these orders, is only stated to be rejected. The clear mandate of Order XV Rule 5 CPC, in the way it has been interpreted by this Court and the Supreme Court, do not spare any doubt about the limited right of a tenant to escape the rigours of the rule prescribing for his defence to be struck off. The rule cannot be applied in the manner, the tenant wants. There are some decisions, such as those in Dr. Ram Prakash Mishra (Dead) v. IVth Additional District Judge, Etah and another, 1999 (1) ARC 7, Habiburahaman v. District Judge, Jhansi and others, 2000 (1) ARC 4, Sanjay Agrawal vs. Ganga Prasad Agrawal and another, 2009 (1) ARC 291, which hold that the Court has the reserve power to reject the application seeking to strike off the defence, but that has to be done in a case where indeed there is material to show that the revisionist has substantially complied with his obligations and for some reason, there has been a technical default. These issues were considered by this Court in Pushpa Gupta vs. Subhash Chandra and another, 2019 (8) ADJ 376, where it was held:

50. The provisions contained under Order XV Rule 5 C.P.C., have been consistently held to be mandatory, and it has been held that the benefits conferred on tenants under the rent control legislation can be enjoyed only on the basis of strict compliance of the statutory provisions. There is no provision to claim exemption from complying with the conditions under Order XV Rule 5 C.P.C. apart from consideration of a representation made by the defendant as per Order 15 Rule 5 (2) C.P.C.

53. It has been consistently held that the tenant is required to comply with the requirements of Order XV Rule 5 CPC and make the deposits strictly in accordance with the procedure contained therein, and any deposit not made in consonance with the said rule cannot enure the benefit of the tenant. Also, the amount to be deposited by the tenant during the continuation of the suit is required to be deposited in the Court where the suit is filed failing which the Court may strike off the defence of the tenant since the deposits made by the tenant under Section 30 after the first hearing of the suit cannot be taken into consideration.

54. The provisions under Order XV Rule 5(2) provides a locus poenitentiae to the defaulting tenant to make a representation, which must be made within ten days of the first hearing or within a week from the date of accrual of rent as the case may be, and if the representation is not made within the specified time the Court has no jurisdiction to consider a time barred representation or condone the delay or extend time. Apart from the aforementioned provision of filing a representation there is no provision wherein exemption can be claimed from complying the conditions under Order XV Rule 5.

55. The judgments in the case of Dr. Ram Prakash Mishra (since deceased) v. IVth Additional District Judge, Etah and another, 1999 (1) ARC 7, Habiburahaman v. District Judge, Jhansi and others, 2000 (1) ARC 4 and Sanjay Agrawal v. Ganga Prasad Agrawal and another, 2009 (1) ARC 291, upon which reliance has been sought to be placed by the revisionist are to the effect that if there is sufficient material on record to indicate that there are good reasons for condoning the default the Court has a reserve power to reject the application for striking off the defence. There can be no quarrel with the aforementioned legal proposition that powers under Order XV Rule 5 are not to be exercised in the case of a mere technical default.

23. In this connection, the remarks of the Division Bench in Haider Abbas v. Additional District Judge and others, 2006 (1) ADJ 197 (All) (DB), that bear upon the point, read:

23. The aforesaid decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Atma Ram (supra) emphasizes that if the tenant wishes to take advantage of the beneficial provisions of the Rent Control Act, he must strictly comply with the requirements and if any condition precedent is required to be fulfilled before the benefit can be claimed, the tenant must strictly comply with that condition failing which he cannot take advantage of the benefit conferred by such a provision. It has further been emphasised that the rent must be deposited in the Court where it is required to be deposited under the Act and if it is deposited somewhere else, it shall not be treated as a valid payment/tender of the rent and consequently the tenant must be held to be in default.

24. In view of the aforesaid principles of law enunciated by the Supreme Court in the aforesaid case of Atma Ram (supra), it has to be held that the tenant must comply with the requirements of Order XV, Rule 5, CPC and make the deposits strictly in accordance with the procedure contained therein. A deposit which is not made in consonance with the aforesaid Rule cannot enure to the benefit of the tenant and, therefore, only that amount can be deducted from the "monthly amount" required to be deposited by the tenant during the pendency of the suit which is specifically mentioned in Explanation 3 to Rule 5 (1) of Order XV, CPC.

24. In this case, one could have thought that owing to the extraordinarily adverse circumstances that humanity faced in consequence of the Covid-19 pandemic, as a one time measure, the Court shal have exercised its reserve power to decline striking off defence and afforded opportunity to the tenant to comply with the provisions of Order XV Rule 5 CPC, saving his defence, but that situation would legitimately arise where the tenant simply prayed for some time to comply with the requirements of deposit under Order XV Rule 5 CPC. Here, the stand of the tenant has been very iniquitous. He has come up with different kinds of prayers, through various applications, to ward off of his liability under Order XV Rule 5 CPC. In the first instance, he asked for adjustment of the rent due against the expenditure incurred on the maintenance and painting of the demised premises, which could not be done. Later on, he moved another application, seeking a review of the order dated 15.02.2021, which in fact granted him indulgence of not striking off his defence by extending some time to deposit the rent due. Still later, after losing before the Revisional Court, he did not avail of the opportunity to make good the deposit of rent under Order XV Rule 5 CPC and came up with a fresh prayer to deposit the rent due in installments of Rs.25,000/-, that could never be done under Order XV Rule 5 CPC. We think that on two occasions, in the first round of agitation of his rights by the tenant, the Trial Court as well as the Revisional Court passed some non-conservative orders, granting indulgence of an extended time before defence of the tenant would stand struck off. It might have been a decision taken in the background of the Covid-19 pandemic, though not said so by the Courts in the orders impugned.

25. The Revisional Court in the earlier instance extended time for the tenant to comply with the order dated 15.02.2021 passed by the Trial Court, the benefit whereof he had lost, which the tenant again did not avail. Instead, he took up cudgels again against the landlords by moving the Trial Court for a different relief in the matter of deposit of rent, which we have already mentioned above. The aforesaid conduct of the tenant does not entitle him to any further indulgence. The provisions of Order XV Rule 5 CPC cannot come to the tenant's aid any further, the time for compliance thereunder having long expired. Moreover, the stand of the tenant, that has been consistently vacillating and smacking of in equity, does not entitle him to relief in the exercise of our jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution.

26. This petition is, accordingly, rejected.

Government Appeal No. 146 of 2021

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Sukhai @ Bhagwan Das ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A.

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. Criminal Law – Murder – Causing disappearance of evidence – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302 & 201 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 378 – It is well settled that the prosecution has to prove beyond doubt that every link in the chain of circumstances establishes the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt and all circumstances are consistently pointing out towards the guilt of accused. (Para 33)

B. Admissibility of extra-judicial confession – An extra-judicial confession by its very nature is rather a weak type of evidence and requires appreciation with a great deal of care and caution. Where an extra-judicial confession os surrounded by suspicious circumstances, its credibility becomes doubtful and it loses its importance. (Para 38, 39)

C. Suspicion however strong it may be but it does not substitute place of prove. (Para 40)

In the present case, the prosecution story proceeds on weak evidence as firstly FIR was lodged against unknown persons, secondly, motive though alleged could not be proved by the prosecution. Thirdly, the accused is shown to have arrested and recovery so sought to be made from him of the incriminating article but in absence of any independent witness and also the fact that the time of arrest and recovery also does not match and even the forensic laboratory report does not support the prosecution version, fourthly, extra judicial confession so made loses its efficacy as the witness before whom the extra judicial confession is St.d to have been made turned hostile and lastly, the fact that circumstantial evidences do not support the prosecution case as the complete chain to link the accused to commit crime stands missing.

Learned Trial Court has meticulously scanned the depositions of the prosecution witnesses and adduced evidences and has come to a correct conclusion that the prosecution has miserably failed to link the accused w.r.t. commission of crime. The view taken by the learned trial Court is a possible and a plausible view as not other view is possible. (Para 41)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Present Government Appeal assails the judgment and order dated 10.05.2019, passed by Learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (E.C. Act), District Jalaun at Orai.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. This is an appeal u/s 378 (3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 (hereinafter referred to as Cr.P.C.) challenging the judgment and the order dated 10.05.2019 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (Essential Commodities Act), District Jalaun at Orai in Session Trial No. 101 of 2015 (State of U.P. Vs. Sukhai alias Bhagwan Das), in Case Crime No. 288 of 2015, u/s 302, 201 IPC, P.S. Kalpi, District Jalaun.

2. Essential facts emanating to the filing of the present appeal as transcribed are that the first informant Mohd. Naseem S/o Mohd. Nizam R/o Bazar Ward, Amraudha, P.S. Bhognipur, District Kanpur Dehat had submitted a written report on 04.03.2015 before Police Station Kalpi, District Jalaun with an allegation that his brother Azeem and partner Iqbal S/o Razzaq R/o Mohalla Katra, Kasba Amraudha, P.S. Bhognipur, Kanpur Dehat he along with them had gone to Jolhupur in connection with purchase of cattle and after purchase of two cattle he along with his brother Azeem and partner Iqbal return back to Kalpi and after leaving Azeem and Iqbal at Karbala (Eidgah) he proceeded to Kasba, Kalpi for purchase of an additional cattle and when he returned at 10 in the night after purchasing a cattle, then in Karbala he met Iqbal and asked about the whereabouts of his brother Azeem and he was apprised by Iqbal that Azeem had gone to answer nature's call however, after waiting for some time when Azeem did not return then he called from his mobile number 9794780802 to the mobile number of Azeem 8423904201 however, despite the fact that the bell was ringing but the phone was not picked up then the first informant along with Iqbal went to trace about the whereabouts of his brother and at 02 in the night 100 meters from Karbala near a neem tree the dead body of the deceased was found which also occasioned injuries and according to him his brother had been disposed of some where else and thrown in the Eidgah.

3. On the written complaint of the first informant an FIR was lodged on 04.03.2015 at 06:20 being case crime no. 288/2015, u/s 302/201 IPC. One Sri Yogendra Pratap Singh was nominated as Investigating Officer and thereafter, one Sri Awdhesh Kumar was appointed as the Investigating Officer who has submitted the charge sheet u/s 302, 201 IPC against the accused herein.

4. The case was committed to Sessions by virtue of the order dated 15.06.2015.

5. Charges were read over to the accused herein. He pleaded innocence and claimed to be tried.

6. The learned trial court by virtue of the judgment and the order dated 10.05.2019 passed by Additional Session Judge/Special Judge (E.C. Act) , Jalaun at Orai passed in Session Trial No. 101 of 2015 acquitted the accused. Challenging the judgment and the order of acquittal now the State-appellant is before this Court.

7. The prosecution in order to bring home the charges, has produced the following prosecution witnesses as P.W. 1 S.I. Jaiveer Singh, P.W. 2, Naseem, P.W. 3 Atarur Rehman, P.W. 4 Mohd. Ishtiyaq, P.W. 5 Iqbal, P.W. 6 Dr. Bhanu Pratap Singh, P.W. 7 Yogendra Pratap Singh retired inspector (First I.O.), P.W. 8 Constable 1465 Sanjeev Kumar, P.W. 9 Awadhesh Kumar Singh, I.O. (Second I.O.).

8. Besides the ocular testimony the following documents were also exhibited, namely, Ex. A-1 Panchayatnama, Ex. A-2 Written Complaint, Ex. A-3 Recovery memo of weapon and mobile, Ex. A-4 Blood stained and plain earth, Ex. A-5 and Ex. A-8 letter to Inspector, letter to C.M.O., Photonash, Challan Nash, Ex. A-9 and Ex. A-10 Copy of FIR and Copy of G.D., Ex. A-11 Postmortem report of the deceased Azeem, Ex.A-12 site plan and place of recovery of dead body, Ex.A-13 site plan of murder and recovery of two mobile phones, Ex. A-14 carbon copy of Kaymi G.D., Ex.A-15 Copy of Chik FIR, Ex.A-15 Charge sheet, Ex.A-17 Forensic Science Laboratory report of U.P. Agra.

9. Heard Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State-appellant.

10. Before delving into the exercise so sought to be undertaken for determining as to whether the judgment and the order of acquittal has been proceeded in correct perspective or not this Court is to bear in mind that that the present proceedings emanates against the judgment and the order of acquittal so bestowing double presumption of innocence upon the accused. To put it otherwise this Court cannot venture into the judgment in a routine and cursory manner until and unless the circumstances are such which explicitly show that there has been palpable illegality committed by the learned trial court while recording perverse finding and misread the evidences on record. Without burdening the present judgment while reciting the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court as reduced in plethora of judgments this Court finds appropriate to refer to the recent judgments which itself is pregnant with the judgment which are on the same line right from inception.

11. Nevertheless in the Case of Rajesh Prasad Vs. State of Bihar And Another reported in 2022 (3) SCC 471 the Hon'ble Apex Court in following paragraphs have observed as under:-

"21. Before proceeding further, it would be useful to review the approach to be adopted while deciding an appeal against acquittal by the trial court as well as by the High Court. Section 378 of the Cr.P.C deals with appeals in case of acquittal. In one of the earliest cases on the powers of the High Court in dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in Sheo Swarup vs. R. Emperor, AIR 1934 PC 227(2) considered the provisions relating to the power of an appellate court in dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal and observed as under:

"16. It cannot, however, be forgotten that in case of acquittal, there is a double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person should be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved to be guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured an acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is certainly not weakened but reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

But in exercising the power conferred by the Code and before reaching its conclusions upon fact, the High Court should and will always give proper weight and consideration to such matters as (1) the views of the trial Judge as to the credibility of the witnesses; (2) the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, a presumption certainly not weakened by the fact that he has been acquitted at his trial; (3) the right of the accused to the benefit of any doubt; and (4) the slowness of an appellate court in disturbing a finding of fact arrived at by a judge who had the advantage of seeing the witnesses. To state this, however, is only to say that the High Court in its conduct of the appeal should and will act in accordance with rules and principles well known and recognised in the administration of justice."

It was stated that the appellate court has full powers to review and to reverse the acquittal.

22. In Atley vs. State of U.P., AIR 1955 SC 807, the approach of the appellate court while considering a judgment of acquittal was discussed and it was observed that unless the appellate court comes to the conclusion that the judgment of the acquittal was perverse, it could not set aside the same. To a similar effect are the following observations of this Court speaking through Subba Rao J., (as His Lordship then was) in Sanwat Singh vs. State of Rajasthan, AIR 1961 SC 715:

"9. The foregoing discussion yields the following results: (1) an appellate court has full power to review the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded; (2) the principles laid down in Sheo Swarup case afford a correct guide for the appellate court's approach to a case disposing of such an appeal; and (3) the different phraseology used in the judgments of this Court, such as, (i) ''substantial and compelling reasons', (ii) ''good and sufficiently cogent reasons', and (iii) ''strong reasons' are not intended to curtail the undoubted power of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal to review the entire evidence and to come to its own conclusion; but in doing so it should not only consider every matter on record having a bearing on the questions of fact and the reasons given by the court below in support of its order of acquittal in its arriving at a conclusion on those facts, but should also express those reasons in its judgment, which lead it to hold that the acquittal was not justified."

The need for the aforesaid observations arose on account of observations of the majority in Aher Raja Khimavs. State of Saurashtra, AIR 1956 SC 217 which stated that for the High Court to take a different view on the evidence "there must also be substantial and compelling reasons for holding that the trial court was wrong."

23. M.G. Agarwal vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1963 SC 200 is the judgment of the Constitution Bench of this Court, speaking through Gajendragadkar, J. (as His Lordship then was). This Court observed that the approach of the High Court (appellate court) in dealing with an appeal against acquittal ought to be cautious because the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused "is not certainly weakened by the fact that he has been acquitted at his trial."

24. In Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade vs. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793, Krishna Iyer, J., observed as follows:

"In short, our jurisprudential enthusiasm for presumed innocence must be moderated by the pragmatic need to make criminal justice potent and realistic. A balance has to be struck between chasing chance possibilities as good enough to set the delinquent free and chopping the logic of preponderant probability to punish marginal innocents."

25. This Court in Ramesh Babulal Doshi vs. State of Gujarat, (1996) 9 SCC 225, spoke about the approach of the appellate court while considering an appeal against an order acquitting the accused and stated as follows:

"While sitting in judgment over an acquittal the appellate court is first required to seek an answer to the question whether the findings of the trial court are palpably wrong, manifestly erroneous or demonstrably unsustainable. If the appellate court answers the above question in the negative the order of acquittal is not to be disturbed. Conversely, if the appellate court holds, for reasons to be recorded, that the order of acquittal cannot at all be sustained in view of any of the above infirmities it can thenand then only reappraise the evidence to arrive at its own conclusions."

The object and the purpose of the aforesaid approach is to ensure that there is no miscarriage of justice. In another words, there should not be an acquittal of the guilty or a conviction of an innocent person.

26. In Ajit Savant Majagvai vs. State of Karnataka, (1997) 7 SCC 110, this Court set out the following principles that would regulate and govern the hearing of an appeal by the High Court against an order of acquittal passed by the Trial Court:

"16. This Court has thus explicitly and clearly laid down the principles which would govern and regulate the hearing of appeal by the High Court against an order of acquittal passed by the trial court. These principles have been set out in innumerable cases and may be reiterated as under:

(1) In an appeal against an order of acquittal, the High Court possesses all the powers, and nothing less than the powers it possesses while hearing an appeal against an order of conviction.

(2) The High Court has the power to reconsider the whole issue, reappraise the evidence and come to its own conclusion and findings in place of the findings recorded by the trial court, if the said findings are against the weight of the evidence on record, or in other words, perverse.

(3) Before reversing the finding of acquittal, the High Court has to consider each ground on which the order of acquittal was based and to record its own reasons for not accepting those grounds and not subscribing to the view expressed by the trial court that the accused is entitled to acquittal.

(4) In reversing the finding of acquittal, the High Court has to keep in view the fact that the presumption of innocence is still available in favour of the accused and the same stands fortified and strengthened by the order of acquittal passed in his favour by the trial court.

(5) If the High Court, on a fresh scrutiny and reappraisal of the evidence and other material on record, is of the opinion that there is another view which can be reasonably taken, then the view which favours the accused should be adopted.

(6) The High Court has also to keep in mind that the trial court had the advantage of looking at the demeanour of witnesses and observing their conduct in the Court especially in the witness box.

(7) The High Court has also to keep in mind that even at that stage, the accused was entitled to benefit of doubt. The doubt should be such as a reasonable person would honestly and conscientiously entertain as to the guilt of the accused."

27. This Court in Ramesh Babulal Doshi vs. State of Gujarat, (1996) 9 SCC 225 observed visàvis the powers of an appellate court while dealing with a judgment of acquittal, as under:

"7. ... While sitting in judgment over an acquittal the appellate court is first required to seek an answer to the question whether the findings of the trial court are palpably wrong, manifestly erroneous or demonstrably unsustainable. If the appellate court answers the above question in the negative the order of acquittal is not to be disturbed. Conversely, if the appellate court holds, for reasons to be recorded, that the order of acquittal cannot at all be sustained in view of any of the above infirmities it can then--and then only--reappraise the evidence to arrive at its own conclusions."

28. This Court in Chandrappa & Ors. vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415, highlighted that there is one significant difference in exercising power while hearing an appeal against acquittal by the appellate court. The appellate court would not interfere where the judgment impugned is based on evidence and the view taken was reasonable and plausible. This is because the appellate court will determine the fact that there is presumption in favour of the accused and the accused is entitled to get the benefit of doubt but if it decides to interfere it should assign reasons for differing with the decision of acquittal.

29. After referring to a catena of judgments, this Court culled out the following general principles regarding the powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal in the following words:

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

(1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

30. In Nepal Singh vs. State of Haryana- (2009) 12 SCC 351, this Court reversed the judgment of the High Court which had set aside the judgment of acquittal pronounced by the trial court and restored the judgment of the trial court acquitting the accused on reappreciation of the evidence.

31. The circumstances under which an appeal would be entertained by this Court from an order of acquittal passed by a High Court may be summarized as follows:

31.1. Ordinarily, this Court is cautious in interfering with an order of acquittal, especially when the order of acquittal has been confirmed upto the High Court. It is only in rarest of rare cases, where the High Court, on an absolutely wrong process of reasoning and a legally erroneous and perverse approach to the facts of the case, ignoring some of the most vital facts, has acquitted the accused, that the same may be reversed by this Court, exercising jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution. [State of U.P. v. Sahai, AIR 1981 SC 1442] Such fetters on the right to entertain an appeal are prompted by the reluctance to expose a person, who has been acquitted by a competent court of a criminal charge, to the anxiety and tension of a further examination of the case, even though it is held by a superior court. [Arunachalam v. Sadhananthan, AIR 1979 (SC) 1284] An appeal cannot be entertained against an order of acquittal which has, after recording valid and weighty reasons, has arrived at an unassailable, logical conclusion which justifies acquittal. [State of Haryana v. Lakhbir Singh, (1990) CrLJ 2274 (SC)] B)

31.2. However, this Court has on certain occasions, set aside the order of acquittal passed by a High Court. The circumstances under which this Court may entertain an appeal against an order of acquittal and pass an order of conviction, may be summarised as follows:

31.2.1. Where the approach or reasoning of the High Court is perverse:

a) Where incontrovertible evidence has been rejected by the High Court based on suspicion and surmises, which are rather unrealistic. [State of Rajasthan v. Sukhpal Singh, AIR 1984 SC 207] For example, where direct, unanimous accounts of the eyewitnesses, were discounted without cogent reasoning; [State of UP v. Shanker, AIR 1981 SC 879]

b) Where the intrinsic merits of the testimony of relatives, living in the same house as the victim, were discounted on the ground that they were "interested' witnesses; [State of UP v. Hakim Singh, AIR 1980 SC 184]

c) Where testimony of witnesses had been disbelieved by the High Court, on an unrealistic conjecture of personal motive on the part of witnesses to implicate the accused, when in fact, the witnesses had no axe to grind in the said matter. [State of Rajasthan v. Sukhpal Singh, AIR 1984 SC 207]

d) Where dying declaration of the deceased victim was rejected by the High Court on an irrelevant ground that they did not explain the injury found on one of the persons present at the site of occurrence of the crime. [Arunachalam v. Sadhanantham, AIR 1979 SC 1284]

e) Where the High Court applied an unrealistic standard of "implicit proof' rather than that of "proof beyond reasonable doubt' and therefore evaluated the evidence in a flawed manner. [State of UP v. Ranjha Ram, AIR 1986 SC 1959]

f) Where the High Court rejected circumstantial evidence, based on an exaggerated and capricious theory, which were beyond the plea of the accused; [State of Maharashtra v. ChampalalPunjaji Shah, AIR 1981 SC 1675] or where acquittal rests merely in exaggerated devotion to the rule of benefit of doubt in favour of the accused. [Gurbachan v. Satpal Singh, AIR 1990 SC 209].

g) Where the High Court acquitted the accused on the ground that he had no adequate motive to commit the offence, although, in the said case, there was strong direct evidence establishing the guilt of the accused, thereby making it unnecessary on the part of the prosecution to establish "motive.' [State of AP v. Bogam Chandraiah, AIR 1986 SC 1899]

31.2.2. Where acquittal would result is gross miscarriage of justice:

a) Where the findings of the High Court, disconnecting the accused persons with the crime, were based on a perfunctory consideration of evidence, [State of UP v. Pheru Singh, AIR 1989 SC 1205] or based on extenuating circumstances which were purely based in imagination and fantasy. [State of Uttar Pradesh v. Pussu 1983 AIR 867 (SC)]

b) Where the accused had been acquitted on ground of delay in conducting trial, which delay was attributable not to the tardiness or indifference of the prosecuting agencies, but to the conduct of the accused himself; or where accused had been acquitted on ground of delay in conducting trial relating to an offence which is not of a trivial nature. [State of Maharashtra v. ChampalalPunjaji Shah, AIR 1981 SC 1675] [Source : Durga Das Basu - "The Criminal Procedure Code, 1973" Sixth Edition Vol.II Chapter XXIX]"

12. Keeping in mind the aforesaid aspects that the note of caution has been mandating now the present judgment is to analysed.

13. Before proceeding further the depositions of the prosecution witnesses is to be first scanned.

14. As P.W. 1 S.I. Jaiveer Singh appeared in the witness box, according to him, he was posted in the concerned police station and he conducted the proceedings of panchayatnama. He has further deposed that he on the basis of the chik FIR had proceeded to the place of occurrence and he prepared the panchayatnama and one Sri Atarur Rehman S/o Havibul Rehman, Sahibe Alam S/o Sadik, Mohd. Nisar S/o Hazi Faiz Mohammad, Junaid Khan S/o Liyaqat Khan and Shameed S/o Waseem were appointed as panch.

15. As P.W. 2 the first informant Naseem deposed that the deceased was his younger brother and on the fateful day i.e. 03.03.2015 at 8-9 in the morning he along with his deceased brother Azeem and partner Iqbal had proceeded from Amraudha to Jolhupur and after half an hour they reached to Jolhupur and purchased two cattle and at about 07:00-07:30 in the evening they proceeded from Jolhupur and came to Kalpi and reached to Eidgah at 9 in the night and after leaving Azeem and Iqbal he proceeded to Kalpi to purchase another cattle and when he came back after one hour he met Iqbal and on being asked about the whereabouts of his brother Azeem, Iqbal told him that Azeem had proceeded for answering the nature's call and after waiting for 15 minutes when his deceased brother did not came back, they dialled on his mobile number but the phone was though ringing but the same was not picked up and they proceeded to search the deceased brother and the they found near a neem tree the deceased brother's body lying there with injuries in the shape of three marks on the body and injuries on the head and the first informant screamed when he witnessed the body of his brother, he became unconscious and when he regained conscious after half an hour by that time other villagers had come. He accordingly, submitted a written complaint and FIR was lodged against the unknown persons and one Javed who is the resident of the same village came there he wrote the written complaint on the dictation of the first informant and the first informant was read over the written complaint and he signed the same.

16. P.W. 3 Atrur Rehman claims to be the witness of panchayatnama. He proved the panchayatnama.

17. P.W. 4 Mohd. Ishtiyaq has also proved the fact that consequent to the recovery of the dead body of the deceased in his presence the plain and blood stained earth was collected.

18. As P.W. 5 Mohd Iqbal appeared as a prosecution witness and according to his statement he on 10.03.2015 had gone to purchase the cattle to a place being Jolhupur crossing and along with him neither the first informant Naseem nor the deceased was with him and he also showed his ignorance about the occurrence and thus he turned hostile.

19. P.W. 6 Dr. Bhanu Pratap claims to have conducted postmortem on 04.03.2015 when he was posed as Medical Officer in District Hospital Orai according to him the deceased sustained five injuries being rupture in ventral aspect and in his leg there was ruptured blister and on the right side of the stomach there was also penetrating wound along with unblicus and up to visceral organ. The deceased is stated to have other wounds which were injury nos. 4 and 5. As per the opinion of P.W. 6 the cause of death was oozing out of blood and death took place ¾ days back and according to him he in his deposition has stated that the death might have taken place on 03.03.2015 at about 02:00 hours.

20. P.W. 7 I.O. Yogendra Pratap Singh has claims himself to be the Investigating Officer who conducted the investigation while preparing chik FIR, taking statements of the prosecution witnesses preparing the site plan etc.

21. P.W. 8 1465 Sanjeev Kumar claims himself to be the person who has proved the FIR.

22. P.W. 9 claims himself to the I.O. being Awadhesh Kumar Singh who conducted the investigations so left by P.W. 7 Yogendra Pratap Singh and he submitted the charge sheet.

23. Undisputedly, the genesis of the present case emanates from the incident which is stated to have taken place on 03.05.2015 when the first informant, deceased and Iqbal have been stated to have gone to purchase cattle and when they return back after purchasing two cattle they left the deceased and his partner Iqbal near Karbala an thereafter, he proceeded to purchase another cattle and then he returned back then he was apprised by Iqbal that his brother had gone to answer the nature's call and on being contacted through phone and waiting for some time the deceased did not come back then they traced the deceased and found that the deceased was lying in a dead condition near the neem tree. It has also come on record that the FIR has been lodged against unknown persons.

24. So far as the issue relatable to the marking of the accused herein for commission of the crime is concerned, the name of the accused did not find place in the FIR however, it has come on record that an allegation has been sought to be levelled upon the accused herein that there existed certain dispute between the accused herein and the deceased with relation to crops as the accused used to do agriculture activities near the agriculture field of the accused that is of Mushtaq and on the other hand the complainant fraction used to trade in cattle. According to prosecution oftenly in connection with trenching and trampling of the agriculture crops by the cattle so possessed by the complainant fraction losses were sought to be sustained which became the basis of altercations. According to prosecution on the fateful day on account of trampling of the crops the disputed occurred which resulted into the murder of the deceased.

25. Even otherwise, this Court finds that a categorical finding has been recorded by the learned trial court that no such allegation relatable to the commission of crime as a motive so alleged by the prosecution finds its presence in the FIR. More so before the trial also the first informant in his examination in chief had also not reflected the said fact regarding any grudge relating to the motive and the said fact stands admitted in the page no. 7 of the cross examination wherein the first informant had stated that he is not aware and not remembering as to whether the fact relating to the loss of crops and dispute with the accused was narrated or apprised to the Investigating Officer or not.

26. The learned trial court has taken pains to go into the said aspect of the matter while recording the finding that in the FIR the name of the accused did not find place however, during the course of investigation on 13.03.2015 the first informant informed the Investigating Officer in his mazeed statement for the very first time that the accused herein had disposed of his brother and on the basis of the said statement of the first informant on 18.03.2015 the name of the accused came to the surface and he was arrested. Apart from the same though bald and vague allegation have been sought to be made referable to the dispute and the rivalry as a motive but neither any date, time nor details of the incident have been mentioned. Nonetheless, there is nothing on record to suggest as to whether any complaint to the said effect was made before any authority or not.

27. Notably, from the statement of the first informant it is clear that on 03.03.2015 the deceased was with the first informant and Iqbal barring about one hour when he had gone after leaving the deceased along with his partner to buy an additional cattle at Kalpi. Thus, merely making bald and vague allegations will not absolve the prosecution as motive is not only to be indicated but proved also beyond doubt.

28. So far as the issue relatable to the recovery of incriminating articles being the weapon alleged to be used for commission of crime and on the pointing out of the accused is concerned, the prosecution has come up with a stand that on 18.03.2015 the accused on his pointing out got recovered the weapon used for commission of crime and two mobile phones and he was also arrested and further the accused is being shown to have committed the said crime which stands proved from the report of the forensic laboratory.

29. Though it has also come on record that the recovery of the weapon used for commission of crime and two mobile phones have been shown to be recovered from the pointing out of the accused but there had been no independent witness to have corroborated the said fact. Ex. A-3 which happens to be the recovery memo shows that on the pointing out of the accused behind the Eidgah near Old Dome one Ballum, two mobiles have been shown to have been recovered however, no time has been shown of recovery. As per the Nakal Report No. 27, 16:25 hours have been shown on 18.03.2015 however, as per P.W. 7 I.O. Yogendra Pratap Singh, he in his cross examination has come up with the stand that the accused was arrested on 18.03.2015 at 14:20 pm and as per the case diary, the accused was put up in lock-up as mentioned in report no. 27 at 14:25 hours. Notably, P.W. 7 I.O. Yogendra Pratap Singh has stated that he had not prepared any fard and he is not aware as to how much is the distance between the place of arrest and the place of recovery and he has further stated that the place of recovery is an open land and there is no restriction of entry and the recovery had been made after 15 days.

30. As a matter of fact the learned trial court has further analysed the matter and according to it the recovery is at the difference of two hours and the distance is also not known to the Investigating Officer and the place is an open place which itself shows that the things do not match with the actual events as there cannot be a possibility that the recovery is a planted one particularly when there is no description given in the fard itself and there has been no investigation into the fact as to who is the owner of the mobiles in question.

31. Nonetheless, there was no independent witness to have corroborate to the said recovery event except the interested witness being the first informant. Moreover, Mohd. Naseem being the P.W. 2 the first informant has further stated certain facts which are contrary and in contradiction with the statement of P.W. 7 I.O. Yogendra Pratap Singh as according to him the date on which the dead body was recovered was the date of recovery of Barchi/Ballum and mobiles. Apart from this, it has further been deposed that in the Barchi which was recovered from dome had the blood marking and according to him the blood was fresh. Thus, according to the prosecution on the date of the arrest of the accused i.e. 18.03.2015 one Barchi/Ballum and two mobiles were recovered, however, from perusal of the statement of the P.W. 2 and P.W. 7 there are contradictions with regard to the issue of recovery of Barchi/Ballum on the date of arrest. Moreover, the question about the blood being present in the Barchi/Ballum is concerned, the same cannot be fresh that to after a long period of time i.e. 15 days. Even otherwise, P.W. 7 Yogendra Pratap Singh in his deposition has himself admitted the fact that the ownership of the two mobile phones was not got investigated by him. To put it otherwise I.O. has further come with a stand that the ownership of mobile phone could have been investigated from the mobile shop or telecom company. To put nail to the coffin of conviction, letter 57 Ka and Ex. A-17 which happens to be the report of Forensic Laboratory itself shows that the recovered Ballum which is stated to have contained blood, could not be tested and thus, no report was given in that regard. Hence, so far as the recovery aspect is concerned in absence of any independent witness to have corroborated the recovery of linking of the incriminating article being the weapon used for committing murder and the mobile phones with the accused and cloud over the arrest and recovery of the accused itself makes the prosecution theory weak.

32. The present case at best can be stretched to be of circumstantial evidence as there is no eye witness who has seen commission of crime. It has come on record that P.W. 5 Iqbal S/o Abdul Razzaq could have been the star witness as according to him he was with the accused on 03.03.2015 when the first informant left the deceased with Iqbal and had gone to purchase additional cattle. P.W. 5 Iqbal could have been the intrested witness as he is a partner with the first informant. Reasonably, it can be presumed that motive was known to him as alleged by the prosecution regarding the fact that their cattle which used to trample the crops of the accused fraction. P.W.5 Iqbal had showed his ignorance regarding the fact that he was with the first informant and he met the accused. Meaning thereby, the events dated 03.03.2015 has been completely denied by P.W. 5 Iqbal as he turned hostile. Thus, once P.W. 5 Iqbal stood hostile then the very basis of erecting the prosecution case stood demolished. So far as the issue with regard to the extra judicial confession is concerned, the same as per the settled legal position is a weak evidence.

33. It is well settled that prosecution has to prove beyond doubt that every link in the chain of circumstances establishes the guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt and all circumstances are consistently pointing out towards the guilt of accused.

34. Recently, in the case of Criminal Appeal No. 378 of 2015 Chandrapal Vs. State of Chhattisgarh decided on 27.05.2022 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 7 has observed as under:-

"7. At the outset, it may be stated that undisputedly the entire case of the prosecution rested on the circumstantial evidence, as there was no eye witness to the alleged incident. The law on the appreciation of circumstantial evidence is also well settled. The circumstances concerned "must or should be" established and not "may be" established, as held in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr. Vs. State of Maharashtra1. The accused "must be" and not merely "may be" guilty before a court can convict him. The conclusions of guilt arrived at must be sure conclusions and must not be based on vague conjectures. The entire chain of circumstances on which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn, should be fully established and should not leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused. The five golden principles enumerated in case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra2 laid down in para 152 may be reproduced herein for ready reference:

"152. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [(1973) 2 SCC 793 : 1973 1 (1973) 2 SCC 793 2 (1984) 4 SCC 116 SCC (Cri) 1033 : 1973 Crl LJ 1783] where the observations were made : [SCC para 19, p. 807 : SCC (Cri) p. 1047] "Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be' and "must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

35. P.W. 5 Iqbal has come up with a stand that the accused in his presence had admitted his guilt of commission of crime while making extra judicial confession. As observed earlier, P.W. 5 himself stood hostile and denied presence of the accused and occurring of the event on 03.05.2015 thus extra judicial confession stated to be made by the accused also looses its credibility.

36. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Mohd. Azad @ Samin vs. State of West Bengal, 2008 (15) SCC 449, in paragraphs 21 and 22 observed as under:-

*"21. A similar view was also taken in Jaswant Gir v. State of Punjab, 2005 (12) SCC 438 and Kusuma Ankama Rao's case, 2008 (13) SCC 257.

