30. As to the prima facie observation made by the learned single judge, though the learned Additional Advocate General would contend that the observations are premature and too harsh and therefore, not warranted, it remains a fact that all observations made, and expressions used by the learned single judge are only tentative. Perhaps they only express the deep anguish that the Court may have felt at the plight of the original petitioner who may be prima facie perceived to have suffered such a harsh consequence of enhancement of a minor punishment to a major punishment that too at the hands of the highest departmental authority, in circumstances, that prima facie appeared to indicate, a fundamental flaw in the domestic enquiry proceeding i.e., the most severe punishment of dismissal being handed down in absence of the mandatory oral enquiry, that too in exercise of suo moto jurisdiction.

31. In any case, all observations made by the learned single judge are purely tentative and not such as may have any lasting effect. Such observations made would have life till the proceedings are concluded and/or till the explanation of the Revising Authority is considered by the learned single judge. They are not and cannot be read as strictures passed by the learned single judge as may warrant any interference at this premature stage. Being ex parte in the context of an explanation called, those are more to sensitize and make aware the Revising Authority, the consequence of the "fundamental flaw" if any.

32. We are also mindful of the fact that the learned single judge has called for an explanation to be furnished by the Revising Authority to ascertain what may have led to the exercise of that power. Neither any contempt proceeding has been drawn up nor the personal appearance of the Revising Authority has been enforced. Therefore, it remains perfectly open to it, if he so desires to make a clean breast of the situation before the learned single judge or to plead ignorance or even inability to furnish any reply on merits, as per his choice and legal advice.

33. While offering corrections, the Court always maintains the balance and proportionality required in that function – to remain within the four corners of the law, in dealing with an erring litigant or official. Thus, we have no hesitation to observe that in case the respondent-appellant were to furnish an honest explanation, whatever that be and howsoever unsustainable in law that may appear to be, the learned single judge would certainly consider the same according to the law and offer only that much correction, if required, as may be warranted, to serve the interests of justice and good administration. In the absence of any allegation of personal mala fide pleaded, it is premature to imagine any other consequence may arise.

34. The fact that the respondent-appellant may have been posted out and may no longer be able or required to go into the record of the case is not an issue that may detain us. For that purpose, the explanation appears to have been called from the Chairman of the UPPCL. As stated by Sri Abhishek Srivastav, that explanation is being furnished.

35. Issue of jurisdictional error being involved, it further appears that the learned single judge may have felt necessary to ascertain the basic facts to consider offering only that much correction, if warranted as may be necessary so that those mistakes, if found true on record, may not recur.

36. In any event, at this stage no legal injury is seen to have been caused to the Revising Authority, upon an explanation being called, during a judicial proceeding. In so far as the explanation called cannot be described as extraneous to the "fundamental flaw" noted by the learned single judge, we leave every aspect of the matter to be considered by the learned single judge. The mere inconvenience that may have arisen to the Revising Authority may never be enough to maintain this appeal, at this stage.

37. So far as the decisions relied upon by the learned Additional Advocate General are concerned, no doubt the principles are well settled in our jurisprudence. In the first place, no strictures may be passed ex parte. Second, no stricture may be offered more than that required by way of a correction or otherwise and, third no disparaging remarks or harsh language may be used, without prior notice.

38. The order of the learned single judge, though inconvenient and not to the personal like of the Revising Authority, it neither contains any final observation nor it is a stricture made nor does it contain any conclusion reached. What the learned single judge has pointed out are his own doubts that the order passed by the respondent-appellant appears to be wholly contrary to law and impermissible as per the rule of law.

39. However, the order may be worded, it may not persuade us to entertain the present appeal. In view of the facts noted above, we observe, the views expressed by the learned single judge are only a prima facie opinion that per se are not expressed in an intemperate language as may be seen to have caused any injury to the Revising Authority.

40. Accordingly, we decline to exercise our limited jurisdiction in this matter to entertain the present appeal, at this stage. At present, we leave it to the best judgment of the learned single judge to consider the explanation to be furnished by the respondent-appellant, on its own merits and to offer a measured correction, if required, as may be enough in the facts of the present case."

14. On this issue, this Court is constrained to say that we never strictured M. Devraj, the former Chairman of the Corporation, which in any case could not have been done without due notice to him. Our order dated 07.08.2023 was one to bring to his notice what we thought tentatively were flaws in the order impugned going to the root of the matter and know from him what made him act in the manner he did. Instead of availing that opportunity, M. Devraj displayed hair trigger sensitivity and appealed to the Division Bench an order which was not of any moment. He has filed his personal affidavit after the Division Bench declined to interfere.

15. We may say at this stage that no party to a lis before this Court, whether private or official, ought to take umbrage to the orders of this Court, carrying remarks pointing out follies in their orders on a tentative basis to enable the party concerned to explain himself before judgment is passed. In the personal affidavit, that has been filed by M. Devraj, annexing a copy of the orders of the Division Bench, which he has quoted in extenso in his affidavit, there is a clear stance in Paragraph No.7, which says that he regards our remarks in the order dated 07.08.2023 with offence, dubbing these as 'ex parte remarks against the deponent'. It would be of profit to quote Paragraph No.7 of the personal affidavit filed by M. Devraj, which reads:

"7. That the Hon'ble Court in the order dated 7.8.2023 has passed exparte remarks against the deponent, without even affording an opportunity of hearing to him and the deponent has had a consistently progressive and unblemished career spanning to 27 years, and therefore it is most respectfully prayed that the said remark may kindly be expunged by the Hon'ble Court."

16. As a perusal of Paragraph No.7 of the personal affidavit would show, the former Chairman of the Corporation still regards the remarks as strictures against him and prays that these be expunged. He has cited the credit of his progressive and unblemished career, spanning 27 years, to take umbrage to the remarks that he seeks to be expunged. Here, it may be again worthy of note that their Lordships of the Division Bench, while disposing of M. Devraj's appeal from our order dated 07.08.2023, made it clear that the said order, '..... though inconvenient and not to the personal like of the Revising Authority, it neither contains any final observation nor it is a stricture made nor does it contain any conclusion reached'. In view of the said remarks by their Lordships of the Division Bench, M. Devraj should have felt satisfied that there are no strictures passed by us against him. Still, we are constrained to remark that he did not rest content with the clarification made by the Division Bench that there are no strictures against him. Instead, in his personal affidavit vide Paragraph No.7, he has asked us to expunge the strictures carried in the order dated 07.08.2023. Once, their Lordships of the Division Bench have said that there are no strictures in our order dated 07.08.2023, there is absolutely no occasion or necessity for us to expunge those remarks of non-blemish. Nevertheless, since M. Devraj has asserted that these still, to his understanding, are strictures, which must be expunged, this Court must clarify that those remarks are not at all strictures.

17. Why the remarks, which M. Devraj thinks are strictures, that ought to be expunged, are not so, we think ought to be clarified to place the record straight. The relevant remarks read:

"The Chairman, who passed the impugned order pending the appeal seeking to exercise his revisional orders prima facie seems to have scant knowledge of the law and apparently is not legally trained. He did not notice prima facie this flaw in proceedings of the inquiry, which goes to the root of the matter and proceeded to enhance the punishment after a show cause notice on the basis of an inquiry report where the establishment had to establish the charges by leading oral evidence.

Let M. Devraj, former Chairman Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, wherever he is posted currently, explain the circumstances in which he failed to notice the aforesaid gaping flaw in the proceedings before the Inquiry Officer while passing the impugned order."

18. For one, the remarks, above quoted, are all prefaced with the expression prima facie, which shows them to be tentative and intended to elicit the former Chairman's response to the flaws noticed. If the former Chairman thinks that the remark that prima facie he seems 'to have scant knowledge of law' and apparently is 'not legally trained', are strictures, we think he is mistaken. It is a fact that the former Chairman of the Corporation is an administrative officer, who is not a trained lawyer. The distinction between one who is trained in the law and one who is not, and, therefore, called a 'lay officer', is well-known to the law. If the same remark, again tentative in nature, had been made by this Court in the context of a judicial officer, it might have been regarded as a stricture, albeit still in contemplation. It is never expected that an administrative officer would have knowledge of the law or at least a profound knowledge of it. Therefore, the remark in the context of an administrative officer like M. Devraj, is only a statement of fact with no blame attached. If an administrative office in passing an order discloses legal prowess, it would stand to his credit; if he does not, it would not stand to discredit his stature in any manner. At the same time, since the Chairman of the Corporation, like many other administrative officers, has been entrusted with functions of decision making and the decisions being those that have serious adverse civil consequence on rights of individuals, say employees in the establishment, the decisions have to conform to the basic and broad requirements of the law about procedural fairness etc. laid down by Courts. If a decision falls foul of the settled legal position, the Court has to correct it.

19. To lay this part of the matter at rest, it is clarified that since there are no strictures passed against M. Devraj vide order dated 07.08.2023, there is no occasion to expunge anything.

20. Now, turning to the merits of the order impugned. The first issue is if the Chairman of the Corporation should have invoked his revisional powers under Regulation 13(c) of the Regulations to enhance the penalty awarded by the Disciplinary Authority, where an appeal by the petitioner was pending before the Appellate Authority, that is to say, the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation. The objection by the petitioner that pending his appeal before the Appellate Authority, the Revisional Authority, by interceding in the matter, has deprived him of his right of statutory appeal, has been answered by the Corporation in Paragraph No.12 of the counter affidavit. The stand taken is that the petitioner had preferred an appeal dated 18.10.2021 to the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, which was before an incompetent forum. The petitioner was informed vide letter 18.02.2023 that as the punishment order dated 04.09.2021 was passed after due approval of the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, he should prefer an appeal to the Managing Director of the Corporation, instead.

21. It is pointed out that by the letter dated 08.02.2023 issued by the Executive Engineer in the office of the Distribution Corporation, the petitioner was informed that his appeal was being rejected as the Appellate Authority was the Managing Director of the Corporation under Regulation 11(1) of the Regulations and not the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation. The petitioner never availed this opportunity and preferred an appeal to the Managing Director of the Corporation. The case, therefore, on behalf of the Corporation, is that when the Chairman of the Corporation exercised his revisional powers under Regulation 13 of the Regulations, there was indeed no appeal pending at the petitioner's instance. The petitioner has rebutted the Corporation's case that his appeal was rejected by the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation as he was not the competent Appellate Authority under the Regulations and an intimation dated 08.02.2023 sent to him on behalf of the Managing Director of the Corporation,pleading a specific case to the following effect, carried in Paragraph No.17 of the rejoinder affidavit:

"17. …..... It is further submitted that, the letter dated 08.02.2023 Annexed as C.A-3 and referred in the paragraph under reply was never served upon the petitioner before passage of impugned order dated 07.06.2023.

It is pertinent to mention here that appeal again order dated 07.09.2021 was preferred by the petitioner by means of appeal dated 18.10.2021 before respondent no.3 and thereafter, petitioner has moved a reminder dated 7.05.2022 before respondent no.3 praying for expeditious disposal of his pending appeal, but neither any reply to be said request was made to the petitioner nor appeal dated 18.10.2021 was decided.

Now, it is for the first time, respondent corporation is coming up with the plea, that the appeal dated 18.10.2021 was already turned down by means of letter dated 08.02.2023, addressed to the petitioner by Superintending Engineer (Disciplinary Proceeding), DVVNL, Agra, on the ground that since the original punishment order dated 04.09.2021 was passed on the approval of respondent no.3, therefore, appeal has to be filed before next higher authority to be MD UPPCL, Lucknow.

As far as the aforesaid letter dated 08.02.2023 is concerned it is submitted that the appeal dated 18.10.2021 remained pending before respondent no.3 for almost 17 months, but neither the same was decided nor any reason for keeping the same pending was ever communicate to the petitioner despite of reminder dated 07.05.2022 and just before a month of issuance of notice dated 10.03.2023 under regulation, 13(c) of regulation 2020 by respondent no.2, the order dated 08.2.2023, vide letter No.1762, is stated to be passed addressing the petitioner, which was never served upon the petitioner by any mode known to the law, nor any documentary evidence has been filed alongwith the order or with the counter affidavit to prove service of the same upon the petitioner, therefore, the order dated 08.02.2023 cannot be considered at this stage. ….."

22. There is indeed nothing on record to show that the order dated 08.02.2023 was delivered to the petitioner or even dispatched to him. A perusal of the order dated 08.02.2023 shows that the order was sent to the petitioner's office at Etah, where he was posted. If indeed, the order dated 08.02.2023 had been served upon the petitioner, there would be some kind of a record or acknowledgment evidencing service. There is none on record. In the face of a clear stand in Paragraph No.17 of the affidavit that the order dated 08.02.2023 was never served upon the petitioner, it was for the Corporation to have come up with evidence to show that indeed it was served or at least dispatched at the correct address. That has not been done. It is, therefore, held that the order dated 08.02.2023 was never served upon the petitioner.

23. It has further been emphasized that the appeal to the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation was preferred on 18.10.2021 and if the respondents' case were accepted that they held the appeal to be not maintainable on 08.02.2023, it took them a time period of seventeen months to do so. During all this time, neither the appeal was decided nor the reason to keep the same pending, communicated to the petitioner despite a reminder dated 07.05.2022 sent by him. The time period of seventeen months, that the Managing Director kept the appeal with him, would show that the respondents were negligent in dealing with the petitioner's appeal. Departmental remedies of appeal, revision, review etc. are provided to bring quick redress for a wrong decision regarding an employee at the subordinate level. These remedies are not meant to be traps or warps where the determination of the employee's rights may be held in limbo by inaction of the Authority concerned. If the stand of the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation was that the appeal before him was not competent, because the order of the Disciplinary Authority had been passed with his concurrence, the fact should have been intimated to the petitioner within a few days; not even weeks. It is inexplicable and entirely unacceptable that a period of seventeen months elapsed between the petitioner preferring his appeal to the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation and the disclosure of his stand in the letter dated 08.02.2023 addressed to the petitioner that he was not the competent Authority and the appeal before him not maintainable. In any case, this letter has already been held never to have been communicated to the petitioner.

24. Now, there is another angle to the matter. It is not the respondents' case that the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation was not the competent Appellate Authority under the Regulations. Certainly, the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation was the competent Appellate Authority under Regulation 11 of the Regulations, and in the ordinary course of things, would be obliged to decide the petitioner's appeal. There was a particular feature to the case and that was that the order of the Disciplinary Authority was passed with the concurrence of the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation. This disabled him from functioning as the Appellate Authority under the Regulation 11. If this happened, as this Court assumes it did, the Managing Director of the Corporation was in utter error in passing the uncommunicated order dated 08.02.2023, saying that given the circumstances, he was not the competent Appellate Authority and said so after lapse of a period of seventeen months, rejecting the petitioner's appeal on that ground.

25. Why this course of action is prejudicial to the petitioner and what would have been the lawful course under the circumstances for the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation to adopt, would presently be indicated.

26. Regulation 11 of the Regulations reads:

"अपील 11 - (एक) इस विनियमावली के अधीन निदेशक मण्डल द्वारा पारित आदेश के सिवय, कार्मिक अनुशासनिक प्राधिकारी द्वारा पारित आदेश की अपील अगले उच्चतर प्राधिकारी को करने का हकदार होगा।

(दो) अपील, अपीलीय प्राधिकारी को सम्बोधित करते हुये प्रस्तुत की जायेगी। यदि कोई कार्मिक अपील करेगा तो वह उसे अपने नाम से प्रस्तुत करेगा। अपील में ऐसे समस्त तात्विक कथन और तर्क होंगे जिन पर अपीलार्थी भरोसा करता हो।

(चार) अपील आक्षेपित आदेश की संसूचना के दिनांक से 90 दिन के भीतर प्रस्तुत की जायेगी। उक्त अवधि के पश्चात की गई कोई अपील सरसरी तौर पर खारिज कर दी जायेगी।"

27. A perusal of Regulation 11(4) of the Regulations would show that an appeal to the competent Appellate Authority is to be preferred within ninety days of communication of the order appealed against. Any appeal received after the period of limitation would be rejected. There is no provision apparently for the condonation of delay in preferring an appeal under Regulation 11. The appeal in this case was preferred on 18.10.2021 within limitation against the order dated 04.09.2021 passed by the Disciplinary Authority to the Authority competent under the Regulations to entertain the petitioner's appeal. By time, as the Corporation say in their counter affidavit, the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, the competent Appellate Authority, in the ordinary, came to reject the appeal on ground that his concurrence with the Disciplinary Authority in making the order impugned, rendered the appeal incompetent before him, seventeen months had gone by, and a fortiori the period of limitation expired for the petitioner. In these circumstances, the only lawful course to preserve the petitioner's substantive right of appeal under the Regulations was that the Appellate Authority in the ordinary, the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, upon determining his incompetence, should have caused the petitioner's appeal to be transmitted to the competent Appellate Authority under Regulation 11, as he says in his uncommunicated order dated 08.02.2023. The appeal should have been transmitted by the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation to the Managing Director of the Corporation, or whosoever was the competent Authority, in view of the peculiar facts obtaining here, to exercise appellate powers under Regulation 11. In the considered opinion of this Court, the action of the Appellate Authority in passing an order rejecting the petitioner's appeal on ground of the Authority being incompetent, in the facts here, was absolutely unlawful.

28. The standards of procedural fairness in their interplay with the Regulations would demand the aforesaid course of action to be adopted, and not the one that the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation did through his uncommunicated order dated 08.02.2023. Hence, the uncommunicated order dated 08.02.2023 is held to be one that is arbitrary and unfair as also discriminatory. It fails to pass muster of Article 14 of the Constitution, to the extent that it rejects the petitioner's appeal, instead of transmitting it to the competent Appellate Authority. The order to that extent is held, for the said reason, illegal.

29. At this stage, Mr. Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General and Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel in unison said that the order passed by the Chairman in revision was appealable to the next higher Authority in view of the provisions of Regulation 11 of the Regulations. Both the learned Additional Advocate General and Mr. Abhishek Srivastava called this Court's attention to a Bench decision of this Court in Smt. Shaheen Badar v. U.P. Power Corporation Limited and others, Neutral Citation No.- 2022:AHC:138795-DB, where it has been held:

"3. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that in the case in hand a group of officers including certain senior officers were involved in disciplinary proceedings, hence the matter was examined by a senior officer as it could not be examined in piecemeal at different levels as the allegations were interconnected. He further submitted that as per Regulation-11 of the 2020 Regulations, if an order is passed by any authority, the same is appealable to the next higher authority. Applying that principle, the appellant had remedy of appeal before the Board of Directors and in fact before learned Single Judge, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that he may be given time to file appeal as the limitation had expired during pendency of the writ petition.

4. After hearing learned counsel for the parties, we do not find any merits in the present appeal as under the special circumstances, the disciplinary proceedings against a group of employee were held at higher level as certain senior officers were also involved and the punishment was inflicted by the Chairman by different orders. As per Regulation-11 of the Regulations against an order passed by a lower authority, the next higher authority is the appellate authority which in the case in hand is the Board of Directors. Hence, there is no error in the order passed by learned Single Judge relegating the appellant to avail of her alternative remedy."

30. Now, the remedy of appeal in Smt. Shaheen Badar, was held to lie before the Board of Directors of the Corporation, because it was the Chairman of the Corporation, who had functioned as the Disciplinary Authority. The remedy of appeal under Regulation 11 is envisaged against the order of the Disciplinary Authority, whoever it might be; no remedy of appeal under Regulation 11 is contemplated against an order passed in revision. Here, the Chairman of the Corporation has not decided the matter, sitting as the Disciplinary Authority. He has decided it as the Revisional Authority, after depriving the petitioner of his right to avail the remedy of appeal before the Appellate Authority on account of the delay and the ill-advised course of action, adopted by the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, that we have already pointed out. The alternative remedy of appeal, therefore, suggested by the learned Additional Advocate General and Mr. Srivastava under Regulation 11 to the Corporation Board, is not available at all.

31. Turning to the merits of the matter, the thrust of the petitioner's objection to the orders impugned is that the inquiry was held in breach of the salutary principles governing a disciplinary inquiry, which may lead to the imposition of a major penalty. This is so, according to the petitioner, because no oral inquiry was held in the sense that no witnesses were produced on behalf of the establishment to prove the charge against the petitioner with opportunity to him to cross-examine them. In Paragraph No.9 of the writ petition, it is averred:

"9. That it is worth mentioning here that no oral enquiry was conducted nor any prosecution witnesses was produced nor the petitioner was afforded opportunity any of the author of the the cross-examine material/documents relied upon during the course of enquiry nor the authority, namely, Superintendent of Police (Vigilance), U.P. Power Corporation Ltd. Lucknow, who submitted preliminary enquiry report dated 29.08.2018, on the the basis whereof, entire proceedings including the criminal proceedings was initiated against the petitioner, was not examined during the enquiry for proving the charge against the petitioner."

32. In answering the case in Paragraph No.9 of the writ petition, it is averred in Paragraph No.7 of the counter affidavit, that answers Paragraph Nos.8 and 9 of the writ petition, as follows:

"7. That the contents of paragraphs 8 and 9 of the writ petition are false and incorrect hence denied and in reply thereto it is submitted that the enquiry committee along with the chargesheet had supplied the copy of the necessary documents to the petitioner and it was also mentioned in the chargesheet that at the time of filing of his reply, the employee can also inform the enquiry committee, in writing, providing the names of witnesses whom he wants to examine or cross examine and names of all those persons also whom he wants to produce for examination or cross examination and also give brief summary of evidence to be given by the employee in his defence. Further during the departmental enquiry the petitioner was also issued a letter by the enquiry committee on 2.12.2019, fixing the date, time and place, in response to which, the petitioner had appeared before the enquiry committee on 18.12.2019 and the petitioner had also participated in the enquiry on the said date. A copy of the letter dated 2.12.2019 and the minutes of the proceedings dated 18.12.2019 are being annexed herewith and marked as Annexure-CA-1 & CA-2 respectively to this counter affidavit.

Further after giving due opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and on the basis of material evidence on record, the enquiry committee has submitted his report and during the course of departmental enquiry, the petitioner has not disputed about the genuineness of any of the documents provided to the petitioner during the course of enquiry nor he had shown any interest in asking the department to produce any witness for examination/cross examination, therefore, once the employee has duly participated in the departmental enquiry and has admitted the evidence on record, therefore, it cannot be said that any prejudice is caused to him in not examining any witness by the department and if we go by the plain reading of the Regulation 7 of the 2020 Regulation it only says, in Regulation 7(5) that, along with the chargesheet the copy of the documents and list of witnesses should be provided to the employee and Regulation 7(7) provides that, in case the employee refuses the charges, the enquiry committee should call the proposed witnesses to record their evidence whose names are mentioned in the chargesheet and in the present case, if names of no one are mentioned in the chargesheet then the enquiry committee cannot be said to have committed any mistake in not examining any witness. Further Regulation 7(8) provides that, an enquiry committee can ask any witness to appear before it and provide any document and Regulation 7 (9) says, the enquiry committee can ask any question to the witness to find out the true facts, therefore, from the bare perusal of the Regulations, 2020 it cannot be said that the enquiry committee has committed any error, which has caused prejudice to the petitioner, who has been given full opportunity of oral hearing along with option to examine any witness or dispute the admissibility of any documents, and once the employee has not disputed about the genuineness and admissibility of the documents, taking into consideration by the enquiry committee, it cannot be said that the enquiry was not proper."

33. Now, Paragraph No.7 of the counter affidavit does not dispute it for a fact that the establishment never produced any witness to prove the charge. What they say is that Regulation 7 of the Regulations requires witnesses to be called, if they are mentioned in the charge-sheet; not otherwise. This stand of the respondents goes against the salutary principle, governing departmental inquiries, which may result in the imposition of a major penalty. It is the burden of the establishment to prove the charge/ charges in the first instance by producing evidence, both documentary and oral, before the Inquiry Officer through their Presenting Officer, in the same manner, as a case is proved before an independent Tribunal or Court by a party, who moves the process of law. The Inquiry Officer or Committee have to distance themselves from the establishment and act as impartial arbiters in the process. It is not that the Inquiry Officer or Committee, being officers of the establishment, can regard the charges proof of themselves and then expect the delinquent to dispel the same by leading evidence. It would always be the establishment's burden to prove the charges, as already said, by leading evidence, documentary and also oral, before the Inquiry Officer through a Presenting Officer. This has admittedly not been done in this case at all. No witness of fact was examined, even so much as the Superintendent of Police (Vigilance), who submitted the inquiry report dated 29.08.2018 to conclude from material gathered that the petitioner had assets disproportionate to his known source of income during the check period. This charge had to be proved by oral evidence of relevant witnesses, not just the Superintendent of Police (Vigilance), who would prove documents cited to show the possession of disproportionate assets by the petitioner.

34. It would be well to remember that more serious the charge and its consequences, the more strict the requirement to adhere to the standards of procedural fairness. It is perhaps for these reasons that in cases of disciplinary inquiries that may lead to the imposition of major penalties, that a salutary principle of law has been evolved, mandating proof of the charge by the establishment through production of oral evidence or witnesses apart from documents. The salutary principles regarding the holding of a disciplinary inquiry in matters, where a major penalty may be imposed, have been laid down by the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, where it is observed:

"27. A bare perusal of the aforesaid sub-rule shows that when the respondent had failed to submit the explanation to the charge-sheet it was incumbent upon the inquiry officer to fix a date for his appearance in the inquiry. It is only in a case when the government servant despite notice of the date fixed failed to appear that the inquiry officer can proceed with the inquiry ex parte. Even in such circumstances it is incumbent on the inquiry officer to record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet. Since the government servant is absent, he would clearly lose the benefit of cross-examination of the witnesses. But nonetheless in order to establish the charges the Department is required to produce the necessary evidence before the inquiry officer. This is so as to avoid the charge that the inquiry officer has acted as a prosecutor as well as a judge.

28. An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/disciplinary authority/Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents."

35. To the same effect, is the decision of the Supreme Court in Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others, (2009) 2 SCC 570, where it has been held:

"14. Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

36. A Division Bench of this Court has dealt with the same issue in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another, 2018 (9) ADJ 397 (DB)(LB), where it has been held:

"14. Now coming to the question, what is the effect of non-holding of domestic/oral inquiry, in a case where the inquiry officer is appointed, oral inquiry is mandatory. The charges are not deemed to be proved merely on account of levelling them by means of the charge-sheet unless the same are proved by the department before the inquiry officer and only thereafter it is the turn of delinquent employee to place his defence. Holding oral enquiry is mandatory before imposing a major penalty, as held by Apex Court in State of U.P. and another v. T.P. Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541."

15. In another case in Subhash Chandra Gupta v. State of U.P., 2012(4) ADJ 4 (NOC), the Division Bench of this Court after survey of law on this issue observed as under:

"It is well-settled that when the statute provides to do a thing in a particular manner that thing has to be done in that very manner. We are of the considered opinion that any punishment awarded on the basis of an enquiry not conducted in accordance with the enquiry rules meant for that very purposes is unsustainable in the eye of law. We are further of the view that the procedure prescribed under the inquiry rules for imposing major penalty is mandatory in nature and unless those procedures are followed, any out come inferred thereon will be of no avail unless the charges are so glaring and unrefutable which does not require any proof. The view taken by us find support from the judgement of the Apex Court in State of U.P. and another v. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541."

16. A Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari v. State of U.P. and others, 2008(3) ESC 1667, held that non holding of oral inquiry is a serious flaw which can vitiate the order of disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment has observed as under:

" 10..... Non holding of oral inquiry in such a case, is a serious matter and goes to the root of the case.

11. A Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541, considering the question as to whether holding of an oral inquiry is necessary or not, held that if no oral inquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee. The aforesaid view was reiterated in Subash Chandra Sharma v. U.P.Cooperative Spinning Mills and others, 2001 (2) UPLBEC 1475 and Laturi Singh v. U.P.Public Service Tribunal and others, Writ Petition No. 12939 of 2001, decided on 6.5.2005."

17. Even if the employee refuses to participate in the enquiry the employer cannot straightaway dismiss him, but he must hold and ex parte enquiry where evidence must be led vide Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348, Uma Shankar v. Registrar, 1992 (65) FLR 674 (All).

18. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mahesh Narain Gupta v. State of U.P. and others, (2011) 2 ILR 570, had also occasion to deal with the same issue. It held:

"At this stage, we are to observe that in the disciplinary proceedings against a delinquent, the department is just like a plaintiff and initial burden lies on the department to prove the charges which can certainly be proved only by collecting some oral evidence or documentary evidence, in presence and notice charged employee. Even if the department is to rely its own record/document which are already available, then also the enquiry officer by looking into them and by assigning his own reason after analysis, will have to record a finding that hose documents are sufficient enough to prove the charges.

In no case, approach of the Enquiry Officer that as no reply has been submitted, the charge will have to be automatically proved can be approved. This will be erroneous. It has been repeatedly said that disciplinary authority has a right to proceed against delinquent employee in ex parte manner but some evidence will have to be collected and justification to sustain the charges will have to be stated in detail. The approach of the enquiry officer of automatic prove of charges on account of non filing of reply is clearly misconceived and erroneous. This is against the principle of natural justice, fair play, fair hearing and, thus, enquiry officer has to be cautioned in this respect."

19. The principal of law which emanates from the above judgments are that initial burden is on the department to prove the charges. In case of procedure adopted for inflicting major penalty, the department must prove the charges by oral evidence also.

20. From perusal of enquiry report it is demonstrably proved that no oral evidence has been led by the department. When a major punishment is proposed to be passed the department has to prove the charges against the delinquent/employee by examining the witnesses and by documentary evidence. In the present case no witness was examined by the department neither any officer has been examined to prove the documents on the basis of which charges are levelled on the claimant in the proceedings.

21. It is trite law that the departmental proceedings are quasi judicial proceedings. The Inquiry Officer functions as quasi judicial officer. He is not merely a representative of the department. He has to act as an independent and impartial officer to find out the truth. The major punishment awarded to an employee visit serious civil consequences and as such the departmental proceedings ought to be in conformity with the principles of natural justice.

22. Even if, an employee prefers not to participate in enquiry the department has to establish the charges against the employee by adducing oral as well as documentary evidence. In case charges warrant major punishment then the oral evidence by producing the witnesses is necessary."

37. The same principle has been reiterated by the Division Bench of our Court in Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P., 2018 (9) ADJ 107 (DB) (LB), where it has been observed:

"15. The law in this regard is very well-settled and does not need a reiteration, however, we may refer to a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, wherein it has clearly been held that Enquiry Officer acts as a quasi judicial authority and his position is that of an independent adjudicator and further that he cannot act as a representative of the department or disciplinary authority and further that he cannot act as a prosecutor neither he should act as a judge; his function is to examine the evidence presented by the department and even in the absence of the delinquent officer, has to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to bring home the charges.

16. Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held in the said judgment of Saroj Kumar Sinha (supra) that it is only in case when the Government servant, despite notice, fails to appear during the course of enquiry that Enquiry Officer can proceed ex parte and even in such circumstances it is incumbent upon the Enquiry Officer to record the statement of witness.

17. In the instant case, no oral enquiry was held, neither the petitioner was given any notice to participate in any oral enquiry by fixing date, time and place for oral enquiry. It is only that the Enquiry Officer after noticing that despite sufficient time having been given to the petitioner, she did not furnish her reply to the charge-sheet, he proceeded to submit ex parte report without conducting any oral enquiry by fixing date, time and place for such an oral enquiry. Accordingly, the Enquiry Officer, in this case, has violated the aforesaid principles, which clearly vitiates the enquiry proceedings and any punishment order based on such a vitiated enquiry, is clearly not sustainable."

38. In State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB)(LB), again a Bench decision of this Court, it was held:

"14. Recently the entire law on the subject has been reviewed and reiterated in Chamoli District Co-operative Bank Ltd. v. Raghunath Singh Rana and others, AIR 2016 SC 2510 and Court has culled out certain principles as under:

"(i) The enquiries must be conducted bona fide and care must be taken to see that the enquiries do not become empty formalities.

(ii) If an officer is a witness to any of the incidents which is the subject-matter of the enquiry or if the enquiry was initiated on a report of an officer, then in all fairness he should not be the Enquiry Officer. If the said position becomes known after the appointment of the Enquiry Officer, during the enquiry, steps should be taken to see that the task of holding an enquiry is assigned to some other officer.

(iii) In an enquiry, the employer/department should take steps first to lead evidence against the workman/delinquent charged and give an opportunity to him to cross-examine the witnesses of the employer. Only thereafter, the workman/delinquent be asked whether he wants to lead any evidence and asked to give any explanation about the evidence led against him.

(iv) On receipt of the enquiry report, before proceeding further, it is incumbent on the part of the disciplinary/punishing authority to supply a copy of the enquiry report and all connected materials relied on by the enquiry officer to enable him to offer his views, if any."

15. The principal of law emanates from the above judgments is that initial burden is on the department to prove the charges. In case where inquiry is initiated with a view to inflict major penalty, department must prove charges by adducing evidence by holding oral inquiry.

17. It is trite law that the departmental proceedings are quasi judicial proceedings. The Inquiry Officer functions as quasi judicial officer. He is not merely a representative of the department. He has to act as an independent and impartial officer to find out the truth. The major punishment awarded to an employee visit serious civil consequences and as such the departmental proceedings ought to be in conformity with the principles of natural justice. Even if, an employee prefers not to participate in enquiry the department has to establish the charges against the employee by adducing oral as well as documentary evidence. In case charges warrant major punishment then the oral evidence by producing the witnesses is necessary."

39. The aforesaid salutary principle of the law, that holds field, does not seem to have informed the mind of any of the Authorities of the Corporation while passing the impugned order, including the Chairman. This principle has come to be laid down by the Courts, including the Supreme Court, over a period of time, extending over decades. It seems to this Court that the idea underlying the principle does not seem to be understood by administrative officers, untrained in the law.

40. This Court makes it clear that we do not mean to stricture anyone, but the constant breach of the salutary principle cannot be permitted to happen. During the period of time that this matter has been heard, in cases involving the Corporation or the various Distribution Corporations, this Court has noticed a complete go by to the requirement of producing oral evidence or witnesses in matters involving the imposition of a major penalty. Also, this Court has found, like the present case, that Inquiry Committees of the Corporation or the Distribution Corporations, even other Statutory Corporations, utterly fail to comprehend the principle about the burden of proof being on the establishment to prove the charge, in the first instance, by leading evidence. The Inquiry Committees/ the Inquiry Officer fail to distance themselves from the establishment and identify themselves with the establishment's case, regarding the charge/ charges proof of themselves. In many a case by oral hearing, what the Inquiry Officers/ Committees understand is that the delinquent is to be informed of the charges, which are regarded proof of themselves and then put to questioning in the fashion of an interrogator to persuade the Inquiry Committee or the Inquiry Officer that he is indeed not guilty of what is otherwise regarded as proved to begin with. The facts of this case also do not show a very different approach. It would be of profit to quote the findings of the Inquiry Committee, relative to the charge here, recorded in their report dated 26.07.2021. These read:

41. A perusal of the findings of the Inquiry Committee would show that their opinion is based on nothing more than what the Additional Superintendent of Police, Babita Sahu has said in her report dated 29.08.2018 to the Additional Director General of Police (Vigilance) in the Corporation's establishment. They have appraised the charge and understood it through the eyes of the Additional Superintendent of Police, banking on the documents she considered and the statements of witnesses she recorded. Another report, that has been taken into consideration, is the one by K.P. Yadav, Superintendent of Police (Vigilance) in the office of the Additional Director General of Police (Vigilance) of the Corporation. It is a report dated 29.08.2018. The Committee have understood and found the charge proved on the basis of this report as well the earlier one by the Additional Superintendent of Police. Everything about the charge has been understood by the Committee perusing these two reports by police officials. The Committee have particularly said that reading Memo No. एसपी(वी)-कम्प-41/2011(9) dated 09.04.2014 and Memo No. एसपी(वी)-कम्प-41/2011(9) dated 29.08.2018 together with the petitioner's reply, oral statements and annexures, the FIR registered against the petitioner, their opinion follows. The opinion that follows is again based on the investigation done by the Police and what the Superintendent of Police (Vigilance) submitted in his report about the various features of the charge relating to disproportionate assets.

42. A perusal of the inquiry report leaves us in no manner of doubt that the Inquiry Committee for themselves did not require the establishment to lead any evidence before them, documentary or oral, which they themselves heard. They understood and held the charge proved based on the investigation done by the Police, reading the petitioner's reply and the statements recorded by the Police. The Inquiry Committee, therefore, hardly held any inquiry to find the petitioner guilty, adopting the salutary principle of requiring the establishment to produce evidence before the Committee, both documentary and oral, to prove the charge in the first instance.

43. In this Court's opinion, there has been a wholesome violation of procedural fairness in holding the inquiry that goes to the root of the matter and prejudices the petitioner, visiting him with adverse civil consequences.

44. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 07.06.2023 passed by the Chairman of the Corporation and the order dated 04.09.2021 passed by the Chief Engineer (HR-cum-Disciplinary Proceedings), Distribution Corporation are hereby quashed. The petitioner shall be reinstated in service forthwith and paid his current salary. However, considering the gravity of the charge, it will be open to the respondents, if they so elect, not only to proceed with the inquiry afresh from the stage of the charge-sheet, holding it in the manner indicated in this judgment, but also to place the petitioner under suspension pending conclusion of the disciplinary proceedings. The entitlement of the petitioner to receive his emoluments for the period of time that he has remained out of service, would abide by the result of the disciplinary proceedings finally determined. If, however, the respondents do not elect to pursue disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner, 50% of his emoluments shall be payable for the period that he has remained out of service. It is further clarified that in the event the respondents also elect to place the petitioner under suspension pending conclusion of disciplinary proceedings, he would be entitled to the payment of subsistence allowance, which shall be regularly paid, without asking him to furnish a non-alternative engagement certificate. The disciplinary proceedings, if held afresh as per liberty granted, shall be concluded expeditiously, wherein the petitioner will cooperate.

45. Costs easy.

Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings – Dispensation of Inquiry – Petitioner, a Constable (General Duty) with the Central Industrial Security Force (CISF), challenged his dismissal from service under Rule 39(ii) of the CISF Rules, 2001, without holding an inquiry, on grounds of involvement in a criminal case under the NDPS Act, 1985 – Held, the Disciplinary Authority validly invoked Rule 39(ii), dispensing with inquiry, as it was not reasonably practicable due to the petitioner's alleged connection with drug mafia, creating fear among CISF members and civilians, making it unlikely for witnesses to testify – Reasons recorded in the dismissal order dated 11.04.2012 were sufficient and based on objective material, including the FIR and police investigation – No violation of procedural fairness. (Paras 14, 15, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26, 28)

Service Law – Rule 39(ii) of CISF Rules – Reasonably Practicable Standard – The Disciplinary Authority's decision to dispense with inquiry under Rule 39(ii) was challenged as arbitrary – Held, as per Tulsiram Patel and Ved Mitter Gill , the standard for dispensing with inquiry is "not reasonably practicable," not absolute impracticability – The Disciplinary Authority's subjective satisfaction, based on the petitioner's involvement in a serious crime (theft of 558 kg opium worth Rs. 4 crores) and the terror induced by associated drug mafia, was supported by objective material and relevant considerations – The decision was not a mechanical exercise of power, distinguishing the case from Ram Bahadur Yadav . (Paras 17, 19, 20, 22, 27, 28)

Service Law – Constitutional Safeguards – Article 311(2) – The petitioner argued that the dispensation of inquiry violated Article 311(2) and the proviso to Rule 39 – Held, Rule 39(ii) mirrors clause (b) of the second proviso to Article 311(2), allowing dispensation of inquiry when not reasonably practicable, with reasons recorded in writing – The proviso to Rule 39, requiring an opportunity for representation, applies only to cases under clause (i) (conviction-based penalty), not clause (ii), and thus was inapplicable – The Disciplinary Authority's detailed reasons in the impugned order satisfied constitutional requirements. (Paras 12, 13, 14, 26)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition has been preferred by Hassandeen, once a Constable (General Duty) with the Central Industrial Security Force (for short, 'the CISF'), who has been dismissed from service by the Group Commandant, CISF Group Headquarters, Allahabad vide order dated 11.04.2012. This order has been affirmed in appeal by the Deputy Inspector General of Police, CISF, Allahabad vide order dated 14th August, 2012 and further upheld in revision by the Inspector General, North Sector, CISF, New Delhi on the 3rd of January, 2014 by an order of that date.

2. This is a case where the order of dismissal from service has been passed against the petitioner by the Disciplinary Authority in the exercise of powers under Rule 39 (ii) of the Central Industrial Security Force Rules, 2001 (for short, 'the Rules'), without holding an inquiry on grounds recorded in writing in the order impugned that it is not reasonably practicable to hold it.

3. The facts giving rise to this petition are:

The petitioner was selected and appointed to the CISF as a Constable (General Duty) (for short, 'Constable GD') in the year 1999. He was posted in the Fourth Battalion, Government Opium Factory, Ghazipur as Constable GD, CISF Unit, Ghazipur. During the period of his posting at the CISF Unit, Ghazipur, a First Information Report (for short, 'the FIR') came to be lodged by the Station House Officer, Police Station Jaitpura, District

Varanasi against the petitioner, besides another ten accused, giving rise to Crime No.54 of 2012, under Section 8/22 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (for short, 'NDPS Act'), Police Station Jaitpura, District Varanasi. The FIR aforesaid was lodged on 29.02.2012. The petitioner was arrested by the Police in connection with the said crime on 17.03.2012 and remanded to judicial custody. The Group Commandant, CISF Group Headquarters, Allahabad was informed of the fact by the Senior Sub-Inspector, Police Station Jaitpura, District Varanasi by his letter of 18th March, 2012. In consequence, by an order dated 18.03.2012, the petitioner was placed under suspension by the Group Commandant w.e.f. 17.03.2012. On the 11th April, 2012, the Group Commandant proceeded to dismiss the petitioner from service invoking his powers under Rule 39(ii) of the Rules, without holding an inquiry on ground that it was not reasonably practicable. The reasons to proceed on the basis that it was not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry are carried in the impugned order of dismissal dated 11.04.2012. Allusion to these reasons shall be made during the course of this judgment.

4. The petitioner carried an appeal from the order of dismissal to the Deputy Inspector General of Police, CISF, Allahabad, the Appellate Authority, which was dismissed by an order dated 14th August, 2012. The petitioner then preferred a revision under Rule 54 of the Rules. The petitioner's revision was not decided by the Inspector General for a long period of time. The petitioner, therefore, petitioned this Court by means of Writ-A No.794 of 2014, making a grievance of the delay in the decision of his revision. This Court by an order dated 8th January, 2014 disposed of the writ petition with a direction to the Inspector General to consider the same and decide expeditiously within a period of four months from the date of production of a certified copy of the order made in the writ petition aforesaid. In consequence, the Inspector General, the Revisional Authority by his order dated 3rd January, 2014 rejected the revision as barred by time.

5. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been preferred.

6. Heard Mr. Rajesh Kumar Singh, Advocate along with Mr. Mohammad Firoz Khan, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Piyush Mishra, learned Central Government Counsel appearing on behalf of respondents.

7. It is pointed out by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the order of dismissal from service was passed dispensing with inquiry under Rule 33 of the Rules and adopting the drastic procedure envisaged under Rule 39(ii) on ground that it was not reasonably practicable to hold inquiry because of the petitioner's involvement in Case Crime No.54 of 2012. It is argued by the learned Counsel that it was not for the Disciplinary Authority to take cognizance of the petitioner's acts of commission or omission that were subject matter of criminal investigation/ criminal trial, a proceeding entirely different from those envisaged under Rule 39(i) of the Rules. It is urged that the Disciplinary Authority could not have considered the petitioner's conduct that was subject matter of criminal investigation or trial, while exercising his powers under Rule 39(ii) of the Rules. The submission, therefore, is that powers under Section 39(ii) of the Rules were exercised by the Disciplinary Authority on irrelevant considerations.

8. It is next pointed out that the reason recorded in the impugned order dated 11.04.2012 is the improbability of witnesses turning up to testify against the petitioner. It is submitted that this reasoning is flawed, because it is not disclosed anywhere by the respondents that any endeavour was made to secure the presence of witnesses, but found them reluctant or hesitant. It is next submitted that if the ground is the non-availability of witnesses against the delinquent on account of fear etc., the names of witnesses should have been disclosed in the impugned order, that is to say, those witnesses, who were invited by the respondents to testify against the petitioner but declined. It is urged that the inference about improbability of witnesses turning up to testify, recorded in the impugned order is baseless and without material, rendering the foundation of the impugned order shaky.

9. It is next argued that Rule 39(ii) of the Rules contemplates dispensation of inquiry strictly under circumstances mentioned in that Rule. It is urged that the power is drastic, and, therefore, resort to Rule 39(ii) of the Rules should be made alone, if requirements of the Rule are strictly satisfied. The power cannot be exercised arbitrarily to bypass the inquiry, otherwise required to be undertaken. It is also argued that the proviso to Rule 39 contemplates that an enrolled member of the CISF may be given opportunity of making a representation against the penalty proposed before it is inflicted, which in this case has been observed in breach. It is next submitted by the learned Counsel for the petitioner, enlarging a point already made, that the procedure envisaged under Rule 39 is in the nature of a proviso to the holding of a regular inquiry under Rule 32. This proviso reflects the constitutional mandate in Article 311 of the Constitution, which too makes the holding of an inquiry an imperative and dispensation remote in circumstances that make adherence to inquiry procedures, not reasonably practicable. In support of his contention, learned Counsel for the petitioner has placed strong reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Union of India and others v. Ram Bahadur Yadav, (2022) 1 SCC 389. Allusion to the principle laid down in Ram Bahadur Yadav (supra), and if it is in point for the petitioner, shall be made during the course of this judgment. It is, particularly, emphasized by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that in the absence of evidence to show that despite effort made, no witness was willing to come forward and testify against the petitioner, the Disciplinary Authority's subjective satisfaction is flawed.

10. Mr. Piyush Mishra, learned Counsel for the respondents, refuting the submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioner, submits that there are detailed reasons recorded in the impugned order why the Disciplinary Authority has opined that it is not practicable to hold an inquiry. It is submitted that the circumstances in which the petitioner was found involved in the criminal case, where 25 containers of opium were stolen from the opium factory, being 558 kilograms and worth Rs.4 crores, the prospects of witnesses coming forward are not there. This theft and removal of opium from the Government Opium Factory involved twelve persons, to wit, Gopal Dhare Asharam, Sheetal Jaiswal, Om Prakash Yadav, Tushar @ Babu Jaiswal, Constable Balu Nayak, S.I. Santosh Kumar, Assistant Commandant Khajan Singh, Constable K. Satish Kumar, Constable Hassandeen, Constable M. Bhaskar, Munna @ Rohit and Kamlesh @ Tuntun Kesari. The petitioner's name figured, no doubt, in the statement of a co-accused, but on the foot of involvement of these CISF men, who were acting in concert with opium mafia and the material that was gathered in connection with arrest of the CISF Personnel, including an Assistant Commandant, the Disciplinary Authority formed a subjective satisfaction, for reasons recorded, to dispense with inquiry, finding it to be not reasonably practicable. Why it was not reasonably practicable, bearing in mind the material and circumstances, attending the petitioner's act, is given in the impugned order.

11. It is no doubt true that the normal rule to impose a major penalty is one after holding due inquiry, for which an elaborate procedure is laid down under Rule 36 of the Rules. Rule 39 carves out an exception to Rules 36 to 38. It may be apposite to point out that whereas Rule 36 lays down the elaborate procedure to hold disciplinary proceedings in case of major penalties, Rule 37 prescribes the procedure for imposing minor penalties and Rule 38 the procedure for imposition of petty punishment. Rule 39, that is in the nature of a proviso to the normal procedure for the imposition of punishment of any kind, reads:

"39. Special procedure in certain cases.– Not with standing anything contained in rules 36 to 38 -

(i) where any penalty is imposed on an enrolled member of the Force on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(ii) where the disciplinary authority is satisfied for reasons to be recorded by it in writing that it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry in the manner provided in these rules, or

(iii) where the President is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the state, it is not expedient to hold any inquiry in the manner provided in these rules, the disciplinary authority may consider the circumstances of the case and make such orders thereon as it deems fit;

Provided that the enrolled member of the Force may be given an opportunity of making representation against the penalty proposed to be imposed before any order is made in case under clause (i)."

12. The Rules have been framed by the Central Government in the exercise of their powers under Section 22 of the Central Industrial Security Force Act, 1968 (for short, 'the Act'), which confers wide powers on the Government to make Rules for carrying out the purposes of the Act. The scheme of the Rules, which envisages an ordinary mode for the imposition of a punishment of any kind and then an extraordinary mode in certain contingencies, orchestrates what Article 311 of the Constitution provides in the matter of dismissal, removal etc. of a member of a civil service of the Union or a State, or a person holding a civil post under the Union or a State, to borrow almost the phraseology of Article 311(1). Article 311 of the Constitution reads:

"311. Dismissal, removal or reduction in rank of persons employed in Civil capacities under the Union or a State.—(1) No person who is a member of a civil service of the Union or an all-India service or a civil service of a State or holds a civil post under the Union or a State shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed.

(2) No such person as aforesaid shall be dismissed or removed or reduced in rank except after an inquiry in which he has been informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges:

Provided that where it is proposed after such inquiry, to impose upon him any such penalty, such penalty may be imposed on the basis of the evidence adduced during such inquiry and it shall not be necessary to give such person any opportunity of making representation on the penalty proposed:

Provided further that this clause shall not apply—]

(a) where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that for some reason, to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry; or

(c) where the President or the Governor, as the case may be, is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the State it is not expedient to hold such inquiry.

(3) If, in respect of any such person as aforesaid, a question arises whether it is reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry as is referred to in clause (2), the decision thereon of the authority empowered to dismiss or remove such person or to reduce him in rank shall be final."

13. A comparison of what the higher principles in the Constitution lay down in connection with removal of a civil servant of the Union or a State and the provisions of the Rules would show striking similarity. What proviso (b) to Article 311 (2) postulates, is clearly reflected in the provisions of Rule 39 of the Rules. There is one issue, which Mr. Rajesh Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner raised, that deserves to be disposed of for a first. He submitted, relying on the proviso to Rule 39 of the Rules, that it postulates opportunity of making a representation against the proposed penalty imposed under Rule 39, which has been observed in breach by the respondents. A perusal of Rule 39 of the Rules would show that the proviso envisages provision of opportunity to make a representation against the proposed penalty before it is imposed, in case the order is made, invoking clause (i) of Rule 39 of the Rules. Clause (i) aforesaid contemplates digression from the ordinary rule of holding a departmental inquiry in case where any penalty is imposed on an enrolled member of the CISF on ground of conduct that has led to his conviction in a criminal case. The proviso to Rule 39, therefore, would have no application to the present case, where clause (ii) of Rule 39 has been invoked by the respondents to punish the petitioner. The aforesaid contention of the learned Counsel for the petitioner, therefore, has no force.

14. A perusal of the impugned order shows that clause (ii) of Rule 39 has been invoked by the Disciplinary Authority to hold that it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry on the following grounds, detailed in the impugned order (translated into English from Hindi):

"(a) As would be seen from the FIR Case Crime No.54 of 2012, registered on 29.02.2012 at 17:00 hours, the case property recovered is opium worth Rs.4 crores, estimatedly where Constable GD Hassandeen's name is also found involved. The proof comprises the FIR registered by the Police.

(b) The local drug mafia, with whom Constable GD Hassandeen is involved command such terror and influence in the area, extending large, that there is no likelihood of any witness testifying against him or assisting in the departmental proceedings.

(c) The members of the CISF have been put in so much fear that the Unit is facing such intimidating circumstances where members of the Force, avoid testifying against him.

(d) Constable GD appears to have illegal connection to the drug mafia and on account of the terror and fear of the drug mafia, it is not possible that any witness would come forward.

(e) This fact is proved from the police case that Constable GD Hassandeen is involved with those, who illegally trade in opium and to have a member on the force, who has connections with such antisocial elements, is not only fatal for the force, but also expose to extreme danger those establishments, where he is posted.

(f) Most of the witnesses in this case are civilians, to produce whom is not possible.

(g) The CISF is a Central Armed Police Force. It is an Armed Force of the Union. The CISF is posted to sensitive stations and places like Airports, Seaports, Units of the Atomic Energy Department, the Space Department, Metro Rail, Electricity, Iron Industry. The force (CISF) is detailed to internal security duty as well as election duty. The CISF requires to maintain a high decree of discipline.

(h) Gauging the circumstances, so that general administration and discipline do not break down and go out of control, leading to breach of peace, it would not be desirable to await such circumstances to come by."

15. These reasons to dispense with the holding of a departmental inquiry and proceeding under Rule 39 was a decision taken by the Disciplinary Authority under circumstances recorded in that order. Broadly put, there was a Constable of the CISF posted at the Government Opium Factory, Ghazipur, Gopal Dhare Asharam Ganpat. According to the FIR, giving rise to Case Crime No.54 of 2012, registered on 29.02.2012 at 17:00 hours at Police Station Jaitpura, District Varanasi, he was arrested during a raid by the Police in a house located under Nakhi Ghaat, near the Shailputri Temple, together with 25 containers full of 558 kilograms of raw opium, estimated to be worth Rs.4 crores. The Constable had three members of the public with him, one of whom was able to make good his escape. The Constable was arrested along with two members of the public, going by the name, Sheetal Jaiswal and Om Prakash Yadav. All of them were arrested in the said crime. The arrest of these three in the raid and recovery of opium was done under the supervision of the Circle Officer, Chetganj. During interrogation of the three men arrested as aforesaid, revealed the involvement of Constable GD Hassandeen in the crime. After Hassandeen was brought to the Police Station and investigated, it was found that the 25 containers full of 558 kilograms of raw opium, stolen from the Government Opium Factory, had Hassandeen's involvement too. He was arrested and sent to jail. Information was given by Police Station Chetganj on 18.03.2012 to the CISF.

16. It was at this stage and shortly after the petitioner was arrested and sent to jail that on 11.04.2012, the Disciplinary Authority invoked his powers under Rule 39(ii) of the Rules, assigning reasons in writing to hold that this was a case where it was not practicable to hold an inquiry, in the exercise of powers under the said Rule, proceeded to punish the petitioner with dismissal from service. The aforesaid order was passed on ground of his involvement in the criminal case and the circumstances of arrest, from which an inference was drawn that he was involved with national and international gang of opium smugglers. These were activities found to be harmful for the CISF, besides bringing it a bad name.

17. Now, the question to be determined is as what are the parameters on which power under Rule 39(ii) of the Rules can be exercised by the Disciplinary Authority to punish an enrolled member of the CISF, without holding an inquiry. This question engaged the attention of a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Union of India and another v. Tulsiram Patel, (1985) 3 SCC 398. The question was decided with reference to the provisions of clause (2) of Article 311, which we have already noticed hereinabove are pari materia to the Rules here. It is observed in Tulsiram Patel (supra) regarding the validity of Rules providing for exclusion of natural justice in the following terms:

"106. It is not possible to accept this submission. The opening words of Article 309 make that article expressly "Subject to the provisions of this Constitution". Rules made under the proviso to Article 309 or under Acts referable to that article must, therefore, be made subject to the provisions of the Constitution if they are to be valid. Article 310(1) which embodies the pleasure doctrine is a provision contained in the Constitution. Therefore, rules made under the proviso to Article 309 or under Acts referable to that article are subject to Article 310(1). By the opening words of Article 310(1) the pleasure doctrine contained therein operates "Except as expressly provided by this Constitution". Article 311 is an express provision of the Constitution. Therefore, rules made under the proviso to Article 309 or under Acts referable to Article 309 would be subject both to Article 310(1) & Article 311. This position was pointed out by Subba Rao, J., as he then was, in his separate but concurring judgment in Moti Ram Deka case [AIR 1964 SC 600 : (1964) 5 SCR 683, 734-5 : (1964) 2 LLJ 467] at p. 734, namely, that rules under Article 309 are subject to the pleasure doctrine and the pleasure doctrine is itself subject to the two limitations imposed thereon by Article 311. Thus, as pointed out in that case, any rule which contravenes clause (1) or clause (2) of Article 311 would be invalid. Where, however, the second proviso applies, the only restriction upon the exercise of the pleasure of the President or the Governor of a State is the one contained in clause (1) of Article 311. For an Act or a rule to provide that in a case where the second proviso applies any of the safeguards excluded by that proviso will be available to a government servant would amount to such Act or rule impinging upon the pleasure of the President or Governor, as the case may be, and would be void as being unconstitutional. It is, however, a well-settled rule of construction of statutes that where two interpretations are possible, one of which would preserve and save the constitutionality of the particular statutory provision while the other would render it unconstitutional and void, the one which saves and preserves its constitutionality should be adopted and the other rejected. Such constitutionality can be preserved by interpreting that statutory provision as directory and not mandatory. It is equally well-settled that where a statutory provision is directory, the courts cannot interfere to compel the performance or punish breach of the duty created by such provision and disobedience of such provision would not entail any invalidity — see Craies on Statute Law, Seventh Edn., at p. 229. In such a case breach of such statutory provision would not furnish any cause of action or ground of challenge to a government servant for at the very threshold, such cause of action or ground of challenge would be barred by the second proviso to Article 311(2)."

18. It is, therefore, in accord with the constitutional scheme that service rules excluding natural justice have to be reflections of clause (b) of the second proviso to Article 311(2) of the Constitution.

19. The parameters, on which the power to dispense with an inquiry under clause (b) of the second proviso to Article 311(2) of the Constitution is exercised, have been elaborately laid down by the Constitution Bench in Tulsiram Patel. In Tulsiram Patel, it has been held:

"130. The condition precedent for the application of clause (b) is the satisfaction of the disciplinary authority that "it is not reasonably practicable to hold" the inquiry contemplated by clause (2) of Article 311. What is pertinent to note is that the words used are "not reasonably practicable" and not "impracticable". According to the Oxford English Dictionary "practicable" means "Capable of being put into practice, carried out in action, effected, accomplished, or done; feasible". Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines the word "practicable" inter alia as meaning "possible to practice or perform : capable of being put into practice, done or accomplished: feasible". Further, the words used are not "not practicable" but "not reasonably practicable". Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines the word "reasonably" as "in a reasonable manner: to a fairly sufficient extent". Thus, whether it was practicable to hold the inquiry or not must be judged in the context of whether it was reasonably practicable to do so. It is not a total or absolute impracticability which is required by clause (b). What is requisite is that the holding of the inquiry is not practicable in the opinion of a reasonable man taking a reasonable view of the prevailing situation. It is not possible to enumerate the cases in which it would not be reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry, but some instances by way of illustration may, however, be given. It would not be reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry where the government servant, particularly through or together with his associates, so terrorizes, threatens or intimidates witnesses who are going to give evidence against him with fear of reprisal as to prevent them from doing so or where the government servant by himself or together with or through others threatens, intimidates and terrorizes the officer who is the disciplinary authority or members of his family so that he is afraid to hold the inquiry or direct it to be held. It would also not be reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry where an atmosphere of violence or of general indiscipline and insubordination prevails, and it is immaterial whether the concerned government servant is or is not a party to bringing about such an atmosphere.

In this connection, we must bear in mind that numbers coerce and terrify while an individual may not. The reasonable practicability of holding an inquiry is a matter of assessment to be made by the disciplinary authority. Such authority is generally on the spot and knows what is happening. It is because the disciplinary authority is the best judge of this that clause (3) of Article 311 makes the decision of the disciplinary authority on this question final. A disciplinary authority is not expected to dispense with a disciplinary inquiry lightly or arbitrarily or out of ulterior motives or merely in order to avoid the holding of an inquiry or because the Department's case against the government servant is weak and must fail. The finality given to the decision of the disciplinary authority by Article 311(3) is not binding upon the court so far as its power of judicial review is concerned and in such a case the court will strike down the order dispensing with the inquiry as also the order imposing penalty. The case of Arjun Chaubey v. Union of India [(1984) 2 SCC 578 : 1984 SCC (L&S) 290 : (1984) 3 SCR 302] is an instance in point. In that case, the appellant was working as a senior clerk in the office of the Chief Commercial Superintendent, Northern Railway, Varanasi. The Senior Commercial Officer wrote a letter to the appellant calling upon him to submit his explanation with regard to twelve charges of gross indiscipline mostly relating to the Deputy Chief Commercial Superintendent. The appellant submitted his explanation and on the very next day the Deputy Chief Commercial Superintendent served a second notice on the appellant saying that his explanation was not convincing and that another chance was being given to him to offer his explanation with respect to those charges. The appellant submitted his further explanation but on the very next day the Deputy Chief Commercial Superintendent passed an order dismissing him on the ground that he was not fit to be retained in service. This Court struck down the order holding that seven out of twelve charges related to the conduct of the appellant with the Deputy Chief Commercial Superintendent who was the disciplinary authority and that if an inquiry were to be held, the principal witness for the Department would have been the Deputy Chief Commercial Superintendent himself, resulting in the same person being the main accuser, the chief witness and also the judge of the matter.

131. It was submitted that where a delinquent government servant so terrorizes the disciplinary authority that neither that officer nor any other officer stationed at that place is willing to hold the inquiry, some senior officer can be sent from outside to hold the inquiry. This submission itself shows that in such a case the holding of an inquiry is not reasonably practicable. It would be illogical to hold that the administrative work carried out by senior officers should be paralysed because a delinquent government servant either by himself or along with or through others makes the holding of an inquiry not reasonably practicable.

132. It is not necessary that a situation which makes the holding of an inquiry not reasonably practicable should exist before the disciplinary inquiry is initiated against a government servant. Such a situation can also come into existence subsequently during the course of an inquiry, for instance, after the service of a charge-sheet upon the government servant or after he has filed his written statement thereto or even after evidence has been led in part. In such a case also the disciplinary authority would be entitled to apply clause (b) of the second proviso because the word "inquiry" in that clause includes part of an inquiry. It would also not be reasonably practicable to afford to the government servant an opportunity of hearing or further hearing, as the case may be, when at the commencement of the inquiry or pending it the government servant absconds and cannot be served or will not participate in the inquiry. In such cases, the matter must proceed ex parte and on the materials before the disciplinary authority. Therefore, even where a part of an inquiry has been held and the rest is dispensed with under clause (b) or a provision in the service rules analogous thereto, the exclusionary words of the second proviso operate in their full vigour and the government servant cannot complain that he has been dismissed, removed or reduced in rank in violation of the safeguards provided by Article 311(2).

133. The second condition necessary for the valid application of clause (b) of the second proviso is that the disciplinary authority should record in writing its reason for its satisfaction that it was not reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry contemplated by Article 311(2). This is a constitutional obligation and if such reason is not recorded in writing, the order dispensing with the inquiry and the order of penalty following thereupon would both be void and unconstitutional.

134. It is obvious that the recording in writing of the reason for dispensing with the inquiry must precede the order imposing the penalty. The reason for dispensing with the inquiry need not, therefore, find a place in the final order. It would be usual to record the reason separately and then consider the question of the penalty to be imposed and pass the order imposing the penalty. It would, however, be better to record the reason in the final order in order to avoid the allegation that the reason was not recorded in writing before passing the final order but was subsequently fabricated. The reason for dispensing with the inquiry need not contain detailed particulars, but the reason must not be vague or just a repetition of the language of clause (b) of the second proviso. For instance, it would be no compliance with the requirement of clause (b) for the disciplinary authority simply to state that he was satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable to hold any inquiry. Sometimes a situation may be such that it is not reasonably practicable to give detailed reasons for dispensing with the inquiry. This would not, however, per se invalidate the order. Each case must be judged on its own merits and in the light of its own facts and circumstances."

20. The aforesaid principles laid down by the Constitution Bench were followed by the Supreme Court in Southern Railway Officers Association v. Union of India and others, (2009) 9 SCC 24. These principles were further followed and elaborated in a later decision of the Supreme Court in Ved Mitter Gill v. Union Territory Administration, Chandigarh and others, (2015) 8 SCC 86. The facts in Ved Mitter Gill (supra) show that while Gill was posted as the Deputy Superintendent of Police, Model Jail, Burail, Chandigarh in January, 2004, four under-trials, three of whom were facing trial on the charge of assassinating a former Chief Minister of Punjab, Sri Beant Singh and another, escaped from Model Jail, Burail, Chandigarh by digging an underground tunnel. Gill was dismissed from service vide order dated 01.03.2004 by the Administrator, Union Territory of Chandigarh invoking clause (b) of the second proviso to Article 311(2). He challenged the order of dismissal dated 01.03.2004 by preferring departmental appeals to the Administrator of the Union Territory. Those appeals were dismissed as not maintainable vide order dated 11.02.2005. Gill moved the Central Administrative Tribunal through an Original Application, challenging the orders of his dismissal from service. The Central Administrative Tribunal vide order dated 30.01.2006 dismissed the Original Application. This order was impugned before the High Court in a writ petition, that came to be dismissed by an order dated 01.05.2006. It was against the order of the High Court that Gill appealed by special leave to the Supreme Court. Before the Supreme Court, the appeal preferred by Gill was heard along with transferred cases, that were writ petitions filed in the High Court by the other officers posted in Jail, who had similarly been dismissed and their writ petitions were still pending before the High Court by time Gill moved the Supreme Court by his petition for special leave to appeal. It was in the backdrop of these facts that after noticing the principles laid down in Tulsiram Patel, Tarsem Singh v. State of Punjab, (2006) 13 SCC 581, State of Punjab v. Harbhajan Singh, (2007) 15 SCC 217 and other high authority that their Lordships held:

"22. We shall now advert to the impugned order to determine, whether the three parameters laid down for the valid invocation of clause (b) to the second proviso under Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India, were made out.

23. The first ingredient, which is a prerequisite to the sustainable application of the above clause (b) is, that the delinquency alleged should be such as would justify any one of the three punishments, namely, dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. We have already extracted hereinabove the order dated 1-3-2004, whereby, the appellant Ved Mitter Gill was dismissed from service, with immediate effect. Its perusal reveals, that the punishment was based on reasons (recorded in the impugned order) divided into different compartments. The first is contained in the first paragraph, which deals with the duties and responsibilities vested with Ved Mitter Gill, as Deputy Superintendent, Model Jail, Burail, Chandigarh. The second component deals with the escape of four undertrials from Model Jail, Burail, Chandigarh. Three of the undertrials, who had escaped, were involved in the assassination of Shri Beant Singh, a former Chief Minister of State of Punjab. The instant paragraph also records, the factum that the said three undertrials were having links with Babbar Khalsa International, a terrorist organisation. The fourth undertrial was being tried separately, for the offence of murder. The third component of the impugned order, relates to the material taken into consideration to evaluate the lapses committed by the appellant/petitioners, as would reveal their involvement with reference to the alleged delinquency, justifying the punishment of dismissal from service.

24. We shall now advert to the factual position emerging from the above. A reference was first of all made to the duties and responsibilities assigned to the appellant Ved Mitter Gill. Having detailed the express duties assigned to him in paras 9 to 11 above, we have concluded therefrom, that the responsibility of all the jail inmates (safe custody of all prisoners) rested on his shoulders, and the petitioners herein, who assisted him in the same. The appellant Ved Mitter Gill was required to satisfy himself once in every twenty-four hours, about the safe custody of the prisoners. He was also duty-bound to visit every barrack, ward, cell and compartment every twenty-four hours. He was to be present every morning and evening, when the prisoners were taken out of the sleeping wards or cells or other compartments, and then, restored to the same. He was to make a daily report by daybreak and by night, that all the prisoners were present, and in safe custody. He was also required to report forthwith any unusual occurrence. He was required at least once a week to inspect clothing, beddings, as well as, other articles, by thoroughly checking all places frequented by the prisoners. And to make a report, if he discovered any prohibited article, during the checking. The petitioners were associated with the appellant and assisted him in discharging his aforementioned duties. Had the appellant Ved Mitter Gill, and the petitioners, performed their duties diligently, there could not have been any possibility, of the escape under reference. It cannot be overlooked, that the escape was made good, by digging the escape tunnel, which measured ninety-four feet in length (with diagonal dimensions of 21″ × 21″). Six separate reasons have been expressed by the competent authority in arriving at its conclusion. We have extracted the impugned order dated 1-3-2004, in its entirety, hereinabove. It fully establishes the inferences recorded by us.

25. The determination by the competent authority, when viewed dispassionately with reference to the duties assigned to Ved Mitter Gill, leaves no room for any doubt, that the competent authority was justified in concluding, that the four prisoners referred to above could never have escaped, if the appellant Ved Mitter Gill, and the petitioners, had diligently discharged the duties assigned to them. Having so concluded, about the responsibility and blameworthiness of the appellant/petitioners, there can be no doubt that the punishment of dismissal from service, was fully justified, as their delinquency had resulted in the escape of four dreaded prisoners.

26. The second ingredient which needs to be met for a valid exercise of clause (b) to the second proviso under Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India, is the satisfaction of the competent authority, that it was not reasonably practicable to hold a regular departmental enquiry against the employees concerned. On the question whether it was reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry, the competent authority has recorded its conclusion in the paragraphs, preceding the one depicting the involvement of the appellant/petitioners. Amongst the reasons indicated, it has been recorded, that Ved Mitter Gill being a senior, permanent and non-transferable officer of Model Jail, Burail, Chandigarh, his junior jail officers, who alone would have been witnesses in such departmental proceedings, were not likely to come forward to depose against him, for fear of earning his wrath in future. The links of the escaped undertrial prisoners with the Babbar Khalsa International, a known and dreaded terrorist organisation were also clearly expressed in the impugned order, as one of the reasons, for it being impracticable, to hold an inquiry against the appellant/petitioners. It is a matter of common knowledge, and it would be proper to take judicial notice of the fact, that a large number of terrorists came to be acquitted during the period in question, on account of the fact that witnesses did not appear to depose against them on account of fear, or alternatively, the witnesses who appeared before the courts concerned for recording their deposition, turned hostile, for the same reason.

27. The situation presented in the factual narration noticed in the impugned order clearly achieves the benchmark for the satisfaction at the hands of the competent authority that it would not have been reasonably practicable to hold a departmental proceeding against the appellant/petitioners in terms of the mandate contained under Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India.

28. The third essential ingredient for a valid application of clause (b) to the second proviso under Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India is that, the competent authority must record the reasons of the above satisfaction in writing. In the present case, there is no serious dispute on this issue because the reasons for the satisfaction have been recorded by the competent authority in the impugned order (dated 1-3-2004) itself.

29. For the reasons recorded above, we are satisfied, that all the parameters laid down by this Court for a valid/legal application of clause (b) to the second proviso under Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India were duly complied with."

21. Testing the petitioner's case on the parameters laid down in Tulsiram Patel, and, particularly, Ved Mitter Gill, the first issue that requires consideration is the gravity of the charge. Was the charge grave enough, if proved at a full-fledged inquiry to entail the imposition of major penalty; particularly, dismissal from service, that has been ordered in this case. The charge against the petitioner is about being party to an act facilitating theft of 558 kilograms of opium from the Government Opium Factory, worth Rs.4 crores. This act was committed in connivance with other members of the CISF and some mafiosi involved in opium smuggling, at least so far as the charge goes. This charge, if proved at the inquiry against the petitioner, an enrolled member of a disciplined force dedicated to guard high security installations and establishments of the Government, would most certainly have entailed dismissal from service. Therefore, the first requirement to the exercise of power under Rule 39(ii) of the Rules is clearly established.

22. The other issue that merits consideration is: If the power to invoke Rule 39(ii) of the Rules, dispensing with the normal procedure of holding inquiry, was a valid exercise of discretion under the said Rule? The Disciplinary Authority derives power to dispense with departmental inquiry under Rule 39(ii), if it is satisfied that it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry in the manner provided under the Rules and records reasons for its satisfaction. As laid down in Tulsiram Patel that the words 'not reasonably practicable' do not postulate a 'total or absolute impracticability', to borrow the words of their Lordships. All that is necessary is that to the understanding of a reasonable man, the holding of an inquiry in the circumstances should appear impracticable. There is remark in Tulsiram Patel, which is of utmost importance on the question what can be regarded as reasonably practicable. Though some illustrations are given there, but it is said that, 'whether it was practicable to hold the inquiry or not, must be judged in the context of whether it was reasonably practicable to do so'.

23. It is further observed in Tulsiram Patel that 'it is not possible to enumerate the cases in which it would not be reasonably practicable to hold the inquiry, but some instances by way of illustration may, however, be given'. One of the illustrations given is of the government servant, who by himself or through his associates, terrorizes and suborns witnesses, making them stay away from testifying against him. This, as already said, is an illustration and there are others given by their Lordships. Ultimately, it depends upon the judgment of the Disciplinary Authority, who is abreast of the situation and located close at hand to judge the issue of practicability of holding an inquiry. This is not to say that the opinion of the Disciplinary Authority on the issue is final and not subject to scrutiny of this Court. It certainly is. However, the parameters of that scrutiny are limited to a classical secondary review. The material before the Disciplinary Authority in this case would show that it was wholesome. It was recorded by the Disciplinary Authority that the petitioner has connection with the drug mafiosi, who have such widespread terror in the area that it is not likely that anyone would testify against him in the departmental inquiry.

24. There is a further reason recorded, which is more dependable than the first. It is said that members of the CISF are so fearful and intimidated under the circumstances that no member of the CISF would testify against the petitioner. Now, the recording of this reason postulates that it is based on an objective assessment about members of the CISF available in the Unit, who would know about the happenings and the prevalent conditions about the terror struck by the the petitioner and his associates amongst the drug mafiosi. This opinion, being of the Group Commandant and one about members of the CISF available on the Unit, cannot be said to be one not based on any objective material. The satisfaction, of course, has to be subjective, which cannot be questioned.

25. There is still another reason, relevant to the issue in hand, recorded. It is said in the impugned order that most of the witnesses are civilian and it is difficult to produce them before the inquiry. This again is a relevant consideration, because after all what vests the Disciplinary Authority with the power to dispense with inquiry, is that it is 'not reasonably practicable' and not, as observed in Tulsiram Patel, an absolute impracticability. The difficulty in securing the attendance of civilian witnesses, who are material, being witnesses of acts done by the petitioner, subject matter of inquiry, may not be reasonably practicable. This Court is, therefore, of opinion that the Disciplinary Authority, including the Appellate and the Revisional Authorities, who upheld the order in the part relating to the decision to dispense with inquiry for the impracticability of it, did so on very relevant considerations that cannot be faulted.

26. The last issue, or as their Lordships of the Supreme Court said in Ved Mitter Gill, ingredient for a valid application of clause (b) of the second proviso to Article 311(2) of the Constitution, which here would translate to Rule 39(ii) of the Rules, is the recording of reasons in writing by the competent Authority. Here, the reasons have been recorded very elaborately in the order itself, and, therefore, this issue also is clinched against the petitioner.

27. Before parting with the matter, this Court must consider the submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner, based on the principle in Ram Bahadur

Yadav. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has drawn the attention of the Court to Paragraph Nos.14 and 17 of the report in Ram Bahadur Yadav to submit that the order impugned is a mechanical exercise of power to dispense with inquiry under Rule 39(ii) of the Rules, and, further, there is no objective material available, on the foot of which the Disciplinary Authority could have recorded its subjective satisfaction to dispense with the holding of inquiry. In Ram Bahadur Yadav, it is observed by the Supreme Court:

"14. It is a settled legal position that when Rules contemplate method and manner to adopt special procedure, it is mandatory on the part of the authorities to exercise such power by adhering to the Rule strictly. Dismissal of a regular member of Force, is a drastic measure. Rule 161, which prescribes dispensing with an inquiry and to pass order against a member of Force, cannot be invoked in a routine and mechanical manner, unless there are compelling and valid reasons. The dismissal order dated 22-10-1998 does not indicate any reason for dispensing with inquiry except stating that the respondent had colluded with the other Head Constable for theft of non-judicial stamp papers. By merely repeating the language of the Rule in the order of dismissal, will not make the order valid one, unless valid and sufficient reasons are recorded to dispense with the inquiry. When the Rule mandates recording of reasons, the very order should disclose the reasons for dispensing with the inquiry.

17. In the judgment in Tarsem Singh v. State of Punjab [Tarsem Singh v. State of Punjab, (2006) 13 SCC 581 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 140] , this Court has categorically held that when the Authority is of the opinion that it is not reasonably practicable to hold inquiry, such finding shall be recorded on the subjective satisfaction by the authority, and same must be based on the objective criteria. In the aforesaid case, it is further held that reasons for dispensing with the inquiry must be supported by material."

28. Whatever that we have said above, may be at the cost of some repetition, points out that the impugned order in this case is one that carries wholesome reasons that weighed with the Disciplinary Authority to invoke Rule 39(ii) of the Rules and dispense with inquiry on ground of the impracticability of it. For the said reason, the principle in Paragraph No.14 of the report in Ram Bahadur Yadav does not come to the petitioner's rescue at all. We have also indicated that there was objective material available with the Disciplinary Authority in the form of the FIR, the circumstances of arrest of a member of the CISF along with some men from the public, engaged in smuggling activities, the material about the petitioner's involvement collected during police investigation, and above all, the disinclination of members of the CISF available on the Unit to testify against the petitioner, on the foot of which, a subjective satisfaction was formed by the Disciplinary Authority to dispense with inquiry. For this reason, the principle in Paragraph No.17 of the report in Ram Bahadur Yadav would also not avail the petitioner.

29. In the totality of circumstances, this Court does not find any good ground to interfere with the impugned orders in the exercise of our jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution.

30. This petition fails and is dismissed.

31. There shall be no order as to costs.

Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings – Procedural Fairness – Petitioner, an Office Assistant-II with Paschimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, challenged his dismissal from service for manipulating billing data, alleging procedural lapses under the U.P. Power Corporation Limited Employees (Discipline and Appeal) Regulations, 2020 – Held, the Inquiry Officer failed to require the Establishment to prove charges through oral evidence, relying solely on documentary evidence without examining witnesses – This violated the mandatory requirement under Regulation 7 and principles of natural justice, as the Establishment must prove charges by leading oral and documentary evidence in the first instance – Impugned orders dated 26.08.2020, 29.04.2021, and 13.04.2023 quashed. (Paras 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 24, 26)

Service Law – Burden of Proof in Disciplinary Inquiries – The petitioner denied the charges and raised specific defenses, requiring the Establishment to prove allegations through evidence – Held, the Inquiry Officer's failure to act as an impartial quasi-judicial authority and the absence of oral evidence rendered the inquiry flawed – As per St. of U.P. Vs Saroj Kumar Sinha and Roop Singh Negi Vs Punjab National Bank , the Establishment bears the initial burden to prove charges, and documents alone cannot be treated as proof without formal evidence – The Corporation's admission of procedural flaws via Office Memorandum dated 14.08.2023 reinforced the violation. (Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

The petitioner, an Office Assistant-II in the employ of the Paschimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, is aggrieved by his dismissal from service, after disciplinary proceedings taken against him and affirmation of that order in departmental appeal and revision.

2. The petitioner was an Office Assistant-II in the Office of the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division, Amroha, Paschimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, 33/11, K.V. sub-station, Collectorate, Joya Road, Amroha, District Amroha. He was suspended from service pending inquiry vide order dated 15.06.2018 passed by the Superintending Engineer aforesaid. The Managing Director, Paschimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited1 vide order dated 14.08.2018, appointed one V.K. Pandey as the Inquiry Officer to hold a departmental inquiry. The said order was served upon the petitioner. The Inquiry Officer issued a charge-sheet dated 24.08.2018 to the petitioner, carrying seven charges.

3. The petitioner submitted his reply to the charge-sheet dated 29.11.2018, traversing the charges. It is the petitioner's case that he was summoned by the Inquiry Officer for a personal hearing on 12.12.2018, but no witnesses were produced or examined on behalf of the Establishment to prove the charges, in compliance with Rule 7 of the U.P. Government Servants (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, nor any oral inquiry held. An inquiry report dated 28.06.2019 was submitted by the Inquiry Officer to the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation. A copy of the inquiry report was served upon the petitioner along with a letter dated 18.02.2020. It was served on 29.02.2020. The petitioner showed cause by his reply dated 04.06.2020, disputing the findings of the inquiry report. The Superintending Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division, Amroha, by his order dated 14.08.2020, passed an order, adjudging a miscellaneous advance against the petitioner to the tune of ₹36,67,357.32 on account of causing loss to the Distribution Corporation. This sum of money adjudged was directed to be recovered from the petitioner, about which he says he was not given opportunity.

4. Subsequently, the Disciplinary Authority, as the petitioner says, without considering the petitioner's reply in the rightful perspective and without requiring the charges to be proved, according to the procedure prescribed by law, held the petitioner guilty and dismissed him from service vide order dated 26.08.2020. The Disciplinary Authority was the Superintending Engineer, Paschimanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Electricity Distribution Division, Amroha, respondent No. 4 to the writ petition. He shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the Disciplinary Authority'.

5. Aggrieved by the order of dismissal, the petitioner preferred an appeal to the Chief Engineer of the Distribution Corporation, respondent No. 3. He shall hereinafter be referred to as 'the Appellate Authority'. The appeal was preferred vide memorandum of appeal as aforesaid, dated 22.12.2020, and amended vide memorandum dated 06.04.2021. The Appellate Authority dismissed the appeal by his order dated 29.04.2021 made in exercise of powers under Section 11 of the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited Employees (Discipline and Appeal) Regulations, 20202.

6. The unsuccessful petitioner preferred a revision to the Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited against the order of the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority dated 06.04.2021 and 29.04.2021, respectively, under Regulation 13 of the Regulations of 2020. The aforesaid revision was preferred vide memorandum of revision dated 04.06.2021. This revision was not decided by the Chairman of the Corporation, despite lapse of more than a year and a quarter.

7. The petitioner, aggrieved by the inaction, instituted Writ - A No. 16731 of 2022, Sumant Kumar v. U.P. Power Corporation Limited and others, seeking a direction to the Chairman of the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited3 to decide his revision. This Court vide order dated 14.11.2022 disposed of the aforesaid writ petition with a direction to the Revisional Authority to decide the petitioner's revision and pass a reasoned and speaking order, as expeditiously as possible, and within a period of three months from the date of a copy of that order was produced before the Authority.

8. The Revisional Authority, in compliance with the order dated 14.11.2022, passed in the writ petition last mentioned, proceeded to decide the petitioner's revision and rejected the same by an order dated 13.04.2023, as the petitioner says, without considering the grounds or examining the issues raised in the rightful perspective. It is the petitioner's case pleaded in the writ petition, in paragraph Nos. 9, 20, 33, 34 and 36 that the Inquiry Officer, in holding the inquiry, leading to the findings of guilt on all the seven charges, did so without requiring the Establishment to prove those charges by producing evidence in support thereof in the first instance, particularly oral evidence, that is to say, witnesses.

9. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of all the respondents by Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel. In paragraph No. 4 of the counter affidavit, there is a wholesome denial of the averments made in paragraph Nos. 11 to 47 of the writ petition in an omnibus fashion. The same paragraph then proceeds to raise specific pleas of denial or confession and avoidance in the various sub-paragraphs of Paragraph No. 4. Sub-paragraphs (vi) and (vii) are of particular importance, as these are directed at answering the allegation of the petitioner about that procedural lapse of a salutary procedure, where, according to the petitioner, the Establishment was required to produce evidence before the Inquiry Officer in support of the charges, particularly, oral evidence, that is to say, witnesses, to prove these in the first instance. Paragraph Nos. 4 (vi) and 4 (vii) read:

vi. Further after giving due opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and on the basis of material evidence on record, the enquiry committee has submitted his report and during the course of departmental enquiry, the petitioner has not disputed about the genuineness of any of the documents provided to the petitioner during the course of enquiry nor he had shown any interest in asking the department to produce any witness for examination/cross examination, therefore, once the employee has duly participated in the departmental enquiry and has admitted the evidence on record, therefore, it cannot be said that any prejudice is caused to him in not examining any witness by the department and if we go by the plain reading of the Regulation 7 of the 2020 Regulation it only says, in Regulation 7(5) that, along with the chargesheet the copy of the documents and list of witnesses should be provided to the employee and Regulation 7(7) provides that, in case the employee refuses the charges, the enquiry committee should call the proposed witnesses to record their evidence whose names are mentioned in the chargesheet and in the present case, if names of no one are mentioned in the chargesheet then the enquiry committee cannot be said to have committed any mistake in not examining any witness. Further Regulation 7(8) provides that, an enquiry committee can ask any witness to appear before it and provide any document and Regulation 7 (9) says, the enquiry committee can ask any question- to the witness to find out the true facts, herefore, from the bare perusal of the Regulations, 2020 cannot be said that the enquiry committee has committed any error, which has caused prejudice to the petitioner, who has been given full opportunity of oral hearing along with option to examine any witness or dispute the admissibility of any documents, and once the employee has not disputed about the genuineness and admissibility of the documents, taking into consideration by the enquiry committee, it cannot be said that the enquiry was not proper.

vii. Further from perusal of the record it is evident that no witness was proposed either in the charge sheet or any witness was named by the petitioner to examine during the departmental enquiry, therefore, no witness was examined by the Corporation to prove the charges during the course of departmental enquiry in the present case. Further to remove all these anomalies an Office Memorandum dated 14.8.2023 has been issued wherein it has been directed to all the authorities of the Corporation and the DISCOMS holding enquiry that they should strictly adhere to the provisions of Rule 7 of the Regulations 2020 and during the departmental enquiry they must first examine the officers on behalf of the Corporation to prove the charges and only thereafter they should provide opportunity to the employees to either cross examine them or to produce any witness on behalf of his defense.

10. Since the learned Counsel for the petitioner has waived his right to file a rejoinder affidavit, the petition was heard and judgment reserved.

11. Heard Mr. Manu Mishra, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing for the respondents.

12. A perusal of the charge-sheet shows that the charges run into technical details of billing various consumers by altering their supply type, say, to Supply Type 20 from Supply Type 22, and, on that basis, recording the reading in the computer system in the KWH system, instead of the KVAH system, leading to a lesser bill for the consumer. The allegations mentioned, which are illustratively based on Charge No. 1, are that, later on, the petitioner, using his User ID "SUMANT" on 17.03.2016, changed the data fed in the computer to the appropriate Supply Type 22 for a particular consumer, Sujit Gupta. Still later, on 29.03.2016, the data was again changed from Supply Type 22 to Supply Type 20. Once again, on 30.06.2016, it was altered back to Supply Type 22 from Supply Type 20. All this while, bills were drawn for the consumer in the KWH system, leading to a loss of revenue to the Corporation. The charge finally imputes that it appears that the petitioner did not want the customer to be billed in Supply Type 22 under the KVAH system, and, at the same time, in the master data, wanted it shown that he was being billed in Supply Type 22 (KVAH system) and therefore, the petitioner, in an organised manner, repeatedly, just before the bill was to be issued, ensured that the supply type was changed to S.T. 20 and the consumer billed under the KWH system, but before the master data could be issued, altered it back to Supply Type 22.

13. The first charge further goes on to say that the petitioner ensured that for this customer's present meter bearing No. 785615, the reading on 28.04.2018, was entered as 4601 KWH, using his User ID "SUMANT" and before this reading, the average consumption was 920 per month, but on 12.06.2018, the reading showed 10679 KWH. If the premises of the customer were not inspected and this reading taken, in the event of the meter going faulty, the earlier readings fed into the computer system would have to be accepted. An imputation has been made on the basis of these facts that the petitioner deliberately entered short meter readings for his own gain and to cause loss of revenue to the Corporation. In support of this charge, there is a printout of the computer log and the system date-wise, when the supply type was changed, using the petitioner's user ID.

14. This Court must remark that the charge itself is a big jumble up of money transactions and reads more like a statement of imputation, regarding which, one would expect a more concise charge elsewhere. It is true that all that is required about a valid charge in disciplinary proceedings is that it must, in intelligible and clear terms, convey to the delinquent what the allegations against him are, but, at the same time, in order that the charge be intelligible, it ought to be concise, so as not to make the understanding of its terms hazy. If there are many particulars to the charge, running into minute details, the sound practice in departmental proceedings is to draw up a concise charge, not carrying all those details and supported by a separate statement of imputations. The other six charges described in the charge-sheet are far more detailed and, for instance, the second charge does not relate to just one consumer. It relates to at least five of them. It also runs into minute details and is, again, about manipulating the data in the computer to feed a negative reading relating to consumers.

15. This Court has looked into one charge not for the purpose of analysing it or pronouncing upon it, but, to fathom, by what kind of evidence, it would have to be proved by the Establishment, given the fact that the petitioner has denied all the charges and come up with specific defences, refuting them. It is not a case where the petitioner has admitted any of the charges or the documents as a true computer output of what the petitioner fed into the computer, while being in its charge. There are rather defences, again, illustratively of the kind noted below, pleaded by the petitioner in his reply (translated into English from Hindi) :

(1) It is true that User ID "SUMANT" which was provided to me by the Executive Engineer, Vidyut Vitran Khand, Gajraula, was used in my routine billing work, but for some contingent work, the Executive Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division-I, Gajraula got my User ID "SUMANT" provided to Sri Munna Lal, Office Assistant-II/Senior Contract Clerk for the purpose of doing the left out ledgerisation work relating to electricity connections. It is to be brought to notice that the Chief Engineer of the Corporation, Moradabad Region did an inspection on 02.12.2017 in the evening hours, by inspecting the Electricity Distribution Division, Gajraula, during which, he checked the private tubewell and industrial/commercial connection contract book. In that connection, the Chief Engineer of the Corporation for the Moradabad Region, by his letter No. 21381 मुअमु क्षेत्र/वा०/निरिक्षण दिनांक 05.12.2017 issued a warning about non-ledgerisation of electricity connections to Executive Engineer. It was for the said reason that I was required to provide my user ID to Sri Munna Lal, Office Assistant-II, Contract Clerk on the oral directions of the then Executive Engineer, provided to him in the interest of the Corporation and its work.

(2) The aforesaid ledgerisation work was to be done by Sri Munna Lal, Office Assistant-II, Contract Clerk, and for that lapse, the petitioner cannot be held guilty, because the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, by their letter No. 87 प्रसू - 01 पाकाली/2002-20-प्र०से०/2000 dated 25.02.2002 (Annexures 2, 3 and 4) defines the duties and responsibilities of employees and officers as per annexure, where the chief responsibility about ledgerisation and first bill issue rests with the Senior Contract Clerk/Accountant (Revenue)/Assistant Engineer (Revenue)/Executive Engineer.

(3) On my counter, the billing for consumers above 10 kilowatts was done, which I was doing quite well, but on account of billing agency making a mistake, billing consumers of the rural areas, according to the urban system in the HCL system, some consumers were affected. As a result, the revenues were also being affected, due to which, the Executive Engineer, Sri Gulshan Goyal, orally directed that these consumers (rural areas) be appropriately billed in the HCL system, and for the purpose, the HCL system billing company representative be provided the user ID, so that the bill is rectified at the earliest. Acting on the aforesaid orders of the Executive Engineer, the HCL Billing Company Limited representative was provided with my user ID, who rectified the bills of these consumers, wherein, any anomalies, if committed, are not my responsibility, though the anomalies arising in the bills of these consumers (upon rectification) were corrected by me within time, details whereof are furnished in answer to the subsequent charges.

16. Now, in the face of this kind of a defence, which is very detailed in answer to each charge, it was incumbent, by salutary principle for the Corporation, to have established their charges before the Inquiry Officer by leading evidence through a

Presenting Officer, both documentary and oral. It is a settled principle of salutary procedure concerning departmental proceedings, where there is likelihood of imposition of a major penalty, which, in this case, was actually imposed, that the Establishment must prove the charges before the Inquiry Officer by leading evidence in the first instance. The Inquiry Officer is not to identify himself with the Establishment, even if an officer of the same Establishment. He must act as an impartial arbiter, distancing himself from the Establishment for the purpose of holding a departmental inquiry. It is the burden of the Establishment to prove the charges that they have brought against the delinquent in the first instance, by leading both documentary and oral evidence. It is also an imperative by principles of salutary procedure that oral evidence in support of charges must be led by the Establishment. It is after the evidence is led by the Establishment that the employee is to be given the opportunity to cross-examine witnesses, who were produced on behalf of the Establishment to prove various documents, or for any other purpose. It is to be emphasized that the documents annexed to the charges are not to be treated by the Inquiry Officer as proof of themselves. These are required to be proved by the Presenting Officer through evidence led on behalf of the Establishment; else, these documents are nothing but idle papers, on the basis of which, no inference can be drawn against an employee.

17. This Court notices the fact that in paragraph No. 4 (vii) of the counter affidavit, it has been admitted for a fact that no witness was examined by the Corporation to prove the charges during the course of departmental inquiry. It is also admitted that to remove all these anomalies, an Office Memorandum dated 04.08.2023 has been issued, wherein, all the Distribution Corporations holding inquiries have been directed to adhere strictly to the provisions of Regulation 7 of the Regulations of 2020. It is also pleaded that sub-paragraph (vii) of paragraph No. 4 of the Memorandum dated 14.08.2023 directs that in the holding of such departmental inquiries, the Corporations must first examine officers on their own behalf to prove the charges, and only thereafter, they should provide opportunity to the employees to either cross-examine their witnesses or produce any witnesses in their defence. The Corporation, in the counter affidavit, virtually admit the procedural flaw in this inquiry, where, the Establishment/Corporation have not proved the charges by leading oral evidence in support of the same.

18. For the legal proposition, that it is imperative in a departmental inquiry, leading to the imposition of a major penalty for the Establishment to examine witnesses or lead oral evidence, reference may be made to the case of State of U.P. and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha4 where it has been held by the Supreme Court :

27. A bare perusal of the aforesaid sub-rule shows that when the respondent had failed to submit the explanation to the charge-sheet it was incumbent upon the inquiry officer to fix a date for his appearance in the inquiry. It is only in a case when the government servant despite notice of the date fixed failed to appear that the inquiry officer can proceed with the inquiry ex parte. Even in such circumstances it is incumbent on the inquiry officer to record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet. Since the government servant is absent, he would clearly lose the benefit of cross-examination of the witnesses. But nonetheless in order to establish the charges the Department is required to produce the necessary evidence before the inquiry officer. This is so as to avoid the charge that the inquiry officer has acted as a prosecutor as well as a judge.

28. An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/disciplinary authority/Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents.

19. To like effect is the exposition of the law in Roop Singh Negi5 where it has been held :

14. Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence.

20. The necessary steps and the manner in which a departmental inquiry is to be conducted, have been authoritatively laid down in State of Uttaranchal and others v. Kharak Singh6. In Khadak Singh (supra) the following principles have been culled out :

15. From the above decisions, the following principles would emerge:

(i) The enquiries must be conducted bona fide and care must be taken to see that the enquiries do not become empty formalities.

(ii) If an officer is a witness to any of the incidents which is the subject-matter of the enquiry or if the enquiry was initiated on a report of an officer, then in all fairness he should not be the enquiry officer. If the said position becomes known after the appointment of the enquiry officer, during the enquiry, steps should be taken to see that the task of holding an enquiry is assigned to some other officer.

(iii) In an enquiry, the employer/department should take steps first to lead evidence against the workman/delinquent charged and give an opportunity to him to cross-examine the witnesses of the employer. Only thereafter, the workman/delinquent be asked whether he wants to lead any evidence and asked to give any explanation about the evidence led against him.

(iv) On receipt of the enquiry report, before proceeding further, it is incumbent on the part of the disciplinary/punishing authority to supply a copy of the enquiry report and all connected materials relied on by the enquiry officer to enable him to offer his views, if any.

(emphasis by Court)

21. The salutary principle, mandating the employer to prove the charges by examining witnesses was held to be mandatory in all cases, where, a major penalty was imposed, by a Division Bench of this Court State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another7. In Kishori Lal (supra) it was observed by their Lordships of the Division Bench :

13. Similar view was taken in Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank, (2009) 2 SCC 570 :

"Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

14. Now coming to the question, what is the effect of non-holding of domestic/oral inquiry, in a case where the inquiry officer is appointed, oral inquiry is mandatory. The charges are not deemed to be proved suo motu merely on account of levelling them by means of the charge-sheet unless the same are proved by the department before the inquiry officer and only thereafter it is the turn of delinquent employee to place his defence. Holding oral enquiry is mandatory before imposing a major penalty, as held by Apex Court in State of U.P. and another v. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541."

15. In another case in Subhash Chandra Gupta v. State of U.P., 2012(4) ADJ 4 (NOC), the Division Bench of this Court after survey of law on this issue observed as under:

"It is well-settled that when the statute provides to do a thing in a particular manner that thing has to be done in that very manner. We are of the considered opinion that any punishment awarded on the basis of an enquiry not conducted in accordance with the enquiry rules meant for that very purposes is unsustainable in the eye of law. We are further of the view that the procedure prescribed under the inquiry rules for imposing major penalty is mandatory in nature and unless those procedures are followed, any out come inferred thereon will be of no avail unless the charges are so glaring and unrefutable which does not require any proof. The view taken by us find support from the judgement of the Apex Court in State of U.P. and another v. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541."

16. A Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari v. State of U.P. and others, 2008(3) ESC 1667, held that non holding of oral inquiry is a serious flaw which can vitiate the order of disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment has observed as under:

" 10..... Non holding of oral inquiry in such a case, is a serious matter and goes to the root of the case.

11.A Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541, considering the question as to whether holding of an oral inquiry is necessary or not, held that if no oral inquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee. The aforesaid view was reiterated in Subash Chandra Sharma v. U.P.Cooperative Spinning Mills and others, 2001 (2) UPLBEC 1475 and Laturi Singh v. U.P.Public Service Tribunal and others, Writ Petition No. 12939 of 2001, decided on 6.5.2005."

17. Even if the employee refuses to participate in the enquiry the employer cannot straightaway dismiss him, but he must hold and ex parte enquiry where evidence must be led vide Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348, Uma Shankar v. Registrar, 1992 (65) FLR 674 (All).

18. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mahesh Narain Gupta v. State of U.P. and others, (2011) 2 ILR 570, had also occasion to deal with the same issue. It held:

"At this stage, we are to observe that in the disciplinary proceedings against a delinquent, the department is just like a plaintiff and initial burden lies on the department to prove the charges which can certainly be proved only by collecting some oral evidence or documentary evidence, in presence and notice charged employee. Even if the department is to rely its own record/document which are already available, then also the enquiry officer by looking into them and by assigning his own reason after analysis, will have to record a finding that hose documents are sufficient enough to prove the charges. In no case, approach of the Enquiry Officer that as no reply has been submitted, the charge will have to be automatically proved can be approved. This will be erroneous. It has been repeatedly said that disciplinary authority has a right to proceed against delinquent employee in ex parte manner but some evidence will have to be collected and justification to sustain the charges will have to be stated in detail. The approach of the enquiry officer of automatic prove of charges on account of non filing of reply is clearly misconceived and erroneous. This is against the principle of natural justice, fair play, fair hearing and, thus, enquiry officer has to be cautioned in this respect."

19. The principal of law which emanates from the above judgments are that initial burden is on the department to prove the charges. In case of procedure adopted for inflicting major penalty, the department must prove the charges by oral evidence also.

20. From perusal of enquiry report it is demonstrably proved that no oral evidence has been led by the department. When a major punishment is proposed to be passed the department has to prove the charges against the delinquent/employee by examining the witnesses and by documentary evidence. In the present case no witness was examined by the department neither any officer has been examined to prove the documents on the basis of which charges are levelled on the claimant in the proceedings.

21. It is trite law that the departmental proceedings are quasi judicial proceedings. The Inquiry Officer functions as quasi judicial officer. He is not merely a representative of the department. He has to act as an independent and impartial officer to find out the truth. The major punishment awarded to an employee visit serious civil consequences and as such the departmental proceedings ought to be in conformity with the principles of natural justice.

22. Even if, an employee prefers not to participate in enquiry the department has to establish the charges against the employee by adducing oral as well as documentary evidence. In case charges warrant major punishment then the oral evidence by producing the witnesses is necessary.

22. To like effect is the holding in three other Bench decisions of this Court, that is to say, State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another8, Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P.9 and Kaptan Singh v. State of U.P. and another10.

23. I also had occasion to consider the issue and opine to like effect in Prem Narain Singh v. State of U.P. and another11, Pankaj Kumar Sharma v. State of U.P. and others12 and Vinod Kumar v. State of U.P. and others13.

24. The principle is far too well settled to brook doubt that as a part of salutary procedure in holding departmental proceedings, involving imposition of a major penalty, no valid proceedings can be taken without the Establishment proving the charges by oral evidence in the first instance, that is to say, by examining witnesses, apart from leading documentary evidence. Also, the Inquiry Officer cannot function in the fashion of an ordinary departmental functionary, but must convene himself like a Inquiry Tribunal, detaching himself from his routine employment. It is then that the Establishment have to prove the charges in the manner indicated before him by their evidence in the first instance. The only exception may be those cases, where, the delinquent admits the charges or admits certain documents expressly, either by endorsement made on the face of the documents or the admission being recorded in the order-sheet of the day, duly signed by the delinquent, apart from the other functionaries holding the inquiry. There is nothing of this kind here. Rather, the nature of the charges, and more than that, the nature of the defence, would show that the Establishment bear all the burden to lead evidence in the prescribed manner to establish the charges in the first instance.

25. To all this, this Court may add the remark that the seriousness or enormity of the charge does not license the employer to jump to conclusions. The more serious the charge, the more serious the consequence for the employee that are likely to ensue, in the event of its proof, and, the more strict, therefore, would be the requirement of procedural fairness in the departmental inquiry, where, the inquiry must proceed according to salutary and settled principles of holding a fair inquiry, which requires the Establishment to discharge their burden in the first instance, by leading evidence, with due opportunity to the delinquent.

26. In the circumstances, the writ petition stands allowed in part. The impugned orders dated 26.08.2020, 29.04.2021 and 13.04.2023 passed by the Disciplinary Authority, the Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority, respectively, are hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the respondents to reinstate the petitioner in service forthwith and pay his current salary.

27. It will, however, be open to the respondents to proceed afresh against the petitioner from the stage of the charge-sheet, holding inquiry de novo in accordance with law and the guidance in this judgment. It will also be open to the respondents, if they so think fit, to place the petitioner under suspension pending inquiry, immediately after his reinstatement and conclude the inquiry expeditiously. If the respondents elect to place the petitioner under suspension, they will pay the petitioner subsistence allowance regularly, and without fail. If the respondents elect to undertake the inquiry proceedings afresh, but not place the petitioner under suspension and assign him duties at whatever station they desire, the petitioner shall be paid his current salary with effect from the date of his reinstatement. In either event, the entitlement of the petitioner to consequential benefits of arrears etc. shall abide by the outcome of the disciplinary proceedings and the orders made therein.

28. There shall be no order as to costs.

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Amit Kumar Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Ashish Kumar (Nagvanshi)

Service Law – Compassionate Appointment – Eligibility under U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 – Petitioner, a permanently disabled unmarried daughter of a deceased Head Master, challenged the rejection of her compassionate appointment application on the ground that her brother was employed in government service – Held, the District Basic Education Officer's rejection order dated 26.12.2022 was unsustainable as it incorrectly assumed financial stability of the deceased's family based on the brother's employment – The Rules of 1974, as amended in 1999, only prohibit compassionate appointment if the surviving spouse is in government service, not if another family member like a son is employed – No evidence showed the brother's earnings supported the family, especially as he resided separately, as per his affidavit. (Paras 6, 14, 15, 16, 17)

B. Service Law – Interpretation of Rules of 1974 – Financial Dependency – The District Basic Education Officer rejected the petitioner's application assuming the family was not in financial stress due to her brother's government job – Held, the amended Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 does not bar compassionate appointment for dependent family members when a son is employed, as his earnings may be utilized for his own family and not the deceased's dependents – The rejection order lacked material evidence to support the finding of financial sufficiency, rendering it contrary to the Rules of 1974 and the Government Order dated 04.09.2000. (Paras 8, 9, 15, 16)

C. Service Law – Remittance for Fresh Consideration – The Court quashed the rejection order dated 26.12.2022 for being legally unsustainable – Held, the matter is remitted to the District Basic Education Officer to reconsider the petitioner's compassionate appointment application in light of the correct interpretation of the Rules of 1974, ensuring compliance with principles of fairness and the absence of prohibition against appointment when a sibling is employed – Fresh order to be passed within two months. (Para 17)

Writ Petition Allowed .

Order Dated 26.12.2022 Quashed – Matter Remitted for Fresh Consideration.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manjive Shukla, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 1 and 2 as well as Mr. Ashish Kumar Nagvanshi, learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 3 & 4.

2. Petitioner through this writ petition has challenged the order dated 26.12.2022 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur, whereby petitioner's application for her compassionate appointment has been rejected.

3. Facts of the case, in brief, are that father of the petitioner while working on the post of Head Master at Primary School Manikapur, Block Belghat District Gorakhpur, died in harness on 07.12.2019. On the date of death of petitioner's father, there remained widow (mother of the petitioner), two unmarried sons and unmarried daughter in the family. Petitioner is permanently disabled and her disability has been quantified to the tune of 75% and further she has been completely dependent on the earnings of her father.

4. Petitioner's elder brother Mr. Deepak Kumar is a government servant in the Provincial Armed Constabulary (PAC) of U.P. and is posted at District Jaunpur. Mr. Deepak Kumar along with his family is residing at District Jaunpur.

5. Petitioner after the death of her father submitted application for her compassionate appointment and along with the said application, she also filed an affidavit given by her elder brother, wherein he has categorically stated that he is in government job but is residing separately from his parents and he has no objection if the compassionate appointment in lieu of death of his father is offered to the petitioner.

6. The District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur has rejected the application of the petitioner for her compassionate appointment vide order dated 26.12.2022. The ground for rejection of the petitioner's application for compassionate appointment is that the eldest son of late Indra Dev (father of the petitioner) is employed in the Provincial Armed Constabulary (PAC) of the State of U.P. and therefore, there is no financial stress with the family of late Indra Dev and further since eldest son of the deceased teacher is employed with the State Government, the compassionate appointment of the member of the family is not permissible under U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servant Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules of 1974").

7. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has submitted that petitioner's brother in his affidavit filed before the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur has categorically stated that though he is employed but is residing separately from his parents therefore, there was no material available with the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur to infer that the petitioner's brother is providing sufficient financial support to the family of late Indra Dev (deceased teacher).

8. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has also submitted that the legislature while making amendment in the Rules of 1974 by promulgating Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servant Dying in Harness (Fifth) Amendment Rules, 1999, was conscious of the fact that even if one son of the deceased government servant is in employment, that cannot be a reason for denying the compassionate appointment to other son or daughter (as the case may be) as the earnings of the employed son may be utilized for his family alone and may not be available for the sustenance of the remaining family of the deceased government servant therefore, only one exception has been carved out and it has been provided that where surviving spouse of deceased government servant is in government job, compassionate appointment shall not be offered to any other family member of the deceased government servant.

9. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has argued that once there is no such prohibition either under the Rules of 1974 or under the Government order dated 04.09.2000 that if one son or daughter is in government job, the compassionate appointment shall not be given to other son or daughter (as the case may be) dependent on the deceased government servant therefore, apparently order dated 26.12.2022 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur is against the spirit of the Rules of 1974 and the Government order dated 04.09.2000 and accordingly cannot sustain in the eyes of law.

10. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has also vehemently argued that once brother of the petitioner Mr. Deepak Kumar has given affidavit before the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur categorically mentioning therein that he is residing separately from his parents therefore, unless there was sufficient evidence, there was no occasion for the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur to reject petitioner's application for compassionate appointment on the ground that brother's income is being utilized for sustenance of the family of late Indra Dev (deceased teacher) accordingly, order dated 26.12.2022 cannot sustain in the eyes of law.

11. Per contra, Mr. Ashish Kumar Nagvanshi, learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No.3 and 4 has contended that the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur has considered the entire matter and has found that on the date of death of petitioner's father, her brother was in government job and therefore, surviving family of late Indra Dev (deceased teacher) was not in financial stress and accordingly petitioner's case for compassionate appointment has been rejected vide order dated 26.12.2022.

12. Mr. Ashish Kumar (Nagvanshi), learned counsel appearing for the Respondent Nos. 3 & 4 has vehemently argued that the Rules of 1974 have been amended in the year 1999 and it has been provided that if the surviving spouse of the deceased government servant is in government job, then the other family members dependent on the deceased government servant shall not be entitled for compassionate appointment and therefore, the spirit of the Rules of 1974 and the Government order dated 04.09.2000 is apparent that if any member of the family is in government job then the family of the deceased government servant shall not be in financial stress and accordingly the other dependent family members cannot claim compassionate appointment.

13. Mr. Ashish Kumar Nagvanshi, learned counsel appearing for the Respondent Nos. 3 & 4 has thus concluded his arguments by submitting that the compassionate appointment cannot be claimed as a matter of right and in the present case, the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur has considered the entire material available on record and has recorded a finding that the surviving family of the deceased teacher is not in financial stress and thus has rejected the petitioner's case for compassionate appointment vide order dated 26.12.2022 therefore, the order dated 26.12.2022 does not call for any interference by this Court and the writ petition filed by the petitioner is liable to be dismissed.

14. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsels appearing for the parties and I find that the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur has rejected the petitioner's case for compassionate appointment on following two grounds :

(i) Petitioner's brother is in government job and therefore, she is not entitled for compassionate appointment under the Rules of 1974.

(ii) Since petitioner's brother was in government job on the date of death of her father and he was unmarried therefore, his earnings were sufficient for sustenance of the surviving family.

15. For arriving at a correct conclusion in this matter, it is necessary to have a brief look over the provisions made for compassionate appointment in the Rules of 1974. Unamended Rule 5 (1) of the Rules of 1974 reads as under :-

"5. Recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased-(1) In case a Government servant dies in harness after the commencement of these rules, one member of his family who is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government shall on making an application for the purposes, be given a suitable employment in Government service on a post except the post which is within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission or which was previously within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission and has later on, been placed within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Subordinate Service Selection Commission in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules, if such person-

(1) fulfils the educational qualifications prescribed for the post,(ii) is otherwise qualified for Government service, and

(iii) makes the application for employment within five years from the date of the death of the Government servant:

Provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time-limit fixed for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner.

16. Later on, the aforesaid Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 has been amended by U.P. Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servant Dying in Harness (Fifth) Amendment Rules, 1999 and the amended Rule 5(1) reads as under :-

"5(1) Recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased. - (1) In case a Government servant dies in harness after the commencement of these rules and the spouse of the deceased Government servant is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State

Government, one member of his family who is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government shall, on making an application for the purposes, be given a suitable employment in Government service on a post except the post which is within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission, in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules, if such person-

(i) fulfils the educational qualifications prescribed for the post,

(ii) is otherwise qualified for Government service, and

(iii) makes the application for employment within five years from the date of the death of the Government servant:

Provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time limit fixed for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the recruitment as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner."

17. This Court finds that initially Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 provided for compassionate appointment to one family member dependent on the deceased government servant provided he is not in government job meaning thereby that there was only one condition where the compassionate appointment could have been refused i.e. person seeking compassionate appointment was already in government job. Later on, Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 has been amended in the year 1999 and amended Rule 5(1) provides that if the surviving spouse of the deceased government servant is in government job then the other family members dependent on the deceased government servant shall not be entitled for compassionate appointment.

15. This Court further finds that the legislature while amending Rule 5(1) of the Rules of 1974 was conscious of the fact that if one son of the deceased government servant is in government job, his earnings may not be available for survival of the remaining family members of the deceased government servant for the reason that the earnings of the son are meant for survival of his own family (his wife and children) and therefore only one prohibition has been incorporated that if the surviving spouse of the deceased government servant is in government job, the other dependent family members are not entitled for compassionate appointment.

16. This court is of the view that once there is no prohibition under the Rules of 1974 and the Government order dated 04.09.2000 wherein identical provision has been made for the compassionate appointment on the death of a teacher, that if one son of the deceased teacher is in government job, the other dependent family member of the deceased teacher is not entitled for compassionate appointment, there cannot be any occasion for the District Basic Education Officer, Gorkhpur to reject petitioner’s case for compassionate appointment on the ground that her brother is in government job. Petitioner’s brother has given his affidavit, wherein he has categorically stated that though he is in government job but is residing separately from his parents, therefore, unless there was some material before the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur, he could not have recorded a finding that since petitioner’s brother is in government job, his earnings are sufficient for sustenance of surviving family of the deceased teacher accordingly, order dated 26.12.2022 is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

17. In view of the aforesaid reasons, this writ petition is allowed. Order dated 26.12.2022 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur is quashed. Matter is remitted to Respondent No. 4 to consider the petitioner's matter afresh in the light of this order and to pass fresh order within a period of two months from the date of presentation of certified copy of this order.

Service Law – Compassionate Appointment – U.P. Government Order Dated 04.09.2000 – Petitioner challenged the rejection of her compassionate appointment application following the death of her mother-in-law, an Assistant Teacher, on 28.12.2017 – Held, the District Basic Education Officer's order dated 08.09.2023 rejecting the petitioner's application was valid, as her husband's prior application for compassionate appointment on a clerical post was registered but not fulfilled due to lack of vacancies within the five-year period prescribed under Clause 5 of the Government Order dated 04.09.2000 – His refusal to opt for a Class-IV post and the expiration of the five-year period led to the automatic rejection of his claim, precluding a second application by the petitioner. (Paras 5, 15, 16, 17, 18)

Service Law – Limitation on Successive Applications for Compassionate Appointment – The petitioner's husband applied for compassionate appointment on a clerical post, which was not granted due to unavailability of vacancies, and his claim lapsed after five years as per the Government Order dated 04.09.2000 – Held, there is no provision under the Government Order for a second application by another family member after the initial claim is extinguished – The petitioner's application, filed after her husband's death on 11.04.2023, was not maintainable, as successive applications for compassionate appointment are not permissible. (Paras 16, 17, 18)

Service Law – Non-Compliance with Court Orders and Financial Stress – The petitioner argued that her husband's application was not decided despite a court order dated 23.11.2022, and her family faced financial stress – Held, the respondents' failure to comply with the court order did not alter the fact that the husband's claim lapsed after five years due to non-availability of clerical posts and his refusal to opt for a Class-IV post – Compassionate appointment is not a matter of right, and the petitioner's claim could not be treated as a continuation of her husband's application – The rejection order dated 08.09.2023 was upheld as legally sound. (Paras 6, 7, 8, 16, 18)

Writ Petition Dismissed .

Order Dated 08.09.2023 Upheld.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manjive Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Kamal Kumar Kesherwani, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 1 to 3 and Mr. Rama Nand Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 4 & 5.

2. Petitioner through this writ petition has assailed the order dated 08.09.2023 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi whereby her claim for compassionate appointment has been rejected.

3. Facts of the case, in brief, are that mother-in-law of the petitioner while working on the post of Assistant Teacher in a Primary School at Jhansi died in harness on 28.12.2017. Petitioner's husband Mr. Prashant Sharma preferred an application on 12.03.2018 for his compassionate appointment on the post of Clerk in place of his mother. Application filed by Mr. Prashant Sharma for compassionate appointment on the post of Clerk remained pending with the respondents and during pendency of the application respondents required him to opt for appointment on a Class-IV post as vacant Class-III post was not available but he did not opt for appointment on Class-IV post.

4. Since the application for compassionate appointment on the post of Clerk submitted by the petitioner's husband remained pending with the respondents, he filed Writ-A No. 19207 of 2022 (Prashant Sharma Vs. State of U.P. & Ors) which was finally disposed of by this Court vide order dated 23.11.2022 whereby direction was issued to the Secretary, U.P. Basic Education Board, Prayagraj to decide his application dated 12.03.2018. The Secretary, U.P. Basic Education Board, Prayagraj did not take any decision pursuant to order dated 23.11.2022 passed by this Court in Writ-A No. 19207 of 2022 and in the meantime petitioner's husband Mr. Prashant Sharma died on 11.04.2023. After the death of her husband, petitioner filed an application on 23.05.2023 for her compassionate appointment in lieu of the death of her mother-in-law. Since the application filed by the petitioner was not decided, she filed Writ-A No. 10348 of 2023 which was disposed of by this Court vide order dated 14.07.2023 whereby direction was issued to the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi to consider and decide petitioner's application for compassionate appointment within a period of one month.

5. The District Basic Education Officer, in compliance of the order dated 14.07.2023 passed by this Court in Writ-A No. 10348 of 2023 has passed order on 08.09.2023, whereby application of the petitioner for her compassionate appointment has been rejected on the ground that petitioner's husband on the death of his mother filed application for his compassionate appointment on the post of Clerk and in view of the provisions made in Government order dated 04.09.2000, the said application was entered in the list of candidates seeking appointment on clerical post and since during five years due to non-availability of vacancy in the clerical cadre he could not be given appointment on clerical post, his application has been de-listed. In the order dated 08.09.2023 it has further been stated that during period of five years from the date of application of the petitioner's husband he was offered to opt for his compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post but he did not submit his option and continuously insisted for his appointment on a clerical post, therefore in view of the provisions made in the Government order dated 04.09.2000, his claim automatically came to an end after expiry of the period of five years from the date of his application and further since one application filed by petitioner's husband stood rejected and there is no provision for second application for compassionate appointment, therefore petitioner pursuant to her application cannot be provided compassionate appointment and accordingly her application stands rejected.

6. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has submitted that mother of the petitioner's husband died on 28.12.2017 and thereafter he filed application for compassionate appointment on 12.03.2018 but the said application was never decided by the respondents in spite of the categorical order passed by this Court on 23.11.2022 in Writ-A No. 19207 of 2022 and during the pendency of the said application petitioner's husband died therefore, petitioner's application for compassionate appointment should have been treated to be in continuity with the application filed by her husband and accordingly could not have been rejected. It has further been submitted that the provisions of the Government order dated 04.09.2000 only provide that application for compassionate appointment on the clerical post shall be entered in a list and appointment on the clerical posts will be provided on the criteria of first come first get against the available vacancies and after five years the application shall be de-listed but in no way the provisions of the Government order dated 04.09.2000 provide that the claim for compassionate appointment of a candidate shall automatically stand rejected on completion of period of five years, therefore the stand taken by the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi in his order dated 08.09.2023 is absolutely misconceived.

7. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has vehemently argued that the respondents deliberately did not comply the order dated 23.11.2022 passed by this Court in Writ-A No. 19207 of 2022 and in the meantime petitioner's husband died, therefore it is apparent that the application filed by the petitioner's husband for his compassionate appointment has not been decided till date as such the application of the petitioner for her compassionate appointment should have been treated to be in continuity with the application of her husband and could not have been rejected by the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi but in patent disregard to the order passed by this Court, petitioner's application for compassionate appointment has been rejected vide order dated 08.09.2023 on absolutely misconceived ground that the application filed by the petitioner's husband automatically stood rejected on completion of period of five years from the date of its filing.

8. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has also argued that petitioner's family is still under acute financial stress as after the death of her mother-in-law, her father-in-law and husband both have died and there is no one in the family who can provide financial support, therefore it is apparent that financial stress is continuing as on date accordingly, the application filed by the petitioner for her compassionate appointment should have been considered sympathetically but the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi without considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case has straight away rejected her case vide order date 08.09.2023.

9. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has thus concluded his arguments by submitting that the order dated 08.09.2023 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi cannot sustain in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed by this Court.

10. Per contra, Mr. Rama Nand Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 4 & 5 has argued that compassionate appointment to the dependent of a deceased teacher is provided in terms of the provisions made in the Government order dated 04.09.2000, wherein under Clause 5 it has been provided that where a candidate seeks compassionate appointment on a clerical post, his application shall be registered in the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post and appointment shall be given on the criteria of first come first get against the available vacancies and if during the period of five years, candidate is not given appointment due to non-availability of vacancy in the clerical cadre, his name shall be deleted from the said list with a further rider that if during the said five years if any candidate submits application for compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post then his application shall be considered for appointment on a Class-IV post. The mother-in-law of the petitioner died on 28.12.2017 and petitioner's husband applied for his compassionate appointment on a clerical post which was registered in the list of the candidates but due to non-availability of vacancy in the clerical cadre he could not be given compassionate appointment on the clerical post and the time period of five years completed, therefore his application stood automatically rejected. During the said period of five years, petitioner's husband was offered to opt for compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post but he did not opt and never applied for compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post and therefore, his claim automatically stood rejected on completion of the period of five years. Once the application for compassionate appointment filed by the petitioner's husband automatically stood rejected on completion of the period of five years, there is no provision for second application for compassionate appointment by any other family member as such petitioner's application for compassionate appointment has been rejected vide order dated 08.09.2023.

11. Mr. Rama Nand Pandey, learned counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 4 & 5 has thus concluded his arguments by submitting that the order dated 08.09.2023 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi does not suffer from any infirmity and writ petition filed by the petitioner is liable to be dismissed by this Court.

12. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsels appearing for the parties and I find that mother-in-law of the petitioner died on 28.12.2017 and thereafter petitioner's husband filed application for his compassionate appointment on a clerical post. Since the vacant clerical post was not available, his application was registered in the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post. Petitioner's husband was also offered to opt for available vacant Class-IV post vide letter dated 19.07.2018 but he did not opt for appointment on Class-IV post and continued to maintain his claim for compassionate appointment on a clerical post.

13. For arriving at conclusion, it is necessary to have a brief look of the provisions made in the Clause (5) of the Government order dated 04.09.2000, which is extracted as under :-

"(5) ऐसे मृतक आश्रित जो, सम्बन्धित कर्मचारी की मृत्यु के दिनांक को मृतक आश्रित के रूप में सेवायोजन के लिये न्यूनतम शैक्षिक अर्हता इण्टरमीडिएट अथवा उससे अधिक रखते हों और बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद के अधीन अधीनस्थ स्तरों पर लिपिक के

14. From perusal of Clause (5) of the Government order dated 04.09.2000 it becomes crystal clear that if a candidate is claiming for compassionate appointment on a clerical post and the vacancy is not available then his application shall be registered in the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post and from that list appointments shall be offered against available vacant clerical posts on the criteria of first come first get and further if during the period of five years from the date of such registration candidate could not get appointment on a clerical post then his application shall be removed from the said list. In Clause (5) of the Government order dated 04.09.2000 it has further been provided that during the period of five years it shall be open for the candidate to opt for his appointment on a Class-IV post and if the said option is submitted, then his claim shall be considered for appointment against a Class-IV post.

15. This court finds that the application for compassionate appointment submitted by the petitioner's husband was received in the office of the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi on 20.03.2018 and it was registered in the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post but petitioner's husband could not be offered compassionate appointment on a clerical post for want of vacancy and the period of five years completed, therefore as per provisions made in Government Order dated 04.09.2000, his name was removed from the list. This court further finds that during the period of five years petitioner's husband was offered to opt for compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post but he did not submit any such option and he continued to assert his claim for appointment on a clerical post.

16. Petitioner's husband without disclosing provisions made in Clause (5) of the Government order dated 04.09.2000 filed Writ-A No. 19207 of 2022 and this Court vide order dated 23.11.2022 directed the Secretary, U.P. Basic Education Board, Prayagraj to consider and decide his application dated 12.03.2018 and the said order was not complied with, but the fact remains that the petitioner's husband was claiming compassionate appointment on a clerical post and due to non-availability of vacancy he could not be given compassionate appointment and on completion of the period of five years his name was removed from the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post. The husband of the petitioner died on 11.04.2023 and thereafter petitioner filed application for her compassionate appointment on 23.05.2023 and the said application has been rejected by the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi vide order dated 08.09.2023 on the ground that petitioner's husband claimed his appointment on a clerical post and his application was registered in the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post and since during five years period he could not given appointment due to non-availability of vacancy of clerical post, his application automatically stood rejected and his name was removed from the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post. In the order dated 08.09.2023 the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi has also pointed out that petitioner's husband was offered to opt for compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post but he did not submit such option and continued to claim for compassionate appointment on clerical post which stood rejected on completion of period of five years.

17. Provisions made in the Government order dated 04.09.2000 are unambiguous and there is provision that if a candidate wants compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post, then his case can be considered for the said appointment but if he is insisting for appointment on a clerical post and vacancy is not available then his application shall be registered in the list of candidates seeking compassionate appointment on clerical post and the said claim will continue to exist for a period of five years and thereafter his name shall be removed from the list meaning thereby that his application for compassionate appointment on Class-III post shall automatically stand rejected. It is also worth consideration of this Court that the compassionate appointment cannot be claimed as a matter of right and once petitioner's husband was offered to opt for compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post and he continued to insist for his claim for appointment on a clerical post which came to end on expiry of the period of five years, the second application filed by the petitioner for her compassionate appointment after the death of her husband is not maintainable as there is no provision under the Government order dated 04.09.2000 for successive applications for compassionate appointment by more than one member of the family of the deceased teacher.

18. By now it is well setted proposition of law propounded through catena of judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court that in the matters of compassionate appointment, one cannot insist for his appointment on a particular post and therefore once petitioner's husband was offered appointment on a Class-IV post and he did not opt for that appointment, his claim for compassionate appointment ended and further in terms of Government order dated 04.09.2000 his claim for compassionate appointment on a clerical post ended on completion of period of five years from the date of registration of his application, therefore the second application filed by the petitioner for her compassionate appointment was not at all maintainable, as such the District Basic Education Officer, Jhansi while rejecting the petitioner's application vide order dated 08.09.2023 has not committed any illegality.

19. In view of the aforesaid reasons, this writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed.

Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings – Violation of Natural Justice – Petitioner, a Khalasi/Helper in Railways, challenged his removal from service for unauthorized absence (17.12.2007 to 02.09.2008), alleging non-compliance with Rule 9 of the Railway Servants (Disciplinary and Appeal) Rules, 1968 – Held, petitioner admitted the charge of unauthorized absence in his St.ment recorded on 15.06.2009, negating the need for further inquiry, witness examination, or cross-examination under Rule 9 – As admitted facts need not be proved, no violation of natural justice occurred – Tribunal's dismissal of the petitioner's original application upheld. (Paras 8, 17, 21, 24)

Service Law – Admission of Charges – Effect on Inquiry Procedure – Petitioner contended that the inquiry officer failed to follow Rules 9(14), 9(17), 9(22), and 9(25), including non-examination of witnesses and non-supply of the inquiry report – Held, the petitioner's admission of the charge of unauthorized absence in his St.ment dispensed with the need for further procedural steps, as per Clause 5 of the charge-sheet format – Impugned order confirmed supply of the inquiry report on 08.07.2009, which petitioner did not specifically deny – No procedural irregularity found in the inquiry process. (Paras 11, 12, 19, 21, 24)

Service Law – Proportionality of Punishment – Habitual Absenteeism – Petitioner argued that removal from service was disproportionate to the charge of unauthorized absence – Held, petitioner's habitual absenteeism (319 days in 2005, 44 days in 2006, 67 days in 2007, and 261 days in 2007-08, totaling over 600 days) justified the punishment of removal – Tribunal and disciplinary authority's findings, supported by petitioner's admission and lack of explanation, warranted no interference – Judgments cited by petitioner (U.O.I. Vs Dinanath Shantaram Karekar, St. of U.P. Vs Saroj Kumar Sinha, Krushnakant B. Parmar) held inapplicable due to petitioner's admission of charges. (Paras 22, 24, 25)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Donadi Ramesh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vinod Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Gopal Verma, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. Present petition has been filed aggrieved by the order of Central Administrative Tribunal Bench, Allahabad dated 05.04.2021 in Original Application No. 978 of 2010 (Mohammad Sabir Vs. U.O.I. and Others).

3. The petitioner has filed the original application assailing the order dated 1.4.2010 of the respondents herein. The petitioner while working on the post of Khalasi/Helper in Railways, the respondents have issued a memorandum of charge on 11.9.2008 proposing to initiate major penalty. Consequent on the said charge, an inquiry officer was appointed and the date 15.6.2009 was fixed for inquiry proceedings. On the said date, the petitioner appeared before the inquiry officer and the charge memo was read over to him and his statement was recorded. Thereafter, the inquiry report was submitted by the inquiry officer finding the petitioner guilty of the charges. Based on the above, the disciplinary authority have issued proceedings on 30.11.2009, imposing punishment on the petitioner of his removal from service.

4. Aggrieved by the said order, the petitioner preferred a department appeal on 9.12.2009, which was decided by the order dated 1.4.2010 recording a clear finding that the petitioner is a habitual of absenting himself unauthorizedly and he has absented himself by total number of 801 days unauthorizedly. Accordingly, the punishment was affirmed. Assailing the said orders, he preferred the original application before the Central Administrative Tribunal, Allahabad.

5. The petitioner has raised several grounds before the Tribunal mainly on the ground that Rule 9 of the Railway Servants (Disciplinary and Appeal) Rules, 1968 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Rules') have not been followed by the inquiry officer while conducting the inquiry. Though, the inquiry officer, Mr. Deena Nath Singh was appointed, but there is no mention as to who appointed Mr. Deena Nath Singh. No letter regarding appointment of inquiry officer was delivered to the petitioner. Based on the statement recorded on 15.6.2009, the inquiry officer has submitted the report on 22.6.2009, which is a non-speaking, vague and cryptic. No witness was examined during the inquiry proceedings. No documentary evidence was examined and the petitioner was not provided any opportunity to cross-examine any witness during the inquiry proceedings. Finally, the punishment order of removal from the service is harsh punishment and disproportionate to the charges leveled against the petitioner.

6. To support his contention, the petitioner has relied on the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases of Hardwari Lal Vs. State of U.P. and others decided on 27.10.1999, Union of India Vs. Mohd. Ramzan Khan, 1991 (1) SCC 588 and Ram Chander Vs. Union of India, SCC 1986 (3) 103.

7. Replying to the said averments/allegations, the respondents have filed counter affidavit by denying that the petitioner has been given proper opportunity of hearing during the inquiry proceedings and no violation of principles of natural justice is done and the petitioner was given ample time and opportunity to give reply to the charge-sheet, but he has not given any reply. Moreover, in his statement recorded before the inquiry officer, he has admitted the fact that he has gone out of station on 16.12.2007 without informing the senior officers and he had returned to his duty on 3.9.2008. To support his contentions, he mainly relied upon the statement recorded during the inquiry proceedings. The extracts of which is given below:

"आरोप- आप दि० 17.12.07 से 02.09.08 तक अनाधिकृत रूप से अनुपस्थित रहें इससे यह स्पष्ट होता है कि आपकी रूचि रेल सेवा में नहीं है। इस प्रकार आपने रेल सेवा आचार संहिता 1966 के नियम-3 के अपनियम I, II, III के अधिनियमों का उल्लंघन किया है।

1. नाम- मो० साबिर

बयान- मैं दिनांक 16.12.07 को रेस्ट में घर गया था कि देखा कि मेरी पत्नी की तबियत बहुत खराब है। उसका उपचार 14.12.07 से डॉ० ए०के० नारायन क्लीनिक चाकन्द बाजार गया (बिहार) में चल रहा है। यह हिस्टिरिया रोग से ग्रसित थी तथा पागलों जैसा व्यवहार कर रही थी। मेरे घर में कोई पुरुष सदस्य न होने के कारण मैं उसके उपचार कराने के बाद जब वह 31.08 को ठीक हुई तो मैं 03.09.08 को ड्यूटी हेतु आया। मैं इसकी सूचना करीब अनुभाग अभियंता (लोको)/मुगलसराय के पास दिनांक 01.06.08 को रजिस्टर्ड पत्र द्वारा दिया था।"

8. Based on the above facts, the Tribunal has framed the issue whether the inquiry proceedings have been vitiated due to the reason that several provisions of Rule 9 of the Rules, 1968 were not followed by the inquiry officer as quoted by the petitioner. Considering the above facts, the Tribunal has passed the following order:

"16. The applicant He has also admitted that he had left station without taking any leave. When he was asked that he is habitual of becoming absent unauthorizedly, he admitted this fact also, but stated that due to illness of his wife, he has to be absented repeatedly. He has also admitted the fact that he did not make any effort to consult any doctor of Railway hospital for treatment of his wife. Thus, a perusal of statement of the applicant clearly shows that he himself has admitted all the charges levelled against him.

17. The basic principle of law is that "facts admitted need not to be proved", The requirement to prove or examine any documentary or oral evidence, could have arisen in case the O.A. No.330/00978/2010 Page 8 of 8 applicant had not admitted the charges levelled against him. Therefore, if he was not given any opportunity to cross examine the witnesses or witness was not produced, it will not make any difference in view of his admission.

19. In view of the above, we do not find any illegality or irregularity in the enquiry proceedings. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for applicant are not applicable in the present case, because in the present case, the applicant himself has admitted the allegations that he had left the station without any leave application and he had informed the higher officer after 7 months from that. He has also admitted that he did not consult any doctor from Railway Hospital and he often use to become absent unauthorizedly without giving any information to the higher officer. Although, he has stated that he has to do all this, because of illness of his wife."

9. Aggrieved by the abovesaid order, present writ petition has been filed.

10. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner has contended that the Tribunal has failed to appreciate the legal contentions raised by the applicant therein, in fact, he has specifically contended that the respondents have not followed Rule 9 (9) (c), Rule 9 (13) (2) (I), Rule 9 (14), Rule 9 (17), Rule 9 (20), Rule 9 (22) and Rule 9 (25) .

11. As per the above quoted Rules, more specifically Rule 9(14) of the Rules, 1968 provides for fixing date in inquiry after one month from the date of nomination of an assisting railway servant and Rule 9 (17) provides for examination of witness and cross-examination by delinquent employee, but in the instant case, no witnesses were examined by the inquiry officer and no opportunity was given to the petitioner to cross-examine the witness. Hence, it vitiates the procedure contemplated in the above said Rules. Further, learned counsel for the petitioner relied on Rule 9 (22). As per above said rule, an opportunity to delinquent employee to submit his defence statement after closing the inquiry proceeding, but in the instant case, no opportunity was given to the petitioner. Hence, the punishment order imposed by the respondents vide order dated 11.9.2008 and the appellate order dated 1.4.2010 vitiates the rules contemplated above.

12. More particularly, learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently submitted that after issuing charge memo without conducting a proper inquiry and giving opportunity, the inquiry officer has called the petitioner and recorded statement on 15.6.2009 and based on the said statement, has submitted his report without supplying the same to the petitioner, which is contrary to Rule 9 (22) and Rule 9 (25). According to the said rule, show cause notice has to be issued with the inquiry report, has not followed in the instant case.

13. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the judgment of the Apex Court passed in case of Union of India and Others Vs. Dinanath Shantaram Karekar and Others, (1998) 7 Supreme Court Cases 569 and State of U.P. Vs. Saroj Kumar Sinha, JT 2010 (1) SC 618. Further, he relied on the judgment of the Apex Court in case of Krushnakant B. Parmar Vs. Union of India and another, (2012) 3 Supreme Court Cases 178. Relevant paragraph as contained in the case of Union of India and Others (supra), reads as follows:

"4. So far as the service of show cause notice is concerned, it also cannot be treated to have been served. Service of this notice was sought to be effected on the respondent by publication in a newspaper without making any earlier effort to serve him personally by tendering the show cause notice either through the office peon or by registered post. There is nothing on record to indicate that the newspaper in which the show-cause notice was published was a popular newspaper which as expected to be read by the public in general or that it had wide circulation in the area or locality where the respondent lived. The show-cause notice cannot, therefore, in these circumstances, be held to have been served on the respondent. In any case, since the very initiation of the disciplinary proceedings was bad for the reason that the charge sheet was not served, all subsequent steps and stages, including the issuance of the show-cause notice would be bad."

14. Relevant paragraph as contained in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Saroj Kumar Sinha,, reads as follows:

21. We have noticed at some length the sequence of events and the efforts made by the respondent to receive copies of the documents which were relevant for the preparation of his defence in the departmental inquiry. As noticed earlier all the requests made by the respondent fell on deaf ears. In such circumstances, the conclusions recorded by the High Court were fully justified.

27. Apart from the above by virtue of Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India the departmental inquiry had to be conducted in accordance with rules of natural justice. It is a basic requirement of rules of natural justice that an employee be given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in any proceeding which may culminate in a punishment being imposed on the employee.

28. When a department enquiry is conducted against the Government servant it cannot be treated as a casual exercise. The enquiry proceedings also cannot be conducted with a closed mind. The enquiry officer has to be wholly unbiased. The rules of natural justice are required to be observed to ensure not only that justice is done but is manifestly seen to be done. The object of rules of natural justice is to ensure that a government servant is treated fairly in proceedings which may culminate in imposition of punishment including dismissal/removal from service. In the case of Shaughnessy v. United States, 345 US 206 (1953) (Jackson J), a judge of the United States Supreme Court has said "procedural fairness and regularity are of the indispensable essence of liberty. Severe substantive laws can be endured if they are fairly and impartially applied."

15. Relevant paragraph as contained in the case of Krushnakant B. Parmar (supra) reads as follows:

"16. In the case of appellant referring to unauthorised absence the disciplinary authority alleged that he failed to maintain devotion of duty and his behaviour was unbecoming of a Government servant. The question whether `unauthorised absence from duty' amounts to failure of devotion to duty or behaviour unbecoming of a Government servant cannot be decided without deciding the question whether absence is wilful or because of compelling circumstances.

17. If the absence is the result of compelling circumstances under which it was not possible to report or perform duty, such absence can not be held to be wilful. Absence from duty without any application or prior permission may amount to unauthorised absence, but it does not always mean wilful. There may be different eventualities due to which an employee may abstain from duty, including compelling circumstances beyond his control like illness, accident, hospitalisation, etc., but in such case the employee cannot be held guilty of failure of devotion to duty or behaviour unbecoming of a Government servant."

16. According to the above law laid down by the Apex Court, service of notice has to be effected on the petitioner, if he is not available, the same has to be published in newspaper, but in the instant case, nothing has established. Hence, as per the above judgment, the respondents have failed to issue show cause before imposing the punishment order.

17. As contended in the instant case, respondents have not supplied any documents which are based for initiation of the charges against the petitioner, which is mandatory as per rules and above mentioned judgments of the Apex Court. The respondents failed to appreciate the procedure contemplated under the rules.

Hence, requested to set aside the punishment order dated 30.11.2009 and the appellate order dated 01.04.2010.

18. Replying to the above said contentions, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that this fact has brought to the notice of the Court about the sole charge framed against the petitioner, which is as follows:

"आप दिनाँक 17.12.07 से 02.09.08 तक अनाधिकृत रूप से अनुपस्थित रहे। इससे यह स्पष्ट होता है कि आपकी रूचि रेल सेवा में नहीं है।

इस प्रकार आपने रेल सेवा आचार संहिता 1966 के नियम-3 के उपनियम I, II, एवं III के अधिनियमों का उल्लंघन किया है।"

19. The above charge has been issued to the petitioner for unauthorized absence from duties from 17.12.2007 to 02.09.2008. Based on the above charge, charge memo was issued on 11.9.2008. Despite receipt of the said charge, the petitioner has not shown any interest to submit his defense or explanation. As he failed to submit any explanation, it was incumbent on the inquiry officer to fix a date for his appearance in the inquiry. Accordingly, 15.6.2009 was the date fixed for inquiry and his statement was recorded. The relevant portion of the statement made by the petitioner in the report, reads as follows:

" मेरी पत्नी की तबीयत खराब होने के कारण मैं उसका उपचार कराना उचित समझा। घर में कोई पुरुष सदस्य न होने के कारण उनके पागलों जैसा व्यवहार के कारण मैं उन्हीं की देख-रेख में लगा रहा हूं। जिसकी समय पर सूचना भी नहीं दे पाया। मानसिक रूप में विक्षिप्त होने के कारण मैं उनको छोड़ कर नहीं जा सकता था। इसके लिए मैं अपने को दोषी नहीं मानता हूँ। जाँच चाहता हूँ। "

20. To support his contention, learned Standing Counsel has relied on Clause 4 and 5 of the Standard Form of Charge-sheet issued to the petitioner on 11.9.2008, which reads as under:

"4. Shri…..... is hereby directed to submit to the undersigned (through General Manager ……..Railway) a written statement of his defence (which should reach the said General Manager) within ten days of receipt of this Memorandum, if he does not required to inspect any documents for the preparation of this defence, and within ten days after completion of inspection of documents if he desires to inspect documents and also---

(a) to state whether he wishes to be heard in person; and

(b) to furnish the names and addresses of the Witness, if any, whom he wishes to call in support of his defence.

5. Shri……. Is informed that an inquiry will be held only in respect of those article of charge as are not admitted. He should, therefore specifically admit or deny those article of charges. "

21. On perusal of the above said clauses, it clearly indicates that written statement of his defence has to be submitted within ten days of receipt of memorandum, but in the instant case, even on perusal of the original application filed by the petitioner or contention of learned counsel for the petitioner clearly discloses that the petitioner has not submitted any explanation as contemplated in clause 4 of the charge sheet. Furthermore, clause 5 clearly stipulates that an inquiry will be held only in respect of those articles of charge are not admitted. But in the instant case, sole charge was framed against the petitioner, which is for continuously unauthorized absence from 17.12.2007 to 02.09.2008 and the said charge was admitted by the petitioner in his statement recorded on 15.6.2009. Hence, once the charge is admitted, there is no necessity to conduct any further inquiry with regard to the admitted charges.

22. Apart from the above, on perusal of the removal order, it is evident that the petitioner has absented himself from duties for 319 days in 2005, 44 days in 2006, 67 days in 2007 and 261 days in 2007-08. It clearly discloses that the petitioner is habitual absentee from the duties. Moreover, in the impugned order clearly indicates that the inquiry report has been supplied to the petitioner on 8.7.2009 and no reply/explanation has been submitted by the petitioner. Hence, contentions of the petitioner is not supported by any material, which is vague and baseless.

23. In view of the above said facts, learned counsel for the respondents further submitted that the respondent authorities have followed due procedure as contemplated under the rules and also the format given in the articles of charges. Considering the same, the Tribunal has rightly dismissed the original application filed by the petitioner and there is no ground to interfere with the orders impugned in the writ petition. Accordingly, requested for dismissal of the same.

24. Considering the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and perusal of the record, no doubt the petitioner has filed the original application assailing the orders dated 30.11.2009 and 1.4.2010 but there is no averment in the original application with regard to the submission of his reply to the charge memo issued on 11.9.2008 and the inquiry report has not been supplied to the petitioner without having any substantial basis and the averment in the pleadings, learned counsel for the petitioner has contented that the respondents have not followed the Rules, 1968. Bare perusal of the charge memo and the statement recorded by the inquiry officer clearly discloses that the petitioner has admitted the charge, and once, he has admitted the charge as per the standard format of charge-sheet, there is no requirement of further inquiry, but in the instant case, the fact remains that the respondents have issued charge memo to the petitioner, despite receipt of the charge memo, the petitioner has failed to submit any explanation within stipulated time. Hence, left with no option, the respondents have issued a notice for appearance on 15.6.2009 for inquiry, and accordingly, they have recorded the statement of the petitioner. On perusal of the statement recorded by the inquiry officer, it clearly discloses that he has accepted the charge and when once charge is accepted, other procedure may not be required to the followed by the authorities. Apart from that the impugned order clearly discloses that the respondents have supplied a copy of inquiry report to the petitioner on 8.7.2009, but the same was not specifically denied by the petitioner. Hence, taking the admitted fact into consideration and the case laws, which are being relied by the petitioner, would not be applicable in the instant case.

25. As the petitioner is a habitual absentee from his duties since 2007-09 and he was absent about 600 days. In view of the aforesaid circumstances, the Tribunal while taking the facts of the case and case laws into consideration, has rightly dismissed the original application filed by the petitioner.

26. Hence, we are of the considered opinion that there is no good ground to interfere with the impugned order passed by the Tribunal.

27. The writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Siddharth Khare, Sri Ashok Khare (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

Service Law – Payment of Gratuity – Entitlement on Voluntary Retirement – Petitioner, an Assistant Teacher in a government-aided Junior High School, challenged the non-payment of gratuity upon her voluntary retirement at age 59 years, 2 months, and 10 days – Held, the petitioner's application for voluntary retirement on 29.06.2021, accepted by the District Basic Education Officer on 15.01.2022, constituted an option to retire before age 60, entitling her to gratuity under Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook and Government Order dated 31.07.2001 – The requirement to submit an option for retirement at age 60 to receive gratuity does not apply when a teacher retires voluntarily before 60, as supported by judicial precedents and Government Order dated 03.02.2023. (Paras 8, 19, 20, 24, 26, 27)

Service Law – Gratuity for Teachers Dying or Retiring Before Age 60 – The respondents argued that the petitioner was not entitled to gratuity due to not opting for retirement at age 60 – Held, judgments in Noor Jahan (Writ-A No. 40568 of 2016) and Usha Rani (Writ-A No. 17399 of 2019), along with Government Order dated 03.02.2023, clarify that teachers dying before age 60 without submitting an option for retirement at 60 are entitled to gratuity – By extension, a teacher who voluntarily retires before age 60, as in the petitioner's case, cannot be denied gratuity, as her voluntary retirement application is akin to an option to retire early. (Paras 11, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26)

Service Law – Directions for Payment and Interest – The Court found the denial of gratuity to the petitioner unjustified – Held, the respondents are directed to calculate and pay the petitioner's gratuity based on her length of service within two months – Additionally, the District Basic Education Officer, Varanasi, must pass a reasoned order on the admissibility of interest for delayed payment within three months – The applicability of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972, was left open as the petitioner's entitlement was upheld under existing St. policies. (Paras 27, 28, 29)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manjive Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 1 to 4.

2. Petitioner is aggrieved by non-payment of gratuity on her retirement therefore, has filed this writ petition praying therein for a direction from this court thereby commanding the respondents to pay her gratuity along with interest.

3. Brief facts of the case are that Sri Ram Janki Vidya Mandir Balika Vidyalaya, Rajapur, Varanasi (hereinafter referred to as "school") is recognized by U.P. Basic Education Board and is receiving grant-in-aid from the Government of U.P. Petitioner was appointed on the post of Assistant Teacher in the school vide appointment order dated 04.09.1989 and she joined on her post in the month of September, 1989.

4. Petitioner continued to work on her post to the utmost satisfaction of her superiors. Petitioner's date of birth is 20.01.1963. Petitioner submitted an application for voluntary retirement which was allowed by the District Basic Eduction Officer vide order dated 15.01.2022 thereby petitioner has been permitted to retire w.e.f. 31.03.2022. Pursuant to aforesaid order dated 15.01.2022, petitioner has retired from service on 31.03.2022 on completion of 59 years 2 months and 10 days of age.

5. After retirement of the petitioner, papers for payment of post-retiral dues were duly forwarded by the Manager of the Committee of Management of the school. Petitioner has been paid all of her post retiral dues except gratuity.

6. Petitioner in her writ petition has stated that she has been orally told by the Respondent No. 3 that since she has not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years which is mandatory for payment of gratuity, she is not entitled for the payment of gratuity.

7. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has submitted that initially State Government has issued a Government Order on 23.11.1994 whereby it was provided that the age of retirement of a teacher working in a Junior High School is 60 years but those teachers who submit their option to retire at the age of 58 years shall be entitled for payment of gratuity. Thereafter State Government issued another Government Order on 10.06.2002 whereby it has been provided that teachers can submit option to retire at the age of 58 years, one year before the date of his retirement i.e. on 1st of July of the Academic Session in which he has to retire and further if a teacher gives option to retire at the age of 58 years, he can change his option till the date of his retirement. It has further been submitted that as per her date of birth, petitioner was to complete 60 years of age on 19.01.2023 and 62 years of age on 19.01.2025. Petitioner about two years before the date of completion of 60 years of age submitted an application on 29.06.2021 whereby she requested the District Basic Education Officer to permit her to voluntary retire from service.

8. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has argued that the application for voluntary retirement by the petitioner on 29.06.2021 was in-fact her option to retire from service even before completion of 60 years of service and the said application/option has been accepted by the District Basic Education Officer, Varanasi vide his order dated 15.01.2022 and once petitioner has been permitted to retire before completion of 60 years of service, she is entitled for the payment of gratuity.

9. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has invited attention of this court towards provisions made in Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook wherein it is provided that if a government servant retires from service, he shall be entitled for payment of pension and other retiral benefits and thus has submitted before this court that once petitioner has been permitted to retire from service, she cannot be deprived of her right to receive amount of gratuity. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has further invited attention of this court towards Government Order dated 31.07.2001 whereby it has been clarified that if a government servant is permitted voluntary retirement from service under Fundamental Rule 56(c) of the Financial Handbook, he will be entitled for payment of pension and other post retiral dues including gratuity as admissible under the rules.

10. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has argued that there is no difference in between retirement and voluntary retirement as in both the cases, employee retires from service and if after retirement under the rules, he is entitled for retiral benefits, he would also be entitled for the admissible retiral dues on his voluntary retirement.

11. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has further argued that so far as the case of respondents that since petitioner did not opt to retire at the age of 60 years therefore, she is not entitled for payment of gratuity, is concerned, the issue of those teachers who did not opt to retire at the age of 60 years and died prior to completion of 60 years age, has already been considered by this Court vide judgement and order dated 04.01.2018 rendered in Writ-A No. 40568 of 2016 (Noor Jahan Vs. State of U.P. and Others) and judgement and order dated 7.11.2019 rendered in Writ-A No. 17399 of 2019 (Usha Rani Vs. State of U.P. and Others) wherein it has been held that if a teacher dies before completion of 60 years of age and has not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years, he is entitled for the payment of gratuity. State Government has also issued a Government Order on 03.02.2023 wherein it has been provided that if a teacher has died before completion of 60 years of age and has not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years, he will be entitled for the gratuity. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has also argued that once the State Government itself has provided that a teacher who has not opted to retire at the age of 60 years and he dies before completion of 60 years of age, is entitled to payment of gratuity, then petitioner cannot be denied the payment of gratuity as she submitted application for voluntary retirement and therefore opted to retire before completion of 60 years of age and the said option has been duly accepted by the District Basic Education Officer, Varanasi therefore, she is a retired teacher and is entitled for payment of all the retiral dues including gratuity which are admissible to retired teachers working in the government aided Junior High Schools.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner in alternate has also advanced argument that if at all petitioner is not entitled for payment of gratuity as admissible to retired teachers of the Junior High Schools, then petitioner's case will be covered by the provisions of Payment of Gratuity Act 1972 which mandate for payment of gratuity to an employee.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner has thus concluded his arguments and has submitted that non-payment of gratuity to the petitioner cannot be justified and therefore, it would be appropriate that a direction be issued by this Court to the respondents to pay gratuity to the petitioner.

14. Per-contra, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 1 to 4 has submitted that the State Government has issued Government Orders from time to time under which any teacher who wants to retire at the age of 60 years with gratuity was required to submit option and only thereafter he will be entitled for payment of gratuity whereas petitioner has not submitted any such option and voluntarily retired from service before completion of 60 years of age therefore, is not entitled for payment of gratuity.

15. Learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 1 to 4 has further argued that so far as the Government Order dated 3.02.2023 is concerned, it is confined only to those teachers who did not submit option for retiring at the age of 60 years with gratuity and have died before completion of the age of 60 years whereas petitioner has availed the benefit of voluntary retirement from service before completion of 60 years of age as such she is not entitled for payment of gratuity.

16. Learned Standing Counsel appearing for the Respondents No. 1 to 4 has thus concluded his arguments by submitting that petitioner is not entitled for payment of gratuity and the writ petition filed by the petitioner being misconceived is liable to be dismissed by this Court.

17. I have considered rival arguments advanced by the learned counsels appearing for the parties and I find that initially Government of U.P. issued a Government Order on 23.11.1994 whereby it was provided that teachers working in the Junior High Schools recognized by the U.P. Basic Education Board and receiving grant-in-aid from the Government of U.P. are to retire after attaining the age of 60 years but they can submit option to retire at the age of 58 years with gratuity. Later on the State Government issued another Government Order on 04.02.2004 whereby the age of retirement of teachers has been raised to 60 years with gratuity and 62 years without gratuity.

18. The Government of U.P. vide Government Order dated 10.06.2002 has permitted the teachers to submit the option for retirement at the age of 58 years one year before the date of retirement i.e. till 1st of July of the Academic Session in which he has to retire.

19. This court finds that petitioner has not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years rather she submitted an application on 29.06.2021 for voluntary retirement and pursuant to said application, she has retired on 31.03.2022 i.e. on completion of age of 59 years 2 months and 10 days i.e. before the date she would have completed the age of 60 years. Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook provides that if a government servant retires, he is entitled for retiral dues admissible under the rules and further State Government has also issued a Government Order dated 31.07.2001 whereby it has been provided that even in the case of voluntary retirement, government servant shall be entitled for retiral dues as per rules.

20. This court further finds that petitioner has opted for voluntary retirement and thereby retired before completion of 60 years of age therefore, in view of the provisions made in Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook read with Government Order dated 31.07.2001, she is entitled for all the retiral dues including gratuity admissible to her under the rules.

21. There is only one issue in this matter which needs consideration by this Court as to whether a teacher will be entitled for payment of gratuity only if he submits his option to retire at the age of 60 years. This Court finds that the State Government though under the Government Orders has provided that a teacher has to submit his option to retire at the age of 60 years with gratuity but in the cases where the teachers died before completing 60 years of age and have not opted to retire at the age of 60 years, this Court has considered the issue in detail and has held that even if the teachers before their death have not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years they shall be entitled for payment of gratuity.

22. In the aforesaid regard, relevant paragraphs of the judgement and order dated 4.01.2018 rendered in Writ-A No. 40568 of 2016 and the judgement and order dated 7.11.2019 rendered in Writ-A No. 17399 of 2019 are extracted as under:

"Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the order impugned is wholly arbitrary, inasmuch as under the relevant scheme for payment of gratuity, the claim of petitioner's husband is otherwise covered, and the Government Order dated 16.9.2009 does not curtail the payment of gratuity to those employees, who have died before attaining the age of 60 years.

Sri R.B. Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent nos.3 and 4, submits that the denial of gratuity to petitioner is in accordance with the Government Order.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties, and have perused the materials brought on record.

Government Order dated 16th September, 2009 provides for revision of pension and other retiral benefits to the retired employees of the department of basic education. This Government Order grants higher benefits w.e.f. 1.1.2006. Clause 4(1) of the Government Order provides that pension would not be payable to those employees, who have not completed 10 years of qualifying service, but the employees who retire upon attaining the age of superannuation of 60 years would be entitled to gratuity and other service benefits. The Government Order does not restrict payment of gratuity to an employee, who is otherwise covered under the scheme just because he has not attained the age of 60 years. Reference to age of 60 years is due to fact that age of superannuation under the rule is otherwise 60 years. Position has otherwise been clarified by Clause 5 of the Government Order, which provides that gratuity would be payable at the age of 60 years or upon death. The respondents, therefore, were not justified in rejecting petitioner's claim for payment of gratuity, in terms of Government Order dated 16.9.2009. The impugned action, therefore, cannot be sustained. Order dated 8.7.2016 is, accordingly, quashed.

A direction is issued to the respondents to compute the amount payable to petitioner's husband towards gratuity in terms of the scheme and release the same, within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order. The petitioner shall also be entitled to interest at the rate of 8% per annum, from the date of filing of the application till the amount is actually disbursed.

Writ petition is, accordingly, allowed. "

"Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that daughter of petitioner was initially appointed as Assistant Teacher on 4.12.1999 and joined his services on 7.12.1999 in Primary School, Mallamai, Badaun. Unfortunately, daughter of petitioner died during the course of service on 28.8.2018. After the death of her daughter petitioner applied for terminal dues. The amount of gratuity was refused on the ground that her daughter has not filled up option for retirement at the age of 60 years. It is further submitted that as per Government Order dated 16.09.2009, petitioner's daughter is fully entitled for gratuity even in case if he has not given option for retirement at the age of 60 years, therefore, the order impugned is wholly arbitrary, inasmuch as under the relevant scheme of payment of gratuity, the claim of petitioner's daughter is covered and the Government Order dated 16.09.2009 does not curtail the payment of gratuity to those employees, who have died before attaining the age of 60 years.

In support of his contention, he has placed reliance upon several judgments of this Court as well as Lucknow Bench of this Court passed in Writ-A No. 40568 of 2016 (Noor Jahan vs. State of U.P. and 4 others) decided on 4.1.2018, Writ-A No. 8679 of 2018 (Smt. State of U.P. and 5 others) in which the Court relying upon the aforesaid judgments allowed the writ petition vide order dated 24.10.2019.

On the other hand, learned standing counsel as well as Sri Chandan Agarwal, learned counsel for respondent Nos. 4 to 7 submitted that denial of gratuity of petitioner's husband is in accordance with Government order, therefore, there is no illegality in the impugned order, but could not dispute the aforesaid fact.

I have considered the rival submissions raised by counsel for the parties and perused the record as well as judgments relied upon.

Similar issue was considered by this Court in the matter of Noor Jahan (Supra) in which this Court vide order dated 04.01.2018 has clearly held that Government Order dated 16.09.2009 does not provide any bar for payment of gratuity in case petitioner's husband had not given option for retirement at the age of 60 years. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment is quoted below:-

In the matter of Smt. Omwati (Supra), Court had dealt for payment of interest upon delayed payment of gratuity and held that petitioner is entitled for interest. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"The only other issue that survives for consideration is whether, the petitioner is entitled to payment of interest on the delayed payment of gratuity.

This aspect has been dealt with by Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No.430 of 2016, Smt. Nazma Khatoon Vs. State of U.P. and others where a learned Single Judge had rejected the prayer for interest on delayed payment of gratuity. However, the Division Bench opined that interest is a necessary corollary to the retention of money by another person. It is neither compensatory nor penal in nature. It was so held, upon an earlier Division Bench decision in Smt. Ranjana Kakkar W/O Late Prof. Amarnath Kakkar Vs. State of Uttar pradesh and others, 2008(10) ADJ 63 (DB).

The Division Bench in Smt. Nazma Khatoon (supra) went on to award 8% interest on the gratuity payable.

Counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon the Government order No.SA-3-1901/10-2002-971/80 dated 30.10.2002, which provides for payment of interest on delay in payment of gratuity and post retiral benefits beyond a period of 3 months from the date they are payable.

Under the circumstances, this Court considers it appropriate to award the same rate of interest on the delayed payment as has been awarded by the Division Bench in Smt. Nazma Khatoon(supra), the rate being 8%.

For the reasons given above, this writ petition is allowed. The impugned order passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Sambhal dated 01.01.2018 is hereby set aside. The respondents are directed to calculate the gratuity payable to the petitioner along with 8% interest thereon by a speaking order and to ensure payment of the said amount to the petitioner within a period of six weeks from the date, a certified copy of this order is filed before him."

Following the decision rendered in the judgment of Noor Jahan (Supra) as well as Smt. Omwati (Supra), matter of Smt. Brijesh (Supra) for payment of gratuity was allowed by this Court by quashing the impugned orders by which gratuity was denied.

Similar controversy was also decided by Lucknow Bench of this Court vide order dated 5.8.2019 passed in the matter of Smt. Mala Tripathi (Supra) in which Court has taken a similar view and held that if husband of petitioner died before attaining the age of 60 years and has not given option for retirement at the age of 60 years, gratuity cannot be denied only on this ground. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted below:-

"Heard learned counsel for the contesting parties and perused the records.

From perusal of the records, it clearly comes out that the petitioner's husband died in harness on 26.08.2012 while working as Assistant Teacher in an aided and recognized institution. It is also admitted that the family pension has been paid to the petitioner. The only dispute revolves around the payment of gratuity to the petitioner. The ground taken by the respondents of the petitioner's husband not having opted for retiring at the age of 60 years which thus entails non-payment of gratuity to her at the very out set does not stand to legal scrutiny inasmuch as it is an admitted case by the respondents also that the petitioner's husband died in harness on 26.08.2012 despite his actual date of superannuation being November 2019. Thus, an employee is only expected to submit an option prior to his retirement and not decades prior to his retirement. However, this aspect of the matter has not been considered by the respondents and even the letter of the Institution dated 19.03.2014, a copy of which has been filed as Annexure-3 to the petition, does not address the aforesaid issue.

Accordingly, keeping in view the aforesaid discussions, the order dated 19.03.2014 (Annexure-3 to the petition) cannot be said to be valid in the eyes of law. As such, the writ petition deserves to be partly allowed and is hereby partly allowed. A writ of certiorari is issued quashing the order dated 19.03.2014. A writ of mandamus is issued directing the respondents to consider the case of the petitioner for payment of gratuity in accordance with law and relevant rules within a period of three months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order."

Facts of the case and dispute involved in the present case is squarely covered by the pronouncements made by this Court which are referred herein above, therefore, under such facts and circumstances, impugned order dated 30.7.2019 passed by respondent No. 7- Block Education Officer Block Kadarchauk, Distruict Badaun is hereby quashed.

Respondents are directed to compute the amount payable to the petitioner's husband towards gratuity in terms of the scheme and release the same, maximum within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order. The petitioner shall also be entitled to interest at the rate of 8% per annum, from the date of filing of the application till the amount is actually disbursed.

Writ petition is, accordingly, allowed.

No order as to costs."

23. After the aforesaid judgements of this Court, State Government itself has issued a Government Order on 03.02.2023 whereby it has been provided that if a teacher has not submitted his option to retire at the age of 60 years and he dies before completion of 60 years of age, he is entitled for payment of gratuity.

24. Once a teacher who has not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years with gratuity and dies before completion of 60 years of age has been held to be entitled for payment of gratuity, there cannot be any reason to deny the payment of gratuity to a teacher who submits option to retire before completion of 60 years of age and said option is duly accepted by the competent authority.

25. The State Government itself has provided that if a teacher has not opted to retire at the age of 60 years with gratuity and demits the office due to his death before completing 60 years of age, he is entitled for payment of gratuity meaning thereby that those teachers who retire before completion of 60 years of age cannot be denied the benefit of gratuity only because they have not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years.

26. It is also worth consideration of this court that petitioner's application for voluntary retirement is in-fact an option given by her to retire from service before completion of 60 years of age and once the State Government by way of Government Order dated 03.02.2023 has provided that the teachers who demit the office due to death without submitting option to retire at the age of 60 years are entitled for payment of gratuity then the petitioner's case stands at a better footing as she has in-fact opted to retire before completion of 60 years of age, therefore, she cannot be denied the gratuity.

27. In view of the aforesaid reasons, this writ petition is allowed. Respondents No. 3 and 4 are directed to calculate the gratuity payable to the petitioner on the basis of her length of service and to pay calculated amount to the petitioner within a period of two months from the date of service of certified copy of this order.

28. The District Basic Eduction Officer, Varanasi is also directed to pass reasoned and speaking order regarding admissibility of interest over the delayed payment of gratuity to the petitioner within a period of three months from the date of service of certified copy of this order.

