" 29. For the purpose of holding elections, allotment of symbol will find a prime place in a country where illiteracy is still very high. It has been found from experience that symbol as a device for casting votes in favour of a candidate of one's choice has proved an invaluable aid. Apart from this, just as people develop a sense of honor, glory and patriotic pride for a flag of one's country, similarly great fervour and emotions are generated for a symbol representing a political party. This is particularly so in a parliamentary democracy which is conducted on party lines. People after a time identify themselves with the symbol and the flag. These are great unifying insignia which cannot all of a sudden be effaced."

48. We may refer to another decision in the case of Rama Kant Pandey (Supra) wherein the Supreme Court of India repelled the argument that candidates set up by political parties should not receive any special treatment. It observed that the fact that candidates set up by political parties, constitute a class separate from other candidates has been recognized by this Court in numerous cases. These observations justify the opinion being expressed by us in this judgment. Paragraph 10 of the judgment in Rama Kant Pandey's case reads as under:-

"10. There is also no merit whatsoever in the contention that candidates set up the political parties should not receive any special treatment. The fact that candidates set up by political parties constitute a class separate from the other candidates has been recognized by this Court in numerous cases. In paragraph 14 of the judgment in the case of Dr. P. N. Thampy Terah Vs. Union of India, (1985) Suppl. SCC 189, the Constitution Bench observed thus:-

"It is the political parties which sponsor candidates, that are in a position to incur large election expenses which often run into astronomical figures. We do not consider that preferring political parties for exclusion from the sweep of monetary limits on election expenses is so unreasonable or arbitrary as to justify the preference being struck down upon that ground".

In D.M.L. Agarwal Vs. Rajiv Gandhi, (1987) Suppl. SCC 93, a Division Bench of this Court took note of and emphasized the vital role of political parties in a parliamentary form of democracy and anxiety was expressed about the growing number of independent candidates."

49. We may also refer to the decision of the Supreme Court in Subramanian Swamy's case wherein Paragraph 10 (A) of the Symbols Order, 1968 was challenged as being violative of Article 14. In the said case, the importance of symbol assigned to a political party was considered. Relevant extract of the said judgment is being quoted herein below:-

"12. On this backdrop we have to decide this ticklish question of the right of Janata Party to permanently retain its symbol. There can be no doubt that a symbol particularly in case of an established political party is not only having a political implication but has also an emotional angle attached to it. This is apart from the fact that in India large population of which is rural, uneducated or at time illiterate, the such electorate would naturally have a tendency to identify a party or its candidates by its symbols. It is perhaps for this reason that the political parties zealously guard their symbol.....

.....15. Learned Counsel for the respondent is undoubtedly correct in arguing that concept of recognition is inextricably connected with the concept of symbol of that party. It is but natural that a party must have a following and it is only a political party having substantial following in terms of Clauses 6A, 6B and 6C would have a right for a reserved symbol. Thus, in our opinion, it is perfecly in consonance with the democratic principles. A party which remains only in the records can never be equated and given the status of a recognized political party in the democratic set up. We have, therefore, no hesitation in rejecting the argument of Dr. Swamy that in providing the symbols and reserving them for the recognized political parties along amounted to an undemocratic act."

50. The above quoted decisions of the Supreme Court support the reasoning given and the opinion expressed by us in this judgment.

51. In the Act of 1951, Rules of 1961 and Order of 1968, there is no provision according to which reserved symbols related to particular recognized party can not be used for publicity of the ideology as also agenda of the party concerned and for campaigning. What has not been provided specifically under the Statute can not be included by judicial pronouncement. The petitioner wants us to read the words "for use only in an election" in Paragraph 5 (2) of the Order, 1968 and other provisions of law dealing with reservation of symbols for recognized parties and to restrict such use during elections. The contention of the petitioner if allowed to stand then it would amount to supplying a causus omissus and reading something in the Act, 1951, Rules, 1961 and Order, 1968 which does not exist therein.

52. We may in this context refer to the case of State of M.P. vs. Bharat Heavy Electricals, reported in (1997) 7 SCC 1, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

"16."5. It is a well-settled principle in law that the court cannot read anything into a statutory provision or a stipulated condition which is plain and unambiguous. A statute is an edict of the legislature. The language employed in a statute is the determinative factor of legislative intent. Similar is the position for conditions stipulated in advertisements.....

.....10. Two principles of construction ? one relating to casus omissus and the other in regard to reading the statute as a whole, appear to be well settled. Under the first principle a casus omissus cannot be supplied by the court except in the case of clear necessity and when reason for it is found in the four corners of the statute itself but at the same time a casus omissus should not be readily inferred and for that purpose all the parts of a statute or section must be construed together and every clause of a section should be construed with reference to the context and other clauses thereof so that the construction to be put on a particular provision makes a consistent enactment of the whole statute. This would be more so if literal construction of a particular clause leads to manifestly absurd or anomalous results which could not have been intended by the legislature.....

53. We do not see any reason to read words into the relevant Statutes, Rules or Order which do not appear therein and are also contrary to the scheme contained therein.

54. The petitioner also contended that reservation of symbols has to be for a particular period and not for all times to come. The argument is based on a misunderstanding of the legal scheme contained in the Act, 1951, the Rules, 1961 and the Symbols Order, 1968. The reservation of symbols is till such period as the political party continues to be recognized. The day it is derecognized or its recognition is withdrawn under Paragraph 16A of the Order, 1968 or any other provision which may be attracted, it will cease to have the benefit of the symbol reserved for it except in so far as is permitted under Paragraph 10A of the Order, 1968.

55. It is evident from Paragraph 10A that once the party is unrecognized though it may have been recognized earlier, then it is not entitled to use the symbol reserved for it except in terms of the aforesaid provision i.e. on making of an application to the Commission within 30 days after the publication in the Official Gazette of the notification calling the election, meaning thereby, not prior to it and subject to a declaration under Clause (b) thereof, as also, the opinion being formed by the Commission that there is no reasonable ground for refusing the application for such allotment, meaning thereby, not otherwise. The proviso further qualifies Paragraph 10A making it inapplicable where the same symbol is already reserved for some other National or State party in that State or Union territory. However, as long as the party is recognized and continues to be recognized in terms of Paragraph 6C, there is nothing in law to prevent it from using the symbol reserved for it.

56. It was also her contention that the Symbol Order, 1968 only speaks of "reservation" and not of "allotment" of symbol to recognized political parties. The Court asked her as to for what purpose the symbol is reserved for recognized political party but she could not give any satisfactory answer. We are of the considered view that the symbol is reserved for a recognized political party because of their special status as already noticed hereinabove and for their use considering their importance in the democratic polity of this country. The symbol is reserved for their exclusive use and also for allotment to their candidates exclusively as and when they setup their candidates in an election but this does not mean that the symbol reserved for them is only for their use at the time of elections. Even prior to the elections they can use it so that the masses may identify themselves with the symbols based on their agenda and ideology as has already been discussed hereinabove and as is also evident from the decisions cited and quoted earlier.

57. The petitioner has failed to understand the distinction between "reservation of symbols" and "allotment of symbols". Symbols are not allotted to a recognized political party prior to notification of elections but they are reserved for them. The candidates set up by them are allotted the symbols reserved for such political party after notification of elections as per law already discussed. Reservation of symbols for recognized political parties helps the cause of democracy and does not cause any public injury. There is nothing in the Constitution of India, the Act, 1951, the Rules, 1961 and the Symbols Order, 1968 that symbols cannot be reserved for a recognized political party or that the symbol reserved for them can be used only during elections or after notification of elections. In this regard, as already discussed, a recognized political party stands on a different footing than an unrecognized political party or an independent candidate and therefore has rightly been treated differently in law.

58. As regards contention of the petitioner that symbols should be reserved (misunderstood by the petitioner as allotment in the context of recognized political parties) for unrecognized political parties or independent candidates, the scheme of the relevant Acts, Rules and Orders referred hereinabove does not support it and in view of the valid distinction between them and the recognized political parties, we do not find it to be acceptable. As per scheme of the Act, 1951, the Rules, 1961 and especially the Symbols Order, 1968, reservation of symbols is only for recognized political parties whereas allotment of symbols is for all political parties, recognized or unrecognized and even for independent candidates.

59. In view of the aforesaid, the unrecognized political parties and independent candidates as they are distinct from recognized political parties and there is a valid rational criteria for such distinction, therefore, the contention of the petitioner that the Election Commission of India is acting in a discriminatory and arbitrary manner is not tenable in law. Moreover, this is Public Interest Litigation but there is nothing to show that the interest of the masses or the public at large is in any manner adversely affected by the questions raised in the petition.

60. For all these reasons, this Writ Petition fails and is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J. & Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anurag Singh, learned counsel for petitioner and Shri S.P. Singh, learned A.G.A.

2. This writ petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India seeking a writ in the nature of certiorari quashing a notice dated 18.03.2020 issued by the District Magistrate, Sitapur under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970. He has also sought a writ of mandamus directing the opposite party no. 3 and 4 not to harass the petitioner in pursuance to the aforesaid notice, which is impugned herein.

3. The contention of learned counsel for petitioner Sri Anurag Singh is that the notice has been issued on the basis of a single criminal case, whereas, Section 2(b)(i) defines 'Goonda' to mean a person who either by himself or as member or leader of a gang, habitually commits or attempts to commit, or abates the commission of an offence punishable under Section 153 or 153-B or Section 294 of the Indian Penal Code or Chapter XV, or Chapter XVI, or Chapter XXII of the said code. The lodging of a single criminal case against the petitioner does not make him, a person, who habitually commits any aforesaid offence. In this regard he relies upon a judgment of this Court dated 23.05.2018 rendered in Writ Petition No. 12459 (M/B) of 2018; Suresh Tewari Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. He also relies upon an interim order passed by this Court on 22.09.2020 in Writ Petition No. 14688 (M/B) of 2020 wherein this Court interfered at the interim stage on the ground that a single criminal case would not make the person a Goonda under Section 2(b)(i) as it would not be proof of the fact that he is habitual of committing an offence referred in the said provision. It is also the contention of learned counsel for petitioner that in the single F.I.R. lodged against the petitioner there were five accused but only the petitioner and one other person, namely, Sahabuddin have been proceeded under the Goondas Act. He informed that petition of Sri Sahabuddin is pending, but, there is no interim protection therein.

4. We have perused the judgment dated 23.05.2018 as also the interim order dated 22.09.2020. We have also perused the record and we find that petition is directed against a notice under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970. Section 3(1) of the said Act pertains to Externment, etc. of Goondas. It requires the District Magistrate, on the satisfaction of the eventualities mentioned in Clause (a), (b) and (c) of Sub-section 1 of Section 3, to inform the person concerned by notice in writing of the general nature of the material allegation against him in respect of Clause (a), (b) and (c) and give him reasonable opportunity of tendering an explanation regarding them.

5. Sub-section 2 of Section 3 goes on to state the rights of the person, against whom an order under the said section is proposed to be passed, to consult and be defended by a counsel and also to have a reasonable opportunity of examining himself or any other witness that he may wish to produce in support of his explanation, unless for reasons to be recorded in writing the District Magistrate is of opinion that the request is made for the purpose of vexation or delay. Thereafter, the District Magistrate, on being satisfied that the conditions specified in Clause (a), (b) and (c) of Sub-section 1 exists, may by order in writing take the actions contemplated in Clause (a) and (b) of Section 3(3) of the Act, 1970 for externment etc.

6. Now, in the present case as of now no order has been passed under Section 3 of the Act, 1970. All that has been by the District Magistrate is to issue a notice to petitioner under Section 3(1). In response to which, the petitioner shall have the rights as mentioned in the said sub-section as also sub-section 2 and only after such opportunity the final order, if at all, would be passed under Sub-section 3 of Section 3 of the Act, 1970.

7. Now, coming to the definition of 'Goonda' the Court finds that Goonda means a person who is covered by (i) of Section 2(b) or Clause (ii) or Clause (iii) or Clause (iv) or Clause (v) of the said Section. All the clauses are disjunctive as is evident from the use of the word 'or'.

8. Clause (iv) of Section 2(b) makes it very clear that a person can be categorized as Goonda if he is generally reputed to be a person who is desperate and dangerous to the community. This provision has not been considered in Suresh Tiwari' case (supra), though, Section 2(b) has been quoted in the said judgment. As regards the decision in Imran alias Abdul Qudus Khan the said case also considers meaning of the words 'habitual criminal' and does not delve upon other clauses of Section 2(b). The decision of the Supreme Court rendered in the case of Vijay Narain Singh Vs. State of Bihar and Ors. reported in (1984) 3 SCC 14 as referred in the judgement in Suresh Tiwari's case (supra) deals with Section 2(b) of Bihar Control of Crimes Act, 1981 and it was not a case of challenge to a notice.

9. Be that as it may, the specific issue as to maintainability of writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India against a notice issued under Section 3(1) of U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970 came up for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in case of Ballabh Chaubey Vs. Additional District Magistrate (Finance), Mathura and Anr; Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 2954 of 1996 decided on 22.01.1997 reported in 1997 A. Cr. R. 387 (1997 ALJ 1630). A Division of this Court specifically considered this issue and after referring to various decisions of this Court and that of the Hon'ble Supreme Court opined not to entertain the writ petition at the stage of notice and gave cogent and detailed reasons in support of its conclusion. Relevant extract of the said decision is quoted hereinbelow:-

"8. The detention laws like National Security Act, or Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act make serious in-road in the liberty of a person. Under these laws a person is detained without any prior notice and that too on the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority which satisfaction cannot be challenged on merits. The person detained gets only a right to make representation against his detention but that too after he has been detained and he has been deprived of his liberty. The decision of the representation naturally takes time. The principle that the machinery provided by the Act should not be permitted to be by-passed by taking recourse to proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution prior to execution of the detention order was reiterated even in such cases. In Additional Secretary to Government of India v. Smt. Alka Subhash Gadia, JT 1991 (1) SC 549, the submission on behalf of the detaining authority is noticed in para 25 of the Report which is as under :

"It was contended by Sri Sibbal, learned Additional Solicitor General, on behalf of the appellants that since the detention law is constitutionally valid, the order passed under it can be challenged only in accordance with the provisions of, and the procedure laid down, by it. In this respect there is no distinction between the orders passed under the detention laws and those passed under other laws. Hence, the High Court under Article 226 of this Court under Article 32 of the Constitution should not exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction in a manner which will enable a party to by-pass the machinery provided by the law."

The Court after considering the submissions of the parties held as follows in para 30 :

"..... The power under Article 226 and 32 are wide, and are untrammelled by any external restrictions and can reach any executive order resulting in civil or criminal consequences. However, the courts have over the years evolved certain self-restraint for exercising these powers. They have done so in the interests of the administration of justice and for better and more efficient and informed exercise of the said powers. These self-imposed restraints are not confined to the review of the orders passed under detention law only. They extend to the orders passed and decisions made under all laws. It is in pursuance of this self-evolved judicial policy and in conformity with the self-imposed internal restrictions that the courts insist that the aggrieved person first allow the due operation and implementation of the concerned law and exhaust the remedies provided by it before approaching the High Court and this Court to evoke their discretionary extraordinary and equitable jurisdiction under Articles 226 said 32 respectively. That jurisdiction by its very nature is to be used sparingly and in circumstances where no other efficacious remedy is available ....."

This decision has been subsequently followed in N. K. Bapna v. Union of India, JT 1992 (4) 49; State of Tamil Nadu v. P. K. Shamsuddin, JT 1992 (4) 179 and Subhash Mujimal Gandhi v. L. Miningliana, 1994 (6) SCC 14. The provisions of detention laws are far more stringent than the Control of Goondas Act as here order is passed after notice and trial and the person against whom order is passed does not lose his liberty. He is merely deprived of his right to live in a particular area from where he is externed but is free to reside any where else in the country. There is no reason why the same principle should not apply in the present case as well. The law being well-settled that where a Statute provides a machinery of its own, the aggrieved person should first exhaust the remedies provided under the Statutes before approaching the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution and the High Court would not normally entertain a petition straightway, the present petition challenging the notice is liable to be rejected on the ground of alternative remedy.

9. In Raja Sukhnandan v. State, AIR 1972 All 498, the writ petition was filed at the stage of notice. The Division Bench examined the contention based upon the constitutional validity of U. P. Control of Goondas Act but refused to consider the submission regarding illegality of the notice on the ground that the same could be agitated before the District Magistrate and if the decision went against the petitioner, in appeal before the Commissioner. In Kabir Chawla v. State of U.P., 1994 SCC (Cri) 577, the validity of the notice under Section 3 of the Act was assailed but the Supreme Court declined to go into this question on the ground that the petitioner could satisfy the District Magistrate who was seized of the matter. It may be mentioned here that in all the cases where validity of notice issued under similar Statute relating to externment of Goondas was assailed before the Supreme Court, the matter had been taken in appeal against final orders of externment see Gurucharan Singh v. State of Bombay, AIR 1952 SC 221; Hari Khemu Gawli v. Dy. Commissioner of Police, AIR 1956 SC 559; Bhagubhaj v. District Magistrate, AIR 1956 SC 585 and State of Gujarat v. Mehboob Khan, AIR 1968 SC 1468.

10. There is another reason for not entertaining the writ petition at the stage of notice. As the preamble of the Act shows, it has been enacted to make special provisions for the Control and Suppression of Goondas with a view to the maintenance of Public Order. The provisions of the Act are intended to prevent further mischief by a Goonda and not to secure his conviction in a pending case. If a person is permitted to challenge the notice at the initial stage and seek stay of the proceedings, the very purpose for which notice is issued and the law under which it is issued will be frustrated as the externment order remains in operation only for a limited period.

11. Learned counsel has next submitted that in Ramji Pandey v. State of U. P., 1981 Cri LJ 1083, writ petition had been filed challenging the notice under Section 3 of the Act and the writ petition was allowed by a Full Bench of this Court and, therefore, the present petition also deserves to be entertained. The judgment of the Full Bench shows that the question whether a writ petition should be entertained against a notice was not at all considered. The only question which was canvassed and was considered by the Bench was whether the notice was in accordance with the requirement of Section 3 of the Act. No such argument that a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution should not be entertained at the stage of notice seems to have been canvassed and therefore no decision has been given on this point. It is well-settled that a decision is an authority for when it actually decides. What is of the essence in a decision is its ratio and not every observation found therein nor what logically flows from the various observations made in it. See M/s. Orient Paper and Industries Ltd. v. State of Orissa, AIR 1991 SC 672 para 19. Doctrine of precedent is limited to the decision itself and as to what is necessarily involved in it. Judicial authority belongs not to the exact words used in this or that judgment, nor even to all reasons given, but only to the principle accepted and applied as necessary grounds of decision see Krishna Kumar v. Union of India, AIR 1990 SC 1782 pages 18 and 19. The Full Bench having not considered the question of maintainability of the writ petition at the stage of notice, the decision rendered by it cannot be held to be an authority or binding precedent for holding the writ petition to be maintainable.

12. In view of the reasons discussed above the writ petitions are dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy."

10. The writ petitions were dismissed on the ground of availability of efficacious alternative remedy. As would be evident from a reading of the judgment, the Division Bench relied upon the decision of the Supreme Court reported in JT 1991 (1) SC 549; Additional Secretary to Government of India Vs. Smt. Alka Subhash Gadia. It also relied upon AIR 1972 All 498; Raja Sukhnandan Vs. State which is a judgment of this very Court. It also relied upon a judgment reported in 1994 SCC (Cri.) 577; Kabir Chawla Vs. State of U.P., wherein the validity of notice under Section (3) of the Goondas Act, 1970 was assailed but the Supreme Court declined to go into this question on the ground that the petitioner could satisfy the District Magistrate who was ceased of the matter. The Division Bench also noticed that all those cases which were cited before it in support of petitioner's contention, were those where the validity of notice had been seen by the Courts in Appeal against final order of externment. The relevant extract of the judgment in the case of Kabir Chawla (supra) is quoted hereinbelow:-

"The petitioner has made a grievance in relation to the proceedings that have been initiated against him by the District Magistrate, Nainital, by the show-cause notice dated March 10, 1993 under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Control of Goondas Act, 1970. The petitioner states that he has submitted his reply to the show-cause notice but no final order has been made so far and that he has to appear before the District Magistrate. The petitioner, however, prays that the said proceedings may be quashed. We do not find any ground for quashing the said proceedings at this stage. The matter is under consideration before the District Magistrate. It is open to the petitioner to satisfy the District Magistrate that no ground has been made out for passing the order against him. In the writ petition the petitioner has not made out a case that in issuing the show- cause notice the District Magistrate was actuated by mala fides. There is, therefore, no reason to assume that the District Magistrate would not give a fair consideration to the matter. We are, therefore, unable to accept the submissions of the petitioner in this regard."

11. Thereafter Hon'ble the Supreme Court proceeded to consider the other grievance of the petitioner before it regarding preventive detention on the basis of an order passed by this District Magistrate which was a different issue.

12. In view of the above, considering the fact that the petition is directed against a notice and the petitioner will have reasonable opportunity to defend himself in terms of Section 3(1) and Sub-section 2 thereof, there is no reason for this Court to interfere in the matter at this stage. The only reason we are not delving at length on the object of the Act, 1970 the scheme of the purpose sought to be achieved by it is that it might prejudice the petitioner in his defence before the District Magistrate, therefore, leaving it open for the petitioner to respond to the notice before the District Magistrate and to avail all the rights under Sub-section 1 and 2 of Section 3 before the District Magistrate., we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned notice.

13. We however make it clear that the District Magistrate while considering the response and granting reasonable opportunity to the petitioner shall not pay lip service to the provisions of the Act, 1970, so far as they grant right to the petitioner to defend his case and shall not act with a predetermined and mechanical mind but shall apply his mind duly, properly, objectively and effectively to the facts of the case and the material available before him before deciding as to whether any of the actions as contemplated under Sub-section 3 of Section 3 of the Act, 1970 are required to be taken or not.

14. Subject to aforesaid observations, the writ petition is disposed of without prejudice to the rights of the petitioner as aforesaid, without interfering with the impugned notice.

8. Sudhir Bhaskar Rao Tambe Vs Hemant Yashwant Dhage & ors. (2016) 6 SCC 277

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Dhari Singh, J.)

1. This writ petition has been filed by the petitioner Waseem Haider seeking mandamus commanding the respondents no. 2 & 3 to make direction to respondent no.4 for registration of the First Information Report on the application of the petitioner.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that original owner of land Khasra Nos. 1120Ka, 1097, 2067, 1120Ka, 1121, 1122Ka, 1138, 2151Gha, 2245Ga and 1120 situated at Village Katui Paragana and Tehsil Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar, Old District Faizabad was Shri Ambad Mehndi, who executed Theekanama in favour of his chief executive Quari Sayed Akhtar Husain alongwith some conditions. It is submitted that he did not transfer his title, and only the right to use the aforesaid land was given. It is also submitted that the aforesaid gata numbers are new gata numbers and in the deed of Theekanama, old numbers have been mentioned.

3. Learned counsel has submitted that Late Syed Ahmad Mehdi was Tallukdar of Peerpur Estate and after his death his only daughter Smt. Huma Husain inherited the said property by way of succession. The petitioner is attorney holder of Smt. Huma Husain and managing the affairs of Smt. Huma Husain.

4. It is submitted that when the petitioner came to know about the forged and fraudulent sale deed which was executed by Shri Jagdish Mishra in favour of several persons through six sale deeds on 29.01.2020, the petitioner moved application for registration of First Information Report to opposite party no.4 on 27.06.2020, but opposite party no.4 did not register the said F.I.R.

5. He has submitted that the petitioner approached opposite party no.3 i.e. Superintendent of Police, Ambedkar Nagar and submitted application through registered post dated 10.07.2020 for registration of F.I.R., but nothing has been done by the said authority.

6. Learned counsel has further submitted that when the report of the petitioner was not lodged by opposite party no.4 and no direction was given by opposite party no.3 to opposite party no.4 then the petitioner approached opposite party no.2 i.e. Director General of Police, U.P., Lucknow and moved an application through E-mail on 04.12.2020, but again nothing was done by the police authorities.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumari vs. Government of U.P. and others; (2014) 2 SCC 1 and submitted that upon receipt of information by a police officer in-charge of a police station disclosing a cognizable offence, it is imperative for him to register a case under Section 154 of the Code.

8. Learned AGA has opposed the prayer as made in the present writ petition and raised a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the writ petition and states that if the petitioner is aggrieved by the fact that his first information report is not being registered, he has an alternative remedy to approach the Magistrate concerned under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Learned AGA has also vehemently submitted that proposed accused has not been made a party, which is necessary for proper adjudication of this case. Therefore, the writ petition may be dismissed merely on this ground itself.

9. Heard Mohd. Muballi Gussalam, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri J. S. Tomar, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

10. The core issue raised herein is whether a writ of mandamus can be issued under Article 226 of the Constitution of India directing the police to register an offence under Section 154(1) Cr.P.C. in a petition raising grievance that despite informing the police about the commission of cognizable offence, no FIR is lodged.

11. In some cases the writ Court has directed the police authorities to perform their statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C by following the law laid down by the Apex Court in the Constitution Bench decision of Lalita Kumari (supra). The State has taken serious objection and submitted that the Writ Court should have declined issuance of writ of mandamus for the reason of availability of statutory remedy under Section 154(3), 156(3), 190 and 200 Cr.P.C.

12. The core issue mentioned above in fact involves a number of principal and peripheral issues, which are as under :-

Principal Issues :-

(i) Whether in the face of remedies under Sections 154(3), 156(3), 190 & 200 Cr.P.C., writ of mandamus can be issued to police authorities to perform their statutory duty under Sections 154(1) Cr.P.C. in a petition complaining non-registration of FIR despite furnishing first information of commission of cognizable offence?

(ii) Whether the Constitution Bench decision of the Apex Court in Lalita Kumari (supra) is an answer to the above said principal issue No.1?

Peripheral Issues :-

(i) Can relief of writ of mandamus be denied to the informant merely on the ground that the informant is not an aggrieved person or victim and whether such person becomes functus officio after informing the police of commission of cognizable offence?

(ii) Whether the proposed accused is required to be heard before writ of mandamus can be issued in a petition complaining failure of police authorities to register offence despite being informed of commission of cognizable offence?

13. Before embarking upon the process of adjudication it would be appropriate to reproduce the relevant statutory provisions which have bearing on the issued involved herein. Section 154, Section 156, Section 190 and Section 200 of the Cr.P.C. are reproduced in seriatim for convenience and ready reference :-

"Section 154. Information in cognizable cases. - (1) Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read Over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf.

(2) A copy of the information as recorded under sub- section (1) shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in charge of a police station to record the information referred to in subsection (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who, if satisfied that such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, shall either investigate the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him, in the manner provided by this Code, and such officer shall have all the powers of an officer in charge of the police station in relation to that offence.

Section 156. Police officer' s power to investigate cognizable case*. - (1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.*

(2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order such an investigation as above- mentioned.

Section 190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates. - (1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under Sub-Section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under Sub-Section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try.

Section. 200. Examination of complainant. - A Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses, and also by the Magistrate:

Provided that, when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses-

(a) if a public servant acting or- purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint; or

(b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under Section 192:

Provided further that if the Magistrate makes over the case to another Magistrate under Section 192 after examining the complainant and the witnesses, the latter Magistrate need not re-examine them.

14. Writ of Mandamus is one of the prerogative writs issued by the superior Courts (High Court or Supreme Court), which is in shape of command to the State, its instrumentality or its functionaries to compel them to perform their constitutional/statutory/public duty. To clarify, the extract of decision of Apex Court explaining the discretionary limitations adopted by the Writ Court while issuing writ of mandamus are as follows:-

(i) Thansingh Nathmal Vs. Superintendent of Taxes, AIR 1964 SC 1419 :-

"The jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is couched in wide terms and the exercise thereof is not subject to any restrictions except the territorial restrictions which are expressly provided in the Articles. But the exercise of the jurisdiction is discretionary; it is not exercised merely because it is lawful to do so. The very amplitude of the jurisdiction demands that it will ordinarily be exercised subject to certain self-imposed limitations. Resort to that jurisdiction is not intended as an alternative remedy for relief which may be obtained in a suit or other mode prescribed by statute. Ordinarily the Court will not entertain a petition for a writ under Art. 226, where the petitioner has an alternative remedy which, without being unduly onerous, provides an equally efficacious remedy."

15. The writ remedy is extra-ordinary remedy and equitable remedy. Further, the writ Court need not entertain a writ petition merely because a case is made out of alleged inaction or negligent in acting on an issue by an authority vested with power, in these cases to register crime/to complete investigation into crime, if statutorily engrafted remedy is available to seek redress on such grievance. Even if, a case is made out on alleged illegal action by statutory authority, which require redressal, ordinarily writ Court does not entertain the writ petition if the aggrieved person has not availed other remedies, more so, such remedies are incorporated in a statute.

16. In the case of Whirlpool Corporation. v. Registrar of Trade Marks, - (1998) 8 SCC 1, the Apex Court had held as follows:-

"15. Under Article 226 of the Constitution, the High Court, having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. But the High Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions one of which is that if an effective and efficacious remedy is available, the High Court would not normally exercise its jurisdiction. But the alternative remedy has been consistently held by this Court not to operate as a bar in at least three contingencies, namely, where the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights or where there has been a violation of the principle of natural justice or where the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged."

17. The power to issue writ of mandamus has its own well defined self imposed limitations, one of which is availability of alternative efficacious remedy on the basis of which the Writ Court can deny issuance of the said writ.

18. This Court deems it appropriate to answer principal issue No.2 first. The principal issue No.2 is as follows :-

(ii) Whether the Constitution Bench decision of the Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumari (supra) is an answer to the above said principal issue No.1 ?

19. The decision of Lalita Kumari (supra) of the Apex Court arose out of a petition under Article 32 of the Constitution of India seeking issuance of writ of habeas corpus or directions of like nature against the respondents therein for the protection of minor daughter who was kidnapped. As per paragraphs 1 & 6 of the said judgment, the Apex Court framed the question raised and decided therein which are reproduced below :-

"Para 1. The important issue which arises for consideration in the referred matter is whether "a police officer is bound to register the first information report (FIR) upon receiving any information relating to commission of cognizable offence under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short' the Code') or the police officer has the power to conduct 'preliminary inquiry' in order to test the veracity of such information before registering the same"?

Para 6. Therefore, the only question before this Constitution Bench relates to the interpretation of Section 154 of the Code and incidentally to consider Sections 156 and 157 also".

20. Perusal of the judgment of Lalita Kumari (supra) and the final directions passed in paragraphs 120.1 to 120.8 clearly reveal the laying down of ratio that the police has no option but to register the offence in shape of FIR under Section 154 Cr.P.C. on receipt of first information regarding commission of cognizable offence without verifying the veracity of the first information.

21. Though the Apex Court while formulating the question in paragraph 6 (supra) made reference to Sections 156 & 157 but the entire judgment of Lalita Kumari and final directions issued therein centre around the statutory obligation of the police to register the offence under Section 154 Cr.P.C, with only passing reference of Section 156 & 157 without laying down any law as regards these provisions (Section 156 and 157 Cr.P.C.).

22. Therefore, it can safely be concluded that the Apex Court while interpreting the statutory provision under Section 154 Cr.P.C said nothing further as regards remedy available to the informant whose information of commission of cognizable offence does not invoke any response from the police. Thus, the judgment of Lalita Kumari does not lay down any law in respect of remedies available to the informant under Cr.P.C. to be invoked in case of failure on the part of the police to perform its statutory duty under Section 154(1)/154(3) Cr.P.C. as a sine qua non for seeking writ of mandamus.

23. Consequently, the case of Lalita Kumari of the Apex Court does not answer the principal issue No.1 framed by this Court.

24. Now this Court takes up the principal issue No.1.

25. The self imposed restriction of availability of statutory remedy while considering issuance of writ of mandamus is universally applied with few exceptions as enumerated above.

26. The Code of Criminal Procedure provides various avenues before the informant/victim to initiate criminal prosecution. The first avenue is of lodging of FIR under Section 154(1)/154(3) which can be availed by the victim and as well as a stranger to the offence, provided the first information discloses commission of cognizable offence. The lodging of FIR under Section 154 Cr.P.C. sets the investigative machinery into motion without prior permission of the Magistrate as is otherwise required for non-cognizable offences.

27. The second avenue available to the victim and as well as a stranger to the cognizable offence, is under Section 156(3) by approaching the concerned Magistrate by informing commission of cognizable offence. The Magistrate can then conduct an enquiry himself or direct the concerned police station to register the offence alleged, thereby triggering the investigation.

28. The third avenue available is under Section 190 Cr.P.C empowering the competent Magistrate to take cognizance of any offence upon receipt of complaint of facts containing allegation constituting the offence, or upon a police report of such facts or upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge of commission of cognizable and as well as non-cognizable offence, except offences punishable under Chapter XX of IPC, for which procedure prescribed under Section 198 Cr.P.C. is to be adhered to.

29. The fourth avenue is under Section 200 Cr.P.C where a complaint, oral or in writing if made before the competent Magistrate leads to hearing by the Magistrate on the question of taking cognizance of offence or not and if it is found that complaint discloses commission of any offence punishable in law then the Magistrate issues summons to the proposed accused on appearance of whom statements of rival parties are recorded and the Magistrate decides on the question of framing of charge or discharging the accused. If charges are framed then trial proceeds.

30. The above said discussion makes it clear that there are four different remedies available under Cr.P.C for the informant/victim to initiate prosecution in respect of the cognizable/non-cognizable offence which is alleged in the first information furnished which fails to invoke response from the police. More so, these statutory remedies cannot be branded as non-efficacious or onerous. Accordingly, informant whose first information does not lead to registration of offence under Section 154 Cr.P.C is not remedy-less and therefore, the constraints exercised by the writ Court while issuing writ of mandamus come into play. These constraints as enumerated above are self imposed and lie within the domain of discretion rather than rule but none the less are invariably applied by superior courts while exercising writ jurisdiction. To elaborate, if it is demonstrated that impugned action or inaction is vitiated by violation of principles of natural justice, or being bereft of jurisdiction or violates any statutory provision or causes breach of fundamental rights, then non-availing of alternative remedy cannot restrain the informant or victim to successfully invoke the writ jurisdiction of the superior Court.

31. In the case of Abhinandan Jha v. Dinesh Mishra - (1967) 3 SCR 668, the Supreme Court took great pains in demarking the powers of the police and the judiciary. They explained the duties of the police, in the matter of investigation of offences, as well as their powers. It is necessary to refer to the provisions contained in Chapter XIV of the Code, Sections beginning from Section 154, and ending with Section 176. Section 154 deals with information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, and the procedure to be adopted in respect of the same. In each of these sections, there is no role of Judiciary. The sections provide guidelines to the police on how to proceed with the Investigation but there is always a discretion to the police officer to conduct a preliminary inquiry in case a complaint does not clearly disclose a Cognizable offence or has doubts over the veracity of the complaint. The relevant extract (Para - 7) is as follows:-

"7. In order, properly, to appreciate the duties of the police, in the matter of investigation of offences, as well as their powers, it is necessary to refer to the provisions contained in Chapter XIV of the Code. That chapter deals with "Information to the Police and their Powers to investigate"; and it contains the group of sections beginning from Section 154, and ending with Section 176. Section 154 deals with information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, and the procedure to be adopted in respect of the same. Section 155, similarly, deals with information in respect of non-cognizable offences. Sub-section (2), of this section, prohibits a police officer from investigating a non-cognizable case, without the order of a Magistrate. Section 156 authorises a police officer, in-charge of a police station, to investigate any cognizable case, without the order of a Magistrate. Therefore, it will be seen that large powers are conferred on the police, in the matter of investigation into a cognizable offence. Sub-section (3), of Section 156, provides for any Magistrate, empowered under Section 190, to order an investigation. In cases where a cognizable offence is suspected to have been committed, the officer in-charge of a police station, after sending a report to the Magistrate, is entitled, under Section 157, to investigate the facts and circumstances of the case and also to take steps for the discovery and arrest of the offender. Clause (b), of the proviso to Section 157(1), gives a discretion to the police officer not to investigate the case, if it appears to him that there is no sufficient ground for entering on an investigation. Section 158 deals with the procedure to be adopted in the matter of a report to be sent, under Section 157. Section 159 gives power to a Magistrate, on receiving a report under Section 157, either to direct an investigation or, himself or through another Magistrate subordinate to him, to hold a preliminary enquiry into the matter, or otherwise dispose of the case, in accordance with the Code. Sections 160 to 163 deal with the power of the police to require attendance of witnesses, examine witnesses and record statements. Sections 165 and 166 deal with the power of police officers, in the matter of conducting searches, during an investigation, in the circumstances, mentioned therein. Section 167 provides for the procedure to be adopted by the police, when investigation cannot be completed in 24 hours. Section 168 provides for a report being sent to the officer in charge of a police station, about the result of an investigation, when such investigation has been made by a subordinate police officer, under Chapter XIV. Section 169 authorises a police officer to release a person from custody, on his executing a bond, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate, in cases when, on investigation under Chapter XIV, it appears to the officer in-charge of the police station, or to the police officer making the investigation, that there is no sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion, to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate. Section 170 empowers the officer, in charge of a police station, after investigation under Chapter XIV, and if it appears to him that there is sufficient evidence, to forward the accused, under custody, to a competent Magistrate or to take security from the accused for his appearance before the Magistrate, in cases where the offence is bailable. Section 172 makes it obligatory on the police officer making an investigation, to maintain a diary recording the various particulars therein and in the manner indicated in that section. Section 173 provides for an investigation, under Chapter XIV, to be completed, without unnecessary delay and also makes it obligatory, on the officer in charge of the police station, to send a report to the Magistrate concerned, in the manner provided for therein, containing the necessary particulars."

32. In the case of H.N. Rishbud and Inder Singh v. State of Delhi - 1955 (1) SCR 1150, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the Judiciary should not interfere with the police in matters such as Investigation especially of cognizable offence which is the statutory right of the police. The court observed that the police needs no authorisation of the judiciary. The court opined that the functions of the police and judiciary are complimentary and not overlapping keeping in mind individual liberty and law and order situation in the Country. The judiciary role comes into play when a charge is established and not before that. The relevant extracts (Paras - 5 & 8) are as followes:-

"5. To determine the first question it is necessary to consider carefully both the language and scope of the section and the policy underlying it. As has been pointed out by Lord Campbell in Liverpool Borough Bank v. Turner [(1861) 30 LJ Ch 379] , "there is no universal rule to aid in determining whether mandatory enactments shall be considered directory only or obligatory with an implied nullification for disobedience. It is the duty of the Court to try to get at the real intention of the Legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the statute to be construed". (See Craies on Statute Law, p. 242, Fifth Edn.) The Code of Criminal Procedure provides not merely for judicial enquiry into or trial of alleged offences but also for prior investigation thereof. Section 5 of the Code shows that all offences "shall be investigated, inquired into, tried and otherwise dealt with in accordance with the Code" (except in so far as any special enactment may provide otherwise). For the purposes of investigation offences are divided into two categories "cognizable" and "non-cognizable". When information of the commission of a cognizable offence is received or such commission is suspected, the appropriate police officer has the authority to enter on the investigation of the same (unless it appears to him that there is no sufficient ground). But where the information relates to a non-cognizable offence, he shall not investigate it without the order of a competent Magistrate. Thus it may be seen that according to the scheme of the Code, investigation is a normal preliminary to an accused being put up for trial for a cognizable offence (except when the Magistrate takes cognizance otherwise than on a police report in which case he has the power under Section 202 of the Code to order investigation if he thinks fit). Therefore, it is clear that when the Legislature made the offences in the Act cognizable, prior investigation by the appropriate police officer was contemplated as the normal preliminary to the trial in respect of such offences under the Act. In order to ascertain the scope of and the reason for requiring such investigation to be conducted by an officer of high rank (except when otherwise permitted by a Magistrate), it is useful to consider what "investigation" under the Code comprises. Investigation usually starts on information relating to the commission of an offence given to an officer in charge of a police station and recorded under Section 154 of the Code. If from information so received or otherwise, the officer in charge of the police station has reason to suspect the commission of an offence, he or some other subordinate officer deputed by him, has to proceed to the spot to investigate the facts and circumstances of the case and if necessary to take measures for the discovery and arrest of the offender. Thus investigation primarily consists in the ascertainment of the facts and circumstances of the case. By definition, it includes "all the proceedings under the Code for the collection of evidence conducted by a police officer". For the above purposes, the investigating officer is given the power to require before himself the attendance of any person appearing to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case. He has also the authority to examine such person orally either by himself or by a duly authorised deputy. The officer examining any person in the course of investigation may reduce his statement into writing and such writing is available, in the trial that may follow, for use in the manner provided in this behalf in Section 162. Under Section 155 the officer in charge of a police station has the power of making a search in any place for the seizure of anything believed to be necessary for the purpose of the investigation. The search has to be conducted by such officer in person. A subordinate officer may be deputed by him for the purpose only for reasons to be recorded in writing if he is unable to conduct the search in person and there is no other competent officer available. The investigating officer has also the power to arrest the person or persons suspected of the commission of the offence under Section 54 of the Code. A police officer making an investigation is enjoined to enter his proceedings in a diary from day-to-day. Where such investigation cannot be completed within the period of 24 hours and the accused is in custody he is enjoined also to send a copy of the entries in the diary to the Magistrate concerned. It is important to notice that where the investigation is conducted not by the officer in charge of the police station but by a subordinate officer (by virtue of one or other of the provisions enabling him to depute such subordinate officer for any of the steps in the investigation) such subordinate officer is to report the result of the investigation to the officer in charge of the police station. If, upon the completion of the investigation it appears to the officer in charge of the police station that there is no sufficient evidence or reasonable ground, he may decide to release the suspected accused, if in custody, on his executing a bond. If, however, it appears to him that there is sufficient evidence or reasonable ground, to place the accused on trial, he is to take the necessary steps therefore under Section 170 of the Code. In either case, on the completion of the investigation he has to submit a report to the Magistrate under Section 173 of the Code in the prescribed form furnishing various details. Thus, under the Code investigation consists generally of the following steps: (1) Proceeding to the spot, (2) Ascertainment of the facts and circumstances of the case, (3) Discovery and arrest of the suspected offender, (4) Collection of evidence relating to the commission of the offence which may consist of (a) the examination of various persons (including the accused) and the reduction of their statements into writing, if the officer thinks fit, (b) the search of places or seizure of things considered necessary for the investigation and to be produced at the trial, and (5) Formation of the opinion as to whether on the material collected there is a case to place the accused before a Magistrate for trial and if so taking the necessary steps for the same by the filing of a charge-sheet under Section 173. The scheme of the Code also shows that while it is permissible for an officer in charge of a police station to depute some subordinate officer to conduct some of these steps in the investigation, the responsibility for every one of these steps is that of the person in the situation of the officer in charge of the police station, it having been clearly provided in Section 168 that when a subordinate officer makes an investigation he should report the result to the officer in charge of the police station. It is also clear that the final step in the investigation, viz. the formation of the opinion as to whether or not there is a case to place the accused on trial is to be that of the officer in charge of the police station. There is no provision permitting delegation thereof but only a provision entitling superior officers to supervise or participate under Section 551.

8. A number of decisions of the various High Courts have been cited before us bearing on the questions under consideration. We have also perused the recent unreported Full Bench judgment of the Punjab High Court [Criminal Appeals Nos. 25-D and 434 of 1953 disposed of on 3rd May, 1954] . These disclose a conflict of opinion. It is sufficient to notice one argument based on Section 156(2) of the Code on which reliance has been placed in some of these decisions in support of the view that Section 5(4) of the Act is directory and not mandatory. Section 156 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in the following terms:

"156.(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XV relating to the place of inquiry or trial.

(2) No proceeding of a police-officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order such an investigation as above-mentioned."

The argument advanced is that Section 5(4) and proviso to Section 3 of the Act are in substance and in effect in the nature of an amendment of or proviso to Section 156(1) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. In this view, it was suggested that Section 156(2) which cures the irregularity of an investigation by a person not empowered is attracted to Section 5(4) and proviso to Section 3 of the 1947 Act and Section 5-A of the 1952 Act. With respect, the learned Judges appear to have overlooked the phrase "under this section" which is to be found in sub-section (2) of Section 156 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. What that sub-section cures is investigation by an officer not empowered under that section i.e. with reference to sub-sections (1) and (3) thereof. Sub-section (1) of Section 156 is a provision empowering an officer in charge of a police station to investigate a cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate and delimiting his power to the investigation of such cases within a certain local jurisdiction. It is the violation of this provision that is cured under sub-section (2). Obviously sub-section (2) of Section 156 cannot cure the violation of any other specific statutory provision prohibiting investigation by an officer of a lower rank than a Deputy Superintendent of Police unless specifically authorised. But apart from the implication of the language of Section 156(2), it is not permissible to read the emphatic negative language of sub-section (4) of Section 5 of the Act or of the proviso to Section 3 of the Act, as being merely in the nature of an amendment of or a proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 156 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Some of the learned Judges of the High Courts have called in aid sub-section (2) of Section 561 of the Code of Criminal Procedure by way of analogy. It is difficult to see how this analogy helps unless the said sub-section is also to be assumed as directory and not mandatory which certainly is not obvious on the wording thereof. We are, therefore, clear in our opinion that Section 5(4) and proviso to Section 3 of the Act and the corresponding Section 5-A of Act 59 of 1952 are mandatory and not directory and that the investigation conducted in violation thereof bears the stamp of illegality.

33. In the case of Sevi v. State of Tamilnadu - 1981 Supp SCC 43, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that before registering an FIR under Section 154 of the Code, it is open to the police officer to hold a preliminary inquiry to ascertain whether there is a prima facie case of commission of a cognizable offence or not. The relevant extract (Para - 3) is as follows :-

"3. One of the disturbing features of the case is the strange conduct of PW 15 the Sub-Inspector of Police. According to him he was told by PW 10 on the telephone that there was some rioting at Kottaiyur and that some persons were stabbed. He made an entry in the general diary and proceeded to Kottaiyur taking with him the FIR book, the hospital memo book etc. This was indeed very extraordinary conduct on the part of the Sub-Inspector of Police. If he was not satisfied with the information given by PW 10 that any cognizable offence had been committed he was quite right in making an entry in the general diary and proceeding to the village to verify the information without registering any FIR. But, we have yet not come across any case where an officer in-charge of a police station has carried with him the FIR book. The first information report book is supposed to be at the Police Station House all the time. If the Sub-Inspector is not satisfied on the information received by him that a cognisable offence has been committed and wants to verify the information his duty is to make an entry in the general diary, proceed to the village and take a complaint at the village from someone who is in a position to give a report about the commission of a cognisable offence. Thereafter, the ordinary procedure is to send the report to the police station to be registered at the police station by the officer in-charge of the police station. But, indeed, we have never come across a case where the Station House Officer has taken the first information report book with him to the scene of occurrence. According to the suggestion of defence the original first information report which was registered was something altogether different from what has now been put forward as the first information report and that the present report is one which has been substituted in the place of another which was destroyed. To substantiate their suggestion the defence requested the Sessions Judge to direct the Sub-Inspector to produce the first information report book in the court so that the counterfoils might be examined. The Sub-Inspector was unable to produce the relevant FIR book in court notwithstanding the directions of the court. The FIR book, if produced, would have contained the necessary counterfoils corresponding to the FIR produced in court. The Sub-Inspector when questioned stated that he searched for the counterfoil book but was unable to find it, an explanation which we find impossible to accept. We cannot imagine how any FIR book can disappear from a police station. Though he claimed that relevant entries had been made in the general diary at the station the Sub-Inspector did not also produce the general diary in court. The production of the general diary would have certainly dispelled suspicion. In the circumstances we think that there is great force in the submission of the learned counsel for the accused that the original FIR has been suppressed and, in its place some other document has been substituted. If that is so, the entire prosecution case becomes suspect. All the eyewitnesses are partisan witnesses and notwithstanding the fact that four of them were injured we are unable to accept their evidence in the peculiar circumstances of the case. Where the entire evidence is of a partisan character impartial investigation can lend assurance to the court to enable it to accept such partisan evidence. But where the investigation itself is found to be tainted the task of the court to sift the evidence becomes very difficult indeed. Another feature of the case which makes us doubt the credibility of the witnesses is the photographic and somewhat dramatic account which they gave of the incident with minute details of the attack on each of the victims. According to the account of the witnesses it was as if each of the victims of the attack came upon the stage one after the other to be attacked by different accused in succession, each victim and his assailant being followed by the next victim and the next assailant. Surely the account of the witnesses is too dramatic and sounds obviously invented to allow each witness to give evidence of the entire attack. But the witnesses themselves admit in cross-examination that they were all attacked simultaneously. If so, it was impossible for each of them to have noticed the attack on everyone else. One other important feature of the case which remains unexplained by the prosecution witnesses is the injuries found on A-4. According to A-4 the prosecution party came to his house and attacked him and the prosecution party were injured in that incident, suggesting thereby that he acted in exercise of his right of private defence. He, however, excludes the presence of the other accused. Whether his version is true or not, the fact remains that he did sustain some injuries which have remained unexplained. Having regard to all these special features of this case we do not think that the High Court was justified in setting aside the acquittal of the appellants and convicting them. The appeals are, therefore, allowed. The appellants, if not on bail, will be released forthwith. If they are on bail their bail bonds will stand cancelled.

34. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sakiri Vasu v. State of U.P. & Ors. - (2008) 2 SCC 409 has discussed the remedies, procedure available if the police authorities denies to register the FIR. The relevant extract (Para - 26) is as follows :-

26. If a person has a grievance that his FIR has not been registered by the police station his first remedy is to approach the Superintendent of Police under Section 154(3) CrPC or other police officer referred to in Section 36 CrPC. If despite approaching the Superintendent of Police or the officer referred to in Section 36 his grievance still persists, then he can approach a Magistrate under Section

156(3) CrPC instead of rushing to the High Court by way of a writ petition or a petition under Section 482 CrPC. Moreover, he has a further remedy of filing a criminal complaint under Section 200 CrPC. Why then should writ petitions or Section 482 petitions be entertained when there are so many alternative remedies?

35. The Hon'ble Apex Court while contemplating the options available to an informant/victim when his first information falls on deaf ears in the case of Aleque Padamsee and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors. - (2007) 6 SCC 171 has laid down thus :-

"7. Whenever any information is received by the police about the alleged commission of offence which is a cognizable one there is a duty to register the FIR. There can be no dispute on that score. The only question is whether a writ can be issued to the police authorities to register the same. The basic question is as to what course is to be adopted if the police does not do it. As was held in All India Institute of Medical Sciences Employees' Union (Regd.) Vs. Union of India, (1996) 11 SCC 582 and re-iterated in Gangadhar's case (supra) the remedy available is as set out above by filing a complaint before the Magistrate. Though it was faintly suggested that there was conflict in the views in All India Institute of Medical Sciences's case (supra), Gangadhar Janardan Mhatre Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2004) 7 SCC 768, Hari Singh Vs. State of U.P. (2006) 5 SCC 733, Minu Kumari Vs. State of Bihar, (2006) 5 SCC 733, and Ramesh Kumar Vs. (NCT of Delhi) (2006) 2 SCC 677, we find that the view expressed in Ramesh Kumari's case (supra) related to the action required to be taken by the police when any cognizable offence is brought to its notice. In Ramesh Kumari's case (supra) the basic issue did not relate to the methodology to be adopted which was expressly dealt with in All India Institute of Medical Sciences's case (supra), Gangadhar's case (supra), Minu Kumari's case (supra) and Hari Singh's case (supra). The view expressed in Ramesh Kumari's case (supra) was reiterated in Lallan Chaudhary and Ors. V. State of Bihar (AIR 2006 SC 3376). The course available, when the police does not carry out the statutory requirements under Section 154 was directly in issue in All India Institute of Medical Sciences's case (supra), Gangadhar's case (supra), Hari Singh's case (supra) and Minu Kumari's case (supra). The correct position in law, therefore, is that the police officials ought to register the FIR whenever facts brought to its notice show that cognizable offence has been made out. In case the police officials fail to do so, the modalities to be adopted are as set out in Sections 190 read with Section 200 of the Code. It appears that in the present case initially the case was tagged by order dated 24.2.2003 with WP(C) 530/2002 and WP(C) 221/2002. Subsequently, these writ petitions were de-linked from the aforesaid writ petitions.

8. The writ petitions are finally disposed of with the following directions:

(1) If any person is aggrieved by the inaction of the police officials in registering the FIR, the modalities contained in Section 190 read with Section 200 of the Code are to be adopted and observed.

(2) It is open to any person aggrieved by the inaction of the police officials to adopt the remedy in terms of the aforesaid provisions.

(3) So far as non-grant of sanction aspect is concerned, it is for the concerned government to deal with the prayer. The concerned government would do well to deal with the matter within three months from the date of receipt of this order.

(4) We make it clear that we have not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case."

36. The decision of Aleque padamsee (supra) has though been referred by the Constitution Bench in Lalita Kumari but has neither been distinguished nor over-ruled and therefore, the same continues to hold the field. That the view taken by the Apex Court in case of Aleque Padamsee (supra) and Sakiri Vasu (supra) has been subsequently reiterated and reaffirmed in the case of Sudhir Bhaskar Rao Tambe Vs. Hemant Yashwant Dhage and Ors - (2016) 6 SCC 277, which is as follows :-

"2. This Court has held in Sakiri Vasu Vs. State of U.P. (supra), that if a person has a grievance that his FIR has not been registered by the police, or having been registered, proper investigation is not being done, then the remedy of the aggrieved person is not to go to the High Court under Article 226 of Constitution of India, but to approach the Magistrate concerned under Section 156(3) CrPC. If such an application under Section 156(3) CrPC is made and the Magistrate is, prima facie, satisfied, he can direct the FIR to be registered, or if it has already been registered, he can direct proper investigation to be done which includes in his discretion, if he deems it necessary, recommending change of investigating officer, so that a proper investigation is done in the matter. We have said this in Sakiri Vasu case (supra) because what we have found in this country is that the High Courts have been flooded with writ petitions praying for registration of the first information report or praying for a proper investigation.

3. We are of the opinion that if the High Courts entertain such writ petitions, then they will be flooded with such writ petitions and will not be able to do any other work except dealing with such writ petitions. Hence, we have held that the complainant must avail of his alternate remedy to approach the Magistrate concerned under Section 156(3) CrPC and if he does so, the Magistrate will ensure, if prima facie he is satisfied, registration of the first information report and also ensure a proper investigation in the matter, and he can also monitor the investigation."

37. In matters of this nature, there are two competing rights, on the one side right of complainant/victim that perpetrator of crime be punished and justice be rendered to him and on the other side the right of the accused for fair investigation before he is implicated and fair trial before he is convicted. He also has inviolable right to life and liberty. Code of Criminal Procedure incorporates enough safeguards to victims and accused. It lays down detailed procedure in conducting investigation, filing of final report, taking of cognizance, conducting of trial. It provides enough safeguards against illegal action of police. It is a self contained code and comprehensive on all aspects of criminal law. A complainant has statutorily engrafted remedies to ensure that his complaint is taken to its logical end. Thus, he must first exhaust said remedies and cannot invoke extra-ordinary writ remedy as a matter of course, even when crime is not registered and there is no progress in the investigation.

38. Accordingly, the principal issue No.1 is decided by holding that writ of mandamus can be declined due to nonavailing of alternative remedy when the cause shown is non-registration of offence under Section 154 Cr.P.C. despite furnishing information of commission of cognizable offence.

39. Turning to the peripheral issues and taking up the first in that category, which is as under:-

"Can relief of writ of mandamus be denied to the informant merely on the ground that the informant is not an aggrieved person or victim and whether such person becomes functus officio after informing the police of commission of cognizable offence?"

40. A bare perusal of terminology employed by the legislature in Section 154 Cr.P.C discloses that even a stranger to the offence can inform the police about commission of any cognizable offence. Object behind this is that legislature did not want that any cognizable offence committed in the society should go uninvestigated and untried if found to be prima facie committed. By restricting the connotation of the expression "informant" to that of "victim" would defeat this object. Accordingly, once Section 154 enables even a stranger to the cognizable offence to invoke statutory powers of the police of registration of offence (which is now held to be mandatory by the verdict of Apex Court in Lalita Kumari), then the act of failure of police to perform this statutory duty can certainly accrue cause of action to the stranger to seek writ of mandamus under Article 226 of the Constitution of India from the superior Court to compel the police to perform its statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C.

41. Consequently even a stranger to a cognizable offence has locus standi to seek issuance of mandamus against the police to act under Section 154 Cr.P.C. provided such stranger is the first informant.

42. As regards peripheral issue No.2, it is seen that the same relates to question whether proposed accused in the first information is entitled to a hearing before the writ court in a petition seeking mandamus under Article 226 directing the police to register the FIR under Section 154 Cr.P.C.

43. Reverting to the terminology of Section 154 Cr.P.C. one finds that the statute does not contemplate any prior hearing to the proposed accused before registration of cognizable offence. Thus, the natural consequence that follows is that while issuing writ of mandmus directing the police to perform its statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C the accused is not required to be heard.

44. Accordingly, peripheral issue No.2 is decided by holding that proposed accused whose name is mentioned in the FIR is not a necessary party, in a writ seeking issuance of mandamus against police authorities compelling them to perform their statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C.

45. Before parting, the conclusion arrived at based on the above discussion and analysis is delineated below for ready reference and convenience :-

(1) Writ of mandamus to compel the police to perform its statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C can be denied to the informant/victim for non-availing of alternative remedy under Sections 154(3), 156(3), 190 and 200 Cr.P.C., unless the four exceptions enumerated in decision of Apex Court in the the case of Whirlpool Corporation Vs. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and Ors., (1998) 8 SCC 1, come to rescue of the informant / victim.

(2) The verdict of Apex Court in the case of Lalita Kumari Vs. Government of U.P. & Ors. reported in (2014) 2 SCC 1 does not pertain to issue of entitlement to writ of mandamus for compelling the police to perform statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C without availing alternative remedy under Section 154(3), 156(3), 190 and 200 Cr.P.C..

(3) The informant/victim after furnishing first information regarding cognizable offence does not become functus officio for seeking writ of mandamus for compelling the police authorities to perform their statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C in case the FIR is not lodged.

(4) The proposed accused against whom the first information of commission of cognizable offence is made, is not a necessary party to be impleaded in a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India seeking issuance of writ of mandamus to compel the police to perform their statutory duty under Section 154 Cr.P.C.

46. From the above discussion of facts and analysis of law including the judicial verdict relied upon, we do not find any force in the argument as advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner. Consequently, the writ petition is dismissed.

However, it will be open for the petitioner to avail appropriate remedy available under law before appropriate forum.

2. Delhi Water Supply & Sewage Disposal Undertaking & anr. Vs St. of Har. & ors. (1996) 2 SCC 572

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Singh, J. & Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Mr. Neel Kamal Mishra, Advocate made a mention that he has moved an application for impleadment in the Registry on 8.1.2021, however, the same is not on record.

2. Office is directed to trace the application and place it on record today itself.

3. On due appreciation, we permit the applicant Arvind Dharamrajan in C.M. Application No.4352 of 2021, to assist the Court as an intervener under Chapter XXII Rule 5-A of Allahabad High Court Rules. Application is disposed of accordingly.

4. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Ankur Tripathi, holding brief of Mr. Namit Sharma, learned counsel for respondents, as also Mr. Neel Kamal Mishra, Advocate for the applicant Arvind Dharamrajan, as an intervener.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner is a lady whose husband Hariraj died on 2.4.2005. The first wife of Hariraj (petitioner's husband) died in the year 1982 and thereafter the petitioner married with Hariraj who was the owner of House No.9/961, Indira Nagar, Lucknow. After the death of the petitioner's husband, son of the first wife disconnected electricity and water connection of the first floor of the house where the petitioner resides along with her two minor children.

The petitioner's counsel submits that the petitioner is willing to complete all the formalities which are required by Lucknow Jal Sansthan.

6. Learned counsel appearing for Lucknow Jal Sansthan submits that they will provide the water connection provided the petitioner fulfills the formalities as provided under U.P. Nagar Mahapalika Water Supply Rules, 1968.

7. On the other hand, Mr. Neel Kamal Mishra, Advocate appearing for Mr. Arvind Dharamrajan, applicant submits that the mother of the applicant died in the year 1982 and thereafter the petitioner had married late Hariraj Ram. He submits that the applicant is the owner of the said house and has inherited the said house from his late father Hariraj Ram on his death in the year 2005. The applicant had constructed the house in question.

He disputed the fact that mother of the applicant died in the year 1982; rather submits that she died in the year 1988 and thus the marriage of the present petitioner with the late father of the applicant was not a valid marriage.

He next submitted that after the death of the father of the applicant, the petitioner raised claim for compassionate appointment and by presenting false claim, the appointment of the applicant on compassionate ground was challenged by the petitioner while filing Writ Petition No.1752(S/B) of 2008 Sharda Rani versus Director, Samaj Kalyan and others which was decided ex parte in her favour vide judgment and order dated 26.7.2013. Review petition filed by the present applicant was allowed and the writ petition preferred by the petitioner was dismissed. It is thus submitted that the petitioner's marriage with late Hariraj Ram was not proved and she cannot have any claim over the house No.9/61, Indira Nagar, Lucknow.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant disputes the fact that the applicant/intervener stopped water connection to the first floor. He submits that the petitioner is somehow trying to get a water connection in her favour, only in order to get benefit of the same for the purpose of using it in succession suit which is pending before Civil Judge (Junior Division), Azamgarh.

9. After hearing parties' counsel and after perusal of the record, we are of the view that right to access to drinking water is a fundamental right to life and there is a duty on the State under Art. 21 of the Constitution of India to provide clean drinking water to its citizens. Hon'ble Supreme Court in A.P. Pollution Control Board II versus Prof.M.V. Nayudu(Retd) and others (2001)2 SCC 62 (paragraphs 3 and 4) has held as under :

"3. Drinking water is of primary importance in any country. In fact, India is a party to the Resolution of the UNO passed during the United Nations Water Conference in 1977 as under:

"All people, whatever their stage of development and their social and economic conditions, have the right to have access to drinking water in quantum and of a quality equal to their basic needs."

Thus, the right to access to drinking water is fundamental to life and there is a duty on the State under Article 21 to provide clean drinking water to its citizens.

4. Adverting to the above right declared in the aforesaid Resolution, in Narmada Bachao Andolan Vs. Union of India (2000(7) Scale 34 (at p.124), Kirpal J observed:

"248. Water is the basic need for the survival of human beings and is part of right to life and human rights as enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution of India....."

In Delhi Water Supply & Sewage Disposal Undertaking and another versus State of Haryana and others (1996)2 SCC 572 (relevant paras 3 and 4), Hon'ble Supreme Court has made the following observations :

"3.....The learned counsel took pains to bring to our notice by referring to some decisions of the American Court, as well as to some writings, that drinking is the most beneficial use of water and this need is so paramount that it cannot be made subservient to any other use of water, like irrigation. So, the right to use of water for domestic purpose would prevail over other needs. It is because of this that it was contended that what has been stated in Article 262 of the Constitution dealing with adjudication of disputes relating to waters of inter-State river or river valleys, read with Inter State Water Disputes Act, 1956, could not exclude the jurisdiction of this Court to entertain the grievance of the petitioner.

4. Shri Venugopal - in support of his contentions relied upon high authorities of State of Connecticut vs. Commonwealth of Massachuhetts; American Jurisprudence, Vol.78, 2d p.293; and C.D. Harris vs. John Brooks. We found plausibility in the contentions and were inclined to unfold new jurisprudential arena, despite strong objection to the same being taken by the State of Haryana....."

10. Since the possession of the petitioner in the house in question has been admitted by learned counsel for the intervener and the same is not in dispute, therefore in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court, referred to above, we are of the view that the respondent Lucknow Jal Sansthan is under legal obligation to provide water connection to the petitioner.

11. In view of the above, with the consent of the parties' counsel, we dispose of this petition with a direction to Lucknow Jal Sansthan to provide water connection to the petitioner, strictly in accordance with rules, within a period of one week from the date of receipt of an E-copy of this order provided the petitioner completes all the formalities as provided under U.P. Nagar Mahapalika Water Supply Rules, 1968.

12. With this direction the writ petition is disposed of.

It is made clear that this order shall not confer any title or right to any of the parties, to be used in any other proceedings.

(A) Land Law - Resumption of land - U.P. Revenue Code, 2006: Section 59(4) c - Revenue Code Rules, 2016- Rues 54, 55 - Failure to publish the notification in the Gazette and the daily newspaper so as to give general notice to the public at large that the resumed and vests in the State Government free from all encumbrances, does not result in vitiating the whole exercise of resumption. It is only an irregularity and not an illegality that goes to the root of the matter. (Para 42)

The Court had observed that there are three categories of persons vis-a-vis locus standi; (1) person aggrieved; (2) a stranger; (3) a busy body or a meddlesome interloper. At the time of the resumption of land, the land in question was recorded in the name of the Gram Sabha and not in the name of Devasthan, therefore, he cannot be said to be an "aggrieved person". (Para 35)

The High Court can under Article 32 or 226 refuse to exercise its discretion of striking down the order if such striking down will result in restoration of another order passed in favour of the petitioner and against the opposite party in violation of the principles of natural justice or is not in accordance with law. 6. Mohd. Swalleh & ors. Vs III A.D.J. (1988) 1 SCC 40

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Mohd. Aslam Khan, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Upendra Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Gaon Sabha.

2. This petition has been filed by the petitioner through its Mahant/Savarkar Prem Giri Maharaj challenging the order dated 30.09.2019 passed by the Commissioner Lucknow Division Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "respondent no.2").

3. A preliminary objection has been raised by the counsel for the State Respondents regarding the maintainability of this petition challenging an order resuming land belonging to the Gaon Sabha. It has been submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that the order dated 30.09.2019 has been issued in the exercise of powers given to the State Government under Section 59(4) c of the U.P. Revenue Code 2006 (hereinafter referred to as "the code"). By this order the State Government has exercised its power to resume land that was initially entrusted to the Gaon Sabha from the date of vesting, for a public purpose that is for establishment of a medical college in the district Lakhimpur Kheri. The petitioner is not the recorded tenure holder of the land in question and therefore has no locus to challenge the order dated 30.09.2019. The Gaon Sabha has not come to Court to challenge the order dated 30.09.2019. The learned counsel for the petitioner however has emphasised that if this Court is apprised of the facts leading to the order of resumption being passed, it will be convinced that the action of the State Respondents smacks of arbitrariness and violation of principles of natural justice and has caused grave injustice to the petitioner.

4. Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate, has submitted that the petitioner is "aggrieved person " and his writ petition cannot be thrown out on the ground of locus standi. Learned counsel for the petitioner has gone on to argue that the petitioner Devasthan owned several plots of land in village Saidapur bhau, namely, old plot no. 1522, 1523 and 1524 wherein a temple, a well, several Samadhis, Yagya Shala, Gaushala and Ashram have been in existence for a long time. Plot no.1523 (new plot no. 755) and plot no.1524 (new plot no.756) are recorded in the name of Mandir Shri Thakurji Devsthan Kuti Saidapur bhau, Savarkar Mathura Das alias Taapsee Babaji, and there is no dispute regarding the same. However, there is an adjoining plot, Plot no. 1522 in which a dispute has arisen as the State Government through the respondent no. 2 has resumed the property in question without following the principles of natural justice and without following the procedure prescribed under the law.

5. Village Saidapur Bhau was notified for consolidation operations on 11.09.1965. The predecessor in interest of the current Sarvarakar Prem Giri Maharaj, had filed objections before the Assistant Consolidation Officer in Case No.808 alleging that the plot no. 1522, ad-measuring 27.27 acres, had been wrongly recorded in the revenue records as Jungal Jharee. The Assistant Consolidation Officer allowed the objection of Mathura Das alias Taapsee Baba and directed the plot in question to be recorded in the name of the petitioner through an order dated 15.12.1967. It was given effect to in C.H. Form 11, and thereafter, the entry was also made in C.H. Form 41 and 45. The Consolidation operations came to an end and a notification under Section 52 was issued on 25.07.1970. The Khatauni prepared during consolidation operations showed the said plot of land as a new plot no.754 Min. ad-measuring 26.91 acres in the name of Devsthan and the remaining land of the plot ad-measuring 0.36 decimal, was recorded as Banjar that is belonging to the Gram Sabha.

6. All of a sudden the petitioner came to know from the Pradhan of the village concerned that the land of plot no.754 Min. is being proposed to be used for construction of a medical college. On enquiry the petitioner found out that an appeal had been filed by the Gram Sabha against the order dated 15.12.1967 passed by the Assistant Consolidation Officer with the huge delay of 51 years before the Settlement Officer Consolidation Sitapur. Such Appeal was filed only on 24.09.2019 along with an application for condonation of delay supported by an affidavit. Notice was issued to the petitioner but it was never served upon the petitioner. It was shown by the process server to have been affixed on the wall of the primary school of the village concerned in the presence of two witnesses. The petitioner could not file his reply/objections to the maintainability of the said Appeal. A report was summoned from the Consolidation Officer and file was summoned from the Revenue Record Room on 26.09.2019. The file was never sent. However, the order was passed by the Settlement Officer Consolidation allowing the appeal on 28.09.2019.

7. Within two days of passing of the said order, the same was sent to the revenue officials of the village to get the land demarcated and taken possession of, and at the same time getting its Amaldaramad /endorsement of the order in the revenue records i.e the Khatauni. The land was recorded in the name of the Gaon Sabha within no time. On 30.09.2019 itself the State Government through the respondent no.2 exercised its power of resumption under section 59(4)c of the Code and resumed an area of 3 ha, i.e. 7.50 acres out of 26.19 acres of plot no.754 Min. for establishing a medical College, vesting the land in the State Government through Secretary, Medical Education.

8. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that long-standing entry in the revenue records was set aside and the land first recorded in the name of the Gram Sabha and thereafter resumed by the Government arbitrarily. Not only was the petitioner not given any notice, the procedure prescribed under section 59(4)c and Rules 54 and 55 of the Revenue Code Rules 2016 (hereinafter referred to as "the rules of 2016")was not followed.

9. It has been submitted on the basis of paragraph-18 of the writ petition that notice is required to be published in the Gazette and two daily newspapers, one of which should be in Hindi, circulating in the area in which the land is situated as information to the general public that land is being sought to be resumed by the State Government. No such publication was done.

10. It has been further submitted that in similar circumstances, land was resumed of a graveyard by the Collector Raebareli. This Court passed an interim order staying the operation the order of resumption in Writ Petition No. 12320 (M/S) of 2020: Mohammed Siddiq vs. State of U.P. and others, by its order dated 06.08.2020.

11. The learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State Respondents has submitted that initially plot nos. 1523, 1524 along with plot no. 1522 was recorded as Jangal Jharee and Banjar in the basic Khatauni. In the basic year Khatauni, the entry was in favour of Gaon Sabha as plot no. 1524 along with other plot nos. was recorded in Banjar Khata of the Gram Sabha. The Assistant Consolidation Officer's order appeared to be a fraudulent entry in Form C.H. 11 as the Assistant Consolidation Officer can exercise power of correction of entry only on the basis of compromise between the parties recorded under section 9A1. Section 9A1 proceedings are held before consolidation Scheme is published under Section 10. The publication under Section 10 alone is done Form C.H. 11. The Assistant Consolidation Officer in his order dated 15.12.1967 did not mention under which provision of the Act the objections had been filed and decided by the Assistant Consolidation Officer. The order dated 15.12.1967 was also not found in the Record of the consolidation operations that was submitted in the Revenue Record Room. In the report submitted by the officials on 26.09.2019, it has come out that the alleged order dated 15.12.1967 converting to 27.27 acres of land of old plot no. 1522 giving it new no. 754 Min. from Jungal Jharee to Devasthan is only found on one copy of Form C.H. 11. The records relating to consolidation operations in a village are always prepared in duplicate. One of the copies is kept in the Revenue Record Room and the second copy is kept in the concerned Tehsil office. The other copy of Form C.H.11 preserved in the Revenue Record Room does not have any such entry. Moreover, a close examination of Form C.H. 41 showed that old plot no.1522 was initially ad-measuring 27.27 Acres however in the comments adjacent to such entry, 26.91 acre has been recorded in the name of Devasthan and 0.36 decimal has been shown to be recorded as "Anya Banjar". The circumstances for such comments being added in Form C.H. 41 by scoring out earlier entry of Banjar/Jungle Jharee remained a mystery as, had the Assistant Consolidation Officer passed an order in exercise of power under section 9A1, and entry would have been made in C.H. Form 4 and not in C.H. Form 11 only, thereafter, the order would have been incorporated in C.H. Form 41. The order dated 15.12.1967, having been passed earlier, there would be no requirement of scoring out the Original entry in Form C.H. 41, as Form C.H. 41 is always prepared after Form C.H. 11. On the basis of instructions received, signed by the Consolidation Officer, the Additional District Magistrate (Finance & Revenue) and the District Magistrate, (which instructions have been kept on record by this Court), it has also been submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that no entries were found in Form C.H. 2A or in Form C.H. 4 in the basic year Khatauni, in the name of Devasthan on old plot no. 1522.

12. It has been submitted by Sri Upendra Singh that the Assistant Consolidation Officer neither under Rule 24 A2, nor under Rule 25K, had any jurisdiction to pass any order recording land vested in the Gramsabha as Banjar or Jungle Jharee, in the name of any private person as Savarkar of a Devasthan.

13. It has also been submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that the petitioners reliance on the order dated 15.12.1967 passed allegedly by the Assistant Consolidation Officer is also misplaced because the Assistant Consolidation Officer had no power to change the nature/Navvaiyyat of any land recorded in the basic year as Jungle Jharee or Banjar belonging to the Gram Sabha. The learned counsel for the State

Respondents has placed reliance upon the Coordinate Bench decision in Writ Petition No. 6946 (Consolidation) of 2019, Vijai Kumari vs Consolidation Officer Sawaijpur, Hardoi and two others reported in 2019(37) LCD 1701, to substantiate his argument.

14. This Court had decided a bunch of writ Petitions where orders passed by the Consolidation Officer were questioned in which the land in dispute was ordered to be recorded as per revenue records in the same Khata as pertaining to 1379 Fasli in the basic year Khatauni, after expunging the name of the writ petitioners. This Court noticed that before 31.10.1980 the land which was the subject matter of the writ petition was recorded in Category VI, in terms of paragraph A-124 of the U.P. Land Records Manual. Category VI relates to barren land that is an uncultivated land or Akrishak Bhumi which is further sub-divided as land covered under water, camping sites, roads, railways, buildings and other lands put to non-agricultural uses and land with which is otherwise barren. Category V as per Land Record Manual denotes cultivable land with different sub-categories such as Naveen Parti, Parti Jadeed or Krishi Yogya Banjar, or cultivable waste. On a resolution being passed by the Land Management Committee of the Gram Sabha for changing the nature of land from Category VI to Category V, a report was submitted by the Lekhpal and the Sub-Divisional Officer changed the category of land in question and land earlier recorded in Category VI like Naala, Charagah, Khalihan and Devasthan etc, were recorded in Category V as Krishi Yogya Bhumi. Pattas were granted thereafter to the writ petitioners and their names were recorded in the relevant Khata. On consolidation operations being undertaken in the village in 2004, the petitioners were given valuation of these plots in their possession, and the Chaks were allotted thereafter. The orders of the consolidation authorities were given effect to in the Khatauni in 2013.

15. Later an application under section 198 (4) for cancellation of pattas was filed by the Gram Sabha before the Collector which was referred to the Assistant Consolidation Officer. The Consolidater submitted a report that the land in question was earlier recorded in 1379 Fasli as public utility land referable to land described under Section 132 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. No pattas of permanent nature in respect of such land were permissible. Only temporary Asaami pattas could have been given. To obviate this difficulty the category of land was changed from Category VI to Category V. The Consolidation Officer being convinced that category had been wrongly changed by the Sub-Divisional Officer passed an order in 2019, directed the land to be recorded in the name of Gaon Sabha as public utility land.

16. The writ petitioners had challenged the order on the ground that such action was barred by the provisions of Section 11 A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. The learned counsel for the writ petitioners has relied upon a Full Bench decision of this Court reported in AIR 1977 Allahabad 360, that the Consolidation Officer is not vested with any power to adjudicate upon the validity of the Patta, except in exceptional circumstances and therefore the Consolidation Officer's finding on the validity of the pattas which were executed in 1992 was bad in law. The Sub-Divisional Officer having changed the category of land from Category VI to Category V, and thereafter allotting the said land to the writ petitioners was in terms of the provisions of paragraph, Ka-155 Ka of the U.P. Land Records Manual.

17. This Court considered the arguments raised by the counsel for the writ petitioners but found that since the Sub-Divisional Officer could not have changed the category of land from Category VI to Category V, thus giving away public utility land to the writ petitioners, such action was void ab initio and not voidable, requiring appropriate proceedings to be drawn for its cancellation. The Court also determined the question as to whether the District Collector could have entertained the delayed application under Section 198(4) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act. It also considered the issue of the power of the Sub-Divisional Officer under paragraph Ka- 155 Ka of the Land Records Manual. The Court referred to Section 195 of the U.P.Z.A.& L.R. Act and also Section 132. Only that land could be given in pattas/leases as was not covered under Section 132 which related to public utility land. No permanent leases or Pattas could be granted, no Bhumidhari the rights could accrue on land covered under section 132.

18. Having considered the provisions of the U.P. Land Records Manual and also of the U.P.Z.A.& L.R. Act and the Land Revenue Act, (later replaced by the U.P. Revenue Code), and the provisions of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, this Court came to the conclusion that there was no substantive provision in the principal legislation which vested any authority or jurisdiction in an officer to change the category of land, the U.P. Land Records Manual being subordinate legislation, could not be used for doing an act which was not contemplated under the principal legislation. The Pattas or the leases executed in 1992 in favour of the petitioners were void ab initio, and therefore, even if the names of the writ petitioners were recorded in the Khatauni on the basis of pattas executed in their favour, and in the basic year Khatauni, and during consolidation operations their rights had matured, the basic year entries being void ab initio, the writ petitioners could not be permitted to take benefit of a mistake committed by the officials. The Court held that the full bench decision in AIR 1977 Allahabad 360 holding that the Consolidation Officer had no jurisdiction to cancel the Pattas was distinguishable and could not save the writ petitioners as their pattas were held to be void ab initio.

19. The Court also referred to Section 11 C of the Act and observed that the consolidation authorities up to the level of Deputy Director of Consolidation have a duty to protect land which is vested in the State, even though no objection or Appeal or Revision has been preferred by the State or the Gaon Sabha or the local authority concerned.

20. The learned Standing Counsel on the basis of instructions, has also submitted that even if the petitioners contention is accepted that the file of case no.808: Baba Mathuradas versus Gram Sabha; decided on 15.12.1967 had been weeded out on 02.02.1981, and that such a case was genuinely filed as a its entry has been found on the Register maintained in the record room at serial no.1737, the fact still remains that the Assistant Consolidation Officer had no power or jurisdiction to pass an order changing the nature of land from Banjar and Jungle Jharee to Devsthan. Such order being without jurisdiction would be void ab initio.

21. It has further been submitted by Sri Upendra Singh that after resuming the land by the order dated 30.09.2019, a copy of the same was sent to the office of the District Magistrate who sent it to the office of Tehsildar Lakhimpur Kheri with a direction that the land in question be measured, demarcated and handed over and its endorsement/Amaldaramad on the revenue records be done expeditiously. A further direction was issued that a copy of the order of the Commissioner dated 30.09.2019 be pasted on the noticeboard at a conspicuous location in the village concerned, and copy of the report of such affixation be also sent to the office of the District Magistrate. Moreover, a letter was sent to the office of the Nazir Sadar to get the order pasted on the noticeboard of the Collector's Office for notice to all concerned. After such order was pasted on the noticeboard in the District Collector's office, and affixed on public place in the village concerned, and Amaldaramad of the same was made in the Khatauni, land stood vested in the State Government. Sufficient compliance has been made of the Rules to bring to the notice of all concerned that the land in question has vested in the State. It was only due to inadvertence that publication of such order dated 30.09.2019 resuming land in village Saidapur Bhau, was not published in the Gazette and two new newspapers and proceedings are now being initiated to get the order so published.

22. It has also been submitted on the basis of instructions that notice with regard to the filing of the Appeal by the Gramsabha was sent to the village concerned but since the entry of Devsthan in C.H. Form 11 and C.H. Form 41, did not show the name of the Savarkar, the notice was affixed on the Primary School, a public building in the village for notice to all concerned.

23. It has been pointed out again that the order dated 30.09.2019 resuming land of plot no. 152 min. had been passed at a time when the land in question was recorded in the name of the Gaon Sabha and not in the name of Devasthan, therefore the petitioner had no locus to challenge the same and pray for a writ in the nature of Certiorari. The petitioner being mainly aggrieved by the order passed by the Settlement Officer Consolidation had statutory remedy of filing a Revision against the order of the Appellate Authority under the Consolidation of Holdings Act.

24. In rejoinder to the argument made by the learned counsel for the State Respondents, the learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the petitioner on having come to know of the order dated 28.09.2019 belatedly, has filed a Revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation in August, 2020 which has also been dismissed on 15.01.2021. It has been submitted that the Deputy Director of Consolidation being a District Level Officer could not go against the orders passed by the State Government or the Commissioner of the Division resuming the land and thus unravelling the plan of the State Government. It was argued that this Court alone in writ jurisdiction can interfere in such arbitrary action of the State Respondents. The learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that he would file a writ petition challenging the order passed by the Settlement Officer challenging and the Deputy Director Consolidation before this Court very soon however, the notification dated 30.09.2019 resuming the land in question would not be set aside in such a writ petition.

25. On the question of the locus of the petitioner to challenge the notification dated 30.09.2019 which had resumed the land of the Gaon Sabha in favour of the State Government, the counsel for the petitioner has failed to answer the specific query of the Court as to how the petitioner can be said to be a "person aggrieved" and how a writ in the nature of Certiorari can be issued on the asking of a person who is not "a person aggrieved." The learned counsel for the petitioner has repeatedly emphasized that this Court should interfere on grounds of equity, taking into account the fact that the order passed by the Settlement Officer Consolidation, condoning the delay of 51 years is arbitrary and has been passed with unholy haste. It has been submitted that the Settlement Officer Consolidation took only four days to decide the Appeal and such decision was taken in the absence of the original record of Case No. 808: Baba Mathuradas versus Gaon Sabha, being before him.

26. It has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that after the impugned order dated 30.09.2019 was issued, a proposal was made by the Sikh community of village Tahirpur in the same District, of donating land for the purpose of the medical College. The proposal was approved by the Secretary Medical Education and recommendation made to the State Government to accept the same on 23.10.2020. The State Government in its intransigence refused to accept the said proposal and has passed an order on 23.11.2020 reiterating its plan to construct Medical College on the land of the petitioner.

27. It has been submitted that while issuing the notification dated 30.09.2019 and by reiterating its decision on 23.11.2020, the State Government has omitted to consider the guidelines framed by the Government in its order dated 03.06.2016 wherein it has been proposed in paragraph 5(7) that in case of graveyards, cremation grounds and other religious sites, care should be taken that the same are not resumed if they are likely to inflame religious sentiments. In the case of the petitioner, a temple already existed on the property in question and a suitable land in the alternative in a different village has also been offered by the Sikh community, yet the impugned notification has been issued.

28. Lastly, it has been submitted that since on similar facts Writ Petition No.12320 (M/S) of 2020 has been entertained by this Court and an interim order passed on 06.08.2020, this instant writ petition be connected with Writ Petition No.12320 (MS) of 2020 and similar interim order be passed and both the writ petition be heard together.

29. The counsel for the Gaon Sabha Sri Dilip Kumar Pandey has also argued that he has instructions to submit that the Gaon Sabha has no intention of challenging the order dated 30.09.2019 as it has been issued for an avowed public purpose of establishing a Medical College and a referral Hospital in the District which is an object of greater public good than having a Devasthan. He also submits that a temple already exists in the village. A fraudulent entry of an alleged order passed on 15.12.1967 in C.H. Form 11 had been made recording 26.91 acres of plot no.1522 as land belonging to Devasthan. The basic year entry of Banjar, Jungle Jhari and Naveen Parti has been restored which amounted to restoration of the right of the Gram Sabha when the Settlement Officer Consolidation allowed the appeal of the Gram Sabha.

30. Having heard the learned counsel for the petitioner and for the State Respondents and the Gaon Sabha, this Court has carefully perused the order impugned which is an order of resumption of land entrusted to the management of the Gram Sabha by the State Government in exercise of its plenary powers. The Supreme Court in several decisions has laid down the law as to when a writ in the nature of Certiorari can be issued by the High Court.

31. In Jasbhai Motibhai Desai vs. Roshan Kumar, Haji Bashir Ahmad and others, 1976 (3) SCR 58, a four Judges Bench of the Supreme Court while relying upon Nagar Rice and Flour Mills and others vs. N. T. Gowda 1970 (1) SCC 575, had laid down the law with regard to "standing" and the requirement of a "person aggrieved" while issuing a writ in the nature of Certiorari under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It was observed that Article 226 has been couched in a comprehensive phraseology to enable the High Court to reach injustice wherever it is found. In a sense, the scope and nature of the power conferred by the Article is wider than that exercised by the Court in England. However, the adoption of the nomenclature of English writs, with the prefix, "nature of " being super added, indicates that the general principles grown over the years in the English Courts, can, shorn of technical and procedural restrictions, and adapted to special conditions of this vast country in so far as they do not conflict with the provisions of the Constitution, or the law declared by the Supreme Court, be usefully considered in directing the exercise of this discretionary jurisdiction in accordance with well recognised rules of practice. The jurisdiction under Article 226 in general, and Certiorari in particular, is discretionary. In a country like India wherein petitions are instituted in the High Courts by the thousands, many of them frivolous, ascertainment at the outset, of the "standing" of the petitioner to invoke this extraordinary jurisdiction must be insisted upon. According to most English decisions, in order to have the locus standi to invoke Certiorari jurisdiction the petitioner should be an "aggrieved person" and, only in case of defect of jurisdiction, such a petitioner would be entitled to a writ of certiorari as a matter of course, but if he does not fulfil that character, and is a stranger, the Court will, in its discretion deny him this extraordinary remedy, save in very special circumstances. The Court had pointed pointed out three categories of persons vis-a-vis locus standi; (1) person aggrieved; (2) a stranger; (3) a busy body or a meddlesome interloper. The Honble judges in decision of Jasbhai Motibhai Desai (supra) pointed out that anyone belonging to the third category is easily distinguishable as such person interferes in things which do not concern him as he masquerades to be a crusader of justice. The judgement had cautioned that the High Court should do well to reject the petitions of such busybodies at the threshold itself.

32. Their lordships observed the following:-

"the distinction between the first and the second categories of applicants though real is not always well demarcated. The first category has as it were, two concentric zones; a solid central zone of certainty, and a grey outer circle of lessening certainty in a sliding centrifugal scale, with an outer most nebulous fringe of uncertainty. Applicants falling within the central zone are those whose legal rights have been infringed. Such applicants undoubtedly stand in the category of person aggrieved. In the grey outer circle the bounds which separate the first category from the second, intermix, inter-fuse and overlap increasingly in a centrifugal direction. All persons in this outer zone may not be person aggrieved."

33. The Supreme Court went on to observe that in India, in order to have the locus standi to invoke the extraordinary writ jurisdiction under Article 226, an applicant should ordinarily be one who has a personal or individual right in the subject matter of the application, though in case of some of the writs, like habeaus corpus or quo warranto, this rule is relaxed or modified. So as a general rule, infringement of some legal right or prejudice to some legal interest inherent in the petitioner is necessary to give a locus standi in the matter. The Supreme Court observed that the appellant in the said case being a rival businessman had not been deprived of a legal right. He had not sustained injury to any legally protected interest. In fact, the impugned order did not operate as a decision against him, much less did it wrongfully affect his title to something. He had not been subjected to a legal wrong. He had suffered no legal injury. He had no legal peg for a justiciable claim to hang on. Therefore, he was not a person aggrieved and has no locus standi to challenge the grant of no objection certificate to a rival to establish a cinema hall in the same locality.

34. The Supreme Court further observed that Certiorari is a discretionary writ which is granted with a lot of circumspection. Even assuming that the appellant is a stranger and not a busybody, then also there are no exceptional circumstances in the case which would justify the issue of such a right at his instance. On the contrary, the result of exercise of these discretionary powers, in his favour, would, on balance, be against public policy.

35. It is evident from the documents on record that the Gaon Sabha was the recorded tenure holder of the property in question in the basic year khatauni. On the basis of some alleged order passed on alleged objection being filed by the predecessor in interest of the petitioner, Baba Mathuradas alias Taapsee Baba, the Assistant Consolidation Officer had without jurisdiction passed an order changing the nature of land and recording the same in the name of Devasthan. After the order dated 28.09.2019 passed by the Settlement Officer Consolidation the Gaon Sabha became the recorded tenure holder of the property again. At the time of resumption, the land in question was recorded in the name of the Gram Sabha and not in the name of Devasthan. Therefore, it cannot be said that the petitioner is an "aggrieved person".

36. The learned counsel for the petitioner has emphasized paragraph-18 of the writ petition. The paragraph-18 of the writ petition is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"18. That section 59 (4) of the U.P. Revenue Code as well as relevant rules 54 and 55 are reproduced hereunder:

Section 59 (4)

(4) The State Government may, by a subsequent order to be published in the manner prescribed-

(a) add to, amend, vary or rescind any earlier order issued under sub section (1);

(b) transfer to any other Gram Sabha or other local authority, any land or other thing entrusted or deemed to be entrusted under sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) for superintendence, preservation, management and control;

(c) resume any land or other thing so entrusted, or deemed to be entrusted or transferred to any Gram Sabha or local authority on such terms and conditions as prescribed;

(d) impose conditions and restrictions subject to which the powers of superintendence, preservation, management and control under this section shall be exercised.

Rule 54 - mode of publication or order [under section 59 (1) and section 59 (4)]- The General or specific order referred in section 59 (1) and section 59 (4) shall be published in the gazette and in two daily newspapers, circulating in the locality of such area of which one shall be in Hindi Language.

Rule 55 - Resumption of private property by the State Government (section 59)

(1) - Where any land or other thing is entrusted or deemed to be entrusted to any Gram Panchayat or any local authority, and such land or other thing is sought to be resumed by the State Government under section 59 (4)(c) then it shall issue a notification specifying the particulars of such property, and the publication of the notification in the gazette shall be conclusive evidence that such property stands vested in the State Government.

(3) Where the property referred to in sub rule (1) has already been allotted to any person under section 64 or section 125 of this Code or under the provisions of the Acts, repealed by this Code, and such allottee has made any improvement on such land before the date of notification, then the allottee shall be entitled to such compensation for improvement as the Collector may determine."

37. This Court has also perused Section 59 of the Code of 2006 as also Rule 54 and 55, which have been cited by learned counsel for the petitioner. Section 59 of the Code of 2006 as published in the Bare Act summoned from the Library, is being quoted hereinbelow in its entirety:-

"59. Entrustment of land etc. to [Gram Panchayats] and other local authorities.-- (1) The State Government may, by general or special order to be published in the manner prescribed, entrust all or any of the things specified in sub-section (2), which vest in the State Government, to a [Gram Panchayat] or other local authority for the purposes of superintendence, preservation, management and control in accordance with the provisions of this Code.

(2) The following things may be entrusted to a Gram Panchayat]. or other local authority under sub-section (1), namely,

(i) lands, whether cultivable or otherwise, except land for the time being comprised in any holding or grove;

(ii) grove standing on the [Gram Panchayat] land, pasture land, graveyard, cremation ground, manure pits, Khaliyans, Chakroads, link roads, sector roads, land in river bed, road, Sadak Khanti, Sullage farm;

(iii) forests; and fisheries;

(iv) trees, other than trees in a holding or on the boundary of a holding or in a grove or abadi, or any trees on unoccupied land;

(v) hats, bazaars, melas, tanks, ponds, water-channels, private ferries, pathways and abadi sites;

(vi) subject to the provisions of the Treasure Trove Act, 1878, any properties specified in Section 55 and belonging to the State Government.

(3) Every land or other thing-

(a) vested in a [Gram Panchayat] or any other local authority under the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 or the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960;

(b) placed under the charge of a (Gram Panchayat) or any other local authority under any of the enactments repealed by this Code;

(c) otherwise coming into possession of a [Gram Panchayat] or other local authority, either before or after the commencement of this Code;

shall be deemed to be entrusted to such [Gram Panchayat] or other local authority, as the case may be, with effect from the date of commencement of this Code or from the date of such coming into its possession, for the purpose of superintendence, preservation, management and control, in accordance with the provisions of this Code.

(4) The State Government may, by a subsequent order to be published in the manner prescribed, -

(a) add to, amend, vary or rescind any earlier order issued under sub-section (1);

(b) transfer to any other [Gram Panchayat] or other local authority, any land or other thing entrusted or deemed to be entrusted under sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) for superintendence, preservation, management and control;

(c) resume any land or other thing so entrusted, or deemed to be entrusted or transferred to any [Gram Panchayat) or local authority on such terms and conditions as prescribed;

(d) impose conditions and restrictions subject to which the powers of superintendence, preservation, management and control under this section shall be exercised.

(5) Where any of the things specified in sub-section (2) has been entrusted or deemed to have entrusted to a [Gram Panchayat], and the village or any part thereof in which such things are situated lies outside the circle of the [Gram Panchayat], such [Gram Panchayat] or its Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti shall, subject to any general or special order issued by the State Government in this behalf, perform, discharge and exercise the functions, duties and powers assigned, imposed or conferred by or under this Code or the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 on a [Gram Panchayat] or a Bhumi Prabandhak Samiti as if that village or part also lay within that circle.

(6) Where any of the things specified under sub-section (2) has been entrusted or deemed to be entrusted to a local authority other than the [Gram Panchayat], the provision of this chapter shall mutatis mutandis apply to such local authority."

38. The perusal of the same would show that under Section59 (4)(c), the State Government may resume any land or other thing so entrusted, or deemed to be entrusted or transferred to any [Gram Panchayat] or local authority on such terms and conditions as prescribed and under Rule 54 and 55 of the Rules of 2016, the procedure has been prescribed, which says that an order passed under Section 59(1) and Section 59(4) shall be published in the Gazette and in two daily news-papers circulated in the locality of such area of which one shall be in Hindi language. Rule 55 further says that on resumption of property by the State Government under Section 59, a notification specifying the particulars of such property shall be issued in the Gazette which shall be conclusive evidence that such property stands vested in the State Government. A copy of such notification shall be sent to the Collector as well as the Gram Panchayat or the local authority concerned and in case the property referred to in sub-rule (1) has already been allotted to any person under Section 64 or Section 125 of the Code or under the provisions of the Acts repealed by the Code, and such allottee has made any improvement on such land before the date of notification, then the allottee shall be entitled to such compensation for improvement as the Collector may determine.

39. Rule 54 and 55 cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner are also being quoted hereinbelow:-

"54. Mode of publication of the order [Section 59(1) and Section 59(4)].-The general or special order referred to in Section 59(1) and Section 59(4) shall be published in the Gazette and in two daily news-papers circulating in the locality of such area of which one shall be in Hindi language.

55. Resumption of property by State Government (Section 59).--(1) Where any land or other thing is entrusted or deemed to be entrusted to any Gram Panchayat or any local authority, and such land or other thing is sought to be resumed by the State Government under Section 59(4)(c), then it shall issue a notification specifying the particulars of such property, and the publication of the notification in the Gazette shall be conclusive evidence that such property stands vested in the State Government.

(3) Where the property referred to in sub-rule (1) has already been allotted to any person under Section 64 or Section 125 of this Code or under the provisions of the Acts repealed by this Code, and such allottee has made any improvement on such land before the date of notification, then the allottee shall be entitled to such compensation for improvement as the Collector may determine."

40. It is apparent from a bare perusal of paragraph-18 of the petition, the provisions of Section 59 and Rule 54 & 55 quoted hereinabove, that the petitioner has wrongly quoted the language of Rule 55 of the Rules of 2016.

41. The learned counsel for the petitioner has argued on the basis of paragraph 18 of the writ petition that had there been a public notification/publication in the newspapers before resumption proceedings were undertaken by the state government, the petitioner being an interested person would have filed his objections. The learned Senior Counsel has referred to the procedure prescribed under the Land Acquisition Act to say that proceedings for resumption are similar to such proceedings of acquisition and therefore, in the absence of any publication in the newspapers opportunity of being heard was denied to the petitioner and the order has been passed in violation of principles of natural justice.

42. This Court finds from a perusal of Section 59 of the Revenue Code and Rule 54 and 55 of the Rules of 2016, that they do not apply to private property. A wrong quoting of the Section 59 and Rule 54 and 55 of the Rules of 2016 in paragraph 18 of the writ petition would not entitle the petitioner to allege that because no notification was published in the newspapers before the acquisition of land of plot no. 1522 such resumption notification is bad. A perusal of the Rule 54 and 55 shows that there is only a requirement of publication in the Gazette and the daily newspapers circulated in the locality for the purpose of general notice to the public at large that the resumed land vests in the State Government free from all encumbrances, such publication of notification in the Gazette shall be conclusive evidence that the property stands vested in the State Government; there is no requirement under the Rules for issuing a notification in the Gazette or in the newspapers before the resumption exercise is carried out. It is only after resumption has been done by an order passed under Section 59(4) that such order will be published in the Gazette and two daily newspapers of the area in which the property is situated. Failure to publish the notification does not result in vitiating the whole exercise of resumption. It is only an irregularity and not an illegality that goes to the root of the matter.

43. The Supreme Court in the case of M.C. Mehta vs. Union of India and others, 1999 (6) SCC 237 has observed that writ jurisdiction is a discretionary jurisdiction and the Court need not issue a writ merely because there has been a violation of the principles of natural justice if greater good is to be achieved by refusing to interfere. In Gadde Venkateswara Rao versus Government of Andhra Pradesh and others; AIR 1966 Supreme Court 828, the Supreme Court had refused to interfere even when it was found that the order issued by the Government was without prior notice to the villagers while changing the location of the health centre from one village to another, and when it was established that the Government had no power to review in respect of orders passed earlier to establish it in particular village, the Supreme Court observed that there were other factors which disentitled the appellant to the quashing of the order passed by the State Government even though it was passed in breach of principles of natural justice. The Court observed that setting aside of the later order would restore the earlier order of the Government which was passed without notice to the affected party namely the Panchayat Samiti. It would also result in the setting aside of a valid resolution passed by the Panchayat Samiti, the Supreme Court refused the relief and agreed with the High Court in not interfering under Article 226 even if there was a violation of principles of natural justice. The above case is a clear authority for the proposition that it is not always necessary for the Court to strike down the order under challenge merely because the order has been passed against the petitioner in breach of natural justice.

The Court can under Article 32 or Article 226 refuse to exercise its discretion of striking down the order if such striking down will result in restoration of another order passed in favour of the petitioner and against the opposite party in violation of the principles of natural justice or is not in accordance with law.

44. The Supreme Court in M.C. Mehta (supra) also referred to another case where there was a breach of principles of natural justice. The Supreme Court found that interference was not necessary if the result of interference would be the restoration of another order which was not legal. In Mohd. Swalleh and others Vs Third Additional District Judge; 1988 (1) SCC 40, the Supreme Court was considering an Appeal arising out of U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act 1972. The Prescribed Authority dismissed an application filed by the landlord and this was held clearly to be contrary to the very purpose of Section 43(2) RR of the Act. The District Court entertained the Appeal filed by the landlord and allowed it without noticing that such appeal was not maintainable. The High Court refused to interfere. The Supreme Court on Appeal filed by the tenant accepted that though no Appeal lay to the District Court observed nevertheless that the refusal of the High Court to set aside the order of the District Judge was correct, as that would have restored the order of the Prescribed Authority which was apparently illegal.

45. This Court having considered the arguments of the counsel for the petitioner is convinced that the petitioner is a stranger to the cause pleaded in this petition. Even if it be assumed that the order of the Settlement Officer Consolidation and the Deputy Director Consolidation would be set aside by this Court in writ petition proposed to be filed by the petitioner but the order of the Commissioner would stand in its way preventing it to enjoy the fruits of the litigation, still the Court believes that showing interference in the order of Resumption would be against greater public good as a Medical College and Referral Hospital is proposed to be established on the land in dispute under a time bound centrally sponsored scheme.

46. The writ Petition stands dismissed.

47. The interim order stands discharged.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J. & Hon'ble Mrs. Saroj Yadav, J.)

1. This is a bunch of writ petitions filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India challenging the sanction order dated 16.12.2019 and consequential orders of communication issued thereafter in respect to F.I.R. registered at Crime No. 1 of 2014 dated 1.1.2014 under sections 409, 120-B I.P.C. and section 13(1)(d) read with section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act 1988. All these writ petitions involve same issue, therefore, they were heard together and are being decided by a common judgment. For convenience Writ Petition No. 25382 (MB) of 2020, Rajeev Kumar Singh v. State of U.P. & ors., has been treated as the leading writ petition.

Petitioners of the aforesaid petitions pray as under :

"this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to issue -

(a) a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing of the Prosecution Sanction Order dated 16.12.2019 signed on 14.12.2019 by the Managing Director UPRNN and the Communication Letter dated 16.12.2019 actually signed on 13.12.2019 against the petitioner contained as Annexure No. 2 to this Writ Petition arising out of FIR registered at Crime No. 1/2014 dated 01.01.2014, under sections: 409, 120-B IPC and section 13(1)(d) read with 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act 1988 after summoning the records from the authority competent.

(b) a writ order or direction so as to decide this petition as per the order and direction passed by Coordinate Bench of this Hon'ble Court in Writ Petition No. 792/(MB) of 2020 (Ajay Kumar and another v. State of UP and others) in the facts and circumstances of this petition and the same benefit may kindly be extended to the petitioner also."

2. At the very outset learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that Writ Petition No. 792 (MB) of 2020, Ajai Kumar & ors. V. State of U.P. & ors., involving similar issue and pertaining to the same crime number, albeit, in respect to other accused, has been decided by this Court vide judgment dated 18.6.2020 wherein, without entering into validity of the sanction order certain directions have been issued to complete the investigation with a further direction to the Court below to consider objections to the validity of sanction and till such decision is taken by the Court below regarding validity of sanction for prosecution against the said petitioners, no coercive measures were to be taken against them. He prays for similar relief.

3. However, learned A.G.A. submits that in the said petition the sanction order dated 16.12.2019 was not under challenge, instead an order communicating the same had been challenged. Moreover, he says that a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not maintainable against such a sanction order as its validity can be seen during trial as has been held by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in a catena of decisions and by a Division Bench of this Court in Satya Pal Singh & ors.

4. In response, learned counsel for the petitioner invited attention of the Court to interim orders passed in similar cases pertaining to same crime number relating to co-accused on 8.12.2020 in Writ Petition Nos. 16340 (MB) of 2020, Chhatra Pal Singh(C.P. Singh) v. State of U.P. & ors., and 19087 (MB) of 2020, Rajeev Garg v. State of U.P. & ors., wherein, referring to the decision in Ajay Kumar's case, protection has been given in terms thereof.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner fairly admitted to the fact that in all those cases which are referred hereinabove investigation had already been completed, yet under some misconception directions were issued for completion of investigation. The sanction order in fact had been issued after completion of investigation.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner was further confronted as to the maintainability of this writ petition in view of various pronouncements of the Supreme Court wherein a distinction has been made between absence of sanction which can be raised at a pre-cognizance stage before the appropriate court and question of validity of sanction for prosecution which can be raised during trial, meaning thereby, a writ petition in this regard would not be maintainable. Learned counsel submitted that in the facts of the present case petitioner had not been arrested during investigation since the lodging of the F.I.R. in 2014 and even now merely because sanction has been granted, even if the investigating agency is proceeding to submit a chargesheet, as is the case, there is no mandatory necessity that the petitioner is required to be arrested and produced before the Court while submitting the chargesheet, whereas in fact this is exactly what they are proceeding to do. In this regard he relied upon a decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court reported in 2015 (6) SCC 716, State of U.P. v. Anil Kumar Sharma, wherein a judgment of this very court making it mandatory for the Police/Investigating Agency to produce the accused while submitting chargesheet in the court was set aside, inter alia, with the observations that there is no requirement under section 173 for the investigating officer to produce the accused alongwith the chargesheet. However, on being asked as to whether section 173 or the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Anil Kumar Sharma (supra) prohibits the Police on its own from arresting the accused and producing before the Trial Court so as to expedite the proceedings, learned counsel for the petitioner fairly submitted that it did not.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner was asked as to whether there is a difference in the High Court passing a dictum mandatorily requiring the accused to be arrested and produced before the court at the time of submission of a chargesheet and the Police on its own considering the relevant facts arresting and producing him, the learned counsel admitted to the distinction in this regard, however, he submitted that there is no justification for the arrest of the petitioner accused at this stage when he has not been arrested in the past six years, especially as, when the court below issues the summons or warrants, as the case may be, he will either appear on his own or be produced by the Police. On being asked as to the remedy under section 438 Cr.P.C. being available in this regard, learned counsel referred to practical difficulties in this regard and the possibility of arrest before the remedy could be availed.

8. He also submitted that the challenge to the sanction order was on the ground of non-application of mind to relevant factors and materials.

9. As the petitioner is also being prosecuted under the Prevention of Corruption Act 1988, it is relevant to refer to section 19 thereof which reads as under :

"19. Previous sanction necessary for prosecution.--(1) No court shall take cognizance of an offence punishable under sections 7, 11, 13 and 15 alleged to have been committed by a public servant, except with the previous sanction, save as otherwise provided in the Lokpal and Lokayuktas Act, 2013--

(a) in the case of a person who is employed, or as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed in connection with the affairs of the Union and is not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Central Government, of that Government;

(b) in the case of a person who is employed, or as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed in connection with the affairs of a State and is not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the State Government, of that Government;

(c) in the case of any other person, of the authority competent to remove him from his office.

Provided that no request can be made, by a person other than a police officer or an officer of an investigation agency or other law enforcement authority, to the appropriate Government or competent authority, as the case may be, for the previous sanction of such Government or authority for taking cognizance by the court of any of the offences specified in this sub-section, unless--

(i) such person has filed a complaint in a competent court about the alleged offences for which the public servant is sought to be prosecuted; and

(ii) the court has not dismissed the complaint under section 203 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) and directed the complainant to obtain the sanction for prosecution against the public servant for further proceeding:

Provided further that in the case of request from the person other than a police officer or an officer of an investigation agency or other law enforcement authority, the appropriate Government or competent authority shall not accord sanction to prosecute a public servant without providing an opportunity of being heard to the concerned public servant:

Provided also that the appropriate Government or any competent authority shall, after the receipt of the proposal requiring sanction for prosecution of a public servant under this sub-section, endeavour to convey the decision on such proposal within a period of three months from the date of its receipt:

Provided also that in case where, for the purpose of grant of sanction for prosecution, legal consultation is required, such period may, for the reasons to be recorded in writing, be extended by a further period of one month:

Provided also that the Central Government may, for the purpose of sanction for prosecution of a public servant, prescribe such guidelines as it considers necessary.

Explanation.--For the purposes of sub-section (1), the expression "public servant" includes such person--

(a) who has ceased to hold the office during which the offence is alleged to have been committed; or

(b) who has ceased to hold the office during which the offence is alleged to have been committed and is holding an office other than the office during which the offence is alleged to have been committed.]

(2) Where for any reason whatsoever any doubt arises as to whether the previous sanction as required under sub-section (1) should be given by the Central Government or the State Government or any other authority, such sanction shall be given by that Government or authority which would have been competent to remove the public servant from his office at the time when the offence was alleged to have been committed.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974),--

(a) no finding, sentence or order passed by a special Judge shall be reversed or altered by a Court in appeal, confirmation or revision on the ground of the absence of, or any error, omission or irregularity in, the sanction required under sub-section (1), unless in the opinion of that court, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby;

(b) no court shall stay the proceedings under this Act on the ground of any error, omission or irregularity in the sanction granted by the authority, unless it is satisfied that such error, omission or irregularity has resulted in a failure of justice;

(c) no court shall stay the proceedings under this Act on any other ground and no court shall exercise the powers of revision in relation to any interlocutory order passed in any inquiry, trial, appeal or other proceedings.

(4) In determining under sub-section (3) whether the absence of, or any error, omission or irregularity in, such sanction has occasioned or resulted in a failure of justice the court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at any earlier stage in the proceedings.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this section,--

(a) error includes competency of the authority to grant sanction;

(b) a sanction required for prosecution includes reference to any requirement that the prosecution shall be at the instance of a specified authority or with the sanction of a specified person or any requirement of a similar nature."

10. We have gone through the decision of a Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of co-accused in Writ Petition No. 792 (MB) of 2020, Ajai Kumar & Another v. State of U.P. & ors., decided on 18.6.2020. In the said case a consequential order dated 31.8.2019 was under challenge, whereas the sanction had been granted by the order dated 16.12.2019 which was not challenged. In the present case order dated 16.12.2019 has been challenged.

11. As stated by the learned A.G.A. and as is also mentioned in the interim orders passed in other writ petitions referred hereinabove, the order dated 31.8.2019 which was challenged in the case of Ajai Kumar (supra) was merely a communication of the sanction granted on 16.12.2019/14.12.2019.

12. Be that as it may, the sanction order dated 16.12.2019 is under challenge in this writ petition. Furthermore, on a perusal of the judgment dated 18.6.2020 referred hererinabove we find that though the Coordinate Bench of this Court has extensively dealt with the purpose and object of sanction as also the stage at which its validity can be challenged during trial, no finding or opinion has been expressed as to whether a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would be maintainable in view of various decisions referred in the said judgment itself and even otherwise rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court and this Court wherein it has been held that such a challenge to validity of sanction can be raised before the Trial Court, although, the Court was obviously not inclined to entertain the writ petition on the question of validity of sanction as it directed the Trial Court to consider it, however, while not entering into the question of validity of sanction and disposing off the writ petition gave protection to the petitioner to the effect that "till the decision is taken by the competent court/Court of Magistrate in regard to the sanction of prosecution against the petitioner that whether the same is valid or not, no coercive measures shall be taken against him." Now the question before this Court is that once the writ petition challenging the validity of sanction is not maintainable under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in view of decisions of Hon'ble the Supreme Court and this Court wherein it has been held that such a challenge can be raised and should be raised before the Trial Court, is it within the domain of this Court to grant some relief while not entertaining the writ petition ? It is the limited protection granted as aforesaid which has created a piquant situation before this Bench where, on the one hand, we are bound to follow the decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court and, on the other hand, petitioner claims similar benefit on the ground of parity as they are accused in the same crime number as the petitioners in Ajay Kumar's case and in the subsequent two writ petitions referred hereinabove who have also been granted such relief.

13. Before proceeding further we would like to make a mention that the only question which arises before us is validity of sanction. Now, can it be seen by us at this stage or it is to be seen by the Trial Court at the appropriate stage, is the moot point. A coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Satya Pal Singh & ors. v. State of U.P. & ors. (Writ Petition No. 7806 (MB) of 2009) and connected matters had the occasion to consider the question as to whether a proposed accused under Article 226 of the Constitution of India can challenge the grant of sanction to prosecute him before institution of the prosecution in a competent Court. Considering the relevant provisions of law and various provisions of this Court and the Supreme Court of India the Division Bench concluded as under :

"38. In view of above discussion, this Court is of the firm view that

(1) grant of sanction order to prosecute the accused under the statute is not an administrative action of the competent authority. It would be a statutory function of the competent authority and subject to challenge in the proceedings launched against the accused in accordance with the procedure established under law.

(2) An accused cannot be allowed to challenge the order granting sanction to prosecute at pre-cognizance stage. As the same has no locus as held in Smt. Nagawwa vs Veeranna Shivallngappa Konjalgi and others; MANU/SC/0173/1976; (1976) 3 SCC 736 and Raghu Raj Singh Rousha Vs. Shivam Sundaram Promoters Private Limited and another; MANU/SC/8476/2008 : (2009) 2 SCC 363.

39. In view of above, this bunch of writ petition is not maintainable and the same are liable to be dismissed. The interim orders passed in the writ petitions are also liable to be vacated, therefore, the interim orders passed in the writ petitions stand vacated.

40. Accordingly, all the writ petitions are dismissed."

14. It categorically held that such accused cannot be allowed to challenge the order granting sanction to prosecute at pre-cognizance stage.

15. When the above quoted decision was rendered, there was no provision for grant of anticipatory bail in the State of U.P., however, now there is such a provision.

16. We may also refer to a decision of the Supreme Court of India reported in (2012) 1 SCC 532, Dinesh Kumar v. Airport Authority of India wherein it has held as under :

"8. The provisions contained in Sections 19(1), (2), (3) and (4) of the P.C. Act came up for consideration before this Court in Parkash Singh Badal (2007) 1 SCC 1. In paras 47 and 48 of the judgment, the Court held as follows (SCC p. 37) :

"47: The sanctioning authority is not required to separately specify each of the offences against the accused public servant. This is required to be done at the stage of framing of charge. Law requires that before the sanctioning authority materials must be placed so that the sanctioning authority can apply his mind and take a decision. Whether there is an application of mind or not would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and there cannot be any generalised guidelines in that regard.

48: The sanction in the instant case related to the offences relatable to the Act. There is a distinction between the absence of sanction and the alleged invalidity on account of non-application of mind. The former question can be agitated at the threshold but the latter is a question which has to be raised during trial."

9. While drawing a distinction between the absence of sanction and invalidity of the sanction, this Court in Parkash Singh Badal (supra) expressed in no uncertain terms that the absence of sanction could be raised at the inception and threshold by an aggrieved person. However, where sanction order exists, but its legality and validity is put in question, such issue has to be raised in the course of trial. Of course, in Parkash Singh Badal (supra), this Court referred to invalidity of sanction on account of non- application of mind.

10. In our view, invalidity of sanction where sanction order exists, can be raised on diverse grounds like non-availability of material before the sanctioning authority or bias of the sanctioning authority or the order of sanction having been passed by an authority not authorised or competent to grant such sanction. The above grounds are only illustrative and not exhaustive. All such grounds of invalidity or illegality of sanction would fall in the same category like the ground of invalidity of sanction on account of non-application of mind - a category carved out by this Court in Parkash Singh Badal (supra), the challenge to which can always be raised in the course of trial."

17. We may also refer to another decision of the Supreme Court in the case of State of M.P. v. Dr. Krishna Chandra Saksena, (1996) 11 SCC 439 :-

"8..... sanctioning authority was satisfied after complete and conscious scrutiny of the records produced in respect of the allegation against the accused. Now the question whether all the relevant evidence which would have tilted the balance in favour of the accused if it was considered by the sanctioning authority before granting sanction and which was actually left out of consideration could be examined only at the stage of trial when the sanctioning authority comes forward as a prosecution witness to support the sanction order if challenged during the trial. As that stage was not reached the prosecution could not have been quashed at the very inception on the supposition that all relevant documents were not considered by the sanctioning authority while granting the impugned sanction."

18. In view of the above decisions, we have absolutely no doubt that this petition challenging the order dated 16.12.2019 sanctioning prosecution against the petitioner is not maintainable and is not liable to be entertained, however, as stated earlier now the other aspect of the matter is that in similar cases relating to same crime number Coordinate Benches have granted some protection as already referred hereinabove to the co-accused till validity of sanction is decided by the trial court. If the petition itself is not liable to be entertained then whether while dismissing the same, irrespective of the fact that as to whether we mention it as a disposal or dismissal of the petition, any relief, if so, to what extent, can be granted to the petitioner herein, especially as, since June 2018 the provision for grant of anticipatory bail under section 438 Cr.P.C. has come into force in the State of U.P. which can be applied and considered at any stage, certainly at a stage where no chargesheet has been filed as yet as in this case and appropriate relief can be sought. Question is whether this Court should grant a protection to the effect that no coercive measures should be taken against the petitioner till the trial court decides the validity of sanction, at this stage ? Now the fact is that the chargsheet has not been filed as yet. We are at the pre-cognizance stage. The law is very clear that where it is not a case of absence of sanction, but a case of validity of sanction, the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would not take cognizance of the matter before the pre-cognizance stage. In fact, even thereafter the remedy may not lie under under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, but may be under section 482 Cr.P.C. at the appropriate stage, therefore, ordinarily while dismissing the petitions we would not grant such relief, nevertheless, considering the piquant situation which has already been noticed by us, as, in the same crime number this Court has granted protection, as an exceptionally compelling measure which is not to be treated as a precedent, we provide that for 3 weeks from the pronouncement of the judgment petitioner(s) shall not be arrested in Case Crime No. 1 of 2014 referred hereinabove, during which, it shall be open for them to apply for anticipatory bail under section 438 which may be considered by the Court concerned as per law, but, this protection shall cease immediately on expiry of 3 weeks as aforesaid. Thereafter, the law shall take its own course. Subject to these observations and leaving it open for the petitioner to raise the question of validity of sanction in the event a chargesheet is filed before a Court of criminal jurisdiction, at the appropriate stage, we dismiss these writ petitions, but only for the aforesaid reason without entering into the merits of the sanction order impugned herein.

3. Petitioner in person has submitted that the Court would very well be within its jurisdiction to issue a direction as prayed for in the petition to ameliorate the condition with regard to a particular sect or religion. It has been further submitted that the petitioner in person is only seeking a direction for the concerned respondent to consider for legislating a law regulating religious conversion and no specific direction is being sought to Parliament or any State Legislature to enact any legislation. It is submitted that in view of this distinction, this petition in nature of public interest litigation would be maintainable since it only seeks consideration of petitioner's grievance particularly since all the laws giving criminality to any act or omission have been legislated by the Union and therefore the law regulating religious conversion should also be made by Union of India.

4. With regard to aforesaid prayer, a Constitution Bench of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Manoj Narula v. Union of India reported in (2014) 9 SCC 1 had declared a similar relief not maintainable in context of the doctrine of constitutional trust.

5. The subject of doctrine of constitutional trust has been explained in the aforesaid judgment in context of debates held in the Constituent Assembly and particularly with regard to separation of jurisdiction and powers of various constitutional functionaries and authorities. It was held that the doctrine of constitutional trust clearly is with regard to the maxim Salus populi suprema lex esto. It was held that it cannot be believed that a constitutional authority or functionary would not act in accordance with and within the scope of its powers as indicated in the Constitution of India.

6. Hon'ble the Supreme Court referred to various judgments of the Supreme Court itself in which it has been clearly held that Courts have very limited role with regard to judicial legislation since neither the Courts can legislate nor they have any competence to issue directions to legislature to enact a law in a particular manner.

7. Relevant portion of the judgment is as follows:-

"124.In Municipal Committee,Patiala [Municipal Committee, Patialav. Model Town Residents Assn., (2007) 8 SCC 669] this Court referred to Parent of a student of Medical College[State of H.P.v.Parent of a student of Medical College, (1985) 3 SCC 169. This was a judgment delivered by a Bench of three learned Judges.] and held that legislation is in the domain of the legislature. It was said:

"It is so well settled and needs no restatement at our hands that the legislature is supreme in its own sphere under the Constitution subject to the limitations provided for in the Constitution itself. It is for the legislature to decide as to when and in what respect and of what subject-matter the laws are to be made. It is for the legislature to decide as to the nature of operation of the statutes.""

"125. More recently, V.K. Naswa [V.K. Naswa v.Union of India, (2012) 2 SCC 542 : (2012) 1 SCC (Cri) 914] referred to a large number of decisions of this Court and held that the Court cannot legislate or direct the legislature to enact a law. It was said: (SCC p. 547, para 18)

"18. Thus, it is crystal clear that the court has a very limited role and in exercise of that, it is not open to have judicial legislation. Neither the court can legislate, nor has it any competence to issue directions to the legislature to enact the law in a particular manner.""

"126. However, a discordant note was struck inGainda Ram [Gainda Ram v. MCD, (2010) 10 SCC 715. This was a judgment delivered by a Bench of two learned Judges.] wherein this Court issued a direction to the legislature to enact legislation before a particular date. It was so directed in paras 70 and 78 of the Report in the following words: (SCC pp. 739 & 743)"

"70. This Court, therefore, disposes of this writ petition and all the IAs filed with a direction that the problem of hawking and street vending may be regulated by the present schemes framed by NDMC and MCD up to 30-6-2011. Within that time, the appropriate Government is to legislate and bring out the law to regulate hawking and hawkers' fundamental right. Till such time the grievances of the hawkers/vendors may be redressed by the internal dispute redressal mechanisms provided in the schemes.

78. However, before 30-6-2011, the appropriate Government is to enact a law on the basis of the Bill mentioned above or on the basis of any amendment thereof so that the hawkers may precisely know the contours of their rights. This Court is giving this direction in exercise of its jurisdiction to protect the fundamental rights of the citizens."

"127.The law having been laid down by a larger Bench than in Gainda Ram [Gainda Ram v. MCD, (2010) 10 SCC 715. This was a judgment delivered by a Bench of two learned Judges.] it is quite clear that the decision, whether or not Section 8 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 is to be amended, rests solely with Parliament."

8. In view of aforesaid dictum, it is clear that no direction can be issued for enacting any legislation in any particular manner by High Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

9. So far as submission of petitioner in person is concerned that only a direction for consideration of petitioner's grievance has been made in the petition, aforesaid doctrine of constitutional trust also bars any grant of relief prayed for in the manner as envisaged in the petition.

10. Considering the aforesaid factors and enunciation by Hon'ble the Supreme Court, the writ petition being devoid of merit is dismissed at the admission stage itself.

Civil Law - Specific Relief Act (47 of 1963)- Section 38 - Permanent injunction - Cause of action - defendants denied ownership of plaintiffs over land in question & plaintiffs were apprehending that the defendants might encroach upon the land, as such a cause of action was available to the plaintiff & Court rightly entertained suit - finding regarding ownership - To arrive at a finding regarding ownership of land as claimed by plaintiff - Courts below should have independently applied their minds & should have arrived at an independent finding irrespective of the finding arrived in another suit & paper filed in that suit in which the defendants were not party - Amin's Report - there was a door of the defendant no. 2 which opened on the southern side of his house, same was shown as a door in the Amin's report but the existence of that door not dealt with by the courts below - finding ought to have been arrived at as to what would be effect of the door opening in the southern side of the house of the defendant no. 2 - Both courts committed error in holding plaintiff to be owner of land - Decree liable to be set aside and matter remanded to Trial Court. (Para 10, 11, 12)

Partly allowed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.)

1. This second appeal has been filed against the judgement and decree dated 13.5.2016 passed by the District Judge, Ballia, in Civil Appeal No. 31 of 2016 which had affirmed the judgement and decree dated 14.3.2016 passed by the Civil Judge (J.D.) Ballia in Original Suit No. 424 of 2007.

2. The plaintiff had filed a suit for the relief of permanent injunction stating that the defendant (appellant here) may be injuncted from interfering with the possession of the plaintiff over the land marked by nos. 1-4-5-6-7-1 and by nos. 6-8-9-10 in the plaint map. The case of the plaintiff had been that the area marked by numbers 1-4-5-6-7-1 had formed a part of plot no. 48 which was the plaintiff's sehan land and he had inherited the same from his grand-father, namely, Jamuna Ojha.

3. To bolster his case, the plaintiff had taken support of the papers which were filed in another suit being Suit no. 274 of 1993 which was filed by Vimlesh Chaubey, a person who was not a party to the suit of the plaintiff. Suit No. 274 of 1993 was dismissed by a judgement and decree dated 21.1.1995. The plaintiff of the suit from which the instant appeal has arisen had alleged that on 30.9.2007 the defendants in the instant case had threatened that they would take over possession over the land numbered as 1-4-5-6-7-1 in the plaint map and would also stop the water from flowing from the nali which was running on the land numbered as 6-8-9-10 in the plaint map. The defendants, the appellant here, filed their written statement denying the rights and title of the plaintiff over the land in question and stated that since their houses opened southwards into the land numbered as 6-8-9-10 and since they had a Chabutara over it the plaintiffs could not have any right over the land in question. Upon filing of the suit, an Amin of the Civil Court went on the spot and submitted his report alongwith a map on 28.11.2007. The report was numbered as 19(ga)(2) and the map was numbered as 20(ga) (2). For deciding the suit the Trial Court had framed as many as nine issues.

4. Issue no. 1 was to the effect as to whether the land which was claimed by the plaintiff to be his own land was his or not. Upon giving a finding in favour of the plaintiff in the affirmative the suit was decreed. The defendant filed a first appeal being First Appeal No. 31 of 2016 in which only one point of determination was drawn and that was also to the effect as to whether the plaintiff was the owner in possession over the land in question. The First Appeal was, however, dismissed on 13.5.2016. The instant second appeal when was filed was admitted on 22.12.2016 on the questions of law as had been framed in the memo of appeal. There were 10 questions of law which were framed and the same are being reproduced here as under:-

1. Whether the suit for permanent injunction filed by the plaintiff-respondent without there being any cause of action, is maintainable?

2. Whether both the courts below committed manifest error of law in decreeing the suit and passing impugned orders by treating the land the land in dispute to be part of land of Shikmi No. 48 without ascertaining correct location and area of Shikmi No. 48?

3. Whether the plaintiff-respondent who stand on his own leg, his suit cannot be decreed on the weakness of defendants-appellants?

4. Whether the paper filed in the suit No. 274 of 1993 in which the defendants-appellants were not party, can be relied in decreeing the suit?

5. Whether the courts-below are justified in decreeing the suit of the plaintiff-respondent without ascertaining the location of Khasra No. 48 where area is given in the Khasra?

6. Whether the courts-below were justified in law in decreeing the suit of the plaintiff without establishing his case by any cogent documents/evidence regarding recording the name of Bahuriya Piyari Kunwari even in Khasra on record?

7. Whether both the courts below have committed manifest error of law in not deciding the objections filed by the defendants-appellants against the Amin-report and whether without deciding said objection, both the courts below were justified in law in passing impugned orders?

8. Whether the impugned orders passed by the courts-below are against the actual spot position, if yest then on what basis the impugned orders have been passed by the courts below?

9. Whether the findings recorded by the courts below that the disputed land is part of land of Shikmi No. 48, is based on any cogent evidence and document, if not, then on what basis the impugned orders have been passed by the courts below?

10. Whether the impugned orders passed by the courts below are sustainable in the eyes of law?

5. When the case was heard finally and the judgement was reserved the counsel appearing for the Appellants and the Respondent had submitted their written submissions. The Appellant while arguing the appeal mainly argued on the substantial questions of law numbered as 1, 4 and 7. He submitted that when there was only an apprehension in the mind of the plaintiffs that the disputed land would be encroached upon by the defendants and that thereafter the plaintiffs would be deprived from using the same then there was no cause of action yet. With regard to the records of the Original Suit No. 274 upon which the plaintiff had depended and which had been dealt with by the two courts below the learned counsel appearing for the Appellant submitted that the suit was filed by a person who was not a party in the instant suit against the plaintiff of the instant suit. The defendant/Appellant had tried to get himself impleaded in the Suit No. 272 of 1993 but his impleadment application was rejected. Therefore any reliance on the pleadings of Suit No. 272 of 1993 which the Court has done while deciding the instant suit from which the instant second appeal arose was an illegality committed by the court's below and which required to be undone.

6. Learned counsel for the Appellant submitted that to arrive at a finding regarding ownership of the land claimed by the plaintiff, the Trial Court as also the Appellate Court should have independently applied their minds and should have arrived at an independent finding irrespective of the finding arrived in the Original Suit No. 274 of 1993. Learned counsel for the Appellant submitted that any finding in the Suit No. 272 of 1993 could not have been used by the Trial Court while deciding the suit from which the instant second appeal arose as the defendants were never a party in that suit. Learned counsel for the Appellant further submitted that if the commission report dated 28.11.2007 is seen then it appears that the report had given an opinion of the Amin with regard to the Chabutara constructed on the plot in dispute and no effort was made by the Court to come to an independent finding as to when the Chabutara was exactly built. Learned counsel for the Appellant submitted that the defendant had raised an objection with regard to the findings in the Amin report but they were never considered. Learned counsel further submitted that if the map attached to the report was seen it would become evident that Dinanath, the defendant no. 2 (the appellant no. 2) in the instant second appeal had only one ingress and egress on the southern side which opened in the plot in question. Learned counsel submitted that with regard to the Chabutara which was shown in Map 20(ga)(2) of the Amin report, no finding whatsoever was arrived at by the Courts below. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that in the Amin report there was a clear finding that the Nali, to begin with, was an open Nali and was also a pakka one and it went westward. It also said that even though to begin with it was open but as it reached its destination it had gone underground. He submitted that with regard to this opinion of the commissioner no finding was arrived at.

7. In reply, the learned counsel for the respondents plaintiff, however, submitted that in the written statement the defendant had denied the owner ship of the plaintiffs over the land in question then a cause of action was evident. Learned counsel appearing for the Respondent submitted that when the pleadings between the parties are exchanged and it is evident to the Court that there is a cause of action available then it had not to be proved by the plaintiff that the apprehension was wrong.

8. In the instant case when the defendant had denied the title of the plaintiff over the land in question and the plaintiffs were apprehending that the defendants might encroach upon the land then there was definitely a cause of action. Learned counsel further submitted that when the judgement passed in the Suit No. 274 of 1993 had given its seal of approval to the written statement filed by the plaintiff in that suit then the written statement could always have been used in the instant suit. Still further learned counsel for the plaintiff respondents submitted that the finding given in the Amin report that the Chabutara was made after the filing of the suit gets credence from the fact that in the map attached with the written statement there was no Chabutara made.

9 Learned counsel for the Plaintiffs/Respondents further submitted that the instant Second Appeal was filed against judgments which had concurrently being passed in favour of the plaintiffs and, therefore, no interference be made in the instant second appeal. He submitted that no substantial question of law at all arose and the instant second appeal, therefore, be dismissed.

10. Having heard the learned counsel for the appellant and the learned counsel for the respondents, I am of the view that when the defendants had denied the title over the land in question in their written statement then definitely a cause of action was available to the plaintiff and the Court rightly entertained his suit. So far as the question of reliance over the documents filed in Suit No. 274 of 1993 is concerned, I find that the Defendants/Appellants was not a party to that suit. He had not admitted that the documents filed by the respondents in the instant second appeal were correctly filed in the Suit No. 274 of 1993. The impleadment application which the Defendants had filed in Original Suit No. 274 of 1993 had been rejected. If the court wanted to give a finding with regard to the land over which the Plaintiff was claiming title and possession then the courts below should have given a finding independent of any finding arrived at in Suit No. 274 of 1993.

11. So far as the question with regard to the reliance on the Amin report and map is concerned, I find that since there was no Chabutara made in the map attached in the written statement, it can be safely concluded that the Chabutara was built during the pendency of the suit. However, since there was a door of the defendant no. 2 which opened on the southern side of the house of the defendant no. 2 and which has been shown as a door in the map and the Amin's report and since the existence of that door has not been dealt with by the courts below, I feel that the court' below fell in error while dealing with the Commission Report. A finding ought to have been arrived at as to what would be effect of the door opening in the southern side of the house of the defendant no. 2. There is also no finding in both the judgement as to what would be the result of the fact that the Nali in front of the house of the defendant initially was an open one and then had gone underground as had been given in the Amin's report. Since there was a wrong reliance on the papers filed in the Suit No. 274 of 1993 and since the Amin's report and map had not been considered in their right perspective, I find that the courts below fell in error in coming to a conclusion that the land in question belonged to the plaintiff. Ends of justice would be served if the Judgement and Decree of the Courts below dated 14.3.2016 and 13.5.2016 of the Trial Court and the First Appellate Court respectively are set aside and the matter is remanded back to the Trial Court for a decision afresh with regard to the ownership after considering the Amin's report in its right perspective and after giving a finding independent of the papers/pleadings which related to the Suit No. 274 of 1993. The matter is,therefore, remanded back to the Trial Court.

12. The substantial questions no. 1, 4 and 7 which were argued by the Appellants counsel are accordingly answered. The other question need not be answered.

13. The second appeal is partly allowed.

Order on Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant on the application seeking condonation of delay in filing the appeal.

2. For the reasons mentioned in the application, the same is allowed.

3. Delay in filing the appeal is condoned.

4. Office to allot regular number to the appeal.

Order on Appeal

5. Sri Prakash Chandra Srivastava, for the appellant, Sri Shad Khan, for the respondent nos. 2 & 3 and Sri Ankit Gaur, learned State counsel for respondent no. 1.

6. Challenge in this appeal is to the order dated 09.09.2020 passed by learned Single Judge dismissing the writ petition filed by the appellant seeking compassionate appointment.

7. Facts of the case in brief are that one Chameli Devi, who was working as Peon in the Department of Vidyut Janpad Anurakshan Khand-First, Kasimpur, Aligarh died during service on 03.11.2011. The appellant claiming himself to be adopted son of Chameli Devi, filed an application seeking compassionate appointment. As the relation between the appellant and the deceased was doubted by the department, the appellant approached the civil court for obtaining succession certificate. It has been informed that second appeal between the parties in this relation is still pending before this Court.

8. When the compassionate appointment was denied to the petitioner, he filed the writ petition before this Court seeking compassionate appointment. By the impugned judgement, writ Court has dismissed the writ petition on the ground that as on date, the appellant is overage and, therefore, he is not entitled for compassionate appointment.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that there is no upper age limit prescribed for appointing a person on compassionate ground and, therefore, the writ Court has erred in law in dismissing the writ petition. He submits that immediately after the death of his mother, the appellant had applied for compassionate appointment and he cannot be blamed for any delay, if occurred, on the part of department. He admits that as on date, the appellant is aged about 46 years and has already received about Rs. 13 Lakhs towards the retiral dues of the deceased.

10. We have heard the parties.

11. In our opinion, the only issue which has to be examined is whether the applicant, who has already received the retiral dues and praying for compassionate appointment, after a delay of long period, aged about 46 years at present is entitled to compassionate appointment or not.

12. It is trite to say that law in respect of compassionate appointment is very clear and the same cannot be treated as a bounty and is to be given to the needy if the said person is facing hardship. There cannot be inherent right to compassionate appointment but rather, it is a right to provide a succor to a needy family.

13. In the case of Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana [(1994) 4 SCC 138], the Apex Court held that:

"For these very reasons, the compassionate employment cannot be granted after a lapse of a reasonable period which must be specified in the rules. The consideration for such employment is not a vested right which can be exercised at any time in future. The object being to enable the family to get over the financial crisis which it faces at the time of the death of the sole breadwinner, the compassionate employment cannot be claimed and offered whatever the lapse of time and after the crisis is over."

14. An appointment on compassionate basis claimed after a long time has seriously been deprecated in Union of India Vs. Bhagwan 1995 (6) SCC 436 and Haryana State Electricity Board Vs. Naresh Tanwar, (1996) 8 SCC 23. The Court has said:

"compassionate appointment cannot be granted after a long lapse of reasonable period and the very purpose of compassionate appointment, as an exception to the general rule of open recruitment, is intended to meet the immediate financial problem being suffered by the members of the family of the deceased employee..... the very object of appointment of dependent of deceased-employee who died in harness is to relieve immediate hardship and distress caused to the family by sudden demise of the earning member of the family and such consideration cannot be kept binding for years."

15. In State of U.P. & Ors. Vs. Paras Nath AIR 1998 SC 2612, the Court said:

"The purpose of providing employment to a dependent of a government servant dying in harness in preference to anybody else, is to mitigate the hardship caused to the family of the employee on account of his unexpected death while still in service. To alleviate the distress of the family, such appointments are permissible on compassionate grounds provided there are Rules providing for such appointment. The purpose is to provide immediate financial assistance to the family of a deceased government servant. None of these considerations can operate when the application is made after a long period of time such as seventeen years in the present case."

16. In Director of Education (Secondary) & Anr. Vs. Pushpendra Kumar & Ors. AIR 1998 SC 2230, Court said:

"The object underlying a provision for grant of compassionate employment is to enable the family of the deceased employee to tide over the sudden crisis resulting due to death of the bread earner which has left the family in penury and without any means of livelihood."

17. In S. Mohan Vs. Government of Tamil Nadu and Anr. 1999 (I) LLJ 539, Court said:

"The object being to enable the family to get over the financial crisis which it faces at the time of the death of the sole breadwinner, the compassionate employment cannot be claimed and offered whatever the lapse of time and after the crisis is over."

18. In SBI v. Anju Jain, (2008) 8 SCC 475, Court said:

person. In fact, such appointment is violative of rule of equality enshrined and guaranteed under Article 14 of the Constitution. As per settled law, when any appointment is to be made in Government or semi-government or in public office, cases of all eligible candidates must be considered alike. That is the mandate of Article 14. Normally, therefore, the State or its instrumentality making any appointment to public office, cannot ignore such mandate. At the same time, however, in certain circumstances, appointment on compassionate ground of dependants of the deceased employee is considered inevitable so that the family of the deceased employee may not starve. The primary object of such scheme is to save the bereaved family from sudden financial crisis occurring due to death of the sole bread earner. It is thus an exception to the general rule of equality and not another independent and parallel source of employment."

19. In the present case, the appellant has already survived for more than nine years after the death of his mother and as such, he had no financial constraint. Moreover, he has already received Rs. 13 Lakhs towards the retiral dues of his mother and thus, has sufficient amount for his survival. Law in this respect is also clear. In the case of Punjab National Bank & Ors V. Ashwini Kumar Taneja (2004) 7 SCC 265, and in General Manager (D&PB) & Ors V Kunti Tiwari & Anr (2004) 7 SCC 271, the Apex Court has held that:

"compassionate appointment has to be made in accordance with the Rules, Regulations or administrative instructions taking into consideration the financial condition of the family of the deceased. Whereas the scheme provides that in case the family of the deceased gets the retrial/terminal benefits exceeding a particular ceiling, the dependant of such deceased employee, would not be eligible for compassionate appointment."

20. Considering the cumulative effect of the entire facts, we are of the view that the appellant is not entitled for compassionate appointment. Learned single Judge was justified in dismissing the writ petition. The appeal has no substance, the same is accordingly dismissed.

2. The present Special Appeal has been filed against the impugned judgement and order dated 12.10.2020 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 3553 of 2019 (Hemant Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others) whereby the writ petition has been dismissed on the ground of existence of alternative remedy by leaving it open to the appellant-petitioner to avail such remedy if so advised.

3. The issue before this Court is limited only to the extent as to whether a learned Single Judge once at the time of raising a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the writ petition on the ground of an alternative remedy has proceeded to entertain the writ petition and call for a counter affidavit in the matter on merits and later on another learned Single Judge dismissed the said writ petition on the ground of existence of alternative remedy with the consent of learned counsel for the parties and as such will it be open for the other learned Single Judge to do so. The facts of the present case are not being attended to by this Court as the question is in a narrow compass as stated above.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant-petitioner argued that once the learned Single Judge before whom a preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the writ petition on the availability of alternate remedy was taken and the Court comes to a finding that it is unable to sustain the said objection, it will not be open for another learned Single Judge to dismiss the writ petition on the ground of existence of alternative remedy. Thus the said order is impugned herein. Learned counsel for the appellant-petitioner has placed reliance upon the following judgements to buttress his submissions:-

"(i) The Medhodist Church in India Vs. The Bareilly Development Authority: AIR 1988 ALL 151;

(ii) Suresh Chandra Tewari Vs. District Supply Officer and another: AIR 1992 ALL 331;

(iii) Narendra Kumar Pandey Vs. State Bank of India through its Chief G.M.: Service Bench No. 757 of 1999;

(iv) State of U.P. and another Vs. U.P. Rajya Khanij Vikas Nigam S.S. & others: Appeal(Civil) No. 3202 of 2008 [S.C.];

(v) Genpact India Private Limited V. Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax &Another: Special Leave Petition (Civil) No. 20728 of 2019."

5. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel while opposing the present Special Appeal argued that the learned Single Judge had initially when the matter was taken up before him and a preliminary objection regarding the maintainability of the writ petition on the ground of availability of alternate remedy was raised, considered the same but proceeded to examine the matter on merits in view of the nature of dispute. It was argued next that the order impugned dated 12.10.2020 is an order with consent and as such challenge to the same is not permissible in law. Learned Standing Counsel has placed reliance upon the following judgements to buttress his submissions that no appeal is maintainable against a consent order, which are as follows:

"(i) State of Orissa and others Vs. Gokulananda Jena: 2003(6) SCC 465;

(ii) S.A. Khan Vs. State of Haryana: 1993(2)SCC 327;

(iii) Mohan Lal Vs. State of U.P. and others: 2013(100)ALR 38;

(iv) Surendra Rao Vs. Regional Transport Authority, Gorakhpur Region and others: 1992 AIR(All) 211;

(v) Daljit Kaur and another Vs. Muktar Steels Pvt. Ltd and another: 2013(16) SCC 607 and;

(vi) Kuber Singh Vs. State of U.P. and 3 others: Special Appeal No. 1124 of 2019."

6. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and have perused the record.

7. The Writ-A No. 3553 of 2019 (Hemant Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others) was initially taken up on 07.3.2019 and the learned Single Judge passed the following orders:

"Although, Sri J.S. Bundela, the learned Standing Counsel has raised a preliminary objection to the maintainability of the writ petition on the ground that the petitioner has an alternative remedy of preferring a statutory appeal, this Court finds itself unable to sustain this objection since it is asserted that although the enquiry report was submitted on 23 August 2013, the Disciplinary Authority has chosen to pass final orders six years thereafter in terms of the order impugned.

Additionally, it is asserted that no oral enquiry was conducted before imposition of a major penalty.

Learned Standing Counsel prays for and is granted six weeks' time to file a Counter Affidavit in this petition. The petitioner shall have two weeks thereafter to file his Rejoinder Affidavit.

List thereafter. "

8. Subsequently, the said writ petition came to be dismissed on the ground of existence of alternate remedy leaving it open to the petitioner-appellant to avail such remedy if so advised and the order passed on 12.10.2020 which reads as under:

"Shri Pradeep Kumar, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner fairly admits that there is a provision for taking the order of dismissal in appeal before the competent authority.

The writ petition is dismissed on the ground of existence of alternative remedy. It is open to the petitioner to avail such remedy if so advised."

9. Argument of learned counsel for the appellant-petitioner that the learned Single Judge could not have dismissed the writ petition on the ground of alternate remedy is fallacious from the bare perusal of the order dated 12.10.2020 which is impugned in the present special appeal, it is apparent that the same is an order passed by a consent of learned counsel for the parties appearing in the matter that there is a provision for taking the order impugned therein in appeal before the competent authority. In so far as the judgements relied upon by learned counsel for the appellant-petitioner is concerned, the same are not of any help in the dispute in the present matter as the same are addressing the question as to maintainability of a writ petition during the existence of an alternate remedy to a person who has approached the Court. The position of law as settled till date that availability of alternative remedy is not a bar in entertaining writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not in dispute. The argument of learned counsel for the appellant-petitioner is at an error in the matter as the writ petition was dismissed by the order impugned on the admitted fact of availability of alternative remedy.

10. In so far as it relates to the argument of learned Standing Counsel, the same does impress us and is also supported by the said view through the judgements relied by him that no appeal lies against a consent order.

11. The present Special Appeal thus is not maintainable as it has been filed against an order passed with consent.

12. The present Special Appeal is thus dismissed as not maintainable.

13. Needless to say, the appellant-petitioner is at liberty to seek his appropriate remedy before the learned Single Judge, if so advised.

14. The party shall file computer generated copy of order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad, self attested by it alongwith a self attested identity proof of the said person (s) (preferably Aadhar Card) mentioning the mobile number (s) to which the said Aadhar Card is linked, before the concerned Court/Authority/Official.

15. The concerned Court/Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of the computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

Special Appeal (D) No. 1189 of 2020

Km. Sunita ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Udai Narain Khare, Sri Basdeo Nishad

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Constitution of India – Article 14 – Reasonableness – Doctrine of legitimate expectation – Principle of 'reasonableness' is one attribute to equality or non-arbitrariness protected by Article 14 of the Constitution – Doctrine of legitimate expectation too has been included as an important limb of reasonableness. (Para 13 and 15)

B. Service law – Selection – Counselling for post of Assistant Teacher – Liability to convey the respondents about willingness to attend counselling within the time prescribed – Failure – Effect – Appellant-petitioner is a woman working as Constable – Immediately after calling off the lockdown, she requested the competent authority to allow her to face the counselling – Counselling is nothing but verification of documents – Counselling is still going on – Held, the respondents, who are under obligation to have best hands on basis of merit examined, looking to the existing circumstances, especially involvement of the appellant-petitioner in COVID-19 duties and further as the counselling was in currency, should have called her to face the counselling. (Para 16 and 17)

Special Appeal allowed. (E-1)

Cases relied on :-

1. Menka Gandhi Vs U.O.I. & anr., AIR 1978 SC 56

2. Ramana Dayaram Shetty Vs The International Airport Authority & ors., AIR 1979 SC 1628

(Delivered by Hon'ble Govind Mathur, C.J. & Hon'ble Piyush Agrawal, J.)

1. To examine correctness of the order dated 21st October, 2020 passed by learned single Bench, this appeal is before us.

2. The order aforesaid reads as under:-

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned Standing Counsel.

The instant petition has been preferred seeking the following relief:-

"Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing and commanding the respondents to allow the petitioner to join the counselling which is still in process.

Issue a writ order in the nature of mandamus directing and commanding the respondent permit the petitioner to join the counselling and issued to appointment letter to the petitioner and to and permit him join the services as the petitioner during pendency of the writ petition."

Admittedly although the petitioner participated in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination, she was not included in the counselling sessions which were held thereafter since she did not submit the requisite online form. According to the petitioner since she was on duty at the relevant time, she could not complete the formalities as a consequence of which she has been denied the right to participate in the counselling process.

Sri Arun Kumar learned counsel appearing for the department apprises the Court that a candidate who had cleared the written examination was only required to submit an online form to participate in the counselling process and that all other details were to be gathered by the Department from the application form that had already been submitted.

The Court notes that it is not the case of the petitioner that she did not have the requisite facility to either access the internet or to submit the application online. The submission of choices for the purposes of participating in the counselling did not require any physical steps to be taken.

In view of the aforesaid, the Court finds no ground to issue the writs as prayed. The writ petition consequently stands dismissed."

3. Factual matrix of the case is that on 16th May, 2019 the respondents notified 69000 vacancies relating to the post of Assistant Teacher. The vacancies so notified were to be filled in by way of direct recruitment and for the purpose, a competitive examination i.e. "Assistant Teacher Recruitment Test 2019" was to be conducted. As per the scheme of the process of selection, in the first phase aspirants were to compete the test of 2019 and then to go for counselling. Suffice to state that the counselling is nothing but verification of documents and allotment of district for appointment as per choice and merit of the selected incumbent. To face the test, the aspirants were supposed to submit an application in the prescribed proforma and on qualifying the test they were also supposed to submit a requisition to be called to attend the counselling.

4. The appellant-petitioner a female member of the Other Backward Caste class presently holding the post of Constable in the Uttar Pradesh Police submitted an application in pursuant to the notification dated 16th May, 2019 and participated in written test. On 24th March, 2020 nation wide lockdown was declared to combat virus COVID-19. During lockdown, result of the written test was declared on 12th May, 2020. The appellant-petitioner secured multiplication of merit marks 67.8% gross. She was to attend counselling on 28th May, 2020 subject to submitting online requisition for the purpose. The appellant-petitioner at the relevant time was deputed with COVID-19 duties at Gorakhpur. Her original documents were lying at her native place and during the period of lockdown she had no means to borrow the same from her home.

5. Be that as it may, the appellant-petitioner being on COVID-19 duties failed to submit requisition to attend counselling. However, on the day next to calling of the lockdown she submitted a representation to the authority competent to allow her to attend the counselling. In the representation in quite unambiguous terms she narrated all the circumstances preventing her from submitting requisition/application showing her desire to attend counselling.

6. On being failed to have any positive response from the respondents, she approached single Bench of this Court to have a writ in the nature of mandamus but that came to be dismissed under the order impugned dated 21st October, 2020.

7. In appeal, the argument advanced on behalf of the appellant-petitioner is that she failed to submit online application showing her desire to attend counselling due to unavoidable reasons, therefore, the equity demands that an opportunity be given to her to face counselling. It is the position admitted that the counselling is still going on and that would be concluding on 30th December, 2020.

8. While opposing and defending the judgment passed by learned single Bench, it is submitted by learned Standing Counsel that the entire process of selection was online and the appellant-petitioner admittedly, failed to submitted application to face counselling.

9. In absence of application form, it was not at all possible for the agency conducting the process of selection to call her to face the process and further that in the scheme of the process of selection there is no provision to allow any person by manual submission of requisition to attend counselling that too subsequent to the date of counselling given to the candidate concerned.

10. It is submitted that even during the lockdown the appellant-petitioner could have submitted application online as done by several other candidates.

11. Heard learned counsels appearing on behalf of rival parties.

12. The preposition for adjudication on basis of the argument advanced on behalf of the appellant-petitioner is that "whether in given set of facts the principle of reasonableness demands for issuing a writ in the nature of mandamus to the respondents to allow the appellant-petitioner to face the counselling for consideration of her candidature for the purpose of appointment as Assistant Teacher?

13. At the threshold, it would be appropriate to State that the principle of "reasonableness" is one attribute to equality or non-arbitrariness protected by Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

14. In Menka Gandhi Vs. Union of India and another reported in AIR 1978 SC 56 the Supreme Court held that the members of reasonability legally as well as philosophically is an essential element of equality or non-arbitrariness every action of the State may that be administrative must right, just, fair and without any arbitrariness. No action should be fanciful or oppressive.

15. In Ramana Dayaram Shetty Vs. The International Airport Authority and others reported in AIR 1979 SC 1628 the Apex Court while giving more larger meaning to non-arbitrariness held that action of the government in different eventualities including the award of jobs must be rational, relevant and non-discriminating. Any injury to these standards would liable to struck down action concerned. The law laid down by the Supreme Court in Menka Gandhi Vs. Union of India and another (supra) as well as Ramana Dayaram Shetty Vs. The International Airport Authority and others has further been enriched in last four decades and the doctrine of legitimate expectation too has been included as an important limb of "reasonableness". The constitutional courts are required to examine every action brought before it for scrutiny in light of the principle of reasonability inter alia.

16. In the case in hand, the appellant-petitioner is a young girl from rural part of Uttar Pradesh belonging to Other Backward Caste. Presently she is holding the post of Constable in Uttar Pradesh Police. As a part of her duty, she was posted in an operation to combat COVID-19 pandemic duties at Gorakhpur. While working as Constable she had an aspiration to become a Teacher and for that she faced a process of selection. She qualified written test with quite higher marks. Admittedly, she was entitled to face counselling, which is nothing but verification of documents and other testimonials. Unfortunately, being engrossed with COVID-19 duties, she failed to convey the respondents about willingness to attend counselling within the time prescribed but immediately after calling off the lockdown, she requested the competent authority to allow her to face the counselling.

17. Worthwhile, to note here that the counselling was in process at that time and that is still going on. The respondents, who are under obligation to have best hands on basis of merit examined, looking to the existing circumstances, especially involvement of the appellant-petitioner in COVID-19 duties and further as the counselling was in currency, should have called her to face the counselling. Instead of it, they chose to keep silence on the request made by the appellant-petitioner and compelled her to approach the writ Court.

18. Learned single Bench dismissed the writ petition arriving at the conclusion that the involvement of the appellant-petitioner in COVID-19 duties would not have any hindrance in submitting an online request/application to disclose her willingness to join the counselling.

19. True it is, the online process was available to the appellant-petitioner but Court should have examined that whether a person working as Constable had any opportunity to leave her duties and to avail a device to satisfy online process. The appellant-petitioner may also not have a smart phone with her or even the internet connectivity to avail online facility. In such circumstance, she had to go to some other place may that be e-mitra or otherwise but merely a failure to avail that, does not mean that she was not interested in facing the counselling.

20. More important fact deserves to be noticed is that immediately after calling off the lockdown she represented to the respondents to have counselling. Being a person discharging duties to combat COVID-19, she must be having an expectation to have support from the system in all adversaries for her further development. The denial to consider her request to face couselling reflects arbitrariness and also an approach unfair and unjust. The circumstances would have a different, if the counselling would have been completed or the process of selection would have not in currency but that is not so. Admittedly, the counselling is still going on and will continue till 30th December, 2020.

21. Looking to this factual background, the appropriate course was to allow her to face the counselling for the purpose of appointment as Assistant Teacher. Learned single Bench, in our considered opinion, did not consider the aspect of reasonability while dismissing the petition for writ.

22. In view of whatever stated above, this appeal deserves acceptance. Accordingly, the same is allowed. The judgment impugned dated 21st October, 2020 passed by learned single Bench in Writ-A No.5011 of 2020 is set aside. The petition for writ preferred by the appellant-petitioner is accepted. The respondents are directed to call the appellant-petitioner to face counselling for the purpose of appointment as Assistant Teacher and further to consider her candidature for appointment as Assistant Teacher in pursuance to the notification dated 16th May, 2019 in accordance with law. No order to cost.

(A) Tax - Best Judgment Assessment - The Assessing Authority, solely on the basis of one fake tax invoice amounting to Rs. 11,970, assessed evaded sales at Rs. 26,15,000/- which is 100% of the disclosed sales. Apart from only one bill the Assessing Authority had nothing more to form an opinion that the sales equal to the declared sales should be determined as evaded sales. Therefore, this Court found it justifiable to hold evaded sales to be 10% of the total disclosed sales for the purpose of determining the tax liability. (Para 19, 20)

8. Shri S.M. Hasan, S.T.O. Jhansi & anr Vs M/s New Gramophone House, Jhansi (1976) 4 SCC 854

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vishwjit, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Rishu Kumar, Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of State-opposite party.

2. In view of the statement made by the Standing Counsel that he does not want to file any objections, I proceed to hear and decide the matter finally.

3. The present assessment proceedings arise from the Assessment Year 2013-14 wherein the revisionist has disclosed the turn over of purchases and sales as under:

(1) Total purchases from the registered dealers:	16,65,367.00
(2) Sales within U.P. (a) Taxable	Rs. 65,400.00
(b) Non-taxable	Rs. 20,000.00
Total sales within U.P.	85,400.00
(3) Central Sales	Rs. 25,29,563.00
Gross Turn over of sales:	Rs. 26,14,963-00

4. It is stated that the revisionist has also filed his detailed Statements of Accounts. It is stated that while the assessment proceedings were going on two tax invoices collected by Mobile Squad were considered by the Assessing Authority and with regard to one of the said two tax invoices, the Assessing Authority came to the conclusion that the same was issued by the revisionist, the said findings were recorded on the basis of personal inspection of the invoices (comparing them with the actual invoices by the revisionist) and also the fact that the revisionist did not lodge any FIR when it came to his knowledge that any parallel invoice is being issued. On the basis of the said invoice, the Assessment Authority rejected the Books of Accounts and proceeded to assess taking recourse to Section 28(2)(ii) of the U.P. Value Added Tax Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') for 'best judgement assessment'. The said 'best judgement assessment' was done on 31.3.2017 by an ex-parte order, the revisionist filed an application under section 32 of the Act for recall of the ex-parte order. The Assessment Authority proceeded to decide the matter on merits and passed an order dated 04.12.2017 determining evaded purchase of 65,00,000.00 and evaded sales of Rs. 80,00,000/- (Rs. 60,00,000 Provincial & Rs. 20 lacs Central Sales) and thus the tax payable by the assessee was assessed at Rs. 17,50,000/- in Provincial case and Rs. 2,80,000/- in Central Sales.

5. The order dated 04.12.2017 was rectified in respect of the Central Sales vide order dated 18.12.2017.

6. Aggrieved against the order dated 04.12.2017, the revisionist preferred an appeal before the Appellate Authority and submitted that the manner of best judgement assessment was wholly arbitrary and illegal inasmuch as only one bill recovered or produced by the Mobile Squad was found to be non-genuine and it was argued before the Appellate Authority that the assessment taking into account the entire sales, the State as well as the Central was an arbitrary exercise of power.

7. The Appellate Authority, vide order dated 18.2.2018, was of the opinion that the determination of the turn over on the basis of 'best judgement assessment' was based upon maintenance of parallel bill book hence the evaded sales was assessed as equal to the disclosed sales of the assessee i.e. 26,15,000/-. As regards, the Central Sales, the Appellate Authority was of the opinion that as no evidence was on record with regard to evasion of Central Sales hence the demand for evaded Central Sales was set aside.

8. Aggrieved against the said order, an appeal was preferred before the Tribunal. The Tribunal after considering the arguments raised by appellant upheld the order of the First Appellate Authority placing reliance upon the judgement of this Court in M/S Kapil Kumar & Brothers, Gautam Budh Nagar vs. Commissioner of Trade Tax (Vol. 34 NTN 2007, Page 171).

9. Aggrieved against the said judgement dated 11.2.2020 the present revision has been filed on the following substantial questions of law:

"1. Whether on the facts and circumstances of the present case, it was legally justified to enhance the taxable turnover of sale by Rs. 26,15,000.00 under the U.P. VAT Act merely on the basis of single invoice of Rs. 11970-00?"

2. Whether Tribunal was legally justified to confirm the enhancement of taxable turnover arbitrarily against the principle of law laid down by this Hon'ble court that determination of turn over should be commensurate to the material and evidence available on the record?

3. Whether, Tribunal was legally justified in confirming the enhancement of taxable furn over of sale in U.P. by Rs. 26,15,000-00 equal to gross sale of Rs. 26,14,963/- disclosed by the applicant for the entire assessment year which includes the Inter State Sales (Central Sales) of Rs. 25,19,563.00 accepted by the appellate authorities?

4. Whether in view of provision of the Act and settled law of this Hon'ble Court, it was legally justified to impose the tax both on determined taxable turnover of purchase and sales without giving the benefit of input tax credit to the applicant?"

10. The counsel for the revisionist argued that while taking recourse to the powers conferred upon the authority under section 28(2)(ii) of the Act, the Assessing Authority does not get absolute powers for making the assessment. The said power has to be exercised with caution and any exercise of power which is prima facie arbitrary has to be held contrary to the powers conferred under section 28(2)(ii) of the Act.

11. The counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the case of Ayyub Traders vs. Commissioner, Commercial Tax U.P. Lucknow, [2019 U.P.T.C. (Vol. 102)-1363] wherein this Court recorded as under:

"Insofar as estimation of turnover is concerned, normally, this Court does not interfere if such an estimation is found arising from material and evidence on record, however, in the present case, other than the two undisclosed bills recording transactions worth Rs. 5,520/- (in all), there is absolutely no material considered by the assessing officer or the appellate authority for the purposes of making an estimation. It is a settled position in law that the estimation made must arise from and be proportionate to the evidence of undisclosed turnover. In the instant case, as against the undisclosed turnover Rs. 5,520/- discovered, that too, on one date, i.e. 01.01.2006, the estimation as has been sustained, bears no proportion being Rs. 5,25,000/-. The same cannot be sustained.

Normally, this Court would have remanded the matter to the fact finding authority to record a proper finding of its own, however, the Court cannot lose sight of the fact that the assessment year in question is 2005-06 and almost 14 years have passed since then. If the matter were to be remitted today, largely, it would be a waste of time, inasmuch as the assessment had arisen under the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948 that came to be repealed by the U.P.V.A.T. Act which, in turn, has come to be repealed by the G.S.T. Act, 2017.

Thus, to bring a closure to an old dispute wherein the assessee appears to have a genuine grievance and not to set a rule as to the estimation to be made, the estimation of undisclosed turnover be pegged at Rs. 50,000/-. The assessment may stand concluded accordingly. Question of law no. (ii) is answered accordingly."

12. He further placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court dated

04.12.2017 in Sales/Trade Tax Revision No. 317 of 2007 (M/s Vivek Agency Thru' Prop. Gyan Prakash Kesarwani vs. The Commissioner of Trade Tax, U.P. Lucknow) wherein this Court has recorded as under:

"Both the Assessing Authority as well as the Tribunal have proceeded in the matter without being educated by the principles which must necessarily govern a best judgment assessment. While it is true that in the course of estimation of turnover a certain degree of guess work must necessarily be recognized as vesting and inhering in the hands of the Assessing Authority, the same cannot possibly be construed as conferring a power to estimate turnover in a wholly whimsical manner as has been done in the facts of the present case. The estimation of turnover of Rs.10,00,000/- is based solely on surmises and conjectures. The mere fact that the bill in question bore the number 114, cannot automatically lead one to conclude or hold that it was preceded by 113 prior transactions and that too of identical value. Such a process of determination and assessment in the case of a taxing statute cannot be accorded approval by this Court."

13. He has further placed reliance on the judgement of this Court passed in Sales/Trade Tax Revision No. 499 of 2015 (M/S Raj Pan Products Private Limited vs. Commissioner of Commercial Tax U.P. Lucknow) dated 20.1.2017 wherein this Court has held as under:

"The authorities have not recorded any finding as to how assessment has been enhanced by almost 28 times. There has to be some reasonable basis or nexus between the escaped transaction noticed and the consequential enhancement made by the authorities. This Court had earlier indicated that unless there exists other material to come to a different conclusion, the authorities could enhance the assessment by twice the amount i.e. Rs.1,40,000/-. The observations made by this Court in the order dated 22.7.2015 does not appear to have been taken note of in correct perspective and without any independent material or finding, it has reiterated the view taken earlier by it. There is no finding that assessee had persistently committed such default or that it was done with deliberate intent.

In the facts and circumstances of the present case, enhancement ought not to have been made more than twice the escaped transaction. The question of law raised in this revision is accordingly answered by holding that tribunal was not justified in enhancing the turnover above twice the escaped transaction in the facts and circumstances of the present case, and the enhancement to the tune of 28 times is not justified."

14. In view of the judgements referred above, counsel for the revisionist argues that the assessment made against the assessee, the appellate orders herein are wholly arbitrary and illegal and deserves to be set aside.

15. The Standing Counsel, on the other hand, argues that there was no error committed by Assessing Authority in rejecting the Books of Accounts on the basis of one bill, which on examination was found to be issued by the assessee himself. In support of the said contention, he has placed reliance on the judgement of this Court in case of M/S Kapil Kumar & Brothers, Gautam Budh Nagar vs. The Commissioner of Trade Tax (Vol. 34

NTN 2007, Page 171) wherein this Court had accepted the application of stay in respect of fake bills. Surprisingly, in the said judgement itself, while deciding the issue on the quantum of assessment, this Court recorded as under:

"The inference of the Tribunal that every month suppressed sales had been made against 100 bills is also not without any basis. Taking the value of the each bill at Rs. 1.29,000/-, total suppressed sale for the entire year comes to Rs. 15.48 crores. Tribunal has taken a very lenient view and has estimated the suppressed sales only at Rs. 1,54,46,975/-, which cannot be said to be arbitrary or excessive."

16. Thus, in sum and substance, this Court with regard to quantum accepted 10% of the escape sales not to be arbitrary and excessive.

17. The jurisdiction of the Assessing Authority while taking recourse to the 'best judgement assessment' is well settled. The Supreme Court in the case of State of Kerala vs. C. Velukutty, (1966) 60 ITR 239, The Commissioner of Income Tax, Calcutta vs. Padamchand Ramgopal, 1970 (3) SCC 866, M/s Joharmal Murlidhar and Co. vs. Agricultural Income Tax Officer, Assam and others, 1970 (3) SCC 331 and Shri S.M. Hasan, S.T.O. Jhansi and another vs. M/s New Gramophone House, Jhansi, (1976) 4 SCC 854 has categorically held that while assessing, on the basis of 'best judgement', the Assessing Authority has to make the assessment honestly and on the basis of an intelligent well-grounded estimate rather than upon pure surmises. The assessment so made while taking recourse to the 'best judgement assessment' should not be speculative or fanciful but on reasonable guess based upon the material available before the Assessing Authority.

18. In the present case, admittedly, the one tax invoice, which was found to be fake, was of Rs. 11,970/- and solely on the basis of the said invoice, the evaded sales has been assessed at Rs. 26,15,000/- i.e. 100% of the disclosed sales.

19. Considering the judgements placed by both the counsels, it is clear that the Assessing Authority is bound to act in a rational manner while resorting to best judgement assessment in view of the facts on record it is clear that only one bill of Rs. 11,570/- was available as material to assess the evaded sales. There was nothing more before the Assessing Authority to form an opinion that sales equal to the declared sales should be determined as evaded sales.

20. In view of the facts and circumstances and following the judgements cited by Standing Counsel in case of M/S Kapil Kumar & Brothers (supra), I hold that the evaded sales should be quantified as Rs. 2,61,500/- that is the 10% of the total disclosed sales for the purposes of determining in the tax liability.

21. The liability of payment of tax shall be calculated for the year 2014-15 treating evaded sales at Rs. 2,61,500/-.

22. Question of law no. 1, 2 and 3 are answered accordingly.

23. The revision is partly allowed.

(A) Civil Law - Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019: Section 124, 121, 123 - The words "amount payable" has been defined in Section 121(e) which is the arrears of Tax dues under Section 123 less the tax relief under Section 124. (Para 12) - Tax - Calculation of amount payable.

The balance amount determined by the designated authority and payable by the petitioner under Section 127, is in accordance with the provisions of Section 124(1)(c) read with Section 121(c)/(d) and (e) of the Act which does not suffer from any error of law. (para 13)

Writ Petition Rejected. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. & Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Shivam Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Shashi Prakash Singh, learned Assistant Solicitor General of India assisted by Sri Krishna Agarwal, learned counsel for Respondent No1 and Sri B.K. Singh Raghuwanshi, learned counsel for Respondent Nos.2 and 3.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs:

"(a) "certiorari" quashing and setting aside the circular dated 25.09.2019 (Annexure No.8) passed by the Designated Committee.

(b) "certiorari" quashing and setting aside the SVLDRS-3 dated 1.2.2020 (Annexure No.6) passed by the Designated Committee.

(c) mandamus directing the Designated Committee to accept the SVLDRS-1 Declaration (Annexure No.3) filed by the petitioner.

(d) Declaration that no amount of tax or duty or impost is payable by the petitioner.

(e) Mandamus directing the Respondents to grant the relief of remission on Rs.8,23,50,252/- in accordance with Section 124(1)(c) and grant deduction of pre-deposit thereafter.

(f) Issue any other Writ, order or direction in favour of the petitioner which this Hon'ble Court deems fit in the facts and circumstances of the case.

(g) Award cost of the petition to the petitioner."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits as under:

(i) Paragraph 2(iv) of the impugned circular dated 25.09.2019 is violative of the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 124 of The Finance (No.2) Act, 2019, inasmuch as it provides for the relief under Section 124(1)(c) of the said Act on the net outstanding amount whereas the amount for the purpose of relief has first to be determined on the basis of the original demand and thereafter the estimated amount/the amount payable has to be adjusted against the deposits made by the petitioner.

(ii) The amount determined by the Respondent No.2 in SVLDRS-3 is in breach of provisions of Section 124 (2) of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019.

4. Learned Additional Solicitor General of India and learned counsel for Respondent No.2 have supported the action of the respondents.

5. We have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties.

6. Provisions of Chapter V of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019, whereby "Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019" has been enacted; is an offer by the Government to settle tax arrears locked in litigation at a substantial discount. Section 124 Finance (No.2) Act 2019 provides the slabs of tax arrears and the discount slabs in percentage for payment by an applicant/declarant to settle the dispute. Section 125 provides that all persons shall be eligible to make a declaration under the Scheme except those mentioned in Clauses (a) to (h). Section 126 empowers the designated Committee to verify the correctness of the declaration made by the declarant under Section 125 in the manner as may be prescribed. Section 127 of the Act empowers the designated Committee to issue statement indicating the amount payable by the declarant and in the event the amount estimated by the designated Committee exceeds the amount declared by the declarant then the designated Committee shall afford an opportunity of hearing to the declarant and thereafter issue a statement in electronic form indicating the amount payable by the declarant. Thereafter, the declarant shall pay the amount through internet banking and on payment the designated committee shall issue a discharge certificate in electronic form within 30 days of the payment and production of proof. Sub-Section 6 and Sub-Section 7 of Section 127 provides for withdrawal or deemed withdrawal of Appeal, Revision, Reference or Writs relating to the matter in question. Section 129 provides for certain immunities to the declarant. Section 130 prohibits payment through input tax credit account, refunds and to take input tax credit of the amount deposited under the Scheme. Section 131 provides for removal of doubts and Section 134 provides for removal of difficulties. Section 132 empowers the Central Government to make Rules by notification to carry out the provisions of the Scheme. Section 133 empowers the Central Board of Indirect Taxes to issue orders, instructions etc. Section 135 provides for protection to the Officers.

7. Thus, perusal of the provisions of the Scheme briefly noted above, shows that the Scheme is a complete Code in itself. In substance, it is a scheme for recovery of duty/indirect tax to unlock the frozen assets and to recover the tax arrears at a discounted amount. Thus, "Sabka Vishwas Scheme", although a beneficial scheme for a declarant, is statutory in nature, which has been enacted with the object and purpose to minimise the litigation and to realise the arrears of tax by way of settlement at discounted amount in an expeditious manner. In other words the scheme is a step towards the settlement of outstanding disputed tax liability.

8. Provisions of Sections 121(c)/(d)/(e) and 124 are relevant for the purpose of present controversy, which are reproduced below:

"121. In this Scheme, unless the context otherwise requires,--

(a) x x x

(b) x x x

(c) "amount in arrears" means the amount of duty which is recoverable as arrears of duty under the indirect tax enactment, on account of--

(i) no appeal having been filed by the declarant against an order or an order in appeal before expiry of the period of time for filing appeal; or

(ii) an order in appeal relating to the declarant attaining finality; or

(iii) the declarant having filed a return under the indirect tax enactment on or before the 30th day of June, 2019, wherein he has admitted a tax liability but not paid it:

(d) "amount of duty" means the amount of central excise duty, the service tax and the cess payable under the indirect tax enactment;

(e) "amount payable" means the final amount payable by the declarant as determined by the designated committee and as indicated in the statement issued by it, in order to be eligible for the benefits under this Scheme and shall be calculated as the amount of tax dues less the tax relief;

x x x

124. (1) Subject to the conditions specified in sub-section (2), the relief available to a declarant under this scheme shall be calculated as follows:—

(a) where the tax dues are relatable to a show cause notice or one or more appeals arising out of such notice which is pending as on the 30th day of June, 2019, and if the amount of duty is--

(i) rupees fifty lakhs or less, than, seventy per cent of the tax dues;

(b) where the tax dues are relatable to a show cause notice for late fee or penalty only, and the amount of duty in the said notice has been paid or is nil, then, the entire amount of late fee or penalty;

(c) where the tax dues are relatable to an amount in arrears and,

(i) the amount of duty is, rupees fifty lakhs or less, then, sixty per cent of the tax dues;

(ii) the amount of duty is more than rupees fifty lakhs, then, forty per cent of the tax dues;

(iii) in a return under the indirect tax enactment, wherein the declarant has indicated an amount of duty as payable but not paid it and the duty amount indicated is,--

(A) rupees fifty lakhs or less, then, sixty per cent of the tax dues;

(B) amount indicated is more than rupees fifty lakhs, then, forty per cent of the tax dues;

(d) where the tax dues are linked to an enquiry, investigation or audit against the declarant and the amount quantified on or before the 30th day of June, 2019 is--

(i) rupees fifty lakhs or less, then, seventy per cent of the tax dues;

(ii) more than rupees fifty lakhs, then, fifty per cent of the tax dues;

(e) where the tax ones are payable on account of voluntary disclosure by the declarant, then, no relief shall be available with respect to tax dues.

(2) The relief calculated under sub-section (1) shall be subject to the condition that any amount paid as predeposit at any stage of appellate proceedings under the direct tax enactment or as deposit during enquiry, investigation or audit, shall be deducted when issuing the statement indicating the amount payable by the declarant;

Provided that if the amount of predeposit or deposit already paid by the declarant exceeds the amount payable by the declarant, as indicated in the statement issued by the designated committee, the declarant shall not be entitled to any refund."

9. Facts of the present case are that an order in original dated 29.03.2019 was passed by the Respondent No.3 against the petitioner confirming a demand of service tax of Rs. 4,53,63,720/-, Rs. 2,84,02,508/- and Rs. 85,84,024. The amount already deposited by the petitioner i.e. Rs. 3,64,81,370/- + Rs. 2,18,84,061/-, were appropriated by the order in original itself. Thus as per aforesaid order in original dated 29.03.2019 the amount of tax in arrear was Rs. 1,74,66,374/-. This amount was recoverable as arrears of duty under the indirect tax enactment. Thus, the aforesaid amount of Rs. 1,74,66,374/- is the "amount in arrears" under Section 121(c) of the Act.

10. The words "amount payable" has been defined in Section 121 (e) of the Act. It means the amount calculated by the authority as the amount of tax dues less the tax relief. Thus, the amount of tax dues being the amount in arrears in terms of provisions of Section 124(1)(c) read with Section 121(c) of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019 is the amount of duty which is in arrears as per order in original dated 29.03.2019 i.e. Rs. 1,74,66,374/-. Accordingly, it has been reflected in the SVLDRS-3, by the designated authority who computed the amount of tax relief under Section 124(1)(c) at Rs. 69,86,549.60. Thus, the balance amount as estimated amount payable has been determined at Rs. 1,04,79,824.40.

11. As per provisions of Section 124(1) the relief available to a declarant under the Scheme shall be calculated as per Clauses (a),(b),(c),(d) and (e). According to the petitioner Clause (c) is attracted to this case.

12. As per clause (c) the relief available to the petitioner/declarant under the Scheme was to be calculated on the amount of tax dues relatable to an "amount in arrears". The words "amount in arrears" has been defined in Section 121(c) of the Act 2019, to mean the amount of duty which is recoverable as arrears of duty under the indirect tax enactment on account of (i) no appeal having been filed by the declarant against an order or an order in appeal before expiry of the period of time for filing appeal; or (ii) an order in appeal relating to the declarant attaining finality; or (iii) the declarant having filed a return under the indirect tax enactment on or before the 30th day of June, 2019, wherein he has admitted a tax liability but not paid it. In the definition of the words "the amount in arrears" the words "amount of duty" has been used, which has been defined in Section 121(d) to mean the amount of central excise duty, the service tax and the cess payable under the indirect tax enactment. The words "amount payable" has been defined in Section 121(e). Thus, under the scheme the amount payable by a declarant is the arrears of Tax dues under Section 123 less the Tax relief under Section 124.

13. The amount in arrears as per order in original dated 29.03.2019 is Rs.1,74,66,374/-. The relief under Section 124 of the Act, 2019 "Sabka Vishwas Scheme" has been computed on the aforesaid amount in arrears. Accordingly, the Tax relief under Section 124(1)(c) has been given to the petitioner for Rs.69,86,549.60. The balance amount of Rs. 1,04,79,824.40 determined by the designated authority and payable by the petitioner under Section 127, is in accordance with the provisions of Section 124(1)(c) read with Section 121(c)/(d) and (e) of the Act which does not suffer from any error of law.

14. From the facts and the legal provisions as aforenoted neither the circular is in breach of the provisions of Section 124(1)(c) or sub-section (2) of Section 124 nor the amount estimated as per SVLDRS-3 dated 01.02.2020 suffers from any error of law

15. For all the reasons aforestated, we do not find any merit in this writ petition. Consequently, the Writ Petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

16. After this judgment was dictated in open Court, Sri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Advocate for the petitioner submits that the SVLDRS-3 was issued on 01.02.2020 but the petitioner could not deposit the amount due to COVID - 19 Pandemic and the pendency of the present writ petition. He, therefore, submits that the respondent no.2 may be directed to accept the payment of the amount determined by SVLDRS-3, within a time bound period.

17. Without issuing any direction in this regard, we leave it open to the petitioner to approach the respondent no.2 to make a request and the respondent no.2 shall be at liberty to consider the request in accordance with law. It is made clear that we have not issued any direction in this regard.

(A) Civil Law -Central Goods and Service Tax Act, 2017: Section 70, 83, 74(5) - CGST Rules, 2017: Rule 142(1A), 159(5) - Section 74(5) of the Act affords an opportunity to a person chargeable with tax, before service of notice under sub-section (1), to pay the amount of tax and interest under Section 50 and penalty of such tax on the basis of own ascertainment of such tax or the tax ascertained by the proper officer. The proper officer issued an intimation letter dated 22.07.2020 providing an opportunity to the petitioner to file an objection, but the petitioners have failed to do so. The impugned provisional attachment order has been issued by the competent authority under Section 83 of the Act, against which also the petitioner had the opportunity to file an objection under sub-Rule 5 or Rule 159 of the Rules, but they failed to file any objection.

Therefore, impugned orders cannot be said to suffer from any manifest error of law. (para 10, 11)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri B.K.Singh. Raghuvanshi, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying to quash the impugned orders dated 22.07.2020 and 05.02.2020 passed by the respondent no.2 in exercise of powers conferred under Section 83 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017. Petitioners have further prayed to issue a direction to the respondents concerned to release forthwith the provisional attachment of the current and saving bank account (Nos.) 306001010028200 and 3060020140796 respectively relating to PAN No.AAMPJ7368L in Union Bank of India, and also to release the FDR dated 24.10.2019 of Rs. 25 Lacs issued in the name of Principal Commissioner, CGST, Meerut in favour of the petitioners.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that as only show cause notice under Section 70 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 has been issued, the attachment under Section 83 of CGST Act can not be made. Consequently, the impugned orders of provisional attachment are bad and it is liable to be quashed.

4. We have carefully considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties.

5. From the record, we find that order dated 22.07.2020 was issued by the proper officer to the petitioners, informing GST DRC-01A under Section 74(5) of the Act, requiring the petitioners to deposit the ascertained amount of Rs. 69,67,729/- + interest @ 24%+ penalty @ 15% or to submit objection under Section 74(1) of the Act. An opportunity was also given by fresh notice so that petitioners may file an objection against the above ascertainment by 14.08.2020 in Part B of this Form.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners has stated that petitioners have not submitted any objection against the ascertainment dated 22.07.2020 issued by the proper officer, which was followed by the impugned provisional attachment order dated 22.07.2020 issued by the Assistant Commissioner, Central Goods and Service Tax Division-I , Meerut.

7. Aggrieved against the aforesaid provisional attachment, petitioners have filed the present writ petition.

8. From the record, it appears that petitioner No.1, M/s R.J. Exim purchased Readymade Garments worth Rs. 06,50,32,128/-involving IGST Rs.69,67,729/- from the supplier M/s Unimax Overseas, WZ-98, Lamba Complex Jwala Heri, Paschim Vihar, Delhi West. The aforesaid purchase was shown through six invoices, which were mentioned in the intimation of the proper officer dated 22.07.2020. Petitioners took credit of the aforesaid IGST amount of Rs. 69,67,729/-. On verification the aforesaid, M/s Unimax Overseas, WZ-98, Lamba Complex Jwala Heri, Paschim Vihar, Delhi West was found non existent.

9. For the purposes of controversy involved in the present writ petition, the provisions of Sections 74(5), Section 83, Rules 142 (1A) and Rule 159(5) of the CGST Act, 2017 relevant which are reproduced below:-

*"Section 74 - Determination of tax not paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed or utilised by reason of fraud or any wilful misstatement or suppression of facts

74 (5) The person chargeable with tax may, before service of notice under sub-section (1), pay the amount of tax along with interest payable under section 50 and a penalty equivalent to fifteen per cent. of such tax on the basis of his own ascertainment of such tax or the tax as ascertained by the proper officer and inform the proper officer in writing of such payment.

Section 83 - Provisional attachment to protect revenue in certain cases*

(1) Where during the pendency of any proceedings under section 62 or section 63 or section 64 or section 67 or section 73 or section 74, the Commissioner is of the opinion that for the purpose of protecting the interest of the Government revenue, it is necessary so to do, he may, by order in writing attach provisionally any property, including bank account, belonging to the taxable person in such manner as may be prescribed.

(2) Every such provisional attachment shall cease to have effect after the expiry of a period of one year from the date of the order made under sub-section (1).

Rule 142 (1A) The proper officer shall, before service of notice to the person chargeable with tax, interest and penalty, under sub-section (1) of Section 73 or sub-section (1) of Section 74, as the case may be, shall communicate the details of any tax, interest and penalty as ascertained by the said officer, in Part A of FORM GST DRC-01A.*

*(2) Where, before the service of notice or statement, the person chargeable with tax makes payment of the tax and interest in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (5) of section 73 or, as the case may be, tax, interest and penalty in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (5) of section 74, or where any person makes payment of tax, interest, penalty or any other amount due in accordance with the provisions of the Act, whether on his own ascertainment or, as communicated by the proper officer under sub-rule (1A), he shall inform the proper officer of such payment in FORM GST DRC-03 and the proper officer shall issue an acknowledgement, accepting the payment made by the said person in FORM GST DRC-04.

*(2A) Where the person referred to in sub-rule(1A) has made partial payment of the amount communicated to him or desires to file any submissions against the proposed liability, he may make such submission in Part B of FORM GST DRC-01A.

Rule 159 (5) Any person whose property is attached may, within seven days of the attachment under sub-rule (1), file an objection to the effect that the property attached was or is not liable to attachment, and the Commissioner may, after affording an opportunity of being heard to the person filing the objection, release the said property by an order in FORM GST DRC-23*."*

10. From the perusal of Section 74(5) of the Act, it is evident that a person chargeable with tax may, before service of notice under sub-section (1), pay the amount of tax and interest under Section 50 and penalty @ 15% of such tax on the basis of own ascertainment of such tax or the tax as ascertained by the proper officer and inform the proper officer in writing of such payment. The intimation dated 22.07.2020 issued by the proper officer to the petitioners is referable to Section 74(5) of the Act and Rule 142(1A) of the Rules. The proper officer afforded opportunity to the petitioners to file an objection, but the petitioners have not filed any objection.

11. The impugned Provisional attachment order has been issued by the competent authority under Section 83 of the Act for the purpose of protecting interest of the Government revenue. Against the order of Provisional attachment under Section 83(1) of the Act, the petitioners have an opportunity to file an objection under sub-Rule 5 of Rule 159 of the Rules. It has been admitted before us by learned counsel for the petitioners that the petitioners have not filed any objection against the impugned provisional attachment dated 22.07.2020. Therefore, the impugned orders cannot be said to suffer from any manifest error of law.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioners has relied upon a judgment of Punjab & Haryana High Court dated 20.12.2019 in CWP No. 31382 of 2019 (O&M) (Bindal Smelting Pvt. Ltd. Through its Director Versus Additional Director General, Directorate General of GST Intelligence) . Relevant para 10 of the judgment is reproduced below:-

"10. Applying the above quoted provisions of CGST Act, 2017 and taking cue from afore-cited judgments of Gujarat High Court, which has noticed consistent judicial pronouncement and Bombay High Court, we find that in the present case attached account is Over Cash Credit account and Petitioner had debit balance of Rs.6.42 Crore, thus question arises that whether continuation of attachment would protect interest of revenue or not. The Petitioner is running unit and more than 100 families are dependent upon Petitioner. Till date no proceedings under Section 74 of CGST Act are pending which would start as soon as show cause notice is issued. The Respondent has seized record of the Petitioner who has further supplied various documents as well put personal appearance through Directors and employees.

The object and intention of legislature to endow Commissioner with power of attachment under Section 83 is very clear. It is drastic and far-reaching power which must be used sparingly and only on substantive weighty grounds and reasons. The power should be exercised only to protect interest of revenue and not to ruin business of any taxable person. Primarily Section 83 permits to attach property. Property means an asset which may be movable, immovable, tangible, intangible or in the form of some instrument. Cash in hand as well bank account is property, in the form of liquidity which is better than immovable property and directly affects working in the form of working capital of a dealer. A dealer may be having 15 of 17 CWP No.31382 of 2019(O&M) #16# cash in hand or in account in the form of fixed deposit or saving account. The mandate of Section 83 in our considered opinion is to attach amount lying in an account in the form of FDR or saving and it cannot be intention or purport of Section 83 to attach an account having debit balance. No purpose leaving aside securing interest of revenue is going to be achieved except closure of business which cannot be permitted unless and until running of business itself is prohibited by law. The contention of Respondent that they have power to attach bank account irrespective of nature of account cannot be countenanced.

We are of the opinion that Respondent can attach an account only if there is some balance in the form of FDR or savings. The power of attachment of bank account cannot be exercised as per whims and caprices of the Authority. The Commissioner is bound to ensure that by attachment of property or bank account, interest of revenue is going to be protected. In case a property is mortgaged with bank and value of property is less than outstanding dues of bank, provisional attachment is meaningless and action remains only on paper. In the absence of record showing that interest of revenue is protected by attaching property or bank account, action deserves to be declared as taken without application of mind and formation of opinion on the basis of cogent material*. Thus, attachment of current account having debit balance does not protect interest of revenue, instead merely ruins the business of a dealer. Such an action of attachment of "over cash credit" account for the sake of recovery of confirmed demand, may in some peculiar case, may be still permitted but not at the stage of pending investigation".*

13. In the aforesaid judgment, it is mentioned that the OCC account utilizing credit limit to the tune of Rs. 6.42 Crore was attached and there was debit balance of Rs. 6.42 Crore. On these facts it was held in para 10 of judgment that mandate of section 83 is to attach amount lying in an account in the form of FDR or saving and it cannot be intention or purport of Section 83 to attach an account having debit balance. In the present set of facts, the saving bank account of the petitioners being account Nos. 30600101002800 and 3060020140796 relating to PAN No.AAMPJ7368L in Union Bank of India have been attached. Thus, the aforesaid judgment relied by learned counsel for the petitioners has no bearing on facts of the present case.

14. The judgment dated 17.01.2020 of Bombay High Court in Writ Petition No. 3145 of 2019 (Kaish Impex Private Limited through its Director Vs. The Union of India, through the Secretary, Department of Legal Affairs, Ministry of Law & Judge and others) relied by the learned counsel for the petitioners, also does not support the case of the petitioners. Relevant para 12 of the aforesaid judgment is reproduced below:-

"Para 12. The judgment order dated 22 October, 2019 proceeds on the assertion that proceedings have been launched against the petitioner under Section 67 and 70 of the Act. As far as section 67, i.e. search is concerned, it is an uncontroverted position that no proceedings have been initiated against the petitioner under section 67 of the Act. On the date of provisional attachment of the bank account, only a summon under of the Act was issued to the petitioner. Section 70 is not mentioned in Section 83 of the Act. No proceedings were pending against the petitioner under section 62, 63, 64,73 and 74 of the Act. Thus the petitioner contends that power under section 83 could not have been invoked against the petitioner".

15. Perusal of the aforesaid judgment in the case of Kaish Impex Pvt. Ltd.(Supra) shows that provisional attachment order was issued on the ground that proceedings under Sections 67 and Section 70 of the Act have been launched but in fact, it was found that no proceeding was initiated under Section 83 of the Act and only summon was issued for provisional attachment of the bank account. On these facts, provisional attachment was held to be bad. The facts of the present case are entirely different.

16. The judgment dated 17.12.2019 of Gujarat High Court at Ahmedabad in R/Special Civil Application No. 19533 of 2019 (Kushal Ltd. Versus Union of India) relied by the learned counsel for the petitioners, also does not support the case of the petitioners. Relevant para 14 of the aforesaid judgment is reproduced below:-

"Para 14. On a plain reading of section 83 of the GST Acts, it is clear that a sine qua non for exercise of powers thereunder is that proceedings should be pending under section 62 or section 63 or section 64 or section 67 or section 73 or section 74 of the GST Acts. In the present case, the proceedings under section 67 of the GST Acts are no longer pending and pursuant to the search, proceedings under any of the other sections mentioned in Section 83 have not been initiated. Under the circumstances, on the date when the orders of provisional attachment came to be made, the basic requirement for exercise of powers under section 83 of the GST Acts was not satisfied. The provisional attachment of the bank accounts of the petitioners under section 83 of the GST acts is, therefore, not in consonance with the provisions thereof and cannot be sustained."

17. In the aforesaid judgment in the case of Kaushal Ltd. (Supra), it was held that no proceeding under Section 67 of the Act was pending and, therefore, provisional attachment was held to be bad. In the present case, facts are entirely different.

18. In Judgment dated 09.09.2020 of Punjab and Haryana High Court at Chandigarh in CWP No. 11961 of 2020 (O&M) , Court as a matter of fact had found that on the date of Provisional attachment order under Section 83 of the Act, proceedings under Section 67 of the Act were over. On these facts, the Court found the attachment order to be bad. Thus, this judgment is also distinguishable on facts of the present case.

19. For all the reasons stated above, we do not find any merits in this writ petition. Consequently, the writ petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

(A) Civil Law - Central Excise Act, 1944: Section 2(d), 2(f)(ii) ad Fourth Schedule - Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019: Section 125 - CGST/UPGST Act, 2017: Section 9 - GST may be levied even on such goods which are exercisable goods under the Central Excise Act, 1944. Therefore, Superior Kerosene Oil (SKO) shall continue to be exercisable goods under the Central Excise Act, 1944 even if GST on supply of Kerosene Oil (PDS) is levied under the GST laws. (Para 17)

Perusal of the Fourth Schedule to the Central Excise Act, 1944 and the provisions of Section 2(d) read with Section 2(f)(ii) leaves no manner of doubt that Super Kerosene Oil (SKO) is exercisable goods under the Central Excise Act, 1944, even if no rate of duty has been notified by the Central Government under the Act, 1944. Section 125(1)(h) of the Sabka Vishwas Scheme specifically excludes applicability of Scheme with respect to exercisable gods set forth in the Fourth Schedule to the Central Excise Act, 1944. Therefore ,the petitioner was not eligible to make a declaration under Scheme in view of Section 125 of the Finance Act, 2019. (Para 18). (E-8)

2. This writ petition has been filed for the following relief:-

"(a) Certiorari quashing and setting aside the SVLDRS-3 dated 26.2.2020 (Annexure No.12) passed by the Designated Committee;

(b) Mandamus directing the Designated Committee to accept the SVLDRS-1 Declaration (Annexure No.8) filed by the petitioner.

3. This writ petition was heard at length on 20.11.2020 and the submissions made by learned counsels for the parties were noted.

Submission on behalf of the petitioner

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted as under :-

(i) A show cause notice dated 17.10.2007 under the Central Excise Act, 1944 was issued to the petitioner for excise duty of Rs.2,96,99,001/- not paid for the period from 01.11.2002 to 31.03.2005. Penalty was also sought to be imposed under Section 11-A of the Central Excise Act 1944 read with Rule 25 of the Central Excise Rules, 2002.

(ii) A scheme known as "Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019" was enacted by Finance (No.2) Act, 2019. Section 124 of the Finance Act, 2019 provides that tax dues relatable to a show cause notice pending as on 30.06.2019 for more than Rs. 50 lacs shall be available to a declarant to give him relief of 50% of the tax dues. Section 125(1)(h) of the Act 2019 provides that persons seeking to make declaration with respect to excisable goods set forth in the 4th Schedule to the Central Excise Act, 1944 shall not be eligible to make a declaration under this scheme. Disputed commodity i.e. SKO is mentioned in the 4th Schedule of the Central Excise Act as amended by Taxation Laws (Amendment) Act, 2017 (No.18 of 2017) whereby the 2nd Schedule to the Central Excise Tariff Act was renumbered with certain modifications as 4th Schedule, but inclusion of SKO in the 4th Schedule to the Central Excise Act is not permissible inasmuch as after amendment of entry 84 of List 1 of the 7th Schedule to the Constitution of India, the parliament has power to impose Central Excise duty only in respect of 5 items, namely, petroleum crude, high speed diesel oil, motor spirit, natural gas aviation turbine fuel and tobacco and tobacco products which does not include SKO. Therefore, the SKO could not have been included in the 4th Schedule.

(iii) The application of the petitioner for taking benefit of the aforesaid scheme has been arbitrarily rejected by impugned communication dated 26.02.2020 on the ground that as per Section 125 (1)(h) of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019 the product i.e. SKO is set forth in the 4th Schedule of Central Excise Tariff Act, 1944 and, therefore, the application to avail benefits of SVLDRS scheme can not be accepted.

(iv) Since SKO is not an excisable goods. Therefore, the petitioner could not have been denied the benefit of SVLDRS scheme by the impugned order/communication dated 26.02.2020.

(v) In view of the amended entry 84 of list 1 of the 7th Schedule of the Constitution (one hundred and 1st Amendment) Act, 2016, the 4th Schedule to the Central Excise Tariff Act mentioning therein SKO by the Taxation Laws (Amendment) Act, 2017 (No.18 of 2017) is violative of Section 174 of the Central GST Act which has repealed the Central Excise Act except with respect to the matters provided in the amended entry 84 of list 1 of the 7th Schedule.

(vi) Since GST is being charged as mentioned in the 4th Schedule (List of goods at 5% rate) at Serial No.164 on "Kerosene PDS", therefore, the existence of SKO (Super Kerosene Oil) in the 4th Schedule to the Central Excise Act showing rate of duty as nil, can not be continued under the Central Excise Tariff Act.