22. "18. Confessions may be divided into two classes i.e. judicial and extra- judicial. Judicial confessions are those which are made before a Magistrate or a court in the course of judicial proceedings. Extra-judicial confessions are those which are made by the party elsewhere than before a Magistrate or court. Extra-judicial confessions are generally those that are made by a party to or before a private individual which includes even a judicial officer in his private capacity. It also includes a Magistrate who is not especially empowered to record confessions under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short the `Code') or a Magistrate so empowered but receiving the confession at a stage when Section 164 of the Code does not apply. As to extra-judicial confessions, two questions arise: (i) were they made voluntarily? and (ii) are they true? As the section enacts, a confession made by an accused person is irrelevant in criminal proceedings, if the making of the confession appears to the court to have been caused by any inducement, threat or promise, (1) having reference to the charge against the accused person, (2) proceeding from a person in authority, and (3) sufficient, in the opinion of the court to give the accused person grounds which would appear to him reasonable for supposing that by making it he would gain any advantage or avoid any evil of a temporal nature in reference to the proceedings against him. It follows that a confession would be voluntary if it is made by the accused in a fit state of mind, and if it is not caused by any inducement, threat or promise which has reference to the charge against him, proceeding from a person in authority. It would not be involuntary, if the inducement, (a) does not have reference to the charge against the accused person; or (b) it does not proceed from a person in authority; or (c) it is not sufficient, in the opinion of the court to give the accused person grounds which would appear to him reasonable for supposing that, by making it, he would gain any advantage or avoid any evil of a temporal nature in reference to the proceedings against him. Whether or not the confession was voluntary would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case, judged in the light of Section 24 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short 'Evidence Act'). The law is clear that a confession cannot be used against an accused person unless the court is satisfied that it was voluntary and at that stage the question whether it is true or false does not arise. If the facts and circumstances surrounding the making of a confession appear to cast a doubt on the veracity or voluntariness of the confession, the court may refuse to act upon the confession, even if it is admissible in evidence. One important question, in regard to which the court has to be satisfied with is, whether when the accused made the confession, he was a free man or his movements were controlled by the police either by themselves or through some other agency employed by them for the purpose of securing such a confession. The question whether a confession is voluntary or not is always a question of fact. All the factors and all the circumstances of the case, including the important factors of the time given for reflection, scope of the accused getting a feeling of threat, inducement or promise, must be considered before deciding whether the court is satisfied that in its opinion the impression caused by the inducement, threat or promise, if any, has been fully removed. A free and voluntary confession is deserving of the highest credit, because it is presumed to flow from the highest sense of guilt. (See R. v. Warickshall) It is not to be conceived that a man would be induced to make a free and voluntary confession of guilt, so contrary to the feelings and principles of human nature, if the facts confessed were not true. Deliberate and voluntary confessions of guilt, if clearly proved, are among the most effectual proofs in law. An involuntary confession is one which is not the result of the free will of the maker of it. So where the statement is made as a result of harassment and continuous interrogation for several hours after the person is treated as an offender and accused, such statement must be regarded as involuntary. The inducement may take the form of a promise or of a threat, and often the inducement involves both promise and threat, a promise of forgiveness if disclosure is made and threat of prosecution if it is not. (See Woodroffe's Evidence, 9th Edn., p. 284.) A promise is always attached to the confession alternative while a threat is always attached to the silence alternative; thus, in one case the prisoner is measuring the net advantage of the promise, minus the general undesirability of a false confession, as against the present unsatisfactory situation; while in the other case he is measuring the net advantages of the present satisfactory situation, minus the general undesirability of the confession against the threatened harm. It must be borne in mind that every inducement, threat or promise does not vitiate a confession. Since the object of the rule is to exclude only those confessions which are testimonially untrustworthy, the inducement, threat or promise must be such as is calculated to lead to an untrue confession. On the aforesaid analysis the court is to determine the absence or presence of an inducement, promise etc. or its sufficiency and how or in what measure it worked on the mind of the accused. If the inducement, promise or threat is sufficient in the opinion of the court, to give the accused person grounds which would appear to him reasonable for supposing that by making it he would gain any advantage or avoid any evil, it is enough to exclude the confession. The words "appear to him" in the last part of the section refer to the mentality of the accused.

19. An extra-judicial confession, if voluntary and true and made in a fit state of mind, can be relied upon by the court. The confession will have to be proved like any other fact. The value of the evidence as to confession, like any other evidence, depends upon the veracity of the witness to whom it has been made. The value of the evidence as to the confession depends on the reliability of the witness who gives the evidence. It is not open to any court to start with a presumption that extra-judicial confession is a weak type of evidence. It would depend on the nature of the circumstances, the time when the confession was made and the credibility of the witnesses who speak to such a confession. Such a confession can be relied upon and conviction can be founded thereon if the evidence about the confession comes from the mouth of witnesses who appear to be unbiased, not even remotely inimical to the accused, and in respect of whom nothing is brought out which may tend to indicate that he may have a motive of attributing an untruthful statement to the accused, the words spoken to by the witness are clear, unambiguous and unmistakably convey that the accused is the perpetrator of the crime and nothing is omitted by the witness which may militate against it. After subjecting the evidence of the witness to a rigorous test on the touchstone of credibility, the extra-judicial confession can be accepted and can be the basis of a conviction if it passes the test of credibility."

37 . In the case of Sansar Chand vs. State of Rajasthan 2010 (10) SCC 604, Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 29 observed as under:-

"29. There is no absolute rule that an extra judicial confession can never be the basis of a conviction, although ordinarily an extra judicial confession should be corroborated by some other material vide Thimma vs. The State of Mysore - AIR 1971 SC 1871, Mulk Raj vs. The State of U.P. - AIR 1959 SC 902, Sivakumar vs. State by Inspector of Police - AIR 206 SC 563 (para 41 & 42), Shiva Karam Payaswami Tewar vs. State of Maharashtra - AIR 2009 SC 1692, Mohd. Azad vs. State of West Bengal - AIR 2009 SC 1307."

38. Further, in the case of Sahadevan and another vs. State of Tamilnadu 2012 (6) SCC 403, Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs 14 to 16 observed as under:-

"14. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence. Wherever the Court, upon due appreciation of the entire prosecution evidence, intends to base a conviction on an extra- judicial confession, it must ensure that the same inspires confidence and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. If, however, the extra- judicial confession suffers from material discrepancies or inherent improbabilities and does not appear to be cogent as per the prosecution version, it may be difficult for the court to base a conviction on such a confession. In such circumstances, the court would be fully justified in ruling such evidence out of consideration.

15. Now, we may examine some judgments of this Court dealing with this aspect.

15.1. In Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab [1995 Supp. (4) SCC 259], this Court stated the principle that an extra-judicial confession, by its very nature is rather a weak type of evidence and requires appreciation with a great deal of care and caution. Where an extrajudicial confession is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, its credibility becomes doubtful and it loses its importance.

15.2. In Pakkirisamy v. State of T.N. [(1997) 8 SCC 158], the Court held that:

"8. .... It is well settled that it is a rule of caution where the court would generally look for an independent reliable corroboration before placing any reliance upon such extra-judicial confession."

15.3. Again in Kavita v. State of T.N. [(1998) 6 SCC 108], the Court stated the dictum that:

"4. There is no doubt that conviction can be based on extrajudicial confession, but it is well settled that in the very nature of things, it is a weak piece of evidence. It is to be proved just like any other fact and the value thereof depends upon veracity of the witnesses to whom it is made."

15.4. While explaining the dimensions of the principles governing the admissibility and evidentiary value of an extra-judicial confession, this Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Raja Ram [(2003) 8 SCC 180] stated the principle that:

"19. An extra-judicial confession, if voluntary and true and made in a fit state of mind, can be relied upon by the court. The confession will have to be proved like any other fact. The value of evidence as to confession, like any other evidence, depends upon the veracity of the witness to whom it has been made.

The Court, further expressed the view that:

"19. .... Such a confession can be relied upon and conviction can be founded thereon if the evidence about the confession comes from the mouth of witnesses who appear to be unbiased, not even remotely inimical to the accused and in respect of whom nothing is brought out which may tend to indicate that he may have a motive of attributing an untruthful statement to the accused....."

15.5. In the case of Aloke Nath Dutta v. State of W.B. [(2007) 12 SCC 230], the Court, while holding the placing of reliance on extra-judicial confession by the lower courts in absence of other corroborating material, as unjustified, observed:

"87. Confession ordinarily is admissible in evidence. It is a relevant fact. It can be acted upon. Confession may under certain circumstances and subject to law laid down by the superior judiciary from time to time form the basis for conviction. It is, however, trite that for the said purpose the court has to satisfy itself in regard to: (i) voluntariness of the confession; (ii) truthfulness of the confession; (iii) corroboration.

89. A detailed confession which would otherwise be within the special knowledge of the accused may itself be not sufficient to raise a presumption that confession is a truthful one. Main features of a confession are required to be verified. If it is not done, no conviction can be based only on the sole basis thereof."

15.6. Accepting the admissibility of the extra-judicial confession, the Court in the case of Sansar Chand v. State of Rajasthan [(2010) 10 SCC 604] held that :-

"29. There is no absolute rule that an extra-judicial confession can never be the basis of a conviction, although ordinarily an extra-judicial confession should be corroborated by some other material. [Vide Thimma and Thimma Raju v. State of Mysore, Mulk Raj v. State of U.P., Sivakumar v. State (SCC paras 40 and 41 : AIR paras 41 & 42), Shiva Karam Payaswami Tewari v. State of Mahasrashtra and Mohd. Azad v. State of W.B.]

30. In the present case, the extra-judicial confession by Balwan has been referred to in the judgments of the learned Magistrate and the Special Judge, and it has been corroborated by the other material on record. We are satisfied that the confession was voluntary and was not the result of inducement, threat or promise as contemplated by Section 24 of the Evidence Act, 1872."

15.7. Dealing with the situation of retraction from the extra-judicial confession made by an accused, the Court in the case of Rameshbhai Chandubhai Rathod v. State of Gujarat [(2009) 5 SCC 740], held as under :

"53. It appears therefore, that the appellant has retracted his confession. When an extra-judicial confession is retracted by an accused, there is no inflexible rule that the court must invariably accept the retraction. But at the same time it is unsafe for the court to rely on the retracted confession, unless, the court on a consideration of the entire evidence comes to a definite conclusion that the retracted confession is true."

15.8. Extra-judicial confession must be established to be true and made voluntarily and in a fit state of mind. The words of the witnesses must be clear, unambiguous and should clearly convey that the accused is the perpetrator of the crime. The extra-judicial confession can be accepted and can be the basis of conviction, if it passes the test of credibility. The extra-judicial confession should inspire confidence and the court should find out whether there are other cogent circumstances on record to support it. [Ref. S.K. Yusuf v. State of W.B. [(2011) 11 SCC 754] and Pancho v. State of Haryana [(2011) 10 SCC 165].

16. Upon a proper analysis of the above-referred judgments of this Court, it will be appropriate to state the principles which would make an extra- judicial confession an admissible piece of evidence capable of forming the basis of conviction of an accused. These precepts would guide the judicial mind while dealing with the veracity of cases where the prosecution heavily relies upon an extra-judicial confession alleged to have been made by the accused:

The Principles

i) The extra-judicial confession is a weak evidence by itself. It has to be examined by the court with greater care and caution.

ii) It should be made voluntarily and should be truthful.

iii) It should inspire confidence.

iv) An extra-judicial confession attains greater credibility and evidentiary value, if it is supported by a chain of cogent circumstances and is further corroborated by other prosecution evidence.

v) For an extra-judicial confession to be the basis of conviction, it should not suffer from any material discrepancies and inherent improbabilities.

vi) Such statement essentially has to be proved like any other fact and in accordance with law."

39. Further, in the case of Ram Lal vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2019 (17) SCC 411, Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs 13 to 15 observed as under:-

"13. Extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence and the court must ensure that the same inspires confidence and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. In order to accept extra-judicial confession, it must be voluntary and must inspire confidence. If the court is satisfied that the extra-judicial confession is voluntary, it can be acted upon to base the conviction. Considering the admissibility and evidentiary value of extra-judicial confession, after referring to various judgments, in Sahadevn and another vs. State of Tamilnadu (2012) 6 SCC 403, this court held as under:-

"15.1. In Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab 1995 Supp (4) SCC 259 this Court stated the principle that:

"10. An extra-judicial confession by its very nature is rather a weak type of evidence and requires appreciation with a great deal of care and caution.Where an extra-judicial confession is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, its credibility becomes doubtful and it loses its importance."

15.4. While explaining the dimensions of the principles governing the admissibility and evidentiary value of an extra-judicial confession, this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Raja Ram (2003) 8 SCC 180 stated the principle that:

"19. An extra-judicial confession, if voluntary and true and made in a fit state of mind, can be relied upon by the court. The confession will have to be proved like any other fact. The value of the evidence as to confession, like any other evidence, depends upon the veracity of the witness to whom it has been made." The Court further expressed the view that:

"19. ... Such a confession can be relied upon and conviction can be founded thereon if the evidence about the confession comes from the mouth of witnesses who appear to be unbiased, not even remotely inimical to the accused, and in respect of whom nothing is brought out which may tend to indicate that he may have a motive of attributing an untruthful statement to the accused...."

15.6. Accepting the admissibility of the extra-judicial confession, the Court in Sansar Chand v. State of Rajasthan (2010) 10 SCC 604 held that:

"29. There is no absolute rule that an extra-judicial confession can never be the basis of a conviction, although ordinarily an extra-judicial confession should be corroborated by some other material. [Vide Thimma and Thimaa Raju v. State of Mysore (1970) 2 SCC 105, Mulk Raj v. State of U.P. AIR 1959 SC 902, Sivakumar v. State of Inspector of Police (2006) 1 SCC 714 (SCC paras 40 and 41 : AIR paras 41 and 42), Shiva Karam Pavaswami Tewari v. State of Maharashtra (2009) 11 SCC 262 and Mohd. Azad alias Shamin v. State of W.B. (2008) 15 SCC 449]"."

40. Moreover, it is also settled principle of law that suspicion however, strong it may be but it does not substitute place of prove. Hon'ble Apex Court in Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No. 1156 of 2021 (State of Odisha Vs. Banabihari Mohapatra and Anr.) decided on 12.02.2021 in paragraph no. 38 has observed as under:-

*41. A*nalysing the case from the four corners of law, this Court finds that the prosecution story proceeds on weak evidence as firstly FIR was lodged against unknown persons, secondly, motive though alleged could not be proved by the prosecution. Thirdly, the accused is shown to have arrested and recovery so sought to be made from him of the incriminating article but in absence of any independent witness and also the fact that the time of arrest and recovery also does not match and even the forensic laboratory report does not support the prosecution version, fourthly, extra judicial confession so made looses its efficacy as P.W. 5 Iqbal turned hostile before whom the extra judicial confession stated to be made and last but not the least the fact that circumstantial evidences do not support the prosecution case as the complete chain to link the accused to commit crime stands missing. This Court further finds that the learned trial court has meticulously scanned the depositions of the prosecution witnesses and the evidences so adduced and has come to a correct conclusion that the prosecution has miserably failed to link the accused with respect to commission of crime. The view taken by the learned trial court is a possible and a plausible view as not other view is possible. Hence, this Court has no option but to concur the judgment of the learned trial court acquitting the accused herein.

42. Resultantly, no ground is made as to accord leave to appeal and accordingly, the same is rejected.

43. As the leave to file the present appeal stands rejected thus, the present appeal so instituted at the behest of the State-appellant u/s 378 (3) of the Cr.P.C. stands dismissed.

CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE DR. KAUSHAL JAYENDRA THAKER, J.
THE HON'BLE NALIN KUMAR SRIVASTAVA, J.

Government Appeal No. 2008 of 1987

The State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Krishna Kumar Kulshreshtha & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A., Sri S.K. Kulshreshtha

Counsel for the Respondents:
Dr.D.K. Kulshreshtha, Sri P.K. Singh, Sri M.K.S. Chauhan

A. Criminal Law – Dowry Death - Indian Penal Code: Sections 302/34 & 201 – It is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court. Interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view. (Para 12, 13, 14, 23)

It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. (Para 19)

B. Consideration to the presumption of innocence – If the appellate Court is reversing the trial Court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption stands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court. (Para 23)

C. It is a well settled principle of law that when the genesis and the manner of incident are doubtful, the accused cannot be convicted. (Para 35)

In the written report the informant did not mention that on the fateful day i.e. to say on 15.11.1982 the informant had visited the house of the accused persons before the death of his daughter. This fact was admitted by him the cross-examination. A genuine question arises that when on the fateful day the informant himself found his daughter in a St. of unsound health then why this fact was not disclosed by him in the written report prepared by him. This indicates that the prosecution is trying to hide the genesis of the incident. (Para 35)

D. It is the duty of the accused to explain the incriminating circumstance proved against him while making a St.ment u/s 313 CrPC. Keeping silent and not furnishing any explanation for such circumstance in an additional link in the chain of circumstances to sustain the charges against him. Recovery of incriminating material at his disclosure St.ment duly proved is a very positive circumstance against him. (Para 39)

The accused persons in their St.ment u/s 313 CrPC not only not only explained the incriminating circumstances but also adduced oral and documentary evidence to prove the same. Specific defence has been taken by the accused persons that the death of the deceased was natural and she died due to sickness. They provided medical help to her and she had been under treatment of doctor. (Para 39)

E. The defence witnesses are entitled to equal respect and treatment as that of the prosecution – The evidence tendered by the defence witnesses cannot always be termed to be a tainted one by reason of the factum of the witnesses being examined by the defence. The issue of credibility and trustworthiness ought also to be attributed to the defence witnesses on a par with that of the prosecution – a lapse on the part of the defence witnesses cannot be differentiated and be treated differently than that of the prosecutors' witnesses. (Para 39)

The trial Court after appreciating the oral and documentary evidence on record has not found the documents filed by the prosecution as reliable and genuine and in view of the trial Court the weight given to the oral and documentary evidence of the prosecution was not sufficient to prove the guilt of the accused in this case. (Para 41)

F. Preponderance of probability – It is sufficient if the accused person succeeds in proving a preponderance of probability in favour of his case. It is not necessary for the accused person to prove his case beyond reasonable doubt or in default to incur a verdict of guilty. The onus of proof lying upon the accused person is to prove his case by a preponderance of probability.

If upon the evidence adduced in the case whether by the prosecution or by the accused a reasonable doubt is created in the mind of the Court as regards one or more of the ingredients of the offence including mens rea of the accused he would be entitled to be acquitted. (Para 42)

The burden/onus in this case is not upon the accused persons/respondents but whatsoever has been St.d by them in their St.ment u/s 313 CrPC, oral and documentary evidence to support that version has been produced by them which has been supposed to be cogent and reliable by the trial Court, thus there is preponderance of probability in favour of the innocence of the accused persons/respondents. (Para 44)

G. It appears that there was a deliberate delay in lodging of the FIR which seems to be result of due consultation and after thought – The suspicious death of the daughter of the informant was a very serious matter for him but surprisingly neither he informed nor did he send his son to inform the police about it. (Para 45)

As a matter of fact, no person has seen the occurrence and on the basis of analysis of oral and documentary evidence on record, no incriminating circumstances to connect the respondents with the alleged offence is proved. Hence, the non-conviction of the respondents u/s 302/34 and 201 IPC is upheld. (Para 48)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Present Government Appeal assails judgment and order dated 29.04.1987, passed by the Court of Special Judge (Economic Offences), Agra.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Nalin Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Accused persons Krishna Kumar Kulshreshtha, Sudhir Kumar Kulshreshtha and Akhilesh Kumar Kulshreshtha and Smt. Gayatri Devi Kulshreshtha were acquitted of the charges under Section 302/34 and 201 I.P.C. in Sessions Trial No. 488 of 1984 arising out of case crime no. 495 of 1985, P.S- Loha Mandi, District- Agra by the Court of Special Judge (Economic Offences), Agra by judgement and order dated 29.4.1987, feeling aggrieved of which this State appeal has been filed.

2. The prosecution story unfolded by the FIR in brief is that Smt. Beena Kumari Kulshreshtha @ Beena Kulshreshtha, daughter of the informant-Guru Dayal Prasad was married with accused Akhilesh Kumar Kulshreshtha on 9.5.1982 and as per his capacity the informant offered dowry to the in-laws of her daughter, however, the accused persons Akhilesh Kumar Kulshreshtha-husband, Krishna Kumar Kulshreshtha-father-in-law, Smt. Gayatri Devi-mother-in-law were dissatisfied with the dowry and Smt. Bina was subjected to cruelty and harassment for demand of dowry by the aforesaid accused persons and also by her brother-in-law Sudhir Kumar Kulshreshtha. The deceased used to make complaint of these incidents to her mother and brother. On 13.11.1982 Girish Chand Kulshreshtha, the nephew of the informant went to the house of the deceased on the occasion of Dipawali and he found her normal and healthy, however, she appeared to be upset. On 15.11.1982 at about 5.15 pm. the informant got the information of the death of his daughter and after reaching the accused persons' house he found her dead. The wife of the informant was shocked and became unconscious. The informant took away his wife to his house and next day morning gave a written report to S.O. Loha Mandi, Agra alleging therein that the in-laws of his daughter have killed her by poisoning.

3. On the basis of the written report Ex.Ka-7, the FIR Ex.Ka-8 was lodged and G.D. Ex.Ka-9 was also prepared.

4. The investigation was handed over to S.I. Rama Shankar Sharma, who performed the proceedings of the investigation, recorded the statement of the witnesses and prepared site plan Ex.Ka-10 and subsequently the investigation was conducted by Inspector Shiv Bahadur Singh and then by Deputy S.P. Raj Pal Singh Rana, who recorded the statement of the witnesses and submitted charge sheet Ex.Ka-11 to the Court.

5. The accused persons appeared before the Court. After the case being committed to the Court of Sessions they were charged under Section 302/34 and 201 I.P.C. They denied of the charges and claimed to be tried.

6. In order to prove its case, the prosecution relied upon the oral testimony of P.W.1 Guru Dayal Prasad-the informant, P.W2- Girish Chand Kulshreshtha, cousin of the deceased, P.W.3 Rakesh Kulshreshtha brother of the deceased, P.W.4- Bhagwan Das, Head Moharir, scribe of the FIR, P.W.5-Inspector Shiv Bahadur Singh second I.O of the case and P.W.6 Retired Deputy S.P. Raj Pal Singh Rana subsequent I.O.

7. To support the oral evidence, documentary evidence was also relied upon by the prosecution and in documentary evidence list Ex. Ka-1, letters Ex.Ka-2, Ex.Ka-3, Ex.Ka-4, Ex.Ka-5 and Ex.Ka-6, written report Ex.Ka-7, Chik FIR Ex.Ka-8, G.D. Ex.Ka 9 have been filed.

8. Learned trial Court after perusing the entire evidence on record and after hearing the oral submissions of the parties found that no case was made out against the accused persons and the prosecution has utterly failed to connect the accused with the guilt, and accordingly acquitted them of the charges under Section 302/34 and 201 I.P.C.

9. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that the learned trial Judge has not appreciated the evidence on record in proper and legal manner. The judgement has been passed in haste. The circumstances of the case were going against the accused persons and the entire allegations of demand of dowry and cruelty and harassment of the deceased were proved by the witnesses of fact. Learned trial Judge ignoring it passed the acquittal order. It has been prayed that the impugned judgement of acquittal be set aside and the appeal be allowed.

10. Per-contra, learned counsel for the respondents/accused has contended that there is no legal or factual error in the impugned judgement. There was no evidence at all against any of the accused on record and since the deceased was died in the presence of the informant and his wife there was no question for the death being unnatural or homicidal death. The trial Court has made no error in acquitting the respondents/ accused persons and hence the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

11. Before we embark on testimony and the judgment of the Court below, the contours for interfering in Criminal Appeals where accused has been held to be non-guilty, would require to be discussed.

12. The principles which would govern and regulate the hearing of an appeal by this Court, against an order of acquittal passed by the trial Court, have been very succinctly explained by the Apex Court in catena of decisions. In the case of "M.S. NARAYANA MENON @ MANI VS. STATE OF KERALA & ANR", (2006) 6 S.C.C. 39, the Apex Court has narrated the powers of the High Court in appeal against the order of acquittal. In para 54 of the decision, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"54. In any event the High Court entertained an appeal treating to be an appeal against acquittal, it was in fact exercising the revisional jurisdiction. Even while exercising an appellate power against a judgment of acquittal, the High Court should have borne in mind the well settled principles of law that where two view are possible, the appellate Court should not interfere with the finding of acquittal recorded by the Court below."

13. Further, in the case of "CHANDRAPPA Vs. STATE OF KARNATAKA", reported in (2007) 4 SCC 415, the Apex Court laid down the following principles;

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

[1] An appellate Court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

[2] The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate Court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

[3] Various expressions, such as,"substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtain extensive powers of an appellate Court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasis the reluctance of an appellate Court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the Court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

[4] An appellate Court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent Court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.

[5] If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court."

14. Thus, it is a settled principle that while exercising appellate powers, even if two reasonable views/conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate Court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court.

15. Even in the case of "STATE OF GOA Vs. SANJAY THAKRAN & ANR.", reported in (2007) 3 S.C.C. 75, the Apex Court has reiterated the powers of the High Court in such cases. In para 16 of the said decision, the Court has observed as under:

"16. From the aforesaid decisions, it is apparent that while exercising the powers in appeal against the order of acquittal the Court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach of the lower Court is vitiated by some manifest illegality and the conclusion arrived at would not be arrived at by any reasonable person and, therefore, the decision is to be characterized as perverse. Merely because two views are possible, the Court of appeal would not take the view which would upset the judgment delivered by the Court below. However, the appellate Court has a power to review the evidence if it is of the view that the conclusion arrived at by the Court below is perverse and the Court has committed a manifest error of law and ignored the material evidence on record. A duty is cast upon the appellate Court, in such circumstances, to re-appreciate the evidence to arrive to a just decision on the basis of material placed on record to find out whether any of the accused is connected with the commission of the crime he is charged with."

16. Similar principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in cases of "STATE OF UTTAR PRADESH VS. RAM VEER SINGH & ORS.", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5553 and in "GIRJA PRASAD (DEAD) BY L.R.s VS. STATE OF MP", 2007 A.I.R. S.C.W. 5589. Thus, the powers, which this Court may exercise against an order of acquittal, are well settled.

17. In the case of "LUNA RAM VS. BHUPAT SINGH AND ORS.", reported in (2009) SCC 749, the Apex Court in para 10 and 11 has held as under:

"10. The High Court has noted that the prosecution version was not clearly believable. Some of the so called eye witnesses stated that the deceased died because his ankle was twisted by an accused. Others said that he was strangulated. It was the case of the prosecution that the injured witnesses were thrown out of the bus. The doctor who conducted the postmortem and examined the witnesses had categorically stated that it was not possible that somebody would throw a person out of the bus when it was in running condition.

11. Considering the parameters of appeal against the judgment of acquittal, we are not inclined to interfere in this appeal. The view of the High Court cannot be termed to be perverse and is a possible view on the evidence."

18. It was also held by the Apex Court in the case of "MOOKKIAH AND ANR. VS. STATE, REP. BY THE INSPECTOR OF POLICE, TAMIL NADU", reported in AIR 2013 SC 321, the Apex Court in para 4 has held as under:

"4. It is not in dispute that the trial Court, on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence led in by the prosecution and defence, acquitted the accused in respect of the charges leveled against them. On appeal by the State, the High Court, by impugned order, reversed the said decision and convicted the accused under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC and awarded RI for life. Since counsel for the appellants very much emphasized that the High Court has exceeded its jurisdiction in upsetting the order of acquittal into conviction, let us analyze the scope and power of the High Court in an appeal filed against the order of acquittal. This Court in a series of decisions has repeatedly laid down that as the first appellate court the High Court, even while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, was also entitled, and obliged as well, to scan through and if need be reappreciate the entire evidence, though while hoosing to interfere only the court should find an absolute assurance of the guilt on the basis of the evidence on record and not merely because the High Court could take one more possible or a different view only. Except the above, where the matter of the extent and depth of consideration of the appeal is concerned, no distinctions or differences in approach are envisaged in dealing with an appeal as such merely because one was against conviction or the other against an acquittal. [Vide State of Rajasthan vs. Sohan Lal and Others, (2004) 5 SCC 573]"

19. It is also a settled legal position that in acquittal appeals, the appellate Court is not required to rewrite the judgment or to give fresh reasonings, when the reasons assigned by the Court below are found to be just and proper. Such principle is laid down by the Apex Court in the case of "STATE OF KARNATAKA VS. HEMAREDDY", AIR 1981, SC 1417, wherein it is held as under:

"...This Court has observed in Girija Nandini Devi V. Bigendra Nandini Choudhary (1967) 1 SCR 93:(AIR 1967 SC 1124) that it is not the duty of the Appellate Court on the evidence to repeat the narration of the evidence or to reiterate the reasons given by the trial Court expression of general agreement with the reasons given by the Court the decision of which is under appeal, will ordinarily suffice."

20. The Hon'ble Apex Court in "SHIVASHARANAPPA & ORS. VS. STATE OF KARNATAKA", JT 2013 (7) SC 66 has held as under:

"That appellate Court is empowered to reappreciate the entire evidence, though, certain other principles are also to be adhered to and it has to be kept in mind that acquittal results into double presumption of innocence."

21. Further, in the case of "STATE OF PUNJAB VS. MADAN MOHAN LAL VERMA", (2013) 14 SCC 153, the Apex Court has held as under:

"The law on the issue is well settled that demand of illegal gratification is sine qua non for constituting an offence under the 1988 Act. Mere recovery of tainted money is not sufficient to convict the accused when substantive evidence in the case is not reliable, unless there is evidence to prove payment of bribe or to show that the money was taken voluntarily as a bribe. Mere receipt of the amount by the accused is not sufficient to fasten guilt, in the absence of any evidence with regard to demand and acceptance of the amount as illegal gratification. Hence, the burden rests on the accused to displace the statutory presumption raised under Section 20 of the 1988 Act, by bringing on record evidence, either direct or circumstantial, to establish with reasonable probability, that the money was accepted by him, other than as a motive or reward as referred to in Section 7 of the 1988 Act. While invoking the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, the court is required to consider the explanation offered by the accused, if any, only on the touchstone of preponderance of probability and not on the touchstone of proof beyond all reasonable doubt. However, before the accused is called upon to explain how the amount in question was found in his possession, the foundational facts must be established by the prosecution. The complainant is an interested and partisan witness concerned with the success of the trap and his evidence must be tested in the same way as that of any other interested witness. In a proper case, the court may look for independent corroboration before convincing the accused person."

22. The Apex Court recently in Jayaswamy vs. State of Karnataka, (2018) 7 SCC 219, has laid down the principles for laying down the powers of appellate court in re-appreciating the evidence in a case where the State has preferred an appeal against acquittal, which read as follows:

"10.It is by now well settled that the Appellate Court hearing the appeal filed against the judgment and order of acquittal will not overrule or otherwise disturb the Trial Court's acquittal if the Appellate Court does not find substantial and compelling reasons for doing so. If the Trial Court's conclusion with regard to the facts is palpably wrong; if the Trial Court's decision was based on erroneous view of law; if the Trial Court's judgment is likely to result in grave miscarriage of justice; if the entire approach of the Trial Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal; if the Trial Court judgment was manifestly unjust and unreasonable; and if the Trial Court has ignored the evidence or misread the material evidence or has ignored material documents like dying declaration/report of the ballistic expert etc. the same may be construed as substantial and compelling reasons and the first appellate court may interfere in the order of acquittl. However, if the view taken by the Trial Court while acquitting the accused is one of the possible views under the facts and circumstances of the case, the Appellate Court generally will not interfere with the order of acquittal particularly in the absence of the aforementioned factors.

.....It is relevant to note the observations of this Court in the case of Ramanand Yadav vs. Prabhu Nath Jha & Ors., (2003) 12 SCC 606, which reads thus:

"21.There is no embargo on the appellate court reviewing the evidence upon which an order of acquittal is based. Generally, the order of acquittal shall not be interfered with because the presumption of innocence of the accused is further strengthened by acquittal. The golden thread which runs through the web of administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. The paramount consideration of the court is to ensure that miscarriage of justice is prevented. A miscarriage of justice which may arise from acquittal of the guilty is no less than from the conviction of an innocent. In a case where admissible evidence is ignored, a duty is cast upon the appellate court to re-appreciate the evidence in a case where the accused has been acquitted, for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether any of the accused committed any offence or not."

23. The Apex Court recently in Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SC 750, has held that the appellate court is reversing the trial court's order of acquittal, it should give proper weight and consideration to the presumption of innocence in favour of accused, and to the principle that such a presumption sands reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court and in Samsul Haque v. State of Assam, (2019) 18 SCC 161 held that judgment of acquittal, where two views are possible, should not be set aside, even if view formed by appellate court may be a more probable one, interference with acquittal can only be justified when it is based on a perverse view.

24. However, in our view it is desirable to have a glance upon the oral evidence adduced by the prosecution before appreciating the submissions of both the sides.

25. P.W.1 Gurudayal Prasad, who is the father of the deceased has proved the factum of marriage between the deceased and the accused Akhilesh Kumar Kulshreshtha, and also narrated that the in-laws/ accused persons were not satisfied with the dowry given by him and his daughter was subjected to cruelty for demand of dowry. He has also proved some letters written by accused persons and the deceased herself and also list of demand given by in-laws of his daughter at the time of gauna. He has further stated that when he was informed about death of his daughter, he went to the house of accused persons along with his wife. Her in-laws never informed about any sickness of his daughter and even his nephew Girish Chand Kulshreshtha, who met the deceased at her house found her in a healthy condition. His wife started weeping looking at the dead body of her daughter and said that the death has not natural and she has been murdered. The in-laws of the deceased killed his daughter for demand of dowry and did not even perform the autopsy of her dead body. Written report has been proved as Ex.Ka-7 by P.W.1 and he has also explained that due to treatment and care of his wife he could not move to the police station on the same day.

26. P.W.2- Girish Chand Kulshreshtha, who is the nephew of the informant has stated that on 13.11.1982 in the evening he had gone to meet Beena at her matrimonial house on the occasion of Dipawali. The accused persons met there and on his request the deceased was also called, who was looking mentally upset but not sick. Her mother-in-law told that she will never visit to her parental house, now.

27. P.W.3-Rakesh Kulshreshtha, the real brother of the deceased, has stated that his sister had complained to him regarding demand of scooter and fridge made by her in-laws. He had gone to the place of the accused persons on 27.10.1982 and 11.11.1982 and on the later occasion the mother-in-law of his sister scolded him and also complained of not giving anything on the occasion of Karwachauth. When he met Beena there she told him not to come over there and also said that if they chose to kill her, they will do so in one day. He found Beena in a sound state of health at that time.

28. P.W.4-Head Moharir Bhagwan Das has proved the Chik FIR and G.D. Of the case as Ex.Ka-8 and Ex.Ka-9 respectively prepared on the basis of the written report of the informant.

29. P.W.5-Shiv Bahadur Singh the second I.O. of the case has proved the functioning of the investigation conducted by him and also by the first I.O. Ram Shankar Sharma and has also proved site plan Ex.Ka-10 prepared by the first I.O. Ram Shankar Sharma.

30. P.W.6-retired Deputy S.P. Raj Pal Singh Rana has been the last I.O. Of the case, who has also proved the remaining formalities of the investigation and the charge sheet as Ex.Ka-11.

31. After the closing of the prosecution evidence the statement of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and all the incriminating circumstances and evidences were put to them. They denied the alleged occurrence and also denied the genuineness of so called letters proved in the evidence and they expressly stated that the deceased died in the presence of the informant and his wife and at that time she was sick and due to illness was unable to move even. They have also stated that the whole story is false and fabricated only to grab money from the accused persons.

32. D.W.1 Amar Nath Lavania, D.W.2 M.L. Bansal have also been examined in defence.

33. The accused persons have also relied upon the documentary evidence, letter written by the informant Ex.Kha-1, letter by the accused Krishna Kumar Ex.Kha-2, medical prescription Ex.Kha-3 and Ex.Kha-4.