29. So far as applicability of the provisions of Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 in the case of petitioner is concerned, since this court has held that petitioner is entitled for payment of gratuity in terms of existing policy of State Government, the said issue is left open to be decided at appropriate point of time.

THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Writ A No. 18332 of 2023

Dr. Bhaktiputra Rohtam ...Petitioner

Versus

Banaras Hindu University & Ors.

...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Priyansh, Sri Sanjeev Singh (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondents:

Sri Dhananjay Awasthi, Sri Hem Pratap Singh, Sri Rahul Jain

Service Law – Career Advancement Scheme (CAS) Promotion – Notional Promotion Post-Retirement – Petitioner, an Associate Professor at Banaras Hindu University, sought promotion to Professor under the CAS as per UGC Regulations, 2018, claiming eligibility from 04.11.2021 – Held, the University's failure to process the petitioner's application due to the absence of an Executive Council was unjustified, as the Vice Chancellor could have exercised powers under Section 7-C(5) of the Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915 – The CAS promotion process is primarily based on seniority and assessment of self-appraisal, not a competitive selection, entitling the petitioner to notional promotion from the date of eligibility (04.11.2021) with consequential benefits for pension and retirement dues, subject to screening by a Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee. (Paras 6, 12, 19, 22, 23, 25, 29, 46)

Service Law – Re-Employment of Superannuated Teachers – UGC Regulations Vs Guidelines – Petitioner sought re-employment as a teacher post-retirement under Regulation 2.1 of UGC Regulations, 2018, which permits re-employment of Assistant Professors, Associate Professors, and Professors – Held, the UGC Regulations, 2018, prevail over the 2008 UGC Model Guidelines, which limited re-employment to Professors only, as guidelines lack statutory backing and cannot override regulations approved by Parliament – The proviso to Regulation 2.1 applies only to procedural aspects not covered by the regulations, and the petitioner, as an Associate Professor, is eligible for re-employment if vacancies exist. (Paras 7, 9, 30, 31, 35, 36, 38, 45, 46)

Service Law – Vice Chancellor's Powers and University's Lapse – The University cited the absence of an Executive Council since November 2020 as the reason for not processing the petitioner's CAS promotion – Held, the Vice Chancellor had the authority under Section 7-C(5) of the Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915, to act in emergencies, including constituting a Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee, and the failure to do so was a procedural lapse that cannot penalize the petitioner – The rejection orders dated 22.05.2023 and 09.10.2023 were quashed, with directions to evaluate the petitioner's promotion and re-employment claims. (Paras 8, 20, 22, 27, 46)

Writ Petition Allowed.

Orders Dated 22.05.2023 and 09.10.2023 Quashed – Directions Issued for Notional Promotion and Re-Employment.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjeev Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Priyansh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Rahul Jain, learned counsel appearing for the University Grants Commission and Sri Hem Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the respondent- University.

2. Petitioner has approached this Court for two reliefs: (I) Promotion under the Career Advancement Scheme (hereinafter referred as 'CAS') from the date he became entitled; and (II) for re-employment as a teacher in the department as per Regulation 2.1 of the University Grants Commission Regulations, 2018 (for short, 'U.G.C. Regulations, 2018') notified on 18th July, 2018.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that the petitioner while working as Associate Professor in the faculty of Sanskrit Vidya Dharm Vigyan, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi, became entitled to be considered for promotion as Professor in the University on 04.11.2021 under CAS of University Grants Commission (for short 'U.G.C.') vide Regulation 6.3 of U.G.C. Regulations, 2018.

4. Accordingly, for first relief, petitioner moved an application before the Vice Chancellor for consideration of his candidature for promotion under the CAS on 04.11.2021 itself which got admittedly received in the Selection and Assessment Cell of the B.H.U. University on 05.01.2022. However, nothing further happened in the matter and petitioner's application for promotion under the CAS remained pending. Since the petitioner's claim was not being considered for promotion, he made representation and ultimately retired from the faculty of the University upon attaining age of superannuation on 31.12.2022.

5. After retirement, petitioner applied for re-employment i.e. his second relief, as per the provisions contained under the Regulation 2.1 of U.G.C. Regulations, 2018 but when his application for re-employment was also not given any consideration, he filed a writ petition before this Court being Writ-A No.11409 of 2023 in which a direction was issued to the Vice Chancellor to dispose of matter of his claim that he would raise in his representation. Petitioner, accordingly, made a representation on 11.08.2023 which came to be ultimately rejected by the Vice Chancellor of the University vide his order dated 09.10.2023, now impugned in the present petition.

6. Regarding promotion under the CAS, the argument advanced is that petitioner's claim to be promoted as Professor got matured on 04.11.2021 and, therefore, applying the procedure prescribed for under Regulation 6.3 of the U.G.C. Regulations, 2018, petitioner's claim ought to have been considered. He submits that the University failed to accord due consideration to the claim of the petitioner. It was University's fault for which petitioner cannot be penalised and accordingly, cannot be made to suffer.

7. In support of his second relief for re-employment as Teacher in the University, he heavily relied upon Regulation 2.1 of Regulations, 2018 to contend that be it Assistant Professor or Associate Professor or Professor, a teacher of any of these categories was entitled to be re-employed provided there existed vacancy in the department. He, thus, submits that Vice Chancellor manifestly erred in rejecting the claim of the petitioner on both counts.

8. Sri Hem Pratap Singh, learned Advocate appearing for the University, on the contrary, argues that there being no executive council functioning in the University since November, 2020, claim of the petitioner even after being matured to be considered for promotion as Professor, could not be given consideration as every such appointment and promotion was required to be approved by the executive council in the first instance before consequential effective order was passed by the Vice Chancellor. He submitted that executive council of the University was a statutory body and vested with all such powers, in absence of which, and there being no order by the competent government authorising Vice Chancellor to pass orders or to act on behalf of the executive council, prior to the year 2023, the Vice Chancellor was justified in not issuing any order promoting the petitioner. He further submitted that petitioner having retired, now could not be benefited as no more promotional avenue was available to adjust a retired teacher. He submitted that the teacher to be considered for promotion under CAS of the U.G.C. Regulations had to be a sitting member of the faculty and there was no provision to give any notional promotion to a retired teacher under CAS. He further submitted that under the CAS, there was no sanctioned substantive vacancy as such and the post and designation was co terminus. In support of his above argument, Sri H.P. Singh took the Court to relevant provisions of Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915 which vide Section 10 provided powers to be exercised by the executive council. Section 10 is reproduced as under:-

10. Executive Council.—(1) The Executive Council shall, subject to the control of the Visitor, be the executive body of the University and shall have charge of the management and administration of the revenue and property of the University and the conduct of all administrative affairs of the University not otherwise provided for.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Executive Council shall exercise such other powers and perform such other duties as may be conferred or imposed on it by the Statutes or the Ordinances.

9. On the point of second relief, Sri H.P. Singh argued that Regulation 2.1 carried a proviso also according to which, re-employment of a teacher was required to be strictly in accordance with the guidelines prescribed by the U.G.C. from time to time. He submitted that as per the U.G.C. guidelines, only a professor could be re-employed as a teacher. In this regard, he took the Court to the Model Guidelines of U.G.C. for re-employment of superannuated teachers on 15.02.2008 annexed as Annexure-CA-2 to the counter affidavit in which vide Clause 3 of the guidelines of U.G.C., it was the Professor who is only entitled for re-employment. Clause 3 of the U.G.C. guidelines runs as under:

"3. Eligible Category:

The category of superannuated teachers eligible for re-employment shall be:

a) Professor only, in the case of Universities; and,

b) Professors, Readers and Lecturers (Selection Grade) only, in the case of Colleges."

10. Sri Purunendu Kumar, learned Advocate appearing for U.G.C. adopted the arguments of Sri H.P. Singh relating to the two reliefs claimed for by the petitioner. He also relied upon the U.G.C. guidelines of 2015 and the U.G.C. Regulations, 2018. However, upon a pointed query being made, he could not explain as to what was the source of power available under the U.G.C. Act to frame guidelines, inasmuch as, he could no show any provision from where it could be inferred that U.G.C. Guidelines would prevail even after the U.G.C. regulations had been framed and enforced.

11. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties, their arguments raised across the bar and having perused the records, the Court finds two points to be arising in the case for consideration on the legal pleas as advanced on behalf of the rival parties:

(A) whether the petitioner would be entitled to be promoted notionally also after retirement under the CAS in the event university is found to have faulted with the career of the petitioner by denying his due promotion as Professor for no justifiable reason; and

(B) whether as per the U.G.C. Regulation 2.1, petitioner having retired as Associate Professor was also entitled for re-employment and that proviso to the said regulation would be limited to applying the guidelines to the extent provision is silent on general principles that proviso would not take away or dilute the mandate contained under the principal provision.

12. Before dealing with the two points framed above, I would like to indicate here the admitted fact positions between the parties:

(i) Petitioner's status as Associate Professor in the department of Dharmagam, Faculty of Sanskrit Vidya Dharm Vigyan is not questionable and also that his entitlement to become Professor got matured on 04.11.2021 under CAS;

(ii) Petitioner also moved necessary application for consideration of his candidature for his promotion as Professor in the department on 04.11.2021 which was received on 05.01.2022 in the concerned cell of the University dealing with promotions under CAS and the concerned designated cell did not process the papers only on the ground that there was no Executive Council; and

(iii) The Executive Council is not functioning in the university since November, 2020 and it is now very recently that the Central Government has issued circular directing the Vice Chancellor to take up the task of executive council by exercising power under Section 7-C(5) of the B.H.U. Act, 1915.

13. Coming to point (A) i.e. on the question of promotion of the petitioner and his entitlement and that too after his attaining age of superannuation, it is required to be looked into as to what were the rules of promotion under CAS and what procedures were prescribed there and whether it was by way of seniority with certain statutory period of service that promotion was to be offered in routine way under the CAS or it was by way of selection. In the event of former, petitioner may have a claim to be given notional promotion and consequential benefits but in the event of promotion by selection, it may not be feasible now to consider the candidature of a candidate like petitioner after his attaining age of superannuation more especially in the circumstances, when petitioner did not file any petition seeking such promotion prior to his superannuation.

14. In order to find answer, I proceed to examine the relevant provisions of the U.G.C. Regulations in the first instance. There is no dispute or quarrel about the U.G.C. Regulations 2018 that provide for promotion under CAS. The Regulations do provide for assessment of a teacher to be promoted on the basis of his self appraisal report and over all performance for which a teacher is to provide documents in support of his claim. Regulations 6.1. and 6.2 and it sub-regulations are there in this regard and are, accordingly, reproduced hereinunder:

" 6.1 Assessment Criteria and Methodology:

a) Tables 1 to 3 of Appendix II are applicable to the selection of Assistant Professors/ Associate Professors/ Professors/ Senior Professor in Universities and Colleges;

(b) Table 4 of Appendix II is applicable to Assistant Librarians/ College Librarians and Deputy Librarians for promotion under Career Advancement Scheme; and

(c) Table 5 of Appendix II is applicable to Assistant Directors/ College Director of Physical Education sports and Deputy Directors/ Directors of Physical Education and Sports for promotions under Career Advancement Scheme.

6.2 The constitution of the Selection Committee and Selection procedure as well as the Assessment Criteria and Methodology for the above cadres, either through direct recruitment or through Career Advancement Scheme, shall be in accordance with these Regulations."

15. UGC Regulations, 2018 vide Regulation 5 provide for constitution of selection committee and guidelines for selection procedure. Regulation 5.1(X) provides for the Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee for the purposes of promotion under CAS for Assistant Professors, Associate Professors Regulation 5.1(X) is reproduced hereinunder:

"X. The "Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee" for CAS promotion of Assistant Professors/ equivalent cadres in Librarians/Physical Education and Sports from one level to the other higher level shall consist of:

A. For University teachers:

i) The Vice-Chancellor or his/her nominee shall be the Chairperson of the Committee;

ii)The Dean of the Faculty concerned;

iii) The Head of the Department/ Chairperson of the School; and

iv) One subject expert in the subject concerned nominated by the Vice-Chancellor from the University panel of experts."

16. Clause (I) of Regulation 6.3 provides a candidate to apply in advance from the due date and the university is required to initiate process of his screening/selection and complete the process within six months. Vide clause (III), the CAS promotion from lower stage to higher stage is to be done by Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee as provided under Table 1 of Appendix-II. The Regulations also provide that CAS promotion criterion from Associate Professor to Professor would be 'satisfactory' or 'good' in Annual Performance Assessment report of at least last three years assessment period as per Table 1 Appendix-II and at least 110 research score, as per Appendix-II Table 2. The promotion of-course is to be recommended by the selection committee that is to be constituted for this purpose under the U.G.C. Regulations. Regulation 6.3 is reproduced hereinunder:

"6.3 The criteria for promotions under Career Advancement Scheme laid down under these Regulations shall be effective from the date of notification of these Regulations. However, to avoid hardship to those faculty members who have already qualified or are likely to qualify shortly under the existing regulations, a choice may be given to them, for being considered for promotions under the existing Regulations. This option can be exercised only within three years from the date of notification of these Regulations.

I. A teacher who wishes to be considered for promotion under the CAS may submit in writing to the university/college, within three months in advance of the due date, that he/she fulfils all the requirements under the CAS and submit to the university/college the Assessment Criteria and Methodology Proforma as evolved by the university concerned supported by all credentials as per the Assessment Criteria and Methodology guidelines set out in these Regulations. In order to avoid any delay in holding the Selection Committee meetings for various positions under the CAS, the University/College may initiate the process of screening/selection, and complete the process within six months from the receipt of application. Further, in order to avoid any hardship, the candidates who fulfil all other criteria mentioned in these Regulations, as on and till the date on which these regulations are notified, can be considered for promotion from the date, on or after the date, on which they fulfil these eligibility conditions.

II. The Selection Committee specifications as contained in Clauses 5.1 to 5.4 shall be applicable to all direct recruitments of faculty positions and equivalent cadres and Career Advancement promotions from Assistant Professor to Associate Professor, from Associate Professor to Professor, Professor to Senior Professor (in University) and for equivalent cadres.

III. The CAS promotion from a lower stage to a higher stage of Assistant Professor shall be conducted through a "Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee", following the criteria laid down in Table1 of Appendix II.

IV. The promotion under the CAS being a personal promotion to a teacher holding a substantive sanctioned post, on his/her superannuation, the said post shall revert back to its original cadre.

V. For the promotion under the CAS, the applicant teacher must be on the role and in active service of the University/College on the date of consideration by the Selection Committee.

VI. The candidate shall offer himself/herself for assessment for promotion, if he/she fulfils the minimum grading specified in the relevant Assessment Criteria and Methodology Tables, by submitting an application and the required Assessment Criteria and Methodology Proforma. He/she can do so three months before the due date. The university shall send a general circular twice a year, inviting applications for the CAS promotions from the eligible candidates.

i) If a candidate applies for promotion on completion of the minimum eligibility period and is successful, the date of promotion shall be from that of minimum period of eligibility.

ii) If, however, the candidate finds that he/she would fulfils the CAS promotion criteria, as defined in Tables 1, 2, 4, and 5 of Appendix II at a later date and applies on that date and is successful, his/her promotion shall be effected from that date of the candidate fulfilling the eligibility criteria.

iii) The candidate who does not succeed in the first assessment, he/she shall have to be re-assessed only after one year.

When such a candidate succeeds in the eventual assessment, his/her promotion shall be deemed to be one year from the date of rejection.

VII Regarding the cases pending for promotions from one Academic Level/Grade Pay to another Academic Level/Grade Pay under the Career Advancement Scheme provided under the UGC Regulations on Minimum Qualifications for Appointment of Teachers and other Academic Staff in Universities and Colleges and Measures for the Maintenance of Standards in Higher Education 2010 and its subsequent amendments, the teachers shall be given the option to be considered for the promotion from one Academic Level/Grade Pay to another Academic Level/Grade Pay as per the following:

(a) The teachers shall be considered for promotion from one Academic Level/Grade Pay to another as per the CAS under these Regulations.

OR

(b) The faculty members shall be considered for the promotion from one Academic Level/Grade Pay to another as per the CAS provided under the UGC Regulations on Minimum Qualifications for Appointment of Teachers and other Academic Staff in Universities and Colleges and Measures for the Maintenance of Standards in Higher Education 2010 and its amendments with relaxation in the requirements of Academic Performance Indicators (API) based Performance Based Appraisal System (PBAS) upto the date of notification of these Regulations. The relaxation in the requirements of Academic Performance Indicators (API) based Performance Based Appraisal System (PBAS) upto the date of notification of these Regulations for the promotion from one Academic Level/Grade Pay to another under CAS as provided in UGC Regulations on Minimum Qualifications for Appointment of Teachers and other Academic Staff in Universities and Colleges and Measures for the Maintenance of Standards in Higher Education 2010 and its amendments, is defined as under :

i. Exemption from scoring under Category I, as defined in Appendix III of said above mentioned UGC Regulations on Minimum Qualifications for Appointment of Teachers and other Academic Staff in Universities and Colleges and Measures for the Maintenance of Standards in Higher Education 2010 and its amendments including University Grants Commission (Minimum Qualifications for Appointment of Teachers and other Academic Staff in Universities and Colleges and Measures for the Maintenance of Standards in Higher Education) (4th Amendment), Regulations, 2016, for faculty and other equivalent cadre positions. ii. Scoring in Category II and Category III for faculty and other equivalent cadre positions shall be as provided for in the UGC Regulations on Minimum Qualifications for Appointment of Teachers and other Academic Staff in Universities and Colleges and Measures for the Maintenance of Standards in Higher Education 2010 with the following combined minimum API score requirement for Category II and Category III taken together, as mentioned below."

17. Thus, a candidate in the first instance as per Clause (VI) of Regulation 6.3 would make an application along with her/his self assessment for promotion by submitting application upon a required assessment criteria and methodology proforma three months before due date and it is thereafter that the papers are completed and placed before the selection committee.

The claim of the petitioner is that he moved an application on 04.11.2021 when his case matured and that application was received in the Selection and Assessment Cell of the University on 05.01.2022 but the University failed to constitute any selection committee as contemplated under the U.G.C. Regulations possibly for there being no executive council in the university. The U.G.C. Regulations do provide or contemplate a situation in the event an application is moved on the date the promotion is due, the same could not be considered as required then there has to be a process and procedure to be followed and the eligibility criterion as given in Clause C(IV) of U.G.C. Regulation 6.4 is reproduced hereinunder:

"C. Career Advancement Scheme (CAS) for University teachers

IV. Associate Professor (Academic Level 13A) to Professor (Academic Level 14)

1) An Associate Professor who has completed three years of service in Academic Level 13A.

2) A Ph.D Degree in the subject concerned/allied/relevant discipline.

3) A minimum of ten research publications in the peer-reviewed or UGC-listed journals out of which three research papers should have been published during the assessment period.

4) Evidence of having guided at least one doctoral candidate.

5) A minimum of 110 Research Score as per Appendix II, Table 2.

CAS Promotion Criteria:

A teacher shall be promoted if;

i) He/she gets a 'satisfactory' or 'good' grade in the annual performance assessment reports of at least two of the last three years of the assessment period, as per Appendix II,Table 1, and at least 110 research score, as per Appendix II,Table 2.

ii) The promotion is recommended by a selection committee constituted in accordance with these Regulations."

18. Except for the eligibility clause which every candidate seeking promotion under CAS is required to meet the only other parameter is 'satisfactory' or 'good' grade in annual performance assessment reports of at least 3 to 5 years as per table provided under the Appendix-II. It is, thus, the Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee which forwards the report for the purposes of according promotion.

19. In the total circumspect of Rules that are there provided for under CAS, it is clear that this rule of promotion is more by seniority than by selection and, therefore, if the executive council was not there and the Vice Chancellor was of the view that papers of the petitioner had reached to the assigned cell designated for the purposes of processing of evaluation, it was required for the designated cell to have processed the paper. Petitioner was very much active member of the service if Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee had met at the relevant point of time as per clause (I) of Regulation 6.3.

20. Having not done so upon lame excuses that there was no executive council functional in the university, in my considered view, the University was not justified in denying promotion to the petitioner that was due to him. The power could have been exercised by the Vice Chancellor under Section 7-C (5) meeting the requirement as an urgency. It is a statement made on behalf of the respondent- University that till date there was no executive council and now the Central Government has issued an order that Vice Chancellor will act in its behalf.

21. Provisions as contained under Section 7-C(5) of Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915, is reproduced hereinunder:

"7C(5). If, in the opinion of the Vice-Chancellor, any emergency has arisen which requires immediate action to be taken, the Vice-Chancellor shall take such action as he deems necessary and shall report the same for approval at the next meeting to the authority which, in the ordinary course, would have dealt with the matter:

Provided that, if the action taken by the Vice-Chancellor is not approved by the authority concerned, he may refer the matter to the Visitor, whose decision thereon shall be final.

Provided further that, where any such action taken by the Vice-Chancellor affects any person in the service of the University, such person, shall be entitled to prefer, within thirty days from the date on which he receives notice of such action, an appeal to the Executive Council.

22. In my considered view, it was not necessary for the government to have passed an order asking the Vice Chancellor to act on behalf of the executive council in purported exercise of its power under Section 7-C (5). The provisions as contained under Section 7-C(5) were very much there and, therefore, the power could have been exercised even earlier by the Vice Chancellor. Petitioner has really, therefore, suffered for no fault on his part except for lack of formalities that were to be accomplished by the University through its screening committee. The Vice Chancellor had a free hand to form a screening committee exercising power under Section 7-C(5) and if he chose not to exercise this power, the petitioner cannot be made to suffer.

23. Thus, what here comes out to be a case where petitioner was not at fault and had the selection committee been constituted and considered the assessment and performance of petitioner of last three years, he would have been promoted. Under the order impugned, the ground taken is that selection committee and the interview could not have been held for promotion from Associate Professor to Professor for certain reasons but what reasons were there is not disclosed and only this much has been stated that there has been no constitution of executive council after June, 2021 when the term of the erstwhile executive council came to end. The entire rules also disclose very clearly that there is no selection criterion as such under the CAS If the Assessment criterion is sound as per the methodology tables provided under the Rules and the eligibility criterion is fulfilled as per Clause (iv) of Regulation 6, a candidate, who is eligible, would be promoted under the CAS from the date of eligibility. There is no prescribed procedure for holding selection as such or interview for a candidate to participate regarding his knowledge and expertise etc. In the circumstances, it can be taken to be that under the CAS, maturity of claim is only conditioned by self appraisal and assessment which is done on the parameters prescribed under the table.

24. In the case of Union of India & anr. vs Manpreet Singh Poonam & ors; 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 254, it was held that mere existence of vacancy will not create a right in favour of an employee for retrospective promotion and in which the clearance of a candidate is dependent upon the selection process. The Court in that case, therefore, observed that if rules contemplate promotion on a vacancy for which a candidate has to pass through selection process such promotion cannot be given retrospectively from the date of actual vacancy arose. The Court also rejected the case of one Roshan Singh in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh & ors v. Roshan Singh & ors; 2006 (13) SCC 661 for promotion retrospectively after retirement. The Court in that case distinguished the judgment in the case of Bangali Prasad Sharma v. State (Writ Petition No.13240 (SS) of 1990 decided on 03.08.1995 by Lucknow Bench of Allahabad High Court) on the ground that writ petition had been filed prior to his retirement.

25. However, in the present case, I find that since there to be no selection process as such and the university only failed to constitute Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee. Thus, career of the petitioner got jeopardised for none of his fault more especially, in the circumstances, when there was no question of requirement of any existing vacancy. It is upon maturity of claim that a candidate is required to undergo process of self assessment and assessment by a duly constituted screening committee. The university seems to have not considered promotion for no justifiable reasons. There may not have been a duly constituted executive council in existence but that power could have been exercised by the Vice Chancellor under Section 7(c)(5).

26. As the title of committee, Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee discloses, the only work is to make assessment of previous work of a candidate. CAS is a scheme to remove stagnation and give promotion to a teacher upto the highest level of professor upon achieving certain years of service at every stage in hierarchy. CAS scheme is not dependent upon the creation of post. It gives designation and pay scale and with further promotion and retirement, post being co terminus stands abolished.

27. Just because Central Government has now issued a circular that Vice Chancellor would exercise such powers as ifwas not there. In fact, it was always with the Vice Chancellor and he should have exercised this power. The University's executive council is very important component in the administrative set up and since majority of the administrative orders are passed by the Vice Chancellor after the matter is already through the executive council, the Vice Chancellor cannot be permitted to just sit back and relax for there being no executive council. When the statute itself contemplates a situation and any such eventuality appears when the executive council has run out its term, Vice Chancellor will have to exercise power by constituting selection committee for all purposes. It is unfortunate that the vice Chancellor sat idle in the matter. The power was there and the Vice Chancellor needed no further executive directions from the central government. It is good that now the central government has now passed the order.

28. In the circumstances, in my considered view, the petitioner's claim for promotion from Associate Professor to Professor was wrongly not considered and the matter remained kept pending for no justifiable reasons.

29. Thus, petitioner is held entitled to be given notional promotion w.e.f. the date it has become due in order to give him the benefits and advantages in the fixation of pay and final retirement dues provided of-course his work and conduct at the relevant time as submitted him gets through a Screening-cum-Evaluation Committee and with the approval of Vice Chancellor. However, petitioner would not be entitled to for the actual payment of salary as he is not working as a Professor during the period in question.

30. Coming to the second point regarding petitioner's claim for re-employment, learned counsel for the petitioner in this regard placed reliance upon the UGC Regulation 2.1 which provided for re-employment to be offered to Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Professor and Senior Professor after superannuation but the UGC regulations also carry a proviso to the regulations that every re-employment shall be strictly in accordance with the guidelines prescribed by the UGC from time to time. Now the question that arises for consideration of the Court is, as to whether the proviso would take away the mandate contained under the principal regulations 2.1. U.G.C. Regulation 2.1 are reproduced hereunder:

"2.1 Subject to the availability of vacant positions and fitness, teachers, such as Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Professor and Senior Professor only, may be re-employed on contract appointment beyond the age of superannuation, as applicable to the concerned University, college and Institution, up to the age of seventy years.

Provided further that all such re-employment shall be strictly in accordance with the guidelines prescribed by the UGC, from time to time.

31. It has been argued on behalf of Union of India that since the guidelines have been issued by the UGC did provide for re-employment to Professor only and proviso says that re-employment has to be strictly in accordance with the guidelines, both have to be read together in order to find out the solution, whereas it has been argued on behalf of the petitioner that, when the substantive provision provides for re-employment to Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Professor and Senior Professor then merely because the proviso refers to guidelines, it would not take away the main substantive provision.

32. It is submitted that regulations are silent about the manner and method of re-employment and so for this limited purpose, the UGC guidelines may have to be followed. In order to find answer to the question and to appreciate the arguments advanced by the rival parties, it becomes necessary to find out as to under which provision of law, the guidelines are framed by the U.G.C. The U.G.C. Act, 1956 does provide for power of the commission to frame regulations but does not provide for framing of any guidelines. Second 26 of the UGC Act, 1956 is reproduced hereinuder:-

26. (1) The Commission may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make regulations consistent with this Act and the rules made thereunder–

(a) regulating the meetings of the Commission and the procedure for conducting business thereat;

(b) regulating the manner in which and the purposes for which persons may be associated with the Commission under section 9;

(c) specifying the terms and conditions of service of the employees appointed by the Commission;

(d) specifying the institutions or class of institutions which may be recognised by the Commission under clause (f) of sub-section 2;

(e) defining the qualifications that should ordinarily be required of any person to be appointed to the teaching staff of the University, having regard to the branch of education in which he is expected to give instruction; (f) defining the minimum standards of instruction for the grant of any degree by any University;

f) defining the minimum standards of instruction for the grant of any degree by any University;

(g) regulating the maintenance of standards and the co-ordination of work or facilities in Universities.

(h) regulating the establishment of institutions referred to in clause (ccc) of section 12 and other matters relating to such institutions;

(i) specifying the matters in respect of which fees may be charged, and scales of fees in accordance with which fees may be charged, by a college under sub-section (2) of section 12A;

(j) specifying the manner in which an inquiry may be conducted under sub-section (4) of section 12A;"

33. Upon reading of the various clauses of Section 26, I do not find anywhere any authority being vested with the commission to frame guidelines. Further, I find that Section 27 provides that no regulations shall be made except with the previous approval of the Central Government. Section 27(2) is reproduced hereinunder:-

"27.(2) No regulation shall be made under this section except with the previous approval of the Central Government."

34. Still further, Section 28 provides that every regulation has to be placed before both the Houses of Parliament which has to approve the same. Section 28 reproduced herinunder:-

"28. Every rule and every regulation made under this Act shall be laid, as soon as may be after it is made, before each House of Parliament while it is in session, for a total period of thirty days which may be comprised in one session or in two or more successive sessions, and if, before the expiry of the session immediately following the session, or the successive sessions aforesaid, both Houses agree in making any modification in the rule or regulation or both Houses agree that the rule or regulation should not be made, the rule or regulation shall thereafter have effect only in such modified form or be of no effect, as the case may, be; so, however, that any such modification or annulment shall be without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done under that rule or regulation."

35. A bare reading of the aforesaid provisions makes it clear that both the Houses of parliament may agree with the regulations or may provide for modifications in the rule or regulation and then it is, accordingly re-framed and passed. The UGC, therefore, could not have framed guidelines to supersede its regulations. However, in the general power of superintendence and in absence of regulations, an authority can issue executive directions and even frame guidelines to regulate the subject matter procedurally. Subject matter of model guidelines shows that it had been framed subsequently for a particular subject only i.e. re-employment of superannuated teachers.

36. Since the regulations are absolutely silent about the manner and method of re-employment of such teachers, so to that extent guidelines may still be adhered to. It appears that since the guidelines were framed prior to regulations coming into force in the year 2018, they were pursued but once the regulations have been framed then the regulations will supersede the guidelines and provisions contained in the regulation shall prevail also and regulations approved by Parliament shall have supremacy over and above all executive instructions and guidelines.

37. Besides the above, the law is very much clear that proviso cannot take away the mandate contained under the principal provision and, therefore, in my considered view, the proviso will only be limited to the extent that whatever is not provided under the regulations can be borrowed from the guidelines in the matter of re-employment of retired teachers. In the case of Ali M.K.N. State of Kerala; (2003) 11 SCC 632, Supreme Court has held that normally function of proviso is to carve out an exception out of enactment or to qualify something done in the main provision. Vide paragraph 10, the Court has held thus:

10. The normal function of a proviso is to except something out of the enactment or to qualify something enacted therein which but for the proviso would be within the purview of the enactment. As was stated in Mullins v. Treasurer of Survey; 1880 (5) QBD 170, (referred to in Shah Bhojraj Kuverji Oil Mills and Ginning Factory v. Subhash Chandra Yograj Sinha (AIR 1961 SC 1596) and Calcutta Tramways Co. Ltd. v. Corporation of Calcutta (AIR 1965 SC 1728); when one finds a proviso to a section the natural presumption is that, but for the proviso, the enacting part of the section would have included the subject matter of the proviso. The proper function of a proviso is to except and to deal with a case which would otherwise fall within the general language of the main enactment and its effect is confined to that case. It is a qualification of the preceding enactment which is expressed in terms too general to be quite accurate. As a general rule, a proviso is added to an enactment to qualify or create an exception to what is in the enactment and ordinarily, a proviso is not interpreted as stating a general rule. "If the language of the enacting part of the statute does not contain the provisions which are said to occur in it you cannot derive these provisions by implication from a proviso...." said Lord Watson in West Derby Union v. Metropolitan Life Assurance Co. (1897 AC 647)(HL). Normally, a proviso does not travel beyond the provision to which it is a proviso. It carves out an exception to the main provision to which it has been enacted as a proviso and to no other.

"This word (proviso) hath divers operations. Sometime it worketh a qualification or limitation; sometime a condition; and sometime a covenant" (Coke upon Littleton 18th Edition, 146) "If in a deed an earlier clause is followed by a later clause which destroys altogether the obligation created by the earlier clause, the later clause is to be rejected as repugnant, and the earlier clause prevails.... But if the later clause does not destroy but only qualifies the earlier, then the two are to be read together and effect is to be given to the intention of the parties as disclosed by the deed as a whole" (per Lord Wrenbury in Forbes v. Git [1922] 1 A.C. 256).

38. From the above view expressed by the Supreme Court, it is very much clear that scope of proviso is to be interpreted and understood vis-a-vis the main language of the enacting part of the statute. If the enacting part of the statute does not deal with the particular subject matter then aid can be had of proviso to find out intendment of legislature while interpreting the provisions of statute. It is true that proviso qualifies or limits scope of a provision but it is to be seen contextually. In the present case while main provision of regulations do permit re-employment to all the three categories of teachers namely Assistant Professor, Associate Professor and Professor to be offered re-employment after retirement but the manner and method in which re-employment is to be offered is not detailed out or the conditions of re-employment otherwise is not provided for in the main provision. In the circumstances, therefore, the proviso is to be given purposive interpretation so as to read substantive provision meaningful as per its plain language and also to be read down with procedures and other conditions given under the guidelines. However, it is to be kept in mind that main provision of the regulation is having a statutory backing that guidelines do lack and, therefore, if the guidelines only provided for a professor to be given re-employment, it is to be read down in terms of the main provisions as contained in Regulation 6.2.

39. In the case of Prakash & ors v. Phulvati & ors; 2016 (2) SCC 36 wherein the Supreme Court has held that scope of proviso or exception to the main provision is to be seen contextually and to ensure that the object for which the provision is enacted is not distorted. Vide paragraphs 19 to 21, the Court held thus:

"19. Interpretation of a provision depends on the text and the context. Normal rule is to read the words of a statute in ordinary sense. In case of ambiguity, rational meaning has to be given. In case of apparent conflict, harmonious meaning to advance the object and intention of legislature has to be given.

20. There have been number of occasions when a proviso or an explanation came up for interpretation. Depending on the text, context and the purpose, different rules of interpretation have been applied.

21. Normal rule is that a proviso excepts something out of the enactment which would otherwise be within the purview of the enactment but if the text, context or purpose so require a different rule may apply. Similarly, an explanation is to explain the meaning of words of the section but if the language or purpose so require, the explanation can be so interpreted. Rules of interpretation of statutes are useful servants but difficult masters. Object of interpretation is to discover the intention of legislature."

40. The petitioner being Associate Professor was very much entitled to be re-employed immediately after he attained superannuation. Now the issue remains to be resolved, whether there existed any vacancy as required under the regulation and whether even today any such vacancy exists.

41. Sri Sanjeev Singh, learned Senior Advocate has argued that there existed vacancy and that was why the University who had issued advertisement to invite applications for selection and appointment in the department of Dharm Viggyan from where petitioner retired. This advertisement was uploaded on official website of the University on 28.06.2023 as Advertisement No.11/2023/2024 with five teaching posts. Copy of the advertisement is filed as Annexure-12 to the writ petition. Vide paragraph 17 of the writ petition, it has been pleaded thus:

"17. That there are vacant posts in the Department of Dharmagam, Faculty of Sanskrit Vidya Dharm Vigyan, Barnas Hindu University, Varnasi and the petitioner fulfills all the eligibility conditions for further appointment for further period of 5 years in accordance with the UGC Regulation 2.1 but the respondent University is illegally rejected the same therefore the impugned order passed by the University on 22.05.2023 is illegal, arbitrary and against the UGC Regulations."

42. In reply to the above, vide paragraph 34 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the University, it has been stated as under:

"34. That the content of paragraph no.17 of the writ petition as stated are denied. In reply it is submitted that a suitable reply has already been given in preceding paragraph of this counter affidavit. Further, it is reiterated that as per the UGC Model Guidelines for re-employment of Superannuated Teachers, 2008 and UGCR2018 the petitioner does not fulfills the eligibility criteria for re-employment, accordingly, the order passed by the University dated 22.05.2023 and 09.10.2023 is fully based on the rules/guidelines/instructions of UGC issued from time to time."

43. Interestingly in the preceding paragraph 32 petitioner has been held to be ineligible as he retired as Associate Professor and not as Professor and as per U.G.C. Regulations, he would not be entitled. Paragraph 32 of counter affidavit is reproduced hereinunder:-

32. That since Dr. Bhaktiputra Rohtam has already been retired on 31.12.2022 and as per clause 6.3(V) of UGC Reguation, 2018 "For the promotion under the CAS, the applicant teacher must be on the role and in active service of the University/ College on the date of consideration by the Selection Committee." Therefore, his case of promotion on the post of Professor under CAS cannot be placed before the Selection Committee and on 09.10.2023 detailed and reasoned order has been already passed by the Vice Chancellor, BHU in respectful compliance to the order dated 07.08.2023 passed by the Hon'ble High Court. It is further submitted that with regard to re-employment, it is pertinent to mention here that clause 2.1 of UGC Regulation, 2018 deals with re-employment of retired teachers of the University, which is reproduced below:-

"subject to availability of vacant positions and fitness, teachers as Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Professor and Senior Professor only, may be re-employed on contract appointment beyond the age of superannuation, as applicable to the concerned University, College and Institution, up to the age of seventy years.

Provided further that all such re-employment shall be strictly in accordance with the guidelines prescribed by the UGC, from time to time."

It is also pertinent to mention here that, clause 2.1 of the UGC Regulation, 2018 is only enabling in nature and does not confer any right for re-employment. In case of necessity and on fulfillment of the condition laid down in the said Clause, the University may extend re-employment.

The UGC vide letter No.F.3-1/194(PS) Pt file dated 15th February, 2008 has provided the Model Guidelines for re-employment of superannuated teachers eligibility criteria of superannuated teachers eligible for re-employment shall be as per the said guidelines is reproduced below:-

3. Eligible Category:

The category of superannuated teachers eligible for re-employment shall be:

c) Professor only, in case of University; and

d) Professors, Readers and Lecturers (Selection grade) only in the case of Colleges"

In addition to the above, a provision has also been made at Clause 5(a) & (b) of Model Guidelines for re-employment of superannuated Teachers that, the institution shall follow the following principles, while taking up the cases of superannuated teachers for re-employment:

c) There shall be vacancies of teachers at the University Department or at the College, remaining unfilled for at least one year.

d) The number of teachers to be re-employed in a University Department and/or College at any given time shall be limited to 50% of the vacancies identified, as above-" The UGC Model guideline for re-employment of Superannuated Teachers, 2008 has not been superseded by UGC Regulation, 2018 and still in existence and impugned order has been passed accordingly. In view of the above the petitioner does not fulfill the eligibility criteria. The category of superannuated teachers eligible for re-employment shall be: a) Professor only, in the case of University: Since, Dr. Bhaktiputra Rohtam has superannuated from the service as Associate Professor therefore, his request for re-employment after superannuated /end of the academic session 2022-23 cannot be considered."

44. In Rejoinder affidavit pleadings have been raised vide paragraph 12 that U.G.C. guidelines being statutory would prevail and that it provides for extension of retired teachers upon re-employment upto 70 years of age and it has also been pleaded vide paragraph 13 of the rejoinder affidavit that post still exists in the department. Thus, it is sought to be pleaded that selection could not be held despite advertisement.

45. I have already held above that U.G.C. Regulations would prevail over the guidelines and whenever guidelines are contrary to regulations, these guidelines would be taken to have stood repealed. So if regulations provide for Assistant Professor and Associate Professor also to be entitled for re-employment, petitioner would be equally entitled. Since it is not the case of respondent- University that petitioner is not entitled to re-employment on his merit, it is held that he is entitled for re-employment as teacher in the department of Dharmagam if vacancy is existing.

46. Thus, in view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The orders passed by the Registrar and Vice Chancellor dated 22.05.2023 and 09.10.2023; respectively, impugned in the writ petition and filed as Annexure-1 & 2, are hereby quashed and following directions are issued:-

(i) The Vice Chancellor shall immediately constitute a Screening-cum-

Evaluation Committee to look into and screen out documents of self appraisal etc. submitted by the petitioner on 04.11.2021 received in CAS promotion cell on 05.01.2022 and take a decision whether petitioner was eligible on merits on the basis of documents produced by him to be promoted as professor under CAS and if it finds favour with the claim of the petitioner, it shall accord notional promotion to the petitioner with consequential benefits of pay in question as admissible to such promotional post of Professor for revision of pension and other retirement dues only w.e.f. the date petitioner attained his age of superannuation and, accordingly, arrears of difference of pension and other retirement dues shall be paid. Appropriate decision shall be taken within a maximum period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

(ii) The respondent- University is directed to give re-employment to petitioner as teacher in the department of Dharmagam, Faculty of Sanskrit Vidya Dharm Vigyan, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi if vacancy exists and appropriate order shall be passed in the above regard within three weeks of production of certified copy of this order.

Service Law – Payment of Gratuity – Applicability of Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 – Petitioners, retired or dependents of deceased employees of the Basic Education Department, sought gratuity under the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972, claiming teachers are covered as employees under Section 2(e) – Held, the Act, 1972, is not directly applicable to teachers in Basic Schools, as their gratuity is governed by specific Government Orders (dated 23.11.1994, 10.06.2002, and 04.02.2004), which provide gratuity subject to conditions, such as opting to retire at age 60 – The exception in Section 2(e) allows the St. to frame separate rules for gratuity, and petitioners failed to plead or challenge these Government Orders, rendering their claim under the Act unsustainable. (Paras 3, 10, 12, 13, 17)

Service Law – Deficiency in Pleadings and Clean Hands Doctrine – Petitioners' writ petitions lacked specific pleadings regarding applicable Government Orders and failed to disclose material facts, such as the conditions for gratuity eligibility – Held, the petitioners did not approach the Court with clean hands by suppressing relevant Government Orders and delaying their claims (ranging from 2002 to 2023) – The absence of a challenge to the Government Orders and vague pleadings preclude relief, as per the principle that a litigant must fully disclose material facts, as held in Anil Kumar Yadav and Shri K. Jayaram Vs Bangalore Development Authority. (Paras 1, 7, 16, 17)

Service Law – Conditions for Gratuity under Government Orders – The Government Orders stipulate that teachers who work until age 62 or fail to submit an option to retire at age 60 are not entitled to gratuity –

Held, as per Smt. Shiv Pyari Srivastav and Shivkali, teachers retiring at 62 or not opting for retirement at 60 forfeit gratuity, and petitioners, most of whom retired at 62 or did not plead compliance with these conditions, are not entitled to relief – However, liberty was granted to pursue claims under the Government Orders if applicable, with reference to Shivkali and Usha Rani. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. In order to make out a case to grant the relief sought, a writ petition has to be drafted very carefully. Pleadings are essential part of any litigation. The relief sought should be supported by pleadings. The present bunch of writ petitions are example of it where the prayers sought are not only vague but not supported by material pleadings also. Even the petitioners have approached this Court by not disclosing entire relevant facts which goes adverse to their case, i.e., petitioners have not approached this court with clean hands.

2. Petitioners (retired employees or husband, father or mother of deceased employees), as the case may be, while working in Basic Education Department, have retired or died (before or after retirement) and period goes as old as 2002 to as recent as 2023. They have not raised any demand of gratuity for many years and only in 2022 and 2023, these writ petitions are filed seeking relief that concerned District Basic Education Officers be directed to release and pay the petitioners their respective amount of gratuity alongwith interest. Details of petitioners and relation with deceased employee, date of retirement/ date of death, age as on retirement/death, etc. are given hereinafter in the form of following chart:

3. Petitioners have claimed aforesaid relief primarily on ground that Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1972") will be applicable to Teachers of Basic Schools. However, they have not disclosed that payment of gratuity for Teachers working in these Schools are presently governed by different Government Orders. Neither relevant Government Orders dated 23.11.1994, 10.06.2002 and 04.02.2004, were placed on record nor there was any averment in regard to their existence in writ petitions. The writ petitions are also silent about huge delay in claiming relief.

4. Despite aforesaid material shortcomings in pleadings, Sri Shoar Mohammad Khan, Sri Quazi Mohammad Akram and Sri Tawvab Ahmed Khan, Advocates for petitioners, proceeded to argue the case on merits that petitioners are employees under the definition of 'employee' as mentioned in Section 2(e) of Act, 1972. Learned counsel also referred Section 14 of Act, 1972 that it will override on all other enactments. It was also argued that there was no need to mention Government orders or to challenge it. Argument was also raised on 'repugnancy', so much as age of superannuation was increased upto 62 years without any conditions so condition of submitting any option was illegal. They also placed reliance on a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Birla Institute of Technology vs. The State of Jharkhand and others, (2019) 15 SCC 586 that since Teachers of said Institute were considered to be employees, therefore, petitioners would also fall under the definition of 'employee'. Reliance was also placed on another judgment passed by Supreme Court in Nagar Ayukt Nagar Nigam, Kanpur vs. Sri Mujib Ullah Khan and another, (Civil Appeal No. 2628 of 2017), decided on 02.04.2019 and this Court's judgment in U.P. State Sugar Corporation vs. Smt. Sharada Devi and others, 2015(4) ADJ 559.

5. Per contra, Sri K. Shahi, Sri Shivendra Singh Bhadauriya, Sri Bipin Bihari Pandey, Sri Sanjay Kumar Singh, Sri Bhanu Pratap Singh Kachhawah, Sri C.S. Singh and Sri Akhilesh Kumar Sharma, Advocates for Respondents-Basic Education Officers; Sri Ashish Kumar Nagvanshi and Sri Shashi Prakash Singh, Additional Chief Standing Counsel; Sri Ravi Prakash Srivastava, Standing Counsel and Mrs. Shruti Malviya, Brief Holder for State-Respondents, submitted that not only there is huge delay in approaching this Court but there is no challenge to Government orders whereby provision of gratuity is provided to Teachers subject to certain conditions. They further submitted that according to referred Government Orders since petitioners have worked till 62 years or not submitted option, they are not entitled for payment of gratuity. Reliance is placed on Supreme Court's decision in Biharilal Dobray vs. Roshan Lal Dobray, (1984)1 SCC 551 and this Court's decision in District Basic Education Officer and another vs. Shivkali and others (Special Appeal Defective No. 651 of 2021), decided on 06.10.2021. Reliance is also placed on a recent judgment of this Court in Smt. Shiv Pyari Srivastav and others vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ-A No. 37216 of 2014), decided on 18.01.2024 that since petitioners have worked till 62 years, they were not entitled for payment of gratuity.

6. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

7. In above legal and factual background, substantial arguments raised before this Court by petitioners are not substantially supported by pleadings of writ petitions. It is difficult to believe that petitioners have no knowledge about relevant Government Orders whereby gratuity is payable to Teachers in certain conditions, despite they have worked for many years in Primary Schools/ Junior High Schools. Not disclosing the said Government Orders is nothing but an attempt to mislead the Court.

8. As referred in Smt. Shiv Pyari Srivastav (supra), according to Government orders, if Teachers have worked upto the age of 62 years, they are not entitled for gratuity. Relevant part thereof is mentioned hereinafter:

"10. In the above factual and legal background, this Court has to consider interpretation of above referred G.Os. dated 04 February, 2004 and 23 November, 1994. According to G.O. of 23

November, 1994, in a case where an employee opt to work till the maximum age of retirement i.e. up to 62 years, he has to forego his right of gratuity and will be entitled for pension only.

11. I have also carefully perused the G.O. dated 04 February, 2004 and I have found merit in the argument of learned counsel for respondent that the said G.O. is in regard to extension of age of retirement only and it does not co-relate or extend any right to petitioners for gratuity even working till age of 62 years i.e extended date of retirement.

12. I have also carefully perused the impugned order as reproduced in previous paragraphs wherein concerned respondent has taken the same interpretation as discussed above. So far as, another G.O. is concerned, I do not find that petitioners will have any case on basis of said G.O., which was related only to an effect that petitioners were absorbed in the present service though they were earlier working in other service.

13. Therefore, petitioners are failed to point out any irregularity or illegality in the impugned order which is based on correct interpretation of concerned Government Orders, accordingly, I do not find any case for interference in impugned order, therefore, these writ petitions are accordingly, dismissed."

9. So far as payment of gratuity is concerned, Section 1(3) of Act, 1972 provides applicability of Act and being relevant, is reproduced hereinafter:

(3) It shall apply to -

(a) every factory, mine, oilfield, plantation, port and railway company;

(b) every shop or establishment within the meaning of any law for the time being in force in relation to shops and establishments in a State, in which ten or more persons are employed, or were employed, on any day of the preceding twelve months;

(c) such other establishments or class of establishments, in which ten or more employees are employed, or were employed, or, any day of the preceding twelve months, as the Central Government may, by notification, specify in this behalf."

10. It is also relevant to mention definition of 'employee' as mentioned in Section 2(e) of Act, 1972, which is reproduced hereinafter:

"(e) "employee" means any person (other than an apprentice) who is employed for wages, whether the terms of such employment are express or implied, in any kind of work, manual or otherwise, in or in connection with the work of a factory, mine, oilfield, plantation, port, railway company, shop or other establishment to which this Act applies, but does not include any such person who holds a post under the Central Government or a State Government and is governed by any other Act or by any rules providing for payment of gratuity."

11. Supreme Court in recent judgments has extended scope of "Establishment" and amended definition of "employee" and included "teachers working at private institutions" and "Angawadi workers / helpers" working under a scheme in Birla Institute of Technology (supra) and Maniben Maganbhai Bhariya v. District Development Officer Dahod and others, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 507 respectively and held that they are entitled for gratuity.

12. In all above cases, there was no separate Act or Rules were enacted for payment of gratuity. Central Government/ State Governments have framed separate Act/ Rules for payment of gratuity for Teachers working under State/ Central Institutions, as the case may be. Later on payment of gratuity was made applicable to Teachers working in schools run by Basic Education Board by way of issuing Government Orders (referred above). The later part of definition of 'employee' has carved out an exception to do so, i.e., to frame Act/ Rules for this purpose. It is upto the State to carry on present procedure or to frame specific Act/ Rules for payment of gratuity for Teachers in Basic Schools.

13. In aforesaid circumstances, presently gratuity is paid to Teachers in terms of referred Government Orders in certain circumstances. The details of Government Orders are not part of writ petitions. Petitioners have not pleaded about its applicability. Government Orders are also not under challenge, except oral argument on 'repugnancy'.

14. The argument on 'repugnancy' is also liable to be rejected since there is no challenge to Government Orders and for this purpose reference to a judgment of Supreme Court in Dhanraj vs. Vikram Singh and others (Civil Appeal No. 3117 of 2009), decided on 10.05.2023, would be relevant, wherein it has been observed that, "We are of the view that in absence of any specific challenge to the validity of the statutory provisions, the High Court ought not to have undertaken the exercise of going into the question of repugnancy."

15. The Division Bench of this Court in Shivkali (supra) has considered the issue of payment of gratuity to Teachers working at Junior High Schools and not only upheld Government Orders on payment of gratuity but interpreted conditions in benefit of Teachers also. Relevant paragraphs 13 and 14 thereof are mentioned hereinafter:

"13. In so far as the contention of the learned counsel for the appellants that by Government Order dated June 10, 2002 the option could have been exercised only upto first day of July in which the incumbent was to attain the age of 58 years is concerned, the same is not acceptable. Because a plain reading of the Government Order dated June 10, 2002 would reflect that it is in two parts. The first part is in respect of fixing the last date for exercise of option to retire early to avail the benefits of early retirement whereas the second relates to the last date for change of the option submitted earlier. In the first part, the age of retirement is not mentioned. What is stated in the first part is that those who could not exercise their option to avail the benefits under the earlier Government Order dated 23.11.1994 may exercise their option by the first day of July of the year in which they attain the age of superannuation. The second part gives option to those, who had already opted to retire at the age of 58 years, to change their option before they retire. Meaning thereby that if suppose a person has given an option to retire at the age of 58 years, before he attains the age of 58 years, he can change the option. Thus, as by Government Order dated February 4, 2004 the age of superannuation was enhanced from 60 years to 62 years by specifically providing that the benefits that were available on retirement at the age of 58 years would now be available upon completion of the age of 60 years and those that were to be available at the age of 60 years, would now be available on completion of the age of 62 years, by necessary implication, the option that could earlier be exercised upto the first day of July in which the incumbent was to attain the age of 58 years became exercisable upto the first day of July in which the incumbent would attain the age of 60 years.

14. In the instant case, since the date of birth of the first respondent's husband was 01.07.1951, he would have completed 60 years on June 30, 2011. Thus, the last day by which he could have opted to retire at the age of 60 years would be the first day of July, 2010, which never came in the life time of the first respondent's husband. Thus, for all the reasons given above, the benefit of death gratuity that would have been available to the incumbent's dependents/ heirs on incumbent's death, before attaining the age of 60 years, under the Government Order dated September 10, 2009, would be available to his heirs/dependents."

16. With regard to deficiency of pleadings and that a litigant has to approach this Court with clean hands, few paragraphs of a judgment passed by this Court in Anil Kumar Yadav vs. State of U.P. and others, Neutral Citation No. 2023:AHC:193413 are referred hereinafter:

17. In aforesaid circumstances, though the relief sought in writ petitions, was not supported by pleadings, still on basis above discussion, I do not find that petitioners are entitled for gratuity only on basis of Payment of Gratuity Act as presently it is governed by referred Government Orders permitted by legal provisions also. The petitioners have not pleaded to take benefit of relevant Government Orders for payment of gratuity, therefore, this Court cannot enter into said arena. However, if petitioners' case still falls under referred Government Orders, they have liberty to take available legal recourse to avail it's benefit for payment of gratuity and for that reference of Shivkali (supra) and Usha Rani vs. State of U.P. and others, Neutral Citation No. - 2019:AHC:180910 be taken note of.

18. The writ petitions are accordingly disposed off.

THE HON'BLE NEERAJ TIWARI, J.

Writ A No. 19344 of 2023

Arpit Shukla ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Kamal Kumar Kesherwani

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Aditya Kumar Singh, Sri Manu Saxena

Service Law – Compassionate Appointment – Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 – Petitioner sought compassionate appointment on a Class-III post following the death of his father, a Class-IV employee, on 31.07.2022 – Held, the rejection of the petitioner's application by the Chairman, Nagar Palika Parishad, Faridpur, Bareilly, vide letter dated 26.09.2023, was valid, as Rule 5 of the Rules, 1974, and Government Order dated 17.06.2014, do not entitle the dependent to a post higher than that held by the deceased employee – The petitioner's higher qualification does not override the requirement that "suitable employment" be commensurate with the deceased's post, as clarified by the Supreme Court. (Paras 3, 5, 8, 15, 16, 17, 18)

Service Law – Interpretation of "Suitable Employment" under Rule 5 – The petitioner relied on Smt. Premlata to argue that "suitable employment" under Rule 5 should be based on the dependent's qualifications – Held, the Supreme Court in St. of U.P. Vs Premlata (reversing the Division Bench) and Suneel Kumar Vs St. of U.P. clarified that "suitable employment" under Rule 5 must be interpreted with reference to the post held by the deceased employee, not the dependent's qualifications – Appointment on a higher post (e.g., Class-III) is not permissible when the deceased held a Class-IV post. (Paras 9, 12, 15, 16, 17, 18)

Service Law – Absence of Vacancy and Supernumerary Post – The petitioner argued for the creation of a supernumerary Class-III post, citing Sushma Gosain – Held, the Supreme Court in Suneel Kumar held that a supernumerary post cannot expand the scope of "suitable employment" beyond the deceased's post – The respondents confirmed no Class-III vacancy existed, and the petitioner's refusal of a Class-IV post offer further justified the rejection – The petitioner was granted liberty to apply for a Class-IV post, to be considered per the Rules, 1974. (Paras 5, 6, 11, 16, 18, 20)

Writ Petition Dismissed.

Liberty Granted to Apply for Class-IV Post.

4. Suneel Kumar Vs St. of U.P. & ors., AIR 2022 SC 5416

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for the State-respondents and Sri Manu Saxena, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 4 & 5.

2. Present petition has been filed with the following prayers:-

"(a) Issue, a writ or direction in the nature of certiorari to quash the impugned communication letter dated 26.9.2023 (Annexure No.1) issued by Respondent no.4-Chairman, Nagar Palika Parishad, Faridpur, Bareilly whereby refused to grant the appointment on Class-III post.

(b) Issue, a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding and directing the respondent authorities to appointment the petitioner on the post of Clerk (Class-III) under the Dying-In-Harness Scheme on account of the death of his father or according to this qualification as possible as earliest."

3. Brief facts of the case are that father of petitioner was working as Class-IV employee at Nagar Palika Parishad, Faridpur, Bareilly. During the course of service, father of petitioner died on 31.7.2022. After his death, petitioner has submitted an application for appointment as Class-III employee on compassionate ground, which was rejected. His appointment has not been considered, therefore, petitioner has filed an application before the District Magistrate upon which ADM has sought instruction from the respondent no.4, which was replied by him vide impugned letter dated 26.9.2023. In the said letter, it is mentioned that no post is vacant for Class-III employee and further in light of Government Order dated 17.6.2014, dependent of deceased has no right to claim particular position or place and it is the discretion of appointing authority to pass appropriate order warranted in the facts and circumstance of the case. Though, the letter dated 26.9.2023 was not communicated to petitioner, but coming to know that his claim has been rejected at the end of respondent No. 4 vide letter dated 26.09.2023, he has challenged the same by filing present petition.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that in case post is vacant, it is required on the part of respondents to create supernumerary post for Class-III employee and grant appointment. He has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Sushma Gosain vs. Union of India reported in 1989 (4) SCC 468 as well as Division Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Premlata vs. State of U.P. and others passed in Special Appeal Defective No. 620 of 2018 and Rule 5 of the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependants of Government Servants Dying in Harness Rules, 1974 (hereinafter referred to as Rules, 1974) and submitted that petitioner is entitled for appointment on the post for which he is having qualification.

5. Sri Manu Saxena, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 4 & 5 has vehemently opposed and submitted that in light of Government Order dated 17.6.2014, petitioner has no right to claim particular post. He next submitted that State Government has challenged the judgment of Division Bench of this Court given in Smt. Premlata (Supra) before the Apex Court and Apex Court has reversed the judgment with specific finding that mere qualification cannot be a ground for appointment on higher post than the post held by the deceased employee. He also pointed out that it is not the case of petitioner that post of Class-III is vacant rather respondents are having specific case that post of Class-III employee is not vacant, which is also not disputed by the petitioner.

6. He further submitted that again the similar issue came up before the Apex Court in the matter of Suneel Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others reported in AIR 2022 SC 5416 and Apex Court has taken specific view that supernumerary post cannot determine the scope of the words

"suitable employment." He firmly submitted that in both the cases, Rule 5 of Rules, 1974 has been interpreted, which was subject matter of Division Bench of this Court in the case of Smt Premlata (Supra), therefore, under such facts and interpretation made by Apex Court, petitioner is not entitled for appointment on Class-III post on compassionate ground.

7. I have considered the rival submission advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, Rule 5 of Rules, 1974 as well as judgments relied upon by the parties. Facts of this case are undisputed. The only issue before the Court is interpretation of judgements as well as Rule 5 of Rules, 1974 relied by both the parties.

8. To appreciate the present controversy, Rule 5 of Rules 1974 is being quoted hereinbelow:-

[5. Recruitment of a member of the family of the deceased.-(1) In case a Government servant dies in harness after the commencement of these rules and the spouse of the deceased Government servant is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government, one member of his family who is not already employed under the Central Government or a State Government or a Corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or a State Government shall, on making an application for the purposes, be given a suitable employment in Government service on a post except the post which is within the purview of the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission, in relaxation of the normal recruitment rules, if such person-

(i) fulfils the educational qualifications prescribed for the post,

(ii) is otherwise qualified for Government service, and

(iii) makes the application for employment within five years from the date of the death of the Government servant:

Provided that where the State Government is satisfied that the time limit fixed for making the application for employment causes undue hardship in any particular case, it may dispense with or relax the requirement as it may consider necessary for dealing with the case in a just and equitable manner.

(2) As far as possible, such an employment should be given in the same department in which the deceased Government servant was employed prior to his death.] [5A. Recruitment of member of the family of Police/P.A.C. Personnel who dies in May, 1973.-

Notwithstanding anything contained to the contrary contained in Rule 5 or in any other rule, the provisions of these rules shall apply in the case of members of the family of twenty-two police or per Provincial Armed Constabulary personnel who died as a result of disturbances in May, 1973, as they apply in the case of a Government servant during dying in harness after the commencement of these rules.]

9. Rule 5 of Rules, 1974 was interpreted by Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Smt. Premlata (Supra) and Court has opined that suitable appointment means appointment commensurate to the qualification.

10. I have perused the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Sushma Gosain (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment are quoted hereinbelow:-

"9. We consider that it must be stated unequivocally that in all claims for appointment on compassionate grounds, there should not be any delay in appointment. The purpose of providing appointment on compassionate ground is to mitigate the hardship due to death of the bread earner in the family. Such appointment should, therefore, be provided immediately to redeem the family in distress. It is improper to keep such case pending for years. If there is no suitable post for appointment supernumerary post should be created to accommodate the applicant."

11. This judgment of Apex Court does not deal with the interpretation of Rules 5 of Rules, 1974 as well as suitable employment. It only says that claim for appointment on compassionate ground there should have been delay and in case of unavailability of post, supernumerary post should be created to accommodate the applicant. Here, the post of class-IV is available in light of Government Order dated 17.6.2014, same has been offered to petitioner, which was refused by petitioner only on the ground that he is having higher qualification. Facts of the case is entirely different and not applicable in the case of petitioner.

12. I have also perused the judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Premlata (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment are quoted hereinbelow:-

"A bare perusal of Rule 5 of the Rules of 1974 makes it crystal clear that appointment under Rule 5 aforesaid is required to be given on a suitable post. The term 'suitable' in Rule 5 aforesaid pertains to suitability of the person who desires for appointment and it has nothing to do with the post held by the deceased Government Servant. The suitability of the aspirant is required to be assessed on basis of the educational qualification and other eligibilities so possessed by such person. In the case in hand, the appellant-petitioner is having the qualification of Bachelors Degree in Arts as well as Bachelors Degree in Education.

Looking to the qualification aforesaid, appellant-petitioner is suitable to be employed on a post in Grade-III and there is no just and valid reason for not employing her in the grade aforesaid. Suffice to mention that it is not the case of the appellant-petitioner that no Class-III post is available in the entire Department of Police of Uttar Pradesh.

In view of it, we are of considered opinion that learned Single Bench erred while rejecting the writ petition on the count that the husband of the appellant-petitioner was working in Class-IV cadre and, therefore, appointment in Class-IV cadre is justified."

13. Division Bench of this Court has taken view that suitable employment means appointment commensurate to the qualification. Court has also opined that there is vacancy of Class-III post, therefore, same has to be taken to petitioner in that case.

14. Facts of the present case are slightly different to the case relied upon. In the present case, post of class-III is not vacant, therefore, facts of the present case is not similar with the judgment and order of Division Bench of this Court passed in the matter of Smt. Premlata (Supra).

15. Apart that, State Government has challenged the judgment of Division Bench of this Court passed in the matter of Smt. Premlata (Supra) and Apex Court has reversed the said judgment with detailed finding. Relevant paragraph of this said judgment is being quoted hereinbelow:-

"10. Thus as per the law laid down by this court in the aforesaid decisions, compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule of appointment in the public services and is in favour of the dependents of a deceased dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood, and in such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such employment. The whole object of granting compassionate employment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis. The object is not to give such family a post much less a post held by the deceased.

10.1 Applying the law laid down by this court in the aforesaid decisions and considering the observations made hereinabove and the object and purpose for which the appointment on compassionate ground is provided, the submissions on behalf of the respondent and the interpretation by the Division Bench of the High Court on Rule 5 of Rules 1974, is required to be considered

. 10.2 The Division Bench of the High Court in the present case has interpreted Rule 5 of Rules 1974 and has held that 'suitable post' under Rule 5 of the Rules 1974 would mean any post suitable to the qualification of the candidate irrespective of the post held by the deceased employee. The aforesaid interpretation by the Division Bench of the High Court is just opposite to the object and purpose of granting the appointment on compassionate ground. 'Suitable post' has to be considered, considering status/post held by the deceased employee and the educational qualification/eligibility criteria is required to be considered, considering the post held by the deceased employee and the suitability of the post is required to be considered vis a vis the post held by the deceased employee, otherwise there shall be no difference/distinction between the appointment on compassionate ground and the regular appointment. In a given case it may happen that the dependent of the deceased employee who has applied for appointment on compassionate ground is having the educational qualification of ClassII or ClassI post and the deceased employee was working on the post of Class/Grade IV and/or lower than the post applied, in that case the dependent/applicant cannot seek the appointment on compassionate ground on the higher post than what was held by the deceased employee as a matter of right, on the ground that he/she is eligible fulfilling the eligibility criteria of such higher post. The aforesaid shall be contrary to the object and purpose of grant of appointment on compassionate ground which as observed hereinabove is to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis on the death of the bread earner. As observed above, appointment on compassionate ground is provided out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that some source of livelihood is provided and family would be able to make both ends meet.

10.3 In the present case as observed hereinabove initially the respondent applied for appointment on compassionate ground on the post of Assistant Operator in Police Radio Department. The same was not accepted by the Department and rightly not accepted on the ground that she was not fulfilling requisite eligibility criteria for the post of Assistant Operator. Thereafter the respondent again applied for appointment on the compassionate ground on the post of Workshop Hand. The case of the respondent was considered, however, she failed in the physical test examination, which was required as per the relevant recruitment rules of 2005. Therefore, thereafter she was offered appointment on compassionate ground as Messenger which was equivalent to the post held by the deceased employee. Therefore appellants were justified in offering the appointment to the respondent on the post of Messenger. However, the respondent refused the appointment on such post.

11. In view of the above and for the reasons stated above, the Division Bench of the High Court has misinterpreted and misconstrued Rule 5 of the Rules 1974 and in observing and holding that the 'suitable post' under Rule 5 of the DyingIn Harness Rules 1974 would mean any post suitable to the qualification of the candidate and the appointment on compassionate ground is to be offered considering the educational qualification of the dependent. As observed hereinabove such an interpretation would defeat the object and purpose of appointment on compassionate ground.

12. In view of the above for the reasons stated above, present appeal succeeds. The impugned judgment and order passed by the Division Bench of the High Court dated 14.09.2018 in Special Appeal Defective (SAD) No.620 of 2018 is hereby quashed and set aside. Consequently the writ petition preferred by the respondent before the learned Single Judge being Writ Petition No.16009 of 2018 stands dismissed and the order passed by the learned Single Judge dated 31.07.2018 dismissing the writ stands restored. No costs.

16. This issue was again before the Apex Court in the matter of Suneel Kumar (Supra). Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"10. At the same time, as far as the question relating to the entitlement as it were of the appellant to be considered to the post of Gram Panchayat Officer is concerned, it is without doubt a post borne in Class-III. The father of the appellant was working as a Sweeper borne in Class-IV post. We have noticed the view taken by this Court in Premlata (supra). In other words, the law as declared is to the effect that the words "suitable employment" in Rule 5 must be understood with reference to the post held by the deceased employee. The superior qualification held by a dependent cannot determine the scope of the words "suitable employment".

11. It is clear that the Annexure P-1 does not represent statutory Rules. We do not think we should be persuaded to take a different view as things stand. We cannot eclipse the dimension that the whole purport of the scheme of compassionate appointment is to reach immediate relief to the bereaved family. In such circumstances, the meaning placed on the words "suitable employment" bearing in mind the post held by the deceased employee cannot be said to be an unreasonable or incorrect view."

17. Apex Court had twice interpreted the Rule 5 Rules 1974 as well as suitable employment as referred herein. Apex Court has clearly held that "suitable employment" in Rule 5 must be construed with the post held by the deceased employee and not by the higher qualification held by the dependent. View of the Apex Court is that compassionate appointment shall not be given upon a higher post than the post held by the deceased employee. Therefore, as on date, law of land is that legal heir cannot be given appointment on compassionate ground to a post higher than the post held by the deceased employee.

18. Now coming to the present case. Undisputedly father of petitioner was working on the Class-IV post and after his death, he has been offered employment on the post of Class-IV, which was refused by him on the ground that he is having qualification for the post of Class-III. Therefore, in light of interpretation of Rule 5 of Rules 1974 made by the Apex Court as well as this Court, petitioner is not entitled for the post of Class-III on compassionate ground.

19. Accordingly, the writ petition lacks merit and is dismissed. No order as to costs.

20. However, this order does not preclude the petitioner to file application for appointment on Class-IV post. In case any such application is filed by petitioner, same shall be considered and decided in accordance with Rules, 1974 as well as law laid down by this Court.

Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings – Authority of Committee of Management – Dr. Sudha Garg, an Associate Professor appointed on the recommendation of the Higher Education Service Commission, challenged the Committee of Management's authority to initiate disciplinary proceedings, arguing that only the St. Government through the Director of Higher Education could do so – Held, under Statutes 14.03, 14.04, and 14.07 of the First Statute of Mahatma Jyotiba Phule Rohilkhand University, read with Section 31(1) of the U.P. St. Universities Act, 1973, the Committee of Management is the appointing and disciplinary authority for teachers in affiliated colleges, subject to Vice Chancellor's approval – The U.P. Higher Education Service Commission Act, 1980, governs only the selection process, not disciplinary matters, and its overriding effect under Section 30 does not extend to disciplinary proceedings, which remain under the University Act and Statutes. (Paras 12(a), 23, 25, 32, 34, 35, 41, 42)

Service Law – Principles of Natural Justice in Disciplinary Enquiry – Dr. Garg challenged the enquiry process, alleging denial of opportunity to cross-examine witnesses and access documents – Held, the enquiry report dated 30.07.2019 was vitiated due to procedural lapses, including failure to supply copies of witness St.ments and affidavits, denial of cross-examination opportunities, and lack of discussion on Dr. Garg's documentary evidence and replies – The enquiry committee's findings were not supported by adequate evidence, particularly on charges related to delaying practical examinations and closing optional subjects, violating principles of natural justice as per Kumaon Mandal Vikas Nigam Ltd. and Salahuddin Ansari – The enquiry was deemed a farce, justifying its quashing. (Paras 12(b), 44, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 54, 55, 59)

Service Law – Vice Chancellor's Role and Findings – The Committee of Management challenged the Vice Chancellor's order dated 04.10.2023, which reinSt.d Dr. Garg despite sustaining charges 1 and 6, arguing inconsistency – Held, the Vice Chancellor, under Statute 14.06(3), has the authority to review the enquiry process and findings for approval of punishment but erred in reinstating Dr. Garg while sustaining charges, as this contradicted the finding that no charges were proved – Given the enquiry's procedural flaws, the appropriate course was to remit the matter for a fresh enquiry rather than reinSt. – The Vice Chancellor's order and the enquiry report were quashed, with directions for a fresh enquiry. (Paras 12(c), 60, 61, 64, 65, 67, 68)

1. Heard Sri Indra Raj Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner in the present petition and as counsel for the respondent Committee of Management in connected Writ Petition being Writ A No. 18909 of 2023 as well and Sri Rohit Pandey, learned Advocate appearing for the University in both the matters and Dr. Sudha Garg, who has personally appeared being respondent no. 3 in present petition and being petitioner in connected Writ Petition being Writ A No. 18909 of 2023.

2. Writ A No. 20031 of 2023 has been filed by the Committee of Management of Hindu College Morabadabd whereas Writ Petition No. 18909 of 2023 has been filed by Dr. Garg, Associate Professor and Head of Departmental of Zoology at Hindu College Moradabad.

3. Dr. Garg is a caveator in Writ A No. 20031 of 2023 and pleadings have been exchanged between the contesting parties including University. Both the writ petitions are directed against the order of Vice Chancellor dated 4.10.2023, and therefore, are being heard and decided together taking writ petition 20031 of 2023 as a leading petition.

4. Briefly stated facts of the case are that Dr. Garg, namely third respondent was placed under suspension by the Committee of Management of the institution vide order dated 18.2.2019 and the same day she was served with a chargesheet containing as many as eight charges. Dr. Garg right from the beginning has been questioning the authority of the Committee of Management to hold enquiry against her not only for the reason that charges were ill founded but also that Committee of Management was not entitled to hold any enquiry for she being appointed upon recommendation of Director of Higher Education. According to her, therefore, any enquiry could have been conducted only at the instance of State Government through Director of Higher Education. Dr. Garg submitted her reply to the charge sheet on 10.4.2019 denying all eight charges, but the enquiry committee after holding enquiry into the charges, returned findings to the effect that all the charges against Dr. Garg stood proved vide its report dated 30th July,2019. Dr. Garg was served with a show cause notice alongwith enquiry report on 3rd August, 2019 to which she submitted her reply on 14th August, 2019. The Committee of Management after having deliberations upon reply submitted by Dr. Garg found it appropriate to inflict upon her major penalty of dismissal/ termination from service by adopting resolution to this effect on 27th August, 2019, the same stood forwarded to the Vice Chancellor Mahatma Jyotiba Phule Rohilkhand University for its approval. The Vice Chancellor passed an order dated 25th August, 2022, which came to be challenged before this Court by Committee of Management as well as Dr. Garg vide Writ A No. 14616 of 2022 and 19389 of 2022 respectively. The order was set aside by this Court under its detailed judgment and order dated 17th July, 2023 and directions got issued to the Vice Chancellor to take decision afresh after giving personal hearing to the parties on a fixed date i.e. 11.8.2023. Dr. Garg was also directed to be paid subsistence allowance since her status as was during pendency of the disciplinary proceeding, was maintained as such and joining and payment of regular salary was held to be subject to the fresh decision by Committee of Management and the Vice Chancellor. Dr. Garg claimed to have appeared before Vice Chancellor with detailed reply afresh filed by her before Vice Chancellor on 5.8.2023. The Vice Chancellor proceeded to hear the matter on merits afresh and after hearing rival parties a passed final order on 4.10.2023 holding that Dr. Garg having not been found guilty of any of charges, approval could not be granted to the termination of her service as proposed by the Committee of Management and since determination of point nos. 2,3 and 4 have been made in her favour, Dr. Garg was held entitled to reinstatement with all consequential benefits. It is this above order that has been challenged by the Committee of Management as well as Dr. Garg in their respective writ petitions.

5. One of the arguments advanced by Ms. Sudha Garg appearing in present petition was that she having been recommended for appointment by Higher Education Service Commission for appointment in the institution in question, the Committee of Management may be a de jure appointing authority for the purpose of giving appointment and joining to the petitioner but de facto power lies with the State to make recommendations. It is in this context she submitted that in view of Statute No. 14.05 of the First Statute of the University, there was no contract of employment as such stricto Sensu between her and the Committee of Management to attract provisions contained under the statute nos. 14.06 and 14.07- A .

6. She further submitted that chargesheet issued by the Manager/Secretary of the Committee of Management of the institution who was not competent to either hold enquiry or issue chargesheet.

7. The argument advanced by Dr. Garg appearing in person, was that she performed her duties honestly and to the best of her ability, knowledge and skill and her integrity was also certified as teacher and head of department but on account of lack of proper infrastructural facilities to be provided by the management, she felt compelled to suggest the students not to go for optional subjects of cytology or Entomology. She claimed to have had never any grudge against either management or colleagues but of course had the one against the system. She always tried to give best eduction to the students. She submitted her reply in detailed on 10.04.2019 to the charge-sheet served upon her on 18.2.2019, which was not considered by the enquiry officer and chages were not proved by evidence and the enquiry was also vitiated for want of reasonable opportunity of hearing. She had, as claimed, even demanded number of documents which were filed on behalf of the management in support of the charges that were led before the enquiry committee but neither any information in relation to all those documents was furnished, nor the documents demanded were supplied to her. She submitted that even copy of enquiry report was never supplied to her. It was further submitted that in respect of those witnesses who were examined, petitioner was not permitted to even cross examine them and claimed it to be fully reflected from the enquiry report that no date was fixed to cross examine and thus findings that were returned, were all ex parte. She further submitted that vice chancellor was justified in holding that enquiry was not held as per procedure prescribed and in the matter of oral enquiry for the purposes of inflicting a major penalty it was necessary for the enquiry committee to have fixed specific dates to permit cross examination of the witnesses that were produced by the management in support of the charges inasmuch students who had appeared with their respective Ids.

8. It was also argued that in the matter of departmental proceedings when the enquiry was to be conducted and charges to be framed as such that may invite major penalty, it was always to be looked into as to what kind of intrinsic material had been placed before the enquiry committee against the delinquent employee. It was further submitted that in support of basic charge that petitioner proceeded to close down the department to force students not to opt for optional subjects, there was not supportive material worth evidenciary value. It was further submitted that at no point of time any such material was placed even before the enquiry officer which could have proved that notice in question was got published by the petitioner. She further submitted that in the matter of departmental enquiry, she led evidence and was always trying her level best to rebut the allegations and material evidence led in respect of the charge-sheet but enquiry committee failed to discuss all these details that were there in her reply and as such no finding has come to be returned in the finding part of the enquiry report that petitioner failed to hold examination as per instructions issued by the University. She also argued that those who came to be examined by submitting their written submissions before Enquiry Committee, were not permitted to be cross examined. If there were certain crucial witnesses in so far as running of the department and academic activities in department were concerned, petitioner was required to be given an opportunity to cross examine but being not given any opportunity, she submitted that entire departmental enquiry was biased and so report could not be sustained so as to maintain the order of dismissal/ termination from service. She also submitted that Vice Chancellor had not been justified in sustaining charge no. 1 and 6 inasmuch as her entire reply had not been considered by the Vice Chancellor in its correct perspective. She submitted that reply submitted by her before Vice Chancellor after matter was remitted by this Court in the first round of litigation and yet points raised in reply as point nos, 2.6, 2.7 and no. 2.8 have not been considered at all. She submitted that Vice Chancellor was also not justified in affirming the findings of enquiry report and sustaining the charge nos. 1 and 6.

9. Sri Rohit Pandey on the contrary has argued that Vice Chancellor was justified in passing order impugned, inasmuch as Vice Chancellor was well within his right to examine as to whether departmental enquiry was properly held and findings returned were proper or not and whether principles of natural justice were followed or not in the matter of holding of the departmental enquiry and disciplinary proceedings. He has taken the Court to the Statute 14.04 and 14.07 under which Vice Chancellor was well within his duty and power to examine all these aspects of the matter and cannot be faulted with for findings so returned in the order impugned. He, however, disputed the authority of the Vice Chancellor to interfere with the order of punishment and as an appellate authority and so it was appropriate to permit employer/ disciplinary authority to reconsider the imposition of punishment of a lessor degree.

10. Sri I.R. Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that in Writ Petition No. 20031 of 2023 Committee of Management has assailed the order of Vice Chancellor on three grounds: firstly on the ground that Vice Chancellor while sustaining charge no. 1 to 6, was not justified in finally returning a finding that none of charges was proved against delinquent employee, and therefore, she deserved reinstatement with salary. Second argument was that as per Statute 14.03 read with 14.04, where charge was proved against delinquent employee, Management was entitled to dismiss such employee from employment. He took the Court to relevant statutes for this purpose and also appendix B in which, according to him, point nos. 1 and 5 were established for misconduct upon which findings had come to be returned in the enquiry report, and therefore, Committee of Management was fully justified in dismissing the petitioner from service; and third, Vice Chancellor was not justified in holding that punishment was disproportionate in any manner to the charges proved .

11. Mr. Singh submitted, once integrity was held to be doubtful or otherwise not worth certification by the employer, such an employee could always be dismissed from employment. He has argued that manner and method in which department was being run as had borne out from the departmental enquiry, the Committee of Management had no other option but to dismiss her from service. He submitted that charge of closing branches in respect of optional subjects like cytology or Entomology was serious one. He submitted that Dr. Garg ought to have contacted the employer for this purpose and better solution could have been obtained, instead of pasting any notice or forcing students as per findings returned in the enquiry report, not to go for these two optional subjects. He further submitted that Statute 31 prescribed Committee of Management to be appointing authority and Section 60-d authorized management to forward bills for the purposes of payment of salary and so it was a disciplinary authority.

12. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and Dr. Garg who appeared in person and having noticed the arguments so advanced and having perused the records, I find three points to be emerging in the present petition:

(a) Whether a recognized Committee of Management of recognized/affiliated degree College of University is empowered to institute disciplinary proceedings and hold departmental enquiry against teachers of the college who are appointed on recommendations of the Higher Education Service Commission;

(b) Whether the departmental enquiry held by the enquiry committee and consequential decision taken by the disciplinary authority has been as per procedure prescribed for and principles laid down in various authorities of the Supreme Court and this Court that govern departmental enquiries; and

(c) Whether Vice Chancellor is justified in holding that no charges have been proved to entitle Dr. Sudha Garg reinstatement even while sustaining charge no. 1 and 6 as per his own findings.

13. Taking the first point '(a)' I proceed to examine relevant provision of first statute of the University of Rohilkhand to which institution in question is affiliated to.

14. The first statute of the University is framed under U.P. State Universities Act, 1973 and provisions contained therein deal with teachers and employees of the University, their service conditions and administrative powers of the Chancellor, Vice Chancellor, Registrar, Dean of faculty, Dean of the Students Welfare, Head of Department, Laboratory, Proctor, the Court and also these powers in relation to the affiliated colleges that impart higher education to students.

15. Chapter II of the first statute starting with Statute No. 11.01 deals with affiliated colleges and Statute No. 11.05 provides for constitution of management of every college and its recognition and approval by the Vice Chancellor. Chapter XIV-A deals with conditions of service of teachers of the University and provides vide Clause 14.02-A that teacher shall be maintaining absolute integrity and further provides vide 14.03-A that any breach of provision of the Code of Professional Ethics mentioned in Statute 14.04 and code of conduct as set out in Appendix-C shall be deemed to be misconduct and then 14.04-A provides for removal/dismissal/termination of a University teacher on any of the grounds mentioned therein. Statute 14.07-A (a) provides for suspension of teacher during pendency and/or in contemplation of enquiry into charges against him/her on the grounds mentioned in Sub-clause (a) to (e) of the Clause (1) of the Statute 14.04. The provisions as contained in Statute 14.02-A, 14.03-A, 14.04-A and 14.07-A are reproduced hereunder:

"14.02-A A teacher of the University shall at all times maintain absolute integrity and devotion to duty and shall observe the Code of Conduct professional ethics mentioned in Statute 14.34 and the code of conduct as set out in Appendix 'C, which shall form part of the agreement to be signed by the teacher at the time of appointment. (Section 49) (d)

14.03-A- A breach of any of the provisions of the Code of Professional ethics mentioned in statute 14.34 and code of conduct as set out in Appendix 'C' shall be deemed to be a misconduct within the meaning of Statute 14.04-A(1). (Section 49) (d)

14.04A- (1) A teacher of the University may be dismissed or removed or his services terminated on one or more of the following grounds:

(a) willful neglect of duty;

(b) misconduct,

(c) breach of any of the terms of contract of service;

(d) dishonesty connected with the University examinations;

(e) scandalous conduct or conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude;

(f) physical or mental unfitness;

(g) incompetence;

(h) abolition of the post.

(2) Except as provided by Section 31(2), not less than three months notice (or where notice is given after the month of October, then three months' notice or notice ending with the close of the session whichever is longer) shall be given on either side for terminating the contract of service or in lieu of such notice, salary for three months (or such longer period as aforesaid) shall be paid or refunded, as the case may be:

Provided that where the University dismisses or removes or terminates the services of a teacher, under clause (1) or when the teacher terminates the contract for breach of any of its terms by the University, no such notice shall be necessary:

Provided further that the parties will be free to waive the condition of notice, in whole or in part by mutual agreement.

14.07-A(1) The disciplinary committee referred to in statute 8.01 may recommend the suspension of a teacher during the pendency or in contemplation of an inquiry into charges against him/here, on the ground mentioned in sub-clause (a) to (e) of Clause (1) of Statute 14.04. The order of suspension, if in operation on the expiry of four weeks unless the teacher has in the mean time been communicated the charges on which the inquiry was contemplated.

(2) A teacher of University shall be deemed to have been placed under suspension-

(a) with effect from the date of his conviction, if in the event of a conviction for an offence, he is sentenced to a term of imprisonment exceeding 48 hours and is not forth with dismissed or removed consequent to such conviction;

(b) In any other case, for the duration of his detention, if he is detained in custody, whether the detention is for any criminal charge or otherwise."

16. Thus above provisions are corresponding to the provisions as contained Section 49(d) and Section 21(1)(xvii) of the State Universities Act, 1973.

17. Similarly Chapter XV Part-1 of the first statute deals with the conditions of service of teachers of colleges. The provisions as contained in Statute 14.03(1), 14.04(1) and 14.07 are pari materia to the aforesaid quoted provisions. Accordingly, for ready reference and better appreciation, statute 14.03, 14.04 and 14.07 are reproduced hereunder:

"14.02. Except in the case of an appointment under Section 31(3) in a vacancy caused by the grant of leave to a teacher for a period not exceeding 10 months, teachers of an affiliated college shall be appointed on a written contract in form (1) or form (2) set out in Appendix 'C' as the case may be. (Section 49) (o)

14.03. (1) A teacher of the a College shall at all times maintain absolute integrity and devotion to duty and shall observe the Code of Professional Ethics mentioned in statute 14.34-A and Code of Conduct as set out in Appendix C, which shall form part of the agreement to be signed by the teacher at the time of appointment.

(2) A breach of any of the provisions of the Code of Professional Ethics mentioned in statute 14.34-A and Code of Conduct as set out in Appendix C shall be deemed to be misconduct within the meaning of Statute 14.04 (1). (Section 49) (o)

14.04(1) teacher of an affiliated college (other than a Principal) may be dismissed or removed or his services terminated on one or more of the following grounds:-

(a) willful neglect of duty;

(b) misconduct, including disobedience to the order of the Principal;

(c) breach of any of the terms of contract of service;

(d) dishonesty connected with the University or College examinations;

(e) scandalous conduct or conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude;

(f) physical or mental unfitness;

(g) incompetence;

(h) abolition of the post

(2) A principal of an affiliated college may be dismissed or removed, or his services terminated on grounds mentioned in clause (1) or on the ground of continuous mismanagement of the college.

(3) Except as provided by clause (4), not less than three months' notice (or where notice is given after the month of October, then three months' notice or notice ending with the close of the session whichever is longer)shall be given on either side for terminating the contract of service or in lieu of such notice, salary for three months (or longer period as aforesaid) shall be paid or refunded, as the case may be:

Provided that where the Management dismisses or removes or terminates the services of a teacher, under clause (1) or clause (2) or when the teacher terminates the contract for breach of any of its terms by the Management, no such notice shall be necessary:

Provided further that the parties will be free to waive the condition of notice, in whole or in part by mutual agreement.

(4) In the case of any other teacher appointed in a temporary or officiating capacity services shall be terminable, by one month's notice or on payment of salary in lieu thereof, on either side.

14.07. The Management shall have the power to suspend a teacher during the pendency or in contemplation of an inquiry into charge against him, on the grounds mentioned in subclass (a) to (e) of clauses (1) of Statute 14.04. In an emergency, (in the case of teacher other than principal) this power may be exercised by the principal in anticipation of the approval of the Management. The Principal shall immediately report such case to the Management. The order of suspension if passed in contemplation of an inquiry shall cease at the end of four weeks of its operation unless the teacher has in the mean time being communicated the charge of the charges on which the inquiry was contemplated."

(emphasis added)

18. It is also important to refer to here Clause 14.16 of Chapter IV of first statute, which had been heavily relied upon by Dr. Garg in support of her arguments. The relevant provisions as contained under Clause 14.16 is reproduced hereunder:

" The provisions of clauses (2) to (4) of the Statute 14.07-A, 14.29-A to 14.34-A shall mutatis mutandis apply to every teacher of a college with the following modification, namely:-

(a) In clauses (2) to (4) of Statute 14.07-A, for the words "Vice Chancellor", and "Executive Council", the words "Management" and "Vice Chancellor" shall respectively be substituted.

(b) In statute 14.29-A for the words "Vice Chancellor", and Head of Department", the words "Principal" and the "Senior-most Assistant Professor in the Department" shall respectively be substituted."

19. The provisions as noted above do provide that provisions as contained under Statute 14.07-A , 14.29-A and 14.34-A shall mutatis mutandis apply to every teacher of the college with modifications that wherever Vice Chancellor and the Executive Council have been referred to will be Management and Vice Chancellor in respect of the colleges in so far as 14.07-A is concerned.

20. Sub-clause (b) is not of the importance here for the purpose of arguments advanced.

21. Now 14.07-A talks of Disciplinary Committee referable to Statute 14.04-A (a) to (e). Obviously it is power of suspension vested with Vice Chancellor and power of approval or dismissal from service vests with Executive Council, and therefore, in reference to an affiliated college, it will obviously be Committee of Management and for approval the Vice Chancellor. The Statute 14.07 does authorize the management to suspend a teacher during pendency or in contemplation of the enquiry. The said statute as prescribed under Pat-1 of Chapter XIV is already reproduced above

22. All these provisions as noted above and being discussed are referable to Section 49-(d) of the U.P. Universities Act, 1973 that provides for statutes and ordinances to govern the matters relating to University and its affiliated / associated colleges. Section 49-(d) is reproduced hereunder:

"[(d) the classification and recruitment (including minimum qualifications and experience) of Principals and other teachers of the University and of affiliated and associated colleges, the maintenance by them of their annual academic progress report, the rules of conduct to be observed by them and their emoluments and other conditions of service (including provisions relating to compulsory retirement);"

23. It is worth noticing here that Section 31(1) does confer the power of appointment upon Committee of Management qua teachers and employees of the affiliated / associated colleges. Section 31(1) for ready reference is reproduced hereunder:

"31. - Appointment of Teachers- (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the teachers of the University and the teachers of an affiliated or associated college (other than a college maintained exclusively by the State Government 2[ * ]) shall be appointed by the Executive Council or the Management of the affiliated or associated college, as the case may be, on the recommendation of a Selection Committee in the manner hereinafter provided.[The Selection Committee shall meet as often as necessary.]"

24. Chapter XIV Part-1 itself empowers the management to dismiss or remove the services of the teachers subject to approval of the Vice Chancellor. 14.06 and the same in its entirety is reproduced hereunder:

"14.06 (1) No order dismissing, removing or terminating the services of a teacher on any ground mentioned in clause (1) or clause(2) of Statute 14.04 (except in the case of conviction for an offence involving moral turpitude or of abolition of post) shall be passed unless a charge has been framed against the teacher and communicated to him with a statement of the grounds on which it is proposed to take action and he has been given adequate opportunity-

(i) of submitting a written statement of his defense;

(ii) of being heard in person, if he so desires; and

(iii) of calling and examining such witnesses in his defense as he may desire:

Provided that the Management or the officer authorized by it on conduct the inquiry may, for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call any witness.

(2) The Management may, at any time, ordinary within two months from the date of the inquiry Officer's report pass a resolution dismissing or removing the teacher concerned from service, or terminating his services mentioning the grounds of such dismissal, removal or termination.

(3) The resolution shall forthwith be communicated to the teacher concerned and also be reported to the Vice-Chancellor for approval and shall not be operative unless so approved by the Vice Chancellor.

(4) The Management may, instead of dismissing, removing or terminating the service of the teacher, pass a resolution inflicting one or more of the following lesser punishments namely-

(i) Reduction of pay for a specified period

(ii) Stoppage of annual increments for specified period not exceeding three years

(iii) Deprivation of his pay not including subsistence allowance during a period of his suspension, if any.

The resolution by the management inflicting such punishment shall be reported by the Vice-Chancellor and shall be operative on when and to the extent, approved by the Vice- Chancellor."
(emphasis added)

25. Upon bare reading of the aforesaid provisions one can easily come to conclude that Committee of Management has been vested with power in the matters of imposition of punishment and deduction of pay of teachers subject to of course approval of Vice Chancellor as per Statute 14.06(3) and 14.06(4).

26. Thus there is no question to refer to any other provision so as to take out inference that disciplinary committee as is sought to be constituted under Statute 8.01, is the only disciplinary committee which is to be referred to for the purposes of holding disciplinary proceedings against a teacher of an affiliated college for taking disciplinary actions. The Disciplinary Committee that is referable to Statute 8.01 is in respect to the enquiry committee to be constituted for the purposes of teachers and employees of the University and not of its affiliated colleges.

27. It is necessary here to deal with argument raised by Dr. Sudha Garg that in view of the Section 30 of the U.P. Higher Education Service Commission Act, 1980, this new Act shall have overriding effect and shall prevail over and above contrary provisions contained under the U.P. State Universities Act, 1973, the first statutes and ordinances framed thereunder as well.

28. I have examined aims and object of the Higher Education Service Commission Act and find that the Act had been enacted by U.P. legislature to constitute a Service Commission for selection of teachers to be appointed in the affiliated and/or recognized colleges of the University. So basic object is to hold selection for appointment of teachers. Section 12 of the Act that came into force on 22nd November, 1991 as substituted by amending Act No. 2 of 1992, provides that every appointment as teacher of any college shall be made by management but in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Section 12 of the Commission Act is reproduced hereunder:

12. Procedure for appointment of teachers- (1) Every appointment as a teacher of any college shall be made by the management in accordance with the provisions of this Act and every appointment made in contravention thereof shall be void.

"Provided that a permanent teacher of an ffiliated or associated college, who has been appointed in accordance with the provisions of this Act and has completed (five years') service as such and who wishes to be transferred to any other college, may be transferred in the manner prescribed by rules from one college to another, only when the respective management of the colleges concerned give their consents in writing."

(1-a) Notwithstanding any decree or order of a court, a teacher who has been appointed as such by transfer from one college to another in pursuance of the Government Orders No. 429 Shiksha Mantri/Sattar-6-98-15-95, dated August 17, 1998 or No. 393/Sattar-1-9915(6)-99, dated October 28, 1999 shall be deemed to have been validly appointed as if the provisions of the principal Act as amended by the Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission (Second Amendment)

Act, 2004 were in force at all material times."

(2) The management shall intimate the existing vacancies and the vacancies likely to be caused during the course of the ensuing academic year, to the Director at such time and in such manner, as may be prescribed.

Explanation— The expression "academic year" means the period of 12 months commencing on July 1.

(3) The Director shall notify to the Commission at such time and in such manner as may be prescribed a subject wise consolidated list of vacancies intimated to him from all colleges.

(4) The manner of selection of persons for appointment to the posts of teachers of a college shall be such, as may be determined by regulations : Provided that the Commission shall with a view to inviting talented persons give wide publicity in the State to the vacancies notified to it under sub-section (3) :

Provided further that the candidates shall be required to indicate their order of preference for the various colleges, vacancies wherein have been advertised.

29. From above quoted provisions, it comes out that upon occurrence of vacancy, the Manager would be intimating the same to the Director of of Higher Education, who in-turn would be notifying the same to the Commission for holding selection for appointment upon such vacancies. Sub-section 4 provides for procedure to be prescribed under the regulations to be framed under the Commission Act. Section 13 of the Act provides for recommendation of Commission qua selected candidates and selection is by way of advertising the vacancy, holding written examination and interview and submitting the final select list to the Director. The relevant provision of Section 13 of the Higher Education Service Commission Act is reproduced hereunder:

Recommendation of Commission 13. (1) The Commission shall, as soon as possible, after the notification of vacancies to it under sub-section (3) of section 12, hold interview (with or without written examination) of the candidates and send to the Director a list recommending such number of names of candidates found most suitable in each subject as may be, so for as practicable, twenty-five per cent more than the number of vacancies in that subject such names shall be arranged in order of merit shown in the interview, or in the examination and interview if an examination is held.

(2) The list sent by the Commission shall be valid till the receipt of a new list from the Commission.

(3) The Director shall having due regard in the prescribed manner, to the order of preference if any indicated by the candidates under the second proviso to subsection.

(4) of section 12, intimate to the management the name of a candidate from the list referred to in sub-section (1), for being appointed in the vacancy intimated under sub-section (2) of section 12. (4) Where a vacancy occurs due to death, resignation or otherwise during the period of validity of the list referred to in sub-section (2), and such vacancy has not been notified to the Commission under sub-section (3) of section 12, the Director may intimate to the management the name of a candidate from such list for appointment in such vacancy.

(5) Notwithstanding anything in the preceding provisions, where to abolition of any post of teacher in any college, services of the person substantively appointed to such post is terminated, the State Government may make suitable order for his appointment in suitable vacancy, whether notified under subsection (3) of section 12 or not, in any other college, and thereupon the Director shall intimate to the management accordingly.

(6) The Director shall send a copy of the intimation made under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) or sub-section (5) to the candidate concerned."

30. The Commission is the selecting body in so far as post of teacher of affiliated degree colleges of the University is concerned and then recommendation shall be made by the Commission to the Director. Powers have been vested with Director to forward the names to the management to issue appointment order. Section 14 of the Commission Act makes it mandatory for the Committee of Management to issue appointment letter to the person whose name has been intimated by the Director and if such candidate does not turn up then management may ask for alternative name. Section 14 is reproduced hereunder:

"Duty of Management 14. (1) The management shall, within a period of one month from the date of receipt of intimation under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) or sub-section (5) of section 13, issue appointment letter to the person whose name has been intimated. (2) Where the person referred to in sub-section (1) fails to join the post within the time allowed in the appointment letter or within such extended time as the management may allow in this behalf, or where such person is otherwise not available for appointment, the Director, shall on the request of the management intimate fresh name from the list sent by the Commission under sub-section (1) of section 13 in the manner prescribed.] "

31. Director has been given administrative power to hold enquiry under Section 15 of the Commission Act in the event management does not offer appointment to such recommended candidate and so also the power to call for information in matters referred to under Section 11 for the purposes of selection and appointment of teachers. Commission may also inspect records. Section 15,17 and 18 are reproduced hereunder:

"Inquiry by Director 15. (1) Where any person is entitled to be appointed as a teacher in any college in accordance with sections 12 to 14, but he is not so appointed by the management within the time provided therefor, he may apply to the Director for a direction under sub-section (2).

(2) On receipt of an application under sub-section (1), the Director may hold an inquiry, and if he is satisfied that the management has failed to appoint the applicant as a teacher in contravention of the provisions of this Act, he may by order, require-

(a) the management to appoint the applicant as a teacher forthwith, and to pay him salary from the date specified in the order; and

(b) the principal of the College concerned to take work from him as a teacher.

(3) The amount of salary, if any due to such teacher shall, on a certificate issued by the Director, be recoverable by the Collector as arrears of land revenue.

16. [ * ]

17. Power to call for information- The Commission may require the management of any college to submit such information or return regarding the matters referred to in section 11 as it thinks fit, and the management shall be bound to comply with the same.

18. Power to inspect records, register etc.- The Secretary or any other officer authorized by the Commission shall have access to every record, register or document in possession of the management and he may enter at any reasonable time, any premises where he believes such record, register or document to be, and may inspect and take copies of relevant records or documents. "

32. Besides the above, Commission Act also provides for exemption to minority institution vide Section 24 and then action against those not complying with direction of the Commission and powers of the Director vide Section 25 and then punishment also vide Section 26. Section 31 empowers the State Government to remove difficulties, Section 31-(b)(c) and (d) provide for regularization of certain appointments of teachers working on ad hoc basis and then Section 31-(e) provides for absorption of teacher, and further Section 32 also provides for State Government to frame rules to carry out purpose of the Act. Looking to all these sections referred to hereinabove as contained in Chapter III and V of the Commission Act, 1980 and so also entire scheme qua selection and appointment of teachers in affiliated and recognized colleges of the University, I find all these provisions to be clearly stipulating a precise manner and method in which selection has to take place as per regulations that are framed thereunder and it places the respective managements of the affiliated colleges and recognized colleges under an obligation to make appointment upon recommendation by the Commission. Thus in so far as selection of teachers of the affiliated and recognized college of the University is concerned, only this much power qua selection of teachers is now taken away from the Committee of Management and is vested with Higher Education Service Commission.

33. Now coming to Section 30 of the Commission Act that gives overriding effect. Section 30 of the Act is reproduced hereunder:

"30. Act to have overriding effect - The provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the Uttar Pradesh State Universities Act, 1973 or the Statutes or Ordinances made thereunder."

34. From bare reading of the provisions it becomes clear that overriding effect is only to the extent of provision of the University Act, 1973 and the Statutes and ordinances framed therein are found contrary to the Commission Act.

35. Since Commission Act only refers to selection of teachers against vacancies that are existing or may occur in future in affiliated and/or recognized degree college of the University, so to that extent only provisions contained under the State Universities Act or the first statute of the university or its ordinance stand superseded by Commission Act but for disciplinary proceedings and other incidental matters relating to condition of service etc. it would still be governed under the State Universities Act, 1973, the first statute of the concerned university and ordinance issued in that regard from time to time by university.

36. The provisions as have been noticed above and discussed clearly, provide only for selection and recommendation to be made to the Committee of Management for making appointment. Thus power still lies with management to make appointments by issuing appointment order. This is something like Public Service Commission that holds selection and makes recommendation but power to appoint by issuing appointment orders lies with the Government. The Commissioner cannot become a disciplinary authority in respect of such employees, merely for selecting candidates and recommending them for appointment except in cases where it has been vested with power of prior approval in the matter of punishment.

37. From the perusal of the appointment letter of the petitioner, it is clear that this appointment letter of the petitioner dated 18th January annexed as annexure 2 to the writ petition no. 18909 of 2023 filed by Dr. Garg, had been issued by the Manager of Hindu College, Moradabad upon recommendation received from the Director of Higher Education, Allahabad vide letter dated 9.12.1999. This appointment, therefore, is completely in tune with the provisions as contained under Section 12 read with Section 13 and 14 of the Commission Act.

38. It is well settled law that in the absence of any rule an appointing authority would either be disciplinary authority or an authority above the appointing authority would be disciplinary authority but here the disciplinary authority is defined as Committee of Management in the statute of University.

39. In the case of P.V. Srinivasa Sastry v Comtroller and Auditor General (1993) 1 SCC 419, the Court has held that Article 311(1) provided that departmental proceeding must be initiated only by the appointing authority but it is always open for the Union or the State Government to make any rule prescribing for such proceedings against delinquent employee and the enquiry officer should not be subordinate to the appointing authority. Vide paragraph 4, the Court has held thus:

4. Article 311(1) says that no person who is a member of a civil service of the Union or an all-India service or a civil service of a State or holds civil post under the Union or a State "shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed". Whether this guarantee includes within itself the guarantee that even the disciplinary proceeding should be initiated only by the appointing authority? It is well known that departmental proceeding consists of several stages: the initiation of the proceeding, the inquiry in respect of the charges levelled against that delinquent officer and the final order which is passed after the conclusion of the inquiry. Article 311(1) guarantees that no person who is a member of a civil service of the Union or a State shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed. But Article 311(1) does not say that even the departmental proceeding must be initiated only by the appointing authority. However, it is open to Union of India or a State Government to make any rule prescribing that even the proceeding against any delinquent officer shall be initiated by an officer not subordinate to the appointing authority. Any such rule shall not be inconsistent with Article 311 of the Constitution because it will amount to providing an additional safeguard or protection to the holder of a civil post. But in absence of any such rule, this right or guarantee does not flow from Article 311 of the Constitution. It need not be pointed out that initiation of a departmental proceeding per se does not visit the officer concerned with any evil consequences, and the framers of the Constitution did not consider it necessary to guarantee even that to holders of civil posts under the Union of India or under the State Government. At the same time this will not give right to authorities having the same rank as that of the officer against whom proceeding is to be initiated to take a decision whether any such proceeding should be initiated. In absence of a rule, any superior authority who can be held to be the controlling authority, can initiate such proceeding.

40. The above view has been reiterated by the Supreme Court in the case of Jai Jai Ram v U.P. State Road Transport Corporation, (1996) 4 SCC 727. The Court in this case has held that it is not contemplated under Article 311 that appointing authority should definitely be disciplinary authority. Herein in the case in hand when the first statute of the University itself provided, as discussed above, that the Committee of Management would be disciplinary authority, there is no further requirement to follow principle of any statute or rules which is not applicable in respect of teachers of college governed under the First Statute of the University.

41. In view of above, therefore, the argument raised by Dr. Garg that since she was selected by the Commission and appointed under the letter of the Director of Higher Education, therefore, management would not be disciplinary authority is not acceptable.

42. Admittedly there is no dispute of the Committee of Management in the institution and, therefore, first point '(a)' stands answered in favour of the Committee of Management and against Dr. Garg, the third respondent.

43. Now coming to point '(b)', I proceed to examine the procedure adopted in holding departmental enquiry as it was claimed by the Committee of Management to have been duly adopted by the enquiry committee contrary to what was argued by Dr. Garg. It is not disputed between rival parties that after reply was submitted by Dr. Garg, three member committee headed by Dr. Kishan Swaroop Bhatnagar, Senior Advocate of Civil Court, Moradabad, proceeded to enquire into the charges.

44. Looking to the enquiry report, I find that it records that delinquent employee, namely, Dr. Garg was given 5 days notice on 5th February, 2019 to submit reply to which Dr. Garg had submitted reply. However later on Dr. Garg demanded time vide letter dated 18th March, 2019 and then she submitted reply on 10.4.2019. The enquiry report records further that Dr. Garg was informed about 26.4.2019 as the date fixed for appearance before the enquiry committee and that she did appear and on that date the Lab Assistant Mr. A Naqvi and two teachers Dr. Deepa Seth and Dr. Shalini Rai had filed their statements on affidavit and Associate Professor Dr. J.K. Pathak could not give his statement as he was out of station, and so there was request by him for 7 days' time. It also records that one M.Sc. final Year student Shailesh Kumar S/o Moti Ram had also given his statement in writing against Dr. Garg and similarly two girl students of M.Sc. Final year, namely, Ms. Khatiza Mumtaz and Ms. Mumtaz Hussain also gave their joint statements on affidavit but no date is disclosed as to when these two students gave their affidavits. It is also recorded that another student Ahmad Shane Rahman of M.Sc. Final year gave statement against Dr. Garg but date of submission of statement is again not disclosed. All these students gave their statements to the effect that they were not permitted to take admission in optional subject of their choice in Zoology. The enquiry report also records that one M.Sc. Part -2 student Divyanshi Tiwari gave her statement on affidavit that laboratory of M.Sc. Second year was closed and that she suffered great hardships and then students were required to give Rs. 2,000/- for submission of examination forms. One of the statements that has come in the enquiry report is that all these students had given their statements before Dr. Garg and were read out to Dr. Garg but Dr. Garg did not cross examine these students even after looking to their affidavits. The statements were also made by Dr. Deepa Sethi against petitioner regarding demand of Rs. 2000/- and that Dr. Garg had put lock on the laboratory. The enquiry report also records that Dr. Shalini Rai also gave her statement against Dr. Garg for spoiling atmosphere in the department by putting lock on the door of room of Professor J.K.Pathak. and Dr. Deepa Sethi respectively. The enquiry report further records that Dr. Sudha Garg submitted supplementary statement on 24.4.2019 and then second supplementary statement on 25.4.2019 and Dr. J.K.Pathak had submitted his written statement on 21.5.2019 in which he also stated that because of Dr. Garg a very tens environment was prevailing in the department. He had given statement that on 25th September, 2019 administrative work was taken from Dr. Garg. The enquiry report also records that Dr. Sudha Garg took time to submit her evidence, and therefore, she was given time to appear on 1.6.2019. The enquiry report also records that documents were given by eight students of the Zoology, department to the Committee of Management in the form of complaints and two complaints were received by registered post, which were all supplied to the enquiry committee for consideration. It records that on 1.6.2019 Dr. Sudha Garg demanded further time to submit reply and so 22nd July, 2019 was fixed and 22nd July, 2019 she appeared and submitted her notary affidavit, a compact disc and certain other documents. The enquiry report thereafter records that Dr. Garg had submitted documents of her skill and merits and had stated that Dr. K.C. Gupta being her relative was enimical to her and that was why Dr. Gupta was not cooperating with department. The enquiry report thereafter discusses also her statement of regret regarding change in the time table and that she had pasted notice in the interest of students but Dr. Garg did not, as per report, submit any explanation as to why she did not permit students to opt optional subject whereas they claimed that she forced 2nd year students to take admission in a subject as per her dictates. This enquiry report finally holds Dr. Garg to be guilty of charges.

45. After discussing the entire enquiry report, I find four dates to be relevant, i.e. 26.4.2019, 21.5.2019 and 2nd July, 2019. On 26.4.2019, it is claimed that all the departmental witnesses gave their statements on their affidavits though regarding teachers only the date shown to be 26.4.2019. 21.5.2019 is the date when Dr. Pathak gave statement and then on 2nd July, 2019, Dr. Garg submitted further explanation, her evidence and a compact disc etc.

46. The argument advanced by Dr. Garg has been that she was not given any copy of the statements submitted before enquiry report whereas findings in the enquiry report are to the effect that two teachers gave their statement on 26.4.2019 and students had appeared before enquiry committee and gave their statements in presence of Dr. Garg and Dr. Garg refused to cross examine them. This argument of no opportunity to meet various affidavits and cross examine witnesses is contrary to what is recorded in the enquiry report, and therefore, it becomes necessary now to examine this aspect and go through the documents to that count brought on record. There is one such document appended to the writ petition filed by Dr. Garg and which formed part of her reply submitted to the Vice Chancellor. This is of 21st May, 2019 which records that Committee was fixing a date on the request of Dr. Garg for furnishing her evidence but this also records that Dr. Garg pleaded before the enquiry committee that she was not given any opportunity to cross examine witnesses and that she had demanded copies of the statements and evidence collected by the enquiry committee, and therefore, all these documents should be supplied to her. Relevant document dated 21st May, 2019 which appears to be ordersheet of the enquiry report, is reproduced hereunder:

"आज दिनांक21.05.2019 को जाँच कमेटी के द्वारा डॉ० सुधा गर्ग के निलम्बन के प्रकरण में महाविद्यालय के प्रागण में आकर डॉ० जे०के० पाठक के लिखित ब्यान लिये गये जिस पर डॉ० सुधा गर्ग के द्वारा जिरह करने से इन्कार किया। डॉ० सुधा गर्ग से सम्बन्धित सभी पत्राचार/प्रपत्र प्राचार्य के द्वारा जाँच कमेटी को दिये गये। डॉ० सुधा गर्ग के द्वारा अपना साक्ष्य देने हेतु समय मांगा उनकी सहमति से जाँच कमेटी के द्वारा दिनांक 01.06.2019 (शनिवार) को दोपहर 12:00 बजे की अगली तारीख नियत की जा रही है।

47. The enquiry report is absolutely silent about this request letter made by the petitioner on 21st May, 2019 which is obviously subsequent to the recording of the statements of various students, as claimed, on 26.4.2019. It becomes, therefore, difficult to justify findings in the enquiry report that all the statements were read out to Dr. Garg and yet she refused to cross examine the witnesses. Had it been a correct fact that Dr. Garg was apprised with statements or the statements were made before her then all that the enquiry committee was required to record was that this request demanding various affidavits and documents and 21st May, 2019 was only with an intention to delay the enquiry. The ordersheet dated 21st May, 2019 only refers to the fact that Dr. Garg refused to even examine Dr. J.K.Pathak and no other witness has been named. Regarding 2nd July, 2019 as discussed in the enquiry report ordersheet is absolutely silent as to any opportunity being afforded to the petitioner to cross examine teachers and the students and Dr. J.K.Pathak after they submitted reply in between 21st May, 2019 and 22nd July, 2019. It is therefore, clearly established that in the matter of oral enquiry held by the enquiry committee, petitioner though might have been given an opportunity to appear but she was never supplied with requisite documents that formed material evidence against her, nor was afforded any opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses. The finding part of the enquiry report to the contrary is based upon no evidence more especially in the face of there being no discussion as to ordersheet dated 21st May, 2019 that reflected that all those affidavits and documents furnished by teachers and students were required by the petitioner in order to to meet them.

48. Yet another aspect also worth noticing is that while Dr. Garg has questioned the findings in the enquiry report besides procedural part, her reply and documentary evidence placed and led before enquiry report were also not accorded due consideration. I find that in the entire enquiry report the documents furnished by Dr. Garg have not been discussed and the compact disc etc. has also not been discussed. The enquiry committee does refer to 27 documents supplied by petitioner but in the discussion part on internal page 11 of the enquiry report, there is no single reference as to what those 27 documents were all about.

49. The entire enquiry report only discusses affidavits filed by three teachers and students against petitioner but those evidence and documents in the absence of there being any cross examination by the petitioner and denial of opportunity for rebuttal, could not have been relied upon (Kumaon Mandal Vikas Nigam Ltd. v. Girja Shankar Pant and Others, (2001) 1 SCC 182).

50. On the finding part of the enquiry report, I find, there are about eight charges levelled against Dr. Garg and what is interesting to notice is that basic charge was in respect of closing admission in the two optional subjects of Cytology and Entomology of the Zoology subject and that practical examinations were not held as per schedule. While enquiry report discusses the statement of students that they were forced not to take admission in these two optional subjects but as to the charge that practical examination of first and second year zoology students was unnecessarily delayed and were deferred against the schedule of the University, no evidence has been discussed. All the testimonies were of students of M.Sc. third year and not M.Sc. 1st and 2nd year in whose respect the charge was that their practical examination was delayed. Dr. Garg's reply to this above charge was that students were duly informed by affixing notice on 30th January, 2019 and then on 31st January, 2019 that practical will be held between 11th February, 2019 and 22nd February, 2019 and that practicals were so held but this reply has not been at all referred to.

51. Point No. 7(2) of the reply stated that Dr. Garg was doing every possible effort to comply with instructions of the University and that practicals were held and examiners were appointed and yet the entire enquiry report is absolutely silent about this reply. This reply was to the charge no. 6.

52. The other charges were regarding taking of Rs. 2,000/- etc. vide charge no. 3 but reply by Dr. Garg vide Point No. 3 to the above charge has also not been discussed except allegation of teachers whose testimonies/ statements were not supplied to the petitioner, and they were also not permitted to be cross examined. Cahrge Nos. 4 and 5 were not serious charges and except for the affidavit of J.K.Pathak whose affidavit was not supplied to the petitioner there was no further evidence. As far as charge nos. 7 and 8 are concerned, I do not find there to be any discussion except for the statement of certain teachers that because of the conduct of the Dr. Garg the atmosphere got spoilt and was not conducive to the academic activities on campus.

53. In paragraph 8 of the counter affidavit in reply to para 8 to the writ petition no. 20031 of 2023, Dr. Garg has taken a plea that entire enquiry committee held enquiry in violation of principles of natural justice without recording relevant facts and also not worth in the name of sustained charge. In reply to these averments, vide paragraph 9 of the rejoinder affidavit filed on behalf of petitioner's Committee of Management, only plain and simple denial has been made with further assertion that Committee of Management of the institution after giving opportunity of hearing to the petitioner against enquiry report passed the order considering the gravity of the charges.

54. Rule of discretion is to be rational and should not be arbitrary vague and fanciful. In other words, it should be legal and regular and must be based upon twin sound principles of justice and fair play. A fair hearing means giving a reasonable opportunity to an individual and in service jurisprudence to an employee who is sought to be proceeded against on the ground misconduct, indiscipline etc. The entire chain of events in the matter of departmental enquiry should not smack of any personal clash or adaptation of a method unknown to law in the hottest haste. Besides this, the procedure adopted should not give any room to any kind of bias whatsoever (Kumaon Mandal Vikas Nigam Ltd (supra)).

55. A division bench of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari v. State of U.P. and Others, 2008(3) ESC 1667 (All) relying upon earlier judment of division bench in the case of Subhash Chandra Sharma v. U.P. Cooperative Spinning Mills and Others, 2001 (2) UPLBEC 1475 held that if no oral enquiry is held it amounts to denial of compliance of principles of natural justice to the prejudice of the delinquent employee. Vide paragraph 12,13 and 14, the Court held thus:

12. An oral inquiry would be necessary even if the delinquent employee has a failed to submit reply to the charge-sheet. In State of U.P. and anotherv. T.P. Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that even if the employee has failed to submit reply to the charge-sheet, it would not absolve the Inquiry Officer from proceeding with the oral inquiry and submit report as to whether charge is proved or not. After recording of evidence, he will find out whether the charge is proved or not and submit report to the disciplinary authority.

13. The aforesaid exposition of law makes it clear that the delinquent em. ployee has a right to defend himself at different stages. When the charge-sheetis served upon him, he has a right to submit his reply and in case he does not submit reply, that itself would not amount to admission of guilt or that the charge stand proved. If the allegations are serious and may result in major penalty, the disciplinary authority may appoint Inquiry Officer. Such Inquiry Officer, thereafter would have to fix a date for oral evidence. At this stage the delinquent employee has a right to participate in the oral inquiry, examine witnesses, if produced by the department, and after the evidence of the department is completed, the delinquent employee may produce evidence in his defence. During the course of oral inquiry, the delinquent employee has right to participate at every stage and date and if there is any failure in participation on one or more occasions, the Inquiry Officer cannot deny him participation from the subsequent stage. The delinquent employee can participate at subsequent other stage also. The Inquiry Officer, after completion of oral inquiry, will submit its report after discussing the entire material and if any charge is proved, the disciplinary authority shall supply a copy of the inquiry report to the delinquent employee and he would again have a right to submit reply to the inquiry report.

14. Non holding of oral inquiry, therefore, is a serious flaw which vitiates the entire disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment."

56. I may observe at this stage that of course, there are limitations to exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution in matters of disciplinary proceedings where after enquiry, disciplinary authority has proceeded to impose punishment and the scope further gets narrowed down when it comes to test action of the authority as to nature of particular punishment as has been discussed and held in a recent judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Union of India (UOI) and Others v. Subrata Nath, the Court in that case held that " Once the gravity of the misdemeanour is established and the inquiry conducted is found to be consistent with the prescribed Rules and reasonable opportunity contemplated under the rules, has been afforded to the delinquent employee, then the punishment imposed is not open to judicial review by the Court. As long as there wqas some evidence to arrive at a conclusion that the Disciplinary Authority did, such an order becomes unassailable and the High Court ought to forebear from interfering. And " it is equally true that where there is bona fide loss of confidence of employer in his or her employee then order of punishment must be considered to be immune from challenge, for the reason that discharging the office of trust and confidence requires absolute integrity" (Vide Air India Corpn. v. V.A. Rebellow, Francis Klein & Co. (P) Ltd. v. Workmen and BHEL v. M.Chandrasekhar Reddy, followed in Divisional Controller, Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation v. M.G.Vittal Rao (2012) 1 SCC 442).

57. But question remains to be answered as in the case in hand, as to whether there was an enquiry conducted in consonance with the rules of procedure so as to close the doors of Court to interfere with final award of punishment and further the finding of bona fide loss of confidence and trust is vitiated for lack of transparency and fairness in procedure adopted to conduct enquiry. The case in hand is one such case where from the enquiry report it is apparent on the face of record that enquiry committee just referred to two basic events that oral evidence was accepted in presence of Dr. Garg and yet she refused to cross examine and then she also supplied written submissions, a large number of documents and a compact disc, but as I have discussed above, there is no reference to the order-sheet dated 1.6.2019, inasmuch as there is no discussion on any documents furnished by her including the compact disc. This shows that the enquiry committee did not consider it appropriate to give Dr. Garg a reasonable opportunity by supplying documents required by her and to permit her to cross examine the departmental witnesses.

58. This in my considered view, therefore, is not a fair procedure and, thus, it becomes a case 'singularly singular', an expression used by the Supreme Court in Kumaon Mandal Vikas Nigam Ltd. (supra) case to interfere with. It is well said that each case is to be tested on its own facts and looking to the facts of the case in hand, I come to conclude that there is definite lack of transparency in terms of reasonable opportunity to delinquent employee to defend her case. There are departmental evidence utilized by the enquiry committee in bringing home the charges but opportunity of rebuttal by supplying those documents to the petitioner and opportunity of cross examination of the departmental witnesses were not provided inasmuch as the documentary and other material evidence submitted by petitioner in rebuttal, were not discussed at all.

59. In the resolution passed by the Committee of Management to terminate petitioner, I find only findings returned by enquiry committee to have been relied upon and so also in the entire order passed by the Manager of the college. Any subsequent opportunity by way of second show cause notice to delinquent employee would not fill up inherent lacunae on the part of the enquiry committee in conducting the enquiry. Thus, merely because Dr. Garg was given opportunity by way of second show cause notice would not make deficient enquiry good. Thus second point '(b)' stands answered in favour of Dr. Garg and against the Committee of Management to effect that entire enquiry conducted by enquiry committee was a farce.

60. Coming to the third point, as Committee of Management has assailed the order of the Vice Chancellor on the ground that once he himself sustained the charge nos. 1 and 6, he could not have returned a finding that Dr. Garg was not guilty of the charges and therefore, the order deserves to be set aside, I find substance in this argument.

61. Sri Rohit Pandey, learned counsel appearing for Vice Chancellor sought to defend the order on the ground that statute of University and the 1973 Act do permit Vice Chancellor to examine entire enquiry report while matter of approval was placed before him. He submitted that as far as point nos. 1,2,3 and 4 that has been referred to in the penultimate paragraph of the order of the Vice Chancellor, the same was referable to those 5 points that he had formulated to examine and test the correctness of the procedure adopted in holding enquiry and also as to correctness of the findings returned in the enquiry report so as to approve the order of dismissal or not. He submits approving authority has traces of appellate authority and therefore, approving authority was well within its right to examine the matter, might not as enquiry officer but as superintending and revising authority. He has referred to Statute No. 14.06(3) and 2.02 of the first statute of the University read with Section 13(1) and Section 49 and thus he submitted that Vice Chancellor can require any document .

62. Dr. Garg has assailed the finding part as far as 1st and 6th charges are concerned and submitted that she did submit reply to the entire enquiry report to the Vice Chancellor, by way of reply to the notice, after the matter was remitted in the first round of litigation to Vice Chancellor but he failed to look into all those replies in their correct perspective.

63. I have examined the order of the Vice Chancellor and find that Vice Chancellor has though framed virtually four points to be examined by him but he did deal with finding part as far as charge nos. 1 and 6 are concerned, independently and sustained those charges.

64. In my considered view if the Vice Chancellor was of the view that 1st and 6th charges were sustainable then he was certainly not justified in holding that Dr. Sudha Garg was not guilty of any of the charges. However, it appears that Vice Chancellor since found there to be non compliance of natural justice, therefore, he proceeded to pass this kind of order reinstating the petitioner. In my considered view if there has been violation of principles of natural justice, then best course would have been to remit the matter to the authority concerned to re-hear the matter and pass order afresh in accordance with law.

65. In the instance case, since I have already held point no. 'b' in favour of Dr. Garg, in my considered view , the matter is required to be re-investigated by Committee of Management by setting up the enquiry committee as enquiry is not sustainable in law and deserves to be quashed.

66. In the case of Managing Director ECIL, Hyderabad v. B. Karunakar, 1993 (4) SCC 727 the Court has held that if the Court for want of compliance of any mandatory procedural aspects finds that matter needs reconsideration, then the Court or Tribunal should remit the matter to that stage only. It has also been so held by a Division Bench of this Court in a recent judgment in the case of Committee of Management, Muslim Inter College and Another v. State of U.P. and Others, 2023 (1) ADJ 308 (DB).

67. In view of above, while I am quashing the order of Vice Chancellor dated 4.10.2022 reinstating the petitioner, I am also quashing the enquiry report dated 30th July, 2019 with following further directions:

i). Petitioner shall be restored to the status of the suspended teacher as she had been at the time of initiation of departmental enquiry and shall be paid subsistence allowance regularly including arrears, if any, due.

ii). The Committee of Management shall constitute enquiry committee afresh within three weeks from the date of presentation of certified copy of this order. However, this time, it will endeavour, as far as possible, to include teachers of the college and of the University, if possible, who are senior to Dr. Garg also as members of enquiry committee.

iii). The Committee of Management shall immediately supply all the documents that were available with earlier enquiry committee including affidavits of teachers and students to the petitioner within two weeks from the date of production of certified copy of the order and petitioner shall within two weeks thereafter submit her additional reply with reference to the documents so supplied.

iv). The enquiry committee shall fix a date and notify all those witnesses who were examined by the enquiry committee earlier to appear before it fixing a date, time and place and shall give opportunity to Dr. Garg to cross examine each of the witnesses but not more than 2 or 3 dates shall be fixed for this purpose.

v). After cross-examination procedure is completed, the enquiry committee shall submit report afresh to the Committee of Management within three months of its constitution who shall then proceed in accordance with and as per procedure prescribed meeting the requirements of second show cause notice, if enquiry committee held her guilty of charges, in the light of the judgment in Managing Director ECIL, Hyderabad (supra). Final decision shall be taken by Committee of Management within next one month's time of submission of enquiry report.

68. In the circumstances, impugned order dated 4.10.2023 passed by respondent Vice Chancellor, Mahatma Jyotiba Phule Rohilkhand University Bareilly as well as resolution of the Committee of Management dated 27.08.2019 are quashed.

69. With these aforesaid observations and directions, these two writ petitions stand disposed of.

70. Cost made easy.

9. Mohd. Ramzan Khan , AIR 1991 SC 471

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shivendra Rajwar, Advocate holding brief of Sri Gautam Baghel, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Utkarsh Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of fifth respondent and learned Standing Counsel for State-respondents and perused the record.

2. Petitioner before this Court is aggrieved by the order of termination of her services dated 17.09.2018 and the basic plea taken is that in spite of the fact that the petitioner was continuing in substantive appointment in the institution as Principal, she was never served at any point of time either with any suspension order, the charge-sheet or was permitted to participate in the alleged enquiry conducted by respondent-Committee of Management. She was even not served with any show cause notice as to the proposed punishment, nor was given any enquiry report. These pleadings have come to be raised in paragraph-24 of the writ petition to which reply has come to be made in paragraph-23 of the counter affidavit filed by fifth respondent, who is the Disciplinary Authority in the matter. Thus according to learned counsel for the petitioner, enquiry being de hors the procedure prescribed under Regulation 37 of Chapter XXXIII of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (for short, the Intermediate Act, 1921"), the order of termination of services of the petitioner cannot be sustained in law.

3. Sri Utkarsh Singh, learned counsel appearing on behalf of fifth respondent has sought to justify the order for the reasons assigned therein and has further taken the plea by way of defence set up in paragraphs-8 and 9 of the counter affidavit. He also submitted that reply to the pleadings raised in paragraph-24 of the writ petition, has been given in paragraph-23 of the counter affidavit.

4. Learned Standing Counsel has taken his stand that the management was required to furnish detail report to the petitioner regarding the proceedings being drawn against her but the management being a minority institution choosen not to take the same. He submits that in the absence of any paper being submitted before the Education Authority, he could neither approve the order of termination, nor could he say anything in the matter. However, he submits that from the recital made in the order of termination, it is clear as is stated in the said order that the petitioner did not appear before the enquiry committee but there is no material discussed as to when she was offered opportunity to appear and she refused to appear. In the circumstances, he says that the principles of natural justices, appears to have not been complied with in the matter of imposition of major penalty.

5. Heard learned counsel for the respective parties and perused the record. I find that specific pleadings have been raised in paragrap-24 of the writ petition with regard to the fact that neither the order of suspension nor charge-sheet was ever served upon the petitioner. She was not even served with the enquiry report and straightway the order of termination has been passed. Paragraph-24 of the writ petition is reproduced hereunder:-

"24. That virtually the suspension order dated 07.08.2018 was not served on the petitioner and firstly only informed by the Peon of the College, that you are suspended and not permitted to enter into the College then the petitioner attended the hearing made by D.I.O.S. dated 06.09.2018 and 17.09.2018, and lastly on 17.09.2018 it was communicated on behalf of respondent no. 5 to the D.I.O.S. since the petitioner has been terminated hence the hearing on her suspension is not required; and as both the said papers i.e. Suspension and Termination were nor communicated to the petitioner hence knowing the correct facts she obtained the completed papers relating to the present matter in dispute form the D.I.O.S. under R.T.I. Act on 03.12.2018 and from the perusal of such papers the following fact came in the light-

(i) Neither the Suspension was communicated to the petitioner nor properly to the D.I.O.S. mentioning the fact as per Regulation 39 (1) of Chapter III of Regulation framed under Act, 1921

(ii) From the perusal of all the such papers provided by the office of D.I.O.S. to the petitioner on 03.12.2018 under R.T.I. Act, it also reveals the suspension was wrongly done by the respondent no. 5 without any report or resolution of committee of management.

(iii) Neither any charge-sheet containing in the suspension order nor the supporting documents were either provided to the D.I.O.S. or to the petitioner.

(iv) From the perusal of said papers it reveals that neither the enquiry into the matter in dispute was contemplated nor the date, time and place either of enquiry or for hearing of petitioner was ever Informed to the petitioner nor any papers/ documents were supplied for reply.

(v) Neither any copy of the complaint, report or enquiry report was ever been supplied by the respondent no. 5 or by the alleged enquiry officer and the petitioner abruptly terminated without providing mandatory opportunity of hearing.

(vi) Lastly it is submitted that the complete process from suspension to termination of the petitioner has been wrongly, illegally and malafiedly done by the Manager of the institution on the behest of one Sri Abdul Hasib (the real brother of the respondent no. 5) in utter violation of the provisions contained under Regulation

39 of Chapter III of Regulation framed under Act, 1921 and as such the complete process is illegal, wrong, malafied and liable to quashed."

6. In reply to paragraph-24 of the writ petition, it has come to be averred in paragraph-23 of the counter affidavit that this paragraph being repetitive in nature, reply already given in preceding paragraphs be read here also in reply and, therefore, the pleadings raised in paragraph-24 did not call for any reply. Paragraph-23 of the counter affidavit is reproduced hereunder:-

"23. That the content of the paragraph no. 24 of the writ petition are repetitive in nature which has been already replied in the preceding paragraphs of this counter affidavit, hence do not call for any reply."

7. However, so far the preceding paragraphs in the said counter affidavit are concerned, I do not find any statement anywhere in support of the stand that petitioner was ever served with any notice except certain dates mentioned regarding suspension in paragrap-22 and paragraph 25 and that the Committee of Management had requested the District Inspector of Schools to direct the petitioner to appear and face the enquiry. Paragraph-8 of the counter affidavit also states about the service of the charge-sheet but no material has been brought on record evidencing the factum of service of charge-sheet and enquiry report upon the petitioner, nor any document has been brought on record to demonstrate that the petitioner was ever served with any notice to appear before the Enquiry Committee. Paragraphs-8, 22 and 25 of the counter affidavit are reproduced hereunder:-

"8. That disciplinary proceeding was initiated against the petitioner by the institution and the services of the petitioner was suspended vide order dated 07/08/2018 and thereafter charge sheet was served upon the petitioner on 18/08/2018.

22. That the content of the paragraph no.23(iii) & (iv) of the writ petition are not admitted as stated hence denied. In reply thereto it is submitted that the management upon receiving notice dated 04.09.2018 calling for explaining the suspension of the petitioner by the manager on the date fix 06.09.2018 by the D.I.O.S. The management via letter dated 06.09.2018 informed the D.I.O.S. office that the manager of the institution was out of station for business of the institution. Hence, the manager couldn't appear before the D.I.O.S on the dates fixed for hearing by respondent no.4.

25. That the content of the paragraph no.26 of the writ petition are not admitted as stated hence denied. In reply thereto the inquiry committee headed by Mohd. Javed via letter dated 06.09.2018 has requested D.I.O.S to direct the petitioner to appear before the inquiry committee and cooperate with proceeding of inquiry committee. The copy of the same was also sent to the petitioner."

8. Thus, from the above pleadings raised in the writ petition and the counter affidavit filed by the Committee of Management, it bornes out clearly that there was never any effective service of charge-sheet upon which the enquiry is alleged to have been conducted by the Enquiry Committee constituted by the Committee of Management. Thus according to me, it cannot be said that proper procedure being religiously followed as prescribed for under Regulation 37 of the Act. To appreciate about the conduct of enquiry by the

"35. शिकायत अथवा गम्भीर प्रकृति के आरोपों की प्रतिकूल आख्या प्राप्त होने पर समिति अध्यापकों एवं अन्य कर्मचारियों के विषय में प्रधानाध्यापक अथवा आचार्य अथवा प्रबन्धक को जाँच अधिकारी नियुक्त करेगी (अथवा प्रबन्धक स्वयं जाँच करेगा यदि समिति द्वारा नियमों के अन्तर्गत उसे यह अधिकार प्रतिनिहित हो गये है) और प्रधान अध्यापक अथवा आचार्य के विषय में एक छोटी उपसमिति होगी जिसे आख्या यथाशीघ्र प्रस्तुत करने के निर्देश होंगे।

36. (1) The grounds on which it is proposed to take action shall be reduced in the form of a definite charge or charges which shall be communicated to the employee charged and which shall be so clear and precise as to give sufficient indication to the charged employee of the facts and circumstances against him. He shall be required within three weeks of the receipt of the charge-sheet to put in a written statement of his defence and to state whether he desired to be heard in person. If he or the inquiring authority so desires an oral inquiry shall be held in respect of such of the allegations as are not admitted. At that inquiry such oral evidence will be heard as that inquiring authority considers necessary. The person charged shall be entitled to cross-examine the witnesses, to give evidence in person, and to have such witnesses called as he may wish: provided that the inquiring authority conducting the inquiry may for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness. The proceedings shall contain a sufficient record of the evidence and statement of the findings and the grounds thereof. The inquiring authority conducting the inquiry may also separately from these proceedings, make his own recommendation regarding the punishment to be imposed on the employee.

(2) Clauses (1) shall not apply where the person concerned has absconded, or where it is for other reasons impracticable to communicate with him.

(3) All or any of the provisions of clause (1) may for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing be waived where there is difficulty in observing exactly the requirements thereof and those requirements can in the opinion of the inquiring authority be waived without injustice to the person charged.

37. जाँच अधिकारी से कार्यवाही की आख्या तथा संस्तुति प्राप्त होने के बाद शीघ्र ही कर्मचारी को नोटिस देने के बाद प्रवन्ध समिति की बैठक कार्यवाही की आख्या तथा संस्तुति पर विचार करने के लिए होगी और उस मामले पर निर्णय लेगी। कर्मचारी को, यदि वह चाहता है समिति के समक्ष स्वयं उपस्थित होने की आज्ञा दी जायेगी जिससे वह अपना अभियोग प्रस्तुत कर सके और बैठक में उपस्थित किसी सदस्य द्वारा पूछे गये किसी प्रश्न का उत्तर दे सके। तब समिति पूर्ण आख्या समस्त सम्बन्धित कागज-पत्र सहित निरीक्षक अथवा मण्डलीय निरीक्षिका को उसके द्वारा प्रस्तावित कार्यवाही को स्वीकृत हेतु प्रेषित करेगी।

किन्तु, चतुर्थ श्रेणी के कर्मचारियों के सम्बन्ध में निरीक्षक निरीक्षिका को स्वीकृति हेतु कोई आख्या नहीं भेजी जायेगी। इनके सम्बन्ध में उपरोक्त सारी कार्यवाही नियुक्ति प्राधिकारी द्वारा की जायेगी।"

9. From a bare reading of the above provisions as contained under relevant regulations, it has come to be absolutely clear that there has to be a Enquiry Sub-Committee in the matter. However, even the enquiry report has not been brought on record by the Committee of Management so as to justify that there was a lawfully constituted Enquiry Committee as contemplated under Regulation 37 of the Intermediate Act. Thus, it is writ large on the face of the record that proper procedure as prescribed for under the relevant regulation of the Intermediate Education Act, have not been followed by the Committee of Management. The legal position is very well clear that in the matter of imposition of major penalty, the disciplinary proceedings have to be conducted in accordance with the procedure prescribed for. Secondly, the second show cause notice is must, if the disciplinary authority proceeds to concur with the finds returned by the enquiry committee, a show cause notice along with copy of enquiry report be served upon the petitioner so as to invite her explanation to the findings returned in the enquiry report. Thirdly, all the more important aspect is that in the matter of imposition of major penalty there has to be oral enquiry held which the Supreme Court has repeatedly held in its various decision. The authorities of the Supreme Court as well as this Court are quoted hereunder:-

(I) In the case of State of U.P. and another vs. T.P. Lal Srivastava; 1997 (1) LLJ 831, the Supreme Court has held that even if the employee has failed to submit reply to the Charge-sheet, it would not absolve the Inquiry Officer from proceeding with the oral inquiry to record the statement of the department witnesses and submit a report as to the proof of charge-sheet.

(II) In the case of Salahuddin Ansari vs. State of U.P. and others; 2008 (3) ESC 1667 (Allahabad), a Division Bench of this Court has relied upon an earlier judgment in the case of Subhash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541, and held that if, no oral enquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee.The Court has relied upon the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of T.P. Lal Srivastava (Supra).

(III) Regarding second show cause notice and supply of enquiry report, the Supreme Court has laid down guidelines in the judgment passed in the Case of Managing Director ECIL, Hyderabad and other vs. B. Karunakar and others (1992) 3 JT (SC) 605, the Supreme Court in paragraphs 29 and 30 has observed as follows:-

"29. Hence it has to be held that when the Inquiry Officer is not the disciplinary authority, the delinquent employee has right to receive a copy of the inquiry Officer's report before the disciplinary authority arrives at its conclusions with regard to the guilt or innocence of the employee with regard to the charges levelled against him. That right is a part of the employee's right to defend himself against the charges levelled against him. A denial of the Inquiry Officer's report before the disciplinary authority takes its decision on the charges is a denial of reasonable opportunity to the employee to prove his innocence and is a breach of the principles of natural justice.

30. Hence the incidental questions raised above may be answered as follows:

(i) Since the denial of the report of the Inquiry Officer is a denial of reasonable opportunity and a breach of the principles of natural justice, it follows that the statutory rules, if any, which deny the report to the employee are against the principles of natural justice and, therefore, invalid. The delinquent employee will, therefore, be entitled to a copy of the report even if the statutory rules do not permit the furnishing of the report or are silent on the subject.

(ii) The relevant portion of Article 311(2) of the Constitution is as follows:

"(2) No such person as aforesaid shall be dismissed or removed or reduced in rank except after an enquiry in which he has been informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges."

Thus the Article makes it obligatory to hold an inquiry before the employee is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank. The Article, however, cannot be construed to mean that it prevents or prohibits the inquiry when punishment other than that of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank is awarded. The procedure to be followed in awarding other punishments is laid down in the service rules governing the employee. What is further, Article 311(2) applies only to members of the civil services of the Union or an all India service or a civil service of a State or to the holders of the civil posts under the Union or a State. In the matter of all punishments both Government servants and others are governed by their service rules. Whenever, therefore, the service rules contemplate an inquiry before a punishment is awarded, and when the Inquiry Officer is not the disciplinary authority the delinquent employee will have the right to receive the Inquiry Officer's report notwithstanding the nature of the punishment.

(iii) Since it is the right of the employee to, have the report to defend himself effectively, and he would not know in advance whether the report is in his favour or against him, it will not be proper to construe his failure to ask for the report, as the waiver of his right. Whether, therefore, the employee asks for the, report or not, the report has to be furnished to him.(iv) In the view that we have taken, viz., that the right to make representation to the disciplinary authority against the findings recorded in the inquiry report is an integral part of the opportunity of defence against the charges and is a breach of principles of natural justice to deny the said right, it is only appropriate that the law laid down in Mohd. Ramzan Khan's case (AIR 1991 SC 471) (supra) should apply to employees in all establishments whether Government or non- overnment, public or private. This will be the case whether there are rules governing the disciplinary proceeding or not and whether they expressly prohibit the furnishing of the copy of the report or are silent on the subject. Whatever the nature of punishment, further, whenever the rules require an inquiry to be held, for inflicting the punishment in question, the delinquent employee should have the benefit of the report of the Inquiry Officer before the disciplinary authority records its findings on the charges levelled against him. Hence question (iv) is answered accordingly.

(v) The next question to be answered is what is the effect on the order of punishment when the report of the Inquiry Officer is not furnished to the employee and what relief should be granted to him in such cases. The answer to this question has to be relative to the punishment awarded. When the employee is dismissed or removed from service and the inquiry is set aside because the report is not furnished to him, in some cases the non- furnishing of the report may have prejudiced him gravely while in other cases it may have made no difference to the ultimate punishment awarded to him. Hence to direct reinstatement of the employee with back-wages in all cases is to reduce the rules of justice to a mechanical ritual. The theory of reasonable opportunity and the principles of natural justice have been evolved to uphold the rule of law and to assist the individual to vindicate his just rights. They are not incantations to be invoked nor rites to be performed on all and sundry occasions. Whether in fact, prejudice has been caused to the employee or not on account of the denial to him of the report, has to be considered on the facts and circumstances of each case. Where, therefore, even after the furnishing of the report, no different consequence would have followed, it would be a perversion of justice to permit the employee to resume duty and to get all the consequential benefits. It amounts to rewarding the dishonest and the guilty and thus to stretching the concept of justice to illogical and exasperating limits. It amounts to a "unnatural expansion of natural justice" which in itself is antithetical to justice."

"That in the matter of major penalty there has to be oral enquiry and that the delinquent employee should be permitted to participate in the enquiry to examine and cross examine the departmental witnesses."

10. As is reflected from the order of termination that there is no notice at all except for a date of notice without there being any time, date and place fixed to hold the enquiry, hence it can be safely presumed that no oral enquiry was held. In such circumstances, therefore, the order of termination of services of the petitioner cannot be sustained in law.

11. In view of the above, therefore, once the enquiry is held to be vitiated in law, the final order of termination of service also stands vitiated and, therefore, in these circumstances both the enquiry report and the final order of termination cannot be sustained. In my above view supported by the judgment of learned Single Judge placed before me, which is also relating to a minority institution in the case of Girish Chandra vs. State of U.P. and others in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 28553 of 2013 decided on 23rd May, 2023, in which after recording the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner in paragraphs-8 and 9, the Court returned its finding in paragraphs-10 and 11 and allowed the writ petition. The relevant paragraphs- 8 to 11 are reproduced hereunder:-

"8. Sri Ashok Khare contends that the impugned order is violative of the procedure prescribed under Regulations 35 to 37 of Chapter III of the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and not only this, the charges are absolutely frivolous and the inquiry has proceeded without giving notice to the petitioner. He further contends that none of the documents were provided which was demanded by him. On the contrary a reply was given by the Committee that the documents were not required as they were not necessary for the purpose of the reply. He, therefore, submits that the respondent - Committee of Management has proceeded to terminate the services of the petitioner without complying with the principles of natural justice and in clear violation of the provisions aforesaid. He has relied upon on three decisions of this Court in the case of Hardev Singh Vs. Committee of Management, D.B. Santokh Singh Khalsa Inter College, Agra, and another, 2004 (2) LBESR 1138, the decision in the case of Tariq Ayyub Vs. State of U.P. and others, decided on 21.10.2010 and the third decision in the case of Abha Saxena Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2012 (10) ADJ 484, to urge that even in minority institutions where regulations have been violated, this Court can exercise its discretion under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and interfere with the order of termination.

9. Replying to the aforesaid submissions, Sri Pandey for the Management, submits that this is a case where the charges are serious enough that warrant the dismissal of the petitioner. The charges were inquired into in accordance with the procedure prescribed but the petitioner failed to cooperate with the inquiry and, therefore, the impugned order is justified. He submits that the reply, which was given by the petitioner, was absolutely unsatisfactory and not only this, his conduct in the institution is such that it is not desirable to continue him further in service. Sri Pandey, therefore, submits that the impugned order does not require any interference and the findings of fact recorded cannot be a subject matter of appeal before this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

10. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having considered the decisions that have been cited at the bar, the interference in service matters relating to employees of minority institutions is limited to the extent of violation of procedure prescribed under the Regulations, provided they are regulatory in nature, and do not impinge upon the fundamental rights guaranteed under Article 30 of the Constitution of India. The judgments, which have been relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner, permits such interference and in the instant case the stand taken by the petitioner is that the inquiry is vitiated for non-compliance of Regulations 35 to 37 of Chapter III of the 1921 Act.

11. I have perused the impugned order and the opening part thereof clearly recites the manner in which the Management has proceeded to consider the non-cooperation of the petitioner as one of the grounds for proceeding to pass the termination order. Regulation 37 of Chapter III categorically requires that after the inquiry is concluded, the report of the Enquiry Officer shall be considered by the Committee of Management and then the Committee shall offer an opportunity to the delinquent employee to give his explanation and hear him before passing the order of termination. There is no material discussed by the District Inspector of Schools to enable this Court to infer that the Committee had ever complied with the said provision. The order impugned dated 15.4.2013 is clearly deficient on this aspect. Learned counsel for the respondent - Committee of Management, therefore, could not support the order on this ground. The impugned order, therefore, being in violation of Regulation 37 of Chapter-III of 1921 Act cannot be sustained."

12. In view of the above, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

13. The order of termination of service of the petitioner dated 17.09.2018 and the enquiry report dated 15.09.2018 are, accordingly, hereby quashed. The petitioner shall be reinstated in service and shall be paid salary. It is however, left open for the respondents to proceed afresh in accordance with law, if so desire.

Service Law – Validity of Appointment and Cancellation – Fraudulent Appointment Letters – The answering opposite parties no.2 (Rajesh Kumar and Sachin Kumar) challenged the cancellation of their appointment letters dated 27.08.2016, confirmed on 08.09.2017 and 27.11.2019, alleging wrongful termination – Held, the appointment letters were fraudulent, issued in connivance with Municipal Corporation officials, as the opposite parties did not figure in the final select list, having scored below the cut-off marks of 32 (24.14 and 30.86 respectively) – The cancellation was upheld after due opportunity of hearing, as fraudulent appointments confer no right to continue in service, supported by an FIR lodged against involved employees. (Paras 2, 3, 7, 18, 35, 41(1))

Service Law – Selection Process and Statutory Compliance – The opposite parties argued that the selection should have followed the U.P. Procedure for Direct Recruitment for Group 'C' Post Rules, 2002 – Held, the selection was governed by the Uttar Pradesh Municipal Corporation Act, 1959, and Uttar Pradesh Nagar Mahapalika Sewa Niyamavali, 1962, as the Municipal Corporation is an autonomous statutory body – The selection process complied with Section 107(3) and Rule 17 of the 1962 Rules, and the opposite parties' reliance on the 2002 Rules was misplaced, as these apply to St. Government employees, not Municipal Corporation employees. (Paras 8, 9, 19, 23, 30, 32, 41(4))

Service Law – Limitation on Appointments Beyond Advertised Vacancies – The opposite parties claimed a right to continue based on their appointment letters and over five years of service – Held, appointments beyond the advertised 72 backlog vacancies (40 OBC, 27 SC, 5 ST) are impermissible under Articles 14 and 16(1) of the Constitution, as established in Vivek Kaisth , Rakhi Ray , and Mukul Saikia – The select list was exhausted upon filling the advertised vacancies, and the opposite parties, not being in the final select list, had no right to claim appointment. (Paras 7, 9, 20, 21, 22, 31, 41(2))

Service Law – Estoppel in Challenging Selection Process – The opposite parties, having participated in the selection process without protest, challenged it after failing to secure appointment – Held, as per Karunesh Kumar , candidates who participate in a validly conducted selection process are estopped from challenging it after being unsuccessful, reinforcing that the opposite parties had no right to claim appointment beyond the advertised vacancies. (Paras 27, 41(3))

Judicial Review – Tribunal's Overreach Beyond Pleadings – The Tribunal allowed the claim petitions, relying on the 2002 Rules, despite no such pleading by the opposite parties – Held, the Tribunal erred in granting relief beyond the pleadings, violating settled law in Mrs. Akella Lalitha and Messrs. Trojan & Co. Ltd. , as courts cannot grant relief not prayed for, leading to a miscarriage of justice – The Tribunal's orders were set aside. (Paras 24, 25, 26, 42)

Writ Petitions Allowed.

Tribunal's Orders Dated 16.08.2021 Quashed – Claim Petitions Dismissed.

1. Both the writ petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution of India have been filed seeking quashing of the impugned judgement and orders dated 16.08.2021 passed by the State Public Services Tribunal (for short "the Tribunal"), whereby the claim petitions filed by Rajesh Kumar and Sachin Kumar (hereinafter referred to as "the answering opposite parties no.2") impugning the orders dated 27.08.2016 along with consequential orders dated 08.09.2017 and 27.11.2019 cancelling their appointment letters, have been allowed.

Brief Facts:-

2. Nagar Nigam, Lucknow issued an advertisement to fill up 72 backlog posts for clerical cadre under Other Backward Class, Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe categories, which includes 40 posts for Other Backward Class category, 27 posts for Scheduled Caste category and 5 posts for Scheduled Tribe category. In the advertisement, the requisite qualification has been prescribed that the candidate should have possessed Intermediate qualification with 25 words per minute Hindi typing speed. In pursuance of the aforesaid advertisement, answering opposite parties no.2 applied from Other Backward Class and Scheduled Caste category and cleared the written examination. Thereafter, call letters were issued to the answering opposite parties no.2 for typing test vide letter dated 13.10.2009. Answering opposite parties no.2 were successful in typing test and, therefore, they were called for interview on 12.4.2010 and 24.4.2010 respectively. Thereafter, select list was prepared by the selection committee and the cut off marks for selection was 32 for Other Backward Class and Scheduled Caste categories, whereas answering opposite parties no.2 had secured 24.14 and 30.86 marks respectively, therefore, they were not selected. However, surprisingly answering opposite parties no.2 were issued appointment letters on 26.2.2011 in spite of the fact that they were not selected and they were given the joining on 9.8.2011 and 6.9.2011 respectively.

3. An FIR at Case Crime No.588 of 2013, under Section 408 IPC, Police Station Hazratganj, District Lucknow came to be lodged on 28.12.2013 against the employees of the Nagar Nigam, who were involved in committing the fraud in issuing fake appointment letters to the answering opposite parties no.2 and others. On coming to know the factual situation that answering opposite parties no.2 were working though they were not selected, but their appointment letters were cancelled by the competent authority vide order dated 27.8.2016.

4. Aggrieved by the aforesaid orders, answering opposite parties no.2 filed Writ Petition Nos.21568 (SS) of 2016 and 22118 (SS) of 2016 respectively before this Court. The said writ petitions were disposed of by this Court vide order dated 28.9.2016 with the direction that answering opposite parties no.2 would be afforded an opportunity of hearing by issuing a show cause notice along with a copy of the select list and, thereafter, appropriate order would be passed. In compliance of the order dated 28.9.2016, show cause notices were issued to answering opposite parties no.2 on 27.10.2016, to which they filed reply on 13.12.2016 and 19.12.2016 respectively. After considering the reply and affording opportunity of hearing to answering opposite parties no.2, the competent authority passed the order on 8.9.2017, by which the order of cancellation of appointment letters of answering opposite parties no.2 were confirmed.

5. Feeling aggrieved against the orders passed by the competent authority, answering opposite parties no.2 preferred departmental appeals before the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, which too were rejected vide order dated 27.11.2019. Answering opposite parties no.2 challenged the respective orders i.e. 27.8.2016, 8.9.2017 and 27.11.2019 before the Tribunal by way of Claim Petition Nos.2174 of 2019 and 2199 of 2019 respectively.

6. The Nagar Nigam filed written statement in the claim petitions by giving para-wise reply and after hearing the parties and perusing the material on record, the Tribunal allowed both the claim petitions by means of the impugned judgement/orders. Hence the present writ petitions have been filed by the petitioner.

Submissions on behalf of the petitioner

7. Sri S.C. Mishra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Namit Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that an advertisement was issued on 13.11.2008 for filling up 72 backlog posts of clerical cadre (40 for OBC category, 27 for SC category and 5 for ST category). He has further submitted that for Other Backward Class category, 4368 candidates appeared at the time of typing test, out of which 939 candidates were declared successful for interview. The interview was held and the names of 40 candidates figured in the select list prepared by the selection committee and the opposite party no.2 (Rajesh Kumar) was not selected as he scored 24.14 marks, which was below the cut off marks i.e. 32 marks. Similarly, 4701 candidates applied in the category of Scheduled Caste, out of which 1173 candidates were declared successful for interview, including opposite party no.2. However, after completion of interview process, the final select list was prepared and 27 candidates were selected under the Scheduled Caste category and opposite party no.2 (Sachin Kumar) was not selected as he scored 30.86 marks, which was below the cut off marks i.e. 32 marks. It has further been submitted that average marks were awarded by calculating the marks given by all members of the committee.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that answering opposite parties no.2 managed their appointment letters by playing fraud in connivance with certain employees of the department, against whom an FIR was also lodged. The appointment letters obtained by the answering opposite parties no.2 are fraudulent papers and on the basis of which they cannot claim any right to continue in service because they were not selected in the merit list. It has also been submitted that learned counsel for the answering opposite parties no.2 has wrongly relied upon the U.P. Procedure for Direct Recruitment for Group 'C' Post (Outside the Purview of the U.P. Public Service Commission) Rules, 2002 and amended in 2003 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules, 2002") for the present recruitment as the Municipal Corporation is an autonomous statutory body having its own Act i.e. Uttar Pradesh Municipal Corporation Act, 1959 (for short "the Act, 1959") and the Rules i.e. Uttar Pradesh Nagar Mahapalika Sewa Niyamavali, 1962 (for short "the Rules, 1962"), which are holding the field for selection.

9. Lastly, it has been submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that 72 backlog vacancies have been filled up in pursuance of the procedure envisaged under Section 107(3) of the Act, 1959 read with Rule 17 of Rules, 1962. The selection is based on the basis of transparent open procedure as per statutory requirement and standard. The answering opposite parties no.2 were not successful in the selection and their names do not find place in the select list, therefore, their appointment de hors the Rules and they cannot claim any right to continue in the department in absence of valid appointment letters.

10. In support of his contentions, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the following judgements:-

1. Vivek Kaisth and another vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, reported in (2023) SCC;

2. Rakhi Ray and others vs. High Court of Delhi and others, reported in (2010) 2 SCC 637;

3. Mukul Saikia and others vs. State of Assam and others, reported in (2009) 1 SCC 386; and

4. The State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Karunesh Kumar and others, reported in (2022) SCC Online SC 1706

Rival submissions on behalf of opposite parties no.2

11. Dr. L.P. Misra, learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 has submitted that answering opposite parties no.2 have not committed any fraud or misrepresentation, rather they were issued the appointment letters and thereafter they joined their services. Their names also figured in the seniority list and they had worked for more than five years in the department. Services of answering opposite parties no.2 have been dispensed with on the ground that they were not selected and their names do not find place in the select list though answering opposite parties no.2 had appeared in interview after passing out the written examination and they were also issued the appointment letters.

12. Learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 has further submitted that the Tribunal has passed well reasoned orders after summoning the records of the selection committee and the Tribunal found that answering opposite parties no.2 were appointed as per the terms and conditions enumerated in the advertisement and as per the provisions of the Rules, 2002. Learned counsel has also submitted that the selection was held as per the Rules, 2002 and as per the terms and conditions mentioned in the advertisement.

13. Learned counsel for answering opposite parties no.2 by placing reliance on the advertisement dated 13.11.2008, has submitted that in the advertisement itself, it is mentioned that the selection will be made in accordance with Rules, 2002. He has further submitted that procedure for selection by the petitioner was adopted under Rules, 2002 and the petitioner has not produced any relevant record indicating that any selection had taken place as per the Rules, 2002.

14. The other argument advanced by the learned counsel for the opposite parties no.2 is that the opposite parties no.2 had worked for more than five years in the department and they did not play any fraud, therefore, they are entitled to continue their services. The appointment letters were issued and the opposite parties no.2 were placed in the tentative seniority list.

15. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the opposite parties no.2 has placed reliance on the following judgements:-

1. Civil Appeal Nos.429-430 of 2021, Anmol Kumar Tiwari and others Vs. The State of Jharkhand and others, decided on 18.02.2021;

2. Civil Appeal Nos.5318-5319 of 2023, Vikas Pratap Singh and others Vs. The State of Chhattisgarh and others, decided on 9.7.2013;

3. Md. Zamil Ahmed Vs. State of Bihar and others, 2016 (34) LCD 3085

16. We have heard learned counsel for the petitioner and the learned counsel for the opposite parties no.2.

17. For ascertaining the correct facts and proper decision of the cases, we have summoned the original record pertaining to the selection in question and the same has been perused.

Analysis on the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner

18. The argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that the answering opposite parties no.2 have no right to continue in the department as they were not selected, has force for the reason that after perusing the original record, we noticed that in the final select list, 40 candidates were recommended from the Other Backward Class category and 27 candidates from the Scheduled Caste category, in which names of answering opposite parties no.2 did not figure. The appointment letters issued to the opposite parties no.2 are fictitious documents and the same were obtained in connivance with the officials of the Municipal Corporation. Once opposite parties no.2 were not selected and their names did not find place in the final select list, there was no occasion to issue the appointment letters to continue them in the department for more than five years.

19. The argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that the selection has been held in pursuance of the provisions contained in Section 107 of the Act, 1959 read with Rule 17 of Rules, 1962, has also force as the law is settled that a thing should be done in a manner it is provided to be done under law and no other manner. The Municipal Corporation is a legal entity and has got its own Act and the Rules, wherein the procedure for selection is envisaged leaving no scope to opposite parties no.2 to claim that the selection was required to be done in consonance with Rules, 2002.

20. In the case of Vivek Kaisth (supra), which has been relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner, it is provided that the appointment can only be made against the vacancies which have been advertised and not beyond. Paragraphs 32, 33 and 34 of the aforesaid case are extracted herein-below:-

"32. In Rakhi Ray & Ors. v. High Court of Delhi & Ors. (2010) 2 SCC 637, the practice of making appointments on future vacancies from the waiting list was held to be wrong. "In case the vacancies notified stand filled up, the process of selection comes to an end. Waiting list, etc. cannot be used as a reservoir, to fill up the vacancy which comes into existence after the issuance of notification/advertisement. The unexhausted select list/ waiting list becomes meaningless and cannot be pressed in service any more"3.

33. We are referring to the position of law on "waiting list" because one of the arguments of the appellants (in connected appeals) before us is that, since in any case there was a direction in Malik Mazhar-2 for having a "waiting list", therefore the names of those two appellants ought to have been considered as names from the "waiting list". In our opinion, this cannot be done, as the question would still remain whether selection/appointment can be made on vacancies, which were never advertised, apart from the fact that this would in any case go against the very concept of a 'waiting list' that we have explained above. The vacancies on which the appointments have been made could not be anticipated Para 12 at the time of advertisement (February 1st, 2013), and hence these vacancies were not advertised. These two vacancies were in fact, created on 18.03.2013 i.e., after the notification of vacancies on 01.02.2013. These were the "future vacancies", which earlier could fall under the "C" category given in Malik Mazhar but were deleted in Malik Mazhar-2. These vacancies technically could only be filled next year and should have been notified by January 15th, 2014 as per the directions in Malik Mazhar. The argument of the appellants (in connected appeals), particularly against the present appellants, that had there been a waiting list they could have been considered for appointment in that category for these vacancies, in our opinion, is a complete misunderstanding of the concept of a "waiting list".

34. To sum up the position of law as it stands, once clear and anticipated vacancies have been advertised, appointments can only be made on these vacancies. Vacancies which could not be anticipated before the date of advertisement, or the vacancies which did not exist at the time of advertisement, are the vacancies for the future i.e., next selection process. Malik Mazhar mandates yearly selection/appointment on the post of Civil Judge (Junior Division). There is a time line fixed, and 'vacancies' have to be declared on January 15th of each year. The process has to be completed by October of the same year. Once this is followed, as it ought to be, the object sought to be achieved (under the guidelines given in Malik Mazhar), of timely filling of judicial vacancies is achieved."

21. The second case which has been relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner is Rakhi Ray (supra), in which it is held that any appointment made beyond the number of vacancies advertised, is without jurisdiction. Paragraphs 7, 10, 11, 12 and 13 of the aforesaid case are extracted herein below:-

"7. It is a settled legal proposition that vacancies cannot be filled up over and above the number of vacancies advertised as "the recruitment of the candidates in excess of the notified vacancies is a denial and deprivation of the constitutional right under Article 14 read with Article 16(1) of the Constitution", of those persons who acquired eligibility for the post in question in accordance with the statutory rules subsequent to the date of notification of vacancies. Filling up the vacancies over the notified vacancies is neither permissible nor desirable, for the reason, that it amounts to "improper exercise of power and only in a rare and exceptional circumstance and in emergent situation, such a rule can be deviated and such a deviation is permissible only after adopting policy decision based on some rational", otherwise the exercise would be arbitrary. Filling up of vacancies over the notified vacancies amounts to filling up of future vacancies and thus, not permissible in law. (Vide Union of India & Ors. v. Ishwar Singh Khatri & Ors. (1992) Supp 3 SCC 84; Gujarat State Deputy Executive Engineers' Association v. State of Gujarat & Ors. (1994) Supp 2 SCC 591; State of Bihar & Ors. v. The Secretariat Assistant S.E. Union 1986 & Ors AIR 1994 SC 736; Prem Singh & Ors. v. Haryana State Electricity Board & Ors. (1996) 4 SCC 319; and Ashok Kumar & Ors. v. Chairman, Banking Service Recruitment Board & Ors. AIR 1996 SC 976).

10. In State of Punjab v. Raghbir Chand Sharma & Ors. AIR 2001 SC 2900, this Court examined the case where only one post was advertised and the candidate whose name appeared at Serial No. 1 in the select list joined the post, but subsequently resigned. The Court rejected the contention that post can be filled up offering the appointment to the next candidate in the select list observing as under:– "With the appointment of the first candidate for the only post in respect of which the consideration came to be made and select list prepared, the panel ceased to exist and has outlived its utility and at any rate, no one else in the panel can legitimately contend that he should have been offered appointment either in the vacancy arising on account of the subsequent resignation of the person appointed from the panel or any other vacancies arising subsequently."

11. In Mukul Saikia & Ors. v. State of Assam & Ors. AIR 2009 SC 747, this Court dealt with a similar issue and held that "if the requisition and advertisement was only for 27 posts, the State cannot appoint more than the number of posts advertised". The Select List "got exhausted when all the 27 posts were filled". Thereafter, the candidates below the 27 appointed candidates have no right to claim appointment to any vacancy in regard to which selection was not held. The "currency of Select List had expired as soon as the number of posts advertised are filled up, therefore, the appointments beyond the number of posts advertised would amount to filling up future vacancies" and said course is impermissible in law.

12. In view of above, the law can be summarised to the effect that any appointment made beyond the number of vacancies advertised is without jurisdiction, being violative of Articles 14 and 16(1) of the Constitution of India, thus, a nullity, inexecutable and unenforceable in law. In case the vacancies notified stand filled up, process of selection comes to an end. Waiting list etc. cannot be used as a reservoir, to fill up the vacancy which comes into existence after the issuance of notification/ advertisement. The unexhausted select list/waiting list becomes meaningless and cannot be pressed in service any more.