Submission on behalf of the respondents

5. Sri Gaurav Mahajan, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 2 & 3 supports the action of the respondents and the impugned order. He further submits that proper procedure was followed before rejecting the application of the petitioner.

6. Sri Gaurav Mahajan, further submits that SKO continues to be an excisable goods falling under the 4th Schedule of the Central Excise Act.

Facts

7. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the petitioner is engaged in the manufacturing and clearance of various petroleum products falling under Chapter 27 of the Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as "the Tariff Act"). During the period 01.11.2002 to 31.03.2005 petitioner paid Central Excise duty on the basis of Central Excise invoice in which value was shown much lower than actual price recovered by the petitioner from the buyers as per the commercial invoices in respect of Superior Kerosene Oil (SKO). Consequently, a show cause notice dated 17.10.2007 under Section 11 of the Central Excise Act, 1944 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act 1944") was issued to the petitioner by the Commissioner of Central Excise, Lucknow, requiring them to show cause as to why Central Excise duty amounting to Rs.2,96,99,001/- short paid for the period from 01.11.2002 to 31.03.2005 may not be recovered under Section 11-A and penalty under Section 11-AC of the Act, 1944 read with Rule 25 of the Central Excise Rules, 2002, be not imposed. The petitioner submitted reply dated 17.12.2007 in which the petitioner admitted lower amount shown in the Central Excise invoices and higher amount shown in the commercial invoices but took the stand that subsidy received from the Government will not form part of the value for the purposes of payment of Central Excise Duty. According to the petitioner final order has not yet been passed pursuant to the aforesaid show cause notice. In the mean time, the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019 enacted "Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019" (hereinafter referred to as "Sabka Vishwas Scheme") which was applied to demands under several enactments including Central Excise Act, 1944. Section 124 of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019, provides for relief available under the Scheme. Section 125 provides that all persons shall be eligible to make a declaration under the Scheme except classes of persons provided in Clauses (a) to (h). Relevant Clause (h) of Section 125 (1) of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019 i.e. Sabka Vishwas Scheme is reproduced below:-

*"Section 125 Declaration under Scheme

(1) All persons shall be eligible to make a declaration under this Scheme except the following, namely :-

(a) ....

(b) ....

(d) ....

(e) ....

(f) ....

(g) ....

(h) Persons seeking to make declarations with respect to excisable goods set forth in the Fourth Schedule to the Central Excise Act, 1944 (1 of 1944)."

8. Rule 3 of the "Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme Rules, 2019" (hereinafter referred to as "Sabka Vishwas Rules") provides for declaration under Section 125 electronically. Rule 4 provides for auto acknowledgment. Rule 6 provides for verification of declaration by the designated committee and issue of estimates etc. in Form No. SVLDRS - 3.

9. The designated committee issued the impugned communication dated 26.02.2020 to the petitioner with the remarks as under :-

"As per Section 125 (h) of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019, the product i.e. SKO is set forth in the Fourth Schedule of Central Excise Tariff Act, 1944, therefore, the application to avail benefits of SVLDRS Scheme can not be accepted*"* .

10. Aggrieved with the aforesaid communication, the petitioner has filed the present writ petition.

Discussion and Findings

11. By the constitution (One Hundred and First Amendment) Act 2016, dated 08.09.2016, Article 246-A was inserted providing for Special Provision with respect to goods and service Tax. By Section 17 of same Amendment Act, the 7th Schedule to the Constitution was amended by substituting in list -1 - Union List, the entry 84 as under :-

Entry 84 of List - 1 - Union List

12. Duties of excise on the following goods manufactured or produced in India, namely :-

"(a) Petroleum Crude; (b) High Speed Diesel; (c) Motor Spirit (commonly known as petrol); (d) natural gas (e) aviation turbine fuel; and (f) tobacco and tobacco products."

13. In K.C. Sachdeva Vs. State 1976 Cri.L.J. 1208(para 4) learned Single Judge has observed that the "Petroleum" includes "Kerosene. In its own case i.e. in Indian Oil Corporation Limited Vs. Commissioner of Central Excise Vadodara (2010) 12 SCC 750 Hon"ble Supreme Court while referring to the Chapter heading 27 of the erstwhile Central Excise Tariff Act 1985 and Notification No.5/98-CE dated 2.6.1998 and Notification No.5/99-CE dated 28.2.1999 noticed the Notification in which it is mentioned that "Kerosene" is any hydro carbon oil (excluding Colza Oil and white spirit) which has a smoke point of 18 mm or more.

14. It appears that on account of the one hundred and First constitution Amendment Act, 2016, the Goods and Service Tax laws were enacted and Central Excise Act, 1944 was also amended by Act 18 of 2017. By Section 174 of the Central Goods and Service Tax Act, 2017 assented by the President on 12.04.2017 and enforced w.e.f. 01.07.2017 certain enactments including the Central Excise Act, 1944 (except as respects goods included in entry 84 of the Union List of the 7th Schedule to the Constitution) and the Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985, have been repealed with a saving clause in sub - Section (2).

15. By Act 18 of 2017 (w.e.f. 01.07.2017) several amendments were made in the Central Excise Act, 1944. The relevant amended provisions for the purposes of the present case are Section 2(d), Section 2(f) (ii) and the Fourth Schedule to the Act. The Fourth Schedule has been substituted with reference to the provisions of Section 2(d) and Section 2(f)(ii) of the Act, 1944. Section 2(d) and 2(f)(ii) are reproduced below:-

"Section 2(d)

"Excisable goods*" means "goods" specified in the* Fourth Schedule as being subject to a duty of excise and includes salt.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this clause, "goods" includes any article, material or substance which is capable of being bought and sold for a consideration and such goods shall be deemed to be marketable"

Section 2(f)(ii)

"Manufacture" includes any process -

(i) .....

(ii) .....which is specified in relation to any goods in the section or Chapter notes of the Fourth Schedule as amounting to manufacture; or

(iii)..... and the word "manufacturer" shall be construed accordingly and shall include not only a person who employs hired labour in the production or manufacture of excisable goods, but also any person who engages in their production or manufacture on his own account."

16. Section 3 of the Act, 1944 as amended by Act 18 of 2017 is the charging Section. It provides for leavy and collection of duty of excise to be called Central Value Added Tax (CENVAT) on all excisable goods which are produced or manufactured in India, at the rates set forth in the Fourth Schedule. Sub-Section 3 of Section 3 empowers the Central Government to provide by Notification rates of duty and tariff values with respect to the articles enumerated in the Fourth Schedule. Thus, all the items which are enumerated in the Fourth Schedule are excisable goods in terms of the provisions of Section 2(d), read with Section 2(f) and are liable to duty at the notified rates under the charging Section 3 of the Act.

17. "Manufacture" is the taxable event under the Central Excise Act, 1944 while under Section 9 of the CGST Act/UPGST Act, the event of taxation is the supply of goods or services except the supply of alcoholic liquor for human consumption. Sub-Section 2 of Section 9 of the CGST Act/UPGST Act empowers to levy tax on supply of petroleum crude, high speed diesel oil, motor spirit, natural gas and aviation turbine fuel shall be levied with effect from such date as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council. Thus, GST may be levied even on such goods which are excisable goods under the Central Excise Act, 1944. Therefore, Superior Kerosene Oil (SKO) shall continue to be an excisable goods under the Central Excise Act, 1944 even if GST on supply of Kerosene Oil (PDS) is levied under the GST laws.

18. Perusal of the Fourth Schedule to the Central Excise Act, 1944 and the provisions of Section 2(d) read with Section 2(f)(ii) leaves no manner of doubt that Superior Kerosene Oil is an excisable goods under the Central Excise Act, 1944, even if no rate of duty has been notified by the Central Government under the Act, 1944. Section 125(1)(h) of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019 (Sabka Vishwas Scheme) specifically excludes applicability of the "Sabka Vishwas Scheme" with respect to excisable goods set forth in the Fourth Schedule to the Central Excise Act 1944. Since the 'SKO" is an excisable goods set forth in the Fourth Schedule to the Central Excise Act, 1944, therefore, the petitioner was not eligible to make a declaration under the Scheme in view of Section 125 of the Finance (No.2) Act 2019.

19. Perusal of the Fourth Schedule shows that against the goods Superior Kerosene Oil "....." is appearing under the column rate of duty. Clause 4 of the additional notes to the Fourth Schedule provides that "....." against any goods denotes that Central Excise Duty under this Schedule is not leviable on such goods. It means that S.K.O. is an excisable goods as defined in Section 2(d) read with Section 2(f) and Section 3 (Charging Section) of the Central Excise Act, 1944 but presently no duty is leviable in the absence of rate of duty in the Fourth Schedule to the Act, 1944.

20. Thus, if the "additional notes" to the Fourth Schedule is read together with Section 2(d), Section 2(f)(ii), Section 3 of the Act, 1944 and Section 125 (1) (h) of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019, it is clear that Section 125(1)(h) merely makes a person not eligible for declaration with respect to the excisable goods which are set forth in the Fourth Schedule to the Act, 1944.

21. Undisputedly, Superior Kerosene Oil is mentioned in the Fourth Schedule although no rate of duty has been provided. If rate of duty has not been provided it shall merely mean that no duty is leviable in the absence of rate of duty. It does not mean that such goods are not excisable. All the goods mentioned in Fourth Schedule to the Act, 1944 shall continue to be excisable goods unless the goods is removed from the Schedule by an amendment. Section 174 of the CGST Act has not repealed the Central Excise Act, 1944 as respect to the goods included in entry 84 of the Union List of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution. The Central Excise Act, 1944 as amended by Act 18 of 2017 has been enacted with respect to the goods included in entry 84 of the Union List of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution which includes S.K.O.

22. The petitioner has sought the relief No. (c) and (d) to delete SKO from the Fourth Schedule of Central Excise Tariff Act, 1944. There is no such Act. The relief sought is without substance. Apart from this, inclusion of SKO in the Fourth Schedule of the Act, 1944 is not violative of Section 174 of the CGST Act, 2017, for detailed reasons given in the foregoing paragraphs.

23. "Sabka Vishwas Scheme" is a complete code in itself. An earlier scheme known as "Kar Vivad Samadhan" scheme was considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India Vs. Nitdip Textile Processors Pvt. Ltd. 2011 (273) ELT 321 (SC) : (2012)1 SCC 226 and it was held that such a scheme is a complete code in itself.

24. Provisions in Chapter V of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019, whereby "Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019" has been enacted; is an offer by the Government to settle tax arrears locked in litigation at a substantial discount. Section 124 Finance (No.2) Act 2019 provides the slabs of tax arrears and the discount slabs in percentage for payment by an applicant/declarant to settle the dispute. Section 125 provides that all persons shall be eligible to make a declaration under the Scheme except those mentioned in Clauses (a) to (h). Section 126 empowers the designated Committee to verity the correctness of the declaration made by the declarant under Section 125 in the manner as may be prescribed. Section 127 of the Act empowers the designated Committee to issue statement indicating the amount payable by the declarant and in the event the amount estimated by the designated Committee exceeds the amount declared by the declarant then the designated Committee shall afford an opportunity of hearing to the declarant and thereafter issue a statement in electronic form indicating the amount payable by the declarant. Thereafter, the declarant shall pay the amount through internet banking and on payment, the designated committee shall issue a discharge certificate in electronic form within 30 days of the payment and production of proof. Sub-Section 6 and Sub-Section 7 of Section 127 provides for withdrawal or deemed withdrawal of Appeal, Revision, Reference or Writs relating to the matter in question. Section 129 provides for certain immunities to the declarant. Section 130 prohibits payment through input tax credit account, refunds and to take input tax credit of the amount deposited under the Scheme. Section 131 provides for removal of doubts. Section 134 provides for removal of difficulties. Section 132 empowers the Central Government to make Rules by notification to carry out the provisions of the Scheme. Section 133 empowers the Central Board of Indirect Taxes to issue orders, instructions etc. Section 135 provides for protection to the Officers.

25. Thus, perusal of the provisions of the Scheme briefly noted above, shows that the Scheme is a complete Code in itself. In substance, it is a scheme for recovery of duty/indirect tax to unlock the frozen assets and recover the tax arrears at a discounted amount. Thus, "Sabka Vishwas Scheme", although a beneficial scheme for a declarant, is statutory in nature which has been enacted with the object and purpose to minimise the litigation and to realise the arrears of tax by way of settlement at discounted amount in an expeditious manner. In other words the scheme is a step towards the settlement of outstanding disputed tax liability.

26. The discussion made in the foregoing paragraphs leaves no manner of doubt that the petitioner/declarant could avail benefit of the "Sabka Vishwas Scheme" only in accordance with the provisions of the Scheme. Section 125(1)(h) of the Act 2019/"Sabka Vishwas Scheme" has specifically excluded persons seeking to make declarations with respect to excisable goods set forth in the Fourth Schedule to the Central Excise Act, 1944. Undisputedly, S.K.O. is an excisable goods set forth in the Fourth Schedule to the Act, 1944. The petitioner was not eligible to make a declaration under the "Sabka Vishwas Scheme" with respect to "S.K.O.". Therefore, non acceptance of the declaration of the petitioner by the respondents does not suffer from any manifest error of law.

27. For all the reasons aforestated, we do not find any merit in this writ petition. Consequently, the Writ Petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

(A) Civil Law - Motor Vehicle Act, 1988: Section 48 - Central Motor Vehicle Rules,

1989: Rule 58, 59 - No Objection Certificate - Change in residence

A conjoint reading of the provisions indicates that an application by the owner o a motor vehicle for issuance of a No Objection Certificate (NOC) under Section 48 is to be made in the prescribed Form-28 and the said endorsement of grant or refusal of No Objection Certificate is valid for use before the Registration Authority on whom it is issued. In The present case, the NOC having been issued on the Registering Authority at Gorakhpur, the same would be valid for use only before the Registering Authority mentioned in the endorsement made under Part III of Form i.e., the Registering Authority, Gorakhpur and as per the relevant Rules, the same cannot be held to be valid for use before any other Registering Authority. Therefore, under these circumstances, the petitioner my either apply for correction of the NOC issued by the Registering Authority or make an application for issuance of a fresh registration certificate-containing an endorsement showing that it is valid for use before the Registering Authority at Deoria. (para 8-11)

Writ Petition Rejected. (E-8)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. & Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri B.D. Misra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Mata Prasad, learned special standing counsel for the State-respondents.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:

"(i) to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus directing the respondent no.3 to change the address of petitioner in his Registration Certificate of vehicle No.NL03 B1013 (Bus) and accept the due Road Tax with minimum penalty as per law."

3. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the motor vehicle of the petitioner was registered by the Government of Nagaland and a certificate of registration dated 22.03.2013 had been issued by the Registering Authority, District Transport Office, Tuensang, Nagaland. Subsequently, the petitioner shifted to District Deoria in the State of U.P. and applied for a No Objection Certificate to the Registering Authority at Tuensang, Nagaland.

4. Upon the aforesaid application, the Registering Authority granted the No Objection Certificate in the prescribed form wherein the Registering Authority upon whom the No Objection Certificate was issued, was shown as "RA Gorakhpur". On the basis of the aforementioned No Objection Certificate, the petitioner applied for recording a change in the residence in the certificate of registration of the motor vehicle before the Registering Authority at Deoria. The petitioner contends that the application submitted for change in residence accompanied by the No Objection Certificate issued to the Registering Authority at Gorakhpur is not being accepted by the Registering Authority at Deoria and for the said grievance, the present writ petition has been filed.

5. Learned standing counsel submits that No Objection Certificate having been issued to the Registering Authority at Gorakhpur, on the own application made by the petitioner before the Registering Authority at Tuensang, Nagaland, the said certificate is valid for use only before the Registering Authority on whom it is issued i.e. the Registering Authority at Gorakhpur, and for the said reason, unless the petitioner obtains a No Objection Certificate valid for use before the Registering Authority at Deoria, the application for change in residence cannot be accepted by the Registering Authority at Deoria.

6. In order to appreciate rival contentions, the relevant statutory provisions with regard to issuance of a No Objection Certificate under Section 48 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, may be referred to. For ease of reference, Section 48 of the Act, 1988 is being extracted below:

"48. No objection certificate.--

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle when applying for the assignment of a new registration mark under sub-section (1) of section 47, or where the transfer of a motor vehicle is to be effected in a State other than the State of its registration, the transferor of such vehicle when reporting the transfer under sub-section (1) of section 50, shall make an application in such form and in such manner as may be prescribed by the Central Government to the registering authority by which the vehicle was registered for the issue of a certificate (hereafter in this section referred to as the no objection certificate), to the effect that the registering authority has no objection for assigning a new registration mark to the vehicle or, as the case may be, for entering the particulars of the transfer of ownership in the certificate of registration.

(2) The registering authority shall, on receipt of an application under sub-section (1), issue a receipt in such form as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(3) On receipt of an application under sub-section (1), the registering authority may, after making such inquiry and requiring the applicant to comply with such directions as it deems fit and within thirty days of the receipt thereof, by order in writing, communicate to the applicant that it has granted or refused to grant the no objection certificate:

Provided that a registering authority shall not refuse to grant the no objection certificate unless it has recorded in writing the reasons for doing so and a copy of the same has been communicated to the applicant.

(4) Where within a period of thirty days referred to in sub-section (3), the registering authority does not refuse to grant the no objection certificate or does not communicate the refusal to the applicant, the registering authority shall be deemed to have granted the no objection certificate.

(5) Before granting or refusing to grant the no objection certificate, the registering authority shall obtain a report in writing from the police that no case relating to the theft of the motor vehicle concerned has been reported or is pending, verify whether all the amounts due to Government including road tax in respect of that motor vehicle have been paid and take into account such other factors as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(6) The owner of the vehicle shall also inform at the earliest, in writing, the registering authority about the theft of his vehicle together with the name of the police station where the theft report was lodged, and the registering authority shall take into account such report while disposing of any application for no objection certification, registration, transfer of ownership or issue of duplicate registration certificate."

7. The procedure for making an application for issue of No Objection certificate under Section 48 is prescribed under Rule 58 of the Central Motor Vehicle Rules, 1989 and as per terms thereof, the application is to be made in the prescribed Form-28. The application for recording change in residence in the certificate of registration of a motor vehicle is to be made in Form-33 as provided under Rule 59 of the Rules, 1989. For ready reference, the Rules 58 and 59 are reproduced below:

"58. No objection certificate. - (1) An application for the issue of a no objection certificate under section 48 in respect of a motor vehicle shall be made in Form 28 to the registering authority by which the vehicle was previously registered, accompanied by

(a) the certified copy of the certificate of registration;

(b) the certified copy of the certificate of insurance;

(c) evidence of payment of motor vehicle tax up-to-date;

(d) where no tax is payable for a certain period a certificate from the tax collecting authority that no tax is due from the vehicle for the said period.

(2) In the case of a transport vehicle, in addition to the documents referred to in sub-rule (1), documentary evidence in respect of the following matters shall also be furnished, namely:

(a) that the vehicle is not covered by any permit issued by any transport authority;

(b) that the sum of money agreed upon to be paid by the holder of the permit under sub-sections (5) and (6) of section 86, if any, is not pending recovery;

(c) evidence of payment of tax on passengers and goods under any law for the time being in force up to the date of application for a no objection certificate.

(3) On receipt of an application under sub-rule (1), the registering authority shall fill Part III of Form 28 and return that part to the applicant duly signed.

(4) Where the registering authority grants or refuses to grant the no objection certificate, it shall return the duplicate copy of the said Form to the applicant and the triplicate copy to the other registering authority after duly filling and signing Part II thereof.

59. Change in residence.- An application for recording a change in the residence in the certificate of registration of a motor vehicle shall be made by the owner of the vehicle in Form 33 accompanied by the certificate of registration and proof of address in the manner specified in rule 4 and the appropriate fee as specified in rule 81."*

8. A conjoint reading of the aforementioned provisions indicates that an application by the owner of a motor vehicle for issuance of a No Objection Certificate under Section 48 is to be made in the prescribed Form-28. The office endorsement regarding grant or refusal of "No Objection Certificate" under Section 48 is to be made in Part-III of the prescribed Form-28 and the said endorsement of grant or refusal of No Objection Certificate is valid for use before the Registering Authority on whom it is issued.

9. In the instant case, upon the application submitted by the petitioner in Form-28 to the Registering Authority at Tuensang, Nagaland, the office endorsement made under Part-III of the prescribed Form-28 indicates that the No Objection Certificate was issued showing the Registering Authority, Gorakhpur as the authority on whom it was issued.

10. The No Objection Certificate having thus been issued on the Registering Authority at Gorakhpur, the same would be valid for use only before the Registering Authority mentioned in the endorsement made under Part-III of Form-28, i.e. the Registering Authority, Gorakhpur and as per the relevant Rules, the same cannot be held to be valid for use before any other Registering Authority.

11. Under the aforesaid circumstances, the petitioner may either apply for correction of the No Objection Certificate issued by the Registering Authority or make an application for issuance of a fresh registration certificate containing an endorsement showing that it is valid for use before the Registering Authority at Deoria, as per the statutory provisions referred to above.

12. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is dismissed.

(A) Civil Law - U.P. G.S.T. Act, 2017: Section 129 - By virtue of the deeming provision under sub-section (5) of Section 129 all the proceedings in respect of the notice specified under sub-section (3) shall be deemed to be concluded on deposition of entire amount of tax and penalty determined in the penalty order. (Para 15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surya Prakash Kesarwani, J. & Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Suyash Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri C.B. Tripathi, learned Special Counsel for respondent no.1.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for following reliefs :-

"I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the order no.731 dated 15.2.2018 passed by Respondent no.1 u/s 129(3) of the UPGST Act (Annexure No. 6)

II Issue a writ, order or direction in nature of certiorari quashing GST DRC-07 dated 18.9.2020 (Annexure-9)

III. Issue any other writ, order or direction in favour of the petitioner which this Hon'ble Court deems fit in the facts and circumstances of the case.

IV. Award cost of the petition to the petitioner."

3. Pleadings of the writ petition indicate that the goods and vehicle of the petitioner were intercepted on 11.2.2018 on the ground that the goods in question were being transported without E-Way Bill and a notice under Section 129(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017

(hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 2017") was issued specifying the tax and penalty payable. Thereafter, an order for payment of tax of Rs.1,01,844/- and equivalent amount of penalty, total Rs. 2,03,688/-, was passed under Section 129(3) of the Act, 2017.

4. The petitioner claims to have deposited the amount of tax and penalty vide demand draft dated 14.2.2018 and despite the same, an order in FORM GST DRC-07 dated 18.9.2020 has been received by the petitioner showing the details of demand in respect of tax and penalty determined under Section 129 of the Act, 2017. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that left with no other remedy, the present writ petition has been filed.

5. Learned counsel appearing for respondent no.1 submits that the order dated 15.2.2018 passed under Section 129(3) of the Act, 2017, has attained finality and the same cannot be assailed at this stage. He further submits that the writ petition is barred by laches and is not liable to be entertained for this reason. Further, submission is made that since the petitioner claims to have deposited the entire amount of interest and penalty by means of a demand draft dated 14.2.2020, in view of the provisions contained under sub-section (5) of Section 138 of the Act, 2017, all proceedings in respect of the notice under Section 129(3) shall be deemed to be concluded.

6. Learned counsel for the State respondent submits that in the event the petitioner has actually deposited the amount towards tax and penalty determined in terms of the order dated 15.2.2018 under Section 129(3) of the Act, 2017, he may apply for a rectification of the order uploaded in FORM GST DRC-07 alongwith proof of having made the payment pursuant to the demand pertaining to tax and penalty.

7. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. In order to appreciate the contention of the parties, the relevant statutory provision under Section 129 of the Act, 2017, which provides for detention, seizure and release of goods and conveyances in transit may be referred to. Section 129 reads as follows :-

"129. Detention, seizure and release of goods and conveyances in transit.--(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, where any person transports any goods or stores any goods while they are in transit in contravention of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder, all such goods and conveyance used as a means of transport for carrying the said goods and documents relating to such goods and conveyance shall be liable to detention or seizure and after detention or seizure, shall be released, --

(a) on payment of the applicable tax and penalty equal to one hundred per cent of the tax payable on such goods and, in case of exempted goods, on payment of an amount equal to two per cent. of the value of goods or twenty-five thousand rupees, whichever is less, where the owner of the goods comes forward for payment of such tax and penalty;

(b) on payment of the applicable tax and penalty equal to the fifty per cent. of the value of the goods reduced by the tax amount paid thereon and, in case of exempted goods, on payment of an amount equal to five per cent. of the value of goods or twenty five thousand rupees, whichever is less, where the owner of the goods does not come forward for payment of such tax and penalty;

(c) upon furnishing a security equivalent to the amount payable under clause (a) or clause (b) in such form and manner as may be prescribed:

Provided that no such goods or conveyance shall be detained or seized without serving an order of detention or seizure on the person transporting the goods.

(2) The provisions of sub-section (6) of section 67 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply for detention and seizure of goods and conveyances.

(3) The proper officer detaining or seizing goods or conveyances shall issue a notice specifying the tax and penalty payable and thereafter, pass an order for payment of tax and penalty under clause (a) or clause (b) or clause (c).

(4) No tax, interest or penalty shall be determined under sub-section (3) without giving the person concerned an opportunity of being heard.

(5) On payment of amount referred in sub-section (1), all proceedings in respect of the notice specified in sub-section (3) shall be deemed to be concluded.

(6) Where the person transporting any goods or the owner of the goods fails to pay the amount of tax and penalty as provided in sub-section (1) within fourteen days of such detention or seizure, further proceedings shall be initiated in accordance with the provisions of section 130:

Provided that where the detained or seized goods are perishable or hazardous in nature or are likely to depreciate in value with passage of time, the said period of fourteen days may be reduced by the proper officer."

9. In terms of sub-section (1) of Section 129, where any person transports any goods or stores any goods while they are in transit in contravention of the provisions of the Act or the rules made thereunder, all such goods and conveyance used as a means of transport for carrying the said goods and documents relating to such goods and conveyance shall be liable to detention or seizure. Sub-section (3) provides for issuance of a notice specifying the tax and penalty payable after detention or seizure of goods or conveyances, and passing of an order for payment of tax and penalty.

10. Sub-section (5) of Section 129 of the Act, 2017, contains a deeming provision, and in terms thereof, upon payment of the amount referred in sub-section (1), all proceedings in respect of the notice specified in sub-section (3) shall be deemed to be concluded.

11. The summary of the order uploaded electronically in FORM GST DRC-07 bearing date 18.9.2020 specifying therein the amount of tax, interest and penalty is referable to Rule 142(5) of the Uttar Pradesh Goods and Service Tax Rules, 2017. For ease of reference, sub-rules (5), (6) and (7) of Rule 142 are extracted below :-

"(5) A summary of the order issued under section 52 or section 62 or section 63 or section 64 or section 73 or section 74 or section 75 or section 76 or section 122 or section 123 or section 124 or section 125 or section 127 or section 129 or section 130 shall be uploaded electronically in FORM GST DRC-07, specifying therein the amount of tax, interest and penalty payable by the person chargeable with tax.

(6) The order referred to in sub-rule (5) shall be treated as the notice for recovery.

(7) Where a rectification of the order has been passed in accordance with the provisions of section 161 or where an order uploaded on the system has been withdrawn, a summary of the rectification order or of the withdrawal order shall be uploaded electronically by the proper officer in FORM GST DRC-08."

12. Rule 142 of the aforementioned Rules, 2017, is in respect of notice and order for demand of amounts payable under the Act. Sub-rule (5) of Rule 142 provides that a summary of the order issued under certain provisions, including an order issued under Section 129, shall be uploaded electronically in FORM GST DRC-07 specifying therein the amount of tax, interest and penalty payable by the person chargeable with tax. In terms of sub-rule (6) the order referred to in sub-rule (5) shall be treated as the notice for recovery. Further, sub-rule (7) provides that where a rectification of the order has been passed in accordance with the provisions of Section 161 or where an order uploaded on the system has been withdrawn, a summary of the rectification order or of the withdrawal order shall be uploaded electronically by the proper officer in FORM GST DRC-08.

13. A combined reading of sub-rules (5), (6) and (7) of Rule 142 of the Rules, 2017, indicate that a mechanism is provided for uploading summary of certain specified orders, including the order issued under Section 129 in FORM GST DRC-07, specifying therein the amount of tax, interest and penalty payable by the person chargeable with tax. In the event the order aforementioned has been rectified or withdrawn, a summary of the rectification order was of the withdrawal order is uploaded electronically by the proper officer in FORM GST DRC-08.

14. We may take note of the fact that implementation of the GST regime has brought about a major reform in the field of indirect taxation and all key aspects starting from registration till filing of the return, raising of e-way bill, filing of the refund claim, passing of an order creating demand of tax and penalty, rectification of the order, etc. are dependant on a technology driven process with regard to which the necessary procedure is provided under the Rules.

15. The challenge sought to be raised to the order dated 15.2.2018 passed under Section 129 (3) of the Act, 2017, having been made at a belated stage, we are of the view that the relief claimed in this regard in terms of relief clause (I), would be barred by laches; moreso, in the light of the fact that the petitioner claims to have deposited the entire amount of tax and penalty determined under the said order, and by virtue of the deeming provision under sub-section (5) all proceedings in respect of the notice specified under sub-section (3) shall be deemed to be concluded.

16. As regards the prayer for quashing the summary of the order uploaded electronically in FORM GST DRC-07 dated 18.9.2020, as under relief clause (II), we may observe that in the event the petitioner has actually made payment of the entire amount due towards tax and penalty referred to in the notice issued under sub-section (1) of Section 129, he may submit proof thereof before the authority concerned and apply for rectification/withdrawal of the said order.

17. Subject to aforesaid observations, the writ petition is dismissed.

Writ Tax No. 666 of 2020

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Praveen Kumar

Counsel for the Respondents:

(A) Civil Law - U.P. GST Act, 2017/ CGST Act, 2017: Section 2(91), 4(2), 6(2)(b), 67 to 72

The word "inquiry" in Section 70 has a special connotation and a specific purpose to summon any person whose attendance may be considered necessary by the proper officer either to give evidence or to produce a document or any other thing. The word "inquiry" in Section 70 is not synonymous with the word "proceedings", in Section 6(2)(b) of the U.P.G.S.T Act/C.G.S.T Act.

The words "any proceedings" on the "same subject matter" used in Section 6(2)(b) of the Act, which is subject to conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-section (1); means any proceeding on the same cause of action and for the same dispute involving some adjudication proceedings which may include assessment proceedings, proceedings for penalties etc., proceedings for demand and recovery under Section 73 and 74 etc.

Section 6(2)(b) of the C.G.S.T. Act prohibits a proper officer under the Act to initiate any proceeding on a subject-matter where on the same subject-matter proceeding by a proper officer under the U.P.G.S.T. Act has been initiated.

It has been observed that there is no proceeding by a proper officer against the petitioner on the same subject-matter referable to Section 6(2)(b) of the U.P.G.S.T. Act. It is merely an inquiry by a proper officer under Section 70 of the C.G.S.T. Act. (Para 19)

2. Ballabh Das Vs Dr. Madan Lal & ors. (1970) 1 SCC 761

1. Heard Sri Praveen Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri C. B. Tripathi, learned special counsel for the Union of India.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:-

(i) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent nos. 3 and 4 not to proceed with any inquiry against the petitioner and to talk any coercive steps against the petitioner, in pursuance of the impugned summoned.

(ii) To issue any other suitable writ, order or direction which the Hon'ble

Court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances of the case.

(iii) To award costs of the petition to the petitioner.

Submissions:-

3. Sri Praveen Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner submits as under:-

(i) The respondent no.5 has inspected the business premises of the petitioner on 30.05.2018, which was followed by a summon dated 02.06.2018 under Section 70 of the U.P. GST Act. Lastly, a summon dated 14.09.2020 was issued by the respondent no.5- Assistant Commissioner (SIB), Commercial Tax, Range-C, Ghaziabad under Section 70 of U.P. GST Act, requiring the petitioner to explain two input tax credit taken by him.

(ii) After the aforesaid summon dated 02.06.2018 issued by the respondent no.5, the respondent no.4 has issued summon dated 24.07.2019 under Section 70(1) of CGST Act, 2017, requiring the petitioner to tender his statement in the inquiry. The aforesaid summon was followed by summons dated 26.08.2019 and 26.08.2020.

(iii) Once inquiry has been initiated by the respondent no.5 under U.P. GST Act, the respondent nos. 3 and 4 cannot initiate any proceeding in view of the provisions of Section 6 (2) (b) of U.P. GST Act, 2017.

(iv) Since inquiry has already been initiated by the respondent no.5, therefore, the respondent nos. 3 and 4 cannot initiate any inquiry against the petitioner in view of the provisions of Section 6(2)(b) of U.P. GST Act, 2017.

4. Sri C.B. Tripathi, learned special counsel for the State-respondents submits as under:-

(i) Section 6 (2) (b) of U.P. GST Act, 2017 prohibits initiation of a proceeding on the same set of facts. It does not prohibit inquiry by the authorities under U.P. Act or under Central Act.

(ii) In Section 70 of CGST Act the word "Inquiry" has been used while in Section 6(2)(b) of U.P. GST Act, 2017 the words " Proceeding" has been used. Thus Section 6 (2)(b) prohibits "Proceeding" and not "Inquiry". In other words "Inquiry" has not been prohibited under Section 6(2)(b) of the U.P. GST. Act, 2017.

(iii) Jurisdiction of the respondent nos. 2 and 5 under U.P. GST Act is only the State of U.P., while the jurisdiction under the Central Act, is whole of India.

(iv) The subject matter of inquiry by the respondent Nos 3/4 under the CGST Act is different or wider than the subject matter of inquiry by the respondent No. 5 under the U.P. GST Act. The inquiry by the respondent No.5 is confined only to some incriminating material found in the survey dated 30.05.2018 and the evidences of Input Tax Credit illegally taken by the petitioner on the basis of invoices of two alleged dealers. No such facts are indicated in the summon issued by the respondent Nos.3/4. Thus, even the inquiry is not on the same set of facts.

5. We have carefully considered the submissions of learned counsels for the parties.

Facts:-

6. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that the petitioner had obtained registration in Form GSTREG-06 under the U.P. GST Act, 2017 and the Registration Rules, w.e.f. 01.11.2017 for trade in Iron Bars and Rods and Non-Alloy Steel etc. etc. On 30.05.2018, a survey was conducted by the respondent No.5 at the business premises of the petitioner in which no business activity was found. Consequently, the respondent No.5 (Deputy Commissioner, S.I.B.) issued a summon to the petitioner dated 02.06.2018 under Section 70 of the U.P. GST Act requiring him to submit details of purchases and sales, list of buyers and sellers and certain other documents. The Assistant Commissioner (SIB), Commercial Tax, Range-C, Ghaziabad issued a summon to the petitioner dated 14.09.2020 under Section 70 of the Act asking him to submit explanation with respect to certain input tax credits taken by him including the input tax credit taken on the basis of invoices M/s Glider Traders Private Ltd., whose registration was cancelled several months prior to the date of the alleged invoice.

7. It appears that some inquiry was being conducted by the Directorate General of Goods and Services Tax Intelligence, Meerut Zonal Unit, Meerut, which issued summons dated 24.07.2019 to the petitioner under Sections 70 and 174 of the CGST Act, 2017 requiring the petitioner to appear in person on 25th or 26th July, 2019 at 12.00 hours to tender statement in person, but the petitioner has not responded to the summon. Another summon dated 26.08.2019 was issued to the petitioner by the respondent No.4 requiring the petitioner to submit copies of Invoices issued along with transport documents since July, 2017 till date, copies of invoices issued by suppliers and transport documents since July, 2017 till date, copies of purchase ledgers since July, 2017 till date, copies of Sales ledgers since July, 2017 till date, copies of Liability ledgers of ITC claimed and Cash deposited since July, 2017 till date and copies of Balance Sheet, Profit/Loss account for the Financial year 2017-18 and 2018-19. However, the petitioner has not submitted any information. Therefore, the respondent No.3 again issued a summon dated 26.08.2020 to the petitioner under Section 70 of the CGST Act, 2017 requiring him to tender statement, give evidence and produce copies of purchase and sales ledgers since July, 2017 till date. It appears that pursuant to the aforesaid summon, the petitioner neither appeared before the respondent No.4 nor submitted any details and instead merely wrote a letter dated 11.09.2020 that detail inquiry is being conducted by the respondent No.5. Now, the petitioner has filed the present writ petition praying for the relief as afore-quoted.

Discussion and Findings:-

8. Provisions of the U.P. GST Act and the CGST Act are almost pari materia. For the purposes of the controversy involved in the present writ petition, the relevant provisions are Sections 2(91), 4(2), 6(2)(b) and Chapter XIV (Section 67 to 72) of the Uttar Pradesh Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 which are reproduced below:-

"Section 2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires--

2 (91) " Proper Officer" in relation to any function to be performed under this Act, means the Commissioner or the officer of the State Tax who is assigned that function by the Commissioner.

Section 4 (2) The Commissioner shall have jurisdiction over the whole of the State, the Special Commissioner and an Additional Commissioner in respect of all or any of the functions assigned to them, shall have jurisdiction over the whole of the State or where the State Government so directs, over any local area thereof, and all other officers shall, subject to such conditions as may be specified, have jurisdiction over the whole of the State or over such local areas as the Commissioner may, by order, specify.

Section 6 (2) Subject to the conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-section (1),-

(a) where any proper officer issues an order under this Act, he shall also issue an order under the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 as authorised by the said Act under intimation to the jurisdictional officer of central tax;

(b) where a proper officer under the Central Goods and Services Tax Act,2017 has initiated any proceedings on a subject-matter, no proceedings shall be initiated by the proper officer under this Act on the same subject- matter.

Chapter XIV (Inspection, Search, Seizure and arrest)

Section 67. Power of inspection, search and seizure- (1) Where the proper officer, not below the rank of Joint Commissioner, has reasons to believe that--

(a) a taxable person has suppressed any transaction relating to supply of goods or services or both or the stock of goods in hand, or has claimed input tax credit in excess of his entitlement under this Act or has indulged in contravention of any of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder to evade tax under this Act; or

(b) any person engaged in the business of transporting goods or an owner or operator of a warehouse or a go down or any other place is keeping goods which have escaped payment of tax or has kept his accounts or goods in such a manner as is likely to cause evasion of tax payable under this Act, he may authorise in writing any other officer of State tax to inspect any places of business of the taxable person or the persons engaged in the business of transporting goods or the owner or the operator of warehouse or go down or any other place.

(2) Where the proper officer, not below the rank of Joint Commissioner, either pursuant to an inspection carried out under sub-section (1) or otherwise, has reasons to believe that any goods liable to confiscation or any documents or books or things, which in his opinion shall be useful for or relevant to any proceedings under this Act, are secreted in any place, he may authorise in writing any other officer of State tax to search and seize or may himself search and seize such goods, documents or books or things:

Provided that where it is not practicable to seize any such goods, the proper officer, or any officer authorized by him, may serve on the owner or the custodian of the goods an order that he shall not remove, part with, or otherwise deal with the goods except with the previous permission of such officer:

Provided further that the documents or books or things so seized shall be retained by such officer only for so long as may be necessary for their examination and for any inquiry or proceedings under this Act.

(3) The documents, books or things referred to in sub-section (2) or any other documents, books or things produced by a taxable person or any other person, which have not been relied upon for the issue of notice under this Act or the rules made thereunder, shall be returned to such person within a period not exceeding thirty days of the issue of the said notice.

(4) The officer authorised under sub-section (2) shall have the power to seal or break open the door of any premises or to break open any almirah, electronic devices, box, receptacle in which any goods, accounts, registers or documents of the person are suspected to be concealed, where access to such premises, almirah, electronic devices, box or receptacle is denied.

(5) The person from whose custody any documents are seized under sub-section (2) shall be entitled to make copies thereof or take extracts therefrom in the presence of an authorised officer at such place and time as such officer may indicate in this behalf except where making such copies or taking such extracts may, in the opinion of the proper officer, prejudicially affect the investigation.

(6) The goods so seized under sub-section (2) shall be released, on a provisional basis, upon execution of a bond and furnishing of a security, in such manner and of such quantum, respectively, as may be prescribed or on payment of applicable tax, interest and penalty payable, as the case may be.

(7) Where any goods are seized under sub-section (2) and no notice in respect thereof is given within six months of the seizure of the goods, the goods shall be returned to the person from whose possession they were seized:

Provided that the period of six months may, on sufficient cause being shown, be extended by the proper officer for a further period not exceeding six months.

(8) The Government may, having regard to the perishable or hazardous nature of any goods, depreciation in the value of the goods with the passage of time, constraints of storage space for the goods or any other relevant considerations, by notification, specify the goods or class of goods which shall, as soon as may be after its seizure under sub-section(2), be disposed of by the proper officer in such manner as may be prescribed.

(9) Where any goods, being goods specified under sub-section (8), have been seized by a proper officer, or any officer authorised by him under sub-section (2), he shall prepare an inventory of such goods in such manner as may be prescribed.

(10) The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), relating to search and seizure, shall, so far as may be, apply to search and seizure under this section subject to the modification that sub-section (5) of section 165 of the said Code shall have effect as if for the word "Magistrate", wherever it occurs, the word "Commissioner" were substituted.

(11) Where the proper officer has reasons to believe that any person has evaded or is attempting to evade the payment of any tax, he may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, seize the accounts, registers or documents of such person produced before him and shall grant a receipt for the same, and shall retain the same for so long as may be necessary in connection with any proceedings under this Act or the rules made thereunder for prosecution.

(12) The Commissioner or an officer authorised by him may cause purchase of any goods or services or both by any person authorised by him from the business premises of any taxable person, to check the issue of tax invoices or bills of supply by such taxable person, and on return of goods so purchased by such officer, such taxable person or any person-in-charge of the business premises shall refund the amount so paid towards the goods after cancelling any tax invoice or bill of supply issued earlier.

Section 68. Inspection of goods in movement.-(1) The Government may require the person-in-charge of a conveyance carrying any consignment of goods of value exceeding such amount as may be specified to carry with him such documents and such devices as may be prescribed.

(2) The details of documents required to be carried under sub-section (1) shall be validated in such manner as may be prescribed.

(3) Where any conveyance referred to in sub-section (1) is intercepted by the proper officer at any place, he may require the person-in-charge of the said conveyance to produce the documents prescribed under the said sub-section and devices for verification, and the said person shall be liable to produce the documents and devices and also allow the inspection of goods.

Section 69. Power to arrest.-(1) Where the Commissioner has reasons to believe that a person has committed any offence specified in clause (a) or clause (b) or clause (c) or clause (d) of sub-section (1) of section 132 which is punishable under clause (i) or (ii) of sub-section (1), or sub- section(2) of the said section, he may, by order, authorise any officer of State tax to arrest such person.

(2) Where a person is arrested under sub-section (1) for an offence specified under sub-section (5) of section 132, the officer authorised to arrest the person shall inform such person of the grounds of arrest and produce him before a Magistrate within twenty-four hours.

(3) Subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), --

(a) where a person is arrested under sub-section (1) for any offence specified under sub-section (4) of section 132, he shall be admitted to bail or in default of bail, forwarded to the custody of the Magistrate;

(b) in the case of a non-cognizable and bailable offence, the Deputy Commissioner or the Assistant Commissioner shall, for the purpose of releasing an arrested person on bail or otherwise, have the same powers and be subject to the same provisions as an officer-in-charge of a police station.

Section 70. Power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents.- (1) The proper officer under this Act shall have power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary either to give evidence or to produce a document or any other thing in any inquiry in the same manner, as provided in the case of a Civil Court under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908).

(2) Every such inquiry referred to in sub-section (1) shall be deemed to be a "judicial proceedings" within the meaning of section 193 and section 228 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

Section 71. Access to business premises*.- (1) Any officer under this Act, authorised by the proper officer not below the rank of Joint Commissioner, shall have access to any place of business of a registered person to inspect books of account, documents, computers, computer programs, computer software whether installed in a computer or otherwise and such other things as he may require and which may be available at such place, for the purposes of carrying out any audit, scrutiny, verification and checks as may be necessary to safeguard the interest of revenue.*

(2) Every person-in-charge of place referred to in sub-section (1) shall, on demand, make available to the officer authorised under sub-section (1) or the audit party deputed by the proper officer or a cost accountant or chartered accountant nominated under section 66--

(i) such records as prepared or maintained by the registered person and declared to the proper officer in such manner as may be prescribed;

(ii) trial balance or its equivalent;

(iii) statements of annual financial accounts, duly audited, wherever required;

(iv) cost audit report, if any, under section 148 of the Companies Act, 2013 (18 of 2013);

(v) the income-tax audit report, if any, under section 44-AB of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (43 of 1961); and

(vi) any other relevant record, for the scrutiny by the officer or audit party or the chartered accountant or cost accountant within a period not exceeding fifteen working days from the day when such demand is made, or such further period as may be allowed by the said officer or the audit party or the chartered accountant or cost accountant.

Sec 72. Officers to assist proper officers.- (1) All officers of Police, Railways, Customs, and those officers engaged in the collection of land revenue, including village officers, officers of Central tax and officers of Union territory tax shall assist the proper officers in the implementation of this Act.

(2) The Government may, by notification, empower and require any other class of officers to assist the proper officers in the implementation of this Act when called upon to do so by the Commissioner.

Section 6 of the C.G.S.T. Act:

Section 6 - Authorisation of officers of State tax or Union territory tax as proper officer in certain circumstances

(1) Without prejudice to the provisions of this Act, the officers appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act are authorised to be the proper officers for the purposes of this Act, subject to such conditions as the Government shall, on the recommendations of the Council, by notification, specify.

(2) Subject to the conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-section (1),--

(a) where any proper officer issues an order under this Act, he shall also issue an order under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act, as authorised by the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act, as the case may be, under intimation to the jurisdictional officer of State tax or Union territory tax;

(b) where a proper officer under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act has initiated any proceedings on a subject matter, no proceedings shall be initiated by the proper officer under this Act on the same subject matter.

(3) Any proceedings for rectification, appeal and revision, wherever applicable, of any order passed by an officer appointed under this Act shall not lie before an officer appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act.

9. Crux of the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that once, the respondent No.5 [Deputy Commissioner (SIB), Ghaziabad], has conducted a survey of the business premises of the petitioner on 30.05.2018 and is investigating in the matter pursuant to the aforesaid survey, no inquiry can be initiated or summon can be issued by the respondent No.4 under Section 70 of the C.G.S.T. Act against the petitioner even if basis of material of inquiry/ investigation by the respondent Nos.4 and 5 may be different. In other words, the respondent No.5, i.e. State Authority may investigate/ inquire in all the matters pertaining to the business of the petitioner and, therefore, the summons in the matter of inquiry issued by the respondent No.4 is barred by the provisions of Section 6(2)(b) of the C.G.S.T. Act.

10. The words "subject-matter", "proceedings" and "inquiry" have not been defined either under the State G.S.T. Act or the Union Territory G.S.T. Act or the C.G.S.T. Act. Therefore, these words have to be interpreted in the context of the aforesaid Acts. The word "inquiry" in Section 70 has a special connotation and a specific purpose to summon any person whose attendance may be considered necessary by the proper officer either to give evidence or to produce a document or any other thing. It cannot be intermixed with some statutory steps which may precede or may ensue upon the making of the inquiry or conclusion of inquiry. The process of inquiry under Section 70 is specific and unified by the very purpose for which provisions of Chapter XIV of the Act confers power upon the proper officer to hold inquiry. The word "inquiry" in Section 70 is not synonymous with the word "proceedings", in Section 6(2)(b) of the U.P.G.S.T. Act/ C.G.S.T. Act.

11. In Liberty Oil Mills and others vs. Union of India and others, (1984) 3 SCC 465 (para-15), Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the provisions of Import and Export Control Act and Imports (Control) Order, 1955 where the word "investigation" was not defined and held that in the context it means the process of collection of evidence or the gathering of material.

12. Provisions of Section 70 has been enacted for collecting evidence in matters involving tax evasion which may also lead to confiscation. After inquiry is completed and materials for tax not paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed or utilized, by reason of fraud or wilful misstatement or suppression of facts or otherwise are found, then it may lead to demands and recovery under Section 73 or Section 74, as the case may be. When action for assessment, demand and penalty etc. including action under Section 73 or 74 is taken, that shall amount to proceedings referable to Section 6(2)(b) of the Act but the inquiry under Section 70 is not a proceeding referable to Section 6(2)(b) of the Act.

"Subject-Matter" under Section 6(2)(b):-

13. The words "subject-matter" used in Section 6(2)(b) of the Act has not been defined under the Act. In the case of Ballabh Das vs. Dr. Madan Lal and others, (1970) 1 SCC 761 (para-5), Hon'ble Supreme Court interpreted the words "subject-matter" in the context of Civil Procedure Code where also these words have not been defined. Hon'ble Supreme Court held held that:

"The expression ''subject-matter' has a reference to a right in the property which the plaintiff seeks to enforce. That expression includes the cause of action and the relief claimed. Unless the cause of action and the relief claimed in the second suit are the same as in the first suit it cannot be said that the subject-matter of the second suit is the same as that in the previous suit. .... Mere identity of some of the issues in the two suits did not bring about an identity of the subject-matter in the two suits. As observed in Rakhma Bai v. Mahadeo Narayan, (I.L.R.

42 Bom.1155), the expression "subject-matter" in Order XXIII, Rule 1, Code of Civil Procedure means the series of acts or transactions alleged to exist giving rise to the relief claimed. In other words "subject-matter" means the bundle of facts which have to be proved in order to entitle the plaintiff to the relief claimed by him. We accept as correct the observations of Wallis C.J. in Singa Reddi vs. Subba Reddi, (ILR 39 Mad. 987), that where the cause of action and the relief claimed in the second suit are not the same as the cause of action and the relief claimed in the first suit, the second suit cannot be considered to have been brought in respect of the same subject-matter as the first suit."

14. Thus, the phrase "subject-matter", or the phrase "on the same subject-matter", used in Section 6(2)(b) of the U.P.G.S.T. Act/ C.G.S.T. Act with reference to any proceedings, means same cause of action for the same dispute involved in a proceeding before proper officer under the U.P.G.S.T. Act and the C.G.S.T. Act.

Effect of Section 6(2)(b) and Section 70 of the C.G.S.T. Act:-

15. Section 6(2)(b) prohibits initiation of proceedings by the proper officer under U.P.G.S.T. Act on the same subject-matter where a proper officer under the C.G.S.T. Act has initiated any proceedings on the same subject-matter subject to the conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-Section (1). Section 6(2)(b) of C.G.S.T. Act imposes similar prohibition upon the proper officer under the C.G.S.T. Act. Thus, Section 6(2)(b) of the C.G.S.T. Act/ U.P.G.S.T. Act prohibits initiation of any proceedings on the same subject-matter by a proper officer under the C.G.S.T. Act/ by a proper officer under the State G.S.T. Act, as the case may be, on the same subject-matter.

16. Section 70 of the U.P.G.S.T. Act or C.G.S.T. Act is part of Chapter XIV which contains provisions for inspection, search, seizure and arrest. Section 70 of both the Acts are pari materia which empowers the proper officer under the Act to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary either to give evidence or to produce a document or any other thing in any inquiry.

17. Thus, Section 6(2)(b) of the C.G.S.T. Act prohibits separate initiation of proceedings on the same subject-matter by the proper officer under the C.G.S.T. Act when proceeding on the same subject-matter by the proper officer under the State Act has been initiated, whereas Section 70 of the U.P.G.S.T./ C.G.S.T. Act merely empowers the proper officer to summon any person in any inquiry. The word "proceedings" used in Section 6(2)(b) is qualified by the words "subject-matter" which indicates an adjudication process/ proceedings on the same cause of action and for the same dispute which may be proceedings relating to assessment, audit, demands and recovery, and offences and penalties etc. These proceedings are subsequent to inquiry under Section 70 of the Act. The words "in any inquiry" used in Section 70 of the Act is referable to the provisions of Chapter XIV, i.e. Section 67 (power of inspection, search and seizure), Section 68 (inspection of goods in movement), Section 69 (power to arrest), Section 71 (access to business premises) and Section 72 (officers to assist proper officers). Therefore, proper officer under the U.P.G.S.T. Act or the C.G.S.T. Act may invoke power under Section 70 in any inquiry. Prohibition of Section 6(2)(b) of the C.G.S.T. Act shall come into play only when any proceeding on the same subject-matter has already been initiated by a proper officer under the U.P.G.S.T. Act.

18. Thus, the words "any proceeding" on the same "subject-matter" used in Section 6(2)(b) of the Act, which is subject to conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-Section (1); means any proceeding on the same cause of action and for the same dispute involving some adjudication proceedings which may include assessment proceedings, proceedings for penalties etc., proceedings for demands and recovery under Sections 73 and 74 etc.

Conclusions:-

19. In view of the above, we have reached to the following conclusions :-

(i) The word "inquiry" in Section 70 has a special connotation and a specific purpose to summon any person whose attendance may be considered necessary by the proper officer either to give evidence or to produce a document or any other thing. It cannot be intermixed with some statutory steps which may precede or may ensue upon the making of the inquiry or conclusion of inquiry. The process of inquiry under Section 70 is specific and unified by the very purpose for which provisions of Chapter XIV of the Act confers power upon the proper officer to hold inquiry. The word "inquiry" in Section 70 is not synonymous with the word "proceedings", in Section 6(2)(b) of the U.P.G.S.T. Act/ C.G.S.T. Act.

(ii) The words "any proceeding" on the same "subject-matter" used in Section 6(2)(b) of the Act, which is subject to conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-Section (1); means any proceeding on the same cause of action and for the same dispute involving some adjudication proceedings which may include assessment proceedings, proceedings for penalties etc., proceedings for demands and recovery under Section 73 and 74 etc.

(iii) Section 6(2)(b) of the C.G.S.T. Act prohibits a proper officer under the Act to initiate any proceeding on a subject-matter where on the same subject-matter proceeding by a proper officer under the U.P.G.S.T. Act has been initiated.

(iv) Facts briefly noted in paras-6 and 7 above, would disclose that there is no proceeding by a proper officer against the petitioner on the same subject-matter referable to Section 6(2)(b) of the U.P.G.S.T. Act. It is merely an inquiry by a proper officer under Section 70 of the C.G.S.T. Act.

20. For all the reasons afore-stated, we do not find any merit in the present writ petition. Consequently, the writ petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

(A) Civil Law - U.P. VAT Act, 2008: Section 29(7) read with U.P. Tax on Entry of Goods into Local Areas Act, 2007- Section 9(4) - Tax - Assessment/ Re-assessment - The Court held that where the whole of the turnover has escaped assessment on account of not passing an assessment order, the provisions of Section 29(1) of the Act, 2008 can be invoked by the Assessing Authority and the authorization under sub-section (7) can be granted by the competent authority. It is not incumbent upon the Assessing Authority to make the assessment first and then only to proceed under Section 29(1) for bringing to tax the turnover not assessed. (Para 15)

1. This case was listed as a fresh case on 09.12.2020 relating to Assessment Year 2012-13 but no one appeared on behalf of the petitioner to press the writ petition. Therefore, the case was adjourned for 14.12.2020. On 14.12.2020, none appeared for the petitioner to press the writ petition even in the revised call. Therefore, the case was adjourned for 15.12.2020.

2. Today also none has appeared for the petitioner to press the writ petition even in the revised call. Sri C.B. Tripathi, learned Special Counsel for the State-respondents is present.

3. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following relief:

"(a)Certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 20.08.2020 passed by the no.3.

(b) Mandamus/ Prohibition restraining the respondent no.2 from initiating any assessment/ reassessment proceedings against the petitioner in pursuance of the order dated 20.08.2020 passed by the respondent no.3.

(c) Mandamus directing the respondent authorities to produce/ bring on record the exparte assessment order dated 18.3.16, the order sheet maintained by the assessing authority, report furnished by the assessing authority (respondent no.2) before the Joint Commissioner (Executive), Mirzapur, as recorded in the order dated 30.3.19, registers R-5A, 5B;"

4. The impugned order dated 20.08.2020 is an authorisation granted by the Additional Commissioner Grade-I, Commercial Tax, Varanasi Zone - II, Varanasi under Section 29(7) of the U.P. VAT Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 2008') read with Section 9(4) of the Uttar Pradesh Tax on Entry of Goods into Local Areas Act, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 2007').

5. The Additional Commissioner has granted the authorisation on the facts of the present case on the ground that purchases of U.P. iron and steel of Rs.15,51,47,792/-, purchase of Ex-U.P. iron and steel of

Rs.7,61,61,195.04 and bitumen of Rs.13,03,70,473/- escaped assessment to entry tax under the Act, 2007 inasmuch as for reasons mentioned in the impugned order, the assessment order of entry tax under Section 9(4) of the Act, 2007 for the Assessment Year 2012-13 could not be passed.

6. Section 29(1)/(7) of the U.P. VAT Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 2008') are reproduced below:

"29. Assessment of tax of turnover escaped from assessment.- (1) If the assessing authority has reason to believe that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer, for any assessment year or part thereof, has escaped assessment to tax or has been under assessed or has been assessed to tax at a rate lower than that at which it is assessable under this Act, or any deductions or exemptions have been wrongly allowed in respect thereof, the assessing authority may, after issuing notice to the dealer and making such inquiry as it may consider necessary, assess or re-assess the dealer to tax according to law :

Provided that the tax shall be charged at the rate at which it would have been charged had the turnover not escaped assessment or full assessment as the case may be.

Explanation I. - Nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to prevent the assessing authority from making an assessment to the best of its judgment.

Explanation II. - For the purpose of this section and of section 31, "assessing authority" means the officer or authority who passed the earlier assessment order, if any, and includes the officer or authority having jurisdiction for the time being to assess the dealer.

Explanation III. - Notwithstanding the issuance of notice under this sub-section, where an order of assessment or re-assessment is in existence from before the issuance of such notice it shall continue to be effective as such, until varied by an order of assessment or re-assessment made under this section in pursuance of such notice.

(7) Where the Commissioner, on his own or on the basis of reasons recorded by the assessing authority, is satisfied that it is just and expedient so to do, authorises the assessing authority in that behalf, such assessment or re-assessment may be made within a period of eight years after expiry of assessment year to which such assessment or re-assessment relates notwithstanding such assessment or re-assessment may involve a change of opinion:

Provided that it shall not be necessary for the Commissioner to hear the dealer before authorising the assessing authority."

7. Perusal of the afore-quoted provisions shows that if the Assessing Authority has reason to believe that the whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer, for any assessment year or part thereof, has escaped assessment to tax or has been under assessed or has been assessed to tax at a rate lower than that at which it is assessable under this Act, or any deductions or exemptions have been wrongly allowed in respect thereof, the assessing authority may, after issuing notice to the dealer and making such inquiry as may be considered necessary, assess or re-assess the dealer to tax according to law. Section 29(3) of the Act, 2008 provides that except as otherwise provided in this section or elsewhere in this Act, no order of assessment or re-assessment under any provision of this Act for any assessment year shall be made after the expiration of three years from the end of such assessment year. Sub-section (7) of Section 29 provides for extended period of limitation upto eight years. It provides that where the Commissioner, on his own motion or on the basis of reasons recorded by the assessing authority, is satisfied that it is just and expedient so to do, authorises the assessing authority in that behalf, such assessment or re-assessment may be made within a period of eight years after expiry of assessment year to which such assessment or re-assessment relates.

8. Thus, the normal period of limitation for assessment or reassessment is three years as provided under Sub-Section (3) of Section 29. Beyond the aforesaid period of limitation, an Assessing Authority can make assessment or reassessment if he is authorised by the Commissioner by order passed under Sub-Section (7) of Section 29, which empowers the Commissioner to issue authorisation for making assessment or reassessment within a period of eight years after expiry of assessment year to which the assessment or reassessment relates.

9. In the present set of facts, there is no dispute that somehow for the Assessment Year 2012-13, assessment under the Act, 2007 escaped to notice of the Assessing Authority. Detailed circumstances leading to the escaping and passing of the assessment order under the Act, 2007 for the Assessment Year 2012-2013 have been mentioned in the impugned order. Thus, extended period of limitation under Sub-section (7) of Section 29 of the Act, 2008 was invokable for which authorisation has been granted by the Additional Commissioner by the impugned order dated 20.08.2020.

10. From perusal of the writ petition, it appears that the basic objection of the petitioner to the impugned order is that reassessment proceedings can take place only when there is an assessment order and there is reason to believe that there has been a case of no assessment or escaped assessment. In support of the aforesaid objection, the petitioner has relied upon a judgment of this Court in the case of Catalysts vs. State of U.P. and others, 2014 UPTC 1054 (DB)(Para-26).

11. The judgment in the case of Catalysts vs. State of U.P. and others (supra) was rendered by this Court in three writ petitions, namely, Writ Tax No.704 of 2010, 705 of 2010 and 706 of 2010. In Writ Tax Nos.704 and 705, both of 2010, the petitioners have challenged the order passed by the competent authority granting permission for initiation of proceedings under Section 21. Both these writ petitions were dismissed by this court. Third writ petition, i.e. Writ Tax No.706 of 2010, was allowed by this court on the facts of that case. To appreciate facts of the aforesaid judgment in Writ Tax No.706 of 2010, it would be appropriate to reproduce paragraphs-7, 25, 26 and 27 of the said judgment, as under:

"7. In Writ Petition No.706 of 2010, the learned counsel submitted that the Assessing Officer treated enzymes as a unclassified item and taxed the same at the rate of 10% for the assessment year 2006-07 under the U.P. Trade Tax Act. The petitioner preferred an appeal, which was allowed and the matter was remanded back to the Assessing Officer for fresh assessment. During the pendency of assessment proceedings before the Assessing Officer pursuant to the remand order of the appellate authority reassessment proceedings were initiated under Section 21 of the Act. The learned counsel submitted that during the pendency of original assessment proceedings the question of escaped assessment does not arise and, therefore, question of issuance of notice under Section 21 of the Act was wholly illegal and had been issued without any application of mind and was liable to be quashed. In support of his submission, the learned counsel has placed reliance on various decisions, which will referred hereinafter.

25. With regard to Writ Petition No.706 of 2010, we find that the Assessing Officer had treated enzyme as an unclassified item and had taxed it at the rate of 10% for the assessment year 2006-07 under the U.P. Trade Tax Act. The petitioner filed an appeal, which was allowed and the assessment order was set aside and the matter was remitted to the Assessing Officer to pass a fresh assessment order. During reconsideration of the matter reassessment proceedings was initiated under Section 21 of the Act.

26. In M/s Harbilas Prabhu Dayal Vs. Commissioner of Sales Tax, 1979 UPTC 999 a Full Bench of this Court held that once proceedings are remanded by the appellate authority, the entire matter is at large.

27. We are of the opinion that reassessment proceedings can only take place when there is an assessment order and there is reason to believe that there has been a case of under assessment or escaped assessment. In the event, there is no assessment order there can be no reassessment proceedings. "

12. The afore-quoted portion of the judgment in the case of Catalysts (supra) is the foundation of the present writ petition. Perusal of the aforesaid judgment in Writ Tax No.706 of 2010 would show that the facts were that the assessment order passed by the Assessing Authority was set aside by the Appellate Authority for the Assessment Year 2006-07 under the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948 and the matter was remanded to the Assessing Authority to pass a fresh assessment order. During remand proceedings, the Assessing Authority eventually initiated proceedings under Section 21 of the U.P. Trade Tax Act, 1948, which is para materia with Section 29 of the Act, 2008. On these facts, relying upon a full bench judgment in the case of M/s Harbilas Prabhu Dayal Vs. Commissioner of Sales Tax, 1979 UPTC 999, this court held that hence proceedings are remanded by the appellate authority, the entire matter is at large. In the background of these facts and the legal position, this court held in para-27, which has been relied by the petitioner in the present case; that reassessment proceedings can only take place when there is an assessment order. Since no assessment order was passed by the Assessing Authority pursuant to the remand order and the entire matter was at large before him, therefore, it was held by this court that there is no question of initiating reassessment proceedings. Thus, the aforesaid judgment in the case of Catalysts (supra) is distinguishable on the facts of the present case.

13. Besides above, if the judgment in the case of Catalysts (supra) is read in the manner as interpreted by the petitioner, it shall be in conflict with the law settled by a Full Bench (5 Judges) of this court in the case of Commissioner of Sales Tax vs. Jag Mohan Nath (1972) 29 STC 663 (All) in which the Full Bench interpreted the pari materia provision of Section 21(1) of the U.P. Sales Tax Act, 1948 and held as under (Majority view):-

"33. The principle of law laid down by the Supreme Court in the cases of Ghanshyamdas v. Regional Assistant Commissioner, Sales Tax, Nagpur MANU/SC/0216/1963 and Anandji Haridas & Co. Private Ltd. v. S.P. Kushare MANU/SC/0298/1967 applies equally to assessments under the U.P. Sales Tax Act and assessment proceedings in cases where no returns are filed by a dealer can be made both under Section 7(3) and Section 21(1). Which of the two sections will apply to a particular case will, however, depend on the circumstances of each case. The non-furnishing of returns by a dealer, and the consequent failure to pay the tax due, vest in the assessing authority the power to make a best judgment assessment both under Section 7(3) and Section 21(1) of the Act. If the circumstances are such as to attract the provisions of Section 21(1), the assessment will be made under that provision, otherwise under Section 7(3). It is not incumbent on the assessing authority to make the assessment first under Section 7(3) and then only to proceed under Section 21 for bringing to tax the turnover not assessed under Section 7(3). The powers contemplated by Section 7(3) and Section 21 are independent of each other and can be resorted to independently according to the material available to the assessing authority."

14. The Full Bench judgment in the case of Jag Mohan Nath (supra) has also been followed by a Division Bench of this court in Commissioner, Sales Tax U.P. vs. Bhuj Singh Mohan Singh, Bulandshahar (S.T.R. No.214 of 1971, decided on 04.09.1974) 1974 Vol.VI Tax Law Diary 134.

15. Perusal of sub-section (7) of Section 29 of the Act, 2008 leaves no manner of doubt that it empowers the Commissioner to grant authorisation and also empowers the Assessing Authority to make assessment or reassessment within a period of eight years after expiry of assessment year to which such assessment or reassessment relates. Sub-section (1) of Section 29 empowers the Assessing Authority to make assessment or reassessment where he has reason to believe that whole or any part of the turnover of a dealer, for any assessment year or part thereof, has escaped assessment to tax or has been under assessed or has been assessed to tax at a rate lower than that at which it is assessable under this Act, or any deductions or exemptions have been wrongly allowed in respect thereof. Thus, where whole of the turnover has escaped assessment on account of not passing an assessment order, the provisions of Section 29(1) of the Act, 2008 can be invoked by the Assessing Authority and the authorisation under sub-section (7) can be granted by the competent authority. It is not incumbent upon the Assessing Authority to make the assessment first and then only to proceed under Section 29(1) for bringing to tax the turnover not assessed.

16. For all the reasons afore-stated, we find that the writ petition is without substance. Consequently, it is hereby dismissed. However, there shall be no order as to costs.

(A) Civil Law - Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019 - clause (e) of Section 123 read with clause (c) of Section 121

The petitioner has filed return under the service tax prior to 30th June, 2019 and deposited the amount of duty along with the returns which was filed belatedly. Clause (e) of Section 123 provides that where an amount in arrears relating to the declarant is due, the amount in arrears shall be the tax dues. The words "amount in arrears" defined in sub- clause (iii) of clause (c) of Section 121 provides that the amount of duty which is recoverable as arrears of duty under the indirect tax enactment on account of the declarant having filed a return under the indirect tax enactment on before 30th day of June, 2019, wherein in the present case the petitioner has admitted a tax liability but not paid it. Therefore, clause (e) of Section 123 read with clause (c) of Section 121 of the SVLDR Scheme is not applicable to the facts of the present case. (Para 12, 13)

Writ Petition Rejected. (E-8)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. This writ petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs :-

(A) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the illegal rejection of declarations dated 15.1.2020 and 25.12.2019 by respondent no. 3 designated committee, as disclosed in remarks column in Form SVLDRS-1 dated 15.1.2020 and 25.12.2019 (Annexure-4 and 6) submitted electronically by petitioner.

(B) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing respondent no. 3 to process and accept the declarations dated 15.1.2020 submitted electronically by petitioner under the provisions of Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019.

(c) Issue any other writ, order or direction, which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit in the facts and circumstances of the case.

(D) Award costs of the petition to the petitioner.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner has deposited the amount along with returns belatedly and therefore arose some interest liability which the petitioner could not deposit, and therefore, the petitioner has filed a declaration under the Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019 (hereinafter referred to as 'SVLDR Scheme') but the declaration has been wrongly rejected by the impugned orders.

4. We have perused the impugned orders and we find that the designated authority has rejected declaration on the ground that "as per report of the division vide letter dated 13.01.2020, no duty amount has been declared in return as payable but not paid. Hence not covered under the category of arrears."

5. Clause (c) of Section 121 defines the words "amount in arrears". Clause (d) defines the words "amount of duty". Both the clauses (c) and (d) of Section 121 of Finance (No. 2) Act, 2019 are reproduced below :-

(c) "amount in arrears" means the amount of duty which is recoverable as arrears of duty under the indirect tax enactment, on account of--

(i) no appeal having been filed by the declarant against an order or an order in appeal before expiry of the period of time for filing appeal; or

(ii) an order in appeal relating to the declarant attaining finality; or

(iii) the declarant having filed a return under the indirect tax enactment on or before the 30th day of June, 2019, wherein he has admitted a tax liability but not paid it;

(d) "amount of duty" means the amount of central excise duty, the service tax and the cess payable under the indirect tax enactment.

6. Section 123 of the SVLDR Scheme defines the words 'tax dues" for the purposes of the Scheme.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has admitted before us that the case of the petitioner does not fall under clause (a) or (b) of Section 123 of the SVLDR Scheme.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on clauses (c), (d), and (e) of Section 123, which are reproduced below :-

(c)where an enquiry or investigation or audit is pending against the declarant, the amount of duty payable under any of the indirect tax enactment which has been quantified on or before the 30th day of June, 2019;

(d) where the amount has been voluntarily disclosed by the declarant, then, the total amount of duty stated in the declaration;

(e) where an amount in arrears relating to the declarant is due, the amount in arrears.

9. The definition of the words "tax dues" as provided in Section 123 of the SVLDR Scheme shows that it is not expansive in nature inasmuch as it starts with the word "means".

10. Clause-C of Section 123 relates to matters where any enquiry or investigation or audit is pending against the declarant, the "amount of duty" payable under any of the indirect tax enactment which has been quantified on or before 30th June, 2019. This clause is not applicable in the case of the petitioner inasmuch as it is not the case of the petitioner that any enquiry or investigation or audit is pending against him.

11. Clause (d) of Section 123 provides that where the amount has been voluntarily disclosed by the declarant, then the total amount of duty as stated in the declaration shall be the tax dues. The words "amount of duty" has been defined in clause (d) of Section 121 which means the amount of central excise duty, the service tax and the cess payable under the indirect tax enactment. The petitioner has deposited the amount of duty along with his regular returns under the service tax law but it was filed belatedly. Thus no amount of duty was payable under the service tax law, therefore the provisions of clause (d) of Section 123 has no application on the facts of the present case.

12. Clause (e) of Section 123 provides that where an amount in arrears relating to the declarant is due, the amount in arrears shall be the tax dues. The words "amount in arrears" has been defined in clause (c) of Section 121. Sub-clause (iii) of clause (c) of Section 121 provides that the "amount in arrears" means the amount of duty which is recoverable as arrears of duty under the indirect tax enactment on account of the declarant having filed a return under the indirect tax enactment on or before the 30th day of June, 2019, wherein he has admitted a tax liability but not paid it.

13. The admitted facts of the present case are that the petitioner has filed return under the service tax law prior to 30th June, 2019 and deposited the amount of duty along with the returns which was filed belatedly. Therefore, clause (e) of Section 123 read with clause (c) of Section 121 of the SVLDR Scheme is not applicable on the facts of the present case. The circular relied by learned counsel for the petitioner has no application to the facts of the present case inasmuch as the circulars dated 25th September, 2019 and 29th October, 2019 relied by learned counsel for the petitioner is referable to sub-clause (iii) of clause (c) of Section 121 of the SVLDR Scheme.

14. Provisions of Chapter V of the Finance (No.2) Act, 2019, whereby "Sabka Vishwas (Legacy Dispute Resolution) Scheme, 2019" has been enacted; is an offer by the Government to settle tax arrears locked in litigation at a substantial discount. Section 124 Finance (No.2) Act 2019 provides the slabs of tax arrears and the discount slabs in percentage for payment by an applicant/declarant to settle the dispute. Section 125 provides that all persons shall be eligible to make a declaration under the Scheme except those mentioned in Clauses (a) to (h). Section 126 empowers the designated Committee to verify the correctness of the declaration made by the declarant under Section 125 in the manner as may be prescribed. Section 127 of the Act empowers the designated Committee to issue statement indicating the amount payable by the declarant and in the event the amount estimated by the designated Committee exceeds the amount declared by the declarant then the designated Committee shall afford an opportunity of hearing to the declarant and thereafter issue a statement in electronic form indicating the amount payable by the declarant. Thereafter, the declarant shall pay the amount through internet banking and on payment the designated committee shall issue a discharge certificate in electronic form within 30 days of the payment and production of proof. Sub-Section 6 and Sub-Section 7 of Section 127 provides for withdrawal or deemed withdrawal of Appeal, Revision, Reference or Writs relating to the matter in question. Section 129 provides for certain immunities to the declarant. Section 130 prohibits payment through input tax credit account, refunds and to take input tax credit of the amount deposited under the Scheme. Section 131 provides for removal of doubts and Section 134 provides for removal of difficulties. Section 132 empowers the Central Government to make Rules by notification to carry out the provisions of the Scheme. Section 133 empowers the Central Board of Indirect Taxes to issue orders, instructions etc. Section 135 provides for protection to the Officers.

15. Thus, perusal of the provisions of the Scheme briefly noted above, shows that the Scheme is a complete Code in itself. In substance, it is a scheme for recovery of duty/indirect tax to unlock the frozen assets and to recover the tax arrears at a discounted amount. Thus, "Sabka Vishwas Scheme", although a beneficial scheme for a declarant, is statutory in nature, which has been enacted with the object and purpose to minimise the litigation and to realise the arrears of tax by way of settlement at discounted amount in an expeditious manner. In other words the scheme is a step towards the settlement of outstanding disputed tax liability.

16. For all the reasons aforestated we do not find any merit in this writ petition.

17. Consequently, the writ petition fails and is hereby dismissed.

3. Jaspal Reddy Vs St. of A.P., (1994) 4 SCC 391

"Heard learned counsel for the petitioners.

It is strange to note that the advertisement stated to have been issued on 10.08.2016 is in the teeth of full bench judgment rendered by this Court in a bunch of writ petitions leading case being

W.P.No.46079 of 2010 decided on 10.04.2014.

The petitioners have asserted that their exclusion from the zone of consideration has occasioned on account of the incorporation of the condition of experience in the advertisement, although except petitioner no.1 the other petitioners have failed to apply. It is also stated that the Commission on account of this anomaly had not proceeded with the process of selection for about four years. The selection process through interviews adhering to the same conditions was reiterated and notified by letter dated 24.12.2020. The petitioners having come to know about the faulty process have thus approached this Court.

It is well settled that every advertisement for recruitment in public service must proceed strictly in accordance with the statutory rules. In the present case the full bench judgment which ought to have been adhered to for this purpose also seems to have been side tracked for no valid reason and thereby the zone of consideration is sought to be frozen. All the petitioners are possessed with the requisite eligibility since prior to the date of advertisement,therefore, it cannot be said that the requisite qualification was acquired by the petitioners after the date of advertisement.

The delay in approaching this Court is a circumstance unfavourable to the petitioners but an illegality going to the root of the process of selection cannot be viewed lightly by this Court.

In the circumstances of the case, the petitioners are permitted to make a representation to the opposite party no.1 within a period of ten days' from today. In case a representation is filed, the same shall be decided by the opposite party no. 1 passing a reasoned and speaking order. The order so passed be communicated to the petitioners without any delay.

Until decision on the representation filed by the petitioners, the selection held, if any, may not be acted upon.

The writ petition is accordingly disposed of."

1. Before the aforesaid order could be signed, Sri Ashok Shukla, learned counsel for U.P. Public Service Commission brought to the notice to this Court an amendment made in the relevant Service Rules, 1995 notified on 18.11.2015 titled as U.P. Food and Drug Administration Department Gazetted Officers' (Drugs) Service (Third Amendment) Rules, 2015. This amendment brought in the parent rules has been promulgated in exercise of the powers under Article 309 of Constitution of India. The comparative position of the relevant provision i.e. Rule-8 is reproduced below.

COLUMN-1 Existing Rule	COLUMN-2 Rule as substituted
8. Academic qualification A candidate for direct recruitment to the post of Inspector of Drugs must possess the following qualification:	8. Academic qualification A candidate for direct recruitment to the post of Inspector of Drugs must possess such qualifications as have been prescribed under Rule-49 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 made by the Central Government in accordance with the provisions contained in section 21 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940. (i) Degree in Pharmacy or Pharmaceutical Sciences

	or Medicine with specialization in Clinical Pharmacology or Microbiology or equivalent from a recognized University; (ii) (a) Eighteen months experience in the manufacture of at least one of the substances specified in Schedule"C" to the Drug and Cosmetics Rules, 1945; or (b) Eighteen months' experience in testing of atleast one of the substances specified in Schedule 'C' to the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 in a laboratory approved for this purpose by the licensing authority; or (c) Three years experience in the inspection of firms manufacturing any of the substances specified in Schedule 'C' to the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 during the tenure of their services as Drug Inspector of any State Government or Central Government

2. It may be noted that the Central Government, in exercise of the powers vested by virtue of Section 33 read with Section 21 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940, had promulgated the statutory rules in the year 1945 known as Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 whereunder Rule 49 reads as under:

"49. Qualifications of Inspectors. --A person who is appointed an Inspector under the Act shall be a person who has a degree in Pharmacy or Pharmaceutical Sciences or Medicine with specialisation in Clinical Pharmacology or Microbiology from a University established in India by law:-

Provided that only those Inspectors--

(i) who have not less than 18 months' experience in the manufacture of at least one of the substances specified in Schedule C, or

(ii) who have not less than 18 months' experience in testing of at least one of the substances in Schedule C in a laboratory approved for this purpose by the licensing authority, or

(iii) who have gained experience of not less than three years in the inspection of firm manufacturing any of the substances specified in Schedule C during the tenure of their services as Drugs Inspectors;

shall be authorised to inspect the manufacture of the substances mentioned in Schedule C:

Provided further that the requirement as to the academic qualification shall not apply to persons appointed as Inspectors on or before the 18th day of October, 1993."

3. In the light of the statutory rule reproduced above, the question that crops for consideration is as to whether the power of the State for prescription of essential qualifications to fill up the posts of Drug Inspector stands denuded otherwise than what has been prescribed under Rule 49 of Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 framed under Section-21 read with Section 33 of the Act, 1940.

4. A question to this effect previously cropped up before this Court which on a reference being made to the Full Bench was decided in a bunch of writ petitions leading case being Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 46079 of 2010 (Kuldeep Singh and others v. State of U.P. and another). The questions referred to the Full Bench read as under:

"(1) Whether the experience required in the proviso to Rule 49 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 is only a bar of authorization to inspect the manufacture of substances, or is an essential qualification under Rule 49 for direct appointment as Drug Inspector under Rule 5 (4) of the U.P. State Drug Control Gazetted Officers' Service Rules, 1995.

(2) Whether the Division Bench judgment in State of U.P. Vs. Zunab Ali & Ors.1 has been correctly decided."

5. On a consideration of the matter, the Full Bench of this Court answered the reference by observing as under:

"27. We, accordingly, answer the questions referred to the Full Bench as follows:

(i) The experience referred to in the first proviso to Rule 49 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 has not been made an essential qualification for appointment as a Drug Inspector. The effect of the first proviso is that only an Inspector who holds the experience as specified in it is authorized to inspect the manufacture of a substance specified in Schedule C to the Rules.

(ii) The judgment of the Division Bench in Zunab Ali (supra) has been correctly decided.

28. The reference is answered accordingly."

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also placed before this Court a Division Bench judgement of Delhi High Court rendered in a bunch of writ petitions instituted by Union Public Service Commission, the leading case being Writ Petition(c) 2475 of 2019 (Union Public Service Commission v. Nidhi Pandey and another).

7. In the controversy decided by the Delhi High Court, the relevant Service Rules providing for additional eligibility criteria framed in exercise of powers under Article 309 of the Constitution of India being in conflict with the provisions of Rule 49 of Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 came under consideration. The Delhi High Court on an elaborate consideration of the issue has clearly opined that the rule making power of the Government under Article 309 of the Constitution of India, whether Central or State, is transitory and the rules so framed cannot be interpreted in a manner which may have a conflicting impact of overreach as against the primary legislation made by the Central Government in furtherance of the objects of Section 33 read with Section-21 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940. The position of legislative exercise of powers under Article 309 of Constitution of India was thus clarified and this Court is in full agreement with the opinion expressed by the Delhi High Court on this aspect of the matter.

8. A similar question has now come up before this Court looking to the advertisement made by the U.P. Public Service Commission which has prescribed eligibility qualifications as per the amended Rule-8 reproduced above.

9. The rule making power in the present case has also been exercised by the State Government under Article 309 of the Constitution of India. The precise question is as to whether such a rule can be operated by the U.P. Public Service Commission insofar as the recruitment on the post of Drug Inspector is concerned

10. It is true that the advertisement was made as far back as on 10.8.2016 but the selection, for the reasons best known to the Commission, could not progress any further. In furtherance of the advertisement made, when the schedule of selection through interview was notified by letter dated 24.12.2020, the petitioners came to know about the selection process and have thus come up before this Court assailing the advertisement and process of selection. The ground that the advertisement made by the Commission does not stand in conformity with the eligibility qualifications prescribed under Rule 49 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 is the main argument put forth by the learned counsel for the petitioners.

11. On a close scrutiny of the advertisement, it is gathered that the experience postulated under the amended rules w.e.f. 18.11.2015 framed under Article 309 of the Constitution of India has been set out. The prescription of such a qualification is not sanctified under Rule 49 of Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945, hence a grievance excluding the petitioners from the zone of consideration is thus manifested on the face of advertisement. The petitioner no. 1 who has applied for appointment is excluded on account of the prescription of qualifications and rest of the petitioners have averred that they stood deprived of applying against the posts due to the untenable qualifications prescribed in the advertisement.

12. It is argued that right of equal consideration for selection in public service is guaranteed under Article 14 of the Constitution of India and such a right cannot be taken away under the garb of a principle which has no sanctity under law. In support of the arguments advanced, the petitioners have heavily relied upon the Full Bench judgement rendered by this Court as well as the Division Bench judgement of Delhi High Court mentioned above.

13. Per contra, Sri P.K. Singh and Sri Ashok Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the State and U.P. Public Service Commission have argued that the State Government, by virtue of Entry 41 List-II Schedule VII of the Constitution of India, is competent to legislate with respect to public services under the State and any additional qualification prescribed in the rules made under Article 309 of the Constitution of India, unless challenged before this Court, is bound to be complied with by the Public Service Commission, therefore, the advertisement issued by the U.P. Public Service Commission stands wholly in conformity with law. In support of the argument put forth by the State Government as well as by U.P. Public Service Commission, the judgement rendered by the apex court in the case of Jaspal Reddy v. State of Andhra Pradesh reported in (1994) 4 SCC 391, has been placed reliance upon.

14. This Court may note that the rule making power for prescription of the essential eligibility qualifications to appoint Drug Inspectors is traceable to Section 21 read with Section 33(1) and (2)(b) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940, which for ready reference may be reproduced below:

"21. Inspectors.--(1) The Central Government or a State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint such persons as it thinks fit, having the prescribed qualifications, to be Inspectors for such areas as may be assigned to them by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be.

(2) The powers which may be exercised by an Inspector and the duties which may be performed by him, the drugs or classes of drugs or cosmetics or classes of cosmetics in relation to which and the conditions, limitations or restrictions subject to which, such powers and duties may be exercised or performed shall be such as may be prescribed.

(3) No person who has any financial interest in the import, manufacture or sale of drugs or cosmetics shall be appointed to be an Inspector under this section.

(4) Every Inspector shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), and shall be officially subordinate to such authority having the prescribed qualifications, as the Government appointing him may specify in this behalf."

"33. Powers of Central Government to make rules. --(1) The Central Government may after consultation with, or on the recommendation of the Board and after previous publication by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of this Chapter:

Provided that consultation with the Board may be dispensed with if the Central Government is of opinion that circumstances have arisen which render it necessary to make rules without such consultation, but in such a case the Board shall be consulted within six months of the making of the rules and the Central Government shall take into consideration any suggestions which the Board may make in relation to the amendment of the said rules.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rule may--

(a) .....

(b) prescribe the qualifications and duties of Government Analysts and the qualifications of Inspectors;"

15. A conjunctive reading of the above provisions on its plain reading would show that the Central Government within its concurrent domain of legislation has exhausted the legislative power on the aspect of prescribing the essential eligibility qualifications for selection. There is no scope open to the State Government for fixing a different or additional recruitment criteria of Drug Inspectors. Once the area of primary legislation is exhausted by the Central Government and rules are made, the legislative competence of the State or its rule making authority stands eclipsed to the extent of inconsistency. A contrary attempt made by the State would be clearly repugnant to the very objects of the law made by the Central Government. Section 33(1) and (2)(b) read with Section 21 of the Act clearly postulate that the essential conditions of recruitment i.e. qualifications shall be prescribed by the Central Government and this power once exercised in consultation with the Board leaves no scope for the State Government to legislate at variance. The State irrespective of the powers under Article 246 read with Entry-41 of List-II Schedule-VII or Article 309 of the Constitution of India looses its base and any law framed thereunder contrary to the Central legislation would be void. Moreover, the consultative process envisaged under Section 33(1) of the Act, 1940 cannot be done away with by the State Government even if there existed a scope.

16. This position is elaborately discussed in the judgements rendered by the Full Bench of this Court as well as by Delhi High Court in the judgements mentioned above. The position of law put forth on the strength of decision in Satpal Reddy case is distinguishable for the reason that in the case of Satpal Reddy, the provisions of the Transport Act stood at variance and left enough scope for the State to legislate within the scope of Section 213 mentioned therein. The situation in the present case looking to the mandate of Section 21 read with Section 33 of the Act, 1940 is different. In the present case, the Parliament has firstly exhausted the legislative power on the subject of prescription of eligibility qualifications and secondly the law makes the Central Government a repository of such a power leaving no scope for the State Government to step in so long as Rule-49 is amended.

17. In my humble consideration, therefore, the advertisement issued by the U.P. Public Service Commission on 10.8.2016 as per amended Rule-8 of the Service Rules lacks authority and being inconsistent with Rule-49 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945, the same is liable to be set aside and is accordingly set aside. The selection held in pursuance thereof is also set aside with the liberty open to the State to issue a fresh advertisement or corrigendum inviting applications from the eligible candidates having regard to the prescribed qualifications as per Rule 49 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1949. The U.P. Public Service Commission being the selection body, is also expected to proceed in accordance with law, as applicable.

18. The writ petition is accordingly allowed with no order as to cost.

1. संक्षेप में प्रकरण के तथ्य

1.01 याचिकाकर्ता/अभ्यर्थी ने पुलिस आरक्षी व आरक्षी पी0ए0सी0 के पदों पर सीधी भर्ती वर्ष 2015 के अन्तर्गत पुलिस आरक्षी पद पर भर्ती किये जाने के लिए ऑनलाईन आवेदन पत्र दिनाँक 19.02.2016 को प्रस्तुत किया था, जिसका रजिस्ट्रेशन नम्बर 10217540181 आवंटित किया गया।

1.02 उ0प्र0 पुलिस भर्ती एवं प्रोन्नति बोर्ड लखनऊ द्वारा चयन प्रक्रिया की अर्हता पूर्ण करने के फलस्वरुप याचिकाकर्ता/अभ्यर्थी के गृह जनपद में पुलिस अधीक्षक, गाजीपुर द्वारा शारीरिक परीक्षण (नाप-तौल), स्वास्थ्य परीक्षण एवं चरित्र सत्यापन की कार्यवाही पूर्ण कराने के उपरान्त जे0टी0सी0 प्रशिक्षण हेतू,आवंटित किये गये जनपद गाजीपुर के पुलिस अधीक्षक को नियुक्ति आदेश निर्गत किये जाने के लिए पत्रावली प्रेषित की गयी।

(i) अभ्यर्थी ने सत्यापन प्रपत्र दिनाँक 04.06.2018 को नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी के समक्ष प्रस्तुत किया था, परन्तु उसमें जानकारी के अभाव में किसी भी आपराधिक मामले की जानकारी प्रदान नहीं करायी थी, जब कि उसके विरुद्ध एक एन0सी0आर दिनांक 05.05.2018 को धारा 323/504 भा0दं0सं0 के अन्तर्गत पंजीकृत थी।

(ii) उपरोक्त सत्यापन प्रपत्र प्रस्तुत करने के उपरान्त, उपरोक्त एन0सी0 आर0 की जानकारी अभ्यर्थी को मिली तथा इसके उपरान्त अभ्यर्थी का वादी से आपसी सुलहनामा 28.06.2018 को हो गया व इस आशय का एक शपथ पत्र दिनाँक 16.07.2018 को जिलाधिकारी, गाजीपुर के समक्ष प्रस्तुत कर दिया गया।

(iii) इसके पूर्व ही अभ्यर्थी ने, शपथपत्र दिनांक 22.06.2018 के माध्यम से उसके विरुद्ध एन0सी0आर0 पंजीकृत होने की सूचना जिलाधिकारी गाजीपुर को प्रेषित की कर दी थी तथा उसकी एक प्रति पुलिस अधीक्षक गाजीपुर को भी प्रेषित कर दी थी।

(iv) इसके उपरान्त जिलाधिकारी, गाजीपुर ने उपरोक्त सुलहनामा का संज्ञान लेते हुए, अभ्यर्थी के पक्ष में चयन हेतु अनापत्ति पत्र दिनाँक 20.08.2018 को, पुलिस अधीक्षक गाजीपुर को प्रेषित भी कर दिया।

"15- इस सम्बन्ध में मुझे यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि विभाग की नियमावली, भर्ती की विज्ञप्ति, कार्मिक विभाग के उक्त शासनादेश एवं मा0 सर्वोच्च न्यायालय के उक्त निर्णयों से यह स्पष्ट होता है कि पुलिस विभाग की सेवा संवेदनशील एवं सुरक्षा से सम्बन्धित होने के कारण सभी माप दण्डों पर उत्कृष्ट अभ्यर्थी को ही सेवा दी जानी चाहिए, जिससे सेवा में आने के पश्चात् अभ्यर्थी द्वारा अनुचित प्रोत्साहन प्राप्त हो सके।

18- उपरोक्त वर्णित तथ्यों दिनाँक 27.02.2019 के क्रम में, अभ्यर्थी को अभ्यर्थन/चयन निरस्त होने योग्य है।"

1.08 उपरोक्त वर्णित तथ्यों के क्रम में, अभ्यर्थी को अभ्यर्थन/चयन निरस्त होने योग्य है।"

1.09 अभ्यर्थी ने आज्ञापत्र याचिका में मुख्यतया निम्न आधार लिए हैं:-

(i) 06.06.2018 को सत्यापन शपथपत्र दाखिल करते समय अभ्यर्थी को उसके विरुद्ध एन0सी0आर0 दिनाँक 05.05.2018 पंजीकृत होने की जानकारी का अभाव था। इसलिए उक्त का उल्लेख सत्यापन प्रपत्र में नहीं किया था। (ii) उपरोक्त एन0सी0आर0 की जानकारी प्राप्त होते ही, इस आपराधिक प्रकरण के

(i) उ0प्र0 पुलिस मुख्यालय द्वारा जारी परिपत्र दिनाँक 22.05.2018 के अनुच्छेद 7 में विशिष्ठ रुप से उल्लेखित किया गया है कि "किसी अभ्यर्थी के चरित्र सत्यापन के दौरान कोई प्रतिकूल तथ्य सामने आने पर, उसे नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा अनुपयुक्त घोषित किया जायेगा" तथा अनुच्छेद 8(ज) में उल्लेखित है कि "यदि अभ्यर्थी द्वारा प्रस्तुत किये गये शपथपत्र में अंकित तथ्य गलत पाये जाये तो भर्ती के लिए अभ्यर्थी का कोई दावा नहीं होगा" ऐसा ही विज्ञापन में भी उल्लेखित है।

(ii) अभ्यर्थी ने अपने ऊपर लगे आपराधिक मामले की जानकारी छुपाकर सेवा नियुक्त प्राप्त की अर्थात् सेवा नियुक्ति छल से प्राप्त करी गयी अतः अभ्यर्थी के चयन को निरस्त करने का आदेश न्यायोचित है।

(iii) इस न्यायालय के आदेश दिनाक 20.11.2018 मेंं विशिष्ठ निदेश था कि अभ्यर्थी के आवेदन को उच्चतम न्यायालय के 'अवतार सिंह' के मामले मेंं पारित निर्णय के सिद्धान्तों के अनुकूल निर्धारित किया जाये, इसके बावजूद, अभ्यर्थी आवेदन मात्र इस कारण से निरस्त कर दिया गया कि सुलहनामें को गुणदोष के आधार पर दोषमुक्ति नहीं माना जा सकता है, जबकि वर्तमान प्रकरण, एन0सी0आर0 पंजीकरण से संबंधित था जहाँ सुलहनामा के बाद विचारण का प्रश्न ही नहीं रह जाता है। अतः आक्षेपित आदेश रद्द किया जाये।

(i) उ0प्र0 पुलिस मुख्यालय द्वारा जारी परिपत्र दिनाँक 22.05.2018 के अनुच्छेद 7 में विशिष्ठ रुप से उल्लेखित किया गया है कि "किसी अभ्यर्थी के चरित्र सत्यापन के दौरान कोई प्रतिकूल तथ्य सामने आने पर, उसे नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा अनुपयुक्त घोषित किया जायेगा" तथा अनुच्छेद 8(ज) में उल्लेखित है कि "यदि अभ्यर्थी द्वारा प्रस्तुत किये गये शपथपत्र में अंकित तथ्य गलत पाये जाये तो भर्ती के लिए अभ्यर्थी का कोई दावा नहीं होगा" ऐसा ही विज्ञापन में भी उल्लेखित है।

(ii) अभ्यर्थी ने अपने ऊपर लगे आपराधिक मामले की जानकारी छुपाकर सेवा नियुक्त प्राप्त की अर्थात् सेवा नियुक्ति छल से प्राप्त करी गयी अतः अभ्यर्थी के चयन को निरस्त करने का आदेश न्यायोचित है।

(iii) अभ्यर्थी ने अपना शपथपत्र दिनाँक 04.06.2018 सत्यापित करते समय अपने विरुद्ध एन0सी0आर0 पंजीकृत है, इस तथ्य की जानकारी थी, फिर भी मिथ्या शपथ पत्र दाखिल किया। (अवतार सिंह' (पूर्व में उल्लेखित) निर्णय के अनुसार भी अभ्यर्थी के विरुद्ध पारित चयन को निरस्त करने का आदेश न्यायोचित है।

1.11 अभ्यर्थी द्वारा प्रतिउत्तर शपथपत्र भी दाखिल किया जिसमें आज्ञापत्र याचिका के कथनों का समर्थन किया।

अभ्यर्थी के पक्ष में निवेदन:-

2.00 संजीव सिंह व उनके सहायक सुरेश बहादुर सिंह, अभ्यर्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं ने मुख्य रुप से निवेदन किया कि-

(i) अभ्यर्थी को शपथपत्र सत्यापित करते समय, उसके विरुद्ध कोई एन0सी0आर0 पंजीकृत थी, इसकी जानकारी नहीं थी, अतः इसकी सूचना शपथपत्र में नहीं दी थी। प्रकरण में जानकारी का अभाव था न कि जानकारी होते हुए भी छिपाने का। शपथपत्र में समस्त जानकारी सदभावना में उल्लेखित की गयी थी।

(ii) अभ्यर्थी ने अपने विरुद्ध एन0सी0आर0 दिनाक 05.05.2018 पजीकृत होने की सूचना प्राप्त होने पर तुरंत ही इसकी जानकारी शपथपत्र दिनाँक 22.06.2018 के माध्यम से जिलाधिकारी व पुलिस अधीक्षक, गाजीपुर को

प्रेषित कर दी अर्थात् एन0सी0आर0 पंजीकृत होने के महज 1 1/2 महिने के भीतर ही समस्त जानकारी सक्षम अधिकारी को दे दी गई थी।

(iii) इसके अतिरिक्त सुलहनामा की सूचना भी 16.07.2018 को जिलाधिकारी, गाजीपुर को प्रेषित कर दी गई तथा इस जानकारी के बाद अभ्यर्थी के पक्ष में जिलाधिकारी गाजीपुर ने चयन हेतु अनापत्ति भी दिनाँक 22.08.2018 को दे दी, परन्तु पुलिस प्राधिकारी ने उसका उचित संज्ञान लिए बिना ही अभ्यर्थी के विरुद्ध आदेश पारित कर दिया।

(iv) उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा पारित 'अवतार सिंह' (पूर्व में उल्लेखित) के निर्णय के अनुसार अगर आपराधिक मामले की जानकारी जानबूझ कर नहीं छुपाई गयी है व अपराध की प्रकृति मामूली हो तो सेवा नियुक्ति के पक्ष में आदेश दिया जा सकता है, जबकि वर्तमान प्रकरण में जानकारी प्राप्त होते ही अभ्यर्थी ने उसके विरुद्ध एन0सी0आर0 के पंजीकृत होने की व सुलहनामा होने की जानकारी सक्षम प्राधिकारी को दे दी थी व प्रकरण में अपराध की प्रकृति मामूली है। अभ्यर्थी ने समस्त कार्यवाही सद्भावना से की है। अतः वर्तमान याचिका स्वीकार की जाये।

3. अभ्यर्थी के पक्ष के कथन का विरोध करते हुए वेद प्रकाश मिश्रा सरकारी अधिवक्ता ने कथन किया कि-

(i) अभ्यर्थी ने जानबूझ के अपने ऊपर लंबित आपराधिक मामले की जानकारी छुपाई व छल कपट से सेवा नियुक्ति प्राप्त करने का प्रयास किया।

(ii) विज्ञापन व परिपत्र में यह विशिष्ठ रुप से उल्लेखित है कि,चरित्र सत्यापन के दौरान कोई प्रतिकूल तथ्य सामने आने पर उक्त अभ्यर्थी को अनुपयुक्त घोषित किया जायेगा।

(iii) आक्षेपित आदेश उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा पारित 'अवतार सिंह' के निर्णय के अनुसार ही पारित किया गया है। सुलहनामा के आधार पर दोषमुक्ति स्पष्ट रुप से दोषमुक्त का आदेश नहीं माना जा सकता है।

4. उभयपक्ष के अधिवक्ताओं को सुना व पत्रावली का परिशीलन किया।

4.01 यह अविवादित है, कि अभ्यर्थी के विरुद्ध 05.05.2018 को एक एन0सी0आर0, धारा 323/504 भा0दं0सं0 के अंतर्गत पंजीकृत हुई, जिसकी जानकारी अभ्यर्थी द्वारा शपथपत्र दिनांक 04.06.2018 में नहीं दी गई। प्रथम बार इस एन सी आर के पंजीकृत होने की जानकारी अभ्यर्थी द्वारा शपथपत्र दिनाँक 22.06.2018 के माध्यम से जिलाधिकारी, गाजीपुर को दी गई उपरोक्त एन0सी0आर0 में सुलहनामा शपथपत्र 27.06.2018 को सत्यापित हुआ तथा जिसकी जानकारी भी सक्षम अधिकारी को शपथ पत्र दिनांक 16.07.2018 के माध्यम से दी गई, जिसका उल्लेख जिलाधिकारी की चयन अनापत्ति पत्र दिनांक 20.08.2018 में किया गया है। आक्षेपित आदेश में इस सुलहनामें को कोई महत्व नहीं दिया गया तथा इसे निष्प्रभावी किया गया की अभ्यर्थी द्वारा एन0सी0आर0 के पंजीकरण के तथ्य को छिपाया गया।

4.02 यह भी अविवादित है कि पुलिस विभाग की सेवा एक अनुशासित सेवा है जिसका कर्तव्य अपराधों को रोकना एवं अपराधियों को दण्ड दिलवाने की प्रक्रिया का विधिक उत्तरदायित्व का निर्वहन करना है।

"38.1 किसी अभ्यर्थी द्वारा नियोक्ता को दोषसिद्धि, दोषमुक्ति या गिरफ़्तारी या किसी लंबित आपराधिक मामले की जानकारी, चाहे वो सेवा में प्रवेश करने से पहले या बाद में दी गयी हो, सत्य ही होनी चाहिए और आवश्यक जानकारी को छुपाना या उसका गलत उल्लेख नहीं होना चाहिए।

38.4 किसी ऐसे आपराधिक मामले में शामिल होने की जानकारी का छुपाना या गलत सूचना देना, जिसमें आवेदन/ सत्यापन प्रपत्र भरने से पहले ही दोषसिद्ध या दोषमुक्त कर दिया गया था और ऐसा तथ्य बाद में नियोक्ता के ज्ञान में आता है, तो निम्नलिखित में से कोई भी प्रक्रिया जो उपयुक्त हो, अपनायी जा सकती है।

38.8 आवेदन पत्र भरने के समय यदि उम्मीदवार को यह ज्ञात नहीं हो कि कोई आपराधिक मामला लंबित है , फिर भी इसका प्रतिकूल प्रभाव पड़ सकता है और नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी अपराध की गंभीरता को देखते हुए निर्णय ले सकेगा।

38.9 यदि सेवा में कर्मचारी स्थायी हो जाता है, तो सत्यापन आवेदन पत्र में असत्य जानकारी प्रस्तुत करने के आधार पर पदच्युति या सेवामुक्ति के आदेश पारित करने से पूर्व विभागीय जांच करना आवश्यक होगा।

38.10 छुपाने या गलत जानकारी के निर्धारण के लिए सत्यापन प्रपत्र विशिष्ट होना

(i) यह नहीं कहा जा सकता है कि अभ्यर्थी को प्रथम स्तर पर आवेदन पत्र भरते समय उसके विरुद्ध सन0सी0आर0 के पंजीकरण की सूचना थी। अतः उसने उक्त तथ्य को जानबूझ कर नहीं छुपाया।

(ii) आवेदन पत्र भरने केमाह के भीतर अभ्यर्थी ने उसके विरुद्ध एक एन0सी0आर0 पंजीकृत है, इस तथ्य की जानकारी सक्षम अधिकारी को दे दी थी। बाद में सुलहनामा होने की सूचना भी प्रेषित कर दी थी।

(iii) अभ्यर्थी के विरुद्ध धारा 323/504 भा0दं0सं0 के अंतर्गत पंजीकृत हुई थी। धारा 323 में वर्णित अपराध जिसमें दोष सिद्ध होने पर एक साल तक की सजा व रु0 1000 तक का जुर्माना लगाया जा सकता है तथा धारा 504 में वर्णित अपराध में दोष सिद्ध होने पर 2 वर्ष तक की सजा व जुर्माने का प्रावधान है। अतः यह अपराध मामूली अपराध की श्रेणी में आयेंगे न की किसी संगीन अपराध की श्रेणी में। पत्रावली के परिशीलन से यह तथ्य परिलक्षित नहीं होता है कि प्रकरण में कोई उपद्रव कारित की गयी थी या लोक शांति भंग की संभावना उत्पन्न हुई थी।

(iv) इसके अतिरिक्त प्रकरण की विशेष परिस्थितियों में कि, अभ्यर्थी नमासि के भीतर ही एन0सी0आर0 की जानकारी नियोक्ता को प्रेषित कर दी थी व अभ्यर्थी व शिकायकर्ता के मध्य सुलहनामे का तथ्य भी सक्षम प्राधिकारी को दे दिया गया था जिसका जिलाधिकारी ने संज्ञान लेते हुए, अभ्यर्थी के पक्ष में चयन हेतु संस्तुति भी कर दी थी। अभ्यर्थी के पूर्व रहन सहन को देखा जाये तो उसके विरुद्ध उक्त एन0सी0आर0 के अतिरिक्त कोई और आपराधिक मामला दर्ज नहीं हुआ है। अतः अभ्यर्थी का कृत सदभावना पूर्ण रहा।

(v) आक्षेपित आदेश के परिशीलन से यह भी विदित है कि आदेश में उपरोक्त वर्णित सिद्धान्तों व प्रकरण के तथ्यों व परिस्थितियों का सही संज्ञान नहीं लिया गया है व वर्तमान प्रकरण की तुलना किसी अपराध के विचारण से कर, गलती की है, क्योंकि जबकि वर्तमान प्रकरण में एन0सी0आर0 पंजीकृत होने के उपरान्त सुलहनामा हो गया था, अतः अग्रसर कोई कार्यवाही नहीं हुई है। अतः आक्षेपित आदेश तथ्यों व विधिक दृष्टिकोण से न्यायसंगत नहीं है।

3. Special Appeal No.156 of 2017 (Gaurav Sharma Vs State of U.P. & ors.) decided on 04.05.2017

4. Seema Kumari Sharma Vs St. of H.P. (1998) 9 SCC 128

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. The petitioner has preferred the present writ petition with the prayer to direct the respondents-authorities to consider the candidature of the petitioner under OBC category and to undertake follow up proceeding for appointment of the petitioner on the post of Constable pursuant to the advertisement dated 16.11.2018..

3. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that an advertisement was issued by the respondents on 16.11.2018 inviting applications for the post of constable in Civil Police and Provincial Armed Constabulary (in short "P.A.C."). The process of selection comprises of written examination followed by the document verification and physical standard test which is subsequently followed by physical efficiency test and medical examination.

4. The petitioner is an O.B.C. candidate and pursuant to the aforesaid advertisement, he applied for the post of constable. An admit card was issued by the respondents permitting the petitioner to appear in the written examination which was held on 28.1.2019. The petitioner duly appeared in the written examination. The petitioner duly passed the same and thereafter, the petitioner was issued admit card for document verification/physical standard test (hereinafter referred to as "DV/PST"). The petitioner duly appeared in the aforesaid examination on 19.12.2019 at Reserved Police Line, Gorakhpur. During the course of document verification, an objection was raised by the respondents-authorities to the effect that the petitioner was not able to produce the OBC certificate within cut off date. Though the petitioner was not able to produce the aforesaid caste certificate but he was permitted to undergo physical efficiency test. Final result of the aforesaid examination was declared on 2.3.2020 and the name of the petitioner was placed at serial No.5659 in the list of selected candidates. In the aforesaid select list, the candidature of the petitioner was considered as general class category candidate. It further reflects from perusal of the result that the petitioner secured 179.5000 marks where as the cut of marks under OBC category is 176.2834. Insofar as the general class category candidates are concerned, the cut of marks was 180.4081.

5. It is argued that as per procedure prescribed under Para 5.4 (under the heading of remark) that OBC certificate was required to be issued between 01.04.2018 and 08.12.2018. The petitioner has OBC certificate dated 29.11.2018. It is argued that at the relevant point of time, the aforesaid caste certificate was misplaced, as such he was not able to produce the same at the time of document verification and physical standard test. It is further argued that though the petitioner was not able to produce the caste certificate dated 29.11.2018 before the aforesaid committee but he was able to produce OBC certificates before the aforesaid committee which were issued on 04.02.2018 and 07.02.2018. The aforesaid caste certificates were duly accepted by the respondents-authorities and the petitioner was permitted to participate in the document verification/physical standard test. It is argued that only objection which was raised by the respondents-authorities is that at the relevant point of time, the caste certificate, which was duly produced by the petitioner before the authorities, was not within the cut of date. In this view of the matter, the candidature of the petitioner was shifted to the general category candidate from OBC category candidate. It is further argued that it is settled principle of law that in case, a person belonging to a particular category and if he failed to submit document at the time of verification, the same would not give authority to the respondents either to cancel his candidature or shift from OBC category to general category. Learned counsel for the petitioner also placed reliance upon a judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ram Kumar Gijroya Vs. Delhi Subordinate Services Selection Board reported in (2016) 4 SCC 754. In the aforesaid case, it has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court that even if there is a delay in furnishing the caste certificate, the same would not be fatal in order to non-suit the candidature of a candidate. It is argued that in view of the aforesaid judgment, respondents are liable to treat the candidature of the petitioner as O.B.C. category candidate and appoint him as constable pursuant to the advertisement in question.

6. A counter affidavit has been filed by the learned Standing Counsel on behalf of the respondents. It is argued by learned Sanding Counsel that Board has advertised the posts of constable in Civil Police and Constable P.A.C 2018 in the year 2018 and online forms were invited from 19.11.2018 and the last date for submission online form was 08.12.2018. It is further argued that the candidate should submit his/her online form between 19.11.2018 and 08.12.2018 pursuant to the advertisement in question. Learned Standing Counsel relied upon paragraphs 5, 6, point 6 and point No.10 of paragraph No.5 of the advertisement dated 16.11.2018 which provides for reservation. The aforesaid paragraphs are quoted below:-

Paragraph 5 of the advertisement dated 16.11.2018:-

"उत्तर प्रदेश लोक सेवा ;अनुसूचित जातियों अनुसूचित जनजातियों और अन्य पिछडे वर्गों के लिए आरक्षण द्धअधिनियम – 1994 ;समय समय पर यथा संशोधितद्ध की अनुसूची–दो के अनुसार क्रीमीलेयर के अर्न्तगत आने वाले उत्तर प्रदेश के अन्य पिछडे वर्ग के अभ्यर्थियों को आरक्षण का लाभ अनुमन्य नहीं है। अन्य पिछडे वर्ग के लिए जाति प्रमाण–पत्र (प्रारूप–1) 01 अप्रैलए 2018 या उसके बाद का किन्तु इस भर्ती प्रकिया हेतु निर्धारित आवेदन करने की अन्तिम तिथि तक निर्गत होना चाहिए।"

Paragraph 6 of the advertisement dated 16.11.2018:-

"अन्य पिछडे वर्ग के लिए जाति प्रमाण पत्र राज्य सरकार द्वारा निर्धारित प्रारूप–1 पर (01 अप्रैल, 2018 या उसके बाद का किन्तु इस भर्ती प्रकिया हेतु निर्धारित आवेदन करने की अन्तिम तिथि) निर्गत होना चाहिए।"

Point No.6 of Paragraph 5 of the advertisement dated 16.11.2018:-

"आरक्षण/आयु में छूट का लाभ चाहने वाले उत्तर प्रदेश के आरक्षित श्रेणी के अभ्यर्थी आवेदन में अपनी श्रेणी अवश्य अंकित करें तथा निर्धारित प्रारूप पर सक्षम अधिकारी द्वारा जारी प्रमाण पत्र आवेदन करने से पूर्व प्राप्त कर लें एवं जब उनसे अपेक्षा की जाये जब वे उसे प्रस्तुत करें। राज्य सरकार द्वारा निर्धारित प्रारूप के अतिरिक्त किसी अन्य प्रारूप में प्रस्तुत प्रमाण पत्र मान्य नहीं होगा।""

"आरक्षण की दावेदारी के समर्थन में सम्बन्धित मूल प्रमाण पत्र निर्धारित प्रारूप मे प्रस्तुत न किये जाने पर यह अवधारणा की जायेगी कि अभ्यर्थी आरक्षण का दावेदार नहीं है एवं तदानुसार यह दावेदारी निरस्त करए यदि अभ्यर्थी सामान्य श्रेणी की समस्त पात्रताओं को पूर्ण करता हो तोए उसे सामान्य श्रेणी के अन्तर्गत मानते हुए भर्ती प्रक्रिया में सम्मिलित कर लिया जायेगा। इस सम्बन्ध में किसी संशोधन/परिवर्तत हेतु पुनः कोई अवसर प्रदान नहीं किया जायेगा।"

7. It is argued that the petitioner has not followed the provisions prescribed in the advertisement issued by the Board for submitting O.B.C. certificate issued between 01.04.2018 and 08.12.2018 and as such the candidature of the petitioner was shifted from O.B.C. category to general category. It is stated in sub paragraph 6 of paragraph No.7 of the counter affidavit that cut of marks of the petitioner is 179.50000 which is less than cut off marks 180.4081 of general category candidates (Male) and as such the petitioner is not entitled for his selection. Learned Standing Counsel further relied upon judgment rendered by this Court in Special Appeal No.762 of 2016 (Arvind Kumar Yadav Vs. U.P. Recruitment and Promotion Board and others). He further relied upon a full bench judgment of this Court passed in Special Appeal No.156 of 2017 (Gaurav Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and others) decided on 04.05.2017. It is argued that insofar as the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ram Kumar Gijroya (supra) is concerned, the ratio of the same is not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the case.

8. In response to the arguments raised by the learned Standing Counsel, it is argued by Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner that the facts of the case before the full bench is different from this case and the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Ram Kumar Gijroya (supra) is fully applicable in the present facts and circumstance of the case.

9. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. The Apex Court in the case of Ram Kumar Gijroya (supra), reliance of which has placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner, deals with the provisions that whether a candidate, who appears in the examination under the O.B.C. category and submits his certificate after the last date mentioned in the examination, is eligible for selection to the post under the O.B.C. category or not. Learned counsel placed reliance upon following paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment:-

"3. The important question of law to be decided in these appeals is whether a candidate who appears in an examination under the O.B.C. category and submits the certificate after the last date mentioned in the advertisement is eligible for selection to the post under the O.B.C. category or not.

4 . As the question of law arising in all these appeals is similar, for the sake of convenience and brevity, we refer to the facts of Civil Appeal arising out of SLP(C) No. 27550 of 2012, which has been filed against the impugned judgment and order dated 24.01.2012, The necessary relevant facts required to appreciate the rival legal contentions advanced on behalf of the parties are stated in brief hereunder:

"The Respondent-Delhi Subordinate Services Selection Board (hereinafter referred to as "the DSSSB") invited applications for selection to the post of Staff Nurse in the Department of Health and Family Welfare, Govt. of NCT of Delhi by way of publishing an Advertisement No. 09/2007 in the Newspaper. The last date of submission of the application form in the advertisement for the said post was 21.01.2008. The Appellant submitted his application form before the due date and was subsequently issued the admit card to appear in the examination. Having appeared in the examination, he was shortlisted for selection. However, his name did not appear in the final list of selected candidates. On enquiry, he was informed by the concerned official that he was not selected to the post for the reason that he had failed to submit the OBC certificate issued by the appropriate authority along with application form before the last date of submission of application form."

6. The learned single Judge disposed of the writ petition vide judgment and order dated 24.11.2010, placing reliance on the judgment in the case of Pushpa (supra), wherein the controversy centred around the same advertisement/Notification issued by the same Respondent. The learned single Judge observed that the only ground for declining the applications filed by the Appellants was that the O.B.C. certificates had been issued and submitted after the cut off date and therefore they were not eligible for appointment to the post. The learned single Judge further held that the Respondent did not cite any other authority to distinguish the decision in Pushpa's case (supra) from the facts of the present case. Consequently, the learned single Judge disposed of the writ petition and directed the Respondent to reconsider the application of the Appellant and the other aggrieved candidates against the O.B.C. category within a period of one month.

14. The Division Bench of the High Court erred in not considering the decision rendered in the case of Pushpa (supra). In that case, the learned single Judge of the High Court had rightly held that the Petitioners therein were entitled to submit the O.B.C. certificate before the provisional selection list was published to claim the benefit of the reservation of O.B.C. category. The learned single judge correctly examined the entire situation not in a pedantic manner but in the backdrop of the object of reservations made to the reserved categories, and keeping in view the law laid down by a Constitution Bench of this Court in the case of Indra Sawhney v. Union of India 1992 (Supp) 3 SCC 217 as well as Valsamma Paul v. Cochin University and Ors. (1996) 3 SCC 545. The learned single Judge in the case of Pushpa (supra) also considered another judgment of Delhi High Court, in the case of Tej Pal Singh (supra), wherein the Delhi High Court had already taken the view that the candidature of those candidates who belonged to the S.C. and S.T. categories could not be rejected simply on account of the late submission of caste certificate.

The relevant paragraph from the judgment of this Court in the case of Indra Sawhney (supra) has been extracted in the case of Pushpa (supra) along with the speech delivered by Dr. Ambedkar in the constituent assembly and reads thus:

251. Referring to the concept of equality of opportunity in public employment, as embodied in Article 10 of the draft Constitution, which finally emerged as Article 16 of the Constitution, and the conflicting claims of various communities for representation in public administration, Dr. Ambedkar emphatically declared that reservation should be confined to 'a minority of seats', lest the very concept of equality should be destroyed. In view of its great importance, the full text of his speech delivered in the Constituent Assembly on the point is appended to this judgment. But I shall now read a few passages from it. Dr Ambedkar stated:

"...firstly, that there shall be equality of opportunity, secondly, that there shall be reservations in favour of certain communities which have not so far had a 'proper look-in' so to say into the administration .... Supposing, for instance, we were to concede in full the demand of those communities who have not been so far employed in the public services to the fullest extent, what would really happen is, we shall be completely destroying the first proposition upon which we are all agreed, namely, that there shall be an equality of opportunity .... Therefore the seats to be reserved, if the reservation is to be consistent with Sub-clause (1) of Article 10, must be confined to a minority of seats. It is then only that the first principle could find its place in the Constitution and effective in operation ... we have to safeguard two things, namely, the principle of equality of opportunity and at the same time satisfy the demand of communities which have not had so far representation in the State, ... Constituent Assembly Debates, Vol. 7, pp. 701-702 (1948-49).

These words embody the raison d'etre of reservation and its limitations. Reservation is one of the measures adopted by the Constitution to remedy the continuing evil effects of prior inequities stemming from discriminatory practices against various classes of people which have resulted in their social, educational and economic backwardness. Reservation is meant to be addressed to the present social, educational and economic backwardness caused by purposeful societal discrimination. To attack the continuing ill effects and perpetuation of such injustice, the Constitution permits and empowers the State to adopt corrective devices even when they have discriminatory and exclusionary effects. Any such measure, in so far as one group is preferred to the exclusion of another, must necessarily be narrowly tailored to the achievement of the fundamental constitutional goal."

15. In the case of Pushpa (supra), relevant paragraphs from the case of Tej Pal Singh (supra) have also been extracted, which read thus:

17. The matter can be looked into from another angle also. As per the advertisement dated 11th June, 1999 issued by the Board, vacancies are reserved for various categories including 'SC' category. Thus in order to be considered for the post reserved for 'SC' category, the requirement is that a person should belong to 'SC' category. If a person is SC his is so by birth and not by acquisition of this category because of any other event happening at a later stage. A certificate issued by competent authority to this effect is only an affirmation of fact which is already in existence. The purpose of such certificate is to enable the authorities to believe in the assertion of the candidate that he belongs to 'SC' category and act thereon by giving the benefit to such candidate for his belonging to 'SC' category. It is not that Petitioners did not belong to 'SC' category prior to 30th June, 1998 or that acquired the status of being 'SC' only on the date of issuance of the certificate. In view of this position, necessitating upon a certificate dated prior to 30th June, 1998 would be clearly arbitrary and it has no rationale objective sought to be achieved.

18. While taking a particular view in such matters one has to keep in mind the objectives behind the post of SC and ST categories as per constitutional mandate prescribed in Articles 15(4) and 16(4) which are enabling provisions authorising the Government to make special provisions for the persons of SC and ST categories. Articles 14(4) and 16(4), therefore, intend to remove social and economic inequality to make equal opportunities available in reality. Social and economic justice is a right enshrined for protection of society. The right in social and economic justice envisaged in the Preamble and elongated in the Fundamental Rights and Directive Principles of the Constitution, in particular Articles 14, 15, 16, 21, 38, 39 and 46 are to make the quality of the life of the poor, disadvantaged and disabled citizens of the society meaningful."

11. So far as the judgment delivered by the Full Bench of this Court in Gaurav Sharma (supra) is concerned, the same, apparently, has no applicability; in as much as, the Full Bench of this Court was dealing with the candidature of an OBC candidate, for which declaration had to be in the format as requisite information had to be furnished so as to determine as to whether the person is belonging to non-creamy layer in the OBC category of State or not? In view of the same, the court is of the opinion that ratio of the full bench judgement will not apply in the facts and circumstance of the present case.

12. The Supreme Court in the case of Seema Kumari Sharma vs. State of H.P. (1998) 9 SCC 128 has considered the issue regarding failure of a candidate to furnish a certificate regarding reservation claimed by her along with the application form. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that the failure of a candidate to submit certificate regarding weightage or reservation at the time of submission of application form does not dis-entitle her to claim consideration on the basis thereof. The Supreme Court observed that the respondents did not dispute the certificate, but only disputed the time of its production before them to claim consideration. The appellant had already appeared for the examinations conducted, but her result had not been announced. She filed a representation claiming award of 10 marks allotted for the candidates belonging to IRDP Families (Families belonging to backward Panchayat). The Supreme Court allowed the appellant's claim and directed declaration of her result and for inclusion of her name in the training meant for Junior Basic Teachers' Training Course and also directed her appointment to be considered in accordance with the Rules, if she completed her training successfully. The Supreme Court in fact, directed that the certificate produced by the candidate, which would otherwise entitle her to claim weightage, even on a later date, can be considered for providing appointment.

13. In the facts and circumstances of the case merely for the reason that O.B.C. certificate was not submitted by the petitioner within the time, the authorities would not be justified in denying petitioner's consideration for appointment in O.B.C. category. If a person belonging to a reserve category, a certificate issued by the competent authority to this effect is only affirmation of the fact which is already in existence. The purpose of such certificate is enable the authorities to believe in the assertion of the candidate that he belongs to a reserved category.

14. In view of the same, the court is of the opinion that the petitioner is entitled for the relief as claimed for by him in the present writ petition.

15. In view of the aforesaid, this writ petition is disposed of with the direction upon the authorities concerned to treat the petitioner as O.B.C. category candidate and pass further orders in respect of his candidature.

16. It goes without saying that correctness of the certificate would, otherwise, be open to be examined before issuing a formal order of appointment to the petitioner.

17. The aforesaid exercise be completed within a period of three months from the date of production of self attested computer generated copy of this order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad.

18. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is allowed.

1. The petition seeks issuance of a writ in the nature of certiorari for quashing the impugned order dated 20.03.2020 passed by respondent no.4, contained at Annexure 1 to the petition and also to quash the list dated 27.05.2020 issued by respondent no.6 containing names of 30 Junior Engineers.

The petition also seeks to quash the list prepared by respondent no.7 containing names of 30 Junior Engineers who have acquired the B. Tech/AMIE Degree without taking due permission from the appointing authority and command the respondents to consider for promotion and to promote only those Junior Engineers as Assistant Engineers under 8.33% quota as stands prescribed in Regulation 5(1)(d) of the U.P. State Electricity Board Services of Engineers Regulations, 1970 who have acquired B.Tech/AMIE degree after taking permission from the competent authority.

2. The brief facts giving rise to the present petition are stated as under :

i. The petitioners were recruited and appointed as Junior Engineers by direct recruitment through a selection conducted by the Electricity Service Commission of the UPPCL. The petitioners while working as Junior Engineers obtained engineering degree after obtaining due permission from the competent authority.

ii. For making promotion on the post of Assistant Engineers from the post of Junior Engineers under 8.33% quota, a letter dated 07.08.2019 was issued from the office of respondent no.5 calling for applications from the Junior Engineers under the 8.33% quota in the prescribed format accompanied with educational certificates including the diploma/degree, mark-sheet and permission letter/order of the competent authority. A reminder letter dated 06.09.2019 was also issued to this effect. Letter dated 07.08.2019 and 06.09.2019 makes it clear that the names of only those Junior Engineers is to be considered for promotion on the post of Assistant Engineers under the 8.33% quota who have acquired the B.E./AIME Degree after taking due permission from the department for taking admission for pursuing the course of B.E./AIME.

iii. The petitioners submitted their application forms for being considered for promotion on the post of Assistant Engineers to the competent authority, which have been forwarded by the Superintending Engineer to the Chief Engineers vide letter dated 07.09.2019 and 13.09.2019. Total 104 Junior Engineers submitted their application forms on the post of Assistant Engineers under 8.33% quota to the controlling/competent officer. The petitioner no.1 finds place at serial no.53 whereas the name of petitioner no.2 was at Serial No.57.

iv. The Screening Committee scrutinize the application forms as submitted by the Junior Engineers, their character rolls and the personal files of the Junior Engineers and after the said exercise, the committee prepared a list of the suitable candidates for the promotion to the post of Assistant Engineers. The list so prepared was forwarded by the Chairman of Screening Committee to the Board and the Board prepared a final list known as "select list' containing the names of the candidates from amongst which the promotion is made.

v. The State Government in order to grant relaxation in qualifying service for promotion has framed the Rules known as "U.P. Government Servants Relaxation in Qualifying Service for Promotion Rules 2006, which was lastly amended on 24.04.2013 vide U.P. Government Servants Relaxation in Qualifying Service for Promotion (First Amendment) Rules, 2013 and the same have been adopted by the Uttar Pradesh Corporation Limited in its 100th Meeting held on 31.07.2013.

vi. Earlier the petitioners have filed a writ petition Service Single No.32367 of 2019 (Ashish Kumar Mishra and another vs. State of U.P. and others) before this Hon'ble Court with the prayer to command to the respondents to consider for promotion and to promote only those Junior Engineers as Assistant Engineers under 8.33% quota as prescribed in Regulation 5(1)(d) of the U.P. State Electricity Board Services of Engineers Regulations, 1970 who have acquired B.Tech/AMIE degree after taking permission from the competent authority. The said writ petition was disposed of vide order dated 25.11.2019 passed by a coordinate Bench of this Court with direction to decide the representation of the petitioners.

vii. In pursuance to order passed by this Court dated 25.11.2019, the petitioners jointly submitted a representation dated 29.11.2019, which has been rejected by the impugned order dated 20.03.2020, contained at Annexure 1 to the writ petition. Therefore, the instant writ petition.

3. Dr. L. P. Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the petitioners were recruited and appointed as Junior Engineers by direct recruitment through a selection process conducted by the Electricity Service Commission of the U.P.P.C.L. The next promotional post from the Junior Engineer is Assistant Engineer. It is submitted that the said promotion is made in accordance with the U.P. State Electricity Board Services of Engineers Regulations 1970 (for short "Regulations 1970) which have been framed by the Uttar Pradesh Electricity Board in exercise of Powers conferred under section 79 (c) of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948. He has referred the Regulations 5 (1) of the Regulations 1970, which have been amended from time to time. The same reads as under:

(1).As per the rules, the total sanctioned posts of Assistant Engineer for recruitment in the service will be divided into different categories and the proceedings for recruitment/ promotion against vacancies of each category will be done separately every year and the year and the category in which the posts are vacant, the recruitment / promotion shall be made in that category.

(a). for direct recruitment from Trained Engineers - 50.33%

(c). By promotion from amongst the confirmed and qualified computers (Selection Grade) (E/M) in the manner prescribed in Appendix 'C - 1.33%

(d). By promotion from amongst the degree holder Junior Engineers/Computer who have qualified B.E./AIME and have rendered 10 years of qualified service as Junior Engineer/Computer on 1st of July of the selection year.

Provided that the number of posts to be filled against the category (d) shall be divided amongst Junior Engineers and Computers in proportion described above under category (b) and (c).

4. The learned counsel for the petitioners Mr. Mishra has submitted that the petitioners while working as Junior Engineers has obtained B.Tech degree after taking due permission from the appointing authority as for acquiring any degree while remaining in service, the prior permission is required from the appointing/competent authority as per order dated 25.01.1979, issued by the Board which has been followed by another order dated 18.08.1982, providing therein that if, any employee of the Board has taken the admission in any educational institute for acquiring any qualification without the permission of the authority, then disciplinary proceedings will be initiated against such employee and a request be also made to the institute to cancel the admission of such employee.

5. The learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the applications were invited for making promotion on the post of Assistant Engineer from the post of Junior Engineer under 8.33% quota vide letter dated 07.08.2019 and the eligible Juniors Engineers who acquired the B.E./AMIE degree submitted their application forms in the prescribed format annexing the copy of the permission. Reminder letter dated 06.09.2019 was also issued to direct the Junior Engineers to submit attested copy of permission letter granted by the department. The petitioners have also submitted their application forms in the prescribed format.

It has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that the select list so forwarded to respondent no.6 by respondent no.7 includes the several names of Junior Engineers who have acquired B.E./AMIE degree without taking due permission from the competent authority, which is utter violation of the order dated 07.08.2019 and 06.09.2019. Learned counsel submits that on earlier occasion when the respondents were going the promote those Junior Engineers who have acquired the degree of B.E./A.M.I.E. without taking due permission from the competent authority, the petitioners have filed a Writ Petition Service Single No.32367 of 2019 (Ashish Kumar Mishra and another vs. State of U.P. and others) before this Hon'ble Court, which has been disposed of vide judgment and order dated 25.11.2019. While disposing of the aforesaid writ petition, the Hon'ble Court has been pleased to direct the respondents to decide the representation in accordance with law within a period of three weeks in terms of Circular dated 07.08.2019.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners Sri Mishra, has submitted that in pursuance to order dated 25.11.2019, the petitioners submitted a joint representation to the U.P. Power Corporation Limited and the same was rejected by the impugned order dated 20.03.2020 in an illegal and arbitrary manner without considering the facts and without application of mind.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the Managing Director while passing the impugned order has failed to consider the true import and purport of the Circular issued by the Board on 25.01.1979 and 18.08.1982 which inter-alia provides that acquiring educational qualification while in service of UPPCL without its permission is a misconduct. The Managing Director also failed to consider the import and purport of the letter dated 07.08.2019 issued by the opposite party no. 5 wherein it was clearly mentioned that the Junior Engineers who have not submitted the attested copies of educational certificates and the permission letter/order their name shall not be considered for promotion under 8.33% quota. Further, while rejecting the representation of the petitioners, the Managing Director instead of placing reliance on the letter dated 07.08.2019 has placed reliance on the condition No. 17 of proforma attached with the letter dated 07.08.2019 which indeed also supports the case of the petitioners, in as much as, the said condition was mentioned in the proforma only in order to consider those Junior Engineers for promotion to the post of Assistant Engineers under 8.33% quota who have taken due permission from the department for acquiring degree.

8. It has also been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioners that while passing the impugned order, the Managing Director has failed to consider that the Circulars issued by the Board were supplemental to the Regulations, 1970 as the Regulations, 1970 are silent on the issue of acquiring degree without the permission of the Department. It is more than well settled that if, the Rules of Regulations are silent on some issues then the same can be supplemented and supplanted by the Government orders i.e. Board Circulars in the case in hand. The Managing Director while placing reliance on office circular dated 11.07.1996, whereby the procedure of making promotion was prescribed has recorded that in the procedure nowhere it has been provided that the Junior Engineers who have not taken permission for obtaining Engineering/A.M.I.E. Degree while remaining in service cannot be promoted to the post of Assistant Teacher under 8.33 % quota but while giving the said finding has failed to consider that the competent authority i.e. the Apex Body of the Corporation had already taken a decision that obtaining an Engineering/A.M.I.E. degree while remaining in service of the corporation without obtaining prior permission for undertaking such a course is a misconduct. An act of commission or omission constituting a misconduct cannot at all form the edifice of eligibility for promotion to a higher post.

9. It is submitted that the reason assigned by the Managing Director in the impugned order to the effect that Board Circular dated 18.08.1982 does not puts a bar for making promotion of Junior Engineers who have acquired the degree without the permission of the Department is completely misconceived, in as much as, the admission taken by a Government Servant in an academic course without prior permission of the competent authority constitutes 'misconduct' and any person who has committed 'misconduct' cannot be awarded by promotion to higher post for obtaining degree unauthorisedly.

10. In support of the arguments, learned counsel for the petitioners Dr. L. P. Mishra has relied upon the judgments of Hon'ble the Apex Court in the cases reported at (2013) 16 SCC 147 [Union of India and another vs. Ashok Kumar Aggarwal]; (2008) 4 SCC 171 [Dhananjay Malik and others vs. State of Uttaranchal and others]; (1998) 8 SCC 753 [State of Orrisa and others vs. Mamtarani Sahoo and another]; (1999) 7 SCC 84 [Paper Products Ltd. vs. Commissioner of Central Excise]; and (2007) 2 SCC 326 [Commissioner of Income Tax, Bhopal vs. Ralson Industries Ltd.]

11. Per contra, the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents vehementaly opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioner and submitted that all private respondents have obtained AMIE degree (except opposite party no.10 who had already obtained B.E. degree in the year 1993). The learned counsel further submitted that for obtaining the AMIE degree, there are no requirement for prior permission from the higher authorities as per the office order dated 19.12.1985. It is submitted that the present writ petition filed by the petitioners is nothing but sheer abuse of the process of the law as the petitioners have not come with clean hands before this Hon'ble Court as they have not only concealed the material information from this Hon'ble Court but have deliberately tried to mislead this Hon'ble Court by showing incorrect and misleading documents. The private respondents, admittedly, have requisite qualification required for being eligible for the selection on the promotional posts of Assistant Engineer and they all are senior to the petitioners. They have been selected by the Screening/Selection Committee. He has referred the Office Order No.3293-N-IX/FEB/85 dated 19.12.1985 by which no requirement of any permission for departmental employees for joining AMIE Engineering Course. However, it was made obligatory on the employee concerned only to intimate / inform the Board/appointing authority through his/her superior officer about joining in A.M.I.E. Engineering Course.

12. The learned Standing Counsel has also submitted that all private respondents in pursuance of the aforesaid office memo dated 19.12.1985 had already informed/intimated their respective appointing authorities through their superior officers about pursuing A.M.I.E. Engineering Course, which has already been forwarded by the superior authorities to their higher authorities for necessary and further action. The petitioners had done B.E. (Part Time/Evening Classes) while in the services of the respondent department. For doing B.E. (Part-Time/Evening Classes), which is not a correspondence course, therefore, it is required attendance and therefore, permission of the employer is mandatory. For the doing said regular Engineering course, an employee has to obtain permission from the authorities concerned in terms of the Office Order No.1717-N.G.-09 (A)/RA.VI.P./88-62-K-85 dated 27.05.1988, whereby it was made mandatory to obtain requisite permission from the Authorities concerned for doing B.E. (Part-Time/Evening Classes) course but for the AMIE course, where there is no requirement of attending regular classes, it was only obligatory on the part of the employee to intimate/inform their respective appointing authorities through their superiors which in the present case had been done by all the private respondents.

13. It is also submitted that reliance of the petitioners on circulars dated 07.08.2019 & 06.09.2019 (Annexure No.8 & 9 to the Writ Petition) is also totally unwarranted and misconceived and there is nothing in the said circular that suggest that permission for doing AMIE course is mandatory, whereas the said circulars were issued to seek certain information and do not lay down any mandatory guidelines, thus, will have no impact on the position of the private respondents. Such circulars can not override the Office Order dated 19.12.1985 which were issued particularly for a specific purpose whereby it had been categorically provided that there was no requirement of any permission for departmental employees for joining AMIE Engineering Course. It is further submitted that there is no Rule or Regulation or Order that the permission is required even for appearing in A.M.I.E examinations and that an employee who had not taken prior permission shall not be eligible for consideration for promotion on the Post of Assistant Engineer against 8.33% quota.

14. Learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that letter dated 20.05.2020 was issued only to collect the information of disciplinary proceedings of employees under 8.33% quota. Vide letter dated 07.08.2019, it is evident that it was only the information which the department seeks from the employees. There was no such arrangement made by the department for those employees who have obtained their degree without the permission by the department will be deprived of promotion. It has also been submitted that the eligibility for promotion on the post of Assistant Engineer against 8.33% quota has been provided in the Regulations namely U.P.S.E.B. Service Engineers Regulations 1970 as amended on 28.11.2014. There is no rule or office order that permission was required for appearing in the examination of AMIE and that an employee who had not taken permission shall not be eligible for promotion on the post of Assistant Engineer against 8.33% quota. All the private respondents have granted the certificate of clearing AMIE examination and they appearing after giving prior permission/intimation to their superior officers/ competent authorities.

It is pertinent to mention that the permission is only required for the employees who have obtained the degree from the courses where the attendance were required for obtaining such degree i.e. B.E. (Part Time/Evening Classes) but in the course of AMIE, which is a correspondence course, no attendance is required. Therefore, the petitioner has failed to make out any case for interference and thus, the present petition has no merit and it is liable to be dismissed.

15. Pleadings have been completed by way of counter affidavits and rejoinder affidavits which are already on the record.

16. I have given our anxious consideration to the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and also perused the pleadings on record.

17. The moot questions arose for consideration in the present writ petition are that - i. Whether is it case of the petitioners that private respondents have obtained degree without obtaining the permission of the competent authority as required ?

ii. Whether the Government can, by way of administrative instructions, fill up the gaps and supplement the Rules and issue instructions not in consistent with the Rules already framed, if Rules are silent on any particular point ?

iii. Whether in the case of the private respondents who have been admittedly obtained AMIE Degree, which is a correspondence course and in that case, prior permission is required or not ?

18. For the proper adjudication of the instant writ petition, the Court has to examine the Circulars of the Government issued from time to time. The respondents have relied on the office order No.3293-N-IX/FEB/85 dated 19.12.1985 which provides that prior permission is not required when the employee obtained the engineering degree from the course of AMIE. For ready reference, the office order dated 19.12.1985 is reproduced as under :

No.3293-N-IX(A)/FEB/85 Date: Dec,19,1985

All General Managers/Chief Engineers/
Chief Zoal Engineers/Addl. Chief Engineers/
Chief Project Managers,
U.P.State Electricity Board,

SUBJECT: Permission for joining BE/AMIE Engineering Degree course in case of departmental employees.

Sir,

Kindly refer Board's letter No. 632-K-IX(A)/SEB/85, dated 14-2-1985 on the subject mentioned above.

On re-consideration Board have decided to withdraw the above order (in part) only to the extent that no restrictions shall be imposed on Field Authorities in granting permission for joining AMIE Engineering Course to the departmental employees.

It will be obligatory on the employee concerned to intimate the Board/appointing authority through his superior officer about his joining AMIE Engineering course.

Orders in R.O.No. 632-K-IX(A)-SEB/85, dt. 14-2-85 in respect of permission for admission to B.E. Degree course shall, however, stand without any change.

I am directed to say that necessary action in the matter may kindly be taken accordingly.

कार्यालय ज्ञाप

परिषद में कार्यरत कर्मचारियों को बी0ई0 (पार्ट टाइम) के अध्ययन करने हेतु पूर्व में निर्गत किये गये सभी आदेशों का अतिक्रमण करते हुए सम्यक विचारोपरान्त परिषद सहर्ष आदेश देते हैं कि अब से अराजपत्रित कर्मचारियों को बी0ई0(पार्ट टाइम) के अध्ययन हेतु अनुमति केवल मुख्य अभियन्ता (जल विद्युत) उ0 प्र0 राज्य विद्युत परिषद, लखनऊ द्वारा अधोलिखित प्रतिबन्धों के साथ प्रदान की जाएगीः–

(1) एक शिक्षा सत्र में उपर्युक्त अनुमति किसी कार्यालय में कार्यरत कर्मचारियों की कुल संख्या के 10 प्रतिशत से अधिक कर्मचारियों को अनुमन्य नहीं होगी।

(2) यदि अनुमति प्रदान करने के उपरान्त ऐसा प्रतीत होता है कि जिस कर्मचारी को उक्त अनुमति प्रदान की गई है उससे उसके कार्य में शिथिलता आ गई है या उसके कार्य सम्पादन में हास उत्पन्न हो गया है अथवा उक्त अनुमति देना परिषदीय हित में नहीं है, तो किसी भी समय बिना किसी पूर्व सूचना के उसकी अनुमति निरस्त की जा सकेगी।

(3) केवल उन कर्मचारियों को अध्ययन की अनुमति प्रदान किये जाने पर विचार किया जाएगा जो प्रेषण/वितरण क्षेत्र के अन्तर्गत एक ही स्थान पर 3 वर्ष से कम तथा ताप/जल विद्युत परियोजनाओं पर 5 वर्ष से कम समय से कार्यरत हों। इस अवधि से अधिक उक्त विशेष स्थान पर कार्यरत कर्मचारियों को अध्ययन की अनुमति प्रदान नहीं की जायेगी।

(4) कर्मचारी को अध्ययन की अनुमति केवल उतनी ही अवधि के लिए दी जाएगी जितनी अवधि उस पाठ्यक्रम विशेष के लिए निर्धारित है। अपरिहार्य कारणों से (जिसका पूर्व विवरण उपलब्ध कराना आवश्यक होगा) विशेष परिस्थिति में मात्र एक पाठ्यक्रम तक इसे बढ़ाया जा सकता है। इससे अधिक की अनुमति नहीं दी जाएगी।

(5) अध्ययन की अनुमति प्राप्त करने हेतु कर्मचारियों के प्रार्थना–पत्र एवं वचन–पत्र ;न्दकमतजांपदहद्ध निर्धारित प्रपत्र पर (संलग्नक–1) सम्बन्धित क्षेत्रीय अधिकरी द्वारा अपनी संस्तुति के साथ आगामी कार्यवाही हेतु मुख्य अभियन्ता (जल विद्युत) को प्रेषित किये जाएंगे।

(6) निर्धारित प्रपत्र पर अनुमति प्राप्त करने के प्रस्ताव सत्र आरम्भ होने की दिनांक से कम से कम 60 दिन पूर्व मुख्य अभियन्ता (जल विद्युत) को अवश्य उपलब्ध हो जाने चाहिए।

(7) कर्मचारी को एक पाठ्यवर्ष के लिए अध्ययन की अनुमति प्रदान कर दिये जाने के बाद अगले पाठ्यवर्ष के लिए पुनः अनुमति प्राप्त हो जाने के उपरान्त ही अध्ययन जारी किया जा सकता है।

(8) अनुमति के नवीनीकरण के मामले मुख्य अभियन्ता (जल विद्युत) को प्रेषित करते समय कर्मचारी की पिछले सत्र के अंक–पत्र ;डंतोंीममजद्ध की प्रमाणित फोटो–प्रतिलिपि भी उपलब्ध कराना अनिवार्य होगा।

(9) ऐसे कर्मचारी जो वी0ई0 (पार्ट टाइम) की सुविधा प्रदान करने वाले संस्थान के नगर से किसी अन्य नगर में तैनात है, तथा उन्होंने परिषद में तीन वर्ष की नियमित सेवा पूर्ण कर ली है, यदि उन्हें किसी संस्थान में अध्ययन हेतु प्रवेश सुनिश्चित हो जाता है तो वैसी स्थिति में अन्य औपचारिकताओं के पूर्ण होने पर इन कर्मचारियों को पार्ट टाइम अध्ययन की अनुमति प्रदान किये जाने में कोई आपत्ति नहीं हेगी किन्तु प्रतिबन्ध यह होगा कि अध्ययन के उद्देश्य हेतु इन कर्मचारियों के स्थानान्तरण पर कोई विचार नहीं किया जायेगा बल्कि उन्हें वित्तीय हस्त–पुस्तिका भाग (2), खण्ड 2 से 4 के मूल नियम 84 तथा सहायक नियम 146 (ए) (संलग्नक–2) के अन्तर्गत बिना वेतन के अध्ययन अवकाश का उपभोग करते हुए अध्ययन पूर्ण करना होगा। कर्मचारी से इस आशय के सहमति पत्र प्राप्त हो जाने पर ही उन्हे अनुमति प्रदान किये जाने पर विचार किया जा सकेगा।

(10)ऐसे कर्मचारी जो0 बी0ई0 (पार्ट टाइम) के अध्ययन की सुविधा प्रदान करने वाले संस्थान के नगर

2. पूर्व में परिषद द्वारा जिन कर्मचारियों को बी0 ई0 (पार्ट टाइम) के अध्ययन हेतु अनुमति प्रदान की जा चुक है, उन्हें अगले पाठ्य–सत्र में अध्ययन हेतु यदि अनुमति के नवीनीकरण की आवश्यकता होती है तो ऐसे मामले भी उपरोक्त प्रतिबन्धों के साथ मुख्य अभियन्ता (जल विद्युत) द्वारा ही निस्तारित किए जाएंगे।

The competent authority, after considering the case of the petitioners has passed the order, which is impugned in this petition. The relevant portion is quoted as under:

"उक्त आदेशों के दृष्टिगत, आप द्वारा एक संयुक्त प्रत्यावेदन दिनांक 29.11.2019 प्रस्तुत किया गया, जिसमें मूल रूप से निम्नांकित बिन्दुओं का उल्लेख करते हुये, यह अनुरोध किया गया है कि ऐसे अवर अभियन्ताओं को जिन्होनें बिना विभाग की अनुमति प्राप्त किये शिक्षा ग्रहण की है, को पदोन्नति प्रकिया से बाहर किया जाएः–

मुख्य अभियन्ता जल विद्युत के कार्यालय पत्रांक संख्या 564–अनु0–प्रथम/2019, दिनांक 07.08.2019 द्वारा जारी पत्र में 8.33ः कोटे के अन्तर्गत प्रोन्नति हेतु मांगे गये आवेदन में स्पष्ट रूप से उल्लेख किया गया था कि डिग्री धारी अवर अभियन्ताओं को अपने समस्त प्रमाण पत्रों के साथ उच्च शिक्षा हेतु विभाग द्वारा जारी अनुमति पत्र की सत्यापित प्रति संलग्न करना आवश्यक है एवं बिना अनुमति पत्र के आवेदन करने वाले आवेदकों के आवेदनों पर प्रोन्नति हेतु विचार करना नियमानुकूल नहीं होगा।

6- मुख्य अभियन्ता (जल विद्युत) द्वारा निर्गत आदेश संख्या–564, दिनांक 07.08.2019 एवं तत्परिप्रेक्ष्य में निर्गत अनुस्मरण पत्र संख्या–717, दिनांक 06.09.2019 के साथ संलग्न किये गये प्रारूप के बिन्दु सं.–17 में निम्नांकित उल्लेख हैः–

"Whether permission from competen authority for joining BE/AMIE course accorded? If yes, indicate reference no. and enclosed a copy thereof."

7. उक्त के अतिरिक्त प्रस्तुत किये गये अभ्यावेदन में एक ऐसे ही प्रकरण का उल्लेख करते हुये मा. उच्च न्यायालय, इलाहाबाद में दाखिल की गयी याचिका संख्या–6544/1999 में दिये गये जिस निर्णय को सन्दर्भित किया जा रहा है, उसका प्रश्नगत प्रकरण से कोई सम्बन्ध नही है, क्योकि याचिका संख्या–6544/1999 में दिया गया निर्णय सम्बन्धित याचिका में उठाये गये बिन्दुओ के परिप्रेक्ष्य में है।

अतः उक्त के परिप्रेक्ष्य में, आप से प्राप्त प्रत्यावेदन दिनांक 05.12.2019 वर्णित परिस्थितियों में स्वीकार किये जाने योग्य नहीं पाया जाता है एवं इसे तद्नुसार निस्तारित किया जाता है।"

25. The case of the private respondents is that AMIE course is not a regular course and it is a correspondence course, therefore, the permission is not required and only intimation/information to his superior officers is to be given. The department of energy has also stated that the information was given by the private respondents for pursuing the AMIE degree course.

26. AMIE is a B.Tech level examination in engineering, recognized by all State Governments, Central Governments, AICTE, UPSC etc as equivalent to B.E/B.Tech. AMIE is that, it is a recognized Engineering Degree Course that can be studied in distance education mode. It is admitted fact that all private respondents (except respondent no.10) have obtained engineering degree through AMIE degree course and not from regular classes.

27. From the facts revealed through the instant petition and the affidavits filed by the respective parties, it is clear that the private respondents have obtained the graduation certificate in Engineering from AMIE degree course, which is a B.Tech. level examination in engineering recognized by all State Governments for which regular classes are not required.

28. If any course which is not required for regular classes for obtaining a degree, whether is it 'misconduct' committed by the private respondents?

29. The question is what is misconduct? In normal service parlance the term 'misconduct' implies a wrongful intention and not a mere error of judgment. The word 'misconduct' is to be construed with reference to the subject matter and the context wherein the term occurs, having regard to the scope of the Act or statute which is being construed. In usual parlance, 'misconduct' means a transgression of some established and definite rule of action, where no discretion is left, except what necessity may demand. 'Misconduct' is a forbidden quality of an act and is necessarily indefinite. 'Misconduct' in office may be defined as unlawful behaviour or neglect by a public officer of his duties i.e. devotion to duty.

30. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Union of India and others vs. Harjeet Singh Sandhu; (2001) 5 SCC 593 (in para 22) held as under:

"In the context in which the term misconduct has been used in Rule 14, it is to be given a wider meaning and any wrongful act or any act of delinquency which may or may not involve moral turpitude, would be misconduct, and certainly so, if it is subversive of army discipline or high traditions of army and/or if it renders the person unworthy of being retained in service. The language of sub-rule(2) of Rule 14 employing the expression the reports on an officers misconduct uses reports in plural and misconduct in singular. Here plural would include singular and singular would include plural. A single report on an officers misconduct may invite an action under Section 19 read with Rule 14 and there may be cases where there may be more reports than one on a singular misconduct or more misconducts than one in which case it will be the cumulative effect of such reports on misconduct or misconducts, which may lead to the formation of requisite satisfaction and opinion within the meaning of sub-rule (2) of Rule 14.

31. Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Baldev Singh Gandhi vs. State of Punjab and others (2002) 3 SCC 667 has held as under:

"Misconduct' has not been defined in the Act. The word 'misconduct' is antithesis of the word 'conduct'. Thus, ordinarily the expression 'misconduct' means wrong or improper conduct, unlawlful behaviour, misfeasance, wrong conduct, misdemeanour etc. There being different meaning of the expression 'misconduct', we, therefore, have to construe the expression 'misconduct' with reference to the subject and the context wherein the said expression occurs. Regard being had to the aims and objects of the statute. The appellant herein is an elected municipal councilor to a democratic institution i.e. local body. The aim and object of the Act is to make better provisions for administration of municipalities. The municipality is a democratic institution of self governance consisting of local people and for the local people and by the local people. The prime object of the local body is to serve the local people and to provide amenities and service to the people residing within the municipality. As a representative of the public it is the duty of an elected representative to see that the public of his constituency are not burdened with excessive and arbitrary levy. No doubt, a municipal commissioner holds a statutory office in a municipal council, but no statutory code of conduct in respect of municipal councilors has been enacted. However, it is a different question whether such a law could be framed as to restrict the freedom of speech and expression of a municipal councilor. However, it must be borne in mind that the appellant was not an employee or a servant of the municipal council and also never held any office of profit in the municipal council. Every citizen, inasmuch as a municipal councilor, has a freedom of speech and expression under Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution which includes fair criticism of the law or any executive action. Freedom of speech and expression is guaranteed in our democratic republic both in legislature as well as in local bodies and, therefore, a legislator or a municipal councilor legitimately can express his views in regard to what he thinks to be in public interest. A legitimate exercise of right of speech and expression including a fair criticism is not to be throttled"

32. The meaning of the word "misconduct" explained in Harjeet Singh's case (supra), Baldev Singh Gandhi's case (supra) had been considered and followed in M. M. Malhotra Vs Union of India and Ors (2005) SCC 351. In M. M. Malhotra's case (supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:f

"The range of activities which may amount to acts which are inconsistent with the interest of public service and not befitting the status, position and dignity of a public servant are so varied that it would be impossible for the employer to exhaustively enumerate such acts and treat the categories of misconduct as closed. It has, therefore, to be noted that the word "misconduct" is not capable of precise definition. But at the same time though incapable of precise definition, the word "misconduct" on reflection receives its connotation from the context, the delinquency in performance and its effect on the discipline and the nature of the duty. The act complained of must bear a forbidden quality or character and its ambit has to be construed with reference to the subject matter and the context wherein the term occurs, having regard to the scope of the statute and the public purpose it seeks to serve.

In Union of India V Harjeet Singh Sandhu: (2001) 5 SCC 593, in the background of Rule 14 of the Army Rules, it was held that any wrongful act or any act of delinquency which may or may not involve moral turpitude would be "misconduct" under Rule 14.

In Baldev Singh Gandhi Vs State of Punjab: (2002) 3 SCC 667 it was held that the expression "misconduct" means unlawful behaviour, misfeasance, wrong conduct, mis-demeanour, etc.

Similarly, in State of Punjab Vs Ram Singh Ex Constable: (1992) 4 SCC 54 it was held that the term "misconduct" may involve moral turpitude. It must be improper or wrong bahaviour, unlawful behaviour, willful in character, forbidden act, a transgression of established and definite rule of action or code of conduct but not mere error of judgment, carelessness or negligence in performance of the duty; the act complained of bears forbidden quality or character.

"misconduct: as stated in Batt's Law of Master and Servant (4th Edn at p. 63) "comprised positive acts and not mere neglect or failures". The definition of the word as given in Ballentine's Law Dictionary (148th Edn.) is: "a transgression of some established and definite rule of action, where no discretion is left except what necessity may demand, it is a violation of definite law, a forbidden act. It differs from carelessness. "

It may be generally stated that the conduct rules of the government and public sector corporations constitute a code of permissible acts and behaviour of their servants."

33. The contentions of the learned counsel for the petitioners that taking admission for obtaining a degree course without the permission is a "misconduct' but it is admitted fact, as per the record available, that all the private respondents (except respondent no.10) have not taken admission in regular courses for obtaining the degree of engineering but they have obtained the degree through AMIE course which is a correspondence course where attending of classes are not required. Hence, it is clear that where regular attendance is necessary and time of classes clashes with the working hours of the official duty, prior permission is necessary from the competent authority. If any candidate is attending the classes during office hours, shall certainly be a misconduct and the said person who committed this type of mistake cannot be awarded promotion to the next higher post as he has obtained the certificate unauthorizedly.

34. In the instant case, Regulation 5(1)(d) of the "Regulations 1970' provides that by promotion from amongst the degree holder Junior Engineers/Computer who have qualified B.E./AMIE and have rendered ten years of qualified service as Junior Engineer/Computer on 1st of July of the selection year. Therefore, there is no mention about any prior permission from the competent authority for obtaining the B.E./AMIE course. The aforesaid regulation only provides that ten years of qualified service is required as Junior Engineer possessing B.E./AMIE degree courses.

35. Learned counsel for the petitioners has also relied upon the Circular dated 25.01.1979 issued by the Board in which it is stated that for acquiring any degree while remaining in service, the prior permission is required from the appointing/competent authority. He has also relied on the order dated 18.08.1982, which was issued in furtherance of the circular dated 25.01.1979 wherein it is mentioned that if any employee of the Board has taken admission in any educational institute for acquiring any qualification without the permission of the competent authority then disciplinary proceedings will be initiated against such employee.

36. Since the petitioners have relied upon the aforesaid two circulars/orders dated 25.01.1979 and 18.08.1982, then I have to examine both the orders in terms of the degree which was obtained by the private respondents through AMIE course. I have also to examine that for obtaining the degree from AMIE, whether the employee has taken the admission in any institute for attending the classes during office hours.

37. AMIE is a recognized engineering degree course that can be studied in distance education mode. This course does not demand any classroom attendance and anyone who meets the specified eligibility criteria can become a graduate engineer in the least possible time and expense. Since AMIE course arrange Postal Classes, therefore, this course is not required any attendance in classrooms and it is especially suitable for employed person, as they can study this course without being interfering with their job. Only enrollment for the course is required and all enrolled students can appear in the examination in any centre convenient to them in all major cities in India.

38. In the present case, the petitioners have done B.E. (Part Time/Evening Classes) while in the services of the respondents department. For doing the B.E., attending of regular classes are required which are in during office hours. Therefore, as per the Circular/Order dated 25.01.1979, prior permission from the department is required. But in the case of the private respondents, they have enrolled themselves in AMIE degree course which is a correspondence course and not the regular course for which no attendance is required.

39. The U.P. State Electricity Board vide its Circular/order dated 19.12.1985 withdraw the earlier order (in part) only to the extent that no restrictions shall be imposed on authorities in granting permission for joining AMIE Engineering Course to the departmental employees and it will be obligatory on the employee concerned to intimate the Board/appointing authority through his superior officer about his joining AMIE Engineering Course.

40. A bare perusal of the Board's Circular dated 19.12.1985, it is crystal clear that in the case of the private respondents, who has obtained the engineering degree from AMIE course, it was mandatory to inform the appointing authority through his superior officers regarding their enrollment in the AMIE course but no prior permission was required. Thus, in these circumstances, I am of the opinion that private respondents have obtained the engineering degree from AMIE course as per the Board's Circular by giving information/intimation to the competent authority and they have not committed any "misconduct'. "Regulations 1970' is also silent regarding permission or intimation for any engineering degree course. Regulations 5(1)(d) only relates to the eligibility criteria for the promotion.

41. In the case of Sant Ram Sharma vs. Sate of Rajasthan and others reported at AIR 1967 SC 1910 Hon'ble the Apex Court has held that till statutory rules are framed, the Government cannot issue administrative instructions regarding the principle to be followed in promotions of the officials concerned to selection grade posts. It is true that Government cannot amend or supersede statutory rules by administrative instructions, but if the rules are silent on any particular point Government can fill up the gaps and supplement the rules and issue instructions not inconsistent with the rules already framed.

42. In the present case, the Rules provide interalia for consideration of the promotion on the next higher post from amongst the degree holder who have qualified B.E./AMIE and have rendered ten years of qualified service but there are no provisions in the Rules for obtaining any engineering degree to the departmental employees while in service. The said Rule is silent on this point, whether the prior permission can be required for getting the B.E./AMIE degree while in service, this gap was fulfilled by the department in the circular dated 19.12.1985.

43. In view of the aforesaid discussions made hereinabove, the answer to the question no.1 & 3 as framed in para 17 of the judgment is that no prior permission is required for obtaining the AMIE degree which is a distance mode education and only intimation is required as per the Board's Circular dated 19.12.1985.

The answer of question no.2 as framed in para 17 of the judgment is that the Government cannot amend or supersede the statutory rules by administrative instructions but if the rules are silent on any particular point Government can fill up the gaps and supplement the rules and issue instructions not inconsistent with the rules already framed. Since the rules are silent on the point that whether prior permission or only intimation is required for obtaining any degree, the Board has issued circular dated 19.12.1985 in this regard. The Circular is not contrary to the statutory Rules.

44. Therefore, I do not find any illegality or error in reasoning given by the Managing Director, U.P. Power Corporation Limited while rejecting the representations of the petitioners vide the impugned order dated 20.03.2020 (Annexure 1).

45. Having regard to the aforesaid factual and legal position, I am of the opinion that no case for interference in the present writ petition is made out. The writ petition is found to be devoid of any merit and is accordingly dismissed. No costs.

Pending applications, if any, stands disposed of.

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Constitution of India – Article 29 and 30 – U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – Section 16-E, 16-F and 16-FF – Regulations framed under Act, 1921 – Chapter-II, Regulation-17 – U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 – Section 30 – Applicability – Section 16-FF of Act, 1921 makes it very clear that Section 16-F will not apply to minority institutions since an overriding effect has been given by non-obstante clause and in respect of Section 16-E non obstinate clause apply to only sub-section(4) and rest Section 16-F therefore, would be applicable – Section 16-EE has been declared inapplicable to the Institutions established and administered by a minority referred to in Clause (1) of Article 30 of the Constitution of India. (Para 21 and 22)

B. Constitution of India – Article 30 – Regulation 17 framed under Act, 1921 – G.Os. dated 20.03.2018, 06.11.2018, 18.04.2019 and 12.08.2019 – Amendments made in Regulation 17(A), (B), (C), (D), (E), (F) and (G) – West Bengal Madarsah Service Commission Act, 2008 – Ss. 8, 10, 11 and 12 – Selection and appointment of teachers – Enhancement of transparency, efficiency and standard of imparting education to the students – Introduction of holding the screening test through a private recruitment Agency – Validity – Held, Statutory provisions made by the respondent-authorities are even less regulatory than the same were in the case of West Bengal – Only an element of open test in the form of written test has been introduced, which will determine merit of the candidates – This is for bringing in transparency, impartiality, fairness and non arbitrariness in selection and it is in the interest of public at large, students' community and national interest. (Para 42 and 64)

C. Constitution of India – Article 30 – Ambit and Limitation – Minority Institution – Right of administration – State's power – National Interest – Held, any regulation framed in the national interest must necessarily apply to all educational institutions, whether run by majority or minority – Such a limitation must necessarily be read into Article 30 – Right under Article 30(1) cannot be such as to override the national interest or to prevent Government from framing regulations in that behalf – It is, of course, true that government regulations cannot destroy the minority character of institution or make the right to establish and administer a mere illusion, but the right under Article 30 is not so absolute so as to be above the law. (Para 46 and 61)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Radha Kant Ojha, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Shivendu Ojha, Advocate, Sri Ashok Khare, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Aklank Kumar Jain, Sri Anurag Shukla, Advocate, Sri Jamil Ahmad Azmi, Advocate, Sri Syed Khursheed Anwar Alvi, Advocate, Sri Shailendra, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri S.M. Iqbal Hasan, Advocate, for petitioners, and Sri Manish Goel, Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Subhash Rathi, Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondents.

2. In all these 32 writ petitions, mainly filed by Committees of Management of various Secondary Educational Institutions, common questions of law and facts have been raised. Broadly, challenge is to amendment made in Regulation-17, Chapter-II of Regulations framed under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 1921'), notified vide Notification dated 20.03.2018 published in Official Gazette dated 24.03.2018. The petitioners have also challenged Government Order dated 12.03.2018. Since relief prayed in all these writ petitions are broadly similar, the same have been heard together and are being decided by this common judgment.

3. Learned counsel for parties have agreed to treat Writ Petition (Writ- A) No. 9650 of 2018 as a leading writ petition and referred to the pleadings thereof while addressing this Court.

4. The relevant facts disclosed in the leading Writ Petition (Writ- A) No. 9650 of 2018 (hereinafter referred to as 'WP-1'), in brief, may be described as under.

5. WP-1 has been filed by Committee of Management, National Inter College, Shikarpur, Bulandshahr, stating that National Inter College, Shikarpur, Bulandshahr (hereinafter referred to as 'NIC Shikarpur'), is a minority Secondary Educational Institution, recognized by

Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P. (hereinafter referred to as "U.P. Board") and governed by the provisions of Act, 1921. It is imparting education upto Intermediate but aided upto High School level only. For the purpose of payment of salary to teaching and non teaching staff, upto High School, it is governed by the provisions of U.P. High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries to the Teachers and other Employees) Act, 1971 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1971"). It is stated that for selection of teaching staff including Principal, procedure has been provided under Section 16-E and 16-F of Act, 1921. Section 16-FF is an exception making provision for selection of teaching staff in Minority Educational Institutions and provides constitution of Selection Committee as also procedure for appointment. Regulations 10 to 17 provide procedure for appointment of Teachers and Principals in recognized Secondary Educational Institutions.

6. State Government issued an order dated 12.03.2018 stating that in exercise of powers under Section 16(2) of Act, 1921, Governor has approved amendment in Regulation-17 Chapter-II of Regulations framed under Act, 1921. Under the amended provision, selection of teaching staff is now to be made by a Private Agency through Joint Director of Education (hereinafter referred to as "JDE") or District Inspector of Schools (hereinafter referred to as "DIOS") and five names for each vacancy shall be recommended to the College, who will conduct interview and thereafter appointment will be made. It is said that this interference in the right of appointment of teaching staff is violative of Section 16-FF of Act, 1921 read with Article 29 of Constitution of India.

7. Petitioners, have prayed that Government Order dated 12.3.2018 be declared ultra vires, insofar as it relates to Regulation 17(D), Chapter-II of Regulations framed under Act, 1921, of Article 29 of Constitution of India and also Section 16-FF of Act, 1921. A mandamus has also been prayed that respondents should not implement or give effect to Government Order dated 12.03.2018 to the extent Regulation 17(D) of Chapter-II has been amended by aforesaid Government Order.

8. Respondents have contested WP-1 by filing counter affidavit sworn by Sri Radha Krishna Tiwari, DIOS, Bulandshahr, stating that NIC, Shikarpur, District Bulandshahr is a non government recognized Secondary Educational Institution. It is aided by State Government upto High School. It is also admitted that it is a minority institution but governed by Act, 1921 and Act, 1971. Appointments of teachers and employees are made in accordance with the directions contained under Government Orders, issued from time to time. It is said that only Government Order dated 12.03.2018 has been challenged though subsequently it was further amended by Government vide Government Order issued on 20.03.2018 and published in Official Gazette on 24.03.2018 publishing amendments made in Regulation 17 of Act, 1921 by exercising powers under Section 16(2) of Act, 1921. It is said that aforesaid Notification has not been challenged, therefore, writ petition is liable to be dismissed. Regulation 17, Chapter-II of Act, 1921, as has been amended, do not override authority of Management; it is not inconsistent to the rights conferred by Article 29 and 30 of Constitution of India; Managements still has right to select candidates and only for the betterment of Educational Institutions and having competent staff, procedure for screening has been provided by conducting written test through a private agency but it does not affect rights of Management in any manner; it is only for the purpose of making selection process transparent; no absolute power of selection has been given to Educational Authorities or a private agency but power of selection still vests in the Management and the procedure is only to regulate better quality of education and to maintain transparency in selection; there is no interference by State Government in the selection of candidates; amendment does not affect authority of Management, and, instead, procedure is to make the things convenient and transparent.

9. A Supplementary Counter Affidavit has also been filed on behalf of respondents stating that Regulation 17(1)(D), Chapter-II of Regulations has further been amended by Government Orders dated 06.11.2018, 18.04.2019 and 12.08.2019 and since these Government Orders are not challenged, therefore, relief as prayed for in WP-1 cannot be granted and it has rendered infructuous.

10. Necessity to amend Regulation 17(1)(D), Chapter-II of Regulations, arose in order to maintain transparency in the procedure relating to appointment of Teachers and Principals in the Government aided Institutions and to avoid any scope of bias and personal interest on the part of Management. Government received various complaints of favoritism, partiality and other illegalities in the matter of selection and appointment of Teachers in Government aided minority institutions and to remove such eventualities and to ensure appointment of more qualified Teachers and Principals, to make the process of selection free of whims of Management, Regulation-17 has been amended, which is only regulatory in nature.

11. It is further stated that challenging Government Order dated 12.08.2019, Writ Petition No. 27342 (M/B) of 2019 has been filed at Lucknow Bench of this Court, which is pending and therein respondents have filed counter affidavit. It is said that all the writ petitions challenging Government order dated 12.03.2018, without challenging subsequent amendments, are not maintainable having rendered infructuous and deserves to be dismissed.

12. In all other writ petitions, this fact is not disputed that those Institutions are minority Institutions and basically challenge to the amendment made to Regulation 17 is founded on the similar grounds, therefore, we are not repeating the facts of those cases, but, for convenience, place on record, reliefs sought therein in the form of chart, as under :

Gazette dated 24.3.2018 (Annexure-7) to be violative of Article 30(1) of Constitution and being ultra vires. (b) a suitable writ, order or direction of a suitable nature quashing Government Order dated 12.3.2018 (Annexure No.6). (c) a writ, order or direction of a suit nature commanding the respondents to permit the candidates selected for 8 posts of Assistant Teachers in L.T. Grade to function in the institution on their respective posts and also to sanction and disburse the regular monthly salary on the said post regularly every month.

13. Since the contention advanced by learned counsel for parties challenging validity of amendment made in Regulation 17 of Chapter-II are broadly common, therefore, we are dealing with the same collectively.

14. Solitary question up for consideration in these writ petitions is whether amendments made in Regulation 17, Chapter-II vide Government Orders dated 12.03.2018, 06.11.2018, 18.04.2019 and 12.08.2019, are regulatory and valid or hit by Articles 29 and 30 of the Constitution of India and Section 16-FF of Act, 1921.

15. Before coming to Act, 1921, we may place on record that for recruitment of teaching staff including Principals, Provincial Legislature enacted U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1982") whereunder recruitment of Teachers of Secondary Educational Institutions has to be made by U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board (hereinafter referred to as 'Selection Board'). Any appointment made otherwise is void by virtue of Section 16 of the said Act. However, in respect of minority institutions, Act, 1982 has been exempted by virtue of Section 30 thereof, which reads as under :

"30. Exemption to minority Institutions: - Nothing in this Act shall apply to any institution established and administered by a minority referred to in clause (1) of Article 30 of the Constitution of India."

16. In view of Section 30 of Act, 1982, recruitment and selection of Teachers and Principals of Secondary Educational Institutions, which are established and administered by Minority, are not to be made by Selection Board under Act, 1982 but it continues to be governed by the provisions as existed under Act, 1921.

17. Now we come to Act, 1921, which governs selection and appointment of Teachers and Principals of Secondary Educational Institutions in the State of U.P. established and administered by Minority. We may also notice at this stage that there are some institutions which are not in grant-in-aid or some part thereof is not in grant-in-aid. In all these writ petitions, we are concerned with such institutions which are non-Government Minority Institutions but recognized and getting grant-in-aid for payment of salary to the teaching and non teaching staff and governed by Act, 1971, therefore, they are Government aided minority institutions.

18. Under Act, 1921, Section 16-E provides procedure for selection of Teachers and Heads of Institutions and reads as under:

"16E. Procedure for selection of teachers and head of institutions*. - Subject to the provisions of this Act, the* Head of Institution and teachers of an institution shall be appointed by the Committee of Management in the manner hereinafter provided.

(2) Every post of Head of Institution or teacher of an institution shall except to the extent prescribed for being filled by promotion, be filled by direct recruitment after intimation of the vacancy to the Inspector and advertisement of the vacancy containing such particulars as may be prescribed, in at least two newspapers having adequate circulation in the State.

(3) No person shall be appointed as Head of Institution or teacher in an institution unless he possesses the minimum qualification prescribed by the regulations :

Provided that a person who does not possess such qualification may also be appointed if he has been granted exemption by the Board having regard to his education, experience and other attainments.

(4) Every application for appointment as Head of Institution or teacher of an institution in pursuance of an advertisement published under sub-section (2) shall be made to the Inspector and shall be accompanied by such fee which shall be paid in such manner as may be prescribed.

(5) (i) After the receipt of applications under sub-section (4), the Inspector shall cause to be awarded, in respect of each such applications, quality-point marks in accordance with the procedure and principles prescribed, and shall thereafter, forward the applications to the Committee of Management.

(ii) The applications shall be dealt with, the candidates shall be called for interview. and the meeting of the Selection Committee shall be held, in accordance with the Regulation.

(6) The Selection Committee shall prepare a list containing in order of preference the names, as far as practicable*, of three candidates for* each post found by it to be suitable for appointment and shall communicate its-recommendations together with such list to the Committee of Management.

(7) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (8), the Committee of Management shall, on receipt of the recommendations of the Selection Committee under sub-section (6), first offer appointment to the candidate given the first preference by the Selection Committee, and on his failure to join the post, to the candidate next to him in the list prepared by the Selection Committee under this section, and on the failure of such candidate also, to the last candidate specified in such list.

(8) The Committee of Management shall, where it does not agree with the recommendations of the Selection Committee, refer the matter together with the reasons of such disagreement to the Regional Deputy Director of Education in the case of appointment to the post of Head of Institution and to the Inspector in the case of appointment to the post of teacher of an Institution, and his decision shall be final.

(9) Where no candidate approved by the Selection Committee for appointment is available, a fresh selection shall be held in the manner laid down in this section.

(10) Where the State Government*, in case of the appointment of Head of Institution, and the Director in the case of the appointment of teacher of an institution, is satisfied that any* person has been appointed as Head of Institution or teacher, as the case may be, in contravention of the provisions of this Act, the State Government or, as the case may be, the Director may, after affording an opportunity of being heard to such person, cancel such appointment and pass such consequential order as may be necessary.

(11) Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing sub-sections, appointments in the case of a temporary vacancy caused by the grant of leave to an incumbent for a period not exceeding six months or by death, termination or otherwise of an incumbent occurring during an educational session, may be made by direct recruitment or promotion without reference to the Selection Committee in such manner and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed :

Provided that no appointment made under this sub-section shall, in any case, continue beyond the end of the educational session during which such appointment was made."
(Emphasis added)

19. Section 16-F of Act, 1921, provides procedure for constitution of Selection Committee and reads as under :-

"16-F. Selection Committees. - (1) For the selection of candidates for appointment as Head of an Institution, there shall be a Selection Committee consisting of, -

(i) the President or any member of the Committee of Management nominated by the Committee by resolution in that behalf, who shall be the Chairman;

(ii) a member of the Committee of Management other than the one referred to in clause (i), nominated by it in this behalf;

(iii) three experts nominated by the Regional Deputy Director of Education from persons not belonging to the district in which the institution is situated, out of the panel of names prepared under this section.

(2) For the selection of candidates for appointment as teacher in an institution, there shall be a Selection Committee consisting of, -

(i) the President or any member of the Committee of Management, nominated by the Committee by resolution in that behalf, who shall be the Chairman;

*(ii) the Head of such institution;

(iii) three experts nominated by the Inspector from persons not belonging to the district in which the institution is situated, out of the panel of names prepared under this section.

(3) In respect of any institution for which Authorized Controller has been appointed under this Act, the Authorized Controller shall, in relation to such institution be deemed substituted for the person referred to in clauses (i) and (ii) of sub-section (1) or clause (i) of sub-section (2), as the case may be.

(4) A panel of experts for every region shall be drawn by the Director in such manner as may be prescribed and shall be revised once every three years.

(5) The business of the Selection Committee shall be conducted in such manner as may be prescribed :

Provided that the majority of the total membership of any Selection Committee shall form the quorum of such Committee :

Provided further that no recommendation made by the Selection Committee in respect of any candidate shall be valid, unless two of the experts referred to in clause (iii) of sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), as the case may be, have agreed to it.

(6) No proceeding of the Selection Committee shall be invalid by reason only of a defect in its constitution or vacancy among its members." (Emphasis added)

20. Applicability of Sections 16-E and 16-F to some extent has been restricted by Section 16-FF of Act, 1921 and it provides manner of selection by excluding applicability of Section 16-E(4) and Section 16-F. Section 16-FF reads as under:

"16-FF. Minority savings as to minority institutions. - (1) Notwithstanding anything in sub-section (4) of Section 16-E, and Section 16-F, the Selection Committee for the appointment of a Head of Institution or a teacher of an institution established and administered by a minority referred to in clause (1) of Article 30 of the Constitution shall consist of five members (including its Chairman) nominated by the Committee of Management :*

Provided that one of the members of the Selection Committee shall, -

(a) in the case of appointment of the Head of an Institution, be an expert selected by the Committee of Management from a panel of experts prepared by the Director;

(b) in the case of appointment of a teacher, be the Head of the Institution concerned.

(2) The procedure to be followed by the Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (1) shall be such as may be prescribed.

(3) No person selected under this section shall be appointed, unless, -

(a) in the case of the Head of an Institution the proposal of appointment has been approved by the Regional Deputy Director of Education; and

(b) in the case of a teacher such proposal has been approved by the Inspector.

(4) The Regional Deputy Director of Education or the Inspector, as the case may be, shall not withhold approval for the selection made under this section where the person selected possesses the minimum qualifications prescribed and is otherwise eligible.

(5) Where the Regional Deputy Director of Education or the Inspector, as the case may be. does not approve of a candidate selected under this section, the Committee of Management may, within three weeks from the date of receipt of such disapproval, make a representation to the Director in the case of the Head of Institution, and to the Regional Deputy Director of Education in the case of a teacher.

(6) Every order passed by the Director or the Regional Deputy Director of Education on a representation under sub-section (5) shall be final." (Emphasis added)

21. Thus, Section 16-FF of Act, 1921 makes it very clear that Section 16-F will not apply to minority institutions since an overriding effect has been given by non-obstante clause and in respect of Section 16-E non obstinate clause apply to only sub-section(4) and rest Section 16-F therefore, would be applicable.

22. In order to put the things straight, we may also refer to Section 16-EE of Act, 1921, which makes provisions for absorption of retrenched employees. This Section was inserted by U.P. Act No.1 of 1981. Therein Sub-section (6) was inserted by U.P. Act No. 9 of 1981 with effect from 11.02.1981. Section 16-EE has been declared inapplicable to the Institutions established and administered by a minority referred to in Clause (1) of Article 30 of the Constitution of India.

23. Sub-section (2) of Section 16-FF of Act, 1921 provides that procedure to be followed by the Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (1) shall be such as may be 'prescribed'. Section 2(c) of Act, 1921 provides that 'Prescribed' means 'prescribed by Regulations'.

24. Again 'Regulations' are defined in sub-section (e) of Section 2 of Act, 1921. It says that 'Regulation' means Regulations made by Board under Act, 1921. Power to make 'Regulations' have been conferred upon Board vide Section 15, which reads as under:

"15. Power of Board to make Regulations. - (1) The Board may make Regulations for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.*

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power the Board may make Regulations providing for all or any of the following matters, namely, -

(a) the constitution, powers and duties of Committees;

(b) the conferment of diplomas and certificates;

(c) the conditions of recognitions of institutions for the purpose of its examinations;

(d) the course of study to be laid down for all certificates and diplomas;

(e) the conditions under which candidates shall be admitted to the examinations of the Board and shall be eligible for diplomas and certificates;

(f) the fees for admission to the examinations of the Board;

(g) the conduct of examinations;

(h) the appointment of examiners and their duties and powers in relation to the Board's examinations;

(i) the election of members to the Board under [clause (c)] of sub-section (1) of Section 3;

(j) the admission of institutions to the privileges of recognition and the withdrawal of recognition;

(k) all matters which by this Act are to be or may be provided for by Regulations;

(l) the conditions under which grants-in-aid shall be given to institutions recognized by the Board;

[(m) the formations of parent-teacher association."

25. Section 16 of Act, 1921, however, provides that Regulations under Section 15 shall be made only with the previous sanction of the State Government and shall be published in the Gazette. Sub-section (2) thereof confers power upon State Government to sanction any Regulations proposed by Board, either without modification or with such modification as may be applicable. Section 16 of Act, 1921 reads as under:

"16. Previous publication and sanction of Regulations made by Board. - (1) Regulations under Section 15 shall be made only with the previous sanction of the State Government and shall be published in the Gazette.

(2) The State Government may sanction any such regulation proposed by the Board either without modification or with such modification as it thinks fit."

26. Regulation have been made by Board under Section 15, which are called "Regulations under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921" (hereinafter referred as the Regulations framed under Act, 1921). It starts from Part II-A and divided in four Chapters, i.e., Chapter-I, Chapter-II, Chapter-III and Chapter-IV.

27. Chapter-I deals with "Scheme of Administration" and is referable to Sections 16-A, 16-B and 16-C. Chapter-II deals with Regulations relating to appointment of Heads of the Institutions and teachers and is referable to Sections 16-E, 16-F and 16-FF. Chapter-III deals with conditions of service and is referable to Section 16-G. Chapter-IV deals with Committees of the Board. Then there is Part II-B and it contains Chapters I to XVI, but we are not going in details thereof as the same are not relevant for our purpose. Part-III contains Bye-Laws of Board made under Section 20 of Act, 1921. Part-IV of Regulations deals with Officers and Members of the Board. Part-V deals with Rules of the Board and Part-VI deals with necessary directions regarding allowances in connection with Board's duties.

28. For our purpose Part II-A, Chapter-II of the Regulations is relevant. There also controversy in question is confined to Regulation 17 which provides procedure for selection of Teachers and Principals of recognized educational Institutions by direct recruitment as contemplated in Section 16-FF.

29. Regulation 17 which is the provision in controversy in all these writ petitions, as it stood earlier and amended by Notification dated 20.03.2018 (published in Official Gazette dated 24.03.2018) and further vide Government orders (hereinafter referred to as "G.O.") dated 06.11.2018, 18.04.2019 and 12.08.2019, are placed in the form of Chart as under:

30. The above provisions contain the manner and procedure of selection and appointment of Teachers and Head of institutions, which includes minority institutions also. Section 16-E of Act, 1921 is applicable to all the secondary institutions as they are, though some difference has been made in the procedure prescribed under Section 16-E and 16-F of Act, 1921 by Section 16-FF, in respect of Educational Institutions of minority. Sections 16-E and 16-F of Act, 1921, in brief, say:

(A) The post of Head of institution and Teachers, which is to be filled in by direct recruitment, shall be intimated to the Inspector.

(B) The advertisement of the vacancy shall be published, in at least two newspapers having adequate and wide circulation in State, giving details of post, as may be prescribed.

(C) No person shall be appointed as Head of the Institution or Teacher unless he/she possesses minimum qualification prescribed by Regulations.

(D) There is an exception i.e. with regard to exemption in qualification. Proviso to Section 16-E (3) of Act, 1921 says that if a person is granted exemption by U.P. Board having regard to his education, experience and other attainments; such a person even if does not possess prescribed qualification, may be appointed. This is an enabling provision and none has a right to claim appointment, if he does not possess minimum qualification by claiming exemption.

(E) After an advertisement has been made, prospective candidates shall submit applications for appointment to Inspector along with fee, which shall be such, as prescribed.

(F) After receiving all the applications, first process of selection commences at the level of Inspector, who shall award quality point marks to each candidate on the basis of qualifications mentioned in the application and in accordance with the procedure and principles, as prescribed, i.e., provided in the Regulations.

(G) After awarding quality point marks, Inspector shall forward all the applications to the Committee of Management.

(H) Committee of Management shall constitute a Selection Committee; constitution whereof is prescribed in Section 16-F, as under:

(a) Selection Committee of Head of Institution, i.e., Principal, shall consists of:

(i) President or any member of Committee of Management nominated by the Committee by resolution, who shall be the Chairman of Selection Committee.

(ii) A member of Committee of Management, other than nominated above, as member.

(iii) Three experts nominated by Regional Deputy Director of Education from persons not belonging to the District in which the Institution is situated, out of panel of names prepared under this Section. In other words, in respect of every District, a panel of Experts shall be prepared and when Experts are to be nominated, Regional Deputy Director or Education shall select Experts from the panel of Districts, other than the District, in which the Institution, wherein selection is to be made, situate.

(b) For Selection of a Teacher, Selection Committee shall consists of:

(i) President or member of Committee of Management nominated by the Committee, by resolution, who shall be the Chairman.

(ii) Head of the Institution, i.e., Principal of the Institution shall be a member.

(iii) Three Experts nominated by the Inspector from a Panel of Experts prepared for this purpose but in respect of a District other than the District in which the Institution wherein the selection is to be made, situate.

(c) If there is no Committee of Management, then the Authorized Controller shall substitute the person, referred to as Chairman and member from Committee of Management, above.

(d) For the purpose of preparing Panel of Experts, Director shall prepare a list of every region in the manner prescribed and tenure of such panel, once prepared, shall be three years. It shall be revised once every three years.

(I) The procedure/business, needs to be followed by Selection Committee, shall be such as may be prescribed by Regulations.

(J) Selection Committee after interview shall prepare a list in order of preference, as far as practicable, of three names for each post found by it to be suitable for appointment.

(K) Selection Committee shall communicate its recommendations together with list of candidates prepared in order of preference to Committee of Management.

(L) Committee of Management shall offer appointment, to the candidates in first preference of the selection and on his failure to join the post, to the next one.

(M) If Committee of Management does not agree with the recommendations of Selection Committee, it shall refer the matter together with reasons of such disagreement to Regional Deputy Director of Education where the appointment relates to the post of Principal and to Inspector if the appointment relates to a Teacher. The decision of Regional Deputy Director or Inspector, as the case may be, shall be final.

(N) Where Selection Committee does not approve any candidate or finds no candidate suitable for appointment, fresh selection shall be held.

(O) The State Government shall have over all power to examine whether an appointment of a Principal of the Institution i.e. Head of the Institution made is in contravention of the provisions of Act, 1921 and after giving opportunity to such person may cancel such appointment and pass consequential order.

(P) In respect of a Teacher, whose appointment is not in accordance with the provisions of Act, 1921, similar power has been conferred upon Director, which shall also be exercised in the same manner as in respect of Head of Institution such power is exercisable by State Government.

(Q) A power of temporary appointment has been conferred without reference to Selection Committee if there is a temporary vacancy caused due to grant of leave for a period not exceeding six months or a substantive vacancy has occurred on account of death, termination or otherwise, during an educational session and procedure for such appointment would be such as prescribed by Regulations.

(M) There is a restriction that such temporary appointment which is made without reference to Selection Committee shall not continue beyond the end of educational session, during which appointment is made, and this restriction has been given overriding effect by non-obstante clause in proviso to Section 16-E(11) of Act, 1921.

31. This is general procedure applicable for selection of a Head of the Institution and Teacher in a secondary education institution. However, a deviation/distinction has been made to some extent in respect of minority institutions by Section 16-FF of Act, 1921. It provides, where the institution is a minority institution, Selection Committee for appointment of Head of Institution or a Teacher, as the case may be, shall consists of five members, including Chairman, which shall be nominated by Committee of Management. However, out of five members, one of the member shall be an expert, selected by Committee of Management from the panel of experts prepared by Director of Education, if Selection Committee is formed for selection to the post of Head of Institution. In the case of appointment of a Teacher, one of the member of Selection Committee shall be Head of the Institution. The procedure to be followed by Selection Committee under Section 16-FF (1) shall be such as prescribed by Regulations.

32. Section 16-F also provides that any person selected shall not be appointed unless his appointment is approved by Regional Deputy Director of Education where Head of Institution is to be appointed and by Inspector in case of Teacher. In order to check any inaction or lethargy on the part of Regional Deputy Director of Education or Inspector with regard to approval, it is also provided that they shall not withhold approval for selection under Section 16-FF unless the person concerned lacks minimum qualification prescribed. Meaning thereby if the candidate possesses requisite qualification and is otherwise eligible, approval required from Regional Deputy Director of Education and Inspector shall not be withheld. In case no approval is granted by Regional Deputy Director of Education, Management has been given remedy of submitting representation to Director and where such approval is declined by Inspector, representation can be made to Regional Deputy Director of Education and their decision, i.e., decision of Director or Regional Deputy Director of Education, as the case may be, shall be final.

33. Therefore, broad outlines have been given in above provisions. Detailed procedure with regard to qualifications, preparation of panel of experts, manner in which candidate shall apply and submit fee etc. and the manner of functioning of Selection Committee is required to be provided by Regulations. Such procedure has been prescribed in Chapter-II, Part II-A of the Regulations and in respect of minority institution with reference to Section 16-FF, procedure has been prescribed in Regulation-17, therefore, we directly come to Regulation-17 which is the crux of the dispute in all these writ petitions.

34. First of all, we propose to state in brief, procedure prescribed in Regulation-17 as it was prior to amendment made by G.O. dated 20.03.2018, since that procedure was not found offending by petitioners and has been holding field since long. We shall refer this Regulation as it stood prior to amendment by G.O. dated 20.3.2018 as un-amended existing Regulation. The said regulation before amendment provided as under:

(A) Manager of the Committee of Management of the institution shall advertise vacancies required to be filled in by direct recruitment in one 'Hindi' and 'English' newspaper having wider circulation in the State.

(B) Advertisement shall contain details of nature of vacancy, whether temporary or permanent, number of vacancies, other particulars like whether Principal or Head Master, Lecturer or L.T. Grade, C.T. Grade etc.

(C) Where the vacancy is of a Teacher, subject in which appointment is to be made shall also be mentioned and it shall also mention pay-scale of vacancy, other allowances, requisite experience, minimum qualification, requisite age etc.

(D) At least two weeks time shall be given from the date of advertisement for submission of application forms. Copy of advertisement shall be forwarded to Inspector also.

(E) All the applications shall be submitted in the prescribed form as provided by Management giving all details and also appending copies of requisite certificates, testimonials, recommendation letters etc. Management may charge requisite fee for Application Form in prescribed proforma to the candidate.

(F) If the candidate is already working in any institution and apply, such Institution where he is working shall not withhold his application but forward to concerned authority forthwith.

(G) Details of all applications in serial numbers shall be entered in the register with details of candidates for respective posts etc.

(H) For every vacancy, at least 7 candidates shall be called for interview if such minimum number of candidates have applied. Intimation, date of interview shall be communicated at least 10 days before date of interview.

(I) If experts are not present or could not attend meeting of Selection Committee for any reason, Selection Committee's meeting shall be postponed.

35. This procedure under Regulation 17(d) i.e. 17(A) in respect of Minority Institutions has undergone amendments by four G.Os. dated 20.03.2018, 06.11.2018, 18.04.2019 and 12.08.2019. We find that broadly Regulation 17(A) with regard to advertisement of vacancies is maintained except that by last amendment, it has also been provided that option for submission of applications on-line shall also be given. Therefore, we are not repeating the same.

36. Similarly, Regulation 17([k) i.e. 17(B) also has no material change except that it also includes the application forms received on-line and there is no material difference.

37. Regulation 17(x) i.e. 17(C) with regard to restriction on the authority of an employer for not withholding application of a prospective candidate for employment in another Institution is also same.

38. Now the difference comes from Regulation 17(?k) i.e. 17(D). By Government order dated 20.03.2018 Regulation 17-D was materially altered and thereafter some Clauses-(³), (p) and (N) i.e. (E), (F) & (G), respectively were also inserted. We, therefore, propose to refer Regulation 17-D and subsequent inserted Clauses (E), (F) & (G) in the aforesaid G.Os. one by one.

39. Government Order dated 20.03.2018 says that details of application shall be registered serially in Register as it was earlier. Thereafter, the entire information in application forms shall be forwarded to the Regional Joint Director of Education, if the selection is to be made for the post of Headmaster of Institution and to the Regional Joint Director of Education and Inspector if it is to be made for teachers. Thereafter, the said educational authorities shall arrange written test (screening test) through prescribed private agency.

40. Thereafter further process has been altered. It provides that concerned Institution shall hold a written test, i.e., screening test comprising of 90 marks and 10 marks shall be kept for interview. The aforesaid screening test shall be held if the selection is to be made for the post of Head of Institution or Lecturer but where selection is to be made for Assistant Teacher there shall be no interview and screening test shall comprise of written test of 100 marks. In aforesaid screening test as per available vacancies on the basis of merit a panel of five candidates for each vacancy shall be prepared. Aforesaid panel shall be forwarded by the prescribed Recruitment Agency to the Joint Director of Education if it pertains to Head of Institution or Inspector if it pertains to teachers. Regional Joint Director of Education or Inspector, as the case may be, shall forward the aforesaid panel to the Manager of Committee of Management of Institution with purpose of verification of testimonials of selected candidates and thereafter to place it before Selection Committee. The Selection Committee then shall conduct selection by holding interview of 10 marks only. Candidates selected by Selection Committee on the basis of interview and the marks obtained in written test shall be prepared on the basis of merit and forwarded to educational authorities for their approval. Information of interview shall be given at least 10 days before through registered post and rest of provisions are similar as they were earlier.

41. In the Government Orders dated 06.11.2018, 18.04.2019 and 12.08.2019, there is no substantial difference but changes made by G.O. dated 12.08.2019 are the recent one, which is operating, hence, we refer here therefrom for brevity. It says that applications shall be submitted by candidates to private Recruitment Agency who shall make entry in register, prepare details, hold screening test and thereafter those candidates who are selected in written test, a merit list of five candidates per vacancy shall be prepared and forwarded for further selection by Selection Committee constituted under Section 16-FF for Minority Institutions.

42. Difference between Regulation 17, as it stood originally, is that it did not provide for any written test/screening test but contemplated only interview and entire matter of selection was within the purview of Selection Committee under Section 16-FF (1). Selection Committee has been maintained but with an introduction of a screening test. Earlier selection process is no more applicable. Now a Private Recruitment Agency has been introduced for the purpose of holding screening written test of 90 marks. It is only those candidates who are selected in such screening test, their list of five candidates per vacancy shall be prepared by Private Recruitment Agency. Scope of selection by Selection Committee is limited to those candidates and marks of interview are also reduced to 10 marks only.

43. According to counsel for petitioners these directions and restrictions caused by impugned G.Os. by introducing firstly Private Recruitment Agency; secondly introducing screening test/written test of 90 marks and thirdly by reducing the weight of interview which earlier gave wider subjective authority of assessment to Selection Committee of Minority Institution but now has been marginalized, only to the extent of 10 per cent, and has affected their right of establishment and administration of Minority Institutions, therefore amendment of Regulation 17 to this extent is ultra vires of Article 30 of the Constitution.

44. During course of arguments, it is stated that insertion of Clauses-(E), (F) and (G), is consequential which became necessary due to insertion of Private Recruitment Agency and introduction of written test/screening test in Clause-D, and hence, individually aforesaid provisions have not been addressed but it is said that since the amendment made in Regulation 17-D to this extent is bad, therefore, all consequential amendments and provisions inserted are also bad and illegal.