34. Heard learned counsels for the parties and perused the record.

35. Submissions of the learned A.G.A. takes us through the deposition of the witnesses of fact i.e. P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3. The statement made by P.W.1 reveals that on the fateful day the informant along with his wife had visited the house of the accused persons where he met her daughter who appeared in the state of sickness, however, not serious. He has admitted this fact that at that time accused Sudhir Kumar Kulshreshtha had told him that she was suffering from lose motion and fever and treatment of some Hakeem was going on. It is pertinent to mention here that in the written report the informant did not mention this fact that on the fateful day that is to say on 15.11.1982 the informant had visited the house of the accused persons before the death of her daughter. This fact was admitted by him in his cross-examination. Learned counsel for the respondents has impressed upon this statement where also finds that the informant is trying to hide the correct facts of the case deliberately. A genuine question arises that when on the fateful day the informant himself found her daughter in a state of unsound health why this fact was not disclosed by him in the written report prepared by him. Thus it makes us to opine that the prosecution is trying to hide the genesis of the incident. In Pankaj Vs. State of Rajasthan (2016) 16 Supreme Court Cases 192, it has been held that "it is a well settled principle of law that when the genesis and the manner of incident is doubtful, the accused cannot be convicted." No doubt this principle of law applies to this case.

36. P.W.2 has also given contradictory statement in respect of the physical health of the deceased in the light of his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

37. P.W.3 had visited the matrimonial house of the deceased four days before the occurrence and he had found her fit and healthy. He has also stated that it appeared that the accused persons wanted to kill her and this fact was narrated by him to his father. It is pertinent to mention here that in the deposition of P.W.1 nothing is found to this effect that he was informed by his son that the accused persons wanted to kill the deceased. It is also a material contradiction which falsify the oral evidence adduced by the prosecution.

38. The trial Court has pointed out the material contradictions found in the depositions of the prosecution witness of fact.

39. In Neel Kumar @ Anil Kumar Vs. State of Haryana (2012) 5 SCC 766 (at page 774), the Apex Court held "It is the duty of the accused to explain the incriminating circumstance proved against him while making a statement under Section 313 CrPC. Keeping silent and not furnishing any explanation for such circumstance is an additional link in the chain of circumstances to sustain the charges against him. Recovery of incriminating material at his disclosure statement duly proved is a very positive circumstance against him". The argument put forth by the learned counsel for the respondents is that the accused persons in their statement under Section 313 Cr.p.C. not only explained the incriminating circumstances but also adduced oral and documentary evidence to prove the same. It has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the respondents that specific defence has been taken by the accused persons that the death of the deceased was natural and she died due to sickness. They provided medical help to her and she had been under treatment of doctor. They have relied upon the statement of D.W.1 and D.W.2 and also the documentary evidence i.e. medical papers in this regard, which the trial Court has found to be trustworthy and genuine. D.W. 2 Dr. M.L. Bansal has treated the deceased for lose motion and vomiting and advised to consult any senior physician as she was in a state of serious dehydration and the accused persons also called a senior physician. D.W.2 has proved the aforesaid facts. The factum of illness of the deceased has also been proved by D.W.1, who is a tenant in the same house, where the respondents live. In Munshi Prasad and Ors. Vs. State of Bihar (2002) 1 SCC 351, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that "the evidence tendered by the defence witnesses cannot always be termed to be a tainted one by reason of the factum of the witnesses being examined by the defence. The defence witnesses are entitled to equal respect and treatment as that of the prosecution. The issue of credibility and trustworthiness ought also to be attributed to the defence witnesses on a par with that of the prosecution -- a lapse on the part of the defence witnesses cannot be differentiated and be treated differently than that of the prosecutors' witnesses".

40. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that the fact of demand of dowry and cruelty and harassment towards the deceased by the accused persons is proved by the documentary evidence adduced by the prosecution and in this respect some letters have also been filed along with the list which are marked as Ex. Ka-1 to Ex.Ka-6.

41. The trial Court after appreciating the oral and documentary evidence on record has not found the aforesaid documents filed by the prosecution as reliable and genuine and in view of the trial Court the weight given to the oral and documentary evidence of the prosecution was not sufficient to prove the guilt of the accused in this case.

42. Reliance has been placed on Rishikesh Singh Vs. State of U.P. AIR 1970 ALLD 51 (Full Bench), a leading case on the subject, by the learned counsel for the respondents wherein it has been held that "If upon the evidence adduced in the case whether by the prosecution or by the accused a reasonable doubt is created in the mind of the Court as regards one or more of the ingredients of the offence including mens rea of the accused he would be entitled to be acquitted."

43. In V.D.Jhangan vs State Of Uttar Pradesh AIR 1966 SC 1762, it was observed like this. "It is sufficient if the accused person succeeds in proving a preponderance of probability in favour of his case. It is not necessary for the accused person to prove his case beyond a reasonable doubt or in default to incur a verdict of guilty. The onus of proof lying upon the accused person is to prove his case by a preponderance of probability."

44. Learned counsel for the respondents has vehemently argued that the burden/ onus in this case is not upon the accused persons/ respondents but whatsoever has been stated by them in their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., oral and documentary evidence to support that version has been produced by them which has been supposed to be cogent and reliable by the trial Court, thus there is a preponderance of probability in favour of the innocence of the accused persons/ respondents.

45. Learned counsel for the respondents takes us to the factum of the genuineness of the FIR. It has been argued that the FIR is a result of consultation and after thought. According to the version of the FIR, on 15.11.1982 when the informant visited the place of the accused persons, he was shocked to see the dead body of his daughter and his wife fell down and became unconscious. She got her home and as he remained busy in the treatment and care of his wife, he could not inform the police about the incident. The learned counsel for the respondents has vehemently argued that P.W.3 is the real son of the informant. The suspicious death of the daughter of the informant was a very serious matter for him but surprisingly he even did not sent his son P.W.3 Rakesh Kulshreshtha to inform the police about the suspicious death of the deceased.

46. In the facts and circumstances of the case, we find force in the contention of the learned counsel for the respondents and it appears that there was a deliberate delay in lodging of the FIR which seems to be result of due consultation and after thought.

47. We find ourselves in agreement with what has been submitted by the learned counsel for the respondents.

48. On the basis of the aforesaid discussion and relying upon the case laws cited above, we find that the learned trial Judge has committed no error in passing an acquittal order in favour of the accused persons/ respondents. As a matter of fact, no person has seen the occurrence and on the basis of the analysis of oral and documentary evidence on record, we find that no incriminating circumstances to connect the respondents with the alleged offence is proved. Hence, we concur with the finding given by the learned trial Court. Hence, the non-conviction of the respondents under Section 302/34 and 201 I.P.C. is upheld.

49. Hence, in view of the matter & on the contours of the judgment of the Apex Court, we concur with the learned trial Judge. The appeal sans merits and is dismissed. The record and proceedings be sent back to the Court below. The bail and bail bonds are cancelled.

50. We are thankful to learned A.G.A. and the learned counsel for the respondents for ably assisting the Court.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE GAJENDRA KUMAR, J.

Government Appeal No. 2574 of 1985

State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Ganga Vishun & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A.

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Pavan Kumar Kushwaha

A. Criminal Law – Challenge to acquittal – It is settled legal position that injuries on the injured person is a guarantee of his being present on the place of occurrence but is not guarantee of their truthfulness – In the facts and circumstances of the case, it is not safe to convict the accused person on the basis of evidence produced by the prosecution. The prosecution has utterly failed to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts and, therefore, has acquitted all the accused-persons. (Para 18, 19)

B. Scope of interference – It has been held by the Apex Court that if two views of the evidence are reasonably possible, one supporting the acquittal and other indicating conviction, the High Court should not, in such a situation, reverse the order of acquittal recorded by the Trial Court. (Para 20, 21)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. St. of Karn. Vs Gopalkrishna, (2005) 9 SCC 291 (Para 20)

2. Dilawar Singh Vs St. of Har., (2015) 1 SCC 737 (Para 21)

Present Government Appeal assails judgment and order dated 07.06.1985, passed by Upper Munsif Magistrate VII, District Bareilly, U/S 323/324/34 IPC.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Gajendra Kumar, J.)

1. The State of U.P. has preferred this appeal under Section 378 Cr.P.C. assailing the correctness of the judgment and order dated 07.06.1985 passed by the learned Civil Judge, Sr. Division-VIIth, District-Bareilly in Criminal Case No.193 of 1985 (State Vs. Ganga Vishun and others) whereby, the learned court below has acquitted all the four accused-persons (respondents) of the charges under Sections 323/324/34 of Indian Penal Code.

2. The Appeal against respondent no.1 (Ganga Vishun) and respondent no.2 (Nathoo Lal) stands abated as they reported to have died, which is evident from the death certificate, filed by opposite party no.3, a copy of the same has been annexed as Annexure-SA-1 to the supplementary affidavit. Appeal against respondent no.3 (Hori Lal) has already been abated by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 01.02.2016, therefore, the same will proceed against respondent no.4-Siya Ram only.

3. The prosecution story in brief is that, on the basis of written report dated 25.04.1981 (Ex.Ka-1), a chick FIR was registered at 22:10 p.m. against the respondents under Sections 324/323//504/506 IPC (Ex.Ka-6). In the said report, it is alleged by the informant-Roshal Lal s/o Jhunnu Lal (P.W.-1) that on the fateful day of 25.04.1981 at about 06:00 p.m., accused-persons were winnowing the wheat in the field of the informant, and when informant-Roshan Lal (P.W.-1) along with his brother Ram Kumar (P.W.-2) objected to do the same to the respondents, they denied and said in a very rudely manner that they will take it from this field itself, and after a few minutes, informant/complainant saw that accused-persons, namely, Ganga Vishu, Nathoo Lal and Siya Ram armed with "Ganta' and Hori Lal armed with "lathi-danda' committed maar-peet with the informant and his brother, as a result, they received serious injuries.

4. While framing charge, the trial judge framed charges against the accused-persons under Sections 323/324/34 IPC.

5. So as to hold accused persons guilty, prosecution has examined as many as four witnesses. Statements of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which they pleaded their innocence and false implication.

6. By the impugned judgment, the trial judge has acquitted the respondents of all the charges. Hence, the present appeal by the State, assailing the acquittal of the accused-persons.

7. Learned AGA for the State-appellant submits that the trial judge has erred in law in acquitting all the accused-persons (respondents). He submits that once, the informants (injured) have made allegations against the respondents, the court was obliged to convict the accused.

8. On the other hand, Sri Pavan Kumar Kushwaha, learned counsel for the surviving respondent no.4, submits that he was never involved in committing the aforesaid offence and false allegation has been levelled against him. As such, there is no illegality or perversity in the order, passed by the learned court below, hence no interference is called for by this Court.

9. I have heard learned AGA for the State-appellant, Sri Pavan Kumar Kushwaha, learned counsel appearing for the surviving accused-respondent no.4 and perused the material available on record.

10. As per the statement of Roshan Lal (P.W.-1), who has specifically stated in his written report dated 25.04..1981 (Ex.Ka-1) that Hori Lal was armed with lathi-danda and other accused-persons were armed with Ganta, but in his cross-examination, Roshan Lal (P.W.-1) has stated that Hori Lal was armed with Ganta and other accused-persons were armed with lathi-danda and committed maar-peet with the informants-injured, which creates doubt in the prosecution story.

11. Ram Kumar (P.W.-2), in his examination-in-chief, has also supported the prosecution story and as per his statement, the accused-persons committed maar-peet with the informants-injured till five minutes, if his statement is accepted to some extent, then informants-injured are sure to get serious injuries, but as per medical report, all the injuries are simple in nature, which also creates doubts in the story of the prosecution.

12. Narayan Lal (P.W.3), in his statement, has stated that Tractor and Thressor were standing on the "Med'(मेड़), at that point of time, and because of the wind, straw (Bhusa) was going in the field of the informants-injured so it could not be said that the motive of the accused-persons were bad, because the direction of the wind could not be reversed as it moved according to the natural order.

13. In his statement, Jev Lal Gangwar (P.W.-4) has stated that, on the written report (Tahrir) (Ex.Ka-1), given by the informant-Roshan Lal, (P.W.-1), thumb impression taken by the ink-pad, which also creates doubt in the story of the prosecution version as there is no evidence available on record so as to prove that at that point of time ink-pad was present there.

14. Injury reports of accused persons namely, Roshal Lal and Ram Kumar reads as follows:-

Roshan Lal

1. Incise wound 8 c.m. x 3 c.m. x muscle deep in the middle of the wrist of the right hand.

2. Incise wound 8 c.m. x 1 c.m. x muscle on the elbow

Impression:- All the injuries are simple in nature and caused by sharp weapon.

Ram Kumar

1. Incise wound 2 c.m. x 0.3 c.m. x muscle deep behind the right elbow..

2. Abrasion contusion 7 c.m. x 2 c.m. below the left elbow.

Impression:- All the injuries are simple in nature and injury no.1 caused by sharp weapon.

15. Learned counsel for the State-appellant submits that as per injury reports, injured persons have received injuries by sharp weapon and this fact has also not been taken into consideration by the court below. Injuries on the persons of the injured/eye-witness guaranteed that story narrated by the witnesses is true and there is no material on record which can falsify the evidence.

16. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent submits that as per injury reports, injured persons have received injuries by sharp weapon which also creates doubt in the story of the prosecution as the aforesaid injuries are simple in nature and not on vital parts of the body. He further submits that from perusal of the injury reports, it is apparent that injury reports have not been proved by the doctor and their genuineness has been admitted and formal proof has been dispensed with by the accused persons which means that they have been admitted by the accused persons as they are, but so far as their contents are concerned they are required to be proved by the prosecution but the same has not been done by the prosecution.

17. From perusal of the record, it is evident that there is no denial of the fact that the defence admitted the genuineness of injury reports and formal proof thereof was dispensed with so the genuineness and authenticity of the documents i.e. injury reports stand proved and shall be read as valid evidence under Section 294 Cr.P.C. It is settled preposition of law that genuineness of any documents filed by the parties if not disputed by the opposite party. It can be read as a substantial evidence.

18. In the above facts and circumstances of the case, the manner and mode in which the injuries were received by the injured persons has to be proved by the prosecution which has not been properly proved. In the facts and circumstances of this case, it can also not be improbablized that the injured persons received injury on their hands with gusts of wind while removing the winnowing machine. It is settled legal position that injuries on the injured person is a guarantee of his being present on the place of occurrence but is not guarantee of their truthfullness. In view of the above and in the facts and circumstances of the case, it is not safe to convict the accused person on the basis of evidence produced by the prosecution.

19. Considering all the aspects of the case, the trial court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has utterly failed to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts and, therefore, has acquitted all the accused-persons. The view taken by the trial court is one of the possible view.

20. While considering the scope of interference in an appeal or revision against acquittal, it has been held by the Apex Court that if two views of the evidence are reasonably possible, one supporting the acquittal and other indicating conviction, the High Court should not, in such a situation, reverse the order of acquittal recorded by the trial court. In the case of State of Karnataka Vs. Gopalkrishna as reported in (2005) 9 SCC 291, the Hon'ble Apex Court, while dealing with an appeal against acquittal, observed as under:-

"In such an appeal the Appellate Court does not lightly disturb the findings of fact recorded by the Court below. If on the basis of the same evidence, two views are reasonably possible, and the view favouring the accused is accepted by the Court below, that is sufficient for upholding the order of acquittal. However, if the Appellate Court comes to the conclusion that the findings of the Court below are wholly unreasonable or perverse and not based on the evidence on record, or suffers from serious illegality including ignorance or misreading of evidence on record, the Appellate Court will be justified in setting aside such an order of acquittal."

16. In Sudershan Kumar v. State of Himachal reported in (2014) 15 SCC 666 the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed thus;-

"31.It has been stated and restated that a cardinal principle in criminal jurisprudence that presumption of innocence of the accused is reinforced by an order of the acquittal. The appellate court, in such a case, would interfere only for very substantial and compelling reason. There is plethora of case laws on this proposition and we need not burden this judgment by referring to those decisions. Our purpose would be served by referring to one reasoned pronouncement entitled Dhanapal v. State which is the judgment where most of the earlier decisions laying down the aforesaid principle are referred to. In para 37, propositions laid down in an earlier case are taken note of as under: -

"37. In Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka*, this Court held:* (SCC p. 432 para 42), (1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

32. Thereafter, in para 39, the Court curled out five principles and we would like to reproduce the said para hereunder:

"39. The following principles emerge from the cases above:

1. The accused is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty. The accused possessed this presumption when he was before the trial court. The trial court's acquittal bolsters the presumption that he is innocent.

2. The power of reviewing evidence is wide and the appellate court can re-appreciate the entire evidence on record. It can review the trial court's conclusion with respect to both facts and law, but the Appellate Court must give due weight and consideration to the decision of the trial court.

3. The appellate court should always keep in mind that the trial court had the distinct advantage of watching the demeanour of the witnesses. The trial court is in a better position to evaluate the credibility of the witnesses.

4. The appellate court may only overrule or otherwise disturb the trial court's acquittal if it has "very substantial and compelling reasons" for doing so.

5. If two reasonable or possible views can be reached - one that leads to acquittal, the other to conviction - the High Courts/appellate courts must rule in favour of the accused."

21. In Dilawar Singh v. State of Haryana, (2015) 1 SCC 737, the Supreme Court reiterated the same in paragraphs 36 and 37 as under :

"36. The court of appeal would not ordinarily interfere with the order of acquittal unless the approach is vitiated by manifest illegality. In an appeal against acquittal, this Court will not interfere with an order of acquittal merely because on the evaluation of the evidence, a different plausible view may arise and views taken by the courts below is not correct. In other words, this Court must come to the conclusion that the views taken by the learned courts below, while acquitting, cannot be the views of a reasonable person on the material on record.

37. In Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, the scope of power of appellate court dealing with an appeal against acquittal has been considered and this Court held as under: (SCC p.432 para 42) "42....(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

Unless there are substantial and compelling reasons, the order of acquittal is not required to be reversed in appeal. It has been so stated in State of Rajasthan v. Shera Ram."

22. Considering the above legal position and the factual aspects of the case, I am of the view that the trial Judge was justified in acquitting the accused-respondent.

23. The Appeal is, accordingly, dismissed.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Second Appeal No. 417 of 2022

Chabila ...Appellant
Versus
Ramawater ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Mridul Kumar

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Jitendra Kumar Ravat

A. Civil Law – Suit for Specific Performance - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order XLI Rule 11; Specific Relief Act, 1963 - Sections 16, 18, 20, 21 & 20(2)(b) r/w Explanation II of the Act - A plea of non-est factum is different from fraud. In case of a plea of fraud, the case has to be established beyond reasonable doubt. Here, a plea of fraud was raised and an issue about it was framed at the defendant's instance. So far as a rustic villager is concerned, the burden of proof, in case of either plea of fraud or non-est factum, be reversed, but that has not been done in this case. There is no pleading to the effect that the defendant is an illiterate and rustic villager, unacquainted with the ways of the world. This submission appears to have been inspired by the stand taken during arguments before the Trial Court, which the Trial Court has rightly rejected in the absence of requisite pleadings. (Para 13)

B. The suit agreement is a registered document, wherein, there is a presumption of correctness about the Registrar's endorsement. The presumption is rebuttable, but there is no evidence led to offset the strong presumption that attaches. The said finding has been affirmed by the Lower Appellate Court also. (Para 15)

C. Defendant's case of hardship - Mere fact that the defendant has made a bad bargain is no ground to refuse specific performance. It has been noticed that the defendant has a total of 30 bighas of agricultural land located in more than one village. It has been remarked that it is not the defendant's case that in the event specific performance being granted, he would become landless, or that his livelihood would be effaced. It has been opined that if a decree of specific performance is passed, the defendant would not face that kind of hardship as envisaged under Section 20(2)(b), read with Explanation II of the Act of 1963. It must be remarked that this position of the law is about the way it stood before its amendment vide The Specific Relief (Amendment) Act, 20183. (Para 16)

D. Though the plaintiff has to prove and establish a case that discretion ought to be exercised in his favour, but where the defendant does not come with clean hands and suppresses material facts, the discretion should not be exercised against specific performance. The defendant's case has been condemned by the Trial Court as false about his defences of fraud and the defendant being a moneylender, who had lent him money, but misused his papers. It is on all these premises that the learned Trial Judge has exercised discretion also to grant specific performance. The Appellate Court has gone through the evidence and affirmed all these findings. (Para 18)

The plaintiff's case is well established on the foot of a registered document, i.e., the suit agreement, which he has proved to the hilt on the strength of evidence that he had led, both oral and documentary. There is absolutely no flaw in the findings returned by the two Courts below concurrently, worth scrutiny under Section 100 of the Code. There is no substantial question of law involved in this appeal, which is concluded by well considered findings of fact.

Second appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Precedent followed:

1. Om Prakash Vs Pooran Chand & anr., 2012 (1) CAR 79 (All) (Para 17)

2. Zarina Siddiqui Vs A. Ramalingam @ A. Amarnathan, AIR 2015 SC 580 (Para 18)

Second appeal against the judgment and decree dated 07.03.2022 passed by Learned Additional District Court, Jalaun at Orai.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a defendant's second appeal, arising out of a suit for specific performance, which has been decreed by both the Courts below.

2. Heard Mr. Mridul Kumar, learned Counsel for the appellant in support of the motion under Order XLI Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 19081 and Mr. Jitendra Kumar Ravat, learned Counsel, who appears on caveat, on behalf of the plaintiff-respondent.

3. The plaintiff-respondent, Ramawatar, who shall hereinafter be referred to as "the plantiff" instituted Original Suit No. 210 of 2002, Ramawatar

v. Chabila, before the Court of the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Jalaun at Orai claiming specific performance of a registered agreement to sell dated 13.11.1998, executed in the plaintiff's favour by Chabila, the sole defendant-appellant. The defendant-appellant aforesaid shall hereinafter be referred to as "the defendant".

4. It is the plaintiff's case that the defendant is the recorded bhumidhar-in-possession of an agricultural land bearing Khasra No. 194 ad-measuring 1.165 hectares, situate in Mauja Dharguva, Pargana Orai, Jalaun. It was asserted by the plaintiff that the defendant was in need of money and decided to sell-off his land aforesaid to the plaintiff for a total sale consideration of ₹70,000/-. For the purpose, the defendant executed a registered agreement to sell in favour of the plaintiff on 13.11.1998. At the time of execution of the agreement, the plaintiff paid, out of the agreed consideration, a sum of ₹65,000/-. It was agreed between parties that the plaintiff shall pay the remainder of ₹5,000/- within a period of one year and thereupon, the defendant shall execute a registered sale deed in favour of the plaintiff, transferring the land subject matter of the suit agreement. The land aforesaid shall hereinafter be called as "the suit property".

5. It is the plaintiff's case that the suit agreement was executed in the Sub-Registrar's Office and the earnest was also paid there. The plaintiff has always been ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. It is also the plaintiff's case that the defendant is bound under the suit agreement to receive the remainder of the sale consideration i.e. the sum of Rs. ₹5,000/- and execute a sale deed in his favour. It is the plaintiff's further case that he requested the defendant to execute the sale deed in his favour, but the defendant did no more than assure the plaintiff that he would abide by his covenant. In fact, he did not. The plaintiff, accordingly, caused a notice dated 01.03.2022 to be served upon the defendant, asking him to receive the remainder of the consideration and execute the requisite sale deed in his favour. The said notice was never replied by the defendant. The plaintiff then caused a notice to be sent to the defendant's correct address, asking the latter to remain present in the Sub-Registrar's Office on 17.10.2002, for the purpose of executing the covenanted sale deed upon receipt of the balance sale consideration, in terms of the suit agreement. He was present at the Sub-Registrar's Office on 17.10.2002, but the defendant did not turn up. Broadly on this cause of action, the suit was instituted.

6. The defendant put in his written statement, also carrying his counterclaim. He admitted his ownership of the suit property, but denied the plaintiff's case almost about everything else. Most of the defendant's case is carried in the additional pleas, where it is averred that he was ailing and needed a sum of ₹3,10,000/-. The defendant approached one Ram Prakash, an attesting witness of the suit agreement, requesting a loan. Ram Prakash is alleged to have assured the defendant that he would secure him a loan of ₹30,000/-, which would carry interest at the usual bank rate. It is pleaded that the defendant being in need of money, received a sum of ₹30,000/- from Ram Prakash at his home, in the presence of witnesses, on 13.01.1998. Ram Prakash said that the defendant would have to execute some papers to serve as security for the loan. It is averred that Ram Prakash never disclosed what property he would have to encumber as security. He is said to have made the defendant thumb-mark blank stamp papers and also supply his photographs. Ram Prakash was alleged by the defendant to have assured the latter that he would take care of the paperwork. The defendant was assured that as soon as he repays the loan, the document would be returned to him. The defendant has averred that he did not know the plaintiff when the suit agreement was executed. The defendant repaid a sum of Rs. 30,000/- to Ram Prakash and asked him to give back the document, to which Ram Prakash is claimed to have responded, telling the defendant that the document was missing somewhere, and as soon as the same was found, it would be returned to the defendant. The defendant claims that he demanded of Ram Prakash to return the document, but Ram Prakash assured that he would not ask the defendant to repay the loan that he had already received. The defendant came to know later on that the plaintiff had brought a suit for specific performance on the basis of the suit agreement and secured an ex-parte decree behind his back. The defendant moved to set aside the ex-parte decree, which was allowed. It is the defendant's case that on a perusal of records, he came to know that Ram Prakash had, in fact, caused an agreement to sell to be scribed on those blank stamp papers. It is also the defendant's case the plaintiff is a moneylender and Ram Prakash would, on his behalf, disburse loans to persons in need. The plaintiff and the defendant never entered into any bargain relating to sale of the suit property that embodies the suit agreement. The defendant never received any notice from the plaintiff. It is the defendant's case that the suit property is very valuable and the defendant was never in need to sell his land. The suit property, at the relevant time, had a market value of at least ₹10 lacs. The defendant is dependent on the suit property for his livelihood. There is no question of selling the said property. If the defendant is made to part with the suit property, he would suffer great hardship. The defendant denied execution of the suit agreement and pleaded that it was the product of a fraud played upon him. In the counterclaim, it was prayed that a decree of declaration be passed, adjudging the suit agreement void. The defendant demanded that the suit be dismissed with special costs.

7. A replication was put in on behalf of the plaintiff, traversing the counterclaim and reiterating the plaint case.

8. On pleadings of parties, the following issues were framed :

1. Whether the defendant executed an agreement to sell in favour of the plaintiff on 13.11.1998 for Rs. 70,000/-? If yes, its effect?

2. Whether the agreement to sell dated 13.11.1998 was got executed by the plaintiff for the purpose of securing the loan? If yes, its effect?

3. Whether the disputed agreement is based on fraud?

4. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is barred by Sections 16, 18, 20 and 21 of the Specific Relief Act?

5. Whether the defendant is entitled through the counterclaim in paragraph 21 of written statement to get the disputed document declared void and illegal?

6. Whether the counterclaim of the defendant is time barred?

7. Whether insufficient court fee has been paid on the counterclaim?

8. To what relief, if any, is the plaintiff entitled?

9. The learned Trial Judge has set out a summary of the documentary evidence as well as the description of witnesses examined by both sides in support of their respective cases, and the same need not be listed here again. Of course, reference would be made to so much of the evidence as is necessary to dispose of this motion.

10. The Trial Court found on Issue No. 6 against the defendant, holding the counterclaim to be time-barred. Issues Nos. 5 and 7 followed the result of the answer to Issue No. 6, and were answered against the defendant. Issues Nos. 2 and 3 were taken up together and answered against the defendant. Issue No. 1 has been answered for the plaintiff. Issue No. 4 has been answered against the defendant. Issue No. 8, that relates to the exercise of discretion to grant specific performance of contract under Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act, 19632 has been answered in favour of the plaintiff. The suit has been decreed for the relief of specific performance, though with a direction for the costs to go easy.

11. Upon the defendant's appeal to the learned District Judge, the Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Jalaun at Orai, has reviewed the entire evidence issue-wise, and affirmed the Trial Court, reiterating the Trial Court's decree in speaking terms. The Lower Appellate Court too, directed costs to go easy.

12. Aggrieved, the defendant has instituted the present appeal.

13. Mr. Mridul Kumar,, learned Counsel for the appellant, has argued before this Court that his client is a rustic villager and burden of proof ought to have been reversed, requiring the plaintiff to affirmatively prove that the defendant executed the suit agreement after understanding its contents. This Court must immediately clarify that a plea of non-est factum is different from fraud. Here, a plea of fraud was raised and an issue about it was framed at the defendant's instance. So far as a rustic villager is concerned, the burden of proof, in case of either plea of fraud or non-est factum, be reversed, but that has not been done in this case. The submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant that the burden of proof should have been reversed in this case, does not appear to be tenable, because for one, it is not in every case of an illiterate man - even a rustic, that the burden of proof has to be reversed, like a pardanasheen woman or a certain class of women, unacquainted with the ways of the world. In the case of a man, it has to be demonstrated that apart from being illiterate and rustic, he is absolutely unacquainted with worldly affairs. The said question does not remotely arise in this case, irrespective of the fact that fraud is pleaded or non-est factum, because there is no pleading to the effect that the defendant is an illiterate and rustic villager, unacquainted with the ways of the world. This submission appears to have been inspired by the stand taken during arguments before the Trial Court, which the Trial Court has rightly rejected in the absence of requisite pleadings.

14. On the other hand, the Trial Court has dealt with the issue of fraud with a remarkably fine understanding of the law and with an equally remarkable marshalling of evidence. The evidence has rightly been appreciated in its finest detail. The Trial Court has held that in case of a plea of fraud, the case has to be established beyond reasonable doubt. He has referred to binding authority on the point. In appreciating the evidence, the learned Trial Judge has referred to the testimony of D.W.-2, about whom it has been very carefully remarked that he is a brother of one of the attesting witnesses, Shiv Narayan. This witness's testimony has been appreciated to remark that whereas according to his pleading in the written statement, the defendant was made to sign blank stamp papers, the witness under reference has said in his cross-examination that the papers which the defendant signed in his presence were plain and not stamp papers. It has also been noticed that the witness D.W.-2 has said that Ramawatar (the plaintiff) had not given any loan to Chabila (the defendant). This witness has gone on to say that Ramawatar is into the business of money lending. It is further stated that he has just heard about this fact. From these facts, the Trial Court has remarked that it shows that this witness's testimony about Ramawatar being into the business of money lending is hearsay and negatived the case on its basis. The evidence of D.W.-3 has also been noticed with the remark that he has not supported the case of the defendant at all in the cross-examination and turned hostile. The Trial Court has remarked that heavy burden lay upon the defendant to prove the plea of fraud and two of his witnesses have not at all supported that case. The finding of the Trial Court on Issues Nos. 2 and 3 is absolutely flawless. The Appellate Court has rightly affirmed the findings.

15. So far as Issue No. 1 goes, the Trial Court has held that the suit agreement is a registered document, wherein, there is a presumption of correctness about the Registrar's endorsement. The presumption is rebuttable, but there is no evidence led to offset the strong presumption that attaches. The said finding has been affirmed by the Lower Appellate Court also. In deciding Issue No. 3, the Trial Court has again held that there is a plea that the suit is barred by Sections 16, 18, 20 and 21 of the Act of 1963, but there is no pleading elucidating how the suit is barred under the said provisions.

16. The Trial Court has dealt with the defendant's case of hardship, thoroughly examining the evidence on record. It has been noticed that the defendant has a total of 30 bighas of agricultural land located in more than one village. It has been remarked that it is not the defendant's case that in the event specific performance being granted, he would become landless, or that his livelihood would be effaced. It has been opined that if a decree of specific performance is passed, the defendant would not face that kind of hardship as envisaged under Section 20(2)(b), read with Explanation II of the Act of 1963. It must be remarked that this position of the law is about the way it stood before its amendment vide The Specific Relief (Amendment) Act, 20183. The Trial Court Court has also opined that though according to prevalent circle rate, the price of the suit property for the purposes of stamp duty, would be a sum of ₹1.68 lacs, the sum of ₹70,000/- for which the bargain has been struck is apparently the result of circumstances that made the defendant choose to enter into that bargain. It is opined by the Trial Court that the mere fact that the defendant has made a bad bargain is no ground to refuse specific performance. This finding too has been affirmed by the Lower Appellate Court. In our opinion, there is no perversity about this finding or any illegality besetting it.

17. In deciding Issue No. 8, the Trial Court has gone into every possible detail of relevant evidence that ought to enter consideration before exercising discretion to grant specific performance. He has also considered the issue of directing a higher price to be paid in terms of the decisions of this Court in Om Prakash v. Pooran Chand and another. It has been opined that the bargain in this case has been settled, because the defendant was in need of money and he decided to do it at a lesser price.

18. There is another reason why the Trial Court has chosen to exercise discretion in favour of the plaintiff, and that is because the defendant apparently came up with a false case of fraud and the transaction being a loan, which he could not prove. In doing that, the Trial Court has relied on the principle laid down by the Supreme Court in Zarina Siddiqui v. A. Ramalingam alias A. Amarnathan, where it has been held that though the plaintiff has to prove and establish a case that discretion ought to be exercised in his favour, but where the defendant does not come with clean hands and suppresses material facts, the discretion should not be exercised against specific performance. The defendant's case has been condemned by the Trial Court as false about his defences of fraud and the defendant being a moneylender, who had lent him money, but misused his papers. It is on all these premises that the learned Trial Judge has exercised discretion also to grant specific performance. The Appellate Court has gone through the evidence and affirmed all these findings.

19. On a wholesome consideration of the matter, this Court must remark that there is not the slightest reason in the present case to interfere with the concurrent opinion of the two Courts below on any of the issues involved. To add to it is the fact that the case that the defendant pleaded was that he had taken a loan, which he had returned to the plaintiff's agent Ram Prakash and asked him to give back his papers, which the latter said were misplaced and did not return. This story to the face of it pleaded in defence is enough to tilt the balance of probability against the defendant. The reason, to supplement the reasoning of the Courts below, is that if indeed the defendant had taken a loan from the plaintiff through his agent, Ram Prakash, which he repaid to Ram Prakash, he would have certainly asked for a receipt. Once Ram Prakash had made him execute a registered document that the defendant believed to be a document to secure the loan, in the nature of things, repayment of the loan could not have been without a receipt.

20. In addition, it is also ex-facie a preposterous stand because the loan being a sum of ₹30,000/-, it is not possible that the sum would have been refunded without interest. There is nothing said apparently by the defendant about the interest that he repaid to Ram Prakash on the sum of ₹30,000/-. The entire story that the defendant had come up with is laced with falsehood and the Courts below have rightly disbelieved the defendant's case.

21. On the other hand, the plaintiff's case is well established on the foot of a registered document, that is to say, the suit agreement, which he has proved to the hilt on the strength of evidence that he had led, both oral and documentary. There is absolutely no flaw in the findings returned by the two Courts below concurrently, worth scrutiny under Section 100 of the Code. There is no substantial question of law involved in this appeal, which is concluded by well considered findings of fact.

22. Before parting with the matter, this Court must place on record its profound appreciation for the very well-considered and exceptionally well-structured judgement written by the learned Trial Judge Mr. Palash Ganguly. It shows the finest marshalling of facts and evidence and understanding of the law, considering that the Trial Judge is a very junior Judicial Officer.

23. In this result, this appeal is dismissed under Order XLI Rule 11 of the Code.

24. There shall, however, be no order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Matter under Art. 227 (Civil) No. 6339 of 2021

Har Narain Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
Ravi Shanker Nigam ...Respondent

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Manoj Kumar Sharma

Counsel for the Respondent:
Ms. Shalini Goel, Mrs. Rama Goel Bansal

A. Civil Law – Tenancy – Eviction - The Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 (U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972) - Sections 20(2)(a) & 20(2)(c); Transfer of Property Act, 1882 - Section 106.