13. In the instant case, as 13 vacancies of the General Category had been advertised and filled up, the selection process so far as the General Category candidates is concerned, stood exhausted and the unexhausted select list is meant only to be consigned to record room."

22. Similar view has been taken in the case of Mukul Saikia (supra), in which the Supreme Court has reiterated the legal position to the extent that the State cannot appoint more persons than the number of vacancies advertised. Paragraphs 33, 43 and 44 of the aforesaid case are extracted herein-below:-

"33.At the outset it should be noticed that the select list prepared by APSC could be used to fill the notified vacancies and not future vacancies. If the requisition and advertisement was only for 27 posts, the State cannot appoint more than the number of posts advertised, even though APSC had prepared a select list of 64 candidates. The selection list got exhausted when all the 27 posts were filled. Thereafter, the candidates below the 27 appointed candidates have no right to claim appointment to any vacancy in regard to which selection was not held. The fact that evidently and admittedly the names of the appellants appeared in the select list dated 17.07.2000 below the persons who have been appointed on merit against the said 27 vacancies, and as such they could not have been appointed in excess of the number of posts advertised as the currency of select list had expired as soon as the number of posts advertised are filled up, therefore, appointments beyond the number of posts advertised would amount to filling up future vacancies meant for direct candidates in violation of quota rules. Therefore, the appellants are not entitled to claim any relief for themselves. The question that remains for consideration is whether there is any ground for challenging the regularization of the private respondents.

"43. Annexure-1 attached to Service Order, 1994 contains class of posts, cadre of posts, cadre strength, scale of pay and qualifications & experience for the service. At serial No. 3, in Class II the total cadre strength of CDPOs has been shown as 68 in the pay scale of Rs.1635-3950/-. Column 6 of Annexure I prescribes that 40 per cent of the posts of CDPOs have to be filled up by promotion from amongst the persons who have rendered 10 years of continuous service in the cadre of ACDPOs/Assistant Superintendent Homes and Allied Cadre and 60 per cent by direct recruitment. The private respondents, no doubt, were appointed on ad hoc basis and admittedly they have not completed 10 years of continuous service in the cadre of ACDPOs, but the State of Assam, with the approval of the Cabinet, decided to regularize the services of the appellants as a special case by giving relaxation under para 11 of the Service Order. Therefore, the decision of the Cabinet pursuant whereof the State Government issued Notification cannot be held to be arbitrary and irrational. The appellants fall in different categories and they have no enforceable right to challenge the regularization of the private respondents who have been regularized against the vacancies meant for promotional quota. In their writ petition, they have prayed for their appointment because their names were included in the select list by the APSC against the direct quota. The State Government appointed 27 persons in order of merits out of the select list prepared by the APSC, as such the appellants being selectees cannot claim appointment as a matter of right in excess to the advertised vacancies.

44. It is well settled law that filling up of the vacancies over and above the number of vacancies advertised would be violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. Mere inclusion of the appellants in the select list of the direct appointees does not confer any right on them to be appointed against the vacancies reserved for promotees."

23. The argument advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the Tribunal travelled beyond the pleadings of the claim petitions filed by opposite parties no.2 as there was no pleading in the claim petitions that the selection ought to have been done in consonance with Rules, 2002, is also acceptable as we have already discussed above that the Municipal Corporation has got its own enacted provisions, in which the selection procedure for appointment is provided; thus there is no reason to subscribe to the view that the selection ought to have been held in accordance with the provisions of Rules, 2002, which are applicable to the employees of the State Government.

24. So far the impugned judgement/order passed by the Tribunal in regard to exercise of its jurisdiction is concerned, we find that the Tribunal travelled beyond the pleadings of the claim petitions filed by opposite parties no.2 as there was no pleading in the claim petitions that the selection ought to have been done in consonance with Rules, 2002. It is settled law that relief should be based on pleadings. If a Court considers or grants a relief for which no prayer or pleadings was made depriving the other party of an opportunity to oppose or resist such relief, it would lead to miscarriage of justice.

25. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Mrs. Akella Lalitha Vs. Sri Konda Hanumantha Rao and another, (2022) Live Law (SC) 638 (Civil Appeal Nos.6325-6326 of 2015, decided on 28.07.2022), while dealing with the question of jurisdiction and while considering the judgements of the Supreme Court in regard to question of jurisdiction, held as under:-

"..... It is settled law that relief not found on pleadings should not be granted. If a Court considers or grants a relief for which no prayer or pleading was made depriving the respondent of an opportunity to oppose or resist such relief, it would lead to miscarriage of justice.

16. In the case of Messrs. Trojan & Co. Ltd. Vs. Rm.N.N. Nagappa Chettiar, AIT 1953 SC 235, this Court considered the issue as to whether relief not asked for by a party could be granted and that too without having proper pleadings. The Court held as under:-

"It is well settled that the decision of a case cannot be based on grounds outside the pleadings of the parties and it is the case pleaded that has to be found. Without an amendment of the plaint, the Court was not entitled to grant the relief not asked for and no prayer was ever made to amend the plaint so as to incorporate in it an alternative case."

17. In the case of Bharat Amratlal Kothari & Anr. Vs. Dosukhan Samadkhan Sindhi & Ors., AIR 2010 SC 475 held:

"Though the Court has very wide discretion in granting relief, the Court, however, cannot, ignoring and keeping aside the norms and principles governing grant of relief, grant a relief not even prayed for by the petitioner."

26. In view of the aforesaid settled legal position, we find that the Tribunal has erred in traversing beyond the pleadings though the Court has very wide discretion in granting relief, which does not imply, that it can grant a relief beyond what was prayed by the party before it ignoring and keeping aside the norms and principles governing grant of relief. Therefore, to that extent also, the impugned judgement/order passed by the Tribunal is liable to be set aside.

27. The last argument advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner that answering opposite parties no.2 had participated in the selection, therefore, they cannot be allowed to challenge the selection proceedings, seems to have force as the case set up before us is not a case that the conditions of recruitment were in any manner violated or there was any thing wrong with the selection or the eligibility of any candidate. It is settled principle that a person should be estopped to challenge the selection proceedings in case he participated in the selection held validly. The said view has been expressed by the Supreme Court in the case of Karunesh Kumar (supra). Paragraph 21 of the aforesaid case is extracted herein below:-

"21. A candidate who has participated in the selection process adopted under the 2015 Rules is estopped and has acquiesced himself from questioning it thereafter, as held by this Court in the case of Anupal Singh (supra):

"55. Having participated in the interview, the private respondents cannot challenge the Office Memorandum dated 12-10-2014 and the selection. On behalf of the appellants, it was contended that after the revised Notification dated 12-10-2014, the private respondents participated in the interview without protest and only after the result was announced and finding that they were not selected, the private respondents chose to challenge the revised Notification dated 12-10- 2014 and the private respondents are estopped from challenging the selection process. It is a settled law that a person having consciously participated in the interview cannot turn around and challenge the selection process.

56. Observing that the result of the interview cannot be challenged by a candidate who has participated in the interview and has taken the chance to get selected at the said interview and ultimately, finds himself to be unsuccessful, in Madan Lal v. State of J&K [(1995) 3 SCC 486 : 1995 SCC (L&S) 712], it was held as under : (SCC p. 493, para 9) "9. ... The petitioners also appeared at the oral interview conducted by the Members concerned of the Commission who interviewed the petitioners as well as the contesting respondents concerned. Thus the petitioners took a chance to get themselves selected at the said oral interview. Only because they did not find themselves to have emerged successful as a result of their combined performance both at written test and oral interview, they have filed this petition. It is now well settled that if a candidate takes a calculated chance and appears at the interview, then, only because the result of the interview is not palatable to him, he cannot turn round and subsequently contend that the process of interview was unfair or the Selection Committee was not properly constituted."

57. In K.H. Siraj v. High Court of Kerala [(2006) 6 SCC 395 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1345], it was held as under : (SCC p. 426, para 73) "73. The appellant-petitioners having participated in the interview in this background, it is not open to the appellant-petitioners to turn round thereafter when they failed at the interview and contend that the provision of a minimum mark for the interview was not proper."

xxx xxx xxx It was further observed : (SCC p. 149, para 34) '34. There is thus no doubt that while question of any estoppel by conduct would not arise in the contextual facts but the law seem to be well settled that in the event a candidate appears at the interview and participates therein, only because the result of the interview is not "palatable" to him, he cannot turn round and subsequently contend that the process of interview was unfair or there was some lacuna in the process."

59. Same principle was reiterated in Sadananda Halo v. Momtaz Ali Sheikh [(2008) 4 SCC 619 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 9] wherein, it was held as under : (SCC pp. 645-46, para 59) "59. It is also a settled position that the unsuccessful candidates cannot turn back and assail the selection process. There are of course the exceptions carved out by this Court to this general rule. This position was reiterated by this Court in its latest judgment in Union of India v. S. Vinodh Kumar [(2007) 8 SCC 100 : (2007) 2 SCC (L&S) 792] .... The Court also referred to the judgment in Om Prakash Shukla v. Akhilesh Kumar Shukla [1986 Supp SCC 285 : 1986 SCC (L&S) 644], where it has been held specifically that when a candidate appears in the examination without protest and subsequently is found to be not successful in the examination, the question of entertaining the petition challenging such examination would not arise."

Analysis of the arguments made on behalf of the opposite parties

28. For the sake of convenience, it would be proper to have a look at the enacted provisions of the Municipal Corporation, which are applicable to the selection of Class-III and other employees. For ready reference, Section 107 of the Act, 1959 is quoted below:-

"107. Appointment of posts. - (1) 21[Appointments to the post of Deputy Municipal Commissioner, Assistant Municipal Commissioner, 22[Mukhya Abhiyanta, Nagar Swasthya Adhikari, Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak and to other posts as the Mayor may specify, shall be made by the Mayor] after consultation with the State Public Service Commission in the manner prescribed and not otherwise]:

Provided that the appointment of Nagar Swasthya Adhikari shall preferably be made out of officers of the Public Health Department of the State Government whom the State Government may be agreeable to send on deputation and in such case consultation with the Public Service Commission shall not be necessary.

(2) 23[Appointments to the posts not included in the posts referred to in subsection (1)] per mensem shall be made after consultation with the State Public Service Commission in the manner prescribed and not otherwise.] The authority to appoint such officers and servants of the Corporation shall vest (a) in respect of those officers and servants who are immediately subordinate to the Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak, in the Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak, and (b) in respect of all other officers and servants, in the Municipal Commissioner.

(3) All other appointments except those specified in sub-sections (1), (2) and (5) shall be made in accordance with the recommendations of a Selection Committee constituted under sub-section (4) and authority to make such appointments shall vest - (a) in respect of those officers and servants who are immediately subordinate to the Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak, in the Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak, and (b) in respect of all other officers and servants, in the Municipal Commissioner.

(4) The Selection Committee referred to in sub-section (3) shall consist of the Municipal Commissioner or his nominee, the Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak and Head of the Department for which the appointment is to be made. The Municipal Commissioner and, in his absence, the member designated by him for the purpose, shall be the Chairman of Selection Committee:

[Provided that the Committee referred to above which may be substituted in connection with the appointments of officers and servants immediately subordinate to the Municipal Commissioner or the Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak, shall consist of the Municipal Commissioner or the Mukhya Nagar Lekha Parikshak, as the case may be, as Chairman and two other officers of the Corporation who shall be nominated by the Executive Committee as members.] (5) Appointments to posts in the engineering, 25[public health and other departments of the Corporation carrying scales of pay lower than the scales of pay of the posts referred to in sub-section (3)] shall be made by the Heads of the departments concerned specified under Section 112 subject however to any bye-laws made by the Corporation in this behalf. (6) In the case of any difference of opinion between the appointing authority and the State Public Service Commission a reference shall be made by the Municipal Commissioner to the State Government whose decision shall be final."

29. Rule 17 of Rules, 1962 is worth to be mentioned and the same is quoted below:-

"17. By direct recruitment-- Where appointment to a post under sub-section (3) of Section 107 is to made by direct recruitment, the Selection Committee constituted under sub-section (4) of the said Section shall decide whether the selection shall be made by holding an interview or a written examination or both."

30. The argument of Dr. L.P. Mishra, learned counsel for the answering opposite parties no.2 that the selection in question is to be held in the light of Rules, 2002 and amended Rules, 2003, cannot be appreciated for the reason that the Municipal Corporation is a separate entity and it has got its own statutory provisions i.e. Act, 1959 and the Rules, 1962. We cannot also appreciate the fact that the selection should be made in accordance with Rules, 2002 for the reason that it is settled law that a thing should be done in a manner it is provided to be done under law and no other manner. Once the selection in the Municipal Corporation has taken place, the Rules framed by the State of Uttar Pradesh cannot be made applicable as there is complete scheme provided under Section 107 of the Act, 1959. Section 107(4) of the Act, 1959 postulates that the selection committee referred to in sub-section (3) of Section 107 of the Act, 1959 shall make the selection after considering the merit.

31. From perusal of the original record, it transpires that for Other Backward Class category, 4368 candidates applied, out of which 939 candidates were declared successful, in which name of opposite party no.2 (Rajesh Kumar) also finds place. However, after completion of interview process, the final select list was prepared by the selection committee and 40 candidates were selected and the lowest merit of the last candidate was 32 marks, wheres opposite party no.2 obtained 24.14 marks. Similarly, in the case of opposite party no.2 (Sachin Kumar), 4701 candidates applied in the category of Scheduled Caste, out of which 1173 candidates were declared successful for interview, including opposite party no.2. However, after completion of interview process, the final select list was prepared and 27 candidates were selected and the lowest merit of the last candidate was 32 marks, wheres opposite party no.2 obtained 30.86. Thus, both opposite parties no.2 were not selected. For ready reference, the select lists of candidates of Other Backward Class (40) and Scheduled Caste (27) categories are quoted below:-

32. In view of the aforesaid, it cannot be appreciated that the advertisement provides that the selection should be based in pursuance of the Rules, 2002 for the reason that the advertisement itself indicates that the selection in the office of the State Government will be made in accordance with Rules, 2002 and amended Rules, 2003. We have already held that the Municipal Corporation is a separate statutory body, which has got its own Act and the Rules and the same are holding the field for recruitment. Therefore, we hold that the selection was done in accordance with the enacted provisions of the Municipal Corporation.

33. Further, the argument of Dr. L.P. Mishra, learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 that selection is based on Rules, 2002 and there is no select list in pursuance of the selection held under Rules, 2002, is also fallacious because we have perused the original record produced by the Municipal Corporation and found that all the candidates appeared before the selection committee and their tabulation chart indicates the marks obtained by each candidate, which have neither been doubted nor questioned. The answering opposite parties no.2 are rather claiming the benefit of same selection beyond what they are entitled to.

34. It is the admitted case that answering opposite parties no.2 had appeared in the interview and secured 24.14 and 30.86 marks respectively, whereas the last selected candidate obtained 32 marks; thus they were not part of the select list of 40 candidates of Other Backward Class and 27 candidates of Scheduled Caste categories.

35. The other argument of learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 that answering opposite parties no.2 had worked for more than five years on the basis of the appointment letters issued to them without any fraud being played, therefore, they have right to continue, we take judicial note of the fact that they were not selected and their names do not figure in the select list. The appointment letters appear to be based on false representation or collusion, which is within the ambit of fraudulent act done by the employees of the Municipal Corporation, who were at the helm of affairs.

36. Now, we have to discuss the ratio of case laws cited by the learned counsel for the opposite parties no.2.

37. The first case which has been relied upon by the learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 is Anmol Kumar (supra). Paragraphs 8 and 9 of the judgement are extracted herein-below:-

"8. On behalf of the Writ Petitioners, it was argued that though the selections initially were made on the basis of preference to the 3 categories of posts that were advertised. It was later found that the select list should have been prepared on the basis of merit and thereafter, preference has to be taken into account. Having realized the mistake that was committed, the authorities revised the select list pursuant to which the appointment of the Writ Petitioners was cancelled. By the time a decision was taken to revise the select list and cancel their appointments. The Writ Petitioners had completed their training and had worked for a considerable period of time. According to them, the High Court correctly granted relief to the Writ Petitioners by taking into account the fact that they were not responsible for the irregularities committed in the preparation of the initial select list.

9. Two issues arise for our consideration. The first relates to the correctness of the direction given by the High Court to reinstate the Writ Petitioners. The High Court directed reinstatement of the Writ Petitioners after taking into account the fact that they were beneficiaries of the select list that was prepared in an irregular manner. However, the High Court found that the Writ Petitioners were not responsible for the irregularities committed by the authorities in preparation of the select list. Moreover, the Writ Petitioners were appointed after completion of training and worked for some time. The High Court was of the opinion that the Writ Petitioners ought to be considered for reinstatement without affecting the rights of other candidates who were already selected. A similar situation arose in Vikas Pratap Singh's case (supra), where this Court considered that the Appellants-therein were appointed due to an error committed by the Respondents in the matter of valuation of answer scripts. As there was no allegation of fraud or misrepresentation committed by the Appellants therein, the termination of their services was set aside as it would adversely affect their careers. That the Appellants-therein had successfully undergone training and were serving the State for more than 3 years was another reason that was given by this Court for setting aside the orders passed by the High Court. As the Writ Petitioners are similarly situated to the Appellants in Vikas Pratap Singh's case (supra), we are in agreement with the High Court that the Writ Petitioners are entitled to the relief granted. Moreover, though on pain of Contempt, the Writ Petitioners have been reinstated and are working at present."

38. In the aforesaid case of Anmol Kumar (supra), it appears that the appellants were declared successful in the select list. However, after investigation by high level committee, it was found that there was bungling in the selection and the select list was prepared wrongly by ignoring the merit of the candidates. The unsuccessful candidates filed writ petitions before the High Court and during pendency of the writ petition, 42 candidates were appointed on the basis of the original select list, which was later on cancelled. The appellants were ousted from the selected list, therefore, the Court came to the conclusion that they did not commit any fraud and on the basis of wrong selection, they were appointed. Therefore, it was noted that an error was committed by the department and the Court had allowed the candidates to continue their services on the analogy that the appellants could not be made to suffer on account of the wrong being committed by the department. Thus, the said case is not applicable in the present case for the reason that answering opposite parties no.2 have not been selected and their names do not find place in the final select list of candidates of Other Backward Class and Scheduled Caste categories.

39. The second case relied upon by the learned counsel for opposite parties no.2 is Md. Zamil Ahmed (supra). Paragraph 22 of the aforesaid judgement is extracted herein-under:-

"22. In these circumstances, we are of the view that there was no justification on the part of the State to woke up after the lapse of 15 years and terminate the services of the appellant on such ground. In any case, we are of the view that whether it was a conscious decision of the State to give appointment to the appellant as we have held above or a case of mistake on the part of the State in giving appointment to the appellant which now as per the State was contrary to the policy as held by the learned Single Judge, the State by their own conduct having condoned their lapse due to passage of time of 15 years, it was too late on the part of the State to have raised such ground for cancelling the appellant's appointment and terminating his services. It was more so because the appellant was not responsible for making any false declaration and nor he suppressed any material fact for securing the appointment. The State was, therefore, not entitled to take advantage of their own mistake if they felt it to be so. The position would have been different if the appellant had committed some kind of fraud or manipulation or suppression of material fact for securing the appointment. As mentioned above such was not the case of the State."

40. In the aforesaid case, it was noted that petitioner was given appointment under the Dying-in-Harness Rules by the department and after fifteen years of service, his appointment was cancelled on the ground that he was brother of the deceased, therefore, he does not come within the definition of the "dependent of the deceased'. In the aforesaid background, the Court came to the conclusion that after fifteen years of service, the termination was not justified because the department had considered his claim and issued appointment letter. The appellant did not commit false representation by suppressing material fact. Thus, the facts of the aforesaid case are also not applicable to the facts of the present case.

Finding:

41. Having considered the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and going through the record and analysis arrived by us in the preceding paragraphs, we summarise our findings in the following manner:-

1. Since answering opposite parties no.2 were not selected and their names did not figure in the final select list, they cannot claim their right to continue in the department on the basis of appointment letters issued to them, which are fraudulent documents as the same were issued to the answering opposite parties no.2 in connivance with the officials of the Municipal Corporation, against whom an FIR was also lodged; therefore, such appointment letters were rightly cancelled by the Corporation after affording opportunity of hearing.

2. The department filled up the number of backlog vacancies of different categories, which were advertised, therefore, the answering opposite parties no.2 have no right to claim appointment in respect of their categories beyond the number of advertised vacancies in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the cases of Vivek Kaisth (supra), Rakhi Ray (supra) and Mukul Saikia (supra), particularly when their names did not figure in the final select list.

3. Admittedly, answering opposite parties no.2 appeared in the selection process validly held and were unsuccessful, therefore, they have no right to claim benefit beyond the advertised vacancies in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Karunesh Kumar (supra).

4. The argument of learned counsel for the answering opposite parties no.2 that selection should be made in accordance with Rules, 2002, is misplaced because Municipal Corporation has got its own statutory Act, 1959 and Rules, 1962, wherein complete scheme and selection is envisaged and said Rules, 2002 are applicable only to the employees of the State Government and not to the employees of the Municipal Corporation.

42. In view of the aforesaid discussions and conclusion, both the writ petitions are allowed and the impugned judgement and orders dated 16.08.2021 passed by the Tribunal in Claim Petition Nos.2174 of 2019 and 2199 of 2021 are hereby set aside; consequently, both the claim petitions filed by the answering opposite parties no.2 are dismissed. Consequences to follow.

Shishu Shiksha) and having passed the Uttar Pradesh Teachers Eligibility Test (TET) 2013, challenged their non-appointment as Assistant Teachers in primary schools (Classes I to V), claiming equivalence of their Nursery Training Certificate with the Diploma in Elementary Education as per NCTE notifications dated 23.08.2010 and 29.07.2011 – Held, the Nursery Training Certificate, designed for pre-school and up to Classes I-II (children aged 4-6 and 6-8), is not equivalent to the Basic Teachers Certificate (BTC) or Diploma in Elementary Education required for teaching Classes I to V, as clarified by NCTE and supported by the Division Bench in Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha Parishad Vs Sakshi Shukla – The petitioners' qualifications did not meet the advertisement's requirement of a 2-year BTC, Urdu BTC, or Special BTC. (Paras 2, 3, 5, 11, 12, 21, 24, 25, 26)

Service Law – NCTE's Authority and Statutory Compliance – Petitioners relied on NCTE notifications dated 23.08.2010 and 29.07.2011, arguing that their Nursery Training Certificate qualifies as a Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known) – Held, NCTE's authority under the National Council for Teacher Education (Amendment) Act, 2011, to prescribe minimum qualifications for teachers in primary schools is binding, but the Nursery Training Certificate is recognized under Appendix-4 of NCTE Regulations, 2002, for early childhood education (pre-school and Classes I-II), not for Classes I-V under Appendix-1 or 2 of NCTE Regulations, 2009 – The St.'s advertisement specifying BTC as a requirement was consistent with NCTE standards and the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981. (Paras 4, 5, 12, 16, 20, 21)

Judicial Precedent – Interpretation of Harsh Kumar and U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad – Petitioners relied on Harsh Kumar Vs St. of U.P. (Special Appeal (D) No. 130 of 2014), which mandated considering qualifications under NCTE notifications for Assistant Teacher appointments – Held, Harsh Kumar did not specifically address the equivalence of Nursery Training Certificate with BTC and left verification to authorities – In contrast, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad Vs Sakshi Shukla explicitly held that the Nursery Training Certificate is not suitable for teaching Classes III-V, limiting its scope to pre-school and Classes I-II – The latter judgment, considering NCTE's stand and a subsequent notification dated 12.11.2014, prevails over petitioners' claims. (Paras 7, 9, 12, 19, 20, 21)

Service Law – Course Content and Teaching Competence – The Court compared the syllabus of the Certificate in Nursery Training (C.T. Shishu Shiksha) with that of the Basic Teachers Certificate (BTC) – Held, the BTC's comprehensive curriculum, covering subjects like Hindi, Environmental Studies, Mathematics, and classroom teaching for Classes I-V, is more extensive than the C.T.

Shishu Shiksha, which is limited to early childhood education principles and methods suitable for pre-school and up to Class II – The petitioners failed to provide evidence that their course content equips them to teach up to Class VS (Paras 22, 23, 24, 25, 26)

Service Law – Allegation of Fraudulent Application – Respondents alleged that petitioners misrepresented having BTC qualifications in their online applications – Held, while the issue of fraud was raised, the Court's decision rested on the non-equivalence of the Nursery Training Certificate with BTC, rendering the fraud issue secondary – The petitioners' ineligibility due to lack of required qualifications was sufficient to dismiss the petitions. 1. Petitioners before this Court have passed Certificate in Nursery Training Examination-2013 (for short "Nursery Training Certificate") conducted by Examination Regulatory Authority, Uttar Pradesh (for short "Authority") and their respective certificates are part of record.

2. Petitioners have also passed Uttar Pradesh Teachers Eligibility Test, 2013 (for short "TET") and thereafter participated in counselling for appointment of Assistant Teachers but they were not appointed purportedly on a ground that they have not possessed essential qualification in terms of notification/advertisement dated 17.10.2013 i.e. they have not qualified 2 years BTC Course/2 years Urdu BTC Course or Special BTC Course and that "Nursery Training Certificate" would not be equivalent to said essential qualification. 3. Essentially, case of the petitioners is that Nursery Training Certificate is equivalent to Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatsoever name known) in terms of notification dated 23.08.2010 issued by National Council for Teachers Education (fort short "NCTE") as such it would be equivalent to BTC Course.

4. It is further case of the petitioners that after enforcement of Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (for short "Act of 2009") and thereafter enforcement of Uttar Pradesh Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Rules, 2011 (for short "Rules of 2011"), and whereby subsequent to notification issued by NCTE (competent authority) which provided minimum qualification for appointment of Assistant Teacher in primary school and promotion of Assistant Teacher in State of UP have to be in terms of Notification dated 23.08.2010 and amended Notification dated 29.07.2011 issued by NCTE.

5. Sri Ashok Khare, Senior Advocate assisted by S/Sri Himanshu Singh, Prabhakar Awasthi and Ajay Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioners has vehemently referred and placed reliance upon notification dated 23.08.2010 issued by NCTE that minimum qualification for teachers of class I to V is Senior Secondary or its equivalent with at least 50% marks and two years Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatsoever name known) and that since the petitioners have Nursery Training Certificates which is equivalent to Diploma in Elementary Education though known by said terminology and is also equivalent to Basic Training Certificate i.e. BTC, therefore, they possessed minimum eligibility.

6. Learned Senior Advocate also urged that minimum qualification prescribed in terms of aforesaid notification dated 23.08.2010 has not been completely followed by respondents and despite petitioners were duly eligible having minimum educational qualification were wrongly denied from their appointment despite they participated in counselling and they would have definitely in merit list if their result were declared.

7. In support of his submissions, learned Senior Advocate has placed reliance upon a judgment of Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal (D)

No. 130 of 2014 (Harsh Kumar and another vs. State of U.P. and others) passed on 05.02.2014 and relevant paragraphs thereof are mentioned below -:

"8. On 23 August 2010, the NCTE prescribed the minimum qualifications for a person to be eligible for appointment as a teacher for Classes I to VIII in a school referred to in Section 2 (n) of the Act of 2009 with effect from the date of notification. This notification was amended by the notification dated 29 July 2011. As per the amended notification, the minimum qualifications which have been prescribed for appointment of an Assistant Teacher for teaching students from Classes I to V are now as follows:

"(i) Classes I-V.

(a) Senior Secondary (or its equivalent) with at least 50% marks and 2-year Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known)

OR

Senior Secondary (or its equivalent) with at least 45% marks and 2-year Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known), in accordance with the NCTE (Recognition Norms and Procedure) Regulations, 2002

OR

Senior Secondary (or its equivalent) with at least 50% marks and 4-year Bachelor of Elementary Education (B.El.Ed.)

OR

Senior Secondary (or its equivalent) with at least 50% marks and 2-year Diploma in Education (Special Education)

OR

Graduate and two year Diploma in Elementary Education (by whatever name known)

AND

(b) Pass in the Teacher Eligibility Test (TET), to be conducted by the appropriate Government in accordance with the Guidelines framed by the NCTE for the purpose."

9. At this stage, it may also be necessary to note that the Parliament enacted the National Council for Teacher Education (Amendment) Act, 2011 to provide that the Act shall apply, inter-alia, to schools imparting pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary or senior secondary education and to colleges providing senior secondary or intermediate education and to teachers of such schools and colleges. Similarly, the expression 'school' was defined in Section 2(ka) to mean any recognised school imparting pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary or senior secondary education, or a college imparting senior secondary education. Section 12A was inserted into the principal legislation to empower the NCTE to determine the qualifications of persons to be recruited as teachers in any pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary, senior secondary or intermediate school or college, by whatever name called, established, run, aided or recognised by the Central Government or by a State Government or a local or other authority. The provisions of the Act and Regulations have been held to be binding by a Full Bench of this Court in Shiv Kumar Sharma (supra). Prior to the enforcement of the amending Act, the Supreme Court had referred for consideration by a larger Bench of three Hon'ble Judges, an earlier view taken in Basic Education Board, U.P. Vs. Upendra Rai & Ors.2 in which it had been held that the NCTE Act does not deal with ordinary educational institutions like primary schools, high schools, intermediate colleges or universities and would, consequently, not override the U.P. Basic Education Act and the Rules made thereunder. In view of the amending Act, a Bench of three learned Judges of the Supreme Court, while deciding the reference on the correctness of the view in Upendra Rai (supra), observed that during the pendency of the appeals, the Amending Act had rendered the issues for consideration referred to the larger Bench as academic. These developments have been taken due note of in a recent judgment of a Full Bench of this Court in Ram Surat Yadav & Ors. Vs. State of U.P. & Ors.3

10. Thus, the point to be noted is that after the enforcement of the Act of 2009 and the issuance of the notification of 23 August 2010, the qualifications which have been prescribed for appointment of primary teachers must necessarily be those that are stipulated in the notification dated 23 August 2010, as amended by the notification dated 27 August 2011.

11. Undoubtedly, the Rules of 1981 do prescribe the essential qualification for appointment of Assistant Teachers in Junior Basic Schools where education is imparted from Classes I to V. The relevant qualifications which are prescribed in Rule 8 are as follows:

"(ii) Assistant Master and Assistant Mistress of Junior Basic School

A Bachelor's Degree from a University established by law in India or a Degree recognised by the Government as equivalent thereto together with the training qualification consisting of a Basic Teacher's Certificate, Vishist Basic Teachers Certificate (B.T.C.) two years BTC Urdu Special Training Course, Hindustani Teacher's Certificate, Junior Teacher's Certificate, Certificate of Teaching or any other training training course recognised by the Government as equivalent there:

Provided that the essential qualification for a candidate who has passed the required training course shall be the same which was prescribed for admission to the said training course."

12. The qualifications, which have been prescribed by the NCTE in the notification dated 29 July 2011 include Senior Secondary with at least 50% marks together with a 2-year Diploma in Education (Special Education). Once, these qualifications have been prescribed by the NCTE, this would necessarily be binding and it is not open to the State Government to exclude (from the zone of eligibility) the persons who are otherwise qualified in terms of the notification dated 23 August 2010 as amended on 29 July 2011.

13. In this view of the matter, we are of the opinion that the learned Single Judge was in error in coming to the conclusion that since the recruitment was in pursuance of a special drive, the Government was justified in confining the eligibility qualifications only to those who held the BTC qualifications for the reason that such candidates could not be adjusted earlier for want of TET qualification. The passing of the TET was introduced as a mandatory requirement by the notification dated 23 August 2010 issued by the NCTE. Persons who did not fulfill the eligibility conditions prescribed in the notification dated 23 August 2010, as amended on 29 July 2011, were not qualified for consideration for appointment as primary school teachers. Hence, there was no occasion for the State to contend or for that matter the learned Single Judge to accept the submission that in order to adjust such BTC qualified candidates, the present advertisement had been issued. The learned Single Judge held that the appellants could not claim equivalence with those candidates who possess BTC qualification. This, in our view, begs the question because once the Diploma in Education

(Special Education) is held to be a qualification which is recognised for appointment of Assistant Teachers for teaching Classes I to V, it would be impermissible for the State Government to exclude them from being considered for appointment. In a special drive or otherwise, it is not open to the State Government to exclude one class of teachers who fulfill the qualifications for eligibility prescribed by the NCTE. Any such action would be impermissible for the simple reason that the exclusive power to prescribe eligibility qualifications for such teachers is vested in the NCTE. Once the NCTE has spoken on the subject, as it has through its notification, those qualifications must govern the eligibility requirement. Jurisdiction and power of the NCTE to do so is now settled beyond any doubt, as noted by the Supreme Court.

14. In the circumstances, the special appeals would have to be allowed and are, accordingly, allowed. The impugned judgment and order of the learned Single Judge dated 14 November 2013 is set aside. A mandamus would, accordingly, issue directing the State to permit the appellants and such other persons who claim to be holding the qualifications which are within the purview of the notification issued by the NCTE on 23 August 2010, as amended on 29 July 2011, to apply for the post of Assistant Teachers for Classes I to V which was the subject matter of the advertisement in question.

15. Since the Court is informed that the process of counseling is still to commence, we direct the State Government to act in accordance with the aforesaid direction in processing and completing the selection process.

16. We clarify that the issue as to whether the appellants hold the qualifications strictly in accordance with the notification issued by the NCTE has not been decided by us since that is a matter of verification by the authority concerned."

8. Learned Senior Advocate also submitted that above referred mandamus was not honoured and despite petitioners' case was squarely covered with above referred judgment in Harsh Kumar (supra), still they were not selected.

9. In present bunch of cases, an interim order was passed on 25.09.2024 that result of petitioners be declared and in case their aggregate was above the cut off merit, appointment letters be issued to them. The interim order was challenged by the State in Special Appeal (D) No. 356 of 2015. The Division Bench of this Court allowed the Special Appeal by a judgment dated 01.02.2019. Relevant part thereof is quoted below -:

"The Division Bench in the case of U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad (supra) had clearly distinguished between NTT Diploma which is only eligible for pre-school teaching and maximum upto Class 1 and 2 and does not cover Junior Basic School in which education is imparted for Class 1 to 5. The said Teachers Certificate (Shishu Shiksha), which is equivalent to NTT and this diploma at best can be for teaching in preschools education and not for Junior Basic Schools, which is imparting education from Class 1 to 5.

In view of the above, the learned Single Judge erred in directing the respondents-appellants to declare the result of the petitioners-respondents and issue appointment letters on the basis of the judgment of Harsh Kumar (supra) and Uma Yadav (supra) as both the Division Benches had only held that the minimum prescribed qualification for appointment of Assistant Teachers shall be, as per the notification of NCTE dated 23.8.2010 as amended on 29.7.2011 and have no where dealt the issue in regard to the present Teachers Certificate (Shishu Shiksha) or Nursery Teachers Training (NTT). It was only in the case of U.P. Basic Shikha Parishad that the issue was dealt in depth and both the aforesaid Division Bench judgments were also taken note off.

Further, in view of the judgment of this Court in the case of Ashok Kumar Bajpai (supra), Hind Lamps Ltd.(supra) and State of U.P. and others (supra), we are of the view that no final relief can be granted at the interim stage, unless and until the Court is satisfied that ultimately the petitioner is bound to succeed and fact situation warrants granting such a relief. In the present case, as one of the Division Bench had taken a view that diploma in NTT is not equivalent to BTC as such, the relief granted would amounts to final relief and in the facts of the case the situation does not warrant for passing of such order at the interim stage.

Hence the order passed by the learned Single Judge dated 25.9.2014 is set aside, and the Special Appeal is allowed leaving it open for the learned Single Judge to decide the matter on its own merits after the exchange of affidavits and also considering the subsequent Division Bench Judgment in the case of U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad (supra)."

10. Per contra, Ms. Archana Singh, learned counsel for the respondent, Sri Shivendra Singh Bhadauriya, learned counsel for the respondent no. 5 and Sri R.N. Pandey, Sri Shashi Prakash Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, Sri Ashish Kumar Nagvanshi, Sri Ravi Prakash Srivastava, Ms. Shruti Malviya and Sri Survesh Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents have submitted that petitioners' act were not bonafide. In online form, it was declared that they have passed BTC course and filled imaginary maximum number and imaginary number they got, knowingly they have never passed BTC. Learned counsel for respondents have referred copy of forms submitted by petitioners online, being part of a supplementary counter affidavit filed on 24.05.2019 and they have submitted that petitioners have played fraud.

11. Learned counsel further urged that Nursery Training Certificate was only for nursery teachers i.e. for pre-school and maximum upto Class I and II which could not be equivalent to teaching skill required for students of class I to V.

12. Learned counsel further placed reliance on a judgment passed by Division Bench of this Court in Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha Parishad vs. Sakshi Shukla and others (Special Appeal N. 915 of 2015, decided on 07.04.2016) wherein a subsequent notification dated 12th November, 2014 issued by NCTE was also consideration that whether Diploma in Nursery Teacher Education was one of minimum qualifications for Pre-school/nursery followed by first two years in a formal school and whether it was not included in minimum qualification for primary and upper primary (for class I to VIII). Relevant part of judgment is mentioned hereinafter -:

"N.C.T.E. was not at all a party before the learned Single Judge and the learned Single Judge on this bona fide belief that the issue raised is squarely covered by the law laid down in the case of Uma Yadav (supra), proceeded to allow the writ petition and in view of this, as we had no other option, we asked for assistance of N.C.T.E. before us and N.C.T.E. has come up with the specific stand that the course in question that has been pursued by petitioners-respondents from Dau Dayal Mahila P.G. College, Firozabad, which was recognised on 30th April, 2004, has been as per Appendix-4 of Regulation 2002 known as Norms and Standards for Nursery Teacher Education Programme (form of Application for recognition, the time limit of submission of application, Determination of Norms and Standards for Recognition of Teachers Education Programme and permission to start new course of training), Regulation 2002 and N.T.T. course is basically meant for children in the age group of 4-6 followed by first 2 years in a formal education i.e. of children in the age group of 6-8 years as mentioned in Appendix-4 of Regulations, 2002.

N.T.T. course is not recognized under Appendix I or II of N.C.T.E. Recognition (Norms and Procedure) Regulation 2009 as Appendix-I of Regulation 2009 is only meant for Early Childhood Education Programme leading to Diploma in Early Childhood Education (D.E.C.Ed.). Early Childhood Education (E.C.E.) includes Class I and II of the Primary Education and same is of crucial importance from the point of view and perspective of the development of child's language, intelligence and personality. Elementary Teacher Education Programme aims at preparing teachers for elementary stage of education i.e. Classes I to VI/VIII and in Recognition (Norms and Procedure) Regulation 2009, Appendix-I has subsumed Pre-School Teacher Education Programme (P.T.T.) and Nursery Teacher Training Programme (N.T.T.) both i.e. Appendix-3 and 4 of Recognition (Norms and Procedure) Regulation 2002 and said nomenclature has been changed to Diploma in Early Childhood Education (D.E.C.Ed.) as Appendix-1 and N.T.T. course of 2 years duration in Dau Dayal P.G. Mahila College was granted Recognition under appendix-4 of the Regulation 2002 and not at all under the Regulations of 2009.

N.T.T. Course as mentioned in the Government Order dated 30.06.2010 is not at all recognized under the Appendix-1 or 2 of the Regulations 2009 and N.T.T. Course is recognized as per Appendix-4 of the Regulation 2002. Petitioners-opposite party have completed two years course of Nursery Teacher Training from Dau Dayal Mahila (P.G.) College, Firozabad, after they have applied for persuing said Course pursuant to Government Order dated 30.06.2010, wherein categorical mention has been made that in reference of Nursery Teacher Training, Nursery School means where children upto the age of 6 years and below Class I are being imparted instructions. Petitioners-opposite party right from day one knew fully well the nature of course that was pursued by them and the said course/training was designed to impart instructions child below six years of age and to classes below 1st standard. Basic Shiksha Parishad in the State of U.P. does not accord recognition to any Nursery School to run additionally Class 1 and 2. There are three category of institutions (1) Nursery School (ii) Junior Basic School (iii) Senior Basic School. Petitioners-opposite parties can be at the best appointed in Nursery School but they cannot be appointed in Junior Basic School/Senior Basic School.

Once such is the specific stand of N.C.T.E., then we cannot arrive to a conclusion that petitioners-opposite parties, who have proceeded to pursue N.T.T. course from Dau Dayal Mahila P.G. College Firozabad that has received recognition on 13th April, 2004 as per Appendix-4 of Regulation, 2002, can be said to be equipped with the facilities of imparting instructions qua teachers eligible to teach Class I to V.

Once N.T.T. Course as per the petitioners-opposite parties is designed for children in the age group of 4-6 followed by first 2 years in the formal school i.e. of children in the age group of 6-8 years, then the said course in question cannot be carried forward even to the students of Class III to V as it would be going beyond the N.T.T. course that has been designed.

Much emphasis has been laid on the fact that petitioner-opposite parties have cleared Teacher Eligibility Test meant for class 1 to 5 and in view of this, there exclusion in selection on its face value is arbitrary.

We may at this juncture, refer to a Full Bench judgement of our Court in the case of Shiv Kumar Sharma vs. State of U.P. 2013 (6) ADJ 310, wherein view has been taken that teacher eligibility test is an essential qualification that has to be possessed by every candidate who seeks appointment as a teacher of elementary education in Class 1 to 5 as per the notification dated 23.08.2010. Academic Authorities are empowered to fix minimum qualification which is inclusive of Teacher Eligibility Test, and Teacher Eligibility Test has to be passed in addition to the educational/training qualification. Merely because one has undertaken Teacher Eligibility Test, does not mean that he/she fulfils educational/training qualification also.

Consequently, in the facts of the case, the Basic Shiksha Parishad is right at the point of time when it submits that learned Single Judge has erred in giving directions by blindly following the judgement in the case of Uma Yadav (supra) and Harsh Kumar (supra) and in view of this, Special Appeal is allowed. Judgement of learned Single Judge is set aside. Petitioner-opposite parties have received training N.T.T. from an institution entitled to impart training for childhood in the age group of 4-6 followed by two years in formal school, are not eligible to teach class 1 to 5, in Institutions run and managed by Basic Shiksha Parishad."

13. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioners has responded to above submission that U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad (supra) was in regard to private institutions. He has referred documents annexed with supplementary affidavit and referred following paragraphs of it -:

"(a) Although as mentioned above, the training holders of C.T. (Nursery) have always been appointed in the Nursery Schools as well as in Primary Schools run by the Board and accordingly, it was specifically clarified by the then Secretary of the Board on 04.01.1986. Similarly, through other circulars of the Board Issued on 12.3.2002, 4.3.2003, 17.3.2004, 4.1.2007 and 12.6.2008 by the respective Secretaries posted time to time along with Directorate, S.C.E.R.T., U.P., Lucknow and also by the State Govt. through government order dated 09.01.2009. The copies of the initial Rules of 1981 enforced on 03.01.1981 and the Rules of 1981 after incorporation of the 19th Amendment dated 30.05.2014 shall be placed at the time of arguments. However, the copies of the said circulars of Board dt: 4-1-1986 12.3.2002, 4.3.2003, 17.3.2004, 4.1.2007 and 12.6.2008 and the government order dated 09.01.2009 are being jointly annexed herewith as Annexure no.3 to this Affidavit.

(b) It is also respectfully submitted that through the said government order dated 09.01.2009, the teachers having C.T. training qualification had also been made eligible for their promotion as L.T. Grade teacher after having attained experience of 5 years (as C.T. grade has become Dying Cadre) in the Intermediate colleges.

(c) It is also respectfully submitted that an advertisement made by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Allahabad on 11.10.2002 mentioning C.T. training qualification as an eligibility qualification and thereafter, appointments of respective candidates were also made. Similarly, the appointment of C.T. training holders was also made in District Shahjahanpur and Allahabad on the instructions of the Secretary, Board. The coples of the advertisement dated 11.10.2002, the instruction of the Secretary, Board dated 11.11.2002 and the appointment order issued pursuant thereto on 29.11.2002 are being jointly annexed herewith and marked as Annexure no.4 to this Affidavit.

(d) The Right of Education was made fundamental right to the children at the age of 6 to 14 years under Article 21-A of the Constitution of India and for enforcement thereof, the R.T.E. Act, 2009 (Act no.35 of 2009) was made, which was enforced on 26.08.2009; and in view thereof, the T.E.T./C.T.E.T. was prescribed as a minimum qualification and the Diploma in Elementary Education (D.El.Ed.)(by whatever name known) as an eligibility qualification for the appointment as a teacher from Class-I to V by the N.C.T.E. through their notifications dated 23.08.2010 and 29.07.2011, which have also been accepted by the State Government through U.P.R.T.E. Rules, 2011 enforced on 27.07.2011. In the said Act, Rules or notifications of the N.C.T.E., it has nowhere been stated that C.T. training holders are not eligible for appointment. A such, in view thereof, even after enforcement of the R.T.E. Act, 2009, the appointments of C.T. training holders have been made in different districts on different dates by the respective Basic Shiksha Adhikaris of the State. The copies of the direction issued by the Secretary, Board dated 31.07.2009, appointment letter dated 14.09.2009 issued by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Mirzapur and the another appointment letter dated 25.11.2009 issued by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Varanasi are being jointly annexed herewith and marked as Annexure no.5 to this Affidavit."

14. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the record.

15. The issue before this Court for consideration is that whether "Nursery Training Certificate" is equivalent to "Diploma in Elementary Education" (by whatsoever name known) (as mentioned in NCTE notification dated 23.08.2010 as amended on 29.07.2011) and subsequent notification dated 12.09.2014 and whether it is also equivalent to "Basic Teachers Training Certificate" for purpose of minimum qualification for post of Assistant Teacher in primary school (class I to V) run by Basic Education Board?

16. The crux of argument of petitioners is that once NCTE, the appropriate Authority under National Council for Teachers Education (Amendment) Act, 2011, by a notification has provided minimum qualification in terms of Act of 2009, the same will govern irrespective of any minimum qualification prescribed for appointment on post of Assistant Teacher by of any State.

17. In order to substantiate argument, learned Senior Advocate has referred various provisions of above referred Act, Rules and Circulars which do not require to elaborate since they have been considered by Division Bench of this Court in Harsh Kumar (supra), a judgment relied upon by petitioner.

18. Relevant part of Harsh Kumar (supra) has already been quoted in earlier part of this judgment and for disposal of this judgment, a general mandamus issued in Harsh Kumar (supra) is repeated hereinafter -:

"14. In the circumstances, the special appeals would have to be allowed and are, accordingly, allowed. The impugned judgment and order of the learned Single Judge dated 14 November 2013 is set aside. A mandamus would, accordingly, issue directing the State to permit the appellants and such other persons who claim to be holding the qualifications which are within the purview of the notification issued by the NCTE on 23 August 2010, as amended on 29 July 2011, to apply for the post of Assistant Teachers for Classes I to V which was the subject matter of the advertisement in question.

15. Since the Court is informed that the process of counseling is still to commence, we direct the State Government to act in accordance with the aforesaid direction in processing and completing the selection process.

16. We clarify that the issue as to whether the appellants hold the qualifications strictly in accordance with the notification issued by the NCTE has not been decided by us since that is a matter of verification by the authority concerned."

19. The above mandamus was that the essential qualification given in Notification dated 23.08.2010 as amended by Notification dated 27.08.2011 be applied in selection process in question subject to verification whether candidate possesses qualification in terms of notification, therefore, there was no occasion for Division Bench to consider whether "Nursery Training Certificate" would be a minimum qualification equivalent to BTC Course?

20. The above issue was later on considered by another Division Bench of this Court in Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha Parishad (supra) wherein Harsh Kumar (supra) as well as a subsequent notification dated 12.11.2014 issued by NCTE was also considered. As well as stand of NCTE was also heard.

21. The Division Bench in Uttar Pradesh Basic Shiksha Parishad (supra) has thereafter arrived to a considered opinion that -:

"i. "Nursery Training Programme" as mentioned in the Government Order dated 30.06.2010 is not at all recognized under Appendix I or II of NCTE (Recognitions Norms and Procedure) Regulations, 2009. N.T.T. Course is recognized as per Appendix-4 of Regulations, 2009 meant for early childhood education.

ii. Early Childhood Education (ECE) is for pre-school and class I and II of primary education only.

iii. Elementary Training Education Programme aims of preparing teachers for elementary stage of education i.e. class I to VI/VII.

iv. Basic Shiksha Parishad of State of U.P. does not accord recognition to any nursery school to run additionally class I and II. There are three categories of institutions (i) Nursery School (ii) Junior Basic School (iii) Senior Basic School. Petitioners-opposite parties can be at the best appointed in Nursery School but they cannot be appointed in Junior Basic School/Senior Basic School.

v. Once N.T.T. Course as per the petitioners-opposite parties is designed for children in the age group of 4-6 followed by first 2 years in the formal school i.e. of children in the age group of 6-8 years, then the said course in question cannot be carried forward even to the students of Class III to V as it would be going beyond the N.T.T. course that has been designed."

22. The above reference makes a clear difference in nursery school and Junior basic school and their respective requirement of teachers in terms of their minimum education. The certificate in question is "Certificate Teacher (Shishu-Shiksha) Examination-2013. The subject of course are शिक्षा सिद्धांत तथा शिक्षालय संगठन, बाल अध्ययन, विशेष पाठन विधि ज्ञानोपकरण, विशेष पाठन विधि विषय and for reference, a certificate and result of one petitioner is scanned hereinafter -:

23. 24. This Court has undertaken above exercise as Harsh Kumar (supra) has also granted liberty to verify whether course of a candidate would be same in terms of notification issued by NCTE, otherwise, U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad (supra) is completely against the petitioners.

25. A bare consideration of standards of course material of Certificate Training (Shishu Shiksha) and Basic Teacher Certificate are sufficient to observe that course material of Basic Training Certificate is proposed for purpose of teaching upto Class-V, whereas course material of CT (Shishu Shiksha) would be limited to pre-school i.e. up to class-II only.

26. In view of aforesaid observations, not only U.P. Basic Shiksha Parishad (supra) is against the petitioners but above consideration of course material of CT (Shishu Shiksha) is not equivalent to course material of minimum qualification i.e. B.T.C. for appointment of Assistant Teachers.

27. Therefore, all writ petitions being sans-merit are dismissed.

28. Interim orders are vacated and its legal consequence shall follow.

Writ A No. 56246 of 2014

Bhwendra Nath Borah ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Ms. Durga Tiwari, Sri Prabhakar Awasthi

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings and Principles of Natural Justice – Petitioner, a Class IV employee (Library Peon) at Government Degree College, Sambhal, challenged his termination orders dated 29.09.2014 and 01.10.2014, alleging procedural irregularities – Held, the disciplinary proceedings were vitiated due to non-compliance with principles of natural justice, specifically the failure to supply the enquiry report to the petitioner and the absence of a show cause notice for the proposed punishment, as mandated by Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad Vs B. Karunakar – The enquiry officer's failure to conduct an oral enquiry despite the petitioner's denial of charges further violated procedural fairness, as established in Salahuddin Ansari Vs St. of U.P. and St. of U.P. Vs T.P. Lal Srivastava . (Paras 14, 24, 27, 29, 30, 31, 33, 34)

Service Law – Validity of Enquiry Officer's Findings – The enquiry officer's report dated 21.06.2014 failed to conclusively establish the petitioner's guilt on charges of insubordination and false allegations against the Manager and Principal – Held, the enquiry officer did not hold an oral enquiry, examine departmental witnesses, or verify affidavits, rendering the findings procedurally defective – The Regional Joint Director of Education erred in approving the termination without independently assessing the enquiry report or addressing the lack of evidence, contrary to Saroj Kumar Sinha Vs St. of U.P. , which requires an enquiry officer to act as an independent adjudicator. (Paras 29, 30, 32, 33, 36, 37)

Service Law – Role of Approving Authority – The Regional Joint Director of Education, tasked with approving the termination after a prior High Court order quashed earlier proceedings, wrongly affirmed a consequential order dated 29.09.2012, which had already been set aside – Held, once the earlier approval order was quashed, the Regional Joint Director should have issued a fresh show cause notice with the enquiry report and directed the Principal to pass a new order, rather than approving a defunct order – This procedural lapse rendered the termination order unsustainable. (Paras 23, 35, 39)

Service Law – Proportionality of Punishment – The petitioner, a Class IV employee with 15 years of service, was accused of insubordination for lodging a police complaint and an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., alleging harassment by the Manager and Principal – Held, in the absence of prior complaints about the petitioner's conduct and considering the context of his allegations during a period when the Committee of Management was dissolved, the termination was disproportionate – A warning would have sufficed, given the petitioner's long service and the lack of evidence supporting the charges. (Paras 40, 41)

Judicial Review – Relief in Disciplinary Proceedings – The Court found the enquiry procedurally flawed and the punishment excessive, but declined to remit the matter for fresh enquiry due to the petitioner's prolonged litigation and status as a Class IV employee – Held, remitting the case would be unjust given two prior remissions and the lack of conclusive evidence against the petitioner – The termination orders were quashed, and the petitioner was awarded 50% back wages for the period he did not work. (Paras 41, 42)

Writ Petition Allowed.

Termination Orders Dated 29.09.2014 and 01.10.2014 Quashed – Petitioner Entitled to 50% Back Wages.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Durga Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents and Sri Gautam Baghel, learned counsel for respondent nos. 4, 5 & 6.

2. Petitioner Bhwendra Nath Borah was a duly selected and appointed Class - IV employee working in the Institution namely Government Degree College, Sambhal prior to termination of his service from the College Establishment by the order passed by the Joint Director of Education on 01.10.2014 granting approval to the proposed punishment of termination of service vide order dated 29.09.2014.

3. This case has a checkered history with two round of litigation previously before this Court and this is the third round of litigation arising out of disciplinary proceedings

4. Before coming to the orders impugned, the facts of the case briefly stated are that the petitioner was appointed on 08.04.1995 on the post of Library Peon but as he claimed, he continued to discharge duties of Peon at the residence of the then Manager Suresh Chandra and then his son Shantanu Kumar. It so happened, in the year 2011, when according to the petitioner, the Committee of Management was not recognized for a short time that petitioner was given posting in the Institution as Chowkidar under the orders of Principal dated 11.02.2011. He protested by writing a letter dated 12.02.2011 that only the work of Peon should be taken from him and he is not Chowkidar but nothing happened. He then raised legal pleas before the District Inspector of Schools vide letter dated 12.07.2011 that he having been appointed as Library Peon could not have been asked to discharge night duties of Chowkidar and he also complained that Principal was forcing him to resume working at the residence of Manager of the Institution or else remain posted as Chowkidar.

5. It transpires that the Committee of Management came into office in the meantime and so suddenly on 12.10.2011 as was alleged in the letter written to the Senior Superintendent of Police, Bheemnagar while petitioner signed the attendance register, the Manager Suresh Chandra and his son Shantanu Kumar and others started abusing and threatening him of dismissal from service and also physically assaulted him. Thus complaint was made on 16.10.2011 but when nothing happened, it transpires petitioner moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. which came to be dismissed on 14.04.2012. This approach was taken by the Manager and Principal of the Institution as a case of serious misconduct in the nature of insubordination and accordingly petitioner was issued with a show cause notice on 15.02.2012 to explain his conduct of gross indiscipline and making insidious remarks against the Manager of the Institution coupled with the false allegations of physical assault. This show cause notice was issued on 15.02.2012 to which petitioner submitted reply on 05.03.2012 and took the plea that for 15 long years he worked under pressure of Manager at his residence like bonded labour giving 12 hours long duty and when the Committee of Management was dissolved for a short while that petitioner got freed from the custody of the Manager. He claimed in his entire reply that he had been unnecessarily forced to discharge duty of a Chowkidar for 12 hours else he was to resume duty at the residence of Manager, failing which action would be taken. The Principal of the Institution, instead of closing the matter with the warning to the petitioner, chose to set up an enquiry making one Advocate of the District Court as Enquiry Officer and it is this Advocate namely Mr. Kamal Kumar issued charge sheet to the petitioner on 25.06.2012. Two charges were basically leveled: one fictitious and false allegations were made to malign the image of the Manager of the Institution Mr. Suresh Chandra as well as Shantanu Kumar which amounted to gross misconduct and insubordination; and the second charge was regarding allegations made against one Dr. Balendu, the Senior Reader in the Department of Geography and one Mr. P.K. Agarwal, the officiating Principal in an application filed under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

6. Petitioner submitted his reply to the charge sheet and even questioned the appointment of an Advocate as an Enquiry Officer in an educational institution. However, nothing happened to his complaint and the Enquiry Officer submitted his report bringing home the charges and the papers were forwarded to District Inspector of Schools for the purpose of approval in the matter of dismissal from service vide letter dated 06.08.2012.

7. Admittedly, no show cause notice was issued to the petitioner in the matter of proposed punishment, nor the enquiry report was supplied to him before the Principal passed orders on 06.08.2012 accepting the report of enquiry officer dated 01.08.2012.

8. Petitioner challenged both the charge sheet as well as report of the enquiry officer before this Court vide Writ - A No. 43774 of 2012. The Court, instead of interfering with the orders, took view that since the District Inspector of Schools as per statute 18.02(3) remains an approving authority to the decision of Principal and Committee of Management in the matter of dismissal/ termination of class - 3 and 4 employees, it would be better that the petitioner approaches the authority who will be looking into all such aspects as raised in the writ petition. The operative portion of the order dated 05.09.2012 is reproduced hereunder:

"Petitioner's entire emphasis is on the fact that Inquiry Officer has been illegally appointed and coupled with this entire inquiry proceeding is farce and on the same no credibility should be attached. All these things can be very well looked into, examined and considered by the District Inspector of Schools at the point of time when he proceeds to take up the matter for grant of approval. In view of this liberty is given to the petitioner to bring on record all such factual aspect of the matter substantiating his version that disciplinary proceeding is farce and violative of principles of natural justice. In the event of any such claim being set up by the petitioner, the District Inspector of Schools, Moradabad shall taken into consideration the issues raised by the petitioner and thereafter shall take appropriate decision in the matter, in accordance with law, by means of a reasoned and speaking order.

9. This order was communicated to the District Inspector of Schools along with representations dated 11.08.2012 and 17.09.2012 and held that no such incident as alleged to have taken place on 12.10.2011 and such an allegation made in application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was also turned down by the Magistrate for want of evidence and that the learned Advocate was rightly appointed as an enquiry officer and petitioner has been found guilty of the serious charges of misconduct and insubordination and accordingly he approved the order of termination of his service.

10. This order was passed by District Inspector of Schools on 29.07.2012. On 29.09.2012 the officiating Principal issued order terminating the services of the petitioner and directing him not to appear in the Institution. These two orders came again to be challenged before this Court vide Writ - A NO. 52340 of 2012 but the court declined to interfere granting liberty to the petitioner with the agreement of learned Advocates appearing for the parties that matter may be heard and decided by a higher authority namely the Joint Director of Education and thus, the direction was issued to District Inspector of Schools, Moradabad to forward all the papers to the office of Joint Director of Education, who shall be taking decision in the matter after giving opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

11. Accordingly, petitioner made a detailed representation within the time prescribed, on 12.12.2012 before the Regional Joint Director of Education who passed a detailed order finally on 18.04.2013 with a direction that the officiating Principal should be appointed an enquiry officer and departmental enquiry be held de novo. The Principal of the Government Inter College accordingly issued a notice on 12.02.2014 to the petitioner that he may submit his reply by 03.03.2014 before him as well as any teacher or non teaching staff to whom he wanted to appear in his suport to and may also file affidavits, petitioner demanded time vide letter dated 20.02.2014 but it appears that fresh enquiry was also finalized but the report was directly submitted to the Regional Joint Director of Education. Thus, petitioner had come to notice from the letter of Regional Joint Director of Education dated 22.07.2014. Accordingly, petitioner applied for enquiry report under the Right to Information Act, 2005 vide letter dated 17.07.2014 but that remain unanswered. Petitioner wrote letters to the Regional Joint Director of Education on 26.07.2014 and 06.08.2014 on the date fixed, to adjourn hearing but he was not supplied with enquiry report. Petitioner also wrote similar letter on 30.08.2014 and he did appear before the Regional Joint Director of Education when the date was fixed later on 06.08.2014 and then again on 09.09.2014. The Regional Joint Director of Education, it transpires from the order impugned, heard the parties and finally concluded that the proposal moved by the Principal of the Institution for termination of services of the petitioner deserved approval and accordingly vide order dated 29.09.2014 accorded approval to the termination of the services of the petitioner.

12. In the counter affidavit that has been filed on behalf of the Principal of the Institution as well as the Committee of Management, the entire pleas are concentrated upon the act and conduct of the misconduct on the part of the petitioner in lodging complaint with the police and also making application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. A legal plea is also taken that this Court would not interfere with the findings returned by the enquiry officer. However, the fact pleaded by the petitioner with regard to non supply of the enquiry report has not at all been disputed. The basic plea taken is that the very trust of the Principal and Manager of the Institution, reposed in Class - IV employee of the Institution got absolutely eroded and, therefore, once the confidence of the authorities of the Institution have got shakened in an employee, the only way out to save the establishment is to fire such an employee and so this Court should not interfere in the matter.

13. In the supplementary counter affidavit also the plea taken is that the complaint made under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. having been found fictitious and vague without there being any iota of evidence, was rejected and this would go on to prove that the petitioner was deliberately making false and fictitious allegations against the Principal and Manager of the Institution and even dared to show eyes by approaching the Superintendent of Police. Sri Baghel submits that this is sufficient enough to show a kind of insubordination shown by the petitioner and, therefore, the petitioner deserves no clemency.

14. The arguments advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner are:

(i) The very appointment of enquiry officer being an outsider was bad and this question was not addressed to and remained unanswered. Accordingly, the very appointment being void, the enquiry stood vitiated in law;

(ii) There was no oral enquiry held in the matter even though charges were specifically denied. Even at the stage of Joint Director of Education, the enquiry was held and was devoid of fair procedure and sans oral enquiry.

(iii) Neither any show cause notice was issued to the petitioner of the proposed punishment at the point of time when the fresh enquiry report was received by the Regional Joint Director of Education, nor even the enquiry report was supplied to; and

(iv) Charges leveled against the petitioner were only with an intention to punish him for his denial to work at Manager's residence, more especially when he complained to the Principal and the Superintendent of Police regarding utter harassment meted out to him. It is also argued that there was no evidence to prove such charges against the petitioner, inasmuch as, there was never any complaint regarding work and conduct and discharge of duties by the petitioner prior to the solitary incident.

15. Ms. Durga Tiwari, has relied upon the authorities of Supreme Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari vs. State of UP & ors; 2008 (4) ADJ 58; Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad v. B. Karunakar, (1993) 4 SCC 727; and State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors v. Saroj Kumar Sinha (2010) 2 SCC 772.

16. The arguments advanced by learned counsel appearing for the Principal and Committee of Management are:

(i) It was a glaring example of gross insubordination and indiscipline at the end of a Class IV employee to have made a false complaint of harassment and physical assault by the Manager and his men to the police and then to make an application before the Magistrate under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. which was came to be rejected for false allegations.

(ii) False and frivolous charges and allegations were made only with an intention to implicate higher authorities of the Institution namely the Manager and the Principal by a class IV employee to bulldoze down them only for vested interest. This act and conduct has completely sheckened the confidence of employer in employee and his continuance any further in the Institution would not have been in the interest of the establishment and so he deserved no mercy and was rightly punished for dismissal from service.

(iii) Admission is the best piece of evidence and police complaint and application to Magistrate under Section156(3 Cr.P.C. with a prayer to direct police for registration of first information report against the Manager and the Principal , admittedly made by the petitioner, having been dismissed for want of evidence or intrinsic material to support the charge, nothing more was required to be led in the departmental enquiry to prove the charge for this act of insubordination and indiscipline; and there is no lacuna in the departmental proceedings and this Court would not interfere with the appointment of the enquiry officer and the enquiry report filed by him.

17. Sri Baghel has relied upon the judgments in the case of Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad v. B. Karunakar, (1993) 4 SCC 727 and Union of India v. Subrata Nath, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1617; Divisional Controller, Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation v. M.G. Vittal Rao (2012) 1 SCC 442; Union of India v. Subrata Nath 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1617; 2023 (1) ADJ 308 (DB), Committee of Management, Muslim Inter College & Anr v. State of U.P. & Others.

18. Sri Baghel also submitted in the end that if this Court finds the enquiry to be vitiated in law for any procedural defect, this Court may remand the matter to that stage to the authority proceed afresh in the light of the judgment passed in Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad (supra) and Committee of Management, Muslim Inter College (supra).

19. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties, their arguments raised across the bar and having perused the records, I find the first point that needed to be addressed is, whether procedure was followed by the Regional Joint Director of Education after the matter was remitted to him on the question of complaint of the petitioner qua appointment of enquiry officer and whether the Regional Joint Director of Education has acted in consonance with the principles of natural justice in passing the order. The third point that is needed to be addressed is, as to whether the Regional Joint Director of Education could have affirmed the earlier approval order of District Inspector of Schools in spite of direction issued to him to take a fresh decision in the light of findings. Once he himself held the earlier enquiry report to be bad and expressed his view that the fresh enquiry was required to be held and accordingly, he had appointed Principal of the Government Inter College as new enquiry officer.

20. All the above points are related to each other and are decided simultaneously.

21. In order to find answer to the contentious issue qua procedure part of the enquiry as has been assailed by the learned counsel for the petitioner and the said allegation rebutted by learned counsel for the Principal and Manager of the Institution.

22. I would here first refer to the order passed by this Court on 08.10.2023 allowing writ petition being Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 52340 of 2012. It is a very short order and therefore, in order to appreciate the entire issue, I find it more appropriate to reproduce the same here itself:

"Hon'ble V.K. Shukla,J.

Earlier while matter was pending before the District inspector of Schools, petitioner Bhwendra Nath Borah was before this Court and this Court on 5.9.2012 proceeded to pass following order. Relevant extract of the order is being quoted below:-

"Petitioner's entire emphasis is on the fact that Inquiry Officer has been illegally appointed and coupled with this entire inquiry proceeding is farce and on the same no credibility should be attached. All these things can be very well looked into, examined and considered by the District Inspector of Schools at the point of time when he proceeds to take up the matter for grant of approval. In view of this liberty is given to the petitioner to bring on record all such factual aspect of the matter substantiating his version that disciplinary proceeding is farce and violative of principles of natural justice. In the event of any such claim being set up by the petitioner, the District Inspector of Schools, Moradabad shall taken into consideration the issues raised by the petitioner and thereafter shall take appropriate decision in the matter, in accordance with law, by means of a reasoned and speaking order. Petitioner's entire emphasis is on the fact that Inquiry Officer has been illegally appointed and coupled with this entire inquiry proceeding is farce and on the same no credibility should be attached. All these things can be very well looked into, examined and considered by the District Inspector of Schools at the point of time when he proceeds to take up the matter for grant of approval. In view of this liberty is given to the petitioner to bring on record all such factual aspect of the matter substantiating his version that disciplinary proceeding is farce and violative of principles of natural justice. In the event of any such claim being set up by the petitioner, the District Inspector of Schools, Moradabad shall taken into consideration the issues raised by the petitioner and thereafter shall take appropriate decision in the matter, in accordance with law, by means of a reasoned and speaking order.

After the said order judgement has been delivered by this Court, petitioner submits that same was uploaded on the website of High Court on 17.9.2012 and based on the same, petitioner submits that he requested the District Inspector of Schools to grant two weeks time to file objection on 17.9.2012. Petitioner submits that again letter dated 24.9.2012 was issued fixing 26.9.2012 and said letter was received by him at about 7.35 A.M. by special messenger. Petitioner submits that he requested for adjournment of one week on medical ground and thereafter, he submitted his objection on 29.9.2012 and thereafter he has been served with the copy of the order dated 27.9.2012 which is impugned. Petitioner in this regard submitted that entire action which has been so taken is in violation of Principle of natural justice and District Inspector of Schools has colluded with the Management of the institution concerned.

When the matter has been taken up, this much is clear that this Court has proceeded to pass order giving liberty to petitioner to file all possible objection and thereafter, District Inspector of Schools was obliged to consider the objection so moved on behalf of the petitioner. District Inspector of Schools has proceeded to fix 29.8.2012 as the date of hearing and on the said date request was made by the petitioner to extend the date and accordingly next date fixed in the matter was 7.9.2012. In between, writ petition had been filed by the petitioner and same has been decided on 5.9.2012 and the next date fixed in the matter was 26.9.2012. Petitioner on 26.9.2012 requested for adjournment of the date and the very next date order in question has been passed.

Once this Court had given liberty to the petitioner to file objection and petitioner had been requesting for adjournment for filing objection, then District Inspector of Schools ought to have been reasonable by providing opportunity of hearing to the petitioner instead of proceeding to take decision on the premises that no reply has been submitted to the charge sheet in question. Order passed by the District Inspector of Schools in the present case, cannot be approved of inasmuch as same is in violation of principle of natural justice and specially when the date fixed was 26.9.2012 and information of the said hearing was received in the morning itself and request was being made to accord time to file objection pursuant to the order passed by this Court, but the reason best known to the District Inspector of Schools, he has chosen to proceed ahead and accord approval. The District Inspector of Schools, at no point of time, proceeded to examine the claim as to whether in free and impartial manner inquiry has been held or not and straight way on the inquiry report, order was passed that petitioner has not submitted his reply, has proceeded to pass order, in view of this background order passed, is hereby quashed and set aside.

Both Ms. Durga Tiwari, Advocate as well as Sri R.K. Ojha, Advocate appearing along with Gautam Baghel, Advocate agreed that if petitioner is not at all satisfied with the District Inspector of Schools, then matter be sent to any of the authority, who may consider the matter of approval, and both the parties have agreed that matter be decided by the Joint Director of Education of region concerned.

In view of this District Inspector of Schools, Moradabad is directed to transmit entire paper to the office of the Joint Director of Education Moradabad Region, Moradabad and Joint Director of Education, Moradabad Region, Moradabad is directed to take appropriate decision by means of reasoned order on the basis of papers produced and on the basis of objection so filed on behalf of the petitioner after providing opportunity of hearing to the petitioner as well as Secretary of Management.

With these observation, writ petition is allowed. "

23. Upon reading of the aforesaid order I find that the Court very much recorded and reproduced its earlier order dated 05.09.2012 passed in the earlier round of litigation in which the appointment of the enquiry officer was questioned and so the enquiry proceeding was claimed to be a farce. The Court noticed that petitioner was given opportunity to file objection but the District

Inspector of Schools proceeded to pass order. The Court found this order of the District Inspector of Schools to be highly improper and arbitrary and accordingly set aside the order of approval of dismissal of services of the petitioner dated 26.09.2012. The Court, with the agreement of the parties referred the matter to the Regional Joint Director of Education. Thus, every aspect of the matter right from the appointment of the enquiry officer, the manner and procedure followed in holding the enquiry, the proposed punishment and the order of District Inspector of Schools regarding approval, remained open. A very positive direction thus got issued by this Court and the Regional Joint Director of Education upheld the objections of the delinquent employee namely the petitioner and directed for a fresh enquiry. Operative portion of the order of Regional Joint Director of Education dated 18.04.2013 is reproduced hereunder:

" माननीय उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद द्वारा अपने निर्णय दिनांक 05-09- 2012 में यह स्पष्ट निर्णय दिये हैं जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक मुरादाबाद / सम्भल सेवा समाप्ति अनुमोदन देने से पूर्व याची द्वारा जॉच अधिकारी सम्बन्धी व अन्य आपत्तियों का गहनता से परीक्षण करेंगे। जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक मुरादाबाद / सम्भल कार्यवाहक प्राचार्य तथा जाँच अधिकारी द्वारा दिनांक 16-07-2012 को यह लिखते हुए कि मैं एक अधिवक्ता हूँ और दो दशक से अधिक समय से प्रेक्टिस कर रहा हूँ कानून और उसकी प्रक्रिया से परिचित हूँ। श्री भवेन्द्र नाथ वरहा द्वारा अपने प्रत्यावेदनों में माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय के आदेश Indrani Bai (Smt.) 24. Dr. Avnish Kumari Shukla who was the Principal of the Government Degree College was appointed as enquiry officer and enquiry officer gave opportunity to the petitioner to appear on 03.03.2014 vide letter dated 12.02.2014 as last opportunity. The petitioner, it is true initially took time by writing letter dated 20.02.2014 that he be given further time but ultimately appeared and submitted his reply. The enquiry officer submitted report but copy whereof was never supplied to him and upon letter being written to the enquiry officer under Right to Information Act about the enquiry report, the enquiry officer wrote back to the petitioner on 17.07.2014 that entire record has been sent to the Regional Joint Director of Education including the original enquiry officer and so he should contract the Regional Joint Director of Education. Regional Joint Director of Education has been repeatedly informing the petitioner to appear him and petitioner kept asking for the enquiry report. Neither the petitioner was supplied with the enquiry report, nor the petitioner had the opportunity to meet the findings in such report and the Regional Joint Director of Education accepted the report and approved the punishment order.

25. From these facts it is borne out that after the order was passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education on 18.04.2013, the issue regarding the appointment of the enquiry officer no more remained alive as he had appointed a new enquiry officer.

26. Now it is to be examined whether enquiry officer did enquire into the charges giving proper opportunity to the petitioner or not and whether the final order could have been passed even without furnishing the enquiry report to the delinquent employee.

27. A very specific plea has come to be taken in the writ petition that the enquiry officer refused to give enquiry report taking the plea that the entire documents have been forwarded to the Regional Joint Director of Education vide para 38 and 39. In reply to the same in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Principal and the Committee of Management not a single whisper is there in para 20 as to whether any such enquiry report was supplied to the petitioner.

28. A document ofthe Principal of the Government Degree College, Sambhal dated 01.01.2015 has been annexed along with the rejoinder affidavit to show that this letter was issued after the order approving the dismissal/ termination from service was came to be passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education on 29.09.2014 and 01.10.2014.

29. Thus, it is clear that while the Regional Joint Director of Education proceeded to consider the enquiry report, petitioner had no opportunity to contest the same. It is also reflected from these documents filed that before the enquiry officer, Principal of Government Inter College, Sambhal, the affidavits were filed by the employees of Institution regarding factum of incident of assault upon the petitioner that had taken place. The report of the enquiry officer dated 21.06.2014 that has been brought on record by the petitioner now shows that the enquiry officer did not fix any date to hold oral enquiry except for the date mentioned to give one opportunity only to the petitioner to appear before her on 03.03.2014. So virtually there has been no oral enquiry at all.

30. In the circumstances it can be very safely concluded that after a fresh enquiry officer appointed, he did not held any oral enquiry except for inviting petitioner once to appear before the enquiry officer to meet the charges. The affidavits of the employees of the institution filed before the enquiry officer were also not examined and thus enquiry officer did not asked any of these employee to appear before her to rebut the charges and give testimony in favour of the delinquent employee. Similarly, the enquiry officer also did not asked the Principal and Manager to appear before her. The enquiry officer virtually proceeded to believe the documents furnished by the Principal and Manager and returned her finding that the claim of the incident to have taken place by the petitioner did not get prove.

31. A division bench of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari (supra) has held that where the charges are denied, oral enquiry is must. The division bench has relied upon the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of State of U.P. & Anr v. T.P. Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831. The Court vide para 11, 12, 13 & 14 of the said judgment has held thus:

"11. A Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma Vs. Managing Director & another, 2000 (1) U.P.L.B.E.C. 541, considering the question as to whether holding of an oral inquiry is necessary or not, held that if no oral inquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee. The aforesaid view was reiterated in Subhash Chandra Sharma Vs. U.P. Cooperative Spinning Mills & others, 2001 (2) UPLBEC 1475 and Laturi Singh Vs. U.P. Public Service Tribunal & others, Writ Petition No. 12939 of 2001, decided on 06.05.2005.

12. An oral inquiry would be necessary even if the delinquent employee has failed to submit reply to the charge sheet. In State of U.P. & another Vs. T.P. Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that even if the employee has failed to submit reply to the charge sheet, it would not absolve the Inquiry Officer from proceeding with the oral inquiry and submit report as to whether charge is proved or not. After recording of evidence, he will find out whether the charge is proved or not and submit report to the disciplinary authority.

13. The aforesaid exposition of law makes it clear that the delinquent employee has a right to defend himself at different stages. When the charge sheet is served upon him, he has a right to submit his reply and in case he does not submit reply, that itself would not amount to admission of guilt or that the charge stand proved. If the allegations are serious and may result in major penalty, the disciplinary authority may appoint Inquiry Officer. Such Inquiry Officer, thereafter would have to fix a date for oral evidence. At this stage the delinquent employee has a right to participate in the oral inquiry, examine witnesses, if produced by the department, and after the evidence of the department is completed, the delinquent employee may produce evidence in his defence. During the course of oral inquiry, the delinquent employee has right to participate at every stage and date and if there is any failure in participation on one or more occasions, the Inquiry Officer cannot deny him participation from the subsequent stage. The delinquent employee can participate at subsequent other stage also. The Inquiry Officer, after completion of oral inquiry, will submit its report after discussing the entire material and if any charge is proved, the disciplinary authority shall supply a copy of the inquiry report to the delinquent employee and he would again have a right to submit reply to the inquiry report.

14. Non holding of oral inquiry, therefore, is a serious flaw which vitiates the entire disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment."

32. I further find that the enquiry officer has also failed to return any finding bringing home the charge against the petitioner so as to hold him guilty of the charges. The finding part of the report of enquiry officer is reproduced hereunder:

" जहाँ तक इनके बन्धुआ मजदूर के रूप में कार्य करने का प्रश्न है - यह महाविद्यालय के स्थाई कर्मचारी हैं इनको नियमित रूप से वेतन एवं वेतन वृद्धि आदि सेवा सम्बन्धी सभी लाभ मिलते रहे हैं। इसलिये इनको बन्धुआ मजदूर की श्रेणी में नहीं रखा जा सकता। दिनांक 12-10-2011 को घटित घटना के सम्बन्ध में जिन पांच व्यक्तियों को श्री भवेन्द्र नाथ बराह ने आरोपित किया है उनमें से चार व्यक्तियों का कथन है कि यह घटना के समय महाविद्यालय में उपस्थित ही नहीं थे। पांचवे व्यक्ति घटनास्थल पर उपस्थित नहीं थे।

33. Thus, it is clear that neither the enquiry officer found anything true about the allegation against the petitioner, nor did he find the charges to be proved against the petitioner in the departmental enquiry, inasmuch as, the enquiry officer did not hold any enquiry, get the departmental witnesses examined or the affidavits filed by the petitioner duly verified by getting the deponents examined. Still further I find that after the enquiry report was submitted, no show cause notice was issued to the petitioner by any point of time by the Regional Joint Director of Education and he proceeded to pass a final order appreciating the enquiry report without supply the copy thereof to the petitioner.

34. In the case of Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad v. B. Karunakar, (1993) 4 SCC 727, the Constitution Bench of Supreme Court has held that non supply of the enquiry report by the disciplinary authority is a denial of reasonable opportunity of hearing. The Court laid down the guidelines in the matter of departmental enquiry and punishment vide para 29 and 30 that are reproduced hereunder:

"29. Hence it has to be held that when the Inquiry Officer is not the disciplinary authority, the delinquent employee has right to receive a copy of the inquiry Officer's report before the disciplinary authority arrives at its conclusions with regard to the guilt or innocence of the employee with regard to the charges levelled against him. That right is a part of the employee's right to defend himself against the charges levelled against him. A denial of the Inquiry Officer's report before the disciplinary authority takes its decision on the charges is a denial of reasonable opportunity to the employee to prove his innocence and is a breach of the principles of natural justice.

30. Hence the incidental questions raised above may be answered as follows:

(i) Since the denial of the report of the Inquiry Officer is a denial of reasonable opportunity and a breach of the principles of natural justice, it follows that the statutory rules, if any, which deny the report to the employee are against the principles of natural justice and, therefore, invalid. The delinquent employee will, therefore, be entitled to a copy of the report even if the statutory rules do not permit the furnishing of the report or are silent on the subject.

(ii) The relevant portion of Article 311(2) of the Constitution is as follows:

"(2) No such person as aforesaid shall be dismissed or removed or reduced in rank except after an enquiry in which he has been informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges."

Thus the Article makes it obligatory to hold an inquiry before the employee is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank. The Article, however, cannot be construed to mean that it prevents or prohibits the inquiry when punishment other than that of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank is awarded. The procedure to be followed in awarding other punishments is laid down in the service rules governing the employee. What is further, Article 311(2) applies only to members of the civil services of the Union or an all India service or a civil service of a State or to the holders of the civil posts under the Union or a State. In the matter of all punishments both Government servants and others are governed by their service rules. Whenever, therefore, the service rules contemplate an inquiry before a punishment is awarded, and when the Inquiry Officer is not the disciplinary authority the delinquent employee will have the right to receive the Inquiry Officer's report notwithstanding the nature of the punishment.

(iii) Since it is the right of the employee to, have the report to defend himself effectively, and he would not know in advance whether the report is in his favour or against him, it will not be proper to construe his failure to ask for the report, as the waiver of his right. Whether*, therefore, the employee asks for the, report or not, the report has to be furnished to him.*

(iv) In the view that we have taken, viz., that the right to make representation to the disciplinary authority against the findings recorded in the inquiry report is an integral part of the opportunity of defence against the charges and is a breach of principles of natural justice to deny the said right, it is only appropriate that the law laid down in Mohd. Ramzan Khan's case (AIR 1991 SC 471) (supra) should apply to employees in all establishments whether Government or non-Government, public or private. This will be the case whether there are rules governing the disciplinary proceeding or not and whether they expressly prohibit the furnishing of the copy of the report or are silent on the subject. Whatever the nature of punishment, further, whenever the rules require an inquiry to be held, for inflicting the punishment in question, the delinquent employee should have the benefit of the report of the Inquiry Officer before the disciplinary authority records its findings on the charges levelled against him. Hence question (iv) is answered accordingly.

(v) The next question to be answered is what is the effect on the order of punishment when the report of the Inquiry Officer is not furnished to the employee and what relief should be granted to him in such cases. The answer to this question has to be relative to the punishment awarded. When the employee is dismissed or removed from service and the inquiry is set aside because the report is not furnished to him, in some cases the non- furnishing of the report may have prejudiced him gravely while in other cases it may have made no difference to the ultimate punishment awarded to him. Hence to direct reinstatement of the employee with back-wages in all cases is to reduce the rules of justice to a mechanical ritual. The theory of reasonable opportunity and the principles of natural justice have been evolved to uphold the rule of law and to assist the individual to vindicate his just rights. They are not incantations to be invoked nor rites to be performed on all and sundry occasions. Whether in fact, prejudice has been caused to the employee or not on account of the denial to him of the report, has to be considered on the facts and circumstances of each case. Where, therefore, even after the furnishing of the report, no different consequence would have followed, it would be a perversion of justice to permit the employee to resume duty and to get all the consequential benefits.

It amounts to rewarding the dishonest and the guilty and thus to stretching the concept of justice to illogical and exasperating limits. It amounts to a "unnatural expansion of natural justice" which in itself is antithetical to justice.

35. What is further surprising is that, once the earlier order approving the dismissal/ termination of the service of the petitioner by the District Inspector of Schools dated 26.09.2012 came to be quashed by the High Court, the consequential order dated 29.09.2012 by the Principal of the Institution terminating/ dismissing the petitioner from service automatically stood quashed and therefore, the Regional Joint Director of Education was not justified in affirming the order dated 29.09.2012, a consequential order to the order of District Inspector of Schools. All that now required was for the Regional Joint Director of Education, to have issued a show cause notice with a copy of enquiry report to the petitioner in the first instance and then to pass order afresh directing the Principal to pass order. The Court, therefore, comes to this definite conclusion that the entire procedure followed by the Regional Joint Director of Education in holding enquiry was vitiated for non compliance of the Principles of natural justice, inasmuch as, the Regional Joint Director of Education was not justified in affirming and approving the order which has stood quashed by this Court.

36. Still further, the enquiry officer having not returned finding as to guilt of the petitioner to bring home the charge, it is difficult to understand as to how the Regional Joint Director of Education could have proceeded to pass order approving the termination from service without returning his own finding as to his disagreement with the findings of the enquiry officer in the enquiry report. There is no doubt that in matters of disciplinary proceedings, this Court in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution will not interfere Union of India v. Subrata Nath, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1617.

37. This legal proposition stands intact as on date but it is also equally true that if the procedures are not followed in holding the enquiry then this Court will certainly interfere. In Saroj Kumar Sinha's case (supra) vide paragraph nos. 28, 31 & 32 this Court has held thus:

"28. An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the departmental/ disciplinary authority/ Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents.

31. In Shaughnessy v. United States, 97 L Ed 956 : 345 US 206 (1952) (Jackson, J.), a Judge of the United States Supreme Court has said : (L Ed p. 969)

:...Procedural fairness and regularity are of the indispensable essence of liberty. Severe substantive laws can be endured if they are fairly and impartially applied."

32. The affect of non-disclosure of relevant documents has been stated in judicial Review of Administrative Action by De Smith, Woolf and Jowell, 5th Edn., p. 442 as follows:

"If relevant evidential material is not disclosed at all to a party who is potentially prejudiced by it, there is prima facie unfairness, irrespective of whether the material in question arose before, during or after the hearing. This proposition can be illustrated by a large number of modern cases involving the use of undisclosed reports by administrative tribunals and other adjudicating bodies. If the deciding body is or has the trappings of a judicial tribunal and receives or appears to receive evidence ex parte which is not fully disclosed, or holds ex parte inspections during the course or after the conclusion of the hearing, the case for setting the decision aside is obviously very strong; the maxim that justice must be seen to be done can readily be invoked."

38. There is no quarrel to the proposition propounded by Supreme Court in Air India Corporation v. V.A. Rebellow and followed in a catena of case including the one M.G. Vittal Rao's case that "if employer has lost the confidence in the employee and the bona fide loss of confidence is affirmed, the order of punishment must be considered to be immune from challenge" provided of course confirmation is by way of definite findings returned in the enquiry report prepared with procedural fairness on both the above counts I find this above proposition is not attracted to the case in hand. Neither enquiry was procedurally fair, nor the enquiry officer appointed by Director of Education has been confident enough to return such findings affirmatively.

39. There is yet another issue involved, as to when the enquiry officer has failed to record any finding to bring home the charge, whether it was open for the Regional Joint Director of Education to have proceeded to hold petitioner guilty of the charges bypassing the authority of the Principal of the Institution who is the appointing authority and the District Inspector of Schools who is the approving authority. Once the Regional Joint Director of Education had directed for appointment of enquiry officer under its order dated 18.04.2013, his job was over. The order of the High Court quoted above was very categorical that Regional Joint Director of Education would consider the matter of approval. Once he refused to grant approval to the appointment of enquiry officer by Principal of the Institution the directions of the Court dated 08.10.2012 stood complied with. Now, therefore, it was a matter to be decided afresh by sending it to the disciplinary authority to pass order on the basis of final enquiry report or if the Regional Joint Director of Education assumed the status of employer as per direction of this Court in earlier writ petition, he was certainly required to follow the procedure as to punishment on the basis of findings arrived in the new enquiry report should have passed order afresh on the question of punishment.

40. Further, I do not find the order of the Regional Joint Director of Education to be sustainable as in the absence of supply of enquiry report to the petitioner and without there being any show cause notice as to the proposed punishment, the Regional Joint Director of Education could not have passed the kind of order he has passed. The matter, therefore, could have been remitted in the light of law laid down in Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad (supra) and the Division Bench judgment of this Court in Committee of Management, Muslim Inter College (supra) in the first instance, but looking to the enquiry report and the manner in which the allegations have been made what surprises the Court is that for 15 years until the management got disturbed at one level with intervention of the Authorized Controller or a single hand operation as the case might have been, this controversy erupted. A class IV employee who had remained docile for 15 years may be working under compulsion at the residence of Manager or otherwise would not have raised his voice against Manager and the Principal knowing very well that he would be penalized for the same. There is no allegation either by the Manager or Principal of the Institution or any of their men that petitioner at any point of time disobeyed them in performance of duty except during the interregnum period when the Management was not there and the Authorized Controller was appointed or single hand operation was operating.

41. This above scenario of this case in the background goes to the root of the matter, and, therefore, in my considered view the petitioner deserved at the most a warning and to improve himself and be careful in conducting himself in future. This is one of the exceptional cases where I find the matter should not be remitted on rule. Petitioner is a class IV employee and I think he has been punished much by now because twice matter has been remitted in the past.

42. In view of the above, the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education dated 29.09.2014 and the consequential order dated 01.10.2014 passed by respondent no. 5 are hereby quashed. Consequences to follow. Petitioner would be entitled to 50% of salary for the period he has not worked.

Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings and Financial Irregularities – Petitioner, an Assistant Teacher, challenged her dismissal and recovery order of ₹10,63,085 for alleged financial irregularities in construction projects at eight primary schools – Held, the departmental enquiry followed due process, with the petitioner given opportunities to respond to charges via show cause notices dated 06.01.2006 and 13.03.2006 – The enquiry report, based on physical inspections and technical evaluations, established financial irregularities, and the petitioner failed to provide evidence to refute the allegations or prove the work was completed. (Paras 3, 5, 6, 7, 19, 21, 22)

Service Law – Scope of Judicial Review – Petitioner argued the enquiry report was incomplete due to lack of details on inspection dates, technical evaluators, and presence of village representatives – Held, under Article 226, the High Court's judicial review is limited to assessing procedural fairness, not re-evaluating evidence or substituting findings, as per Indian Oil Corporation Vs Ajit Kumar and Deputy General (Appellate Authority) Vs Ajay Kumar Srivastava – The absence of specific details in the enquiry report did not vitiate the process, as physical inspections and technical evaluations were conducted, and the petitioner provided no evidence to challenge their validity. (Paras 11, 14, 15, 16, 19, 22)

Service Law – Proportionality of Punishment – Petitioner was dismissed and ordered to repay ₹10,63,085 for financial irregularities across eight school construction projects – Held, dismissal was proportionate given the gravity of financial misconduct, which undermined the petitioner's credibility as a teacher, as per U.O.I. Vs Const. Sunil Kumar – The recovery order was justified, as funds were withdrawn for incomplete or non-existent work (e.g., roofs not constructed, furnishings not provided), and the petitioner failed to substantiate claims of completed work or challenge the technical evaluation. (Paras 24, 24(a), 24(b), 24(c))

Service Law – Burden of Proof and Evidentiary Standards –

Petitioner contended that the enquiry lacked evidence, as no specific inspection dates or evaluators' details were provided – Held, the enquiry report relied on physical inspections and technical department evaluations, which confirmed incomplete work and financial misappropriation – The petitioner's mere assertions without supporting evidence (e.g., receipts, muster rolls) were insufficient to establish a "no evidence" case, and the enquiry findings were upheld as rational and based on record. (Paras 19, 21, 22)

Service Law – Administrative Feasibility and Gender Considerations – Petitioner, a female teacher, argued it was unreasonable to assign her construction responsibilities for eight schools across different blocks – Held, the petitioner never raised objections to the assignment during the process, and no legal provision mandates that village representatives must be present during inspections – The administrative decision to assign her as construction in-charge was not challenged contemporaneously, and her gender did not exempt her from accountability for financial irregularities. (Paras 11, 22)

. उपरोक्त दण्डादेश के विरूद्ध याचिकाकर्ता ने एक याचिका इस न्यायालय के समक्ष दायर की, परन्तु वो वैकल्पिक उपचार होने के कारण निरस्त कर दी गयी और याचिकाकर्ता ने तब, उ.प्र.बेसिक शिक्षा कर्मचारी नियमावली के 'नियम ५' के अंतर्गत एक अपील दायर की।

९. सचिव, उ.प्र. बेसिक शिक्षा परिषद, इलाहाबाद ने आदेश दिनाँक ३१.०७.२००८ द्वारा उक्त अपील को निरस्त कर दिया। आदेश के मुख्य अंश निम्न हैः-

''जांच अधिकारी द्वारा जांच आख्या में निम्नवत पुष्टि की गयी हैः-

१- याची श्रीमती भारती को उच्च प्रा० वि० कनौडिया विकास खण्ड म्योरपुर के नवीन विद्यालय का भवन प्रभारी वर्ष २००२-०३ मे बनाया गया जिसमें चाहर दीवारी, साज सज्जा एवं टी०एल०ई० व अन्य मदों की धनराशि कुल रूपया १४२०३०.०० की वित्तीय अनियमितता का उल्लेख किया गया है।

२- उच्च प्राथमिक विद्यालय बेलहस्थी, म्योर की मात्र दीवाल स्तर का कार्य किया गया, शेष अपूर्ण है, अवशेष कार्यों का मुल्यांकन तकनीकी विभाग से कराया गया, भवन कार्य पूर्ण कराने हेतु रू० १२१००.०० धन की आवश्यकता है। रूपया ४६०००.०० की वित्तीय अनियमितता बतायी गयी है।

३- उच्च प्रा० वि० खाड़पाथर म्योर के भवन निर्माण सें नीव स्तर से ४ फीट ऊचाई तक ही निर्माण कार्य बताया गया है शेष कार्य अपूर्ण है। तकनीकी विभाग द्वारा मुल्यांकन कराया गया है जिसमें भवन पूर्ण कराने हेतु रूपये १७,५००.०० की आवश्यकता बतायी गयी है।

४- उच्च प्रा० वि० रघुनाथपुर वि०ख० चतरा का निर्माण कार्य दरवाजे स्तर तक पूर्ण है तकनीकी विभाग द्वारा मुल्यांकन कराये जाने पर उक्त भवन को पूर्ण कराने हेतु रूपये २,२१,३७८.०० की आवश्यकता बतायी गयी है।

५- प्रा० वि० हिरनखुरी, चतरा के सम्बन्ध में जांच अधिकारी द्वारा अपनी आख्या में बताया गया है कि निर्माण कार्य नींव स्तर तक ही कराया गया है। मुल्यांकन तकनीकी विभाग से करायी गयी भवन पूर्ण कराने हेतु रू० १,४१,९१५.०० की आवश्यकता बतायी गयी है।

७- उच्च प्राथमिक विद्यालय डूमरडीहा, दुद्धी के स्थलीय निरीक्षण में भवन के फर्स का निर्माण कार्य अपूर्ण तथा खिड़कियों के पल्ले, चौखट, गैलरी का दरवाजा चैनल आदि अधाविधि अवशेष पाया गया, मुल्यांकन तकनीकी विभाग से करायी गयी जांच कार्य पूर्ण कराने हेतु रू० ७९,९७६.०० की आवश्यकता है। ८- प्रा० वि० करीं, दुद्धी के स्थलीय निरीक्षण में पाया गया कि फर्स, प्लास्टर, खिड़कियों के चौखट व पल्ले, दरवाजे, शौचालय चैनल आदि कार्य अवशेष हैं मूल्यांकन तकनीकी विभाग से करायी गयी कार्य को पूर्ण करने हेतु रू० १,०८४.०० की आवश्यकता है।

उपरोक्त जांच आख्या से स्पष्ट है कि याची द्वारा भवनों का निर्माण कार्य पूर्ण नहीं किया जा सकता है। किन्तु जांच आख्या में स्पष्ट किया गया है कि समस्त विद्यालयों का जांच अधिकारी द्वारा स्थलीय निरीक्षण किया गया, निर्मित/अर्धनिर्मित भवनों का तकनीकी विभाग द्वारा मूल्यांकन किया गया। निर्माण कार्य पूर्ण करने में उपरोक्त धनराशि की आवश्यकता है, किन्तु जांच आख्या में इस तथ्य का कही भी उल्लेख नहीं किया गया है कि जांच स्थलीय निरीक्षण किन-किन तिथियों को की गयी/तकनीकी विभाग का कौन अधिकारी/कर्मचारी द्वारा उक्त धनराशि का मूल्यांकन किया गया, जांच के समय ग्राम प्रधान/ग्राम सभा का कौन सा सदस्य उपस्थित था, जांच के समय भवन स्थल पर कोई सामग्री अवशेष नहीं थी अथवा थी, शेष थी तो उसका मूल्यांकन क्या था आदि बिन्दुओं का कोई उल्लेख जांच आख्या में नहीं है।

उक्त के आलोक में मा० उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक- ०१.०६.०७ के अनुपालन में याची द्वारा प्रस्तुत प्रत्यावेदन बलहीन होने के कारण निरस्त किया जाता है।''

१०. उपरोक्त वर्णित आदेश दिनांक १३.०४.२००६ व ३१.०७.२००७ वर्तमान याचिका के माध्यम से आक्षेपित किये गये है।

११. श्री मनोज कुमार सिंह, याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने आक्षेपित अपीलीय आदेश दिनाँक ३१.०७.२००७ के उक्त अंश पर न्यायालय का ध्यान आकर्षित कराया कि अपीलीय प्राधिकारी ने यह माना कि जाँच आख्या में यह उल्लेख नहीं किया

गया है कि जाँच स्थलीय निरीक्षण किन-किन तिथियों को किया गया। तकनीकी विभाग के किस अधिकारी/कर्मचारी द्वारा उक्त धनराशि का मूल्यांकन किया गया। जाँच के समय कौन सा अधिकारी/कर्मचारी उपस्थित था। जाँच के समय भवन स्थल पर कोई सामग्री शेष थी या नही और उसका मूल्यांकन क्या था, परन्तु अपील निरस्त कर एक वैधानिक त्रुटि कारित करी है। विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने यह भी कथन किया कि उपरोक्त कमियों के कारण जाँच आख्या पूर्ण नही मानी जा सकती है। ऐसी जाँच आख्या के आधार पर याचिकाकर्ता के विरूद्ध कोई भी आरोप सिद्ध नही हो सकता है। याचिका के महिला होने के कारण एक साथ कई स्थानो पर भवन निर्माण की जिम्मेदारी देना भी उचित नही था। याचिकाकर्ता पूर्णतः निर्दोष है, तथा उसको दिया गया दण्ड़ समानुपातिक भी नही है।

१२. उपरोक्त के विरूद्ध, विपक्षी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा आन्ध्र प्रदेश सरकार प्रति एस.श्री रामा राव, १९६३ ० ए.आई.आर. (एस.सी.)१७२३; दमोह पन्ना सागर रूरल रीजनल बैंक एवं अन्य प्रति मुन्ना लाल जैन, (२००५) १० सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसस ८४; स्टेट बैंक ऑफ इंडिया एवं अन्य प्रति रमेश दिनकर पुंडे, (२००६) ७ सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसस २१२; सुरेश पथरेला प्रति ओरियंटल बैंक ऑफ कॉमर्स, (२००६) १० सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसस ५७२; चेयरमैन एंड़ मैनेजिंग डाईरेक्टर, वी.एस.पी. एवं अन्य प्रति गोपाराजू श्री प्रभाकरा हरी बाबू, (२००८) ५ सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसस ५६९; स्टेट बैंक ऑफ इंडिया एवं अन्य प्रति नरेन्द्र कुमार पाण्डेय (२०१३)२ सुप्रीम कोर्ट केसस ७४०, के प्रकरण मे दिये गये निर्णयों का संदर्भ देते हुए यह कथन किया कि जाँच प्रक्रिया में प्राकृतिक न्याय के सिद्धान्तो का पूर्ण पालन किया गया है तथा पूर्ण प्रक्रिया दोष मुक्त है, अतः यह न्यायालय एक अपीलीय प्राधिकारी का स्वरूप नहीं ले सकता है और न ही पत्रावली पर उपस्थित साक्ष्यों का पुनः अवलोकन कर सकता है। याचिकाकर्ता ने गंभीर वित्तीय आपत्तियां कारित करी है। याचिकाकर्ता ने कभी भी जिम्मेदारी न दिये जाने का प्रार्थना पत्र नहीं दिया था। अतः उसको दी गयी सजा समानुपातिक है।

१३. उभय पक्षों के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं को ध्यान पूर्वक श्रवण किया गया एवं पत्रावली का परिशीलन किया गया।

१४. पक्षों की बहस को मनन करने के पूर्व, विभागीय कार्यवाही में इस न्यायालय द्वारा हस्ताक्षेप की विधिक सीमा से सम्बन्धित विधिक सिद्धान्तो का संक्षेप मे वर्णन करना आवश्यक है।

१५. उच्चतम न्यायालय के एक नवीन निर्णय जो, इंडियन ऑयल कार्पोरेशन व अन्य प्रति अजीत कुमार व अन्य २०२३ लाइव लॉ(एस.सी.) ४७८ के प्रकरण में पारित किया गया है और यह पुनः निर्धारित किया किः-

''इस न्यायालय द्वारा न्यायिक पुनर्विचार के दायरे पर डिप्टी जनरल (अपीलीय अथॉरिटी) बनाम अजय कुमार श्रीवास्तव (२०२१)२ एससीसी ६१२) के निर्णय व्यक्त किए गए विचार निम्न उद्धर्णित हैं :-

"२४. इस प्रकार यह निश्चित हो गया है कि, संवैधानिक अदालतों की न्यायिक पुनर्निरीक्षण की शक्ति, निर्णय लेने की प्रक्रिया का मूल्यांकन है, न कि निर्णय के गुण-दोष का। यह उपचार में निष्पक्षता सुनिश्चित करने के लिए है, न कि निष्कर्ष की निष्पक्षता सुनिश्चित करने के लिए। न्यायालय/न्यायाधिकरण अपचारी के विरूद्ध की गई कार्यवाही में हस्तक्षेप कर सकता है , यदि यह किसी भी तरह से, प्राकृतिक न्याय के नियमों के असंगत है या जांच के तरीके को निर्धारित करने वाले वैधानिक नियमों का उल्लंघन हुआ है या जहां अनुशासनात्मक प्राधिकारी का निष्कर्ष या जॉच परिणाम बिना किसी साक्ष्य पर आधारित है। यदि निष्कर्ष या जॉच परिणाम ऐसा हो जिस पर कोई भी उचित व्यक्ति कभी भी नहीं पहुंच सकता हो या जहां अनुशासनात्मक प्राधिकारी द्वारा साक्ष्य पर विचार करने पर दिया गया निष्कर्ष विकृत हो या पत्रावली के परिशीलन मात्र से आधारभूत त्रुटि से ग्रस्त प्रकट हो या किसी भी साक्ष्य पर आधारित न हो, तो उत्प्रेषण आज्ञा प्रत्र जारी किया जा सकता है। संक्षेप में, न्यायिक पुनर्निरीक्षण का दायरा वस्तुतः प्राधिकारी के निर्णय की शुद्धता या तर्क संगतता की जांच तक नहीं बढ़ाया जा सकता है।

२७- xx xx xx

२८.संवैधानिक न्यायालय, संविधान के अनुच्छेद २२६ या अनुच्छेद १३६ के तहत न्यायिक पुनर्निरीक्षण के अपने अधिकार क्षेत्र का प्रयोग करते हुए, विभागीय कार्यवाई के तथ्यात्मक जॉच परिणामों में दुर्भावना या दुराग्रह के प्रकरण को छोड़कर, यानी जहां किसी निष्कर्ष का समर्थन करने के लिए साक्ष्य न हो या जहां कोई निष्कर्ष ऐसा है कि कोई भी व्यक्ति तर्कसंगत और निष्पक्षता से उन तक नहीं पहुंच सकता है, हस्तक्षेप नहीं करेगा और जब तक विभागीय प्राधिकारी द्वारा दिये गए निष्कर्ष का समर्थन करने के लिए कुछ साक्ष्य हैं,

तब तक उसे संधारित रखा जाना चाहिए।"

(बल दिया गया)

तदुपरांत इसी तरह का विचार एक्स कांस्टेबल/डीवीआर मुकेश कुमार रैगर बनाम भारत संघ और अन्य के प्रकरण में इस न्यायालय के निर्णय में व्यक्त किया गया था।"

(हिन्दी रूपान्तरण न्यायालय द्वारा किया गया)

१६. इस स्तर पर यह भी उल्लिखित करना उचित रहेगा कि उच्च न्यायालय, अनुच्छेद २२६ के अधिकार क्षेत्र के अन्तर्गत विभागीय जांच के प्रकरणों में कब और किस सीमा तक हस्तक्षेप कर सकता है। इस विषय पर उच्चतम न्यायालय के कुछ और निर्णय उल्लेखनीय हैः-

"(अ). संजय कुमार सिंह बनाम भारत सरकार व अन्य २०११(१४) एससीसी ६९२, में उच्चतम न्यायालय ने प्रतिपादित किया कि, विभागीय जाँच के प्रकरणों में न्यायालय की भूमिका सीमित है एवं विभागीय प्राधिकारियों द्वारा सभी पक्षों को सुनकर व पत्रावली पर विचार के उपरान्त दिये गये मत के स्थान पर न्यायालय अपना मत प्रतिस्थापित कर सकता है।(कण्डिका २२)

१७. वर्तमान प्रकरण में प्रक्रिया की सुचिता में कोई दोष नहीं है और न ही याचिकाकर्ता ने ऐसी कोई चेष्टा ही की है और न ही प्राकृतिक न्याय के सिद्धान्तों की अवेहलना ही हुई है।

१८. न्यायालय को यह देखना है, कि क्या याचिकाकर्ता के कथनानुसार वर्तमान प्रकरण ' कोई साक्ष्य नहीं (No Evidence)' के अंतर्गत आता है या दिया गया 'दण्ड' समानुपातिक है, या नहीं। जैसा पूर्व मे कहा गया है कि मात्र उपरोक्त दशा (कोई साक्ष्य नहीं) में ही यह न्यायालय आक्षेपित आदेश में, कुछ परिस्थितियों में ही हस्तक्षेप कर सकता है।

१९. उपरोक्त के संदर्भ में मैने, जाँच आख्या का ध्यानपूर्वक परिशीलन किया। जाँच अधिकारी ने ऐसा उल्लेख किया है कि स्थलीय जाँच व अवशेष कार्यों का मुल्यांकन, तकनीकी विभाग द्वारा कराया गया था, और वित्तीय अनियमितताओं का निर्धारण भी किया गया था। स्थलीय जाँच आख्या पत्रावली पर नहीं है। याचिकाकर्ता द्वारा ऐसा कोई साक्ष्य पत्रावली पर नही है कि कोई स्थलीय जाँच नही हुई या तकनीकी मुल्यांकन भी नहीं हुआ था। कथन मात्र से यह नही माना जा सकता कि कोई स्थलीय जाँच नही हुई थी। याचिकाकर्ता ने मूल्यांकन में त्रुटि से संबंधित भी कोई साक्ष्य नहीं दिया है।

२०. यहां यह उल्लेख करना समीचिन रहेगा कि, याचिकाकर्ता व उसके पति के विरूद्ध दण्डनीय प्रक्रिया भी हुई थी। उनके विरूद्ध प्राथमिकी भी दर्ज हुई थी व उसका पति कारागार में भी निरूद्ध रहा।

२१. प्रतिवादी की ओर से दिये गये प्रतिशपथ पत्र के कुछ प्रस्तरों का उल्लेख करना भी उचित रहेगा कि, स्थलीय जाँच हुई एवं शेष कार्य का मुल्यांकन भी कराया गयाः-

"३४. यह कि याचिका के प्रस्तर संख्या ५४ इस कथन के साथ अस्वीकार है कि उक्त निर्माणाधीन विद्यालय भवनों के अवशेष कार्यों का मूल्यांकन भवन विशेषज्ञ (अभियन्ता) से कराया गया, और विशेषज्ञ द्वारा प्रस्तुत आख्या के आधार पर जाँच अधिकारी द्वारा स्थलीय निरीक्षण किया गया। स्थलीय निरीक्षण के दौरान उक्त निर्माणाधीन विद्यालय भवनों के समीप कोई भी निर्माण सामग्री उपलब्ध नहीं पायी गई, और न ही याचिनी द्वारा जाँच अधिकारी के समक्ष व्यय किये गये धन का विवरण व उससे सम्बन्धित रसीद/बाउचर, मास्टररोल आदि प्रस्तुत किया गया।

३५. यह कि याचिका के प्रस्तर संख्या ५५ इस कथन के साथ अस्वीकार है कि याचिनी को अभिलेखीय साक्ष्यों के परीक्षण के उपरान्त दोष सिद्ध पाये जाने के उपरान्त याचिनी को सरकारी सेवा से पदच्युत किये जाने का आदेश पूर्णतया वैधानिक व्यवस्थाओं के अनुरूप जारी किया गया है।

३६. यह कि याचिका का प्रस्तर संख्या ५६ अस्वीकार है। याचिनी ने विभाग के साथ धोखाधड़ी व विभागीय निर्देशों की अवमानना करते हुए शासकीय धन रू० १०६३०८५.०० का गबन करने का आपराधिक कृत्य किया है, जिससे याचिनी को सरकारी सेवा से पदच्युत किया जाना उचित व विधि सम्मत है।

३७. x x x

३८. x x x

३९. यह कि याचिका का प्रस्तर संख्या ५९ अस्वीकार है। याचिनी द्वारा विभाग के साथ धोखाधड़ी विभागीय निर्देशों के उपेक्षा व अवमानना करने, शासकीय धन का गबन करने, अनाधिकृत कार्य करने के कारण याचिनी को सरकारी सेवा से

पदच्युत कर गबन किये गये शासकीय धन की वसूली किया जाना विधि व न्यायहित में आवश्यक है।

४०. यह कि याचिका के प्रस्तर संख्या ६० अस्वीकार है। प्रस्तुत याचिका असत्य एवं आधारहीन तथ्यों के बल पर योजित की गई है, जिसे विधि व न्यायहित में निरस्त किया जाना आवश्यक है।''

२२. उपरोक्त विश्लेषण से यह निष्कर्ष निकलता है किः-

(क.) वर्तमान प्रकरण में विभागीय जांच प्रक्रिया में कोई दूषिता नहीं है। इस संबंध में याचिकाकर्ता का कोई विरोध भी नहीं है।

(ख.) याचिकाकर्ता का यह कथन कि, जाँच आख्या अपूर्ण व त्रुटिपूर्ण है व इस संबंध में अपीलीय आदेश के कुछ अंश उल्लेख का तर्क, निम्न कारणों से विधिक नही माना जा सकता।

• जाँच आख्या पत्रावली पर नहीं है। जाँच आख्या में स्थलीय जाँच आख्या व तकनीकी आख्या/मूल्यांकन का भी उल्लेख है। अतः यह नही माना जा सकता कि कोई जाँच ही नहीं हुई। याचिकाकर्ता ने अपने कथन के समर्थन मे कोई प्रमाण नहीं दिया है। ऐसा भी कोई विधि/प्राविधान नहीं बताया है कि निरीक्षण के समय गांव के किसी निवासी का उपस्थित होना अनिवार्य था। कथन मात्र से जाँच एवं मूल्यांकन का उपरोक्त वर्णन मिथ्या नहीं हो सकता है।

• आक्षेपित आदेश में जाँच आख्या व याचिकाकर्ता के कथन पर विचार करने के उपरांत ही निर्णय पारित किये गयें है। पत्रावली पर उपस्थित साक्ष्य के आधार पर ही आक्षेपित आदेश पारित किये गयें है। अतः वर्तमान प्रकरण 'कोई साक्ष्य नहीं '(No evidence)' का प्रकरण नहीं है।

२३. उपरोक्त विधिक विश्लेषण के आधार पर ऐसा कोई वैधानिक कारण नहीं है, जिसके कारण आरोपों के सिद्ध होने के आक्षेपित आदेश में हस्ताक्षेप किया जा सके।

२४. अब न्यायालय को यह देखना है कि दिया गया दण्डादेश, आरोप के सापेक्ष समानुपातिक है या नहीं।

(क) उच्चतम न्यायालय ने एक नवीन निर्णय जो, यूनियन ऑफ इंडिया एवं अन्य प्रति कां० सुनील कुमार; २०२३ लाइव लॉ (एस.सी.)४९, के प्रकरण में पारित किया है, में यह पुनःनिर्धारण किया है कि "...कमांडेन्ट, २२वी बटालियन, सी.आर.पी.एफ. प्रति सुरिंदर कुमार;(२०११) १० एस.सी.सी. २४४, के मामले में बर्खास्तगी की सजा में हस्तक्षेप करने में उच्च न्यायालय की न्यायिक समीक्षा की शक्ति पर विचार करते समय, भारत संघ बनाम आर.के.शर्मा;(२००१)९ एससीसी ५९२, के मामले में पूर्व के निर्णय पर विचार करने के बाद, इस न्यायालय द्वारा उल्लिखित एवं निर्धारित किया गया कि, न्यायिक समीक्षा की शक्तियों का प्रयोग करते हुए इस आधार पर बर्खास्तगी के दण्ड मे हस्तक्षेप करना कि वो अनुपातहीन था, वो दण्ड न केवल अनुपातहीन होना चाहियें, बल्कि आश्चर्यजनक रूप से अनुपातहीन होना चाहियें। जैसा कि उल्लिखित और निर्धारित किया गया कि मात्र एक अत्यंत प्रकरण में, जहां वाह्यरूप में ही विकृतियां तर्कहीन प्रकट हो, तो संविधान के अनुच्छेद २२६ या २२७ या अनुच्छेद ३२ के तहत न्यायिक समीक्षा हो सकती है।"

(हिन्दी रूपान्तरण न्यायालय द्वारा किया गया है)

(ख) दण्डादेश के अनुसार याचिकाकर्ता को पदच्युत करा गया है। आक्षेपित आदेशानुसार याचिकाकर्ता पर गंभीर वित्तीय अनियमितताओं का आरोप है। आरोप, साक्ष्य व जाँच आख्या के आधार पर पूर्ण रूप से सिद्ध हुए है। वित्तीय अनियमितता, एक गंभीर अपराध है, जो याचिकाकर्ता की विश्वसनीयता पर संदेह प्रकट करते है। ऐसे कर्मचारी को शिक्षक के पद पर रहने का कोई अधिकार नहीं है। अतः आरोपों के सापेक्ष दण्डादेश एक समानुपातिक आदेश है।

(ग) जहां तक वसूली के आदेश का संदर्भ है। आक्षेपित आदेश में यह विशिष्ट रूप से निर्धारित किया गया है कि आहरित धनराशि के सापेक्ष कार्य ही नहीं हुआ है। जैसे छत के बनाने की राशि आहरित की गयी, परन्तु छत डाली ही नही गयी है। साज़ सज्जा का सामान खरीदा, परन्तु वो पाया ही नही गया। पूर्ण भवन के निर्माण की राशि आहरित की गई, परन्तु मात्र नींव का ही काम हुआ है। याचिकाकर्ता ने ऐसा कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया है कि मुल्यांकन गलत हुआ है। अतः वसूली का आदेश, सिद्ध आरोप की गंभीरता के सापेक्ष समानुपातिक होने के कारण न्यायसंगत है व इस कारण इसमें भी कोई हस्तक्षेप नहीं किया जा सकता है।

२५. अतः याचिका निरस्त की जाती है एवं अंतरिम आदेश भी रद्द (vacate) किया जाता है।

3. The controversy involved in this case pertains to the plots of land having Gata Nos. 4335, 4336, 4341, 4344 and 4334 measuring 1.518 hectare, situated at Village Ladakapurva, Tehsil and District Banda.

4. The facts in nutshell that culled out from the pleadings as available on record are that the Respondent No. 4/Plaintiff filed a suit for ejectment under section 171 & 172 of the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 against the petitioners/defendants in the Court of Assistant Collector First-Class, Banda, on the ground that the they are changing the nature of the land and are also trying to unlawfully transfer the same.

5. The averments in the plaint were to the effect that the Respondent/plaintiff are the Co-Zamindar and Lambardar of Khata Kewat Patti No. 1, Muhal Yusuf Zama, duly appointed by Collector Banda vide order dated 14.07.2015 and the land in question that situates in 'non-ZA area', was given on lease to defendants' father namely Kandhilal whose name stood recorded in Ziman 8 and consequent upon his death the names of defendants came to be mutated in the Khatuani in Ziman 8 (hereditary tenant with non-transferable rights).

6. A Written Statement was filed by the defendants pleading therein that the Zamindari stands abolished by the UP Urban Areas Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1956 and the land stood vested with the State Government by virtue of section 8 thereof. It was also alleged that the United Provinces Tenancy Act 1939 stands repealed by section 84 of the said Act of 1956 as such the suit is not maintainable.

7. The application for interim injunction filed by the respondent/plaintiff is said to have been allowed by the trial Court vide order dated 28.04.2017 against which the petitioners/defendants filed a Revision before the Court of Commissioner (Respondent No. 2), however, the Revision preferred by the petitioners/defendants was dismissed by the Court of Commissioner on 20.12.2017 which is said to have not been challenged further.

8. The learned trial court framed six Issues including issue No. 3 to the effect as to whether Zamindari in the area in question has been abolished, as stated in Paragraphs No. 7, 12 and 13 of the Written Statement. The issues as framed by the court below are reproduced here under:

1- क्या वाद पत्र में अंकित शहरी जींदारी की भूमि का नम्बरदार प्रबन्धक व सह जमींदार है जैसा कि वाद पत्र की धारा 1 में कथन किया गया है?

2- क्या प्रतिवादी गण द्वारा काश्तकारी कर्तव्यों/अधिकारों का वि०भू० में उल्लंघन किया गया है जो कि कारण प्रतिवादीगण धारा-171-172 यू०पी० टेनेन्सी एक्ट के अन्तर्गत बेदखल होने योग्य है?

3- क्या वि०भू० की जमींदारी समाप्त की जा चुकी है जैसा कि प्रतिवाद पत्र की धारा-7 एव धारा-12-13 में आक्षेप किया गया है यदि हाँ तो इसका प्रभाव

4- क्या वि०भू० की बावत कोई वाद हेतु उत्पन्न नहीं हआ जैसा कि प्रतिवाद पत्र की धारा 15 में आक्षेप है?

5- क्या प्रतिवादीगण विशेष हर्जा वादी से पाने के अधिकारी हैं जैसा कि प्रतिवाद पत्र की धारा-17 के आक्षेप है

6- क्या वाद पोषणीय है"

9. The trial court of Sub-Divisional Officer, Baberu decreed the suit on 24.08.2018. While deciding Issue No. 3 negatively against the defendants it recorded a categorical finding that Zamindari with respect to the land in dispute has not been abolished. The court below also returned a finding that the allegation that zamindari has been abolished vide notification dated 24.06.1961 as relied upon by the defendants is not substantiated by any evidence as such the suit is maintainable under the provisions of U.P. Tenancy Act. The extract of the relevant finding is quoted below:

"……इसलिये उपरोक्त विवेचना और वर्णित बिन्दुओं के प्रकाश में वाद बिन्दु 03 एवं वाद नं0 6 प्रतिवादीगण के विरूद्ध नकारात्मक निर्णीत किया जाता है और ये अवधारित किया जाता है कि विवादित भूमि जो वर्तमान में भी एन० जेड०ए० में दर्ज है जमीन्दारी की भूमि है। प्रतिवादीगण जिमन 8 के काश्तकार रहे है और उक्त वाद यू०पी० टीनेन्सी एक्ट के अन्तर्गत पोषणीय है। इस सम्बन्ध में 2001 (92) आर डी पेज 48 हिन्दी भी स्पष्ट है।....."

10. The learned trial court, while deciding Issue No.1 recorded a finding that the Respondent No. 4/Plaintiff was appointed as Lambardar vide order dated 14.07.2015 passed by the Collector, Banda. The extract of the relevant finding recorded by the trial court is quoted below:

*"....विवादित भूमि ग्राम लड़ाकापुरवा एन०जेड०ए० मोहाल यूसुफ जमा जिमन 8 में प्रतिवादीगण काश्तकार अंकित है वादी ने सन् 1417- 1420 फ0 की नकल खेवट चौसाला ग्राम लड़ाकापुरवा मोहाल यूसुफ जमा की प्रस्तुत की है। खेवट में अंकित जमीनदारान के नाम अंकित है और 1420 फ० में तहसीलदार बाँदा के मु0 नं0 312 ता० फै0 05.02.2013 में आदेश विरासत दर्ज है कि शेख हाजी उज्जमा पुत्र मसूद उज्जमा का नाम खारिज करके इसके स्थान पर वारिस शेख सऊद उज्जमा पुत्र शेख हादी उज्जमा निवासी बलखण्डीनाका बाँदा का नाम बरासतन दर्ज है, इससे स्पष्ट है कि वादी सह जमीनदार मोहाल यूसुफ जमा का है। पत्रावली में वादी द्वारा प्रस्तुत की गई नकल फैसला जिलाधिकारी / कलेक्टर बाँदा धारा- 45 यू०पी० लैण्ड रेवेन्यू एक नान जेड एरिया निर्णय तिथि 14.07.2015 के अनुसार वादी को ग्राम लड़ाकापुरवा मोहाल यूफुफ जमा पट्टी नं० 1 एवं ग्राम भवानीपुरवा मोहाल यूसुफ जमा पट्टी नं० 1 का लम्बरदार नियुक्त किया गया है और न्यायालय ने यह आदेश आयुक्त महोदय के अपीलीय आदेश 09.05.2013 का समादर करते हुये उपजिलाधिकारी बाँदा / तहसीलदार बाँदा की संस्तुति आख्या 09.06.2015/03.06.2015 का सन्दर्भ लेकर किया है। उपरोक्त अभिलेखीय साक्ष्य से वादी वाद बिन्दु नं० 1 को सिद्ध करने में सफल है कि वादी सहजमींदार एवं लम्बरदार भी है। तदानुसार वाद बिन्दु सकारात्मक रूप से तय किया जाता gSA

11. Feeling aggrieved by the aforesaid judgement and decree dated 24.08.2018 the petitioners/defendants preferred an appeal under Section 265 of the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 in the Court of Commissioner, Chitrakoot Dham, Banda Division which was registered as Case No. 01600/2018. The First Appellate court affirmed the judgement passed by the trial court by declining to interfere with the same. The said appeal was finally dismissed vide judgement and order dated 20.11.2018.

12. The first appellate court while deciding the appeal vide judgment and order dated 20.11.2018 returned a categorical finding to the effect that despite sufficient opportunity having been given to the defendants to adduce evidence to establish the alleged abolition of zamindari, have failed to substantiate the said allegations. The findings recorded by the first appellate court in this regard are as under:

''....अधीनस्थ न्यायालय में प्रश्नगत वाद में 06 वाद बिन्दु निर्मित किये गये जो वादी प्रतिवादीगण के कथनों के आधार पर निर्णीत किये गये। वाद के पोषणीयता बिन्दु पर अवर न्यायालय द्वारा विवेचना की गयी है कि यदि विवादित भूमि की जमींदारी समाप्त होना मान लिया जाय तो अपीलकर्तागण को गाँवसभा या राज्य सरकार से पट्टा की कार्यवाही होती और उसके लिए आवंटन पत्रावली का सृजन किया जाता। अपीलकर्तागण को राज्य सरकार व गाँवसभा की ओर से कोई विवादित भूमि का पट्टा नहीं किया गया क्योंकि इस सम्बन्ध में अपीलकर्तागण द्वारा कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया। इससे स्पष्ट है कि विवादित भूमि का पट्टा अपीलकर्तागण को जमींदार द्वारा प्रदत्त किया गया था। जनसूचना अधिकार से प्राप्त सूचना के आधार पर विवादित भूमि जमींदार से पट्टे के रुप में प्राप्त हुई थी जिसपर अपीलकर्तागण जिमन-8 मौरुसी काश्तकार के रुप में दर्ज चले आ रहे हैं। इससे स्पष्ट है कि 01 जुलाई 1961 को विवादित भूमि कृषि योग्य नहीं थी बल्कि जमींदारी भूमि थी, जिसके आधार पर भूमि राजस्व अभिलेखों में नान जेड० एरिया की खतौनी में दर्ज है। यदि विवादित भूमि की जमींदारी समाप्त हो गयी होती तो प्रश्नगत भूमि जेड०एरिया की खतौनी में दर्ज की जाती। अधीनस्थ न्यायालय में संलग्न राजस्व परिषद, उ०प्र० लखनऊ के परिषदादेश दिनांक 15 जून 2012 में स्पष्ट किया गया है कि नान०जेड०एरिया की जमींदारी समाप्त किये जाने के फलस्वरुप अरबो रुपया प्रतिकर के रुप में दिया जाना होगा। इसी दृष्टि को ध्यान में रखते हुए नगर क्षेत्रों की जमींदारी न तोडे जाने का निर्णय लिया गया है....''

13. Assailing the judgment passed by the first appellate court a Second Appeal was preferred by the petitioners/defendants before the Board of Revenue at Allahabad as Second Appeal No. 422 of 2019. The said Second Appeal preferred by the petitioners/defendants was also dismissed by the Board of Revenue vide its judgement/order dated 16.04.2019.

14. While deciding the Second Appeal, the learned Board of Revenue considered the questions of a lease having admittedly been granted by the zamindar in favour of late Kandhilal which came to be recorded vide order dated 08.09.1961, whereas the date of abolition of zamindari is stated to be 24.06.1961 and observed that as a natural corollary of the aforesaid pleadings/admission on the part of the appellants, the lease would either be rendered void, as the zamindar could not have been competent to grant the lease after 24.06.1961 i.e. the date of alleged abolition of zamindari or it would amount to an admission on the part of the appellants that zamindari existed after the date of alleged abolition of zamindari, otherwise there would have been no occasion for the zamindar to grant lease in favour of their father namely Khandi son of Babu Lal. The relevant portion of the findings recorded by the learned Board of Revenue are extracted below:

''.....उनका यह भी कथन है कि अपीलार्थी द्वारा अपने स्वत्व का आधार वह पट्टा बताया जाता है जिसके दाखिल खारिज का आदेश दिनांक 08.09.1961 को तत्कालीन परगनाधिकारी दवारा किया गया और राजस्व अभिलेखों में अंकन दिनांक 18.11.1961 को हुआ। उनका यह तर्क है कि अपीलार्थी द्वारा किसी भी स्तर पर जमींदार द्वारा पट्टा प्रदान किए जाने के तथ्य से इन्कार नहीं किया गया है, जब कि अपीलार्थी दवारा स्वंय ही प्रश्नगत सम्पति से संबंधित जींदारी का उन्मूलन दिनांक 24.06.1961 को होना बताया जा रहा है, अतः यदि तर्क हेतु अपीलकर्तागण की बात स्वीकार कर ली जाये तो स्वंय उन्हीं के तर्को के अनुसार उनके पिताँ कंघी पुत्र बाबू लाल को जमींदार द्वारा जमींदारी उन्मूलन हो जाने के उपरान्त पट्टा प्रदान हो नहीं किया जा सकता था एवं ऐसी परिस्थिति में अपीलार्थी के पक्ष में निष्पादित पट्टे को विधि शून्य दस्तावेज के रूप में संज्ञानित करना होगा, जिसके फलस्वरूप अपीलकर्ता के स्वत्व संबंधी इन्द्राज का आधार ही समाप्त हो जायेगा, इसलिए अपीलकर्तागण दवारा प्रस्तुत किया गया तर्क नितान्त भ्रामक एवं स्वंय अपीलकर्ता दवारा निम्न न्यायालयों के समक्ष किए गए कथन के विरुद्ध होने के कारण स्वीकार किए जाने योग्य नहीं है। उनका यह भी कथन है कि प्रतिपक्षी द्वारा प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति का स्वरूप बदल कर विक्रय किये जाने सम्बन्धी प्रयासों के बावत वाद पत्र में किये गये अभिवचनों के विपरीत कोई कथन प्रतिवादीगण द्वारा अपने प्रतिवाद पत्र में नहीं किया गया है बल्कि स्वयं को प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति का वास्तविक भू-स्वामी/ भूमिधर होने का

कथन कर स्वयं को सभी अधिकार प्राप्त होना बताया गया है जो कि स्पष्ट रूप से श्रेणी 8 के मौरूसी काश्तकार सम्बन्धी नियमों के विपरीत होने के कारण अपीलार्थी के विपरीत अवधारणा किये जाने हेतु पर्याप्त है।.....''

15. The learned Board of Revenue also considered the question of the impact of a notification issued under Section 8 of the U.P. Urban Areas Zamindari Abolition Act, 1956 that vests with State all agricultural areas falling under the urban areas. The Board of Revenue also recorded a finding that since the land in question stands recorded as 'non-ZA area' the burden of proving the fact of there being an identification/demarcation as per Section 5 of the Act of 1956 prior to coming into operation of Section 8 of the Act of 1956 lied upon the appellants but they failed in adducing any evidence in this regard despite having been granted sufficient opportunity. The Board of Revenue recorded a categorical finding that the provisions of U.P. Tenancy Act 1939 are applicable in the area in question and the appellants cannot be taken to be anything more than a hereditary tenant of Ziman-8. The findings recorded by the learned Board of Revenue in this regard are as under:

''..... अतः पक्षो के मध्य मूल विवाद इस आशय का है कि प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति पर उत्तर प्रदेश काश्तकारी अधिनियम, 1939 के प्राविधान वर्तमान में लागू है अथवा नहीं। यद्यपि उक्त प्रश्न एक तथ्यात्मक प्रश्न है और तथ्यात्मक प्रश्नो पर द्वितीय अपीलीय न्यायालय द्वारा सामान्यतः विचार नही किया जाता है, परन्तु वर्तमान प्रकरण में उक्त तथ्यात्मक प्रश्न का विश्लेषण इस न्यायालय द्वारा किया जाना न्यायहित में आवश्यक प्रतीत होता है।

अधिनियम 1956 की धारा 3 के अन्तर्गत राज्य सरकार द्वारा गजट में प्रकाशित किये जाने के उपरान्त सर्वप्रथम सीमांकन (डीमार्केशन) अधिकारी निर्धारित प्रकिया के अनुसार शहरी क्षेत्र की सम्पूर्ण भूमि का परीक्षण करने के उपरान्त उन भूमियों का चिन्हांकन / निर्धारण करेगा जो कि कृषि भूमि के रूप में उपलब्ध हो और धारा 2(1) (स) के प्रथम परन्तुक तथा धारा 2(1) (द) से आच्छादित ना हो। तदोपरान्त सीमांकन (डीमार्केशन) अधिकारी धारा 3 की उपधारा 1 के अधीन, अधिसूचना प्रकाशित होने की तिथि से 3 महीने के अन्दर, अथवा ऐसी बढाई गयी अवधि के भीतर जिसे राजय सरकार किसी मामले में निश्चित करे, कारण बताते हुए अपने सीमांकन प्रस्तावो को आयुक्त के समक्ष प्रस्तुत करेगा। धारा 4(1) के अधीन प्राप्त उक्त प्रस्ताव पर आवश्यक संशोधनोपरान्त आयुक्त द्वारा विहित प्रारूप पर शासकीय राज्य पत्र में अथवा किसी अन्य रीति से जो राज्य सरकार निश्चित करें, इस प्रारूप में प्रकाशित कराएगा कि सीमांकन अधिकारी द्वारा दिया गया प्रस्ताव जिस कृषि क्षेत्र के सीमांकन से सम्बन्धित है एवं जिस कृषि क्षेत्र के सीमांकन पश्चात भूमियों को सूचित किया गया हो, उक्त नोटिस में निर्दिष्ट स्थानो पर निरीक्षण हेतु उपलब्ध कराया जायेगा। उक्त नोटिस प्रकाशित होने पर अधिनियम, 1956 की धारा 4 उपधारा (3) के अन्तर्गत सूत्रित सम्पत्ति में हित रखने वाला कोई भी व्यक्ति अथवा स्थानीय प्राधिकारी उपधारा (2) के अधीन नोटिस प्रकाशित होने की तिथि से 3 मास के भीतर ऐसे अधिकारी अथवा प्राधिकारी के समक्ष, और ऐसी रीति से जो विहित की जाये, उक्त प्रकाशित प्रस्ताव पर आपत्ति प्रस्तुत कर सकेगा। तदोपरान्त अधिनियम की धारा 4(3) के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत आपत्तियों का यथोचित निस्तारण किये जाने के उपरान्त चिन्हान्कित क्षेत्रो का अन्तिम प्रकाशन अधिनियम, 1956 की धारा 5 की उपधारा (2) के अन्तर्गत आयुक्त द्वारा शासकीय राज पत्र में अथवा ऐसी रीति से जो विहित

अतः माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा दी गई उक्त न्यायिक व्यवस्था के अनुक्रम में प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति को अधिनियम 1956 से आच्छादित नही माना जा सकता। इस प्रकार अपीलार्थी का यह कथन कि उनके अधिकार जमीदारी टूटने के फलस्वरूप परिपक्व हो चुके है, अर्थहीन हो जाता है और अपीलार्थी द्वारा इस न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रस्तावित किये गये सारवान विधिक प्रश्न स्वयं में ही अर्थहीन हो जाते है। चूँकि अभिलेखो से यह सिद्ध है कि प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति पर उत्तर प्रदेश काश्तकारी अधिनियम 1939 के प्राविधान पूरी तरह लागू होते है अतः अपीलार्थी के अधिकार श्रेणी 8 के मौरूसी काश्तकार से अधिक नही माने जा सकते हैं। उत्तर प्रदेश काश्तकारी अधिनियम के सुसंगत प्राविधानो के अन्तर्गत अधीनस्थ न्यायालय द्वारा दिये गये निर्णयों में किसी प्रकार की तथ्यात्मक अथवा विधिक त्रुटि परिलक्षित नही होती है. और वर्तमान द्वितीय अपील में किसी अन्य सारवान विधिक बिन्दु का निहित होना प्रतीत नही होता है अतः वर्तमान द्वितीय अपील बलहीन होने के कारण निरस्त होने योग्य प्रतीत होती है।....."

16. Being aggrieved by the aforementioned orders passed by the Trial Court, the Court of Commissioner and the Board of Revenue, i.e. the Respondents No. 1 to 3, the petitioners have preferred the instant writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

17. One of the grounds taken in the writ petition is that the Petitioners were not afforded adequate opportunity of adducing evidence to the effect that the land in dispute was in fact demarcated under section 5 of the Act though the same is a question of fact which could have been proved only if an opportunity to lead evidence in this regard was given.

18. It has also been pleaded by the petitioners that they had filed an application dated 26.05.2017 (Annexure No. 5) under the provisions of Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure but the same was not decided by the Sub Divisional Officer on merits.

19. The Respondent No. 4 filed a Counter Affidavit stating therein that the application dated 26.05.2017 was misconceived as a distinctive issue had been framed by the Trial Court in this regard and the decision on the issue rendered the said application redundant.

20. It has also been stated in the counter affidavit filed by the Respondent No. 4 that it is petitioners' own admission in the written statement filed in the Suit that they are occupying an area in Mohal Yusuf Zaman itself amounts to an admission of zamindari of the respondent/plaintiff and that it is well-settled in law that admission is the best piece of evidence.

21. Before delving into the merits of the case it would be apt to address the question raised by this court vide order dated 19.08.2019 that whether after enforcement of the U.P. Revenue Code, w.e.f. 11.03.2016, the present Suit that was filed in the month of May 2016, under the U.P. Tenancy Act is maintainable. The more precise statement of the question would be whether upon enforcement of the U.P. Revenue Code, does the U.P. Tenancy Act survive, though not repealed, because the U.P. Urban Areas Zamindari Abolition Act, 1956 has been repealed by the Code.

22. The appropriate answer to the above question is to be found in the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of M.P. versus Kedia Leather & Liquor Ltd. reported in (2003) 7 SCC 389 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has been pleased to observe that there is a presumption against repeal by implication. This is based on the view that while enacting laws on a particular subject, the Legislature has a thorough knowledge of the laws that are already in force on that subject; therefore, the absence of a repealing provision in the subsequent law would imply the intention of the Legislature that the existing provision should not be repealed. Moreover, the Legislature would never intend to create confusion by retaining conflicting provisions.The relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgement is being extracted below:

"……13.There is presumption against a repeal by implication; and the reason of this rule is based on the theory that the legislature while enacting a law has complete knowledge of the existing laws on the same subject-matter, and therefore, when it does not provide a repealing provision, the intention is clear not to repeal the existing legislation. [See :Municipal Council, Palaiv.T.J. Joseph[AIR 1963 SC 1561] ,Northern India Caterers (P) Ltd.v.State of Punjab[AIR 1967 SC 1581] ,Municipal Corpn. of Delhiv.Shiv Shanker[(1971) 1 SCC 442 : 1971 SCC (Cri) 195] andRatan Lal Adukiav.Union of India[(1989) 3 SCC 537 : AIR 1990 SC 104] .] When the new Act contains a repealing section mentioning the Acts which it expressly repeals, the presumption against implied repeal of other laws is further strengthened on the principleexpressio unius(persone vel rei)est exclusio alterius. (The express intention of one person or thing is the exclusion of another), as illuminatingly stated inGarnettv.Bradley[(1878) 3 AC 944 : (1874-80) All ER Rep 648 : 48 LJQB 186 : 39 LT 261 (HL)] . The continuance of the existing legislation, in the absence of an express provision of repeal being presumed, the burden to show that these has been repeal by implication lies on the party asserting the same. The presumption is, however, rebutted and a repeal is inferred by necessary implication when the provisions of the later Act are so inconsistent with or repugnant to the provisions of the earlier Act that the two cannot stand together. But, if the two can be read together and some application can be made of the words in the earlier Act, a repeal will not be inferred. (See :A.G.v.Moore[(1878) 3 Ex D 276] ,Ratan Lal case[(1989) 3 SCC 537 : AIR 1990 SC 104] andR.S. Raghunathv.State of Karnataka[(1992) 1 SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (L&S) 286 : (1992) 19 ATC 507 : AIR 1992 SC 81] .)....."

23. Further, in the case of M/s Gammon India Ltd. versus Spl. Chief Secretary and Others reported in (2006) 3 SCC 354 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has been please to observe that if the legislative intent to supersede the earlier law is manifested by the enactment of provisions as to affect such supersession, then it would amount to a repeal, notwithstanding the absence of the word 'repeal' in the later statute. In other words, the intention of the Legislature has to be inferred from the later statute to see if it proposed to preserve, modify, or completely obliterate the rights and liabilities attached to the earlier statute. This applies to both express as well as implied repeal. Thus, an analysis of the relevant authorities and case laws makes it clear that whenever an enactment is repealed and is accompanied by a simultaneous re-enactment, then the re-enacted statute is a reflection of a modified version of the earlier legislation, through express or implied repeal, as the case may be.Since Section 230 of the Uttar Pradesh Revenue Code, 2006 repeals enactments specified in the First Schedule thereof and the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 does not find place in the said First Schedule there is no express repeal nor the two enactments are shown to be irreconcilable so as to bring the former law within the sweep of implied repeal.

24. It has also been contended on behalf of the petitioner that the first appellate court has erred in law while deciding the first appeal without framing the points of determination. Refuting the aforesaid plea it has been submitted on behalf of the respondent that a first appeal under Section 265 of the U. P. Tenancy Act or under Section 207 of the U.P. Revenue Code not being an appeal under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the provisions of Order XLI Rule 31 of the Code of Civil Procedure would not be applicable as it does not necessarily require the judgement of the first appellate court to state the points for determination. This court finds substance in the said arguments advanced on behalf of the respondent.

25. Further, Sri D.P. Singh, the learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner has vehemently argued that since the affidavit filed by the respondent/plaintiff by way of evidence was not in accordance with the provisions of the U.P. Revenue Court Manual as the same was not verified hence is not admissible in evidence. He drew the attention of the Court to Rules 112, 113 and 118 of Chapter III of the U.P. Revenue Court Manual. In support of his contention he placed reliance on the judgements passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of A.K.K. Nambiar vs. Union of India and another reported in AIR 1970 Supreme Court 652 and State of Rajasthan versus M/s Sindhi Film Exchange reported in AIR 1974 Rajasthan 31 (V 61 C11) wherein it has been held that in the absence of proper verification, affidavits cannot be admitted in evidence and the same is no affidavit in the eye of law.

26. However, during the course of argument Sri Puneet Gupta, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent/plaintiff has placed before the Court a certified copy of the affidavit in question which bears the verification clause at the back of it. Although the same has been strongly objected to by Sri D.P.Singh the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners, contending that the respondent has no right to file the same at this belated stage. Confronting the said objection, Sri Puneet Gupta learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 submitted that since this aspect of the matter challenging the irregularity in the 'form' of the affidavit was never raised by the petitioner earlier therefore there was no occasion for the respondents to bring the certified copy of the affidavit on record.

27. In any case, the certified copy of the affidavit as produced by the respondent bears a verification on the back side of it, the allegation of there being no verification of the contents of the affidavit does not appeal to the reason. It is also well-settled in law that a mere infirmity in the format of the affidavit would not render the same nullified. Further, the fact of no such objection as to the legality of the affidavit having been raised by the petitioner before the courts below would amount to acquiescence on their part. There is nothing on record to show that the plea as to flaw in the affidavit was ever raised by the petitioner/defendant before the courts below or even in the present writ petition. It is well-settled principle of law that the arguments cannot go beyond the pleadings of the parties and a party while entering into a case should know in advance the basic idea of the case they will have to face and one should not be allowed to be taken by surprise. The object and purpose of pleading are to enable the adversary party to know the case it has to meet.

28. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kashi Nath (Dead) through L.Rs. versus Jaganath reported in (2003) 8 SCC 740, has been pleased to hold that where the evidence is not in line with the pleadings and is at variance with it, the evidence cannot be looked into or be depended upon. At the point where the facts necessary to make out a particular claim, or to seek a particular relief, are not found in the plaint, the court cannot concentrate its own attention or the attention of the parties thereon. Along these lines, it is said that no amount of evidence, on a plea that is not suggested in the pleadings, can be looked into to grant any relief.

29. The facts of A.K.K. Nambiar (Supra) and M/s Sindhi Film Exchange (Supra) as relied upon by learned counsel appearing for the petitioner are quite different from that of the present case and were decided on a different premise, as such the same are not attracted in the present factual matrix.

30. Moreover, as the petitioners are not shown to be deprived of any opportunity to rebut the averments made in the said affidavit, as such in substance, no prejudice has been caused to them. In view of what has been discussed in the preceding paragraphs, it is not open for the petitioners to raise the issue in respect of any flaw in the affidavit for the first time at the stage of final hearing of the writ petition.

31. Another ground taken by the petitioners in the Writ Petition is that the Board of Revenue committed a manifest error of law in deciding/dismissing the Second Appeal without framing a substantial question of law.

32. This Court in a recent judgment passed in the case of Awadhesh Singh versus State of UP and others, reported in 2023 (12) ADJ 554 has dealt with the issue of non-framing of substantial question of law by the second appellate court and has held that the reversal of the final order and decree passed in appeal by the court below in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 208 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 is impermissible without formulating substantial question of law and a decision on such question, however, in the event of concurrence with the court below the formulation of substantial question of law is not a sine qua non and the same will not render the judgment of the second appellate court vitiated.

33. Shri S.N.Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents raised objection regarding the entertainability of the present writ petition by contending that the petitioner has basically disputed the findings of fact which have been affirmed by the first and the second appellate courts and as such the concurrent findings of fact cannot be interfered by this Court in exercise of its Writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In support of his contention, the learned Standing Counsel has relied upon the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of State of Jharkhand and others versus Linde India Limited and another, reported in 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1660; Chandrika (Dead) by LRS. versus Sudama (Dead) Thr. LRS. and others, reported in (2019) 5 SCC 790 and Bansraj versus Ram Naresh and another, reported in (2020) 5 ADJ 10.

34. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel further submitted that there is no infirmity or irregularity in the impugned orders passed by the learned trial court as well as the learned appellate courts. Further, the courts below, at all stages afforded full opportunity of hearing to the parties and decided the matter by passing detailed and reasoned orders, after taking into consideration all the grounds pleaded by the parties.

35. Having heard the rival contentions raised by the learned counsels for the parties and having perused the material available on record; the issue for consideration, at the first instance, before this Court is as to whether in the present case, the concurrent findings of fact recorded by the three Revenue Courts below warrants any interference by this Court in exercise of its powers, qua, Writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

36. Before entering into the merits of the case, it would be apt to consider the legal context of "concurrent findings of fact" and reiterate the law in relation to the extent of interference by the Writ Courts in concurrent findings of the fact under Article 226 of the Constitution.

639 has succinctly described the expression "concurrent findings of fact" in the following manner:

"15. It is a trite law that in order to record any finding on the facts, the trial court is required to appreciate the entire evidence (oral and documentary) in the light of the pleadings of the parties. Similarly, it is also a trite law that the appellate court also has the jurisdiction to appreciate the evidence de novo while hearing the first appeal and either affirm the finding of the trial court or reverse it. If the appellate court affirms the finding, it is called "concurrent finding of fact" whereas if the finding is reversed, it is called "reversing finding.""

38. Further, it is also a settled legal proposition that the first appellate court is the final court of fact, as has been dealt with in detail by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Gurvachan Kaur and others versus Salikram (Dead) through LRS, reported in (2010) 15 SCC 530 and Santosh Hazari versus Purushottam Tiwari (Deceased) by LRS. reported in (2001) 3 SCC 179.

39. Consequently, it can be affirmatively alluded that the concurrent findings of fact are to be considered as settled facts of the case and the High Court should ordinarily restrain itself from interfering with the concurrent findings of fact. The said restrain is on a much higher footing in cases where the High Court is not the appellate court, rather, it is exercising its Writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In this regard, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Abdul Razak (D) through LRS. and others versus Mangesh Rajaram Wagle and others, reported in (2010) 2 SCC 432 as reiterated in the case of State of Jharkhand and others versus Linde India Limited and another (Supra) has held that the High Court in exercise of its Writ jurisdiction is not an appellate court against the findings recorded on appreciation of facts and the evidence on record. Further, in the case Chandrika (Dead) by LRS. versus Sudama (Dead) Thr. LRS. and others (Supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court has been pleased to observe that the concurrent findings of fact are not only binding on the High Court but is also binding upon the Hon'ble Supreme Court. For ready reference, extract of Paragraph No. 12 of the aforesaid judgment in extracted hereinbelow,

"12. In our considered opinion, the finding impugned in this appeal being concurrent finding of fact and was rightly held by the High Court as binding on the High Court in its writ jurisdiction, it is also binding on this Court, calling for no interference therein…"

40. It may also be elucidated that the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union Bank of India versus Chandrakant Gordhandas Shah reported in (1994) 6 SCC 271 at page 274 has briefly explained the reason for non-interference with the concurrent findings of fact by observing that it is the trial court and the appellate court which is entrusted with the duty of recording the findings on questions of fact and it is not proper for the Writ courts to interfere with or disturb those findings. For a ready reference, extract of paragraph no. 11of the said judgment is quoted hereinbelow,

"11. It is trite that if the trial court and the appellate court, who are entrusted with the duty of investigating into questions of fact record concurrent findings thereon on a proper discussion and appreciation of the materials placed before them, the High Court should not interfere with or disturb those findings while sitting in judgment over the same in its writ jurisdiction…"

41. However, it would not be out of place to discuss the other aspect of the issue, that the High Court still has the discretionary power to interfere in the concurrent findings of fact while exercising its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, but the discretion must be exercised on sound judicial principles particularly, where the concurrent findings of fact is perverse in law in the sense that no reasonable person properly instructed in law should have come to such a finding or there is misdirection in law or a view on fact has been taken in the teeth of preponderance of evidence or the finding is not based on any material evidence or it has resulted in manifest injustice. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Babubhai Muljibhai Patel versus Nandlal Khodidas Barot, reported in (1974) 2 SCC 706, at page 715, has observed that,

"10. ... The High Court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to entertain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution merely because in considering the petitioner's right of relief, questions of fact may fall to be determined. In a petition under Article 226 the High Court has jurisdiction to try issues both of fact and law. Exercise of the jurisdiction is no doubt discretionary, but the discretion must be exercised on sound judicial principles. When the petition raises complex questions of fact, which may for their determination require oral evidence to be taken, and on that account the High Court is of the view that the dispute should not appropriately be tried in a writ petition, the High Court may decline to try a petition…. If, however, on consideration of the nature of the controversy, the High Court decides ... that it should go into a disputed question of fact and the discretion exercised by the High Court appears to be sound and in conformity with judicial principles, this Court would not interfere in appeal with the order made by the High Court in this respect."

42. Furthermore, in order to decide whether a particular case requires the High Court to enter into a disputed question of fact depends upon the facts and circumstances of that case, as this ordinary restrain on the interference on concurrent findings of fact should not be put in a routine and mechanical manner in the system of administration of justice. The purposes of interfering in the concurrent findings of fact, the question of perversity of an order passed by an authority must be determined by considering whether the said order is not supported by the evidence brought on record or it is against the law or it suffers from vice of procedural irregularity, as has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gaya Din (dead) thr. L.Rs. versus Hanuman Prasad (dead) thr. L.Rs. reported in 2001 (43) ALR 226 (SC).

43. In the instant case the findings recorded by the Sub Divisional Officer (respondent no.4) with regard to the question of abolition of zamindari in the area in question, has been upheld by the first appellate court, i.e., the learned Court of Commissioner, Chitrakoot Dham Division, Banda and the learned Board of Revenue also concurred with the same in Second Appeal.

44. In the case of State of U.P. versus Lakshmi Sugar & Oil Mills Ltd., reported in (2013) 10 SCC 509 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has been pleased to observed that the concurrent findings of fact could not have been reversed by the High Court in its writ jurisdiction. The extract of paragraph 20 the said judgement is reproduced as under:

"20. The order passed by the District Consolidation Director/Collector, Hardoi also concurred with the view taken by the officers below and held that there was no evidence on record to show that the subject land was ever held or occupied for agricultural purposes or that any agricultural activity was ever carried out on the same. These concurrent findings of fact, in our opinion, could not have been reversed by the High Court in its writ jurisdiction. The High Court obviously failed to appreciate that it was not sitting in appeal over the findings recorded by the authorities below. It could not reappraise the material and hold that the land was held or occupied for cultivation and substitute its own finding for that of the authorities. Inasmuch as the High Court did so, it committed an error. It is noteworthy that the revenue record clearly belied the assertion of the respondent Company and described the land as "parti kadim tilla" which meant that the land has not been cultivated for a long time and is in the form of a hillock."

45. In view of the settled legal position on the subject of 'concurrent findings of fact', it has become imperative to determine as to whether the facts and circumstances of the present case warrant any interference by this Court in the concurrent findings of fact recorded by the Sub Divisional Officer as concurred by the Commissioner and also by the Board of Revenue, in the Second Appeal.

46. For a ready reference the findings recorded by the trial court as to the question of abolition of Zamindari with respect to the area where the property in suit situates are as under:

".....वाद बिन्दु संख्या- ३-क्या विवादित भूमि की जमींदारी समाप्त की जा चुकी है जैसाकि प्रतिवाद पन्त्र की धारा- 12-13 में आक्षेप किया गया है, यदि हां तो इसका प्रभाव:

दोनों वाद बिन्दु 3 व 6 एक दूसरे से सम्बन्धित हैं क्योंकि यदि विवादित भूमि की जमींदारी समाप्त हो चुकी हैं तो वाद राजस्व संहिता 2006 के अन्तर्गत पोषणीय होगा। यदि जमीन्दारी बदस्तूर विवादित भूमि की कायम है तो वाद यू०पी० टेनेन्सी एक्ट के अन्तर्गत पोषणीय है।

प्रतिवादीगण पर अपने आक्षेप को सिद्ध करने का भार है। प्रतिवादीगण द्वारा अपने प्रतिवाद पत्र के विन्दु सं0- 12 एवं 13 में उ0प्र0 नगरीय क्षेत्र जमींदारी विनाश एवं भूमि व्यवस्था अधिनियम 1956 की धारा- 64 का उल्लेख किया गया है एवं कहा गया है, कि नगरीय क्षेत्र में जमीन्दारी टूटने के पश्चात् यू०पी० टीनेन्सी एक्ट लागू नहीं होगा और निरस्त समझे जायें। धारा- 65 का उल्लेख कर कहा गया है कि उ०प्र० नगरीय क्षेत्र जमीन्दारी विनाश एवं भूमि व्यवस्था अधि0 1956 में जिस भूमि की जमींदारी समाप्त हो जायेगी तो उ०प्र० जमीदारी विनाश एवं भू० व्यवस्था अधिनियम UPZA & LR Act. एवं भू राजस्व अधि0 1901 जमीन्दारी टूटने के पश्चात् लागू होंगे।

ये बात स्पष्ट है कि 24 जून, 1961 के शासनादेश से लागू उ०प्र० नगरीय क्षेत्र जमींदारी अधिनियम 1956 के

अन्तर्गत केवल उन जोती बोई कृषि भूमि की जमीन्दारी बाँदा में समाप्त की गई थी|

प्रतिवादीगण ने ऐसा कोई अभिलेख 1368फ0 का पत्रावली में विवादित भूमि में जिन्स बोये होने का खसरा प्रस्तुत नहीं किया, ऐसा कोई सर्वे रिकार्ड भी प्रतिवादीगण ने पत्रावली में प्रस्तुत नहीं किया है, कि विवादित भूमि की जमींदारी तोड़े जोने और उसका प्रतिकर Zamindari Abolition Bond जमीनदारान को विवादित भूमि के सम्बन्ध में प्राप्त हो चुका है। इसलिये प्रतिवादी अपनी इस बात को साबित करने में पूरी तरह विफल है, कि विवादित भूमि की ज़मींदारी 1368 फ० में समाप्त हो चुकी है।

उल्लेखनीय यह है कि प्रतिवादीगण ने स्वयं ही रजिस्टर मालकान में अंकित आदेश दा० खारिज क्रमांक- 286 100 08.09.61/18.11.61 अपने पिता कन्धी पुत्र बाबूलाल का नाम जिमन 8 में खतौनी सन् 1368 फ० में दर्ज होने का प्रस्तुत किया है। प्रतिवादीगण ने अपने को जिमन 8 के काश्तकार होने की खतौनी NZA की अर्थात् जमींदारी जमीन की प्रस्तुत की है। खसरों से गाटा 1334 रकबा 0.088 हे० NZA वादी की भूमि मतरूक होना पाई जाती है जो बादी के मुहाल यूसुफ जमा के बंजर खाते में दर्ज की जाना जरूरी है।

प्रतिवादीगण द्वारा सन् 1413 फ० लगायत 1410 फ० के खसरे विवादित भूमि के सम्बन्ध में ग्राम लड़ाकापुरवा (नान जेड ए) के पेश किये गये हैं, जो जमींदारी भूमि के खसरे हैं। इस खसरों से 1368 फ० की स्थिति को जोड़कर नही देखा जा सकता है।

उल्लेखनीय है, कि प्रतिवादीगण ने इस पत्रावली में न्यायालय द्वारा पारित अन्तरिम निषेधाज्ञा आदेश के विरूद्ध मा० आयुक्त महोदय के समक्ष इन्ही आक्षेपो को मुख्य आधार बनाया था कि विवादित भूमि की जमीन्दारी टूट चुकी है इसलिये यू०पी० टीनेन्सी एक्ट की कार्यवाही पोषणीय नही है। यह कि अवर न्यायालय ने इसके बावजूद यू०पी० टेनेन्सी एक्ट वाद को पोषणीय मानकर निषेधाज्ञा पारित कर दी है, जो गलत है। इस निगरानी में मा० न्यायालय आयुक्त चित्रकूट मण्डल ने 20-12-2017 को गुण दोष पर निर्णय दिया कि विवादित भूमि की जमीन्दारी समाप्त नही हुयी है। विवादित भूमि नान जेड एरिया खतौनी में दर्ज है इसलिए नियमानुसार यू०पी० टेनेन्सी एक्ट के अन्तर्गत कार्यवाही पोषणीय है और इस न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश 28 - 4 -2017 को बहाल रखा और निगरानी निरस्त कर दी गयी।

प्रतिवादीगण ने आयुक्त के निर्णय 20-12-2017के विरूद्ध न ही राजस्व परिषद, न ही माननीय उच्च न्यायालय में भी चुनौती दी गयी। ऐसी दशा में, इस न्यायालय में पोषणीयता के बिन्दु को प्रस्तुत करना न्याय उचित नही है।

47. The finding returned by the First Appellate Court affirming the findings of the trial court regarding the question of abolition of zamindari is extracted below:

''.....वाद की पोषणीयता बिंदु पर अवर न्यायालय द्वारा विवेचना की गयी है कि यदि विवादित भूमि की जमीदारी समाप्त होना मान लिया जाय तो अपीलकर्तागण को गाँव सभा या राज्य सरकार से पट्टा की कार्यवाही होती और उसके लिए आवंटन पत्रावली का सृजन किया जाता। अपीलकर्तागण को राज्य सरकार व गाँव सभा की ओर से कोई विवादित भूमि का पट्टा नही किया गया क्योंकि इस सम्बन्ध में अपीलकर्तागण द्वारा कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया। इससे स्पष्ट है कि विवादित भूमि का पट्टा अपीलकर्तागण को जमीदार से पट्टे के रूप में प्राप्त हुई थी जिस पर अपीलकर्तागण जिमन-8 मौरुसी काश्तकार के रूप में दर्ज चले आ रहे हैं। इससे स्पष्ट है कि 01 जुलाई 1961 को विवादित भूमि कृषि योग्य नही थी बल्कि जमीदारी भूमि थी, जिसके आधार पर भूमि राजस्व अभिलेखों में नान जेड० एरिया की खतौनी में दर्ज है। यदि विवादित भूमि की जमीदारी समाप्त हो गयी होती तो प्रश्नगत भूमि जेड० एरिया की खतौनी में दर्ज की जाती। अधीनस्थ न्यायालय में संलग्न राजस्व परिषद, उ०प्र० लखनऊ के परिषदादेश दिनांक 15 जून 2012 में स्पष्ट किया गया है कि नान० जेड एरिया की जमीदारी समाप्त किये जाने के फलस्वरूप अरबो रूपया प्रतिकर के रूप में दिया जाना होगा। इसी दृष्टि को ध्यान में रखते हुए नगर क्षेत्रों की जमीदारी न तोडे जाने का निर्णय लिया गया है।.....''

48. The findings recorded by the Board of Revenue in the Second Appeal as to the abolition of zamindari and applicability of the U.P. Tenancy Act 1939 are as under:

''..... अतः पक्षो के मध्य मूल विवाद इस आशय का है कि प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति पर उत्तर प्रदेश काश्तकारी

अधिनियम, 1939 के प्राविधान वर्तमान में लागू है अथवा नहीं। यद्यपि उक्त प्रश्न एक तथ्यात्मक प्रश्न है और तथ्यात्मक प्रश्नो पर द्वितीय अपीलीय न्यायालय द्वारा सामान्यतः विचार नही किया जाता है, परन्तु वर्तमान प्रकरण में उक्त तथ्यात्मक प्रश्न का विश्लेषण इस न्यायालय द्वारा किया जाना न्यायहित में आवश्यक प्रतीत होता है।

उत्तर प्रदेश शहरी क्षेत्र जमीदारी विनाश एवं भूमि व्यवस्था अधिनियम, 1956 में दिये गये प्राविधानों के अनुसार अधिनियम की धारा 8 के अन्तर्गत कृषि क्षेत्र का चिन्हांकन स्थल पर करने के उपरान्त उसे धारा 5 में आयुक्त द्वारा पुष्ट किया जायेगा जिसके उपरान्त राज्य सरकार द्वारा अधिकारिक गजट में प्रकाशन किये जाने की तिथि से हर वह क्षेत्र जो कि धारा 5 के अन्तर्गत पूर्व में प्रकाशित हो चुका हो, से जमीदारी समाप्त होकर सम्बन्धित कृषि क्षेत्र सभी अधिभारो से मुक्त होकर राज्य सरकार में निहित माना जायेगा। अधिनियम की धारा 8 यह स्पष्ट रूप से प्राविधानित करती है कि अधिनियम, 1956 के प्राविधान सिर्फ उन्ही भूमियों पर लागू होगे जो कि स्थल पर कृषि क्षेत्र के रूप में विमान हो तथा भूमि का चिन्हांकन धारा 4 में किये जाने के उपरान्त सम्बन्धित कृषि क्षेत्र का प्रकाशन धारा 5 में आपत्तियों के निस्तारण के उपरान्त किया गया हो। अधिनियम, 1956 की धारा 3 से 5 तक में किसी भी शहरी सम्पत्ति, जो कि उक्त अधिनियम प्रकाशित होने की तिथि पर कृषि क्षेत्र रही हो और उस सम्पत्ति के ऊपर उत्तर प्रदेश काश्तकारी अधिनियम, 1939 के प्राविधान लागू रहे हो, के निर्धारण, चिन्हांकन, सीमांकन एवं प्रकाशन की निम्न प्रकिया बतायी गयी है।

अतः माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा दी गई उक्त न्यायिक व्यवस्था के अनुक्रम में प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति को अधिनियम 1956 से आच्छादित नही माना जा सकता। इस प्रकार अपीलार्थी का यह कथन कि उनके अधिकार जमीदारी टूटने के फलस्वरूप परिपक्व हो चुके है, अर्थहीन हो जाता है और अपीलार्थी द्वारा इस न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रस्तावित किये गये सारवान विधिक प्रश्न स्वयं में ही अर्थहीन हो जाते है। चूँकि अभिलेखो से यह सिद्ध है कि प्रश्नगत सम्पत्ति पर उत्तर प्रदेश काश्तकारी अधिनियम 1939 के प्राविधान पूरी तरह लागू होते है अतः अपीलार्थी के अधिकार श्रेणी 8 के मौरूसी काश्तकार से अधिक नही माने जा सकते हैं। उत्तर प्रदेश काश्तकारी अधिनियम के सुसंगत प्राविधानो के अन्तर्गत अधीनस्थ न्यायालय द्वारा दिये गये निर्णयों में किसी प्रकार की तथ्यात्मक अथवा विधिक त्रुटि परिलक्षित नही होती है. और वर्तमान द्वितीय अपील में किसी अन्य सारवान विधिक बिन्दु का निहित होना प्रतीत नही होता है अतः वर्तमान द्वितीय अपील बलहीन होने के कारण निरस्त होने योग्य प्रतीत होती है।....."