45. Counsel for parties individually and collectively have cited plethora of judgments and same are as follows, Rev. Sidhajbhai Sabhai and others Vs. State of Bombay and another AIR 1963 SC 540; Jadunath Singh Vs. State of U.P. AIR 1971 SC 363; Ahmedabad St. Xavier's College Society Vs. State of Gujarat, AIR 1974 SC 1389; All Saints High School v. Govt. of A.P. AIR 1980 SC 1042; N. Ammad Vs. Manager, Emjay High School and others, AIR 1999 SC 50; TMA Pai Foundation Vs. State of Kerala, AIR 2003 SC 356; Brahmo Samaj Education Society Vs. State of West Bengal and others AIR 2004 SC 3358; P.A. Inamdar Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2005 SC 3799; Secretary Malankara Syrian Catholic College Vs. T. Jose, AIR 2007 SC 570 and Sindhi Education Society and another Vs. Chief Secretary, Government of NCT of Delhi and others, 2010 (8) SCC 49.

46. All the judgments cited are well known on various issues of minority institutions but actual issue which has come up for consideration before this Court is, "what is the power of state in making provisions for enhancement of transparency, efficiency and standard of imparting education to the students in the matter of making selection and appointment of teachers without interfering in substantial way with the authority of management to choose and select teachers of its own choice and particularly, when minority institution in question is one which is receiving aid from Government Exchequer and public funds are being utilized for all its expenses".

47. In this respect, counsel for parties have heavily relied on Supreme Court's judgment in N. Ammad Vs. Manager, Emjay High School and others (Supra). A two Judge Bench of Supreme Court considered the question "is the Management of a minority School free to choose and appoint any qualified person as Headmaster of the School or whether such Management is hedged by any legislative edict or executive fiat in doing so". Therein Emjay Vocational Higher Secondary School, Valliappalli Taluk, Calicut District, Kerala was a minority institution. Management sought to appoint one P.M. Aboobacker as Head Master of the institution. N. Ammad resisted the act of Management on the ground that he is senior most teacher in the School and should be appointed as Headmaster. The claim of N. Ammad was supported by District Education Officer but the Management did not succumb. N. Ammad then filed a writ petition in Kerala High Court seeking direction to Management to appoint him as Headmaster. A Single Judge of Kerala High Court allowed writ petition and issued direction as claimed by N. Ammad. However, in appeal Division Bench reversed the judgment and dismissed the writ petition. That is how N. Ammad came in appeal to Supreme Court. While examining the facts, Supreme Court found that N. Ammad was appointed as Teacher on 03.06.1982. Post of Headmaster fell vacant in June, 1991 and N. Ammad was senior most teacher but not found qualified to be appointed as Headmaster. Under Rules, 12 years continuous graduate service was the minimum qualification for appointment to the post of Headmaster. N. Ammad had not completed 12 years in June, 1991. However, he was put In-charge Headmaster with the approval of District Education Officer. After completing required length of service in June, 1994, N. Ammad pressed his claim before Management to appoint him as regular Headmaster. Recommendation was also made by District Education Officer asking Management to permit and appoint senior most qualified teacher as Headmaster. Management, however, appointed Sri P.M. Aboobacker as Headmaster, who was a graduate teacher having longer period of service than N. Ammad in another school. A contention was raised that statutory provisions were binding, which required that appointment of Headmaster shall ordinarily be according to seniority since institution was declared minority by Government on 02.08.1994. This contention was rejected holding that Article 30 of Constitution contemplates a minority institution, which is established and administered by the Management. Supreme Court said that institution was a minority institution having been established and administered by minority community and only recognition of this fact by declaration made by Government on 02.08.1994 but it will not deprive minority character of the institution it enjoyed earlier. Declaration is only an open acceptance of a legal character which should necessarily have existed antecedent to such declaration. Then Court considered the effect of Rule 44(1) of Kerala Education Act, 1958, which provided appointment of Senior most teacher as Head Master. Court relied on seven-Judges judgment in- :in Re Kerala Education Bill 1957 AIR 1958 SC 956, wherein one of the proposition was, "The right guaranteed under Article 30(1) is a right that is absolute and any law or executive direction which infringes the substance of the right is void to be extent of infringement. But the absolute character of the right will not preclude making of regulations in the true interests of efficiency or instruction, discipline, health, sanitation, morality, public order and the like as such regulations are not restrictions on the substance of the right guaranteed by the Constitution."

48. Court also observed that the aforesaid proposition was approved by another Constitution Bench in Sidhrajbhai Sabbai and others (supra) and a nine-Judges Bench of Supreme Court in Ahmedabad St. Xaviers College Society and another (Supra). In the backdrop of aforesaid exposition of law, Court observed that selection and appointment of Headmaster in a School is of prime importance in administration of that educational institution. Headmaster is the key post in running of school. He is the hub on which all the spokes of the school are set around whom they rotate to generate result. A school is personified through its Headmaster and he is the focal point on which outsiders look at the school. A bad Headmaster can spoil the entire institution, an efficient and honest Headmaster can improve it by leaps and bounds. The functional efficacy of a school very much depends upon the efficiency and dedication of its Headmaster. Court also referred to the observations made by nine-Judge Bench of Supreme Court in Ahmedabad St. Xavier's College Society and another (Supra) with regard to importance of role of Principal of a college wherein Hon'ble K.K. Mathew, J. expressing his view in support of majority, said, "It is upon the principal and teachers of a college that the tone and temper of an educational institution depend. On them would depend its reputation, the maintenance of discipline and its efficiency in teaching. The right to choose the principal and to have the teaching conducted by teachers appointed by the management after an overall assessment of their outlook and philosophy is perhaps the most important facet of the right to administer an educational institution."

49. Justice H.R. Khanna, has expressed a border view that even selection of teachers is of great importance in the right to manage a school. His Lordship said, "The selection and appointment of teachers for an educational institution is one of the essential ingredients of the right to manage an educational institution and the minorities can plainly be not denied such right of selection and appointment without infringing Article 30(1)".

50. In this background Court said that considering importance of Teachers and Principal of College vis-a-vis Administration of institution, if Management is not given very wide freedom to choose the personnel for holding such a key post, subject, of course, to the restrictions regarding qualifications to be prescribed by the State, the right to administer the school would get much diminished. In paragraph-26 of the judgment, Court said:

"The management of a minority school is free to find out a qualified person either from the staff of the same school or from outside to fill up the vacancy."

51. Argument was raised on behalf of N. Ammad that if Management is anxious to find out most qualified person, post should have been advertised inviting applications from qualified persons and for this purpose two-Judges judgment of Supreme Court in Shainda Hasan Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others (1990) 3 SCC 48 was relied but Court held that no legal proposition has been laid down therein that selection process must be through advertisement. Court said:

"According to us, it is for the management of the minority educational institution to choose the modality for selecting the qualified persons for appointment."

52. Consequently, Court answered the question formulated above, holding in para-28, as under:

"28. Thus the management's right to choose a qualified person as the Headmaster of the school is well insulated by the protective cover of Article 30(1) of the Constitution and it cannot be chiselled out through any legislative act or executive rule except for fixing up the qualifications and conditions of service for the post. Any such statutory or executive fiat would be violative of the fundamental right enshrined in the aforesaid Article and would hence be void."

53. We intended to consider other cases also in detail but fortunately all these authorities and many others have been considered very recently by Supreme Court in Sk. Md. Rafique Vs. Managing Committee, Contai Rahamania High Madrasah and others (Civil Appeal No. 5808 of 2017) and other connected matters decided on 06.01.2020, and virtually same question as is up for consideration before us, has been considered therein by Supreme Court, hence it would be appropriate for this Court not to burden this judgment by referring earlier judgments of Supreme Court instead we find it appropriate to refer recent authority in Sk. Md. Rafique (Supra). Therein validity of Sections 8, 10, 11 and 12 of West Bengal Madrasah Service Commission Act, 2008 (hereinafter referred to as "WBMSC Act, 2008") was challenged as ultra vires of Article 30 of Constitution of India. It is contended that these provisions deprive right of selection and appointment of teachers of own choice by Management of Minority Institution and, therefore, violative of Article 30 of Constitution of India. There was a Statute namely West Bengal Board of Madrasah Education Act, 1994 (hereinafter referred to as "WBBME Act, 1994"). It was enacted to establish a Board of Madrasah Education in West Bengal to proceed for matter connected therewith and incidental therewith. There was another Statute namely West Bengal Minorities Commission Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as "WBMC Act, 1996") to establish Minority Commission to study and suggest additional social, economic, educational and cultural requirements of religious and linguistic minorities of West Bengal with a view to equipping them to preserve secular traditions of West Bengal and to promote national integrity. A third Statute namely West Bengal School Service Commission Act, 1997 (hereinafter referred to as "WBSSC Act, 1997") was enacted to provide for constitution of Regional School Service Commissions and a Central School Service Commission in the State and for matters connected therewith and incidental thereto. With respect to applicability of WBSSC Act, 1997 to Minority Institutions, Section 15 thereof reads as under :

"15. Act not to apply in relation to certain schools:-

The provisions of this Act shall not apply to-

(a) a school established and administered by a minority, whether based on religion or language, or

(b) a school under any trust, established and administered by a minority, whether based on religion or language, or ... ... "

54. By notification dated 12.10.2007, Government of West Bengal, Minorities Development and Welfare and Madrasah Education Department declared and granted to all recognised and aided Madrasahs under the control of the Government the status of "Minority Educational Institutions". The aforesaid Notification reads as under:-

"Government of West Bengal

Minorities Development & Welfare & Madrasah

Education Department

Writers' Buildings, Kolkata - 700001

No.1465-MD/07 Dated: 12.10.07

NOTIFICATION

WHEREAS Muslim recognised as Minority Community in the State of West Bengal and minorities have the right under Article 30 of the Constitution of India to establish and administer educational institution of their choice;

AND WHEREAS the State Government is competent to declare a particular institution as a minority institution and till such time the government issue an order declaring that it is a minority institution they can not operate as Minority Institutions;

AND WHEREAS the Supreme Court has held that the Government are the Competent Authority to verify and determine the minority status of an Educational Institution for the purpose of Article 30(1) of the Constitution of India;

AND WEHREAS the Govt. recognised Madrasahs including Hooghly Govt. Madrasah and the Calcutta Madrasah were originally established by the Muslim minority and continuously administered by the members of that minority to subserve and promote the interests of the minority community concerned;

AND WEHREAS the abovesaid Madrasahs were, in course of times, recognised alongwith liabilities by the Government for promoting educational interests of the Muslim minority and on verification it has been ascertained that more than 90% students are pursuing their studies in these institutions and these Madrasahs are functioning under supervision of the W.B. Madrasah Board constituted with member representatives of the Minority Community concerned.

AND WHEREAS the State Govt. having been satisfied about the above antecedents of all the recognised Madrasahs which are aided and guided by the Government prescribed guidelines relating to admissions, selections etc. and about their continuing and sustained functioning for promoting the interests of the concerned minority have become satisfied that these institutions are fit to enjoy minority status of an Educational Institution for the purpose of Article 30(1) of the Constitution of India.

AND WHEREAS the Govt. in the State of West Bengal have also considered expedients to declare these recognized and aided Madrasahs and those which will be so recognised and aided as such in future as Minority Educational Institution.

NOW, THEREFORE, in accordance with the above considerations and in pursuance of the Article 30 of the Constitution of India the Government is pleased, hereby, to declare that all the recognised and aided Madrasahs under control of this Government and those Madrasahs which will be recognised on similar lines in future, as Minority Educational Institutions. These institutions will also be allowed, in consequence to have the following effects as agreed upon by the State Government.

i) They will continue to get financial assistance as before from the State Government ii) Reservation policy for employment etc. shall not apply in case of appointment of teachers and non-teaching staff in these Madrasahs.

iii) Selection of teachers may continue to be done by West Bengal School Service Commission through separate panel.

By order of the Governor (Pawan Agawal) Secretary to the Govt. of West Bengal"

55. Another Government Notification was issued on 28.12.2007 by the same department of Government of West Bengal stating that after being conferred minority status upon all recognized and aided Madrasahs, the matter of selection of teachers for recognized and aided Madrasahs of West Bengal has gone out of the purview of the existing WBSSC Act,1997. Thereafter separate body for recommending panel of teachers for appointment in Recognized Non-Government Aided Madrasahs was felt necessary and hence Madarsah Service Commission was proposed to be constituted and this resulted in enactment of WBMSC Act, 2008.

56. We straightway come to Sections 8, 10, 11 and 12 of the WBMSC Act, 2008 validity whereof was challenged before Supreme Court. The same read as under:

"8. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any contract, custom or usage to the contrary, it shall be the duty of the Commission to select and recommend persons to be appointed to the vacant posts of teachers in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder."

"10. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force or any contract, custom or usage to the contrary, the Managing Committee, the ad hoc Committee or the Administrator, as the case may be, shall be bound to appoint the candidate recommended by the Commission to the post of teacher in the Madrasah concerned as per vacancy report.

Provided that in the absence of the Managing Committee, ad hoc Committee or the Administrator, the Head Master or the Headmistress or the Teacher- In-charge is empowered to issue appointment letter to the candidate recommended by the Commission. Such matter should be ratified at the next available meeting of the Managing Committee, ad hoc Committee or by the Administrator, as the case may be:

Provided further that the Managing Committee, ad hoc Committee, the Administrator or the Headmaster or the Headmistress or the Teacher-in-charge as the case may be, shall, if any error is detected in the recommendation, immediately bring it to the notice of the Commission for removal of such error.

"11. Any appointment of a teacher made on or after the commencement of this Act in contravention of the provision of this Act shall be invalid and shall have no effect and teacher so appointed shall not be a teacher within the meaning of clause (s) of Section 2."

"12 (i) If the Managing Committee, the ad hoc Committee or the Administrator of a Madrasah, as the case may be, refuses, fails or delays to issue appointment letter to the candidate recommended by the Commission within the period stipulated in the letter of recommendation by the Commission, without any reasonable ground, the State Government may direct the Board to dissolve the Managing Committee or the ad hoc Committee, or discharge the Administrator, as the case may be, or stop all financial assistance to such Madrasah recording reasons thereof and may also issue direction upon the Board or Council, as the case be, to withdraw recognition or affiliation of such Madrasah.

(ii) In case of failure to issue appointment letter to the candidate recommended by the Commission is on the part of the Superintendent, the Headmaster, the Headmistress or the Teacher-in-charge of a Madrasah, he shall be subject to such disciplinary proceedings as may be prescribed."

57. An amendment was made in the aforesaid Act, 2008 by West Bengal Madrasah Service Commission (Amendment) Act, 2010 by inserting certain words in Section 8 so as to cover recommendations of transfer including model transfer of teachers and non-teaching staff of Madrasah Service Commission. In exercise of power conferred by Act, 2008, Rules were also framed by West Bengal Madrasah Service Commission Recruitment (Selection and Recommendation of Persons For Appointment and Transfer to the Posts of Teaching and Non-teaching Staff) Rules, 2010 (hereinafter referred to as "WBMSCR, Rules, 2010"). Chapter-III of WBMSCR Rules, 2010 deals with "Scope, Method and Manner of Selection" and Rule 8, which is relevant, reads as under:

"8. Manner of selection - (1) Selection to any post shall be made on the basis of results of the State/Region/Area Level Selection Test, as may be decided by the Commission, which may comprise any, some or all of the following (as the case may be) -

a) Written Examination

b) Evaluation of Qualification

c) Personality Test

d) Aptitude Test of the candidates, as the case may be, in the manner as specified in Schedule III (2) The Commission may, in its discretion, fix the minimum qualifying marks to be scored/obtained by the candidates in written examination or in aggregate or in both and relax the qualifying marks on reasonable ground(s) to be recorded in writing ...."

58. The validity of aforesaid Act, 2008, and in particular Sections 8, 10, 11 and 12 etc. was challenged on the ground that Managing Committee or the Administrator of minority institution would be bound to appoint the candidates recommended by the Madrasah Service Commission and otherwise, the consequence would be recommendation for penalty and this violates the right to establish and administer an institution of their own choice conferred upon the Educational Minority and violative of Article 30 of the Constitution of India.

59. The writ petitions were opposed by West Bengal Government contending that the Commission would only select and recommend teachers and non-teaching staff of Madrasahs but appointment yet to be made by Managing committee of minority institutions; that they would exercise overall control in respect of such staffs which are not taken away. There is no difference in day to day administration of Madrasahs; these Madrasahas are expected to employ good quality teachers for imparting quality education to the students and the entire legislation is to provide qualified superior faculty to impart good quality of education to the students.

60. Learned Single Judge upheld the submissions of the learned counsel for writ petitioners and found provisions, ultra vires. He allowed writ petitions vide judgment dated 12.3.2014 whereagainst candidates selected and recommended by Minority Commission for appointment and others filed Letters Patent Appeals, which were also dismissed by a Division Bench vide judgment dated 09.12.2015 and thereafter matter came to Supreme Court. The basic issue which came up for consideration before Supreme Court, as formulated in paragraph-16, reads as under:

(1)Whether the provisions, namely, Sections 8, 10, 11 and 12 of the Commission Act are ultra vires as held by the High Court?

(2)Whether these provisions transgress the right of minority institutions guaranteed under the Constitution of India?

61. Thereafter Supreme Court has considered the entire authorities on the subject starting from Kerala Education Bill, 1957 and has recorded its conclusions running from Para-38 to 59 of judgment. It refers to the observations made in Sidhajbhai Sabhai (Supra) and said that it is difficult to appreciate how the Government can be prevented from framing Regulations that are in the national interest, as it seems to be indicated in the passage quoted in earlier paragraphs of judgment. Any regulation framed in the national interest must necessarily apply to all educational institutions, whether run by majority or minority. Such a limitation must necessarily be read into Article 30. The right under Article 30(1) cannot be such as to override the national interest or to prevent Government from framing regulations in that behalf. It is, of course, true that government regulations cannot destroy the minority character of institution or make the right to establish and administer a mere illusion; but the right under Article 30 is not so absolute so as to be above the law. Supreme Court recognized that right to establish and administer comprised of (a) right to admit students (b) right to appoint staff- teaching and non-teaching staff, and (c) right to have disciplinary action against staff. Having said so, it further observed that question is, "to what extent right of aided primary minority institution to administer be regulated" and it is this aspect which need be considered for the reason that a minority institution, which is getting aid from the State cannot claim right to complete absoluteness without any restriction or check, which is in the interest of Nation as a whole and student community in particular.

62. Thereafter Supreme Court noted the essence of various authorities, it considered and then in paragraphs 49 to 53 said as under:

"49. Thus, if the intent is to achieve excellence in education, would it be enough if the concerned educational institutions were to employ teachers with minimum requisite qualifications in the name of exercise of Right Under Article 30 of the Constitution, while better qualified teachers are available to impart education in the second category of institutions as stated hereinabove. For example, if the qualifying percentile index for a teacher to be appointed in an educational institution, considering his educational qualifications, experience and research, is required to be 50, and if teachers possessing qualifications far greater and higher than this basic index are available, will it be proper exercise for a minority educational institution to select teachers with lower index disregarding those who are better qualified? Will that subserve pursuit of excellence in education? One can understand if under the regulatory regime candidates who are otherwise less qualified are being nominated in the minority educational institution and the minority educational institution is forced to accept such less meritorious candidates in preference to better qualified candidates. In such cases, the minority educational institution can certainly be within its rights to agitate the issue and claim a right to choose better teachers. But if the candidates who are selected and nominated under the regulatory regime to impart education which is purely secular in character, are better qualified, would the minority institution be within its rights to reject such nomination only in the name of exercise of a right of choice? The choice so exercised would not be in pursuit of excellence. Can such choice then be accepted?

If the right is taken to be absolute and unqualified, then certainly such choice must be recognised and accepted. But, if the right has not been accepted to be absolute and unqualified and the national interest must always permeate and apply, the excellence and merit must be the governing criteria. Any departure from the concept of merit and excellence would not make a minority educational institution an effective vehicle to achieve what has been contemplated in various decisions of this Court. Further, if merit is not the sole and governing criteria, the minority institutions may lag behind the non-minority institutions rather than keep in step with them.

50. At the cost of repetition, it needs to be clarified that if the minority institution has a better candidate available than the one nominated under a regulatory regime, the institution would certainly be within its rights to reject the nomination made by the authorities but if the person nominated for imparting education is otherwise better qualified and suitable, any rejection of such nomination by the minority institution would never help such institution in achieving excellence and as such, any such rejection would not be within the true scope of the Right protected Under Article 30(1) of the Constitution.

51. With these basic principles in mind, we may now consider the statutory provisions under which the teachers could be nominated under the Commission Act and see whether the concerned Regulations help in achieving excellence or whether those provisions are violative of the Rights of the minority institutions.

52. In terms of Section 4 of the Commission Act, the Commission is to consist of a Chairman and four Members. The Chairman of the Commission has to be an eminent educationist having profound knowledge in Islamic Culture and must be well versed in education with teaching experience inter alia as a teacher of a University or as a Principal of a college, for a period of not less than twelve years. It is true that the latter part of Section 4(ii) speaks of an officer of the State Government not below the rank of Joint Secretary who could also be appointed as the Chairman of the Commission. But in our view, considering the nature of duties that the Chairman is to discharge, even an officer of the State Government has to be a person with profound knowledge in Islamic Culture. Apart from the Chairman, there are four Members who are to be appointed in terms of Section 4(iii) of the Commission Act. Out of these four Members, one has to be an eminent educationist having profound knowledge in Islamic Theology and Culture, while the other two Members must have teaching experience inter alia as a teacher of a University, or a Principal of a College for a period of not less than ten years. The fourth member could be a non-educationist, but he must have held the position of eminence in public life or in Legal or Administrative Service. Predominant composition of the Commission is thus of educationists and two of them have to be persons with profound knowledge in Islamic Culture and Islamic Theology. The provisions of the Commission Act are thus specially designed for Madrasahs and Madrasah Education System in the State. Rule 8 of the 2010 Rules stipulates fair and transparent process of merit based selection and the statutory mechanism would ensure that only those teachers would be selected who would be best suited to impart education in Madrasah Education System. The State Legislature has taken care to see that the composition of the Commission would ensure compatibility of the teachers who would be selected to impart education in Madrasah Education System, which is also emphasized in the Statement of Objects and Reasons.

53. It is true that the recommendations or nominations of teachers made by the Commission are otherwise binding on the Managing Committees of concerned Madrasahs, but, in terms of second proviso to Section 10 of the Commission Act, if there be any error, it is open to the Managing Committee of the concerned Madrasah to bring it to the notice of the Commission for removal of such error. The concept of 'error' as contemplated must also include cases where the concerned Madrasah could appoint a better qualified teacher than the one nominated by the Commission. If any such error is pointed out, the Commission will certainly have to rectify and remove the error. The further protection is afforded by Section 12 of the Commission Act, under which the concerned Madrasah could be within its rights to refuse to issue appointment letter to the candidate recommended by the Commission if any better qualified candidate is otherwise available with the managing committee of the concerned Madrasah. Such refusal may also come within the expression 'any reasonable ground' as contemplated in Section 12(i) of the Act.

The legislature has thus taken due care that the interest of a minority institution will always be taken care of by ensuring that i) in normal circumstances, the best qualified and suitable candidates will be nominated by the Commission; ii) and in case there be any error on part of the Commission, the concerned Managing Committee could not only point out the error which would then be rectified by the Commission but the Managing Committee may also be within its rights in terms of Section 12(i) to refuse the nomination on a reasonable ground."

63. Supreme Court allowed the appeals upholding statutory provisions and set aside the judgments of the High Court as is evident from paragraph-57 of the judgment, which reads as under:

"57. In the premises, while allowing these appeals, we set aside the view taken by the Single Judge and the Division Bench of the High Court and dismiss Writ Petition No.20650(W) of 2013 and other connected matters. We also hold Sections 8, 10, 11 and 12 of the Commission Act to be valid and constitutional."

64. In the present case also, we find that statutory provisions made by the respondent-authorities are even less regulatory than the same were in the case of West Bengal. Here only an element of open test in the form of written test has bee introduced, which will determine merit of the candidates. Further scope of subjective element of selection, when the selection was made only on the basis of interview, has been curtailed to a larger extent. This is for bringing in transparency, impartiality, fairness and non arbitrariness in selection and it is in the interest of public at large, students' community and national interest. In selection and appointment no Government Authority has any direct role except that it has to forward papers from one to another. Even for recruitment i.e. holding of Screening/Written Test, no Government Machinery has been given any power of interference but a private recruitment agency has to be employed. Its role is limited as it is only a written examination conducting body and has to prepare merit list on the basis of marks secured in written test and same to forward through educational authorities to the Management for holding selection in accordance with the statute. It is not in dispute that all the educational institution before this Court are 100 percent Government aided minority educational institutions and therefore, in view of aforesaid law laid down by Supreme Court, it cannot be said that statutory provision in question, in any manner, affects their right to administer minority institution and it cannot be said to be violative of Article 30 of the Constitution. We, therefore, find no merit in these writ petitions.

65. Dismissed accordingly.

66. However, there shall be no order as to costs.

5. Writ A No. 30612 of 2008, Smt. Rama Devi & anr. Vs St. of U.P. & ors.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmed, J.)

1. This writ petition has been filed by the petitioner with the following prayers:

"a). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 16.11.2006 passed by respondent no. 2 (Annexure No. 15 to this writ petition).

b). Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus, commanding the respondents to consider the claim of petitioner for compassionate appointment afresh and appoint the petitioner on a suitable class IV post, under the Dying in Harness Rules within some stipulated period, as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper, c). Issue any other writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the present case.

d). Award cost to the present writ petition to the petitioner."

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner argued that the father of the petitioner who was a permanent class IV employee in the department of respondents, left his home on 01.05.1996 at about 6.00 P.M. for night duty and did not return to his home till 08.05.1996. He was searched in the office and at the homes of nears and dears but petitioner himself nor any family members could known the whereabout of father of petitioner. The petitioner then lodged a first information report at the concerned police station and also informed the police control room, Allahabad.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that the aforesaid news (missing person) had also been given by the petitioner to Print Media for publication, which was published on 09.05.1996. The mother of the petitioner moved an application on 5.8.1996 before the respondent no.3 for granting his salary till her husband is searched by the police because she is unable to maintain her family but nothing has been paid to the mother of the petitioner. The petitioner repeatedly approached to the concerned police station to know about the progress in search of father of the petitioner. However, the police reported that they could not trace out the missing person. In this regard, the police has submitted its report dated 9.02.2004 and 26.03.2004.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that in the instant case, the employee was missing, leaving behind his wife, Smt. Munni Devi and son i.e. petitioner, which was duly certified by the Tehsildar Sadar, Allahabad who has issued the dependent certificate dated 26.09.2003.

5. Learned counsel further argued that after exhaustive effort of search of his father by the police as well as by the petitioner himself, when the whereabout of missing father of petitioner could not be known, the petitioner sought appointment on compassionate grounds from respondnt nos. 2 and 3 by way of application dated 18.11.2003. Upon the application of the petitioner, respondent no.3 sought directions from respondent no.2 for further proceedings in the matter of the petitioner.

6. Learned counsel has further argued that the petitioner made a request to respondent no.2 that since on 01.04.2005 concerned police station reported in writing that the search of missing father of the petitioner has now been stopped and all the efforts have gone in vain, hence his case for appointment on compassionate ground may kindly be considered. The petitioner again represented to respondent no.3, repeating his similar prayer on 01.04.2004. Consequently, respondent no.3 forwarded the application of the petitioner to respondent no.2 on 08.04.2004.

7. Learned counsel has further argued that the petitioner as well as his mother jointly submitted an Indemnity Bond before the respondent no.2. It is made clear that in order to get appointment under such circumstances, submission of indemnity bond is necessary in pursuance to the Government Orders. So far as academic qualification of the petitioner is concerned, he passed High School Examination in 1987, according to which the date of birth of the petitioner is 20.07.1970. Thus, the petitioner is duly qualified and eligible to be appointed on class IV post.

8. Learned counsel further argued that inspite of repeated representation made by the petitioner before the respondent authorities, when a most genuine claim of the petitioner was not considered at all by the authorities concerned, then having left with no option the petitioner sought shelter of this Hon'ble Court by filing a writ petition, being Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.45902 of 2006. The Hon'ble Court, after hearing the parties, was pleased to dispose of the writ petition vide its judgment and order dated 24.08.2006 and observed that dependents of a person, dying a civil death in harness are also entitled for compassionate appointment and the respondents ought to take action on the application of the petitioner. The Hon'ble Court was further pleased to issue direction to the respondent no.2 to consider the claim of the petitioner expeditiously, preferably within a period of three months from the date of submission of a certified copy of order along with an attested copy of the writ petition. The certified copy of the order dated 24.08.2006, passed by this Hon'ble Court was duly served to the respondent No.2 by the petitioner along with an application dated 31.08.2006.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner further argued that the respondent no.2 has passed the impugned order dated 16.11.2006, rejecting the claim of the petitioner on wholly non-existent ground and even without considering the specific observations of this Hon'ble Court, contained in its order dated 24.08.2006.

10. Learned counsel next submitted that the entire family of the petitioner is on the verge of starvation inasmuch as no source of livelihood is available to the petitioner's family. The petitioner is simply working in a private clothes shop and is getting a meagre amount of Rs.50/- per day. The mother of petitioner is also compelled by the circumstances to attend certain houses for cleaning the pots. The petitioner along with family including his mother is living in a single room, rented accommodation. Thus, in these hard days it has become very difficult for the petitioner to pull on burden of expenses of the family. The respondent No.3 has already given compassionate appointment to more than 10 candidates during the period from the year 1992 to 2006 but the petitioner is being discriminated. The petitioner has been able to find out names of the following persons who have been given appointments by respondent No.3 under Dying in Harness Rules:-

(1) Lal Chand (2) Suman (3) Shakira Begum (4) Beenu Singh (5) Manish Kumar (6) Mohd. Waseem (7) Santosh Kumar (8) Shiv Shankar (9) Anil Kumar and (10) Sujata Verma.

11. Counter Affidavit was filed by respondent Nos.2 and 3 and an averment was made in paragraph no.4 of the counter affidavit that the father of the petitioner was posted as peon/chaprasi at the office of respondent no.3 and he absented himself since 15.04.1996 without any sanctioned leaved or information. The order impugned has been passed in compliance of the order dated 24.08.2006 passed in Civil Misc. Petition No.45902 of 2006. It is submitted that State Government has categorically clarified that the benefits of the U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereafter referred to as ' Rules of 1974') are not applicable in the case of petitioner as his father went missing.

12. Further the learned counsel for respondent nos.2 and 3 draw the attention of the Court towards the averment made at paragraph no.6 of counter affidavit, in which, it is submitted that the father of the petitioner, Sri Narendra Pratap Singh absented himself since 15.04.1996 without any sanctioned leave or information. As per the claim of the petitioner as his father went missing since 01.05.1996 he (Narendra Pratap Singh) should be presumed to have met a civil death. On such fiction of law the petitioner applied on 18.11.2003 for appointment under the Rules of 1974, and that a compassionate appointment is an exception to the Rule and the petitioner cannot claim the same as a right. Compassionate appointment is provided to meet the sudden financial crisis which arise due to the death of the bread earner, the Law in this regard is very clear; such an appointment cannot be claimed as a right. Moreover the State Govenment has categorically clarified that the benefit of Rules of 1974, have not been extended to dependents of such employees who are missing as such the petitioner was not entitled to be appointed under the Rules of 1974, there was no question tht the answering respondent could have given the petitioner an appointment on some post under the Rules of 1974. The order impugned suffer from no infirmity.

13. Rejoinder Affdidavit has been filed by the petitioner and he denied all the avements made in the counter affidavit and reiterated the ground taken in the writ petition.

14. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

15. It is not in dispute that the father of the petitioner went missing in May, 1996 while working as a peon in the respondent organization. Even after seven years, his whereabouts could not be known and the police submitted a missing report. In view of the provisions of Section 108 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872, father of the peitioner had not been traceable, hence it is presumed that such a missing person has already died in the eyes of law after the lapse of seven years and since the father of petitioner has been acknowledged to be dead during the tenure of employment, hence dependents ought to have been given compassionate appointment. There is no lecuna in the candiature of the petitioner nor any formality is left to be completed by the petitioner in asmuch as an indemnity bond has already been submitted by the petitioner as required under the Govt. Order dated 20.03.1987 for the purpose in case the missing employee comes into picture in future, all the payments made to the family would be adjusted. Even after the directions issued by this High Court, vide its order dated 24.08.2006 in the earlier writ petition filed by the petitioner, instead of considering and allowing the legitimate claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment, the respondent no.2 has simply rejected the representation on totally non-existent ground, without application of mind and even without considering the specific observations made by the High Court, treating the ptitioner as dependent of a person/ employee dying a civil death in harness.

16. The father of petitioner is missing from 01.05.1996 and has not yet been traceable, hence according to the provisions of section 108 of the Indian Evidence Act, it is to be presumed that such person is dead in the eye of law after the lapse of 7 years and once the father of petitioner has been acknowledged to be dead during the course of his service, the petitioner being his dependent is entitled to get employment on compassionate ground under 1974 Rules. In this regard the provisions of section 108 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 are being quoted hereunder:-

"108. Burden of proving that person is alive who has not been heard of for seven years:-

[provided that when] the question is whether a man is alive or dead, if it is proved that he has not been heard of for seven years by those who would naturally have heard of him if he had been alive, the burdedn of proving that he is alive is the person who affirms it."

17. The law is well settled that if a person is missing for more than 7 years, then the dependent of such person should be given appointment under the 1974 Rules. The financial condition of petitioner is such in which he is fully entitled for compassionate appointment so as to enable him to meet out the family expenses, otherwise the family of the petitioner, which is on the verge of starvation will be ruined.

18. In this regard, reference may be made to the law as laid down by this Court in the case of Amit Sharma Vs. State of U.P. And others [2009 (4) ESC2511 (All)] and was pleased to observe in paragraph No.11, which is being quoted herein below:-

"Standing Counsel has placed reliance upon counter affidavit in which it has been averred that the Dying-in- Harness Rules, 1974 are not applicable as the said rules do not provide for compassionate appointment to the dependent of the employee who is claimed to have been missing from service of seven years on aforesaid rules are applicable to the Standing Counsel the notice of the aforesaid rules are applicable to the dependents of government servants who have died in harness while working. It is stated that the death of deceased Government employee has a nexus with the actual death of the Government servant in harness and not a civil death and that on presumption of civil death, only pension and other dues are payable. Reference in this regard have been made to the Government Orders dated 9.12.2008, 13.7.2006 and 21.5.2007, copy whereof is annexed as Annexures 3, 4 and 5 to the affidavit."

19. This Court further in the case of Ajay Kumar Shukla Vs. State of U.P. And others [2005(1)E.S.C. (All.807) observed in paragraph No. 8, which is being quoted herein below:-

" It may be stated here that a human being can died under various circumstances, for example, a person may died on account of natural causes, or on account of an accident, or that the person may commit suicide, or die in war, or in anti-terrorist activities, or there may be a presumptive death, namely, that a person is missing sinice long and therefore, presumed to be dead. The Rules of 1974 does not specify the manner of death that would qualify for an employment to the heirs. Therefore, in my view all kinds of death caused by every possible manner, would be included in the Dying in Harness Rules and the benefit of employment has to be given to the dependant of the person, who dies in harness."

20. This Court further take the similar view in the case of Sanjay Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others [2005(3) A.W.C. 2724 (LB) observed in paragraph Nos. 9 and 10, which are being quoted herein below:-

"And more so, according to the Section 108 of the Evidence Act when a person who is not traceable for the last 7 years from the date of his missing, shall be deemed to be dead. Section 108 of the Evidence Act is reproduced as under:-

" 108. Burden of proving that person is alive who has not been heard of for seven years.-[Provided that when) the question is whether a man is alive or dead, and it is proved that he has not been heard of for seven years by those who would naturally have heard of him if he had been alive, the burden of proving that he is alive is (shifted to) the person who affirms it.

There may be cases where while discharging duties particularly in police force or armed force persons may be placed in the list of lost or missing employees for some unforeseen reasons and denial for appointment on compassionate ground to the dependents of such employees even after the lapse of statutory period of 7 years shall frustrate the very purpose of the Dying-in-Harness Rules. "

21. This Court in the case of Sima Devi Vs. Senior Superintendnet of Police, Jhansi and others (2002(2) ESC (All. 37) observed in paragraph no.7 which is being quoted herein below:

"In my consideration, this is not the correct understanding of provision and spirit of the 'Rule 1974'. The benefit of giving appointment on compassionate ground has to be extended to the dependent of a person who died in service and the same is to be given to a person who is legally entitled for such benefit. The nature, manner and cause of death may be many, such death, might occur in natural course, accidental, murder, natural calamities, during war, anti-terrorist activities etc. as the manner the death likely to occur in service has not been specified in the 'Rule 1974' therefore, the death caused by every possible manner could be conceived of and has to be considered for the purpose of extending benefit for giving employment to the dependent of person died in service interference to Rule 5 of 'Rule 1974'."

In view of the above observations, the writ petition is allowed. The respondents are directd to consider to give the employment to the petitioner to the post of Class IV post/Constable in the department of Civil Police in State of Uttar Pradesh and take such decision within six weeks from the date of receipt of the order and place the petitioner at soe suitable place near her home town and previous benefits which have already been extended to her could be adjusted or reimbursed from the benefits which are to be extended to her in accordance to the law after giving fresh appointment to the petitioner."

22. This Court in the case of Smt. Rama Devi and another Vs. State of U.P. And others, Writ A No.30612 of 2008 decided on 21.9.2010 considering the above judgments was pleased to observed as under:-

"Having heard learned counsel for the parties and keeping in view the submissions raised this issue is no longer resintegra as held by this Court in the cases referred to herein above. The executive instructions therefore cannot take away the rights of the petitioner to claim compassionate appointment after the civil death of the employee. The respondents have themselves released all post terminal benefits."

23. In view of the above discussion and the observation and direction given in the above referred case law, the principle of purposeful interpretation may be applied in the present case while considering the availability of benefits to the petitioner under Dying-in-Harness Rules. The purpose of Dying-in-Harness Rules is to provide help to the family of the deceased of a Government employee by making appointment on compassionate ground. After the death of Governmnt employee in harness or in case the Government employee is not traceable on account of certain mishappenings like happened in the present case, the appointment on compassionate ground of a dependent may save the family from dying on account of starvation and financial hardships. Hence, the writ petition deserves to be allowed. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 16.11.2006 passed by respondent No.2 (Annexure No.15 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed. The matter is remanded back to the respondent no.2 to consider the grievance of the petitioner afresh for compassionate appointment on a suitale post in the light of the observations made hereinabove within two months from the date of production of a certified/ computer generated copy of this order before him by a reasoned and speaking order.

24. Accordingly, the writ petition is partly allowed. Nor order as to cost.

A. Constitution of India – Article 23 – Minimum Wages Act, 1948 – Remuneration – Less than minimum wage – 'Other form of Forced Labour' – Ambit and Scope – Where a person provides labour or service to another for remuneration which is less than the minimum wage, the labour or service provided by him clearly falls within the scope and ambit of the words 'forced labour' under Article 23 – Rs. 1000/- paid to lady-cook in Primary School for more than 14 years – Petitioner was never in a position to bargain with the might of the State and continued to suffer the violation of a rights – Held, the State has misused its dominant position in fixing the wages as have been fixed by the two Government Orders to be paid to the cooks employed for providing mid-day-meal – General mandamus issued to remedy the ill. (Para 8, 10, 14 and 15)

B. Constitution of India – Part III – Violation of Fundamental Rights –Role of the Court – Court as custodian – Socio economic equality – Held, this Court being a custodian of the fundamental rights cannot shut its eyes to the injustice carried out against the petitioner and the persons, who are similarly placed by an act of the State, which claims to achieve socio economic equality as the cherished dreams of the Constitution. Cases relied on :-

1. People's Union For Democratic Rights & ors. Vs U.O.I. & ors., (1982) 3 SCC 235

1. The present writ petition has been filed alleging that the petitioner is continuously working as a cook for making mid-day-meal in Basic Primary School Pinesar, Basti since 2005 and petitioner is also a member of Mandhyan Bhojan Rasoiya Mazdoor Sangh. The petitioner has approached this Court alleging that despite the fact that the petitioner is working since 2005, the petitioner has been removed without any opportunity from 01.08.2019. It is also alleged that since the appointment of the petitioner was made in the year 2005, the petitioner was paid monthly wages of Rs. 1000/- per month and, despite the petitioner having worked for more than 14 years, she has been removed. The petitioner claims to be a very poor lady and has no other source of income, however, somehow she managed resources to approach this Court for highlighting the exploitation of the petitioner at the hands of the government and the authorities which are State, within the meaning of Article 12.

2. This Court had expressed its displeasure in the manner in which the amount of Rs. 1000/- was being paid to the poor lady for more than 14 years and, looking into the exploitation of the petitioner, had called the respondents to file a counter affidavit explaining as to why and how the petitioner was being exploited for such a long time by paying a meager amount of Rs. 1000/- per month.

3. A counter affidavit has been filed before this Court on 09.12.2020, wherein in para 16 the factum of the petitioner's working since 2005 has not been denied. In respect of the amount paid to the petitioner, reliance has been placed on the Government Order dated 24th April, 2010, wherein the wages for the cook, providing mid-day-meal, is fixed as Rs. 1000/- per month, out of which 75% is to be borne by the Central Government and rest 25% is to be borne by the State Government.

4. The counsel for the respondents states that w.e.f. 09th March, 2019 the amount payable to the cooks has been enhanced from Rs. 1000/- to Rs. 1500/- per month. He has also brought on record a Government Order dated 14th August, 2019 to the effect that new incumbents are to be appointed as cook for providing mid-day-meal and preference would be given to the persons whose one of the child is studying in the school in question, and thus argues that as the petitioner's child is not studying in the school, she could not be considered for fresh appointment.

5. The present case highlights the manner in which the practice of Forced Labour is prevalent in the country even after 70 years of independence and the helpless people similar to the petitioner continue to suffer the exploitation willingly.

6. Part III of the Constitution of India provides for the freedoms to which are guaranteed to every citizen of this country . The present case is specifically concerned with Article 14, Article 21 and Article 23 of the Constitution of India, more particularly Article 23 .In the context of the facts of the present case what is to be considered is that whether the payment of wages at the rate of Rs. 1,000/- per month is an other form of Forced Labour as barred by virtue of Article 23 of the Constitution of India or not.

7. The question of "other forms of Forced Labour" as finds place in Article 23 of the Constitution of India came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court for the first time in the case of People's Union For Democratic Rights and Others v. Union of India and Others; (1982) 3 SCC 235, wherein in the form of Public Interest Litigation, the plight of the workers engaged in the construction for the Asian Games, was highlighted before the Supreme Court. The contention before the Supreme Court was that the workers employed for constructions were being paid wages which were less than the minimum wages prescribed. The Supreme Court specifically considered the scope of Article 23 and recorded as under:-

"12. Article 23 enacts a very important fundamental right in the following terms:

"23. Prohibition of traffic in human beings and forced labour.--(1) Traffic in human beings and begar and other similar forms of forced labour are prohibited and any contravention of this provision shall be an offence punishable in accordance with law.

(2) Nothing in this article shall prevent the State from imposing compulsory service for public purposes, and in imposing such service the State shall not make any discrimination on grounds only of religion, race, caste or class or any of them."

Now many of the fundamental rights enacted in Part III operate as limitations on the power of the State and impose negative obligations on the State not to encroach on individual liberty and they are enforceable only against the State. But there are certain fundamental rights conferred by the Constitution which are enforceable against the whole world and they are to be found inter alia in Articles 17, 23 and 24. We have already discussed the true scope and ambit of Article 24 in an earlier portion of this judgment and hence we do not propose to say anything more about it. So also we need not expatiate on the proper meaning and effect of the fundamental right enshrined in Article 17 since we are not concerned with that article in the present writ petition. It is Article 23 with which we are concerned and that article is clearly designed to protect the individual not only against the State but also against other private citizens. Article 23 is not limited in its application against the State but it prohibits "traffic in human being and begar and other similar forms of forced labour" practised by anyone else. The sweep of Article 23 is wide and unlimited and it strikes at "traffic in human beings and begar and other similar forms of forced labour" wherever they are found. The reason for enacting this provision in the Chapter on Fundamental Rights is to be found in the socio-economic condition of the people at the time when the Constitution came to be enacted. The Constitution-makers, when they set out to frame the Constitution, found that they had the enormous task before them of changing the socio-economic structure of the country and bringing about socio-economic regeneration with a view to reaching social and economic justice to the common man. Large masses of people, bled white by wellnigh two centuries of foreign rule, were living in abject poverty and destitution, with ignorance and illiteracy accentuating their helplessness and despair. The society had degenerated into a status-oriented hierarchical society with little respect for the dignity of the individual who was in the lower rungs of the social ladder or in an economically impoverished condition. The political revolution was completed and it had succeeded in bringing freedom to the country but freedom was not an end in itself, it was only a means to an end, the end being the raising of the people to higher levels of achievement and bringing about their total advancement and welfare. Political freedom had no meaning unless it was accompanied by social and economic freedom and it was therefore necessary to carry forward the social and economic revolution with a view to creating socio-economic conditions in which every one would be able to enjoy basic human rights and participate in the fruits of freedom and liberty in an egalitarian social and economic framework. It was with this end in view that the Constitution-makers enacted the directive principles of state policy in Part IV of the Constitution setting out the constitutional goal of a new socio-economic order. Now there was one feature of our national life which was ugly and shameful and which cried for urgent attention and that was the existence of bonded or forced labour in large parts of the country. This evil was the relic of a feudal exploitative society and it was totally incompatible with the new egalitarian socio-economic order which "we the people of India" were determined to build and constituted a gross and most revolting denial of basic human dignity. It was therefore necessary to eradicate this pernicious practice and wipe it out altogether from the national scene and this had to be done immediately because with the advent of freedom, such practice could not be allowed to continue to blight the national life any longer. Obviously, it would not have been enough merely to include abolition of forced labour in the directive principles of state policy, because then the outlawing of this practice would not have been legally enforceable and it would have continued to plague our national life in violation of the basic constitutional norms and values until some appropriate legislation could be brought by the legislature forbidding such practice. The Constitution-makers therefore decided to give teeth to their resolve to obliterate and wipe out this evil practice by enacting constitutional prohibition against it in the Chapter on Fundamental Rights, so that the abolition of such practice may become enforceable and effective as soon as the Constitution came into force. This is the reason why the provision enacted in Article 23 was included in the Chapter on Fundamental Rights. The prohibition against "traffic in human beings and begar and other similar forms of forced labour" is clearly intended to be a general prohibition, total in its effect and all pervasive in its range and it is enforceable not only against the State but also against any other person indulging in any such practice."

13. The question then is as to what is the true scope and meaning of the expression "traffic in human beings and begar and other similar forms of forced labour" in Article 23? What are the forms of "forced labour" prohibited by that article and what kind of labour provided by a person can be regarded as "forced labour" so as to fall within this prohibition? When the Constitution-makers enacted Article 23 they had before them Article 4 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights but they deliberately departed from its language and employed words which would make the reach and content of Article 23 much wider than that of Article 4 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. They banned "traffic in human beings" which is an expression of much larger amplitude than "slave trade" and they also interdicted "begar and other similar forms of forced labour". The question is what is the scope and ambit of the expression "begar" and other similar forms of forced labour'? Is this expression wide enough to include every conceivable form of forced labour and what is the true scope and meaning of the words "forced labour"? The word "begar" in this article is not a word of common use in English language. It is a word of Indian origin which like many other words has found its way in the English vocabulary. It is very difficult to formulate a precise definition of the word "begar", but there can be no doubt that it is a form of forced labour under which a person is compelled to work without receiving any remuneration. Molesworth describes 'begar' as "labour or service exacted by a Government or person in power without giving remuneration for it". Wilson's Glossary of Judicial and Revenue Termsgives the following meaning of the word "begar": "a forced labourer, one pressed to carry burthens for individuals or the public. Under the old system, when pressed for public service, no pay was given. The begari, though still liable to be pressed for public objects, now receives pay. Forced labour for private service is, prohibited." "Begar" may therefore be loosely described as labour or service which a person is forced to give without receiving any remuneration for it. That was the meaning of the word "begar" accepted by a Division Bench of the Bombay High Court in S. Vasudevan v. S.D. Mital [AIR 1962 Bom 53 : 63 Bom LR

774 : (1961-62) 21 FJR 441] . "Begar" is thus clearly a form of forced labour. Now it is not merely "begar" which is unconstitutionally (sic) prohibited by Article 23 but also all other similar forms of forced labour. This Article strikes at forced labour in whatever form it may manifest itself, because it is violative of human dignity and is contrary to basic human values. The practice of forced labour is condemned in almost every international instrument dealing with human rights. It is interesting to find that as far back as 1930 long before the Universal Declaration of Human Rights came into being, International Labour Organisation adopted Convention No. 29 laying down that every member of the International Labour Organisation which ratifies this convention shall "suppress the use of forced or compulsory labour in all its forms" and this prohibition was elaborated in Convention No. 105 adopted by the International Labour Organisation in 1957. The words "forced or compulsory labour" in Convention No. 29 had of course a limited meaning but that was so on account of the restricted definition of these words given in Article 2 of the Convention. Article 4 of the European Convention of Human Rights and Article 8 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights also prohibit forced or compulsory labour. Article 23 is in the same strain and it enacts a prohibition against forced labour in whatever form it may be found. The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents laid some emphasis on the word "similar" and contended that it is not every form of forced labour which is prohibited by Article 23 but only such form of forced labour as is similar to "begar" and since "begar" means labour or service which a person is forced to give without receiving any remuneration for it, the interdict of Article 23 is limited only to those forms of forced labour where labour or service is exacted from a person without paying any remuneration at all and if some remuneration is paid, though it be inadequate, it would not fall within the words "other similar forms of forced labour". This contention seeks to unduly restrict the amplitude of the prohibition against forced labour enacted in Article 23 and is in our opinion not well founded. It does not accord with the principle enunciated by this Court in Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India [(1978) 1 SCC 248 : AIR 1978 SC 597 : (1978) 2 SCR 621] that when interpreting the provisions of the Constitution conferring fundamental rights, the attempt of the court should be to expand the reach and ambit of the fundamental rights rather than to attenuate their meaning and content. It is difficult to imagine that the Constitution-makers should have intended to strike only at certain forms of forced labour leaving it open to the socially or economically powerful sections of the community to exploit the poor and weaker sections by resorting to other forms of forced labour. Could there be any logic or reason in enacting that if a person is forced to give labour or service to another without receiving any remuneration at all, it should be regarded as a pernicious practice sufficient to attract the condemnation of Article 23, but if some remuneration is paid for it, then it should be outside the inhibition of that article? If this were the true interpretation, Article 23 would be reduced to a mere rope of sand, for it would then be the easiest thing in an exploitative society for a person belonging to a socially or economically dominant class to exact labour or service from a person belonging to the deprived and vulnerable section of the community by paying a negligible amount of remuneration and thus escape the rigour of Article 23. We do not think it would be right to place on the language of Article 23 an interpretation which would emasculate its beneficent provisions and defeat the very purpose of enacting them. We are clearly of the view that Article 23 is intended to abolish every form of forced labour. The words "other similar forms of forced labour" are used in Article 23 not with a view to importing the particular characteristic of "begar" that labour or service should be exacted without payment of any remuneration but with a view to bringing within the scope and ambit of that article all other forms of forced labour and since "begar" is one form of forced labour, the Constitution-makers used the words "other similar forms of forced labour". If the requirement that labour or work should be exacted without any remuneration were imported in other forms of forced labour, they would straightaway come within the meaning of the word "begar" and in that event there would be no need to have the additional words "other similar forms of forced labour". These words would be rendered futile and meaningless and it is a well-recognised rule of interpretation that the court should avoid a construction which has the effect of rendering any words used by the legislature superfluous or redundant. The object of adding these words was clearly to expand the reach and content of Article 23 by including, in addition to "begar", other forms of forced labour within the prohibition of that article. Every form of forced labour, "begar" or otherwise, is within the inhibition of Article 23 and it makes no difference whether the person who is forced to give his labour or service to another is remunerated or not. Even if remuneration is paid, labour supplied by a person would be hit by this article if it is forced labour, that is, labour supplied not willingly but as a result of force or compulsion."

8. Thereafter, the Supreme Court proceeded to consider as to whether a person is said to be providing Forced Labour if he is paid less than the minimum wages for it and recorded as under:-

"14.Now the next question that arises for consideration is whether there is any breach of Article 23 when a person provides labour or service to the State or to any other person and is paid less than the minimum wage for it. It is obvious that ordinarily no one would willingly supply labour or service to another for less than the minimum wage, when he knows that under the law he is entitled to get minimum wage for the labour or service provided by him. It may therefore be legitimately presumed that when a person provides labour or service to another against receipt of remuneration which is less than the minimum wage, he is acting under the force of some compulsion which drives him to work though he is paid less than what he is entitled under law to receive. What Article 23 prohibits is "forced labour" that is labour or service which a person is forced to provide and "force" which would make such labour or service "forced labour" may arise in several ways. It may be physical force which may compel a person to provide labour or service to another or it may be force exerted through a legal provision such as a provision for imprisonment or fine in case the employee fails to provide labour or service or it may even be compulsion arising from hunger and poverty, want and destitution. Any factor which deprives a person of a choice of alternatives and compels him to adopt one particular course of action may properly be regarded as "force" and if labour or service is compelled as a result of such "force", it would be "forced labour". Where a person is suffering from hunger or starvation, when he has no resources at all to fight disease or to feed his wife and children or even to hide their nakedness, where utter grinding poverty has broken his back and reduced him to a state of helplessness and despair and where no other employment is available to alleviate the rigour of his poverty, he would have no choice but to accept any work that comes his way, even if the remuneration offered to him is less than the minimum wage. He would be in no position to bargain with the employer; he would have to accept what is offered to him. And in doing so he would be acting not as a free agent with a choice between alternatives but under the compulsion of economic circumstances and the labour or service provided by him would be clearly "forced labour". There is no reason why the word "forced" should be read in a narrow and restricted manner so as to be confined only to physical or legal "force" particularly when the national charter, its fundamental document has promised to build a new socialist republic where there will be socio-economic justice for all and everyone shall have the right to work, to education and to adequate means of livelihood. The Constitution-makers have given us one of the most remarkable documents in history for ushering in a new socio-economic order and the Constitution which they have forged for us has a social purpose and an economic mission and therefore every word or phrase in the Constitution must be interpreted in a manner which would advance the socio-economic objective of the Constitution. It is not unoften that in a capitalist society economic circumstances exert much greater pressure on an individual in driving him to a particular course of action than physical compulsion or force of legislative provision. The word "force" must therefore be construed to include not only physical or legal force but also force arising from the compulsion of economic circumstances which leaves no choice of alternatives to a person in want and compels him to provide labour or service even though the remuneration received for it is less than the minimum wage. Of course, if a person provides labour or service to another against receipt of the minimum wage, it would not be possible to say that the labour or service provided by him is "forced labour" because he gets what he is entitled under law to receive. No inference can reasonably be drawn in such a case that he is forced to provide labour or service for the simple reason that he would be providing labour or service against receipt of what is lawfully payable to him just like any other person who is not under the force of any compulsion. We are therefore of the view that where a person provides labour or service to another for remuneration which is less than the minimum wage, the labour or service provided by him clearly falls within the scope and ambit of the words "forced labour" under Article 23. Such a person would be entitled to come to the court for enforcement of his fundamental right under Article 23 by asking the court to direct payment of the minimum wage to him so that the labour or service provided by him ceases to be "forced labour" and the breach of Article 23 is remedied*. It is therefore clear that when the petitioners alleged that minimum wage was not paid to the workmen employed by the contractors, the complaint was really in effect and substance a complaint against violation of the fundamental right of the workmen under Article 23."*

9. Thereafter, the Supreme Court considered the obligations of the State in the event of a complaint being made against violation of fundamental rights enacted under Article 17 or Article 23 or Article 24 and recorded as under:-

"15. Before leaving this subject, we may point out with all the emphasis at our command that whenever any fundamental right which is enforceable against private individuals such as, for example, a fundamental right enacted in Article 17 or 23 or 24 is being violated, it is the constitutional obligation of the State to take the necessary steps for the purpose of interdicting such violation and ensuring observance of the fundamental right by the private individual who is transgressing the same. Of course, the person whose fundamental right is violated can always approach the court for the purpose of enforcement of his fundamental right, but that cannot absolve the State from its constitutional obligation to see that there is no violation of the fundamental right of such person, particularly when he belongs to the weaker section of humanity and is unable to wage a legal battle against a strong and powerful opponent who is exploiting him*. The Union of India, the Delhi Administration and the Delhi Development Authority must therefore be held to be under an obligation to ensure observance of these various labour laws by the contractors and if the provisions of any of these labour laws are violated by the contractors, the petitioners vindicating the cause of the workmen are entitled to enforce this obligation against the Union of India, the Delhi Administration and the Delhi Development Authority by filing the present writ petition. The preliminary objections urged on behalf of the respondents must accordingly be rejected."*

10. Thus, following the said judgment of the Supreme Court, I am of the firm view that the payment of wages at the rate of Rs. 1,000/- per month since the year 2005 up to 2019 to the petitioner was clearly a form of Forced Labour, which is prohibited under Article 23 of the Constitution of India. The petitioner was never in a position to bargain with the might of the State and continued to suffer the violation of a rights for a period of 14 years.

11. The counsel for the petitioner has narrated the sorry State of affairs through which the petitioner is undergoing after her removal from the service in the year 2019 and in fact states that the petitioner is still ready and willing to suffer the injustice and perform her duties even if she is paid Rs. 1,500/- per month, which has been prescribed by the Government vide Government Order dated 9th March, 2019 and requests that this Court may direct the State to permit the petitioner to continue on the post of cook at whatever rates, the State may deem fit to give to the petitioner.

12. This Court being a custodian of the fundamental rights cannot shut its eyes to the injustice carried out against the petitioner and the persons, who are similarly placed by an act of the State, which claims to achieve socio economic equality as the cherished dreams of the Constitution. Despite the fact that the petitioner is ready and willing to even work at the rates prescribed by the State, if this Court allows the payment of wages as fixed by the State, that is, Rs. 1,000/- per months enhanced to Rs. 1,500/- per months in the year 2019, the Court would be clearly guilty of perpetuating the violation of the rights of the petitioner enshrined and guaranteed under Article 23 of the Constitution of India.

13. This Court can also not overlook the fact that the persons employed as cooks throughout the State of Uttar Pradesh are being paid such paltry amounts which clearly qualify as forced labour and they continue to render their services without any complaint whatsoever. This Court cannot comprehend that a person earning Rs. 1,000/- per month would be empowered to approach this Court, more particularly because of their socio economic condition, which forced them to accept the services on such conditions as have been imposed by the State.

14. I am of the firm view that the Government Orders, referred to by the Standing Counsel being the Government Order dated 24th April, 2010 prescribing Rs. 1,000/- per month as wages and the Government Order dated 9th March, 2019 prescribing the minimum wages at Rs. 1,500/- per month are clearly a form of "Forced Labour", which is specifically prohibited under Article 23 of the Constitution of India. Thus, I have no hesitation in holding that the State has misused its dominant position in fixing the wages as have been fixed by the two Government Orders to be paid to the cooks employed for providing mid-day-meal.

15. To remedy the ill, I issue a general mandamus directing the State to ensure the payment of wages calculating at the rate prescribed under the Minimum Wages Act to all the cooks employed for providing mid-day-meal in the Institutions run by the Government or Semi-Government bodies. The said cooks, including the petitioner shall be paid minimum wages calculated and payable for every month and year of services rendered by them w.e.f. 2005 till date by paying them the difference of the said amount, which is over and above Rs. 1,000/- per month.

16. The State Government and the Union of India are further directed to take steps for issuance of directions fixing the rate prescribed under the Minimum Wages Act, as the wages which would be payable to the cooks employed for providing mid-day-meal in the Institutions run by the Government or the Semi-Government bodies, the respective Governments may work out their payment obligations in consultation with each other, however, it shall be ensured that the cooks are not paid wages less than the minimum prescribed under the Minimum Wages Act, in any case. It is clarified that this order shall operate to the benefits of all the cooks employed who provide mid-day-meal whether they have approached this Court or not or whether they approach the Government by filing a separate application or not.

17. The directions given by this Court shall be carried out by the District Magistrates in respect of all the cooks, who are working for providing mid-day-meal in the Government and Semi-Government Schools within their Districts. The said exercise of payment of the difference of the amount, as directed above, shall be made within a period of four months from today.

18. As a general mandamus has been issued, the Registrar General of this Court is directed to circulate a copy of the present order to the Chief Secretary, State of U.P. and the District Magistrates throughout the State of U.P. for compliance of the directions given by this Court within the time granted and indicated hereinabove.

19. The writ petition deserves to be allowed and is consequently allowed in terms of the directions issued hereinabove.

20. Copy of the order downloaded from the official website of this Court shall be treated as certified copy of this order.

A. Service law – Termination – No Disciplinary Inquiry – TET Certificate, 2011 found to be obtained by fraud – Effect – Held, no doubt if a duly appointed employee's services that are governed by a statutory tenure are to be terminated on the ground of misconduct, disciplinary proceedings, in accordance with law, are a sine qua non – But, it may not be so in a case where the employment is secured through utter fraud – Fraud vitiates all solemn transaction – Any transaction that is the result of a fraud is a nullity – Fraud is required to be undone, wherever and whenever it is found – The petitioner's appointment found nullity. (Para 21 and 22)

Writ Petition dismissed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The petitioner, Devendra Singh has impugned the orders dated 02.11.2019, 15.11.2019 and 31.07.2020, all passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Basti, which, in effect, put an end to his services as an Assistant Teacher (Trained) in the attached Primary Section of Sri Desh Raj Narang Dayanand Inter College, Walterganj, Basti.

2. The impugned orders have come to be made in the background of facts and circumstances hereinafter detailed : Sri Desh Raj Narang Dayanand Inter College, Walterganj, Basti is a recognized and aided institution, teaching scholars from Class I to Class XII. The institution is governed by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and the Regulations framed thereunder. The institution aforesaid (for short, "the institution') is in receipt of a permanent grant-in-aid from the State Government. Salaries to its teachers and other employees are paid out of State fund under the Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and others Employees) Act, 1971 (for short, "Act of 1971'). There is no issue about the fact that the teachers working against sanctioned posts in the attached primary section of the institution also receive their salaries from the State Exchequer, under the Act of 1971.

3. There were five sanctioned posts of Assistant Teachers in the attached primary section of the institution. Shorn of unnecessary detail, all these posts fell vacant at the relevant point of time and were advertised by the Committee of Management of the institution, after necessary permission granted for the purpose by the District Inspector of Schools, Basti by his order dated 24.07.2014. There is hardly any cavil about the validating of the selection process through which the petitioner, and the four other selectees alongside him, came to be appointed to the five posts of assistant teachers in the primary section of the institution.

4. What figures as a prominent step in the process of the petitioner's appointment is an order dated 20.08.2014, by which financial approval was granted to his appointment, besides the four other assistant teachers, about whom there is no issue here. Post approval of the petitioner's recruitment by the District Inspector of Schools, the Manager of the institution issued a letter of appointment in favour of the petitioner, also on 20.08.2014. The petitioner joined service on 21.08.2014. There is also no dispute inter partes that the petitioner, after joining with the institution as an Assistant Teacher, discharged his duties all through.

5. It appears that a complaint dated 14.04.2019 was laid against the petitioner by Mr. Sanjay Pratap Jaiswal, the Hon'ble Member, Legislative Assembly from Rudhauli, Basti to the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti, saying that four candidates appointed to the attached primary section of the institution did not possess the requisite U.P. T.E.T. (Primary Level) qualification, essential for a valid appointment. The Hon'ble Member, Legislative Assembly pointed out that one Chandrakesh Pratap Singh had repeatedly complained in the matter, but no inquiry into the validity of appointments had been made.

6. The Joint Director of Education took cognizance of the M.L.A.'s complaint. He appointed the Finance and Accounts Officer to ascertain the truth of the allegations carried in the complaint. The Inquiry Officer appointed by the Joint Director of Education, submitted a report dated 22.07.2019 to the Joint Director. It appears that the Inquiry Officer found substance in the M.L.A.'s complaint against the petitioner as well as the other teachers, about whom there is no issue here. The Joint Director of Education, considering the fact that the validity of the petitioner's qualifications was seriously in doubt, but at the same time, the inquiry before him was no more than a preliminary inquiry, directed that all testimonials relating to the petitioner - educational, vocational and others relating to eligibility, be subjected to a verification, both online and offline, and if these be found not verifiable, necessary proceedings be taken to cancel his appointment and to stop further payment of his salary, all to be done after affording the petitioner opportunity of hearing.

7. An inquiry was undertaken into the validity of the petitioner's training certificates through a formal inquiry initiated for the purpose by the District Inspector of Schools, Basti. What appears from a reading of the order of the District Inspector of Schools dated 02.11.2019 is that in the inquiry, the petitioner was put to notice a number of times, but he chose not to appear. On the basis of verification of records undertaken by the District Inspector of Schools with the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P., Prayagraj (for short, "the Board'), the District Inspector of Schools recorded a finding to the effect that the U.P. Teachers Eligibility Test (Primary Level) certificate claimed by the petitioner, bearing Roll No. 09003193 related to a certain Mohd. Shamim son of Sri Sanaullah, but not to the petitioner. He concluded that the petitioner had not passed the T.E.T. (Primary Level) Examination, relating to which he had produced a certificate issued by the Board. It was also held that the Manager/ Principal of the institution presented the papers for the petitioner's appointment to the office of the District Inspector of Schools and the then incumbent District Inspector of Schools granted approval without undertaking a verification of the petitioner's testimonials. The District Inspector of Schools, by his order dated 02.11.2019, made a recommendation that the petitioner's services be terminated. Acting on his recommendations, the District Inspector of Schools passed a separate order dated 15.11.2019, cancelling the approval earlier granted to the petitioner's appointment, vide order dated 20.08.2014.

8. Aggrieved by the order dated 02.11.2019 passed by the District Inspector of Schools and the earlier order dated 27.07.2019 passed by the Joint Director of Education, the petitioner instituted Writ - A No.2049 of 2020 before this Court, impugning those orders. One of the contentions urged in the last mentioned writ petition was that the orders, under challenge there, were passed without opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. This Court, by an order dated 10.02.2020, disposed of Writ - A No.2049 of 2020 in the following terms:

"In the facts and circumstances of the case and without entering into merits of the case, this petition is disposed of directing the concerned authorities to pass appropriate orders in the matter of petitioner strictly in accordance with law expeditiously and preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order before him."

9. Now, in compliance with this Court's order dated 10.02.2020 in Writ - A No.2049 of 2020, the District Inspector of Schools undertook a wholesome inquiry, even though the petitioner did not submit a properly drawn up representation in aid of this Court's order. The District Inspector of Schools fixed dates in the matter, apparently with notice to the parties, that is to say, the Management of the institution and the petitioner, both. The dates fixed were adjourned on more than one occasion. It figures on record that on 27.06.2020, the petitioner stated his case before the District Inspector of Schools through a written statement thereof. It was made out in the representation that the petitioner's roll number was 90904646 and that he had passed the U.P. T.E.T. Examination, 2011 under the said roll number. The District Inspector of School, on an inquiry into the records, noticed that the petitioner had filed his T.E.T. (Primary Level) Certificate relating to the Examination of 2011 bearing Roll No. 09003193 (Serial No. 3133698), regarding which the District Inspector of Schools had addressed a memo dated 09.10.2019 to the Secretary of the Board for verification. The Secretary of the Board ,through his memo dated 16.10.2019, had certified that Roll No. 09003193, the serial number of which was 3133698, related to one Mohd. Shamim son of Sanaullah, an OBC scholar, who had passed the said examination in the year 2011. From this report, the District Inspector of Schools concluded that the petitioner had not passed his T.E.T. (Primary Level) Examination at all. He recorded a finding that the petitioner, Devendra Singh, had presented the T.E.T. (Primary Level) Examination Certificate, bearing Roll No. 09003193, relating to the Examination of the year 2011 at the time that he staked his candidature for the post, which was not valid.

10. The District Inspector of Schools went on to record a finding that in Writ - A No.2049 of 2020, which the petitioner filed, he had annexed a different T.E.T. Examination Certificate for the year 2011, where the roll number indicated was 90904646, bearing Serial No. 3133698. The District Inspector of Schools has remarked that it is this different certificate which the petitioner now relies upon in support of his case. The District Inspector of Schools has recorded the fact that upon the said difference in the certificates, he had sent the certificate, now relied upon by the petitioner, for verification to the Secretary of the Board, vide his memo dated 05.07.2020. The Secretary, on the basis of the Board's records, through his memo dated 28.07.2020, had returned information to the effect that the T.E.T. Certificate, bearing Roll No. 90904646 and Serial No.3133698, had led him nowhere, inasmuch as there was no Roll No. 90904646 available on the Board's website for the relevant examination during the year concerned.

11. The District Inspector of Schools, therefore, concluded that these facts clearly show that the petitioner does not hold a valid T.E.T. Certificate. He has, particularly, remarked that the fact that the T.E.T. Examination Certificate relating to the year 2011 relied upon by the petitioner at the time he staked his candidature and the one that he has annexed to the writ petition, both bear the same serial number, that is to say, 3133698, but varying roll numbers make the incongruence irreconcilable. The District Inspector of Schools, therefore, recorded a further finding that both the T.E.T. certificates are got up documents, presented by the petitioner to secure an unfair advantage. The District Inspector of Schools, therefore, rejected the petitioner's representation by his order dated 31.07.2020.

12. Now, the petitioner challenges the last mentioned order of the District Inspector of Schools, dated 31.07.2020 as the earlier orders dated 02.11.2019 and 15.11.2019, also passed by the District Inspector of Schools.

13. When this petition came on for admission, much was made by Mr. Ravi Pratap Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner about the fact that the petitioner had not been given due opportunity of hearing, to which he was entitled. It was urged by Mr. Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner was, after all, a duly selected and appointed teacher against a sanctioned post. An inquiry, therefore, ought to have been held by issuing him a charge sheet, where evidence ought to have been led.

14. Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned State Law Officer appearing on behalf of respondent nos.1 to 6, on the other hand submitted that it is not a case where the petitioner's services have been terminated for some misconduct, rather it is the validity of his initial appointment that is beset by fraud vitiating the appointment at its inception. Mr. Upadhyay further submits that an appointment secured through fraud is a nullity. If there was any denial of opportunity, that has been made good under orders of this Court, when the District Inspector of Schools has undertaken a wholesome review of the short issue, whether the petitioner holds a valid Teachers Eligibility Test Certificate from the Board. It is urged by Mr. Upadhyay that in an inquiry conforming to the principles of natural justice and fair play done in the petitioner's presence, the District Inspector of Schools, on the basis of relevant material, has held that there is absolutely no Teachers Eligibility Test Certificate ever earned by the petitioner to support his candidature. The T.E.T. Examination Certificate for the year 2011, relied upon by the petitioner - the one that was lodged by him at the time of selection and the one appended to the writ petition are both bogus and fraudulent documents, never issued by the Board. In these circumstances, Mr. Upadhyay, learned State Law Officer says that this is not a case where disciplinary proceedings are required to be undertaken. It is a case where the petitioner's initial retention in service is void.

15. Looking to the issue involved in the petition, which is all about the fact whether the petitioner did earn a Teachers Eligibility Test Certificate from the Board in the year 2011 or not at all, this Court suggested to the parties that the fact may be verified from the Board before this Court. The learned Counsel for both parties agreed to the above course of action. Accordingly, this Court has proceeded to determine this writ petition by consent of parties at the admission stage without going through the formal process of admission, exchange of affidavits and a regular hearing.

16. To the above end, a number of orders were passed by the Court, requiring the Board to disclose their stand about the validity of the petitioner's certificate in question. Each time, the Board came up with a categorical stand that the petitioner has not earned the certificate in question in the 2011 from the Board at all. Most of the orders that this Court passed, requiring the Secretary of the Board to verify the fact, were made in the face of immense confidence that the petitioner displayed during the course of proceedings about the genuineness of his T.E.T. Certificate, 2011. It would be apposite to refer various orders that were passed by this Court. On 25.11.2020, the following order was made:

"Let the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P. at Prayagraj represented through its Secretary, respondent no. 5 submit a report whether T.E.T. Examination Certificate for the year 2011 bearing Roll No. 09003193 and Serial No. 3133698 has been issued by them in the name of Devendra Singh S/o Kalika Singh.

It will be specifically indicated in the report whether this certificate has been issued by the respondent-Board and is available in their records. The report will bear reference not just to the Board's website but their original records as well.

Let the report be submitted on or before 01.12.2020.

Lay this matter as fresh again on 01.12.2020.

Let this order be communicated to the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P. at Prayagraj through its Secretary by the Joint Registrar (Compliance) within 24 hours."

17. Again on 01.12.2020, the following order was passed:

"It is pointed out by the learned counsel for the petitioner that in the order of this Court dated 25.11.2020, the roll number relating to the petitioner for the T.E.T. Examination and the serial number have been mentioned in error, the error being the same as led the board to earlier response incorrectly. He points out that the T.E.T. certificate for the examination of 2011 that he submitted is on record at page number 44 of the paper book. It is the said certificate that is required to be verified from the original records of the board.

The Madhyamik Shiksha Parisad, U.P. at Prayagraj represented through its Secretary, respondent no. 5 shall submit a report whether T.E.T. Examination Certificate for the U.P. Teachers Eligibility Test, 2011 (Primary Level) bearing Roll No. 90904646 (General Category) and Serial No. 3133698 has been issued by them in the name of Devendra Singh s/o Kalika Singh.

It will be specifically indicated in the report whether this certificate has been issued by the respondent-Board and is available in their records. The report will bear reference not just to the Board's website but their original records as well.

Let a report be submitted by 07.12.2020.

Lay this matter as fresh again on 07.12.2020.

Let this order be communicated to the Madhyamik Shiksha Parisad, U.P. at Prayagraj through its Secretary by the Joint Registrar (compliance) today."

18. Still again on 07.12.2020, the following order was made:

"The Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P. Prayagraj, is directed to appear in person day after tomorrow at 02:00 pm and produce the original records relating to U.P. Teachers Eligibility Test-2011 (Primary Level), bearing Roll No.90904646 (General Category), and Serial No.3133698. A hard copy of the roll number records carrying serials of the roll numbers in the vicinity of the mentioned roll number shall also be produced. The records produced howsoever, bulky shall be a wholesome record and not some truncated part of it.

Lay as fresh again on 09.12.2020 at 02:00 pm.

Let this order be communicated to the Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P. Prayagraj, by the Joint Registrar (Compliance) today."

19. In compliance with the order dated 07.12.2020, the Secretary of the Board appeared before the Court and took a definite stand that Roll No. 90904646 relating to the Teachers Eligibility Test, 2011 is a non-existent roll number, which is not there in the records. Mr. Ravi Pratap Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner was equally insistent that his client did appear in the T.E.T. Certificate Examination, 2011 held by the Board under Roll No. 90904646. It was urged with much emphasis by Mr. Singh that whatever records have been produced by the Board, are not complete with Roll No. 90904646 tucked away elsewhere, deliberately hidden from the eyes of the Court. In those circumstances, this Court issued a Commission on 09.12.2020 to the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad to undertake a wholesome inspection of the Board's record, relating to the T.E.T. Certificate Examination, 2011 and determine, whether Roll No. 90904646 is there in the records of the Board and if it is there, the name of the candidate, to whom it relates. The personal presence of the Secretary of the Board was exempted. The order that this Court made on 09.12.2020 is eloquent and extracted below:

"The Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, has appeared before the Court and he states that Roll no.90904646 relating to Teachers Eligibility Test-2011 does not exist on the record of the Board. It is a non-existing roll number relative to the said Examination. Learned Counsel for the petitioner insists that the petitioner has appeared validly under roll no.90904646 at the examination in question and that he has been granted a TET Certificate by the Board, which the Board are wrongfully disowning. The Board have produced a tabulation register, which does not carry roll no.90904646.

Learned Counsel for the petitioner says that this is not a complete record and the said roll number may be elsewhere in the records of the Board. The Board are attempting to hide from the Court's eyes the complete record, in particular, the one that carries the petitioner's roll number, that is, 90904646.

Since this issue is one which cannot be efficaciously resolved on the basis of the affidavits, this Court considers it expedient to issue a commission to the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad to inspect the records of the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj after office hours of the Board on 11.12.2020, and submit a report to this Court doing a thorough inspection as to whether this roll no.90904646 relating to the TET-2011 is there in the records of the Board, and if there, the name of the candidate, to whom it relates.

The learned Commission/ the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad shall submit his report to this Court by 15.12.2020.

The Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, who has appeared in person and produced the record, need not appear any further. His appearance is exempted.

List this matter on 15.12.2020 in the additional cause list along with the Chief Judicial Magistrate's report.

Let this order be communicated to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad through the learned District and Sessions Judge, Allahabad and the Secretary, Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj by the Joint Registrar (Compliance) within 24 hours."

20. In compliance with this Court's order dated 09.12.2020, Mr. Neeraj Kushwaha, the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Allahabad undertook a very meticulous and industrious enterprise to inspect the Board's record and bring out truth, where the stand on both sides had placed the Court to tread on unsure ground. It would be unrequited justice if Mr. Neeraj Kushwaha's report submitted along with a memo dated 14.10.2020 is not extracted for all its worth. The material part of his report reads:

"1. रिट संख्या 10106/2020 देवेन्द्र सिंह बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य एवं छः अन्य दिनाँकित 09.12.2020 में मुझे कमीशन जारी करते हुए माध्यमिक शिक्षा परिषद के अभिलेखो की जाँच इस आशय से करने हेतु निर्देशित किया गया कि क्या अनुक्रमांक संख्या 90904646 जो टी.ई.टी. 2011 से सम्बन्धित है, बोर्ड के रिकार्ड में मौजूद है और यदि मौजूद है तो उस अभ्यार्थी का नाम जो इस अनुक्रमांक से सम्बन्धित है।

2. उक्त तथ्यों की जांच हेतु मेरे द्वारा सर्वप्रथम टी.ई.टी. 2011 में सम्मिलित सभी अभ्यार्थियों की सूची जहाँ से प्रथम अनुक्रमांक शुरू होता है और अन्तिम अनुक्रमांक खत्म होता है, कि चाही गयी। वहाँ मौजूद सचिव माध्यमिक शिक्षा परिषद एवं अन्य कर्मियों के द्वारा मुझे रिकार्ड रूम ले जाया गया और वहाँ उक्त परीक्षा से सम्बन्धित सभी गण्डलो के अभिलेख मेरे समक्षा रखे गये। मेरे द्वारा सभी अभिलेखो की जाँच की गयी, अभिलेखो के देखने से यह पता चला कि उक्त परीक्षा के लिए प्रदेश को कुल 18 मण्डल में विभाजित किया गया था एवं प्रत्येक मण्डल के लिए दो अंको का एक कोड निर्धारित किया गया था जो 01, 02, 03 ..... 18 तक था। अनुक्रमांक के प्रथम दो अंक मण्डल को दर्शित करते थे। प्रथम मण्डल मेरट था जिसमें अनुक्रमांक संख्या 01000001 से

3. अनुक्रमांक आवंटन की उक्त व्यवस्था को देखने से ही स्पष्ट हो जाता है कि प्रश्नगत अनुक्रमांक 90904646 वास्तव में टी.ई.टी. परीक्षा 2011 में किसी भी अभ्यार्थी को आवंटित हो ही नहीं सकता था, क्योंकि 90 किसी भी मण्डल का कोड नही था। सम्पूर्ण दस्तावेजो के अवलोकन से यह स्पष्ट था कि टी.ई.टी. परीक्षा 2011 में कोई भी अनुक्रमांक 01,02,03,04,05,06, ... 18 से ही प्रारंभ हो सकता था, जो कुल 18 मण्डलो को ही प्रदर्शित करता था। प्रश्नगत अनुक्रमांक 90 से प्रारंभ हो रहा है जो माध्यमिक शिक्षा परिषद उ0प्र0 प्रयागराज में टी.ई.टी. 2011 परीक्षा से सम्बन्धित समस्त मौजद अभिलेखो में नही था न ही इन अंको से प्रारम्भ होकर कोई अनुक्रमांक टी.ई.टी. 2011 परीक्षा में किसी अभ्यार्थी को आवंटित हुआ था।

4. चूंकि यह रोल नम्बर किसी भी रजिस्टर में मौजूद नही था। अतः उक्त तथ्य की पुष्टि हेतु मेरे द्वारा इलेक्ट्रानिक अभिलेखों की भी जाँच आवश्यक समझी गयी और जाँच करवाने हेतु सचिव से कहा गया, जिस हेतु मुझे माध्यमिक शिक्षा परिषद के कम्प्यूटर रूम में ले जाया गया, जहाँ मेरे द्वारा टी.ई.टी. 2011 से सम्बन्धित साफ्ट डाटा बेस को कम्प्यूटर पर खुलवाया गया सर्वप्रथम मेरे द्वारा प्रश्नगत रोल नम्बर 90904646 को फीड करवाया गया और सर्च करने पर ज्ञात हुआ कि सम्पूर्ण टी0ई0टी0 परीक्षा 2011 के डाटाबेस में यह अनुक्रमांक मौजूद नहीं है, तदुपरान्त मेरे द्वारा माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश में वर्णित अभ्यार्थी देवेन्द्र सिंह पुत्र कालिका सिंह के नाम से सर्च करवाया गया तो उक्त नाम व पिता नाम से केवल एक अभ्यार्थी दर्शित हुआ जिसकी जन्मतिथि 15.4.1984 थी और जिसका अनुक्रमांक 11011114 था न कि 90904646. और वह उक्त परीक्षा में अनुत्तीर्ण भी था तथा उसे अभिलेख के अनुसार कोई प्रमाणपत्र भी निर्गत नहीं हुआ था।

5. उपरोक्त जॉच के क्रम में मेरे समक्ष सचिव द्वारा उनके कार्यालय में सत्यापन हेतु प्राप्त देवेन्द्र सिंह पुत्र कालिका सिंह के प्रमाणपत्र दिखाये गये जिसमें प्रमाणपत्र संख्या 3133698 था। मेरे द्वारा उक्त प्रमाणपत्र संख्या के आधार पर भी प्रश्नगत अनुक्रमांक की जॉच की गयी तो सारणीयन पंजिका टी.ई.टी. 2011 परीक्षा से यह पाया गया कि उक्त प्रमाणपत्र संख्या अनुक्रमांक संख्या 09003193 मोहम्मद शमीम पुत्र सनउल्ला को निर्गत किया गया है न कि देवेन्द्र सिंह पुत्र कालिका सिंह को। उक्त तथ्य की पुष्टि मेरे द्वारा इलेक्ट्रानिक अभिलेख से भी की गयी तो यह पाया गया उक्त प्रमाणपत्र संख्या 3133698 देवीपाटन मण्डल के अनुक्रमांक संख्या 09003193 के अभ्यार्थी मोहम्मद शमीम पुत्र सनउल्ला को निर्गत किया गया था।

उपरोक्त समस्त जॉच से स्पष्ट है कि प्रश्नगत अनुक्रमांक संख्या 90904646 टी.ई.टी. परीक्षा 2011 में किसी अभ्यार्थी को आवंटित नही किया गया और न ही उक्त अनुक्रमांक पर कोई अभ्यार्थी टी.ई.टी. परीक्षा 2011 में सम्मिलित हुआ।"

21. The aforesaid report that was laid before the Court by the office was shown to Mr. Ravi Pratap Singh as well as to Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay. Mr. Ravi Pratap Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner, on being asked if he had anything more to say in the matter about denial of opportunity, fell short of words. The much ado that he had made about denial of opportunity or the need to undertake disciplinary proceedings, did not figure in the day's proceeding after the learned Counsel for the petitioner had looked into the learned Commissioner's report. It can hardly be gainsaid that grant of opportunity has no particular form. It ought to meet the requirements of fair play in the given case. No doubt if a duly appointed employee's services that are governed by a statutory tenure are to be terminated on the ground of misconduct, disciplinary proceedings, in accordance with law, are a sine qua non.

But, it may not be so in a case where the employment is secured through utter fraud. It is well known that fraud vitiates all solemn transaction. Any transaction that is the result of a fraud is a nullity. Fraud is required to be undone, wherever and whenever it is found. This is not to be misunderstood and mistaken by the Authorities as a licence to label any irregularity or illegality as fraud and then short-circuit the procedure prescribed by law to support a particular action.

22. The present case, however, is definitely a case where the petitioner cannot claim that he ought to be proceeded with against in disciplinary proceedings. His is a case where it can safely be said that he was never validly appointed; his appointment is a nullity. It has rightly been undone. Also under the circumstances, the petitioner has been afforded sufficient opportunity. Before this Court, whatever ripples had been created by falsehood and confounding numericals to capitalize on the fraud, have been laid open and bare to the sunshine of truth by Mr. Neeraj Kushwaha's punctilious examination of the Board's record, which he has scripted in his report with commendable clarity.

23. In the result, this writ petition fails and is dismissed with costs in the sum of Rs.15,000/-. The petitioner is directed to deposit the costs awarded in the Account of the Secretary, Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P., Prayagraj within six weeks of date. In the event, the costs are not deposited within the time allowed, on a certification to this effect made by the Secretary, Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P., Prayagraj to the Collector, Basti, the Collector, Basti is ordered to recover the aforesaid sum of money from the petitioner as arrears of land revenue and credit it immediately upon recovery into the Board's Account.

A. Service Law - U. P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying-in-Harness Rules, 1974 – Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 – Proviso to Section 7 – Service law – Compassionate Appointment – Adoption deed claimed – No wife's consent in Adoption deed – Effect – Proviso to Section 7 makes it imperative for a Hindu male to secure his wife's consent to an adoption that he makes, unless she has completely and finally renounced the world, or has ceased to be a Hindu, or has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be of unsound mind – There is nothing in any of these three exceptions – A wife living apart from the husband, utterly estranged, is still a wife, until the marital bond between the parties is severed by a decree of divorce or nullity of marriage – Held, the impugned order, holding the adoption not valid, does not suffer from any infirmity. (Para 21 and 26)

B. Civil Law - Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act, 1956 – Proviso of Section 7 –Adoption – Matrimonial law – Judicial Separation – Husband's obligation – A virtual or constructive divorce, as if it were, are concepts not accepted generally in matrimonial laws – Even a judicial separation would not put an end to the husband's obligation under the proviso to Section 7 – Mere estrangement between the man and wife without disruption of the marital status, in accordance with law, that may either be by a decree for divorce or annulment or by death of the wife, would not take the case out of mischief of the proviso to Section 7, requiring the wife's consent to the adoption. 3. Brajendra Singh Vs St. of M.P. & anr., (2008) 13 SCC 161

1. In this writ petition, parties have exchanged affidavits, pending admission. These include a supplementary affidavit filed on behalf of the petitioner.

2. Admit.

3. Heard forthwith.

4. Mr. Kshitij Shailendra, Advocate, appears on behalf of the petitioner, whereas all the three respondents, who are the State and its officers, are represented by Mr. Manvendra Dixit, learned Standing Counsel.

5. The question involved in this petition is :

" Whether the words "If he has a wife living" occurring in the proviso to Section 7 of The Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 19561 include an estranged wife living apart from her husband, but not divorced ? "

6. Rajendra Singh and Raj Narayan Singh were brothers. They were both sons of one Uday Raj Singh. Both brothers were married. Rajendra Singh was married to Smt. Phulmati, whereas Raj Narayan Singh was married to Smt. Kamla Devi. Both the brothers were natives of Village - Mirzapur, Post - Kajha, District - Mau. Rajendra Singh and Smt. Phulmati were an issueless couple, whereas Rajendra Singh's brother, Raj Narayan Singh had a son, Bhanu Pratap Singh. Bhanu Pratap Singh is the petitioner here. Rajendra Singh was a Gardener, in the employment of the Forest Department. He was posted in the control of respondent no. 3. Rajendra Singh, being issueless, adopted his brother's son, Bhanu Pratap Singh, the petitioner here, on 07.02.2001. The adoption was purportedly made in accordance with Hindu rites, with all ceremonies of giving and taking being observed. A deed of adoption was, however, executed much later, on 14.12.2009. It was admitted to registration on 15.12.2009. The deed of adoption shows that parties to the adoption were Raj Narayan Singh and his wife Smt. Kamla Devi on the one hand, described as the first party, and Rajendra Singh alone on the other, described as the second party. Rajendra Singh represented himself as an unmarried man, according to the recitals carried in the adoption deed. This was done, as it appears, because Rajendra Singh and his wife Smt. Phulmati were an estranged couple. Rajendra Singh, for obvious reasons, could not secure Smt. Phulmati's consent to the adoption. Rajendra Singh died in harness on 03.06.2016, leaving behind him his wife Smt. Phulmati, a fact acknowledged in the writ petition, and the much disputed adopted son of his, Bhanu Pratap Singh, the petitioner. Bhanu Pratap Singh obtained a succession certificate of sorts from a nondescript officer, called an Officer In-Charge (Certificates), acting for the Collector of Mau. This certificate is dated 25.10.2016.

7. It must be remarked that this certificate dated 25.10.2016 is more an expression of hesitation than certification. It says that this certificate is not valid for the purpose of any case relating to inheritance or income tax. Words to this effect are scribed at the head of the document. At the foot of it, there is a note, which says that the certificate is founded on an administrative inquiry alone. It would not apply to a case relating to succession in Court. It would have no effect under the various laws, where a requirement is there to produce a succession certificate from a Judge. It is then mentioned in the note that for claims up to the value of Rs. 5,000/-, the certificate would be valid. The last limitation indicated is that the certificate is not to be used in a foreign country.

8. This Court must make it bold to remark that the document dated 20.10.2016, purporting to be a succession certificate, or whatever it is, is the embodiment of an absolutely unauthorized act by the Collector's office. There is no provision under any law that authorizes the Collector of a district to issue a succession certificate of any kind. The learned Standing Counsel has not been able to show any law, authorizing the Collector to issue a succession certificate of any worth, relating either to movable or immovable property. This Court must deprecate the tendency of citizens to readily rush to authorities administrative, instead of approaching the Judge or Court of ordinary original civil jurisdiction, who commands wide powers in matters affecting civil rights of parties and to determine civil questions. It is well-reputed that succession certificates, letters of administration to estates of deceased and probates of Will are all matters that are specifically entrusted under the Succession Act to Judges, including this Court. The Collectors ought not issue certificates partaking the colour of succession certificates, which have a tendency of confounding rights of parties. No more is required to be said about this matter.

9. Now, the certificate dated 25.10.2016 mentions that Bhanu Pratap Singh is the adopted son of the late Rajendra Singh. It also mentions that his status is founded on a registered adoption deed. It also certifies that apart from Bhanu Pratap Singh, Rajendra Singh did not leave any other heir entitled. Acting on the certificate dated 25.10.2016, Bhanu Pratap Singh staked his claim before the respondent-Authorities, under the The Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying-in-Harness Rules, 19742, asking to be appointed on compassionate basis, due to death of the late Rajendra Singh, his adoptive father while still in service. This application appears not to have been attended to by respondent no. 3, and remained pending for some time. Bhanu Pratap Singh preferred Writ - A No. 53860 of 2016, complaining of inaction on the third respondent's part in the matter. He sought a direction for the consideration of his claim to a compassionate appointment. This Court, by order dated 17.11.2016 made in Writ - A No. 53860 of 2016, disposed of the aforesaid writ petition, ordering the Divisional Director, Social Forestry Division, Mau, respondent no. 3 to consider and decide the petitioner's claim in accordance with law, preferably within a month of the date of production of a certified copy of the order.

10. In deference to that direction made by this Court, the Divisional Director, Social Forestry Division, Mau, respondent no. 3, by his order dated 17.12.2016, rejected the petitioner's claim, holding that he was neither the sole heir nor a dependent of Rajendra Singh, within the meaning of the Rules of 1974. It was held that Smt. Phulmati was the deceased's wife and his sole heir-dependent. The petitioner, Bhanu Pratap Singh, was his brother's son, whose father and mother, Raj Narayan Singh and Smt. Kamla Devi, were alive. The adoption was not found valid on facts and in law, for the reasons indicated in the order.

11. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been preferred.

12. Notice, pending admission, was issued to the respondents on 17.03.2017, and they have filed a counter affidavit jointly on behalf of respondent nos. 2 and 3 on 22.08.2017, to which, a rejoinder affidavit has been filed on behalf of the petitioner on 05.08.2017. A supplementary affidavit dated 07.02.2019 has also been filed.

13. A perusal of the impugned order shows that the third respondent, the Divisional Director, Social Forestry Division, Mau, has disbelieved the adoption and held it to be a sham. The third respondent, while considering the petitioner's claim, also had before him, the deceased Rajendra Singh's widow Smt. Phulmati, who objected to the claim founded on adoption. She stated that she was the sole heir and dependent of the deceased. Amongst the many reasons that the third respondent has assigned to reject the petitioner's claim for a compassionate appointment under the Rules of 1974, is the compromise decree in O.S. No. 145 of 1994, passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mau dated 06.08.1994. This decree acknowledges the fact that Smt. Phulmati is Rajendra Singh's wife. It also embodies the fact that Rajendra Singh, who was an employee of the Forest Department, had got a nomination recorded in his Service Book and Group Insurance Scheme (G.I.S.) in favour of Smt. Kamla Devi, owing to strained relations with his wife. It has been covenanted by the terms of the compromise embodied in the decree that now, the name of Smt. Phulmati, Rajendra Singh's wife, be substituted as his legal heir in the service record, in place of Smt. Kamla Devi. There is also a covenant about Smt. Kamla Devi receiving a sum of Rs. 500/- per month towards maintenance, which would be chargeable to his pension and property also.

14. This Court has looked into that decree, annexed to the counter affidavit. The impugned order further shows that the adoption has been disbelieved for other reasons as well. It has been noticed that the extract of the family register filed by the petitioner, along with his application, shows that the name of his father, indicated therein, is Raj Narayan Singh, and that of his mother, Kamla Devi, whereas Smt. Phulmati Devi's husband is shown as Rajendra Singh. It has next been noticed in the order impugned that Rajendra Singh has described himself in the deed of adoption as unmarried, whereas his wife Smt. Phulmati Devi is alive. It has also been recorded by the third respondent that while the date of adoption deed relied upon by the petitioner is 27.11.2009 (in fact, it is 14.11.2009), the petitioner's mark-sheets relating to his B.A. degree for the first year, the second year and the third year, vis-à-vis the examinations of 2011, 2012 and 2013, show the name of the petitioner's father as Raj Narayan Singh, and that of his mother, Smt. Kamla Devi. The inference appears to be that in case the petitioner were adopted in terms of the registered adoption deed of 2009 (which, in fact, embodies an adoption of the year 2001), there was no occasion for the petitioner's father and mother's name to be mentioned in his educational records as Raj Narayan Singh and Smt. Kamla Devi, who are his natural parents. The educational documents would have borne his adoptive father's name. On these grounds, the third respondent has held the adoption to be a sham, and the petitioner not at all the adoptive son of the deceased, entitling him to compassionate appointment.

15. Mr. Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel for the petitioner, has been at pains to assail the impugned order. He has submitted that there is nothing wrong about the adoption. He asserts that the third respondent has remarked in error that reference to the adoptee in the deed of adoption as "ek ladke ko god lena chahte hain", whereas the adoptee is Rajendra Singh's nephew, raises suspicion. Mr. Shailendra says that the exception taken by the third respondent to a reference about his nephew by Rajendra Singh as a boy, is not at all misplaced, inasmuch as it is permissible in law to take a nephew in adoption. He also submits that remarks by the third respondent that the petitioner's father and mother are alive, also inform the impugned order with irrelevant considerations, for it is no disqualification under the law that the adopted boy has both his natural parents alive. Mr. Kshitij Shailendra has placed reliance upon a decision of this Court in Vikas Jauhari v. State of U.P. and Others3 to support his submission that an adopted son is as much a son as a natural son, for the purposes of the Rules of 1974. He has drawn the attention of this Court towards Paragraph 9 of the report in Vikas Jauhari (Supra), where it is held :

"9. In view of the above, I am of the considered view that the adopted son also falls within the definition of family defined under section 2(c) of U.P. Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 and entitled for the claim of compassionate appointment."

16. Mr. Kshitij Shailendra has further submitted that so far as the validity of the adoption is concerned, even in cases where the adoption is not strictly proved with the establishment of a ceremony of giving and taking, the long duration of time during which a person is treated as adopted, has to be given due weight. He submits that in this case, the petitioner was adopted way back in the year 2001, whereas the adoptive father died in the year 2016. The adoption, that was completed in the year 2001, was recorded in the deed of adoption, bearing a specific reference to the date in the year 2001, when the petitioner was adopted. This deed has been duly admitted to registration. It is the learned counsel's submission, therefore, that such long-standing adoption, which is also natural in its choice, given the fact that the adoptee is the adopter's nephew, the third respondent has erred in holding the adoption to be sham. Mr. Shailendra has placed reliance, in support of this part of his contention, upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Kamla Rani v. Ram Lalit Rai alias Lalak Rai (Dead) through Legal Representatives and Others4 where it was held :

"6. We cannot lose sight of the principle that though the factum of adoption and its validity has to be duly proved and formal ceremony of giving and taking is an essential ingredient for a valid adoption, long duration of time during which a person is treated as adopted cannot be ignored and by itself may in the circumstances carry a presumption in favour of adoption. In this regard, we may refer to the observations of this Court in L. Debi Prasad v. Tribeni Devi [L. Debi Prasad v.Tribeni Devi, (1970) 1 SCC 677] : (SCC pp. 681-82, para 9)

"9. There is no doubt that the burden of proving satisfactorily that he was given by his natural father and received by Gopal Das as his adoptive son is on Shyam Behari Lal. But as observed by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in Rajendro Nath Holdar v. Jogendro Nath Banerjee [Rajendro Nath Holdar v. Jogendro Nath Banerjee, 1871 SCC OnLine PC 11 : (1871-72) 14 Moo IA 67] ; that although the person who pleads that he had been adopted is bound to prove his title as adopted son, as a fact yet from the long period during which he had been received as an adopted son, every allowance for the absence of evidence to prove such fact was to be favourably entertained, and that the case was analogous to that in which the legitimacy of a person in possession had been acquiesced in for a considerable time, and afterwards impeached by a party, who had a right to question the legitimacy, where the defendant, in order to defend his status, is allowed to invoke against the claimant every presumption which arises from long recognition of his legitimacy by members of his family; that in the case of a Hindu, long recognition as an adopted son, raised even a stronger presumption in favour of the validity of his adoption, arising from the possibility of the loss of his rights in his own family by being adopted in another family. In Rup Narain v. Gopal Devi [Rup Narain v. Gopal Devi, 1909 SCC OnLine PC 3 : (1908-09) 36 IA 103] the Judicial Committee observed that in the absence of direct evidence much value has to be attached to the fact that the alleged adopted son had without controversy succeeded to his adoptive father's estate and enjoyed till his death and that documents during his life and after his death were framed upon the basis of the adoption. A Division Bench of the Orissa High Court in Balinki Padhano v. Gopakrishna Padhano [Balinki Padhano v. Gopakrishna Padhano, 1963 SCC OnLine Ori 33 : AIR 1964 Ori 117] ; held that in the case of an ancient adoption evidence showing that the boy was treated for a long time as the adopted son at a time when there was no controversy is sufficient to prove the adoption although evidence of actual giving and taking is not forthcoming. We are in agreement with the views expressed in the decisions referred to above."

17. Mr. Dixit, on the other hand, submits that the adoption in this case is sham to its face. He has emphasized that post adoption, which is said to have taken place in the year 2001, the petitioner's name has nowhere figured, in any records, as the Late Rajendra Singh's son. In the family register also, there is nothing to show that the adoption was ever given effect to. In the mark-sheets relating to the three-year B.A. course pursued by the petitioner, names of the petitioner's parents mentioned are those of his natural parents, Raj Narayan Singh and Smt. Kamla Devi. These do not mention Rajendra Singh or his wife, Smt. Phulmati. Mr. Dixit, therefore, says that there is no evidence at all here to conclude that over a long period of time, the petitioner has been treated as Rajendra Singh's son. He also emphasized the fact that deed of adoption was executed and registered in the year 2009 about an antecedent adoption that took place eight years ago. In his submission , this also raises suspicions about it. All the aforesaid contentions aside, Mr. Dixit says that the fact that consent of Smt. Phulmati was not taken before the petitioner was adopted, renders the adoption bad in law, in view of the proviso to Section 7 of the Act of 1956. To the last contention advanced by Mr. Dixit, the Court asked Mr. Shailendra if there was still doubt about Smt. Phulmati being the Late Rajendra Singh's wife. Mr. Shailendra has urged that for a fact it cannot be denied that Rajendra Singh was married, and that Smt. Phulmati was his wife. He further submits that so far as the issue about the proviso to Section 7 of the Act of 1956 is concerned, the same ought not be applied in a case where the husband and wife are separated and living apart, so much so, that the two have turned strangers, though not formally divorced. He submits that the proviso to Section 7 must be read in a purposive manner and an estranged wife, who has no connection with the affairs of her husband, ought not be regarded as a wife obliging the man as a married Hindu, to secure his wife's consent before he adopts.

18. This Court has given a thoughtful consideration to the submissions variably made on both sides. So far as the objection to the impugned order based on the fact that an adopted son may not be regarded as a son within the meaning of Section 2 (c) of the Rules of 1974, this Court does not think that there is any other issue about it. The impugned order does not decline the petitioner's claim, because the petitioner is an adopted son, and not a natural son. Rather, the adoption has been held invalid. Therefore, in the opinion of this Court, that a part of Mr. Kshitij Shailendra's submissions, where he has emphasized that the adopted son is also entitled to be treated as the deceased's son, is not a point that arises for consideration at all. The impugned order, read as a whole, disbelieves the factum of adoption, mostly on relevant grounds. The fact that the adoption is shown to have been made with the necessary ceremonies done way back on 07.02.2001, but the deed of adoption executed as late as 14.12.2009, has justifiably raised suspicion with the third respondent. There is no ostensible reason why the petitioner's adoptive father or his natural parents should have waited all this while in executing a deed and seeking its registration, if they had to execute one. In the opinion of this Court, it does show that the deed is a document brought up for the purpose of creating evidence about the adoption, which may not be there at all. The impugned order does not show that the third respondent has jumped to a conclusion against the validity of the adoption, for the reason alone of this time lag between the claimed adoption and execution of the deed. He has carefully looked into evidence about the family register of parties, who are close kindred, as also the educational documents of the petitioner, post adoption, to record his conclusions. The family register and the petitioner's mark-sheets during the three years of his graduate studies, show that these carried names of his natural parents - both father and mother, which find record. There is no mention of the adoptive father's name anywhere. Putting all these pieces of evidence together, the third respondent has drawn a plausible conclusion, declining to accept the adoption.

19. There is one very relevant fact also, which the third respondent has noticed in the order impugned, that is, that in the deed of adoption, Rajendra Singh has described himself as an unmarried man, whereas he is admittedly married to Smt. Phulmati. This mis-description about his marital status by the petitioner's claimed adoptive father, Rajendra Singh, appears to have been designedly made in order to get around the proviso to Section 7 of the Act of 1956. If Rajendra Singh had disclosed that he was a married man, the adoption would require his wife's consent, which is not there in this case. In fact, he excluded the requirement of consent by introducing a false recital in the deed of adoption, describing his status as an unmarried man. This mis-description seriously hits the petitioner's case of a valid adoption. In the opinion of this Court, the third respondent has rightly taken this brazenly false statement in the deed of adoption into account as a factor to discard the petitioner's case.

20. This takes us to the last and the purely legal submission that Mr. Kshitij Shailendra has advanced. He has submitted that the proviso to Section 7 would not be attracted at all in the case of a wife so estranged that she has ceased to be a wife, for all practical purposes. Section 7 of the Act of 1956 is extracted infra :

"7. Capacity of a male Hindu to take in adoption. --Any male Hindu who is of sound mind and is not a minor has the capacity to take a son or a daughter in adoption :

Provided that, if he has a wife living, he shall not adopt except with the consent of his wife unless the wife has completely and finally renounced the world or has ceased to be a Hindu or has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be of unsound mind.

Explanation.-- If a person has more than one wife living at the time of adoption, the consent of all the wives is necessary unless the consent of any one of them is unnecessary for any of the reasons specified in the preceding proviso."

21. To the understanding of this Court, the language of the proviso to Section 7 is plain, and there is no such compelling reason to read something else into it. The proviso makes it imperative for a Hindu male to secure his wife's consent to an adoption that he makes, unless she has completely and finally renounced the world, or has ceased to be a Hindu, or has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be of unsound mind. There is nothing in any of these three exceptions, which may prompt the Court to read into the statute, a fourth exception of an estranged wife. A wife living apart from the husband, utterly estranged, is still a wife, until the marital bond between the parties is severed by a decree of divorce or nullity of marriage. It is hard to read into the plain words of the Statute, something like a virtual or constructive divorce, to relieve the male Hindu adopter of his obligations under the proviso. Even otherwise, a virtual or constructive divorce, as if it were, are concepts not accepted generally in matrimonial laws. To this Court's understanding, even a judicial separation would not put an end to the husband's obligation under the proviso to Section 7. This Court may further hasten to add that the remark about judicial separation is one made in the passing, as it does not arise on facts here. It is a matter that may be considered in an appropriate case, where it arises.

22. This Court must notice, in this connection, the decision of the Supreme Court in Brajendra Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh and Another5 which is about a Hindu female's rights to take in adoption. The case arose in the context of the pre-amended provisions of Section 8 of the Act of 1956. It arose in the background of facts that one Mishri Bai had married, in namesake, one Padam Singh. She had taken in adoption one Brajendra Singh as her son, and in answer to a notice under Section 10 of the M.P. Ceiling on Agricultural Holdings Act, 1960 pleaded that adoption, so that she could retain 54 acres of agricultural land that was given to her by her father. The Ceiling Authorities had disbelieved the claimed adoption. Mishri Bai instituted a suit, seeking a declaration that Brajendra Singh is her adopted son. Pending suit, she executed a registered deed bequeathing all her properties to Brajendra Singh, who prosecuted the suit against the State, until its culmination in an appeal before the Supreme Court. The facts are set out in the decision of their Lordships in some detail, which read thus :

"3. Background facts sans unnecessary details are as follows:

Sometime in 1948, one Mishri Bai, a crippled lady having practically no legs was given in marriage to one Padam Singh. The aforesaid marriage appears to have been solemnised because under the village custom, it was imperative for a virgin girl to get married. Evidence on record shows that Padam Singh had left Mishri Bai soon after the marriage and since then she was living with her parents at Village Kolinja. Seeing her plight, her parents had given her a piece of land measuring 32 acres out of their agricultural holdings for her maintenance.

4. In 1970, Mishri Bai claims to have adopted appellant Brajendra Singh. Padam Singh died in the year 1974. The Sub-Divisional Officer, Vidisha served a notice on Mishri Bai under Section 10 of the M.P. Ceiling on Agricultural Holdings Act, 1960 indicating that her holding of agricultural land was more than the prescribed limit. Mishri Bai filed a reply contending that Brajendra Singh is her adopted son and both of them constituted a joint family and therefore are entitled to retain 54 acres of land.

5. On 28-12-1981, the Sub-Divisional Officer by order dated 27-12-1981 disbelieved the claim of adoption on the ground inter alia that in the entries in educational institutions adoptive father's name was not recorded.

6. On 10-1-1982, Mishri Bai filed Civil Suit No. SA/82 seeking a declaration that Brajendra Singh is her adopted son. On 19-7-1989, she executed a registered will bequeathing all her properties in favour of Brajendra Singh. Shortly thereafter, she breathed her last on 8-11-1989.

7. The trial court by judgment and order dated 3-9-1993 decreed the suit of Mishri Bai. The same was challenged by the State. The first appellate court dismissed the appeal and affirmed the judgment and decree of the trial court. It was held concurring with the view of the trial court that Mishri Bai had taken Brajendra Singh in adoption and in the will executed by Mishri Bai the factum of adoption has been mentioned.

8. The respondents filed Second Appeal No. 482 of 1996 before the High Court. A point was raised that the adoption was not valid in the absence of the consent of Mishri Bai's husband. The High Court allowed the appeal holding that in view of Section 8(c) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 (in short "the Act") stipulated that so far as a female Hindu is concerned, only those falling within the enumerated categories can adopt a son.

9. The High Court noted that there was a great deal of difference between a female Hindu who is divorced and one who is leading life like a divorced woman. Accordingly the High Court held that the claimed adoption is not an adoption and had no sanctity in law. The suit filed by Mishri Bai was to be dismissed."

23. Their Lordships considered the pre-amended provisions of the Act of 1956, where a Hindu female had no right to take in adoption so long as the husband was alive, or her marriage was not dissolved by divorce or annulment. She could not adopt even by her husband's consent. As the facts would show that the husband had never lived with Mishri Bai, and the marriage was but ceremonial and one solemnized to gratify a village custom. It was further mooted before Their Lordships that for the purpose of Section 8 of the Act of 1956, as it then stood, Mishri Bai was living like a divorced woman. As such, she could not be regarded as disabled for taking in adoption, Brajendra Singh. The provisions of pre-amended Section 8 of the Act of 1956 that were amended vide Act 30 of 2010 w.e.f. 31.08.2010 are extracted in their Lordships' judgment in Brajendra Singh (supra), and, as such, are not being quoted. The contention about Mishri Bai living virtually like a divorced woman, in the peculiar facts of the case, and, therefore, not disabled from taking in adoption, was answered in Brajendra Singh thus :

"10. In support of the appeal learned counsel for the appellant submitted that as the factual position which is almost undisputed goes to show, there was in fact no consummation of marriage as the parties were living separately for a very long period practically from the date of marriage. That being so, an inference that Mishri Bai ceased to be a married woman, has been rightly recorded by the trial court and the first appellate court. It was also pointed out that the question of law framed proceeded on a wrong footing as if the consent of husband was necessary. There was no such stipulation in law. It is contended that the question as was considered by the High Court was not specifically dealt with by the trial court or the first appellate court. Strong reliance has been placed on a decision of this Court in Jolly Das v. Tapan Ranjan Das [(1994) 4 SCC 363] to highlight the concept of "sham marriage".

11. It was also submitted that the case of invalid adoption was specifically urged and taken note of by the trial court. Nevertheless the trial court analysed the material and evidence on record and came to the conclusion that Mishri Bai was living like a divorced woman.

12. Learned counsel for the respondents on the other hand submitted that admittedly Mishri Bai did not fall into any of the enumerated categories contained in Section 8 of the Act and, therefore, she could not have validly taken Brajendra Singh in adoption.

13. It is to be noted that in the suit there was no declaration sought for by Mishri Bai either to the effect that she was not married or that the marriage was sham or that there was any divorce. The stand was that Mishri Bai and her husband were living separately for a very long period.

14. Section 8 of the Act reads as follows:

"8. Capacity of a female Hindu to take in adoption.--Any female Hindu--

(a) who is of sound mind,

(b) who is not minor, and

(c) who is not married, or if married, whose marriage has been dissolved or whose husband is dead or has completely and finally renounced the world or has ceased to be a Hindu or has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be of unsound mind, has capacity to take a son or daughter in adoption."

15. We are concerned in the present case with clause (c) of Section 8. The section brings about a very important and far-reaching change in the law of adoption as used to apply earlier in case of Hindus. It is now permissible for a female Hindu who is of sound mind and has completed the age of 18 years to take a son or daughter in adoption to herself in her own right provided that (a) she is not married; (b) or is a widow; (c) or is a divorcee or after marriage her husband has finally renounced the world or is ceased to be a Hindu or has been declared to be of unsound mind by a court having jurisdiction to pass a declaratory decree to that effect. It follows from clause (c) of Section 8 that Hindu wife cannot adopt a son or daughter to herself even with the consent of her husband because the section expressly provides for cases in which she can adopt a son or daughter to herself during the lifetime of the husband. She can only make an adoption in the cases indicated in clause (c).

16. It is important to note that Section 6(i) of the Act requires that the person who wants to adopt a son or a daughter must have the capacity and also the right to take in adoption. Section 8 speaks of what is described as "capacity". Section 11 which lays down the condition for a valid adoption requires that in case of adoption of a son, the mother by whom the adoption is made must not have a Hindu son or son's son or grandson by legitimate blood relationship or by adoption living at the time of adoption. It follows from the language of Section 8 read with clauses (i) and (ii) of Section 11 that the female Hindu has the capacity and right to have both adopted son and adopted daughter provided there is compliance with the requirements and conditions of such adoption laid down in the Act. Any adoption made by a female Hindu who does not have requisite capacity to take in adoption or the right to take in adoption is null and void.

17. It is clear that only a female Hindu who is married and whose marriage has been dissolved i.e. who is a divorcee has the capacity to adopt. Admittedly in the instant case there is no dissolution of the marriage. All that the evidence led points out is that the husband and wife were staying separately for a very long period and Mishri Bai was living a life like a divorced woman. There is conceptual and contextual difference between a divorced woman and one who is leading life like a divorced woman. Both cannot be equated. Therefore in law Mishri Bai was not entitled to the declaration sought for. Here comes the social issue. A lady because of her physical deformity lived separately from her husband and that too for a very long period right from the date of marriage. But in the eye of the law they continued to be husband and wife because there was no dissolution of marriage or a divorce in the eye of the law. Brajendra Singh was adopted by Mishri Bai so that he can look after her. There is no dispute that Brajendra Singh was in fact doing so. There is no dispute that the property given to him by the will executed by Mishri Bai is to be retained by him. It is only the other portion of the land originally held by Mishri Bai which is the bone of contention.

19. A married woman cannot adopt at all during the subsistence of the marriage except when the husband has completely and finally renounced the world or has ceased to be a Hindu or has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be of unsound mind. If the husband is not under such disqualification, the wife cannot adopt even with the consent of the husband whereas the husband can adopt with the consent of the wife. This is clear from Section 7 of the Act. Proviso thereof makes it clear that a male Hindu cannot adopt except with the consent of the wife, unless the wife has completely and finally renounced the world or has ceased to be a Hindu or has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be of unsound mind. It is relevant to note that in the case of a male Hindu the consent of the wife is necessary unless the other contingency exists. Though Section 8 is almost identical, the consent of the husband is not provided for. The proviso to Section 7 imposes a restriction in the right of male Hindu to take in adoption. In this respect the Act radically depicts (sicdeparts) from the old law where no such bar was laid down to the exercise of the right of a male Hindu to adopt oneself, unless he dispossesses the requisite capacity. As per the proviso to Section 7 the wife's consent must be obtained prior to adoption and cannot be subsequent to the act of adoption. The proviso lays down consent as a condition precedent to an adoption which is mandatory and adoption without wife's consent would be void. Both proviso to Sections 7 and 8(c) refer to certain circumstances which have effect on the capacity to make an adoption."

24. The decision of their Lordships in Brajendra Singh, though one that is about the rights of a Hindu woman to take in adoption, based on the pre-amended provisions of Section 8 of the Act of 1956, nevertheless clearly spells out the principle that would apply the same way to a married Hindu man post amendment, insofar as the requirement of consent to an adoption by his wife is concerned. The restriction on a married Hindu woman's rights to take in adoption absolutely, so long as her husband was alive or the marriage subsisted, is no longer there. Post amendment of Section 8 by Act No. 30 of 2010, the position of a married Hindu man and a woman is at par. Both can take in adoption, but with the consent of the other, unless the other spouse can be placed in one of the three exceptions postulated by proviso to Section 7 or the proviso to Section 8, as the case may be. There is absolutely no scope to read into those provisions, contrary to the plain words of the Statute, any other kind of exception where a man may take in adoption, so long as his marriage subsists.

25. Here, there is no doubt that Smt. Phulmati was a wife living until the death of the late Rajendra Singh. The two were never divorced, howsoever estranged they might have been. A mere estrangement between the man and wife without disruption of the martial status, in accordance with law, that may either be by a decree for divorce or annulment or by death of the wife, would not take the case out of mischief of the proviso to Section 7, requiring the wife's consent to the adoption.

26. In the circumstances, the question formulated is answered in the negative.

The other issues raised by the petitioner have already been dealt with, and it is held, that the impugned order does not suffer from any infirmity, so as to call for interference by this Court in the exercise of our jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

27. In the result, this petition fails and stands dismissed.

28. Costs shall go easy.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Yashwant Varma, J.)

1. This batch of writ petitions relates to the selection and recruitment of Assistant Teachers under an exercise initiated by the Department of Basic Education in the State of U.P. The process of selection and appointment can be viewed as comprising of two stages- the first being the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination1 conducted by the Examination Regulatory Authority; the second being the process of inviting candidates who had successfully passed the ATRE to participate in a counselling process and their ultimate appointment in accordance with merit.

2. The petitioners in this batch are aggrieved by the decision of the respondents in not permitting them to rectify information entered by them in the online application forms submitted in the ATRE. The petitioners appear to have incorrectly declared the marks obtained by them in the High School, Intermediate, Graduation or Training examinations resultantly impacting the declarations made in respect of their quality point marks. While some petitioners have ascribed a lesser value to the actual or aggregate marks of an examination, some have declared a higher numerical value. The petitioners also assail the action of the respondents in the context of the data collected by the respondents at the stage of the ATRE being utilised further for the purposes of completion of the recruitment of Assistant Teachers.

3. It becomes relevant to note that a successful passing of the ATRE is one of the essential prerequisites for appointment as an Assistant Teacher in terms of the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 19812. In the second phase, candidates who had cleared the ATRE were invited by the respondents to participate in a counselling process and ultimately upon drawl of a merit list based on the quality point marks obtained by each candidate and invitation of options in respect of preferred districts, appointments were to be offered.

4. It may at the outset itself be noticed that this Court has negatived similar prayers for permission to rectify information comprised in the online application forms in terms of its decision rendered in Dharmendra Kumar v. State of U.P. and Others3 and Hari Nath Yadav v. Sate of U.P. and Others4. While dismissing those writ petitions the Court in Dharmendra Kumar observed: -

"..... Following the principles enunciated in the Full Bench decision of the Court in Rajendra Patel Vs. State of U.P. 2015 (8) ADJ 219 and the decision of the Division Bench in Km. Pooja Yadav Vs. State of U.P. [Special Appeal Defective No. 582 of 2016] the Court finds no ground to issue the writs as prayed for. In both the decisions noted above, the sanctity of a last date have been duly emphasized.

In Km. Pooja Yadav, the Division Bench had negatived an identical submission of a candidate being permitted to rectify the details set forth in the online form after conclusion of the selection process and held as under: -

"We note that the appellant does not dispute the fact that she had incorrectly filled in the column pertaining the marks obtained by her in the High School Examination in her online application form.

She does not appear to have taken any steps for rectification of the said mistake till she was refused permission to participate in the medical tests which were held on 11 July 2016. The respondents assert that the recruitment process initiated for the purposes of filling up as many as 5,800 vacancies is complete and that they are presently engaged in the preparation of the final result. A direction issued at this stage would clearly result in hindering the process of finalization of the result in respect of a recruitment exercise which had commenced in December 2015. Any interference by this Court at this stage may also lead to further complicating the steps presently being taken by the respondents and not brooking a situation where similar complaints and prayers for rectification may come to be made. This Court, therefore, comes to the conclusion that no effective relief can be granted to the appellant at this stage of the proceedings.

Accordingly and for reasons assigned therein, the Court finds no ground to issue the writs as prayed for. This petition is dismissed. "

5. While dealing with the petition of Hari Nath Yadav, the Court held:-

".....Any direction issued at this stage permitting rectifications in the original application forms which may have the effect of disturbing the inter se merit as framed and embodied in the result dated 12 May 2020 would be not only wholly unfair to the thousands of selected candidates who have been awaiting closure but also adversely impact teaching work in primary educational institutions throughout the State.

The Court must also necessarily bear in mind the imperative of enabling a completion of a recruitment exercise undertaken by the State and set at rest all uncertainties. Permitting the rectification of forms originally submitted more than a year ago and at this belated stage would clearly be detrimental to public interest.

Accordingly and for reasons assigned hereinabove, the Court finds no ground to issue the writs as prayed for. This petition is dismissed. "

6. However and subsequent to the aforementioned two petitions being decided and since several similar petitions were coming before the Court, the respondents were directed to collate a list of all matters pertaining to ATRE. While hearing respective counsels in Writ A 5008 of 2020, the Court classified matters under four broad heads and indicated that all matters pertaining to correction of marks in the online applications would be put down for hearing. It is in the above backdrop that this batch was taken up for final disposal.

7. The Court has heard Sri H.N. Singh, Sri R.K. Ojha learned senior counsels, Sri Seemant Singh and other counsels appearing for the petitioners. Submissions on behalf of the State respondents were advanced by Sri M.C. Chaturvedi the learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Bipin Behari Pandey the Chief Standing Counsel and Sri P.D. Tripathi who represented the Basic Education Officer in some of the matters. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Bipin Behari Pandey learned Chief Standing Counsel have placed a compilation of documents and judgments which have been duly circulated. They have also along with an affidavit filed in connected Writ A 5008 of 2020 brought on record the Government Order of 4 December 2020 a copy of which has also been provided to counsels for petitioners. The said Government Order comprises the decision of the State to deal with the question of inadvertent errors and other allied issues relating to the recruitment exercise in question.

8. Before proceeding to enter the merits of the dispute and since the selection itself has had a history of litigation, it would be appropriate to briefly recapitulate significant events surrounding ATRE and the recruitment exercise in question. The same are detailed hereinbelow in the form of a chronology of events :-

S. NO.	DATE	EVENT
1.	01.12.18	State Government issues an order formulating Guidelines for the conduct of the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination 2019 for filling up 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers. The Guidelines apart from setting out the detailed procedure to be followed for the examination also set out a time schedule for completion of the entire process commencing from 5 December 2018 and concluding on 22 January 2019.
2.	05.12.2018	Public notice is issued inviting applications. Registration was opened from 06.12.18 till 20.12.18. Detailed guidelines in respect of the entire selection process were also uploaded and a dedicated weblink indicated.
3.	20.12.2018	Registration date was extended till 22.12.18 to enable freshly passed TET 2019 candidates to also apply and participate.
4.	-	Upon due scrutiny of documents 4,31,066 persons were found eligible to participate in the examination.
5.	06.01.2019	Exams were successfully held across the State. 4,09,530 candidates participated in the same
6.	07.01.2019	By a G.O. of the said date, cut off marks were declared. General = 97/150 i.e. 65 % Reserved = 90/150 i.e.60 %
7.	08.01.201	Answer keys for all four series of question papers were uploaded on the website. Objections invited till 11.1.2019.
8.	11.01.2019	20557 objections to 142/150 questions received.
9.	18.01.2019	Committee of teachers/ experts gave their opinion on the queries
10.	07.01.2019	Petitions against the final answer key were filed before the Lucknow Bench of the Court. These petitions were clubbed with Writ Petition No. 1188/2019 Mohd. Rizwan v. UP.

11.	29.03.2019	Judgment was delivered on the aforesaid petition quashing the cut off marks declared on 7.1.2019. This order declared the marks to be kept at par with the 2018 cut-off i.e. 45/40 % for general/reserved categories respectively).
12.		A Special Appeal was filed against the above order of 29.3.2019. This special appeal was clubbed with 16 other special appeals leading being Special Appeal No. 156/2019 Raghvendra Pratap Singh v. UP.
13.	06.05.2020	Special Appeals were allowed and directions issued for declaration of results in terms of the cut off prescribed in the order of 7.1.2019. The challenge to the cut off fixed by Shiksha Mitras was negatived.
14.	08.05.2020	Government Order was issued for declaration of results
15.	-	Based on the consultations held till 18.01.2019 by the expert committee, 3 questions were found to be out of syllabus. Challenges to the rest of the questions were declared to be without any merit. The answers in respect of these questions as declared on 08.01.2019 were held to be the correct answers by the committee.
16.	08.05.2020	Final answer key was published.
17.	12.05.2020	Results were declared. 1,46,060 out of 431466 passed the exam.
18.	16.05.2020	Government Order was issued for taking further steps for appointment of Assistant Teachers including inviting of district wise options for 69,000 vacant positions. Note: This order informed all candidates that the data already captured during the ATRE in respect of educational qualifications would be utilized and candidates would have to fill the online application from the stage of district wise preferences.
19.	21.05.2020	SLP filed by Ram Sharan Maurya against the judgment rendered by the Division Bench at Lucknow in the matter of Raghvendra Pratap Singh and others comes up for hearing before the Supreme Court where interim directions were issued restraining the State from disturbing the working of Shiksha Mitras while permitting filling up of remaining vacancies.

20.	01.06.2020	A district wise allotment list for 69000 posts was published by the Secretary of the Board in terms of the online applications received. Secretary also ordered the counselling process to begin from 03.06.2020.
21.	03.06.2020	Petitions challenging the final answer key came to be filed before the Lucknow Bench. These petitions were clubbed with Service Single 8056/2020 Rishabh Mishra v. UP. An order was passed by the Bench staying the notification of 08.05.2020 and all further proceedings pursuant thereto.
22.	09.06.2020	In view of the aforesaid order, the ongoing counselling process was adjourned until further orders by the Secretary.
23.	09.06.2020	In SLP 6687/2020 Subedar Singh v. UP taken against the judgment rendered by the Division Bench on 6.5.2020, Supreme Court permitted the State Government to complete the appointment process in respect of all vacancies except 37,339 positions which represented the number of Shiksha Mitras who had participated and were declared successful in the ATRE.
24.	12.06.2020	Special Appeal 154/2020 Pariksha Nyamak Adhikari, UP v. Rishabh Mishra is filed before the Lucknow Bench. In this appeal the order of 03.06.2020 passed in Rishabh Mishra v. UP (8056/2020) is stayed. The Court further directs the State to complete the appointment process in compliance with the Supreme Court interim orders in Ram Sharan and Subedar Singh
25.	11.10.2020	In compliance of the above direction, all except 37339 i.e. 31661 out of 69000 positions were to be filled in the first phase. Finally and after implementation of reservation provisions, a list for selection of 31227 position was issued by the Secretary along with a direction for counselling and issuance of appointment letters in the allotted districts.

26.	18.11.2020	The Supreme Court upholds the judgment rendered by the Division Bench in Raghvendra Pratap Singh and dismisses the SLP of Ram Sharan Maurya and other connected matters. The cut off as prescribed for ATRE was upheld. The challenge laid by Shiksha Mitras was negatived. SLP filed by B.Ed. candidates also disposed of. The State held entitled to fill all posts in terms of the result declared on 12.05.2020 and in accordance with law.
27.	28.11.2020	Secretary issues directions for filling up the remainder 37,339 posts and for completion of the second round of counselling between 2.12.2020 to 4.12.2020.

9. Before proceeding to set out the submissions addressed, it becomes pertinent to note that none of the petitions impugn the notification issued on 16 May 2020 or the subsequent instructions issued to facilitate conclusion of the selection process. This assumes significance since these notifications did clarify that the data collected at the stage of submission of online applications for the ATRE would be utilised for completing the selection process. The Court also notes that though this notification was issued as far back as May 2020, it was never challenged by any of the petitioners prior to submission of their online applications or even thereafter. The procedure adopted by the respondents was questioned for the first time only during the course of oral submissions. While these two reasons would have been sufficient to negate a challenge on that score, since learned senior counsel laid considerable emphasis on the issue and sought to underline the importance of the challenge, the Court deems it expedient in the interest of justice to deal with the challenge on merits rather than shutting out the petitioners for reasons aforenoted. The Court also deems it expedient to lend a quietus to these and other questions raised at this stage of the selection where proceedings have virtually reached the end and appointments already made.

10. From the submissions addressed by respective counsels, the Court deems it appropriate to formulate the following seminal issues which fall for determination: -

A. Government Order of 4 December 2020 being in violation of the procedure laid forth in Rule 14 of the Rules

B. Whether the Government Order of 4 December 2020 can be said to be discriminatory or unfair?

C. Whether the petitioners are entitled to the permission to carry out corrections and rectifications of entries made in the online application forms?

A. CHALLENGE TO THE GOVERNMENT ORDER OF 4 DECEMBER 2020

11. The Government Order aforenoted was challenged on two grounds- firstly on the ground of it being in violation of the procedure prescribed by Rule 14 and secondly on the plank of it being discriminatory and unfair.

12. Sri H.N. Singh learned senior counsel who sought permission to address the Court on behalf of the various petitioners was invited to make submissions. Sri Singh principally assailed the notifications issued post the completion of the ATRE on the ground of them being in violation of Rule 14 as it stood after the 24th Amendment to the Rules. It was contended that these notifications deprived the petitioners of their right to rectify the mistakes inadvertently made while filling their online applications for the ATRE.

13. Taking the Court through Rule 14 Sri Singh submitted that the provision clearly mandated the respondents inviting all applicants who had successfully cleared the ARTE to submit their online application forms thus affording them an opportunity to provide all particulars including relating to the computation of marks as per Appendix I and II of the Rules. According to Sri Singh if this procedure had been adhered to the applicants who may have committed inadvertent mistakes while filling their online application forms for the ATRE would have had an opportunity to rectify the same. Sri Singh would submit that the original application form which was submitted by candidates was only for the purpose of the ATRE which in any case was merely a qualifying examination enabling candidates to ultimately seek appointment as Assistant Teachers based on the scores obtained in that examination and other factors as contemplated under the Appendices.

14. Sri Singh apprised the Court that at the second stage of the recruitment process, the candidates were not afforded the option of filling particulars relating to their High School, Intermediate, Graduation or Training Qualification examinations since that data was automatically collected from the original online application form submitted in connection with the ATRE upon a candidate registering for participating in the counselling process.

15. Sri Singh contended that there was no occasion for the computation of quality points in accordance with the Appendices at any stage prior to the second stage since the ATRE was only a qualifying examination concerning the eligibility of candidates to be appointed. It was in that context that it was contended the necessity of obtaining particulars relating to High School, Intermediate, Graduation and Training examination marks afresh and at this stage. This according to Sri Singh is the clear intent of Rule 14(3) where the merit list is ultimately drawn on the basis of the quality points and weightage as specified in Appendix I.

16. In order to appreciate the aforenoted submissions it would be apposite to extract Rule 14 which reads thus: - of appointment, by direct recruitment to the post of Assistant Master of Junior Basic Schools under clause (a) of Rule 5, the appointing authority shall determine the number of vacancies as also the number vacancies to be reserved for candidates belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, Backward Classes and other categories under Rule 9 and forward to the Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, Prayagraj. Information of compiled vacancies as per reservation shall be provided by the Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, Prayagraj to the Examination Body. For the notified vacancies an Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination shall be conducted by the Examination Body authorised as such by the Government and result, according to reservation, shall be provided to Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, Prayagraj.

Thereafter, an advertisement for recruitment will be published in at least two leading daily newspapers having adequate circulation in the State by the Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, Prayagraj inviting online applications from candidates possessing prescribed educational and trainings qualification and passed teacher eligibility test, conducted by the Government or by the Government of India and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government, in which cadre wise district option will be filled by the candidates.

(2) The Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, Prayagraj shall scrutinise the applications received in pursuance of the advertisement under clause (a) sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 and prepare a list of such persons who possess the prescribed academic qualifications and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination and be eligible for appointment.

(3) The name of candidates in the list prepared under sub-rule (2) in accordance with clause (a) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 14 shall then be arranged in such manner that the candidate shall be arranged in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in the Appendix I:

Provided that if two or more candidates obtain equal marks, the candidate senior in age shall be placed higher.

Provided that a person working as Shiksha Mitra in Junior Basic Schools run by Basic Shiksha Parishad shall be given weightage in the recruitment of Assistant Teacher, only in two consecutive Assistant Teacher recruitment conducted by the Government after July 25, 2017.

Thereafter, cadre wise district will be allotted to the candidates as per their quality points and options by the Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, Prayagraj and list will be sent to the appointing authority.

(4) No person shall be eligible for appointment unless his or her name is included in the list prepared under sub-rule (3).

(5) The list prepared under sub-rule (2) and received in accordance with sub-rule (3) of Rule 14 from the Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Basic Education Board, Prayagraj, shall be forwarded by the appointing authority to the Selection Committee.]

17. A careful reading of the aforesaid provision establishes the following procedure to be adopted for appointment of Assistant Teachers. The first preparatory step contemplated under Rule 14(1) is the determination of vacancies by the appointing authority which is then forwarded to the Secretary of the Board. The information so collected from the various appointing authorities is then forwarded by the Secretary to the Examining Body with a request to conduct the ATRE. The Rule then contemplates the Examining Body conducting the ATRE and providing the final results thereof to the Secretary. It is thereafter that an advertisement for recruitment comes to be published inviting online applications from candidates who apart from possessing the essential qualifications prescribed under the Rules have successfully passed the ATRE. It becomes pertinent to note that in this online application form candidates are required to indicate their district wise options.

18. In terms of Rule 14(2) the Secretary upon due scrutiny of the applications so received then proceeds to draw a list of persons who are found to possess the stipulated essential qualifications and have passed the ATRE. Sub Rule (3) requires the Board to arrange the names of candidates in accordance with the quality points and weightage as specified in Appendix I. This constitutes the merit list for the ultimate appointment of Assistant Teachers. Upon completion of these processes the Secretary proceeds with the allocation of cadre wise districts to candidates. Sub Rule (4) enjoins that no person shall be eligible for appointment unless the name of that individual finds place in the list prepared under sub rule (3).

19. Having noticed the broad scheme of Rule 14 the stage is now set to evaluate the submissions of Sri Singh. The Court finds itself unable to accept the contention of the respondents having violated Rule 14 for reasons which stand recorded hereinafter.

20. At the very outset the Court fails to find any fundamental or inherent illegality in the respondents having collated data which stood captured in the original online applications submitted by candidates in the ATRE. Rule 14 does not engraft any such express or implicit prohibition. 4,31,466 candidates had registered with the Examining Body to participate in the ATRE. A total of 4,09,530 candidates ultimately participated in that examination. The particulars of 4,09,530 candidates including their details in connection with Items 1, 2, 3, and 4 of Appendix I [Quality Points computation based on High School, Intermediate, Graduation and Training exam results] came to be collected at this stage. Upon culmination of ATRE, 1,46,060 candidates were declared qualified. Their essential and preparatory data thus stood captured and collated by the respondents. The submission of a duplication of this data or the creation of a fresh database in respect of the above information already existing neither appeals to logic nor is it established to be expedient considering the magnitude of the exercise that would have had to be undertaken bearing in mind the size of the pool of successful candidates, the scrutiny and verification of testimonials and other factors. It would have clearly amounted to placing an immense administrative burden on the respondents.

21. On a more fundamental plane, the Court fails to discern any such mandatory requirement placed by Rule 14. Regard may be had to the fact that the only specific information which Rule 14(1) speaks of is ".....inviting online applications from candidates possessing prescribed educational and training qualifications..... and passed Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination conducted by the Government, in which cadre wise district option will be filled by the candidates."

22. This Court thus upon a holistic reading of Rule 14 fails to find any statutory imperative, explicit or implicit, commanding the respondents to gather data and information on subjects set out in Appendix I afresh even though the same may have already stood created and stored for access, albeit gathered during an ancillary yet indispensable component of the selection process- the ATRE.

23. The Court also bears in consideration the contents of the notice dated 16 May 2020 which clearly put all candidates to notice of the data collected earlier being utilised to complete the selection process and take it to its culmination.

24. The relevant extracts of that notice are set out hereunder:

"ऑनलाइन ई आवेदन पत्र का प्रारूप, आवश्यक दिशा निर्देश एवं जनपदवार रिक्तियों का विवरण वेबसाइट https://upbasiceduboard.gov.in/ पर दिनांक 18.5.2020 के अपरान्ह से दिनांक 06.6.2020 साय 6 बजे तक उपलब्ध रहेगा । अभ्यर्थी द्वारा दिनांक 18.5.2020 के अपरान्ह से दिनांक 26.5.2020 की रात्रि 12 बजे तक निर्धारित वेबसाइट पर ऑनलाइन आवेदन पत्र भरा जा सकेगा । अभ्यर्थी को 69000 सहायक अध्यापको की भर्ती हेतु आयोजित भर्ती परीक्षा के लिए निर्गत किया गया अनुक्रमांक, जन्मतिथि तथा मोबाइल संख्या को निर्धारित वेबसाइट पर भरना होगा, जिसके उपरान्त अभ्यर्थी की उक्त मोबाइल पर ओ टी पी (वन टाइम पॉसवर्ड) प्राप्त होगा, जिसे भरने पर ही यह आवेदन पत्र में वांछित प्रविष्टियों को पूर्ण कर सकेगा । विशेष रूप से उल्लेखनीय है कि सहायक अध्यापक पद पर नियुक्ति हेतु अभ्यर्थी को भर्ती परीक्षा हेतु भरे गये आवेदन पत्र कि प्रविष्टिया प्रदर्शित हो जायेगी जिसमे किसी प्रकार का परिवर्तन नहीं किया जा सकेगा । उक्त के अतिरिक्त कतिपय अन्य वांछित प्रविष्टियों को अभ्यर्थियों द्वारा भरते हुए आवेदन पत्र को पूर्ण करना होगा । एक बार आवेदन पत्र पूर्ण करने के उपरान्त उसमे किसी प्रकार का संशोधन नहीं किया जा सकेगा ।

25. There was thus an adequate disclosure and notice to the candidates that the data gathered at an earlier stage would be utilised to take the entire selection process to its logical conclusion. The process adopted by the respondents is not found to be in violation of Rule 14. Quite apart from the above the Court bears in mind the mammoth exercise that would have had to be undertaken by the respondents if the submission advanced by the petitioners were accepted. The Court also fails to find any prejudice caused to the candidates in light of the caveats which unambigously placed them on caution to ensure that the entries entered in the online applications were accurate and that no further amendments would be permitted once the form was saved and locked. This aspect will be further evident from the discussion that follows.

26. On a consideration of the aforesaid the Court is of the firm view that the challenge to the Government Order on this score must necessarily fail. It accordingly stands negatived.

B. THE GOVERNMENT ORDER OF 4 DECEMBER BEING DISCRIMINATORY AND UNFAIR

27. While the aforesaid Government Order deals with various issues relating to ATRE, since this batch is concerned only with the prohibition to rectify online application forms insofar as they relate to the marks obtained by candidates in the High School, Intermediate, Graduation and Training examinations, it would be pertinent to extract hereinbelow the decision of the State Government as comprised in the aforesaid order insofar as this aspect is concerned: -

"बिन्दु संख्या -2 : अभ्यर्थियों द्वारा प्रस्तुत हाईस्कूल , इण्टरमीडिएट, स्नातक, प्रशिक्षण के प्राप्तांक एवं पूर्णांक तथा प्राप्त एक्सेल सीट के पूर्णांक व प्राप्तांक में भिन्नता--

उपर्युक्त प्रकार के विसंगतियों के सम्बन्ध में निम्नानुसार कार्यवाही किये जाने का निर्णय लिया गया है:--

(1) यदि अभ्यर्थी द्वारा मूल अंकपत्र के सापेक्ष प्राप्तांक कम भरा गया है तो ऐसे अभ्यर्थी से कम अंक भरने का समुचित अभिलेखीय आधार प्राप्त कर लिया जाय । समुचित आधार पाये जाने पर अभ्यर्थी से इस आशय का शपथ पत्र अनिवार्य रूप से लेकर कि वह अपनी भरे हुए कम अंक के आधार पर चयन से सहमत है तथा भविष्य में अधिक प्राप्तांक के आधार पर मेरिट परिवर्तन की मांग नहीं करेगा । चूंकि मेरिट में कोई परिवर्तन नहीं होना है, इस कारण उसको नियुक्ति पत्र निर्गत कर दिया जाय ।

(2) यदि अभ्यर्थी द्वारा मूल अंकपत्र के सापेक्ष पूर्णांक अधिक भरा गया है तो ऐसे अभ्यर्थी से अधिक पूर्णांक भरने का समुचित अभिलेखीय आधार प्राप्त कर लिया जाय । समुचित आधार पाये जाने पर अभ्यर्थी से इस आशय का शपथ पत्र लेकर कि वह अपने भरे हुए अधिक पूर्णांक के आधार पर चयन से सहमत है तथा भविष्य में मूल/कम पूर्णांक के आधार पर मेरिट परिवर्तन की मांग नहीं करेगा । चूंकि मेरिट में कोई परिवर्तन नहीं होना है, इस कारण उसको नियुक्ति पत्र निर्गत कर दिया जाय ।

(3) ऐसे अभ्यर्थी जो आवेदन पत्र में शैक्षिक अहर्ता में प्राप्त वास्तविक अंक से अधिक प्राप्तांक भरें हैं, के सम्बन्ध में उल्लेखनीय है कि चूंकि मेरिट अभ्यथी द्वारा अंकित प्राप्तांक के आधार पर निर्धारित होता है अतः यदि उनको वास्तविक कम प्राप्तांक के आधार पर चयन किया जाता है तो मेरिट परिवर्तित हो जाएगी । इससे पूरी चयन सूची परिवर्तित हो जाएगी । वास्तविक प्राप्तांक से अधिक अंक भरने का उद्देश्य येन-केन प्रकारेण चयनित होने का भी हो सकता है, उक्त के अतिरिक्त मा0 उच्चतम न्यायलय के आदेश दिनांक 18.11.2020 द्वारा पूर्व में प्रकाशित की गयी मेरिट सूची (चयन सूची) के आधार पर नियुक्ति की प्रक्रिया पूर्ण करने के निर्देश दिये गये हैं । उक्त के आलोक में चयन सूची/ मेरिट लिस्ट में किसी प्रकार का परिवर्तन किया जाना उचित नहीं है । इस कारण ऐसे अभ्यर्थियों का चयन निरस्त कर दिया जाय ।

(4) ऐसे अभ्यर्थी जो आवेदन पत्र में शैक्षिक अहर्ता के पूर्णांक को वास्तविक पूर्णांक से कम भरें है, के सम्बन्ध में उल्लेखनीय है कि चूंकि

मेरिट अभ्यर्थी द्वारा अंकित प्राप्तांक के आधार पर निर्धारित होता है अतः यदि उनको वास्तविक अधिक पूर्णांक के आधार पर चयन किया जाता है तो मेरिट परिवर्तित हो जाएगी एवं इससे पूरी चयन सूची परिवर्तित हो जायेगी । वास्तविक पूर्णांक से कम अंक भरने का उद्देश्य येन-केन प्रकारेण चयनित होने का भी हो सकता है । उक्त के अतिरिक्त मा0 उच्चतम न्यायलय के आदेश दिनांक 18.11.2020 द्वारा पूर्व में प्रकाशित की गयी मेरिट सूची (चयन सूची) के आधार पर नियुक्ति की प्रक्रिया पूर्ण करने के निर्देश दिये गये हैं । उक्त के आलोक में चयन सूची/ मेरिट लिस्ट में किसी प्रकार का परिवर्तन किया जाना उचित नहीं है । इस कारण ऐसे अभ्यर्थियों का चयन निरस्त कर दिया जाय।"

28. Before proceeding to analyse the decision taken, it would be pertinent to bear in mind that Issue No. 2 and its various sub paragraphs use the expression 'प्राप्तांक' and 'पूर्णांक'. It is not disputed inter partes that the word 'प्राप्तांक' would mean the actual total marks obtained by a candidate in a particular examination while the expression 'पूर्णांक' would mean the total aggregate marks assigned for all papers/subjects in that particular examination and against which marks would have been given. To explain it a little differently, while the first expression thus means the total marks in fact awarded to the candidate across all units comprised in that examination, the second means the combined, overall or composite total of the various units against which marks have been awarded. This issue assumes significance since Appendix I requires quality point marks to be computed on the basis of a formula of which "percentage of marks" obtained at the High School, Intermediate, Graduation and Training Examination is a component.

29. Paragraph-1 deals with a situation where the candidate has inadvertently filled in a figure in respect of total marks lower than those disclosed in the original marksheet. In respect of such cases the Government Order stipulates that subject to the candidate giving an undertaking that he would not raise any claim on the basis of the higher marks shown in the original marksheet, appointment may be offered to him. Paragraph-2 then contemplates a situation where a candidate has by mistake ascribed a higher value to the composite or overall marks of that particular examination when compared with the original marksheet. For this category of mistake also the State has taken a decision to permit such candidates to seek appointment subject to an undertaking being given that they would not raise any claim in future for change of their merit position based on the total composite or aggregate marks as shown in the original marksheet.

30. In terms of the provisions made in Paragraph-3 the State has taken a conscious decision to disqualify all such candidates who have filled in the total marks in excess of that mentioned in the original marksheet. A similar decision has been taken in respect of that category of candidates who have in their online application forms placed the total composite or aggregate marks of a particular examination at a value lower than that disclosed in the original marksheet. As is evident from a reading of Paragraph-4 these candidates also stand disqualified.

31. In light of the aforesaid decision taken, while all those petitioners and candidates who fall within paragraphs-1 and 2 would be entitled to seek appointment subject to the furnishing of an undertaking as contemplated, those who fall within the ambit of paragraphs 3 and 4 stand excluded and they shall not be considered further for appointment. The principal dispute which is raised is in respect of those petitioners and candidates who would fall within the ambit of paragraphs 3 and 4.

32. Upon a holistic reading of paragraphs 1 to 4, it appears that the primary intent of the State Government appears to have been to ensure that the merit list and the final results which were ultimately published on 12 May 2020 need not be revised, amended or reopened. It is pertinent to note that candidates who fall within the scope of paragraphs-1 and 2 would have, if permitted to rectify their mistakes, gained an advantage since the marks disclosed by them in the online application forms stood lower than the marks as shown in the original marksheet. It is in view thereof that the State Government appears to have taken a decision that while such candidates would be permitted to seek appointment, their candidature would be liable to be considered based upon the disclosures made in the online application forms alone. Insofar as candidates who fall within the corners of paragraphs 3 and 4 that concerns itself with a situation where candidates by virtue of the disclosures have gained an advantage in the computation of quality point marks than would actually obtain as per their original marksheets. Where a candidate has either inflated the total actual marks obtained by him or deflates the composite total of that examination, in both situations his quality points would stand increased thus being unfair to the other candidates in the fray. In both situations the quality points obtained by such a candidate would stand disclosed at a value higher than when computed correctly as per the entries appearing in the original marksheets. In respect of both these categories the State appears to have taken into consideration the directions issued by the Supreme Court in Ram Sharan Maurya & Others v. State of U.P. and Others5 to proceed with the making of appointments in accordance with the results declared on 12 May 2020 as well as the fact that in permitting such rectifications the entire merit list itself would have to be recomputed and reopened.

33. Sri Ojha, learned Senior Counsel, assailing these conditions submitted that on a plain reading of paragraphs-1 to 4, it is manifest that the State admits and recognises the existence of a situation of inadvertent errors and mistakes having been committed by candidates across the spectrum. He, therefore, submits that the decision taken insofar as it permits candidates falling within the ambit of paragraphs-1 and 2 to continue to be a part of the selection process is clearly discriminatory. He submits that candidates falling within the scope of paragraphs-1 and 2 have been permitted and afforded the chance to seek appointment notwithstanding the incorrectness of the disclosures made in the online application forms. According to Sri Ojha the decision so taken is clearly violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. He submits that while one particular class of candidates who have made mistakes while filling the online application forms have been permitted to seek appointment, another class standing on equal footing have been denied that right.

34. It becomes pertinent at the outset to note that candidates falling within the ambit of paragraphs-1 and 2 have not been permitted to affect any rectification in their application forms. In fact, no category or class of candidates have been permitted to effect rectifications. The State has merely taken a decision to permit those falling within paragraphs 1 and 2 to seek appointment solely on the basis of the disclosures as existing in their application forms notwithstanding their incorrect computation of quality points and thus their merit position being adversely affected on account of their own mistake. Even this class of candidates have not been permitted to seek a betterment of their merit position since the marks disclosed by them in their forms stood at a level lower than that which would actually obtain as per their marksheets. It is in that context that the State has chosen to take a decision to call upon those candidates to submit undertakings to the effect that they would not seek any change in their merit position.

35. Insofar as candidates falling with the ambit of paragraphs 3 and 4 are concerned, they are those whose merit position is placed higher than would actually obtain on account of entries made in the application forms. It is thus manifest that candidates falling within the scope of paragraphs-1 and 2 on the one hand and paragraphs-3 and 4 do not constitute a singular class. While candidates falling under paragraphs 1 and 2 stand at a disadvantage, those who fall under paragraphs-3 and 4 have gained undue advantage on account of the nature of the disclosures that were made by them in the online application forms. The plea of discrimination therefore, does not sustain.

36. Regard must also be had to the fact that the State appears to have taken a conscious decision to ensure that incorrect disclosures which may impact the merit list as drawn or enable candidates to claim undue advantage over others are not countenanced. This appears to be the principle underlying paragraphs 3 and 4. Candidates falling within the ambit of paragraphs 1 and 2 already stand disadvantaged since their position in the merit list stands lowered on account of their own action, albeit due to inadvertence. Even this class of candidates have been commanded to submit undertakings that they shall not claim any change in their merit position in the future. There is thus a reasonable and germane classification between the two classes of candidates. The decision taken clearly appears to be reasonable since as long as the merit list does not contain candidates who have taken undue advantage on account of the disclosures made by them, it results in no unfairness. In fact the removal of this aberration was imperative in order to maintain the sanctity of the merit list. This issue thus stands answered against the petitioners.

C. WHETHER THE PETITIONERS SHOULD BE PERMITTED TO RECTIFY THEIR FORMS AT THIS STAGE

37. The Court while weighing the soundness of the submissions noticed above cannot shut its eyes to the crucial caveats which were set out at multiple stages of the entire selection process placing candidates on notice in unambiguous terms of the imperative need to ensure that the information being filled out in the online applications was accurate. Candidates were informed at all stages that since no amendments or rectifications would be permitted at later stages and after the online applications were digitally locked and stored, they should take adequate care to ensure the correctness of the entries made. In the original ATRE Government Order of 1 December 2018, Paragraph 17 in clear and unambiguous terms underlined the importance of this stage of the online application process in the following terms: -

17. ऑन लाइन आवेदन-

(1) सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा के लिए सचिव परीक्षा नियामक प्राधिकारी, उ० प्र० प्रयागराज द्वारा एन0 आई0 सी0 लखनऊ के सहयोग से ऑन लाइन आवेदन आमंत्रित किये जायेंगेI ऑन लाइन आवेदन हेतु सॉफ्टवेयर का निर्माण एन0 आई० सी० लखनऊ द्वारा कराया जायेगाI

(2) ऑन लाइन आवेदन करने के लिए तकनीकी एवं परिचालन समबंधी निर्देश वेबसाइट पर उपलब्ध कराये जायेंगे। अभ्यर्थीयों को यह सलाह दी जाती है कि वह निर्धारित वेबसाइट पर ऑन लाइन आवेदन करने से पूर्व अनुदेशों को सावधानीपूर्वक पढ़ लें।

(3) अभ्यर्थीयों को अपने ऑनलाइन आवेदन की अंकित प्रविष्टियों में शंसोधन का कोई अवसर देय नही होगा।इसके लिए अनिवार्य है कि अभ्यर्थी रेजिस्ट्रेशन को सब्मिट (Submit)/ फाइनल सेव (Final Save) करने से पूर्व उसका प्रिंट लेकर ऑनलाइन अंकित प्रविष्टियों का अभिलेखों से मिलान अवश्य कर लें।

(4) अभ्यर्थीयों से रेजिस्ट्रेशन सब्मिट (Submit)/ फाइनल सेव (Final Save) करने से पूर्व इस आशय के घोषणा पत्र को चयन करना अनिवार्य होगा कि - "मैने ऑनलाइन आवेदन के अंतर्गत किए गये रेजिस्ट्रेशन का प्रिंट निकालकर उसमें की गयी प्रविष्टियों का मिलान मूल अभिलेखों से कर लिया है एवं उसे सही पाया है तथा मैं अपने रेजिस्ट्रेशन को फाइनल सेव करने हेतु पूर्णतः सहमत हूँ फाइनल सेव होने के उपरांत मुझे अपने आवेदन में संशोधन करने का कोई अवसर देय नहीं होगा"।

(5) उक्त घोषणा पत्र को चयन करने के उपरान्त अभ्यर्थी के मोबाइल पर भेजे गये OTP को Verify करके अभ्यर्थी को अपना आवेदन पूर्ण करना होगा इसके लिए अनिवार्य है की अभ्यर्थी आवेदन के समय अपने सही मोबाइल नं0 का अंकन करें।

38. As is evident from paragraph 17(3), candidates were placed on caution that once the application had been finally saved and submitted, no corrections or rectifications would be possible. It was in that context that it required them to take a printout of the online application and verify its contents with original testimonials. Of seminal significance is the declaration given by candidates at the time of final submission and which is set forth in paragraph 17(4).

39. The caveat and word of caution set out in paragraph 17 was again reiterated in the advertisement of 5 December 2018, the relevant part of which is extracted hereinbelow:

1. अभ्यर्थीयों को अपने ऑनलाइन आवेदन की अंकित प्रविष्टियों में शंसोधन का कोई अवसर देय नही होगा। इसके लिए अनिवार्य है क़ि अभ्यर्थी रेजिस्ट्रेशन को सब्मिट/फाइनल सेव करने से पूर्व ऑनलाइन अंकित प्रविष्टियों का अभिलेखों से मिलान अवश्य कर लें।

2. अभ्यर्थीयों से रेजिस्ट्रेशन को सब्मिट/फाइनल सेव करने से पूर्व इस आशय के घोषणा पत्र की चयन करना अनिवार्य होगा कि - "मैने ऑनलाइन आवेदन के अंतर्गत किए गये रेजिस्ट्रेशन का प्रिंट निकाल कर उसमें की गयी प्रविष्टियों का मिलान मूल अभिलेखों से कर लिया है एवं उसे सही पाया है तथा मैं अपने रेजिस्ट्रेशन को सब्मिट/फाइनल सेव करने हेतु पूर्णतः सहमत हूँ सब्मिट/फाइनल सेव होने के उपरांत मुझे अपने आवेदन में संशोधन करने का कोई अवसर देय नहीं होगा"।

3. अभ्यर्थीयों को निर्देश दिया जाता है कि अभ्यर्थी एक से अधिक ऑनलाइन आवेदन न करें। अभ्यर्थी द्वारा एक से अधिक ऑनलाइन आवेदन किए जाने की स्थिति में आवेदन शुल्क जमा किए गये अंतिम ऑनलाइन आवेदन को मान्य करते हुए पूर्व के समस्त आवेदन निरस्त कर दिए जायेंगे जिसका संपूर्ण उत्तरदायित्व अभ्यर्थी का होगा I

घोषणा : मै शपथ पूर्वक अभिकथन करता हूँ कि नियुक्ति हेतु ऑनलाइन आवेदन पत्र मे भरी गयी समस्त प्रविष्टियाँ मेरे सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा 2019 हेतु आवेदन मे की गयी प्रविष्टियों एवं मूल अभिलेखों पर आधारित है एवं मेरे संज्ञान में सही एवं सत्य है मुझे विगयापन में दी गई समस्त शर्तें मान्य I है मै प्राथमिक स्तर की अध्यापक पात्रता परीक्षा एवं सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा उत्तीर्ण हूँ I यदि चयन के पूर्व अथवा बाद में जाचोपरान्त कोई विवरण असत्य तथा ग़लत पाया जाता है तो सम्बन्धित अधिकारी को मेरा अभ्यर्थन निरस्त करने तथा मेरे विरुद्ध वैधानिक कार्यवाही करने का अधिकार होगा I आवेदन पत्र में अंकित सूचनाओं से संबंधित सभी मूल प्रमाण पत्र/अंकपत्र, जाति प्रमाण, निवास प्रमाण पत्र, विशेष आरक्षण प्रमाण पत्र आवेदन करने की तिथि के पूर्व से मेरे पास उपलब्ध है I जनपद नियुक्ति के सापेक्ष मेरे ऑनलाइन आवेदन में दिए गये जनपद की वरीयता मुझे स्वीकार है, जिसमे परिवर्तन हेतु मेरे द्वारा किसी भी प्रकार का प्रत्यावेदन प्रस्तुत नही किया जाएगाI सहायक अध्यापक भर्ती परीक्षा 2019 ऑनलाइन आवेदन के समय मेरे द्वारा की गयी प्रविष्टियों को नियुक्ति हेतु आवेदन मे विचार किए जाने पर मेरे द्वारा पूर्ण सहमति प्रदान की जाती हैI यदि कोई भी सूचना ग़लत पाई गई तो उसका उत्तरदायित्व मेरा होगाI

41. This was therefore not a case where candidates were either unaware of the sanctity attached to the disclosures made in online applications or were not apprised of the consequences of mistakes and inadvertent errors being incapable of being rectified once the forms were ultimately saved and locked.

42. The Court while thus upholding the procedure adopted by the respondents also necessarily takes into consideration that the selection process was not one catering to the young and the adolescent who would certainly deserve a degree of latitude. The selection process in question is for the appointment of Assistant Teachers who will be tasked with the obligation and duty to instill in and impress upon minor school going children the virtues of discipline and exactitude.

43. While the denial of an opportunity to rectify an unwitting or unintentional error may on the face of it appear to be overly inequitable and harsh especially in cases where the mistake may be apparently borne out from the accompanying record, Courts in these situations cannot be unmindful of the mammoth effort and preparation that precede the convening of a public examination in which lakhs participate and compete amongst each other. The present recruitment itself saw 4,09,530 persons competing in the ATRE. However a pall of uncertainty and the veritable sword of Damocles continues to hover over the fate of the 1,46,060 successful candidates. This position of uncertainty cannot be permitted to perpetuate and linger endlessly. It not only causes grave injustice to the selected candidates but more importantly and in most cases negates and undermines public interest- in this case the efficiencies of thousands of primary educational institutions, the education of minor school going children itself hangs in the balance. It is these issues of vital consequences which must weigh and be accorded due consideration.

44. It is these very considerations of import and critical essence which impel a closure being accorded to challenges to public examinations with swiftness and certainty. While this is not to suggest that all challenges to selections and public examinations must be perfunctorily rejected or swept aside, at the same time it is the obligation of the Court to ensure that a selection process undertaken for employment under the State is stalled only in the face of a substantial challenge or where the process is established to suffer from manifest illegalities. It would be pertinent to remember the word of caution in this regard entered by the Supreme Court in Ran Vijay Singh Vs. State of U.P.6 where it observed: -

32. It is rather unfortunate that despite several decisions of this Court, some of which have been discussed above, there is interference by the courts in the result of examinations. This places the examination authorities in an unenviable position where they are under scrutiny and not the candidates. Additionally, a massive and sometimes prolonged examination exercise concludes with an air of uncertainty. While there is no doubt that candidates put in a tremendous effort in preparing for an examination, it must not be forgotten that even the examination authorities put in equally great efforts to successfully conduct an examination. The enormity of the task might reveal some lapse at a later stage, but the court must consider the internal checks and balances put in place by the examination authorities before interfering with the efforts put in by the candidates who have successfully participated in the examination and the examination authorities. The present appeals are a classic example of the consequence of such interference where there is no finality to the result of the examinations even after a lapse of eight years. Apart from the examination authorities even the candidates are left wondering about the certainty or otherwise of the result of the examination -- whether they have passed or not; whether their result will be approved or disapproved by the court; whether they will get admission in a college or university or not; and whether they will get recruited or not. This unsatisfactory situation does not work to anybody's advantage and such a state of uncertainty results in confusion being worse confounded. The overall and larger impact of all this is that public interest suffers."

45. The aforesaid considerations which must necessarily guide the evaluation of challenges to selection and recruitment were reiterated recently by the Supreme Court in Vikesh Kumar Gupta Vs. State of Rajasthan7.

46. Dealing with a similar claim for rectification in application forms submitted in the course of a selection process for Shiksha Nideshaks, a Division Bench of the Court in Arti Verma Vs. State of U.P.8 observed:-

"In the present case, the appellant claimed the benefit of Freedom Fighters category. The contention that this was as a result of an error committed by the Computer Operator cannot simply be accepted for the reason that the appellant would necessarily be responsible for any statement which he made on line. If the Courts were to accept such a plea of the appellant, that would result in a situation where the appellant would get the benefit of a wrong category if the wrong claim went unnoticed and if noticed, the appellant could always turn around and claim that this was as a result of human error. Each candidate necessarily must bear the consequences of his failure to fill up the application form correctly. No fault can, therefore, be found in rejecting the application for correction when the candidate himself has failed to make a proper disclosure or where, as in the present case, the application is submitted under a wrong category. Interference of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution is clearly not warranted in such matters as it creates grave uncertainty since the selection process cannot be finally completed."

47. In Jai Karan Singh and 52 others Vs. State of U.P9., another Division Bench of the Court reiterated the aforesaid position observing:-

To examine the issue that have been raised before the Court by the candidates more by way of sympathy then on any legal principle it needs to be remembered that the Examining Body had informed the candidates time and again the necessity of filling the information accurately in the OMR Answer Sheets with a clear instruction that their OMR Answer Sheet would not be evaluated if any mistake is committed. At the cost of repetition, we reiterate that the candidates had been informed when the advertisement was issued on 21 August 2017 that they should visit the Website of the Board for the ascertaining procedure that was required to be followed for filling up the information in the OMR Answer Sheet. We have referred to the relevant provisions contained in the guidelines uploaded on the Website and we have no manner of doubt that complete information was provided to the candidates for filling the OMR Answer Sheet, particularly with regard to the entries relating to Registration Number, Roll Number, Question Booklet Series and the Language attempted. The candidates were made aware that in case there was any mistake in the information provided by them, the OMR Answer Sheet would not be evaluated and no representation in this regard would be accepted. Not only this, detailed information was also contained in the Admit Card which the candidates had to download. The information contained in the Admit Card has been reproduced above. The candidates were clearly informed that the OMR Answer Sheet would be evaluated through an electronic scanning process and incorrect entries in the OMR Answer Sheet would render the answer sheet invalid. Candidates were also informed that if they darkened more than one circle the, answer would be treated as wrong and that the candidate must also indicate Roll Number, Registration Number, Question Booklet Series at the space provided in the OMR Answer Sheet. This apart, the question booklet that was provided to the candidates also contained important instructions on the first page and the lase page. These instructions have been reproduced above. The last page also provided in detail the manner of filling the entries relating to Registration Number, Roll Number, Question Booklet Series and the language attempted. In fact, a sample registration number was indicated to highlight the manner in which the entries were required to be filled. The same set of instructions were contained in the OMR Answer Sheets. Thus, instructions were repeatedly given to the candidates during the process of filling the application form ONLINE in the Admit Card and at the time of examination regarding the manner in which the entries were required to be filled in the OMR Answer Sheet.

It is keeping in mind the aforesaid information provided to the candidates that the Court has to examine whether the candidates can insist, even if they have not accurately filled the Roll Number, Registration Number, Question Booklet Series and Language attempted that the mistakes should be ignored and the Examining Body should conduct a manual check of their OMR Answer Sheet with the information provided by them earlier so that the results can be declared.

48. Dealing with an identical challenge in respect of this very recruitment a learned Judge of the Court in Soni Prajapti Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others10 held:-

"The instructions provided to the candidates were clear and specific. Even if there was a human error, but since the examination was taken OMR sheet and the information regarding Question Booklet Series was to be provided by darkening the corresponding circle on the OMR sheet and having regard to the fact that evaluation of answer sheets was to be done by electronic scanning device, which was duly communicated to the candidate in advance, the grievance now raised could not be considered. There would be large number of other candidates having same or similar grievances, in which also same relief would have to be granted thereby derailing the entire process. In such view of the matter, this Court does not find it a fit case to interfere at this stage in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution."

49. It is thus manifest that a whole body of precedent on this oft repeated prayer of rectification in online forms has come to govern the field. The principal considerations which appear to have weighed with the Court in deciding against the petitioners in those matters were the caveats and notes of caution which placed candidates on prior notice of such a plea not being liable to be entertained, the specter of the entire selection process being stalled or even derailed. But Courts laid equal if not far greater emphasis on the need to ensure certainty and closure being accorded to selection proceedings in respect of posts under the State. That is exactly the sentiment voiced in Ran Vijay Singh and Vikesh Kumar Gupta by the Supreme Court.

50. On an overall conspectus of the aforesaid discussion the Court comes to the following conclusions. A permission to rectify and amend entries made in the online applications would be clearly impermissible in light of the caveats carried in the advertisements and notices issued by the respondents as well as the declarations made by the candidates themselves while participating in the recruitment process. It would not only be iniquitous but also detrimental to public interest to command the respondents to permit rectifications at the fag end of a recruitment exercise which commenced in December 2018. The stipulations contained in the advertisements and notices issued were never assailed by the petitioners prior to participating in the recruitment process. It would be unfair not just to the respondents but to the other selected candidates to now accord them such permission which would necessarily result in the selection process being stalled and derailed. This Court as well as the Supreme Court has consistently taken the view that such a course being tread would be wholly unfair and unwarranted. The Court repels the challenge to the Government Order of 4 December 2020 being contrary to the mandate of Rule 14. It also negatives its challenge on the ground of being discriminatory or unfair.

51. These petitions shall consequently stand disposed of with liberty to the State respondents to evaluate the case of each of the petitioners before this Court in light of the Government Order dated 4 December 2020.

4. St. of Uttar Pradesh & ors. Vs Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order passed by Ms. Monika Rani, the then Collector, Chitrakoot, dated 03.02.2017, dismissing the petitioner from Government service. It has further been ordered that a sum of Rs.86,74,600/- held embezzled by the petitioner be recovered from him.

2. The petitioner was a Deputy Cashier (उप रोकड़िया), posted at the Sub-Treasury Mau, District Chitrakoot. Shorn of details, that are unnecessary to determine the short point that arises for consideration here, the petitioner was charge sheeted through two separate charge sheets dated 06.04.2016 and 26.05.2016, on the foundation of which, disciplinary proceedings were drawn against him. The substance of the charges against the petitioner is that he had embezzled Government moneys in the sum of Rs.86,74,600/- by manipulating figures in the deposit challans, relating to sums of money, collected at the Treasury and deposited by him at the Allahabad Bank, Branch Mau, District Chitrakoot on 69 days between 08.04.2015 to 06.02.2016.

3. Parties have exchanged affidavits, whereafter this petition was formally admitted to hearing on 01.12.2020. It was heard on that date and thereafter, adjourned on a few instances. Parties have concluded their submissions today.

4. Heard Mr. Arvind Srivastava, learned Counsel for the petitioner, along with Mr. Ashok Kumar Dubey, Mr. Shree Prakash Singh and Dr. Amar Nath Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State.

5. No doubt, the charges against the petitioner are serious, but Mr. Arvind Srivastava says that the impugned order has been passed in utter violation of principles of natural justice. During hearing, he has canvassed a number of points to assail the entire disciplinary proceedings, including those relating to non-supply of documents, that have been produced against him, apart from personal bias that he has alleged against Kamlesh Kumar, the Senior Treasury Officer, District Treasury, Chitrakoot.

6. This Court is not minded to examine the other contentions raised by Mr. Srivastava, which may not be treated to be decided either way by this judgment, except the one that this Court proceeds to consider now. Mr. Srivastava submits that during the course of the departmental inquiry, as a part of the disciplinary proceedings, no date, time or place for holding the inquiry was determined nor any such date, time or place was intimated to the petitioner. He further submits that the respondents have not proved the charges before the Inquiry Officer by examining witnesses in support of the same. No oral evidence has been recorded on behalf of the establishment. The Inquiry Officer has proceeded to evaluate papers before him, without any evidence being led by the establishment to prove the charges. The Inquiry Officer, on the basis of an evaluation of documents on record done of his own, has held the charges proved. This, according to Mr. Srivastava, is a manifest illegality, which vitiates the inquiry report and the consequential order of dismissal from service founded on it.

7. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has, in particular, invited the Court's attention to paragraph no.43 of the writ petition, where it is averred to the following effect:

"43. That it is pertinent to state here that nothing has been done pursuant to the said letter dated 22.11.2016 by the Enquiry Officer. Neither any alleged charge sheet, material evidence or permission to cross examine the alleged witnesses has been provided nor any date or time or place has been disclosed/ fixed by the Inquiry Officer for hearing of the petitioner in the alleged departmental enquiry being conducted against him, and thus the said act and conduct of the inquiry officer not only violates the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 and the Government Order dated 22.4.2015 but also violates the Principles of Natural Justice of law."

8. Paragraph no.43 of the writ petition has been answered in paragraph no.44 of the counter affidavit, which reads to the following effect:

"44. यह कि रिट याचिका के प्रस्तर-43 का कथन जिस प्रकार वर्णित है, स्वीकार नहीं है। उपयुक्त एवं विस्तृत उत्तर पूर्ववर्ती प्रस्तरों में दिया जा चुका है।"

9. The only paragraph of consequence in the counter affidavit, where any material averment with regard to the petitioner's stand carried in paragraph no.43 of the writ petition can be found, is paragraph no.40 of the writ petition, which reads:

"40. यह कि, रिट याचिका के प्रस्तर-39 का कथन जिस प्रकार वर्णित है, स्वीकार नहीं है। जांच अधिकारी द्वारा याची को आरोप पत्र दिनांक 07-11-16, समस्त साक्ष्यों/ संलग्नकों सहित अनेक बार उपलब्ध करायी गयी। किन्तु याची ने आरोप पत्र में इंगित किसी भी आरोप का उत्तर न देकर मात्र जांच में व्यवधान डालने/ विलम्ब कराने की नीयत से अनावश्यक पत्राचार किये और उपर्युक्त पत्रजात उसे प्राप्त न होने का कथन किया। उक्त के साक्ष्य स्वरूप जांच अधिकारी द्वारा याची को प्राप्त कराया गया पत्र दिनांक 19-11-16 अवलोकनीय है जिसमें स्पष्ट उल्लेख है कि "..... आप द्वारा मात्र पेशबन्दी किये जाने की नीयत से शासन को अनावश्यक व झूठे तथ्यों पर आधारित पत्राचार कर भ्रमित किये जाने का कुत्सित प्रयास किया गया है। यद्यपि आप द्वारा जानबूझकर अपने विरुद्ध प्रचलित विभागीय कार्यवाही को अधिकतम समय तक विलम्बित करने की नीयत से ऐसे कृत्य किये जा रहे हैं तथापि यदि कथित तौर पर सादे कागज प्राप्त होने का कथन आप द्वारा किया जा रहा है तो आपको निर्देशित किया जाता है कि आप अपने विरूद्ध प्रचलित विभागीय कार्यवाही से सम्बन्धित आरोप पत्र समस्त संलग्नकों सहित, जो पूर्व में आपको हस्तगत् कराये जा चुके हैं, पुनः अधोहस्ताक्षरी कार्यालय में तत्काल उपस्थित होकर अधोहस्ताक्षरी के समक्ष प्राप्त करना सुनिश्चित करें। ....." पुनः जिलाधिकारी द्वारा याची को प्राप्त कराया गया आदेश दिनांक 07-12-16 अवलोकनीय है जिसमें स्पष्ट उल्लेख है कि मा0 उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा रिट याचिका संख्या 24929/2016 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 06-09-16 के अन्तर्गत जांच कार्यवाही दिनांक 31-12-16 तक पूर्ण किये जाने के निर्देश दिये गये हैं किन्तु याची द्वारा जानबूझकर अपने विरूद्ध प्रचलित विभागीय कार्यवाही को अधिकतम् समय तक लम्बित रखने की नीयत से सर्वथा गलत, भ्रामक व निराधार पत्राचार बारम्बार करते हुए जांच में अपेक्षित सहयोग नहीं दिया जा रहा है। यद्यपि याची को आरोप पत्र मय समस्त सम्बन्धित अभिलेख/ छायाप्रतियां अनेक बार सीधे/ पंजीकृत डाक से प्राप्त कराये जा चुके हैं फिर भी याची विभागीय कार्यवाही से सम्बन्धित प्रपत्र पुनः सीधे प्राप्त करके अपना पक्ष जांच अधिकारी के समक्ष प्रस्तुत करे। पत्र दिनांक 19.11.2016 एवं आदेश दिनांक 07.12.2016 की छायाप्रति संलग्नक सं0-6 व 7 के रूप में संलग्न है।"

10. It appears that the specific stand of the petitioner, that a date, time and place to hold the inquiry were never communicated to him, was canvassed before this Court earlier as well, when this petition was still at the stage of motion of hearing. There is a very detailed order on this issue passed on 28.02.2019, which reads:

"Heard Sri Arvind Srivastava learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Vikram Bahadur Yadav learned Standing Counsel.

Pursuant to the earlier orders passed, Sri Vikram Bahadur Yadav learned Standing Counsel has produced the record. From the records which have been produced before the Court it appears that the respondents had placed the petitioner upon notice to file a reply to the charge sheet which had been served. According to them however despite time having been granted, the petitioner did not furnish any reply. Sri Yadav has then, after going through the entire record, submitted that no oral evidence was recorded in the course of the disciplinary proceedings since the respondents were of the considered view that the charges were liable to be tested and established on the basis of the documentary evidence which was made part of the enquiry. Sri Yadav has then, drawing the attention of the Court to the enquiry report, submitted that the enquiry officer has independently evaluated the documentary evidence and has thereafter proceeded to record his detailed conclusions with respect to the charges levelled.

Sri Arvind Srivastava learned counsel for the petitioner has additionally drawn the attention of the Court to the pleadings taken in paragraph-43 of the writ petition to contend that no notice indicating the date, time or place of enquiry was communicated to the petitioner by the enquiry officer.

Sri Yadav with the aid of the record has sought to rebut this assertion and has submitted that notices had in fact been issued. He prays for time to file a supplementary counter affidavit bringing those notices on record.

Although Sri Srivastava learned counsel for the petitioner in his preliminary submissions advanced on this writ petition sought to make certain allegations against the fourth respondent and to submit that the entire action taken against the petitioner was tainted with mala fides, on being asked to point out the averments made against the said respondent so as to justify issuance of notice, all that was pleaded was the averments made in paragraph-59 of the writ petition.

Presently and on evaluation of the averments so made, this Court finds no ground to issue notice to the private respondent No.4.

List this petition again after three week by which time the supplementary counter affidavit may be filed by the State."

11. At the hearing before this Court, no supplementary counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the State, in terms prayed on 28.02.2019. This Court, therefore, has no option but to proceed on the assumption that the averments in the paragraph no.43 of the writ petition are true, as these remain unrebutted. The conclusion on facts, therefore, would be that no date, time and place of the inquiry scheduled was intimated to the petitioner. The consequence of this failure in law will be shortly examined. Apart from it, it has also been urged that no oral evidence during the course of inquiry was recorded on behalf of the establishment, which was necessary in the case, which involved a charge entailing a major penalty. Here also, there is hardly any dispute on facts that no oral evidence was led on behalf of the establishment to prove the charges. This fact has figured in this Court's order dated 28.02.2019, where Mr. Vikram Bahadur Singh, learned Standing Counsel, on going through the record, did not dispute the fact that during the course of the disciplinary proceedings, no oral evidence was recorded. No material to the contrary has been shown to this Court during the hearing today or earlier on 1st December, 2020. This Court, therefore, also has to pronounce upon the legal effect of the respondents' failure to lead oral evidence in support of the charges, held proved against the petitioner at the inquiry.

12. Learned Standing Counsel submits that the present case is one which does not require any oral evidence at all, for the petitioner's guilt is established by documents that are on record. He submits that there is ample evidence on record to show that the petitioner did not submit replies to the charge sheets or led evidence, despite being granted ample opportunity to do so. The Inquiry Officer, therefore, on a perusal of the documents on record, rightly and justly concluded that the petitioner was guilty of tampering the various treasury challans and by doing that, embezzled Government moneys in the sum of Rs.86,74,600/-.

13. This Court has carefully considered the rival submissions advanced by parties. The procedure for imposition of major penalties is laid down in the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (for short, "the Rules'). Rule 7 of the Rules read as follows:

"7. Procedure for imposing major penalties.- Before imposing any major penalty on a Government servant, an inquiry shall be held in the following manner :

(i) The disciplinary authority may himself inquire into the charges or appoint an authority subordinate to him as Inquiry Officer to inquire into the charges.

(ii) The facts constituting the misconduct on which it is proposed to take action shall be reduced in the form of definite charge or charges to be called charge-sheet. The charge-sheet shall be approved by the disciplinary authority :

Provided that where the appointing authority is Governor, the charge-sheet may be approved by the Principal Secretary or the Secretary; as the case may be, of the concerned department.

(iii) The charges framed shall be so precise and clear as to give sufficient indication to the charged Government servant of the facts and circumstances against him. The proposed documentary evidence and the name of the witnesses proposed to prove the same alongwith oral evidence, if any, shall be mentioned in the charge-sheet.

(iv) The charged Government servant shall be required to put in a written statement of his defence in person on a specified date which shall not be less than 15 days from the date of issue of charge-sheet and to state whether he desires to cross-examine any witness mentioned in the charge-sheet and whether desires to give or produce evidence in his defence. He shall also be informed that in case he does not appear or file the written statement on the specified date, it will be presumed that he has none to furnish and Inquiry Officer shall proceed to complete the inquiry ex parte.

(v) The charge-sheet, alongwith the copy of the documentary evidences mentioned therein and list of witnesses and their statements, if any shall be served on the charged Government servant personally or by registered post at the address mentioned in the official records. In case the charge-sheet could not be served in aforesaid manner, the charge-sheet shall be served by publication in a daily newspaper having wide circulation :

Provided that where the documentary evidence is voluminous, instead of furnishing its copy with charge-sheet, the charged Government servant shall be permitted to inspect the same before the Inquiry Officer.

(vi) Where the charged Government servant appears and admits the charges, the Inquiry Officer shall submit his report to the disciplinary authority on the basis of such admission.

(vii) Where the charged Government servant denies the charges, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge-sheet and record their oral evidence in presence of the charged Government servant who shall be given opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses. After recording the aforesaid evidence, the Inquiry Officer shall call and record the oral evidence which the charged Government servant desired in his written statement to be produced in his defence :

Provided that the Inquiry Officer may for reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness.

(viii) The Inquiry Officer may summon any witness to give evidence or require any person to produce documents before him in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Departmental Inquiries (Enforcement of Attendance of Witnesses and Production of Documents) Act, 1976.

(ix) The Inquiry Officer may ask any question he pleases, at any time of any witness or from person charged with a view to discover the truth or to obtain proper proof of facts relevant to charges.

(x) Where the charged Government servant does not appear on the date fixed in the inquiry or at any stage of the proceeding inspite of the service of the notice on him or having knowledge of the date, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed with the inquiry ex parte. In such a case the Inquiry Officer shall record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet in absence of the charged Government servant.

(xi) The disciplinary authority, if it considers it necessary to do so, may, by an order appoint a Government servant or a legal practitioner, to be known as "Presenting Officer" to present on its behalf the case in support of the charge.

(xii) The Government servant may take the assistance of any other Government servant to present the case on his behalf but not engage a legal practitioner for the purpose unless the Presenting Officer appointed by the disciplinary authority is a legal practitioner of the disciplinary authority having regard to the circumstances of the case so permits :

Provided that this rule shall not apply in following cases :

(i) Where any major penalty is imposed on a person on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(ii) Where the disciplinary authority is satisfied that for reason to be recorded by it in writing, that it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry in the manner provided in these rules; or

(iii) Where the Governor is satisfied that, in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold an inquiry in the manner provided in these rules."

(Emphasis by Court)

14. It must be remarked that the imposition of a major penalty on a Government servant is a serious matter, and no matter how serious the charge is, procedural safeguards have to be strictly ensured. The procedure for holding an inquiry is laid down in Rule 7 of the Rules, extracted above. A perusal of the record of the writ petition and facts that have been established do not show whether a charge sheet conforming to Rule 7(iii) of the Rules was ever issued to the petitioner. There is a mention of two charge sheets in the impugned order 03.02.2017, but all that this Court has been shown is the inquiry report dated 31.12.2016, annexed to the counter affidavit, carrying a summary of the charges. This report is annexed as Annexure no.4 to the counter affidavit. In fact, this document carries the entire record of disciplinary proceedings and the manner these have been gone about. This Court is convinced that a charge sheet conforming to Rule 7 of the Rules was never issued to the petitioner, carrying with it a summary of the documentary evidence and the witnesses, by which distinct charges indicated and framed, in precise and clear terms against the petitioner, were proposed to be proved.

15. It must also be said that the inquiry proceedings as well as the order of the Disciplinary Authority betray an impression that the respondents have confounded the two distinct roles of the Investigator and the Adjudicator. So long as the respondents were holding a preliminary inquiry and discovered evidence, which they believe to inculpate the petitioner, they could go about the exercise in the manner they found feasible. But, in the next step, when the stage came to establish the charges in disciplinary proceedings, the Inquiry Officer appears to have forgotten his role as an impartial arbiter and so also the respondents, their obligation to establish, by evidence, charges against the petitioner before their Domestic Inquiry Tribunal. The Inquiry Officer and the respondent Authorities mixed up both roles, virtually putting onus on the petitioner to establish his innocence. Even if it be that not bad, the Inquiry Officer acted on mere papers that were before him, without evidence being led at the inquiry by the establishment.

16. It hardly need be gainsaid that in a case where a delinquent employee does not appear or does not file a reply to the charge sheet, Rule 7 of the Rules mandates ex parte proceedings. Ex parte proceedings postulate that the establishment have to prove the charges against the delinquent by leading evidence, both documentary and oral. The Inquiry Officer acted on papers that were filed in support of the charges, mistaking them for evidence. In a domestic inquiry, the provisions of the Evidence Act certainly do not apply. But that does not mean that their quintessence about basic principles relating to proof and evidence are to be cast aside.

17. The Inquiry Officer in this case acted on a volume of papers, that were before him, without those papers being systematically proved as evidence in the inquiry. This could be done by the Presenting Officer by examining relevant witnesses. In the process, the Inquiry Officer forgot the distinction between idle papers and evidence, on which he could act. The documents on record had to be proved by the establishment through appropriate means, which would then be properly galvanized into documentary evidence. This Court must remark that looking to the nature of the charges, which relate to tampering allegedly done by the petitioner in various documents, such as deposit challans tendered to the Bank, besides the Bank scroll, oral evidence of other functionaries at the Treasury and the Bank connected to the transaction, would be essential to bring home the charges. No relevant witness has been examined to establish that it was the petitioner, who tampered the figures in the documents and embezzled Government money. An Investigator's plea, howsoever strongly found on the material collected, cannot be an Adjudicator's determination.

18. Likewise, the obligation to intimate the date, time and venue of inquiry is of seminal importance. A Government servant, who does not file a reply to the charge sheet, which may not be the case here, is still entitled to appear at the inquiry and cross-examine witnesses for the establishment and make his submissions. In this case, it has been found for a fact that the date, time and venue of inquiry were not communicated to the petitioner. The failure of the respondents to do so, vitiates the proceedings albeit on a procedural facet. It would be profitable in this connection to refer to a decision of this Court in Syed Nazir Abbas Naqvi vs. State of U.P. and Ors., 2003 (6) AWC 4996. It has been held in the context of an ex parte inquiry where the delinquent employee appeared before the Inquiry, Officer and said that he had nothing to offer in his defence, that the employee's stand does not absolve the establishment to prove the charges by examining witnesses. It was held in Syed Nazir Abbas Naqvi (supra):

"9. ..... Even if it is accepted that petitioner made any statement before the Inquiry Officer that he does not wish to say anything more, the Enquiry Officer could not have closed the proceedings and submitted the report only on the basis of petitioner's reply. It was incumbent upon him under the rules, as well as in observance of the principle of natural justice to have got the charges proved by examining the witnesses who may have proved the record in respect of the charges in accordance with law. In any case, the Inquiry Officer was required to give reasons for refusing summoning of witnesses. In the present case, the Court finds that considering the charges and the reply, the contractor in respect of whom it was stated by petitioner that the over writing was made by the Contractor himself and the Registrar, who was Drawing and Disbursing Officer and the member in charge were necessary witnesses, both to prove the charges, as well as defence witnesses....."

19. Also relevant in this connection is the decision of this Court in Dukh Haran Prasad vs. State of U.P. and Ors., 2015 (3) AWC 2227. In Dukh Haran Prasad, it has been held:

"15. It is not disputed by the learned Standing Counsel that the imposition of the penalty of stoppage of three increments with cumulative effect upon the petitioners was a major penalty. If that be the admitted position, the procedure prescribed under Rule 7 was to be mandatorily followed. It has been repeatedly held by this Court that in the case of imposition of a major penalty, a failure to hold an oral inquiry is fatal. If there be any need to refer to authority for this proposition, one may only note the judgment rendered by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Sharad Kumar Varma v. State of U.P. and others; 2006 (110) FLR 630."

20. On the same point is the decision of a Division Bench of this Court Kaptan Singh vs. State of U.P., 2014 (5) AWC 5171. It has been held in Kaptan Singh:

"9. We are unable to accept the contention of the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel. Even if the delinquent employee does not request for personal hearing the burden of proving the charges normally being upon the department, the enquiry officer was under obligation to fix a date for such enquiry, with information to the delinquent and to conduct enquiry wherein he was required to examine documentary as well as oral evidence, if any, in support of the charges. Even if the delinquent employee did not participate in the enquiry, the Enquiry Officer was duty bound to discharge his obligation as an Enquiry Officer of ascertaining the truth in respect of the charges levelled against him, on the basis of evidence, as to whether the same are proved against him or not.

10. Even if the delinquent does not demand personal hearing or does not give the names of witnesses with brief synopsis of points on which the wishes to examine or cross-examine the witnesses, the Inquiry Officer is not absolved from fixing a date of enquiry, with intimation to the delinquent and if he does not appear on the date fixed to either adjourn the enquiry to some other date or to proceed ex parte, as he deems fit. In either eventuality, he is required to hold inquiry, if delinquent is present, in his presence, if he is absent, ex parte. If oral evidence is referred in the charge-sheet, same is required to be recorded/examined, if not, even then the documentary evidence is required to be examined in the light of the charges for ascertaining the truth in respect thereof. The delinquent is also entitled to be intimated the date for oral enquiry, wherein the Inquiry Officer should confront the delinquent with the charges and the evidence in support thereof, put relevant queries to him, elicit and record his replies/response in respect thereof. Such oral enquiry is necessary as it gives an opportunity, to the delinquent to explain his conduct and to the Inquiry Officer to have a better perspective of the controversy, as, it is not always possible to discern the truth from written replies and documents which may not necessarily convey the complete truth. Even where the delinquent does not dispute the veracity of the documentary evidence, oral enquiry is necessary as he may still have an explanation to offer.

13. The reference to "documentary evidence" in Rule 7(iii) and (v) clearly indicates that the same have to be examined, as aforesaid, on the date to be fixed for enquiry, whether in the presence of the delinquent or in absentia (ex parte). This requirement though not express is implicit in the aforesaid rules, as is the requirement of holding an oral enquiry as it is a sine qua non for providing reasonable opportunity to defend and is part of the principles of natural justice under Articles 311 and 14 of the Constitution. Reference may be made in this regard to the judgments of the Apex Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772 : 2010 (4) AWC 4221 (SC); Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank, (2009) 2 SCC 570; State of U.P. v. T.P. Lal Srivastava,(1996) 10 SCC 702 and Imperial Tobacco Company of India Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348 and the judgments of this Court in R.K. Singh v. Director/Appointing Authority, Govind Ballabh Pant Social Science Institute, Jhunsi, Allahabad and another, (2001) 2 UPLBEC 1282 : 2001 (3) AWC 1694 and Subhash Chandra Sharma v. U.P. Co-operative Spinning Mills and others, (2001) 2 UPLBEC 1475. The aforesaid requirement of law has not been followed in the instant case."

21. There are very illuminating remarks on the point involved here to be found in the guidance of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772. In State of U.P. vs. Saroj Kumar Sinha, it has been held:

"28. An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/disciplinary authority/Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents."

22. Bearing in mind the aforesaid position of law, this Court is of opinion that this petition deserves to succeed with liberty to the respondents to proceed afresh in the matter, after issuing a charge sheet drawn up in accordance with Rule 7 of the Rules, and further adhering to the principles of holding an inquiry, where there is likelihood of imposition of a major penalty.

23. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order of dismissal from service dated 03.02.2017, passed by the District Magistrate, Chitrakoot, Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, is hereby quashed. The petitioner shall be reinstated in service forthwith. It will be open to the respondents to hold a fresh enquiry, after issuing a fresh charge sheet, drawn up in accordance with Rule 7 of the Rules. The charge sheet shall be served upon the petitioner by Speed Post and Registered Post at the correct postal address, to be communicated by the petitioner to the District Magistrate, Chitrakoot by 15th January, 2021. The District Magistrate, Chitrakoot shall retain a postal track of any dispatch made by him to the petitioner. It will be open to the respondents to conclude the inquiry expeditiously, in accordance with law, after granting due opportunity to the petitioner, and bearing in mind the guidance in this judgment.

24. The petitioner shall be entitled to receive his current salary from the date of reinstatement in service. The entitlement to receive the arrears will remain dependent on the final outcome of the disciplinary proceedings and the orders made there. During the period of the disciplinary proceedings, if the respondents choose to pursue them, it will be open to the respondents to post the petitioner, wherever they find it convenient. The petitioner will cooperate with the inquiry.

25. There shall be no order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE SHEKHAR KUMAR YADAV, J.

Writ-A No. 16247 of 2019

Kushal Pal Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Nisheeth Yadav

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Constitution of India – Article 311 (1) and (2) – Ambit and Scope – Disciplinary proceeding – Major punishment – Article 311 gives constitutional protection to a Member of civil service of the Union or of the State – Normal rule is that no major punishment, such as, dismissal, removal or reduction in rank should be inflicted without taking recourse of regular disciplinary enquiry – It postulates for extending reasonable opportunity to a civil servant before subjecting him to major punishment. (Para 10 and 15)

B. Civil Law - U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 – Rule 8(2)(b) – Disciplinary proceeding – Termination without holding inquiry – Validity – Rule 8 (2) (b) has carved out certain exceptions where even without holding regular proceeding punishment of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank can be inflicted – Power under Rule 8(2)(b) could have been invoked only on being satisfied that holding of enquiry is not 'reasonably practicable' and that too after recording the reasons – The reasons have to be recorded by authority in writing as to why inquiry is not reasonably practicable while exercising the power under Rule 8(2)(b). (Para 10, 11 and 15)

Writ Petition allowed. (E-1)

Cases relied on :-

5. Risal Singh Vs St. of Har. & ors., (2014) 13 SCC 244

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents.

2. By means of present petition, petitioner has sought following reliefs:-

I. A writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 07.08.2019 passed by the respondent no. 2

II. A writ, order or direction, in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to reinstate the petitioner on his post with all emoluments payable to him.

III. Any other suitable order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances of the present case.

3. Facts in narrow compass are that petitioner was appointed on the post of Constable in Uttar Pradesh Police Services on 25.06.2005. The petitioner was on security duty at Sadar Jail situated in the periphery of Ghaziabad Kutchery. Usually, it was not his duty to produce the prisoners before the court. On 7.8.2019, he was assigned the duty of search at gate of Prison Room but he accompanied one Naushad, who was accused in Case Crime No. 438 of 2016 under Sections 302, 201 I.P.C. Police Station Kheda, District Ghaziabad, to produce before Court Room No.1 at about 1.45 p.m. and came back at about 4.00 p.m. without the said prisoner. On enquiry, respondent no.2 came to know that after producing the said accused before the said court room, he illegally helped him in fleeing away from the court campus and, thus, he terminated the petitioner from service holding that he played an active role in getting the accused fled away.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that on 07.08.2019 approximately 350 criminals including said accused Naushad were brought from Dasna

Jail and were kept in the lock-up room situated in the court campus of Ghaziabad. As accused persons were more, who had to be produced before the Court concerned and the constables were less in number, the Head Constable, namely, Satish Kumar, who was supervisor of the said lock-up had ordered him to produce said accused Naushad before the Court of Additional District Judge, First Court, Ghaziabad. Therefore, the petitioner escorted him to the said Court where he came to know that his case was transferred to the Additional District Judge 7th . When he reached there and waited for his turn to be produced before the Court, the accused, taking advantage of the rush, jacked off his hands of the petitioner and rushed away. It is submitted that the petitioner had only obeyed the order of his higher officer, namely, Satish Kumar, Head Constable and there was no control over the circumstances in which the accused fled away as there was huge rush in the surrounding area. Without looking to the fact and getting the matter inquired by way of holding enquiry, the respondent No. 2 terminated his services invoking the power conferred under Rule 8(2)(b) of the U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as the "Rules 1991') as well as Article 311(2)(b) of the Constitution of India without even giving opportunity of hearing to him. It is further submitted that in case of termination/dismissal order passed under Rule 8(2)(b), it is required on the part of the Disciplinary Authority to record reasons in writing that reasonably it was not practicable to hold enquiry. Rule 8(2)(b) of the Rules 1991 is pari-materia to Article 311(2)(b) of the Constitution of India. It is lastly submitted that as the order of termination has been passed without recording reasons in writing for not holding the enquiry in the matter and even without providing opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, the same is bad and liable to be set aside.