Requirement of notice – It is well settled that the Rent Control Acts do not completely supersede or supplant the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act governing the relationship of landlord and tenant. Since there is no provision for determination of tenancy in the Rent Control Act, one has necessarily to look to the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act. The phrase 'after the determination of his tenancy' occurring in sub-section (2) of Section 20 refers to the determination of tenancy in accordance with law, i.e. in the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act. This brings in Section 106. (Para 19)

The Revisional Court, therefore, went astray to look for the duration of notice required to terminate the tenancy in the provisions of Section 20(2)(a) of the Act. The said period is to be determined only with reference to the provisions of S. 106 of the T.P. Act. To that extent, the findings of the Revisional Court are wrong. (Para 20)

B. Statutory period of a valid notice - No doubt, the period of time required to determine a lease granted for a manufacturing purpose is six months by notice, but this statutory period is subject to a contract, local law or usage to the contrary. In the facts found here, the tenancy, in the opinion of this Court, was clearly one for month-to-month. It could be determined by a month's notice. The notice to quit, therefore, cannot be questioned on the said ground. (Para 21, 24)

Here, the Court finds that in the notice to quit dated 26.09.2014, there is a clear assertion that the tenant holds the demised premises on a monthly rent of Rs. 150/-. In the rent receipts also, there is consistent mention of rent at a monthly rate. From all these circumstances, it is evident that the lease always was one from month-to-month. It was not a lease from year-to-year that S.106 of the T.P. Act postulates. A contract to the contrary, notwithstanding the lease being for a manufacturing purpose, is clearly discernible. Therefore, the tenancy was validly terminated by a 30 days' notice. (Para 21, 23)

C. Structural Alteration - In section 20(2)(c) the landlord is not required to prove "material alteration" but he has to show a "structural alteration" made, having the effect of disfigurement or diminishing the value or utility of rented building. The word "material alteration" does not find place in section 20(2) (c). (Para 35)

The issue of structural alteration is essentially a question of fact in the first instance and the Trial Court has not written a word worth the name in returning its finding on the issue, this Court is of opinion that for the determination of the said issue, the matter has to go back to the Trial Court. The other issues, that have been decided by this judgment, shall no longer be open to the parties or the Courts of Trial or Revision to examine. (Para 36)

Present petition assails judgment and decree dated 14.01.2021, passed by the Additional District Judge, Jhansi as well as the judgment and decree dated 16.09.2019, passed by the Judge, Small Cause Court, Jhansi.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a tenant's petition under Article 227 of the Constitution, questioning the decree of eviction and recovery of arrears of rent, besides mesne profits, passed concurrently by the two Courts below.

2. S.C.C. Suit No. 3 of 2015 was instituted by Ravi Shanker Nigam, the plaintiff-respondent, seeking eviction of the defendant-petitioner, Har Narain Singh, from the shop detailed at the foot of the plaint, giving rise to the suit, besides a decree for recovery of rent in the sum of Rs.5035/- and damages for use and occupation in the sum of Rs.5050/-, aggregating to a figure of Rs.10085/-. In addition, the plaintiff has sought a decree for pendente lite and future damages for use and occupation at the rate of Rs.50/- per day, besides costs of the suit. The suit has been instituted by the plaintiff-respondent (for short, 'the landlord'), pleading a cause of action that he is the landlord of the demised shop, wherein the defendant-petitioner (for short, 'the tenant') is a tenant at a monthly rent of Rs.150/-. Needless to say that exemption from the provisions of The Uttar Pradesh Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 (U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972) (for short, 'the Act') has not been pleaded and it is common ground between parties that the Act applies. The suit has been instituted on the ground of actionable default under Section 20(2)(a) and structural alteration under Section 20(2)(c) of the Act.

3. It is the landlord's case that the tenant was in default of rent since 01.02.1996 and further that he had, without the permission in writing by the landlord, made construction as well as structural alteration in the demised shop, which tended to diminish its value, utility and disfigure it. The basis of pleading a case of structural alteration was the fact that according to the landlord, the tenant, without his permission, had partitioned the demised shop into two and caused the tile worked roof to be removed and replaced by a different roof, supported by girders and covered by stone-slabs. In addition, was the landlord's case that the existing door of the shop had been removed and replaced by another. All these changes were said to constitute structural alteration, that tended to diminish the utility of the demised shop and disfigure it.

4. The landlord served the tenant a notice to quit dated 26.09.2014, asking him to deliver vacant possession of the demised shop, upon expiry of 30 days of receipt of the notice. The notice dated 28.09.2014 was answered by the tenant by a reply dated 18.10.2014 on incorrect facts, refusing to vacate the shop and denying his liability to pay arrears of rent, besides damages for use and occupation demanded. The notice to quit was one composite under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (for short, "the T.P. Act') and Section 20 of the Act. The suit was instituted by the landlord with the notice to quit being not complied with by the tenant. The suit was registered on the file of the Judge, Small Cause Court, Jhansi as S.C.C. Suit No. 3 of 2015.

5. The tenant put in a written statement and contested the suit. It was pleaded in the written statement that the demised shop was let out to the tenant's father between the years 1962-63 by the then landlord, Laxmi Shankar Nigam at a monthly rent of Rs.17.20. The tenant's father, prior to him, was the tenant in the demised shop. After his death, the tenant inherited the tenancy on the same terms and has held the demised shop in the same right, paying rent to Laxmi Shanker Nigam at the rate of Rs.17.20 per month. The last rent, that was paid to Laxmi Shanker Nigam, was in the month of December, 1995. It is the further case of the tenant that thereafter the tenant tendered rent by hand to Laxmi Shanker Nigam and then sent it at his correct postal address by money order on 01.01.1996, which he refused to accept. In consequence, the tenant instituted Misc. Case No. 110 of 1996, Har Narain Singh vs. Laxmi Shanker, under Section 30(1) of the Act before the Court of the Civil Judge (Jr. Div.), Jhansi with a prayer that he may be permitted to deposit rent in Court. Misc. Case No. 110 of 1996 was allowed vide order dated 03.12.1997 and the tenant has regularly deposited rent in Court with the last deposit made in the said Court on 31.12.2014.

6. It is then averred in the written statement that upon receipt of the notice to quit dated 26.09.2014 from the landlord and after answering it, in order to avoid controversy, the tenant remitted rent to the landlord from 01.02.1996 to 31.10.2014 at the rate of Rs.150/- per month by money order, which the landlord refused to accept. It is pleaded that the said facts are mentioned in the tenant's reply dated 18.10.2014, tendered in answer to the notice to quit. Later on, the tenant has deposited the entire rent due w.e.f. 01.02.1996 to 28.02.2015, together with interest and costs of the suit, in compliance with Section 20(4) of the Act, before the first date of hearing. The sum of money deposited in compliance with Section 20(4) of the Act is pleaded with full particulars in paragraph No. 27 of the plaint, indicating the five heads under which deposit of a total sum of Rs. 40,9345/0 has been made, calculating rent at the rate of Rs.150/- per month. On these facts, the case of actionable default under Section 20(2)(a) of the Act was denied and further relief from eviction was claimed under Section 20(4).

7. So far as the case of structural alteration leading to the demised shop's utility being diminished or the shop being disfigured is concerned, it is pleaded that the tenant has not done any structural alteration to the shop and it stays in the position it was when let out. The pleadings of the landlord about the structural alteration prohibited under Section 20(2)(c) of the Act are denied by paraphrase. It is said that the pleaded structural changes do not mention the date, month and year, when they were made. This is by and enlarge the pleaded case of the tenant in answer to the case of structural alteration in the demised shop leading to diminishment of its utility and disfigurement.

8. On the pleadings of parties, the Trial Court framed the following issues (translated into English from Hindi):

(1) Whether the plaintiff is the landlord of the demised part of the property and is there a relationship of landlord and tenant between parties?

(2) Whether the notice served by the plaintiff is valid?

(3) Whether the defendant has done material alteration to the demised premises without the permission of the plaintiff?

(4) Whether the defendant has committed default in the payment of rent?

(5) Whether the defendant is entitled to the benefit of Section 20(4) of the Rent Control Act?

(6) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to any other relief?

9. The landlord led documentary evidence and examined himself in support of his case as PW-1. He tendered in lieu of his examination-in-chief in the dock, his evidence on affidavit. He was duly cross-examined. The defendant too filed voluminous documentary evidence and examined himself as DW-1, besides another witness, Ram Sewak as DW-2. Both of them tendered their testimony on affidavits and faced cross-examined in the witness-box. The details of the documentary evidence are listed in minute detail in the two judgments of the Courts below and no useful purpose would be served by recapitulating that list of documentary evidence. Needless to say that the relevant of it shall be referred to during the course of the judgment.

10. The suit was tried and decreed by the Judge, Small Cause Court, Jhansi vide judgment and decree dated 16.09.2019. The Judge, Small Cause Court accepted the landlord's case on both grounds, to wit, actionable default and structural alteration leading to disfigurement of the demised shop and diminishment of its utility. The tenant's case of relief from eviction under Section 20(4) of the Act was not accepted.

11. The tenant preferred a revision against the decree passed by the Trial Court to the District Judge of Jhansi under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1860. The revision aforesaid was registered on file of the learned District Judge as Small Cause Revision No. 26 of 2019. The said revision upon assignment came up for hearing before the Additional District Judge, Court No.3, Jhansi. The learned Additional District Judge dismissed the revision and affirmed the decree passed by the Trial Court, but set aside the finding on Issue No. 5 alone, that is to say, the issue about entitlement of the tenant to relief from eviction under Section 20(4) of the Act.

12. Heard Mr. Manoj Kumar Sharma, learned Counsel for the tenant and Mrs. Rama Goel Bansal along with Ms. Shalini Goel, learned Counsel for the landlord.

13. It must be remarked here that there is no issue between parties that the landlord has inherited his right as the landlord from the original landlord, Laxmi Shanker Nigam being his nephew. It is also to be remarked that the Revisional Court after holding the tenant in actionable default under Section 20(2)(a) of the Act has extended the benefit of Section 20(4), but upheld the decree on the ground of structural alteration etc. under Section 20(2)(c) of the Act. The findings recorded by the Revisional Court relating to the benefit of Section 20(4) of the Act have not been assailed on behalf of the landlord. Therefore, the decree as now stands to be assailed is one of eviction, founded on the ground of structural alteration etc. under Section 20(2)(c) of the Act. It is for this reason that the Revisional Court has directed deposits made in whatever Court, to be adjusted against the decretal amount.

14. Mr. M.K. Sharma, learned Counsel for the tenant has been at pains to show that there is no actionable default on the tenant's part and if there be one at all, the tenant stands relieved of his liability from eviction under Section 20(4) of the Act. The said part of Mr. Sharma's submission is not required to be gone into, because the learned Counsel appearing for the landlord does not assail the finding by the Revisional Court extending the benefit of Section 20(4) of the Act. This stand of the landlord has already been noticed earlier, but a mention of the same has been made again in the context of Mr. Sharma's detailed submissions regarding actionable default and relief from eviction etc., made at the hearing.

15. The learned Counsel for the tenant has assailed the correctness of the findings returned by the two Courts below regarding the validity of the notice to quit, on which the suit is founded. It is his submission that the tenancy being for a manufacturing purpose, the lease shall be deemed to be one from year to year, terminable by six months' notice and not 30 days under Section 106 of the T.P. Act. It is emphasized that the lease here was for a Flour Mill (Aata Chakki), which is a manufacturing purpose, entitling the tenant to six months' notice. However, the notice to quit is one that terminates the lease at the end of 30 days. The notice is, therefore, invalid.

16. The learned Counsel for the landlord has supported the said finding and drawn the attention of the Court to the judgment of the Revisional Court in this regard. A perusal of the judgment of the Revisional Court shows that the Judge has discarded the tenant's submission regarding the mandatory duration of the notice under Section 106, T.P. Act, being six months in the case of a lease for a manufacturing purpose, relying on the provisions of Section 20(2)(a) of the Act. The relevant part of Section 20, including the provisions of sub-Section (2)(a) read:

"20. Bar of suit for eviction of tenant except on specified grounds- (1) Save as provided in sub-section (2), no suit shall be instituted for the eviction of a tenant from a building, notwithstanding the determination of his tenancy by efflux of time or on the expiration of a notice to quit or in any other manner:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall bar a suit for the eviction of a tenant on the determination of his tenancy by efflux of time where the tenancy for a fixed term was entered into by or in pursuance of a compromise or adjustment arrived at with reference to a suit, appeal, revision or execution proceeding, which is either recorded in court or otherwise reduced to writing and signed by the tenant.

(2) A suit for the eviction of a tenant from a building after the determination of his tenancy may be instituted on one or more of the following grounds, namely:

(a) that the tenant is in arrears of rent for not less than four months, and has failed to pay the same to the landlord within one month from the date of service upon him of a notice of demand:

Provided that in relation to a tenant who is a member of the armed forces of the Union and in whose favour the prescribed authority under the Indian Soldiers (Litigation) Act, 1925 (Act No. IV of 1925), has issued a certificate that he is serving under special conditions within the meaning of Section 3 of that Act or where he has died by enemy action while so serving, then in relation to his heirs, the words four months in this clause shall be deemed to have been substituted by the words one year;"

17. The Revisional Court has held that the provisions of the Act would prevail over the provisions of Section 106, T.P. Act, because the Act is a special statute, whereas the T.P. Act is a general law. The aforesaid exposition of the law by the Revisional Court cannot be accepted. The duration of notice to quit, envisaged under Section 106, T.P. Act, is altogether different from the period of notice, envisaged under Section 20(2)(a) of the Act. Section 106 of the T.P. Act governs the period of notice, necessary to determine a lease of immovable property, unless there be a contract or local law or usage to the contrary. Section 20(2)(a) of the Act, on the other hand, has a completely different scope and purpose. It has nothing to do with the period of notice to determine a lease regarding immovable property.

18. Section 20(2)(a) of the Act is to be understood in the context of sub-Section (1) of Section 20, which bars the right of a landlord to sue the tenant for eviction from a building, despite the determination of his tenancy, either by efflux of time or on the expiration of a notice to quit or in any other manner, except on the grounds envisaged under sub-Section (2) of Section 20. Thus, sub-Section (1) of Section 20 introduces a general embargo on the right of the landlord to evict his tenant from a building by serving him a notice to quit or on the expiration of lease by efflux of time. The various clauses of sub-Section (2) envisage grounds, on the fulfillment whereof, the embargo to sue would be lifted. Clause (a) of sub-Section (2) envisages the first of these grounds, where the bar on the landlord's right to sue his tenant for eviction would not be there. The terms of Clause (a) of sub-Section (2) provide that the tenant, who is in arrears of rent for not less than four months and has failed to pay rent to the landlord within one month from the date of a notice of demand, would entitle the landlord to bring a suit for eviction against him. Thus, sub-Section (2)(a) of Section 20 affords the grounds on which the landlord can institute a suit for eviction against his tenant from a building, but by itself does not envisage a notice to quit determining the lease, which is governed by Section 106 of the T.P. Act. The period of 30 days envisaged under Section 20(2)(a) of the Act is not, in any manner, the period of time relating to a notice to the tenant to quit or one determining his tenancy. It is the period of time to be stipulated in a notice of demand of arrears of rent that are due for a period of four months or more, which if not paid within the period of 30 days, despite the demand notice, would entitle the landlord to sue for eviction. Since in many cases, a notice to quit under Section 106 of the T.P. Act requires a period of 30 days, at the end of which the lease would stand determined, it has been judicially approved as a valid notice, where the Act applies, that a combined notice to quit and demand for arrears of rent etc. under Section 106, T.P. Act read with Section 20(2)(a) of the Act may be served on the tenant, who is in actionable default.

19. In a different context, where the question was whether in the State of Uttar Pradesh, it was necessary for a landlord to serve a notice to quit under Section 106 of the T.P. Act, after the decision of the Supreme Court in V. Dhanapal Chettiar v. Yesodai Ammal, (1979) 4 SCC 214, holding that in proceedings governed by the Rent Control Act, a notice to quit under Section 106 of the T.P. Act is not necessary, this Court in Jagdish Kumar Khanna v. Shakuntala Devi and others, 1980 ARC 535 remarked:

14. It is well settled that the Rent Control Acts do not completely supersede or supplant the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act governing the relationship of landlord and tenant. The Rent Control Act superimposes itself on the relevant and material provisions of the Transfer of Property Act. The provisions of the Rent Control Act override and prevail only in so far as they go. Since there is no provision for determination of tenancy in the Rent Control Act, one has necessarily to look to the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act. Section 111 of the Transfer of Property Act provides for determination of tenancy. Some of the methods provided therein are by efflux of time or on the expiration of notice to quit. This is provided by Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. The phrase "after the determination of his tenancy' occurring in sub-section (2) of Section 20 refers to the determination of tenancy in accordance with law, i.e. in the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act. This brings in Section 106.

20. The above exposition of the law, though made in a different context, is a universal principle governing the determination of tenancy in the State of Uttar Pradesh, so long and so far as the Act applies. The Revisional Court, therefore, went astray to look for the duration of notice required to terminate the tenancy in the provisions of Section 20(2)(a) of the Act. The said period is to be determined only with reference to the provisions of Section 106 of the T.P. Act. To that extent, the findings of the Revisional Court are wrong. This brings us face to face with Mr. Sharma's submission that the notice to quit is bad in law, because the lease here was one for establishing and running a flour mill (Aata Chakki), a manufacturing purpose, where the statutory period of a valid notice to quit is six months. The provisions of Section 106 of the T.P. Act read:

106. Duration of certain leases in absence of written contract or local usage.-

(1) In the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary, a lease of immovable property for agricultural or manufacturing purposes shall be deemed to be a lease from year to year, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by six months' notice; and a lease of immovable property for any other purpose shall be deemed to be a lease from month-to-month, terminable on the part of either lessor or lessee, by fifteen days' notice.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the period mentioned in sub-section (1) shall commence from the date of receipt of notice.

(3) A notice under sub-section (1) shall not be deemed to be invalid merely because the period mentioned therein falls short of the period specified under that sub-section where a suit or proceeding is filed after the expiry of the period mentioned in that sub-section.

(4) Every notice under sub-section (1) must be in writing, signed by or on behalf of the person giving it, and either be sent by post to the party who is intended to be bound by it or be tendered or delivered personally to such party, or to one of his family or servants at his residence, or (if such tender or delivery is not practicable) affixed to a conspicuous part of the property.

21. No doubt, the period of time required to determine a lease granted for a manufacturing purpose is six months by notice, but this statutory period is subject to a contract, local law or usage to the contrary. Here, what the Court finds is that in the notice to quit dated 26.09.2014, there is a clear assertion that the tenant holds the demised premises on a monthly rent of Rs.150/-. In the reply notice, it is acknowledged by the tenant that his father was a tenant in the demised premises, let out by the late Laxmi Shanker Nigam on a monthly rent of Rs.17.20 and that rent up to December, 1995 has been paid. Elsewhere, also in the reply notice, the rent has been acknowledged at a monthly rate. Likewise, in Paragraph No. 1 of the plaint, it is averred to the following effect:

1- यह कि वादी दुकान नम्बर जिसकी सीमायें नीचे दी जा रही हैं स्थित अन्दर सैंयर गेट झांसी का मालिक व लैण्डलोर्ड है और उक्त दुकान मे प्रतिवादी 150/- प्रतिमाह की दर से बतौर किरायेदार आबाद है।

22. In Paragraph No. 22 of the written statement, it is averred on behalf of the tenant as follows:

22- यह कि तथ्य यह है कि प्रश्नगत दुकान प्रतिवादी के पिता ने सन 1962-1963 में उक्त दुकान के स्वामी व लैण्ड लोर्ड श्रीमती लक्ष्मी शंकर से रू0 17.20 पैसे माहवार की दर से किराये पर ली थी तहायात प्रतिवादी के पिता प्रश्नगत दुकान में बतौर किरायेदार आबाद रहे। बाद वफात प्रतिवादी के पिता प्रश्नगत दुकान में उन्हीं शरायतों पर उत्तर दाता प्रतिवादी श्री लक्ष्मी शंकर निगम की ओर से बतौर किरायदार वशरह रू0 17.20 पैसे माहवार आवाद हुआ व चला आता रहा व प्रतिवादी न उक्त श्री लक्ष्मी शंकर निगम को माह दिसम्बर सन 1995 तक का किराया अदा किया।

23. In the rent receipts also, that have been filed before the Trial Court vide a list of documents, annexed as Annexure No.7 to the writ petition, there is consistent mention of rent at a monthly rate. In the cross-examination of the defendant too, the case is of the demised shop, being held on a monthly rent. From all these circumstances, it is evident that the lease always was one from month-to-month. It was not a lease from year-to-year that Section 106 of the T.P. Act postulates. A contract to the contrary, notwithstanding the lease being for a manufacturing purpose, is clearly discernible. Therefore, in the opinion of this Court, the tenancy was validly terminated by a 30 days' notice. The question involved here fell for consideration before this Court in Smt. Ram Murti Devi v. Vth Additional District Judge, Meerut and others, 1982 SCC OnLine All 776. Interestingly, the facts in Smt. Ram Murti Devi (supra) show that the demised premises, a garage, was let out to the tenant for the purpose of running a flour mill (Aata Chakki). It has been described in report as 'flour machine'. Amongst other things, the tenant questioned the validity of one month's notice to determine the tenancy on the ground that the lease was for a manufacturing purpose and required on the landlord's part a six month's notice to terminate the tenancy. Answering the said issue in Smt. Ram Murti Devi, it was held:

15. The revisional court also referred to and relied on a decision in the case of Binda Din v. Smt. Pran Dei reported in 1968 All LJ 721. I have examined this case and I find that the same fully supports the view taken by the courts below. In this case, it has been held that though a tenancy may be for manufacturing purposes, the parties may agree that the tenancy would be from month to month irrespective of the purpose of tenancy. It was further held that where there was an admission by the tenant that in regard to a manufacturing lease monthly rent was payable, it would be a stronger case for holding that the tenancy was of monthly duration. The learned Judge referred to the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Ram Kumar v. Jagdish Chandra reported in AIR 1952 SC 23 and held that section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act embodied a rule of construction for finding out the duration of the lease and he observed that if there was no other evidence and circumstance, the lease would be deemed to be from year to year terminable at six months' notice where it is for manufacturing purpose. However, the learned Judge observed that if there was an indication that the tenancy was from month to month, the lease would be liable to be terminated on a month's notice even if it was for manufacturing purposes.

16. I am in respectful agreement with the view expressed in the aforesaid case. Learned Counsel however placed reliance on the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Ram Kumar (supra) and contended that the decision of this court in the case of Binda Din reported in 1968 All LJ 721 requires reconsideration. He submitted that according to that decision, it is the purpose of the lease and not the mode of payment of rent which is decisive of the issues.

17. I cannot agree. The Supreme Court has not ruled that where the lease is for manufacturing purpose, there cannot be an enquiry whether there is any indication that the parties had agreed that the lease would be from month to month. Nor has the Supreme Court said that the mode of payment cannot afford any indication as to the duration of the lease agreed to between the parties. The Supreme Court in this connection observed thus at page 27 (column 1):

"It has no doubt been recognised: in several cases that the mode in which a rent is expressed to be payable affords a presumption that the tenancy is of a character corresponding thereto. Consequently, when the rent reserved is an annual rent, the presumption would arise that the tenancy was an annual tenancy unless there is something to rebut the presumption."

18. The decision of this Court in the case of Binda Din, 1968 All LJ 721 is in my opinion in accord with the law laid down by the Supreme Court.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioner vehemently contended that the mode of payment cannot be a ground for holding that the tenancy was a month to month tenancy. The submission has no force. In Ram Kumar's case (AIR 1952 SC 23) (supra) the Supreme Court has made observations (quoted above) which do lend support to the view that mode of payment, even if not conclusive of the controversy, can be considered for ascertaining whether notwithstanding the purpose of the lease there is no indication that there was a contract to contrary within the meaning of Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. In any case, in the present case, it is the cumulative effect of various facts and circumstances on the basis of which the courts below have held against the petitioner. The mode of payment was not the sole ground for holding against the petitioner. In my view, even if the mode of payment may not per se be decisive of the issue, it cannot, in my view, be said that the mode of payment is an altogether irrelevant circumstance. Far from being irrelevant, the mode of payment is, in my view, an important and relevant circumstance for ascertaining whether there is any contract to the contrary as to the duration of the lease.

24. In the facts found here, the tenancy, in the opinion of this Court, was clearly one for month-to-month. It could be determined by a month's notice. The notice to quit, therefore, cannot be questioned on the said ground.

25. Now, it is submitted by the learned Counsel for the tenant that the findings of both the Courts below on the issue of structural alteration without the written permission of the landlord, leading to the building housing the demised premises suffering a diminishment in its value or utility and its disfigurement, are patently flawed. It is argued that it was the landlord's burden to adduce expert evidence or take out a commission for local inspection to show what structural alterations have been done, and if done, how these diminished the value of the building housing the demised premises or affected its utility or disfigured it. It is submitted that the Courts below placed the burden on the tenant's shoulders to adduce evidence, negatively oriented to establish that there was no violation of Section 20(2) (c) of the Act.

26. A look at the Trial Court's findings on the issue does not require this Court to spare a second thought in accepting the tenant's criticism that the Trial Court has wrongly placed burden upon the tenant to prove the case of structural alteration. The short finding recorded by the Trial Court on the issue can be best appreciated by a reproduction thereof verbatim:

"इस तथ्य को सिद्ध करने का भार वादी पर था कि प्रश्नगत दुकान में प्रतिवादी ने मौलिक स्वरूप को परिवर्तित करा दिया गया है। प्रतिवादी की ओर से जो साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत की गयी

है। उसमें प्रतिवादी ने अपनी जिरह के पेज 7 पर यह कथन किया गया है कि प्रश्नगत दुकान जब किराये पर ली गयी थी उस समय कच्ची खपरैल थी, मैं नहीं बता सकता, दुकान जैसी थी, वैसी है। दुकान में आटा चक्की के साथ मेरा बेटा दर्जी का काम भी करता है। जिसकी दुकान सी०ए० टेलर्स के नाम से है। वर्ष 1998 से मेरा लड़का टेलरिंग का कार्य कर रहा है। वर्तमान में दुकान पर पत्थर की छत डली है, छत के समय दुकान में प्लास्टर का कार्य कराया था। जिसका खर्चा पिता जी ने दिया था। इस साक्षी ने आगे अपनी जिरह में यह भी कथन किया है कि प्रश्नगत दुकान के मालिक वादी हैं। मैं अपने लड़के को प्रश्नगत दुकान में दर्जी का काम करने के लिये कोई अनुमति नहीं ली थी। प्रतिवादी द्वारा बहस के दौरान यह तर्क प्रस्तुत किया गया है कि वादी द्वारा प्रश्नगत दुकान संरचनात्मक परिवर्तन के बावत न तो कोई अमीन आख्या या फोटोग्राफस प्रस्तुत किये हैं, न ही परिवर्तन व परिवर्धन नियत तिथि वादी द्वारा अपने वाद/ साक्ष्य में प्रस्तुत की है। इस संबंध में पत्रावली के परिशीलन से यह विदित हुआ कि उक्त वादी के कथनों के संबंध में प्रतिवादी द्वारा भी न तो अमीन आख्या मंगाई गयी न ही कोई फोटोग्राफ्स इस बावत प्रस्तुत किया गया। इस प्रकार वादी द्वारा इस तथ्य को सिद्ध करने में सफल रहे कि प्रतिवादी दवारा प्रश्नगत दुकान में निर्माण या संरचनात्मक परिवर्तन जिसमें उसका मूल्य या उसकी उपयोगिता घटने की संभावना हो, किया गया है। तदनुसार यह विनिश्चय बिन्दु सं०-3 वादी के पक्ष में निर्णीत किया जाता है।

(emphasis by Court)

27. A reading of the said finding clearly shows that the Trial Court has not at all looked into evidence led on behalf of the tenant to establish a case of structural alteration of the kind envisaged under Section 20(2)(c) of the Act. The Trial Court has virtually assumed the case to be proved, as alleged, and then held that for the reason that the tenant has not applied for a commission to carry out a local inspection or produced photographs, the conclusion ipso facto is that the tenant has made structural alteration to the demised shop as is likely to diminish its value or utility or disfigure it. The finding is absolutely based on no evidence, and proceeds as if there were a presumption about the prohibited structural alteration in support of the landlord's case. The finding to that extent is perverse also.

28. The Revisional Court has examined the matter in some detail. The findings recorded by the Revisional Court, with reference to the evidence DWs 1 and 2 on the question of structural alteration, are to the effect that both the DWs have acknowledged in their cross-examination that structural alterations have been done to the shop, where a plywood partition has been put in place, and apart from the flour mill installed, an additional tailor's shop had been established. In the relevant part of cross-examination of DW-1, it has been accepted that the demised shop had a kachcha tile-worked roof, but now the shop has a roof fixed with girders and stone slabs. It has been further said, when the roof was changed, he did not remember. The stone-slabbed roof was laid during the tenancy of the witness's father. Again, DW-2 has stated in his cross-examination that the shop has two doors: in one part, there is a flour mill and in the other, the tailors shop exists. The building in question, according to the witness, had no wall. The partition wall is made of plywood.

29. From all this evidence, the further finding recorded by the Revisional Court is that the testimony of DWs 1 and 2 shows shows that the tenant has done structural alteration to the demised shop. It is next remarked that there is no permission produced for the said structural alteration. It is observed that on the other hand, the landlord says, that whatever structural alteration has been done by the tenant, it was without his permission. The said assertion is unrebutted on the tenant's part.

30. The finding on Issue No. 3 recorded by the Revisional Court concludes with the remarks that the Trial Court's finding on Issue No. 3 is liable to be affirmed to the extent that the tenant has, without the permission of the landlord, made structural alteration in the demised shop. The Revisional Court has then said that the further issue, whether the structural alteration made is one that is likely to diminish the value or utility of the shop or disfigure it, would be answered later on in the Revisional Court's judgment.

31. The Revisional Court while answering Issues Nos. 4 and 5, which quintessentially are about default and relief from eviction, has recorded findings on the point, whether the structural alteration is likely to diminish the value or utility of the demised shop or disfigure it. The relevant finding recorded is extracted below:

(iii) प्रश्नगत वाद इस अधिनियम की धारा २०(२) (ग) के अधीन भी योजित किया है। जैसा कि उपरोक्त प्रस्तरों में अभिनिर्धारित किया गया है प्रतिवादी द्वारा प्रश्नगत दुकान में वादी की इजाजत के बिना परिवर्तन व परिवर्धन किया है तथा दुकान को दो भागों में विभाजित भी कर लिया है जिसमें से एक पार्टीशन में प्रतिवादी के पुत्र द्वारा दर्जी का भी कार्य किया जा रहा है। अतः ऐसी स्थिति में इस न्यायालय के अभिमत में इस संरचनात्मक परिवर्तन से प्रश्नगत दुकान का मूल्य एवं उसकी उपयोगिता निश्चित रूप से घटती है। यद्यपि वादी द्वारा इस अधिनियम की धारा २०(२) (घ) के अधीन यह वाद योजित नहीं किया गया है, जबकि डी०डबलू०- १ एवं डी०डबलू०-२ के स्वयं की स्वीकारोक्ति है कि प्रश्नगत दुकान में मूल कार्य के अतिरिक्त दर्जी का भी कार्य सम्पादित किया जा रहा है। किन्तु उस स्थिति में भी जबकि दुकान को दो हिस्सों में बांट लिया गया है और एक हिस्से में दर्जी का कार्य सम्पादित किया जा रहा है, इस न्यायालय के अभिमत में ऐसा परिवर्तन प्रश्नगत दुकान के मूल्य एवं उपयोगिता को निश्चित रूप से घटाता है एवं उसे विरूपित भी करता है।

32. Surprisingly, there is no finding recorded by the Revisional Court about the effect of replacement of the existing tile-worked roof with a stone-slabbed roof, supported by girders on the value or the utility of the demised shop or about the fact if the changed roof has disfigured it. The finding recorded is about the twin use, to which the demised shop has been put after placing a plywood partition, where it has been held that the said double user of the shop brings about a structural alteration, which leads to value and utility of the shop being diminished. There are then some very mixed up remarks by the Revisional Court, where the reasoning seems to have gone haywire between the requirements of Sections 20(2)(c) and 20(2)(d) of the Act. It is observed by the Revisional Court that though the landlord's case is not one under Section 20(2)(d), DWs 1 and 2 have admitted the fact that in the demised shop, apart from its authorized user, it is being put to the additional use of a tailor's shop. This observation is followed by the remark that in a situation where the shop has been divided into two parts, one being where the tailoring work is done, in the Court's opinion the change certainly leads to a diminishment of the value and utility of the demised shop.

33. This Court is afraid that the finding recorded by the Revisional Court, unlike the Trial Court, is flawed for confounding the requirements of Sections 20(2)(c) and 20(2)(d) of the Act. It is also flawed, because it has inferred a case of structural alteration by the putting up of a plywood partition. The plywood partition certainly does not bring about structural alteration. Dismantling the existing tile-worked roof and replacing it by one of stone-slabs with girder support, may. Therefore, the Revisional Court has observed in manifest illegality that partition of the demised shop into two part by a plywood partition, amounts to structural alteration. The other finding recorded is that by use of the demised shop as two, one for housing the flour mill and the other for the tailoring business, certainly leads to diminishing its value and utility, is also manifestly illegal. It is so because the diminishment in value or utility must come from the structural alteration made to the building and not from the use that it is put to. The plywood partition is not a structural alteration, as already said, and, therefore, cannot be linked to the diminishment in value or utility or even disfigurement. The use of a shop for two kinds of trades or business may or may not diminish the shop's utility, but that is not something, which is the consequence of a structural alteration. It may or may not be a case of inconsistent user, prohibited by Section 20(2) (d) of the Act, but that is not the ground on which the suit for eviction has been instituted. The Revisional Court appears to have been cognizant of this folly in the finding and has mentioned it in hesitant words. However, the Revisional Court has gone ahead to say that the plywood partition of the shop and its use for the twin business of the flour mill and the tailor's shop, lead to a diminishment of its value and utility. The said finding is completely beyond the purview of the requirements of Section 20(2) (c) of the Act. The reason is that the Revisional Court has not opined the way it did, because a plywood partition had been put up in the shop, dividing it into two, but the fact that the shop subdivided as it is by a plywood partition is being used for the purpose of two different trades/ business. There is nothing inferred as a diminishment in the value or the utility of the demised shop from any structural change made, but one from the nature of business added to the existing one. There is, therefore, nothing on the findings recorded by the Revisional Court to conclude that any of the structural changes made have led to a diminishment in the value or the utility of the demised shop or its disfigurement.

34. There is hardly any finding about the impact on the value or the utility of the demised shop, in consequence of the existing tile-worked roof being replaced by stone-slabbed roof supported by girders. Likewise, there is no finding whether the replacement of the existing doors on the shop have led to diminishing of its value or utility or disfiguring it. These are the relevant inquiries, which ought to have been made by the Courts below before returning a finding on the ground under Section 20(2) (c) of the Act.

35. On what parameters, the plea under Section 20(2) (c) of the Act has to be examined, has been spelt out by this Court in Umesh Kumar v. Arun Kumar and others, 2012 SCC OnLine All 3987. In Umesh Kumar (supra), it has been held:

6. Section 20(2)(c) of Act, 1972 would be attracted incurring liability for ejectment of tenant from the let out building only when landlord is successful in proving the following:

(1) There is no permission obtained by tenant in writing from landlord;

(2) The tenant has made or permitted to make some construction or structural alteration in the building; and

(3) Construction/ structural alteration, as above, is such as is likely to diminish the value of property or utility or to disfigure it.

7. So far as consent part is concerned, the concurrent finding is that there is no such consent available with tenant. It is also not in dispute that certain construction/structural alterations have been made by tenant in the shop in question. Therefore, first two aspects as above are satisfied and this Court has to find out whether the inference drawn by Courts below about factor (3) above is just and valid or is so manifestly illegal or illogical or erroneous so as to justify this Court's intervention in writ jurisdiction.

8. This Court in Dr. Jai Gopal Gupta v. Bodh Mal [1969 ALJ 477.] held that in a suit filed for eviction on the ground of "material alteration", the Court has to first record a finding about the actual construction made by tenant and such finding will be a finding of fact. Having done so, the Court thereafter would have to form an opinion whether such constructions have "materially" altered the accommodation or is likely to cause substantial damage to its value. That was the requirement under statute, as it was up for consideration in Dr. Jai Gopal Gupta (supra) but the language of section 20(2)(c) has removed the word "material alteration" and it is now differently worded. Now the term is "construction" or "structural alteration". The two terms namely construction or structural alteration are much lighter requirement than the term material alteration. Now every construction or structural alteration, whether it can be said to be "material" or not would attract the mischief under section 20(2)(c) of Act, 1972 provided it further satisfy the their requirement namely diminish the value of the property or utility or to disfigure it.

9. Be that as it may, the subsequent opinion, which is to be formed by a Court, i.e., the effect of construction/structural alternation on accommodation about its value, utility etc. is a finding involving a mixed question of fact and law. This has to be determined on the application of correct principle of law. This has been said by Apex Court in Om Prakash v. Amar Singh [1987 (13) ALR 163 (SC).].

10. The findings regarding alteration/structural changes made by tenant in accommodation in question as recorded by Trial Court, therefore, would have to be taken final since it is finding of fact. The Revisional Court hereat has also not pointed out anywhere in the revisional judgment that the said finding of fact is based on no evidence or that it is perverse or there is otherwise any error or jurisdictional fact. To this extent no interference needs in this case.