49. It would be appropriate to refer to the judgement passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Mahant Dooj Das versus Udasin Panchayati Bara Akhara, reported in (2008) 12 SCC 181 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has been pleased to hold that for application of the provisions of Section 331 of the 1950 Act which has been incorporated in the 1956 Act, it was incumbent upon the defendants to lead evidence to prove that the suit lands had been demarcated under Section 5 of the Act of 1956. In the absence of proof, it cannot be said that the suit area is a demarcated area and thus vested in the State by issuance of the notification under Section 8 of the Act of 1956. For a ready reference the relevant paragraphs are reproduced below:

"……23.By virtue of Section 8 after the agricultural area has been demarcated under Section 5, the State Government would issue a notification in the Official Gazette declaring that from specified date all demarcated areas situated in the urban area shall vest with the State Government and from the date so specified all such agricultural areas shall be transferred to and vest, except otherwise provided in the State free from all encumbrances. The purport of Section 8 is very clear that the agricultural land falling in the urban area has to be demarcated under Section 5 and thereafter the notification shall be issued by the State Government in regard to the demarcated area in the urban area to have been vested in the State.

29.In the present case, there is no evidence led by the defendants that the suit land had been declared as a demarcated area and the suit area being declared to be such has vested with the State Government under Section 8 of the 1956 Act. The notification issued under Section 8 says that in exercise of powers under Section 8 of the 1956 Act, the Governor of U.P. declared that from 1-7-1963 all agricultural areas in the following urban areas (which admittedly fall within Haridwar Union, District Saharanpur) of the then State of U.P. which have been demarcated under Section 5 of the Act shall stand vested with the State of U.P., and as from that day onwards all such agricultural areas shall stand transferred to, and vested, except as provided in the 1956 Act, in the State free from all encumbrances. It is clear from this notification under Section 8 that the land which has been demarcated under Section 5 in Haridwar Union shall be vested in the State free from all encumbrances. Unless and until it is shown that the land in suit has been declared as a demarcated area or falls within the demarcated area, exercising the powers under Section 5, it cannot be said that it has been vested in the State by virtue of the Notification issued under Section 8 on 20-6-1963. By 20-6-1963 notification, it is only the demarcated area under Section 5 which has been vested in the State. That does not necessarily mean that the suit lands have been vested in the State. In the absence of proof, it cannot be said that the suit area is a demarcated area and thus vested in the State by issuance of the notification under Section 8 of the Act.

36. For application of the provisions of Section 331 of the 1950 Act which has been incorporated in the 1956 Act, it was necessary for the defendants to prove that the suit lands had been demarcated by the State Government by taking necessary steps as contemplated under Sections 3, 4 and 5 of the 1956 Act. Sections 3, 4 and 5, as already held by us, provide a complete code for demarcation of the agricultural area after giving appropriate hearing to the party affected by following the procedure laid down therein. It also provides for an appeal to the Board of Revenue. It is only after the area is declared as demarcated area, that Section 8 will be attracted and the notification to that effect would be issued in regard to and in respect of such declared demarcated area to be vested in the State Government. Unless the land is vested in the State Government, the provisions of Section 331 of the 1956 (sic1950) Act would have no application to oust the jurisdiction of the civil court.

50. Taking into consideration, the facts and law as narrated herein above it is apparent that the Trial Court, the First Appellate Court as well as the Board of Revenue in deciding the Second Appeal have diligently considered the issues involved in the case, and have returned concurrent findings particularly with regard to the issue of abolition of zamindari in the area in question as also with regard to the issue of demarcation of the land in dispute as per Section 5 of the U.P. Act of 1956 as agricultural area for the purpose of enforcement of the U.P. Urban Areas Zamindari Abolition and Land reforms Act, 1956.

51. In view of the deliberations and observation made herein above this Court finds, no manifest error of law or perversity in concurrent findings recorded by the Courts below on the issues involved in the case. The impugned orders passed by the learned Courts below, do not suffer from any such procedural irregularity or illegality that warrants interference by this Court in exercise of its' Writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. The Writ Petition is liable to be dismissed. It is accordingly dismissed. However, the parties shall bear their own costs.

(Para 8-12)

Writ petition allowed in part.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned standing counsel for the State respondents, learned counsel for the private respondent no.5 and perused the record.

2. In view of the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, and order proposed to be passed hereinunder, this Court proceeds to decide the present matter finally at admission stage itself without calling for the respective affidavits of the parties, with the consent of the learned counsel for the parties present.

3. Petitioner is aggrieved with the reference order dated 29.9.2023 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation (in brevity 'DDC') in Case No.0170 of 2023 under Section 48 (3) of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (in brevity 'UPCH Act'), by which chak no.273 belongs to the petitioner has been disturbed.

4. Facts culled out from the record are that in provisional Consolidation Scheme present petitioner had been proposed chak No. 273, however, respondent No. 5 had been proposed chak No.80. At the time of preparation of final consolidation record, owing to some discrepancy, area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa has been left to be recorded in the chak of the respondent no.5. Meaning thereby area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa was short in his chak. Having aggrieved with the lesser valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa in his chak, respondent no.5 has moved miscellaneous application to complete the aforesaid valuation in his chak. After chequered history of litigation between the parties upto the Hon'ble High Court, finally Settlement Officer of Consolidation (in brevity 'SOC') has referred the matter, vide order dated 30.8.2023, before DDC to allow the reference, which has been approved/accepted by DDC vide its order impugned dated 29.9.2023. Consequent to the reference order passed by DDC, chak of the petitioner has been affected to the extent of the valuation of Rs.96.11 paisa which has been shifted/allocated in the chak of the respondent no.5. Having been aggrieved with the aforesaid change in his chak, the instant petition has been filed by the petitioner.

5. Assailing the order passed by DDC, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted two-fold submissions; first, regarding maintainability of the application moved by the contesting respondent no.5 under Section 42 A of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (in brevity 'UPCH Act'), that too, after after de-notification under Section 52 of UPCH Act and second submission has been advanced with respect to the jurisdiction of the consolidation courts to make any modification in the chak of the petitioner, while exercising their power in reference proceedings. It is submitted that the Consolidation Authorities have got no jurisdiction to amend the chak of any tenure holder which has attained finality before completion of the consolidation operation, thus, the instant writ petition may be allowed and the order impugned passed by DDC, being illegal, unwarranted under the law and cryptic, be quashed.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent no.5 has contended that respondent no.5 has, in fact, moved misc. application to correct the area of his chak which is short in the final consolidation record, therefore, same can not be treated to be filed under Section 42 A of UPCH Act. It is next contended that while passing the reference order, the DDC has considered the version of the present petitioner as well and, accordingly, shifted the chak of the petitioner on the partial area of plot no.286/1 Mi which was initially his original holding. It is further contended that, in fact, no grievance caused to the petitioner who has been compensated with the equal valuation of the area which has been taken out from his chak. It is next contended that grievance of the petitioner is imaginary, therefore, instant writ petition may be dismissed being misconceived and devoid of merits.

7. Learned standing counsel, on the basis of the instructions dated 02.01.2024 duly signed by the SOC, which is taken on record, contended that Consolidation Authorities have got right to correct the error in the consolidation record, therefore, there is no illegality in rectifying the area of chak No. 80 belongs to respondent no. 5. It is further contended that incorrect entry in land record was rectified under Section 48(3) of UPCH Act, therefore, there is no error or illegality in the reference order passed by the DDC.

8. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record, it is manifested that owing to clerical error in the final consolidation record area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa was left to be included/recorded in the chak of the respondent no.5. To rectify such error, he has moved a misc. application. As per case of the petitioner, aforesaid misc. application was moved under Section 42 A of UPCH Act after the denotification of village under Section 52 of UPCH Act, therefore, the said application filed on behalf of respondent

No. 5 was not maintainable in the eye of law. Learned counel for contesting respondent no.5 as well as the learned standing counsel have refuted the filing of said application for correction of record under Section 42 A of the UPCH Act and contended that misc. application moved on behalf of the respondent no.5 has been entertained under Section 48(3) of UPCH Act and, accordingly, error in the consolidation record is rectified by way of reference. Perusal of record, prima faice, it appears that reference was finally decided by DDC in exercise of his power under Section 48(3) of UPCH Act. There is nothing on the record to demonstrate that final order has been passed by Consolidation Officer or SOC under Section 42-A of UPCH Act.

9. Second submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, with regard to the jurisdiction of the consolidation courts to amend the chak allotted to the parties while deciding the reference proceedings, is of paramount consideration in the instant matter. The record evinces that to complete the valuation in chak of the respondent no.5, which is short by Rs.178.51 paisa, reference has been made by the Consolidation Officer which was forwarded by the SOC, vide order dated 30.8.2023. The DDC, after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned, has approved the aforesaid reference in exercise of its power under Section 48(3) of UPCH Act with an observation that short area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa in the chak of respondent no.5 shall be completed with equal valuation of area from the bachat land and the chak no.273 belongs to the petitioner. Accordingly, the petitioner has been given area having valuation of Rs.82.40 paisa (19.18 + 12.68+21.14+19.40) from the bachat land and the area having valuation of Rs.96.11 paisa from chak no.273 total area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa (82-40 + 96-11). Thus, it is evident that area having valuation of Rs.96.11 paisa has been shifted from the chak of the petitioner and allotted in the chak of the respondent no.5. Consequently, in lieu thereof, present petitioner has been allotted chak over plot no.286/1Mi of equal valuation i.e. Rs.96.11 paisa. The learned DDC has observed that plot no.286/1 Mi is the original holding of the present petitioner, whereon his guava trees and boundary wall exists. However, same has been earmarked as bachat land, therefore, allotting chak over there will not cause prejudice to the petitioner. It is evident that plot no.286/1 Mi which has been allotted to the petitioner is in fact recorded as a bachat land, therefore, chak of petitioner, for the valuation taken out, has been proposed over the bachat land.

10. In my considered opinion, in given circumstances of the present case, while deciding the reference proceedings under Section 48(3) of UPCH Act, the DDC has exceeded its jurisdiction to amend the chak of the petitioner which has already been finalised before the completion of the consolidation operation, during the chak allotment proceedings under the UPCH Act. There is no provision under the law to change/amend the chak of any chak holder except the provisions as enunciated under Sections 20 and 21 of UPCH Act. Any change in the chak of the chak holder without fulfilling legal formalities as required under the law would amount extra-judicial work which is unsustainable in the eye of law. The chak allotment proceedings under Sections 20 and 21 of the UPCH Act amounts judicial proceedings as enunciated under Section 40 of the UPCH Act. The preparation of provisional Consolidation scheme under Section 19-A of UPCH Act, as per conditions enunciated under Section 19 of UPCH Act, confirmed under Section 23 of UPCH Act after chak allotment proceedings under Sections 20 and 21 of the UPCH Act and, accordingly, allotment orders are being passed. Once the provisional consolidation scheme confirmed and parties came into the possession under Section 28 of UPCH Act, and final consolidation scheme came into force by promulgation of notification under Section 24 of UPCH Act there is no justification to make any change in the chak of any chak holder which has attained finality. There is no finding returned by the consolidation courts that the present petitioner was allotted excess area than that of the original area held by him. Therefore, there was no occasion to alter/amend the chak of the petitioner. The chak finalised before notification under Section 24 of the UPCH Act and denotification under Section 52 of the UPCH Act can not be altered/modified at subsequent stage merely in order to compensate the other chak holder whose chak has been found short of area/valuation for which he was entitled.

11. In the given circumstances of the present case it is not disputed that chak of the petitioner was short of area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa. However, said short valuation could be completed from the bachat land. Disturbing/amending the chak of the petitioner which had attained finality before the denotification under Section 52 of UPCH Act is unsustainable in the eye of law. The Consolidation Authorities are not expected to amend/alter the area/valuation of any chak at later stage, that too, after denotification under Section 52 of UPCH Act except in the eventuality that excess area/valuation has illegally been allotted in that chak or composition of said chak has incorrectly been endorsed/mentioned in final consolidation record or parties concerned are agreed upon to such amendment/alteration, or any chak is required to be amended/altered in compliance/pursuance of any provision under the UPCH Act/Rules or order passed by court competent.

12. In this conspectus, as above, the order passed by DDC under Section 48(3) of UPCH Act, proposing amendment in the chak of the petitioner, is liable to be quashed and the grievance of the respondent no.5, to complete the area of his chak no.80 having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa, could be ventilated by adjusting his chak over the bachat land or any other gaon sabha land. As such the instant writ petition succeeds and is allowed in part. The order dated 29.9.2023 passed by the DDC in revision no.0170 of 2023 under Section 48(3) of UPCH Act (Kallan and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) is hereby partly quashed, so far as it relates to the valuation of Rs. 96.11 paise of chak No. 273, on the following conditions:

(i) Revision filed on behalf of Kallan (respondent no.5) is restored to its original number and parties are relegated before the DDC, who shall decide the revision afresh after affording proper opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned.

(ii) The DDC shall make endeavour to complete the short area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa in the chak No. 80 of the respondent No. 5 from the bachat land or other gaon sabha land/public land, as may be justified, having area of equal valuation, as far as possible, nearer/in the vicinity to his remaining chak. It is made clear that for better compliance of this condition No. 2, learned DDC would revisit his reference order dated 29.9.2023, partly quash by the order of date, and pass fresh order so as to do complete justice in favour of respondent No. 5, who is running from pillar to post since last several years.

(iv) Having completed the short area having valuation of Rs.178.51 paisa in the chak of respondent No. 5, learned DDC shall make all sincere endeavour to demarcate the said allotted land in chak No. 80 and deliver the possession thereof to respondent no.5 after removing obstruction/hindrance, if any, over there. He can take police protection/help as well for the purpose, if required.

(v) The DDC shall make a sincere endeavour to decide the revision, in accordance with law, expeditiously, preferably, within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order and, thereafter, ensure the demarcation and delivery of possession thereof as directed above within a period of two months.

Civil Law - Land Acquisition – U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – Section 171 – U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 – Section 9-A, 9-B, 11, 12 & 48 – Rule 25-A of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules –

Succession – Unregistered Will – Validity of Compromise – Dispute over Land Title

The petitioner challenged the orders dated 05.09.2016 (Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Ayodhya) and 05.04.2019 (Deputy Director of Consolidation, Ayodhya), which rejected her claim over disputed land (Gata No. 76, new No. 66) based on an unregistered Will dated 03.12.1991 and a compromise dated 24.02.1992. The land was originally recorded in the name of Bhagwan Bux Singh, and after his death on 04.12.1991, his widow Rajeshwari Devi's name was recorded under Section 171 of the 1950 Act. The petitioner, Nandini Devi, daughter of Bhagwan Bux Singh, claimed rights based on the Will and a compromise during consolidation proceedings. Held: The unregistered Will was not proved as per law before the authorities under the 1953 Act, rendering the petitioner's claim baseless. The compromise was invalid as it violated Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules, lacking signatures of Consolidation Committee members and conferring rights not recognized by statute. Under Section 171(2) of the 1950 Act, Rajeshwari Devi, as the widow, was the sole legal heir, and the petitioner, a married daughter, had no statutory right during her mother's lifetime. The orders of the SOC and DDC were upheld, and the petition was dismissed.

1. Heard learned Counsel for the petitioner, Sri Hemant Pandey, learned State Counsel and Sri Krishna Kumar Dubey, learned Counsel for the side opposite.

2. By means of the present petition, the petitioner has assailed the order dated 05.09.2016 passed by opposite party no.2/Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Ayodhya (in short 'SOC') passed in Appeal No. 797/1866/1737 (Rajeshwari Devi Versus Nandini Devi), as also the order dated 05.04.2019 passed by opposite party no.1/Deputy Director of Consolidation, District Ayodhya (in short 'DDC') in Revision No. 859 (Nandini Devi Versus Rajeshwari Devi).

Brief facts of the case, are to the effect that the land in dispute i.e. Gata No. 76 (new number 66) situated at Village-Moradabad, Tehsil-Rudauli, District-Faizabad now Ayodhya, was recorded in the name of one Bhagwan Bux Singh. The Bhagwan Bux Singh expired on 04.12.1991, thereafter the name of his wife namely Rajeshwari Devi (opposite party no.3) was recorded in the revenue records in terms of Section 171 of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 (in short 'Act of 1950') as applicable at relevant point of time. Section 171 of the Act of 1950, applicable at relevant point of time reads as under:-

(q) father's father's son ;

(r) father's father's son's son.]"

4. After the aforesaid, during consolidation proceedings, the petitioner namely Smt. Nandini Devi wife of Devendra Kumar Singh daughter of (Bhagwan Bux Singh and Rajeshwari Devi) raised her claim over the property in dispute i.e. Gata No. 76 (new number 66), detailed above.

5. It would be apt to indicate that the claim of the petitioner before the authorities under the Act of 1953 as also before this Court is based upon the unregistered 'Will' dated 03.12.1991.

6. During the consolidation proceedings in a chak, Appeal No. 1418 of 2023 (Munni Devi Versus Bhagwan Bux Singh and Others), the statement(s) of attesting witnesse(s) of 'Will' dated 03.12.1991 were recorded and based upon the same the petitioner (Smt. Nandini Devi) and opposite party no. 3 (Rajeshwari Devi) were substituted in place of Bhagwan Bux Singh (died during the pendency of appeal on 04.12.1991) and a compromise was also filed in the said appeal and therefore appellate authority namely SOC, referred the matter to Assistant Consolidation Officer concerned.

7. The copies of the statement(s) of attesting witnesses have been placed on record by means of filing supplementary affidavit dated 07.03.2024 and perusal thereof, would show that these witnesses were not cross examined and at this stage, on being asked as to whether these statements can be considered, learned Counsel for the petitioner very fairly stated that these statements cannot be considered, as per law.

8. After the order passed by the SOC dated 20.01.1992, the ACO proceeded in the matter and passed the order dated 24.02.1992. This order dated 24.02.1992 was passed in case no. 125 under Section 12 of the Act of 1953 (Rajeshwari Devi Versus Bagwan Bux Singh (since died). The order dated 24.02.1992 passed by Assistant Consolidation Officer, Ayodhya, on reproduction reads as under:-

"पत्रावली पेश हुई। पक्ष हाजिर आये। निम्न शर्तवार किया। हस्तहार जारी कराया गया, मियाद अन्दर इस्तहार के विरूद्ध कोई आपत्ति नहीं आयी तथा दिनांक 24.2.92 को दोनों पक्षों के बीच समझौता प्रस्तुत किया गया। ग्राम प्रधान मु0 वसीम ने दस्तीक किया। ग्राम मुरादाबाद की आकार पत्र 23 भाग–1 के क्रमांक 73, 89 तथा 76 के सेक्टर नं0 2 प्रथम चक व सेक्टर नं0 5 द्वितीय चक मृतक भगवान बक्श सिंह पुत्र छंग्गा सिंह निवासी मुरादाबाद का नाम खारिज करके मु0 राजेश्वरी देवी बेवा भगवान बख्श सिंह नि0 मुरादाबाद का नाम बतौर वारिस दर्ज करने की मांग की गई है तथा क्रमांक 76 के सेक्टर नं06 तृतीय चक से मृतक भगवान बख्श सिंह पुत्र छंग्गा सिंह का नाम खारिज करके श्रीमी नन्दिनी पत्नी देवेन्द्र कुमार सिंह नि0 मुरादाबाद का नाम बतौर समझौता द्वारा दर्ज करने की मांग की गई है।

9. Being aggrieved by the order dated 24.02.1992 passed by ACO, opposite party no.3/Rajeshwari Devi wife of Bhagwan

Bux Singh, mother of present petitioner namely Nandini Devi, preferred an appeal under Section 11(1) of the Act of 1953. The appeal was filed with some delay. After considering the facts and material available on record, the SOC condoned the delay and decide the appeal no. 797/1866/1737 filed by opposite party no.3/Rajeshwari Devi, challenging the order dated 24.02.1992, on merits vide order dated 05.09.2016.

10. The SOC after considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case including the signature over the compromise in issue, as also Section 171(2) of the Act of 1950, decided the case in favour of opposite party no.3/Rajeshwari Devi and rejected the claim of the petitioner by impugned order dated 05.09.2016. The relevant portion of the same reads as under:-

"जहां तक इस मामले मे गुणदोष पर विवेचना का प्रश्न है, चूंकि अपीलार्थिनी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा गुणदोष पर अपनी बहस की गई है परन्तु प्रतिपक्षी द्वारा पर्याप्त अवसर देने के बाद भी अपील के गुणदोष पर अपना कथन प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है इसलिए पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध उनके प्रतिवाद पत्र में किये गये कथन तथा पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध साक्ष्यों के आधार पर इस अपील में गुणदोष पर निर्णय किया जा रहा है। अवर न्यायालय की वाद पत्रावली वाद सं0 125 अन्तर्गत धारा 12 जो0च0अ0 समझौता व आदेश दिनांक 24.02.92 के अवलोकन से ज्ञात होता है कि स0च0अ0 न्यायालय पर प्रस्तुत वाद पत्र के स्तम्भ 6 में नामान्तरण का आधार ''वजरिये वरासत'' अंकित है तथा स्तम्भ 7 में वादी/प्रतिवादी का नाम व पता अंकित है। जिसमें वादी के रूप में राजेश्वरी देवी व प्रतिवादी के रूप में भगवान बक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह का नाम अंकित करके वादी के रूप में सबसे नीचे राजेश्वरी देवी विधवा भगवान बक्श सिंह का नाम व निशानी अंगूठा अंकित है। उक्त वाद पत्र पर वाद में भिन्न कलम व हस्तलिपि में कमांक 2 डालकर नन्दिनी पत्नी देवेन्द्र कुमार का नाम स्तम्भ 8 में अंकित किया गया है, जिसके इस सम्बन्ध में थाना पटरंगा जिला फैजाबाद में प्राथमिकी दर्ज है जिसकी विवेचना श्री सुनील कुमार उप निरीक्षक द्वारा की जा रही है, इसलिए इस बिन्दु पर अलग से कोई मत अंकित किया जाना विधि संगत नहीं प्रतीत होता है क्योंकि इससे पुलिस द्वारा की जा रही अपराधिक विवेचना प्रभावित हो सकती है। अवर न्यायालय की पत्रावली में दिनांक रहित एक समझौता पत्र दाखिल है जिसमें कहा गया है कि विवादित भूमि जमींदारी उन्मूलन के पूर्व से ही वादिनी सं0 2 के पिता भगवान बक्श सिंह के नाम दर्ज रही है जिसमें उनके पिता ने पूर्व चकबन्दी में मु0नं0 11/1 तारीख फैसला 11.7.57 से उसके पक्ष में विभाजन कर दिया जो आराजी नं0 35, 113, 141, 148/1, 307 व 352 धारा 210 के अन्तर्गत वह सीरदार घोषित कर दी गयी। इसके बाद भी विवादित नम्बरान प्रतिवादी के नाम दर्ज चला आ रहा है इसलिए आपसी समझौता के आधार पर चक सं0 73 व 89 तथा चक सं0 76 के प्रथम व द्वितीय चक पर मु0 राजेश्वरी देवी तथा तृतीय चक पर नन्दिनी पत्नी देवेन्द्र कुमार का नाम दर्ज किया जाये। इस सुलहनामा को मु0 वसीम प्रधान ने तस्दीक किया है जिस पर स0च0अ0 का सूक्ष्म हस्ताक्षर व दिनांक 24.7.92 अंकित है। इसी सुलहनामा का उल्लेख करके स0च0अ0 द्वारा समझौता व आदेश दिनांक 24.2.92 पारित किया गया है जिस पर मु0 वसीम प्रधान का हस्ताक्षर तथा राजेश्वरी देवी व नन्दिनी का अंगूठा चिन्ह अंकित किया गया है। अवर न्यायालय की पत्रावली में अथवा अपीलीय कार्यवाही के दौरान नन्दिनी देवी पत्नी देवेन्द्र कुमार द्वारा ऐसा कोई अभिलेखीय साक्ष्य नहीं दाखिल किया गया है जो उनके पूर्व चकबन्दी में विवादित भूमि के सम्बन्ध में आदेश होने सम्बन्धी कथन को पुष्ट करता हो। उ0प्र0 जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम की धारा 12 की व्यवस्था के अनुसार धारा 10 के प्रकाशन के बाद उत्पन्न कार्य कारण के निस्तारण हेतु नामान्तरण आदेश पारित किया जाता है जिसमें किसी प्रकार स्वत्व का निर्धारण नहीं किया जाता है अपितु स्वत्व की मांग के लिए जो च0अ0 की धारा 9क के अन्तर्गत आपत्ति प्रस्तुत किये जाने का विधान है परन्तु प्रतिपक्षी नन्दिनी की ओर से ऐसी कोई आपत्ति प्रस्तुत की गई हो इसका न तो पत्रावली पर कोई साक्ष्य है और न ही उनके द्वारा ऐसा कोई कथन प्रस्तुत किया गया है। ऐसी स्थिति में उनके द्वारा अपील स्तर पर दाखिल छायाप्रति कागजात का कोई लाभ नहीं मिल सकता है। जो0च0अ0 की धारा 12 के अन्तर्गत योजित प्रश्नगत वाद में अवर न्यायालय को केवल मृतक भगवान बक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह की वरासत सम्बन्धी आदेश पारित करने का अधिकार प्राप्त था। तत्समय प्रभावी उ0प्र0 एवं भूमि व्यवस्था अधिनियम की धारा 171 उपधारा (2) मे वर्णित व्यवस्था के अनुसार अपीलार्थिनी राजेश्वरी देवी मृतक भगवान बक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह जो पुंजातीय वंशज न होने के कारण कमांक क पर वर्णित एक मात्र विधवा होने के कारण एक अकेली जायज वारिस होती है। तत्समय उ0प्र0ज0वि0 एवं भू0व0 अधिनियम 1950 की धारा 171 की उपधारा (1) के खण्ड (11) में यह भी स्पष्ट किया गया है कि उपधारा (2) के किसी पूर्ववर्ती खण्ड विनिर्दिष्ट

अतः उपर्युक्त विवेचना के परिप्रेक्ष्य में प्रश्नगत अपील स्वीकार की जाती है तथा अवर न्यायालय द्वारा पारित समझौता/आदेश दिनांक 24.2.92 क्षेत्राधिकार से बाहर होने के कारण खण्डित किया जाता है। ग्राम मुरादाबाद, परगना व तहसील रूदौली जिला फैजाबाद की चक सं0 73, 76 तथा 89 से मृतक भगवान बक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह ग्रामवासी का नाम खारिज करके राजेश्वरी देवी विधवा भगवान बक्श सिंह ग्रामवासी का नाम बतौर विधिक वारिस दर्ज हो। पक्षकार सूचित हों तथा अग्रेतर कार्यवाही के उपरान्त पत्रावली दाखिल दफ्तर हो।"

11. Being aggrieved by the order dated 05.09.2016, the petitioner instituted a revision being Revision No.859/2016530423000049 (Nandini Devi Versus Rajeshwari Devi), under Section 48 of the Act of 1953.

12. By the impugned order dated 05.04.2019, the opposite party no.1/D.D.C. Ayodhya, rejected the revision and affirmed the order dated 05.09.2016 passed by opposite party no.2/SOC. The relevant portion of order dated 05.04.2019, reads as under:-

"निगरानीकर्ती की ओर से प्रस्तुत किये गये तर्को में मुख्य रुप से यह कहा गया है कि राजेश्वरी देवी ने दिनांक 15.11.16 को प्रार्थना पत्र प्रस्तुत करके कहा है कि मैने कोई अपील दाखिल नहीं किया है। किसी अन्य व्यक्ति ने अपील दाखिल किया है। जब नोटिस प्राप्त हुयी तब उक्त वाद की जानकारी हुयी है। इनका तर्क है कि वाद संख्या 125 में धारा–12 जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत सहायक चकबन्दी अधिकारी द्वारा दिनांक 24.02.92 को समझौते के आधार पर आदेश पारित किया गया है। भगवानबक्श मृतक की वरासत का विवाद था। इनका तर्क है कि प्रथम चक चकबन्दी के खाता संख्या 55 भगवान बक्श के नाम खाता था। इसी खाते पर आदेश दिनांक 11.07.57 के द्वारा नन्दिनी देवी का नाम बतौर सीरदार अंकित होने का आदेश हुआ है किन्तु इसका अनुपालन अग्रिम अभिलेखों में नही हुआ था किन्तु उसका चक अलग बना हुआ था। गलती से अग्रिम अभिलेखों में भगवानबक्श का नाम दर्ज हो गया था। दिनांक 03.12.91 को भगवान बक्श सिंह ने अपंजीकृत वसीयतनामा अपनी पत्नी के पक्ष में तहरीर किया तथा उल्लेख किया गया कि इन्हें बेचने व ऋण लेने का अधिकार नहीं होगा तथा राजेश्वरी देवी की मृत्यु के बाद उत्तराधिकारिणी नन्दिनी देवी होगीं। दिनांक 04.12.91 को भगवानबक्श मर गये। दिनांक 20.01.92 को राजेश्वरी देवी व नन्दिनी देवी के मध्य सुलह हुयी। इसी सुलहनामें के आधार पर दिनांक 24.02.92 को आदेश पारित हुआ है। इनका तर्क है कि आदेश दिनांक 24.02.92 की जानकारी राजेश्वरी देवी को है एवं उसके द्वारा वर्ष 1998 में बैनामा किया गया है। राजेश्वरी देवी द्वारा बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी के समक्ष कोई अपील संस्थित नहीं की गयी है। सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता का तर्क है कि वाद धारा–9क(2) के अन्तर्गत होना चाहिए था जो धारा–12 में हुआ है। यह अधिवक्ता की सलाह पर है। इनका तर्क है कि अपीलीय न्यायालय द्वारा गलत रुप से अपील को स्वीकार करके वाद भूमि पर राजेश्वरी देवी का नाम अंकित किया गया है। यह भी तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि निगरानी स्वीकार की जाय तथा अपीलीय न्यायालय का आदेश निरस्त करके पत्रावली पुनः गुणदोष पर निस्तारण हेतु अपीलीय न्यायालय को प्रतिप्रेषित की जाय। इनकी ओर से इस न्यायालय का ध्यान आर0जे0 1991 पेज 335 की ओर आकृष्ट कराया गया है।

उसके विरुद्ध प्रार्थना पत्र दिया गया। आदेश स्थगित हुआ तथा खारिज हो गया। पुर्नस्थापन प्रार्थना पत्र दिया गया जो चल रहा है। दिनांक 29.4.2015 को अपील दाखिल हुयी है। सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता का यह भी तर्क है कि 1957 में नन्दिनी की आयु 07 वर्ष थी इसलिए इतने कम उम्र में सीरदार कैसे हुयी?। जो समझौता दाखिल हुआ उसे बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी के समक्ष नही रखा गया। सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता का यह भी तर्क है कि चकबन्दी में पारित आदेश के अनुपालन हेतु नियम 109 में कार्यवाही नहीं की गयी, बल्कि चकबन्दी के आदेश के अनुपालन हेतु धारा–33/39 के अन्तर्गत वाद प्रस्तुत किया गया। सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता का तर्क है कि वर्ष 1957 में यदि कोई आदेश था तो द्वितीय चक चकबन्दी में उसे क्यो नहीं उठाया गया। कोई भी पंजीकृत अभिलेख नहीं है। सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता का तर्क है कि भगवान बक्श सिंह मृतक के स्थान पर उनकी विधवा राजेश्वरी देवी का नाम सहायक चकबन्दी अधिकारी द्वारा अंकित किया गया था और उसी अनुसार अभिलेख भी निर्मित हुये थे। नन्दिनी देवी द्वारा अभिलेखों में जालसाजी कराकर अपना नाम अंकित करा लिया गया था जिसे अपीलीय न्यायालय द्वारा कूटरचना के आधार पर अंकित पाते हुए निरस्त कर दिया गया है तथा मृतक भगवान सिंह के स्थान पर उनकी विधवा राजेश्वरी देवी का नाम उचित रुप से अंकित किया गया है। अपीलीय न्यायालय के आदेश में कोई त्रुटि नहीं है निगरानी निराधार है एवं निरस्त की जाय।

मैनें अवर न्यायालयो की पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध आदेश, सभी संगत साक्ष्यो का विधि के आलोक में विहंगम परिशीलन एवं परीक्षण किया। इसके अतिरिक्त दोनो पक्षों के अधिवक्ता द्वय की तर्कपूर्ण बहस सुना। स्पष्ट है कि ग्राम मुरादाबाद में चकबन्दी प्रकिया प्रचलित रहते ही खातेदार भगवानबक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह का देहान्त हो गया। राजेश्वरी देवी द्वारा धारा–12 के अन्तर्गत चक संख्या 89, 73, व 76 पर मृतक भगवान सिंह के स्थान पर विधवा के रुप में नाम अंकित करने हेतु नामान्तरण वाद प्रस्तुत किया गया एवं स्तम्भ 06 में नामान्तरण का आधार बजरिये वरासत अंकित है। स्तम्भ 7 में वादी व प्रतिवादी का नाम व पता अंकित है। वादी के रुप में राजेश्वरी देवी विधवा भगवानबक्श सिंह तथा प्रतिवादी के रुप में भगवानबक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह अंकित है तथा इसके नीचे राजेश्वरी देवी विधवा भगवानबक्श सिंह का नाम व निशानी अंगूठा लगा है। उक्त वाद पत्र पर विशेष विवरण के कालम में नन्दिनी पत्नी देवेन्द्र कुमार निवासी ग्राम मुरादाबाद परगना व तहसील रुदौली जिला बाराबंकी भिन्न कलम से भिन्न लेख में लिखा गया है एवं राजेश्वरी के नाम के ऊपर कोष्ठक बनाकर एक एवं नन्दिनी के नाम के ऊपर कोष्ठक बनाकर दो लिखा गया है। इस कूटरचना के सम्बन्ध में थाना पटरंगा जिला फैजाबाद में प्राथमिकी दर्ज है, जिसकी विवेचना की जा रही है। इस बिन्दु पर अलग से कोई मत व्यक्त किया जाना विधिसंगत नही है। अवर न्यायालय की पत्रावली में दिनांक रहित एक समझौता पत्र दाखिल है जिसमें उल्लेख है कि मुकदमा नं0 11/1 तारीख फैसला 11.07.57 के द्वारा भगवानबक्श सिंह के नाम अंकित भूमि, भूमि संख्या 35, 113, 141, 148/1, 307 व 352 नन्दिनी देवी सीरदार घोषित कर दी गयी। इसके बाद भी विवादित भूमि पर प्रतिवादी का नाम दर्ज चला आ रहा है। इसलिए आपसी समझौता के आधार पर चक संख्या 73,89 तथा 76 के प्रथम व द्वितीय चक पर मु0 राजेश्वरी देवी तथा तृतीय चक पर नन्दिनी देवी पत्नी देवेन्द्र कुमार का नाम दर्ज किया जाय। इस सुलहनामा को मो0 वसीम प्रधान ने तस्दीक किया है। निगरानीकर्ता द्वारा ऐसा कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नही किया गया है जो पूर्व चकबन्दी में विवादित भूमि के सम्बन्ध में पारित किये गये आदेश की पुष्टि करता हो। यहॉ यह भी उल्लेखनीय है कि चकबन्दी क्रियाओ के अन्तर्गत ग्राम में धारा–10 के प्रकाशन के पश्चात उत्पन्न वाद कारण के निस्तारण हेतु उ0प्र0 जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम की धारा–12 की व्यवस्था है। इस प्रकरण में निगरानीकर्ता द्वारा प्रथम चक चकबन्दी के जिस आदेश के अनुसार सुलहनामे के आधार पर आदेश का होना कहा गया है, उक्त कार्यवाही हेतु नियमानुसार ग्राम में धारा–9 के प्रकाशन के पूर्व सत्यापन खतौनी के समय तत्सम्बन्धी विवाद निर्मित होना चाहिए था एवं धारा–9 के प्रकाशन के उपरान्त तत्सम्बन्धी आपत्ति भी प्रस्तुत होकर नियमानुसार साक्ष्यों के आधार पर प्रकरण का गुणदोष पर निस्तारण होना चाहिए था। इस प्रकरण में ग्राम में सत्यापन खतौनी के समय ऐसा कोई तनाजा निर्मित हुआ और न ही वाद भूमि पर निगरानीकर्ती के कब्जे का ही कोई तनाजा निर्मित हुआ और न, ही निगरानीकर्ती की ओर से प्रथम चक चकबन्दी में पारित आदेश का अनुपालन नियम 109 के अन्तर्गत कराया गया और न ही द्वितीय चक चकबन्दी प्रारम्भ होने के उपरान्त धारा–9 के अन्तर्गत ऐसा कोई आपत्ति ही प्रस्तुत की गयी।

पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध द्वितीय चक चकबन्दी के जोत चकबन्दी आकार पत्र–41 व 45 के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि भगवान बक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह के देहान्त के उपरान्त राजेश्वरी देवी द्वारा धारा–12 के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत नामान्तरण वाद में पारित आदेश के अनुसार चक संख्या 89, 73, व 76 के सभी चको से निर्मित जोत चकबन्दी आकार पत्र–41 व 45 में भगवानबक्श सिंह पुत्र छंगा सिंह के स्थान पर श्रीमती राजेश्वरी देवी विधवा भगवानबक्श सिंह ग्रामवासी का नाम अंकित हुआ है।

सहायक चकबन्दी अधिकारी की वाद पत्रावली संख्या 125 अन्तर्गत धारा–12 के साथ संलग्न नामान्तरण वाद पत्र में विशेष विवरण के स्तम्भ 8 में भिन्न कलम व भिन्न लेख से नन्दिनी देवी पत्नी देवेन्द्र कुमार बढ़ाया जाना तथा पत्रावली में संधिपत्र संलग्न करके उसके आधार पर आदेश निर्मित किया जाना स्पष्ट करता है कि कूटरचना के आधार पर पूर्व पारित आदेश हटाकर नवीन आदेश रखा गया है क्योंकि यदि वस्तुतः यही आदेश पारित हुआ होता तो ग्राम के अन्तिम अभिलेख इसी अनुसार निर्मित किये जाते।

यहॉ पर यह भी स्पष्ट करना समीचीन है कि चकबन्दी प्राधिकारियों द्वारा पारित आदेश यदि जोत चकबन्दी आकार पत्र– 41 व 45 में क्रियान्वित करने से छूट भी गया है तो भी इसका क्रियान्वयन लैण्ड रेवेन्यू ऐक्ट की धारा–33/39 में नहीं हो सकता। ऐसे आदेशों को प्रथमतः जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम की धारा–48(3) में परीक्षित करने के बाद नियम 109ए(1) में अनुपालित किया जाना चाहिए। लैण्ड रेवेन्यू ऐक्ट की धारा–33/39 की परिधि मात्र खतौनी की लिपिकीय एंव अंकगणितीय त्रुटि को शुद्ध करने की है जो धारा–52(1) जोत चकबन्दी अधिनियम में प्रख्यापन के बाद तहसील में हो जाती है।

यह भी उल्लेखनीय है कि राजेश्वरी देवी व भगवानबक्श सिंह की तीन पुत्रियॉ है। सभी अपने–अपने पक्ष में वसीयतनामा की बात करती है। चूँकि ग्राम में धारा–52(1) का प्रख्यापन हो चुका है, इसलिए वाद कारण अब चकबन्दी न्यायालयों की परिधि में नहीं है। इसका सही परीक्षण राजस्व न्यायालय से ही हो सकता है। इतना अवश्य है कि जब भगवानबक्श सिंह के द्वारा उनके जीवनकाल में ही निष्पादित एक तथाकथित अपंजीकृत वसीयतनामा दिनांक 03.12.91 था, जिसमें यह स्पष्ट था कि राजेश्वरी देवी, भगवानबक्श सिंह से प्राप्त भूमि को विक्रय नहीं कर सकती और राजेश्वरी देवी की मृत्यु के बाद उनकी मात्र एक पुत्री नन्दिनी देवी ही उत्तराधिकारिणी होगीं तब राजेश्वरी देवी द्वारा वर्ष 1998 में भूमि विक्रय करने पर नन्दिनी देवी द्वारा विरोध क्यों नहीं किया गया?। दूसरे यह कि जब राजेश्वरी देवी के बाद उक्त वसीयतनामें के आधार पर नन्दिनी देवी उत्तराधिकारिणी बनती, तब भगवानबक्श की मृत्यु के बाद उन्हें राजेश्वरी देवी के साथ ही एक अंश पर सहभूमिधर बनने की क्या आवश्यकता थी?। निगरानीकर्ता के सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता इन प्रश्नों का कोई संतोषजनक उत्तर नहीं दे पाये।

जहॉ तक निगरानीकर्ता के सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता का यह कथन कि राजेश्वरी देवी द्वारा कोई अपील नहीं की गयी, स्वीकान नहीं किया जा सकता, क्योंकि अपीलीय स्तर पर दो बाद नन्दिनी देवी ने माननीय उच्च न्यायालय में याचिका संस्थित की थी। याचिका संख्या 17883/2016 श्रीमती नन्दिनी देवी बनाम डी0डी0सी0 फैजाबाद व अन्य में माननीय उच्च न्यायालय ने आदेश दिनांक 19.08.2016 में स्पष्ट कर दिया है कि बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी वाद का निस्तारण गुणदोष पर करेगें। उन्हें वाद को निस्तारित करने का पूर्ण अधिकार प्राप्त है। माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश का प्रवर्ती अंश निम्नवत् है :–

"Without commenting anything on the merit of the case, this court directs that the matter pending before the settlement officer of Consolidation, Faizabad shall be decided by settlement officer of Consolidation Faizabad on merit also. However, so far the jurisdiction is concerned, the settlement officer of consolidation shall have all the jurisdiction to decide the matter."

जब अपीलीय स्तर पर ही माननीय उच्च न्यायालय ने प्रकरण को गुणदोष पर निस्तारित करने का आदेश दे दिया और यह भी स्पष्ट कर दिया कि बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी को इस वाद को निस्तारित करने का पूर्ण क्षेत्राधिकार प्राप्त है, तब निगरानी स्तर पर यह तकनीकी बिन्दु उठाना कि अपील राजेश्वरी देवी द्वारा नही दाखिल थी अथवा अपील अतिशय कालबाधित थी, स्वीकार नही किया जा सकता। इस प्रकार निगरानीकर्ता के सुबुद्ध अधिवक्ता द्वारा प्रस्तुत विधि व्यवस्था आर0जे0 1991 पेज 335 इस प्रकरण पर लागू नहीं है।

प्रकरण में मुख्य बिन्दु सहायक चकबन्दी अधिकारी के आदेश दिनांक 24.02.92 में की गयी कूटरचना से था। इस पर ऊपर विवेचित किए अंश के अनुसार न तो सहायक चकबन्दी अधिकारी को संधि पत्र के आधार पर माता के जीवित रहते, पिता कि भू–सम्पति में, तीन में से मात्र एक पुत्री नन्दिनी देवी का नाम अंकित करने का अधिकार ही था और न, ही ऐसे किसी आदेश का कियान्वयन लैण्ड रेवेन्यू ऐक्ट की धारा–33/39 में ही किया जा सकता है। क्योंकि चकबन्दी में जो अन्तिम अभिलेख निर्मित हुए, उसमें भगवानबक्श पुत्र छंगा सिंह के स्थान पर मात्र उनकी विधवा पत्नी राजेश्वरी देवी पत्नी भगवानबक्श का ही नाम अभिलिखित किया गया, इससे स्पष्ट है कि सहायक चकबन्दी अधिकारी का आदेश मात्र उतने अंश तक ही था। कोई कारण विद्यमान नहीं है कि आधे आदेश का पालन हो और आधा छूट जाय।

ऐसी स्थिति में, मैं बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी के आदेश में किसी प्रकार की त्रुटि या अनियमितता नहीं पाता हूँ। निगरानी बलहीन है और निरस्त किये जाने योग्य है।

उपरोक्त विवेचन के आधार पर यह निगरानी निरस्त किया जाता है। पत्रावली अग्रेतर कार्यवाही के उपरान्त राजस्व अभिलेखालय में संचित हो।"

13. Learned Counsel for the petitioner assailing the impugned order(s) stated that in view of recitals of the 'Will' dated 03.12.1991, the testator Raj Bux Singh, has provided life time interest to the Rajeshwari Devi and as such the petitioner is entitled to rights over the property in dispute i.e. Gata No. 66, detailed above on the basis of 'Will' dated 03.12.1991 and also the compromise filed before ACO, the basis of order dated 24.02.1992 of A.C.O.

14. Per contra, the learned Counsel for the side opposite submitted that the claim of the petitioner is liable to be rejected and the present petition is liable to be dismissed for the reasons that 'Will' dated 03.12.1991 the basis of claim of the petitioner, was not proved before the authorities under the Act of 1953 and this is undisputed fact and also that alleged compromise was in violation of law.

15. Considered the aforesaid and perused the records.

16. So far as the claim of the petitioner based upon the undisputed 'Will' dated 03.12.1991 is concerned, the same has no force. It is for the reason that undisputedly the unregistered 'Will' dated 03.12.1991, the basis of the claim of the petitioner, was not proved, as per law, before the authorities under the Act of 1953.

17. In regard to claim based upon the compromise, this Court finds it appropriate to refer some pronouncements.

18. In the case of Shiv Prasad Versus Deputy Director of Consolidation, Ghazipur and Ors. reported in 2006 SCC OnLine All 1485, this Court observed as under:-

"7. On the basis of pleadings and arguments of the parties, the first question that arises for consideration is whether under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act a compromise could be entered into between the parties as contemplated under the C.P.C. at any stage in proceedings arising out of Section 9-A(2)/Section 11/Section 12/Section 21/Section 48 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, secondly, whether title of the parties in the land which is creation of a statute could be determined on the basis of a compromise for exclusive title or for determination of share in a joint holding and, thirdly, whether a person could be declared as Bhumidhar, Sirdar or Asami on the basis of a compromise in the proceeding under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act or any other proceeding under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act without any title in law.

8. Before delving into this question, I feel called to advert to certain provisions of U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. Section 3(4-C) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act defines land, same is being reproduced as under:—

"3(4-C) 'Holding' means a parcel or parcels of land held under one tenure by a tenure-holder singly or jointly with other tenure-holders."

Section 3(11) defines tenure-holder which runs as under:—

"3(11) 'Tenure-holder' means a (bhumidhar with transferable rights or bhumidhar with non-transferable rights), and includes—

(a) an asami,

(b) a Government lessee or Government grantee, or

(c) a co-operative farming society satisfying such conditions as may be prescribed."

9. Definition in Section 3(12) also makes it clear that "Words and expressions not defined in this Act but (used or) defined in the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901, but (used or) in the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 shall have the meaning assigned to them in the Act in which they are so (used or) defined."

10. Under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, the procedure prescribed is that after spot verification, as required under the Act and the Rules, Consolidation Officer shall prepare a statement of principles under Section 8-A as well as statement under Section 8 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act on verification of map and land record, thereafter, record shall be published and the statement showing the mistakes (undisputed cases of succession) and disputes discovered during the test and verification of the record of right during the course of the field to field portal shall be published in the village. Any objection to that shall be filed on publication of record under Section. 9 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act before Assistant Consolidation Officer disputing the correctness and nature of the entries in the record or in the extract furnished therefrom or in the statement of principles, or the need for partition. At the stage of Assistant Consolidation Officer, the only provision under which a compromise, by way of conciliation, could be entered into is Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules which is being reproduced below:—

"25-A. Sections 9-A, 9-B and 9-C.—(1) The Assistant Consolidation Officer shall, as far as possible, deal with all the objections filed by a tenure-holder with regard to matters referred to in clause (i) of sub-section (1) of Section 9-A and sub-section (1) of Section 9-B in village itself. In decided dispute on the basis of conciliation in terms of sub-section (1) of Section 9-A, he shall record the terms of conciliation in the presence of at least two members of the Consolidation Committee of the village. These terms shall then be read over to the parties concerned and their signatures or thumb impressions obtained. The members of the Consolidation Committee present shall also sign the terms of conciliation specifying the precise entries to be made in the records. Details of the operative part of the orders passed by the Assistant Consolidation Officer shall be noted in the Misiband register. No ex-parte order or orders in default shall be passed by the Assistant Consolidation Officer.

(2) In all cases in which the Assistant Consolidation Officer sends a report, under the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 9-A, or sub-section (1) of Section 9-B to the Consolidation Officer for disposal, he may fix a date and place for the disposal of the cases by the Consolidation Officer and communicate the same to the parties present before him and issue notices in C.H. Form 6-A to the parties not so present. The report of the Assistant Consolidation Officer in such cases clearly brings out the points in dispute between the parties and the efforts made by him to reconcile them."

11. The quintessence of the above rule i.e. Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules at the risk of repetition is that at the stage of Assistant Consolidation Officer conciliation may take place in terms of sub-section (1) of Section 9-A and sub-section (1) of Section 9-B and Assistant Consolidation Officer shall record terms of conciliation in the presence of two members of Consolidation Committee. The terms shall then be read over to the parties concerned and their signature and thumb impression shall be obtained. The members of Consolidation Committee shall also sign the terms of conciliation and then Assistant Consolidation Officer shall pass orders deciding dispute in terms of conciliation. The details of the operative part of the order passed by the Assistant Consolidation Officer, it is further envisaged in the Rule, shall be noted in the Misiband Register. No ex parte order or order in default shall be passed by the Assistant Consolidation Officer. All disputed cases received from the Assistant Consolidation Officer shall be entered in the Misiband Register in the office of the Consolidation Officer and the Consolidation Officer shall hear the parties, frame issues on the points in issue and take evidence and then decide the dispute. In the case of partition in case any objection is filed, the Consolidation Officer shall proceed with the partition, only after recording reasons in writing if he considers it in the interest of better consolidation.

12. There is no provision under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act or Rules framed thereunder by which provisions of O. XXIII, R. 3 of C.P.C. have been made applicable to consolidation proceedings. The intention of the Legislature while enacting U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act was development of agriculture land as is eloquent from the preamble of the Act.

13. As stated supra, the only provision under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act and the Rules framed thereunder for conciliation is Rule 25-A. Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules, as discussed above, provides that a person could get his rights settled through conciliation in case his rights are recognised by a statute. A person cannot get any right settled or declared in conciliation proceedings under Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidations of Holdings Rules if his rights are not recognised by statute. The intention of Legislature while framing Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules clearly is that the parties may not be drawn into avoidable and unnecessary litigation relating to their legitimate rights created under U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and for correction of the entries in the revenue records. Intention of Legislature while enacting Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules is clear and a person cannot get any right under Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules which was never created and recognised by the statute under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act on abolition of Zamindari or under any other subsequent amendment of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act. A tenure-holder could get his legitimate right of co-tenancy in case land was acquired by common ancestors or jointly by way of reconciliation. Similarly, if an entry in the joint name of a number of tenure-holders is incorrectly recorded, parties may get the entry corrected by conciliation under Rule 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules setting the matter/rights by mutual partition or by recognising family settlement already taken place and already acted upon by the parties to get the entry corrected accordingly. But a tenure-holder cannot get any exclusive right in a proceeding under Section 25-A of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules unless such Rules are recognised by statute.

14. In 1976 (2) R.D. 69, Kale v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, it has been held by the Supreme Court that family arrangements acted upon by parties could be recognised by the consolidation authorities as family arrangement operates as estoppels against parties having taken benefit thereunder.

15. There is no provision under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act for compromise at any of the stage of consolidation proceedings either under Sections 9-A, 9-B, 11, 20, 21 or Section 48 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. Though under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, the provisions of C.P.C. are made applicable by virtue of Section 341 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and in appropriate cases in the suits arising out of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, a compromise could be entered into.

16. Under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, provisions of C.P.C. are not made applicable like Section 341 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and as such there is no provision of compromise under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, but in order to secure interest of justice and cut short litigation, rights recognised by statute may be settled by mutual agreement before any Consolidation authority other than Assistant Consolidation Officer. Procedure prescribed under the C.P.C. are not applicable to consolidation proceedings, but if an agreement was entered into which was not contrary to the rights conferred by the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, such agreement in which all the parties including State joined may be legitimately relied upon by the Consolidation authorities. Thus, a tenure-holder who did not have any right under the statute could not get any right by way of compromise or settlement.

17. Order XXIII, Rule 3 of the C.P.C. is being reproduced below:—

"3. Compromise of suit.— Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that a suit has been adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise (in writing and signed by the parties), or where the defendant satisfies the plaintiff in respect of the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the suit, the Court shall order such agreement, compromise or satisfaction to be recorded, and shall pass a decree in accordance therewith (so far as it relates to the parties to the suit, whether or not the subject-matter of the agreement, compromise or satisfaction is the same as the subject-matter of the suit).

(Provided that where it is alleged by one party and denied by the other that an adjustment or satisfaction has been arrived at, the Court shall decide the question; but no adjournment shall be granted for the purpose of deciding the question, unless the Court, for reason to be recorded, thinks fit to grant such adjournment.)

Explanation— An agreement or compromise which is void or voidable under the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (9 of 1872), shall not be deemed to be lawful within the meaning of this rule.)"

18. Since right of a tenure-holder in land is a creation of statute under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act and these rights are declared or adjudicated by the Consolidation authorities for the area where the notification under S. 4 of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act is made, only such statutory rights already in existence in favour of a person could be recognised through a lawful agreement or compromise in consolidation proceedings. A right which does not accrue to a person under the provisions of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act or any other provision of law could not be recognised by any agreement or compromise in the consolidation proceedings. Thus, it is held that if a person had no right under the statute any such right could not be recognised or admitted by a compromise or a new right could not be created through compromise or conciliation.

19. It is clear from the law laid down by the Supreme Court in AIR 1961 SC 1790, Rana Sheo Ambar Singh v. The Allahabad Bank Ltd., Allahabad that Bhumidhari rights in all the estates vested in the State is a new statutory right under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act. Relevant portion of the judgment is being reproduced below:—

"(7)…… We are of opinion that the proprietary rights in sir and khudkashat land and in grove land have vested in the State and what is conferred on the intermediary by S. 18 is a new right altogether which he never had and which could not therefore have been mortgaged in 1914."

20. In view of the discussions made above, as in the present case there is no such family arrangement acted upon between the parties in which parties have taken benefit as claimed by the petitioners, the Deputy Director of Consolidation rightly set aside the compromise and orders passed by the Consolidation Officer and the Assistant Settlement Officer, Consolidation. Finding recorded by the Deputy Director of Consolidation does not suffer from any error of law apparent on the face of record in holding that the compromise relied upon by petitioner was not lawful. Impugned order was rightly passed in accordance with law. The questions framed above are decided accordingly."

19. In the cases of Babu vs. Abdul Shakoor, MANU/UP/1922/2018 : 2018 (139) R.D. 36 and Smt. Basmati vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others, MANU/UP/4072/2019 : 2019 (145) RD 832, this Court observed that compromise will not be treated valid, in case, it takes place in violation of provisions under Rule 25-A of the U.P.C.H. Rules.

20. In the case of Budh Lal and Anr. v. Dy. Director of Consolidation and ors., MANU/UP/0688/1982 : 1982 AWC 447

(DB), this Court observed that co-option under U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act is not permissible.

21. Considered the observations made in the above referred judgments and the compromise on record, annexed as annexure no. 6, which does not bear signature of members of Consolidation Committee though the same is required as per Rule 25A of the Rules of 1954 also that a tenure holder/person could get his/her rights settled by way of conciliation in case his/her rights are recognized by a statute and cannot get any right settled or declared in conciliation proceedings under Rule 25-A of the Rules of 1954, if his/her rights are not recognized by statute and Section 171(2) of the Act of 1950.

22. Upon due consideration of aforesaid, this Court finds no force in claim of the petitioner based upon the compromise.

23. For the reasons aforesaid, this Court is of the view that the present petition is liable to be dismissed. Accordingly, the present petition is dismissed. No order as to costs.

Civil Law - U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901 - Sections 210, 219 - Mutation Proceedings - U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 - U.P. Urban Area Zamindari Abolition Act, 1956 - U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 - Civil Court Decree - Perpetual Injunction - Petitioners' mutation order dated 27.8.1990 in their favor as legal heirs of deceased tenure holder upheld, having attained finality. Subsequent mutation proceedings initiated by Nagar Palika Parishad (now Nagar Nigam Saharanpur) based on alleged sale deed of 7.5.1963, without challenging earlier mutation order, unsustainable. Civil Court decree in Suit No. 276 of 1993, affirmed up to Supreme Court, rejected Nagar Palika's claim under alleged sale deed, confirming petitioners' title and possession. Substantial delay of 28 years in initiating mutation by Nagar Palika casts doubt on validity of sale deed. Impugned orders dated 30.10.2006 (Board of Revenue), 30.9.1993 (Additional Commissioner), and 7.7.1993 (Tehsildar) set aside as they ignored prior final mutation order and civil court findings. 1. Shardul Ranjan & ors. Vs Deputy Director of Consolidation & ors., 2015 (129) RD 495 (Para 14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Mohit Kumar holding the brief of Mr. Ajit Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Rajesh Kumar Tiwari, learned Additional Chief Standing

Counsel for the State-respondents and Mr. Vivek Mishra, learned counsel appearing for respondent no.2-Nagar Palika Parishad now Nagar Nigam Saharanpur.

2. Brief facts of the case are that petitioners' father Tahir Hasan was the Zamindar of the plot situated in Khewat No.6/1 and 6/2 Mahalgar Daiyan, Village-Khan Alampura, Pergana, Tehsil and District Saharanpur. The aforementioned plots were situated initially under Nagar Palika Parisahd Saharanpur now Nagar Nigam Saharanpur. In the khatauni of 1371 fasli (1963-64) the plots were recorded as khudcast of petitioners' father Tahir Hasan and entry continued till the death of Tahir Hasan which took place on 15.12.1977. Petitioners being son of Tahir Hasan (recorded tenure holder) applied for mutation and Tehsildar passed an order for mutation on 19.9.1981 for recording the names of petitioners in the place of deceased Tahir Hasan. Against the order of mutation dated 19.9.1981 Nagar Palika Parisahd Saharanpur filed a restoration application which was allowed on 13.6.1984 and mutation case was restored on 13.6.1984 for fresh adjudication on merit. Tehsildar again heard the matter in presence of Nagar Palika who set up his case on the basis of sale deed alleged to be executed on 7.5.1963 in favour of Nagar Palika by Tahir Hasan and vide detailed order dated 27.8.1990 directed that petitioners are entitled to be recorded in the place of their father Tahir Hasan as petitioners are in possession over the plots in dispute and Nagar Palika Parisahd has not taken any steps for recording his name on the basis of sale deed executed long back in the year 1963. Appeal filed by Nagar Palika Parisahd under Section 210 of U.P. Land Revenue Act was dismissed on 14.8.1991 by Sub Divisional Officer. Revision under Section 219 of U.P. Land Revenue Act filed by Nagar Palika Parisahd was dismissed on 6.2.1992 by Additional Commissioner Meerut Division Meerut. Nagar Palika Parisahd applied for fresh mutation of his name in the year 1991 after 29 years on the basis of sale deed alleged to be executed by Tahir Hasan on 7.5.1963 which was allowed by Tehsildar vide order dated 22.12.1992 in arbitrary manner without affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioners as well as without setting aside the earlier mutation order passed in favour of petitioners as earlier mutation order passed in favour of petitioners had attained finality. Petitioners applied for restoration against the order dated 22.12.1992 which was set aside on 17.3.1993 and the case was restored for fresh decision. Tehsildar vide subsequent order dated 7.7.1993 again allowed the application of Nagar Palika Parisahd filed on 7.7.1993 and restored the earlier exparte mutation order dated 22.12.1992. Petitioners challenged the order dated 7.7.1993 through revision before Commissioner which was dismissed on 30.9.1993 by Additional Commissioner. A revision under Section 219 of U.P. Land Revenue Act was filed on behalf of petitioners before Board of Revenue which was entertained on 20.10.1993 and interim was also granted. Board of Revenue finally heard the revision filed by petitioners and dismissed the same vide order dated 30.10.2006, hence, this writ petition on behalf of the petitioners challenging the impugned order dated 30.10.2006, 30.9.1993 and 7.7.1993.

3. This court entertained the matter on 20.12.2006 and granted interim order which runs as follows :-

"Hon'ble Anjani Kumar, J.

Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned standing counsel for respondent nos.1, 3, 4, 5 and 6 as well as Sri C.K. Parekh, learned counsel for the respondent no.2. Sri Parekh prays for and is granted three weeks time to file a counter affidavit. The petitioner will have two weeks thereafter to file rejoinder affidavit.

List thereafter.

Till the next date of listing, if the petitioners are in possession of the land in dispute, shall not be dispossessed."

4. In pursuance of the order dated 20.12.2006 respondent no.2 has filed his counter affidavit and petitioners filed their rejoinder affidavit also.

5. Mr. Vivek Mishra, advocate, has filed his vakalatnama on 25.3.2022 signed by U.P. Nagar Ayukt Nagar Nigam Saharanpur as the plot in dispute has came under Nagar Nigam.

6. On behalf of petitioners a supplementary affidavit dated 15.5.2023 annexing the judgment passed by civil court dated 15.2.2007 and 24.5.2009, High Court dated 24.5.2011 as well as Hon'ble Supreme Court dated 8.5.2020 in which the civil court has passed injunction decree in favour of petitioners in respect of the same property considering the case set up by Nagar Palika on the basis of sale deed alleged to be executed on 7.5.1963. In respect of civil proceeding the facts are that petitioner no.1 Jakir Hasan filed a Suit No.276 of 1993 impleading Nagar Palika Parisahd and others as defendants for decree of of perpetual injunction, mandatory injunction as well as for damages in respect to same Khasra No.25 area 1.577 hectare which was decreed by trial court after framing issues and giving parties to lead evidence. In the aforementioned suit Nagar Palika Parisahd has set up his plea on the basis of alleged sale deed dated 7.5.1963 which was not accepted by trial court. The Civil Appeal No.10 of 2007 filed by Nagar Palika Parisahd was dismissed with cost by well reasoned judgment and decree dated 25.4.2009. The Second Appeal No.759 of 2009 filed by Nagar Palika Parisahd before this court was also dismissed by detailed judgment dated 24.5.2011 considering the various provisions of U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939, U.P. Urban Area Zamindari Abolition Act and U.P. Zamindari Abolition 1956 and Land Reforms Act, 1950. The special leave to appeal (civil) No(s)26210 of 2011 filed by Nagar Palika Parisahd before Hon'ble Apex Court was dismissed as withdrawn vide order dated 30.9.2011 with liberty to file review application before High Court. Review Application No.356417 of 2011 filed by Nagar Palika Parisahd now Nagar Nigam Saharanpur was rejected by this Court vide order dated 4.2.2013. Nagar Nigam further Special Leave to Appeal (C) No.25602-25603 of 2013 before Hon'ble Apex Court which was dismissed vide order dated 24.8.2016. Nagar Nigam further filed a Review Petition (C) No.3844-3845 of 2016 before Hon'ble Apex Court which was dismissed on 17.1.2017 and Curative Petition filed by Nagar Nigam was also dismissed on 8.5.2020.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that petitioner was ordered to be recorded in place of his father on 27.08.1990. He further submitted that the appeal filed by the respondent no.2/Nagar Palika Parisahd against the mutation order dated 27.08.1990, was dismissed by appellate Court on 14.08.1991. He further submitted that revision filed under Section 219 of U.P Land Revenue Act against the appellate order was also dismissed on 06.02.1992. He further submitted that order of mutation was passed in favour of the petitioner has attained finality. He further submitted that respondent no.2-Nagar Palika Parisahd initiated a separate mutation proceeding on the basis of sale-deed alleged to be executed on 7.5.1963 by the petitioners' father and without affording proper opportunity of hearing to the petitioners, the mutation order was passed in favour of respondent no.2-Nagar Palika Parisahd. Counsel for the petitioner applied for restoration, appeal as well as revision, which have been dismissed by the Court concerned without considering the fact that earlier mutation order passed in respect to the property in question has not been challenged by anybody, as such, the subsequent mutation proceeding in respect to the same property cannot be entertained and allowed. He further submitted that civil suit for injunction filed by the petitioners being Suit No.276 of 1993 impleading the Nagar Palika Parisahd and others was decreed by trial Court, vide judgment and decree dated 15.02.2007, restraining the defendants from interfering in the peaceful possession of the petitioners, in any manner. He further placed issues framed in the suit in order to demonstrate that title of the plaintiffs-petitioners was examined and considering the title of the petitioners in respect to the plot in question, the decree was passed by the Civil Court. He further submitted that Nagar Palika Parisahd challenged the judgment and decree dated 15.02.2007 in appeal and ultimately special leave to appeal filed by Nagar Palika Parisahd before the Hon'ble Apex Court was dismissed affirming the judgment and decree passed by the Civil Court in Civil Suit No.276 of 1993. He further submitted that in view of the adjudication of the dispute by the Civil Court, the impugned order of mutation passed in favour of respondent no.2-Nagar Palika Parisahd be set aside and petitioners' mutation order dated 27.08.1990, be maintained.

8. On the other hand, Mr. Vivek Mishra appearing for Nagar Nigam/NagarPalika Parisahd and Mr. Rajesh Kumar Tiwari, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents, submitted that writ petition arises out of mutation proceeding, as such, the same is not maintainable. They further submitted that civil suit was filed for perpetual and mandatory injunction but the sale-deed of Nagar Palika Parisahd has not been cancelled, as such, mutation order passed in favour of respondent no.2 cannot be set aside. They further submitted that petitioners should file a suit for declaration of their right before appropriate Court.

9. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

10. There is no dispute about the fact that after the death of Tahir Hussain, petitioners were ordered to be recorded being legal heirs of deceased on 27.08.1990 and the mutation order was maintained in appeal as well as revision. There is also no dispute about the fact that separate mutation proceeding was initiated by respondent no.2-Nagar Palika Parisahd, which was decided in favour of Nagar Palika Parisahd but there was no challenge to the mutation order passed in favour of the petitioners. There is also no dispute about the fact that civil suit for perpetual injunction, mandatory injunction and damages filed by the petitioners in respect to the same property in dispute was decreed by the trial Court and the decree has been maintained up to the Hon'ble Apex Court.

11. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, the perusal of the relevant portion of the decree passed in Civil Suit No.276 of 1993 will be necessary, which is being produced as under :-

12. It is very material that Civil Court has considered the case set up by Nagar Palika Parisahd on the basis of sale deed alleged to be executed on 7.5.1963 and recorded finding of fact that no right will accrue to Nagar Palika Parisahd on the basis of alleged sale deed considering the provisions contained under U.P. Tenancy ACt 1939, U.P. Urban Area Zamindari Abolition Act 1956, U.P. Zamindari Abolition Act, 1950. The judgment of trial court has been further maintained in appeal as well as second appeal by well reasoned and well considered judgement on every issues i.e. title as well as possession etc. The Hon'ble Apex Court has also maintained the judgment of all the three courts.

13. It is also material that Nagar Palika Parisahd has not taken any steps to record his name in the revenue record till 1991 on the basis of sale deed alleged to be executed on 7.5.1963, in favour of Nagar Palika Parisahd by petitioner's father. Tahir Hasan, petitioner's father expired on 15.12.1977 but Nagar Palika Parisahd has not applied for mutation till 1991 i.e. for about 28 years. In the mutation proceeding initiated by petitioners Nagar Palika Parisahd contested the matter but Tehsildar has ordered to record the name of petitioners being legal heir of deceased tenure holder Tahir Hasan vide order dated 27.8.1990 which has attained finality as such Tehsildar can not further order of mutation in respect to same property without setting aside the earlier order of mutation.

14. It also relevant to mention that although there is no limitation for filing mutation application but substantial delay of 28 years in initiating the proceeding for mutation on the basis of sale deed creates doubt about the document in question as held by this court in the case reported in 2015 (129) RD 495 Shardul Ranjan and others vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others. Court of Tehsildar as sell as Civil Court has considered the case set up by Nagar Palika Parisahd on the basis of alleged sale deed which requires no further interference by this Court.

15. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case the impugned orders dated 30.10.2006 passed by respondent no.1/Board of Revenue, 30.9.1993 paased by Additional Commissioner, Meerut Division Meerut and 7.7.1993 passed by respondent no.5/Tehsildar Sadar, Saharanpur are liable to be set aside and the same are hereby set aside.

16. The writ petition stands allowed.

17. The mutation order dated 27.8.1990 passed by Tehsildar in favour of petitioners is hereby affirmed.

Land Acquisition – Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 – Sections 24(1)(a) & 64 – Land Acquisition Act, 1894 – Sections 11 & 17 – Applicability of 2013 Act for Compensation – Award made after 01.01.2014 – Dispute Reference to Authority

The petitioner challenged the Collector's order dated 08.07.2018, rejecting the application for referring a dispute over enhanced compensation to the Authority under Section 64 of the 2013 Act, and the award dated 26.12.2014. The land was acquired under the 1894 Act, with possession taken on 06.06.2012 and the award made on 26.12.2014, after the 2013 Act came into force. Held: As per Section 24(1)(a) of the 2013 Act, if no award was made under Section 11 of the 1894 Act before 01.01.2014, the 2013 Act's compensation provisions apply, irrespective of possession date. The Collector's rejection, based on possession under the 1894 Act, was erroneous. The prior writ court's order allowing reference under Section 64 had attained finality. The deposit of 80% estimated compensation under Section 17(3A) of the 1894 Act did not affect the petitioner's right to seek reference. The impugned order was quashed, and the Collector was directed to refer the dispute to the Authority within three weeks for expeditious adjudication.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Kumar Gupta, A.C.J.
Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. The instant petition is directed against the order dated 08.07.2018 passed by respondent No. 2, i.e., Collector/District Magistate, Sant Kabir Nagar rejecting the application of the petitioner dated 15.09.2017 for referring the dispute relating to enhancement of compensation to the Authority in terms of Section 64 of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013. The petitioner has also challenged the award of the Collector dated 26.12.2014.

2. The facts which are not in dispute are that the subject land of the petitioner bearing plot No. 530 situated at Village-Khalilabad, District-Sant Kabir Nagar was acquired under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1894"). The possession of the land was taken on 06.06.2012 followed by award dated 26.12.2014. The petitioner challenged the award in Writ - C No. 7555 of 2016 on the ground that while making the award, the principles contained in the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 2013") had not been followed. The said contention was not accepted as the award did make reference to the provisions of the Act of 2013, however, it was left open to the petitioner to seek reference under Section 64 of the Act of 2013. The petitioner, therefore, by means of application dated 15.09.2017, applied for the enhancement as per provisions of Section 64 of the Act of 2013. The said application has been rejected by the impugned order.

3. Indisputably, after the filing of the said application by the petitioner, a report was submitted by A.D.M. Finance and Revenue dated 16.12.2017 that at the relevant time, the Authority was not in existence, having not been constituted as per provisions of the Act. Therefore, it would not be possible to make the reference. It is evident from the said report that the State-respondents, at the relevant time, had no objection in referring the dispute to the Authority, but for the fact that it had not been constituted by that time.

4. However, by the impugned order, the District Magistrate has rejected the application observing that possession of the subject land was taken on 06.06.2012 and award was made on 26.12.2014. As possession was taken under the Act of 1894 and when the Act of 2013 was not applicable, therefore, the application for redetermining the compensation on the basis of new Act of 2013 is without any merits.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the impugned order suffers from manifest error of law inasmuch as the provisions of the Act of 2013 were fully applicable regard being had to the fact that no award was made until 01.01.2014. He further submits that even as per the observations made by this Court while deciding the previous writ petition of the petitioner, the respondents were under obligation to refer the dispute to the Authority as per Section 64 of the Act of 2013. It is also urged that the Collector wrongly treated the application filed by the petitioner as an application to redetermine the compensation, although, it was for making reference to the Authority as per provisions of Section 64 of the Act of 2013.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on a Division Bench judgment of this Court in Sabita Sharma vs. State of U.P., 2023 (3) AWC 3062, wherein it is held that even in case of acquisition under the Act of 1894, in case award has not been made under Section 11 of the Act of 2013, then all the provisions of the Act of 2013 relating to determination of the compensation would become applicable. He submits that it is also the mandate of Section 24(1)(a) of the Act of 2013.

7. Learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State-respondents submits that for the acquisition in question, the estimated amount of compensation was duly deposited by the Government much before the award was made. He submits that a notice was given to the petitioner to withdraw the said amount and all other affected persons, therefore, the provisions of the new Act would not apply.

8. Section 24(1) of the new Act stipulates as follows:

"24. Land acquisition process under Act No. 1 of 1894 shall be deemed to have lapsed in certain cases. - (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, in any case of land acquisition proceedings initiated under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (1 of 1894), -

(a) where no award under Section 11 of the said Land Acquisition Act has been made, then, all provisions of this Act relating to the determination of compensation shall apply; or

(b) where an award under said Section 11 has been made, then such proceedings shall continue under the provisions of the said Land Acquisition Act, as if the said Act has not been repealed."

9. Clause (a) of Sub-section (1) of Section 24 clearly mandates that where no award under Section 11 of the Act of 1894 has been made, then, all provisions of the new Act of 2013 relating to determination of compensation would apply. The applicability of the said provision is not dependent upon the fact as to whether possession has been taken or not under the provisions of the old Act. The new Act became effective from 01.01.2014. In the instant case, the award having been made on 26.12.2014, i.e., after the new Act of 2013 came into force, the provisions of Section 24(1)(a) would be applicable and the respondents were to make the award as per the principles relating to award of compensation contained in the Act of 2013.

10. Additionally, while disposing of the previous writ petition of the petitioner, this Court permitted the petitioner to seek reference under Section 64 of the Act of 2013. The previous order of the Writ Court has attained finality and, therefore, it is not open to the State respondents to contend that the reference under Section 64 of the Act of 2013 is not maintainable.

11. As far as the contention of learned State counsel that 80% of the estimated amount of compensation was deposited by the Government and the affected persons were given notices to withdraw the said amount, the same, in our opinion, will be of no consequence in so far as the right of the petitioner to seek reference is concerned. In the instant case, the respondents while issuing notification under Section 6 of the Act also invoked the power under Section 17 (1) of the Act, 1984 entitling them to take possession even before award is made. It is in view thereof that possession was taken on 6.6.2012 even before making of the award. In such an eventuality, Section

17 (3A) makes it imperative that 80% of the estimated amount of compensation is tendered to the persons interested. The said amount is taken into account while determining the amount of compensation required to be tendered under Section 31 in pursuance of the award made under Section 11 of the Act of 1894. Therefore, even if the State had deposited/tendered 80% of the estimated amount of compensation as per provisions of old Act, it would have no effect on the right of the petitioner to seek reference under Section 64 of the Act of 2013.

12. Consequently, the impugned order declining to refer the application of the petitioner relating to enhancement of compensation to the Authority on the ground that possession had been taken under the old Act is not sustainable and is hereby quashed. The Collector, i.e., respondent No. 2 is directed to refer the dispute to the Authority within three weeks from the date of communication of the instant order. The Authority will proceed to decide the reference, in accordance with law, as expeditiously as possible.

13. In the result, the petition stands allowed to the extent indicated above.

Ramesh Chandra Yadav ...Petitioner

Arbitration Law - – U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 – Section 70 – Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 – Applicability of Arbitration Clause – Non-Member of Cooperative Society – Jurisdiction of Arbitrator – Wrongful Application of Statutory Provision

The petitioner challenged the arbitrator's award dated 06.02.2017, which held the arbitration non-maintainable under Section 70 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965, as the petitioner was not a member of the cooperative society. The dispute arose from an agreement with an arbitration clause (Clause 36) between the petitioner and the fourth respondent, a cooperative society, and was referred to arbitration following a prior court order in Writ C No. 48497 of 2015. Held: Section 70 of the 1965 Act applies only to disputes involving members or cooperative societies, and thus was inapplicable to the petitioner, a non-member. The arbitration clause in the agreement mandated resolution under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, as it lacked any stipulation tying it to the 1965 Act. The arbitrator's reliance on Section 70 was erroneous, and the mention of a wrong provision in the petitioner's application did not bar the exercise of jurisdiction under the correct law. The award was set aside, and the Registrar, Fisheries Cooperative Societies, U.P., was directed to appoint a fresh arbitrator within four weeks to resolve the dispute expeditiously under the 1996 Act.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anjani Kumar Mishra, J.
Hon'ble Jayant Banerji, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Aijaz Ahmad Khan, learned counsel for the fourth respondent and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. Challenge in the writ petition is to the order dated 06.02.2017 passed by the third respondent in a dispute which was referred for arbitration, consequent to an arbitration clause in the agreement, entered into between the petitioner and fourth respondent as also consequent to order dated 11.09.2015 passed by this Court in Writ C No. 48497 of 2015 Ramesh Chandra Yadav v. Managing Director Matsya Jivi Sahkari Samiti and three others.

3. It appears that an application was filed by the petitioner seeking a reference for arbitration and for appointment of an arbitrator relying upon para graph 26 of the agreement between the parties aforesaid, as also sections 71 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act read with Section 229 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Rules, 1968.

4. The arbitrator by his Award held that the arbitration itself was not maintainable in view of Section 70 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 as he was admittedly not a member of the cooperative societies.

5. The issue that arises for consideration before this Court is as to whether invocation of Section 70 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, 1965 by the arbitrator was justified. There is nothing in the arbitration agreement which provides that the arbitration clause was to be invoked in accordance with the provisions of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act. In the absence of such stipulation any arbitration between the petitioner who is admittedly not a member of co-operative society and would necessarily be governed by the provisions of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996.

6. The other illegality pointed out by learned counsel for the petitioner is that under Clause 36 of the agreement of the parties, which is the arbitration clause, the arbitrator was required to be appointed by the Registrar, Matsya Zivi Sahkari Sangh, Lucknow. The arbitration has been resorted to by the third respondent officiating Director Fisheries, ostensibly relying upon Section 23 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act which provides for delegation of the authorities of the Registrar of the Cooperative Societies Act for State. Moreover, the term Registrar is defined in Section 2 sub-section (r) of the Act which reads as follows:

"Registrar means the person for the time being appointed as Registrar of Cooperative Societies Act Under sub section 1 of the Section 3 Rules and includes any person appointed under sub-section (2) of that Act when exercising all or any of the power of the Registrar".

7. The contract between the parties which contains the arbitration clause has been entered into between the petitioner and the fourth respondent and that the very same authority has acted as the arbitrator.

8. This argument prima facie does not appear to be correct because the arbitration agreement has been signed by the Manager, U.P. Matsya Zivi Sahkari Sangh, Lucknow and the agreement itself does not stipulate as to whether the manager was acting on behalf of any statutory authority.

9. The litigation between the parties appears to be a long drawn out litigation. Initially, the petitioner would come up before this Court by means of Writ Petition No. 48497 of 2015 which petition was dismissed on the ground of an alternative remedy relegating the petitioner to approach the arbitrator in view of Clause 36 of the agreement between the parties.

10. These arbitration initiated after the order of the court proceedings have been culminated in the order impugned.

11. The petition itself is of the year 2017 has remained pending before this Court for 05 years at least, the litigation from its inception being more than 09 years old.

12. Under the circumstances, we do not consider it appropriate to relegate the petitioner to the alternative remedy of Section 97 of the Act for two reasons. First, due to the long drawn out litigation which has already taken place between the parties and secondly because, in our considered opinion, the arbitrator has misdirected himself ostensibly on account of wrong provision having been mentioned in the application filed by the petitioner.

13. Admittedly, the petitioner is not a member of a cooperative Society. Therefore, Section 70 of the Act was not attracted as the same applies only for arbitration of disputes among members, past members and persons claiming through members, past members and deceased members; or between a co-operative society and any other co-operative society or societies.

14. Under the circumstances, Section 70 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies had no application to the arbitration and the same has wrongly been applied and the Award has been given against the petitioner holding the arbitration proceedings to be, not maintainable.

15. In our considered opinion, any two parties can, by a prior agreement, opt to get any dispute between them, decided by an arbitrator. This is precisely the position of the case at hand. Therefore, we are constrained to hold that the arbitration proceedings should have been resorted to in accordance with provisions of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1960 and not in accordance with Section 70 of the U.P Co-operative Societies Act.

16. It is no doubt true that the petitioner in his application for arbitration has invoked the provisions of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act. However, it is settled law that mere mention of a wrong provision is not a fetter to the exercise of a jurisdiction/power which otherwise, exists.

17. In view of the above, we set aside the Award on the ground that arbitrator has completely misdirected himself and has applied provisions, namely Section 70 of the U.P. Cooperative Societies Act, which in the facts and circumstances of the case, had no application at all.

18. We issue a further direction to the second respondent, Registrar, Fishries Cooperative Societies, U.P. at Lucknow, to appoint a fresh arbitrator within a period of four weeks from the date of certified copy of this order is filed before him, who may thereafter proceed to decide the dispute between the parties, as expeditiously, as possible.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Faiz Alam Khan, J.)

1. Heard Shri Purnendu Chakraborty assisted by Shri Shivendra Shivam Singh Rathore and Shri Sachin Upadhyay, learned counsels for the applicant, Shri Rajesh Kumar Singh, learned A.G.A.-I for the State as well as Shri Pramod Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the informant/ complainant and perused the record.

2. This application has been filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. by the applicant-Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh for quashing of the order dated 10.01.2024, passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-III (MP/ MLA), Lucknow in Complaint Case No. 80654/ 2023 (Dr. Mohd. Kamran Vs. Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh), whereby the applicant has been summoned to face trial U/S 500 I.P.C.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the trial Court has passed the impugned order without application of mind and simply on the basis of recording of the statement of the complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and of his witnesses recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C., the applicant/ accused person has been summoned to face trial for committing offence under Section 500 I.P.C.

4. It is vehemently submitted that while summoning an accused person to face trial under Section 204 Cr.P.C., the trial Court was obliged to record sufficient grounds for proceeding further and the impugned order passed by the trial Court has been passed so carelessly that the trial Court has failed to record any reasons, which may even remotely describe the sufficiency of grounds.

5. It is further submitted the trial Court has also not considered the amended provision of Section 202 Cr.P.C. whereby it is obligatory on the part of the trial Court to either enquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by any other person for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient grounds for proceeding as the applicant/ accused was a resident of another district. Thus, the trial Court has failed in ascertaining the facts and circumstances of the case as well as the sufficiency of material which may warrant the summoning of the applicant for committing the offence under Section 500 I.P.C.

6. It is also submitted that letters, which are stated to have been written by the applicant are confidential documents and there is no iota of evidence or material which may even remotely suggest that it was the applicant who had leaked these papers in the media and there is also no material or evidence which may suggest that on the basis of these letters, the recognition of the newspaper of the complainant was cancelled.

7. While drawing the attention of this Court towards the two newspapers cuttings, which have been placed on record, it is submitted that two other defamation complaint cases were filed by the applicant and the summoning order passed in both these complaints was challenged by filing application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.7123 of 2023 and 8636 of 2023 and vide orders dated 25.07.2023 and 29.08.2023, the proceedings of one case were stayed and in another case, the order pertaining to taking no coercive action was passed.

8. It is further submitted that the complainant/ opposite party No.2 is in a habit of filing frivolous complaints and in this regard when he filed a writ petition bearing Misc. Bench No.1303 of 2014, the same was dismissed by this Court with the cost of Rs. 1 lakh. It is also highlighted that applicant is also in a habit of blackmailing people and a criminal case against him was also lodged at police station- Hazaratganj.

9. It is further submitted that even if the case of the complainant is taken on its face, the same is covered under 8th Exception of Section 499 of I.P.C., as the applicant is a public representative and is duty bound to bring in knowledge any accusation against any person in the knowledge of those who are having lawful authority over the person with regard to subject matter of accusation.

10. It is further submitted that the summoning of the applicant has been passed in disregard to the settled principles of summoning an accused person to face trial and is an abuse of process of law and the same be set aside and proceedings of the Court below be quashed.

11. Reliance has been placed in this regard has been placed on the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar and Anr. MANU/SC/1655/2016 : (2017) 3 SCC 528, Bansilal S. Kabra Vs. Global Trade Finance Limited and Anr. Passed by Bombay High Court in Criminal Application No.1344 of 2010 of date 16.1.2024, M/S Iveco Magirus Brandschutztechnik GMBH Vs. Nirmal Kishore Bhartiya & Anr. 2023 LiveLaw (SC) 860, National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz and Anr. MANU/SC/1123/2012 : (2013) 2 SCC 488 as well as a single Judge judgment of this Court passed in leading application U/s 482 No. 6048 of 2019 of dated 22.12.2023 and Vijay Bharadwaj and Others Vs. State of U.P. passed by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in Application U/S 482 No.2430 of 2021 of date 03.01.2023.

12. Learned AGA on the other hand submits that since it is a complaint case, it is for this Court to assess the propriety of the order passed by the trial Court.

13. Shri Pramod Kumar Shukla, learned counsel appearing for the informant/ complainant vehemently submits that complainant is enrolled on the rolls of Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh and regularly appears as an Advocate before this Court as well as before the District and Sessions Court, Central Administrative Tribunal and is also a member of Oudh Bar Association, Lucknow and in the light of Rule 51 of Bar Council of India, he is also having the status of a freelance journalist and is engaged in the profession for about 25 years and performing his duties with utmost honesty, sincerity, devotion and dedication.

14. It is further submitted that three criminal cases have been filed against the applicant on the instance of one Dayashankar, who happens to be a PCS Officer and applicant has highlighted his misdeeds with regard to official embezzlement and corrupt practices committed by him in his service tenure and due to this reason, three criminal cases have been lodged against him and the criminal history of the applicant has been explained in para No.6 of the counter affidavit.

15. It is vehemently submitted that applicant/ accused through various letters written to the Hon'ble Chief Minister and Chief Secretary of Uttar Pradesh and by circulating these letters in print media and digital media platforms harmed and tarnished the reputation of the complainant.

16. It is further submitted that the applicant/ accused in his letter as termed the complainant/ opposite party No.2 as a blackmailer and has also written letters to the aforesaid authorities whereby the reputation of the complainant/ opposite party No.2 has been spoiled in the eyes of his well wishers, family members, relatives and friends.

17. It is also submitted that these letters written by the accused/ applicant were also printed in some newspapers, which has caused serious harm, loss and damage to his reputation and the same has spoiled his name and reputation in the eyes of his friends, relatives and general public as these allegations of blackmailing were totally false.

18. It is also submitted that these defamatory letters were published on digital media i.e. Bhadasformedia.com and in support of the complaint, the complainant has produced a copy of these letters along with complaint and also testified himself and two of his witnesses, namely, Anil Kumar Singh and Ajai Kumar and the trial Court after considering the sufficient grounds had summoned the applicant to face trail and thus, no illegality has been committed therein by the trial Court.

19. It is further submitted that at the stage of summoning, only a prima facie case and sufficient grounds are required to be seen and meticulous exercise of appreciation of evidence is required to be done.

20. Reliance in this regard has been placed on the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in ShivJee Singh Vs. Nagendra Tiwary and others passed in Criminal Appeal No.1158 of 2010 decided on 06.07.2010 arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 1416 of 2009 and Rameshbhai Pandurao Hedau Vs. State of Gujarat (2010) 4 SCC 185.

21. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, it is relevant to have a glance on the factual matrix of the case. The case of the complainant appears to be that two letters of date 25.09.2022 were written by the applicant/ accused persons to the Hon'ble Chief Minister and Chief Secretary of Uttar Pradesh and the language used therein is defamatory so far as the applicant is concerned. A copy of the complaint has been placed on record, which would demonstrate that the substance of both these letters have been placed in the complaint itself in para no.9 of the complaint wherein it is stated that various criminal cases pertaining to hatching conspiracy of exhortation, intimidation, theft and of molestation are registered against the complainant in different police stations and various newspapers have been registered by complainant giving different addresses and also that while he was pursuing his LLB, he was acting as a full fledged freelance journalist. It is also written in one of the letter described in para No.9 of the complaint, a copy of which has also been enclosed with the complaint that the complainant is making frivolous complaints against Veena Traders and also spreading false news against above Veena Traders on different whatsapp groups and an Officer, namely, Dayashankar had lodged an F.I.R. against him pertaining to blackmailing and the complainant by taking bribe money from the competitors of Veena Traders is placing wrong facts before local administration. The complainant in support of the allegations apart from producing the copy of the letters has also placed on record, the photocopy of two newspapers as well as print out of social media platforms and got his statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. as also of his witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C. The complainant/ opposite party No.2 in his statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. has stated that the applicant Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh in his various letters has addressed him as a conspirator, thief and have also circulated these letter in different social media platforms and newspapers and by doing this, an attempt has been made to tarnish his image and reputation. The opposite party No.2/ complainant has also produced two witnesses, namely, Anil Kumar Singh and Ajai Kumar, who had stated that they have seen these letters on social medial platforms and these letters were written with the intention of tarnishing the image and reputation of the complainant / opposite party No.2.

22. The trial Court by passing a short order of one page has summoned the applicant/ accused to face trial for committing offence under Section 500 I.P.C. It is also important at this stage to have a glance on the relevant provision of Section 499 I.P.C.:-

" Section 499:- Defamation

Whoever, by words either spoken or intended to be read, or by signs or by visible representations, makes or publishes any imputation concerning any person intending to harm, or knowing or having reason to believe that such imputation will harm, the reputation of such person, is said, except in the cases hereinafter excepted, to defame that person.

First Exception.— Imputation of truth which public good requires to be made or published.— It is not defamation to impute anything which is true concerning any person, if it be for the public good that the imputation should be made or published. Whether or not it is for the public good is a question of fact.

Second Exception.— Public conduct of public servants.— It is not defamation to express in a good faith any opinion whatever respecting the conduct of a public servant in the discharge of his public functions, or respecting his character, so far as his character appears in that conduct, and no further.

Third Exception.— Conduct of any person touching any public question*.— It is not defamation to express*

Fourth Exception.— Publication of reports of proceedings of Courts*.— It is not defamation to publish substantially true report of the proceedings of a Court of Justice, or of the result of any such proceedings.*

Fifth Exception.— Merits of case decided in Court or conduct of witnesses and others concerned.— It is not defamation to express in good faith any opinion whatever respecting the merits of any case, civil or criminal, which has been decided by a Court of Justice, or respecting the conduct of any person as a party, witness or agent, in any such case, or respecting the character of such person, as far as his character appears in that conduct, and no further.

Ninth Exception.— Imputation made in good faith by person for protection of his or other's interests*.— It is not defamation to make an imputation on the character of another provided that the imputation be made in good faith for the protection of the interests of the person making it, or of any other person, or for the public good.*

Tenth Exception.— Caution intended for good of person to whom conveyed or for public good*.— It is not defamation to convey a caution, in good faith, to one person against another, provided that such caution be intended for the good of the person to whom it is conveyed, or of some person in whom that person is interested, or for the public good."*

23. The law with regard to the fact as to what is responsibility of the Trial Court while summoning a proposed accused in a complaint case, is now no more res integra and the same has been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the following cases:-

"9. In G.H.C.L. Employees Stock Option Trust VS. India Infalin Ltd. 2013 (4) SCC 505, it was emphasized by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that "summoning of accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Hence, criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. The Magistrate has to record his satisfaction with regard to the existence of a prima facie case on the basis of specific allegations made in the complaint supported by satisfactory evidence and other material on record."

10. In AIR 1998 S. C . 128 , M/s. Pepsi Foods Ltd. and another v. Special Judicial Magistrate and others it was held as under:-

"Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. Magistrate has to carefully scrutinize the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

11. In AIR 2012 SUPREME COURT 1747 "Bhushan Kumar and Anr v. State (NCT of Delhi) and Anr" Hon'ble Apex Court has held that:-

"10. Section 204 of the Code does not mandate the Magistrate to explicitly state the reasons for issuance of summons. It clearly states that if in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, then the summons may be issued. This section mandates the Magistrate to form an opinion as to whether there exists a sufficient ground for summons to be issued but it is nowhere mentioned in the section that the explicit narration of the same is mandatory, meaning thereby that it is not a pre-requisite for deciding the validity of the summons issued."

12. In AIR 1976 SUPREME COURT 1947, Smt. Nagawwa Vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi & others*, it is held by The Apex Court that:-*

"It is well settled by a long catena of decisions of this Court that at the stage of issuing process the Magistrate is mainly concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence led in support of the same and he is only to be prima facie satisfied whether there are sufficient grounds for proceedings against the accused. It is not the province of the Magistrate to enter into a detailed discussion of the merit or de-merits of the case nor can the High Court go into this matter in its revisional jurisdiction which is a very limited one."

"4.It would thus be clear from the two decisions of this Court that the scope of the inquiry under Section 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is extremely limited - limited only to the ascertainment of the truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint - (i) on the materials placed by the complainant before the Court; (ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process has been made out; and (iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the accused may have. In fact it is well settled that in proceedings under Section 202 the accused has got absolutely no locus standi and is not entitled to be heard on the question whether the process should be issued against him or not."

"It is true that in coming to a decision as to whether a process should be issued the Magistrate can take into consideration inherent improbabilities appearing on the face of the complaint or in the evidence led by the complainant in support of the allegations but there appears to be a very thin line of demarcation between a probability of conviction of the accused and establishment of a primafacie case against him. The Magistrate has been given an undoubted discretion in the matter and the discretion has to be judicially exercised by him. Once the Magistrate has exercised his discretion it is not for the High Court, or even the Supreme Court, to substitute its own discretion for that of the Magistrate or to examine the case on merits with a view to find out whether or not the allegations in the complaint, if proved, would ultimately end in conviction of the accused. These considerations are totally foreign to the scope and ambit of an inquiry under Section 202 which culminates into an order under Section 204. Thus in the following cases an order of the Magistrate issuing process against the accused can be quashed or set aside:

(1) Where the allegations made in the complaint or the statement of the witness recorded in support of the same taken at their face value make out absolutely no case against the accused or the complaint does not disclose the essential ingredients of an offence which is alleged against the accused;

(2) where the allegations made in the complaint are patently absurd and inherently improbable so that no prudent person can ever reach a conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused;

(3) where the discretion exercised by the Magistrate in issuing process is capricious and arbitrary having been based either on no evidence or on materials which are wholly irrelevant or inadmissible and

(4) where the complaint suffers from fundamental legal defects, such as, want of sanction, or absence of a complaint by legally competent authority and the like."

13. In AIR 2015 SUPREME COURT 923, Sunil Bharti Mittal v. Central Bureau of Investigation (Three Judges Bench), Hon,ble Apex Court held as under:

"45. On the other hand, Section 204 of the Code deals with the issue of process, if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. This Section relates to commencement of a criminal proceeding. If the Magistrate taking cognizance of a case (it may be the Magistrate receiving the complaint or to whom it has been transferred under Section 192), upon a consideration of the materials before him (i.e., the complaint, examination of the complainant and his witnesses if present, or report of inquiry, if any), thinks that there is a prima facie case for proceeding in respect of an offence, he shall issue process against the accused.

46. A wide discretion has been given as to grant or refusal of process and it must be judicially exercised. A person ought not to be dragged into Court merely because a complaint has been filed. If a prima facie case has been made out, the Magistrate ought to issue process and it cannot be refused merely because he thinks that it is unlikely to result in a conviction.

47. However, the words "sufficient grounds for proceeding" appearing in the Section are of immense importance. It is these words which amply suggest that an opinion is to be formed only after due application of mind that there is sufficient basis for proceeding against the said accused and formation of such an opinion is to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reason is given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is prima facie case against accused, though the order need not contain detailed reasons. A fortiori, the order would be bad-in-law if the reason given turns out to be ex facie incorrect.""

24. Learned counsel for the complainant has relied on the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Abhijit Pawar (supra) and the relevant paragraphs of the same is reproduced as under:-

"23. Admitted position in law is that in those cases where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, it is mandatory on the part of the Magistrate to conduct an enquiry or investigation before issuing the process. Section 202 CrPC was amended in the year 2005 by the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2005, with effect from 22-6-2006 by adding the words "and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction". There is a vital purpose or objective behind this amendment, namely, to ward off false complaints against such persons residing at a far-off places in order to save them from unnecessary harassment. Thus, the amended provision casts an obligation on the Magistrate to conduct enquiry or direct investigation before issuing the process, so that false complaints are filtered and rejected. The aforesaid purpose is specifically mentioned in the note appended to the Bill proposing the said amendment.

24. The essence and purpose of this amendment has been captured by this Court in Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj [Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, (2014) 14 SCC 638 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 479] in the following words: (SCC p. 644, paras 11-12)

"11. Section 202 of the Code, inter alia, contemplates postponement of the issue of the process 'in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction' and thereafter to either inquire into the case by himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit. In the face of it, what needs our determination is as to whether in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, inquiry is mandatory or not.

12. The words 'and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction' were inserted by Section 19 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act (Central Act 25 of 2005) w.e.f. 23-6-2006. The aforesaid amendment, in the opinion of the legislature, was essential as false complaints are filed against persons residing at far-off places in order to harass them. The note for the amendment reads as follows:

'False complaints are filed against persons residing at far-off places simply to harass them. In order to see that innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.'

The use of the expression "shall" prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate."

25. For this reason, the amended provision casts an obligation on the Magistrate to apply his mind carefully and satisfy himself that the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the enquiry conducted thereon, would prima facie constitute the offence for which the complaint is filed. This requirement is emphasised by this Court in a recent judgment Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda [Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124] in the following words: (SCC pp. 429-30, paras 20 & 22)

"20. The extensive reference to the case law would clearly show that cognizance of an offence on complaint is taken for the purpose of issuing process to the accused. Since it is a process of taking judicial notice of certain facts which constitute an offence, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the inquiry conducted thereon, would constitute violation of law so as to call a person to appear before the criminal court. It is not a mechanical process or matter of course. As held by this Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Judicial Magistrate [Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Judicial Magistrate, (1998) 5 SCC 749 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1400] to set in motion the process of criminal law against a person is a serious matter.

22. The steps taken by the Magistrate under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC followed by Section 204 CrPC should reflect that the Magistrate has applied his mind to the facts and the statements and he is satisfied that there is ground for proceeding further in the matter by asking the person against whom the violation of law is alleged, to appear before the court. The satisfaction on the ground for proceeding would mean that the facts alleged in the complaint would constitute an offence, and when considered along with the statements recorded, would, prima facie, make the accused answerable before the court. No doubt, no formal order or a speaking order is required to be passed at that stage. The Code of Criminal Procedure requires speaking order to be passed under Section 203 CrPC when the complaint is dismissed and that too the reasons need to be stated only briefly. In other words, the Magistrate is not to act as a post office in taking cognizance of each and every complaint filed before him and issue process as a matter of course. There must be sufficient indication in the order passed by the Magistrate that he is satisfied that the allegations in the complaint constitute an offence and when considered along with the statements recorded and the result of inquiry or report of investigation under Section 202 CrPC, if any, the accused is answerable before the criminal court, there is ground for proceeding against the accused under Section 204 CrPC, by issuing process for appearance. The application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. If there is no such indication in a case where the Magistrate proceeds under Sections 190/204 CrPC, the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is bound to invoke its inherent power in order to prevent abuse of the power of the criminal court. To be called to appear before the criminal court as an accused is serious matter affecting one's dignity, self-respect and image in society. Hence, the process of criminal court shall not be made a weapon of harassment."

26. The requirement of conducting enquiry or directing investigation before issuing process is, therefore, not an empty formality. What kind of "enquiry" is needed under this provision has also been explained in Vijay Dhanuka case [Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, (2014) 14 SCC 638 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 479] , which is reproduced hereunder: (SCC p. 645, para 14)

"14. In view of our answer to the aforesaid question, the next question which falls for our determination is whether the learned Magistrate before issuing summons has held the inquiry as mandated under Section 202 of the Code. The word "inquiry" has been defined under Section 2(g) of the Code, the same reads as follows:

'2. (g) "inquiry" means every inquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Code by a Magistrate or court;'*

It is evident from the aforesaid provision, every inquiry other than a trial conducted by the Magistrate or the court is an inquiry. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided under Section 202 of the Code. In the inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code, the witnesses are examined whereas under Section 200 of the Code, examination of the complainant only is necessary with the option of examining the witnesses present, if any. This exercise by the Magistrate, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, is nothing but an inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code."

25. Relevant paragraphs of M/S Iveco Magirus Brandschutztechnik GMBH (supra), which has been relied by applicant is also reproduced for convenience as under:-

"32.1 The question that arose before this Court was, whether the High Court of Bombay was right in its view that when a Magistrate directs an enquiry under section 202 of the CrPC for ascertaining the truth or falsehood of a complaint and receives a report from the enquiring officer supporting a plea of self-defence made by the person complained against, is it not open to him to hold that the plea is correct on the basis of the report and the statements of witnesses recorded by the enquiring officer? Must the Magistrate, as a matter of law, issue process in such a case and leave the person complained against to establish his plea of self-defence at the trial?

33.1 We consider it appropriate to quote certain pertinent observations from such decision, hereinbelow:

It seems to us clear from the entire scheme of Chapter XVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure that an accused person does not come into the picture at all till process is issued. This does not mean that he is precluded from being present when an enquiry is held by a Magistrate He may remain present either in person or through a counsel or agent with a view to of what is going on. But since the very question for consideration being whether he should be be informed called upon to face an accusation, he has no right to take part in the proceedings nor has the Magistrate any jurisdiction to permit him to do so. It would follow from this, therefore, that it would hot be open to the Magistrate to put any question to witnesses at the instance of the person named as accused but against whom process has not been issued, nor can he examine any witnesses at the instance of such a person. Of course, the Magistrate himself is free to put such questions to the witnesses produced before him by the complainant as he may think proper in the interests of justice. But beyond that, he cannot go No doubt, one of the objects behind the provisions of Section 202 CrPC is to enable the Magistrate to scrutinise carefully the allegations made in the complaint with a view to prevent a person named therein as accused from being called upon to face an obviously frivolous complaint. But there is also another object behind this provision and it is to find out what material there is to support the allegations made in the complaint. It is the bounden duty of the Magistrate while making an enquiry to elicit all facts not merely with a view to protect the interests of an absent accused person, but also with a view to bring to book a person or persons against whom grave allegations are made. Whether the complaint is frivolous or not has, at that stage, necessarily to be determined on the basis of the material placed before him by the complainant. Whatever defence the accused may have can only be enquired into at the trial. An enquiry under Section 202 can in no sense be characterised as a trial for the simple reason that in law there can be but one trial for an offence. Permitting an accused person to intervene during the enquiry would frustrate its very object and that is why the legislature has made no specific provision permitting an accused person to take part in an enquiry.

33.2 Considering the decision in Vadilal Panchal (supra), what was said therein was explained in the following words:

13. we may point out that since the object of an enquiry under Section 202 is to ascertain whether the allegations made in the complaint are intrinsically true, the Magistrate acting under Section 203 has to satisfy himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding. In order to come to this conclusion, he is entitled to consider the evidence taken by him or recorded in an enquiry under Section 202, or statements made in an investigation under that section, as the case may be. He is not entitled to rely upon any material besides this. **"*

26. In National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz (supra), hon'ble Supreme Court has highlighted as under:-

"8. The duty of a Magistrate receiving a complaint is set out in Section 202 CrPC and there is an obligation on the Magistrate to find out if there is any matter which calls for investigation by a criminal court. The scope of enquiry under this section is restricted only to find out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process has to be issued or not. Investigation under Section 202 CrPC is different from the investigation contemplated in Section 156 as it is only for holding the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. The scope of enquiry under Section 202 CrPC is. therefore, limited to the ascertainment of truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint:

(i) on the materials placed by the complainant before the court,

(ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process has been made out; and

(iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the accused may have."

27. The complainant/ opposite party No.2 has relied on the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shivjee Singh (supra) and para No.7 and 8 of that report appears to be important and relevant part of which is reproduced as under:-

"7. .....By amending Act 25 of 2005, the postponement of the issue of process has been made mandatory where the accused is residing in an area beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned. Proviso to Section 202(1) lays down that direction for investigation shall not be made where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session or where the complaint has not been made by a court unless the complainant and the witnesses have been examined on oath under Section 200. Under Section 202(2) the Magistrate making an inquiry under sub-section (1) can take evidence of the witnesses on oath. If the Magistrate thinks that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session then in terms of the proviso to Section 202, he is required to call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath. Section 203 empowers the Magistrate to dismiss the complaint if, after considering the statements made by the complainant and the witnesses on oath and the result of the inquiry or investigation, if any, made under Section 202(1), he is satisfied that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding. The exercise of this power is hedged with the condition that the Magistrate should record brief reasons for dismissing the complaint. Section 204, which talks of issue of process lays down that if the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence is of the view that there is sufficient ground for proceeding then he may issue summons for attendance of the accused in a summons case. If it is a warrant case, then the Magistrate can issue warrant for causing attendance of the accused. Section 207 casts a duty on the Magistrate to supply to the accused, copies of the police report, the first information report recorded under Section 154, the statements recorded under Section 161(3), the confessions and statements, if any, recorded under Section 164 and any other document or relevant extract thereof, which is forwarded to the Magistrate along with the police report. Section 208 provides for supply of copies of statement and documents to the accused in the cases triable by the Court of Session. It lays down that if the case, instituted otherwise than on a police report, is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall furnish to the accused, free of cost, copies of the statements recorded under Section 200 or Section 202, statements and confessions recorded under Section 161 or Section 164 and any other document on which prosecution proposes to rely. Section

209 speaks of commitment of a case to the Court of Session when offence is triable exclusively by it. This section casts a duty on the Magistrate to commit the case to the Court of Session after complying with the provisions of Section 208. Once the case is committed, the trial is to be conducted by the Court of Session in accordance with the provisions contained in Chapter XVIII.

8. The object of examining the complainant and the witnesses is to ascertain the truth or falsehood of the complaint and determine whether there is a prima facie case against the person who, according to the complainant has committed an offence. If upon examination of the complainant and/or witnesses, the Magistrate is prima facie satisfied that a case is made out against the person accused of committing an offence then he is required to issue process. Section 202 empowers the Magistrate to postpone the issue of process and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or such other person as he may think fit for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. Under Section 203, the Magistrate can dismiss the complaint if, after taking into consideration the statements of the complainant and his witnesses and the result of the inquiry/investigation, if any, done under Section 202, he is of the view that there does not exist sufficient ground for proceeding. On the other hand, Section 204 provides for issue of process if the Magistrate is satisfied that there is sufficient ground for doing so. The expression "sufficient ground" used in Sections 203, 204 and 209 means the satisfaction that a prima facie case is made out against the person accused of committing an offence and not sufficient ground for the purpose of conviction. This interpretation of the provisions contained in Chapters XV and XVI CrPC finds adequate support from the judgments of this Court in Ramgopal Ganpatrai Ruia v. State of Bombay [AIR 1958 SC 97 : 1958 Cri LJ 244 : 1958 SCR 618] , Vadilal Panchal v. 28. Learned counsel for the complainant has also relied on Rameshbhai Pandurao Hedau (supra) and the relevant paragraphs are reproduced here as under:-

"20. The settled legal position has been enunciated by this Court in several decisions to which we shall refer presently. The courts are ad idem on the question that the powers under Section 156(3) can be invoked by a learned Magistrate at a pre-cognizance stage, whereas powers under Section 202 of the Code are to be invoked after cognizance is taken on a complaint but before issuance of process. Such a view has been expressed in Suresh Chand Jain case as well as in Dharmeshbhai Vasudevbhai case and in Devarapalli Lakshminarayana Reddy case.

21. The three aforesaid cases have been cited on behalf of the parties. We may also refer to the decision of this Court in Dilawar Singh v. State of Delhi where the difference in the investigative procedure in Chapters XII and XV of the Code has been recognised and in that case this Court also appears to have taken the view that any Judicial Magistrate, before taking cognizance of an offence, can order investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code and in doing so, he is not required to examine the complainant since he was not taking cognizance of any offence therein for the purpose of enabling the police to start investigation. Reference has been made to the decision of this Court in Suresh Chand Jain case. In other words, as indicated in the decisions referred to hereinabove, once a Magistrate takes cognizance of the offence, he is, thereafter, precluded from ordering an investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code.

22. It is now well settled that in ordering an investigation under Section 156(3) of the Code, the Magistrate is not empowered to take cognizance of the offence and such cognizance is taken only on the basis of the complaint of the facts received by him which includes a police report of such facts or information received from any person, other than a police officer, under Section 190 of the Code. Section 200 which falls in Chapter XV, indicates the manner in which the cognizance has to be taken and that the Magistrate may also inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer before issuing process.

23. Reference was also made to the decision of this Court in Mohd. Yousuf v. Afaq Jahan where it has been held that when a Magistrate orders investigation under Chapter XII of the Code, he does so before he takes cognizance of the offence. Once he takes cognizance of the offence, he has to follow the procedure envisaged in Chapter XV of the Code. The inquiry contemplated under Section 202(1) or investigation by a police officer or by any other person is only to help the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further on account of the fact that cognizance had already been taken by him of the offence disclosed in the complaint but issuance of process had been postponed."

29. The perusal of the above noted case laws would sufficiently demonstrate that summoning in a criminal matter is a serious business and the Magistrate or the Trial Court, as the case may be, is obliged to go through the allegations levelled in the complaint in order to ascertain as to whether there are sufficient grounds for proceedings are existing and these sufficient grounds for proceeding further must be distinguished from sufficient ground for conviction, as the duty of the Magistrate is to assess the sufficiency of grounds only for moving further and not for conviction. Having regard to the amendment made under Section 202 Cr.P.C., it is incumbent on the Magistrate or the Trial Court, as the case may be, to either make an enquiry himself or to refer an investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C., if the proposed accused person is resident of another district. The purpose of this inquiry or investigation, as the case may be, is to safeguard the interest of a proposed accused, who may be arrayed as an accused only on the basis of rivalry or for any other ulterior motive. Thus, this provision has been added in order to put the Magistrate or the Trial Court, as the case may be, on guard that if the material provided by the complainant/ informant is not sufficient enough, he is required to collect the material by ordering an investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C. It is also not res-integra that the investigation as contemplated under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is different from the investigation, which may be ordered under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., as under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., the Magistrate can order investigation before taking cognizance while under Section 202 Cr.P.C., the Magistrate can order investigation after taking cognizance in order to satisfy himself that there are sufficient material or grounds exist for summoning a proposed accused person.

30. In Birla Corporation Limited and Ors. Vs. Adventz Investments and Holdings Limited and Ors., MANU/SC/0714/2019, Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under;-

"26. Complaint filed Under Section 200 Code of Criminal Procedure and enquiry contemplated Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure and issuance of process:- Under Section 200 of the Criminal Procedure Code, on presentation of the complaint by an individual, the Magistrate is required to examine the Complainant and the witnesses present, if any. Thereafter, on perusal of the allegations made in the complaint, the statement of the Complainant on solemn affirmation and the witnesses examined, the Magistrate has to get himself satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Accused and on such satisfaction, the Magistrate may direct for issuance of process as contemplated Under Section 204 Code of Criminal Procedure The purpose of the enquiry Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure is to determine whether a prima facie case is made out and whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the Accused.

27. The scope of enquiry under this Section is extremely restricted only to finding out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process should be issued or not Under Section 204 Code of Criminal Procedure or whether the complaint should be dismissed by resorting to Section 203 Code of Criminal Procedure on the footing that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding on the basis of the statements of the Complainant and of his witnesses, if any. At the stage of enquiry Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure, the Magistrate is only concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence in support of the averments in the complaint to satisfy himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the Accused.

28. In National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz and Anr. MANU/SC/1123/2012 : (2013) 2 SCC 488*, the Supreme Court explained the scope of enquiry and held as under:-*

9. The duty of a Magistrate receiving a complaint is set out in Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure and there is an obligation on the Magistrate to find out if there is any matter which calls for investigation by a criminal court. The scope of enquiry under this Section is restricted only to find out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process has to be issued or not. Investigation Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure is different from the investigation contemplated in Section 156 as it is only for holding the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. The scope of enquiry Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure is, therefore, limited to the ascertainment of truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint:

(i) on the materials placed by the Complainant before the court;

(ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process has been made out; and

(iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the Complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the Accused may have.

29. In Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda and Ors. MANU/SC/0374/2015 : (2015) 12 SCC 420, the scope of enquiry Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure and the satisfaction of the Magistrate for issuance of process has been considered and held as under:-

2. Chapter XV Code of Criminal Procedure deals with the further procedure for dealing with Complaints to Magistrate. Under Section 200 Code of Criminal Procedure, the Magistrate, taking cognizance of an offence on a complaint, shall examine upon oath the Complainant and the witnesses, if any, present and the substance of such examination should be reduced to writing and the same shall be signed by the Complainant, the witnesses and the Magistrate. Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure, the Magistrate, if required, is empowered to either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a competent person for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. If, after considering the statements recorded Under Section 200 Code of Criminal Procedure and the result of the inquiry or investigation Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure, the Magistrate is of the opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he should dismiss the complaint, after briefly recording the reasons for doing so.

3 . Chapter XVI Code of Criminal Procedure deals with Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrate. If, in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, the Magistrate has to issue process Under Section 204(1) Code of Criminal Procedure for attendance of the Accused."

While discussing the amended section of 202 Crpc the Court highlighted the duty of the summoning Court in following words:-

"31. Under the amended Sub-section (1) to Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure, it is obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the Accused residing beyond its jurisdiction, he shall enquire into the case himself or direct the investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit for finding out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the Accused.

32. By Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2005, in Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure of the Principal Act with effect from 23.06.2006, in Sub-section (1), the words "...and shall, in a case where Accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises jurisdiction..." were inserted by Section 19 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2005. In the opinion of the legislature, such amendment was necessary as false complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places in order to harass them. The object of the amendment is to ensure that persons residing at far off places are not harassed by filing false complaints making it obligatory for the Magistrate to enquire. Notes on Clause 19 reads as under:-

False complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places simply to harass them. In order to see that the innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this Clause seeks to amend Sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the Accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the Accused.

33. Considering the scope of amendment to Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure, in Vijay Dhanuka and Ors. v. Najima Mamtaj and Ors.MANU/SC/0251/2014 : (2014) 14 SCC 638, it was held as under:-

12. The use of the expression shall prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the Accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

Since the amendment is aimed to prevent persons residing outside the jurisdiction of the court from being harassed, it was reiterated that holding of enquiry is mandatory. The purpose or objective behind the amendment was also considered by this Court in Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar and Anr.MANU/SC/1655/2016 : (2017) 3 SCC 528 and National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz and Anr. MANU/SC/1123/2012 : (2013) 2 SCC 488.

36. To be summoned/to appear before the Criminal Court as an Accused is a serious matter affecting one's dignity and reputation in the society. In taking recourse to such a serious matter in summoning the Accused in a case filed on a complaint otherwise than on a police report, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint constitute essential ingredients of the offence and whether there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Accused. In Punjab National Bank and Ors. v. Surendra Prasad SinhaMANU/SC/0345/1992 : 1993 Supp (1) SCC 499*, it was held that the issuance of process should not be mechanical nor should be made an instrument of oppression or needless harassment.*

37. At the stage of issuance of process to the Accused, the Magistrate is not required to record detailed orders. But based on the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence led in support of the same, the Magistrate is to be prima facie satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Accused. In Jagdish Ram v. State of Rajasthan and Anr. MANU/SC/0196/2004 : (2004) 4 SCC 432, it was held as under:-

10. ...The taking of cognizance of the offence is an area exclusively within the domain of a Magistrate. At this stage, the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction, can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of inquiry. At the stage of issuing the process to the Accused, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons.

38. Extensive reference to the case law would clearly show that the allegations in the complaint and Complainant's statement and other materials must show that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Accused. In the light of the above principles, let us consider the present case whether the allegations in the complaint and the statement of the Complainant and other materials before the Magistrate were sufficient enough to constitute prima-facie case to justify the Magistrate's satisfaction that there were sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Respondents-Accused and whether there was application of mind by the learned Magistrate in taking cognizance of the offences and issuing process to the Respondents."

While ordering issuance of process against the Accused, the Magistrate must take into consideration the averments in the complaint, statement of the Complainant examined on oath and the statement of witnesses examined. As held in Mehmood Ul Rehman (supra), since it is a process of taking a judicial notice of certain facts which constitute an offence, there has to be application of mind whether the materials brought before the court would constitute the offence and whether there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Accused. It is not a mechanical process.

As held in Chandra Deo Singh v. Prokash Chandra Bose alias Chabi Bose and Anr. MANU/SC/0053/1963 : AIR 1963 SC the object of an enquiry Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure is for the Magistrate to scrutinize the material produced by the Complainant to satisfy himself that the complaint is not frivolous and that there is evidence/material which forms sufficient ground for the Magistrate to proceed to issue process Under Section 204 Code of Criminal Procedure It is the duty of the Magistrate to elicit every fact that would establish the bona fides of the complaint and the Complainant.

The Magistrate who is conducting an investigation Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure has full power in collecting the evidence and examining the matter. We are conscious that once the Magistrate is exercised his discretion, it is not for the Sessions Court or the High Court to substitute its own discretion for that of the Magistrate to examine the case on merits. The Magistrate may not embark upon detailed enquiry or discussion of the merits/demerits of the case. But the Magistrate is required to consider whether a prima case has been made out or not and apply the mind to the materials before satisfying himself that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Accused. In the case in hand i do not find that the satisfaction of the Magistrate for issuance of summons is well founded.

The object of investigation Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure is"for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding". The enquiry Under Section 202 Code of Criminal Procedure is to ascertain the fact whether the complaint has any valid foundation calling for issuance of process to the person complained against or whether it is a baseless one on which no action need be taken. The law imposes a serious responsibility on the Magistrate to decide if there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the Accused. The issuance of process should not be mechanical nor should be made as an instrument of harassment to the Accused. As discussed earlier, issuance of process to the Accused calling upon them to appear in the criminal case is a serious matter and lack of material particulars and non-application of mind as to the materials cannot be brushed lightly. In the present case, the satisfaction of the Magistrate in ordering issuance of process to the Respondents is not well founded and the order summoning the Accused cannot be sustained and is liable to be set aside.

It is well settled that the inherent jurisdiction Under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure is designed to achieve a salutary purpose and that the criminal proceedings ought not to be permitted to degenerate into a weapon of harassment. When the Court is satisfied that the criminal proceedings amount to an abuse of process of law or that it amounts to bringing pressure upon the Accused, in exercise of the inherent powers, such proceedings can be quashed."

31. When we consider the factual matrix of this case in the background of above mentioned legal position, it would be evident that the applicant has written two letters, one to the Chief Minister and another to the Chief Secretary of the State of U.P. and writing of these letters have not been denied by the applicant. It appears to be an admitted situation that applicant is a public representative (Member of Parliament) and apart from the usual duties attached with a public representative, his duty may also include writing of grievances of the persons, to whom he is representing and in this scenario, if he has written some letters, which appear to be of confidential nature to some constitutional authorities, the same itself may not amount to any defamation. The complainant/ opposite party No.2 in his counter affidavit has himself mentioned criminal history of three cases lodged against him. The penal sections, pertaining to which these cases have been lodged, have not been mentioned, however, these three criminal cases are shown to have been registered at Police Station- Hazaratganj, Lucknow, Police Station- Wazirganj, Lucknow and at Police Station- Bithoor, Kanpur. In one of the letter written to the Chief Secretary of the State, the applicant has mentioned these three cases against the complainant/ opposite party No.2. One of the fact, which has been mentioned by the applicant in this letter is pertaining to the fine imposed by the Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No.1303 of 2014 and the same is fortified by a copy of the judgment of Writ Petition M/B No. 1303 of 2014 of date 18.02.2014 available on record, whereby the cost of Rs.1 lac was imposed on the complainant.

32. It is also to be recalled that as a public representative, certain issues are brought in the knowledge of the public representatives and the same may be based on the perception of the applicant in the mind of those, who have made the complaint about the complainant to the public representatives and it is in this regard, it cannot be said that the letters which have been written by the applicant have been written intentionally with a motive to tarnish the image of the complainant/ opposite party No.2 and these letters appear to have been written, so that public authorities may be made aware of the grievances of the persons, to whom applicant is representing. Moreover, there is no iota of evidence, which may suggest that these letters which appears to be of confidential nature, has been published in the newspapers or in the social media platforms by the applicant himself and therefore, so far as the publication of these letters is concerned, the same cannot be associated with the applicant.

33. Coming to the merits of the impugned judgment/ order, whereby the applicant has been summoned to face trial, this Court is having no hesitation in observing that the trial Court has not taken pains even to consider the prima facie case or sufficiency of grounds for further proceedings of the case or even the ingredients of the offence have not been considered. Initiation of criminal proceedings against any person may not be based only on the statement of the complainant and his two witnesses and no accused should be summoned in a mechanical manner, without there being any sufficient material available in support of these accusations.

34. It is to be recalled that summoning in a criminal case is a very serious business as even after acquittal of an accused person after lengthy legal struggle, the same may leave a scar on his/ her reputation, apart from the mental pain and suffering, with which the proposed accused person would have to remain during the course of trial. Therefore, the duty of the trial Court was/ is to ascertain the sufficiency of grounds by sifting the evidence and material in order to assess the same. Though, it is not obligatory on the part of the Trial Court/ Magistrate to order for investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C. in each and every case, but where it becomes necessary for the trial Court, the same must be ordered and the inquiry as contemplated under Section 202 Cr.P.C., clearly denotes the duty of the Court/ Magistrate in taking into account the material which has been placed on record and in proper case to order investigation as contemplated under Section 202 Cr.P.C.

35. Thus, the trial Court in this case appears to have not even considered the ingredients of the offences in order to assess as to whether the alleged statement made by the applicant is falling under any of the exceptions of Section 499 I.P.C. and also that whether the communication between the applicant and Chief Minister or the Chief Secretary of the State is a privileged communication or even as to whether there is any material or evidence at all available on record which may suggest that it was the applicant who had leaked the letter into the print media or social media and in absence of the same, the order of the trial Court may not stand the scrutiny of law.

36. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ahmad Ali Quraishi and Ors. Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh and Ors. (2020) 13 SCC 435, while considering the scope of 482 Cr.P.C., has opined as under:-

"10. Before we enter into facts of the present case and submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, it is necessary to look into the scope and ambit of inherent jurisdiction which is exercised by the High Court under Section 482 CrPC. This Court had the occasion to consider the scope and jurisdiction of Section 482 CrPC. This Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , had elaborately considered the scope and ambit of Section 482 CrPC/Article 226 of the Constitution in the context of quashing the criminal proceedings. In para 102, this Court enumerated seven categories of cases where power can be exercised under Article 226 of the Constitution/Section 482 CrPC by the High Court for quashing the criminal proceedings. Para 102 is as follows :

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the Act concerned (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the Act concerned, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

11. This Court in Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P. [Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P., (2017) 13 SCC 369 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 633] , had considered the jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC. In the above case also, the Additional Civil Judicial Magistrate had summoned the accused for offences under Sections 452, 376 and 323 IPC and the criminal revision against the said order was dismissed by the District Judge.

12. This Court time and again has examined the scope of jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC and laid down several principles which govern the exercise of jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC. A three-Judge Bench of this Court in State of Karnataka v. L. Muniswamy [State of Karnataka v. L. Muniswamy, (1977) 2 SCC 699 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 404] , held that the High Court is entitled to quash a proceeding if it comes to the conclusion that allowing the proceeding to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceeding ought to be quashed. In para 7 of the judgment, the following has been stated : (SCC p. 703)

"7. ... In the exercise of this wholesome power, the High Court is entitled to quash a proceeding if it comes to the conclusion that allowing the proceeding to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceeding ought to be quashed. The saving of the High Court's inherent powers, both in civil and criminal matters, is designed to achieve a salutary public purpose which is that a court proceeding ought not to be permitted to degenerate into a weapon of harassment or persecution. In a criminal case, the veiled object behind a lame prosecution, the very nature of the material on which the structure of the prosecution rests and the like would justify the High Court in quashing the proceeding in the interest of justice. The ends of justice are higher than the ends of mere law though justice has got to be administered according to laws made by the legislature. The compelling necessity for making these observations is that without a proper realisation of the object and purpose of the provision which seeks to save the inherent powers of the High Court to do justice, between the State and its subjects, it would be impossible to appreciate the width and contours of that salient jurisdiction."

13. A three-Judge Bench in State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa [State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa, (2002) 3 SCC 89 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 539] , had the occasion to consider the ambit of Section 482 CrPC. By analysing the scope of Section 482 CrPC, this Court laid down that authority of the court exists for advancement of justice and if any attempt is made to abuse that authority so as to produce injustice, the court has power to prevent abuse. It further held that court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation/continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. The following was laid down in para 6 : (SCC p. 94)

"6. ... All courts, whether civil or criminal possess, in the absence of any express provision, as inherent in their constitution, all such powers as are necessary to do the right and to undo a wrong in course of administration of justice on the principle quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur et id sine quo res ipsae esse non potest (when the law gives a person anything it gives him that without which it cannot exist). While exercising powers under the section, the court does not function as a court of appeal or revision. Inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. It is to be exercised ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone courts exist. Authority of the court exists for advancement of justice and if any attempt is made to abuse that authority so as to produce injustice, the court has power to prevent abuse. It would be an abuse of process of the court to allow any action which would result in injustice and prevent promotion of justice. In exercise of the powers court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation/continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. When no offence is disclosed by the complaint, the court may examine the question of fact. When a complaint is sought to be quashed, it is permissible to look into the materials to assess what the complainant has alleged and whether any offence is made out even if the allegations are accepted in toto."

14. Further in para 8 the following was stated : (Devendrappa case [State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa, (2002) 3 SCC 89 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 539] , SCC p. 95)

"8. ... Judicial process should not be an instrument of oppression, or, needless harassment. Court should be circumspect and judicious in exercising discretion and should take all relevant facts and circumstances into consideration before issuing process, lest it would be an instrument in the hands of a private complainant to unleash vendetta to harass any person needlessly. At the same time the section is not an instrument handed over to an accused to short-circuit a prosecution and bring about its sudden death. The scope of exercise of power under Section 482 of the Code and the categories of cases where the High Court may exercise its power under it relating to cognizable offences to prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice were set out in some detail by this Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] ."

15. In Sunder Babu v. State of T.N. [Sunder Babu v. State of T.N., (2009) 14 SCC 244 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 1349] , this Court was considering the challenge to the order of the Madras High Court where application was under Section 482 CrPC to quash criminal proceedings under Section 498-A IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961. It was contended before this Court that the complaint filed was nothing but an abuse of the process of law and allegations were unfounded. The prosecuting agency contested the petition filed under Section 482 CrPC taking the stand that a bare perusal of the complaint discloses commission of alleged offences and, therefore, it is not a case which needed to be allowed. The High Court accepted the case of the prosecution and dismissed the application. This Court referred to the judgment in Bhajan Lal case [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] and held that the case fell within Category 7. The Supreme Court relying on Category 7 has held that the application under Section 482 deserved to be allowed and it quashed the proceedings.

16. After considering the earlier several judgments of this Court including the case of State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , in Vineet Kumar [Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P., (2017) 13 SCC 369 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 633] , this Court laid down following in para 41 : (Vineet Kumar case [Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P., (2017) 13 SCC 369 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 633] , SCC p. 387)

"41. Inherent power given to the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is with the purpose and object of advancement of justice. In case solemn process of Court is sought to be abused by a person with some oblique motive, the Court has to thwart the attempt at the very threshold. The Court cannot permit a prosecution to go on if the case falls in one of the categories as illustratively enumerated by this Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] . Judicial process is a solemn proceeding which cannot be allowed to be converted into an instrument of operation or harassment. When there are materials to indicate that a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive, the High Court will not hesitate in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC to quash the proceeding under Category 7 as enumerated in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , which is to the following effect : (SCC p. 379, para 102)

Above Category 7 is clearly attracted in the facts of the present case. Although, the High Court [Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P., 2016 SCC OnLine All 1445] has noted the judgment of State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , but did not advert to the relevant facts of the present case, materials on which final report was submitted by the IO. We, thus, are fully satisfied that the present is a fit case where the High Court ought to have exercised its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC and quashed the criminal proceedings."

37. The definition of defamation as enshrined in Section 499 of the I.P.C. would demonstrate evidently that no imputation is said to harm a person's reputation, unless that imputation directly or indirectly lowers the moral of intellectual character of that person in the estimating of other. The definition makes it amply clear that the accused must either intend to harm the reputation of a particular person or reasonably know that his conduct could cause such harm. Having regard to the fact that complainant has produced only two witnesses, who have given shaky evidence pertaining to the loss of reputation of applicant and no investigation is ordered by the trial Court under Section 202 Cr.P.C. and the language used in the letters coupled with the fact that these letters appear to be confidential letters, there appears neither any intent on the part of applicant to cause harm to the reputation of the complainant nor any actual harm appears to have been caused to the reputation of complainant. In short, both the elements i.e. mens rea and actus reas appears to be missing in this case.

38. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Google India Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Visakha Industries & Ors. MANU/SC/1708/2019 has held that criminal offence of defamation is committed when a person makes a defamatory statement, which would consist of the imputation, being conveyed to the person about whom imputation has been made. A publication on the other hand is made when the imputation is communicated to the person other than the person, about whom the defamatory statement is made. A person who makes defamatory imputation could also publish the same and then could be maker and publisher, both, on the other hand a person may be liable though, he may not have made the statement but he has published it.

39. In view of the facts and circumstance of the case, the impugned letters appears to have not been written or communicated to complainant and as stated earlier, these letters appears to be confidential and privileged communication and there is no material on record, which may suggest even remotely that it is applicant, who had caused these letters published in the print media or digital media or on social media platforms. Thus, ingredients of Section 499 I.P.C. are not attracting in this case and in the facts and circumstances of the present case, I am satisfied that proceedings of the case have been initiated without there being any sufficient grounds. The trial Court fails in not discussing the ingredients of the offence and there appears no evidence which may suggest even prima facie that it was the applicant, who has published or provided the impugned letters for publication in the newspapers or social media platforms. The letters appear to be privileged communication between two constitutional authorities. Applicant himself is having criminal history of three cases. The statements of complainant and his witnesses recorded under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. are cryptic and are not attracting ingredients of offence under Section 499 I.P.C. The letters also appear to have fallen in 8th Exception of Section 499 I.P.C. The trial Court has also not followed the procedure laid down in amended provision of Section 202 Cr.P.C. and the exercise done by it may not be termed as inquiry. The trial Court has not directed any investigation under 202 Cr.P.C. even when the material available before it was not sufficient to summon the applicant to face trial under Section 500 I.P.C. Thus, the instant case appears to be covered by guideline No.1 and 7 of Bhajan Lal (supra) and Exception Eighth of Section 499 I.P.C. Thus, I am of the considered view that permitting these criminal proceedings to continue against the applicant, would be nothing but abuse of process of law/ Court and requires interference of this Court.

40. The question whether Exception provided under Section 499 Cr.P.C. may be considered at this stage of proceedings, has been considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajendra Kumar Sitaram Pande Vs. Uttam, MANU/SC/0093/1999 in following words:-

"7.... Under such circumstances the fact that the Accused persons had made a report to the superior officer of the complainant alleging that he had abused the Treasury Officer in a drunken state which is the gravamen of the present complaint and nothing more, would be covered by Exception 8 to Section 499 of the Penal Code, 1860. By perusing the allegations made in the complaint petition, we are also satisfied that no case of defamation has been made out. In this view of the matter, requiring the Accused persons to face trial or even to approach the Magistrate afresh for reconsideration of the question of issuance of process would not be in the interest of justice. On the other hand, in our considered opinion, this is a fit case for quashing the order of issuance of process and the proceedings itself...."

41. In result, the summoning order dated 10.01.2024 passed by the trial Court in Complaint Case No. 80654/ 2023 (Dr. Mohd. Kamran Vs. Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh) is set aside and all the proceedings of the above case are quashed. In result, the application filed by applicant, U/s 482 Cr.P.C., is hereby allowed.

3. धारा 482 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत इस प्रार्थना पत्र द्वारा प्रार्थी ने विद्वान अपर मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, कुण्डा, प्रतापगढ़ द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 21.06.2023 जिसके द्वारा मुकदमा अपराध संख्या 407 सन 2021 अंतर्गत धारा 419, 420, 467, 468, 471 भा०दं०सं० थाना कुण्डा जनपद प्रतापगढ़ के संबंध में प्रस्तुत अंतिम आख्या संख्या 210 सन 2022 निरस्त करते

हुए पुनः विवेचना का आदेश दिया, की वैधता को चुनौती दी है।

4. शिकायतकर्ता एक लेखपाल है और दिनांक 07.12.2021 को लिखाई गई प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 407 सन 2021 में उसने कहा है कि जिलाधिकारी, प्रतापगढ़ ने अपने आदेश द्वारा प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध राजस्व अभिलेखों में काट-पीट व छेड़खानी करते हुए धोखाधड़ी करने के संबंध में नियमसंगत कार्यवाही हेतु निर्देशित किया गया है। लेखपाल ने प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में कहा कि प्रार्थी ने गाटा संख्या 2412 ग्राम जमेठी में पेट्रोल पंप खोलने हेतु दिनांक 14.02.2020 को क्रय किया था। प्रार्थी ने शिकायतकर्ता से लेखपाल कक्ष में मिलकर नक्शा लेकर देखने के बहाने शिकायतकर्ता की व्यवस्ता के कारण गाटा संख्या 2411 में लाइन खींचकर अपने खुद के गाटा संख्या 2412 में मिला लिया, जिसकी जानकारी काश्तकारों की भीड़ के कारण नहीं हुई।

5. विवेचक ने राजस्व निरीक्षक की आख्या के आधार पर कथित आरोपों को गलत पाते हुए अंतिम रिपोर्ट दिनांक 10.04.2022 को प्रस्तुत कर दी जिसमें यह कहा गया कि काट-छाँट के समयावधि से काफी पूर्व ही राजस्व निरीक्षक व लेखपाल द्वारा नक्शा नजरी व रिपोर्ट प्रार्थी के पक्ष में जारी किया जा चुका है।

6. अंतिम आख्या के विरुद्ध आपत्ति विपक्षी संख्या 2 कृपाशंकर मिश्र ने प्रस्तुत की, जिनका कथन है कि वह गाटा संख्या 2411 के सह-खातेदार हैं तथा उन्होंने यह आरोप लगाया कि बन्दोबस्ती नक्शा लेखपाल की अभिरक्षा में था और नक्शे में छेड़छाड़ लेखपाल की मिलीभगत से की गयी है। तत्कालीन मुख्य राजस्व अधिकारी, प्रतापगढ़ ने प्रकरण की जांच कर आवश्यक कार्यवाही हेतु निर्देशित किया था तथा जांच के उपरान्त राजस्व अभिलेखपाल कलेक्ट्रेट व सहायक प्रभारी अधिकारी अभिलेखागार, प्रतापगढ़ ने जांच आख्या दिनांक 26.07.2021 में कहा कि नक्शे में की गयी कूट रचना के संबंध में प्राथमिकी दर्ज करायी जाय। इसके उपरान्त दिनांक 13.8.2021 को जिलाधिकारी, प्रतापगढ़ ने प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दर्ज कराने के आदेश दिये हैं। लेखपाल ने प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट जिलाधिकारी के आदेश के अनुसार प्रस्तुत की, जबकि जिन अभिलेखों में छेड़खानी हुई, वह स्वयं लेखपाल की अभिरक्षा में थे तथा बिना उनकी मिलीभगत के अभिलेखों में कूट-रचना होना संभव नहीं था।

7. आलोच्य आदेश दिनांक 21.6.2023 में विद्वान अतिरिक्त मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, कुण्डा, प्रतापगढ़ ने उक्त तथ्यों को ध्यान में रखते हुए यह पाया कि विवेचना के दौरान विवेचक ने गाटा संख्या 2411 के अन्य खातेदारान, कानूनगो दिलीप

कुमार, तहसीलदार कुण्डा व परगनाधिकारी, कुण्डा के बयान अंकित नहीं किये हैं तथा अभिलेखागार के अभिलेखों का मूल्यांकन नहीं किया है। विवेचक ने शिकायतकर्ता कृपा शंकर मिश्र व राजस्व निरीक्षक की प्रकरण में भूमिका की विवेचना भी सम्यक रूप से नहीं की है। विवेचना में बहुत सी रिक्तियां छोड़ दी गयी हैं जिस कारण मामले की संपूर्ण परिस्थितियां न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रस्तुत नहीं की गयी। ऐसे में अंतिम रिपोर्ट निरस्त किये जाने योग्य है।

8. उपरोक्त आदेश की वैधता को चुनौती देते हुए प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने पहला तर्क यह किया कि अंतिम रिपोर्ट के विरुद्ध आपत्ति कृपा शंकर मिश्र ने की है, जो मामले के शिकायतकर्ता नहीं थे तथा उनको अंतिम आख्या के विरुद्ध आपत्ति प्रस्तुत करने का कोई अधिकार नहीं था। इस तर्क के समर्थन में प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अयूब खान नूरखान पठान बनाम महाराष्ट्र राज्य, AIR 2013 SC Page 58 के निर्णय का आश्रय लिया जिसमें माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने अवधारित किया है कि एक अजनबी व्यक्ति आपराधिक कार्यवाही में हस्तक्षेप नहीं कर सकता है, जब तक वह न्यायालय को यह संतुष्ट न कर दे कि वह एक व्यथित व्यक्ति है। उक्त निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने रवि यशवंत भ्योर (Bhoir) बनाम जिला कलेक्टर रायगढ़ तथा अन्य (2012) 4 SCC 407 के एक निर्णय पर आश्रय लिया, जिसमें यह सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित किया गया कि एक शिकायतकर्ता को यह सिद्ध करना होगा कि उसके किसी विधिक अधिकार का हनन हुआ है अथवा उसको कोई विधिक उपहति कारित हुई है।

9. धारा 2 (बक) दं०प्र०सं० में पीड़ित की परिभाषा निम्न प्रकार से दी गयी है;- ""पीड़ित' से वह व्यक्ति अभिप्रेत है, जिसे कार्य या लोप के कारण कारित कोई हानि या क्षति हुयी है, जिसके लिये अभियुक्त व्यक्ति आरोपित किया गया है और पद 'पीडित' में उसका संरक्षक या विधिक उत्तराधिकारी शामिल है।

10. भगवंत सिंह बनाम कमिश्नर ऑफ पुलिस 1985 2 SCC 587 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित किया कि पीड़ित व्यक्ति को मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा पुलिस रिपोर्ट पर विचार किये जाने के समय उपस्थित होकर अपना पक्ष रखने का अधिकार है तथा यदि वह अपना पक्ष रखना चाहे तो मजिस्ट्रेट उनको सुनने के लिए बाध्य हैं।

11. जगजीत सिंह बनाम आशीष मिश्रा (2022) 9 SCC 321 के निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कहा कि कुछ समय पूर्व तक आपराधिक विधि व्यवस्था में न्यायालय मात्र अभियुक्त तथा राज्य के

बीच निर्णय करते थे। पीड़ित व्यक्ति, जिसने अपराध के दुष्प्रभाव को सहन किया है, को निर्णय प्रक्रिया में सहभागिता करने का कोई अधिकार नहीं था। किन्तु अब पीड़ित व्यक्ति के सुनवाई के अधिकार तथा आपराधिक प्रक्रिया में सहभागिता के अधिकार के संबंध में न्यायशास्त्र के सिद्धान्तों में सुधार हो रहा है। विधायिका ने बहुत सोच-समझकर "पीड़ित की परिभाषा व्यापक और वृहद बनायी है, जिसके अनुसार पीड़ित से तात्पर्य ऐसे व्यक्ति से है जिसने अभियुक्त द्वारा कारित अपकृत्य के कारण कोई हानि या क्षति सहन की है।"

12. आशीष मिश्रा के उपरोक्त निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने मल्लिकार्जुन कोडागिल बनाम कर्नाटक राज्य (2019) 2 SCC 752 के निर्णय को उद्धृत किया, जिसमें कहा गया कि न्यायपालिका पीड़ित के अधिकारों की रक्षा करने के लिए एक सक्रिया भूमिका निभा रही है किन्तु अभी भी बहुत कुछ किया जाना बाकी है। वर्तमान में एक अभियुक्त के अधिकार कई मायनों में अपराध के पीड़ित के अधिकारों से कहीं अधिक प्रभावशाली हैं। उनके अधिकारों में संतुलन स्थापित करने की आवश्यकता है जिससे कि आपराधिक प्रक्रिया दोनों की तरफ न्यायोचित हो सके। पीड़ित व्यक्ति के अधिकार अथवा पीड़ित शास्त्र का एक उभरता हुआ क्षेत्र है तथा इस क्षेत्र में सुधार के लिए आगे बढ़ना अत्यन्त आवश्यक है। पीड़ित व्यक्ति को अपराध होने के पश्चात इस स्तर पर सुनवाई के निहित अधिकार प्राप्त हैं तथा उसके अधिकारो पर कोई अंकुश नहीं लगाया जा सकता। माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय यह स्पष्ट किया कि "पीड़ित" तथा "शिकायतकर्ता" आपराधिक न्यायशास्त्र में दो अलग-अलग अर्थ रखते हैं। यह अनिवार्य नहीं है कि शिकायतकर्ता स्वयं पीड़ित ही हो क्योंकि एक अजनबी व्यक्ति भी अपराध की शिकायत कर सकता है। इसी प्रकार पीड़ित को अपराध का शिकायतकर्ता होना अनिवार्य नहीं है।

13. उपरोक्त विधिक सिद्धान्तों से यह स्पष्ट है कि कोई भी पीड़ित व्यक्ति न्यायिक प्रक्रिया में किसी भी स्तर पर हस्तक्षेप कर सकता है।

14. प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में आरोप यह है कि प्रार्थी ने शिकायतकर्ता लेखपाल की मिलीभगत से गाटा संख्या 2411 की भूमि राजस्व अभिलेखों में छेड़छाड़ करते हुए गलत तरह से गाटा संख्या 2412 में मिला लिया। आपत्तिकर्ता- विपक्षी संख्या 2 स्वयं के गाटा संख्या 2411 का सहखातेदार होना कहता है, जिस तथ्य को प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता द्वारा विवादित किया जा रहा है।

15. जबकि विपक्षी संख्या 2 अपने को गाटा संख्या 2411 का सहखातेदार होना

16. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अगला तर्क यह दिया कि राजस्व निरीक्षक की आख्या से यह स्पष्ट है कि लगाये गये आरोप असत्य हैं। अगला तर्क यह दिया कि प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में घटना वर्ष 2020 में होना कही गयी है, जबकि प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट दिनांक 07.12.2021 को लिखाई गई। प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में दिनांक 14.02.2020 को प्रार्थी द्वारा गाटा संख्या 2412 की भूमि क्रय किया जाना कहा गया है किन्तु अभिलेखों में कूट-रचना करके गाटा संख्या 2411 के अंश को 2412 में मिला देने के कृत्य की कोई तिथि का कथन प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में नहीं किया है। अतः प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का यह कथन कि कथित आरोप वर्ष 2020 में घटित हुआ, अभिलेखों से समर्थित नहीं है और बलहीन है।

17. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने इसके बाद यह तर्क प्रस्तुत किया कि प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में कहे गये कथन असत्य हैं और इस कारण विवेचना के दौरान उनकी पुष्टि न होने पर विवेचक ने सही प्रकार से अंतिम आख्या प्रस्तुत की थी और ऐसी परिस्थिति में पुनः विवेचना का कोई आधार नहीं है।

18. इस संबंध में विद्वान विचारण न्यायालय ने आलोच्य आदेश दिनांक 21.6.2023 में समस्त तथ्यों की समीक्षा करते हुए आदेश पारित किया है जिसमें यह तथ्य भी सम्मिलित है कि नक्शे में काट-पीट के संबंध में कोई आदेश पारित नहीं किया गया है। गाटा संख्या 2411 के अन्य खातेदार, कानूनगो, तहसीलदार व परगनाधिकारी के बयान अंकित नहीं किये गये हैं और अभिलेखागार के अभिलेखों का मूल्यांकन भी नहीं किया गया है।

19. ऐसी परिस्थिति में विद्वान विचारण न्यायालय ने यह संतोष अंकित करने में कोई त्रुटि कारित नहीं की है कि विवेचना में कई चीजें छूट गीं हैं और ऐसी परिस्थिति में पुनः विवेचना के आदेश में कोई वैधानिक त्रुटि प्रतीत नहीं होती है।

20. प्रार्थना-पत्र बलहीन है और तदनुसार निरस्त किया जाता है।

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 156(3), 197, 197(1), 200, 202 & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 323, 504 & 506 - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. – for quashing the Chief Judicial Magistrate's order by which took cognizance of offences under Sections 323, 504, and 506 IPC – complaint case - alleging abuse and threats during a dispute over property mutation – St.ment recorded u/s 200 & 202 of Cr.P.C. – trial court summoned the applicant to face trial – Applicants contested the summoning order by filing criminal revision – dismissed – revision court upheld the summoning order – hence the instant application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. - applicants argued that the Magistrate failed to comply with a 2007 circular requiring St.ments under Section 200 Cr.P.C. to be recorded in the Magistrate's handwriting and that prior government sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. was necessary – court observed that, prima facie trial court's satisfaction were deemed sufficient, and the revision was dismissed as lacking merit - Court held that, the mere violation of any executive instruction by a Magistrate will not vitiate the validity of the criminal proceedings, unless there is violation of any provision of Cr.P.C. in conducting the proceedings – and - there is absolutely no requirement of obtaining a prior sanction for prosecuting the applicants for such offences and Section 197 Cr.P.C. would not apply in such a situation - consequently, application under section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed being found no illegality in lower court orders.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mohd. Ali, the learned counsel appearing for the applicants and Sri Anant Pratap Singh, the learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicants have challenged the validity of the order dated 10.05.2022 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Balrampur in Complaint No. 678 of 2021, whereby the Magistrate has taken cognizance of offences under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC on the basis of a complaint filed by the opposite party no. 2. The applicant has also challenged the validity of the judgment and order dated 25.01.2024 passed by the Sessions Judge, Balrampur dismissing Criminal Revision No. 67 of 2022 filed against the aforesaid order dated 10.05.2022 and affirming the order.

3. The opposite party no. 2 filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. alleging that his father had died on 04.10.2012 and he had applied for mutation of his name in the record of Nagar Palika Parishad, Balrampur and had deposited house-tax and water-tax on 22.01.2015 and he had also deposited Rs. 500/- towards mutation charges. He had submitted all the relevant documents to the Nagar Palika Parishad, Balrampur on 10.09.2015, which included a recommendation made by the corporator. Even after it, on 28.09.2016, the Executive Officer of Nagar Palika Parishad (the applicant no. 1) uploaded information on the web portal that recommendation of corporator was not attached to the application.

4. When the complainant sought information under the Right to Information Act, 2005, on 18.12.2020 he was informed that a final order had been passed on his application, whereas the house continued to be recorded in the name of the complainant's deceased father. When the complainant contacted the applicants to know the cause of the aforesaid fact, both of them abused him and threatened to assault him and pushed him outside the office.

5. The magistrate registered the application as a complaint by means of an order dated 20.03.2021. Thereafter statement of the complainant was recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. on 27.09.2021 and statements under Section 202 Cr.P.C. were recorded on 08.10.2021 and 22.10.2021 and thereafter the Magistrate has passed an order summoning the applicants to face the trial. It is recorded in the order dated 10.05.2022 that a perusal of the record prima facie indicates commission of offences under Section 323, 504, 506 IPC and summoned the applicants to face the trial.

6. In Criminal Revision No. 67 of 2022 filed by the applicant against the summoning order dated 10.05.2022, it was argued that the trial court could not have taken cognizance of the offences without previous sanction of the Government as provided under Section 197 Cr.P.C. The Session Judge held that the offences alleged were not committed by the applicants while exercising their official duties and, therefore, no previous sanction was required in respect of those offences. The learned Sessions Judge further held that at the stage of taking cognizance of the offences and summoning the accused persons merely a prima facie satisfaction is required to be recorded for trial of the accused persons and a thorough scrutiny of the offences is not required to arrive at a satisfaction that there is sufficient material for conviction of the accused person. Accordingly, the Sessions Judge dismissed the revision.

7. While assailing the validity of both the aforesaid orders, the learned counsel for the applicants has submitted that C.L. No. 53/2007Admin(G):Dated: 13.12.2007 issued by this Court mandates that all the Magistrates to record statements under Section 200 Cr.P.C. in their own handwriting, whereas in the present case the statement has been transcribed by the reader of the Court.

8. C.L. No. 53/2007Admin(G):Dated: 13.12.2007 reads as follows: -

"The Hon'ble Court has been pleased to observed that section 200

Cr.P.C. mandates that the substance of the information/statement only is required to be recorded by the magistrate which should be done by him in his handwriting as that should facilitate in pinpointing the controversy and check frivolous complaints.

Therefore, in continuation of earlier Circular letter no. 6 Admin. (B) dated 1st May 1971, I have been directed to say that all the Magistrate working under your administrative control may please be directed to record statements under Section 200 Cr.P.C. in their own handwriting.

I am, further, to request you to kindly bring the contents of this Circular letter to all the Judicial Officers working under your administrative control for strict compliance"

9. From a bare reading of the aforesaid circular letter, it is not clear as to whom the aforesaid communication was addressed and there is nothing on record to indicate as to whether the authority to whom this communication was addressed, had actually issued any such direction to the Magistrate or not and whether in fact such direction was communicated to the Magistrate who has recorded the statement in question or not. Moreover, the mere violation of any executive instruction by a Magistrate will not vitiate the validity of the criminal proceedings, unless there is violation of any provision of Cr.P.C. in conducting the proceedings.

10. The Court cannot ignore the ground reality that all the Magistrates are working under immense work pressure and, in these circumstances, making it mandatory for all the Magistrates to record all statements under Section 200 Cr.P.C. in their own handwriting and not to take the assistance of a stenographer, will create unnecessary hurdles in expeditious dispensation of justice, which is the ultimate goal of all the courts and other persons acting in aid and assistance of the courts. Therefore, I am of the considered view that the proceedings cannot be vitiated on the ground that the statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. was transcribed by the reader of the Court on the dictation of the Magistrate.

11. The learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that the Magistrate has not conducted an inquiry as mandated by Section 202 Cr.P.C. and in support of this contention, he has relied upon a judgment rendered by a coordinate Bench of this Court in Hamid Ali v. State of U.P., 2020 SCC OnLine All 1567, wherein it was held that: -

"12. It is settled principle that while summoning an accused, the court has to see prima facie evidence. The "prima facie evidence' means the evidence sufficient for summoning the accused and not the evidence sufficient to warrant conviction. The enquiry u/s 202 CrPC is limited only to ascertain of truth or falsehood of allegations made in the complaint and whether on the material placed by the complainant a prima facie case was made out for summoning the accused or not.

13. As held by the Courts as above, the passing of order of summoning any person as accused is a very important matter, which initiates criminal proceeding against him. Such orders cannot be passed summarily or without applying judicial mind."

12. However, in State of Gujarat v. Afroz Mohammed Hasanfatta: (2019) 20 SCC 539, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"19. Section 190(1)(a) CrPC provides for cognizance of complaint. Section 190(1)(b) CrPC deals with taking cognizance of any offence on the basis of police report under Section 173(2) CrPC. "Complaint" is defined in Section 2(d) CrPC which reads as under:

"2. Definitions*.—(a)-(c) * * **

*(d) "complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report."*

The procedure for taking cognizance upon complaint has been provided under Chapter XV — Complaints to Magistrates under Sections 200 to 203 CrPC. A complaint filed before the Magistrate may be dismissed under Section 203 CrPC if the Magistrate is of the opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding and in every such case, he shall briefly record his reasons for so doing. If a complaint is not dismissed under Section 203 CrPC, the Magistrate issues process under Section 204 CrPC. Section 204 CrPC is in a separate chapter i.e. Chapter XVI — Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates. A combined reading of Sections 203 and 204 CrPC shows that for dismissal of a complaint, reasons should be recorded. The procedure for trial of warrant cases is provided in Chapter XIX — Trial of Warrant Cases by the Magistrates. Chapter XIX deals with two types of cases — A-Cases instituted on a police report and B-Cases instituted otherwise than on police report. In the present case, cognizance has been taken on the basis of police report.

22. In summoning the accused, it is not necessary for the Magistrate to examine the merits and demerits of the case and whether the materials collected is adequate for supporting the conviction. The court is not required to evaluate the evidence and its merits. The standard to be adopted for summoning the accused under Section 204 CrPC is not the same at the time of framing the charge. For issuance of summons under Section 204 CrPC, the expression used is "there is sufficient ground for proceeding…"; whereas for framing the charges, the expression used in Sections 240 and 246 IPC is "there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence…".

13. The Magistrate after recording statement of the complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. has recorded statements of two witnesses of the complaint under Section 202 Cr.P.C., who stated that they were accompanying the complainant at the time of the incident. The Magistrate has made a mention of these statements, which were available on record, in the order dated 10.05.2022, wherein he has recorded that he has perused the record. In view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Afroz Mohammed Hasanfatta (Supra) the aforesaid enquiry is sufficient for the Magistrate to arrive at a conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding. At this stage, the Magistrate is not required to evaluate the evidence and its merits. Therefore, I find no merit in this submission of the learned Counsel for the applicants.

14. The learned Counsel for the applicants next submitted that the applicants are public servants and, therefore, the Court could not have taken cognizance of offences allegedly committed by them without prior sanction of the State Government.

15. Section 197 (1) Cr.P.C. reads as under: -

197. Prosecution of Judges and public servants.—(1) When any person who is or was a Judge or Magistrate or a public servant not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government is accused of any offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, no Court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction save as otherwise provided in the Lokpal and Lokayuktas Act, 2013—*

(a) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of the Union, of the Central Government;

(b) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of a State, of the State Government:

Provided that…"

16. In Shadakshari v. State of Karnataka, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 48, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

*"21. The ambit, scope and effect of Section 197 Cr. P.C. has received considerable attention of this court. It is not necessary to advert to and dilate on all such decisions. Suffice it to say that the object of such sanction for prosecution is to protect a public servant discharging official duties and functions from undue harassment by initiation of frivolous criminal proceedings.

22. In State of Orissa v. Ganesh Chandra Jew, (2004) 8 SCC 40, this court explained the underlying concept of protection under Section 197 and held as follows:

"7. The protection given under Section 197 is to protect responsible public servants against the institution of possibly vexatious criminal proceedings for offences alleged to have been committed by them while they are acting or purporting to act as public servants. The policy of the legislature is to afford adequate protection to public servants to ensure that they are not prosecuted for anything done by them in the discharge of their official duties without reasonable cause, and if sanction is granted, to confer on the Government, if they choose to exercise it, complete control of the prosecution. This protection has certain limits and is available only when the alleged act done by the public servant is reasonably connected with the discharge of his official duty and is not merely a cloak for doing the objectionable act. If in doing his official duty, he acted in excess of his duty, but there is a reasonable connection between the act and the performance of the official duty, the excess will not be a sufficient ground to deprive the public servant of the protection. The question is not as to the nature of the offence such as whether the alleged offence contained an element necessarily dependent upon the offender being a public servant, but whether it was committed by a public servant acting or purporting to act as such in the discharge of his official capacity. Before Section 197 can be invoked, it must be shown that the official concerned was accused of an offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties. It is not the duty which requires examination so much as the act, because the official act can be performed both in the discharge of the official duty as well as in dereliction of it.

The act must fall within the scope and range of the official duties of the public servant concerned. It is the quality of the act which is important and the protection of this section is available if the act falls within the scope and range of his official duty. There cannot be any universal rule to determine whether there is a reasonable connection between the act done and the official duty, nor is it possible to lay down any such rule. One safe and sure test in this regard would be to consider if the omission or neglect on the part of the public servant to commit the act complained of could have made him answerable for a charge of dereliction of his official duty. If the answer to this question is in the affirmative, it may be said that such act was committed by the public servant while acting in the discharge of his official duty and there was every connection with the act complained of and the official duty of the public servant. This aspect makes it clear that the concept of Section 197 does not get immediately attracted on institution of the complaint case."

23. This aspect was also examined by this court in Shambhu Nath Misra [(1997) 5 SCC 336]. Posing the question as to whether a public servant who allegedly commits the offence of fabrication of records or misappropriation of public funds can be said to have acted in the discharge of his official duties. Observing that it is not the official duty to fabricate records or to misappropriate public funds, this court held as under:

"5. The question is when the public servant is alleged to have committed the offence of fabrication of record or misappropriation of public fund etc. can he be said to have acted in discharge of his official duties. It is not the official duty of the public servant to fabricate the false records and misappropriate the public funds etc. in furtherance of or in the discharge of his official duties. The official capacity only enables him to fabricate the record or misappropriate the public fund etc. It does not mean that it is integrally connected or inseparably interlinked with the crime committed in the course of the same transaction,"

24. Even in D. Devaraja [(2020) 7 SCC 695] relied upon by learned counsel for respondent No. 2, this court referred to Ganesh Chandra Jew (supra) and held as follows:

"35. In State of Orissa v. Ganesh Chandra Jew this Court interpreted the use of the expression "official duty" to imply that the act or omission must have been done by the public servant in course of his service and that it should have been in discharge of his duty. Section 197 of the Code of Criminal Procedure does not extend its protective cover to every act or omission done by a public servant while in service. The scope of operation of the section is restricted to only those acts or omissions which are done by a public servant in discharge of official duty."

25. Thus, this court has been consistent in holding that Section 197 Cr. P.C. does not extend its protective cover to every act or omission of a public servant while in service. It is restricted to only those acts or omissions which are done by public servants in the discharge of official duties."

17. The act allegedly committed by the applicants, i.e. abusing, threatening and manhandling the complainant, was in no way connected with the discharge of public duty of the applicants and in view of the law propounded by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above mentioned cases, there is absolutely no requirement of obtaining a prior sanction for prosecuting the applicants for such offences and Section 197 Cr.P.C. would not apply in such a situation.

18. In view of the aforesaid discussion, there appears to be no illegality in the order dated 10.05.2022 taking cognizance of the offence and the summoning the accused to face the trial and in the judgment and order dated 25.01.2024 passed by the Sessions Judge, Balrampur in Criminal revision No. 67 of 2022, affirming the aforesaid order dated 10.05.2022.