5. In support of his submissions, the learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance on the judgment of Apex Court as well as this Court rendered in the cases of Union of India and another vs. Tulsiram Patel, AIR 1985 SC 1416; Jaswant Singh vs. State of Punjab and others (1991) SCC 362 and State of U.P. and another vs. Satya Prakash Rai, Special Appeal Defecctive no. 565 of 2020 dated 29.09.2020.

6. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel for the respondents urged that there is no need to conduct enquiry and order has rightly been passed by exercising power under Rule 8(2)(b) of Rules 1991. It is further contended that the impugned order clearly gives reasons for dispensing with the service of the petitioner as such no interference is required in the matter. There is no illegality in the order, as such, the order impugned requires no interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

7. I have considered the submissions advanced on behalf of both the parties and perused the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the parties.

8. The facts of the case are not disputed. Rule 8(2)(b) of Rules 1991 as well as Article 311(2)(b) of Constitution of India reads as under:

Rule 8(2)(b) of Rules, 1991

"8(2)(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied for some reason to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry."

Article 311(2)(b) of Constitution of India

"311(2)(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that for some reason to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry."

9. Perusal of aforesaid, clearly mandates that no police officer shall be dismissed, removed or reduced in rank except after proper enquiry and disciplinary proceedings as contemplated under the Rules. Further proviso (b) stipulates that this rule shall not apply where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that for some reason to be recorded by that authority in writing it is not reasonably practicable to hold such enquiry. Thus, as a general rule, no police officer shall be dismissed, removed or reduced in rank except after proper enquiry and disciplinary proceedings as contemplated by the Rules. Clause (b) is in the form of a proviso permits the authority concerned to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank, if he is satisfied that for some reason to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such enquiry.

10. The above provision is pari-materia with Article 311 (1) and (2) of the Constitution, which gives constitutional protection to a Member of civil service of the Union or of the State. The normal rule is that no major punishment, such as, dismissal, removal or reduction in rank should be inflicted without taking recourse of regular disciplinary enquiry against any delinquent. However, Rule 8 (2) (b) of the Rules, 1991 has carved out certain exceptions where even without holding regular proceeding punishment of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank can be inflicted. In order to dispense with the regular departmental proceeding for inflicting major punishment recording reasons is a condition precedent to prevent arbitrary, capricious and mala fide exercise of power. Absence of reasons vitiates the order and renders it unsustainable in law. Secondly, the authority has to record its satisfaction based on credible material in the record, to dispense with the enquiry. Onus is on the State or its authorities to show that the order of dismissal has been passed strictly as per prescription of the statutes.

11. The power under Rule 8(2)(b) of the Rules, 1991, could have been invoked only on being satisfied that holding of enquiry is not "reasonably practicable" and that too after recording the reasons. The circumstances in which it cannot be "reasonably practicable" to hold enquriy were considered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Union of India Vs Tulsi Ram Patel, AIR 1985 SC 1416 held as follows:

"60. The Second Proviso to Article 311(2) Clause (2) of Article 311 gives a constitutional mandate to the principles of natural justice and audi alteram partem rule by providing that a person employed in a civil capacity under the Union or a State shall not be dismissed or removed from service or reduced in rank until after an inquiry in which he has been informed of the charges against him and has been given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges. To this extent, the pleasure doctrine enacted in Article 310 (1) is abridged because Article 311 (2) is a express provision of the Constitution. This safeguard provided for a government servant by clause (2) of Article 311, however, taken away when the second proviso to that clause becomes applicable. The safeguard provided by clause(1) of Article 311, however, remains intact and continues to be available to the government servant. The second proviso to Article 311 (2) becomes applicable in the three cases mentioned in clauses (a) to (c) of that proviso. These cases are :

(a) where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that for some reason, to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry; and

(c) where the President or the Governor, as the case may be, is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the State it is not expedient to hold such inquiry.

130. The condition precedent for the application of clause

(b) is the satisfaction of the disciplinary authority that "it is not reasonably practicable to hold" the inquiry contemplated by clause (2) of Article 311. What is pertinent to note is that the words used are "not reasonably practicable" and not "impracticable". According to the Oxford English Dictionary "practicable" means "Capable of being put into practice, carried out in action, effected, accomplished, or done; feasible". Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines the word "practicable" inter alia as meaning "possible to practice or perform : capable of being put into practice, done or accomplished : feasible". Further, the words used are not "not practicable" but "not reasonably practicable". Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines the word "reasonably" as "in a reasonable manner : to a fairly sufficient extent". Thus, whether it was practicable to hold the inquiry or not must be judged in the context of whether it was reasonably practicable to do so. It is not a total or absolute impracticability which is required by clause (b). What is requisite is that the holding of the inquiry is not practicable in the opinion of a reasonable man taking a reasonable view of the prevailing situation. It is not possible to enumerate the cases in which it would not be reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry, but some instances by way of illustration may, however, be given. It would not be reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry where the government servant, particularly through or together with his associates, so terrorizes, threatens or intimidate witnesses who are going to given evidence against him with fear of reprisal as to prevent them from doing so or where the government servant by himself or together with or through other threatens, intimidates and terrorizes the officer who is the disciplinary authority or member of his family so that he is afraid to hold the inquiry or direct it to be held. It would also not be reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry where an atmosphere of violence or of general indiscipline and insubordination prevails, and it is immaterial whether the concerned government servant is or is not a party to bringing about such an atmosphere. In this connection, we must bear in mind that numbers coerce and terrify while an individual may not. The reasonable practicability of holding an inquiry is a matter of assessment to be made by the disciplinary authority. Such authority is generally on the spot and knows what is happening. It is because the disciplinary authority is the best judge of this that clause(3) of Article 311 makes the decision of the disciplinary authority on this question final. A disciplinary authority is not expected to dispense with a disciplinary inquiry lightly or arbitrarily or out of ulterior motives or merely in order to avoid the holding of an inquiry or because the Department's case against the government servant is weak and must fail."

12. In the case of Jaswant Singh vs. State of Punjab and others, AIR (1991) 1 SCC 362, the Apex Court while dealing with the exercise of power as conferred by way of exception under Article 311 (2) (b) of the Constitution of India, opined as under:

"Clause (b) of the second proviso to Article 311 (2) can be invoked only when the authority is satisfied from the material placed before him that it is not reasonably practicable to hold a departmental enquiry. This is clear from the following observation at page 270 of Tulsiram Case: (SCC p.504, para 130)

A disciplinary authority is not expected to dispense with a disciplinary inquiry lightly or arbitrarily or out of ulterior motives or merely in order to avoid the holding of an inquiry or because the department's case against the government servant is weak and must fail.

The decision to dispense with the departmental enquiry cannot, therefore, be rested solely on the ipse dixit of the concerned authority. When the sanctification of the concerned authority is questioned in a court of law, it is incumbent on those who support the order to show that the satisfaction is based on certain objective facts and is not the outcome of the whim or caprice of the concerned officer."

13. In Reena Rani vs. State of Haryana, (2012) 10 SCC 215, after referring to the various authorities in the field, the Hon'ble Apex Court ruled out when reasons are not ascribed, the order is vitiated and accordingly set aside the order of dismissal which had been concurred with by the Single Judge and directed for reinstatement in service with all consequential benefits. It has also been observed therein that the order passed by this Court would not preclude the competent authority from taking action against the appellant/petitioner in accordance with law.

14. In the case of Risal Singh vs. State of Haryana and others, (2014) 13 SCC 244 the Hon'ble Apex Court Court observed as follows:

"Non-ascribing of reason while passing the order dispensing with enquiry, which otherwise was must, definitely invalidates such action.....

Tested on the touchstone of the aforesaid authorities, the irresistible conclusion is that the order passed by the Superintendent of Police dispensing with the inquiry is totally unsustainable and is hereby annulled. As the foundation founders, the order of the High Court giving the stamp of approval to the ultimate order without addressing the lis from a proper perspective is also indefensible and resultantly, the order of dismissal passed by the disciplinary authority has to pave the path of extinction"

15. From the perusal of judgements referred hereinabove, it is clear that order of termination cannot be passed without providing opportunity of hearing and further reasons have to be recorded by authority in writing as to why inquiry is not reasonably practicable while exercising the power under Rule 8(2)(b) of Rules 1991. In the case at hand, reasons recorded in the impugned order are not such on the basis of which it can be said that holding of inquiry was not reasonably practicable. Further Article 311(2)(b) of the Constitution of India postulates for extending reasonable opportunity to a civil servant before subjecting him to dismissal or removal from service or in the event of reduction in rank.

16. In view of the forgoing observations, this Court is of the view that the order impugned is contrary to the provisions of Rule 8(2)(b) of the Rules 1991 as well as Article 311(2)(b) of the Constitution of India and the same is not sustainable in the eye of law.

17. For the reasons recorded hereinabove the impugned order dated 07.08.2019 is hereby quashed. However, it would be open to the respondents to initiate disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner, if they so desire in accordance with the rules.

18. With aforesaid observation, the writ petition is allowed. No costs.

A. Fundamental Rules – Rule 9(21), 9(31) – Civil Service Regulation – Regulation 14, 18, 151 – Compulsory Retirement – Superannuation Pension – Increment – Determination – Employee becomes entitled for increment upon completion of six months or more of service in the past year i.e. naturally, services already rendered – Cutoff date of first July of any year indicated in the Government Order is only for the purposes of payment of the increment which has already fallen due – It is only recognition of a right which has already vested in an employee – Held, it is merely a fortuitous circumstance that the Government Servant has superannuated on the date when the increment, earned earlier, is to be actually paid – An employee becomes entitled for an increment upon completion of six months or more of service rendered in the past year. (Para 29, 35 and 41)

B. Service law – Increment – Ambit and Object – Increment is earned by a Government Servant for services rendered in the past year and the Government Servant becomes entitled to it on the concluding day of the year but it would actually become payable only from the next day – Actual payment of an increment earned during service is merely consequential to the actual act of earning the increment while in service. (Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Prashant Kumar Singh, learned counsel for petitioner, learned State Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no.1 and Mr. Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel appearing for opposite parties no.2 and 3.

2. Counter affidavit filed on behalf of opposite parties no.2 and 3 is taken on record.

3. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that he does not wish to file any rejoinder affidavit and the matter may be adjudicated on the basis of judgment applicable in the case.

4. Petition has been filed against the order dated 24.09.2020 whereby increment due to petitioner on 01.07.2010 has been denied on the ground that the petitioner is not entitled to the same since he was not in service on 01.07.2010, having superannuated on 30.06.2010.

5. Learned counsel for petitioner has submitted that petitioner was appointed in the cadre of Assistant Regional Manager (Operation) in the U.P. State Road Transport Corporation with effect from 17.11.1978 and subsequently attained superannuation on 30.06.2010. It is submitted that earlier with regard to following relief, petitioner had filed Writ Petition No.12390 (S/S) of 2020 in which this Court vide order dated 31.07.2020 had directed the concerned authority to decide petitioner's representation. In pursuance to the same, impugned order has been passed rejecting petitioner's representation.

6. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that the only ground for rejecting petitioner's representation is that the judgments referred to by the petitioner in his representation are inapplicable upon the Corporation since the Corporation is not a party to the said judgment.

7. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that as per the recommendations of Sixth Pay Commission, an increment in the salary of employees is to be provided on completion of Six month or more service rendered in the past year. It is submitted that once an employee had completed six months or more of service in the past year, he became entitled for increment in his salary, the actual payment of which was to be made on 01.07.2020. As such, it is submitted that the petitioner having completed six months and more of unblemished service for the year 2009-2010 became entitled for the same prior to superannuation and the actual payment of which only was to be made on 01.07.2010.

8. Learned counsel further submitted that the fact as to whether petitioner was in service as on 01.07.2010 or not is completely immaterial since the date of 01.07.2010 has been indicated in the recommendations of Sixth Pay Commission only for the purposes of actual payment/addition of the increment in view of services already rendered. As such the petitioner had accrued a right for increment prior to 01.07.2010 and therefore his not being in service on 01.07.2010 is immaterial.

9. Learned counsel has placed reliance on judgment and order dated 03.08.2011 passed in Writ Petition No.8440 of 2011 (M Balasubramaniam vs. State of Tamil Nadu & Ors) by the High Court of Judicature at Madras. He has also relied upon a Division Bench judgment of the same Court in the case of P. Ayyamperumal vs. The Registrar, Central Administrative Tribunal, Madras Bench, High Court in Writ Petition No.15732 of 2017.

10. Mr. Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite parties no.2 and 3 has refuted the submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner with the submission that increment as required to be added for completing year of service necessarily indicates addition in salary of an employee and not in the pension. It is submitted that since petitioner was not in service as on 01.07.2010, he was being paid only pension and not salary and therefore the provision in the Government Order would be inapplicable upon petitioner who was not actually in service as on 01.07.2010. Learned counsel has further submitted that in case such an increment is permitted for superannuated employee such as the petitioner, the effect of the same would be that such superannuated employee would be getting a pension that would be higher than their last pay drawn as salary. It is submitted that there is no such provision for including increment in the pension of superannuated employee. Learned counsel has submitted that paragraph 8 of the Government Order dated 08.12.2008 which forms the basis of petitioner's claim clearly indicates the said fact, which is applicable upon employees of the Corporation.

11. Upon consideration of material available on record and submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties, it is undisputed that petitioner was in the service of the Corporation and superannuated on 30.06.2010. It is also undisputed that the Government Order dated 08.12.2008 having the provision of increment is applicable upon employees of the Corporation.

12. The only question requiring adjudication is whether an employee superannuating prior to cut off date indicated in the Government Order i.e. first July of year would be entitled for increment or not ?

13. For determination of the aforesaid question, it would be appropriate to peruse the relevant rule regarding the same.

14. Fundamental Rules are core Rules governing all general conditions of service like pay, leave, deputation, retirement and dismissal, removal and suspension. All Central Government employees are governed by these Rules. If there are Special Rules governing a particular "service" and in event conflict with Fundamental Rules, Special Rules would prevail, for generalia specialibus non derogant.

15. Fundamental Rules 9(21) and 9(31) regarding pay and time scale of pay is as follows:-

9(21) "Pay" (a) Pay means the amount drawn monthly by a Government servant as-

(i) the pay, other than special pay or pay granted in view of his personal qualifications, which has been sanctioned for a post held by him substantively or in an officiating capacity, or to which he is entitled by reason of his position in a cadre; and

(ii) overseas pay, special pay and personal pay; and

(iii) any other emoluments which may be specially classed as pay by the President.

(b) Not printed.

(c) Not printed.

9(31) "Time-scale of pay"- (a) Time-scale of pay means pay which, subject to any condition prescribed in these rules, rises by periodical increments from a minimum to a maximum. It includes the class of pay hitherto known as progressive.

(b) Time-scales are to be identical if the minimum, the maximum, the period of increment and the rate of increment of the time-scales are identical.

(c) A post is said to be on the same time-scale as another post on a time-scale if the two time-scales are identical and the posts fall within a cadre, or a class in a cadre, such cadre or class having been created in order to fill all posts involving duties of approximately the same character or degree of responsibility, in a service or establishment or group of establishments, so that the pay of the holder of any particular post is determined by his position in the cadre or class and not by the fact that he holds that post.

16. Chapter-Ill of the Fundamental Rules contains "General conditions of service". Chapter-IV deals with "Pay" whereas Chapter-IX deals with "Retirement". Fundamental Rule 17 and Fundamental Rule 56 insofar as they are relevant read as under:

Fundamental Rule. 56. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this rule, every Government servant shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the month in which he attains the age of sixty years:

Provided that a Government servant whose date of birth is the first of a month shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the preceding month on attaining the age of sixty years.

Provided further that a Government servant who has attained the age of fifty-eight years on or before the first day of May, 1998 and is on extension in service, shall retire from the service on expiry of his extended period of service, or on the expiry of any further extension in service granted by the Central Government in public interest, provided that no such extension in service shall be granted beyond the age of 60 years.

(b) A workman who is governed by these rules shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the month in which he attains the age of sixty years.

17. Central Civil Services Pension Rules were promulgated in 1972 in exercise of power under proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution of India. These Rules, as mentioned earlier, in the absence of any legislation made by the Parliament of India under Article 309 of the Constitution of India, have force of law and all the principles of interpretation that are applicable to a statute would equally apply while interpreting these Rules. Indeed, as per Section 3 read with clauses (50) and (51) of Section 3 of General Clauses Act, 1897, the provisions thereof apply to Pension Rules also.

Rule 33-. Emoluments

The expression 'emoluments' means basic pay as defined in Rule 9(21)(a)(i) of the Fundamental Rules which a Government servant was receiving immediately before his retirement or on the date of his death; and will also include non-practising allowance granted to Medical Officer in lieu of private practice.

Explanation:- Stagnation increment shall be treated as emoluments for calculation of retirement benefits.

Note 1 - If a Government servant immediately before his retirement or death while in service had been absent from duty on leave for which leave salary is payable or having been suspended had been reinstated without forfeiture of service, the emoluments which he would have drawn had he not been absent from duty or suspended shall be the emoluments for the purposes of this rule:

Provided that any increase in pay (other than the increment referred to in Note 4) which is not actually drawn shall not form part of his emoluments.

Note 2 - Where a Government servant immediately before his retirement or death while in service had proceeded on leave for which leave salary is payable after having held a higher appointment, whether in an officiating or temporary capacity, the benefit of emoluments drawn in such higher appointment shall be given only if it is certified that the Government servant would have continued to hold the higher appointment but for his proceeding on leave.

Note 3 - If a Government servant immediately before his retirement or death while in service had been absent from duty on extraordinary leave or had been under suspension, the period whereof does not count as service, the emoluments which he drew immediately before proceeding on such leave or being placed under suspension shall be the emoluments for the purposes of this rule.

Note 4 - If a Government servant immediately before his retirement or death while in service, was on earned leave, and earned an increment which was not withheld, such increment, though not actually drawn, shall form part of his emoluments.

Provided that the increment was earned during the currency of the earned leave not exceeding one hundred and twenty days, or during the first one hundred and twenty days of earned leave where such leave was for more than one hundred and twenty days.

Note 5 - Deleted

Note 6 - Pay drawn by a Government servant while on deputation to the Armed Forces of India shall be treated as emoluments.

Note 7 - Pay drawn by a Government servant while on foreign service shall not be treated as emoluments, but the pay which he would have drawn under the Government had he not been on foreign service shall alone be treated as emoluments.

Note 8 - Where a pensioner who is re-employed in Government service elects in terms of Clause (a) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 18 or clause (a) of sub-rule (1) of Rule 19 to retain his pension for earlier service and whose pay on re-employment has been reduced by an amount not exceeding his pension, the element of pension by which his pay is reduced shall be treated as emoluments.

Note 9 - Deleted.

Note 10 - When a Government servant has been transferred to an autonomous body consequent on the conversion of a Department of the Government into such a body and the Government servant so transferred opts to retain the pensionary benefits under the rules of the Government, the emoluments drawn under the autonomous body shall be treated as emoluments for the purpose of this rule. (emphasis supplied.)

18. Here, we may also read Rule 5 of the Pension Rules:

5. Regulation of claims to pension or family pension :-(1) Any claim to pension or family pension shall be regulated by the provisions of these rules in force at the time when a Government servant retires or is retired or is discharged or is allowed to resign from service or dies, as the case may be.

(2) The day on which a Government servant retires or is retired or is discharged or is allowed to resign from service, as the case may be, shall be treated as his last working day. The date of death shall also be treated as a working day: Provided that in the case of a Government servant who is retired prematurely or who retires voluntarily under clauses (j) to (m) of Rule 56 of the Fundamental Rules or Rule 48 or Rule 48-A, as the case may be, the date of retirement shall be treated as a non-working day.

19. Regarding Fundamental Rule and Civil Service (CCA) Rule, it is a relevant fact that the Government of India Act, 1919 by virtue of Section 96B(2) empowered the Secretary of State for India to make Rules regarding conditions of service of Government Servant. It was in exercise of such power that the aforesaid rules were made. Prior to promulgation of Fundamental Rules, the Government of India made various Rules and Regulations in relation to service condition of government servant which were published as the Civil Service Regulation and continued to be applied after independence so far as they were not inconsistent with subsequent Rules made under Article 309 of the Constitution of India of the relevant statutes.

20. As per Article 14, when an officer is required to retire on attaining a specified age, the day on which he attains that age is reckoned as non-working day and the officer must retire with effect from and including that day. Article 18 defines "Calendar Month" and also gives examples for reckoning the period of six months beginning on 28th February, 31 March, 1 April etc. The last day on which thirty days is completed is taken as the completion of the period of the Calendar Month. Regulation 43 defines "Progressive Appointment" to mean as an appointment the pay of which is progressive, that is, pay which, subject to the good behaviour of an officer, rises, by periodical increments, from a minimum to a maximum. Articles 151 to 154 deal with accrual of increment and it would be better to read Articles 151 to 153.

21. Thus a person who gets progressive appointment would be entitled to a periodical rise in the pay subject to good behaviour and such increment accrues from the day following that on which it is earned. That is to say, a Government servant would get and draw increment after completion of one year. If the day for payment of annual increment is first of January, a Government servant would be entitled for annual increment on 31st December of that year, but the same would accrue only from First January of next year.

22. A Government servant, as per Rule 35, shall be granted superannuation pension on his attaining age of compulsory retirement. Such Government servant shall be paid pension based on the qualifying service and based on the average emoluments drawn during the last ten months of his service. For the purpose of qualifying service and calculating average emoluments, one has to look to Rule 5 and Rule 34 of the Pension Rules. Rule 5(2) mandates that the day on which a Government servant retires shall be treated as his last working day.

23. As per Article 151 of Civil Sservice Regulations, annual increment payable to a Government servant will accrue from the day following that day on which it is earned. The Government servant would get a right for annual increment only after conclusion of the year and therefore on the day when the increment falls due, it would not become payable, but it would become payable only from the next day.

24. Upon consideration of the aforesaid Rules, it is apparent that "pay' includes other emoluments which may be specially classed as pay. Fundamental Rules 56(a) indicates that every Government Servant shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the month in which he attains the age of 60 years. Proviso to the said Rule stipulates that a Government Servant whose date of birth is the first of a month shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the preceding month on attaining the age of superannuation.

25. Rule 33 of the Central Civil Services (pension) Rule defines the expression "emoluments' to mean basic pay as defined in Rule 9(21)(a)(i) of the Fundamental Rules, which the Government Servant was receiving immediately before his retirement or on the date of his death. The Proviso Note 1 of the said Rules imposes a bar in any increase in pay (other than the increment) referred to in Note 4 which is not actually drawn from forming a part of emoluments.

26. Note 4 states that in case a Government Servant immediately before his retirement or death while in service, was on earned leave, and earned an increment which was not withheld, shall form a part of his emoluments even if not actually drawn.

27. The aforesaid provision clearly indicates provision for increment forming the part of emolument even if not actually drawn although applicable only in case the Government Servant was on earned leave. However, the same does indicate the fact that such an increment can form a part of the emolument even after retirement.

28. Relevant provision to be considered is under Articles 151, 152 and 153 of the Fundamental Rules which have been quoted hereinabove and specifically stipulate that an increment accrues from the date following that on which it is earned. The said provision clearly elaborates the fact that accrual of increments pertains to actual payment and is to be made subsequent to the date on which it is earned. As such, the accrual of increment pertains only to actual payment of a benefit, which has been earned prior to its date of accrual.

29. Considering the aforesaid, particularly in view of Article 151 of the Fundamental Rules, it is apparent that first of July being the appointed date for accrual of increment merely implies actual payment of a benefit such as increment which has been earned prior to such appointed date.

30. It is admitted between learned counsel for parties that increment in terms of aforesaid Government Order is required to be paid to an employee upon completion of six months or more of services rendered in the past year. It is thus quite apparent that entitlement for increment to an employee accrues upon completion of six months or more service in the past year i.e. services already rendered. In terms of paragraph 8 of the aforesaid Government Order, the said fact is apparent that increment is to be paid for services already rendered. Thus, it is seen that the employee becomes entitled for increment upon completion of six months or more of service in the past year i.e. naturally, services already rendered. The cut off date of first July of any year indicated in the Government Order is only for the purposes of payment of the increment which has already fallen due. It is therefore only recognition of a right which has already vested in an employee.

31. The High Court of Judicature at Madras in the case of M Balasubramaniam vs. State of Tamil Nadu (supra) has dealt with the same issue on the following manner:-

".....It is equally important to state that there is no rule which stipulates that an employee must continue in service for being extended the benefits of the service already rendered by him.

32. A Division Bench of the same Court in the case P. Ayyamperumal vs. The Registrar, Central Administrative Tribunal has followed the aforesaid judgment. The matter was thereafter agitated before Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Special Leave Petition (Civil) Diary No.22283 of 2018 which vide order dated 23.07.2018 was dismissed on facts.

33. Learned counsel for petitioner has also placed reliance on decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in S. Banerjee. Vs. Union of India, reported in AIR 1990 Supreme Court 285. In the considered opinion of this Court, the said judgment would be inapplicable in the present case in view of different fact situation since in the aforesaid case, not only was the matter pertaining to dearness allowance but also in view of the fact that the applicant therein was in fact granted superannuation with effect from 01.01.1986 by specific order and therefore Hon'ble the Supreme Court held that since there was a clear direction that he would be deemed to have superannuated with effect from 01.01.1986, it could not be said that he had superannuated on 31.12.1985. In the present circumstance, the superannuation was actually a day before the date on which increment accrues.

34. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite parties has in turn placed reliance on a Full Bench judgment rendered by the High Court of Andhra Pradesh in the case of Principal Accountant General, Andra Pradesh & Another Vs. C. Subba Rao; reported in 2005(2) L.L.N. 592 with the submission that in the aforesaid Full Bench, it has been categorically held that since increment is an addition to pay, the same would be inapplicable in case of persons who have superannuated prior to the date of its accrual because on the date of accrual, a superannuated employee is not entitled to any salary or pay. The Full Bench has held that in order to be eligible for an increment falling due on the first of the succeeding month, an employee must satisfy not only the condition of becoming entitled but that he should continue to be on duty as a Government Servant since after superannuation on the last working day of the month, he ceases to be such a Government Servant.

35. Upon consideration of the aforesaid, Full Bench judgment, with utmost respect, this Court is unable to concur with the same. The learned Full Bench in the judgment itself has quoted Article 151 of the Civil Service Regulations with the observation that 'the Government Servant would get a right for annual increment only after conclusion of the year and therefore on the day when the increment falls due, it would not become payable, but it would become payable only from the next day.

36. In view of said Article 151 of Civil Service Regulations, it is apparent that the Full Bench also noticed the fact that the increment is earned by a Government Servant for services rendered in the past year and the Government Servant becomes entitled to it on the concluding day of the year but it would actually become payable only from the next day. The said observation also makes it clear that it is only the actual payment of the increment, which is to be made on the first of July of the year and has actually been earned by the Government Servant for the services rendered during the past year when he was in service. As such, the actual payment of an increment earned during service is merely consequential to the actual act of earning the increment while in service. It is merely a fortuitous circumstance that the Government Servant has superannuated on the date when the increment, earned earlier, is to be actually paid. It is also a relevant fact that the opposite parties have framed the U.P. State Transport Corporation Officers Service (General) Regulations 1998.

37. Regulation 3(n) has defined pay as an amount drawn monthly as follow:-

(n) "Pay" means amount drawn monthly by an officer as-

(i) basic any sanctioned for the post;

(ii) special pay or personal pay;

(iii) any other emoluments which may be specially classed as pay by the Board. It does not include dearness allowance, travelling allowance and other allowances;

38. Annual increment has been defined in Regulation 9 of the Regulation is as follow:

9. Annual increment*.- (1) (a) An annual increment may be allowed to an officer in accordance with the provisions of sub-regulation (2) at the rate as shown in the scales of pay admissible to the officer concerned unless the increment has been withheld as a disciplinary measure or at the Efficiency Bar.*

(b)All the officers will be granted increment on the first day of the month in which the increment falls due.

(c) If probation is extended, such extension will not count for increment, unless the Appointing Authority directs otherwise.

(d) An officer who has remained off duty on extraordinary leave, study leave or any other such similar leave, the date of increment shall correspondingly be shifted and the period of such leave shall not be counted for the purposes of increment. An officer who officiates in a higher post or in a higher time scale of pay shall be eligible to count for increments the period spent by him on such higher post or higher time scale of pay in his lower post when reverted to that post or time scale of pay.

(2) To reward an officer for excellent performance and in order to motivate him for continuous excellent performance, the Board may grant premature increments subject to a maximum of three to an officer in the time scale of pay.

39. The aforesaid provisions in the Service Regulations are inconsonance with the Fundamental Rules and the Civil Service Regulation and clearly indicate the fact that increment is earned/allowed to an officer for services rendered by him in the past year.

40. The condition and procedure for applicability of increment has been made in the Government Order dated 08.12.2008, which has been adopted by the Corporation.

41. A perusal of paragraph 8 of the Government Order dated 08.12.2008 does not indicate any such condition that increment is to be paid only in case the employee is in service as on First July of the year. Once the authorities concerned have not indicated any such factor in the Government Order, it is not for this Court to construe such a meaning in the Government Order, which has deliberately been omitted.

42. In view of aforesaid, it is quite apparent that an employee becomes entitled for an increment upon completion of six months or more of service rendered in the past year.

43. It is also to be noticed that the impugned order has been passed only on the basis of that judgments passed by the High Court at Madras and by Hon'ble the Supreme Court are inapplicable because, the Corporation was not a party in those proceedings. It is settled law that it is the ratio decidendi which is applicable with regard to any lis and not as to the party in the dispute. The authority concerned should have appreciated that the present dispute is the same as was being agitated before High Court at Madras and there is no distinction whatsoever. However, this aspect has been lost sight of while passing the impugned order.

44. So far as the submission of learned counsel for opposite party is concerned that granting relief as has been sought by the petitioner would imply that pension of an employee would be more than the last pay drawn does not appear to be reasonable in view of fact that even if such an increment is allowed, the immediate effect will be on the last pay drawn only with consequential effect upon the pension of superannuated employee. Therefore it cannot be said that in case of allowing such an increment, the pensionary benefits of an employee would be more than the last pay drawn.

45. Upon consideration of aforesaid factors, the writ petition is liable to succeed and therefore writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the impugned order dated 24.09.2020. A further writ in the nature Mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties no.2 and 3 to grant increment due to petitioner on 01.7.2010 with all consequential benefits.

46. Orders pertaining to same and actual payment thereof shall be made within a period of six months from the date a copy of this order is produced before concerned authority.

47. Consequently, the writ petition stands allowed.

3. Admit.

4. Heard forthwith.

5. Heard Mr. Manu Saxena, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Satendra Kumar Upadhyay, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent nos.1 and 6. No one appears on behalf of respondent nos.2 and 3, though the name of Mr. Devendra Kumar, learned Counsel, is shown on behalf of the said respondents.

6. The petitioner was appointed as a Tax Collector with the Nagar Panchayat, Jewar, District Gautam Budh Nagar. He was suspended pending inquiry by the Executive Officer, vide order dated 20.04.2012. The allegations indicate that there were, in the receipts relating to levies on sale of animals in the cattle fair, many irregularities found. It was indicated that in a number of receipts, the number of cattle and the sum of money collected have been tampered with. The petitioner was charged prima facie with tampering official record to commit embezzlement and placed under suspension, as aforesaid. A charge sheet was issued to the petitioner on 22.06.2012, to which he submitted his reply on 07.10.2012. An inquiry report was submitted in the matter on 17.01.2013 by the Inquiry Officer/ Naib Tehsildar. The Inquiry Officer found that the petitioner had embezzled a sum of Rs.87,370/-, but since that money was deposited in the Nagar Panchayat Account, the Inquiry Officer thought that no charge survived against the petitioner. The forwarding note of the office to the Executive Officer shows that the petitioner was recommended to be reinstated in service, with a warning not to repeat his misconduct.

7. It must be remarked that the inquiry report was considered by the Disciplinary Authority/ the Executive Officer, who held the petitioner not guilty of embezzlement, but held him guilty of charges of tampering official records and not depositing Government moneys in accordance with rules. The petitioner was reinstated in service with a warning not to repeat such a mistake in future. He was also awarded an adverse entry. This order of reinstatement with a minor punishment was made by the Executive Officer on 16.02.2013.

8. Post reinstatement in service, the petitioner was given charge of a Tax Collector. He was assigned duties at different places from time to time. Despite reinstatement, the petitioner was neither paid salary for the period during which he was suspended from service nor his subsistence allowance. These were not paid, though he was reinstated in service. It appears that post reinstatement also, the petitioner's salary was not paid. The petitioner made a number of representations in this regard to the Nagar Panchayat, but to no avail. Still, the Executive Officer appears to have written a letter addressed to the Chairman dated 13.01.2014, apprising the latter that the petitioner has been reinstated in service with the imposition of a minor punishment, and that there was no justification to withhold his salary. It does appear from this letter that there was some issue raised by the Chairman about the jurisdiction of the Executive Officer to pass final orders in the disciplinary proceedings. The Executive Officer cited the provisions of Sections 74, 75 and 76 of the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1916 to say that he had powers to dispose of the disciplinary proceedings against an employee of the petitioner's cadre.

9. The course of proceedings show that the Chairman of the Nagar Panchayat and the Executive officer were not ad idem about the disciplinary proceedings initiated against the petitioner and concluded by the Executive Officer's order dated 16.02.2013. Upon receipt of the memo dated 13.01.2014 from the Executive Officer, the Chairman ordered an inquiry afresh to be done by one Mohan Lal Gupta, an Officer of the Nagar Panchayat. He submitted a short report dated 22.04.2014, saying that about the added charge of threat to commit suicide by the petitioner, there was no evidence and so far as the other charges were concerned, these had already been inquired into and the disciplinary proceedings concluded against the petitioner. It is also indicated in this report that the Chairman was the Disciplinary Authority relating to employees of the clerical cadre and still higher cadres. This remark in the inquiry report dated 22.04.2014 is further reflective of some issue between the Chairman and the Executive Officer, about the disciplinary jurisdiction over an employee of the petitioner's cadre.

10. It is alleged by the petitioner that the Chairman, on receipt of this report, sent one Vikas Sharma, a member of the Nagar Panchayat, from Ward no.16 to the Nagar Panchayat Office, with instructions to secure the entire record relating to disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner. The member concerned had instructions from the Chairman to remove the record of the disciplinary proceedings away from the Nagar Panchayat Campus. It is claimed that the member concerned forcefully took away the entire record of the disciplinary proceedings, relating to the petitioner, on 09.05.2014 at about 10 O' clock in the morning. A report in this connection was immediately submitted by the Clerk to the Executive Officer on 09.05.2014. The petitioner also reported the matter to the Executive Officer on 09.05.2014. A First Information Report was lodged by the Executive Officer on 09.05.2014 with Police Station Kotwali Jewar, District Gautam Budh Nagar. It, however, does not appear from the record that the written information sent vide memo no. 198/3/ न.प.जे./ 2014, dated 09.05.2014, led to the registration of a crime.

11. It is asserted that this action of the Executive Officer enraged and annoyed the Chairman of the Nagar Panchayat to the extent that he set aside the petitioner's reinstatement order dated 16.02.2013 and ordered revival of his earlier suspension order dated 20.04.2012. This order was passed by the Chairman on 30.05.2014. In consequence, disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner stood revived. The petitioner says that this revival was without jurisdiction. Nevertheless, another inquiry report was submitted on 23.06.2014, followed by a further report dated 24.06.2014, both undertaken by Vikas Sharma, the member of the Nagar Panchayat, detailed by the Chairman to remove the disciplinary proceedings' record from the Nagar Panchayat premises, earlier. Based on these two inquiry reports dated 23.06.2014 and 24.06.2014, a show cause notice dated 26.06.2014 was issued to the petitioner by the Chairman of the Nagar Panchayat.

12. The show cause notice details some five charges against the petitioner, four of which did not figure in the charge sheet issued to him. The petitioner filed a reply to the show cause on 05.07.2014. Post submission of the petitioner's reply to the show cause notice, the Inquiry Officer, Mohal Lal Gupta, who had submitted the first inquiry report dated 11.02.2013, substantially exonerating the petitioner, submitted a fresh inquiry report. It is claimed by the petitioner that this report was made by Mohan Lal Gupta under coercion and undue influence by the Chairman. This report runs contrary to the earlier inquiry report dated 11.02.2013 authored by Gupta himself. The inquiry report dated 07.07.2014 holds the petitioner guilty.

13. It must be remarked here that the inquiry report dated 07.07.2014 is more of an office appraisal note about the inquiry reports submitted against the petitioner (without mentioning the dates of those reports). This report dated 07.07.2014 also certifies the fact that it is the Chairman, who is the competent Disciplinary and Appointing Authority, vis-a-vis an employee of the petitioner's cadre. This report/ office note also recommends that it is not in the Nagar Panchayat's interest for the petitioner to continue in service.

14. The Chairman, by his order dated 08.07.2014, terminated the petitioner's services. The petitioner filed an appeal from the termination order dated 08.07.2014 to the Divisional Commissioner, under Section 77 of the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1916. The Commissioner found that the procedure adopted by the Chairman was utterly flawed, where no proper charge sheet was issued to the petitioner. It was also found that a three member inquiry committee report dated 24.06.2014, that dealt with the charges against the petitioner, was not provided to the petitioner. It was also held that the Chairman was not the petitioner's Appointing Authority, but the jurisdiction vested with the Executive Officer, under the provisions of Sections 74 and 75 of the Act of 1916. The order of the Chairman terminating the petitioner's services dated 08.07.2014 was, therefore, held to be without jurisdiction and the product of an essentially flawed procedure. The petitioner's appeal was allowed by the Commissioner vide order dated 30.09.2014, setting aside the order dated 08.07.2014, terminating the petitioner's services. It was further ordered that in case some embezzlement or other misconduct had been committed by the petitioner, the competent Authority can place him under suspension, after issuing him with a charge sheet, and conclude the disciplinary proceedings in accordance with rules.

15. In compliance with the aforesaid orders, the petitioner was reinstated in service. However, taking a cue from the liberty given by the Commissioner to proceed afresh, the petitioner was promptly placed under suspension pending inquiry, once more. The suspension order was passed by the Executive Officer, indicating added charges, apart from the claimed embezzlement. A charge about the issue of a death certificate after accepting a bribe of Rs.200/-, a charge about threat to commit suicide, a charge about misbehaving with a clerk followed by an "et cetera', were included. This suspension order was followed by a charge sheet dated 22.12.2014. This charge sheet carries six charges. The petitioner filed his reply to the said charge sheet on 02.01.2015.

16. It is the petitioner's case that post submission of his reply, no inquiry was convened. He was not intimated of any date, time or venue of inquiry. He was not shown any documents, on which the establishment relied to prove the charges, or permitted to cross-examine witnesses. In fact, no witness was examined in support of the charges. It is the petitioner's case that entire disciplinary proceedings were held and concluded behind his back, for whatever these were. The impugned order of termination from service was passed on 14.05.2015, with no inquiry ever being held to prove the charges, on which it was founded. It is claimed that the entire disciplinary proceedings culminating in the impugned order have been undertaken in utter violation of the principles of natural justice.

17. It is argued by Mr. Manu Saxena, learned Counsel for the petitioner, that the impugned order is one that has been passed without following the prescribed procedure for holding a disciplinary inquiry or adhering to the essentials of such an inquiry, like fixing a date, time and place with intimation to the petitioner. These vitiate that order. Apart from it, the impugned order has been assailed as a product of the then incumbent Chairman's mala fides, who has virtually scripted an outcome on a premeditated basis.

18. This Court has looked into the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Nagar Panchayat and the Executive Officer, arrayed as respondent nos.3 and 2, respectively, in that order. This Court notices that there is a plea raised in paragraph no.27 of the counter affidavit that the present challenge laid to the impugned order of termination of service is rendered meaningless, because pendente lite the petitioner has instituted Writ - A No.46921 of 2015 with a solitary prayer that the petitioner may be paid the entire arrears of his salary. That writ petition was dismissed vide order dated 27.10.2015, because the entire arrears of the petitioner's salary were paid in the meanwhile. In order to examine the effect of institution of Writ - A No.46921 of 2015 by the petitioner on the cause of action involved in the present writ petition, this Court called for the papers of the decided case and perused the same. A perusal of the said writ petition shows that the cause of action there is quite unrelated to that involved in the present writ petition, though there are assertions of a similar kind, assailing the procedure of disciplinary proceedings undertaken against the petitioner and the unfair manner in which he was suspended and terminated from service. The cause of action is confined entirely to three heads of dues of the petitioner, to which he would be entitled, irrespective of the impugned order of termination. The reliefs claimed in Writ - A No.46921 of 2015 would be the best evidence about the unrelated and limited cause of action there. The material reliefs, sought in Writ - A No.46921 of 2015, read:

"A. issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus, commanding the respondents to pay the entire salary of the petitioner w.e.f. April-2012 till October-2014 along with interest thereon @ 18% per annum, within time specified by this Hon'ble Court.

B. issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus, commanding the respondents to pay the suspension allowance w.e.f. November-2014 till 14.05.2015 along with interest thereon @ 18% per annum, within time specified by this Hon'ble Court.

C. issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus, commanding the respondents to pay the suspension allowance w.e.f. November-2014 till 14.05.2015 along with interest thereon @ 18% per annum, within time specified by this Hon'ble Court."

19. Paragraph no.24 of the writ petition last mentioned discloses the fact of institution of the present writ petition and its pendency. It has been clearly disclosed, what reliefs have been sought here, somuch so that the petitioner has appended as Annexure no.19, a copy of the array of parties here, the relief clause and the order made on 09.07.2015 by the Court, while entertaining the writ petition and a further order dated 04.08.2015.

20. This Court is, therefore, of opinion that the cause of action involved in the present writ petition is distinct and different from that involved in Writ - A No.46921 of 2015, which had very limited office. The institution of Writ - A No.46921 of 2015 or its eventual dismissal as infructuous vide order dated 27.10.2015, have no bearing on the petitioner's right involved in the present petition.

21. Now, turning to the thrust of Mr. Manu Saxena's submission, the specific case pleaded is that post a third round of suspension and redone disciplinary proceedings, no inquiry, whatsoever, was held after the petitioner submitted his reply to the charge sheet. No date, time and venue of inquiry were determined or the petitioner intimated about it. The impugned order was passed on a mere perusal of papers, based on the report of the inquiry committee, which did nothing more than looking into the charge sheet and the petitioner's reply, or at best, perusing some records in the petitioner's absence. No witnesses were examined on behalf of the establishment before the inquiry committee, or any documentary evidence properly led and proved. This Court notices that this submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner is based on specific averments made in paragraph nos.20 and 21 of the writ petition, relative to which Grounds "Q' and "R' have been raised.

22. A perusal of the counter affidavit shows that the assertion in paragraph nos.20 and 21 of the writ petition have not been specifically denied, with pleadings to show, along with material, that a date, time and place for inquiry were fixed and intimated to the petitioner. Paragraph nos.20 and 21 of the writ petition have been answered in paragraph no.29 of the counter affidavit, that carries no denial, whatsoever, about those specific assertions in the writ petition. This Court also finds that whatever of the record has been enclosed with the counter affidavit, does not evidence an inquiry being held with a date, time and place intimated to the petitioner. A perusal of the inquiry report dated 12.05.2015, annexed as Annexure no. CA-15, also does not show that anyone on behalf of the establishment appeared before the inquiry committee to lead evidence in support of the charges.

23. It is, by now, the settled position of law that even if an employee does not appear before the Inquiry Tribunal/ Committee, the charges do not stand proved by the delinquent's default. These cannot be proved by the inquiry committee, going through the record of their own. The establishment have to lead, both documentary evidence and examine witnesses in support of the charges. The charges have to be established by the establishment, even if the delinquent is ex parte. If the employee appears, he has a right not only to cross-examine witnesses, who appear on behalf of the establishment, but also to lead his own evidence - both documentary and oral. Apart from that, it is also, by now, an acknowledged principle of law that in cases involving major punishment, parole evidence ought to be led to establish the charges. A perusal of the inquiry report in this case shows that no such procedure has been adopted. The inquiry committee has perused the charge sheet, the petitioner's reply and the documents annexed to the charge sheet of its own. No evidence before them has been led on behalf of the establishment, with the documents being proved or witnesses being examined. The inquiry committee has proceeded to accept the charges by surreptitiously rejecting the petitioner's reply to each of them, with no evidence before them to prove the charges.

24. The first, second and fifth charges have not been held to be proved. Therefore, those need not be looked into. The third charge has been held proved, which relates to an embezzlement of a sum of Rs.11,000/-. The charge has been held proved on an inquisitorial examination of the Bank Account entries relied on by the establishment, with no witness from the Accounts Department of the Nagar Panchayat or otherwise In-charge of handling the Accounts to prove in what manner the entries precisely prove the charge about embezzlement. The entire finding has been recorded without any evidence being led before the inquiry committee.

25. The fourth charge relates to a threat by the petitioner to commit suicide. The finding has again been recorded upon a reading of the charge, the petitioner's reply and pre-recorded statements of some employees and members of the Nagar Panchayat about an event dated 17.02.2014, when the meeting of the Board was in progress. None of the employees or members of the Nagar Panchayat, who witnessed the alleged threat, were examined by the establishment in support of the charge. Still, the charge was held partly proved.

26. The sixth charge relates to the petitioner not constructing the demand book relating to tax or making efforts to realize the assessed tax. The charge has been held proved on a perusal of the petitioner's reply and documents on record before the inquiry committee. It has been held that from time to time, directions have been given to the petitioner to secure assessment of house tax and to recover the same in accordance with the Board's resolutions and applicable bylaws, but he has not shown any interest in that regard. Whatever tax he has recovered, is negligible. The demand has not been properly drawn. This charge would require the oral evidence of those officers and employees, who directed the petitioner to ensure assessment and effect recovery of taxes. There was much detail to be proved on the basis of evidence, both oral and documentary, to be led on behalf of the establishment. Nothing of the kind was done. The inquiry committee, instead recorded a finding of guilt on the sixth charge, on a mere perusal of papers that can hardly be called evidence, properly led and proved to establish the charge.

27. Here, it would be relevant to refer to the law regarding the essential requirements of holding a disciplinary inquiry, where charges are serious and imposition of major punishment is involved. In this connection, reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Chamoli District Co-operative

Bank Ltd. Through its Secretary/ Mahaprabandhak and another vs. Raghunath Singh Rana and others, (2016) 12 SCC 204. In Chamoli District Co-operative Bank Ltd. Through its Secretary, it has been held:

"22. From the propositions of law, as enunciated by the Apex Court as noted above, and the facts of the present case, we arrive at the following conclusions:

22.1. After service of charge-sheet dated 16-1-1993 although the petitioner submitted his reply on 4-2-1993 but neither inquiry officer fixed any date of oral inquiry nor any inquiry was held by the inquiry officer.

22.2. Mandatory requirement of a disciplinary inquiry i.e. is holding of an inquiry when the charges are refuted and serving the inquiry report to the delinquent has been breached in the present case.

22.3. Respondent 1 employee having not been given opportunity to produce his witnesses in his defence and having not been given an opportunity of being heard in person, the statutory provisions as enshrined in Regulation 85(i)(b), have been violated.

22.4. The disciplinary authority issued show-cause notice dated 4-5-1993 to Respondent 1 employee without holding of an inquiry and subsequent resolution by disciplinary authority taken in the year 2000 without there being any further steps is clearly unsustainable. The High Court has rightly quashed the dismissal order by giving liberty to the Bank to hold de novo inquiry within a period of six months, if it so desires.

22.5. The Bank shall be at liberty to proceed with the disciplinary inquiry as per directions of the High Court in para 1 of the judgment. The High Court has already held that the petitioner shall be deemed to be under suspension and shall be paid suspension allowance in accordance with the rules."

28. In State of U.P. and others vs. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, it has been held:

"27. A bare perusal of the aforesaid sub-rule shows that when the respondent had failed to submit the explanation to the charge-sheet it was incumbent upon the inquiry officer to fix a date for his appearance in the inquiry. It is only in a case when the government servant despite notice of the date fixed failed to appear that the inquiry officer can proceed with the inquiry ex parte. Even in such circumstances it is incumbent on the inquiry officer to record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet. Since the government servant is absent, he would clearly lose the benefit of cross-examination of the witnesses. But nonetheless in order to establish the charges the Department is required to produce the necessary evidence before the inquiry officer. This is so as to avoid the charge that the inquiry officer has acted as a prosecutor as well as a judge.

28. An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/ disciplinary authority/ Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents.

(Emphasis by Court)"

29. This position of law was echoed by a Division Bench of this Court in State of U.P. vs. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB) (LB). In State of U.P. vs. Aditya Prasad Srivastava, it has been held by their Lordships of the Division Bench:

"17. It is trite law that the departmental proceedings are quasi judicial proceedings. The Inquiry Officer functions as quasi judicial officer. He is not merely a representative of the department. He has to act as an independent and impartial officer to find out the truth. The major punishment awarded to an employee visit serious civil consequences and as such the departmental proceedings ought to be in conformity with the principles of natural justice. Even if, an employee prefers not to participate in enquiry the department has to establish the charge against the eployee by adducing oral as well as documentary evidence. In case charges warrant major punishment then the oral evidence by producing the witnesses is necessary.

(Emphasis by Court)"

30. There are some very pertinent remarks in a Division Bench decision of this Court, sitting at Lucknow in Smt. Karuna Jaiswal vs. State Of U.P. Through Secy Mahila Evam Bal Vikas, 2018 (9) ADJ 107 (DB) (LB) relevant to the issue here. It was a case where the inquiry was held ex parte, but the petitioner was not intimated of the date, time and place of inquiry, nor oral evidence was led. It was held in Smt. Karuna Jaiswal thus:

"14. It is also equally relevant and significant to notice in this case that though the petitioner failed to submit her reply to the charge-sheet, however, the Enquiry Officer did not fix any date, time and place for oral enquiry. It is settled principle that even in a situation where the delinquent officer/employee does not submit reply to the charge-sheet, the Enquiry Officer still needs to prove the charges on the basis of material and evidence available on record and for the said purpose he needs to fix and intimate to the charged officer, the date, time and place for oral enquiry.

15. The law in this regard is very well settled and does not need a reiteration, however, we may refer to a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh and others vs. Saroj Kumar Sinha, reported in [(2010) 2 SCC 772], wherein it has clearly been held that Enquiry Officer acts as a quasi judicial authority and his position is that of an independent adjudicator and further that he cannot act as a representative of the department or disciplinary authority and further that he cannot act as a prosecutor neither he should act as a judge; his function is to examine the evidence presented by the department and even in the absence of the delinquent officer, has to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to bring home the charges.

16. Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held in the said judgment of Saroj Kumar Sinha (supra) that it is only in case when the government servant, despite notice, fails to appear during the course of enquiry that Enquiry Officer can proceed ex-parte and even in such circumstances it is incumbent upon the Enquiry Officer to record the statement of witness.

17. In the instant case, no oral enquiry was held, neither the petitioner was given any notice to participate in any oral enquiry by fixing date, time and place for oral enquiry. It is only that the Enquiry Officer after noticing that despite sufficient time having been given to the petitioner, she did not furnish her reply to the charge-sheet, he proceeded to submit ex-parte report without conducting any oral enquiry by fixing date, time and place for such an oral enquiry. Accordingly, the Enquiry Officer, in this case, has violated the aforesaid principles, which clearly vitiates the enquiry proceedings and any punishment order based on such a vitiated enquiry, is clearly not sustainable."

31. There is sterling guidance on this issue to be found in the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Roop Singh Negi vs. Punjab National Bank and others, (2009) 2 SCC 570, where it has been held:

"14. Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

32. In the present case, it appears without cavil, that the documents that were considered, were not proved by any evidence, particularly, parole evidence. The documents, which the inquiry committee took into consideration, were, therefore, idle papers, but not documentary evidence. Those papers had to be galvanized through a well-ordered presentation and proof, before the inquiry to be done by the establishment. Nothing of the kind was done.

33. In view of what this Court has found and the way the law bears on the issue, the impugned order dated 14.05.2015 cannot be sustained. At the same time, the impugned order, being one that is held to be bad on account of an utterly flawed procedure adopted to hold disciplinary proceedings, liberty to the respondents to proceed afresh ought not to be denied in the event they desire to proceed afresh.

34. In case, the respondents do elect to proceed afresh, they would be at liberty to do so from the stage where the charge-sheet dated 22.12.2014 was served upon the petitioner and he submitted the reply dated 02.01.2015. All subsequent proceedings would stand effaced, including the impugned order of termination of services. It is also required to be stipulated that ever if the respondents choose to proceed afresh, the petitioner shall be forthwith reinstated in service and paid all arrears of salary due upto date (excluding whatever the petitioner has already received). Also, considering the manner in which the proceedings have taken course in this case, this Court thinks that if the petitioner were to be proceeded with against afresh at all, he ought not be placed under suspension pending inquiry any more.

35. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed with costs. The impugned order dated 14.05.2015 passed by the Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, Jewar, District Gautam Budh Nagar, terminating the petitioner's services, is hereby quashed. The respondents - the Executive Officer, Nagar Panchaway, Jewar, District Gautam Budh Nagar and the Chairman, Nagar Panchayat, Jewar, District Gautam Budh Nagar, are ordered to reinstate the petitioner in service forthwith, with all consequential benefits, including continuity of service and arrears of salary. In computing the arrears of salary due to the petitioners, the emoluments that the petitioner has already received, shall be adjusted. It will be open to the respondent, Nagar Panchayat and their various officers, if they so desire, to proceed afresh with the departmental proceedings against the petitioner. If the respondents proceed afresh, they would do so from the stage of the charge-sheet dated 22.12.2014 and its reply dated 02.01.2015 submitted by the petitioner; all subsequent proceedings shall stand effaced. In the peculiar facts and circumstances, in the event the respondents choose to proceed afresh, they will do so after reinstating the petitioner and paying all his due emoluments, but shall not place him under suspension pending inquiry.

36. Let this order be communicated to the Chairman and the Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, Jewar, District Gautam Budh Nagar, through the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Budh Nagar by the Joint Registrar (Compliance).

A. Civil Law – Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 - Sections 9, 11(1), 48 - U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules, 1954 - Rule 109 - U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act - Section 229B - Application for Amal Daramad -Bereft of reasons, the decision is inherently arbitrary - It is well known that "conclusions" and "reasons" are two different things and reasons must show mental exercise of authorities in arriving at a particular conclusion.

It is trite to say for a legal principle that an order passed by any judicial or quasi-judicial Authority, or for that matter even Administrative Authorities, where rights of parties are decided ought to disclose reasons for the decisions reached. As is often said, reasons are the soul and heart of a decision and convey to the persons affected, as also a superior Authority or a Superior Court, the considerations that have weighed with the decision maker in arriving at his conclusions. On howsoever good and valid consideration a decision may have been rendered, the absence of reasons would make it foul of Article 14 of the Constitution. (Para 14 to 16)

Court observed that the matter has been pending consideration before the authorities from last about 50 years, therefore concluded that, no useful purpose will be served in remitting the matter back before the authorities and allowed the application submitted by the petitioner u/Rule 109, directing the authorities to make the necessary Amal Daramad in the revenue record within a period of two months from the date of presentation of the copy of the order.

Writ Petition allowed. (E-3)

Present petition assails the order dated 30.11.2016, passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard Sri S. Rashid, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondent Nos.1 to 4.

2. The petitioner has preferred the present writ petition inter-alia with the prayer to quash the order dated 30.11.2016 passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh in Revision No.100 under Section 48 of the Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1953") with further prayer to allow the application filed by the petitioner under Rule 109 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules, 1954 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 1954).

3. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that plot No.228 area 2-0000 acres, 235/2 area 1-205 Kadi and 237 area 1.640 Kadi in the name of the petitioner as well as his brother namely Sri Sikandar, The aforesaid lands were recorded in the revenue records as Sirdar. After the death of the brother of the petitioner, the name of his legal heirs were duly substituted in the revenue records.

4. An objection under Section 9 of the Act, 1953 was moved by one Riyaz and others. The aforesaid objection was decided by the Consolidation Officer vide his order dated 16.12.1971 directing that the name of the petitioner and his brother be struck off from the revenue records and the name of Gaon Sabha be recorded over plots in question. The petitioner as well as aforesaid Riyaz and Sohrab have preferred appeals under Section 11(1) of the Act, 1953 before the Consolidation Officer being Appeal Nos.842, 843 and 934 (Sibtulain Khan Vs. Goan Sabha, Village Bairedih). The Settlement Officer Consolidation vide its order dated 31.07.1972 allowed the appeal filed by the petitioner and dismissed the other two appeals filed by Riyaz and Sohrab and directions were given by him that the name of the petitioner and his brother Sikandar be restored as it was recorded earlier. Against the aforesaid orders, revisions were preferred by Sri Riyaz and Sohrab and Gaon Sabha before the Deputy Director of Consolidation. The Deputy Director of Consolidation vide order dated 25.08.1972 remained back the matter before the Consolidation Officer.

5. Against the aforesaid order dated 25.08.1972 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, the petitioner preferred a writ petition being Writ Petition No.7637 of 1973 (Sibtul Ain Khan and others Vs. Assistant Director of Consolidation Azamgarh and others). The aforesaid writ petition was finally allowed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide its judgment and order dated 12.09.1979. The order passed in the aforesaid writ petition is reproduced below:-

"This writ petition is directed against the judgment of the Assistant Director of Consideration, Azamgarh dated 25.3.73 whereby the Revision petitions filed against the petitioners were allowed.

It is noteworthy that the petitioners claim in the disputed land was recognized by the appellate authority on the basis of an ex-parte decree in favour of the petitioners. The revisional court has dealt with the claims of the parties in the following words:-

"PAKSHON KI BAHAS SUNI GAI TATHA SAKSHYA KA SATARKATA PURVAK AVLOKAN KIYA GAYA. PATRAWALI PAR UPLABDH SAKSHYA SE YAH PRATIT HOTA HAI KI 1368F. KE KHASRE TATHA 1376F. KUCH BATAJAT MEN SADAK BHI DIKHY GAI HAI, PAKSHO KE BICH TATHA GAON SABHA KE BICH KUKAD ..... HAI PARANTU AISA PRATIT HOTA HAI KI KISI ASTAR PAR MAUKA MAUANA NAHIN KIYA GAYA JISASE YAH ISPASHT HO PATA KI VIVADHAST BHOOMI MEN KHETI KI JATI HAI TO KITNA KHESTRAPHAL MEN IN NIRNIYON KE NIRNAY LIYE UKTA PRACHHA KE IRNAYA KA HONA ATYANT AWASHYAK HAI. CHUNKI IS PRASHNA KA NIRNAYA APNISTHA NYAYALAYON PARA NAHI DIYA GAYA HAI ATAH UKTA NIRNAYA VIDHASTAR SAHI NAHI PRATIT HOTA 1968 R.D. PRISTH SAN 337, 1969 A.L.J. 88 882 TATHA 1969 D, 30KI SANKAREH BHI DIYA SAY PARANTU JAB TAK YAH KA SUKISHCHIT KAR LIYA JAI KI VADGRAST BHOMI MEN KHETI KI JATI HAI ATHWA NAHIN TAB TAK MUKADMEN KA ATRANIYA UNCHIT KAHIN PRATIT HOTA ATAH ADHNASTH NYAYALAY ONKA NIRNAYA NIRAST KIYA JATA HAI, NIGPARNIYAN SWIKAR KI JATI HAI...."

From the above question, it appears that the revisional court is under impression that unless the nature of the disputed land is ascertained it cannot be effectively decided as to whether the present petitioners are Sirdars of the land in question or not. I think the approach of the revisional court is patently erroneous. So long as the exparte decree in favour of the petitioners in respect of the dispute land stands the consolidation authorities have no jurisdiction to go beyond the exparte decree. Before the point is disputed whether the exparte decree has been not aside or not. However, it is not necessary for me to express any final opinion on that question as, I think that the impugned judgement of the Assistant Director of Consolation should be quashed and he should be asked to reconsider the claim of the contesting parties in accordance with law. It would be open to the parties to satisfy the revisional court as to whether the exparte decree relied upon by the present petitioners and accepted by the appellate authority holds good or not.

For the reasons given above, the writ petition succeeds and the impugned judgement of the Assistant Director of Consolation dated 25.08.1973 is hereby quashed and the Assistant Director of Consolation is directed to rehear the revision petitioners against the petitioners. Parties are directed to hear their own costs."

6. Pursuant to the order passed by this Court in the aforesaid writ petition, the matter was placed before the Deputy Director Consolidation which was dismissed by him vide order dated 10.09.1987 and thereafter, the restoration application filed by Riyaz and Sohrab which was also dismissed.

7. It is argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the order dated 31.07.1972 passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolation has attained finality, thereafter, the petitioner submitted an application for Amal Daramad before the Assistant Consolation Officer. The Consolation Officer, on 08.03.1998 has made a reference and forwarded it along with report of A.C.O. dated 27.05.1997 before the Assistant Consolation Officer, Azamgarh for its approval. The Consolation Officer on 29.06.2001 also submitted its report under Section 109 of the Act, 1953 along with all relevant documents before the Deputy Director of Consolation, Azamgarh for Amal Daramad. It is argued that when long time, his application under Section 109 of the Act, has not been decided, the petitioner approached this Court by way of writ petition being Writ C No.7186 of 2013 and this Court disposed of the writ petition with a direction to decide the matter within three months. It is argued that thereafter, the Deputy Director of Consolation, Azamgarh decided the application in a cryptic manner and rejected the same by passing arbitrary, unjust and non-speaking order dated 30.11.2016.

8. In the impugned order, it is stated that the District Government Counsel has submitted report that the land is recorded as Bhita which is public utility land and thus, it could not be included in Chak.

9. A counter affidavit has been filed by the learned Standing Counsel. It is stated in the counter affidavit that the order passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation which is impugned in the present writ petition is absolutely prefect and valid order and does not call for any interference by this Court.

10. In response to the same, it is argued by counsel for the petitioner that the order impugned is absolutely illegal and liable to be set aside. It is further argued that no revision whatsoever has been filed by anybody or authority challenging the order passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation as directed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Azamgarh in its order dated 30.11.2016. Moreover, the decree passed in Case No.480 dated 23.8.1965 in suit uner Section 229B is still unchallenged and hold good. Thus, rejection of application of the petitioner under Rule 109 is wholly illegal.

11. The order passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation which was passed in the year 1972 has become final, and as such, the application submitted by the petitioner under Rule 109 is liable to be allowed.

12. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

13. From perusal of the record, it is clear that the controversy starts in the year 1971 when the objection was filed by Riyaz and others which was decided on 16.12.1971 by which the name of the petitioner and his brother was struck off. Against the aforesaid order, petitioner and others filed appeals before the Settlement Officer, Consideration and the same were allowed by order dated 31.07.1972 by which the name of the petitioner and his brother was restored and the appeal filed by Riyaz and Sohrab were dismissed. Against the aforesaid order, three revisions were filed by Riyaz, Soharab and Ghoan Sabha before the D.D.C. and D.D.C by order dated 25.08.1972 remanded back the matter before the Consideration Officer. Against the aforesaid order, petitioner filed Writ Petition No.7037 of 1973 before this Court and this Court vide order dated 12.09.1979 allowed the writ petition directing the D.D.C. to decide the matter himself. Thereafter, the D.D.C. vide order dated 10.09.1987 dismissed the revisions filed by Riyaz, Soharab and Ghoan Sabha. This order has never been challenged before any forum and the order dated 31.07.1972 passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolation attained finality. Thereafter, the petitioner filed an application under Section 9 of the Act, 1953 in the year 1998 and the same was dismissed on 30.11.2016.

14. The D.D.C. has not recorded any finding and has dismissed the application on the basis of the report of D.G.C. thus, the order is non-speaking order and is as it did not contain any reason or findings. It is trite to say for a legal principle that an order passed by any judicial or quasi-judicial Authority, or for that matter even Administrative Authorities, where rights of parties are decided ought to disclose reasons for the decisions reached. As is often said, reasons are the soul and heart of a decision and convey to the persons affected, as also a superior Authority or a Superior Court, the considerations that have weighed with the decision maker in arriving at his conclusions. Bereft of reasons, the decision is inherently arbitrary. On howsoever good and valid consideration a decision may have been rendered, the absence of reasons would make it foul of Article 14 of the Constitution.

15. Law in this connection is well settled in the case of Sheo Pal vs. Basu Deo & others, 2017 (135) RD 335. In this case following observations were made by this Court:-

"1. .....The only argument advances is that without giving any reason by a totally non-speaking order revision has been allowed by DDC.

3. A bare perusal thereof would leave no manner of doubt that it is totally a non-speaking and unreasoned order. The issues raised by petitioner has not been discussed at all and straightway conclusion have been recorded by DDC.

16. It is well known that "conclusions" and "reasons" are two different things and reasons must show mental exercise of authorities in arriving at a particular conclusion. In Union of India v. Mohan Lal Capoor MANU/SC/0405/1973 : (1973) 2 SCC 836, as under:-

"Reasons are the links between the materials on which certain conclusions are based and the actual conclusions. They disclose how the mind is applied to the subject matter for a decision whether it is purely administrative or quasi-judicial. They should reveal a rational nexus between the facts considered and the conclusions reached."

17. Apart from the fact that the order impugned is non-speaking order, it appears from the perusal of the record that the matter is pending consideration before the authorities since 1972. Time and again orders after orders were passed, but till date no final decision has been taken in the matter by the authorities. It further appears from the perusal of the record that in pursuance of the order of the High Court dated 12.9.1979, the Deputy Director of Consolidation has dismissed the revision filed by Riyaz and Sohrab on 10.9.1987. The application for setting aside the order was also dismissed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation. Thus, the order passed on 31.7.1972 is final.

18. Since the matter is pending consideration before the authorities from last about 50 years, in the special facts and circumstances of the case, no useful purpose will be served in remitting the matter back before the authorities.

19. In view of the same, the application submitted by the petitioner under Rule 109 is liable to be allowed and the authorities are directed to make the necessary Amal Daramad in the revenue record within a period of two months from the date of presentation of the copy of the order.

20. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is allowed.

Precedent followed:

Grindlays Bank Ltd. Vs Central Government Industrial Tribunal, 1980 (Supp.) SCC 420 (Para 9)

Present petition assails the order dated 12.01.2021, passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sultanpur.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for respondent no.1.

2. Under challenge is the order dated 12.01.2021 passed by learned Deputy Director of Consolidation, Sultanpur, a copy of which is Annexure-1 to the writ petition, by which, upon an application moved by the private respondents, the ex-parte order dated 06.11.2015 has been recalled and notices have been issued to the parties concerned fixing a particular date.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that taking into consideration the law laid down by the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Anar Kali and others vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others - 1997 (15) LCD 921, the power to recall an ex-parte order is not vested with the Deputy Director of Consolidation and consequently the Deputy Director of Consolidation has patently erred in passing the impugned order. Another ground taken by learned counsel for the petitioner is that a detailed objection had been filed against the application that had been filed by the private respondents praying for recall of the order dated 06.11.2015 which has not been adverted to while passing the impugned order and consequently the impugned order merits to be set-aside. No other ground has been urged.

4. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel submits that the Deputy Director of Consolidation is vested with inherent powers to recall an ex-parte order and it is not a case of review so as to attract the law as laid down by the Full Bench in the case of Smt. Anar Kali (supra).

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the records, what is apparent is that by the impugned order dated 12.01.2021 ex-parte order dated 06.11.2015 has been recalled by the Deputy Director of Consolidation. So far as the Full Bench judgment in the case of Smt. Anar Kali (supra) is concerned, the question before the Full Bench, as finds place in paragraph 2 of the said judgment, was as under :-

"Whether it is open for the Consolidation authorities to reveiw/recall their final orders exercising inherent powers even though the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 does not vest them any review jurisdiction."

6. The said question has been answered in paragraph 39 of the said judgment that it is not open for the consolidation authorities to review/recall their final orders passed in the proceedings under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act in exercise of inherent powers. Thus, the question before the Full Bench was as to whether a review would lie before the authority concerned after passing of the final order, which has been answered in paragraph 39 of the judgment that no such review/recall would lie. In the instant case, it is not case of the petitioner that a review had been filed by the private respondents against the order dated 06.11.2015 rather it is admitted that an application for recall was filed which has been allowed by means of order dated 12.01.2021. Thus, the question of law as stood answered in the case of Smt. Anar Kali (supra) which was for a review not lying before the authority concerned is not attracted in the facts of the instant case and thus the judgment of Smt. Anar Kali (supra) would not come to the rescue of the petitioner.

7. Upon this, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that in paragraphs 28 and 29 of the judgment of Smt. Anar Kali (supra), the Full Bench has also considered two earlier Full Bench judgments of this Court and thereafter has held in paragraph 39 that even an application for recall would not be maintainable.

8. The said argument is patently fallacious inasmuch as once the question had been framed by the Full Bench of this Court which was only for the purpose "as to whether a review would lie before the authority concerned" consequently the observations made in paragraph 39 of the judgment have to be read with the question which was framed by the Full Bench and not otherwise. Thus, even the said argument of learned counsel for the petitioner is rejected.

9. A similar controversy came up before the Apex Court in the case of Grindlays Bank Limited vs. Central Government Industrial Tribunal reported in 1980 (Supp.) SCC 420, wherein the Apex Court was seized of the question as to whether Industrial Tribunal could set-aside its ex-parte award if it was satisfied that the aggrieved party was prevented from appearing by sufficient cause. The Apex Court held that a Tribunal or body should be considered to be endowed with such ancillary or incidental powers as are necessary to discharge its functions effectively for the purpose of doing justice between the parties. It was further held that although there is no express provision in the Act or Rules framed there under giving the Industrial Tribunal jurisdiction to set-aside its ex-parte award, Tribunal should be considered as invested with such incidental or ancillary powers unless there is any indication in the statute to the contrary.

10. It is not the case of the petitioner that the Consolidation of Holdings Act precludes setting-aside an ex-parte order. Thus, taking into consideration the law laid down in the case of Grindlays Bank Ltd. (supra) the Court finds that no error has been committed by the authority concerned in passing the order dated 12.01.2021.

11. So far as the argument that the order dated 12.01.2021 does not contain any reasons and thus has to be set-aside, suffice is to state that only the order has been set-aside and it would always be open for the petitioner to file his objections in the said case when called upon by the court concerned.

12. Taking into consideration the aforesaid, no case for interference is made out. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed.

A. Criminal Law – Code of Criminal Procedure - Sections 156(3), 200, 202, 203, 482 – Nature of dispute - Criminal Courts should ensure that the proceedings before it are not used for settling scores or to pressurize parties to settle the civil dispute. (Para 13)

The dispute of Civil Nature may also contain the ingredients of criminal offences and if so, will have to be tried as criminal offences even if they also amount to civil dispute. But in the present case ingredients to constitute offences

mentioned in the complaint could not be shown to exist on the material on record. (Para 15, 16)

Court also observed that the person with the primary grievance did not file any complaint nor appeared as witness. Therefore, did not find any illegality in the order of Magistrate in dismissing the complaint filed by the present applicant. Any case, for interference in the exercise of jurisdiction u/s 482 Cr.P.C. on the grounds of "preventing abuse of the process of Court" or "to secure the ends of justice" is not made out. Present application challenges orders dated 09.01.2020 and 04.08.2020, passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mau and Session Judge, Mau respectively.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Shri Pramod Kumar Maurya, Advocate holding brief of Shri Shitlesh Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant, Shri Pankaj Saxena, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The applicant has challenged the order dated 09.01.2020, passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mau in Criminal Case No. 5864 of 2018 (Bajrangi Lal Gupta verus State of U.P. and another) by which his complaint was rejected. He has also challenged the order dated 04.08.2020 passed by learned Session Judge, Mau in Criminal Revision No. 13 of 2020 (Computerized No. CNR No. UPMA01-000657-2020 by which his revision was also dismissed.

3. The applicant stating himself to be sister's son of Maina Devi (Mausi) filed the complaint case that opposite party no. 2 (Bhanja) of Maina Devi fraudulently got executed a registered sale deed dated 06.04.2017 with respect to Gata No. 513 M area 14 kadi situated in Village Korauli, Tehsil Ghosi District, Mau from Maina Devi without making payment of any sale consideration, whereas the applicant had been looking after his Mausi.

4. The applicant's application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was rejected by Magistrate, against which, he filed Criminal Revision No. 198 of 2018 and after decision, therein the complaint was filed for taking action for the offences under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 472, 504 and 506 I.P.C.

5. The statement of the applicant was recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and the statement of P.W.-1 Shankar Prasad and P.W.-2 Lalji were recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C.

6. The learned Magistrate by order dated 04.01.2020 rejected the complaint and the applicant's revision was also rejected on 04.08.2020 as aforesaid.

7. The Magistrate rejected the compliant on the grounds that the dispute was predominantly of civil nature. The remedy by way of civil suit was available. The applicant had not stated if his Mausi was alive or not and that no prima facie case for summoning was made out.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that prima facie, coginzable offence for summoning was made out against the opposite party no. 2 and the Magistrate rejected the complaint under Section 203 Cr.P.C. in cursory manner. The revisional court also did not consider this aspect of the matter and illegally dismissed the revision.

9. Learned A.G.A. submits that the orders under challenge do not suffer from any illegality as the dispute was of civil nature.

10. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record.

11. A perusal of the complaint shows that the dispute is predominantly a civil dispute regarding execution of sale deed by the applicant's Mausi in favour of opposite party no. 2.

12. As per the own case of the applicant Maina Devi was recorded tenure holder. If the sale consideration passed to the transferor or not, can be considered in the suit said to be pending, in the statement of the applicant/complainant recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C., before the court of Civil Judge (Junior Division).

13. In Mohd Ibrahim versus State of Bihar (2009) 8 SCC 751, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that there is growing tendency of the complainants attempting to give the cloak of a criminal offence to matters which are essentially and purely civil in nature, obviously either to apply pressure on the accused or out of enmity towards the accused, or to subject the accused to harassment. Criminal courts should ensure that the proceedings before it are not used for settling scores or to pressurize parties to settle the civil dispute.

14. In Medmeme, LLC and others versus Ihorse BPO Solutions Pvt. Ltd. (2018) 13 SCC 374 where the dispute between the parties was of civil nature and proceedings in respect of the same were pending before the arbitrator the proceedings of the criminal complaint were quashed. Paragraph nos. 12 to 15 of Medmeme, LLC (supra) are being reproduced as under:-

"12. After going through the allegations contained in the complaint and the material on record, we are of firm conclusion that the matter entirely pertains to civil jurisdiction and not even a prima facie case is made out for offences Under Sections 420, 406, 409 read with Section 120B of Indian Penal Code even if the allegations contained in the complaint are to be taken on their face value. The complaint gives a clear impression that it was primarily a case where the Respondent had alleged breach of contract on the part of the Appellants in not making the entire payments for the services rendered to the Appellants. On the other hand, it is not in dispute that substantial amounts have been paid by the Appellants to the Respondent-company for the services rendered.

13. Reason for non-payment of the balance amount as given by the Appellants is that the services rendered by the Respondent-company were not in terms of the agreement entered into between the parties and were deficient in nature. For this reason, even the Appellants have filed claims against the Respondent-company alleging that Appellant suffered losses because of the defective services provided by the Respondent.

14. On the basis of it, we find that it cannot be said that at the time of entering into the agreement, either the first agreement or even the second agreement, there was any intention on the part of the Appellants to cheat the Respondent. No suspicion of any nature was shown or even alleged. It is also not the allegation of the Respondent in the complaint that the agreement was entered into with fraudulent or dishonest intention on the part of the Appellants in inducing the Respondent to enter into such a contract. At best, the dispute between the parties is of a civil nature, proceedings in respect of which are pending before the learned Arbitrator.

15. We, thus, allow this appeal, set aside the judgment of the High Court and thereby allow the petition filed by the Appellants in the High Court Under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure. The result whereof would be quashing of the proceedings arising out of Complaint No. 142 of 2012 pending in the Court of Judicial Magistrate-II, Puducherry."

15. In the case of Mohd. Ibrahim (supra) it has also been held that the Dispute of Civil Nature may also contain the ingredients of criminal offences and if so, will have to be tried as criminal offences even if they also amount to civil dispute.

16. It could not be established before this Court as to how on the basis of the averments of the complaint and the material on record prima facie case for summoning of the opposite party no. 2 under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 472, 504, 506 I.P.C. was made out. The ingredients to constitute such offences could not be shown to exist on the material on record.

17. It has also been well settled in law in the cases of:-

a. R.P. Kapur versus State of Punjab AIR 1960 SC 866,

b. State of Haryana versus Bhajanlal AIR 1992 SC 604 and

c. Rakhi Mishra versus State of Bihar (2017) 16 SCC 772, that at the stage of summoning, the Magistrate has to satisfy judiciously, if prima facie case is made out or not on the material available on record for summoning the accused persons.

18. The learned Magistrate has recorded that the applicant failed to state if his Mausi (Maina Devi) was alive or not. The complaint was filed by the applicant but not by Maina Devi and even she did not appear as a witness under Section 202 Cr.P.C.

19. The primary grievance, if any, would be to Maina Devi, but if she did not file any complaint nor appeared as witness, this Court does not find any illegality in the order of Magistrate in dismissing the complaint filed by the present applicant.

20. The revisional court has also on judicious considerations rightly rejected the revision.

21. The order passed by the Magistrate is in conformity with law. Any case, for interference in the exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on the grounds of "preventing abuse of the process of Court" or to secure the ends of justice" is not made out.

22. The application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. deserves to be rejected. It is accordingly rejected.

23. No orders as to cost.

B. Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015: Section 94, 94(2) - Reference to a medico-legal examination for the determination of age - The provisions of Section 94(2) makes it vivid that in the face of a date of birth certificate from the school or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, the other evidence about the age of a victim cannot be looked into. If the date of birth certificate as envisaged in clause (i) of sub-Section (2) of S.94 of the Act is not available, the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat is the next evidence to be considered in the rung. It is only when the evidence about age envisaged under clauses (i) and (ii) of Sub-Section (2) of S. 94 of the Act is not available, that a victim can be referred to a medico-legal examination for the determination of her age.

In the present case, Court held that even if it is the prosecutrix's stand, that she is 18 years old, and has married Pintoo of her free will, she cannot be regarded as a major or permitted to prove herself a major, by asking herself to be referred to medical examination by a Board of Doctors, so long as her High School Certificate is clear on the point. (Para 12)

C. Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006: Section 3, 12 – It was found that prosecutrix was not enticed away from her guardian's lawful custody. She left her home on her own and married accused. Therefore, marriage was not held to be void but voidable. (Para 13 to 15)

Present petition assails the order dated 24.11.2020, passed by Judicial Magistrate- I, Hapur.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution has been filed seeking to set aside an order of the learned Judicial Magistrate-I, Hapur, dated 24.11.2020, passed in Case Crime No. 516 of 2020, under Section 363 IPC, P.S. Pilakhuwa, District Hapur, directing that the prosecutrix Km. Shivani be permitted to go along with her husband, the accused Pintoo son of Omvir.

2. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the second opposite party by Mr. Rama Shankar Mishra, Advocate, which is taken on record. The petitioner has filed a rejoinder.

3. Admit.

4. Heard forthwith.

5. Heard Mr. Sudhir Mehrotra, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Rama Shankar Mishra, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Mr. S.S. Tiwari, learned AGA appearing on behalf of the State.

6. The submission of Mr. Sudhir Mehrotra, learned counsel for the petitioners, briefly said, is to the effect that the date of birth of the prosecutrix, according to her High School Examination Certificate issued by the U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate Education, is 04.11.2004. She is, thus, a minor, aged 16 years and 2 months approximately. She would attain majority on 05.11.2022. Mr. Mehrotra submits that the Magistrate has erred in permitting the prosecutrix to accompany her husband, an accused in the crime, going by the marriage acknowledged by the parties to be solemnized on 21.09.2020 at the Pandav Kalin Neeli Chhatri Mandir Sanatan Dharam Vivah Padti Trust, Yamuna Bazar, Delhi. Mr. Mehrotra submits that the prosecutrix, being a minor, cannot be permitted to stay in a matrimonial relationship, where the marriage would be void under Section 12 of the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006 (for short, "the Act of 2006'). He submits that in any case the prosecutrix, who is not a major, cannot be permitted to stay with her husband and ought not to be allowed to accompany him. Doing so, would be permitting statutory rape and also an offence under Section 5/6 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012.

7. Mr. Rama Shankar Mishra, on the other hand, submits that the prosecutrix in her stand before the Magistrate has made it clear that she has married the accused Pintoo of her free will and wishes to stay with him. He emphasizes that the parties' marriage has been registered under the U.P. Marriage Registration Rules, 2017 by the Marriage Registration Officer, Ghaziabad on 21.09.2020. He has drawn the attention of this Court towards a certificate of the registration of marriage, dated 21.09.2020.

8. This Court has perused the impugned order and considered the entire facts and circumstances. The prosecutrix is a little over 16 years of age. The Magistrate has been swayed to permit the prosecutrix to go along with the accused, her husband on ground that the father of the prosecutrix made an application that he would not take her back home and that he had lodged an FIR, out of social embarrassment. The Magistrate has relied upon the decisions of this Court in Smt. Rajkumari vs. Superintendent, Nari Niketan, 1998 Cr.L.J 654 (All) and Smt.

Ramsati @ Syamsati vs. State of U.P., Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 245 of 2015, decided on 07.09.2005 to hold that upon marriage of a minor according to her wishes, she could be left free to live her life.

9. The law has changed much course since the decisions above referred were rendered. In Independent Thought vs. Union of India and another, (2017) 10 SCC 800, it has been held:

"Rape or penetrative sexual assault

67. Whether sexual intercourse that a husband has with his wife who is between 15 and 18 years of age is described as rape (not an offence under Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC) or aggravated penetrative sexual assault [an offence under Section 5(n) of thePocso Act and punishable under Section 6 of the Pocso Act] the fact is that it is rape as conventionally understood, though Parliament in its wisdom has chosen to not recognise it as rape for the purposes of IPC. That it is a heinous crime which also violates the bodily integrity of a girl child, causes trauma and sometimes destroys her freedom of reproductive choice is a composite issue that needs serious consideration and deliberation.

72. If such is the traumatic impact that rape could and does have on an adult victim, we can only guess what impact it could have on a girl child--and yet it is not a criminal offence in the terms of Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC but is an offence under the PocsoAct only. An anomalous state of affairs exists on a combined reading of IPC and the Pocso Act. An unmarried girl below 18 years of age could be a victim of rape under IPC and a victim of penetrative sexual assault under the Pocso Act. Such a victim might have the solace (if we may say so) of prosecuting the rapist. A married girl between 15 and 18 years of age could be a victim of aggravated penetrative sexual assault under the Pocso Act, but she cannot be a victim of rape under IPC if the rapist is her husband since IPC does not recognise such penetrative sexual assault as rape. Therefore such a girl child has no recourse to law under the provisions of IPC notwithstanding that the marital rape could degrade and humiliate her, destroy her entire psychology pushing her into a deep emotional crisis and dwarf and destroy her whole personality and degrade her very soul. However, such a victim could prosecute the rapist under the Pocso Act. We see no rationale for such an artificial distinction.

73. While we are not concerned with the general question of marital rape of an adult woman but only with marital rape of a girl child between 15 and 18 years of age in the context of Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC, it is worth noting the view expressed by theCommittee on Amendments to Criminal Law chaired by Justice J.S. Verma (Retired). In Paras 72, 73 and 74 of the Report it was stated that the outdated notion that a wife is no more than a subservient chattel of her husband has since been given up in the United Kingdom. Reference was also made to a decision [C.R. v. United Kingdom, ECHR, Ser. A. No. 335-C (1995): (1995) 21 EHRR 363] of the European Commission of Human Rights which endorsed the conclusion that "a rapist remains a rapist regardless of his relationship with the victim". The relevant paragraphs of the Report read as follows:

"72. The exemption for marital rape stems from a long outdated notion of marriage which regarded wives as no more than the property of their husbands. According to the common law of coverture, a wife was deemed to have consented at the time of the marriage to have intercourse with her husband at his whim. Moreover, this consent could not be revoked. As far back as 1736, Sir Matthew Hale declared: "The husband cannot be guilty of rape committed by himself upon his lawful wife, for by their mutual matrimonial consent and contract the wife hath given herself up in this kind unto her husband which she cannot retract.' [Sir Matthew Hale -- History of the Pleas of the Crown, 1 Hale PC (1736) 629. See further S. Fredman, Women and the Law (OUP, 1997) pp. 55-57.]

73. This immunity has now been withdrawn in most major jurisdictions. In England and Wales, the House of Lords held in 1991 that the status of married women had changed beyond all recognition since Hale set out his proposition. Most importantly, Lord Keith, speaking for the Court, declared, "marriage is in modern times regarded as a partnership of equals, and no longer one in which the wife must be the subservient chattel of the husband'. [R. v. R., (1992) 1 AC 599, p. 616: (1991) 3 WLR 767: (1991) 4 All ER 481 at p. 484 (HL)]

74. Our view is supported by the judgment of the European Commission of Human Rights in C.R. v. United Kingdom [C.R.v. United Kingdom, ECHR, Ser. A. No. 335-C (1995): (1995) 21 EHRR 363] which endorsed the conclusion that [Ed.: Emphasis has been supplied to the matter between two asterisks.] a rapist remains a rapist regardless of his relationship with the victim [Ed.: Emphasis has been supplied to the matter between two asterisks.]. Importantly, it acknowledged that this change in the common law was in accordance with the fundamental objectives of the Convention on Human Rights, the very essence of which is respect for human rights, dignity and freedom. This was given statutory recognition in the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act, 1994."

74. In Eisenstadt v. Baird [Eisenstadt v. Baird, 1972 SCC OnLine US SC 62: 31 L Ed 2d 349: 92 S Ct 1029: 405 US 438 (1972)] the US Supreme Court observed that a

"marital couple is not an independent entity with a mind and heart of its own, but an association of two individuals each with a separate intellectual and emotional makeup". (SCC OnLine US SC para 21)

75. On a combined reading of C.R. v. United Kingdom [C.R. v.United Kingdom, ECHR, Ser. A. No. 335-C (1995): (1995) 21 EHRR 363] and Eisenstadt v. Baird [Eisenstadt v. Baird, 1972 SCC OnLine US SC 62: 31 L Ed 2d 349: 92 S Ct 1029: 405 US 438 (1972)] it is quite clear that a rapist remains a rapist and marriage with the victim does not convert him into a non-rapist. Similarly, a rape is a rape whether it is described as such or is described as penetrative sexual assault or aggravated penetrative sexual assault. A rape that actually occurs cannot legislatively be simply wished away or legislatively denied as non-existent.

76. There is an apparent conflict or incongruity between the provisions of IPC and the Pocso Act. The rape of a married girl child (a girl child between 15 and 18 years of age) is not rape under IPC and therefore not an offence in view of Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC thereof but it is an offence of aggravated penetrative sexual assault under Section 5(n) of the Pocso Act and punishable under Section 6 of that Act. This conflict or incongruity needs to be resolved in the best interest of the girl child and the provisions of various complementary statutes need to be harmonised and read purposively to present an articulate whole.

79. There is no doubt that pro-child statutes are intended to and do consider the best interest of the child. These statutes have been enacted in the recent past though not effectively implemented. Given this situation, we are of opinion that a few facts need to be acknowledged and accepted:

79.1.Firstly, a child is and remains a child regardless of the description or nomenclature given to the child. It is universally accepted in almost all relevant statutes in our country that a child is a person below 18 years of age. Therefore, a child remains a child whether she is described as a street child or a surrendered child or an abandoned child or an adopted child. Similarly, a child remains a child whether she is a married child or an unmarried child or a divorced child or a separated child or a widowed child. At this stage we are reminded of Shakespeare's eternal view that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet--so also with the status of a child, despite any prefix.

79.2.Secondly, the age of consent for sexual intercourse is definitively 18 years and there is no dispute about this. Therefore, under no circumstance can a child below 18 years of age give consent, express or implied, for sexual intercourse. The age of consent has not been specifically reduced by any statute and unless there is such a specific reduction, we must proceed on the basis that the age of consent and willingness to sexual intercourse remains at 18 years of age.

79.3.Thirdly, Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC creates an artificial distinction between a married girl child and an unmarried girl child with no real rationale and thereby does away with consent for sexual intercourse by a husband with his wife who is a girl child between 15 and 18 years of age. Such an unnecessary and artificial distinction if accepted can again be introduced for other occasions for divorced children or separated children or widowed children.

80. What is sought to be achieved by this artificial distinction is not at all clear except perhaps to acknowledge that child marriages are taking place in the country. Such child marriages certainly cannot be in the best interest of the girl child. That the solemnisation of a child marriage violates the provisions of the PCMA is well known. Therefore, it is for the State to effectively implement and enforce the law rather than dilute it by creating artificial distinctions. Can it not be said, in a sense, that through the artificial distinction, Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC encourages violation of the PCMA? Perhaps "yes" and looked at from another point of view, perhaps "no" for it cannot reasonably be argued that one statute (IPC) condones an offence under another statute (the PCMA). Therefore the basic question remains--what exactly is the artificial distinction intended to achieve?

Justification given by the Union of India

81. The only justification for this artificial distinction has been culled out by the learned counsel for the petitioner from the counter-affidavit filed by the Union of India. This is given in the written submissions filed by the learned counsel for the petitioner and the justification (not verbatim) reads as follows:

(i) Economic and educational development in the country is still uneven and child marriages are still taking place. It has been, therefore, decided to retain the age of 15 years under Exception 2 of Section 375 IPC so as to give protection to husband and wife against criminalising the sexual activity between them.

(ii) As per National Family Health Survey-III, 46% of women between the ages 18-29 years in India were married before the age of 18. It is also estimated that there are 23 million child brides in the country. Hence, criminalising the consummation of a marriage union with a serious offence such as rape would not be appropriate and practical.

(iii) Providing punishment for child marriage with consent does not appear to be appropriate in view of socio-economic conditions of the country. Thus, the age prescribed in Exception 2 of Section 375 IPC has been retained considering the basic facts of the still evolving social norms and issues.

(iv) The Law Commission also recommended for raising the age from 15 years to 16 years and it was incorporated in the Criminal Law (Amendment) Ordinance, 2013. However, after wide ranging consultations with various stakeholders it was further decided to retain the age at 15 years.

(v) Exception 2 of Section 375 IPC envisages that if the marriage is solemnised at the age of 15 years due to traditions, it should not be a reason to book the husband in the case of offence of rape under IPC.

(vi) It is also necessary that the provisions of law should be in such a manner that it cannot affect a particular class of society. Retaining the age of 15 years in Exception 2 of Section 375 IPC has been provided considering the social realities of the nation.

82. The above justifications given by the Union of India are really explanations for inserting Exception 2 in Section 375 IPC. Besides, they completely sidetrack the issue and overlook the provisions of the PCMA, the provisions of the JJ Act as well as the provisions of the Pocso Act. Surely, the Union of India cannot be oblivious to the existence of the trauma faced by a girl child who is married between 15 and 18 years of age or to the three pro-child statutes and other human rights obligations. That these facts and statutes have been overlooked confirms that the distinction is artificial and makes Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC all the more arbitrary and discriminatory.

83. During the course of oral submissions, three further but more substantive justifications were given by the learned counsel for the Union of India for making this distinction. The firstjustification is that by virtue of getting married, the girl child has consented to sexual intercourse with her husband either expressly or by necessary implication. The second justification is that traditionally child marriages have been performed in different parts of the country and therefore such traditions must be respected and not destroyed. The third justification is that Para 5.9.1 of the 167th Report of the Parliamentary Standing Committee of the Rajya Sabha (presented in March 2013) records that several Members felt that marital rape has the potential of destroying the institution of marriage.

84. In law, it is difficult to accept any one of these justifications. There is no question of a girl child giving express or implied consent for sexual intercourse. The age of consent is statutorily and definitively fixed at 18 years and there is no law that provides for any specific deviation from this. Therefore unless Parliament gives any specific indication (and it has not given any such indication) that the age of consent could be deviated from for any rational reason, we cannot assume that a girl child who is otherwise incapable of giving consent for sexual intercourse has nevertheless given such consent by implication, necessary or otherwise only by virtue of being married. It would be reading too much into the mind of the girl child and assuming a state of affairs for which there is neither any specific indication nor any warrant. It must be remembered that those days are long gone when a married woman or a married girl child could be treated as subordinate to her husband or at his beck and call or as his property. Constitutionally a female has equal rights as a male and no statute should be interpreted or understood to derogate from this position. If there is some theory that propounds such an unconstitutional myth, then that theory deserves to be completely demolished.

85. Merely because child marriages have been performed in different parts of the country as a part of a tradition or custom does not necessarily mean that the tradition is an acceptable one nor should it be sanctified as such. Times change and what was acceptable a few decades ago may not necessarily be acceptable today. This was noted by a Constitution Bench of this Court (though in a different context) in State of M.P. v. Bhopal Sugar Industries Ltd. [State of M.P. v. Bhopal Sugar Industries Ltd., (1964) 6 SCR 846: AIR 1964 SC 1179] that: (AIR p. 1182, para 6)

"6. ... But, by the passage of time, considerations of necessity and expediency would be obliterated, and the grounds which justified classification of geographical regions for historical reasons may cease to be valid."

90. We must not and cannot forget the existence of Article 21 of the Constitution which gives a fundamental right to a girl child to live a life of dignity. The documentary material placed before us clearly suggests that an early marriage takes away the self-esteem and confidence of a girl child and subjects her, in a sense, to sexual abuse. Under no circumstances can it be said that such a girl child lives a life of dignity. The right of a girl child to maintain her bodily integrity is effectively destroyed by a traditional practice sanctified by IPC. Her husband, for the purposes of Section 375 IPC, effectively has full control over her body and can subject her to sexual intercourse without her consent or without her willingness since such an activity would not be rape. Anomalously, although her husband can rape her but he cannot molest her for if he does so he could be punished under the provisions of IPC. This was recognised by LCI in its 172nd Report but was not commented upon. It appears therefore that different and irrational standards have been laid down for the treatment of the girl child by her husband and it is necessary to harmonise the provisions of various statutes and also harmonise different provisions of IPC inter se.

91. We have also adverted to the issue of reproductive choices that are severely curtailed as far as a married girl child is concerned. There is every possibility that being subjected to sexual intercourse, the girl child might become pregnant and would have to deliver a baby even though her body is not quite ready for procreation. The documentary material shown to us indicates that there are greater chances of a girl child dying during childbirth and there are greater chances of neonatal deaths. The results adverted to in the material also suggest that children born from early marriages are more likely to be malnourished. In the face of this material, would it be wise to continue with a practice, traditional though it might be, that puts the life of a girl child in danger and also puts the life of the baby of a girl child born from an early marriage at stake? Apart from constitutional and statutory provisions, constitutional morality forbids us from giving an interpretation to Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC that sanctifies a tradition or custom that is no longer sustainable.

Harmonious and purposive interpretation

101. The entire issue of the interpretation of the JJ Act, thePocso Act, the PCMA and Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC can be looked at from yet another perspective, the perspective of purposive and harmonious construction of statutes relating to the same subject-matter. Long ago, it was said by Lord Denning that when a defect appears, a Judge cannot fold his hands and blame the draftsman but must also consider the social conditions and give force and life to the intention of the legislature. It was said inSeaford Court Estates Ltd. v. Asher [Seaford Court Estates Ltd. v.Asher, (1949) 2 KB 481 (CA) affirmed in Asher v. Seaford Court Estates Ltd., 1950 AC 508 (HL)] that: (KB p. 499)

"... A Judge, believing himself to be fettered by the supposed rule that he must look to the language and nothing else, laments that the draftsmen have not provided for this or that, or have been guilty of some or other ambiguity. It would certainly save the Judges trouble if Acts of Parliament were drafted with divine prescience and perfect clarity. In the absence of it, when a defect appears a Judge cannot simply fold his hands and blame the draftsman. He must set to work on the constructive task of finding the intention of Parliament, and he must do this not only from the language of the statute, but also from a consideration of the social conditions which gave rise to it, and of the mischief which it was passed to remedy, and then he must supplement the written word so as to give "force and life" to the intention of the legislature."

105. Viewed from any perspective, there seems to be no reason to arbitrarily discriminate against a girl child who is married between 15 and 18 years of age. On the contrary, there is every reason to give a harmonious and purposive construction to the pro-child statutes to preserve and protect the human rights of the married girl child.

Implementation of laws

106. The Preamble to our Constitution brings out our commitment to social justice, but unfortunately, this petition clearly brings out that social justice laws are not implemented in the spirit in which they are enacted by Parliament. Young girls are married in thousands in the country, and as Section 13 of the PCMA indicates, there is an auspicious day -- Akshaya Trutiya -- when mass child marriages are performed. Such young girls are subjected to sexual intercourse regardless of their health, their ability to bear children and other adverse social, economic and psychological consequences. Civil society can do just so much for preventing such child marriages but eventually it is for the Government of India and the State Governments to take proactive steps to prevent child marriages so that young girls in our country can aspire to a better and healthier life. We hope the State realises and appreciates this.

Conclusion

107. On a complete assessment of the law and the documentary material, it appears that there are really five options before us: (i) To let the incongruity remain as it is -- this does not seem a viable option to us, given that the lives of thousands of young girls are at stake; (ii) To strike down as unconstitutional Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC -- in the present case this is also not a viable option since this relief was given up and no such issue was raised; (iii) To reduce the age of consent from 18 years to 15 years -- this too is not a viable option and would ultimately be for Parliament to decide; (iv) To bring the Pocso Act in consonance with Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC -- this is also not a viable option since it would require not only a retrograde amendment to the Pocso Act but also to several other pro-child statutes; (v) To read Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC in a purposive manner to make it in consonance with the Pocso Act, the spirit of other pro-child legislations and the human rights of a married girl child. Being purposive and harmonious constructionists, we are of opinion that this is the only pragmatic option available. Therefore, we are left with absolutely no other option but to harmonise the system of laws relating to children and require Exception 2 to Section 375 IPC to now be meaningfully read as: "Sexual intercourse or sexual acts by a man with his own wife, the wife not being under eighteen years of age, is not rape." It is only through this reading that the intent of social justice to the married girl child and the constitutional vision of the Framers of our Constitution can be preserved and protected and perhaps given impetus."

10. So far as the age of the prosecutrix is concerned, in the face of the High School Certificate, there is no cavil that evidence about her being a major, which is her stand, cannot be accepted. She cannot be referred to medical examination for determination of her age, so long as her date of birth founded on her High School Certificate, is available. This certificate clearly indicates that she is a minor. There, her date of birth is 04.11.2004. Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 makes the following provision regarding presumption and determination of age:

"94. Presumption and determination of age.- (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under section 14 or section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining -

(i) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

(ii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(iii) and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person."

11. The provisions of Section 94 (2) of the Act, which are designed to determine the age of a juvenile, have been extended to the victim in Jarnail Singh v. State of Haryana; (2013) 7 SCC 263 and by a Division Bench decision of this Court in Smt. Priyanka Devi through her husband vs. State of U.P. and others 2018 (1) ACR 1061, to which I was a party. It has been held in Smt. Priyanka Devi thus:

"13. Learned counsel for the petitioner lastly urged that provisions of Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 do not apply to the case in hand as the same are available for the purposes of determination of age for a juvenile or a child in conflict with the law but would not apply to the determination of age in the case of a victim.

14. We are afraid that the aforesaid submission is not correct. The issue was examined by the Supreme Court in the case of Mahadeo S/o Kerba Maske v. State of Maharashtra and Another; (2013) 14 SCC 637 where in paragraph no. 12 of the report it was held as under:

"Under rule 12(3)(b), it is specifically provided that only in the absence of alternative methods described under Rule 12(3)(a)(i) to (iii), the medical opinion can be sought for. In the light of such a statutory rule prevailing for ascertainment of the age of the juvenile in our considered opinion, the same yardstick can be rightly followed by the courts for the purpose of the ascertaining the age of a victim as well." (Emphasis supplied)

15. This issue has also been considered in an earlier judgment of the Supreme Court in Jarnail Singh v. State of Haryana; 2013 (7) SCC 263, where too it has been held that rule 12(3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 must apply both to a child in conflict with law as well as to a victim of a crime. Paragraph 23 of the said report reads thus:

"Even though Rule 12 is strictly applicable only to determine the age of a child in conflict with law, we are of the view that the aforesaid statutory provision should be the basis for determining age, even for a child who is a victim of crime. For, in our view, there is hardly any difference in so far as the issue of minority is concerned, between a child in conflict with law, and a child who is a victim of crime. Therefore, in our considered opinion, it would be just and appropriate to apply Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules, to determine the age of the prosecutrix VW-PW6. The manner of determining age conclusively, has been expressed in sub-rule (3) of Rule 12 extracted above. Under the aforesaid provision, the age of a child is ascertained, by adopting the first available basis, out of a number of options postulated in Rule 12(3). If, in the scheme of options under Rule 12(3), an option is expressed in a preceding clause, it has overriding effect over an option expressed in a subsequent clause. The highest rated option available, would conclusively determine the age of a minor. In the scheme of Rule 12(3), matriculation (or equivalent) certificate of the concerned child, is the highest rated option. In case, the said certificate is available, no other evidence can be relied upon. Only in the absence of the said certificate, Rule 12(3), envisages consideration of the date of birth entered, in the school first attended by the child. In case such an entry of date of birth is available, the date of birth depicted therein is liable to be treated as final and conclusive, and no other material is to be relied upon. Only in the absence of such entry, Rule 12(3) postulates reliance on a birth certificate issued by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat. Yet again, if such a certificate is available, then no other material whatsoever is to be taken into consideration, for determining the age of the child concerned, as the said certificate would conclusively determine the age of the child. It is only in the absence of any of the aforesaid, that Rule 12(3) postulates the determination of age of the concerned child, on the basis of medical opinion."

16. Thus, principles applicable to the determination of age in the case of a juvenile would in terms apply to cases of determination of the age of a victim as well. It may be pointed out that at the point of time when Mahadeo (supra) was decided by their lordships of the Supreme Court, the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 was in force and their lordships were interpreting the provision of Rule 12(3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Child) Rules, 2007. The said Act of 2000 has since been repealed and has been replaced by the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. The rules framed under the Act of 2000 are thus no longer on the statute book. However, the provisions that found place in Rule 12(3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Child) Rules, 2007 framed under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 are now, with certain modifications engrafted into the the Principal Act vide section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. The inter se priority of criteria to determine age under Rule 12(3) of the Rules, 2007 (supra) and section 94 of the Act, 2015 remains the same albeit with certain modifications which are of no consequences to the facts in hand. In short, provisions of Rule 12(3) of the Rules, 2007 framed under the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 are para meteria to the provision of Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. This being the comparative position, the principles of law laid down by their lordships in the case of Mahadeo (supra) would apply with equal force to the provisions of section 94(2) of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 while determining the age of a victim of an offence under Sections 363 and 366 IPC. Thus, the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioners, on this score, is not tenable."

12. The provisions of Section 94(2) makes it vivid that in the face of a date of birth certificate from the school or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, the other evidence about the age of a victim cannot be looked into. If the date of birth certificate as envisaged in clause (i) of sub-Section (2) of Section 94 of the Act is not available, the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat is the next evidence to be considered in the rung. It is only when the evidence about age envisaged under clauses (i) and (ii) of Sub-Section (2) of Section 94 of the Act is not available, that a victim can be referred to a medico-legal examination for the determination of her age. Therefore, even if it is the prosecutrix's stand, which this Court assumes to be so that she is 18 years old, and has married Pintoo of her free will, she cannot be regarded as a major or permitted to prove herself a major, by asking herself to be referred to medical examination by a Board of Doctors, so long as her High School Certificate is clear on the point. After the decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Suhani vs. State of U.P., 2018 SCC Online SC 781, there was some confusion whether a victim could be referred to the medical examination of a Board of Doctors for determination of her age, in the face of a recorded date of birth in the High School certificate. But, after the decision of a Division Bench of this Court in Smt. Nisha Naaz alias Anuradha and another vs. State of U.P. and others 2019 (2) ACR 2075 holding that the decision in Suhani does not lay down any law but is a decision on facts, the principles in Smt. Priyanka Devi, following the decision in Jarnail

Singh, is law that would govern the fate of this case. In Smt. Nisha Naaz alias Anuradha, it was held:

"14. A plain reading of Section 94 of the 2015, Act would reveal that only in absence of: (a) the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board; and (b) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat, age is to be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board. A Division Bench of this court in the case of Smt. Priyanka Devi Vs. State of U.P. and others in Habeas Corpus Petition No.55317 of 2017, decided on 21st November, 2017, after noticing the provisions of the 2015, Act and the earlier 2000, Act and the rules framed thereunder, came to the conclusion that as there is no significant change brought about in the 2015, Act in the principles governing determination of age of a juvenile in conflict with law, in so far as weightage to medico legal evidence is concerned, the law laid down in respect of applicability of those provisions for determination of a child victim would continue to apply notwithstanding the new enactment. The Division Bench in Priyanka Devi's case (supra) specifically held that as there is on record the High School Certificate, the medico legal evidence cannot be looked into as the statute does not permit.

15. The judgment of the apex court in Suhani's case (supra) does not lay down law or guidelines to be used for determination of the age of child victim. Further, it neither overrules nor considers its earlier decisions which mandated that the age of child victim is to be determined by the same principles as are applicable for determination of the age of juvenile in conflict with law. From the judgment of the apex court in Suhani's case (supra), it appears that the concerned victim (petitioner no.1 of that case) was produced before the court and the court considered it apposite that she should be medically examined by the concerned department of All India Institute of Medical Sciences (for short AIIMS). Upon which, AIIMS, by taking radiological tests, submitted report giving both lower as well as higher estimates of age. On the lower side the age was estimated as 19 years and on the higher side it was 24 years. Therefore, even if the margin of error was of 5 years, the victim was an adult. Hence, on the facts of that case, in Suhani's case, the first information report was quashed by the Apex Court. The decision of the Apex Court was therefore in exercise of its power conferred upon it by Article 142 of the Constitution of India which enables it to pass such decree or make such order as is necessary for doing complete justice in any cause or matter pending before it. The said decision cannot be taken as a decision that overrules the earlier binding precedents which lay down the manner in which the age of a child victim is to be determined."

13. So long as the prosecutrix is a minor, she cannot be permitted to accompany the accused Pintoo, whom she claims to have married. In order to determine whether the prosecutrix was enticed away from her guardian's lawful custody, or she went away of her own, this Court ascertained the prosecutrix's stand, who is present in Court. Her stand is recorded verbatim:

Q. Aapka Naam?
Ans. Shivani
Q. Aapki Aayu Kya Hai?

Ans. 04.01.2002 (18 years)

Q. Aap Pintoo Ko Janti Hain?

Ans. Haan.

Q. Pintoo Kaun Hain?

Ans. Mere Pati.

Q. Pintoo Aapko Bahla Fusla Kar Le Gaya Tha?

Ans. Nahi, Mai Apni Marzi se Uske Saath Gayi Thi.

Q. Aap Apne Mata-Pita Ke Pass Jaana Chahti Hain?

Ans. Nahi. Main Apne Pati Ke Pass Jana Chahti Hun.

14. Looking to Shivani's stand, it is evident that she has not been enticed away by Pintoo. Rather, she has left her home of her own accord and married him. In this view of the matter, the marriage would not be void under Section 12 of the Act of 2006, but would be voidable under Section 3 of the said Act.

15. The conclusion is evident from the provisions of Sections 3 and 12 of the Act of 2006 which read as under:

"3. Child marriages to be voidable at the option of contracting party being a child.--(1) Every child marriage, whether solemnised before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be voidable at the option of the contracting party who was a child at the time of the marriage:

Provided that a petition for annulling a child marriage by a decree of nullity may be filed in the district court only by a contracting party to the marriage who was a child at the time of the marriage.

(2) If at the time of filing a petition, the petitioner is a minor, the petition may be filed through his or her guardian or next friend along with the Child Marriage Prohibition Officer.

(3) The petition under this section may be filed at any time but before the child filing the petition completes two years of attaining majority.

(4) While granting a decree of nullity under this section, the district court shall make an order directing both the parties to the marriage and their parents or their guardians to return to the other party, his or her parents or guardian, as the case may be, the money, valuables, ornaments and other gifts received on the occasion of the marriage by them from the other side, or an amount equal to the value of such valuables, ornaments, other gifts and money:

Provided that no order under this section shall be passed unless the concerned parties have been given notices to appear before the district court and show cause why such order should not be passed.

12. Marriage of a minor child to be void in certain circumstances.--Where a child, being a minor--

(a) is taken or enticed out of the keeping of the lawful guardian; or

(b) by force compelled, or by any deceitful means induced to go from any place; or

(c) is sold for the purpose of marriage; and made to go through a form of marriage or if the minor is married after which the minor is sold or trafficked or used for immoral purposes, such marriage shall be null and void."

16. It would, therefore, be open to the prosecutrix to acknowledge the marriage or claim it to be void, once she attains the age of majority. It would also be open to her, once she attains the age of majority, to go wherever she likes and stay with whomsoever she wants.

17. Since, she is not inclined to go back to her parents, for the present, this Court is left with no alternative but to direct the State to place her in a suitable State facility other than a Nari Niketan, may be a Safe Home/Shelter Home.

18. The District Magistrate, Hapur and the Superintendent of Police, Hapur are ordered to ensure that the prosecutrix is immediately housed in a suitable Safe Home/Shelter Home, or other State facility where she would be safe and taken care of.

19. The learned District Judge, Hapur is also directed to ensure that a Lady Judicial Officer, posted in his Judgeship, will visit the prosecutrix once a month and inquire about her welfare. In case there is anything objectionable, she will immediately report the matter to the District Judge, who will take appropriate steps to ensure the prosecutrix's welfare during her stay in the State facility/Safe Home/ Shelter Home, wherever she is housed.

20. Shivani would be permitted to live in State facility/Safe Home/Shelter Home till 04.11.2022, and thereafter, she may go wherever she wants and stay with whomsoever she likes, including Pintoo, whom she claims to be her husband.

21. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 24.11.2020, passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate-I, Hapur in Case Crime No. 516 of 2020 under Section 363 IPC, P.S. Pilakhuwa, District Hapur is hereby set aside. The prosecutrix shall be dealt with in accordance with the directions made hereinabove.

22. Let Shivani, who is present in person, be forthwith taken into the care of the Court Officer and conveyed through the Registrar General to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Prayagraj. The Senior Superintendent of Police, Prayagraj shall cause the prosecutrix to be conveyed in safety to the Superintendent of Police, Hapur, who, along with the District Magistrate, Hapur will carry out the directions carried in this order forthwith.

23. The Court Officer shall convey Shivani to the Registrar General, who shall make immediate arrangement to take her into his immediate care and ensure compliance of this order.

24. Let this order be communicated to the learned District Judge, Hapur, the District Magistrate, Hapur, the Senior Superintendent of Police, Prayagraj and the Superintendent of Police, Hapur by the Joint Registrar (Compliance) within 24 hours.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Matter Under Article 227 No. 6222 of 2018

Jai Veer Singh & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Mukesh Kumar, Sri Mukesh Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Civil Law – Constitution of India: Article 227 – Scope of Magistrate's jurisdiction - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973; Section 133, 145, 146(1) - The Magistrate's jurisdiction, from the bare and clear words of the Statute is about preventing a breach of peace arising from a dispute relating to possession of an immovable property. The jurisdiction is one that relates to preservation of breach of peace, and not an adjudication about possession of parties, much less their title. The scope is to determine which party was in actual possession of the property in dispute on the date that he makes the preliminary order, and also to determine if any party has been dispossessed two months anterior in point of time to the date when preliminary order is made. He can also take into account dispossession of a party at any time after he makes a preliminary order. The Magistrate can grant an injunction within limited parameters and not otherwise. (Para 17, 18)

It must also be noted that the Magistrate's jurisdiction to make an order under Section 145 of any kind, must involve a continuing breach of peace. If at any time before it passes an order relating to possession for one or the other party, the apprehension of breach of peace disappears, he must lay his hands off. He must not feel tempted to adjudicate because he has issued a preliminary order and the parties have put in their written statements and led evidence. This is the clear purport of sub-Section (5) of Section 145 of the Code. (Para 19)

Court observed that the learned Judge glossed over the fact that the information before the Magistrate, on the basis of which he passed the preliminary order, only spoke about a threat to the respondents' possession from the petitioners. There was no material about an apprehension of breach of peace. There was, thus, no jurisdiction at all to initiate these proceedings where the impugned orders have been passed. (Para 23)

Writ Petition allowed. (E-3)

Precedent followed:

1. Indira & ors. Vs Dr. Vasantha & ors., 1991 CrLJ 1798 (Mad.) (Para 19)

2. Yaqub Ali Vs St. of Raj. & ors., 1995 CrLJ 1376 (Raj.) (Para 19)

3. Chatraram & ors. Vs St. of Raj. & ors., 1996 CrLJ 4495 (Raj.) (Para 19)

4. Ashok Kumar Vs St. of U.K. & ors., (2013) 3 SCC 366 (Para 23)

Present petition challenges order dated 13.01.2017, passed by Executive Magistrate and affirmed by Additional Sessions Judge, Farrukhabad.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The petitioners here complain that the Executive Magistrate, in the purported exercise of his power under Section 145 (1) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 19731 has usurped the civil court's jurisdiction and passed orders that only the civil court could have done.

2. Truly speaking, the controversy involved in this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is about the Executive Magistrate's jurisdiction to pass the order impugned dated 13.01.2017, under Section 145 of the Code, that has met with approval of the Additional Sessions Judge in a revision carried by the petitioners from the Magistrate's order.

3. The dispute is about 16 decimals of land, a part of Khasra No. 359, situated in Mauza Abhaipur, Pargana Shamshadbad East, Tehsil - Sadar, District - Farrukhabad. The total area of Khasra No. 359 is 1.43 acres. Smt. Radha, wife of Luxmi Narain and Smt. Tara Devi, wife of Vidwan Singh, both natives of Village Abhaipur, Police Station - Mohammadabad, District - Farrukhabad claim to be the title holders in possession of the 16 decimals of Khasra No. 359 last mentioned. The land aforesaid is hereinafter referred to as "the land in dispute". Smt. Radha and Smt. Tara Devi are respondent nos. 2 and 3 to this petition. For the sake of convenience, they shall hereinafter be referred to as "the respondents".

4. The petitioners are six in number. Jai Veer Singh, Badan Singh, Jeet Pal, are sons of Prem Raj, and Anand, Arun, Sangeet, are sons of Rustam Singh. The proceedings before the Magistrate were commenced by the respondents, under Section 145 (1) of the Code against Jai Veer Singh, Rustam Singh, Badan Singh and Jeet Pal Singh, all sons of Prem Raj and Mahipal Singh and Ajay Singh, both sons of Saudan Singh. Of all the original parties to the proceedings before the Magistrate, Rustam Singh appears to have passed away and his interest before this Court is represented by his three sons Anand, Arun and Sangeet. The other two parties to the proceedings before the Magistrate, Mahipal Singh and Ajay Singh, have not come up against the orders impugned. In these proceedings, Jai Veer Singh, Anand, Arun, Sangeet, Badan Singh and Jeet Pal shall be hereinafter collectively referred to as "the petitioners". This collective description will bear reference to the interest of Mahipal Singh and Ajay Singh, sons of Saudan Singh, who have not come up against the impugned orders. The respondents made an application to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Farrukhabad on 24.02.2014, under Section 145 of the Code, wherein the substance of the respondents' case is no more than this, that the petitioners forcibly and illegally want to dispossess the respondents from the property in dispute, and by doing that, they design to block a public way to the east of the property. It is also said that in case the petitioners forcibly and illegally dispossess the respondents from the land in dispute, the public way to the east of that land would be obstructed, which would cause the respondents irreparable injury. It is also asserted that in case the petitioners dispossess the respondents, their purpose of instituting the proceedings would be rendered infructuous. It is prayed on behalf of the respondents that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate may injunct the petitioners from forcibly and illegally dispossessing the respondents and take all necessary proceedings for the purpose.

5. It needs mention here that the petitioners' claim to the property in dispute as heirs of a certain late Smt. Phula, widow of Lalta Singh, through their deceased father, the late Puttu, claiming her 1/9th share located to the west of the village road. The said share, according to the petitioners, works out to an area of 16 decimals.

6. It appears that on the Magistrate ordering the Station House Officer, Kotwali Mohammadabad, District - Farrukhabad to hold an inquiry into the allegations and submit a report, the police submitted a report dated 14.03.2014 to the Magistrate. A perusal of the police report shows that the respondents are natives of Village Abhaipur. Their father, Puttu, passed away, in consequence whereof, their names have been entered in the khatauni relating to the land in dispute. The report records the respondents' allegation that the petitioners want to forcibly take possession of the land in dispute, and that they threaten them. The report also records the respondents' apprehension that the petitioners may take forcible possession of the land in dispute at any time. A site-plan of the property in dispute was also attached to the police report. On the basis of the police report, the Magistrate passed a preliminary order under Section 145 (1) of the Code on 27.07.2016, directing the parties to appear, put in their written statements and lead evidence in support of their respective cases. Later on, on 11.11.2016, the Magistrate passed an order under Section 146 (1) of the Code, directing attachment of the property in dispute on the ground of emergency, pending determination of proceedings under Section 145. That order records that during a tour of the area, the Magistrate did an inspection of the spot and found that there was tension prevailing between the parties concerning the land in dispute, which gave rise to an apprehension of breach of peace. He, therefore, ordered the land in dispute to be attached and delivered into the custody of any respectable person. The police were directed to carry out attachment and submit a report. The land in dispute was attached by the police on 14.12.2016 and given into the possession of one Natthu Singh, acting as the supurdgar.

7. After the parties led evidence, the case under Section 145 came up for determination before the Magistrate on 13.01.2017. The Magistrate ordered that the preliminary order dated 17.07.2016 passed by him is made absolute and the order dated 11.11.2016 under Section 146 (1) stands withdrawn. The petitioners were injuncted from interfering with the respondents' possession over the land in dispute. In case they had taken possession of the said land, they were ordered to vacate it within a week.

8. This order of the Magistrate's was challenged by the petitioners before the learned Sessions Judge, vide Criminal Revision No. 186 of 2017. This revision came up for determination before the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 6/Special Judge (E.C. Act), Farrukhabad on 24.05.2018. He has dismissed the revision and affirmed the Magistrate's order dated 13.01.2017.

9. Aggrieved, this petition under Article 227 of the Constitution has been filed.

10. The parties have brought a wealth of material on record in support of their respective cases about title to and possession of the property in dispute. This, they have done, through papers annexed to the writ petition, a counter affidavit dated 01.10.2018 filed by the respondents, a rejoinder affidavit dated 23.09.2020 on behalf of the petitioners, a supplementary affidavit dated 04.10.2020 filed by the petitioner, a supplementary short counter affidavit dated 09.10.2020 and a supplementary rejoinder affidavit in answer to it by the petitioners dated 13.10.2020.

11. Heard Mr. Mukesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Aniruddh Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents and Mr. Indrajit Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State of Uttar Pradesh.

12. The petitioners lay claim to the property in dispute, on the basis of title to a 1/16th share in Khasra No. 359 that they have purchased from one Tehsildar, son of Sultan, by means of a registered sale deed dated 05.10.1987 and a further accretion to their rights in the said khasra number by transfer of the 1/16th share of Smt. Kokila Devi, wife of the late Puttu, in Khasra No. 359 vide registered sale deed dated 08.07.1988 executed in favour of Smt. Kokila Devi, wife of the late Prem Raj, mother of petitioners Jai Veer Singh, Badan Singh and Jeet Pal. The respondents dispute the validity of the sale deed executed by their mother Smt. Kokila Devi, wife of the late Puttu, dated 08.07.1988. They say that they have inherited the property upon the death of their mother, and after her, their father, the late Puttu as well as the share of the late Smt. Phula, through their father. It must be remarked here that according to the respondents' case, originally urged before the Magistrate, the property in dispute has an area of 16 decimals, inherited from Smt. Phula. But once the petitioners came up with the case that they had purchased the property in dispute through sale deeds dated 05.10.1987 and 08.07.1987 from Tehsildar, son of Sultan and Smt. Kokila Devi, wife of the late Puttu respectively, the respondents have assailed the petitioners' rights, on the basis of those two sale deeds, including that executed by their mother. It must also be remarked that Khasra No. 359 appears to have many co-sharers, amongst whom, Smt. Kokila, widow of the late Puttu, Tehsildar, son of Sultan and Smt. Phula, widow of the late Lalta Singh were all recorded with varying shares. It is, therefore, difficult to say with much precision here whether the property in dispute is exclusively that which lay in Smt. Phula's share or includes the share of Smt. Kokila, claimed to be purchased by the petitioners through a registered sale deed. All these issues are properly the subject matter of two suits pending between the petitioners on the one hand and the respondents on the other, before the Civil Court.

13. It figures on record that O.S. No. 614 of 2016 has been filed by the petitioners against respondents in the court of the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Farrukhabad, claiming a permanent injunction, seeking to restrain the respondents (the defendants to that suit) from interfering in the petitioners' peaceful possession over the property in dispute and from demolishing a wall shown by letters "Ba, Sa". The respondents, on the other hand, disowning the sale deed executed by their mother in favour of the petitioners relating to the property in dispute, have instituted O.S. No. 19 of 2017 before the learned Civil Judge (Junior Divsion), City - Farrukhabad, seeking a decree for the cancellation of the registered sale deed dated 27.07.1988. Thus, the dispute between the parties about the title of and possession to the property in dispute is engaging the attention of the civil court, in two suits that are virtually cross suits.

14. It is submitted by Mr. Mukesh Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioners, that the impugned orders passed by the courts below are manifestly illegal, inasmuch as the Magistrate has no jurisdiction to grant an order of injunction of the kind that he has made. It is only the civil court that could have passed that order. The learned Magistrate has exceeded his jurisdiction and passed an ultra vires order. It is urged by him that those proceedings are motivated by an ex-Village Pradhan, who had unsuccessfully got proceedings initiated under Section 133 of the Code, relating to the land in dispute that he claimed to be a public way. Those proceedings did not yield any relief in favour of the proxies acting for the ex-village Pradhan, who had moved the Magistrate under Section 133 of the Code. He urges that it is the respondents now who are doing a second inning at the behest of the ex-village Pradhan, Natthu Singh, to deprive the petitioners of the property in dispute. He emphasizes that all this ought to be decided in a duly constituted suit by a Judge determining the action, and not by abuse of the process of criminal law. An Executive Magistrate, who is not a Judge, cannot decide the question of title or possession or title and possession. He submits that the issues involved, if at all these are ought to be determined in the pending suits between parties, and not in a surreptitious manner by the Magistrate, seized of proceedings under Section 145 of the Code. The orders passed by the Magistrate are beyond the scope of his jurisdiction.

15. Mr. Aniruddh Kumar, learned counsel for the respondents, on the other hand, submits that the impugned orders do not call for interference. He submits that the respondents are women and are facing unlawful deprivation of their property at the hands of the petitioners, who were threatening to forcibly dispossess them. He submits that in the suit filed by the petitioners, no temporary injunction has been granted as yet, though the temporary injunction application is still pending. On being confronted with the issue about the Magistrate venturing into forbidden territory, deciding questions relating to title and possession of parties, learned counsel for respondents submits that justice has to be administered promptly in such matters and the tardy process of the civil court defeats justice. He submits that the courts below, particularly the revisional court, has found the respondents to be the recorded owners in possession of the property in dispute, in whose favour mutation has been granted upon the decease of the last recorded bhumidhar, Smt. Phula, the respondents' predecessor-in-title. It is urged that title and possession, being found by the two courts below in favour of the respondents, the Magistrate has rightly injuncted the petitioner from interfering with the respondents' possession and also directed their eviction, in case they have taken possession.

16. This Court has given a thoughtful consideration to the rival contentions and perused the record. In order to determine the parameters of the Magistrate's jurisdiction, it would be profitable to refer to the provisions of Section 145 of the Code, which are extracted below :

145. Procedure where dispute concerning land or water is likely to cause breach of peace.

(1) Whenever an Executive Magistrate is satisfied from a report of a police officer or upon other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any land or water or the boundaries thereof, within his local jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing, stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court in person or by pleader, on a specified date and time, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the expression" land or water" includes buildings, markets, fisheries, crops or other produce of land, and the rents or profits of any such property.

(3) A copy of the order shall be served in the manner provided by this Code for the service of a summons upon such person or persons as the Magistrate may direct, and at least one copy shall be published by being affixed to some conspicuous place at or near the subject of dispute,

(4) The Magistrate shall then, without, reference to the merits or the claims of any of the parties to a right to possess the subject of dispute, peruse the statements so put in, hear the parties, receive all such evidence as may be produced by them, take such further evidence, if any, as he thinks necessary, and, if possible, decide whether any and which of the parties was, at the date of the order made by him under sub- section (1), in possession of the subject of dispute: Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that any party has been forcibly and wrongfully dispossessed within two months next before the date on which the report of a police officer or other information was received by the Magistrate, or after that date and before the date of his order under sub- section (1), he may treat the party so dispossessed as if that party had been in possession on the date of his order under sub- section (1).

(5) Nothing in this section' shall preclude any party so required to attend, or any other person interested, from showing that no such dispute as aforesaid exists or has existed; and in such case the Magistrate shall cancel his said order, and all further proceedings thereon shall be stayed, but, subject to such cancellation, the order of the Magistrate under subsection (1) shall be final.

(6) (a) If the Magistrate decides that one of the parties was, or should under the proviso to sub- section (4) be treated as being, in such possession of the said subject, he shall issue an order declaring such party to be entitled to possession thereof until evicted therefrom in due course of law, and forbidding all disturbance of such possession until such eviction; and when he proceeds under the proviso to sub- section (4), may restore to possession the party forcibly and wrongfully dispossessed.

(b) The order made under this sub- section shall be served and published in the manner laid down in sub- section (3).

(7) When any party to any such proceeding dies, the Magistrate may cause the legal representative of the deceased party to be made a party to the proceeding and shall thereupon continue the inquiry, and if any question arises as to who the legal representative of a deceased party for the purposes of such proceeding is, all persons claiming to be representatives of the deceased party shall be made parties thereto.

(8) If the Magistrate is of opinion that any crop or other produce of the property, the subject of dispute in a proceeding under this section pending before him, is subject to speedy and natural decay, he may make an order for the proper custody or sale of. such property, and, upon the completion of the inquiry, shall make such order for the disposal of such property, or the sale- proceeds thereof, as he thinks fit.

(9) The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, at any stage of the proceedings under this section, on the application of either party, issue a summons to any witness directing him to attend or to produce any document or thing.

(10) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to be in derogation of the powers of the Magistrate to proceed under section 107.

17. It is of seminal importance to notice that the Magistrate's jurisdiction, from the bare and clear words of the Statute is about preventing a breach of peace arising from a dispute relating to possession of an immovable property. The jurisdiction is one that relates to preservation of breach of peace, and not an adjudication about possession of parties, much less their title. In fact, the provisions of Section 145 of the Code finds place in Chapter X of the Code, which relates to maintenance of a public order and tranquility. It is only to prevent breach of peace that the Magistrate has been summarily entrusted with jurisdiction to determine as to which party was in possession of the property that is cause of the apprehended breach of peace on the date that he makes the preliminary order under Section 145 of the Code. The scope about the inquiry as to which party was in actual possession of the property in dispute, has been expanded in temporal terms to a period of time two months next before the date of the Magistrate's preliminary order. It is also designed to take cognizance of any dispossession of a party made after the Magistrate passes the preliminary order under Section 145 (1). Thus, the scope of the Magistrate's jurisdiction is to determine which party was in actual possession of the property in dispute on the date that he makes the preliminary order, and also to determine if any party has been dispossessed two months anterior in point of time to the date when preliminary order is made. He can also take into account dispossession of a party at any time after he makes a preliminary order. In the eventuality where the Magistrate finds a party to be in actual possession of the property in dispute on the date of the preliminary order, he may declare such party to be entitled to possession thereof, until a court of civil jurisdiction or other court of competent jurisdiction orders that party to be evicted. In a case where the Magistrate so declares a party to be entitled to possession, until evicted in due course of law, he may forbid all disturbance of such possession until a court of competent jurisdiction orders otherwise. The Magistrate, therefore, can grant an injunction within these limited parameters and not otherwise. In a case covered by the provisions of sub-Section (4) to Section 145 of the Code, where the Magistrate finds that a party was in possession two months anterior to the date that he passed the preliminary order, or has been dispossessed after he made the preliminary order, he may order restoration of that party to possession found by him to be forcibly and wrongfully deprived during the specific period of time. There are other orders that could be made dependent on the contingencies that the Magistrate may encounter while deciding the question of possession on the date of preliminary order, but those are not relevant for the purpose of the present controversy.

18. It would, thus, appear that the sine qua non of the Magistrate's jurisdiction under Section 145 is an apprehended breach of peace relating to a dispute concerning an immovable property. The purpose of the jurisdiction is to preserve peace. The decision about possession that the Magistrate is to enjoined to take is for the purpose of preservation of peace; the Magistrate's decision about possession is only incidental to the purpose of maintaining peace. It is no jurisdiction to decide anything about the party's possession, much less title. It is also to be remarked that in the process of maintaining peace, whatever the Magistrate decides about actual possession of a party to a dispute relating to immovable property has nothing to do with the propriety of possession. It is just designed to find out who was in settled possession, the sudden unsettlement whereof led to an apprehended breach of peace.

19. This being the scope of the Magistrate's jurisdiction, the invocation of power under Section 145 by a Magistrate, is frowned upon pending proceedings relating to possession or title of the said property before a civil court or any other court of competent jurisdiction, say, a revenue court or other special tribunal, that has seison of the dispute at given point of time when an apprehension about breach of peace arises. In this connection, reference may be made to the decisions in Indira & Others v. Dr. Vasantha & Others2, Yaqub Ali v. State of Rajasthan & Others3 and Chatraram & Others v. State of Rajasthan & Others4. Ideally, in that situation, the court concerned ought to be approached with an application for appropriate interim orders. Once orders are passed by a court of competent jurisdiction about possession or in any manner, making a temporary arrangement, the Magistrate ought not interfere in the matter. There could, however, be situations where there are no interim orders, and a serious threat to peace arises. In those cases, the Magistrate may act, but very carefully, and only when he finds that the court of competent jurisdiction is reluctant to pass orders, and the apprehension about breach of peace continues. It must also be noted that the Magistrate's jurisdiction to make an order under Section 145 of any kind, must involve a continuing breach of peace. If at any time before it passes an order relating to possession for one or the other party, the apprehension of breach of peace disappears, he must lay his hands off. He must not feel tempted to adjudicate because he has issued a preliminary order and the parties have put in their written statements and led evidence. This is the clear purport of sub-Section (5) of Section 145 of the Code.

20. Here, what this Court finds is that the contents of the application on which the proceedings have commenced, do not, at all, speak of any apprehension of breach of peace. All that is said there is that the respondents fear that they might be dispossessed by the petitioners. A reading of the application, which, in this case, is made to the Magistrate under Section 145 of the Code, clearly does not show that a dispute likely to cause breach of peace, relating to an immovable property, is in the offing. The Magistrate forwarded the application for an inquiry by the police. In taking that course of action, the Magistrate was absolutely right. The police submitted a report in the matter, which also shows that the respondents apprehend that they might be forcibly dispossessed by the petitioners from the land in dispute. The police report is absolutely silent about any apprehension as to breach of peace arising from the dispute existing between parties claimed vis-à-vis the land in dispute. The application by the respondents and the police report together were the information on which the Magistrate passed the preliminary order under Section 145(1) of the Code. It is this material on which he assumed jurisdiction to commence proceedings.

21. This Court must remark that in the absence of anything either in the respondent's application indicating an apprehension about breach of peace arising from a dispute relating to an immovable property or in the police report submitted on that application, there was no warrant at all for the Magistrate to have assumed jurisdiction under Section 145 of the Code and pass a preliminary order under sub-Section (1) of Section 145 of the Code. The subsequent orders, which are all ancillary to the assumption of the jurisdiction in sub-Section (1) of Section 145, would fall once it is apparent that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction in the matter, in the first instance. The Magistrate perhaps, realizing his folly, has attempted to create jurisdictional facts while passing the order dated 11.11.2016 under Section 146 (1) of the Code, attaching the property in dispute and appointing a supurdgar. He says in that order that during a routine inspection of the area, he did a spot inspection and found that there was tension prevalent between the parties, relating to the land in dispute, which is likely to cause breach of peace. This mention in the record of proceedings on 11.11.2016 while passing an order under Section 146 (1) of the Code and much after preliminary order under Section 145(1) dated 27.07.2016 was passed, makes it apparent that it is an attempt by the Magistrate to create jurisdiction, post initiation of proceedings. Even if it be assumed that the Magistrate, on a spot inspection, did find something for the first time that an apprehension of breach of peace existed, it was then that he could have initiated fresh proceedings under Section 145(1), treating it as a piece of information. But on 27.07.2016, when the preliminary order giving rise to these proceedings was passed, there was absolutely nothing in the information before the Magistrate about any apprehension of breach of peace. Also, the Magistrate's remarks introducing a case of apprehension of breach of peace midway does not really disclose that there was any such apprehension. The order shows it to be more of a ipse dixit of the Officer, who seems to be keen on validating the proceedings before him, that he realized were initiated without jurisdiction.

22. It must be remarked here that for an Executive Magistrate to be perplexed with the subtleties of law, is a understandable predicament. The Executive Magistrate's are lay officers and proceedings of this complexity may go awry before them. It is for this reason that they are subjected to superintendence of the learned Sessions Judge in revisions and also of this Court, even though their determinations are otherwise and not subject to an appeal. But the learned Additional Sessions Judge, who heard the revision from the Magistrate's order, did not deliver the Magistrate's folly with the refinements of his forensic ability. He went into the merits of the matter about possession and title of parties, as it were an appeal from a temporary injunction matter in a civil cause. He has recorded the following decisive findings :

उनके पिता जी श्री पुत्तू लाल का स्वर्गवास हो जाने के कारण खसरा नं0 359 में 16 डि0 जमीन इनके नाम खतौनी में दर्ज है व इनका कब्जा है लेकिन निगरानीकर्तागण जयवीर सिंह, रुस्तम सिंह, बदन सिंह जीतपाल पुत्रगण प्रेम सिंह व महिपाल सिंह, अजय सिंह पुत्रगण सौदान सिंह निवासी अभयपुर थाना मोहम्मदाबाद उक्त जमीन पर जबरदस्ती कब्जा करना चाहते है तथा विपक्षीगण/आवेदिकागण को डरा धमकाते हैं। जिससे आवेदिकाओ को भय है कि यह लोग उक्त जमीन पर कभी कब्जा करने की फिराक में है यह कर सकते है। आख्या मय नक्शा नजरी के आधार पर धारा 145 दं0 प्र0 सं0 के अन्तर्गत कार्यवाही किए जाने हेतु उपलब्ध करायी गयी है। उक्त आख्या के साथ संलग्न नक्शा नजरी के अवलोकन से प्रकट होता है कि का0 सं0–7/2 के परिशीलन से प्रकट होता है कि खसरा सं0 359 रकबा 0.16 डि0 आराजी खडन्जा रास्ता के पश्चिम खाली जगह के रुप में दर्शाया गया है उसके उपरान्त मकान महिपाल सिंह व रुस्तम सिंह बने दर्शाए गए है। उक्त आराजी के सम्बन्ध में अवर न्यायालय की पत्रावली पर खतौनी का0 सं0 5 उपलब्ध है जिसमें विरासतन विपक्षी सं0 1 व 2 का नाम ए0 सी0 ओ0 चकबन्दी के आदेशानुसार मृतका मु0 फुला के स्थान पर

दर्ज हुआ है। इस प्रकार विपक्षी सं0 1 व 2 बिरासतन विवादित सम्पत्ति की मालिक व काबिज है। इसके विपरीत पत्रावली पर निगरानीकर्तागण की ओर से अपने स्वामित्व के सम्बन्ध में कोई प्रलेख प्रस्तुत नही किया गया है। इसके अलावा निगरानी पत्रावली में आख्या तहसीलदार की छाया प्रति दाखिल है जो पत्रावली पर का0 सं0 18 बी/10 है। जिसके परिशीलन से प्रकट होता है कि पुलिस द्वारा तैयार किए गए नक्शा नजरी उपरोक्त की पुष्टि तहसीलदार के नक्शे से होती है। उक्त सम्पत्ति पर सक्षम प्राधिकारी ए0 सी0 ओ0 चकबन्दी के आदेशानुसार विपक्षी सं0 1 व 2 का नाम बतौर वारिस दर्ज हुआ है जिसके विपरीत पत्रावली पर निगरानीकर्तागण की ओर से कोई साक्ष्य नही है। इसलिए विद्वान अवर न्यायालय द्वारा पारित प्रश्नगत आदेश में कोई विधिक अथवा तथ्यात्मक त्रुटि नही पाई जाती है।

23. In recording all these findings, the learned Judge also glossed over the fact that the information before the Magistrate, on the basis of which he passed the preliminary order, only spoke about a threat to the respondents' possession from the petitioners. There was no material about an apprehension of breach of peace. There was, thus, no jurisdiction at all to initiate these proceedings where the impugned orders have been passed. In this connection, the decision of the Supreme Court in Ashok Kumar v. State of Uttarakhand & Others5 succinctly lays down law thus :

7. We may notice, in the instant case, the application was preferred by the respondent under Section 145 CrPC and on that application, a report was called for and the Sub-Inspector of Police submitted his report before the SDM on 1-10-2009. It is stated in the enquiry report that the Sub-Inspector of the village went to Subhashgarh and noticed that even though the landed property stood in the name of Mona Sharma yet it was found that Ashok Kumar, the appellant herein was in possession of the land in question in Khasra No. 181. The relevant portion of the report reads as follows:

"It is the submission of applicant Mona Sharma that both Ashok Kumar and Narendra Kumar have taken possession over her land and both have stated that they have purchased land from Bal Krishan, husband of Mona Sharma whereas, this land comes in the category of 10(ka), which cannot be sold/purchased.... In the land there is situated under constructed house of Ashok Kumar in present time and eucalyptus and mango trees of Narendra Kumar s/o Jairam r/o Subhashgarh are standing."

24. The Magistrate's finding, on which he has passed the impugned orders, apart from being without jurisdiction, is cryptic. It reads thus and no more :

मेरे द्वारा पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध पुलिस आख्या एवं अभिलेखीय साक्ष्यों का भली भांति परिशीलन किया गया। पुलिस आख्या में उपरोक्त विवादित जमीन पर आवेदिकाओं का कब्जा बताया गया है। धारा 145 द0 प्र0 स0 में स्वामित्व/कब्जा होना आवश्यक है। विपक्षीगणों द्वारा ऐसा कोई ठोस साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नही किया है, जिससे वादीगणो का कब्जा सिद्ध न हो सके। उपरोक्त विवेचनानुसार मैं इस निष्कर्ष पर पहुंचता हूं कि इस न्यायालय द्वारा दिनांक 27.07.2016 को धारा 145(1) द0 प्र0 सं0 के अन्तर्गत पक्षकारों के विरुद्ध जारी किये गये आदेश की पुष्टि किया जाना न्यायोचित प्रतीत होता है।

25. A reading of the aforesaid finding shows that there is not a word said about apprehension of breach of peace, which may invest the Magistrate with jurisdiction. Also, the Sessions Judge has not recorded any finding specifically as to which party was in possession on the date of the preliminary order or within two months ante-dating that order, or if the respondents were dispossessed after the Magistrate made the preliminary inquiry. In the absence of specific findings on these matters, he could not have passed the order impugned, which has been affirmed in manifest error by the learned Additional Sessions Judge.

26. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 13.01.2017 passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, District - Farrukhabad in Case No. 30 of 2016, under Section 145 of the Code, and the order dated 24.05.2018 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 4/Special Judge (E.C. Act), Farrukhabad, in Criminal Revision No. 168 of 2017 are hereby quashed. The parties are free to suit their rights on merits in the pending civil suits. Since possession was taken from the petitioners under an order of attachment by the Magistrate in these proceedings, the same shall be forthwith caused to be restored by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Farrukhabad to the petitioners, if not already restored, in compliance with the interim order earlier made in this case.

27. Nothing said here would affect the determination of the parties' rights at the trial of the two suits pending between them or any suit that may be instituted about the adjudication of their rights relating to the property in dispute.

28. Let this order be communicated to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Farrukhabad for strict compliance and to the learned Sessions Judge, Farrukhabad for record, by the Joint Registrar (Compliance).

Charge-sheet submitted by the Investigating Officer, U/ss 323 & 504 I.P.C., both offence non-cognizable, instead of being treated as a complaint, has been treated as a State Case by the concerned Magistrate - held same is not permissible under law - Cognizance & summoning order quashed - Magistrate directed for passing appropriate order in accordance with provisions of explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. (Para 9, 11)

Allowed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned A. G. A. and perused the record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr. P. C. has been filed by applicants with a prayer for quashing the entire proceedings of NCR No. 193 of 2015 (State vs. Savita Devi and another), under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C., P.S. Rohniya, district-Varanasi, pending in the court of Special Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi.

3. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that initially an NCR was lodged by the opposite party no. 2 at P.S.- Rohniya, district-Varanasi in the aforesaid case. However, after completion of investigation charge sheet was submitted by the Investigation Officer under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the offence under Sections 323 and 504 I.P.C. is non-cognizable, hence in view of the Explanation to Section 2 (d) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the case could not proceed as State Case and it has to proceed as a complaint case. He further submitted that the learned Magistrate has erroneously taken the charge-sheet as a State case.

5. Learned A. G. A. vehemently opposed the submissions made by learned counsel for the applicants.

6. It is not disputed that the offence under Sections 323 and 504 I. P. C. is non-cognizable.

7. Explanation to Section 2 (d) of the Cr. P. C. runs as under:

"Explanation- A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant."

8. In view of the said Explanation, report of the police officer after investigation disclosing commission of non-cognizable offence is to be deemed to be a complaint and the police officer who submitted the report has to be deemed to be a complainant. In other words the charge-sheet submitted by the police in a non-cognizable offence shall be treated to be a complaint and the procedure prescribed for hearing of complaint case shall be applicable to that case."

9. In the present case from the material brought on record it transpires that the charge-sheet submitted by the Investigating Officer instead of being treated as a complaint, has been treated as a State Case by the concerned Magistrate, which is not permissible under law.

10. In view of the discussions made above, this Court came to the conclusion that impugned order of cognizance and summoning order dated 01.04.2017 upon charge-sheet in a case arising out of NCR in respect of bailable and non-cognizable offences is wrong and incorrect and is liable to be quashed.

11. The application is allowed accordingly and the impugned order dated 01.04.2017 is quashed with a direction to learned Magistrate for passing appropriate order in accordance with law as well as provisions of explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C.

12. Let a copy of this order be sent to court below for proceeding with the case in accordance with law.

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant as well as learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the record.

2. This application has been filed seeking the release of the applicant on bail in Case Crime No. 609 of 2020, under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Gangster and Anti Social (Prevention) Activities Act, 1986, Police Station Jhangaha District Gorakhpur.

3. The chief plank of the submissions made on behalf of accused is that in all cases which have been made the basis to impose the provisions of Gangster Act against the accused, he has already been granted bail by the Court. Contention is that the provisions of the Act have been ill-used by the Police in order to perpetuate the detention of the applicant in jail anyhow even though the offence under the aforesaid Act is not made out. Submission is that the applicant is not a gangster and has never acted or conducted himself as such. Counsel for the applicant has also tried to demonstrate that the alleged previous offences which are said to have been committed by the applicant can at the most be said to be stray incident of breach of law having no nexus with the definition of a gangster as has been provided in the Act.

4. Further submission is that as the applicant has already been released on bail in all the cases on the basis of which the provisions of the Act were imposed, it shall not be much justified to continue the incarceration of the applicant. Submission is also that the applicant is not guilty of having committed any offence under the Gangster Act. It has also been pointed out that the accused is in jail since 31.5.2020 and that in the wake of heavy pendency of cases in the Court, there is no likelihood of any early conclusion of trial.

5. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the prayer for bail but could not dispute the fact of applicant having been released on bail in all the criminal cases which have been shown to be the basis of imposing the provisions of the Act.

6. After perusing the record in the light of the submissions made at the bar and after taking an overall view of all the facts and circumstances of this case, the nature of evidence, the period of detention already undergone, the unlikelihood of early conclusion of trial and also the absence of any convincing material to indicate the possibility of tampering with the evidence and larger mandate of the Article 21 of the Constitution of India and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Dataram Singh vs. State of UP and another, (2018) 3 SCC 22, this Court is of the view that the applicant may be enlarged on bail.

7. Let the applicant- Abhijeet Yadav, involved in Case Crime No. 609 of 2020, under Section 3(1) of the U.P. Gangster and Anti Social (Prevention) Activities Act, 1986, Police Station Jhangaha District Gorakhpur, be released on bail on his executing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned on the following conditions :-

(1) The applicant will not make any attempt to tamper with the prosecution evidence in any manner whatsoever.

(2) The applicant will personally appear on each and every date fixed in the court below and his personal presence shall not be exempted unless the court itself deems it fit to do so in the interest of justice.

(3) The applicant shall cooperate in the trial sincerely without seeking any adjournment.

(4) The applicant shall not indulge in any criminal activity or commission of any crime after being released on bail.

(5)The party shall file computer generated copy of such order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad or certified copy issued from the Registry of the High Court, Allahabad.

(6) The concerned Court/Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing

8. It may be observed that in the event of any breach of the aforesaid conditions, the court below shall be at liberty to proceed for the cancellation of applicant's bail.

9. It is clarified that the observations, if any, made in this order are strictly confined to the disposal of the bail application and must not be construed to have any reflection on the ultimate merits of the case.

Civil Law-Petitioner-appointment on compassionate ground-terminated on account of respondents confounding his father's name with that of another teacher - who was his father's namesake-The disassociation of Petitioner from 1992 until 2010 to be treated as effaced-therefore entitled for benefit of G.O. dated 01.02.2000 reckoning his appointment as an untrained teacher-Petitioner entitled to pay scale of trained teacher counting 5 years servive from joining duty.

W.P. allowed with cost. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 05.07.2017 passed by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Jaunpur, by which the Basic Shiksha Adhikari has refused to extend benefit of the Government Order dated 01.02.2000 to the petitioner, entitling him to salary of a trained teacher, upon completion of five years service.

2. Parties have exchanged affidavits.

3. Admit.

4. Heard forthwith.

5. Heard Mr. Dharmendra Kumar Dwivedi, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Mrigraj Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent nos.3 and 4 and Mr. Sriprakash Singh, learned Standing Counsel, appearing for respondent nos.1 and 2.

6. The petitioner's father was a Headmaster, posted at Prathmik Vidyalaya, Bhikharipur, Block Sujanganj, District Jaunpur. He died in harness on 05.09.1974. The petitioner applied for compassionate appointment, under the Dying-in-Harness Rules applicable. It is common ground between parties that the petitioner was appointed as Assistant Teacher (Primary), under the Dying-in-Harness Rules vide order dated 29.10.1991. He was posted to Prathmik Vidyalaya, Kailwal, Block Maharajganj, District Jaunpur. The petitioner joined on 01.11.1991.

7. It is asserted that on the basis of some false complaint that the petitioner had secured his appointment, relying on false documents, the petitioner's services were terminated by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari vide order dated 18.02.1992. This order of termination was challenged by the petitioner before this Court by means of Civil Misc. Writ Petition no.6619 of 1992. The orders passed in the aforesaid writ petition have not been placed before the Court, but what appears from the pleadings of parties is that the said writ petition was disposed of by an order dated 21.04.1992, directing the Basic Shiksha Adhikari to decide the petitioner's claim, asking for reinstatement with continuity of service. The Basic Shiksha Adhikari by his order dated 25.06.1992 rejected the petitioner's claim. This order was challenged by the petitioner by instituting Writ Petition (S/S) no.1241 of 1999 before the Lucknow Bench of this Court. Once again, the petitioner was relegated to the Basic Shiksha Adhikari for a decision of the matter afresh. It must be remarked that both these orders are not before this Court and reference to the outcome of those proceedings is based on the averments made in the writ petition that have not been disputed by the respondents. It appears that the matter somehow landed in the hands of the Director of Education, who also rejected the petitioner's claim by an order dated 07.01.2000.

8. The petitioner, finding that the respondent Authorities would not consider the matter in the right perspective, approached the State Administrative Tribunal, questioning all the decisions taken by the respondent Authorities, regarding termination of his services. He instituted Claim Petition no.1183 of 2000. The claim petition came up for hearing before the Tribunal on 05.11.2009 and was partly allowed. The orders dated 18.01.1992, 03.06.1992, 25.06.1992 and 07.01.1992 were set aside. The petitioner was ordered to be reinstated in service forthwith with liberty to the respondents to proceed with the inquiry, placing the petitioner under suspension and continuing the inquiry from the stage of furnishing him with a charge sheet. It was further ordered that the petitioner would be entitled to consequential service benefits, except back-wages, on a final outcome of the inquiry. The respondents were directed to conclude the inquiry within a period of three months. A perusal of the Tribunal's judgment shows that it proceeded on the reasoning that the order terminating the petitioner's services being stigmatic, disciplinary proceedings ought to have been held. It is in the context of this reasoning that the Tribunal made the orders, indicated hereinabove.

9. In compliance with the Tribunal's order, the Basic Shiksha Adhikari reinstated the petitioner in service vide order dated 29.06.2010. While doing so, the Basic Shiksha Adhikari clearly recorded in his order of reinstatement that the allegations on the basis of which the petitioner's services were earlier terminated, were absolutely untenable. It was indicated in the order of reinstatement that the precise allegations about the false certification of his candidature by the petitioner was on the basis that the petitioner's deceased father, Hridaya Narain Upadhyay died prior to 25.08.1972 and his Provident Fund amounting to Rs.1225/- was paid to his widow.

10. It is further recorded in the reinstatement order that the payment of Provident Fund, that was made to the wife of the late Hridaya Narain Upadhyay, was regarding a different man other than the petitioner's father. His father was functioning until the month of May, 1974, when he had to proceed on medical leave. He died on 05.09.1974. The Basic Shiksha Adhikari has recorded the further fact that the petitioner had produced before him a copy of the family register, which shows that the date of death of his father, the late Hridaya Narain Upadhyay was 05.09.1974.

11. The Basic Shiksha Adhikari, on the basis of these facts, has recorded a categorical finding that it appears that there were two teachers in two different primary schools by the name of Hridaya Narain Upadhyay, who were different men. Recording the aforesaid finding, the Basic Shiksha Adhikari reinstated the petitioner.

12. It must be remarked here that it is but obvious that the part of the Tribunal's judgment that permits the Basic Shiksha Adhikari to issue a charge sheet to the petitioner and resume disciplinary proceedings against him from that stage and other incidental directions, loose all significance. The petitioner's reinstatement in terms of the Tribunal's order is in absolute terms with no further proceedings contemplated. This is also explicit from the terms of the reinstatement order dated 29.06.2010 passed by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari.

13. Now, the petitioner resumed his duties on 02.07.2010 and is discharging his duties ever since. On 21.01.2010, the Basic Shiksha Adhikari issued directions that the petitioner be paid salary as an untrained teacher. The petitioner points out that in accordance with the Government Order dated 15.05.1997, all teachers appointed to Primary Schools or Junior High Schools, under the control of the Basic Shiksha Parishad, who had been appointed under the Dying-in-Harness Rules as untrained teachers and had completed five years service on 30.04.1997 or had two years service left to superannuate, were exempted from training. Subsequently, by a Government Order dated 06.08.1999, it was provided that the teachers of the aforesaid category (untrained teachers appointed under the Dying-in-Harness Rules), who had completed five years continuous service as on 31.12.1999, or who had two years left to retire, were granted exemption from training. Thus, exemption from training was provided twice. A Government Order dated 01.02.2000 came to be issued providing that the teachers appointed under Dying-in-Harness Rules, after they had put in five years service, be made to undergo training. It further provides that in case due to any unforeseen eventuality training is not possible, upon completion of five years continuous service, an assistant teacher of this class be given benefit of a trained teacher's pay scale, and, thereafter, arrangement be made to ensure training.

14. It is also pointed out by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that upon enforcement of the Government Order dated 01.02.2000, untrained teachers, who were appointed under the Dying-in-Harness Rules and had completed five years continuous service, have been extended the benefit of a trained teacher's pay scale. He has drawn the Court's attention to a number of orders relating to such teachers, that have been annexed compendiously as Annexure no.8 to the writ petition. Learned Counsel has also invited the Court's attention to the fact that there were 215 teachers in the entire district of Jaunpur, who were untrained and appointed under the Dying-in-Harness Rules. The petitioner was one of them. He has pointed out that by means of an order dated 18.04.2015, all these teachers have been asked to be relieved from their duties w.e.f. 27.04.2015 in order to undergo training at the DIET, Jaunpur w.e.f. 28.04.2015. The petitioner too was relieved and sent to training. It is stated that the petitioner has successfully completed his training, like other candidates. The petitioner, however, has not been granted a trained teacher's pay scale. He addressed various representations in the matter, including the representations dated 08.07.2015 and 03.02.2016, both to the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, but to no avail.

15. When those efforts went in vain, he approached this Court by means of Writ - A No.27008 of 2016. This Court disposed of the said petition, directing the Basic Shiksha Adhikari to consider the grievance of the petitioner and pass appropriate orders in accordance with law, preferably within four months of the date of receipt of a copy of the order dated 04.07.2016 passed by the Court in the writ petition, aforesaid. It is in consequence of the aforesaid directions that the impugned order dated 05.07.2017 has come to be made by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Jaunpur. The Basic Shiksha Adhikari has rejected the petitioner's representation on ground that the petitioner's services are to be reckoned with effect from 02.07.2010, when he was reinstated in service, in compliance with the order dated 29.06.2010. It has been urged that the petitioner's case is not one where he is qualified to receive benefit of the Government order dated 01.02.2000, or a further Government Order dated 24.04.2002.

16. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order is manifestly illegal, inasmuch as it is one made in violation of the State Administrative Tribunal's judgment and order dated 05.07.2017, which ordered reinstatement in service with consequential benefits, except back-wages, on the final outcome of inquiry. He submits that once the respondents have held that the petitioner is in no way guilty of any charge while reinstating him, there is no further inquiry, the outcome of which would delay consequential service benefits. He submits that the consequential service benefits, except back-wages would include the benefit of continuity of service. The petitioner had joined service along with 215 other untrained teachers in the year 1991. Once he is notionally taken to have been in continuous service, he cannot be deprived of the benefits of the Government Order dated 01.02.2000. It is also pointed out that the petitioner has retired pendente lite on 31.03.2018. He would, therefore, be entitled to revision of his emoluments as a trained teacher, including salary, G.P.F. and pension. He would also be entitled to arrears under all these heads.

17. Mr. Mrigraj Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the Basic Shiksha Adhikari and the Accounts Officer in the Basic Shiksha Adhikari's office, refuted the aforesaid submissions. It is, however, not his case that the petitioner secured employment by submitting false documents. Rather, he has drawn the Court's attention to paragraph no.12 of the counter affidavit, where it is clearly admitted that the petitioner's father, the late Hridaya Narain Upadhyay was a man different from the other Hridaya Narain Upadhyay, whose wife had been paid Providend Fund. It is mentioned in that paragraph that the said Hridaya Narain Upadhyay worked at the Primary School, Barpar, whereas the petitioner's father worked at the Primary School, Bhikharipur. It is also admitted that the petitioner's father died on 05.09.1974. The aforesaid assertions make it clear that there is nothing left to be inquired against the petitioner. There could indeed be no further disciplinary proceedings taken against the petitioner by serving him with a charge sheet as directed by the Tribunal. That part of the Tribunal's order has gone out of context.

18. Mr. Mrigraj Singh, however, submits that the petitioner joined on 02.07.2010 and would complete five years service on 02.07.2015. He has further been provided the pay scale of a trained teacher under the Government Orders, effective from 02.07.2015. He has drawn the Court's attention to paragraph no.15 of the counter affidavit in this regard. He disputes the petitioner's case that he is entitled, like the other untrained teachers appointed along with him on 29.10.1991, to a grant of trained teacher's pay scale on completion of five years' service reckoned from the year 1991, because in his case service has to be reckoned from 02.07.2010.

19. This Court has carefully perused the record and considered the rival submissions advanced on behalf of both sides. It is admitted for a fact that the petitioner was never at fault in securing his employment under the Dying-in-Harness Rules. His termination from service came about on account of the respondents confounding his father's name with that of another teacher, who was his father's namesake. This fact was not detected or disclosed by the respondents until judgment by the State Public Tribunal. It is on that account that the Tribunal found the order of termination to be procedurally flawed and permitted the respondents to issue a charge sheet to the petitioner, resuming disciplinary proceedings from that stage. The Tribunal granted all consequential benefits to the petitioner while ordering his reinstatement, but the consequential benefits granted, were made available contingent on the final outcome of the inquiry/ disciplinary proceedings.

20. Now, it is apparent that it was to say the least, negligence on the respondents' part to have confounded the name of the petitioner's father with another teacher's and on that basis, subjected him to all this harassment. It is equally true that once the respondents admit the fact that it was for their mistake in confounding the petitioner's father for another teacher, his namesake, that the petitioner's services were terminated, the judgment of the State Public Service Tribunal would now apply in terms as if the petitioner had been finally exonerated in the inquiry. The direction to grant all consequential benefits to the petitioner would apply except back-wages, that were denied. It is also clear that consequential benefits include continuity of service. The relief of continuity is no mere notion or inconsequential fiction. It is to apply with all its logical incidents. The effect would be that the petitioner would be deemed in service all these years, but for his entitlement to receive back-wages. Full effect, therefore, has to be given to the benefit of continuity in service granted to the petitioner, that is an integral part of the Tribunal's direction to grant consequential benefits. The petitioner, therefore, cannot be treated to be appointed w.e.f. 02.07.2010 in compliance with the order of the Basic Shiksha Adhikari dated 29.06.2010. The order of the Basic Shiksha Adhikari dated 29.06.2010 is in no way an order of appointment. It is an order to reinstate the petitioner in continuation of his original appointment, made way back on 29.10.1991, in pursuance whereto he had joined on 01.11.1991. The disassociation of the petitioner between 18.01.1992 until the petitioner's reinstatement in service on 02.07.2010 has to be treated as effaced.

21. This being the effect of the Tribunal's order and the consequential order of reinstatement, the petitioner would certainly be entitled to the benefit of the Government Order dated 01.02.2000, reckoning his appointment as an untrained teacher under the Dying-in-Harness Rules in terms of the order dated 29.10.1991. The petitioner would be entitled to a trained teacher's pay scale on the basis of his appointment dated 29.10.1991, counting the period of five years with effect from the petitioner's joining duties on 01.11.1991.

22. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and allowed with costs. The impugned order dated 05.07.2017 passed by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Jaunpur (Annexure no.14 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the respondents to forthwith redetermine all emoluments payable to the petitioner, including salary, pension, Provident Fund and other entitlements, on the basis that the petitioner is entitled to the trained teacher's pay scale on completion of five years service in terms of the Government Order dated 01.02.2000, reckoned with effect from the petitioner's appointment, dated 29.10.1991, pursuant whereto he joined on 01.11.1991. The Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Jaunpur and the Accounts Officer in the office of the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Jaunpur are ordered to redetermine the entire emoluments payable to the petitioner within two months of the date of receipt of a copy of this order and to pay all arrears on account of this revision within a period of two months, thereafter.

2.Writ-A No.3730 of 2009 (Ajai Raj Singh & ors. Vs St. of U.P. & ors.)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. The instant writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed, inter-alia, praying for the following reliefs:

i) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dated 22.06.2009 (Annexure No.10) to the writ petition passed by Director Higher Education U.P. Lucknow, respondent no.2.

ii) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to pay the salary to petitioner with arrears w.e.f. 01.03.2006 and month to month as and when falls due in accordance with law.

iii) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents not to interfere in peaceful functioning as Class IV employee (peon).

2. The facts, in brief, are that the State Government vide a Government Order dated 14th September, 2005 created 145 posts of Class-III and Class-IV in the Government Degree/ Post Graduate Colleges. Four posts each in the category of Lab Attendant and Lab Assistant were created in the College. The Director of Education (Higher), U.P., Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as the "Director") vide order dated 21st November, 2005 directed the Principal of all the Government Degree Colleges to initiate the recruitment process for filling up the vacancies of Class-III and Class-IV posts in their colleges. It is stated that It is claimed that the Committee of Management of the College issued an advertisement was published in daily newspaper "Dainik Jagran" on 17.12.2005 inviting vacancy of four posts in the category of Lab Attendant (Class IV) in Goswami Tulsi Das Rajkiya Snatakottar Mahavidyalaya Karvi, Chittrakoot (hereinafter referred to as the "Institution") calling applications from the eligible candidates against the four posts of Lab Attendant (Class-IV posts). The petitioner made application in pursuance of the said advertisement and they were found suitable by the Selection Committee and, accordingly, the Principal of the Institution issued appointment letters in favour of the petitioner on 28th February, 2006, in pursuance thereof the petitioner joined on 1st March, 2006 on the post of Peon and since then he is working in the Institution. It is alleged that despite the fact that the petitioner has been continuously working and discharging his duties, the payment of salary was withheld from March, 2006 without specifying any reason. Despite repeated representations having been filed by the petitioner before the respondent-authorities, the payment of salary of the petitioner continued to be withheld.

3. Aggrieved with the said action of the respondent-authorities, the petitioner filed Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.57104 of 2008 (Virendra Kumar Singh vs. State of U.P. and others) before this Court and vide order dated 12.11.2008, the writ petition has been disposed off. The order dated 12.11.2008 is quoted below:

"Contention of petitioner that he has been validly appointed, but no step is being undertaken for ensuring his remuneration since February, 2006.

Grievance raised by the petitioner can be very well looked into, examined and remedied by Director of Higher Education, U.P. Allahabad as such liberty is given to petitioner to represent his claim before the aforesaid authority within three weeks from today alongwith certified copy of this order. In this event of any such representation being made, the same shall be looked into, considered and appropriate decision be taken, in accordance with law, within next eight weeks, and the decision so taken shall be communicated to the petitioner.

In terms of above observation, present writ petition is disposed of."

4. In compliance of the above order of this Court, the Director vide impugned order dated 22.06.2009 has rejected the claim of the petitioner, inter-alia, on the ground that the incumbent, who had made appointment of the petitioner, had under gone some disciplinary proceeding, which is said to have been taken against him for irregularity committed in the appointment of Class III & IV employees and since there are procedural irregularities in the appointment of the petitioner and, accordingly, the appointment of the petitioner has been declared illegal.

5. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner has been continuously working and discharging his duties on the post of peon w.e.f. 28.02.2006, but the payment of salary of the petitioner was withheld from March, 2006 without specifying any reason. Further submission is that no order has been passed by the respondents either stopping the salary of the petitioner or canceling his appointment in any manner, whatsoever, therefore, in absence of any order, the action of the respondents in abruptly stopping the salary of the petitioner is wholly illegal, arbitrary and unjustified. Further submission is that under the relevant Rules, the process of selection has been undertaken by the competent authority in pursuance of the relevant government order creating the additional post in the Institution. Thus, there existed no cogent reason for withholding the salary of the petitioner. Further submission is that in the impugned order, there is nothing about any illegality or irregularity in the appointment of the petitioner and in view thereof, there is no justification to refuse the claim of the petitioner as has been done by the impugned order, hence, the impugned order is wholly illegal and erroneous. Further submission is that in the impugned order, the Director has not pointed out any procedural irregularity but has referred the punishment awarded to Sri Surya Bali Dwivedi, the then officiating Principal of the College, which has no relation with the appointment of the petitioner made against duly sanctioned and vacant Class-IV posts. Further the impugned order does not disclose any illegality, infirmity or irregularity in the selection. Moreover, the version of the petitioner has not been considered. The State Government itself has taken disciplinary action against the then Director, who has passed the impugned order. Submission further is that in one of the similar matters in Writ-A No. 66584 of 2008 (Chandra Deo Singh and others v. State of U.P. and others), decided on 09th September, 2014 and Writ-A No.3730 of 2009 (Ajai Raj Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and others) decided on 03.04.2015, this Court has set aside the order of the Director and has remanded the matter back for reconsideration.

6. I have heard Ms. Vijeta Kushwaha, holding brief of Sri S.K. Chadraul, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the material available on record.

7. From the order of the Director, it appears that the appointment of the petitioner was made during the tenure of officiating Principal Sri Surya Bali Dwivedi, against whom a disciplinary action was taken. In the order, it has not been denied that there were sanctioned posts and they were advertised in the widely circulated newspaper "Dainik Jagran". The fact that the posts were sanctioned and the petitioner possessed the essential qualification, has not been adverted to by the Director.

8. In view of above observations, I am of the opinion that the order of the Director dated 22nd June, 2009, as is impugned in the present writ petition, is unsustainable and it is hereby set aside. The matter is remitted to the Director to pass a fresh order after affording opportunity to the petitioner. The petitioner is at liberty to file a fresh representation along with supporting documents within three weeks from the date of receipt of a copy of this order. The Director shall consider the representation and the material filed by the petitioner and pass the appropriate order in accordance with law expeditiously.

9. Accordingly, the writ petitions is allowed. However, on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, there will be no order as to costs.

1. By means of this writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioners have prayed for a writ of mandamus directing the respondent nos. 2 and 3 to appoint the petitioner no.2 on a suitable post in Class-III or Class-IV.

2. Briefly stated facts of the present case, as noticed by this Court, are that the husband of the petitioner no.1, namely, late Chandra Bhushan Singh was a permanent employee of State Bank of India, who was posted as Messenger in Civil Lines Branch, Allahabad. On 06.12.2007, Chandra Bhushan died during his service and left behind him two sons, namely, Abhishek

Singh-petitioner no.2 and Avinash Singh, his widow wife-petitioner no.1-Smt. Neelam Singh and his old ailing parents. After the death of Chandra Bhushan Singh, the petitioners have made an application for appointment on compassionate ground before the respondent no.2-Chief Manager Human Resources (Network-III) Local Head Office Moti Mahal Marg, Lucknow in favour of petitioner no. 2, namely, Abhishek Singh, son of late Chandra Bhushan Singh. Vide letter dated 06.02.2008, the petitioners were informed by the respondent no.2 that presently there is no provision for appointment under the Dying-in-Harness Scheme, therefore, the appointment of the petitioner can not be made, hence, this writ petition.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that large number of dependents of Class III & IV, who died during service period, were given appointments by the respondents in various branches of the State Bank of India, but in the case of the petitioners, he has not been given appointment on compassionate ground, which is illegal. He has further submitted that only Rs.1,60,000/- has been paid as fund, which is too meager. He has further submitted that petitioners have no other source of livelihood and if the appointment of the petitioner no.2 is denied, the petitioners and their family member will suffer. The petitioner no.2 fulfills all minimum qualifications for being appointed on any Class-III/Class-IV posts, therefore, the petitioner no. 2 is entitled to be appointed as his younger brother and mother have no objection.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners has further submitted that the Ministry of Finance has floated a Scheme for compassionate appointment in Public Sector Banks vide letter dated 07.08.2014. Subsequently, the Ministry of Finance, Government of India issued a letter dated 05.12.2014 in response to the request made by the State Bank of India, whereby it was decided that all public sector banks can have both options i.e. compassionate appointment or payment of lump-sum ex-gratia amount. He has further submitted that on the date of death of father of petitioner no.2 and on the date of making the application, the compassionate appointment scheme was in force and, therefore, the petitioner no.2 is entitled to be considered for compassionate appointment under the said scheme. Learned counsel for the petitioner has, lastly, submitted that after the aforesaid policy decision taken by the Government of India, there does not exist any impediment in the compassionate appointment, hence, the case of the petitioner is fully covered under the Scheme for compassionate appointment in Public Sector Bank (PSB). In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioners has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Canara Bank vs. M. Mahesh Kumar, arising out of Civil Appeal No.260 of 2008 and other connected matters.

5. On the other hand, countering the above said submissions Ms. Archana Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-Bank has vehemently opposed the writ petition and submitted that a new Scheme i.e. SBI Scheme for Payment of Ex-gratia Lumpsum Amount was inducted on 04.08.2005 and under the aforesaid Scheme, the provisions giving compassionate appointment was abolished and its place, provisions of making payment of ex-gratia lumpsum amount was inducted.

6. Learned counsel for the respondent-Bank has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State Bank of India and another vs. Raj Kumar passed in Civil Appeal No.1641 of 2010 decided on 08.02.2010, wherein the Apex Court directed the appellant-Bank to process such application under the new Scheme. Learned counsel for the respondent-Bank has further submitted that the deceased employee died much after enforcement of new scheme inducted on 04.08.2005 in which the provisions of giving compassionate appointment was abolished and in its place provisions of making payment of ex-gratia lumpsum amount was inducted, hence, the writ petition seeking compassionate appointment may be dismissed.

7. I have heard Sri Manish Kumar Tripathi, the learned counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Archana Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-Bank and perused the material available on record.

8. Undisputedly, the father of petitioner no.2 died on 6.12.2007 while he was serving on the post of Messenger in Civil Lines Branch, Allahabad and the petitioners have applied for compassionate appointment as per "Dying in Harness Scheme", but the respondent-Bank informed vide its letter dated 06.02.2008 that the claim for compassionate appointment cannot be provided in the light of aforesaid Scheme i.e. SBI Scheme for Payment of Ex-Gratia Lumpsum Amount and, thus, the petitioners were only entitled for payment of ex-gratia lumpsum amount as per new Scheme.

9. Normally, three basic requirements to claim appointment under any scheme for compassionate appointment are: (i) an application by a dependent family member of the deceased employee; (ii) fulfillment of the illegibility criteria prescribed under the scheme; and (iii) availability of posts, for making such appointment. If a scheme provides for automatic appointment to a specified family member, on the death of any employee, without any of the aforesaid requirements, it can be said that the scheme creates a right in favour of family member for appointment on the date of death of the employee. On the other hand, if a scheme provides that on the death of an employee, if a dependent family member is entitled to appointment merely on making of an application, whether any vacancy exists or not, and without the need to fulfill any eligibility criteria, then the scheme creates a right in favour of the applicant on making the application. Normal scheme contemplates compassionate appointment on an application by a dependent family member, subject to the applicant fulfilling the prescribed eligibility requirements.

10. In Sushma Gosain and others vs. Union of India and others, (1989) 4 SCC 468, the law with regard to employment on compassionate ground for dependent of a deceased employee is well settled.

"9. We consider that it must be stated unequivocally that in all claims for appointment on compassionate grounds, there should not be any delay in appointment. The purpose of providing appointment on compassionate ground is to mitigate the hardship due to death of the bread earner in the family. Such appointment should, therefore, be provided immediately to redeem the family in distress. It is improper to keep such case pending for years. If there is no suitable post for appointment supernumerary post should be created to accommodate the applicant."

11. In the case of Canara Bank vs. M. Mahesh Kumar, arising out of Civil Appeal No.260 of 2008 and other connected matters decided on 15.05.2015, the Court held as under:

"14. It is also pertinent to note that 2005 Scheme providing only for ex-gratia payment in lieu of compassionate appointment stands superseded by the Scheme of 2014 which has revived the scheme providing for compassionate appointment. As on date, now the scheme in force is to provide compassionate appointment. Under these circumstances, the appellant- bank is not justified in contending that the application for compassionate appointment of the respondent cannot be considered in view of passage of time."

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid case, has also observed that the monetary benefit would not be replacement of the bread-earner, but that would undoubtedly bring some solace in the given situation.

13. It is also pertinent to note that 2005 Scheme provides only for ex-gratia payment in lieu of compassionate appointment, which stands superseded by the Scheme of 2014 which has revived the scheme providing for compassionate appointment. Thus, I find that after policy decision dated 05.04.2014 taken by Bank of India in respect of compassionate appointment, the case of the petitioners can be considered in light of the letter dated 05.04.2014 issued by Government of India.

14. In view of the aforesaid observations, mandamus is issued to the respondent-Bank to consider the claim of the petitioners within a period of three months from the date of presentation of copy of this order in light of the Scheme of compassionate appointment in Public Sector Bank w.e.f. 05.08.2014 issued vide its Letter No.F.No.18/2/2013-IR and letter dated 05.12.2014 issued by Government of India, Ministry of Finance, Department of Financial Services as well as judgment passed by Apex Court in the case of Canara Bank (supra).

15. The writ petition stands disposed off.

16. There will be no order as to costs.

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION
DATED: ALLAHABAD 08.12.2020

THE HON'BLE VIPIN CHANDRA DIXIT, J.

Criminal Revision No. 530 of 2014

Ashok Kumar Tyagi & Anr. ...Revisionists
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Revisionists:
Sri S.S. Shukla, Sri Dharmendra Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
A.G.A., Sri V.K. Agnihotri

A. Criminal Law – Rejection of final report submitted by investigating officer - Indian Penal Code 467, 468, 471, 420, 120-B; Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 190 - It is well settled law that Magistrate is not bound by the final report submitted by Investigating Officer, rather S. 190 Cr.P.C.

empowered the Magistrate to make the different view and proceed accordingly. There is no obligation on the Magistrate to accept the final report and if from the material on the case diary, he found that offence has been committed, the Magistrate can take cognizance u/s 190(1)(b) of Cr.P.C. (Para 12, 13)

Section 190 of Cr.P.C. empowered the Magistrate to take cognizance of any offence firstly upon receiving a complaint, secondly upon a police report and thirdly upon information received from any person other than a police officer or upon his own knowledge. The impugned order dated 13.1.2014 has been passed by learned Magistrate exercising his power u/s 190(1)(b) of Cr.P.C. (Para 9)

In the present case the learned Magistrate had taken cognizance after carefully perusing the case diary and after prima facie satisfaction that there is ample evidence against the accused persons for summoning them. The cognizance order has not been passed merely on the protest petition or any affidavit filed in support of it. The findings have been recorded by the learned Magistrate that after perusal of case diary and after prima facie satisfaction on the basis of material available in the case diary the cognizance has been taken. (Para 11, 12)

B. The Magistrate is empowered to take cognizance if the material on record makes out the case against the accused persons and at this stage the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. It is also laid down that while issuing the process the Magistrate is not required to record reasons. (Para 14)

The order passed by the learned Magistrate clearly indicates that he carefully examined the material and evidence collected during investigation which are part of the case diary and after prima-facie satisfaction had rejected the final report and taken cognizance under Section 190(1)(b). Cr.P.C. and as such there is no illegality or irregularity committed by learned Magistrate, while passing the order dated 13.1.2014. (Para 17)

C. Civil suit and criminal case can proceed simultaneously - It is, well-settled that in a given case, civil proceedings and criminal proceedings can proceed simultaneously. Whether civil proceedings or criminal proceedings shall be stayed depends upon the fact and circumstances of each case. (Para 18)

Criminal Revision dismissed. (E-3)

Present criminal revision assails order dated 13.01.2014, passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vipin Chandra Dixit, J.)

1. This criminal revision has been filed against the order dated 13.01.2014 passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.5, Ghaziabad in Criminal Case No.373 of 2010 (Baleshwar Dayal Vs. Ashok and others), under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C., P.S. Kavi Nagar, District Ghaziabad, by which final report no.439 of 2011 dated 29.6.2011 was rejected and the revisionist no.1 Ashok Kumar Tyagi, revisionist no.2 Smt. Reena Tyagi and Ram Nath Tyagi were summoned.

2. The brief facts of the case are that the opposite party no.2 Baleshwar Dayal Tyagi is residing in Canada for last 32 years having nationality of Canada. The opposite party no.2 had purchased a plot on 28.6.1991 bearing no.R-9/4 area 1266.66 square yard situated in Raj Nagar Colony, Ghaziabad. Since the opposite party no.2 was residing at Canada, he executed a power of attorney and will deed on 1.1.1991 in favour of revisionist no.1, who is brother-in-law (Sala) of opposite party no.2, to look after his property. Since the revisionist no.1 is close relative of opposite party no.2 as such the opposite party no.2 had full faith on him but in the year 2007 opposite party no.2 knew that revisionist no.1 is going to misappropriate his property and as such he cancelled the power of attorney as well as the will deed on 6.3.2007 which was earlier executed in favour of revisionist no.1. The information regarding cancellation of power of attorney and will deed was sent on 16.3.2007 through U.P.C. as well as by registered post and revisionist no.1 was also informed on telephone by the opposite party no.2. Opposite party no.2 had also informed to the Sub Registrar, Ghaziabad as well as Secretary, Ghaziabad Development Authority on 19.3.2007 to the effect that he had already cancelled the power of attorney which was executed in favour of revisionist no.1 and now revisionist no.1 has no authority to sell out his property through power of attorney. In spite of cancellation of power of attorney the revisionist no.1 executed a sale deed in favour of M/s Karb Constructions Pvt. Ltd. on 20.3.2007 in which Ram Nath Tyagi, father-in-law of revisionist no.1 was the director. The opposite party no.2 had lodged a F.I.R. against revisionist no.1 Ashok Kumar Tyagi as well as against Ram Nath Tyagi (father-in-law of the revisionist no.1) on 31.1.2008 and the case was registered as Case Crime No.96 of 2008, under Sections 467, 468, 471, 420 I.P.C. in P.S. Kavi Nagar, District Ghaziabad.

3. During investigation the opposite party no.2 alleged that his bank account was fraudulently re-opened by the revisionist no.2 who is wife of revisionist no.1 and as such the revisionist no.2 was also implicated as accused in the aforesaid case. The Investigating Officer after investigating the matter had submitted the final report on 30.5.2009 which was rejected by the court below on the objections of opposite party no.2 and direction was issued for re-investigation. The Investigating Officer again had submitted the final report on 29.6.2011 on the ground that no offence was found against the accused persons and disputes between the parties are of civil nature and already a civil suit being O.S. No.162 of 2008 is pending between the parties. Aggrieved with the final report dated 29.6.2011 the opposite party no.2 had filed protest petition on 18.1.2012 stating therein that power of attorney was cancelled much prior to execution of sale deed and the accused persons have committed fraud to misappropriate the property of the opposite party no.2. There are ample evidence against the accused persons and they are guilty to commit offence under Sections 467, 468, 471, 420, 465, 466 I.P.C. The learned Magistrate vide order dated 13.1.2014 had accepted the protest petition and the final report no.439 of 2011 dated 29.6.2011 was rejected and had taken cognizance under Section 190(1)(b) of Cr.P.C. and summoned the accused persons Ashok Kumar Tyagi, Ram Nath Tyagi and Smt. Reena Tyagi under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B I.P.C. The order of learned Magistrate dated 13.1.2014 is challenged by Ashok Kumar Tyagi and Smt. Reena Tyagi through present criminal revision.

4. Heard Sri S.S. Shukla, learned counsel for the revisionists, Sri Raj Kamal Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State/opposite party no.1, Sri V.K. Agnihotry, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and perused the record.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for the revisionists that order passed by court below is against the material evidence on record collected by Investigating Officer during investigation. It is further submitted that Investigating Officer after due investigation had submitted final report that no offence is made out against the revisionists but the court below has committed jurisdictional error by exercising of power under Section 190(1)(b) of Cr.P.C. It is further submitted that the court below has failed to consider that there is civil litigation between the parties and the suit being O.S. No.162 of 2008 for cancellation of agreement to sale deed is pending in the court of Civil Judge (S.D.) and the final report was rightly submitted that no offence is made out against the revisionists.

6. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State has submitted that the order impugned has been passed by learned Magistrate on the basis of materials which are available on record and there is no illegality in any manner and the criminal revision is liable to be dismissed with costs.

7. Learned counsel appearing for opposite party no.2 has submitted that power of attorney had already been cancelled by the opposite party no.2 and the revisionist no.1 has no right or authority under the law to execute the sale deed in favour of his father-in-law. The revisionist no.2 who is wife of revisionist no.1 had operated the dead bank account of opposite party no.2 after re-opening the same and all the accused persons manipulated the papers only for the purposes to grab the property of the opposite party no.2. It is further submitted that there are sufficient evidence in the case diary to submit the charge-sheet against the accused persons but the Investigating Officer in collusion with accused persons had submitted the final report in favour of accused persons. It is further submitted by learned counsel for opposite party no.2 that learned Magistrate found that there are enough material against the accused persons for committing offence, has rightly summoned them by the impugned order. The order dated 13.1.2014 was passed by the learned Magistrate relying on the evidence which were available in the case diary. After prima-facie satisfaction it was concluded by the learned Magistrate that the accused persons had committed offence and as such they have rightly been summoned, and the criminal revision has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

8. The powers of Magistrate for taking cognizance is provided in Chapter XIV of Cr.P.C. and Section 190 is relevant for the purposes of controversy involved in the present case which reproduced herein below:-

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub- section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub- section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try."

9. Section 190 of Cr.P.C. empowered the Magistrate to take cognizance of any offence firstly upon receiving a complaint, secondly upon a police report and thirdly upon information received from any person other than a police officer or upon his own knowledge. The impugned order dated 13.1.2014 has been passed by learned Magistrate exercising his power under Section 190(1)(b) of Cr.P.C.

10. Learned counsel for revisionists had relied on following case laws:-

(1) 2016 (2) JIC 513 (All) Hari Ram and others Vs. State of U.P. and another.

(2) 2019 (2) JIC 325 (All) Rishipal and others Vs. State of U.P. and another.

(3) 2008 (1) JIC 737 (SC) Inder Mohan Goswami and another Vs. State of Uttaranchal and others.

11. It is submitted by learned counsel for revisionists on relying the aforesaid judgments that the Magistrate has erred in relying the facts stated in protest petition as well as affidavits filed along with protest petition. It is further submitted that the impugned order is against the law as the Magistrate has not referred to any material collected by Investigating Officer and the final report was rejected in the light of affidavits placed before him along with protest petition.

12. The facts of the present case are entirely different as in the present case the learned Magistrate had taken cognizance after carefully perusing the case diary and after prima-facie satisfaction that there are ample evidence against the accused persons for summoning them. The cognizance order has not been passed merely on the protest petition or any affidavit filed in support of it. The findings have been recorded by the learned Magistrate that after perusal of case diary and after prima-facie satisfaction on the basis of material available in the case diary the cognizance has been taken. It is well settled law that Magistrate is not bound by the final report submitted by Investigating Officer, rather Section 190 Cr.P.C. empowered the Magistrate to make the different view and proceed accordingly.

13. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Har Prasad and another Vs. Ranveer Singh and another reported in (2008) 11 SCC 431 has laid down the law that there is no obligation on the Magistrate to accept the final report and if from the material on the case diary he found that offence has been committed, the Magistrate can take cognizance under Section 190(1)(b) of Cr.P.C. The paragraphs 7 & 8 are relevant for the purpose and are quoted herein below:-

"7. Reference may be made to a judgment of this Court in Abhinandan Jha and Ors. v. Dinesh Mishra where it was held as follows: (AIR pp. 120-23, paras 8-9, 12-13 & 17

"8. It is now only necessary to refer to Section 190, occurring in Chapter XV, relating to jurisdiction of Criminal courts in inquiries and trials. That section is to be found under the heading 'Conditions requisite for initiation of proceedings' and sub-section (1) is as follows:

'190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.- (1) Except as hereinafter provided, any Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any other Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf, may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a report in writing of such facts made by any police-officer;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police-officer, or upon his own knowledge or suspicion, that such offence has been committed.'

9. From the foregoing sections, occurring in Chapter XIV, it will be seen that very elaborate provisions have been made for securing that an investigation does take place into a reported offence and the investigation is carried out within the limits of the law, without causing any harassment to the accused and is also completed without unnecessary or undue delay. But the point to be noted is that the manner and method of conducting the investigation, are left entirely to the police, and the Magistrate, so far as we can see, has no power under any of these provisions, to interfere with the same. If, on investigation, it appears to the officer, in-charge of a police station, or to the officer making an investigation, that there is no sufficient evidence or reasonable grounds of suspicion justifying the forwarding of an accused to a Magistrate, Section 169 says that the officer shall release the accused, if in custody, on his executing a bond to appear before the Magistrate. Similarly, if on the other hand, it appears to the officer, in-charge of a police station, or to the officer making the investigation, under Chapter XIV, that there is sufficient evidence or reasonable ground to justify the forwarding of an accused to a Magistrate, such an officer is required, under Section 170, to forward the accused to a Magistrate; or, if the offence is bailable to take security from him for his appearance before such Magistrate. But, whether a case comes under Section 169, or under Section 170 of the Code, on the completion of the investigation, the police officer has to submit a report to the Magistrate, under Section 173, in the manner indicated therein, containing the various details. The question as to whether the Magistrate has got power to direct the police to file a charge - sheet, on receipt of a report under Section 173 really depends upon the nature of the jurisdiction exercised by a Magistrate, on receiving a report.

12. Though it may be that a report submitted by the police may have to be dealt with judicially, by a Magistrate, and although the Magistrate may have certain supervisory powers, nevertheless, we are not inclined to agree with the further view that from these considerations alone it can be said that when the police submit a report that no case has been made out for sending up an accused for trial, it is open to the Magistrate to direct the police to file a charge-sheet. But, we may make it clear, that this is not to say that the Magistrate is absolutely powerless, because, as will be indicated later, it is open to him to take cognizance of an offence and proceed, according to law. We do not also find any such power, under Section 173(3), as is sought to be inferred, in some of the decisions cited above. As we have indicated broadly the approach made by the various High Courts in coming to different conclusions, we do not think it necessary to refer to those decisions in detail.

13. It will be seen that the Code, as such, does not use the expression 'charge-sheet' or 'final report'. But it is understood, in the Police Manual containing Rules and Regulations, that a report by the police, filed under Section 170 of the Code, is referred to as a 'charge-sheet'. But in respect of the reports sent under Section 169 i.e. when there is no sufficient evidence to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, it is termed variously, in different States, as either 'referred charge', 'final report', or 'summary'.

17. We have to approach the question, arising for consideration in this case, in the light of the circumstances pointed out above. We have already referred to the scheme of Chapter XIV, as well as the observations of this Court in Rishbud and Inder Singh that the formation of the opinion as to whether or not there is a case to place the accused on trial before a Magistrate, is left to the officer in-charge of the police station. There is no express power, so far as we can see, which gives jurisdiction to pass an order of the nature under attack nor can any such powers be implied. There is certainly no obligation, on the Magistrate, to accept the report, if he does not agree with the opinion formed by the police. Under those circumstances, if he still suspects that an offence has been committed, he is entitled, notwithstanding the opinion of the police, to take cognizance, under Section 190(1)(c) of the Code. That provision in our opinion, is obviously intended to secure that offences may not go unpunished and justice may be invoked even where persons individually aggrieved are unwilling or unable to prosecute, or the police, either wantonly or through bona fide error, fail to submit a report, setting out the facts constituting the offence. Therefore, a very wide power is conferred on the Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence, not only when he receives information about the commission of an offence from a third person, but also where he has knowledge or even suspicion that the offence has been committed. It is open to the Magistrate to take cognizance of the offence, under Section 190(1)(c), on the ground that, after having due regard to the final report and the police records placed before him, he has reason to suspect that an offence has been committed. Therefore, these circumstances will also clearly negative the power of a Magistrate to call for a charge-sheet from the police, when they have submitted a final report. The entire scheme of Chapter XIV clearly indicates that the formation of the opinion, as to whether or not there is a case to place the accused for trial, is that of the officer in- charge of the police station and that opinion determines whether the report is to be under Section 170, being a 'charge-sheet', or under Section 169, 'a final report'. It is no doubt open to the Magistrate, as we have already pointed out, to accept or disagree with the opinion of the police and, if he disagrees, he is entitled to adopt any one of the courses indicated by us. But he cannot direct the police to submit a charge-sheet, because, the submission of the report depends upon the opinion formed by the police, and not on the opinion of the Magistrate. The Magistrate cannot compel the police to form a particular opinion, on the investigation, and to submit a report, according to such opinion. That will be really encroaching on the sphere of the police and compelling the police to form an opinion so as to accord with the decision of the Magistrate and send a report, either under Section 169, or under Section 170, depending upon the nature of the decision. Such a function has been left to the police, under the Code."

. As the factual position goes to show the order passed by the learned Magistrate was in consideration of the police report and was not relatable to the protest petition. That being so, the view of the High Court does not suffer from any infirmity and no interference is called for."

14. Similarly in the case of Jagdish Ram Vs. State of Rajasthan and another reported in (2004) 4 SCC 432, the Hon'ble Apex Court laid down the law that the Magistrate is empowerd to take cognizance if the material on record makes out the case against the accused persons and at this stage the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. It is also laid down that while issuing the process the Magistrate is not required to record reasons. The paragraph 10 is reproduced herein below:-

"10. The contention urged is that though the trial court was directed to consider the entire material on record including the final report before deciding whether the process should be issued against the appellant or not, yet the entire material was not considered. From perusal of order passed by the Magistrate it cannot be said that the entire material was not taken into consideration. The order passed by the Magistrate taking cognizance is a well written order. The order not only refers to the statements recorded by the police during investigation which led to the filing of final report by the police and the statements of witnesses recorded by the Magistrate under Sections 200 and 202 of the Code but also sets out with clarity the principles required to be kept in mind at the stage of taking cognizance and reaching a prima facie view. At this stage, the Magistrate had only to decide whether sufficient ground exists or not for further proceeding in the matter. It is well settled that notwithstanding the opinion of the police, a magistrate is empowered to take cognizance if the material on record makes out a case for the said purpose. The investigation is the exclusive domain of the police. The taking of cognizance of the offence is an area exclusively within the domain of a Magistrate. At this stage, the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction, can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of inquiry. At the stage of issuing the process to the accused, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons. (Dy. Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal).

15. The similar view has also been taken by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vishnu Kumar Tiwari Vs. State of U.P. reported in (2019) 8 SCC 27. The paragraph 43 is relevant which is reproduced herein below:-

"43. It is true that law mandates notice to the informant/complainant where the Magistrate contemplates accepting the final report. On receipt of notice, the informant may address the court ventilating his objections to the final report. This he usually does in the form of the protest petition. In Mahabir Prasad Agarwala v. State, a learned Judge of the High Court of Orissa, took the view that a protest petition is in the nature of a complaint and should be examined in accordance with provisions of Chapter XVI of the Criminal Procedure Code. We, however, also noticed that in Qasim v. State, a learned Single Judge of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, inter alia, held as follows: (Qasim case, SCC Online All para 6)

"6. ... In Abhinandan Jha also what was observed was "it is not very clear as to whether the Magistrate has chosen to treat the protest petition as complaint." This observation would not mean that every protest petition must necessarily be treated as a complaint whether it satisfies the conditions of the complaint or not. A private complaint is to contain a complete list of witnesses to be examined. A further examination of complainant is made under Section 200 Cr.P.C. If the Magistrate did not treat the protest petition as a complaint, the protest petition not satisfying all the conditions of the complaint to his mind, it would not mean that the case has become a complaint case. In fact, in majority of cases when a final report is submitted, the Magistrate has to simply consider whether on the materials in the case diary no case is made out as to accept the final report or whether case diary discloses a prima facie case as to take cognizance. The protest petition in such situation simply serves the purpose of drawing Magistrate's attention to the materials in the case diary and invite a careful scrutiny and exercise of the mind by the Magistrate so it cannot be held that simply because there is a protest petition the case is to become a complaint case."

16. The similar view has also been taken by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of M/s India Carat Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Karnataka and another reported in (1989) 2 SCC 132. The paragraphs 15 & 16 are relevant which are reproduced herein below:-

"15. In the case of H.S. Bains (supra) one Gurnam Singh submitted a complaint to the Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Chandigarh alleging that H.S. Bains trespassed into his house along with two others on 11-8-1979 at about 8 a.m. and threatened to kill him and his son. The Magistrate directed the police under Section 156(3) of the Code to make an investigation. After completing the investigation, the police submitted a report to the Magistrate under Section 173(2) of the Code stating that the case against the accused was not true and that the case may be dropped. The learned Magistrate disagreed with the conclusion of the police and took cognizance of the case under Sections 448 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code and directed the issue of process to the accused. Thereupon, the accused moved the High Court for quashing the proceedings before the Magistrate. As the High Court declined to interfere, the accused approached this Court by way of appeal by special leave. Various contentions were advanced on behalf of the accused and one of them was that the Magistrate was not competent to take cognizance of the case upon the police report since the report was to the effect that no offence had been committed by the accused. It was further urged that if the Magistrate was not satisfied with the police report, there were only two courses open to him, viz. either to order a further investigation of the case by the police or to take cognizance of the case himself as if upon a complaint and record the statements of the complainant and his witnesses under Section 200 of the Code and then issue process if he was satisfied that the case should be proceeded with. Repelling those contentions this Court held as follows:

"The Magistrate is not bound by the conclusions arrived at by the police even as he is not bound by the conclusions arrived at by the complainant in a complaint. If a complainant states the relevant facts in his complaint and alleges that the accused is guilty of an offence under Section 307 Indian Penal Code the magistrate is not bound by the conclusion of the complainant. He may think that the facts disclose an offence under Section 324 Indian Penal Code only and he may take congnizance of an offence under Section 324 instead of Section 307. Similarly if a police report mentions that half a dozen persons examined by them claim to be eye witnesses to a murder but that for various reasons the witnesses could not be believed, the Magistrate is not bound to accept the opinion of the police regarding the credibility of the witnesses. He may prefer to ignore the conclusions of the police regarding the credibility of the witnesses and take cognizance of the offence. If he does so, it would be on the basis of the statements of the witnesses as revealed by the police report. He would be taking cognizance upon the facts disclosed by the police report though not on the conclusions arrived at by the police."