13. The word "value" means intrinsic worth of a thing. In other words, utility of an object satisfying, directly or indirectly, the needs or desires of a person. It can thus be said that to attract section 20(2)(c) it has to be established that the tenant has committed such acts of construction or structural alteration as are likely to diminish the quality, strength or value of building or rented land to such an extent that intrinsic worth or fitness of the building or rented land has considerably affected its use for some desirable practical purpose. The decrease or deterioration, in other words, the impairment of the worth and usefulness or the value and utility of the building or rented land has to be judged and determined from the point of view of landlord and not of tenant or any one else. This aspect has also been reiterated by Apex Court in Gurbachan Singh (supra) in para 12 of the judgment. In Gurbachan Singh (supra) also the tenant had removed full size door of one shop and merged the shop into open part of verandah. All these activities were held to be a constructional alteration impairing material value and utility of building. The Court observed:

"14..... then the rest of the construction, additions and alterations of the 5 shops and the verandah in front of the said shops of a permanent nature, will certainly amount to acts as have or likely to have impaired materially the value or utility of the building/premises let out to them..... In the present case the removal of the roof of the shops partition walls and the doors, laying of a root, merging of the verandah with the shops, closing the doors and opening new doors and windows and converting the premises altogether, giving totally a new and a different shape and complexion by such alteration would certainly be regarded as one involving material impairment of the premises affecting its Fitness for use for desirable practical purpose and intrinsic worth of the demised premises from the point of view of the appellant-landlords within the meaning of section 13(2)(iii) of the Act."

18. In Ram Chandra (supra) Hon'ble N.N. Sharma, J. considered the question, whether the nature of alteration was a "material alteration" or not but this Court has no hesitation in observing that in section 20(2)(c) the landlord is not required to prove "material alteration" but he has to show a "structural alteration" made, having the effect of disfigurement or diminishing the value or utility of rented building. The word "material alteration" does not find place in section 20(2)(c) and, therefore, various authorities relied in Ram Chandra (supra), in my view, also would have no application to the case in hand, governed by section 20(2)(c) of Act, 1972.

(emphasis by Court)

36. Considering that the issue of structural alteration is essentially a question of fact in the first instance and the Trial Court has not written a word worth the name in returning its finding on the issue, this Court is of opinion that for the determination of the said issue, the matter has to go back to the Trial Court. The other issues, that have been decided by this judgment, shall no longer be open to the parties or the Courts of Trial or Revision to examine. The findings of the Courts below on Issues Nos. 1, 2, 4 and 5 are all affirmed, subject, of course, to the remarks in this judgment. The Trial Court is, therefore, required to re-determine the suit on Issues Nos. 3 and 6 alone, regarding which the parties shall be free to suit their case on merits. The parties shall be at liberty to lead further evidence on the said issues, if they so desire. While determining the suit afresh, the Trial Court shall bear in mind the guidance in this judgment.

37. In the circumstances, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned judgment and decree dated 14.01.2021 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No.3, Jhansi in S.C.C. Revision No. 26 of 2019 as well as the judgment and decree dated 16.09.2019 passed by the Judge, Small Cause Court, Jhansi in S.C.C. Suit No. 3 of 2015 are set aside, except to the extent of findings upheld by this judgment. The Judge, Small Cause Court, Jhansi shall proceed to try and determine the suit afresh, after hearing the parties and their witnesses. Considering the fact that the suit is one of the year 2015 and occasion has arisen, where a remand has been made to the Trial Court, it is directed that the Trial Court shall proceed with the suit, fixing two dates of effective hearing every week and decide the suit within a period of three months of the date of receipt of a copy of this judgment.

38. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated to the Judge, Small Cause Court, Jhansi through the learned District Judge, Jhansi by the Registrar (Compliance).

First Appeal No. 485 of 2022

Ms. Nasrin Begum & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
Prof. Mohd. Sajjad & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
Sri Kavish Suhail, Sri Pradeep Kumar Chandra (Sr.Adv.)

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Tarun Pratap Singh, Sri Komal Mehrotra, Sri Syed Ahmad Faizan, Sri S.F.A. Naqvi (Sr. Advocate), Sri Atul Dayal (Sr. Advocate)

A. Family Law – Custody of child - Guardians and Wards Act, 1890 - Sections 8, 10, 17(3) & 25 - The principles of law in relation to the custody of a minor child, as to the paramount consideration of the welfare and interest of the child and the custody not being the rights of the parents under a statute is well settled. (Para 17)

Children are not mere chattels nor are they toys for their parents. Absolute right of parents over the destinies and the lives of their children has, in the modern changed social conditions must yield to the considerations of their welfare as human beings so that they may grow up in a normal balanced manner to be useful members of the society. (Para 18)

The moral and ethical welfare of the child must also weigh with the Court as well as its physical well being. (Para 19)

In the present case, the sister (appellant No. 1) had left her child with her brother and sister-in-law who are issueless would not deprive her from the custody of her minor child. The child has not been legally adopted. The answer to the question that was considered by the trial court to give custody of the child to the maternal uncle and aunt is guided by the wishes of the child who does not even know as to who her birth parents are. The family court was swayed away by the fact that the detachment of the child from her maternal uncle and aunt who have brought her up as her own child, would have perilous effect on the physiology of the child. Whereas the parents are fighting for the custody of the child since the child was in a tender age of five years. It was categorically stated by the appellants that they were not allowed to meet their child and the respondents have refused to give back the child despite their best efforts to find out an amicable solution. The vehemence of the respondents in not allowing the child to meet her birth parents is evident from their resistance in even allowing the child to see her birth parents once in a year for 15 days. Several cases including criminal complaints were filed between the parties because of the dispute relating to the custody of the child. (Para 31)

Giving due consideration to the circumstances such as ordinary comfort, contentment, intellectual, moral and physical development, health, education and general maintenance of the child as also the favourable surroundings, it is in the best interest of the child whose welfare is our paramount consideration that she be in the custody of her birth parents. The reason being that:-

(i) The applicants are biological parents (both mother and father) of the child. The child as a human being has a right to know as to who are her parents and has a legal right to remain in the custody of her parents till she attains majority.

(ii) The appellants have other children, the child would grow with her siblings which is a positive environment being favourable surroundings for the welfare of the child.

(iii) Knowing her real identity as a human being is the first right of the child. She must know who her birth parents are. She must know who her siblings are. She must know who the persons are who are fostering her at present. The child cannot be allowed to live in a camouflage of her own being. Even an adopted child within the family sometime faces emotional turmoil when he is grown up and told about his/her real parents. The deprivation of the company or even knowledge about her birth parents may come as a shock to the child when she is grown up. The deprivation of the child of the company of her own siblings may prove to be a shock for her, later. (Para 32)

In any case, a child as a human being cannot be deprived of the company of her birth parents under a concealed identity of the respondents being her real parents. The mother who gave birth to the child cannot be deprived of the company of her daughter just for the fact that for sometime the child was given in the foster care of her maternal uncle and aunt. It is not about the right of the applicants (the parents) or the respondents (the maternal uncle and aunt) rather it is about the right of the child as a human being. A minor has a birth right to remain in the custody of her/his birth parents, who are the best persons on earth to know the welfare of the child. (Para 34)

B. Proceeding in appointing or declaring the guardian of a minor the Court shall be guided by not only the law to which the minor is subject, but the welfare of the minor as appears in the circumstances of the case and if the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference, the court may consider that preference. (Para 22)

In the present case, the maternal uncle and aunts/foster parents of the child have not acted in a matured manner in the situation in which they fall. Their emotions on the one hand and the welfare of the child on the other are pitted against each other. The attitude and behavior of the foster parents in the whole scenario is also not understandable. Without there being any legal adoption but only under an arrangement within the family, the foster parents (the respondents) should have though fostered the child as their own but should have allowed the child to know as to who her birth parents are, to meet them, to spend time with them and then take an informed decision, an intelligent preference as to with whom she wanted to stay, to spend her childhood. (Para 34)

On overall consideration of the facts of the present case, in exercise of judicial discretion, giving paramount consideration to the welfare of the minor, we are of the considered opinion that for contentment, intellectual, moral and physical development of the child, the best interest of the child is to be in the custody of her birth parents. The wishes of the child who is not old enough to form an intelligent preference cannot prevail over the welfare of the child. (Para 35)

The First Appeal No. 510 of 2022 is hereby allowed. The First Appeal No. 485 of 2022 is disposed of. (E-4)

Present appeal assails the judgment and order dated 30.05.2022 passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No. 3, Aligarh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sunita Agarwal, J.
Hon'ble Mrs. Sadhna Rani (Thakur), J.)

1. Heard Sri Pradeep Kumar Chandra learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Kavish Suhail learned Advocate, Sri Atul Dayal learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Komal Mehrotra and Sri S.F.A. Naqvi learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Syed Ahmad Faizan, learned Advocate for the parties in both the connected appeals.

2. These two connected appeals have been filed by both sides challenging the order dated 30.05.2022 passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No.3, Aligarh in Misc. Petition No.73 of 2019 filed under Section 8, 10 & 25 of the Guardians and Wards Act' 1890 (in short as '1890' Act. The appellants in First Appeal No.510 of 2022 are applicants of the misc. case filed under the Act' 1890 praying for custody of the minor child. The appellant in connected First Appeal No.485 of 2022 are aggrieved by the aforesaid decision only to the extent of the findings on issue No.2 where the applicants have been provided visitation right/custody of the child for a period of 15 days in one year during summer vacation in the school of the minor child till she attains majority.

3. The applicants/appellants are natural guardians, biological parents of the child who was about five years of age on the date of the application seeking custody of the child. The respondents/appellants in the connected Appeal No.485 of 2022 are maternal uncle and aunt of the child, the respondent No.1 being real brother of the appellant No.1. As stated in the application filed by the appellants, the minor child was born on 16.12.2013 at Jeddah, Saudi Arabia and a birth certificate was issued by the concerned authority at Jeddah wherein names of the applicants/appellants as parents of the child have been mentioned. The respondents herein are issue-less. Initially one Mohd. Zaheer, brother of the respondent No.2 namely sister-in-law of the applicants, gave them his minor girl child for about three months and later took her away. The respondents went under depression on account of the said incident.

4. When the applicants came to India after birth of their girl child on 11.03.2014, the respondents expressed their desire to look after the minor child for sometime so that they may overcome the crisis. It was then agreed that the minor would be in custody of the respondents and whenever the applicants come to Delhi they would be spending time with their daughter and the child would remain in touch with her parents through audio and video calls. On the request of the respondents, the passport and birth certificate of the minor child was handed over to the respondents so that they may not face any inconvenience in keeping the child with them. Believing her brother, the appellant No.1 namely Ms. Nasrin Begum had signed a written document wherein custody of the minor child was given for the time being to the respondents. The applicants/appellants then left for Saudia Arabia. It is stated that this arrangement was made by the appellants only as humanitarian consideration, to help brother and sister-in-law of the appellant No.1 to overcome the emotional crisis faced by them.

5. In the year 2015, during vacation when the applicants/appellant came to India, they felt change in the behaviour of the respondents. Again in the year 2017, during vacation, they came to India with the main object of meeting their daughter and when they reached at the house of the respondents, the respondents did not allow them (the appellants) to meet the child. Being family members, the applicants/appellants tried to persuade the respondents through elders in the family. The appellant No.1 in the meantime, gave birth to the fourth child on 07.05.2018. During this period and thereafter, the appellant No.1 talked to her brother namely the respondent No.1 to take her child back with her to Saudi Arabia and requested respondent No.1 to give back the passport of the minor child. The respondent gave passport and photographs of the minor child to the appellant No.1 and that with this conduct of the respondent, the appellants had no doubt that the respondent would have no objection to give away the child. The process of getting visa of the child was then initiated by the appellant No.1 and visa was issued from Saudi Arabia on 25.07.2018. When the applicants/appellants came to India and went to the house of the respondents to meet the child they were not allowed to enter inside nor were permitted to talk to the child. The appellant No.1 stayed in India for about 8 months before moving the application so that she may persuade the respondents to give back her daughter. However, the respondents misbehaved with the appellant No.1 and then the appellants were constrained to approach the family court seeking for custody of the minor child. The cause of action to institute the proceedings arose when the respondent had refused to handover the custody of the minor child to the appellants.

6. In the written statement filed by the respondent, it was admitted that the applicants/appellants are biological parents of the child. It is also admitted that the respondents are issue-less. But the application was objected with the assertion that the applicants/appellants had handed over the custody of the minor child to the respondent on 11.04.2014 willingly and now in view of the Section 25 of the Act' 1890, the appellants cannot seek the custody of the child. It is argued that an adoption deed was executed by the appellants to give the minor child in the custody of the respondents and the adoption deed was signed by the appellants out of their own sweet will, which is a notarized deed. When the child was given in the custody of the respondents, she was barely three and a half months. The respondents looked after the child as their own and she had grown to a six and a half years old beautiful girl and they cannot think of separation from the child. The child is very close to the respondents and is studying in one of the best school at Aligarh. The respondents are taking good care of the child and it is in the welfare of the child to grow in the custody of the respondents. It was admitted that there was no provision for adoption in Muslim Personal Law but contention is that the said legal grounds has no bearing on the facts that the paramount consideration of the Court in selecting a proper guardian of the minor child should be the welfare and well being of the child, which is with the respondents. On the said pleading and the documentary and oral evidences filed by the parties, the issues framed by the family court were as follows:-

"बिन्दु संख्या 1 "क्या प्रार्थीगण प्रार्थनापत्र में वर्णित तथ्यों के आधार पर अवयस्क/नाबालिग जैनव गुफरान के बॉयोलोजिकल, नेचूरल पेरेन्टस होते हुये अभिरक्षा प्राप्त करने के अधिकारी है ?

बिन्दु संख्या-2:- "क्या प्रार्थी/वादी किसी अन्य अनुतोष को पाने का अधिकारी है?"

7. The issue No.1 has been decided against the appellants by the family court on the ground that taking paramount consideration of the welfare of the child in light of the decision of the Apex Court in V.Ravi Chandran vs Union Of India & Ors1, Guru Nagpal Vs. Sumedha2, Vivek Singh Vs. Romani Singh3, it is in the best interest of the child to remain in the custody of the respondents. It was opined by the family court that the children cannot be treated as chattel/property and the act of the applicants/appellants in leaving their three months child in the custody of the respondents show that they were happy with the arrangement that the child would live with her maternal uncle and aunt. When the respondents looked after the child of a tender age of three months who has now grown into a six years old girl, as an afterthought on account of the dispute with her brother, the appellant No.1 had instituted the application seeking custody of the child. The Court had also interviewed the child and noted her statement that she would call maternal uncle and Aunt as "Abba" and "Ammi" and stated that she was being looked after well by them and she wants to stay with them only. It was also noted that even the appellant No.2 examined as PW-1, natural father of the child had stated that he did not want to take away the child against her wishes. It was noted that the wishes of the child to stay with the respondents cannot be ignored by the Court.

8. It is argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that the appellants were desperate to take away their child with them and made efforts so that the amicable solution can be found as both the parties are closely related to each other. The statement of the father that he did not want to take away the child forcibly as against the wishes of the respondents itself shows that the appellants made efforts to persuade the respondents to give away their child which all went in vain and hence they were constrained to file the instant application. Even before filing of the present application, Habeas Corpus petition had been filed before the High Court at Delhi which was dismissed on the ground of lack of territorial jurisdiction. It is argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the judicial pronouncement about the welfare of the child relate to the dispute between husband and wife namely two biological parents and not an outsider. The term guardianship denotes the guardianship of a minor. The Quran is a basic of the law relating to the concept of guardianship of a minor. Muslim Personal Law makes a difference between guardian of a person and guardian of the property in case of minor.

9. Guardianship of a person for minor for custody is given to mother who is de facto guardian of the child upto the age of seven years for a male child and in case of female child till the child attains the age of puberty as per the Hanafi law. In Shia law, the mother is a de facto guardian upto two years for the male child and seven years in case of female child. In any case, the legal guardian of a child can only be a person who is either a natural guardian or a guardian appointed by the Court. In absence of a legal guardian, the Court is entitled to appoint guardian for the betterment of the minor. Under Muslim Law the question of guardianship of a minor is very essential so as to deal with the right of the minor and his/her property, if any.

10. Be that as it may, it is argued that the family court had given a complete go-by to the legal principles of appointment of guardian under the Act' 1890 while deciding the application moved by the appellants who are natural/biological parents of the child. The occasion for moving application before the family court arose on account of the fact that the respondents had refused to give the child in the custody of her biological parents. It is argued that the notarized deed claimed as adoption deed has no sanctity of law and, moreover, the said arrangement was made by the appellant out of sheer love and affection for the issue-less brother and sister-in-law. Under the said arrangements between the parties, the appellants were free to meet their child and to spend time with her and to take her away without any permission or consent of the respondent. The appellants were also free to stay in touch with their child by calling her through audio and video mode frequently.

11. The respondents, however, did not honor their promise and later behaved strangely in denying entry of the parents (appellants) in their house to meet the child. The appellant No.1 had to stay for a long time in India to persuade the respondents to allow her to meet the child and on their denial, the appellants were constrained to move the family court. On account of the changed behavior and attitude to the respondents where they have not only denied access to the child but also detached the child from her own parents, this dispute came to the Court.

12. Sri Atul Dayal leaned counsel for the respondent, in rebuttal, has heavily relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Nil Ratan Kundu & others vs. Abhijit Kundu4 to submit that in the matter of custody of a minor child, as per legal position in India, the paramount consideration for the Court is the welfare of the child. The Court has to ascertain not only the welfare but also the wishes of the child by interviewing the child. He, therefore, urged that this Court may summon the child to know her wishes if it has any doubt about the findings returned by the family court where the categorical statement made by the child was noted that the respondents are her 'Abbu' and 'Ammi' and she wants to stay with them only. It was argued that any change in the arrangement as on date or detachment of the child from the respondents who are looking after her as their own child since she was barely three and a half months old, would have an adverse effect on the mental well being of the child and may have the effect her physical health as well. It is, thus, argued that the family court had given due consideration to the circumstances of the case and based on the well settled principle of welfare of the minor child being paramount consideration, having duly ascertained the wishes of the child, has rightly rejected the application.

13. On the findings on issue No.1, about the visitation right given to the applicant/appellant the biological parents of the child, it was argued by the learned counsel for the respondents that the arrangements made by the family court while deciding issue No.2 of leaving the child in custody of the appellants was wholly uncalled for, in as much as, giving visitation right is a different consideration from that of giving custody of the minor child for 15 days to the parents who have never contributed in the upbringing of the child so far.

14. Having considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, we find that this is a peculiar case of the parents (both) being the applicants seeking custody of their minor child from their close relatives who have fostered the child for few years. As is evident from the record, there is no dispute about the fact that the minor girl child was left in the custody of the respondents when she was barely three and a half months old. The arguments of the appellants/biological parents are that they have given the child in the custody of the respondent being their close relatives i.e. brother and sister-in-law of appellant No.1, so that they may overcome depression which they were facing at the particular point of time. However, as per the arrangement between the parties, the child was to remain in the custody of the respondents but the appellants were free to meet her and to spend time with their child whenever they want. From the turn of events, it seems that the said arrangement did not work for long as the respondents had refused to allow the appellants (the parents) to meet their child. There was lot of resistance at the ends of the respondents which is also evident from the fact that the respondents are even not happy with the arrangement made by the family court to allow the parents to have the custody of their child for 15 days in one year. The respondents have resisted this arrangement on the premise that the appellants would take the child to Saudi Arabia forcibly and illegally. This apprehension was raised before the Court at the time when the interim application of the applicant/appellant was considered and allowed by this Court and the child was sent with appellant No.1 for 15 days during summer vacation as per order of the family court.

15. It is evident from the record that the child was denied access to her own parents. She has been deprived of her right to know her own parents and spend time with them. Though, there cannot be a doubt to the fact that the child was brought up by the respondents as their own daughter and she would call them as 'Abbu' and 'Ammi', but restraining a child to meet her parents, to our mind, is nothing but denial of her birth/natural right to know her own self. As the child is living with the respondents since when she was three and a half months old and barely got the chance to know her parents, interviewing her or knowing her wishes would have served no useful purpose as the child would want to remain in the custody of the persons with whom she is residing at present and who she knows as her own parents. We may record that for this reason and for other reasons for the discussion made hereinafter, we did not accept the prayer made by the learned counsel for the respondent to summon the child to ascertain her wishes.

16. Further, this situation takes us to the observations made by the Apex Court in the case of Thrity Hoshie Dolikuka Vs. Hoshiam Shavaksha Dolikuka5 wherein the Apex Court while declining to interview the minor child had noted that it was satisfied in the facts of that case that the minor child was not fit to form an intelligent preference which may be taken into consideration in deciding her welfare. In the facts of that case, the parents of the child were litigating and the court while dealing with the said case had noted that any child who is placed in such an unfortunate position can hardly have the capacity to express an intelligent preference which may require the court's consideration to decide what should be the course to be adopted for the child's welfare. It was observed that mature thinking is indeed necessary in such a situation to decide as to what will enure to her benefit and welfare. The relevant observations of the Apex Court in the said decision as noted in paragraph No.'81' of Nil Ratan Kundu (supra) are required to be noted hereinunder:-

"81. Considering the facts of the case, however, the Court refused to undertake that exercise and stated;

"In the facts and circumstances of this case we are however, not inclined to interview the minor daughter, as we are satisfied in the present case that the minor is not fit to form an intelligent preference which may be taken into consideration in deciding her welfare. We have earlier set out in extenso the various orders passed by the various learned Judges of the Bombay High Court after interviewing the minor and the learned Judges have recorded their impressions in their judgments and orders. The impressions as recorded by the learned Judges of the Bombay High Court, go to indicate that the minor has expressed different kinds of wishes at different times under different conditions. It also appears from the report of the Social Welfare Expert that these interviews cast a gloom on the sensitive mind of the tender girl and caused a lot of strain and depression on her. Torn between her love for both her parents and the acrimonious dispute between them resulting in the minor being dragged from court to court, we can well appreciate that the sensitive mind of the minor girl is bound to be sadly affected. Though the girl is quite bright and intelligent as recorded by the learned Judges of the Bombay High Court in their orders after their interviews with the girl who is of a tender age and is placed in a very delicate and embarrassing situation because of the unfortunate relationship and litigation between her parents for both of whom she has great deal of affection, she is not in a position to express any intelligent preference which will be conducive to her interest and welfare. Mature thinking is indeed necessary in such a situation to decide as to what will enure to her benefit and welfare. Any child who is placed in such an unfortunate position, can hardly have the capacity to express an intelligent preference which may require the Court's consideration to decide what should be the course to be adopted for the child's welfare. The letters addressed by the daughter to her mother from Panchgani and also a letter addressed by her to her aunt (father's sister) also go to show that the minor cannot understand her own mind properly and cannot form any firm desire. We feel that sending for the minor and interviewing her in the present case will not only not serve any useful purpose but will have the effect of creating further depression and demoralisation in her mind".

17. The principles of law in relation to the custody of a minor child, as to the paramount consideration of the welfare and interest of the child and the custody not being the rights of the parents under a statute is well settled. However, the said position of law has been stated and reiterated in those cases where the parents have been litigating over the custody of the child after separation. In some of the cases, the grand parents have litigated with one of the parent of the child after death of another and the issue was examined from the angle of the welfare of the child in the facts and circumstances of the case.

18. In Rosy Jacob Vs. Jacob A. Chakramakkal6, the Apex Court has held that the object and purpose of the 1890' Act is not merely physical custody of the minor but due protection of the rights of minor's (words) health, maintenance and education. It was held that the power and duty of the Court under the Act is the welfare of minor. In considering the question of welfare of minor, due regard has of-course to be given to the right of the natural guardian but if the custody of the father (in that case) cannot promote the welfare of the children, he may be refused such guardianship. It was observed by the Apex Court in the facts of that case, that merely because there is no defect in the personal care and attachment of the father for his child, which every normal parent has, the father would not be granted custody. Simply because the father loves his children and is not shown to be otherwise undesirable does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that the welfare of the children would be better promoted by granting their custody to him. The Court also observed that children are not mere chattels nor are they toys for their parents. Absolute right of parents over the destinies and the lives of their children has, in the modern changed social conditions must yield to the considerations of their welfare as human beings so that they may grow up in a normal balanced manner to be useful members of the society. It was observed that the Court as a guardian of the minor in case of a dispute between the mother and the father, is expected to strike a just and proper balance between the requirements of welfare of the minor children and the rights of their respective parents over them.

19. In Bimla Devi Vs. Subhas Chandra Yadav 'Nirala'7 the Court has held that paramount consideration should be welfare of minor and normal rule (the father is natural guardian and is, therefore, entitled to the custody of the child) may not be followed if he is alleged to have committed murder of his wife. In such case, appointment of grand-mother as guardian of minor girl cannot be said to be contrary to law. Construing the expression `welfare' under the Hindu Minority and Guardianship Act, 1956 liberally, it was observed by the Court therein that:-

"It is well settled that the word `welfare' used in this section must be taken in its widest sense. The moral and ethical welfare of the child must also weigh with the Court as well as its physical well being".

20. In Kamla Devi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh8 it was observed by the Apex Court that the Court while deciding child custody cases in its inherent and general jurisdiction is not bound by the mere legal right of the parent or guardian. Though the provisions of the special statutes which govern the rights of the parents or guardians may be taken into consideration, there is nothing which can stand in the way of the Court exercising its parens patriae jurisdiction arising in such cases giving due weight to the circumstances such as a child's ordinary comfort, contentment, intellectual, moral and physical development, his health, education and general maintenance and the favourable surroundings. These cases have to be decided ultimately on the Court's view of the best interests of the child whose welfare requires that he be in custody of one parent or the other.

21. All the above noted decisions have been taken note of by the Apex Court in Nil Ratan Kundu (supra), the judgement relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent, to decide the matter of custody of the child in a case where father had moved an application under the Guardian and Wards Act' 1890 seeking custody of his child. In that particular case, the mother of the child had died in unfortunate circumstances. The first information report was lodged against the father of the child that he had brutally assaulted his wife who had died out of the injuries inflicted by the husband. The appellants before the Apex court were grandparents of the child to whom the child was handed over after death of his mother while the father was in jail. The child was barely five years old at that point of time. After the father was enlarged on bail, he moved application for custody of the child. The family court as also High Court gave the custody of the child noticing that the present and future of the child would be better secured in the custody of his father and directed that the child be immediately removed from the custody of his maternal grandparents.

22. While upturning the said decision, it was noted by the Apex Court that both the trial as also the High Court had erred in not applying correct principle and proper test of welfare of minor as a paramount consideration. It was also noted that the trial court had fell in error in not ascertaining wishes of the child as to with whom he wanted to stay. It was noted by the Apex Court that even the statutory provisions in the form of Section 17(3) of the Act' 1890 provides that proceeding in appointing or declaring the guardian of a minor the Court shall be guided by not only the law to which the minor is subject, but the welfare of the minor as appears in the circumstances of the case and if the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference, the court may consider that preference. It was noted in the facts of that case that the father was facing the charge of attributing death of mother of the child and a criminal case was pending in the Court. This indeed was a relevant factor for a court of law which must be addressed while deciding the custody of a minor in favour of the father.

23. In the facts and circumstances of the case, the Apex court did not agree to the observations of the High Court that the child was tutored by the maternal parents to make him hostile towards his father. The Court did not accept the submission of the counsels for the father therein that the trial court was not bound to interview the child and held that the observations in Thrity

Hoshie Dolikuka (supra) about the perilous effect of interviewing the child at the time of deciding the issue of custody, was in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, as the Court was satisfied that calling a minor girl and interviewing her several times had not served any useful purpose and rather had the effect of creating further depression and demoralization in her mind.

24. On overall consideration of the case, it was held therein that the trial court ought to have ascertained the wishes of the minor child as to with whom he wanted to stay.

25. The above decisions in Nil Ratan Kundu (supra) was heavily relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent to argue with vehemence that the wishes of the minor child is one of the most relevant considerations to decide the issue of the custody of the child.

26. In light of the above, we may record that the present case presents peculiar facts and circumstances where the child has been deprived of her right to know as to who her biological parents are. She has been denied access to her parents by her maternal uncle and aunt who brought up her as her own child from the tender age of three and a half months. They have not only fostered the child but brought her as their own child. The maternal uncle and aunt of the child have no legal adoption and cannot be said to be legal guardian of the child and can only be said to be the foster parents. It is evident that they looked after the child very well but they are wrong in not allowing the child to meet her parents. They brought up the child as their own and changed her perception about her own parents. The child who is in the care and custody of the respondents from the tender age of three and a half months would not even know as to who her parents are.

27. In this admitted facts, in our considered opinion, no useful purpose would have been served in interviewing the child as in all probabilities she would reiterate what she had stated before the family court. The observations in the Apex Court in Nil Ratan Kundu (supra) that the Court was required to ascertain the wishes of the child as to with whom he wanted to stay, therefore, would not be of any help to the respondents to support their assertion that the wishes of the child has been duly ascertained by the family court in order to decide the issue of custody of the child and no interference should be made by the Court without further interviewing the child.

28. We may further record that we have no doubt about the statement of the minor girl noted by the family court that she wants to stay with the respondents, her maternal uncle and aunt, whom she calls 'Abbu' and 'Ammi'. The question, however, is about the welfare of the child. In a case where the welfare of the child is pitted against the wishes of the child, the wishes of the child has to yield in favour of the paramount consideration of welfare of the child who may wish otherwise. This is one of the issues which was considered by the Apex Court in Triti (supra) while refusing to interview the child again.

29. We may further note sub-section (3) of Section 17 of the Act' 1890 which provides that the court may consider the preference of the minor if the minor is old enough to form an intelligent preference which may taken into consideration in deciding her welfare.

30. It was held by the Apex Court in Nil Ratan Kundu (supra) that it is not the `negative test' that the father is not `unfit' or disqualified to have custody of his son/daughter but the `positive test' that such custody would be in the welfare of the minor, which is material and it is on that basis that the Court should exercise the power to grant or refuse custody of minor in favour of father, mother or any other guardian.

31. Coming to the instant case, simply the fact that the sister (appellant No.1) had left her child with her brother and sister-in-law who are issueless would not deprive her from the custody of her minor child. The child has not been legally adopted. The answer to the question that was considered by the trial court to give custody of the child to the maternal uncle and aunt is guided by the wishes of the child who does not even know as to who her birth parents are. The family court was swayed away by the fact that the detachment of the child from her maternal uncle and aunt who have brought her up as her own child, would have perilous effect on the physiology of the child. Whereas the parents are fighting for the custody of the child since the child was in a tender age of five years. It was categorically stated by the appellants that they were not allowed to meet their child and the respondents have refused to give back the child despite their best efforts to find out an amicable solution. The vehemence of the respondents in not allowing the child to meet her birth parents is evident from their resistance in even allowing the child to see her birth parents once in a year for 15 days. Several cases including criminal complaints were filed between the parties because of the dispute relating to the custody of the child.

32. In exercise of our jurisdiction as parens patriae, giving due consideration to the circumstances such as ordinary comfort, contentment, intellectual, moral and physical development, health, education and general maintenance of the child as also the favourable surroundings, as noted by the Apex Court in Kamla Devi (supra), we are of the considered opinion that it is in the best interest of the child whose welfare is our paramount consideration that she be in the custody of her birth parents. The reason being that:-

(i) The applicants are biological parents (both mother and father) of the child. The child as a human being has a right to know as to who are her parents and has a legal right to remain in the custody of her parents till she attains majority.

(ii) The appellants have other children, the child would grow with her siblings which is a positive environment being favourable surroundings for the welfare of the child.

(iii) Knowing her real identity as a human being is the first right of the child. She must know who her birth parents are. She must know who her siblings are. She must know who the persons are who are fostering her at present. The child cannot be allowed to live in a camouflage of her own being. Even an adopted child within the family sometime faces emotional turmoil when he is grown up and told about his/her real parents. The deprivation of the company or even knowledge about her birth parents may come as a shock to the child when she is grown up. The deprivation of the child of the company of her own siblings may prove to be a shock for her, later.

33. We are conscious of the fact that she might face some difficulty in the beginning to stay away from the respondents whom she know as her real parents, but we hope and trust that the parents appellants being well educated persons would succeed in creating a positive environment for the child so that she may adjust to the new environment with the proper care and support of her parents. Her siblings may also add to the said efforts of the parents.

34. In any case, a child as a human being cannot be deprived of the company of her birth parents under a concealed identity of the respondents being her real parents. The mother who gave birth to the child cannot be deprived of the company of her daughter just for the fact that for sometime the child was given in the foster care of her maternal uncle and aunt. It is not about the right of the applicants (the parents) or the respondents (the maternal uncle and aunt) rather it is about the right of the child as a human being. A minor has a birth right to remain in the custody of her/his birth parents, who are the best persons on earth to know the welfare of the child. The maternal uncle and aunts/foster parents of the child have not acted in a matured manner in the situation in which they fall. Their emotions on the one hand and the welfare of the child on the other are pitted against each other. The attitude and behaviour of the foster parents in the whole scenario is also not understandable. Had it been a case of legal adoption with the wishes of the parents of the child, the situation would be otherwise. Without there being any legal adoption but only under an arrangement within the family, in our considered opinion, the foster parents (the respondents) should have though fostered the child as their own but should have allowed the child to know as to who her birth parents are, to meet them, to spend time with them and then take an informed decision, an intelligent preference as to with whom she wanted to stay, to spend her childhood.

35. On overall consideration of the facts of the present case, in exercise of our judicial discretion, giving paramount consideration to the welfare of the minor, we are of the considered opinion that for contentment, intellectual, moral and physical development of the child, the best interest of the child is to be in the custody of her birth parents. The wishes of the child who is not old enough to form an intelligent preference cannot prevail over the welfare of the child.

36. We, therefore, provide that the child be handed over to the appellants/applicants by the respondents within a period of one month from the date of delivery of the judgement.

37. For handing over the custody of the child, both the parties shall appear before the Principal Judge, Family Court at Aligarh. The Principal Judge, Family Court shall record the process of the handing over and taking over the child by the respondents and the appellants; respectively, and transmit the said documents to this Court as compliance of this order.

38. We, however, provide that the appellants should allow the child to meet with her maternal uncle and aunt who have fostered her for about six years. The child should be allowed to spend time with her maternal uncle and aunt whenever the parents visit India and during her school vacations, atleast once or twice in a year depending upon her visit to India.

39. The respondents namely the maternal uncle and aunt of the child may also go to Saudi Arabia, the place of residence of the child to meet her and spend time with her.

40. We hope and trust that with the passage of time when the emotions between the parties (sister and brother) are settled down, they both can contribute towards the upbringing of the child so that she may grow into a confident, self reliant human being. We can only advise the litigating respondents who are closely related to the child to contribute in the upbringing of the child not financially but emotionally and morally so that she may grow up without any negative effect on her life because of the current dispute between the parties.

41. With the above observations and directions, the judgement and order dated 30.05.2022 passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No.3, Aligarh hereby set aside. The First Appeal No.510 of 2022 is hereby allowed. The First Appeal No.485 of 2022 is disposed of in view of the above observations and directions.

42. The compliance report shall be submitted by the Principal Judge, Family Court within a period of two months from today and shall be placed on the record by the office.