19. The revision lacks merit and the same is accordingly dismissed.

आपराधिक विधि : भारतीय दंड संहिता, 1860 – धारा 419, 420, 120ख – दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता, 1973 – धारा 204 - गैर जमानती वारंट के विरुद्ध – वैधता - प्रस्तुत प्रकरण विपक्षी सं. 2 की प्राथमिकी पर संस्थित हुआ, जिसमें संज्ञेय अपराध का आरोप था - विवेचना उपरांत अपराध सिद्ध पाए जाने पर विवेचक ने आरोप पत्र प्रस्तुत किया - विचारण न्यायालय ने आरोप पत्र एवं संकलित सामग्री का अवलोकन कर अपराध का संज्ञान लेने हेतु पर्याप्त आधार पाकर संज्ञान लिया - माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने स्टेट ऑफ गुजरात बनाम अफरोज मोहम्मद हसनफत्ता (नीचे) में प्रतिपादित किया कि समन जारी करते समय मजिस्ट्रेट को केवल शिकायत एवं सहायक साक्ष्यों के आधार पर यह संतोष करना होता है कि अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध कार्यवाही हेतु आधार है, आदेश में कारण अंकित करना आवश्यक नहीं है – इसके अलावा जहाँ पुलिस विवेचना के उपरांत आरोप पत्र प्रस्तुत करती है, वहाँ न्यायालय को आरोप पत्र, गवाहों के बयान एवं संकलित साक्ष्यों का परिशीलन करने का अवसर प्राप्त होता है। अतः पुलिस रिपोर्ट पर आधारित मामलों में आदेशिका जारी करते समय न्यायालय को कारण दर्शाने की आवश्यकता नहीं होती – अभिनिर्धारित, इस परिप्रेक्ष्य में, आलोच्य आदेश दिनांक 07.09.2016 विधिसम्मत है तथा अभियुक्त की अनुपस्थिति में गैर-जमानती वारंट जारी करने में भी कोई अवैधानिकता नहीं है - अतः प्रार्थना पत्र बलहीन है। (पैरा 3, 5, 8, 9)

1. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता डा. पूजा सिंह तथा राज्य सरकार के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री पुनीत कुमार यादव को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

2. धारा 482 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत इस प्रार्थना पत्र द्वारा प्रार्थी ने प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 559 सन 2015 अन्तर्गत धारा 420 भा०दं०सं० एवं आरोप पत्र के अन्तर्गत धारा 419, 120B भा०दं० सं०, थाना मडियाव जनपद लखनऊ के अनुक्रम में प्रस्तुत आरोप पत्र

दिनांकित 30.05.2016 तथा विद्वान ट्रायल कोर्ट, लखनऊ द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 07.09.2016 जिसके द्वारा उपरोक्त अपराध का संज्ञान लिया तथा प्रार्थी को विचारण हेतु तलब किया गया एवं गैर जमानती वारंट दिनांकित 26.10.2018, की वैधता को इस आधार पर चुनौती दी है कि आदेश के परिशीलन से न्यायालय द्वारा प्रकरण के तथ्यों की समीक्षा किया जाना प्रतीत नहीं होता है।

3. प्रस्तुत प्रकरण विपक्षी सं. 2 द्वारा लिखाई गई प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट के आधार पर संस्थित हुआ, जिसमें उसने संज्ञेय अपराध होने का आरोप लगाया। विवेचना में अपराधों का होना पाया गया तथा तदनुसार विवेचक ने आरोप पत्र प्रस्तुत किया। विद्वान विचारण न्यायालय ने आरोप पत्र पर अंकित किया है कि आरोप पत्र का अवलोकन किया गया जिससे यह प्रतीत होता है कि विवेचक द्वारा संकलित सामग्री का अवलोकन करने के बाद न्यायालय ने यह संतोष व्यक्ति किया है कि अपराध का संज्ञान लिये जाने का पर्याप्त आधार हैं।

4. धारा 190 आपराधिक प्रक्रिया संहिता के प्राविधान निम्नवत है:-

(1) इस अध्याय के उपबन्धों के अधीन रहते हुए, कोई प्रथम वर्ग मजिस्ट्रेट और उपधारा (2) के अधीन विशेषतया सशक्त किया गया कोई द्वितीय वर्ग मजिस्ट्रेट, किसी भी अपराध का संज्ञान निम्नलिखित दशाओं में कर सकता है:-

(क) उन तथ्यों का, जिनसे ऐसा अपराध बनता है, परिवाद प्राप्त होने पर,

(ख) ऐसे तथ्यों के बारे में पुलिस रिपोर्ट पर;

(ग) पुलिस अधिकारी से भिन्न किसी व्यक्ति से प्राप्त इस इत्तिला पर या स्वयं अपनी इस जानकारी पर कि ऐसा अपराध किया गया है।

(2) मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट किसी द्वितीय वर्ग मजिस्ट्रेट को ऐसे अपराधों का, जिनकी जांच या विचारण करना उसकी क्षमता के अन्दर है, उपधारा (1) के अधीन संज्ञान करने के लिए सशक्त कर सकता है।

5. स्टेट ऑफ गुजरात राज्य बनाम अफरोज मोहम्मद हसनफत्ता 2019 20 SCC 539 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह अवधारित किया कि यह विधि का एक सुस्थापित सिद्धांत है कि अभियुक्त को विचारण के लिए आहूत करते समय न्यायालय को मात्र शिकायत में कहे गए तथ्यों और उसके समर्थन में दिए गए साक्ष्यों पर विचार करके यह संतोष करना होता है कि अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध कार्यवाही चलाने के लिए समुचित आधार हैं। समन जारी करते समय मजिस्ट्रेट को इस संतोष के आधारों को स्पष्ट रूप से वर्णित करना अनिवार्य नहीं है।

6. माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने उपरोक्त निर्णय में यह भी अवधारित किया कि अभियुक्त को विचारण हेतु आहूत करते समय न्यायालय को मामले के गुण-दोष पर विचार करना आवश्यक नहीं है तथा यह निश्चित करना भी आवश्यक नहीं है कि संकलित सामग्री अभियुक्त को दोषी सिद्ध करने के लिए पर्याप्त है अथवा नहीं।

7. धारा 204 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अन्तर्गत आदेशिका जारी करते समय न्यायालय को मात्र इतनी राय बनानी होती है कि 'कार्यवाही करने के लिए पर्याप्त आधार हैं। यह संतोष भारतीय दण्ड संहिता की धारा 240 के अन्तर्गत आरोप विरचित करते समय ऐसी उपधारणा करने का आधार कि अभियुक्त ने कोई ऐसा अपराध किया है, जिसका विचारण करने के लिए मजिस्ट्रेट सक्षम है और जो उसके द्वारा पर्याप्त रूप से दण्डित किया जा सकता है, के स्तर का संतोष नहीं है। अपितु उससे काफी निम्न स्तर का ही संतोष होगा।

8. माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने अग्रेतर यह भी अवधारित किया कि जहाँ पर पुलिस ने विवेचना के उपरांत एक आरोप पत्र प्रस्तुत कर दिया है, न्यायालय को पुलिस द्वारा आरोप पत्र, गवाहों के बयान तथा पुलिस द्वारा विवेचना के द्वारा संकलित अन्य साक्ष्य का परिशीलन करने का भी लाभप्रद अवसर उपलब्ध है। विवेचक विवेचना के दौरान संकलित किए गए सामग्री की छानबीन पहले ही कर चुका होता है तथा इसके बाद आरोप पत्र प्रस्तुत होता है। अतः पुलिस रिपोर्ट के आधार पर आरोप का संज्ञान लेते समय न्यायालय को आदेशिका जारी करने के लिए कोई भी कारण दर्शाने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। पुलिस रिपोर्ट के आधार पर संस्थित वादों में न्यायालय को मात्र अभियुक्त को आदेशिका जारी करने की आवश्यकता है। अभियुक्त को आदेशिका जारी करने का ऐसा आदेश न्यायालय द्वारा पुलिस रिपोर्ट तथा उसके साथ प्रस्तुत अन्य अभिलेखों के आधार पर आधारित संतोष कि अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध अग्रेतर कार्यवाही चलाने का समुचित आधार है, पर आधारित होता है। अतः पुलिस रिपोर्ट पर संस्थित प्रकरण में आदेशिका जारी करने के स्तर पर न्यायालय को आदेश में कोई कारण अंकित करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है।

9. तदनुसार आलोच्य आदेश दिनांक 07.09.2016 में कोई विधिक त्रुटि प्रतीत नहीं होती है। प्रार्थी की अनुपस्थिति के कारण उसके विरुद्ध गैर जमानती वारंट जारी करने के आदेश में भी कोई अवैधानिकता नहीं है। तदनुसार, प्रार्थना पत्र बलहीन है।

10. इस स्तर पर प्रार्थी की विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने यह कथन किया कि प्रार्थी जमानत कराने को तत्पर है।

11. तदनुसार, प्रार्थना पत्र इस निर्देश के साथ निस्तारित किया जाता है कि यदि प्रार्थी विचारण न्यायालय के समक्ष उपस्थित होकर जमानत हेतु प्रार्थना पत्र प्रस्तुत करें तो उसे इस आदेश से प्रभावित हुए बिना शीघ्रतापूर्वक विधिनुसार, सतेंद्र कुमार अंतिल बनाम सी.बी.आई., (2021) 10 एससीसी 773 के प्रकरण में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा प्रतिपादित विधि व्यवस्था के आलोक में निस्तारित किया जाए।

1. प्रार्थीगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री पूर्णेन्दु चक्रवर्ती तथा विद्वान अतिरिक्त शासकीय अधिवक्ता श्री अनंत प्रताप सिंह

2. धारा 482 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत इस प्रार्थना पत्र द्वारा प्रार्थीगण ने विद्वान अपर जिला एवं सत्र न्यायाधीश कक्ष संख्या 15, लखनऊ द्वारा सत्र परीक्षण संख्या 479 सन 2017 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 22.12.2023 की वैधता को चुनौती दी है, जिसके द्वारा सत्र न्यायालय ने अभियुक्तगण की तरफ से धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत एक व्यक्ति वसीउद्दीन को गवाह के रूप में परीक्षित करने के प्रार्थना-पत्र को निरस्त कर दिया।

3. मामले के संक्षिप्त तथ्य इस प्रकार हैं कि दिनांक 21.08.2016 को समय 23:50 बजे प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 0416 सन 2018 सात नामित व्यक्तियों तथा एक अज्ञात व्यक्ति के विरुद्ध लिखाते हुए यह कहा गया कि एक सहकारी आवास समिति, जिसका सचिव एवं पत्नी अध्यक्ष है, द्वारा औरंगाबाद खालसा, लखनऊ में लगभग 12 बीघे जमीन खरीदी गयी थी। शिकायतकर्ता को समिति के सचिव पद से हटाते हुए एक अन्य व्यक्ति को सचिव बना दिया गया। उक्त समिति के विवाद के संबंध में शिकायतकर्ता और उसके पुत्र को जान से मारने की धमकियां मिल रही थी। दिनांक 08.07.20216 को अन्नू द्विवेदी उर्फ शिवम, मन्नू द्विवेदी उर्फ अक्षय एवं सुजल सिंह ने फायरिंग करके शिकायतकर्ता के पुत्र सचिन शुक्ला एवं एक अन्य व्यक्ति अनुज द्विवेदी को घायल कर दिया था, जिसकी प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट संख्या 339 सन 2014 थाना आशियाना में दिनांक 09.07.2016 को अंकित की गयी थी। उपरोक्त तीनों अपराधी फरार थे तथा उनकी गिरफ्तारी के लिए शिकायतकर्ता तथा उसके पुत्र द्वारा उच्चाधिकारियों से अनुरोध भी किया गया था। दिनांक 17.08.2026 को प्रार्थी संख्या 5 प्रेम शंकर द्विवेदी ने शिकायतकर्ता के घर आकर प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट की वापसी हेतु दबाव बनाया तथा धमकी देकर चले गये। दिनांक 21.08.2016 को रात्रि 9 बजे अभियुक्तगण ने असलहे से फायर किया जिससे शिकायतकर्ता के पुत्र को चोटें आयीं। यहाँ मौजूद लोग उसे सिविल अस्पताल ले गये, जहाँ से ट्रामा सेण्टर, के.जी.एम.यू. भेजा गया तथा वहाँ शिकायतकर्ता के पुत्र की मृत्यु हो गयी। प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में कहा गया है कि घटना भगोले कबाब पराठा वाले की दुकान के पीछे वाली रोड पर भदरुख क्षेत्र की है।

4. विवेचना के उपरान्त प्रस्तुत आरोप-पत्र की प्रति प्रार्थना-पत्र के साथ संलग्न नहीं की गयी है।

5. दिनांक 08.12.2023 को अभियुक्तगण की तरफ से धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत प्रार्थना-पत्र प्रस्तुत करके कहा गया किः-

"उपरोक्त प्रकरण से संबंधित घटना जिस भगोले कबाब पराठे वाले की दुकान के सामने घटित हुई उस भगोले कबाब पराठे की दुकान के मालिक वसीउद्दीन पुत्र ननकू निवासी 108 भखौरी माफी तहसील कैसरगंज जिला बहराइच (उ०प्र०) को जो कि उक्त घटना का अहम गवाह है उसको न्यायालय के समक्ष गवाही हेतु प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है तथा उक्त मुख्य गवाह के वैन से चोटहिल को अस्पताल भेजा गया था। उक्त प्रकरण में "वसीउद्दीन पुत्र ननकू निवासी उपरोक्त को धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० के तहत तलब कर उक्त प्रकरण में गवाही हेतु तलब किया जाना न्यायहित में आवश्यक है।"

6. इसी प्रार्थना-पत्र पर विद्वान अतिरिक्त शासकीय अधिवक्ता ने अपनी आपत्ति अंकित की "उपरोक्त पत्रावली में अभियोजन की बहस हो चुकी है, पत्रावली बचाव पक्ष की शेष बहस पर लगी है। इस स्तर पर 311 दं०प्र०सं० का प्रार्थना-पत्र बचाव पक्ष द्वारा मुकदमें को विलंबित करने के लिए दिया जा रहा है। प्रार्थना पत्र का घोर विरोध किया जाता है।"

7. दिनांक 22.12.2023 के आलोच्य आदेश द्वारा विद्वान विचारण न्यायालय ने अंकित किया कि नकल तहरीर में कहीं भी वसीउद्दीन के घटना के किसी तात्विक तथ्य का साक्षी होने का उल्लेख नहीं है। तहरीर के अनुसार घटना भगोले कबाब पराठा वाले की दुकान के पीछे वाली रोड, भदरुख क्षेत्र की है, न कि उसके दुकान के सामने की है। विद्वान विचारण न्यायालय ने संपूर्ण केस डायरी तथा अभियोजन साक्षियों के साक्ष्य का अवलोकन करके यह पाया कि यह कहीं भी उल्लिखित नहीं है कि भगोले कबाब पराठा के दुकान के मालिक वसीउद्दीन घटना के समय उपस्थित थे।

8. अभियुक्त की तरफ से पी. संजीव राव बनाम आंध्र प्रदेश राज्य 2012 (7) SCC 56 के निर्णय का आश्रय लिया गया जिसमें विद्वान सत्र न्यायालय ने पाया कि उक्त प्रकरण के तथ्य प्रस्तुत प्रकरण के तथ्यों से भिन्न होने के कारण उक्त निर्णय प्रस्तुत प्रकरण पर लागू नहीं होते हैं। इस न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रार्थीगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने भी यह स्वीकार किया कि पी. संजीव राव प्रकरण का निर्णय प्रस्तुत मामले के लिए संगत नहीं है।

9. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने तर्क दिया कि अभियोजन साक्षी संख्या 2 अनुज द्विवेदी ने अपने बयान में कहा है कि घटना के दिन लगभग रात्रि 9 बजे वह सचिन के साथ खड़ा था, उसने एक लड़के से बियर मंगाई तब तक सचिन का फोन आ गया और वह फोन पर बात करते हुए भगोले कबाब पराठा की दुकान के पीछे

10. गवाह अनुज द्विवेदी ने अपने बयान में न तो स्वयं को घटना का चक्षुदर्शी साक्षी होना कहा है और न उसने यह कहा है कि कथित गवाह वसीउद्दीन घटना का चक्षुदर्शी साक्षी था। गवाह ने यह भी नहीं कहा है कि घटना वसीउद्दीन की दुकान के सामने घटित हुई।

11. विद्वान विचारण न्यायालय ने आलोच्य आदेश में यह सही ही अंकित किया है कि संपूर्ण केस डायरी का अवलोकन एवं अभियोजन साक्षियों के साक्ष्य का अवलोकन करने पर यह पाया गया कि यह कहीं भी उल्लिखित नहीं है कि भगोले कबाब पराठा के दुकान के मालिक वसीउद्दीन घटना के समय उपस्थित थे।

12. वसीउद्दीन का नाम आरोप-पत्र में अभियोजन साक्षी के रूप में अंकित नहीं है। अभियोजन साक्ष्य पूर्ण होने के उपरान्त अभियुक्तगण ने भी वसीउद्दीन को अपने साक्षी के रूप में परीक्षित करना उचित नहीं समझा। जब प्रकरण में सम्पूर्ण साक्ष्य अंकित होने के उपरान्त अभियोजन पक्ष की बहस पूर्ण हो चुकी तथा अभियुक्त की बहस भी आंशिक रूप से सुनी जा चुकी थी, उस स्तर पर अभियुक्तगण ने धारा 311 भा०दं०सं० के अंतर्गत वसीउद्दीन को साक्षी के रूप में बुलाने की इस आधार पर प्रस्तुत की कि घटना भगोले कबाब पराठे वाले के सामने घटित हुई थी तथा दुकान का मालिक वसीउद्दीन घटना का अहम गवाह है।

13. पत्रावली ऐसी कोई भी सामग्री उपलब्ध नहीं है जिससे धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० में किये गये उपरोक्त कथन कि घटना वसीउद्दीन की दुकान के सामने हुई और वसीउद्दीन घटना का अहम गवाह है, समर्थित हो सके।

14. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने तर्क दिया कि धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० के

अंतर्गत न्यायालय किसी भी साक्षी को किसी भी स्तर पर बुला सकता है और तर्क के समर्थन में उन्होंने U. T. of Dadra & Haveli & Anr Vs. Fatehsinh Mohansinh Chauhan 2006 (7) SCC 529 के निर्णय का आश्रय लिया, जिसमें कई पूर्व न्यायिक निर्णयों का संदर्भ देते हुए माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने अवधारित किया कि धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत न्यायालय विवेचना अथवा विचारण के किसी भी स्तर पर किसी व्यक्ति को गवाह के रूप में तलब कर सकती है तथा न्यायालय किसी भी ऐसे व्यक्ति को साक्ष्य के लिए अवश्य ही तलब करेगी जिसका साक्ष्य एक न्यायपूर्ण निर्णय के लिए अपरिहार्य हो।

15. उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्था के संदर्भ में कोई संशय नहीं है तथा निश्चय ही धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० न्यायालय को इस संबंध में न्यायहित में किसी भी साक्षी को किसी भी स्तर पर तलब करने की असीमित शक्ति प्राप्त है किन्तु ऐसी असीमित शक्ति का प्रयोग सावधानीपूर्वक करना चाहिए तथा न्यायालय को यह सुनिश्चित करना चाहिए कि इन शक्तियों का दुरुपयोग अभियुक्त विचारण में देरी कारित करने के लिए न कर पाये।

16. स्वपन कुमार चैटर्जी बनाम केंद्रीय अन्वेषण ब्यूरो (2019) 14 एस सी सी 328, के निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह अवधारणा किया कि यह विधि का एक सुस्थापित सिद्धान्त है कि धारा 311 दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता की शक्तियां न्यायालय द्वारा मात्र न्याय के उद्देश्यों की पूर्ति के लिए ही प्रयोग की जानी चाहिए। इन शक्तियों का प्रयोग अत्यंत सावधानीपूर्वक, मात्र प्रबल और वैध कारणों से ही किया जाना चाहिए। इस धारा के अंतर्गत न्यायालय को न्याय हित में साक्षी को बुलाए जाने की व्यापक शक्तियां प्राप्त है किन्तु इनका प्रयोग प्रकरण के समस्त तथ्यों एवं परिस्थितियों को ध्यान में रखते हुए ही करना चाहिए। यदि न्यायालय का मत है कि धारा 311 के अंतर्गत प्रार्थना पत्र विधिक प्रक्रिया का दुरुपयोग करने के लिए दिया गया है तो न्यायालय को इन शक्तियों का प्रयोग नहीं करना चाहिए ।

17. स्वपन कुमार चैटर्जी के निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह भी कहा कि हर न्यायालय का उद्देश्य सत्य की खोज करना है। धारा 311 दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता ऐसे अनेक प्रावधानों में से एक है, जो विधि द्वारा स्थापित प्रक्रिया के अनुसार सत्य की खोज के न्यायालय के प्रयासों में उसको बल प्रदान करते हैं, किंतु न्यायालय को धारा 311 दन्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अंतर्गत प्राप्त विवेकाधीन शक्तियों का प्रयोग प्रबल और वैध कारणों से सावधानीपूर्वक न्याय के उद्देश्यों की पूर्ति के लिए ही करना चाहिए।

18. वी एन पाटिल बनाम के निरंजन कुमार (2021) 3 एस सी सी 661, में

माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह सिद्धांत प्रतिपादित किया कि धारा 311 दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता का अंतर्निहित उद्देश्य यह है कि किसी भी पक्षकार द्वारा मूल्यवान साक्ष्य को अभिलेख पर लाने में हुई त्रुटि अथवा किसी गवाह के साक्ष्य में अस्पष्टता न होने के कारण से न्याय का उद्देश्य विफल न हो जाए। निर्णायक बिंदु यह है कि क्या ऐसा करना प्रकरण के न्यायपूर्ण निर्णय के लिए अपरिहार्य है। इस धारा में अभिव्यक्ति कि "किसी जाँच विचारण या अन्य कार्यवाही के किसी प्रक्रम में" भी अत्यंत महत्वपूर्ण है, किन्तु यह ध्यान में रखना चाहिए की धारा 311 दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता द्वारा प्रदत्त विवेकाधीन शक्तियों का प्रयोग न्यायपूर्ण ढंग से किया जाना चाहिए। जैसा कि सदा ही कहा जाता है कि शक्तियां जितनी व्यापक हों, उनके इस संबंध में विवेक का प्रयोग न्याय पूर्वक करने में सावधानी की अनिवार्यता उतनी अधिक बढ़ जाती है।

19. जब उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्थाओं के आलोक में प्रस्तुत प्रकरण के तथ्यों की समीक्षा की जाय तो यह स्पष्ट होता है कि अभियोजन ने कभी भी किसी भी स्तर पर यह नहीं कहा कि घटना वसीउद्दीन की दुकान के सामने अथवा उसकी उपस्थिति में घटित हुई। पत्रावली बचाव की बहस के स्तर पर पहुंचने पर अभियुक्त गण ने वसीउद्दीन को इस आधार पर साक्षी के रूप में तलब करने का प्रार्थना-पत्र दिया कि घटना उसकी दुकान के सामने घटित हुई थी और वह घटना का अहम गवाह है, जबकि ऐसा कथन न तो प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट में और न ही किसी भी साक्षी के बयान में है तथा जिस साक्षी अनुज द्विवेदी के बयान का आश्रय अभियुक्तगण ले रहे हैं उसने स्वयं यह कहा कि घटना के समय वह स्वयं भी उपस्थित नहीं था और उसने भी वसीउद्दीन की दुकान के सामने अथवा वसीउद्दीन की उपस्थिति में घटना होने का कथन नहीं किया है। अतः प्रार्थना-पत्र में वसीउद्दीन को गवाह के रूप में तलब किये जाने का दर्शाया गया कारण असत्य एवं निराधार है।

20. उपरोक्त समीक्षा के आलोक में विद्वान विचारण न्यायालय द्वारा धारा 311 दं०प्र०सं० का प्रार्थना-पत्र निरस्त किये जाने में कोई अवैधानिकता अथवा त्रुटि कारित नहीं की गयी है। धारा 482 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत प्रार्थना-पत्र बलहीन है और तद्नुसार निरस्त किया जाता है।

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 165(3), 200, 202, 202(1) & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 406, 409, 419, 420, 467 & 468 - Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 - Section 138 - Application u/s 482 – assailing the summoning order and the entire criminal proceedings - the petitioner, serving as Managing Director of a financial company, had no involvement in the routine operations of its branch offices - A criminal case arose from a 2006 vehicle financing transaction concerning a vehicle – financed through the company – which was later surrendered following default in payment - The vehicle was subsequently re-sold to opposite party no. 2, who issued four post-dated cheques, two of which were dishonoured - Opposite party no. 2 fraudulently re-sold the vehicle using forged documents and impersonated company personnel – offence of dishonour of cheques - Company initiated proceedings under the N.I. Act, - a summoning order issued to the opposite party no. 2 - In retaliation, opposite party no. 2 filed a complaint under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., alleging misappropriation against three individuals, including the petitioner - FIR was registered – but during investigation, police exonerated all accused - and filed charge-sheet against the opposite party no. 2 under various sections of the IPC - Despite this, opposite party no. 2 lodged another complaint with unfounded allegations, implicating even the investigating officer and the vehicle's purchaser – wherein petitioner was named with vague and general accusations - St.ment recorded u/s 200 Cr.P.C. – impugned summoning order - the applicant pleaded that summoning order was passed in violation of settled legal principles - the court observed that, the Magistrate failed to conduct the mandatory inquiry under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C., despite the petitioner residing outside the jurisdiction and furthermore, fact that the complaint pertained to the same transaction for which a charge-sheet had already been filed against the complainant - court held that, the complaint was a retaliatory move, lacking substance and driven by malafide intent, falling squarely within the parameters laid out in Bhajan Lal's case - Consequently, the complaint case, the summoning order and the bailable warrant were quashed – Application is allowed. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Naresh Kaushik, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Aishwarya Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Nirmal Kumar Pandey, learned AGA for the State and Sri Gyanendra Kumar Pandey, Advocate who has filed his 'Vakalatnama' along with counter affidavit on behalf of opposite party no. 2, the same are taken on record.

3. This petition has been filed under section 482 Cr.P.C. by the petitioner for setting aside / quashing the impugned summoning order dated 15.10.2010 passed by the learned C.J.M., Bahraich against the petitioner and 6 others u/s 406, 419, 420 IPC in Complaint Case No. 4383 of 2010 (Ramesh Chandra Mishra vs. Ramesh Iyer and others) contained as Annexure no. 1.

4. By means of this petition the petitioner has prayed following relief :

"Wherefore, for the facts and reasons stated in the by an petition supported by affidavit, it is most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to quash the impugned summoning orders dated 15.10.2010 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate Bahriach as well as Order dated 10.02.2011 by which the bailable warrant has been issued against the petitioner in complaint case no. 4383/2010 Ramesh Chandra Mishra Vs Ramesh Iyer & others contained as Annexure no 1 & 2 to this petition It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to stay the proceedings of complaint case no.4383/2010 Ramesh Chandra Mishra Vs. Ramesh lyer & others pending before Chief Judicial Magistrate Bahraich, during pendency of the petition."

5. That the petitioner is working as Managing Director of Mahindra & Mahindra Financial Services Ltd. (referred as 'MMFSL' hereinafter), having his office at Mumbai and having no concern with day-to-day affairs of the Branches.

6. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the facts of the case, in brief, are that in the year 2006 a Bolero vehicle was financed to one Durgesh Kumar Vaishya by MMFSL, which was surrendered by him after default of installment. The said Vehicle was thereafter sold to opposite party no. 2, Ramesh Chandra Mishra for Rs. 3,50,000/-, who issued 4 post-dated cheques bearing Cheque No. 881607 dated 26.12.2007 for Rs. 1,00,000/- Cheque No. 881608 dated 28.12.2007 for Rs. 1,00,000/-, Cheque No. 881609 dated 31.12.2007 for Rs. 50,000/- and Cheque No. 881615 dated 31.01.2008 for Rs. 1,00,000/-.

7. That the opposite party no. 2 unauthorizedly sold the said Vehicle to one Mehtab Gori for an amount of Rs, 3,51,000/- showing himself to be Authorized Representative and employee of MMFSL, he fabricated a payment receipt dated 28.11.2007 on a Rs. 20/- Judicial Stamp Paper Impersonating as Recovery Officer of the company. The opposite party no. 2 also managed to transfer the vehicle from the R.T.O. on the basis of forged and fabricated documents and got issued a temporary authorization of registration from the R.T.O. in the name of his Purchaser Mehtab Ahmad. In the meantime 2 out of 4 cheques provided by the opposite party no. 2 to MMFSL got dishonored due to insufficient funds, against which the MMFSL filed a complaint case on 16.06.2008 u/s 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act bearing Case No. 713/2008 (later changed to Case No. 300 of 2010 after transfer), the 2nd Additional Civil Judge, (SD), Faizabad summoned the opposite party no. 2 in the said case.

8. That the opposite party no. 2 coming to know about the summoning under Negotiable instruments Act, filed a complaint / application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. in the court of C.J.M., Bahraich against three persons only including the present applicant alleging that the MMFSL has taken Rs. 1,00,000/- cash and Rs. 1,50,000/- through cheque, but has not handed over the vehicle, instead sold it to some third person and misappropriated the money given by the opposite party no. 2.

9. That the said application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. was allowed by the C.J.M., Bahraich on 18.10.2008 and direction was issued to lodge an FIR, the concerned police lodged FIR No. 72/2008 u/s 406, 409 IPC, P.S. Kotwali Bahraich, District Bahraich (Annexure-6). The concerned Police after detailed investigation, expunged the name of all the three persons in the FIR, and filed charge-sheet on 19.03.2009 against the opposite party no. 2, Ramesh Chandra Mishra itself U/s 406/409/419/420/467/468 IPC. The person Mehtab Gori to whom the opposite party no. 2 has sold the said vehicle also gave statement against the said opposite party no. 2.

10. That the opposite party no. 2 Ramesh Chandra Mishra, when came to know about the charge-sheet against him, he filed a complaint case before C.J.M., Bahraich on 24.09.2010 on totally false and concocted facts and arrayed even the Investigation officer of the case as well as the purchaser of the vehicle as accused. There are general allegations against the present petitioner and no specific role has been assigned.

11. That on the same day i.e. 24.09.2010, the statement under section 200 Cr.P.C. of the complainant has also been recorded by the learned C.J.M., the complainant (opposite party no. 2) in this petition repeated the contents of his complaint.

12. That on 12.10.2010 the complainant got the statement of two chance witnesses recorded u/s section 202 Cr.P.C., the said witnesses namely, Santosh Yadav and Mohammad Ahmad, who claimed that they were present in the Branch office of MMFSI, at Bahraich for some loan inquiries when alleged scuffle between the complainant and branch officials took place, but they have not whispered a word about the present petitioner. On the basis of these statements the learned C.J.M., Bahraich issued summons to the petitioner and 6 other persons for facing trial us 406,419,420 IPC, on a proforma summoning order, without any application of the judicial mind.

13. While appreciating the aforesaid facts this Court on the first date of admission granted confirmed interim order on 21.4.2011 which reads as under :

"Issue notice to respondent no. 2.
List after service report.
Upon perusal of the record, it is apparent that for the same subject matter as respondent no. 2 is himself as an accused on the basis of charge-sheet dated 19th of March, 2009. Therefore, prima facie, I am of the view that the complaint lodged by him is unsustainable. Under this circumstance, I hereby stay the proceeding of Complaint Case No. 4383 of 2010 pending before the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bahraich till further order of this Court."

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that the impugned summoning order issued by the Learned Magistrate is bad in law and against the settled principles of law, as despite noting the fact that the petitioner and some other persons who have been made accused in the alleged complaint does not reside in the territorial jurisdiction of learned magistrate, he proceeded to issue summons without complying the mandatory provisions of section 202 (1) Cr.P.C. in this regard the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Abhijit Pawar vs. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar & Anr "(2017) 3 SCC 528" has categorically held that "...Thus in those cases where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, it is mandatory on the part of the magistrate to conduct an enquiry or investigation before issuing the process, so that false complaints are filtered and rejected."

15. It has been submitted that the applicant is Managing Director of the MMFSL, under whom, thousands of branches across India functions, it is impossible for a person sitting at Mumbai to interfere or monitor day to day functions of a Branch, the petitioner in his entire career never visited Bahraich. Even for the sake of arguments, even if entire material on record is taken on its face value, then also by no stretch of imagination, it discloses any cognizable offence by the present petitioner/applicant.

16. In the light of the aforesaid submission the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the learned Magistrate has not applied his judicial mind while issuing the summons. The Learned Magistrate failed to comply with the mandatory provisions of Section 202 (1) Cr.P.C. as settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the catena of Judgments. That Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. There is absolutely non-application of judicial mind while issuing the summons and it appears that the Learned Magistrate is swayed away on the basis of concocted statements without any substance on record. The learned Magistrate totally failed to consider that the opposite party no. 2, Ramesh Chandra Mishra himself has been made an accused in the same case and Police has filed charge-sheet against him in heinous offences. The principles of vicarious liability is inapplicable in the present set of facts and circumstances.

17. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that now these days there is very high tendency to implicate higher officials of the company in criminal cases to exert pressure.

18. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the following judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court in re : Pepsi Foods Ltd. vs. Special Judicial Magistrate (1998) 5 SCC 749; Ravindranatha Bajpe v. Mangalore Special Economic Zone Ltd., (2022) 15 SCC 430; and State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335: 1992 SCC (Cri) 426.

19. Learned AGA has, however, tried to defend the impugned summoning order as well as order to issue bailable warrant but could not dispute the aforesaid factual and legal submissions of learned counsel for the petitioner.

20. Learned counsel for the private opposite party has also tried to defend the impugned orders but could not convince the court as to how for the same subject matter where the opposite party no. 2 himself is an accused on the basis of charge-sheet dated 19.3.2009, the complaint can be lodged against him after filing the aforesaid charge-sheet on 24.9.2010.

21. In the counter affidavit which has been filed on 19.2.2024, Sri Gyanendra Kumar Pandey could not demonstrate any material justifying the complaint of opposite party no. 2 and aforesaid impugned orders. Sri Pandey has stated that when the complaint has been filed; statement u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. has been recorded; summoning order has been issued against the petitioner and on account of non-cooperation of the petitioner the Bailable Warrant has been issued, then this Court may not interfere in the aforesaid proceedings and the direction may be issued to the petitioner to appear before the court concerned and participated in the proceedings. Therefore, Sri Pandey has requested that the instant petition may be dismissed.

22. Heard learned counsel for the parties, perused the material available on record as well as decisions of the Apex Court, so referred by the parties at the very outset, I am of the considered opinion that while taking cognizance of the allegations of the complaint where the opposite party / alleged accused person is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction and the allegations are not related to the offences triable by the sessions it would be mandatory on the part of the Magistrate to conduct the inquiry or investigation before issuing the process in terms of section 202(1) Cr.P.C., so that false complaints are filtered and rejected.

23. The Apex Court in re: Abhijit Pawar (supra) vide para 23 has held as under :

"23. Admitted position in law is that in those cases where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, it is mandatory on the part of the Magistrate to conduct an enquiry or investigation before issuing the process. Section 202 CrPC was amended in the year 2005 by the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2005, with effect from 22-6- 2006 by adding the words "and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his Jurisdiction". There is a vital purpose or objective behind this amendment, namely, to ward off false complaints against such persons residing at a far-off places in order to save them from unnecessary harassment. Thus, the amended provision casts an obligation on the Magistrate to conduct enquiry or direct investigation before issuing the process, so that false complaints are filtered and rejected. The aforesaid purpose is specifically mentioned in the note appended to the Bill proposing the said amendment.

24. Though at the time of issuing summons the mini trial is not required by the court concerned but, at least, the Magistrate must apply its judicious mind appreciating and perusing carefully the material available on record to be satisfied as to whether the allegations are prima facie convincing to summon the person. The law is trite that summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter, therefore, the order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied the mind to facts and circumstances and law applicable thereto.

25. The Apex Court in re: Pepsi Foods Ltd. (supra) vide para 28 has held as under :

"28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter.

Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. The Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

26. Similarly in re: Ravindranatha (supra), vide para 8.3 it has been observed that :

"8.3. As held by this Court in India Infoline Ltd. [GHCL Employees Stock Option Trust v. India Infoline Ltd., (2013) 4 SCC 505: (2013) 2 SCC (Cri) 414), in the order issuing summons, the learned Magistrate has to record his satisfaction about a prima facie case against the accused who are Managing Director, the Company Secretary and the Directors of the Company and the role played by them in their respective capacities which is sine qua non for initiating criminal proceedings against them. Looking to the averments and the allegations in the complaint, there are no specific allegations and/or averments with respect to role played by them in their capacity as Chairman, Managing Director, Executive Director, Deputy General Manager and Planner & Executor. Merely because they are Chairman, Managing Director/Executive Director and/or Deputy General Manager and/or Planner / Supervisor of A-1 and A-6, without any specific role attributed and the role played by them in their capacity, they cannot be arrayed as an accused, more particularly they cannot be held vicariously liable for the offences committed by A-1 and A-6."

27. The present case is also covered by para. 102 of the judgment of the Apex Court in re: Bhajan Lal (supra), which reads as under :

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code. (5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently Improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code of the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and / or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

28. In the present case the learned court concerned has not undertaken the required exercise u/s 202(1) Cr.P.C. and has not applied its judicial mind to peruse carefully the relevant fact that the complainant / opposite party has filed the complaint against the petitioner on 24.9.2010 in the same subject matter where the charge-sheet has already been filed against him before the competent court of law on 19.3.2009. If the magistrate had perused carefully the allegations and material available on record by applying its judicious mind the very fact would have been cleared that the present complaint is nothing but a counter-blast and by filing the aforesaid complaint the opposite party no. 2 has misused the process of law / court.

29. The facts and circumstances of the present case are squarely covered in para 102 (5) and 102(7) of Bhajan Lal (supra) inasmuch as the allegation made in the complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable inasmuch as the allegations, so leveled against the petitioner, are not only baseless and misconceived but those allegations have been leveled on account of malafide intention and ulterior motive prosecuting the petitioner maliciously for wreaking vengeance. Therefore, in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, I have no hesitation to quash the impugned complaint bearing Complaint Case no. 4383/2010 (Ramesh Chandra Mishra Vs Ramesh Iyer & others) as well as impugned summoning order dated 15.10.2010 and Bailable Warrant dated 10.2.2011 passed by the C.J.M., Bahraich.

30. Accordingly, I hereby quash the impugned complaint bearing Complaint

Case no. 4383/2010 (Ramesh Chandra Mishra Vs Ramesh Iyer & others) as well as impugned summoning orders dated 15.10.2010 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate Bahraich as well as Order dated 10.02.2011 by which the bailable warrant has been issued against the petitioner in Complaint Case no. 4383/2010 (Ramesh Chandra Mishra Vs Ramesh Iyer & others) contained as Annexure no 1 & 2 to the writ petition.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shamim Ahmad, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed on behalf of the applicant, namely, Mohd. Rashid Khan with a prayer to quash the impugned charge sheet dated 20.11.2017 alongwith impugned cognizance/summoning order dated 26.02.2019 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-Ist, Faizabad in Case No.551 of 2019 (State Vs. Rashid Khan), arising out of Case Crime No.0395 of 2017, under Sections 171 H and 188 of I.P.C., Police Station Cantt., District Faizabad as well as to quash the entire criminal proceedings in pursuance thereof.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the applicant was contesting on the post of Councilor in Urban Local Bodies Election, 2017. During that period on 17.11.2017, an F.I.R. was lodged by the opposite party no.2, namely, Sub Inspector Sri Avnish Kumar Chauhan, the then Chowki In-charge Sahadatganj, Police Station Cantt., District Ayodhya/Faizabad against the applicant alleging therein that one poster was put on a pole situated in front of house of Ashok Jaiswal. Further allegation in the F.I.R. was that the applicant was a candidate from Ward No.21 i.e. Sardar Bhagat Singh Ward and the aforesaid act of the applicant is an offence under Section 171 H / 188 of I.P.C.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that on 19.11.2017, the Investigating Officer recorded the statement of the applicant, wherein he denied the allegations. On 20.11.2017, the Investigating Officer recorded the statement of Opposite Party No.2 and one witness, namely, Constable Narendra Singh, under Section 161 Cr.P.C., wherein they supported the version of F.I.R.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that on 20.11.2017, the Investigating Officer prepared the impugned charge sheet dated 20.11.2017 and on 26.02.2019, the learned trial court without applying its judicial mind, took cognizance of the offence on police report.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the F.I.R. was registered under Sections 171 H and 188 I.P.C., which is without jurisdiction as Section 171 H of I.P.C. is described as non cognizable offence in the penal code and Section 195(1) Cr.P.C. specifically provides that no court shall take cognizance of any offence under Sections 172 to 188 except upon a complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate. Thus, taking cognizance under Section 188 I.P.C. is also without jurisdiction.

7. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that as per Section 2(d) Cr.P.C., the opposite party no.2 had no right to lodge the F.I.R. for offences as mentioned above rather he had to file the complaint only before the concerned court. He further submitted that not only the F.I.R. was registered but also the investigation was carried out and charge sheet was submitted without any jurisdiction.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that even if the entire story of the prosecution is accepted as true (only for the sake of argument though not admitted), Section 171 H of I.P.C. is not made out against the applicant in the instant case as only a person other than the candidate of an election can be made accused under Section 171 H of I.P.C.

9. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that as per Section 190 Cr.P.C., it is evident that the concerned Magistrate can take cognizance of any offence on three conditions i.e. (i) Upon receiving a complaint of facts, (ii) Upon a police report, and (iii) Suo-moto.

10. Learned counsel for the applicant further submitted that the impugned order dated 26.02.2019 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-Ist, Faizabad, by which the applicant was summoned, is also non speaking as the Magistrate has not considered any material available before him while summoning the applicant to face the trial. As such, the impugned order dated 26.02.2019 on the face of record appears to be unjustified, arbitrary, illegal and is passed without application of judicial mind, therefore, the same is liable to be set aside by this Court and the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is liable to be allowed.

11. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. for the State opposed the argument advanced by learned counsel for the applicant and submitted that the impugned summoning order dated 26.02.2019 is rightly passed and no interference by this Court is required in the instant matter, therefore, the instant application is liable to be dismissed at this stage only.

12. On careful perusal of the averments made in this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. as well as after hearing the learned counsel for the parties, the factual matrix disclose that the opposite party no.2 i.e. Sub Inspector Sri Avnish Kumar Chauhan, the then Chowki In-charge Sahadatganj, Police Station Cantt., District Ayodhya/Faizabad had lodged an F.I.R. against the applicant alleging therein that one poster was put on a pole situated in front of house of Ashok Jaiswal as the applicant was a candidate from Ward No.21 i.e. Sardar Bhagat Singh Ward contesting on the post of Councilor in Urban Local Bodies Election, 2017.

13. First of all, it would be relevant to quote Section 195(1) Cr.P.C., which is being reproduced hereunder:-

"195(1) Cr.P.C. :- No Court shall take cognizance -

(I) of any offence punishable under sections 172 to 188 (both inclusive) of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or

(ii) of any abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, except on the complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate;

(b)

(I) of any offence punishable under any of the following sections of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), namely, sections 193 to 196 (both inclusive), 199, 200, 205 to 211 (both inclusive) and 228, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in, or in relation to, any proceeding in any Court, or

(ii) of any offence described in section 463, or punishable under section

471, section 475 or section 476 of the said Code, when such offence is alleged to have been committed in respect of a document produced or given in evidence in a proceeding in any Court, or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit, or attempt to commit, or the abetment of, any offence specified in sub-clause (i) or sub-clause (ii),

[except on the complaint in writing of that Court or by such officer of the Court as that Court may authorise in writing in this behalf, or of some other Court to which that Court is subordinate.] [Substituted by Act 2 of 2006, Section 3 for "except on the complaint in writing of that Court, of of some other Court to which that Court is subordinate" (w.e.f. 16-4-2006).]"

14. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 195 (1) Cr.P.C., it is clear that the F.I.R. was registered without jurisdiction as Section 171 H of I.P.C. is described as a non-cognizable offence in the penal code whereas it is specifically mentioned that no Court shall take cognizance of any offence under Sections 172 to 188 I.P.C. except upon a complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate. Thus, taking cognizance under Section 188 I.P.C. is also without jurisdiction.

15. It would further be relevant to quote Section 2(d) Cr.P.C. which is being reproduced hereunder: -

""complaint" means any allegation made orally or in writing to a Magistrate, with a view to his taking action under this Code, that some person, whether known or unknown, has committed an offence, but does not include a police report."

16. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 2(d) Cr.P.C., it is clear that the opposite party no.2 had no right to lodge the F.I.R. for offences as mentioned above rather he had to file the complaint only before the concerned Magistrate.

17. It would also be relevant to quote Section 171 H of IPC, which is being reproduced hereunder:-

"171H. Illegal payments in connection with an election "Whoever without the general or special authority in writing of candidate incurs or authorises expenses on account of the holding of any public meeting, or upon any advertisement, circular or publication, or in any other way whatsoever for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of such candidate, shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

PROVIDED that if any person having incurred any such expenses not exceeding the amount of ten rupees without authority obtains within ten days from the date on which such expenses were incurred the approval in writing of the candidate, he shall be deemed to have incurred such expenses with the authority of the candidate."

18. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 171 H of I.P.C., it is clear that only a person other than the candidate of an election, can be made accused under Section 171 H of I.P.C. Therefore, there is substantial merit in the contention of the learned counsel for the applicant that the offence under Section 171 H of I.P.C. as made out would not lie.

19. It would also be relevant to quote Section 190 Cr.P.C., which is being reproduced hereunder:-

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1)Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section (2), may take cognizance of any offence -

(a)upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b)upon a police report of such facts;

(c)upon information received from any person other than a police officer or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2)The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try."

20. From perusal of the aforesaid Section 190 Cr.P.C., it is clear that the concerned magistrate can take cognizance of any offence on three condidtions i.e. (i) Upon receiving a complaint of facts, (ii) Upon a police report, and (iii) Suo-moto.

21. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Sachida Nand Singh and Another Vs. State of Bihar and Another; (1998) 2 SCC 493 was pleased to observe at para 7 as under:-

"Even if the clause is capable of two interpretation we are inclined to choose the narrower interpretation for obvious reasons. Section 190 of the Code empowers "any magistrate of the first class" to take cognizance of "any offence" upon receiving a complaint, or police report or information or upon his own knowledge. Section 195 restricts such general powers of the magistrate, and the general right of a person to move the Court with a complaint is to that extent curtailed. It is a well-recognised canon of interpretation that provision curbing the general jurisdiction of the court must normally receive strict interpretation unless the statute or the context requires otherwise."

22. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Daulat Ram Vs. State of Punjab; AIR 1962 SC 1206 was pleased to observe at para 4 as under:-

"Now the offence under s. 182 of the Penal Code, if any, was undoubtedly complete when the appellant had moved the Tehsildar for action. Section 182 does not require that action must always be taken if the person who moves the public servant knows or believes that action would be taken. In making his report to the Tehsildar therefore, if the appellant believed that some action would be taken (and he had no reason to doubt that it would not) the offence under that section was complete. It was therefore incumbent, if the prosecution was to be launched, that the complaint in writing should be made by the Tehsildar as the public servant concerned in this case. On the other hand what we find is that a complaint by the Tehsildar was not filed at all, but a charge sheet was put in by the Station House Officer. The learned counsel for the State Government tries to support the action by submitting that s. 195 had been complied with inasmuch as when the allegations had been disproved, the letter of the Superintendent of Police was forwarded to the Tehsildar and he asked for "a calendar". This paper was flied along with the charge sheet and it is stated that this satisfies the requirements of s. 195. In our opinion, this is not a due compliance with the provisions of that section. What the section comtemplates is that the complaint must be in writing by the public servant concerned and there is no such compliance in the present case. The cognizance of the case was therefore wrongly assumed by the court without the complaint in writing of the public servant namely the Tehsildar in this case. The trial was thus without jurisdiction ab inito and the conviction cannot be maintained."

23. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of M.S. Ahlawat Vs. State of Haryana and Another; AIR 2000 SC 168 was pleased to observe at para 5 as under:-

"Chapter XI of IPC deals with false evidence and offences against public justice' and Section 193 occurring therein provides for punishment for giving or fabricating false evidence in a judicial proceeding. Section 195 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Cr.P.C.) provides that where an act amounts to an offence of contempt of the lawful authority of public servants or to an offence against public justice such as giving false evidence under Section 193 IPC, etc. or to an offence relating to documents actually used in a court, private prosecutions are barred absolutely and only the court in relation to which the offence was committed may initiate proceedings. Provisions of Section 195 Cr.P.C. are mandatory and no court has jurisdiction to take cognizance of any of the offences mentioned therein unless there is a complaint in writing as required under that Section. It is settled law that every incorrect or false statement does not make it incumbent upon the court to order prosecution, but to exercise judicial discretion to order prosecution only in the larger interest of the administration of justice."

24. Now coming to the provision of first schedule of Cr.P.C., Section 171 H of Indian Penal Code is covered under the said provision which is declared as non-cognizable and bailable offence, and triable by the Magistrate of the First Class. Like wise classification of offence against other laws in Cr.P.C., it also describes, if any offence under any other law, if punishable for less than three years or with fine which shall be considered as non- cognizable, bailable and triable by the Magistrate of First Class.

25. On perusal of the above said provisions, it is abundantly clear that the offence registered against the applicant under Section 171H of IPC is non-cognizable in nature. Now, coming to Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C. which reads as follows:

"No police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial"

26. Particularly, Section 155(2) mandates the police concerned that such police officer shall investigate the non-cognizable offence with the permission of the Magistrate only. This Section describes that no Police Officer shall investigate a non- cognizable case without the order of the Magistrate having power to try such case for trial.

27. The provision in sub Section (2) of Section 155 of Cr.P.C., for asking permission of the Court to investigate a non-cognizable offence is mandatory in nature. Therefore, the investigation of non-cognizable offence by the police without prior permission of the competent Magistrate is illegal. Even mere accepting the charge sheet by the Magistrate and taking the cognizance of the offence does not validate the proceeding. Even subsequent permission by the Magistrate also cannot cure the illegality. As could be seen from Section 460 of Cr.P.C. these defects of non- taking permission before investigating a non- cognizable offence is also not curable. Though the charge sheet is filed after due investigation without prior permission of the Court and that the Magistrate has accepted the charge sheet and taken the cognizance, it does not mean to show permission is granted by the Magistrate to investigate such non-cognizable offence. Therefore, investigation into the non-cognizable offence without written order of the Magistrate is strictly contrary to the provision of this Section.

28. This Court further finds that the above said two offences are non-cognizable offences. Therefore, as per Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C., the police have no right or jurisdiction to investigate the matter, without prior permission of the Magistrate, who has got jurisdiction to try those offences. Therefore, the entire charge sheet filed by the police is vitiated by serious incurable defects and procedural irregularities.

29. This Court further finds that the F.I.R. as well as the charge sheet, do not disclose that there was any cognizable offence made by the applicant, so as to enable the police to investigate both the cognizable and non- cognizable offences together and to file the charge sheet. Therefore, the entire charge sheet papers and on the basis of which the criminal case is registered is liable to be quashed.

30. This Court also finds that the trial court while summoning the applicant by impugned order has totally failed to appreciate the factual and legal aspect of the matter. The legal position is well-settled that when a prosecution at the initial stage is asked to be quashed, the test to be applied by the court is as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made prima facie establish the offence. It is also for the court to take into consideration any special features which appear in a particular case to consider whether it is expedient and in the interest of justice to permit a prosecution to continue. This is so on the basis that the court cannot be utilised for any oblique purpose and where in the opinion of the court chances of an ultimate conviction is bleak and, therefore, no useful purpose is likely to be served by allowing a criminal prosecution to continue, the court may while taking into consideration the special facts of a case also quash the proceeding even though it may be at a preliminary stage.

31. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case Inder Mohan Goswami v. State of Uttaranchal (2007)12 SCC 1 has held that it would be relevant to keep into mind the scope and ambit of section 482 Cr.PC and circumstances under which the extra ordinary power of the court inherent therein as provisioned in the said section of the Cr.P.C. can be exercised, para 23 is being quoted here under:-

"23. This court in a number of cases has laid down the scope and ambit of courts powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. Every High Court has inherent power to act ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice, for the administration of which alone it exists, or to prevent abuse of the process of the court. Inherent power under section 482 Cr.P.C. can be exercised:

(i) to give effect to an order under the Code;

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of court, and

(iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice."

32. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India in the case of Lalankumar Singh and Others vs. State of Maharashtra reported in 2022 SCC Online SC 1383 has specifically held in paragraph No.38 that the order of issuance of process is not an empty formality. The Magistrate is required to apply his mind as to whether sufficient ground for proceeding exists in the case or not. Paragraph No.38 of Lalankumar Singh and Others (supra) is being quoted hereunder:-

"38. The order of issuance of process is not an empty formality. The Magistrate is required to apply his mind as to whether sufficient ground for proceeding exists in the case or not. The formation of such an opinion is required to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reasons are given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is a prima facie case against the accused. No doubt, that the order need not contain detailed reasons. A reference in this respect could be made to the judgment of this Court in the case of Sunil Bharti Mittal v. Central Bureau of Investigation, which reads thus:

"51. On the other hand, Section 204 of the Code deals with the issue of process, if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding. This section relates to commencement of a criminal proceeding. If the Magistrate taking cognizance of a case (it may be the Magistrate receiving the complaint or to whom it has been transferred under Section 192), upon a consideration of the materials before him (i.e. the complaint, examination of the complainant and his witnesses, if present, or report of inquiry, if any), thinks that there is a prima facie case for proceeding in respect of an offence, he shall issue process against the accused.

52. A wide discretion has been given as to grant or refusal of process and it must be judicially exercised. A person ought not to be dragged into court merely because a complaint has been filed. If a prima facie case has been made out, the Magistrate ought to issue process and it cannot be refused merely because he thinks that it is unlikely to result in a conviction.

53. However, the words "sufficient ground for proceeding" appearing in Section 204 are of immense importance. It is these words which amply suggest that an opinion is to be formed only after due application of mind that there is sufficient basis for proceeding against the said accused and formation of such an opinion is to be stated in the order itself. The order is liable to be set aside if no reason is given therein while coming to the conclusion that there is prima facie case against the accused, though the order need not contain detailed reasons. A fortiori, the order would be bad in law if the reason given turns out to be ex facie incorrect."

33. Further, Hon'ble the Supreme Court of India has provided guidelines in case of State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal reported in 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 for the exercise of power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. which is extraordinary power and used separately in following conditions:-

"102.(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused."

(2) where the allegations in the First Information Report and other materials, if any, accompanying the F.I.R. do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code;

(3) where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or 'complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused;

(4) where the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code;

(5) where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused;

(6) where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party;

(7) where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

34. Further the Apex Court has also laid down the guidelines where the criminal proceedings could be interfered and quashed in exercise of its power by the High Court in the following cases:- (i) R.P. Kapoor Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1960 S.C. 866, (ii) State of Bihar Vs. P.P. Sharma, 1992 SCC (Crl.)192, (iii) Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, (Para-10) 2005 SCC (Cri.) 283 and (iv) Neeharika Infrastructure Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2021 SC 1918.

35. In S.W. Palankattkar & others Vs. State of Bihar, 2002 (44) ACC 168, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that quashing of the criminal proceedings is an exception than a rule. The inherent powers of the High Court itself envisages three circumstances under which the inherent jurisdiction may be exercised:-(i) to give effect an order under the Code, (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court ; (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The power of High Court is very wide but should be exercised very cautiously to do real and substantial justice for which the court alone exists.

36. In view of the above said facts and circumstances of the case, the investigation done by the police in this case is without jurisdiction and based on such invalid investigation report, the cognizance taken by the learned Magistrate is also illegal. Secondly, the entire proceeding before the learned Magistrate is vitiated by serious incurable defects.

37. Thus, in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court and the facts and circumstances, as narrated above and from the perusal of the record, the impugned charge sheet dated 20.11.2017 alongwith impugned cognizance/summoning order dated 26.02.2019 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-Ist, Faizabad in Case No.551 of 2019 (State Vs. Mohd. Rashid Khan), arising out of Case Crime No.0395 of 2017, under Sections 171 H and 188 of I.P.C., Police Station Cantt., District Faizabad as well as the entire criminal proceedings in pursuance thereof are against the spirit and directions issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court and are liable to be set aside.

38. Accordingly, the impugned charge sheet dated 20.11.2017 alongwith impugned cognizance/summoning order dated 26.02.2019 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-Ist, Faizabad in Case No.551 of 2019 (State Vs. Mohd. Rashid Khan), arising out of Case Crime No.0395 of 2017, under Sections 171 H and 188 of I.P.C., Police Station Cantt., District Faizabad as well as the entire criminal proceedings in pursuance thereof are hereby quashed.

39. For the reasons discussed above, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in respect of the instant applicant.

40. Learned Senior Registrar of this Court is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the trial court concerned for its necessary compliance.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Aman Kumar Shrivastav, learned counsel appearing for the applicants and Sri Akhilesh Kumar Vyas, learned Additional Government Advocate and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicants have challenged the validity of the order dated 31.01.2024 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, outlying Court, Mohammadi, Lakhimpur Kheri whereby an application filed under Section 311 Cr.P.C. for summoning the investigating officer as a witness has been rejected.

3. It has been stated in the impugned order dated 31.01.2024 that the incident in question occurred on 06.04.2006. After investigation a final report was submitted on 20.06.2006. Thereafter, the complainant filed a protest petition on 27.07.2007, which was allowed and the applicants were summoned to face trial.

4. During trial, prosecution examined as many as 5 witnesses but the investigating officer Jai Prakash Yadav was not examined. The application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. was filed when the trial had reached at the stage of arguments and it was stated therein that it would be in the interest of justice that the investigating officer to be examined as a witness.

5. Trial court has stated in the impugned order that prosecution evidence was closed on 03.03.2023. Statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 05.04.2023 and thereafter the matter was fixed for defence evidence.

6. After examination of the defence witnesses, the matter was fixed for argument and at this stage, the accused has filed an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. for summoning the investigating officer, who has submitted the final report as a witness.

7. Trial court held that it is for the prosecution to decide as to which its witnesses the prosecution desires to produce. The application was filed when the trial had reached the stage of arguments in order to cause delay in disposal of the trial.

8. The learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. can be filed at any stage of trial, even before delivery of final judgement. In support of this submission he has relied upon a judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme court in the case of Manu Devi vs State of Rajasthan & Anr: (2019) 6 SCC 203 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the discretionary powers like those under Section 311 CrPC are essentially intended to ensure that every necessary and appropriate measure is taken by the Court to keep the record straight and to clear any ambiguity insofar as the evidence is concerned as also to ensure that no prejudice is caused to anyone.

9. The learned counsel for the applicants has also relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Harendra Rai vs State of Bihar & Ors 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1023 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that Section 311 CrPC confers wide powers on any court at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code to summon material witness or examine person present. Such person may not be a person summoned as a witness. Power to recall and re-examine is also vested. The concept is that it should be essential for the just decision of the case.

10. The investigating officer is an officer of the prosecution and the prosecution chose not to produce him as its witness. In case the accused persons felt that evidence of the investigating officer was essential, the accused could have summoned him as a defence witness but the accused did not choose to summon him as a defence witness. The application for summoning the investigating officer has been filed when the trial reached at the stage of final arguments.

11. In State (NCT of Delhi) vs. Shiv Kumar Yadav : (2016) 2 SCC 402, it has been held that: -

"Certainly, recall could be permitted if essential for the just decision, but not on such consideration as has been adopted in the present case. Mere observation that recall was necessary "for ensuring fair trial" is not enough unless there are tangible reasons to show how the fair trial suffered without recall. Recall is not a matter of course and the discretion given to the court has to be exercised judiciously to prevent failure of justice and not arbitrarily. While the party is even permitted to correct its bona fide error and may be entitled to further opportunity even when such opportunity may be sought without any fault on the part of the opposite party, plea for recall for advancing justice has to be bona fide and has to be balanced carefully with the other relevant considerations including un-called for hardship to the witnesses and un-called for delay in the trial. Having regard to these considerations, there is no ground to justify the recall of witnesses already examined."

12. In Ratanlal vs. Prahlad Jat, (2017) 9 SCC 340, it was held that: -

"17. In order to enable the court to find out the truth and render a just decision, the salutary provisions of Section 311 are enacted whereunder any court by exercising its discretionary authority at any stage of inquiry, trial or other proceeding can summon any person as witness or examine any person in attendance though not summoned as a witness or recall or re-examine any person already examined who are expected to be able to throw light upon the matter in dispute. The object of the provision as a whole is to do justice not only from the point of view of the accused and the prosecution but also from the point of view of an orderly society. This power is to be exercised only for strong and valid reasons and it should be exercised with caution and circumspection. Recall is not a matter of course and the discretion given to the court has to be exercised judicially to prevent failure of justice. Therefore, the reasons for exercising this power should be spelt out in the order."

13. In Manju Devi vs. State of Rajasthan: (2019) 6 SCC 203, the Hon'ble Court emphasized that a discretionary power like Section 311 CrPC is to enable the Court to keep the record straight and to clear any ambiguity regarding the evidence, whilst also ensuring no prejudice is caused to anyone.

14. In Swapan Kumar Chatterjee vs CBI, (2019) 14 SCC 328, it was held that: -

"10. The first part of this section which is permissive gives purely discretionary authority to the criminal court and enables it at any stage of inquiry, trial or other proceedings under the Code to act in one of the three ways, namely, (i) to summon any person as a witness; or (ii) to examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness; or (iii) to recall and re-examine any person already examined. The second part, which is mandatory, imposes an obligation on the court (i) to summon and examine, or (ii) to recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to be essential to the just decision of the case.

11. It is well settled that the power conferred under Section 311 should be invoked by the court only to meet the ends of justice. The power is to be exercised only for strong and valid reasons and it should be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The court has vide power under this section to even recall witnesses for re-examination or further examination, necessary in the interest of justice, but the same has to be exercised after taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of each case. The power under this provision shall not be exercised if the court is of the view that the application has been filed as an abuse of the process of law.

15. In V. N. Patil v. K. Niranjan Kumar, (2021) 3 SCC 661, it was held that: -

"14. The object underlying Section 311 CrPC is that there may not be failure of justice on account of mistake of either party in bringing the valuable evidence on record or leaving ambiguity in the statements of the witnesses examined from either side. The determinative factor is whether it is essential to the just decision of the case. The significant expression that occurs is "at any stage of any inquiry or trial or other proceeding under this Code". It is, however, to be borne in mind that the discretionary power conferred under Section 311 CrPC has to be exercised judiciously, as it is always said "wider the power, greater is the necessity of caution while exercise of judicious discretion".

17. The aim of every court is to discover the truth. Section 311 CrPC is one of many such provisions which strengthen the arms of a court in its effort to unearth the truth by procedure sanctioned by law. At the same time, the discretionary power vested under Section 311 CrPC has to be exercised judiciously for strong and valid reasons and with caution and circumspection to meet the ends of justice."

16. In Harendra Rai vs. State of Bihar 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1023, a three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Court was held that Section 311, CrPC should be invoked when it is essential for the just decision of the case.

17. In the present case, the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. was moved by the accused persons when trial reached the stage of hearing final submissions, for summoning the investigating officer, who is an officer of the prosecution. The prosecution could have produced the investigating officer as its witness, but it chose not to examine him. The accused also examined his witnesses but he chose not to examine the investigating officer as a defence witness. When the trial reached the stage of submissions, the application has been moved for summoning the investigating officer as a witness on the ground that he had submitted a final report. Submission of the final report is not a disputed question of fact and there does not appear to be any necessity for examination of the investigating officer to prove this fact.

18. Besides making a bald statement that it would be in the interest of justice to examine the investigating officer, nothing has been stated as to why his examination is essential for a just decision of the case.

19. From the aforesaid discussion calling of the investigating officer to be examined a witness at this stage does not appear to be essential for a just decision of a case. The application has been moved apparently to cause delay in conclusion of the trial and it has rightly been rejected by the trial court.

20. As there is no illegality in the order of the trial court, the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. lacks merit and the same is hereby rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Bhupendra Nath Tripathi, the learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A-I for the State and Sri. Prateek Tewari, the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2.

2. In application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C- 8898 of 2024, the applicant has challenged the validity of an order dated 07.06.2023 passed by the Special Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, C.B.I. (A.P.), Lucknow in Criminal Case No. 64083 of 2023 (State Vs. Romit Soni) and the charge sheet dated 03.06.2022 arising out of Case rime No. 085 of 2021 under Section 306 I.P.C, P.S Mahangar, District Lucknow and in application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C- 2038 of 2024, the applicant has challenged the validity of an order dated 15.02.2024 passed by the learned Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.15, Lucknow in Session Trial No. 170 of 2024 (State of U.P. Vs. Romit Soni), arising out of Case rime No. 85 of 2021 under Section 306 I.P.C, P.S Mahangar, District Lucknow North (Commissionerate Lucknow), whereby an application filed by the applicant under Section 227 Cr.P.C for his discharge has been rejected.

3. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the opposite party no.2 had lodged an F.I.R on 20.03.2021. stating that his husband was working as a Section Officer in the Civil Secretariat, U.P. He was found dead hanging from the ceiling inside a closed room of the house. The complainant stated in the F.I.R that her husband used to tell her that the applicant was harassing her. He had left a suicide note wherein he had held that the applicant is responsible for his suicide.

4. In the suicide note, the deceased wrote that he had paid Rs. 35 lakhs to the applicant, which he is unable to party. He wrote that the applicant was responsible for his suicide.

5. After investigation, the investigating office has submitted a charge sheet on 03.09.2022 against the applicant under Section 306 I.P.C and the trial court took cognizance of the offence by means of an order dated 07.06.2023 and summoned the applicant to face the trial.

6. The submission of the learned counsel of the applicant is that from the contents of the suicide note, no case of instigation for suicide is made out against the applicant. Besides the suicide note there is no other evidence to establish that the applicant had instigated the deceased to commit suicide.

7. During pendency of the application, the applicant had filed an application for discharge under Section 227 Cr.P.C which was rejected by means of an order dated 15.02.2024 passed by the trial court and the applicant has filed an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C No. 2038 of 2024 challenging the validity of an order dated 15.02.2024 passed by the learned Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.15, Lucknow.

8. Per contra, the learned A.G.A-I as well as the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 have submitted that the deceased has clearly written in the suicide note that he had committed becasue of the applicant and the applicant is responsible for the same. Therefore, a case for trial of the applicant is made out and the prosecution should not be scuttle at the threshold without trial of the applicant.

9. I have considered the submission of the learned counsel for the parties.

10. Abetment of suicide is defined in Section 306 I.P.C. as follows: -

"306.Abetment of suicide.—If any person commits suicide, whoever abets the commission of such suicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine."

"Abetment of a thing" has been defined under Section 107 of the Code, which reads as under:

107. Abetment of a thing.—A person abets the doing of a thing, who—

First.—Instigates any person to do that thing; or

Secondly.—Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or Thirdly.—Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1.—A person who, by wilful misrepresentation, or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing.

Illustration

A, a public officer, is authorised by a warrant from a Court of Justice to apprehend Z. B, knowing that fact and also that C is not Z, wilfully represents to A that C is Z, and thereby intentionally causes A to apprehend C. Here B abets by instigation the apprehension of C.

Explanation 2.—Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does anything in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act."

11. In M. Mohan v. State, (2011) 3 SCC 626, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"44. Abetment involves a mental process of instigating a person or intentionally aiding a person in doing of a thing. Without a positive act on the part of the accused to instigate or aid in committing suicide, conviction cannot be sustained.

45. The intention of the legislature and the ratio of the cases decided by this Court are clear that in order to convict a person under Section 306 IPC there has to be a clear mens rea to commit the offence. It also requires an active act or direct act which led the deceased to commit suicide seeing no option and this act must have been intended to push the deceased into such a position that he/she committed suicide."

12. The aforesaid judgment in M. Mohan (Supra) has recently been followed in Prabhat Kumar Mishra v. State of U.P., 2024 SCC OnLine SC 232.

13. In Mahendra Singh v. State of M.P., 1995 Supp (3) SCC 731, the three appellants were convicted under Section 306 IPC based on the following dying declaration of the deceased:

"My mother-in-law and husband and sister-in-law harassed me. They beat me and abused me. My husband Mahendra wants to marry a second time. He has illicit connections with my sister-in-law. Because of these reasons and being harassed I want to die by burning."

Allowing the appeal and setting aside conviction, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"2. ... The dying declaration, per se, could not involve the appellants in offence punishable under Section 306 IPC, because it provides for abetment of suicide. Whoever abets the commission of suicide, and if any person commits suicide due to that reason, he shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine. Abetment has been defined in Section 107 IPC to mean that a person abets the doing of a thing who firstly instigates any person to do a thing, or secondly, engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing, or thirdly, intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing. Neither of the ingredients of abetment are attracted on the statement of the deceased. The conviction of the appellants under Section 306 IPC merely on the allegation of harassment to the deceased is not sustainable."

14. In Ramesh Kumar v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2001) 9 SCC 618, the dying declaration was as under: -

"Q. What is your name? What is the name of husband? Marriage when done?

Ans. Seema Bai. Name of husband — Ramesh Dubey. Marriage performed in June 1985.

Q. What happened with you?

Ans. Today in the morning I poured kerosene on me and set fire.

Q. Why you set fire?

Ans. Today in the morning quarrel had occurred between me and my husband.

Q. Previously also quarrel had occurred at any time?

Ans. No. From being aggrieved by the quarrel of today, I set fire.

Q. What happened in today's quarrel?

Ans. In the morning he told me that you are free. You go wherever you want to go.

Q. Whether you want to say anything more?

Ans. No."

The Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"19. The picture which emerges from a cumulative reading and assessment of the material available is this: presumably because of disinclination on the part of the accused to drop the deceased at her sister's residence the deceased felt disappointed, frustrated and depressed. She was overtaken by a feeling of shortcomings which she attributed to herself. She was overcome by a forceful feeling generating within her that in the assessment of her husband she did not deserve to be his life partner. The accused Ramesh may or must have told the deceased that she was free to go anywhere she liked. Maybe that was in a fit of anger as contrary to his wish and immediate convenience the deceased was emphatic on being dropped at her sister's residence to see her. Presumably the accused may have said some such thing — you are free to do whatever you wish and go wherever you like. The deceased being a pious Hindu wife felt that having being given in marriage by her parents to her husband, she had no other place to go excepting the house of her husband and if the husband had "freed" her she thought impulsively that the only thing which she could do was to kill herself, die peacefully and thus free herself according to her understanding of the husband's wish. Can this be called an abetment of suicide? Unfortunately, the trial court misspelt out the meaning of the expression attributed by the deceased to her husband as suggesting that the accused had made her free to commit suicide. Making the deceased free — to go wherever she liked and to do whatever she wished, does not and cannot mean even by stretching that the accused had made the deceased free "to commit suicide" as held by the trial court and upheld by the High Court.

20. Instigation is to goad, urge forward, provoke, incite or encourage to do "an act". To satisfy the requirement of instigation though it is not necessary that actual words must be used to that effect or what constitutes instigation must necessarily and specifically be suggestive of the consequence. Yet a reasonable certainty to incite the consequence must be capable of being spelt out. The present one is not a case where the accused had by his acts or omission or by a continued course of conduct created such circumstances that the deceased was left with no other option except to commit suicide in which case an instigation may have been inferred. A word uttered in the fit of anger or emotion without intending the consequences to actually follow cannot be said to be instigation."

15. In Geo Varghese v. State of Rajasthan, (2021) 19 SCC 144, the suicide note consisted of three pages with following written on each separate paper: -

01st page — 'my all things goes to my dear bro kairn even my love bye buddy & sorry'

03rd page — 'thanks geo (pti) of my school'

The Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to various precedents on the point and held that: -

"22. What is required to constitute an alleged abetment of suicide under Section 306IPC is there must be an allegation of either direct or indirect act of incitement to the commission of offence of suicide and mere allegations of harassment of the deceased by another person would not be sufficient in itself, unless, there are allegations of such actions on the part of the accused which compelled the commission of suicide. Further, if the person committing suicide is hypersensitive and the allegations attributed to the accused are otherwise not ordinarily expected to induce a similarly situated person to take the extreme step of committing suicide, it would be unsafe to hold the accused guilty of abetment of suicide. Thus, what is required is an examination of every case on its own facts and circumstances and keeping in consideration the surrounding circumstances as well, which may have bearing on the alleged action of the accused and the psyche of the deceased."

16. When this court examines the facts of the present case in the light of the law laid down in the aforesaid cases, it appears that the deceased had written in the suicide note that he had paid rupees thirty five lacs to the applicant and the applicant was unable to repay the amount. He did not allege that the applicant was not repaying the amount deliberately. Besides stating that the applicant was unable to repay the amount and that the applicant was responsible for his suicide note, the deceased did not alleged commission of any act by the applicant.

17. Therefore, there is no allegation of either direct or indirect act of incitement to the commission of offence of suicide. By merely stating that the applicant was responsible for suicide of the deceased as he was unable to repay the money taken from the deceased, no case for abetment of suicide is made out against the applicant.

18. In the case of State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335, the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the law laid down in various precedents regarding scope of interference under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and summarized the law in the following words:-

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised.

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

19. The present case falls within the categories of (1) and (3) as from the allegations levelled in the F.I.R. and the material collected during investigation, no case of abetment of suicide is made out against the applicant.

20. In these circumstances, the continuance of criminal proceedings against the applicant would not be in the interest of justice. Accordingly, the application is allowed and the order dated 07.06.2023 passed by the Special Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, C.B.I. (A.P.), Lucknow in Criminal Case No. 64083 of 2023 (State Vs. Romit Soni) and the charge sheet dated 03.06.2022 arising out of Case Crime No. 085 of 2021 under Section 306 I.P.C, P.S Mahangar, District Lucknow and the order dated 15.02.2024 passed by the learned Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.15, Lucknow in Session Trial No. 170 of 2024 (State of U.P. Vs. Romit Soni), arising out of Case rime No. 85 of 2021 under Section 306 I.P.C, P.S Mahangar, District Lucknow North (Commissionerate Lucknow) are hereby quashed and the applicant stands discharged.

(infra), it is sufficient to observe that grant of interim relief by coordinate Bench, based on judgment not holding as good law, cannot persuade Court from examining merits of present application - On consideration of facts and law laid down, it emerges that Lekhpal, in FIR, alleged that co-accused Aqueel Ahmad @ Beeka had taken into possession of government land earmarked as chakroad and nali, and that applicant, proprietor of Sherehind Infracon Pvt. Ltd., was carving out residential plots thereon, including on government land - In these circumstances, case for prosecution of

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicant has sought quashing of the proceedings of Criminal Case No.22848 of 2023: State vs Aqeel Ahmad & Ors arising out of Charge-sheet No.176 of 2022 dated 22.05.2022 in pursuance of Case Crime No.46 of 2022, under Section 2/3 Prevention of Damages to Public Property Act, Police Station Shivgarh, Raebareli.

3. Opposite party No.2- Lekhpal has lodged FIR No.46 of 2022 on 02.02.2022 against three named persons, Aqeel Ahmad Khan @ Beeka, Arshad and Sherehind Infracon Pvt Ltd., of which the applicant is a proprietor stating that upon demarcation of certain land, including the land of chakroad and nali, it was found that the accused Aqeel Ahmad Khan @ Beeka had entered into possession of the land. The applicant's firm Sherehind Infracon Pvt Ltd., is carving out plots of the land of which Bika has taken possession.

4. During investigation, statement of the Lekhpal has been recorded, who has supported the FIR allegations.

5. The learned counsel for the applicant states that the allegations leveled are false and the applicant has not taken into possession the land of chakrod and nali. This is a factual contention, which cannot be gone into by this Court while deciding the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

6. The learned counsel for the applicant has next submitted that the no proceedings under Section 67 of the U.P. Revenue Code have been initiated against the applicant.

7. The learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance a decision of coordinate bench of this Court in the case of Munshi Lal & Anr vs State of U.P. & Anr : Application u/s 482 No.9964 of 2020 decided on 06.08.2020 wherein it was held that Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 is confined to restriction and damage of public property during the course of riots or public demonstrations only. Relying the aforesaid decision another coordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 09.01.2024 stayed proceedings of criminal case in respect of the co-accused Aqueel Ahmad @ Beeka vs State of U.P.: Application u/s 482 No.121 of 2024.

8. Per contra, the learned A.G.A.-I has submitted that the decision in Munshi

Lal (supra) is no longer hold good law, as in a subsequent decision in the case of Devnath Yadav vs State of U.P. & Ors : Criminal Misc Writ Petition No.1131 of 2021 decided on 03.03.2021, a Division Bench of this Court held that

"Upon a careful perusal of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984, we find that Section 2(a) of the Act provides that the word "mischief" occurring in the Act shall have the same meaning as in Section 425 of the Indian Penal Code, which is quoted below -

"Section 425 :Mischief : Whoever with intent to cause, or knowing that he is likely to cause, wrongful loss or damage to the public or to any person, causes the destruction of any property, or any such change in any property or in the situation thereof as destroys or diminishes its value or utility, or affects it injuriously, commits "mischief".

Admittedly, the land in question is public utility land having been reserved during consolidation operations for use as pasture land for grazing cattle. Any encroachment thereon, as is admitted by the petitioner, means that the same cannot be used as pasture land. As such the situation of the property has been changed by the petitioner by construction of a boundary wall. Such construction prevents the use of the land encroached upon as pasture land and has diminished its value or utility. The act of the petitioner is therefore, covered by Section 425 of the Indian Penal Code.Therefore, there is no doubt that the encroachment by the petitioner over public utility land, reserved as pasture land, amounts to a mischief within the meaning of the term under Section 425 IPC.

Section 3(1) of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 provides that who ever commits mischief in respect of any public property shall be punished with imprisonment for a term upto five years with fine.

Land reserved for its use as pasture land is land reserved for a public purpose. It is, therefore, public utility land. It is also land covered by Section 67 of the Revenue Code, 2006 wherein no right can accrue in favour of any person. It is also not disputed that the land in question has been reserved for a public purposes, namely, for its use as pasture land.

It is no doubt true that Section 67 of the Revenue Code, 2006 provides a complete procedure for eviction of unauthorized occupants of Gaon Sabha land, which may or may not be public utility land. The said provision is only for eviction and for recovery of damages on account of such unauthorized occupation and user of land belonging to the State under the management of the Gaon Sabha. It is a purely civil remedy with no criminality, attached. The same encroachment, of public utility land, under the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, is a criminal offence, visited by penal consequences, namely, imprisonment and fine. Besides, no order for eviction of an unauthorized occupant can be passed under the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act. Therefore, in our considered opinion, the two provisions, namely, 67 of the Revenue Code and Sections 2,3 and 5 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act operate in different fields. In case the legislature in its wisdom, considered it fit to declare any action to be also a criminal act, the same, does not require to be read down or its scope to be narrowed down. Since, the two provisions operate in different spheres, it cannot be accepted that there is any overlap. There is no bar for the institution and prosecution of Civil and Criminal proceedings regarding an act, if both have the mandate of law. In any case, an act can given rise to both criminal and civil liability and therefore, both civil and criminal proceedings can be resorted to simultaneously."

9. Therefore, aforesaid submission of the learned counsel for the applicant on the decision of Munshi Lal (supra), has no force and the same is rejected.

10. Regarding Munshi Lal (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicant, the Division Bench in Devnath Yadav (supra) dealt with the same in following words:-

"Coming to the judgement in the case of Munshi Lal (supra), we find that the learned Single Judge, proceeded on the premise that Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 was enacted to curb vandalism and damage to pubic property. The first sentence of its Statement of Objects and Reasons reads as follows -

"With a view to curb acts of vandalism and damage to public property, including destruction and damage caused during riots and public commotion, a need was felt to strengthen the law to enable the authorities to deal effectively with cases of damage to public property."

The use of the word "including" has been given a restrictive interpretation in the judgment cited. We are of the opinion that the said word is illustrative rather that bringing also within its ambit, "destruction and damage caused during riots and public commotion" as stated in the Statement of Objects and Reasons. The use of word "including" therefore, cannot be read to mean that the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act can be invoked only where damage to public property is occasioned by vandalism, riots or public commotion.

In our considered opinion, the learned Single Judge has taken a narrow view of Section 3(1) of the Act and has primarily relied upon Sections 3(2) of the Act as also upon Section 4 of the Act for arriving at the final conclusion, in the judgement cited."

11. Learned A.G.A.-I has placed reliance on a decision rendered by a coordinate Bench of this Court in Ramnarayan Pandey vs State of U.P.: 2023 (125) ACC 224 wherein it was held that "The scope of proceedings under the PDPP Act is, therefore entirely different from that of proceedings of eviction, which might be initiated in respect of wrongful occupation of Gram Panchayat properties under Section 67 of the Revenue Code. The saving clause under Section 6 of the PDPP Act makes it clear that the provisions of the Act are in addition to, and not in derogation of, the provisions of any other law for the time being in force, and that the proceedings under any other enactment may also be instituted or taken without there being any bar in respect of the same."

12. So far as the submission of the learned counsel for the applicant that a co-accused has been granted interim relief by means of an order dated 09.01.2024 passed in Application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. No.9964 of 2020 is concerned, suffice it to say that merely because a coordinate Bench has granted interim order to an accused person relying on a judgment which does not hold good law, this Court cannot persuade from examination of the merit of the application and decide the application and when I examine the facts of the case in law and the law laid down in the aforesaid case, it appears that the Lekhpal has alleged in the FIR that co-accused Aqueel Ahmad @ Beeka has taken into possession of the government land meant to be used as chakroad and nali and the applicant is carving out residential plots on the land including the Government land.

13. In these circumstances, a case for prosecution of the application under Sections 2/3 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984 is made out. The application lacks merit and is hereby dismissed.

1. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री जलज कुमार गुप्ता तथा राज्य सरकार के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री पुनीत कुमार यादव को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

2. धारा 482 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत इस प्रार्थना पत्र द्वारा

3. विपक्षी सं. 2 ने दिनांक 22.10.2018 को धारा 156 (3) दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत एक प्रार्थना पत्र देकर कहा कि दिनांक 24.09.2018 को जब वह अपने मुकदमे की पैरवी करके वापस लौट रहा था, रात 9:30 बजे रास्ते में सभी अभियुक्तगण ने उसको मारा-पीटा, गालियां दी और जान से मारने की धमकी दी तथा प्रार्थी सं. 3 ने उसकी जेब से रु० 1220/- जबरन निकाल लिए।

4. उक्त प्रार्थना पत्र को न्यायालय ने एक परिवाद के रूप में पंजीकृत किया है। विपक्षी सं. 2 ने धारा 200 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत लिखाए गए अपने बयान में परिवाद के कथनों का समर्थन किया तथा यह भी कहा कि प्रार्थी सं. 3 के मारने से उसके बाएं हाथ की हड्डी टूट गई थी। अर्जुन दुबे तथा इंद्रपाल, जो घटना के चक्षुदर्शी साक्षी कहे गए हैं, उन्होंने धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत अपने बयान अंकित कराके घटना का समर्थन किया।

5. आलोच्य आदेश की वैधता को चुनौती देते हुए प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने तर्क दिया कि इसके पूर्व में प्रार्थी सं 2 ने विपक्षी सं. 2 के विरुद्ध एक परिवाद प्रस्तुत किया था। परिवाद की प्रति अथवा परिवाद प्रस्तुत करने की तिथि प्रार्थना पत्र में अभिकथित नहीं की गई है। उक्त परिवाद के आधार पर संस्थित वाद सं. 626 सन 2016 में विद्वान अतिरिक्त मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट कक्ष सं. 13 जौनपुर द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 27.07.2017 की प्रति प्रार्थना पत्र के साथ संलग्न है, जिसके द्वारा विपक्षी सं. 2 तथा उसके पिता घुरऊ को धारा 323, 498 (A) भा०दं०सं० एवं 3/4 दहेज प्रतिषेध अधिनियम के आरोप के विचारण हेतु आहूत किया गया। प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि वर्ष 2017 में पारित उपरोक्त आदेश के प्रतिशोधस्वरूप यह परिवाद प्रस्तुत किया गया है।

6. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने कृष्ण लाल चावला तथा अन्य बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य तथा एक अन्य 20215 एस.सी.सी. 435 में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा पारित निर्णय का आश्रय लिया, जिसमें यह अवधारित किया गया है कि विचारण न्यायालय को उचित मामलों में अभियोजन को प्रारंभ में ही निरस्त कर देना चाहिए, जिससे कि बहुमूल्य न्यायिक समय की बरबादी रुक सके।

7. कृष्ण लाल चावला के उपरोक्त प्रकरण के तथ्य इस प्रकार थे कि दिनांक 05.08.2012 को शिकायतकर्ता ने एक असंज्ञेय अपराध की सूचना दी जिसमें उसने कहा कि अभियुक्तगण ने उसके घर आकर उसे और उसकी पत्नी को लोहे की सरिया से मारा और जान से मारने की धमकी दी। अभियक्त की तरफ से भी उसी घटना की एक रिपोर्ट दिनांक 05.08.2012 को ही प्रस्तुत करके धारा 323, 504, 506 भा०दं०सं के अपराधों का आरोप शिकायतकर्ता और उसकी पत्नी के विरुद्ध लगाया गया। पक्षकारों के मध्य पहले से विवाद चला आ रहा था। घटना के पांच वर्ष के बाद दिनांक 27.04.2017 को अभियुक्तगण ने मजिस्ट्रेट के समक्ष धारा 155(2) दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत प्रार्थना पत्र देकर प्रकरण की विवेचना पुलिस से कराए जाने का अनुरोध किया, जिसके अनुक्रम में प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट पंजीकृत हुई तथा दिनांक 17.09.2017 को पुलिस ने धारा 323, 325, 504, 506 भा०दं०सं० के अन्तर्गत आरोपों के संबंध में आरोप पत्र प्रस्तुत किया तथा मजिस्ट्रेट ने अभियुक्तगण को आहूत कर आरोप विरचित कर दिया। आरोप विरचित करने के बाद कई वर्ष बीतने के उपरांत भी कोई साक्षी प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया था। इसके उपरांत शिकायतकर्ता ने दिनांक 05.08.2012 को घटित हुई घटना के संबंध में ही वर्ष 2018 में एक परिवाद प्रस्तुत कर दिया, जिसमें कि घटना के संबंध में पूर्व में कहे गए कथनों में काफी फेर-बदल करके घटना को गंभीर दिखाया गया तथा कई नए आरोप भी लगा दिए गए। उपरोक्त तथ्यों के आलोक में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने उक्त निर्णय देते हुए यह कहा कि न्यायालयों को इस प्रकार के व्यर्थ के प्रकरणों द्वारा वादकारियों को न्यायिक प्रक्रिया का दुरुपयोग नहीं करने देना चाहिए। कृष्ण लाल चावला का उपरोक्त निर्णय उस वाद के तथ्यों पर आधारित था जबकि प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में ऐसा नहीं है।

8. प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में विपक्षी सं. 2 के विरुद्ध शिकायत वर्ष 2017 में प्रस्तुत की गई थी। यदि विपक्षी सं. 2 को बदले की भावना से कोई झूठी शिकायत करनी होती तो वह उस प्रकरण के पंजीकृत होने के तुरन्त बाद ऐसी कोई कार्यवाही करता। उक्त प्रकरण के लगभग 6 वर्ष के पश्चात एक अलग घटना दर्शाते हुए अंकित किए गए परिवाद को वर्ष 2016 की घटना से व्यथित होकर बदले में की गई कार्यवाही कहते हुए बिना विचारण के अपास्त नहीं किया जा सकता है।

9. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने यह भी तर्क दिया कि प्रार्थीगण विचारण न्यायालय की परिसीमा से बाहर निवास करते हैं तथा ऐसे में विचारण न्यायालय को प्रार्थीगण को आहूत करने से पहले धारा 202 (1) दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत जाँच की कार्यवाही करनी चाहिए थी।

10. धारा 202 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के प्राविधान निम्न प्रकार हैं: -

(1) यदि कोई मजिस्ट्रेट ऐसे अपराध का परिवाद प्राप्त करने पर, जिसका संज्ञान करने के लिए वह प्राधिकृत है या जो धारा 192 के अधीन उसके हवाले किया गया है, ठीक समझता है तो और, ऐसे मामले में जहाँ अभियुक्त ऐसे किसी स्थान में निवास कर रहा है जो उस क्षेत्र से परे है जिसमें वह अपनी अधिकारिता का प्रयोग करता है। अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध आदेशिका का जारी किया जाना मुल्तवी कर सकता है और यह विनिश्चित करने के प्रयोजन से कि कार्यवाही करने के लिए पर्याप्त आधार है अथवा नहीं, या तो स्वयं ही मामले की जांच कर सकता है या किसी पुलिस अधिकारी द्वारा या अन्य ऐसे व्यक्ति द्वारा, जिसको वह ठीक समझे अन्वेषण किए जाने के लिए निर्देश दे सकता है:

परन्तु अन्वेषण के लिए ऐसा कोई निर्देश वहां नहीं दिया जाएगा-

(क) जहां मजिस्ट्रेट को यह प्रतीत होता है कि वह अपराध जिसका परिवाद किया गया है अनन्यतः सेशन न्यायालय द्वारा विचारणीय है; अन्यथा

(ख) जहां परिवाद किसी न्यायालय द्वारा नहीं किया गया है जब तक कि परिवादी की या उपस्थित साक्षियों की (यदि कोई हो) धारा 200 के अधीन शपथ पर परीक्षा नहीं कर ली जाती है।

(2) उपधारा (1) के अधीन किसी जांच में यदि मजिस्ट्रेट ठीक समझता है तो साक्षियों का शपथ पर साक्ष्य ले सकता है:

परन्तु यदि मजिस्ट्रेट को यह प्रतीत होता है कि वह अपराध जिसका परिवाद किया गया है अनन्यतः सेशन न्यायालय द्वारा विचारणीय है तो यह परिवादी से अपने सब साक्षियों को पेश करने की अपेक्षा करेगा और उनकी शपथ पर परीक्षा करेगा।

(3) यदि उपधारा (1) के अधीन अन्वेषण किसी ऐसे व्यक्ति द्वारा किया जाता है जो पुलिस अधिकारी नहीं है तो उस अन्वेषण के लिए उसे वारण्ट के बिना गिरफ्तार करने की शक्ति के सिवाय पुलिस थाने के भारसाधक अधिकारी को इस संहिता द्वारा प्रदत्त सभी शक्तियां होंगी।

11. विजय धानुका आदि बनाम नजीमा मोहताज (2014) 14 एस.सी.सी. 638 आदि में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह सिद्धांत प्रतिपादित किया कि उपरोक्त प्रावधानों से यह स्पष्ट है कि विचारण के अतिरिक्त मजिस्ट्रेट अथवा न्यायालय द्वारा की गई कोई भी जाँच धारा 2 (छ) के अन्तर्गत जांच मानी जाएगी। धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० जाँच का कोई विशिष्ट तरीका प्राविधानित नहीं करती है। धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० की जाँच के अन्तर्गत गवाहों का परीक्षण सम्मिलित है, जबकि धारा 200 दं०प्र०सं० में मात्र परिवादी का साक्ष्य

अंकित किया जाना अनिवार्य है तथा धारा 200 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत यदि कोई साक्षी उपस्थिति है तो उसका बयान भी अंकित किया जा सकता है। मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा यह भी सुनिश्चित करने के लिए कि अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध कार्यवाही आगे चलाने के लिए पर्याप्त आधार है, की गई उपरोक्त कार्यवाही धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत की गई जाँच ही मानी जाएगी।

12. पत्रावली के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि विचारण न्यायालय ने धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत दो गवाहों के बयान अंकित करके प्रार्थीगण को विचारण हेतु आहूत करने का निर्णय लिया है। गवाहों के बयान अंकित करना धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत ही की गई जाँच की कार्यवाही है और आलोच्य आदेश में इस आधार पर कोई त्रुटि नहीं है कि विचारण न्यायालय ने धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत जाँच नहीं की है।

13. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अगला तर्क दिया कि लगाए गए आरोप झूठे हैं और विपक्षी सं. 2 द्वारा परिवाद में तथा अपने बयान में कही गई घटना प्रथम दृष्टया सत्य नहीं प्रतीत होती है।

14. माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय के निर्णय केंद्रीय जांच ब्यूरो बनाम आर्यन सिंह आदि, 2023 एससीसी ऑनलाइन एससी 379 में अवधारित है कि धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत शक्तियों का उपयोग करते हुए न्यायालय को लघु विचारण (मिनी ट्रायल) करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। इसमें अभियोजन / जांच एजेंसी को आरोपों को साबित करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। दं०प्र०सं० की धारा 482 के अंतर्गत शक्तियों का उपयोग करते समय न्यायालय के पास बहुत सीमित अधिकार क्षेत्र है और मात्र यह विचार करने की आवश्यकता है कि "क्या आरोपी के विरुद्ध आगे बढ़ने के लिए कोई पर्याप्त सामग्री उपलब्ध है, जिसके लिए आरोपी पर मुकदमा चलाने की आवश्यकता है या नहीं"।

15. राजीव कौरव बनाम बाई साहब तथा अन्य, (2020) 3 एससीसी 317, में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह कहा कि यह विधि का सुस्थापित सिद्धांत है कि धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत न्यायालय को अपनी अन्तर्निहित शक्तियों का प्रयोग मात्र न्यायालय की प्रक्रिया का दुरुपयोग रोकने अथवा अन्यथा न्याय के हितों की रक्षा करने के लिए ही करना चाहिए। इस स्तर पर अभियुक्त द्वारा अपने बचाव में प्रस्तुत किए गए साक्ष्य सामान्यतः नहीं देखे जा सकते। यदि अभियोजन कथानक तथा उसके समर्थन में प्रस्तुत सामग्री से अभियुक्त के विचारण के लिए प्रथम दृष्टया प्रकरण प्रतीत हो रहे है तो न्यायालय को धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत आपराधिक कार्यवाही को निरस्त नहीं करना चाहिए।

16. जब उपरोक्त विधि व्यवस्था के आलोक में प्रस्तुत प्रकरण के तथ्यों को देखा जाए तो यह प्रतीत होता है कि परिवाद में विपक्षी सं. 2 ने अभियुक्तगण द्वारा उसको मारने पीटने, गाली देने और धमकी देने का आरोप लगाया तथा यह भी कहा कि प्रार्थी सं. 3 ने उसकी जेब से रु० 1220/- जबरन निकाल लिए। परिवादी ने धारा 200 दं०प्र०सं. के अन्तर्गत अपना बयान अंकित कराके घटना का समर्थन किया है। दो साक्षियों ने धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत अपना बयान अंकित करके घटना का समर्थन किया है। परिवाद में कहे गए कथन तथा इसके समर्थन में प्रस्तुत साक्ष्य के आधार पर प्रार्थीगण के विचारण का मामला बन रहा है तथा बिना विचारण के प्रार्थीगण के विरुद्ध आपराधिक कार्यवाही को निरस्त किए जाने का कोई आधार प्रतीत नहीं होता है।

17. आलोच्य आदेश दिनांकित 01.02.2023 में कोई त्रुटि नहीं है। प्रार्थना पत्र बलहीन है, तदनुसार, निरस्त किया जाता है।

आपराधिक विधि : भारतीय दंड संहिता, 1860 – धारा 323, 504, 506, 452 - दंड प्रक्रिया संहिता, 1973 – धारा 202(4) – आपराधिक कार्यवाही के विरुद्ध – वैधता - प्रार्थी पक्ष का तर्क है कि परिवाद के साथ गवाहों की सूची प्रस्तुत न होने से धारा 202(4) दं.प्र.सं. का उल्लंघन हुआ, जिससे संज्ञान एवं अभियुक्तों को आहूत करने का आदेश अवैध हो जाता है - साथ ही, धारा 204(2) दं.प्र.सं. के अनुसार अभियोजन साक्ष्यों की सूची दिए बिना समन या वारंट जारी नहीं कर सकता - धारा 204(2) दं.प्र.सं. का उद्देश्य अभियुक्त को गवाहों की प्रति-परीक्षा हेतु तैयारी का अवसर देना है - यह प्रावधान बाध्यकारी नहीं है तथा गवाहों की सूची समन जारी करने से पूर्व प्रस्तुत न होने पर भी बाद में प्रस्तुत की जा सकती है। केवल उल्लंघन मात्र से आपराधिक कार्यवाही निरस्त नहीं होती, जब तक अभियुक्त को कोई वास्तविक पूर्वाग्रह न हुआ हो - लक्ष्मी शंकर पाण्डेय व अन्य बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य (नीचे) में यही सिद्धांत प्रतिपादित किया गया है – धारा 204(2) दं.प्र.सं. के अंतर्गत गवाहों की सूची न प्रस्तुत किया जाना केवल अनियमितता है, जो सुधार योग्य है और इससे आदेश की वैधता प्रभावित नहीं होती, अतः प्रार्थी का प्रथम तर्क अस्वीकार किया जाता है - प्रार्थी का अगला तर्क कि चूँकि वह मजिस्ट्रेट के क्षेत्राधिकार से बाहर निवास करते हैं, इसलिए विचारण न्यायालय को उन्हें आहूत करने से पूर्व धारा 202(1) दं.प्र.सं. के अंतर्गत अनिवार्यतः जाँच करनी चाहिए थी - अभिनिर्धारित - पत्रावली से स्पष्ट है कि विचारण न्यायालय ने धारा 202 दं.प्र.सं. के अंतर्गत दो गवाहों के बयान दर्ज कर प्रार्थीगण को आहूत करने का आदेश दिया है - गवाहों के बयान दर्ज करना धारा 202 की जाँच की श्रेणी में आता है, अतः यह कहना कि न्यायालय ने धारा 202 के अंतर्गत जाँच नहीं की, निराधार है - केवल आरोप असत्य होने के आधार पर आपराधिक कार्यवाही निरस्त नहीं की जा सकती - प्रार्थी द्वारा विचारण न्यायालय में प्रस्तुत जमानत आवेदन पर सतेंद्र कुमार अंतिल (नीचे) के आलोक में शीघ्र निर्णय का निर्देश। (पैरा 3 से 7, 10, 13, 14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. प्रार्थीगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री जय नारायन पाण्डेय की तरफ से उपस्थिति विद्वान अधिवक्ता सुश्री शीतल शर्मा तथा राज्य सरकार के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री पुनीत कुमार यादव को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

2. धारा 482 दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत इस प्रार्थना पत्र द्वारा प्रार्थीगण ने अपर मुख्य न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट, कुण्डा, प्रतापगढ़ द्वारा आपराधिक वाद सं. 4335/2022 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 12.07.2023 की वैधता को चुनौती दी है, जिसके द्वारा प्रार्थीगण को धारा 323, 504, 506, 452 भा०दं०सं० के अपराध के विचारण हेतु आहूत किया गया।

3. प्रार्थीगण की विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने तर्क दिया कि परिवाद के साथ गवाहों की सूची प्रस्तुत नहीं की गई थी, जैसा धारा 202(4) दं०प्र०सं० में प्राविधानित है और इस आधार पर संज्ञान तथा अभियुक्तगण को आहूत करने का आदेश अवैध हो जाता है।

4. धारा 204 (2) दं०प्र०सं० यह प्राविधानित करता है कि सभी अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध धारा (1) के अन्तर्गत तब तक कोई समन या वारंट जारी नहीं किया जाएगा, जब तक अभियोजन के साक्ष्यों की सूची जारी नहीं कर दी जाती।

5. धारा 204(2) दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत अभियुक्त को विचारण हेतु आहूत करने से पहले गवाहों की सूची प्रस्तुत करने का उद्देश्य यह है कि अभियुक्त उन गवाहों की प्रति परीक्षा के लिए तैयारी कर सके। धारा 204 दं०प्र०सं० यह नहीं कहता है कि यदि गवाहों की सूची समन जारी करने के पूर्व प्रस्तुत नहीं की गई तो इसे बाद में प्रस्तुत नहीं किया जा सकेगा। धारा 204(2) दं०प्र०सं० का उद्देश्य मात्र अभियुक्त को दुराशय से अभियोजन प्रस्तुत करने वाले वादकारियों द्वारा उत्पीड़न से बचाना है। धारा 204(2) का उल्लंघन आपराधिक कार्यवाही के निरस्तीकरण करने का वैध आधार प्रदान नहीं करता है। लक्ष्मी शंकर पाण्डेय तथा अन्य बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य तथा अन्य, 2023 (123) ए.सी.सी. 579 में यह अवधारित किया गया है कि धारा 204(2) दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के प्राविधान बाध्यकारी नहीं है तथा जब तक इस नियम के अन्तर्गत गवाहों की सूची प्रस्तुत न किए जाने तथा गवाहों की सूची प्रस्तुत करने में हुई देरी के कारण से उसे कोई पूर्वाग्रह कारित न हुआ हो, अभियुक्त को विचारण

हेतु आहूत करने का आदेश इस आधार पर निरस्त नहीं किया जा सकता है।

6. अतः यह स्पष्ट है कि धारा 204(2) के अन्तर्गत गवाहों की सूची न प्रस्तुत करना मात्र एक अनियमितता है, जिसको ठीक किया जा सकता है तथा यह ऐसी अवैधानिकता नहीं है जो आदेश की वैधता को विपरीत रूप से प्रभावित करे। प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का प्रथम तर्क तदनुसार, निरस्त किया जाता है।

7. प्रार्थी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने अगला तर्क यह दिया कि प्रार्थीगण मजिस्ट्रेट के न्यायालय के क्षेत्राधिकार से परे निवास करते हैं और ऐसी परिस्थिति में मजिस्ट्रेट को धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत जाँच करना अनिवार्य था, ऐसे में विचारण न्यायालय को प्रार्थीगण को आहूत करने से पहले धारा 202(1) दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत जाँच की कार्यवाही करनी चाहिए थी।

8. दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता की धारा 2 (छ) के प्राविधान निम्न प्रकार हैं:-

'जाँच' से, अभिप्रेत है विचारण से भिन्न, ऐसी प्रत्येक जाँच जो इस संहिता के अधीन मजिस्ट्रेट या न्यायालय द्वारा की जाए।

9. विजय धानुका आदि बनाम नजीमा मोहताज (2014) 14 एस.सी.सी. 638 आदि में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह सिद्धांत प्रतिपादित किया कि उपरोक्त प्रावधानों से यह स्पष्ट है कि विचारण के अतिरिक्त मजिस्ट्रेट अथवा न्यायालय द्वारा की गई कोई भी जाँच धारा 2 (छ) के अन्तर्गत जांच मानी जाएगी। धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० जाँच का कोई विशिष्ट तरीका प्राविधानित नहीं करती है। धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० की जाँच के अन्तर्गत गवाहों का परीक्षण सम्मिलित है, जबकि धारा 200 दं०प्र०सं० में मात्र परिवादी का साक्ष्य अंकित किया जाना अनिवार्य है तथा धारा 200 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत यदि कोई साक्षी उपस्थित है तो उसका बयान भी अंकित किया जा सकता है। मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा यह सुनिश्चित करने के लिए, कि अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध कार्यवाही आगे चलाने के लिए पर्याप्त आधार है, की गई उपरोक्त कार्यवाही धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत की गई जाँच ही मानी जाएगी।

10. पत्रावली के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि विचारण न्यायालय ने धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत दो गवाहों के बयान अंकित करके प्रार्थीगण को विचारण हेतु आहूत करने का निर्णय लिया है। गवाहों के बयान अंकित करना धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत की गई जाँच की कार्यवाही ही है और आलोच्य आदेश में इस आधार पर कोई त्रुटि नहीं है कि विचारण न्यायालय ने धारा 202 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत जाँच नहीं की है।

11. उपरोक्त आदेश की वैधता को चुनौती इस आधार पर भी दी गयी है कि प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध लगाये गये आरोप असत्य हैं।

12. माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय के निर्णय केंद्रीय जांच ब्यूरो बनाम आर्यन सिंह आदि, 2023 एससीसी ऑनलाइन एससी 379 में अवधारित है कि धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत शक्तियों का उपयोग करते हुए न्यायालय को लघु विचारण (मिनी ट्रायल) करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। इसमें अभियोजन / जांच एजेंसी को आरोपों को साबित करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। दं०प्र०सं० की धारा 482 के अंतर्गत शक्तियों का उपयोग करते समय न्यायालय के पास बहुत सीमित अधिकार क्षेत्र है और मात्र यह विचार करने की आवश्यकता है कि "क्या आरोपी के विरुद्ध आगे बढ़ने के लिए कोई पर्याप्त सामग्री उपलब्ध है, जिसके लिए आरोपी पर मुकदमा चलाने की आवश्यकता है या नहीं"।

13. अतः प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध आपराधिक कार्यवाही बिना विचारण के इस स्तर पर इस आधार पर अपास्त नहीं की जा सकती है कि प्रार्थी के कथनानुसार उसके विरुद्ध लगाए गए आरोप असत्य हैं।

14. प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध आपराधिक कार्यवाही निरस्त करने का कोई आधार नहीं है और प्रार्थना पत्र बलहीन है, तदनुसार यह प्रार्थना-पत्र इस निर्देश के साथ निस्तारित किया जाता है कि यदि प्रार्थी विचारण न्यायलय के समक्ष उपस्थित होकर जमानत पर रिहाई हेतु प्रार्थना पत्र देता है तो उसे माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा सतेंदर कुमार अंतिल बनाम सी.बी.आई. (2021) 10 एससीसी 773 में अवधारित विधिक सिद्धांतों के आलोक में शीघ्रतापूर्वक निर्णीत किया जायेगा।

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 147, 148, 149, 504, 506, 307 & 302 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 311 & 319 - Recall of witness - Validity of - Application u/s 311, Cr.P.C. was moved by accused on ground that, upon summoning of accused Deependra Singh u/s 319 Cr.P.C., trial commenced de novo, entitling all accused to re-cross-examine PW-1 - Trial court without taking into consideration that PW-1 had already been examined by prosecution, further counsel for applicant and other co-accused Ram Nath Singh had also cross-examined him - As Deependra Singh was summoned after PW-1's examination, no ground existed for his recall, application was accordingly rejected - Held, Section 319(4) Cr.P.C. makes clear that where person is summoned u/s 319(1), proceedings commenced afresh and witnesses re-heard only in respect of such person, and not all accused - Since applicant has been accused from inception of trial and has already cross-examined PW-1, he has no right to recall PW-1 for further cross-examination merely because prosecution re-examined him consequent to summoning of another accused u/s 319 Cr.P.C. - Thus, no illegality in impugned order, dismissed. Application Dismissed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. St. represented by the Deputy Superintendent of Police Vs Tr. N. Seenivasagan: (2021) 14 SCC 1 : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 212, (Paras 12, 13, 15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amit Kumar Singh, the learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A.-I appearing on behalf of the State and perused the records.

2. By means of the instant application the applicant has challenged the validity of an order dated 22.12.2023, passed by the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge/Special Judge, E.C. Act, Court No.4, Sultanpur in Sessions Trial No.467 of 2016, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 504, 506, 307, 302 I.P.C. Police Station Jamo, District Amethi, whereby the application filed by the applicant and another co-accused Ram Nath Singh under Section 311 Cr.P.C. for recall of PW-1 for being cross-examined by them has been rejected.

3. The application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. was filed on the ground that the accused Deependra Singh was summoned to face trial under Section 319 Cr.P.C. after PW-1 was reexamined and he was cross-examined on behalf of the newly added accused Deependra Singh. However, other accused person did not cross-examine the said witness after his recall. It was stated in the application that after a person is summoned as an accused under Section 319 Cr.P.C. the trial starts de novo and therefore all the accused persons have the right to cross-examine him. The learned trial court rejected the application without taking into consideration the fact that after PW-1 was examined by the prosecution the counsel for the applicant had cross-examined him and the record of cross examination runs into 17 pages. The said witness was cross-examined by other co-accused Ram Nath Singh also and that cross-examination runs into 7 pages. Deependra Singh was summoned to face trial under Section 319 Cr.P.C. after PW-1 had been examined. In these circumstances there is no ground for recalling the PW-1 for being cross-examined by the accused person, on whose behalf he has already been cross-examined extensively.

4. The learned trial court has also taken into consideration the fact that this court has issued a direction for expeditious disposal of the trial.

5. The learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State represented by the Deputy Superintendent of Police Vs. Tr. N. Seenivasagan: (2021) 14 SCC 1 : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 212, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under: -

"12. In our view, having due regard to the nature and ambit of Section 311 of the CrPC, it was appropriate and proper that the applications filed by the prosecution ought to have been allowed. Section 311 provides that any court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceedings under CrPC, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person "if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case". The true test, therefore, is whether it appears to the Court that the evidence of such person who is sought to be recalled is essential to the just decision of the case.

13. In Manju Devi v. State of Rajasthan [(2019) 6 SCC 203] , a two-Judge Bench of this Court noted that an application under Section 311 could not be rejected on the sole ground that the case had been pending for an inordinate amount of time (ten years there). Rather, it noted that : (SCC p. 209, para 13)

"13. ... the length/duration of a case cannot displace the basic requirement of ensuring the just decision after taking all the necessary and material evidence on record. In other words, the age of a case, by itself, cannot be decisive of the matter when a prayer is made for examination of a material witness".

Speaking for the Court, Dinesh Maheshwari J. expounded on the principles underlying Section 311 in the following terms :

"10. It needs hardly any emphasis that the discretionary powers like those under Section 311 CrPC are essentially intended to ensure that every necessary and appropriate measure is taken by the Court to keep the record straight and to clear any ambiguity insofar as the evidence is concerned as also to ensure that no prejudice is caused to anyone. The principles underlying Section 311CrPC and amplitude of the powers of the court thereunder have been explained by this Court in several decisions. In Natasha Singh v. CBI [(2013) 5 SCC 741] , though the application for examination of witnesses was filed by the accused but, on the principles relating to the exercise of powers under Section 311, this Court observed, inter alia, as under :

'8. Section 311 CrPC empowers the court to summon a material witness, or to examine a person present at "any stage" of "any enquiry", or "trial", or "any other proceedings" under CrPC, or to summon any person as a witness, or to recall and re-examine any person who has already been examined if his evidence appears to it, to be essential to the arrival of a just decision of the case. Undoubtedly, CrPC has conferred a very wide discretionary power upon the court in this respect, but such a discretion is to be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily. The power of the court in this context is very wide, and in exercise of the same, it may summon any person as a witness at any stage of the trial, or other proceedings. The court is competent to exercise such power even suo motu if no such application has been filed by either of the parties. However, the court must satisfy itself, that it was in fact essential to examine such a witness, or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

15. The scope and object of the provision is to enable the court to determine the truth and to render a just decision after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof of such facts, to arrive at a just decision of the case. Power must be exercised judiciously and not capriciously or arbitrarily, as any improper or capricious exercise of such power may lead to undesirable results. An application under Section 311CrPC must not be allowed only to fill up a lacuna in the case of the prosecution, or of the defence, or to the disadvantage of the accused, or to cause serious prejudice to the defence of the accused, or to give an unfair advantage to the opposite party. Further, the additional evidence must not be received as a disguise for retrial, or to change the nature of the case against either of the parties. Such a power must be exercised, provided that the evidence that is likely to be tendered by a witness, is germane to the issue involved. An opportunity of rebuttal however, must be given to the other party. The power conferred under Section 311CrPC must therefore, be invoked by the court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The very use of words such as "any court", "at any stage", or "or any enquiry, trial or other proceedings", "any person" and "any such person" clearly spells out that the provisions of this section have been expressed in the widest possible terms, and do not limit the discretion of the court in any way. There is thus no escape if the fresh evidence to be obtained is essential to the just decision of the case. The determinative factor should therefore be, whether the summoning/recalling of the said witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case."

6. Per contra, the learned A.G.A.-I has submitted that the PW-1 was recalled for being examined after the witness Deependra Singh was summoned to face trial under Section 319 Cr.P.C. As per the provisions contained in Section 319 (4) Cr.P.C. the proceedings can commence afresh only against the accused who has been summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and not against all the accused persons. In these circumstances, only the accused who has been summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. has a right to cross-examine the witness and the persons who were accused since before and who had already availed opportunity of cross-examining the witness, have no right to cross-examine the witness again.

7. Section 319 (4) Cr.P.C. provides as follows: -

"319. Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence.—(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court, he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under sub-section (1) then—

(a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and the witnesses re-heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced."

8. A bare reading of Section 319 (4) Cr.P.C. indicates that where a person is summoned under Section 319 (1) to face the trial, the proceedings shall be commenced afresh and the witnesses re-heard only in respect of such person and not in respect of all the accused persons. Therefore, the applicant having been an accused since inception of the tiral and he already having cross examined the witness PW-1, he has no right to recall PW-1 for cross examining him again after he was re-examined by the prosecution consequent to another accused being summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

9. Although, it is correct that Section 311 Cr.P.C. confers wide powers on the court to summon any witness at any stage of the enquiry, trial or other proceeding but that power has to be exercised only when it is essential for just decision of the case.

10. In these circumstances, the applicant has no right to seek further cross-examination of PW-1 and such cross-examination is not at all essential for just decision of the case. There appears to be no illegality in the impugned order. The application lacks merit and the same is accordingly dismissed.

3. उपरोक्त आदेश की वैधता को चुनौती इस आधार पर दी गयी है कि प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध लगाये गये आरोप असत्य हैं। माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय के निर्णय केंद्रीय जांच ब्यूरो बनाम आर्यन सिंह आदि, 2023 एससीसी ऑनलाइन एससी 379 में अवधारित है कि धारा 482 दं०प्र०सं० के अंतर्गत शक्तियों का उपयोग करते हुए न्यायालय को लघु विचारण (मिनी ट्रायल) करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। इसमें अभियोजन / जांच एजेंसी को आरोपों को साबित करने की आवश्यकता नहीं है। दं०प्र०सं० की धारा 482 के अंतर्गत शक्तियों का उपयोग करते समय न्यायालय के पास बहुत सीमित अधिकार क्षेत्र है और मात्र यह विचार करने की आवश्यकता है कि "क्या आरोपी के विरुद्ध आगे बढ़ने के लिए कोई पर्याप्त सामग्री उपलब्ध है, जिसके लिए आरोपी पर मुकदमा चलाने की आवश्यकता है या नहीं"।

13. दण्ड प्रक्रिया संहिता के अध्याय छः में अभियुक्त की हाजिरी के लिए आदेशिकाएं जारी करने के प्राविधान है।

14. धारा 62 दं०प्र०सं० समन की तामील करने का तरीका निम्नवत प्राविधानित करता है:-

"समन की तामील कैसे की जाए

(1) प्रत्येक समन की तामील पुलिस अधिकारी द्वारा या ऐसे नियमों के अधीन जो राज्य सरकार इस निमित्त बनाए, उस न्यायालय के, जिसने वह समन जारी किया है, किसी अधिकारी द्वारा या अन्य लोक सेवक द्वारा की जाएगी।

(2) यदि साध्य हो तो समन किए गए व्यक्ति पर समन की तामील उसे उस

समन की दो प्रतियों में से एक का परिदान या निविदान करके वैयक्तिक रूप से की जाएगी।

(3) प्रत्येक व्यक्ति, जिस पर समन की ऐसे तामील की गई है, यदि तामील करने वाले अधिकार द्वारा ऐसी अपेक्षा की जाती है तो, दूसरी प्रति के पृष्ठ के भाग पर उसके लिए रसीद हस्ताक्षरित करेगा।"

15. धारा 64 दं०प्र०सं० में समन किए गए व्यक्ति के न मिलने पर समन तामील का तरीका निम्नवत दिया गया है:-

"जब समन किए गए व्यक्ति न मिल सकें तब तामील जहाँ समन किया गया व्यक्ति सम्यक तत्परता बरतने पर भी न मिल सके वहाँ समन की तामील दो प्रतियों में से एक को उसके कुटुम्ब के उसके साथ रहने वाले किसी वयस्क पुरुष सदस्य के पास उस व्यक्ति के लिए छोड़कर की जा सकती है और यदि तामील करने वाले अधिकारी द्वारा ऐसी अपेक्षा की जाती है तो, जिस व्यक्ति के पास समन ऐसे छोड़ा जाता है वह दूसरी प्रति के पृष्ठ भाग पर उसके लिए रसीद हस्ताक्षरित करेगा।

स्पष्टीकरण - सेवक, इस धारा के अर्थ में कुटुम्ब का सदस्य नहीं है।"

16. उपरोक्त प्रावधान में समन तामील न हो पाने पर धारा 65 दं०प्र०सं० के अन्तर्गत समन तामील की प्रक्रिया निम्न प्रकार दी गई है:-

"जब पूर्व उपबन्धित प्रकार से तामील न की जा सके तब प्रक्रिया - यदि धारा 62, धारा 63 या धारा 64 में उपबन्धित रूप से तामील सम्यक् तत्परता बरतने पर भी न की जा सके तो तामील करने वाला अधिकारी समन की दो प्रतियों में से एक को उस गृह या वासस्थान के, जिसमें समन किया गया व्यक्ति मामूली तौर पर निवास करता है, किसी सहजदृश्य भाग में लगाएगा; और तब न्यायालय ऐसी जांच करने के पश्चात् जैसी वह ठीक समझे या तो यह घोषित कर सकता है कि समन की सम्यक् तामील हो गई है या वह ऐसी रीति से नई तामील का आदेश दे सकता है जिसे वह उचित समझे।"

17. धारा 87 दं०प्र०सं० प्राविधानित करती है कि न्यायालय किसी भी ऐसे मामले में, जिसमें वह किसी व्यक्ति की हाजिरी के लिए समन जारी करने के लिए इस संहिता द्वारा सशक्त किया गया है, अपने कारणों को अभिलिखित करने के पश्चात उसकी गिरफ्तारी के लिए वारंट जारी कर सकता है:-

(क) यदि या तो ऐसा समन जारी किए जाने के पूर्व या पश्चात किन्तु उसकी हाजिरी के लिए नियत समय के पूर्व न्यायालय को यह विश्वास करने का कारण दिखाई पड़ता है कि वह फरार हो गया है या समन का पालन न करेगा, अथवा

(ख) यदि व ऐसे समय पर हाजिर होने में असफलत रहता है और यह साबित

कर दिया जाता है कि उस पर समन की तामील सम्यक् रूप से ऐसे समय में कर दी गई थी कि उसके तदनुसार हाजिर होने के लिए अवसर था और ऐसी असफलता के लिए कोई उचित प्रतिहेतु नहीं दिया जाता है।

18. प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में न्यायालय ने ऐसे विश्वास करने का कोई कारण नहीं दर्शाया है कि प्रार्थी पर समन की तामील सम्यक रूप से कर दी गई थी और इसके उपरांत भी वह न्यायालय के समक्ष उपस्थित नहीं हुआ।

19. इंद्र मोहन गोस्वामी के उपरोक्त निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने प्रतिपादित किया कि न्यायालय को निजी स्वतंत्रता के अधिकार और समाज के हितों के बीच संतुलन बनाने का प्रयास करना चाहिए। वारंट जारी करने के संबंध में कोई नियम निर्धारित नहीं किए जा सकता हैं, किन्तु सामान्यतः जब तक अभियुक्त किसी जघन्य अपराध का दोषी न हो तथा ऐसी आशंका न हो कि वह साक्ष्य को नष्ट कर सकता है या विधिक प्रक्रिया से भाग सकता है, गैर जमानती वारंट जारी नहीं किए जाने चाहिए।

20. विकास बनाम राजस्थान राज्य के उपरोक्त निर्णय में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने कहा कि बिना समन की तामीली सुनिश्चित किए, तथा बिना जमानती वारंट जारी किए किसी अभियुक्त के विरुद्ध गैर जमानती वारंट जारी कर देना उसके निजी स्वतंत्रता के संवैधानिक अधिकार को बाधित करता है।

21. उपरोक्त तथ्यों के दृष्टिगत बिना प्रार्थी पर समन की तामीली के बारे में कोई संतोष अंकित किए बिना और प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध जमानती वारंट जारी किए बिना गैर जमानती वारंट जारी कर देना न्यायालय के अधिकारों का दुरुपयोग प्रतीत होता है और ऐसा आदेश विधि में संधार्य नहीं है।

22. तदनुसार, आलोच्य आदेश दिनांक 16.01.2024, जिसके द्वारा प्रार्थी के विरुद्ध गैर जमानती वारंट जारी किया गया, अपास्त किया जाता है।

23. प्रार्थी को निर्देशित किया जाता है कि वह न्यायालय विद्वान न्यायिक मजिस्ट्रेट तृतीय, लखनऊ के समक्ष नियत तिथि को उपस्थित होकर धारा 88 दं०प्र०स० के अन्तर्गत निजी बंधपत्र तथा दो प्रतिभू निष्पादित करे, तदुपरांत विचारण मे अपना पक्ष रखते हुए सहयोग करे।

24. आदेश समाप्त करने के पूर्व यह अंकित करना अनिवार्य प्रतीत होता है कि विचारण न्यायालय द्वारा विचारण के दौरान पारित आदेशों से पक्षकारों के अधिकारों पर प्रभाव पड़ता है। आदेशों को आदेश पत्र पर अंकित करना इसलिए भी

अनिवार्य है कि विचारण की कार्यवाही की वैधता को चुनौती देने पर कोई न्यायालय विचारण न्यायालय की कार्यवाही की वैधता की समीक्षा कर सके। विचारण न्यायालय द्वारा आदेश पत्र पर आदेश इस प्रकार अंकित करें कि उसको पढ़ा ही नहीं जा सके अथवा अपने आदेशों में पूरे शब्दों की जगह संक्षेपाक्षर का प्रयोग करना उचित नहीं है, क्योंकि इससे पक्षकारों तथा उच्च न्यायालय दोनों को ही आदेश को समझने में कठिनाई होती है।

Application Disposed of. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. Inder Mohan Goswami & anr.Vs St. of Uttaranchal & ors.reported in (2007) 12 SCC 1 ,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shishir Pradhan, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Bishwa Nath Nishad, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State.

2. In view of the proposed order, the notice to opposite party No.2 is hereby dispensed with.

3. By means of this petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs: -

(i) Wherefore, it is most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to allow this petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and quash the impugned summoning order dated 28.03.2023 and N.B.W. order dated 15.02.2024 passed by the court of learned Third Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division)/ Judicial Magistrate, Raebareli in Complaint Case No.4645 of 2023 (Sarika Shukla vs. Pradeep Agnihotri), under Section 138 of Negotiable Instructions Act, Police Station-Kotwali, District-Raebareli, as contained in Annexure Nos.1 and 2 respectively to the affidavit.

(ii) Further, it is most humbly prayed from this Hon'ble Court that to stay the proceedings as pending against the present applicant in the learned court of Third Additional Civil Judge (Junior Division)/ Judicial Magistrate, Raebareli, during the pendency of present petition as under Section 482 Cr.P.C."

4. Sri Pradhan has assailed the aforesaid orders and the proceedings on the ground that the complaint in question has been filed in violation of Section 138 (c) of Negotiable Instruments Act (in short "N.I. Act") inasmuch as the private opposite party has preferred a legal notice on 06.01.2023 but the complaint has been filed on 10.02.2023, whereas after giving the legal notice and expiry of thirty days period the complainant will have to wait for fifteen days to get the payment which has been demanded by him and if such payment is not received within the aforesaid period, the complaint under Section 138 of N.I. Act may be filed. The aforesaid period would be expiring on 21.02.2023. Sri Pradhan has taken second ground by submitting that the legal notice has not been preferred on the correct address of the petitioner as the petitioner is a resident of Bhimganj, Police Station-Dalmau, District-Raebareli but on the tracking report it has been mentioned that the aforesaid legal notice has been delivered at Banapar BO though the petitioner is not residing at that place.

5. Sri Pradhan has therefore stated that since the legal notice has not been served upon the petitioner, hence, he could not contact the complainant. Not only the above, when the complainant has filed the complaint before the court concerned. Further, the notice must have been issued to the petitioner on such address where he is residing, however, the notice has been issued at the address where the petitioner is not residing, resultant thereof, the notice could not be served upon the petitioner and he could not participate in the proceedings and the summons, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrant have been issued against him. However, when the proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. has been issued against the petitioner, then the petitioner came to know about the aforesaid proceedings.

6. Sri Pradhan has also stated that before issuing the proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. the court concerned must ensure on the fact as to whether the notice, summon, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrant are served upon the petitioner and as to whether he is deliberately avoiding those process, inasmuch as this is a trite law that the proclamation under Sections 82/83 Cr.P.C. should not be issued in a casual and cursory manner. As per Sri Pradhan, the impugned order dated 15.02.2024 does not reveal that the aforesaid satisfaction has been indicated in the impugned order itself. Therefore, as per Sri Pradhan, the impugned order dated 15.02.2024 issued under Section 82 Cr.P.C. is per se illegal and against the settled proposition of law.

7. Sri Pradhan has further submitted that the petitioner is ready to participate in the proceedings so that he could apprise the trial court about his bonafide but the petitioner is having apprehension that if he appears before the court concerned his liberty may be curtailed.

8. On the other hand, learned Additional Government Advocate has tired to defend the impugned order dated 15.02.2024 but could not dispute the aforesaid submission of learned counsel for the petitioner.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner and having perused the material available on the record, at the very outset, I must observe that before issuing proclamation under Sections 82/83 Cr.P.C. by any Subordinate Court, at least, satisfaction must be indicated in an order to the effect that despite the service of notice, summon, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrant the person concerned has deliberately avoided the proceedings. Further, any order of proclamation under Sections 82/83 Cr.P.C. must be passed on an application of a person concerned/ Investigating Officer etc. to the effect that after service of notice, summon, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrant upon the person concerned, he/ she is avoiding the proceedings so a proclamation may be issued and on such application, which must be supported with an affidavit, the court concerned may issue proclamation under Sections 82/ 83 Cr.P.C. indicating the subjective satisfaction on the aforesaid aspect in the order itself. If any order issuing proclamation under Sections 82/83 Cr.P.C. lacks the aforesaid procedure, the such order would be nullity in the eyes of law. Sometimes, it has been noted that the Investigating Agency seeks proclamation order from the court concerned so as to exert the pressure upon the person concerned and the court concerned without taking care of specific procedure issues proclamation under Sections 82/83 Cr.P.C. in a cursory and mechanical manner.

10. The Apex Court in the case in re: Inder Mohan Goswami and another vs. State of Uttaranchal and others reported in (2007) 12 SCC 1 has observed the mechanism as to how the liberty of any person may be curtailed inasmuch as every citizen has got fundamental right of his liberty under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Such liberty may be curtailed by the court concerned if the court has got specific and cogent reason and that reason must be mentioned while issuing the proclamation order. The relevant paras-53, 54, 55, 56 & 57 of the aforesaid case are being reproduced here under:-

"When non-bailable warrants should be issued.

53. Non-bailable warrant should be issued to bring a person to court when summons of bailable warrants would be unlikely to have the desired result. This could be when:

it is reasonable to believe that the person will not voluntarily appear in court; or* the police authorities are unable to find the person to serve him with a summon; or* it is considered that the person could harm someone if not placed into custody immediately.*

54. As far as possible, if the court is of the opinion that a summon will suffice in getting the appearance of the accused in the court, the summon or the bailable warrants should be preferred. The warrants either bailable or non-bailable should never be issued without proper scrutiny of facts and complete application of mind, due to the extremely serious consequences and ramifications which ensue on issuance of warrants. The court must very carefully examine whether the Criminal Complaint or FIR has not been filed with an oblique motive.

55. In complaint cases, at the first instance, the court should direct serving of the summons along with the copy of the complaint. If the accused seem to be avoiding the summons, the court, in the second instance should issue bailable-warrant. In the third instance, when the court is fully satisfied that the accused is avoiding the courts proceeding intentionally, the process of issuance of the non-bailable warrant should be resorted to. Personal liberty is paramount, therefore, we caution courts at the first and second instance to refrain from issuing non-bailable warrants.

56. The power being discretionary must be exercised judiciously with extreme care and caution. The court should properly balance both personal liberty and societal interest before issuing warrants. There cannot be any straight-jacket formula for issuance of warrants but as a general rule, unless an accused is charged with the commission of an offence of a heinous crime and it is feared that he is likely to tamper or destroy the evidence or is likely to evade the process of law, issuance of non-bailable warrants should be avoided.

57. The Court should try to maintain proper balance between individual liberty and the interest of the public and the State while issuing non-bailable warrant."

11. So far as the other grounds taken by Sri Padhan to the effect that the present complaint has been filed in violation of Section 138 (c) of N.I. Act and the notice has been issued on wrong address of the petitioner is concerned, I am also of the considered opinion that any complaint under Section 138 of the N.I. Act should have been filed strictly in accordance with the mechanism so given under Section 138 of the N.I. Act. In the present case, it appears that the compulsory statutory period has not been taken care of by the complainant itself nor by the Court.

12. Notably, as per Section 143 (3) of N.I. Act, every trial under this Act shall be conduced and concluded expeditiously as possible and may be concluded within a maximum period of six months from the date of filing of such complaint. Therefore, I do not find it proper to keep this petition pending any longer, giving liberty to the petitioner appear before the court concerned on the date fixed i.e. 22.03.2024 and if the petitioner appears/ surrenders before the court concerned on the date fixed i.e. 22.03.2024, all coercive steps including the impugned summoning order dated 28.03.2023 and the proclamation order dated 15.02.2024 shall be kept in abeyance and liberty would be given to the petitioner to participate in the proceedings. Thereafter, the petitioner may file appropriate application before the court concerned and such proceedings may be conducted and concluded with expedition by fixing short dates and without giving unnecessary adjournment to any of the parties concerned. It is needless to say that ample opportunity of hearing should be afforded not only the petitioner but the complainant also.

13. It is made clear that if the petitioner does not appear before the court concerned on the date fixed in terms of this order, the benefit of this order would not be made available to him and the learned court below may take appropriate coercive steps, which are permissible under law, against the petitioner.

14. In view of the aforesaid observations and directions, the instant petition is disposed of finally.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 161, 190, 190(1)(b) & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section – 308, 323, 504 & 506 - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. – for quashing of the charge sheet, taking cognizance and the summoning order - FIR – offence of assault by the accused over a land boundary dispute – conflict - injuries - medical examination – investigation – St.ment u/s 161 Cr.P.C. - charge sheet - take cognizance under Section 308 IPC, noting the use of a sharp object and inadequacies in the investigation – court observed that the law requires that a Magistrate may take cognizance of any offence upon a police report of the facts constituting an offence – although the police report may not allege commission of any specific offence, in case the Magistrate is satisfied that the facts St.d in the report make out commission of any offence – therefore, court upheld the Magistrate's power under Section 190 Cr.P.C. to take cognizance of offences based on facts in the police report, even if not explicitly mentioned, and found no illegality in the order – consequently, Application is dismissed with direction for further investigation and summoning the accused.

Application Dismissed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: -

1. India Carat (P) Ltd. Vs St. of Karn. – 1989 vol. 2 SCC 132,

2. Nahar Singh Vs St. of U.P., 2022 (5) SCC 295.

1. Heard Sri Alok Srivastava-II, the learned counsel for the applicant and Ms. Charu Singh, the learned AGA for the State and perused the records.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicant has sought quashing of charge sheet no 1 of 2023 dated 01.04.2023, under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC, submitted in furtherance of FIR No. 120/2023, the order dated 08.12.2023 passed by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 16, Barabanki, taking cognizance of offences under Sections 323, 504, 506 & 308 IPC and summoning the accused persons to face trial of the offence and at the same time issuing an order for further investigation and calling for an explanation from the Investigating Officer as to why recommendation be not made for initiating departmental inquiry and action against him for not conducting the investigation properly.

3. The opposite party no. 2 had lodged FIR No. 120/2023 on 28.03.2023 against the applicants, stating that the agricultural lands of the complainant and the accused persons are adjoining each others' land. The accused persons had damaged Med (boundary) dividing the two fields in the morning of 28.03.2023 and when the opposite party no. 2 objected against it, the accused persons attacked him with sticks and a spade causing injury on his hand and head.

4. The medico legal examination report of the victim mentions an incised wound on his head, contusions on left hand and left knee and an abrasion on chest and abdomen. The incised wound was opined to have been causes by some sharp object/weapon and the other injuries were caused by some hard and blunt object and the injuries were fresh.

5. The opposite party no. 2 reiterated the FIR allegations while recording her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

6. The Investigating Officer recorded statements of two independent witnesses, both of whom stated that the accused persons had abused and assaulted the opposite party no. 2 and the accused persons had left threatening them after intervention of the witnesses.

7. After investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet dated 01.04.2023 for offences under Sections 323, 504, 506 IPC only.

8. While assailing validity of the aforesaid order, the learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that in x-ray examination of the victim, no abnormality has been detected and, therefore, the offence under Section 308 IPC is not made out.

9. Section 308 IPC provides as follows:-

"308. Attempt to commit culpable homicide.—

Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both; and, if hurt is caused to any person by such act, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both.

Illustration: A, on grave and sudden provocation, fires a pistol at Z, under such circumstances that if he thereby caused death he would be guilty of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. A has committed the offence defined in this section."

10. A bare perusal of Section 308 IPC indicates that there is absolutely no necessity of causing of any injury for making out an offence under Section 308 IPC and even in absence of any hurt having been caused, an offence to commit culpable homicide is made out and in such a case, it will be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to three years. In case hurt is caused in the incident, the offence becomes punishable with imprisonment which may extend to seven years, even if the hurt is not grievous, i.e. if the hurt is simple. Therefore, the submission of the learned counsel for the applicant that in absence of any abnormality having been reported in the x-ray examination of the opposite party no. 2, offence under Section 308 IPC is not made out, is absolutely misconceived and the same is rejected.

11. The learned counsel for the applicant next submitted that when the trial court has ordered further investigation, it had no jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence.

12. Section 190 Cr.P.C. provides as follows: -

"190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.— (1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section (2), may take cognizance of any offence—

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try.

(Emphasis supplied)

13. A bare reading of Section 190 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. indicates that a Magistrate is empowered to take cognizance of any offence upon a police report of facts which constitute such offence. Police report has to be of facts which constitute the offence and it need not mention the offence which is made out. Even if the police report mentions some offence and it omits to mention some other offence, in case the Magistrate is satisfied from facts stated in the police report that some other offence is also made out, the Magistrate can take cognizance of that offence also.

14. In India Carat (P) Ltd. v. State of Karnataka, (1989) 2 SCC 132, a Bench consisting of three Hon'ble Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"11. ... On receiving the police report the Magistrate may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(b) and issue process straightway to the accused. The Magistrate may exercise his powers in this behalf irrespective of the view expressed by the police in their report whether an offence has been made out or not. This is because the police report under Section 173(2) will contain the facts discovered or unearthed by the police as well as the conclusion drawn by the police therefrom. If the Magistrate is satisfied that upon the facts discovered or unearthed by the police there is sufficient material for him to take cognizance of the offence and issue process, the Magistrate may do so without reference to the conclusion drawn by the Investigating Officer because the Magistrate is not bound by the opinion of the police officer as to whether an offence has been made out or not. Alternately the Magistrate, on receiving the police report, may without issuing process or dropping the proceeding proceed to act under Section 200 by taking cognizance of the offence on the basis of the complaint originally submitted to him and proceed to record the statement upon oath of the complainant and the witnesses present and thereafter decide whether the complaint should be dismissed or process should be issued.

13....On receiving the police report the Magistrate may take cognizance of the offence under Section 190(1)(b) and issue process straightway to the accused. The Magistrate may exercise his powers in this behalf irrespective of the view expressed by the police in their report whether an offence has been made out or not. This is because the police report under Section 173(2) will contain the facts discovered or unearthed by the police as well as the conclusion drawn by the police therefrom. If the Magistrate is satisfied that upon the facts discovered or unearthed by the police there is sufficient material for him to take cognizance of the offence and issue process, the Magistrate may do so without reference to the conclusion drawn by the Investigating Officer because the Magistrate is not bound by the opinion of the police officer as to whether an offence has been made out or not. Alternately the Magistrate, on receiving the police report, may without issuing process or dropping the proceeding proceed to act under Section 200 by taking cognizance of the offence on the basis of the complaint originally submitted to him and proceed to record the statement upon oath of the complainant and the witnesses present and thereafter decide whether the complaint should be dismissed or process should be issued."

15. In Nahar Singh versus State of U. P. and others, (2022) 5 SCC 295, after discussing various precedents on the point, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the Magistrate has to apply his mind while taking cognizance of an offence and if it appears from the material placed before him and any person other than those arrayed as accused also needs to be summoned, the Magistrate can certainly summon him. On the same principle, in case the Magistrate is satisfied that there is sufficient material for trial of the accused for any other offence, he has the power to summon the accused person(s) for trial of that offence also. In case the Magistrate is satisfied by a perusal of the complaint and the material filed with it, that the accused persons appear to have violated any direction, it can take cognizance of the offence under Section 31-A also.

16. Therefore, the law requires that a Magistrate may take cognizance of any offence upon a police report of the facts constituting an offence. Although the police report may not allege commission of any specific offence, in case the Magistrate is satisfied that the facts stated in the police report make out commission of any offence, the Magistrate can take cognizance of that offence.

17. A perusal of the impugned order indicates that from the material placed before the trial court it found that the material clearly established commission of offences under Section 323, 504, 506 & 308 IPC and, accordingly, the trial court has taken cognizance of the aforesaid offences. However, the trial court found that the Investigating Officer has recorded in the case diary that the injury no. 1 was caused by some sharp edged object but he did not make any effort to ascertain as to what was the object used and he did not make any attempt to recover the same. The Investigating Officer formed an opinion merely being influenced by the fact that no fracture was caused in the incident. The trial Court found that the Investigating Officer has submitted the charge sheet in respect of the offences which are less serious under influence of extraneous reasons. The trial court observed that it was necessary to make efforts for recovery of the sharp edged object used in the offence and has directed further investigation on this point only.

18. In these circumstances, the trial court has not committed any error in taking cognizance of the offence when from the material placed before the trial, a case for taking cognizance of offences was made out.

19. Therefore, there is no error or illegality in the impugned order dated 08.12.2023 passed by the trial court.

20. The application lacks merit and the same is dismissed.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 504 & 506 - Petitioners contended that application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. filed by opposite party no. 2 was counter-blast to F.I.R. on petitioners' side - It is urged that when Magistrate, by order dated 11.11.2021, treating said application as complaint, fixed matter for St.ment of complainant u/s 200 Cr.P.C., opposite party no. 2 ought not to have challenged said order before revisional court on ground that only recourse available was to direct lodging of F.I.R - Revisional court, set aside Magistrate's order dated 11.11.2021 and directed lodging of F.I.R., pursuant to which Magistrate, by order dated 20.02.2024, directed registration of F.I.R - Held, it is settled law that before issuing summons against prospective accused on complaint, Magistrate must comply with mandate of Section 202(1) Cr.P.C - If, upon such inquiry, Magistrate considers proper adjudication requires registration of F.I.R., he may direct at that stage - However, in instant case, such stage had not arisen, as immediately after order dated 11.11.2021, opposite party no. 2 preferred revision - It is undisputed that treating application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. as complaint case and directing recording of St.ment of complainant is interlocutory order, and revisional court could not set aside Magistrate's order dated 11.11.2021 - While allegations, including those of loot, are indeed serious and cognizable, it remains for Magistrate to determine appropriate course before proceeding further, as settled law on subject cannot be disregarded by subordinate courts - Thus, impugned order and consequential order, quashed. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dinesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Ms. Nusrat Jahan, learned AGA for the State and Sri R.B.S. Rathaur, Advocate who has filed 'Vakalatnama' on behalf of opposite party no. 2, same is taken on record.

2. By means of this petition the petitioners have prayed following relief :

"Set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 07.02.2024 passed by the learned Additional Session Judge Court No. 1 Faizabad in Criminal Revision No. 187/2021 (Mohammad Ahmad Vs. State and others). contained as Annexure No. 1 to the present petition, with all consequential benefits.

It is further prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to set aside the consequential order dated 20.02.2024 passed by the Judicial Magistrate-II, Faizabad/Ayodhya in complaint case no 1217/2021 (Mohammad Ahmad Vs. 3. The precise contention of learned counsel for the petitioners is that though the complaint / application filed by the opposite party no. 2 u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. on 28.9.2021 is a counter-blast to the F.I.R. bearing No. 0346 of 2021 u/s 420, 467, 468, 471, 504, 506 IPC, P.S. Kotwali Rudauli, District Ayodhya lodged from the side of the petitioners on 30.7.2021 but when on such application the Magistrate passed an order on 11.11.2021 (Annexure no. 5) referring the decision of Division Bench of this Court in re: Sukhwasi vs. State of U.P. : 2007(59) ACC 739 to treat such application as complaint fixing the date for the statement of the complainant u/s 200 Cr.P.C., the opposite party no. 2 who is applicant of that application should have not challenged that order before the revisional court saying that on those allegations which have been leveled against the petitioners the only recourse was to issue direction to lodge F.I.R. inasmuch as this is a trite law that after recording the statement u/s 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. it is incumbent upon the learned Magistrate to make inquiry or direct investigation u/s 202(1) and if in any case the learned court concerned finds that the allegation may not be adjudicated on the basis of proceedings of complaint case, the magistrate may very well direct to lodge F.I.R. In the present case the revisional court cited the decision of this Court at Allahabad in re: Mangalsen vs. State of U.P. passed in Criminal Misc. Application No. 7651 of 2009 and the Apex Court in re: Lalita Kumari vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others : 2014 (2) SCC 1 to set aside the order dated 11.11.2021 passed by the Magistrate court directing the magistrate to issue direction for lodging the F.I.R. Pursuant thereto the Magistrate has passed order dated 20.2.2024 referring the decision of Mangalsen (supra) to lodge F.I.R. pursuant to the aforesaid application filed u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C.

4. Sri D.K. Singh has stated that the impugned order dated 20.2.2024 (supra) is in-fact the compliance order making compliance of the order of the revisional court dated 7.2.2024 inasmuch as at the first instance and at the very instance the learned Magistrate has passed order dated 11.11.2021 (supra). Sri Singh has further submitted that the judgment so cited by the revisional court are not applicable in the present case inasmuch as the direction of Court in re: Mangalsen (supra) passed by this Court has been diluted by this Court in Sukhwasi (supra). In the judgment of Sukhwasi (supra) the reference has been indicated in para 1 and its answer has been indicated in para 23 which read as under :

"Whether the Magistrate is bound to pass an order on each and every application under Section 156(3) Criminal Procedure Code containing allegations of commission of a cognizable offence for registration of the F.I.R. and its investigation by the police even if those allegations, prima-facie, do not appear to be genuine and do not appeal to reason, or he can exercise judicial discretion in the matter and can pass order for treating it as 'complaint' or to reject it in suitable cases"?

"23. The reference is, therefore, answered in the manner that it is not incumbent upon a Magistrate to allow an application under Section 156(3) Criminal Procedure Code and there is no such legal mandate. He may or may not allow the application in his discretion. The second leg of the reference is also answered in the manner that the Magistrate has a discretion to treat an application under section 156(3) Criminal Procedure Code as a complaint."

5. He has further submitted that in the judgment of Lalita Kumari (supra) there is no specific direction of the Apex Court in respect of section 156(3) but it was relating to section 154 Cr.P.C., however, as an obiter dicta, some reference has been given in respect of section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Therefore, Sri Singh has stated that the impugned order of the revisional court is liable to be set aside.

6. Sri Singh has also referred the dictum of Apex Court in re: Madhu Limaye vs. State of Maharashtra : AIR 1978 Supreme Court 47 to state that taking cognizance of the application of the opposite party no. 2 treating the same as complaint case directing to record the statement u/s 200 Cr.P.C., vide order dated 11.11.2021, is an interlocutory order and interlocutory order may not be assailed before the revisional court, therefore, in that way too the order passed by the revisional court is unwarranted and uncalled for.

7. Sri R.B.S. Rathaur, learned counsel for the private opposite party as well as learned AGA have at the very outset taken objection regarding maintainability of this petition by submitting that the present petitioners have got no locus to file this petition inasmuch as neither the magistrate had further proceeded pursuant to the order dated 11.11.2021 issuing summons to them nor any F.I.R. has been lodged against them in compliance of the order of the revisional court as well as the subsequent order of the magistrate. Therefore, this petition may be dismissed on the aforesaid count alone. They have further submitted that serious allegations have been leveled in an application filed u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. wherein besides some other allegations the allegation of loot has been leveled against the applicant, therefore, on such allegation the magistrate would not be able to decide the issue on the basis of complaint case as in that case the F.I.R. must have been registered. Therefore, the opposite party no. 2 has rightly filed revision before the revisional court and revisional court has not erred in setting aside the order dated 11.11.2021 passed by the magistrate directing the magistrate to issue direction to lodge F.I.R. However, so far as the submission of Sri D.K. Singh is concerned to the effect that the opposite party no. 2 might have not approached the revisional court by filing revision against the interlocutory order inasmuch as the order dated 11.11.2021 was an interlocutory order, in view of the decision of Apex Court in re: Madhu Limaye (supra) they have stated that they may be given some time to address on the aforesaid legal point.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record and also having regard of the judgments of the constitutional courts, undisputedly, it is a trite law that before issuing summons against the prospective accused on the complaint the mandatory exercise u/s 202(1) Cr.P.C. must be adhered to by the Magistrate and if the learned court of magistrate finds on the basis of such aforesaid inquiry that for proper adjudication of the allegation in question the appropriate recourse would be to lodge F.I.R., the magistrate may very well direct to register F.I.R. at that stage but admittedly such stage had not arrived by now because immediately after passing the order dated 11.11.2021 the opposite party no. 2 has filed the revision. Further, it may not be disputed that registering a complaint case treating the application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint case and directing to record the statement of complainant u/s 200 Cr.P.C. is an interlocutory order as it has not attained the finality, therefore, in view of the dictum of Apex Court in re: Madhu Limaye (supra) the revisional court may not set aside the order of the magistrate dated 11.11.2021. It is also true that the allegations are serious wherein the allegation of loot has also been made and as per various decisions of this Court and Apex Court, in the cases wherein the allegation of cognizable offences are there including the allegation of loot etc., the appropriate recourse must be decided by the learned magistrate before proceeding further inasmuch as the trite law on the subject may not be ignored by any subordinate court.

9. Therefore, in view of the above, the impugned order dated 7.2.2024 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Court no. 1, Faizabad in Criminal Revision No. 187/2021 (Mohammad Ahmad vs. State and others) and the consequential order 20.2.2024 passed by the Judicial Magistrate-II, Faizabad / Ayodhya in Complaint Case no. 1217/2021 (Mohammad Ahmad vs. Dost Mohammad and others) are hereby quashed and set aside with the expectation that while proceeding further pursuant to the order dated 11.11.2021, which has been revived by this order, the learned magistrate shall carefully follow the mandatory compliance of section 202(1) Cr.P.C. and shall follow the settled proposition of law on the subject which shall be placed by the respective counsel and the observations of this order may not influence and the learned magistrate shall pass appropriate order strictly in accordance with law. Further, the magistrate shall take independent decision on the basis of provision of law and the settled position on the subject.

10. It is made clear that the quashing of the impugned revisional order and consequential order of the magistrate may not be treated as if the learned court of magistrate should only treat the application filed by the opposite party no. 2 only as a complaint but the magistrate court shall ensure that the appropriate justice is done with the parties strictly in accordance with law.

11. In view of the above, instant petition is allowed.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 205 & 317 - Rules for Video Conferencing for Courts in the St. of Uttar Pradesh, 2020 - Rule 11 - Against issuance of non-bailable warrant - Petitioner, aged about 85 years and suffering from age-related ailments, was unable to appear personally before Court at stage of framing of charges - Nevertheless, despite being apprised of his age and medical condition, Court proceeded to issue non-bailable warrant against him - Held, issuance of non-bailable warrant by trial court is wholly unacceptable and contrary to settled law laid down in Inder Mohan Goswami (infra), as every accused is entitled to protection of Article 21 of Constitution - Trial courts have been cautioned in earlier orders to ensure, before issuing non-bailable warrants, whether accused deliberately evaded proceedings despite service of summons and bailable warrants - In instant case, petitioner had been appearing, but owing to old age and age related ailments, could not appear on relevant date, hence, court concerned should not straightaway issued non-bailable warrant - Under Section 11 of Rules, proceedings may, in exceptional circumstances, be conducted virtually, in consonance with Sections 205 and 317 Cr.P.C - Impugned order, set aside - Directions accordingly. (Para 3, 8, 9)

Application allowed. (E-13)

List of Cases cited:

1. Inder Mohan Goswami & anr. Vs St. of Uttaranchal & ors.., (2007) 12 SCC 1

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nadeem Murtaza, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Aniruddh Kumar Singh, learned AGA-I for the State.

2. By means of this petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the petitioner has prayed the following reliefs:-

"A. Quash the impugned order dated 16.02.2024 and order dated 28.02.2024 passed by the ACJM-V, Lucknow in Case No. 9782/2013 vide which Non-Bailable Warrant has been issued against the Applicant. As Annexure no.3.

B. Permit the Applicant to appear through Counsel and participate in the proceedings before the Trial Court in accordance with Section 205 and 317 CrPC.

C. Any other and further relief which this Hon'ble Court deems fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the present case may also be kindly granted in favour of the Applicant."

3. Sri Murtaza has stated that the petitioner is an old aged person of 85 years suffering various ailments, which are age related, therefore, he could not appear personally before the Court concerned at the time of framing charges, resultant thereof the court concerned has straight away issued non-bailable warrant against him, though the information regarding age and ailment was apprised to the court concerned.

4. Sri Murtaza has further submitted that in such a critical and ailing condition, the petitioner is willing to participate in the proceedings but has requested that he may be permitted to appear through counsel in terms of Sections 205 & 317 Cr.P.C. Attention has been drawn towards Rule 11 of the Rules for Video Conferencing for Courts in the State of Uttar Pradesh, 2020 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules"), framed under Article 225 and 227 of the Constitution of India, whereunder Rule 11 reads as under:

"11. Judicial remand, framing of charge, examination of accused and proceedings under Section 164 of the Cr.P.C.

11.1 The Court may, at its discretion, authorize detention of an accused, frame charges in a criminal trial under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 through video conferencing. However, ordinary judicial remand in the first instance or police remand shall not be granted through Video conferencing save and except in exceptional circumstances for reasons to be recorded in writing.

11.2 The Court may, in exceptional circumstances, for reasons to be recorded in writing, examine a witness or an accused under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 or record the statement of the accused under Section 313 Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 through video conferencing, while observing all due precautions to ensure that the witness or the accused as the case may be, is free of any form of coercion, threat or undue influence. The Court shall ensure compliance with Section 26 of the Evidence Act."

5. The aforesaid Rules also defines the exceptional circumstances under Rule 2 (viii) as under:

"2. Definitions.-

(viii) "Exceptional circumstances" include illustratively a pandemic, natural calamities, circumstances implicating law and order and matters relating to the safety of the accused and witnesses."

6. Learned AGA has fairly assisted the Court and has submitted that non-bailable warrant should not have been issued straight away against any person unless the summon is issued and after verifying the fact that despite the service of summons, the accused person avoided the proceedings without having any cogent reasons, then bailable warrant may be issued and if, after service of bailable warrant, the accused person deliberately avoids the proceedings, in such exceptional circumstances, the non-bailable warrant can be issued as this law has been settled by the Apex Court in re; Inder Mohan Goswami and Another v. State of Uttaranchal and Others, (2007) 12 SCC 1. Therefore, learned AGA did not defend the impugned orders whereby the non-bailable warrants have been issued.

7. I appreciate the fair assistance of the learned AGA.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the material available on record, at the very outset, I am constrained to observe that the manner in which the non-bailable warrant has been issued by the learned trial court is absolutely unacceptable and in derogation of the settled law of the Apex Court in re; Inder Mohan Goswami (supra) inasmuch as every citizen of the country including the accused person is having fundamental right under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. I have already cautioned the learned trial courts in my earlier orders in certain other cases to ensure before issuing non-bailable warrants as to whether after service of summons and bailable warrants, the accused person has deliberately avoided the proceedings. Besides, in the present case, the petitioner was appearing before the court concerned but on account of his old age and age related ailments, he could not appear, therefore, the court concerned should not have issued non-bailable warrant straight away.

9. In terms of Section 11 of the Rules, the proceedings of the case in exceptional circumstances may be undertaken virtually and also in accordance with Sections 205 & 317 Cr.P.C.

10. Therefore, considering the aforesaid submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and having regard the dictum of the Apex Court in re; Inder Mohan Goswami (supra), I hereby set aside/ quash the impugned orders dated 16.02.2024 and 28.02.2024 (supra), which have been enclosed as Annexure No.3 to this petition, at the admission stage.

11. I further direct the learned trial court to permit the petitioner/ applicant to appear virtually through counsel and participate in the proceedings strictly in accordance with Sections 205 & 317 Cr.P.C., for that, appropriate orders be passed and appropriate arrangements be done strictly in accordance with law.

12. It is made clear that the case of the present petitioner squarely covers with the definition "exceptional circumstances" (supra) inasmuch as he is an old aged ailing person, therefore, this order would confine to the present petitioner only as the benefit of this order may not be taken by other co-accused, if any.

13. Accordingly, the instant petition is allowed.

Application No. 4038 of 2023 has been filed by the applicant Sudhakar Singh. Application No. 5595 of 2023 has been filed by the applicant Sanjay Pratap Singh alias Guddu Singh.

3. By means of the all the aforesaid three applications filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the applicants have challenged the validity of an order dated 17.03.2023 passed by the Special Judge MP/MLA/ Civil Judge (SD)/FTC-II, District Pratapgarh in Case No. 236 of 2011 (State v. Raghuraj Pratap Singh & Others) arising out of Case Crime No. 513 of 2010, under Sections 395/397/307/364/323/325/504/506/ 427/34 of the Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') & Section 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Kunda, District Pratapgarh, whereby the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. for withdrawal of the prosecution against the applicants, has been rejected.

4. The points involved in these cases are similar, therefore, these cases are being decided together by a common judgment.

5. The informant-opposite party no. 2 had lodged First Information Report (hereinafter referred to as 'FIR') No. 189/2010 on 19.12.2010 against 13 named persons alleging that he was Bahujan Samaj Party's candidate for Babaganj Block. When he had gone to have dinner with some other political leaders and numerous other party workers to have dinner at a Dhaba (roadside eatery) in Kunda, the accused persons Sudhakar Singh, Pradeep Singh and about a dozen other persons riding two SUVs stopped the vehicles of the complainant and started abusing them. When the complainant and other persons tried to escape, the accused persons fired shots with weapons. The complainant and the persons accompanying him reached in front of Kotwali Kunda but several persons riding two Fortuner SUVs and about a dozen other vehicles started firing shots with weapons towards the informant and his companions. The complainant and the persons accompanying him went inside the Kotwali to save themselves but the accused persons damaged the vehicles of the complainant and assaulted the persons accompanying him with buts of rifles causing fractures to Pushpendra Shukla and Rohit Mishra. The F.I.R. further alleges that some companions of the complainant had been taken away in the vehicles to some unknown destination and their whereabouts could not be known and that some weapons and goods had been snatched away by the accused persons.

6. A charge sheet no. 01 of 2011 was submitted by the police on 03.01.2011 against 11 persons. Thereafter another charge sheet was submitted on 15.03.2011 against 15 persons.

7. On 04.03.2014, the Public Prosecutor filed an application for withdrawal of prosecution under Section 321 Cr.P.C. stating that the Government had taken a decision to withdraw the prosecution and that the Public Prosecutor had also applied his independent mind and perused the entire material available on record and he was of the view that the decision taken by the Government to withdraw the prosecution was in accordance with law and that from a perusal of the case diary it appears that the evidences collected against the accused persons are very weak and success in the prosecution was doubtful.

8. The aforesaid application remained pending and meanwhile under the orders passed by the trial court, the police conducted further investigation and had submitted a supplementary charge-sheet on 22.07.2015 stating that upon investigation, the charges under Sections 182, 195, 379, 411, 120-B/34 IPC and 3/25 Arms Act were established against the accused persons Diwakar Tiwari alias Dabloo and Manoj Kumar Tiwari.

9. Yet another supplementary charge-sheet was submitted at 08.02.2019 stating that the allegations of beating, assault, abduction and loot as also of firing gun shots and damaging vehicles, could not be established and that the stolen weapons had been recovered from Rajesh Shukla alias Budul Shukla and charges under Section 379/411 IPC is established against Rajesh Shukla alias Bubul Shukla.

10. Subsequently the informant has also filed an application dated 27.02.2023 before the trial court supporting the application filed by the Public Prosecutor for withdrawal of the prosecution.

11. After submission of the aforesaid supplementary charge-sheets, the applicants had filed application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 688 of 2023 before this Court praying for quashing of the proceedings of Criminal Case No. 236 of 2011 arising out of Case Crime No. 513 of 2010, cognizance orders dated 27.01.2011 and 29.03.2011 and the charge-sheet dated 03.01.2011 and 15.03.2011 filed in Case Crime No. 236 of 2011, so far as it relates to the applicants. The aforesaid application was disposed of by means of the order dated 09.02.2023 observing that the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. was pending before the trial court and a direction was issued to the trial court to consider and disposed of the application in accordance with law.

12. The application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. filed by the prosecution was rejected by the trial court by means of the impugned order dated 17.03.2023 stating that while deciding an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C., the court has to take into consideration the following points:-

(i) Whether the application for withdrawal of prosecution has been moved with the object of strengthening the administration of justice or it has been moved by the prosecution for improper and extraneous reasons.

(ii) Whether withdrawal of prosecution would be in the interest of administration of justice.

(iii) Whether the prosecution has given the application for withdrawal in a bona fide manner.

(iv) Whether it has been moved to stop misuse of the judicial process by making it a vehicle of injustice.

(v) Whether the prosecution will culminate in acquittal of the accused persons for want of evidence.

(vi) Whether the accused persons are victims of personal/political animosity.

13. The trial court held that the offences involved in the present case fall within the category of grave and serious non compoundable offences. The missing weapons have been recovered from co-accused persons Diwakar Tiwari, Manoj Kumar Tiwari and Rajesh Kumar Shukla. The subject matter of the present case is very serious and challenges the administration of justice and it has adverse impact on a civilized society. Therefore, the application for withdrawal of prosecution moved by the State cannot be allowed.

14. The trial court further held that although the prosecution claims that withdrawal of prosecution would be in public interest but no basis for this contention has been lead. The trial court referred to the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Daxa Ben v. State of Gujarat, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 936 wherein it has been held that in case of grave and serious non-compoundable offences which impact the society, the informant and/or complainant only has the right of hearing to the interest of ensuring that justice is done by conviction or punishment of the offence and the informant has no right to withdraw the FIR in respect of an offence of a grave, serious, or heinous nature, which impacts the society at large.

15. The trial court has also referred to the decision of Supreme Court in Ashwani Kumar Upadhyay versus Union of India decided on 10.08.2021, which is reported in (2021) 20 SCC 599, directing that prosecution against a sitting or former MP or MLA cannot be withdrawn without sanction High Court.

16. A supplementary affidavit has been filed on behalf of the applicant stating that only two persons namely Pushpendra Shukla and Rohit Mishra had suffered injuries in the incident and copies of their injury reports have been annexed with the Supplementary affidavit.

17. Pushpendra had suffered a lacerated wound of size 6 cm X 0.5 cm on the left side of his head - scalp deep, and a traumatic swelling around his left wrist joint. The injuries were simple in nature and had been caused by a hard and blunt object. Rohit had suffered two lacerated wounds - (i) 2.5 cm X 0.5 cm. 0.5 cm. and (ii) 1.5 c.m. x 0.3 cm., both on his forehead. Both the injuries were simple in nature and had been caused by a hard and blunt object. It has categorically been stated in the supplementary affidavit that no person had received any gun-shot injury in the incident.

18. The State has filed a counter affidavit and a supplementary counter affidavit annexing therewith a copy of the application for withdrawal of the prosecution and a copy of the opinion of District Government Counsel (Crl.) wherein the following points have been highlighted: -

(i) The place of incident is said to be the main gate of the police station whereas the guard on duty had not intervened in the matter and no police person has lodged any FIR, which fortifies the probability that the incident did not occur in the matter alleged in the F.I.R.

(ii) The public representatives made accused in the matter were arrested soon after the incident but nothing was recovered from them, which also raises doubt against the credibility of the allegation.

(iii) No intimation of arrest of the public representative was sent to the Chairperson of the Parliament, legislative assembly and legislative Council.

(iv) No statement of the security guards employed in security of the public representatives was recorded by the Investigating Officer. The investigation appears to be merely a table work and the entire proceedings from the time of registration of the FIR till the arrest of the accused persons, appear to be suspicious.

(v) The complainant was a candidate for Kshetra Panchayat Babaganj. As to why he and his companions carrying weapons were present at 12 in the night within the limits of Kshetra Panchayat, Kunda, is a matter to be questioned. The complainant and his associates were connected to the ruling party and their act was affecting the election process, which amounts to commission of offence and this fact was ignored by the administration. It appears that the entire proceedings were taken because of political vendetta and continuance of such proceedings would carry an adverse effect on administration of justice. The member of parliament, member of legislative assembly and member of legislative council are public servants and before taking cognizance of the offences committed by them no previous sanction was taken under Section 197 IPC.

In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the District Government Counsel (Criminal) recommended withdrawal of prosecution under Section 321 (b) Cr.P.C.

19. The Court had summoned the original record regarding withdrawal of prosecution, from which it appears that on 29.03.2012, the Government had written a letter to the District Magistrate, Pratapgarh for furnishing certain information regarding withdrawal of prosecution of 8 cases, including the present case. The information sought included the information regarding the facts of the case, injuries suffered by the persons from the complainant's side, recoveries made during investigation, the latest status of case, assessment of public prosecutor regarding strength/weakness of the case and opinion of the public prosecutor and Superintendent of Police regarding withdrawal of prosecution.

20. The prosecution officer gave opinion that there were contradictions in the material collected, which might benefit the accused persons. However, subsequently a revised opinion was given by the prosecution officer, which has been referred to above.

21. The informant – opposite party no. 2 has also filed a counter affidavit stating that the ruling Bahujan Samaj Party was interested to win the seat of Block Pramukh of every block and he had lodged the F.I.R. under party pressure. Nothing was recovered from the applicants yet a charge-sheet was submitted against 11 persons. A supplementary charge-sheet was submitted against 15 more persons, although nothing was recovered from them also.

22. Sri H.G.S. Parihar, Senior Advocate, the learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the impugned order dated 17.08.2023 does not make any reference to the findings in the subsequent charge-sheets to the effect that no charge was established against applicants and, therefore, the order has been passed without dealing with the relevant material available on record.

23. Sri Ajmal Khan has opposed the application on behalf of intervener Manoj Kumar Tiwari, who is co-accused in the present case. He has placed reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sheonandan Paswan v. State of Bihar, (1987) 1 SCC 288 and Ashwini Kumar Upadhyay v. Union of India, (2021) 20 SCC 599.

24. Sri Jayant Singh Tomar, the learned AGA-I has submitted that the application for withdrawal of prosecution was filed under political pressure and the trial court was justified in rejecting the application keeping in view the nature and gravity of the offence and its impact upon the public life.

25. Section 321 Cr.P.C., as it applies to the State of Uttar Pradesh, reads as follows: -

"321. Withdrawal from prosecution.—The Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor in charge of a case may, on the written permission of the State Government to that effect (which shall be filed in Court), with the consent of the Court, at any time before the judgment is pronounced, withdraw from the prosecution of any person either generally or in respect of any one or more of the offences for which he is tried; and, upon such withdrawal,—

(a) if it is made before a charge has been framed, the accused shall be discharged in respect of such offence or offences;

(b) if it is made after a charge has been framed, or when under this Code no charge is required, he shall be acquitted in respect of such offence or offences:
Provided that …"

26. Sheonandan Paswan versus State of Bihar, (1987) 1 SCC 288, is a judgment of a Constitution Bench consisting of 5 Hon'ble Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court – (1) P. N. Bhagwati, C.J., (2) E. S. Venkataramiah, J, (3) V. Khalid, J, (4) G. L. Oza, J and (5) S. Natarajan, J. The majority view was expressed by a judgment written by Hon'ble V. Khalid, J for himself and Hon'ble S. Natarajan, J. Hon'ble E. S. Venkataramiah, J gave a separate judgment concurring with the majority view. The minority view was expressed by Hon'ble P. N. Bhagwati C.J. and Hon'ble G. L. Oza, J.

27. In the majority judgment delivered by Hon'ble V. Khalid, J with the concurrence of Hon'ble S. Natarajan, J, his lordships laid down the principles regarding Section 321 Cr.P.C. in the following words: -

"73. … When an application under Section 321CrPC is made, it is not necessary for the court to assess the evidence to discover whether the case would end in conviction or acquittal. To contend that the court when it exercises its limited power of giving consent under Section 321 has to assess the evidence and find out whether the case would end in acquittal or conviction, would be to rewrite Section 321CrPC and would be to concede to the court a power which the scheme of Section 321 does not contemplate. The acquittal or discharge order under Section 321 are not the same as the normal final orders in criminal cases. The conclusion will not be backed by a detailed discussion of the evidence in the case of acquittal or absence of prima facie case or groundlessness in the case of discharge. All that the court has to see is whether the application is made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice and not to thwart or stifle the process of law. The court after considering these facets of the case, will have to see whether the application suffers from such improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if consent is given. In this case, on a reading of the application for withdrawal, the order of consent and the other attendant circumstances, I have no hesitation to hold that the application for withdrawal and the order giving consent were proper and strictly within the confines of Section 321CrPC.

78. The section gives no indication as to the grounds on which the Public Prosecutor may make the application, or the considerations on which the court is to grant its consent. The initiative is that of the Public Prosecutor and what the court has to do is only to give its consent and not to determine any matter judicially. The judicial function implicit in the exercise of the judicial discretion for granting the consent would normally mean that the court has to satisfy itself that the executive function of the Public Prosecutor has not been improperly exercised, or that it is not an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice for illegitimate reasons or purposes.

* * *

87. ... Section 321, in view of the wide language it uses, enables the Public Prosecutor to withdraw from the prosecution any accused, the discretion exercisable under which is fettered only by a consent from court on a consideration of the materials before it and that at any stage of the case. The section does not insist upon a reasoned order by the Magistrate while giving consent. All that is necessary to satisfy the section is to see that the Public Prosecutor acts in good faith and that the Magistrate is satisfied that the exercise of discretion by the Public Prosecutor is proper.

* * *

90. Section 321 CrPC is virtually a step by way of composition of the offence by the State. The State is the master of the litigation in criminal cases. It is useful to remember that by the exercise of functions under Section 321, the accountability of the concerned person or persons does not disappear. A private complaint can still be filed if a party is aggrieved by the withdrawal of the prosecution but running the possible risk of a suit of malicious prosecution if the complaint is bereft of any basis."