16. The position is, therefore, now well settled that upon receipt of a police report under Section 173 (2) a Magistrate is entitled to take cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code even if the police report is to the effect that no case is made out against the accused. The Magistrate can take into account the statements of the witnesses examined by the police during the investigation and take cognizance of the offence complained of and order the issue of process to the accused. Section 190(1)(b) does not lay down that a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence only if the investigating officer gives an opinion that the investigation has made out a case against the accused. The Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the investigating officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case, if he thinks fit, in exercise of his powers under Section 190(1)(b) and direct the issue of process to the accused. The Magistrate is not bound in such a situation to follow the procedure laid down in Section 200 and 202 of the Code for taking cognizance of a case under Section 190(1)(b) though it is open to him to act under Section 200 or Section 202 also. The High Court was, therefore, wrong in taking the view that the Second Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate was not entitled to direct the registration of a case against the second respondent and order the issue of summons to him."

17. The Magistrate is not bound to the final report submitted by Investigating Officer. The Magistrate can have his own opinion and if after prima-facie satisfaction he finds that there are sufficient material and evidence collected by the Investigating Officer during investigation, he can reject the final report and can issue process against the accused persons. The order passed by the learned Magistrate clearly indicates that he carefully examined the material and evidence collected during investigation which are part of the case diary and after prima-facie satisfaction had rejected the final report and taken cognizance under Section 190(1)(b) Cr.P.C. and as such there is no illegality or irregularity committed by learned Magistrate while passing the order dated 13.1.2014.

18. The next submission of learned counsel for the revisionists is that the dispute is of civil nature and civil suit is still pending for cancellation of sale deed and as such criminal case can not proceed and the court below has exceeded its jurisdiction to summon the revisionists in a criminal case. It is well settled law settled by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of P. Swaroopa Rani Vs. M. Hari Narayana reported in 2008 (5) SCC 765 that civil suit and criminal case can proceed simultaneously. The relevant paragraphs 13 and 19 are quoted herein below.

"13. It is, however, well-settled that in a given case, civil proceedings and criminal proceedings can proceed simultaneously. Whether civil proceedings or criminal proceedings shall be stayed depends upon the fact and circumstances of each case. [See M.S. Sheriff v. State of Madras AIR 1954 SC 397, Iqbal Singh Marwah v. Meenakshi Marwah (2005) 4 SCC 370 and Institute of Chartered Accountants of India v. Assn. of Chartered Certified Accountants (2005) 12 SCC 226].

19. It goes without saying that the respondent shall be at liberty to take recourse to such a remedy which is available to him in law. We have interfered with the impugned order only because in law simultaneous proceedings of a civil and a criminal case is permissible."

19. In view of aforesaid discussions, there is no illegality or irregularity in the order passed by learned Magistrate dated 13.1.2014 by which the final report was rejected and the revisionists were summoned to face the trial. The revisionists have thus failed to point out any infirmity, illegality, irregularity, impropriety or incorrectness in the order and the present criminal revision lacks merits and deserves to be dismissed.

20. Accordingly, the criminal revision is dismissed. No order as to costs.

REVISIONAL JURISDICTION

THE HON'BLE RAVI NATH TILHARI, J.

Criminal Revision No. 1611 of 2020

Lalaram ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Akansha Verma, Sri Deepak Kumar Verma, Sri Siya Ram Verma

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Discretion of magistrate u/s 156(3) CrPC - Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 156(3), 173(2), 190, 200, 202 (1), 397/401 - It cannot be said that the Magistrate is bound to order registration of a First Information Report in all cases, where a cognizable offence is disclosed. It is not incumbent upon a Magistrate to allow an application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. and there is no such legal mandate. The Magistrate may or may not allow the application in his discretion. He has a discretion to treat an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint. (Para 12(i), 27)

Code of Criminal procedure provides for information to the police and the investigation by the police, it also provides for the judicial surveillance by the Magistrate in cases where the reports are not registered by the police. The duties of the police and their power to investigate are enumerated in Chapter XII of the Code (Ss. 154, 156 CrPC), under caption "information to the police and their powers to investigate." Cognizance and procedure of complaint case is provided under Chapter XIV and XV, respectively (Ss. 190, 200, 202 and 203 Cr.P.C.) (Para 14, 15, 16, 40)

If F.I.R. is not being lodged or the investigation is not being done the alternative course available to the aggrieved person is to approach the Court of law, by making an application giving detail narration of the incident fulfilling the requirements of a complaint under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or a regular complaint. (Para 17, 40)

Where the Magistrate receives a complaint or an application u/s 156(3) and the facts alleged therein disclose commission of an offence, he 'may take cognizance' which in the context in which these words occur in Section 190 of the Code, cannot be equated with 'must take cognizance.' The word 'may' gives a discretion to the Magistrate in the matter. Two, of the available, courses to the Magistrate u/s 190, are that he may either take cognizance u/s 190 or may forward the complaint to the police u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C., for investigation by the police. Before it can be said that any magistrate has taken cognizance of any offence under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC, he must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petition but he must have done so for the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as per the provisions of Cr.P.C. (Para 18, 21, 22, 26)

If the Magistrate takes cognizance, he is required to embark upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV "Complaints to Magistrate", by directing the complainant to get the statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. (Para 19, 23)

Judicial Magistrate before taking cognizance of the offence can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code. If he does so, he is not to examine the complainant on oath because he is not taking cognizance of any offence therein. For the purpose of enabling the police to start investigation, it is open to the Magistrate to direct the police to register an FIR. A Magistrate need not order any such investigation if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. (Para 24)

B. Where jurisdiction is exercised on a complaint filed in terms of Section 156(3) or Section 200 CrPC, the Magistrate is required to apply his mind and the application of mind by the Magistrate should be reflected in the order. The Mere statement that he had gone through the complaint, documents and heard the complainant, as such, as reflected in the order, will not be sufficient. After going through the complaint, documents and hearing the complainant, what weighed with the Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC, should be reflected in the order, though a detailed expression of his views is neither required nor warranted. (Para 12(ii), 28, 35)

The Magistrate may, where on account of credibility of information available, or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightaway direct investigation, such a direction is issued, but in cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate has yet to determine "existence of sufficient ground to proceed". Category of cases falling under Para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari (infra) may fall u/s 202. Subject to these broad guidelines available from the scheme of the Code, exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is guided by interest of justice from case to case. (Para 32, 34)

No decision was cited to throw any light upon the considerations, which should weight with the Magistrate to guide his discretion, in adopting the courses open to him when an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is made to him, held that as per the scheme of the Cr.P.C. and the prevailing circumstances required that the option to direct the registration of the case and its 'investigation' by the police should be exercised, where some 'investigation' is required, which is of a nature that is not possible for a private complainant and which can only be done by the police upon whom statute has conferred, the powers essential for investigation, e.g., where the full details of the accused are not known to the complainant and the same can be determined only as a result of investigation; the recovery of abducted person or stolen property is required by raids or searches; where for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution of the accused evidence is required to be collected and preserved etc. (Para 38)

C. Distinction in the power to order police investigation u/s 156(3) and u/s 202(1) of the Cr.P.C. The two powers operate in separate distinct spheres at different stages, the former being exercisable at the pre-cognizance stage and the latter at the post-cognizance stage when the Magistrate is in seisin of the case. In the case of a complaint regarding the commission of a cognizable offence, the power u/s 156(3) could be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence u/s 190(1)(a), but once such cognizance is taken and he embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he would not be competent to revert to the pre-cognizance stage and avail S.156(3). On the other hand, it was observed that S.202 would be invocable at a stage when some evidence has been collected by the Magistrate in the proceedings under Chapter XV, but is deemed to be insufficient to take a decision as to the next step and in such an event, the Magistrate would be empowered u/s 202 to direct, within the limits circumscribed by that provision, an investigation for the purpose of deciding whether or not, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. It was thus exposited that the object of an investigation u/s 202 is not to initiate a fresh case on police report but to assist the Magistrate in completing the proceedings already instituted upon a complaint before him. (Para 12(iii), 37, 39)

D. The order passed by the Magistrate in the present case is not maintainable as perusal of the order clearly shows that the learned Magistrate has not applied judicious mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable therein. The order does not assign any reason, as to why the application was treated as a complaint case and why the order for police investigation was not required. The order does not reflect application of judicious mind. It does not stand the test of the law as laid down in the cases of 'Ashok Kumar' (infra) and Ram Deo Food Products (infra) of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, and in the case of 'Gulab Chand Upadhyay' (infra) of this Court. (Para 12(iv), 43)

Present criminal revision assails order dated 26.08.2020, passed by learned Judicial Magistrate u/s 156(3) CrPC, District Kanpur Dehat.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Sri Deepak Kumar Verma, learned counsel for the revisionist/applicant Sri Pankaj Saxena, learned AGA appearing for the State and perused the material brought on record.

2. This Criminal Revision under Section 397/401 of Criminal Procedure Code (Cr.P.C.) has been filed challenging the order dated 26.08.2020, passed by learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Kanpur Dehat, in Misc. Case No.743 of 2020 (Lalaram Vs. Ram Kishan & Others), under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., Police Station Rasoolabad, District kanpur Dehat. Further prayer is for a direction to the court below to issue direction to the concerned police station for registration of first information report in pursuance of the Misc. Case No.743 of 2020 (Lalaram Vs. Ram Kishan & Others), under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., Police Station Rasoolabad, District kanpur Dehat, under suitable section and submit report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. before the court concerned.

3. Considering nature of the order under challenge, as well as the order proposed to be passed and as purely legal question is involved and keeping this revision pending would serve no fruitful purpose as well as keeping in view that at this stage, the proposed accused-private respondents have no right to be heard, the notice to the private respondents is dispensed with.

4. Briefly stated facts of the case as per the revision/petition are that the opposite party nos.2 to 14 demolished foundation in front of the door of the revisionist/applicant on 02.07.2020 at about 10.00 A.M. for constructing path, to which the revisionist objected in view of the pendency of a Civil Suit No.279 of 2020 in the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kanpur Dehat. On 07.07.2020 at about 8.00 A.M., the opposite party nos. 2 to 14 entered the house of the revisionist and mercilessly beaten him with lathi-danda & foot. They also snatched Rs.1600/- from purse in the pocket of the revisionist and thereafter ran away by extending threat to face dire consequences. The revisionist immediately informed the concerned police station but his case was not registered and he was told to go for medical examination firstly. On the next day i.e. on 08.07.2020 the revisionist went to the District Hospital Akbarpur, Kanpur Dehat for his medical examination and was referred to the Dentist for further examination. The revisionist informed the whole incident to the Superintendent of Police Kanpur Dehat by way of an application through registered post on 16.07.2020, but no action was taken thereon and consequently he filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the Judicial Magistrate Ist Kanpur Dehat on 14.08.2020, alongwith the injury report dated 08.07.2020, X-ray report dated 16.07.2020 and other documents, according to which the revisionist had sustained grievous injuries caused by hard and blunt object. The learned Magistrate by order dated 26.03.2020 treated the application as a complaint case.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the order under challenge does not secure the ends of justice, in as much as the learned Magistrate has registered the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint case and has directed the applicant/complainant to record his statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. His submission is that the learned Magistrate must have directed the police to register the FIR and make investigation and submit report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., as the averments in the complaint/application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. disclosed commission of a cognizable offence, and if the application disclosed commission of a cognizable offence, the Magistrate must have directed for investigation by police before taking cognizance and must not have taken upon himself to inquire into the matter after taking cognizance by registering the application as a complaint case.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that in view of the nature of the averments and the offence disclosed in the application, without any police investigation the matter could not be resolved. He has submitted that the order passed by the Magistrate suffers from non-application of mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable therein.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance on the judgment of the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in ''Lalita Kumari Vs. Government of U.P. and others', 2014(2) SCC 1, and the judgments of this Court in ''Jitendra Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others', Criminal Revision No.1768 of 2018, decided on 29.05.2018; ''Shiv Mangal Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others', Criminal Revision No.715 of 2019, decided on 25.02.2019.

8. Learned AGA has submitted that the Magistrate has the jurisdiction to direct the police to register the F.I.R. and make investigation without taking cognizance. But, he has also the jurisdiction to take cognizance and proceed to inquire the matter by himself, registering the application as a complaint case. In such circumstance he has to follow the procedure prescribed for complaint case. He has submitted that the Magistrate while proceeding as a complaint case has still the power to direct for police investigation, in view of Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. If the Magistrate in his discretion has adopted the option of registering the application as a complaint case, no illegality has been committed by the Magistrate. Learned A.G.A. has placed reliance on the case of ''Sukhwasi Vs. State of U.P. and others' 2007 (59) ACC 739 (Allahabad) (D.B.) in support of his contention that it is in the discretion of the Magistrate to direct for police investigation before taking cognizance under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., or after taking cognizance to proceed with the application as a complaint case.

9. With respect to the case of ''Lalita Kumari (Supra)', learned A.G.A. has submitted that the said case is not on the powers of the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.; but it has been laid down therein that whenever an application submitted to the police discloses commission of a cognizable offence, the FIR must be registered by the police authorities and they can not refuse registration of FIR.

10. In reply the learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that in the course of inquiry by the Magistrate in a complaint case he has the power to call for the police report of the investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C., but that investigation by the police would be different and distinct than the investigation directed under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

11. I have considered the submissions as advanced by the learned counsel for the applicant, the learned AGA and perused the material brought on record.

12. The points which arise for consideration are:-

i) Whether in each and every case, where an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is made to the Magistrate disclosing commission of a cognizable offence, the Magistrate is legally bound to direct registration of the FIR and investigation by police or the Magistrate has also the power and jurisdiction to pass order for registration of the application as a complaint case.?

ii) On what considerations the Magistrate should take decision for investigation by police or to proceed with as a complaint case?

iii) What is the nature of an investigation by the police in pursuance of the direction of the Magistrate issued under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and the investigation by the police in pursuance of the direction of the Magistrate issued under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. ?

iv) Whether the order passed by the Magistrate in the present case deserves to be maintained or not?

13. All the aforesaid points i), ii) and iii) are interrelated and therefore are being considered simultaneously. It would be appropriate to consider the legal provisions and the law on the subject at this very stage.

14. Crime detection and the adjudication are two inseparable wings of justice delivery system. While crime detection is the exclusive function of the police, judiciary is the final arbiter of the guilt or otherwise of the persons charged with the offence. To sustain the faith of the people in the efficacy of the whole system investigative agency should work efficiently, impartially and uninfluenced by any outside agency, however, powerful it may be. For an orderly society, importance of the police cannot be denied. But, many times there have been serious comments on their functioning. It is very often complained that when a person having suffered at the hands of others, goes to the police to ventilate his grievance and to bring the offenders to book, his report is not accepted. The Code of Criminal Procedure takes care of this position. While it provides for information to the police and the investigation by the police, it also provides for the judicial surveillance by the Magistrate in cases where the reports are not registered by the police.

15. The duties of the police and their power to investigate are enumerated in Chapter XII of the Code, under caption "information to the police and their powers to investigate." It would be appropriate to reproduce Sections 154 and 156 Cr.P.C. as under:-

(1) Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read Over to the informant; and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf.

(2) A copy of the information as recorded under sub- section (1) shall be given forthwith, free of cost, to the informant.

(3) Any person aggrieved by a refusal on the part of an officer in charge of a police station to record the information referred to in subsection (1) may send the substance of such information, in writing and by post, to the Superintendent of Police concerned who, if satisfied that such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, shall either investigate the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him, in the manner provided by this Code, and such officer shall have all the powers of an officer in charge of the police station in relation to that offence."

"Section 156 Police officer' s power to investigate cognizable case.

(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.

(2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under section 190 may order such an investigation as above- mentioned."

16. Cognizance and procedure of complaint case is provided under Chapter XIV and XV, respectively of which Sections 190, 200, 202 and 203 Cr.P.C. are being reproduced as under:-

"Section 190 cognizance of offence by Magistrates-(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under Sub-Section (2), may take cognizance of any offence--

(a). upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b). upon a police report of such facts;

(c). upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under Sub-Section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try."

"Section 200. Examination of complainant.

Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses, and also by the Magistrate;

Provided that, when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses,

(a) if a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint; or

(b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under section 192;

Provided further that if the Magistrate makes over the case to another Magistrate under section 192 after examining the complainant and the witnesses, the latter Magistrate need not re-examine them."

"Section 202:- Postponement of issue of process.-(1) Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 192, may, if he thinks fit and shall in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction, postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding;

Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made--

(a) where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions; or

(b) where the complaint has not been made by a Court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under section 200.

(2). In an inquiry under Sub-Section (1), the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take evidence of witness on oath;

Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath.

(3). If an investigation under Sub-Section (1) is made by a person not being a police officer, he shall have for that investigation all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a police station except the power to arrest without warrant."

Section 203:- Dismissal of complaint. If, after considering the statements on oath (if any) of the complainant and of the witnesses and the result of the inquiry or investigation (if any) under section 202, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he shall dismiss the complaint, and in every such case he shall briefly record his reasons for so doing,*

17. From the bare perusal of the Scheme of Chapter XII of the Code it is clear that when a report either on oral or written is made to the officer-in-charge of the police station which discloses commission of a cognizable offence, it is obligatory of him to register a case and proceed with the investigation. In the event, he refuses to receive the report and shows indifference to perform statutory duties, the person aggrieved by such refusal may approach the Superintendent of Police giving substance of the information in writing and by post. The Superintendent of Police on being satisfied that the information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence shall investigate the case either himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him. If F.I.R. is not being lodged or the investigation is not being done the alternative course available to the aggrieved person is to approach the court of law, by making an application giving detail narration of the incident fulfilling the requirements of a complaint under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or a regular complaint.

18. Where the Magistrate receives a complaint or an application under Section 156(3) and the facts alleged therein disclose commission of an offence, he "may take cognizance' which in the context in which these words occur in Section 190 of the Code, cannot be equated with "must take cognizance.' The word "may' gives a discretion to the Magistrate in the matter. Two, of the available, courses to the Magistrate under Section 190, are that he may either take cognizance under Section 190 or may forward the complaint to the police under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., for investigation by the police.

19. If the Magistrate takes cognizance, he is required to embark upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV "Complaints to Magistrate", by directing the complainant to get the statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. The Magistrate may make further enquiry as per Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. Where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area of exercise of jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned, he has to postpone the issue of process and make inquiry or he may direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he may think fit. Thereafter, if the Magistrate is of the opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he shall dismiss the complaint under Section 203 Cr.P.C. briefly recording the reasons for such dismissal. On the other hand, if the Magistrate is of the opinion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding, he would issue process by following Section 204 Cr.P.C.

20. If the Magistrate on a reading of the complaint finds that the allegations therein clearly disclose commission of a cognizable offence and forwarding of the application/complaint under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. to the police for investigation, will be conducive to justice and valuable time of the Magistrate will be saved in inquiring into the matter which is the primary duty of the police to investigate, he will be justified in adopting that course as an alternative to take cognizance of the offence himself. An order under Section 156(3), Cr.P.C. directing the police to investigate is in the nature of a reminder or intimation to the police to exercise their full powers of investigation. Such an investigation begins with the collection of evidence and ends with a report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C.

21. In Gopal Das Sindhi versus State of Assam AIR 1961 SC 986, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, referring to earlier judgments held that the provisions of Section 190 cannot be read to mean that once a complaint is filed, a Magistrate is bound to take cognizance if the facts stated in the complaint disclose the commission of any offence. The word "may' in Section 190 cannot mean as "must'. The reason is obvious. A complaint disclosing cognizable offences may well justify a Magistrate in sending the complaint, under Section 156(3) to the police for investigation. There is no reason why the time of the Magistrate should be wasted when primarily the duty to investigate in cases involving cognizable offences is with the police. On the other hand, there may be occasions when the Magistrate may exercise his discretion and take cognizance of a cognizable offence. If he does so then he would have to proceed in the manner [provided by Chapter XV of the Code.

It is relevant to reproduce paragraph no.7 of Gopal Das Sindhi (supra) as under:-

"7. In support of the first submission it was urged that the Additional District Magistrate had on August 3, 1957, transferred under Section 192 of the Cr PC the complaint to Mr Thomas for disposal. In these circumstances, it must be assumed that the Additional District Magistrate had taken cognizance of the offences mentioned in the complaint and Mr Thomas had no authority to refer the case to the police for investigation. He was bound to have examined the complainant on oath and then proceeded in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Proceedure which applied to disposal of complaints. Mr Thomas had no authority in law to send the complaint under Section 156(3) to the police for investigation. It was urged that Section 190 of the Cr PC sets out how cognizance may be taken of an offence. Section 190(1)(a) authorizes a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or a Sub-Divisional Magistrate and any other Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf, to take cognizance of an offence upon receiving a complaint stating facts which constitute such offence. Once a complaint is filed before a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of an offence he was bound to take cognizance and the word ''may' in this sub-section must be read as ''shall'. Thereafter the proceedings with reference to the complaint must be under Chapter XVI and the procedure stated in the various sections under that Chapter must be followed. Consequently, it was not open to Mr Thomas to direct the police to investigate the case under Section 156(3) of the Code."

It was further held that before it can be said that any magistrate has taken cognizance of any offence under Section 190(1)(a) Criminal Procedure Code, he must not only have applied his mind to the contents of the petition but he must have done so for the purpose of proceeding in a particular way as per the provisions of Cr.P.C.

22. In Fakruddin Ahmed versus State of Uttaranchal (2008) 17 SCC 157 it has been held that on receipt of a complaint the Magistrate has more than one course open to him to determine the procedure and the manner to be adopted for taking cognizance of the offence. It would be relevant to reproduce paragraph nos. 9 to 12 as under:-

"9. Before examining the rival contentions, we may briefly refer to some of the relevant provisions in the Code. Chapter XIV of the Code, containing Sections 190 to 199 deals with the statutory conditions requisite for initiation of criminal proceedings and as to the powers of cognizance of a Magistrate. Sub-section (1) of Section 190 of the Code empowers a Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence in the manner laid therein. It provides that a Magistrate may take cognizance of an offence either (a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence; or (b) upon a police report of such facts; or (c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge that such offence has been committed.

10. Chapter XV containing Sections 200 to 203 deals with "Complaints to Magistrates" and lays down the procedure which is required to be followed by the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint. Similarly, Chapter XVI deals with "Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates". Since admittedly, in the present case, the Magistrate has taken cognizance of the complaint in terms of Section 190 of the Code, we shall confine our discussion only to the said provision. We may, however, note that on receipt of a complaint, the Magistrate has more than one course open to him to determine the procedure and the manner to be adopted for taking cognizance of the offence.

11. One of the courses open to the Magistrate is that instead of exercising his discretion and taking cognizance of a cognizable offence and following the procedure laid down under Section 200 or Section 202 of the Code, he may order an investigation to be made by the police under Section 156(3) of the Code, which the learned Magistrate did in the instant case. When such an order is made, the police is obliged to investigate the case and submit a report under Section 173(2) of the Code. On receiving the police report, if the Magistrate is satisfied that on the facts discovered or unearthed by the police there is sufficient material for him to take cognizance of the offence, he may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code and issue process straightaway to the accused. However, Section 190(1)(b) of the Code does not lay down that a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence only if the investigating officer gives an opinion that the investigation makes out a case against the accused. Undoubtedly, the Magistrate can ignore the conclusion(s) arrived at by the investigating officer.

12. Thus, it is trite that the Magistrate is not bound by the opinion of the investigating officer and he is competent to exercise his discretion in this behalf, irrespective of the view expressed by the police in their report and decide whether an offence has been made out or not. This is because the purpose of the police report under Section 173(2) of the Code, which will contain the facts discovered or unearthed by the police as well as the conclusion drawn by the police therefrom is primarily to enable the Magistrate to satisfy himself whether on the basis of the report and the material referred therein, a case for cognizance is made out or not."

23. In Suresh Chand Jain & others versus State of M.P. & another, (2001) 2 SCC 628 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that any Magistrate empowered under Section 190 may order an investigation by police, but a Magistrate need not order any such investigation, if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. Once he takes cognizance of the offence he has to follow the procedure envisaged in Chapter XV of the Code. It was further held that Chapter XII of the Code contains provisions relating to information to the police and their powers to investigate, whereas Chapter XV, which contains Section 202 deals with provisions relating to the steps which a Magistrate has to adopt while and after taking cognizance of any offence on a complaint. The Investigation referred to in Section 202 is the same investigation and the various steps to be adopted for it have been elaborated in Chapter XII of the Code. Such investigation would start with making the entry in a book to be kept by the officer-in-charge of a police station, of the substance of the information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence. The investigation started thereafter can end up only with the report filed by the police as indicated in Section 173 of the Code. The investigation contemplated in that Chapter can be commenced by the police even without the order of a Magistrate. But, that does not mean that when a Magistrate orders an investigation under Section 156(3) it would be a different kind of investigation, such investigation must also end up only with the report contemplated in Section 173 of the code. But when a Magistrate orders investigation under Chapter XII he does so before he takes cognizance of the offence. A Magistrate need not order any such investigation if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. The direction for investigation under Section 202 (1) is after taking cognizance of the offence and is only for helping the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. It is relevant to reproduce paragraph nos. 8 and 10 of Suresh Chand Jain (supra) as under:-

"8. The investigation referred to therein is the same investigation, the various steps to be adopted for it have been elaborated in Chapter XII of the Code. Such investigation would start with making the entry in a book to be kept by the officer in charge of a police station, of the substance of the information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence. The investigation started thereafter can end up only with the report filed by the police as indicated in Section 173 of the Code. The investigation contemplated in that chapter can be commenced by the police even without the order of a Magistrate. But that does not mean that when a Magistrate orders an investigation under Section 156(3) it would be a different kind of investigation. Such investigation must also end up only with the report contemplated in Section 173 of the Code. But the significant point to be noticed is, when a Magistrate orders investigation under Chapter XII he does so before he takes cognizance of the offence.

10. The position is thus clear. Any Judicial Magistrate, before taking cognizance of the offence, can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code. If he does so, he is not to examine the complainant on oath because he was not taking cognizance of any offence therein. For the purpose of enabling the police to start investigation it is open to the Magistrate to direct the police to register an FIR. There is nothing illegal in doing so. After all registration of an FIR involves only the process of entering the substance of the information relating to the commission of the cognizable offence in a book kept by the officer in charge of the police station as indicated in Section 154 of the Code. Even if a Magistrate does not say in so many words while directing investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code that an FIR should be registered, it is the duty of the officer in charge of the police station to register the FIR regarding the cognizable offence disclosed by the complaint because that police officer could take further steps contemplated in Chapter XII of the Code only thereafter."

24. In Mohd. Yousuf Vs. Smt. Afaq Jahan and another, (2006) 1 SCC 627 the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated that the clear position is that any Judicial Magistrate before taking cognizance of the offence can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code. If he does so, he is not to examine the complainant on oath because he is not taking cognizance of any offence therein. For the purpose of enabling the police to start investigation, it is open to the Magistrate to direct the police to register an FIR. There is nothing illegal in doing so. A Magistrate need not order any such investigation if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. Once he takes cognizance of the offence he has to follow the procedure envisaged in Chapter XV of the Code. It would be appropriate to reproduce paragraph nos. 6 to 11 of "Mohd. Yousuf (supra)" as under:-

"6. Section 156 falling within Chapter XII, deals with powers of police officers to investigate cognizable offences. Investigation envisaged in Section 202 contained in Chapter XV is different from the investigation contemplated under Section 156 of the Code.

7.Chapter XII of the Code contains provisions relating to "information to the police and their powers to investigate", whereas Chapter XV, which contains Section 202, deals with provisions relating to the steps which a Magistrate has to adopt while and after taking cognizance of any offence on a complaint. Provisions of the above two chapters deal with two different facets altogether, though there could be a common factor i.e. complaint filed by a person. Section 156, falling within Chapter XII deals with powers of the police officers to investigate cognizable offences. True, Section 202, which falls under Chapter XV, also refers to the power of a Magistrate to "direct an investigation by a police officer". But the investigation envisaged in Section 202 is different from the investigation contemplated in Section 156 of the Code.

8. The various steps to be adopted for investigation under Section 156 of the Code have been elaborated in Chapter XII of the Code. Such investigation would start with making the entry in a book to be kept by the officer in charge of a police station, of the substance of the information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence. The investigation started thereafter can end up only with the report filed by the police as indicated in Section 173 of the Code. The investigation contemplated in that chapter can be commenced by the police even without the order of a Magistrate. But that does not mean that when a Magistrate orders an investigation under Section 156(3) it would be a different kind of investigation. Such investigation must also end up only with the report contemplated in Section 173 of the Code. But the significant point to be noticed is, when a Magistrate orders investigation under Chapter XII he does so before he takes cognizance of the offence.

9.But a Magistrate need not order any such investigation if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. Once he takes cognizance of the offence he has to follow the procedure envisaged in Chapter XV of the Code. A reading of Section 202(1) of the Code makes the position clear that the investigation referred to therein is of a limited nature. The Magistrate can direct such an investigation to be made either by a police officer or by any other person. Such investigation is only for helping the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. This can be discerned from the culminating words in Section 202(1) i.e. "or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding".

10.This is because he has already taken cognizance of the offence disclosed in the complaint, and the domain of the case would thereafter vest with him.

11.The clear position therefore is that any Judicial Magistrate, before taking cognizance of the offence, can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code. If he does so, he is not to examine the complainant on oath because he was not taking cognizance of any offence therein. For the purpose of enabling the police to start investigation it is open to the Magistrate to direct the police to register an FIR. There is nothing illegal in doing so. After all registration of an FIR involves only the process of entering the substance of the information relating to the commission of the cognizable offence in a book kept by the officer in charge of the police station as indicated in Section 154 of the Code. Even if a Magistrate does not say in so many words while directing investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code that an FIR should be registered, it is the duty of the officer in charge of the police station to register the FIR regarding the cognizable offence disclosed by the complaint because that police officer could take further steps contemplated in Chapter XII of the Code only thereafter."

25. The law laid down in Mohd Yousuf (supra) was reaffirmed in Hemant Yashwant Dhage versus State of Maharashtra (2016) 6 SCC 273. It was held by Hon'ble the Apex Court that registration of an F.I.R. involves only the process of recording the substance of information relating to commission of any cognizable offence in a book kept by the officer in charge of the police station concerned. It is open to the Magistrate to direct the police to register an FIR and even where a Magistrate does not do so in explicit words but directs for investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. the police should register an FIR because Section 156 falls within Chapter XII of the Code which deals with powers of the police officers to investigate cognizable offences, the police office concerned would always be in a better position to take further steps contemplated in Chapter XII once FIR is registered in respect of the cognizable offence concerned.

26. In "Ram Babu Gupta and others Vs. State of U.P. and others', 2001(43) ACC 50 (F.B.) the full Bench of this Court had formulated two questions of which first was as follows :-

"(1) Should the Magistrate while exercising powers under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. be left to write criptic orders "register and investigate," or "register and do the needful" or "he has to investigate," or the like? or the Magistrate's order should prima-facie indicate application of mind.?"

The Full Bench answered the first question by holding that on receiving a complaint, the Magistrate has to apply his mind to the allegations in the complaint upon which he may not at once proceed to take cognizance and may order it to go to the police station for being registered and investigated. But, if the Magistrate takes cognizance, he proceeds to follow the procedure provided in Chapter XV of Cr.P.C. It was further held that the order of the Magistrate must indicate application of mind. Paragraph 17 of Ram Babu Gupta (supra) is being reproduced as under:-

"17. In view of the aforesaid discussion on the legal provisions and decisions of the Supreme Court as on date, it is hereby held that on receiving a complaint, the Magistrate has to apply his mind to the allegations in the complaint upon which he may not at once proceed to take cognizance and may order it to go to the police station for being registered and investigated. The Magistrate's order must indicate application of mind. If the Magistrate takes cognizance, he proceeds to follow the procedure provided in Chapter XV of Cr.P.C. The first question stands answered thus."

27. In "Sukhwasi Vs. State of U.P. & others" 2007 (9) ADJ 1 (DB), the following question was referred for consideration to the Division Bench:-

"Whether the Magistrate is bound to pass an order on each and every application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. containing allegations of commission of a cognizable offence for registration of the F.I.R. and its investigation by the police, even if those allegations, prima-facie, do not appear to be genuine and do not appeal to reason, or he can exercise judicial discretion in the matter and can pass order for treating it as 'complaint' or to reject it in suitable cases?"

The Division Bench answered the reference by holding that it cannot be said that the Magistrate is bound to order registration of a First Information Report in all cases, where a cognizable offence is disclosed. It is not incumbent upon a Magistrate to allow an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and there is no such legal mandate. The Magistrate may or may not allow the application in his discretion. He has a discretion to treat an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint. Paragraph nos. 9, 11 and 23 of "Sukhwasi (Supra)" are being reproduced as under:-

"9. The use of the word 'Shall' in Section 154(3) Cr.P.C. and the use of word 'May' in Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. should make the intention of the legislation clear. If the legislature intended to close options for the Magistrate, they could have used the word 'Shall' as has been done in Section 154(3) Cr.P.C. Instead, use of the word 'May' is, therefore, very significant, and gives a very clear indication, that the Magistrate has the discretion in the matter, and can, in appropriate cases, refuse to order registration."

"11. Let us take an example to make things clear. If somebody wants to file a First Information Report, that the District Judge of the concerned District came to his house at 1.20 O'clock in the day, and fired upon him, with the country made pistol and he ducked and escaped being hurt, and the District Judge is, therefore, liable for an offence under Section 307 Indian Penal Code. The Magistrate knows that the District Judge was in his court room, at that time, and the concerned staff also knows that. Is the Magistrate still bound to order registration of a First Information Report because the application discloses a cognizable offence? It is obvious that the answer has to be in negative and it cannot, therefore, be said that the Magistrate is bound to order registration of a First Information Report in all cases, where a cognizable offence is disclosed."

"23. The reference is, therefore, answered in the manner that it is not incumbent upon a Magistrate to allow an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and there is no such legal mandate. He may or may not allow the application in his discretion. The second leg of the reference is also answered in the manner that the Magistrate has a discretion to treat an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint."

28. In "Anil Kumar versus M.K. Aiyappa and another (2013) 10 SCC 705 the Hon'ble Supreme Court also examined if the Magistrate, while exercising powers under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. could act in a mechanical or casual manner and go on with the complaint after getting the reports and held that where jurisdiction is exercised on a complaint filed in terms of Section 156(3) or Section 200 CrPC, the Magistrate is required to apply his mind and the application of mind by the Magistrate should be reflected in the order. The Mere statement that he had gone through the complaint, documents and heard the complainant, as such, as reflected in the order, will not be sufficient. After going through the complaint, documents and hearing the complainant, what weighed with the Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC, should be reflected in the order, though a detailed expression of his views is neither required nor warranted.

29. In ''Lalita Kumari versus Govt. of U.P., (2014) 2 SCC 1, a Constitution Bench of Hon'ble the Supreme Court has given the following conclusion/directions, which as contained in paragraph no.120 are being reproduced as under:-

"120.) In view of the aforesaid discussion, we hold:

120.1) The Registration of FIR is mandatory under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence and no preliminary inquiry is permissible in such a situation.

120.2) If the information received does not disclose a cognizable offence but indicates the necessity for an inquiry, a preliminary inquiry may be conducted only to ascertain whether cognizable offence is disclosed or not.

120.3) If the inquiry discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, the FIR must be registered. In cases where preliminary inquiry ends in closing the complaint, a copy of the entry of such closure must be supplied to the first informant forthwith and not later than one week. It must disclose reasons in brief for closing the complaint and not proceeding further.

120.4) The police officer cannot avoid his duty of registering offence if cognizable offence is disclosed. Action must be taken against erring officers who do not register the FIR if information received by him discloses a cognizable offence.

120.5) The scope of preliminary inquiry is not to verify the veracity or otherwise of the information received but only to ascertain whether the information reveals any cognizable offence.

120.6) As to what type and in which cases preliminary inquiry is to be conducted will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The category of cases in which preliminary inquiry may be made are as under:

a) Matrimonial disputes/ family disputes

b) Commercial offences

c) Medical negligence cases

d) Corruption cases

e) Cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, for example, over 3 months delay in reporting the matter without satisfactorily explaining the reasons for delay.

The aforesaid are only illustrations and not exhaustive of all conditions which may warrant preliminary inquiry.

120.7) While ensuring and protecting the rights of the accused and the complainant, a preliminary inquiry should be made time bound and in any case it should not exceed 7 days. The fact of such delay and the causes of it must be reflected in the General Diary entry.

120.8) Since the General Diary/Station Diary/Daily Diary is the record of all information received in a police station, we direct that all information relating to cognizable offences, whether resulting in registration of FIR or leading to an inquiry, must be mandatorily and meticulously reflected in the said Diary and the decision to conduct a preliminary inquiry must also be reflected, as mentioned above."

30. In "Jagannath Verma' & others versus State of U.P. and another, 2014 (8) ADJ 439(F.B.) the Full Bench of this Court, on consideration of various judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court including the case of "Lalita Kumari (Supra) held that Section 190 empowers a Magistrate to take cognizance of any offence (i) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitutes such offence; (ii) upon a police report of such facts; and (iii) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge that such an offence has been committed under Section 190 when a written complaint disclosing a cognizable offence is made before a Magistrate, he may take cognizance and proceed in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XV. But Magistrate is not bound once a complaint is filed, to take cognizance if the facts stated in the complaint disclose the commission of any offences. Though a complaint may disclose a cognizable offence, a Magistrate may well be justified in sending the complaint under Section 156(3) to the police for investigation before taking cognizance.

It would be appropriate to refer as follows:-

"15. When a written complaint disclosing a cognizable offence is made before a magistrate, he may take cognizance under Section 190 (1) (a) and proceed in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XV. The other option available to the magistrate is to transmit the complaint to the police station concerned under Section 156 (3), before taking cognizance, for investigation. Once a direction is issued by the magistrate under Section 156 (3), the police is required to investigate under sub-section (1) of that Section and to submit a report under Section 173 (2) on the complaint after investigation, upon which the magistrate may take cognizance under Section 190 (1)(b). (Madhu Bala Vs Suresh Kumar),(1997) 8 SCC 476.

16. In Sakiri Vasu Vs State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 2 SCC 409 , the Supreme Court followed the earlier decision in Mohd Yousuf (supra) and held that the power of the magistrate to order a further investigation under Section 156 (3) is an independent power and is wide enough to include all such powers in a magistrate which are necessary for ensuring a proper investigation and would include the power of registration of an FIR and of ordering a proper investigation if the magistrate is satisfied that the proper investigation has not been done or is not being done by the police. Section 156 (3) was construed to include all such incidental powers as are necessary for ensuring a proper investigation. The same principle has been adopted in the decision of the Supreme Court in Mona Panwar Vs High Court of Judicature at Allahabad (2011) 3 SCC 496.

"18. When the complaint was presented before the appellant, the appellant had mainly two options available to her. One was to pass an order as contemplated by Section 156(3) of the Code and second one was to direct examination of the complainant upon oath and the witnesses present, if any, as mentioned in Section 200 and proceed further with the matter as provided by Section 202 of the Code. An order made under sub-section (3) of Section 156 of the Code is in the nature of a peremptory reminder or intimation to the police to exercise its plenary power of investigation under Section 156(1). Such an investigation embraces the entire continuous process which begins with the collection of evidence under Section 156 and ends with the final report either under Section 169 or submission of charge sheet under Section 173 of the Code. A Magistrate can under Section 190 of the Code before taking cognizance ask for investigation by the police under Section 156(3) of the Code. The Magistrate can also issue warrant for production, before taking cognizance. If after cognizance has been taken and the Magistrate wants any investigation, it will be under Section 202 of the Code.

19. The phrase "taking cognizance of" means cognizance of an offence and not of the offender. Taking cognizance does not involve any formal action or indeed action of any kind but occurs as soon as a Magistrate applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence. Cognizance, therefore, takes place at a point when a Magistrate first takes judicial notice of an offence. This is the position where the Magistrate takes cognizance of an offence on a complaint or on a police report or upon information of a person other than a police officer. Before the Magistrate can be said to have taken cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code, he must have not only applied his mind to the contents of the complaint presented before him, but must have done so for the purpose of proceeding under Section 200 and the provisions following that Section. However, when the Magistrate had applied his mind only for ordering an investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code or issued a warrant for the purposes of investigation, he cannot be said to have taken cognizance of an offence."

The same principle has been reiterated in Samaj Parivartan Samudaya Vs State of Karnataka, (2012) 7 SCC 407 at para 26, p 420.

"17. There is a fundamental distinction between the provisions of Chapter XII and of Chapter XV of the Code. This came up for consideration before the Supreme Court in Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy Vs V Narayana Reddy (supra). The Supreme Court noted that, whereas Section 156 (3) occurs in Chapter XII dealing with information to the police and the powers of the police to investigate, Section 202 forms part of Chapter XV which relates to complaints to magistrates. The Supreme Court observed that the power to order a police investigation under Section 156 (3) is distinct from the power to direct an investigation under Section 202 (1). Section 156 (3) is at the pre-cognizance stage, Section 202 is at the post-cognizance stage. Moreover, once a magistrate has taken cognizance and has adopted the procedure under Chapter XV, it is not open to him then to go back to the pre-cognizance stage and avail of Section 156 (3). Investigation by the police under Section 156 (3) is in exercise of the plenary power to investigate offences which begins with collection of evidence and ends with a report under Section 173 (2). The investigation, on the other hand, which Section 202 contemplates, is of a different nature and is for the purpose of enabling the magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. The Supreme Court observed as follows:

"Section 156(3) occurs in Chapter XII, under the caption: "Information to the Police and their powers to investigate"; while Section 202 is in Chapter XV which bears the heading "Of complaints to Magistrates". The power to order police investigation under Section 156(3) is different from the power to direct investigation conferred by Section 202(1). The two operate in distinct spheres at different stages. The first is exercisable at the pre cognizance stage, the second at the post-cognizance stage when the magistrate is in seisin of the case. That is to say in the case of a complaint regarding the commission of a cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a). But if he once takes such cognizance and embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he is not competent to switch back to the pre-cognizance stage and avail of Section 156(3). It may be noted further that an order made under sub-section (3) of Section 156, is in the nature of a peremptory reminder or intimation to the police to exercise their plenary powers of investigation under Section 156(1). Such an investigation embraces the entire continuous process which begins with the collection of evidence under Section 156 and ends with a report or charge-sheet under Section 173. On the other hand, Section 202 comes in at a stage when some evidence has been collected by the magistrate in proceedings under Chapter XV, but the same is deemed insufficient to take a decision as to the next step in the prescribed procedure. In such a situation, the magistrate is empowered under Section 202 to direct, within the limits circumscribed by that section, an investigation "for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding ". Thus the object of an investigation under Section 202 is not to initiate a fresh case on police report but to assist the magistrate in completing proceedings already instituted upon a complaint before him." (emphasis supplied).

18. Noting the distinction between an investigation under Chapter XII and proceedings under Chapter XV, the Supreme Court in Samaj Parivartan Samudaya (supra), held as follows:

"... In the former case, it is upon the police report that the entire investigation is conducted by the investigating agency and the onus to establish commission of the alleged offence beyond reasonable doubt is entirely on the prosecution. In a complaint case, the complainant is burdened with the onus of establishing the offence and he has to lead evidence before the court to establish the guilt of the accused. The rule of establishing the charges beyond reasonable doubt is applicable to a complaint case as well." (emphasis supplied)

19. The same principle was enunciated in Madhao Vs State of Maharashtra (2013) 5 SCC 615:

"When a Magistrate receives a complaint he is not bound to take cognizance if the facts alleged in the complaint disclose the commission of an offence. The Magistrate has discretion in the matter. If on a reading of the complaint, he finds that the allegations therein disclose a cognizable offence and the forwarding of the complaint to the police for investigation under Section 156(3) will be conducive to justice and save the valuable time of the magistrate from being wasted in enquiring into a matter which was primarily the duty of the police to investigate, he will be justified in adopting that course as an alternative to taking cognizance of the offence itself. As said earlier, in the case of a complaint regarding the commission of cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a). However, if he once takes such cognizance and embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he is not competent to revert back to the pre-cognizance stage and avail of Section 156(3)."

20. In Anil Kumar Vs M K Aiyappa, (2013) 10 SCC 705 this distinction is brought out in the following observations of the Supreme Court:

"...When a Special Judge refers a complaint for investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC, obviously, he has not taken cognizance of the offence and, therefore, it is a pre-cognizance stage and cannot be equated with post-cognizance stage. When a Special Judge takes cognizance of the offence on a complaint presented under Section 200 CrPC and the next step to be taken is to follow up under Section 202 CrPC. Consequently, a Special Judge referring the case for investigation under Section 156(3) is at pre-cognizance stage."

31. In Jagannath Verma (supra) the Full Bench further held as follows:-

"21. Now it is in this background that it would be necessary for the Court to consider the import of an order passed by the magistrate declining to issue a direction under Section 156 (3) ordering an investigation as specified in sub-section (1). When a written complaint is made before a magistrate disclosing a cognizable offence, the magistrate may send the complaint to the concerned police station under Section 156 (3) for investigation. If this course of action is adopted, the police is required to investigate into the complaint. On the completion of the investigation, a report is submitted under Section 173 (2), upon which a magistrate may take cognizance under Section 190 (1) (b). Alternately, when a written complaint disclosing a cognizable offence is made before a magistrate, he may take cognizance under Section 190 (1) (a), in which event he has to proceed in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XV. The exercise of the power under Section 156 (3) is before the magistrate takes cognizance. Once the magistrate has taken cognizance under Section 190, it is not open to him to switch back to Section 156 (3) for the purposes of ordering an investigation. Section 200 requires that the magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on a complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses, if any. Section 202 enables the magistrate to postpone the issuance of process against the accused on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance, in which event he may follow one of the following courses:

(i) The magistrate may, either enquire into the case himself; or

(ii) The magistrate may direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purposes of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. However, the two provisos to Section 202 stipulate that no direction for investigation shall be made (i) where it appears that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session; or (ii) in a complaint which has not been made by a court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, have been examined on oath under Section 200. The proviso to sub-section (2) stipulates that if it appears to the magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all the witnesses and examine them on oath. Under Section

203, upon considering the statements on oath, if any, of the complainant and of the witnesses and the result of the enquiry or investigation, if any, under Section 202, if the magistrate is of the opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he shall dismiss the complaint recording brief reasons.

22. These provisions amply demonstrate that Chapter XII on the one hand and Chapter XV on the other, operate in two distinct spheres. The duty to investigate into offences is of the State and it is from that perspective that the provisions of Chapter XII including Sections 154 and 156 have been engrafted into legislation. The rejection of an application under Section 156 (3) closes the avenue of an investigation by the police under Chapter XII. For the informant or complainant who provides information in regard to the commission of a cognizable offence, an investigation by the police under Chapter XII is a valuable safeguard which sets in motion the criminal law and ensures that the offender is traced and is made answerable to the crime under the penal law of the land. Closing this avenue of ordering an investigation by the police under Section 156 (1) cannot be treated as a matter of no moment or a matter akin to a procedural direction. Depriving the person who provides information of the safeguard of an investigation under Chapter XII is a serious consequence particularly when we evaluate this in the context of the alternative remedy which is available under Chapter XV of the Code.

23. In Chapter XV of the Code, the complainant is subject to the burden of producing evidence before the court. This distinction between the procedure which is enunciated in Chapter XII and the provisions of Chapter XV has been noted in several decisions of the Supreme Court from Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy (supra) to the more recent decision in Samaj Parivartan Samudaya (supra). A magistrate who takes cognizance under Section 200 has to examine the complainant and his witnesses on oath. Though, under Section 202 the magistrate may postpone the issuance of process and direct an investigation to be made by a police officer, it is well settled that this investigation under Section 202 is for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. The object of an investigation under Section 202 is not to initiate a fresh case on a police report but to assist the magistrate in completing proceedings already instituted on a complaint before him."

32. In Ram Dev Food Products Pvt. Ltd. Versus State of Gujarat, (2015) 6 SCC 439, the Hon'ble Supreme Court framed the first question as to "(i) Whether discretion of the Magistrate to call for a report under Section 202 instead of directing investigation 156(3) is controlled by any defined parameters?," and answered it by holding that the direction under Section 156(3) is to be issued, only after application of mind by the Magistrate. When the Magistrate does not take cognizance and does not find it necessary to postpone instance of process and finds a case made out to proceed forthwith, direction under the said provision is issued. In other words, where on account of credibility of information available, or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightaway direct investigation, such a direction is issued. It is further held that the cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate has yet to determine "existence of sufficient ground to proceed".

Category of cases falling under Para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari (supra) may fall under Section 202. Subject to these broad guidelines available from the scheme of the Code, exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is guided by interest of justice from case to case.

33. It would be appropriate to reproduce relevant paragraph nos. 19 to 22 of ''Ramdev Food Products Private Limited' (Supra) as under:-

"19. Thus, this Court has laid down that while prompt registration of FIR is mandatory, checks and balances on power of police are equally important. Power of arrest or of investigation is not mechanical. It requires application of mind in the manner provided. Existence of power and its exercise are different. Delicate balance had to be maintained between the interest of society and liberty of an individual. Commercial offences have been put in the category of cases where FIR may not be warranted without enquiry.

20. It has been held, for the same reasons, that direction by the Magistrate for investigation under Section 156(3) cannot be given mechanically. In Anil Kumar vs. M.K. Aiyappa[5], it was observed :

"11. The scope of Section 156(3) CrPC came up for consideration before this Court in several cases. This Court in Maksud Saiyed case [(2008) 5 SCC 668] examined the requirement of the application of mind by the Magistrate before exercising jurisdiction under Section 156(3) and held that where jurisdiction is exercised on a complaint filed in terms of Section 156(3) or Section 200 CrPC, the Magistrate is required to apply his mind, in such a case, the Special Judge/Magistrate cannot refer the matter under Section 156(3) against a public servant without a valid sanction order. The application of mind by the Magistrate should be reflected in the order. The mere statement that he has gone through the complaint, documents and heard the complainant, as such, as reflected in the order, will not be sufficient. After going through the complaint, documents and hearing the complainant, what weighed with the Magistrate to order investigation under Section 156(3) CrPC, should be reflected in the order, though a detailed expression of his views is neither required nor warranted. We have already extracted the order passed by the learned Special Judge which, in our view, has stated no reasons for ordering investigation."

The above observations apply to category of cases mentioned in Para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari (supra).

21. On the other hand, power under Section 202 is of different nature. Report sought under the said provision has limited purpose of deciding "whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding". If this be the object, the procedure under Section 157 or Section 173 is not intended to be followed. Section 157 requires sending of report by the police that the police officer suspected commission of offence from information received by the police and thereafter the police is required to proceed to the spot, investigate the facts and take measures for discovery and arrest. Thereafter, the police has to record statements and report on which the Magistrate may proceed under Section 190. This procedure is applicable when the police receives information of a cognizable offence, registers a case and forms the requisite opinion and not every case registered by the police.

22. Thus, we answer the first question by holding that the direction under Section 156(3) is to be issued, only after application of mind by the Magistrate. When the Magistrate does not take cognizance and does not find it necessary to postpone instance of process and finds a case made out to proceed forthwith, direction under the said provision is issued. In other words, where on account of credibility of information available, or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightaway direct investigation, such a direction is issued. Cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate has yet to determine "existence of sufficient ground to proceed". Category of cases falling under Para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari (supra) may fall under Section 202. Subject to these broad guidelines available from the scheme of the Code, exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is guided by interest of justice from case to case."

34. From the aforesaid judgment in Ramdev Food Product, (Supra) it is evident that the Magistrate may, where on account of credibility of information available or weighing the interest of justice considers it appropriate to straightaway direct investigation, such a direction may be issued, but in cases where the Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process, are those cases where the Magistrate has yet to determine existence of sufficient ground to proceed against the offender by issuance of process if a prima-facie case is made out. A category of cases which fall under para 120.6 in ''Lalita Kumari' (Supra) case, may fall under Section 202.

35. It is also very specific that the Magistrate has to apply his mind before exercising jurisdiction under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. to decide if the case is one in which he should direct investigation by police under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or he should take cognizance, treat the application as a complaint case; and proceed as per the provisions of Sections 200, 202 Cr.P.C. etc. under Chapter XV. The application of mind should also be reflected in the order. Mere statement that the Magistrate has gone through the complaint or/and the material accompanying the complaint and on hearing the complainant, is not sufficient. That would not be a reflection of application of judicial mind. Though, a detailed expression of his views is neither required nor warranted but reasons for decision, one way or the other, must be reflected from the order. Reasons have to be stated in the order as to why the Magistrate was passing an order for investigation by police under Sub Section (3) of Section 156 or as to why he was taking cognizance and then proceeding with the application as a complaint case and not directing for police investigation.

36. So far as the inquiry in pursuance of the direction under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is concerned, in ''Ramdev Food Products' (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph no.34 held as follows:-

"34. We may now also refer to other decisions cited at the bar and their relevance to the questions arising in the case.

In Smt. Nagawwa vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi & Ors.[15], referring to earlier Judgments on the scope of Section 202, it was observed :

"3. In Chandra Deo Singh v. Prokash Chandra Bose [AIR (1963) SC 1430 this Court had after fully considering the matter observed as follows:

"The courts have also pointed out in these cases that what the Magistrate has to see is whether there is evidence in support of the allegations of the complainant and not whether the evidence is sufficient to warrant a conviction. The learned Judges in some of these cases have been at pains to observe that an enquiry under Section 202 is not to be likened to a trial which can only take place after process is issued, and that there can be only one trial. No doubt, as stated in sub-section (1) of Section 202 itself, the object of the enquiry is to ascertain the truth or falsehood of the complaint, but the Magistrate making the enquiry has to do this only with reference to the intrinsic quality of the statements made before him at the enquiry which would naturally mean the complaint itself, the statement on oath made by the complainant and the statements made before him by persons examined at the instance of the complainant."

Indicating the scope, ambit of Section 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure this Court in Vadilal Panchal v. Dattatraya Dulaji Ghadigaonker [AIR (1960) SC 1113] observed as follows:

"Section 202 says that the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, for reasons to be recorded in writing, postpone the issue of process for compelling the attendance of the person complained against and direct an inquiry for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the complaint; in other words, the scope of an inquiry under the section is limited to finding out the truth or falsehood of the complaint in order to determine the question of the issue of process. The inquiry is for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the complaint; that is, for ascertaining whether there is evidence in support of the complaint so as to justify the issue of process and commencement of proceedings against the person concerned. The section does not say that a regular trial for adjudging the guilt or otherwise of the person complained against should take place at that stage; for the person complained against can be legally called upon to answer the accusation made against him only when a process has issued and he is put on trial."

Same view has been taken in Mohinder Singh vs. Gulwant Singh[16], Manharibhai Muljibhai Kakadia & Anr. vs. Shaileshbhai Mohanbhai Patel & Ors.[17], Raghuraj Singh Rousha vs. Shivam Sunadaram Promoters Pvt. Ltd.[18], Chandra Deo Singh vs. Prokas Chandra Bose[19].

In Devrapalli Lakshminaryanan Reddy & Ors. vs. V. Narayana Reddy & Ors.[20], National Bank of Oman vs. Barakara Abdul Aziz & Anr.[21], Madhao & Anr. vs. State of Maharashtra & Anr.[22], Rameshbhai Pandurao Hedau vs. State of Gujarat[23], the scheme of Section 156(3) and 202 has been discussed. It was observed that power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before taking cognizance and was in the nature of pre-emptory reminder or intimation to the police to exercise its plenary power of investigation beginning Section 156 and ending with report or chargesheet under Section 173. On the other hand, Section 202 applies at post cognizance stage and the direction for investigation was for the purpose of deciding whether there was sufficient ground to proceed."

37. In "Amrutbhai Shambhubhai Patel Vs. Sumanbhai Kantibhai Patel & others', (2017) 4 SCC 177, the Hon'ble Supreme Court pointed out the distinction in the power to order police investigation under Section 156(3) and under Section 202(1) of the Cr.P.C. It was ruled that the two powers operate in separate distinct spheres at different stages, the former being exercisable at the pre-cognizance stage and the latter at the post-cognizance stage when the Magistrate is in seisin of the case. In the case of a complaint regarding the commission of a cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) could be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a), but once such cognizance is taken and he embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he would not be competent to revert to the pre-cognizance stage and avail Section 156(3). On the other hand, it was observed that Section 202 would be invocable at a stage when some evidence has been collected by the Magistrate in the proceedings under Chapter XV, but is deemed to be insufficient to take a decision as to the next step and in such an event, the Magistrate would be empowered under Section 202 to direct, within the limits circumscribed by that provision, an investigation for the purpose of deciding whether or not, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. It was thus exposited that the object of an investigation under Section 202 is not to initiate a fresh case on police report but to assist the Magistrate in completing the proceedings already instituted upon a complaint before him.

It is relevant to reproduce paragraph nos. 30 and 31 as under:-

"30. This Court also recounted its observations in Ram Lal Narang (supra) to the effect that on the Magistrate taking cognizance upon a police report, the right of the police to further investigate even under the 1898 Code was not exhausted and it could exercise such right often as necessary, when fresh information would come to light. That this proposition was integrated in explicit terms in sub-Section (8) of Section 173 of the new Code, was noticed. The desirability of the police to ordinarily inform the Court and seek its formal permission to make further investigation, when fresh facts come to light, was stressed upon to maintain the independence of the judiciary, the interest of the purity of administration of criminal justice and the interest of the comity of the various agencies and institutions entrusted with different stages of such dispensation.

31. The pronouncement of this Court in Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy and others v. V. Narayana Reddy and others, (1976) 3 SCC 252 emphasizing on the distinction in the power to order police investigation under Section 156(3) and under Section 202(1) of the Cr.P.C, was referred to. It was ruled that the two powers operate in separate distinct spheres at different stages, the former being exercisable at the pre-cognizance stage and the latter at the post-cognizance stage when the Magistrate is in seisin of the case. It was underlined that in the case of a complaint regarding the commission of a cognizable offence, the power under Section 156(3) could be invoked by the Magistrate before he takes cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(a), but once such cognizance is taken and he embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he would not be competent to revert to the pre-cognizance stage and avail Section 156(3). On the other hand, it was observed that Section 202 would be invocable at a stage when some evidence has been collected by the Magistrate in the proceedings under Chapter XV, but is deemed to be insufficient to take a decision as to the next step and in such an event, the Magistrate would be empowered under Section 202 to direct, within the limits circumscribed by that provision, an investigation for the purpose of deciding whether or not, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. It was thus exposited that the object of an investigation under Section 202 is not to initiate a fresh case on police report but to assist the Magistrate in completing the proceedings already instituted upon a complaint before him. It was thus concluded on an appraisal of the curial postulations above referred to, that the Magistrate of his own, cannot order further investigation after the accused had entered appearance pursuant to a process issued to him subsequent to the taking of the cognizance by him."

38. A reference deserves to be made to the case of "Gulab Chand Upadhyaya Vs. State of U.P. and others" 2002 Criminal Law Journal 2907(Alld), in which case this Court finding that no decision was cited to throw any light upon the considerations, which should weight with the Magistrate to guide his discretion, in adopting the courses open to him when an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is made to him, held that as per the scheme of the Cr.P.C. and the prevailing circumstances required that the option to direct the registration of the case and its "investigation' by the police should be exercised, where some "investigation' is required, which is of a nature that is not possible for a private complainant and which can only be done by the police upon whom statute has conferred, the powers essential for investigation, e.g., where the full details of the accused are not known to the complainant and the same can be determined only as a result of investigation; the recovery of abducted person or stolen property is required by raids or searches; where for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution of the accused evidence is required to be collected and preserved etc.

It is relevant to reproduce paragraph 22 & 23 of the "Gulab Chand Upadhyaya" (Supra) as under:-

"22. The scheme of Cr.P.C. and the prevailing circumstances require that the option to direct the registration of the case and its investigation by the police should be exercised where some "investigation" is required, which is of a nature that is not possible for the private complainant, and which can only be done by the police upon whom statute has conferred the powers essential for investigation.

(1) where the full details of the accused are not known to the complainant and the same can be determined only as a result of investigation, or

(2) where recovery of abducted person or stolen property is required to be made by conducting raids or searches of suspected places or persons, or

(3) where for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution of the accused evidence is required to be collected and preserved. To illustrate by example cases may be visualised where for production before Court at the trail (a) sample of blood soaked soil is to be taken and kept sealed for fixing the place of incident; or (b) recovery of cases property is to be made and kept sealed; or (c) recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act; or (d) preparation of inquest report; or (e) witnesses are not known and have to be found out or discovered through the process of investigation."

23. But where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of all the accused as well as the witnesses who have to be examined and neither recovery is needed nor any such material evidence is required to be collected which can be done only by the police, no "investigation" would normally be required and the procedure of complaint case should be adopted. The facts of the present case given below serve as an example. It must be kept in mind that adding unnecessary cases to the diary of the police would impair their efficiency in respect of cases genuinely requiring investigation. Besides even after taking cognizance and proceeding under Chapter XV the Magistrate can still under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. order investigation, even though of a limited nature {see para 7 of JT (2001)2 (SC) 81:(AIR 2001 SC 571)"

39. Power of the Magistrate to order investigation by police under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is at pre-cognizance stage whereas the power to order police investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is at a post-cognizance stage. The police report of the investigation in pursuance of direction under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is for the purpose of taking cognizance whereas the report of the police investigation in pursuance of the direction under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is for the purposes of satisfying the Magistrate, if a case for proceeding further against the accused persons is made out or not After the Magistrate takes cognizance on the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. without ordering for police investigation, he cannot return back to the stage of Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as that is a pre-cognizance stage. But, if the Magistrate did not order for police investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and took cognizance of the case, that would not be bar to the exercise of the power of the Magistrate for directing the police investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. which is with a different object of proceeding further in the matter. So, in a case where the Magistrate has declined for police investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and had taken cognizance treating the application as a complaint case, that would not come in the way of the Magistrate in passing the order for police investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. Any observation in the order of the Magistrate while taking cognizance of application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint case, that there is no need of police investigation and directing the complainant to get the statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. shall only mean that no police investigation was needed for the purpose of taking cognizance.

40. From the aforesaid judgments, some of the following proposition of law, well settled, may be summarized as under:-

(40.01). Under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence it is the mandatory duty of the police officer in charge to register the FIR. He cannot avoid his duty of registering offence, if cognizable offence is made out.

(40.02). If FIR is not registered, the person aggrieved by a refusal to record the information has remedy to approach the Superintendent of Police by submitting an application in writing and by post to enable him to satisfy if such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence and in case of such satisfaction, either to investigate himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him.

(40.04). On such an application having been made, if, the Magistrate finds that a cognizable offence is made out, the Magistrate may direct the police to register the FIR and investigate the matter, without taking cognizance.

(40.05). The other option open to the Magistrate is to take cognizance on the complaint, register it as a complaint case and proceed as per the procedure prescribed under Chapter XV Cr.P.C. The Magistrate would record the statement of the complainant and the witnesses if any present, under Section 200 Cr.P.C. He may, if he thinks fit and shall in cases where accused resides out side the area of exercise of jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned, either enquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. Thereafter, he shall pass order, either under Section 203 dismissing the complaint, for brief reasons to be recorded, or he shall issue process under Section 204 Cr.P.C.

(40.06). In either case, i.e. issuing direction for investigation by the police officer under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or taking cognizance and registering it as a complaint case, the Magistrate has to apply judicial mind. There cannot be mechanical exercise of jurisdiction or exercise in a routine manner. Mere statement in the order that he has gone through the complaint, documents and heard the complainant will not be sufficient. What weighed with the Magistrate to order investigation or to take cognizance should be reflected in the order, although a detailed expression of his view is neither required nor warranted.

(40.07). The exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is basically guided by interest of justice, from case to case.

(40.08). However, where some investigation is required which is of a nature that is not possible for the private complainant and which can only be done by the police officer upon whom statute has conferred the powers essential for investigation, the option to direct the registration of the FIR and its investigation by the police officer should be exercised, for example:-

(i) where the full details of the accused are not known to the complainant and the same can be determined only as a result of investigation, or

(ii) where recovery of abducted person or stolen property is required to be made by conducting raids or searches of suspected places or persons, or

(iii) where for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution of the accused evidence is required to be collected and preserved, and to illustrate this, by few example cases may be visualised where for production before Court at the trial

(a) sample of blood soaked soil is to be taken and kept sealed for fixing the place of incident; or

(b) recovery of case property is to be made and kept sealed; or

(c) recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act; or

(d) preparation of inquest report; or

(e) witnesses are not known and have to be found out or discovered through the process of investigation.

(40.09). Where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of all the accused and the witnesses who have to be examined and neither recovery is needed nor any such material evidence is required to be collected which can be done only by the police, no "investigation" would normally be required and the procedure of complaint case should be adopted.

(40.10). Category of cases falling under para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari (Supra) i.e.

(a) Matrimonial disputes/family disputes

(b) Commercial offences

(c) Medical negligence cases,

(d) Corruption cases

(e) Cases where there is abnormal delay in filling criminal complaint etc. may fall under Section 202 Cr.P.C .

(40.11). The Magistrate should also keep in view that primarily, it is the duty of the State/police to investigate the cases involving cognizable offence. Generally, the burden of proof to bring the guilt of the accused is on the State and this burden is a heavy burden to prove the guilt beyond all reasonable doubts. This burden should not unreasonably be shifted on an individual/complainant from the State by treating the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint case.

(40.12). The investigation which the police officer or such other person makes in pursuance of the direction of the Magistrate under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is the same kind of investigation as is required to be conducted by police officer, under Chapter XII Cr.P.C. which ends with submission of the report as per Section 173(2) Cr.P.C.

(40.13). The distinction between the investigation by the police officer under Section 156(3) and under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is that the former is at the pre-cognizance stage and the latter is at post cognizance stage, when the Magistrate is seisin of the case. The investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or false hood of the complaint for helping the Magistrate to decide, whether or not there is sufficient ground, for him to proceed further against the accused by issuing process, whereas, the inquiry report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. of the investigation made by the police of its own or under the directions of the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is for the purpose of enabling the Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(a) Cr.P.C.

(40.14). Once cognizance is taken on the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. by the Magistrate and he embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he would not be competent to revert to the pre-cognizance stage under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

(40.15). If the Magistrate did not order for police investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and took cognizance of the case, that would not be bar to the exercise of the power of the Magistrate for directing the police investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C.

41. Point nos. 1, 2 and 3 as framed in para 12 of this judgment stands answered as per para no.40 above.

42. In ''Jitendra Kumar' (Supra) and ''Shiv Mangal Singh' (Supra), relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicant also it was held that the Magistrate shall pass order with due application of judicious mind.

43. Now coming to point No.4 as regards the order under challenge, perusal of the order clearly shows that the learned Magistrate has not applied judicious mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable therein. The order does not assign any reason, as to why the application was treated as a complaint case and why the order for police investigation was not required. The order does not reflect application of judicious mind. It does not stand the test of the law as laid down in the cases of ''Ashok Kumar' (Supra) and Ram Deo Food Products (Supra) of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, and in the case of ''Gulab Chand Upadhyay' (Supra) of this Court.

44. The present revision therefore, deserves to be allowed and the order under challenge deserves to be set-aside, with the direction to the learned Magistrate to pass fresh orders on the application of the revisionist/applicant, after affording opportunity of hearing to him in accordance with law, within a period of two months from the date of production of true/attested copy of this judgment, before him. It is made clear that this Court has not commented upon the merits of the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. either way. In other words this Court has not adjudicated if the order for police investigation be passed or the application be registered as a complaint case. This would be in the discretion of the learned Magistrate to be exercised keeping in view the principles of law as discussed above.

45. With the aforesaid observations and directions, this revision /petition is allowed.

46. No orders as to costs.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

THE HON'BLE SUDHIR AGARWAL, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 4048 of 2004

Irshad Hussain ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri M.D.Singh Shekhar, Sri Shanshank Shekhar, Sri Vaibhav Goswami

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Application u/s 482 – Jurisdiction of Court - Indian Penal Code: Ss. 420, 468, 471, 257, 259, 379, 411, 413, 120B; Code of Criminal Code: Section 100, 482 - In exercise of jurisdiction under S. 482 Cr.P.C. this Court is not supposed to examine defence evidence as a Trial Court when after taking cognizance Magistrate has issued warrant and evidence is yet to be adduced in Trial. (Para 13)

In exercise of jurisdiction u/s 482 CrPC, it is not permissible for the Court to act as if it were Trial Court. Court has only to be prima facie satisfied about existence of sufficient ground for proceeding against accused. For that limited purpose, Court can evaluate material and documents on record but it cannot appreciate evidence to conclude whether materials produced are sufficient or not for convicting accused. High Court should not exercise jurisdiction u/s 482 CrPC embarking upon an enquiry into whether evidence is reliable or not or whether on reasonable apprehension of evidence, allegations are not sustainable, or decide function of Trial Judge. (Para 21, 30)

In State of Haryana vs. Bhajan Lal and others (infra) issue of jurisdiction of this Court u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been considered and what has been laid down therein in para. 102 has been repeatedly followed and reiterated consistently. They have been reproduced in very recent judgment in Google India Private Limited Vs. Visakha Industries and Ors., AIR 2020 SC 350. (Para 15)

B. Exercise of inherent power under Section 482 CrPC is not a rule but exception. The power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the court to act according to its whim or caprice.(Para 16, 18)

Words "rarest of rare cases" are used after the words 'sparingly and with circumspection' while describing scope of Section 482 CrPC. Those words merely emphasize and reiterate what is intended to be conveyed by the words 'sparingly and with circumspection'. They mean that the power u/s 482 to quash proceedings should not be used mechanically or routinely, but with care and caution, only when a clear case for quashing is made out and failure to interfere would lead to a miscarriage of justice. The expression "rarest of rare cases" is not used in the sense in which it is used with reference to punishment for offences u/s 302 IPC, but to emphasize that the power u/s 482 Cr.P.C. to quash FIR or criminal proceedings should be used sparingly and with circumspection. (Para 17)

For interference u/s 482, three conditions are to be fulfilled. The injustice which comes to light should be of a grave, and not of a trivial character; it should be palpable and clear and not doubtful and there should exist no other provision of law by which the party aggrieved could have sought relief. (Para 20, 22)

In the present case, the entire argument of applicant is basically his defence which cannot be examined at this stage. No material irregularity in the procedure followed by Court below has been pointed out. It is not a case of grave injustice justifying interference in this application at this stage. (Para 29, 33)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri M.D. Singh Shekhar, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Vaibhav Goswami, Advocate, for applicant and learned A.G.A. for State.

2. This is an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. filed by sole applicant, Irshad Hussain, with the prayer to quash entire proceedings of Criminal Case No. 803 of 2004 under Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 256, 259, 379, 411, 413 and 120B I.P.C. and order dated 07.04.2004 whereby Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chitrakoot (hereinafter referred to as "CJM, Chitrakoot") has taken cognizance and issued warrants to applicant and another, pending in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate (hereinafter referred to as "CJM"), Chitrakoot.

3. Facts in brief, as stated in the application, are that applicant obtained his Bachelor of Technology degree in Electrical and Electronics and appointed as Junior Engineer in Indian Telephone Industries Limited, Naini, Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as "ITI, Allahabad") which is a Central Government undertaking and instrumentality of State within the meaning of Article 12 of Constitution. In August, 1997, i.e., 23.08.1997 applicant departed for Jeddah (Saudi Arabia) to perform religious obligation Haj (Umera). Just a two days before, i.e., on 21.08.1997, at P.S. Kotwali Karvi, District Chitrakoot, a First Information Report (hereinafter referred to as "FIR") was lodged by one R.N. Verma, Superintendent of Post Offices, Banda Prakhand, Banda against Ram Lakhan Verma, Ayodhya Prasad Pandey and Sushil Chand Tripathi under Sections 409, 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 120B I.P.C. for committing fraud and embezzlement of 5,70,500/-.

4. The case set up in FIR was that on 04.07.1997 one Ayodhya Prasad Pandey, son of Ram Bahori Pandey, resident of Bharatpuri, Karvi, working as Postal Assistant and Supervisor has shown payment of Rs. 75,000/- to R.L. Verma. He also mentioned that he personally knew @ R.L. Verma. The number of Kisan Vikas Patra encahsed are numbers 35BB922551 to 35BB922560, each of which is of Rs. 5,000/- Thereafter on 05.07.1997 one Sushil Chandra Tripathi, son of Chhote Lal Tripathi, resident of Village and Post Lodhwara (Karvi), Dak-Assistant and the above Ayodhya Prasad Pandey again made payment of Rs. 2,25,000/- to aforesaid R.L. Verma against five years-Kisan Vikas Patra Nos. 35BB922561 to 35BB922590, value of each of which was Rs. 5,000/-, at Post Office Karvi. On these Kisan Vikas Patra shown encahsed, Ayodhya Prasad Pandey has obtained signature of a woman Smt. Vimla Devi, who is working as Waterer in Karvi Post Office stating that it is just a paper formality. Vimla Devi informed that the person who has taken payment of these Vikas Patra, was neither known to her nor she had ever seen him. Again on 07.08.1997 working as Dak-Assistant in Karvi Post Office itself, Sushil Chandra Tripathi and Ayodhya Prasad Pandey have shown payment of Rs. 1,50,000/- to above R.L. Verma and on the encahsed Vikas Patras, witness of Smt. Uma Tiwari, wife of Sriram Autar Tiwari was shown by Ayodhya Prasad Pandey. Smt.

Uma Tiwari has clarified that on 07.08.1997 when she came to Karvi Post Office, Ayodhya Prasad Pandey told her that this person is very close to him and asked her to witness him stating that it is his responsibility. Smt. Uma Tiwari informed that she said that she does not know R.L. Verma on which he (Ayodhya Prasad Pandey) said that he (R.L. Verma) is resident of Bankat Road. Reposing faith on Ayodhya Prasad Pandey, she witnessed R.L. Verma. That apart, on 26.05.1997 Sushil Chandra Tripathi, Dak-Assistant and Ayodhya Prasad Pandey, Supervisor, Karvi Post Office, have shown payment of Rs. 1,20,000/- to aforesaid R.L. Verma against Kisan Vikas Patra Nos. 31BB0155933 to 015948, each of Rs. 5,000/-. In this way, on 26.05.1997, 04.07.1997, 05.07,1997 and on 07.08.1997 payment of total Rs. 5,70,000/- was shown by Sushil Chandra Tripathi and Ayodhya Prasad Pandey at Karvi Post Office to R.L. Verma. It is further alleged that neither aforesaid Kisan Vikas Patra was issued from any Post Office in the name of R. L. Verma or any other person nor issuance thereof was mentioned in any Government record. Neither Ayodhya Prasad Pandey and Sushil Chandra Tripathi nor Smt. Uma Tiwari were able to tell address or whereabouts of alleged R.L. Verma nor they produced him. In this way R.L. Verma and the abovenamed persons have caused loss of Rs. 5,70,000/- to Postal Department. The aforesaid FIR was registered as Case Crime No. 211 of 1997.

5. Police made investigation and on interrogation of Ram Lakhan Verma found that his real name is Madhrakhan Singh and he has committed fraud along with one Prabhash Singh. On the pointing out of Ram Lakhan Verma alias Madhrakhan Singh and Prabhash Singh Police searched at applicant's house on 26.08.1997 when he was not present and only his wife was present and claimed to have recovered following articles from bed room of applicant:

Sl.	Details of the articles	Distinctive nos.	Qty. (nos.)	Value of Articles (Rs.) each
1.	Kishan Vikas Patra	34CC 579988	1	10,000/-
2.	Kishan Vikas Patra	35AA 605731-732	2	1,000/-
3.	Kishan Vikas Patra	31BB 010981-998	18	5,000/-
4.	Kishan Vikas Patra	31BB 011000	1	5,000/-
5.	Indira Vikas Patra	44C65 2146-170	25	5,000/-
6.	Plain non-judicial stamp papers		4	5,000/- each

6. Consequentially on the basis of aforesaid recovery, another FIR as Case Crime No. 216 of 1997 was registered on 27.08.1997 under Sections 419, 420, 467, 568, 471, 256, 257, 259, 379, 411, 413, 120B I.P.C. at P.S. Kotwali Karvi, District Chitrakoot and the allegations in the FIR are that the Informant, Sri R.P. Srivastava, Station House Officer, along with Police Team, on reaching Post Office Karvi, found Ramesh Chandra Upadhyay, Assistant Dak Pal and Shiv Ganesh Tripathi, Supervisor. There was also another person namely R.L. Verma and on being searched, from his possession 40

Kisan Vikas Patras of Rs. 5000/-each from Sl.No. 31BB010941 to 980, in the name of aforesaid R.L. Verma, maturity amount whereof was Rs. 3 lac, were found. On being enquired, he told that these Vikas Patra have been given to him by Prabhash Singh Patel who has come on Scooter and I have come here after leaving him on Station. Only he can tell about the Vikas Patras. On this information Police Team along with R.L. Verma proceeded in the search of Prabhash Singh Patel and after a hectic search, information was received that one person has run towards Khoh from the Post Office. On reaching Khoh, seeing the Police he tried to start his Scooter but was caught by employees. He disclosed his name Prabhash Singh, son of Ramesh Singh Patel, Village Rakshpalpur, Police Station Khakhred, District Fatehpur, present address House No. 777A/664, Sultanpur Bhawa, Khuldabad, Allahabad. He also told the name of R.L. Verma as Madhrakhan Singh Patel, son of Shambhoo Singh Patel, Resident of Prashidhpur, Police Station Dhata, District Fatehpur and present address Rajrooppur, Police Station Dhoomanganj, Allahabad. He told nothing about his Scooter UP71A/8414. On search being made, one pistol of 315 bore in working condition and four cartridges of 315 bore were found from his possession. In his Scooter, in a polythene bag 50 Kisan Vikas Patra of five and half years of the value of Rs. 5000/- Series No. 31BB015801 to 850 were found in respect of which he informed that he has been given these Vikas Patras by Irshad Ahmad, resident of Karailabad Colony, Allahabad and Jalaluddin, resident of G.T.B. Nagar, Kareli, Allahabad for payment on assurance of 25 per cent commission. If immediate search is made, Kisan Vikas Patras may be recovered from the house of Irshad and Jalaluddin. Prabhash Singh and Madhrakhan Singh also confirmed this information on the basis whereof in the presence of Madhrakhan Singh, his house was searched wherefrom S.B.B.L. Gun Licence No. 8364/77 and 26 live and 5 used cartridges were recovered. He informed that this gun belong to Prabhash Singh but kept in his (Madhrakhan Singh's) house. On further search, 50 Kisan Vikas Patras and 19 Indira Vikas Patras, each of Rs. 5000/- were recovered from an Attatche kept in inner room. On search of house of Prabhash Singh, one Kisan Vikas Patra of Rs. 10,000/- and one of Rs. 5,000/- in the name of Suneeta Singh, issued from Rajrooppur Post Office were found. Besides, 20 Kisan Vikas Patras, 25 Indira Vikas Patras each of Rs. 5000/-, one gold biscuit weighed about 93.80 gram, worth about Rs. 50,000, three stamps of Post Office, Sahatwar, Ballia, 5 piece date blocks, four non-judicial forged stamp papers each of Rs. 5,000/- and cash Rs. 4,34,544/- were recovered. In respect of the cash recovered, it was stated that it is the maturity amount of the Kisan Vikas Patras, encashsed last month at Karvi. On pointing out of Madhrakhan Singh and Prabhash Singh, search was made at the house of Irshad, at Karailabag Colony, Allahabad in presence of his wife Shahida Parveen, wherefrom one Kisan Vikas Patra of Rs. 10,000/- two Kisan Vikas Patras of Rs. 1000/- each, 19 Kisan Vikas Patras and 25 Indira Vikas Patras of Rs. 5000/, and four non judicial stamp papers of Rs. 5000/- which appeared to be forged, were recovered. On the search at the residence of Jalaluddin, at G.T.B. Nagar, karaily, Allahabad 49 Kisan Vikas Patras of Rs. 5000/- each, 30 Indira Vikas Patras each of Rs. 5000/- and 5 forged non judicial stamp papers of Rs. 5000/-, 80 revenue tickets and stamp of post office etc. were recovered. From the Maruti Suzuki Zen parked adjacent to the house, service book, Insurance certificate, 50 Kisan Vikas Patras, Cheque Book and Pass Book of bank account were recovered. The Maruti Zen was allegedly purchased from the payment received from forged encashment of Kisan Vikas Patras in the name of Dr. S.J. Ahmad, 676, G.T.B. Nagar, Kareli, Allahabad. Further investigation revealed that aforesaid Madhrakhan Singh, Javed Ahmad, Jalaluddin, Irshad Ahmad, Prabhash Singh, and Bhupendra Singh have formed a gang and they used to obtain illegally stolen Kisan Vikas Patras and Indira Vikas Patras and by encashing them used to cause loss to Government revenue and in this way they have acquired crores of rupees. Their income is many times than their known sources of income. Request was lastly made to lodge FIR.

7. Police, after investigation, submitted charge-sheet No. 222 dated 18.11.1997 in Case Crime No. 211 of 1997 and another Charge Sheet No. 221 dated 18.11.1997 in Case Crime No. 216 of 1997.

8. On 28.11.1997, investigation was transferred to Economics Offences Wing of C.I.D. (hereinafter referred to as "EOW, CID, Lucknow") for further investigation under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. There it was registered as EOW Investigation No. 71 of 1997 in both Crime No. 211 and 216 of 1997. EOW, CID, Lucknow during investigation recorded statements of applicant's wife, Smt. Shahida Parveen, applicant and one Sandeep Mishra. In Parcha No. 38, Investigating Officer (hereinafter referred to as 'I.O.') noted that the applicant, Jalaluddin and Javed Ahmad are not found involved in Crime and, therefore, submitted charge sheet under Sections 409, 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 120B I.P.C. against Madhrakhan Singh, Prabhash Singh, Ayodhya Prasad, Shushil Chandra Tripathi and Bhupendra Singh. However, in Parcha No. 36 dated 15.11.2002, I.O. submitted charge sheet against R.L. Verma alias Madhrakhan Singh, Prabhash Singh, Bhupendra Singh, applicant, i.e. Irshad Hussain, Jalaluddin and Javed Ahmad under Sections 420, 468, 471, 257, 259, 379, 411, 413, 120B I.P.C. Magistrate, thereafter, has taken cognizance and issued warrants to applicant and others vide order dated 07.04.2004.

9. It is contended by learned counsel for applicant that search was conducted in the absence of independent witness and without complying with the provisions of Section 100 Cr.P.C. Kishan Vikas Patras and Indira Vikas Patras were recovered from the accused Madhrakhan Singh and Prabhash Singh but planted in the house of applicant to implicate him falsely and recovery is nothing but fake.

10. Learned Senior Counsel for applicant further submitted that once a Parcha was submitted and nothing was found against applicant, another charge-sheet submitted against applicant is patently illegal and applicant has been falsely implicated.

11. Record shows that statement of applicant's wife herself was recorded by I.O., EOW, CID, Lucknow. She admitted that Police came to her house for making search though did not find anything objectionable therefrom. Recovery memo shows that she refused to put her signature on the Fard.

12. Whether the defence taken by applicant that seizure is forged and nothing was found from applicant's house is correct or not is a matter of defence of applicant and evidence is yet to be recorded in Trial. At this stage, it is impermissible to assess and examine the entire case as a Trial Court to find out whether applicant has been falsely implicated or not.

13. In exercise of jurisdiction under Article 482 Cr.P.C. this Court is not supposed to examine defence evidence as a Trial Court when after taking cognizance Magistrate has issued warrant and evidence is yet to be adduced in Trial.

14. The principles which justify interference under Section 482 Cr.P.C. by Court have been laid down in various authorities in which Supreme Court's judgment in Bhajan Lal and others, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 was leading precedent and thereafter matter has been examined by even Larger Benches.

15. In State of Haryana vs. Bhajan Lal and others (supra) issue of jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been considered and what has been laid down therein in paragraph 102 has been repeatedly followed and reiterated consistently. In very recent judgment in Google India Private Limited Vs. Visakha Industries and Ors., AIR 2020 SC 350, guidelines laid down in paragraph 102 in Bhajal Lal's case (supra) have been reproduced as under :

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power Under Article 226 or the inherent powers Under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

*(1) Where the a*llegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the Accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers Under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the Accused.

*(4) Where, t*he allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated Under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the Accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the Accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge." (emphasis added)

16. Court has also reproduced note of caution given in paragraph 103 in Bhajan Lal's case (supra) which reads as under :

"103. We also give a note of caution to the effect that the power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; that the court will not be justified in embarking upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the court to act according to its whim or caprice." (emphasis added)

17. What would be the scope of expression "rarest of rare cases" referred to in para 103 in State of Haryana vs. Bhajan Lal (supra) has been considered in Jeffrey J. Diermeier and Ors. Vs. State of West Bengal and Ors. , 2010 (6) SCC 243. Court has said that words "rarest of rare cases" are used after the words 'sparingly and with circumspection' while describing scope of Section 482 CrPC. Those words merely emphasize and reiterate what is intended to be conveyed by the words 'sparingly and with circumspection'. They mean that the power under Section 482 to quash proceedings should not be used mechanically or routinely, but with care and caution, only when a clear case for quashing is made out and failure to interfere would lead to a miscarriage of justice. The expression "rarest of rare cases" is not used in the sense in which it is used with reference to punishment for offences under Section 302 IPC, but to emphasize that the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash FIR or criminal proceedings should be used sparingly and with circumspection.

18. Supreme Court in Jeffrey J. Diermeier (supra) in fact referred to an earlier three Judges' Bench judgment in Som Mittal Vs. State of Karnataka, 2008 (3) SCC 753, to explain phrase "rarest of rare cases". In Som Mittal (supra), Court also said that exercise of inherent power under Section 482 CrPC is not a rule but exception. Exception is applied only when it is brought to notice of Court that grave miscarriage of justice would be added if trial is allowed to proceed where accused would be harassed unnecessarily or if trial is allowed to linger when prima facie it appears to Court that trial would likely to be ended in acquittal. Whenever question of fact is raised which requires evidence, Courts always said that at pre trial stage i.e. at the stage of cognizance taken by Magistrate power under Section 482 CrPC would not be appropriate to be utilized, since, question of fact has to be decided in the light of evidence which are yet to be adduced by parties.

19. In Lakshman vs. State of Karnataka and others, 2019 (9) SCC 677 Court said that it is not permissible for High Court in application under Section 482 CrPC to record any finding wherever there are factual disputes. Court also held that even in dispute of civil nature where there is allegation of breach of contract, if there is any element of breach of trust with mens rea, it gives rise to criminal prosecution as well and merely on the ground that there was civil dispute, criminality involved in the matter cannot be ignored. Further whether there is any mens rea on part of accused or not, is a matter required to be considered having regard to facts and circumstances and contents of complaint and evidence etc, therefore, it cannot be said pre judged in a petition under Section 482 CrPC.

20. In Chilakamarthi Venkateswarlu and Ors. Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and Ors., AIR 2019 SC 3913, Court reiterated that inherent jurisdiction though wide and expansive has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise would justify by tests specifically laid down in Section itself. In paragraph 14 of judgment, Court said :

"14. For interference Under Section 482, three conditions are to be fulfilled. The injustice which comes to light should be of a grave, and not of a trivial character; it should be palpable and clear and not doubtful and there should exist no other provision of law by which the party aggrieved could have sought relief." (emphasis added)

21. Court also said that in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC it is not permissible for the Court to act as if it were Trial Court. Court has only to be prima facie satisfied about existence of sufficient ground for proceeding against accused. For that limited purpose, Court can evaluate material and documents on record but it cannot appreciate evidence to conclude whether materials produced are sufficient or not for convicting accused. High Court should not exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC embarking upon an enquiry into whether evidence is reliable or not or whether on reasonable apprehension of evidence, allegations are not sustainable, or decide function of Trial Judge. For the above proposition, Court relied on its earlier authority in Zandu Pharmaceuticals Works Limited and others vs Mohd. Sharaful Haque and others, 2005 (1) SCC 122.

22. Power under section 482 CrPC should not be exercised to stifle legitimate prosecution. At the same time, if basic ingredients of offfences alleged are altogether absent criminal proceedings can be quashed under Section 482 CrPC. Relying on M.A.A. Annamalai Vs. State of Karnataka and Ors. , 2010 (8) SCC 524, Sharda Prasad Sinha Vs. State of Bihar, AIR 1977 SC 1754 and Nagawwa Vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi and Ors., 1976 AIR 1976 SC 1947, Court in Chilakamarthi Venkateswarlu and Ors. Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and Ors. (supra) said that where allegations set out in complaint or charge sheet do not constitute any offence, it is open to High Court exercising its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC to quash order passed by Magistrate taking cognizance of offence. Inherent power under Section 482 CrPC is intended to prevent abuse of process of Court and to clear ends of justice. Such power cannot be exercised to do something which is expressly barred under CrPC. Magistrate also has to take cognizance applying judicial mind only to see whether prima facie case is made out for summoning accused persons or not. At this stage, Magistrate is neither required to consider FIR version nor he is required to evaluate value of materials or evidence of complainant find out at this stage whether evidence would lead to conviction or not.

23. It has also been so observed in Rakhi Mishra Vs. State of Bihar and Ors., 2017 (16) SCC 772 and Sonu Gupta Vs. Deepak Gupta and Ors. , 2015 (3) SC 424 and followed recently in Roshni Chopra and others vs. State of U.P. and others, 2019 (7) Scale 152. Here Court also referred to judgment in Dy. Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal and Ors., (2003) 4 SCC 139, wherein paragraph 9, Court said that in determining the question whether any process has to be issued or not, Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding or not and whether there is sufficient ground for conviction; whether the evidence is adequate for supporting conviction, can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of inquiry.

24. However, it is also true that at the stage of issuing process to the accused, Magistrate is not required to record reasons. In U. P. Pollution Control Board vs. Mohan Meaking Limited and others, 2000 (3) SCC 745 after referring to a decision in Kanti Bhadra Shah Vs State of West Bengal 2001 SCC 722, Court said as under :

"Legislature has stressed the need to record reasons in certain situations such as dismissal of complaint without issuing process. There is no such requirement imposed on a Magistrate for passed detailed order while issuing summons. Process issued to accused cannot be quashed merely on the ground that Magistrate had not passed a speaking order." (emphasis added)

25. Same proposition was reiterated in Nupur Talwar Vs Central Bureau of Investigation and others, 2012 (11) SCC 465.

26. In a Three Judges' Bench in Parbatbhai Aahir and Ors. Vs State of Gujarat and Ors, 2017 (9) SCC 641, Court has observed that Section 482 CrPC is prefaced with an overriding provision. It saves inherent power of High Court, as a superior court, to make such orders as are necessary (i) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court; or (ii) otherwise to secure the ends of justice. In Paragraph 15 of the judgment Court summarized as under :

"(i) Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognises and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court;

(ii) The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash Under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

(iii) In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction Under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;

(iv) While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;

*(v) T*he decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;

(vi) In the exercise of the power Under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;

(vii) As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;

(viii) Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

*(ix) In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding i*f in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

(x) There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (viii) and (ix) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance." (emphasis added)

27. Above observations have been reiterated in Arun Singh and other Vs State of U.P. passed in Criminal Appeal no.250 of 2020 (arising out of Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No. 5224 of 2017), decided on 10.02.2020.

28. I do not propose to burden this judgment with similar catena of decisions, since all are in similar lines.

29. In the present case, the entire argument of applicant is basically his defence which cannot be examined at this stage.

30. Time and again it has been highlighted by Supreme Court that at the stage of charge sheet factual query and assessment of defence evidence is beyond purview of scrutiny under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The allegations being factual in nature can be decided only subject to evidence. In view of settled legal proposition, no findings can be recorded about veracity of allegations at this juncture in absence of evidence. Courts have highlighted repeatedly that jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. be sparingly/rarely invoked with complete circumspection and caution.

31. In Md. Allauddin Khan Vs. The State of Bihar and others (2019) 6 SCC 107, Court observed as to what should be examined by High Court in an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and in paras 15, 16 and 17 said as under:

"15. The High Court should have seen that when a specific grievance of the appellant in his complaint was that respondent Nos. 2 and 3 have committed the offences punishable under Sections 323, 379 read with Section 34 IPC, then the question to be examined is as to whether there are allegations of commission of these two offences in the complaint or not. In other words, in order to see whether any prima facie case against the accused for taking its cognizable is made out or not, the Court is only required to see the allegations made in the complaint. In the absence of any finding recorded by the High Court on this material question, the impugned order is legally unsustainable.

16. The second error is that the High Court in para 6 held that there are contradictions in the statements of the witnesses on the point of occurrence.

17. In our view, the High Court had no jurisdiction to appreciate the evidence of the proceedings under Section 482 of the Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short "Cr.P.C.") because whether there are contradictions or/and inconsistencies in the statements of the witnesses is essentially an issue relating to appreciation of evidence and the same can be gone into by the Judicial Magistrate during trial when the entire evidence is adduced by the parties. That stage is yet to come in this case." (emphasis added)

32. Recently, above view has been reiterated by Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 175 of 2020 (State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Yogendra Singh Jadaun and another) decided on 31.01.2020.

33. No material irregularity in the procedure followed by Court below has been pointed out. It is not a case of grave injustice justifying interference in this application at this stage.

34 In view of above discussion, I do not find any illegality or infirmity in impugned charge sheet or cognizance order of Magistrate.

35. This application lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

36. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE

THE HON'BLE DEEPAK VERMA, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 11808 of 2020

Smt. Anita Agarwal ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Anat Ram Gupta

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A., Sri Anurag Dubey

A. Criminal Law – Application u/s 482 – For quashing of order – Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 311, 313 - Lacuna in the prosecution must be construed to be an inherent weakness in the case and a latest wedge in the prosecution case and advantage of it should normally go to the accused in the trial of the case. (Para 13)

B. Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 311 - In the first part, the word used is "may" and thereby giving jurisdiction to the Court to pass order as per its discretion and the second part uses the word "shall" which makes obligatory for the Court to pass such order. The provision of Section 311 Cr.P.C., thus, first is a supplementary provision enabling and in certain circumstances imposition on the Court with the duty of examining a material witness who could not brought before it. (Para 15)

It is true that the power of the Court under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is of a very wide in nature but in what manner such power should be exercised has been a matter of discretion before the superior Courts. (Para 16)

Scope and object of the provision is to enable the Court to determine the truth and to render a just decision after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof of such facts, to arrive at a just decision of the case. Power must be exercised judiciously and not capriciously or arbitrarily, as any improper or capricious exercise of such power may lead to undesirable results. An application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. must not be allowed only to fill up a lacuna in the case of the prosecution, or of the defence, or to the disadvantage of the accused, or to cause serious prejudice to the defence of the accused, or to give an unfair advantage to the opposite party. Further, the additional evidence must not be received as a disguise for retrial, or to change the nature of the case against either of the parties. Such a power must be exercised, provided that the evidence that is likely to be tendered by a witness, is germane to the issue involved. An opportunity of rebuttal however, must be given to the other party. The power conferred must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection. (Para 23)

In the present case, it is clear that the document which are required to be summoned are in possession of the applicant-accused and they have got information under Right to Information Act and documents which relate to newspaper are not admissible in evidence not required to summon and further Hon'ble coordinate Bench of this Court had directed to expedite the trial. The applicant-accused have opportunity to put his case of alibi at the time of statement under section 311 Cr.P.C. and produce the documents as defence evidence. (Para 24, 26)

Application dismissed. (E-3)

Present application has been to quash the order dated 27.02.2020, passed by Additional Session Judge, Firozabad.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Deepak Verma , J.)

1. Heard Sri Anant Ram Gupta, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anurag Dubey, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2, learned AGA on behalf of the State and perused the record.

2. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by applicant to quash the order dated 27.02.2020 passed by Additional Session Judge, Court No.3, Firozabad in application under section 311 Cr.P.C. in Session Trial No.5586 of 2016 (State vs. Rohan Singhal and others) arising out of Case Crime No.648 of 2016, under sections 364A, 302, 201, 404, 120B I.P.C., Police Station Tundla, District Firozabad has been rejected.

3. Learned trial court by order dated 27.02.2020 decided two applications i.e. Application No.143-B and Application No.144-B. Order in challenge before this Court by the present application is against rejection of Application No.144-B, not against 143-B, therefore, this Court has to consider the legality and illegality of the application of accused applicant under section 144-B.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that on 24.08.2016 informant lodged FIR under section 364-A against three persons namely, Rohan Singhal, Pawan and Anuj Vij, alleged therein that he saw deceased Aditya, Rohan and Rohan's elder brother Pawan altogether were coming out from Orchid Green. Deceased Aditya on 22.08.2020 at about 8.30 went to Gim (Gymnasium) to exercise by his I-Ten Car No.UP 33A 1782 but he did not come back. At about 11.07 informant received SMS from unknown number that we caught your son and threatened them not to inform police. Thereafter again call came from Mobile No.9756674130 and they informed about deceased Aditya's car location and demanded Rs.10 crore and threatened if demand is not fulfilled, Aditya might be killed. When mother of Aditya enquired from Anuj, they did not talk properly.

5. Investigating officer after collecting evidence submitted chargesheet and charges were framed and trial started as S.T. No.5586 of 2016 under sections 364A, 302, 201, 404, 120-B I.P.C. started against applicant and other co-accused. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the applicant has taken plea of alibi before trial court and at present prosecution examination is going on which is clear from the rejection order. During prosecution examination, applicant moved application under section 311 Cr.P.C. with the prayer to just decision of case, summon the noted witnesses and original record given below:-

(i) Compete detail of payment of original statement account no.344104000004633 of Sri Pavan Singhal by the manager of I.D.B.I. Bank Branch Station Road Ganesh Nagar firozabad from 15.08.2016 to 25.08.2016.

(iii) Complete original record with detail of Ticket of helicopter passenger namely (1) Aghira Singhal (2) Pawan Singhal (3) Anita Agrawal and (4) Richa Singhal, P.N.R. number M.V.D.H. 1716822 Booking dated 1.8.2018 travelling dated 23.01.2016 and cancellation of said Passengers of Officer Incharge Hemalayan Helicopter services Sri Mata Vaishanav Devi Shrine board Centre Office Katra, District Ricy Jammu-Kashmir.

(v) Local editor of News paper "Amar Ujala" including copy of said News paper from "23.8.2016 and 24.8.2016" gopal Ashram market, Amar Ujala Office, Firozabad.

(vi) Local Editor of News paper "Dainik Jagaran (I.C.I. upper floor of A.T.M.) Suhag Nagar Firozabad including copy of said news paper dated 24.08.2016. For the proper and just decision and stay the further proceeding of S.S.t. No.5586 of 2016, Case Crime No.648 of 2016 under sections 364A, 302, , 404, 120B I.P.C., P.S. Tundla District Firozabad (State vs.Rohan Singhal and others) during the pendency of this Criminal Misc.Application (U/sa 482 Cr.P.c.) before this Hon'ble Court.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that trial court after giving opportunity to opposite party and hearing both the parties, rejected the application of the applicant without applying his judicial mind and arbitrarily and without considering the fact that the applicant wanted to prove his alibi plea by summoning the witnesses and documentary evidence and witness having documents which are required to be proved the alibi as the case of the applicant is that he was not present at the place of incident she alongwith her son and daughter-in-law went to visit Mata Vasnaodevi at Jammu-Kashmir and documents which had been asked to be summoned are essential to just and fair decision of the case and file present application on following grounds which is clear from the provision of Section 311 Cr.P.C. that section in two parts. First part gives purely discretionary power to the courts and enables it to summon the material witness at any stage of enquiry, trial or proceedings, on the other hand second part is mandatory and compels to take any step if it is essential to do the justice. Hon'ble Apex Court held in various decision that the object of Section 311 Cr.P.c. is to avoid the failure of justice power provided under section 311 Cr.P.C. is to be exercised judiciously in this regard. It has been held that whether it is essential to be just decision of the case. He further submitted that it is well settled that exercising power under section 311 Cr.P.C. should be restored to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof of such facts which lead to a just and correct decision of the case. It is argued that it is a cardinal rule in the law of evidence that the best available evidence should brought before the court to prove a fact or the points in issue but it is left either for the prosecution of for the defence to establish its respective case by adducing the best available evidence and the court is not empowered under the provisions of the code to compel either the prosecution or the defence to examine any particular witness or witnesses of their sides. It is the duty of a court not only to do justice but also to ensure that justice is being done.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in Union Territory of Dadra & Haveli & Anr. vs. Fatehsingh Mohansinh Chauhan reported in 2006(3) JIC 75 Supreme Court, in which respondent accused raised the plea of alibi and claimed that he was present in the chamber of Sri S.P.Marwah, the then Collector, Dadra and Nagar haveli, Silvassa as a meeting has been called there being a prominent member of a political party he participated and he took plea of alibi under section 311 Cr.P.C. Hon'ble Apex Court allowed the application of the accused-applicant and summon the collector as witness. Hon'ble Apex Court considered various judgments of Hon'ble Apex court in paragraph 10, 11, and 12. The same is reproduced below:-

10. In Jamatraj Kewalji Govani v. State of Maharashtra AIR 1968 SC 178 after analysis of the provision of Section it was held as under in para 10 of the reports :

"Section 540 is intended to be wide as the repeated use of the word 'any' throughout its length clearly indicates. The section is in two parts. The first part gives a discretionary power but the latter part is mandatory. The use of the word 'may' in the first part and of the word 'shall' in the second firmly establishes this difference. Under the first part, which is permissive, the court may act in one of three ways : (a) summon any person as a witness, (b) examine any person present in court although not summoned, and (c) recall or re-examine a witness already examined. The second part is obligatory and compels the Court to act in these three ways or any one of them if the just decision of the case demands it. As the section stands there is no limitation on the power of the Court arising from the stage to which the trial may have reached, provided the Court is bona fide of the opinion that for the just decision of the case, the step must be taken. It is clear that the requirement of just decision of the case does not limit the action to some thing in the interest of the accused only. The action may equally benefit the prosecution. ....."

11. 11. In Mohanlal Shamji Soni v. Union of India & Anr. AIR 1991 SC 1346 it was observed that it is a cardinal rule in the law of evidence that the best available evidence should be brought before the Court to prove a fact or the points in issue. But it is left either for the prosecution or for the defence to establish its respective case by adducing the best available evidence and the Court is not empowered under the provisions of the Code to compel either the prosecution or the defence to examine any particular witness or witnesses on their sides. It is the duty of a Court not only to do justice but also to ensure that justice is being done. It was further held that the second part of the Section does not allow for any discretion but it binds and compels the Court to take any of the aforementioned two steps if the fresh evidence to be obtained is essential to the just decision of the case. It was emphasized that power is circumscribed by the principle that underlines Section 311 Cr.P.C., namely, evidence to be obtained should appear to the court essential to a just decision of the case by getting at the truth by all lawful means. Further, that the power must be used judicially and not capriciously or arbitrarily. It was further observed that evidence should not be received as a disguise for a retrial or to change the nature of the case against either of the parties and the discretion of the Court must obviously be dictated by exigency of the situation and fair play and good sense appear to be the safe guides and that only the requirement of justice command the examination of any person which would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case.

Rajendra Prasad v. Narcotic Cell (1999) 6 SCC 110 is a decision where the contention that the prosecution should not be permitted to fill in lacuna was examined having regard to the peculiar facts where the exercise of power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. second time was challenged and, therefore, it is necessary to notice the facts of the case in brief. The accused along with some other persons was facing trial for offences under Sections 21, 25 and 29 of the NDPS Act. The prosecution and the defence closed their evidence on 19.9.1997 and the case was posted for further steps and on 7.3.1998, after few more dates, at the instance of the prosecution two witnesses who had already been examined were reexamined for the purpose of proving certain documents for prosecution. After they had been examined and the evidence had been closed, the case was posted for hearing arguments, which was heard in piecemeal on different dates. Subsequently on 7.6.1998, the Public Prosecutor moved an application seeking permission to examine Dalip Singh, S.I. and two other persons. Though the application was strongly opposed by the counsel for the accused, the trial Court allowed the same in exercise of its power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. and summons were issued to the witnesses. The challenge raised to the order of the learned Sessions Judge by filing a revision was dismissed by the High Court. In appeal before this Court it was contended that in the garb of exercise of power under Section 311 Cr.P.C., a Court cannot allow the prosecution to re-examine prosecution witnesses in order to fill up lacuna in the case specially having regard to the fact that Dalip Singh witness was never tendered by the prosecution for cross-examination and PW.4 Suresh Chand Sharma had also not been cross-examined by the State. Repelling the contention raised on behalf of the accused it was held :

"7. It is a common experience in criminal courts that defence counsel would raise objections whenever courts exercise powers under Section 311 of the Code or under Section 165 of the Evidence Act, 1872 by saying that the court could not "fill the lacuna in the prosecution case". A lacuna in the prosecution is not to be equated with the fallout of an oversight committed by a Public Prosecutor during trial, either in producing relevant materials or in eliciting relevant answers from witnesses. The adage "to err is human" is the recognition of the possibility of making mistakes to which humans are prone. A corollary of any such laches or mistakes during the conducting of a case cannot be understood as a lacuna which a court cannot fill up.

8. Lacuna in the prosecution must be understood as the inherent weakness or a latent wedge in the matrix of the prosecution case. The advantage of it should normally go to the accused in the trial of the case, but an oversight in the management of the prosecution cannot be treated as irreparable lacuna. No party in a trial can be foreclosed from correcting errors. If proper evidence was not adduced or a relevant material was not brought on record due to any inadvertence, the court should be magnanimous in permitting such mistakes to be rectified. After all, function of the criminal court is administration of criminal justice and not to count errors committed by the parties or to find out and declare who among the parties performed better."

Finally, it was held that the proposition that the Court cannot exercise power of re-summoning any witness if once that power was exercised, cannot be accepted nor can the power be whittled down merely on the ground that the prosecution discovered laches only when the defence highlighted them during arguments. Similar view has been taken in P. Chhaganlal Daga v. M. Sanjay Shaw (2003) 11 SCC 486 where permission granted by the Court to a complainant to produce additional material after evidence had been closed and case was posted for judgment was upheld repelling the contention that production of the document at that belated stage would amount to filling in a lacuna.

12. A conspectus of authorities referred to above would show that the principle is well settled that the exercise of power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof of such facts which lead to a just and correct decision of the case, this being the primary duty of a criminal court. Calling a witness or re-examining a witness already examined for the purpose of finding out the truth in order to enable the Court to arrive at a just decision of the case cannot be dubbed as "filling in a lacuna in prosecution case" unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the Court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused resulting in miscarriage of justice.

8. This Court in Arslan Zaheer vs.State of U.P. & another reported in 2016 (2) JIC 189 (Allahabad). In this case allegation against the accused is that he kidnapped victim girl but the case of the accused was that victim girl went with the applicant on her own volition and stayed in Hotel at Allahabad and where she had filled hotel register in her own handwriting.

9. Per contra, learned AGA as well as learned counsel for the informant opposed the contention raised by the learned counsel for the applicant. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 opposed the application by way of filing reply inter-alia on the ground that application has been filed with a view to delay the proceeding and to fill up lacuna, as such, same deserves to be dismissed. Learned court below taking note of the pleadings, adduced on record by respective parties, dismissed the application by concluding that applicant-accused cannot be allowed to fill up lacuna in defence. He further submitted that by way of counter affidavit, he has given various facts which has not been disclosed by learned counsel for the applicant as in para 5 of the counter affidavit that many adjournments have been taken from the side of the applicant-deceased, which is evident from perusal of the order-sheet of the trial. He further pointed out that those adjournments were being sought before spreading of pandemic Covid-19. He stated that intention of the accused persons is that they are not interested to conclude the trial. He further submitted in para 7 of the counter affidavit that accused persons moved various applications on different issues to delay the trial. An application moved before the learned trial court under section 311 Cr.P.c. to recall the P.W.-2 on the ground of changing the counsel for the accused and when the same was rejected vide order dated 20.03.2018, then that order was challenged before this Court with an affidavit. Thereafter opposite party no.2 moved an application by means of Criminal Misc.Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. No.28264 of 2018 before this Court with a prayer that a direction be issued to the court below to decide S.S.T. No.5586 of 2016 (State vs. Rohan Singhal and others) within a definite period. The same was disposed of on 16.08.2018 with the direction to the court below to decide aforesaid case in accordance with law without granting unnecessary adjournments to either of the parties as expeditiously as possible preferably within a period of eight months from the date of production of certified copy of this order. When order dated 16.08.2018 passed by this Court was not complied with thereafter opposite party no.2 moved Contempt Application (Civil) No.3817 of 2019 before this Court and same was disposed of as the presiding officer to finalize the proceeding in question expeditiously preferably within three months without according even a single adjournment to either of the parties and if necessary day to day hearing may be ensured in the matter so that the order in question must be complied with.

10. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 submitted that applicant-accused by way of application under section 311 Cr.P.C. several documents have sought to be summoned. First is statement about bank account of Pavan Singhal which is in possession of Pavan Singhal and this is the banking record approved by the banking authorities, hence there is no need to call the banking authority before the learned court below to prove the same. With regard of her journey alongwith the co-accused Pavan Singh and family collected through the Right to Information Act they had been provided hence, there is no need to verify and prove the same by the authorities of the Yamuna Expressway and regarding service of Helicopter to Mata Vashno Devi which was booked on 9th thereafter it was cancelled. Booking online and obtaining PNR number is not the perfect evidence to prove that a person who booked the ticket boarded on the same because of the ticket of the service of the Helicopter. Ticket of the service of the Helicopter was booked through online and the said booking may be done from the home of anyone. Thereafter the applicant wanted to summon the original record relating to travel of Yamuna Expressway.

11. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 replied in para 12 of the affidavit that the applicant now claimed that she alongwith co-accused went to Shimla where she stayed in a Hotel. Thereafter other information are based on newspaper which are not admissible in evidence. He further submitted that statutory admissibility of records which are required by the applicant and co-accused are statement of the bank account, documents of the helicopter services, documents provided by the Yamuna Expressway authority under R.T.I. Act are procurable so there is no need to summon the officer concerned to proof the same. If the applicant wants to produce defence witnesses then she or other co-accused has liberty to produce them as defence witnesses before the trial court and there is no need to call them as Court witnesses to prove the documents submitted by the applicant at the stage of prosecution witnesses. Applicant by way of this application only try to delay the trial.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record carefully.

13. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as this Court that lacuna in the prosecution must be construed to be an inherent weakness in the case and a latest wedge in the prosecution case and advantage of it should normally go to the accused in the trial of the case.

14. To verify the fact, it is relevant to consider Section 311 Cr.P.C. which are reproduced here-in-below:-

"311. Power to summon material witness or examine person present - Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case."

15. A bare perusal of Section goes to show that it is divided in two parts. In the first part, the word used is "may" and thereby giving jurisdiction to the Court to pass order as per its discretion and the second part uses the word "shall" which makes obligatory for the Court to pass such order. The provision of Section 311 Cr.P.C., thus, first is a supplementary provisions enabling and in certain circumstances imposition on the Court with the duty of examining a material witness who could not brought before it. It is couched in the widest possible terms and clause for non limitation either with regard to the stage of the trial nor with regard to the manner, it should be exercised.

16. It is true that the power of the Court under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is of a very wide in nature but in what manner such power should be exercised has been a matter of discretion before the superior Courts.

17. In the case of Hanuman Ram vs. State of Rajasthan and others 2009 (64) ACC 895, the Hon'ble the Apex Court has laid down as to what is the object of the Section 311 Cr.P.C and how the discretion provides thereunder should be exercised. Para 6 of the judgment reads as follows:

"The object underlying section 311 of the Code is that there may not be failure of justice on account of mistake of either party in bringing the valuable evidence on record or leaving ambiguity in the statements of the witnesses examined from either side. The determinative factor is whether it is essential to the just decision of the case. The section is not limited only for the benefit of the accused, and it will not be an improper exercise of the powers of the Court to summon a witness under the section merely because the evidence supports the case for the prosecution and not that of the accused. The section is a general section which applies to all proceedings, enquiries and trials under the Code and empowers Court to issue summons to any witness at any stage of such proceedings, trial or enquiry. In section 311 the significant expression that occurs is "at any stage of inquiry or trial or other proceeding under this Code". It is, however, to be borne in mind that whereas the section confers a very wide power on the Court on summoning witnesses, the discretion conferred is to be exercised judiciously, as wide the power the greater is the necessity for application of judicial mind."

18. Again in the case of Vijay Kumar vs State of U.P and others (2011) 11 SCR Page 893, the Hon'ble the Apex Court has held as follows:

"It is hardly needs to be emphasized that power under Section 311 should be exercised for the just decision of the case. The wide discretion conferred on the court to summon a witness must be exercised judicially, as wider the power, the greater is the necessity for application of the judicial mind. Whether to exercise the power or not would largely depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. As is provided in the Section, power to summon any person as a witness can be exercised if the court forms an opinion that the examination of such a witness is essential for just decision of the case."

19. At another place of the same judgment the following observation has been made by Hon'ble the Apex Court:

"Though Section 311 confers vast discretion upon the court and is expressed in the widest possible terms, the discretionary power under the said Section can be invoked only for the ends of justice. Discretionary power should be exercised consistently with the provisions of the Code of and the principles of criminal law. The discretionary power conferred under Section 311 has to be exercised judicially for reasons stated by the Court and not arbitrarily or capriciously. Before directing the learned Special Judge to examine."

20. The Apex Court while upholding as above observed that in the application to recall the witnesses, no specific reasons were mentioned as to how the examination of the witnesses proposed to be summoned was necessary and arrived at the conclusion and after discretion that the power under section 311 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 were exercised arbitrarily by the Court."

21. In Darya Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1965 SC 328 a Full Bench of the Apex Court has held as under:-

"In our opinion, this argument is entirely misconceived. It is well settled that in a murder case, it is primarily for the prosecutor to decide which witnesses he should examine in order to unfold his story. It is obvious that a prosecutor must act fairly and honestly and must never adopt the device of keeping back from the Court eye-witnesses only because their evidence is likely to go against the prosecution case. The duty of the prosecutor is to assist the court in reaching a proper conclusion in regard to the case which is brought before it for trial. It is no doubt open to the prosecutor not to examine witnesses who, in his opinion have not witnessed the incident, but normally he ought to examine all the eye-witnesses in support of his case. It may be that if a large number of persons have witnessed the incident, it would be open to the prosecutor to make a selection of those witnesses, but the selection must be made fairly and honestly and not with a view to suppress inconvenient witnesses from the witness-box. If at the trial it is shown that persons who had witnessed the incident have been deliberately kept back, the Court may draw an inference against the prosecution and may, in a proper case, regard the failure of the prosecutor to examine the said witnesses as constituting a serious infirmity in the proof of the prosecution case. In such a case if the ends of justice require, the Court may even examine such witnesses by exercising its power under Section 540; but to say that in every murder case, the Court must scrutinise the police diary and make a list of witnesses whom the prosecutor must examine is virtually to suggest that the Court should itself take the role of a prosecutor. The powers of the Court under Section 540 can and ought to be exercised in the interests of justice whenever the Court feels that the interests of justice so require, but that does not justify Mr. Bhasin's contention that the failure of the Court to have exercised its power under Section 540 has introduced a serious infirmity in the trial itself."

22. In Moirangthem Tomba Singh Vs. State of Manipur, 1984 Cr.L.J. 536 it has been observed as under:-

"That apart as submitted by the learned public prosecutor, reviewing on the decision Darya Singh v. State of Punjab (AIR 1965 SC 328) : 1965 (1) Cri LJ 350). The duty of the prosecution is normally to examine all the eye-witnesses but if the selection was made fairly and honestly and not with a view to suppress inconvenient witness from the witness box no adverse inference could be drawn against the prosecution."

23. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Natasha Singh Vs. C.B.I., reported in 2013 (2) UPCr.R 605, has stated that the scope and object of the provision is to enable the Court to determine the truth and to render a just decision after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof of such facts, to arrive at a just decision of the case. Power must be exercised judiciously and not capriciously or arbitrarily, as any improper or capricious exercise of such power may lead to undesirable results. An application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must not be allowed only to fill up a lacuna in the case of the prosecution, or of the defence, or to the disadvantage of the accused, or to cause serious prejudice to the defence of the accused, or to give an unfair advantage to the opposite party. Further, the additional evidence must not be received as a disguise for retrial, or to change the nature of the case against either of the parties. Such a power must be exercised, provided that the evidence that is likely to be tendered by a witness, is germane to the issue involved. An opportunity of rebuttal however, must be given to the other party. The power conferred under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection.

24. It is apparent from the impugned order passed by the court below that accused had enclosed the list of documents which he wanted to summon are related with Right to Information Act which legal admissibility is not doubtful and others are relating to newspaper which are not admissible in evidence and the documents which related bills of expenses of travel and hotels would not required to be summoned and further coordinate Bench of this Court directed the court below to expedite the matter and the accused-applicant would have opportunity to put all this in defence and thereafter prosecution will have to cross them. The accused having opportunity to state under section 313 Cr.P.C. Regarding his alibi as defence, thereafter he could produce documents as defence. No doubt, while exercising power under section 311 Cr.P.C. Paramount consideration of the court should be to do justice to the case and the court can summon a witness at any stage, if same is filling up lacuna or loopholes. Similarly, this Court has also held that material essential for just decision of the case ought to be taken on record. However, in the case at hand, this court having carefully perused the explanation rendered in the application filed under section 311 Cr.P.C. as well as reasons recorded by the learned Special Judge in support of his decision finds no occasion to summon the documents as required by the applicant.

25. Learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the judgements of the Apex Court and this Court. In both the cases facts are totally different from the present case. In the case of Union Terretory of Dadra & Haveli (supra), the accused-applicant took a plea of alibi in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. which was recorded after close of prosecution evidence and submitted that he is a prominent member of political party and at the time of incident he was present in the chamber of Collector. In the present case, the applicant will have opportunity to take plea of alibi and thereafter he may produce evidence as per requirement. In the case of Arslan Zaheer (supra), the applicant moved an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. to summon the register of the hotel for the purpose of cross examination as the accused has to proof his innocence because accused was trapped in kidnapping case, on his defence he had to prove that victim/girl was gone with her own volition along with co-accused and stayed in hotel and filled up hotel register documents in her own handwriting.

26. The power under section 311 Cr.P.C. is the discretion or the obligation of the Court to summon or recall a witness, but this discretion of the Court cannot be forced to be used by the accused or the prosecution. While considering the present case it is clear that the document which are required to be summoned are having in possession of the applicant-accused and they have got information under Right to Information Act and documents which relate to newspaper are not admissible in evidence not required to summon and further Hon'ble coordinate Bench of this Court had directed to expedite the trial. The applicant-accused have opportunity to put his case of alibi at the time of statement under section 311 Cr.P.C. and produce the documents as defence evidence.

27. Considering the facts of the cases and in the end, I do not find any illegality in the impugned order requiring any interference by this Court in exercise of inherent power under section 482 Cr.P.C. and consequently, the prayer for quashing the impugned order dated 27.02.2020 passed by Additional Session Judge, Court No.3, Firozabad in application under section 311 Cr.P.C. in Session Trial No.5586 of 2016 (State vs. Rohan Singhal and others) arising out of Case Crime No.648 of 2016, under sections 364A, 302, 201, 404, 120B I.P.C., Police Station Tundla, District Firozabad, is refused.

28. The present 482 application lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

CRIMINAL SIDE

THE HON'BLE RAVI NATH TILHARI, J.

Application u/s 482 No. 13804 of 2020

Anmol Singh ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Hari Prakash Singh

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
A.G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Application u/s 482 – Power and Jurisdiction of Magistrate while deciding application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. – Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 156(3), 202(1), 190 - The Magistrate empowered under section 190 Cr.P.C. may order an investigation by police under section 156(3) but he need not order any such investigation if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. Once he takes cognizance he has to follow the procedure envisaged in Chapter XV of the code. (Para 6, 8)

It is true that every application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. disclosing commission of a cognizable offence may not be directed for investigation by police and the Magistrate has jurisdiction to treat the same as a complaint case but in exercise of such jurisdiction the Magistrate has to keep in view various factors. The exercise of jurisdiction is basically guided by interest of justice, from case to case. (Para 14)

B. The magistrate should apply judicial mind while exercising his powers u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. He could not act in a mechanical or casual manner and go on with the complaint after getting the report. The course adopted by the Magistrate i.e. direction to the police for registration of FIR and making investigation or to treat the application as a complaint case, must be supported by reasons. The order must also reflect that the Magistrate on relevant considerations has adopted one of these two modes open to him. Mere mention in the order that he has gone through the complaint and the police investigation is not required or otherwise, would not be sufficient compliance of application of judicial mind while deciding application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. (Para 8)

The direction u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. is to be issued only after application of mind by the Magistrate. When the Magistrate does not take cognizance and does not find it necessary to postpone issuance of process and finds that a case is made out to proceed forthwith, direction under the provision is issued. In other words, where on account of credibility of information available or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightway direct investigation, such a direction is issued. The cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate is yet to determine existence of sufficient ground to proceed. (Para 10)

In the present case, perusal of the order clearly shows that the Magistrate has not applied judicious mind to the facts of the case, which not only made out commission of a cognizable offence but an offence of molestation and sexual assault on the mother of the applicant. The application clearly stated that the accused persons are related to influential persons and as such neither the FIR was being lodged nor the medical of the applicant's mother was carried out. In such matters the medical examination of the victim is necessary. Merely because the facts are in the knowledge of the applicant, direction to lodge FIR cannot be refused. The gravity/seriousness of the offence, the requirement of the evidence for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution, and basically the interest of justice depending on the facts of each case, need be considered in passing the order under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. The offence, as per the contents of the application is not a matrimonial, commercial or family dispute, etc. The order does not assign any valid reason nor reflects application of judicious mind to relevant considerations and does not stand the test of the law. (Para 15)

Present petition/application has been filed challenging the order dated 17.07.2020, passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Janupur u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C., whereby the said application has been registered as a complaint case.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Shri Hari Prakash Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the material brought on record.

2. This application/petition under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure (Cr.P.C.) has been filed challenging the order dated 17.07.2020, passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 11, Janupur in Criminal Misc. Application No. 180 of 2020 (Anmol Singh versus Krishan Kumar Singh and others) under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Police Station-Sarai Khwaja, District- Jaunpur, whereby the said application has been registered as a complaint case.

3. Considering the nature of the order under challenge; the pre-cognizance stage of the case at which the proposed accused have no right of hearing, that keeping this application pending would serve no fruitful purpose which would delay the proceedings of the criminal case as well as the order proposed to be passed, the notice to the private respondents is dispensed with.

4. Briefly stated the facts of the case as per the application/petition are that on 05.05.2020 at about 8.30 a.m. the accused opposite party nos. 2 to 4 forcibly entered in the house of the applicant armed with lathi and danda, abused and misbehaved the applicant and her mother. They also threatened the applicant to kill him. The accused committed sexual assault on the mother of the applicant. The applicant was medically examined but no medical examination of the mother was conducted in spite of request. The accused are related to influential persons. The applicant's report was not being registered, therefore, the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was filed on which the order under challenge was passed.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. discloses commission of cognizable offence and as such the Magistrate must have directed the registration of the first information report and investigation by police, instead of treating the application as a complaint case. He further submits that the order under challenge has been passed mechanically and in a routine manner, which does not manifest the application of judicious mind to the facts of the case and law applicable therein. He has placed reliance on the cases of 'Lalita Kumari Vs. Government of India and others', reported in 2014(2) SCC 1; 'Jitendra Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and 2 others', Criminal Revision No.1768 of 2018, decided on 29.05.2018; 'Shiv Mangal Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others', Criminal Revision No.715 of 2019, decided on 25.02.2019 and 'Ashok Kumar Pathak Vs. State of U.P. and another', passed in application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.43271 of 2018, decided on 30.11.2018.

6. Learned AGA has submitted that the Magistrate has the jurisdiction to direct the police to register the F.I.R. and make investigation without taking cognizance. But, he has also the jurisdiction to take cognizance and proceed to inquire the matter by himself, registering the application as a complaint case. In such circumstance he has to follow the procedure prescribed for complaint case. He has submitted that the Magistrate while proceeding as a complaint case has still the power to direct for police investigation, in view of Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. If the Magistrate in his discretion has adopted the option of registering the application as a complaint case, no illegality has been committed by the Magistrate. Learned A.G.A. has placed reliance on the case of 'Sukhwasi Vs. State of U.P. and others' 2007 (59) ACC 739 (Allahabad) (D.B.) in support of his contention that it is in the discretion of the Magistrate to direct for police investigation before taking cognizance under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., or after taking cognizance to proceed with the application as a complaint case.

7. I have considered the submissions as advanced by the learned counsel for the applicant, the learned AGA and perused the material brought on record.

8. In the cases of Suresh Chandra Jain vs State of M.P. and another (2001) 2 SCC 628; Mohd. Yousuf Vs. Smt. Afaq Jahan & another another (2006) 1 SCC 627; Ram Babu Gupta Vs. State of U.P. & others [2001 (43) ACC 50 (FB); Sukhwasi Vs. State of U.P. & others [2007 (9) ADJI (DB) & Ram Dev Food Products Vs. State of Gujarat (2015) 6 SCC 439 it has been laid down that the Magistrate empowered under section 190 Cr.P.C. may order an investigation by police under section 156 (3) but he need not order any such investigation if he proposes to take cognizance of the offence. Once he takes cognizance he has to follow the procedure envisaged in Chapter XV of the code. The magistrate should apply judicial mind while exercising his powers under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. He could not act in a mechanical or casual manner and go on with the complaint after getting the report. The course adopted by the Magistrate i.e. direction to the police for registration of FIR and making investigation or to treat the application as a complaint case, must be supported by reasons. The order must also reflect that the Magistrate on relevant considerations has adopted one of these two modes open to him.Mere mention in the order that he has gone through the complaint and the police investigation is not required or otherwise, would not be sufficient compliance of application of judicial mind while deciding application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

9. In the case of Lalita Kumari Vs. Government of India and others reported in 2014 (2) SCC 1 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"120) In view of the aforesaid discussion, we hold:

"i) Registration of FIR is mandatory under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence and no preliminary inquiry is permissible in such a situation.

ii) If the information received does not disclose a cognizable offence but indicates the necessity for an inquiry, a preliminary inquiry may be conducted only to ascertain whether cognizable offence is disclosed or not.

iii) If the inquiry discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, the FIR must be registered. In cases where preliminary inquiry ends in closing the complaint, a copy of the entry of such closure must be supplied to the first informant forthwith and not later than one week. It must disclose reasons in brief for closing the complaint and not proceeding further.

iv) The police officer cannot avoid his duty of registering offence if cognizable offence is disclosed. Action must be taken against erring officers who do not register the FIR if information received by him discloses a cognizable offence.

v) The scope of preliminary inquiry is not to verify the veracity or otherwise of the information received but only to ascertain whether the information reveals any cognizable offence.

vi) As to what type and in which cases preliminary inquiry is to be conducted will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The category of cases in which preliminary inquiry may be made are as under:

a) Matrimonial disputes/ family disputes

b)Commercial offences

c) Medical negligence cases

d) Corruption cases

e) Cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, for example, over 3 months delay in reporting the matter without satisfactorily explaining the reasons for delay.

The aforesaid are only illustrations and not exhaustive of all conditions which may warrant preliminary inquiry.

vii) While ensuring and protecting the rights of the accused and the complainant, a preliminary inquiry should be made time bound and in any case it should not exceed 7 days. The fact of such delay and the causes of it must be reflected in the General Diary entry.

viii) Since the General Diary/Station Diary/Daily Diary is the record of all information received in a police station, we direct that all information relating to cognizable offences, whether resulting in registration of FIR or leading to an inquiry, must be mandatorily and meticulously reflected in the said Diary and the decision to conduct a preliminary inquiry must also be reflected, as mentioned above."

10. The case of Lalita Kumari (supra) came to be considered in Ramdev Food Products Private Ltd. Vs. State of Gujarat (2015) 6 SCC 439 the first question as framed therein was "whether the discretion of the Magistrate to call for a report under Section 202 Cr.P.C. instead of directing investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is controlled by any defined parameters? The Hon'ble Supreme Court answered the first question by holding that the direction under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is to be issued only after application of mind by the Magistrate. When the Magistrate does not take cognizance and does not find it necessary to postpone issuance of process and finds that a case is made out to proceed forthwith, direction under the provision is issued. In other words, where on account of credibility of information available or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightway direct investigation, such a direction is issued. The cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate is yet to determine existence of sufficient ground to proceed. The category of cases falling under para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari may fall under section 202 Cr.P.C. Subject to these broad guidelines available from the scheme of the Court, exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is guided by interest of justice from case to case. Para Nos. 22 to 22.3 of Ramdev Food Products (P) Ltd. (supra) is being reproduced as under:

"22. Thus, we answer the first question by holding that:

22.1. The direction under Section 156 (3) is to be issued, only after application of mind by the Magistrate. When the Magistrate does not take cognizance and does not find it necessary to postpone the issuance of process and finds a case made out to proceed forthwith, direction under the said provision is issued. In other words, where on account of credibility of information available, or weighing the interest of justice it is considered appropriate to straightaway direct investigation, such a direction is issued.

22.2. The cases where Magistrate takes cognizance and postpones issuance of process are cases where the Magistrate has yet to determine "existence of sufficient ground to proceed". Category of cases falling under para 120.6 in Lalita Kumar may fall under Section 202 Cr.P.C..

22.3. Subject to these broad guidelines available from the scheme of the Code, exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is guided by interest of justice from case to case."

11. It would also be appropriate to refer to the judgment of this Court in the case of Gulab Chand Upadhyay Vs State of U.P. and others 2002 SCC OnLine All 1221 in which this Hon'ble Court has held as under:

"20. In these circumstances, the question arises that when a Magistrate is approached by a complainant with an application praying for a direction to the police under Section 156 (3) to register and investigate an alleged cognizable offence, why should he

(A) grant the relief of registration of a case and its investigation by the police under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. and when should he

(B) treat the application as a complaint and follow the procedure of Chapter XV of Cr.P.C.

21. The scheme of Cr.P.C. and the prevailing circumstances require that the option to direct the registration of the case and its investigation by the police should be exercised where some investigation is required, which is of a nature that is not possible for the private complainant, and which can only be done by the police under whom statute has conferred the powers essential for investigation, for example

(1) where the full details of the accused are not known to the complainant and the same can be determined only as a result of investigation, or

(2) where recovery of abducted person or stolen property is required to be made by conducting raids or searches of suspected places or persons, or

(3) where for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution of the accused evidence is required to be collected and preserved. To illustrate by example cases may be visualised where for production before Court at the trial (a) sample of blood soaked soil is to be taken and kept sealed for fixing the place of incident; or (b) recovery of case property is to be made and kept sealed; or (c) recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act; or (d) preparation of inquest report; or (e) witnesses are not known and have to be found out or discovered through the process of investigation.

22. But where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of all the accused as well as the witnesses who have to be examined and neither recovery is needed nor any such material evidence is required to be collected which can be done only by the police, no "investigation" would normally be required and the procedure of complaint case should be adopted. The facts of the present case given below serve as an example. It must be kept in mind that adding unnecessary cases to the diary of the police would impair their efficiency in respect of cases genuinely requiring investigation. Besides even after taking cognizance and proceeding under Chapter XV the Magistrate can still under Section 202 (1) Cr.P.C. order investigation, even thought of a limited nature (see para 7 of JT (2001) 2 (SC) 81: ((2001) 2 SCC 628: AIR 2001 SC 571)."

12. Recently, in the case of 'Lalaram Vs. State of U.P. and 13 others' passed in Criminal Revision No.1611 of 2020, decided on 18.12.2020, this Court has summarized the well settled proposition of law on the scope of Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., the power and jurisdiction of the Magistrate while deciding such an application. It would be appropriate to reproduce paragraph no.40 of the case of Lalaram (Supra), as under:-

"40. From the aforesaid judgments, some of the following proposition of law, well settled, may be summarized as under:-

(40.01). Under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence it is the mandatory duty of the police officer in charge to register the FIR. He cannot avoid his duty of registering offence, if cognizable offence is made out.

(40.02). If FIR is not registered, the person aggrieved by a refusal to record the information has remedy to approach the Superintendent of Police by submitting an application in writing and by post to enable him to satisfy if such information discloses the commission of a cognizable offence and in case of such satisfaction, either to investigate himself or direct an investigation to be made by any police officer subordinate to him.

(40.04). On such an application having been made, if, the Magistrate finds that a cognizable offence is made out, the Magistrate may direct the police to register the FIR and investigate the matter, without taking cognizance.

(40.05). The other option open to the Magistrate is to take cognizance on the complaint, register it as a complaint case and proceed as per the procedure prescribed under Chapter XV Cr.P.C. The Magistrate would record the statement of the complainant and the witnesses if any present, under Section 200 Cr.P.C. He may, if he thinks fit and shall in cases where accused resides out side the area of exercise of jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned, either enquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. Thereafter, he shall pass order, either under Section 203 dismissing the complaint, for brief reasons to be recorded, or he shall issue process under Section 204 Cr.P.C.

(40.06). In either case, i.e. issuing direction for investigation by the police officer under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or taking cognizance and registering it as a complaint case, the Magistrate has to apply judicial mind. There cannot be mechanical exercise of jurisdiction or exercise in a routine manner. Mere statement in the order that he has gone through the complaint, documents and heard the complainant will not be sufficient. What weighed with the Magistrate to order investigation or to take cognizance should be reflected in the order, although a detailed expression of his view is neither required nor warranted.

(40.07). The exercise of discretion by the Magistrate is basically guided by interest of justice, from case to case.

(40.08). However, where some investigation is required which is of a nature that is not possible for the private complainant and which can only be done by the police officer upon whom statute has conferred the powers essential for investigation, the option to direct the registration of the FIR and its investigation by the police officer should be exercised, for example:-

(i) where the full details of the accused are not known to the complainant and the same can be determined only as a result of investigation, or

(ii) where recovery of abducted person or stolen property is required to be made by conducting raids or searches of suspected places or persons, or

(iii) where for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution of the accused evidence is required to be collected and preserved, and to illustrate this, by few example cases may be visualised where for production before Court at the trial

(a) sample of blood soaked soil is to be taken and kept sealed for fixing the place of incident; or

(b) recovery of case property is to be made and kept sealed; or

(c) recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act; or

(d) preparation of inquest report; or

(e) witnesses are not known and have to be found out or discovered through the process of investigation.

(40.09). Where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of all the accused and the witnesses who have to be examined and neither recovery is needed nor any such material evidence is required to be collected which can be done only by the police, no "investigation" would normally be required and the procedure of complaint case should be adopted.

(40.10). Category of cases falling under para 120.6 in Lalita Kumari (Supra) i.e.

(a) Matrimonial disputes/family disputes

(b) Commercial offences

(c) Medical negligence cases,

(d) Corruption cases

(e) Cases where there is abnormal delay in filling criminal complaint etc. may fall under Section 202 Cr.P.C .

(40.11). The Magistrate should also keep in view that primarily, it is the duty of the State/police to investigate the cases involving cognizable offence. Generally, the burden of proof to bring the guilt of the accused is on the State and this burden is a heavy burden to prove the guilt beyond all reasonable doubts. This burden should not unreasonably be shifted on an individual/complainant from the State by treating the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint case.

(40.12). The investigation which the police officer or such other person makes in pursuance of the direction of the Magistrate under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is the same kind of investigation as is required to be conducted by police officer, under Chapter XII Cr.P.C. which ends with submission of the report as per Section 173(2) Cr.P.C.

(40.13). The distinction between the investigation by the police officer under Section 156(3) and under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is that the former is at the pre-cognizance stage and the latter is at post cognizance stage, when the Magistrate is seisin of the case. The investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or false hood of the complaint for helping the Magistrate to decide, whether or not there is sufficient ground, for him to proceed further against the accused by issuing process, whereas, the inquiry report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. of the investigation made by the police of its own or under the directions of the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is for the purpose of enabling the Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(a) Cr.P.C.

(40.14). Once cognizance is taken on the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. by the Magistrate and he embarks upon the procedure embodied in Chapter XV, he would not be competent to revert to the pre-cognizance stage under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

(40.15). If the Magistrate did not order for police investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and took cognizance of the case, that would not be bar to the exercise of the power of the Magistrate for directing the police investigation under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C."

13. In 'Jitendra Kumar' (Supra), 'Shiv Mangal Singh' (Supra) and 'Ashok Kumar Pathak' (Supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicant also it was held that the Magistrate shall pass order with due application of judicious mind.

14. It is true that every application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. disclosing commission of a cognizable offence may not be directed for investigation by police and the Magistrate has jurisdiction to treat the same as a complaint case but in exercise of such jurisdiction the Magistrate has to keep in view various factors as laid down in Lalaram (supra), which are only illustrative and not exhaustive. The exercise of jurisdiction is basically guided by interest of justice, from case to case.

15. Perusal of the order clearly shows that the Magistrate has not applied judicious mind to the facts of the case and in particular paragraph no.3 of the application, which not only made out commission of a cognizable offence but an offence of molestation and sexual assault on the mother of the applicant. The application clearly stated that the accused persons are related to influential persons and as such neither the FIR was being lodged nor the medical of the applicant's mother was carried out. In such matters the medical examination of the victim is necessary. The medical report of the victim is of importance. Merely because the facts are in the knowledge of the applicant, direction to lodge FIR cannot be refused. The gravity/seriousness of the offence; the requirement of the evidence for the purpose of launching a successful prosecution, and basically the interest of justice depending on the facts of each case, need be considered in passing the order under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. The offence, as per the contents of the application is not a matrimonial, commercial or family dispute, etc. The order does not assign any valid reason nor reflects application of judicious mind to relevant considerations and does not stand the test of the law as laid down in the cases of "Ram Deo Food Products' (Supra) and 'Gulab Chand Upadhyay' (Supra).

16. The present petition/application is, therefore, allowed. The order under challenge is set-aside with the direction to the learned Magistrate to pass fresh orders on the application of the applicant after affording opportunity of hearing to him, in accordance with law, in the light of the observations made herein above, within a period of one month from the date of production of true/attested copy of this judgment before the learned Magistrate concerned.

17. No orders as to costs.

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.

Matter Under Article 227 No. 3189 of 2020

Gurmej Singh & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
Ranjit Kaur & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Praveen Kumar, Sri Onkar Nath Vishwakarma, Sri Pradeep Kumar

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Arvind Kumar Tiwari, Sri Arvind Srivastava

A. Civil Law – Constitution of India: Article 227 – Maintainability of appeal against order passed in exercise of powers under Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC - Code of Civil Procedure, 1908: Order 39 Rule 3-A, Order 39 Rule 3, Order 43 Rule (1)(r) - In Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC, though Rule 3 (which necessarily include Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC) has not been mentioned, however, in view of the authorities the appeal under the aforesaid provision would be maintainable.

Such appeal, if filed, would be maintainable only after expiry of thirty days, where the provision of added Rule 3-A to Order 39 CPC is in force. However, in the State of U.P., since the Circular dated 16.8.2017 has been issued providing for six months time for disposal of applications of interim injunction failing which the subordinate court must have to record reasons in the order-sheet, therefore, such misc. appeal would be maintainable only after expiry of six months. (Para 38)

In absence of any specific statutory provision, such appeal, if filed, on expiry of aforesaid time period can be entertained guided by the parameters set out in the judgment of A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (infra) or in any other judgment on this issue.

In the present case, the defendant has not filed any application before the trial court to vacate the ex-parte temporary injunction and it is also not a case where plaintiff is aggrieved that the trial court is not deciding or has failed to decide the temporary injunction application. Therefore, as observed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (infra), the order dated 5.8.2020 passed by the trial court cannot be deemed to be final order in nature on the date of expiry of thirty days mentioned in Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC. The natural consequence whereof is that misc. appeal under Order 43 Rule 1(r) CPC would not be maintainable. (Para 16)

In the State of U.P. in absence of applicability of Rule 3-A thirty days time limit can be safely treated to be six months for disposal of temporary injunction application and also for the purpose of deemed inclusion of order passed in exercise of powers under Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC (after six months) in Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC. (Para 20)

B. Appellate Court is bound to record reasons - While entertaining such appeal the appellate court is bound to record reasons for entertaining such appeal, and such appeal must indicate the omission on the part of the trial court to decide such temporary injunction application finally, if filed, by the plaintiff or omission on the part of the trial court to decide an application filed by the defendant for vacating the interim order granted by the trial court within the said time period of six months (in the State of U.P.). (Para 17, 38)

No such action or omission on the part of the trial court exists in this case. On the contrary, in the light of Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC reasons have been recorded by the trial court and directions were given to take steps, which were also taken by the plaintiff and defendant was duly served the notices. (Para 30)

Court further clarified that in case the temporary injunction application filed by the plaintiff or any other party to the suit interested in temporary injunction is not decided within the time period of six months in the State of U.P., he can file misc. appeal under the provisions of Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC, which can be entertained for the reasons recorded and in case of non-consideration of disposal of the stay vacation application filed by the defendant or any other party to the suit, he can also file misc. appeal under the aforesaid provision, which can also be considered for the reasons recorded as per the parameters set out by the Courts. (Para 29, 38)

There is a difference in "maintainability" and "entertainability". The misc. appeal may be 'maintainable' but the same can be 'entertained' only on the parameters set out in the relevant statutory provisions and if there is no such provision of law available, then as per the law laid down by the Courts. (Para 27)

C. Appeal can be considered only on the evidence already on record unless additional evidence is received as per the procedure prescribed - If any such misc. appeal is filed, the same can be considered only on the evidence already on record before the trial court unless the additional evidence is received by the appellate court under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC as per the law by recording reasons. In other words, in such misc. appeal the appellant cannot rely on the evidence filed by him in the appellate court without the same having not been allowed by the misc. court under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC. (Para 38)

In the present case, even before the date fixed by the trial court, without putting in appearance in the trial court, the misc. appeal was filed and from perusal of the lower appellate court order it is reflected that the evidence on affidavit was filed by the parties (including the defendant) and was accepted by the lower appellate court also as such, and not under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC by recording reasons for accepting the same. (Para 35)

Present petition challenges order dated 27.08.2020, passed by District Judge, Pilibhit.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pradeep Kumar, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Onkar Nath Vishwakarma, learned counsel for the petitioners through video conferencing and Sri Arvind Srivastava along with Sri Arvind Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the caveator defendants-respondents and perused the record.

2. With the consent of learned counsel for the parties, present petition is being decided at this stage itself.

3. Present petition has been filed for setting aside the the order dated 27.8.2020 passed by District Judge, Pilibhit in Misc. Appeal No. 12 of 2020 (Ranjit Kaur and others vs. Gurmej Singh and others).

4. By the order dated 5.8.2020 the trial court has granted an ex-parte interim injunction by recording reasons. Defendant no. 1 is the purchaser of the property from one of the co-sharers. The order of ex-parte temporary injunction was granted and the plaintiff was directed to comply with the provision of Order 39 Rule 3 CPC and 28.8.2020 was fixed for hearing for temporary injunction application. The defendant after receiving the notice filed misc. appeal on 20.8.2020 prior to the date fixed by the trial court, which was decided by the lower appellate court vide impugned order dated 27.8.2020, whereby the order of trial court granting interim order was rejected.

5. By drawing attention to the prayer clause of the plaint Sri Pradeep Kumar, learned Senior Counsel submitted that the suit was for cancellation of the sale deed and for injunction both. This fact has been noticed by the lower appellate court at internal page 2 of the order. However, it is reflected from perusal of internal page 5 and internal page 13 (paragraph 23) that the lower appellate court proceeded as if the suit was injunction suit simplicitor and therefore, the order was set aside. Submission is that the order is wholly illegal.

6. Learned counsel for the defendant-respondent supported the impugned order.

7. That apart, this Court has put a pointed query to learned counsel appearing for the respondents that how the misc. appeal against the ex-parte injunction was maintainable and / or entertainable?

8. Learned counsel for the respondents by placing reliance on decision of Full Bench of this Court in the case of Zila Parishad, Budaun and others vs. Brahma Rishi Sharma 1970 AIR (Allahabad) 376 (FB) submitted that the misc. appeal filed by the defendants under Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC was maintainable. Paragraphs 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 16 of the aforsaid judgment are quoted as under:-

"9. Order 43, Rule (1) (r) pertinently reads:

"An appeal shall lie from ..... an order under Rule 1, Rule 2..... of Order XXXIX."

10. Re. Question (1): It is now to be seen whether an ex parte order of Injunction falls within the purview of Rule l(r) of Order 43.

11. Two things deserve notice at threshold. Firstly, the language of Rule l(r) is unhedged and broad. Secondly, courts should lean in favour of an interpretation which expands rather than shrinks a remedial right. A remedial provision of law is generally construed liberally. Rule 1 (r) creates a remedial right of appeal for protection of substantial and substantive rights.

12. An ad interim injunction may be granted under Order XXXIX or Section

151 in some cases. No appeal lies against an order under Section 151. be it ex parte or otherwise. An ex parte order of injunction made under Order XXXIX will fall either under Rule 1 or Rule 2. There is no other provision under which such an order can be made. Rule 1 (r) of Order 43 does not say that an appeal shall lie from a final order under Rule 1 or Rule 2 of Order XXXIX. No adequate reason is shown for interpolating the word 'final' before 'order' in Rule l(r). Courts do not ordinarily make additions in enactments. That is a legislative function.

13. Let us now examine the scheme of Rules 1 to 4 of Order XXXIX. Rules 1 and 2 provide for the making of an interim order of injunction. Rule 3 firstly provides that an interim injunction should ordinarily be granted after notice to the adversary party. Secondly, it provides that notice may be dispensed with where the court is satisfied that it would defeat the purpose of granting an injunction. Rule 4 provides that an order of injunction may be discharged or varied or set aside on an application made by the party dissatisfied with such order.

16. The language and the object of Rule 1(r) of Order 43 and the scheme of Rules 1 to 4 of Order 39 show that an appeal also lies against the ex parte order of injunction. As soon as an interim injunction is issued and the party affected thereby is apprised of it, he has two remedies: (1) he can either get the ex parte injunction order discharged or varied or set aside under Rule 4 of Order 39 and if unsuccessful avail the right of appeal as provided for under Order 43, Rule 1 (r), or (2) straightway file an appeal under Order 43, Rule 1 (r) against the injunction order passed under Rules 1 and 2 of Order 39. C.P.C. It is not unusual to provide for alternative remedies. For instance, when an ex parte decree is passed against a person, he has two remedies: either he may go up in appeal against the ex parte decree or he may seek to get the ex parte decree set aside by the same court."

9. Admittedly, the aforesaid judgment is of the year 1970 and amendments were made in the year 1976 Vide Section 86 of Act 104 of 1976 w.e.f. 1.2.1977, whereby Proviso to Rule 3 was added in Order 39 CPC providing powers to the trial court to grant injunction without giving notice to the opposite parties, Thus, with all respect at my command it is observed that judgment of the Hon'ble Full Court was based on the fact that at that point of time there was no specific provision giving power to the trial court for passing ex-parte order of temporary injunction.

10. By the same Section 86 of Amending Act 104 of 1976 Rule 3-A was also added to Order 39 CPC to provide that court is to dispose of application for injunction within 30 days.

11. Therefore, the Hon'ble Full Bench had no occasion to consider Rule 3 and Rule 3-A added to Order 39 CPC in the year 1976. May be, which could have substantially influenced the judgment of the Hon'ble Full Bench.

12. It would be appropriate to take note of relevant provision of CPC. Order 39 Rule 3 and 3A CPC and Order 43 Rule (1) (r) are quoted as under:-

"Order XXXIX CPC

3. Before granting injunction, Court to direct notice to opposite party - The Court shall in all cases, except where it appears that the object of granting the injunction would be defeated by the delay, before granting an injunction, direct notice of the application for the same to be given to the opposite party:

Provided that, where it is proposed to grant an injunction without giving notice of the application to the opposite party, the Court shall record the reasons for its opinion that the object of granting the injunction would be defeated by delay, and require the applicant-

(a) to deliver to the opposite party, or to send to him by registered post, immediately after the order granting the injunction has been made, a copy of the application for injunction together with-

(i) a copy of the affidavit filed in support of the application;

(ii) a copy of the plaint; and

(iii) copies of documents on which the applicant relies, and

(b) to file on the day on which such injunction is granted or on the day immediately following that day, an affidavit stating that the copies aforesaid have been so delivered or sent.

3A. Court to dispose of application for injunction within thirty days - Where an injunction has been granted without giving notice to the opposite party, the Court shall make an endeavour to finally dispose of the application within thirty days from the date on which the injunction was granted; and where it is unable so to do, it shall record its reasons for such inability.

Allahabad - Rule 3-A shall be omitted (Vide Noti. No. 103/IV-h-360 dt. Feb. 3, 1981, w.e.f. Oct. 3, 1981.

Order XLIII CPC

1. Appeals from orders-

(r) an order under Rule 1, Rule 2, (Rule 2-A), Rule 4 or Rule 10 of Order XXXIX.

Rule 2-A Ins. By Act 104 of 1976, S. 89 (w.e.f. 1-2-1977)" (emphasis supplied)

13. As noticed above Rule 3-A stood omitted in State of Uttar Pradesh w.e.f. 3.10.1981.

14. Subsequently, Hon'ble Apex Court has held in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu vs. S. Challappan and others 2000 (7) SCC 695 (paragraph 21) that the misc. appeal would not be maintainable before 30 days in case the injunction application is not decided, paragraphs 15, 21and 22 are quoted as under:-

"15. What would be the position if a court which passed the order granting interim ex parte injunction did not record reasons thereof or did not require the applicant to perform the duties enumerated in clauses (a) & (b) of Rule 3 of Order 39. In our view such an Order can be deemed to contain such requirements at least by implication even if they are not stated in so many words. But if a party, in whose favour an order was passed ex parte, fails to comply with the duties which he has to perform as required by the proviso quoted above, he must take the risk. Non-compliance with such requisites on his part cannot be allowed to go without any consequence and to enable him to have only the advantage of it. The consequence of the party (who secured the order) for not complying with the duties he is required to perform is that he cannot be allowed to take advantage of such order if the order is not obeyed by the other party. A disobedient beneficiary of an order cannot be heard to complain against any disobedience alleged against another party.

21. It is the acknowledged position of law that no party can be forced to suffer for the inaction of the court or its omissions to act according to the procedure established by law. Under the normal circumstances the aggrieved party can prefer an appeal only against an order passed under Rules 1,2,2A, 4 or 10 of Order 39 of the Code in terms of Order 43 Rule 1 of the Code. He cannot approach the appellate or revisional court during the pendency of the application for grant or vacation of temporary injunction. In such circumstances the party who does not get justice due to the inaction of the court in following the mandate of law must have a remedy. So we are of the view that in a case where the mandate of Order 39 Rule 3A of the Code is flouted, the aggrieved party, shall be entitled to the right of appeal notwithstanding the pendency of the application for grant or vacation of a temporary injunction, against the order remaining in force. In such appeal, if preferred, the appellate court shall be obliged to entertain the appeal and further to take note of the omission of the subordinate court in complying with the provisions of Rule 3A. In appropriate cases the appellate court, apart from granting or vacating or modifying the order of such injunction, may suggest suitable action against the erring judicial officer, including recommendation to take steps for making adverse entry in his ACRs. Failure to decide the application or vacate the ex-parte temporary injunction shall, for the purposes of the appeal, be deemed to be the final order passed on the application for temporary injunction, on the date of expiry of thirty days mentioned in the Rule.

22. Now what remains is the question whether the High Court should have entertained the petition under Article 227of the Constitution when the party had two other alternative remedies. Though no hurdle can be put against the exercise of the constitutional powers of the High Court it is a well recognized principle which gained judicial recognition that the High Court should direct the party to avail himself of such remedies one or the other before he resorts to a constitutional remedy. Learned single judge need not have entertained the revision petition at all and the party affected by the interim ex parte order should have been directed to resort to one of the other remedies. Be that as it may, now it is idle to embark on that aspect as the High Court had chosen to entertain the revision petition."

15. In the present case, admittedly, the appeal was filed without appearing before the trial court that too prior to the date fixed before the trial court, which was fixed for 28.2.2020. The misc. appeal was filed on 20.8.2020 and was decided on 27.8.2020. Therefore, the order passed in misc. appeal is totally without jurisdiction as in view of A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra), the misc. appeal itself was not maintainable.

16. The defendant has not filed any application before the trial court to vacate the ex-parte temporary injunction and it is also not a case where plaintiff is aggrieved that the trial court is not deciding or has failed to decide the temporary injunction application. Therefore, as observed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra), the order dated 5.8.2020 passed by the trial court cannot be deemed to be final order in nature on the date of expiry of thirty days mentioned in Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC. The natural consequence whereof is that misc. appeal under Order 43 Rule 1(r) CPC would not be maintainable.

17. It is also pertinent to note that as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) if any such appeal is filed, the appellate court shall be under obligation to take note of the omission of the subordinate court. Indisputably, no such observation regarding omission on part of the trial court has been made by the lower appellate court justifying entertaining misc. appeal, even if, for the sake of arguments the same was maintainable (which, in fact, was not in the present case).

18. It is also pertinent to note that the Rule 3-A added to Order 39 CPC by way of amendment in 1976 has no application in the State of U.P. as the same stood omitted vide Notification No. 103/IV-h-360 dt. Feb. 3, 1981, w.e.f. Oct. 3, 1981 in the State of U.P. Therefore, no finality, on failure of trial court to decide temporary injunction application or vacate the same on the date of expiry of thirty days mentioned in Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC as held in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra), would be attracted in the State of U.P.

19. Further, this Court has issued a Circular Letter dated 16.8.2017 regarding time bound disposal of the interim injunction application, which is quoted as under:-

"Through Registered Post/E-mail From,
Mohd. Faiz Alam Khan, HJS,
Registrar General,
High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.
To,
All the District & Sessions Judges, Subordinate to the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.
C.L. No. 24/Admin. 'G-II' Dated: Allahabad 16.08.17
Sub: Time bound disposal of interim injunction application.

Madam/Sir

Hon'ble Court has directed that all the subordinate courts must ensure to dispose of applications of interim injunction within six months, failing which they shall have to record reasons in the order sheet.

I am, therefore, directed to request you to circulate the instant direction amongst all the Judicial Officers working under your supervision and control and to ensure strict compliance of the same in letter and spirit.

Yours faithfully,
Sd/-
(Mohd. Faiz Alam Khan)
No. /Admin.'G-II' Dated: Allahabad 2017.
Copy forwarded for information and necessary action to:
1. The Registrar, High Court of Judicature at Lucknow Bench, Lucknow.
2. P.S. to all the Hon'ble Judges at Allahabad and also at Lucknow Bench, Lucknow to place the same before their Lordships for kind perusal.
3. The Director, Judicial Training & Research Institute, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow.
4. All the Judicial Officers posted in the Registry in Allahabad High Court and Lucknow Bench, Lucknow.
5. The Member Secretary, U.P. State Legal Services Authority, III floor, Jawahar Bhawan, Annexe Lucknow.
6. Section Officer, Admin. 'H' Section for compliance of guard file."

20. Thus, in a way, even if Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC is omitted in the State of UP, a direction to ensure disposal of interim injunction application within six months has been given by this Court. This direction appears to be to balance the equity between the parties, as on one hand, party enjoys the ex-parte temporary injunction order would be interested in prolonging the same and on the other hand, if temporary injunction is not granted, the other party would be interested in prolonging the disposal of the same. Hence, in the State of U.P. in absence of applicability of Rule 3-A thirty days time limit can be safely treated to be six months for disposal of temporary injunction application and also for the purpose of deemed inclusion of order passed in exercise of powers under Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC (after six months) in Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC.

21. The judgment of Hon'ble Full Bench in Zila Panchayat, Budaun (supra) was rendered in the year 1970 much prior to insertion of Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC and Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC.

22. It is also pertinent to note that although amendments were made in Order 39 Rule 3 CPC by adding Proviso granting power to the trial court to grant ex-parte injunction without issuing notice to the opposite parties, however, no amendment was made in Order 43 Rule (1)(r) CPC by providing that the appeal would be maintainable under the aforesaid provision in case any order is passed in exercise of powers under Proviso to Rule 3. It may further be noticed that by means of Section 89 of amending Act 104 of 1976 Rule 2-A was added w.e.f. 1.2.1977 in Order 39 and also in Order 43 Rule (1)(r) CPC. Clearly, the legislature has no intention to provide for appeal under Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC in case any ex-parte injunction is granted before issuing notice to the opposite parties in exercise of powers under Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC. The reason appears to be for not inserting Rule 3, wherein Proviso was added by Amending Act 1976, in Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC can be drawn from the insertion of Rule 3-A in Order 39 CPC by the same amending Act, whereby it was provided that the Court is to dispose of application for injunction within 30 days. Clearly, the legislature has no intention to provide for appeal from orders passed under Order 39 Rule 3 Proviso CPC. The Hon'ble Full Bench in Zila Parishad, Budaun (supra) and Hon'ble Supreme Court in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) have held that such appeal is maintainable. The judgment in Zila Parishad, Budaun (supra) was rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in the year 1970 and therefore, the Hon'ble Court had no occasion to consider the powers provided to the trial court under Proviso added to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC in the year 1976. Insofar as maintainability of appeal against ex-parte injunction order under Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC is concerned, even Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) has held that appeal is maintainable. However, in case any such appeal is preferred the appellate court shall be obliged to entertain the appeal as maintainable and further to take note of the omission of the subordinate court in complying with the provision of Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC. It is very pertinent to note that this observation has given after the observation made by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case that in a case where mandate of Order 39 Rule 3-A of the Code is flouted, the aggrieved party shall be entitled to right of appeal notwithstanding the pendency of the application for grant or vacation of a temporary injunction, against the order remaining in force. A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) is a case from State of Tamil Nadu, where provision of Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC are applicable, which is not so in the State of Uttar Pradesh. The observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court are, therefore, heavily in favour of entertaining the appeal after 30 days in view of provision of Rule 3-A, which has been extensively considered by the Hon'ble

Supreme Court, which, in fact, is not applicable in the present case.

23. There is another aspect of the matter, no doubt, it cannot be held that the appeal against such ex-parte injunction or inaction on the part of the trial court in not deciding the application for grant of temporary injunction for long would not be maintainable. The same would be clearly maintainable in the light of judgments as noted above, however, such appeal can be entertained only when glaring facts are reflected on the part of the trial court in its action or omission as held in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra).

24. Thus, although Order 39 Rule 3 CPC is not included in Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC, however, same would be maintainable in view of law laid down in Zila Parishad, Budaun (FB Alld) (supra) and A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) by Hon'ble Supreme Court after 30 days in States, where Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC is applicable. However, in the State of U.P. after six months, in view of the Circular dated 16.8.2017 issued by this Court for ensuring the disposal of application of temporary injunction in six months as the language of first paragraph of the Circular dated 16.8.2017 reflects the same sentiments and intention as reflected in Order 39 Rule 3-A CPC.

25. Therefore, to my mind, maintainability of misc. appeal under Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC before six months cannot be claimed and hence, the same would not be maintainable.

26. Since, maintainability of such appeal against order passed in exercise of powers under Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC does not come from the statutory provision i.e. Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC but is as per or comes from the judgments rendered, therefore, even if such appeal is maintainable, it has to be seen when it can be entertained.

27. To my mind, there is a difference in "maintainability" and "entertainability". The misc. appeal may be 'maintainable' but the same can be 'entertained' only on the parameters set out in the relevant statutory provisions and if there is no such provision of law available, then as per the law laid down by the Courts.

28. A reference may be made to a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M/s Lakshmiratan Engineering Works Ltd. vs. Asst. Commissioner (Judicial) I, Sales Tax, Kanpur Range, Kanpur and another AIR 1968 SC 448, paragraphs 7 to 10 whereof are quoted as under:-

"(7) To begin with it must be noticed that the proviso merely requires that the appeal shall not be entertained unless it is accompanied by satisfactory proof of the payment of the amount of tax admitted by the appellant to be due. A question thus arises what is the meaning of the word 'entertained' in this context? Does it mean that no appeal shall be received or filed or does it mean that no appeal shall be admitted or heard and disposed of unless satisfactory proof is available? The dictionary meaning of the word 'entertain' was brought to our notice by the parties, and both sides agreed that it means either "to deal with or admit to consideration". We are also of the same opinion. The question, therefore, is at what stage can the appeal be said to be entertained for the purpose of the application of the proviso? It is 'entertained' when it is filed or is it finally 'entertained' when it is admitted and the date is fixed for hearing or is it finally 'entertained' when it is heard and disposed of? Numerous cases exist in the law reports in which the word 'entertained' or similar cognate expressions have been interpreted by the courts. Some of them from the Allahabad High Court itself have been brought to our notice and we shall deal with them in due course. For the present, we must say that if the legislature intended that the word 'file' or 'receive' was to be used, there was no difficulty in using those words. In some of the statutes which were brought to our notice such expressions have in fact been used. For example, under Order 41, Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure it is stated that a memorandum shall not be filed or presented unless it is accompanied etc., in S. 17 of the Small Causes Courts Act, the expression is 'at the time of presenting the application'. In Section 6 of the Court Fees Act, the words are 'file' or 'shall be received'. It would appear from this that the legislature was not at a loss for words if it had wanted to express itself in such forceful manner as is now suggested by counsel for the State. It has used the word 'entertain' and it must be accepted that it has used it advisedly. This word has come in for examination in some of the cases of the Allahabad High Court and we shall now refer to them.

(8) In Kundan Lal v. Jagannath Sharma, AIR 1962 All 547 the Court was concerned with Order 21, Rule 90, of the Code of Civil Procedure which had been amended by the Court by changing the provisions of the original Code. The changed rule is as follows:

"Provided that no application to set aside the sale shall be entertained:

(a) upon any ground which should have been taken by the applicant on or before the date on which the sale proclamation was drawn up:

(b) Unless the applicant deposits such amount not exceeding 12½% of the sum realised by the sale or furnishes such security as the court may in its discretion fix, except when for reasons to be recorded it dispenses with the requirements of this clause.

(9) The word 'entertain' is explained by a Divisional Bench of the Allahabad High Court as denoting the point of time at which an application to set aside the sale is heard by the court. The expression 'entertain', it is stated, does not mean the same thing as the filing of the application or admission of the application by the court. A similar view was again taken in Dhoom chand Jain v. Chamanlal Gupta, AIR 1962 All 543 in which the learned Chief Justice Desai and Mr. Justice Dwivedi gave the same meaning to the expression 'entertain'. It is observed by Dwivedi, J. that the word 'entertain' in its application bears the meaning 'admitting to consideration', and therefore when the court cannot refuse to take an application which is backed by deposit or security, it cannot refuse judicially to consider it. In a single bench decision of the same court reported in Bawan Ram v. Kunj Beharilal, AIR 1962 All 42 one of us (Bhargava J.) had to consider the same rule. There the deposit had not been made within the period of limitation and the question had arisen whether the court could entertain the application or not. It was decided that the application could not be entertained because proviso (b) debarred the court from entertaining an objection unless the requirement of depositing the amount or furnishing security was complied with within the time prescribed. In that case the word 'entertain' is not interpreted but it is held that the court cannot proceed to consider the application in the absence of deposit made within the time allowed by law. This case turned on the fact that the deposit was made out of time. In yet another case of the Allahabad High Court reported in Haji Rahim Bux and Sons v. Firm Samiullah and Sons, AIR 1963 All 320 a Division Bench consisting of Chief Justice Desai and Mr. Justice S.D. Singh interpreted the words of O. 21, R. 90, by saying that the word 'entertain' meant not 'receive' or 'accept' but 'proceed to consider on merits' or 'adjudicate upon'.

(10) In our opinion these cases have taken a correct view of the word 'entertain' which according to dictionary also means 'admit to consideration'. It would therefore appear that the direction to the court in the proviso to S. 9 is that the court shall not proceed to admit to consideration an appeal which is not accompanied by satisfactory proof of the payment of the admitted tax. This will be when the case is taken up by the court for the first time. In the decision on which the Assistant Commissioner relied, the learned Chief Justice (Desai C.J.) holds that the words "accompanied by" showed that something tangible had to accompany the memorandum of appeal. If the memorandum of appeal had to be accompanied by satisfactory proof, it had to be in the shape of something tangible, because no intangible thing can accompany a document like the memorandum of appeal. In our opinion, making 'an appeal' the equivalent of the memorandum of appeal is not sound. Even under O. 41 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the expressions "appeal" and "memorandum of appeal" are used to denote two distinct things. In Wharton's Law Lexicon, the word "appeal" is defined as the judicial examination of the decision by a higher Court of the decision of an inferior court. The appeal is the judicial examination; the memorandum of appeal contains the grounds on which the judicial examination is invited. For purposes of limitation and for purposes of the rules of the Court it is required that a written memorandum of appeal shall be filed. When the proviso speaks of the entertainment of the appeal, it means that the appeal such as was filed will not be admitted to consideration unless there is satisfactory proof available of the making of the deposit of admitted tax."

29. From the discussions made hereinabove, such misc. appeal can be entertained only if it satisfies the parameters set by the judgments of the courts and not otherwise as the appellate court is under obligation to record reasons for entertaining the same as set out in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra).

30. No such action or omission on the part of the trial court exist in this case. On the contrary, in the light of Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC reasons have been recorded by the trial court and directions were given to take steps, which were also taken by the plaintiff and defendant was duly served the notices. Hence, in view of the observation made in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) not only the appeal was not maintainable but also there was no occasion to entertain the misc. appeal by the lower appellate court.

31. In my opinion, in any case, such appeal cannot be entertained in a routine manner and in no manner if filed by the defendant when after service of notice he has not put in appearance before the trial court to contest the temporary injunction application and has not filed objection to the same.

32. There is yet another aspect of the matter. Before Hon'ble Full Bench in Zila Parishad, Budaun (supra) two following questions were referred for consideration by the Full Bench:-

"(1) Whether the ex parte order issuing injunction against the defendants is appealable in the circumstances of this case?

(2) If the order is appealable can the appellant rely on fresh evidence which was not before the trial court?"

33. The question no. 1 was held in affirmative. The question no. 2 was answered as under:-

"The appellant as a matter of right cannot rely on fresh evidence in appeal which was not before the trial court until it is admitted by the appellate Court under Order 41, Rule 27, CPC."

(emphasis supplied)

34. Thus, there is yet another aspect of the matter insofar as merit of the case is concerned. In the case of Zila Parishad, Budaun (supra) while answering the Court question no. 2 it was held that the appellant as a matter of right cannot rely on fresh evidence in appeal which was not before the trial court until it is admitted by the appellate court under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC.

35. In the present case, even before the date fixed by the trial court, without putting in appearance in the trial court, the misc. appeal was filed and from perusal of the lower appellate court order it is reflected that the evidence on affidavit was filed by the parties (including the defendant) and was accepted by the lower appellate court also as such, and not under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC by recording reasons for accepting the same. This is clearly contrary to the intention as reflected in the answer given by the Hon'ble Full Bench to question no. 2 as already noted above in this judgment.

36. During course of argument learned counsel for the respondents sought to argue on the merits for grant of interim injunction and maintainability of the suit. All such issues can be raised before the trial court by the defendants-respondents herein.

37. Since this petition is being decided on the legal question involved in the present case and more so, when the defendants are represented before this Court and I have heard learned counsel for the parties at length, I find that the impugned order dated 27.8.2020 is not sustainable in the eye of law

38. From the discussions made hereinabove, it can, therefore, safely be held as under:-

I. Though in Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC Rule 3 (which necessarily include Proviso to Rule 3 of Order 39 CPC) has not been mentioned, however, in view of the judgment of Hon'ble Full Bench in Zila Parishad, Budaun (supra) and in A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) the appeal under the aforesaid provision would be maintainable.

II. Such appeal, if filed, would be maintainable only after expiry of thirty days, where the provision of added Rule 3-A to Order 39 CPC is in force. However, in the State of U.P., since the Circular dated 16.8.2017 has been issued providing for six months time for disposal of applications of interim injunction failing which the subordinate court must have to record reasons in the order-sheet, therefore, such misc. appeal would be maintainable only after expiry of six months.

III. In absence of any specific statutory provision, such appeal, if filed, on expiry of aforesaid time period can be entertained guided by the parameters set out in the judgment of A. Venkatasubbiah Naidu (supra) or in any other judgment on this issue.

IV. While entertaining such appeal the appellate court is bound to record reasons for entertaining such appeal, and such appeal must indicate the omission on the part of the trial court to decide such temporary injunction application finally, if filed, by the plaintiff or omission on the part of the trial court to decide an application filed by the defendant for vacating the interim order granted by the trial court within the said time period of six months (in the State of U.P.).

V. At the cost of repetition it may further be clarified that in case the temporary injunction application filed by the plaintiff or any other party to the suit interested in temporary injunction is not decided within the time period of six months in the State of U.P., he can file misc. appeal under the provisions of Order 43 Rule (1) (r) CPC, which can be entertained for the reasons recorded and in case of non-consideration of disposal of the stay vacation application filed by the defendant or any other party to the suit, he can also file misc. appeal under the aforesaid provision, which can also be considered for the reasons recorded as per the parameters set out by the Courts.

VI. If any such misc. appeal is filed, the same can be considered only on the evidence already on record before the trial court unless the additional evidence is received by the appellate court under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC as per the law by recording reasons. In other words, in such misc. appeal the appellant cannot rely on the evidence filed by him in the appellate court without the same having not been allowed by the misc. court under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC as per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Full Bench in the case of Zila Parishad, Budaun (supra).

39. Accordingly, for the discussions made hereinabove, the impugned order dated 27.8.2020 is hereby set aside.

40. At this stage, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the court below may be directed to decide interim injunction application within time bound period.

41. In the light of Circular dated 16.8.2017 as already noted above no further direction is required for disposal of interim injunction application.

42. It is expected that the Court below shall follow the directions as noted above in its letter and spirit provided the functioning of the court is not affected due to COVID-19 Pandemic.

43. Present petition stands allowed, however, with the observations as made above. No order as to costs.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Matter Under Article 227 No. 3462 of 2020

Govardhan & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
Smt. Jaldhara Devi Maha Vidyalaya, Hathras & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioners:
Sri Rakesh Kumar Mishra

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Civil Law – Jurisdiction under Article 227 - Constitution of India: Article 227; Civil Procedure Code, 1908 – Order XXXIX Rule 1 and 2, Order XXXIX Rule 1(r), Order XLIII Rule 1(r); Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950: Section 143, 176/182 – The order ought not be interfered with if it is one that does substantial justice, and the flaw even about jurisdiction is one merely about the form of remedy. (Para 10)

An interim injunction granting prohibitory relief to preserve the property in dispute pending suit could be granted, where the relief claimed is for mandatory injunction. (Para 6)

An interim injunction is designed to act in aid of the final relief and to eschew pendente lite injury by the wrongful action of one party against the other, before their rights are determined. The purpose of an interim injunction under Order XXXIX Rule 1 and 2 of the Civil Procedure Code, 19082 is to preserve the property in dispute pending suit, where the property is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit, or where the defendants threaten to dispossess the plaintiff, or otherwise cause injury to the plaintiff, in relation to the suit property. Rule 2 particularly postulates an injunction to restrain repetition or continuation of breach. (Para 7)

The purpose is to preserve the property in its existing form and curtail as much mischief at an interlocutory stage as can be, before rights of parties to the property subject matter of the suit are determined. There is, therefore, no warrant to conclude that in a suit where the final relief is a mandatory injunction, preventive relief by way of temporary injunction cannot be granted. If the Court finds that a prima facie case is made out and the other two ingredients to grant a temporary injunction established, it matters little whether the final decree claimed in the suit is a mandatory injunction alone with no prohibitory injunction sought. In this view of the matter, the impugned order passed by the Revisional Court cannot be faulted. (Para 8)

B. Civil Procedure Code, 1908: Section 115 (as amended in its application to the State of U.P.) - Power to revise an order of a subordinate court - Essence of this Court's jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution - It is true that the power to revise an order of a subordinate court is available to a superior court, where no appeal lies against that order. The impugned order here is an order rejecting a temporary injunction application and that order is clearly appealable under Order XLIII Rule 1(r) of the Code. Going by the provisions of Section 115 of the Code, a revision against the order passed by the Civil Judge would not lie to any superior court, including the District Judge.

The impugned order made by the learned Additional District Judge is flawless on merits, may be passed in proceedings that were not competent. He could have required the plaintiffs to convert the revision into a miscellaneous appeal under Order XLIII Rule 1(r) of the Code and decided the same, may be, reaching the same conclusions. It is the essence of this Court's jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution that interference with orders of subordinate courts and Tribunals is not to be made on grounds of illegality or even patent illegality alone. The order impugned should also be unjust and iniquitous. Even if the plaintiffs were compelled to choose the remedy of an appeal under Order XLIII Rule 1(r) of the Code, it would lie before the same forum. Had the wrong remedy chosen made a difference in forum, different principles would apply. (Para 10)

Writ Petition disposed off. (E-3)

Precedent followed:

1. Shiv Ram Singh, Appellant Vs Smt. Mangara & ors,. Respondents 1988 All. L.J. 1516 (Para 6)

2. Meera Chauhan Vs Harsh Bishnoi & anr., (2007) 12 SCC 201 (Para 6)

Present petition assails the order dated 31.01.2020, passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Hathras.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution is directed against an order dated 31.01.2020 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 5, Hathras passed in Civil Revision No. 10 of 2016, allowing the said revision and setting aside an order of the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Hathras made in Original Suit No. 715 of 2013, rejecting the temporary injunction application made by the plaintiff. The learned Additional Sessions Judge has, by the impugned order, directed parties to maintain status quo regarding the property in dispute, pending suit.

2. Heard Mr. Rakesh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners.

3. O.S. No. 715 of 2013 was filed by the plaintiff-respondent nos. 1 and 2 against the defendant-petitioner nos. 1 to 4, arrayed as the defendants first set, and petitioner no. 5 along with four other defendants, arrayed as the defendants second set, seeking a mandatory injunction to the effect that defendant nos. 1 to 4 be ordered to remove their constructions standing over the suit property, denoted by letters 'A' 'B' 'C' 'D' in the plaint map and shown in red colour, and further that they should, after removal of the illegal constructions, remove debris of the demolished building, vacating the suit property within time, to be specified by the court; and upon failure to comply with the decree, the decree be ordered to be carried into execution through process of Court at the defendants' expense.

4. A temporary injunction application was made in the said suit, where it was alleged that the defendants are attempting to raise constructions over the suit property, in addition to the existing ones, in respect of which, a decree of mandatory injunction has been claimed. The basis of the suit appears to be that the plaintiffs are owners in possession of Khasra No. 52/5, admeasuring 0.5 hectares, situate in Kasba Hasayan. This land was originally a part of Khasra No. 52, admeasuring 1.405 hectares. Khasra No. 52 had a number of co-sharers. A suit for partition was filed by a co-sharer, being Suit No. 205 of 2010-2011, under Section 176/182 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 19501. The suit was decreed, where a preliminary decree was passed by the Revenue Court, on 24.08.2011. A final decree followed on 27.08.2011. In the final decree, lots were drawn and Khasra No. 52/5 fell to the plaintiff's lot. It is land bearing Khasra No. 52/5, admeasuring 0.55 hectares, which is the property in dispute.

5. After the Revenue Court passed a final decree for partition and Khas possession to be delivered to parties, an application was made by the plaintiff-petitioner no. 2 Durga Prasad, seeking that the land in dispute be declared an abadi under Section 143 of the Act of 1950. This application of the second petitioner's was registered as Case No. 15 on the file of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate concerned and the land in dispute was declared an abadi. Thus, the petitioners became owners in possession of the abadi. About two years ago, the plaintiffs established over the land in dispute an educational institution known as the Jaldhara Devi Inter College, Hasayan, District - Hathras. It was claimed that defendant nos. 1 to 4 to the suit, who are in connivance with the defendant nos. 5 to 9, are land grabbers and intended to usurp the property in dispute. The defendants first and second set are all kinsmen. About an year anterior to the institution of the suit, defendants first set, in connivance with the defendants second set, encroached upon a part of the property in dispute, the encroachment being 103 meters in length, running from East to West, and 4 meters in width, running from North to South. They illegally and forcibly constructed a pucca room and a kachcha boundary wall around that room. It is to remove the aforesaid encroachment that the suit for mandatory injunction was brought. Since the defendants intended to raise some further constructions in order to consolidate their possession and usurp a larger area of the plaintiffs' land, the temporary injunction application was made. The Trial Court rejected the temporary injunction application by an order dated 02.02.2016. The Trial Court went by the reasoning that the suit was one for mandatory injunction, where the defendants were in possession, wrongfully or rightfully. There was no relief by way of permanent prohibitory injunction, seeking to raise further constructions or doing further encroachment. In the opinion of Trial Court, in the absence of there being a permanent injunction claimed by way of prohibitory relief, the temporary injunction, prohibitory in nature, could not be granted in a suit where the relief sought was one for mandatory injunction alone.

6. The plaintiffs went up in revision to the learned District Judge, Hathras. The revision was numbered on the file of the learned Sessions Judge, Hathras as Civil Revision No. 10 of 2016. It was assigned to the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 5, Hathras. The revision came up for determination before the learned Additional Judge, Hathras on 31.01.2020. The learned Additional Judge, Hathras by his jugdment and order dated 31.01.2020, allowed the revision and ordered both the parties to maintain status quo regarding the property in dispute, pending suit. The Revisional Court held that it is yet to be determined whether constructions raised by the defendants are ones that encroach into Khasra No. 52/5 on its southern side, or located in Khasra No. 50. This determination would have to await trial. The learned Additional District Judge held, however, that an interim injunction granting prohibitory relief to preserve the property in dispute pending suit could be granted, where the relief claimed is for a mandatory injunction. For the purpose, the Revisional Court relied on the decision of this Court in Shiv Ram Singh, Appellant v. Smt. Mangara & Others, Respondents2 and a decision of the Supreme Court in Meera Chauhan v. Harsh Bishnoi & Another3.

7. In the opinion of this Court, the purpose of an interim injunction under Order XXXIX Rule 1 and 2 of the Civil Procedure Code, 19084 is to preserve the property in dispute pending suit, where the property is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit, or where the defendants threaten to dispossess the plaintiff, or otherwise cause injury to the plaintiff, in relation to the suit property. Rule 2 particularly postulates an injunction to restrain repetition or continuation of breach. Fundamentally, an interim injunction is designed to act in aid of the final relief and to eschew pendente lite injury by the wrongful action of one party against the other, before their rights are determined. In this connection, the provisions of Rule 1 and 2 of Order XXXIX may be quoted with profit :

1. Cases in which temporary injunction may be granted.- Where in any Suit it is proved by affidavit or otherwise--

(a) that any property in dispute in a suit is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit, or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree, or

(b) that the defendant threatens, or intends, to remove or dispose of his property with a view to 5[defrauding] his creditors,

6[(c) that the defendant threatens to dispossess the plaintiff or otherwise cause injury to the plaintiff in relation to any property in dispute in the suit,]

the court may by Order grant a temporary injunction to restrain such act, or make such other Order for the purpose of staying and preventing the wasting, damaging, alienation, sale, removal or disposition of the property 7[or dispossession of the plaintiff, or otherwise causing injury to the plaintiff in relation to any property in dispute in the suit] as the court thinks fit, until the disposal of the suit or until further orders.

2. Injunction to restrain repetition or continuance of breach.-(1) In any suit for restraining the defendant from committing a breach of contract or other injury of any kind, whether compensation is claimed in the suit or not, the plaintiff may, at any time after the commencement of the suit, and either before or after judgment, apply to the court for a temporary injunction to restrain the defendant from committing the breach of contract or injury complained of, or any breach of contract or injury of a like kind arising out of the same contract or relating to the same property or right.

8. The Revisional Court, or for that matter, the Trial Court, do not doubt the fact that prima facie, the plaintiffs have title to and possession of Khasra No. 52/5. The dispute is whether on the southern boundary, there is an encroachment by the defendant-petitioners. The constructions sought to be removed by mandatory injunction are there, but the fact whether these constructions have been raised by the defendants in some part of Khasra No. 52/5 or in their own land, is yet to be determined. In case, during this period of time, the defendants raise further constructions there, or make more encroachment, it would complicate rights of parties and also cause more injury to the defendants, if at the hearing, it were found that in fact, the defendants are trespassers and have to be removed. Clause (c) of Rule 1 of Order XXXIX is designed to prevent the defendant from dispossessing the plaintiff or otherwise causing injury to the plaintiff vis-à-vis the suit property, until time that rights are determined. Rule 2 primarily relates to a remedy about restraining the defendants from committing a breach of contract or other injury of any kind. Rule 2 may relate primarily to cases of injuries flowing from breach of contract, but the scope of Rule 1 is wide enough to preserve immovable property in the state that it exists pending hearing of the suit, where a prima facie case is made out. The purpose is to preserve the property in its existing form and curtail as much mischief at an interlocutory stage as can be, before rights of parties to the property subject matter of the suit are determined. There is, therefore, no warrant to conclude that in a suit where the final relief is a mandatory injunction, preventive relief by way of temporary injunction cannot be granted. If the Court finds that a prima facie case is made out and the other two ingredients to grant a temporary injunction established, it matters little whether the final decree claimed in the suit is a mandatory injunction alone with no prohibitory injunction sought In this view of the matter, the impugned order passed by the Revisional Court cannot be faulted.

9. It was argued by learned counsel for the petitioners that an order disposing of a temporary injunction application is appealable as an order, under Order XXXIX Rule 1 (r) of the Code and that, therefore, a revision would not lie. He has relied upon the provisions of Section 115 of the Code, as amended, in their application to the State of U.P. vide Act No. 14 of 2003. Section 115 of the Code (as amended in its application to the State of U.P.) reads thus :

" 115. Revision.-(1) A superior court may revise an order passed in a case decided in an original suit or other proceeding by a subordinate court where no appeal lies against the order and where the subordinate court has-

(a) exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law; or

(b) failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested; or

(c) acted in exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity.

(2) A revision application under sub-Section (1), when filed in High Court, shall contain a certificate on the first page of such application, below the title of the case, to the effect that no revision in the case lies to the district court but lies only to the High Court either because of valuation or because the order sought to be revised was passed by the district court.

(3) The superior court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any order made except where,-

(i) the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceeding; or

(ii) the order, if allowed to stand, would occasion a failure of justice or cause irreparable injury to the party against whom it is made.

(4) A revision shall not operate as a stay of suit or other proceeding before the court except where such suit or other proceeding is stayed by the superior court.

Explanation I. - In this section,-

(i) the expression "superior court' means-

(a) the district court, where the valuation of a case decided by a court subordinate to it does not exceed five lakh rupees;

(b) the High Court, where the order sought to be revised was passed in a case decided by the district court or where the value of the original suit or other other proceedings in a case decided by a court subordinate to the district court exceed five lakh rupees;

(ii) the expression "order' includes an order deciding an issue in any original suit or other proceedings.

Explanation II.-The provisions of this section shall also be applicable to orders passed, before or after the commencement of this section, in original suits or other proceedings instituted before such commencement. [Vide U.P. Act 14 of 20038, S.2] (emphasis by Court)

10. It is true that the power to revise an order of a subordinate court is available to a superior court, where no appeal lies against that order. The impugned order here is an order rejecting a temporary injunction application and that order is clearly appealable under Order XLIII Rule 1 (r) of the Code. Going by the provisions of Section 115 of the Code, a revision against the order passed by the Civil Judge would not lie to any superior court, including the District Judge. In that view of the matter, the learned Additional District Judge would not have jurisdiction to entertain and decide the civil revision, where the order impugned has been passed. But that is not the end of the matter in a case like the present one. If this Court were to technically hold the revision not maintainable and set aside the impugned order, the Court would, in fact, be restoring an illegal order on the merits of the parties' case. The impugned order made by the learned Additional District Judge is flawless on merits, may be passed in proceedings that were not competent. He could have required the plaintiffs to convert the revision into a miscellaneous appeal under Order XLIII Rule 1(r) of the Code and decided the same, may be, reaching the same conclusions. It is the essence of this Court's jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution that interference with orders of subordinate courts and Tribunals is not to be made on grounds of illegality or even patent illegality alone. The order impugned should also be unjust and iniquitous. If the order is one that does substantial justice, and the flaw even about jurisdiction is one merely about the form of remedy, in the opinion of this Court, the order ought not be interfered with. Even if the plaintiffs were compelled to choose the remedy of an appeal under Order XLIII Rule 1(r) of the Code, it would lie before the same forum. Had the wrong remedy chosen made a difference in forum, different principles would apply. But, this is not the case here.

11. In the circumstances, this Court does not find the case to be one at all where the order impugned ought to be interfered with by this Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution.

12. However, looking to the entirety of the circumstances that the parties are in strife, where there is apparently little dispute about title, but one over demarcation of their properties, giving rise to the cause of action involved, it would be in the interest of justice that the Trial Court may be required to expedite hearing and endeavour to conclude the trial within a period of eight months of the receipt of a copy of this order, in accordance with law.

13. This petition stands disposed of in terms of the aforesaid orders.

14. Let this order be communicated to the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 5, Hathras through the learned District Judge, Hathras by the Joint Registrar (Compliance).

Criminal Law-Section 17 of prevention of Corruption Act-Investigation conducted in execution and implementation of National Rural Health Mission and utilisation of funds-chargesheet submitted and cognizance was taken-objection is raised as investigation conducted by officer below rank of Inspector of Police and is violative of section 17 of P.C. Act -no pleadings regarding any prejudice or miscarriage of justice on account of such enquiry-such investigation was entrusted to the Officer by Special Judge-impugned order is not illegal.

Application rejected. (E-7)

Held, the question then requires to be considered whether and to what extent the trial which follows such investigation is vitiated. The trial follows cognizance and cognizance is preceded by investigation. This is the basic scheme of the Code in respect of cognizable cases. But it does not necessarily follow that an invalid investigation nullifies the cognizance or trial based thereon. The court is not concerned with the effect of the breach of a mandatory provision regulating the competence or procedure of the court as regards cognizance or trial. It is only with reference to such a breach that the question as to whether it constitutes an illegality vitiating the proceedings or a mere irregularity. A defect or illegality in investigation, however serious, has no direct bearing on the competence or the procedure relating to cognizance or trial. No doubt a police report which results from an investigation is provided in Section 190 of Cr.P.C. as the material on which cognizance is taken. But it cannot be maintained that a valid and legal police report is the foundation of the jurisdiction of the court to take cognizance. Clauses (a), (b) and (c) of Section 190(1) Cr.P.C. are conditions requisite for taking of cognizance, it is not possible to say that cognizance on an invalid police report is prohibited and is therefore a nullity. (Para 20)

11. St. of U.P. Vs Bhagwant Kishore Joshi, AIR 1964 SC 221

(Delivered by Hon'ble Suneet Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kuldeep Saxena, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Gyan Prakash, Assistant Solicitor General of India appearing for the CBI assisted by Shri Sanjay Kumar Yadav, Advocate and perused the record.

2. Applicant by the instant petition under Section 482 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 19731, seeks quashing of the charge sheet dated 29 August 2014 and cognizance order dated 16 December 2014, passed in Criminal Misc. Case No. 10 of 2014, under Sections 120-B read with sections 409, 420, 468 & 471 IPC and Section 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 19882, and substantive offence under Sections 409, 420, 468 & 471 IPC arising from the F.I.R. No. RC No. 1202013A0017 pending in the court of Special Judge, Anti Corruption, CBI, Ghaziabad.

3. The facts giving rise to the petition, briefly stated, is that pursuant to an order dated 15.11.2011, passed by this Court at Lucknow, in Writ Petition Nos. 3611 (MB) of 2011 (PIL), 3301 (MB) of 2011 (PIL) and No. 2647 (MB) of 2011 (PIL), inter alia, directed Central Bureau of Investigation3 to conduct a preliminary enquiry in the matter of execution and implementation of the National Rural Health Mission (for short "NRHM') and utilization of funds at various levels in the entire State of Uttar Pradesh commencing 2005-2006. In compliance thereof, on 31 January 2013, CBI registered a preliminary enquiry against the officers of Health and Family Welfare Department of District Moradabad, and unknown private persons. The enquiry was conducted by the Additional Superintendent of Police, CBI, ACB, Ghaziabad, for the period 2005-06 till 15.11.2011. The enquiry revealed that bogus/forged tender papers were submitted and used in the tender process on behalf of certain firms for completing the tender proceedings by the suspect officials in conspiracy with the firms. The enquiry further revealed that most of the purchases under National Blindness Control Programme ralated to NRHM Scheme, at district Moradabad, were made by three sister concerns. The forged and bogus bids were submitted and used by the suspected accused to show artificial competitive rates.

4. The enquiry, prima facie, exposes Dr. N.K. Gupta, Dr. R.K. Saxena, Dr. S.K. Malik, the then CMOs/DPO, Moradabad and Dr. S.K. Singh, the then DPM and officiating CMO Moradabad, in criminal conspiracy with co-accused Narendra Kumar Jain, Prop. M/s Jain Medical Hall, Moradabad, applicant Vivek Jain, Prop. M/s Kapil Medical Agencies, Moradabad, and other unknown persons of having committed offence regarding purchase of medicines during the period 2008-09, 2009-10 & 2010-11 from NRHM funds. The conspirators are alleged to have violated the norms and guidelines for purchase of medicines at exorbitant rates, prepared and utilized forged documents and by abusing their official position have caused loss at Rs.4,56,484/- to the government and corresponding gains to themselves.

5. On the strength of preliminary enquiry, F.I.R. came to be lodged on 4 July 2013, on the complaint filed by Additional Superintendent of Police, CBI, ACB, Ghaziabad. After investigation, a report (charge sheet) under Section 173 of Cr.P.C. was submitted on 4 July 2013, against the applicant and other co-accused. It is alleged in the charge sheet that applicant, owner of M/s Kapil Medical Agencies, Moradabad, supplied medicines to CMO Moradabad, during 2007-2011 with respect to National Programme for Control of Blindness and was ultimate beneficiary. Investigation further revealed that medicines worth Rs.1,61,257/- was purchased after expiry of the tender period from the firm of the applicant without getting permission from the competent authority. Payments thereof was also made. The investigation shows that bogus tenders were submitted by the applicant to show competitive rates of the firms. In the said fraud and forgery, involvement of wife of the applicant has also been found.

6. Special Judge, Ghaziabad took cognizance on 16 December 2014, against all the accused persons except Narendra Jain and Shikla Jain and directed the CBI to make further investigation with regard to their role and culpability in this case by the competent officer.

7. The sole submission advanced by learned counsel for the applicant is that the entire investigation conducted by an officer below the rank of Inspector of police is vitiated and void in view of the mandate under Section 17 of P.C. Act. It is urged that the investigation was carried out by the Sub Inspector of Police, CBI, ACB, Ghaziabad. In support of his submission, reliance has been placed on the decision rendered by the Supreme Court in State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Mubarak Ali, to submit that investigation carried out by an officer of a lower rank as mandated under the statute would render the investigation illegal and void.

8. In rebuttal, learned counsel appearing for C.B.I. submits that investigation was made pursuant to the direction of this Court in PIL, followed by preliminary enquiry. The preliminary enquiry was conducted by an officer of the rank of Additional Superintendent of Police, CBI. It is stated in the counter affidavit that Special Judge, was pleased to grant permission under Section 17 of the P.C. Act to conduct investigation by the Sub Inspector vide order dated 9 July 2013. The Investigating Officer after investigation submitted charge sheet against the applicant and other accused persons. The allegation in the charge sheet and material/evidence in support thereof, prima facie, makes out a case with regard to the involvement of the applicant in commission of the offence. In any case since the Special Judge, has taken cognizance, any irregularity committed in the investigation or during the investigation would not set at naught the cognizance order which is independent of the investigation.