43. No order as to cost.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.
THE HON'BLE VIKAS BUDHWAR, J.

Government Appeal No. 334 of 2022

State of U.P. ...Appellant

Versus

Israr & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A., Sri Shiv Kumar Pal

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Criminal Law – Acquittal - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 364 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 378 – Delay in lodging the FIR – Scope of Interference - The Hon'ble Apex Court in the line of the decisions right from the very inception has been consistently mandating that in the proceedings challenging the judgment of acquittal, appellate courts should be slow in interfering as double presumption of innocence is tagged with the accused and until and unless the order so passed by the trial Court is perverse or straight away points towards a wrong direction emanating complete miscarriage of justice and further misreading of the evidence and there are substantive and compelling grounds for setting aside the judgment of acquittal. The Courts should, normally and in routine manner, not interfere particularly when the view taken by the learned trial Court is plausible and possible view. Needless to point out, even in the appellate courts should be slow in interfering where another view is possible. (Para 8)

B. It is well settled that delay in giving the FIR by itself cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case. Unless there are indications of fabrication, the Court cannot reject the prosecution version as given in the FIR and later substantiated by the evidence merely on the ground of delay. These are all matters of appreciation and much depends on the facts and circumstances of each case. (Para 28)

Keeping aside the aspect of the delay and its impact on the prosecution case, an additional aspect is to be noticed that barring the St.ment of PW-9 Asma, all the prosecution witnesses have turned hostile and denuded themselves from supporting the prosecution case. (Para 31)

C. Evidence Act: Section 65-B(4) - A certificate u/s 65-B(4) is necessary as in absence of the same, the call details cannot be said to be proved. The entire prosecution theory hinges upon phone call so sought to be made from the mobile phone of Israr to the deceased. Though at the time of submission of the charge sheet, reference has been made to the call details being CDR, however, the same was not proved before the learned Trial Court as neither any evidence was led, nor the same was made part and parcel of the same. (Para 43)

D. Motive – The motive which is being sought to be assigned for commission of alleged crime is relatable to the love marriage so sought to be solemnized as well as election rivalry also could not be proved by the prosecution as the past for commission of crime. (Para 46)

E. Last seen theory – In absence of any other links in the chain of circumstantial evidence, the accused cannot be convicted solely on the basis of "Last seen together", even if version of the prosecution witness in this regard is believed. (Para 56)

In the present case, the story of last seen also gets demolished, as PW-2 Mohd. Naeem, PW-3 Rajab Ali and PW-4 Om Pal Singh have come up with the stand that though they claimed to be prosecution witnesses, but they have not seen the deceased with the accused. (Para 56)

F. No doubt, suspicion, however, grave it may be, but it does not chair the seat of proof, as an accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond reasonable doubt. (Para 57)

In a nutshell, the Court finds that the prosecution case proceeds upon weak evidences and the complete chain so as to indicate the accused to have committed the crime while completing the chain pointedly marking the case to have committed crime is also missing. (Para 60)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Present appeal assails judgment and order dated 25.02.2022, passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court, Amroha.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. This is an appeal under Section 378(3) of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as "CrPC') filed against the judgment and order dated 25.2.2022 passed by Additional District & Sessions Judge/ Fast Track Court No.2, Jyotiba Phule Nagar (Amroha) in Session Trial/1700263/2014, State Vs. Israr and others arising out of Case Crime No. 278 of 2012, under Section 364 IPC, P.S. Amroha City, District Amroha, whereby accused-respondents have acquitted.

2. Briefly stated facts shorn off unnecessary details that the complainant Musharraf son of Ashraf, resident of village Nanak Nagli, P.S. Kaanth, Moradabad had submitted a written report on 31.8.2012 to S.P. Amroha with an allegation that he is the resident of village Nanak Nagli, P.S. Kaanth, Moradabad and his son Nusrat aged about 27 years is living for the past 9 years in Amroha in locality Qureshi in the house of one Shoeb as a tenant and his son had married twice as the name of the first wife is Asma and the second wife is Nazmeen. Nusrat being his son about 11 years ago had married Nazmeen daughter of Afsar Khan being in love with her and in the said connection, family members of Nazmeen were furiated and they bore enmity with his son. About 8 months ago the complainant son Nusrat was abducted and the accused being Kalam son of Qayyum resident of Sultanpur, Sujauddin, Akram, Rustam sons of Afsar Khan, Alauddin son of Akhtar Khan and Mushahid son of Sher Khan resident of village Nanak Nagli, P.S. Kaanth, Moradabad were instrumental in committing said offence and his son was recovered by the joint operation of police of Hasanpur and Gajraula.

3. As per the prosecution theory, on 29.8.2012 at 3:00 in the noon, the son of the complainant being Nusrat was accompanied with his both the wives and his children was present in the locality Qureshi, then the accused Israr made a call in the mobile phone of his son. The mobile number of Nusrat is stated to be 9917816875 and 9927874914. After receiving the said call which is stated to be made by Israr resident of village Kaserua, the complainant's son apprised his wives that he has been called by Israr resident of village Kaserua. It is further alleged that despite the fact that the complainant's son had proceeded on receiving the call of accused Israr, but when he did not return, then calls were made, however, it was noticed that both the mobile numbers were switched off and even after repeated search, his whereabouts were not traced and thus suspicion occurred that on account of love marriage so solemnized between his son and Nazmeen, the same became the ground of commission of the offence. Further allegation has been made that the complainant proceeded to the Police Station Amroha City, however, no action, whatsoever has been taken and thus he has submitted the written report that FIR be lodged.

4. Consequent to the submission of written report on 31.8.2012 at 19:15 hours, FIR was lodged in the concerned police station against the accused Kalam, Israr, Sujauddin, Akram, Rustam, Alauddin and Mushahid under Section 364 IPC. One Pramod Kumar Sharma was nominated as the Investigating Officer along with Inspector K.P. Singh. It has also come on record that the Investigating Officer proceeded to conduct investigation while preparing the site-plan and when the dead body of the deceased was shown to be found near river Ganga, then inquest report was also prepared. Statements under Section 161 CrPC was also undertaken and charge sheet was submitted by the Investigating Officer against the accused Israr. Nanhe, Gayasuddin, Mushahid, Akram and Kalam under Section 364 IPC. It has further come on record that during investigation, Gayasuddin @ Pappu had died. The case was committed to the Sessions, charges were read over to the accused Israr, Nanhey, Mushahid, Akram and Kalam on 10.11.2016. The accused pleaded innocence and claimed to be tried. However, subsequently, accused Kalam died and thus now criminal proceeding was sought to be initiated against the accused, who are four in number.

5. Learned trial court by virtue of judgment and order under challenge has acquitted the accused.

6. Challenging the same, now the State is before this Court.

7. In order bring home the charges, the prosecution has examined the following witnesses:

PW-1. Musharraf,
PW-2. Mohd. Naeem
PW-3. Rajab Ali
PW-4. Ompal Singh
PW-5. Nazmeen
PW-6. S.I. Retired Pramod Kumar Sharma
PW-7. HC152 Vikas Sharma,
PW-8. Retd. Inspector K.P. Singh Bhati
PW-9. Asma

8. This Court is oblivious of the fact that present proceedings is emanating from the judgement and order of acquittal. To put it otherwise, the present appeal has been filed by the first informant whereby he seeks judicial intervention for reversing the judgement of acquittal into conviction. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the line of the decisions right from the very inception has been consistently mandating that in the proceedings challenging the judgement of acquittal, appellate courts should be slow in interfering as double presumption of innocence is tagged with the accused and until and unless the order so passed by the trial court is perverse or straight away points towards a wrong direction emanating complete miscarriage of justice and further misreading of the evidence and there are substantive and compelling grounds for setting aside the judgement of acquittal. The courts should, normally and in routine manner, not interfere particularly when the view taken by the learned trial Court is plausible and possible view. Needless to point out, even the appellate Courts should be slow in interfering where another view is possible.

9. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Jafarudheen and others vs. State of Kerala, 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 403, has observed as under:-

"25. While dealing with an appeal against acquittal by invoking Section 378 of the Cr.PC, the Appellate Court has to consider whether the Trial Court's view can be termed as a possible one, particularly when evidence on record has been analyzed. The reason is that an order of acquittal adds up to the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused. Thus, the Appellate Court has to be relatively slow in reversing the order of the Trial Court rendering acquittal. Therefore, the presumption in favour of the accused does not get weakened but only strengthened. Such a double presumption that enures in favour of the accused has to be disturbed only by thorough scrutiny on the accepted legal parameters. Precedents: Mohan @Srinivas @Seena @Tailor Seena v. State of Karnataka, [2021 SCC OnLine SC 1233] as hereunder: -

"20. Section 378 CrPC enables the State to prefer an appeal against an order of acquittal. Section 384 CrPC speaks of the powers that can be exercised by the Appellate Court. When the trial court renders its decision by acquitting the accused, presumption of innocence gathers strength before the Appellate Court. As a consequence, the onus on the prosecution becomes more burdensome as there is a double presumption of innocence. Certainly, the Court of first instance has its own advantages in delivering its verdict, which is to see the witnesses in person while they depose. The Appellate Court is expected to involve itself in a deeper, studied scrutiny of not only the evidence before it, but is duty bound to satisfy itself whether the decision of the trial court is both possible and plausible view. When two views are possible, the one taken by the trial court in a case of acquittal is to be followed on the touchstone of liberty along with the advantage of having seen the witnesses. Article 21 of the Constitution of India also aids the accused after acquittal in a certain way, though not absolute. Suffice it is to state that the Appellate Court shall remind itself of the role required to play, while dealing with a case of an acquittal.

21. Every case has its own journey towards the truth and it is the Court's role undertake. Truth has to be found on the basis of evidence available before it. There is no room for subjectivity nor the nature of offence affects its performance. We have a hierarchy of courts in dealing with cases. An Appellate Court shall not expect the trial court to act in a particular way depending upon the sensitivity of the case. Rather it should be appreciated if a trial court decides a case on its own merit despite its sensitivity.

22. At times, courts do have their constraints. We find, different decisions being made by different courts, namely, trial court on the one hand and the Appellate Courts on the other. If such decisions are made due to institutional constraints, they do not augur well. The district judiciary is expected to be the foundational court, and therefore, should have the freedom of mind to decide a case on its own merit or else it might become a stereotyped one rendering conviction on a moral platform. Indictment and condemnation over a decision rendered, on considering all the materials placed before it, should be avoided. The Appellate Court is expected to maintain a degree of caution before making any remark.

23. This court, time and again has laid down the law on the scope of inquiry by an Appellate court while dealing with an appeal against acquittal under Section 378 CrPC. We do not wish to multiply the aforesaid principle except placing reliance on a recent decision of this court in Anwar Ali v. State of Himanchal Pradesh, (2020) 10 SCC 166:

14.2. When can the findings of fact recorded by a court be held to be perverse has been dealt with and considered in paragraph 20 of the aforesaid decision, which reads as under : (Babu case [Babu v. State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1179]) "20. The findings of fact recorded by a court can be held to be perverse if the findings have been arrived at by ignoring or excluding relevant material or by taking into consideration irrelevant/ inadmissible material. The finding may also be said to be perverse if it is "against the weight of evidence", or if the finding so outrageously defies logic as to suffer from the vice of irrationality. (Vide Rajinder Kumar Kindra v. Delhi Admn. [Rajinder Kumar Kindra v. Delhi Admn., (1984) 4 SCC 635 : 1985 SCC (L&S) 131], Excise & Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority v. Gopi Nath & Sons [Excise & Taxation Officer-cum- Assessing Authority v. Gopi Nath & Sons, 1992 Supp (2) SCC 312], Triveni Rubber & Plastics v. CCE [Triveni Rubber & Plastics v. CCE, 1994 Supp (3) SCC 665], Gaya Din v. Hanuman Prasad [Gaya Din v. Hanuman Prasad, (2001) 1 SCC 501], Aruvelu [Arulvelu v. State, (2009) 10 SCC 206 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 288] and Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao v. State of A.P. [Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao v. State of A.P., (2009) 10 SCC 636 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 372])"

It is further observed, after following the decision of this Court in Kuldeep Singh v. Commr. of Police [Kuldeep Singh v. Commr. of Police, (1999) 2 SCC 10 : 1999 SCC (L&S) 429], that if a decision is arrived at on the basis of no evidence or thoroughly unreliable evidence and no reasonable person would act upon it, the order would be perverse. But if there is some evidence on record which is acceptable and which could be relied upon, the conclusions would not be treated as perverse and the findings would not be interfered with.

14.3. In the recent decision of Vijay Mohan Singh [Vijay Mohan Singh v. State of Karnataka, (2019) 5 SCC 436 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 586], this Court again had an occasion to consider the scope of Section 378 CrPC and the interference by the High Court [State of Karnataka v. Vijay Mohan Singh, 2013 SCC OnLine Kar 10732] in an appeal against acquittal. This Court considered a catena of decisions of this Court right from 1952 onwards. In para 31, it is observed and held as under:

" 31. An identical question came to be considered before this Court in Umedbhai Jadavbhai [Umedbhai Jadavbhai v. State of Gujarat, (1978) 1 SCC 228 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 108]. In the case before this Court, the High Court interfered with the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court on reappreciation of the entire evidence on record. However, the High Court, while reversing the acquittal, did not consider the reasons given by the learned trial court while acquitting the accused. Confirming the judgment of the High Court, this Court observed and held in para 10 as under:

"10. Once the appeal was rightly entertained against the order of acquittal, the High Court was entitled to reappreciate the entire evidence independently and come to its own conclusion. Ordinarily, the High Court would give due importance to the opinion of the Sessions Judge if the same were arrived at after proper appreciation of the evidence. This rule will not be applicable in the present case where the Sessions Judge has made an absolutely wrong assumption of a very material and clinching aspect in the peculiar circumstances of the case.'

31.1. In Sambasivan [Sambasivan v. State of Kerala, (1998) 5 SCC 412 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1320], the High Court reversed the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court and held the accused guilty on reappreciation of the entire evidence on record, however, the High Court did not record its conclusion on the question whether the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable. Confirming the order passed by the High Court convicting the accused on reversal of the acquittal passed by the learned trial court, after being satisfied that the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court was perverse and suffered from infirmities, this Court declined to interfere with the order of conviction passed by the High Court. While confirming the order of conviction passed by the High Court, this Court observed in para 8 as under:

"8. We have perused the judgment under appeal to ascertain whether the High Court has conformed to the aforementioned principles. We find that the High Court has not strictly proceeded in the manner laid down by this Court in Doshi case [Ramesh Babulal Doshi v. State of Gujarat, (1996) 9 SCC 225 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 972] viz. first recording its conclusion on the question whether the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable, which alone will justify interference in an order of acquittal though the High Court has rendered a wellconsidered judgment duly meeting all the contentions raised before it. But then will this noncompliance per se justify setting aside the judgment under appeal? We think, not. In our view, in such a case, the approach of the court which is considering the validity of the judgment of an appellate court which has reversed the order of acquittal passed by the trial court, should be to satisfy itself if the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or conclusions arrived at by it are demonstrably unsustainable and whether the judgment of the appellate court is free from those infirmities; if so to hold that the trial court judgment warranted interference. In such a case, there is obviously no reason why the appellate court's judgment should be disturbed. But if on the other hand the court comes to the conclusion that the judgment of the trial court does not suffer from any infirmity, it cannot but be held that the interference by the appellate court in the order of acquittal was not justified; then in such a case the judgment of the appellate court has to be set aside as of the two reasonable views, the one in support of the acquittal alone has to stand. Having regard to the above discussion, we shall proceed to examine the judgment of the trial court in this case.'

31.2. In K. Ramakrishnan Unnithan [K. Ramakrishnan Unnithan v. State of Kerala, (1999) 3 SCC 309: 1999 SCC (Cri) 410] , after observing that though there is some substance in the grievance of the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the accused that the High Court has not adverted to all the reasons given by the trial Judge for according an order of acquittal, this Court refused to set aside the order of conviction passed by the High Court after having found that the approach of the Sessions Judge in recording the order of acquittal was not proper and the conclusion arrived at by the learned Sessions Judge on several aspects was unsustainable. This Court further observed that as the Sessions Judge was not justified in discarding the relevant/material evidence while acquitting the accused, the High Court, therefore, was fully entitled to reappreciate the evidence and record its own conclusion. This Court scrutinised the evidence of the eyewitnesses and opined that reasons adduced by the trial court for discarding the testimony of the eyewitnesses were not at all sound. This Court also observed that as the evaluation of the evidence made by the trial court was manifestly erroneous and therefore it was the duty of the High Court to interfere with an order of acquittal passed by the learned Sessions Judge.

31.3. In Atley [Atley v. State of U.P., AIR 1955 SC 807 : 1955 Cri LJ 1653] , in para 5, this Court observed and held as under :

"5. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the judgment of the trial court being one of acquittal, the High Court should not have set it aside on mere appreciation of the evidence led on behalf of the prosecution unless it came to the conclusion that the judgment of the trial Judge was perverse. In our opinion, it is not correct to say that unless the appellate court in an appeal under Section 417 CrPC came to the conclusion that the judgment of acquittal under appeal was perverse it could not set aside that order.

It has been laid down by this Court that it is open to the High Court on an appeal against an order of acquittal to review the entire evidence and to come to its own conclusion, of course, keeping in view the well-established rule that the presumption of innocence of the accused is not weakened but strengthened by the judgment of acquittal passed by the trial court which had the advantage of observing the demeanour of witnesses whose evidence have been recorded in its presence.

It is also well settled that the court of appeal has as wide powers of appreciation of evidence in an appeal against an order of acquittal as in the case of an appeal against an order of conviction, subject to the riders that the presumption of innocence with which the accused person starts in the trial court continues even up to the appellate stage and that the appellate court should attach due weight to the opinion of the trial court which recorded the order of acquittal. If the appellate court reviews the evidence, keeping those principles in mind, and comes to a contrary conclusion, the judgment cannot be said to have been vitiated. (See in this connection the very cases cited at the Bar, namely, Surajpal Singh v. State [Surajpal Singh v. State, 1951 SCC 1207 : AIR 1952 SC 52]; Wilayat Khan v. State of U.P. [Wilayat Khan v. State of U.P., 1951 SCC 898 : AIR 1953 SC 122])

In our opinion, there is no substance in the contention raised on behalf of the appellant that the High Court was not justified in reviewing the entire evidence and coming to its own conclusions.'

31.4. In K. Gopal Reddy [K. Gopal Reddy v. State of A.P., (1979) 1 SCC 355 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 305], this Court has observed that where the trial court allows itself to be beset with fanciful doubts, rejects creditworthy evidence for slender reasons and takes a view of the evidence which is but barely possible, it is the obvious duty of the High Court to interfere in the interest of justice, lest the administration of justice be brought to ridicule."

N. Vijayakumar v. State of T.N., [(2021) 3 SCC 687] as hereunder: -

"20. Mainly it is contended by Shri Nagamuthu, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant that the view taken by the trial court is a "possible view", having regard to the evidence on record. It is submitted that the trial court has recorded cogent and valid reasons in support of its findings for acquittal. Under Section 378 CrPC, no differentiation is made between an appeal against acquittal and the appeal against conviction. By considering the long line of earlier cases this Court in the judgment in Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415 : (2007) 2 SCC (Cri) 325 has laid down the general principles regarding the powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal. Para 42 of the judgment which is relevant reads as under: (SCC p. 432)

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

(1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

21. Further in the judgment in Murugesan [Murugesan v. State, (2012) 10 SCC 383: (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 69] relied on by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant, this Court has considered the powers of the High Court in an appeal against acquittal recorded by the trial court. In the said judgment, it is categorically held by this Court that only in cases where conclusion recorded by the trial court is not a possible view, then only the High Court can interfere and reverse the acquittal to that of conviction. In the said judgment, distinction from that of "possible view" to "erroneous view" or "wrong view" is explained. In clear terms, this Court has held that if the view taken by the trial court is a "possible view", the High Court not to reverse the acquittal to that of the conviction.

xxx xxx xxx

23. Further, in Hakeem Khan v. State of M.P., (2017) 5 SCC 719 : (2017) 2 SCC (Cri) 653 this court has considered the powers of the appellate court for interference in cases where acquittal is recorded by the trial court. In the said judgment it is held that if the "possible view" of the trial court is not agreeable for the High Court, even then such "possible view" recorded by the trial court cannot be interdicted. It is further held that so long as the view of the trial court can be reasonably formed, regardless of whether the High Court agrees with the same or not, verdict of the trial court cannot be interdicted and the High Court cannot supplant over the view of the trial court. Para 9 of the judgment reads as under: (SCC pp. 722-23)

"9. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, we are of the view that the trial court's judgment is more than just a possible view for arriving at the conclusion of acquittal, and that it would not be safe to convict seventeen persons accused of the crime of murder i.e. under Section 302 read with Section 149 of the Penal Code. The most important reason of the trial court, as has been stated above, was that, given the time of 6.30 p.m. to 7.00 p.m. of a winter evening, it would be dark, and, therefore, identification of seventeen persons would be extremely difficult. This reason, coupled with the fact that the only independent witness turned hostile, and two other eyewitnesses who were independent were not examined, would certainly create a large hole in the prosecution story. Apart from this, the very fact that there were injuries on three of the accused party, two of them being deep injuries in the skull, would lead to the conclusion that nothing was premeditated and there was, in all probability, a scuffle that led to injuries on both sides. While the learned counsel for the respondent may be right in stating that the trial court went overboard in stating that the complainant party was the aggressor, but the trial court's ultimate conclusion leading to an acquittal is certainly a possible view on the facts of this case. This is coupled with the fact that the presence of the kingpin Sarpanch is itself doubtful in view of the fact that he attended the Court at some distance and arrived by bus after the incident took place."

24. By applying the abovesaid principles and the evidence on record in the case on hand, we are of the considered view that having regard to material contradictions which we have already noticed above and also as referred to in the trial court judgment, it can be said that acquittal is a "possible view". By applying the ratio as laid down by this Court in the judgments which are stated supra, even assuming another view is possible, same is no ground to interfere with the judgment of acquittal and to convict the appellant for the offence alleged. From the evidence, it is clear that when the Inspecting Officer and other witnesses who are examined on behalf of the prosecution, went to the office of the appellant-accused, the appellant was not there in the office and office was open and people were moving out and in from the office of the appellant. It is also clear from the evidence of PWs 3, 5 and 11 that the currency and cellphone were taken out from the drawer of the table by the appellant at their instance. There is also no reason, when the tainted notes and the cellphone were given to the appellant at 5.45 p.m. no recordings were made and the appellant was not tested by PW 11 till 7.00 p.m."

10. Bearing in mind the proposition of law so culled out by Hon'ble Apex Court, now the present case is to be addressed.

11. Heard Sri Kailash Prasad Pathak, the learned A.G.A.

12. Learned A.G.A, has argued that the judgment and order passed by the Trial Court acquitting the accused is superficial and besides being perverse inasmuch as there was ample evidence available on record so as to convict the accused as not only the prosecution witnesses had supported the prosecution theory, but there were other factors available not only showing motive, but clearly linking the accused with respect to commission of crime.

13. In nutshell, learned A.G.A, has argued that the judgment of acquittal has proceeded towards wrong direction, as learned Trial Court has misread the evidence, which pointedly marked the accused of commission of crime.

14. In order to delve into the issue in question, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is to be at least noticed.

15. PW-1 Musharraf claims himself to be the first informant and according to him, he is father of the deceased being his son lives with his both the wives and children as the tenant in the house of Shoeb in locality Qureshi and his son Nusrat has apprised his wife Asma that he had received a call and that's why he proceeded and when he did not come back to his house, then the calls were made on the mobile phone of the deceased, then it was revealed that mobile phone was switched off. According to him, he knows the accused, as they are his relatives and resident of the same village and he had promptly gone to lodge FIR, but it was not lodged, but the same was lodged after two days.

16. As PW-2, Mohd. Naeem appeared in the witness box and according to him he does not know the deceased Nusrat nor he knows the accused and on the fateful day on 29.8.2012, he was in his house and he had not seen Nusrat being accompanied with the accused.

17. PW-3, Rajab Ali also entered into the witness box and according to him, he knows the accused Gayasuddin @ Pappu, Israr and Nanhey, as their agricultural farm is adjoining his agricultural farm. According to him, the accused are residents of village Kaserua. He has further deposed that on 30.8.2012, he had not seen the accused Gayasuddin @ Pappu, Israr, Nanhey along with any other person.

18. As PW-4 Ompal Singh appeared as prosecution witness. He has come up with the stand that on 30.8.2012, he had not seen deceased with the accused Gayasuddin @ Pappu, Nanhey, Israr, residents of Kaserua.

19. One Nazmeen appeared as PW-5. She claims to be the wife of the deceased and marriage to him 9 years ago being the second wife and the first wife of the deceased was Asma and she along with her and three children had stayed with the deceased husband in a rented room. According to her statement, her husband Nusrat without informing her had gone away. When he did not come back and she did not receive any phone call and she had not seen Israr and Gayasuddin @ Pappu.

20. As PW-6 S.I. Pramod Kumar Sharma appeared in the witness box and according to him on 2.11.2012, he was posted as Station Incharge, Kotwali City, Amroha and he has taken the investigation from the stage which was left by his predecessor Mrityunjai Singh consequent to his transfer. He in his statement has further deposed that Nusrat was of a criminal character and was a history-sheeter and against him, several criminal cases were going on. He has further deposed that he had not taken the possession of the vehicle which was used in the crime and he has also not sketched the place of occurrence from the highway while preparing the site-plan. He has further deposed that consequent to the investigation, so conducted by him, he did not find the dead body of the deceased, nor any incriminating articles were recovered.

21. PW-7 Head Constable 152 Vikas Sharma has deposed that on 31.8.2012, he was posted as Head Clerk and at 9:15 hours, he had lodged FIR and thus he sought to prove the FIR.

22. As PW-8, Retd. Inspector K.P. Singh Bhati claims himself to be the Investigating Officer so entrusted with the duty, consequent to the direction issued by I.G. Zone, Bareilly.

23. As PW-9, Asma appeared as a prosecution witness and according to her statement, she had been the Pradhan of village Nanak Nagli. She further stated that one Roshan Ara who happens to be the wife of Sujauddin also contested the Pradhan election and on account of the election rivalry, the crime has been committed. She has further deposed that Nusrat had two wives, one being PW-9 and when the deceased husband stayed in Amroha, then he married Nazmeen, who happens to be the real sister of Sujauddin and this was the rivalry, which bore in the mind of Sujauddin. She has further deposed that earlier also, the deceased became missing and he was abducted by the accused Israr, Pappu, Sujauddin, Akram, Alauddin and Kalam.

24. PW-9 has further deposed that on 29.8.2012 Israr had called her husband and he had told her that he is going on the basis of call of Israr, and thereafter, no phone whatsoever was received and her husband went missing.

25. Undisputedly, the incident relates to 29.8.2012, wherein as per the prosecution case, the deceased received a phone call from Israr and he proceeded to meet Israr and went missing and when phone call was made, then the mobile was found to be switched off. Admittedly, the FIR has been lodged on 31.8.2012 at 19:15 hours after a period of two days. An explanation has been sought to be offered by the prosecution that the delay occasioned on account of the fact that the deceased went missing and after waiting for a phone call, and when the same was not received and after making repeated search when the whereabouts of the deceased was not traced, then the FIR was lodged.

26. The learned Trial Court has taken pains to examine the FIR in question, wherein it was found that the word "applicant' and certain other conspicuous words have been used, even in fact it is PW-1 Musharraf, who happens to be the witness, who claims to be the first informant, he in his cross examination has stated that he had got typed the FIR in the District Court Amroha and the person, who had typed the FIR did not read the same and he without reading the contents of the FIR he had put thumb impression over the same. He has further admitted that the contents of the FIR were narrated by the person, who was typing the same. Even in fact, PW-7 Head Constable 152 Vikas Sharma has himself deposed in his cross-examination that the PW-1 had not put any signature or thumb impression of PW-1 in the FIR and in the written report, there were various over-writings, which depicted that the same was tailored in such a manner so as to make a case. He has further deposed that the said written report had been scribed by some person of Mohalla Qureshi, Amroha. Not only the delay in lodging the FIR assumes significance, but the statement of PW's- 1 to 7 also creates a cloud regarding the fact that whether the said incident occurred or not, particularly when PW's 1 and 7 in their statement had admitted that the FIR was being written/ typed by somebody else and on their direction, the facts were narrated and without seeing the same and listening to the facts so mentioned therein signatures and thumb impressions were made by the PW-1/ Musharraf (first informant).

27. The Hon'ble Apex Court on the question of delay in lodging the FIR and its impact upon the prosecution theory has observed in the case of (1973) 3 SCC 114 Apren Joseph Alias Current Kunjukunju and others Vs. The State of Kerala wherein para 11 following was mandated:

11. Now first information report is a report relating to the commission of an offence given to the police and recorded by it under Section 154, Cr. P. C. As observed by the Privy Council in K. E. v. Khwaja, the receipt and recording of information report by the police is not a condition precedent to the setting in motion of a criminal investigation. Nor does the statute provide that such information report can only be made by an eye witness. First information report under Section 154 is not even considered a substantive piece of evidence. It can only be used to corroborate or contradict the informant's evidence in court. But this information when recorded is the basis of the case set up by the informant. It is very useful if recorded before there is time and opportunity to embellish or before the informant's memory fades. Undue unreasonable delay in lodging the F. I. R., therefore, inevitably gives rise to suspicion which puts the court on guard to look for the possible motive and the explanation for the delay and consider its effect on the trustworthiness or otherwise of the prosecution version. In our opinion, no duration of time in the abstract can be fixed as reasonable for giving information of a crime to the police, the question of reasonable time being a matter for determination by the court in each case. Mere delay in lodging the first information report with the police is, therefore, not necessarily, as a matter of law, fatal to the prosecution. The effect of delay in doing so in the light of the plausibility of the explanation forthcoming for such delay accordingly must fall for consideration on all the facts and circumstances of a given case.

28. In the case of Tara Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab 1991 Supp (1) SCC 536, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 4 has observed as under:-

4. It is well settled that the delay in giving the FIR by itself cannot be a ground to doubt the prosecution case. Knowing the Indian conditions as they are we cannot expect these villagers to rush to the police station immediately after the occurrence. Human nature as it is, the kith and kin who have witnessed the occurrence cannot be expected to act mechanically with all the promptitude in giving the report to the police. At times being grief-stricken because of the calamity it may not immediately occur to them that they should give a report. After all it is but natural in these circumstances for them to take some time to go to the police station for giving the report. Of course the Supreme Court as well as the High Courts have pointed out that in cases arising out of acute factions there is a tendency to implicate persons belonging to the opposite faction falsely. In order to avert the danger of convicting such innocent persons the courts are cautioned to scrutinise the evidence of such interested witnesses with greater care and caution and separate grain from the chaff after subjecting the evidence to a closer scrutiny and in doing so the contents of the FIR also will have to be scrutinised carefully. However, unless there are indications of fabrication, the court cannot reject the prosecution version as given in the FIR and later substantiated by the evidence merely on the ground of delay. These are all matters for appreciation and much depends on the facts and circumstances of each case.

29. Yet, in the case of P. Rajagopal and others Vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2019) 5 SCC 403, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 12 has held as under:-

"12. Normally, the Court may reject the case of the prosecution in case of inordinate delay in lodging the first information report because of the possibility of concoction of evidence by the prosecution. However, if the delay is satisfactorily explained, the Court will decide the matter on merits without giving much importance to such delay. The Court is duty-bound to determine whether the explanation afforded is plausible enough given the facts and circumstances of the case. The delay may be condoned if the complainant appears to be reliable and without any motive for implicating the accused falsely."

30. Further in the case of Dilawar Singh vs. State of Delhi reported in (2007) 12 SCC 641 in paragraph 9, 10 and 11, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under: -

"9. In criminal trial one of the cardinal principles for the Court is to look for plausible explanation for the delay in lodging the report. Delay sometimes affords opportunity to the complainant to make deliberation upon the complaint and to make embellishment or even make fabrications. Delay defeats the chance of the unsoiled and untarnished version of the case to be presented before the Court at the earliest instance. That is why if there is delay in either coming before the police or before the Court, the Courts always view the allegations with suspicion and look for satisfactory explanation. If no such satisfaction is formed, the delay is treated as fatal to the prosecution case.

10. In Thulia Kali v. The State of Tamil Nadu (AIR 1973 SC 501), it was held that the delay in lodging the first information report quite often results in embellishment as a result of afterthought. On account of delay, the report not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, but also danger creeps in of the introduction of coloured version, exaggerated account or concocted story as a result of deliberation and consultation.

11. In Ram Jag and others v. The State of U.P. (AIR 1974 SC 606) the position was explained that whether the delay is so long as to throw a cloud of suspicion on the seeds of the prosecution case must depend upon a variety of factors which would vary from case to case. Even a long delay can be condoned if the witnesses have no motive for implicating the accused and/or when plausible explanation is offered for the same. On the other hand, prompt filing of the report is not an unmistakable guarantee of the truthfulness or authenticity of the version of the prosecution."

31. Keeping aside the aspect of the delay and its impact on the prosecution case, an additional aspect is to be noticed that barring the statement of PW-9 Asma, all the prosecution witnesses have turned hostile and denuded themselves from supporting the prosecution case.

32. So far as PW-1 is concerned, he though happens to be the father of the deceased, however, as discussed earlier, he has admitted in his deposition that he had got the FIR typed in the District Court and he without reading and listening to the contents of the FIR had put his thumb impression and the said fact stands corroborated with the statement of HCP152 Vikas Sharma. So far as PW-2 Mohd. Naeem is concerned, he though was presented as a prosecution witness, but he denies knowing Nusrat and the accused and on the fateful day on 29.8.2012, he was in his house and he did not see the conditions and he claims that he has not given any statement under Section 161 of CrPC.

33. Similarly, PW-3 Rajab Ali also turned hostile while coming up with the stands that he has not given any statement as stated by the prosecution under Section 161 CrPC and he has not seen the accused with the deceased on 30.8.2012, near brick-kiln.

34. PW-4 also became hostile and according to him, he has not seen the accused with the deceased on 30.8.2012 and he claims not to give any statement under Section 161 CrPC.

35. PW-5 Nazmeen also turned hostile being wife of the deceased while coming up with the stand that the accused on the fateful day had gone out of the house without apprising her and he did not return and she also denied the fact that any phone call came on the mobile of the deceased and according to her statement, her maternal family members were happy with her love marriage with the deceased.

36. PW-6, who happens to be S.I. Pramod Kumar Sharma had come up with the stand that the deceased was a history sheeter having criminal history and he has further admitted that in the site-plan, the place of occurrence and the highway has not been sketched and the dead body of the deceased was not recovered nor any incriminating articles were found.

37. PW-7 Head Constable 152 Vikas Sharma though has proved the lodging of the FIR, but as discussed above, according to him, the written complaint was prepared by some persons of mohalla Qureshi and there were over-writings and cuttings.

38. PW-8, S.I. K.P. Singh Bhati had deposed that he is not aware as to which place, he had searched the deceased and according to him, there was no witness, who came in support of the prosecution theory and the deceased was a history sheeter and criminal cases were going on against him in Delhi, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand.

39. Thus PW's 1 to 8 have not supported the prosecution theory as sought to be suggested by PW-9. In fact, PW-9 seeks to support the prosecution theory. Though conviction can be made on the basis of the deposition of a solitary witness provided the same is reliable and constantly points towards the crime taking into account the other factors in that regard.

40. PW-9 claims herself to be the wife of the deceased. However, there are major contradictions in her testimony, which discredits her testimony, as on one hand in her examination, PW-9 has come up with the stand that Nazmeen is the real sister of Sujauddin. However, in her cross-examination, she comes up with a stand that Nazmeen is not a real sister of Sujauddin, but cousin sister, though father was the same, but she was born out of her second mother. So much so PW-9 Asma in her examination-in-chief has come up with the stand that she had gone to the house of Sujauddin, Ashraf, Rustam, Mushahid and Israr in order to find the whereabouts of her husband, however her husband could not be traced, but in her cross-examination, she had stated that she had not gone to the house of Sujauddin, Akram, Rustam, Kalam and Israr. Apart from the same, on 29.8.2012 according to her, the deceased husband received a phone call from Israr and he had apprised that he is going to Israr's place, but there is no recital about the fact as to at what time, the deceased husband received the phone call. In her cross-examination, on being specifically asked, she had stated that on the date of the occurrence, her deceased husband had gone outside the house in the morning without taking the breakfast.

41. Conversely, in the FIR, the time of leaving house in question has been shown to be 3:00 in the noon. The said fact stands corroborated with CD-1 at page 7 of the Case Diary. Additionally in the statement under Section 161 CrPC, PW-9 Asma has further stated that her husband left the house at 3:00 in the noon which itself shows that it is highly improbable that the person, who leaves the house at 3:00 in noon, would have either taken meals being breakfast or lunch. Thus there is clear contradiction in the statement of PW-9.

42. Inconsistency in the statement of PW-9 gets further highlighted from the fact that in her examination in chief, PW-9 had stated that her hsuband had apprised that he had received the phone call of Israr and Israr had called him however in her cross-examination, an improvement was sought to be made to the extent that Israr was sitting with Sujauddin, Akram, Rustam, Mushahid, Kalam and Alauddin and as all they were sitting together so they had called the deceased. Additionally in the cross-examination, a further improvement was made that Israr, Rustam, Akram, Sujauddin, Alauddin, Mushahid, Kalam and Gayasuddin @ Pappu were calling and that is why her husband had gone, as the said facts were apprised by the deceased.