28. Hon'ble G. L. Oza, J has expressing the following view while concurring with the majority view: -

"37. At the outset it should be stated that merely because a court discharges or acquits an accused arraigned before it, the court cannot be considered to have compromised with the crime. Corruption, particularly at high places should be put down with a heavy hand. But our passion to do so should not overtake reason. The court always acts on the material before it and if it finds that the material is not sufficient to connect the accused with the crime, it has to discharge or acquit him, as the case may be, notwithstanding the fact that the crime complained of is a grave one."

29. Hon'ble G. L. Oza, J quoted with approval legal position flowing from Section 321 Cr.P.C. as explained by Hon'ble Krishna Iyer and Chinnappa Reddy, JJ. in Rajender Kumar Jain versus State (1980) 3 SCC 435: -

"14. Thus, from the precedents of this Court, we gather:

(1) Under the scheme of the Code prosecution of an offender for a serious offence is primarily the responsibility of the executive.

(2) The withdrawal from the prosecution is an executive function of the Public Prosecutor.

(3) The discretion to withdraw from the prosecution is that of the Public Prosecutor and none else, and so, he cannot surrender that discretion to someone else.

(4) The Government may suggest to the Public Prosecutor that he may withdraw from the prosecution but none can compel him to do so.

(5) The Public Prosecutor may withdraw from the prosecution not merely on the ground of paucity of evidence but on other relevant grounds as well in order to further the broad ends of public justice, public order and peace. The broad ends of public justice will certainly include appropriate social, economic and, we add, political purposes sans Tammary Hall enterprises.

(6) The Public Prosecutor is an officer of the court and responsible to the court.

(7) The court performs a supervisory function in granting its consent to the withdrawal.

(8) The court's duty is not to reappreciate the grounds which led the Public Prosecutor to request withdrawal from the prosecution but to consider whether the Public Prosecutor applied his mind as a free agent, uninfluenced by irrelevant and extraneous considerations. The court has a special duty in this regard as it is the ultimate repository of legislative confidence in granting or withholding its consent to withdrawal from the prosecution.

15. We may add it shall be the duty of the Public Prosecutor to inform the court and it shall be the duty of the court to apprise itself of the reasons which prompt the Public Prosecutor to withdraw from the prosecution. The court has a responsibility and a stake in the administration of criminal justice and so has the Public Prosecutor, its 'Minister of Justice'. Both have a duty to protect the administration of criminal justice against possible abuse or misuse by the executive by resort to the provisions of Section 321, Criminal Procedure Code. The independence of the judiciary requires that once the case has travelled to the court, the court and its officers alone must have control over the case and decide what is to be done in each case."

14. Sri. Ajmal Khan has relied upon the following passage from the judgment in Sheonandan Paswan (Supra), which is from the minority view contained in the judgment delivered by P. N. Bhagwati C.J. with the concurrence of Hon'ble G. L. Oza, J: -

"30. Now when a warrant case instituted on a police report comes before the court, the court is required to consider only the police report and the documents sent along with it and the court may make such examination, if any, of the accused as it thinks necessary and on the basis of such material if the court, after giving the prosecution and the accused an opportunity of being heard, considers the charge against the accused to be groundless, the court is bound to discharge the accused. What the court, therefore, does while exercising its function under Section 239 is to consider the police report and the document sent along with it as also any statement made by the accused if the court chooses to examine him. And if the court finds that there is no prima facie case against the accused the court discharges him. But that is precisely what the court is called upon to do when an application for withdrawal from the prosecution is made by the Public Prosecutor on the ground that there is insufficient or no evidence to support the prosecution. There also the court would have to consider the material placed before it on behalf of the prosecution for the purpose of deciding whether the ground urged by the Public Prosecutor for withdrawal of the prosecution is justified or not and this material would be the same as the material before the court while discharging its function under Section 239. If the court while considering an application for withdrawal on the ground of insufficiency or absence of evidence to support the prosecution has to scrutinise the material for the purpose of deciding whether there is in fact insufficient evidence or no evidence at all in support of the prosecution, the court might as well engage itself in this exercise while considering under Section 239 whether the accused shall be discharged or a charge shall be framed against him. It is an identical exercise which the court will be performing whether the court acts under Section 239 or under Section 321. If that be so, we do not think that in a warrant case instituted on a police report the Public Prosecutor should be entitled to make an application for withdrawal from the prosecution on the ground that there is insufficient or no evidence in support of the prosecution. The court will have to consider the same issue under Section 239 and it will most certainly further or advance the cause of public justice if the court examines the issue under Section 239 and gives its reasons for discharging the accused after a judicial consideration of the material before it, rather than allow the prosecution to be withdrawn by the Public Prosecutor. When the prosecution is allowed to be withdrawn there is always an uneasy feeling in the public mind that the case has not been allowed to be agitated before the court and the court has not given a judicial verdict. But, if on the other hand, the court examines the material and discharges the accused under Section 239, it will always carry greater conviction with the people because instead of the prosecution being withdrawn and taken out of the ken of judicial scrutiny the judicial verdict based on assessment and evaluation of the material before the court will always inspire greater confidence. Since the guiding consideration in all these cases is the imperative of public justice and it is absolutely essential that justice must not only be done but also appear to be done, we would hold that in a warrant case instituted on a police report — which the present case against Dr Jagannath Mishra and others admittedly is — it should not be a legitimate ground for the Public Prosecutor to urge in support of the application for withdrawal that there is insufficient or no evidence in support of the prosecution. The court in such a case should be left to decide under Section 239 whether the accused should be discharged or a charge should be framed against him."

However, the aforesaid view being the minority view, undoubtedly it would give way to the majority view.

15. In State of Kerala Versus K. Ajith, (2021) 17 SCC 318, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under: -

"25. The principles which emerge from the decisions of this Court on the withdrawal of a prosecution under Section 321 of the CrPC can now be formulated:

25.1. Section 321 entrusts the decision to withdraw from a prosecution to the public prosecutor but the consent of the court is required for a withdrawal of the prosecution;

25.2. The public prosecutor may withdraw from a prosecution not merely on the ground of paucity of evidence but also to further the broad ends of public justice;

25.3. The public prosecutor must formulate an independent opinion before seeking the consent of the court to withdraw from the prosecution;

25.4 While the mere fact that the initiative has come from the government will not vitiate an application for withdrawal, the court must make an effort to elicit the reasons for withdrawal so as to ensure that the public prosecutor was satisfied that the withdrawal of the prosecution is necessary for good and relevant reasons;

25.5. In deciding whether to grant its consent to a withdrawal, the court exercises a judicial function but it has been described to be supervisory in nature. Before deciding whether to grant its consent the court must be satisfied that:

(a) The function of the public prosecutor has not been improperly exercised or that it is not an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice for illegitimate reasons or purposes;

(b) The application has been made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice, and not to thwart or stifle the process of law;

(c) The application does not suffer from such improprieties or illegalities as would cause manifest injustice if consent were to be given;

(d) The grant of consent sub-serves the administration of justice; and

(e) The permission has not been sought with an ulterior purpose unconnected with the vindication of the law which the public prosecutor is duty bound to maintain;

25.6. While determining whether the withdrawal of the prosecution subserves the administration of justice, the court would be justified in scrutinizing the nature and gravity of the offence and its impact upon public life especially where matters involving public funds and the discharge of a public trust are implicated; and

25.7 In a situation where both the trial judge and the revisional court have concurred in granting or refusing consent, this Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution would exercise caution before disturbing concurrent findings. The Court may in exercise of the well settled principles attached to the exercise of this jurisdiction, interfere in a case where there has been a failure of the trial judge or of the High Court to apply the correct principles in deciding whether to grant or withhold consent."

30. From a cumulative reading of the aforesaid judgment, the principles which can culled out are as follows: -

(i) The withdrawal from the prosecution is an executive function of the Public Prosecutor and he has to exercise the discretion to withdraw from the prosecution independently. However, the Government may suggest to the Public Prosecutor that he may withdraw from the prosecution, without compelling him to do so.

(ii) The mere fact that the initiative has come from the government will not vitiate an application for withdrawal, if the public prosecutor is satisfied that the withdrawal of the prosecution is necessary for good and relevant reasons.

(iii) The Public Prosecutor may withdraw from the prosecution on the ground of paucity of evidence or on any other relevant ground in order to further the broad ends of public justice, public order and peace.

(iv) The Public Prosecutor is an officer of the court and responsible to the court. However, the Court is not required to reappreciate the grounds which led the Public Prosecutor to request withdrawal from the prosecution While granting its consent to the withdrawal of prosecution under Section 321, the court performs a supervisory function and it has to examine whether the Public Prosecutor has applied his mind properly, uninfluenced by irrelevant and extraneous considerations and the application has been moved by him in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice or whether the move for withdrawal is an attempt to interfere with the normal course of justice for illegitimate reasons or purposes.

(v) If the court finds that the material before it is not sufficient to connect the accused with the crime, it has to discharge or acquit him, as the case may be, notwithstanding the fact that the crime complained of is a grave one.

31. When we examine the facts of the present case in light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above mentioned cases, the relevant facts which emerge are that the informant-opposite party no. 2 had lodged the FIR against 13 named persons stating that that he was Bahujan Samaj Party's candidate for Babaganj Block. When he had gone to have dinner with some other political leaders and numerous other party workers to have dinner at a Dhaba in Kunda, the accused persons Sudhakar Singh, Pradeep Singh and about a dozen other persons riding two SUVs stopped the vehicles of the complainant and started abusing them. When the complainant and other persons tried to escape, the accused persons fired shots with weapons towards them with intention to kill them. The complainant and the persons accompanying him reached in front of Kotwali Kunda but several persons riding two Fortuner SUVs and about a dozen other vehicles started firing shots with weapons towards the informant and his companions. The complainant and the persons accompanying him went inside the Kotwali to save themselves but the accused persons damaged the vehicles of the complainant and assaulted the persons accompanying him with buts of rifles causing fractures to Pushpendra Shukla and Rohit Mishra. The F.I.R. further alleges that some companions of the complainant had been taken away in the vehicles to some unknown destination and their whereabouts could not be known and that some weapons and goods had been snatched away by the accused persons.

32. Although the FIR alleges that initially only two named persons Sudhakar Singh, Pradeep Singh and about a dozen other persons riding two SUVs had apprehended the complainant and his companions and when he reached Kotwali Kunda, several persons riding two Fortuner SUVs and about a dozen other vehicles started firing shots with weapons towards the informant and his companions, he has named only 13 persons as accused in the FIR and he did not allege the involvement of any other unnamed persons in the FIR.

33. The alleged indiscriminate firing made by numerous persons riding more than a dozen vehicles towards the informant and his companions did not result in any single gun-shot injury to any person.

34. The first charge-sheet was submitted on 03.01.2011 against 11 persons. The first supplementary charge-sheet was submitted on 15.03.2011 against 15 persons although the FIR was lodged against 13 named persons only and no other unnamed person was made accused in it.

35. In the application for withdrawal of prosecution filed on 04.03.2014, the Public Prosecutor stated that he had applied his independent mind and perused the entire material available on record and he was of the view that the decision taken by the Government to withdraw the prosecution was in accordance with law and that from a perusal of the case diary it appears that the evidences collected against the accused persons are very weak and success in the prosecution was doubtful. The trial Court has not dealt with this aspect of the matter and has rejected the application merely because the offences alleged are grave and serious non compoundable offences.

36. The trial Court has noted that the missing weapons were recovered from co-accused persons Diwakar Tiwari, Manoj Kumar Tiwari and Rajesh Kumar Shukla, but it ignored the fact that prosecution against those three persons has not been sought to be withdrawn.

37. The informant has also filed an application before the trial court supporting the application filed by the Public Prosecutor for withdrawal of the prosecution and he has filed a counter affidavit before this Court supporting withdrawal of prosecution stating that he had lodged the FIR under political pressure.

38. In these circumstances, the decision taken by the Public Prosecutor to withdraw the prosecution keeping in view the aforesaid weaknesses and discrepancies in the prosecution case is based on cogent. The continuance of prosecution against the persons against whom it has been sought to be withdrawn, will clearly result in an abuse of the process of law.

39. In view of the foregoing discussion, the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed. The order dated 17.03.2023 passed by the Special Judge MP/MLA/ Civil Judge (SD)/FTC-II, District Pratapgarh in Case No. 236 of 2011 (State versus Raghuraj Pratap Singh & Ors) arising out of Case Crime No. 513 of 2010, under Sections 395/397/307/364/323/ 325/504/506/427/34 IPC & Section 7 Criminal Law Amendment Act, Police Station Kunda, District Pratapgarh, whereby the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C., is quashed.

40. The trial Court is directed to decide the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. filed by the State afresh keeping in view the observations made in this judgment.

Application Dismissed. (E-11)

List of referred Cases: - no case cited.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ishan Baghel Advocate, the learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Anurag Verma, the learned AGA-I for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the applicant has sought quashing of an order dated 03.06.2014 as well as entire proceeding of Case No. 4495 of 2011, under Sections 3/23 Pre-Conception & Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act, 1994, Police Station Sandila, District Hardoi, pending in the court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 3, Hardoi.

3. The aforesaid complaint was filed by Additional Chief Medical Officer, Hardoi against the applicant and one Raj Kishore Awasthi, stating that he had been authorized by the District Magistrate/ Appropriate Authority to file the complaint under Section 28 of Pre-conception & Pre-natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act, 1994 (which will hereinafter be referred to as 'the Act of 1994'). The complaint alleges that the provisions of the aforesaid act were being violated in a diagnostic centre owned by the co-accused persons where the applicant was carrying out Ultra Sonographic Examination of patients.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that Section 28 of the Act of 1994 provides as follows:-

"28. Cognizance of offences.— (1) No court shall take cognizance of an offence under this Act except on a complaint made by—

(a) the Appropriate Authority concerned, or any officer authorised in this behalf by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, or the Appropriate Authority; or

(b) a person who has given notice of not less than fifteen days in the manner prescribed, to the Appropriate Authority, of the alleged offence and of his intention to make a complaint to the court.

Explanation.—For the purpose of this clause, "person" includes a social organisation.

(2) No court other than that of a Metropolitan Magistrate or a Judicial Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence punishable under this Act.

(3) Where a complaint has been made under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the court may, on demand by such person, direct the Appropriate Authority to make available copies of the relevant records in its possession to such person."

5. The manner of appointment of 'appropriate authority' is provided in Section 17 (1) & (2) of the Act of 1994 as follows:-

"17. Appropriate Authority and Advisory Committee.—

1. The Central Government shall appoint, by notification in the Official Gazette, one or more Appropriate Authorities for each of the Union Territories for the purposes of this Act.

2. The State Government shall appoint, by notification in the Official Gazette, one or more Appropriate Authorities for the whole or part of the State for the purposes of this Act having regard to the intensity of the problem of pre-natal sex determination leading to female foeticide.

3. The officers appointed as Appropriate Authorities under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall be,—

(a) when appointed for the whole of the State or the Union Territory, consisting of the following three members—

(i) an officer of or above the rank of the Joint Director of Health and Family Welfare—Chairperson;

(ii) an eminent woman representing women's organisation; and

(iii) an officer of Law Department of the State or the Union Territory concerned:

Provided that it shall be the duty of the State or the Union Territory concerned to constitute multi-member State or Union territory level Appropriate Authority within three months of the coming into force of the Pre-natal Diagnostic Techniques (Regulation and Prevention of Misuse) Amendment Act, 2002:

Provided further that any vacancy occurring therein shall be filled within three months of the occurrence.]

(b) when appointed for any part of the State or the Union Territory, of such other rank as the State Government or the Central Government, as the case may be, may deem fit.

6. In exercise of the aforesaid provision, the State Government has issued a Notification dated 30.11.2007 providing that the District Magistrate shall be the Appropriate Authority under Section 17(3)(a) read with 17(3)(b) of the act of 1994. The submission of the learned counsel for the applicant is that as the Additional Chief Medical Officer is not the appropriate authority, he could not have filed a complaint for any alleged violation of the provisions of the aforesaid Act and the trial court could not have taken cognizance of the complaint which had not been filed by the appropriate authority.

7. Opposing the submissions, the learned AGA-I has submitted that the applicant has the opportunity to defend him before the trial court and since the complaint makes out commission of offences under the Act by the applicant, it is not a fit case where this Court should exercise its inherent powers for quashing the proceedings of the complaint.

8. I have heard the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case and the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties.

9. When the Act of 1994 clearly provides that no Court shall take cognizance of any offence under the Act except on a complaint made by the appropriate authority, the court has no jurisdiction to take cognizance of any offence except on a complaint made by the appropriate authority. There can be no dispute against the fact that the Additional Chief Medical Officer is not an appropriate authority and he has no authority to file a complaint for any alleged offence committed under the provisions of the aforesaid Act and the Government Order. Therefore, as the complaint itself was incompetent, the trial court had no jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offences alleged in the complaint and to summon the applicant for being tried for the alleged offences.

10. Accordingly, the application is allowed.

11. The order dated 03.06.2014 as well as entire proceeding of Case No. 4495 of 2011, under Sections 3/23 Pre-Conception & Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act, 1994, Police Station Sandila, District Hardoi, pending in the court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 3, Hardoi, are hereby quashed.

1. Heard Sri Kumar Dhananjay, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Shivesh Mishra, learned counsel for the informant, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant application has been moved to quash the charge-sheet arising out of Case Crime No.629 of 1995 under Section 307/302 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Ghaziabad and the proceedings of Criminal Case No.1466 of 1997 (State Vs. Mohd. Deen).

Grounds of appeal-

3. The applicant has taken ground that an FIR was lodged by opposite party no.2 namely Mohd. Idris on 12.12.1995 with the allegations that on 12.12.1995, the informant, Mohd. Idris along with his nephew Naeem and Shahnawaz @ Ballu were proceeding to a relatives place located at Kaila Bhatta. When they reached near Bokhari Clinic at about 12.15 in the noon, the applicant allegedly accompanied by his sons Salim and Sharif accosted the informant and exhorted his sons to shoot down Shah Nawaz on account of certain election rivalry. It was alleged in the first information report that upon exhortation by the applicant, his sons Salim and Sharif shot Shah Nawaz, as a result of which, he was badly injured. Later on, Shah Nawaz succumbed to his injuries. True copy of the FIR has been annexed as annexure-1.

4. The entire story in the first information report was baseless and the allegation against the applicant was only of exhortation. The impugned first information report contains allegation of shooting against the applicant's sons but there was no material, whatsoever, against the applicant. The applicant filed a petition being Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.15006 of 1996 before this Court, challenging the first information report dated 12.12.1995, whereupon this Court, issued notice and by an interim order, stayed arrest of the applicant until conclusion of investigation. A true copy of the interim order dated 23.04.1996 has been annexed as annexure-2 to the petition.

5. Consequently, the applicant was never arrested pending investigation. The applicant's sons, co-accused, Sharif and Salim were, however, arrested and were enlarged on bail by this Court. However, a charge-sheet was filed against them on 15.01.1996, whereupon, the cognizance was taken on 13.03.1996. A photo copy of the charge-sheet filed against the co-accused, Salim and Sharif has been filed as annexure-3 to the petition.

6. The case with regard to the co-accused, Salim and Sharif was committed to the sessions which was registered as ST No.394 of 1996 (State Vs. Salim and another) under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Ghaziabad.

7. During course of the trial, the witnesses of fact did not support the prosecution version. Each has stated that he had not seen the accused committing the offence in question. The prosecution witnesses were declared hostile and were subjected to cross- examination. However, the cross-examination did not yield any benefit to the prosecution. A true copy of the statements of PW-1, Mohd. Kasim, PW-2, Mohd. Ashraf and PW-3, Mohd. Idris have been annexed as annexure nos.3, 4 and 5 to the petition.

8. The learned Additional Sessions Judge, after examination of evidence on record, vide his judgment and order dated 14.03.2001, held that the prosecution was totally unsuccessful in proving its case against the co-accused Salim and Sharif and, accordingly, entered a judgment of clean acquittal in ST No.394 of 1996. A true copy of judgment of acquittal of co-accused Salim and Sharif dated 14.03.2001 has been annexed as annexure-6 to the petition.

9. However, a charge-sheet was filed before the Chief Judicial Magistrate on 02.07.1996 also against the applicant and cognizance whereof was taken by the Chief Judicial Magistrate on 13.06.1997. A true along with certified copy of the impugned charge-sheet dated 13.06.1997 has been annexed as annexure-7 to the petition.

10. That a perusal of the impugned charge sheet would indicate that witnesses of fact cited by the prosecution in the impugned charge sheet are one and the same as were cited in the charge sheet against co-accused Salim and Sharif. The charge sheet has been filed about the same incident dated 12.12.1995 and arising out of the same first information report. There is no difference, whatsoever, in the evidence which was cited in support of the prosecution case in ST No.394 of 1996. The same witnesses are also the witness in the impugned charge-sheet and no other witness has been shown.

11. In view of the above circumstances, the proceedings against the applicant on the basis of impugned charge-sheet, on the face of record, absolutely futile as there is no possibility of a conviction being recorded on the same evidence on the basis of which co-accused have already been acquitted. Thus, the impugned charge-sheet is a patent abuse of process of court and deserves to be quashed.

12. A charge-sheet before the CJM that is criminal case no.1466 of 1997, non-bailable warrant of arrest has been issued against the applicant. The last non-bailable warrant had been issued on 08.03.2005 due to which the police is trying to arrest the applicant and going by the old age and health of the applicant, in case the applicant is arrested, he will suffer irreparable loss and injury. Under the aforesaid circumstances, the charge-sheet arising out of case crime no.629 of 1995, under Section 307 /302 IPC and criminal case no.1466 of 1997 – State Vs. Mohd. Deen, pending in the Court of CJM, Ghaziabad be quashed.

13. All the annexures referred in the petition, have been annexed by the applicant.

14. A counter affidavit bearing no.173098 has been filed on behalf of opposite party no.2. In the counter affidavit it is admitted that the arrest of the applicant was stayed by the High Court vide order dated 23.04.1996 and it is further averred that the IO had illegally submitted the charge-sheet against only two accused. The police has submitted charge-sheet against the applicant and the learned Magistrate has taken cognizance on 13.06.1997 and it is submitted that the evidence is not the same and the evidence has not yet come and the trial has not yet started. It is further averred that it is well settled law that charge-sheet under Section 302 IPC may not be quashed and the matter should be tried by the trial Court.

15. No rejoinder affidavit has been filed by the applicant against the aforesaid counter affidavit.

Conclusion-

16. The only ground taken by the applicant is that since the previously charge-sheeted main accused persons Salim and Sharif have been acquitted on account of hostile evidence of the witnesses of fact and he was only assigned the role of exhortation, it would not be feasible to conduct the trial in respect of the applicant and therefore, no trial should be conducted against the applicant and the charge-sheet and the aforesaid criminal case must be quashed.

17. In the charge-sheet filed against the applicant, Mohd. Idrish, Naeem, Ashraf have been shown to be witnesses of fact. Out of them, Mohd. Naeen was discharged in the main trial and was not testified by the prosecution. Similarly witness Mohd. Kasim, a witness of inquest, Zaheer Ali, Sheru, Nawabuddin, Siraj, Salim have been shown to be witnesses of fard and inquest and they were not examined in the previous trial. There is another aspect that in a criminal trial, a judge can not be a silent spectator and for the ends of justice, he may summon any of the person as witness under Section 311 CrPC. Therefore, it can not be said that since the witnesses of fact had been turned hostile, therefore, the impugned trial should not proceed against the applicant. There is no law that if the co-accused have been tried and acquitted separately, rest of the accused persons would not be tried and would be discharged and the proceeding of the criminal case against the rest of the accused would be liable to be quashed under Section 482 CrPC.

18. The relevancy and the evidentiary value of the previous judgement has been defined and enumerated under Section 40 to 44 of the Evidence Act are relevant which are as follows:

"40. Previous judgments relevant to bar a second suit or trial.—The existence of any judgment, order or decree which by law prevents any Courts from taking cognizance of a suit or holding a trial, is a relevant fact when the question is whether such Court ought to take cognizance of such suit, or to hold such trial.

41. Relevancy of certain judgments in probate, etc. jurisdiction.—A final judgment, order or decree of a competent Court, in the exercise of probate, matrimonial, admiralty or insolvency jurisdiction, which confers upon or takes away from any person any legal character, or which declares any person to be entitled to any such character, or to be entitled to an specific thing, not as against any specified person but absolutely, is relevant when the existence of any such legal character, or the title of any such person to any such thing, is relevant.

Such judgment, order pr decree is conclusive proof—that any legal character which it confers accrued at the time when such judgment, order or decree came into operation; that any legal character, to which it declares any such person to be entitled, accrued, to that person to be entitled, accrued, to that person at the time when such judgment, order or decree declares it to have accrued to that person; that any legal character which it takes away from any person ceased at the time from which judgment, order or decree declared that it had ceased or should cease; and that anything to which it declares any person to be so entitled was the property of that person at the time from which such judgment, order or decree] declares that it had been or should be his property.

42. Relevancy and effect of judgments, orders or decrees, other than those mentioned in section 41.—Judgments, orders or decrees other than those mentioned in section 41, are relevant if they relate to matters of a public nature relevant to the enquiry; but such judgments, orders or decrees are not conclusive proof of that which they state.

Illustration

A Sues B for trespass on his land. B alleges the existence of a public right of way over the land, which A denies.

The existence of a decree in favor of the defendant, in a suit by A against C for a trespass on the same land, in which C alleged the existence of the same right of way, is relevant, but it is not conclusive proof that the right of way exists.

43. Judgment, etc. other than those mentioned in sections 40 to 42, when relevant.—Judgments, orders or decrees, other than those mentioned in sections 40, 41 and 42, are irrelevant, unless the existence of such judgment, order or decree, is a fact in issue, or is relevant under some other provision of this Act.

Illustrations

(a) A and B separately sue C for a libel which reflects upon each of them. C in each case says, that the matter alleged to be libellous is true, and the circumstances are such that it is probably true in each case, or in neither.

A obtains a decree against C for damages on the ground that C failed to make out his justification. The fact is irrelevant as between B and C.

(b) A prosecutes B for adultery with C, A's wife.

B denies that C is A's wife, but the Court convicts B of adultery. Afterwards, C is prosecuted for bigamy in marrying B during A's lifetime. C says that she never was A's wife.

The judgment against B is irrelevant as against C.

(c) A prosecutes B for stealing a cow from him, B is convicted.

A afterwards sues C for the cow, which B had sold to him before his conviction. As between A and C, the judgment against B is irrelevant.

(d) A has obtained a decree for the possession of land against B, C, B's son, murders A is consequence.

The existence of the judgment is relevant, as showing motive for a crime.

(e) A is charged with theft and with having been previously convicted of theft. The previous conviction is relevant as a fact in issue.

(f) A is tried for the murder of B. The fact that B prosecuted A for libel and that A was convicted and sentenced is relevant under section 8 as showing the motive for the fact in issue.

44. Fraud or collusion in obtaining judgment, or incompetency of Court, may be proved.—Any party to a suit or other proceeding may show that any judgment, order or decree which is relevant under section 40, 41 or 42 and which has been proved by the adverse party, was delivered by a Court not competent to deliver it, or was obtained by fraud or collusion."

19. From the combined reading of the aforesaid provisions and the case in hand, it is crystal clear that the judgment and order passed in respect of Salim and Sharif does not apply as res judicata. At most it can be said to be relevant which may be considered by the trial court but there is no law that if separately tried co-accused persons have been acquitted, the applicant co-accused will also be liable to be acquitted and the charge-sheet and the criminal trial would be liable to be quashed under the inherent powers of the Court.

20. In Moosa Vs. Sub Inspector of Police, 2006 CrLJ 1922 (Kerala) the facts of the case was that the co-accused were acquitted in the trial against them in the absence of absconding co-accused. Later on, the absconding co-accused moved an application to reckon the jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC to quash the proceeding of the criminal case pending against him. It was held that a judgement which is not inter parties cannot justify the invocation of the Doctrine of Estoppel under the law at present.

21. In Central Bureau of investigation Vs. Ravi Shankar Srivastava, IAS and Another AIR 2006 SC 2872 it has been held that while exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC, the High Court would not ordinarily embark upon an enquiry whether the evidence in question is reliable or not or whether on a reasonable appreciation of it accusation would not be sustained. That is the function of trial Judge.

22. It has been held in several judgements by the Apex Court that powers under Section 482 CrPC cannot be liberally exercised and it has to be sparingly exercised, in cases where there is a dire need of exercise of this power.

23. Thus, from the above discussion, this Court is of the considered view that the previous judgment passed in favour of the co-accused persons is no ground to allow the petition under Section 482 CrPC and to quash the impugned charge-sheet and the proceedings of the criminal case pending against the applicant. The grounds taken by the applicant are imaginary and trivial in nature and are not sustainable in the eyes of law. Therefore, the petition lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

24. Accordingly, this petition under Section 482 CrPC is dismissed. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

25. Let a copy of this order be sent to the CJM, Ghaziabad for necessary compliance and for committal of the case if the same has not been committed to the Court of Sessions. In case the trial is not conducted, the same shall be conducted and concluded as early as possible preferably within a period of one year from the date of receipt of a copy of this order by the court concerned as the matter has become very old.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Umesh Chandra Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. This application has been moved by the applicant to quash the order dated 03.05.2005 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No.12, Varanasi in ST No.535 of 2002 (State Vs. Bafati), under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC, Police Station Lohta, District Varanasi, whereby the learned trial court allowed the application 77kha and summoned the victim PW-3 for re-examination under Section 311 CrPC.

3. In brief, facts of the case are that informant Munir moved a written complaint on 24.04.2001 that on 20.04.2001 when his wife Jamila had gone to Dargah Sharif, Akbarpur and he had gone to Lallapura to meet his friend, his neighbourers Nizamuddin, Sirajuddin, Mainuddin sons of Bafati and Bafati himself entered into his house at about 02:00 a.m. In the night of 20.04.2001 they forcefully took away his 14 years old daughter Rizwana. When his niece Kallo opposed, they threatened to shoot her. Till now his daughter has not come back. After return of his wife he is informing the police for taking appropriate action. On the basis of the aforesaid complaint a case under Sections 363, 366A and 506 IPC was lodged against the accused persons and the charge sheet was submitted in the aforesaid sections after the investigation. The case was committed to the court of sessions which was transferred to the Court of ASJ, Court No.12, Varanasi and thereafter it was transferred to the Court of ASJ/Fast Track Court No.1, Varanasi.

4. After recording the evidence of victim PW-3, an application under Section 311 CrPC was moved that the statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 CrPC could not be proved. Hence, the concerned witness be summoned for re-examination to prove the statement under Section 164 CrPC. It has also been averred that during the course of deposition she was so affraid that she had forgotten to depose about the same, hence, it is expedient to recall the witness for proving her statement recorded under Section 164 CrPC.

5. The application was opposed by the defence but it was allowed on the ground that during the course of examination-in-chief, no evidence of the witness could be recorded for proving her statement under Section 164 CrPC and accordingly the application was allowed and the witness was summoned for re-examination.

6. Being aggrieved, the present application has been moved by the accused Sirajuddin that the informant Munir had lodged a false and fabricated FIR on which basis the charge-sheet has been submitted by the IO. The trial court has allowed the application without applying judicial mind just to fill up lacuna of the prosecution case which is illegal, unjust and is liable to the quashed. During the examination of the victim PW-3, she was questioned in respect of her statement under Section 164 CrPC and in fact on the contradiction and omission put by her, there was no justification for the trial court to pass the impugned order. The statement under section 164 CrPC has not been exhibited but it does not make any difference in the case as the statement under section 164 CrPC is admissible in evidence under Section 80 of the Indian Evidence Act without its formal proof. In the garb of the impugned order now prosecution wants to fill lacuna of the prosecution which cannot be permitted because it will amount to unfair trial, therefore, the impugned order dated 03.05.2005 be quashed.

7. During the course of hearing of this application opposite party no.2 left parvi though a counter affidavit had been filed on behalf of opposite party no.2, the victim of the case in support of the impugned order and against the petition against which a rejoinder affidavit has also been produced. At the time of hearing none appeared from the side of opposite party no.2 hence heard Sri Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the applicant and learned AGA for the State and the application is decided on merit.

8. Before concluding the case it would be appropriate to reproduce section 311 CrPC alongwith relevant citations which are as under:-

9. For convenience Section 311 CrPC is reproduced as under:-

"311. Power to summon material witness, or examine person present.—Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or. recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re- examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case."

10. From the above, it is very much clear that there are two part of this Section. According to first part of the Section, the Court can exercise the power :-

(1) to summon any person as a witness, or.

(2) to examine any persons in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or,

(3) to recall and re-examine any person already examined.

The second part, which is mandatory and imposes an obligation on the Court:-

(1) to summon and examine, or

(2) to recall and re-examine any such person, if his evidence appears to be essential to the just decision of the case.

11. In Raja Ram Prasad Yadav Vs. State of Bihar and another, AIR 2013 SC 3081, it has been held that it is, therefore imperative that invocation of Section 311 CrPC and its application in a particular case can be ordered by the Court, only by bearing in mind the object and purport of the said provisions, namely, for achieving a just decision of the case. The power vested under the said provisions is made available to any court at any stage in any inquiry or trial or other proceedings initiated under the code for the purpose of summoning any person as a witness or for examining any persons in attendance, even though not summoned as witnesses or to re-call or re-examine any person in attendance. In so far as recalling and re-examining of any person already examined, the court must necessarily consider and ensure that such re-call and re-examination of any person, appears in the view of the court to be essential for the just decision of the case.

12. The averments of paragraphs-14 to 17 in VN Patil Vs. Niranjan Kumar and others, (2021) 3 SCC 661 are relevant, hence they are reproduced as under :-

"14. The object underlying Section 311 CrPC is that there may not be failure of justice on account of mistake of either party in bringing the valuable evidence on record or leaving ambiguity in the statements of the witnesses examined from either side. The determinative factor is whether it is essential to the just decision of the case. The significant expression that occurs is "at any stage of any inquiry or trial or other proceeding under this Code". It is, however, to be borne in mind that the discretionary power conferred under Section 311 CrPC has to be exercised judiciously, as it is always said "wider the power, greater is the necessity of caution while exercise of judicious discretion".

15. The principles related to the exercise of the power under Section 311 CrPC have been well settled by this Court in Vijay Kumar v. State of U.P., (2011) 8 SCC 136 : (2011) 3 SCC (Cri) 371 : (2012) 1 SCC (L&S) 240 : (SCC p. 141, para 17)

"17. Though Section 311 confers vast discretion upon the court and is expressed in the widest possible terms, the discretionary power under the said section can be invoked only for the ends of justice. Discretionary power should be exercised consistently with the provisions of the Code and the principles of criminal law. The discretionary power conferred under Section 311 has to be exercised judicially for reasons stated by the court and not arbitrarily or capriciously. Before directing the learned Special Judge to examine Smt Ruchi Saxena as a court witness, the High Court did not examine the reasons assigned by the learned Special Judge as to why it was not necessary to examine her as a court witness and has given the impugned direction without assigning any reason."

16. This principle has been further reiterated in Mannan Shaikh v. State of W.B., (2014) 13 SCC 59 : (2014) 5 SCC (Cri) 547 and thereafter in Ratanlal v. Prahlad Jat, (2017) 9 SCC 340 : (2017) 3 SCC (Cri) 729 and Swapan Kumar Chatterjee v. CBI, (2019) 14 SCC 328 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 839 . The relevant paragraphs of Swapan Kumar Chatterjee v. CBI, (2019) 14 SCC 328 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 839 are as under: Swapan Kumar Chatterjee v. CBI, (2019) 14 SCC 328 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 839, SCC p. 331, paras 10-11)

"10. The first part of this section which is permissive gives purely discretionary authority to the criminal court and enables it at any stage of inquiry, trial or other proceedings under the Code to act in one of the three ways, namely, (i) to summon any person as a witness; or (ii) to examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness; or (iii) to recall and re-examine any person already examined. The second part, which is mandatory, imposes an obligation on the court (i) to summon and examine, or (ii) to recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to be essential to the just decision of the case.

11. It is well settled that the power conferred under Section 311 should be invoked by the court only to meet the ends of justice. The power is to be exercised only for strong and valid reasons and it should be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The court has vide power under this section to even recall witnesses for re-examination or further examination, necessary in the interest of justice, but the same has to be exercised after taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of each case. The power under this provision shall not be exercised if the court is of the view that the application has been filed as an abuse of the process of law."

17. The aim of every court is to discover the truth. Section 311 CrPC is one of many such provisions which strengthen the arms of a court in its effort to unearth the truth by procedure sanctioned by law. At the same time, the discretionary power vested under Section 311 CrPC has to be exercised judiciously for strong and valid reasons and with caution and circumspection to meet the ends of justice."

13. In this case the statement of PWs-1, 2 and 3 had already been recorded before the application under Section 311 CrPC was moved. For the purposes of this petition the statement of the victim PW-3 is material. This witness has deposed on oath in the court that in the fateful night none of the accused had entered in her house and none of the accused had taken away her forcefully and none of the accused had raped her. This witness was declared hostile and she was cross-examined by the ADGC of the court in which she deposed that she had gone to Himachal Pradesh with accused Nijamuddin at her own will where accused had not co-habitated with her. She was taken back therefrom by the Varanasi Police and her statement was recorded before the Magistrate. She had falsely stated that in the fateful night accused persons had entered in her house, closed her mouth with clothes and had taken herself forcefully near the grave. The witness clearly deposed that the evidence adduced by her in the court is true and correct. She had given the statement under Section 164 CrPC after being directed by some one else. The witness further totally denied the statement recorded under Section 164 CrPC. The witness also deposed that at that time also she loved Nijamuddin and even today. The witness also denied the statement recorded by the IO in favour of the prosecution under Section 161 CrPC.

14. According to this Court, from the statement of the victim, it is very much clear that she had neither supported the prosecution version nor the statements under Sections 161 and 164 CrPC. The opportunity to prove the statement under Section 164 CrPC was very much available to the prosecution which had not been availed. From the perusal of the statement of the victim it is very much clear that the witness has been examined with regard to Section 164 CrPC in 2-3 pages, therefore, it cannot be said that some more opportunity ought to have been provided to the prosecution to prove the statement under Section 164 CrPC. It is very much clear that though the victim has accepted that she was produced before the Magistrate and her statement was recorded and she had signed it but she has not owned the statement saying that it was not her statement with free will but it was under compulsion. According to this Court, in such a situation it was not necessary for the Court to summon the witness again under Section 311 CrPC. As the witness has already deposed that she had given the statement before the Magistrate, therefore, the same could be exhibited without any further formality.

15. So far as the evidentiary value of the statement under Section 161 and 164 CrPC is concerned, both have almost equal value and if the same are not supported during the trial, the witness may be contradicted.

16. In Utpal Das Vs. State of West Bengal, AIR 2010 SC 1894 and in Baijnath Singh Vs. State of Bihar, 2010 (70) ACC 11 (SC), it has been held that an FIR does not constitute a substantive evidence. The statement of a witness recorded under Sections 161 or 164 CrPC can only be used to contradict or corroborate the witness under Section 145 or 157 of the Indian Evidence Act but it cannot be used as substative evidence.

17. In view of the above also, it can be said that the witness had been examined at length with regard to her statement under section 161 and 164 CrPC, there was no need to recall her again for re-examination. When the witness had not corroborated her statement recorded under Section 164 CrPC and she had been already contradicted under Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, even then if she was summoned, certainly it would cause a prejudice to the accused persons. In view of the testimony of the victim recorded in the court it can safely be said that those statements are nothing but a waste paper. According to this Court, there was no occasion to pass the impugned order considering the nature of the evidence of the victim PW-3. The testimony on oath in the court during the course of trial has overriding effect.

18. From the perusal of the above, it is very much clear that the victim PW-3 has not supported her statement recorded under Sections 161 and 164 CrPC and her statement on oath is contrary to the prosecution. Hence, the order for recalling the witness was of no avail. Thus, the application under Section 482 CrPC deserves to be allowed to prevent abuse of the process of the Court and to secure the ends of justice.

19. One more ground has arisen during the pendency of this petition that in view of the judgment of Asian Resurfacing of Road Agency Private Limited Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2018) 16 SCC 299, the trial court started the trial treating the stay order passed by this Court to be vacated and recorded the statements of rest of the witnesses, the statement of the accused under Section 313 CrPC and after hearing the argument, acquitted the accused persons giving benefit of doubt on 30.09.2022. A photocopy of the certified copy of the judgment has been produced by the learned counsel for the applicant for perusal of this Court.

20. It is noteworthy that the accused persons had taken shelter of this Court and had obtained interim stay order and when the interim stay order passed by this Court was ignored in view of the judgment in Asian Resurfacing (supra), the State of UP or the respondent no.2 had not questioned the proceedings of the trial court, therefore, the respondents have no ground to claim the benefit of the same. If the respondents feel themselves to be aggrieved, the remedy is open for them to seek remedy available under the law against the order and judgement of acquittal.

21. On the basis of above, this Court is of the considered view that the application is liable to be allowed. (Though it has no importance after decision of the case)

Order

22. The application under Section 482 CrPC is allowed and the impugned order dated 03.05.2005 regarding summoning PW-3 for re-examination under Section 311 CrPC is hereby quashed.

1. Heard Sri Mirza Ali Zulfaquar, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Prashant Saxena, the learned AGA for the State.

2. Vide order dated 03.09.2021, a notice was issued to opposite party no.2. However, despite service of notice, none appeared on behalf of the opposite party no.2.

3. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking quashing of the charge sheet dated 16.03.2020 and cognizance/summoning order dated 10.12.2020 as well as the entire proceedings of Case No. 21205 of 2020 (State vs. Ziya Ullah), under Sections 419, 420, 376, 504, 506 IPC, arising out of Case Crime No. 20/2019, P.S. Mahila Thana, District Sant Kabir Nagar, pending before the Court of Civil Judge, Junior Division / Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar.

4. The brief facts as emerge from the F.I.R. and the statements under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., are as under:

i) The date of birth of alleged victim is stated to be 01.06.1994 and she has stated that she passed the VIIIth Class in the year, 2008. Sister of the victim was married in Gorakhpur and the accused/applicant herein met first time to the victim in the marriage of her sister and since then whenever the victim used to visit her sister's house, at Gorakhpur, she used to meet the accused/applicant herein. During these meetings, they fell in love with each other and the accused/applicant herein started visiting the house of the victim.

ii) Out of such relationship, the victim and her parents sent the accused/applicant to Saudi Arabia by arranging the funds by selling the jewellery etc. When the applicant herein came back from Saudi Arabia, the victim and her family members pressurized the applicant herein for marriage with the victim. Even after the marriage of the sister of the applicant herein when the victim and her family members pressurized the applicant herein to marry the victim, the accused applicant herein denied to marry the victim. It is further alleged in the F.I.R. that the applicant herein made physical relations with the victim, between 2008 to 2018, under the promise of marriage against her will.

iii) Ultimately, in the year 2018, the applicant herein denied to marry the victim. Therefore, in her 161 Cr.P.C. statement, the victim categorically states that the applicant used to have physical relations with the victim at her house in the presence of her parents in the house. She further stated that at the time of physical relationship established between them she was 17 years of age. She further states that in the month of June, 2011, first time relationship was established between them, which continued for about 8 years. In her 161 Cr.P.C. statement, the victim has stated that in the year 2013, the applicant had made physical relationship with her 8 years back under the promise of marriage. My parents had no objection on the visits of the applicant at her house and in the year, 2013, when the parents asked the applicant herein to marry the victim, he promised to marry the victim after the marriage of his sister and when he is able to built his own house.

iv) This relationship continued upto February, 2019, when a complaint was filed by the victim, which was settled at the police station with the assurance by the applicant that he would marry the victim within next 10 months and after one month of such promise he again refused to marry and threaten the victim to do whatever she can.

v) During investigation, medical examination of the victim was conducted on 22.06.2019, wherein she stated her age to be 25 years. After medically examining the victim, the doctors opined the age of the victim to be 20 years on 26.06.2019. After completion of the investigation the chargesheet was filed on 16.03.2020 u/S 419, 420, 376, 504, 506 I.P.C.

5. The learned counsel for the applicant submits that the instant prosecution by the opposite party no.2 herein amounts to misuse of process of law. As from the allegations made in the F.I.R. as well as in the Statements under 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., it is apparent that there was a longstanding consensual relationship between the parties, for more than eight years, which was duly approved by the parents of the opposite party no.2. Therefore, from the cumulative reading of the F.I.R. as well as 161 and 164 statements of the victim no offence as alleged against the applicant herein can be said to have been made out.

6. To substantiate his arguments, learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Shivashankar @ Shiva vs. State of Karnataka (Criminal Appeal No. 504 of 2018), wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that "it is, however, difficult to hold sexual intercourse, which has continued for eight years, as 'rape' especially in the face of the complainant's own allegation that they lived together as man and wife."

7. Learned counsel for the applicant has further placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pramod Suryabhan Pawar vs. the State of Maharashtra and another (Criminal Appeal No. 1165 of 2019). He has placed reliance upon paragraphs '18' and '20' of the said judgment, which are as follows:

"18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act.

20 The allegations in the FIR do not on their face indicate that the promise by the appellant was false, or that the complainant engaged in sexual relations on the basis of this promise. There is no allegation in the FIR that when the 17 appellant promised to marry the complainant, it was done in bad faith or with the intention to deceive her. The appellant's failure in 2016 to fulfil his promise made in 2008 cannot be construed to mean the promise itself was false. The allegations in the FIR indicate that the complainant was aware that there existed obstacles to marrying the appellant since 2008, and that she and the appellant continued to engage in sexual relations long after their getting married had become a disputed matter. Even thereafter, the complainant travelled to visit and reside with the appellant at his postings and allowed him to spend his weekends at her residence. The allegations in the FIR belie the case that she was deceived by the appellant's promise of marriage. Therefore, even if the facts set out in the complainant's statements are accepted in totality, no offence under Section 375 of the IPC has occurred."

8. Learned counsel for the applicant has further placed reliance upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Sonu alias Subhash Kumar vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another reported in AIR 2021 SC 1405. He has relied upon paragraphs '9', '10', '11' and '12' of the said judgment, which are as follows:

"9 In Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (supra), while dealing with a similar situation, the principles of law which must govern a situation like the present were enunciated in the following observations:

"Where the promise to marry is false and the intention of the maker at the time of making the promise itself was not to abide by it but to deceive the woman to convince her to engage in sexual relations, there is a "misconception of fact" that vitiates the woman's "consent". On the other hand, a breach of a promise cannot be said to be a false promise. To establish a false promise, the maker of the promise should have had no intention of upholding his word at the time of giving it..."

10. Further, the Court has observed:

"To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act."

11. Bearing in mind the tests which have been enunciated in the above decision, we are of the view that even assuming that all the allegations in the FIR are correct for the purposes of considering the application for quashing under Section 482 of CrPC, no offence has been established. There is no allegation to the effect that the promise to marry given to the second respondent was false at the inception. On the contrary, it would appear from the contents of the FIR that there was a subsequent refusal on the part of the appellant to marry the second respondent which gave rise to the registration of the FIR. On these facts, we are of the view that the High Court was in error in declining to entertain the petition under Section 482 of CrPC on the basis that it was only the evidence at trial which would lead to a determination as to whether an offence was established.

12. For the above reasons, we allow the appeal and set aside the impugned judgment and order of the High Court dated 26 September 2019. In view of the reasons which have been adduced earlier, the charge sheet dated 25 April 2018, which has been filed in pursuance of the investigation which took place, shall stand quashed. The order of the trial Court dated 3 October 2018 taking cognizance shall accordingly stand quashed and set aside."

9. Learned counsel for the applicant has further relied upon the judgment and order dated 12.10.2022 passed by this Court in Criminal Misc. Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 9700 of 2022 (Ashutosh Kumar vs. State of U.p. and another), relying upon the judgements of Apex Court in Shivashankar (supra), Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (supra), Sonu alias Subhash Kumar (supra).

10. Learned counsel for the State submits that as per the allegations made in the FIR, the date of birth of the opposite party no.2 is stated to be 01.06.1994 and the allegation is that since 2008 till June 2018, the applicant and opposite party no.2 were continued to have physical relationship under the promise to marry the opposite party no.2. As per the medical report as well as the supplementary examination report, which is filed an annexure '7' to the application, the age of the victim as on 06.06.2019 is stated to be 20 years. Therefore, on the first date of co-habitation between the parties, which is stated to be in the FIR as June, 2008, and June, 2011, which is stated as the first date of co-habitation in the statement of the victim under Section 161 Cr.P.C., on both the dates, the opposite party no.2, the victim was a minor, therefore, there was no question of consent by the minor and the act committed by the applicant is treated as a rape within Section 375 IPC.

11. Having heard the arguments made by learned counsels for the parties, this Court has carefully perused the records of the case.

12. In Dr. Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra : (2019) 18 SCC 191, the Apex Court has held as under:

"8. It is well settled that exercise of powers under Section 482 CrPC is the exception and not the rule. Under this section, the High Court has inherent powers to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under the Code or to prevent the abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. But the expressions "abuse of process of law" or "to secure the ends of justice" do not confer unlimited jurisdiction on the High Court and the alleged abuse of process of law or the ends of justice could only be secured in accordance with law, including procedural law and not otherwise.

9. This Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] , has elaborately considered the scope and ambit of Section 482 CrPC. Seven categories of cases have been enumerated where power can be exercised under Section 482 CrPC. Para 102 thus reads : (SCC pp. 378-79)

"102. In the backdrop of the interpretation of the various relevant provisions of the Code under Chapter XIV and of the principles of law enunciated by this Court in a series of decisions relating to the exercise of the extraordinary power under Article 226 or the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code which we have extracted and reproduced above, we give the following categories of cases by way of illustration wherein such power could be exercised either to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, though it may not be possible to lay down any precise, clearly defined and sufficiently channelised and inflexible guidelines or rigid formulae and to give an exhaustive list of myriad kinds of cases wherein such power should be exercised:

(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the Act concerned (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the Act concerned, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

11. In State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa [State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa, (2002) 3 SCC 89 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 539] , it was held that while exercising powers under Section 482 CrPC, the court does not function as a court of appeal or revision. Inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. It was further held as under : (SCC p. 94, para 6)

"6. ... It would be an abuse of process of the court to allow any action which would result in injustice and prevent promotion of justice. In exercise of the powers court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation/continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. When no offence is disclosed by the complaint, the court may examine the question of fact. When a complaint is sought to be quashed, it is permissible to look into the materials to assess what the complainant has alleged and whether any offence is made out even if the allegations are accepted in toto."

12. Recently, in Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P. [Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P., (2017) 13 SCC 369 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 633] , this Court has observed as under : (SCC p. 387, para 41)

"41. Inherent power given to the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is with the purpose and object of advancement of justice. In case solemn process of Court is sought to be abused by a person with some oblique motive, the Court has to thwart the attempt at the very threshold. ... Judicial process is a solemn proceeding which cannot be allowed to be converted into an instrument of oppression or harassment. When there are materials to indicate that a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive, the High Court will not hesitate in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC to quash the proceeding. ... the present is a fit case where the High Court ought to have exercised its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC and quashed the criminal proceedings."

13. It is clear that for quashing the proceedings, meticulous analysis of factum of taking cognizance of an offence by the Magistrate is not called for. Appreciation of evidence is also not permissible in exercise of inherent powers. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognizance has been taken, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of the inherent powers.

24. In the instant case, it is an admitted position that the appellant was serving as a Medical Officer in the Primary Health Centre and the complainant was working as an Assistant Nurse in the same health centre and that she is a widow. It was alleged by her that the appellant informed her that he is a married man and that he has differences with his wife. Admittedly, they belong to different communities. It is also alleged that the accused/appellant needed a month's time to get their marriage registered. The complainant further states that she had fallen in love with the appellant and that she needed a companion as she was a widow. She has specifically stated that "as I was also a widow and I was also in need of a companion, I agreed to his proposal and since then we were having love affair and accordingly we started residing together. We used to reside sometimes at my home whereas sometimes at his home". Thus, they were living together, sometimes at her house and sometimes at the residence of the appellant. They were in a relationship with each other for quite some time and enjoyed each other's company. It is also clear that they had been living as such for quite some time together. When she came to know that the appellant had married some other woman, she lodged the complaint. It is not her case that the complainant has forcibly raped her. She had taken a conscious decision after active application of mind to the things that had happened. It is not a case of a passive submission in the face of any psychological pressure exerted and there was a tacit consent and the tacit consent given by her was not the result of a misconception created in her mind. We are of the view that, even if the allegations made in the complaint are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, they do not make out a case against the appellant. We are also of the view that since the complainant has failed to prima facie show the commission of rape, the complaint registered under Section 376(2)(b) cannot be sustained."

13. Similarly, in Shambhu Kharwar vs. State of U.P.: 2022 SCC Online SC 1032, the Apex Court has held as under:

"8. In Bhajan Lal (supra) this Court formulated the parameters in terms of which the powers in Section 482 of CrPC may be exercised. While it is not necessary to revisit all these parameters again, a few that are relevant to the present case may be set out. The Court held that quashing may be appropriate:

"102.(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused. (2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2).

... Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

9. In Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra,6 a two Judge Bench of this Court while dealing with similar facts as the present case reiterated the parameters laid down in Bhajan Lal (supra) held that:

"13. It is clear that for quashing the proceedings, meticulous analysis of factum of taking cognizance of an offence by the Magistrate is not called for. Appreciation of evidence is also not permissible in exercise of inherent powers. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognizance has been taken, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of its inherent powers."

(emphasis supplied)

10. An offence is punishable under Section 376 of the IPC if the offence of rape is established in terms of Section 375 which sets out the ingredients of the offence. In the present case, the second description of Section 375 along with Section 90 of the IPC is relevant which is set out below.

"375. Rape - A man is said to commit "rape" if he - […] under the circumstances falling under any of the following seven descriptions Firstly …Secondly. - Without her consent.*

[…]Explanation 2. - Consent means an unequivocal voluntary agreement when the woman by words, gestures or any form of verbal or non-verbal communication, communicates willingness to participate in the specific sexual act:

Provided that a woman who does not physically resist to the act of penetration shall not by the reason only of that fact, be regarded as consenting to the sexual activity.

90. Consent known to be given under fear or misconception - A consent is not such a consent as is intended by any section of this Code, if the consent is given by a person under fear of injury, or under a misconception of fact, and if the person doing the act knows, or has reason to believe, that the consent was given in consequence of such fear or misconception; or…"*

11. In Pramod Suryabhan Pawar v. State of Maharashtra,7 a two Judge Bench of this Court of which one of us was a part (D.Y. Chandrachud J.), held in Sonu @ Subhash Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh,8 observed that:

"12. This Court has repeatedly held that consent with respect to Section 375 of the IPC involves an active understanding of the circumstances, actions and consequences of the proposed act. An individual who makes a reasoned choice to act after evaluating various alternative actions (or inaction) as well as the various possible consequences flowing from such action or inaction, consents to such action…[…]

14. […] Specifically in the context of a promise to marry, this Court has observed that there is a distinction between a false promise given on the understanding by the maker that it will be broken, and the breach of a promise which is made in good faith but subsequently not fulfilled…[…]

16. Where the promise to marry is false and the intention of the maker at the time of making the promise itself was not to abide by it but to deceive the woman to convince her to engage in sexual relations, there is a "misconception of fact" that vitiates the woman's "consent". On the other hand, a breach of a promise cannot be said to be a false promise. To establish a false promise, the maker of the promise should have had no intention of upholding his word at the time of giving it. The "consent" of a woman under Section 375 is vitiated on the ground of a "misconception of fact" where such misconception was the basis for her choosing to engage in the said act…[…]

18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act.

12. In the present case, the issue which had to be addressed by the High Court was whether, assuming all the allegations in the charge-sheet are correct as they stand, an offence punishable under Section 376 IPC was made out. Admittedly, the appellant and the second respondent were in a consensual relationship from 2013 until December 2017. They are both educated adults. The second respondent, during the course of this period, got married on 12 June 2014 to someone else. The marriage ended in a decree of divorce by mutual consent on 17 September 2017. The allegations of the second respondent indicate that her relationship with the appellant continued prior to her marriage, during the subsistence of the marriage and after the grant of divorce by mutual consent."

14. From the aforequoted judgments, it is apparent that the powers u/S 482 Cr.P.C. vested in the High Court is with the purpose and objective of advancement of justice. In case, the High Court is of an opinion that the process of the Court is being abused by persons with some oblique motive, the Court has to thwart such an attempt at the very threshold and the judicial process cannot be allowed to be converted into an instrument of oppression and harassment. It is also a settled position of law that if there are materials to indicate that the criminal proceedings is initiated with mala fide intentions and with an ulterior motive, it is the duty of the High Court to quash such proceedings in exercise of powers u/S 482 Cr.P.C.

15. In Section 375 I.P.C., where the offence of rape is constituted when the sexual intercourse is committed against the will of women and without her consent. A women is said to consent only when she freely agrees to submit herself while in free and unconstrained possession of physical and moral power to act in a manner she wanted. Consent implies the exercise of free and untrammelled right to forbid or withhold what is being consented to.

16. In State of HP vs. Mango Ram : (2000) 7 SCC 224, a three Judge Bench of the Apex Court held that consent for the purpose of Section 375 I.P.C. requires voluntary participation not only after the exercise of intelligence based on the knowledge of significance and moral quality of the act but after having fully exercised the choice between resistance and assent whether there was consent or not is to be ascertained only careful perusal of relevant circumstances.

17. Thus, from the cumulative reading of the judgments passed by the Apex Court in Shivashankar (supra), Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (Supra), Sonu alias Subhash Kumar (supra), Dr. Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar (supra) and Mango Ram (supra), it is apparent that when there is a longstanding relationship between the parties under the promise of marriage. It is to be seen that whether such promise of marriage was false at the inception or it is a subsequent breakdown of relationship and refusal to marry amounts to breach of such promise, which was genuinely made at the inception of such relationship.

18. The expression "against her will" would ordinarily mean that the intercourse was done by man with a women despite her resistance and opposition. On the other hand, the expression "without her consent" would comprehend an act of reason accompanied by deliberation.

19. In the instant case, from the F.I.R. as well as from the Statements u/S 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., the following undisputed facts emerged that the relationship between the applicant herein and the opposite party no.2 was of a consensual nature:

(i) Parties were known to each other for more than 15 years;

(ii) They were in active physical relationship with the approval of parents of opposite party no.2, since more than 8 years. Therefore, there was an active and considered consent by the victim, with the approval of her parents and the physical relationship with her was not against her will;

(iii) Subsequently, the applicant herein has broken his promise to marry and refused to marry the opposite party no.2 which resulted in the registration of the F.I.R. against the applicant herein;

(iv) From the allegations made, it is apparent that the promise to marry by the applicant herein was not false from its inception. Due to later developments, the applicant has denied to marry the victim.

20. Thus, from the proposition of law as enunciated in the above cited judgments, this Court is of the view that even assuming that all the allegations made against the applicant herein are true for the purposes of considering the application for quashing u/S 482 Cr.P.C., no offence u/S 376 is established as the relationship between the parties was of consensual nature and which has an approval of the family as well and the initial promise by the applicant herein was not false. It is only after subsequent developments between the parties, the applicant herein has refused to marry the applicant herein. Since, the relationship between the parties was longstanding and the victim as well as her family members knew the consequences of the relationship, therefore, any subsequent breach of such relationship would not amount to the offence of rape u/S 375 I.P.C.

21. For the reasons stated above, the instant application u/S 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed and the chargesheet dated 16.03.2020 as well as the cognizance/summoning order dated 10.12.2020 and the entire proceedings of Case No. 21205 of 2020 (State vs. Ziya Ullah), under Sections 419, 420, 376, 504, 506 IPC, arising out of Case Crime No. 20/2019, P.S. Mahila Thana, District Sant Kabir Nagar, pending before the Court of Civil Judge, Junior Division / Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar, are hereby quashed.

1. Heard Sri Ayush Kaushik learned counsel for the Applicants, learned AGA and Sri Nitin Sharma along with Sri Dileep Kumar Pandey learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and perused the records.

2. The present criminal misc. application u/s 482 has been filed for the quashment of the chargesheet dated 3.9.2021 and cognizance/summoning order dated 17.11.2021 passed by the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 5, Meerut as well as entire criminal proceedings of crl. Case no. 20577 of 2021 (state vs. Aruni Mittal and others) by which the applicants have been summoned in Case Crime No. 141 of 2021 under Section 376, 506 and 120-B, I.P.C, P.S. Civil Lines, District Meerut.

3. The prosecution story in brief is as follows:-

There is an allegation against the applicants that applicant no.1 has raped the prosecutorix for years altogether and, thereafter, he kept trying to contract marriages again with some other girl with the conspiracy of his other family members. F.I.R has been registered initially on 14.03.2021 at 21.:10 hrs. at PS Majhola, District Moradabad U/S 376, 506, 120-B bearing case crime no. 204/2021 which subsequently got transferred to P.S. Civil Lines Meerut on 3.6.2021 and was registered as Case crime no. 141 of 2021 U/S 376, 506, 120-B IPC. The alleged date of occurrence as per the F.I.R version is stated to be between 1.1.2003 to 29.12.2020, and the said information being initially received at the P.S is marked as on 03.03.2021. It is being alleged in the FIR that first informant and the applicant No.1 both met in the year 2003-04 at Oxford Institute, Gandhi Nagar, Meerut as both used to take tuition there. Both were major of above 30 years each. She fell in love and till 2010 she was completely traped in his love but the family members of applicant no.1 were against this relationship as they strongly opposed the same. In the year 2011, one day, applicant no.1 accepted her as his wife before the presiding deity of Balaji Mandir at Sadar, Meerut. She also took vow of marriage before the deity and accepted him (applicant no.1) as her husband and the applicant no.1 took the advantage of this situation to satisfy his lust and established physical relationship in the name of being married. She started to mount pressure upon him to solemnize valid marriage but he could not manage to get the marriage solemnized validly. Nevertheless, he (applicant no.1) kept establishing physical relationship with her till 28.12.2019. Later on, he maintained distance from her and after some time, there took a hot-talk between them on mobile phone. The applicant no.1 was misled by the family members and particularly, his sister Rashmi Mittal, created atmosphere against the first informant as she used to state that the first informant is a politician lady, if she gets married in the family, there will be held meetings with many boys and kept trying to tarnish and destroy her public image. After that the applicant no.1 has left her company and tried to marry other girl as all the family knew their relationship, they in conspiracy, tried to get him married with other girl. It has been intended by the applicant no.1 marrying another girl on 15.03.2021 in District-Moradabad with the conspiracy of the other applicants. Charge-sheet has been submitted by the investigating officer after completing the investigation, against the applicants on 3.9.2021, on which the Learned A.C.J.M, Court no. 5 has taken cognizance and issued summoning order against the applicants on 17.11.2021.

4. In her statements under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., she has almost reitereated the allegations made in the FIR and stated that since 2011 to 2019 she was continously raped and taken to different hotels and raped there. He committed rape continously for nine years under the misconception of marriage and refused to marry to the first informant. In her statements she introduced the theory of video recording.

5. Pleadings have been exchanged between the parties.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that the offences levelled are not made out against the applicants as the whole prosecution version stated in the impugned F.I.R are totally false, fabricated and baseless as there never existed any alleged marriage/relationship of the applicant no.1 with the first informant, only acquaintance turned friendship relationship, was there, being classmates earlier in an educational institution. It is further submitted that the ruckus has been created purposely by the informant on 15.03.2021, when the 'Sagai' ceremony/family function of the applicant no.1 was going on in a Hotel Drive Inn-24 in Moradabad with an ulterior motive and on the basis of it, falsely implicated the whole family to overcome the pressure of financial transactions and liabilities which had taken place in the past and create undue pressure by lodging the impugned F.I.R on the basis of said Marriage, which was never solemnized. It is further submitted that in the said incident which happened on 15.03.2021, the informant along with many people, not only caused ruckus in order to interrupt the ongoing ceremony, also involved in fighting, due to which, various injuries had also been caused to many people, regarding which an F.I.R has been registered by the applicant no.3 being case crime no. 200 of 2021 U/S 323, 504, 506 I.P.C in P.S Majhola, District Moradabad. In the said incident, various injuries have also been sustained by the applicant no.3 (mother of applicant no.1).

5. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the applicants that genesis of the alleged incident is the financial transactions which took place between the first informant/opposite party no.2 and applicant no.1 in the past which has been stated, has taken place through the electronic transfer modes & cash mode on various dates and due to inability to return back, a long delayed F.I.R has been lodged after a lapse of around two years, falsely implicating the applicants for the purpose of harassment & extortion of money, instead of paying back the borrowed sum of money. It is further submitted that victim has also admitted that they have solemnized their marriage at Balaji Mandir, Meerut as is evident from the averments made in the FIR itself.

6. Learned Counsel for the applicants further submitted that there has been stepwise and material contradiction in the F.I.R version and the statement recorded under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. of the informant/victim. So far as charge of commission of rape is levelled upon the applicant no.1 is concerned, it is clear that she willingly entered into physical relationship with the applicant no.1. The version of the alleged F.I.R was improved to the extent, by the allegations made in 161 Cr.P.C., mentioning therein that videography has also been made by the applicant no.1 and further much of it in 164 Cr.P.C., the theory of videography was introduced, whereas no evidences are brought in support of allegations made, which creates doubt in the story of the prosecution, as such, it is evident that there being no such marriage, ever solemnized and the only purpose of implication is to avoid the financial liabilities and to get political benefits, such false charges are being levelled and merely on the basis of earlier friendship/ relationship, no offence is made out against the applicants under the aforesaid sections as has been alleged in the FIR, thereafter, charge-sheet has been submitted by the Investigation Officer in a very routine and perfectory manner, on which, without applying the judicial mind, learned court below has taken cognizance mechanically and summoned the applicants.

7. On the other hand, learned AGA as well as learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 have very vehemently opposed the aforesaid contentions and stated that applicant no.1 has seduced and deceived opposite party no.2 by way of marriage before the deity in Balaji Mandir with first informant and has tried to enter into second marriage with some other girl, as such, applicant no.1 cannot deny the marriage solemnized with the first informant and step away from the liability of husband and cannot enter into any second marriage after being in relationship with informant/victim for such a long period of time right from the year 2010 when the said marriage was solemnized till the year 2019, committed rape for altogether for 9 years. It is further submitted that it is a case of false promise of marriage. The applicant no.1 fraudulently enter into a marriage with the first informant and obtained interim protection fraudulently by stating that there has been a marriage between the parties. The applicants have not come before the court with clean hands. In another case, they obtained order for mediation and conciliation on the basis of false statement regarding live-in-relationship.

8. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 relying upon the Supplementary Counter Affidavit filed today in court also fairly states that earlier one complaint case has been filed by the applicant no.1 U/S 323, 452, 420, 504, 506 I.P.C before the court of Lrd. ACJM, Court no. 5, Meerut which has been challenged by the Opposite party no. 2 before this Hon'ble Court in Crl. Misc. 482 no. 31414 of 2022 (Meenal Gautam Vs State of U.P. & Another) and to which vide order dated 05.12.2022 further proceeding of the case has been stayed and the matter is referred to the mediation and reconciliation centre. It is further submitted by the counsel for the opposite party no.2 that an application U/S 156(3) Cr.P.C. was filed by the applicant no.1 dated 18.03. 2021 in the court of learned ACJM Court no. 5, Meerut only with a view to harass the informant and to create undue pressure. The said 156(3) application was rejected vide order dated 08.10.2021, which has never been challenged and the same has obtained the finality. It has been also pointed out by the counsel for O.P. no. 2 that there existed no financial transactions between the parties and it is no where produced on the records, hence, the averments and arguments made by the counsel for the applicants does not sustains in the eyes of law.

10. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that there has been never any such marriage ever solemnized between the applicant no.1 and first informant/opposite party no.2, and allegations made are totally false, fabricated and politically motivated with an intent to harm the social recognition and social image of the applicant and in order to extort money, although no material is on records or evidences are ever adduced in support of the allegations made in the FIR, and version of prosecution made as either by the victim/informant or any other independent witnesses, not any proof of the alleged marriage is established. It is further submitted that with regard to the case referred to the mediation centre and the stay obtained by the opposite party no.2, it has been specifically stated that the said proceedings never initiated and it has nothing to do with the present case.

11. So far as the arguments made by the counsel for the opposite party no.2 regarding final order passed in the 156(3) application filed by the Applicant no.1 is concerned, the said order has not obtained finality, but a revision has been filed against the said order and the said revision has been allowed by the learned Additional Session Judge, Court no.2 , Meerut in Criminal Revision No.1 of 2022 vide order dated 31.08.22 and the said case is still pending in the court concerned.

12. In reply to the arguments made regarding there being no evidence or version on records regarding the funds transactions made, it has been categorically stated that a details regarding the said transactions have been mentioned in various paras as well as Annexures filed in the applications.

15. The Court has occasion to go through the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Pramod Suryabhan Pawar Vs. The State of Maharashtra; (2019) 9 SCC 608. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid order reads as follows:-

"1.1. The powers of the court under Section 482 are wide and the court is vested with a significant amount of discretion to decide whether or not to exercise them. The court should be guarded in the use of its extraordinary jurisdiction to quash an FIR or criminal proceeding as it denies the prosecution the opportunity to establish its case through investigation and evidence. In deciding whether to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482, the Court does not adjudicate upon the veracity of the facts alleged or enter into an appreciation of competing evidence presented. The limited question is whether on the face of the FIR, the allegations constitute a cognizable offence. [Paras 7, 8] [432-G-H; 433-A; 434-C-D].

2. The instant proceedings concerned an FIR registered against the appellant under Sections 376, 417, 504, and 506(2) of the IPC and Sections 3(1)(u), (w) and 3(2)(vii) of SC/ST Act. Section 376 of the IPC prescribes the punishment for the offence of rape which is set out in Section 375. Section 375 prescribes seven descriptions of how the offence of rape may be committed. Where a woman does not "consent" to the sexual acts described in the main body of Section 375, the offence of rape has occurred. While Section 90 does not define the term "consent", a "consent" based on a "misconception of fact" is not consent in the eyes of the law. The consent with respect to Section 375 of the IPC involves an active understanding of the circumstances, actions and consequences of the proposed act. An individual who makes a reasoned choice to act after evaluating various alternative actions (or inaction) as well as the various possible consequences flowing from such action or inaction, consents to such action. This understanding of consent has also been set out in Explanation 2 of Section 375. In the instant case, the "misconception of fact" alleged by the complainant is the appellant's promise to marry her. There is a distinction between a false promise given on the understanding by the maker that it will be broken, and the breach of a promise which is made in good faith but subsequently not fulfilled. Where the promise to marry is false and the intention of the maker at the time of making the promise itself was not to abide by it but to deceive the woman to convince her to engage in sexual relations, there is a "misconception of fact" that vitiates the woman's "consent". On the other hand, a breach of a promise cannot be said to be a false promise. To establish a false promise, the maker of the promise should have had no intention of upholding his word at the time of giving it. The "consent" of a woman under Section 375 is vitiated on the ground of a "misconception of fact" where such misconception was the basis for her choosing to engage in the said act. [Paras 9, 10, 12-14, 16] [434-F-G; 435-E, G; 436-D; 437-A-B; 438-E, F].

3.1 The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act. The allegations in the FIR indicate that in November 2009, the complainant initially refused to engage in sexual relations with the accused, but on the promise of marriage, he established sexual relations. However, the FIR includes a reference to several other allegations such as, the complainant and the appellant knew each other since 1998 and were intimate since 2004; the complainant and the appellant met regularly, travelled great distances to meet each other, resided in each other's houses on multiple occasions, engaged in sexual intercourse regularly over a course of five years and on multiple occasions visited the hospital jointly to check whether the complainant was pregnant; and the appellant expressed his reservations about marrying the complainant on 31 January 2014. This led to arguments between them. Despite this, the appellant and the complainant continued to engage in sexual intercourse until March 2015. [Paras 18, 19] [441-A-E].

3.2 The allegations in the FIR did not on their face indicate that the promise by the appellant was false, or that the complainant engaged in sexual relations on the basis of this promise. There is no allegation in the FIR that when the appellant promised to marry the complainant, it was done in bad faith or with the intention to deceive her. The appellant's failure in 2016 to fulfil his promise made in 2008 cannot be construed to mean the promise itself was false. The allegations in the FIR indicate that the complainant was aware that there existed obstacles to marrying the appellant since 2008, and that she and the appellant continued to engage in sexual relations long after their getting married had become a disputed matter. Even thereafter, the complainant travelled to visit and reside with the appellant at his postings and allowed him to spend his weekends at her residence. The allegations in the FIR belie the case that she was deceived by the appellant's promise of marriage. Therefore, even if the facts set out in the complainant's statements are accepted in totality, no offence under Section 375 of the IPC has occurred. [Para 20] [441-F-H; 442-A]."

18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act.

16. The court has also occasion to go through the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Maheshwar Tigga Vs. The State of Jharkhand; (2020) 9 SCR 482. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid order is reproduced hereinunder:

"4.1. It is not possible to hold in the nature of evidence on record that the appellant obtained the consent of the prosecutrix at the inception by putting her under any fear. Under Section 90 IPC a consent given under fear of injury is not a consent in the eyes of law. Under Section 90 IPC, a consent given under a misconception of fact is no consent in the eyes of law. But the misconception of fact has to be in proximity of time to the occurrence and cannot be spread over a period of four years. It hardly needs any elaboration that the consent by the appellant was a conscious and informed choice made by her after due deliberation, it being spread over a long period of time coupled with a conscious positive action not to protest. The prosecutrix in her letters to the appellant also mentions that there would often be quarrels at her home with her family members with regard to the relationship, and beatings given to her. In the facts of the present case, the solitary statement of the prosecutrix that at the time of the first alleged offence her consent was obtained under fear of injury, is not acceptable. [Paras 13, 14][490-G-H; 491-A-D].

4.2 The facts and circumstances of the present case show that the appellant did not make any false promise or intentional misrepresentation of marriage leading to establishment of physical relationship between the parties. The prosecutrix was herself aware of the obstacles in their relationship because of different religious beliefs. An engagement ceremony was also held in the solemn belief that the societal obstacles would be overcome, but unfortunately differences also arose whether the marriage was to be solemnised in the Church or in a Temple and ultimately failed. It is not possible to hold on the evidence available that the appellant, right from the inception did not intend to marry the prosecutrix ever and had fraudulently misrepresented only in order to establish physical relation with her. The prosecutrix in her letters acknowledged that the appellant's family was always very nice to her. [Para 18][492-F-H].

4.3 Therefore, the consent of the prosecutrix was but a conscious and deliberated choice, as distinct from an involuntary action or denial and which opportunity was available to her, because of her deep-seated love for the appellant leading her to willingly permit him liberties with her body, which according to normal human behaviour are permitted only to a person with whom one is deeply in love.

17. The court has also occasion to go through the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Naim Ahmad Vs. State (NCT of Delhi); (2023) 1 SCR 106. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid order is reproduced hereinunder:

13. A reference of some of the decisions of this Court dealing with the different dimensions and angles of the word 'consent' in the context of Section 90 and Section 375 would be beneficial for deciding this appeal.

14. In Uday vs. State of Karnataka, the prosecutrix aged about 19 years had given her consent for having a sexual intercourse with the accused with whom she was deeply in love, and it was alleged by the prosecution that the prosecutrix continued to meet the accused as the accused had given her a promise to marry her on a later date. The prosecutrix became pregnant and the complaint was lodged on failure of the accused to marry her. This Court while holding that under the circumstances, the consent could not be said to have been given under a misconception of fact under section 90 of IPC, held in para 21 and 23 as under :-

"21. It therefore appears that the consensus of judicial opinion is in favour of the view that the consent given by the prosecutrix to sexual intercourse with a person with whom she is deeply in love on a promise that he would marry her on a later date, cannot be said to be given under a misconception of fact. A false promise is not a fact within the meaning of the Code. We are inclined to 4 (2003) 4 SCC 46 12 agree with this view, but we must add that there is no straitjacket formula for determining whether consent given by the prosecutrix to sexual intercourse is voluntary, or whether it is given under a misconception of fact. In the ultimate analysis, the tests laid down by the courts provide at best guidance to the judicial mind while considering a question of consent, but the court must, in each case, consider the evidence before it and the surrounding circumstances, before reaching a conclusion, because each case has its own peculiar facts which may have a bearing on the question whether the consent was voluntary, or was given under a misconception of fact. It must also weigh the evidence keeping in view the fact that the burden is on the prosecution to prove each and every ingredient of the offence, absence of consent being one of them.

22. -xxx- xx -

23. Keeping in view the approach that the court must adopt in such cases, we shall now proceed to consider the evidence on record. In the instant case, the prosecutrix was a grown-up girl studying in a college. She was deeply in love with the appellant. She was, however, aware of the fact that since they belonged to different castes, marriage was not possible. In any event the proposal for their marriage was bound to be seriously opposed by their family members. She admits having told so to the appellant when he proposed to her the first time. She had sufficient intelligence to understand the significance and moral quality of the act she was consenting to. That is why she kept it a secret as long as she could. Despite this, she did not resist the overtures of the appellant, and in fact succumbed to them. She thus freely exercised a choice between resistance and assent. She must have known the consequences of the act, particularly when she was conscious of the fact that their marriage may not take place at all on account of caste considerations. All these circumstances lead us to the conclusion that she freely, voluntarily and consciously consented to having sexual intercourse with the appellant, and her consent was not in consequence of any misconception of fact."

15. In Deelip Singh alias Dilip Kumar Vs. State of Bihar (supra), this Court after discussing various earlier decisions of this Court and other High Courts, further explained the observations made in Uday case (supra) and observed as under:-

"28. The first two sentences in the above passage need some explanation. While we reiterate that a promise to marry without anything more will not give rise to "misconception of fact" within the meaning of Section 90, it needs to be clarified that a representation deliberately made by the accused with a view to elicit the assent of the victim without having the intention or inclination to marry her, will vitiate the consent. If on the facts it is established that at the very inception of the making of promise, the accused did not really entertain the intention of marrying her and the promise to marry held out by him was a mere hoax, the consent ostensibly given by the victim will be of no avail to the accused to exculpate him from the ambit of Section 375 clause secondly. This is what in fact was stressed by the Division Bench of the Calcutta High Court in the case of Jayanti Rani Panda [1984 Cri LJ 1535 : (1983) 2 CHN 290 (Cal)] which was approvingly referred to in Uday case [(2003) 4 SCC 46 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 775 : (2003) 2 Scale 329] . The Calcutta High Court rightly qualified the proposition which it stated earlier by adding the qualification at the end (Cri LJ p. 1538, para 7) — "unless the court can be assured that from the very inception the accused never really intended to marry her". (emphasis supplied) In the next para, the High Court referred to the vintage decision of the Chancery Court which laid down that a misstatement of the intention of the defendant in doing a particular act would tantamount to a misstatement of fact and an action of deceit can be founded on it. This is also the view taken by the Division Bench of the Madras High Court in Jaladu case [ILR (1913) 36 Mad 453 : 15 Cri LJ 24] (vide passage quoted supra). By making 14 the solitary observation that "a false promise is not a fact within the meaning of the Code", it cannot be said that this Court has laid down the law differently. The observations following the aforesaid sentence are also equally important. The Court was cautious enough to add a qualification that no straitjacket formula could be evolved for determining whether the consent was given under a misconception of fact. Reading the judgment in Uday case [(2003) 4 SCC 46 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 775 : (2003) 2 Scale 329] as a whole, we do not understand the Court laying down a broad proposition that a promise to marry could never amount to a misconception of fact. That is not, in our understanding, the ratio of the decision. In fact, there was a specific finding in that case that initially the accused's intention to marry cannot be ruled out."

16. In Deepak Gulati vs. State of Haryana*, this Court gave one more dimension of the word 'consent' by distinguishing 'Rape' and 'consensual sex' and observed as under:*

"21. Consent may be express or implied, coerced or misguided, obtained willingly or through deceit. Consent is an act of reason, accompanied by deliberation, the mind weighing, as in a balance, the good and evil on each side. There is a clear distinction between rape and consensual sex and in a case like this, the court must very carefully examine whether the accused had actually wanted to marry the victim, or had mala fide motives, and had made a false promise to this effect only to satisfy his lust, as the latter falls within the ambit of cheating or deception. There is a distinction between the mere breach of a promise, and not fulfilling a false promise. Thus, the court must examine whether there was made, at an early stage a false promise of marriage by the accused; and whether the consent involved was given after wholly understanding the nature and consequences of sexual indulgence. There may be a case where the prosecutrix agrees to have sexual intercourse on 5 (2013) 7 SCC 675 15 account of her love and passion for the accused, and not solely on account of misrepresentation made to her by the accused, or where an accused on account of circumstances which he could not have foreseen, or which were beyond his control, was unable to marry her, despite having every intention to do so. Such cases must be treated differently. An accused can be convicted for rape only if the court reaches a conclusion that the intention of the accused was mala fide, and that he had clandestine motives.

24. Hence, it is evident that there must be adequate evidence to show that at the relevant time i.e. at the initial stage itself, the accused had no intention whatsoever, of keeping his promise to marry the victim. There may, of course, be circumstances, when a person having the best of intentions is unable to marry the victim owing to various unavoidable circumstances. The "failure to keep a promise made with respect to a future uncertain date, due to reasons that are not very clear from the evidence available, does not always amount to misconception of fact. In order to come within the meaning of the term "misconception of fact", the fact must have an immediate relevance". Section 90 IPC cannot be called into aid in such a situation, to pardon the act of a girl in entirety, and fasten criminal liability on the other, unless the court is assured of the fact that from the very beginning, the accused had never really intended to marry her".

17. Again in Dr. Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar Vs. State of Maharashtra and others (supra), this Court interpreting the Section 90 and the Clause – Secondly in Section 375 of IPC, observed as under -

"23. Thus, there is a clear distinction between rape and consensual sex. The court, in such cases, must very carefully examine whether the complainant had actually wanted to marry the victim or had mala fide motives and had made a false promise to this effect only to satisfy his lust, as the latter falls within the ambit of cheating or deception. There is also a distinction between mere breach of a promise and not fulfilling a false promise. If the accused has not made the promise with the sole intention to seduce the prosecutrix to indulge in sexual acts, such an act would not amount to rape. There may be a case where the prosecutrix agrees to have sexual intercourse on account of her love and passion for the accused and not solely on account of the misconception created by accused, or where an accused, on account of circumstances which he could not have foreseen or which were beyond his control, was unable to marry her despite having every intention to do. Such cases must be treated differently. If the complainant had any mala fide intention and if he had clandestine motives, it is a clear case of rape. The acknowledged consensual physical relationship between the parties would not constitute an offence under Section 376 IPC."

18. Thus, from the survey of the aforesaid case laws, the legal position in this regard is very clear that there is a distinction between the rape and consensual sex. In case of rape, besides other categories, there is absence of will and consent with regard to the sexual activities. Consent should always be free and voluntary in case of consensual sex. If consent is obtained under the misconception of fact in that case, consent cannot be considered to have been giving freely and voluntarily. There is a distinction between false promise to marry and breach of promise to marry. In the latter case, does not amount to a case of rape, if the circumstances were in the knowledge of the prosecutorix and were beyond the control of the accused. A false promise to marry amounts to the case of rape, if there has been a false promise from the inception not to marry. Two tests are laid down under the law to establish whether the consent is vitiated by misconception of fact, arising out of a promise to marriage; (i) The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in a bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was being given. (ii) The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act. The misconception of fact has to be in approximity of time to the occurrence and cannot be spread over a period of nine years.

17. From bare and plain reading of allegations made in the FIR as well as statements recorded under Sections 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. of the prosecurtorix, the picture emerges, of which the salient features are as follows:-

(i) Prosecutorix (first informant) is a major lady and an active member of BJP and indulging in political activities;

(ii) Prosecutorix (first informant) has met the applicant no.1 in the year 2003-04 at the Oxford Institute while taking tuition together with him and, thereafter, she was in love till 2011;

(iii) Prosecutorix (first informant) has not stated that there has been a false promise to marry since begining/inception.

(iv) Prosecutorix herself has admitted that both, she and applicant no.1 have accepted themselves as wife and husband before the presiding deity in Balaji Mandir, Meerut and she took vow before the deity as a wife of the applicant no.1. and established physical sexual relationship.

(v) She was aware and had knowledge that their relationship was strongly objected and opposed by the family members of the applicant no.1.

(vi) She mounted pressure for solemenizing the valid marriage but the applicant no.1 could not manage valid marriage and kept physical and sexual relations till 28.12.2019. Thereafter, he maintained distance resultantly hot-talks occurred between them.

(vii) Applicant no.1's family members misled him against her and her sister Rashmi Mittal, particularly, created atmosphere against her by stating that prosecutorix is a political lady and meetings will be held with other boys, if she gets married with her brother and she tried to tarnish and destroy her political image.

(viii) Prosecutorix visited different hotels over a period of time and established sexual relationship.

(ix) The physical and sexual relationship between the prosecutorix and applicant no.1 remain active for a period of nine years.

(x) Prosecutorix never resisted or opposed the sexual relationship with the applicant no.1 and there has been a consensual sex between the parties, though allegedly under the conception of fact.

19. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and perusal of records, it is apparent that allegations in the FIR do not on their face value, indicate that promise by the applicant no.1 was false or that prosecutorix engaged in sexual relationship on the basis of that promise only. Relationship between them has been activated and prompte by love and affection also. There is no allegation in the FIR that when the applicant no.1 accepted her as his wife before the deity in the temple, it was done in bad faith or with the intention to deceive her. The applicant no.1's failure in 2019 to fulfill his promise made in 2011 cannot be construed to mean the promise itself was false. The allegations in the FIR indicate that the prosecurtorix was aware that there existed obstacles to marrying the applicant no.1 since beginning as applicant no.1's family members were strongly against their relationship particularly, his sister was creating atmosphere against the prosecutorix, despite all this, the prosecutorix and applicant no.1 continued to engage in sexual relations over a long period of time i.e. nine years, after their getting married had became a disputed matter. Even thereafter, the prosecutorix travelled to visit several hotels and remained there with the applicant no.1 and had established sexual relations there. The allegations in the FIR belie the case that the prosecutrorix was deceived by the applicant no.1's promise of marriage. Therefore, even if the facts set out in the prosecurtorix's statements are accepted in totality, no offence under Section 375 of IPC is made out, as such, the present criminal proceedings against the applicants is nothing but an abuse of process of law, which is liable to be quashed.

20. So far as the proceedings against the applicant nos.2 to 4 is concerned, offences against them are levelled under Section 506 and 120-B IPC. As they are the family members of the applicant no.1 as father, mother and sister, they have every right of choice to approve and oppose the relationship of applicant no.1 with any woman even the prosecutorix in this case. By virtue of their strong objection and opposition to the relationship and proposed marriage of applicant no.1 with the prosecutorix they cannot be said to have conspired against the prosecurtorix and extended threat to her life. Thus, from the plain reading of the FIR and statements of the prosecutorix, no offence under Section 506 and 120-B is made out.

21. Thus, considering the facts and circumstances of the case as well as the arguments made by the learned counsel for the parties and case-laws cited above, the present Application succeeds and is, accordingly, allowed.

22. Consequently, the entire criminal proceedings of Crl. Case no. 20577 of 2021 (state vs. Aruni Mittal and others) is hereby quashed against the applicants.

23. Let a copy of this order be sent to the court concerned forthwith.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is an application under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'the Code') praying that the order dated 09.02.2023 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.12, Bulandshahr in S.T. No. 219 of 2017, State vs. Manoj & others (arising out of Case Crime No.58 of 2017), under Sections 342, 323, 325, 308 I.P.C., Police Station Khurja Dehat, District Bulandshahr be quashed; and proceedings of Complaint Case No.523 of 2019, Kripa Devi vs. Ravikant and others, under Sections 323, 354, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Khurja Dehat, District Bulandshahr, pending before the Magistrate be called from that Court and tried along with the sessions trial aforesaid as a cross-case by the learned Additional Sessions Judge.

2. The offence, according to the First Information Report (for short, 'FIR'), giving rise to the sessions trial and the one giving rise to the cross-version lodged at the instance of the accused in the sessions trial, both relate to an incident that happened on 16.02.2017. The FIR, leading to the sessions trial, does not mention the time of occurrence, whereas the one that has led to the complaint case pending before the Magistrate, indicates the time to be 18:00 hours (6:00 p.m.). While the FIR giving rise to the sessions trial was promptly lodged on 16.02.2017, to wit, the date of occurrence, the cross-version came to be registered after a refusal by the Police to lodge it, under orders of the learned Magistrate passed under Section 156(3) of the Code. It was registered on 01.05.2017.

3. It would be apposite to refer to the prosecution version, as carried in the FIR, relating to Crime No.58 of 2017, that has given rise to the sessions trial. The FIR here was lodged by one Ratibhan son of Pyare Lal, a resident of Village Bagarai Kalan, District Bulandshahr. According to the informant here, the informant's son Ravikant Singh was abducted by the accused Manoj son of Dalchand, Mahesh, Babloo, sons of Dalchand, Trilok Chand son of Mahveer, Mahaveer son of Roopa, Deepak son of the late Raju and Dalchand son of the late Babu Lal, all natives of the village. These men abducted the informant's son Ravikant from his home and forcibly took him over to their house, where the accused battered the informant's son mercilessly, after stuffing his mouth with cloth. They carried out the assault employing iron rods, which were wielded by Mahaveer and Mahesh, whereas Babloo and Trilok wielded sticks (danda). These they employed to deliver grievous injuries to the victim's head. The accused, Deepak and Dalchand also had iron rods, which they used to deliver blows to the victim's limbs causing fracture to his hands and lower limbs. It is also alleged that Manoj, amongst the accused, opened fire with an intention to kill the victim employing a country-made pistol, but the informant's son was saved by a hairbreadth. It is on the basis of this version that Crime No.58 of 2017 was registered under Sections 147, 148, 149, 342, 308, 323, 325 I.P.C. at Police Station Khurja Dehat, District Bulandshahr.

4. According to the FIR lodged by Smt. Kripa Devi wife of Manoj, that carries the cross-version, the accused were five in number. It includes Ravikant son of Ratibhan, Sanjeev son of Ratibhan, Vijayveer son of Kishan, Ratibhan son of Pyare Lal and Kishan son of Pyare Lal. According to this report, that has been lodged under orders of the A.C.J.M., Khurja, District Bulandshahr, on 16.02.2017 at about 6 o'clock in the evening, the first informant was feeding her buffaloes in the Gher behind her house, when Ravikant and Sanjeev sons of Ratibhan, Vijayveer, Ratibhan and Kishan forced their entry into her home and molested her. They tore up her clothes with an intent to outrage her modesty. The informant raised alarm, whereupon the informant's husband Manoj, his younger brothers Mahesh and Babloo, came over to the informant's rescue. Upon an attempt to rescue the informant, the accused here, employing the sticks and iron rods that they were carrying, assaulted the informant. The victim and her family raised alarm, which brought natives of the village, Anil, Jallu and Ajay, besides others to the spot.

The men, who arrived there, rescued the first informant and her family from the clutches of the accused here, who left the place abusing the first informant and saying that their brother serves in the Police, on account of which the informant cannot bring them any harm. The assailants also threatened the victim with death. The informant goes on to say that with the assistance of her family, she caught Ravikant red handed on the spot. The Police arrived at that time. The informant handed over Ravikant to the Police. Since, the informant's husband and brothers-in-law had sustained considerable injury, the informant approached the local police station to lodge an FIR. The local police, however, said that the informant should better get a medical examination done for a first. She went to the Jatia Government Hospital, Khurja, where a medico-legal examination was carried out. Still, the Police did not lodge the informant's FIR. Instead, in connivance with Ravikant, he was let off with no proceedings being taken against him. The informant sent a written information to the Senior Superintendent of Police by registered post on 17.04.2017, but no action was taken. It was in these circumstances that she had to move the learned Magistrate, who ordered registration of a case.

5. The case of the informant in the cross-version, that is to say, Smt. Kripa Devi, was registered as Crime No.176 of 2017 under the provisions already mentioned and investigated by the Police. The informant, Kripa Devi too had sustained injuries and her statement was recorded under Section 164 of the Code, where she supported the prosecution. The Investigating Officer, nevertheless, submitted a final report. A protest petition was moved against the final report, which was rejected by the Magistrate and the final report accepted vide order dated 20.11.2018.

6. Aggrieved, Kripa Devi carried Criminal Revision No.436 of 2018 to the learned Sessions Judge, which came up before the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Khurja at Bulandshahr. He set aside the order dated 20.11.2018 vide his judgment and order dated 06.04.2019. The matter was sent back to the Magistrate, but with what directions, is not very patent. The Magistrate, bearing in mind the gravity of the offence, under orders of the Revisional Court, directed the case to be registered as a complaint case vide order dated 06.06.2019 and proceeded as such.

7. The Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate vide her order dated 20.10.2021, upon considering the statements under Sections 200 and 202 of the Code, proceeded to summon the informant of the present crime, Ratibhan, his son Ravikant, Sanjeev, Vijayveer and Kishan to stand their trial for offences punishable under Sections 323, 354, 504, 506 I.P.C.

8. Now, this case is pending before the Magistrate. It is no doubt a complaint case, and, may be, as the learned Additional Sessions Judge says in the impugned order, is at a very incipient stage. The applicant, who is one of the accused in the sessions trial and the informant's husband in the complaint case carrying the cross-version, moved an application dated 04.02.2023 before the Trial Judge praying that the record of proceedings of the pending Complaint Case No.523 of 2019, be summoned from the Magistrate's Court and tried along with the sessions trial. The prayer in the application falls short of saying that, but given the legal acumen, seen now-a-days in Mofussil Courts, the purport of the application is clear. It is, particularly, so as the following averment in the application would demonstrate:

"इस प्रकार ए०सी०जे०एम०खुर्जा में लम्बित परिवाद व उक्त सत्र वाद की घटना एक ही दिनांक व समय दिनांक - 16-02-2017 समय शाम 6.00 बजे की है। इसके अलावा इस सत्र वाद के वादी व गवाह परिवाद सं0 - 523 / 2019 में अभियुक्त है। इस प्रकार माननीय न्यायालय में लम्बित उक्त सत्र वाद व प्रार्थनापत्र में वर्णित परिवाद सं0-523 / 2019 अं० धारा - 354, 323, 504, 506, आई० पी० सी० थाना खुर्जा देहात क्रोस केस है। दोनो वादों का निस्तारण एक ही साथ आवश्यक है।"

9. The learned Sessions Judge has understood the application to be one made for trial of both cases together by the learned Sessions Judge, as cross-versions. There is, therefore, no ambiguity about the purport of the application, bearing Paper No.71-B, notwithstanding the casual words in which the prayer has been made. The learned Sessions Judge has rejected the applicant and directed the trial to proceed.

10. Parties have exchanged affidavits and the matter was admitted to hearing on 16.05.2023. It was subsequently heard and judgment reserved, when an interim order was granted staying delivery of judgment in the sessions trial till pronouncement of judgment in this case.

11. Heard Mr. Pandey Balkrishna, learned Counsel for the applicant, Mr. Sunil Kumar Singh, learned Counsel on behalf of opposite party No.2 and Mr. D.K. Srivastava, learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State.

12. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the applicant that it is a salutary principle of law governing procedure in criminal trials that cross-version must always be tried together. He submits that keeping out one cross-version gives an incomplete picture to the Court, and, in any case, one of the versions if tried in isolation, almost results in rejection of the other, without a trial.

13. Mr. Sunil Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the complainant and Mr. D.K. Srivastava, learned A.G.A., on the other hand, say that bringing in the so called cross-version, which is pending as a complaint case before the Magistrate, is no more than a dilatory tactic by the accused in a case where the sessions trial has reached a stage where judgment has to be pronounced.

14. Upon hearing learned Counsel for parties, this Court finds that what the learned Counsel for the complainant and the learned A.G.A. say, is in accord with what the learned Trial Judge held, and what has to be seen is, if the order passed by the Trial Court, given the nature of the two versions, is in accord with the law. The learned Judge has said in his remarks that the sessions trial is at the stage of address of arguments and the complaint case, which the applicant says, ought to be called and tried, is pending before the A.C.J.M., Khurja, Bulandshahr. In that case, summons have been issued against the accused and the entire testimony is yet to be recorded. It is also remarked by the learned Sessions Judge that the accused, in their statements under Section 313 of the Code, have not mentioned the cross-case nor do they say that the present sessions trial arises out of the same incident. It is also noted by the Trial Judge that between the two sides in the past also, according to the accused's statement under Section 313 of the Code, offences have been committed involving the family, where cases are pending. The Court has concluded that the application made by the applicant in this case is one to delay trial and runs counter to the directions of the Supreme Court and this Court to conclude criminal trials at the earliest as an imperative. The first to be determined is the fact if indeed the complaint case at the instance of the applicant or so to speak his wife, is a cross-version of the occurrence. The Trial Judge has contented himself, by holding it not to be so, because the accused in their statement under Section 313 of the Code have not said it to be a cross-case pending between parties. We do not think that, that is in any way decisive of the matter.

15. The substance of a cross-version or a cross-case comes from the fact if in the same occurrence, the aggressor, who is the accused, says that in fact he is not to blame, but the other side, who are the complainant and dubbed him as the aggressor, are themselves the aggressors, who have committed an offence, for which they ought to be punished. The fact, therefore, if a case indeed is a cross-version, depends mostly upon the fact if the occurrence is the same, about which two sides have different versions. The mere fact that one side being tried as the accused do not say in their statement under Section 313 of the Code that there is a cross-version also, is not at all relevant. The learned Trial Judge has spoken about the stage of the trial as fairly advanced before him and the complaint case being at an incipient stage, as a consideration against trying the cross-version together. That again is an irrelevant consideration. The question of delay while certainly of concern for every Judge, cannot be remedied by haste, resulting in miscarriage of justice. If two cross-versions that are indeed so and arise from the same occurrence are tried at different points of time, one earlier and the other later, one before one Judge and the other before another Judge, would certainly result in the determination of truth being lost to preclusion by the first determination and a truncated trial being held, causing miscarriage of justice. The complete and wholesome version would never be tried. This is not the cost at which the trial of a case is to be expedited. This is not to say that cross-versions being in most cases mutually exclusive in the sense that if one is true, the other false, the trial of cross-versions is to be consolidated and common evidence recorded. That is not the law about it. In cross-versions arising out of the same occurrence, trials are to be separately held, one after the other, but before the same Judge, who may, therefore, have a complete picture of it before him, when evidence concludes in both trials. The further salutary purpose to be achieved by this course of action is to eschew conflicting judgments relating to the same occurrence.

16. What we observe in this case from the records is that the cross-version is not merely one that has been propounded as some kind of a counterblast or a mala fide enterprise. Rather, the learned Trial Judge has himself noticed that there is a history of offences involving families of the applicant and the complainant in this case. The version here also narrates that there are injuries, regarding which the Police told the applicant and his party to get themselves medically examined first before an FIR is lodged. They did get themselves medically examined according to the applicant's version, but an FIR was still not lodged. The applicant and his side approached the Senior S.P. by intimating him of the information through registered post, but to no avail. The applicant's wife acting as the informant, then moved the learned Magistrate under Section 156(3) of the Code and an FIR came to be registered by the Police. The Police put in a final report, which was protested. The protest was rejected and the FR accepted. The applicant's wife then preferred a revision to the Sessions Judge, that was allowed and the matter remanded. In the next lap, the learned Magistrate chose to take cognizance of the matter as a complaint and after an inquiry under Sections 200 and 202 of the Code, summoned the opposite party-complainant and the other accused on his side to stand their trial.

17. In the background of these facts, what is further noticeable is that the FIR lodged at the instance of the applicant and that on behalf of the complainant-opposite party, allege the incident to have happened on the same date i.e. 16.02.2017. Rather, quaintly the FIR lodged at the instance of the complainant-opposite party, does not mention any time of the incident. To the contrary, the FIR lodged at the instance of the applicant, under orders of the Magistrate, mentions the time of occurrence to be 6 o'clock in the evening hours. According to the FIR that the applicant's wife had lodged, which has now culminated in the complaint case, the aggressors were the complainants of the case giving rise to the sessions trial, where the victim Ravikant and the informant himself were amongst the party, who entered the applicant's home and molested the informant. The FIR at the instance of the applicant's wife clearly says that Ravikant was apprehended when others had arrived and the informant's husband and her two brothers-in-law were there, the co-accused in this case. All these facts coalesce to show that the two incidents are indeed cross-versions.

18. All that has been said here may not be taken to mean in the slightest an expression of opinion on the merits of the parties' case. That is not the office of these proceedings under Section 482 of the Code nor the intention of the Court to judge the truth or otherwise of the two versions. All that we wish to say is that the facts that we have noticed show both the cases to be indeed cross-versions, arising out of the same occurrence. The concern of the learned Sessions Judge about the delay is also not well-founded, the way the proceedings in this case have turned. The fact that the Police had not registered the informant's case and when it was indeed registered under orders of the Magistrate, they put in a final report, which was accepted by the learned Magistrate, compelling the applicant to approach the Revisional Court, makes the delay not relevant. These are all matters that do not support inherently a dilatory conduct on the applicant's part or the other co-accused on his side. The applicant cannot be blamed for delays on the part of the Police, or the mistakes that they have committed, or the errors by the learned Magistrate that were rectified in revision. The blame for the time consumed in all these proceedings cannot be placed on the applicant's shoulder.

19. The principles governing cross-cases and the propriety of these being tried together, this Court has already dealt with. This issue has engaged the attention of the Supreme Court in Nathi Lal and others v. State of U.P. and another, 1990 Supp SCC 145, where it was observed:

"2. We think that the fair procedure to adopt in a matter like the present where there are cross cases, is to direct that the same learned Judge must try both the cross cases one after the other. After the recording of evidence in one case is completed, he must hear the arguments but he must reserve the judgment. Thereafter he must proceed to hear the cross case and after recording all the evidence he must hear the arguments but reserve the judgment in that case. The same learned Judge must thereafter dispose of the matters by two separate judgments. In deciding each of the cases, he can rely only on the evidence recorded in that particular case. The evidence recorded in the cross case cannot be looked into. Nor can the judge be influenced by whatever is argued in the cross case. Each case must be decided on the basis of the evidence which has been placed on record in that particular case without being influenced in any manner by the evidence or arguments urged in the cross case. But both the judgments must be pronounced by the same learned Judge one after the other."

20. A more elaborate statement of the principles is to be found in the decision of the Supreme Court in State of M.P. v. Mishrilal (dead) and others, (2003) 9 SCC 426, where following Nathi Lal (supra) it has been held:

"8. In the instant case, it is undisputed, that the investigating officer submitted the challan on the basis of the complaint lodged by the accused Mishrilal in respect of the same incident. It would have been just, fair and proper to decide both the cases together by the same court in view of the guidelines devised by this Court in Nathi Lal case [1990 Supp SCC 145 : 1990 SCC (Cri) 638] . The cross-cases should be tried together by the same court irrespective of the nature of the offence involved. The rational behind this is to avoid the conflicting judgments over the same incident because if cross-cases are allowed to be tried by two courts separately there is likelihood of conflicting judgments. In the instant case, the investigating officer submitted the challan against both the parties. Both the complaints cannot be said to be right. Either one of them must be false. In such a situation, legal obligation is cast upon the investigating officer to make an endeavour to find out the truth and to cull out the truth from falsehood. Unfortunately, the investigating officer has failed to discharge the obligation, resulting in grave miscarriage of justice."

21. The question that is involved here in the context of trying two cases together by the same Judge, arising out of the same occurrence, one instituted on a police report and the other dealt with as a complaint, came up before the Supreme Court in Pal alias Palla v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2010) 10 SCC 123. The issue was if the case on the police challan had to be tried together with the complaint carrying a cross-version or just the police case tried in accordance with the provisions of sub-Sections (1) and (2) of Section 210 of the Code. It was held in Pal alias Palla (supra):

"30. The facts of the case also warrant that the two trials should be conducted by the same Presiding Officer in order to avoid conflict of decisions. As was observed in Harjinder Singh case [(1985) 1 SCC 422 : 1985 SCC (Cri) 93] clubbing and consolidating the two cases, one on a police challan and the other on a complaint, if the prosecution versions in the two cases are materially different, contradictory and mutually exclusive, should not be consolidated but should be tried together with the evidence in the two cases being recorded separately, so that both the cases could be disposed of simultaneously."

22. Since in cross-cases, the versions would be mutually exclusive and conflicting decision is to be eschewed, the two cases are to be tried together by the same Judge recording evidence separately in both the trials. And, as held in Nathi Lal, judgment must be pronounced by the same learned Judge, one after the other, to borrow the words of their Lordships.

23. In view of these facts, this Court finds that the impugned order passed by the learned Sessions Judge is not sustainable and deserves to be quashed.

24. In the result, this application succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.12, Bulandshahr dated 09.02.2023 is hereby quashed. It is ordered that proceedings of Complaint Case No.523 of 2019, Kripa Devi vs. Ravikant and others, under Sections 323, 354, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station Khurja Dehat, District Bulandshahr pending before the learned Magistrate, shall be called by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.12, Bulandshahr and tried by the same Judge, though separately, where evidence would be recorded in each case, also separately. The judgment shall, however, be pronounced by the same learned Judge, one after the other, bearing in mind the guidance in this judgment and the law.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 – Sections 145, 145-(1) & 482 – Constitution of India,1950 - Article - 227- Application U/s 482 Cr.P.C. - for quashing of the impugned order of property attachment under Section 145(1) Cr.P.C. as well as the entire criminal proceedings – a suit is pending between Applicant and Opposite party no. 2 with regards to a 'Hari Nikunj Asharam' exists in two separate buildings – police submitted report – strained situation on the spot – Magistrate passed preliminary order of attachment of property u/s 145(1) Cr.P.C. during pendency of dispute – applicant argued that a Civil Suit is pending and an interim 'status quo order' is exist provided by the High Court as such impugned criminal proceedings is unjustified by citing precedents like Ram Sumer Puri Mahant and Amresh Tiwari,- applicant further contended that possession issues should be resolved exclusively by the civil court, especially since the Ameen report and trial court had acknowledged the applicant's possession - The opposite party countered that mere pendency of a civil suit does not bar Section 145 Cr.P.C. proceedings in the absence of effective interim relief or final adjudication – relying upon the judgment passed in the case of 'Mohd. Shakir Vs St. of U.P. & ors.' wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that during the pendency of a civil suit concerning property, criminal proceedings under Section 145 Cr.P.C. should be dropped without the Magistrate issuing findings or interim directions, leaving all matters to the civil court - Applying this principle, Court held that, the preliminary order passed u/s 145(1) Cr.P.C. is unjustified during the ongoing civil suit and existing interim order from the High Court - Since the civil court had already acknowledged the applicant's possession, albeit not peaceful or legal, the continuation of parallel criminal proceedings was deemed an abuse of process - Consequently, the Court quashed the impugned order and allowed the application with liberty to the parties to seek remedies through the civil court during the suit's pendency.

6. Mohd. Shakir Vs St. of U.P. & ors.[2022 Live Law (SC) 727],

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard Sri Raj Kumar Khanna learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Satish Trivedi (Senior Advocate) assisted by Sri Sheshadri Trivedi learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 as well as learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present applicant has invoked the inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. beseeching the quashing of the order dated 04.03.2021 passed by City Magistrate, Mathura, under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. in Case No.35 of 2021 (Aman Deep Singh vs. Adarsh Pal Gupta) and entire proceeding of said case under Section 145 Cr.P.C.

3. Facts culled out from the record reveals that the property in question known as Hari Nikunj Ashram exist in two separate buildings situated at Sri Radha Rani Anna Kshetra, Sri Banke Bihari Colony, Vrindavan, Mathura. Police has submitted report dated 02.03.2021 with an averment that the first party (applicant herein) and the second party (contesting opposite party herein) are claiming their right, title and possession over the property in question, therefore, considering the strained situation on spot both the parties may be summoned and Ashram (property in question) may be attached till the decision with respect to the right and possession of parties over there, so that, law and order could prevail. Considering the police report, learned Magistrate, by order dated 04.02.2021, has passed preliminary order under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. calling upon the parties to present their respective cases with respect to the possession and title over the property in question, which is under challenge before this Court.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has hammered the preliminary order under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. on the ground of pendency of the Civil Suit No.15 of 2021 and submitted that the property in question namely Hari Nikunj Ashram is run under the supervision and control of Panchayati Akhada Nirmal. Owing to disturbance in the possession of Panchayat Akhada Nirmal created by the opposite party no.2 (second party in proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C.), Panchayati Akhada Nirmal along with Hari Nikunj Ashram has filed a civil suit being O.S. No.15 of 2021 dated 06.01.2021 for permanent prohibitory injunction against the opposite party no.2 herein. Considering delay in decision on the interim injunction application plaintiff has approached before this Court by moving a petition being mater Under Article 227 No.115 of 2021. Co-ordinate Bench of this Court, vide order dated 13.01.2021, has disposed of the said petition with a direction to decide the interim injunction application (7-C) within a period of one months, however, interim protection for maintaining status-quo was granted as well for a period of two months or till the decision on the aforesaid application, whichever is earlier. During pendency of the aforesaid civil suit, preliminary order dated 04.03.2021 under Section 145 (1) has been passed on the basis of police report dated 02.03.2021. Interim injunction application was rejected by order dated 09.09.2021 (Annexure-C.A.1), however, Misc. Appeal No.28 of 2021 is still pending against said rejection order. It has been emphasized that during the existence of interim order passed by Hon'ble High Court, vide order dated 13.01.2021, and pendency of the civil suit which was filed on 06.01.2021, learned Magistrate had inherent lack of jurisdiction to entertain the police report and pass preliminary order under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. It is further submitted that the possession of the first party (applicant herein) is evident from the Ameen report dated 14.01.2021 submitted in the civil suit and the observation made by the trial court in its order dated 09.09.2021. It is further submitted that in the light of the fact that the civil suit was pending before the court competent and opposite party no.2 has a remedy to file an appropriate application for the possession and appoint a receiver for the purposes of protection of the property in question, there is no justification of continuing a parallel proceeding in criminal side under Section 145 Cr.P.C. In support of the his submission learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon and case of Ram Sumer Puri Mahant (appellant) vs. State of U.P. and others (respondent), AIR 1985 Supreme Court 472, and Amresh Tiwari (appellant) vs. Lalta Pradad Dubey and others (respondents), AIR 2000 Supreme Court 1504.

5. Per contra learned counsel for private opposite party no.2 has vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the applicant and contended that mere pendency of the civil suit between the parties is not sufficient ground to drop the proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. It is further contended that no interim protection has been granted to the present applicant at any stage of civil litigation, even, interim protection granted by Hon'ble High Court was vacated after two months from the date of its order i.e. 13.01.2021. In absence of any interim order or final decision from the court competent with respect to the right and tile over the property in question, the initiation of proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. cannot be said to be illegal. It is further contended that the applicant has still an opportunity to contest before the Magistrate concerned by way of filing their objection and adducing evidence in support of his case. Learned counsel for private opposite party has relied upon the following cases :-

(I) Jhunamal @ Devandas vs. State of M.P. and others, AIR 1988 Supreme Court 173;

(II) Sanjay Kumar vs. VI Additional District Judge, Bareilly decided by co-ordinate Bench of this court on 16.01.1996, 1996 1 AWC 277;

(III) Sanjay Sahai vs. State of U.P. and another decided by co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 19.11.2022 passed in application U/S 482 No.36518 of 2022.

6. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perusal of record, it is manifested that property in question is known as Hari Nikunj Ashram. Present applicant (first party) is claiming his right and title over the property in question on the basis of registered sale deed and the gift deed said to have been executed by then owners of the property in question in favour of the predecessor in the interest of the applicant herein. However, opposite party no.2 is claiming his right and title over the property in question through separate society. At this juncture, it would not be befitting to consider this aspect of the matter which relates to the right and title of the parties and the same is subjudice before the civil court in Original Suit No.15 of 2021. Admittedly, Original Suit No.15 of 2021 has been filed on 16.01.2021. However, having considered the delay in decision on the interim injunction application (7-C), present applicant has invoked the supervisory jurisdiction of this Court by way of filing a petition under Article 227 No.115 of 2021. Co-ordinate Bench of this Court vide order dated 13.01.2021 has disposed of the aforesaid petition with a direction to decide the interim injunction application (Paper No.7-C) within a period of one month, however, for a period of two months or till the decision on the interim injunction application, whichever is earlier, parties were directed to maintain status-quo. During the existence of two months protection for maintaining status-quo and the pendency of the suit, police has submitted report dated 02.03.2021, which was taken into account while passing the preliminary order under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. Thus, order impugned has been passed not only during pendency of the suit but also during existence of the interim order granted by this Court. Apart from that while rejecting the interim injunction application, vide order dated 09.09.2021, learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mathura has made an observation acknowledging the possession of the present applicant over the property in question, however, he has refused to grant interim injunction on the ground that plaintiff/applicant has failed to prove his possession legal. Learned Civil Court might has not passed interim injunction in favour of the present applicant, however, in my considered opinion, his observation with respect to the possession of the present applicant over the property in question cannot be ignored particularly for the purposes of parallel criminal proceeding under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. Opposite party no.2 herein has been arrayed as defendant no.1 in the Original Suit No.15 of 2021 and he has an ample opportunity to move an appropriate application before the Civil Court to get injunction in his favour with respect to the property in question along with the counter claim to establish his legal right and title over there. On the premise of pendency of the civil suit which has already been instituted on 06.01.2021 prior to the police report dated 02.01.2021 and preliminary order dated 04.01.2021 under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C., there is no justification to continue the parallel criminal proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. to examine the possession of the parties over the property in question. In the matter of Amrish Tiwari (supra) proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. was dropped by learned Magistrate considering the pendency of the civil suit, however, same was reversed by the higher court. Hon'ble Supreme Court has upheld the order passed by learned Sub-Divisional Magistrate and held that multiplicity of the litigation should be avoided as it is not in the interest of the parties and the public time would be wasted over meaningless litigation. It is further observed that when possession is being examined by the civil court and the parties are in a position to approach the civil court for adequate protection of the property during pendency of the dispute, the parallel proceeding i.e. under Section 145 Cr.P.C. should not continue. Hon'ble Supreme Court in said case has considered the ratio decided by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Ram Sumer Puri Mahant (supra). For ready reference relevant paragraph Nos.12, 13 and 14 of the judgement passed in the case of Amresh Tiwari (supra) is quoted hereinbelow:-

"12. The question then is whether there is any infirmity in the order of the S.D.M. discontinuing the proceedings under Section 145 Criminal Procedure Code. The law on this subject-matter has been settled by the decision of this Court in the case of Ram Sumer Puri Mahant v. State of U.P., reported in, (1985) 1 SCC 427: (AIR 1985 SC 472: 1985 Cri LJ 752). In this case it has been held as follows:

"When a civil litigation is pending for the property wherein the question of possession is involved and has been adjudicated, we see hardly any justification for initiating a parallel criminal proceeding under Section 145 of the Code. There is no scope to doubt or dispute the position that the decree of the civil court is binding on the criminal Court in a matter like the one before us. Counsel for respondents 2-5 was not in a position to challenge the proposition that parallel proceedings should not be permitted to continue and in the event of a decree of the civil Court, the Criminal Court should not be allowed to invoke its jurisdiction particularly when possession is being examined by the civil court and parties are in a position to approach the Civil Court for interim orders such as injunction or appointment of receiver for adequate protection of the property during pendency of the dispute. Multiplicity of litigation is not in the interest of the parties nor should public time be allowed to be wasted over meaningless litigation. We are, therefore, satisfied that parallel proceedings should not continue."

13. We are unable to accept the submission that the principles laid down in Ram Sumers case (AIR 1985 SC 472: 1985 Cri LJ 752) would only apply if the civil Court has already adjudicated on the dispute regarding the property and given a finding. In our view Ram Sumers case is laying down that multiplicity of litigation should be avoided as it is not in the interest of the parties and public time would be wasted over meaningless litigation. On this principle it has been held that when possession is being examined by the civil Court and parties are in a position to approach the civil Court for adequate protection of the property during the pendency of the dispute, the parallel proceedings i.e. Section 145 proceedings should not continue.

14. Reliance has been placed on the case of Jhummamal alias Devandas v. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in, (1988) 4 SCC 452: (AIR 1988 SC 1973: 1989 Cri LJ 82). It is submitted that this authority lays down that merely because a civil suit is pending does not mean that proceedings under Section 145, Criminal Procedure Code should be set at naught. In our view this authority does not lay down any such broad proposition. In this case the proceedings under Section 145, Criminal Procedure Code had resulted in a concluded order. Thereafter the party, who had lost, filed civil proceedings. After filing the civil proceedings he prayed that the final order passed in the Section 145 proceedings be quashed. It is in that context that this Court held that merely because a civil suit had been filed did not mean that the concluded order under Section 145 Criminal Procedure Code should be quashed. This is entirely a different situation. In this case the civil suit had been filed first. An Order of status quo had already been passed by the competent civil Court. Thereafter Section 145 proceedings were commenced. No final order had been passed in the proceedings under Section 145. In our view on the facts of the present case the ratio laid down in Ram Sumers case (AIR 1985 SC 472: 1985 Cri LJ 752) (supra) fully applies. We clarify that we are not stating that in every case where a civil suit is filed. Section 145 proceedings would never lie. It is only in cases where civil suit is for possession or for declaration of title in respect of the same property and where reliefs regarding protection of the property concerned can be applied for and granted by the civil Court that proceedings under Section 145 should not be allowed to continue. This is because the civil court is competent to decide the question of title as well as possession between the parties and the orders of the civil Court would be binding on the Magistrate."

7. In a recent judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court, viz. Mohd. Shakir vs. State of U.P. & others [2022 Live Law (SC) 727], it has been held that during pendency of civil suit qua property in question, while dropping the proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C., there is no justification for the learned Magistrate to record any finding or issue any interim direction. The Magistrate ought to have left all the relevant aspects for consideration of the competent civil court, without recording any finding in the matter.

8. Having careful consideration to the ratio decided by Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the matters as discussed above, in the given facts of the present case, there is no room of doubt that while the civil suit is pending between the parties with respect to the possession and title over the property in question, parties could avail appropriate remedy before the civil court concerned qua their possession and protection of the property during pendency of the suit.

9. Judgement relied upon by learned counsel for the respondent does not come in rescue to his contention. Case of Jhunamal @ Devandas (supra) has been distinguished by Hon'ble Supreme Court in its judgement passed in the case of Amresh Tiwari (supra). In the matter of Jhunamal @ Devandas (supra), after culmination of proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. civil suit was filed and Hon'ble High Court has quashed the order passed under Section 145 Cr.P.C. on the ground of pendency of the civil suit. In this backdrop of the facts, Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that concluded proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. should not be set at naught merely because unsuccessful party has approached before the civil court. So far as the case of Sanjay Kumar (supra) is concerned, same is not much helpful as well to the opposite party wherein proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. has been held to be valid for want of adjudicate interim injunction from the civil court. It has been observed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the cited case that proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. should be dropped only when the civil court has passed some effective order indicating as to which of the parties was entitled to possession. Apart from that proceeding should also be dropped when civil court has appointed a receiver or has made same arrangement for maintenance of such property. But, when the civil court does not clarify the position regarding the possession of contesting parties by passing an effective order, the criminal proceeding are not to be dropped because in that case both the parties may stake their claim for the possession and the situation may lead to the breach of peace. Applying the observation made by co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the given circumstances of the present case, I am of the opinion that while deciding the interim injunction application (Paper No.7-C), learned trial court has made unequivocal observation acknowledging the possession of the present applicant over the property in question, however, refused to grant interim order on the ground that possession is not legal. While discussing the prima-facie case and balance of convenience, learned trial court has made observation that possession of the plaintiff (applicant) is for a short period that too it was restrictive and was not peaceful. It has also been observed that possession of the applicant was not in accordance with law. Thus, learned civil court has unequivocally indicated the possession of the plaintiff (applicant herein) over the property in question that might be illegal or not peaceful. In the matter of Sandeep Sahai (supra), co-ordinate Bench of this Court has declined to exercise its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on the ground that the applicant in that matter had an alternative remedy to approach before the authority concerned by filing an appropriate application/objection against the preliminary order under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C.

10. In this conspectus, as above, I am of the considered view that in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case wherein at the time of passing the preliminary order dated 04.05.2021 under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C., interim order dated 13.01.2021 passed by Hon'ble High Court was in existence and civil suit was pending and, precisely, learned civil court in its order dated 0909.2020 has indicated the possession of the plaintiff over the property in question, there is no justification to keep the parties indulge in a parallel criminal proceeding as enunciated under Section 145 Cr.P.C. Ratio decided by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Amresh Tiwari is still a law of land in the matter pertaining to proceeding under Section 145 Cr.P.C. This Court found an abuse of process of court in passing the impugned preliminary order dated 04.02.2021 under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C., therefore, to secure the ends of justice, same is liable to be quashed. There is no need to say that the right, title and possession of the parties would be abided by the final outcome of the civil suit pending before the court competent and in case of any peculiar circumstances requiring interim protection parties can approach before the civil court for appropriate order.

11. Resultantly, instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby allowed and the preliminary order dated 04.02.2021 passed by City Magistrate, Mathura, under Section 145 (1) Cr.P.C. in Case No.35 of 2021 (Aman Deep Singh vs. Adarsh Pal Gupta), under challenge before this Court, is hereby quashed.

1. Heard lerned counsel for the applicant and learned AGA for the State-respondents.

2. The instant Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed on behalf of the applicant for quashing the entire criminal proceedings emanating from charge-sheet dated 29.06.2021 and cognizance order dated 31.08.2021 in case No.618 of 2021 in relation to Case Crime No.286 of 2020, under Section 2/3 of Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention Act, 1986, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi, which is pending before the Special Judge (Gangster Act), Court No.3, Jhansi.

3. On the basis of gang-chart prepared/forwarded/approved by the Police and Administrative Authority, FIR was lodged against the applicant and five other co-accused persons. The First Information Report giving rise to the crime, which after investigation, has culminated in the charge-sheet impugned, was submitted against the applicant and five other co-accused persons on 22.08.2020 at P.S.-Nawabad, District Jhansi, by Vinod Kumar Mishra, Inspector (In-charge), P.S.-Nawabad, District-Jhansi with the allegation that applicant has an organized gang wherein he is a gang-leader, whereas five other co-accused are members of the said Gang. It is further alleged in the impugned FIR that applicant is a notorious criminal and has been involved in the offences of murder, kidnapping and extortion for quite sometime and is also obtaining pecuniary gains from the same.

4. It is submitted by the counsel for the applicant that applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case on the basis of mala fide intentions of the police as there is no evidence available on record to show that the applicant is a part of any gang. It is further submitted that impugned FIR was lodged on the basis of a gang-chart dated 08.08.2020, wherein, four cases have been shown against the applicant. It is further submitted that gang-chart prepared in the present case is not at all in consonance with the provisions of Rule 5(3)(c) of the Rules, 2021 as the same dictate that no cases where the accused has been acquitted shall be included in the gang-chart, whereas in the present case crime No.482 of 2015 has been included in the same. According to gang-chart attached with the present case, four criminal cases have been shown against the applicant no.1 registered as case crime Nos.229 of 2019, under Sections 713, 302, 201, 328/34, 411 and 404 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi (ii) Case Crime No.594 of 2019, under Sections 420, 406, 506, 504 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi (iii) case crime No.476 of 2015, under Sections 441, 447, 427, 506 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi (iv) case crime No.482 of 2015, under Sections 302, 120-B/467/468/471/41 9/420 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi. It is noteworthy that applicant is shown to have been involved in all the four cases cited in the gang-chart but the alleged members (co-accused) are shown to have been involved only in one criminal case registered as case crime Nos.229 of 2019, under Sections 713, 302, 201, 328/34, 411 and 404 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi, wherein applicant has already been enlarged on bail by the court concerned.

6. It is further submitted that according to the provisions of Rule 5(3)(e) of 2021, all the other criminal cases pending against the accused have to be attached with the gang-chart, but in the present case, no such separate list was attached with the gang-chart at the time when the same was approved. It is further contended that there is violation of relevant provisions of Section 2(b) of the Act as well as relevant provisions of Rules, 2021.

7. In response to the notice issued to respondent nos.1 and 2, a counter affidavit was filed which is duly sworn by Jai Prakash Yadav, presently posted as Inspector, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi, in which all the allegations and averments made in the affidavit filed in support of the application under section 482 cr.p.c. have been totally denied and it is asserted that accused-applicant is a gang-leader of the gang and is created a fear and terror in the society and is involved in anti-social activities for pecuniary and temporal gains and due to his terror and fear no person of public is coming forward to depose against him.

8. In response to the counter affidavit filed by the opposite parties, rejoinder affidavit was filed on behalf of the applicant, in which, the allegations and averments made in the counter affidavit were totally denied.

9. It is submitted by the learned counsel appearing for the applicant, that even if all allegations in the impugned FIR and charge-sheet are regarded as true, no case under Sections 2/3 of the Act of 1986 is made out against the applicant. In order to support the aforesaid submission, learned counsel has referred to the provisions of the gangster Act of 1986. He submits that there are two essential ingredients to constitute a gang. The two essential ingredients, according to learned counsel for the applicants, are 'violence' or 'disturbance of public order' indulged in by a group of persons, acting either singly or collectively, for the purpose of pecuniary gain etc.

10. It is the learned counsel for the applicants' submission that none of the offences charged against the applicant, either involves violence or the disturbance of public order. Therefore, even if there be allegations about pecuniary gain, the consequences under the Act of 1986 would not be attracted. He next submits that there are four base cases registered against the applicant, on the foot of which the present prosecution has been launched under Section 2/3 of the Act of 1986, out of which, in three cases, applicant has been enlarged on bail by the court concerned, whereas, in one case, he has been acquitted by the court concerned. It is also submitted that out of four cases, in two cases viz. case crime No.476/15, under Sections 441, 447, 427, 506 IPC, P.S.-Nawabad, District-Jhansi and case crime No.482 of 2015, under Sections 302, 120-B, 467, 468, 471, 419, 420 IPC, P.S.-Nawabad, District-Jhansi for initiating proceedings under Gangster Act, gang-chart was earlier prepared/forwarded, on which, after consideration and deliberation District Magistrate refused to approve the same for the aforesaid purpose. It is further submitted that the applicant has been falsely implicated in the case crime No.229 of 2019, under Sections 364, 120-B, 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 302, 201, 328, 34, 411, 404 IPC, P.S.-Nawabad, District-Jhansi on the basis of mere suspicion. Further more this case is based on circumstantial evidence and alleged motive against the applicant is avoidence of marriage with the deceased, however, no active and specific role has been given to the applicant and the other case crime No.594 of 2019 under Sections 420, 406, 506, 504 IPC, P.S.-Nawabad, District-Jhansi is regarding fraudulent withdrawal of money from the account of the deceased of the previous case. It is further alleged that in that case, applicant is not alleged to have fraudulently withdrawal money from the account nor he has received any money in his account. It is further submitted that the cases allegedly filed against the applicant are regarding the offence/crime committed by him in his private/personal capacity nor as a gang-leader of any gang whatsoever for temporal and pecuniary gains. Therefore, in the submission of the learned counsel, the base cases are not available to provide foundation to the prosecution to pursue the present case under the Act of 1986. It is in the last submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that there is violation of Rules 5, 6, 11, 15, 16, 21, 24 and 26 of The Uttar Pradesh Gangster and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Rules, 2021, vitiating the gang-chart. He has emphasized that non-adherence to these rules has vitiated the basis of registration of the crime and a fortiori the police report and the prosecution. He has emphatically submitted that violation of the aforesaid rules is not mere omission but it shows that the proceedings before registering FIR has been carried out mechanically without giving heed to the provisions of law and rules, which are of fundamental importance as any false and malacious prosecution entails serious consequances resulting into the deprivation of life and personal liberty of the accused person, which cannot be deprived except for the procedure established by law as is enshrined in the Article 21 of the Constitution of India. The forwarding, recommending and approving authorities have not paid any heed or attention to relevant law and rules, while exercising their authority with regard to the preparation and approval of the gang-chart. The whole exercise on their part has been carried out without application of mind.

11. On the other hand, learned AGA vehemently opposed the aforesaid contentions and submits that applicant is a leader of the gang, who is involved in committing the anti-social activities and crimes for pecuniary and temporal gains, but he could not dispute the violation of aforesaid Rules.

12. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court is of opinion that in order to consider the submissions of learned counsel for the applicant as well as learned counsel for the State, it is imperative to refer to the relevant provoisions of the Act of 1986, which reads as follows:

As the Act being a special statute- The Act is a special statute which has been enacted for the prevention of and for coping with gangsterism and anti-social activities. The Object and reasons as well as preamble are quoted hereinbelow:-

Objects and reasons of the Act:- Gangsterism and anti-social activities influenced the State Legislature in making introduction of such Act. The objects and reasons of the Act are that gangsterism and anti-social activities were on the increase in the state posing threat to lives and properties of the citizens. The existing measures were not found effective enough to cope with new menace. With a view to break the gangs by punishing the gangsters and to nip their conspirational designs, it was considered necessary to make special provision for the prevention of and for coping with gangsters and anti-social activities in the State. [Ashok Kumar Dixit v. State of U.P., 1987 (34) ACC 164: 1987 ACFR 230 AIR 1987 (All) 235 (All HC, FB)].

Preamble of Act.-The Act seeks to punish declared criminals who have deliberately chosen the life of crime. The activities of these professional perpetrators of organised crimes, violence and orgy has a far more baneful effect on the health and morals of the society and its people. If the activities of such recidivist are subjected to same punishment as that other ordinary criminals, the confidence of public in the efficacy and efficiency of State Administration is bound to shake. [Ashok Kumar Dixit v. State of U.P., 1987 (34) ACC 164: 1987 ACTR 230: AIR 1987 (All) 235 (All HC, FB)].

13. It is important to refer to the relevant provisions of the Act of 1986, which reads as follows:-

"2. Definitions.--In this Act,--

(a) x x x

(b) "Gang" means a group of persons, who acting either singly or collectively, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in anti-social activities (Act no. 2 of 1974), namely--

(i) offences punishable under Chapter XVI, or Chapter XVII, or Chapter XXII of the Indian Penal Code (Act no. 45 of 1860), or

(ii) distilling or manufacturing or storing or transporting or importing or exporting or selling or distributing any liquor, or intoxicating or dangerous drugs, or other intoxicants or narcotics or cultivating any plant, in contravention of any of the provisions of the U.P. Excise Act, 1910 (U.P. Act no. 4 of 1910) or the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 or any other law for the time being in force, or

(iii) occupying or talking possession of immovable property otherwise than in accordance with law, or setting-up false claims for title or possession of immovable property whether in himself or any other person, or (Act no. 61 of 1985)

(iv) preventing or attempting to prevent any public servant or any witness from discharging his lawful duties, or

(v) offences punishable under the Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls Art, 1956, or

(vi) offences punishable under section 3 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 (Act no. 104 of 1956), or

(vii) preventing any person from offering bids in auction lawfully conducted, or tender, lawfully invited, by or on behalf of any Government department, local body or public or private undertaking for any lease or right or supply of goods or work to be done, or

(ix) offences punishable under section 171-E of the Indian Penal Code, or in preventing or obstructing any public election being lawfully held, by physically preventing the voter from exercising his electoral rights, or

(x) inciting others to resort to violence to disturb communal harmony, or

(xi) creating panic, alarm or terror in public, or

(xii) terrorising or assaulting employees or owners or occupiers of public or private undertakings or factories and causing mischief in respect of their properties, or

(xiii) inducing or attempting to induce any person to go to foreign countries on false representation that any employment, trade or profession shall be provided to him in such foreign country, or

(xiv) kidnapping or abducting any person with intent to extort ransom, or

(xv) diverting or otherwise preventing any aircraft or public transport vehicle from following its scheduled course;

(xvi) offences punishable under the Regulation of Money Lending Act, 1976;

(xvii) illegally transporting and/or smuggling of cattle and indulging in acts in contravention of the provisions in the Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955 and the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960;

(xxiv) offences punishable under the Entertainment and Betting Tax Act, 1979;

(xxv) indulging in crimes that impact security of State, public order and even tempo of life.

(c) "gangster" means a member or leader or organiser of a gang and includes any person who abets or assists in the activities of a gang enumerated in clause (b), whether before or after the commission of such activities or harbours any person who has indulged in such activities;

14. A perusal of the aforesaid provisions shows that violence or disturbance of public order alone are not the sine qua non of a gang as defined under the Act of 1986. It postulates a group of persons, who either acting singly or collectively, employ violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion, "or otherwise' with the object of (i) disturbing public order; (ii) or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material; or other advantage for himself or any other person, indulge in anti-social activities, enumerated in clauses (i) to (xxii) of sub-Section (b) of Section 2 of the Act of 1986.

15. It is a well settled cannon of statutory interpretation that a statute should be read and understood according to its plain grammatical meaning, unless that construction leads to an absurd result, or defeats the object and the very purpose of it.

16. Learned counsel for the applicants has also drawn attention towards the mandatory compliance with the provisions of Rule 5, 6, 7, 11, 13, 15, 16, 17, 21, 24 and 26 of the Rules of 2021 framed under the Act of 1986. These Rules have been made by the State Government in exercise of powers under Section 23 of the Act of 1986 to carry out its purposes. Rule 5, 6, 7, 11, 13, 15, 16, 17, 21, 24 and 26 are extracted below:

"5. General Rules.--(1) To initiate proceedings under this Act, the concerned In-charge of Police Station/Station House Officer/Inspector shall prepare a gang chart mentioning the details of criminal activities of the gang.

(2) The gang-chart will be presented to the district head of police after clear recommendation of the Additional Superintendent of Police mentioning the detailed activities in relation to all the persons of the said gang.

(3) The following provisions shall be complied with in respect of gang-charts--

(a). The gang-chart will not be approved summarily but after due discussion in a joint meeting of the Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate/Senior Superintendent of Police/Superintendent of Police.

(b). There may be no gang of one person but there may be a gang of known and other unknown persons and in that form the gang-chart may be approved as per these rules.

(c). The gang-chart shall not mention those cases in which acquittal has been granted by the Special Court or in which the final report has been filed after the investigation. However, the gang-chart shall not be approved without the completion of investigation of the base case.

(d). Those cases shall not be mentioned in the gang-chart, on the basis of which action has already been taken once under this Act.

(e). A separate list of criminal history, as given in Form No.--4, shall be attached with the gang-chart detailing all the criminal activities of that gang and mentioning all the criminal cases, even if acquittal has been granted in those cases or even where final report has been submitted in the absence of evidence.

Along with the above, a certified copy of the gang register kept at the police station shall also be attached with the gang-chart. In addition to the above, the information of crime and gang members mentioned in the gang-chart will also be updated on Interoperable Criminal Justice System (ICJS) portal and Crime and Criminal Tracking Network System (CCTNS).

6. Relevant provision of the Act to be specifically mentioned-(1) While preparing the gang-chart, it shall be clearly mentioned if the alleged act of the gang falls within the purview of clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act along with the relevant provision.

7. Charges mentioned in the earlier gang-chart not to be made the basis of charges in the new gang-chart-(1) If action has been taken against a gang in the past under the Act and at present a new gang has been formed by the member or gang leader of such gang which has changed its criminal territory or is indulging in new criminal activities, then while preparing the new gang-chart, any crime mentioned in the earlier gang-chart shall not be mentioned in the existing gang-chart and if crime is being committed by changing the gang, with new members or with new gang, then this fact should be clearly mentioned in the abstract of the gang-chart.

(2) In addition to the above, a list of criminal history may be attached separately.

11. Present status of witness and accused-(1) If any witness has turned hostile, it will also be clearly mentioned in the summary of gang-chart.

(2) In the concerned column of gang-chart, the present status of all the accused, whether they are presently in jail or on bail or absconding, shall be clearly mentioned.

13. Specific statement of offences committed for economic, material and temporal or similar other benefits.- While writing the abstract below the gang-chart and particulars separately with the gang-chart, the particulars of those offences shall be specifically mentioned:

(I) which have been committed for pecuniary, materialistic and temporal or similar benefits; or

(ii) which disturb the public order; or

(iii) which are a ground for detention under the National Security Act, 1980 (Act No.65 of 1980).

15. Arbitrary selection of gang/member of gang prohibited-

(1) There should not be a situation of arbitrary selection against any gang under this Act.

(2) If action is not to be taken against any member of a gang who has committed a criminal act in association with the said gang, then in such a case clear and reasonable grounds for not mentioning his name in the gang and gang-chart shall be recorded with reasons and evidences.

(3) The final decision as to whether to include or not to include the name of member of a gang in the gang and gang-chart shall be at the discretion of the commissioner of Police/District Magistrate.

16. Forwarding of Gang-Chart.--

The following manner shall be followed in the forwarding of Gang-Chart:

(1) Forwarding of the gang-chart by the Additional Superintendent of Police:- The Additional Superintendent of Police will not only take a quick forwarding action in the case but he will duly peruse the gang-chart and all the attached forms; and when it is satisfied that there is a just and satisfactory basis to pursue the case, only then will he forward the letter along with the recommendation given below on the gang-chart to the Superintendent of Police/Senior Superintendent of Police.

'Throughly studied the gang-chart and attached evidence. The basis of action under the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986 exists. Accordingly, forwarded with recommendation."

(2) Forwarding of the gang-chart by the district police in-charge:- When the gang-chart along with all the Forms is received by the Senior Superintendent of Police/Superintendent of Police with the clear recommendation of the Additional Superintendent of Police, he will also thoroughly analyse all the facts and when it is confirmed that all the formalities of the Act have been fulfilled and there is a legal basis for taking action in the case, then he should forward the gang-chart to the Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate stating that: "I have duly perused the gang-chart and attached forms and I am fully satisfied that all the particulars mentioned in the case are correct and there is a satisfactory basis for taking action under the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986. Accordingly, approved."

(3) Resolution of the Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate:- When the gang-chart is sent to the Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate along with all the Forms, all the facts will also be thoroughly perused by the Commissioner of Police/District Magistrate and when he is satisfied that the basis of action exists in the case, then he will approve the gang-chart stating therein that: "I duly perused the gang-chart and attached Forms in the light of the evidence attached with the gang-chart satisfactory grounds exist for taking action under the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986. The gang-chart is approved accordingly."

It is noteworthy that the words written above are only illustrative. There is no compulsion to write the same verbatim but it is necessary that the meaning of approval should be the same as the recommendations written above, and it should also be clear from the note of approval marked.

17. Use of independent mind.--

(1) The Competent Authority shall be bound to exercise its own independent mind while forwarding the gang-chart.

(2) A pre-printed rubber seal gang-chart should not be signed by the Competent Authority; otherwise the same shall tantamount to the fact that the Competent Authority has not exercised its free mind."

21. Records relating to sub-clause (iii) of clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act- If evidence related to possession of any land, etc. Is required, then the entries of that revenue record such as Khasra, Khatauni and map of such land shall be prepared and included in the investigation.

24. Expeditious Investigation-

(1) The investigation of any offence under the Act shall, as far as possible, be completed within six months.

(2) In unavoidable circumstances, after the approval of the district police in-charge, a maximum extension of three months can be provided.

(3) In no case, can the investigation be extended for more than one year.

26. Approval of district police in-charge-

(1) On receipt of the oral and documentary evidence collected in the case diary, the Commissioner of Police/Senior Superintendent of Police/Superintendent of Police shall again duly peruse all the facts.

(2) Before submitting the charge-sheet in the Court, the approval of the district police in-charge shall be mandatory.

17. Thus from perusal of the Rules, all that is required by Rules is that the Authorities recommending registration of a case under the Act of 1986 should come to the conclusion with an independent application of mind that a case under the Act of 1986 ought to be registered. Likewise, the Authorities approving the gang-chart also should come to the conclusion on an independent application of mind that a case under the Act of 1986 ought to be registered against the accused on the basis of the activities of the gang. However there is no prescription for the employment of particular words to serve as index of due application of mind.

18. It is pertinent to note here that the above noted rules of 2021 are in the form of procedural safeguards in relation to offences under the Gangsters Act. Even before these Rules of 2021, certain safequards were already, in place, in one way and the other in the form of G.Os. and Notifications/Communications issued by the Government/Executive Authority/Police Authority. These were all ad hoc Procedural Safequards to be observed and complied with by the concerned authorities while dealing with gangster cases, just to make a stop gap arrangement and an effort to plug the void, in place of formal Rules as contemplated by Section 23 of the Act.

मा0 उच्च न्यायालय, इलाहाबाद के द्वारा रिट याचिका संख्या 6249/2003 अमरनाथ दुबे बनाम उ0प्र0 राज्य एवं अन्य में उ0प्र0 गिरोहबन्द व समाजबिरोधी क्रिया कलाप निवारण अधिनियम के दुरूपयोग पर चिन्ता व्यक्त की है। मा0 उच्च न्यायालय ने उ0प्र0 गिरोहबन्द निवारण अधिनियम उ0प्र0 गुण्डा अधिनियम एवं एन0डी0पी0एस0 अधिनियम के सम्यक उपयोग हेतु आवष्यक दिषा निर्देष जारी करने एवं दुरूपयोग रोकने हेतु यथोचित कदम उठाने के लिए कडे निर्देष दिये है ।

इन अधिनियमों के सम्यक सदुपयोग करने एवं इनके दुरूपयोग के रोकथाम हेतु समय समय पर विस्तृत निर्देष पूर्व में जारी किये गये है। परन्तु ऐसा प्रतीत होता है कि इन अधिनियमों का दुरूपयोग रोकने के लिए शासन/पुलिस महानिदेषक, उ0प्र0 द्वारा जो दिषा निर्देष जारी किये गये है, उनका कडाई से अनुपालन नहीं किया जा रहा है। आप सहमत होगें कि निर्दोष व निरपराध व्यक्तियों के विरूद्ध इन अधिनियमों के अन्तर्गत दिये गये अधिकारों का दुरूपयोग कुछ अधिकारियों द्वारा किये जाने के कारण शासन एवं पुलिस विभाग की छवि पर प्रतिकूल प्रभाव पडता है।

अतः इस सम्बन्ध में पुनः निम्नलिखित दिषा निर्देष दिये जा रहे है, जिनका कड़ाई से अनुपालन सुनिष्चित किया जाये–

1– समस्त थाना प्रभारी, क्षेत्राधिकारी, अपर पुलिस अधीक्षक वरिष्ठ पुलिस अधीक्षक/पुलिस अधीक्षक, प्रभारी जनपद एवं जिलाधिकारी इस अधिनियम में दिये गये प्राविधानों का अध्ययन करके इसको भली भंति समझ लें। इस हेतु यह जान लेना रहेगा कि जनपद स्तर पर एक कार्यषाला आयोजित करा ली जाये जिसमें सभी अधिकारियों के अलावा जनपद के जिला शासकीय अधिवक्ता– फौजदारी एवं ज्येष्ठ अभियोजन अधिकारी प्रभारी भी अवष्य उपस्थित रहे। यदि किसी अधिकारी की किसी स्तर पर इन अधिनियमों के किसी प्राविधान के बारे में किसी प्रकार की कोई शंका हो तो इस कार्यषाला में उनका निराकरण करा लिया जाये।

उ0प्र0 गिरोहबन्द एवं समाज विरोधी क्रिया कलाप (निवारण) अधिनियम के सम्यक उपयोग करने/दुरूपयोग रोकने के सम्बन्ध में दिषा निर्देष–

1– इस अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत कार्यवाही केवल उन्हीं अपराधियों के विरूद्ध की जाये, जिनकी आपराधिक गतिविधि इस अधिनियम में दिये गये प्राविधान की परिधि के अन्तर्गत आती है ।

3– वरिष्ठ पुलिस अधीक्षक/पुलिस अधीक्षक प्रभारी अपने स्तर पर गिरोह के सदस्यों के अपराधिक विवरण तथा उनके क्रिया कलापों का भली भांति परीक्षणत के उपरान्त जिलाधिकारी के साथ विचार विमर्ष करके इस सूची को अन्तिम रूप प्रदान करेंगे।

किया जा चुका है। जिन मामलों में अन्तिम रिपोर्ट प्रेषित की जा चुकी है या न्यायालय द्वारा विचारण के उपरान्त अभियुक्त को दोषमुक्त किया जा चुका है उसे आपराधिक विवरण में सम्मिलित न किया जाये।

6–जिन मामलों के आधार पर उ0प्र0 समाज विरोधी क्रिया कलाप एवं गिरोहबन्द अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत कार्यवाही की गयी है, उसी आधार पर पुनः कार्यवाही न की जाये। अर्थात किसी गिरोह के विरूद्ध उ0प्र0 समाज विरोधी क्रिया कलाप एवं गिरोहबन्द अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत कार्यवाही करने के बाद कोई नया आपराधिक कृत्य जो इस अधिनियम के प्राविधानों की परिधि में हो, प्रकाष में आने पर ही उ0प्र0 समाज विरोधी क्रिया कलाप के अन्तर्गत कार्यवाही की जाये ।

3– इन अधिनियमों के अन्तर्गत दिये गये प्राविधानों का दुरूपयोग किये जाने का यदि कोई मामला प्रथम दृष्टया सही पाया जाये तो सम्बन्धित थाने के प्रभारी एवं अन्य दोषी अधीनस्थ पुलिस कर्मियों को थाने से हटा दिया जाये एवं तत्परता से जांच कराकर उनके विरूद्ध दण्डात्मक कार्यवाही की जाये।

4– प्रत्येक माह जिलाधिकारी एवं वरिष्ठ पुलिस अधीक्षक/पुलिस अधीक्षक, प्रभारी अपनी मासिक गोष्ठी में इस आदेष के माध्यम से दिये जा रहे दिषा–निर्देषों के अनुपालन के सम्बन्ध में भी अनुश्रवण किया करेंगे।

5– सभी को यह स्पष्ट किया जाता है कि शासन अथवा पुलिस महानिदेषक उ0प्र0 के संज्ञान में यदि कोई ऐसा मामला आता है कि किसी मामले में इन अधिनियमों का दुरूपयोग किये जाने की जानकारी वरिष्ठ पुलिस अधीक्षक/पुलिस अधीक्षक प्रभारी को होने के पष्चात भी पीडित पक्ष को न्याय नहीं दिलाया गया अथवा दोषी अधिकारी, कर्मचारी के विरूद्ध यथेष्ठ कार्यवाही नहीं की गयी है, तो ऐसे मामलों में वरिष्ठ पुलिस अधीक्षक/पुलिस अधीक्षक प्रभारी जिम्मेदार माने जायेंगे।

22. It will be apt to take note of what has been held and observed by the Apex Court as well as the High Court with regard to the interpretation and application of the various provisions of the Act.

Status of criminal, not punishable- It is not the status of criminal, but the act which is made punishable. The activities of gangsters are offence under the Act since they pose grave threat to the even tempo of the society and, therefore, call for sterner and more deterrent punishment and speedier trial and early booking. (Ashok Kumar Dixit Vs. State of U.P.; 1987 (34) ACC 164).

The person who not liable to be punished- A person is not liable to be punished under the Act merely because he happens to be a member of a group. He comes within the clutches of the Act, when he chooses to join a group which indulges in any anti-social activities defined under the Act with use of force for gaining material and advantage to himself or any other person. (Ashok Kumar Dixit Vs. State of U.P.; 1987 (34) ACC 164).

Duty of the State to protect personal liberty of its citizens- Duty of State to protect personal liberty of its citizens, the State is duty bound to protect personal liberty of its citizens beyond doubt which is fundamentally guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India (Vimal Shukla Vs. State of U.P.; 2019 (1) ARC 299).

Necessity of deeper application of mind- The imposition of Gangsters Act calls for a deeper application of mind and the satisfaction of the authorities must be based on a definite opinion against an accused person. (Shubhankar Gupta Vs. State of U.P.; (2019) 1 A.Cr.R. 2)

Caution for misuse of the provisions- The provisions of the Act cannot be used as a weapon to wreck vengeance or harass or intimidate innocent citizens or to settle scores on political or other fronts. The prosecution has to bear in mind that it has to bring home the guilt.

(Ashok Kumar Dixit Vs. State of U.P.; 2007 (2) ACC 683 Alld.)

Judicial scrutiny of the subjective satisfaction- In Gangster Act, a subjective satisfaction is open to limited judicial scrutiny, therefore, it would be wrong to contend that there is a complete embargo on the powers of Court to look at the sufficiency of the ground from any perspective. [Parvez Vs. State of U.P.; 2021 Crl.J. 4034 (All)(LB)].

There can be prosecution for single offence/FIR/chargesheet- On a fair reading of the definitions of 'Gang' contained in Section 2(b) and 'Gangster' contained in Section 2(c) of the Gangsters Act, a 'Gangster' means a member or leader or organiser of a gang including any person who abets or assists in the activities of a gang enumerated inclause (b) of Section 2, who either acting singly or collectively commits and indulges in any of the anti-social activities mentioned in Section 2(b) can be said to have committed the offence under the Gangsters Act and can be prosecuted and punished for the offence under the Gangsters Act. There is no specific provision under the Gangsters Act, 1986 like the specific provisions under the Maharashtra Control of Organized Crime Act, 1999 and the Gujarat Control of Terrorism and Organized Crime Act, 2015 that while prosecuting an accused under the Gangsters Act, there shall be more than one offence or the FIR/charge sheet. As per the settled position of law, the provisions of the statute are to be read and considered as it is. Therefore, considering the provisions under the Gangsters Act, 1986 as they are, even in case of a single offence/FIR/charge sheet, if it is found that the accused is a member of a 'Gang' and has indulged in any of the anti-social activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Gangsters Act, such as, by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person and he/she can be termed as 'Gangster' within the definition of Section 2(c) of the Act, he/ she can be prosecuted for the offences under the Gangsters Act. Therefore, so far as the Gangsters Act, 1986 is concerned, there can be prosecution against a person even in case of a single offence/FIR/chargesheet for any of the anti-social activities mentioned in Section 2(b) of the Act provided such an anti- social activity is by violence, or threat or show of violence, or intimidation, or coercion or otherwise with the object of disturbing public order or of gaining any undue temporal, pecuniary, material or other advantage for himself or any other person. [Shraddha Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and others; (2022) 17 S.C.R. 622 (Para 10)(635-B-G)].

23. Considering the instant case in the light of the provisions of the Act and relevant Rules, it is evident that the gang chart in this case has been approved summarily without applying its mind as is apparent from the perusal of the gang chart. From the material available on record, it is apparent that the gang-chart was prepared, in which four cases are shown as base cases, which are as case crime Nos.229 of 2019, under Sections 713, 302, 201, 328/34, 411 and 404 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi (ii) Case Crime No.594 of 2019, under Sections 420, 406, 506, 504 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi (iii) case crime No.476 of 2015, under Sections 441, 447, 427, 506 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi (iv) case crime No.482 of 2015, under Sections 302, 120-B/467/468/471/41

9/420 IPC, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi. In case crime No.229 of 2019, missing report regarding the deceased was lodged with the Police Station concerned and after the investigation, story revealed that the deceased had a inclination to get married with the applicant and in order to get riddance of her and to avoid marriage with her she was done away with and her dead body was removed. This case is based on circumstantial evidence and his name came up on the basis of mere suspicion. In another case which is related with case crime No.594 of 2019 is related with the fraudulent withdrawal of money from the account of deceased, in which, applicant is not shown to have actively and fraudulently withdrawn any amount from her account and same was sent into his account or otherwise misappropriated. As from the record, it is clear that these above two case are apparently committed in private and personal capacity and the same do not come within the purview of the gangsterism. In another case i.e. case crime No.476 of 2015 along with case crime No.482 of 2015 have already been considered for the purpose of approval of the gang-chart, which has not been approved by the District Magistrate concerned vide order dated 04.12.2015. Above both the cases have also been included in the gang-chart on the basis of which, the present criminal proceedings have been launched, whereas in case bearing case crime No.482 of 2015, applicant has already been acquitted by the court concerned, has also been made the basis of the impugned FIR., which is against the provision of aforesaid Rules/G.Os./Notification/Communication by the Administrative Executive Authorities. Furthermore there is no specific mention of offences which have been committed for pecuniary, materialistic and temporal or similar benefits or which disturbs the public order as per Rule 13. Furthermore, quick forwarding action has been taken in this case without caring for the compliance of the relevant procedural safeguards. There should be satisfaction recorded to the effect that there is just and legal basis for taking action under the Act and there is satisfactory basis for persuing the case. The satisfaction so recorded should be there by using the mind independently but in the instant case the same is missing.

24. Considering the aforesaid submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties as well as perusal of records, it is evident from the records that at the time of approving the gang-chart, District Magistrate did not apply his mind as no reasons are recorded by him, resultantly, the lodging of FIR under Gangster Act is with malafide intention, in specific violation of procedural safeguards. It is further evident that the approving authority acted mechanically and the whole exercise lacks application of mind on the parts of the authorities concerned. The applicant has fundamental rights to life which include to live with honour and dignity and fundamental right of under Article 21 of the Constitution of India cannot be interferred with lightly. The applicant has been deprived of his liberty by the mechanical excecise/procedure undertaken on the part of the authorities concerned.

25. The procedural compliance in cases of gangster Act is of utmost importance, departure from the due process of law will give chance and provide fodder to the vested interests with singular agenda to spread false narratives. Verily, gangsterism poses an ominious threat to public order. Vile and abhorrent acts of gangsterism do evoke collective societal anger and anguish. While the war against gangsterism must be waged by the State with unwavering resolve but a civil democratic society can ill afford sacrificing the procedural safeguards provided under the law, and which is an integrated facet of the due process of law, at the altar of perceived peril to public order.

"The Siren Song that the 'end justifies the means', and that the procedural safeguards are subservient to the overwhelming need to ensure that the accused is prosecuted and punished, must be muzzled by voice of Rule of Law."

26. For all the reasons recorded above, the court is of the view that at the stage of preparing and approving the gang-chart on the basis of materials placed, the competent Authorities should have satisfied themselves that there is a legal basis and justifiction for taking and persuing action against the accused under the Act of 1986. At the stage of approval of the gang-chart, the approving Authority has to be satisfied that a case for action under the Act of 1986 is made out and that satisfaction should be reflected from the gang chart and other records. But in this case, the competent authorities, unhesitatingly just paid lip service to the legislative mandate and unfortunately had undertaken the whole exercise of preparation and approval of the gang chart as a ritualistic formality without due application of mind. Thus, the initiation and continuation of the entire criminal proceedings is persecution and harassment of the accused, amounting to be sheer abuse of process of court and in order to otherwise ensure the ends of justice is liable to be quashed.

27. In such view of the matter, the entire criminal proceedings emanating from charge-sheet dated 29.06.2021 and cognizance order dated 31.08.2021 in case No.618 of 2021 in relation to Case Crime No.286 of 2020, under Section 2/3 of Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention Act, 1986, Police Station-Nawabad, District-Jhansi, which is pending before the Special Judge (Gangster Act), Court No.3, Jhansi against the applicant-Sanjay Verma is, hereby, quashed.

28. The Application is, accordingly, allowed.

29. A copy of this order be certified to the lower court forthwith.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 133, 133(1), 137, 138 & 482 - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. - challenging the orders passed by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and the Additional District and Sessions Judge, respectively, under Sections 133 and 138 Cr.P.C., alleging procedural irregularities and jurisdictional errors – complaint case – dispute arose from a complaint regarding obstruction of a public way – spot inspection - a conditional order – Revision – impugned order - applicants contended that the Magistrate failed to follow the mandatory procedure under Section 138 Cr.P.C., including giving notice under Section 137 and allowing evidence, and relied improperly on a Lekhpal's report without formal direction or legal examination – opponents argued that the path in question was not a public way and that the matter was a private dispute, making the use of Section 133 Cr.P.C. inappropriate - Despite these objections, the revisional court upheld the Magistrate's order – instant application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. for quashing both orders – court finds that the applicants had admitted the existence of a public way, thereby negating the need for an enquiry under Section 137 Cr.P.C., and the Magistrate's spot inspection confirmed obstruction, and the applicants failed to rebut the factual recitals in the impugned order, which was affirmed by the revisional court – held - proceedings under Section 133 Cr.P.C. are summary in nature and meant to address public nuisances, not private disputes - citing precedents, the Court emphasized that judicial observations are presumed correct unless properly challenged and found no procedural or jurisdictional error warranting interference – consequently, the instant application has no force, accordingly, application is dismissed. 3. Brief facts of the case are to the effect that an application under Section 133 Cr.P.C. was preferred by one Dharmendra Kumar Shukla, which was registered as Case No. 745 of 2022, in which, the Magistrate concerned issued notice to the opposite parties and in response to the same, applicants herein namely Prem Narayan Tiwari and Manoj Kumar Tiwari put in appearance and filed their response on 28.04.2022. The response filed by the applicants are as under:-

"धारा 1:- यह कि श्रीमान उप निरीक्षक थाना गदागंज द्वारा दी गई रिपोर्ट दि० 21-3-2022 बेबुनियाद तथा विधि व्यवस्था के विरुद्ध होने के कारण निरस्त होने योग्य है।

धारा 2:- यह कि थाना गदागंज के द्वारा किसी प्रकार का कोई मौके पर मुआइना नहीं किया गया है प्रथम पक्ष के दबाववश फर्जी हैरान व परेशान करने की नियत से फर्जी रिपोर्ट दिखाकर वाद दायर कर दिया है जो गलत है, निरस्त होने योग्य है।

धारा 3:- यह कि प्रथम पक्ष धर्मेन्द्र कुमार के पिता स्व० श्यामसुन्दर शुक्ला से मुझ द्वितीय पक्ष प्रेम नरायन तिवारी से न्यायालय सिविल जज के यहाँ वाद सन 1997 से चल रहा था जिसमें दि० 15-2-2020 को आदेश मुझ द्वितीय पक्ष के हक में हो गया है इसी रंजिश को लेकर यह दूसरा वाद चलाया गया है।

धारा 4:- यहकि प्रथम पक्ष के पिता द्वारा बाउन्ड्री बनवाई जा रही था जिसमें विवाद होने पर प्रथम पक्ष के पिता स्व० श्यामसुन्दर द्वारा 17 फिट का रास्ता छोड़ा गया था सुलहनामा की छायाप्रति संलग्न कर रहे हैं।

धारा 5- यह कि मौके पर जो रास्ता है उसमें कोई अवरोध द्वितीय पक्ष द्वारा नहीं किया गया है अतः रास्ता नाली है जिसको मौके पर देखा जा सकता है।

धारा 6:- यह कि बरसात के कारण गलियारा ऊंचा नीचा हो जाता है इस लिए रास्ते में गड्ढों का बराबर करवाया है द्वितीय पक्ष कोई अवरोध रास्ते में नहीं किया गया है चूंकि द्वितीय पक्ष विकलांग है इसलिए गड्ढा होने से उसे दिक्कत होती है।

धारा 7:- यह कि प्रथम पक्ष द्वारा सुलहनामा होने के बावजूद भी रास्ते के बगल में ईंटा गिट्टी लगाकर रास्ता सकरा किया गया है वह स्वयं ही दोषी है।

धारा 8-यह कि प्रथम पक्ष ने व्यक्तिगत रूप से द्वितीय पक्ष गलत दोषारोपण किया है जो कतई माफी योग्य नहीं है।

धारा 9:-यह कि द्वितीय पक्ष निर्दोष है थाना गदागंज की रिपोर्ट गलत-तथ्यों पर आधारित है द्वितीय पक्ष ने कोई अवरोध नहीं किया है।

अतः श्रीमान् जी से प्रार्थना है कि श्रीमान जी स्वयं मौका मुआइना करके वाद समाप्त करने तथा प्रथम पक्ष के विरुद्ध विधिक कार्यवाही करने की कृपा करें।"

4. From the above quoted portion of the response dated 28.04.2022 filed by the applicants, it is apparent that admittedly the disputed pertains to 'public way' and that the applicants prayed for spot inspection by the concerned Magistrate.

5. From the undisputed orders particularly the orders passed by the Magistrate concerned on 28.04.2022 and 30.04.2022, it appears that Magistrate concerned visited the spot, however, from the record, it appears that the spot memo/inspection report was not prepared on 30.04.2022.

6. It also appears from the record that a report dated 02.05.2022 was submitted by the Lekhpal concerned and the case was fixed for the arguments on 02.05.2022 and thereafter again on 04.05.2022 and thereafter the matter was heard on 05.05.2022 and final order was pronounced on 07.05.2022, impugned herein. The relevant portion of the impugned order dated 07.05.2022 reads as under:-

"उपरोक्त परिप्रेक्ष्य में क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल द्वारा प्रकरण में आख्या दिनांक 02.05.2022 प्रेषित की गयी है, जिसमें उल्लिखित किया गया है कि ग्राम बरारा बुजुर्ग आबादी के अन्तर्गत धर्मेन्द्र शुक्ल का मकान स्थित है। उक्त मकान के सहन की सीध में सम्पर्क मार्ग, आगे बने हुए आर०सी०सी० सड़क तक जाता है। प्रार्थी के मकान के उत्तर-पश्चिम में प्रतिपक्षी प्रेमनरायन तिवारी पुत्र चन्द्रदेव द्वारा अपने मकान के सहन के सामने बने हुए सम्पर्क मार्ग में मिट्टी डालकर ऊँचा कर दिया गया है जिससे प्रार्थी धर्मेन्द्र शुक्ल द्वारा आपत्ति प्रस्तुत की गयी है। प्रार्थी का कहना है कि उसके सीध में जो आगे आर०सी०सी० मार्ग बना हुआ है वह नीचा है वहाँ तक पहुंचने के लिए प्रार्थी द्वारा पूर्व से ही समतलीकरण करते हुए मिट्टी डाली गयी थी। अब वहाँ तक पहुंचने में सम्पर्क मार्ग ऊँचा नीचा हो रहा है जिससे चार पहिया वाहन आदि निकलने में भविष्य में दिक्कत हो सकती है। इस प्रकार स्थलीय निरीक्षण में विदित होता है कि प्रतिपक्षी द्वारा रस्ते में गिट्टी डालकर ऊँचा करना कोई औचित्यपूर्ण नहीं है। थानाध्यक्ष गदागंज द्वारा भी अपनी आख्या में प्रश्नगत रास्ते को मिट्टी डालकर अवरोध उत्पन्न करने का उल्लेख किये जाने संबंधी रिपोर्ट प्रेषित की गयी है, जिसके क्रम में 113(1) द०प्र०सं० की नोटिस निर्गत की गयी है। मौके का मेरे द्वारा भी निरीक्षण किया गया। निरीक्षण में उपरोक्त सम्पर्क मार्ग में मिट्टी डालकर काफी ऊँचा कर दिया गया है, जिससे वाहनों के आवागमन में बाधा उत्पन्न हो गयी है।

श्री प्रेमनरायन तिवारी आदि के विरूद्ध दंण्ड प्रकिया संहिता की धारा 133(1) के अन्तर्गत पारित आदेश दिनांक 08.04.2022 को अन्तिम किया जाता है और विपक्षी श्री प्रेमनरायण तिवारी आदि को निर्देशित किया जाता है कि उपरोक्त रास्ते में अनाधिकृत रूप से मिट्टी डालकर किये गये अवरोध को हटा दें। ऐसा न करने पर वे धारा 188 भारतीय दण्ड संहिता के अन्तर्गत दण्डनीय अपराध के लिए दोषी होंगे। इस आदेश की प्रतिलिपि थानाध्यक्ष गदागंज जनपद रायबरेली को इस निर्देश के साथ प्रेषित की जाय कि दिनांक 14.05.2022 तक विपक्षी द्वारा इस आदेश का अनुपालन न किये जाने की दशा में उक्त सार्वजनिक अपदूषण को हटवाकर अनुपालन आख्या तथा अपदूषण हटाने में हुए व्यय के विवरण के साथ इस न्यायालय में दिनांक 18.05.2022 को प्रस्तुत करें।"

7. A perusal of impugned order dated 07.05.2022 indicates that the same is based upon the report of Lekhpal dated 02.05.2022 as also the actual position/aspect of the place in dispute observed by the Magistrate concerned himself while making inspection and the Magistrate after taking note of the same observed that the applicants have obstructed the 'public way' and thereafter, passed the order dated 07.05.2022 directing the applicants to remove the obstructions.