9. Rival submissions fall for consideration.

10. The only point pressed by the learned counsel for the applicant is that the investigation pursuant to the preliminary enquiry could not have been conducted by an officer below the rank mandated under Section 17 of the P.C. Act. Section 17 reads thus:

17. Persons authorised to investigate.--Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), no police officer below the rank,--

(a) in the case of the Delhi Special Police Establishment, of an Inspector of Police;

(b) in the metropolitan areas of Bombay, Calcutta, Madras and Ahmedabad and in any other metropolitan area notified as such under sub-section (1) of section 8 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), of an Assistant Commissioner of Police;

(c) elsewhere, of a Deputy Superintendent of Police or a police officer of equivalent rank, shall investigate any offence punishable under this Act without the order of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class, as the case may be, or make any arrest therefor without a warrant:

Provided that if a police officer not below the rank of an Inspector of Police is authorised by the State Government in this behalf by general or special order, he may also investigate any such offence without the order of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class, as the case may be, or make arrest therefor without a warrant:

Provided further that an offence referred to in clause (e) of sub-section (1) of section 13 shall not be investigated without the order of a police officer not below the rank of a Superintendent of Police.

11. Sub clause (c) and the first proviso of Section 17 of the P.C. Act is applicable to the facts of the instant case. The provision provides that notwithstanding anything contained in the Cr.P.C., no police officer below the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police or a police officer of equivalent rank, shall investigate any offence punishable under this Act without the order of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class, as the case may be, or make any arrest therefor without a warrant. Proviso provides if a police officer not below the rank of an Inspector of Police is authorised by the State Government in this behalf by general or special order, he may also investigate any such offence without the order of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class, as the case may be, or make arrest therefor without a warrant.

12. In the given facts, preliminary enquiry came to be instituted on the direction of this Court, which was duly conducted by an officer of the rank of Additional Superintendent of Police. On the strength of the preliminary enquiry, an F.I.R. came to be lodged. Investigation was carried out by an officer of the rank of Sub Inspector of police.

13. The question that arises is as to whether the investigation carried out against the provisions contained in Section 17 of the P.C. Act would vitiate the cognizance taken by the Special Judge.

14. It would be apposite to examine the law on the point.

15. A similar question was raised wayback in 1955 to consider the effect of investigation carried out by a police officer below the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police contrary to the mandate of P.C. Act without the order of the Magistrate of first class, whether it is mandatory or directory. The Supreme Court in H.N. Rishbud and Inder Singh v. The State of Delhi5 observed that cognizance taken on police report, vitiated by breach of mandatory provisions relating to investigation, cannot be set aside unless the illegality in the investigation can be shown to have brought about a miscarriage of justice. The relevant observation is extracted:

"If, therefore, cognizance is in fact taken, on a police report vitiated by the breach of a mandatory provision relating to investigation, there can be no doubt that the result of the trial which follows it cannot be set aside unless the illegality in the investigation can be shown to have brought about a miscarriage of justice. That an illegality committed in the course of investigation does not affect the competence and the jurisdiction of the Court for trial ..... invalidity of the investigation has no relation to the competence of the Court. We are, therefore, clearly, also, of the opinion that where the cognizance of the case has in fact been taken and the case has proceeded to termination., the invalidity of the precedent investigation does not vitiate the result, unless miscarriage of justice has been caused thereby."

16. H.N. Rishbud (supra) came to be considered in the case of Union of India vs. Prakash P. Hinduja and another6, wherein, the question raised was as follows:

"10. The principal question which, therefore, requires consideration is whether the Court can go into the validity or otherwise of the investigation done by the authorities charged with the duty of investigation under the relevant statutes and whether any error or illegality committed during the course of investigation would so vitiate the charge-sheet so as to render the cognizance taken thereon bad and invalid."

17. The Supreme Court relying on the decision rendered in Prabhu v. Emperor7 and Lumbhardar Zutshi v. The King8 held that that if cognizance is in fact taken on a police report initiated in breach of a mandatory provision relating to investigation, there can be no doubt that the result of the trial, which follows it, cannot be set aside unless the illegality in the investigation can be shown to have brought about a miscarriage of justice. An illegality committed in the course of investigation does not affect the competence and the jurisdiction of the court for trial. The Court in the facts arising therein held that this being the legal position, even assuming for the sake of argument that the CBI committed an error or irregularity in submitting the charge sheet without the approval of Chief Vigilance Commissioner9, the cognizance taken by the learned Special Judge on the basis of such a charge sheet could not be set aside nor could further proceedings in pursuance thereof be quashed, (Refer: Abhinandan Jha v. Dinesh Mishra10; Vineet Narain & others v. Union of India11; and State of Bihar v. J.A.C. Saldanha12).

18. In Kanwal Tanuj v. State of Bihar and others13 when an offence committed in the Union Territory and one of the accused residing/employed in some other State outside the said Union Territory. The question posed was whether C.B.I. under the provisions of Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946 (in short "DSPE Act'), could appear to investigate the same, unless there was a specific consent given by the concerned State under Section 6 of the DSPE Act. The Supreme Court rejected the said contention holding that if the offence is committed in Delhi, merely because the investigation of the said offence incidentally transcends to the territory of State of Bihar, it cannot be held that the investigation against an officer employed in the territory of Bihar cannot be permitted, unless there was specific consent under the DSPE Act.

19. The principle spelled out in the authorities referred to hereinabove was again reiterated by the Supreme Court in M/s Fertico Marketing and Investment Pvt. Ltd. And others v. Central Bureau of Investigation and another14.

20. The question then requires to be considered whether and to what extent the trial which follows such investigation is vitiated. The trial follows cognizance and cognizance is preceded by investigation. This is the basic scheme of the Code in respect of cognizable cases. But it does not necessarily follow that an invalid investigation nullifies the cognizance or trial based thereon. The court is not concerned with the effect of the breach of a mandatory provision regulating the competence or procedure of the court as regards cognizance or trial. It is only with reference to such a breach that the question as to whether it constitutes an illegality vitiating the proceedings or a mere irregularity. A defect or illegality in investigation, however serious, has no direct bearing on the competence or the procedure relating to cognizance or trial. No doubt a police report which results from an investigation is provided in Section 190 of Cr.P.C. as the material on which cognizance is taken. But it cannot be maintained that a valid and legal police report is the foundation of the jurisdiction of the court to take cognizance. Clauses (a),

(b) and (c) of Section 190(1) Cr.P.C. are conditions requisite for taking of cognizance, it is not possible to say that cognizance on an invalid police report is prohibited and is therefore a nullity.

21. In Mubarak Ali (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicant is of no assistance in the facts of the present case. The Court observed that the statutory safeguard provided under Section 5A of the P.C. Act must be strictly complied with, for they were conceived in public interest and were provided as a guarantee against frivolous and vexatious prosecution. The Magistrate's status gives assurance to the bona fide of the investigation. The Court expressed the view that it hopes and trust that investigations under the P.C. Act would be conducted in strict compliance with the provisions of the P.C. Act. The decision is not an authority on the proposition of law that the cognizance and the consequential trial pursuant to the charge sheet would vitiate merely for the reason that the investigation was not carried out by the competent officer as mandated under the P.C. Act.

22. Mubarak Ali was considered in State of U.P. v. Bhagwant Kishore Joshi15, wherein, question posed before the Supreme Court was as to whether High Court was justified in setting aside the conviction on the ground that the first stage of investigation was contrary to the provisions of the P.C. Act. The facts arisen therein was that initially an officer below the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police had conducted the investigation, on realization that Investigating Officer is not competent, subsequently, an order was obtained from the concerned Magistrate to investigate the offence. High Court set aside conviction on the ground that there was a breach of the mandatory safeguard of the P.C. Act in as much as that the first stage of the investigation was contrary to the provisions of the P.C. Act. But the court was of the view that it (High Court) did not consider the other question whether the said breach caused prejudice to the accused in the matter of' his trial. The Court reversed the judgment of the High Court on being satisfied no prejudice has been caused to the accused.

23. In the facts of the case at hand, applicant is not a public servant and there is no pleadings with regard to prejudice caused to him or miscarriage of justice on account of the enquiry being conducted by an officer of the rank below that of the Deputy Superintendent of Police/Inspector. The assertion of the C.B.I. that an order to that effect was obtained from the Special Judge to entrust the investigation to a officer of the the rank of Sub Inspector has not been denied. Even otherwise the applicant has not alleged any prejudice or illegality in the course of investigation that brought about miscarriage of justice or caused prejudice to the applicant.

24. On specific query, learned counsel for the applicant has failed to point out any illegality, infirmity or jurisdictional error either in the impugned charge sheet or impugned order.

25. The application under Section 482 is, hereby, rejected.

Criminal Law-Offence u/s 506 I.P.C. was initially treated as cognizable and non-bailable offence vide a government notification-such notification held illegal-at present section 506 IPC is non cognizable and bailable-case filed u/s 506 IPC cannot be proceeded as Police Case-Magistrate to treat it as complaint case.

Held,

Section 2 (d) Cr.P.C. clearly denotes that after investigation if it is found that the offence in question is a non-cognizable offence then the matter should be treated as a complaint and police office by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant. In light of the aforesaid provision there is no room to doubt for considering the commission of non-cognizable offence as a complaint case. (Para 11 and 12)

4. Mohd. Yusuf Vs Afaq Jahan reported in (2006) 1 SCC, 627

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. No notice is being issued to the private respondent in view of the order proposed to be passed today. Liberty is reserved for the private respondent to seek modification of the order passed herein below, if so advised.

3. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the charge-sheet dated 25.06.2017 as well as Non-bailable Warrant dated 12.06.2019 in Criminal Case No. 1069 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No. 21 of 2017 under Sections 323, 504 & 506 IPC, P.S. Civil Lines, District Rampur, pending in the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Rampur.

4. With respect to the incident dated 01.02.2017, an NCR has been lodged by opposite party no. 2 (informant) against the present applicants alleging therein that they abused the informant and on resistant they have beaten him up badly. While the wife of the informant had came to his rescue, the accused persons have beaten her up as well. Investigative Officer had moved an application dated 23.02.2017 under Section 155 (2) Cr.P.C. before the Chief Judicial Magistrate for permission to investigate the matter. On the medical examination simple injuries have been found over the body of the informant and his wife. During the course of investigation, I.O. had recorded the statement of injured persons and submitted charge-sheet No. Nil/17 dated 25.06.2017 in Case Crime No. 21 of 2017 under Sections 323, 504 & 506 IPC, P.S. Civil Lines, District Rampur against the accused/present applicants. Learned Magistrate has taken cognizance on the aforesaid charge-sheet vide order dated 13.02.2018 and registered a case i.e. Criminal Case No. 1069 of 2018 (State vs. Dinesh). The aforesaid case was committed for trial on 14.09.2018 and non-bailable warrants were issued against the present applicants.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the present proceeding has arisen out of NCR which was filed for non-cognizable offence under Sections 323, 504 & 506 IPC. It is stated that the offence as alleged are non-cognizable and, therefore, neither the charge-sheet could have been submitted by the Investigating Officer nor the learned Magistrate could have taken cognizance in view of the explanation to Section 2(d) of Cr.P.C. It is further stated that the only course open to the learned Magistrate was to have treated the case as a complaint case and to have proceeded with, in accordance with law.

6. The submission is that the applicant has been charge sheeted under Section 506 I.P.C. which is non-cognizable offence as per the judgment of this court in the case of Virendra Singh and another vs. State of U.P. and another, 2000 (45) ACC 609.

7. The offence under Section 506 I.P.C. was made cognizable and non-bailable vide U.P. Government notification promulgated on August 02, 1984. This notification was declared illegal by the aforesaid judgment of this Court and, therefore, the offence under Section 506 I.P.C. is also non-cognizable. It has been submitted that the charge-sheet against the applicants is unwarranted in an offence under Section 506 I.P.C.

8. Reliance has been placed on the decision of this Court dated 15.05.2018 passed in Application U/S 482 No. 5917 of 2006 wherein this Court has taken view that neither the charge sheet could have been submitted by the Investigating Officer nor the learned Magistrate could have taken cognizance on the same, treating it as a State case.

9. Learned A.G.A. on the other hand submits that while the learned Magistrate may not have taken cognizance on the charge sheet treating it to be a State case, however, it was open to the learned Magistrate to follow the complaint case procedure.

10. Vexed question is involved as to whether the Magistrate can proceed under Sections 323, 504 & 506 IPC as a police case whereas these are non-cognizable offence and the same could have utmost be treated as a complaint under Explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. The provisions of Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. defines complaint and is reproduce below :-

"2(d) "complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report. Explanation:- A report made by a police officer in a case which discloses, after investigation, the commission of a non-cognizable offence shall be deemed to be a complaint; and the police officer by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant."

11. Aforesaid Section clearly denotes that after investigation if it is found that the offence in question is a non-cognizable offence then the matter should be treated as a complaint and police office by whom such report is made shall be deemed to be the complainant.

12. In light of the aforesaid provision there is no room to doubt for considering the commission of non-cognizable offence as a complaint case. In the case of Rakesh Kumar Sharma vs. State of U.P. & Another reported in 2007 (9) ADJ 478, specifically paragraph nos. 5 & 6, the Coordinate Bench of this Court has considered the matter wherein F.I.R. was lodged under Section 307 IPC but subsequently charge-sheet was submitted under Section 504 IPC and the Court concluded that it should not be proceeded as a police case which is barred under Explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. The relevant paragraph nos. 5 & 6 of the aforesaid judgment are hereunder :-

"5. He submitted that in the present case originally the F.I.R. was lodged under Section 307 IPC but after investigation the Investigating Officer came to the conclusion that no offence under Section 307 IPC was made out and only a case under Section 504 IPC was made out against the applicant and so a charge-sheet under Section 504 IPC was submitted against the applicant. He contended that in view of the aforesaid Explanation to Section 2 (d) Cr.P.C., the case could not proceed as a police case in respect of an offence punishable under Section 504 IPC. Because the offence under Section 504 IPC is non-cognizable and so the case could proceed only as a complaint case in view of the aforesaid Explanation.

6. The above contention of the learned counsel for the applicant is correct. I, therefore, allow this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to this extent that the cognizance taken by the Magistrate in the case on the basis of the report of the police for the offence punishable under Section 504 IPC and the orders passed by him for issuing warrant against the applicant are hereby quashed. The Magistrate shall not proceed with the case as a State case but he shall proceed with it as a complaint case as provided in the Explanation 2 (d) Cr.P.C. and he shall follow the procedure prescribed for hearing of a complaint case."

13. In the case of Keshav Lal Thakur vs. State of Bihar reported in 1996 (II) SCC, 557, the Apex Court has held in paragraph 3 which is as under :-

"We need not go into the question whether in the facts of the instant case the above view of the High Court is proper or not for the impugned proceeding has got to be quashed as neither the police was entitled to investigate into the offence in question nor the Chief Judicial Magistrate to take cognizance upon the report submitted on completion of such investigation. On the own showing of the police, the offence under Section 31 of the Act is non-cognizable and Section 154 Cr.P.C. Of course, the police is entitled to investigate into a non-cognizable offence pursuant to an order of a competent Magistrate under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. but, admittedly, no such order was passed in the instant case. That necessarily means, that neither the police could investigate into the offence in question nor submit a report on which the question of taking cognizance could have arisen. While on this point, it may be mentioned that in view of the Explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C., which defines 'complaint', the police is entitled to submit, after investigation, a report relating to a non-cognizable offence in which case such a report is to be treated as a 'complaint', of the police officer concerned, but that explanation will not be available to the prosecution here as that relates to a case where the police initiates investigation into a cognizable offence - unlike the present one - but ultimately finds that only a non-cognizable offence has been made out."

14. There is no particular format for a complaint. The Apex Court has also expounded in Mohd. Yusuf vs. Afaq Jahan reported in (2006) 1 SCC, 627 that there is no particular format for a complaint, even nomenclature is also inconsequential. A petition addressed to Magistrate containing an allegation that an offence has been committed and prayed for suitable action against the culprits, is sufficient to treat the same as a complaint.

15. It is clear that initially vide notification dated 02.08.1984 Government of U.P. has treated the offence under Section 506 I.P.C. as cognizable and non-bailable. The aforesaid promulgation of Government of U.P. was declared illegal by the Court in the case of Virendra Singh (Supra). At present there is no doubt that the offence under Section 506 IPC is non-cognizable and bailable. In light of proposition of law as mentioned above, there is no room to doubt that case filed under Section 506 IPC cannot be proceeded as police case and the learned Magistrate should treat it as a complaint case.

16. In view of the observations made above, learned court below has illegally proceeded on the police report without applying his judicial mind inasmuch as all the offence as mentioned in the NCR as non-cognizable and proper course of action for the Magistrate is to treat the matter as a complaint under the provision as enshrined under Explanation to Section 2(d) Cr.P.C.

17. Considering the above, no useful purpose would be served in keeping the present application pending any further. The charge sheet dated 14.04.2015 is hereby quashed and the matter is remitted to the learned Magistrate to pass a fresh order, strictly in accordance with law, keeping in mind the observations made above.

18. The aforesaid exercise may be concluded as expeditiously as possible, preferably within a period of two months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

19. With the aforesaid observations, the present application is allowed.

Crl. Misc. Appl. u/s 482 No. 13262 of 2020

Aman Pandey ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Rajesh Kumar, Sri Shiv Nath Singh

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
A.G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Application u/s 482 – Quashing of order on the ground of jurisdiction - Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 202; Indian Penal Code: Section 420, 504, 506 – The inquiry or the investigation as the case may be, by the Magistrate is mandatory where the accused is residing beyond the area of exercise of his jurisdiction. It is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. (Para 14, 18)

The expression 'shall' is ordinarily read as mandatory. Lack of material particulars and non-application of mind as to the materials cannot be brushed aside as a procedural irregularity. A bare perusal of S.202 Cr.P.C. shows that in a case in which the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, he shall postpone issue of process against the accused and shall hold an enquiry either by himself or direct investigation to be made by a Police Officer or by such other person as the Magistrate thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The use of the expression 'shall' makes it mandatory for the Magistrate to hold the inquiry contemplated by the section where the accused resides beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the concerned Magistrate. The inquiry may be made by the Magistrate himself or he may direct investigation to be carried by the Police Officer or by such other person as he thinks fit. (Para 11)

In the inquiry envisaged u/s 202 Cr.P.C. the witnesses are examined and this exercise by the Magistrate is an inquiry for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. If witnesses have been examined it cannot be said that any inquiry as contemplated by amended S.202 Cr.P.C. was not held. (Para 18)

In the present case, two witnesses were examined u/s 202 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the present is not a case of no inquiry or no investigation as mandated by S.202 Cr.P.C. (Para 21, 25)

B. Code of Criminal Procedure: Section 2(g), 202 – "Inquiry" – Every inquiry other than a trial conducted by the Magistrate or Court. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided u/s 202 Cr.P.C. In the inquiry envisaged u/s 202 Cr.P.C. the witnesses are examined and this exercise by the Magistrate for the purpose of deciding, whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, was held, nothing but an enquiry u/s 202 of the Code. The order of the Magistrate must indicate that he has made inquiry and on such inquiry he is prima facie satisfied that a case for summoning is made out. (Para 15, 23, 27)

C. It is not proper for the High Court to embark upon an enquiry in respect of the accusations. While exercising inherent jurisdiction u/s 482 Cr.P.C. or revisional jurisdiction u/s 397 of the Code in a case where complaint is sought to be quashed, it is not proper for the High Court to consider the defence of the accused or embark upon an enquiry in respect of the accusations. 10. Harshendra Kumar Vs Rebatilata Koley & others, (2011) 3 SCC 351 (Para 29)

Present application has been filed for quashing the summoning order dated 08.08.2019, passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Maharajganj.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ravi Nath Tilhari, J.)

1. Heard Shri Shiv Nath Singh, Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Rajesh Kumar, learned counsel for the applicant, Shri Pankaj Saxena, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record.

2. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant for quashing the summoning order dated 08.08.2019 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Maharajganj in Complaint Case No. 265 of 2019 (Razabuddin Khan versus Aman Pandey) under Sections 504 and 506 I.P.C., Police Station-Sonauli, District-Maharajganj and also the impugned order dated 05.03.2020 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Maharajganj in Criminal Revision No. 113 of 2019 (Razabuddin versus State of U.P. and others), pending before the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Maharajganj.

3. The facts of the case in brief are that the applicant is the Manager of Satyamev Educational Services. The opposite party no. 2 requested the applicant for education of his daughter in M.B.B.S., whereupon the applicant produced the list of the institutions and the opposite party no. 2 had chosen PASCOV University Russia which has recognition from the Medical Council of India and W.H.O. The daughter of the opposite party no. 2 in all awareness of the conditions of admission applied for admission of M.B.B.S. Course in PASCOV University Russia on 08.07.2017 and the said University issued a letter for her admission. She took admission but she did not fulfil the conditions of that University during the course of her studies and also did not attend the classes. Later on, the opposite party no. 2 filed complaint with malafide intention and on incorrect facts that the applicant deceived the complainant as in the said University the education as desired by the complainant in a particular course was not being imparted.

4. The Magistrate after recording the statement of the complainant and of the witnesses passed the summoning order dated 08.08.2019 summoning the applicant under Sections 504 and 506 I.P.C. The complainant filed Criminal Revision No. 113 of 2019 (Rajabuddin versus State of U.P. and another) challenging the summoning order on the ground inter alia that the accused should also have been summoned under Section 420 I.P.C. on the material available on record. The criminal revision was allowed by judgment dated 05.03.2020 and thereby the summoning order dated 08.08.2019 was set aside and the trial court was directed to pass summoning order afresh in accordance with the directions given in that judgment, after hearing the complainant in accordance with law.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the summoning order is bad in as much as the Magistrate at Maharajganj had no jurisdiction in the matter since the alleged offence was committed not at Maharajganj but at Lucknow. He further submits that the accused persons are residents of a place outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate, Maharajganj and as such enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. must have been held which has not been held and therefore, the order is bad. Learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance on the judgment of Hon'ble the Supreme Court in National Bank of Oman versus Barakara Abdul Aziz & Another (2013) 2 SCC 488 and of this Court in Mohammad Illiyas and 2 Others versus State of U.P. and another in Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 30477 of 2018 decided on 18.09.2018.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that there are contradictions in the statement of the complainant and the witnesses. The complaint has been lodged in the year 2019 with respect to the incident of 2017. The daughter of the complainant studied for one year in the concerned University at Russia but when she could not complete her education she on her own left the University and took admission in some other Institution. It is only after one year that the daughter of the complainant came to know what kind of studies was being imparted at the University of Russia which, as per the submission, is highly improbable. His further submission is that the complaint has been lodged maliciously and with malafide intention.

7. Learned A.G.A. submits that as per the averments of the complaint, the incident for the alleged offence is also at Sonauli which is part of District Maharajganj. With respect to the enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C., it has been submitted by the learned A.G.A. that such enquiry was held as two witnesses were examined under Section 202 Cr.P.C. He submits that no particular mode of enquiry is prescribed under the Code. The statement of the witnesses recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is also an enquiry. Learned A.G.A. has placed reliance on the judgment in the case of Vijay Dhanuka versus Najzma Mamtaj (2014) 14 SCC 638 and in ''Birla Corporation Ltd versus Adventz Investments And Holdings (2019) 16 SCC 610.

8. I have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the applicant and the learned A.G.A. and perused the material on record.

9. So far as the jurisdiction of the Magistrate at Maharajganj is concerned, from perusal of the complaint and the statement recorded, it is evident that it has been stated that the incident started at Sonauli. Some money was also transferred from the account of the complainant which is at Maharajganj. In view of the specific averments to the above effect, the submission of the learned counsel for the applicant that the Magistrate at Maharajganj had to jurisdiction has no substance and is accordingly rejected.

10. So far as, the question of holding of an inquiry by the learned Magistrate under section 202 Cr.P.C. in cases where the accused persons are residing at a place beyond the area of the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate, is concerned, it is relevant to reproduce section 202 Cr.P.C. as amended w.e.f 23.06.2006 which reads as under:-

202. Postponement of issue of process.

(1) Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 192, may, if he thinks fit, and shall in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding: Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made,--

(a) where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session; or

(b) where the complaint has not been made by a Court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under section 200.

(2) In an inquiry under sub- section (1), the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take evidence of witnesses on oath:

Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath.

(3) If an investigation under sub-section (1) is made by a person not being a police officer, he shall have for that investigation all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer- in- charge of a police station except the power to arrest without warrant.

11. A bare perusal of section 202 Cr.P.C. shows that in a case in which the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, he shall postpone issue of process against the accused and shall hold an inquiry either by himself or direct investigation to be made by a Police Officer or by such other person as the Magistrate thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The use of the expression "shall' makes it mandatory for the Magistrate to hold the inquiry contemplated by the section where the accused resides beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the concerned Magistrate. The expression "shall' is ordinarily read as mandatory. The inquiry may be made by the Magistrate himself or he may direct investigation to be carried by the police Officer or by such other person as he thinks fit. The scope of inquiry under section 202 Cr.P.C. is limited to ascertain the truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process is made out or not. The issuance of process to the accused calling upon him to appear in the criminal cases is a serious matter. The law imposes a serious responsibility on the Magistrate to decide, if, there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. Issuance of process should not be mechanical nor should it be made as an instrument of harassment to the accused. Lack of material particulars and non-application of mind as to the materials cannot be brushed aside as a procedural irregularity.

12. In "National Bank of Oman Vs. Barakara Abdul Aziz reported in 2013 (2) SCC 488" the facts were that the accused was residing out side the jurisdiction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned and he failed to carry out any inquiry or order investigation as contemplated under the amended section 202 Cr.P.C. which amendment was not noticed by the learned Magistrate, and the process was issued on perusal of the complaint and the documents attached thereto, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the order passed by the Magistrate was illegal and the High Court acted in accordance with law in setting aside the said order. It is relevant to reproduce paragraph nos. 8, 9, 10 , 11 and 12 of National Bank of Oman (Supra) as under:-

"8. We find no error in the view taken by the High Court that the CJM, Ahmednagar had not carried out any enquiry or ordered investigation as contemplated under Section 202 CrPC before issuing the process, considering the fact that the respondent is a resident of District Dakshin Kannada, which does not fall within the jurisdiction of the CJM, Ahmednagar. It was, therefore, incumbent upon him to carry out an enquiry or order investigation as contemplated under Section 202 CrPC before issuing the process.

9. The duty of a Magistrate receiving a complaint is set out in Section 202 CrPC and there is an obligation on the Magistrate to find out if there is any matter which calls for investigation by a criminal court. The scope of enquiry under this section is restricted only to find out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process has to be issued or not. Investigation under Section 202 CrPC is different from the investigation contemplated in Section 156 as it is only for holding the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. The scope of enquiry under Section 202 CrPC is, therefore, limited to the ascertainment of truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint:

(i) on the materials placed by the complainant before the court;

(ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process has been made out; and

(iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the accused may have.

10. Section 202 CrPC was amended by the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2005 and the following words were inserted:

"and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction,"

The notes on clauses for the abovementioned amendment read as follows:

"False complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places simply to harass them. In order to see that innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused."

The amendment has come into force w.e.f. 23-6-2006 vide Notification No. S.O. 923(E) dated 21-6-2006.

11. We are of the view that the High Court has correctly held that the abovementioned amendment was not noticed by the CJM Ahmednagar. The CJM had failed to carry out any enquiry or order investigation as contemplated under the amended Section 202 Cr.P.C. Since it is an admitted fact that the accused in residing outside the jurisdiction of the CJM, Ahmednagar, we find no error in the view taken by the High Court.

12. All the same, the High Court instead of quashing the complaint, should have directed the Magistrate to pass fresh orders following the provisions of Section 202 Cr.P.C. Hence, we remit the matter to the Magistrate for passing fresh orders uninfluenced by the prima facie conclusion reached by the High Court that the bare allegations of cheating do not make out a case against the accused for issuance of process under Section 418 or 420 I.P.C. The CJM will pass fresh orders after complying with the procedure laid down in Section 202 Cr.P.C. within two months from the date of receipt of this order. "

13. In "Vijay Dhanuka etc Vs. Nazima Mamtaj etc reported in 2014 (14) SCC 638" wherein also the residence of the accused was shown at a place beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate and the Magistrate had issued process after examination of the complainant and two witnesses, questions arose for determination (i) whether it was mandatory to hold inquiry or investigation for the purpose of deciding whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding, and (ii) whether the learned Magistrate before issuing summons had held the inquiry as mandated by section 202 Cr.P.C.

14. In Vijay Dhanuka etc. (Supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that in a case where accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, inquiry or investigation as the case may be, by the Magistrate is mandatory, which is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints.

15. On the point, if inquiry as mandated by section 202 Cr.P.C was held by the Magistrate, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vijay Dhanuka etc (Supra) held that "inquiry" as defined under section 2(g) of the Code of Criminal Procedure means every inquiry other than a trial conducted by the Magistrate or Court. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided under section 202 Cr.P.C. In the inquiry envisaged under section 202 Cr.P.C. the witnesses are examined and this exercise by the Magistrate for the purpose of deciding, whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, was held, nothing but an inquiry under section 202 of the Code.

16. It is relevant to reproduce paragraph nos. 11 to 16 of Vijay Dhanuka (Supra) as under:-

"11. Section 202 of the Code, inter alia, contemplates postponement of the issue of the process "in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction" and thereafter to either inquire into the case by himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit. In the face of it, what needs our determination is as to whether in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, inquiry is mandatory or not.

12. The words "and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction" were inserted by Section 19 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act (Central Act 25 of 2005) w.e.f. 23-6-2006. The aforesaid amendment, in the opinion of the legislature, was essential as false complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places in order to harass them. The note for the amendment reads as follows:

"False complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places simply to harass them. In order to see that innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused."

The use of the expression "shall" prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

13. In view of the decision of this Court in Udai Shankar Awasthi v. State of U.P. [(2013) 2 SCC 435 : (2013) 1 SCC (Civ) 1121 : (2013) 2 SCC (Cri) 708] , this point need not detain us any further as in the said case, this Court has clearly held that the provision aforesaid is mandatory. It is apt to reproduce the following passage from the said judgment: (SCC p. 449, para 40)

"40. The Magistrate had issued summons without meeting the mandatory requirement of Section 202 CrPC, though the appellants were outside his territorial jurisdiction. The provisions of Section 202 CrPC were amended vide the Amendment Act, 2005, making it [Ed.: The matter between the two asterisks has been emphasised in original as well.] mandatory to postpone the issue of process [Ed.: The matter between the two asterisks has been emphasised in original as well.] where the accused resides in an area beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned. The same was found necessary in order to protect innocent persons from being harassed by unscrupulous persons and making it obligatory upon the Magistrate to enquire into the case himself, or to direct investigation to be made by a police officer, or by such other person as he thinks fit for the purpose of finding out whether or not, there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused before issuing summons in such cases."

14. In view of our answer to the aforesaid question, the next question which falls for our determination is whether the learned Magistrate before issuing summons has held the inquiry as mandated under Section 202 of the Code. The word "inquiry" has been defined under Section 2(g) of the Code, the same reads as follows:

"2. (g) "inquiry' means every inquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Code by a Magistrate or court;"

It is evident from the aforesaid provision, every inquiry other than a trial conducted by the Magistrate or the court is an inquiry. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided under Section 202 of the Code. In the inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code, the witnesses are examined whereas under Section 200 of the Code, examination of the complainant only is necessary with the option of examining the witnesses present, if any. This exercise by the Magistrate, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, is nothing but an inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code.

15. In the present case, as we have stated earlier, the Magistrate has examined the complainant on solemn affirmation and the two witnesses and only thereafter he had directed for issuance of process.

16. In view of what we have observed above, we do not find any error in the order impugned [Vijay Dhanuka, In re, Criminal Revision No. 508 of 2013, order dated 19-2-2013 (Cal)] . In the result, we do not find any merit in the appeals and the same are dismissed accordingly."

17. In the Case of "Birla Corporation limited Vs. Adventz Investments and holdings 2019 (16) SCC 610" the Hon'ble Supreme Court has reiterated the same proposition of law that at the stage of inquiry under section 202 Cr.P.C the Magistrate is only concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence in support of the averments in the complaint to satisfy himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

18. Thus, the law as settled is that the inquiry or the investigation as the case may be, by the Magistrate is mandatory where the accused is residing beyond the area of exercise of his jurisdiction. In the inquiry envisaged under section 202 Cr.P.C the witnesses are examined and this exercise by the Magistrate is an inquiry for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. If witnesses have been examined it cannot be said that any inquiry as contemplated by amended section 202 Cr.P.C. was not held.

19. In the case of Smt. Parvender Kaur and Another versus State of U.P. and Another passed in Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 27369 of 2018 decided on 12.09.2018", and in the case of "Arvind Kumar Chaurasiya and another versus State of U.P. and Another passed in Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 27788 of 2018 decided on 27.08.2018", this Court held that the Magistrate before issuing process after invoking this provision should satisfy himself that the complaint filed against the person residing outside the jurisdiction of the court is not for his harassment. How the Magistrate has satisfied himself in this regard must be reflected from the proceedings conducted by him. Therefore, a conscious decision has to be taken. Specific order is required to be passed regarding postponement of issuing process and for initiation of inquiry either by himself or ordering investigation, as the case may be. If the Magistrate decides to inquire himself he should put necessary questions with the witnesses and also to the complainant, like, identity of accused, acquaintance of complainant and witness with the accused, relationship in between accused and complainant and in between complainant and witnesses etc. If, the Magistrate decides to order investigation then purpose of investigation and person to whom investigation is entrusted should be clearly mentioned by giving a reasonable time to complete the investigation.

20. In Smt. Parvinder Kaur and another (Supra) this court has held as under in paragraph nos. 5, 6 and 7 :-

"5. To fulfil the intention of the statue, a Magistrate before issuing process after invoking this provision should satisfy himself that the complaint filed against the person residing outside the jurisdiction of the court is not for his harassment. How the magistrate has satisfied himself in this regard must be reflected from the proceedings conducted by him. Therefore, a conscious decision has to be taken. Specific order is required to be passed regarding postponement of issuing process and for initiation of enquiry either by himself or ordering investigation, as the case may be. If the Magistrate decides to enquire himself he should put necessary questions with the witnesses and also to the complainant, like; identity of accused, acquaintance of complainant and witness with the accused, relationship in between accused and complainant and in between complaint and witnesses etc.

6. If, however, the Magistrate decides to order investigation then purpose of investigation and person to whom investigation is entrusted should be clearly mentioned by giving a reasonable time to complete the investigation. It is also important to note that this investigation under section 202 Cr.P.C. is different from the investigation under section 156 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the Magistrate before ordering investigation must ensure that the investigating officer or any other person shall not be allowed to arrest the accused in such investigation. The Magistrate should also keep in mind the proviso added to sub-section(1) of section 202, which deals with cases wherein investigation could not be directed.

7. In the present case, it is not reflected from the proceedings that the Magistrate has exercised his jurisdiction after complying with the mandatory provisions of Section 202 Cr.P.C. To the contrary, the Magistrate has summoned accused person, as is evident from the impugned summoning order without complying with the mandatory provisions of Section 202 Cr.P.C."

21. The aforesaid judgments in Smt. Parvinder Kaur and another (supra), Arvind Kumar Chaurasiya (supra) and Mohd. Illiyas (supra) have considered the Apex Court judgment in National Bank of Oman (Supra), which was a case where any inquiry as mandated by section 202 Cr.P.C. was not held by the Magistrate, as the amended section 202 Cr.P.C. was not noticed by the concerned Magistrate. In National Bank of Oman (supra), the Magistrate had not examined the witnesses. The process was issued on perusal of the complaint, the statement of the complainant and the documents attached to the complaint. A perusal of the judgments of this Court, aforesaid, shows that in those cases the Magistrate had not exercised the jurisdiction after complying with the mandatory provisions of section 202 Cr.P.C. In the present case two witnesses were examined under sections 202 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the present case is not a case of no inquiry or no investigation as mandated by section 202 Cr.P.C.

22. The cases of Smt. Parvinder Kaur and another (supra), Arvind Kumar Chaurasiya (supra) and Mohd. Illiyas (supra*) have also not taken into consideration the Apex Court judgment in Vijay Dhanuka etc. (Supra) which clearly lays down that in the inquiry envisaged under section 202 Cr.P.C. the witnesses are examined. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided by section 202 of the Code.

23. It may be open for the Magistrate to put necessary questions to the witnesses and also to the complainant like identity of accused, acquaintance of complainant and witnesses with the accused, their relationship, etc, in holding inquiry under section 202 Cr.P.C., but if he does not hold inquiry in that particular manner it would not vitiate the order of summoning, in as much as the object of the inquiry is only for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is a sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused and at this stage the Magistrate is not holding any trial. He is holding an "inquiry" which means an inquiry other than trial. However, the order of the Magistrate must indicate that he has made inquiry and on such inquiry he is prima facie satisfied that a case for summoning is made out.

24. In view of the above, the cases of Smt. Parvinder Kaur and another (Supra), Arvind Kumar Chaurasiya (Supra) and Mohd. Illiyas (supra) are of no help to the applicants.

25. In the present case the statements of the witnesses were recorded under section 202 Cr.P.C. It is also admitted to the applicants vide para no. 16 of the affidavit that the statements of PW-1 Kanhaiyalal and PW-2 Masallah were recorded under section 202 Cr.P.C. by the court concerned. The statement of the complainant was recorded on 02.04.2019 and the statement of the witnesses were recorded on 07.06.2019 & 11.07.2019. Therefore, there is also time gap in recording the statements of the complainant and the witnesses, which shows that after recording the statement of the complainant, issuance of process was postponed and the enquiry was held under Section 202 Cr.P.C. before passing the summoning order.

26. This Court is therefore, not convinced with the submission of learned counsel for the applicants that any inquiry as contemplated by section 202 Cr.P.C. was not held by the Magistrate.

27. At the stage of summoning, the Magistrate is required to apply his judicial mind only with a view to find out whether a prima facie case has been made out for summoning the accused persons. At this stage, the Magistrate is not required to consider the defence version or materials or arguments nor is he required to evaluate the merits of the materials or evidence of the complainant, as has been laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of R.R. Kapur Vs. State of Panjab, reported in AIR 1960 SC 866 and State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, reported in 1992 SCC 426. It is also settled that the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is exercised by the High Court only in exceptional circumstances and only when a prima facie case is not made out against the accused persons.

28. In Sonu Gupta versus Deepak Gupta reported in (2015) 3 SCC 424, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under in paragraph no. 8:-

"8. ...At the stage of cognizance and summoning the Magistrate is required to apply his judicial mind only with a view to take cognizance of the offence or in other words to find out whether a prima facie case is made out for summoning the accused persons. At this stage, the learned Magistrate is not required to consider the defence version or materials or arguments nor is he required to evaluate the merits of the materials or evidence of the complainant, because the Magistrate must not undertake the exercise to find out at this stage whether the materials would lead to conviction or not."

29. The submission of the learned counsel for the applicant that the complaint case is highly improbable, is in the nature of the defence of the applicant which being disputed question of fact and requiring evidence cannot be gone into at this stage of summoning by this Court in the exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. In Harshendra Kumar versus Rebatilata Koley & others (2011) 3 SCC 351, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that it is fairly well settled that while exercising inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. or revisional jurisdiction under Section 397 of the Code in a case where complaint is sought to be quashed, it is not proper for the High Court to consider the defence of the accused or embark upon an enquiry in respect of the accusations.

30. Any contradiction in the statement of the complainant and the witness, could not be brought to the notice of this Court by the learned counsel for the applicant so as to establish that on the material before the Magistrate any case for summoning of the applicant was not made out prima facie.

31. This Court finds that the revisional court has set aside the summoning order dated 08.08.2019 passed by the Magistrate under Sections 504 and 506 I.P.C., as it found that there was sufficient material available on record to show that the accused had cheated the complainant and the trial court had committed illegality in only summoning the accused under Section 504 and 506 I.P.C. and in not summoning the accused under Section 420 I.P.C. also. The learned revisional court directed the learned Magistrate to pass summoning order afresh in accordance with the directions given in the revisional judgments.

32. In view of this judgment, as discussed above this Court finds that the direction given by the revisional court to pass fresh orders cannot be faulted with in as much as the summoning order dated 08.08.2019 passed under Sections 504 and 506 I.P.C. could not be supplemented by the Magistrate but he was required to pass fresh orders under all the applicable sections. The summoning order to the extent the accused was summoned under Sections 504 & 506 I.P.C. has not been set aside by the revisional court on merit. This Court also finds that the said order dated 8.08.2019 as challenged in the present petition does not suffer from any illegality to the extent of summoning of the accused under Sections 504 and 506 I.P.C. on the grounds of challenge made by the learned counsel for the applicant.

33. However, as the order dated 08.08.2019 has already been set aside with direction to pass fresh orders, prayer of the applicant to set aside the order dated 08.08.2019 cannot be granted. It is observed that the grounds of challenge made to the said order have no substance. So far as the revisional order dated 05.03.2020 is concerned no illegality could be pointed out by the learned counsel for the applicant. This Court is also of the considered view that the revisional court after having found that there was material for summoning the accused applicant under Section 420 I.P.C. as well has rightly remitted the matter to the Magistrate for passing fresh orders. The order dated 05.03.2020 passed by the Sessions Judge Maharajgan is therefore maintained with direction to the learned Magistrate to pass fresh orders in pursuance of the judgment of the revisional court in accordance with the directions given there under, in accordance with law.

34. This 482 petition having no merit is dismissed with the aforesaid observations.

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH CHANDRA SHARMA, J.

Crl. Misc. Appl. u/s 482 No. 15174 of 2020

Rajesh Kumar Yadav ...Applicant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Opp. Parties

Counsel for the Applicant:
Sri Ravi Ratn Kumar Sinha

Counsel for the Opp. Parties:
A.G.A.

A. Criminal Law – Application u/s 482 – Application for release of seized vehicle - Essential Commodities Act: Section 3/7, 6-A, 6-E; Code of Criminal Procedure: 5, Section 451 to 457 - The provisions of special statute will prevail over general provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure in case of any conflict. (Para 10, 13)

There is no dispute that The Essential Commodities Act, 1955 is a Special Act, therefore, in view of S. 5 of Cr.P.C., the general provisions of Cr.P.C. will not affect any special statute or any local law for the time being in force. In other words, where special provisions have been provided for any particular thing under special law, the general provision of Cr.P.C. to that extent will not be applicable. (Para 10)

B. The Essential Commodities Act: Section 6E - bar to the jurisdiction of criminal Court - U/s 6A The Essential Commodities Act, there is specific provisions of confiscation of essential commodities, etc. The provision of opportunity of show cause before confiscation of food grains, etc. u/s 6B as well as right of appeal by a person aggrieved against the order of confiscation are also there u/s 6C of the said Act. The provisions contained under Section 6E of The Essential Commodities Act, clearly bar the jurisdiction of the criminal Court with regard to possession delivery, disposal, release or distribution of essential commodity, package, covering, receptacle, animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance during pendency of confiscation proceedings. (Para 11)

So long as the confiscation proceedings u/s 6A of The Essential Commodities Act are pending, release of vehicle, etc and essential commodities involved in the commission of an offence under Section 3/7 of The Essential Commodities Act is not maintainable in view of statutory bar contained u/s 6E of The Essential Commodities Act. (Para 17)

C. Jurisdiction of High Court - The High Court has no jurisdiction to release the vehicle u/s 482 Cr.P.C., when a confiscation proceeding is pending before the designated authority. (Para 14)

D. Power and Jurisdiction of Magistrate u/s 451, CrPC - The jurisdiction u/s 451, CrPC is not available to the Magistrate, once the authorized Officer initiated the confiscation proceedings on account of clear bar of jurisdiction in certain cases under the Act. (Para 18)

There is no doubt that an application u/s 451 Cr.P.C., for release of vehicle seized under Essential Commodity Act, during pendency of confiscation proceedings before the collector under Section 6A of The Act is not maintainable before the Magistrate. (Para 19)

In the present case, the learned Magistrate has considered and followed the legal position as expounded by the Hon'ble Apex Court and concluded that during pendency of confiscation proceedings before Collector u/s 6A of Essential Commodities Act, Magistrate has no jurisdiction to entertain the application for release of vehicle, is correct and proper in the eye of law. Application dismissed. (E-3)

Present application has been filed to set aside order dated 25.08.2020, passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli u/s 3/7 Essential Commodities Act, 1955, whereby the application for release of seized vehicle has been rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ravi Ratan Kumar Sinha, learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. This application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the applicant Rajesh Kumar Yadav with a prayer to set-aside the impugned order dated 25.08.2020 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli on the release application in Case No. Nil of 2020 (Rajesh Kumar Yadav Vs. State of U.P.) arising out of Crime No. 68 of 2020, under Section 3/7 Essential Commodities Act, 1955, Police Station Alinagar, District Chandauli, whereby the application for release of seized vehicle has been rejected.

3. Factual Matrix of the case is as under.

Applicant Rajesh Kumar Yadav moved an application for release of vehicle (tanker) bearing no. U.P.62 B.T.1335 alleging himself to be its registered owner. On 01.04.2020, Inspector Police Station Alinagar, District Chandauli reported that near Sareshar village Vijay Yadav r/o Domanpur, P.S. & District Bhadohi with three gallons each having capacity of 20 liters and one pipe to be used for extracting oil from the tanker, was found present and from the tanker theft of oil was attempted. All the upper lids of tanker were opened. Supply Inspector Rajeev Kumar along with his staff went to Police Station Alinagar and inspected the tanker, it was found that the tanker contained 20,000 (twenty thousand) liters diesel. Locks of all chambers were found opened, which was illegal. The tanker was registered in favour of Rajesh Kumar Yadav r/o Junwani Road, Bhilai Road, Chhattisgarh. Driver of the tanker was not present. Vijay Shankar Yadav stated that he was brother of owner of the tanker. The driver of tanker drove it from Indian Oil to Shiv Enterprises, Rae Bareli on 31.3.2020 at 3 O'clock, having 20,000 (twenty thousand) liters of diesel. He parked the tanker near Sareshar Village and went to his home. On 1.4.2020 in the morning, police saw the opened seal and made query with him, it was found that 20,000 (twenty thousand) liters diesel was being black-marketed by Vijay Shankar Yadav. As a result, tanker bearing no. U.P.62BT1335 containing 20,000 (twenty thousand) liters diesel and two empty gallons of twenty liters capacity and one other gallon filled with twenty liters diesel alongwith oil extracting pipe was seized and thereafter First Information Report under Section 3/7 Essential Commodities Act was lodged as Crime No. 68 of 2020, Police Station Alinagar, District Chandauli.

4. The owner of vehicle/ applicant Rajesh Kumar Yadav moved an application before learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli for release of vehicle which was rejected. As a result Criminal Revision No. 21 of 2020 was preferred before the court of Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Chandauli which was allowed and order passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate dated 6.6.2020 was set-aside. Matter was returned back to the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate for passing order afresh in the light of observations made by the learned Ist Additional Sessions Judge.

5. Again applicant moved an application before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli for release of the seized vehicle in the light of the order passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judged which was again rejected by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate on 25.8.2020 on the ground of non-maintainability of the application on account of confiscation proceedings pending before the court of District Magistrate, Chandauli under Section 6A of Essential Commodities Act. Being aggrieved with this order this Criminal Misc. Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. has been preferred before this Court.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that applicant is a businessman and has a tanker bearing no. UP62BT1335 for doing transportation work. On 4.1.2020 his tanker was not involved in any Essential commodities Act but the Inspector, in-charge, Alinagar for taking bribe implicated the applicant's tanker containing 20,000 (twenty thousand) liters diesel in a false case. Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chandauli rejected the application of the applicant without considering the real facts and circumstances of the case on 6.6.2020 against which he filed revision which was allowed by Ist Additional Sessions Judge and matter was remanded back for reconsideration but again learned Chief Judicial Magistrate has rejected the application without application of mind which is against the eye of law. He misinterpreted the order dated 13.8.2020 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Chandauli. Applicant's vehicle is detained in the concerned police station and condition of the aforesaid vehicle is being damaged as it is not functioning, therefore, requested to set-aside the order dated 25.8.2020 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate on the release application in Case No. Nil of 2020 and to direct the court concerned to release the applicant's vehicle.

7. Learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer for release of vehicle and submitted that vehicle has been seized in a case under Section 3/7 Essential Commodities Act. Confiscation proceedings are pending before the court of District Magistrate, Chandauli under Section 6-A of Essential Commodities Act. In this situation, the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate has no jurisdiction to entertain the application for release under Section 451 to 457 Cr.P.C. as has been provided under Section 6-E of Essential Commodities Act. Learned Magistrate has passed the impugned order having taken into consideration the relevant provisions of law and legal position as propounded by the Apex Court as well as this Court regarding release of vehicle. There is no illegality in the impugned order but it is based on the sound principles of law. So, this application is devoid of merit.

8. Considering the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties, the issue for consideration before this Court is " whether an application under Section 451 Cr.P.C. for release of seized vehicle is maintainable during pendency of confiscation proceedings before the collector under Section 6A of The Essential Commodities Act, 1955?"

9. Before delving into the issue, it would be useful to quote the relevant provisions of The Essential Commodities Act, 1955 with regard to confiscation of seized essential commodities including vehicles as well as relevant provisions of Cr.P.C., which are as under:-

"6A. Confiscation of Essential Commodity

Where any essential Commodity is seized in pursuance of an order made under Sec. 3 in relation thereto a report of such seizure shall, without unreasonable delay, be made to the Collector of the district or the Presidency-town in which such essential commodity is seized and whether or not a prosecution is instituted for the contravention of such order, the Collector may, if he thinks it expedient so to do, direct the essential commodity so seized to be produced for inspection before him, and if he is satisfied that there has been a contravention of the order may order confiscation of,-(a) the essential commodity so seized;

(b) any package, covering or receptacle in which such essential commodity is found; and

(c) any animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance used in carrying such essential commodity :

Provided that without prejudice to any action which may be taken under any other provision of this Act, no food grains or edible oilseeds in pursuance of an order made under Sec. 3 in relation thereto from a producer shall, if the seized food grains or edible oilseeds have been produced by him, be confiscated under this section:

Provided further that in the case of any animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance used for the carriage of goods or passengers for hire, the owner of such animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance shall be given an option to pay, in lieu of its confiscation, a fine not exceeding the market price at the date of seizure of the essential commodity sought to be carried by such animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance.

Where the Collector, on receiving a report of seizure or on inspection of any essential commodity under sub-section (1), is of the opinion that the essential commodity is subject to speedy and natural decay or it is otherwise expedient in the public interest so to do, he may, -

(i) order the same to be sold at the controlled price, if any, fixed for such essential commodity under this Act or under any other law for the time being in force; or

(ii) where no such price is fixed order the same to be sold by public auction :

Provided that in the case of any such essential commodity the retail sale price whereof has been fixed by the Central Government or a State Government under this Act or under any other law for the time being in force, the Collector may. for its equitable distribution and availability at fair prices, order the same to be sold through fair price shops at the price so fixed.

(3) Where any essential commodity is sold, as aforesaid, the sale proceeds thereof, after deduction of the expenses of any such sate or auction or other incidental expenses relating thereto, shall, -

(a) where no order of confiscation is ultimately passed by the Collector,

(b) where an order passed on appeal under sub-section (1) of Sec. 6-C so requires, or

(c) where in a prosecution instituted for the contravention of the order in respect of which an order of confiscation has been made under this section, the person concerned is acquitted, be paid to the owner or the person from whom it is seized.

6B. Issue of Show-Cause Notice before Confiscation of Essential Commodity.

No order confiscating any essential commodity package, covering, receptacle, animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance shall be made under section 6A unless the owner of such essential commodity, package, covering, receptacle, animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance or the person from whom it is seized.

(a) is given a notice in writing informing him of the grounds on which it is proposed to confiscate the essential commodity, package, covering, receptacle. animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance ;

(b) is given an opportunity of making a representation in writing within such reasonable time as may be specified in the notice against the grounds of confiscation; and

(c) is given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in the matter.

Without prejudice to the provisions of sub-section (1) no order confiscating any animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance shall be made under section 6A if the owner of the animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance proves to the satisfaction of the Collector that it was used in carrying the essential commodity without the knowledge or connivance of the owner himself, his agent, if any, and the person in charge of the animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance and that each of them had taken all reasonable and necessary precautions against such use.

No order confiscating any essential commodity, package, covering, receptacle, animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance shall be invalid merely by reason of any defect or irregularity in the notice given under clause (a) of sub-section (1), if, in giving such notice, the provisions of that clause have been substantially complied with.

(1) Any person aggrieved by an order of confiscation under section 6A may, within one month from the date of the communication to him of such order, appeal to any judicial authority appointed by the State Government concerned and the judicial authority shall, after giving an opportunity to the appellant to be heard, pass such order as it may think fit, confirming, modifying or annulling the order appealed against.

(2) Where an order under section 6A is modified or annulled by such judicial authority, or where in a prosecution instituted for the contravention of the order in respect of which an order of confiscation has been made under section 6A, the person concerned is acquitted, and in either case it is not possible for any reason to return the essential commodity seized such persons shall, except as provided by sub-section (3) of section 6A, be paid] the price therefore as if the essential commodity, had been sold to the Government with reasonable interest calculated from the day of the seizure of the essential commodity and such price shall be determined—

(i) in the case of food grains, edible oilseeds or edible oils, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3B) of section 3;

(ii) in the case of sugar, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (3C) of section 3 ; and

(iii) in the case of any other essential commodity, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 3.

6E. Bar of Jurisdiction in Certain Cases.

Whenever any essential commodity is seized in pursuance of an order made under Sec. 3 in relation thereto, or any package, covering or receptacle in which such essential commodity is found, or any animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance used in carrying such essential commodity is seized pending confiscation under Sec. 6-A, the Collector, or, as the case may be, the State Government concerned under section 6C shall have. and, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force, any Court, Tribunal or other authority shall not have, jurisdiction to make orders with regard to the possession, delivery, disposal, release or distribution of such essential commodity, package, covering, receptacle, animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance.

Section 5 Cr.P.C.

Saving-

"Nothing contained in this Code shall, in the absence of a specific provision to the contrary, affect any special or local law for the time being in force, or any special jurisdiction or power conferred, or any special form of procedure prescribed, by any other law for the time being in force."

Section 451 CrPC

Order for custody and disposal of property pending trial in certain cases. When any property is produced before any Criminal Court during any inquiry or trial, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the proper custody of such property pending the conclusion of the inquiry or trial, and, if the property is subject to speedy and natural decay, or if it is otherwise expedient so to do, the Court may, after recording such evidence as it thinks necessary, order it to be sold or otherwise disposed of. Explanation.- For the purposes of this section," property" includes

(a) property of any kind or document which is produced before the Court or which is in its custody,

(b) any property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed or which appears to have been used for the commission of any offence.

Section 457 Cr.P.C.

Procedure by police upon seizure of property.

(1) Whenever the seizure of property by any police officer is reported to a Magistrate under the provisions of this Code, and such property is not produced before a Criminal Court during an inquiry or trial, the Magistrate may make such order as he thinks fit respecting the disposal of such property or the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or if such person cannot be ascertained, respecting the custody and production of such property.

(2) If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such conditions (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit and if such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto, to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation.

10. There is no dispute that The Essential Commodities Act, 1955 is a Special Act, therefore, in view of Section 5 of Cr.P.C, the general provisions of Cr.P.C. will not affect any special statute or any local law for the time being in force. In other words, where special provisions have been provided for any particular thing under special law, the general provision of Cr.P.C. to that extent will not be applicable. The provisions of special statute will prevail over general provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure in case of any conflict.

11. It is also not disputed that under Section 6A The Essential Commodities Act, there is specific provisions of confiscation of essential commodities, etc. The provision of opportunity of show cause before confiscation of food grains, etc. under Section 6B as well as right of appeal by a person aggrieved against the order of confiscation are also there under Section 6C of the said Act. The provisions contained under Section 6E of The Essential Commodities Act, clearly bar the jurisdiction of the criminal Court with regard to possession delivery, disposal, release or distribution of essential commodity, package, covering, receptacle, animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance during pendency of confiscation proceedings.

12. Considering the aforesaid provisions, it is clear that the legislature has purposely inserted the said provisions of confiscation under The Essential Commodities Act and saving clause under Section 5 of the Cr.P.C. with a laudable object. The authority concerned under The Essential Commodities Act has been granted a wide discretion and power with regard to confiscation of essential commodities, etc. The object of inserting Section 5 of Cr.P.C. is to give effect the provisions of special Act/local laws in case of any conflict.

13. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Suresh Nanda vs. C.B.I, 2008 (3) SCC 174, has held that the provision of Special Act prevail over the general provisions of the code of criminal procedure. The aforesaid dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court has been further relied upon by Patna High Court in the case of Manju Kumari and another vs State of Bihar and others, 2006 Cr.L.J 3014 as well as Bombay High Court in Rajendra vs. State of Maharashtra and another, (Criminal Writ Petition No. 846 of 2016 decided on 10.10.2016).

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Divisional Forest Officer and other Vs. G.V. Sudhakar Rao and others 1985 (4) SCC 573 has held that the High Court has no jurisdiction to release the vehicle under Section 482 Cr.P.C., when a confiscation proceeding is pending before the designated authority.

15. The law with regard to release of essential commodities and seized vehicle etc. during pendency of confiscation proceedings under Section 6A of The Essential Commodity Act has been explained by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Shambhu Dayal Agarwala Vs. State of West Bengal and another (1990) 3 SCC 549 in para 7.

Section 6A empowers confiscation of the seized essential commodity, the package, covering and receptacle in which the essential commodity was found and the animal, vehicle or other conveyance in which such essential commodity was carried. The words 'may order confiscation' convey that the power is discretionary and not obligatory. Sub-section (2) thereof confers a special power to deal with any essential commodity which, in the opinion of the Collector, is subject to speedy and natural decay or it is otherwise expedient in public interest to be disposed of in the manner indicated therein. Section 6A, therefore, merely confers power of confiscation and not the power of release, disposal, distribution, etc., except to the limited extent permitted by Sub-section (2) thereof. Of course the second proviso to Sub-section (1) of Section 6A permits the grant of an option to pay, in lieu of confiscation of any animal, vehicle, vessel or other conveyance, a fine equal to its market price at the date of seizure. Section 6E was first enacted to debar courts from making any order with regard to the possession, delivery, disposal or distribution of any essential commodity seized in pursuance of an order made under Section 3 in relation thereto. By the substituted Section 6E as it presently stands the scope of the provision has been enlarged by extending the bar of jurisdiction of the Court, tribunal or other authority to the release, etc., of packages, coverings or receptacles as well as animals, vehicles, vessels or other conveyances also. It provides that whenever any essential commodity is seized under an order made in exercise of power conferred by Section 3 in relation thereto no court, tribunal or other authority shall have jurisdiction to make any order with regard to the possession, delivery, disposal, release or distribution of such essential commodity save and except the Collector pending confiscation under Section 6A, or the State Government concerned under Section 6C.

16. In the Case of Oma Ram Vs. State of Rajasthan and others AIR 2008 SC(Supp.) 1844 their lordships observed in Para 13.

Certain provisions of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955 have relevance. Section 6A deals with confiscation of food grains, edible oil seeds and edible oils. Section 6B deals with issue of show cause notice before confiscation of food grains etc. Section 6E deals with bar of jurisdiction in certain cases. Section 6E has been substituted to provide that except Collector or State Government, all other authorities, judicial or otherwise, would be debarred from making any order with regard to the possession, delivery, disposal or distribution of any essential commodity, seized in pursuance of an order made under Section 3. Thus a Magistrate has no jurisdiction to grant relief against seizure under Section 457 Cr.P.C.

17. In State of Bihar and another Vs. Arvind Kumar and another (2012) 12 SCC 395, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has again considered the view taken in the cases of Shambhu Dayal Agarwala & Oma Ram and held that so long as the confiscation proceedings under Section 6A of The Essential Commodities Act are pending, release of vehicle, etc and essential commodities involved in the commission of an offence under Section 3/7 of The Essential Commodities Act is not maintainable in view of statutory bar contained under Section 6E of The Essential Commodities Act.

18. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of M.P. and others Vs. Uday Singh and others 2019 SCC Online SC 420 has considered the power and jurisdiction of the Magistrate under Section 451 Cr.P.C. during pendency of confiscation proceedings under the Forest Act and held that the jurisdiction under Section 451 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is not available to the Magistrate, once the authorized Officer initiated the confiscation proceedings on account of clear bar of jurisdiction in certain cases under the Act.

19. After the aforesaid analysis in the light of dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court, there is no doubt that an application under Section 451 Cr.P.C., for release of vehicle seized under Essential Commodity Act, during pendency of confiscation proceedings before the collector under Section 6A of The Act is not maintainable before the Magistrate.

20. Learned counsel for the applicant has specifically relied on the judgment propounded by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Kailash Prasad Yadav Vs. State of Jharkhand 2007 LawSuit(SC)540 in which the issue of jurisdiction of the Magistrate under Section 6E of Essential Commodities Act was not in question but appeal under Section 6C was preferred before the Additional Session Judge against the confiscation order made by the Deputy Commissioner which was dismissed by the Additional Session Judge, that order was under challenge before the Hon'ble Court and was set aside.

21. Another case of Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai vs State Of Gujarat, 2003(3)JIC615 has also been relied on by learned counsel but the question involved in that case was not related to provisions of Essential Commodities Act but it was specifically related to the provisions of Section 451/457 Cr.PC. Hon'ble Court had no any occasion to examine the affect of Section 6E of the Essential Commodities Act on the power of Magistrate to release seized vehicle in view of Section 5 of Code of Criminal Procedure.

22. A careful scrutiny of the decision of their Lordships in Sundarbhai Ambalal Desai (supra) clearly indicates that the decision is an authority about the general law regarding release of vehicles seized in connection with any criminal case, but the same does not answer the issue whether in a case where there are special provisions under a local or special Act, like the Essential Commodities Act, relating to seizure and confiscation of vehicles, the powers under Section 451 or for that matter under Section 457, would still be available with the Magistrate pending confiscation proceedings under the special or the local law. In fact, the decision of their Lordships in Sundarbhai Ambalal Desai (supra) arose in the context of a challenge to an order of police remand for the petitioners granted to the prosecuting agency, where the petitioners were police personnel involved in offences punishable under Sections 429, 420, 465, 468, 477A and 114 IPC. The allegations against them were that while working at different police stations, they had committed offences over a period of time involving replacement of valuable articles retained as case property by other spurious articles, misappropriation of money also seized in connection with cases, unauthorized auction of property seized and kept at the police station, pending investigation or trial. In short, the offences that engaged the attention of their Lordships were all offence to which the Code, including the provisions of Sections 451 and 457 wholesomely applied, therefore, Sunderbhai Ambalal Desai can at best be said to be an authority on the general law regarding release of vehicle seized in connection with any criminal case.

23. From the perusal of impugned order dated 25.08.2020 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, it transpires that learned Magistrate has considered and followed the legal position as expounded by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the Case of Shambhu Dayal Agarwala, Oma Ram and followed in the case of Vishnu Prasad Vaishnav Vs. State of Chattisgarh Cr.M.P. No. 1068 of 2014 decided on 17.12.2014 and concluded that during pendency of confiscation proceedings before Collector under Section 6A of Essential Commodities Act, Magistrate has no jurisdiction to entertain the application for release of vehicle, is correct and proper in the eye of law.

24. In view of above, there is no any manifest error of law or perversity in the impugned order passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, therefore, it does not warrant any interference by this Court.

25. The present application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. being devoid of merits is hereby dismissed accordingly.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Naqvi, J.)

Heard Sri Rakesh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Ritesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the informant and Sri Deepak Mishra, the learned A.G.A.

Learned AGA and the learned counsel for the informant do not propose to file any counter affidavit. With the consent of all, the petition is being heard and finally decided under the rules of the Court.

This writ petition has been filed, seeking a writ of mandamus, directing the respondent concerned, not to arrest the petitioners, with a further prayer for quashing the impugned F.I.R. dated 25.08.2019 registered as Case Crime No. 0199 of 2019, under Sections 363, 366, 352, 506 I.P.C. and Section 7/8 POCSO Act, Police Station- Vishnupura, District Kushi Nagar.

1. Salamat Ansari and Priyanka Kharwar @ Alia along with two others have invoked the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court for seeking quashment of an FIR dated 28.08.2019 as Case Crime No. 0199 of 2019 under Sections 363, 366, 352, 506 IPC and Section 7/8 POCSO Act, Police Station Vishnupura, Kushinagar on the premise that the couple is of the age of majority, competent to contract a marriage, performed Nikah on 19.08.2019 as per muslim rites and rituals, after Priyanka Kharwar renounced her Hindu identity and embraced Islam. It is further submitted that the couple has been living together as husband and wife since last one year peacefully and happily. It is finally submitted that the FIR lodged by father of petitioner no. 4/Priyanka Kharwar @ Alia is prompted by malice and mischief only with a view to bring an end to martial ties, no offences are made out, FIR be quashed.

2. Learned AGA and learned counsel for the informant vehemently opposed the submissions on the premise that conversion per se for contracting a marriage is prohibited, said marriage has no sanctity in law, thus this Court should not exercise its extra-ordinary jurisdiction in favour of such a couple. They relied on a judgment of a Learned Single Judge in Writ C No. 57068 of 2014 (Smt Noor Jahan Begum @ Anjali Mishra and Another vs. State of U.P. and others) decided on 16.12.2014 and its recent reiteration in Writ C No. 14288 of 2020 (Priyanshi @ Km. Shamren and others Vs. State of U.P. and Another) decided on 23.09.2020.

3. There is no dispute that the couple has attained the age of majority as Priyanka Kharwar @ Alia's date of birth as per High School Certificate (annexure 3) is 07.07.1999 which is an enlisted document in Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 for determining the age of an individual coupled with the fact that the entry of the date of birth is not under challenge. The mere fact that this petition is filed and supported by an affidavit of Priyanka Kharwar @ Alia alleged victim, goes to show that she is voluntarily living with Salamat Ansari as a married couple.

4. Once age of Priyanka Kharwar @ Alia is not in dispute as she is reported to be around 21 years, petitioner nos. 1 to 3 cannot be made accused for committing an offence under Section 363 IPC or 366 IPC as victim on her own left her home in order to live with Salamat Ansari. Similarly once Priyanka Kharwar @ Alia is found not to be a juvenile, the offence under Seciton 7/8 POCSO Act is also not made out. Allegations relating to offence under Section 352, 506 IPC qua petitioner no. 2 and 3 prima facie, in view of above background, appear to be exaggerated and malafidely motivated with a view to implicate the family of petitioner no. 1 as petitioner no. 2 and 3 are mother and brother of petitioner no. 1 respectively.

5. We do not see Priyanka Kharwar and Salamat as Hindu and Muslim, rather as two grown up individuals who out of their own free will and choice are living together peacefully and happily over a year.

The Courts and the Constitutional Courts in particular are enjoined to uphold the life and liberty of an individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Right to live with a person of his/her choice irrespective of religion professed by them, is intrinsic to right to life and personal liberty. Interference in a personal relationship, would constitute a serious encroachment into the right to freedom of choice of the two individuals. We fail to understand that if the law permits two persons even of the same sex to live together peacefully then neither any individual nor a family nor even State can have objection to relationship of two major individuals who out of their own free will are living together. Decision of an individual who is of the age of majority, to live with an individual of his/her choice is strictly a right of an individual and when this right is infringed it would constitute breach of his/her fundamental right to life and personal liberty as it includes right to freedom of choice, to choose a partner and right to live with dignity as enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

6. The Apex Court in Shafin Jahan v. Asokan K.M (2018) 16 SCC 368, decided on April 9, 2018, held as under:

"74. The principles which underlie the exercise of the jurisdiction of a court in a habeas corpus petition have been reiterated in several decisions of the Court. In Gian Devi v Superintendent, Nari Niketan, Delhi31, a three-judge Bench observed that where an individual is over eighteen years of age, no fetters could be placed on her choice on where to reside or about the person with whom she could stay:

"7. Whatever may be the date of birth of the petitioner, the fact remains that she is at present more than 18 years of age. As the petitioner is sui juris no fetters can be placed upon her choice of the person with whom she is to stay, nor can any restriction be imposed regarding the place where she should stay. The court or the relatives of the petitioner can also not substitute their opinion or preference for that of the petitioner in such a matter." (emphasis supplied)

75. The ambit of a habeas corpus petition is to trace an individual who is stated to be missing. Once the individual appears before the court and asserts that as a major, she or he is not under illegal confinement, which the court finds to be a free expression of will, that would conclude the exercise of the jurisdiction. In Girish v Radhamony a two judge Bench of this Court observed thus:

"3 In a habeas corpus petition, all that is required is to find out and produce in court the person who is stated to be missing. Once the person appeared and she stated that she had gone of her own free will, the High Court had no further jurisdiction to pass the impugned order in exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution."

76. In Lata Singh v State of U.P, Bench of two judges took judicial notice of the harassment, threat and violence meted out to young women and men who marry outside their caste or faith. The court observed that our society is emerging through a crucial transformational period and the court cannot remain silent upon such matters of grave concern. In the view of the court:

"17 This is a free and democratic country, and once a person becomes a major he or she can marry whosoever he/she likes. If the parents of the boy or girl do not approve of such inter-caste or inter-religious marriage the maximum they can do is that they can cut-off social relations with the son or the daughter, but they cannot give threats or commit or instigate acts of violence and cannot harass the person who undergoes such inter-caste or inter-religious marriage. We, therefore, direct that the administration/police authorities throughout the country will see to it that if any boy or girl who is a major undergoes inter-caste or inter-religious marriage with a woman or man who is a major, the couple is not harassed by anyone nor subjected to threats or acts of violence, and anyone who gives such threats or harasses or commits acts of violence either himself or at his instigation, is taken to task by instituting criminal proceedings by the police against such persons and further stern action is taken against such persons as provided by law." (emphasis supplied)

77. Reiterating these principles in Bhagwan Dass v State (NCT OF DELHI), this Court adverted to the social evil of honour killings as being but a reflection of a feudal mindset which is a slur on the nation.

78. In a more recent decision of a three judge Bench in Soni Gerry v Gerry Douglas, this Court dealt with a case where the daughter of the appellant and respondent, who was a major had expressed a desire to reside in Kuwait, where she was pursuing her education, with her father. This Court observed thus:

"9 She has, without any hesitation, clearly stated that she intends to go back to Kuwait to pursue her career. In such a situation, we are of the considered opinion that as a major, she is entitled to exercise her choice and freedom and the Court cannot get into the aspect whether she has been forced by the father or not. There may be ample reasons on her behalf to go back to her father in Kuwait, but we are not concerned with her reasons. What she has stated before the Court, that alone matters and that is the heart of the reasoning for this Court, which keeps all controversies at bay.

10. It needs no special emphasis to state that attaining the age of majority in an individual's life has its own significance. She/He is entitled to make her/his choice. The courts cannot, as long as the choice remains, assume the role of parens patriae. The daughter is entitled to enjoy her freedom as the law permits and the court should not assume the role of a super guardian being moved by any kind of sentiment of the mother or the egotism of the father. We say so without any reservation."

79. These principles emerge from a succession of judicial decisions. Fundamental to them is the judgment of a Constitution bench of this Court in Kanu Sanyal v District Magistrate, Darjeeling.

7. A perusal of the aforesaid judgment manifests that the Apex Court has consistently respected the liberty of an individual who has attained the age of majority.

8. The Apex Court in Shakti Vahini Vs. Union of India (2018) 7 SCC 192 came down heavily on the perpetrators of "honour killings", which the Court found not only horrific and barbaric but also interfering with the right to choose a life partner and the dignity of an individual. The Apex Court held as under:-

"44. The concept of liberty has to be weighed and tested on the touchstone of constitutional sensitivity, protection and the values it stands for. It is the obligation of the Constitutional Courts as the sentinel on qui vive to zealously guard the right to liberty of an individual as the dignified existence of an individual has an inseparable association with liberty. Without sustenance of liberty, subject to constitutionally valid provisions of law, the life of a person is comparable to the living dead having to endure cruelty and torture without protest and tolerate imposition of thoughts and ideas without a voice to dissent or record a disagreement. The fundamental feature of dignified existence is to assert for dignity that has the spark of divinity and the realization of choice within the parameters of law without any kind of subjugation. The purpose of laying stress on the concepts of individual dignity and choice within the framework of liberty is of paramount importance. We may clearly and emphatically state that life and liberty sans dignity and choice is a phenomenon that allows hollowness to enter into the constitutional recognition of identity of a person. (emphasis supplied)

45. The choice of an individual is an inextricable part of dignity, for dignity cannot be thought of where there is erosion of choice. True it is, the same is bound by the principle of constitutional limitation but in the absence of such limitation, none, we mean, no one shall be permitted to interfere in the fructification of the said choice. If the right to express one's own choice is obstructed, it would be extremely difficult to think of dignity in its sanctified completeness. When two adults marry out of their volition, they choose their path; they consummate their relationship; they feel that it is their goal and they have the right to do so. And it can unequivocally be stated that they have the right and any infringement of the said right is a constitutional violation...

46. It has been argued on behalf of the "Khap Panchayats" that it is a misnomer to call them by such a name. The nomenclature is absolutely irrelevant. What is really significant is that the assembly of certain core groups meet, summon and forcefully ensure the presence of the couple and the family members and then adjudicate and impose punishment. Their further submission is that these panchayats are committed to the spreading of awareness of permissibility of inter-community and inter-caste marriages and they also tell the people at large how "Sapinda" and "Sagotra" marriages have no sanction of law. The propositions have been structured with immense craft and advanced with enormous zeal and enthusiasm but the fallacy behind the said proponements is easily decipherable. The argument is founded on the premise that there are certain statutory provisions and certain judgments of this Court which prescribe the prohibitory degrees for marriages and provide certain guidelines for maintaining the sex ratio and not giving any allowance for female foeticide that is a resultant effect of sex determination which is prohibited under the Pre-Conception and Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition on Sex Selection) Act, 1994 (for short 'PCPNDT Act') (See : Voluntary Health Association of Punjab v. Union of India and others12 and Voluntary Health Association of Punjab v. Union of India and others13)

47. The first argument deserves to be rejected without much discussion.

Suffice it to say, the same relates to the recognition of matrimonial status. If it is prohibited in law, law shall take note of it when the courts are approached. Similarly, PCPNDT Act is a complete code. That apart, the concern of this Court in spreading awareness to sustain sex ratio is not to go for sex determination and resultantly female foeticide. It has nothing to do with the institution of marriage." (emphasis supplied)

9. We are conscious that above observations were made in connection with "honour killings" but we are of the firm view that the said principle would apply in the present context too where a relationship of two matured individuals is sought to be jeopardized at the whim and caprice of a parent.

10. We find from para 46 and 47 of Shakti Vahini (supra) that even if a marriage is prohibited in law, same shall be taken note of only when the courts are approached for recognition of such marriage, which finds further corroboration in the case of NandaKumar vs. State of Kerala, (2018) 16 SCC 602 which after relying upon Shafin Jahan (supra) held that on attaining majority an individual is entitled to make his/her choice which is pivotal and cannot be infringed by anyone. The relevant paragraphs are quoted hereunder:-

"7. A neat submission which is made by the learned counsel for the appellants is that the High Court has adopted an approach which is not permissible in law by going into the validity of marriage. It is submitted that when Thushara is admittedly a major i.e., more than 18 years of age, she has right to live wherever she wants to or move as per her choice. As she is not a minor daughter of respondent No. 4, "custody" of Thushara could not be entrusted to him.

8. Learned counsel for the appellants is right in his submission. Even the counsel for the State did not dispute the aforesaid position in law and, in fact, supported this submission of the learned counsel for the appellants.....

12. The Court also emphasised due importance to the right of an adult person, which the Constitution accords to an adult person as under, (Shafin Jahan's case para 52)

"Choosing a faith is the substratum of individuality and sans it, the right of choice becomes a shadow. It has to be remembered that the realization of a right is more important than the conferment of the right. Such actualization indeed ostracises any kind of societal notoriety and keeps at bay the patriarchal supremacy. It is so because the individualistic faith and expression of choice are fundamental for the fructification of the right. Thus, we would like to call it indispensable preliminary condition."

11. Right to choose a partner irrespective of caste, creed or religion, is inhered under right to life and personal liberty, an integral part of the Fundamental Right under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. The Apex Court in KS Puttaswamy vs Union of India (2017) 10 SCC 1 while deciding the issue of right to privacy, held as under:-

298. Privacy of the individual is an essential aspect of dignity. Dignity has both an intrinsic and instrumental value. As an intrinsic value, human dignity is an entitlement or a constitutionally protected interest in itself. In its instrumental facet, dignity and freedom are inseparably inter-twined, each being a facilitative tool to achieve the other. The ability of the individual to protect a zone of privacy enables the realization of the full value of life and liberty. Liberty has a broader meaning of which privacy is a subset. All liberties may not be exercised in privacy. Yet others can be fulfilled only within a private space. Privacy enables the individual to retain the autonomy of the body and mind. The autonomy of the individual is the ability to make decisions on vital matters of concern to life. Privacy has not been couched as an independent fundamental right. But that does not detract from the constitutional protection afforded to it, once the true nature of privacy and its relationship with those fundamental rights which are expressly protected is understood. Privacy lies across the spectrum of protected freedoms. The guarantee of equality is a guarantee against arbitrary state action. It prevents the state from discriminating between individuals. The destruction by the state of a sanctified personal space whether of the body or of the mind is violative of the guarantee against arbitrary state action. Privacy of the body entitles an individual to the integrity of the physical aspects of personhood. The intersection between one's mental integrity and privacy entitles the individual to freedom of thought, the freedom to believe in what is right, and the freedom of self-determination. When these guarantees intersect with gender, they create a private space which protects all those elements which are crucial to gender identity. The family, marriage, procreation and sexual orientation are all integral to the dignity of the individual. Above all, the privacy of the individual recognises an inviolable right to determine how freedom shall be exercised. An individual may perceive that the best form of expression is to remain silent. Silence postulates a realm of privacy. An artist finds reflection of the soul in a creative endeavour. A writer expresses the outcome of a process of thought. A musician contemplates upon notes which musically lead to silence. The silence, which lies within, reflects on the ability to choose how to convey thoughts and ideas or interact with others. These are crucial aspects of personhood. The freedoms Under Article 19 can be fulfilled where the individual is entitled to decide upon his or her preferences. Read in conjunction with Article 21, liberty enables the individual to have a choice of preferences on various facets of life including what and how one will eat, the way one will dress, the faith one will espouse and a myriad other matters on which autonomy and self-determination require a choice to be made within the privacy of the mind. The constitutional right to the freedom of religion Under Article 25 has implicit within it the ability to choose a faith and the freedom to express or not express those choices to the world. These are some illustrations of the manner in which privacy facilitates freedom and is intrinsic to the exercise of liberty. The Constitution does not contain a separate Article telling us that privacy has been declared to be a fundamental right. Nor have we tagged the provisions of Part III with an alpha suffixed right of privacy: this is not an act of judicial redrafting. Dignity cannot exist without privacy. Both reside within the inalienable values of life, liberty and freedom which the Constitution has recognised. Privacy is the ultimate expression of the sanctity of the individual. It is a constitutional value which straddles across the spectrum of fundamental rights and protects for the individual a zone of choice and self-determination. (emphasis supplied)

299. Privacy represents the core of the human personality and recognises the ability of each individual to make choices and to take decisions governing matters intimate and personal. Yet, it is necessary to acknowledge that individuals live in communities and work in communities. Their personalities affect and, in turn are shaped by their social environment. The individual is not a hermit. The lives of individuals are as much a social phenomenon. In their interactions with others, individuals are constantly engaged in behavioural patterns and in relationships impacting on the rest of society. Equally, the life of the individual is being consistently shaped by cultural and social values imbibed from living in the community. (emphasis supplied)

323. Privacy includes at its core the preservation of personal intimacies, the sanctity of family life, marriage, procreation, the home and sexual orientation. Privacy also connotes a right to be left alone. Privacy safeguards individual autonomy and recognises the ability of the individual to control vital aspects of his or her life. Personal choices governing a way of life are intrinsic to privacy. Privacy protects heterogeneity and recognises the plurality and diversity of our culture. While the legitimate expectation of privacy may vary from the intimate zone to the private zone and from the private to the public arenas, it is important to underscore that privacy is not lost or surrendered merely because the individual is in a public place. Privacy attaches to the person since it is an essential facet of the dignity of the human being; (emphasis supplied)

12. We now propose to deal with the judgment passed by learned Single Judge of this Court in Noor Jahan (supra). Noor Jahan along with her alleged husband approached this Court for claiming protection as it was alleged that she had embraced Islam after renouncing her Hindu identity to contract a Nikah with her Muslim husband. There were four more petitions filed by married couples, wherein the identity of a lady in each case was analogous to that of Noor Jahan. The writ Court recorded the following statements of the ladies who appeared in person before the Court.

Statement of Petitioner No.1 (girl) in Writ C No. 58129 of 2014

13. We find from the judgement in Noor Jahan's case that no doubt the ladies in question could not authenticate their alleged conversion as they were unable to show the knowledge regarding the basic tenets of Islam, the writ court against the above background held that the alleged marriage was illegal as it was performed after a conversion which could not be justified in law.

14. We lest not forget that couples in Noor Jahan and other cognate petitions preferred a joint petition on the basis of alleged conversion of one of the partners. Once the alleged conversion was under clout, the Constitutional Court was obliged to ascertain the wish and desire of the girls as they were above the age of 18 years. To disregard the choice of a person who is of the age of majority would not only be antithetic to the freedom of choice of a grown up individual but would also be a threat to the concept of unity in diversity. An individual on attaining majority is statutorily conferred a right to choose a partner, which if denied would not only affect his/her human right but also his/her right to life and personal liberty, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. We say so for the reason that irrespective of the conversion being under clout, the mere fact that the couple was living together, the alleged relationship can very well be classified as a relationship in the nature of marriage distinct from the relationship arising out of marriage, in view of the provisions of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005.

15. The judgment in Priyanshi (supra) followed Noor Jahan (supra). None of these judgments dealt with the issue of life and liberty of two matured individuals in choosing a partner or their right to freedom of choice as to with whom they would like to live. We hold the judgments in Noor Jahan and Priyanshi as not laying good law.

16. We before parting wish to reiterate that we are quashing the FIR primarily on the ground that no offences are made out, as discussed above, as also the fact that two grown up individuals are before us, living together for over a year of their own free will and choice. The ultimate contention on behalf of the informant was that he be afforded visiting rights to meet his daughter. Once petitioner no. 4 has attained majority, then it is her choice, as to whom she would like to meet. We, however expect the daughter to extend all due courtseys and respect to her family.

17. We clarify that while deciding this petition, we have not commented upon the validity of alleged marriage/conversion.

18. In view of above discussion, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The F.I.R. dated 25.08.2019 registered as Case Crime No. 0199 of 2019, under Sections 363, 366, 352, 506 IPC and Section 7/8 POCSO Act, Police Station-Vishunpura, District Kushi Nagar as well as all consequential proceedings are hereby quashed.

4. Application U/s 482 No. 13797 of 2020

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Kaushal Jayendra Thaker, J. & Hon'ble Gautam Chowdhary, J.)

1. Heard Sri Kshitij Shailendra, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The accused is facing commission of offence u/s 498-A, 494, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 and 3/4 Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Marriage) Act, 2019, lodged as Case Crime No. 460 of 2020, at Police Station-Gursahaiganj, District Kannauj.

3. The petitioner, Mohd. Gufran @ Gufran, is present before this Court. Respondent No.4, Smt. Huma, who is wife of Gufran and daughter of Visiuddin, is also present in this Court.

4. At this stage it is stated by both that they want to bury their differences and as this is a petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India and as the parties belong to Muslim religion and as now they have accepted the talaq which would now be turned and termed to be a khula talaq as per the Muslim Personal Law (Shariat) Application Act, 1937 and as per the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act, 1986.

5. The petitioner faces investigation as the F.I.R. culminated into case crime No. 460 of 2020. The husband faces some offences which can be said to be in the realm of non-compoundable offences.

6. Learned counsels for the parties have requested the Court that we may show indulgence and put at end to this litigation.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the judgements of the Apex Court reported in Bitan Sengupta v. State of W.B., AIR 2018 SC (Supp) 1217, Kamlesh Kalra v. Shilpika Kalra & others, 2020 0 Supreme(SC) 605 and B.S. Joshi & Ors. v. State of Haryana & another, 2003 0 Supreme(SC) 332 and also on judgement of this High Court passed in Application U/s 482 No. 13797 of 2020.

8. We do not opine whether it was a pressure technique or whether it was a genuine complaint. The parties have undertaken not to indulge in any litigation against each other in future and, therefore, we feel it proper to rely on the recent judgement of the Apex Court reported in Bitan Sengupta (supra) and reliance is also placed on order of this High Court passed in application U/s 482 No. 13797 of 2020 (Shokeen and Ors. vs. State of U.P. & another).

9. The petition is allowed. The complaint is quashed and set aside.

10. We thank both the learned Advocates for their support in seeing that this petition is amicably settled and disposed of.

11. Though the State counsel has his own reservations but as it is a private dispute and it does not affect public domain or public policy of the State, he states that this may not be treated as precedent in future.

12. With these observations, the petition stands disposed of.

13. The joint affidavit is taken on record as we would not like to burden the Registry when the matter is over.

4. C/M S.N. Public School through its Manager Smt. Sumitra Vs St. of U.P. & ors., Writ Petition No.25735 (M/S) of 2020

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Sangeeta Chandra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Dileep Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha.

2. This petition has been filed challenging the order dated 08.12.2020 passed by the District Magistrate/ Collector, District Ayodhya and the order dated 26.08.2020 passed by the Tehsildar, Milkipur, District Ayodhya, by which proceedings under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code were finalized against the petitioner and he was found to have encroached upon the Gaon Sabha land for public utility, namely, Gata No.3065 min. ad-measuring 0.073 hectare situated in Village Kotia Tehsil Milkipur, District Ayodhya and has been asked to deposit Rs.6,20,50,000/- for unauthorized occupation and utilization of Gaon Sabha public utility land and also to pay Rs.5,000/-as execution expenses.

3. It is the case of the petitioner that the petitioner had bought adjoining land of Gata No.3068 ad-measuring 0.0126 hectare situated in the same village from its recorded tenure holder through a sale deed in 2007 and constructed Sri Ramnidhi Smriti Shiksha Niketan Madhyamik Vidyalaya over it. On the other side of the road between Gata No.3068 and Gata No.3065, is banjar land recorded in the name of Gaon Sabha. The allegation is that the petitioner has encroached upon 0.073 hectares.

4. It is the case of the petitioner that no survey of the area concerned was done by the Lekhpal and a false notice was issued to him under Section 67(1) of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as "the Code of 2006"), to which the petitioner submitted his objections. Because of his enmity with the Village Pradhan, however his objections were not considered even though he produced two witnesses in his favour and the Tehsildar Milkipur passed the order dated 26.08.2020 arbitrarily. The petitioner preferred an Appeal which Appeal has also been rejected by the District Collector on 08.12.2020.

5. It is the case of the petitioner that Gata No.3065 banjar land recorded in the name of Gaon Sabha is a huge Gata wherein patta has been given to several persons, and some of them have constructed their houses and others are doing farming over the said land. The petitioner alone has been singled out for taking action against on the alleged encroachment of such land.

6. It is also the case of the petitioner that the Village Pradhan was instrumental in getting the recognition of his institution cancelled for the Academic Session 2020 on the grounds of such encroachment on village land and the petitioner filed a Writ Petition No.32111 (M/S) of 2019, wherein this Court by way of an order dated 22.11.2019 has finally disposed of with a direction that till proceedings under Section 67 in Case No.201904230401652: Gram Sabha Vs. Ram Nidhi Vidyalaya, are concluded, the cancellation orders of the petitioner's recognition shall remain in abeyance.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that in pursuance of the order passed by the Tehsildar Milkipur, an execution notice has also been issued to him on 05.09.2020. It has also been argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner is imparting education to the children of local area and he is performing a public duty giving public utility services, and if the school building is demolished, great loss will occur to the petitioner as also to the public services for which he is serving.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon an order passed in Writ Petition No.25735 (M/S) of 2020:Committee of Management S.N. Public School through its Manager Smt. Sumitra Vs. State of U.P. and others, wherein this Court disposed of the petition on 04.01.2021 by observing that the petitioner's application for exchange under Section 101 of the Code having been rejected on 15.01.2020, the petitioner's Revision was pending before the Additional Commissioner, Ayodhya, and during the pendency of the said Revision, the proceedings under Section 67 of the Code were finalized leading to proceedings for his eviction from the land in question being undertaken. The Court observed that since the petitioner's application for exchange of land under Section 101 of the Code can be considered to be still pending during the pendency of the Revision, no action be taken in the matter. The orders passed by the Tehsildar Milkipur and the District Collector Ayodhya were kept in abeyance till the disposal of the Revision said to be pending before the Additional Commissioner Ayodhya.

9. The order of the Co-ordinate Bench on which reliance has been placed by learned counsel for the petitioner is clearly inapplicable in the case of the petitioner as there are no pleadings on record in the entire petition that the petitioner has made any application for exchange under Section 101 on which prior proceedings are underway.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Jagpal Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab and others; 2011 (11) SCC 396, has permitted exchange of land and regularization of unauthorized occupation of public utility land. The petitioner has placed reliance upon paragraphs 14 and 22 of the said judgment.

11. This Court has carefully perused the entire judgment which refers to several earlier binding precedents of Hon'ble Supreme Court clearly prohibiting all encroachment on public utility land, changing of its nature, exchange of said land and creating of bhumidhari rights thereon. It has referred to the judgment rendered in M.I. Builders (P) Ltd. Vs. Radhey Shyam Sahu; 1999 (6) SCC 464, and also the judgement rendered in Hinch Lal Tiwari Vs. Kamala Devi, AIR 2001 SC 3215, that public utility land must not be allotted to anybody for construction of houses or for any allied purpose. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further observed in paragraph-23 as follows:-

"23. Before parting with this case we give directions to all the State Governments in the country that they should prepare schemes for eviction of illegal/unauthorised occupants of the Gram Sabha/Gram Panchayat/poramboke/shamlat land and these must be restored to the Gram Sabha/Gram Panchayat for the common use of villagers of the village. For this purpose the Chief Secretaries of all State Governments/Union Territories in India are directed to do the needful, taking the help of other senior officers of the Governments. The said scheme should provide for the speedy eviction of such illegal occupant, after giving him a show-cause notice and a brief hearing. Long duration of such illegal occupation or huge expenditure in making constructions thereon or political connections must not be treated as a justification for condoning this illegal act or for regularising the illegal possession. Regularisation should only be permitted in exceptional cases e.g. where lease has been granted under some government notification to landless labourers or members of the Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes, or where there is already a school, dispensary or other public utility on the land."

12. It has also been submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that this Court has in a similar case set aside the huge cost/ damages imposed for encroachment upon public utility land/ Gaon Sabha land. He has referred to the judgment of Co-ordinate Bench in Writ Petition No.826 (Consolidation) of 2005; decided on 23.05.2017.

13. This Court has carefully perused the judgment of Co-ordinate Bench which arises out of the orders passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48(3) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, whereby the name of the writ petitioner Abdul Aziz was directed to be struck off in revenue record in respect of a plot of land ad-measuring two bigha situated in Village Kushmana, Pargana Haveli Avadh, Tehsil Sadar, District Faizabad and the name of Gaon Sabha was directed to be recorded in such land.

14. It is apparent from a perusal of the order passed by the Co-ordinate Bench that the Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48(3) of the Consolidation of Holdings Act had initially found that the name of the petitioner over the land in question had been recorded as Asami by playing fraud and forgery in the khatauni of 1376-1378 fasli. The said order was challenged by the writ petitioner in Writ Petition No.689 (Consolidation) of 1999, which was allowed on 23.12.1999 by the Court and the matter was remitted to the Deputy Director of Consolidation for fresh consideration.

15. The Deputy Director of Consolidation in his order dated 05.03.2001 maintained his earlier order and directed the land to be recorded as Banjar land in the name of the Gaon Sabha. The writ petitioner challenged the order dated 05.03.2001 in Writ Petition No.610 (Consolidation) of 2001, which was allowed by this Court on 26.04.2005 directing the Deputy Director of Consolidation to decide the matter afresh. In pursuance of such order passed by this Court, the impugned order in the writ petition was passed. The Court after considering the entire facts of the case came to the conclusion that lease had been granted to the petitioner under Section 133 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act but under Section 132 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, no bhimdhari rights could have been created over such land reserved for public utility. The Court observed that there was no law, including provisions contained in U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, which conferred any bhumidhar rights to the lease holder who had been granted Asami lease over land mentioned in Section 132. The Court also observed that even if the case of the writ petitioner therein that he was Sirdar under Section 134 whose rights have matured was taken into account, the fact remained that the writ petitioner could not produce any admissible evidence to show that he was ever permitted to pay twenty times of the land revenue and his possession as Sirdar regularised. He continued to remain a Sirdar if the lease, if any, that was granted to him in 1966 was taken into account.

The Court also observed that the Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48 could certainly pass the order impugned in the petition in view of the mandate of Section 11 (C) of the Act. However, the Court observed that even though the petitioner would be treated as illegal trespasser, proceedings under Section 122 (B) of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act and Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code could be initiated against him, and therefore, just by striking off the name of the petitioner from the revenue records under Section 48(3), huge costs could not be imposed upon him by the Deputy Director of Consolidation as damages for being in possession of the land of the Gaon Sabha since 1966.

16. It is evident from the observations made hereinabove with regard to the judgment and order dated 23.05.2017 that the case of the petitioner cannot in any way be said to be similar to that of the writ petitioner Abdul Aziz of the aforecited judgment.

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the Government Order No.745/ Ek- 1- 2016 -20 (5)/2016 issued by the Principal Secretary Revenue, with regard to changing of nature of land reserved in Gram Sabha and in local authorities for "public purpose".

18. From a perusal of the said Government Order, it is apparent that "public purpose" has been defined to have the same meaning as given in the Land Acquisition Act and it gave power to the State Government to change the nature of land reserved for public utility, for any other "public purpose" on specific recommendation being made in this regard by the District Magistrate and in unavoidable circumstances and in exceptional cases. The conditions for change in nature of land of public utility have been mentioned in paragraph-4 of the said Government Order. In so far as the change in the nature of public utility land for the private purpose is concerned, the proceedings under Section 101 for exchange of land could also be considered by the State Government, if specific proposal in this regard is sent with detailed reasons by the District Magistrate with 25% of the Circle Rate having been deposited by the applicant for consideration of the application for change in user.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon a Government Order No.11/2020/689/Ek-1-2020-20(5)/2016 dated 06.07.2020, wherein the Government Order dated 03.06.2016 has been amended to the extent that the power of permitting of exchange under Section 101 can now be exercised by the Collector in certain cases where the cost of the land did not exceed Rs.40 lakhs and in all other cases has been given to the Additional Commissioner of the Division.

20. The petitioner has not filed any application in pursuance of the Government Order dated 03.06.2016 or 06.07.2020.

21. This Court has gone through the orders impugned in the petition. It finds therein that the Tehsildar/ Assistant Collector, Milkipur, Ayodhya, by means of a detailed order has referred to the encroachment carried out by the petitioner on Gaon Sabha land. On survey, it was found that the petitioner has encroached a part of Gata No.3065 ad-measuring 0.073 hectare enclosing it within his boundary wall and put up a gate and constructed toilets therein. The petitioner had been issued notice under Section 67(1) of the Code to which the petitioner had sought time to submit the reply in his letter dated 10.05.2019 and actually submitted reply on 14.08.2020.

In the said reply the petitioner said that he has not encroached upon pashuchar land and the Area Lekhpal had given a false report. The Gaon Sabha through its counsel had argued that the petitioner had encroached upon pashuchar land. The Lekhpal in his evidence had also supported the case of the Gaon Sabha. The petitioner had disputed the value of the land that was calculated in the notice sent to him and also the proposed damages of Rs.6,20,00,000/- and odd. The petitioner had also disputed the evidence of the Lekhpal saying that he did not belong to the area in question and referred to certain orders passed by this Court, namely, Satendra Vs. Sub Divisional Magistrate/ Assistant Collector, Gautam Buddh Nagar, and Jagpati Vs. Chief Revenue Officer Allahabad and others, to substantiate his claim.

22. The Tehsildar Milkipur considered each and every objection made by the petitioner including the objection that four-five other persons had also constructed their houses over plot no.3065 on the basis of patta granted to them by the Gaon Sabha. After referring to C.H. Form 45 wherein Khata No.1260, land of Gata No.3065 ad-measuring 13-15-16 was recorded as pashuchar bhumi, the respondent no.4 passed the order impugned, after referring also to the revenue and consolidation officials joint report dated 11.01.2019, that the petitioner was found to have encroached upon 0.073 hectare of the said land reserved as pashuchar bhumi.

23. The Appellate Court i.e. the court of the Collector Ayodhya also considered the petitioner's Appeal wherein the petitioner had stated that no survey of the land had been carried out and no opportunity was given to the petitioner at the time of joint inspection. It was found from the record that the petitioner had indeed encroached 0.073 hectare of land of Gata No.3065 reserved as pashuchar bhumi and this fact came to the notice of the authorities on survey being carried out.

24. This Court finds no factual or legal infirmity in the orders impugned. The observations made in the case of Jagpal Singh (supra) for regularization of unauthorized encroachments are only applicable in exceptional cases. The petitioner has not shown his case to be exceptional.

25. For the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner and the Government Orders, it would suffice to observe that it is evident from the observations made hereinabove that the same are inapplicable in the case of the petitioner.

26. The petitioner's grievance is also that several other persons have encroached upon the Gaon Sabha land and they have not been proceeded against. It is settled law that Article 14 is not a negative concept and there can be no parity claimed in illegality.

27. The writ petition stands dismissed.

List of Cases cited: -

1. Lok Prahari Vs. St. of U.P. & ors.; Writ Petition No. 657 of 2004 dated 01.08.2016

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J. & Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Shri Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel for petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for State.

2. This is a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India filed by the Indian National Trade Union Congress which is a Trade Union registered under the Trade Unions Act, 1926.

3. The petitioner claims that in 1996 an accommodation was allotted to it but subsequently that was changed to House No. 155 Vidhayak Niwas- 2, New Darul Safa, District- Lucknow, in 2014.

4. On being asked as to under which provision of law the said allotment was made we could not be informed of any provision of law under which such allotment had been made. Even the writ petition does not disclose as to under which provision of law such allotment was made.

5. In fact on 19.08.2016 itself petitioner was informed about cancellation of its allotment in view of pronouncement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Lok Prahari Vs. State of U.P. and Ors.; Writ Petition No. 657 of 2004 dated 01.08.2016 and was asked not only to vacate the premises but pay arrears of rent also. This order was not put to challenge, instead, as informed by learned counsel for petitioner, as the allotment was to be renewed every year/ or re-allotment was to be made, therefore, under Section 6(2) of the Allotment of Houses under Control of the Estate Department Act, 2016 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act, 2016') the petitioner applied for renewal vide application dated 09.12.2016, though, the application at page 55 does not refer to this provision. It is this application which was rejected on 01.11.2017. The said order was never put to challenge prior to filing of this writ petition. In fact, on 13.11.2020 when the petitioner was asked to vacate the premises, it is only then, that it has approached this Court not only challenging the order dated 13.11.2020 but also the order dated 01.11.2017, albeit, belatedly. No reason has been given much less a plausible one for the delay in approaching the Court challenging the order dated 01.11.2017.

6. By the recent order dated 13.11.2020, referring to earlier orders dated 19.08.2016, 05.12.2016 and 01.11.2017, the petitioner has been asked to deposit arrears of rent and vacate the premises. By the order dated 01.11.2017 petitioner's application for renewal of allotment/re-allotment had been rejected on the ground it is not a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860. Much emphasis was laid by learned counsel for petitioner that this reasoning was not tenable in the facts of the case.

7. Learned counsel for petitioner laid great emphasis on an order dated 31.01.2020 which is nothing but an internal correspondence with the Principal Secretary, Labour Department that the term 'Employees Association' is used in Section 2-L of the Act, 2016 refers to such Employees Association which had been recognized by the State Government and whose head quarters are at Lucknow. The said correspondence further goes on to say that it is being examined as to whether Indian National Trade Union Congress as an employees association, is recognized by the State Government or not. We categorically asked the learned counsel for petitioner as to whether petitioner is an employees association and also as to whether it is recognized by the State Government, as, only such associations are covered for allotment of premises under the Act, 2016, learned counsel responded by contending that the petitioner is a Trade Union under the Trade Unions Act, but could not show any recognition by the State Government, though, he claimed benefit of Section 2(l) of the Act, 2016 on the ground that it was an 'employees association'.

8. In the writ petition also it has been asserted that it is an employees association recognized by the State Government but without any proof being annexed with it.

9. We further asked him as to whether this union comprises of employees of the State Government or public undertakings controlled by it, he stated that it comprised of workmen. On the other question regarding its recognition, as already stated, he could not place before the Court any document to show that petitioner was recognized by the State Government.

10. We pointed out to learned counsel for petitioner Rules known as Uttar Pradesh (Recognition of Service Associations) Rules, 1979 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules, 1979') which have been made by the State Government for recognition of employees associations. These Rules are of 1979 and are still in force. Government Servant is defined in Rule 2-(b) of Rules, 1979 to mean- any person appointed by the Government to any civil service or post in connection with the affairs of the State and to whom all or any of the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Government Servants Conduct Rules, 1956 apply. Rule 5 of the said Rules mentions the conditions for recognition of associations under the said Rules. As per Clause-(c) of Rule 5- membership of an Association is required to be restricted to a district category of serving Government Employees (excluding retired) and it is required to represent more than 50% of the total strength of that particular category. Clause-(e) of Rule 5 further goes on to say that it is necessary that no person, who is not serving Government servant is connected with the affairs of the Association in order to be eligible for recognition under the said Rules. Similarly, Rule 6 speaks of conditions for recognition of a Federation and Clause-(c) thereof also requires the Federation to be comprised of recognized associations of the same category of Government employees and it should not be multi-functional or multi-professional. Rule 7 deals with condition of recognition of Confederation. Clause-(b) thereof also mentions that the Confederation should be formed primarily with the object of promoting harmonious relations amongst the wider group of Government employees and promoting their common service and interest.

11. On a perusal of aforesaid Rules it is evident that the association which is to be recognized thereunder has to be of serving Government employees. The aforesaid Rules 5, 6 and 7 have to be read in consonance with Rule 2(b) of Rules, 1979 and not otherwise.

12. Now, when we come back to Act, 2016 under which renewal was sought by petitioner i.e. under Section 6(2) thereof, firstly, we find that the said Act was enacted by the State Legislature to regulate the allotment of houses under the Control of Estate Department of Government to the employees and Officers of the State Government, employees associations, political parties etc. Section 2(a) defines 'Allotment' to mean to authorise a person to occupy a house under the provisions of this Act. Section 2 (h) defines "Trust", which the petitioner is not. Section 2(i) defines "Society", which the petitioner is not. A Trust which is registered under the Trust

Act. The petitioner is also not a political party, nor a journalist.

13. The question is, is it an 'employees association' as defined in Section 2(l) of the Act, 2016 which means an Employees Association which is recognized by the State Government and the head quarter of which is at Lucknow. Now, Shri Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel for petitioner contends that the employees association does not necessarily have to be an association of employees of the State Government. The point is, if the employees association referred in Section 2(l), which is to be recognized by the State Government, is not one comprising of employees of State Government then why recognition by the State Government is required. We may in this regard refer to Rule 3 of the Allotment of Houses under Control of the Estate Department Rules, 2016 (hereinafter referred to 'the Rules, 2016') made under the Act, 2016 which says that a person eligible for allotment under Section 4 of the Act, 2016 shall make an application to the Estate Officer. Further, as per Rule 5(viii) of the Rules, 2016 employees associations which are recognized by the State Government with its headquarters at Lucknow, and are working for the welfare of Uttar Pradesh employees may be allotted a house for a period of two years. This Rule is not under challenge. Moreover, we have already referred to Rules, 1979 under which the State Government does recognize the employees associations of serving government employees. The property in question, allotment or re-allotment of which is sought, is that of the Estate Department of the Government. A Trade Union is registered under a Central enactment i.e. the Act, 1926 by the Registrar of Trade Union who is a central government employee.

14. Irrespective of this, there is nothing on record to show that petitioner is recognized by the State Government as an employee association so as to be covered under Section 2(l) read with Section 4 and 6(2) of the Act, 2016.

15. Now, it is said that the application for allotment was made under Section 6(2) which applies to applicants other than the applicants mentioned in Sub-Section 1 of Section 6 of the Act, 2016. Herein also petitioner does not fall in any category. Type- 1 houses are reserved for Group- 'D' employees working under the State Government. Type- 2 is reserved for Group- 'C' non gazetted employees working under the State Government. Type- 3 is reserved for Group -'C' gazetted employees working under the State Government. The petitioner does not fall in these categories. Type- 4 is reserved for Group- 'B' officers working under the State Government/ Officers of judicial serves, journalist, society, recognized association. Now, Shri Ratnesh Chandra, learned counsel for petitioner says that petitioner is a recognized association, however, he is not able to show any order of the State Government by which it may have been recognized nor that it falls within the definition of Section 2(l). Type- 5, 6 and 7 houses referred in the Act, 2016 are reserved for other categories mentioned in Section 4 and it is not the case of petitioner that it falls in any of the categories mentioned therein.

16. Now, one can understand if the petitioner has a grievance as to why, if a Trust, Society and a Journalist can be brought within the ambit of the Act, 2016, the petitioner, which is a Trade Union, should not be so brought under the purview of the Act but this would require a challenge either to the vires of the Act, 2016 or seeking of such other appropriate relief as may be permissible in law, but no renewal or allotment could have been sought by petitioner under the Act, 2016 in the first place, therefore, even if the reason given in the impugned order dated 01.11.2017, challenge to which is in any case highly belated, is that the petitioner is not a society, that itself does not persuade this Court to interfere in the matter by quashing the said order unless the petitioner was able to satisfy the Court that it was covered by the Act, 2016, about which we are not satisfied at all.

17. As regards contention of learned counsel for petitioner that the State Government is still seized with the matter as to whether petitioner qualifies as an employees association recognized by the State Government or not in view of a letter dated 31.01.2020, firstly, it is an internal correspondence. Secondly, the order dated 13.11.2020 has been passed 10 months thereafter, therefore, obviously the matter is no longer under consideration by the State Government. Thirdly, whether the petitioner is covered by the Act, 2016 or not, is a legal issue to be decided and the Courts are best suited to decide the said issue with the assistance of the counsel, which has been ably provided by Shri Ratnesh Chandra, yet, inspite of it we have not been persuaded to come to the conclusion that petitioner is covered by the Act, 2016 for the reasons already mentioned hereinabove.

18. The contention of Shri Chandra that neither the Act nor the Rules made thereunder contain modalities for recognition, therefore, this can not be a ground for ousting the petitioner from its purview is also not acceptable in view of Rules 1979 referred above as also Rule 5(viii) of the Rules, 2016 made under the Act, 2016 and Section 2(l) of the Act, 2016. Even if this argument is accepted for the sake of discussion, it does not help the petitioner, as he claims to fall in the category of employees association which has to be recognized by the State Government under Section 2(l) and does not claim to fall in any other category to which the Act 2016 applies. No recognition of the petitioner by the State Government has been produced by it before us.

19. A Trade Union registered under the Act, 1926 is not eligible for allotment under the Act, 2016 unless it satisfies the conditions of Section 2(l), Section 4 of the Act, 2016 read with Rule 5(viii) of the Rules, 2016. As already stated petitioner could have a grievance of discrimination if otherwise tenable in law but it is not possible to come to the conclusion that it has a right of allotment, re-allotment or renewal of allotment under the Act, 2016 as it stands without a challenge to its vires.

20. We appreciate the efforts made by Shri Ratnesh Chandra but in view of the admitted factual position before us and the express provision of law we find ourselves unable to accede his arguments nor accept the same. We do not find any reason to interfere with the impugned orders.

21. We accordingly dismiss the writ petition.

Civil Law- Petitioner appointed as lekhpal on temporary basis-regularized on 20.03.1000 in persuance to and order of Hon'ble High Court-said W.P. dismissed for want of prosecution-Petitioner got dismissed-Petitioner filed recall order-rejected-Recall application treated as Review Application by single judge.

Special Appeal allowed. (E-7)

List of Cases cited:-

1. Asit Kumar Kar Vs St. of W.B. & ors.: (2009) 2 SCC 703

2.Vishnu Agarwal Vs St. of U.P. & anr.: (2011) 14 SCC 813

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. The present Special Appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 15.04.2019 passed in Writ A No. 16860 of 1991 (Naunihal Haider Vs. Assistant Settlement Officer, Consolidation, Badaun and others) whereby a learned Single Judge has rejected an application for recall of order dated 26.10.2017.

2. Heard Sri Hari Shankar Chaurasia, Advocate holding brief of Sri Hari Bhawan Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner-appellant and Sri A.K. Goel, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and have perused the record.

3. The present case has a long and old background. The petitioner-appellant was initially appointed on the post of Lekhpal on temporary basis in the year 1987. His engagement was extended from time to time and ultimately the services of the petitioner-appellant were dispensed with in the year 1991.

4. Aggrieved by the order dated 01.03.1991 by which the services of the petitioner-appellant were dispensed with, he preferred a Writ A No. 16860 of 1991 before this Court with the following prayers:

"It is therefore most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to issue

A. A writ of Certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 1.05.1991 (Annexure 4) passed by opposite party no.1.

B. a writ of Mandamus commanding the opposite parties not to give effect to and not to implement the impugned order and not to interfere in petitioner's functioning as Lekhpal, village Deptori, Tehsil Bisauli, District Budaun.

C. Any other suitable writ, direction or order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper be issued in favour of the petitioner.

D. Costs of the writ petition be awarded to the petitioner."

5. In the said writ petition an interim order was passed in favour of the petitioner-appellant on 03.06.1991. The services of the petitioner-appellant were regularized on 20.03.1999 with a condition that the same shall be subject to the final order passed in the said writ petition. The said writ petition was dismissed for non prosecution on 14.11.2008. Subsequent to the dismissal of the writ petition, the services of the petitioner were terminated on 15.01.2014. A Civil Misc. Restoration Application No. 652 of 2014 along with the Delay Condonation Application No. 651 of 2014 was filed by the petitioner-appellant for the restoration of the writ petition which was allowed vide order dated 08.12.2016 passed by a learned Single Judge. Even, the delay condonation application was allowed. The writ petition was directed to be restored to its original number and was directed to be listed before the appropriate Court after two weeks.

6. The writ petition then remained pending for quite sometime and then was listed on 26.10.2017 wherein on the statement of learned counsel appearing for the petitioner-appellant that the same has rendered infructuous by efflux of time, and subsequent developments, the same was dismissed accordingly. The order dated 26.10.2017 is quoted herein-below:

"1. Sri R.P.S. Chauhan, learned counsel for petitioner, at the outset stated that by efflux of time and in view of the subsequent events, this matter has rendered infructuous.

2. Dismissed accordingly.

3. Interim order, if any, stands vacated. "

7. In the meantime, since the services of the petitioner-appellant were terminated on 15.01.2014 he preferred another writ petition before this Court numbered as Writ A No. 8181 of 2018 (Naunihal Haider Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and 5 others) which was dismissed with an observation by a learned Single Judge that the remedy to the petitioner-appellant lay in moving appropriate application in his earlier petition and to seek appropriate protection therein. The order dated 29.03.2018 is quoted herein below:

"Petitioner was initially appointed on the post of Lekhpal on temporary basis in 1987. Such engagement was extended from time to time, and ultimately the services of petitioner were dispensed with in 1991. Petitioner aggrieved by such order approached this Court by filing Writ Petition No.16860 of 1991, in which an interim order came to be passed in favour of the petitioner on 3rd June, 1991. Petitioner continued to work and his services were also regularized on 20th March, 1999. The regularization order, however, clearly provided that petitioner's regularization would be subjected to the order to be passed in Writ Petition No.16860 of 1991. This petition was dismissed in default on 14.11.2008. Consequently, the services of petitioner were terminated on 15.1.2014. It is this order of 15.1.2014, which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

Contention is that after the petitioner came to know of dismissal of the writ petition in default, he moved an application for restoration, which was allowed on 8th December, 2016. The writ petition, thereafter, was dismissed on 26.10.2017, upon the statement of the counsel for the petitioner that by efflux of time the writ petition has been rendered infructuous. The order dated 26.10.2017 passed in Writ Petition No.16860 of 1991 reads as under:-

"1. Sri R.P.S. Chauhan, learned counsel for petitioner, at the outset stated that by efflux of time and in view of the subsequent events, this matter has rendered infructuous.

2. Dismissed accordingly.

3. Interim order, if any, stands vacated."

Petitioner thereafter has made certain representations for his reinstatement in service, and as no orders have been passed, he has approached this Court. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that once petitioner's services have been regularized and he was about to retire, the respondents would not be justified in terminating his services, in the manner stated. It is also stated that petitioner is entitled to retiral benefits, and in respect of such grievance a fresh cause has arisen.

Petition is opposed by the learned Standing Counsel.

Admittedly petitioner was engaged on temporary basis and his services were terminated in 1991. Petitioner's continuation thereafter was under an interim order. The order of regularization passed in favour of the petitioner also made it clear that the same shall be subject to the final outcome of the writ petition. Admittedly petition of 1991 was initially dismissed in default, and thereafter has been dismissed on 26.10.2017. Once that be so, the petitioner can have no grievance against the order of the respondents, inasmuch as his continuance was under the interim order, and there was no independent right created in favour of the petitioner to continue. The order of regularization is also specific in that regard. The writ petition apparently was dismissed on the statement of the counsel that petition had been rendered infructuous due to efflux of time and on account of subsequent events. No direction, therefore, can be issued to the respondents to reinstate the petitioner in service. Remedy of the petitioner lay in moving appropriate application in his earlier petition and to seek appropriate protection therein.

Subject to the observations made above, this writ petition is dismissed "

8. Consequent to the dismissal of the writ petition on 29.03.2018, the petitioner-appellant filed recall/restoration application which was numbered as Civil Misc. Recall/Restoration Application No. 5 of 2018 along with a Civil Misc. Delay condonation Application No. 4 of 2018. The prayer in the said recall/restoration application is quoted herein-below:

"It is therefore most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to recall the order dated 26.10.2017 passed by this Hon'ble Court in the instant writ petition and to restore the same to its original number after hearing the case on merit so justice be done to the applicant."

9. The said recall/restoration application has been decided by the learned Single Judge vide order dated 15.04.2019 which is impugned herein by which the said application has been rejected.

10. The learned Single Judge has in the impugned judgment and order in para 3 stated that the petitioner-appellant has filed a recall/restoration application and has stated as follows:

"3. The reason given for filing of this recall/restoration application is that subsequently, petitioner filed another Writ Petition No. 8181 of 2018 which was dismissed on 29.03.2018."

11. Subsequently, in paragraph 5 of the impugned judgment and order, the learned Single Judge has stated that the review application has been filed by another counsel. Para 5 of the same is quoted herein-below:

"5. In the present writ petition, Review Application has been filed by another counsel without giving any cogent reason as to why review petitioner was not filed by same counsel."

12. The learned Single Judge then takes up two issues in the impugned judgment and order, the first being that the review petition ought to have been filed by the same counsel and not by a new counsel and the second aspect of the matter that the grounds taken in the review petition amounts to almost rehearing of the matter and states that some of the arguments advanced are such as were not raised earlier. Paragraphs 6 and 7 of the impugned judgment and order referring to the first objection and the second aspect of the matter are quoted herein-below:

"6. First objection before review-applicants is that review petition ought to have been filed by same counsel and not by a new counsel. In T.N. Electricity Board Vs. N. Raju Reddiar AIR 1997 SC 1005, Apex Court has deprecated the practice of arguing matter by one counsel and review by another counsel and has observed that review application ought to have been filed by same counsel who has argued matter.

7. Now the second aspect is that the grounds taken in review petition amounts to almost rehearing of matter and some of arguments advanced are such as were not raised earlier. A review petition cannot be made as an opportunity to re-argue the matter."

13. The learned Single Judge has proceeded to give the reasoning why the review application is not maintainable. Certain case laws have been quoted which refer to the issue of review. In para 13, the learned Single Judge has stated that review is not an appeal in disguise. He proceeds to rely upon another judgment of the Apex Court as to when can power of review be exercised. Para 13 of the impugned judgment and order is quoted herein-below;

"13. Thus, Review is not an appeal in disguise. Rehearing of the matter is impermissible in the garb of review. It is an exception to the general rule that once a judgment is signed or pronounced, it should not be altered. In Lily Thomas Vs. Union of India AIR 2000 SC 1650, the Court said that power of review can be exercised for correction of a mistake and not to substitute a new. Such powers can be exercised within limits of the statute dealing with the exercise of power. The aforesaid view is reiterated in Inderchand Jain Vs. Motilal (2009) 4 SCC 665."

14. Then, lastly the said impugned judgment and order concludes in para 15 which is quoted herein-below:

"15. In view thereof, review application is rejected."

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner-appellant argued that the applicant for recall/restoration was filed giving adequate reasons which was treated as an application for review and the learned Single Judge rejected it. It is further argued that the learned Single Judge misread an application for recall/restoration and proceeded to decide it as review application. It is argued that the judgment and order is totally based on non-existent fact and deserves to be set aside.

16. Sri A.K. Goel, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel though opposed the present special appeal but could not dispute the fact that the application as filed was an application for recall of the order dated 26.10.2017 and not a review application.

17. There is a marked difference between "recall" and "review." As is apparent from the application titled as Civil Misc. recall/restoration application the same had been filed with a prayer to recall the order dated 26.10.2017 and to restore the writ petition to its original number. There is no prayer in the said application to review the order passed in the writ petition. Even the writ petition was dismissed on the ground that it has become infructuous by efflux of time and subsequent events but not on merits.

18. The Apex Court in the case of Asit Kumar Kar Vs. State of West Bengal and others : (2009) 2 SCC 703 has held that there is a difference between recall and review and has held as under:

"6. There is a distinction between a petition under Article 32, a review petition and a recall petition. While in a review petition the Court considers on merits where there is an error apparent on the face of the record, in a recall petition the Court does not go into the merits but simply recalls an order which was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to an affected party."

19. The said judgment of Asit Kumar Kar (supra) has been followed in the judgment of Vishnu Agarwal Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another : (2011) 14 SCC 813.

20. The learned Single Judge completely fell in error while deciding the application for recall/restoration application by treating it as an application for review. Prayer made in the said recall/restoration application is as has been quoted above just plain and simple for recalling of the order by which the petition was dismissed as infructuous and further the prayer that the writ petition be restored to its original number. There is no prayer whatsoever in the said application that the order be reviewed. Even further, the order sought to be recalled is not a judgment as the merits of the matter have not been touched at all. The petition was dismissed without going into the merits of the matter and without deciding the issues as raised therein. The application for recall and restoration is of an order which did not decide any issue raised between the parties in the writ petition.

21. If a party whose counsel under some misconception made a prayer for dismissing the writ petition as infructuous by efflux of time and by some subsequent events does not mean that the petition has been decided on merits. As a matter of fact, a rectification of the said order was prayed by means of the application for recall/restoration. Rectification of an order stems from the fundamental principle that justice is above all. The writ petition of the petitioner continued to be pending before this Court from the year 1991 to 26.10.2017 for a good period of 26 years with an order in favour of the petitioner on the strength of which he continued to remain in service till 15.01.2014 on which date his services were terminated as the said writ petition was dismissed for non prosecution on 14.11.2008. Even thereafter, the recall application filed by the petitioner-appellant along with the delay condonation application were allowed vide order dated 08.12.2016 and the writ petition was directed to be restored to its original number.

22. Thus, looking to the facts and circumstances of the matter, the learned Single Judge totally fell in error in treating the application for recall/restoration as an application for review and thereby dismissing the same as such.

23. The present special appeal is thus allowed.

24. The impugned judgment and order dated 15.04.2019 is set aside. The review/recall Application No. 5 of 2018 dated 14.07.2018 along with the Delay Condonation Application No. 4 of 2018 are allowed. The writ petition is restored to its original number.

25. The office shall forthwith list the Writ A No. 16860 of 1991 (Naunihal Hairder Vs. Assistant Settlement Officer, Consolidation, Budaun and others) before the appropriate Bench for its hearing and disposal which is expected to be done as expeditiously as possible.

26. No order as to cost.

1. Bhagirathi Jena Vs Board of Directors, O.S.F.C. & ors., (1999) 3 SCC 666

2.Chandra Prakash Verma Vs Chairman, U.P. Govt. Employees Welfare Corpn. & anr., [2018 (36) LCD 82],

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri B.R. Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner. Notice for opposite party no.1 has been accepted by the office of learned CSC.

2. Sri Anurag Vikram has filed Vakalatnama on behalf of opposite party no.2, the same is taken on record.

3. By means of this petition, the petitioner has assailed the punishment order dated 11.9.2020 (Annexure No.1), orders dated 13.10.2020 and 23.12.2020 (Annexures No.2 & 3). By means of order dated 23.12.2020, recovery to the tune of Rs.50,12,631.59 has been directed. The petitioner has also assailed the order dated 8.7.2020 whereby opposite party no.2 has denied payment of due salary of the petitioner from January, 2014 to December, 2019.

4. The precise submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner retired from service on 31.12.2019 after attaining the age of superannuation. Prior to his retirement, charge sheet dated 26.10.2019 has been served upon the petitioner. Till retirement of the petitioner, enquiry could not be concluded. However, after nine months from the retirement, the impugned order dated 11.9.2020 has been issued whereby recovery for an amount of Rs.36,31,735.25 has been directed by opposite party no.2 from the retiral dues of the petitioner. Subsequent impugned orders dated 13.10.2020 and 23.12.2020 have been issued for making recovery to the tune of Rs.50,12,631.59.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn attention of this Court towards the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Bhagirathi Jena v. Board of Directors, O.S.F.C. and others, (1999) 3 SCC 666, referring paras 6 & 7, which are as under:-

"6. It will be noticed from the abovesaid regulations that no specific provision was made for deducting any amount from the provident fund consequent to any misconduct determined in the departmental enquiry nor was any provision made for continuance of the departmental enquiry after superannuation.

7. In view of the absence of such provision in the abovesaid regulations, it must be held that the Corporation had no legal authority to make any reduction in the retiral benefits of the appellant. There is also no provision for conducting a disciplinary enquiry after retirement of the appellant and nor any provision stating that in case misconduct is established, a deduction could be made from retiral benefits. Once the appellant had retired from service on 30-6-1995, there was no authority vested in the Corporation for continuing the departmental enquiry even for the purpose of imposing any reduction in the retiral benefits payable to the appellant. In the absence of such an authority, it must be held that the enquiry had lapsed and the appellant was entitled to full retiral benefits on retirement."

6. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held that if there are no provision, rules or regulation authorizing the competent authority to make deduction of any amount or to punish employee after retirement on any of the misconduct, no such order can be passed after the retirement of the employee. Sri B.R. Singh has submitted that in the present case, admittedly, the impugned orders have been issued after retirement of the petitioner as the petitioner retired from service on 31.12.2019 whereas the punishment orders/ recovery orders have been passed on 11.9.2020, 13.10.2020 and 23.12.2020. Therefore, in view of the dictum of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Bhagirathi Jena (supra), those impugned orders are not sustainable in the eyes of law.

7. He has also drawn attention of this Court towards the decision of this Court in re; Chandra Prakash Verma Vs. Chairman, U.P. Govt. Employees Welfare Corpn. and another, [2018 (36) LCD 82], whereby the Division Bench, while dealing the identical issue, has referred the dictum of Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Bhagirathi Jena (supra) and allowed the writ petition after quashing the charge sheet.

8. Therefore, Sri B.R. Singh has submitted that he is raising the legal ground at the admission stage by submitting that when there are no rules with the opposite parties to punish the employee after his/ her retirement, the impugned orders passed against the petitioner after his retirement are illegal and non-est in the eyes of law, therefore, the writ petition may be decided at the admission stage.

9. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has, however, submitted that serious anomalies have been noticed by the opposite party against the petitioner, therefore, charge sheet has been issued prior to two months from the retirement of the petitioner but such enquiry could not be concluded till retirement of the petitioner. He has further submitted that so far as the relevant rules/ regulation authorizing the opposite party to continue the departmental enquiry after retirement of the petitioner, he has fairly submitted that by now, there are no such provision.

10. Considering the aforesaid submission of learned counsel for the respective parties, I am also of the considered opinion that if there is no specific provision for passing the impugned orders after retirement of an employee and no rules or regulation have yet been adopted by the Corporation for passing orders against its employee after his retirement, the impugned orders dated 11.9.2020, 13.10.2020, 23.12.2020 & 8.7.2020 (Annexures No.1, 2, 3 & 4) are nullity in the eyes of law as the same have been issued without jurisdiction. The law is trite that unless and until the authority concerned has got any colour of authority to pass any punitive order/ punishment order, no order can be passed and if such order is passed, the same shall not sustain in the eyes of law. Therefore, the present case is not being tested on further merits but on the aforesaid legal point, the present writ petition is liable to be allowed.

11. Accordingly, the impugned orders dated 11.9.2020, 13.10.2020, 23.12.2020 and 8.7.2020 (Annexure No.1 to 4) are hereby quashed being illegal, arbitrary and without jurisdiction. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the opposite parties to make payment of all admissible retiral dues of the petitioner including arrears of salary.

12. Since learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has informed the Court that opposite party no.2 is in serious financial crunch, therefore, it may be directed that the aforesaid dues be paid in six equal quarterly installments.

13. Therefore, bonafide submission of learned counsel for opposite party no.2 is worth considerable. Therefore, the opposite parties are directed to make payment of aforesaid dues to the petitioner in six equal quarterly installments. Payment of first installment shall be given to the petitioner within a month.

14. The writ petition is accordingly allowed.

12. Kihoto Hollohan Vs Zachillhu & ors., (1992) Supp (2) SCC 651

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The petitioner, Manjul Srivastava has impugned an order of June the 25th, 2020, passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Prayagraj, rejecting her claim for compassionate appointment under The Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependents of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (for short, "the Rules).

2. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of respondent nos. 2 and 3, which is taken on record.

3. Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned State Law Officer, was granted time to file a short counter affidavit. He has not come up with any return.

4. Admit.

5. Heard forthwith.

6. Heard Mr. Ghan Shyam Maurya, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Arun Kumar, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent nos.2 and 3 and Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned State Law Officer appearing on behalf of respondent no.1.

7. The question, that arises for consideration here, is: "Whether the judgment of this Court in Smt. Vimla Srivastava vs. State of U.P. and another1*, striking down the word "unmarried' in Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules, entitles a married daughter to a consideration of her claim for compassionate appointment without an amendment to the Rules made by the State Government, expressly including "married daughter' in the expression "family', defined under Rule 2(c)?*

8. The petitioner's mother, the late Pushpa Srivastava was inducted as an Assistant Teacher in the services of the Basic Education Board and appointed at the Primary School, Chaka, District Prayagraj. She was serving as the Headmistress of the School, last mentioned, when she passed away on 09.11.2016. She was a permanent employee and the sole bread winner of the family, comprising her husband, Vijay Kumar Srivastava, aged about 63 years and three married daughters: Parul Srivastava, Manjul Srivastava and Manshi Srivastava, aged about 32 years, 30 years and 28 years, in that order. The petitioner's mother died in harness, it is claimed on account of a heart attack.

9. It is the petitioner's case that their family have become financially crippled. They were totally dependent on the deceased teacher because the petitioner's father and the deceased's husband is an unemployed man. In consequence, the family have plunged into a sudden economic crisis. The petitioner is also unemployed. She, therefore, applied for compassionate appointment on the post of an Assistant Teacher in the Primary School, where her mother served. The petitioner asserts that she holds the necessary educational and other qualifications to be appointed as an Assistant Teacher. The petitioner holds degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Education. She has also passed the Uttar Pradesh Teacher Eligibility Test, 2018 for the Primary Level. The petitioner has placed on record photostat copies of her certificates and degrees, which the Court has perused.

10. It is the petitioner's further case that she submitted an application for consideration of her candidature under the Rules on 17.07.2019 in the office of the District Basic Education Officer, Prayagraj. The application is accompanied by all requisite documents. It is duly certified by the Headmistress, Primary School, Chaka, Prayagraj. The petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment has come to be rejected by an order dated 25.06.2020 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Prayagraj on the sole ground that a married daughter of a deceased Government servant is not included in the definition of the family of the deceased under the Rules, as amended by the 9th Amendment Rules, 2011, carried in the Government Order no.6/12/73/ कार्मिक-2/ 2011-TC, Lucknow, dated 22.12.2011, issued by the Government of U.P. in the Department of Personnel, Anubhag-2.

11. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been instituted.

12. Mr. Ghan Shyam Maurya, learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order passed by the District Basic Education Officer is manifestly illegal as it denies the petitioner's claim in violation of this Court's judgment in Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra). He has drawn the attention of this Court to the holding and the declaration in Smt. Vimla Srivastava by a Division Bench of this Court, where it was held that exclusion of married daughters from the definition of "family' carried in Rule 2(c) of the Rules was unconstitutional and violative of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution. By the judgment in Smt. Vimla Srivastava, the word "unmarried' occurring in Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules, was struck down by this Court. Mr. Maurya, learned Counsel says that once the word "unmarried' occurring in Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules has been struck down as unconstitutional, it no longer survives on the Statute Book. According to him, the Rules, as they stand, do not require any further amendment to consider a married daughter's right to compassionate appointment. He urges, therefore, that the impugned order founded on the definition of family, occurring in Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules, ignoring the judgment of this Court in Smt. Vimla Srivastava, which has struck down the word "unmarried' qualifying the word "daughter' is illegal, inasmuch as a provision of a statute, statutory rule or even a Government Order, that is struck down, cannot be treated as a subsisting provision to decide rights of citizens or parties by Authorities of the State.

13. Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned State Law Officer, on the other hand, has taken a stand, in which he is wholeheartedly joined by Mr. Arun Kumar, learned Counsel appearing for the Secretary, Basic Education Board, U.P., Prayagraj and the District Basic Education Officer, Prayagraj, that the impugned order proceeds on valid ground and ought not to be disturbed. Mr. Upadhyay and Mr. Arun Kumar submit that notwithstanding the declaration made by this Court that Section 2(c) (iii) is unconstitutional and void to the extent that it carries the word "unmarried', qualifying the word "daughter', an unmarried daughter cannot be considered for compassionate appointment, unless the State appropriately amends the provisions of Rule 2(c) in accordance with the judgment of this Court.

14. What in substance Mr. Upadhyay and Mr. Arun Kumar submit is that a decision of this Court, striking down a particular provision as unconstitutional, would not ipso facto operate unless suitably given effect to by amending the relevant statutory provision. They do not dispute the fact that the State is under an obligation to amend the Rules to bring it in accord with this Court's judgment in Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra), but say that so long as an appropriate amendment is not made, no rights can be founded by the petitioner on the Rules, as if the Rules stand amended by this Court's judgment.

15. This Court has keenly considered the matter. The decision of their Lordships of the Division Bench in Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra) held the provisions of Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules to be unconstitutional and struck it down in the following terms:

"In conclusion, we hold that the exclusion of married daughters from the ambit of the expression "family" in Rule 2

(c) of the Dyingin-Harness Rules is illegal and unconstitutional, being violative of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution.

We, accordingly, strike down the word 'unmarried' in Rule 2 (c) (iii) of the Dying-in-Harness Rules."

16. The order in that decision, that was made inter partes reads thus:

"In consequence, we direct that the claim of the petitioners for compassionate appointment shall be reconsidered. We clarify that the competent authority would be at liberty to consider the claim for compassionate appointment on the basis of all the relevant facts and circumstances and the petitioners shall not be excluded from consideration only on the ground of their marital status."

17. The decision of the Division Bench in Smt. Vimla Srivastava was followed by another Division Bench of this Court in Smt. Neha Srivastava v. State of U.P. & Another2.

18. The Rules are framed under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution and confer on the family members of a Government servant, who has died in harness, a right to be considered for compassionate appointment. There is no cavil about the issue that the Rules, including Rule 2(c) (iii) is law within the meaning of Article 13(2) of the Constitution. The judgment of this Court in Smt. Vimla Srivastava (supra), makes an unqualified declaration "that the exclusion of married daughters from the ambit of the expression "family" in Rule 2 (c) of the Dying-in-Harness Rules is illegal and unconstitutional, being violative of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution" to borrow the words of their Lordships of the Division Bench. This declaration has not been disturbed by the Supreme Court in Petition(s) for Special Leave to Appeal (C) No(s). 22646/2016 (carried from the decision in Smt. Neha Srivastava (supra)), where Leave to Appeal has been denied vide order dated 23.07.2019. The declaration is wholesome and unqualified, followed by a formal order striking down the word "unmarried' occurring in Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules. The principle is well settled that once a statute, particularly, a post Constitution Statute, governed by Clause (2) of Article 13, is declared unconstitutional for the violation of a fundamental right, it is rendered void. It is for all purposes rendered completely ineffectual, even if it lingers on, on the Statute Book as a dead letter. This issue has been the subject matter of pronouncement by high authority in the Constitution Bench decisions of the Supreme Court in Saghir Ahmad v. State of U.P. & Others3, Deep Chand & Others v. State of U.P. & Others4, Mahendra Lal Jaini v. State of U.P. & Others5 and The State of Gujarat & Another v. Shri Ambica Mills Ltd., Ahmedabad & Another6. It has also engaged attention of the Full Bench of Delhi High Court in Sh. P.L. Mehra v. Sh. D.R. Khanna7. The broad principle deducible is that a post Constitution statute declared void for contravening a Part III right is rendered completely unenforceable. These subtle aspects, if any, about the difference in the statute (a post Constitution law) being declared void on account of violation of a fundamental right on one hand and legislative competence on the other, need not trouble this Court, for they do not arise on the facts here.

19. If Mr. Upadhyay's submissions were to be regarded as one's advanced to bring home the distinction between the effect of a statute declared void for the violation of a fundamental right on one hand and legislative competence on the other, this Court has found it not to arise on facts because the petitioner here is also a citizen of India, whose fundamental right against discrimination on the ground of sex alone is equally infringed as that of the petitioners in Smt. Vimla Srivastava and Neha Srivastava. To all intents and purposes, Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules has been declared void in Smt. Vimla Srivastava and followed in Neha Srivastava. That declaration operates in rem. Thus, in the definition of "family' occurring under Section 2(c) (iii), the word "daughter' is to be read without the pre-fixed qualification "unmarried'. The effect of the declaration, therefore, is that the Rule is to be read as one including "daughter' in Rule 2(c) (iii), whether married or unmarried.

20. The submission of Mr. Upadhyay, if it were to deserve any serious consideration, would amount to accepting an almost insurmountable inhibition on the jurisdiction of this Court to declare an unconstitutional statute or statutory provision void for contravening a Part III right. A judgment of the Court declaring a statute void for the contravention of a fundamental right works to grant a declaration proprio vigore, rendering the provision invalidated; effaced for all intents and purposes. It does not certainly require a legislative compliance to give it effect. There could be some sense to that submission if after ignoring the word "unmarried' occurring in Rule 2 (c) (iii) of the Rules, the provision had become workable. But, that it has not become. The word "unmarried' has been struck down, applying the reputed doctrine of severability, that has always had approval of their Lordships of the Supreme Court. That doctrine has been accepted in A.K. Gopalan vs. State of Madras8, D.S. Nakara and others vs. Union of India9, State of Bombay and another vs. F.N. Balsara10, and, in later years, in Minerva Mills Ltd. and others vs. Union of India and others11 and Kihoto Hollohan vs. Zachillhu and others12.

21. The severance of the offending part has made the remainder of Section 2(c) (iii) intra vires, purging it of the vice of discrimination on the ground of sex alone. What has remained back is a workable provision and is to be understood in the manner that a daughter, irrespective of her marital status, is to be regarded as a member of the deceased government servant's family, in the same manner as a son, whether married or unmarried. This Court, therefore, holds that in the definition of the deceased's family, the word "daughter' has to be read unqualified by the marital status of the daughter and it requires no further amendment to the Rules by the Government to make the right of a daughter of the deceased government servant effective under the Rules. The impugned order, therefore, passed on the basis of a reading of Rule 2(c) (iii) of the Rules with the word "daughter' qualified by the word "unmarried' since struck down by this Court in Smt. Vimla Srivastava (and followed in Neha Srivastava), is manifestly illegal. It is so as it proceeds on the basis of a statutory provision, that has been declared unconstitutional and void by this Court.

22. In the result, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

23. The impugned order dated 25.06.2020 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Prayagraj, rejecting the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment, is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the District Basic Education Officer, Prayagraj to consider the petitioner's claim for compassionate appointment, in accordance with law, which shall mean without reference to her marital status, within a period of two months from the date of communication of a copy of this order.

24. There shall, however, be no order as to costs.

25. Let this order be communicated to the District Basic Education Officer, Prayagraj by the Joint Registrar (Compliance).

W.P. allowed. (E-7)

List of Cases cited: -

1. St. of Pun. & ors. Vs Rafiq Masih (White Washer) (2015) 4 SCC 334

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. By means of this writ petition, the petitioner has, inter-alia, prayed for following reliefs:

"(i) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the recovery notice dated 26.8.2004 and 11.2.2009 (contained as Annexure Nos.1 and 3 to the writ petition) asking the petitioner to pay Rs.2,13,838/- as an excess payment of GPF to the petitioner;

(ii) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to not to initiate any coercive measure against the petitioner till the representation dated 11.09.2004 is decided and considered by speaking and reasoned order passed by the respondent no.4;

(iii) issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent no.4 to release the 10% balance amount of GPF to the petitioner forthwith."

2. The brief facts of the case are that petitioner is a retired employee of the respondents and he retired on 30.04.2004 on the post of Sub-Inspector of Motor Transport while he was working under the control of Superintendent of Police, Fatehpur. Petitioner was provided GPF Account No.PU 72897. The GPF contribution of the petitioner has regularly been deducted by the respondents since 1964. After his retirement, the petitioner has been paid GPF amount to the tune of Rs.4,00,000/-. The said payment was made only up to 90% gratuity/GPF and 10% was to be paid after final settlement. Since the petitioner retired on 30.04.2004, and as such, the petitioner has moved a representation on 03.07.2004 to the respondent authorities to release his 10% of balance GPF amount. In pursuance of the said representation, the respondents vide order dated 26.08.2004 informed the petitioner that he has been paid excess amount of GPF to the tune of Rs.2,13,838/-. In pursuance of the said order dated 26.08.2004, the petitioner has submitted a detailed reply dated 11.09.2004 by registered post as well as by hand before the respondent no.4 requesting therein to calculate the GPF amount as per details mentioned in the said representation. The said representation has not been decided by the respondent no.4 and the same is still pending consideration. On 04.10.2004, the respondents have informed the petitioner that Rs.3606/- has been paid to him by Superintendent of Police, Pratapgarh. In reply to the said notice dated 04.10.2004, the petitioner has submitted a reply dated 03.11.2004 mentioning all the facts. After sleeping over the matte for almost 5 years, the respondent no.4 has illegally issued the impugned demand notice dated 11.02.2009 asking the petitioner to deposit Rs.2,13,838/- in pursuance of the order dated 26.08.2004, hence, this writ petition.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that petitioner has superannuated on 30.04.2004 on the post of Sub Inspector. After his retirement, firstly a demand notice dated 26.08.2004 has been issued and, thereafter, the impugned notice dated 11.02.2009 has been issued to the petitioner informing him to deposit Rs.2,13,838/- as excess amount. Grievance of the petitioner is that without considering petitioner's reply, an order has been passed directing recovery to be made from the petitioner. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that there is no allegation of misrepresentation or fraud practiced by the petitioner in the matter. For the excess payment on the default of the department, the same cannot be recovered from the petitioner, hence, the impugned demand notice is illegal, arbitrary, malafide and unreasonable on the part of the respondents and, therefore, the same is liable to be quashed. Submission is that after petitioner superannuated, no recovery could have been effected in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Punjab and others vs. Rafiq Masih (White Washer) 2015 4 SCC 334.

4. Learned Standing Counsel tried to support the impugned order by drawing attention to various Government orders, however could not dispute the current legal position as laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case Rafiq Masih (supra). He could not point out that there was any misrepresentation or fraud on the part of the petitioner.

5. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the material available on record.

6. In any event, the law is well settled by the latest judgment of the Apex Court in State of Punjab and others vs. Rafiq Masih (White Washer) 2015 4 SCC 334, making it clear that recovery from the retired employees or the employee who are due to retire within one year of the order of recovery, would be impermissible in law. In this context, it is relevant to extract paragraph 18 of the said judgment, which is given as under:-

"18. It is not possible to postulate all situations of hardship which would govern employees on the issue of recovery, where payments have mistakenly been made by the employer, in excess of their entitlement. Be that as it may, based on the decisions referred to hereinabove, we may, as a ready reference summarize the following few situations, wherein recoveries by the employers, would be impermissible in law:

(i) Recovery from the employees belonging to Class III and Class IV service (or Group C and Group D service).

(ii) Recovery from the retired employees, or the employees who are due to retire within one year, of the order of recovery.

(iii) Recovery from the employees, when the excess payment has been made for a period in excess of five years, before the order of recovery is issued.

(iv) Recovery in cases where an employee has wrongfully been required to discharge duties of a higher post, and has been paid accordingly, even though he should have rightfully been required to work against an inferior post.

(v) In any other case, where the court arrives at the conclusion, that recovery if made from the employee, would be iniquitous or harsh or arbitrary to such an extent, as would far outweigh the equitable balance of the employer's right to recover."

7. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India had consistently taken a view that in respect of the retired employees as well as Group-3 and 4 employees, excess payment already paid cannot be recovered considering the financial constraint of these employees as well as the retired employees.

8. Admittedly, there does not appear to be any case of misrepresentation or fraud on part of the petitioner in the matter. This is an also admitted fact that the petitioner was allotted GPF Account No.PU 72897 and the GPF contribution of the petitioner has regularly been deducted by the respondents since 1964. After his retirement, the petitioner has been paid GPF amount to the tune of Rs.4,00,000/-. The said payment was made only up to 90% gratuity/GPF and 10% was to be paid after final settlement.

9. In paragraph 5 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no.3, it is stated that petitioner's GPF account number is PU 72879 but in the district Fatehpur, there is no record available showing the GPF contribution from 1964 to 1978-79. It is further mentioned that from 1978-79, the entry with regard to GPF contribution has been made in GPF passbook of the petitioner.

10. It is categorically observed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment that recovery from the retired employees is impermissible. As such in the present case in hand where the petitioner is a retired employee of respondents, recovery of the amount so sought by the respondent cannot be allowed.

11. Under these circumstances, this Court is of the considered opinion that any order, affecting the service rights or conditions of an employee, cannot be issued without providing an opportunity to the employee concerned. This apart, the petitioner is a pensioner and retired from service on 30.04.2004. The petitioner is now aged about 76 years. Under these circumstances, any further recovery from the pension of the petitioner would affect his normal livelihood.

12. In the light of judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rafiq

Masih (supra), if the case of the petitioner is considered, as mentioned above, since he retired from service, the respondents cannot proceed against the petitioner with the impugned order of recovery, therefore, the impugned recovery notice dated 26.08.2004 and 11.02.2009 (Annexure Nos.1 and 3 to the writ petition) issued by Officer of Accountant General Mahalekhakar (Lekha Evam Hakdari,) 1st U.P., Allahabad through Senior Accountant Nidhi-14, is not sustainable in the eye of law and the same is hereby quashed and remaining 10% balance amount of GPF be paid to the petitioner within a period of two months.

13. In view of vivid observations, this petition stands allowed.

14. However, on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, there will be no order as to costs.

Versus
The State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Shailesh Verma

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

Civil Law-Service of Petitioner dispensed on account of pendency of the criminal case against him-verification of antecedents is to find out whether he is suitable for the post of a Home Guard-pendency of criminal case-not suitable for appointment of post of Home Gurad.

List of Cases cited: -

1. Arun Kumar Shukla Vs St. of UP & ors., 2018 2 ADJ 353

2.Riyasat Ali Vs St. of U.P. & ors. reported in 2003(4) AWC Page 3046

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. Since in all these writ petitions, similar reliefs have been prayed, hence they are being decided by a common order.

2. The facts of WRIT - A No. - 19141 of 2019 (Hriday Narayan Yadav Vs. State Of U.P. And 02 Others) is taken as leading case to decide the controversy.

3. The petitioner has instituted this writ petition for issuance of writ of certiorari for quashing the order dated 18.11.2019, whereby his engagement has been dispensed with by respondent no. 3, District Commandant of Home Guards, Sonebhadra as well as the Government Order dated 21.08.2012 passed by respondent no. 2.

4. The brief facts of the case are that petitioner is alleged to be appointed as Home Guard under the provisions of UP Home Guards Act, 1963. He was served a show cause notice regarding his involvement in criminal case, wherein after investigation the Investigating Officer has submitted charge sheet. The petitioner was called upon to submit his reply within 15 days. The petitioner has submitted his reply wherein he has not denied the pendency of any criminal case against him and has stated that he has been falsely implicated. After considering the reply submitted by the petitioner, the impugned order has been passed dispensing the services of the petitioner on the ground of the pendency of the criminal case against him.

5. It is contended by learned counsel for the petitioners that service of the petitioner could not be terminated due to mere filing of a charge sheet as that by itself is not enough to remove or disengage an employee unless the underlying conduct that has led to registration of a criminal case is considered. It is also contended that the services of petitioner could not have been dispensed with by the impugned order in the manner it has been done without holding any enquiry into the allegations against him. It is further submitted that private dispute giving rise to criminal case cannot be made subject matter of departmental proceedings as it would not amount to misconduct. He contends that a full fledged enquiry was required in the matter.

6. He has placed reliance on the case of Arun Kumar Shukla Vs State of UP and others, 2018 2 ADJ 353, to contend that a Government employee cannot be dismissed, removed or reduced in rank merely on the ground that he has been convicted by a court of law.

7. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the respondents. It is stated therein that under the Circular issued by the respondent no. 2 i.e. Headquarters of Home Guards, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow dated 02.09.2013, which is Annexure No. 4 to the counter affidavit, in which conditions have been mentioned as to on which grounds the action can be taken against the conduct of the Home Guards. One of the grounds mentioned for dispensing the services is the pendency of the criminal case, wherein the involvement of the petitioner is prima-facie clear. It has further been stated that as criminal case is pending against the petitioner, the impugned order of termination has been passed under the provisions of Section 12(1) of the Home Guards Act, 1963.

8. Learned Standing Counsel for the State submits that in view of the circular letters dated 21.08.2012, 2.9.2013 and 30.102.2019, the termination of the petitioner is justified. It is further submitted that the services of the petitioner was purely on temporary basis, which came to be terminated on the ground of unsuitability and the same being the discharge simplicitor and certainly not by way of penalty, it was not necessary to afford any opportunity to the petitioner before passing any order of termination against him. He also contends that there is no statutory Rules regarding the holding of an enquiry into allegations levelled against the petitioner, before dispensing with his service. He also contends that Home Guards are volunteers and do not hold any civil post under the State. It is further submitted that since the petitioner is not a regular government employee, therefore, the judgement [Arun Kumar Shukla(supra)] relied upon by the petitioner is of no application in the case of the petitioner.

9. I have considered the rival submissions and perused the record.

10. Admittedly, criminal case is pending against the petitioner and this fact has not been denied by the petitioner. Thus, there is no dispute regarding the pendency of the criminal case.

11. Perusal of circular dated 2.9.2013 issued by the Headquarters of Home Guards, Uttar Pradesh for taking disciplinary action against the Home Guards, referring the earlier circular dated 02.11.2007, whereby some amendments have been made, clearly mentions the following grounds on which the action against the Home Guards can be taken. The circular is as under:-

"होमगार्ड्स मुख्यालय के परिपत्र संख्या : 3890/स्था0/एक–796/ 2006, दिनांक 02.11.2007 में दिये गये निर्देशों में आंशिक संशोधन करते हुए निम्नलिखित आदेश पारित किये जाते हैं –

1– निष्कासन की कार्यवाही निम्नलिखित परिस्थितियों में ही की जायेगी :–

(क) अनुशासनहीनता।

(ख) गैर मान्यताप्राप्त एसोसिएशन की गतिविधियों यथा–धराना–प्रदर्शन इत्यादि में संलिप्तता।

(ग) अवॉछनीय गतिविधियां।

(घ) शारीरिक अक्षमता/अपंगता (मेडिकल प्रमाण पत्र के आधार पर)

(ङ) नैतिक अधमता।

(च) ड्यूटी पर मद्यपान सेवन।

(छ) आपराधिक मामलों में संलिप्तता (आपराधिक मामलों में अभियोग पंजीकृत होने पर प्रथमदृष्टया संलिप्तता पाये जाने पर)

(ज) स्थानी नौकरियों में समायोजित होने पर।"

12. Moreover, there is another circular dated 21.08.2012 issued by the Headquarters of Home Guards, Uttar Pradesh for taking disciplinary action against the Home Guards, who are involved in criminal offences.

13. A perusal of the said circulars clearly indicates that the impugned order has been passed in compliance of the said circulars and show cause notice has also been given to the petitioner and in its reply, the petitioner has also admitted the pendency of the criminal case.

14. So far as the contention that full fledged enquiry was required to be conducted, there is no such provision under the Act 1963. The petitioner, as per the explanation to Section 10 of the Act, 1963, does not hold a civil post as has also been held by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of Riyasat Ali Vs. State of U.P. & others reported in 2003(4) AWC Page 3046, which is still good law, therefore, the protection under Article 311 of the Constitution is also not attracted to the case at hand. Consequently the judgement [Arun Kumar Shukla(supra)] relied upon by the petitioner is also not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the present case. Moreover, record reveals that show cause notice was duly issued to the petitioner, seeking his reply in respect of the involvement in criminal case, therefore, passing of the impugned order in terms of Section 12 (1) of the Act 1963 sufficiently satisfies the requirement of principles of natural justice.

15. Petitioner, a Home Guards, who was assigned the duty to act in aid to the police and to maintain public order, is always expected to be of clean antecedents. It is settled that a person who violates the law cannot be permitted to urge that his offence cannot be subjected to inquiry, trial or investigation. Hence the decision of the respondents holding that the petitioner is not suitable, is just, fair and reasonable keeping in view the nature of the post and the duties to be discharged. The Apex Court in unambiguous terms has categorically held in catena of decisions that the employer would be well within his rights to consider the antecedents and the suitability of its employee.

16. Moreover, perusal of all the connected writ petitions indicates that in the criminal cases shown to have been pending against the petitioners, they are facing trial. The petitioner cannot claim right to continue in service and the employer, having regard to the nature of employment as well as other aspects, has the discretion to terminate his services. The standard expected of a person intended to serve in uniformed service is quite distinct from other services. The authorities entrusted with the responsibility of appointing Home Guard, are under duty to verify the antecedents of a candidate to find out whether he is suitable for the post of a Home Guard and so long as the candidate has not been acquitted in the criminal case, he cannot be held to be suitable for appointment to the post of Home Guard.

17. In view of the above, I am of the opinion that no interference is called for in the matter.

18. The writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

Civil Law-Petitioners given temporary appointment on post of Survey Lekhpal-appointment cancelled-so that retrenched employees of Kaimoor Survey Agency could be absorbed-All retrenched employees had already been absorbed prior to passing of the impugned order-the basis of cancellation of appointment is non-existent.

W.P. allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar Kumar Yadav, J.)

1. To assail correctness of the order dated 06.11.1996 passed by respondent no.3-Assistant Record Officer Obra, District Sonebhadra and circular letter dated 17.09.1996 issued by respondent no.1-Secretary & Commissioner Board of Revenue, U.P. Lucknow (Annexure Nos.5 and 6 respectively), this writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, has been preferred by the petitioners.

2. In a nut-sell, the case of the petitioners are that the appointment of the petitioners were made on 11.07.1996 on temporary basis and petitioners have reported their duties on 12th July, 1996 (copy whereof is annexed as Annexure No.3 to the writ petition), which is evident from the report of Assistant Record Officer Obra. Thereafter, the petitioners were started their functioning on the basis of their appointment letter dated 11.07.1996 on the post of Survey Lekhpal. It is mentioned in the appointment letter that the appointment of the petitioners were made purely on temporary basis and their services can be terminated at any time by given one month prior notice. It appears that, thereafter, the respondent no.1 has issued an order on 17.09.1996 by imposing ban on the appointments and has also directed to the concerned authority that if any appointments/ promotions have been made, the same be cancelled with immediate effect on the ground that certain persons of dissolved Kaimoor Survey Agencies or declared surplus. On 16.10.1995, the Commissioner Varanasi Division has issued a direction to the District Magistrate Varanasi and Mirzapur to give employment of remaining 36 persons belonging to the Kaimoor Survey Agency. All the persons, who were remained, have been absorbed and now not a single employee of Kaimoor Survey Agency is waiting for appointment. It is further alleged that on the basis of order dated 17.09.1996, the Assistant Record Officer-respondent no.3 terminated the services of the petitioners by order dated 06.10.1996 on the basis of absorption/re-engagement of the employee of the dissolved Kaimoor Survey Agency, who have already been engaged and none is remain for giving employment. It appears that Kaimoor Survey Agency was operating in the Division of Varansi for the purpose of survey but Kaimoor Survey Agency has been dissolved and its employees declared surplus. The termination order dated 06.11.1996 refers to a circular letter issued by Commissioner and Secretary dated 17.09.1996 as also a consequential order passed by the Record Officer dated 06.11.1996. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner have preferred this writ petition before this Court.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the termination order based on the letter dated 17.09.1996 issued by respondent no.1-Secretary and Commissioner Board of Revenue U.P., Lucknow does not exist when the order of termination was passed. The impugned termination order has been passed in violation of principle of natural justice and without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioners, therefore, the impugned order has been passed in an arbitrary, discriminatory exercise of powers violating of Article 14 of the Constitution. It is specifically stated that order dated 06.11.1996 passed by Assistant Record Officer have not proceeded by any notice to show cause to the petitioners, which is against the U.P. Temporary Government Servants Rules, 1975.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners has further submitted that before passing the said termination order dated 06.11.1996 as well as circular letter dated 17.09.1996, neither any notice or information nor any opportunity of hearing have been given to the petitioners, thus, the termination order is illegal and based on no reason. The impugned order has been passed in an arbitrary, discriminatory exercise of powers violating of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, hence, the same is liable to be set aside. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment dated 22.04.1998 in Writ Petition No.37136 of 1996, wherein the Court quashed the G.O. dated 06.11.1998.

5. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel vehemently opposed the writ petition by submitting that as per the appointment of the petitioners, it has been clearly mentioned that at any time the services of the petitioners could be terminated without giving prior notice. He has further submitted that however there was no need of giving any notice to the petitioners, hence, after considering the legal aspects, the termination orders have been passed by the Board of Revenue.

6. I have heard Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the material available on record.

7. Admittedly, the petitioners were given temporary appointment on the post of Survey Lekhpal vide appointment letter dated 11.07.1996 and by the impugned termination order dated 06.11.1996 the said appointment/promotion has been cancelled on the basis of circular dated 17.09.1996 issued by the Board of Revenue directing the concerned authorities to cancel all appointments/promotions so that retrenched employees of Kaimoor Survey Agency could be absorbed. It has been revered that all retrenched employees of Kaimoor Survey Agency had already been absorbed.

8. It appears that all the retrenched employees of Kaimoor Survey Agency had already been absorbed prior to passing of the impugned order. In the circumstances of the case, therefore, the basis on which the appointment/promotion of the petitioners have been cancelled is not non-existent.

9. Subject to the above observations, the writ petition succeeds and the same is hereby allowed. The impugned termination order dated 06.11.1996 (Annexure No.5 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed. The petitioners are held entitled to consequential benefits.

10. However, on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, there will be no order as to costs.

A. Criminal Law – Application u/s 482 – Exercise of inherent jurisdiction - U.P. Revenue Code: Section 114(c); Land Revenue Act: Section 34; Criminal Law Amendment Act: Section 7 - This court in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction u/s. 482 Cr.P.C. is not expected to meticulously analyse the facts and evidence as it is matter of trial to be seen during trial. Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits. High Court would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not. (Para 14, 17)

Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice. Inherent jurisdiction u/s 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. (Para 15)

B. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters - High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings.

C. U/s 482, proceedings can be quashed but there should be justification for inference - To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482 could quash the proceedings but there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive. Present application is for quashing the charge-sheet as well as entire proceeding of Criminal Case No. 603 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 945 of 2014, under Sections 420, 467 and 468 of the Indian Penal Code, relating to Police Station-Dibai, District-Buland Shahar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Krishna Gautam, J.)

1. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed, by Smt. Ummeda Fatima, against the State of U.P. and Smt. Wasima Begum, with the prayer for quashing the charge-sheet as well as entire proceeding of Criminal Case No. 603 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 945 of 2014, under Sections 420, 467 and 468 of the Indian Penal Code, relating to Police Station-Dibai, District-Buland Shahar.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant, mentioned that allegations made against the applicant, at the best, makes out a case of civil liability as the applicant is alleged to have get her name mutated after the death of her husband, under Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act, which become a bone of contention between the applicant and opposite party no. 2, who claims to be second wife of the deceased. The applicant was married with Sagar Ali, R/o Kesar Kalan of Police Station-Dibai, District-Buland Shahar, under Muslim rites and customs on 28.10.2007. She was blessed by one female child namely Zoya, aged about 5 years, from their wedlock. She along with her daughter and husband was living in her matrimonial obligation happily but, was subjected to cruelty with regard to dowry, hence, a criminal case was -2- filed by her, against her husband and in-laws. Unfortunately, Sagar Ali, husband of the applicant, and his mother Smt. Ikhlasi Begum were murdered by unknown assailants on 22.06.2014 at Kesar Kalan, District-Buland Shahar. But, because of enmity and litigation, one Parvej @ Koki got lodged criminal case against the applicant and her family members on the basis of frivolous allegations, on 22.06.2014 at 2.45 p.m., as Case Crime Number 299 of 2014, under Sections-147, 148, 149, 302, 307, 115, and 120-B, I.P.C. read with Section 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, at Police Station-Dibai, District-Buland Shahar.

3. After the death of Sagar Ali, the applicant filed an application, in the Court of Nayab Tehsildar- Dibai, District-Buland Shahar, under Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act, for getting her and her daughter's name mutated at the place of Sagar Ali, over his entire agricultural property. This application was allowed vide order dated 30.09.2014 and thereby, the name of the applicant and her daughter was got mutated in the revenue records.

4. The opposite party no. 2 Smt. Wasima Begum, claiming to be second wife of Sagar Ali, moved an application, before the Court of Nayab Tehsildar, Dibai, District-Buland Shahar, on 07.10.2014, challenging the above mutation order dated 30.09.2014, on the ground, that she is legally wedded wife of Sagar Ali, wherein, it was submitted that Shahana Begum had also filed an original Suit No. 810 of 2014 against Sagar Ali, in the Court of Tehsildar-Dibai, District- Buland Shahar, wherein, Smt. Ummeda Begum-the applicant, had also filed her objection, hence, the present applicant was fully aware of those facts even then, she got mutated her name with wrong contention.

5. The Court heard both sides and vide order dated 07.10.2014 the mutation order dated 30.09.2014 was set aside by the Tehsildar-Dibai. -3-

6. The applicant had also filed a Suit No. 554 of 2014, against Smt. Shahana wife of Shri Azmat Ali and Smt. Rehena wife of Shri Khaliq Ahmad, in the Court of Civil Judge, Senior Division, Buland Shahar for declaring the will dated 12.03.2010, being said to be executed by Sagar Ali in favour of Smt. Shahana and Rehana as null and void. The same is still pending. But, knowing all these facts, the opposite party no. 2 got lodged First Information Report on 30.07.2015, on frivolous grounds.

7. The applicant preferred a Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10874 of 2015, Smt. Ummeda Fatima vs. State of U.P. and 2 others, before this Hon'ble Court, for quashing the impugned First Information Report as well as stay of her arrest.

8. This Hon'ble Court, vide order dated 05.05.2015, disposed of the above Criminal Writ Petition finally, with a direction for not arresting the petitioner in pursuant of First Information Report dated 07.11.2014, till credible evidence is there or till the submission of police report under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. The investigating officer, without making any fair investigation, but recording statements of Smt. Wasima Begum, Parvej @ Koki and Ashfaq, under Section 161 Cr.P.C., submitted a charge-sheet against the applicant in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Buland Shahar, for offenses punishable under Sections 420, 467 and 468 of Indian Penal Code, whereupon, cognizance was taken vide order dated 11.09.2015, following issuance of summon against the applicant, in above criminal case. This was under abuse of process of law. The applicant, being wife of Sagar Ali, and Zoya Fatima, being daughter of Sagar Ali, were entitled to inherit the property of Sagar Ali after death of Sagar Ali and mere filing an application, in the Court of Tehsildar, Dibai, under Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act, will not amount to an offence of cheating or forgery. More so, matter is still subjudice before the Court of Tehsildar Dibai, -4- Buland Shahar, and final order is yet to be passed by the Tehsildar. Hence, this registration of case crime number was nothing but, a malafide action. Hence, this application, with above prayer.

9. Learned A.G.A. argued that the First Information Report of Case Crime Number 495 of 2014, under Sections-420, 467 and 468 I.P.C. was presented by the opposite party no. 2 at Police Station-Dibai, District-Buland Shahar, with the allegation of playing fraud to usurp the entire property of Sagar Ali, husband of the informant. Matter was under investigation, when a proceeding under Section 482 Cr.P.C. was filed for quashing the said First Information Report, but, a Division Bench of this Hon'ble Court, in above proceedings under Section 482 Cr.P.C., did not grant relief, prayed for, rather, held that prima-facie case has been made out for registration of case crime number. Statements of witnesses were got written under Section 161 Cr.P.C.; documentary evidence were also taken and investigation resulted in logical conclusion for filing of police report under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. as charge-sheet number 126 of 2015 dated 25.05.2015, for the offences punishable, as above. Judicial Magistrate, took cognizance over it on 11.09.2015. Nothing under misuse of process of law is there.

10. Learned counsel for the informant vehemently argued that Smt. Ummeda Fatima was first wife of Sagar Ali. But, she tortured Sagar Ali, with intention to grab his entire property. She and her family members pressurized Sagar Ali to part with his agricultural land. False and frivolous cases were filed by them, against Sagar Ali and his mother Ikhlasi Begum. Sagar Ali did not concede their illegal demand, rather, he made several complaints against Smt. Ummeda Begum, before the concerned police station and administrative authorities. Ultimately, Smt. Ummeda Begum left matrimonial house of Sagar Ali. Police and administrative authorities did not act upon the complaint made by Sagar Ali, resulting murder of Sagar Ali and his mother Smt. Ikhlasi Begum, by Smt. Ummeda Begum and her parents. It was a gruesome -5- murder, in broad day light, on 22.06.2014 in full public view. This offence of murder was witnessed by Parvej @ Koki S/o Ashfaq and many other persons, present on the spot. First Information Report of Case Crime Number 299 of 2014 under Sections-147, 148, 149, 307, 302, 115, 120-B I.P.C. read with Section 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, was got registered at Police Station-Dibai, upon the report of Parvej @ Koki against Smt. Ummeda Fatima and others.

11. In the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Smt. Ummeda Fatima has admitted that since Sagar Ali had contracted second marriage, therefore, this murder was to happen and for this, she felt no remorse over his murder. Smt. Ummeda Fatima, remained in prison till her release on bail in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 30364 of 2014, Smt. Ummeeda Begum @ Ummeeda Fatima Vs. State Of U.P., vide order dated 16.09.2014 by this Hon'ble Court. But, during this confinement an application dated 14.08.2014 was moved by Smt. Ummeda Fatima, through his counsel in the Court of Nayab Tehsildar, Dibai, District-Buland Shahar for getting her name mutated over the agricultural land of Sagar Ali and his mother Smt. Ikhlasi Begum. Which was registered as Mutation Case No. 663 of 2014 Smt. Ummeda Fatima vs. Ikhlasi Begum, mutation case No. 664 of 2014 Smt. Ummeda vs. Sagar Ali, under Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act. Smt. Ummeda Fatima claimed herself and her daughter to be only survivor and successor of deceased Sagar Ali and his mother Ikhlasi Begum. Whereas, she was fully aware that being murderer of her husband and mother-in-law, she was debarred from being their successor. She deliberately and knowingly made false averment on oath, before the above Revenue Court, on 29.09.2014, in above mutation proceedings, that she, along with her daughter Zoya, are only legal heirs of Sagar Ali and his mother Ikhlasi Begum, and thereby, she got prepared the application and documents under fraud and by this fraud, she got mutated her and her daughter's name against the properties of deceased Sagar ali and his mother Ikhlasi -6- Begum.

12. Smt. Wasima Begam, being legally wedded wife of Sagar Ali, along with her daughter Sumera, borned on 01.9.2013 from wedlock of deceased Sagar Ali, were entitled to succeed the estate of her deceased husband Sagar Ali and her mother Ikhlasi Begum. She moved, an application, for cancellation of mutation order dated 30.09.2014, before the Revenue Court of Tehsildar-Dibai and thereupon, the mutation order was got cancelled and for this fraud, present Case Crime number was got registered; charge-sheet has been filed and this was on the basis of evidence collected during investigation and as such there is no abuse of process of law, hence this application be dismissed.

13. Admitted fact is that Smt. Ummeda Fatima was legally wedded wife of Sagar Ali. She was blessed with a daughter Zoya. There was matrimonial discard between Ummeda Fatima and Sagar Ali, for which, criminal cases were pending. Sagar Ali, was got married with Smt. Waseema Begum who was blessed with a daughter from their wedlock. Civil Suits regarding agricultural land of Sagar Ali and his mother Smt. Ikhlasi Begum, with regard to disputed "will", said to be executed by Sagar Ali, is pending before the competent Civil Court of Buland Shahar. Sagar Ali and his mother Smt. Ikhlasi Begum were murdered on 22.06.2014, for which Case Crime Number 299 of 2014 under Sections-147, 148, 149, 307, 302, 115, 120-B, I.P.C. read with section 7 of Criminal Law Amendment Act, was got registered at Police Station-Dibai, District-Buland Shahar by Parvej@ Koki, wherein, Smt. Ummeda Fatima, her father, her brother and one relative Shahnaz S/o Aabad were accused. This case crime number caused arrest of Smt. Ummeda Fatima, who was enlarged on bail in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 30364 of 2014, vide order dated 16.09.2014. A Mutation application, under Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act, for mutation at the name of Sagar Ali as mutation case no. 663 of 2014 -7- and at the name of Smt. Ikhlasi Begum, in Mutation Case No. 664 of 2014 was filed by Smt. Ummeda Fatima as Ummeda Fatima vs. Ikhlasi Begum and Ummeda Fatima vs. Sagar Ali. In both of these cases Smt. Ummeda Begum claimed herself to be successor along with her daughter Zoya for the property of late Sagar Ali and late Smt. Ikhlasi Begum. She has claimed herself and her daughter to be only survivor and successor with no other inheritor. Whereas, in many other previous litigations it was fully in the knowledge of Smt. Ummeda Fatima that Sagar Ali was married with Wasima Begum, who was blessed with one female child. Even knowing this fact mutation application was moved with incorrect affidavit and incorrect application of documents. In oral statements too, the same contention was made and on the basis of these forged and fabricated evidence, the impugned order of mutation was passed which was challenged by Smt. Wasima Begum and ultimately, mutation order was cancelled. Thereafter, mutation was entered, by adding name of Wasima Begum and her daughter too. Though, there is legal bar under the Land Revenue Act, subsequently, in U.P. Revenue Code Section 114 (c) provides that " A person who commits murder of a [Bhumidhar, asami or government lessee], or abates the commission of such murder, shall be disqualified from inheriting the interest of the deceased in any holding". But, it is a question to be seen by the competent Revenue Authority. Hence, this First Information Report was challenged before this Court and a request was made for quashing the First Information Report dated 07.11.2014 registered as Case Crime Number 495 of 2014, under Sections-420, 467, 468 I.P.C., Police Station-Dibai, District-Buland Shahar, and it was argued before this Court that question in the matter appeared to be a reference of property in question that had been left over by Sagar Ali and his mother Smt. Ikhlasi Begum, but, the Division Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No. 10874 of 2015 Smt. Ummeda Fatima vs. State of U.P. and 2 other had held that ;

".....We have the occasion to persue the arguments that has been so -8- advanced o behalf of the parties before us and FIR, prima facie discloses cognizable offence, as such request for quashing of the FIR is turned down".....

Meaning thereby, prima facie case was disclosed for cognizable offence and it was not a ground for quashing of the First Information Report. Investigation has resulted submission of charge-sheet over which cognizance has been taken. Offence of moving application, with false and fictitious contention, claiming herself to be sole survivor along with her minor daughter over the property of late Sagar Ali and his mother Smt. Ikhlasi Begum, and thereafter, fabricating oral and documentary evidence for it and getting name mutated, knowing the legal situation of debar of inheritance and conviction in that criminal case of murder, prima facie, makes out offences for which chargesheet has been filed.

14. This court in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is not expected to meticulously analyses the facts and evidence as it is matter of trial to be seen during trial.

15. Saving of inherent power of High Court, as given under Section 482 Cr.P.C, provides that nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Meaning thereby this inherent power is with High Court (I) to make such order as may be necessary to give effect to any other order under this Code (II) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court (III) or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. But Apex Court in State of Andhra Pradesh v. Gaurishetty Mahesh, JT 2010 (6) SC 588: (2010) 6 SCALE 767: 2010 Cr. LJ 3844 has propounded that "While exercising jurisdiction under section 482 of the Code, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable apprehension of -9- it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of the trial Judge/Court". In another subsequent Hamida v. Rashid, (2008) 1 SCC 474, Hon'ble Apex Court propounded that "Ends of justice would be better served if valuable time of the Court is spent in hearing those appeals rather than entertaining petitions under Section 482 at an interlocutory stage which after filed with some oblique motive in order to circumvent the prescribed procedure, or to delay the trial which enable to win over the witness or may disinterested in giving evidence, ultimately resulting in miscarriage of Justice". In again another subsequent Monica Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC

781, the Apex Court has propounded "Inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself." While interpreting this jurisdiction of High Court Apex Court in Popular Muthiah v. State, Represented by Inspector of Police, (2006) 7 SCC 296 has propounded "High Court can exercise jurisdiction suo motu in the interest of justice. It can do so while exercising other jurisdictions such as appellate or revisional jurisdiction. No formal application for invoking inherent jurisdiction is necessary. Inherent jurisdiction can be exercised in respect of substantive as well as procedural matters. It can as well be exercised in respect of incidental or supplemental power irrespective of nature of proceedings".

16. Regarding prevention of abuse of process of Court, Apex Court in Dhanlakshmi v. R.Prasana Kumar, (1990) Cr LJ 320 (DB): AIR 1990 SC 494 has propounded "To prevent abuse of the process of the Court, High Court in exercise of its inherent powers under section 482 could quash the proceedings but there would be justification for interference only when the complaint did not disclose any offence or was frivolous vexatious or oppressive" as well as in State of Bihar v. Murad Ali Khan, (1989) Cr LJ 1005: AIR 1989 SC 1, Apex Court propounded "In exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 High Court -10- would not embark upon an enquiry whether the allegations in the complaint are likely to be established by evidence or not".

17. Meaning thereby, exercise of inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is within the limits, propounded as above. This court is not to make any comment on factual matrix because the same remains within the domain of trial court.

18. Accordingly, there remains nothing for any indulgence in this proceeding. The prayer for quashing the impugned order as well as proceeding of the aforesaid complaint case is refused and the application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby dismissed.

Re: Civil Misc. Delay Condonation Application No. 1 of 2019 & Re: Civil Misc. Review Application No. 2 of 2019.

1. Heard Sri Girish Chand Sinha and Sri Mukesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant in review application and Sri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ronak Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the respondent-claimant.

2. The present review application has been filed by the Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. (herein referred to as the 'opposite party') being opposite party no.1 in Arbitration and Conciliation Application U/S 11(4) No. 5 of 2019. For ready reference, the relevant part of the order dated 08.05.2019, is quoted herein:

"Heard Sri Anurag Khanna, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ronak Chaturvedi and Sri Shivank Diddi, counsel for the applicant and Sri Abhishek Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel/Special Counsel and Sri Mayank Singh, learned counsel for the respondents.

This application is field under Section 11(4) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 by which the applicant has prayed for appointment of sole Arbitrator to resolve the dispute.

The applicant is a company, indulged in manufacturing rendering services in the sector of electricity related to component, supply and distribution.

The applicant company has entered into an agreement with the respondents Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited for supply of certain goods and related services viz. Implementation.

The said agreement executed in between the applicant and respondent no.1 on 25th day of August, 2014.

The said agreement dated 25th August, 2014 provides the special conditions of contract as well as general conditions of contract. The said agreement further provides as follows:-

"IN WITNESS whereof the parties hereto have caused this Agreement to be executed in accordance with the laws applicable in exclusive jurisdiction of the High Court Of Judicature in the state of Uttar Pradesh, India and all courts subordinate to its exclusive Jurisdiction on the 25th August 2014 indicated above."

Clause GCC 7.2 of the said agreement provides as follows:-

"The formal mechanism for the resolution of disputes shall be:

If the parties fail to resolve such a dispute or difference by mutual consultation within twenty-eight (28) days form the commencement of such dispute and difference, either party may require that the dispute be referred for resolution to the formal mechanisms, described below (The date of commencement of the dispute shall be taken from the date when this clause reference is quoted by either party in a formal communication clearly mentioning existence of dispute or as mutually agreed):

a. The mechanism for resolution of disputes for bidders shall be in accordance with the Indian Arbitration and Conciliation Act of 1996. The Arbitral Tribunal shall consist of 3 (three) Arbitrators. Each Party shall agree and nominate a third Presiding Arbitrator.

b. The Arbitrators shall necessarily be retired High Court Judges and the umpire shall be a retired Chief Justice.

c. The place for arbitration shall be State of Uttar Pradesh."

Learned counsel for the respondent-Nigam has raised the preliminary objection about the maintainability of the instant application.

Learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that the conditions so as stipulated in Clause GCC 7.2 provides to resolve the dispute or the difference by mutual consultation within 28 days from the commencement of such dispute and difference.

Learned counsel for the respondent therefore submits that the applicant has not approached the Nigam as such has approached the U.P. Power Corporation Ltd. Lucknow who has nothing to do with the dispute or difference arose between the parties.

Per contra, learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance on a document/letter dated 23rd August, 2018 by which the applicant has addressed the Executive Engineer, Madhayanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, office of the Managing Director, 4A, Gokhale Marg, Lucknow. 'Subject' so as mentioned in the said letter clearly indicates that the letter has been issued by the applicant for settlement of claims.

Admittedly the instant application has been filed by the applicant after expiry of the period so as indicated (28 days) in January, 2019.

Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, though no observation is required to be made on the merits of the issue, it cannot be disputed, at present, there exists a dispute between the parties, and that such dispute arises under the written agreement entered into between them, and also there exists an arbitration clause for resolution of such dispute. Further, the parties have not been able to appoint an arbitrator, of their own.

In view of above and as agreed in between the counsels representing the respective parties, this Court has no option but to appoint .....

List on 30th May, 2019."

3. At the outset, Sri Khanna, learned Senior Advocate appearing for M/s Siemens Limited (herein referred to as the 'claimant'), has raised a preliminary objection as to the maintainability of the review application. It is his submission that the application is not maintainable in law. The Arbitration Act being a complete code, there is no inherent or other power of review. No such application may be entertained in absence of a specific provision. Second, it has been submitted that in any case, the order dated 08.05.2019 being a consented order, no application for review would lie against the same. Third, he has also objected to the delay in filing the present review application. In view of the preliminary objections raised, it is considered desirable that the same may be first dealt with before proceeding to hear the substantive grounds of review.

4. On the other hand, according to Sri Sinha, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party, this Court being a Court of record has ample power to review its orders, to correct its record. Inasmuch as the opposite party had never given his consent and the order dated 08.05.2019 came to be passed by the Court, overlooking the preliminary objection, which fact was first recorded in that order, this Court is obliged to correct its record and entertain the review application. In that regard, reliance has been placed by Sri Sinha on a recent decision of the Madhya Pradesh High Court in Pushpalata Jain Vs. M/s. Raj Enterprises; AIR Online 2020 MP 551. He has also relied on a decision of the Supreme Court in Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai Vs. Pratibha Industries Ltd.; AIROnline 2018 SC 891 and on a decision of this Court in U.P. State Road Transport Corp. & Anr. Vs. Indra Raj Verma & Anr.; AIR 2018 All 6. As a second limb of his submission, Sri Sinha would further submit that the review being sought is a procedural review and therefore, relying on a decision of the Supreme Court in Grindlays Bank Ltd. Vs. The Central Government Industrial Tribunal & Ors.; 1980 Supp 1 SCC 420, the review application is asserted to be wholly maintainable. Third, he has supported his submission on the strength of the provisions of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015, to submit that by virtue of Section 16 of that Act, the provisions of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, are applicable to the present proceedings as well and, therefore, the present review application would lie.

5. As to consent, it has been submitted by Sri Sinha that at no point of time any consent had been given by the opposite party to the appointment of an independent arbitrator. Referring to his objections filed to the Arbitration and Conciliation Application U/S 11(4) No. 5 of 2019 and the contents of paragraph no.2 thereof, he submits that the opposite party had first taken objection to the appointment of an independent Arbitrator by the Court both on account of lack of territorial jurisdiction (at Allahabad), as also on account that application being pre-mature as no effort had been made by the applicant in terms of Clause GCC 7.2 which mandatorily required the parties to first resolve their dispute/s by mutual consent. Not only that objection had been specifically raised in the written objection, but it had also been raised at the time of hearing as is recorded in the order dated 08.05.2019 in paragraph no.8 thereof. Thereafter, without referring to that preliminary objection raised by the opposite party and without recording the submissions advanced by the opposite party, a simple observation has been made "in view of above and as agreed in between the counsels representing the respective parties, this Court has no option but to appoint .....". The said observation is stated to have been made under a mistake arising from the fact that Arbitration and Conciliation Application U/S 11(4) No. 5 of 2019 came to be heard along with Arbitration and Conciliation Applications U/S 11(4) Nos. 6 of 2019, 7 of 2019 and 8 of 2019. In those cases, an objection as had been raised by the present opposite party, may not have been raised and pressed. In those circumstances, there was consent between those parties for appointment of an independent arbitrator. Owing to that fact, a patent mistake or error has crept in the order of this Court dated 08.05.2019 which may be rectified. Last, it has been submitted, there is no delay in filing the review application.

6. The above submissions have been vehemently opposed by Sri Khanna. In support of his preliminary objection, Sri Khanna had first relied on two earlier decisions of this Court in Smt. Chandra Dickshit Vs. Smart Builders; 2008 SCC Online All 85 and M/s. Shiv Hare Builders through Proprietor, Agra Vs. Executive Engineer, Provincial Division, Public Works Department; 2010 SCC Online All 2309, to submit that the issue is no longer res integra inasmuch as in both those decisions it has been clearly opined that the order passed appointing an Arbitrator is not amenable to review. In that regard, he has also relied on a recent Division Bench decision of the Bombay High Court in Antikeros Shipping Corporation Vs. Adani Enterprises Limited; 2020 (3) MhLJ 855, wherein the Division Bench of the Bombay High Court distinguished the decision of the Supreme Court in Pratibha Industries (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the opposite party and opined that an appointment made under Section 11 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') is not amenable to review jurisdiction.

7. On the issue of procedural review, it has been submitted by Sri Khanna, though remedy of procedural review may remain to be exercised in an appropriate case, however, the opposite party has failed to establish any ground of procedural review in the admitted facts of the present case. Not only the opposite party was served notice in ARCO No. 5 of 2019 but it had filed its objections and was duly represented at the time of the order dated 08.05.2019 being passed. Thus, no ground of procedural review arises as the principles of natural justice and other rules of procedure were duly complied.

8. Second, relying on the decision of the Supreme Court in State of Maharashtra Vs. Ramdas Shrinivas Nayak & Anr.; (1982) 2 SCC 463, it has been submitted that the consent as recorded in the order dated 08.05.2019 is final and binding. The opposite party not only gave its consent through counsel as was then recorded in the order, but no objection was raised on the next date when the order of appointment of the Arbitrator was confirmed. No ground was taken, to that effect in the Special Appeal filed by the respondent. He has also referred to the grounds of appeal (as annexed to his counter affidavit). Then, even in the SLP filed by the respondent, no ground of challenge was raised to assert the lack of consent. Also, that leave to appeal was confined to challenge the order dated 23.8.2019 passed by the Division Bench. No challenge was raised to the order dated 8.5.2019. Thus, according to Sri Khanna, the issue of consent was dead. It was never raised, except in the present review application filed with a long delay for which there is no explanation.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, the admitted facts of the case are that the Arbitration and Conciliation Application under section 11(4) No. 5 of 2019 was filed by the claimant in January 2019, seeking appointment of an independent arbitrator for resolution of its disputes with Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. and U.P. Power Corporation Limited. Admittedly, there exists a written agreement between the parties containing an arbitration clause. Upon notice, the Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. put in appearance and filed its objections to the aforesaid application. Paragraph no.2 of the said objection reads as under:

"II. The respondent no.2 was nowhere party to the agreement and, therefore, he should not be arrayed as party to the petition. As such, once again, the petition filed by the petitioner deserves to be dismissed for mis-joinder of parties.

III. The agreement, between the parties, was executed at Lucknow and as such, work and duty in this reference to the agreement was to be done in Lucknow, therefore, the petitioner has wrongly filed the petition at Allahabad, knowing very well this fact that the Bench of this Hon'ble Court at Lucknow has exclusive jurisdiction into the matter. As such, the petition filed by the petitioner deserves to be dismissed for want of appropriate jurisdiction.

IV. The petition, filed by the petitioner for appointment of Arbitrator, is pre-mature as per Clause-GCC 7.2, which is referred in the petition itself, says that any request for arbitration could only be entertained only after the parties fail to resolve such disputes or differences by mutual consultation within 28 days from the commencement of such disputes and differences.

V. The GCC also provies that in case of arbitration, the Arbitral Tribunal shall consist of 3 Arbitrators and each party shall nominate one Arbitrator and these two nominated Arbitrators shall mutually agree and nominate a third Presiding Arbitrator. However, the petitioner himself has violated the terms of the contract and insisted for sole arbitrator. Therefore, directly approaching this Hon'ble Court for appointment of Arbitrator is wrong and illegal."

10. Around the same time, other applications came to be filed by the claimant with respect to similar disputes with other distribution companies namely - Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Pachimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited and Purvanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited. Upon exchange of pleadings, all four applications being ARCO Nos. 5 of 2019, 6 of 2019, 7 of 2019 and 8 of 2019 came to be listed and heard together. The same independent arbitrator was proposed on all applications, by four separate orders, all dated

08.05.2019. Thereafter, for consent of the proposed Arbitrator, the matters were again listed on 30.05.2019 whereupon the Court allowed all the applications. At this stage, against the aforesaid order, the opposite party alone filed Special Appeal No. 696 of 2019. A copy of that has been annexed by the claimant - to its counter affidavit to the review application. That appeal was dismissed by order dated 01.07.2019, as not maintainable. Against that order, the opposite party preferred Special Leave Petition before the Supreme Court being No. 17628 of 2019, which came to be dismissed, vide order dated 23.08.2019 on following terms:

"We find no ground to interfere with the impugned order passed by the High Court in view of the consent recorded. At this state, the learned counsel has prayed for withdrawal of the petition with liberty to approach the concerned court. Liberty is granted.

However, liberty is not granted to assail the impugned order afresh in this Court.

The Special Leave Petition, is accordingly, dismissed as withdrawn."

11. Thereafter, the present review application came to be filed on 01.10.2019 on which affidavits have been exchanged and the matter has thus ripened for hearing.

12. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, in the first place, it may be seen, at the time of the Special Leave Petition (filed by the respondent), being dismissed on 23.08.2019, the Supreme Court had granted liberty to the respondent to approach this Court. Though that observation may not give rise to maintainability of the review application if it is found otherwise not maintainable, at the same time, in the context of the explanation of the delay, it may be recorded that there were no other proceedings pending or permissible on that date. The review application was filed on 1.10.2019 i.e., within 40 days of the dismissal of the SLP by the Supreme Court wherein leave to approach this Court had been granted.

13. First, it is observed, the review application was filed within reasonable time after the dismissal of the SLP by the Supreme Court. Second, it may not be forgotten liberty had been granted to the respondent, by one Constitutional Court to approach another. In view that fact alone, the litigant who has approached the other Constitutional Court with that certified liberty, may not be left bemused and aggrieved, at the refusal or reluctance offered by the other Constitutional Court to allow him audience, on account of a small delay, if any. Cause shown is sufficient. Delay condoned. Accordingly, the delay condonation application is allowed.

14. Insofar as reliance has been placed by Sri Khanna on the orders in the cases of Smt. Chandra Dickshit Vs. Smart Builders (supra) and M/s. Shiv Hare Builders (supra), it may be noted, both orders had been passed by the then Chief Justice(s) of this Court, on 25.1.2008 and 26.11.2010, on applications filed seeking review of earlier orders passed under Section 11(6) of the Act, as it stood then. Undisputedly, at that time, the provisions of the Section 11(6) of the Act were materially different from those that existed when order dated 8.5.2019 came to be passed. Prior to the amendment made vide Act no. 3 of 2016 (with retrospective effect from 23.10.2015), Section 11(6) of the Act read as below:

"(6) Where, under an appointment procedure agreed upon by the parties,-

(a) a party fails to act as required under that procedure; or

(b) the parties, or the two appointed arbitrators, fail to reach an agreement expected of them under that procedure; or

(c) a person, including an institution, fails to perform any function entrusted to him or it under that procedure, a party may request the Chief Justice or any person or institution designated by him to take the necessary measure, unless the agreement on the appointment procedure provides other means for securing the appointment".

15. The amended section 11(6)(c) of the Act reads:

"(c) a person, including an institution, fails to perform any function entrusted to him or it under that procedure, a party may request the Supreme Court or, as the case may be, the High Court or any person or institution designated by such Court to take the necessary measure, unless the agreement on the appointment procedure provides other means for securing the appointment.

16. A three-judge bench of the Supreme Court in State of West Bengal Vs Associated Contractors; (2015) 1 SCC 32 has clearly opined (in the context of the unamended section 11(6) of the Act) that an application filed before a Chief Justice (either of a High Court or the Supreme Court) or his designate, was not an application filed before the Court of which that judge may be the Chief Justice or his designate. It was observed:

"17. .....It is obvious that Section 11(12)(b) was necessitated in order that it be clear that the Chief Justice of "the High Court" will only be such Chief Justice within whose local limits the Principal Civil Court referred to in Section 2(1)(e) is situate and the Chief Justice of that High Court which is referred to in the inclusive part of the definition contained in Section 2(1)(e). This sub-section also does not in any manner make the Chief Justice or his designate "court" for the purpose of Section 42. Again, the decision of the Chief Justice or his designate, not being the decision of the Supreme Court or the High Court, as the case may be, has no precedential value being a decision of a judicial authority which is not a Court of Record." (emphasis supplied)

17. On the other hand, under the amended law, with which alone we are concerned, the power to appoint an arbitrator came to be vested in the High Court - as a Court, in place of its Chief Justice. Therefore, the order dated 08.05.2019 is indisputably an order passed by the High Court. Accordingly, the ratio, if any, involved in the two (single judge) decisions of this Court relied upon by Sri Khanna would stand distinguished, upon change of law. Similarly, in Antikeros Shipping Corporation (supra), the order of appointment of an independent arbitrator had been made on 21.04.2011 i.e., prior to 23.10.2015 - the date of enforcement of the amendment to section 11(6)(c) of the Act. Therefore, it was also an order passed by the person or institution designated by the Chief Justice of that Court and not by the Bombay High Court, itself.

18. In the present case, the order appointing an independent arbitrator had been passed post amendment, on 08.05.2019. Clearly, it is an order passed by the High Court, in exercise of the power vested on it under section 11(6)(c) of the Act. Therefore, the reasoning being attempted by Shri Khanna, is not applicable to the facts of the present case. That line of reasoning would remain applicable to cases falling under the unamended law only.

19. As to the nature of power, whether judicial or administrative, in the context of the unamended section 11(6)(c) it was held to be an administrative power, Ador Samiya (P) Ltd. Vs Peekay Holdings Ltd.; (1999) 8 SCC 572 as affirmed by a three-judge bench decision in Konkan Railway Corp. Vs Mehul Construction Co. Ltd.; (2000) 7 SCC 201. Later, upon another reference, in Konkan Railway Corp. Vs. Rani Construction (P) Ltd.; (2002) 2 SCC 388, a five-judge Constitution bench of the Supreme Court confirmed the view expressed by the three-judge bench in Mehul Construction case. Finally, in SBP & Co. Vs Patel Engineering Ltd.; (2005) 8 SCC 618, a seven-judge Constitution bench held the power under section 11(6)(c) of the Act to be a judicial power, to be exercised either by the Chief Justice of a High Court or a designated Judge of that Court. Such judicial order was held appealable under Article 136 of the Constitution of India. That being the nature of that power, upon the 2016 amendment, a judicial power now vests in this Court, in place of its earlier vesting in the Chief Justice of this Court or in his designate.

20. In Jain Studios Ltd., Through its President Vs. Shin Satellite Public Co. Ltd.; (2006) 5 SCC 501 (a rare order of a Single Judge of the Supreme Court), it was reasoned, since the order appointing an arbitrator (under unamended Section 11(6) of the Act), passed by the Chief Justice of India or his nominee is an order within the meaning of Article 137 of the Constitution of India, that order would remain amenable to review power of that Court. However, the distinction between the "Supreme Court" and its "Chief Justice" and the consequential effect on the power of review remained to be noticed. Thus, it was a judgement pronounced upon an admission between the parties. It must therefore remain confined to the facts of that case. Even otherwise, for obvious reason of Article 137 being applicable to the Supreme Court alone, the ratio of that decision cannot be applied to proceedings before this Court.

21. In Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai & Anr. Vs. Pratibha Industries Limited & Ors.; (2019) 3 SCC 203, the High Court came to appoint a neutral arbitrator on 27.06.2017 (i.e., under the amended Act). It appears, that order was later recalled. However, upon an intra-Court appeal, the order of recall was itself set-aside by a division bench of that Court. Thus, the matter reached the Supreme Court. It was held,

"10. Insofar as the High Courts' jurisdiction to recall its own order is concerned, the High Courts are courts of record, set up under Article 215 of the Constitution of India. Article 215 of the Constitution of India reads as under:

"215. High Courts to be courts of record.--Every High Court shall be a court of record and shall have all the powers of such a court including the power to punish for contempt of itself."

It is clear that these constitutional courts, being courts of record, the jurisdiction to recall their own orders is inherent by virtue of the fact that they are superior courts of record. This has been recognised in several of our judgments."

22. That being clear as daylight, the further submission of Sri Khanna that the ratio of that case is distinguishable on facts, is plainly unacceptable. Though it is true that in that case, there was no arbitration clause, and the arbitrator came to be appointed by the Bombay High Court on a mere statement made by an officer of the Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai, which statement was later clarified to be without authority yet, that fact distinction is wholly irrelevant to the question of existence of the inherent power of review, vested in the Court, by virtue of Article 215 of the Constitution of India. Existence of a power and the ground for exercise of that power would ever remain two different issues. While no reason to exercise a power may arise in absence of the power itself, it cannot be true, vice versa. Existence of power is a pure question of law, traceable to the statutory provision, in this case Article 215 of the Constitution of India. Whether, it would be exercised, may be examined while wielding that power. However, if there was no power of review, in existence, the occasion to exercise it would never arise.

23. In view of the categorical pronouncement of the Supreme Court in Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai & Anr. Vs. Pratibha Industries Limited & Ors. (supra) and the admitted fact that the order dated 8.5.2019 was passed by the High Court and not its Chief Justice of this Court or its designate (as distinct from the Court itself), the review application is found to be wholly maintainable.

24. As to the consent, it is seen, not only the respondent had raised a preliminary objection by means of the counter affidavit to arbitration application no. 5 of 2019 but that it had also raised preliminary objections at the stage of oral hearing. It is clearly recorded in the order dated 8.5.2019. Though, the later part of that order does record that the parties agreed for appointment of the sole arbitrator, however, that order nowhere records, at any place, that the respondent gave up its preliminary objections. It is also difficult to accept that such preliminary objection once raised, would have been given up because the order also does not record, either the exact nature of the preliminary objections raised or any consideration thereof. Then, it cannot be lost sight that the said order came to be passed along with three other orders passed on similar applications filed by the applicant, that were also decided on the same date.

25. It thus appears that an error has crept in, while passing the order dated 8.5.2019. Thereby consent of parties came to be recorded. In view of the facts noted above, I am prima facie satisfied that the respondent did not give up its preliminary objection and therefore, the consent recorded, is not a true reflection of the record of proceedings that existed before the Court. Without a doubt a mistake has thus crept in the order dated 8.5.2019, probably, as suggested by Sri Girish Chand Sinha, owing to the three other similar applications having been dealt with on the same day wherein, upon consent, a sole arbitrator was appointed, in similar circumstances. Since, the consent did not exist, a review application would be maintainable.