PW-9 in her cross-examination, has further stated that in connection with certain settlement her husband was being called. Meaning thereby, that at every stage, improvements were sought to be made.

43. Another additional aspect also needs to be examined is with regard to the fact that the entire prosecution theory hinges upon phone call so sought to be made from the mobile phone of Israr to the deceased. Though at the time of submission of the charge sheet, reference has been made to the call details being CDR, however, the same was not proved before the learned Trial Court as neither any evidence was led, nor the same was made part and partial of the same.

44. Even in fact, the law in this regard is very clear that a certificate under Section 65-B (4) of the Evidence Act is necessary as in absence of the same, the call details cannot be said to be proved. The said aspect of the matter has already been taken note by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Arjun Panditrao Khotkar Vs. Kailash Kushanrao Gorantyal and others, (2020) 7 SCC 1, which is observed in paragraphs no. 47, 51, 52 and 61 as under:-

"47. However, caveat must be entered here. The facts of the present case show that despite all efforts made by the respondents, both through the High Court and otherwise, to get the requisite certificate under Section 65-B(4) of the Evidence Act from the authorities concerned, yet the authorities concerned wilfully refused, on some pretext or the other, to give such certificate. In a fact-circumstance where the requisite certificate has been applied for from the person or the authority concerned, and the person or authority either refuses to give such certificate, or does not reply to such demand, the party asking for such certificate can apply to the court for its production under the provisions aforementioned of the Evidence Act, CPC or CrPC. Once such application is made to the court, and the court then orders or directs that the requisite certificate be produced by a person to whom it sends a summons to produce such certificate, the party asking for the certificate has done all that he can possibly do to obtain the requisite certificate. Two Latin maxims become important at this stage. The first is lex non cogit ad impossibilia i.e. the law does not demand the impossible, and impotentia excusat legem i.e. when there is a disability that makes it impossible to obey the law, the alleged disobedience of the law is excused. This was well put by this Court in Presidential Poll, In re, (1974) 2 SCC 33, as follows: (SCC pp. 49-50, paras 14-15)

"14. If the completion of election before the expiration of the term is not possible because of the death of the prospective candidate it is apparent that the election has commenced before the expiration of the term but completion before the expiration of the term is rendered impossible by an act beyond the control of human agency. The necessity for completing the election before the expiration of the term is enjoined by the Constitution in public and State interest to see that the governance of the country is not paralysed by non-compliance with the provision that there shall be a President of India.

15. The impossibility of the completion of the election to fill the vacancy in the office of the President before the expiration of the term of office in the case of death of a candidate as may appear from Section 7 of the 1952 Act does not rob Article 62(1) of its mandatory character. The maxim of law impotentia excusat legem is intimately connected with another maxim of law lex non cogit ad impossibilia. Impotentia excusat legem is that when there is a necessary or invincible disability to perform the mandatory part of the law that impotentia excuses. The law does not compel one to do that which one cannot possibly perform. 'Where the law creates a duty or charge, and the party is disabled to perform it, without any default in him, and has no remedy over it, there the law will in general excuse him.' Therefore, when it appears that the performance of the formalities prescribed by a statute has been rendered impossible by circumstances over which the persons interested had no control, like the act of God, the circumstances will be taken as a valid excuse. Where the act of God prevents the compliance with the words of a statute, the statutory provision is not denuded of its mandatory character because of supervening impossibility caused by the act of God. (See Broom's Legal Maxims, 10th Edn. at pp. 162-63 and Craies on Statute Law, 6th Edn. at p. 268.)"

It is important to note that the provision in question in Presidential Poll, In re24 was also mandatory, which could not be satisfied owing to an act of God, in the facts of that case.

51. On an application of the aforesaid maxims to the present case, it a is clear that though Section 65-B(4) is mandatory, yet, on the facts of this case, the respondents, having done everything possible to obtain the necessary certificate, which was to be given by a third party over whom the respondents had no control, must be relieved of the mandatory obligation contained in the said sub-section.

52. We may hasten to add that Section 65-B does not speak of the stage at which such certificate must be furnished to the Court. In Anvar P.V.2, this Court did observe that such certificate must accompany the electronic record when the same is produced in evidence. We may only add that this is so in cases where such certificate could be procured by the person seeking to rely upon an electronic record. However, in cases where either a defective certificate is given, or in cases where such certificate has been demanded and is not given by the person concerned, the Judge conducting the trial must summon the person/ persons referred to in Section 65-B(4) of the Evidence Act, and require that such certificate be given by such person/persons. This, the trial Judge ought to do when the electronic record is produced in evidence before him without the requisite certificate in the circumstances aforementioned. This is, of course, subject to discretion being exercised in civil cases in accordance with law, and in accordance with the requirements of justice on the facts of each case. When it comes to criminal trials, it is important to keep in mind the general principle that the accused must be supplied all documents that the prosecution seeks to rely upon before commencement of the trial, under the relevant sections of the CrPC.

61. We may reiterate, therefore, that the certificate required under Section 65-B(4) is a condition precedent to the admissibility of evidence by way of electronic record, as correctly held in Anvar P.V.2, and incorrectly "clarified" a in Shafhi Mohammad³. Oral evidence in the place of such certificate cannot possibly suffice as Section 65-B(4) is a mandatory requirement of the law. Indeed, the hallowed principle in Taylor v. Taylor40, which has been followed in a number of the judgments of this Court, can also be applied. Section 65-B(4) of the Evidence Act clearly states that secondary evidence is admissible only if led in the manner stated and not otherwise. To hold otherwise would render Section 65-B(4) otiose."

45. Recently Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No.1307 of 2019 Ravinder Singh @ Kaku Vs. State of Punjab decided on 4.5.2022 had followed the judgement in the case of Arjun Panditrao Khotkar (Supra) and paragraph 21 has held as under:-

"21. In light of the above, the electronic evidence produced before the High Court should have been in accordance with the statute and should have complied with the certification requirement, for it to be admissible in the court of law. As rightly stated above, Oral evidence in the place of such certificate, as is the case in the present matter, cannot possibly suffice as Section 65B(4) is a mandatory requirement of the law".

46. Nonetheless, the motive which is being sought to be assigned for commission of alleged crime is relatable to the love marriage so sought to be solemnized as well as election rivalry also could not be proved by the prosecution as the past for commission of crime. Moreover, so far as the allegations so sought to be leveled against the accused Sujauddin and others is concerned relatable to abduction of his husband on earlier occasion and the recovery at the instance of the joint operation of the police of Police Station Gajraula and Police Station Hasanpur is concerned, PW-8 Inspector K.P. Singh Bhati in his cross examination has stated that in the said case final report has been submitted.

47. Apart from the same, another factor, which also needs to be gone into is relatable to the fact as to who had seen the commission of the offence in the light of the last seen theory.

48. PW-2, Mohd. Naeem, PW-3 Rajab Ali and PW-4 Om Pal Singh in their statement have come up with the stand that they have not seen the deceased with the accused. Meaning thereby, the theory of last seen also stands exploded.

49. Moreover, it has come on record that the deceased was a history sheeter having a criminal background and he was found in fact instrumental in preparing forged papers. The said fact has been admitted by the father of the deceased PW-1 Musharraf and PW-5 Nazmeen, even PW-6 being I.O. Pramod Kumar Sharma has also deposed that the deceased was having criminal background and so much so PW-8 I.O. K.P. Singh Bhati has also come up with the said stand.

50. The said factors itself indicate towards a possibility that he was having enmity with others or he himself got him concealed in such a manner so as to avoid the onslaught, which might be inflicted upon him with relation to the criminal cases being lodged and pending against him in the State of Delhi, Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand etc.

51. Recovery aspect also needs to be noticed that PW-6 being the I.O. Pramod Kumar Sharma in his cross-examination has stated that he had not taken the vehicle in question in his possession and the body, which is sought to be shown to be recovered was not marked in the site plan vis-a-vis the location of the highway and further due to waves which were witnessed in the river, the same obstructed in tracing out the dead body of the deceased and further to put nail on the coffin of the conviction PW-8 being K.P. Singh Bhati in his cross-examination has shown his ignorance, as to which were the places, whereat the dead body of the deceased was sought to be searched. The said fact itself shows that there had been a defective investigation at the instance of the Investigating Officer.

52. Cumulatively analyzing, the present case from the four-corners of law, it is apparent that barring PW-9, none of the prosecution witnesses supported the prosecution theory and in view of vast contradictions and inconsistency in the statements of PW-9, same also discredits testimony of PW-9 also. In case, the prosecution theory is stretched as an elastic, then the same can be put as the case of circumstantial evidence. However, the prosecution is under obligation to prove the same in such a manner that it is only the accused, who have committed the crime beyond doubt and nobody else.

53. The Apex Court in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (1984) 4 SCC 116, has observed as under: -

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned 'must or should' and not 'may be' established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between 'may be proved' and 'must be or should be proved' as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & Anr. v. State of Maharashtra (1973) 2 SCC 793, where the following observations were made:

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say. they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

54. Moreover, without burdening the judgment, this Court also notices the judgment in the case of Bodhraj vs. State of J&K reported in (2002) 8 SCC 45, wherein in paragraph 9 and 10, the following was observed by the Hon'ble Apex Court: -

"9. Before analyzing factual aspects it may be stated that for a crime to be proved it is not necessary that the crime must be seen to have been committed and must, in all circumstances be proved by direct ocular evidence by examining before the Court those persons who had seen its commission. The offence can be proved by circumstantial evidence also. The principal fact or factum probandum may be proved indirectly by means of certain inferences drawn from factum probans, that is, the evidentiary facts. To put it differently circumstantial evidence is not direct to the point in issue but consists of evidence of various other facts which are so closely associated with the fact in issue that taken together they form a chain of circumstances from which the existence of the principal fact can be legally inferred or presumed.

It has been consistently laid down by this Court that where a case rests squarely on circumstantial evidence. the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any other persons. (See Hukam Singh v. State of Rajasthan, AIR (1977) SC 1063), Eradu and Ors. v. State of Hyderabad, AIR (1956) SC 316, Earabhadrappa v. State of Karnataka, AIR (1983) SC 446, State of U.P. v. Sukhbasi and Ors., AIR (1985) SC 1224, Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR (1987) SC 350, Ashok Kumar Chatterjee v. State of MP AIR (1989) SC 1890. The circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances. In Bhagat Ram v. State of Punjab, AIR (1954) SC 621), it was laid down that where the case depends upon the conclusion drawn from circumstances the cumulative effect of the circumstances must be such as to negative the innocence of the accused and bring the offences home beyond any reasonable doubt."

55. Recently in the Special Leave Petition (Crl) No. 1156 of 2021, The State of Odisha vs. Banabihari Mohapatra and Another decided on 12.2.2021, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraphs 35, 36 and 37 has observed as under: -

"35. Before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established on circumstantial evidence, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must fully be established and the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt of the accused. There has to be a chain of evidence so complete, as not to leave any reasonable doubt for any conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability, the act must have been done by the Accused.

36 In Shanti Devi v. State of Rajasthan reported in (2012) 12 SCC 158, this Court held that the principles for conviction of the accused based on circumstantial evidence are:

"10.1. The circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be proved must be cogently or firmly established.

10.2. The circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused.

10.3. The circumstances taken cumulatively must form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability, the crime was committed by the accused and none else. 10.4. The circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence."

37. Keeping the above test in mind, we have no iota of doubt that the Trial Court rightly acquitted the Accused Respondents. There is a strong possibility that the accused, who was as per the opinion of the doctor who performed the autopsy, intoxicated with alcohol, might have accidentally touched a live electrical wire, may be while he was asleep. The impugned judgment of the High Court dismissing the appeal on the ground of delay does not call for interference under Article 136 of the Constitution of India."

56. The story of last seen also gets demolished as discussed above, as PW-2 Mohd. Naeem, PW-3 Rajab Ali and PW-4 Om Pal Singh have come up with the stand that though they claimed to be prosecution witnesses, but they have not seen the deceased with the accused. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 378 of 2015, *Chandra Pal vs. State of Chhattisgarh decided on 27.5.2022 in paragraphs- 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17 has observed as under: -

"13. This takes the court to examine the theory of "Last seen together" propounded by the prosecution. As per the case of prosecution, PW-1 Dhansingh had seen the accused Chandrapal calling the deceased Kanhaiya and taking him inside his house on the fateful night. Apart from the fact that the said Dhansingh had not stated about the time or date when he had lastly seen Kanhaiya with Chandrapal, even assuming that he had seen Chandrapal calling Kanhaiya at his house when he was sitting at the premises of village panchayat, the said even had taken place ten days prior to the day when the dead bodies of the deceased were found. The time gap between the two incidents i.e., the day when Dhansingh saw Chandrapal calling Kanhaiya at his house and the day Kanhaiya's dead body was found being quite big, it is difficult to connect the present appellant with the alleged crime, more particularly when there is no other clinching and cogent evidence produced by the prosecution.

`14. In this regard it would be also relevant to regurgitate the law laid down by this court with regard to the theory of "Last seen together".

`15. In case of Bodhraj & Ors. Vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir (2002) 8 SCC 45, this court held in para 31 that:

`"31. The last-seen theory comes into play where the time-gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible...."

`16. In Jaswant Gir Vs. State of Punjab, (2005) 12 SCC 438, this court held that in absence of any other links in the chain of circumstantial evidence, the accused cannot be convicted solely on the basis of "Last seen together", even if version of the prosecution witness in this regard is believed.

`17. In Arjun Marik & Ors. Vs. State of Bihar 10, It was observed that the only circumstance of last seen will not complete the chain of circumstances to record the finding that it is consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, and therefore no conviction on that basis alone can be founded."

57. No doubt, suspicion, however, grave it may be, but it does not chair the seat of proof, as an accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond reasonable doubt.

58. In Nathiya Vs. State represented by Inspector of Police, Bagayam Police Station Vellore (2016) 10 SCC 298, the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph 25 has observed as under:-

`"25. On an analysis of the overall fact situation, we are of the considered opinion that the chain of circumstantial evidence relied upon by the prosecution to prove the charge is visibly incomplete and incoherent to permit conviction of the appellants on the basis thereof without any trace of doubt. Though the materials on record do raise a needle of suspicion towards them, the prosecution has failed to elevate its case from the realm of "may be true" to the plane of "must be true" as is indispensably required in law for conviction on a criminal charge. It is trite to state that in a criminal trial, suspicion, howsoever grave, cannot substitute proof."

59. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of The State of Odisha vs. Banabihari Mohapatra (supra) in paragraph 38 has held as under:-

60. In nutshell, the Court finds that the prosecution case proceeds upon weak evidences and the complete chain so as to indicate the accused to have committed the crime while completing the chain pointedly marking the case to have committed crime is also missing.

61. This Court further finds that the view taken by the learned Trial Court is a possible view and there is no justification in adopting any other view. The considerations, which weighed the learned Trial Court while acquitting the accused itself are based on the ocular testimony and the evidence so adduced in support thereof and in absence of any perversity so committed by the learned Trial Court, this Court finds its inability to hold the judgment as perverse.

62. Hence, in any view of the matter applying the principles of law so culled out by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the facts of the present case, we have no option but to concur with the view taken by the learned Sessions Judge.

63. We find that it is not a case worth granting leave to appeal. The application for granting leave to appeal is rejected.

64. Since the leave to file the appeal has not been granted, consequently, present government appeal also stands dismissed.

65. Records of the present case be sent back to the concerned court below.

(2022) 10 ILRA 1213
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.
THE HON'BLE VIKAS BUDHWAR, J.

Government Appeal No. 2450 of 1986

The State of U.P. ...Appellant
Versus
Durga Prasad & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
A.G.A.

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri I.M. Khan, Sri A.B.L. Gaur, Sri Madhukar Maurya, Sri Rahul Mishra, Sri Sandeep Kumar

A. Criminal Law – Acquittal - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 304, 149 & 323 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 378 – Scope of Interference – The reasons for interfering in the judgment of acquittal should be compelling and substantive in order to prevent miscarriage of justice through the parties. This Court while exercising jurisdiction can only interfere and grant indulgence in the judgment and the order of acquittal when it is palpably perverse, there has been complete misreading of the evidences so sought to be adduced and it proceeds towards a wrong directions so as to indicate that the view taken by the learned Trial Court is a view which cannot be perceived by a prudent person. (Para 16)

B. It is well settled that it is not necessary for the defence to prove its case with the same rigour as the prosecution is required to prove its case, and it is sufficient if the defence succeeds in throwing a reasonable doubt on the prosecution case which is sufficient to enable the Court to reject the prosecution version. (Para 36)

In almost all criminal cases, the bloodstained earth found from the place of occurrence is invariably sent to the Chemical Examiner and his report along with the earth is produced in the Court, and yet this is one exceptional case where this procedure was departed from for reasons best known to the prosecution. This also, therefore, shows that the defence version may be true.

The IO has specifically deposed that he had not taken the bloodstained earth on the day he was assigned the investigation (i.e. 11.07.1982). He further could not justify in his St.ment as to why he did not take the St.ment of the injured (deceased). He has deposed that he had not gone to the field in order to determine the fact as to whether the crops were destroyed while grazing by the accused or not. This stand taken by the IO coupled with the fact that there is a serious cloud over the incident which occurred in the agricultural field generating the commission of the alleged offence does not link the accused to have committed offence. (Para 35)

C. Enmity is a two sided dagger and one of the basis of commission of crime being the motive but the prosecution if, is taking aid of the device of motive, has to prove it beyond doubt so as to give the opportunity to the defence to despell the same. (Para 39)

There was an enmity between the parties and election took place only three days before the incident and son (Vidyasagar) of the deceased who defeated Pradhan had taken PW 1 Rajendra Prasad to lodge FIR at Police Station. This Court finds that though on one hand motive is being sought to be assigned as a basis for commission of the crime but non implication of the Pradhan itself creates a suspicion and cloud over the prosecution theory pertaining to the offence which has rivalry of Pradhan as the basis of commission of crime. (Para 37)

D. Merely because there has been delay in recording the St.ment of the prosecution witnesses by the IO does not ipso facto renders it to be fatal to the prosecution case but there has to be an explanation so as to suggest as to what was the reasons occasioned in delay in recording the St.ment of the prosecution witnesses.

In the present case, the IO had the due opportunity to get recorded the St.ments of the prosecution witness so as to eliminate the chances of any soliciting or tutoring but there was no reason assigned for delay in recording the St.ment of the prosecution witness. (Para 44)

E. Conflict between the prosecution case and medical evidence – If there is inconsistency or discrepancy between the medical evidence and the direct evidence or between medical evidence of two doctors, one of whom examined the injured person and the other conducted postmortem on the injured person after his death or as to the injuries, then in criminal cases, the accused is given the benefit of doubt, and let off. Where the direct testimony is found untrustworthy, conviction on the basis of medical evidence supported by other circumstantial evidence can be done, if that is trustworthy. (Para 48, 49)

The Hon'ble Apex Court has gone to the issue relating to the food which the deceased ate and condition whether the same was digested, undigested or semi-digested in order to determine the actual time of death and while considering the same, determined the veracity of the prosecution theory. (Para 48)

In the present case learned trial Court has concluded that by no stretch of imagination the semi digested food could be in stomach when the incident took place at 5:00 in the evening. (Para 50)

The prosecution could not prove the commission of the offences by the accused herein beyond doubt. This Court cannot substitute the views so taken by the learned Trial Court once the same is not actuated by perversity. (Para 52)

1) In the FIR there has been no specific role assigned to the accused herein particularly when the first informant being PW 1 Rajendra Prasad happened to be the son of the deceased and also an eye witness.
2) How could the narration of the facts while travelling in bullock cart before the journey yet to be commenced was recited in the written complaint.
3) Involvement of Durga Prasad in the commission of the crime who is St.d to be aged about 70-75 years chasing Rajendra Prasad and administering beating with a wooden stick despite presence of other accused.
4) Non-resistance of Rajendra Prasad (PW 1) for an hour while permitting accused Prem Narayan to graze the agricultural field and destroy the crops.
5) Delay in recording of the St.ments of the prosecution witness. (Para 51)

Appeal dismissed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikas Budhwar, J.)

1. Challenge in this appeal u/s 378 of code of Criminal Procedure 1973 (hereinafter referred to as Cr.P.C.) is made to the judgment and order dated 03.06.1986 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Fatehpur in Sessions Trial No. 211/1983 (State Vs. Durga Prasad and Others) u/s 147, 304/149, 323/149 IPC, P.S. Ghazipur, District Fatehpur acquitting the accused herein.

2. This appeal was initially filed while arraying as many as seven accused-respondents. However, the accused-respondents nos. 1, 2 and 4 during the pendency of the present appeal expired. Accordingly, the present appeal stood abated against the accused-respondents nos. 1, 2 and 4.

3. Factual matrix of the case so interwoven in the present appeal centres around with an allegation that a written report/complaint was submitted on 10.07.1982 by the first informant being Rajendra Prasad S/o Chandra Bhushan Prasad R/o Village Kewai, P.S. Ghazipur, District Fatehpur before the Police Station Ghazipur, District Fatehpur with an allegation that the accused herein who were seven in number at the time of the filing of the appeal had committed offences at 12 in the noon on 10.07.1982 when the first informant being Rajendra Prasad along with his brother Virendra had gone along with the cattle in the agriculture field which was owned by them near the tube well in Kolanhar. Agriculture crop being paddy was cultivated and the same was in matured condition. However, at 05:00 in the evening on the fateful day i.e. 10.07.1982 the accused-respondent no. 5 Prem Narayan S/o Mishri Lal who was grazing his cattle trenched in the agricultural field along with cattle and trampled the paddy and the sugar cane crop so present therein causing destruction. Protest was sought to be made by the first informant Rajendra, however, the same was not liked by the accused Prem Narayan and he hurled abuses upon the first informant. From there the first informant along with his cattle straight away went to the house of the Prem Narayan raising protest. Prosecution further alleges that the said protest was not accepted however, rather to the contrary at that point of time Durga Prasad S/o Kali Charan, Mishri Lal S/o Durga Prasad committed the role of extortion while instigating the accused Dhunnu, Jagat Narayan and Prem Narayan and in turn they instigated the brother Ram Kumar and nephew Santosh Kumar S/o Mewa Lal. Thereafter, all the accused aided with wooden stick chased the first informant Rajendra Prasad and the first informant run away and when he reached near the main gate of the house of Jiya Lal then the accused gave a blow with the wooden stick upon the first informant and witnessing the same the elder brother of the first informant Bajrang Prasad and his father Chandra Bhushan came forward to rescue the first informant, however they were also administered blow with the aid of wooden stick pursuant whereto they fell down and witnessing the said incident Ram Lal Tiwari S/o Devi Lal and Bishun Dayal S/o Bhikuyuwa and Lakhan S/o Devi Lal came to rescue however, on account of the onslaught of administering wooden stick, the father of the first informant Chandra Bhusan became unconscious and so much so the first informant Rajendra and his elder brother Bajrang Prasad also sustained injuries and thereafter they took their father Chandra Bhushan in a bullock cart to the police station for lodging of written complaint.

4. On the basis of the written complaint so submitted by the first informant Rajendera Prasad FIR was lodged on 10.07.1982 at 21:20 hours against the accused herein u/s 147/308/323 IPC. The injured was sent to District Hospital, Fatehpur. The first informant being Rajendra Prasad and his brother Bajrang and father Chandra Bhuhan were medically examined by Dr. V.K. Tripathi, Medical Officer who was on duty at 02:30 am and 02:40 am on 11.07.1982. According to the prosecution Chandra Bhushan who happened to be the father of the fist informant, who was in unconscious situation was admitted in the hospital where he succumbed to injuries at 03:45 am on 11.07.1982.

5. Prosecution alleges that after the death of Chandra Bhushan G.D. Ex. Ka-10 was entered and the Sub-Inspector was deputed for completing the formalities for inquest and accordingly, Panchayatnama was prepared. The dead body of the deceased was sent for postmortem which was put to scrutiny by Dr. U.S. Tiwari, who conducted the postmortem on 11.07.1982 at 05:50 in the evening. As Chandra Bhushan died so the penal section which found its presence in FIR so lodged by the first informant on 10.07.1982 at 21:20 hours was transformed into section 147/304/323 IPC.

6. ne S.I. Sri Ram Dayal Singh was nominated as the Investigating Officer who claims to have recorded the statement of prosecution witnesses. I.O. Sri Ram Dayal Singh after recording the statements of the prosecution witnesses and also completing the formalities which are to be conducted during the course of investigation submitted charge sheet u/s 147, 304, 149 and 323 IPC.

7. The case was committed to Sessions.

8. Charges were read over to the accused. Accused pleaded non-guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. The prosecution in order to bring home the charges the following prosecution witnesses were produced:-

1.	Rajendra Prasad	P.W.1
2.	Bajrang Prasad	P.W.2
3.	Ram Lal	P.W.3
4.	S.I. Ram Dayal Singh	P.W.4

10. The defence in order to substantiate its stand has submitted various documents being:-

1.	Copy of the affidavit of Bajrang Prasad filed in connection with bail application
2.	Order of S.D.M. dated 16.03.1982 in case u/s 107, 116 Cr.P.C.

3.	Chalani Report against Chandra Bhushan, Bajrang Prasad, Ram Gopal, Ram Lal
4.	Copy of Surety Bond
5.	Ex.Kha 7, Copy of order of corss case u/s 107 Cr.P.C.
6.	Ex. Kha 8, Copy of Chalani Report
7.	Ex. Kha 9, State of Mewa Lal
8.	Ex. Kha 10, Copy of the Order
9.	Ex. Kha 11, Mark Sheet of High School Examination

11. The learned trial court by virtue of judgment and the order under challenge has acquitted the accused herein.

12. Challenging the same, now the State of U.P. is before this Court in the proceedings purported to be u/s 378 of the Cr.P.C.

13. We have heard Sri Indra Pal Singh Rajpoot, learned A.G.A. for the State-appellant and Sri Madhukar Maurya, learned counsel for the surviving accused respondent nos. 3, 5, 6 and 7.

14. Sri Indra Pal Singh Rajpoot, learned A.G.A. in support of the appeal has made manifold submissions namely:-

(a). The learned trial court has committed manifest illegality in acquitting the accused herein while completely misreading the evidence available on record as the present case was a case wherein there was a prompt FIR, disclosing offences committed by the accused herein as they had been specifically marked in the FIR assigning roles.

(b). The prosecution witnesses has supported the occurrence of the incident that too by the accused and there was ample evidence available on record so as to pointedly mark the accused to have committed the crime.

(c). There was clear cut motive attributed upon the accused herein for commission of crime which itself was catalyst for doing the acts which not only injured the P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 but also took the life of their father Chandra Bhushan, the deceased.

(d). Merely because, there are minor contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses the same could be a ground to acquit the accused herein once the other factors consistently proves that the accused had committed the crime.

15. Sri Madhukar Maurya, learned counsel for the surviving accused respondents has made the following submissions:-

(a). FIR in question is anti-timed and the accused have been falsely roped in in the present criminal case.

(b). No specific role has been assigned in the FIR but as an after thought different role has been assigned for commission of crime by the accused which is nothing but a case of improvement.

(c). There are material contradictions in the statement of the prosecution witnesses which itself demolishes the prosecution theory.

(d). There was no such motive which could be the basis for commission of the crime as alleged by the prosecution.

(e). Judgment and the order of acquittal is based upon correct appreciation of the prosecution testimony and evidences so adduced which does not need any interference at the stage.

16. Before embarking upon the validity and the legality of the judgment and the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court, this Court is to bear in mind the fact that this Court is occasioned to deal with the judgment and the order of acquittal in an appellate jurisdiction that to under section 378 of Cr.P.C. To put it otherwise, there are certain limitations which have to be noticed and kept in mind that while exercising appellate jurisdiction, as this Court while exercising appellate jurisdiction can only interfere and grant indulgence in the judgment and the order of acquittal when it is palpably perverse, there has been complete misreading of the evidences so sought to be adduced and it proceeds towards a wrong directions so as to indicate that the view taken by the learned trial court is a view which cannot be perceived by a prudent person. The reasons for interfering in the judgment of acquittal should be compelling and substantive in order to prevent miscarriage of justice through the parties.

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the recent judgment in the case of Criminal Appeal No (S). 410-411/2015 (Ravi Sharma Vs. State (Government of N.C.T. of Delhi) & Anr.) decided on 11.07.2022 in paragraph nos. 8 and 9 has held as under:-

"8. Before venturing into the merits of the case, we would like to reiterate the scope of Section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short "Cr.P.C.') while deciding an appeal by the High Court, as the position of law is rather settled. We would like to quote the relevant portion of a recent judgment of this Court in Jafarudheen and Others v. State of Kerala (2022 SCC Online SC 495) as follows:

25. While dealing with an appeal against acquittal by invoking Section 378 of the Cr.PC, the Appellate Court has to consider whether the Trial Court's view can be termed as a possible one, particularly when evidence on record has been analyzed. The reason is that an order of acquittal adds up to the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused. Thus, the Appellate Court has to be relatively slow in reversing the order of the Trial Court rendering acquittal. Therefore, the presumption in favour of the accused does not get weakened but only strengthened. Such a double presumption that enures in favour of the accused has to be disturbed only by thorough scrutiny on the accepted legal parameters.

9. This Court in the aforesaid judgment has noted the following decision while laying down the law:

Precedents:

- Mohan alias Srinivas alias Seena alias Tailor Seena v. State of Karnataka, [2021 SCC OnLine SC 1233] as hereunder:

"20. Section 378 CrPC enables the State to prefer an appeal against an order of acquittal. Section 384 CrPC speaks of the powers that can be exercised by the Appellate Court. When the trial court renders its decision by acquitting the accused, presumption of innocence gathers strength before the Appellate Court. As a consequence, the onus on the prosecution becomes more burdensome as there is a double presumption of innocence.

Certainly, the Court of first instance has its own advantages in delivering its verdict, which is to see the witnesses in person while they depose. The Appellate Court is expected to involve itself in a deeper, studied scrutiny of not only the evidence before it, but is duty bound to satisfy itself whether the decision of the trial court is both possible and plausible view. When two views are possible, the one taken by the trial court in a case of acquittal is to be followed on the touchstone of liberty along with the advantage of having seen the witnesses. Article 21 of the Constitution of India also aids the accused after acquittal in a certain way, though not absolute. Suffice it is to state that the Appellate Court shall remind itself of the role required to play, while dealing with a case of an acquittal.

21. Every case has its own journey towards the truth and it is the Court's role undertake. Truth has to be found on the basis of evidence available before it. There is no room for subjectivity, nor the nature of offence affects its performance. We have a hierarchy of courts in dealing with cases. An Appellate Court shall not expect the trial court to act in a particular way depending upon the sensitivity of the case. Rather it should be appreciated if a trial court decides a case on its own merit despite its sensitivity.

22. At times, courts do have their constraints. We find, different decisions being made by different courts, namely, trial court on the one hand and the Appellate Courts on the other. If such decisions are made due to institutional constraints, they do not augur well. The district judiciary is expected to be the foundational court, and therefore, should have the freedom of mind to decide a case on its own merit or else it might become a stereotyped one rendering conviction on a moral platform. Indictment and condemnation over a decision rendered, on considering all the materials placed before it, should be avoided. The Appellate Court is expected to maintain a degree of caution before making any remark.

23. This court, time and again has laid down the law on the scope of inquiry by an Appellate court while dealing with an appeal against acquittal under Section 378 CrPC. We do not wish to multiply the aforesaid principle except placing reliance on a recent decision of this court in Anwar Ali v. State of Himanchal Pradesh, (2020) 10 SCC 166:

14.2. When can the findings of fact recorded by a court be held to be perverse has been dealt with and considered in paragraph 20 of the aforesaid decision, which reads as under: [Babu v. State of Kerala, [(2010) 9 SCC 189]:

"20. The findings of fact recorded by a court can be held to be perverse if the findings have been arrived at by ignoring or excluding relevant material or by taking into consideration irrelevant/inadmissible material. The finding may also be said to be perverse if it is "against the weight of evidence", or if the finding so outrageously defies logic as to suffer from the vice of irrationality. (Vide Rajinder Kumar Kindra v. Delhi Admn. [(1984) 4 SCC 635], Excise & Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority v. Gopi Nath & Sons [1992 Supp (2) SCC 312], Triveni Rubber & Plastics v. CCE [1994 Supp (3) SCC 665], Gaya Din v. Hanuman Prasad [(2001) 1 SCC 501], Aruvelu v. State, [(2009) 10 SCC 206] and Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao v. State of

A.P. [(2009) 10 SCC 636])." It is further observed, after following the decision of this Court in Kuldeep Singh v. Commr. of Police [(1999) 2 SCC 10], that if a decision is arrived at on the basis of no evidence or thoroughly unreliable evidence and no reasonable person would act upon it, the order would be perverse. But if there is some evidence on record which is acceptable and which could be relied upon, the conclusions would not be treated as perverse, and the findings would not be interfered with.

14.3. In the recent decision of Vijay Mohan Singh v. State of Karnataka, [(2019) 5 SCC 436], this Court again had an occasion to consider the scope of Section 378 CrPC and the interference by the High Court [State of Karnataka v. Vijay Mohan Singh, 2013 SCC OnLine Kar 10732] in an appeal against acquittal. This Court considered a catena of decisions of this Court right from 1952 onwards. In para 31, it is observed and held as under:

"31. An identical question came to be considered before this Court in Umedbhai Jadavbhai v. State of Gujarat, [(1978) 1 SCC 228]. In the case before this Court, the High Court interfered with the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court on reappreciation of the entire evidence on record. However, the High Court, while reversing the acquittal, did not consider the reasons given by the learned trial court while acquitting the accused. Confirming the judgment of the High Court, this Court observed and held in para 10 as under:

"10. Once the appeal was rightly entertained against the order of acquittal, the High Court was entitled to reappreciate the entire evidence independently and come to its own conclusion. Ordinarily, the High Court would give due importance to the opinion of the Sessions Judge if the same were arrived at after proper appreciation of the evidence. This rule will not be applicable in the present case where the Sessions Judge has made an absolutely wrong assumption of a very material and clinching aspect in the peculiar circumstances of the case.'

31.1. In Sambasivan v. State of Kerala, [(1998) 5 SCC 412], the High Court reversed the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court and held the accused guilty on reappreciation of the entire evidence on record, however, the High Court did not record its conclusion on the question whether the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable. Confirming the order passed by the High Court convicting the accused on reversal of the acquittal passed by the learned trial court, after being satisfied that the order of acquittal passed by the learned trial court was perverse and suffered from infirmities, this Court declined to interfere with the order of conviction passed by the High Court. While confirming the order of conviction passed by the High Court, this Court observed in para 8 as under:

"8. We have perused the judgment under appeal to ascertain whether the High Court has conformed to the aforementioned principles. We find that the High Court has not strictly proceeded in the manner laid down by this Court in Doshi case [Ramesh Babulal Doshi v. State of Gujarat, (1996) 9 SCC 225] viz. first recording its conclusion on the question whether the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or the conclusions arrived at by it were wholly untenable, which alone will justify interference in an order of acquittal though the High Court has rendered a well-considered judgment duly meeting all the contentions raised before it. But then will this non-compliance per se justify setting aside the judgment under appeal? We think, not. In our view, in such a case, the approach of the court which is considering the validity of the judgment of an appellate court which has reversed the order of acquittal passed by the trial court, should be to satisfy itself if the approach of the trial court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or conclusions arrived at by it are demonstrably unsustainable and whether the judgment of the appellate court is free from those infirmities; if so to hold that the trial court judgment warranted interference. In such a case, there is obviously no reason why the appellate court's judgment should be disturbed. But if on the other hand the court comes to the conclusion that the judgment of the trial court does not suffer from any infirmity, it cannot but be held that the interference by the appellate court in the order of acquittal was not justified; then in such a case the judgment of the appellate court has to be set aside as of the two reasonable views, the one in support of the acquittal alone has to stand. Having regard to the above discussion, we shall proceed to examine the judgment of the trial court in this case.'