8. The fact that the Magistrate concerned visited the spot has not been refuted by the applicants.

9. Being aggrieved by the order dated 07.05.2022, the applicants preferred the Criminal Revision No. 129 of 2022. A perusal of memo of revision indicates that the order dated 07.05.2022 was assailed before the District and Sessions Judge, Raebareli on the following grounds:-

"(a) That the impugned order dated 07-05-2022 passed by the learned lower court being against the law and facts and not sustainable in the eye of law and liable to be quashed.

(b) That after passing the conditional order dated 08-04-2022 under section 133(1) Cr.P.C. the learned lower court not adopted the proceeding under section 138 Cr.P.C. and passed the impugned order without adopting the procedure under section 138 Cr.P.C. hence the impugned order is bad in law.

(c) That after passing the conditional order and after filing the objection by the revisionists neither the date for taking evidence under section 138 Cr.P.C. was fixed before the learned lower court nor any opportunity of evidence was given by the learned lower court to the parties concerned, violating the procedure laid down under section 138 Cr.P.C. in arbitrary manner. Hence the impugned order dated 07-05-2022 is not sustainable in the eye of law and liable to be quashed.

(d) That needless to say here that under section 133(1) Cr.P.C., after passing the conditional order section 133(1) Cr.P.C., the further procedure under section 138 Cr.P.C. must be followed by the court concerned before passing any final order but in this case the learned lower court was very much hurried to pass the final order in favour of respondent number 1 and the learned lower court passed the impugned order without followed the law of procedure under section 138 Cr.P.C. hence impugned order is not sustainable in the eye of law as passed and liable to be quashed.

(e) That the impugned order has been passed by the learned lower court on the basis of Lekhpal report summoned after passing the conditional order though it is prejudice and one sided, inspite of this fact, it do not disclose any encroachment on the spot, but the report above have not been examined under the law, which would not be taken as evidence by the learned lower court, hence the learned lower court has committed manifest error by passing the impugned order on basis of irreliable in evidence inexamined the reports above, hence the impugned order is bad in law.

(f) That the learned lower court neither perused nor considered the objections and arguments adduced by revisionists, hence impugned order is bad in law.

(g) That by passing the impugned order the learned lower court has committed the jurisdictional error and material irregularity.

(h) That the learned lower court has failed to exercise its jurisdiction so vested in it under the law by passing the impugned order."

10. The revision filed by the applicants was dismissed by the revisional court on 05.09.2023 with the following observations:-

"उपरोक्त प्रावधानों के परिशीलन से यह स्पष्ट है कि यदि धारा 133 सी०आर०पी०सी० के अन्तर्गत कोई प्रार्थनापत्र प्रस्तुत किया जाता है, तो मजिस्ट्रेट ऐसे साक्ष्य लेने पर जैसा वह ठीक समझे ऐसी बाधा या न्यूसेंस पैदा करने वाले व्यक्ति से यह अपेक्षा करते हुए कि सशर्त आदेश दे सकता है कि वह नियत समय के भीतर ऐसी बाधा या न्यूसेंस को हटा दे अथवा नियत तिथि पर उपस्थित होकर कारण दर्शित करें कि उस आदेश को अंतिम क्यों न कर दिया जाये। धारा 135 दं०प्र०स० ऐसे सशक्त आदेश के सम्बन्ध में नोटिस जारी करने या नियत तिथि को मजिस्ट्रेट के समक्ष उपस्थित होकर कारण दर्शित करने से सम्बन्धित है। यदि ऐसा व्यक्ति मजिस्ट्रेट के समक्ष उपस्थित होता है और वह प्रश्नगत स्थान के सम्बन्ध में लोकाधिकार के अस्तित्व से इंकार करता है, तो मजिस्ट्रेट उसकी जांच करेगा। ऐसी जांच में यदि मजिस्ट्रेट को कोई विश्वसनीय साक्ष्य मिलता है तो वह कार्यवाही को रोक देगा, परन्तु यदि कोई साक्ष्य नहीं मिलता है तो मजिस्ट्रेट के लिए यह आवश्यक है कि धारा 138 के अनुसार मामले में उसप्रकार साक्ष्य ले जैसे सम्मन मामले में लिया जाता है। धारा 139 मजिस्ट्रेट को धारा 137 व 138 के अधीन जांच के प्रयोजनों के लिए स्थानीय अन्वेषण के लिए निर्देशित करने एवं किसी विशेषज्ञ को तलब करने की शक्ति प्रदान करती है।

नरायन तिवारी एवं मनोज कुमार तिवारी के विरूद्ध धारा 133 की उपधारा (1) के अन्तर्गत सशक्त आदेश पारित किया गया तथा उन्हें सार्वजनिक रास्ते में किये गये अवरोध को तुरन्त हटाने या दिनांक 16.04.2022 को उस न्यायालय में स्वयं अथवा अधिवक्ता के माध्यम से उपस्थित होकर कारण दर्शित करने हेतु आदेशित किया गया। दिनांक 28.04.2022 को निगरानीकर्तागण प्रेम नरायन तिवारी एवं मनोज कुमार तिवारी द्वारा उपरोक्त वाद में बयान तहरीरी प्रस्तुत की गयी एवं यह कथन किया गया कि प्रथम पक्ष धर्मेन्द्र कुमार के पिता से द्वितीय पक्ष से सिविल जज के यहां वाद चल रहा है जिसमें दिनांक 15.02.2020 को द्वितीय पक्ष के हक में आदेश हो गया। प्रथम पक्ष के पिता द्वारा बाउण्ड्री बनवायी जा रही थी जिसमें विवाद होने पर प्रथम पक्ष के पिता द्वारा 17 फिट का रास्ता छोड़ा गया था मौके पर जो रास्ता है उसमें कोई अवरोध द्वितीय पक्ष द्वारा नहीं किया गया है। आम रास्ता खाली है। जिसको मौके पर देखा जा सकता है। बरसात के कारण गलियारा ऊंचा-नीचा हो जाता है इसलिए रास्ते में गड्ढ़ों को बराबर करवाया है। विपक्षी/निगरानीकर्तागण द्वारा प्रस्तुत बयान तहरीरी उपरोक्त के अवलोकन से यह स्पष्ट होता है कि इनके द्वारा विवादित भूमि का आम रास्ता होने के तथ्य से इंकार नहीं किया गया था तथा मात्र यह कथन किया गया था कि आम रास्ता खाली है एवं बरसात के कारण भूमि को ऊंचा-नीचा हो जाने के कारण गड्डों को बराबर करवाया गया है। विपक्षी/निगरानीकर्तागण द्वारा अपने बयान तहरीरी में मजिस्ट्रेट से स्वयं मौका मुआइना करके वाद समाप्त करने का भी कथन किया गया था। विद्वान मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा दिनांक 20.04.2022 को यह आदेश किया गया कि स्थलीय निरीक्षण हेतु उभयपक्ष दिनांक 30.04.2022 को दो बजे अपरान्ह उपस्थित रहे। दिनांक 30.04.2022 को उभयपक्ष की उपस्थिति में स्थलीय निरीक्षण किया गया। मामले में क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल की आख्या भी प्रस्तुत की गयी है, जो पत्रावली पर संलग्न है। लेखपाल की आख्या निम्नवत हैः-

"ग्राम बरारा बुजुर्ग आबादी के अन्तर्गत प्रार्थी धर्मन्द्र शुक्ला का माकान स्थित पाया गया, उक्त माकान के सहन की सीधा में सम्पर्क मार्ग, आगे बने हुए आर०सी०सी० सड़क तक जाता है। प्रार्थी के माकान के उत्तर पश्चिम में प्रतिपक्षी प्रेम नरायन तिवारी पुत्र चन्द्रदेव द्वारा अपने मकान के सहन के सामने बने हुए सम्पर्क मार्ग में मिट्टी डालकर ऊंचा कर दिया गया है जिससे प्रार्थी धर्मेन्द्र शुक्ला द्वारा आपत्ति प्रस्तुत की गयी है। प्रार्थी का कहना है कि उसके सीध में जो आगे आर०सी०सी० मार्ग बना हुआ है वह नीचा है वहां तक पहुंचने के लिए प्रार्थी द्वारा पूर्व से ही समतलीकरण करते हुए मिट्टी डाली गयी

विद्वान मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा प्रार्थी धर्मेन्द्र कुमार शुक्ला प्रथम पक्ष के प्रार्थनापत्र तथा थानाध्यक्ष गदागंज की रिपोर्ट के आधार पर प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में विपक्षी को सशर्त आदेश जारी कर कारण बताने हेतु निर्देशित किया गया था, जिसमे अपनी बयान तहरीरी में एवं विपक्षी/निगरानीकर्तागण ने वादग्रस्त भूमि को आम रास्ता होना स्वीकार किया था। ऐसी दशा में यह प्रश्न विवादित नहीं रह जाता कि क्या विवादित स्थल आम रास्ता है अथवा नहीं चूंकि स्वयं विपक्षी ने उपरोक्त भूमि को आम रास्ता होना स्वीकार किया है, अतः अब मजिस्ट्रेट को इस तथ्य की जांच करनी थी कि क्या उपरोक्त भूमि पर विपक्षी / निगरानीकर्तागण द्वारा कोई अवरोध उत्पन्न किया गया अथवा नहीं, इस सम्बन्ध में मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा पारित आदेश एवं पत्रावली के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है कि मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा उभयपक्ष की उपस्थिति में किये गये स्थलीय निरीक्षण एवं क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल की रिपोर्ट के आधार पर प्रश्नगत आदेश दिनांक 18.05.2022 पारित किया गया था। क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल की आख्या एवं विपक्षी द्वारा की गयी स्वीकृति से संतुष्ट होने पर कि प्रश्नगत सार्वजनिक रास्ते की भूमि पर विपक्षी द्वारा मिट्टी डालकर अवरोध उत्पन्न किया गया है, विद्वान मजिस्ट्रेट द्वारा दिनांक 18.05.2022 को अन्तिम आदेश पारित किया गया जो पूर्णतः विधिक है। प्रश्नगत आदेश में कोई विधिक त्रुटि नहीं है और न ही विद्वान अवर न्यायालय द्वारा प्रश्नगत आदेश पारित करने में अपने क्षेत्राधिकार का अतिक्रमण किया गया है।

अतः उक्त समस्त विश्लेषण से यह स्पष्ट है कि विद्वान अवर न्यायालय द्वारा पारित प्रश्नगत आदेश में कोई अवैधानिकता, अनियमितता या विधिक त्रुटि नहीं है न ही उसमें कोई विकृति दर्शित होती है। प्रश्नगत आदेश पूर्णतः विधिक व न्यायसंगत है, अतः पुष्ट किये जाने योग्य है। निगरानी बलहीन होने के कारण निरस्त होने योग्य है।

प्रस्तुत दाण्डिक निगरानी निरस्त की जाती है। अवर न्यायालय द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांकित 07.05.2022 पुष्ट किया जाता है।

अवर न्यायालय की पत्रावली इस आदेश की प्रति के साथ अविलम्ब प्रति प्रेषित की जाये।"

11. Assailing the impugned orders dated 07.05.2022 and 05.09.2023, the applicants' counsel submitted as under:-

(i) The report as required under Section 310 Cr.P.C. was not prepared by the Magistrate concerned.

(ii) There is no order/direction to the Lekhpal concerned to submit the report and despite this, the Lekhpal submitted a report before the Magistrate concerned and accordingly, this report ought not to have been considered while passing the impugned orders.

(iii) The alleged way is not a public way, as such, use of Section 133 Cr.P.C. by the complainant was nothing but an abuse of process of law.

(iv) A private dispute cannot be settled by way of preferring an application under Section 133 Cr.P.C.

(v) Notice as required under Section 137 was not given by the Magistrate concerned to the applicants (alleged encroachers) and as such, the impugned orders are unsustainable in the eye of law. In this regard, reliance has been placed on the judgment dated 03.12.2012 passed by this Court in APPLICATION U/S 482 No. 40888 of 2012 (Arun Kumar And Another vs. State of U.P. And Others), relevant portion of which is extracted hereunder:-

"The learned counsel for the applicant submitted that when the applicant had pleaded that the land in suit is not a public way on spot, the learned Executive Magistrate was bound to decide that question before holding the proceeding under section 138 CrPC. In this connection, the learned counsel for the applicant placed reliance on the provisions of section 137 CrPC, which provides:

"137. Procedure where existence of public right is denied.

(1) Where an order is made under section 133 for the purpose of preventing obstruction, nuisance or danger to the public in the use of any way, river, channel or place, the Magistrate shall, on the appearance before him of the person against whom the order was made, question him as to whether he denies the existence of any public right in respect of the way, river, channel or place, and if he does so, the Magistrate shall, before proceeding under section 138, inquire into the matter.

2. If in such inquiry the Magistrate finds that there is any reliable evidence in support of such denial, he shall stay the proceedings until the matter of the existence of such right has been decided by a competent court; and if he finds that there is no such evidence, he shall proceed as laid down in section 138.

3. A person who has, on being questioned by the Magistrate under sub-section (1), failed to deny the existence of a public right of the nature therein referred to, or who, having made such denial, has failed to adduce reliable evidence in support thereof, shall not in the subsequent proceedings be permitted to make any such denial."

A perusal of the aforesaid provision reveals that if the person against whom the order under section 133 CrPC has been made, appears before the Executive Magistrate, the Executive Magistrate is bound to question him as to whether he denies the existence of any public right in respect of the subject matter of the case and if he denies existence of any such right, the proper course for the Executive Magistrate is to inquire into that matter before holding a proceeding under section 138 CrPC. In other words, if the person against whom an order under section 133 has been made, denies the existence of a public right in respect of the subject matter of the case, the Executive Magistrate has to hold an inquiry to find out whether or not there is any reliable evidence in support of such denial. If there is reliable evidence in support of the denial, the Magistrate has to stay the proceedings of the case until the matter of existence of the public right has been decided by the competent Court. The Executive Magistrate has jurisdiction to proceed under section 138 CrPC, only when there is no reliable evidence to show that the alleged right is a public right or there is no denial of existence of any public right. It may also be mentioned that if the person concerned fails to deny the existence of public right or fails to adduce reliable evidence in support of such right, he will not be permitted to make any such denial in any subsequent proceeding. In view of the legal position as emerged from the provisions of section 137 CrPC, the proper course for the Executive Magistrate was to hold an inquiry to find out whether or not there is reliable evidence in support of the plea that there exists no public way on the disputed land, specially when the applicant had specifically denied the existence of such right."

12. Opposing the present application, Dr. L.P. Mishra, learned Senior Member of Bar assisted by Sri Rakesh Chandra Tewari, submitted as under:-

(i) It is an admission of the applicants that the way in dispute is a 'public way' and the admission is best piece of evidence as held in the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court passed in the case of Narayan Bhagwantrao Gosavi Balajiwale v. Gopal Vinayak Gosavi, 1959 SCC OnLine SC 54 : (1960) 1 SCR 773 : AIR 1960 SC 100 and accordingly, Magistrate has not committed any illegality in passing the impugned order dated 07.05.2022 affirmed vide order impugned dated 05.09.2023.

(ii) Undisputedly, the Magistrate himself visited the spot and in the order dated 07.05.2022, the Magistrate himself observed that encroachment exits on the way and as such even if the report of Lekhpal is ignored the undisputed fact would be that 'public way' has been obstructed by the applicants.

(iii) It is settled position of law that if the opposite party admits the existence of public right, the Magistrate is not required to hold any inquiry rather he may straightaway proceed under Section 138 of the Code to pass the final order and as the applicants have admitted the existence of 'public way' before the SDM by filing response dated 28.04.2022, the SDM was not required to make any inquiry under Section 137. Under the law the further inquiry is only with regard to ascertain the fact as to whether the opposite party has encroached on the 'public way' or not. The SDM has proceeded correctly in the procedure and the Revisional Court also records its satisfaction. In this regard, reliance has been placed on the judgment passed in the case of Shri Thaneswar Bora Vs. Shri Kumud Sharmah, 1986(2) Gauhati Law Reports 161.

(iv) The Parliament has provided a specific chapter containing summary procedure in the matter of Maintenance of public order and Tranquility (From Section 133 to 143) of Cr.P.C. which is a complete code in regard to the said issue and thus, the other provisions of the Code pertaining to inquiry and trial are not applicable in the subject matter. On this aspect, reliance has been placed on the judgment passed in the case of Shri Thaneswar Bora (supra) and judgment dated 03.03.2017 passed in 482 petition No.956 of 2002 (Ramvriksha Vs. State of U.P).

(v) The judgment relied upon by the applicant namely Arun Kumar v state of up dated 03.12.2012 passed in 482 petition No. 40888 of 2012 is not applicable as it pertains to the fact where 'public way' was denied.

(vi) The magistrate is not required to ask the applicant about the fact that he denies the existence of the 'public way' or not where written reply is filed admitting the existence of 'public way'. On this aspect, reliance has been placed on the judgment dated 18.09.1992 passed by Bombay High Court in the case of ALAX Fernandes v state and others.

13. Considered the aforesaid and perused the record.

14. In order to decide the present application, this Court finds it appropriate to refer some authorities, in addition to the authorities referred above, wherein the scope of relevant provision of Cr.P.C. i.e. Section 133 to 143 have been taken note of.

15. In the case of Raghubar Dutt v. Suresh Chandra, 1987 ACR 566, this Court has discussed the scope of Section-137 of Cr.P.C. and observed as follows:-

"5. A bare reading of Section 137 would indicate that the provisions therein are to prevent the Magistrate from arrogating himself the power of civil court. Further the Magistrate need not hold an elaborate enquiry regarding the rights of the parties. The ambit of the enquiry is to find out if there is some prima facie reliable evidence in support of the denial of public right. The Magistrate is not called upon to weigh the evidence in order to determine the rights and title or truth of the denial. But he has just to be satisfied as to whether there is some evidence which could indicate prima facie that it was possible for a competent court to place reliance upon the same. It does not obviously mean that evidence of such a character would definitely establish title of the land. Otherwise in that case the legislature would not have used the words 'just reliable evidence', rather the words used would have been that the Magistrate would decide on the basis of evidence being led as to whether the person against whom the said order has been passed, has a right in the land to create unlawful obstruction in the public way. The language of Section 137(2) of the Code is couched in such a way that the reliable evidence would depend upon the circumstances of each case. To put it differently, it only connotes where the evidence was such that if unrebutted, it would prove the non-existence of public right as alleged by the person against whom conditional order was passed See Lala Bissoomal v. State, 1957 AWR 551, T.N. Sudhakaran v. Dr. L.M. George, 1977 Cri LJ 542 and Jaswant Singh v. Jagir Singh, 1971 SCC OnLine P&H 217 : 1972 Cri LJ 792. Further the legislature did not use the word 'evidence' which definitely establishes the right to claim. In other words, reliable evidence can be taken to be a form of evidence which is not the basis of unreliable or forged evidence. The duty of a Magistrate is merely to see whether the evidence in support of denial of public right is reliable.

6. In the instant case it is better to refer to the evidence led by the opposite parties to prove the denial of public way or the unlawful obstruction created. It was alleged by the opposite parties that plot No. 394 did not contain public way and there was no such entry like public way in plot No. 394 in revenue papers. Similarly in Khatauni for 1387 to 1392F an area of 8 biswa of plot No. 394 was entered as Goth and there was no mention about any public way or Rasta. Similarly extract of Khasra for the years 1374 to 1379 F also mentions the area of 8 biswa of plot No. 3 94A as Goth. There was no mention of any public way or Rasta. It was for the applicant to move an application Under Section 133 to explain as to how this entry of Goth was converted into Rasta. This was the question pertaining to right and title. The aforesaid extracts of Khasra and Khatauni were certainly reliable evidence within the meaning of Section 137(2) of the Code. On the basis of such evidence the Magistrate ought to have stayed the proceedings until the matter of existence of such right of public way was decided by a competent court. The Sessions Judge has correctly allowed the revision by the impugned order."

16. In Wali Uddin v. State of U.P., 1988 (12) ACR 1, this Court has elaborated the language of Section-137(1) of Cr.P.C. and concluded in following terms:-

"23. It is also to be noticed that under Section 137(1) the Legislature has used the word "that after the denial of such right by opposite party the Magistrate shall inquire into the matter" and not that the Magistrate shall adjudicate upon or decide the matter or controversy between the parties. The word 'inquire', means eager, to acquire information. The word 'inquire', according to Shorter Oxford English Dictionary means to search into, to seek knowledge, to make inquisition, to make investigation, to seek information by questioning, to seek or to try to find out. The word reliable evidence having been used and the Magistrate having been directed to inquire into the matter and not to decide or adjudicate upon, it is clear that the person denying the public right has to put forward a just and bonafide claim. In case the Magistrate finds that there is some reliable evidence and certainly not a conclusive evidence in support of the denial of any public right to get the matter decided by a competent Court. I am however, of the view that the Section does not make it clear as to who is the person as to whether first party or the second party, who has to approach the Civil Court. One thing more may be clarified that in case the Magistrate finds that there is no such reliable evidence in that event he shall proceed in view of the provisions of Section 138 of the Code. In the instant case what has been done is entirely different. Even though the Magistrate confirmed the conditional order but the revision has been disposed of by the learned Additional Sessions Judge in total disregard of the provisions of Section 133 read with Section 137 of the Code. The learned Sessions Judge was exercising the same jurisdiction as was to be exercised by the learned Magistrate. He must have also proceeded to decide the case just with a view to make an enquiry as to whether there was some reliable evidence led by the opposite party No. 2 who denied the existence of such right and in case he found that there was reliable evidence his jurisdiction ceases and it was for the civil Court to decide the same."

17. The Calcutta High Court in the case of Md. Basar Ali Molla v. State of West Bengal, 2006 SCC OnLine Cal 444 has considered the aspect of emergency attached with the dispute regarding public nuisance and has held that it does not apply to private nuisance and private dispute and it is never intended to settle a private dispute. The relevant paragraphs of Md. Basar Ali Molla's case (supra) are being reproduced herein below:-

"7. Section 133 Cr. PC relates to passing of order for removal of public nuisance in case of emergency. It does not apply to private nuisance and private dispute and it is never intended to settle a private dispute.

8. It has been laid down in the case reported in 1957 SCC OnLine MP 149 : AIR 1958 MP 350 that Chapter X of the Code of Criminal Procedure deals with "Public Nuisances" and not with private nuisances. The remedy for the latter is the civil suit although what constitutes nuisance may be common to both classes. Section 133 Cr. PC provides a speedy and summary remedy in case of urgency where danger to public interest or public health is concerned. In all other cases the party should be referred to the remedy under the ordinary law.

9. Reference may also be made in the case reported in 1963 SCC OnLine Ker 160 : AIR 1964 Ker 252 where it has been held that Section 133 Cr. PC can be used only where there has been an invasion of public rights. The case reported in 1957 SCC OnLine Pat 135 : AIR 1958 Pat 210 is also relevant in this case' where it has been held that Section 133 Cr. PC cannot be used as a short cut to achieve what one would like to achieve in a Civil Court. The whole object of Section 133 Cr. PC is that the public should not suffer and that such dangers or obstructions caused by the members of the public should be removed at the earliest possible moment.

10. In that case a decision of Allahabad High Court reported in Farzand Ali v. Hakim Ali, 1914 SCC OnLine All 261 was referred. In that case it was held now it is certainly expedient that in all proceedings initiated under Section 133 of the Code of Criminal Procedure the Magistrate should bear in mind that he is supposed to be acting purely in the interests of the public and should be on his guard against tendency to use this section as substitute for litigation in the Civil Courts in order to the settlement of a private dispute.

11. In the case reported in 1942 SCC OnLine All 103 : AIR 1943 All 19 it has been stated that the proceedings under Section 133 Cr. PC is not intended to settle private dispute between two members of the public.

12. Reference can also be made in the case reported in Tejmal Punamchand Burad v. State of Maharashtra, 1991 SCC OnLine Bom 679 where it has been held that Chapter XB of Criminal Procedure Code deals with "public nuisances" and provides a speedy and summary method for dealing with them, in cases of great emergency and where there is imminent danger to the public interest.

13. In the instant case there are no dependable materials to hold that the disputed pathway was being used by the public at large but it appears that the same was used by the students and teachers of Sisu Siksha Kendra from 2003 to last week of February, 2005 and the same was not being used from the last week of February, 2005 as existence from the said pathway was destroyed and the same merged with the fishery. So, it does not appear that the public at large is being affected and there was any obstruction of public way or public way has been destroyed and the same requires repair. So, no case of sufferance of public is made out and it does not appear that the Magistrate had to act purely in the interest of the public. There is no invasion of public right. If it assumed that obstruction is caused to the use of the pathway in question by the students, teachers and guardians of students of Sisu Siksha Kendra by the petitioners then it is an obstruction not to the public at large but to a handful of persons and remedy for said obstruction cannot be had by resorting to provision of Section 133 Cr.PC. If there is any nuisance the same is purely a private nuisance for which Civil Court may be approached for appropriate remedy according to law. There is room for contention that Section 133 Cr.PC also does not contemplate any order for repairing of road which has been abolished and also any order in connection with such repair.

14. In view of my above discussions I hold that both the impugned orders dated 17.1.2006 and 7.7.2006 cannot stand and the same are liable to be set aside. In the result, the instant applications succeed and the same are allowed. The impugned orders passed by the learned Executive Magistrate are hereby set aside. I make no order as to costs."

The crux of above quoted statutory law and the precedents is that the authority under section 133 of Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the executive magistrate, when any unlawful obstruction or nuisance is alleged on any public place or on any way, which is or may be lawfully used by the public, as is the controversy in the present case. However, to ascertain the justification of such allegation, the executive magistrate is required to see as to whether the person against whom the show cause has been issued under Section 133(1) of Cr.P.C. has placed "any reliable evidence" in denial of such allegation or not. While doing so, the executive magistrate is not required to ask for any conclusive evidence and he has to consider the evidence brought on record by the person denying existence of unlawful obstruction or nuisance with an understanding as to whether such evidence can be said to be reliable enough. If that is so, the executive magistrate should not proceed further in the matter and should relegate the parties to the competent civil court for determination of their rights. Even otherwise, the entry in government record regarding the land or passage in question has a direct bearing upon the claim of existence of "any public place" or "any way, which is or may be lawfully used by the public". When the person denying existence of unlawful obstruction or nuisance comes with an explanation that the land or passage in question is actually the land purchased by him through registered sale-deed and such land is not entered in the revenue or municipal record as "public place or public way or government/municipal land", the executive magistrate should not casually brush aside such counter claim or explanation without giving any convincing reason in that regard and proceed only on the basis of some unsubstantiated statements of a few persons.

18. The proceedings under section 133 of Cr.P.C. are summary in nature and are meant for the cases of imminent danger to the public tranquility and peace and the same should not be used or rather misused to scuttle the valuable right of owner of property and that is why, the legislature has in its wisdom used the words "any reliable evidence" in support of such denial, in the event and in case of which he shall stay the proceedings until the matter of the existence of such right has been decided by a competent Court as provided under Section 137(2) of Cr.P.C., which is certainly having a different import and connotation than the word 'conclusive evidence'. This language used by the legislature has a limiting influence and works as a guideline while exercising authority under section 133 of Cr.P.C.

19. Upon due consideration of the aforesaid facts of the case and the law enunciated above, this Court is of the view that in the instant application, no interference is required and the same is liable to be denied. It is for the following reasons:-

(i) In para 5 of the response dated 28.04.2022, the applicants have admitted existence of 'public way'. However, they denied the allegation of creating obstruction over the same.

(ii) In view of admission of existence of 'public way', to the view of this Court, the Magistrate was not under obligation to hold an enquiry as required under Section 137 Cr.P.C. Thus, the the reliance placed on the judgment passed in the case of Arun Kumar (supra), wherein, the existence of public way was refuted, is misplaced.

(iii) The fact that the Magistrate visited the spot is not in dispute and as per his observation, while making spot inspection, the 'public way' in issue (existence of which is admitted) was found obstructed and recitals in this regard in the impugned order dated 07.05.2022 have not been refuted by the applicants in the memo of revision and accordingly, there would be no justification for disbelieving the said recitals in the impugned order dated 07.05.2022 passed in a summary proceeding under Section 133 Cr.P.C. affirmed vide impugned order dated 05.09.2023, even on the ground that no report as per Section 310 of Cr.P.C. was prepared by the Magistrate.

20. It would be apt to note that in the judgment passed in the case of State of Maharashtra v. Admane Anita Moti, (1994) 6 SCC 109, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that "It is well established that the factual recitals or observations made in a judgment or order are taken to be correct unless rebutted. The burden to rebut it is on the person who challenges it. One of the methods to rebut such observation is to file the affidavit of the person who was present in the Court and to produce such material which may satisfy the Court that the recital in the judgment crept in inadvertently or it was erroneous".

21. Further, in the case of Bhagwati Prasad v. Delhi State Mineral Development Corpn., (1990) 1 SCC 361, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that "It is now settled law that the statement of facts recorded by a court or quasi-judicial tribunal in its proceedings as regards the matters which transpired during the hearing before it would not be permitted to be assailed as incorrect unless steps are taken before the same forum. It may be open to a party to bring such statement to the notice of the court/tribunal and to have it deleted or amended. It is not, therefore, open to the parties or the counsel to say that the proceedings recorded by the Tribunal are incorrect".

22. Thus, for the reasons aforesaid, ignoring the report of Lekhpal dated 02.05.2022, this Court is of the view that on account of obstruction created by the applicants over 'public way' in dispute, the Magistrate passed the order dated 07.05.2022 affirmed vide order dated 05.09.2023 and as such, the impugned orders dated 07.05.2022 and 05.09.2023 are not liable to be interfered with.

23. For the reasons aforesaid, the instant application has no force. It is accordingly dismissed.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 200 & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 415 & 420 - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. - for quashing of criminal proceedings - Complaint case - applicant pleaded that the dispute stemmed from a long-standing family conflict over trust property originally managed by their grandfather - Despite prior civil suits and a compromise in a Civil Suit, the opposite party later filed a criminal complaint case alleging breach of that compromise - court observed that, fraudulent or dishonest inducement is an essential ingredient of the offence under section 415 IPC and in the present case element of cheating is missing as there is allegation of violation of agreement - held - no case is made out under section 420 IPC is made out against the applicant and a dispute of purely civil nature between the parties has been converted into criminal prosecution of the applicant at the behest of opposite party no. 2, therefore, the impugned criminal proceedings is quashed – hence, the applicant stands allowed.

3. Archana Rana Vs St. of U.P. & anr., (2021) volume 3 SCC 751,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anshul Kumar Singhal, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Udai Bhan, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the entire proceedings against the applicant in Complaint Case No. 2548, under Section 420 I.P.C., P.S. Hathras Gate, district-Hathras, pending in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hathras, as well as summoning order dated 19.12.2017.

3. The contention of learned counsel for the applicant is that applicant and opposite party no. 2 are the grandsons of late Netram Sharma, who during his lifetime executed a registered trust deed on 01.01.1945 and the father of the applicant was nominated as Manager of the aforesaid trust, thereafter a registered will deed dated 20.11.1974 was executed by late Netram Sharma, by which all managerial rights of the aforesaid trust was given to Sri Damodar Das (father of the applicant). It was further provided in the aforesaid will deed that heirs of Damodar Das will continue to manage the affairs of the trust. Subsequently, the opposite party no. 2 and his brother started putting their claim over the property of trust, denying the trust deed, as well as will dated 20.11.1974. After the death of Damodar Das, father of opposite party no. 2 has filed a suit bearing Original

Suit no. 48 of 1983 for declaration of ownership regarding trust property. Subsequently, this suit was disposed of on the basis of compromise entered into between the parties regarding trust property. Subsequently, when the the opposite party no. 2 had started interfering the applicant in the enjoyment of the property in question, then the applicant has filed Original Suit No. 201 of 2005 for permanent injunction and declaration. The said suit was decreed by order dated 19.02.2010, in which the applicant was declared Manager of the trust and opposite party no. 2 and his brother were injected from transferring any part of the property of the Dharamshala, though the aforesaid judgment dated 19.02.2010 passed in Suit No. 210 of 2005 was challenged by the opposite party no. 2 in First Appeal No. 213 of 2010 but this Hon'ble Court did not stay the judgment dated 19.02.2010 and only order of status quo was passed. After loosing the litigation, the opposite party no. 2 has filed impugned complaint on 19.06.2017 on the ground that applicant has violated the terms of compromise entered into between the parties in Suit No. 48 of 1983 before the Munsif Court, Hathras.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has further contended that from the perusal of the impugned complaint, no case under section 420 I.P.C. is made out against the applicant and the ingredients of cheating as defined under Section 415 I.P.C. are missing and there is no allegation that applicant had fraudulently or dishonestly induced to deliver any property.

5. From the perusal of the record, it appears that specific case of opposite party no. 2 in his complaint as well as in his statement recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. is that though as per compromise entered into between the parties, during pendency of the Suit No. 48 of 1983, the Dharamshala was given to opposite party no. 2 but in violation of the aforesaid compromise deed and the applicant retained the same with malafide intention. Therefore, even if the entire allegation of the complaint as well statement of complainant recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. are taken as true even then case under Section 420 I.P.C. is not made out against the applicant. The Apex Court in number of judgments held that there is tendency of the parties of converting a civil litigation into criminal litigation. Hon'ble Apex Court in Gulam Mustafa vs. State of Karnataka (2023) SCC online SC 603 observed in paragraph 36, which reads as under:

"What is evincible from the extant case-law is that this Court has been consistent in interfering in such matters where purely civil disputes, more often than not, relating to land and/or money are given the colour of criminality, only for the purposes of exerting extra-judicial pressure on the party concerned, which, we reiterate, is nothing but abuse of the process of the court. In the present case, there is a huge, and quite frankly, unexplained delay of over 60 years in initiating dispute with regard to the ownership of the land in question, and the criminal case has been lodged only after failure to obtain relief in the civil suits, coupled with denial of relief in the interim therein to the respondent no. 2/her family members. It is evident that resort was now being had to criminal proceedings which, in the considered opinion of this Court, is with ulterior motives, for oblique reasons and is a clear case of vengeance."

6. Similarly Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of M/s Neeharika Infrastructure

Pvt. Ltd. vs. State of Maharashtra, (2021) SCC online SC 315 in paragraph 60 of the judgement, observed as under:

"In a given case, there may be allegations of abuse of process of law by converting a civil dispute into a criminal dispute, only with a view to pressurise the accused. Similarly, in a given case the complaint itself on the face of it can be said to be barred by law. The allegations in the FIR/complaint may not at all disclose the commission of a cognizable offence. In such cases and in exceptional cases with circumspection, the High Court may stay the further investigation. However, at the same time, there may be genuine complaints/FIRs and the police/investigating agency has a statutory obligation/right/duty to enquire into the cognizable offences. Therefore, a balance has to be struck between the rights of the genuine complainants and the FIRs disclosing commission of a cognizable offence and the statutory obligation/duty of the investigating agency to investigate into the cognizable offences on the one hand and those innocent persons against whom the criminal proceedings are initiated which may be in a given case abuse of process of law and the process. However, if the facts are hazy and the investigation has just begun, the High Court would be circumspect in exercising such powers and the High Court must permit the investigating agency to proceed further with the investigation in exercise of its statutory duty under the provisions of the Code. Even in such a case the High Court has to give/assign brief reasons why at this stage the further investigation is required to be stayed. The High Court must appreciate that speedy investigation is the requirement in the criminal administration of justice."

7. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Archana Rana vs. State of U.P. and another, (2021) volume 3 SCC 751 observed in paragraph 7 & 8 for making out of a case under Section 420 I.P.C. There must be element of cheating since beginning. In paragraph 7 & 8 in the judgment of Archana Rana (supra) is being quoted as below:

"7. Having heard learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant and learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent-State and having gone through the averments in the complaint and the chargesheet, even if the averments made in the complaint are taken on their face, they do not constitute the ingredients necessary for the offence under Sections 419 & 420 IPC. As observed and held by this Court in the case of Prof. R.K. Vijayasarathy (supra), the ingredients to constitute an offence under Section 420 are as follows:

i) a person must commit the offence of cheating under Section 415; and

ii) the person cheated must be dishonestly induced to

a) deliver property to any person; or

b) make, alter or destroy valuable security or anything signed or sealed and capable of being converted into valuable security. Thus, cheating is an essential ingredient for an act to constitute an offence under Section 420 IPC."

8. "Cheating" is defined under Section 415 of the IPC. The ingredients to constitute an offence of cheating are as follows:

i) there should be fraudulent or dishonest inducement of a person by deceiving him:

The person who was induced should be intentionally induced to deliver any property to any person or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or the person who was induced should be intentionally induced to do or to omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived.

Thus, a fraudulent or dishonest inducement is an essential ingredient of the offence under Section 415 IPC. A person who dishonestly induced any person to deliver any property is liable for the offence of cheating. "

8. As per the observation of the Apex Court as mentioned in Archana Rana's case, for making out a case under Section 420 I.P.C., there must be element of cheating as defined under Section 415 I.P.C., therefore, cheating is an essential ingredient for an act to constitute an offence under Section 420 I.P.C. Fraudulent or dishonest inducement is an essential ingredient of the offence under Section 415 I.P.C. In the present case element of cheating is missing as there is allegation of violation of agreement.

9. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case, from the perusal of the record and after considering the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, this Court is of the view that no case under Section 420 I.P.C. is made out against the applicant and a dispute of purely civil nature between the parties has been converted into criminal prosecution of the applicant at the behest of opposite party no. 2, therefore, the entire proceedings of the aforesaid case is hereby quashed.

10. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application stands allowed.

order directing accused-applicant to provide his voice sample for forensic comparison with a disputed cassette allegedly containing a derogatory speech made in 2007 – further court held that, the voice sample would aid in truth discovery and could benefit the accused - However, the Court sustained the applicant's objection regarding procedural compliance under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act, directing that a certificate be obtained from the recording studio proprietor, authenticating the cassette - Once this certificate is submitted, the accused must comply with the voice sample order – considering the above, the application is disposed of.

1. This application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by accused-applicant Mohd. Azam Khan challenging the order dated 29.10.2022, passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (M.P./MLA), Court No.4, Rampur in Special Sessions Trial No.37 of 2018 (State Vs. Mohd. Azam Khan), under Sections 504 and 171(G) IPC, Section 125 Representation of Peoples Act, 1951 and Section 3(1)(X) SC/ST Act, police station Tanda, district Rampur, whereby a direction has been issued to the accused-applicant to give his voice sample so that the Director F.S.L., Moradabad could examine the voice of the audio cassette to ascertain as to whether the inflammatory/derogatory speech recorded in the audio cassette is that of the accused-applicant and the order dated 22.11.2022, whereby the application (paper no.43 kha) filed by the accused-applicant for recall of order dated 29.10.2022 has been rejected.

2. Heard Mr. Syed Imran Ibrahim, the learned counsel for applicant, Mr. Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi, the learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Mr. Manu Raj Singh, the learned A.G.A.-I and Mr. Prashant Kumar, the learned A.G.A. for State.

3. Record shows that in respect of an incident, which is alleged to have occurred on 07.08.2007, a delayed F.I.R. dated 08.08.2007 was lodged by first informant-opposite party-2, namely, Dheeraj Kumar Sheel and was registered as Case Crime No.959 of 2007, under Sections 504 and 171(G) IPC, Section 125 Representation of Peoples Act, 1951 and Section 3(1)(X) SC/ST Act, police station Tanda, district Rampur. In the aforesaid F.I.R., applicant has been nominated as solitary named accused.

4. The gravamen of the allegations made in the F.I.R. is to the effect that on 07.08.2007, accused-applicant, who was member of Legislative Assembly and a leader of Samajwadi Party, made a speech, which was derogatory, inasmuch as, the words used were offensive in nature as they caused hurt to the sentiments of a particular community and further the said act of the accused-applicant violated the model code of conduct, issued by the Election Commission.

5. After aforementioned F.I.R. was lodged, Investigating Officer proceeded with statutory investigation of concerned Case Crime number in terms of Chapter

XII Cr.P.C. He examined the first informant and other witnesses by recording their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C.. During course of investigation, statement of Gulab Rai-Naib Tehsildar was also recorded by the Investigating Officer on 21.07.2007. This witness in his statement before the Investigating Officer has stated that the entire event which occurred on 07.08.2007 including the inflammatory/derogatory speech of the accused was recorded and the CD cassette of the same was handed over to the Station Officer of the concerned police station, namely, M.P. Singh.

6. Record further shows that second statement of aforesaid witness, namely, Gulab Rai was recorded on 11.01.2008, in which he has stated that the services of one Sanjay, who runs a studio by the name of Pooja Cassette Centre, were taken to record the entire event. This witness further stated that the entire event was video-graphed by the proprietor of aforementioned firm, namely, Sanjay and the video cassette of the same was submitted by him on 09.08.2007 to the police officials.

7. Subsequently, the statement of Sanjay, proprietor of Pooja Cassette Centre, was recorded. This witness in his statement has categorically stated that the event which occurred on 07.08.2007 was recorded by him on the instructions of Gulab Rai, Naib Tehsildar. After recording was completed, the video cassette was handed over by him to Gulab Rai, Naib Tehsildar.

8. After the aforesaid video cassette was received by the Investigating Officer, it appears that an application was filed before court below seeking permission of the court to have voice sample of the accused-applicant so that the veracity of the recovered cassette as to whether the voice recorded therein is that of accused or not could be examined by the Forensic Science Laboratory (here-in-after shall be referred as 'F.S.L.'). It appears that no orders were passed on this application. The said fact derives its sustenance from the recital contained at page 107 of the paper book. Record further shows that the recovered cassette was sent to F.S.L., Lucknow but was returned with the observation that same be sent to F.S.L., Chandigarh. It is apposite to mention here that thereafter the same was sent to F.S.L., Chandigarh for examination but the same was again returned with an objection that it would not be possible to examine the veracity of the cassette without proper documentation/form.

9. From the above conspectus, it is thus clear that during the course of investigation, no forensic report was submitted with regard to the disputed cassette.

10. Ultimately, the Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet dated 02.03.2009. However, the disputed cassette was not made part of the charge-sheet but remained part of the case-diary, as the recovery memo of the same had been duly prepared. Resultantly, the disputed cassette was deposited in the Malkhana of the concerned police station.

11. After aforementioned charge-sheet dated 02.03.2009 was submitted, the court concerned took cognizance upon same and simultaneously summoned the applicant. Resultantly, Special Sessions Trial no.37 of 2018 came to be registered in the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (M.P./M.L.A), Court

No.4, Rampur. The concerned Sessions Judge framed charges against the accused-applicant.

12. The accused-applicant denied the charges so framed and pleaded innocence. Consequently, the trial procedure commenced.

13. The prosecution in discharge of its burden to bring home the charges so framed against the accused-applicant, adduced the following witnesses.

PW-1- Subhash Chandra is an independent witness, but he did not support the prosecution story and was, therefore, declared hostile.

PW-2- Sudesh is also an independent witness, but he also did not support the prosecution story and was, therefore, declared hostile.

PW-3- Banti is an independent witness, but he has not supported the prosecution story and was, therefore, declared hostile.

PW-4- Naresh is an independent witness, but he did not support the prosecution story and was, therefore, declared hostile.

PW-5- Sanjay, who is the owner of firm, namely, Pooja Cassette Centre was thereafter examined. This witness in his deposition categorically stated that on the direction of Mr. Gulab Rai, the Naib-Tehsildar, he recorded the entire event which took place on 07.08.2007 and thereafter handed over the video cassette to Mr. Gulab Rai, Naib Tehsildar.

PW-7- Mahendra Pal Singh was posted as Station House Officer of Tanda police station, district Rampur at the relevant point of time. This witness in his deposition has clearly stated that a public meeting was organized by the Samajwadi Party on 07.08.2007, in which accused-applicant Mohd. Azam Khan made a speech. This witness further stated that in the said meeting an inflammatory/derogatory speech was made by accused-applicant which caused hurt to the sentiments of Balmiki community. However, no immediate action was taken against the applicant in order to prevent public peace and tranquillity. Subsequently, one Dheeraj Kumar Sheel submitted a written report dated 08.08.2007 on the basis of which Case Crime No.959 of 2007, under Sections 504 and 171(G) IPC, Section 125 Representation of Peoples Act, 1951 and Section 3(1)(X) SC/ST Act, police station Tanda, district Rampur came to be registered. According to this witness, on 09.08.2007, Gulab Rai-Naib Tehsildar handed over the CD and cassette to him which was handed over to the Head Muharir, namely, Viresh and an entry with regard to the same was also made at serial number 42 of the General Diary of police station concerned. During the course of deposition of this witness, the audio/video cassette handed over by Gulab Rai-Naib Tehsildar was produced before the Court in a sealed cover.

PW-8- Om Prakash was posted as Circle Officer, Swar, district Rampur at the relevant point of time. He had investigated the concerned Case Crime number. This witness proved the map prepared by him and accordingly the same was marked as Ext-Ka-3. This witness in his deposition has stated that thereafter he recorded the statement of various witnesses including that of Gulab Rai-Naib Tehsildar. He has supported the recovery memo of the Cassette handed over by Gulab Rai-Naib Tehsildar. Thereafter, this witness recorded the statement of Sanjay, proprietor of Pooja Cassette Centre. He further stated that thereafter an application was made before court below to grant permission for sending the Cassette to F.S.L., Agra. Subsequently, the same was sent to F.S.L., Lucknow but was returned with the observation that the same be sent to F.S.L., Chandigarh. Subsequent to above, the Cassette was sent to F.S.L., Chandigarh but was returned with certain objections. Thereafter, an application was moved before the court concerned to direct the accused-applicant Mohd. Azam Khan to give his voice sample so that the veracity of the voice recorded in the cassette could be ascertained i.e. the same is of accused-applicant or not. At this stage, this witness was transferred.

PW-9- Gulab Rai was working as Naib Tehsildar, Tanda, district Rampur at the relevant point of time. This witness deposed before the court concerned that he had hired the services of a private person to record the entire incident/event which was to be held on 07.08.2007 (public meeting of Samajwadi Party). The person who had conducted recording of the entire event has subsequently handed over the video cassette to him, which was deposited by this witness at the concerned police station. Proceedings with regard to acceptance of the same at the concerned police station were done in front of this witness and in proof thereof signatures of this witness were obtained.

14. After having gone through paper no.6-A with regard to the recovery memo of the CD and Cassette, this witness proved the same. He further deposed that it contains his signatures also. Accordingly, the recovery memo stood proved and was marked as Ext.Ka-4. After looking at the cassette, this witness deposed that it is the same cassette which was given by him. Accordingly, the cassette was marked as Material Ext.Ka-1, the plastic bag was marked as Material Ext.Ka-2 and the white cloth was marked as Material Ext.Ka-3. Thereafter, this witness has proved the fact that information with regard to the speech made in public meeting held on 07.08.2007 was given to the District Magistrate, Rampur. He has further deposed that Dheeraj Kumar Sheel, who belongs to scheduled caste community, was present at the time of occurrence and was sitting in a corner. This witness was also examined by the court. As certain questions were put to this witness under Section 165 of Indian Evidence Act, therefore, the provisions of Section 165 of the Evidence Act which have a material bearing on the controversy in hand as well as the questions put to the accused by the court need to be noted. Accordingly, the same are reproduced herein-under :-

"165. Judge's power to put questions or order production.—The Judge may, in order to discover or to obtain proper proof of relevant facts, ask any question he pleases, in any form, at any time, of any witness, or of the parties, about any fact relevant or irrelevant; and may order the production of any document or thing; and neither the parties nor their agents shall be entitled to make any objection to any such question or order, nor, without the leave of the Court, to cross-examine any witness upon any answer given in reply to any such question:

Provided that the Judgment must be based upon facts declared by this Act to be relevant, and duly proved:

Provided also that this section shall not authorize any Judge to compel any witness to answer any question, or to produce any document which such witness would be entitled to refuse to answer or produce under sections 121 to 131, both inclusive, if the questions were asked or the documents were called for by the adverse party; nor shall the Judge ask any question which it would be improper for any other person to ask under section 148 or 149; nor shall he dispense with primary evidence of any document, except in the cases hereinbefore excepted."

15. PW-10- Gyananjay Singh who was working as Circle Officer, Swar, district Rampur at the relevant point of time was also examined. Various questions were put to this witness by the Court under Section 165 Indian Evidence Act. Accordingly, the same are extracted herein-under :-

यह कहना सही है कि, मै ऑडियों कैसेट व वीडियो कैसेट का अन्तर जानता हूँ। दौरान विवेचना मुझे जानकारी हुई कि, इस मामले से सम्बन्धित वीडियो कैसेट बनाई गयी थी। मेरे संज्ञान में नहीं है कि, केवल आडियो कैसेट बनाई गयी कि नहीं। यह बात सही है कि, केस डायरी में केवल वीडीयो कैसेट की बात का उल्लेख है। केस डायरी के पर्चा नं०-9 में सी डी (काम्पैक्ट डिस्क) का उल्लेख है। कैसेट अलग चीज होती है। और काम्पैक्ट डिस्क अलग चीज होती है।

16. After the statement-in-chief/examination-in-chief of aforementioned witnesses were recorded, the court concerned i.e. Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (M.P./MLA), Court No.4, Rampur passed an order dated 29.10.2022 observing therein that since there is no F.S.L. report to prove, that the voice recorded in the audio cassette is that of the accused, therefore, he directed that for just and fair adjudication of the case, the accused shall give his voice sample and the same be sent along with the audio cassette to F.S.L., Moradabad to give its report regarding the same i.e. whether the voice recorded in the disputed cassette is that of accused or not. This order is on record at page 111 of the paper book as Annexure-14.

17. Feeling aggrieved by the said order dated 29.10.2022 referred to above, the accused-applicant filed an application dated 31.10.2022 (Paper No.-43 kha) before court below praying therein that the order dated 29.10.2022 referred to above be recalled. The court below by means of order dated 22.11.2022 rejected the above-mentioned application (paper no.43 kha).

18. Thus, feeling aggrieved by the above orders dated 29.10.2022 and 22.11.2022 passed by court below, accused-applicant has approached this Court by means of present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C..

19. Mr. Syed Imran Ibrahim, the learned counsel for applicant contends that the orders impugned in present application are not only illegal but without jurisdiction. Consequently, the same are liable to be quashed by this Court.

20. According to the learned counsel for applicant, PW-7 Mahendra Pal Singh, PW-8 Om Prakash, PW-9 Gulab Rai, PW-10 Gyananjay Singh in their depositions before the court below have neither been categorical nor consistent with regard to the nature of the disputed cassette, as to whether the same is an audio cassette or a video cassette. The court below without deciding the issue as to what is the nature of the disputed cassette has proceeded to pass the impugned order dated 29.10.2022 directing the applicant to give his voice sample. He, therefore, submits that court below has not exercised its jurisdiction diligently but in a casual and cavalier fashion. As such, the order dated 29.10.2022 is manifestly illegal, as the same is not the outcome of diligent exercise of jurisdiction by court below.

21. It is next contended by the learned counsel for applicant that from the evidence that has emerged on the record of above mentioned Sessions Trial, it is apparent that recording of the event, which occurred on 07.08.2007, was done/ videographed by one Sanjay, owner of Pooja Cassette Centre, Rampur. The said recording was done by the proprietor of aforesaid firm on the request of Gulab Rai-Naib Tehsildar in his private capacity. There is nothing on record to show that directions were issued to aforesaid Naib Tehsildar by any senior Administrative/Police Officer to get the event recorded which was to take place on 07.08.2007. He, therefore, submits that the disputed cassette is the outcome of an extra judicial act performed by the Naib Tehsildar, namely, Gulab Rai and therefore, the same is neither credible nor worthy of reliance. It is thus urged that the disputed cassette, therefore, cannot be taken into consideration by court below for deciding the guilt of the accuse-applicant.

22. Disputing the impugned order dated 29.10.2022, the learned counsel for applicant contends that the disputed cassette was handed over initially by Sanjay, the owner of Pooja Cassette Centre to Gulab Rai. However, at the time of handing over of the disputed cassette, the requisite certificate was not given, which is mandatorily required to be submitted in terms of Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act. In the absence of the requisite certificate, the disputed cassette could not have been accepted by the police on the record of the concerned case crime number. However, in ignorance of above, the same was accepted and made part of the case-diary, inasmuch as, the recovery memo of the same was prepared, which is duly exhibited from the case-diary. Since the disputed cassette was accepted without the requisite certificate, the same is not worthy of consideration and therefore wholly irrelevant for deciding the guilt of the accused-applicant, if any, on the basis of same.

23. With reference to the material on record, the learned counsel for applicant further submits that even when the disputed cassette was placed before the court below along with the recovery memo of the same, the court below without ascertaining the fact as to whether there is a requisite certificate regarding the same in terms of Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act or not on the record proceeded to admit the same in evidence and, accordingly, the recovery memo, disputed cassette, plastic bag and white cloth were admitted in evidence and marked as Material exhibits ka-1, ka-2, ka-3, and ka-4. He further submits that even if the disputed cassette has been admitted in evidence as material exhibit, yet the same cannot be relied upon by the court below against the applicant in the absence of requisite certificate required to be submitted along with an electronic piece of evidence in terms of Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act.

24. To buttress his submissions, the learned counsel for applicant has relied upon the three Judges Bench judgement of Apex Court in Arjun Panditrao Khotkar Vs. Kailash Kushanrao Gorantyal and others (2020) 7 SCC 1. Reference has been made to paragraphs 52 to 59 of the said report. For ready reference the same are extracted herein-under :-

"52. We may hasten to add that Section 65-B does not speak of the stage at which such certificate must be furnished to the Court. In Anvar P.V. [Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 27 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 24 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 108] , this Court did observe that such certificate must accompany the electronic record when the same is produced in evidence. We may only add that this is so in cases where such certificate could be procured by the person seeking to rely upon an electronic record. However, in cases where either a defective certificate is given, or in cases where such certificate has been demanded and is not given by the person concerned, the Judge conducting the trial must summon the person/persons referred to in Section 65-B(4) of the Evidence Act, and require that such certificate be given by such person/persons. This, the trial Judge ought to do when the electronic record is produced in evidence before him without the requisite certificate in the circumstances aforementioned. This is, of course, subject to discretion being exercised in civil cases in accordance with law, and in accordance with the requirements of justice on the facts of each case. When it comes to criminal trials, it is important to keep in mind the general principle that the accused must be supplied all documents that the prosecution seeks to rely upon before commencement of the trial, under the relevant sections of the Cr.P.C..

53. In a recent judgment, a Division Bench of this Court in State of Karnataka v. M.R. Hiremath [State of Karnataka v. M.R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 109 : (2019) 2 SCC (L&S) 380] , after referring to Anvar P.V. [Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 27 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 24 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 108] held : (M.R. Hiremath case [State of Karnataka v. M.R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 109 : (2019) 2 SCC (L&S) 380] , SCC p. 523, paras 16-17)

"16. The same view has been reiterated by a two-Judge Bench of this Court in Union of India v. Ravindra V. Desai [Union of India v. Ravindra V. Desai, (2018) 16 SCC 273 : (2020) 1 SCC (Cri) 669 : (2019) 1 SCC (L&S) 225] . The Court emphasised that non-production of a certificate under Section 65-B on an earlier occasion is a curable defect. The Court relied upon the earlier decision in Sonu v. State of Haryana [Sonu v. State of Haryana, (2017) 8 SCC 570 : (2017) 3 SCC (Cri) 663] , in which it was held : (Sonu case [Sonu v. State of Haryana, (2017) 8 SCC 570 : (2017) 3 SCC (Cri) 663] , SCC p. 584, para 32)

'32. … The crucial test, as affirmed by this Court, is whether the defect could have been cured at the stage of marking the document. Applying this test to the present case, if an objection was taken to the CDRs being marked without a certificate, the court could have given the prosecution an opportunity to rectify the deficiency.'

17. Having regard to the above principle of law, the High Court [M.R. Hiremath v. State, 2017 SCC OnLine Kar 4970] erred in coming to the conclusion that the failure to produce a certificate under Section 65-B(4) of the Evidence Act at the stage when the charge-sheet was filed was fatal to the prosecution. The need for production of such a certificate would arise when the electronic record is sought to be produced in evidence at the trial. It is at that stage that the necessity of the production of the certificate would arise."

(emphasis in original)

54. It is pertinent to recollect that the stage of admitting documentary evidence in a criminal trial is the filing of the charge-sheet. When a criminal court summons the accused to stand trial, copies of all documents which are entered in the charge-sheet/final report have to be given to the accused. Section 207 Cr.P.C., which reads ["207. Supply to the accused of copy of police report and other documents.—In any case where the proceeding has been instituted on a police report, the Magistrate shall without delay furnish to the accused, free of costs, a copy of each of the following—(i) the police report;(ii) the first information report recorded under Section 154;(iii) the statements recorded under sub-section (3) of Section 161 of all persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses, excluding therefrom any part in regard to which a request for such exclusion has been made by the police officer under sub-section (6) of Section 173;(iv) the confessions and statements, if any, recorded under Section 164;(v) any other document or relevant extract thereof forwarded to the Magistrate with the police report under sub-section (5) of Section 173:Provided that the Magistrate may, after perusing any such part of a statement as is referred to in clause (iii) and considering the reasons given by the police officer for the request, direct that a copy of that part of the statement or of such portion thereof as the Magistrate thinks proper, shall be furnished to the accused:Provided further that if the Magistrate is satisfied that any document referred to in clause (v) is voluminous, he shall, instead of furnishing the accused with a copy thereof, direct that he will only be allowed to inspect it either personally or through pleader in court."] as follows, is mandatory. Therefore, the electronic evidence i.e. the computer output, has to be furnished at the latest before the trial begins. The reason is not far to seek; this gives the accused a fair chance to prepare and defend the charges levelled against him during the trial. The general principle in criminal proceedings therefore, is to supply to the accused all documents that the prosecution seeks to rely upon before the commencement of the trial. The requirement of such full disclosure is an extremely valuable right and an essential feature of the right to a fair trial as it enables the accused to prepare for the trial before its commencement.

55. In a criminal trial, it is assumed that the investigation is completed and the prosecution has, as such, concretised its case against an accused before commencement of the trial. It is further settled law that the prosecution ought not to be allowed to fill up any lacunae during a trial. As recognised by this Court in CBI v. R.S. Pai [CBI v. R.S. Pai, (2002) 5 SCC 82 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 950] , the only exception to this general rule is if the prosecution had "mistakenly" not filed a document, the said document can be allowed to be placed on record. The Court held as follows : (SCC p. 85, para 7)

"7. From the aforesaid sub-sections, it is apparent that normally, the investigating officer is required to produce all the relevant documents at the time of submitting the charge-sheet. At the same time, as there is no specific prohibition, it cannot be held that the additional documents cannot be produced subsequently. If some mistake is committed in not producing the relevant documents at the time of submitting the report or the charge-sheet, it is always open to the investigating officer to produce the same with the permission of the court."

This extract is taken from Arjun Panditrao Khotkar v. Kailash Kushanrao Gorantyal, (2020) 7 SCC 1 : (2020) 4 SCC (Civ) 1 : (2020) 3 SCC (Cri) 1 : (2020) 2 SCC (L&S) 587 : 2020 SCC OnLine SC 571 at page 52

56. Therefore, in terms of general procedure, the prosecution is obligated to supply all documents upon which reliance may be placed to an accused before commencement of the trial. Thus, the exercise of power by the courts in criminal trials in permitting evidence to be filed at a later stage should not result in serious or irreversible prejudice to the accused. A balancing exercise in respect of the rights of parties has to be carried out by the court, in examining any application by the prosecution under Sections 91 or 311 Cr.P.C. or Section 165 of the Evidence Act. Depending on the facts of each case, and the court exercising discretion after seeing that the accused is not prejudiced by want of a fair trial, the court may in appropriate cases allow the prosecution to produce such certificate at a later point in time. If it is the accused who desires to produce the requisite certificate as part of his defence, this again will depend upon the justice of the case — discretion to be exercised by the court in accordance with law.

57. The High Court of Rajasthan in Paras Jain v. State of Rajasthan [Paras Jain v. State of Rajasthan, 2015 SCC OnLine Raj 8331] , decided a preliminary objection that was raised on the applicability of Section 65-B to the facts of the case.

57.1. The preliminary objection raised was framed as follows : (SCC OnLine Raj para 3)

"3. (i) Whether transcriptions of conversations and for that matter CDs of the same filed along with the charge-sheet are not admissible in evidence even at this stage of the proceedings as certificate as required under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act was not obtained at the time of procurement of said CDs from the service provider concerned and it was not produced along with charge-sheet in the prescribed form and such certificate cannot be filed subsequently."

57.2. After referring to Anvar P.V. [Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 27 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 24 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 108] , the High Court held : (Paras Jain case [Paras Jain v. State of Rajasthan, 2015 SCC OnLine Raj 8331] , SCC OnLine Raj paras 15-23)

"15. Although, it has been observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the requisite certificate must accompany the electronic record pertaining to which a statement is sought to be given in evidence when the same is produced in evidence, but in my view it does not mean that it must be produced along with the charge-sheet and if it is not produced along with the charge-sheet, doors of the court are completely shut and it can not be produced subsequently in any circumstance. Section 65-B of the Evidence Act deals with admissibility of secondary evidence in the form of electronic record and the procedure to be followed and the requirements be fulfilled before such an evidence can be held to be admissible in evidence and not with the stage at which such a certificate is to be produced before the court. One of the principal issues arising for consideration in the above case before the Hon'ble Court was the nature and manner of admission of electronic records.

16. From the facts of the above case, it is revealed that the election of the respondent to the Legislative Assembly of the State of Kerala was challenged by the appellant Shri Anwar P.V. by way of an election petition before the High Court of Kerala and it was dismissed vide order dated 16-11-2011 by the High Court and that order was challenged by the appellant before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. It appears that the election was challenged on the ground of corrupt practices committed by the respondent and in support thereof some CDs were produced along with the election petition, but even during the course of trial certificate as required under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act was not produced and the question of admissibility of the CDs as secondary evidence in the form of electronic record in absence of requisite certificate was considered and it was held that such electronic record is not admissible in evidence in absence of the certificate. It is clear from the facts of the case that the question of stage at which such electronic record is to be produced was not before the Hon'ble Court.

17. It is to be noted that it has been clarified by the Hon'ble Court that observations made by it are in respect of secondary evidence of electronic record with reference to Sections 59, 65-A and 65-B of the Evidence Act and if an electronic record as such is used as primary evidence under Section 62 of the Evidence Act, the same is admissible in evidence without compliance with the conditions in Section 65-B of the Evidence Act.

18. To consider the issue raised on behalf of the petitioners in a proper manner, I pose a question to me whether an evidence and more particularly evidence in the form of a document not produced along with the charge-sheet cannot be produced subsequently in any circumstances. My answer to the question is in negative and in my opinion such evidence can be produced subsequently also as it is well-settled legal position that the goal of a criminal trial is to discover the truth and to achieve that goal, the best possible evidence is to be brought on record.

19. Relevant portion of sub-section (1) of Section 91 Cr.P.C. provides that whenever any court considers that the production of any document is necessary or desirable for the purposes of any trial under the Code by or before such court, such court may issue a summons to the person in whose possession or power such document is believed to be, requiring him to attend and produce it or to produce it, at the time and place stated in the summons. Thus, a wide discretion has been conferred on the court enabling it during the course of trial to issue summons to a person in whose possession or power a document is believed to be requiring him to produce before it, if the court considers that the production of such document is necessary or desirable for the purposes of such trial. Such power can be exercised by the court at any stage of the proceedings before judgment is delivered and the court must exercise the power if the production of such document is necessary or desirable for the proper decision in the case. It cannot be disputed that such summons can also be issued to the complainant/informer/victim of the case on whose instance the FIR was registered. In my considered view, when under this provision court has been empowered to issue summons for the producment of document, there can be no bar for the court to permit a document to be taken on record if it is already before it and the court finds that it is necessary for the proper disposal of the case irrespective of the fact that it was not filed along with the charge-sheet. I am of the further view that it is the duty of the court to take all steps necessary for the production of such a document before it.

20. As per Section 311 Cr.P.C., any court may, at any stage of any trial under the Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall or re-examine any person already examined; and the court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case. Under this provision also wide discretion has been conferred upon the court to exercise its power and paramount consideration is just decision of the case. In my opinion, under this provision it is permissible for the court even to order production of a document before it if it is essential for the just decision of the case.

21. As per Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. carrying out a further investigation and collection of additional evidence even after filing of charge-sheet is a statutory right of the police and for that prior permission of the Magistrate is not required. If during the course of such further investigation additional evidence, either oral or documentary, is collected by the police, the same can be produced before the court in the form of supplementary charge-sheet. The prime consideration for further investigation and collection of additional evidence is to arrive at the truth and to do real and substantial justice. The material collected during further investigation cannot be rejected only because it has been filed at the stage of the trial.

22. As per Section 231 Cr.P.C., the prosecution is entitled to produce any person as a witness even though such person is not named in the charge-sheet.

23. When legal position is that additional evidence, oral or documentary, can be produced during the course of trial if in the opinion of the court production of it is essential for the proper disposal of the case, how it can be held that the certificate as required under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act cannot be produced subsequently in any circumstances if the same was not procured along with the electronic record and not produced in the court with the charge-sheet. In my opinion it is only an irregularity not going to the root of the matter and is curable. It is also pertinent to note that certificate was produced along with the charge-sheet but it was not in a proper form but during the course of hearing of these petitioners, it has been produced on the prescribed form."

58. In Kundan Singh [Kundan Singh v. State, 2015 SCC OnLine Del 13647 : (2016) 1 DLT (Cri) 144] , a Division Bench of the Delhi High Court held : (SCC OnLine Del para 50)

"50. Anvar P.V. [Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 27 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 24 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 108] partly overruled the earlier decision of the Supreme Court on the procedure to prove electronic record(s) in Navjot Sandhu [State (NCT of Delhi) v. Navjot Sandhu, (2005) 11 SCC 600 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1715] , holding that Section 65-B is a specific provision relating to the admissibility of electronic record(s) and, therefore, production of a certificate under Section 65-B(4) is mandatory. Anvar P.V. [Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 27 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 24 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 108] does not state or hold that the said certificate cannot be produced in exercise of powers of the trial court under Section 311 Cr.P.C. or, at the appellate stage under Section 391 Cr.P.C.. Evidence Act is a procedural law and in view of the pronouncement in Anvar P.V. [Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer, (2014) 10 SCC 473 : (2015) 1 SCC (Civ) 27 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 24 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 108] partly overruling Navjot Sandhu [State (NCT of Delhi) v. Navjot Sandhu, (2005) 11 SCC 600 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1715] , the prosecution may be entitled to invoke the aforementioned provisions, when justified and required. Of course, it is open to the court/presiding officer at that time to ascertain and verify whether the responsible officer could issue the said certificate and meet the requirements of Section 65-B."

59. Subject to the caveat laid down in paras 52 and 56 above, the law laid down by these two High Courts has our concurrence. So long as the hearing in a trial is not yet over, the requisite certificate can be directed to be produced by the learned Judge at any stage, so that information contained in electronic record form can then be admitted, and relied upon in evidence."

25. In the light of above-noted observations made by the Apex Court, the learned counsel for applicant contends that it is now well settled that an electronic piece of evidence cannot be relied upon in the absence of the certificate which is mandatorily required under Section 65-B of the Evidence Act. As the disputed cassette is not accompanied by the requisite certificate therefore the same cannot be relied upon in evidence. Consequently, no directions could have been issued by court below to the applicant to give his voice sample for securing the F.S.L. report regarding the said cassette.

26. It is lastly contended by the learned counsel for applicant that the issue as to at what stage the police can ask or obtain the voice sample of an accused is no longer res-integra and is now set at rest. In this regard, reference is made to the judgement of Apex Court in Ritesh Sinha Vs. State of U.P. and another (2019) 8 SCC 1.

27. Learned counsel for applicant has referred to paragraph 27 of the aforesaid report which reads as under :-

"In the light of the above discussions, we unhesitatingly take the view that until explicit provisions are engrafted in the Code of Criminal Procedure by Parliament, a Judicial Magistrate must be conceded the power to order a person to give a sample of his voice for the purpose of investigation of a crime. Such power has to be conferred on a Magistrate by a process of judicial interpretation and in exercise of jurisdiction vested in this Court under Article 142 of the Constitution of India. We order accordingly and consequently dispose of the appeals in terms of the above"

28. With reference to above (i.e. paragraph 27 of the said judgement), the learned counsel for applicant contends that the Apex Court has declared in unequivocal terms that the voice sample of an accused can be obtained by the Investigating Officer only during the course of investigation and not subsequently. Since in the present case, the police report in terms of Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. i.e. charge-sheet has already been submitted against the applicant therefore, the order impugned dated 29.10.2022 passed by the court below being in clear violation of above judgement of the Apex Court is, therefore, un-sustainable and thus liable to be quashed by this Court.

29. The court below has committed a grave error in rejecting the application filed by the accused-applicant for recall of the order dated 29.10.2022, vide order dated 22.11.2022. He then concluded by submitting that the orders impugned in the present application are thus liable to be quashed by this Court and the application be allowed.

30. Per contra, Mr. Mahesh Chandra Chaturvedi, the learned Additional Advocate General has opposed the present application. He submits that the order impugned dated 29.10.2022 is perfectly just and legal. The court below has not committed any illegality in passing the order dated 29.10.2022 or in rejecting the recall application filed by the applicant seeking recall of the order dated 29.10.2022, vide order dated 22.11.2022. He further submits that procedure is an aid to justice and therefore the rigours of procedure cannot be construed in such a manner so as to prevent the court from discovering the truth. When the order impugned is examined in the light of above, it cannot be said that any prejudice has been caused to the applicant on account of the impugned order, inasmuch as nothing has been decided against applicant, but only a direction has been issued to applicant to give his voice sample.

31. According to the learned Additional Advocate General, so far as challenge to the order dated 22.11.2022 passed by court below, whereby the recall application filed by accused-applicant seeking recall of the order dated 29.10.2022 is concerned, no illegality has been committed by the court below in rejecting the recall application. Attention of the Court was invited to the provisions contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C. and on basis thereof he contends that since there is a specific bar under the Code i.e. Criminal Procedure Code restraining the criminal court from reviewing or recalling an order passed by them, thus a court of criminal jurisdiction has no jurisdiction to recall an order. In view of above, the recall application filed by accused-applicant seeking recall of order dated 29.10.2022 was itself misconceived and, therefore, the court below has not committed any illegality in rejecting the said application.

32. With regard to the merits of the order dated 29.10.2022 passed by the court below, learned Additional Advocate General contends that it is explicit from record that an application for obtaining the voice sample of accused-applicant was filed by the Investigating Officer before court below at the first opportunity i.e. during the pendency of investigation. However, the said application remained pending as the court concerned did not pass any order on the same i.e. either allowing it or rejecting it. As such, it cannot be said that there was any lackadaisical approach on the part of the Investigating Officer in seeking the order of the court to direct the accused to give his voice sample. It is well settled that an act of court prejudices none. He thus contends that if the application filed by the prosecution seeking a direction from court to direct the accused to give his voice sample was not decided by the court below during the pendency of investigation then merely on the basis of the observations of the Supreme Court as noted above it cannot be contended that court below has no jurisdiction to grant such permission at subsequent stage. Aforesaid circumstance as has emerged in this case has not been dealt with by the court in it's judgement referred to above. There is no such injunction issued by the Supreme Court that even if the application was filed at the investigation stage but if it was not allowed before the submission of the police report, the court cannot allow the same subsequently. Apart from above, it is explicit from the record that the disputed cassette was sent to the F.S.L. Agra and F.S.L. Chandigarh during the pendency of investigation but the same was not examined for one reason or the other. He, therefore, submits that in view of above, it cannot be said that the Investigating Officer was not diligent about the sensitivity of the matter and that appropriate steps were not undertaken by him at the appropriate time to ascertain the guilt of the accused-applicant in the crime in question, on the basis of the disputed cassette.

33. In the submission of the learned Additional Advocate General when the order impugned is examined in the light of above, it is apparent that court below in an honest and pragmatic manner, has directed that voice sample of accused-applicant be obtained to ascertain the guilt of the accused-applicant (regarding the inflammatory/derogatory speech) in the crime in question. Moreover, the order impugned does not by itself convict the accused-applicant but the consequences of the same shall be an aid to decide the guilt of the accused-applicant in the crime in question, if any.

34. The learned Additional Advocate General further contends that there is no time limit for obtaining the requisite certificate in respect of an electronic evidence submitted before the court concerned and relied upon by either of the parties. In this regard, he has referred to the judgement of the Apex Court in Arjun Panditrao Khotkar (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for applicant and has referred to paragraph 59 of the report to buttress his submission. For ready reference, the same is again reproduced herein-under :-

"59. Subject to the caveat laid down in paras 52 and 56 above, the law laid down by these two High Courts has our concurrence. So long as the hearing in a trial is not yet over, the requisite certificate can be directed to be produced by the learned Judge at any stage, so that information contained in electronic record form can then be admitted, and relied upon in evidence."

35. On the above premise, he submits that non submission of requisite certificate by the person from whose custody the electronic evidence has come before the court will only be an irregularity and not an illegality and, therefore, capable of being rectified. The requisite certificate can be submitted before court concerned any time but before the delivery of judgement.

36. With reference to the observations made by the Apex Court in paragraph 27 of the judgement in Ritesh Sinha (supra), the learned Additional Advocate General has placed before court the said judgement in extenso. He has invited the attention of the Court to the questions, which fell for consideration before the Court. For ready reference, both the questions which fell for consideration before the Court, are being reproduced herein-below :-

"5. Two principal questions arose for determination of the appeal which have been set out in the order of Ranjana Prakash Desai, J. dated 7-12-2012 in the following terms :(Ritesh Sinha case2, SCC p.364, para 3)

3.1. Whether Article 20(3) of the Constitution of India, which protects a person accused of an offence from being compelled to be a witness against himself, extends to protecting such an accused from being compelled to give his voice sample during the course of investigation into an offence ?

3.2. Assuming that there is no violation of Article 20(3) of the Constitution of India, whether in the absence of any provision in the Code, can a Magistrate authorise the investigating agency to record the voice sample of the person accused of an offence ?"

37. With reference to question no.2 which emerged for adjudication before the Bench, learned Additional Advocate General contends that in the present case the court itself has directed the accused to give his voice sample. The matter is not under investigation, inasmuch as, the police report in terms of Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. has already been submitted. However, in the present case, the ratio laid down by the Apex Court as noted above shall not be an embargo on the power of the court to direct the accused to give his voice sample as the application regarding same was already filed by the Investigating Officer during the course of investigation but the said application remained pending. This fact is clearly discernable from the recital contained at page 107 of the paper book. Therefore, the order impugned cannot be dislodged on that ground. There is no fault on the part of prosecution. Moreover, an act of court prejudices none.

38. At this juncture, the learned Additional Advocate General has again reiterated his earlier submissions (which have been noted in the preceding paragraphs of this judgement from where the submissions of the learned Additional Advocate General have been taken note of). He, therefore, contends that since the order passed by the court is with reference to Section 165 of Indian Evidence Act and there being no fetters on the power of the court to obtain such material which shall be helpful in discovering the truth, the order impugned cannot be said to be illegal or the outcome of casual exercise of jurisdiction in terms of Section 165 Indian Evidence Act.

39. Attention of the Court was then invited by the learned Additional Advocate General to the provisions contained in Section 293 Cr.P.C. and on basis thereof he contends that since F.S.L. report is exempted from any proof in evidence, therefore, the present application has been engineered only to defeat the cause of justice and hence the same is liable to be rejected.

40. The learned A.G.A. has then submitted that the direction issued by the court is for the benefit of the accused himself. Taking a hypothetical view that in case the applicant does not give his voice sample and therefore no F.S.L. report can be obtained to ascertain that the voice recorded in the cassette is that of accused, then an adverse inference can be drawn against applicant. In this regard, he has referred to the judgement of the Supreme Court in Sharda Vs. Dharmpal (2003) 4 SCC 493.

41. The learned Additional Advocate General has also referred to Section 54-A Cr.P.C. which has been introduced in the year 2005. Expanding the scope of the term ”Identification” occurring in this Section, he submits that the same can also be construed to mean identification of the voice of accused also. When the order impugned is examined in the light of above, no irregularity can be attached to the same.

42. On the above conspectus, the learned Additional Advocate General submits that present application is liable to be dismissed.

43. It is lastly urged by the learned A.G.A. that the accused-applicant himself has agreed to give his voice sample. In this regard, reference is made to paragraphs 28 and 41 of the affidavit filed in support of the present application. For ready reference, the same are reproduced herein-under :-

“28. That it is submitted that the applicant is not shying away from giving his voice sample, however, he only insists that the proper procedure of the same be followed.

41. That in the light of the facts and circumstances mentioned herein above, it is once again submitted here that the applicant is ready to give his voice sample; however his only request is that the authenticity of the CD be first looked into, and then once the F.S.L. submits a report in that regard, he may be asked to give his voice sample.”

44. Having heard the learned counsel for applicant, the learned Additional Advocate General assisted by the learned A.G.A. for State, and upon perusal of record, this Court finds that the issue as to what is the nature of the disputed cassette is a question of fact and will not have material bearing on the merits of the order impugned dated 29.10.2022. Once the original cassette was itself placed before the court and has been admitted into evidence as Material exhibit Ka-1, therefore, the correct description of the same can be taken note of by the court in its judgement. Merely on the ground that court below without deciding the nature of the disputed cassette i.e. whether it is an audio cassette or a video cassette had directed the accused-applicant to give his voice sample, the order impugned dated 29.10.2022 cannot be said to be illegal causing prejudice to the applicant and therefore liable to be set aside. This Court, therefore, finds that the aforesaid submission raised by the learned counsel for applicant has been made only to be rejected. Accordingly, the court declines to delve into the said submission.

45. With regard to the power of the court to direct an accused to give his voice sample with reference to the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Ritesh Sinha (supra), this Court finds that the controversy involved in aforesaid case before the Apex Court was in respect of a matter which was at the stage of investigation as is exhibited from question no.2 reproduced herein-above. It is an un-disputed fact that in the present case, a police report in terms of Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. i.e charge-sheet has already been submitted. Thereafter, charges were framed against accused-applicant. Resultantly the trial has commenced.

46. However, the judgement of the Supreme Court in the case of Ritesh Sinha (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for applicant is not attracted in the present case. As per the said judgement, a Magistrate has been conferred with the jurisdiction to direct an accused to give his voice sample for the purpose of investigation. However, the Court finds that in the present case, an application was duly filed by the prosecution before court below during the course of investigation to direct the accused to give his voice sample. However, the said application remained pending as no order was passed thereon. The judgement relied upon by the learned counsel for applicant does not deal with such an eventuality. No fault can be attributed to the prosecution either, nor the prosecution can be made to suffer on that account. Even otherwise, it is well settled that an act of court prejudices none. Simply because no order was passed by court concerned on the application filed by the prosecution during the course of investigation cannot be construed to mean that the court has no jurisdiction to direct the accused-applicant to give his voice sample subsequently. In view of above, the impugned order dated 29.10.2022 is thus not liable to be interfered with.

47. Having dealt with the submissions urged by the learned counsel for applicant and the objection raised by the learned A.G.A. and the material on record, this court does not find any good ground to set aside the orders impugned.

48. However, the Court finds that the only objection raised by the applicant which is tenable in law is that only when there is a requisite certificate of the competent person only then the disputed cassette is worthy of consideration and can be relied upon. Since the objection raised by the applicant relates to a procedural irregularity coupled with the fact that the judgement of the Apex Court in Arjun Panditrao Khotkar (supra) does not prohibit from obtaining the requisite certificate i.e. the one required in terms of Section 65-B of the Evidence Act at the subsequent stage of trial but before the delivery of judgement, the objection raised by the learned counsel for applicant is liable to be sustained.

49. Considering the above this application is disposed of finally with a direction that court below shall obtain a certificate from Sanjay (proprietor of Pooja Cassette Centre) who had recorded the entire event which occurred on 07.08.2007 and thereafter handed over the cassette to Mr. Gulab Rai-Naib Tehsildar in terms of Section 65-B of the Indian Evidence Act. After such certificate has been submitted before court by Sanjay, the applicant shall give his voice sample as already directed vide order dated 29.10.2022.

48. With the aforesaid direction, this application is finally disposed of.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 311& 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 294, 323, 504 & 506 - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. – for quashing of impugned trial court's order whereby Applicant's application moved under Section 311 Cr.P.C. to recall and re-examine PW-8 was rejected – Trial pending – certain necessary to be asked from PW-8, therefore, applicant moved an application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. – Applicant relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the matter of P. Sanjeeva Rao Vs The St. of A.P.' wherein Hon'ble Apex Court held that even at the cost of delay of proceedings, application u/s 311 Cr.P.C. has to be allowed to impart complete justice – per contra opposite party no. 2 contented that raising questions under 311 Cr.P.C. Application are not relevant, trial is pending at final hearing stage and further, change of counsel cannot be ground for recalling the witness, once his testimony has been recorded and cross-examination has been closed – court finds that a change in legal representation does not justify reopening cross-examination, which should have been completed immediately after the examination-in-chief - The Court held that recalling a witness at a late stage, especially for frivolous questioning prompted by a change in counsel, is not permissible - The Court reiterated that the power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must be exercised with caution and only for compelling reasons – hence, relying on different precedents from higher courts, the Court found no merit in the Section 482 application - and dismissed it accordingly.

5. VSN. Patil Vs K. Niranjan Kumar & ors.; (2021) 3 SCC 661.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Neeraj Tiwari, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Ramesh Kumar Singh, Advocate holding brief of Sri Anil Kumar, learned counsel for opposite party No. 2.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the order dated 15.05.2023 passed by Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Additional Session Judge, Mirzapur in S.T. No. 18 of 2014 (State Vs. Mustafa), arising out of Case Crime No. 581 of 2013, under Sections- 294, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C., Police Station- Kotwali Dehat, District- Mirzapur.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that during the course of trial, it was found that certain questions are necessary to be asked from P.W.-8(Dr. Afzal Ahmad), therefore, applicant has moved application under Section 311 Cr.P.C to summon P.W.-8(Dr. Afzal Ahmad). It is next submitted that the questions proposed to be asked are very relevant for fair trial and justice to accused. He next submitted that the Apex Court in the matter of P. Sanjeeva Rao vs. The State of A.P.; Criminal Appeal Nos. 874-875 of 2012 (arising out of S.L.P. (Crl.) Nos. 4286-87 of 2011) has taken view that in all eventuality, even at the cost of delay of proceedings, application under section 311 Cr.P.C. has to be allowed to impart complete justice. The trial court, without appreciating the facts as well as considering the law laid down by the Apex Court, has rejected the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. vide order dated 15.05.2023, which is bad and liable to be set aside.

4. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for opposite party No. 2 submitted that from the perusal of impugned order, it is apparently clear that defense has examined all the witnesses and matter was also listed for final hearing. At this stage, applicant has changed his counsel and now under the advise of a new counsel, applicant has filed application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. raising four questions after two and a half years after closing of cross-examination of P.W.-8 (Dr. Afzal Ahmad). While deciding the application under Section 311 Cr.P.C., learned trial court has considered all aspects and also returned finding upon the questions so raised. He firmly submitted that questions are not relevant and further, change of counsel cannot be ground for recalling the witness, once his testimony has been recorded and cross-examination has been closed.

5. I have considered rival submissions advanced by counsel for parties and perused the records.

6. From the perusal of impugned order, it is undisputed that after change of counsel, application dated 05.04.2023 under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has been filed for recalling the P.W.-8 (Dr. Afzal Ahmad), after around three years from the date of closing of cross-examination for asking four questions, which are being quoted herein-below:-

"प्रश्न-1 क्या प्रदर्श क-6 में अंकित चोट दिनांक 14-09-2013 को समय 8.00 बजे सुबह आना संभावित है?

प्रश्न-3 क्या यह चोटें दिनांक 13-09-2013 को 6.25 बजे शाम आना सम्भावित है?

प्रश्न-4 ट्रामेटिक स्वेलिंग के चोट की अवधि की गणना का आधार क्या है?"

7. While deciding the application, learned Judge has given detailed finding observing that ample opportunity was given to the applicant for examination of witness and case was listed for final hearing on 15.03.2023. At this stage, application dated 05.04.2023 under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has been filed by a new counsel, who has filed Vakalatnama only on 15.03.2023 on behalf of applicant.

8. Now, coming to the questions proposed to be asked from P.W.-8 (Dr. Afzal Ahmad). Question Nos. 2 & 4 are purely of academic nature, may be useful for medical student while examining the injury and question Nos. 1 & 3 are also having no relevance for trial as all facts relating to the time of injury is already mentioned in the injury report, which cannot be replied by P.W.-8 (Dr. Afzal Ahmad) at this belated stage. Therefore, all the questions are having no relevance for fair trial and adjudication of the case.

9. Now, coming to the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for parties.

10. So far as judgment of P. Sanjeeva Rao (Supra) is concerned, in that case, cross-examination of other witnesses was not completed and during that period application was filed for recalling the witnesses, but in the present case, after change of counsel, on his advice, application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has been filed for recalling the P.W.-8 (Dr. Afzal Ahmad) for asking four questions, which are having no relevance with regard to the trial as earlier discussed. Therefore, this judgment would not come in rescue of applicant.

11. Apex Court in the matter of Vinod Kumar vs. State of Punjab; (2015) 3 SCC 220 has held that it is not appreciable to call a witness for cross-examination after such a long span of time. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment is quoted below:-

"57.1 Adjournments are sought on the drop of a hat by the counsel, even though the witness is present in court, contrary to all principles of holding a trial. That apart, after the examination-in-chief of a witness is over, adjournment is sought for cross-examination and the disquieting feature is that the trial courts grant time. The law requires special reasons to be recorded for grant of time but the same is not taken note of.

57.2 As has been noticed earlier, in the instant case the cross-examination has taken place after a year and 8 months allowing ample time to pressurize the witness and to gain over him by adopting all kinds of tactics.

57.3 There is no cavil over the proposition that there has to be a fair and proper trial but the duty of the court while conducting the trial to be guided by the mandate of the law, the conceptual fairness and above all bearing in mind its sacrosanct duty to arrive at the truth on the basis of the material brought on record. If an accused for his benefit takes the trial on the path of total mockery, it cannot be countenanced. The Court has a sacred duty to see that the trial is conducted as per law. If adjournments are granted in this manner it would tantamount to violation of rule of law and eventually turn such trials to a farce. It is legally impermissible and jurisprudentially abominable. The trial courts are expected in law to follow the command of the procedure relating to trial and not yield to the request of the counsel to grant adjournment for non-acceptable reasons.

57.4 In fact, it is not all appreciable to call a witness for cross-examination after such a long span of time. It is imperative if the examination-in-chief is over, the cross-examination should be completed on the same day. If the examination of a witness continues till late hours the trial can be adjourned to the next day for cross-examination. It is inconceivable in law that the cross-examination should be deferred for such a long time. It is anathema to the concept of proper and fair trial.

57.5 The duty of the court is to see that not only the interest of the accused as per law is protected but also the societal and collective interest is safe-guarded. It is distressing to note that despite series of judgments of this Court, the habit of granting adjournment, really an ailment, continues. How long shall we say, "Awake! Arise!". There is a constant discomfort.

Therefore, we think it appropriate that the copies of the judgment be sent to the learned Chief Justices of all the High Courts for circulating the same among the learned trial Judges with a command to follow the principles relating to trial in a requisite manner and not to defer the cross-examination of a witness at their pleasure or at the leisure of the defence counsel, for it eventually makes the trial an apology for trial and compels the whole society to suffer chicanery. Let it be remembered that law cannot allowed to be lonely; a destitute."

12. Again, Apex Court in the matter of AG vs. Shiv Kumar Yadav; (2016) 2 SCC 402 has taken consistent view that change of counsel cannot be a ground for recalling the witness.

13. This Court in the matter of Girish vs. State of U.P. and another (Application U/S 482 No. 4300 of 2020); 2020 SCC Online All 1062 relying on the judgment of Shiv Kumar Yadav(Supra) has rejected the application filed for summoning the P.W.-1 for cross-examination. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment is quoted below:-

"5. Learned A.G.A. has also relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in AG v. Shiv Kumar Yadav, (2016) 2 SCC 402. The relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment are quoted below:

"27. It is difficult to approve the view taken by the High Court. Undoubtedly, fair trial is the objective and it is the duty of the court to ensure such fairness. Width of power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is beyond any doubt. Not a single specific reason has been assigned by the High Court as to how in the present case recall of as many as 13 witnesses was necessary as directed in the impugned order. No fault has been found with the reasoning of the order of the trial court. The High Court rejected on merits the only two reasons pressed before it that the trial was hurried and the counsel was not competent. In the face of rejecting these grounds, without considering the hardship to the witnesses, undue delay in the trial, and without any other cogent reason, allowing recall merely on the observation that it is only the accused who will suffer by the delay as he was in custody could, in the circumstances, be hardly accepted as valid or serving the ends of justice. It is not only matter of delay but also of harassment for the witnesses to be recalled which could not be justified on the ground that the accused was in custody and that he would only suffer by prolonging of the proceedings. Certainly recall could be permitted if essential for the just decision but not on such consideration as has been adopted in the present case. Mere observation that recall was necessary "for ensuring fair trial" is not enough unless there are tangible reasons to show how the fair trial suffered without recall. Recall is not a matter of course and the discretion given to the court has to be exercised judiciously to prevent failure of justice and not arbitrarily.

While the party is even permitted to correct its bona fide error and may be entitled to further opportunity even when such opportunity may be sought without any fault on the part of the opposite party, plea for recall for advancing justice has to be bona fide and has to be balanced carefully with the other relevant considerations including uncalled for hardship to the witnesses and uncalled for delay in the trial. Having regard to these considerations, we do not find any ground to justify the recall of witnesses already examined.

28. It will also be pertinent to mention that power of judicial superintendence under Article 227 of the Constitution and under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has to be exercised sparingly when there is patent error or gross injustice in the view taken by a subordinate court[47]*. A finding to this effect has to be supported by reasons. In the present case, the High Court has allowed the prayer of the accused, even while finding no error in the view taken by the trial court, merely by saying that exercise of power was required for granting fair and proper opportunity to the accused. No reasons have been recorded in support of this observation. On the contrary, the view taken by the trial court rejecting the stand of the accused has been affirmed. Thus, the conclusion appears to be inconsistent with the reasons in the impugned order.

29. We may now sum up our reasons for disapproving the view of the High Court in the present case:

(i) The trial court and the High Court held that the accused had appointed counsel of his choice. He was facing trial in other cases also. The earlier counsel were given due opportunity and had duly conducted cross-examination. They were under no handicap.

(ii) No finding could be recorded that the counsel appointed by the accused were incompetent particularly at back of such counsel;

(iii) Expeditious trial in a heinous offence as is alleged in the present case is in the interests of justice;

(iv) The trial Court as well as the High Court rejected the reasons for recall of the witnesses;

(v) The Court has to keep in mind not only the need for giving fair opportunity to the accused but also the need for ensuring that the victim of the crime is not unduly harassed;

(vi) Mere fact that the accused was in custody and that he will suffer by the delay could be no consideration for allowing recall of witnesses, particularly at the fag end of the trial;

(vii) Mere change of counsel cannot be ground to recall the witnesses;

(viii) There is no basis for holding that any prejudice will be caused to the accused unless the witnesses are recalled;

(ix) The High Court has not rejected the reasons given by the trial court nor given any justification for permitting recall of the witnesses except for making general observations that recall was necessary for ensuring fair trial. This observation is contrary to the reasoning of the High Court in dealing with the grounds for recall, i.e., denial of fair opportunity on account of incompetence of earlier counsel or on account of expeditious proceedings;

(x) There is neither any patent error in the approach adopted by the trial court rejecting the prayer for recall nor any clear injustice if such prayer is not granted."

6. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, arguments advanced and after going through the entire judgment, this court is of the view that the arguments advanced by the counsel is not sustainable and that the plea can not be taken by the revisionist's counsel that he has been subsequently engaged, therefore, one more opportunity may be given to him. It is within the rights of the litigant to engage any counsel at any stage but the engagement of the new counsel and the dawn of fresh wisdom upon the first informant cannot be allowed to further delay the matter. The circumstances under which the application was rejected out are sufficiently shown in the impugned order. The impugned order does not reflect any element of inconsistency or any abuse of court's process which may persuade this Court to interfere in the same."

14. Further, Apex Court in the matter of V.N. Patil vs. K. Niranjan Kumar and others; (2021) 3 SCC 661 has clearly held that power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. has to be exercised judiciously for strong and valid reasons and with caution. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment is quoted below:-

"13. The scope of Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure which is relevant for the present purpose is reproduced hereunder:

311. Power to summon material witness, or examine person present--Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case.

14. The object underlying Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure is that there may not be failure of justice on account of mistake of either party in bringing the valuable evidence on record or leaving ambiguity in the statements of the witnesses examined from either side. The determinative factor is whether it is essential to the just decision of the case. The significant expression that occurs is "at any stage of any inquiry or trial or other proceeding under this Code". It is, however, to be borne in mind that the discretionary power conferred Under Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure has to be exercised judiciously, as it is always said "wider the power, greater is the necessity of caution while exercise of judicious discretion."

15. The principles related to the exercise of the power Under Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure have been well settled by this Court in Vijay Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Anr. 2011 (8) SCC 136.

"17. Though Section 311 confers vast discretion upon the court and is expressed in the widest possible terms, the discretionary power under the said Section can be invoked only for the ends of justice. Discretionary power should be exercised consistently with the provisions of the Code and the principles of criminal law. The discretionary power conferred Under Section 311 has to be exercised judicially for reasons stated by the court and not arbitrarily or capriciously. Before directing the learned Special Judge to examine Smt. Ruchi Saxena as a court witness, the High Court did not examine the reasons assigned by the learned Special Judge as to why it was not necessary to examine her as a court witness and has given the impugned direction without assigning any reason."

16. This principle has been further reiterated in Mannan Shaikh and Ors. v. State of West Bengal and Anr. 2014 (13) SCC 59 and thereafter in Ratanlal v.

Prahlad Jat and Ors. 2017(9) SCC 340 and Swapan Kumar Chatterjee v. Central Bureau of Investigation 2019 (14) SCC 328. The relevant paras of Swapan Kumar Chatterjee (supra) are as under:

"10. The first part of this Section which is permissive gives purely discretionary authority to the criminal court and enables it at any stage of inquiry, trial or other proceedings under the Code to act in one of the three ways, namely, (i) to summon any person as a witness; or (ii) to examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness; or (iii) to recall and re-examine any person already examined. The second part, which is mandatory, imposes an obligation on the court (i) to summon and examine or (ii) to recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to be essential to the just decision of the case.

11. It is well settled that the power conferred Under Section 311 should be invoked by the court only to meet the ends of justice. The power is to be exercised only for strong and valid reasons and it should be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The court has vide power under this Section to even recall witnesses for re-examination or further examination, necessary in the interest of justice, but the same has to be exercised after taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of each case. The power under this provision shall not be exercised if the court is of the view that the application has been filed as an abuse of the process of law."

17. The aim of every Court is to discover the truth. Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure is one of many such provisions which strengthen the arms of a court in its effort to unearth the truth by procedure sanctioned by law. At the same time, the discretionary power vested Under Section 311 Code of Criminal Procedure has to be exercised judiciously for strong and valid reasons and with caution and circumspection to meet the ends of justice."

15. In the light of facts mentioned herein-above, this Court is of the view that at a very belated stage, witness cannot be recalled for asking frivolous questions and that too on the advice of a new counsel. The law is very well settled that change of counsel cannot be a ground for recalling the witness. Not only this, after examination-in-chief, cross-examination should have been completed on the very same date and at this very belated stage, there would be no purpose for cross-examination as it is practically not possible for a witness to reply such technical questions. Power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is always to be exercised very consciously for a very strong and unrebuttable reasons and not in a very casual manner as in the present case.

16. Therefore, under such facts and circumstances of the case as well as judgments of Apex Court and this Court, instant 482 application lacks merit and is accordingly, dismissed.

17. No order as to costs.

Relief

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the applicant-Sahabi Khatoon with a prayer to quash the order dated 05.06.2023 passed by Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Ballia in Criminal Misc. Case No. 321 of 2022 (Jamal Khan vs. Sahavi Khatoon), whereby an application under Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. of the opposite party no.2 has been allowed.

Issue

3. The principle question of law that falls for consideration of this Court in the present litigation is whether the Family Court was justified in allowing the recall application U/s 126(2) of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 (for short 'the Cr.P.C.') of the opposite party no. 2 (husband).

Crux of the matter

4. This case is an illustration of how a matter can be delayed for years and also an example of abuse of the process of the Court. The proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is pending for the last 21 years and no amount of maintenance has been paid to the wife by the husband who is a salaried person and presently he is getting a salary of Rs. 96,616/- per month.

Factual Matrix

5. Brief facts of the case which are required to be stated are as under :-

5.1-The applicant-Sahabi Khatoon is wife of opposite party no. 2 namely Jamal Khan. The marriage of the applicant with the opposite party no. 2 was solemnized on 12.06.1986 and from their wedlock, three sons were born but on account of acrimonious relation between them, their marriage was not successful and as a result thereof, the opposite party no.2 divorced her after 13 years of marriage but he kept his three sons with him. Thereafter she has been thrown out of her matrimonial home on 20.07.1999 by the opposite party no.2. As such, the applicant has been living in her parental home since July, 1999.

5.2-On 20.12.2002, applicant moved an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. claiming maintenance of Rs. 2,000/- per month from the opposite party no. 2 who at that time was getting salary of Rs. 15,000/-, in which opposite party no. 2 has filed an objection after one year and three months on 29.03.2004.

5.3-The opposite party no. 2 after filing his objection became absent, therefore, the Family Court passed an order dated 26.06.2005 to proceed ex-parte in the matter but the said order was recalled after about three months vide order dated 12.09.2005, subject to payment of cost of Rs. 300/-.

5.4-Thereafter, opposite party no. 2 again became absent, therefore, Family Court, second time passed an order dated 09.10.2006 to proceed ex-parte in the matter but again, opposite party no. 2 moved an application for recall of the order dated 09.10.2006, which was allowed after two years and seven months vide order dated 26.05.2009, subject to payment of cost of Rs. 500/-.

5.5-In the mean time, the evidence of the applicant was recorded on 15.12.2006 and date was fixed for her cross-examination by the opposite party no. 2 but he, with a view to linger on the proceedings, did not cross-examine her. After fixing several dates, last opportunity to the opposite party no. 2 for cross-examination was given on 13.12.2011 but again he did not comply the said order and on account of his non co-operation, proceeding was lingered on.

5.6-The Family Court for the third time, passed an order on 01.11.2012 to proceed ex-parte in the matter but again, on the recall application filed by the opposite party no. 2, the order dated 01.11.2012 has been recalled.

5.7-At this stage, after about twelve years of the pendency of the proceeding under Section 125 of Cr.PC., applicant moved an application dated 10.11.2014 seeking interim maintenance of Rs. 10,000/- per month from the opposite party no. 2 mentioning therein that the opposite party no. 2 is posted on the post of Surveyor in coal field (colliery), District Burdwan and getting salary of Rs. 60,000/- per month. In the interim maintenance application, it is also mentioned by the applicant that she is aged about 45 years and has no means of her livelihood. The said application dated 10.11.2014 of the applicant has been allowed vide order dated 05.05.2015 directing the opposite party no. 2 to pay Rs. 2,000/- per month towards an interim maintenance to the applicant.

5.8-Later on, applicant became ill, therefore, she could not pursue her case. As a result thereof, her main application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. was rejected on 25.11.2017 for want of prosecution. Thereafter, applicant moved a recall application dated 21.04.2018 under Section 126 Cr.P.C. for recall of the order dated 25.11.2017, which has been allowed vide order dated 10.12.2018 and the order dated 25.11.2017 has been recalled restoring the case on its original number.

5.9-Thereafter fresh notice was issued to the opposite party no.2 and publication was also done in the news paper on 19.12.2019. On 13.01.2020, service of notice on the opposite party no.2 was treated sufficient and further on 12.02.2020 order was passed to proceed ex-parte in the matter. Thereafter application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. of the applicant was allowed vide order dated 18.12.2021 directing the opposite party no. 2 to pay a sum of Rs. 5,000/- per month to the applicant from the date of presentation of the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. but no amount of maintenance has been paid by the opposite party no. 2, therefore, applicant having no option left moved an application under Section 125(3) Cr.P.C. for recovery of a sum of Rs. 12,00,000/- from the opposite party no. 2, on which recovery warrant for recovery of Rs. 12,00,000/- has been issued against the opposite party no. 2 on 25.01 2023.

5.10-As soon as the opposite party no. 2 came to know about the above application under Section 125 (3) of the applicant, he moved an application under Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. dated 20.04.2022 for recall of ex-parte order dated 18.12.2021 mainly on the ground that there was a compromise between the applicant and opposite party no. 2 and it was agreed between them that they will not appear in the proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C.. It is also alleged by the opposite party no. 2 that he was not aware about the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C. initiated by the applicant as no notice or summon was received to him.

5.11-Against the said application dated 20.04.2022, applicant has filed an objection dated 26.08.2022 denying the grounds taken by the opposite party no. 2 in his recall application dated 20.04.2022.

5.12-The Family Court vide order dated 05.06.2023 has allowed the recall application dated 20.04.2022 of the opposite party no. 2 by observing that misuse of judicial process done by the opposite party no. 2 can be compensated by imposing harsh penalties. Accordingly, the order dated 18.12.2021 has been recalled subject to payment of cost of Rs. 80,000/- by the opposite party no. 2 till 04.08.2023 with the observation that in case, the said order is not complied with by the opposite party no. 2, the order dated 05.06.2023 shall automatically become ineffective.

5.13-The opposite party no. 2 did not pay Rs. 80,000/- in compliance of order dated 05.06.2023 within time by 04.08.2023 and on the last day, he moved an application dated 04.08.2023 seeking further time, which has been allowed on the same day by the Family Court without giving opportunity of hearing to the applicant and to file objection on the said application granting one month further time to him to comply the order dated 05.06.2023 by 04.09.2023.

5.14-Thereafter, opposite party no. 2 deposited a sum of Rs. 80,000/- on 04.09.2023.

5.15-The above order dated 05.06.2023 is the subject matter of challenge in the present application by the applicant-wife.

Submissions on behalf of applicant (wife)

6. The main substratum of argument of learned counsel for the applicant is that after recall of final order dated 18.12.2021, the above proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. again got pending since 2002 but till date, no maintenance has been paid by the opposite party no. 2. The application of the applicant for granting interim maintenance had been allowed vide order dated 05.05.2015 but said order has neither been complied with nor has been challenged by the opposite party no. 2. Much emphasis has been given by contending that though the Family Court, in the impugned order dated 05.06.2023 has recorded the finding that the opposite party no. 2 was very much aware about the proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C., even then the recall application under Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. of the opposite party no. 2 has been illegally allowed without any cogent reason, therefore, the same is liable to be quashed. It is also submitted that since in the order dated 05.06.2023, it was observed that in case, said order is not complied with by the opposite party no.2, the same shall automatically stands ineffective, then on non compliance of the condition mentioned in the order dated 05.06.2023 by the opposite party no.2, Family Court was not empowered to modify the order dated 05.06.2023 vide order dated 04.08.2023 granting one month further time to the opposite party no. 2 to deposit Rs. 80,000/- without giving opportunity of hearing to the applicant, as such, the order dated 04.08.2023 is also illegal in view of Section 362 Cr.P.C.

Submissions on behalf of opposite party no. 2 (husband)

7. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 submits that after granting further time by the Family Court on 04.08.2023, opposite party no. 2 has deposited a sum of Rs. 80,000/- on 04.09.2023 and proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is going on but he could not dispute any factual argument advanced on behalf of the applicant, as noted above. The opposite party no.2 in his counter affidavit dated 02.11.2023 also did not say any thing about payment of maintenance to applicant. On putting query and giving offer to the opposite party no.2 for payment of arrears of amount of interim maintenance, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2, upon instruction, submits that opposite party no.2 is not inclined to pay any amount of interim maintenance to the applicant pursuant to order dated 05.05.2015 and he flatly refused to pay single penny to the applicant.

Discussion

8. Having heard the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perusing the record, I find that the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. was filed by the applicant (wife) 20.12.2002, in which the opposite party no. 2 (husband) had filed an objection on 20.03.2004. The statement of the applicant was recorded way back in the year 2006, but on account of delaying tactic adopted by the opposite party no.2 as noted above in preceding paragraph no. 5, the proceeding is still pending for the last twenty one years. On non co-operation of opposite party no. 2, thrice Family Court passed the order to proceed ex-parte in the matter on 23.06.2005, 26.05.2009 and 01.11.2012 but on the recall applications filed by the opposite party no. 2, said orders have been recalled thrice. The applicant is posted on the post of Surveyor in coal field (colliery), District Burdwan and he is presently getting salary of Rs. 96,616/- per month but since 2002 till date, not a single penny has been paid by him to the applicant towards her maintenance. The order dated 05.05.2015, whereby opposite party no.2 was directed to pay an interim maintenance of Rs. 5000/-, has also not been complied with. On the application under Section 125(3) Cr.P.C. of the applicant, recovery warrant for recovery of Rs. 12,00,000/- from the opposite party no. 2 has been issued on 25.01.2023 but the said order has also not been complied with nor challenged by the opposite party no. 2. The application under Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. has been moved by the opposite party no.2 after statutory limitation period of three months without delay condonation application.

9. Here it would be relevant to quote Section 126 Cr.P.C., which reads as under:-

Section 126 Cr.P.C.

(1) Proceedings under section 125 may be taken against any person in any district-

(a) where he is, or

(b) where he or his wife, resides, or

(c) where he last resided with his wife, or as the case may be, with the mother of the illegitimate child.

(2) All evidence in such proceedings shall be taken in the presence of the person against whom an order for payment of maintenance is proceed to be made, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in the presence of his pleader, and shall be recorded in the manner prescribed for summons- cases:

Provided that if the Magistrate is satisfied that the person against whom an order for payment of maintenance is proposed to be made is wilfully avoiding service, or wilfully neglecting to attend the Court, the Magistrate may proceed to hear and determine the case ex parte and any order so made may be set aside for good cause shown on an application made within three months from the date thereof subject to such terms including terms at to payment of costs to the opposite party as the Magistrate may think just and proper.

(3) The Court in dealing with applications under section 125 shall have power to make such order as to costs as may be just.

10. On perusal of impugned order dated 05.06.2023, I find that the Family Court has recorded several findings against the opposite party no. 2 about his act and conduct as well as modus-operandi adopted by him for delaying the proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for the last 21 years. It is also mentioned by the Family Court that court is not agree with the plea of the opposite party no. 2 and he has misused the judicial process, even then recall application under Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. of the opposite party no.2 has been allowed without recording cogent reasons, whereas proviso to Section 126(2) Cr.P.C. clearly states that ex-parte order may be set-aside upon 'good cause' only.

11. As per Black's law dictionary, the term 'good cause' generally means a substantial reason amounting in law to legal excuse for failing to perform an act required by law. Phrase 'good cause' depends upon circumstances of individual case and finding of its existence lies largely in discretion of officer or court to which decision is committed.

12. In the present case, no strong reason sufficient in law to presume good cause has been shown by the Family Court while allowing the recall application of opposite party no. 2 vide impugned order dated 05.06.2023, hence, the same is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

13. The purpose and object of Section 125 Cr.P.C. is to provide immediate relief to an applicant. The remedy provided by Section 125 Cr.P.C. is summary in nature. The Amendment Act, 2001 also introduced an express provision for grant of 'interim maintenance' under Section 125 Cr.P.C and power has been vested to the concerned Court to order for making a monthly allowance towards interim maintenance during pendency of the petition. The third proviso to Section 125 Cr.P.C. (inserted vide Act 50 of 2001 w.e.f. 24.09.2001) provide that the proceeding for interim maintenance, shall as far as possible, be disposed of within 60 days from the date of service of notice on the contesting spouse.

14. The Apex Court in the case of Chaturbhuj vs. Sita Bai, (2008) 2 SCC 316 has held as under:-

"Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children and as noted by the Apex Court in Captain Ramesh Chander Kaushal Vs. Veena Kaushal falls within constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India. It is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife. It gives effect to fundamental rights and natural duties of a man to maintain his wife, children and parents when they are unable to maintain themselves."

15. In the light of object of Section 125 Cr.P.C., the Family Court cannot delay grant of maintenance to wife and there is no escape for a able bodied husband from the responsibility of giving sustenance money to his wife despite soured relations. The delay in adjudication by the family Court is not only against human right but also against basic embodiment of dignity of an individual. The husband cannot take subterfuges to deprive her of the benefit of living with dignity.

16. The husband cannot be permitted to exploit the slow justice delivery system to deny what was legitimately due to the wife for her. It is well settled that the dilatory tactics by any of the parties in a proceeding under Section 125 Cr.P.C. has to be sternly dealt with, for which family Court has to be alive to the fact that the litigation before him pertains to emotional fragmentation and delay can feed it to grow.

17. It is the responsibility of the Court to ensure that the wheels of justice turn swiftly, especially when it comes to matters as vital as spousal maintenance. Delay in providing maintenance not only exacerbates the financial hardship faced by wife but also perpetuates a sense of insecurity and inequality. Legal process should not become impediments to timely justice.

18. It is also well settled that the finality of the judgment is absolutely imperative and great sanctity is attached to the final judgment. Permitting the parties to reopen the concluded judgments without any reasonable justification is clearly an abuse of the process of law and would have far-reaching adverse impact on the administration of justice. In the present case, the opposite party no. 2 has four times filed recall application as noted above which amounts to obstructing the administration of justice and interference with the due course of judicial proceedings.

19. The Apex Court in Delhi Admn. v. Gurdip Singh Uban, (2000) 7 SCC 296 deprecated the practice of filing of applications for "clarification", "modification" or "recall" of final judgments or orders. It was held in the said judgment that a party cannot be permitted to circumvent or bypass the circulation procedure provided in the provision pertaining to review and indirectly obtain a hearing in the open Court by filing an application for modification or recall. Such an application deserves to be dismissed with costs.

20. The Apex Court in the case of Dnyandeo Sabaji Naik v. Pradnya Prakash Khadekar, (2017) 5 SCC 496 has held as under:-

"13. This Court must view with disfavour any attempt by a litigant to abuse the process. The sanctity of the judicial process will be seriously eroded if such attempts are not dealt with firmly. A litigant who takes liberties with the truth or with the procedures of the Court should be left in no doubt about the consequences to follow. Others should not venture along the same path in the hope or on a misplaced expectation of judicial leniency. Exemplary costs are inevitable, and even necessary, in order to ensure that in litigation, as in the law which is practised in our country, there is no premium on the truth.

14. Courts across the legal system—this Court not being an exception—are choked with litigation. Frivolous and groundless filings constitute a serious menace to the administration of justice. They consume time and clog the infrastructure. Productive resources which should be deployed in the handling of genuine causes are dissipated in attending to cases filed only to benefit from delay, by prolonging dead issues and pursuing worthless causes. No litigant can have a vested interest in delay. Unfortunately, as the present case exemplifies, the process of dispensing justice is misused by the unscrupulous to the detriment of the legitimate. The present case is an illustration of how a simple issue has occupied the time of the courts and of how successive applications have been filed to prolong the inevitable. The person in whose favour the balance of justice lies has in the process been left in the lurch by repeated attempts to revive a stale issue. This tendency can be curbed only if courts across the system adopt an institutional approach which penalises such behaviour. Liberal access to justice does not mean access to chaos and indiscipline. A strong message must be conveyed that courts of justice will not be allowed to be disrupted by litigative strategies designed to profit from the delays of the law. Unless remedial action is taken by all courts here and now our society will breed a legal culture based on evasion instead of abidance. It is the duty of every court to firmly deal with such situations. The imposition of exemplary costs is a necessary instrument which has to be deployed to weed out, as well as to prevent the filing of frivolous cases. It is only then that the courts can set apart time to resolve genuine causes and answer the concerns of those who are in need of justice. Imposition of real time costs is also necessary to ensure that access to courts is available to citizens with genuine grievances. Otherwise, the doors would be shut to legitimate causes simply by the weight of undeserving cases which flood the system. Such a situation cannot be allowed to come to pass. Hence it is not merely a matter of discretion but a duty and obligation cast upon all courts to ensure that the legal system is not exploited by those who use the forms of the law to defeat or delay justice. We commend all courts to deal with frivolous filings in the same manner."

Result

21. As a fallout and consequence of above discussion, the impugned order dated 05.06.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Case No. 321 of 2022 is liable to be quashed and is hereby quashed and the order dated 18.12.2021 passed in Maintenance Case No. 1500091 of 2014 (old no.381/2002), (Sahavi Khatoon Vs.Jamal Khan), under Section 125 Cr.P.C. by the Principal Judge, Family Court, District Ballia is restored.

22. This Court is of the view that in different circumstances, an inherent power may be exercised in different ways to achieve its ultimate object. Accordingly, in order to secure the end of justice, the applicant-Jamal Khan (husband) is directed to pay entire arrears of maintenance amount to the applicant-Sahabi Khatoon (wife) within one month in accordance with above order dated 18.12.2021 (i.e. at the rate of Rs.5,000/-per month from the date of presentation of the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. dated 20.12.2002) and in future also he shall pay the current amount of maintenance on the 10th day of each month to the applicant, failing which, learned Family Court concerned shall immediately initiate recovery proceeding, etc. against the opposite party no.2 (husband) in accordance with law in order to ensure the payment of entire amount of maintenance to the applicant, who has not received single penny for the last 21 years.

23. Accordingly with the aforesaid observations and directions, the instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the applicant-Sahabi Khatoon (wife) is allowed.

"साक्षी इन्द्रकुमारी पत्नी परशुराम उर्म 24 वर्ष पेशा गृहणी हाल पता- ग्राम स्थालट थाना चरखारी ने सशपथ बयान किया कि-मेरी शादी 3 वर्ष पूर्व हुई थी। मेरी शादी में सभी घरेलू सामान जेवर जंजीर कपड़े तल्ले मेरे बाप ने दिये थे। ससुराल वाले परशुराम, काशीराम, राजेश सभी मोटर साइकिल, 50,000 रूपये मॉगते थे। बदलुआ, काशीबाई, कमलेश भी दहेज मॉगते थे। दहेज की मॉग को लेकर 28 तारीख को काशीबाई, कमलेश ने हाथ पकड़ा और परशुराम धारदार ब्लेड जैसा पैना चाकू जैसा हथियार था, से मेरे दोनों निप्पल काट लिये। चिल्लाया किन्तु बदलूआ ने मुँह दबया था। राजेश व धनीराम ने मेरा पॉव पकड़ रखा था। पटका था, मारा पीटा था। चप्पल से मारा पीटा था। सब्बल गुप्तांग में डाल दिया था। कह रहे थे कि अपने माता पिता से 50,000 नकद व गाडी ले आना। इसलिए ये सब किये थे। 2 तारीख को मुझे मैके छोड़ गये। राजेश छोड़ गये। मैनें अपनी माता को सुबह बताया कि मेरे साथ क्या-क्या हुआ। रिपोर्ट कराने थाने गये थे। पिता जी ने प्रधान के लड़के से प्रा०पत्र लिखाकर रिपोर्ट करायी थी। चार तारीख महोबा में दरोगा जी ने भेजकर डाक्टरी करायी थी। दरोगा जी ने बाद में मेरा 15 तारीख को बयान लिया था। मेरे घर आकर बयान लिये थे। मेरे शरीर के दोनों निप्पल अब नहीं है। स्थायी रूप से शरीर से अलग हो गये है। मेरे साथ जो भी घटना हुई वह दहेज की मॉग को लेकर हुई।

घटना मेरे बेडरूम की थी। कमरे में लालटेन जल रही थी। निप्पल पर चोट पहुँची तो मैं चिल्लायी तो कोई नहीं आया। मैं इस दर्द को सुबह तक सहती रही। सुबह कोई इलाज नहीं कराय गया। दरोगा जी ने घटना के बारे में पूछताछ की। मैनें दरोगा जी को पूरी घटना बतायी थी। 29 से 3 के बीच ससुराल वालों से मायके जाने की इच्छा व्यक्त की थी। मायके से कोई लेने नहीं आया था। पापा ने भेजने के लिए कहा था। कि बदलुआ (ससुर) से कहा था कि हम लेने नीं आऐंगे तुम भेज दो। मैं सारा सामान दे दूंगा। घटना के बाद मैं सामान्य स्थित में नहीं थी। जबरदस्ती बनी रही। भोजन पानी कर लेती थी। नहीं किया तो नहीं किया। जिस दिन ससुराल से मायके गयी, उस दिन घटना के बारें में किसी को कुछ नहीं बताया। अगले दिन सुबह अपनी मम्मी को बताया। अपने घाव भी दिखाये। पापा को मैने व मम्मी ने भी बताया। पापा को पूरी घटना बतायी थी। कुछ भी नहीं छिपाया था। जैसा मैने पापा को बताया था। वैसा ही पापा ने रिपोर्ट की थी। रिपोर्ट कराने मैं भी गयी थी। दरोगा जी ने मुझसे भी पूछा था। दरोगा जी को भी पूरी घटना बतायी थी। हम अपने पापा चाचा के साथ अस्पताल गये। अस्पताल में डाक्टर 4-5 चोटें बतायी थी। सभी चोटों का डाक्टर साहब ने मुआइना किया था। अदालत में भी मेरे बयान हुए थे। अदालत में भी घटना के बारे में बताया था। थाने के बाद बाँदा में लिखा पढ़ी की थी। वही बातें वहाँ भी लिखी थी जो थाने की एफ.आई.आर. में थी। शिकायत (बाँदा वाली) कहाँ लिखायी गयी, इसकी मुझे जानकारी नहीं है। यह कहना गलत है कि मेरा पति मुझे चाहता है। अगर चाहता होता तो 3 साल में खबर न लेता."

7. The main substratum of argument of learned counsel for the applicants is that on 07.01.2018, the parties concerned have settled their dispute outside the Court and in presence of Gram Pradhan and other elite people of village, compromise took place and it was agreed that the accused persons will keep the victim well and in a dignified manner in her matrimonial home. Thereafter, the victim and informant moved an application before Civil Judge (J.D.), Mahoba mentioning therein that the victim is living in her matrimonial home for the last two years and she does not want any action in the matter against the accused persons, therefore, the matter may be re-examined in the light of compromise but no order has been passed on the said application. Learned counsel for the applicant, in support of his submission, placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gian Singh vs. State of Punjab and others, (2012) 10 SCC 303 and Ramgopal and another vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 834. On the strength of aforesaid facts, it is argued that now the criminal proceeding against the applicants is liable to be quashed.

8. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. opposed the submissions of the learned counsel for the applicants by contending that the allegations levelled against the applicants are heinous in nature. It is a case of extreme cruelty which is not private in nature but against the society at large, therefore, criminal proceeding/trial against the applicants, which is at the advanced stage, cannot be quashed. However, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite party no. 2 did not oppose the prayer of the applicants.

9. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perusing the record, I find that as per allegations against the applicants on non-fulfillment of demand of dowry, the applicant no. 6-Smt. Kashi Bai and applicant no. 5-Smt. Kamlesh held the hand of the victim and applicant no. 1-Parashuram, who is husband of the victim, cut her both nipples with a sharp edged weapon like a blade/knife. The victim shouted but the applicant no. 4-Badalua kept her mouth shut. Applicant no. 3-Rajesh Prajapati and applicant no. 2-Dhaniram Prajapati were holding her leg and she was beaten with slippers. "Sambal" was also put in her genital as they were asking to bring Rs. 50,000/- cash and a car from her parent that is why all this cruelty was done with the victim. I also find that the victim, in her examination-in-chief, recorded before the trial court has supported the prosecution case and also stated that both of the nipple of her body are no more and permanently separated. Her husband-Parashuram had inserted "sambal" in her genital, due to which bleeding has come out. The incident took place in her bedroom where lantern was burning. She screamed but no one came. She was suffering from pain till morning and no treatment was done in the morning. This Court is of the view that it is a case of extreme cruelty and barbarian act on the part of accused persons, while daughters-in-law's are pride of the house. Such incident are beyond imagination and it is a rare case. It is well settled that every case turns on its own facts. Even one additional or different fact may make a big difference between the conclusion in two cases, because even a single significant detail may alter the entire aspect.

10. It need no emphasis that the inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline en-grafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or First Information Report may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The gravity and nature of the crime are the relevant consideration before exercising the inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences which involve moral turpitude or moral fabric of the society or have the potential to impact the society at large cannot be fittingly quashed even the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. In different situations, the inherent power may be exercised in different ways to achieve its ultimate objective.

11. As a fallout and consequence of above discussion, this Court is not inclined to accept the submissions made on behalf of the applicants. The relief as sought for by the applicants is not liable to be allowed.

12. The application lacks merit, and is accordingly, dismissed.

13. The copy of this order be sent to the concerned trial Court within a week.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Swetashwa Agarwal, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Brijesh Kr. Dwivedi, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed for quashing the entire criminal proceedings arising out of Complaint Case No. 1151 of 2017, M/s Deepak Agro vs. M/s Raghu, under Section 420 IPC, Police Station- Transport Nagar, District- Meerut along with the impugned summoning order dated 01.03.2017 passed by the A.C.J.M. Court No. 8, Meerut.

3. As per the impugned complaint, applicant and opposite party No.2 were having business relationship and during the course of business, opposite party No.2 supplied tractor accessories and other parts on different dates in the year 2006 to the applicant. Bill was also raised. It was further alleged that the applicant instead of making payment had also given cheque dated 25.1.2008 of Rs. 38,628/-, but subsequently, this cheque was bounced when presented before the bank. Thereafter, the applicant kept on assuring for making payment to opposite party No.2, but no payment was made. Finally, a complaint was filed in the year 2017. In support of his complaint, Vishal Gupta, who was manager of opposite party No.2, was also examined and the court below after perusal of the complaint and statement, summoned the applicant u/s 420 I.P.C.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has challenged the impugned proceeding on the following grounds:-

i. The dispute between the applicant and opposite party no. 2 is purely a business transaction and no case is made out as the same is purely a civil dispute and there are no ingredients of cheating as defined under Section 415 I.P.C., therefore, no offence under Section 420 I.P.C. is made out;

ii. As the applicants were residing at a place which is outside from the jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned, the mandatory inquiry as required under Section 202(2) Cr.P.C. was not conducted for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding;

iii. The impugned complaint was filed after the expiry of eleven years from the date of transaction; therefore, impugned proceeding was initiated with mala fide reason to extract money from applicant.

5. In support of his case, learned counsel for the applicant has also relied upon the following judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court:

a) Govind Prasad Kejriwal vs. State of Bihar and Others, reported in 2020 (16) SCC 714.

b) Birla Corporation Limited vs. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd., reported in 2019 (6) SCC 610.

c) Lalankumar Singh & Others vs. Sate of Maharashtra, reported in 2022 SCC online SC 1383.

d) Randheer Singh vs. State of U.P. and Others, reported in (2021) 14 SCC 626.

e) Gulam Mustafa vs. State of Karnataka and another; 2023 SCC online SC 603.

6. Per contra, learned AGA has submitted that while passing the impugned summoning order, learned Magistrate formed his opinion regarding prima facie case after the examination of complainant and witnesses which is sufficient for the inquiry as required under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. as per the mandate of Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, reported in (2014) 14 SCC 638 case.

7. I have considered the rival submissions and perusal of record, it is clear from the complaint as well as impugned order that transaction between the applicant and the opposite party no. 2, was done in the year 2006 and initially two cheques were also issued by the company of applicant to opposite party no. 2. Though, it was alleged in the complaint that both the cheques were bounced but the opposite party no. 2 had not filed any complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act and subsequently after almost eleven years, impugned complaint was filed. From the perusal of complaint, it is clear that it was purely a case of business transaction between the parties and there was no element of cheating at the time of business transaction.

8. For making out a case under Section 420 IPC, element of cheating must be there as required under Section 415 IPC. Section 415 IPC and Section 420 IPC are quoted hereunder:

"415. Cheating.?Whoever, by deceiving any person, fraudulently or dishonestly induces the person so deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or intentionally induces the person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived, and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property, is said to "cheat". Explanation.?A dishonest concealment of facts is a deception within the meaning of this section."

"420. Cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property.?Whoever cheats and thereby dishonestly induces the person deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to make, alter or destroy the whole or any part of a valuable security, or anything which is signed or sealed, and which is capable of being converted into a valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."

9. Similar dispute was also came into question before the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Prof. R.K. Vijayasarathy and another vs. Sudha Seetharam and another, reported in (2019) 16 SCC 739. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment is quoted hereunder:

"17. A fraudulent or dishonest inducement is an essential ingredient of the offence. A person who dishonestly induces another person to deliver any property is liable for the offence of cheating.

18 Section 420 of the Penal Code reads thus:

Section 420. Cheating and dishonestly inducing deliver of property.- Whoever cheats and thereby dishonestly induces the person deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to make, alter or destroy the whole or any part of a valuable security, or anything which is signed or sealed, and which is capable to being converted into a valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.?

19. The ingredients to constitute an offence under Section 420 are as follows:

i) A person must commit the offence of cheating under Section 415; and

ii) The person cheated must be dishonestly induced to

(a) deliver property to any person; or

(b) make, alter or destroy valuable security or anything signed or sealed and capable of being converted into valuable security.

20. Cheating is an essential ingredient for an act to constitute an offence under Section 420."

10. The aforesaid judgment was further relied upon by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Archana Rana vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another, reported in (2021) 3 SCC 751 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that for making out a case under Section 420 I.P.C., there must be ingredients of cheating as required under Section 415 of IPC. On applying the above principle to the fact in question, it is clear that there was no ingredient of cheating. There was allegation that bouncing of cheques given by applicant during business transaction in the year 2006 but complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act was not filed and impugned complaint was itself filed after 11 years of bouncing of cheques. Therefore, no offence under Section 420 IPC is made out.

11. So far as the second question regarding enquiry under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is concerned when the accused persons were residing at a place beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned. This question was also considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, reported in (2014) 14 SCC 638, in which Hon'ble Apex Court observed that in such cases, inquiry under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. is mandatory and in the inquiry under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C., Court is required to examine witnesses along with the complainant and only then Magistrate must make his opinion about prima facie case. Paragraph 14 of the Vijay Dhanuka (supra) case is as follows:

"14. In view of our answer to the aforesaid question, the next question which falls for our determination is whether the learned Magistrate before issuing summons has held the inquiry as mandated under Section 202 of the Code. The word "inquiry" has been defined under Section 2(g) of the Code, the same reads as follows:

"2. (g) 'inquiry' means every inquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Code by a Magistrate or court;"

It is evident from the aforesaid provision, every inquiry other than a trial conducted by the Magistrate or the court is an inquiry. No specific mode or manner of inquiry is provided under Section 202 of the Code. In the inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code, the witnesses are examined whereas under Section 200 of the Code, examination of the complainant only is necessary with the option of examining the witnesses present, if any. This exercise by the Magistrate, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, is nothing but an inquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code."

12. This issue was again considered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Govind Prasad Kejriwal vs. State of Bihar and Others, reported in 2020 (16) SCC 714. In this case, Hon'ble Apex Court, in paragraph 6.5 observed that while conducting the inquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C., Magistrate is required to consider whether the prima facie case is made out or not or whether the criminal proceedings initiated are abuse of process of law or the Court and also whether the dispute is of purely a civil nature or whether the civil dispute is tried to be given a colour of criminal dispute. Paragraph 6.5 of the case passed in Govind Prasad Kejriwal (supra) is quoted as under:

"6.5. Now so far as the reliance placed on the decision of this Court in the case of National Bank of Oman vs. Barakara Abdul Aziz (Supra) relied upon by the Learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the complainant is concerned, we are of the opinion that in the facts and circumstances of the case, the said decision shall not be of any assistance to the complainant. It cannot be disputed that while holding the inquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. the Magistrate is required to take a broad view and a prima facie case. However, even while conducting/holding an inquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C., the Magistrate is required to consider whether even a prima facie case is made out or not and whether the criminal proceedings initiated are an abuse of process of law or the Court or not and/or whether the dispute is purely of a civil nature or not and/or whether the civil dispute is tried to be given a colour of criminal dispute or not. As observed hereinabove, the dispute between the parties can be said to be purely of a civil nature. Therefore, this is a fit case to quash and set aside the impugned criminal proceedings."

13. The above question was also considered in the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Birla Corporation Limited vs. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd., reported in 2019 (6) SCC 610. In that case, Hon'ble Apex Court observed that in the inquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C., the Magistrate is only concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or evidence in support of the averment made in the complaint to satisfy himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. It was also observed that purpose of inquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is to determine whether a prima facie case is made out and whether there is sufficient ground of proceeding against the accused. Paragraphs 26, 27 & 60 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted as under:

"26. Complaint filed under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and enquiry contemplated under Section 202 Cr.P.C. and issuance of process:- Under Section 200 of the Criminal Procedure Code, on presentation of the complaint by an individual, the Magistrate is required to examine the complainant and the witnesses present, if any. Thereafter, on perusal of the allegations made in the complaint, the statement of the complainant on solemn affirmation and the witnesses examined, the Magistrate has to get himself satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused and on such satisfaction, the Magistrate may direct for issuance of process as contemplated under Section 204 Cr.P.C. The purpose of the enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is to determine whether a prima facie case is made out and whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

27. The scope of enquiry under this section is extremely restricted only to finding out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process should be issued or not under Section 204 Cr.P.C. or whether the complaint should be dismissed by resorting to Section 203 Cr.P.C. on the footing that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding on the basis of the statements of the complainant and of his witnesses, if any. At the stage of enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C., the Magistrate is only concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence in support of the averments in the complaint to satisfy himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused."

"60. The object of investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is "for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding". The enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is to ascertain the fact whether the complaint has any valid foundation calling for issuance of process to the person complained against or whether it is a baseless one on which no action need be taken. The law imposes a serious responsibility on the Magistrate to decide if there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The issuance of process should not be mechanical nor should be made as an instrument of harassment to the accused. As discussed earlier, issuance of process to the accused calling upon them to appear in the criminal case is a serious matter and lack of material particulars and non-application of mind as to the materials cannot be brushed aside on the ground that it is only a procedural irregularity. In the present case, the satisfaction of the Magistrate in ordering issuance of process to the respondents is not well founded and the order summoning the accused cannot be sustained. The impugned order of the High Court holding that there was compliance of the procedure under Section 202 Cr.P.C. cannot be sustained and is liable to be set aside."

14. From perusal of the aforesaid judgment, it is clear that the Magistrate while issuing summons upon receiving complaint must satisfy himself after making necessary inquiry that prima facie case is made out against the applicant. In the present case learned Magistrate has not recorded any reason showing his satisfaction that despite being business transaction and complaint was filed after 11 years of that transaction, prima facie case u/s 420 I.P.C. is made out against the applicant. Therefore, this court held that in the present case Magistrate has not conducted mandatory inquiry as required by Section 202(1) Cr.P.C.

15. Therefore, considering the facts and circumstances of the case and keeping in mind the law discussed above, the dispute between the complainant and opposite party no. 2 is purely a commercial dispute and the remedy for the same lies under civil remedy and the opposite party no. 2 has given the colour of criminality to the purely business transaction and there is no element of cheating. Therefore, Section 420 Cr.P.C. is not made out.

16. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Randheer Singh vs. State of U.P. and Others, reported in (2021) 14 SCC 626 in paragraphs 28 and 33 has observed that when the dispute of civil nature has been given colour of criminal offence, then it should be quashed:

"28. In Paramjeet Batra (supra), this Court held that :-

"12. While exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code the High Court has to be cautious. This power is to be used sparingly and only for the purpose of preventing abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure ends of justice. Whether a complaint discloses a criminal offence or not depends upon the nature of facts alleged therein. Whether essential ingredients of criminal offence are present or not has to be judged by the High Court. A complaint disclosing civil transactions may also have a criminal texture. But the High Court must see whether a dispute which is essentially of a civil nature is given a cloak of criminal offence. In such a situation, if a civil remedy is available and is, in fact, adopted as has happened in this case, the High Court should not hesitate to quash the criminal proceedings to prevent abuse of process of the court."

33. In this case, it appears that criminal proceedings are being taken recourse to as a weapon of harassment against a purchaser. It is reiterated at the cost of repetition that the FIR does not disclose any offence so far as the Appellant is concerned. There is no whisper of how and in what manner, this Appellant is involved in any criminal offence and the charge sheet, the relevant part whereof has been extracted above, is absolutely vague. There can be no doubt that jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. should be used sparingly for the purpose of preventing abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. Whether a complaint discloses criminal offence or not depends on the nature of the allegation and whether the essential ingredients of a criminal offence are present or not has to be judged by the High Court. There can be no doubt that a complaint disclosing civil transactions may also have a criminal texture. The High Court has, however, to see whether the dispute of a civil nature has been given colour of criminal offence. In such a situation, the High Court should not hesitate to quash the criminal proceedings as held by this Court in Paramjeet Batra (supra) extracted above."

17. Similar observation was made by the Apex Court in the judgement of Gulam Mustafa vs. State of Karnataka and another; 2023 SCC online SC 603 in paragraph 36 as under:-

"36. What is evincible from the extant case-law is that this Court has been consistent in interfering in such matters where purely civil disputes, more often than not, relating to land and/or money are given the colour of criminality, only for the purposes of exerting extra-judicial pressure on the party concerned, which, we reiterate, is nothing but abuse of the process of the court. In the present case, there is a huge, and quite frankly, unexplained delay of over 60 years in initiating dispute with regard to the ownership of the land in question, and the criminal case has been lodged only after failure to obtain relief in the civil suits, coupled with denial of relief in the interim therein to the respondent no.2/her family members. It is evident that resort was now being had to criminal proceedings which, in the considered opinion of this Court, is with ulterior motives, for oblique reasons and is a clear case of vengeance."

18. It is also clear from the record that impugned complaint was filed after 11 years of disputed money transaction with ulterior motive.

19. In view of the above, proceeding of the Complaint Case No. 1151 of 2017, M/s Deepak Agro vs. M/s Raghu, under Section 420 IPC, Police Station- Transport Nagar, District- Meerut along with the impugned summoning order dated 01.03.2017 passed by the A.C.J.M. Court No. 8, Meerut, is hereby quashed.

20. Accordingly, the application is allowed.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 200, 202, 202(1), 202(2) & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 415 & 420 - - Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 - Sections 7, 9, 138, 142(1) & 142(1)(a) - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. – for quashing of the summoning order as well as the entire proceedings – dishonour of cheque - Complaint Case - applicant argued that opposite party no. 2 is neither the payee nor the holder in due course of the cheque, making the complaint legally untenable under Section 142(1)(a) of the Act – complainant countered that the cheque was issued to a proprietorship firm owned by him, thereby making him the holder in due course and entitled to file the complaint - Applicant disputes the firm's status, claiming it is a partnership, which would invalidate the complaint filed in an individual capacity – while relying on precedents including Rathish Babu Unnikrishnan Vs St. (NCT of Delhi), court held that, the complainant, who claimed to be the proprietor of a firm is legally entitled to file the complaint as a "holder in due course" - Even if the firm were a partnership, the partner would still qualify to maintain the complaint – since a partnership firm is not a separate legal entity from its partners - therefore, the complaint even on behalf of the partner of a firm in his own name is maintainable – court being not found any good ground to interfere in the instant case in exercise of jurisdiction under section 482 of the Cr.P.C. – accordingly, application is dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Jai Raj, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Sri Pankaj Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application U/S 482 has been filed seeking quashing the impugned summoning order dated 05.12.2014 as well as entire proceedings of Complaint Case No.3473 of 2014 (Prasant Sharma Vs. Abhishek Jain), under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, Police Station Hariparvat, District Agra, pending in the Court of Additional Chief Judicial magistrate, Court No.VIII, Agra.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that in the instant case, the complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as the "N.I. Act") has been filed by the opposite party no.2, whereas he was not the payee of the said cheque, therefore, the complaint is not maintainable. Learned counsel for the applicant relying upon the provisions of Section 142 (1) (a) of the N.I. Act submits that such complaint is maintainable only on behalf of the payee or the holder in due course of the cheque. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the opposite party no.2 herein is neither the payee nor the holder in due course of the cheque as has been defined in Section 7 and 9 of the N.I. Act, 1881.

4. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2, on the other hand, submits that undisputedly the cheque in the instant case was issued in favour of Raj Rajeshwari Enterprises which is the proprietorship of the opposite party no.2, who has filed a complaint being the proprietorship firm. Thus, the complaint by the opposite party no.2 in his individual name is maintainable as he becomes holder in due course of the said cheque. In support of submissions made by learned counsel for the applicant he placed reliance upon the judgment dated 03.03.2011 of Apex Court in the case of Criminal Appeal No.643 of 2011 (Milind Shripad Chandurkar Vs. Kalim M. Khan & another).

5. However, learned counsel for the applicant disputes that the said Raj Rajeshwari Enterprises is not a proprietorship but a partnership firm, therefore, he submits that complaint in the individual name of one of such partnership firm is not maintainable. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that such Raj Rajeshwari Enterprises is not a partnership firm, is not disputed by the opposite party no.2 in the counter affidavit filed by him.

6. Learned A.G.A. for the State also submits that even partner or the proprietor of a firm is holder in due course of the cheque, therefore, such complaint is maintainable in the name of a partner or a proprietor of such firm in individual capacity as well. Learned A.G.A. for the State has placed reliance on a judgment of Apex Court in Rathish Babu Unnikrishnan Vs. State (NCT of Delhi), 2022 SCC OnLine SC 513.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the record of this case and from perusal of the record it is found that it will be relevant to take note of Sections 7, 9,

142 (1) (a) of the N.I. Act, which reads as under:-

"Section 7 of N.I. Act, 1881 defines "payee" as the person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid.

"Section 9 defines "holder in due course" as any person who for consideration became the possessor of a cheque if payable to a bearer or the payee or endorsee thereof.

Section 142 (1) (a) provides that the complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act is to be filed either by the payee of the said cheque or the holder in due course of the said cheque."

8. From the aforesaid provisions, it is crystal clear that a complaint under Section 138 of the Act can be filed by the payee of the cheque or the holder in due course. The definition of holder in due course is wide enough and includes any person, who comes in possession of the said cheque for consideration.

9. In the case of Milind Shripad Chandurkar (supra), the Apex Court has held as under:-

"In a case of this nature, where the "payee" is a company or a sole proprietary concern, such issue cannot be adjudicated upon taking any guidance from Section 142 of the Act, 1881 but the case shall be governed by the general law i.e. the Companies Act 1956 or by civil law where an individual carries on business in the name or style other than his own name. In such a situation, he can sue in his own name and not in trading name, though others can sue him in the trading name. So far as Section 142 is concerned, a complaint shall be maintainable in the name of the "payee", proprietary concern itself or in the name of the proprietor of the said concern."

10. In the instant case, the opposite party no.2, claims himself to the proprietor of the firm Raj Rajeshwari Enterprises, thus in considered opinion of this Court, a proprietor of a firm is covered within the definition of holder in due course and complaint by him under Section 138/142 of N.I. Act is maintainable.

11. In Tanna and Modi vs. CIT, (2007) 7 SCC 434, the Apex Court has held that the partnership firm is not an independent legal entity thus it is not a juristic person. Under the partnership Act, a partner of a partnership firm represents the firm itself and he has an implied authority in terms of Section 19 of the Partnership Act.

12. Similarly in C.I.T. vs. R.M. Chidambaram Pillai, (1977) 1 SCC 431, the Apex Court has held that a partnership form is not a legal person even though it has some attributes of personality. Partnership is a certain relation between persons, with the product of agreement being, to share the profits of a business. 'Firm' is a collective noun, a compendious expression of designate an entity, not a person.

13. In Munshi Ram vs. Municipal Committee, (1979) 3 SCC 83, the Apex Court has held that partnership firm is not a legal entity separate and distinct from partners and is only compendious description of individuals who compose the firm.

14. Therefore, the partners of a partnership firm are not different legal entities. They are one and the same. Therefore, even if the submission of applicants be assumed to be true that the cheque was issued in favour of the partnership firm than the partner of the said firm becomes the holder in due course of the said cheque, which is capable of maintaining a complaint against the drawer of the cheque in terms of Section 142(1) of Negotiable Instrument Act.

15. In Rathish Babu Unnikrishnan (Supra) the Apex Court considering the scope of interference while exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C., in complaint case lodged under Section 138 of N.I. Act, has held as under:-

"16. The proposition of law as set out above makes it abundantly clear that the Court should be slow to grant the relief of quashing a complaint at a pre-trial stage, when the factual controversy is in the realm of possibility particularly because of the legal presumption, as in this matter. What is also of note is that the factual defence without having to adduce any evidence need to be of an unimpeachable quality, so as to altogether disprove the allegations made in the complaint.

17. The consequences of scuttling the criminal process at a pre-trial stage can be grave and irreparable. Quashing proceedings at preliminary stages will result in finality without the parties having had an opportunity to adduce evidence and the consequence then is that the proper forum i.e., the trial Court is ousted from weighing the material evidence. If this is allowed, the accused may be given an un-merited advantage in the criminal process. Also because of the legal presumption, when the cheque and the signature are not disputed by the appellant, the balance of convenience at this stage is in favour of the complainant/prosecution, as the accused will have due opportunity to adduce defence evidence during the trial, to rebut the presumption.

18. Situated thus, to non-suit the complainant, at the stage of the summoning order, when the factual controversy is yet to be canvassed and considered by the trial court will not in our opinion be judicious. Based upon a prima facie impression, an element of criminality cannot entirely be ruled out here subject to the determination by the trial Court. Therefore, when the proceedings are at a nascent stage, scuttling of the criminal process is not merited."

16. From the aforesaid observations made by the Apex Court, it is crystal clear that if the cheque is issued in the name of a firm, whether proprietorship or partnership firm, the proprietor or the partner as the case may be, becomes the holder in due course and he can sue in his own name and it is not necessary for him to sue in a trading name, though others can sue such firm in the trading name. Therefore, the instant complaint filed by the opposite party no.2, claiming himself to be a proprietor of the said firm in whose name the said cheque is issued by the applicant herein, in the considered opinion of this Court, complaint is maintainable. Even if the contention of applicant be accepted that the said Raj Rajeshwari Enterprises is a partnership and not a proprietorship firm, it will not help the applicant herein as even the partnership firm does not have a different legal identity and is not a juristic person. Therefore, a partner of the firm also becomes the holder in due course of the cheque within the meaning of Section 142 (1) of the N.I. Act. Thus, the complaint even on behalf of the partner of a firm in his own name is maintainable. Otherwise, also in the instant case, the applicant does not dispute that the cheque was issued in the name of the said Raj Rajeshwari Enterprises and the said cheque was dishonoured and demand notice was issued by the opposite party no.2, he has failed to comply with the said notice. Therefore, in view of the presumption under Section 139 of the N.I. Act and as per the law laid down by the Apex Court, this Court does not find any good ground to interfere in the instant case in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

17. Accordingly, the instant application is devoid of merit and is hereby dismissed.

1. Heard Sri Aakash Kishan, Advocate holding brief of Sri Ashok Gupta, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri C.P. Awasthi, Advocate holding brief of Sri Shashi Kumar Verma, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and Sri Prem Prakash Tripathi, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking quashing of the Charge Sheet No. 114/17 dated 20.06.2017 in Case No. 3056/IX of 2017 (State vs. Mohit Soni), arising out of Case Crime No. 201 of 2017 u/S 493, 376, 504, 506 I.P.C., P.S.- Rajapur, District-Chitrakoot, pending in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chitrakoot.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that in the instant case, after the pleadings were exchanged, the opposite party no.2 has filed a joint affidavit in the form of compromise before the learned Trial Court, which has been taken on record by the learned Trial Court and learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 does not dispute the said fact. In the said compromise, the opposite party no.2 has stated that she does not wish to prosecute her case against the the applicant herein as she has already married to someone else and is settled in her life and the instant prosecution would cause further harassment to her. In addition to the same, learned counsel for the applicant further submits from the plain allegations made in the F.I.R., the applicant and opposite party no.2 were in physical relationship or rather were in live- in relationship with each other for more than six years and due to some dispute later on between the parties, when the applicant herein could not marry the opposite party no.2, the instant prosecution has been lodged by the opposite party no.2 herein against the applicant herein.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant has further relied upon the judgement of this Court dated 15.09.2023 in Application u/S 482 No. 5419 of 2021 (Jiyaullah vs. State of U.P. and Another), wherein it has been held that where the consensual physical relationship between the parties was a longstanding relationship with the consent of their parents, then, no offence u/S 376 of I.P.C. shall be made out.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant has further relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 1217 of 2022 (Kapil Gupta vs. State of NCT of Delhi & Anr.) dated 10.08.2022. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that when the complainant herself is not supporting the prosecution case and has applied for withdrawing the prosecution of the accused persons, then, it will end nothing else but an acquittal, therefore, it will be futile to keep the prosecution pending in the courts, which are already humongously overburdened.

6. Learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 do not dispute the fact of compromise between the parties. It is further stated by learned counsel for opposite party no.2 that the opposite party no.2 has already married to someone else and is living happily, therefore, the pendency of the criminal case will be further harassment to the new matrimonial life of the opposite party no.2. In view thereof, she wants the instant proceedings to be quashed.

7. In view of the compromise between the parties and the nature of relationship between the parties, learned counsel for the State do not object to quashing of the instant proceedings on the basis of the compromise between the parties.

8. Having heard the learned counsels for the parties, this Court has carefully perused the records of the case and on perusal of the records, the following questions arises for determination of this Court:

I) Whether while exercising the power u/S 482 Cr.P.C., this Court can quash the proceedings in non-compoundable cases involving heinous crimes like rape etc., on the basis of compromise between the parties?

II)Whether if all the allegations as alleged by the opposite party no.2 in the F.I.R. and in her statements u/S 161 and 164 of Cr.P.C., and believed to be true on its face value, whether the offence u/S 376 & 493 I.P.C. and other offences against the applicant are constituted?

III) whether in view of the developments and the present status of the parties and in view of the compromise between the applicant and the opposite party no.2, what are the chances of conviction of the applicant and whether the pendency of the prosecution against the applicant could cause oppression and harassment of the applicant as well as that of the opposite party no2? and

IV) Whether in a case where an offence of heinous crime like rape is alleged and on given facts, prima facie the offences is not constituted and the parties in view of the further developments in the status of the parties and the victim has already moved ahead in life and in view of such developments, the prosecutrix has entered into a compromise with the applicant and did not wish to prosecute the case any further against the applicant/accused, it will not be a duty of the courts while exercising u/S 482 Cr.P.C., to quash such proceedings to secure ends of justice?

9. Question No. 'I'- To find the necessary answers of these questions, it will be relevant to note the few decisions of the Apex Court. In Shiji vs. Radhika: (2011) 10 SCC 705, the Apex Court held as under:

"17. It is manifest that simply because an offence is not compoundable under Section 320 CrPC is by itself no reason for the High Court to refuse exercise of its power under Section 482

CrPC. That power can in our opinion be exercised in cases where there is no chance of recording a conviction against the accused and the entire exercise of a trial is destined to be an exercise in futility. There is a subtle distinction between compounding of offences by the parties before the trial court or in appeal on the one hand and the exercise of power by the High Court to quash the prosecution under Section 482 CrPC on the other. While a court trying an accused or hearing an appeal against conviction, may not be competent to permit compounding of an offence based on a settlement arrived at between the parties in cases where the offences are not compoundable under Section 320, the High Court may quash the prosecution even in cases where the offences with which the accused stand charged are non-compoundable. The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC are not for that purpose controlled by Section 320 CrPC.

18. Having said so, we must hasten to add that the plenitude of the power under Section 482 CrPC by itself, makes it obligatory for the High Court to exercise the same with utmost care and caution. The width and the nature of the power itself demands that its exercise is sparing and only in cases where the High Court is, for reasons to be recorded, of the clear view that continuance of the prosecution would be nothing but an abuse of the process of law. It is neither necessary nor proper for us to enumerate the situations in which the exercise of power under Section 482 may be justified. All that we need to say is that the exercise of power must be for securing the ends of justice and only in cases where refusal to exercise that power may result in the abuse of the process of law. The High Court may be justified in declining interference if it is called upon to apaslipreciate evidence for it cannot assume the role of an appellate court while dealing with a petition under Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code. Subject to the above, the High Court will have to consider the facts and circumstances of each case to determine whether it is a fit case in which the inherent powers may be invoked.

19. Coming to the case at hand, we are of the view that the incident in question had its genesis in a dispute relating to the access to the two plots which are adjacent to each other. It was not a case of broad daylight robbery for gain. It was a case which has its origin in the civil dispute between the parties, which dispute has, it appears, been resolved by them. That being so, continuance of the prosecution where the complainant is not ready to support the allegations which are now described by her as arising out of some "misunderstanding and misconception" will be a futile exercise that will serve no purpose. It is noteworthy that the two alleged eyewitnesses, who are closely related to the complainant, are also no longer supportive of the prosecution version. The continuance of the proceedings is thus nothing but an empty formality. Section 482 CrPC could, in such circumstances, be justifiably invoked by the High Court to prevent abuse of the process of law and thereby preventing a wasteful exercise by the courts below."

10. Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure saves the inherent power of the High Court and it reads as under:

"482. Saving of inherent powers of High Court.- Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

11. In Gian Singh vs. State of Punjab and Another : (2012) 10 SCC 303, the Full Bench of the High Court has observed as under:

"52. The question is with regard to the inherent power of the High Court in quashing the criminal proceedings against an offender who has settled his dispute with the victim of the crime but the crime in which he is allegedly involved is not compoundable under Section 320 of the Code.

53. Section 482 of the Code, as its very language suggests, saves the inherent power of the High Court which it has by virtue of it being a superior court to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It begins with the words, "nothing in this Code" which means that the provision is an overriding provision. These words leave no manner of doubt that none of the provisions of the Code limits or restricts the inherent power. The guideline for exercise of such power is provided in Section 482 itself i.e. to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. As has been repeatedly stated that Section 482 confers no new powers on the High Court; it merely safeguards existing inherent powers possessed by the High Court necessary to prevent abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. It is equally well settled that the power is not to be resorted to if there is specific provision in the Code for the redress of the grievance of an aggrieved party. It should be exercised very sparingly and it should not be exercised as against the express bar of law engrafted in any other provision of the Code.

54. In different situations, the inherent power may be exercised in different ways to achieve its ultimate objective. Formation of opinion by the High Court before it exercises inherent power under Section 482 on either of the twin objectives, (i) to prevent abuse of the process of any court, or (ii) to secure the ends of justice, is a sine qua non.

55. In the very nature of its constitution, it is the judicial obligation of the High Court to undo a wrong in course of administration of justice or to prevent continuation of unnecessary judicial process. This is founded on the legal maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, conceditur et id sine qua res ipsa esse non potest. The full import of which is whenever anything is authorised, and especially if, as a matter of duty, required to be done by law, it is found impossible to do that thing unless something else not authorised in express terms be also done, may also be done, then that something else will be supplied by necessary intendment. Ex debito justitiae is inbuilt in such exercise; the whole idea is to do real, complete and substantial justice for which it exists. The power possessed by the High Court under Section 482 of the Code is of wide amplitude but requires exercise with great caution and circumspection.

56. It needs no emphasis that exercise of inherent power by the High Court would entirely depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. It is neither permissible nor proper for the court to provide a straitjacket formula regulating the exercise of inherent powers under Section 482. No precise and inflexible guidelines can also be provided.

*57. Quashing of offence or criminal proceedings on the ground of settlement between an offender and victim is not the same thing as compounding of offence. They are different and not interchangeable. Strictly speaking, the power of compounding of offences given to a court under Section 320 is materially different from the quashing of criminal proceedings by the High Court in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction. In compounding of offences, power of a criminal court is circumscribed by the provisions contained in Section 320 and the court is guided solely and squarely thereby while, on the other hand, the formation of opinion by the High Court for quashing a criminal offence or criminal proceeding or criminal complaint is guided by the material on record as to whether the ends of justice would justify such exercise of power although the ultimate consequence may be acquittal or dismissal of indictment.

58. Where the High Court quashes a criminal proceeding having regard to the fact that the dispute between the offender and the victim has been settled although the offences are not compoundable, it does so as in its opinion, continuation of criminal proceedings will be an exercise in futility and justice in the case demands that the dispute between the parties is put to an end and peace is restored; securing the ends of justice being the ultimate guiding factor. No doubt, crimes are acts which have harmful effect on the public and consist in wrongdoing that seriously endangers and threatens the well-being of the society and it is not safe to leave the crime-doer only because he and the victim have settled the dispute amicably or that the victim has been paid compensation, yet certain crimes have been made compoundable in law, with or without the permission of the court. In respect of serious offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc., or other offences of mental depravity under IPC or offences of moral turpitude under special statutes, like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity, the settlement between the offender and the victim can have no legal sanction at all. However, certain offences which overwhelmingly and predominantly bear civil flavour having arisen out of civil, mercantile, commercial, financial, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony, particularly relating to dowry, etc. or the family dispute, where the wrong is basically to the victim and the offender and the victim have settled all disputes between them amicably, irrespective of the fact that such offences have not been made compoundable, the High Court may within the framework of its inherent power, quash the criminal proceeding or criminal complaint or FIR if it is satisfied that on the face of such settlement, there is hardly any likelihood of the offender being convicted and by not quashing the criminal proceedings, justice shall be casualty and ends of justice shall be defeated. The above list is illustrative and not exhaustive. Each case will depend on its own facts and no hard-and-fast category can be prescribed.

61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus : the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz. : (i) to secure the ends of justice, or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or FIR may be exercised where the offender and the victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and the offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity, etc.; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominatingly civil flavour stand on a different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, the High Court may quash the criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and the victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of the criminal case would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and the wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that the criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in the affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding."

12. In Narinder Singh & Ors. vs. State of Punjab : (2014) 6 SCC 466, this Court has laid down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties in exercising its power u/S 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement at its discretion with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:

"29.1. Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.

29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court.

While exercising the power the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

29.3. Such a power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for the offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.

29.4. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.

29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delicate parts of the body, nature of weapons used, etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the latter case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation*, the High Court may be liberal* in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge-sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come to a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime."

13. In Prabatbhai Aahir Alias Prabatbhai Bhimsinghbhai Karmur and others vs. State of Gujarat and Another : (2017) 9 SCC 641, the Apex Court has summarized the broad principles with regard to quashing of the criminal proceedings on the basis of compromise between the parties:

"16. The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject, may be summarised in the following propositions:

16.1. Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognises and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court.

16.2. The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a first information report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

16.3. In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power.

16.4. While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised (i) to secure the ends of justice, or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court.

16.5. The decision as to whether a complaint or first information report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated.

16.6. In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences.

16.7. As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing insofar as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned.

16.8. Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute.

16.9. In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

16.10. There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions 16.8. and 16.9. above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the State have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

14. In the light of the aforesaid decisions of the Apex Court, following propositions emerges which are relevant to the instant case. Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code preserves the inherent power of the High Court to prevent the abuse of process of any Court or to secure the hands of justice:

a) the power to quash the criminal proceedings u/S 482 Cr.P.C., is attracted even when the offences is non-compoundable;

b) though in the case involving heinous and serious offences, normally the inherent powers ought not to have been exercised on the basis of compromise between the parties. However, there is no absolute bar that each and every case where heinous crimes are alleged can never be quashed. It will depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and while exercising such powers, the ultimate object is to see whether by exercising such powers and quashing the criminal proceedings, whether the ends of justice will be secured; and

c) If on the facts of the case, the Court is satisfied that prima facie the offence alleged which is of heinous and serious in nature is not constituted on the facts of the case and parties have settle their disputes through compromise and further in view of such compromise, there are remote and bleak possibilities of conviction of the accused persons and the continuation of such criminal proceedings would cause oppression and prejudice, not only to the accused but the victim as well such proceedings can be quashed in exercise of power u/S 482 of Cr.P.C., on the basis of settlement between the parties.

15. Question No. 'II'- To determine the questions whether on the given facts of the case, the offence u/S 376 I.P.C., is made out against the applicant herein. It will be relevant to note few decisions of the Apex Court, which are as under.

16. In Dr. Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra : (2019) 18 SCC 191, the Apex Court has held as under:

"8. It is well settled that exercise of powers under Section 482 CrPC is the exception and not the rule. Under this section, the High Court has inherent powers to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under the Code or to prevent the abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. But the expressions "abuse of process of law" or "to secure the ends of justice" do not confer unlimited jurisdiction on the High Court and the alleged abuse of process of law or the ends of justice could only be secured in accordance with law, including procedural law and not otherwise.

13. It is clear that for quashing the proceedings, meticulous analysis of factum of taking cognizance of an offence by the Magistrate is not called for. Appreciation of evidence is also not permissible in exercise of inherent powers. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognizance has been taken, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of the inherent powers.

24. In the instant case, it is an admitted position that the appellant was serving as a Medical Officer in the Primary Health Centre and the complainant was working as an Assistant Nurse in the same health centre and that she is a widow. It was alleged by her that the appellant informed her that he is a married man and that he has differences with his wife. Admittedly, they belong to different communities. It is also alleged that the accused/appellant needed a month's time to get their marriage registered. The complainant further states that she had fallen in love with the appellant and that she needed a companion as she was a widow. She has specifically stated that "as I was also a widow and I was also in need of a companion, I agreed to his proposal and since then we were having love affair and accordingly we started residing together. We used to reside sometimes at my home whereas sometimes at his home". Thus, they were living together, sometimes at her house and sometimes at the residence of the appellant. They were in a relationship with each other for quite some time and enjoyed each other's company. It is also clear that they had been living as such for quite some time together. When she came to know that the appellant had married some other woman, she lodged the complaint. It is not her case that the complainant has forcibly raped her. She had taken a conscious decision after active application of mind to the things that had happened. It is not a case of a passive submission in the face of any psychological pressure exerted and there was a tacit consent and the tacit consent given by her was not the result of a misconception created in her mind. We are of the view that, even if the allegations made in the complaint are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety, they do not make out a case against the appellant. We are also of the view that since the complainant has failed to prima facie show the commission of rape, the complaint registered under Section 376(2)(b) cannot be sustained."

17. In State of Karnataka v. M. Devendrappa [State of Karnataka v. M.

Devendrappa, (2002) 3 SCC 89 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 539] , it was held by the Apex Court that while exercising powers under Section 482 CrPC, the court does not function as a court of appeal or revision. Inherent jurisdiction under the section though wide has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself. It was further held as under :

"6. ... It would be an abuse of process of the court to allow any action which would result in injustice and prevent promotion of justice. In exercise of the powers court would be justified to quash any proceeding if it finds that initiation/continuance of it amounts to abuse of the process of court or quashing of these proceedings would otherwise serve the ends of justice. When no offence is disclosed by the complaint, the court may examine the question of fact. When a complaint is sought to be quashed, it is permissible to look into the materials to assess what the complainant has alleged and whether any offence is made out even if the allegations are accepted in toto."

18. Recently, in Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P. [Vineet Kumar v. State of U.P., (2017) 13 SCC 369 : (2017) 4 SCC (Cri) 633] , the Apex Court has observed as under :

"41. Inherent power given to the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is with the purpose and object of advancement of justice. In case solemn process of Court is sought to be abused by a person with some oblique motive, the Court has to thwart the attempt at the very threshold. ... Judicial process is a solemn proceeding which cannot be allowed to be converted into an instrument of oppression or harassment. When there are materials to indicate that a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive, the High Court will not hesitate in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC to quash the proceeding. ... the present is a fit case where the High Court ought to have exercised its jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC and quashed the criminal proceedings."

19. Similarly, in Shambhu Kharwar vs. State of U.P. : 2022 SCC Online SC 1032, the Apex Court has held as under:

"8. In Bhajan Lal (supra) this Court formulated the parameters in terms of which the powers in Section 482 of CrPC may be exercised. While it is not necessary to revisit all these parameters again, a few that are relevant to the present case may be set out. The Court held that quashing may be appropriate:

"102.(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused. (2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2).

... Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

9. In Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra,6 a two Judge Bench of this Court while dealing with similar facts as the present case reiterated the parameters laid down in Bhajan Lal (supra) held that:

"13. It is clear that for quashing the proceedings, meticulous analysis of factum of taking cognizance of an offence by the Magistrate is not called for. Appreciation of evidence is also not permissible in exercise of inherent powers. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognizance has been taken, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of its inherent powers."

(emphasis supplied)

10. An offence is punishable under Section 376 of the IPC if the offence of rape is established in terms of Section 375 which sets out the ingredients of the offence. In the present case, the second description of Section 375 along with Section 90 of the IPC is relevant which is set out below.