26. That being the nature of mistake, it is also not truly relevant that initially the respondent did not raise the ground of lack of consent. Once it appears to the Court that such consent was not existing, the Court owes a duty to itself, to keep its record straight. To deprive a litigant of rectification of a mistake in the Court's record, when that mistake otherwise appears to exist, solely because the litigant did not come to it in the first instance, may never be relevant for this Court considering the obligation cast on it under Article 215 of the Constitution of India. The Court is not a party to the dispute. On the other hand, a litigant has complained that its record is incorrect. Thereafter, it is necessary for the Court, as a non-partisan and independent adjudicator to correct its record especially, since the litigant is not shown to have accepted as correct the order dated 08.05.2019.

27. Accordingly, the review application is found to be wholly maintainable in law, by virtue of Article 215 of the Constitution of India and since no consent existed (of the respondent), to appoint the sole arbitrator. The observation made in the order dated 08.05.2019, to that effect, is erroneous.

28. In so far as, it has been urged that the Court has a power of procedural review, again, there can be no dispute to that. However, no ground of procedural review has been made out in the facts of the present case. As to the third line of reasoning adopted by Sri Girish Chand Sinha relying on the provisions of the Commercial Courts Act, the same is left undetermined as this Court clearly has the power to review and correct it's record by virtue of Article 215 of the Constitution of India.

29. Put up the review application for consideration on 01.02.2021.

5. Writ C No. 8347 of 2018 (Rajiv Memorial Academy Welfare Society Vs. U.O.I. & ors.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pranjal Mehrotra, learned counsel for the appellant through video conferencing and Sri Shesh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent-claimant who is present in Court. Sri Gaurav Pundir, learned counsel is also present through video conference on behalf of a brother of respondent no.1. His impleadment application stands rejected by order dated 25.11.2020. Hence, he was not heard.

2. The present appeal is directed against the order dated 07.03.2020 passed by the District Judge, Mathura in Miscellaneous Arbitration Case No.35 of 2017, Bhartiya Rashtriya Rajmarg Pradhikaran Vs. Rajesh Kaushik & Others. By that order, the learned District Judge, Mathura has rejected the objection filed by the appellant under Section 34 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act'), as not maintainable. That objection had been filed against the award of the arbitrator dated 25.10.2016, referable to Section 3-G (5) of The National Highways Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Highways Act') - arising from the order dated 31.01.2013 passed by the 'competent authority'. Perusal of that order reveals, amongst others, compensation for the 3600 sq. mtrs land, plot no.332/1M belonging to the respondent had been determined. Being aggrieved, the respondents had invoked arbitration under Section 3-G (5) of the Highways Act. By that award, the learned arbitrator, directed the 'competent authority' under the 'Highways Act' to redetermine the amount of compensation under Section 3-G (1) of the Highways Act.

3. Sole submission advanced by learned counsel for the appellant is, though there was no defect in the arbitration proceedings thus instituted, however, the learned arbitrator has acted without jurisdiction in remitting the matter to the competent authority to redetermine the amount of compensation. Referring to Section 3-G (7) of the Highways Act and a Division Bench decision of this Court in Writ C No.8347 of 2018 (Rajiv Memorial Academy Welfare Society Vs. Union of India & 4 Others, it has been submitted that the only power vested with the arbitrator was to determine the amount of fair compensation. While doing so, the learned arbitrator had no power vested in him, either under the Highways Act or the Act - to act as an appeal court or to even otherwise pass an order to set aside the order of the competent authority and to remit the matter back for redetermination.

4. Then, referring to Section-34(2)(a)(iv) read with Section-34(2)(b)(ii) of the Act, it has been submitted that the award of the learned arbitrator to the extent, he has remitted the matter back for redetermination, is both outside the scope of implied reference and against the public policy of India.

5. On the contrary, learned counsel for the respondent-claimant submits, the competent authority had by order dated 31.01.2013 correctly valued 1200 sq. mtrs. out of the total area 3600 sq. mtrs, as non-agricultural land. The balance area 2400 sq. mtrs was undervalued as agricultural land. Hence arbitration had been sought. By his award dated 25.10.2016, the learned arbitrator has valued the 2400 sq. mtrs. land also as non-agricultural land with commercial potential. The rate of non-agricultural land being specified in the order dated 31.01.2013 passed by the competent authority, the total compensation amount may be paid out to the claimant, accordingly. It is his submission that nothing remains to be done by the competent authority and the respondent-claimant has already become entitled to payment at the enhanced rate. Accordingly, the learned District Judge has rightly rejected the objections filed against the award dated 25.10.2016.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, there can be no two opinions about the scope of the proceedings before the arbitrator. Such proceedings arose purely in terms of the provision of Section 3-G (5) of the Highways Act. For ready reference, the said provision reads as below:

"(5) If the amount determined by the competent authority under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) is not acceptable to either of the parties, the amount shall, on an application by either of the parties, be determined by the arbitrator to be appointed by the Central Government."

7. Thus, such arbitration may arise only at the instance of a party to whom the amount determined by the competent authority may not be acceptable. That party may apply for determination of the amount by the arbitrator and for no other purpose. The scope or terms of reference have been chosen or determined or limited by the legislature to determination of the amount payable to the claimant. In Ashok Leland Ltd. v. State of Tamil Nadu & Another, (2004) 3 SCC 1 it has been observed:

"94.The word "determination" must also be given its full effect, which presupposes application of mind and expression of the conclusion. It connotes the official determination and not a mere opinion of (sicor) finding".

8. Then the law recognises arbitration as a private dispute resolution mechanism agreed upon by the parties, P. Manohar Reddy & Bros. v. Maharashtra Krishna Valley Development Corpn., (2009) 2 SCC 494. It is a binding voluntary alternative dispute resolution process by a private forum chosen by the parties, Indian Oil Corp. Ltd. & Others v. M/S Raja Transport (P) Ltd., (2009) 8 SCC 520. Therein a final determination of a matter in dispute is made by the judgement of one, two or more persons, called the arbitrators/Arbitral Tribunal. The concept of any further or other proceeding to resolve the dispute that may be made a subject matter of reference to an arbitral tribunal, is an absolute anathema to the founding principle of arbitration. It is for that reason, that a limited scope of challenge exists against any award of arbitrator/s, under section 34 of the Act.

9. There is no provision or general principle in law, that may allow an arbitrator to act outside the scope or terms of his reference. An arbitrator to a dispute comes into existence upon an agreement between the parties to the dispute and his jurisdiction is confined to adjudicate the dispute brought by them. Arbitration under section 3-G (5) of the Highways Act is a proceeding to resolve the dispute between the parties to determine the fair amount of compensation, by the arbitrator. It is not a proceeding to judge the correctness of the order already passed by the competent authority.

10. While it may be true that in the conduct of such an arbitration proceeding, the order passed by the competent authority may come to be read in evidence, however, the subject matter of the arbitral proceedings under section 3-G (5) of the Highways Act would never be to uphold or to set-aside the existing order passed by the competent authority but to independently determine the amount of compensation payable to the claimant. It is possible that no enhancement may arise upon arbitration however, it would not, and it cannot amount to upholding the order of the competent authority.

11. Irrespective of the fate of the arbitration proceedings, the order of the competent authority would not merge in the award rather it would continue to exist, though its enforceability (as to quantum of compensation payable), may, in given facts be eclipsed by the arbitral award. It is so because, the terms of reference arise from the plain language of section 3-G (5) of the Highways Act. That provision of law would ever limit the scope of arbitration proceedings and command the arbitrator to himself determine the just amount of compensation.

12. Thus, in no event, the arbitrator may set aside the order passed by the competent authority and he may never remit the matter to the original/competent authority to pass a fresh order. Typically, that power is a power of a Court or Tribunal sitting in appeal or revision that too, if specifically granted by statute, and not implied. In absence of any such power given to the arbitrator either under the Highways Act or the Act, the direction issued by the arbitrator is a nullity in law.

13. Perusal of the order passed by the arbitrator again does not leave any manner of doubt that he has not determined the amount of compensation to be paid, since, he has neither mentioned the rate at which compensation may be awarded for 2400 sq. mtrs of land nor he has quantified the total compensation amount. In fact, he has specifically remitted the matter to the competent authority for that purpose. That direction clearly falls foul with Section 3-G (5) of the Highways Act.

14. Hence the award was open to challenge in terms of Section 34(2)(a)(iv) of the Act being beyond the scope of reference to arbitration and also under Section 34(2)(b)(ii) of the Act, being contrary to be public policy of India.

15. Therefore, the learned District Judge has erred in rejecting the objections raised by the appellant as not maintainable. The above conclusion is also fortified by the view taken by the Division Bench of this Court in Writ C No.8347 of 2018 (Rajiv Memorial Academy Welfare Society Vs. Union of India & 4 Others. Accordingly, the order dated 07.03.2020 cannot be sustained and it is set aside.

16. In absence of any other challenge raised in this appeal and in view of the language of the proviso to Section-34(2)(iv) of the Act, the newly appointed arbitrator may determine the compensation for the land in question on the same parameters as approved in the award dated 25.10.2016. For purpose of clarity, it is provided, it is only the direction of remand that is erroneous, however, the entire award has been set aside on account of peculiar limitation of the law.

17. The award of the arbitrator dated 31.01.2013 is also set aside with leave to the claimant-respondent to seek a fresh arbitration. That arbitration may be held between the appellant and the claimant respondent only. Such exercise may be completed, as expeditiously as possible, preferably within a period of three months from today. The amount that has been paid to the respondent-claimant pursuant to the earlier order passed in the present appeal may remain in deposit with him. It shall abide by the final computation made by the arbitrator, pursuant to this order.

18. With the above observations, the appeal is disposed of. No order as to costs.

A. Civil Law – Non-concurrent determination of objections - Transfer of Property Act: Section 6(a), 43; Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953: Section 9-A(2); U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act: Section 174, 229-B.

Transfer of Property Act: Section 43 – Feeding the estoppel - a right based on the principle of feeding the estoppel is available, so long as the transferee does not know for a fact that the transferor who represents title in himself, does not hold it. In a case where the transferee knows for a fact that the transferor does not hold title that he transfers by his deed, a subsequent acquisition of that title by the transferor, would not serve to feed the estoppel. (Para 27)

Evidently, during proceedings before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, the petitioner had ample opportunity to take a plea based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, which she never did. The Revisional Authority's judgment is testimony to the fact that no such plea was taken before the said Authority by the petitioner. (Para 33)

A plea based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act would always give rise to a mixed question of fact and law. It is not a plea giving rise to one of those pure questions of law that may be determined, abstracted from facts by this Court, at a stage as late as address of arguments with no foundation laid for it. A plea of that kind that may be urged, bereft of any foundation is classically associated with a case about total lack of jurisdiction in the Court, relating to the subject matter. A plea and a question of that kind is invariably based on facts, of which the Court must take judicial notice. The present plea based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act is far from it.

In the considered opinion of the Court, it cannot be examined on the existing state of the parties' pleadings here, and before the Revisional Authority. (Para 34)

B. The opinion of the Authority of first instance, on an issue that primarily rests on evaluation of oral evidence, ought not to have been disturbed by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities, who did not see the witnesses. Wherever an issue arises that is primarily to be decided on the basis of oral evidence, the Appellate Court should invariably accept the Trial Court's evaluation, unless the conclusions drawn or the reasoning adopted is patently flawed. (Para 37)

When there is a conflict of oral evidence on any matter in issue and its resolution turns upon the credibility of the witnesses, the general rule is that the appellate court should permit the findings of fact rendered by the trial court to prevail unless it clearly appears that some special feature about the evidence of a particular witness has escaped the notice of the trial court or there is a sufficient balance of improbability to displace its opinion as to where the credibility lies. When there is a direct conflict between the oral evidence of the parties, and there is no documentary evidence that clearly affirms one view or contradicts the other, and there is no sufficient balance of improbability to displace the trial court's findings as to the truth of the oral evidence, the appellate court can interfere only on very clear proof of mistake by the trial court. (Para 38)

This principle about pre-eminence accorded to the Trial Court, in the matter of appreciation of oral evidence, is based on the reasoning that the Trial Court had advantage of watching the witnesses' demeanour, which the Appellate Court or still higher fora did not. In judging the truth of a statement in the testimony, it is of prime importance that not only what the witness says be considered, but also how he says it. The demeanour reveals the unspoken truth, or the truth or falsehood of spoken words. (Para 40)

The principle that primacy be accorded to the evaluation of purely oral evidence by the Trial Judge/Court/Authority of first instance, must show for a fact that the incumbent Judge or Presiding Officer, who wrote judgment for the Trial Court/Authority of first instance, was the same Presiding Officer who had heard and recorded evidence in the matter. This would then be the modification which the long standing principle must suffer in the changed times. (Para 40)

In the present case, there is nothing on record to suggest that the Presiding Officer in this case, Sri. C.P.N. Singh, the then Consolidation Officer-II, Jamania, District Ghazipur, was the incumbent Presiding Officer, before whom the witnesses testified. This is not asserted for a fact in the writ petition, though a ground based on the principle has been taken. This Court, therefore, is not minded to accept the contention of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that urges a blanket application of the classical principle. This Court, may, however, hasten to add that the principle would still apply in all cases where a party urges a case on its basis and shows that the Judge who heard evidence was the same Judge/Presiding Officer, who delivered judgment. (Para 41)

C. Mutation proceedings are summary proceedings to identify the person to be recorded, primarily for fiscal purposes. There is absolutely no justification for the Authorities below to have considered the findings of the Mutation Authorities as relevant evidence in title proceedings. The proceedings in hand arise out of objections u/s 9-A(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, which to all intents and purposes, are title proceedings. (Para 50)

A perusal of findings by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities show that these Authorities have considered for relevant evidence, the decision of the Mutation Authorities inter partes as also the judgments in the declaratory suit. The proceedings of the suit never reached terminus ad quem. So far as the decisions of the Mutation Authorities are concerned, it is settled beyond cavil that those findings are in no way relevant in title proceedings. (Para 50)

D. Determination of identity through finger print/thumb impression - The law does not prohibit a Court at all from undertaking a comparison of the disputed and the admitted finger prints, but finger print identification being a perfect and highly evolved science by now, it is perilous to undertake an unassisted enterprise of this kind for any Court. A perusal of findings reveal that the Settlement Officer of Consolidation has ventured to compare the disputed and the admitted finger prints. He has clearly done so without the assistance of an expert. A simple magnifying glass is all that has been called in aid. (Para 52)

The Indian Evidence Act, 1872: Section 73 and 45 are the statutory provisions that govern and regulate the jurisdiction and powers of the Court, to undertake a comparison of the disputed and the admitted finger print specimens. In the case of an Authority invested with judicial functions, like the Consolidation Authorities to whom the last mentioned provisions of the Evidence Act may not apply

proprio vigore, the same would apply on principle. (Para 55)

If a Court is constrained to opine without the assistance of one or more experts, about the genuineness of a finger print/thumb impression, its reasons must be expressed in terms understood and known to the science of finger print identification. For the purpose, the Court must look into an authoritative text book on the subject and seek assistance of Counsel, before recording findings based on reputed and recognized parameters. (Para 58)

In the present case, the opinion expressed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, appears to be utterly uninformed and based on no more than what is popularly called, "common sense". This kind of a reasoning bereft of reference to the cardinal principles, evolved by the science of finger print identification, cannot be accepted to be any reason at all. The findings of the Settlement Officer of Consolidation on this count must be held to be bereft of reason. It would, therefore, vitiate the conclusion. (Para 65)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir,J.)

1. This writ petition questions a non-concurrent determination of objections under Section 9-A(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (for short, the Act) by the Consolidation Authorities.

2. The objections were brought by the petitioner, Ram Dei, since deceased and represented by her LRs, against one Smt. Sona Kunwar, represented before this Court by Ramji Tiwari, since deceased. Ramji Tiwari, original respondent no. 3 to this writ petition, is now represented by his heirs and legal representatives, substituted pendente lite. The objections also sought relief against respondent nos.4 and 5, that is to say, Jagardev Tiwari and Mukhdev Tiwari. Both these respondents have died pending this petition and are represented by their heirs and legal representatives. Before this Court, the claim of the petitioner is confined to the interest of Ramji Tiwari in terms morefully set out hereinafter. So far as respondent nos.4 and 5 are concerned, it appears that parties have buried the hatchet and are at peace with the way the event has gone before the Authorities below. Thus, there appears to be no conflict or lis inter se the petitioner on one hand and respondent nos.4 and 5 on the other, before this Court. So far as respondent no.6 is concerned, the said respondent asserts herself to be Sona Kunwar, mother of the third respondent and wife of one Sarju Tiwari. This Sona Kunwar has been called an impostor by another woman, who contested these proceedings and claimed to be the real Sona Kunwar. Sona Kunwar's interest is represented by respondent no.3, now before this Court through his legal representatives.

3. The dispute in this petition relates to agricultural land located in two different villages of District Ghazipur. One of these is Khata no.52, admeasuring 2 bigha 2 biswa 5 dhoor, situate at Village Sindura, Pargana Jamania, District Ghazipur. In the basic year, this Khata was recorded in the name of Ram Naresh Tiwari son of Devi Tiwari, Smt. Ram Dei Kunwar wife of Basdev Tiwari and Smt. Sona Kunwar daughter of Ram Swarup Tiwari and wife of Sarju Tiwari. The other part of land, subject matter of dispute between parties is located at Village Kusi, Pargana Jamania, District Ghazipur. It comprises Khata nos.245 and 542, admeasuring a total of 7 bighas 17 biswas 2 dhoors. In the basis year, it is recorded in the name of Jagardev Tiwari and Mukhdev Tiwari, both sons of the late Ram Naresh Tiwari, Smt. Ram Dei Kunwar wife of Basdev Tiwari and Smt. Sona Kunwar daughter of Ram Swarup Tiwari, wife of Sarju Tiwari.

4. The land above described above, shall hereinafter be called as "the Khata in question'.

5. It would be apposite to indicate the relationship between parties traceable to their ancestors before setting out the origin and course of proceedings, that have led to this petition. Ram Swarup Tiwari, Mathura Tiwari and Ram Naresh Tiwari were brothers. The Khata in question is part of an ancestral holding of these brothers, the fuller detail of which may not be very relevant. Sona Kunwar is the daughter of Ram Swarup Tiwari. Her mother is Smt. Phula Kunwar, wife of Ram Swarup Tiwari. Smt. Ram Dei Kunwar (the petitioner) is wife of Basdev Tiwari son of Mathura Tiwari. Jagardev Tiwari and Mukhdev Tiwari are sons of the late Ram Naresh Tiwari. It appears that Ram Swraup Tiwari died sometime before the year 1938, and Smt. Phula Kunwar inherited his rights in the then larger joint khata of the family, comprising his brothers and co-laterals. It is common ground between parties that Phula Kunwar sued for partition, that led to a partition decree dated 31.03.1938. This decree brought Smt. Phula Kunwar a share of 1/6th in the joint khata of her husband's two brothers and co-laterals. The aforesaid 1/6th share in the erstwhile joint khata, that came to be partitioned and fell to the share of Smt. Phula Kunwar vide decree dated 31.03.1983, makes for the land in dispute.

6. It appears from some stray remark in the judgment of the Consolidation Authorities that during the lifetime of Smt. Phula Kunwar, her rights to the land in dispute were questioned, despite the partition decree. This was done by some members of the family, like one Basgit and some others, but that is of no consequence. The land in dispute came to be recorded in the name of Smt. Phula Kunwar during her lifetime and her right to it is not in question. Phula Kunwar had a lone child, a daughter Smt. Sona Kunwar. Smt. Sona Kunwar was married to Sarju Tiwari. Smt. Sona Kunwar had a son, Ramji Tiwari and a daughter, Shiv Kumari. Ramji Tiwari son of Sarju Tiwari and Smt. Sona Kunwar is the third respondent here. There is no claim or issue about the land in dispute on behalf of Shiv Kumari. Smt. Phula Kunwar admitted Ramji Tiwari, her daughter's son as a co-tenant along with herself, in the land in dispute. This was done with the permission of the then Zamindar. In consequence, the name of Ramji Tiwari came to be recorded as a co-tenant along with Smt. Phula Kunwar. Smt. Phula Kunwar passed away on 25.11.1958 intestate. Immediately before Phula Kunwar's death, the land in dispute was jointly held by Ramji and Smt. Phula Kunwar, with each co-sharer holding a half share. Upon Smt. Phula Kunwar's death, her share was inherited by her daughter, Smt. Sona Kunwar, Ramji's mother.

7. It appears that there was some resistance to Smt. Sona Kunwar's right to inherit Smt. Phula Kunwar, her deceased mother. This resistance was put up by co-laterals of Phula Kunwar's father. It did not take the form of an outright suiting of rights in an action for title. Rather, it came about in the form of a mutation application made on behalf of Kapil Dev, Basgit and Ambika on 16.12.1958, asking to be mutated in place of the late Phula Kunwar. In those proceedings, Sona Kunwar was ordered to be mutated in place of Smt. Phula Kunwar. It is recorded for a fact in the Consolidation Officer's order that Smt. Sona Kunwar did not apply for mutation in her favour. However, mutation in her favour was made on 30.09.1959. It does not appear that co-laterals of Sona Kunwar's mother's father, who initially applied for mutation upon Phula Kunwar's death, pursued the matter any further. However, before mutation in favour of Smt. Sona Kunwar regarding her half share in the land in dispute, inherited from her mother could be carried out, Ramji executed a registered sale deed on 14.09.1959, relating to the land in dispute (the entire land that was the joint holding of himself and his maternal grandmother, Smt. Phula Kunwar) in favour of Smt. Ram Dei Kunwar and Ram Naresh. Smt. Ram Dei Kunwar, the petitioner here, made an application for mutation on the basis of the last mentioned sale deed. The application was objected to by Smt. Sona Kunwar. The Sub-Divisional Officer passed an order granting mutation in favour of Smt. Ram Dei to the extent of Ramji's share, that is to say, half share in the land in dispute, whereas the other half was allowed to stay back with Smt. Sona Kunwar on the basis of succession. This order was passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer in mutation proceedings on 16.12.1960. The last mentioned order was appealed by Smt. Ram Dei to the Commissioner of the Division. The appeal was dismissed and the mutation order was affirmed by the Commissioner vide his order of February the 22nd, 1961. Just a few days before the Commissioner decided the mutation appeal, the petitioner claimed that a registered sale deed dated 15.02.1960 was executed in her favour by Smt. Sona Kunwar, relating to that half share of the land in dispute, without which the Mutation Authority of first instance had determined that it would go by succession to Smt. Sona Kunwar.

8. It must be remarked here that the petitioner's stand about this sale deed is that it was secured from Smt. Sona Kunwar ex abundanti cautela. This stand is founded on the reasoning that Ramji, in fact, held title to the land in dispute in its entirety and nothing went to Smt. Sona Kunwar, but to avoid uncertainties of litigation, the petitioner took the half share from Smt. Sona Kunwar through the registered sale deed dated 15.02.1960. It must also be remarked here that the contrary stand of Smt. Sona Kunwar, now represented by respondent no.3 through his legal representatives, is that the sale deed dated 15.02.1960 was never executed by Smt.

Sona Kunwar. Rather, the said sale deed is a bogus document, secured by setting up an impostor in place of Smt. Sona Kunwar. This is a matter about which the parties are much at issue, and details about it would figure a little later in this judgment.

9. After dismissal of the appeal by the Commissioner from the Sub-Divisional Officer's order regarding mutation vide order dated 22.02.1961, the petitioner, Smt. Ram Dei applied for mutation afresh on 31.04.1961. This claim was apparently founded on the sale deed dated 15.02.1960, purportedly executed by Smt. Sona Kunwar for her half share. This mutation application was brought arraying Smt. Sona Kunwar as the opposite party, properly so called. The application was rejected by the Sub-Divisional Officer by an order dated 18th January, 1963.

10. Smt. Ram Dei, failing in her endeavour to secure mutation over the entire land in dispute, that is to say, one that included the share inherited by Smt. Sona Kunwar, filed a declaratory suit under Section 229-B of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. By her suit aforesaid, Smt. Ram Dei claimed declaration of title to the land in dispute on the basis of registered sale deed dated 14.09.1959 from Ramji and the sale deed dated 15.02.1960, claimed to have been executed in her favour by Smt. Sona Kunwar. The suit aforesaid was tried and dismissed by the Sub-Divisional Officer vide his judgment and decree of October, the 29th 1965. The said decree was appealed to the Commissioner by Smt. Ram Dei. The appeal was dismissed by the Additional Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi vide judgment and decree dated 30.12.1966. The Appellate Court held Smt. Sona Kunwar entitled to a half share in the land in dispute, whereas the other half was held in favour of Smt. Ram Dei and Ram Naresh, the assignees from Ramji. A further appeal was carried to the Board of Revenue from the appellate decree by Smt. Ram Dei, the petitioner. Pending the aforesaid second appeal before the Board of Revenue, consolidation proceedings were notified, under Section 4(2) of the Act, leading to abatement of the appeal.

11. Post abatement of her second appeal, the petitioner brought these objections under Section 9-A(2) of the Act on 21.09.1970. The case of the petitioner in her objections as briefly extracted in the order of the Consolidation Officer, is this: Ramji was admitted as a co-tenant by Smt. Phula Kunwar in the land in dispute with the permission of the Zamindar. A Praman Patra was issued in favour of Ramji, that shows him to be a co-tenant along with his maternal grandmother, Smt. Phula Kunwar. Smt. Phula Kunwar died on 25.11.1958. In consequence of her death, the land in dispute, that is to say, the entire khata devolved upon Ramji, whereof he became the sole bhumidhar, under Section 174 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act. Ram Dei purchased the land in dispute from Ramji on 14.09.1959 through a registered sale deed. The petitioner has acquired bhumidhari rights relating to the land in dispute through the aforesaid conveyance. The further case appears to be that the petitioner entered possession of the land in dispute to the extent of the whole of it on the basis of the sale deed dated 14.09.1959, executed by Ramji. However, a subsequent sale deed dated 15.02.1960 was got executed by Smt. Sona Kunwar, in order to avoid litigation.

12. Some amendment to the objections was sought which does not appear to say anything to add to the case. It was nevertheless allowed by the Consolidation Officer. However, in consequence of the amendment, Ramji was made a party to the objections. It is recorded by the Consolidation Officer that Ramji, respondent no.3, now represented by his LRs, did not appear or file a written statement. The case is recorded to have proceeded ex parte against Ramji before the Consolidation Officer. It was ordered to so proceed vide order dated 11.01.1970.

13. Smt. Sona Kunwar - one of the two Sona Kunwars - contested the objections with the case that she has succeeded to a half share in the land in dispute, that is to say, the share of her mother, Smt. Phula Kunwar; the remaining half share being held by her (Sona Kunwar's) son, Ramji. It appears to have been pleaded by Smt. Sona Kunwar before the Consolidation Officer that the petitioner's suit under Section 229-B, based on the same cause of action, was tried and dismissed. Her appeal from the Court of first instance failed before the Additional Commissioner. It is also her further case that no appeal from the appellate decree was preferred by the petitioner, resulting in the petitioner's claim being barred by res judicata. This Sona Kunwar urged that the petitioner's objections be rejected.

14. Before the Consolidation Officer on 17.10.1970, another woman claiming herself to be Sona Kunwar, appeared in Court and sought impleadment. She admitted the execution of the sale deed dated 15.02.1960 by her and urged that she is the real Sona Kunwar, wife of Sarju Tiwari and Ramji's mother.

15. On the pleadings of parties, the Consolidation Officer framed the following issues:

"(1) Whether Smt. Ramdeo Kunwar (sic Ram Dei) took sale deed from Smt. Sona Kunwar and she is in possession?

(2) Whether the name of Smt. Sona Kunwar is fictitiously recorded?

(3) What is the share of the parties?

(4) What is the share of the parties?

(5) Whether Smt. Sona Kunwar or Ramji had right to executed (sic execute) the sale deed?

(6) Which of the two Sona Kunwar is genuine Sona Kunwar and its effect?"

16. The petitioner, Ram Dei examined four witnesses in support of her case, which does not include herself. She filed eight documents on 06.08.1971. Smt. Sona Kunwar, who supported execution of the sale deed dated 15.02.1960 in favour of the petitioner, examined two witnesses in support of her case, including herself. She filed eight papers on 06.08.1971, that constitute her documentary evidence. She was represented before the Consolidation Officer by Sri Bachchu Singh, Advocate. She is described by the Consolidation Officer and by the other Consolidation Authorities in the judgments impugned in a rather long-winded description, that says "Sona Kunwar represented by Sri Bachchu Singh, Advocate". This Sona Kunwar is impleaded as respondent no.6 to this petition. For ease of reference, the Sona Kunwar, last mentioned, who supports the petitioner's case, shall hereinafter be called, "Sona Kunwar-I'. The other Sona Kunwar, who contested the objections, examined herself in the witness-box, besides five other witnesses. This Sona Kunwar filed some 101 papers by way of documentary evidence. She was represented before the Consolidation Officer by Sri Mohd. Taufiq Khan, Advocate. Again, she is identified in the judgment of the Consolidation Officer and the Superior Consolidation Authorities by reference to her learned Counsel's identity. In this judgment, Sona Kunwar, who contested the petitioner's claim, shall be called, "Sona Kunwar-II'. These references to Sona Kunwar as "I" or "II", shall figure hereinafter where the issue related to her identity is considered; elsewhere she would be referred to as "Sona Kunwar'.

17. The Consolidation Officer tried the objections and allowed the petitioner's claim by his judgment and order dated 04.06.1972. He ordered the name of Smt. Sona Kunwar to be expunged from the land in dispute, and a fortiori from the khata in question. It was furthered ordered that in the khata in question, the name of Ram Dei, the petitioner be recorded to the extent of a 4/5th share in both villages, whereas a 1/5th share be recorded in the name of Jagardev and Mukhdev, sons of Ram Naresh. Noting the fact that the name of Ram Naresh, since deceased, continued to be recorded in the khata relating to Village Sindura, it was ordered to be expunged and the names of Jagardev and Mukhdev, sons of Ram Naresh, entered.

18. From the aforesaid judgment of the Consolidation Officer, five appeals were carried to the Settlement Officer of Consolidation; two by Smt. Sona Kunwar and three by the petitioner, Ram Dei. Smt. Sona Kunwar's Appeals were numbered as 1862 and 1863 whereas those by the petitioner, Ram Dei, were numbered as Appeals nos.1895, 1896 and 1897. Smt. Sona Kunwar by her two appeals sought reversal of the judgment of the Consolidation Officer to the extent her name was ordered to be expunged for her half share in the land in dispute. The appeals were two in number, inasmuch as the land in dispute was located in two different villages. The petitioner's appeals sought exclusion of the names of Jagardev and Mukhdev, sons of Ram Naresh, on ground that the petitioner was entitled to the entire land comprising the khata in question that she had purchased from Ramji, who had title to the whole of it.

19. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation heard and determined the five appeals vide judgment and order dated 04.12.1972, in the manner that Smt. Sona Kunwar's appeals were allowed and the petitioner's appeals, numbering three, were dismissed. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation declared a share for the parties in the manner that the petitioner, Ram Dei was held entitled to a 2/5th share in the khata in question, whereas Jagardev and Mukhdev were found to have a 1/10th share. Smt. Sona Kunwar was entitled to a half share in the said khata. This determination of shares in the Khata in question was made on the basis that Smt. Sona Kunwar was entitled to a half share in the land in dispute. It must be remarked here that it is not clear how a half share in the land in dispute led the Settlement Officer to determine a half share for Smt. Sona Kunwar in the Khata in question. This Court says so as the case of the parties is about a dispute whether Smt. Sona Kunwar holds a half share in the land in dispute or none at all. Even if, Sona Kunwar is held to have a half share in the land in dispute, it is not indicated in the order of the Settlement Officer how that half share would extend to the Khata in question that is much larger than the land in dispute.

20. The petitioner, Ram Dei assailed the judgment and order of the Settlement Officer of Consolidation through five revisions, under Section 48 of the Act, that she preferred to the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Ghazipur. These revisions were numbered as Revisions nos.465, 581, 464, 463 and 366. Of these five revisions, two revisions were referable to the appellate judgment rendered in the appeal preferred by Smt. Sona Kunwar, by which the Consolidation Officer's order directing her name to be expunged from the land in dispute was set aside, granting Sona Kunwar a half share. The other three revisions were directed against that part of the appellate judgment by which the petitioner's claim to exclude Jagardev and Mukhdev was rejected by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. All the revisions were heard together by the Deputy Director of Consolidation with Revision no.581 being treated as the leading case. The Deputy Director of Consolidation by his judgment and order dated 26.02.1985 dismissed all the revisions and affirmed the Settlement Officer of Consolidation.

21. Disillusioned by the Revisional and the Appellate orders, the petitioner has instituted this writ petition.

22. Heard Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners and Sri Bhola Nath Yadav, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent nos. 3/1, 3/2 and 3/3. No one has appeared at the hearing on behalf of the heirs and legal representatives of respondent nos. 4, 5, as also respondent no.6.

23. The Court has perused the writ petition, the two counter affidavits filed on behalf of respondent nos. 3/1 to 3/3 and the relative rejoinder affidavits.

24. Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioners has assailed the judgments of the Revisional and the Appellate Authorities on various counts. The foremost that he urges is based on a development that took place in the mortal course of human nature. He has invited the attention of the Court to the Revisional Authority's judgment, where it is recorded that Smt. Sona Kunwar died pending revision and her interest is now represented by Ramji, her son. Sri Vishnu Singh has made it bold to say that even if it be assumed that when Ramji executed the sale deed dated 14.09.1959, relating to the whole of the land in dispute, he had no more title than to a half share in it, the petitioner's claim now stands established owing to the supervening death of Sona Kunwar. He submits that if the third respondent's case were accepted that at the time of execution of the sale deed of 1959 all that Ramji could transfer was a half share in the land in dispute, the other half being inherited by Smt. Sona Kunwar from her mother, once Ramji has inherited the remainder from Smt. Sona Kunwar, pending proceedings before the Revisional Authority, he is bound by his deed of 1959 to the extent of whole of the land in dispute. According to the learned Counsel for the petitioners the supervening acquisition of title by Ramji for the deficient half from his mother, if that be the case, makes the sale deed of 1959 an effective conveyance for the whole of the land in dispute by dint of the principle known as, "feeding the estoppel". He submits that the right based on this principle flows from the provisions of Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882. According to the learned Counsel, the principle embodied in Section 43 (supra) mandates that a transferor's interest in immovable property, who fraudulently or mistakenly represents that he holds a certain interest in the property which, in fact, he does not have but subsequently acquires, goes to the transferee who has taken the property believing the representation, whether mistaken or fraudulent, to be true. In these circumstances, according to the learned Counsel, the transferor cannot be heard to say that at the time he made the transfer, he had no interest in the subject matter of conveyance. Once he acquires the non-existent interest, transferred by his solemn deed, the subsequently acquired interest would go to the transferee.

25. Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioners has relied on a decision of the Supreme Court in Hardev Singh vs. Gurmail Singh (dead) By LRs, (2007) 2 SCC 404. He has invited this Court's attention to paragraphs 14 and 15 of the report in Hardev Singh (supra), where it is held:

"14. The doctrine of feeding the estoppel envisages that "where a grantor has purported to grant an interest in land which he did not at the time possess, but subsequently acquires, the benefit of his subsequent acquisition, goes automatically to the earlier grantee, or as it is usually expressed, feeds the estoppel".

15. The principle is based on an equitable doctrine that a person who promised to perform more than he can perform must make good his contract when he acquires the power of performance. The difference between the ambit of Sections 41 and 43 of the Act is apparent. Whereas Section 41 provides that a transfer by an ostensible owner cannot be avoided on the ground that the transferor was not authorised therefor, subject to the condition that the transferee should take reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer and to act in good faith before a benefit thereof is claimed by him. Section 43, on the other hand, enables the transferee to whom a transferor has made a fraudulent or erroneous representation to lay hold, at his option, of any interest which the transferor may subsequently acquire in the property, unless the right of any subsequent purchaser for value without notice is in effect."

26. Learned Counsel for the petitioners has placed further reliance, in support of his submission, upon a decision of the Orissa High Court in Biswanath Sahu and others vs. Mrs. Tribeni Mohan (dead) by L.R.s and others, AIR 2003 Ori 189. It has been held in paragraph 10 of the report in Biswanath Sahu and others (supra) thus:

"10. If the case is looked from another angle, it will be evident that execution of the sale deed has to be upheld as valid. Reference may be made to S. 43 of the Transfer of Property Act. Said Section provides as follows:

"Transfer by unauthorised person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred -- Where a person (fraudulently or erroneously) represents that he is authorised to transfer certain immovable property and professes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operated on any Interest which the transferor may acquire in such property at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists."

There is no dispute that after death of Amulyanath Mitra, defendant No. 3 has succeeded to the property. Even if contention of the learned counsel for the appellant is accepted that the deed (Ext. 2) had been executed during lifetime of Amulyanath Mitra by Sailendranath Mitra as Power-of-attorney holder, the sale was not valid because of the reasons stated earlier, the property having devolved on defendant No. 3 after death of Amulyanath Mitra, the provision contained in S. 43 of the Transfer of Property Act comes Into operation and, therefore, such sale is not only valid but also binding on defendant No. 3....."

27. Sri Bhola Nath Yadav, learned Counsel for respondents nos.3/1 to 3/3 has refuted the contention of the learned Counsel for the petitioners on this score. He submits that fair and square the principle embodied in Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act or the principle of feeding the estoppel, is not at all attracted to the facts of this case. In the submission of Sri Bhola Nath Yadav, a right based on the principle of feeding the estoppel is available, so long as the transferee does not know for a fact that the transferor who represents title in himself, does not hold it. He submits that in a case where the transferee knows for a fact that the transferor does not hold title that he transfers by his deed, a subsequent acquisition of that title by the transferor, would not serve to feed the estoppel. In short, in the submission of the learned Counsel for the respondents, this principle is available only in cases where the transferee does not know that the transferor, in fact, holds no interest in the immovable property that he represents to possess, when he executes the conveyance; not if the transferee is also aware about the absence of title in the transferor at the time of conveyance. He submits that the petitioner, Ram Dei was aware about the fact that Phula Kunwar's interest was inherited by Smt. Sona Kunwar, being her heir entitled and Phula Kunwar having died intestate. He points out that the petitioner is a relative of Smt. Sona Kunwar, Smt. Phula Kunwar, her mother and also of Ramji, Sona Kunwar's son, her vendor. In these circumstances, he urges that the petitioner was well aware that half share in the land in dispute devolved upon Smt. Sona Kunwar, and not upon Ramji, who held as a co-tenant to the extent of a half share along with Smt. Phula Kunwar, since deceased. Learned Counsel for the respondents, therefore, submits that the provisions of Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act would not apply and the transfer would fail under Section 6(a) of the Act, last mentioned.

28. In support of his contention, learned Counsel for the respondents has placed reliance on a decision of the Supreme Court in Jumma Masjid, Mercara vs. Kodimaniandra Deviah and others, AIR 1962 SC 847. He has drawn the Court's attention to paragraph 15 of the report in Jumma Masjid, Mercara (supra), where it is held:

"15. This reasoning is open to the criticism that it ignores the principle underlying Section 43. That section embodies, as already stated, a rule of estoppel and enacts that a person who makes a representation shall not be heard to allege the contrary as against a person who acts on that representation. It is immaterial whether the transferor acts bona fide or fraudulently in making the representation. It is only material to find out whether in fact the transferee has been misled. It is to be noted that when the decision under consideration was given, the relevant words of Section 43 were, "where a person erroneously represents", and now, as amended by Act 20 of 1929, they are "where a person fraudulently or erroneously represents", and that emphasises that for the purpose of the section it matters not whether the transferor acted fraudulently or innocently in making the representation, and that what is material is that he did make a representation and the transferee has acted on it. Where the transferee knew as a fact that the transferor did not possess the title which he represents he has, then be cannot be said to have acted on it when taking a transfer. Section 43 would then have no application, and the transfer will fail under Section 6(a). But where the transferee does act on the representation, there is no reason why he should not have the benefit of the equitable doctrine embodied in Section 43, however fraudulent the act of the transferor might have been.

(Emphasis by Court)

29. The learned Counsel for the respondents has further placed reliance to the same end on the decision of the Supreme Court in Jharu Ram Roy vs. Kamjit Roy and others, (2009) 4 SCC 60, where on the point in hand, it has been held thus:

"11. Fraud vitiates all solemn acts. As the appellant was aware of the fact that Nakho Ram had not expired in 1992, in our opinion, the provisions of Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act cannot be said to have any application in the instant case."

30. Learned Counsel for the respondents has also urged that Smt. Sona Kunwar died on 05.07.1979 pending revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, but the plea based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act was never taken before the Revisional Authority. The contention is that the failure of the transferee to urge a plea based on rights under Section 43 before the Revisional Authority, clearly shows that the transferee never exercised her option to operate on the interest that Ramji inherited, pending revision. It is also pointed out that in the writ petition, there is not as much as a whisper regarding a right based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act; there is utter absence of a plea in that regard. It is urged by the learned Counsel for the respondents that in the absence of a plea based on Section 43 being taken before the Revisional Authority or in the writ petition, the petitioner cannot be permitted to urge that plea at the stage of hearing, bereft of pleadings, either before the Revisional Court or before this Court. In this connection, learned Counsel for the respondents has relied upon a decision of a Division Bench of the Patna High Court in Mahipat Missir and others vs. Ganpat Sah and others, AIR 1963 Pat 277, where it is held:

"15. It is, therefore, to be seen what would be the consequence of taking notice of the death of Rajmato at the appellate stage. If the sale deed of the appellants were for legal necessity, the title of Rajmato in the suit land would pass absolutely to the appellants, otherwise her life interest only would pass. Hence, after the death of Rajmato, the appellants are entitled to plead and prove that the sale deed was for legal necessity. But, while Rajmato was alive, they had only to show that her interest did not pass to the plaintiff-respondents. It would, therefore, be unjust to the appellants to hold that, after the death of Rajmato during the pendency of the second appeal, they acquired only her life interest on the ground that they had not pleaded or proved in her life time legal necessity for their sale deed. On the other hand, the plaintiffrespondents cannot get any advantage of the death of Rajmato, unless they prove the ingredients required for the application of Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, and the only person who can take advantage of her death is defendant No. 6, who was a co-executanti of the plaintiffs' sale deed as well as the defendants' sale deed and duped both these parties. It is, therefore, fair and just to leave the question of the consequences of the death of Rajmato to be tried in another suit and the death of Rajmato should not be taken into account in the present litigation."

31. The absence of a plea regarding the right, flowing from Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, being a bar to its consideration at the hearing has been buttressed by the learned Counsel for the respondents on the strength of a decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Ram Sarup Gupta vs. Bishun Narain Inter College, (1987) 2 SCC 555, where it is held:

"6. The question which falls for consideration is whether the respondents in their written statement have raised the necessary pleading that the licence was irrevocable as contemplated by Section 60(b) of the Act and, if so, is there any evidence on record to support that plea. It is well settled that in the absence of pleading, evidence, if any, produced by the parties cannot be considered. It is also equally settled that no party should be permitted to travel beyond its pleading and that all necessary and material facts should be pleaded by the party in support of the case set up by it. The object and purpose of pleading is to enable the adversary party to know the case it has to meet. In order to have a fair trial it is imperative that the party should settle the essential material facts so that other party may not be taken by surprise. The pleadings however should receive a liberal construction; no pedantic approach should be adopted to defeat justice on hair-splitting technicalities. Some times, pleadings are expressed in words which may not expressly make out a case in accordance with strict interpretation of law. In such a case it is the duty of the court to ascertain the substance of the pleadings to determine the question. It is not desirable to place undue emphasis on form, instead the substance of the pleadings should be considered. Whenever the question about lack of pleading is raised the enquiry should not be so much about the form of the pleadings; instead the court must find out whether in substance the parties knew the case and the issues upon which they went to trial. Once it is found that in spite of deficiency in the pleadings parties knew the case and they proceeded to trial on those issues by producing evidence in that event it would not be open to a party to raise the question of absence of pleadings in appeal. In Bhagwati Prasad v. Chandramaul [AIR 1966 SC 735: (1966) 2 SCR 286, 291] a Constitution Bench of this Court considering this question observed:

"If a plea is not specifically made and yet it is covered by an issue by implication, and the parties knew that the said plea was involved in the trial, then the mere fact that the plea was not expressly taken in the pleadings would not necessarily disentitle a party from relying upon it if it is satisfactorily proved by evidence. The general rule no doubt is that the relief should be founded on pleadings made by the parties. But where the substantial matters relating to the title of both parties to the suit are touched, though indirectly or even obscurely in the issues, and evidence has been led about them, then the argument that a particular matter was not expressly taken in the pleadings would be purely formal and technical and cannot succeed in every case. What the court has to consider in dealing with such an objection is: did the parties know that the matter in question was involved in the trial, and did they lead evidence about it? If it appears that the parties did not know that the matter was in issue at the trial and one of them has had no opportunity to lead evidence in respect of it, that undoubtedly would be a different matter. To allow one party to rely upon a matter in respect of which the other party did not lead evidence and has had no opportunity to lead evidence, would introduce considerations of prejudice, and in doing justice to one party, the court cannot do injustice to another."

32. It is on this point further strenuously urged by the learned Counsel for the respondents that a right based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act is available exclusively where the transferor, fraudulently or erroneously, represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immovable property, but in fact does not hold any such right on the date that he executes the sale deed. It is submitted that in order to succeed on a plea under Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, it must be shown by the party who urges that plea that the transfer in his/ her favour was based on either a fraudulent or an erroneous representation. In the submission of the learned Counsel for the respondents unless that plea is specifically taken, based on either a case of a fraudulent or erroneous representation, upon which the transferee had acted, no rights can be claimed on the foundation of Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act. Dilating on this part of his submission, learned Counsel for the respondents emphasizes that it is necessary to support a plea based on the principle of feeding the estoppel that there must be a fraudulent or erroneous representation by the transferor in relation to his title, on which the transferee has acted. It is submitted by him that in the present case not only is there an utter want of a plea of this kind, but there is also no evidence or material on record to indicate that there was a fraudulent or mistaken representation by Ramji vis-a-vis his title to the land in dispute, acting on which the petitioner accepted the conveyance.

33. It is true, without doubt, that the stage where a plea founded on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act ought to have been taken had arrived before the Revisional Authority, when Smt. Sona Kunwar, the one who was contesting, passed away. A reading of the Revisional Authority's judgment shows at the outset that the fact that Sona Kunwar died pending revision, was well within the cognizance of the Deputy Director of Consolidation, as well as the parties. This is so because Smt. Sona Kunwar died on 05.07.1979, after the revisions were instituted and these revisions were decided by the impugned judgment on 26.02.1985. Evidently, during proceedings before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, the petitioner had ample opportunity to take a plea based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, which she never did. The Revisional Authority's judgment is testimony to the fact that no such plea was taken before the said Authority by the petitioner. The Revisional Authority's judgment also shows that the original respondent no.3 here, Ramji described in the Deputy Director of Consolidation's order as Ramji Tiwari son of Sarju Tiwari was substituted in place of Sona Kunwar.

Therefore, there is not the slightest doubt that if anything else, Ramji seeking substitution in place of Sona Kunwar, the one who was contesting, offered an unignoreable opportunity to the petitioner to take a plea founded on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act.

34. This Court is mindful of the fact that legal assistance available to a litigant before the Consolidation Authorities do not offer sterling legal acumen. There could be many a decisive slip or a lost opportunity for the litigant because he was not appropriately advised in a cause before a Lay Tribunal, like a Consolidation Authority. This Court would not hesitate to accept, if there were a faint case, much less a plea in furtherance of the petitioner's right that did not find eloquent and precise mention in her pleadings. Sadly, that is not the case here. There is not the slightest hint of a case founded on the right that Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act envisages. Sparing all follies for the absence of good legal assistance that a litigant often faces before Authorities like those in the consolidation jurisdiction, a reading of the writ petition does not bail out the petitioner, either. Across the length and breadth of the writ petition, this Court does not find any trace of a plea that may have urged for the petitioner a case founded on Section 43, last mentioned. This Court may dare say that if that plea was ever in the petitioner's contemplation, it would have certainly found specific mention in the writ petition. This plea has come up before the Court at the hearing, to which there is no factual basis. A plea based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act would always give rise to a mixed question of fact and law. It is not a plea giving rise to one of those pure questions of law that may be determined, abstracted from facts by this Court, at a stage as late as address of arguments with no foundation laid for it. A plea of that kind that may be urged, bereft of any foundation is classically associated with a case about total lack of jurisdiction in the Court, relating to the subject matter. A plea and a question of that kind is invariably based on facts, of which the Court must take judicial notice. The present plea based on Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act is far from it. In the considered opinion of the Court, it cannot be examined on the existing state of the parties' pleadings here, and before the Revisional Authority. In taking this view, this Court is fortified by the law laid down in Ram Swarup Gupta (supra) and Mahipati Missir (supra).

35. Learned Counsel for the respondents has laid much emphasis on the fact that going by the close relationship of parties, it was known for a fact to the petitioner that a half share in the property in dispute that Smt. Phula Kunwar held, would devolve upon Smt. Sona Kunwar, on the former's decease. He has impressed upon the Court that for a proposition of law, where the transferee knows for a fact that the transferor has no title in presenti to convey what he purports to do by his deed, the principle of feeding the estoppel would not be attracted. It would be attracted only when the transferee is in ignorance about the vendor's title and acts on the vendor's representations, whether mistaken or fraudulent, alone. The argument is tempting to deal with in the facts of the present case. But, this Court would refrain from doing so as there is no pleading anywhere on which the edifice of this case may be built by parties and considered by this Court. Accordingly, this Court is not inclined to accept the petitioner's submission that the sale deed of 1959 after Smt. Sona Kunwar's death in 1979 is enforceable against Ramji, vis-a-vis the entire land in dispute, by invocation of the principle of feeding the estoppel.

36. The next ground on which the impugned orders have been assailed by Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner is that notwithstanding the failure of the sale deed of 1959 to convey the whole of the land in dispute, the subsequent sale deed dated 15.02.1960 executed by Smt. Sona Kunwar-I, removes that deficiency. The said sale deed conveys the remaining half share, inherited by Smt. Sona Kunwar-I, in favour of Smt. Ram Dei. It is this case of the petitioners that gives rise to the question about the identity of the woman, who executed the sale deed dated 15.02.1960. Whereas the learned Counsel for the petitioner says that the sale deed of 15.02.1960 was executed by Smt. Sona Kunwar-I, who is the mother of Ramji and wife of Sarju Tiwari, learned counsel for respondent nos.3/1 to 3/3 urged that it was executed by an impostor.

37. Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the Consolidation Officer had before him Sona Kunwar-I, who is the real Sona Kunwar. She entered the witness-box and testified in support of her identity. She also supported the execution of the sale deed dated 15.02.1960 in favour of the petitioner. He urges that Sona Kunar-II, who has contested the petitioner's claim and disowned the sale deed dated 15.02.1960, is an impostor. It is asserted by him that the Consolidation Officer, after a careful evaluation of the oral testimony of Sona Kunwar-I, Sona Kunwar-II and Sarju Tiwari, who is admitted to be the husband of Sona Kunwar, whichever of the two women is in reality Sona Kunwar, has held that Sona Kunwar-I is the genuine person. It is further submitted by Sri Vishnu Singh that the Settlement Officer of Consolidation and the Deputy Director of Consolidation have reversed the Consolidation Officer's findings regarding determination of the identity of Sona Kunwar to hold that Sona Kunwar-II is the genuine person. Learned Counsel urges that the reasoning of the Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority is flawed because the Authority of first instance held trial and had the advantage of watching the demeanour of witnesses. Furthering that submission, it is said by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that much turns in this case about the identity of the two women claiming to be Sona Kunwar, on the testimony of witnesses. Therefore, according to the learned Counsel for the petitioner, the opinion of the Authority of first instance, on an issue that primarily rests on evaluation of oral evidence, ought not to have been disturbed by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities, who did not see the witnesses. It is the learned Counsel's contention that wherever an issue arises that is primarily to be decided on the basis of oral evidence, the Appellate Court should invariably accept the Trial Court's evaluation, unless the conclusions drawn or the reasoning adopted is patently flawed.

38. Learned Counsel for the petitioner draws support for the aforesaid proposition from a decision of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Madhusudan Das vs. Narayanibai (Deceased) by LRs and others, (1983) 1 SCC 35. He has invited this Court's attention to paragraph 8 of the report, where it is held:

"8. The question whether the appellant was in fact adopted by Jagannathdas and Premwati has been determined essentially on the basis of oral testimony, and reference has been made to a few documents only in supplementation of the oral evidence. At this stage, it would be right to refer to the general principle that, in an appeal against a trial court decree, when the appellate court considers an issue turning on oral evidence it must bear in mind that it does not enjoy the advantage which the trial court had in having the witnesses before it and of observing the manner in which they gave their testimony. When there is a conflict of oral evidence on any matter in issue and its resolution turns upon the credibility of the witnesses, the general rule is that the appellate court should permit the findings of fact rendered by the trial court to prevail unless it clearly appears that some special feature about the evidence of a particular witness has escaped the notice of the trial court or there is a sufficient balance of improbability to displace its opinion as to where the credibility lies. In this connection, reference may usefully be made to W.C. Macdonald v. Fred Latimer [AIR 1929 PC 15, 18: 29 Mad LW 155: 112 IC 375] where the Privy Council laid down that when there is a direct conflict between the oral evidence of the parties, and there is no documentary evidence that clearly affirms one view or contradicts the other, and there is no sufficient balance of improbability to displace the trial court's findings as to the truth of the oral evidence, the appellate court can interfere only on very clear proof of mistake by the trial court. In Watt v. Thomas [LR 1947 AC 484, 486: (1947) 1 All ER 582: 176 LT 498] it was observed: "...it is a cogent circumstance that a judge of first instance, when estimating the value of verbal testimony, has the advantage (which is denied to courts of appeal) of having the witnesses before him and observing the manner in which their evidence is given." This was adverted to with approval by the Privy Council in Sara Veeraswami alias Sara Veerraju v. Talluri Narayya [AIR 1949 PC 32: 75 IA 252: 1948 All LJ 479] and found favour with this Court in Sarju Pershad v. Raja Jwaleshwari Pratap Narain Singh [1950 SCR 781, 783: AIR 1951 SC 120: 1950 SCJ 583] . It seems to us that this approach should be placed in the forefront in considering whether the High Court proceeded correctly in the evaluation of the evidence before it when deciding to reverse the findings of the trial court. The principle is one of practice and governs the weight to be given to a finding of fact by the trial court. There is, of course, no doubt that as a matter of law if the appraisal of the evidence by the trial court suffers from a material irregularity or is based on inadmissible evidence or on a misreading of the evidence or on conjectures and surmises the appellate court is entitled to interfere with the finding of fact. Our attention has been drawn by the respondents to the Asiatic Steam Navigation Co. Ltd. v. Sub-Lt. Arabinda Chakravarti [AIR 1959 SC 597: 1959 Supp 1 SCR 979: 1959 SCJ 815] but nothing said therein detracts, in our opinion, from the validity of the proposition enunciated here."

39. Sri Bhola Nath Yadav, learned Counsel for the respondents on the other hand has refuted the aforesaid contention and submitted that it is not that the Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority had only oral evidence in hand to decide upon the identity of the two women, claiming themselves to be Smt. Sona Kunwar. According to him, there were other relevant materials, evidence and circumstances that were taken into consideration by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities to opine the way they did. He submits that oral evidence is not the only evidence bearing on the identity of Sona Kunwar, and, therefore, the approach of the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities cannot be faulted.

40. It is true for a principle that wherever the decision of a question or an issue turns entirely on oral evidence, the opinion of the Trial Court carries great weight and ought not to be disturbed by a Court of Appeal, except for very compelling reasons. These reasons could be a palpabably wrong conclusion drawn by the Trial Court, which no reasonable person could reach, given the evidence of witnesses. This principle about pre-eminence accorded to the Trial Court, in the matter of appreciation of oral evidence, is based on the reasoning that the Trial Court had advantage of watching the witnesses' demeanour, which the Appellate Court or still higher fora did not. In judging the truth of a statement in the testimony, it is of prime importance that not only what the witness says be considered, but also how he says it. The demeanour reveals the unspoken truth, or the truth or falsehood of spoken words. Demeanour is a good word of formal English usage. Nowadays, it is better understood by men of contemporary education as "body language'. It cannot be gainsaid that what the Trial Court watches or is supposed to watch, peeping behind the words of a witness, is a unique opportunity of which the Appellate Court is deprived. It must be borne in mind that for a principle whatever is said in favour of the unique advantage that the Trial Judge has, in evaluating oral evidence, is sound law. In the present day, the application of the principle by Courts is witnessing dwindling adherence. The reasons why that is so are more than one. Generally, Superior Courts are mindful of the fact that trials over time have become less formal in many jurisdictions, particularly in the Moffusil Courts, and the Trial Judge seldom keeps or is unable to keep that eagle's eye on the demeanour of witnesses, otherwise characteristic of his/her duties. The recorded testimony of witnesses in Law Courts, let alone Lay Courts, nowadays would rarely carry remarks by the Judge on the margins of recorded evidence about the witnesses' demeanour. It is also true that overcrowded dockets of Trial Courts deprive the Trial Judge of all that opportunity, where he may bestow searching attention to the demeanour of witnesses. Despite these changed and changing conditions in the Trial Courts, the sound principle of law, under reference, cannot be discarded as rudimentary. At the same time, under the changed conditions of the day obtaining in the Trial Courts, this principle would certainly have a modified application, in this Court's opinion. This is so because the raison d'etre of the principle under reference is the fact that the Trial Judge, who renders judgment is the same Judge, who heard the witnesses. In present times, it is again a matter to be taken judicial notice of that the swelling dockets in Trial Courts, invariably lead to a situation where the Judge who hears, watches and records the witnesses, does not deliver judgment in the cause; some successor of his does. In a situation where another Judge records evidence and a different one decides, the pre-eminence of the Trial Judge's opinion regarding oral testimony looses its very foundation. Thus, in contemporary time, and times not so contemporary also, a party who wishes to rely on the principle that primacy be accorded to the evaluation of purely oral evidence by the Trial Judge/ Court/ Authority of first instance, must show for a fact that the incumbent Judge or Presiding Officer, who wrote judgment for the Trial Court/ Authority of first instance, was the same Presiding Officer who had heard and recorded evidence in the matter. This would then be the modification which the long standing principle must suffer in the changed times.

41. In the present case, proceedings before the Consolidation Officer, the Authority of first instance, were instituted in the year 1970 and decided half way down the year 1972. During the period of time to which these proceedings relate, these winds of change had come where it cannot be presumed that the Presiding Officer, who decided in the Court of first instance was necessarily the incumbent, who heard evidence. There is nothing on record to suggest that the Presiding Officer in this case, Sri C.P.N. Singh, the then Consolidation Officer-II, Jamania, District Ghazipur, was the incumbent Presiding Officer, before whom the witnesses testified. This is not asserted for a fact in the writ petition, though a ground based on the principle has been taken. This Court, therefore, is not minded to accept the contention of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that urges a blanket application of the classical principle. This Court, may, however, hasten to add that the principle would still apply in all cases where a party urges a case on its basis and shows that the Judge who heard evidence was the same Judge/Presiding Officer, who delivered judgment.

42. It is submitted by Sri Vishnu Singh that the findings of the Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority, about determination of the identity of Smt. Sona Kunwar, is vitiated on account of non-consideration of material evidence. He points out that the Consolidation Officer has considered the oral evidence of Sarju Tiwari, Smt. Sona Kunwar (both I and II) and Ramji, son of Sarju Tiwari to record his finding about the identity of Sona Kunwar. He further says that the Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority have not at all mentioned material and relevant oral evidence of these witnesses on this issue. Sri Bhola Nath Yadav, learned Counsel for the respondents does not dispute the fact that the oral evidence, about identity of Smt. Sona Kunwar, has not been considered by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities. He submits that not much would turn on that evidence, as it does not shed light on this rather perplexing issue, about the identity of Smt. Sona Kunwar. He submits that there are other material circumstances and documentary evidence considered by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities, that are relevant and germane to the issue. The evidence considered by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities, in the submission of the learned Counsel for the contesting respondents, is complete in itself to determine the identity of Smt. Sona Kunwar. According to him, the oral evidence is not at all relevant and the fact that the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities have not taken it into consideration, would in no way materially affect the conclusion.

43. The submission and its worth is to be tested on the basis whether the identity of Sona Kunwar, materially or decisively, turns upon oral evidence; or there is other evidence in the form of documents and circumstances forthcoming, in the face of which oral evidence may have little bearing on the relevant fact, if not discounted altogether. The Court of first instance has indeed looked into the oral testimony of Sarju Tiwari, the one that is part of his cross-examination, recorded on 22.07.1971. He has also referred to some stray lines appearing in the testimony of Smt. Sona Kunwar, without indicating whether this testimony comes from Sona Kunwar-I or Sona Kunwar-II. It would be profitable to extract from his judgment, what the Consolidation Officer has relied upon in the oral evidence of Sarju Tiwari and Smt. Sona Kunwar (whichever of the two it is):

"Phool Kunwar ke bad jomukadame lare usme asali sona Kunwar thiya nakall Sona Kunwar thimai nahi Janta Apame vo Ramji se alag se mukadama baji kiye vah farzi Sona Kunwar This. Pula Kunwar ke marne ke bad jo Sona Kunwar narin Va Bishwanath se mukdama baje kiya use main nahi janta. Main nahi Janta ki phool Kunwar ke marne ke bad Jis Sona Kunwar neer verasat ke karvah nahi kiya vah asali Sona Kunwar Thi ya nakali."

Sarjoo Tewari has started at other place in cross examination.

"Meri patni ne Ramji ke kabhi bhi alag nahi kiya jis Sona Kumwar ne yah bayan diya ho ki Ramji ko mai 25 sal se Alag kar diya hai vah stri meri patni nahi hai-------- agarki yah kahe ki Ramji va Sona kilheti alag alag his vah meri stri Sona nahi hai. Ramjee koi mukadama apne asali ma se nahi lara. In contradiction to the statement of Sarjoo Teweri Sona Kunwar has state:

"Phoola Kunwar marne ke bad Basdeo Va Ram Naresh se Mukadama Baji huyi huyi main hi asali sona kunvar."

44. From the aforesaid evidence, the Consolidation Officer has concluded that Sona Kunwar-II, described in the judgment as Sona Kunwar, represented by Sri Mohd. Taufiq Khan, Advocate is not the real Sona Kunwar. This Conclusion is based on contradiction deciphered by the Consolidation Officer in the evidence of Sarju Tiwari, admittedly the husband of Sona Kunar, whoever the real one be, Smt. Sona Kunwar-II and Ramji, the son of Sarju Tiwari. This contradiction, to support the conclusion that Sona Kunwar-II is not the real Sona Kunwar, is recorded in the Consolidation Officer's judgment in the following words:

"This statement proves that Sona Kunvar represented by Taufiq Khan is not real Sona Kunwar Sarjoo Tewari Says that the lady who filed objection with Bansdeo is not his wife while Sona Kunwar says that she has filed objection against Bansdeo. Further Sona Kunwar has stated in the court B.K. Chaturvedi that she is separate for 25 years with Ramjee. This contradicts the statement of Sarjoo Tewari who says that the lady who has given such statement is not his wife. Sona further stated in the court of B.K. Chaturvedi that his son lives separately which Sarjoo Tewari says that the lady who has give such statement is not his wife Sarjoo Tewari has stated that Ramjee has never contested any case against his mother while Ramjee as stated that he has contested with Sona Kunwar in the court of A.D.M. (J) in the court of Laljee Rai. Smt. Ramdei has taken the plea from the very begining that Sona Kunwar who is represented by Taufiq Khan is a fictitious lady. She was not able to prove it in earlier proceedings suits, But now the admission of Sarjoo Tewari referred above clearly shows that the lady who has contested earlier suits was the real Sons Kunwar is valid that the name of Sona Kunwar after the sale is fictitiously recorded in the village records that suit is not barred by resjudicata that Ramjee and Sona Kunwar had right to execute sale deed that Smt. Sona Kunwar Kunwar represented by Shri Mohamnad Taufiq Knan Advocate is fictitious lady the share of Sona Kunwar shall pass to Smt. Ramdei."

45. It is true that the Settlement Officer of Consolidation or for that matter the Deputy Director of Consolidation, have not gone about the task of analyzing the oral testimony of parties in recording conclusions contrary to the Consolidation Officer, about the identity of Sona Kunwar. They have looked into documentary evidence and circumstances that support the validity of their reasoning. On the other hand, the Consolidation Officer has referred to oral evidence of the three witnesses, above mentioned, not in wholesome detail, but somewhat torn out of context. This Court is aware of the fact that it is not its province to appreciate any kind of evidence and this Court does not propose to do that. However, it is certainly the duty of this Court to see whether the Authorities below, whose orders are brought up for judicial review, have proceeded to decision without ignoring from consideration material evidence, without taking into consideration irrelevant evidence and drawn conclusions that may not be termed perverse. These are byfar principles that have withstood the test of time. This Court has looked into the evidence of Sarju Tiwari, admittedly the husband of the woman, called Sona Kunwar. He has testified in great detail, shedding light on the identity of the two women claiming themselves to be Sona Kunwar, rivaling each other. This witness has been extensively cross-examined and much relevant material has been elucidated in that exercise. Likewise, there is a wealth of evidence coming from the two women claiming themselves to the genuine Sona Kunwar, that is to say, Sona Kunwar-I and Sona Kunwar-II. Both these women have been subjected to searching cross-examination, that sheds light on relevant facts. Again, Ramji who is the vendor of the sale deed of 1959, a central figure in this litigation and a son of Sarju Tiwari and Sona Kunwar, has testified to relevant and material facts. This witness too, has been extensively cross-examined.

46. This Court is of considered opinion that with so much evidence forthcoming in the shape of dock evidence of parties, who are involved in the entire transactions giving rise to this cause, the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities ought not to have passed over their testimony. Their evidence assumes importance, all the more, as the issue is about the identity of Sona Kunwar - the real Sona Kunwar wife of Sarju Tiwari and mother of Ramji - to be determined between two women, Sona Kunwar-I and Sona Kunwar-II. What makes it imperative for the said evidence to be considered all the more is the fact that this evidence, howsoever cursorily or in truncated form, was gone into by the Consolidation Officer, while writing his finding about the identity of Sona Kunwar. No doubt, the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities have considered very relevant circumstances and evidence to return concurrent findings about the identity of Sona Kunwar, in reversal of the Consolidation Officer, but bereft of consideration of the oral evidence referred to above, their findings cannot be sustained.

47. It is next submitted by Sri Vishnu Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner that the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities have acted upon irrelevant material, while returning their findings in favour of the third respondent. That irrelevant material, according to Sri Vishnu Singh, are judgments of the Mutation Authorities and the Court in the declaratory suit brought by the petitioner, where the same issues were involved inter partes. According to Sri Vishnu Singh, findings in mutation proceedings are absolutely irrelevant in determining a title dispute. He submits that so far as the findings in the declaratory suit are concerned, no doubt these went against the petitioner, but proceedings of that suit never attained finality. The petitioner lost the suit upto the Appellate Court, but carried the matter further in Second Appeal. Proceedings in the Second Appeal could not reach conclusion as these abated with the initiation of Consolidation Proceedings. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities should not have taken the findings as aforesaid into consideration, while writing the judgments impugned. Sri Bhola Nath Yadav on the other hand has urged that the Appellate and the Revisional Court have referred to the judgments in mutation proceedings and the declaratory suit in order to judge the conduct of parties, but have not acted on those findings while recording their own. He submits that findings of the two Authorities below are based on their independent appraisal of evidence, unaffected by findings of the mutation Authorities or the Courts that heard the declaratory suit.

48. A perusal of the judgment passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation shows that after a meticulous reference to proceedings and the outcome before the Mutation Authorities, as well as the decisions in the declaratory suit that abated at the stage of Second Appeal, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation has recorded the following findings:

"अस्तु उपर्युक्त परिस्थितियों में यह निष्कर्ष निकलता है कि बैनामा दिनांक 15-2-60 नितान्त संदेहास्पद और अवैध है। चकबन्दी आने के पूर्व जितने भी निर्णय हुए है उनके बारे में ऊपर विचार किया गया है। वे सभी निर्णय श्रीमती रामदेई के विपक्ष और श्रीमती सोना कुवर अपीलकर्ता के पक्ष में हुआ है। यद्यपि वे प्राड़न्याय का प्रभाव नहीं रखते फिर भी अपने आप में महत्वपूर्ण साक्ष्य हैं जो अपीलकर्ता श्रीमती सोना कुवर के पक्ष का समर्थन करते हैं।"

49. Likewise, the Revisional Authority has construed the effect of findings of the Mutation Authorities and those in the declaratory suit, in terms of the following findings:

"उपर्युक्त तथ्यों से स्पष्ट है कि रामदेई दो बार दाखिल खारिज के मुकदमें में हार गई और एक बार डिक्लेयरिटी सूट अन्तर्गत धारा 229 बी अपर आयुक्त, वाराणसी मण्डल, वाराणसी तक आ चुकी है। यद्यपि यह आदेश अन्तिम नही है, क्योंकि उसकी अपील चकबन्दी आ जाने के कारण राजस्व परिषद में अवेट हो गयी फिर भी यह आदेश साक्ष्य के रूप में माना जा सकता है।"

50. A perusal of these findings by the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities show that these Authorities have considered for relevant evidence, the decision of the Mutation Authorities inter partes as also the judgments in the declaratory suit. The proceedings of the suit never reached terminus ad quem. So far as the decisions of the Mutation Authorities are concerned, it is settled beyond cavil that those findings are in no way relevant in title proceedings. Mutation proceedings are summary proceedings to identify the person to be recorded, primarily for fiscal purposes. The proceedings in hand arise out of objections under Section 9-A(2) of the Act, which to all intents and purposes, are title proceedings. Thus, there is absolutely no justification for the Authorities below to have considered the findings of the Mutation Authorities as relevant evidence in title proceedings.

51. Likewise, proceedings of the declaratory suit instituted by the petitioner admittedly remained inchoate, as these terminated without final judgment in the Second Appeal on account of abatement, as a result of notification of Consolidation Operations. The findings recorded in the suit at lower rungs in the hierarchy of those Courts never attained finality and with abatement, whatever those findings were, stood effaced. The Authorities below were, therefore, in manifest error in relying upon findings recorded in the declaratory suit, that were snuffed out of existence with abatement of the suit in Second Appeal. In the opinion of this Court, therefore, the Authorities below acted on irrelevant evidence.

52. This Court may now venture to consider the last submission of Sri Vishnu Singh. He submits that the Appellate Authority, while writing the order impugned, has determined the identity of Smt. Sona Kunwar by doing a comparison of her thumb impression on the Vakalatnama before him with that on the sale deed of 1960. He has done so with the aid of a magnifying glass, without the assistance of an expert. Sri Vishnu Singh submits that while theoretically open to a Court or an Authority invested with judicial functions to do a comparison of two finger print specimen - one admitted and the other disputed - it is a course of action fraught with great peril. He submits that judicial authority frowns upon this mode of comparison, so far as finger print specimen go. Sri Bhola Nath Yadav, learned Counsel for respondents nos.3/1 to 3/3 submits that it is open to a Court to compare any kind of mark, signature or handwriting and the assistance of an expert is not an indispensable requirement.

53. This Court has looked into the relevant finding of the Appellate Authority which reads thus:

"चकबन्दी अधिकारी के समक्ष दिनांक 17-10-70 को जो स्त्री श्री बेचू सिंह वकील के माध्यम से अपने को असली सोना कुवर कहते हुए मुकदमा में सम्मिलित हुई है उसके अंगूठे के निशान भी बेचू सिंह द्वारा प्रस्तुत किए गए वकालतनामा पर हैं और अपील न्यायालय में श्री मदन मोहन चौबे द्वारा जो वकालतनामा प्रस्तुत किया गया उस पर भी उसके निशान अंगूठा है। श्री बेचू सिंह द्वारा प्रस्तुत वकालतनामा पर श्रीमती सोना कुवर का जो अंगूठा है, वह बहुत स्पष्ट नही है, किन्तु श्री मदनमोहन चौबे वाले वकालतनामा पर श्रीमती सोना कुँवर का निशान अंगूठा बहुत स्पष्ट है, वकालतनामा पर अंकित अंगूठों का मिलान मैने बैनामा दिनांक 15-2-60 पर अंकित श्रीमती सोना कुँवर के निशान से सूक्ष्म दर्शी शीशा के माध्यम से किया है। मोटे तौर पर बैनामा और वकालतनामा के निशान अंगूठा एक दूसरे से बहुत भिन्न हैं। एक में रेखाओं की दिशाएं बायी ओर हैं तो दूसरे में उसके विपरीत ठीक दाहिने। इससे भी स्पष्ट हो जाता है कि उत्तरवादिनी सोना कँवर ने जो बैनामा के ठीक 10 वर्ष बाद किसी न्यायालय में अपने को असली सोना कुँवर कहती हुई उपस्थित हुई है, बैनामा दिनांक 15-2-60 नहीं लिखा है।"

54. The Revisional Authority has recorded a similar finding, in approval of the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, which reads as follows:

"श्री बेचू सिंह द्वारा प्रस्तुत वकालतनामे पर जो सोनाकुँवर का कथित निशानी अंगूठा है, वह स्पष्ट नहीं है, परन्तु मदन मोहन चौबे वाले वकालतनामे पर अंकित अंगूठे के निशान का मिलान उन्होने 15-2-60 पर अंकित सोनाकुँवर के अँगूठा निशान से सूक्ष्मदर्शी शीशे के माध्यम से किया जो मोटे तौर पर दोनो निशानी अँगूठे एक दूसरे से बिलकुल भिन्न हैं। इससे स्पष्ट है कि जिस स्त्री का निशान अँगूठा बैनामा पर है, वह स्त्री नहीं है जो जब सोना कँवर बनकर बेचू सिंह एडवोकेट अथवा श्री मदनमोहन चौबे एडवोकेट के माध्यम से आ रही है।"

55. A perusal of these findings reveal that the Settlement Officer of Consolidation has ventured to compare the disputed and the admitted finger prints. He has clearly done so without the assistance of an expert. A simple magnifying glass is all that has been called in aid. The law does not prohibit a Court at all from undertaking a comparison of the disputed and the admitted finger prints, but finger print identification being a perfect and highly evolved science by now, it is perilous to undertake an unassisted enterprise of this kind for any Court. In the event, for any reason should the assistance of an expert be not forthcoming, the essential requirement for a Court to record a valid finding about the identity or dissimilarity of the admitted and the disputed finger prints, is to support them by reasons familiar to the science of finger print examination. The Court if left unassisted by an expert to compare specimen of finger prints that are disputed and admitted, must first ascertain that the specimens are clear and discernible. Hazy and blurred specimens cannot be compared without the aid of professional tools and devices, which the experts alone are trained to handle. Of course, with the assistance of expert opinion, it is for the Court to record conclusions based on reasons about the identity or the variance of the admitted and the disputed finger/thumb impressions. Ultimately, it is the Court's decision that clinches the issue and not the expert's opinion. The Court's decisions where assisted by expert opinion, whether a solitary one or two divergent opinions, must rest on sound reasons recorded by the Court to accept one or to reject the other. In situations, however, where the Court is left to fend for itself, it must go about the exercise of forming its opinion with assistance of learned Counsel and on parameters known to the science of finger print identification. The opinion finally expressed must be based on relevant and commensurate reasons. It certainly cannot be an ipse dixit of the Presiding Officer. The statutory provisions that govern and regulate the jurisdiction and powers of the Court, to undertake a comparison of the disputed and the admitted finger print specimens, are the provisions of Section 73 and 45 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. In the case of an Authority invested with judicial functions, like the Consolidation Authorities to whom the last mentioned provisions of the Evidence Act may not apply proprio vigore, the same would apply on principle.

56. The law on the issue of comparison of finger print impressions in the context of the Court's jurisdiction and power to undertake it has been authoritatively laid down by their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Thiruvengadam Pillai vs. Navaneethammal and another, (2008) 4 SCC 530. It has been held in Thiruvengadam Pillai (supra):

"15. Section 45 of the Evidence Act, 1872 relates to "opinion of experts". It provides inter alia that when the court has to form an opinion as to identity of handwriting or finger impressions, the opinion upon that point of persons specially skilled in questions as to identity of handwriting or finger impressions are relevant facts. Section 73 provides that in order to ascertain whether a finger impression is that of the person by whom it purports to have been made, any finger impression admitted to have been made by that person, may be compared with the one which is to be proved. These provisions have been the subject-matter of several decisions of this Court.

15.1. In State v. Pali Ram [(1979) 2 SCC 158: 1979 SCC (Cri) 389] this Court held that a court does not exceed its power under Section 73 if it compares the disputed writing with the admitted writing of the party so as to reach its own conclusion. But this Court cautioned: (SCC p. 168, para 30)

"30. ... Although there is no legal bar to the Judge using his own eyes to compare the disputed writing with the admitted writing, even without the aid of the evidence of any handwriting expert, the Judge should, as a matter of prudence and caution, hesitate to base his finding with regard to the identity of a handwriting which forms the sheet anchor of the prosecution case against a person accused of an offence, solely on comparison made by himself. It is therefore, not advisable that a Judge should take upon himself the task of comparing the admitted writing with the disputed one to find out whether the two agree with each other; and the prudent course is to obtain the opinion and assistance of an expert."

The caution was reiterated in O. Bharathan v. K. Sudhakaran [(1996) 2 SCC 704] . Again in Ajit Savant Majagvai v. State of Karnataka [(1997) 7 SCC 110: 1997 SCC (Cri) 992] referring to Section 73 of the Evidence Act, this Court held: (SCC p. 122, paras 37-38)

"37. ... The section does not specify by whom the comparison shall be made. However, looking to the other provisions of the Act, it is clear that such comparison may either be made by a handwriting expert under Section 45 or by anyone familiar with the handwriting of the person concerned as provided by Section 47 or by the Court itself.

38. As a matter of extreme caution and judicial sobriety, the Court should not normally take upon itself the responsibility of comparing the disputed signature with that of the admitted signature or handwriting and in the event of the slightest doubt, leave the matter to the wisdom of experts. But this does not mean that the Court has not the power to compare the disputed signature with the admitted signature as this power is clearly available under Section 73 of the Act."

15.2. In Murari Lal v. State of M.P. [(1980) 1 SCC 704: 1980 SCC (Cri) 330] this Court indicated the circumstances in which the court may itself compare disputed and admitted writings thus: (SCC p. 712, para 12)

"12. The argument that the court should not venture to compare writings itself, as it would thereby assume to itself the role of an expert is entirely without force. Section 73 of the Evidence Act expressly enables the court to compare disputed writings with admitted or proved writings to ascertain whether a writing is that of the person by whom it purports to have been written. If it is hazardous to do so, as sometimes said, we are afraid it is one of the hazards to which judge and litigant must expose themselves whenever it becomes necessary. There may be cases where both sides call experts and two voices of science are heard. There may be cases where neither side calls an expert, being ill-able to afford him. In all such cases, it becomes the plain duty of the court to compare the writings and come to its own conclusion. The duty cannot be avoided by recourse to the statement that the court is no expert. Where there are expert opinions, they will aid the court. Where there is none, the court will have to seek guidance from some authoritative textbook and the court's own experience and knowledge. But discharge it must, its plain duty, with or without expert, with or without other evidence."

The decision in Murari Lal [(1997) 7 SCC 110: 1997 SCC (Cri) 992] was followed in Lalit Popli v. Canara Bank [(2003) 3 SCC 583: 2003 SCC (L&S) 353].

16. While there is no doubt that court can compare the disputed handwriting/signature/finger impression with the admitted handwriting/ signature/ finger impression, such comparison by court without the assistance of any expert, has always been considered to be hazardous and risky. When it is said that there is no bar to a court to compare the disputed finger impression with the admitted finger impression, it goes without saying that it can record an opinion or finding on such comparison, only after an analysis of the characteristics of the admitted finger impression and after verifying whether the same characteristics are found in the disputed finger impression. The comparison of the two thumb impressions cannot be casual or by a mere glance. Further, a finding in the judgment that there appeared to be no marked differences between the admitted thumb impression and disputed thumb impression, without anything more, cannot be accepted as a valid finding that the disputed signature is of the person who has put the admitted thumb impression. Where the court finds that the disputed finger impression and admitted thumb impression are clear and where the court is in a position to identify the characteristics of fingerprints, the court may record a finding on comparison, even in the absence of an expert's opinion. But where the disputed thumb impression is smudgy, vague or very light, the court should not hazard a guess by a casual perusal.

17. The decision in Murari Lal [(1997) 7 SCC 110: 1997 SCC (Cri) 992] and Lalit Popli [(1980) 1 SCC 704: 1980 SCC (Cri) 330] should not be construed as laying a proposition that the court is bound to compare the disputed and admitted finger impressions and record a finding thereon, irrespective of the condition of the disputed finger impression. When there is a positive denial by the person who is said to have affixed his finger impression and where the finger impression in the disputed document is vague or smudgy or not clear, making it difficult for comparison, the court should hesitate to venture a decision based on its own comparison of the disputed and admitted finger impressions. Further, even in cases where the court is constrained to take up such comparison, it should make a thorough study, if necessary with the assistance of counsel, to ascertain the characteristics, similarities and dissimilarities. Necessarily, the judgment should contain the reasons for any conclusion based on comparison of the thumb impression, if it chooses to record a finding thereon. The court should avoid reaching conclusions based on a mere casual or routine glance or perusal."

57. In the present case, what this Court finds is that the findings with regard to difference between the admitted and the disputed specimen, recorded by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation is not reasonless. But, it is virtually that. The one line reason that has been assigned is to the effect that in one specimen, the lines tend to the left whereas in the other they tend in the opposite direction, that is, right. Nothing more has been said to support his opinion by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation that the two specimens differ. So far as the Deputy Direction of Consolidation is concerned, his finding is absolutely without reasons. All that he says is that upon a comparison of the admitted thumb impression on the Vakalatnama of Sri Madan Mohan Chaubey with that on the sale deed dated 15.02.1960, executed by Sona Kunwar, undertaken with the aid of a magnifying glass, the two thumb impressions are apparently different. This kind of a finding is squarely in teeth of the law laid down by their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Thiruvengadam Pillai (supra).

58. Reverting to the findings of the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, this Court's remark earlier made that it is virtually without reasons, is to be understood in the context of reasons that are germane to identification of thumb impressions/ finger prints. As already said, the science of finger print identification is a perfect and highly evolved science. It has its own corpus of assimilated and systematized knowledge with a distinct methodology and terminology. If a Court is constrained to opine without the assistance of one or more experts, about the genuineness of a finger print/ thumb impression, its reasons must be expressed in terms understood and known to the science of finger print identification. For the purpose, the Court must look into an authoritative text book on the subject and seek assistance of Counsel, before recording findings based on reputed and recognized parameters.

59. In order to determine what would be the essential parameters of reasoning for a Court to hold that the admitted and the disputed finger prints/ thumb impressions do not agree, reference may be made to a reputed text book on the subject, Saxena's Law And Technique Relating To Identification Of Handwriting, Disputed Documents, Finger Prints, Foot Prints And Detection Of Forgeries (Third Edition, 1990) Revised by Atul Kumar Singla and Published by the Central Law Agency, Allahabad.

60. In Chapter XIX titled, "Classification of Finger Prints for Comparison Purposes', finger prints have been classified into four main types and nine sub-types detailed in this Chapter, under the head, "Introduction". The learned Author describes these types and their sub-types as follows:

1) "Different workers have suggested their own classification systems, but in and in most of other countries of this world, Henry system of classification is prevalent, in which finger prints are classified into four main types and nine sub-types as under :-

Main types	Sub-types
1. Arch type
	Plain Arch, Tented Arch.
2. Loop type
	Radial Loop, Ulnar Loop.
3. Whorl type
	Whorl.
4. Composite type
	Central Pocket Loop,
	Lateral Pocket Loop,
	Twinned Loop,
	Accidentals."

61. There is then in the second head of the chapter, a reference to finger print terminology. This head is titled "Finger Print Terminology". Some of the principal terms and their precise connotation, detailed by the learned Author are quoted in extenso:

"2. Finger Print Terminology

Before dealing with different pattern types in detail, the basic understanding of the terminology used in finger prints is necessary.

(a) Finger

One of the terminal parts of the hand is known as finger. The fingers are named as Thumb, Index finger, Middle finger, Ring finger and Little finger.

(b) Finger Print

The impression of the bulb of a finger on a surface is known as finger print. When this print is not readily visible to the unaided eye, it is called latent finger print.

(c) Ridges

The raised portions of the friction skin of the hands and soles are known as ridges. In the black inked impression, these ridges appear as black lines. (See figure No. XVII-4).

(d) Finger print pattern

The design formed by ridges on the bulb of finger is known as finger print pattern, which can be classified.

(e) Pattern Area

The area covering the portion of finger print from which the finger print pattern can be determined, is termed as pattern area.

(f) Type Lines

The two inner most ridges which start parallel, diverge and surround or tend to surround the pattern area are called type lines.

(g) Delta

According to Federal Bureau of Investigation, the delta in finger prints is defined as "The Delta is that point on a ridge at or in front of and nearest the center of divergence of the type lines. The delta may be a bifurcation, an abrupt ridge ending, a dot, a short ridges, a meeting of two ridges or a point on the first recurving ridge located nearest to the center and in front of the divergence of the type lines'.

The delta which is also called "Outer Terminus' may also be defined as The ridge characteristic nearest to the point of divergence of type lines'.

The Delta can be a bifurcation, a ridge ending, a short ridge, a ridge dot or a point on a continuous ridge as illustrated below :-

While locating delta, the examiner has to be careful in fixing the type lines and determining the point of divergence of two type lines.

(h) Core

The approximate center about which the ridges form pattern is known as core.

The point of core is important for correct ridge counting and for the correct interpretation of loops and Whorls.

According to Mr. Henry the core of a loop may consist either of an even or an uneven number of ridges (termed "rods') not joined together or it may consist of two ridges formed together at their summit (termed "staple'). Where the core consists of an uneven number or rods, the top of the central rod is the "point of core'. If the core is a staple, the shoulder of the staple that is farthest from the delta is taken as the "point of the core', the nearer shoulder counting as a separate ridge. Where the core consists of an even number of rods, the two central ones are considered as joined at their summits by an imaginary neck, and, of these two, the shoulder farthest from the delta is the "point of the core'. In Whorls circular or elliptical in form, the center of the first ring is the "point of the core'. Where the Whorl is spiral in form the point from which the spiral begins to revolve is the "point of the core'. "Point of the core' is synonymous with "inner terminus.

(i) Ridge characteristics

The peculiarities in the ridges such as bifurcation, ridge ending, enclosure etc. resulting from the deviations from the normal raticulation of the ridges are known as ridge characteristics (See figure No. XVII-4).

(j) Bifurcation

When one ridge splits into two ridges running in different directions, that characteristic is known as bifurcation. (See figure No. XVII-4).

(k) Ridge ending

When a normally flowing ridge ends abruptly, that characteristic is known as ridge ending. (See figure No. XVII-4).

(l) Enclosures

When a single ridge bifurcates and reunites to enclose some space, that characteristic is known as enclosure. (See figure No. XVII-4).

(m) Island

A small ridge having only one sweat pore is known as Island. (See figure No. XVII-4).

(n) Ridge counting

The number of ridges crossing or touching an imaginary line drawn between the point of core and delta of a loop pattern is known as Ridge counting.

For the determination of accurate ridge counting, the examiner must locate exact core and delta, otherwise, errors in locating these fixed points may result in wrong ridge count.

Some of the rules to be followed in the determination of ridge counting :-

1. The ridges are counted between core and delta, but the point of core and delta are not included in the count.

2. If the imaginary line passes through the enclosure, a ridge count of two is made at that time. While passing through the enclosure, the line may pass through the center or through bifurcating ends.

3. If the imaginary line touches the point of bifurcation, a ridge count of two is made at that point.

4. If the line touches a ridge dot, a count of one ridge is made at that point.

5. A white space must intervene between delta and ridge count."

62. There is a wealth of other terms from this science and their characteristic types explained with reference to figures. This Court does not propose to further quote or refer to these terms, for all that is not of much relevance here. Mention of the terminology introduced by the Author has been particularly made, to serve as a reminder of the fact that reasoning based on this precise science of finger prints, must inform the Court's mind before an opinion is expressed regarding similarity or dissimilarity of admitted and disputed finger print specimen. Also, reasons given should be expressed in terms of reputed principles evolved by this science. To the comparison of finger prints, the learned Author has devoted Chapter XX in his Treatise. In this Chapter under the heading, "Comparison of pattern type', the learned Author has dealt with subject as follows:

"4. Comparison of pattern type

As already discussed in Chapter XIX finger prints can be classified into four main types mainly Arch, Loop, Whorl and Composites which can be sub-classified into sub-types i.e. Plain Arch, Tented Arch, Radial Loop, Ulnar Loop, Whorls, Lateral Pocket loop, Twinned loop, Central pocket loop and Accidentals.

When the two impressions tally in their main and sub-pattern types, it means that they belong to the same general class and there is a need to compare their individual characteristics. Without comparing them further and in details, no definite opinion can be formed/ given about their identity or non-identity.

When the two finger prints do not tally in their main pattern type e.g. if one finger print is of Whorl type and the other is of loop type, or they tally in the main pattern type, but differ in the sub-pattern type e.g. if both the impressions are loop type, but one of them is opening towards Left and the other is opening towards Right, then it means that they do not belong to the same general class, hence they are definitely non-identical. (See figure Nos. XX-2,3)"

63. Further on, the learned Author has dealt with the topic of "Comparison of Individual Ridge Characteristics' in the following words:

"5. Comparison of Individual Ridge characteristics

When two finger prints tally in their main pattern type and sub-pattern type, or when their pattern type cannot be determined due to one or the other reason, the confirmation test to declare them identical or non-identical, rests on the comparison of their individual ridge characteristics such as bifurcation, ridge ending, enclosure, ridge dot, island etc. In short, it can be said that the true basis for comparison of finger prints is the comparison of their individual ridge characteristics.

When two finger prints tally in their main and sub-pattern type and sufficient number of ridge characteristics in their nature, positioning and number of ridges intervening between them, they are surely identical with each other and impressed by one and the same finger. (See figure No. XX-4) When two finger prints tally in their main and sub-pattern types, but they differ in the ridge details, they are non-identical impressions impressed by different fingers. (See figure No. XX-5) 4)"

64. The learned Author has then proceeded to discuss the number of points in finger prints sufficient to establish their identity. He has expressed himself on this issue going by the contemporary view at the time when the Treatise under reference was authored. Six points with identity of pattern are sufficient to opine that two impressions come from the same digit. What is further required about these six points, the learned Author has dilated. All that need not detain this Court, for here is a case where an opinion about disagreeable identity has been expressed by the Authorities below. On the issue as to what are the essentials required to hold opinion that two finger prints are non-identical, the learned Author has expressed the requirement in the following words, mentioned under a separate head, in Chapter XX:

"8. How many points are necessary to declare the non-identity of finger prints ?

Two finger prints can be declared non-identical on even a single point of material difference between them e.g. if two finger prints differ in their main pattern type or sub-pattern type or ridge counting or ridge tracing or in their ridge characteristics, they have surely been impressed by different fingers."

65. Now, a look at the reason assigned by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation would show that he has said not a word about the main pattern type and if that were similar, about the sub-pattern type. He could have just opined about the main pattern types, if they were not similar to support his conclusion, and, if the main pattern type was similar, a dissimilarity in the sub-pattern type would have served as good reason. If both of those were similar, the conclusion would have to be supported by ridge counting or ridge tracing or the ridge characteristics. In the event, the two finger prints fell under the same main pattern type, for example loop type, with one opening to the left and other to the right, the conclusion would be justified. This example draws on the illustration mentioned in Saxena's Treatise under the heading, "Comparison of Pattern Type" (supra). This illustration is a case where diversion is found in the sub-pattern type. In his one line reasoning, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation says no more than this that the orientation or direction of the lines, in one of the specimens is to the left whereas in the other, to the right. There is no mention in the slightest measure about the main pattern type, which if similar, a distinction drawn on the basis of sub-pattern type, with reference to lines opening to the left or the right. The opinion expressed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, appears to be utterly uninformed and based on no more than what is popularly called, "common sense". This kind of a reasoning bereft of reference to the cardinal principles, evolved by the science of finger print identification, cannot be accepted to be any reason at all. The findings of the Settlement Officer of Consolidation on this count must be held to be bereft of reason. It would, therefore, vitiate the conclusion.

66. It must be remarked that substantially, all that is now required to be re-determined by the Consolidation Authorities is the issue about the identity of Smt. Sona Kunwar. This Court is mindful of the fact that those two women may no longer be available, but there is sufficient evidence on record, to decide the issue. It must also be remarked that evidence of witnesses already on record, who are close relatives of Sona Kunwar, whosoever is the genuine one, requires to be carefully evaluated by the Authorities below, both of whom are Authorities of fact. This evidence cannot be left unattended or undealt with, particularly so, as the Authority of first instance has referred to it. A reversal of the Consolidation Officer's order could not be validly done, unless oral evidence that he has considered or some other part of it, was considered and made basis of the reasoning by the Appellate or the Revisional Authority.

67. This Court has noticed earlier in this judgment that shares of parties appear to have been incongruently worked out. This is on account of the fact that Smt. Sona Kunwar has been granted a half share in the Khata in question whereas she appears to have a half share in the land in dispute. The land in dispute is a smaller part of the Khata in question. The parties have not addressed the Court on this issue but there appears to be some incongruity about the working out of their shares. This Court would not like to express itself at all about the entitlement of parties to the shares in the Khata in question, but certainly thinks that upon determination of the substantial issue hereinabove indicated, inter se the petitioner and respondent no. 3/1 to 3/3, the shares of parties in the Khata in question ought to be redetermined by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. It is clarified that this Court does not propose to express any opinion about the shares of parties in the Khata in question which the Settlement Officer of Consolidation would be free to determine in accordance with law. It is also clarified that in working out the shares of parties in the Khata in question the legal representatives of the original petitioner Ram Dei, those of original respondents no. 3, Ramji besides the LRs of original respondent nos. 4 and 5, Jagardev and Mukhdev, respectively, shall be heard.

68. To sum up, this matter would have to go back to the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, who would be obliged to decide afresh, on the basis of evidence on record or some further evidence, if forthcoming. The issue whether the sale deed dated 15.02.1960 was executed by Sona Kunwar or by an impostor shall be gone into and decided. To this end, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation would have to decide the question whether Sona Kunwar-I or Sona Kunwar-II is the genuine person. The issues/ questions that have been finally determined by this Court are no longer open to the Authorities below to examine. It is also clarified that except for the two counts on which this matter would stand remanded to the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, no other or further or fresh issues would be open to the parties to canvas.

69. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed in part. The impugned orders passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Ghazipur dated 26.02.1985 and the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Ghazipur dated 04.12.1972 are hereby quashed. The five appeals, originally filed by Smt. Sona Kunwar and Smt. Ram Dei shall be decided afresh by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, after necessary substitution of the parties' legal representatives in accordance with law and hearing all parties concerned, bearing in mind what has been said in the body of this judgment. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation concerned shall endeavour to decide the appeals within six months of receipt of a certified copy of this judgment. Till decision of those appeals by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, status quo regarding possession, nature and character of the land in dispute as exists today, shall be maintained by the parties. Costs easy.

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 154- Hostile Witness- Injured witnesses- No corroboration with medical- The presence of (PW-2), (PW-4) and (PW-12) are concerned although PW-2 and PW-4 have been brought forward as the two injured eye witnesses but they have not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile. Even (PW-12) the other eye witness who is said to be accompanying PW-2 while they were on their way to attend the call of the nature also did not support the prosecution case and has been declared hostile- The medical evidence does not corroborate at all with the prosecution version.

It is settled law that testimony of a hostile witness can be considered to the extent it supports the case of the prosecution. However, where the witness is hostile completely and his injuries are also not corroborated from the medical, it would be unsafe to rely upon such testimony.

Criminal Law-Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376- In so far as the statement of "R' recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is concerned, she in Court has resiled from it and has in very specific terms stated that she had deposed under the threat of police. The deposition given in the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. remains uncorroborated.

The court cannot secure the conviction of the accused where the prosecutrix not only resiles from her statement u/s 164 Cr.Pc but also fails to support the case of the prosecution and the medical also fails to corroborate the case of the prosecution.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376(2) (g) - Section 34 IPC- Conviction under- It is settled law that common intention or the intention of the individual concerned in furtherance of the common intention could be proved either from direct evidence or by inference from the acts or attending circumstances of the case and conduct of the parties. Direct proof of common intention is seldom available, and therefore, such intention can only be inferred from the circumstances appearing from the proved facts of the case and the proved circumstances.

Although common intention can only be inferred from the proved facts and circumstances but where the prosecution witnesses fail to prove the facts and attending circumstances, such intention cannot be inferred so as to convict the accused with the aid of section 34.

Since all the prosecution witnesses (excluding the ones who were part of interrogation) have not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile, the corroboration through medical evidence is also not available, the statement of "R' recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. remains uncorroborated and also that the site plan does not show the place from where the eye witnesses are said to have seen the present occurrence, it is very unsafe to rely on the prosecution case as put forward.

Judgements/ Case law relied upon: -

1. C. Muniappan & ors. Vs St. of T.N, (2010) 9 SCC 567

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. The aforesaid criminal appeals are connected together and arise out of judgement and order dated 17.07.2003 passed by the Special Judge, SC / ST Act, Kanpur Dehat in Special Session Trial No. 28 of 2002 (State of U.P. Vs. Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Another) whereby the appellant Rajendra Prasad Pandey has been convicted and sentenced under Section 452 I.P.C. for one year Rigorous Imprisonment, under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 for one year Rigorous Imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1000/-, under Section 376 I.P.C. to life imprisonment, under Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 to life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1000/-, Section 323 read with Section 34 I.P.C. to six months Rigorous Imprisonment, under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 to six months Rigorous Imprisonment and under Section 504 I.P.C. to six months Rigorous Imprisonment.

The accused / appellant Sunil Kumar Singh has been convicted and sentenced under Section 452 I.P.C. to one year Rigorous Imprisonment, under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 for one year Rigorous Imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1000/-, Section 376 read with Section 34 I.P.C. to life imprisonment, under Section 3(2)(5) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 to life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1000/-, Section 323 read with Section 34 I.P.C. to six months Rigorous Imprisonment, under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 to six months Rigorous Imprisonment and under Section 504 I.P.C. to six months Rigorous Imprisonment.

It has been ordered that in default of payment of fine both the accused-appellants shall undergo six months additional imprisonment. The trial court has ordered the sentences to run concurrently. The benefit of Section 428 Cr.P.C. has been ordered to be extended to the accused - appellants.

2. In view of the legislative mandate as contained in Section 228-A of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 and the observations made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in various judgements the identity of the prosecutrix / victim is not being disclosed and she will be referred to as "R' hereinafter.

3. The prosecution case as per the First Information Report lodged by "R' / P.W.-1 is that on 31.10.2000 at about 2:00 A.M. she was present in her house wherein Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Constable Sunil reached her house and told her to open the door citing some reason of some accused on which she opened the door and then both the persons caught hold of her, took her towards the field wherein Inspector Pandey forcibly threw her on the ground and committed rape on her. It is further stated in the First Information Report that at that time one Aashiq Ali son of Khuda Baksh and Ibrar son of Tasveer Ali who are co-villagers came there to attend the call of nature and on seeing them the first informant started shouting on which the said two persons caught hold of Aashiq Ali and had mercilessly beaten him. On hearing the shouts and shrieks many persons of the village reached there and the Inspector was apprehended by them but Constable Sunil somehow managed to run away. She then states that her report be registered and appropriate action be taken.

4. The application for lodging of the First Information Report was given by "R' to the police of which Shiv Narayan Singh is the scribe, the same is marked as Exb: Ka-1 to the records. On the basis of the said application a First Information Report was registered on 31.10.2000 at 11:40 AM at Police Station Bilhaur, District Kanpur Dehat as Case Crime No. 490 of 2000, under Sections 376, 323, 34 I.P.C. and Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes Act against Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh. The said First Information Report is marked as Exb: Ka-7 to the records.

5. The prosecutrix / victim "R' was medically examined on 31.10.2000 at about 09:00 PM by Dr. Manju Agarwal P.W.- 14 at Duffrin Hospital, Kanpur. The medical examination report is marked as Exb: Ka-2 to the records. The doctor conducting the medical examination found no mark of injury on the external body. Further no mark of injury was seen on the private part of body. The hymen was torn and an old tear was present. The vagina admitted two fingers easily. The victim was referred for X-Ray for the opinion about her age.

6. A supplementary report dated 04.11.2000 was prepared by Dr. Manju Agarwal which is marked as Exb: Ka-3 to the records. While, placing reliance on the X-Ray report and pathological report and the medical examination report the doctor opined that no definite opinion regarding rape can be given as she is used to intercourse. The age of the victim was opined to be above 25 years. The said report is marked as Exb: Ka-3 to the records.

7. The accused-appellant / Rajendra Prasad Pandey was also subjected to medical examination on 31.10.2000 at about 11:20 PM by Dr. R.S. Pratihar (P.W.- 15). The doctor conducting the medical examination has mentioned in the said report that no smell of alcohol is coming out from his breath. He is in full sense and not under intoxication. While, examining the private part of the accused the doctor did not find any injury or any semen on it. The opinion as arrived by him is that he is not under intoxication and is in full sense. Further there is no semen seen on the tip of his penis. The said medical examination report is marked as Exb: Ka-6 to the records.

8. Aashiq Ali (P.W.- 2) was examined on 31.10.2000 at about 12:15 PM by Dr. R.S. Pratihar (P.W.- 15). The doctor found the following injuries on his person:-

(1) Contused 4 cm x 1.2 cm on back side of left fore-arm 6 cm below the elbow. Red colour.

(2) Contusion Swelling 9 cm x 3.5 cm on antero lateral aspect of the left leg. 9 cm below the left knee, red colour.

(3) LW of size 3 cm x 2 cm x Muscle on back side of Rt. Leg 3 cm below the knee.

The injuries were opined to be simple in nature having a duration of about half day and caused by hard and blunt object. The said medical examination report is Exb: Ka-5 to the records.

9. Rakesh (P.W.-4) was medically examined on 31.10.2000 at 12:25 PM by Dr. R.S. Pratihar (P.W.- 15) and the doctor found the following injuries on his person:-

C/o pain on both side of buttock

C/o pain on Left side chest.

The injuries were opined to be simple in nature having a duration of about half day and caused by hard and blunt object / weapon. The said medical examination report is Exb: Ka-4 to the records.

10. Certain clothes being a sari, petticoat and an underwear were sent to the chemical analyst for analysis. A report dated 12.01.2001 was sent by the chemical analyst in which after analysis he found spermatozoa to be present on sari and underwear which were marked as item nos. 1 & 3 respectively and also human semen were found on the said items. On the item no. 2 being the petticoat no spermatozoa or semen was found. The said report is Exb: Ka-15 to the records.

11. The investigation concluded and a charge-sheet dated 17.01.2001 was submitted against Rajendra Prasad Pandey the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 3345 of 2003, under Sections 376, 354, 452, 323, 504, 34 I.P.C. and Section 3(2)(5) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 and against Sunil Kumar Singh the accused in Criminal Appeal No. 3371 of 2003 under Sections 354, 323, 504, 452, 34 I.P.C. and 3(1)(x) Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 as an absconder. The same is Exb: Ka-14 to the records.

12. The trial court vide its order dated 15.03.2002 framed charges under Sections 452 I.P.C. read with Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, Section 376 I.P.C. read with Section 3(2)(5) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, Section 323 / 34 I.P.C. read with Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 and Section 504 I.P.C. read with Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 against accused Rajendra Prasad Pandey.

13. Against accused Sunil Kumar Singh, the trial court vide its order dated 15.03.2002 framed charges under Sections 452 I.P.C. read with Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, 376/34 I.P.C. read with Section 3(2)(5) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, Section 323/34 I.P.C. read with Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 and Section 504 I.P.C. read with Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989.

14. Both the accused persons pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried. They have also led their defence by way of producing defence witnesses.

15. The prosecution in order to prove its case produced "R' as P.W.-1 who is the prosecutrix / victim and the first informant also. Aashiq Ali (P.W.-2) is one of the injured persons and a co-villager, Rajesh Kumar (P.W.-3) is also a co- villager, Rakesh (P.W.-4) is the other injured person and a co-villager who runs a general merchant shop in the village, Sipahi Lal (P.W.-9) is a relative of the husband of the prosecutrix / victim being the elder brother of the brother-in-law of Nandram who is the husband of the prosecutrix / victim. Ibrar (P.W.-12) is the nephew of Aashiq Ali as the eye-witness of the incident. Amongst the formal witnesses Shiv Narain (P.W.-5) is the scribe of the First Information Report, Smt. Samina wife of Ibrar is the daughter-in-law of Aashiq Ali, Shri Krishna (P.W.-7) is the witness of the recovery of clothes of the accused and the victim, Dinesh Kumar (P.W.-8) is the witness like Shri Krishna (P.W.-7) as being the witness of the clothes of the accused and the victim, Dr. Ram Narain (P.W.-10) provided first aid and dressing to Aashiq Ali, Nandram (P.W.-11) is the husband of "R', Praveen Kumar

(P.W.-13) is a Constable in police who states to have got his ravangi recorded at the police station along with accused Sunil Kumar Singh for duty in village Dalelpur, Dr. Manju Agarwal (P.W.-14) conducted the medical examination of "R', Dr. R.S. Pratihar (P.W.-15) conducted the medical examination of Aashiq Ali (P.W.-2) & Rakesh (P.W.-4) and Rajendra Prasad Pandey the accused, Dharmendra Kumar Mishra (P.W.-16) is the head Constable who transcribed the First Information Report, prepared its chik and states to have received an information on telephone through Village Pradhan that Sub-Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey has been apprehended by villagers, Smt. Kamleshwari Chand (P.W.-17) is the Circle Officer and is the second Investigating Officer who took up the investigation from 01.11.2000 from Sri B.N. Chaturvedi, Circle Officer, Bilhaur, concluded the investigation and submitted the charge-sheet, B.N. Chaturvedi, Circle Officer (P.W.-18) is the Investigating Officer who had the case in his hand up to 01.11.2000 and then the same was transferred to Smt. Kamleshwari Chand (P.W.-17) and lastly, Sukh Sagar Shukla, Sub-Inspector (P.W.-19) who received information about some dispute between Sub-Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh with the villagers through the head Constable of Police Station- Bilhaur and also the fact that they have been apprehended by the villagers who then proceeded to the place of occurrence along with other police personnels.

16. In defence, accused / Rajendra Prasad Pandey produced two witnesses being Krishna Narain Bhatt the Station Officer, Police Station Bidhnu as D.W.-1 who has stated about some dispute between S.B. Pathak, S.P.R.A. with the accused-appellant / Rajendra Prasad Pandey and then Madan Prasad Sharma, Sub-Inspector Police Station Bidhnu (D.W.-2) who also states about some dispute between S.B. Pathak, S.P.R.A. and accused-appellant / Rajendra Prasad Pandey.

17. The trial court after considering the entire evidence on record came to the conclusion that there is sufficient evidence against accused-appellant / Rajendra Prasad Pandey for committing rape on "R'. In so far as, the accused Sunil Kumar Singh is concerned the trial court came to a conclusion that although Sunil Kumar Singh did not commit rape on the prosecutrix but still under the amended Section 376(2)(g) I.P.C., he is guilty of gang rape and although he has not committed actual rape but still would be guilty of the same and further that "R' is a downtrodden women belonging to the Scheduled Castes / Scheduled Tribes community, hence, provisions of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes Act would also be applicable and thus convicted the accused persons as stated above.

18. We have heard Sri Bed Kant Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants in both the appeals and Mrs. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record. Since both the appeals arise out of a common judgement and order, the same are being decided by this judgement.

19. Learned counsel for the appellants made the following submissions:-

(i) The prosecutrix / victim is a major lady. She is a married women. There is no evidence whatsoever in the present matter to show that rape has been committed on her.

(ii) The medical evidence does not in any manner corroborate with the prosecution case. The doctor did not find any mark of injury either on the external body of the prosecutrix or on her internal part. She was opined to be used to sexual intercourse. The link which comes forward by way of medical evidence for corroborating an incident of rape is totally missing as the doctor in the supplementary medical examination report herself has opined that no definite opinion about rape can be given and she is used to intercourse.

(iii) All the prosecution witnesses being "R' (P.W.-1), Aashiq Ali (P.W.-2), Rajesh Kumar (P.W.-3), Rakesh (P.W.-4), Shiv Narain (P.W.-5), Smt. Samina (P.W.-6), Shri Krishna (P.W.-7), Dinesh Kumar (P.W.-8), Sipahi Lal (P.W.-9), Dr. Ram Narain (P.W.-10), Nandram (P.W.-11) and Ibrar (P.W.-12) have not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile.

(iv) The report of the chemical examination cannot be given reliance upon as a fact of corroboration as the witnesses of the recovery of the said clothes being Shri Krishan (P.W.-7) and Dinesh Kumar (P.W.-8) have not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile and as such the said report is of no worth. Even if the same is considered to be of any worth, the same cannot be given credence as there is no evidence whatsoever to show that the stains present on the said clothes were due to the act of rape as committed by the accused-appellant and as such the same cannot in any manner be linked and associated with the present incident.

(v) The accused Rajendra Prasad Pandey has come forward with a specific defence of his superior police officer being annoyed with him due to which he has been falsely roped in for which two defence witnesses were produced by him which have wrongly been not disbelieved by the trial court.

20. On the other hand, the learned Additional Government Advocate for the State opposed the submissions of the learned counsel for the appellants on the ground that although the said 12 witnesses have been declared hostile but the manner in which they have been declared hostile shows that they were at some point of time won over and thus they changed their version before the trial court. The evidence of the prosecutrix / victim is sufficient enough to prove a case of rape. It is argued that the statement of "R' was recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. wherein she very clearly states about the entire story as to how rape was committed on her. It is argued that the present occurrence occurred as stated by the prosecution at the date, time and place by the accused persons named therein. It is argued that since the accused persons are police personnels, they have won over the witnesses under threat and pressure. It is argued that the appeal lacks merit and is liable to be quashed.

21. "R' (P.W.-1) is the prosecutrix / victim and the first informant of the present case. She in her exaimination-in-chief states that on 30/31.10.2000 the accused persons came to her house at about 2:00 A.M. At that time she, her five children, Guddi wife of her son and her nandoi / Sipahi Lal were present. Her husband Nandram had gone to village Biharipur. The accused persons came and from outside asked her to open the door as some persons of bad antecedents were living there and a raid is being conducted for arresting them. Sipahi Lal the nandoi of "R' opened the door. Both the accused were in their uniforms. Both of them disclosed their name to her. She states that Inspector was not in a state of intoxication. She identifies the accused in the court as Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Sunil Kumar Singh Constable and states that both of them were in their uniform. She further states that both the accused persons then took Sipahi Lal her nandoi out of the house to a near by road crossing. She was not taken out of the house. She states that the accused persons did not take her out of the house towards the field. She further states that neither the said persons assault her on her body nor they committed rape on her. She further states that she was then waiting for her nandoi to return wherein 2-3 unknown persons wearing kurta-pyjama came and took her towards the field and all the said 03 persons committed rape on her against her wish. She raised shouts on which Aashiq Ali reached there. It was night. No other person came. Aashiq Ali was not assaulted by the said persons. While, running he fell down and received injuries. She states that Sipahi Lal was not beaten by the accused persons present in court before her. She states that the accused persons were not apprehended by the villagers. She went to the police station along with Shiv Narain. The Inspector of police present at Police Station Bilhaur had got her thumb impression affixed on plain paper and had told her that she may go back and her report will be registered. She states to have not dictated any First Information Report to Shiv Narain. She further states that police Inspector present there had himself got her medically examined and her X-Ray examination was also got conducted. She states that the Inspector had taken her petticoat and had taken the sari of her daughter-in-law which was called from the house. She states that no clothes of the accused were taken before her. Bundle of clothes present before the trial court were opened from which the sari and the petticoat were identified by "R' as that of her but she states that she does not know about the underwear. The said witness was then declared hostile at the request of the A.D.G.C. and was allowed cross-examination. In the cross-examination "R' admits her thumb impression on the written report. She denies the fact that the accused persons took her from the house and committed rape on her. She further denies the fact that Aashiq Ali received injury during the course of saving her from the accused persons on which he was beaten by them. Even the fact of beating Sipahi Lal and Rakesh is being denied by her. She denies the fact that the accused-appellant Rajendra Prasad Pandey was apprehended at the place of occurrence. She denies the fact of getting a report prepared at the village from Shiv Narain and then affixing her thumb impression. To her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. twice, she denies and states that she never gave any such statement. While, being countered to her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. she states that the police Inspector had threatened her that if she does not give the statement as stated by him then she would be implicated in a case of charas. She states that she did not make any complaint to any police official about the fact that she was threatened to give the name of the present accused persons in the matter. To a suggestion that she has sided with the accused persons who have threatened her and as such she is giving such statement, she denies. She further denies the fact that the underwear of accused Rajendra Prasad Pandey was taken into custody in her presence. The trial court drawing her attention to the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. clarified to which she has stated that when her statement was being recorded Inspector Sukh Sagar Shukla was not standing inside the court but was standing outside and even no police personnel was standing inside the court then further in the cross-examination she states that her elder son is aged about 22-23 years, she was married around 25 years back and there is no other person by the same name as that of her and her husband in the village.

22. Aashiq Ali (P.W.-2) states that on the day and time of the incident or at any time or date the accused persons did not commit rape on "R' and did not assault her. He further states that even the said persons did not assault him. He was declared hostile and was permitted cross-examination by the A.D.G.C. In his cross-examination he denies giving any statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the Investigating Officer. To a suggestion that he under pressure of the accused who are police personnels and under threat is giving the said statement and not stating the truth, he denies. He further denies the fact that under threat he and "R' had given affidavit in the court. He specifically denies that the accused persons assaulted him as a result of which he received injuries. To the fact that villagers had apprehended the accused he states that he does not know about it.

23. Rajesh Kumar (P.W.-3) is a businessman, he states that on 30.10.2000 the accused persons at about 9:00 PM came to his shop along with Constable Praveen. He states that they did not instruct him to call anyone. He further states that Dipu son of Ram Asrey Katiyar was not called by them through him. He states that Sipahi Lal the relative of "R' was present with them. "R' was not with them. He further states that neither Aashiq Ali was apprehended by the accused persons nor he was beaten before him. He even states that Aashiq Ali did not get medical aid in front of him. He further states that it is incorrect that "R' was with the accused persons and they were assaulting her and had committed rape on her. He states that the accused persons stayed throughout the night at his shop. He further states that Sipahi Lal the relative of "R' was there for some time and then he went back. This witness has also been declared hostile and was permitted cross-examination by A.D.G.C. To his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he denies the same to have been given to anyone. He further denies the fact that "R' was with the accused persons and they were committing immoral acts on her. He further denies that Aashiq Ali was also present there, was beaten and was then provided first aid. Lastly, to a suggestion that the accused are police personnels and as such under threat and pressure he is giving a false testimony, he denies.

24. Rakesh (P.W.-4) is also a businessman and a general merchant and is also an injured. He states that on 30/31.10.2000 at about 2:00 PM Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh came to his house and Sunil Kumar Singh asked for a packet of spices on which he while going down the ladder he slipped and received injuries. He states that it is incorrect that the accused persons had assaulted him. He states that the police personnels and persons of the village took him to the doctor but he was unconscious. He states to have re-gained consciousness at his house after returning from the hospital. He was informed by the villagers that they and the police took him. He states that he does not know that Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey had committed rape on "R' who is the wife of Nandram and further states that even he has not heard of any such incident. He was then declared hostile and the A.D.G.C. was permitted cross-examination. The witness then denies his giving statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and further states that he did not give any such statement that on the night of the present incident Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh had assaulted him as a result of which he received injuries. He states that he has not heard on any such fact that Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey had committed rape on "R' wife of Nandram and senior police officials had come there and further denies that he, "R', Aashiq Ali and Inspector Pandey were taken to the police station and then were sent to the hospital for medical examination. On a suggestion that since the accused are police personnels he is giving a false testimony under their threat and pressure, he denies the same.

25. Shiv Narain (P.W.-5) is the scribe of the application given for lodging of the First Information Report. He in his examination-in-chief identifies his handwriting and signature on the application. He states that the Station House Officer, Sukh Sagar Shukla dictated him the same which he transcribed. He states that no thumb impression of "R' was affixed in front of him. He identifies his handwriting and signature and the said document is marked as Exb: Ka-1 to the records. He was also declared hostile and the A.D.G.C. was permitted cross-examination. He denies the fact that "R' had dictated the First Information Report and after reading it to her, her thumb impression was got affixed. He denies that the statement which he has given in court in the examination-in-chief that the application was dictated to him by Sukh Sagar Shukla, Station House Officer is because of threat and pressure of accused persons. He denies his giving any statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to anyone. He further states that he did not make any complaint to any police official or court regarding the fact that the said application was not dictated by "R' but was dictated by Sukh Sagar Shukla, Station House Officer.

26. Smt. Samina (P.W.-6) states that Aashiq Ali is her father-in-law. She states that her father-in-law was not assaulted by police on 31.10.2000. To her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., she states that she did not give any such statement that the police personnels regarding assault in the night on her father-in-law and Chhotey Lal had managed first aid. She states that she does not know the accused persons from before. To a suggestion that the accused persons are police personnels and she is giving the said statement under threat and pressure, she denies the same.

27. Shri Krishna (P.W.-7) has been produced as a witness of the recovery of clothes of the accused, Rajendra Prasad Pandey and "R'. In his examination-in-chief he denies the fact that any recovery of any underwear of Rajendra Prasad Pandey and sari and petticoat of "R' were effected before him and Dinesh Kumar. He states that they were made to sign on plain papers and even "R' did not sign before them. He states that nothing was written on those papers. He identifies his signatures on two papers and states again that when he had signed them then there was nothing written on them. He was declared hostile and the A.D.G.C. was permitted cross-examination. He states that he knows Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey who was posted at the Police Station- Bilhaur. He denies the fact that clothes of "R' and the accused were recovered before him. He further states that it is incorrect to state that the recovery memo was drawn, read out to them and then they were made to sign on it. On his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he states that he has not given any such statement to anyone and he has not given any such statement that police Constable Dharmendra Mishra had taken the clothes of the accused and "R' in possession. To a suggestion that he is giving the statement under threat and pressure of police Inspector, he denies the same.

28. Dinesh Kumar (P.W.-8) is also said to be a witness of the recovery of the clothes of "R' and the accused. As like Shri Krishna (P.W.-7) he has also been declared hostile and has stated the same as has been stated by Shri Krishna (P.W.-7) and as such the same is not being repeated being identical.

29. Sipahi Lal (P.W.-9) is a relative of "R'. The relationship of Sipahi Lal has been disclosed by him and he states to be the elder brother of Chedi Lal who is the brother-in-law of Nandram the husband of "R' and as such in short he is the elder brother of the brother-in-law of the husband of "R'. He has been addressed by "R' a her nandoi. In his examination-in-chief he states that on 30/31.10.2000 he was in the house of Nandram in the night. In the house on that day "R' and her daughter-in-law were present. Nandram was not in the house and his son Ram Gopal had gone to village Biharipur for processing of paddy. He states that he, "R', her two children, his daughter had gone to the parental house of "R'. He further states that in the night at about 1-1:30 PM two police personnels came who were not known to him since before and they said to open the door disclosing their identity and stating that persons of bad antecedents are living there. He states that it was dark and as such he was unable to identify as to who was a Constable and who was an Inspector. He was then taken for some distance up to a godown nearby which is of fertilizers and there is a crusher nearby. He states that "R' was not taken to accompany them. He was then in between questioned by them and was then let off. He was even given one or two slaps by them. He states that Aashiq Ali was beaten by the police personnels before him and they had got him provided first aid. He further states that no Inspector or Constable committed any immoral act with "R'. He further states that even "R' did not inform him of the police either molesting her or committing any illegal act on her. He further states that he did not inform Nandram of any such incident of rape and molestation being committed on his wife by Inspector and Constable. He was declared hostile and permitted cross-examination by the A.D.G.C. To his statement recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C., he states that he had not given any such statement to police. On seeing the accused persons present in the court, he states that he cannot tell as to they were the two persons present at that night or not. On a suggestion to him that the accused are police Inspector and Constable and under threat and pressure he is giving such statement, he denies to the same.

30. Dr. Ram Narain (P.W.-10) is said to be the doctor who had provided first aid and dressing to Aashiq Ali. In the examination-in-chief he states that on 30/31.10.2000 at about 12:00 PM he had done dressing and provided first aid to Aashiq Ali for the injuries received by him. He states that he was not brought by the accused persons present in the court. He states that Aashiq Ali had come all alone. He further states that Aashiq Ali had informed him that he had a boil which had burst. He further states that "R' was not accompanying Aashiq Ali. He states that blood was oozing out of the boil present on the body of Aashiq Ali. He further states that Aashiq Ali did not give him money at that time but stated that he will give it in the morning. He denies the fact that Aashiq Ali was brought to him by Inspector Rajendra Pradad Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar. He was declared hostile and the A.D.G.C. was permitted cross-examination. He was read over his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to which he states that he did not give any such statement that Inspector Rajendra Pradad Pandey along with "R' and her relative Sipahi Lal and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh had come with Aashiq Ali for providing him first aid and after the dressing was done Inspector Rajendra Pradad Pandey told him that he will give money in the morning. To a suggestion, he states that it is incorrect that he is giving such statement under threat and pressure of Inspector and Constable.

31. Nandram (PW-11) is the husband of "R'. He states that in the night of 30/31.10.2000 he had gone for the harvesting paddy crop and his son also accompanied him. He states that his wife, children and his daughter-in-law were in the house. He further discloses the name of his wife who is prosecutrix/victim in this matter. He states that in the night his brother-in-law Sipahi Lal was present in his house where his wife and children were there. He states that on 31.10.2000 in the morning, Sipahi Lal or any other person did not give any such information to him in Biharipur that Inspector of Bilhaur R.P. Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh had come to his wife and asked for Rs. 500/- and on not giving the same, had insulted his wife. The said witness was declared hostile and A.D.G.C. was permitted to cross examination. The witness was read over his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to which he said that he did not give any such statement. He denies the fact that he was informed by his wife about the incident of rape and insult after he came back and also that Inspector R.P. Pandey has been apprehended in the village and also that he took his wife to the police station for getting the report lodged. He further denies the fact that Sipahi Lal gave any information to him.

32. Ibrar (PW-12) is the nephew of Aashiq Ali one of the injured persons. In Court, he fails to identify accused Inspector R.P. Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh. He states that on 30/31.10.2000 between 12:00 AM to 2:00 PM or any other time, he did not see the accused persons committing rape and insulting "R'. He denies the fact that Inspector R.P. Pandey committing rape on "R'. He denies the fact that he was accompanying his uncle Aashiq Ali while going to attend the call of the nature and as soon as Aashiq Ali coughed, he and his uncle Aashiq Ali were assaulted by Inspector R.P. Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh. He further states that it is not true that under the threat and pressure of Inspector R.P. Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh, he is not telling the truth. He states that he was not medically examined nor his uncle was medically examined. The said witness was also declared hostile and was permitted cross examination by the A.D.G.C. He denies recording of his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C, he states it is incorrect that due to threat and pressure of the accused persons, he is not speaking the truth.

33. Praveen Kumar (PW-13) is a Constable Police. He states that on 30/31.10.2000 his ravangi was recorded along with Constable Sunil Kumar Singh for duty in village Dalelpur. In the night at about 7:00-8:00 PM, sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey who was the In-charge of the area reached there and then R.P. Pandey took him for dinner to village Garheva where they had their dinner and brought food for Constable Sunil Kumar Singh. He states that till that time, it was too late in the night. Later on, he states that Inspector R.P. Pandey told him to stay there and he went away along with Constable Sunil Kumar Singh and after sometimes both of them came back and along with them there was a lady and a man also present who were talking to each other. After having some talks, both the persons went back. He states that he did not pay any attention as to what they were talking as there was nothing special at that time. He states that later on the Inspector went out for sleeping. In the morning, when he and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh were about to go to the police station then he woke up the Inspector. He was quite sleepy, on which, he said that they may leave and he will come later on and they went to the police station and got their return registered in the records. He states that when the police Inspector and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh had come to the police picket along with lady, the Inspector was talking to her. He further states that he then asked the Inspector as to why he had brought the lady and in the night he should not have brought the said persons and whatever had to be discussed could have been done in the morning, to which, he did not pay any attention. He had taken the lady at a lonely place and Sunil Kumar Singh remained with him. He states that he did not let Sunil go with the Inspector. Then, after about 30-40 minutes both of them came back and the lady and a man accompanying her were sent back. He further states that on 30/31.10.2000 his ravangi was recorded on 19:40 hrs in GD No. 36 to which he had signed. He states that he and Inspector R.P. Pandey was together from the gate of police station and went to village Deva. They reached the police picket at village Dalelpur in the night at about 7:00-7:30 PM he remained at the picket till morning. He returned back to the police station in the morning and got his return registered there. He states that he had eaten his food in village Garheva at about 08:30-09:00 PM and had brought the food for the Inspector and constable with him. He states that he did not see Constable Sunil Kumar Singh and Rajendra Prasad Pandey consuming liquor together and neither was any smell coming out from their mouth. He states that after having their meals, two persons went to raid the house of Nandram. Sipahi Lal along with 2-3 other persons and one lady had come to the police picket. Sipahi Lal was being interrogated separately by the Inspector and then Chotey Lal Katiyar was called and Sipahi Lal was left. All the persons were interrogated and had left. He states that he cannot tell as to who all persons were present there but states that one person was getting himself treated by Dr. Vishwash at the place near the picket to which he asked him as to who had assaulted him but he did not tell him. He states that Rakesh was not present at the picket point but the Sipahi Lal was being interrogated separately at a distance of about 15-20 steps. There was no light present at the picket. The Inspector In-charge had convened a meeting at the police station, in which, he had told them to conduct the raid. He further states that he did not know Sipahi Lal from before. He states that he was also suspended for about four months in the present incident and was reinstated on 10.03.2001. He states that the Officers had not pressurized him that if he will not give any statement like this then he will remain suspended. He states that after interrogation the lady and Sipahi Lal both went back together. The lady and the man was then not called again to the picket point. To a suggestion that he is giving the statement under the threat and pressure of Inspector Sukh Sagar Shukla, he denies the same. He further states that he did not see Constable Sunil Kumar Singh talking to any man or any woman. He states that Constable Sunil Kumar Singh and he remained at the picket and had got their return registered at the police station together. He states that during interrogation at the picket, no one came there and in the morning at 05:30 or after he and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh both went to the police Station. He states that while being with Constable Sunil Kumar Singh he did not see him interrogatting anyone or indulging in any marpeet. He states that it is incorrect that he has given his statement under the pressure and threat of Inspector Sukh Sagar Shukla.

34. Dr. Manju Agarwal (PW-14) had examined "R' on 31.10.2000 at about 09:00 PM. She states that on external examination, she did not find any mark of injury on her body. Further, she states that on internal examination, she did not find any injury on her private parts. The hymen was old and torn and admits two fingers easily. She states to have prepared a slide of vaginal smear and had referred her for X-Ray examination for estimation of age. She states that after receipt of pathological report and X-Ray Report, she prepared a supplementary report wherein she did not find any dead or alive spermatozoa. As per the X-Ray Report of "R' she was aged about 25 years. She states that no specific opinion about rape can be given. The medical examination report and the supplementary report were prepared by her which are marked as Exb: Ka-2 and Ka-3 respectively to the records. She states that dead or alive spermatozoa can be found or cannot be found even after wash till 72 hrs. Both the situations are possible.

35. Dr. R.S. Pratihar (PW-15) is the doctor who conduct the medical examination of Aashiq Ali, Rakesh and accused Rajendra Prasad Pandey.

He states to have examined Aashiq Ali on 31.10.2000 and had found three injuries. The same are not being reproduced herein as they have been already quoted above.

He further states that on the same day i.e. 31.10.2000 at about 12:25 PM, he had examined Rakesh brought by constable police and had noted the injuries in the injury report. The said injuries have already been reproduced above and as such are not being reproduced here as being repetitive.

Further, he states that he examined Rajendra Prasad Pandey on the same day i.e. 31.10.2000 at about 01:20 AM and prepared a medical report about the same. The details of the same have already been stated above and are also not being stated herein as being repetitive.

The said medical reports have been proved by him and marked as Exb: Ka-4, Ka-5 and Ka-6 respectively to the records.

He further states that smell of alcohol remains for about 8-10 hrs and depends upon the quantity consumed. The larger the quantity consumed the longer is its effect. He states that he had examined Rajendra Prasad Pandey physically but had not referred him for pathological analysis for determination of alcohol. He states that if blood is tested then the result may defer from that of physical examination. He states that blood was not sent for examination. He further states that if the penis is washed then sperms will not come in the slide. In the cross examination, he states that in the letter received by him which is known as chitthi majroobi there was no mention of any section or case crime number. He states that he did not know as to what was the offence. He states that in the injury report in the time of examination there is an overwriting which has been attested by him. He states that the injuries can be as a result of fall. He denies the suggestion that he has given the injury report under the pressure of Inspector Sukh Sagar Shukla.

36. Dharmendra Kumar Mishra (PW-16) is the head moharrir. He states that on 31.10.2000, he received a telephone information through village Pradhan that Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey has been apprehended by villagers. He communicates the same to the S.H.O, Sukh Sagar Shukla who proceeded along with force to village Dalelpur at about 08:30 AM and returned to the police station at about 11:40 AM along with some police personnels accompanying him, "R', Nandram and other persons and Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey. He further states that an application was given to him by "R' which is marked as Exb: Ka-1 to the records on the basis of which he registered the First Information Report and prepared the chik and later on, prepared the GD to the same. The chik FIR and the GD are marked as Exb: Ka-7 and Exb: Ka-8 respectively to the records. He states that information about the incident was sent through R.T. Set to higher officials for which a GD was also recorded at about 08:30 AM being GD No. 25 dated 31.10.2000, the same is Exb: Ka-9 to the records. He states to have sealed the clothes of "R' and accused R.P. Pandey in front of the witnesses. Thus two cloths being the petticoat and sari of "R' were marked as material Exb: Ka-1 and Ka-2 respectively and underwear of accused R.P. Pandey was marked as material Exb: Ka-3. He states that the clothes were sent for chemical examination. The recovery memo of the clothes of R.P. Pandey is marked as Exb: Ka- 10 and the clothes of "R' is marked as Exb: Ka- 11. He states that at the time of lodging of the First Information Report, injured Rakesh and Aashiq Ali had also come. He then states that "R', Rakesh and Aashiq Ai were sent for medical examination to C.H.C. Bilhaur and later on R.P. Pandey after being arrested by the Station House Officer, Bilhaur was also sent to the same place for medical examination. In the cross examination, he states that as per the records of police station dated 31.10.2000 Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey has been shown to be present at the police station on that date. He states that on the information of village Pradhan, he did not launch a search in the campus of police station for the Sub-Inspector. He states that he had informed that Station House Officer, Bilhaur about the telephonic information received to him. The concerned Station House Officer did not launch a search for the Sub-Inspector but instead proceeded for the place of occurrence along with police force. He states that he did not register the absence of Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey regarding the information received by him on telephone. He states that he did not register the telephonic information in the records at the police station on the instructions of the Station House Officer but did so on his own. He states that police station Bilhaur is situated after a distance of 13 kms from village Dalelpur. There is a metalled road between the two places. He states that prior to 10:00 AM Aashiq Ali, Rakesh and R.P. Pandey were not sent for medical examination. The medical examination reports were not received at the police station upto 10:30 AM. He states that the medical reports were not sent to the hospital for getting the date and time changed in the same. To the cutting on the same, he states that it is incorrect to say that the cutting in the reports were done at the police station and small signatures were affixed to it. He states that he does not know as to how "R', R.P. Pandey, Aashiq Ali and Rakesh were taken to the hospital. He states that when "R' came to the hospital, she was accompanied by her husband Nandram and other persons of village. He states that after lodging of the First Information Report, the clothes taken off by "R' were immediately taken into custody. In the last, he has been given a suggestion while being cross examined for accused R.P. Pandey that he did not receive any information on telephone and the entire paper work has been done at the police station itself under the supervision of Inspector Sukh Sagar Shukla in a forged manner. For being cross examined for accused Sunil Kumar Singh, he states that he did not recognize the voice of village pradhan on phone but the person disclosed his identity. He states that from the voice, he could not confirm as to that the person calling is village Pradhan or not. He states that on 30.10.2000 at about 08:00 PM R.P. Pandey was present in the police station campus at the time of attendance. He states that as per the records of police station, R.P. Pandey was present at the police station on 31.10.2000 at about 06:05 AM. Constable Sunil Kumar Singh was also present at the police station on 31.10.2000. On the suggestion that he has given a false testimony, he denies. He denies the suggestion that both the persons were detained at the police station and all paper work was done there which is a fabrication.

37. Smt. Kamleshwari Chand (PW-17) is the Circle Officer and the second Investigating Officer of the case. She took up the investigation on 01.11.2000 and concluded it by submitting the charge sheet which is Exb: Ka-14 to the records. She states that after taking over the investigation, she recorded the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of "R', Rajesh Kumar, Dr. Ram Narain Vishwash, Aashiq Ali, Masooque Ali, Masoom Ali, Sipahi Lal, Nandram etc. She inspected the spot and prepared the site plan. She states that she got the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. of "R' recorded. She submitted charge sheet against R.P. Pandey and as Sunil Kumar Singh was absconding, he was mentioned as an absconder in the charge sheet which was submitted against him, he had later on surrendered in Court. She states that she does not remember as to whether she took any sanction for prosecution against a government servant. She states that in the site plan, she has not shown the place from where the witnesses are said to have seen the present incident. She states that at the time of lodging of the present case, Sri S.P. Pathak was posted as S.P. (Rural Area). She states that she does not know whether "R' is a lady of criminal antecedent and a case under Section 302 I.P.C. is registered against her. To a suggestion to her that the accused persons have been falsely implicated in the present matter at the behest of S.P. (Rural Area) Sri S.P. Pathak and Sukh Sagar Shukla, she denies. She further denies the fact that she did not interrogate the witnesses and has submitted charge sheet in an incorrect manner. Further, she states that in the CD dated 31.10.2000, the medical reports are not enclosed. She states that she has read the medical report and as per the medical report, the case is made out and hence she submitted charge sheet. To the over writings in the medical reports, she states that they are not related to her. To a suggestion that under the pressure of higher officials, she has done the proceedings in the matter and submitted charge sheet to the same, she denies the same.

38. Sri B.N. Chaturvedi (PW-18) is the Circle Officer and the first Investigating Officer in the matter. The investigation remained with him only upto 01.11.2000. He states that on 31.10.2000 at about 08:30 AM, some unknown person made a telephonic call to him and informed him that Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey of Police Station Bilhaur has been apprehended by villagers of village Dalelpur and some unrest is there. He informed Inspector Sukh Sagar Shukla about the same, on which, he was informed that the information has been received by Sukh Sagar Shukla and he is proceeding to the said place. This witness also proceeds for the said place. He states that on reaching there, he saw 50-60 people and Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey present there. The persons present there complained to him that Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey had raped a lady named "R' and had also indulged in marpeet with some persons. He states to have then talked with "R' and Ibrar who stated about the incident, on which, he instructed the Station House Officer, Bilhore to get a First Information Report registered. After registration of the FIR, he started investigation, recorded the statement of "R' who supported the said occurrence then the statement of accused Sub-Inspector was recorded and asked him as to why he had gone to village Dalelpur as his ravangi is not recorded, to which, he did not reply. He states that superior officers also came at the place of occurrence. The investigation was then transferred from him on 01.11.2000. In the cross examination, he states that at the time when the present incident was reported he was posted as C.O., Bilhaur. Sukh Sagar Shukla was at that time posted as Inspector Bilhaur. Sri S.B. Pathak, S.P. (Rural Area) was also posted there. He states that he, Sukh Sagar Shukla and accused R.P. Pandey were subordinates to Sri S.B. Pathak, S.P. (Rural Area). He states to have received telephonic information that Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey has been apprehended by persons in village Dalelpur. The said information was received by him on 31.10.2000 at about 08:30 AM when he was at his residence. He does not know as to who informed him about the same and from which number the information came to him. He denies the fact that he did not receive any information and on the pressure of S.P. (Rural Area), the said story has been planted. He states to have recorded the statement of "R', R.P. Pandey and Pradeep Kumar when he had reached the place. He states that he did not record the statement of the injured person as the investigation was transferred from him. He states that Inspector Sukh Sagar Shukla had reached the said place at a prior time. He denies the suggestion that he did not go to the place of occurrence and the case has been lodged against R.P. Pandey in a fictitious manner. He further denies that under the pressure of S.P. (Rural Area) the present case has been registered in a forged manner.

39. Sukh Sagar Shukla (PW-19) was posted as the Station House Officer of Police Station Bilhaur at the time of the said incident. He states that he received an information from head moharrir that Inspector R.P. Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh have indulged in some dispute in village Dalelpur and they have been apprehended there, on which, he with other police personnels reached the said place and saw the village pradhan and other people. He further states that "R' and Inspector R.P. Pandey were also present there. The people present there informed him that at about 02:00 AM, Inspector R.P. Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh had taken "R' from her house and committed rape on her and the same was witnessed by some persons who were assaulted by them due to which, they were detained but Constable Sunil Kumar Singh who was along with constable Praveen Kumar on daily gust duty somehow managed to run away and constable Praveen Kumar got his return registered at the police station all alone. He states that people also informed him about the same and gave him a written report, on which, he directed the constable clerk to register a First Information Report and directed him to give the investigation to the Circle Officer and brought Inspector R.P. Pandey with him. "R' and some other persons of the village and the injured persons were also brought to the police station. He states that Senior Officials had reached the police station and on finding that the matter is against a police officer, the said officer was immediately suspended. The Sub-Inspector had without getting his ravangi registered took an official revolver with him and went to Dalelpur. He further states that in the same sequence, he directed the head constable to take into possession the clothes of "R' and the accused. Inspector R.P. Pandey being suspended was arrested by him and lodged in the lock up.

40. The accused Rajendra Prasad Pandey in his defence produced two witnesses.

41. Krishna Narayan Bhatt (DW-1) Station House Officer, Police Station Bidhnu. He states about some dispute between him and S.B. Pathak, S.P. (Rural Area). He further states that the S.P. (Rural Area) used to probe him for getting information against R.P. Pandey but no substantial information could be provided to the S.P. (Rural Area) by him. He states that there was a dispute going on between the S.P. (Rural Area) and Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey.

42. Madan Prasad Sharma (DW-2) is the Sub-Inspector, Vidhnu. He states to be posted there from January 2000 onwards from a period of seven months. He also stated that there was a dispute between Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey and the S.P (Rural Area).

43. The trial court from the material on record came to the conclusion that "R' is a downtrodden women, he husband was not at home, the accused on the pretext of conducting raid took her to the fields and committed the occurrence. The witnesses were beaten, received injuries, rape was committed by no one gave evidence. They have either been pressurised or won over and have turned hostile. It is stated that although the prosecutrix/victim has not spoken anything but the circumstances speak for it. The incident cannot be said to be false. Only on the basis of all the witnesses turning hostile, declaring the prosecution to be false, is incorrect.

44. It is apparent that PW-1 is the informant of the present case and also the prosecutrix/victim. Aashiq Ali (PW-2) and Rakesh (PW-4) are the injured persons and also eye witnesses of the incident. Ibrar (PW-12) is also an eye witness of the incident. All the said four witnesses have not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile. Apart from these four witnesses Rajesh Kumar (PW-3), Shiv Narain (PW-5) the scribe of the FIR, Smt. Samina (PW-6), the daughter-in-law of Aashiq Ali, Shri Krishna (PW-7) the witness of recovery of clothes of accused and "R', Dinesh Kumar (PW-8) also the witness of recovery of cloths of accused and "R', Sipahi Lal (PW-9) the relative of the husband of "R', Dr. Ram Narayan (PW-10), the doctor who provided first and dressing to Aashiq Ali and Nandram (PW-11) the husband of "R' have also not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile.

45. The law regarding the appreciation of evidence of a hostile witness is well settled and very clear. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of C. Muniappan and others Vs. State of Tamil Nadu: (2010) 9 SCC 567 has in para 81 to 83 summarised the same and has held as follows:

"Hostile Witness:

81. It is settled legal proposition that:

"6..... the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross examine him. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent that their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof. (vide Bhagwan Singh v. The State of Haryana: (1976) 1 SCC 389; Rabindra Kumar Dey v. State of Orissa: (1976) 4 SCC 233; Syad Akbar v. State of Karnataka: (1980) 1 SCC 30; and Khujji v. State of Madhya Pradesh: (1991) 3 SCC 627).

82. In State of U.P. v. Ramesh Prasad Misra & Anr.: (1996) 10 SCC 360, this Court held that evidence of a hostile witness would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon. A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Balu Sonba Shinde v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 7 SCC 543; Gagan Kanojia & Anr. v. State of Punjab, (2006) 13 SCC 516; Radha Mohan Singh @ Lal Saheb & Ors. v. State of U.P.: (2006) 2 SCC 450; Sarvesh Naraian Shukla v. Daroga Singh & Ors.: (2007) 13 SCC 360; and Subbu Singh v. State, (2009) 6 SCC 462.

83. Thus, the law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence."

46. It is the case of the prosecution that two accused persons one of whom is a Sub-Inspector of Police and the other is a Constable Police raided the house of "R' and accused Rajendra Prasad Pandey committed rape on her.

47. The accused particularly Rajendra Prasad Pandey has been challenging the entire prosecution case on the ground of being inimical to the Superintendent of Police (Rural Area) and has suggested the same to the witnesses and even led evidence in defence for the same. In so far as the presence of Aashiq Ali (PW-2), Rakesh (PW-4) and Ibrar (PW-12) are concerned although Aashiq Ali and Rakesh have been brought forward as the two injured eye witnesses but they have not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile. Even Ibrar (PW-12) the other eye witness who is said to be accompanying Aashiq Ali while they were on their way to attend the call of the nature also did not support the prosecution case and has been declared hostile.

48. The fact that Sub-Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey was detained by villagers of village Dalelpurva also does not get corroboration from the evidence of "R' and the eye witnesses. The presence of Sub-Inspector Rajendra Prasad Pandey within the territory of Dalelpurva cannot be said to be at a place beyond his official territory as he was posted at the police station within whose jurisdiction, the said village fell. There has been hectic cross examination and suggestion and even the accused persons Rajendra Prasad Pandey has led defence evidence to show his enmity with a superior officer. It has been also admitted in the cross examination of B.N. Chaturvedi (PW-18) the Circle Officer, Bilhaur that he, Sukh Sagar Shukla Station House Officer, Police Station Bilhaur and the accused Sub-Inspector R.P. Pandey, all the three were subordinates to Sri S.B. Pathak, the Superintendent of Police (Rural Area).

49. The medical evidence does not corroborate at all with the prosecution version.

50. In so far as the statement of "R' recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is concerned, she in Court has resiled from it and has in very specific terms stated that she had deposed under the threat of police. The deposition given in the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. remains uncorroborated. "R' has however retracted from her previous statement, though she was confronted with her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. She in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. had affirmed that she was raped by Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Constable Sunil Kumar Singh also instrumental in bringing her from her house with Rajendra Prasad Pandey but he was not present where rape was committed and was standing away on the road. However, since she has retracted from her previous statement the prosecution cannot avail any assistance, for her earlier statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C.

51. In so far as accused-Constable Sunil Kumar Singh is concerned, he has been convicted with the aid of Section 34 IPC. It is settled law that common intention or the intention of the individual concerned in furtherance of the common intention could be proved either from direct evidence or by inference from the acts or attending circumstances of the case and conduct of the parties. Direct proof of common intention is seldom available, and therefore, such intention can only be inferred from the circumstances appearing from the proved facts of the case and the proved circumstances. He has although not been held guilty under Section 376 IPC but has been held guilty under Section 376(2)(g) IPC.

52. Since all the prosecution witnesses (excluding the ones who were part of interrogation) have not supported the prosecution case and have been declared hostile, the corroboration through medical evidence is also not available, the statement of "R' recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. remains uncorroborated and also that the site plan does not show the place from where the eye witnesses are said to have seen the present occurrence, it is very unsafe to rely on the prosecution case as put forward. There is a sharp variation in the version as brought forward regarding the beating of Ashiq Ali and his injuries received by him. We are conscious enough of the sensitivity with which offence of rape and/or gang rape has to be treated but in the present case the circumstances taken as a whole create doubt about the correctness of the prosecution version. We are, thus, of the opinion that a case is made out for giving benefit of doubt to the accused persons.

53. In the result, this Court comes to the conclusion that the benefit of doubt deserves to be extended to the appellants, namely, Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Sunil Kumar Singh.

54. The trial court while recording the sentence of the appellants as apart from the sentences in other sections has recorded once that the appellants shall be convicted and sentenced under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 for one year rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 1,000/- and later on has again convicted and sentenced the appellants under Section under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 for six months rigorous imprisonment. Thus, the sentence under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 has been provided twice in the impugned judgment and order.

The sentence awarded under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 for six months rigorous imprisonment to both the appellants is as such set aside.

55. The conviction and sentence as awarded by the trial court is hereby set aside. The impugned judgement and order dated 17.07.2003 passed by the trial court is liable to be set aside, which is accordingly set aside.

56 The present appeal is allowed.

57. The appellants are on bail. They are not required to surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties stands discharged.

58. Keeping in view, the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C., the accused appellants, namely, Rajendra Prasad Pandey and Sunil Kumar Singh are directed to forthwith furnish a personal bond in terms of Form No. 45 prescribed in the Code of Criminal Procedure of sum of Rs. 25,000/- with two reliable sureties in the like amount before the Court concerned which shall be effective for a period of six months along with an undertaking that in the event of filing of Special Leave Petition against the instant judgment or for grant of leave, the aforesaid appellants on receipt of notice thereof shall appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

59. The lower court record along with a copy of this judgment be sent back immediately to the trial court concerned for compliance and necessary action.

60. The party shall file computer generated copy of such order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad.

61. The computer generated copy of such order shall be self attested by the counsel of the party concerned.

62. The concerned Court /Authority /Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

Criminal Law-Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 304-B- Conviction under- Sentenced to life imprisonment- Challenge only to the quantum of sentence- The present case is a case of dowry death. The motive for the offence is that of non-fulfilment of the demand of dowry. The death is unnatural and within seven years of marriage, to be more precise after 3-1/2 years of marriage. The Apex Court has in the case of Hem Chand Vs. State of Haryana: (1994) 6 SCC 727 held that in a case under Section 304-B IPC, awarding extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be in rare cases and not in every case.

In view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, Section 304-B of the IPC only raises presumption and lays down that minimum sentence should be seven years but may extend to imprisonment for life, hence extreme sentence for life imprisonment should be awarded only in rare cases.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 304-B- In the present case the appellant has served out about 14 years and 4 months (without remission) and there is no special and rare feature attracting maximum punishment. Accordingly, while confirming the conviction of the appellant under Section 304-B IPC appellant sentenced to 12 years' (twelve years') rigorous imprisonment and the sentence imposed by the trial court under Section 304B I.P.C. is hereby set aside. The other convictions and sentences passed by the trial court are, however, confirmed.

As there is no special feature in the case, the applicant has served out more than the minimum punishment, hence sentence modified to 12 years.

Criminal Appeal partly allowed. (E-2) (Para 29, 30, 31, 32)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Samit Gopal, J.)

1. The present appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 08.02.2007 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 18, Agra in Sessions Trial No. 666 of 2006 (State of U.P. vs. Ravi), whereby the accused-appellant Ravi has been convicted and sentenced under Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (in short referred to as 'IPC') to life imprisonment, under Section 498-A IPC to two years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 5,000/-, in default of payment of fine to one year rigorous imprisonment, under Section 4 of The Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 to one year rigorous imprisonment, a fine of Rs. 500/- and in default of payment of fine to one month rigorous imprisonment. The sentences have been ordered to run concurrently. The Trial Court has further directed that the period, for which the accused has already been in jail shall be set off against the sentence recorded against him.

2 The prosecution case as per the first information report lodged by Maya Ram P.W.-1 is that his daughter Mamta was married around 3-1/2 years back with Ravi S/o Kailash Chandra R/o Behind Balkeshwar Mandir, Police Station-New Agra, District-Agra and in the marriage he had given dowry as per his capability. He further states that after one year of marriage Ravi started beating his daughter and started creating pressure on her for bringing a motorcycle in dowry, failing which she would be murdered. The said fact was told by his daughter Mamta many times to him and inspite of repeated attempts to sort out the issue Ravi used to beat his daughter. Mamta got disturbed and was living in her maternal house since the last six months. He further states that he pacified Ravi, on which he told him that he will come on Raksha Bandhan on 09.08.2006 and had stated that if he wants his daughter to be taken then a motorcycle be given to him, otherwise he will kill his daughter. On 22.08.2006 in the absence of the first informant Ravi came to his house at about 10.00 a.m., wherein the daughter-in-law of the first informant namely Smt. Kranti and Smt. Vimlesh were at the house and in front of them beat his daughter Mamta and when the wife of the first informant went to give him his food then Ravi assaulted Mamta with knife on her stomach and ran away. It is further stated that on the shrieks, the daughter-in-law of the first informant reached there and they and his wife informed him. They went and saw Mamta lying on the floor in a pool of blood. She was taken to the hospital and on the way she died. It was then prayed that a report be registered and appropriate legal action be taken.

3. Maya Ram gave a typed application at the police station, which is dated 22.08.2006 for getting a first information report lodged, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-1 to the records.

4. On the basis of the said application a first information report was lodged on 22.08.2006 at 16.45 hrs. at Police Station-Jagdishpura, District-Agra as Case Crime No. 297 of 2006, under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 506 IPC and Section 3/4 of The Dowry Prohibition Act against Ravi S/o Kailash Chandra, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-3 to the records.

5. An inquest was conducted on the dead body on 22.08.2006, which started at 17.30 hrs. and concluded at 18.45 hrs., the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-2 to the records.

6. Post-mortem examination of the deceased Smt. Mamta was conducted on 23.08.2006 at 3.15 p.m. at Dr. B.D. Bhaskar P.W.-6. The doctor found the following anti-mortem injury on the body of the deceased :-

"Stab wound size 02 cm. x 01 cm. x abdominal cavity deep on the lower abdomen, 2 cm. away from right side anterio mid line and 1-1/2 cm. below umbilicus."

The doctor opined the cause of death due to shock and hemorrhage as a result of anti-mortem injury.

The time since death has been opined to be about one day.

7. The knife said to be used in the assault was recovered by the Investigating Officer on 22.08.2006 on the pointing out of Smt. Vimlesh W/o Kali Charan alias Khillu from the room, where the incident took place, which was said to have been thrown by the accused after the assault. The recovery memo of the said knife is Exhibit Ka-5 to the records.

8. The investigation of the present matter concluded and a charge-sheet no. 232/2006, dated 29.08.2006, under Sections 498A, 304-B, 302, 506 IPC and Section 3/4 of The Dowry Prohibition Act was filed against the accused-appellant Ravi, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-12 to the records.

9. The Trial Court framed charges against the accused-appellant Ravi vide its order dated 08.11.2006, under Section 304-B IPC with an alternate charge under Section 302 IPC, under Section 498-A IPC and Section 4 of The Dowry Prohibition Act, 1861.

The accused-appellant denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

10. The prosecution in order to prove its case produced Maya Ram P.W.-1, who is the first informant and the father of the deceased. Khillu P.W.-2 is the son of the first informant Maya Ram and the brother of the deceased. Umesh Yadav P.W.-3 is the Head Constable, who transcribed the chik first information report. Smt. Vimlesh P.W.-4 is the wife of Khillu P.W.-2, daughter-in-law of Maya Ram P.W.-1 and is an eyewitness of the incident. Kundan Lal, Sub-Inspector P.W.-5 prepared the inquest and the other relevant and required papers of the dead body. Dr. B.D. Bhaskar P.W.-5 conducted the post-mortem examination of Smt. Mamta. S.K. Singh P.W.-7 is the Circle Officer, who conducted the investigation and concluded it by filing the charge-sheet against the appellant.

11. The accused-appellant denied the occurrence and claimed false implication. No defence evidence was led.

12. The Trial Court after considering the entire evidence on record came to the conclusion that looking to the evidence on record and the medical evidence also offences under Sections 304-B, 498-A IPC and Section 4 of The Dowry Prohibition Act are made out. It came to a conclusion that no such circumstance has been placed by the defence, by which the prosecution story be suspected and thus, convicted the accused and sentenced him as stated above.

13. We have heard Shri Noor Mohammad, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Irshad Hussain, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State of U.P. and perused the record.

14. Learned counsel for the appellant at the very outset states that he is not challenging the conviction as recorded by the Trial Court vide the impugned judgment and order dated 08.02.2007. He argues that only the quantum of sentence as awarded to the accused-appellant Ravi being life imprisonment under Section 304-B IPC is being challenged by him as the same is excessive. He argues that the accused-appellant is in jail since 23.08.2006 and has served out about 14 years and 4 months (without remission) in jail and as such the sentence as imposed of life imprisonment be reduced. Learned counsel for the appellant has in support of his argument relating to the quantum of punishment has relied upon the following judgments :-

(i) 2009(2) All JIC 318 : Rajesh Pandey vs. State of U.P.

(ii) (2013) 9 SCC 190 : Manoj and others vs. State of Haryana.

(iii) (2018) 8 SCC 228 : Deepak vs. State of U.P. (now Uttarakhand).

(iv) Criminal Appeal No. 1284 of 2019 : Suresh alias Kala vs. State of NCT of Delhi : Order dated 27.08.2019.

15. Per contra learned Additional Government Advocate for the State of U.P. opposed the sole submission of the learned counsel for the appellant on the grounds that the present case is a case, in which there is consistent evidence of two witnesses being Maya Ram (P.W.-1) and Khillu (P.W.-2) regarding the demand of a motorcycle as dowry by the appellant from the deceased and due to non-fulfillment of the same she was murdered by him. It was further argued that the incident was witnessed by Smt. Vimlesh (P.W.-4), who is the wife of Khillu (P.W.-2) and is a natural witness of the incident as she resides in the same house. It is argued that even the medical evidence corroborates with the prosecution story. It is argued that the appellant does not deserve any sympathy whatsoever and the sentence awarded is appropriate as it is dowry death and the ingredients of a dowry death are fully satisfied in the present case. In the last it is argued that the appeal be dismissed and no sympathy be extended to the accused-appellant.

16. P.W.-1 Maya Ram is the first informant and the father of the deceased Smt. Mamta. He has stated in his examination-in-chief that the marriage of his daughter Mamta was solemnized with Ravi as per Hindu rites and rituals around 3-1/2 years back. He states to have given gift and dowry as per his capability, which were quite sufficient. Ravi used to demand a motorcycle as dowry from his daughter and for the same used to beat and trouble her. After one year of marriage he used to trouble his daughter a lot and used to say that if he does not bring a motorcycle she will be murdered. On 09.08.2006 Ravi came to the house of Maya Ram and at that time his daughter was in the house, who had come around six months back as she was being troubled a lot by him and was brought by him to the house. On that day, Ravi came and told him to give a motorcycle in dowry and stated that he will not take his daughter back until the motorcycle is given or else she will be murdered. On 22.08.2006 Maya Ram went to his shop at about 9.00 a.m. After sometime his wife came to give him food. Ravi came to his house at about 10--10.25 a.m. and started beating his daughter. At that time apart from his daughter, his daughter-in-law Smt. Kranti and Smt. Vimlesh were in the house and therein Ravi assaulted his daughter with knife on her abdomen. Information about the incident was given to him by his daughter-in-law, on which he came to the house and saw his daughter lying in a pool of blood and then took his daughter and proceeded towards hospital, wherein on the way at the gate of the hospital she died and was brought back to the house. An information about the incident was given by him to Bodala Police Chauki, on which he was told to give a written report. He then got a report typed. He states that whatever he dictated was typed. He proves the said application, which was marked as Exhibit Ka-1 to the records. He further states that the police personals at the Police Chowki sent him to the Police Station-Jagdishpura, where his report was registered. He states that then police came to his house and conducted the inquest, on which he had signed. He identifies his handwriting on the inquest, which is marked as Exhibit Ka-2 to the records.

In his cross-examination, he states that his marriage was performed about 25-26 years ago with Saiya. About 7-8 children were born out of the said wedlock amongst whom 3 are alive. He has 2 sons, in which Khillu is the elder one and Raju is the younger son and Mamta is the elder daughter and the younger daughter is named Lalo. As of now 3 children are alive. He states that the marriage of his daughter Mamta was solemnized with Ravi of Balkeshwar. About 250 baraties came in the wedding. He had given the entire items of household. He had spent about Rs. 1 lakh in the marriage. He states that he has nurtured children in the same house, in which he is living. His son earns separately. The house, in which he lives, has 3 rooms. Both his children are married. They have separate households. They live in different rooms. Khillu was married about 11 years back. Khillu has 3 children and one is about to be born. Raju also got married at the same time when Khillu was married. Raju has one daughter. Both of his sons have separate kitchens and also work separately. The plot of the house has a length 43.50 yards and breadth of 22.50 yards. Two rooms are in a straight line on the third is in the side. All the 3 rooms are constructed in "L" type. The house has a small courtyard, it has one toilet. It has no kitchen. His daughter Mamta lived with him. His other daughter also lived with him. He is a barber. He does Pooja at the place demarcated for God. He does Pooja for about 1-1/2 hours. His shop is on the foot - path in a Khokha , which is situated at a distance of about 150-200 yards from the house. He earns about Rs. 70-80 daily. The business used to be good on Sundays. His son-in-law was having a business of flower at the time of marriage. He states that he does know as to what his son-in-law was doing when he had brought his daughter back to the house. His daughter, who is the deceased, had one son aged about one and half years. He has spent money for her delivery. In-laws of Mamta had left her at her parental house at the time of delivery and had run away and then he had taken her to the hospital, where delivery was done. Mamta was brought back to his house after delivery and then she was sent with Ravi to her maternal house. Ravi and his elder brother had left Mamta at the house at the time of delivery. At that time his daughter had told her that Ravi used abuse her, torture her and beat her and used to say that he has not got anything and if motorcycle is not given then he will murder her. He states that when Ravi had left his daughter and had run away, he did not inform the police and other high officials about the incident. He states that the child was born in the hospital in Bodala. She was in the hospital for 3 days. She was brought back to the house after 3 days. Ravi himself had taken Mamta after the delivery and had abused him on that day. He did not inform the police and other high officials about the incident and abuse. He had stopped going to the house of Ravi after delivery. He had gone to his shop at 9.00 a.m. on day of incident. His wife had later on brought food at the shop for him. When his wife had brought food for him he was alone at the shop and there was no customer present. The information about the murder was given at the shop by his son Raju. On receiving the said information he immediately left the shop. He received the information at about 10.30 a.m. On receiving the information Om Prakash, Chaturi and Chand, who were sitting with him immediately ran towards the house. When all the 4 persons reached the house about 400-500 people were present there. His daughter, who was murdered, was wearing a Salwar Kurta with a black Dupatta. She had a small child in her lap. His daughter was breathing and was in a pool of blood when she was taken to the hospital. She was taken to the hospital on a Thela. His daughter was lying in the room of his son Khillu and a knife was also lying there. Blood was present on the floor. He was not in his senses and could not see the blood on the knife and the knife. Thela, which was used, was of the neighbour. His daughter was taken to a Nursing Home in Bodala and she died on the way. 4-5 persons had accompanied him. He does not know the name of the persons, who had gone to the hospital with him. The hospital is situated at a distance of about 400-500 yards from his house. It took him about 45 minutes in reaching the hospital. The doctor attended his daughter and declared her to be dead and sent him back. He then brought his daughter to the house. The injury of knife was on the abdomen of his daughter. He kept the body at the door of the house. The police had come thereafter. On the saying of the police, he went to the Police Chowki and gave his report. A police constable took him from the Police Chowki to police station, where his report was registered. They went on a Tempo from the Police Chowki. Police reached his house at about 5.00 p.m. He is illiterate, he can write his name. He had signed the papers given to the police. He had dictated the report, which was typed on an electronic typewriter in Bodala. The report was given at 11.00 a.m. at police station. The police had reached at about 5.00 p.m. and till that time he was detained at the police station. He along with his son and police constable had taken his daughter for post-mortem. When he reached his house on receiving the information of murder, his both daughter-in-laws and their brother who had come to them were present in the house. His daughter-in-law told him that Ravi has murdered Mamta. He does not remember as to whether the blood stained clothes were given to the Investigating Officer or were burnt during cremation. To a suggestion that after the delivery he had broken his relationship with his son-in-law and his daughter, was living with him, he denies. To a further suggestion that his daughter and son-in-law had strained relations and as such she left her matrimonial house and came to her maternal house, he denies. To a further suggestion that his daughter has been murdered by someone else and to save themselves a false case has been instituted against Ravi, he denies the same.

17. Khillu P.W.-2 is the son of the first informant, brother of the deceased Smt. Mamta and husband of Smt. Vimlesh, who is the eyewitness of the incident. In his examination in - chief, he states that the marriage of his sister Mamta was solemnized about 3-1/2 years back. His father had given dowry at the time of marriage as per his capability, but Ravi was not happy with the gifts and dowry and was demanding a motorcycle, for which he used to torture and beat his sister. His father had gone one or two times to the house of Ravi for mediating, but he did not stop and continued to demand motorcycle and also continued to trouble his sister and used to say that if motorcycle is not given then he will murder her. He states that due to the said reason his father had brought Mamta back to her house about 9 months back and his sister was living in the house since then. He states that on Raksha Bandhan, Ravi had come to the house and had said that if they want to send the girl then motorcycle be given or else she will be murdered. On 22.08.2006 at about 10.00 a.m. he went to his shop and his after had also gone. His wife and the wife of his younger brother, who are named Vimlesh and Kranti were at the house. Ravi came to the house and started beating his sister and assaulted her on her abdomen with a knife. Information about the incident was given to him by his wife. His shop is near the house. His father has a different shop. He came to the house and saw that his sister is lying in a pool of blood and a blood stained knife is also lying there. His father also came from the shop. His father took Mamta to the hospital and as soon as he reached at the gate of the hospital she died. Her dead body was then brought to the house. He along with his father went to the Police Chowki to give information, but they did not register his report and told them to bring a written report. Then his father got a report typed on a electronic typewriter and went to the Police Chowki, from where he was told to go to the police station and give it there and then he went Police Station-Jagdishpura. Police came immediately thereafter and did paper work and sealed the dead body.

In his cross-examination he states that amongst sisters and brothers he is the eldest. Mamta, who has been murdered, was younger than him. He states that he is a barber, his shop is at Bodala Chauraha. His shop is situated at a distance of about 2--2-1/2 kms. from his house. On the day of occurrence he left his house for the shop at 8.00 a.m. On the day of occurrence his brother-in-law had come to take his wife to her maika. His younger sister Lalo was not at the house on the day of occurrence. She was in her matrimonial house. He received the information about the occurrence at about 10.00 a.m. through a boy, who was sent by his wife. On the said information he went to the house and took around 2 hours reaching there. When he reached the house he saw Mamta lying in a pool of blood and a knife was lying beside her. She was then taken to the hospital on a Thela and on the way she died. He states that his sister had died while on the way to the hospital near Bigha Mandir, from where she was brought back to the house and the dead body was then kept at the house. Blood also spilled on the Thela. They went for lodging the report after bringing Mamta to the house. The report was got typed on a typewriter. His father had gone with him for getting the report typed. His father had dictated the report. His father had signed on the said report. They had gone to the police station directly after getting the report typed. They had gone to Police Station-Jagdishpura, but did not meet anyone and had then come back to the house. Police had come at around 5.00 p.m. to the house. 2-3 police personals had come. The police had then sealed the dead body. Police had after conducting the inquest sealed the dead body and had taken it with them. They had not brought the typed application with them. The dead body was taken for post-mortem after sealing it. He states that his sister was lying in the pool of blood when he reached home from his shop. The dead body was taken for post-mortem by the police on a Tempo. Blood was present at the place, where the dead body was kept at the door. The dead body was taken for cremation directly after post-mortem. They had returned home after cremation. Police had come after they had returned home after cremation. Police did not recover the blood stained mud. His brother-in-law Om Prakash had come on the day of occurrence. His sister had told him about Ravi troubling her after marriage. He did not make any complaint to the police or any high official about it. His sister had come on her own when she was pregnant and he had not gone to bring her. Her delivery was done, for which they had spent money. His sister and her child were living with him. He and his father were looking after the expenses of them. The knife was blood stained. The police had taken the knife. He did not see the knife. He had seen the knife at the time of the incident in the room. He does not know as to whether it was a knife or a chhuri. No wood of the Thela was cut and kept. The Thela was returned with the blood on it. He did not tell the same to the Investigating Officer. His statement was recorded immediately after the incident. To a suggestion that his brother and his wife were not happy with his sister living in the house, he denies. To a further suggestion that due to the same there used to be fight in the house, he denies. To a further suggestion that due to the fight, which had increased some maar-peet took place and his brother-in-law assaulted his sister with a knife due to which she died, he denies. He further denies the suggestion that due to the said reason, the said incident was not told to others and the report has been lodged with a delay.

18. Umesh Yadav P.W.-3 is the Head Constable, who had transcribed the first information report of the present case, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-3 to the records. He had also transcribed the Qayami G.D. No. 51 at 16.45 hrs. on 22.08.2006 after lodging the first information report, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-4 to the records.

In his cross-examination he states that Maya Ram, Khillu, Chaturi Ram had come for getting the first information report lodged. He states to have informed the officials about the same and the Incharge Sub-Inspector was sent to the place of occurrence.

19. Smt. Vimlesh P.W.-4 is the wife of Khillu P.W.-2, the daughter-in-law of Maya Ram P.W.-1 and an eyewitness of the incident. She in her examination-in-chief states that the marriage of her nand Mamta was solemnized about 3-1/2 years back with Ravi as per Hindu customs. In the marriage, her father-in-law and mother-in-law had given gifts and dowry as per their capability. Ravi and his family members were not happy with the gifts and dowry and had demanded a motorcycle as dowry from Mamta and due to the non-fulfillment of the same Mamta used to be beaten. Mamta, whenever she came to the house, used to tell about the demand of motorcycle by Ravi and also about the beating done by Ravi. She states that due to the demand of motorcycle Ravi had left Mamta back to her house and she was living since the last six months in her maternal house. On Raksha Bandhan, Ravi had come and had asked for a motorcycle and had beaten Mamta. On 22.08.2006 Ravi came to the house and had again said that his demand of motorcycle has not been fulfilled and he will take her back home only when motorcycle is given. She states that even prior her father-in-law and other persons had tried to talk to Ravi about it, but he did not agree. On 22.08.2006 Ravi committed maar-peet and assaulted her nand with knife on her abdomen due to which she got injured and fell on the ground. She was present in the room at that time. She raised hue and cry, on which Ravi pushed her and threw knife in the room and ran away. Then she sent an information to her husband, who came to the house and after that her father-in-law also came. The incident is of around 10.00 a.m. A boy of the locality had gone to call her husband. Her nand was taken on a Thela by her father-in-law and her husband to the doctor for treatment. Police had come in the evening. She had shown them the place of occurrence and the place, where the knife was lying. Knife was taken into possession by the police after doing paper work. She had signed on the said document, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-5 to the records.

In her cross-examination she states that she is illiterate but can sign. She has a younger sister named Kranti. The two sisters are married to two real brothers. Both marriages were solemnized together. Kranti was married with Raju. Both marriages were solemnized on the same day. She states that on the day of occurrence she was in her room. Mamta was also in the same room. Her children were playing in the courtyard. She has 3 children, the eldest child is about 7 years old. No one was present in the other room. In the adjacent room her sister was present. The other room is of her father-in-law and the adjacent room is of her sister. Her nand Mamta and her sister Kranti were present in the house on the day of occurrence. Her husband had gone to the shop at 8.00 a.m. Her father-in-law had gone to the shop at 9.00 a.m. She goes to her maika. She had gone about six months ago to her maika. She states that on the day of incident no one had come from her maika to take her, she goes and comes on her own. She denies the suggestion that her brother Om Prakash had come to the village to take her on the day of incident. She states that she has two nands. Her other nand was in her Sasural. Ravi had come to the house at about 10.00 a.m. She had greeted him when he came. He sat with her for some time. He did not talk much to her but started quarreling with his wife. To a question about what Ravi had talked to his wife, she answers that he said that will she go to which she replied that she will not and then fight started, on which he assaulted her with a knife. He did not beat her prior to assaulting her with the knife, but was saying as to whether she is going or not. To another question that what her nand was doing at the time of incident and what was she wearing, she states that she was standing and was talking to her and was wearing a salwar suit. She states that she has seen the knife, the blade was as long as the butt. After the incident she started crying and shouted but and no one from outside came. She sent an information through a boy of the neighbourhood. Her husband reached the house at about 11.00 a.m. and then her father-in-law came. He dever also came with her father-in-law. She states that she does not know, from where Ravi had brought the knife. On her raising shouts, her sister Kranti had come. Ravi had run away after the incident. Mamta fell down after receiving the knife injury. She did not do any first aid of the injury. Blood was coming out from the injury. The clothes were wet with blood. No treatment was given before her husband, father-in-law and dever had come. She along with her sister were with Mamta till the said persons arrived. Police had reached her house at about 5.00 p.m. She had told the police that on an attempt to catch Ravi he pushed her and ran away. She had told it to her father-in-law and her husband. Police had sealed the knife before her and had taken it. To a suggestion that Ravi did not come to the house and had not assaulted with a knife, she denies. To a further suggestion that her nand was a quarrelsome lady and her staying at the house was not liked by her, she denies. To a further suggestion that her brother Om Prakash was present in the house at the time of occurrence, she denies. She further denies the suggestion that on the day of occurrence a fight took place between her and Mamta and during the fight her brother intervened and assaulted Mamta with a knife, due to which she died on the spot. She further denies the suggestion that due to the said reason she did not raise a shout about the incident. She further denies the suggestion that she gave a wrong information to her husband and father-in-law. She further denies the suggestion that she has involved the name of Ravi in the present matter and informs her father-in-law and husband about it. She further denies that the evidence, which she is giving, is only to save her brother and denies the suggestion that she gave information late to her father-in-law and husband as a result of which the first information report was registered with delay just to save her brother. She further denies the suggestion that Mamta died on the spot and she was not taken to the hospital.

20. Kundal Lal P.W.-5 is the Sub-Inspector, who had conducted the inquest on the body of the deceased on the dictation of Rajesh Kumar Prajapati, the Additional City Magistrate-II, who had also signed on the same, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-2 to the records. He has further proved the other documents relating to the papers prepared for the dead body, which were also signed by the Additional City Magistrate-II, the same were marked as Exhibit Ka-6 to Exhibit Ka-9 to the records.

In his cross-examination he stated that the first information report was registered at 16.40 hrs. at the police station and he reached the place of occurrence on the direction of the SHO concerned along with other police officials on their motorcycle. He states that when he had reached there, there was no official present, but later on ACM-II had arrived on the information from the police station. He had found the dead body outside the house, where the entire paper work was done. The dead body was then sealed and handed over to the police constable for post-mortem.

21. Dr. B.D. Bhaskar P.W.-6 conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased. The injuries, opinion regarding cause of death and the time since death has already been noted above. He has proved the post-mortem report, which is marked as Exhibit Ka-10 to the records.

In his cross-examination he stated that the left lung was pale due to excessive bleeding. The post-mortem was conducted on 23.08.2006 at about 3.15 p.m. and the time since death was shown to be about one day prior and as such death might have occurred at about 3.00 p.m. on 23.08.2006. He stated that injury was caused by some pointed sharp edged weapon. He further stated that Mamta could have been saved if the blood collected in her abdomen, could have been taken care off. He states that the deceased could have taken food on 22.08.2006 about 4-5 hrs. prior.

22. S.K. Singh P.W.-7 is the Circle Officer and the Investigating Officer of the matter. He recorded the statement of the witnesses and prepared the recovery memo of the knife, which is marked as Exhibit Ka-6 to the records. He prepared the site plan, which is Exhibit Ka-11 to the records. He arrested the accused-appellant Ravi on 23.08.2006. He concluded the investigation and submitted a charge-sheet no. 232/2006, under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302, 506 IPC and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, the same is marked as Exhibit Ka-2 to the records.

In his cross-examination he stated that he reached the place of occurrence at 5.30 p.m. He found the dead body of the deceased at the door of the house. He found the ACM-II and other police personals along with the first informant, other family members of the deceased and public present there. He states that the knife was recovered from the room, where the incident took place on the pointing out of Smt. Vimlesh. He did not find blood at the place of occurrence as the incident had taken place in the morning. He did not collect blood stained mud. He states that Maya Ram had told him that Ravi assaulted Mamta with knife and information about it was given to him by his daughter-in-law and his wife. He further states that Maya Ram had told him that Mamta died on the way while being taken to the hospital, but did not tell him that she was taken back to the house from the way in between. He further states that Maya Ram did not tell him as to the mode, by which Mamta was taken to the hospital. To a suggestion that he has done the investigation while sitting at the police station and the investigation is not proper and a false charge-sheet has been submitted against accused Ravi, he denies. To a further suggestion that accused Ravi has been falsely implicated in the present, he denies.

23. The accused Ravi in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has stated that he has been falsely implicated in the present matter. He further states that his wife used to fight with him and did not discharge her duty as a wife. She used to be under the guidance of her father and mother and used to stay in her maika often. She had left him and had gone alone and did not return back and he also did not go to her. On 23.08.2006 he was taken by the police from Balkeshwar. At the police station he came to know about the death of Mamta. He does the work of repairing punctures. He did not make any demand of dowry. He and his in-laws are poor persons.

He did not lead any defense evidence.

24. Since the learned counsel for the appellant has confined his argument on the question of sentence only, this court is not examining the truthfulness and the veracity of the statements of the witnesses and is neither examining the issue regarding the death of Smt. Mamta nor the case of the defense as suggested to the witnesses.

25. Section 304-B of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 reads as under:

"304-B: Dowry death.-- (1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation.--For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life."

26. The necessary ingredients of Section 304-B IPC are as follows:

(1) The death of the woman was caused due to burns or bodily injury or due to unnatural circumstances.

(2) The death should be within seven years of marriage.

(3) It is shown that soon before her, the victim was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of the husband.

(4) The cruelty or harassement was for or in connection with any demand for dowry.

(5) The cruelty or harassment is shown to have been meted out to the woman soon before her death.

27. Dealing with the cases laws relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant this court after going through them is not at all impressed about the point canvassed before it as the said case laws do not at all apply in the present matter.

The first case relied upon is Rajesh Pandey (supra) was a case in which the Apex Court has reduced the sentence as awarded by the trial court and affirmed by the High Court to eight years under Section 304-B IPC. The sentence in the case as awarded has been reduced by the Apex Court. No guidelines have been prescribed in the same.

The second case relied upon is Manoj (supra) was a case in which the trial court had awarded life imprisonment to the accused under Section 304-B IPC which on an appeal was reduced to 10 years imprisonment by the High Court. The appeal against the same was filed before the Apex Court where one of the arguments was to consider reducing the sentence from 10 years to 7 years, which was not accepted and the appeal was dismissed.

In the third case of Deepak (supra) the conviction of the appellant was under Section 302 IPC for life imprisonment by the High Court by reversing the judgment and order of acquittal. The accused therein was acquitted of the charges levelled against him by the trial court which was reversed by the High Court and he was convicted for offence under Section 302 IPC. An appeal was preferred against the said judgment of conviction by the High Court before the Apex Court in which the case was of a single sword-blow given by the accused on the deceased which caused his death. It was argued that the case would fall under Section 304 Part II IPC and not under Section 302 IPC, which was accepted by the Apex Court and the conviction was altered from 302 IPC to 304 Part II IPC and the sentence was ordered to be undergone to the period of custody already undergone.

In the fourth case Suresh @ Kala (supra) the conviction and sentence was recorded under Section 302 IPC to life imprisonment by the Trial Court. The appeal to the High Court was dismissed which was challenged before the Apex Court. The said case was a case of a single injury. The Apex Court came to the conclusion that the case would come under Section 304 Part I IPC rather that under Section 302 IPC and granted the benefit to the accused by converting his conviction from Section 302 IPC to Section 304 Part I IPC and sentenced hm to 10 years rigorous imprisonment.

28. The last two case laws relied by the learned counsel for the appellant relate to offences under Section 302 IPC wherein it was a case of a single blow. Although in the present case also, the case is of a single knife blow, but the same would stand on a different footing as that of the said two cases as the present case is of dowry death for which consistent evidence of demand of dowry and torture is on record.

29. It is not to be lost sight off that the present case is a case of dowry death. The motive for the offence is that of non-fulfillment of the demand of dowry. The death is unnatural and within seven years of marriage, to be more precise after 3-1/2 years of marriage.

30. The Apex Court has in the case of Hem Chand Vs. State of Haryana : (1994) 6 SCC 727 held that in a case under Section 304-B IPC, awarding extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be in rare cases and not in every case.

31. In the present case the appellant has been in jail since 23.08.2006 and has served out about 14 years and 4 months (without remission) and there is no special and rare feature attracting maximum punishment.

32. We, accordingly while confirming the conviction of the appellant under Section 304-B IPC sentence the appellant to 12 years' (twelve years') rigorous imprisonment and the sentence imposed by the trial court under Section 304B I.P.C. is hereby set aside. The other convictions and sentences passed by the trial court are, however, confirmed.

33. In the result, the appeal is partly allowed and the judgment of the trial court is modified to the above extent.

34. The lower court record along with a copy of this judgment be sent back immediately to the trial court concerned for compliance and necessary action.

35. The party shall file computer generated copy of such judgment downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad before the concerned Court/Authority/Official.

36. The computer generated copy of such judgment shall be self-attested by the counsel of the party concerned.

37. The concerned Court /Authority /Official shall verify the authenticity of such computerized copy of the judgment from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

Criminal Law-Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376(1)- Rape of minor- Question of sentence- The appellant has served out minimum sentence of ten years for the offence under Section 376(1) IPC - The trial court convicted the appellant for the offence under Section 376(1) IPC for life imprisonment- From the impugned judgement and order passed by the trial court, it reveals that while considering the quantum of sentence for the offence in question it had gone through the plight of the victim who was a minor helpless girl against whom such a heinous crime was committed by the appellant who brutally subjected her to rape and further ramifications of the offence and it impact on the society has been considered in great details- Court has to take balance between reformatory theory and principle of proportionality.

Settled law that the quantum of punishment depends upon the gravity and heinousness of the offence, manner of its commission, its effect upon the victim and impact upon the society and entails striking of balance between the reformative and retributive theory of punishment- Minor girl brutally raped by the accused hence sentence awarded found to be just and proper.

Criminal Appeal accordingly rejected.

Thereafter this witness took his daughter to the police station Chaubia and got the report written from one Anoj Kumar of his village and gave the same at the said police station. Anoj Kumar had written the report on the dictation given by P.W.2 Indrapal which was read over to him and he put his signature on the same on the basis of which the FIR was registered against the accused appellant. The witness has proved paper no.5 Ka to be the written report which he he got written by Anoj Kumar and identified his signature on the same and he proved the said report as Ext. Ka-1. He deposed that the incident had taken place at 1 p.m. in the afternoon. The incident was narrated by the prosecutrix/victim "A" to him which he got written in the report.

12. P.W.3 Smt. Shiv Kumari who is the mother of the prosecutrix/victim "A" (P.W.1) has deposed before the trial court that her daughter was studying in class 4th. At about 10 a.m. in the morning her daughter had gone to the field of Birendra Singh Jatav for taking gram greens (chane ka saag) and when she did not return then she sent her husband to search her out and when her husband had gone to search her daughter, then her daughter was coming from the field. When her daughter came to her house, her clothes were blood-stained and she was crying and told her that when she had gone to take gram greens (chane ka saag) then accused Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav came there and pressed her mouth in the mustard field and committed rape on her. Blood was oozing out from her private parts and she tried to console her and put the clothes etc. for stopping blood. She informed her husband as has been told by her daughter the prosecutrix/victim "A". Her husband had gone to trace out accused Jitendra @ Gabbar in the field but he was not there. Thereafter her husband had gone to the concerned police station for lodging the FIR. She also had accompanied her husband along with her daughter prosecutrix/victim "A". Besides them her father-in-law Subedar and Sister-in-law had also gone to the police station. After the registration of the FIR the police had sent all of them including her daughter to the District Hospital, Etawah for medical examination where the same was conducted and for medical treatment prosecutrix/victim "A" was admitted. Her X-Ray was also conducted on the next day. There was no enmity between the accused-appellant Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav with his family prior to the incident.

13. The Investigating Officer has recorded her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Her daughter remained in the hospital for about 10 to 11 days.

14. P.W.4 Dr. Jyotsana Bhatiya was examined by the trial court and she deposed that on 23.12.2009 she was posted at women hospital as a medical officer. She examined the prosecutrix/victim "A" at 10.30 p.m. and she was brought by constable Anar Singh and C.P.M Constable Shiv Kumari. She has proved the medical examination report of the prosecutrix/victim "A" as Ext. Ka-2 which was in his handwriting and signature. On medical examination she found following injuries on the person of the prosecutrix/victim "A".

"Height 127 cm, weight 20 kg, teeth 12/12. No mark of injury on external surface of body. Breasts not developed. Pubic axillary hair not developed."

The witness on the internal examination of the prosecutrix/victim "A" found that her hymen was torn and it was bleeding. There was blood clot and vagina admits one finger and after removing the blood clot, vaginal smear was taken and sent to pathological report. There was perennial tear at 6 "O' clock position which was stitched laceration on lateral vaginal wall."

15. She also prepared a supplementary medico legal report of the prosecutrix/victim "A" on the same day and has proved the same as Ext.Ka-3, which is reproduced as under:-

Pathology report- Given by pathologist District Hospital Etawah No.89, dated 24.12.2009 No alive or dead Spermatozoa seen.

Radiology report- Given by radiologist District Hospital Etawah No.1004/09 dated 24.12.2009.

X-Ray Elbow A.P- Epiphyses of elbow joint are not fused.

X-Ray Wrist Joint A.P- Epiphyses of lower and of radius, ulna and 1st metacarpal not fused Plsiform not appeared.

X-Ray Knee joint- Epiphyses of knee joint are not fused.

Opinion- Injury is simple and caused by insertion of some hard and blunt object. Duration of injury about 24 hours. The age of the girl is below 11 years."

16. As per pathological report no.89 dated 24.12.2009, there was no live or dead Spermatozoa was found. As per X-Ray report bones of elbow, wrist and knee were not found to be fused. As per opinion of the doctor, the injuries sustained on the internal examination injury was found to be simple and caused by insertion of hard and blunt object and duration of the injury was 24 hours. The age of the prosecutrix/victim "A" was below 11 years and she further stated that the said injuries could be caused on 23.12.2009 in the afternoon at 1 p.m. She further deposed that if a male person aged about 22 to 25 years commits rape on a girl then the injury which has been caused to the prosecutrix/victim is possible. She has proved the supplementary report which is paper no.9 Ka/3 as Ext.Ka-3. The prosecutrix/victim "A" was admitted in the district hospital for medical examination as her wounds were stitched.

17. P.W.5 S.I. Dharmpal Singh in his deposition before the trial court has stated that he was posted on 23.12.2009 at P.S. Chaubia on the post of Sub-Inspector. On the said day the FIR was registered on the written report submitted by the informant Indrapal Singh against Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav which was registered as Case Crime No.231 of 2009 under Section 376 IPC.

The investigation of the said case was entrusted to him. He recorded the statement of the informant Indrapal Singh at village Beena who met him at his house and at the pointing out of the informant, he visited the place of occurrence and prepared the site-plan in his handwriting and signature and proved the same as Ext.Ka-4. He also recorded the statement of the persons of the nearby field. The said Investigating Officer was transferred, hence the investigation was entrusted to P.W.7 S.I. Alok Prabhakar Awasthi thereafter.

18. P.W.6 Constable Clerk Tilak Singh has stated that on 24.12.2009 he was posted at police station on the said post. On the said date Constable Anar Singh and woman constable Shiv Kumari has handed over underwear of blue colour, one white salvar (terricot), one kurta green and one piece of old saari and one piece of white clothe which was torned and blood stained were found on the same were submitted at the police station which was sealed in a bundle as the same was police property which he prepared in his handwriting and signature and also prepared recovery memo of the same and proved the same as material Ext.-1 which was opened in the court and was again proved as material Ext. 2 to 6 and the same was thereafter sent to Vidhi Vigyan Prayogshala, Agra for Chemical analysis report.

19. P.W.7 Alok Prabhakar Awasthi who was produced before the trial court has stated that on 27.12.2009 he was posted at police station Chaubia on the post of Sub-Inspector and on the said date, he had taken over the investigation of the case from the earlier Investigating Officer S.I. Dharmpal Singh who was transferred. He recorded the statement of the accused Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav on 27.12.2009 and further recorded the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of Smt. Shiv Kumari. He also recorded the statement of other witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. including Dr. Jyotsana Bhatiya and thereafter submitted the charge sheet against the accused-appellant under Section 376 IPC and proved the same as Ext.Ka-6. He also received the report of the Vidhi Vigyan Prayogshala on 26.3.2010 which is on record as paper no.33 Ka/1. According to the chemical analysis report on material Ext.1 underwear Spermatozoa was found and on the underwear, salvar, kurta and piece of cloth which was material Ext.1 to 4 human blood was found and in material Ext.1 human semen was found and he has proved the chemical analysis report as Ext. Ka-7.

20. P.W.8 Constable Clerk Roshan Lal has stated that while he was posted at police station Chaubia on the said post on 23.12.2009, the informant Indrapal Singh on the said day had submitted a written report against the accused-appellant Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav on the basis of which the present case was registered under Section 376 IPC and he has prepared the Chik FIR in his handwriting and signature and proved the same as Ext.Ka-8. He further endorsed the said FIR in the G.D No.19 at 17.45 hours on 23.12.2009 in his hand and signatures. A carbon copy of the same which is on record and proved the same as Ext.Ka-9.

21. P.W.9 Dr. Dinesh Singh, has stated before the trial court that on 24.12.2009 he was posted on the post of Radiologist in the District Hospital Etawah and on the said date, he conducted the X-Ray of the prosecutrix/victim "A" who was brought by woman constable Shiv Kumari and constable Amar Singh of police station Chaubia and on X-Ray report following features were noticed which are reproduced here under

"(ossification test): X-Ray Elbow A.P- Epiphyses of elbow joint are not fused.

X-Ray Wrist joint A.P- Epiphyses of lower end of radius, ulna and Ist Metacarpal not fused. Dissiform not appeared.

X-Ray right knee joint A.P- Epiphyses and knee joint are not fused."

22. He has proved the same as Ext.Ka-10 in his handwriting and signatures. The X-Ray plates have been marked as material Ext.1.

23. The accused-appellant in his defence has produced three witnesses in support of his case i.e. D.W.1 Nand Ram, D.W.2 Rajeshwar Dayal and D.W.3 Dr. Ravindra Kumar Gupta.

24. D.W.1 Nand Ram has stated before the trial court that adjacent to his field there is a field of Dayaram, Birendra, Rajesh and Visheshwar in which there is crop of Potato, Onion and Garlic. On 23.12.2009 when he was working on his Garlic field, there were five other labours working with him. The water engine in the field of Birendra was running because of which the water was coming in the field of Garlic and nearby persons Gangaram, Visheshwar, Rajeshwar and Shyam Babu were also there and there was agricultural work going on in their field and in the said field also there were 25 labours working. From 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. he was working in his field and others were also present till the evening in the field. They had taken their lunch in the field and in the nearby area, there was no field of Mustard. From 6 a.m. till 6 p.m. in the evening the daughter of Indrapal had not come to the field of Birendra Singh. In the field of Birendra Singh, there was crop of Garlic. Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav had gone to his maternal uncle four days prior to the incident and was not present at village Simariya. The plot of the father of Jitendra which was in village Beena was grabbed by Dragpal Singh and others with the help of the informant Indrapal Singh and the said persons have falsely implicated the accused Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav after bribing the police. The Village Pradhan has also given a plot to the informant Indrapal as an allurement and thereafter the said plot was also allotted in the name of informant Indrapal. In the evening he heard that daughter of Indrapal had gone to the field of Arhar where she received injuries on her private part. The accused Jitendra @ Gabbar is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case due to deep rooted conspiracy.

25. D.W.2 Rajeshwar Dayal has stated before the trial court that his agricultural field is near the field of Dayaram and he too reiterated the version given by D.W.1.

26. D.W.3 Dr. Ravindra Kumar Gupta in his deposition before the trial court has stated that on 27.12.2009, he was posted on emergency duty in District Hospital Etawah and at 3.30 p.m. Constable Mohar Singh and Constable Shiv Prakash of police station Chaubia had brought the accused-appellant Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav aged about 18 years for medical examination. In the medical examination he did not find any injuries on his private part and there was no Spermatozoa or blood found on his person who had not weared any underwear which could also be examined. He was referred to the pathologist for smear examination on the basis of chitthi majroobi his medical examination report was prepared which was brought by constable Shiv Prakash which is on record. He had stated about the age of accused-appellant Jitendra @ Gabbar to be 18 years of his appearance and that can be a margin of 1-1/2 years plus and minus. He stated that the opinion about the age is given by the CMO on the basis of an X-Ray report. He has identified the appellant before the court. He has produced the original register of the medical examination before the trial court as paper no.16-Kha/1 and proved the same as Ext.Kha-1.

27. The trial court after scanning the prosecution as well as defence evidence came to a conclusion that it was the appellant who had committed rape on the prosecutrix/victim "A" and has convicted and sentenced him under Section 376(1) IPC for life imprisonment. Aggrieved by the impugned judgement and order, the appellant has preferred the instant appeal.

28. Heard Sri Rajesh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and Mrs. Archana Singh, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

29. The learned counsel for the appellant has confined his argument and addressed the Court only on the question of sentence. He argued that the appellant has served out minimum sentence of ten years for the offence under Section 376(1) IPC as he is in jail for last eleven years since 27.12.2009 and be released on this count. He submitted that the maximum sentence which has been provided by the trial court for the offence under Section 376(1) IPC for life imprisonment is too severe and should be set-aside and the appellant be released to the period already undergone. In support of his argument he has placed reliance on the judgement of the Apex Court in the case reported in 2012 (1) All JIC 319 Bavo @ Manubhai Ambalal Thakore Vs. State of Gujarat wherein The Apex Court has considered the question of sentence where the said accused was sentenced to life imprisonment by the trial court which was maintained by the High Court and the accused was released as he had served out minimum sentence of 10 years where the victim was 7 years old minor girl.

30. The learned AGA on the other hand has vehemently opposed the argument of learned counsel for the appellant on the question of sentence and has argued that the present case is a case where a minor girl aged about 10 years was subjected to rape by the appellant and the prosecution has further proved it's case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellant for his conviction under Section 376(1) IPC and the trial court has rightly convicted him and sentenced for life imprisonment for the said offence and it has also categorically given cogent reason for awarding sentence of life imprisonment to the appellant which does not call for any interference by this Court and the appeal may be dismissed by this Court. She in support of her argument has placed reliance of a judgement of the Apex Court reported in AIR 2013 Supreme Court 2209 Shyam Narain Vs. State of NCT of Delhi has stated that the proposition of law for imposition of sentence in offence of rape has been dealt by the Apex Court considering the impact of such offences on the society as a whole and its ramifications on immediate collection as well as reparations on the victim. She pointed out that in the said case the victim girl was eight years who narrated the incident and the threat given to her by the accused. The deposition of the prosecutrix corroborated by testimony of treating physician and medical evidence conviction of the accused was upheld by the Apex Court and further the sentence awarded to him for life imprisonment by the trial court, upheld by the High Court and confirmed by the Apex Court.