31.2. In K. Ramakrishnan Unnithan v. State of Kerala, [(1999) 3 SCC 309], after observing that though there is some substance in the grievance of the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the accused that the High Court has not adverted to all the reasons given by the trial Judge for according an order of acquittal, this Court refused to set aside the order of conviction passed by the High Court after having found that the approach of the Sessions Judge in recording the order of acquittal was not proper and the conclusion arrived at by the learned Sessions Judge on several aspects was unsustainable. This Court further observed that as the Sessions Judge was not justified in discarding the relevant/material evidence while acquitting the accused, the High Court, therefore, was fully entitled to reappreciate the evidence and record its own conclusion. This Court scrutinised the evidence of the eyewitnesses and opined that reasons adduced by the trial court for discarding the testimony of the eyewitnesses were not at all sound. This Court also observed that as the evaluation of the evidence made by the trial court was manifestly erroneous and therefore it was the duty of the High Court to interfere with an order of acquittal passed by the learned Sessions Judge.

31.3. In Atley v. State of U.P., [AIR 1955 SC 807], in para 5, this Court observed and held as under:

"5. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the judgment of the trial court being one of acquittal, the High Court should not have set it aside on mere appreciation of the evidence led on behalf of the prosecution unless it came to the conclusion that the judgment of the trial Judge was perverse. In our opinion, it is not correct to say that unless the appellate court in an appeal under Section 417 CrPC came to the conclusion that the judgment of acquittal under appeal was perverse it could not set aside that order.

It has been laid down by this Court that it is open to the High Court on an appeal against an order of acquittal to review the entire evidence and to come to its own conclusion, of course, keeping in view the well- established rule that the presumption of innocence of the accused is not weakened but strengthened by the judgment of acquittal passed by the trial court which had the advantage of observing the demeanour of witnesses whose evidence have been recorded in its presence.

It is also well settled that the court of appeal has as wide powers of appreciation of evidence in an appeal against an order of acquittal as in the case of an appeal against an order of conviction, subject to the riders that the of innocence with which the accused person starts in the trial court continues even up to the appellate stage and that the appellate court should attach due weight to the opinion of the trial court which recorded the order of acquittal.

If the appellate court reviews the evidence, keeping those principles in mind, and comes to a contrary conclusion, the judgment cannot be said to have been vitiated. (See in this connection the very cases cited at the Bar, namely, Surajpal Singh v. State [1951 SCC 1207]; Wilayat Khan v. State of U.P. [1951 SCC 898]. In our opinion, there is no substance in the contention raised on behalf of the appellant that the High Court was not justified in reviewing the entire evidence and coming to its own conclusions.'

31.4. In K. Gopal Reddy v. State of A.P., [(1979) 1 SCC 355], this Court has observed that where the trial court allows itself to be beset with fanciful doubts, rejects creditworthy evidence for slender reasons and takes a view of the evidence which is but barely possible, it is the obvious duty of the High Court to interfere in the interest of justice, lest the administration of justice be brought to ridicule."

N. Vijayakumar v. State of T.N., [(2021) 3 SCC 687] as hereunder:-- "20. Mainly it is contended by Shri Nagamuthu, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant that the view taken by the trial court is a "possible view", having regard to the evidence on record. It is submitted that the trial court has recorded cogent and valid reasons in support of its findings for acquittal. Under Section 378 CrPC, no differentiation is made between an appeal against acquittal and the appeal against conviction. By considering the long line of earlier cases this Court in the judgment in Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, [(2007) 4 SCC 415] has laid down the general principles regarding the powers of the appellate Court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal. Para 42 of the judgment which is relevant reads as under: (SCC p. 432)

"42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

(1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

21. Further in the judgment in Murugesan v. State, [(2012) 10 SCC 383] relied on by the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant, this Court has considered the powers of the High Court in an appeal against acquittal recorded by the trial court. In the said judgment, it is categorically held by this Court that only in cases where conclusion recorded by the trial court is not a possible view, then only the High Court can interfere and reverse the acquittal to that of conviction. In the said judgment, distinction from that of "possible view" to "erroneous view" or "wrong view" is explained. In clear terms, this Court has held that if the view taken by the trial court is a "possible view", the High Court not to reverse the acquittal to that of the conviction.

xxx xxx xxx

23. Further, in Hakeem Khan v. State of M.P., [(2017) 5 SCC 719] this Court has considered the powers of the appellate court for interference in cases where acquittal is recorded by the trial court. In the said judgment it is held that if the "possible view" of the trial court is not agreeable for the High Court, even then such "possible view" recorded by the trial court cannot be interdicted. It is further held that so long as the view of the trial court can be reasonably formed, regardless of whether the High Court agrees with the same or not, verdict of the trial court cannot be interdicted and the High Court cannot supplant over the view of the trial court. Para 9 of the judgment reads as under; (SCC pp.722-23) "9. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, we are of the view that the trial court's judgment is more than just a possible view for arriving at the conclusion of acquittal, and that it would not be safe to convict seventeen persons accused of the crime of murder i.e. under Section 302 read with Section 149 of the Penal Code. The most important reason of the trial court, as has been stated above, was that, given the time of 6.30 p.m. to 7.00 p.m. of a winter evening, it would be dark, and, therefore, identification of seventeen persons would be extremely difficult. This reason, coupled with the fact that the only independent witness turned hostile, and two other eyewitnesses who were independent were not examined, would certainly create a large hole in the prosecution story. Apart from this, the very fact that there were injuries on three of the accused party, two of them being deep injuries in the skull, would lead to the conclusion that nothing was premeditated and there was, in all probability, a scuffle that led to injuries on both sides. While the learned counsel for the respondent may be right in stating that the trial court went overboard in stating that the complainant party was the aggressor, but the trial court's ultimate conclusion leading to an acquittal is certainly a possible view on the facts of this case. This is coupled with the fact that the presence of the kingpin Sarpanch is itself doubtful in view of the fact that he attended the Court at some distance and arrived by bus after the incident took place."

24. By applying the abovesaid principles and the evidence on record in the case on hand, we are of the considered view that having regard to material contradictions which we have already noticed above and also as referred to in the trial court judgment, it can be said that acquittal is a "possible view". By applying the ratio as laid down by this Court in the judgments which are stated supra, even assuming another view is possible, same is no ground to interfere with the judgment of acquittal and to convict the appellant for the offence alleged. From the evidence, it is clear that when the Inspecting Officer and other witnesses who are examined on behalf of the prosecution, went to the office of the appellant-accused, the appellant was not there in the office and office was open and people were moving out and in from the office of the appellant. It is also clear from the evidence of PWs 3, 5 and 11 that the currency and cellphone were taken out from the drawer of the table by the appellant at their instance. There is also no reason, when the tainted notes and the cellphone were given to the appellant at 5.45 p.m. no recordings were made and the appellant was not tested by PW 11 till 7.00 p.m."

18. In the light with the aforesaid proposition of law so culled out by the Hon'ble

19. The ocular testimony of the prosecution witnesses is to be analysed.

20. As P.W. 1, the first informant being Rajendra Prasad entered into the witness box, according to him he recognizes all the accused. He in his statement has deposed that he along with his younger brother Virendra had gone to his agriculture field to graze the cattle at 12 in the noon on 10.07.1982 which is near tube well where at the crop of paddy was existing and at that point of time accused Prem Narayan along with his cattle came into the agricultural field of the first informant and when the first informant raised his protest then he abused the first informant. Occasioning the said situation, the first informant came back from the field and straight away went to the house of the accused Mishri Lal and raised his complaint. He has further stated that behind him the accused Prem Narayan also came along with his cattle and when he was complaining about the same in the house of the Prem Narayan then the accused Durga Prasad indulged into extortion while telling his son and the other accused that the first informant be put to administration of beating. When the accused aided with wooden stick ran to inflict blow upon the first informant and he came just near the gate of the house of Jiya Lal whereat the aforesaid accused assembled together and inflicted blow upon the first informant and witnessing the same his father Chandra Bhushan Prasad and brother Bajrang Prasad also came and at that point of time the accused administered beating upon them and Sri Durga Prasad also inflicted a blow with the wooden stick upon him. He further deposed that on account of blow of wooden stick so sought to be resorted to by the accused all three of them sustained injuries and Ram Lakhan and Vishnu Dayal witnessed the same. In nutshell P.W. 1 supported the prosecution version.

21. One Bajrang Prasad appeared as P.W. 2 and according to him on the fateful day i.e. 10.07.1982 his brother Rajendra and Virendra had gone to graze the cattle where at Prem Narayan hurled abuses and thereafter, he witnessed that his brother Rajendra was inflicted blow by wooden stick by the accused and when he and his father Chandra Bhushan requested not to do the said act then they were also administered beating. He claims to have sustained injuries.

22. P.W. 3 Ram Lal also appeared as a prosecution witness according to him he witnessed the incident which occurred on 10.07.1982. According to him Chandra Bhushan was administered beating by accused Mishri Lal, Dhunnu Lal and Bajrang was administered beating by Ram Kumar. He has also supported the prosecution version.

23 . S.I. Ram Dayal Singh appeared as P.W. 4 he claims to be the Investigating Officer who had taken statement and submitted charge sheet.

24. So far as the injuries is concerned, there are three injured namely P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad, P.W. 2 Bajrang Prasad and the deceased Chandra Bhushan.

25. P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad was medically examined on 11.07.1982 at 02:40 am and according to the doctor who has examined him and all the injuries were found to be simple instead of injury no. 1 which was kept on observation and x-ray was advised. Similarly, so far as the injury of Bajrang Prasad, P.W. 2 is concerned he was also put to medico legal examination on 11.07.1982 at 02:30 am wherein the injuries were cause by blunt object and the same was fresh as injury no. 1 was found to be simple, injury no. 2, 3 were advised for X-ray.

26. As regards Chandra Bhushan is concerned, he is stated to have sustained injuries pursuant where to he became unconscious but he succumbed to the injury and on 11.07.1982 at 05:50 hours, the postmortem was conducted wherein the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage due to injuries.

27. Undisputedly, the FIR has been lodged by the first informant Rajendra on 10.07.1982 at 21:20 hours against the accused herein claiming himself to be the witness of the incident which occurred in the agricultural field and also near the house of Mishri Lal and Jiya Lal. In the FIR though the accused have been marked while committing offence but no specific role what so ever has been assigned to them. In the FIR it has also been recited that after the receiving of the injuries at the hands of the accused herein the first informant being Rajendra along with his brother Bajrang and the deceased Chandra Bhushan proceeded in a bullock cart towards the police station and the FIR was got lodged. P.W. 1 in his cross-examination has stated that he had got written complaint/report in his house and after writing the entire written complaint he proceeded from his own house and neither in the transit from the house till the police station he did not add anything and he on being specifically asked he had specifically deposed that he had written the written complaint in the house that he took his deceased father in bullock cart. He has further deposed in paragraph no. 18 that he has not written complaint in the police station that to after consulting. He further deposed that he along with Vidya Sagar S/o Ram Gopal had gone to the police station.

28. As a matter of fact it is quite paradoxical and amazing that even on the suggestion the P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad who happens to be the first informant had stated that he was in his house and he wrote/got prepared the written complaint and he did not add or write anything in the written complaint in his transit that from the house till the police station then to how could a person imagine certain events which is yet to be occurred practically when he is in the house and he is writing something regarding going by bullock cart once he has not commenced his journey. The aforesaid fact itself shows that the prosecution theory is under cloud. The issue also assumes more significance particularly when no role had been assigned in the FIR regarding commission of crime by the accused who are seven in number however, subsequently improvement has been sought to be made at a later stage so as to assign specific role once the first informant is nobody but an eye witness who even in fact was present when the incident took place whereby he and his father and brother were subjected to blow by wooden stick by the accused herein.

29. More so, P.W. 2, Bajrang Prasad who happens to be the son of the deceased and real brother of Rajendra Prasad and also an eye witness of the incident in para 3 has further stated that the accused Mishri Lal and Dhunnu Lal had inflicted blow with wooden stick however, the injury report of Chandra Bhushan dated 11.07.1982 at 02:30 am itself shows that single injury was sustained by the deceased. Meaning thereby that the prosecution theory also stands exploded as there is no justification as to why one injury is being sought to be found when two accused with two wooden sticks had inflicted blow upon the deceased and he became unconscious and fell down. The said aspect also assumes significance once the FIR is completely silent about the specific role assigned in that regard.

30. So far as the involvement of the accused Durga Prasad in commission of the crime in question is concerned P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad in his cross examination in paragraph no. 5 has himself stated that Durga Prasad at the time of the incident was 70-75 years and he was quite old and weak. Once the said fact has himself been spelt out by the P.W. 1 who happens to be an eye witness then in presence of his son and grand son there was no occasion for Durga Prasad to have inflicted injury by wooden stick himself as it is not expected that a person being 70-75 years would run and chase P.W. 1 Rajendra who is stated to have being chased by the accused from the house of the accused Mishri Lal near the gate of the house of Jiya Lal.

31. Similarly, this Court is to also analyse another aspect of the matter that P.W. 1 Rajendra and P.W. 2 Brijendra Prasad both are real bothers and thus, only person who is not of the family is P.W. 3 who happens to be Sri Ram Lal and according to him he was in his house when he heard noises then he came near the door of Jiya Lal wherein he was occasioned to witness to said incident. However, according to his statement he was near his field irrigating the paddy crop and he came back after finishing the irrigation work at 04:00 or 04:30 in the evening and after fifteen minutes he heard certain noises. Remarkably, he had not disclose the said fact to the Investigating Officer that he had come from his house to the place of occurrence though he stands and supports the fact that he has come from tube well at 04:30 pm and he also did not inform the family members of the P.W. 1 regarding grazing of the field by the accused Prem Narayan.

32. So far as P.W. 3 is concerned, he happens to be an interested witness having its tilt towards the complainant fraction as he had been administered threatening by accused Mishri Lal a week ago that he should not appear as a witness in some case. The conduct of the P.W. 3 itself marks importance particularly when he has himself in his cross examination denied the fact he has filed an affidavit in the bail application but conversely, he had stated that he did not know as to how and under what circumstances he had signed the affidavit. The said fact also assumes significant once the affidavit is to be sworn before an oath commissioner. More so the entire testimony of the P.W. 3 does not inspire confidence particularly when he comes up with a stand that he heard the instigation of the accused and he immediately rushed as the same also does not finds its presence in the statement u/s 161 Cr.P.C.

33. More so, P.W. 2 Bajrang Prasad in his statement has deposed that the field of Ram Lal is not near the tube well or on the way of the village then how P.W. 3 Ram Lal could see the origin of the dispute.

34. It has also come on record as per the statement of P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad that the accused Prem Narayan along with his cattle had entered into the agriculture field and destroyed paddy and other crops and he remained there for at about one hour. The first informant along with his brother were already present over there and Prem Narayan was shown to be all alone with the cattle then it becomes highly unbelievable that the first informant and his brother Virendra will allow the accused to graze the cattle and destroy the crops which is the source of livelihood. It is also not a case wherein the accused happened to be a very strong person having good built as P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad has himself in his statement deposed that he did not put resistance as abuses were hurled and he was aged about 18-19/16-17 years. The said conduct of the P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad itself does not inspire confidence as the accused was single as well as the first informant was with his brother in that regard.

35. Even P.W. 4 who happens to be the Investigating Officer being S.I. Ram Dayal has stated that in his deposition that he was assigned the Investigation on 11.07.1982 and he took the statement of Constable Prem Chandra on the said date and on 13.07.1982 he took the statement of Ram Lal, Bishun Dayal, Lakhan and on 21.07.1982 he had gone to the place of occurrence and took the statement of Bajrang Prasad and prepared the site plan and on 01.08.1982 he took the statement of P.W. 1, Rajendra Prasad for the purposes of identification of place of occurrence and he got information on 13.07.1982 regarding the death of Chandra Bhushan. He has specifically deposed in paragraph no. 10 of his statement that he had not taken the blood stained earth on 11.07.1982. He further could not justify in his statement as to why he did not take the statement of the injured (deceased). P.W. 4 has further stated that he has not taken the samples of blood stained earth. Further in paragraph no. 11 of the statement of P.W. 4 it has been deposed that the I.O. had not gone to the field in order to determine the fact as to whether the crops were destroyed while grazing by the accused or not. The aforesaid stand taken by the Investigating Officer coupled with the fact that there is a serious cloud over the incident which occurred in the agricultural field generating the commission of the alleged offence does not link the accused to have committed offence.

36. Notably in the case of Lakshmi Singh And Others Vs. State of Bihar (1976) 4 SCC 394 the Hon'ble Apex Court had the occasion to deal with the issue where at there was a failure to send blood stained earth for chemical examination and the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 14 has observed as under:-

"14. To add to this another important circumstances is the omission on the part of the prosecution to send the bloodstained earth found at the place of occurrence for chemical examination which could have fixed the situs of the assault. In almost all criminal cases, the bloodstained earth found from the place of occurrence is invariably sent to the Chemical Examiner and his report along with the earth is produced in the Court, and yet this is one exceptional case where this procedure was departed from for reasons best known to the prosecution. This also, therefore, shows that the defence version may be true. It is well settled that it is not necessary for the defence to prove its case with the same rigour as the prosecution is required to prove its case, and it is sufficient if the defence succeeds in throwing a reasonable doubt on the prosecution case which is sufficient to enable the Court to reject the prosecution version."

37. Motive can be also one of the factors for commission of crime however, here in the present case the learned trial court has gone into the said aspect of the matter while recording the categorical finding that though the motive is stated to begun in the agriculture field but the fact that the Phool Chand Pradhan had defeated Ram Gopal is also to be taken note off though it had been denied by the accused herein that they had supported Phool Chand with whom the deceased had inimical terms. Though it has been proved from the documents filed by the defence that proceedings were under gone under section 107 Cr.P.C. between Phool Chand and Prahalad in which Ram Kumar and Mewa Lal stood as securities and Mewa Lal has also appeared as a witness against Chandra Bhushan for Ram Pratap and Phool Chand. Thus, there was an enmity between the parties and election took place only three days before the incident and the Vidyasagar the son of defeated Pradhan had taken P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad to lodge FIR at Police Station.

38. Moreover, this Court finds that though on one hand motive is being sought to be assigned as a basis for commission of the crime but non implication of the Pradhan itself creates a suspicion and cloud over the prosecution theory as the basis of commission of crime was also the rivalry pertaining to the offence of Pradhan. The said aspect also makes its relevance particularly when there is also cloud over the fact that as to whether on account of grazing of agricultural field of the complainant fraction the genesis of the dispute got generated as even P.W. 4 as per his statement had not visited the place of occurrence relating to grazing of the agricultural field that to at the end of the accused fraction.

39. Notably, enmity is a two sided dragger and one of the basis of commission of crime being the motive but the prosecution if, is taking aid of the device of motive, has to prove it beyond doubt so as to give the opportunity to the defence to despell the same.

40. Nonetheless, it has come in the statement of P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad that he was admitted in hospital for 7-8 days and the statement of Rajendra Prasad was taken by the Investigating Officer after 20-21 days meaning thereby, by all probabilities a story was being sought to be cooked up for implicating the accused herein as it is not a case that the P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad was seriously ill or in unconscious condition and also not in a position to give statement. P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad further in his statement in paragraph no. 11 has stated that besides Ram Lal and Ram Lakhan there was no other person in the nearby houses who could witness the same, however, women folk were there who did not come out side.

41. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Maruti Rama Naik Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (2003) 10 SCC 670 in paragraph no. 7 has observed as under:-

"We will now consider whether the evidence of PW-4 in any manner corroborates the evidence of PW-3 or for that matter the said evidence of PW-4 is acceptable at all. PW-4 has admitted that he is a close relative of deceased Krishna Mahada Naik. While he had noticed the incident of the attack on the deceased Krishna Mahada Naik, he has not spoken in any manner about the subsequent attack which includes the attack on PW-3. According to this witness, at the relevant time, he was going to the bus-stand to board a bus to reach his factory where he was working when he saw the assault on the deceased Krishna Mahada Naik by the assailants including the appellants. Having noticed the incident, he did not go to any one of his relatives' house to inform about the attack in question. He knew at that point of time that Krishna Mahada Naik was injured and still alive, still he did not make any effort whatsoever to get any help to shift the injured to a hospital. According to this witness, even after seeing Krishna Mahada Naik lying injured in a critical condition, he without informing anybody about the incident, went to the bus-stand, took a bus and went to his factory and even at that point of time, he had sufficient opportunity to inform the other people about the incident or for that matter, even the Police which he did not do. It is interesting to note from the evidence of this witness that even though he had an opportunity of approaching the police, he did go to them because he did not know whom he had to inform about the incident in the Police Station. The witness further states that he went to the factory, worked for a while, took leave from the factory and went back home. Even after reaching home, he did not bother to find out from anybody there about the fate of the victims nor did he inform anybody about he having witnessed the incident. It is only at about 6 p.m. when PW-21 recorded the statement for the first time, he came out with the fact of having witnessed the incident. It is rather surprising as to how and in what manner, PW-21 came to know that PW-4 was a witness to the incident. The prosecution has also failed to explain the delay in recording the statement of this witness, therefore, bearing in mind the conduct of PW-4 in not informing anybody about his having witnessed the incident and the delay in recording his statement makes us hesitant to place any reliance on his evidence. The only other piece of evidence relied by the prosecution to support its case against these two appellants is that of recovery which even according to prosecution, was made from a place which was not in the exclusive possession of the appellants and the said place was easily accessible by other people and also the fact that recovery was made almost 9 days after the incident in question, in our opinion, this piece of evidence also would not at all be sufficient to base a conviction of these appellants without further acceptable corroboration. Therefore, we are of the opinion that these appeals must succeed. The conviction and sentence imposed on the appellants are set aside and the appeals are allowed."

42. Further in the case of Jagjit Singh Alias Jagga Vs. State of Punjab reported in (2005) 3 SCC 689 the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph no. 30 has observed as under:-

"30. This has to be viewed in the light of the fact that her statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer for the first time three days after the occurrence, and her statement was recorded by the Judicial Magistrate six days after the occurrence. The courts below have taken the view that delay in examining her has caused no prejudice to the defence. Counsel for the appellant, submitted that this period was utilized by the prosecution for tutoring the witness, and therefore the delay of three days in her examination under Section 161 Cr. P.C. is significant No explanation is forthcoming as to why she was not examined for three days when the Investigating Office knew that a statement of her's had been recorded by the doctor on 30th August, 1996. The Trial Court took the view that since she was under a shock she was not in a position to make a statement and, therefore, her statement was recorded later. This is clearly erroneous because the case of the prosecution is that she regained consciousness on 30th August, 1996 and, thereafter, she was fully conscious. The evidence of Dr. Bhupinder Singh, PW-7 who gave a certificate of her fitness to make a statement is also to the same effect. The reasoning of the Trial Court that the victim, PW-6, was under a great shock and was not in a position to make the statement, cannot be sustained. Neither the Trial Court nor the High Court cared to closely examine the evidence on record to find out whether there was any evidence on record to prove that the appellant was known to PW-6 or that PW-6 had any reason to know his name so as to be able to identify him by name. The explanation furnished by PW-6 five years after the occurrence, that she knew the appellant because he happened to be the son of Amar Singh at whose tune well her grandparents resided, is unacceptable particularly, in view of the fact that there is no evidence to establish that she had ever earlier seen the appellant and in none of the three statements made by her earlier the name of Amar Singh is mentioned. The delay in examining her in the course of investigation also creates a serious doubt in the absence of any explanation for her late examination after three days, when admittedly she was the sole eye witness who was also injured in the course of the occurrence. We are, therefore, of the view that though she may have witnessed the occurrence, she did not know the appellant by name as she had no opportunity of knowing or seeing him earlier, and that she has involved the appellant at the instance of her father, who was the person who suggested the involvement of the appellant when her statement Ex.PW-6/A was being recorded."

43. Yet in the case of V.K. Mishra And Another Vs. State of Uttrakhand And Another reported in (2015) 9 SCC 588 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 26 has observed as under:-

"26. It cannot be held as a rule of universal application that the testimony of a witness becomes unreliable merely because there is delay in examination of a particular witness. In Sunil Kumar & Anr. vs. State of Rajasthan, (2005) 9 SCC 283; it was held that the question of delay in examining a witness during investigation is material only if it is indicative and suggestive of some unfair practice by the investigating agency for the purpose of introducing a core of witness to falsely support the prosecution case."

44. Though, merely because there has been delay in recording the statement of the prosecution witnesses by the Investigating Officer does not ipso facto renders it to be fatal to the prosecution case but there has to be an explanation so as to suggest as to what was the reasons occasioned in delay in recording the statement of the prosecution witnesses. This Court finds that the present case at hand P.W. 4 had the due opportunity to get recorded the statements of the prosecution witness so as to eliminate the chances of any soliciting or tutoring but there was no reason assigned for delay in recording the statement of the prosecution witness.

45. The learned court had also taken pains so as to determine the fact as to what time the deceased died while taken clue from the postmortem report wherein the food so found from the body of the deceased was in semi digested condition. According to learned trial court as per the testimony of the prosecution witness the meal was taken in their house in day time at 12 in the noon and postmortem of the deceased was conducted at 05:50 in the evening and thus, by that time the normal meal which is taken by average villager gets digested thus the FIR in question was sought to be shown an anti time FIR while referring to the often relied books which relatable to medical jurisprudence in this regard.

46. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade and Another Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (1973) 2 SCC 793 in paragraph no. 11 has observed as under:-

"That Hariba died of violence on 26th September, 1966, is indubitable, but who did him to death is a moot point. The lethal attack is alleged to have been made on a cart-.track lying between the two villages, Bibi and Ghadgewali in the afternoon on a bazaar day in the former village when people must evidently have been moving about. The macabre story of an old man, Hariba, being killed on a road near village Bibi around 5-30 p.m. by two known persons, Shivaji and Lalasaheb was recounted by one Balakrishna (P.W. 2) before the Police Patial (P. W. 15) in less than an hour of the incident (vide Ex. 8 and Ex. 36). Thus, the first information has been laid promptly, if we assume the hour of death to have been correctly stated there. Ext. 8 does mention briefly the material facts and the crucial witnesses in what may be treated as a hurriedly drawn up embryonic document. The contention of counsel for the respondents before us, which has received judicial reinforcement by acceptance by the Sessions Judge, is that this first information is an ersatz product of many minds manupulating to make it, and the apparently short, honest interval between the occurrence and the report, to the Patil is a make-believe, the death having occurred beyond doubt at about 2-00 p.m. and not at 5-30 p.m. as the prosecution disingenously pleads. Reliance is primarily placed for this pre-clocking of the occurrence on the postmortem certificate, doctor's evidence and the medical expertise contained in Modi's Medical Jurisprudence. Admittedly, 'semi-digested solid food particles' were observed in the deceased's stomach by P.W. 4 the medical officer, and the inference sought to be too neatly drawn therefrom is that the man must have come by his end (and that the digestive process must also have come to a halt with it) 2 to 3 hours after his last lunch, which, according to P.W. 2, was at 10.00 a.m. If he did die before 2.00 p.m., everything else in the prosecution evidence became suspect, argued the court. The assurance of this assertion, however, turns on the exact accuracy, in terms of the I.S.T., of the testimony of P.W. 5 who swore that himself and the deceased had taken food on the fateful day at about 10.00 or 10.30 a.m. before setting out for Bibi. The sluggish chronometric sense of the country-side community in India is notorious since time is hardly of the essence of their slow life; and even urban folk make mistakes about 'time when no particular reason to observe and remember the hour of minor event like taking a morning meal existed. 10.30 a.m. could well have been an hour or more one way or the other and too much play on such slippery facts goes against realism so essential in a testimonial appraisal. More importantly, the court must not abandon a scientific attitude to medical science if it is not to be guilty or judicial superstition To quote Modi's Medical Jurisprudence that food would be completely digested in four to five hours or to swear by the doctor to deduce that death must have occurred within 3 hours of the eating and, therefrom, to argue that the presence of undigested food in the dead body spells the sure inference that death must have occurred before 2.00 p.m. is to mis-read the science on the subject of digestive processes. Modi's Medical Jurisprudence, extracts from which have been given by both the courts, makes out that a mixed diet of animal and vegetable foods. normally taken by Europeans, takes 4 to 5 hours for complete digestion while a vegetable diet, containing mostly farinaceous food usually consumed by Indians, does not leave the stomach completely within 6 to 7 hours after its ingestion. Indeed, the learned author cautiously adds that the stomachic contents cannot determine with precision the time of death "inasmuch as the power of digestibility may remain in abeyance for a long time in states of profound shock and coma". He also states "it must also be remembered that the process of digestion in normal healthy persons may continue for a time after death". The learned judges reminded themselves of the imponderables pointed out by Modi which makes the 'digestive' testimony inconclusive and, therefore, insufficient to contradict positive evidence, if any, about the time of death To impute exactitude to a medical statement oblivious to the variables noticed by experts and changes in dietary habits is to be unfair to the science. We are not prepared to run the judicial risk of staking the whole verdict on nebulous medical observations. Given so according to P.W. 5 deceased took tea some time after 12-30 p.m. when they started for Bibi. At that time the possibility of his having had something to eat is not ruled out. If so, the medical evidence as to the time of death will not be inconsistent with the postmortem findings.

47. In the case of Ram Narain Singh Vs. State of Punjab reported in (1975) 4 SCC 497 the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph no. 9 has observed as under:-

"9. This brings us to the other aspects of the case, namely, whether or not the prosecution had tried to change the time and place of occurrence, as contended by the learned counsel for the appellants. There is no direct evidence to show that the occurrence took place at 8-00 P.M. but there are certain strong circumstances which lead to the irresistible inference and an inescapable conclusion that the occurrence must have taken place at about P.M. In the first place, the informant himself has categorically stated in his evidence that he had left for the police station at 8-00 P.M. although the occurrence had taken place at 6-30 P.M. He has not given any explanation why he waited in the village for hours if he eventually decided to go to the police station alone without taking any escort. This clearly shows that the occurrence must have taken place at about 8- 00 P.M. and the time has been shifted to 6-30 P.M. Only with a view to make it appear that the occurrence took place in the house where the accused could be properly identified. Another important circumstance which supports this inference is that according to the evidence of Surjit Singh who stated at P. 41 of the High Court Paper Book that they had taken their food at village Phaphre Bhaike about an hour before the occurrence. Here he is completely belied by the medical evidence of Dr. Walia which shows that undigested food was found in the stomach of the deceased and according to him the deceased must have taken his food only five minutes before his death or at the most within half an hour of his death. Doctor's evidence therefore clearly shows that he must have taken his food at 8-00 P.M. which is also the usual time when the villagers take their food. Another important circumstance which shows that the occurrence must have taken place at 8-00 P.M. is the evidence of P.W. 15 Baggar Singh that after hearing about the occurrence he came out of his house after about four hours of the alleged firing and went to the spot about 1 1/2 hours before the police arrived. the witness states that the police arrived at the spot about 1 1/2 hours after he had gone to the spot. According to the evidence of the A.S.I. he had proceeded to the village Hassanpur at about 2-30 A.M. On October 3, 1972. This means that the witness must have reached the spot at about 1-00 A.M. This would put the occurrence at about 9-00 P.M. On October 2, 1972 as the witness stirred out of his house four hour after the occurrence. This version also belies the version of the two eye witnesses that the occurrence took place in their house at about 6-30 P.M."

48. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade (Supra) and Ram Narain Singh (Supra) had the occasion to consider the contingency relating to the conflict between the prosecution case and medical evidence etc.

in order to determine the issue relating to the time of the death of the deceased. The Hon'ble Apex Court had even gong to the issue relating to the food which the deceased ate and condition whether the same was digested, undigested or semi-digested in order to determine the actual time of the death and while considering the same, the Apex court determined the veracity of the prosecution theory.

49. Yet in the case of Sanjay Khanderao Wadane Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (2017) 11 SCC 842 the Hon'ble Apex Court has further analysed the inconsistency or discrepancy between medical evidence and direct evidence while holding in paragraph nos. 13 and 16 as under:-

"13. A medical witness who performs a post-mortem examination is a witness of fact though he also gives an opinion on certain aspects of the case. The value of a medical witness is not merely a check upon the testimony of eyewitnesses; it is also independent testimony because it may establish certain facts quite apart from the other oral evidence. From the evidence on record, inferences are drawn as to the truth or otherwise of the prosecution case in criminal matters and truth or otherwise of a claim in civil matters. In this process, the medical evidence plays a very crucial role. If there is inconsistency or discrepancy between the medical evidence and the direct evidence or between medical evidence of two doctors, one of whom examined the injured person and the other conducted post mortem on the injured person after his death or as to the injuries, then in criminal cases, the accused is given the benefit of doubt, and let off. Where the direct testimony is found untrustworthy, conviction on the basis of medical evidence supported by other circumstantial evidence can be done, if that is trustworthy.

16. 9) The presence or absence of food at the time of post-mortem in relation to the time of death is based on various factors and circumstances such as the type and nature of the food consumed, the time of taking the meal, the age of the person concerned and power and capacity of the person to digest the food. In the present case, though PW-8 has stated that he had "Bhel' with the deceased just before the incident, there is no evidence about the exact time when the meals were taken or the quantity of "Bhel' consumed by the deceased. Judging the time of death from the contents of the stomach, may not always be the determinative test. It will require due corroboration from other evidence. If the prosecution is able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and cumulatively, the evidence of the prosecution, including the time of death, is proved beyond reasonable doubt and the same points towards the guilt of the accused, then it may not be appropriate for the court to wholly reject the case of the prosecution and to determine the time of death with reference to the stomach contents of the deceased. Even in Modi's Jurisprudence, it has been recorded as under:

"... The state of the contents of the stomach found at the time of medical examination is not a safe guide for determining the time of the occurrence because that would be a matter of speculation, in the absence of reliable evidence on the question as to when the deceased had his last meal and what that meal consisted of."

50. Applying the principle of law so culled out in the case of Shivaji Sahabrao

Bobade (Supra), Ram Narain Sing (Supra) and Sanjay Khanderao Wadane (Supra) in the present facts of the case this Court finds that as per the deposition of P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad, the first informant he had deposed in paragraph no. 12 that in his house the meals are taken at about 12 in the noon and in the night by 10/11. He has specifically also deposed that in between neither any breakfast not snacks are being consumed. According to his deposition the deceased after being hit by the wooden stick became unconscious. Thus, according to the story so sought to be set up therein a normal agriculturist who lives in a village takes meal comprising of pan cakes of wheat (bread) which is in common parlance known as Chapaties along with lenten (Dal) and thus, the learned trial court came to the opinion that the said food get digested within 2/3 hours. The learned trial court has further gone to the extent that the rice gets digested within 3 to 4 hours and then came to the conclusion that by no stretch of imagination the semi digested food could be in stomach when the incident tool place at 05:00 in the evening.

51. Though, this Court would have skipped and ignored the said aspect however, while placing it as an additional factor, however, this Court from the ocular testimony of the prosecution witnesses does not finds the prosecution case to be proved beyond any reasonable doubt as in the FIR there has been no specific role assigned to the accused herein particularly when the first informant being P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad happens to be the son of the deceased and also an eye witness. Apart from the same, in view of the categorical statement of the accused, first informant being P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad that he had written a written complaint for lodging of the FIR in his house and he had specifically spelled out in his deposition that he had neither added or subtracted anything in the written complaint either during the transit from his house to the police station or in the police station then how could the narration of the facts while travelling in bullock cart before the journey yet to be commenced was recited in the written complaint. Additionally, the involvement Durga Prasad in the commission of the crime who is stated by the prosecution to be aged about 70-75 years chasing the P.W. 1 Rajendra Prasad and administering beating with a wooden stick despite presence of the other accused, non resistance of P.W. 1 for an hour while permitting accused Prem Narayan to graze the agricultural field and destroy the crops and further amongst other factor being last but not the least that delay in recording of the statements of the prosecution witness itself shows that the entire prosecution story is erected upon the allegations of which remains not only doubtful but they proceeds upon weak evidence.

52. We have bestowed anxious consideration over the prosecution case and the documents available on record as well as the ocular testimony and we find that learned trial court had not committed any manifest illegality in acquitting the accused as the view taken by the learned trial court is a possible and plausible view. Nonetheless, this Court further finds that the Trial Court has appreciated the evidences and has given cogent reasons in arriving to the conclusion that the prosecution could not prove the commission of the offences by the accused herein beyond doubt. Nevertheless, this Court cannot substitute the views so taken by the learned trial court once the same is not actuated by perversity.

53. Accordingly, this Court has no option but to concur with the judgment of the learned trial court.

54. Resultantly, no ground is made as to accord leave to appeal and accordingly, the same is rejected.

55. As the leave to file the present appeal stands rejected thus, the present government appeal so instituted at the behest of the State-appellant u/s 378 (3) of the Cr.P.C. stands dismissed.

56. Record of the present case be sent back to the concerned court below.