31. The learned counsel for the appellant fairly states that he is not challenging the conviction but questioning the question of sentence only and State has opposed the argument of learned counsel for the appellant on the quantum of sentence in view of the limited submissions we deem it that there is no need to go into the finding regarding the conviction under Section 376(1) IPC and the only question to be considered is whether the sentence of life imprisonment and fine of Rs.20,000/- is reasonable or excessive. Section 376 speaks about the punishment for rape. Sub-Section 2(F) makes it clear that who ever commits rape on a women under ten years, shall be punished rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may be for life and shall also be liable to fine. Proviso appended to Sub-Section (2) makes it clear that the Court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgement impose a sentence of imprisonment of either descriptions for a term of less than ten years. It is clear from the above statutory provision that for the offence of rape on a girl under twelve years of age, punishment shall not be less than ten years but which may extend to life and also to fine shows that the legislature intended to adopt strictness in awarding sentence if the victim is below twelve years of age. No doubt, the provision of Section 376(2) IPC lays down that the Court may, for adequate and special reason to be mentioned in the judgement, impose a sentence of imprisonment of either description for a term of less than ten years, it is settled law that Courts are obliged to respect legislative mandate in the matter of awarding of sentence in all such cases. In the absence of any special and adequate reasons, recourse to proviso mentioned above cannot be applied in casual manner.

32. Thus in the light of the above mandate of law we proceed to consider the argument of learned counsel for the appellant regarding the quantum of sentence awarded to the appellant for the offence for which he has been convicted i.e. under Section 376(1) IPC. It is evident from the prosecution case that the prosecutrix/victim "A" was aged about ten years at the time of incident and she was studying in class 4th. While she had gone in the field of one Birendra Singh Jatav for taking gram greens (chane ka saag) then the appellant Jitendra @ Gabbar Jatav suddenly came and dragged the deceased towards the mustard field by pressing her mouth and committed rape on her. The medical evidence of the prosecutrix/victim "A" shows that her hymen was torn which was also bleeding, vagina admits one finger, smear was taken perennial tear at 6 "O' clock position which was stitched, lacerations present on the lateral vaginal wall. As per the supplementary medical report of the prosecutrix/victim "A", she was also found to be below 11 years of age. On her underwear spermatozoa was found where on her clothes i.e. underwear, salvar, kurta and piece of clothe blood stains were found. The prosecutrix/victim "A" in her deposition before the trial court has categorically stated that it was the appellant who had committed rape on her and she after the incident went crying and informed her mother P.W.3 Smt. Shiv Kumari about the entire incident who further informed her husband i.e. P.W.2 Indrapal on which the P.W.2 immediately lodged an FIR of the incident on the same day at 7.45 hours. As per prosecution case the incident has taken place on 23.12.2009 at 1 p.m. in the afternoon which is 16 km. away from the place of occurrence. It is further noteworthy to mention here that the prosecutrix/victim "A" in her deposition before the trial court has stated that because of the rape being committed by the appellant, she felt pain in her private part and her faecal matter also came out and the accused told her to go and attend the call of nature. The appellant had led evidence in defence showing his false implication in the present case on account of the fact that 10 to 14 years back, he had left the village because some people of the village namely Drag Pal, Sunil, Rambabu, Pappu and Raj Bahadur had grabbed the plot of his father on account of which in collusion with the village Pradhan the appellant has been falsely implicated in the present case. The appellant has further taken a defence that he was not present at the time time and place of the occurrence as he was at Mainpuri and gone to the house of his maternal uncle. In this regard he has produced the defence witness D.W.1 and D.W.2 and further D.W.3 Doctor Ravindra Kumar Gupta who had examined the appellant. When the appellant was brought on 27.12.2009 by the police constable in the present case and he did not find any injuries on the private part of the appellant and no Spermatozoa or blood was found on his person. He was not wearing any underwear which could be taken for examination. The appellant was examined on the basis of Chitthi Majroobi brought by the two constables. The appellant was aged about 18 years as per the said Doctor. The defence taken by the appellant was rightly rejected by the trial court giving sound reasons.

33. The suggestion was also given by the defence to the victim that she received some injury on her private part due to fall on a pointed substance in the Arhar field which she has categorically denied and has stated that it was the appellant who has committed rape on her. It has come in the evidence of P.W.2 Indrapal and P.W.3 Smt. Shiv Kumari who are the father and mother prosecutrix/victim "A" that they had no enmity prior to the incident with the appellant. The defence witnesses i.e. P.W.1 Nand Ram and D.W.2 Rajeshwar Dayal were disbelieved by the trial court on the ground that the two defence witnesses were the uncle of the appellant and they had just given evidence to save the appellant from the present case. The evidence of P.W.4 Dr. Jyotsana Bhatiya who has examined the prosecutrix/victim "A" has categorically stated before the trial court that the nature of injury sustained by the prosecutrix/victim "A" on her private part could be caused by hard and blunt object i.e. of erect of penis and if a person of 20 to 25 years commits such an offence against a victim till such injury as has been received by the prosecutrix/victim "A" is quite possible. She has further stated that the victim was admitted in the hospital as her wounds were stitched and she remained in the hospital for about 10 to 11 days. The injuries found on the prosecutrix/victim "A" was fresh one. She further denied the suggestion given by the defence that the victim could have received injuries on account of fall on a pointed wood. She identified the victim of whose medical examination she conducted after the incident. Thus the trial court arrived at a conclusion convicting the appellant for the offence under Section 376(1) IPC for life imprisonment. From the impugned judgement and order passed by the trial court, it reveals that while considering the quantum of sentence for the offence in question it had gone through the plight of the victim who was a minor helpless girl against whom such a heinous crime was committed by the appellant who brutally subjected her to rape and further ramifications of the offence and it impact on the society has been considered in great details. The judgement cited by the learned counsel for the appellant in the case of Bavo @ Manubhai Ambalal Thakore Vs. State of Gujarat (Supra) wherein the Apex Court considered the quantum of sentence has considered that the award of life imprisonment which is maximum prescribed is not warranted taking into account that the accused was aged about 18/19 years and the incident has occurred nearly ten years ago and awarded him sentence of ten years R.I and further considered the imposition of fine of Rs.20,000/- by the trial court which was reduced to Rs.1,000/- as the accused belong to poor family and working as agricultural labour was not in a position to pay such huge amount and, therefore, the present appellant is also entitled to be sentenced for ten years R.I as he had already undergone eleven years in jail as stated to be in jail since 27.12.2009.

34. We have very humbly considered the judgement of the Apex Court as has been cited by the learned counsel for the appellant but we cannot lose sight of another judgement of the Apex Court as has been relied upon by the learned AGA in the case of Shyam Narayan Vs. State of NCT Delhi (Supra) where the victim girl was aged about eight years and the Apex Court confirmed the conviction of the said accused for the offence under Section 376(2) (F) IPC by the trial court which sentenced him for life imprisonment and High Court also upheld the said sentence imposed by the trial court and further the Apex Court confirmed the said sentence of life imprisonment on the said accused observing that sentencing has a social goal awarding just sentence is complex exercise. Court has to take balance between reformatory theory and principle of proportionality. While considering the quantum of sentence in the said case, the Court has very widely considered various aspects of the matter such as the plight of the victim, social ramifications of the offence on the society. In this regard it would be not out of place to mention to quote paragraphs 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 of the said judgement which are reproduced here as under:-

11. Primarily it is to be borne in mind that sentencing for any offence has a social goal. Sentence is to be imposed regard being had to the nature of the offence and the manner in which the offence has been committed. The fundamental purpose of imposition of sentence is based on the principle that the accused must realise that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in his life but also a concavity in the social fabric. The purpose of just punishment is designed so that the individuals in the society which ultimately constitute the collective do not suffer time and again for such crimes. It serves as a deterrent. True it is, on certain occasions, opportunities may be granted to the convict for reforming himself but it is equally true that the principle of proportionality between an offence committed and the penalty imposed are to be kept in view. While carrying out this complex exercise, it is obligatory on the part of the Court to see the impact of the offence on the society as a whole and its ramifications on the immediate collective as well as its repercussions on the victim.

12. In this context, we may refer with profit to the pronouncement in Jameel

v. State of Uttar Pradesh[1], wherein this Court, speaking about the concept of sentence, has laid down that it is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence."

13. In Shailesh Jasvantbhai and another v. State of Gujarat and others[2], the Court has observed thus:

"Friedman in his Law in Changing Society stated that: "State of criminal law continues to be - as it should be -a decisive reflection of social consciousness of society." Therefore, in operating the sentencing system, law should adopt the corrective machinery or deterrence based on factual matrix. By deft modulation, sentencing process be stern where it should be, and tempered with mercy where it warrants to be. The facts and given circumstances in each case, the nature of the crime, the manner in which it was planned and committed, the motive for commission of the crime, the conduct of the accused, the nature of weapons used and all other attending circumstances are relevant facts which would enter into the area of consideration".

14. In State of M.P. v. Babulal[3], two learned Judges, while delineating about the adequacy of sentence, have expressed thus : -

"19. Punishment is the sanction imposed on the offender for the infringement of law committed by him. Once a person is tried for commission of an offence and found guilty by a competent court, it is the duty of the court to impose on him such sentence as is prescribed by law. The award of sentence is consequential on and incidental to conviction. The law does not envisage a person being convicted for an offence without a sentence being imposed therefore.

20. The object of punishment has been succinctly stated in Halsbury's Laws of England, (4th Edition: Vol.II: para 482) thus:

"The aims of punishment are now considered to be retribution, justice, deterrence, reformation and protection and modern sentencing policy reflects a combination of several or all of these aims. The retributive element is intended to show public revulsion to the offence and to punish the offender for his wrong conduct. The concept of justice as an aim of punishment means both that the punishment should fit the offence and also that like offences should receive similar punishments. An increasingly important aspect of punishment is deterrence and sentences are aimed at deterring not only the actual offender from further offences but also potential offenders from breaking the law. The importance of reformation of the offender is shown by the growing emphasis laid upon it by much modern legislation, but judicial opinion towards this particular aim is varied and rehabilitation will not usually be accorded precedence over deterrence. The main aim of punishment in judicial thought, however, is still the protection of society and the other objects frequently receive only secondary consideration when sentences are being decided".

15. In Gopal Singh v. State of Uttarakhand[4], while dealing with the philosophy of just punishment which is the collective cry of the society, a two-Judge Bench has stated that just punishment would be dependent on the facts of the case and rationalised judicial discretion. Neither the personal perception of a Judge nor self-adhered moralistic vision nor hypothetical apprehensions should be allowed to have any play. For every offence, a drastic measure cannot be thought of. Similarly, an offender cannot be allowed to be treated with leniency solely on the ground of discretion vested in a Court. The real requisite is to weigh the circumstances in which the crime has been committed and other concomitant factors.

17. In Madan Gopal Kakkad v. Naval Dubey and another[5], it has been observed as follows:-

"... though all sexual assaults on female children are not reported and do not come to light yet there is an alarming and shocking increase of sexual offences committed on children. This is due to the reasons that children are ignorant of the act of rape and are not able to offer resistance and become easy prey for lusty brutes who display the unscrupulous, deceitful and insidious art of luring female children and young girls. Therefore, such offenders who are menace to the civilized society should be mercilessly and inexorably punished in the severest terms."

18. In State of Andhra Pradesh v. Bodem Sundra Rao[6], this Court noticed that crimes against women are on the rise and such crimes are affront to the human dignity of the society and, therefore, imposition of inadequate sentence is injustice to the victim of the crime in particular and the society in general. After so observing, the learned Judges had to say this: -

"The Courts have an obligation while awarding punishment to impose appropriate punishment so as to respond to the society's crime for justice against such criminals. Public abhorrence of the crime needs a reflection through the Court's verdict in the measure of punishment. The Courts must not only keep in view the rights of the criminal but also the rights of the victim of crime and the society at large while considering imposition of the appropriate punishment."

19. In State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh and others[7], this Court stated with anguish that crime against women in general and rape in particular is on the increase. The learned Judges proceeded further to state that it is an irony that while we are celebrating women's rights in all spheres, we show little or no concern for her honour. It is a sad reflection of the attitude of indifference of the society towards the violation of human dignity of the victims of sex crimes. Thereafter, the Court observed the effect of rape on a victim with anguish: -

"We must remember that a rapist not only violates the victim's privacy and personal integrity, but inevitably causes serious psychological as well as physical harm in the process. Rape is not merely a physical assault - it is often destructive of the whole personality of the victim. A murderer destroys the physical body of his victim, a rapist degrades the very soul of the helpless female."

20. In State of Karnataka v. Krishnappa[8], a three-Judge Bench opined that the courts must hear the loud cry for justice by the society in cases of the heinous crime of rape on innocent helpless girls of tender years and respond by imposition of proper sentence. Public abhorrence of the crime needs reflection through imposition of appropriate sentence by the court. It was further observed that to show mercy in the case of such a heinous crime would be travesty of justice and the plea for leniency is wholly misplaced.

21. In Jugendra Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh[9], while dwelling upon the gravity of the crime of rape, this Court had expressed thus: -

"Rape or an attempt to rape is a crime not against an individual but a crime which destroys the basic equilibrium of the social atmosphere. The consequential death is more horrendous. It is to be kept in mind that an offence against the body of a woman lowers her dignity and mars her reputation. It is said that one's physical frame is his or her temple. No one has any right of encroachment. An attempt for the momentary pleasure of the accused has caused the death of a child and had a devastating effect on her family and, in the ultimate eventuate, on the collective at large. When a family suffers in such a manner, the society as a whole is compelled to suffer as it creates an incurable dent in the fabric of the social milieu."

35. Thus in view of the foregoing discussions and the law as has been enunciated by the Apex Court in the case Shyam Narayan Vs. State of NCT Delhi (Supra) applying to the instant case we have no hesitation to hold that the conviction of the appellant for the offence u/s 376(1) IPC and sentence for life imprisonment with fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of the same 1 year R.I as has been awarded by the trial court is fully justified in the facts and circumstances of the present case which has in a very detailed manner has discussed the issue of imprisonment of sentence and given cogent reason for awarding a sentence for imprisonment of life to the appellant which is a sound one. Therefore, we upheld the conviction and sentence awarded by the trial court to the appellant for the offence for which he has been charged with, and the same does not call for any interference by this Court, hence the appeal of the appellant lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

36. The accused-appellant is stated to be in jail. He shall remain in jail to serve out the sentence awarded by the trial court.

37. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the trial court concerned forthwith along with lower court record for necessary information and follow up action.

38. The party shall file computer generated copy of order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad, self attested by it alongwith a self attested identity proof of the said person (s) (preferably Aadhar Card) mentioning the mobile number (s) to which the said Aadhar Card is linked before the concerned Court/Authority/Official.

39. The concerned Court/Authority/Official shall verify the authenticity of the computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32 (1)- Dying Declaration- The dying declaration of the deceased was recorded by the PW5 Naib Teshildar Sadar in presence of the Emergency Medical Officer who stated that the patient is fit to give the dying declaration before and after recording of the dying declaration and the thumb impression is also found of the deceased on the same and the same has also been identified by the Naib Tehsildar, as is apparent from the dying declaration.

Where the prosecution establishes that the maker of the dying declaration was in a fit mental and physical condition to give the same, then the same can be relied upon the Court for securing the conviction of the accused.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 32 (1)- Dying Declaration – Deceased sustained 100% burn injuries- It is trite law that a dying declaration recorded of a person who has received 100% burn injuries cannot be rejected on that ground alone on the ground that she may not be in a position to speak. The same has to be tested and if the court comes to a conclusion that it is trustworthy then believe it. In cases of dying declaration the legal maxim "Nemo Moriturus Praesumitur Mentire" i.e. the man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth comes in operation.

The law is settled that if the court comes to the conclusion that the dying declaration is truthful and voluntary, then the same has to be believed and the court cannot substitute it's own opinion in place of the medical examiner's opinion unless there are some inherent defects in the dying declaration.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

1. The present criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 19.5.2015 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Saharanpur in S.T. No.502 of 2011 (State Vs. Smt. Ruksana and others), convicting and sentencing the appellants to undergo for life imprisonment under Section 302/34 I.P.C. and fine of Rs.30,000/- each and in default of payment of fine they shall further to undergo for one year additional imprisonment

2. The prosecution case, as per the F.I.R. which was lodged by Yusuf Ali alias Pathan, Resident of Kaliar Sharif, Police Station Kotwali Roorkhi, District Haridwar on 28.5.2011 at about 22:35 hrs. at Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Saharanpur on the basis of a written report submitted by him, is that his daughter, namely, Khushboo was married eight years ago in Village Rasoolpur, Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Saharanpur to Ashraf @ Nanu and though sufficient dowry given in the said marriage, but Ashraf @ Nanu (husband), Ruksana (Mother-in-law), Noori (Nanad) and Sultan Akhtar (Nandoi) used to demand more dowry and indulged in marpeet with his daughter Khushboo. The informant on many times had given Rs.10,000/- (twice) and Rs.15,000/- to them for keeping his daughter happy. Few days prior to the incident, in-laws of his daughter Khusboo were pressurizing her to ask her parents to give Rs.50,000/- and also indulged in marpeet with her, which was informed to him by his daughter Khushboo and the informant told her that after making arrangement of Rs.50000/- it would be paid to her in-laws, but on 28.5.2011, one Rashid of Rasoolpur had informed the informant on phone that his daughter had been burnt alive by her in-laws and the villagers had admitted his daughter in the hospital. On receiving the said information, the nephews of the informant, namely, Mirza Hussain and Liyaqat Ali immediately rushed to District Hospital, Saharanpur and at that time Khushboo was conscious and she told Mirza Hussain and Liyaqat Ali that her husband Ashraf @ Nanu, mother-in-law Ruksana, nanad Noori and and nandoi Sultan Haider had poured kerosene oil on her and set her ablaze. Thereafter, his daughter, namely, Khushboo had died in the District Hospital at 7:00 p.m. in the evening. When the informant reached the hospital, his nephews, namely, Mirza Hussain and Liyaqat Ali informed and told him about what his daughter Khushboo had narrated about the incident to them. Thereafter, the informant had got the report written and submitted the same to the Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Saharanpur, on the basis of which the F.I.R. was registered against the five accused persons and the same was also endorsed in the G.D. of the concerned police station.

3. The dying-declaration of the deceased was recorded on 28.5.2011 at 6:20 p.m. by Satish Kumar Kushwaha, Naib Tehsildar Sadar in the presence of Doctor Emergency Medical Officer of S.B.D. ,District Hospital Saharanpur. The said dying-declaration has been proved and marked as Ext. Ka.3, which is reproduced here-in-below:

''प्रश्नः तुम्हारा क्या नाम है ?
उत्तरः मेरा नाम खूशबू है।
प्रश्नः तुम्हारी कितनी उम्र है ?
उत्तरः मेरी उम्र 25 वर्ष है।
प्रश्नः तुमहारे पति का क्या नाम है ?
उत्तरः मेरे पति का नाम अशरफ है।
प्रश्नः तुम किस गॉव की रहने वाली हो ?
उत्तरः मैं रसूलपुर गॉव की रहने वाली हूॅ।
प्रश्नः तुम किस प्रकार जल गयी ?
उत्तरः मुझे मेरी सास रूखसाना नन्द नूरी, सुल्तान ननदोई ने मुझे जलाया है। मेरे पति का मुझे जलाने में कोई हाथ नहीं है। इन लोगों ने मेरे उपर मिट्टी का तेल डालकर आग लगा दी। अपराहन लगभग एक–डेढ़ बजे की घटना है। मेरा पति उस समय घर से बाहर बच्चो को सामान दिलाने गया था। मेरी सास व ननद ने मुझे आग से इसलिए जलाया कि वह मुझे बदचलन समझते है और कहते है कि घर से निकल जाओ। इस बात को लेकर मेरी सास व नन्द से रोज झगड़ा होता है मेरे पति से इस बात को लेकर कोई झगडा नहीं होता है। इस बात को लेकर ससुर से मेरा कोई झगड़ा नहीं है। मेरी शादी को लगभग सात साल हो गये है। आग लगने पर मैं चिल्लाई तो पड़ोसियों ने मुझे बचाया। मुझे और कुछ नहीं कहना है।''

4. The information about the death of the decedased was given by the Medical Officer to the Police Station Janakpuri. Thereafater, from the police station Kotwali Dehat S.I. Naresh Pal on 28.5.2011 at 20:15 hrs left the police station and reached to S.B.D. Hospital at 20:15 hrs. and conducted the panchayatnama of the dead body of the deceased and also prepared the photo-lash, chalan-lash, letter to R.I., letter to C.M.O. and thereafter he sealed the dead body of the deceased Khushboo and sent the same for post mortem through Constable .

5. The post mortem of the deceased was conducted on 29.5.2011 at 3:30 p.m. and in the opinion of the doctor the deceased died on account of burn injuries and smell of kerosene oil was coming out from the body of the deceased.

6. The investigation of the case was entrusted to Station Officer Suresh Babu Itoria, who recorded the statements of the witnesses, made spot inspection of the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan. From the place of occurrence, he recovered pieces of burnt clothes which were stucked on the floor of the room and the same were taken into possession by the Investigating Officer who prepared the recovery memo of the same, which was signed by witnesses, namely Irfan son of Inam and Irfan son of Ali Hasan. A plastic 5 liters vital mark cane which was of yellow colour, was also recovered from the room and the same was also taken into possession by the Investigating Officer and recovery memo of the same was also prepared which was signed by the said two witnesses also.

7. The Investigating Officer further endorsed the dying declaration in the G.D. and deposited the case property to the police station and after completing all the formalities of investigation, he submitted charge sheet against the three appellants and exonerated the husband of the deceased namely, Ashraf @ Nanu and one Haider.

8. The case was committed to the Court of Sessions and the trial Court framed charges against the appellants under Sections 498A, 302/34 I.P.C., who denied the charges and claimed their trial.

9. The prosecution in support of its case has examined PW1- Yusuf, PW2-Mirza Hussain, PW3-Dheeraj Chawla, PW4- Liyaqat Ali, PW5-Satish Kumar Kushwaha, Naib Tehsildar, PW6-S.I. Naresh Pal, PW7-Constable Mehkar Singh, PW8- Dr. Gopal, PW9-Irfan, PW10-Rashid Naim and PW11-Suresh Babu Itoria.

10. The statements of the accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. by the trial Court and they denied the prosecution case and stated that the dying declaration of the deceased which was recorded is a false one. The fingers of the deceased were burnt and she could not put her thumb impression on the dying declaration.The Investigating Officer in collusion with the informant had got a false dying declaration recorded and because they being the in-laws of the deceased, false case has been set up against them.

11. The appellant Ruksana, mother in-law of the deceased, has stated that there was dispute between her son Ashraf @ Nanu and deceased with respect to a house and she had already been ousted from the house. She was living at the house of one of her relative's Nafisa in Noor Basti. The deceased died while cooking food in the house and stove had burst, on account of which she died. A false case was registered against her in collusion with Ashraf @ Nanu with his in-laws.

12. The accused appellant Noori has stated that she along with her husband Sultan were running a academy in Mohalla Nadeem Colony and they did not visit the house of the deceased nor they had any concern with her. On the date of the incident, i.e., on 28.5.2011 from 7:00 a.m. morning till 5:00 p.m.in the evening she along with her husband was in school and they were in the school distributing the results of the children and other teachers were also present and hence she is innocent.

13. Similarly, accused appellant Sultan Akhtar has also categorically reiterated the statement made by the accused appellant Noori.

14. In support of their defence, the accused appellants produced DW1-Paigam Rasool and DW2-Ayesha.

15. PW1-Yusuf Ali, who is the informant of the case and father of the deceased, in his examination-in-chief before the trial Court has stated that the deceased Khushboo was his daughter and she got married ten years ago with Ashraf @ Nanu. Accused Ruksana is the mother-in-law of the deceased Khushboo and he does not know the relationship of the deceased with the appellant Sultan with Khushboo. The accused Noori is the Nanad of his daughter Khushboo. The marriage of his daughter Khushboo was solemnized in mohalla Nai Basti. At the time of the incident, deceased Khushboo used to live in a village at Saharanpur and he does not know the name of the said village. He further deposed that his daughter Khushboo had not told him about any demand being made by her in-laws and he came to know from the persons of the mohalla of the deceased that she died on account of burn injuries due to bursting of stove.He had lodged a report about the incident and has identified his thumb impression on the written report, i.e., Ext. Ka.-1. As this witness has not supported the prosecution case, hence, he was declared hostile by the trial Court.

16. PW2-Mirza Hussain in his examination-in-chief before the trial Court has deposed that the deceased Khushboo was the daughter of his uncle Yusuf Ali. Her marriage was performed eight years ago with Ashraf @ Nanu, son of Ashiq Ali.The accused Ruksana is the Mother-in-aw, accused Sultan is the Nandoi and Noori is the Nanad of the deceased Khushboo respectively. All the three accused were pressurizing the deceased to bring money in dowry and when she refused to bring the same, all the three accused indulged in marpeet with her. His uncle many times, i.e., 2-3 times had given Rs.10,000/- to her in-laws. Khushboo had come to her house on 2-3 occasions and she told him about the demand of dowry and marpeet with her to him. Prior to the incident, all the three accused had asked the deceased Khushboo to bring Rs.50,000/- from her parents. The said fact was also told by the deceased Khushboo and his uncle.

17. This witness further deposed that his uncle Yusuf Ali had made a call on phone to him and told that the in-laws of Khushboo had set her ablaze. His uncle had also informed him that people of the mohalla of the deceased Khushboo had taken her to the hospital. On receiving the said information, he along with son of his uncle, namely, Liyaqat reached to District Hospital Saharanpur. He reached to Saharanpur at about 6:45 p.m. in the evening and on coming to know at hospital that Khushboo was admitted in Burn Ward. When they reached at the Hospital, Khushboo was alive, she was conscious and medical treatment was being given to her. He along with Liyaqat had talked Khushboo and she told that mother-in-law Ruksana, her Nandoi Sultan and Nanad Noori had poured kerosene oil on her and set her ablaze.Thereafter, Khushboo died in the hospital. A report of the incident was lodged by his uncle Yusuf Ali. He told to his uncle what Khushboo had told him. The panchayatnama of the deceased Khushbo was conducted in his presence, he signed the same and proved his signature on panchayatnama and proved the same as Ext. Ka.-2.

18. PW-3 Dheeraj Chawla is the scribe of the F.I.R. This witness in his deposition before the trial Court has stated that he knew Yusuf Ali who is a resident of Village Kaliar Sharif. On 28.5.2011 Yusuf Ali, Mirza Hussain, Liyaqat Ali and 5 others had come to his house at 7:30 p.m. in the evening. Yusuf Ali told him that his daughter had been set ablaze by her in-laws, for which he requested him to accompany with them to Kotwali Dehat and to write an application. When this witness reached at Kotwali Dehat, District Saharanpur, the police of the concerned police station informed him to bring a written report, which was written outside the police station at a tea shop.What was told by Yusuf Ali, was written by a boy who had come along with them. When the report was written, then the Yusuf Ali had put his thumb impression on the same and thereafter the same was submitted to the police station and he had also signed the written report as was instructed by Yusuf Ali. He identified his signature on the written report. His statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded by the Investigating Officer.

19. PW4- Liyaqat Ali in his deposition before the trial Court has stated that he knew the accused Smt. Ruksana, Noori and Sultan Akhtar.The deceased Khushboo was the daugther of his uncle Yusuf. Her marriage was solemnized with Ashraf @ Nanu. Her mother in-law Ruksana, Nanad Noori and Nandoi Sultan Akhtar used to demand dowry from her and harassed her at regular intervals for the same. Twice Rs.10,000/- was given by his uncle Yusuf to them. Prior to the death of the deceased, accused had made a demand of Rs.50,000/- from her. On 28.5.2011, he received an information that the accused had burnt his cousin sister Khushboo. On receiving the said information, he went to the house of the accused persons but they had fled away from there. After some time, the father of the deceased namely, Yusuf reached the house of her in-laws. Thereafter, firstly he along with Yusuf, Mirza and several other persons had gone to the house of Dheeraj Chawla between 7:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. where his uncle Yusuf had told Dheeraj that his daughter has been burnt to death for want of dowry by the three accused appellants who are present in Court and he should accompany them for lodging the report at the police station. Thereafter, they went to the Police Station Kotwali Dehat and at the outside of the police station at a tea shop they got a report written from a boy who had come along with them from Kalinger. What was dictated in the report by Yusuf, the same was written and Yusuf had put his thumb impression on the same and after giving the report at the police station they had gone to District Hospital Saharanpur where they came to know about the condition of Khushboo who was in serious condition and later on she died on the same day in the night.

20. PW5-Satish Kumar Kushwaha, Naib Tehsildar, in his deposition before the trial Court has stated that he was posted as Naib Tehsildar Sadar, Saharanpur. He admitted before the trial Court the dying declaration to be of the deceased Khushboo which was shown to him before the trial Court and identified the same and further stated that on 28.5.2011 he had recorded the said dying declaration of the deceased Smt. Khushboo who burnt due to fire under the orders of the superior officers. He stated that he reached the hospital at 6:00 p.m. in the evening and contacted the doctor who was on duty in the Emergency Ward, for recording the dying declaration of the deceased who accompanied him to the Burn Ward where the medical treatment of the deceased Khushboo was going on. The said doctor had informed him that the deceased was fit to give the dying declaration, for which he had also given a certificate that she was completely fit to give the dying declaration. Thereafter, he put questions to Smt. Khushboo who replied the same which was noted by this witness. After recording the dying declaration of the deceased Khushboo, he got thumb impression of left hand affixed on the dying declaration and before putting thumb impression he read over the same to the deceased. This witness has proved the said dying declaration of the deceased in his hand writing and signature, which has been marked as Ext. Ka.3.

28. On behalf of the appellants Sultan Akhtar and Noori, who in their defence, have examined DW1-Paigam Rasool and DW2 Ayesha to prove the plea of alibi.

29. DW1 Paigam Rasool has stated before the trial Court that he runs St. Jehra Academy which is situated in Mohalla Nadeem Colony and he is the President of the said School. He further stated that Sultan Akhtar is the partner and Manager whereas his wife Noori is the teacher in the School and they both live in a room above the said school. The school is from Class 1 to 5. In the month of May, 2011 there was three teachers in the school. Hussain Ahmad, Ayesha and Noori were the teachers. Noori is the wife of Sultan Akhtar. On 28.5.2011 it was working day in his school from 9:00 a.m. in the morning till 4:30 p.m. in the evening and during the said period the results of the students were being distributed and during the said period Sultan Akhtar, Noori and Ayesha were present in the school along with the students and their parents from 9:00 a.m. till 4:30 p.m. in the evening. On 28.5.2011 Sultan Akhtar and Noori remained in the school and did not go outside.He had also brought the original register of the school and filed a photocopy of the same and proved the same as Ext. Kha.1.This witness has stated that on 28.5.2011 there is attendance of Noori and Ayesha in the said register and they have signed, whereas the attendance of Sultan Akhtar has not been endorsed as he was the Manager.

30. DW2-Ayesha has deposed before the trial Court that earlier she used to teach in St. Jehra Academy School in the years 2010 and 2011 and Noori and Hussain Ahmad were also the teachers in the said school and Sultan Akhtar was the Manager of the said school.Paigam Rasool was the President of the said school. Above the school there was a room of Sultan Akhtar and Noori who are the husband and wife. On 28.5.2011 the school was opened from 9:00 a.m. in the morning and there was distribution of report cards of the students in the school and she was also present there. Along with her, Noori Sultan Akhtar and Paigam Rasool were also present and they all remained present till 4:30 p.m. in the school and during the said period parents of the students were coming and going. On 28.5.2011 from 9:00 a.m. in the morning till 7:00 p.m. in the evening Noori, Sultan Akhtar and Paigam Rasool were present in the school and they did not go out. On 28.5.2011 her attendance along with Noori was endorsed in the attendance register of the school and she proved the same as Ext. Kha-1 in which she identified her signature. She further stated that in the attendance register, the attendance of Paigam Rasool and Sultan Akhtar were not filled as they were President and Manager of the school and attendance is only taken of the teachers.

31. The trial Court after examining the prosecution evidence and defence evidence came to the conclusion that the accused appellants have committed murder of the deceased by setting her ablaze and has convicted and sentenced them for the offence in question.

32. Heard Sri Rakesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellants, Ms. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the material brought on record.

33. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that PW1 who is the father of the deceased Smt. Khushboo has not supported the prosecution case and has turned hostile. So far as PW2 Mirza Hussain and PW4 Liyaqat Ali are concerned who are the cousin brothers of the deceased and nephew of PW1, on receiving the information from PW1 about the incident reached Saharanpur Hospital where the deceased was admitted after she received injuries in the incident. She told them that it was the three appellants who had poured kerosene oil on her and set her ablaze as they thought that she was a woman of a bad character. He further submitted that the deceased received 100% burn injuries on her person, hence, she was not in a position to speak and moreover, as per the evidence of the two witnesses they had reached the hospital at about 6:45 p.m. and their evidence is unworthy to be believed as they are highly interested and partisan witnesses as they are related to the deceased.

34. So far as the dying-declaration of the deceased is concerned, it has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the same does not inspire confidence and it is an after thought document. In this regard, he assailed the dying declaration on two counts; firstly, PW5 Naib Tehsildar Satish Kumar who has recorded the dying declaration of the deceased, has failed to show before the trial Court that under whose instruction he reached the District Hospital to record the dying declaration and further the fitness certificate for recording the dying declaration which was given of the emergency doctor of the said hospital is also doubtful as the deceased who had received 100% burn injuries could not make such a dying declaration; secondly, as the fingers of the deceased were burnt, hence, there was no occasion for her to put her thumb impression on the dying declaration. He further argued that the Ruksana mother-in-law of the deceased was living separately to her at the house of one of her relative's Nafisa in Noor Basti and Nand Noori and Nandoi Sultan Akhtar of the deceased were living separately from the deceased and her husband in the school in a room above the said school in which they were working, and they were not present on the date and time of the occurrence and they have been falsely implicated in the present case as they happens to be in-laws of the deceased and related to her husband.

35. He argued that the trial Court has misread the evidence on record and particularly, the dying declaration of the deceased and has convicted and sentenced the appellants without there being any reliable evidence against them. Hence, the conviction and sentence of the appellants be set aside. The appellants, namely, Smt. Ruksana and Smt. Noori are in jail since 10.6.2011 and appellant, namely, Sultan Akhtar is in jail since 14.7.2011 respectively.

36. In support of his argument, learned counsel for the appellants has placed reliance of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Sampat Babso Kale & Anr. Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in 2019 (2) JIC 34 (SC) and Paparambaka Rosamma & Ors. Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh reported in 1999 (7) SC 640.

37. Learned A.G.A. on the other hand has vehemently opposed the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants and submitted that the deceased died in her matrimonial house and she in her dying declaration (Ext. Ka.2) has categorically stated that kerosene oil was poured on her by the three appellants who set her ablaze as the three appellants had doubted the chastity of the deceased and they wanted to oust the deceased from their house and the dying declaration has been recorded by the Naib Tehsildar Sadar Satish Kumar Kushwaha (PW5) and the fitness certificate has been given by the Emergency Medical Officer of the S.B.D. District Hospital, Saharanpur before and after the dying declaration which bears the thumb impression of left hand on the same and there appears to be no material on record to doubt the said dying declaration of the deceased, who died on account of ante-mortem burn injuries and the defence which has been set out that the deceased died while preparing the food in the house and stove had burst, is a false explanation given by the appellants as the Investigating Officer did not find any burst stove at the place of occurrence, moreover, he found the pieces of clothes and dupatta of the deceased which were burnt and a 5 liters cane of vital mark from which smell of kerosene oil was coming out and from the dead body smell of kerosene oil was coming out as was noticed by the doctor who conducted the post mortem of the deceased.

38. The case law which has been relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellants in the case of Paparambaka Rosamma & Ors. Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (supra) on the point of dying declaration, is totally distinguishable from the facts of the present case as the said dying declaration was disbelieved by the Apex Court only on the ground that no independent witness had come to support the prosecution case and further, in the dying declaration the doctor has only stated that the deceased was conscious but there was no fitness certificate given by the doctor who recorded the dying declaration, hence, the dying declaration was disbelieved by the Apex Court in the said case.

39. The other case law relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellants in the case of Sampat Babso Kale & Anr. Vs. State of Maharashtra (supra) is also not of any help to the appellants as the dying-declaration was disbelieved by the Apex Court on the ground that the the Doctor has not given any fitness certificate before recording the dying-declaration and given it after the statement was recorded of the deceased, but in the instant case the Doctor has given the fitness certificate before and after recording the dying-declaration of the deceased, hence, the same cannot be doubted.

40. After having considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties. We have perused the impugned judgment and order as well as record thoroughly.

41. It transpires from the prosecution case that the deceased was the wife of Ashraf @ Nanu and she was done to death by the three appellants who poured kerosene oil on her and set her ablaze between 1:00 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the afternoon.The dying declaration of the deceased was recorded by PW5 Satish Kumar Kushwaha, Naib Tehsil Sadar, District Saharanpur on 28.5.2011 at 6:20 p.m. in the presence of the doctor who had given a fitness certificate that the patient is fit for dying declaration. From the dying declaration it is apparent that the deceased was done to death by the three appellants as they doubted her chastity and were pressurizing her to leave the house and because of the said fact frequently there was quarrel between them. The F.I.R. of the incident was lodged on the same day of the incident, i.e. on 28.5.2011 at 22.35 hrs. by the father of the deceased, namely, Yusuf Alia alias Pathan against five persons, namely, Ashraf @ Nanu (Husband), Ruksana (Mother-in-law), Noori (Nanad) and Sultan (Nandoi) of the deceased respectively and one Haider and the charge sheet was submitted against the three appellants only and other two accused were exonerated.

42. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the appellants that the dying declaration of the deceased is a manipulated document and is unworthy to be believed on the ground that as the whole body of the deceased was burnt except both sole shringing of scalp pubic eyebrow, eye lashes and axillary hair. Line of redness present. Thus, as the fingers of the deceased were also burnt, hence, it was not possible for her to put thumb impression on the dying declaration and further from the evidence of PW5 Naib Tehsildar Sadar Satish Kumar Kushwaha who had recorded the dying declaration of the deceased, it is also not apparent that under whose order he went to the District Hospital to record the dying declaration of the deceased, which creates doubt about the truthfulness of the dying-declaration of the deceased. The said argument of the learned counsel for the appellants is not at all acceptable as it is apparent from the dying-declaration of the deceased that the same was recorded by the PW5 Naib Tehsildar, Sadar Satish Kumar Kushwaha who in his evidence has categorically stated that under the orders of the S.D.M. concerned the days were fixed for recording the dying declaration in a week to two Naib Tehsildars, i.e., on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday dying declaration to be recorded by Naib Tehsildar Mubarka, whereas on the rest four days dying declaration to be recorded by Naib Tehsildar Sadar and on the day on which he had recorded the dying declaration of the deceased, there was an order of the S.D.M. concerned and in pursuance of which he recorded the dying declaration of the deceased in the presence of the doctor who had given the fitness certificate before and after recording of the dying declaration of the deceased that she was in a fit state of mind.

43. PW8 Dr.Gopal who had conducted the post mortem of the deceased has also stated that it is not correct that a person who has received 100% burn injuries becomes unconscious within 15 minutes and he is not able to speak.

44. So far as putting of the thumb impression of the deceased on the dying-declaration is concerned, it is noteworthy to mention here that as the dying declaration of the deceased was recorded by the PW5 Naib Teshildar Sadar in presence of the Emergency Medical Officer who stated that the patient is fit to give the dying declaration before and after recording of the dying declaration and the thumb impression is also found of the deceased on the same and the same has also been identified by the Naib Tehsildar, as is apparent from the dying declaration. Hence, in view of the same, there appears to be no room of doubt that the said dying declaration of the deceased which has been relied upon by the trial Court on the basis of which the appellants have been convicted and sentenced for the offence in question.

45. It is trite law that a dying declaration recorded of a person who has received 100% burn injuries cannot be rejected on that ground alone on the ground that she may not be in a position to speak. The same has to be tested and if the court comes to a conclusion that it is trustworthy then believe it. The submission that the deceased after receiving 100% burn injuries will not be able to speak has no substance.

46. In the case of State of M.P. Vs. Dal Singh : (2013) 14 SCC 159 the Apex Court while discussing the issued whether 100% burnt person can make a dying declaration or put a thumb impression has held as follows:

"14. In Mafabhai Nagarbhai Raval v. State of Gujarat, AIR 1992 SC 2186, this Court dealt with a case wherein a question arose with respect to whether a person suffering from 99 per cent burn injuries could be deemed capable enough for the purpose of making a dying declaration. The learned trial Judge thought that the same was not at all possible, as the victim had gone into shock after receiving such high degree burns. He had consequently opined, that the moment the deceased had seen the flame, she was likely to have sustained mental shock. Development of such shock from the very beginning, was the ground on which the Trial Court had disbelieved the medical evidence available. This Court then held, that the doctor who had conducted her post-mortem was a competent person, and had deposed in this respect. Therefore, unless there existed some inherent and apparent defect, the court could not have substitute its opinion for that of the doctor's. Hence, in light of the facts of the case, the dying declarations made, were found by this Court to be worthy of reliance, as the same had been made truthfully and voluntarily. There was no evidence on record to suggest that the victim had provided a tutored version, and the argument of the defence stating that the condition of the deceased was so serious that she could not have made such a statement was not accepted, and the dying declarations were relied upon.

A similar view has been re-iterated by this Court in Rambai v. State of Chhatisgarh, (2002) 8 SCC 83."

47. In cases of dying declaration the legal maxim "Nemo Moriturus Praesumitur Mentire" i.e. the man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth comes in operation.

48. In the case of Paniben (Smt) Vs. State of Gujarat : (1992) 2 SCC 474, the principles governing the dying declaration are enumerated as under:

"18. .....It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring-corroboration is merely a rule of prudence. The Court has laid down in several judgments the principles governing dying declaration, which could be summed up as under:

(i) There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration. (Munnu Raja v. State of U.P., (1976) 3 SCC 104.

(ii) If the Court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it can base conviction on it, without corroboration. (State of U.P. v. Ram Sagar Yadav, (1985) 1 SCC 522; Ramawati Devi v. State of Bihar, (1983) 1 SCC 211).

(iii) The Court has to scrutinise the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. The deceased had opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration. (K. Ramchandra Reddy v. Public Prosecutor, (1976) 3 SCC 618).

(iv) Where dying declaration is suspicious it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence. (Rasheed Beg v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1974) 4 SCC 264).

(v) Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected. (Kake Singh v. State of M. P., 1981 Supp SCC 25).

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction. (Ram Manorath v. State of U.P., (1981) 2 SCC 654).

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not contain the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected. (State of Maharashtra v. Krishnamurthi Laxmipati Naidu, 1980 Supp SCC 455).

(viii) Equally, merely because it is a brief statement, it is not be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth. (Surajdeo Oza v. State of Bihar, 1980 Supp SCC 769)

(ix) Normally the Court in order to satisfy whether deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration look up to the medical opinion. But where the eye witness has said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make this dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. (Nanahau Ram and another v. State of M.P., 1988 Supp SCC 152).

(x) Where the prosecution version difers from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon. (State of U.P. v. Madan Mohan, (1989) 3 SCC 390)."

49. It has been next argued by the learned counsel for the appellants that the trial Court has failed to consider that from the evidence led by the defence with respect to the two appellants, namely, Noori and Sultan, they were not present at the time of occurrence as they were busy in distributing the results of the students of the school in which appellant Noori was the teacher and appellant Sultan was the Manager. The defence witness DW1 Paigam Rasool and DW2-Ayesha who have given evidence that the appellant Noori and and Sultan were present on the date and time of the incident in the school and were busy in distributing the results to the students, have failed to prove any cogent documentary evidence regarding the plea of alibi as has been pleaded by the said two appellants. The trial court after going through the evidence found that the documentary evidence i.e., register (Ext. Kha-1) which was produced by DW1, he in his cross-examination has admitted that from the first page to last page the same did not bear any date and prior to the said register there was no other register wherein the attendance of the teachers was maintained, hence, the trial Court disbelieved the defence evidence led on behalf of said two appellants and further it found that the school in which the appellants Noori and Sultan were the teacher and Manager respectively, was not a great distance that they could not reach the place of occurrence and after committing the crime they would return back to the school where they are stated to be working and also living.

50. The appellant Ruksana has claimed that she had left the house of the deceased and was living at the house of one of her relatives, namely, Nafisa in Noor Basti, also could not be believed by the trial Court as no evidence either oral or documentary was produced before the trial Court regarding the said fact.

51. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the appellants that the evidence of PW2 Mirza Hussain and PW4 Liyaqat Ali, who are stated to be the cousin brothers of the deceased and the nephews of PW1 Yusuf Ali alias Sher Ali are concerned that they reached the District Hospital at 6:45 p.m. in the evening after receiving an information from PW1 through phone that the deceased has been burnt by her in-laws and has been admitted in District Hospital Saharanpur, they reached there and the deceased told them that her mother-in-law Ruksana and Nand Noori and Nandoi Sultan had poured kerosene oil on her and set her ablaze, the said disclosure by the deceased to the said two witnesses is also not reliable as the deceased who had received 100% deep burn injuries on her person could not have survived for a long time and can give such a statement to them. In this regard, it is to be noted that the trial Court has not given much relevance to the testimony of the said two witnesses regarding the disclosure of the incident by the deceased to them when they reached at the District Hospital on receiving the information from PW1 about the incident as it has taken note of the dying declaration of the deceased which was recorded by the Naib Tehsildar Sadar (PW5) in the presence of the doctor who was posted as Emergency Medical Officer on 28.5.2011 between 6:20 p.m. to 6:40 p.m. wherein the deceased narrated the manner in which the incident had taken place and she was set ablaze by the three appellants. There appears to be no ambiguity or legal lacuna in relying upon the dying declaration of the deceased i.e., Ext. Ka.2 on the basis of which the appellants have been convicted and sentenced by the trial Court.

52. So far as the last contention of the learned counsel for the appellants that the accused have categorically pleaded in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that the deceased died an accidental death while cooking food in the house as the stove had burst, has also no substance as the Investigating Officer during the spot inspection did not find any burnt stove at the place of occurrence, on the other hand he found the burnt clothes of the deceased which were also stick on the floor of the room where she was set ablaze along with a cane of 5 Liters of vital brand from which smell of kerosene oil was also coming.

53. Thus, the trial Court has rightly come to the conclusion that the deceased was burnt to death by the three appellants in the room where she was living and her medical evidence fully corroborates the version given by the deceased in her dying declaration and has rightly convicted the appellants for the offence in question.

54. Therefore, in view of the foregoing discussions, we are of the opinion that the trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the accused appellants. Thus, we upheld the conviction and sentence awarded by the trial Court to the appellants for the offence who have been charged with, does not call for any interference by this Court. The appeal lacks merit. It is, accordingly, dismissed.

55. The accused appellants are stated to be in jail. They shall remain in jail to serve out the sentence awarded by the trial Court.

56. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the trial Court concerned forthwith along with the lower court record for necessary information and follow-up action.

57. The party shall file computer generated copy of order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad, self attested by it alongwith a self attested identity proof of the said person (s) (preferably Aadhar Card) mentioning the mobile number (s) to which the said Aadhar Card is linked, before the concerned Court /Authority /Official.

58. The concerned Court /Authority /Official shall verify the authenticity of the computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

Criminal Appeal No. 5101 of 2006

Sohan Pal ...Appellant (In Jail)
Versus
State of U.P. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Dinesh Kumar(A.C.), Sri Apul Misra, Sri Dinesh Chandra Mishra, Sri K.K. Mishra, Sri Noor Mohammad, Sri S.K. Srivastava

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

Criminal Law-Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376, Section 307- From the evidence led by the prosecution which includes the testimony of prosecutrix/victim 'A' P.W.3 along with her medical examination report and the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 goes to show that the appellant had committed rape on the victim, who is a minor girl and when she stated to complain about the incident to her mother, the accused with an intention to kill her, assaulted on neck with a scissor, causing grievous injuries to her, for which she was operated at Medical College, Meerut and remained in hospital for about a month and also admitted in AIIMS, New Delhi, after her surgery in the medical college, Meerut- The appellant who was taken on police remand got the bloodstained scissor recovered from the place where he has concealed the same of the incident.

The testimony of the victim, who is a child, is corroborated by the medical evidence and the testimony of the witnesses of fact as well as the recovery of the incriminating weapon with which the appellant had attempted to murder her, fully establish the case of the prosecution.

Quantum of sentence- The prosecutrix/victim because of the injury inflicted by the appellant on her neck, lost her power to speak after the incident which goes to show that the appellant has committed a heinous crime of rape and also made an attempt to murder the prosecutrix/victim after committing rape on her, hence the incarceration of the appellant for 17 years in jail, as has been argued by learned counsel for the appellant cannot be sympathetically weighed in comparison to the barbaric act of the appellant on the prosecutrix/victim, who is also an injured witness in the present case against the appellant- In cases of rape while considering the question of sentence, the Court has to strike balance between reformative theory and principle of proportionality- The sentence awarded to the appellant by the trial Court for the offences under section 376 IPC and under section 307 IPC for life imprisonment, respectively is perfectly justified in the instant case, as it shocks the conscience of the society and the Courts must hear the loud cry for justice by the society in cases of rape of innocent helpless girls of ten years and respond by imposition of sentence. To show mercy in the case of such heinous crime, could be travesty of justice and the plea of leniency is wholly misplaced.

It is settled law that a duty is cast upon the courts to strike a balance between the reformative theory and the principle of proportionality. Where the offence is heinous and barbaric and shocks the collective conscience of the society, then there is no need for the Court to interfere with the quantum of punishment awarded by the trial court.

Criminal Appeal rejected. (E-2) (Para 23, 25, 26, 28)

Judgements/ Case law relied upon: -

1. AIR 2013 SC 2209 Shyam Narain Vs St. of NCT of Delhi

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ramesh Sinha, J.)

1. The present appeal has been filed by the appellant against the judgment and order dated 27.7.2006 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.5, Meerut in S.T. No.175 of 2004 (State Vs. Sohanpal) convicting the appellant under sections 452 IPC and sentencing him to 01 year rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.1000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo 01 month rigorous imprisonment, under section 376 IPC imprisonment for life and a fine of Rs.25,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo 01 year rigorous imprisonment, under section 307 IPC imprisonment for life and under section 380 IPC 01 year rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.500/- only and in default of payment of fine to further undergo 01 month rigorous imprisonment, respectively and all the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

2. In view of the legislative mandate as contained in Section 228-A of the Indian Penal Code and the observation made by the Apex Court in it's catena of judgments, the identity of the prosecutrix/victim is not being disclosed and she is referred to as 'A' hereinafter.

3. The prosecution case as set out in the F.I.R. by the informant Kashi Ram, who submitted a written report which was written by Tota Ram on 27.11.2003 addressed to Station House Officer of Police Station Transport Nagar, Meerut stating that the informant Kashi Ram resident of near Hapur Line, Mohalla Chandralok, Police Station Transport Nagar in the morning of 27.11.2003 he went to Rohta Road for selling vegetables on a Cart. His wife Sonwati had gone to purchase vegetables from Mandi. His two younger children had gone to school and his daughter was alone in the house at about 8:30 a.m. Sohan Pal son of Megh Raj resident of Kunwa Wali Gali, Lalapura Nai Basti, Police Station Transport Nagar, Meerut in morning in his absence had come to his house and after bolting the house from inside committed rape with his daughter namely 'A' and in order to kill her, cut her neck. After the incident he was seen coming out of the house by Bhartu Khat Wala and Ram Chandra son of Deewan Chandra, who were resident of Mohalla Chandralok and his daughter 'A' in a pool of blood came out of the house, who was taken to police station by the said two persons and the incident was seen by many other. On receiving the information, the informant reached the police station.

4. On the basis of the written report submitted to the Police Station Transport Nagar on 27.11.2003, a First Information Report was registered on the same day at 9:45 a.m. at the said police station against the appellant Sohan Pal. The investigation of the case was entrusted to Sub Inspector Subhash Chandra Tyagi, who recorded the statements of witnesses under section 161 Cr.P.C. and prepared site-plan of the place of occurrence and also recovered the scissor, the weapon of assault and also prepared the site-plan of the place from where the scissor was recovered. A fard recovery of a paper, which was written by the victim/prosecutrix was also taken into custody by the Investigating Officer on 27.11.2003. The Investigating Officer also took into custody the bloodstained clothes of the victim along with bloodstained earth and plain earth, for which a recovery memo was also prepared by the Investigating Officer. The victim/prosecutrix was medically examined at Medical College, Meerut and other relevant papers were prepared by the Investigating Officer, who submitted charge-sheet against the appellant Sohan Pal under sections 376, 307, 452 and 380 IPC. The case was committed to the Court of Sessions by the Magistrate and the trial Court framed charges against the accused Sohan Pal under sections 452, 376, 307 and 380 IPC, which was denied by the appellant, who claimed trial.

5. The prosecution in support of it's case has examined P.W.1 Kashi Ram, P.W. Ram Chandra, P.W.3 prosecutrix/victim namely 'A', P.W.4 Dr. Kirti Dubey, P.W.5 S.I. Subhash Chandra Tyagi, P.W.6 Dr. Sudhir Rathi, P.W.7 Dr. Subodh Tyagi.

6. The written statement filed by the prosecution such as written report Exhbit Ka-1, the recovery memo with respect to paper written by the victim/prosecutrix taken into custody by the police Exhibit Ka-2, recovery memo of bloodstained clothes of the victim and plain and bloodstained earth Exhibit Ka-3, recovery memo of the weapon of assault bloodstained scissor, which is used for cutting clothes Exhibit Ka-2. The medical examination report of the prosecutrix/victim prepared by Dr. Kirti Dubey Exhibit Ka-4 and Ka-5. Site-plan Exhibit Ka-6 and written statement of prosecutrix/victim 'A' Exhbit Ka-4A, Chik F.I.R. Exhibit Ka-9, carbon copy of G.D. Exhibit Ka-10, charge sheet Exhibit Ka-7 and medical examination report of the prosecutrix/victim Exhibit Ka-11.

7. The statement of appellant Sohan Pal was recorded by the trial Court under section 313 Cr.P.C. in which he has stated that the prosecution case against him is a false one, which has been registered against him in collusion with the informant and a false and concocted report has been prepared against him. The witnesses have falsely and wrongly deposed against him and all the proceedings which have been initiated against him is a fabricated and concocted one and no scissor was recovered at his pointing out and the witnesses because of inimical relationship had deposed against him and have falsely implicated. The victim had taken some money from him and the same was outstanding on the victim of the appellant and when he demanded the same, he was falsely implicated. The accused in his defence did not led any evidence.

8. P.W.1 Kashi Ram who is the informant and father of the victim/prosecutrix has deposed before the trial Court reiterating the prosecution case, as has been narrated in the F.I.R. and stated that on 27.11.2003 in the morning he had gone to Rohata Road for selling vegetables on a Cart and his wife Sonwati had gone to Mandi to purchase vegetables and in his house two younger children had gone to school and the victim/prosecutrix 'A' was alone in the house, who was aged about 15 years and his elder son Manoj had also gone to work on the same day. At about 9:00 a.m. Bhartu Khat Wala had come to him and informed him that his daughter's namely 'A' neck has been cut by Sohan Pal and committed rape on her. Sohan Pal was seen coming out of the house by Bhartu Khat Wala and Ram Chandra. The informant went to police station on the Vicky (vehicle) of Bhartu Khat Wala to police station where he found outside the police station his daughter 'A' and other persons of his Mohalla. He got the report written by his brother Tota Ram outside the police station and what was dictated by the informant, the scribe wrote the same and the said report was read over to him and he had put his signature on the written report after hearing the same and has proved the written report as Exhibit Ka-1, which was dictated by him and proved his signature on the same. He further deposed before the trial Court that Sohan Pal was a distant relative of the witness and he used to often come to his house. On the day of the incident, appellant Sohan Pal had come to his house and the door was found to be broken, which got it opened and came inside and committed rape on his daughter and with an intention to kill her, cut her neck. Appellant after 15 days of the incident surrendered and got the scissor, the weapon of assault recovered and after 15 days, the witness was called at the police station, on which he along with Swaraj went to the police station and Sohan Pal in the presence of them had told that he had concealed the scissor near the railway track in bushes and he can get the same recovered. He along with Swaraj and Sohan Pal were taken in police jeep by the police to Hapur Railway Line where Sohan Pal had got the scissor recovered, which was bloodstained and Sohan Pal Stated that he had cut the neck of the victim/prosecutrix 'A' with the same. The Investigating Officer at about 3:00 p.m. on the same day prepared the recovery memo of the scissor, which was signed by him and other witnesses and he proved the signature on the same.

9. In the cross examination, the witness has stated that he had four children out of which three were daughters and one son and the elder child was his son. He has stated that his elder son is aged about 18 years and his daughter, the prosecutrix/victim 'A' was aged about 16 years, the third daughter Manju was aged about 14 years and the youngest one Monika was aged about 11 years. He used to sell vegetables at Rohta Road on a cart, on which he used to sit alone. He used to leave his house at 7:00 a.m. and his wife used to go to Mandi to purchase the items. He did not go to Mandi, as his wife used to go alone. The time on which the incident had taken place, he was on his vegetable cart and his wife was also along with him. His wife used to go to the house at about 10:10 a.m. after settling the vegetables on his cart and his wife used to leave the house at about 7:00 a.m. in the morning for Mandi. Vegetables Cart is at a distance of 01 Km. away from his house. His house is near Hapur Wali Line at Chandralok from the place where he used to sell vegetables on vegetable cart. The information about the incident was firstly given to him by Bhartu, who used to live opposite to his house near Railway Line. Bhartu did not frequently visit his house and only he was known to the witness. When Bhartu had informed about the incident then his wife was also present at his vegetable cart. Bhartu had told that that Sohan Pal had cut the neck of his daughter 'A', the victim/prosecutrix and also committed rape on her. On receiving the said information he went to the police station along with Bhartu on his Vicky (two seater vehicle), he reached the police station at 9:00 a.m. where he found his daughter victim 'A' at outside alongwith other persons of his mohalla and brother Tota Ram outside the police station. He only knew Driver Prem and Ram Chandra and did not know the names of other persons there of his mohalla. He had talked to his daughter 'A', who was not able to speak. His wife had reached the police station afterwards. They remained outside the police station for about 45 minutes and that time his daughter 'A' was unconscious and she did not tell anything to him and on the information given by Bhartu and Ram Chandra he had lodged the report against Sohan Pal, who had seen Sohan Pal coming out of his house. He had got the report written from his brother Tota Ram. He had dictated the report to Tota Ram, who had written the same and he had put his signature on the same. In the written report, he had written that Sohan Pal had cut his daughter's neck and committed rape on her and some other things also he had got it written, but he did not remember. He has further stated that house of Sohan Pal was at great distance from his house. Sohan Pal used to frequently come to his house. He used to visit his house since when the informant/witness was married in the year 1984. He neither carried on any business with Sohan Pal nor had taken any money from him on loan. He had gone to the police station only once and thereafter had gone to the police station after 15 days of the lodging of the report. The Investigating Officer had recorded his statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. after 10 days of the incident and after 15 days of the lodging of the report. He went to the police station when the appellant had surrendered. He had proved the recovery of bloodstained scissor at the pointing out of the appellant from the bushes near Hapur Railway Line and he was accompanied with witness Swaraj and Sohan Pal in police jeep along with police personnel at the place of recovery of scissor. He further stated in his cross examination that he had kept Rs.300/- at his house, which was taken away by the appellant Sohan Pal on the day of the incident. He further deposed in his cross examination that his daughter victim 'A' was first admitted to Medical College thereafter she was referred to All Indian Institute of Medical Science, Delhi where in January, 2005 she was operated, she remained admitted in AIIMS for about one month. He further deposed that the place from where scissor was recovered there was no plot or field but it was recovered from the bushes near the Railway Line, which was standing. The appellant had got recovered the bloodstained scissor from the bushes where he had concealed. He had proved his written report Exhibit Ka-1 on the basis of which F.I.R. was lodged against appellant.

10. P.W.2 Ram Chandra in his deposition before the trial Court has stated that on 27.11.2003 at 8:30 or 9:00 a.m. in the morning he was going to purchase milk and on the way he met Bhartu Khat Wala, who were going together and when they reached the house of Kashi Ram then they saw Sohan Pal coming out of the house of Kashi Ram under fear. The witness went to the house of Kashi Ram and saw from the door of the house, which was opened, by peeping and saw that the victim 'A' was lying in pool of blood and there was no clothes on her body, the witness raised alarm on which people of the nearby area gathered at the house of Kashi Ram, at that time there was no one present at the house of Kashi Ram, nor Kashi Ram or the brother and sister of the victim 'A' were present. The witness further stated that he took the victim to police station. The report of the incident was lodged by Kashi Ram at the police Station, who was called and brought by Bhartu at the police station. The witness further stated that on 27.11.2003 the Investigating Officer had taken into custody a paper written by the victim 'A', for which a recovery memo was prepared and he had put his thumb impression on the same and the witness in his cross examination has stated that his wife Sona is the real Mausi of the victim 'A' and he is Mausa of the victim. He has denied his criminal antecedents and has further denied that he used to change his residence frequently. The witness has further deposed that when he was going to take milk then he met Bhartu who met him 02 furlongs from his house. The witness has further stated that Bhartu did not accompany him for taking milk. Bhartu was going to Chandralok. He stated that on the alarm raised he saw from the door of the house of Kashi Ram, the victim 'A', who was in pool of blood and naked. He further stated that prosecutrix/victim 'A' in a pool of blood had came out of the house and gone straight to railway line crossing went away towards Shiv Hari Mandir Colony. He further stated that he saw the victim in a naked condition wearing Kurta and seen her running. He stated that he did not give the said statement to the Investigating Officer, who recorded his statement under section 161 Cr.P.C., for which he cannot tell any reason. He further stated that he did not depose to the Investigating Officer that the victim has told him that Sohan Pal had bolted the room from inside and committed rape on her. The said statement which has been recorded by the Investigating Officer of the witness, he cannot tell the reason for recording of the same. The witness further stated that when he for the first time peeped in the house of the prosecutrix/victim 'A' except her, he did not see any other person there. Parents of the victim on receiving the information rushed to the police station. He further stated that in his cross examination that he had once put his thumb impression and did not put his thumb impression on any other paper.

11. P.W.3 prosecutrix/victim 'A', who is also an injured witness in the incident in examination-in-chief, which was recorded in question-answer form by the trial Court has deposed that she knew the accused-appellant Sohan Pal. Kashi Ram is her father and Sonwati is her mother. She stated that her father used to keep vegetables on a cart at Rohta Road and she has one brother and they are three sisters. At the time of the incident, she was at her house, she has studied upto Class V and after Class V she had left her studies. She used to live at her house. She has stated that at the time of the incident she was aged about 16 years and the incident had taken place on 27.11.2003 at 8:30 a.m. in the day. At the time of the incident, she was at her house, her mother had gone at 6:30 a.m. to Mandi for taking vegetables and her sisters had gone to school and her brother had gone on work. Sohan Pal had come to her house twice on the death of her grand maternal mother (Nani). Two days prior to the incident, he had come enquirying about Palli, at that time her sister was with her, hence he had returned from outside. Prior to the incident she could speak. The prosecutrix/victim stated that on 27.11.2003 at 8:30 a.m. Sohan Pal had come to her house and she had gone for some work in her room and then Sohan Pal followed her and closed her mouth and thereafter he bolted the door from inside, on which she raised alarm but as the volume of the 'Deck' was raised full by him, due to which person from outside could not hear her and the appellant committed rape on her. Victim knew the meaning of rape. The accused caught string of her Salwar pulled it off and rape was committed by him on the floor of the house and when she stated that she would complain to her mother about the incident then accused-appellant Sohan Pal had cut her neck with the scissor, which is used for cutting clothes. She was assaulted by the accused with an intention to kill. At the place of occurrence blood oozed out. The accused Sohan Pal also taken Rs.300/- which was lying on her Cot and realizing that the victim has died he went away leaving the door closed. When the victim gained conscious she found herself in a naked condition and reached near the Hapur Railway Line and people took her to police station where she could not speak, she wrote on a paper, which was taken from a Register i.e. Paper No.1-A/2 and proved the same, which was under her hand writing and signature marked as Exhibit Ka-4. She stated that after the incident, as she was not able to speak, her father had got a report written and her medical examination was conducted. The victim in her cross examination has stated that Sohan Pal was his Mausa, her mother had three sisters out of which none of them was married to Sohan Pal. She stated that the village from where her mother belong, in the same village one Tausi used to live. Tausi is not the sister of her mother. Sohan Pal is not her real Mausa and is distantly related to her as Mausa. The appellant is not the resident of her mohalla and nor she had gone to the house of Sohan Pal. Sohan Pal used to live in Nai Basti, Lallapura and she does not know how far is his house. The witness further stated in her cross examination that her parents had gone to the house of Sohan Pal once or twice and he used to sell Foot-mat (Paudan) and her father had no partnership with him nor had any money transaction with him nor he had any quarrel with him. The witness stated that on the day of the incident she was wearing Salwar and suit and stated that on her clothes bloodstained were found and where are her clothes she does not know, as she had become unconscious, blood was also fallen on the ground. The railway line is at a short distance. She stated that after the incident she saw the appellant at the time of recording of evidence before the Court and before the same, she saw two days before. The railway line is opposite to her house. She reached near the railway line as inside the door was opened. In the incident about 1/2 an hour took place. When she raised alarm Sohan Pal had caught hold of her mouth. At the time of incident there was only one person. The accused-appellant had caught hold of her hair by one hand and by the other he caught hold of her mouth. Her salwar was not on her body and the accused after committing rape had worn his clothes, as the volume of the Deck was raised, hence her alarm could not reach outside the house. The accused had first left. The victim was shown Exhibit Ka-5 her statement, seeing the same she stated that she has written the same, which was dictated by the Sub Inspector in the Hospital after 20-25 days of the incident. It took 10 minutes for the accused to commit rape. Firstly the medical treatment of the victim was conducted at Meerut Medical College and thereafter she was referred to AIIMS, Delhi. Prior to the incident she has not washed her clothes. She had written about the person committing rape on her and gave same to the police inspector and in the same she has not written the parentage of Sohan Pal and his residence. She has specifically denied that some unknown boys of the mohalla had committed rape on her and further denied that on account of inimical enmity, the name of Sohan Pal has been implicated. She further stated that there was no money transaction between her father and Sohan Pal. The case has been rightly lodged against Sohan Pal.

12. P.W.4 Dr. Kirti Dubey has been examined before the trial Court and she has stated that she had medically examined the victim and her hymen was found torned and admitting one finger with difficulty, vaginal swab was taken and sent for the presence of spermatozoa. On the basis of radiologist report, the age of victim 'A' was found to be above 16 years and less than 19 years. She has proved the medical examination report Exhibit 4A dated 28.11.2003. She opined that no definite opinion regarding rape can be made at the time of incident. She stated that the victim could be aged about 16 years.

13. P.W. 6 Dr. Sudhir Rathi stated that he had examined the victim at Medical College Meerut and he conducted her operation of neck on 27.11.2003. An injury was found on her neck, which was found to be cut, which was on the front side and the same was bleeding. She was having difficulty in breathing. She was given local anesthesia and another way was made in order to continue the breathing. She was completely made unconscious and her lairings was repaired and veins were bleeding, which were tied and other injuries were stitched and repaired. He proved the supplementary report of the victim and his hand writing and signature and proved the same as Exhibit Ka-4.

14. P.W.7 Dr. Subodh Tyagi who has examined the victim, has found the following injuries on her person (Exhibit Ka-11):-

"1. Lacerated wound 7 cm x 3 cm x depth not probed 2.5 cm below from chin. Fresh blood present.

2. Lacerated wound 3 cm x 1.25 cm x trachea exposed with abrasion in an area of 5 cm x 3 cm around it on midline of neck 4 cm below from injury no.1. Sucking of air present from wound. Fresh blood present.

3. Multiple linear incised wound x depth not probed placed transversely on front of lower neck varying in size from 3 cm to 9 cm. Fresh blood present.

Detailed examination of the patient could not be done due to serious condition and patient was shifted to G.O.T. immediately for management in the interest of her life."

15. In the opinion of the said doctor, injury nos.1 and 2 were caused by hard and blunt object, whereas injury no.3 by sharp edged object and duration was found to be fresh. The witness further stated that the said injuries were dangerous to life, if the medical treatment could not be given to the victim and injury no.3 could be caused by scissor.

16. P.W.5 S.I. Subhash Chandra Tyagi, who is the Investigating Officer of the case in his statement before the trial Court has stated that the victim 'A' had come at the police station and on her neck there was injury and she was not able to speak and she had not worn a Salwar and she was given a trouser pant to wear the same in order to save her from embarrassment from public at large. He stated that the victim with her bloodstained hand had written on a register the name of the accused Sohan Pal, who had committed rape on her, on which she had signed the same, which is marked as Exhibit Ka-4. The said paper of the Register was taken into custody by the witness, which was signed by two witnesses and he has proved the same as Exhibit Ka-2. The witness has stated that as the condition of the victim 'A' was very serious, hence she was first sent to Pyare Lal Hospital. He prepared the site-plan of the place of occurrence and proved the same as Exhibit Ka-6 in his hand writing and signature. He also on the same day, had recorded the statement of the scribe of the F.I.R. Prior to it, he he had taken the bloodstained clothes and bloodstained earth and plain earth and also bloodstained cement floor, for which he prepared a recovery memo in his hand writing and signature and proved the same as Exhbit Ka 3. He further stated that he got a bloodstained scissor, which is used for cutting clothes at the pointing out of accused-appellant Sohan Pal recovered on the information given by him. For getting the same recovered, he took the appellant on remand and recovered the same in presence of of the informant and one Swaraj Singh and he has prepared the recovery memo of the scissor in his hand writing and marked as Exhibit Ka-2. He has also stated that prosecutrix/victim had given a written statement in his presence, which he has incorporated in the case diary and the written statement of the victim has been proved by him as Exhibit Ka-5.

17. After considering the prosecution evidence and the statement of accused recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C., the trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution has proved it's case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellant Sohan Pal and, thus, convicted and sentenced him for the offences in question by the impugned judgment and order. Aggrieved by the same, the appellant has preferred the instant appeal.

18. Heard Sri Dinesh Kumar, learned Amicus-Curiae for the appellant, Kumari Meena, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

19. It has been argued by learned counsel for the appellant that P.W.1 Kashi Ram, who is the informant of the case is not an eye witness of the occurrence and he came to know about the incident from Bhartu Khat Wala when he was selling vegetables on his Cart and, thereafter, he went to the police station along with Bhartu and inquired about the incident from his daughter and lodged the first information report against the appellant, but the witness Bhartu Khat Wala has not been produced by the prosecution before the trial Court and his evidence was not recorded. He further submitted that the other witness P.W.2 Ram Chandra, who saw the appellant coming out of the house of the informant after committing crime, but from his evidence it is apparent that his testimony is not trustworthy. He submitted that Bhartu the eye witness, who had also seen the appellant coming out of the house of the informant after committing crime in his cross examination P.W.2 has stated that Bhartu had not gone with him to take milk and Bhartu was going to Chandralok. He in his cross examination when was confronted with his statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. which was given to the Investigating Officer it was stated by him that the prosecutrix/victim 'A' had told him that Sohan Pal has committed rape on her after bolting the room. He stated that he cannot tell the reason as to how such a statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer under section 161 Cr.P.C. He next submitted that the accused in his statement under section 313 Cr.P.C. has stated before the trial Court that on account of enmity he was falsely implicated in the present case as he owed some money to the prosecutrix/victim and when he demanded the same, he was falsely implicated in the present case. He next argued that the appellant is already a married person, hence it was not possible for him to commit such a heinous crime. It was further argued that from the evidence of P.W.5, the victim was taken from police station to Pyare Lal Hospital for treatment, and thereafter referred to medical college, but there is no medical report of Pyare Lal Hospital. As per radiologist report, the victim is above 16 years and below 19 years of age. It appears that the incident has taken place in some other manner and not stated by the prosecution. P.W.2 Ram Chandra, who happens to be Mausa of the victim, his evidence is highly interested and partisan one, therefore no credibility should be given to it. It was lastly submitted that the appellant has surrendered and is in jail for last 17 years i.e. since 2.12.2003 and the time of incident he was aged about 50 years and as on date he is 61 years of age. The recovery, which has been made of Scissor, the weapon of assault at the pointing out of the appellant is after 15 days of the incident, which is a false recovery, in fact no recovery was made of Scissor at the pointing of the appellant.

20. Learned AGA on the other hand has vehemently opposed the argument of learned counsel for the appellant and submitted that as per the prosecution case, the prosecutrix/victim is a minor girl aged about 15 years on the date of incident and as per her medical report she is stated to be above 16 and below 19 years of age. She was subjected to rape by the appellant in the absence of her parents, brother and sisters when she was alone in the house and when she told the appellant that she would complain about the incident to her parents then she was further assaulted by scissor on her neck by the appellant due to which she received serious injuries on her neck and was operated at Medical College, Meerut thereafter admitted in AIIMS, New Delhi and after the incident she was not able to speak and she gave a written statement to the police soon after the incident when she reached the police station on a paper taken out from a Register, which has been marked as Exhibit 4A, in which she has stated that it was the appellant who had committed rape on her. Moreover, she has also deposed against the appellant before the trial Court categorically for subjecting her to rape and further inflicting her serious injuries on her neck. The eye witness P.W.2 Ram Chandra and other eye witness Bhartu Khat Wala had seen the appellant coming out of the house in a disturbed mental state and P.W.2 took the victim and rushed to the police station along with other persons of the mohalla whereas Bhartu Khat Wala had gone to inform P.W.1 about the incident, who thereafter reached the police station and inquired about the incident and lodged the F.I.R. against the appellant on the same day and the trial Court after assessing the evidence led by the prosecution, has rightly convicted the appellant for the offence in question. The argument of learned counsel for the appellant that the appellant is in jail for 17 years is of no significant keeping in view the gravity of the crime committed by appellant and the appeal deserves to be dismissed by this Court.

21. After considering the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, we have gone through the impugned judgment as well as record of the case thoroughly. The appellant Sohan Pal is named in the F.I.R., which has been lodged by P.W.1 Kashi Ram promptly on 27.11.2003 at 9:45 a.m. at Police Station T.P. Nagar, Meerut, which was at a distance of half kilometer away from the place of occurrence for a incident, which has taken place on 27.11.2003 at 8:30 a.m., on the information given by Bhartu Khat Wala, where he was selling vegetables on a Cart. At the time when the information was given to him, his wife was also present. P.W.1 on receiving the information about the incident by Bhartu Khat Wala immediately rushed to the police station on his Vicky (two seater vehicle) to the police station, where he found his daughter along with P.W.2 Ram Chandra and other persons of his mohalla outside the police station. He talked to his daughter the prosecutrix/victim 'A', who was unable to speak and had given a written statement on a paper, which was taken out from a Register to the police, disclosing the fact that her rape was committed by the appellant Sohan Pal. The victim was in a pool of blood and her clothes were also bloodstained. The F.I.R. was written by his brother Tota Ram at the police station and submitted the same for lodging of the F.I.R. against the appellant Sohan Pal, which was registered on the basis of the written report submitted by P.W.1, who proved the same as Exhibit 1 before the trial Court.

22. When the accused surrendered on 2.12.2003, the Investigating Officer applied for remand of the appellant from the Court of A.C.J.M.,II, Meerut on 3.12.2003 and recorded his statement and the appellant further stated that he would get the weapon of assault i.e. Scissor recovered. Thereafter on 11.12.2003 the accused/appellant was taken on a police remand for two days and got recovered the Scissor, which was bloodstained near Hapur Railway Line from the bushes, wrapped in a polythene and given to the Investigating Officer and further confessed that he had inflicted injuries with an intention to cut the neck of the prosecutrix/victim and the incident had taken place on 21.11.2003 at 9:00 a.m. The recovery memo of bloodstained scissor was prepared by the Investigating Officer and marked as Exhibit Ka-2 and the said recovery was also made in the presence of informant Kashi Ram and Swaraj Singh, who have signed the recovery memo. The bloodstained clothes of the prosecutrix/victim 'A', plain earth and bloodstained earth along with piece of broken floor, which was also bloodstained, was taken by him and a recovery memo was prepared, as Exhbit Ka-3 on 27.11.2003.

23. From the evidence of P.W.3, the prosecutrix/victim 'A', whose statement was recorded in question-answer form by the trial Court reveals that she in her evidence has categorically stated that on 27.11.2003 at 8:30 a.m. it was the appellant, who has committed rape on her, while she was in her house and her parents had gone out and her two younger sisters had gone to school and the brother had gone for his work and when she tried to raise alarm, the volume of the 'Deck' was raised full by the appellant due to which person from outside could not hear her alarm for rescue. The accused Sohan Pal committed rape on her, when she stated that she would complain to her mother about the incident, the accused-appellant Sohan Pal had cut her neck by Scissor, which is used for cutting clothes with an intention to kill her, which started bleeding, on account of which blood was found on her clothes and also fallen on the floor. After the incident when she gained conscious, she reached near the Hapur Railway Line in a naked condition, which was just in front of her house. People took her to the police station and she wrote on a paper, which was taken from a Register i.e. paper no.1-A/2 and proved the same, which was under her hand writing and signature and marked as Exhbit Ka-4, in which she disclosed that it was the appellant, who committed rape on her. She stated that after the incident she was not able to speak and further her father had got a report written and her medical examination was conducted. From the medical examination report which was conducted, it is apparent that she suffered three injuries on her neck, which in the opinion of the doctor was found to be serious and patient was shifted to G.O.T. immediately for management in the interest of her life. Her surgery was conducted by P.W.6 Dr. Sudhir Rathi on 27.11.2003, who has stated that injury was found on her neck, which was found to be cut, which was on the front side and the same was bleeding. She was having difficulty in breathing, she was given local anesthesia and another way was made in order to continue the breathing. She was completely unconscious and lairings was repaired and veins were bleeding, which was tied and other injuries were stitched and repaired. The supplementary report of the victim was proved by P.W.6, to be prepared by in his hand writing and signature and marked as Exhibit Ka.4. The bloodstained clothes of the prosecutrix/victim was sent to forensic lab Vidhi Vigyan Prayogsala, Agra and as per the report of the said lab dated 1.3.2004, on item nos.1 and 2 i.e. Salwar spermatozoa was found and further on item nos.3 & 7 i.e. Angocha and Scissor bloodstained were found, which goes to show that rape was committed on the victim by the appellant and further she was assaulted by him with scissor, which started bleeding profusely. P.W.1 in his evidence before the trial Court has categorically supported the prosecution case against the appellant and proved the F.I.R. lodged by him as Exhibit Ka-9 on the basis of written report as Exhibit Ka-1. P.W.2 Ram Chandra, who is a Mausa of the victim girl had seen the appellant coming out of the house of the informant in a disturbed state of mind and has also rushed the victim along with other persons of mohalla, who came out of the house in a naked condition, there was no clothes, as she was not wearing Salwar and as it has come in the evidence of P.W.5 that she was provided Pant to wear in order to save her from embarrassment. P.W.2 is also a witness of the recovery of memo of the paper in which the victim has written about the crime being committed by the appellant to the police Inspector, which has been marked as Exhibit Ka-4A, which was taken out from a Register. Therefore the argument of learned counsel for the appellant that the testimony of P.W.2 is highly a partisan and interested one and should not be believed, is not at all acceptable. The minor infirmities which has been pointed out by learned counsel for the appellant from the statement of P.W.2 do not go to the grass root to demolish the prosecution case, as has been stated by P.W.2 and his evidence before the trial Court. P.W.6 Dr. Kirti Dubey who has conducted the medical examination of the victim has stated that her hymen was not intact and it admitted only one finger with difficulty. Thus, from the evidence led by the prosecution which includes the testimony of prosecutrix/victim 'A' P.W.3 along with her medical examination report and the evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 goes to show that the appellant had committed rape on the victim, who is a minor girl and when she stated to complain about the incident to her mother, the accused with an intention to kill her, assaulted on neck with a scissor, causing grievous injuries to her, for which she was operated at Medical College, Meerut and remained in hospital for about a month and also admitted in AIIMS, New Delhi, after her surgery in the medical college, Meerut.

24. The appellant who was taken on police remand got the bloodstained scissor recovered from the place where he has concealed the same of the incident from the bushes near Hapur Railway Line in presence of the informant and a witness Swaraj Singh. As per the report of Vidhi Vigyan Prayogsala dated 1.3.2004 human spermatozoa was found on the Salwar of prosecutrix/victim. Further on the clothes of the prosecutrix/victim 'A' and cemented floor of the house where the incident took place, human blood was also found. Thus, the involvement of the appellant is proved beyond reasonable doubt by the prosecution.

25. The Court cannot loose sight that the prosecutrix/victim 'A' who was subjected to rape by the appellant Sohan Pal was further assaulted by Scissor on her neck when she told him that she would complain to her mother about the incident of rape. The proseuctrix/victim because of the injury inflicted by the appellant on her neck, lost her power to speak after the incident which goes to show that the appellant has committed a heinous crime of rape and also made an attempt to murder the prosecutrix/victim after committing rape on her, hence the incarceration of the appellant for 17 years in jail, as has been argued by learned counsel for the appellant cannot be sympathetically weighed in comparison to the barbaric act of the appellant on the prosecutrix/victim, who is also an injured witness in the present case against the appellant. Her testimony fully supports the prosecution case, which is corroborated by her medical report against the appellant. The case of the appellant that he was falsely implicated in the present case by the prosecutrix/victim 'A' because he owed some money to her, has no substance, as he had failed to produce any oral or documentary evidence in this regard.

26. It would not be out of place to mention here that in cases of rape while considering the question of sentence, the Court has to strike balance between reformative theory and principle of proportionality.

27. We would like to refer here the judgment of the Apex Court reported in AIR 2013 SC 2209 Shyam Narain Vs. State of NCT of Delhi which while considering the question of sentence has observed in para 11, 12 and 22, which is reproduced here as under :-

"11. Primarily it is to be borne in mind that sentencing for any offence has a social goal. Sentence is to be imposed, regard being had to the nature of the offence and the manner in which the offence has been committed. The fundamental purpose of imposition of sentence is based on the principle that the accused must realise that the crime committed by him has not only created a dent in his life but also a concavity in the social fabric. The purpose of just punishment is designed so that the individuals in the society which ultimately constitute the collective do not suffer time and again for such crimes. It serves as a deterrent. True it is, on certain occasions, opportunities may be granted to the convict for reforming himself but it is equally true that the principle of proportionality between an offence committed and the penalty imposed are to be kept in view. While carrying out this complex exercise, it is obligatory on the part of the Court to see the impact of the offence on the society as a whole and its ramifications on the immediate collective as well as its repercussions on the victim.

12. In this context, we may refer with profit to the pronouncement in Jameel V. State of Uttar Pradesh, wherein this Court, speaking about the concept of sentence, has laid down that it is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence."

22. Keeping in view the aforesaid enunciation of law, the obtaining factual matrix, the brutality reflected in the commission of crime, the response expected from the courts by the society and the rampant uninhibited exposure of the bestial nature of pervert minds, we are required to address whether the rigorous punishment for life imposed on the appellant is excessive or deserves to be modified. The learned counsel for the appellant would submit that the appellant has four children and if the sentence is maintained, not only his life but also the life of his children would be ruined. The other ground that is urged is the background of impecuniousity. In essence, leniency is sought on the base of aforesaid mitigating factors. It is seemly to note that the legislature, while prescribing a minimum sentence for a term which shall not be less than ten years, has also provided that the sentence may be extended upto life. The legislature, in its wisdom, has left it to the discretion of the Court. Almost for the last three decades, this Court has been expressing its agony and distress pertaining to the increased rate of crimes against women. The eight year old girl, who was supposed to spend time in cheerfulness, was dealt with animal passion and her dignity and purity of physical frame was shattered. The plight of the child and the shock suffered by her can be well visualised. The torment on the child has the potentiality to corrode the poise and equanimity of any civilized society. The age old wise saying "child is a gift of the providence" enters into the realm of absurdity. The young girl, with efflux of time, would grow with traumatic experience, an unforgettable shame. She shall always be haunted by the memory replete with heavy crush of disaster constantly echoing the chill air of the past forcing her to a state of nightmarish melancholia. She may not be able to assert the honour of a woman for no fault of hers. Respect for reputation of women in the society shows the basic civility of a civilised society. No member of society can afford to conceive the idea that he can create a hollow in the honour of a woman. Such thinking is not only lamentable but also deplorable. It would not be an exaggeration to say that the thought of sullying the physical frame of a woman is the demolition of the accepted civilized norm, i.e., "physical morality". In such a sphere, impetuosity has no room. The youthful excitement has no place. It should be paramount in everyone's mind that, on one hand, the society as a whole cannot preach from the pulpit about social, economic and political equality of the sexes and, on the other, some pervert members of the same society dehumanize the woman by attacking her body and ruining her chastity. It is an assault on the individuality and inherent dignity of a woman with the mindset that she should be elegantly servile to men. Rape is a monstrous burial of her dignity in the darkness. It is a crime against the holy body of a woman and the soul of the society and such a crime is aggravated by the manner in which it has been committed. We have emphasised on the manner because, in the present case, the victim is an eight year old girl who possibly would be deprived of the dreams of "Spring of Life" and might be psychologically compelled to remain in the "Torment of Winter". When she suffers, the collective at large also suffers. Such a singular crime creates an atmosphere of fear which is historically abhorred by the society. It demands just punishment from the court and to such a demand, the courts of law are bound to respond within legal parameters. It is a demand for justice and the award of punishment has to be in consonance with the legislative command and the discretion vested in the court. The mitigating factors put forth by the learned counsel for the appellant are meant to invite mercy but we are disposed to think that the factual matrix cannot allow the rainbow of mercy to magistrate. Our judicial discretion impels us to maintain the sentence of rigorous imprisonment for life and, hence, we sustain the judgment of conviction and the order of sentence passed by the High Court."

28. Thus in view of the above proposition of law, the sentence awarded to the appellant by the trial Court for the offences under section 376 IPC and under section 307 IPC for life imprisonment, respectively is perfectly justified in the instant case, as it shocks the conscience of the society and the Courts must hear the loud cry for justice by the society in cases of rape of innocent helpless girls of tend years and respond by imposition of sentence. To show mercy in the case of such heinous crime, could be travesty of justice and the plea of leniency is wholly misplaced.

29. The trial Court, thus, on the basis of prosecution evidence, has rightly recorded the findings of conviction and sentenced the appellant for the offences in question, which does not require any interference by this Court as the appellant has been found guilty for committing such a heinous crime against a minor girl.

30. In view of the discussions made above, the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial Court and conviction and sentence of the appellant for offences in question is hereby upheld.

31. The appeal lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

32. The appellant is in jail, he shall serve out the sentence awarded by the trial Court.

33. Let the lower court record along with a copy of this order be transmitted to the trial Court concerned for necessary information and follow up action, if any.

34. The party shall file computer generated copy of order downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad, self attested by it alongwith a self attested identity proof of the said person(s) (preferably Aadhar Card) mentioning the mobile number(s) to which the said Aadhar Card is linked, before the concerned Court/Authority/Official.

35. The concerned Court /Authority /Official shall verify the authenticity of the computerized copy of the order from the official website of High Court Allahabad and shall make a declaration of such verification in writing.

1. Instant appeal is against the judgment and order dated 30.09.2010 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No. 2, Firozabad in Sessions Trial No. 502 of 2003 by which the appellants Mahendra Singh Baghel (A1) and Geetam Singh Baghel (A2) have been convicted under section 302 read with section 34 I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs. 10,000/- each and in default of payment of fine to undergo imprisonment of two years.

INTRODUCTORY FACTS AND PROSECUTION CASE

2. The prosecution case as per the first information report (for short 'FIR') (Ex. Ka-1), which was lodged on 25.05.2002, at 3:05 am, at P.S. Pachokhra, District Firozabad, by Mohan Lal Baghel (not examined), elder brother of the deceased (Bhagwan Singh Baghel), is that there was a marriage party of the daughter of Prem Singh in which a dance programme was going on. The informant, his younger brother (the deceased) and several others were witnessing the dance programme. While watching the programme, at about 1.30 am in the night of 25.05.2002, the deceased left the programme to attend to nature's call, there Mahendra Singh Baghel (A1) stopped him and Geetam Singh Baghel (A2), the brother of A-1, fired at the deceased from a country made pistol thereby causing injury to the deceased. In the first information report it was alleged that the incident was witnessed by Munshi Lal Baghel (PW.3) and informant's nephew Ranveer Singh (PW.1) and various other persons, who tried to get hold of the accused but they escaped. The alleged motive for the crime was land dispute.

3. The FIR was scribed by Ram Swaroop Baghel (PW.2). The Chik FIR (Ex. Ka4) was made by Pooran Mal (PW6). Initially it was registered for an offence punishable under Section 307 I.P.C. as by that time the deceased was alive. After lodging the FIR the deceased was rushed to the hospital but died on way at about 5 am. On report of his death, vide GD Entry No.11 (Ex. Ka 6), at about 10.30 am, on 25.05.2002, the case was converted to Section 302 I.P.C. Thereafter, the inquest was conducted in the mortuary of District Hospital, Firozabad at about 1.00 pm on 25.05.2002. Inquest report (Ex. Ka-2) was prepared and witnessed by Nihal Singh (PW.4) amongst others who have not been examined.

4. The post-mortem of the body of the deceased was conducted at about 4:30 pm on 25.5.2002 by Dr. A.K. Anand (PW.7). The post-mortem report (Ex. Ka-7), which was proved by PW.7, estimated the time of death around half a day before. Rigor mortis was found present in both extremities. External ante-mortem injuries found were: (i) one gun shot wound of entry size 3.0 cm x 0.5 cm cavity deep on the right lateral side of chest 18 cm above iliac crest at post axillary line level, margins inverted, lacerated with blackening and tattooing present; and (ii) gun shot wound of exit size 4.0 cm x 1.5 cm on the abdomen, 5 cm upward and right lateral to umbilicus, margins everted. Amongst the internal injuries, eighth rib was found fractured; right lung was found ruptured; peritoneum, liver and gall bladder was found ruptured; and 8 ounce of blood was found in the cavity. Small intestine was found lacerated with presence of 10 ounce of semi-digested food. In the large intestine faecal matter was present. According to the doctor, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem firearm injury sustained.

5. Initial investigation was carried out by Sri Dharm Prakash Dwivedi (PW.8), who collected bloodstained and plain earth from the spot and prepared a fard thereof (Ex. Ka-3), recorded the statement of the deceased (Ex. Ka-8), prepared site plan (Ex. Ka-9) on the pointing out of informant and PW.3, prepared the inquest report, photo lash, challan lash and recorded statement of the eye-witness Munshi Lal Baghel (PW3) amongst others.

6. Nanha Ram Kureel (PW.9) carried out raid operations to arrest the accused but could not succeed. Though, later, the accused surrendered in Court on 01.07.2002. He completed the investigation and submitted charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-14). On submission of the charge-sheet, after taking cognisance, the case was committed to the Court of Session. The Court of Session framed charge against the appellants for offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C. The accused denied the charge and claimed trial.

PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

7. The prosecution examined as many as nine witnesses.

8. PW.1 (nephew of the deceased-Ranveer Singh) though was examined as an eye-witness of the incident but was declared hostile. He stated that at the time of the incident he was at his own house and had not witnessed the incident. He stated that when he received information that his maternal uncle (Mama), the deceased, was shot, he went to see him but by the time he could reach, his uncle was dead.

In his cross-examination by the State counsel, he stated that the investigating officer had not recorded his statement. Upon being confronted by the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C, he stated that he does not remember that he gave any such statement. He denied the suggestion that he was not stating the truth because of fear of the accused.

9. PW.2 (Ram Swaroop) : The scribe of the FIR. He stated that the report (Ex. Ka-1) was in his writing but it was not on the dictation of Mohan Lal Baghel (informant).

In his cross-examination by the State counsel, upon being confronted by his previous statement under section 161 CrPC, he stated that he was not aware as to how that statement was recorded. He denied the suggestion that he scribed the FIR on dictation of the informant. He stated that he wrote the FIR on dictation of the Inspector. He denied the suggestion that he was lying because he had colluded with the accused.

In his cross-examination by the counsel for the accused, he stated that at the time of the incident, he was with his maternal uncle Mohan Lal and Munshi Lal. At that point of time, it was 10 pm. They heard that Bhagwan Singh has been shot at. Upon which, he, his maternal uncle Mohan Lal, Munshi Lal and Ranveer Singh, all four went to the spot and found Bhagwan Singh lying in an injured condition in the field near the tubewell. The tubewell was of Dori Lal. He stated that at that point of time, his maternal uncle (Bhagwan Singh Baghel-deceased) was not in a position to speak. They took him to the police station. At the police station, his maternal uncle Mohan Lal had spoken to the police and the police had advised that the injured be immediately taken to the hospital. He stated that they had reached the police station at 11 pm. He stated that when Mohan Lal had gone to the hospital with the injured, he scribed the report on the dictation of the Station House Officer. He stated that the report does not bear the signature of Mohan Lal. He further stated that though Mohan Lal had informed the police that his brother Bhagwan Singh was shot at by some miscreant but had not named any person, But as the Station House Officer insisted that till such time the name of the accused is disclosed, report will not be written, Mohan Lal in consultation with Munshi Lal, had disclosed the name of Mahendra Singh and Geetam Singh. He stated that at that time, Bhagwan Singh was not in a position to speak rather he was unconscious.

10. PW.3-Munshi Lal- stated that he was there with Bhagwan Singh (the deceased), Ranveer Singh, Mohan Lal and various other fellow villagers at the dance programme held in connection with the marriage of Prem Singh's daughter, Manju. The incident occurred at 1:30 am in the night when dance programme was going on. He stated that during the dance programme Bhagwan Singh (the deceased) went to urinate. There he was stopped by Mahendra Singh (A1) and Geetam Singh (A2) fired a shot at the deceased from a country made pistol. Thereafter, the accused ran towards west and Bhagwan Singh, in an injured condition, ran towards east and, thereafter, fell in the field of Dori Lal. Whereafter, Mohan Lal and others arrived and took the injured Bhagwan Singh in a tractor. At that point of time, the deceased was alive and fully conscious. He stated that he saw the entire incident. He identified the two accused in front of the court. He stated that at the time of the incident there was light with the aid of a generator. He stated that the incident was an outcome of enmity on account of land dispute as the field purchased by Mahendra Singh (A1) was purchased by Bhagwan Singh (the deceased).

PW3 was cross-examined by the defence counsel on multiple counts such as:

(a) That he was a witness related to the deceased. He and the deceased had common mother, inasmuch as, after PW3's father's death, his mother, Anaro Devi, had married deceased's father.

(b) That the land purchased by the accused was different from the one purchased by the deceased Bhagwan Singh because the accused had purchased the land from Har Devi. The balance land held by Har Devi was sold to her two sons Chote Lal and Khacheru Singh. Chote Lal, in turn, had sold it to Bhagwan Singh (the deceased). Therefore, there was no motive for the crime.

(c) That PW3 was not present on the spot and was somewhere else when the incident occurred; and that he did not witness the incident.

(d) That he was telling a lie because a report was lodged against his family at the instance of accused Mahendra Singh (A-1).

In addition to above, a suggestion was also given that the incident occurred in some other manner as one girl by the name Vineeta was teased by Bhagwan Singh (the deceased), who was a bachelor, and, in connection with that, some other person had fired at him.

In respect of his relationship with the deceased i.e. with regard to him and the deceased being born of the same mother, he denied the suggestion.

In respect of the land dispute, though he did not deny that Bhagwan Singh had obtained sale-deed from Chote Lal and that the accused had obtained sale-deed from Har Devi but stated that Har Devi had sold her entire land to Mahendra Singh (A-1) therefore, there was dispute and enmity. He also stated that in respect of this dispute, earlier, there had been an altercation between Bhagwan Singh and Geetam Singh. However, he could not disclose the date and time of such altercation though he stated that such altercation took place about a month and a quarter before the date of the incident.

In respect of the suggestion that he was not present on the spot and had not witnessed the incident, he denied the suggestion but admitted that on the date of the incident, he had gone to village Nagla Kharga to purchase Buffalo.

In respect of the suggestion that he was lying because his son had been sent to jail on the report by Mahendra Singh, though he did not deny the suggestion that report was lodged by Mahendra Singh implicating him and his sons but denied that he was lying on that account.

In respect of the suggestion that Bhagwan Singh had teased Vineeta and the incident occurred in some other manner, PW3 stated that Vineeta is a girl of good character and no such incident had occurred. He, however, did not deny the suggestion that Bhagwan Singh was a bachelor.

11. PW.4- Nihal Singh- proved the inquest proceeding and the inquest report (Ex. Ka-2).

In his cross-examination, he stated that Munshi Lal (PW-3) and the deceased had common mother. He stated that Bhagwan Singh's mother's name is also Anaro Devi.

12. PW-5- Bhuri Singh- He is the son of Munshi Lal (PW3). He proved that he witnessed the lifting of blood-stained and plain earth from the spot of which fard (Ex Ka-3) was prepared.

In his cross-examination, Bhuri Singh stated that the deceased Bhagwan Singh, in relationship, was his uncle. He, however, feigned ignorance whether PW3 and the deceased had common mother.

13. PW-6- Head Constable Pooranmal- proved the GD entry of the FIR and proved that it was lodged on 25.05.2002 at 3.05 am. He also proved that at 10:30 am on 25.05.2002 upon information that Bhagwan Singh had died, section 307 I.P.C. was altered to section 302 I.P.C. vide GD report no. 11.

In his cross-examination, he stated that informant along with Bhagwan Singh, Bhuri Singh, Yadram, Nepal Singh, Munshi Lal, Ranveer Singh and others had come to the police station to lodge report. He stated that he saw the injured Bhagwan Singh. He was not in a position to speak. At that time, he was lying on the tractor. As the condition of the injured was serious, Chitthi Majroobi was prepared immediately and he was sent to the hospital. He stated that the injured stayed at the police station for as long as it took to prepare Chitthi Majroobi which was prepared in just 2-4 minutes. He stated that the death information was received from Gulab Singh who had accompanied the deceased to the hospital. He stated that the investigation was assigned to SI Dharm Prakash Dwivedi (PW-8) and Nanha Ram Kuril (PW-9). They both left the police station immediately upon registration of the first information report at 3.05 am.

14. PW-7 Dr. A.K. Anand- proved the post-mortem report and the injuries noticed therein and stated that the deceased could have died half a day before the examination.

In his cross-examination, he stated that 8th rib, right lung, liver, small intestine were found ruptured. The injuries were very serious which would bring the injured in a state of shock and unconsciousness and, most likely, he would not be in a condition to speak. He also stated that after receiving such injury, injured would not be in a position to walk or climb. He stated that the angle with which the gun shot travelled across the body suggested that the deceased and the person who fired the shot at the deceased were not at the same level. He acknowledged the possibility of the deceased dying earlier, say in the night of previous day between 10-11 pm. He stated that from the amount of blood found in the cavity it could be said that the deceased died within one half to one hour of receiving injury.

15. PW-8 Dharm Prakash Dwivedi- proved various stages of the investigation and stated that he recorded the statement of the injured Bhagwan Singh Baghel i.e. Ex. Ka-8. He stated that the injured was sent to the hospital with constable Gulab Singh but died en route to the hospital. He stated that he recorded the statement of the constable who prepared the Chik FIR and thereafter he recorded the statement of Mohan Lal (informant) and the scribe of the FIR. Thereafter, he went to the spot and recorded the statement of Munshi Lal Baghel and on the pointing out of the informant and Munshi Lal Baghel he prepared the site plan (Ex. Ka-9). He also collected blood-stained and plain soil and prepared fard thereof (Ex. Ka-3). He proved the inquest proceeding and other stages of the investigation.

In his cross-examination, he stated that 6-7 people had come to the police station. The informant had not met him at the police station because PW-8, at that time, was at his residential quarter. The informant had met the clerk at the police station. PW8 was informed by Santri that at village Raspur there had been firing and that the injured had come. Upon receipt of information from Santri, he reached near the tractor on which Bhagwan Singh was lying. He enquired about the incident from Bhagwan Singh and his brother Mohan Lal. At that time, the FIR was not registered but was in the process of being registered. He stated that he did not enquire from the tractor driver or the persons who were there along with the injured, because the condition of the injured was very serious and, therefore, he sent the injured to the hospital. He stated that when he visited the spot, he received information from Gulab Singh about the death of the injured. He stated that though the injured was sent with constable Gulab Singh but he did not record the statement of Gulab Singh.

In his cross-examination, he also stated that while recording the statement of the injured Bhagwan Singh, he did not follow the procedure provided under the U.P. Police Regulation and did not obtain the signature of the deceased on the statement so recorded nor did he get signature of any witness in whose presence his statement was recorded. He admitted that in the case diary he had not entered the date and time of recording the statement of Bhagwan Singh though the time of recording the statement of other witnesses is mentioned in the case diary. He also stated that it is mentioned in the case diary that Bhagwan Singh died on way at 5 am.

On a question whether he was informed with regard to any previous incident between the deceased and the accused, he stated that Munshi Lal had not given any information to him with regard to any previous incident. He also stated that he did not take possession of the generator or other equipments that were there at the place of the incident.

16. PW-9- Nanharam Kuril- proved that he took over the investigation from PW8 and, after completing the investigation, submitted charge-sheet and tried to effect arrest of the accused persons though, ultimately, they surrendered in court.

In his cross-examination, he stated that at the time of inspection of the spot, he did not notice abandoned footwear such as slippers, sandals, shoes. He could not discover any pellet, cartridge/ empties, lathi or danda. He stated that he did not move any application for taking custody of the accused to recover the murder weapon. He stated that he was not aware of the statement made by Munshi Lal to the previous investigating officer. He stated that Munshi Lal is brother of the deceased. He also admitted that during the course of investigation he did not enquire from any of the artists in the dance party as to the manner in which the incident occurred.

In his cross-examination, he stated that though the deceased was unmarried but he could not get any information with regard to his involvement with any women or girl nor could gather any information that in the night of the incident the deceased had teased a girl by the name Vineeta. He stated that by the time statement of Munshi Lal was recorded, information with regard to the death of Bhagwan Singh had not been received therefore, in the statement of Munshi Lal there is no mention of his death.

17. The incriminating circumstances borne out from the prosecution evidence were put to the accused while recording statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused though admitted that on the night of the incident there was a function in connection with the marriage of the daughter of Prem Singh, namely, Manju, but denied their presence in the marriage function. They claimed that the prosecution case is false; the FIR is ante-timed; and that they have been falsely implicated. It was also claimed by them that the witnesses are all related to the deceased.

DEFENCE EVIDENCE

18. Defence examined three witnesses to demonstrate that deceased had cases against him and that PW3 on the date of the incident had gone to purchase a buffalo and in that connection had stayed overnight at a place and, therefore, could not have witnessed the incident. These three witnesses are:

DW-1-Satya Prakash- He stated that he was posted at police station Pachokhara, Firozabad between 1988 to 2000. On 18.11.1999, Teekam Singh son of Tilak Singh had lodged NCR No. 47 of 1999 against Ramveer Singh, Bhagwan Singh, Nek Ram son of Nathi Lal. On the basis of the said report, proceedings under Section 107/116 Cr.P.C. were also initiated.

DW-2 Waish Ahmed- He stated that he was posted at P.S. Pachokhara. He brought the NCR register and proved NCR No. 37 of 2003 which was marked as Exhibit Kha-2. He also proved NCR No. 47 of 1999 and Chik FIR of Case Crime No. 55 of 1999. They were exhibited as Exb. Kha-3 and Kha-4.

DW-3-Mahavir Singh- On 25.3.2009, he stated that about 6-7 years back Munshi Lal had come to Champaram's house, who happens to be his cousin, for purchase of buffalo. He had arrived late and had stayed overnight at Nagla Kharga.

In his cross-examination, he could not tell the date and time of the visit of Munshi Lal.

TRIAL COURT FINDINGS

19. The trial court, found the prosecution evidence, in particular, the testimony of PW-3, wholly reliable and unshakeable even though he might have been related to the deceased. The trial court observed that, according to the prosecution, the informant could not appear as a witness because he was abducted in respect of which a case was lodged by wife of the informant against Mahendra Singh (A-1) and others in which charge-sheet was submitted. Under the circumstances, it was quite natural that no resident of the village could come and give evidence. It also observed that even if no strong motive could be proved for the crime but, as there was ocular evidence, absence of motive was inconsequential. It found that the place and time of occurrence was duly proved and the FIR was promptly lodged, therefore, as the ocular account found support from medical evidence, the accused were liable to be convicted for the charge framed against them. While holding as above, the trial court also noticed the conduct of the accused appellant in trying to evade arrest for few days to infer existence of guilty mind.

20. We have heard Sri Kamlesh Kumar Tripathi for the appellants; Sri Virendra Singh Rajbhar, the learned A.G.A., for the State; and Sri Brij Raj Singh from the victim's side.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANTS

21. The contention of the learned counsel for the appellants is as follows:-

(a) The informant of the case was not examined as a witness. P.W.2, the scribe of the FIR, specifically stated that the same was not written on the dictation of the informant; that the informant was not able to name the accused; and that the FIR was not being registered, without names, therefore, names were given. This seriously dents the credibility of the prosecution case.

(b) According to the FIR, the incident was witnessed not only by Munshi Lal (PW-3) but by Mohan Lal (not examined) and Ranveer Singh (PW-1), amongst others. Ranveer Singh (PW1), who happens to be the own nephew of the deceased, stated on oath that he had not witnessed the incident but was at home when he received information that the deceased had received injuries. This also seriously dents the credibility of the prosecution case.

(c) PW-2, during his cross-examination by the counsel for the accused, had stated that at the time of the incident, that is at about 10 pm, he was sitting with his maternal uncle Mohan Lal (informant) and Munshi Lal (PW-3) when they were informed that somebody had shot Bhagwan Singh. On receiving this information, PW-2 along with Mohan Lal (informant) and Munshi Lal (PW-3) and Ranveer Singh (PW-1) had gone together to find out Bhagwan Singh lying injured in the field. He also stated that they had reached the police station at around 11 pm but as condition of Bhagwan Singh was serious the Station Officer had directed that the deceased be taken to the hospital and when Mohan Lal had taken the deceased to the hospital, the first information report was written on the instruction of the police station incharge. He also stated that the FIR does not bear signature of Mohan Lal. This testimony of PW2 shakes the foundation of the prosecution case and renders the testimony of PW3 unreliable as, according to PW2, when the deceased was shot at, PW3 was with PW2.

(d) The testimony of PW-3 is not reliable because not only his presence at the spot is belied by the statement of PW-2 but also because he has deliberately tried to hide his identity that he is the step-brother of the deceased, born out of common mother. Apart from that PW-3 is an interested witness as he had admitted in his cross-examination that after the incident, he and his sons had gone to jail at the instance of Mahendra Singh (A-1). It has also been submitted that from the statement of PW-3, during his cross-examination on 08.04.2004, it appears, within 2 minutes of Bhagwan Singh having gone to attend nature's call gun shot was heard by him which suggests that upon hearing the gun shot he visited the spot but was not there from before to notice the actual firing. This statement was, however, immediately, improved by PW3 by adding that he was also attending nature's call and was there at the spot. Whereas, no such statement was made earlier. It has also been submitted that the ocular version that after receipt of gun shot injury the deceased ran a few paces towards east is not probable and is neither supported by medical evidence nor by presence of blood at any other place except where he, the deceased, was lying injured. Therefore, it appears, PW-3 did not witness the incident but was set up or it might be that he reached the spot on hearing the gun shot.

(e) The statement of the deceased alleged to have been recorded by the investigating officer before his death appears to be totally fabricated as the deceased had suffered very serious injury and was not in a condition where he could speak. PW-6, who made GD entry of the FIR, clearly stated that the deceased was in a precarious condition and was just lying on the tractor and not speaking. He also stated that as soon as the FIR was registered, after preparation of Chithi Majroobi, the deceased, who was then lying injured, was sent to the hospital. Thus, there was no opportunity for PW8 to record the statement of the deceased. Moreover, the statement of the deceased was not recorded as a dying declaration and as per the procedure for recording such statement, mandated by U.P. Police Regulations. Further, signature of the deceased was not obtained on the alleged dying declaration. Even the time of recording the dying declaration was not mentioned. Thus, the alleged dying declaration is nothing but a waste paper.

In a nutshell, the submission on behalf of the appellants is that the prosecution story is not supported by any reliable testimony; and the trial court has not properly examined, considered and appreciated the evidence. Hence, the judgment of the trial court is liable to be set aside and the appellants are entitled to be acquitted. In the alternative, it was submitted that in so far as Mahendra Singh (A-1) is concerned the only evidence against him is of stopping the deceased and not of exhortation or catching hold the deceased whereas the role of firing at the deceased is attributed to Geetam Singh, therefore, Mahendra Singh could not have been convicted under section 302 IPC with the aid of section 34 IPC, particularly, when no pre-meditated plan to kill the deceased was proved.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PROSECUTION

22. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the victim submitted that there was serious threat to the life of the witnesses and therefore PW-1 and PW-2 turned hostile. PW-3, who is an aged person, considering his responsibility to stand by the truth stood up bravely to depose with regard to the involvement of the accused-appellants and his testimony stood the test of cross-examination and is also corroborated by medical evidence and the circumstances such as prompt lodging of the FIR, proving of the place of occurrence, existence of light, etc. Therefore, as it is well settled that conviction can be recorded on the testimony of a solitary witness, it is a fit case where the appeal be dismissed and conviction of the accused-appellants be upheld.

ANALYSIS OF THE PROSECUTION EVIDENCE

23. We have considered the rival submissions and have perused the record carefully.

24. Before we proceed to analyse the evidence, at the outset, we would like to observe that the trial court while analysing the evidence and returning its finding on the guilt of the accused has, inter alia, observed (a) that the informant Mohan Lal was abducted of which report was made by his wife against several persons including Mahendra Singh (A-1) and, therefore, there would not be many willing villagers to depose against the accused; and (b) that from the testimony of PW9 it appears that despite efforts/ raids the accused could not be promptly arrested which is suggestive of a guilty mind. To test whether those observations had foundation on the evidence on record and had a legal basis, we have carefully perused the record. Upon a close scrutiny of the record, we find that neither the police witnesses nor the alleged eye-witnesses have deposed about the criminal antecedents of the two accused. PW1 and PW2, who were declared hostile, were not specifically questioned in respect of their fear to tell the truth on account of abduction of Mohan Lal (informant). Further, PW3 also did not make any such statement which may indicate that any threat was extended to him though he stated that he and his sons amongst others were implicated in a case in which they had to go to jail. Under the circumstances, the trial court appears to have taken note of that aspect on the basis of oral submissions which, in our considered view, is not appropriate. In respect of conduct of the accused in evading arrest, we may observe that it has not come in the testimony of PW9, who allegedly made efforts on several dates to arrest the accused, that any declaration under section 82 CrPC was obtained. Moreover, from his testimony it appears that the accused surrendered in court on 01.07.2002 and that no application was moved by PW9 to take them into police custody for recovery/ discovery of any incriminating material. Even otherwise, mere abscondence of an accused does not lead to a firm conclusion of his guilty mind. An innocent man may also abscond in order to evade arrest, as in light of such a situation, such an action may be part of the natural conduct of the accused. Otherwise also, abscondence by itself is not sufficient to prove the guilt. At best, it may lend weight to other evidence establishing the guilt (vide Raghav Prapanna Tripathi vs State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1963 SC 74; Sunil Kundu and another Vs State of Jharkhand, (2013) 4 SCC 422; Bipin Kumar Mondal vs State of West Bengal, (2010) 12 SCC 91; and Paramjeet Singh @ Pamma vs State of Uttarakhand, (2010) 10 SCC 439). Under the circumstances, keeping in mind the nature of the testimony of PW9, we do not consider that mere delay in the arrest of the accused-appellants, without there being any declaration under section 82 CrPC, is an indica of their abscondence suggestive of their guilty mind and, therefore, the observation to the contrary made by the court below is uncalled for. More so, when such circumstance has not been put to the two accused while recording their statement under section 313 CrPC.

25. Now we shall proceed to analyse the evidence led by the prosecution. Apart from the testimony of formal witnesses, there are essentially two types of evidence to support the prosecution case. One is the alleged dying declaration (Ex. Ka-8), recorded by PW8, and the other is the ocular account rendered by PW3.

26. We shall deal with the dying declaration first. The dying declaration (Ex. Ka-8) recites that the deceased with great difficulty could speak that in the previous night in connection with the marriage of Manju, the daughter of Prem Singh, Baraat had come and a dance programme was on. He (the deceased) along with fellow villagers was part of the audience. Sitting near him were Munshi Lal (PW3); and his nephew Ranveer (PW1). At about 1.30 am, in the night, he left to urinate. As soon as he got up after urinating, Mahendra Singh (A-1) and his brother Geetam Singh (A-2), who had also come to witness the dance programme, arrived. Mahendra Singh stopped him and Geetam Singh fired at him with country made pistol. The shot hit him on the right side of his rib cage. Upon being hit, he cried /shouted. Hearing his cries and the sound of gun shot, Munshi Lal (PW3), his nephew Ranveer Singh and others came running and tried to arrest the two accused but they ran away towards the west. In his narration, the deceased proceeded to disclose his enmity with Mahendra Singh (A-1) on account of land dispute. He also added that after hearing gunshot complete panic had set in and the dance programme had stopped.

27. The alleged recording of the statement of the deceased prior to his death by PW8 does not appear to be probable for two reasons. Firstly, from the testimony of PW-6, it appears that the injured stayed at the police station only for 2 - 4 minutes till the first information report was registered and Chitthi Majroobi was prepared and no sooner the Chitthi Majroobi was prepared, the deceased was rushed to the hospital. Thus, there was not sufficient time for PW8 to record the statement of the deceased. Secondly, the condition of the deceased was extremely serious. Whether he was in a condition to speak is anybody's guess, because, according to PW6, the deceased was just lying on the tractor and was not speaking. Admittedly, his right lung and liver was ruptured, rib was fractured and blood was there in his abdomen. According to the doctor (PW7), in such a state, it would be very difficult to expect that he would be in a position to speak.

28. Apart from the above, the dying declaration was not recorded after lodging the FIR and in the form in which it ought to be recorded as per the U.P. Police Regulations. According to PW8 he was called from his quarters and while the FIR was being lodged he spoke to the injured i.e. the deceased Bhagwan Singh. Neither the time nor the date of recording of the dying declaration is entered. The dying declaration is also not witnessed. Further, no signature of the injured was obtained. Taking a conspectus of all the facts i.e. the manner in which the alleged dying declaration was recorded, the statement of PW6 that the injured was just lying on the tractor and not speaking, the short duration of time during which the injured was at the police station and the medical evidence negating the probability of the injured being in a position to speak, leads us to the conclusion that the so-called dying declaration is wholly unreliable and has to be discarded.

29. Coming to the ocular account, no doubt, the prosecution examined three eye-witnesses but, out of the alleged three eye-witnesses, two were declared hostile. However, from the testimony of those two hostile witnesses it is proved that the deceased had gone to witness dance party in a marriage and that the FIR (Ex. Ka-1) was scribed by PW2. Further, from the statement of PW2, made during his cross examination by the defence counsel, it appears that PW1, PW2, and PW3 were all there, as, according to PW2, upon receipt of information that some one had shot Bhagwan Singh, he, his maternal uncle Mohan Lal (the informant), Munshi Lal (PW3), Ranveer (PW1), all four had gone to the spot to find Bhagwan Singh lying injured in the field near the tube-well of Dori Lal. Although, during his cross-examination by the defence counsel, PW2 gives the time of the incident as about 10 pm of the previous day i.e. 24.05.2002 but he admits that the deceased was brought to the police station by the informant Mohan Lal, amongst others, and from there he was taken to the hospital. The registration of the FIR at about 3.05 am is proved by PW6. He also proved that the deceased was alive at the time when he was brought to the police station. According to the doctor (PW7), the deceased, with the kind of injury he had, could have survived just for one-half to one hour, therefore, by rough estimation the incident did occur on or about the time put by the prosecution, that is to say at about 1.30 am. The place of occurrence was proved by the testimony of the prosecution witnesses which was corroborated by the blood-stained earth lifted from the spot by PW8. Thus, from the evidence led by the prosecution, it is duly proved that the incident occurred on or about the time put by it and at the place where there was music and dance in connection with the marriage of Prem Singh's daughter Manju.

30. The prosecution case, both in the first information report as well as in the ocular account rendered by PW-3, is to the effect that the deceased Bhagwan Singh was part of the audience to the dance programme and that, during the course of that programme, he went to urinate. According to PW3, he was stopped by Mahendra Singh (A1) and was shot by Geetam Singh (A2). Now, the issue which arises for our consideration is whether PW3 witnessed the actual firing or he was part of the audience of the dance programme at the time when the shot was fired and arrived with others upon hearing gun shot or the cries of the deceased.

31. Before we dwell into that issue we may notice that an effort has been made by the defence to demonstrate that PW3 had gone to purchase Buffalo on that day to another place and stayed there over night and, therefore, could not have witnessed the incident. However, this effort of the defence could not succeed as the witness who was produced from the defence side could not give the date. Moreover, from the other bits and pieces of evidence it was satisfactorily proved that PW3 was part of the audience of that dance.

32. Reverting to the issue whether PW3 actually witnessed firing of the shot at the deceased or arrived as others on hearing the shot, we find that from the sequence of events as they emerge from the prosecution evidence, one thing is clear that the deceased though was part of the audience but had left them to urinate. Ordinarily, when a person goes to urinate, he would try to find a place where he may not be noticed because it is not expected that a person would urinate in the gaze of others, more so, when there is a marriage gathering. The site plan of the place of occurrence (Ex. Ka-9), which has been prepared by PW8 on the pointing out of PW3 would suggest that the dance party was on a stage north of point B where the audience was seated. Point A is the place where the deceased was urinating and where he was shot at. The distance between point B and point A is 30 paces. Point C is the place where the deceased ran to and fell after being hit. The distance between point A and point C is 35 paces. Notably blood-stained soil was lifted from point C only. Direction wise, point A is south of point B, whereas, point C is north east of point A. The accused appellants are stated to have escaped towards west of point A, which would be south-west of point B, that is the place where audience was seated. Interestingly, the site plan which was prepared by PW8 on the pointing out of PW3, as admitted by PW3, does not specifically disclose the point from where PW3 and other witnesses witnessed the shooting though in entry no.2 of the index to the site plan it is stated that from point B the witnesses, upon seeing the occurrence, came rushing and gave a chase to the assailants. During his cross-examination on 08.04.2004, PW-3 stated that the stage was open towards Jamunai side (which, according to the counsel for both sides, would be south as river Jamuna flows south of that area) and was covered from the remaining sides. He stated that he was sitting outside the canopy (Pandal) towards south whereas Ranveer Singh (PW1), Mohan Lal (informant) and the deceased Bhagwan Singh were sitting in front of him. When he had reached the marriage party, Ranveer, Mohan Lal and the deceased were already seated. The statement of PW-2, who is the scribe of the FIR, but whose presence is not acknowledged by PW3, during his cross-examination by defence counsel, would reveal that at the time of the incident, he was sitting with his maternal uncle Mohan Lal and Munshi Lal (PW3). There they learnt that someone had shot Bhagwan Singh, upon which, he, his maternal uncle and Munshi Lal, Ranveer Singh went to the spot and found Bhagwan Singh in an injured condition. We may not rely on statement of PW2 because he has not been consistent and has been declared hostile but his testimony is relevant as a corroborative circumstance that PW3, Mohan Lal, Bhagwan Singh and Ranveer Singh were all together and part of the audience. Considering that Bhagwan Singh left the audience to urinate, a strong probability arises that he may have been alone at that point in time. Thus, whether the witnesses came on hearing gun shot or were there while he was urinating is a crucial question. To solve this riddle, PW-3, during his cross-examination, dated 08.04.2004, stated as follows:-

'' घटना स्थल पर मैने जब फायर की आवाज सुनी तो उसके ज्यादा से ज्यादा 2 मिनट पहले भगवान सिंह उठकर पेशाब करने को गया था। डांस पार्टी के स्थान पर मैने मुल्जिमान को बैठे नहीं देखा था।

मैने मुल्जिमान के आने की दिशा नहीं देखी केवल यह देखा था कि वह राम किशन के खेत में खड़े थे। जब मैने उन्हे राम किशन के खेत में खड़े देखा उसके 1 मिनट के अन्दर ही मैने फायर की आवाज सुनी। मैं पेशाब के लिए उठा था जब मैंने मुल्जिमान को अपनी आंखों से गोली मारते देखा। घटना के समय मै पेशाब के लिए उठकर बाहर गया की बात मुझसे किसी ने नहीं पूछी थी इसलिए यह बात आज तक मैंने किसी को नहीं बताई। भगवान सिंह पेशाब करके जब खड़ा ही हुआ था कि उसी समय इसके गोली मार दी। ''

33. The above statement of PW-3 appears to be a deliberate attempt to explain his presence at the spot where Bhagwan Singh was shot at. But this statement of his does not inspire our confidence because it was made immediately after he was caught on the wrong foot, that is when he stated that he heard gun shot just 2 minutes after Bhagwan Singh had left to urinate. This slip of tongue coupled with the circumstance that in the site plan, prepared on the pointing out of PW3 himself, PW3's location as a person who separately witnessed the incident, standing close by, was not shown and instead the place from where witnesses in general watched and arrived, which was point B, 30 paces away from point A, that is the place where shot was fired, was disclosed, suggests that PW3 had arrived on the spot with others after hearing gun shot as is also the case of PW2. Once that is the position, keeping in mind that it is a case of solitary gun shot, with no scuffle, and could be a case of hit and run, the circumstances exclude the opportunity for the witnesses to spot and identify the assailant. There is another circumstance which makes us wonder whether PW3 actually witnessed the shooting because, according to him, after being hit from a close range, Bhagwan Singh ran from point A to point C, that is 35 paces, which does not appear probable, inasmuch as, according to the doctor (PW7), he would not be in a position to walk with lung, liver and small intestine ruptured and rib fractured. Though no doctor with certainty can predict the immediate reaction of a person who has received an injury but it does throw a possibility that the deceased was actually shot at point C and not at point A. More so, when he was picked up from point C and blood was also noticed at point C only. If he was shot at point C then the narration of PW3 about the incident falls to the ground. When we notice the site plan (Ex. Ka 9) we find that point C is towards east of point B where the audience was seated for the dance programme whereas point A was south of point B. The statement of PW3 indicates that the stage was covered with a canopy from three sides and was open towards Jamunai side, which would be south, as already noticed above. Thus, if the incident occurred at point C there would be complete blockage of vision due to canopy coverage on three sides. Hence, it appears to us that deliberately location of shooting was disclosed at point A even though the injured was found lying at point C and blood was also found at point C, which probabilizes that the incident occurred at point C and not at point A. More so, because if one goes to urinate he would like to be at a place where he would not be spotted urinating.

CONCLUSION

34. Keeping in mind all that has been discussed above and the fact that deceased's close relatives have turned hostile and that PW3 himself appeared to be inimical to the accused, as he and his sons were implicated in a case at the instance of the accused and had to go to jail, the testimony of PW3 that he actually witnessed the shot being fired at the deceased does not inspire our confidence. We are rather of the view that PW3 and others were there amongst the audience of the dance party of which the deceased Bhagwan Singh was also a part. The deceased however left the audience to urinate. When he was out urinating, he was shot at by some one. Hearing the shot, the witnesses arrived and took the deceased to the police station and the hospital. At the police station, may be on strong suspicion or by guess-work, on the basis of past enmity, the accused were named as is the narration by PW2 during his cross-examination by the defence. Though PW1 and PW2 were declared hostile but no specific question was put to them to demonstrate that they turned hostile for any specific reason. PW3 tried to ensure that the accused who had implicated him and his son in another case be punished. To succeed in that errand, he tried his level best to pose as an independent witness even though it appeared, both from the testimony of formal witnesses as well of his own son, namely, Bhuri Singh (PW5), who stated that the deceased was uncle in relation to him, that he was closely related to the deceased. All of this coupled with the fact that the prosecution examined no independent witness despite the fact that the incident occurred at a time when a dance programme was on, keeping in mind the statement of PW9 that he took no pains to enquire from the members of the dance party as to how the incident unfolded as also that there was no recovery from the accused of any incriminating material to lend corroboration to the prosecution story, leaves us with no option but to extend the benefit of doubt to the two accused.

35. At this stage, though it is not required as we have already taken a decision to extend the benefit of doubt to the two accused, we may observe that there was no convincing evidence to indicate that Mahendra Singh had shared common intention with Geetam Singh to whom the role of firing at the deceased was attributed. Mahendra Singh was attributed only the role of stopping the deceased without disclosing whether he exhorted the main shooter to finish off the deceased or that he caught hold of the deceased with a view to immobilise him so as to enable the shooter to finish off the deceased. Further, the alleged weapon of assault is a country made pistol which can easily be concealed. It is not shown that when Mahendra Singh stopped the deceased, Geetam Singh had already taken out his gun. Under the circumstances, in absence of any evidence of a premeditated plan, fastening liability on accused Mahendra Singh by invoking the provisions of Section 34 IPC was not justified. However, surprisingly, both the accused were tried for the charge of murder read with Section 34 I.P.C. when, in the facts of the prosecution case, the main shooter should have been tried with the charge of murder simpliciter, punishable under Section 302 I.P.C., and the other with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C.

36. In view of the foregoing discussion, we are of the considered view that prosecution has not been able to establish the guilt of the accused-appellants beyond reasonable doubt and, therefore, the accused-appellants are entitled to the benefit of doubt. Consequently, the appeal is allowed. Both the appellants are acquitted of the charge for which they have been tried. The appellant No. 1 (Mahendra Singh Baghel) is reported to be on bail, he need not surrender subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437 A CrPC before the trial court below. In so far as appellant no. 2 (Geetam Singh Baghel) is concerned, he is reported to be in jail. He shall be released forthwith, unless wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of the provisions of Section 437 A CrPC before the trial court below.

37. Let a certified copy of this order and the record of the trial court be sent to the trial court forthwith for information and compliance.

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure,1973 - Section 383 - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Section 302/120B - Arms Act,1959 - Section 25 - appellants with their common intention to kill the deceased is indicated by their conduct, the manner of assault, the weapon used, the situs of the injuries and their nature and there was preconcert as shown by the evidence of PWs' 1, 2 and 4-Their common intention is fully established by the circumstances and events that unfolded in the prosecution story, duly corroborated by PW-1, PW- 2 and PW- 4. –minute discrepancies in ocular version and medical evidence does not vitiate the proceeding and trustworthiness of witnesses-trial court rightly observed the matter- The trial court has wrongly appreciated the evidence on the point of the criminal conspiracy without giving any cogent reasoning as to how and in what manner the appellant hatched the criminal conspiracy along with the other 4 appellants-appellant gets benefit of doubt in hatching conspiracy and acquitted while other four appellants sentence is affirmed.(Para 1 to 71)

B. It is observed that undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution witnesses. A witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident verbatim. Ordinarily, it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. A witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which very often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties cannot, therefore, be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details. Thus, minor discrepancies were bound to occur in the statement of witnesses. The evidence of relative cannot be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are related to each other or to the deceased. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, draw-backs and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief. (Para 34)

The appeal is partly allowed. (E-5)

1. The present appeals are filed against the judgment and order passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 2 Mathura, on 22.10.2008 in Sessions Trial No. 637 of 2005 by which the appellants Keshav Singh @ Kesho, Bhuri Singh @ Bhura, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh have been convicted for the offences punishable under section 302 Indian Penal Code ("I.P.C.") and the appellant

Ghanshyam for the offence punishable under section 302 read with section 120-B I.P.C. In addition thereto, the appellants Keshav Singh @ Kesho and Bhuri Singh @ Bhura have also been convicted for the offence punishable under section 25 Arms Act. The punishment awarded to the appellants for their conviction noticed above is as follows; imprisonment for life with a fine of Rs.5,000/- each and default sentence of six months additional imprisonment under section 302 I.P.C., and section 302 read with section 120-B I.P.C.; one year's rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs. 500/- each and default sentence one-month additional imprisonment for section 25 Arms Act. The sentences were directed to run concurrently.

PROSECUTION CASE

2. Prosecution case in brief, as could be elicited from the FIR lodged by Balveer (PW- 1), is that the appellants Ghanshyam, Keshav Singh @ Kesho, Bhuri Singh @ Bhura, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh had enmity with informant's brother Ranveer Singh (deceased) as they suspected that Ranveer Singh had informed the police about Ghanshyam's illegal arms factory, which was seized by the police on 10.6.2005. Due to this enmity, on 19.7.2005, at about 6.30 a.m., while Ranveer Singh was going to his Nauhara along with his wife Smt. Guddi Devi (PW- 2) and daughter Asha (not examined), when he reached in front of the house of Ghanshyam, the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh, ambushed him and fired shots at Ranveer Singh by rifle and unlicensed pistols. On receiving gunshot injuries, Ranveer Singh died at the spot. Hearing the gunshots, Hakim Singh (not examined) and Devendra Singh (PW- 4) arrived at the spot. The appellants threatened them and fled away from the spot. According to the prosecution, Ghanshyam Singh had hatched the conspiracy to murder Ranveer Singh and, before the incident, he and other accused-appellants had threatened the informant.

3. The First Information Report1 dated 19.7.2005 (Ex. Ka-3) had been registered under section 302, 506, 120-B I.P.C. against the appellants at Police Station- Baldev, District Mathura at 7.15 a.m. by Balveer Singh (PW- 1). The distance between the place of occurrence and Police Station is 14 KM. The special report (SR Report) of the present case had been sent to the Magistrate on the same day at 8.30 a.m. PW-6 Sub-Inspector2 B.R. Zaidi, after receiving a telephonic information reached the place of occurrence at around 7.00 a.m., during the investigation, he recovered two used cartridges (which were .315 & .12 bore) and blood-stained earth and plain earth from the place of the incident, the proceeding of the inquest had been completed at 10.30 a.m. The body of the deceased was sent for autopsy with other police papers (Ex. Ka-11 to Ex. Ka-14).

4. PW-3 Dr. B. D. Bhaskar conducted the post-mortem examination of the body of the deceased on 20.7.2005 at 1.30 p.m. and opined that the cause of death was 'shock and haemorrhage due to ante-mortem injuries'. The post-mortem (Ex. Ka-2) disclosed presence of 6 ante-mortem injuries on the corpse of Ranveer Singh. These are as under:

1. Wound of entry of firearm size 0.5 cm x 0.5 cm x cavity deep present on the left side outer aspects lower chest, 17 cm below of left nipple at 5 'O' clock position.

2. Wound of exit of firearm size 2 cm x 3 cm x cavity deep present on back of right side chest lower part 3 cm away from mid line connected with injury no. 1.

3. Wound of entry of firearm size 01 cm x 01 cm x cavity deep present on the right side forearm just below the elbow joint (Right) anterior aspect.

4. Wound of exit of firearm size 02 cm x 1.5 cm x bone deep present on the posterior aspect of left elbow just connected with injury no. 3 wounding bone.

5. Wound of entry of firearm size 01 cm x 01 cm x cavity deep present on the right side chest lower part 15 cm below right nipple at 7 'O' clock position.

6. Abrasion size 02 cm x 01 cm on the right side of neck middle part.

5. During the investigation, on 29.7.2005 at 5.30 a.m., PW-6 S.I. B. R. Zaidi arrested the appellants Bhuri Singh and Surendra Singh. He reached the recovery place as told by the appellant Bhuri Singh. At 6.45 a.m., he recovered an unlicensed pistol .315 bore on the disclosure statement and pointing out of the appellant Bhuri Singh from the bushes near Kashimpur mod, Madora canal at Barauli Road. On 4.8.2005 at 8.30 a.m. he also arrested the appellants Keshav Singh and Jagdish Singh near Khanpur crossing at 9.30 a.m., on the disclosure statement and pointing out of Keshav Singh, he recovered another unlicensed pistol .12 bore from a closed Dal Mill near Hathkoli Road, seizure memo of the two recovered pistols (Ex. Ka-17, Ex. Ka-19) have also been prepared. Two F.I.R.'s of case crime nos. 124 of 2005 and 129 of 2005 (Ex. Ka- 28, Ex. Ka- 5) were also lodged. All the articles recovered during the investigation were sent for forensic examination.

6. S.I. Prahlad Singh (PW- 7) after receiving the investigation of case crime no. 129 of 2005, under Section 25 Arms Act, on 4.8.2005, prepared a site map (Ex. Ka-22) of the recovery place of unlicensed pistol and after completion of the investigation and after obtaining requisite permission from the District Magistrate, submitted a charge sheet (Ex. Ka-23) against the appellant Keshav Singh. PW- 8 S.I. Raudas Singh also after receiving the investigation of case crime no. 124 of 2005, under Section 25 Arms Act, on 29.7.2005, prepared a site map (Ex. Ka-25) of the recovery place of unlicensed pistol and after completion of the investigation and after obtaining requisite permission from the District Magistrate, submitted a charge sheet (Ex. Ka-26) against the appellant Bhuri Singh.

7. After completion of the investigation, a charge sheet (Ex. Ka-21) was submitted against the appellants, under sections 302, 506, 120-B I.P.C by PW- 6 S.I. B. R. Zaidi. On committal, the trial court framed charges against the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendera Singh and Jagdish Singh under Sections 302, 506 I.P.C. and also framed charges against the appellant Ghanshyam under Sections 302 read with section 120-B I.P.C. The trial court also charged the appellants Keshav Singh and Bhuri Singh, under Section 25 Arms Act. The appellants denied the charges and claimed trial.

8. To prove the charges against the appellants, the prosecution examined as many as 8 witnesses, namely PW- 1 Balveer Singh (informant/younger brother of the deceased), PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi (wife of the deceased) and PW- 4 Devendra Singh (cousin brother of the deceased) as eye-witnesses and also produced formal witnesses, namely PW-3 Dr. B.D. Bhaskar, PW- 5 Head Moharrir Awan Kumar Dixit

(Scribe of the F.I.R.), PW- 6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi (Investigating Officer), PW- 7 S.I. Prahlad Singh and PW- 8 S.I. Raudas Singh, to prove the exhibited documents and also produced material objects. A Forensic Scientific Laboratory report (paper no. 28 Ka/6 to 28 Ka/8) has also been submitted by the prosecution. The prosecution proved certain material exhibits, namely, an unlicensed pistol .315 bore as material Ex. No.-1, an unlicensed pistol .12 bore as material Ex. No.-2, used cartridge .315 bore as material Ex. No.-3, used cartridge .12 bore as material Ex. No.-4, blood stained earth as material Ex. Ka-5, plain earth as material Ex. No.-6. The prosecution proved F.I.R. dated 4.8.2005 and its G.D. report no. 16 as secondary evidence by PW-8 S.I. Raudas Singh as Ex. Ka-28 and Ex. Ka-29.

9. The appellants were examined under section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein they denied the questions put to them and stated that they have been falsely implicated on account of village partibandi, enmity of election, the F.I.R. has been lodged ante-timed, the deceased was a history-sheeter, he was killed at outskirts of the village by his companions in the intervening night and his dead body was brought by his family members. The appellant Bhuri Singh stated that his left leg and left arm were fractured and he was unable to move. The appellants filed certain certified copies as documentary evidence for showing the criminal history of the deceased etc. The appellants, however, did not lead any oral evidence in support of their defence.

FINDINGS OF THE TRIAL COURT

10. The trial court on the basis of the evidence held that the testimony of PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi, and PW- 4 Devendra Singh is cogent, credible, and trustworthy with regard to the guilt of the accused-appellants; the evidence of relative cannot be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are related to each other or to the deceased. The trial court further held that it is trite law that a mere information about an incident on phone would not be treated as a first information report. F.I.R. is not an encyclopedia of the case, PW- 1 Balveer Singh lodged a prompt F.I.R. and narrated all the incriminating facts of the case without any delay; he had seen the incident; the defense side had not impeached his evidence. On the basis of evidence that an illegal arms factory had been seized by PW- 6 on 10.6.2005; due to this enmity the appellants had threatened the deceased prior to the incident and the incident had taken place in front of the house of Ghanshyam; other appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh hid themselves in the house of Ghanshyam, therefore, Ghanshyam is also liable for conspiracy.

11. The trial court also held that PW-2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh were eye-witnesses of the incident; their names were disclosed in the F.I.R. as eye-witnesses of the incident with regard to the evidence of PW- 4 the trial court held that there is sufficient explanation regarding the delay in recording of the statement by the Investigating Officer. The trial court also considered the close distance from where the witnesses saw the incident and held that even if there is some discrepancies but it would not affect the otherwise credible evidence of the witnesses; the trial court also held that according to the Medical Jurisprudence time of death as suggested by the PW- 6

Dr. B. D. Bhaskar can vary 6 hours plus/minus and PW- 6 in his examination-in-chief admitted that the death is possible at 6.30 a.m. on 19.7.2005. The trial court further held that the used cartridges recovered from the place of the incident were shot from the unlicensed pistols which had been recovered at the instance of Keshav Singh and Bhuri Singh. The FSL report corroborated the above fact.

12. The trial court also dealt with the inconsistency in the evidence of PW- 1 Balveer Singh and PW-6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi by pointing out that PW- 1 Balveer Singh stated that the police recovered the blood in polythene from the place of occurrence by PW- 6 whereas PW- 6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi denied this fact. It held that this inconsistency in ocular evidence is minor, a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory so as to recall the details of an incident and it does not shake the basic version of the prosecution case. The trial court also recorded its finding that opportunity was provided to accused-appellants to explain the incriminating facts of the prosecution evidence, but they had not given any explanation.

13. On the basis of the evidence, the trial court did not accept the submission urged on behalf of the appellants and after appreciating the oral and documentary evidence, the trial court held that it is proved beyond all reasonable doubt that the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh had caused injuries to Ranveer Singh, which resulted in his death, under conspiracy hatched by Ghanshyam. The trial court convicted and sentenced the appellants as indicated herein above. Though, however, the trial court acquitted the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh of the charge of offence punishable under section 506 I.P.C.

14. Being aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 22.10.2008, the appellants have preferred these appeals.

SUBMISSIONS BEFORE THIS COURT

15. We have heard Sri Sukhvir Singh, learned counsel for the appellants; Sri Patanjali Mishra, learned A.G.A. for the State; and have perused the record.

16. Learned counsel for the appellants assailing the judgment of the trial court argued that death of the deceased occurred in the night hours of 18/19.7.2005 at about 1.30 a.m., as is established by the post-mortem report which suggests that the death of the deceased occurred 36 hours prior to the post-mortem. The deceased had criminal history and, therefore, had several enemies and might have been killed by some other persons at another place, as is reflected by the circumstance that inquest of the body of the deceased was not at the place of occurrence. Admittedly, the police had arrived at the spot before lodging of the F.I.R. which suggests that the incident had occurred much earlier than alleged and in some other manner and only later a false prosecution story was developed. It was urged that the trial court has not properly appreciated and considered the entire evidence on record. The prosecution has failed to prove the case against the appellants beyond all reasonable doubts and the impugned judgment is liable to be set aside.

17. Per Contra; learned A.G.A. refuted the arguments on behalf of the appellants and submitted that this is a case of broad daylight murder with direct evidence to prove the guilt. The exact time of death of the deceased Ranveer has neither been nor could be estimated by PW-3 Dr. B.D. Bhaskar. The incident took place on 19.7.2005 at 6.30 a.m. in front of the house of Ghanshyam and there was sufficient evidence that he had hatched conspiracy of the murder and had a role in it. The F.I.R. was registered against all the appellants on the same day at 7.15 a.m. promptly (i.e. within 45 minutes of the incident); it is not expected that wrong persons would be implicated and the real culprits would be spared. The prosecution has successfully proved prompt lodging of the F.I.R. as well as the date, time, place and manner of the occurrence and the assault as well as injuries caused to the deceased. The trial court has properly appreciated the evidence and rightly held the appellants guilty. The findings recorded by the trial court are based on proper appreciation of the evidence. The judgment of the trial court is liable to be affirmed.

DISCUSSION

18. Before us, the appellants arguments are:firstly, no strong motive for the crime proved because it is proved that no illegal arms factory of Ghanshyam was unearthed/seized, secondly, the incident occurred in the night, nobody witnessed the incident, which is borne out from following circumstances: (a) medical evidence ruled out the time of death, (b) police had arrived at the spot even before lodging the F.I.R., (c) inquest was conducted at the Nauhara and not at the spot; and thirdly, the eye-witnesses are not reliable because:

(i) There is discrepancy in the statement of PW-1 on one hand and PW- 2 & PW- 4 on the other with regard to the place from where the shots were fired. One set states that shots were fired from the door/chabutara of Ghanshyam's house and the other stated that they were fired from the Khadanja.

(ii) The prosecution witness though relatives received no fire-arm injury.

(iii) There is also discrepancy in respect of the role of Ghanshyam. As there is an improvement from the version taken in the F.I.R. inasmuch as role of exhortation has been attributed for Ghanshyam in the testimony whereas in the F.I.R. no presence of Ghanshyam was shown though suspicion was expressed with regard to his hand being behind the murder.

19. We have examined the contentions of the appellants and have gone through the entire evidence on record with care and caution.

20. Now, we shall proceed to examine the argument on behalf of the appellants, that is the incident was of night and was already reported to the police and that, later, story was developed by lodging F.I.R.

21. As per prosecution case, the incident took place on 19.7.2005 at 6.30 a.m. and its F.I.R. (Ex. Ka-3) was registered by PW-5 H.M. Awan Kumar Dixit on the basis of written complaint (Ex. Ka-1) against the appellants on the same day at 7.15 a.m. promptly (i.e. within 45 minutes of the incident), and he sent the special report (SR Report) of the case at 8.30 a.m. on the same day. The carbon copy of G.D. entry of written report (Ex. Ka-4) was duly proved by PW-5. This fact gets supported by statement of PW-1 Balveer Singh, who stated that he reached the police station at around 7.00 a.m. and had lodged the F.I.R. within 15 minutes. It is proved on record that PW-6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi, investigating officer of the case had reached the place of the incident at around 7.00 a.m. vide Ravangee G.D. Report No. 10 on receipt of telephonic information of the incident from Hakim Singh, but the name of accused, time of murder had not been disclosed in the telephonic information.

22. Section 154 of the Code, requires an officer in charge of a police station to reduce to writing every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to such officer. It further requires that such information, which has been reduced to writing, shall be read over to the informant and the information reduced to writing or given in writing by the person concerned shall be signed by the person giving it.

23. On a close scrutiny of the evidence, we observe that the appellants did not dispute the time of lodging of the F.I.R., time of dispatch of Special Report of the case to the Magistrate and the time of commencement of the inquest proceeding in as much as no suggestion was put to the witnesses on the above aspects.

24. It is trite law that a mere information about an incident on phone would not be treated as a first information report. The object and purpose of giving such telephonic message is not to lodge the first information report, but to request the officer in charge of the police station to reach the place of occurrence. Every telephonic information about commission of a cognizable offence irrespective of nature and details of such information cannot be treated as F.I.R. (Vide: Ramesh Baburao Devaskar and Others v. State of Maharashtra, Ramsinh Bavaji Jadeja v. State of Gujarat, Dhananjoy Chatterjee @ Dhana v. State of W.B., Soma Bhai v. State of Gujarat, Tapinder Singh v. State of Punjab and Another).

25. It is equally well-settled that first information report is not a substantive piece of evidence and it need not be an encyclopedia containing all the minute details of the prosecution case. We are thus of the view that the telephonic information of Hakim Singh received by the police cannot be treated as the first information report of the incident/case.

26. We shall now examine the evidence pertaining to the incident. There are three eye-witnesses, namely, PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh. All of them have consistently stated that on the date of incident, Ranveer Singh (deceased) was going to his Nauhara along with his wife Smt. Guddi Devi and daughter Asha, as soon as he reached in front of the house of Ghanshyam, the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surender Singh and Jagdish Singh fired shots at the deceased which resulted in his death on the spot. The incident took place over the Khadanja, the width of which was around 4 steps. At the time of the incident PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi was 20-25 steps behind her husband. She reached the scene of occurrence first, after her, PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 4 Devendra Singh and Hakim Singh reached there. Hakim Singh had informed the police by telephone at around 6.30 a.m. This fact is corroborated by PW- 5 H.M. Awan Kumar Dixit, who stated that the telephonic information of the incident was received at 6.30 a.m. which was passed on to the Station Officer, it is proved on record that the then Station Officer PW-6 B.R. Zaidi had reached the place of the incident at around 7.00 a.m. vide Ravangee G.D. Report no. 10.

27. PW- 6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi, after inspecting the place of the incident as pointed out by the informant, prepared a site map (Ex. Ka-7). He recovered two used cartridges (which were .315 & .12 bore) from the place of occurrence and prepared a seizure memo (Ex. Ka.-8). He also recovered blood-stained earth and plain earth from the place of the incident, sealed them separately and prepared another seizure memo (Ex. Ka-9). He also completed the inquest proceedings at the Nauhara on 19.7.2005 at 10.30 a.m. and prepared the inquest report (Ex. Ka- 10). PW- 6 proved all those steps of the investigation.

28. On behalf of the appellants, it is pointed out that there is a material contradiction in the statements of PW- 1 Balveer Singh, on the one hand and PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh on the other. PW- 1 Balveer Singh stated in his cross-examination that the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh fired from the door and chabutara of the house of Ghanshyam, whereas PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh stated that the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh fired from Khadanja in front of the house of Ghanshyam.

29. PW- 1 Balveer Singh categorically stated in his cross-examination that Ranveer Singh, Smt. Guddi Devi and Asha used to go to the Nauhara every day for feeding his cattle at around 6-6.30 a.m., he witnessed the incident within minutes of his leaving the house at around 6.30 a.m. The appellants fired several shots upon the deceased though three gunshots hit his brother. Smt. Guddi Devi and Asha who were about 15 steps behind Ranveer saw the incident and ran towards their house. Ghanshyam's house has a chabutara 4 steps from the place of the incident, the deceased was shot from 4 steps away from chabutara. The incident took place over the Khadanja. After the incident, he saw two used cartridges lying near the body of the deceased. He and his family members brought Ranveer's corpse inside the Nauhara and kept the dead body there. Thereafter, he went to the police station for lodging the report after about 15 minutes of the incident.

30. PW- 1 Balbeer Singh lodged the F.I.R. with utmost promptitude within 45 minutes of the occurrence. The prompt lodging of F.I.R. by him, in which all necessary details of the incident have been given, lends enough assurance to the presence of PW- 1 at the spot. A promptly lodged F.I.R. reflects the first-hand account of what has actually happened, and who was responsible for the offence in question. PW- 6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi recovered two used cartridges from the place of the incident and the site map (Ex. Ka-7) has been prepared by the investigating officer with the assistance of PW- 1 Balveer Singh which also supports the presence of the PW- 1 at the place of occurrence at the time of the incident. No suggestion was put to this witness that he did not see the incident. Thus, the testimony of PW- 1 Balveer Singh is to be treated as that of an eye-witness.

31. PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi consistently stated in her cross-examination that she used to go to the Nauhara with her husband every day at 6 a.m. Ghanshyam's two houses were situated on the way between her house and Nauhara. The incident took place in front of the second house of Ghanshyam, which is near to her Nauhara and the house of Hakim Singh is adjacent to her Nauhara. The width of Khadanja in front of the house of Ghanshyam is equal to 3 steps, at the time of the incident her husband was 20 - 25 steps away from her and her brother-in-law PW- 1 Balveer Singh was 20-25 steps behind her. Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh shot fire from the Khadanja, she ran back and hid behind the wall of Guddu's house. Her husband was shot when he was standing and some shots were fired even when he fell down. Ghanshyam did not fire at Ranveer Singh, when she reached the spot her husband was dead, PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 4 Devendra Singh, and Hakim Singh also reached there.

32. PW- 4 Devendra Singh supported the prosecution version and stated in his cross-examination that he was sitting on the chabutara of Hakim Singh, distance of the chabutara from the place of the incident will be about 20 steps. All shots were fired from Khadanja. At the time of the incident, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi was 20 steps behind her husband, PW- 1 Balveer Singh was also behind 20-25 steps behind from PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi.

33. As to what would be the consequence of such discrepancy in the testimony of the eye-witnesses, it would be useful to notice few decisions of the Apex Court. In Prithu @ Prithi Chand & Another v. State of Himanchal Pradesh (2009) 11 SCC 588, the Apex Court has observed as under: (SCC p. 591, para 14)

"14. In Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat8, it was observed that undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution witnesses. A witness can not be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident verbatim. Ordinarily, it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. A witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which very often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties cannot, therefore, be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details. Thus, minor discrepancies were bound to occur in the statement of witnesses."

34. In State of U.P. v. M. K. Anthony (1985) 1 SCC 505, the Apex Court has observed as under: (SCC pp. 514-15, para 10)

"10. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, draw-backs and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper-technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole. If the court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the trial court and unless there are reasons weighty and formidable it would not be proper to reject the evidence on the ground of minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details. Even honest and truthful witnesses may differ in some details unrelated to the main incident because power of observation, retention and reproduction differ with individuals..."

35. In Yogesh Singh v. Mahabeer Singh and Others, (2017) 11 SCC 195, the Apex Court observed as under: (SCC p. 212, para 29)

"29. It is well settled in law that the minor discrepancies are not to be given undue emphasis and the evidence is to be considered from the point of view of trustworthiness. The test is whether the same inspires confidence in the mind of the court. If the evidence is incredible and cannot be accepted by the test of prudence, then it may create a dent in the prosecution version. If an omission or discrepancy goes to the root of the matter and ushers in incongruities, the defence can take advantage of such inconsistencies. It needs no special emphasis to state that every omission cannot take place of a material omission and, therefore, minor contradictions, inconsistencies or insignificant embellishments do not affect the core of the prosecution case and should not be taken to be a ground to reject the prosecution evidence. The omission should create a serious doubt about the truthfulness or creditworthiness of a witness. It is only the serious contradictions and omissions which materially affect the case of the prosecution but not every contradiction and omission. (See: Rammi v. State of M.P., Leela Ram v. State of Haryana, Bihari Nath Goswami v. Shiv Kumar Singh, Vijay v. State of M.P., Sampath Kumar v. Inspector of Police, Shyamal Ghosh v. State of W.B. and Mritunjoy Biswas v. Pranab)

36. Upon close scrutiny of the evidence, we observe that the appellants did not put any questions or suggestions to the eye witnesses PW-1 Balveer Singh, PW-2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh on material facts such as: (i) On 19.7.2005, Ranveer Singh, along with his wife PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and his daughter Km. Asha, was going to his Nauhara from his house; (ii) the occurrence had taken place on 19.7.2005 at around 6.30 a.m. in front of the house of appellant Ghanshyam, at Khadanja; and (iii) the appellants Keshav Singh @ Kesho, Bhuri Singh @ Bhura, Surendra Singh, and Jagdish had shot fired at the deceased with unlicensed pistols.

37. Keeping the body of the deceased at Nauhara is quite natural because why would family members let the body lie on Khadanja street. Minimum respect to the dead is quite natural. Moreover, the place of occurrence has been established by the prosecution witnesses of fact as well as formal witnesses by recovery of blood-stained earth/plain earth; cartridges; site plan, etc. No question or suggestion was put to the I.O. as to why they would falsely implicate.

38. Discrepancy amongst the witness with regard to the place from where shots were fired does not demolish the substratum of the prosecution case as the Khadanja is quite narrow and if one shooter stands on one end of the Khadanja, a witness may perceive that he is firing from the house adjoining the Khadanja. No question or suggestion was put to the witnesses as to why they would falsely implicate the accused/main shooters. Further, no question was put that the main shooters were not known to the witnesses. In view of the above discussion, we are of the considered opinion, that the above contradictions do not affect the core of the prosecution case.

39. Evidence of PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh is assailed on the ground that, according to the post-mortem report, death occurred 36 hours before the post-mortem, therefore, the incident did not occur at 6.30 a.m. on 19.7.2005. Hence, none of them have seen the incident.

40. Dr. B.D. Bhaskar (PW- 3), who conducted the post-mortem (Ex. Ka.-2) of the body of the deceased on 20.7.2005 at 1.30 p.m., during his cross-examination, stated that the death could have occurred 36 hours before the post-mortem examination. Taking advantage of the above statement, the learned counsel for the appellants vehemently argued that the deceased, who had criminal-history, was killed by other persons at a different place in the night hours of 18/19.7.2005, say at about 1.30 a.m., therefore, the incident did not take place at 6.30 a.m. on 19.7.2005 as alleged by the prosecution.

41. PW- 3 Dr. B.D. Bhaskar, had formed his opinion on the basis of rigor mortis found at the time of the post-mortem. In his examination-in-chief, he stated that it is possible that the death of the deceased occurred at 6.30 a.m. on 19.7.2005. The post-mortem report (Ex. Ka-2) discloses that the deceased sustained three entry wounds and two exit wounds. The post-mortem report also indicates that all firearm wounds were caused from a close-range.

42. In this regard it be observed that it is well settled position of law that doctor can never with precision determine the exact time of death or the duration of injuries. In Mangu Khan and Others v. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2005 SC 1912, the Apex Court has observed as under: (AIR p. 1916, para 9)

"9...In the first place, neither post-mortem report suggests that the death had taken place exactly 24 hours before the post-mortem was conducted. All that the post-mortem reports say is that the death had occurred "within 24 hours prior to PM Examination." Undoubtedly, the post-mortem examination was carried out at 11.00 a.m./12 noon on 11.7.1997. In other words, the post-mortem reports suggest that the death might have occurred any time after 11.00/12.00 noon of 10.7.1997. The contention urged by reference to text books on Forensic Medicine to show the time within which regor mortis develops all over the body also has no factual basis. It depends on various factors such as constitution of the deceased, season of the year, the temperature in the region and the conditions under which the body has been preserved. The record indicates that the body was taken from the mortuary. We notice that there is no cross-examination, whatsoever, of the doctor so as to elicit any of the material facts on which a possible argument could have been based. If these are the circumstances, then the presence of rigor mortis all over the body by itself cannot warrant the argument of the learned counsel that the death must have occurred during the previous night. Acceptable ocular evidence cannot be dislodged on such hypothetical basis for which no proper grounds were laid."

43. In Madan Gopal Kakkad v. Naval Dubey and Another (1992) 3 SCC 204, the Apex Court has observed: (SCC p. 221, para 34)

"34. A medical witness called in as an expert to assist the Court is not a witness of fact and the evidence given by the medical officer is really of an advisory character given on the basis of the symptoms found on examination. The expert witness is expected to put before the Court all materials inclusive of the data which induced him to come to the conclusion and enlighten the Court on the technical aspect of the case by explaining the terms of science so that the Court although, not an expert may form its own judgment on those materials after giving due regard to the expert's opinion because once the expert's opinion is accepted, it is not the opinion of the medical officer but of the Court."

44. In the instant case, as per the prosecution, the death of the deceased had occurred about 36 hours before the post-mortem. As we have already observed that PW-3 Dr. B.D. Bhaskar had formed his opinion on the basis of rigor mortis found at the time of the post-mortem on 20.7.2005 at 1.30 p.m. he estimated that the death of deceased could have been caused 36 hours before the post-mortem. The post-mortem report (Ex. Ka.-2) is just an estimate of the time and does not give the exact time of the death. In fact, PW- 3 in his examination-in-chief did state that it is possible that the death could have taken place at 6.30 a.m. on 19.7.2005.

45. Learned counsel for the appellants relied upon Moti v. State of U.P. wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court, dealing with a case where stomach of the deceased was found empty and the prosecution evidence was that the murder took place shortly after the deceased had his last meal, observed "in our opinion, a serious doubt as to the time of incident and the presence of the eye-witnesses at the time of incident and their narration of the incident also becomes doubtful." But in the instant case, there is no such doubt, as, according to the post-mortem report (Ex. Ka-2), stomach of the deceased was found empty and there is no evidence led by the prosecution that the deceased had taken food shortly before the incident. Further, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi stated that the deceased had not left the house after having breakfast nor he had gone to answer the call of nature before the incident.

46. It has been observed in various cases by Hon'ble Supreme Court that where the eye-witnesses account is found credible and trustworthy, medical opinion pointing to alternative possibilities is not to be used to rule out reliable ocular account.

47. In Yogesh Singh v. Mahabeer Singh and Others, (2017) 11 SCC 195, the Apex Court observed as under: (SCC p. 217, para 43)

"43. ....In any event, it has been consistently held by this Court that evidentiary value of medical evidence is only corroborative and not conclusive and, hence, in case of a conflict between oral evidence and medical evidence, the former is to be preferred unless the medical evidence completely rules out the oral evidence. [See: Solanki Chimanbhai Ukabhai v. State of Gujarat, Mani Ram v. State of Rajasthan, State of U.P. v. Krshna Gopal, State of Haryana v. Bhagirath, Dhirajbhai Gorakhbhai Nayak v. State of Gujarat, Thaman Kumar v. State (UT of Chandigarh), Krishnan v. State, Khambam Raja Reddy v. Public Prosecutor, State of U. P. v. Dinesh, State of U.P. v. Hari Chand, Abdul Sayeed v. State of M.P. and Bhajan Singh v. State of Haryana]

48. In the instant case, the medical evidence is not in absolute conflict with ocular evidence neither with regard to the time of the incident as also with regard to the injuries found on the body of the deceased and it cannot be said that the medical evidence is in complete conflict with the prosecution story that the deceased died of gunshot wounds early morning at about 6.30 a.m. on 19.7.2005. The medical evidence is in conformity with the ocular testimony of all the eye-witnesses. We are thus of the firm view that there is no inconsistency between the ocular evidence and medical evidence and on the basis of mere estimation of the time of death, ocular evidence of PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh can not be discarded.

49. Evidence of PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh has been assailed on the ground that they are close relatives of the deceased, hence their testimony is not reliable.

50. In this regard it be observed that it is settled position of law that the testimony of a relative is not to be treated as inherently tainted, the court only needs to ascertain whether the evidence is inherently probable, cogent and consistent. In Dilip Singh and Others v. The State of Punjab, AIR 1953 SC 364, (3 Judge) the Apex Court has observed as under: (AIR p. 366, para 26)

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high & there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalisation. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

51. In Yogesh Singh v. Mahabeer Singh and Others, (2017) 11 SCC 195, the Apex Court observed as under: (SCC p. 212, para 28)

"28. A survey of judicial pronouncements of this Court on this point leads to the inescapable conclusion that the evidence of a closely related witness is required to be carefully scrutinised and appreciated before any conclusion is made to rest upon it, regarding the convict/accused in a given case. Thus, the evidence can not be disbelieved merely on the ground that the witnesses are related to each other or to the deceased. In case the evidence has a ring of truth to it, is cogent, credible and trustworthy, it can, and certainly, should be relied upon. (See Anil Rai v. State of Bihar, State of U. P. v. Jagdeo, Bhagaloo Lodh v. State of U. P., Dahari v. State of U.P., Raju v. State of T.N., Gangabhavani v. Rayapati Venkat Reddy and Jodhan v. State of M.P.)

52. Keeping in mind, the settled position of law, we are of the considered view that merely because of PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh are family members of the deceased their evidence cannot per se be discarded. Mere statement that being relatives of the deceased they are likely to falsely implicate the accused-appellants cannot be a ground to discard the evidence which is otherwise cogent and credible.

53. Testimony of PW- 4 Devendra Singh has been challenged by the appellants by contending that his statement under section 161 Cr.PC. has been recorded by the investigating officer after about one-month of the incident and the delay has not been explained by the prosecution, but from the record, we observe that on the issue of delay in recording statement of PW- 4 Devendra Singh, no question was put to PW-6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi, investigating officer, as to why there was delay in recording the statement. PW- 4 Devendra Singh, on the other hand, explained the delay by stating that on the second day of the incident he had gone for 10-15 days to his relatives. Thus, the plea of the appellants that on account of delay in recording statement of PW- 4 his testimony is not credit worthy has no substance.

54. Credibility of the testimony of PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh has also been attacked by the appellants on the ground that they have not received any firearm injury on their body. In this regard, we may observe that PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi was 20-25 steps behind the deceased, at the time of the incident. She categorically stated in her cross-examination that the appellants did not fire at her. Moreover, she ran back and had hidden herself behind the wall of Guddu's house. PW- 4 Devendra Singh at the time of incident was sitting on the chabutara of Hakim Singh along with Hakim Singh. The distance between the chabutara of Hakim Singh and the place of incident is about 20 steps. The evidence of these eye-witnesses can not be doubted merely because they did not receive injury. Moreover, it is not the case that they had planned the murder of the entire family of the deceased.

55. At this stage, it is pertinent to deal with the motive behind the incident, according to the prosecution the accused suspected that on the information provided by the deceased, the police seized an illegal arms factory of the appellant Ghanshyam on 10.6.2005. As per the prosecution case, on 18.7.2005, a day before the incident, the appellants threatened the deceased, but with regard to extension of threat the evidence of PW- 1, PW-2 and PW- 4 is contradictory. It is an admitted fact that no F.I.R. prior to the incident in respect of extension of threat was registered against the appellants and the F.I.R. dated 10.6.2005 had not been registered against the appellants. It is also an admitted case of the prosecution that the appellants did not threaten the deceased till the evening of 18.7.2005.

56. Some other evidence with regard to the enmity between the deceased and the appellants has appeared in the cross-examination of PW- 1 Balveer Singh and PW- 4 Devendra Singh, which is that there was a dispute between Ranveer Singh and Ghanshyam regarding putting the cable in the house of Pangeevi Singh (cousin brother of the deceased); Ranveer had not beaten Ghanshyam and not put the cable by force; appellant Surendra's father Harishchandra had molested Vinod's wife (cousin sister-in-law of the deceased) before the incident and admitted his mistake; Ranveer was not a police informer; there was no enmity between Ranveer and appellants Keshav and Bhura; Ranveer had not wanted to kill Keshav and Bhura; and informant's father sold any land to Ghanshyam or Harishchand, informant wanted to take that land back from Ghanshyam.

57. In Stalin v. State represented by the Inspector of Police criminal appeal No. 577 of 2020, (3 Judge), decided on 9.9.2020, the Apex Court has observed as under: (para no. 8.1)

"8.1 As observed and held by this Court in the case of Jafel Biswas v. State of West Bengal (2019) 12 SCC 560, the absence of motive does not disperse a prosecution case if the prosecution succeed in proving the same. The motive is always in the mind of person authoring the incident. Motive not being apparent or not being proved only requires deeper scrutiny of the evidence by the courts while coming to a conclusion. When there are definite evidence proving an incident and eye-witness account prove the role of accused, absence in proving of the motive by prosecution does not affect the prosecution case."

58. The instant case based on direct evidence of the eye-witnesses, it is settled position of law that the motive is always in the mind of person authoring the incident. In case there is direct trustworthy evidence of the witnesses as to commission of an offence, motive loses its significance.

59. The prosecution duly proved the seizure memo of unlicensed pistol .315 bore (Ex. Ka-17) which has been recovered on the instance of the appellant Bhuri Singh and another seizure memo of unlicensed pistol .12 bore (Ex. Ka-19) which has also been recovered on pointing out of the appellant Keshav Singh. On this fact, the appellants have not asked any suggestion to the PW- 6 S.I. B.R. Zaidi on this aspect. The report of FSL (paper no. 28Ka/6 to 8) also proves the fact that the used cartridges recovered from the place of the incident were fired from the recovered pistols.

60. It was argued that the finding of conspiracy against the appellant Ghanshyam recorded by the trial court is untenable because the prosecution has improved the case against Ghanshyam. As per the prosecution case, in the F.I.R. the appellant Ghanshyam had hatched the criminal conspiracy along with other appellants to commit the murder of Ranveer Singh and in furtherance thereof appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh hid themselves in Ghanshyam's house and came out from the house to fire at the deceased. Whereas, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh have improved the prosecution case against Ghanshyam by stating that he was present at the place of occurrence and had exhorted other appellants to kill Ranveer Singh.

61. On persual of the entire evidence, we find that PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2

Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh have not stated a single word in their chief-examination in respect of criminal conspiracy or that the appellant Ghanshyam was the principal conspirator of the incident. On the other hand, PW- 2 and PW- 4 stated that Ghanshyam exhorted the other 4 appellants to kill Ranveer Singh, which is contradictory to the prosecution version taken in the FIR.

62. According to PW- 1 Balveer Singh, the assailants stayed 2 or 3 minutes at the place of the incident and he did not see them entering the house of Ghanshyam. PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh have developed the prosecution case and stated that Ghanshyam was present at the place of occurrence and he exhorted Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh to kill Ranveer Singh. It is a settled position of law that exhortation to other accused would amount the participation, the court has to evaluate the evidence very carefully for deciding whether that person had really done any such act. In the instant case, the case of exhortation against Ghanshyam is improved by PW- 2 and PW- 4 which is completely against the prosecution case taken in the F.I.R. It is an admitted case that no other role has been attributed to Ghanshyam by the prosecution.

63. It is the well-settled position of law that a conspiracy is rarely hatched in the open. There need not be any direct evidence to establish the same. Thus, it can be proved by way of inference on the basis of circumstantial evidence or by way of necessary implication.

64. In R. Shaji v. State of Kerala (2013) 14 SCC 266, the Apex Court has observed: (SCC p. 286, para 54)

"54. A criminal conspiracy is generally hatched in secrecy, owing to which, direct evidence is difficult to obtain. The offence can therefore be proved either by adducing circumstantial evidence, or by way of necessary implication. However, in the event that the circumstantial evidence is incomplete or vague, it becomes necessary for the prosecution to provide adequate proof regarding the meeting of minds, which is essential in order to hatch a criminal conspiracy, by adducing substantive evidence in the court. Furthermore, in order to constitute the offence of conspiracy, it is not necessary that the person involved has knowledge of all the stages of action. In fact, mere knowledge of the main object/purpose of conspiracy, would warrant the attraction of relevant penal provisions. Thus, an agreement between two persons to do, or to cause an illegal act, is the basic requirement of the offence of conspiracy under the penal statute. (vide: Mir Nagvi Askari v. CBI, Baldev Singh v. State of Punjab, State of M.P. v. Sheetla Sahai, R. Venkatkrishnan v. CBI, S. Arul Raja v. State of T.N., Monica Bedi v. State of A.P. and Sushil Suri v. CBI)

65. There is no reliable and cogent evidence brought on record to suggest that the appellant Ghanshyam had conspired with the other accused except four circumstances, namely, firstly, the appellant Ghanshyam suspected that the deceased had informed the police about his illegal arms factory which was seized by the police on 10.6.2005, secondly, Ghanshyam with other appellants had threatened the deceased of dire consequences, thirdly, the other four accused had come out and were hiding in the house of Ghanshyam, fourthly, the incident took place at the Khadanja, just in front of the house of Ghanshyam. So far as the first three circumstances are concerned they are not proved in as much as it is not proved that Ghanshyam ever had an illegal arms factory or that any case in connection therewith was registered. In respect of hiding of the other accused-appellant in the house of Ghanshyam is concerned that does not appear convincing because as per PW-2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh shots were fired from the Khadanja and there appear improvement in the prosecution case to implicate Ghanshyam by attributing the role of exhortation when initially it was only of conspiracy.

66. In Yogesh Singh v. Mahabeer Singh and Others, (2017) 11 SCC 195, the Apex Court has observed as under: (SCC p. 208, para 15)

"15.It is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that the guilt of the accused must be proved beyond all reasonable doubts. However, the burden on the prosecution is only to establish its case beyond all reasonable doubt and not all doubts. Here, it is worthwhile to reproduce the observations made by Venkatachaliah, J., in State of U.P. v. Krishna Gopal43: (SCC pp. 313-14 paras 25, 26)

"25. ...Doubts would be called reasonable if they are free from a zest for abstract speculation. Law cannot afford any favourite other than truth. To constitute reasonable doubt, it must be free from an overemotional response. Doubts must be actual and substantial doubts as to the guilt of the accused person arising from the evidence, or from the lack of it, as opposed to mere vague apprehensions. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely possible doubt; but a fair doubt based upon reason and common sense. It must grow out of the evidence in the case.

26. The concept of probability, and the degrees of it, cannot obviously be expressed in terms of units to be mathematically enumerated as to how many of such units constitute proof beyond reasonable doubt. There is an unmistakable subjective element in the evaluation of the degrees of probability and the quantum of proof. Forensic probability must, in the last analysis, rest on a robust common sense and, ultimately on the trained intuitions of the Judge. While the protection given by the criminal process to the accused persons is not to be eroded, at the same time, uninformed legitimisation of trivialities would make a mockery of administration of criminal justice." (See: Krishnan v. State, Valson v. State of Kerala, and Bhaskar Ramappa Madar v. State of Karnataka)

67. Thus, after considering the entire evidence, as regards the charge of conspiracy against Ghanshyam, we do not find any worthwhile evidence against Ghanshyam to convict him for the offence of criminal conspiracy to murder the deceased. The trial court has wrongly appreciated the evidence on the point of the criminal conspiracy without giving any cogent reasoning as to how and in what manner the appellant Ghanshyam hatched the criminal conspiracy along with the other 4 appellants to kill Ranveer Singh. We are therefore of the considered view that the prosecution has failed to prove the charge of offence punishable under section 302 read with section 120-B I.P.C. against the appellant Ghanshyam beyond all reasonable doubt. As the evidence on record is not sufficient to bring home the guilt of the appellant Ghanshyam, the appellant Ghanshyam is entitled to benefit of the doubt, consequently, the appellant Ghanshyam is entitled to be acquitted of the charge under section 302 read with 120-B IPC.

68. In so far as the other appellants, namely, Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh are concerned their common intention to kill the deceased is indicated by their conduct, the manner of assault, the weapon used, the situs of the injuries and their nature and there was preconcert as shown by the evidence of PWs' 1, 2 and 4. Their common intention is fully established by the circumstances and events that unfolded in the prosecution story, duly corroborated by PW-1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW- 4 Devendra Singh. All the incriminating circumstances showing concert and participation in the joint criminal action were duly put to them in their examination, under section 313 Cr.P.C., and the said appellants were fully aware of the gravamen of the charge against them. Thus, even though the charge under section 302 read with section 34 I.P.C. had not been specifically framed against the appellants Keshav Singh, Bhuri Singh, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh but since section 34 I.P.C. is only a rule of evidence and does not create a substantive offence, no prejudice has been caused to them.

CONCLUSION

69. In view of the above discussion, we are of the considered opinion that the trial court rightly found the evidence of the eye-witnesses PW- 1 Balveer Singh, PW- 2 Smt. Guddi Devi and PW-4 Devendra Singh, worthy of acceptance so as to hold that the prosecution successfully proved that on 19.7.2005 at 6.30 a.m., the appellants Keshav Singh @ Kesho, Bhuri Singh @ Bhura, Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh fired gunshots at Ranveer Singh, from their firearms at the Khadanja, in front of the house of Ghanshyam, which resulted in his death on the spot. The finding of the trial court to that extant is based on proper appreciation of the evidence. Therefore, we affirm the conviction and sentence awarded to the appellants Keshav Singh @ Kesho, Bhuri Singh @ Bhura, Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh and hold them guilty for offence punishable under section 302 read with section 34 I.P.C. However, as already discussed above the appellant Ghanshyam is entitled to be acquitted and is hereby acquitted of the charge of criminal conspiracy to commit murder.

70. The appellants Ghanshyam, Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh are on bail, therefore, their personal bonds and sureties are hereby cancelled. The appellants Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh are hereby directed to surrender before the trial court forthwith, failing which the learned Sessions Judge concerned shall take prompt steps to put the appellants Surendra Singh, and Jagdish Singh back in jail to undergo the sentence awarded to them by the trial court as affirmed above. The appellant Ghanshyam need not surrender but shall fulfill the requirement of section 437-A Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the trial Court at the earliest.

71. The criminal appeal no. 7517 of 2008 is partly allowed to the extent it relates to the appellant Ghanshyam, and is dismissed to the extent it relates to appellants Surendra Singh and Jagdish Singh. Whereas criminal appeals nos. 8378 of 2008 and 7424 of 2008 are dismissed.

72. The trial court record be returned forthwith together with a certified copy of this judgment for compliance. The office is directed to provide the copy of the judgment separately to all the appellants promptly. The office is further directed to enter the judgment in compliance register maintained for the purpose of the Court.

Criminal Appeal No. 1330 of 2004

Criminal Appeal No. 1324 of 2004

Shakir Ali ...Appellant

The State of U.P. ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure,1973 - Section 374(2) - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Section 307/34 - Challenge to- due to previous enmity, appellants fired arms to PW-1 to settle the case- a criminal case was pending against PW-1- 18 hrs. delay in FIR-PW-2 (father) statement is self-contradictory-P.W.-2 is not an eye-witness whereas the statement of P.W.-1 is self -contradictory and unreliable as he, even after receiving such injury, had fled away from the place of occurrence and neither lodged any report at any police station situated on the way to hospital through which he passed or received any medical treatment to any nearest hospital. Prosecution did not examine other witnesses who were present at the time of occurrence- FIR based on false and fabricated story-the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants. The appellants are entitled for acquittal.(Para 16 to 27)

B. First information report in a criminal case is an extremely vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of corroborating the oral evidence adduced at the trial. The importance of the above report can hardly be overestimated from the standpoint of the accused. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the report to the police in respect of commission of an offence is to obtain early information regarding the circumstances in which the crime was committed, the names of the actual culprits and the part played by them as well as the names of eyewitnesses present at the scene of occurrence. Delay in lodging the first information report quite often results in embellishment which is a creature of afterthought. On account of delay, the report not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of coloured version, exaggerated account or concocted story as a result of deliberation and consultation. It is, therefore, essential that the delay in the lodging of the first information report should be satisfactorily explained.(Para 24)

The appeal is allowed. (E-5)

List of Cases cited:-

Thulia Kali Vs St. of T. N., (1972) 3 SCC 393

(Delivered by Hon'ble Virendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Both the aforesaid appeals have been preferred against the judgment and order dated 25.05.2004, passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge,

F.T.C. Court No.4, Hardoi, in Sessions Trial No.499 of 2002, arising out of Case Crime No.92 of 2001, P.S.-Pachdevra, District-Hardoi, whereby the appellants-Nabi Sher and Nabi Hasan of Criminal Appeal No.1324 of 2004 and appellant-Shakir Ali of Criminal Appeal No.1330 of 2004 have been convicted and sentenced for five years rigorous imprisonment with fine of Rs.5000/- each for offence under Section 307 read with 34 I.P.C.

2. Since both the above said criminal appeals have been preferred against the aforesaid judgment and order, both appeals have been heard jointly and are being decided by common judgment.

3. The prosecution case, in brief, is that Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), son of Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2), was resident of Village-Chandpur, P.S.-Pachdevra, District-Hardoi. The appellants-Nabi Sher and Nabi Hasan son of Sitaram were also resident of same village, but before two years of the occurrence, they had migrated to Village-Angwa, P.S.-Sahabad, District-Hardoi. The appellant-Shakir Ali is brother-in-law (Jija) of appellant-Nabi Sher. There was a previous enmity between Nabi Sher and Shakir Ali (P.W.-1) as criminal case was lodged by the appellant-Nabi Sher for causing grievous hurt against Shakir Ali (P.W.-1).

4. On 19.09.2001, Shakil Ali (P.W.-1) was sitting in his village near the house of one Rajendra, situated towards southern side of village and Deshraj son of Ramdin Kushwaha, Bhaiya Lal son of Buddhi Lal Pal and Ganga Singh son of Taule Kushwaha were also present there. Meanwhile, at about 12:00 p.m. at noon, the appellants-Nabi Sher, Nabi Hasan and the appellant-Shakir Ali (hereinafter referred to as appellants) along with two unknown persons came there with illegal arms, with intention to cause death and due to previous enmity, they fired fire around at Shakir Ali (P.W.-1). Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), to save his life, fled away from the place of occurrence and reached Village-Nagla Hussain from where Ram Kumar Telli, resident of Village-Nagla Hussain and one Chhote Bhaiya Singh, resident of Village-Pakda, took him (P.W.-1) via Kath (town) to District Headquarter-Sahanjahapur and therefrom to Primary Health Centre Sahabad, where he (P.W.-1) was given first aid treatment and thereafter he was carried to District Hospital, Hardoi for medical treatment. On hearing the noise and receiving the information, Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2) who was present at his house, reached at the place of occurrence and was told by people, present on the spot, that his son, Shakir Ali (P.W.-1) received fire arm injuries, shot by the appellants and had fled away from the place of occurrence. Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2) rushed to police station-Pachdevra and lodged a first information report (Ext.Ka-1) (in short F.I.R.) at 6:45 a.m. On 20.09.2001. The investigation of the case was entrusted to S.I. Shivpal (P.W.-4).

5. Dr. J. L. Gautam, Emergency Medical Officer, Civil Hospital, Hardoi, examined the injuries of Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), who was brought by Ram Kumar resident of Village-Nagla Husain, P.S.-Pachdevra, on 19.09.2001 at 11:30 p.m.. According to him, the following injuries were found on the body of the injured :

"(1) Firearm wound of entry size 2.0 cm x1.0 cm x depth not proved present on abdomen 6.0 cm above umblicus at 12"0 clock margin inverted lacerated.

(2) Firearm wound of exit size 5.0 cm x 3.0 cm x communicating with injury no.1 present on left side of abdomen, 6.5 cm away from umblicus at 3'0 clock margins everted, lacerated illegible.

(3) Black scabed depressed abraded wound 0.3 cm in diameter x depth not proved present on left arm middle part.

(4) Multiple Black scabed depressed abraded wounds size 0.3 cm in diameter x depth not probed to 2.00 cm x 0.3 cm x muscle deep gutter wound present on right leg from knee to ankle joint dried blood clots present. Soft scab over wound tissues present."

6. According to this witness (P.W.-3) the case was referred from Primary Health Centre, Sahabad and the aforesaid injuries were kept under observation as it would have been caused by fire arms like Tamancha and was half day old. According to him further, injuries nos.1 and 2 were from back to left side whereas rest injuries were from front to back side. He (P.W.-3) further stated that all injuries of P.W.-1 were noted by him in injury report (Ext.-Ka-2) and the said injury might be caused at 12"o clock on 19.09.2001.

7. S.I. Shivpal Singh (P.W.-4), during investigation, inspected the place of occurrence, prepared the site plan (Ext.-ka-5), recorded the statement of witnesses and after completion of investigation, filed charge sheet against the appellants, before the concerned Magistrate, who took the cognizance and since the offence was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, after providing the copy of relevant police papers as required under Section 207 of the Code, committed the case to the Court of Sessions, Hardoi for trial.

8. The learned trial Court, after hearing the counsel for both the parties, framed charges for the offence under Section 307 read with Section 34 I.P.C. against the appellants from which they denied and claimed for trial.

9. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, examined Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2), Dr. Z. L. Gautam Devi (P.W.-3) and S.I. Shivpal Singh (P.W.-4). So far as documentary evidence is concerned, first information report (Ext.-Ka-1) was proved by Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), injury report (Ext.-Ka-2) was proved by Dr. Z. L. Gautam (P.W.-3), Chik-F.I.R. (Ext.-ka-3), G. D. Report (Ext.-Ka-4), site plan (Ext.-Ka5) and charge sheet (Ext.-Ka-6) were proved by S.I. Shivpal Singh (P.W.-4).

10. After conclusion of prosecution evidence, the statement of appellants were recorded under Section 313 of the Code, who denied the prosecution evidence and stated that they had been falsely implicated.

11. Learned trial Court, after conclusion of trial, convicted and sentenced the appellants vide impugned judgment and order. Aggrieved by the judgment and order as above, the appellants have preferred this appeal.

12. Heard Sri Nadeem Murtaza, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Dhananjay Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

13. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the appellants are innocent and have been falsely implicated due to previous enmity of criminal proceeding, lodged against Shakir Ali (P.W.-1) by the appellants, in order to create undue pressure to settle it. Learned counsel further submitted that independent witnesses, present on the spot including Ram Kumar who accompanied the injured from the place of occurrence to District Hospital, Hardoi were also not examined by the prosecution. Learned counsel further submitted that an F.I.R. was lodged by delay of 18 hrs. whereas concerned police station is situated only six kms. away from the place of occurrence and the prosecution has not placed any explanation in this regard. Learned counsel further submitted that Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2) is not an eye-witness whereas the statement of Shakir Ali (P.W.-1) is self contradictory and unreliable as he, even after receiving such injury, had fled away from the place of occurrence and neither lodged any report at any police station situated on the way to hospital through which he passed or received any medical treatment to any nearest hospital. Learned counsel further submitted that the statements of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are self contradictory. Learned counsel further submitted that the trial Court, without considering the material on record, passed the impugned judgment in cursory manner, which is liable to be set aside. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the law laid down by Supreme Court in Thulia Kali vs. State of Tamil Nadu, 1972) 3 SCC 393.

14. Per contra, learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed and submitted that the prosecution case is wholly reliable. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2), father of Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), got information regarding the said occurrence, lodged the first information report without any delay. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2) is illiterate person and due to geographical condition of the said police station, the F.I.R. was lodged at 6"o clock on next day. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that Shakir Ali (P.W.-1) is injured witness and his evidence cannot be brushed aside for want of independent witness. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that every effort was made to save the life of Shakir Ali (P.W.-1) as the appellants were chasing him, hence, failure to take any medical treatment at District Headquarter, Sahajahapur will not affect the credibility of prosecution story. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that there is no illegality in the impugned judgment and order, the appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

15. I have considered the rival submissions made by both the parties and perused the record.

16. Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), sole star witness, supporting the prosecution story, has stated that before two years of the said occurrence, an occurrence was happened between the appellants-Nabi Sher and Nabi Hasan with him and criminal case was lodged against him (P.W.-1) by the appellant-Nabi Sher, which was pending at the time of occurrence. He further stated that at the time of occurrence, at about 12:00 p.m. (noon), he was present, nearby trolly, situated in front of Rajendra's house ; Ganga Singh and Deshraj were sitting in the trolly and Bhaiya Lal was sitting at floor. He further stated that meanwhile all the appellants along with two unknown persons, carrying firearms, appeared there and exhorted to kill him (P.W.-1) whereupon all the appellants and two unknown persons fired at him. He further stated that fire made by the appellant-Nabi Sher hit his stomach whereas fire made by the appellants-Nabi Hasan and Shakir Ali hit his leg and hands. He further stated that he did not know whether fire made by unknown persons caused any injury to him (P.W.-1) or not. He further stated that he rushed to the house of Rajendra and thereafter via house of one Prithvi Pal, he reached at his house. He further stated that the appellants chased him upto crossing, situated in front of Govardhan's house. He further stated that thereafter he reached at the house of one Ram Kumar Telli, resident of Nagla Husain and lay there wherefrom Ram Kumar and Bade Bhaiya, resident of Village-Pakda and Brij Lal carried him to a Kuriyan Kala via Ram Kheda and thereafter they reached at Kath. He further stated that he was carried to district-Sahajahapur by jeep and thereafter to Primary Health Centre, Sahabad where first aid was given to him. He further stated that he was referred to District Hospital, Hardoi where his injuries were examined and x-ray was also conducted. He further stated when his father (P.W.-2) reached at hospital, he came to know that first information report was lodged.

17. Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2), father of Shakir Ali (P.W.-1), narrating the prosecution story as stated by P.W.-1, has stated that at the time of occurrence, he was picking up "urad fali" at the door of his house. He further stated that Bhaiya Lal, Deshraj and Ganga Singh were present at the place of occurrence and had seen the occurrence. Stating that his son (P.W.-1) had fled away to his house, he also reached at his house. He further stated that he had lodged the first information report (Ext.-Ka-1).

18. The prosecution did not examine Ganga Singh, Deshraj and Bhaiya Lal, who were present at the time of occurrence with Shakir Ali (P.W.-1). It has not examined Rajendra in front of whose house, the occurrence was taken place and after the occurrence, P.W.-1 entered into his house to save his life. It has also not examined Ram Kumar, Bade Bhaiya and Brij Lal, who carried P.W.-1 to district hospital, Hardoi via Kuriyan Kala, Kath, Sahajahapur and Sahabad. The prosecution has also not examined the radiologist who conducted x-ray examination of Shakir Ali (P.W.-1). It has also not examined the Constable, who prepared Chik-F.I.R. (Ext.-Ka-3) and entered the information (Ext.-Ka-1) in G. D. Report (Ext.-Ka-6). The prosecution has not placed any explanation as to why the aforesaid important witnesses were withheld and only one witness of fact i.e. injured-Shakir Ali was produced. The record further shows that the cross-examination of Dr. Z. L. Gautam (P.W.-3) was closed by the trial Court without affording any opportunity to cross-examine him. From perusal of the record, it further transpires that the appellants' counsel, before trial Court, had filed an application to recall P.W.-3 for cross-examination on the ground that the cross-examination of P.W.-3 could not be conducted as advocates were abstaining from work due to condolence but the trial Court dismissed the said application on the ground that P.W.-3 was only formal witness.

19. Now the question arises whether the prosecution evidence, based on testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, is reliable or not.

20. P.W.-1 is injured witness. His first medical aid, according to him, was provided at Primary Health Centre, Sahabad but the prosecution has not placed any documentary evidence as to whether or not any treatment was given to P.W.-1 at Primary Health Centre, Sahabad. According to Dr. Z. L. Gautam (P.W.-3) he had examined P.W.-1 at 11:35 p.m. i.e. after twelve hours of the occurrence. P.W.-1 has stated that fire arm injury was caused at his stomach, leg and hands and after the occurrence, he fled away from the place of occurrence and entered into one Rajendra's house, reached at his own house via Prithvi Pal's house and also reached to Village-Nagla Hussain at Ram Kumar's house where he lay down. According to him, he reached at District Hospital-Hardoi via Ram Kheda, Kuriyan Kala, Kath, Sahajahapur and Sahabad. In cross-examination, he admitted that during his journey, he neither gave any information nor took any treatment at any place. He further admitted that he was lying at the door of Raj Kumar's house for two hours. He further stated that Hardoi, Sahajahapur road is stituated 35-36 kms. away from his Village-Chandpur and Kath where police station is also situated, is situated 4-5 "kosh' (8-10 miles). He further stated that he reached at Sahabad at 6:30-7:00 p.m. ; Sahabad police station is situated at main road ; he had narrated the incident to police of police station Sahabad but had not given any written report. He further stated that he did not know whether or not his report was lodged at P.S.-Sahabad.

21. In addition to above, the conduct and statement of this witness are also doubtful because according to him even after receiving serious injuries in his leg and stomach, he ran from the place of occurrence and entered into the house of one person, thereafter gone to his house and therefrom reached another village and lay down there. Thus, according to him, after the occurrence, he had gone also to his own house but his father Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2) had stated that information of the occurrence was received by him from unknown person. In view of the said contradiction, the statement and conduct of P.W.-1 become doubtful.

22. The first information report was lodged by Shakkar Ali (P.W.-2) , father of Shakir Ali (P.W.-1). Admittedly, he is not eye-witness. In cross-examination, he has stated that he could not reach at the place of occurrence and when he was on the way to place of occurrence, the people told that his son had escaped from the place of occurrence. Stating that he could not see the place of occurrence, he further stated that he could not tell the name of persons who narrated to him the occurrence. He further stated that he could not meet the boy who had informed him regarding the occurrence. Stating that he had given the information at concerned police station at 1:00 a.m. (night), he further stated that the said occurrence took place in the evening.

23. The first information report, although is neither substantive piece of evidence nor encyclopedia of the occurrence, is important step of the prosecution to initiate the criminal machinery in order to collect the evidence. Although, there is no prescribed proforma for lodging the F.I.R. and also no time limit is provided to lodge the same but if it is lodged by the inordinate delay without any explanation, it creates doubt in the prosecution story.

24. In Thulia Kali vs. State of Tamil Nadu, 1972) 3 SCC 393 where the first information report was lodged by delay of twenty two hours, Supreme Court has held as under :

"First information report in a criminal case is an extremely vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of corroborating the oral evidence adduced at the trial. The importance of the above report can hardly be overestimated from the standpoint of the accused. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the report to the police in respect of commission of an offence is to obtain early information regarding the circumstances in which the crime was committed, the names of the actual culprits and the part played by them as well as the names of eyewitnesses present at the scene of occurrence. Delay in lodging the first information report quite often results in embellishment which is a creature of afterthought. On account of delay, the report not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of coloured version, exaggerated account or concocted story as a result of deliberation and consultation. It is, therefore, essential that the delay in the lodging of the first information report should be satisfactorily explained."

25. Coming to the facts of this case, according to P.W.-2, he had received the information of the occurrence just at the time of occurrence. Admittedly, the first information report was lodged on 20.09.2001 at 6: 45 a.m. whereas occurrence was taken place at 12:00 p.m. on 19.09.2001. Thus, the F.I.R. was lodged by delay of 18 hours. In Ext.-Ka-3, the distance of place of occurrence from concerned police station is only six kms. P.W.-2, in his cross-examination, has not placed any plausible explanation as to why he had not lodged the first information report at any reasonable time just after the occurrence on 19.09.2001. His admission, in cross-examination, that the said occurrence took place in evening, further creates doubt in the prosecution story. Although, he has stated in cross-examination that he had given information at 1:00 a.m. in the night but this fact is not supported by any documentary evidence and even he had not explained as to why he had lodged first information report at 1:00 a.m. in the night i.e. by delay of 13 hrs.

26. Thus, in the light of above discussion, it is clear that there was enmity between P.W.-1 and the appellants due to enmity of criminal case, lodged against P.W.-1 by the appellants-Nabi Sher and Nabi Hasan. The prosecution has also failed to produce the independent witnesses, present at the spot, including the witness who carried the P.W.-1 to hospital and remained present with him for more than twelve hours since his departure from the place of occurrence till his arrival at District Hospital, Harodi. The conduct and evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, who were inimical to the appellants, are not trustworthy. Their statement regarding the time of occurrence as admitted by P.W.-2 that it was happened in the evening, is also contradictory with the statement of P.W.-1. Non filing of first information report at any police station i.e. Kath or Sahabad and failure to take medical aid for nearly 12 hrs by P.W.-1, further creates doubt in the prosecution story. In addition to above filing of first information report by delay of more than 18 hrs. without any reasonable explanation also has made the prosecution case doubtful. Learned trial Court, without considering the aforesaid fact of the prosecution story, passed the impugned judgment and order in cursory manner.

27. Thus, the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants. The appellants-Shakir Ali, Nabi Sher and Nabi Hasan are entitled for acquittal and both the appeals are liable to be allowed.

28. In view of the above, the impugned judgment and order passed by trial Court is set aside. Both the Criminal Appeal No.1330 of 2004 (Shakir Ali vs. State of U.P.) and Criminal Appeal No.1324 of 2004 (Nabi Sher and another vs. State of U.P.) are allowed. All the appellants-Shakir Ali, Nabi Sher and Nabi Hasan are acquitted. They are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged.

29. Keeping in view the provision of Section 437-A of the Code, appellants-Shakir Ali, Nabi Sher and Nabi Hasan are hereby directed forthwith to furnish a personal bond of a sum of Rs.20,000/- each and two reliable sureties each of the like amount before the trial Court, which shall be effective for a period of six months, along with an undertaking that in the event of filing of Special Leave Petition against this judgment or for grant of leave, they, on receipt of notice thereof, shall appear before Hon'ble Supreme Court.

30. A copy of this judgment along with lower court record be sent to trial Court by FAX for immediate compliance.

A. Civil Law – - U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 - Re-opening of proceedings of chak allotment - It was not open for a subsequent transferee to re-open proceedings of chak allotment which had attained finality against his predecessor in interest, the revision itself was not maintainable and for the same reason the impugned revisional order, which allows the revision cannot be sustained and must necessarily be set aside. (Para 6)

Writ Petition allowed. (E-3)

Present petition assails the order dated 27.12.2005, passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anjani Kumar Mishra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and learned Standing Counsel.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed by the petitioner arises out of the proceedings for allotment of chaks and seeks a writ of certiorari for quashing the order dated 27.12.2005 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation on a revision filed by the respondents.

3. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the revision filed by the contesting respondents was not maintainable. It has been submitted that the order of the Settlement Consolidation Officer challenged before the revisional court was dated 05.09.2004. The revision itself has been filed after the contesting respondents obtained a sale deed of the entire chak of Shri Suresh Chandra on 08.11.2005. It is also contended that the order dated 05.09.2004 had attained finality against Suresh Chandra and, therefore, the contesting respondents, who was a transferee from Suresh Chandra, after the chak allotment in favour of Suresh Chand attained finality, was clearly not maintainable.

4. The contesting respondent had purchased the entire chak of Suresh Chandra with open eyes and after the allotment of chaks in his favour has become final and, therefore, the transferee did not get any right to challenge the allotment made in favour of Suresh Chandra.

5. Learned counsel for the respondents has tried to support the impugned order but has not been able to show as to how his revision was maintainable, he being a subsequent transferee after the allotment made in favour of his predecessor in interest had attained finality.

6. In view of the above foregoing discussions and since in my considered opinion, it was not open for a subsequent transferee to re-open proceedings of chak allotment which had attained finality against his predecessor in interest, the revision itself was not maintainable and for the same reason the impugned revisional order, which allows the revision cannot be sustained and must necessarily be set aside.

7. Accordingly, I allow this writ petition and set aside the order dated 20.07.2005 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation.

8. No costs.