"375. Rape - A man is said to commit " rape" if he - […] under the circumstances falling under any of the following seven descriptions Firstly …Secondly. - Without her consent.

[…]Explanation 2. - Consent means an unequivocal voluntary agreement when the woman by words, gestures or any form of verbal or non-verbal communication, communicates willingness to participate in the specific sexual act:

Provided that a woman who does not physically resist to the act of penetration shall not by the reason only of that fact, be regarded as consenting to the sexual activity.

xxx

90. Consent known to be given under fear or misconception - A consent is not such a consent as is intended by any section of this Code, if the consent is given by a person under fear of injury, or under a misconception of fact, and if the person doing the act knows, or has reason to believe, that the consent was given in consequence of such fear or misconception; or…"

20. In Pramod Suryabhan Pawar v. State of Maharashtra, a two Judge Bench of this Court of which one of us was a part (D.Y. Chandrachud J.), held in Sonu @ Subhash Kumar v. State of Uttar Pradesh,8 observed that:

"12. This Court has repeatedly held that consent with respect to Section 375 of the IPC involves an active understanding of the circumstances, actions and consequences of the proposed act. An individual who makes a reasoned choice to act after evaluating various alternative actions (or inaction) as well as the various possible consequences flowing from such action or inaction, consents to such action…[…]

14. […] Specifically in the context of a promise to marry, this Court has observed that there is a distinction between a false promise given on the understanding by the maker that it will be broken, and the breach of a promise which is made in good faith but subsequently not fulfilled…[…]

16. Where the promise to marry is false and the intention of the maker at the time of making the promise itself was not to abide by it but to deceive the woman to convince her to engage in sexual relations, there is a "misconception of fact" that vitiates the woman's "consent". On the other hand, a breach of a promise cannot be said to be a false promise. To establish a false promise, the maker of the promise should have had no intention of upholding his word at the time of giving it. The "consent" of a woman under Section 375 is vitiated on the ground of a "misconception of fact" where such misconception was the basis for her choosing to engage in the said act…[…]

18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act.

12. In the present case, the issue which had to be addressed by the High Court was whether, assuming all the allegations in the charge- sheet are correct as they stand, an offence punishable under Section 376 IPC was made out. Admittedly, the appellant and the second respondent were in a consensual relationship from 2013 until December 2017. They are both educated adults. The second respondent, during the course of this period, got married on 12 June 2014 to someone else. The marriage ended in a decree of divorce by mutual consent on 17 September 2017. The allegations of the second respondent indicate that her relationship with the appellant continued prior to her marriage, during the subsistence of the marriage and after the grant of divorce by mutual consent."

21. In State of HP vs. Mango Ram : (2000) 7 SCC 224, a three Judge Bench of the Apex Court held that consent for the purpose of Section 375 I.P.C. requires voluntary participation not only after the exercise of intelligence based on the knowledge of significance and moral quality of the act but after having fully exercised the choice between resistance and assent whether there was consent or not is to be ascertained only careful perusal of relevant circumstances.

22. In the Application u/S 482 No. 5419 of 2021 (Jiyaullah vs. State of U.P. and Another), on similar facts this Court has held that where there was long-standing consensual relationship between the parties with the approval of the family members, no offence u/S 376 I.P.C. will be made out. In Jiyaullah (Supra), this Court has held as under :-

14. From the aforequoted judgments, it is apparent that the powers u/S 482 Cr.P.C. vested in the High Court is with the purpose and objective of advancement of justice. In case, the High Court is of an opinion that the process of the Court is being abused by persons with some oblique motive, the Court has to thwart such an attempt at the very threshold and the judicial process cannot be allowed to be converted into an instrument of oppression and harassment. It is also a settled position of law that if there are materials to indicate that the criminal proceedings is initiated with mala fide intentions and with an ulterior motive, it is the duty of the High Court to quash such proceedings in exercise of powers u/S 482 Cr.P.C.

15. In Section 375 I.P.C., where the offence of rape is constituted when the sexual intercourse is committed against the will of women and without her consent. A women is said to consent only when she freely agrees to submit herself while in free and unconstrained possession of physical and moral power to act in a manner she wanted. Consent implies the exercise of free and untrammelled right to forbid or withhold what is being consented to.

17. Thus, from the cumulative reading of the judgments passed by the Apex Court in Shivashankar (supra), Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (Supra), Sonu alias Subhash Kumar (supra), Dr. Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar (supra) and Mango Ram (supra), it is apparent that when there is a longstanding relationship between the parties under the promise of marriage. It is to be seen that whether such promise of marriage was false at the inception or it is a subsequent breakdown of relationship and refusal to marry amounts to breach of such promise, which was genuinely made at the inception of such relationship.

18. The expression "against her will" would ordinarily mean that the intercourse was done by man with a women despite her resistance and opposition. On the other hand, the expression "without her consent" would comprehend an act of reason accompanied by deliberation."

23. In the instant case, it is an admitted fact that the opposite party no.2 was having consensual physical relationship due to love and affection between them since last six years and many times, the opposite party no.2 became pregnant and as per the F.I.R. itself the opposite party no.2 and this relationship was well known to both the families since last six years from the lodging of the report. From the F.I.R. and statements u/S 161 & 164 Cr.P.C., of the prosecutors, it is clear that from its inception, there was no cheating on behalf of the applicant and the relationship between them was with the approval of the families. Subsequently, after some developments, the applicant has broken his promise to marry the opposite party no.2 which has resulted in registration of the F.I.R. From the allegations made, it is apparent that the promise to marry by the applicant herein was not false from its inception, however, due to later developments, the applicants has denied to marry the opposite party no.2. Therefore, in view of the aforesaid judgments, prima facie no offence u/S 376 I.P.C., is established as the relationship between the parties was of consensual nature which had the approval of both the families and the initial promise by the applicant to marry the opposite party no.2 was not false. It is only after subsequent developments between the parties, the applicant herein had refused to marry her. It was indeed a live-in relationship between the parties, which has ultimately failed, for which the instant F.I.R. has been lodged by the opposite party no.2. Therefore, in the considered view of this Court, prima facie no offence u/S 376 I.P.C. is made out against the applicant herein.

So far as the offence u/S 493 I.P.C., is concerned in the instant case, the opposite party no.2 was an adult female and she very well knew that the applicant has not married to her. However, out of love and affection, she was having the physical relationship with the applicant and the fact that relationship did not end in the marriage, it is evident enough from the allegations made in the F.I.R. Therefore, it can't be said that there was any inducement by the applicant to have co-habitation with him under a belief of lawful marriage. Since, the applicant herein was an adult partner in the relationship and was well aware of the consequences of such relationship and which had the approval of the families as well and they had the continuous physical relationship out of their free will. It is not the case of the opposite party no.2 that the applicant had the relationship either against her will or without her consent. Therefore, the offence against the applicant are also not be made out prima facie on the facts of the case u/S 493 I.P.C.

24. Question No. 'III' :- It has been submitted by the counsels for the applicant as well as for the opposite party no.2, due to lapse of time the opposite party no.2 has already moved ahead in life and has married someone else and pendency of the instant prosecution against the applicant at the behest of the opposite party no.2 will be a continuous harassment to the opposite party no.2 in her new matrimonial life. In view thereof, the opposite party no.2 had accepted the situation and has entered into a compromise with the applicant and do not want to prosecute the case against the applicant herein. In view of the aforesaid compromise between the parties, there are very remote and bleak chances of conviction of the applicant herein and the pendency of this prosecution will be a futile exercise and in view of the settled matrimonial life of the opposite party no.2 and further developments in her life, pendency of the instant prosecution against the applicant will cause oppression and harassment not only of the applicant but that of the opposite party no.2 as well. In the case of Kapil Gupta vs. State of NCT of Delhi & Another : Criminal Appeal No. 1217 of 2022 (@ SLP (CRL.) No. 5806 of 2022) dated 10.08.2022, the Apex Court in para '16' & '17' has held as under:

"16. In both the cases, though the charge sheets have been filed, the charges are yet to be framed and as such, the trial has not yet commenced. It is further to be noted that since the respondent No.2 herself is not supporting the prosecution case, even if the criminal trial is permitted to go ahead, it will end in nothing else than an acquittal. If the request of the parties is denied, it will be amounting to only adding one more criminal case to the already overburdened criminal courts.

17. In that view of the matter, we find that though in a heinous or serious crime like rape, the Court should not normally exercise the powers of quashing the proceedings, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case and in order to give succour to Respondent No. 2 so that she is saved from further agony of facing two criminal trials, one as a victim and one as an accused, we find that this is a fit case wherein the extraordinary powers of this Court be exercised to quash the criminal proceedings."

Therefore, in the facts and circumstances of the case, in the light of the aforesaid judgement of the Apex Court, the instant case is a fit case to be quashed as there are very remote and bleak chances of conviction of the applicant. Looking at the facts and circumstances of the case, specifically in view of the compromise between the parties and the pendency of the instant prosecution would cause oppression and harassment not only to the applicant but also to the opposite party no.2.

25. Question No. 'IV':- Since, in the instant case, this Court has already held prima facie no offence u/S 376 or 493

I.P.C., is made out against the applicant. The victim/opposite party no.2 has already married to someone else and has moved ahead in life and the pendency of the instant case will cause further harassment to her and she has already entered into a compromise with the applicant and had given statement on oath before the learned Trial Court that she don't want to prosecute this case against the applicant which has also been reiterated by the opposite party no.2 before this Court. Therefore, in the considered view of this Court, it will be duty of this Court to exercise the powers u/S 482 Cr.P.C., to quash the instant proceedings to secure the ends of justice not only to the applicant but also to save the opposite party no.2 from further harassment.

26. In view of the aforesaid discussions, since there was no prima facie case u/S 376 or 493 against the applicant herein and further the parties have entered into a compromise as the opposite party no.2 has already moved ahead in life and as settled in a new matrimonial life with someone else, the pendency of the instant case will be a further harassment to her and in view of the aforesaid discussions, there are very bleak and remote chances of conviction to the applicant on the given facts of the case, therefore, the Charge Sheet No. 114/17 dated 20.06.2017 and entire proceedings in Case No. 3056/IX of 2017 (State vs. Mohit Soni), arising out of Case Crime No. 201 of 2017 u/S 493, 376, 504, 506 I.P.C., P.S.- Rajapur, District-Chitrakoot, pending in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chitrakoot, are hereby quashed.

27. The instant application is disposed of accordingly.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Applicants Mahipal and his three co-accused persons have jointly filed this petition under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure for quashing of the criminal proceedings arising out of the Case Crime No. 456 of 2010, under Section 307 IPC registered at Police Station Nai Mandi, District Muzaffar Nagar which is subject matter of the Sessions Trial No. 170 of 2011, titled State vs. Mahipal and others, pending before the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Muzaffar Nagar, on the basis of the compromise dated 12.10.2023 (Annexure No. 4).

2. The above noted case was registered on the basis of the statement of Rishipal son of Kadam Singh, wherein he alleged that Mahipal, resident of his village keeps on breaching the ridge (Dol) of agricultural land and despite requesting him to not to do so, he tends to enter into a quarrel. My son Praveen Kumar is running a grocery shop and sons of Mahipal are also running a shop for selling hydro and acid. Today at around 3:00 PM, my son was on the shop and my nephews Sachin and Pradeep Kumar were also there when Mahipal alongwith his sons Neetu, Lalit, and father namely Sukhpal came to our shop, who alongwith Sukhpal exhorted that everyday you raise complaint regarding breach of ridge (Dol), so today we will eliminate you. Upon this all the four assailants who were carrying acid in a container, with an intention to kill my son Praveen and nephews Sachin, Pradeep threw acid upon them, and it resulted in serious injuries to all of them. This incident was witnessed by Baburam son of Paldu resident of Sikhreda and Ravindra son of Madan resident of Sarmujheda, Police Station Nai Mandi, Muzaffar Nagar. At the time of incident, I was purchasing petrol from a petrol pump for my truck and on receiving the information, I reached at the spot and the witnesses told that the injured have been taken to the hospital. On these broad allegations, the above FIR was registered for the alleged commission of offences punishable under Section 307 IPC.

3. After registration of the case, the police carried out investigation and submitted the final report bearing Charge Sheet no. 118 of 2010 dated 8.5.2010 under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C against the applicants-accused for alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 307 IPC.

4. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that pursuant to the final report, the case was committed before the court of sessions for trial and during the pendency of the same, with the intervention of the respectable persons of the village, the parties have agreed to resolve the dispute and the compromise arrived at on 12.10.2023 is appended with this application as Annexure No. 4. Learned Counsel has invited the attention of the Court to the compromise and further submitted that on the basis of this settlement, the cross case registered at the instance of applicants bearing Case Crime No. 456A of 2010, i.e. Sessions Trial No. 1109 of 2012, under Sections 323, 324, 326 is also settled and the parties do not want to contest the case against each other.

5. Learned counsel has referred to the decision of this Court in Mohabbat and 2 others vs. State of U.P. and another (Application U/S 482 No. 702 of 2019) and the decision in Hayyat and another vs. State of U.P. and another (Application U/S 482 No. - 796 of 2019 and submitted that following the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Gian Singh vs. State of Punjab reported in (2012) 10 SCC 303, this Court has quashed the criminal proceedings relating to the alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 307 IPC. He prays that the petition be allowed and the criminal proceedings pending against the applicants be quashed on the basis of the compromise.

6. At this stage, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 namely Rishipal has filed the counter affidavit which is taken on record.

7. Learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 has stated that indeed the parties have amicably settled the dispute and he has no objection in case, the prayer made by the applicants for quashing of the FIR is accepted. According to the learned counsel for respondent no. 2, in view of the compromise of the parties, the chances of conviction have become weak, therefore, no useful purpose would be served by continuing with the criminal proceedings.

8. The prayer is opposed by the learned State Counsel who has argued that the offences are serious and in such cases, the compromise between the parties is meaningless as the nature of the offence is not against an individual, but is against the society. He prays that the petition be dismissed.

9. During the course of hearing, it is not disputed by the learned counsel for the applicants and the learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 that in the alleged occurrence, victim Sachin had suffered serious deep burn injuries on vital parts of his body, i.e. face, front of chest upper part, front of neck, both upper arms, front of thigh, right denum of foot etc. and similarly the other two injured namely Praveen and Pradeep also suffered deep burn injuries on the vital parts of their bodies.

10. Learned counsel for the parties have been heard and with their assistance, the case file has been perused.

11. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and considering their submissions, this Court finds that the solitary ground of compromise set up in this petition for quashing of the criminal proceedings is not worth acceptance considering the manner of the commission of offences, as well as the nature and seriousness of the injuries suffered by the victims. No doubt, by interpretation, the High Courts and the Hon'ble Supreme Court have injected some elasticity in quashing criminal proceedings, relating to the non-compoundable offences, through exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure, but such a relaxation cannot be construed as an absolute one and would depend upon various factors including the magnitude of the offences, manner of the commission of offences, weapons used in the crime etc. and effect on the society.

12. By now it is well settled that the penal laws are aimed to deter the citizens from resorting to the commission of crime, and if, the offences of heinous nature are allowed to be compromised, it would adversely impact the object of penal laws. If, the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is permitted to be exercised in respect of the heinous crimes, then it would certainly encourage the criminals to take law in their own hands. At this stage, this Court deems it appropriate to refer the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Gian Singh vs. State of Punjab reported in (2012) 10 SCC 303, wherein the Apex Court while examining the exercise of inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. on the basis of compromise in relation to the serious offences made the following observations:-

"61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz.: (i) to secure the ends of justice, or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or FIR may be exercised where the offender and the victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and the offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity, etc.; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences."

13. Apart from the above decision, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Laxmi Narayan and others reported in 2019 AIR (Supreme Court) 1296 further laid down the principles for quashing of the criminal proceedings on the strength of compromise, in non-compoundable offences by exercising inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The relevant portion of the judgment is extracted below:-

"13. Considering the law on the point and the other decisions of this Court on the point, referred to hereinabove, it is observed and held as under:

i) that the power conferred under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings for the non-compoundable offences under Section 320 of the Code can be exercised having overwhelmingly and predominantly the civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes and when the parties have resolved the entire dispute amongst themselves;

ii) such power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involved heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society;

iii) similarly, such power is not to be exercised for the offences under the special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender;

iv) offences under Section 307 IPC and the Arms Act etc. would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone, and therefore, the criminal proceedings for the offence under Section 307 IPC and/or the Arms Act etc. which have a serious impact on the society cannot be quashed in exercise of powers under Section 482 of the Code, on the ground that the parties have resolved their entire dispute amongst themselves. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to framing the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. However, such an exercise by the High Court would be permissible only after the evidence is collected after investigation and the charge sheet is filed/charge is framed and/or during the trial. Such exercise is not permissible when the matter is still under investigation. Therefore, the ultimate conclusion in paragraphs 29.6 and 29.7 of the decision of this Court in the case of Narinder Singh (supra) should be read harmoniously and to be read as a whole and in the circumstances stated hereinabove;

v) while exercising the power under Section 482 of the Code to quash the criminal proceedings in respect of non-compoundable offences, which are private in nature and do not have a serious impart on society, on the ground that there is a settlement/compromise between the victim and the offender, the High Court is required to consider the antecedents of the accused; the conduct of the accused, namely, whether the accused was absconding and why he was absconding, how he had managed with the complainant to enter into a compromise etc.

14. Insofar as the present case is concerned, the High Court has quashed the criminal proceedings for the offences under Sections 307 and 34 IPC mechanically and even when the investigation was under progress. Somehow, the accused managed to enter into a compromise with the complainant and sought quashing of the FIR on the basis of a settlement. The allegations are serious in nature. He used the fire arm also in commission of the offence. Therefore, the gravity of the offence and the conduct of the accused is not at all considered by the High Court and solely on the basis of a settlement between the accused and the complainant, the High Court has mechanically quashed the FIR, in exercise of power under Section 482 of the Code, which is not sustainable in the eyes of law. The High Court has also failed to note the antecedents of the accused."

14. Thus, in view of the above decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, the citations relied upon by the learned counsel for the applicants in Mohabbat's case (supra) and Hayyat,s case (supra) would not be applicable as in the said cases, the above noticed principles laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Laxmi Narayan and others, 2019(5) SCC 688 had not been noticed.

15. Now while reverting to the facts of the case in hand, this Court finds that as per prosecution, the applicants were carrying acid with them and caused serious burn injuries to Sachin, Pradeep and Praveen and the manner of crime as narrated by the complainant Rishipal in the FIR is horrendous as they came to the shop of victims and threw acid on them. Further, this is a case where the applicant accused have given their own version relating to the occurrence as a cross case bearing Case Crime No. 456A of 2010 under Section 323, 324 326 IPC, Police Station Nai Mandi, District Muzaffar Nagar lodged at their instance for having suffered injuries at the hands of complainant etc., is also pending adjudication.

16. Consequently, considering the facts and circumstances of this case, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the sole ground of compromise raised by the applicants in this petition for quashing of the criminal proceedings is rejected.

17. Resultantly, without meaning any expression of opinion on the merits of the case, the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is dismissed.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 156(3), 200, 202, 202(1) & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 328 & 376-D - Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, 2012 – Sections 5-G & 6: - Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. – for quashing the summoning order as well as the entire criminal proceedings – complaint case – under Sections 376D IPC and Sections 5G/6 of the POCSO Act – victim alleges repeated sexual assault by the applicant from 2015 to 2020 and again in 2023, supported by her St.ment u/s 200 Cr.P.C. and corroborated by two witnesses u/s 202 Cr.P.C. - Trial court being found prima facie evidence and issued a summoning order - applicant contended that the complaint is fabricated due to business rivalry and highlights inconsistencies such as the complainant's refusal to undergo timely medical examination, lack of corroborative medical evidence, vague witness St.ments, absence of specific dates and locations, and failure to raise alarm or report the alleged incidents over several years - he also argues procedural lapses in the summoning order and trial court did not examine the matter u/s 202(1) Cr.P.C. knowing that the applicant was residing beyond the jurisdiction of court – Court finds that, trial court while initially summoning the applicant failed to consider key procedural and evidentiary lapses, including the absence of any reference to the medical report in the complaint, lack of injuries noted in the report and the complainant's refusal to undergo a court-directed medical examination without any coercion - Additionally, the Court did not conduct a mandatory inquiry under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. despite the applicant residing outside its jurisdiction, and the complainant had not reported the alleged incidents spanning several years to any authority or family - Given these deficiencies, the Court held that the summoning order against the applicant to be unsustainable and set – with clarification that this order does not affect the summoning of co-accused.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mayank Kumar Jain, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Sengar, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Ajay Singh, learned counsel for the complainant and learned AGA for the State.

2. Present application has been filed by the applicant under Section 482 Cr.P.C. praying for quashing the entire proceedings of Complaint Case No. 0009 of 2023, arising out of Criminal Case No. 0164 of 2023 (Smt. Vibha Prajapati vs. Shishir Gupta & Others) under Sections 376D of IPC and Section 5G/6 of the POCSO Act, 2012, Police Station Kotwali Orai, District Jalaun, pending before the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Jalaun at Orai.

3. Opposite party no. 2 filed a complaint against the applicant and other persons under Sections 328 and 376 of IPC and Section 5/6 of the POCSO Act, 2012 Police Station Kotwali Orai, District Jalaun.

4. The allegations in the complaint are summarised thus:

4.1. The applicant, who was working as a Contractor, opened an office in the name and style of S. K. Enterprises in the house of one R.S. Gupta at Tulsi Nagar, Orai, District Jalaun. Opposite party no. 2 came to know that there was a vacancy of a Clerk and a Stenographer in the office of the applicant. She met the applicant in the year 2015 for such job and was asked to approach after one week. She was offered a job of Clerk in the office of the applicant on monthly payment of Rs. 5000/-.

4.2. After 15-20 days, the applicant called the complainant at his office at 9:00 PM. When she reached the office at around 8:30 PM, she found the applicant and one Ajit Singh to be present there. She was offered a cup of coffee by the applicant. After consuming it, she lost her senses. When she regained consciousness, she found that there were no cloths on her body. The applicant and Ajit Singh had committed rape with her.

4.3. When the complainant informed that she will file a complaint against them with the police, they showed her an obscene video and threatened to make this video public in case she filed any complaint or told her family about this incident. The applicant and Ajit Singh raped her on several occasions after this, under the pretext of leaking the obscene video.

4.4. During the nationwide lockdown in 2020, the applicant closed his office at Orai. There was no communication between the applicant and the complainant during 2020 to 2023. In the month of September 2023, the applicant called the complainant and asked her to work with him again, but she refused. The applicant showed some indecent photographs and video to her and threatened to make these photos and video public in Orai and send it to her family members if she does not accompany him.

4.5. She became very frightened. She was taken to an unknown house by the applicant where Sardar Ajit Singh was already present. They raped her without her consent. Thereafter they took her in the car and after some distance removed her and left from there saying that they have opened their office in Noida. She has to come there whenever called otherwise she would have to face serious consequences. Firoz Khan and Ghanshyam were passing from there at that time. Upon enquiring with her, she narrated the entire incident to them.

5. Sri Ajay Sengar, Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that:

5.1. One Ritesh Gupta, resident of Madhya Pradesh is also a Railway Contractor and has business rivalry with the applicant. He felt enemity with the applicant. He planned to implicate the applicant in this heinous crime. The complainant is managed by the gang of false criminal litigations.

5.2. After recording the statement of the complainant under Section 200 of Cr.P.C., the Court concerned directed the Chief Medical Officer, Jalaun by order dated 04.10.2023, to medically examine her and submit his report. But the complainant refused to undergo internal and external medical examination on 18.10.2023. The Chief Medical Officer, Jalaun submitted his report to the Court concerned about the refusal made by the complainant on 20.10.2023.

5.3. The complainant produced her medical report before the Court concerned on 7.11.2023, stating that she could not get herself medically examined earlier because she was under mensuration period and one month had passed since the alleged occurance so she did not undergo medical examination. She was also hospitalised from 7.10.2023 and 8.10.2023.

5.4. Two witnesses produced and mentioned by the complainant in her complaint, did not disclose any date, time and place of occurrence. They also did not state anything about the knowledge of the business and status of the applicant.

5.5. Both the witnesses are chance witnesses and the Learned Court concerned did not make any attempt to examine their veracity and, therefore, their evidence cannot be relied upon. Moreover, PW-2-Divesh Diwaker stated that the entire incident was narrated to him by the complainant herself.

5.6. The complaint was filed on 30.09.2023. A medical report dated 12.09.2023 i.e. prior to the date of filing of the complaint, was filed by the complainant subsequently. This medical report was prepared at Jhansi and the complications referred to in the said report do not corroborate the version of rape with the complainant. Moreover, the complainant did not give any reference of her medical examination dated 12.09.2023 in her complaint. Therefore, there was no medical evidence on record which could demonstrate that the complainant was raped by the applicant.

5.7. Though the complainant stated that since 2015, the applicant had committed rape with her, she did not raise any alarm and did not make any complaint thereto to any of the authority or to her family members. She remained silent about the incident.

5.8. Learned Court concerned before passing the summoning order did not examine the matter under Section 202(1) of Cr.P.C. that the applicant was residing beyond its jurisdiction.

5.9. There is no evidence in the form of video clip, mobile clip or any photograph which could demonstrate that the applicant committed rape with the complainant, as alleged. No date, time and place of occurrence had been mentioned by the complainant although it is alleged that the applicant continued to rape her for over a period of more than five years.

5.10. The applicant never resided at Orai. He does not know co-accused Sardar Ajit Singh as he is a resident of District Faizabad.

6. To buttress his arguments, learned counsel for the applicant relied upon the judgments of the Supreme Court in Pepsi Foods Ltc. and Another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate and Others, (1998) 5 SCC 749 and National Bank of Oman vs. Barakara Abdul Aziz and Another, (2013) 2 SCC 488 and a judgment of this Court in Chhote Lal vs. State of UP & Another (Application u/s 482 No. 39702 of 2017, decided on 18.04.2019).

7. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that the turnover of the applicant is in crores and his total income assessed under the Income-tax is Rs. 3,35,87,780/- in the Assessment Year 2023-24. The applicant had paid income tax of Rs. 1,05,92,058/- on this income. It is also submitted that this is also one of the reasons to falsely implicate the applicant in this case to fetch money from him.

8. Per contra, learned AGA and learned counsel for the complainant submitted that:

8.1. The complainant does not know any Ritesh Gupta, as alleged by the applicant. Therefore, the allegations made by the applicant are incorrect. The fact of the case and the evidence adduced by the complainant and the witnesses are subject to trial. The Court will arrive at a rightful conclusion only on the basis of evidence produced by the complainant during the trial. It is also stated that at this stage, the defence of the applicant cannot be taken into consideration.

8.2. The complainant during her statement under Section 200 of Cr.P.C., consistently corroborated the facts of the incident. Apart from her, two witnesses, who were passing through the area where the applicant left her after committing her rape, have also during their statement under Section 202 Cr.P.C. corroborated the case of the complainant.

8.3. PW-1-Ghanshyam, during his statement under Section 202 Cr.P.C. stated that two persons dropped a girl from their Car and threatened her. He enquired from the complainant what happened. She informed that two persons, namely, the applicant-Shishir Gupta and another person, Ajit Singh had committed rape with her. Prior to this also, they had committed rape with her at several times.

8.4. The same statement was given by another witness, namely, PW-2 Divesh Diwaker. There is no denial of statements of the complainant and the witnesses by the applicant.

8.5. The medical report produced by the complainant before the learned Court concerned is not fabricated as the medical report had been issued by the Government Hospital.

9. There is an allegation against the applicant that in the year 2015, he provided a job to the complainant in his office. After 15-20 days, lured her in his office on pretext of some official work. He offered a cup of coffee to her with some intoxicated substance. She lost her senses after consuming that coffee. When she regained consciousness, she found herself naked. She apprehended that the applicant and another accused had committed rape with her. When the complainant informed them that she will file a complaint against them, they showed her an obscene video and threatended her that if any complaint is lodged with the police or if she informed her family about the incident, they would make the video public. Under the threat of this video, the applicant and another person continued to rape her several times later.

10. In September 2023, the applicant called the complainant to work with him again but she refused. The applicant then showed some indecent photographs and video and threatened her that if she would not come with him, he would make the photographs and video public in Orai and would also send them to her family.

11. She got frightened. She was taken to an unknown house by the applicant where Sardar Ajit Singh was already present. They raped her without her consent. They took her in a car and after some distance removed her and left her there. Firoz Khan and Ghanshyam were passing from there at that time. Upon enquiring, she narrated the entire incident to them.

12. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pramod Suryabhan Pawar VS State of Maharashtra and another, (2019) 9 SCC 608 has considered the principles, scope, and ambit of the powers of the Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and held that:

6. Section 482 is an overriding section which saves the inherent powers of the court to advance the cause of justice. Under Section 482 the inherent jurisdiction of the court can be exercised (i) to give effect to an order under CrPC; (ii) to prevent the abuse of the process of the court; and (iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice. The powers of the court under Section 482 are wide and the court is vested with a significant amount of discretion to decide whether or not to exercise them. The court should be guarded in the use of its extraordinary jurisdiction to quash an FIR or criminal proceeding as it denies the prosecution the opportunity to establish its case through investigation and evidence. These principles have been consistently followed and reiterated by this Court. In Inder Mohan Goswami v. State of Uttaranchal [Inder Mohan Goswami v. State of Uttaranchal, (2007) 12 SCC 1 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 259] , this Court observed : (SCC p. 10, paras 23-24):

"23. This Court in a number of cases has laid down the scope and ambit of courts' powers under Section 482 CrPC. Every High Court has inherent powers to act ex debito justitiae to do real and substantial justice, for the administration of which alone it exists, or to prevent abuse of the process of the court. Inherent power under Section 482 CrPC can be exercised:

(i) to give effect to an order under the Code;

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of the court, and

(iii) to otherwise secure the ends of justice.

24. Inherent powers under Section 482 CrPC though wide have to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution and only when exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in this section itself. Authority of the court exists for the advancement of justice. If any abuse of the process leading to injustice is brought to the notice of the court, then the court would be justified in preventing injustice by invoking inherent powers in absence of specific provisions in the statute."

7. Given the varied nature of cases that come before the High Courts, any strict test as to when the court's extraordinary powers can be exercised is likely to tie the court's hands in the face of future injustices. This Court in State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] conducted a detailed study of the situations where the court may exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction and laid down a list of illustrative examples of where quashing may be appropriate. It is not necessary to discuss all the examples, but a few bear relevance to the present case. The Court in Bhajan Lal [State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 426] noted that quashing may be appropriate where: (SCC pp. 378-79, para 102)

"102. … (1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2).

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

8. In deciding whether to exercise its jurisdiction under Section 482, the Court does not adjudicate upon the veracity of the facts alleged or enter into an appreciation of competing evidence presented. The limited question is whether on the face of the FIR, the allegations constitute a cognizable offence. As this Court noted in Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra [Dhruvaram Murlidhar Sonar v. State of Maharashtra, (2019) 18 SCC 191 : 2018 SCC OnLine SC 3100] , (Dhruvaram Sonar) : (SCC para 13)

"13. It is clear that for quashing the proceedings, meticulous analysis of factum of taking cognizance of an offence by the Magistrate is not called for. Appreciation of evidence is also not permissible in exercise of inherent powers. If the allegations set out in the complaint do not constitute the offence of which cognizance has been taken, it is open to the High Court to quash the same in exercise of its inherent powers."

13. In Pepsi Foods Ltd. And Another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate And Other (supra), the Apex Court observed in paragraph 28, as under:

"28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. it is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

14. In National Bank of Oman vs. Barakara Abdul Aziz And Another (supra), the Apex Court, further explaining the text, observed as under in paragraphs 9:

"9. The duty of a Magistrate receiving a complaint is set out in Section 202 of the Cr.P.C. and there is an obligation on the Magistrate to find out if there is any matter which calls for investigation by a criminal court. The scope of enquiry under this Section is restricted only to find out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process has to be issued or not. Investigation under Section 202 of the Cr.P.C. is different from the investigation contemplated in Section 156 as it is only for holding the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. The scope of enquiry under Section 202 of the Cr.P.C. is, therefore, limited to the ascertainment of truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint:

(i) on the materials placed by the complainant before the Court;

(ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process has been made our; and

(iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the accused may have."

15. In Birla Corporation Limited vs. Adventz Investments and Holdings Limited & Others, 2019 AIR (SC) 2390, the Apex Court observed as under:

31. Under the amended sub-section (1) to Section 202 Cr.P.C., it is obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond its jurisdiction, he shall enquire into the case himself or direct the investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit for finding out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

32. By Cr. P.C. (Amendment) Act, 2005, in Section 202 Cr.P.C. of the Principal Act with effect from 23.06.2006, in sub-section (1), the words "…and shall, in a case where accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises jurisdiction…" were inserted by Section 19 of the Criminal Procedure Code (Amendment) Act, 2005. In the opinion of the legislature, such amendment was necessary as false complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places in order to harass them. The object of the amendment is to ensure that persons residing at far off places are not harassed by filing false complaints making it obligatory for the Magistrate to enquire. Notes on Clause 19 reads as under:-

"False complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places simply to harass them. In order to see that the innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused."

33. Considering the scope of amendment to Section 202 Cr.P.C. in Vijay Dhanuka and Others vs. Najima Mamtaj and Others, (2014) 14 SCC 638, it was held as under:-

"12. ….The use of the expression "shall" prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate."

Since the amendment is aimed to prevent persons residing outside the jurisdiction of the court from being harassed, it was reiterated that holding of enquiry is mandatory. The purpose or objective behind the amendment was also considered by this Court in Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar and Another (2017) 3 SCC 528 and National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz and Another (2013) 2 SCC 488."

16. An order passed by the Court, summoning the accused to face trial, must reflect that it has applied its mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. The Court cannot act merely because a complaint had been made and two witnesses in support of the allegations are produced before it. It has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence, both oral and documentary, in support thereof and whether that would be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing home charge against the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused.

17. Perusal of the impugned summoning order goes to show that considering the material evidence as available on record, the Learned Court opined that there was sufficient prima facie evidence about the commission of the crime by the applicant as alleged by the complainant in her complaint. The Court therefore summoned the applicant to face the trial.

18. The Learned Court completely lost sight of the fact that no date and time of incident were mentioned by the complainant. She made allegations that she was subjected to rape by the applicant and another accused for a long period, i.e. from 2015 to 2020 and in the year 2023. But she did not mention the date and time of any of such incidents in her complaint. The witnesses of the complainant stated before the court merely on the basis of the information given by the complainant.

19. While passing the impugned order, the Learned Court completely ignored the fact that no refrence of the medical report (paper no. 18 kha) was made by the complainant in her complaint. This certificate was issued by District Male Hospital, Jhansi on 12.09.2023. In this medical certificate, no injury on the person of the complainant was found which can demonstrate that she was subjected to gang rape. Pertinent to note that the Court concerned, after recording the statement of the complainant under section 200 Cr.P.C., directed the Chief Medical Officer, Jalaun at Orai to conduct medical examination of the complainant, but she refused to undergo for her medical examination. She stated before the Medical Officer that she does not want to get her internal and external medical examination done. There was no pressure upon her to not get her medical examination done.

20. Thereafter, she moved an application before the Court concerned stating therein that when she appeared before the medical officer Orai for her medical examination, she was undergoing monthly menstruation cycle and since a month had passed since the date of the incident, therefore she she did not consent to get her medical examination done. This fact was not informed by her to the Medical Officer.

21. In the absence of any medical evidence to corroborate the allegations made by the complainant, the Court erroneously arrived at a conclusion that, prima facie, there was evidence of committing gang rape by the applicant and other accused person with the complainant.

22. The Learned Court also failed to conduct an enquiry under Section 202(1) of Cr.P.C. to examine the veracity of prosecution witnesses. Since the applicant is a resident of District Ghaziabad and his address of Ghaziabad was also mentioned by the complainant in her complaint, therefore, to ascertain whether the concerned Court has jurisdiction to entertain the complaint, an enquiry under Section 202(1) of Cr.P.C. was mandatory to be conducted by the court.

23. It is also noteworthy that as with regard to the allegation made by the complainant that she was subjected to rape by the applicant for a long duration (i.e. from 2015 to 2020 and in September 2023), she neither raised any alarm to that effect nor informed her parents or other family members. She never approached the local authorities to file a complaint about it. Therefore, it appears that only for the purpose of harassing the applicant, false and concocted allegations are levelled against him by the complainant.

24. In view of the discussion made above, the application is partly allowed. Summoning order dated 10.11.2023 under Section 376D IPC and 5G/6 POCSO Act, 2012 passed by Additional District and Sessions Judge/ Special Judge, Jalaun at Orai in Complaint Case No.0009 of 2023 arising out of criminal case no.0164 of 2023 (Smt. Vibha Prajapati Vs Shishir Gupta and others) to the extent it summons the applicant is hereby set aside.

25. No order as to cost.

26. It is made clear that by this order, summoning of non-applicant Sardar Ajit Singh, who is also an accused and have been summoned, has not been set aside.

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 – Sections 2(1)(e), 11, 29A(4),(5)&(6) – Definition of "Court" – Jurisdiction for Extension of Arbitral Mandate and Substitution of Arbitrator – Interpretation of "unless the context otherwise requires" – Conflict with Section 11 – Judicial Hierarchy.

Applications under Section 29A(4)&(5) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 were filed seeking extension of the mandate of the Arbitral Tribunal in two separate domestic arbitrations. In the first (ARBT No. 2 of 2022), disputes arose from rent agreements for dhaba facilities along the Yamuna Expressway; arbitration invoked in 2019; proceedings delayed due to negotiations, Covid-19, objections, and applications; opposite parties refused mutual extension under Section 29A(3). In the second (ARBT No. 5 of 2023), disputes related to a construction contract with U.P. PWD; pleadings completed in 2022; mandate expired in 2023; respondent refused consent for extension.

The Court framed the question: Whether powers under Sections 29A(4),(5)&(6) in domestic arbitration are exercisable exclusively by the High Court (irrespective of ordinary original civil jurisdiction or appointment under Section 11), or by the Principal Civil Court/Commercial Court as per Section 2(1)(e).

Applicants contended that "Court" in Section 29A must be read contextually with Section 11; power to substitute under Section 29A(6) akin to appointment; literal application of Section 2(1)(e) leads to conflict/anomaly violating judicial hierarchy. Opposite parties argued for strict adherence to Section 2(1)(e); no absurdity in Principal Civil Court exercising powers; distinction between appointment (Section 11) and substitution (Section 29A(6)).

Held: Genesis of Section 29A traced to need for time-bound arbitration; phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" in Section 2(1) allows contextual interpretation. Literal reading of "Court" under Section 2(1)(e) creates conflict with Section 11 where High Court/Supreme Court appoints arbitrator; substitution under Section 29A(6) akin to appointment. Purposive interpretation required to avoid absurdity and preserve hierarchy. Where arbitrator appointed under Section 11 by High Court/Supreme Court, only that Court has jurisdiction under Section 29A. Where appointment not by High Court/Supreme Court (e.g., mutual/statutory), Principal Civil Court under Section 2(1)(e) has jurisdiction.
Conflicting single bench views noted (Indian Farmers Fertilizers Coop. Ltd. v. Manish Engineering Enterprises, 2022; A'Xykno Capital Services Pvt. Ltd. v. State of U.P., 2023; Lucknow Agencies v. U.P. Avas Vikas Parishad, 2019). Matter referred to Larger Bench on: Whether, where arbitrator appointed by Supreme Court/High Court, only that Court can hear Section 29A application? Whether, where appointment by parties/statute (not High Court/Supreme Court), Court under Section 2(1)(e) can exercise Section 29A powers including substitution under Section 29A(6)?

Applications adjourned sine die pending Larger Bench decision.

Case Law Discussed:
1. Ashwani Kumar Saxena v. State of M.P., (2012) 9 SCC 750

FACTS

3. The factual matrix in ARBT 2 of 2022 has been delineated below:

a. By an agreement dated February 7, 2003 executed between Taj Expressway Industrial Development Authority (now known as the Yamuna Expressway Industrial Development Authority, hereinafter referred to as the 'YEIDA') and M/s Jaiprakash Industries Limited (subsequently name changed to M/s Jaipraksh Associates Limited (hereinafter referred to as the 'JAL'), JAL was granted concession for arrangement of finances, design, engineering, construction and operation, of the expressway between Noida and Agra, and to collect & retain toll from the vehicles using the expressway during the term of 36 years, commencing from the date of commercial operation of the expressway plus any extension thereto (hereinafter referred to as the 'Yamuna Expressway Project').

b. A Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV) was incorporated by JAL for the implementation of the project under the name of Jaypee Infratech Limited (hereinafter referred to as the 'Applicant'). All the rights and obligations of JAL under the agreement dated February 7, 2003, were transferred to the Applicant by an assignment agreement dated October 19, 2007, executed by and between YEDIA, JAL, and the Applicant. Thereafter, a project transfer agreement was executed between JAL and the Applicant on October 22, 2007, and all assets, rights, and privilege and all liabilities, obligations, and duties relating to the Yamuna Expressway Project were transferred to the Petitioner.

c. YEIDA, in discharge of its obligations under the agreement dated February 7, 2003, transferred lands for development of the Yamuna Expressway Project and other facilities etc. to the Applicant through various lease agreements. The Applicant was desirous of setting up Dhaba facility at locations namely Km 107 LHS and Km 100 RHS, respectively, across the Yamuna Expressway Project from Greater Noida to Agra. For this purpose, the Applicant, constructed & developed structures i.e. Permanent Facility Complexes at places located at Km 107 LHS and Km 100 RHS respectively.

d. M/S Ehbh Services Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as the 'opposite party No.1') approached the Applicant to set up, operate, and run a Dhaba and submitted its offer to provide the same at both Km 107 LHS and Km 100 RHS. Thereafter, the opposite party No.1 acting through Mr. Furkan Khan, Authorized Signatory of the opposite party No.1 (hereinafter referred to as the 'opposite party No.2') entered into Rent Agreements on December 9, 2013, for both the locations i.e. Km 107 LHS and Km 100 RHS for the aforesaid purpose.

e. Due to certain disputes having arisen between the parties, the Applicant sent a legal notice dated January 12, 2019, under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1872 terminating the lease deed on expiry of the lease period. Thereafter, by a letter dated March 07, 2019, pursuant to Clause 14 of the agreement between the parties, the Applicant advised the opposite parties to be present for a meeting to amicably resolve the dispute on March 15, 2019.

f. Since the disputes between the parties could not be resolved through amicable settlement, the Applicant vide its letter dated June 15, 2019, invoked the arbitration clause under Clause 14.1 of the Rent Agreement. Vide another letter dated June 22, 2019, the Applicant appointed the Sole Arbitrator to decide the disputes between the parties. The Sole Arbitrator entered into reference on June 25, 2019.

g. Vide email dated October 17, 2019, the opposite parties informed the Sole Arbitrator that they desire to settle the matter through negotiations and sought suspension of the arbitral proceedings till November 20, 2019, without prejudice to their legal rights. This was agreed to by the Applicant. Thereafter, arbitral proceedings were suspended till December 12, 2019, at the request of the opposite parties.

h. On February 26, 2020, the Sole Arbitrator passed an order rejecting the application of the opposite parties filed under Section 12 & 13 of the Act and fixed schedule for completion of the pleadings and put the next date for May 16, 2020. Thereafter, vide its email dated March 21, 2020, the opposite parties submitted an application under Section 16 of the Act and sought adjournment of the date fixed for hearing on account of the outbreak of Covid – 19 epidemic.

i. Vide its order dated May 10, 2021, the Sole Arbitrator rejected the application under Section 16 of the Act filed by the opposite parties.

j. On October 10, 2021, another meeting was held and a fresh schedule for completion of the pleadings was fixed and the case was listed on January 7, 2022. The meeting fixed for January 7, 2022, was postponed as the counsel of the opposite party had tested positive for Covid – 19 and finally the case was fixed for February 7, 2022.

k. Parties had filed their pleadings, but the opposite party objected to the filing of the rejoinder on the ground that the same was filed beyond the time fixed. The delay was condoned vide order dated February 7, 2022, and case was fixed for admission, denial of the documents, and filing of the necessary affidavits on March 15, 2022. The counsel of the opposite parties fell ill and the time to file the affidavits by the opposite parties was extended till March 31, 2022.

l. The case was taken up on March 31,2022. The opposite parties filed an application under Order 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 seeking interrogatories and discoveries. The Applicant was granted time to file its reply. The case was again taken up on May 28, 2022, and arguments were heard on the application of the opposite party preferred under Order 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. The matter was reserved for June 30, 2022, as there were vacations in June. There were directions issued to the opposite party to file an affidavit to the effect whether the opposite party is willing to extend the time by six months as provided under Section 29A of the Act.

m. Vide email dated July 14, 2022, the opposite party refused to extend the time by another six months. Accordingly vide its order dated July 16, 2022, the Sole Arbitrator asked the Applicant to take appropriate action under the provisions of the Act.

n. The Applicant then filed the instant application being ARBT 2 of 2022 under Section 29A(4) of the Act seeking extension of time by another one year so that the arbitration proceedings can be completed.

4. The factual matrix in ARBT 5 of 2023 is delineated below:

a. Claims/Disputes in the instant case arise out of and in connection with a contract agreement bearing bond no. 06/SE Meerut Circle/12-13 dated December 21, 2012 executed between the Applicant (M/S Verma Constructions) and the opposite party (UP Public Works Department) pertaining to the work related to the construction of the approach road and the additional approach road of bridge over river Ganga on Chetawala Ghat near Bhikund village in Hastinapur, Tehsil Mawana, District Meerut (UP) on Bill of Quantity Basis.

b. Due to failure of the parties to resolve such claims/disputes amicably, the Applicant (M/S Verma Constructions) invoked arbitration vide Arbitration vide its notice dated January 9, 2021, in accordance with the Contract Agreement, which was thereafter referred before the Sole Arbitrator for adjudication in terms of the said Contract Agreement.

c. The Arbitral Tribunal fixed the first date of hearing as April 29, 2021, and directed the Parties to file their Claim Petition, Defence, Rejoinder, etc. The parties were only able to complete their pleadings on May 16, 2022. The period prescribed under Section 29A of the Act expired on May 16, 2023. The Arbitral Tribunal vide its order dated June 26, 2023, requested the parties to seek appropriate approval from the management with respect to mutual extension of six months as provided under Section 29A(3) of the Act.

d. Counsel for the applicant gave its consent vide email dated August 8, 2023. However, the counsel for the Respondent vide email dated August 8, 2023, refused to give consent.

e. Due to failure of the parties to mutually extend the mandate of the Arbitral Tribunal, the Applicant filed the instant application being ARBT 5 of 2023 under Section 29A(4) of the Act before this Court.

QUESTION OF LAW FRAMED BY THIS COURT

5. During the course of the hearings, this Court had formulated the following question of law and asked the parties to make their submissions in accordance with the same:

"Whether in the case of domestic arbitration, the powers under Sections 29A(4), 29A(5), and 29A(6) of the Act can be exercised by the Commercial Court/Principal Civil Court or the powers can exclusively be exercised by a High Court irrespective of the fact that the High Court does not have ordinary original civil jurisdiction and irrespective of the fact that the original appointment was not made by the High Court?"

CONTENTIONS OF THE APPLICANT IN ARBT 2 OF 2022

6. Mr. Rohan Gupta, counsel appearing on behalf of the applicant in ARBT 2 of 2022 has made the following submissions based on the question of law formulated by this Court:

a. The word 'Court' occurring in Section 29A of the Act should be interpreted to mean the High Court, irrespective of whether in a particular case, the arbitrator has been appointed by mutual consent of the parties or under Section 11 of the Act.

b. The word Court stands defined under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act, as the commercial court or the High Court with original jurisdiction, for domestic arbitrations. Since the power under Section 29A of the Act to substitute an arbitrator necessarily includes the power to appoint an arbitrator, the term Court in Section 29A of the Act must be read with Section 11 of the Act in order to make the Act workable and to avoid conflict in the appointments done under Section 11 of the Act and Section 29A of the Act. It was not the intention of the legislature to give the power of appointment to the Commercial Courts.

c. The phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" used in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act requires the definition of the word "Court" used in Section 29A of the Act to be interpreted in the context it has been used in and the definition as provided in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act will not apply.

Section 29A of the Act is required to be read with Section 11 of the Act.

d. The phrase "If the Context otherwise requires" occurring in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act has been interpreted in the judgments of the Gujarat High Court in Nilesh Ramanbhai Patel and Others v. Bhanubhai Ramanbhai Patel reported in MANU/GJ/ 1549/2018, the Kerala High Court in Lots Shipping Company Limited v. Cochin Port Trust reported in MANU/KE/1142/2020, the Delhi High Court in Delhi Development Authority v. Tara Chand Sumit Construction Co. reported in MANU/DE/1034/2020, and the Calcutta High Court in Amit Kumar Gupta v. Dipak Prasad, reported in, 2021 SCC OnLine Cal 2174.

e. In Lots Shipping Company (supra), the Kerala High Court has given a purposive interpretation to the term "Court" used in Section 29A of the Act, in the context of Section 11 of the Act rather than literal interpretation.

f. Power to appoint an arbitrator lies only with the High Courts and the Supreme Court under Section 11 of the Act. Power to substitute an arbitrator under Section 29A(6) of the Act or an arbitral panel is akin to the power to appoint an arbitrator or an arbitration panel and therefore this provision is not to be read in isolation but along with Section 11 of the Act. Reliance in this regard was placed on the judgments in Nilesh Raman Bhai Patel (supra), Indian Farmers Fertilisers Cooperative Ltd. v. Manish Engineering Enterprises reported in MANU/UP/ 0515/2022, Amit Kumar Gupta (supra), Cobra Instalaciones Y Servicious, S.A. v. Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Company Limited delivered in MA No. 1920/2019, and Tara Chand (supra).

g. If the power to substitute (which is akin to appointment) is given to Civil Court under Section 29A of the Act, it would be in teeth of the powers conferred under Section 11 of the Act. Conflict would arise between the power of the superior courts to appoint an arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act and those of the Civil Court to substitute those arbitrators under Section 29A of the Act. Reliance was placed on the judgments in Nilesh Raman Bhai Patel (supra), and Tara Chand (supra).

h. An anomalous situation will arise if the word Court used in Section 29A of the Act is interpreted in a literal manner, wherein identical powers could be exercised in a contrary manner, prejudicial to the hierarchy of the Courts. Section 11 of the Act was amendment by Act 3 of 2016 w.e.f. October 23, 2015, along with the insertion of Section 29A. There is no other purpose of substituting the words Chief Justice or his designate with the words High Court and Supreme Court in Section 11, unless the legislature wanted to clarify that the power to appoint an arbitrator is only to vest with the High Courts and Supreme Court. Reliance was placed in this regard on the judgments in Lots Shipping Company (supra), and Nilesh Raman Bhai (supra).

i. The term Court referred to in Section 29A of the Act would mean the High Court irrespective of whether the appointment of the arbitrator was made under Section 11 of the Act. Section 29A of the Act empowers the Court to substitute an arbitrator or an arbitral panel, which is akin to the power of appointment and therefore, it would be the High Court only in case of domestic arbitration which would have exclusive jurisdiction to hear an application under Section 29A of the Act.

CONTENTIONS OF THE OPPOSITE PARTY IN ARBT 2 OF 2022

7. Mr. Sudhanshu Kumar, counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite parties has made the following submissions on the question of law framed by this Court:

a. Section 29A of the Act was added by Act 3 of 2016 w.e.f. October 23, 2015, prescribing the time limit for making an arbitral award. Clause 4 of Section 29A of the Act provides for termination of the mandate of the arbitrator on the expiry of the time period unless the same is extended by the "Court". Clause 6 leaves it open for the Court to substitute one or all of the arbitrators while considering the extension of the time period under Clause 4. On applying the definition of the word "Court" given in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act to the word "Court" as appearing in Section 29A of the Act it is clear that the powers under Section 29A of the Act can only be exercised by the principal Civil Court or High Court having ordinary original civil jurisdiction, but not by a High Court not exercising ordinary original civil jurisdiction, such as this Court.

b. The phrase "Unless the context otherwise requires" qualifying the definition clause in Section 2, can be applied to deviate from a clear and unambiguous definition of a word only when the otherwise context is discernible from the intention of the legislature and adhering to definition clause would lead to absurdity.

c. It is important to state here that the current definition of "Court" has also been inserted by the means of the Act No. 3 of 2016 whereby in case of an arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, the 'Court' means the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a district and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction. In the case of international commercial arbitration, it is only the High Court which comes under the definition of 'Court' with the principal Civil Court being excluded. Thus, the Union Legislature, intentionally and consciously, while making a distinction between the definition of the "Court" under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act as applicable to international commercial arbitration (Clause ii) vis a vis arbitration other than international commercial arbitration (Clause i), did not make any such distinction for the purposes of Section 29A of the Act. Under such circumstances, to hold that the powers under Section 29A of the Act can exclusively be exercised by the High Court even if it does not have ordinary original civil jurisdiction would go against the intention of the Legislature.

d. Similarly, the explanation to Section 47 of the Act was also amended by the very same Act 3 of 2016 and the meaning of "Court" was amended to exclude the Principal Civil Court and to include only High Court. However, no such explanation was incorporated in Section 29A of the Act. Even though Section 47 of the Act relates to foreign awards but the fact that no clarification was made in Section 29A of the Act similar to Section 47 of the Act further suggests that the intention of the legislature was to make the definition of "Court" as appearing in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act applicable to Section 29A of the Act.

e. It is also important to remember that when Section 29A of the Act was inserted by Act 3 of 2016, Section 11 of the Act was also amended and the words "Chief Justice or any person or institution designated by him" were substituted by "Supreme Court or, as the case may be, the High Court or any person or institution designated by such court". Thus, while legislature specifically used the words "High Court" in Section 11 of the Act, it did not do so in Section 29A of the Act and conferred that jurisdiction under "the Court". This further shows the clear intention of the legislature in not conferring the power to High Court for exercise of jurisdiction under Section 29A of the Act.

f. It is necessary to state here that the jurisdiction for appointment of arbitrator has been conferred upon the High Courts or the Supreme Court by the statute i.e. the Act. The same is not exercised by High Courts or the Supreme Court as a Constitutional Court and is not an inherent power of the High Courts or the Supreme Court. In fact, by Section 3 of the Amendment Act of 2019, which is yet to be notified, the jurisdiction to appoint arbitrator has been conferred under Section 11 of the Act to the arbitral institutions and the same has been taken away from the High Courts and the Supreme Court. Thus, the power to appoint an arbitrator is not considered by the Legislature as so sacrosanct or holy that the same can only be exercised by the High Courts or the Supreme Court. In fact, even in the existing provision, the power to appoint an arbitrator can be exercised by "any person or institution" designated by High Courts or the Supreme Court.

g. The same statute which confers High Courts with the jurisdiction to appoint an arbitrator, has conferred the principal civil courts with the jurisdiction to substitute an arbitrator and there is no inconsistency or absurdity in this. In fact, conferring powers under Section 29A of the Act to the Court within the meaning of Section 2(1)(e) of the Act brings consistency to the arbitration proceedings, irrespective of the fact as to who appointed the arbitrator. An anomaly would arise in a situation where an arbitrator is being appointed by the parties or a person or institution as referred above, while powers under Section 29A of the Act are being exercised by the High Courts.

h. The jurisdiction to appoint an arbitrator is different from the jurisdiction to substitute an arbitrator as both operate in separate fields. While an arbitrator is required to be appointed by the High Courts under Section 11 if the parties fail to reach an agreement regarding the initial appointment of the arbitrator, the power to substitute an arbitrator under Section 29A(6) comes into picture only when the time limit for making an arbitral award expires. While exercising jurisdiction under Section 29A(6), the Court is not examining the legality of the initial appointment but the conduct of the arbitrator in the arbitral proceedings and whether the continuation of such arbitrator would further delay the proceedings. The enquiry entailed under Section 29A(6) of the Act is completely different from that under Section 11(5) or Section 11(6) of the Act. Thus, the view that the substitution of arbitrator appointed by the High Court, by the principal Civil Court would be in the teeth of the powers of the High Court is erroneous and imaginary.

i. Once the arbitration proceedings commence, the procedure remains same, irrespective of the fact that whether arbitrator has been appointed by the parties or the High Court or Supreme Court. A High Court appointed arbitrator is also subject to the provisions of Sections 12 and 13 of the Act and his mandate can also be terminated under Sections 14 and 15 of the Act in the same manner as an arbitrator appointed by the parties. Similarly, the time limit and procedure contemplated in Section 29A of the Act is also same for High Court appointed arbitrators and arbitrators appointed by the parties. High Courts do not exercise any supervisory or other control over the arbitrator appointed by them and such arbitrator has the same status as an arbitrator appointed by parties.

j. This, there is no conflict in the power of the High Courts or the Supreme Court to appoint an arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act and power of the Court including Principal Civil Court to substitute an arbitrator under clause 6 of Section 29A of the Act. High Courts or the Supreme Court exercise a limited jurisdiction under Section 11(5) or Section 11(6) of the Act for appointment of arbitrator. The Court does not retain any jurisdiction over the arbitrator appointed/nominated by it and they become functus officio after the appointment of the arbitrator(s). Reference is made to the judgment of the Supreme Court in Nimet Resources Inc. and Another v. Essar Steels Ltd. reported in 2009 (17) SCC 313.

k. If the powers under Section 29A(4), Section 29A(5), and Section 29A(6) are held to be exercised exclusively by the High Courts irrespective of the fact that the original appointment was not made by the High Courts, it would amount to judicial legislation and adding or incorporation something which is neither in the statute or nor is in conformity with the intention of the legislature. Reliance is placed on the judgment of this Court in A'Xykno Capital Services Private Limited v. State of U.P. reported in 2023 (4) AWC 3662 (All).

l. Therefore, it is submitted that the powers under Section 29A(4), Section 29A(5), and Section 29A(6) of the Act can be exercised only by the Court as defined under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act i.e. the principal Civil Court/Commercial Court or the High Court exercising original civil jurisdiction but not by a High Court not exercising original civil jurisdiction, particularly when the initial appointment of the arbitrator was not done by the said High Court.

8. I have heard the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, and perused the materials on record.

9. Before delving into the legal controversy in the instant case, I feel it is pertinent to discuss the genesis of Section 29A of the Act and the purpose behind the said section.

SECTION 29-A GENESIS

10. Before the Act came into force, the Arbitration Act, 1940 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act of 1940') in the First Schedule (read with Section 3 of the Act of 1940) contained the time limit for making an arbitral award:

"3. Provisions implied in arbitration agreement.—An arbitration agreement, unless a different intention is expressed therein, shall be deemed to include the provisions set out in the First Schedule in so far as they are applicable to the reference.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE

[See Section 3]

IMPLIED CONDITIONS OF ARBITRATION AGREEMENTS

1. Unless otherwise expressly provided, the reference shall be to a sole arbitrator.

2. If the reference is to an even number of arbitrators the arbitrators shall appoint an umpire not later than one month from the latest date of their respective appointments.

3. The arbitrators shall make their award within four months after entering on the reference or after having been called upon to act by notice in writing from any party to the arbitration agreement or within such extended time as the Court may allow.

4. If the arbitrators have allowed their time to expire without making an award or have delivered to any party to the arbitration agreement or to the umpire a notice in writing stating that they cannot agree, the umpire shall forthwith enter on the reference in lieu of the arbitrators.

5. The umpire shall make his award within two months of entering on the reference or within such extended time as the Court may allow."

11. Section 28 of the Act of 1940 provided the Court with the power to enlarge the time for making an award :

"28. Power to Court only to enlarge time for making award.—(1) The Court may, if it thinks fit, whether the time for making the award has expired or not and whether the award has been made or not, enlarge from time to time, the time for making the award.*

(2) Any provision in an arbitration agreement whereby the arbitrators or umpire may, except with the consent of all the parties to the agreement, enlarge the time for making the award, shall be void and of no effect."

12. As can be seen, under the Act of 1940, specific provisions regulated the time limits for making arbitral awards. Section 3 of the Act of 1940, as outlined in the First Schedule, mandated that arbitrators must issue their award within four months of commencing the reference, or after receiving written notice from any party to the arbitration agreement. Additionally, the Act of 1940 allowed for extensions of this period at the sole discretion of the Court. Unlike the Act, there was no provision allowing the parties to extend the period by mutual consent. Section 28 of the Act of 1940 empowered the court to enlarge the time for making an award, regardless of whether the initial deadline had passed or whether an award has been made. Notably, any provision in the arbitration agreement granting arbitrators or the umpire authority to extend the time for making the award without unanimous consent from all the parties was deemed void under this provision.

13. When the Act came into force in 1996, it lacked a provision regarding the time limit for making an award, a feature present in the preceding Act of 1940. In its 176th Report on "The Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2001", the Law Commission of India (hereinafter referred to as the "LCI") underscored the necessity for substantial reforms to expedite the arbitral process comprehensively, whether proceedings were under the Act or the Act of 1940. As part of its recommendations, the Commission proposed the introduction of Section 29A to the Act, stipulating that arbitrators should have one year to render an award, with an option available to the parties to grant an extension of up to one additional year. If the award remained outstanding beyond this period, parties have the liberty to approach the Court for resolution. Notably, under the envisaged Section 29A outlined in the LCI's report, arbitrators themselves could request an extension from the Court if the parties failed to do so. This proposed amendment aimed to instil a more structured and time-bound approach to the arbitration process, facilitating efficiency and expediency in dispute resolution. Relevant paragraph from the 176th LCI Report is being extracted below:

"Next, for future arbitrations under the 1996 Act, the arbitrators will have one year and thereafter another period not exceeding one year as agreed by the parties, under the proposed S. 29-A, for passing the award. Thereafter, if the award is not passed, parties are to move the Court for extension and if the parties do not apply, the arbitrators can also apply for the same. Till the application is made, the arbitration proceedings are suspended, but once an application is made to the Court, the arbitration proceedings shall continue and are not to be stayed by the Court. On the other hand, the Court shall pass an order within one month fixing the time schedule or it may also pass orders as to costs taking into account various factors which have led to the delay and also the amount already spent towards fee etc. The Court will continue to pass such orders granting time and fixing the procedure, till the award is passed. The above procedure is also to be applied to arbitrations which are pending under the 1996 Act for more than three years as provided in S. 33 of the amending Act. Applications under S. 34(1) to set aside awards and appeals under S. 37(1) are to be disposed of within six months and appeals under S. 37(2) within three months from the date of commencement of the amending Act. A similar procedure is envisaged for future applications and appeals."

14. The Section 29-A as was proposed by the 176th Report of the LCI to be inserted in the Act has been extracted below:

"21. Insertion of new Section 29-A.— After S. 29 of the Principal Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"29-A. Speeding up of proceedings and time-limit for making awards.— (1) The arbitral tribunal shall make its award within a period of one year after the commencement of arbitral proceedings, or within such extended period as specified in sub-ss. (2) to (4).

(2) The parties may, by consent, extend the period specified in sub-s. (1) for a further period not exceeding one year.

(3) If the award is not made within the period specified in sub-s. (1) and the period agreed to by the parties under sub-s. (2), the arbitral proceedings shall, subject to the provisions of sub-ss. (4) to (6), stand suspended until an application for extension is made to the Court by any party to the arbitration, or where none of the parties makes an application as foresaid, until such an application is made by the arbitral tribunal.

(4) Upon filing of the application for extension of time under sub-s. (3), suspension of the arbitral proceedings shall stand revoked and pending consideration of the application for extension of time before the court under that sub-section, the arbitral proceedings shall continue before the arbitral tribunal and the court shall not grant any stay of the arbitral proceedings.

(5) The Court shall, upon such application for extension of time being made under sub-s. (3), whether the time for making the award as aforesaid has expired or not and whether the award has been made or not, extend the time for making of the award beyond the period referred to in sub-s. (1) and the period agreed to by the parties under sub-s. (2).

(6) The Court shall, while extending the time under sub-s. (5), pass such orders as to costs or as to the future procedure to be followed by the arbitral tribunal, after taking into account—

(a) the extent of work already done;

(b) the reasons for delay;

(c) the conduct of the parties or of any person representing the parties;

(d) the manner in which proceedings were conducted by the arbitral tribunal;

(e) the further work involved;

(f) the amount of money already spent by the parties towards fee and expenses of arbitration;

(g) any other relevant circumstances, and the Court shall pass such orders from time to time with a view to speed up the arbitral process, till the award is passed:

Provided that any order as to future proceedings passed by the Court shall be subject to such rules as may be made by the High Court in this behalf for expediting the arbitral proceedings.

(7) The parties cannot by consent, extend the period beyond the period specified in sub-s. (1) and the maximum period referred to in sub-s. (2) and save as otherwise provided in the said sub-sections, any provision in an arbitration agreement whereby the arbitral tribunal may further extend the time for making the award, shall be void and of no effect.

(8) The first of the orders of extension under sub-s. (5) together with directions, if any, under sub-s. (6), shall be passed by the court, within a period of one month from the date of service on the opposite party."

15. The proposal for the insertion of Section 29-A in the Act by the LCI stemmed from a critical need to address the extensive delays and associated costs plaguing arbitral awards in India. LCI recognized the pressing need for time-bound processes to expedite arbitral proceedings comprehensively. Crucially, the proposed Section 29-A aimed to imbue the court with the authority to grant extensions strictly, imposing costs if necessary, and delineating future procedural steps for the tribunals to follow, thereby fostering efficiency and expediency. LCI's proposal was underpinned by the observation of delays ranging from five to fourteen years in arbitration proceedings, even without court intervention, emphasizing the adverse consequences of eliminating time-limits. Consequently, the proposed Section 29-A sought to strike a balance between expediting proceedings and ensuring fairness by allowing for extension under judicial oversight while preventing undue delays through stringent court scrutiny.

16. In the proposed Section 29-A by the 176th LCI Report, the High Court was granted the power to prescribe "future procedure" by making rules. Relevant paragraph from the said report has been extracted below:

"(27) Section 29-A : This section is proposed to be introduced fix time-limits for passing of the award and also for speeding up the arbitral process. No provision was made in the 1996 Act fixing time-limit for the passing of the award, on the ground that extension applications in the Court were not being disposed of early enough and that there were long delays. It is proposed to initially grant a period of one year, after commencement of the arbitration and also to permit parties to agree for extension up to a maximum of another one year. Thereafter, if there is further delay, the proceedings will stand suspended until an application is made in the Court, either by the parties or if the parties do not do so, until an application for extension is filed by the arbitral tribunal. The moment an application, is filed the arbitration proceedings can restart. It is proposed to be provided that there will be no stay of the arbitration proceedings pending consideration of the application for extension of time and that, pending the application, the arbitral tribunal shall proceed with the arbitration proceedings. The Court shall extent the time for passing the award and shall fix the time schedule and further procedure, by taking into consideration the reasons for the delay, the conduct of the parties, the manner in which proceedings were conducted by the arbitral tribunal, the amount of money spent already towards fee and expenses, the extent of work that is already done and the extent of work that remains to be done. The Court will passed orders from time to time till the award is passed. This provision has become necessary in view of the peculiar conditions prevailing in India even after the 1996 Act. Sub-s. 8 of the proposed S. 29-A requires that the first order on the extension application shall be passed within one month from the date of service on the opposite party. The 'future procedure' can be prescribed by the High Court by making rules under S. 82. (para 2.21.6) (Emphasis Added)

17. Thereafter, based on the recommendations of the 176th Report by LCI, Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2003 was introduced in the Rajya Sabha on December 22, 2003. Then, in July 2004, Government of India constituted a committee under the chairmanship of Dr. Justice B.P. Saraf to study the implication of the recommendations made by the 176th LCI Report. As far as Section 29A as proposed by the 176th LCI Report was concerned, Justice Saraf Committee recommended the deletion of the proposed Section 29A. Relevant paragraph from Justice Saraf Committee's Report has been extracted below:

"The Committee is, of the opinion that neither any time limit should be fixed as contemplated by the proposed section 29A nor should the court be required to supervise and monitor arbitrations with a view to expediting the completion thereof. None of these steps is conducive to the expeditious completion of the arbitral proceedings. Moreover, court control and supervision over arbitration is neither in the interest of growth of arbitration in India nor in tune with the best international practices in the field of arbitration. The Committee is of the opinion that with the proposed amendment the arbitral tribunal will become an organ of the court rather than a party-structured dispute resolution mechanism. The Committee, therefore, recommends the deletion of the proposed section 29A from the Amendment Bill."

18. After Justice Saraf Committee submitted its report, the Amendment Bill was referred to the Department Related Standing Committee on Personnel, Public Grievances, Law and Justice for examination. The Committee recommended that since many provisions of the proposed Amendment Bill were contentious and the Amendment Bill gave room for excessive court intervention, the Amendment Bill may be withdrawn. Given the same, the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2003 was withdrawn from the Rajya Sabha.

19. Nearly a decade after the 2003 Amendment Bill was withdrawn, the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2015 was introduced in the Lok Sabha on December 3, 2015. While majority of the amendments proposed by the 2015 Amendment Bill were based on the 246th Report By LCI, the insertion of Section 29A as proposed by the 2015 Amendment Bill was on the basis of the 176th Report by LCI, since the 246th Report by LCI contained no recommendation for the insertion of Section 29A into the Act or any such section regulating the time limit for making an arbitral award.

20. The Section 29A as proposed by the 2015 Amendment Bill is extracted below:

"15. After section 29 of the principal Act, the following new sections shall be inserted, namely:—

"29A. (1) The award shall be made within a period of twelve months from the date the arbitral tribunal enters upon the reference. Explanation.—For the purpose of this sub-section, an arbitral tribunal shall be deemed to have entered upon the reference on the date on which the arbitrator or all the arbitrators, as the case may be, have received notice, in writing, of their appointment.

(2) If the award is made within a period of six months from the date the arbitral tribunal enters upon the reference, the arbitral tribunal shall be entitled to receive such amount of additional fees as the parties may agree.

(3) The parties may, by consent, extend the period specified in sub-section (1) for making award for a further period not exceeding six months.

(4) If the award is not made within the period specified in sub-section (1) or the extended period specified under sub-section (3), the mandate of the arbitrator(s) shall terminate unless the Court has, either prior to or after the expiry of the period so specified, extended the period: Provided that while extending the period under this sub-section, if the Court finds that the proceedings have been delayed for the reasons attributable to the arbitral tribunal, then, it may order reduction of fees of arbitrator(s) by not exceeding five per cent. for each month of such delay.

(5) The extension of period referred to in sub-section (4) may be on the application of any of the parties and may be granted only for sufficient cause and on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Court.

(6) While extending the period referred to in sub-section (4), it shall be open to the Court to substitute one or all of the arbitrators and if one or all of the arbitrators are substituted, the arbitral proceedings shall continue from the stage already reached and on the basis of the evidence and material already on record, and the arbitrator(s) appointed under this section shall be deemed to have received the said evidence and material.

(7) In the event of arbitrator(s) being appointed under this section, the arbitral tribunal thus reconstituted shall be deemed to be in continuation of the previously appointed arbitral tribunal.

(8) It shall be open to the Court to impose actual or exemplary costs upon any of the parties under this section.

(9) An application filed under sub-section (5) shall be disposed of by the Court as expeditiously as possible and endeavour shall be made to dispose of the matter within a period of sixty days from the date of service of notice on the opposite party."

21. Section 29A as inserted by the Amendment Act of 2015 was recommended to be further amended by the "High Level Committee to Review The Institutionalisation of Arbitration Mechanism In India" constituted under the chairmanship of Justice B.N. Srikrishna. The Committee recommended the following amendments to Section 29A as it existed then:

"1. A new sub-section may be inserted in section 29A limiting the applicability of the section to domestic arbitrations only. International commercial arbitrations may be left outside the purview of the timelines provided in section 29A.

2. Section 29A(1) may be amended such that the time in section 29A(1) starts to run post completion of pleadings. Further, a time period of 6 months may be provided for submission of pleadings.

3. Section 29A(4) may be amended to provide that if an application under section 29A(5) is filed before a court, the mandate of the arbitral tribunal continues till the application is disposed.

4. Section 29A(9) may be amended to add that if the application is not disposed of within the period mentioned therein, it is deemed to be granted.

5. A new sub-section should be inserted in section 29A providing that where the court seeks to reduce the fees of the arbitrator(s), sufficient opportunity should be given to such arbitrator(s) to be heard."

22. Based on the aforesaid report, the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2019 was introduced and the Section 29A of the Act as it exists today came into force.

23. To summarise, Section 29A of the Act which regulates the time limit for making arbitral awards, emerged from a series of legislative and consultative processes aimed at addressing the need for expeditious dispute resolution in India. The genesis of Section 29A of the Act can be traced back to the Act of 1940, which contained provisions specifying time limits for making arbitral awards. Under Section 3 of the Act of 1940, arbitrators were required to issue their awards within four months of commencing the reference, with the option for extensions which could solely be granted by the Courts contained under Section 28 of the Act of 1940.

However, when the Act originally came into force in 1996, it lacked a provision addressing time limits for making arbitratal awards, leading to delays in arbitration proceedings. Recognizing the need for substantial reforms to expedite the arbitration process, LCI proposed the introduction of Section 29A in its 176th Report on the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2001. This proposed section mandated that arbitrators must issue awards within one year of commencing proceedings, with an option for parties to grant a further one-year extension. If the award remained outstanding beyond this period, parties could approach the court for resolution. The proposed Section 29A aimed to instil a more structured and time-bound approach to arbitration, facilitating efficiency and expediency in dispute resolution. It empowered the court to grant extensions strictly, imposing costs if necessary, and also granted the power to the Courts to delineate future procedural steps for arbitral tribunals to follow. However, Justice Saraf Committee recommended the deletion of Section 29A, arguing against fixing time limits and excessive court intervention in arbitration proceedings. Subsequently, the Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2015, reintroduced Section 29A based on the LCI's recommendations, emphasizing the need for time-bound arbitration proceedings. The inserted section mandated that awards be made within twelve months of the tribunal entering upon the reference, with an option for parties to agree to a six-month extension. Failure to meet these deadlines would result in termination of the arbitrators' mandate unless the court granted an extension, with potential fee reductions for delays attributable to the tribunal. The High-Level Committee to Review The Institutionalisation of Arbitration Mechanism In India, chaired by Justice B.N. Srikrishna, recommended further amendments to Section 29A to refine its applicability and streamline procedural aspects. The resulting Arbitration and Conciliation (Amendment) Bill, 2019, incorporated these recommendations, leading to the enactment of the current Section 29A. In summary, Section 29A of the Act originated from efforts to expedite arbitration proceedings in India. It represents a balance between time-bound processes and fairness in dispute resolution, empowering courts to oversee extensions and streamline procedural aspects while preserving the autonomy of arbitrators.

SECTION 29-A: DEFINING THE "COURT"

24. The origin of the instant dispute revolves around the definition of the term "Court" occurring in Section 29A of the Act. I have extracted the Section 29A of the Act below:

"[29-A. Time limit for arbitral award. — [(1) The award in matters other than international commercial arbitration shall be made by the arbitral tribunal within a period of twelve months from the date of completion of pleadings under sub-section (4) of Section 23:

Provided that the award in the matter of international commercial arbitration may be made as expeditiously as possible and endeavour may be made to dispose of the matter within a period of twelve months from the date of completion of pleadings under sub-section (4) of Section 23.]

(2) If the award is made within a period of six months from the date the arbitral tribunal enters upon the reference, the arbitral tribunal shall be entitled to receive such amount of additional fees as the parties may agree.

(3) The parties may, by consent, extend the period specified in sub-section (1) for making award for a further period not exceeding six months.

(4) If the award is not made within the period specified in sub-section (1) or the extended period specified under sub-section (3), the mandate of the arbitrator(s) shall terminate unless the court has, either prior to or after the expiry of the period so specified, extended the period:

Provided that while extending the period under this sub-section, if the court finds that the proceedings have been delayed for the reasons attributable to the arbitral tribunal, then, it may order reduction of fees of arbitrator(s) by not exceeding five per cent for each month of such delay:

[Provided further that where an application under sub-section (5) is pending, the mandate of the arbitrator shall continue till the disposal of the said application:

Provided also that the arbitrator shall be given an opportunity of being heard before the fees is reduced.]

(5) The extension of period referred to in sub-section (4) may be on the application of any of the parties and may be granted only for sufficient cause and on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the court.

(6) While extending the period referred to in sub-section (4), it shall be open to the court to substitute one or all of the arbitrators and if one or all of the arbitrators are substituted, the arbitral proceedings shall continue from the stage already reached and on the basis of the evidence and material already on record, and the arbitrator(s) appointed under this section shall be deemed to have received the said evidence and material.

(7) In the event of arbitrator(s) being appointed under this section, the arbitral tribunal thus reconstituted shall be deemed to be in continuation of the previously appointed arbitral tribunal.

(8) It shall be open to the court to impose actual or exemplary costs upon any of the parties under this section.

(9) An application filed under sub-section (5) shall be disposed of by the court as expeditiously as possible and endeavour shall be made to dispose of the matter within a period of sixty days from the date of service of notice on the opposite party.]"

25. The word "Court" is defined in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act as follows:

2. Definitions.

(1) In this Part, unless the context otherwise requires,

(a) ...

(b) ...

(c) ...

(d) ...

(e) "Court" means—

(i) in the case of an arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, the principal civil court of original jurisdiction in a district, and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, but does not include any civil court of a grade inferior to such principal civil court, or any Court of Small Causes;

(ii) in the case of international commercial arbitration, the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, and in other cases, a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of courts subordinate to that High Court;]"

26. Generally, while interpreting a particular term in a statute, Courts tend to defer to the meaning of that term provided in the definition clause. The definition clause is a crucial component of any statute or legislation. While it may appear to be a mere introductory section, the definition clause plays a pivotal role in providing clarity, precision, and consistency in the application and interpretation of the statute. Its importance cannot be overstated, as it significantly influences the understanding and implementation of the law by the Courts, legal professionals, and individuals or entities affected by the statute. While the definition clause is a fundamental aspect of interpreting a statute, there are certain circumstances under which it may not be applied or given primacy in the interpretation process. One of these circumstances is contextual ambiguity. In some cases, the definition provided in the statute's definition clause may not fully address the ambiguity or uncertainty present in the statutory provision being interpreted. Courts may look beyond the definition clause and consider extrinsic sources such as legislative history, statutory purpose, and the context of the provision to ascertain the legislature's intent.

27. To my mind, the usage of term "unless the context otherwise requires" as it occurs in the begning of Section 2 that precedes all the definitions equires emphasis. The phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" often accompanies definition clauses, introducing an element of flexibility in the interpretation of defined terms. The including of "unless the context otherwise requires" in a definition clause acknowledges that while a specific definition may be provided, there are circumstances where the context of the statute may necessitate a different interpretation to achieve the legislative intent or purpose. This flexibility ensures that the defined term is not rigidly interpreted in isolation but is instead considered within the broader context of the statute. The phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" serves as a safeguard against interpreting a defined term in a manner that would lead to absurd or unreasonable results. In cases where strict adherence to the literal definition would produce outcomes contrary to the legislative intent or purpose, courts can invoke this phrase to adopt a more contextual interpretation that aligns with the overall objectives of the statute.

28. Legislative intent is a central consideration in statutory interpretation, aiming to discern the purpose or objective behind the enactment of a statute. The inclusion of "unless the context otherwise requires" acknowledges the primacy of legislative intent in interpretation. Courts must consider the broader context of the statute, including its purpose, objectives, and underlying policy considerations, to determine whether a deviation from the literal definition is warranted to give effect to legislative intent.

29. In K. Balakrishna Rao v. Haji Abdulla Sait reported in (1980) 1 SCC 321, the Supreme Court, stated that the definition clause in a statute does not necessarily apply in all possible contexts in which a word defined by the definition clause is used in a statute:

"17. It is appropriate to refer at this stage to the following passage occurring in Craies on Statute Law (Sixth Edn.) at p. 99:

"In Brett v. Brett [(1826) 2 Addams 210, 216] Sir John Nicholl, M.R. said as follows: 'The key to the opening of every law is the reason and spirit of the law; it is the animus imponentis, the intention of the law-maker expressed in the law itself, taken as a whole. Hence, to arrive at the true meaning of any particular phrase in a statute, the particular phrase is not to be viewed detached from its context in the statute; it is to be viewed in connection with its whole context, meaning by this as well the title and preamble as the purview or enacting part of the statute'."

24. A definition clause does not necessarily in any statute apply in all possible contexts in which the word which is defined may be found therein. The opening clause of Section 2 of the principal Act itself suggests that any expression defined in that section should be given the meaning assigned to it therein unless the context otherwise requires. The two-fold reasoning of the Division Bench for holding that the building in question was not a 'buildine' is that on June 10, 1964 (i) there was no lease in force and hence it was not let, and (ii) that on that date the plaintiff had no intention to lease it and therefore it was not to be let. We are of the view that the words "any building . . . let . . .", also refer to a building which was the subject-matter of a lease which has been terminated by the issue of a notice under Section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act and which has continued to remain in occupation of the tenant. This view receives support from the definition of the expression "tenant" in Section 2(8) of the principal Act which includes a person continuing in possession after the termination of the tenancy in his favour. If the view adopted by the Division Bench is accepted then it would not be necessary for a landlord to issue a notice of vacancy under Section 3 of the principal Act when a building becomes vacant by the termination of a tenancy or by the eviction of the tenant when he wants to occupy it himself. In law he cannot do so. He would be entitled to occupy it himself when he is permitted to do so under Section 3(3) or any of the provisions of Section 3-A of the principal Act. This also illustrates that the view of the Division Bench is erroneous. We, therefore, hold that the building in question was a "building" within the meaning of that expression in Section 2(2) of the principal Act on the date on which Section 3 of the Amending Act became operative."

30. The importance of the phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" in a definition clause was propounded by the Supreme Court in the case of Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and Others reported in (1998) 8 SCC 1:

"26. High Court has been defined in Section 2(h) as the "High Court having jurisdiction under Section 3" which, in its turn, provides that it shall be that High Court within the limits of whose appellate jurisdiction the office of the Trade Marks Registry referred to in each of the sub-clauses (a) to (e) is situate.

27. We have to consider the meaning of these definitions in the context of other relative provisions of the Act so as to find an answer to the question relating to the extent of jurisdiction of the Registrar and the High Court functioning as "Tribunal".

28. Now, the principle is that all statutory definitions have to be read subject to the qualification variously expressed in the definition clauses which created them and it may be that even where the definition is exhaustive inasmuch as the word defined is said to mean a certain thing, it is possible for the word to have a somewhat different meaning in different sections of the Act depending upon the subject or context. That is why all definitions in statutes generally begin with the qualifying words, similar to the words used in the present case, namely "unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context". Thus there may be sections in the Act where the meaning may have to be departed from on account of the subject or context in which the word had been used and that will be giving effect to the opening sentence in the definition section, namely "unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context". In view of this qualification, the court has not only to look at the words but also to look at the context, the collocation and the object of such words relating to such matter and interpret the meaning intended to be conveyed by the use of the words "under those circumstances". (see Vanguard Fire and General Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Fraser & Ross [AIR 1960 SC 971 : (1960) 3 SCR 857])"

31. Further reference on the importance of the interpreting a particular definition in the context in which it is used can be made to the judgment of the Supreme Court in K.V. Muthu v. Angamuthu Ammal reported in (1997) 2 SCC 53:

"10. Apparently, it appears that the definition is conclusive as the word "means" has been used to specify the members, namely, spouse, son, daughter, grandchild or dependant parent, who would constitute the family. Section 2 of the Act in which various terms have been defined, opens with the words "in this Act, unless the context otherwise requires" which indicates that the definitions, as for example, that of "family", which are indicated to be conclusive may not be treated to be conclusive if it was otherwise required by the context. This implies that a definition, like any other word in a statute, has to be read in the light of the context and scheme of the Act as also the object for which the Act was made by the legislature.

11. While interpreting a definition, it has to be borne in mind that the interpretation placed on it should not only be not repugnant to the context, it should also be such as would aid the achievement of the purpose which is sought to be served by the Act. A construction which would defeat or was likely to defeat the purpose of the Act has to be ignored and not accepted.

12. Where the definition or expression, as in the instant case, is preceded by the words "unless the context otherwise requires", the said definition set out in the section is to be applied and given effect to but this rule, which is the normal rule may be departed from if there be something in the context to show that the definition could not be applied."

32. As far as occurrence of the term "unless the context otherwise required" in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act is concerned and its significance in interpreting the term "Court" as used in Section 29A of the Act, reference can be made to the judgment of the Kerala High Court in Lots Shipping Company (supra), wherein the Kerala High Court laid emphasis on the rule of purposive interpretation and held that the term "Court" contained in Section 29A of the Act requires a contextual interpretation since interpreting the term in its literal meaning under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act would lead to a situation where identical powers are being exercised in a contrary manner, affecting the hierarchy of the courts. Relevant paragraphs have been reproduced below:

"9. Question to be decided is whether the term "court" contained in Section 29A(4) requires a contextual interpretation apart from the meaning contained in Section 2(1)(e)(i) of the Act. A contextual interpretation is clearly permissible in view of the rider contained in sub-section (1) of Section (2), "unless the context otherwise requires". As argued by the counsel on either side and as submitted by the learned Amicus Curiae, a contextual interpretation is required since the power conferred on the court under Section 29A, especially under sub-sections (4) and (5), are more akin to the powers conferred on the Supreme Court and the High Court, as the case may be, under Sections 11(6), 14 & 15 of the Act, for appointment, termination of mandate and substitution of the arbitrator. It is pointed out that, the amendments introduced in the year 2015, with effect from 23.10.2015, has recognized the judgment of the Constitutional Bench of the apex court in SBP & Company v. M/s. Patel Engineering Company Ltd. and another [MANU/SC/1787/2005 : (2005) 8 SCC 618] and conferred the power of appointment on the Supreme Court or the High Court. The amendment has not in any manner enhanced the power of the principal civil court, which continues only with respect to matters provided under Sections 9 and 34 of the Act. It is significant to note that the orders passed by the principal civil court of original jurisdiction under Sections 9 and 34 are made appealable under Section 37 of the Act. So also, order if any passed refusing to refer the parties to arbitration under Section 8 of the Act, was also made appealable under Section 37(1)(a) of the Act. Section 29A was introduced to make it clear that, if the arbitration proceedings is not concluded within 18 months, even if the parties have consented for an extension, it cannot be continued unless a judicial sanction is obtained. The power to grant extension by the court is introduced under an integrated scheme which also allows the court to reduce the fees of the arbitrator or to impose cost on the parties and/or to substitute the arbitrator(s). The power of extension is to be exercised on satisfying "sufficient cause' being made out. In all respect, such power conferred under Section 29A for permitting extension with respect to the proceedings of arbitration, is clearly akin to the powers conferred under Sections 14 & 15 of the Act. The absence of any provision for an appeal with respect to the exercise of such power under Section 29A, in the nature as mentioned above, would indicate that the power under Section 29A is not to be exercised by the principal civil court of original jurisdiction. Otherwise, it will create anomalous situation of identical powers being exercised in a contrary manner, prejudicial to the hierarchy of the courts. In a case where appointment of an arbitrator is made under Section 11(6) of the Act by the High Court or the Supreme Court, as the case may be, it would be incongruous for the principal civil court of original jurisdiction to substitute such an arbitrator or to refuse extension of the time limit as provided under Section 29A, or to make a reduction in the fees of the Arbitrator. Therefore a purposive interpretation becomes more inevitable.

10. In Shailesh Dhairyawan(supra) it was observed that, "the principle of "purposive interpretation" or "purposive construction" is based on the understanding that the court is supposed to attach the meaning of the provisions which will serve the "purpose" behind such a provision. The basic approach should be to ascertain what is it designed to accomplish. In the interpretive process, the court is supposed to realise the goal that the legal text is designed to realise. The statutory interpretation of a provision is never static, but is always dynamic. Though the literal rule of interpretation, till some time ago, was treated as the "golden rule", it is now the doctrine of purposive interpretation which is predominant, particularly in those cases where literal interpretation may not serve the purpose or may lead to absurdity. If it brings about an end, which is at variance with the purpose of statute, that cannot be countenanced.

11. Taking note of the principle enunciated herein above and on the basis of the detailed analysis, we are inclined to hold that the term "court" used in Section 29(4) has to be given an contextual and purposive interpretation, which is to be in variance with the meaning conferred to the said term under subsection Section 2(1)(e)(i) of the Act. The term "court" contained in Section 29(4) has to be interpreted as the 'Supreme Court' in the case of international commercial arbitrations and as the 'High Court' in the case of domestic arbitrations. Hence it is held that, either of the party will be at liberty to file an arbitration petition before the High Court under Section 29A(5) of the Act, seeking extension of time for continuance of the arbitration proceedings in exercise of the power conferred under Section 29A(4) of the Act, in the case of any domestic arbitration. The reference is answered accordingly."

33. Reference can also be made to the judgment of the Gujarat High Court in Nilesh Ramanbhai Patel (supra), wherein the Gujarat High Court propounded that the term "Court" in Section 29A of the Act must be interpreted in a matter which does not conflict with Section 11 of the Act. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"11. Perusal of this Section would show that time limits have been introduced for completion of arbitral proceedings. Sub-section (1) of Sec. 29A provides that the award shall be made within a period of twelve months from the date the Arbitral Tribunal enters upon the reference. This expression "to have entered upon the reference" is also explained through the explanation below sub-sec. (1). Sub-section (2) is in the nature of incentive for completing the arbitral proceedings expeditiously. Sub-section (3) of Sec. 29A provides for extension of such period as specified in sub-sec. (1) by consent of the parties for a period not exceeding six months. Sub-section (4) of Sec. 29A provides that if the award is not made within the period specified in sub-sec. (1) or the extended period specified in sub-sec. (3), the arbitrator's mandate shall terminate, unless the Court has, either prior to or after expiry of the period, extended the period. Sub-section (5) of Sec. 29A provides that the extension under sub-sec. (4) would be granted on an application of any of the parties only for sufficient cause and on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Court. Sub-section (6) of Sec. 29A which is of considerable importance, provides that while extending the period referred under sub-sec. (4), it would be open for the Court to substitute one or all of the arbitrators and if such substitution is made, the arbitral proceedings shall continue from the stage already reached and on the basis of evidence or material already collected. As per sub-sec. (7), the re-constituted Tribunal shall be deemed to be in continuation of the previously appointed arbitral Tribunal. Under sub-sec. (8), the Court is given power to impose actual or exemplary cost on any of the parties. This Section makes detailed provisions providing time period for completion of arbitration, for extension of time, such time who can extend such time and under what circumstances and subject to what conditions the time may be extended. It also provides that if the award is not passed within the initial period or extended period, the mandate of the arbitrator would terminate. Section 29A of the Act is thus a complete Code by itself.

12. In case of State of West Bengal v. Associated Contractors, reported in MANU/SC/0793/2014 : 2015 (1) SCC 32, the Supreme Court interpreted the term

'Court' as defined under Sec. 2(1)(e) of the Act as to mean only the Principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a District or High Court having civil jurisdiction in the State. No other Court, including the Supreme Court, is contemplated under Sec. 2(1)(e) of the Act. In case of State of Jharkhand v. Hindustan Construction Company Ltd., reported in MANU/SC/1596/2017 : 2018 (2) SCC 602, this was further elaborated by a Constitutional Bench of the Supreme Court holding that the definition of term 'Court' contained in Sec. 2(1)(e) of the Act, was materially different from its predecessor Section contained in Sec. 2(c) of the Arbitration Act, 1940 and that Supreme Court cannot be considered to be a Court within the meaning of Sec. 2(1)(a) even if it retains seisin over the arbitral proceedings. The decision in case of Associated Contractor (supra) was affirmed.

13. Ordinarily, therefore, I would have accepted the contention of learned Advocate Shri Mehta that the term 'Court' defined in Sec. 2(1)(e) in the context of the power to extend the mandate of the arbitrator under sub-sec. (4) of Sec. 29A would be with the principal Civil Court. However, this plain application of the definition of term 'Court' to Sec. 29A of the Act poses certain challenges. In this context, one may recall that the definition clause of sub-sec. (1) of Sec. 2 begins with the expression "in this part, unless the context otherwise requires". Despite the definition of term 'Court' contained in Sec. 2(1)(e) as explained by the Supreme Court in above-noted judgments, if the context, otherwise requires that the said term should be understood differently, so much joint in the play by the statute is not taken away.

14. As is well-known, the arbitration proceedings by appointment of an arbitrator can be triggered in number of ways. It could be an agreed arbitrator appointed by the parties outside the Court, it could be a case of reference to the arbitration by Civil Court in terms of agreement between the parties, it may even be the case of appointment of an arbitrator by the High Court or the Supreme Court in terms of sub-secs. (4), (5) and (6) of Sec. 11 of the Act. The provisions of Sec. 29A and in particular sub-sec. (1) thereof would apply to arbitral proceedings of all kinds, without any distinction. Thus, the mandate of an arbitrator irrespective of the nature of his appointment and the manner in which the Arbitral Tribunal is constituted, would come to an end within twelve months from the date of Tribunal enters upon the reference, unless such period is extended by consent of the parties in term of sub-sec. (3) of Sec. 29A which could be for a period not exceeding six months. Sub-section (4) of Sec. 29A, as noted, specifically provides that, if the award is not made within such period, as mentioned in sub-sec. (1) or within the extended period, if so done, under sub-sec. (3) the mandate of the arbitrator shall terminate. This is however with the caveat that unless such period either before or after the expiry has been extended by the Court. In terms of sub-sec. (6) while doing so, it would be open for the Court to substitute one or all the arbitrators who would carry on the proceedings from the stage they had reached previously.

15. This provision thus make a few things clear. Firstly, the power to extend the mandate of an arbitrator under sub-sec. (4) of Sec. 29A beyond the period of twelve months or such further period it may have been extended in terms of sub-sec. (3) of Sec. 29A rests with the Court. Neither the arbitrator nor parties even by joint consent can extend such period. The Court on the other hand has vast powers for extension of the period even after such period is over. While doing so, the Court could also choose to substitute one or all of the arbitrators and this is where the definition of term 'Court' contained in Sec. 2(1)(e) does not fit. It is inconceivable that the Legislature would vest the power in the Principal Civil Judge to substitute an arbitrator who may have been appointed by the High Court or Supreme Court. Even otherwise, it would be wholly impermissible since the powers for appointment of an arbitrator when the situation so arises, vest in the High Court or the Supreme Court as the case may be in terms of sub-secs. (4), (5) and (6) of Sec. 11 of the Act. If therefore, there is a case for extension of the term of an arbitrator who has been appointed by the High Court or Supreme Court and if the contention of Shri Mehta that such an application would lie only before the Principal Civil Court is upheld, powers under sub-sec. (6) of Sec. 29A would be non-operatable. In such a situation, sub-sec. (6) of Sec. 29A would be rendered otiose. The powers under sub-sec. (6) of Sec. 29A are of considerable significance. The powers for extending the mandate of an arbitrator are coupled with the power to substitute an arbitrator. These powers of substitution of an arbitrator are thus concomitant to the principal powers for granting an extension. If for valid reasons the Court finds that it is a fit case for extending the mandate of the arbitrator but that by itself may not be sufficient to bring about an early end to the arbitral proceedings, the Court may also consider substituting the existing arbitrator. It would be wholly incumbent to hold that under sub-sec. (6) of Sec. 29A the Legislature has vested powers in the Civil Court to make appointment of arbitrators by substituting an arbitrator or the whole panel of arbitrators appointed by the High Court under Sec. 11 of the Act. If we, therefore, accept this contention of Shri Mehta, it would lead to irreconcilable conflict between the power of the superior Courts to appoint arbitrators under Sec. 11 of the Act and those of the Civil Court to substitute such arbitrators under Sec. 29A(6). This conflict can be avoided only by understanding the term "Court" for the purpose of Sec. 29A as the Court which appointed the arbitrator in case of Court constituted Arbitral Tribunal.

16. Very similar situation would arise in case of an international commercial arbitration, where the power to make an appointment of an arbitrator in terms of Sec. 11 vests exclusively with the Supreme Court. In terms of Sec. 2(1)(e), the Court in such a case would be the High Court either exercising original jurisdiction or appellate jurisdiction. Even in such a case, if the High Court were to exercise power of substitution of an arbitrator, it would be transgressing its jurisdiction since the power to appoint an arbitrator in an international commercial arbitrator rests exclusively with the Supreme Court.

17. I am conscious that the learned Single Judge of Kerala High Court in case of M.A.U.R.C. Construction (Private) Ltd. v. M/s. B.E.M.L. Ltd., reported in 2017 SCC OnLine Ker. 20520, has taken a different view. In context of sub-sec. (4) of Sec. 29A of the Act, the learned Judge has concluded that the power would vest only with the Civil Court. In this judgment, the complications which may arise if such a view is adopted in the context of the provisions of sub-sec. (6) of Sec. 29A have not been discussed. I am unable to pursue myself to adopt this view.

18. The rest of the decisions of the other High Courts cited before me do not directly touch this issue. In those judgments the High Courts were concerned with the provisions of Secs. 14 and 15 of the Act pertaining to the challenge procedure in which context the question of appropriate Court was examined. Shri Abhisek Mehta however had also cited the judgment of Supreme Court in case of Lalitkumar V. Sanghavi (D) Through L.Rs. Neeta Lalit Kumar Sanghavi v. Dharamdas V. Sanghavi, reported in MANU/SC/0166/2014 : 2014 (7) SCC 255, in which again the question considered by the Supreme Court was that which Court can examine the question whether the mandate of the arbitrator stood legally terminated or not. In this context, reference was made to the definition of term 'Court' under Sec. 2(1)(e), and it was held that it would be the Court of civil jurisdiction alone which can entertain such a question. Again the situation in the present case is vastly different."

34. In Tara Chand (supra), the Delhi High Court held that the power to extend the mandate of the arbitrator under Section 29A of the Act would lie before the Court which has the power to appoint the arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"22. Section 11(5) and (6) of the Act relate to appointment of Arbitrators by the High Court or the Supreme Court, as the case may be and details the procedure to do so, therein. In case of International Commercial Arbitration, the power of appointment is vested only with the Supreme Court while in other arbitrations, High Court has the power to make appointment in terms of sub-Sections (5) or (6) of the Act.

23. Section 29A came to be inserted in the Statute by the Amending Act 3 of 2016 with effect from 23.10.2015. The Section has been extracted above. Perusal of the Section indicates that it provides for timelines within which the Award has to be made, including the timeline up to which the Tribunal can extend the mandate with the consent of the parties. The power of the Court to extend the mandate has no timelines, as is clear from reading the relevant provision. One of the important provisions of this Section is the power of the Court to substitute one or all of the Arbitrators, while extending the mandate.

24. Sub-Section (1) of Section 29A provides a time limit of 12 months within which the Award shall be made. Prior to the Amendment of 2019, the starting point of the 12 months was the date when the Arbitral Tribunal entered upon reference, but post 2019 Amendment, the commencement date is when the pleadings before the Arbitral Tribunal are completed. Sub-Section (3) enables the Arbitral Tribunal to extend the period of 12 months by a further period of six months, with the consent of the parties. Sub-Section (4) of Section 29A provides that if the Award is not made within the statutory period of 12 months or the extended period under sub-Section (3), the mandate of the Arbitrator shall terminate, unless the Court, either prior thereto or after the expiry of the period, extends the mandate. The extension, of course, would be granted on an application by any of the parties, but only for sufficient cause and on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Court and this is so stipulated in sub-Section (5) of Section 29A.

25. Section 29A of the Act, incorporates an important provision by way of sub-Section (6) and which, in my opinion, is relevant for deciding the controversy in the present case. This provision confers on the Court a significant power of substituting one or all of the Arbitrators, while extending the mandate under sub-Section (4), if the need arises and in case, such substitution is made by the Court, the Arbitral proceedings shall continue from the stage already reached and on the basis of evidence or material, already collected. Therefore, when it comes to the time limits for passing the Award or the extension of mandate, the Section is a complete Code in itself.

26. When one looks at the definition of the term 'Court' under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act, it is clear that in case of International Commercial Arbitration, the Court would mean the High Court, in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject matter of the sui or the High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals of Courts subordinate to that High Court. However, in cases of arbitration other than International Commercial Arbitration, Court would be the Principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a District and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide questions forming subject matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject matter of the suit. This definition has been substituted by way of the Amendment Act 3 of 2016, which came into effect from 23.10.2015.

27. If the definition of the term 'Court' is looked into, no doubt the contention of the respondent seems plausible that the power to extend the mandate of the Arbitrator would lie with the Principal Civil Court. However, on a careful analysis, in my opinion, this interpretation would lead to complications and would perhaps be in the teeth of the powers of the Courts under Section 11 of the Act. Thus, the question that poses a challenge is, whether the term 'Court' can be interpreted differently in the context of Section 29A. In my view, sub-Section (1) of Section 2 of the Act itself gives that answer, as it begins with the expression "in this part, unless the context otherwise requires".

28. Power to extend the mandate of an Arbitrator under Section 29A(4), beyond the period of 12 months and further extended period of six months only lies with the Court. This power can be exercised either before the period has expired or even after the period is over. Neither the Arbitrator can grant this extension and nor can the parties by their mutual consent extend the period beyond 18 months. Till this point, interpreting the term 'Court' to mean the Principal Civil Court as defined in Section 2(1)(e) would, to my mind, pose no difficulty. The complexity, however, arises by virtue of the power of the Court to substitute the Arbitrator while extending the mandate and this complication is of a higher degree if the earlier Arbitrator has been appointed by the High Court or the Supreme Court. Coupled with this, one cannot lose sight of the fact that the Legislature in its wisdom has conferred the powers of appointment of an Arbitrator only on the High Court or the Supreme Court, depending on the nature of arbitration and as and when the power is invoked by either of the parties. There may be many cases in which while extending the mandate of the Arbitrators, the Court may be of the view that for some valid reasons the Arbitrators are required to be substituted, in which case the Court may exercise the power and appoint a substituted Arbitrator and extend the mandate.

29. In case a petition under Section 29A of the Act is filed before the Principal Civil Court for extension of mandate and the occasion for substitution arises, then the Principal Civil Court will be called upon to exercise the power of substituting the Arbitrator. In a given case, the Arbitrator being substituted could be an Arbitrator who had been appointed by the Supreme Court or the High Court. This would lead to a situation where the conflict would arise between the power of superior Courts to appoint Arbitrators under Section 11 of the Act and those of the Civil Court to substitute those Arbitrators under Section 29A of the Act. This would be clearly in the teeth of provisions of Section 11 of the Act, which confers the power of appointment of Arbitrators only on the High Court or the Supreme Court, as the case may be. The only way, therefore, this conflict can be resolved or reconciled, in my opinion, will be by interpreting the term 'Court' in the context of Section 29A of the Act, to be a Court which has the power to appoint an Arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act. Accepting the contention of the respondent would lead to an inconceivable and impermissible situation where, particularly in case of Court appointed Arbitrators, where the Civil Courts would substitute and appoint Arbitrators, while extending the mandate under Section 29A of the Act.

30. Similarly, in case of International Commercial Arbitration, if one was to follow the definition of the term Court under Section 2(1)(e) and apply the same in a strict sense, then it would be the High Court exercising Original or Appellate jurisdiction which would have the power to extend the mandate and substitute the Arbitrator. In such a situation, the High Court would be substituting an Arbitrator appointed by the Supreme Court which would perhaps lead to the High Court over stepping its jurisdiction as the power to appoint the Arbitrator is exclusively in the domain of the Supreme Court. Thus, in the opinion of this Court, an application under Section 29A of the Act seeking extension of the mandate of the Arbitrator would lie only before the Court which has the power to appoint Arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act and not with the Civil Courts. The interpretation given by learned counsel for the respondent that for purposes of Section 29A, Court would mean the Principal Civil Court in case of domestic arbitration, would nullify the powers of the Superior Courts under Section 11 of the Act."

35. In Cabra Instalciones Y Servicios (supra), the Bombay High Court came to a conclusion that in light of the fact that substantive powers have been conferred under Section 29A of the Act upon the Court, a High Court cannot hear an application under Section 29A of the Act, when original appointment of the arbitrator in a given case was done by the Supreme Court. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"6. A perusal of Section 29-A would show that it is a substantive and a comprehensive provision inter alia dealing with the time limits for making of an arbitral award and extension of such time limits. Sub-section (1) provides that the award "shall" be made by the arbitral tribunal within a period of twelve months from the date the arbitral tribunal enters upon the reference. As to what is the deemed date for the tribunal to have entered the reference is provided in the 'Explanation' to sub-section (1). Sub-section (2) provides that if an award is made within a period of six months, from the date the arbitral tribunal enters upon the reference, then the arbitral tribunal shall be entitled to receive such amount of additional fees as the parties may agree. Sub-section (3) provides that the parties may by consent extend the period of twelve months specified in subsection (1) for making an award for a further period not exceeding six months. Sub-section (4) provides that when an award is not pronounced within the time specified in sub-section (1) which is within twelve months or the extended period i.e., six months specified in sub-section (3), the mandate of the arbitral tribunal would stand terminated, unless the Court has, either prior to or after the expiry of the period so specified, extended the period. As per the provisions of sub-section (5), extension of period referred to in sub-section (4) may be granted on an application of any of the parties and which may be granted only for sufficient cause and on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Court. Sub-section (6) is of significance which provides that while extending the period referred to in sub-section (4), it shall be open to the Court to substitute one or all the arbitrators and if one or all of the arbitrators are substituted, the arbitral proceedings shall continue from the stage already reached and on the basis of the evidence and material already on record, and the arbitrators so appointed under Section 29A would be deemed to have received the said evidence and material. Sub-section (7) provides that in the event of an arbitrator(s) being appointed under Section 29A, the arbitral tribunal thus reconstituted shall be deemed to be in continuation of the previously appointed arbitral tribunal.

7. On a plain reading of Section 29A alongwith its sub-sections, it can be seen that for seeking extension of the mandate of an arbitral tribunal, these are substantive powers which are conferred on the Court and more particularly in view of the clear provisions of sub-section (6) which provides that while extending the period referred to in sub-section (4), it would be open to the Court to substitute one or all the arbitrators, which is in fact a power to make appointment of a new/substitute arbitrator or any member of the arbitral tribunal. Thus certainly when the arbitration in question is an international commercial arbitration as defined under Section 2(1)(f) of the Act, the High Court exercising power under Section 29A, cannot make an appointment of a substitute arbitral tribunal or any member of the arbitral tribunal as prescribed under sub-section (6) of Section 29-A, as it would be the exclusive power and jurisdiction of the Supreme Court considering the provisions of Section 11(5) read with Section 11(9) as also Sections 14 and 15 of the Act. It also cannot be overlooked that in a given case there is likelihood of an opposition to an extension application and the opposing party may pray for appointment of a substitute arbitral tribunal, requiring the Court to exercise powers under sub-section (6) of Section 29-A. In such a situation while appointing a substitute arbitral tribunal, when the arbitration is an international commercial arbitration, Section 11(9) would certainly come into play, which confers exclusive jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to appoint an arbitral tribunal.

8. Thus, as in the present case once the arbitral tribunal was appointed by the Supreme Court exercising powers under Section 11(5) read with Section 11(9) of the Act, in my opinion, this Court lacks jurisdiction to pass any orders under Section 29-A of the Act, considering the statutory scheme of Section 29-A. It would only be the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to pass orders on such application under Section 29-A of the Act when the arbitration is an international commercial arbitration. The insistence on the part of the petitioner that considering the provisions of sub-section (4), the High Court would be the appropriate Court to extend the mandate of the arbitral tribunal under Section 29-A, would not be a correct reading of Section 29A as the provision is required to be read in its entirety and in conjunction with Section 11(9) of the Act."

36. In Magnum Opus IT Consulting Private Limited v. Artcad Systems reported in MANU/MH/3337/2022, the Bombay High Court expounded that when the High Court or the Supreme Court appoints the arbitrator, the term "Court" used in Section 29A of the Act would require a contextual interpretation given the rider provided in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"23. It is pertinent to note that Section 2 begins with "unless the context otherwise requires". In Hindustan Construction Ltd. (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court while considering the contention that the term 'Court' can be assigned different meaning depending on the context, referred to a three Judge Bench decision in CST vs. United Medical Agency MANU/SC/0396/1980 : (1981) 1 SCC 51 wherein it was held that "It is a well-settled principle that when a word or phrase has been defined in the interpretation clause, prima facie that definition governs whenever that word or phrase is used in the body of the statute. But where the context makes the definition clause inapplicable, a defined word when used in the body of the statute may have to be given a meaning different from that contained in the interpretation clause; all definitions given in an interpretation clause are, therefore, normally enacted subject to the usual qualification- "unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context", or "unless the context otherwise requires", Even in the absence of the express qualification to that effect such a qualification is always supplied."

24. In a recent judgment in Pasl Wind Solutions Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Ge Power Conversion India, MANU/SC/0295/2021 a three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court has reiterated that "normally the definition given in the section should be applied and given effect to but this normal rule may, however, be departed from if there be something in the context to show that the definition should not be applied... "

25. It is pertinent to note that Section 29-A authorizes the 'Court' not only to extend the mandate of the Arbitrator but also to substitute the Arbitrator. The meaning of the word 'Court' as defined in Section 2(1)(e) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act is subject to the requirement of the context. Hence, when the High Court or the Supreme Court, as the case may be, appoints the Arbitrator in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 11, the term 'Court' would require contextual interpretation, which is permissible in view of the rider contained in Sub Section 1 of Section 2 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act. Any other interpretation would create anomalous situation and irreconcilable conflict between the power of the superior court to appoint an Arbitrator and the power of the District Court to substitute such Arbitrator in exercise of powers under Section 29-A. Such conflict can be avoided only by purposive interpretation.

26. In the instant case, the District Court has substituted the arbitrator in exercise of powers under Section 29-A of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act. It is not in dispute that the arbitration proceedings had commenced under section 18 of the MSMED Act. The Council had not concluded the Arbitration within a period of 90 days as stipulated under sub-section 5 of section 18 of MSMED Act or within the time limit under section 29-A of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act. In fact, there was absolutely no progress in the Arbitration for a period of over 03 years and inaction of the Arbitrator had rendered the Arbitral Scheme under section 18 nugatory. There being no provision under the MSMED Act to extend the mandate of the arbitrator or substitute the arbitrator, the only remedy available to the Respondent was to approach the Court under section 29-A of the Arbitration Act and accordingly, the Respondent filed an application under section 29-A before the District Court, Nashik.

27. It is not in dispute that the District Court, Nashik is the principle Civil Court of original jurisdiction in the district having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject matter of the arbitration, if the same had been the subject matter of the suit. As noted above, in the instant case, the Arbitration proceedings had commenced under section 18 of the MSMED Act. The Arbitrator was neither appointed under section 11 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act nor substituted by this Court, by order dated 17/11/2017. By this order, this Court had only revived the arbitration proceedings which were closed by the Council. Hence, in the context of the present matter, interpreting the word 'Court' to mean principal civil court of original jurisdiction does not lead to an anomalous situation and does not give rise to conflict of powers. On factual aspects the decisions in Cabra Instalaciones, Nilesh Patel and Tara Chand (supra) are distinguishable. Hence, there is no scope to depart from the normal rule of giving effect to the meaning of the term 'Court' as defined in the Act."

37. A Division Bench of the Patna High Court in South Bihar Power Distribution Company Limited and Others v. Bhagalpur Electricity Distribution Company Private Limited and Others reported in MANU/BH/0467/2023 held that Section 2(e), Sections 11(4),11(5), and 11(6), and Sections 29A (4),(5),and (6) of the Act need to be read together and it is the Court which has the power to appoint the arbitrator before which an application for extension of time will lie. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"82. This definition of the word 'Court' is preceded by the term, 'in this Part, unless the context otherwise requires' which bears in ordinary sense in case of an arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction is a district, and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction. But we are more concerned with the process of appointment of arbitrators and their substitution as it would be seen that the definition of Court under Section 2 (e) has no relevance with regard to appointment and substitution of arbitrator.

85. Thus, Sub-section (4) of Section 11 provides that if a party fails to appoint an arbitrator within thirty days from the date of receipt of a request to do so from the other party or the two appointed arbitrators fail to agree on the third arbitrator within thirty days from the date of their appointment, the appointment shall be made, upon request of a party, by the Supreme Court or as the case may be, the High Court or any person or institution designated by such court. In the case at hand, the Arbitral Tribunal was constituted on appointment of Arbitrators being made by the parties and thereafter the appointed Arbitrators nominated the Presiding Arbitrator. But the question arises whether the learned District Judge was correct in his approach in extending the time of learned Arbitral Tribunal? No doubt Section 29A (4) provides that extension of mandate of appointment of Arbitrator (s) by the court either prior or after the expiry of the period so specified.

86. Now, a piquant situation arises. If the power to appoint Arbitrator has been vested with High Court and Supreme Court under Section 11 (4) of the Act, legislature would never intended its substitution under Section 29 A (6) by the court of principal civil judge as it appears from the plain reading of Section 2(e)(i). But the meaning of Court for the purpose of Section 29A would be different from what it is under Section 34 and Section 37 of the Act.

87. In the present case, though the Arbitrator was appointed by the parties themselves, but in case of any dispute they would otherwise have been appointed by the High Court or the Supreme Court as the case may be and taking cue from this provision under Section 11 (4), 11 (5) and 11 (6) of the Act, we can say that if the Principal Civil Court cannot substitute the Arbitrators, by corollary, it cannot extend the period of Arbitrator(s) under Section 29A (4). Otherwise it would give rise to conflict between the power of the High Court as well as the Supreme Court to appoint Arbitrators under Section 11 of the Act and those of the principal civil courts to substitute them under Section 29 (A) (6). Moreover initially when SBPDCL failed to appoint Arbitrator, BEDCPL approached this Court by filing Request Case No.06 of 2016 and during pendency of the aforementioned case, SBPDCL appointed its Arbitrator.

91. Thus, the cumulative reading of Section 2 (e), Section 11 (4) (5) (6) and Section 29 A (4) and (6) of the Act makes it crystal clear that the court which could grant extension of time could only be the court which has the power to appoint the Arbitrators and not the Principal Civil Court which is the court for other purpose under the Act. Otherwise, the conflict between the power of the superior courts to appoint Arbitrators under Section 11 of the Act and powers of the Principal Civil Court to substitute such Arbitrators under Section 29 A (6) of the Act could not be reconciled. So, we find and hold that the learned District Judge erred while granting the extension of time to the learned Arbitral Tribunal."

38. In Amit Kumar Gupta (supra), the Calcutta High Court held that the meaning of word "Court" as defined in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act is subject to the requirement of context and it is in that context, the word "Court" used in Section 29A of the Act must be interpreted. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"16. Section 29A of the Act of 1996 has dealt with the time limit for arbitral award. Sub-section (1) of Section 29A has prescribed the time limit for arbitration other than international commercial arbitration. It has prescribed that endeavour should be made to dispose an international commercial arbitration within the time limit prescribed. Sub-section (2) of Section 29A has allowed the arbitral tribunal to receive additional fees if the award is made within the time limit prescribed. Sub-section (3) of Section 29A of the Act of 1996 has allowed the parties to agree to extension for making the award. However, the period of extension has been prescribed not to exceed six months. Sub-section (4) of Section 29A has empowered the Court to extend the period to complete the arbitration reference. The first proviso to such sub-section has allowed the Court to reduce the fees of the arbitral tribunal, if the Court finds that the delay is attributable to the arbitral tribunal. Second proviso has provided that, the arbitral reference of the arbitrator shall continue till the disposal of an application under sub-section (5). The third proviso has required the Court to afford an opportunity of hearing to the arbitrator before the fees is reduced. Sub-section (5) of Section 29A has allowed the parties to make an application for extension of time to complete the reference. It has noted that, an extension to complete the reference can be granted when sufficient cause has been shown and on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Court. Sub-section (6) of Section 29A has allowed the Court to substitute one or all of the arbitrators. Sub-section (7) of Section 29A has stipulated that, in the event, the arbitrator or arbitrators are appointed under Section 29A then, the reconstituted arbitral tribunal shall be deemed to be in continuation of the previously appointed arbitral tribunal. Sub-section (8) of Section 29A has recognised the power of the Court to impose only actual or exemplary costs upon any of the parties. Sub-section (9) of Section 29A of the Act of 1996 has stipulated that an application under sub-section (5) of Section 29A should be disposed of by the Court as expeditiously as possible and endeavour should be made to dispose of the same within the period of 60 days from the date of service of notice on the opposite party.

17. The meaning of the word "court" as ascribed in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act of 1996 is subject to the requirement of the context. In the context of Section 29A of the Act of 1996 which has prescribed a substantive provision for completion of the arbitral award and the time limit to do so, the meaning of the word "court" as used therein has to be understood. Under sub-section (6) of Section 29A of the Act of 1996, the Court has been empowered to substitute the arbitrator or the arbitrators in reconstituting the arbitral tribunal if so required. The power of appointment of an arbitral tribunal has been prescribed in Section 11 of the Act of 1996. Section 11 of the Act of 1996 has prescribed two appointing authorities given the nature of the arbitration. In the case of an international commercial arbitration, the authority to appoint an arbitrator, has been prescribed under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 to be the Supreme Court. In the case of a domestic arbitration, Section 11 of the Act of 1996 has prescribed that the appointing authority shall be the High Court.

18. In my view, the word "court" used in Section 29A of the Act of 1996 partakes the character of the appointing authority as has been prescribed in Section 11 of the Act of 1996 as, the Court exercising jurisdiction under Section 29A of the Act of 1996 may be required to substitute the arbitrator in a given case. Such right of substituting can be exercised by a Court which has the power to appoint. The power to appoint has been prescribed in Section 11. Therefore, the power to substitute should be read in the context of the power of appointment under Section 11."

39. What emerges from the judgments of the Supreme Court as cited above is that the Supreme Court has consistently emphasized the importance of interpreting statutory definitions in the context in which they are used, rather than adhering strictly to their literal meaning. These judgments underscore the dynamic nature of statutory interpretation and highlight the significance of considering the broader context, purpose, and objectives of the statute. In Whirlpool Corporation (supra), the Supreme Court elucidated on the significance of the phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" in a definition clause. The Supreme Court emphasized that all statutory definitions should be read subject to the qualification expressed in the definition clause, acknowledging that a defined term may have a different meaning in different sections of an Act depending upon the subject or context. This approach ensures that statutory interpretations remain responsive to the diverse contexts in which they operate, thereby facilitating a nuanced and contextual understanding of statutory provisions. Furthermore, in the Supreme Court's decision in Angamuthu Ammal (supra), the Court further reinforced the principle that definitions in statutes, even if indicated to be conclusive, must be interpreted in light of the context and scheme of the statute. The Court emphasized that interpretations of definitions should not only be consistent with the context but should also aid in achieving the purpose intended by the legislature. Additionally, where a definition is preceded by the phrase "unless the context otherwise requires", the Court held that the definition should be applied and given effect to, but this rule may be departed from if there is something in the context to show that the definition could not be applied. The aforesaid judgments highlight the dynamic and purposive approach adopted by the Supreme Court in interpreting statutory definitions. They emphasize that statutory interpretation is not a mechanical exercise but requires a careful analysis of the context, purpose, and objectives of the statute. By considering the broader context in which statutory definitions are used, Courts can ensure that statutory interpretations align with legislative intent and serve the overarching goals of the statute. The Supreme Court has time and again reaffirmed the principle that statutory definitions should not be interpreted in isolation but should be analysed in conjunction with the surrounding provisions and the statute's overarching objectives. This approach ensures that statutory interpretations remain dynamic, responsive, and consistent with legislative intent, thereby promoting clarity, effectiveness, and fairness in the application of the law.

40. What can be inferred from the various High Court judgments as relied upon by the parties and cited above my me, is that while the definition of the term 'Court" under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act may initially suggest that the power to extend the mandate lies with the Principal Civil Court, the context of Section 29A of the Act necessitates a broader interpretation of this term. As can be seen, High Courts have held that the term 'Court" in the context of Section 29A of the Act should be understood to include the court that has the power to appoint the arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act. This interpretation avoids potential conflicts between the powers of different courts and ensures coherence within the statutory framework. The power of the Court to substitute one or all of the arbitrators while extending the mandate under Section 29A(6) of the Act is a significant aspect of the provision. This power enables the Court to address situations where the existing arbitrator may not be able to effectively conclude the proceedings within the specified timeline. In cases where the original appointment of the arbitrator was made the Supreme Court or the High Court, the power to substitute arbitrators rests exclusively with the High Court or the Supreme Court, depending on the Court whichmade the appointment. This interpretation as arrived at by multiple High Courts and this Court, preserves the hierarchy of judicial authority and avoids a protentional conflict between the provisions contained under Section 29A of the Act and Section 11 of the Act.

41. This Court in Lucknow Agencies Lko. v. U.P. Avas Vikas Parishad and Others reported in MANU/UP/0885/2019, in a case where the appointment of the arbitrator was made by Housing Commissioner, concluded that since this Court does not exercise ordinary original civil jurisdiction, an application under Section 29A of the Act would lie before the Court within the meaning of Section 2(1)(e) of the Act:

"7. As this matter relates to an Arbitration other than International Commercial Arbitration it is Section 2(1) Clause (e)(i) as substituted by the Act No. 3 of 2016 which shall apply in this case.

8. On a bare perusal of the aforesaid definition of the term 'Court' it means that the Principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a District and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject matter of a suit but does not include any Civil Court of a great interfere to such principal Civil Court or any Court of small causes. On a bare reading of the said definition it is evident that the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in the District is the court of the District Judge.

9. As regards the Allahabad High Court is concerned, it does not have ordinary original civil jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject matter of the arbitration at hand as a subject matter of a suit. Even if the unamended definition of Court is taken into consideration it does not make much of a difference to the case at hand, as, even there the jurisdiction for extending the period under Sub-section 4 and 5 of Section 29-A would lie before the Principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a District or the High Court having ordinary original civil jurisdiction to try the subject matter of Arbitration in a Suit. The application under Section 11 of the Act, 1996 is maintained before the High Court in view of the specific term 'High Court' used therein, whereas, the term used in Sub-section 4 and 5 of Section 29-A is 'Court' and not the High Court.

10. As regards the reference to provisions of the Commercial Courts, Commercial Division and Commercial Appellate Division of High Courts Act, 2015 is concerned, Section 4 of the said Act deals with constitution of Commercial Division of High Court and the very opening line of Subsection 1 says- 'in all High Courts, having ordinary civil jurisdiction'. Ordinary civil jurisdiction refers to ordinary original civil jurisdiction as is evident from Rule 7 and 10 of the Act, 2015. As already stated hereinabove, the Allahabad High Court does not have ordinary civil jurisdiction to try commercial disputes, therefore, there is no question of any commercial dispute being initiated before the Commercial Division of the High Court by way of a suit based on valuation, as, the prerequisite implied by the use of the words- 'having ordinary civil jurisdiction' appearing in Sub-section 1 of Section 4 is not satisfied. This is also clear from a bare reading of Section 7 of the Act, 2015 which relates to jurisdiction of Commercial Divisions of High Court and the opening sentence of the said provision is-'all suits and applications relating to commercial disputes of a specified value filed in a High Court having ordinary original civil jurisdiction shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division of that High Court. Furthermore, Section 10 of the Act, 2015 specifically deals with the topic of jurisdiction in respect of arbitration matters, which reads as under:-

"10. Jurisdiction in respect of arbitration matters.-Where the subject-matter of an arbitration is a commercial dispute of a Specified Value and—

(1) If such arbitration is an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that have been filed in a High Court, shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted in such High Court.

(2) If such arbitration is other than an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that have been filed on the original side of the High Court, shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted in such High Court.

(3) If such arbitration is other than an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that would ordinarily lie before any principal civil court of original jurisdiction in a district (not being a High Court) shall be filed in, and heard and disposed of by the Commercial Court exercising territorial jurisdiction over such arbitration where such Commercial Court has been constituted."

11. On a bare reading of the aforesaid provision it is evident that if an Arbitration is other than an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that have been filed on the original side of the High Court, shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted in such High Court. Now, this provision applies where the High Court exercises original civil jurisdiction to try suits involving commercial dispute as deferred in Section 2(1)(c) of the Act, 2015 as is evident from the use of the words 'filed on the original side of the High Court'. The Allahabad High court does not exercise original civil jurisdiction involving commercial disputes as defined in Section 2(1)(c) of the Act, 2015 as is evident from Rule 1 to 9 of Chapter VIII of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952. Moreover, Sub-section 3 of Section 10 of the Act, 2015 very categorically provides that if an arbitration is other than an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the Act, 1996 that would ordinarily lie before any principal civil court of original jurisdiction in a district (not being a High Court) shall be filed in, and heard and disposed of by the Commercial Court exercising territorial jurisdiction over such arbitration where such Commercial Court has been constituted. Therefore, in the facts of the present case as the Allahabad High Court does not exercise original civil jurisdiction involving commercial disputes the application under Section 29-A of the Act, 1996 relating to a commercial dispute would lie before the Commercial Court exercising territorial jurisdiction over such arbitration where such Commercial Court has been constituted and in an Arbitration relating to a non commercial dispute it would lie before the principal civil court of original jurisdiction i.e. the Court of District Judge as referred hereinabove. This is how the Act of 1996 and the Act, 2015 have to be read together to arrive at a harmonious understanding of the two Acts in matters of Arbitration."

42. However, in Indian Farmers Fertilizers (supra), this Court took a divergent view on factual grounds since Section 29A(6) of the Act was not considered by this Court in Lucknow Agencies (supra), and the arbitrator in Lucknow Agencies (supra), was appointed by the Housing Commissioner and not the High Court. This Court concluded that when the High Court has appointed an arbitrator under Section 11 of the Act, it is only the High Court which can hear an application under Section 29A(4) and Section 29A(5) of the Act:

"29. From the reading of Section 2(1)(e) it is clear that in case of an arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction or the High Court, which exercises its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration, shall be the court.

30. While, section 11 provides for power of appointment of arbitrators. Sub-section (2) provides that parties are free to agree on a procedure for appointing the arbitrator or arbitrators. It is where the parties failed to arrive in the appointment of arbitrators that the power has been vested with the High Court with the appointment of arbitrators for domestic arbitration and the Supreme Court in the matters of international commercial arbitration. Sub-sections (4), (5) and (6) read together provide the manner in which these two superior courts step in, in the appointment of arbitrator.

31. Section 29-A is a substantive provision which was inserted w.e.f. 23.10.2015 for speedy disposal of cases relating to arbitration with the least Court intervention. The statement of objects and reasons to the amending Act No. 3 of 2016 provided that as India had been ranked as 178 out of 189 nations in the world in contract enforcement, it is high time that urgent steps are taken to facilitate quick enforcement of contracts, easy recovery of monetary claims and award of just compensation for damages suffered and reduce the pendency of cases in courts and hasten the process of dispute resolution through arbitration, so as to encourage investment and economic activity.

32. Sub-section (1) of Section 29A provides for the period within which the arbitration proceedings are to be completed i.e. 12 months. Further sub-section (3) of Section 29A takes care that in case the award is not made as per subsection (1), by the consent of the parties, the period can be extended for further six months.

33. The Act puts a cap upon extension beyond period of eighteen months and sub-section (4) of Section 29A provides that in case the award is not made within the extended period, it is only the Court on the application of the parties may extend the period. Sub-section (6) of Section 29A is of great relevance as it provides the power to the Court to substitute one or all the arbitrators and the arbitral proceedings shall continue from the stage already reached and on the basis of evidence and material already on record.

34. Thus, the power to substitute the arbitrator as mandated in subsection (6) of Section 29A vest only with the Court. This provision cannot be read in isolation but with Section 11, which provides for appointment of arbitrator.

35. Once the appointment of arbitrator or arbitral Tribunal has been made by the High Court or the Supreme Court exercising power under sub-sections (4), (5) and (6) of Section 11 then the power to substitute the arbitrator or the Arbitral Tribunal only vest with the said appointing authority i.e. High Court or Supreme Court, as the case may be.

36. The argument raised from the side opposite that the word 'Court' occurring in Section 2(1)(e) means the principal Civil Court and not the High Court cannot be accepted, as once the appointment was made by the High Court exercising power under Section 11, the power to substitute an arbitrator cannot vest under sub-section (6) of Section 29A with the principal Civil Court.

37. The Calcutta High Court in Amit Kumar Gupta (supra) had in categorical terms held that the power to substitute the arbitrator given in sub-section (6) of Section 29A has to be read with the power of appointment under Section 11. The same view has been reiterated by the Gujarat High Court in case of Nilesh Ramanbhai Patel (supra).

38. The Division Bench of Kerala High Court in case of M/s. Lots Shipping Company Limited (supra) had clearly held that the power to grant extension by Court is introduced under an integrated scheme which also allows the Court to reduce the fees of the arbitrators or to impose cost on a party and/or to substitute the arbitrators. The power of extension is to be exercised on satisfying the "sufficient cause" being made out. According to the Court, the powers conferred under Section 29A for permitting extension with respect to proceedings of arbitration, is clearly akin to the powers conferred under Section 14 and 15 of the Act.

39. The Court further recorded that the absence of any provision for an appeal with regard to the exercise of powers under Section 29A, would be indicative of the fact that power under Section 29A is not to be exercised by principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction.

40. The anxiety of respondent's counsel as to the Section 42 of the Act read with Section 2(1)(e) has no relevance in the scheme of the Act while dealing with Sections 11 and 29A of the Act, as Section 42 will get attracted only when the Courts are dealing matters other than that of appointment and removal of arbitrators. The section clearly provides that where any application in respect of an arbitration agreement is made to the Court, that Court alone has jurisdiction over the arbitral proceedings and all the subsequent applications arising out of that agreement and the arbitral proceedings shall be made in that Court and in no other Court.

41. In case of Garhwal Mandal Vikas Nigam Ltd. (supra), the Apex Court while clarifying the position as to the challenge of an award made by an arbitrator appointed by the High Court or Supreme Court under Section 11 shall be made under Section 34 of the Act of 1996 before the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction as contemplated under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act.

42. Thus the argument from the side opposite as to the award cannot be challenged before the principal Civil Judge made by the arbitrator appointed by this Court has been dealt in extenso by Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment referred above.

43. Here, we are concerned with the extension of time limit for the arbitral award under Section 29A, wherein an arbitrator has been appointed by the High Court exercising power under Section 11 of the Act. Section 42 will not be attracted and it is only the High Court which has the power to grant extension to the Arbitral Tribunal for making award.

44. Reliance placed on the various decisions by the respondent's counsel relate to the definition of the word "court" under Section 2(1) (e) prior to the amendment of year 2015. In none of the judgment placed before the Court Sections 11 and 29A of the Act has been taken into consideration.

45. As far as decision of coordinate Bench of this Court in case of M/s. Lucknow Agencies and Another (supra) is concerned, the arbitrator was appointed by the Housing Commissioner and not by the High Court exercising power under Section 11 of the Act. The Court while considering the provisions of Section 29A(4) and (5) held that it was the principal Civil Court where the application for extension of time for arbitral award was maintainable and not before the High Court. In the said judgment there was no consideration as to subsection (6) and (7) of Section 29A of the Act. The said decision is distinguishable on the facts of the present case.

46. In the present case this Court exercising power under Section 11 of the Act has appointed the arbitrator way back in the year 2014.

47. Thus, the question framed above stand answered holding that the application for extension of time for arbitral award moved under Section 29A is maintainable before this Court."

43. The counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite parties strongly emphasized that the term "Court" used in Section 29A of the Act must be interpreted in its literal sense, and the phrase "if the context otherwise requires" will not come into play here. However, literally interpreting the term "Court" in Section 29A as used in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act would lead to certain anomalous situations. Section 29A of the Act also gives the power to the Court hearing an application under the said section to substitute an arbitrator. The element of substitution involved in Section 29A, to my mind, qualifies the term "Court" used in the said section to be interpreted in a different manner than the one provided under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act if the original appointment of the arbitrator(s) was made under Section 11 of the Act for two reasons. Firstly, the power to substitute is akin to the power of appointment, which under Section 11 of the Act has been conferred upon the Supreme Court or the High Courts. Counsel for opposite parties impressed upon this Court that there is nothing holy about the appointment process under Section 11 of the Act, since by the Amendment of 2019 to the Act, power to appointment has now been conferred upon arbitral institutions designated by the Supreme Court or the High Courts. To me, this argument does not hold much water since despite the said change, overall supervision and power to designate arbitral institutions remains with the Supreme Court or the High Courts. Furthermore, this Court cannot be influenced by the said amendment to Section 11 of the Act, since the same is yet to be notified. Coming to the second reason, it is inconceivable that power to appoint an arbitrator would lie with the Supreme Court or the High Courts under Section 11 of the Act but will also lie with the Civil Courts or Commercial Courts under Section 29A(6) of the Act. And given that the initial appointment of the arbitrator may have occurred under Section 11 of the Act, and under Section 29A(6), the Court is empowered to substitute an arbitrator, interpreting the term "Court" in the manner as prescribed under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act would lead to a conflict between Section 11 and Section 29A(6) of the Act. Provisions of a statute are to be read together, and not in isolation, to avoid such conflict. The contention put forth by the counsel for the opposite parties regarding the literal interpretation of the term "Court" suggests a strict adherence to the language of the statute without considering contextual factors. However, statutory interpretation is not merely a matter of linguistic analysis but also involves consideration of legislative intent, statutory purpose, and the broader legal framework within which the statute operates.

44. The term "Court" in Section 29A of the Act must be interpreted in a manner that does not conflict with Section 11 of the Act. This interpretation aligns with the principle that provisions of a statute should be read together and not in isolation to avoid conflicts. Section 29A of the Act provides for a comprehensive framework for the completion of arbitration proceedings within specific time limits, including provisions for extension of the mandate and substitution of arbitrators. Power to extend the mandate of an arbitrator under Section 29A of the Act includes the power to substitute arbitrator(s). A contextual interpretation is required while interpreting the term "Court" in Section 29A of the Act because the powers conferred on the Court under Section 29A of the Act, especially regarding the substitution of arbitrators, are akin to the powers conferred upon the Supreme Court and the High Courts under Section 11 of the Act. If literal interpretation is accorded to the term "Court" in Section 29A of the Act, it would lead to a situation where both the Courts under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act, and the Supreme Court and the High Courts, are exercising similar powers of appointment. This is contrary to the legislative intent and also goes against hierarchy of the courts. Literal Interpretation is to be followed unless it leads to absurdity and anomalies. Therefore, the principle of literal interpretation would not apply while interpreting the term "Court" under Section 29A of the Act. The judgments of the various High Courts discussed above highlight the importance of harmonizing the provisions of Section 29A of the Act with other sections of the Act and ensuring that the interpretation of the term "Court" aligns with the purpose and objectives of the Act.

45. The difficult situation which would arise in literally interpreting the term "Court" used in Section 29A of the Act, was recently highlighted by the High Court of Bombay in the case of K.I.P.L. Vistacore Infra Projects J.V. v. Municipal Corporation of the city of Ichalkarnji reported in MANU/MH/0513/2024. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"13. The legislature, therefore, has consciously used the word 'Court' which is empowered to extend the mandate of the Arbitrator, if it has expired as it is that 'Court' which has appointed the Arbitrator and while extending the period, if the Court finds that the proceedings have been delayed for the reasons attributable to the Arbitral Tribunal, then it is even empowered to reduce fees of the Arbitrator(s), in the manner set out in the proviso.

The term 'Court' used in Sub-Section (4) as well as in the Scheme of Section 29A, would therefore, have to be construed as a 'Court' in reference to the context. It is highly inconceivable that an Arbitrator is appointed by the High Court or Supreme Court in case of International Commercial Arbitration and the Principal Civil Court of Original Jurisdiction in a district which is sub ordinate to the High Court, shall exercise the power under Sub-Section (4) or or that matter power under Sub-Section (6) of substituting Arbitrator while extending the period referred in Sub-Section 4.

Apart from this, Sub-Section (7) and (8) are also illustrative of the intention of the legislature that it never intended to strictly construe the term 'Court' as defined in Section 2(1) of the Act.

14. The provision contained in Form of Section 29A inserted by the Amendment Act No. 3 of 2016, which contemplated the timeline for conclusion of the arbitral proceedings with an intention to encourage arbitration as a speedy mode of resolution of disputes. Section 29-A is a scheme in itself which, in order to conclude the arbitration in an expedient manner provided for entitlement of the Tribunal to receive such amount of additional fees as the parties agree if the Award is within a period of six months after the Tribunal enters the reference. It provides a mechanism if the Award is not made within the period specified or the extended period of six months as upon the expiry of this period, the mandate of the Arbitrator shall terminate unless the Court extend the period.

The power to be exercised in extending the mandate of Tribunal is of great significance since neither the parties themselves by consent are empowered to extend the mandate but for the period of six months when it can by consent extend the period by six months, but for further extension, it is only the Court which can be approached and upon being satisfied that the mandate of the Tribunal deserve an extension on sufficient cause being shown upon such terms and conditions as the Court may impose, the mandate can be extended.

If the power under Section 29A is to be exercised by Principal Civil Court of the District, though it may be competent to extend the mandate, but when the question of substitution arises, an anomalous situation would result as an Arbitrator appointed by the High Court or Supreme Court shall stand substituted by the Principal Civil Court, as an appointment of the Arbitrator in any case under Section 11 is the prerogative of the High Court in case of Domestic Arbitration and the Supreme Court, in case of International Arbitration.

15. This situation would pose a difficulty as it would permit the Civil Courts to substitute and appoint Arbitrators, which were appointed by the High Court under the guise of the power to be exercised under Section 29A of the Act by construing that the term' Court' would be assigned the strict meaning as per Section 2 of the Act.

A Consistent view to the effect that the above exercise would permit the Court subordinate to High Court or the Supreme Court, to substitute an Arbitrator, is reflected though various judicial pronouncements including the decision from Bombay High Court in case of Cabra Instalaciones Y. Servicios (supra) as well as Delhi High Court in case of Tara Chand Sumit Construction Co. (supra).

The Delhi High Court has gainfully referred to the decision in case of Cabra Instalaciones Y. Servicios and a decision of Gujarat High Court in case of Nilesh Ramanbhai Patel (supra) which again proceed on the same logic that the powers for extending the mandate of an Arbitrator under Section 29A are coupled with the power to substitute an Arbitrator and they are concomitant and, therefore, if for valid reasons the Court find that it is a fit case for extending the mandate of the Arbitrator that by itself may not be sufficient to bring about an early end to the Arbitration Proceedings and the Court may also consider substituting the Arbitrator in the existing arbitral proceedings, but if interpretation which was sought to be canvassed that under Sub-Section (6) of Section 29A, the powers are vested in Civil Court i.e. to substitute an Arbitrator or a full panel of Arbitrators appointed by the High Court under Section 11, it would lead to irreconcilable conflict between the powers of the superior Courts to appoint an Arbitrator under Section 11 and those of the Civil Courts to substitute such Arbitrators under Section 29- A(6).

Nilesh Ramanbhai Patel (supra), therefore clearly held that this conflict can be avoided only by interpreting the term 'Court' for the purpose of Section 29A as the Court which appointed the Arbitrator in case of the Court which constituted arbitral tribunal."

46. The counsel for the opposite parties harped on the fact that the usage of the words "Court" and omission of the word "High Court" or "Supreme Court" in Section 29A of the Act is a conscious choice and reflects the will of the legislature. I find myself unable to agree with the same. If the legislature intended every occurrence of the term "Court" in all the sections of the Act to mean the same, the phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" used in Section 2(1)(e) of the Act would be rendered meaningless, ineffective and otiose. The very usage of the said phrase in Section 2(1)(e) is reflective of the legislative intent that the interpretation of term "Court" is subject to the context in which it has been used. The inclusion of the phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" underscores the legislature's intent to allow for a flexible and context-sensitive interpretation of the terms within the Act. The argument regarding the deliberate legislative choice to use the term "Court" uniformly across all sections of the Act lacks sufficient consideration of the principle of contextual interpretation and the broader framework of statutory construction.

47. The counsel for the Respondent contended that by the Amendment Act of 2015 by which Section 29A of the Act was inserted, explanation to Section 47 of the Act was also amended, and the word 'High Court' was specifically added to the explanation. Therefore, counsel contended that the usage of the word "Court" in Section 29A and not 'High Court" or

"Supreme Court" is a conscious choice by the legislature. To me, this argument does not bear much weight for the simple reason that while the explanation to Section 47 of the Act was amended by the virtue of the recommendation made the 246th Report by the LIC, the insertion of Section 29A of the Act was not recommended by 246th LIC Report but instead the insertion of Section 29A in the Act can be traced back to the 176th Report by LIC, as has been discussed earlier. Furthermore, the recommendations in the 176th Report by LIC did not contain any provision for substitution. Accordingly, when the amendment actually took place with the inclusion of substitution in Section 29(6), the legislative obviously did not contemplate or deliberate upon the anamoly that may arise.

CONFLICTING DECISION OF THIS COURT AND REFERENCE TO A LARGER BENCH

48. In a departure from the view taken by this Court in Indian Farmer Fertilizers (supra), this Court in A'Xykno Capital Services (supra), held the decision rendered in Indian Farmer Fertilizers (supra) to be per incuriam. In A'Xykno Capital Services (supra), this Court had concluded that the term "Court" as envisaged under Section 29A of the Act read with Section 2(1)(e) of the Act does not include a High Court not having original civil jurisdiction as in the case of this Court and an application as such under Section 29A of the Act would be maintainable only in the Principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a district. This Court in the A'Xykno Capital Services (supra) further held that the power to substitute an arbitrator under Section 14 of the Act is not akin to the power to substitute under Section 29A of the Act. The Court in A'Xykno Capital Services (supra) made a reference to the judgment of the Supreme Court in Nimet Resources (supra), wherein the Supreme Court held that it is only a High Court exercising original civil jurisdiction where an application under Section 14 of the Act would be maintainable.

49. However, I find myself unable to agree with the view taken in A'Xykno Capital Services (supra). Firstly, when the judgment of the Supreme Court was rendered in Nimet Resources (supra), Section 14 of the Act, as it existed then, contained no provision for substitution, wherein it does contain the provision for substitution now. In Swadesh Kumar Agarwal v. Dinesh Kumar Agarwal reported in MANU/SC/0588/2022, the Supreme Court, while taking the amended Section 14 into consideration concluded that, while the termination of an arbitrator would lie before the Court as defined under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act, the parties after such termination, will have to follow the rules that were applicable to the initial appointment of the arbitrator. Relevant paragraphs from Swadesh Kumar Agarwal (supra) have been extracted below:

"6.5. Sections 14 and 15 provide for termination of the mandate of the arbitrator. Section 14 of the Act, 1996 provides that the mandate of the arbitrator shall terminate and he shall be substituted by another arbitrator in case of any eventuality mentioned in Section 14(1)(a). As per Sub-section (2) of Section 14, if a controversy remains concerning any of the grounds referred to in Clause (a) of Sub-section (1), a party may, apply to the "court" to decide on the termination of the mandate. The expression "court" is defined

Under Section 2(e) of the Act, 1996, which reads as under:

(e) "Court" means—

(i) in the case of an arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a district, and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, but does not include any Civil Court of a grade inferior to such principal Civil Court, or any Court of Small Causes;

(ii) in the case of international commercial arbitration, the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, and in other cases, a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of courts subordinate to that High Court;]

6.6. Section 15 provides other grounds for termination of the mandate of the arbitrator. It provides that in addition to the circumstances referred to in Section 13 or Section 14, the mandate of an arbitrator shall terminate (a) where he withdraws from office for any reason; or (b) by or pursuant to an agreement of the parties.

Where the mandate of an arbitrator is terminated on the aforesaid grounds mentioned in Section 15(1)(a) and (b) in such a situation a substitute arbitrator shall have to be appointed and that too, according to the Rules that were applicable to the appointment of the arbitrator being replaced.

6.7. Therefore, on a conjoint reading of Section 13, 14 and 15 of the Act, if the challenge to the arbitrator is made on any of the grounds mentioned in Section 12 of the Act, the party aggrieved has to submit an appropriate application before the Arbitral Tribunal itself. However, in case of any of the eventualities mentioned in Section 14(1)(a) of the Act, 1996 and the mandate of the arbitrator is sought to be terminated on the ground that the sole arbitrator has become de jure and/or de facto unable to perform his functions or for other reasons fails to act without undue delay, the aggrieved party has to approach the concerned "court" as defined Under Section 2(e) of the Act, 1996. The concerned court has to adjudicate on whether, in fact, the sole arbitrator/arbitrators has/have become de jure and de facto unable to perform his/their functions or for other reasons he fails to act without undue delay. The reason why such a dispute is to be raised before the court is that eventualities mentioned in Section 14(1)(a) can be said to be a disqualification of the sole arbitrator and therefore, such a dispute/controversy will have to be adjudicated before the concerned court as provided Under Section 14(2) of the Act, 1996.

So far as the termination of the mandate of the arbitrator and/or termination of the proceedings mentioned in other provisions like in Section 15(1)(a) where he withdraws from office for any reason; or (b) by or pursuant to an agreement of the parties, the dispute need not be raised before the concerned court. For example, where the sole arbitrator himself withdraws from office for any reason or when both the parties agree to terminate the mandate of the arbitrator and for substitution of the arbitrator, thereafter, there is no further controversy as either the sole arbitrator himself has withdrawn from office and/or the parties themselves have agreed to terminate the mandate of the arbitrator and to substitute the arbitrator. Thus, there is no question of raising such a dispute before the court. Therefore, the legislation has deliberately provided that the dispute with respect to the termination of the mandate of the arbitrator Under Section 14(1)(a) alone will have to be raised before the "court". Hence, whenever there is a dispute and/or controversy that the mandate of the arbitrator is to be terminated on the grounds mentioned in Section 14(1)(a), such a controversy/dispute has to be raised before the concerned "court" only and after the decision by the concerned "court" as defined Under Section 2(e) of the Act, 1996 and ultimately it is held that the mandate of the arbitrator is terminated, thereafter, the arbitrator is to be substituted accordingly, that too, according to the Rules that were applicable to the initial appointment of the arbitrator. Therefore, normally and generally, the same procedure is required to be followed which was followed at the time of appointment of the sole arbitrator whose mandate is terminated and/or who is replaced."

50. The reasoning as adopted in A'Xykno Capital Services (supra), will lead to a situation wherein although not intended by the legislature, power of substitution under Section 29A(6) would be bestowed upon the Court as defined under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act even when the initial appointment of the arbitrator(s) may have been made under Section 11 of the Act by the High Courts or the Supreme Court. Each provision in the Act, is required to be interpreted in the context under which it has been used. Literal rule of interpretation is not the only rule of interpretation. Section 29A of the Act, as interpreted in A'Xykno Capital Services (supra), creates absurdity by putting two provisions of the Act, in direct conflict with each other. Section 29A of the Act, cannot be read in isolation with Sections 11 and 14 of the Act. The judgment in A'Xykno Capital Services (supra) further goes against the principle of judicial hierarchy.

51. In A'Xykno Capital Services (supra), this Court also held that the power to substitute an arbitrator under Section 29A of the Act is not akin to the power to appoint an arbitrator under Section 11(6) of the Act. This, in my view, is an erroneous reasoning. The usage of the term "appointed" in Section 29(7) of the Act indicates that substitution under Section 29(6) of the Act amounts to appointment:

"(7) In the event of arbitrator(s) being appointed under this section, the arbitral tribunal thus reconstituted shall be deemed to be in continuation of the previously appointed arbitral tribunal."

52. Furthermore, the distinguishing of the judgment of Lucknow Agencies (supra), in Indian Fertilizers (supra), was held as erroneous by this Court in A'Xykno Capital Services (supra). To my view, this could not have been done. The judgments in Lucknow Agencies (supra) and Indian Fertilizers (supra) were delivered on different factual scenarios and therefore, the varying interpretation of Section 29A of the Act in the said judgments was not in conflict with each other. Where a High Court or the Supreme Court has not appointed the arbitrator, the Court within the meaning of Section 2(1)(e) of the Act can exercise the powers contained under Section 29A of the Act as the same would not lead to a conflict with the provisions contained under Section 11 of the Act and will also not go against the principal of judicial hierarchy. However, in case, where the appointment of the arbitrator(s) has been made under Section 11 of the Act, it is only the Court which appointed the arbitrator(s) that can hear an application under Section 29A of the Act.

53. In State of Punjab v. Devans Modern Breweries Ltd. reported in MANU/SC/0961/2003, the Supreme Court propounded that given the principle of judicial discipline, a coordinate bench is bound to follow the decision of an earlier coordinate bench or refer the matter to a larger bench. Relevant paragraph has been extracted below:

"360. Judicial discipline envisages that a coordinate bench follow the decision of earlier coordinate bench. If a coordinate bench does not agree with the principles of law enunciated by another bench, the matter may be referred only to a larger bench. (See Pradip Chandra Parija v. Pramod Chandra Patnaik, MANU/SC/0304/2002 : [2002]254ITR99(SC) ; followed in State of Tripura v. Roop Chand Das and Ors., But no decision can be arrived at contrary to or inconsistent with the law laid down by the coordinate bench. Kalyani Stores (supra) and K.K. Narula (supra) both have been rendered by the Constitution Benches. The said decisions, therefore, cannot be thrown out for any purpose whatsoever; more so when both of them if applied collectively lead to a contrary decision proposed by the majority."

54. A Similar view was reiterated by the Supreme Court in Central Board of Dawoodi Bohra Community and Others v. State of Maharashtra and Others reported in MANU/SC/1069/2004:

"(2) A Bench of lesser quorum cannot doubt the correctness of the view of the law taken by a Bench of larger quorum. In case of doubt all that the Bench of lesser quorum can do is to invite the attention of the Chief Justice and request for the matter being placed for hearing before a Bench of larger quorum than the Bench whose decision has come up for consideration. It will be open only for a Bench of coequal strength to express an opinion doubting the correctness of the view taken by the earlier Bench of coequal strength, whereupon the matter may be placed for hearing before a Bench consisting of a quorum larger than the one which pronounced the decision laying down the law the correctness of which is doubted." (Emphasis Added)

55. In light of the same, I am of the view that the controversy involved in the interpretation of the term 'Court" in Section 29A of the Act is required to be placed before a Larger Bench in view of the conflicting decisions of this Court.

PRINCIPLES

56. Principles that emerge based on the foregoing discussion and a consideration of various judgments of the Supreme Court and the High Courts have been summarised below:

a. Definition clause is a central consideration while interpreting the meaning of a particular term in a Section and generally the Courts are expected to adhere to the meaning as provided in the definition clause. However, in cases, where adhering to the meaning as provided in the definition clause leads to some absurdity or contextual ambiguity, then the Courts while interpreting a particular word can depart from the rule of literal interpretation and look at extrinsic sources such as legislative history, statutory purpose, and the context of the provision.

b. When the phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" precedes a definition clause, it acknowledges the varying circumstances that may arise while interpreting a particular statute, which may necessitate according a different meaning to a given term, than the one that has been provided in the definition clause. If a particular term has to be accorded the same meaning throughout the statute, even if it leads to repugnancy and absurdity, the usage of phrase "unless the context otherwise requires" would become otiose.

c. Literal rule of interpretation is not the only rule of interpretation and the rule of purposive interpretation also needs to be kept in mind, especially in cases, where literal interpretation may lead to absurd and unintended consequences, or where such interpretation would go against the very purpose of a particular statute.

d. Even though Section 29A uses the term "Court" the same must be read as "High Court" in the case of a domestic commercial arbitration, and as "Supreme Court" in the case of an international commercial arbitration, in cases where the initial appointment of the arbitrator(s) was made by the Supreme Court or the High Courts, as the case maybe. This is to avoid conflict within two different sections of the Act, namely, Section 11 of the Act, and Section 29A of the Act and preserve the principle of judicial hierarchy. Legislature never intended to bestow the power of appointment of the arbitrator(s) to the Civil Courts/Commercial Courts, and giving the Civil Courts/Commercial Courts, the power to substitute an arbitrator under Section 29A(6) of the Act when the original appointment was made by the Supreme Court or the High Court would amount to defeating the intent of the legislature.

e. The power to substitute an arbitrator(s) under Section 29A(6) of the Act is similar to the power to appoint an arbitrator(s) under Section 11 of the Act. Moreover, if a Civil Court/Commercial Court exercises the powers under Section 29A of the Act in a case where the High Court/Supreme Court appointed the arbitrator(s), the same would create an anomalous situation wherein a Supreme Court/High Court appointee is subject to the supervision of a lower court.

f. However, in cases, where the original appointment was not made by the Supreme Court/High Court, the Court within the meaning of Section 2(1)(e) of the Act, can exercise powers under Section 29A of the Act, including the power of substitution under Section 29A(6) of the Act. This would avoid conflict between different provisions of the Act and also give effect to Section 29A of the Act, both in letter and in spirit.

CONCLUSION AND DIRECTIONS

57. Since conflicting decisions by different Single Benches of this Court exist on a similar question of law, I am of the opinion that a Larger Bench needs to be constituted to settle the conflicting views adopted by different Single Benches of this Court on the following questions of law :

1. Whether in a case where the appointment of the arbitrator(s) has been made by the Supreme Court or the High Court, it is only the Supreme Court or the High Court, respectively, that can hear an application under Section 29A of the Act ?

2. Whether in a case where the appointment of the arbitrator(s) was made under the agreement contained between the parties (including statutory appointments under MSMED Act, NHAI Act, etc.) and not by the High Court or Supreme Court, the Court as defined under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act can exercise the powers under Section 29A of the Act, including the power of substitution contained in Section 29A(6) of the Act ?

58. Accordingly, the Registry of this Court is directed to place this matter before the Hon'ble the Chief Justice for constitution of a larger bench as per the Allahabad High Court Rules.

59. This Court acknowledges the diligence and eloquence of counsel appearing for parties in ARBT 2 of 2022 and ARBT 5 of 2023 in rendering assistance to this Court on the Question of Law as was put forward by this Court during the course of arguments. I would also like to put on record my appreciation for the painstaking research and assistance in drafting by my legal intern Mr. Jaspreet Singh.

60. In light of the aforesaid discussion, ARBT 2 of 2022 and ARBT 5 of 2023 are adjourned sine die till the larger bench returns its decision on the questions of law.

61. Urgent photostat-certified copies of this order, if applied for, should be readily made available to the parties upon compliance with requisite formalities.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinod Diwakar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Rahul Chaudhary, learned counsel for the applicant/informant, learned A.G.A. for the State-respondent, and perused the records.

2. The instant application has been preferred by the applicant/informant- G.S. Raghav, seeking cancellation of bail of the accused/opposite party no.2- Aditya Goel, in Case Crime No.1889 of 2018, under sections 420, 406, 409 and 120B IPC, Police Station Kavi Nagar, District Ghaziabad, who was enlarged on bail by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.40534 of 2019, titled Aditya Goel v. State of U.P.

3. Succinctly, the prosecution case is that the accused/opposite party no.2 is associated with a company facing serious allegations of embezzling funds amounting to Rs.2,45,30,623/-. The gist of the accusation is that Earth Iconic Infrastructure Limited is a wholly owned subsidiary company of Earth Infrastructure Limited, where the father and other relatives of opposite party no.2 (the accused) serve as Directors and induced the petitioner/complainant to invest in their company with promises of substantial return in the phased manner. Additionally, the accused issued 41 post-dated cheques of Rs.75,21,059/- each, intended for monthly deposit and clearance. However, 13 out of these cheques were dishonoured. During the investigation, it was revealed that the accused company failed to fulfil its promise of construction and did not refund the invested amount to the innocent investors.

4. After completion of the investigation, the police filed a supplementary charge sheet against the opposite party no.2, i.e., the accused, on 21.6.2019 under sections 420, 406, 409, and 120B IPC. Following the arrest on 9.6.2019, the opposite party no.2 was released on bail by an order dated 30.9.2019 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.40534 of 2019 by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court. The relevant paragraph of the order is extracted herein below:

"1. The applicant will continue to attend and cooperate in the trial pending before the Court concerned on the date fixed after release.

2. He will not tamper with the witnesses.

3. He will not indulge in any illegal activities during the bail period.

It is further directed that the identity, status and residence proof of the sureties be verified by the authorities concerned before they are accepted.

In case of breach of any of the above conditions, the trial court will be at liberty to cancel the bail."

5. Aggrieved by the violation of the bail conditions, the informant/applicant has preferred the instant petition for cancellation of the bail stating inter-alia; (i) the opposite party no.2 is a habitual offender and indulged in huge embezzlement of the public money received from the innocent investors/home buyers, (ii) Earth Iconic Infrastructure Limited, i.e. company's fund has been siphond of in M/s Jubilion Infracon Private Limited, M/s Murlidhar Infostock and Realtors Private Limited, M/s Groot Builders Private Limited, Sanwary Women Power Private Limited in which the opposite party no.2 is one of the Directors along with his mother and wife, (iii) Rs.1,30,00,000/- have been transferred to personal account of opposite party no.2 between 30.1.2016 to 1.11.2018, (reference is invited to Annexure No.5 to the instant application), (iv) the opposite party no.2 is a Director in numerous shell companies located at various parts of the country,(v) opposite party no.2 obtained bail by concealing material facts from the Court withholding that he is arrayed as accused in multiple FIRs of similar nature, (reference is invited to paragraph no.30 of the rejoinder affidavit), (vi) the opposite party no.2 was first appeared on 20.4.2023 before the trial court and thereafter on subsequent dates i.e. 30.1.2023, 21.2.2023, 13.3.2023, 30.6.2023, 17.7.2023, 4.8.2023, 17.8.2023, 25.8.2023, 13.9.2023, 6.10.2023, 20.10.2023, 5.12.2023, 19.12.2023 and 16.1.2024 filed applications for personal exemption, which were erroneously allowed by the trial court without appreciating the bail conditions on the basis of which the opposite party no.2 was enlarged on bail, (vii) the opposite party no.2 has violated the bail conditions on numerous occasions by successively avoiding appearance before the trial court, thereby the trial is not progressing because of the non - cooperation of the accused, (viii) in view of the conduct and breach of the bail conditions, the opposite party no.2, deserved to remain in jail so that trial could proceed and justice could be done to the innocent investors, (ix) the other co-accused persons, who were enlarged on bail by the court are also failing to comply with the bail terms by filing fictitious personal exemption applications and taking benefit of the erroneous orders passed by the trial court in this regard, (x) and if the trial does not proceed due to the non-cooperation of the accused persons, the entire essence of the criminal justice system would fail, causing irreparable loss to the functioning of trial courts.

6. On perusal of the various orders passed in the instant petition, it reveals that a notice of service was served upon the opposite party no.2, but no one turned up to represent his case before this Court, forcing this Court to issue bailable warrants to the sureties vide order dated 29.3.2023, thereafter, the sureties appeared and opposite party no.2 through his counsel sought time to file counter affidavit, and the same was filed on 13.7.2023 inter-alia stating that (i) opposite party no.2 was student in the year 2016 and is not named in the FIR, (ii) there is no forgery of documents, thereby, the investigating officer has dropped section 467/468/471 IPC during the investigation qua accused persons, (iii) the instant application has been filed to create pressure on the accused persons to return the money, (iv) the opposite party no.2 has never met the complainant nor signed the document in this regard, (v) the matter is ceased with the NCLT and the NCLT has been pleased to invoke moratorium under section 14 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016 and suspended the Board of Directors of the company, and placed the management of the company under the control of Resolution Professional, (vi) the complainant and the home buyers have an appropriate remedy under section 7 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, (vii) the Directors of the company have settled the matter qua some of the home buyers, and therefore, proceedings on their behalf have been quashed by the Court, (viii) the opposite party no.2 has relied upon State of Gujarat v. Jaswantlal Nathhalal1; Aneeta Hada v. Godfather Travels & Tours2; Madhavrao Jiwajirao Scindia v. Sambhajirao Chandrojirao3, Dalip Kaur & ors v. Jagnar Singh4, State of U.P. v. Amarmani Tripathi5, to fortify his submissions.

7. In the written submissions, the opposite party, no.2, reiterated the same arguments raised in the counter affidavit. These points are not addressed separately for the sake of brevity. However, the essence of the submissions is that the directors of the company cannot be held vicariously liable for the criminal acts committed by the company's agents or employees. Furthermore, proceedings under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code 2016 have been initiated against the accused company. Therefore, the criminal court is not vested with the authority to prosecute the opposite party no.2.

8. The core and sole issue to be determined before this Court is whether the opposite party no.2, i.e., the accused, has violated the terms and conditions of the bail order dated 30.9.2019, passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.40534 of 2019, during the pendency of the trial, and not the issues raised and argued by the opposite party no.2. Essentially, bail was granted subject to three conditions: (i) the applicant will continue to attend and cooperate in the trial pending before the concerned Court on the date fixed after release, (ii) he will not tamper with the witnesses, and (iii) he will not engage in any illegal activity during the bail period. It was also made clear that in case of a breach of any of the above conditions, the trial court will be at liberty to cancel the bail.

9. The instant application has been pending before this Court since 18.1.2020, and despite various opportunities on numerous occasions, it could not be decided. Therefore, after hearing the counsel for the applicant and upon perusal of the material placed on record, including the counter affidavit and written submissions filed by the opposite party no.2, this Court has proceeded to decide the instant application.

10. Now, reverting to the contentions raised in the counter affidavit and written submissions filed by the accused/opposite party no.2, it is observed that the decisions cited by the accused/opposite party no.2 are not relevant to the facts, circumstances, and issues involved in this case. Therefore, there is no point in referencing those judgments, as none of the aforementioned citations address the parameters decided by the Supreme Court for the cancellation of bail in a series of judgments.

11. In Dolat Ram and others v. State of Haryana6, the Supreme Court has laid down the grounds for cancellation of bail. The relevant portions of the judgment6 are underlined herein as follows (i) interference or attempt to interfere with the due course of administration of justice; (ii) evasion or attempt to evade the due course of justice; (iii) abuse of the concession granted to the accused in any manner; (iv) possibility of the accused absconding; (v) likelihood of/actual misuse of bail; (vi) likelihood of the accused tampering with the evidence or threatening witnesses. The three-judge bench of the Supreme Court in Deepak Yadav v. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another case7 went a step beyond the Dolat Ram case (supra) and held that the cancellation of bail cannot be limited to the occurrence of supervening circumstances as the constitutional courts have inherent power and discretion to cancel the bail of an accused even in the absence of supervening circumstances and draw the following illustrative circumstances where the bail can be cancelled. The relevant paragraph is extracted hereinbelow:

33.1. Where the Court granting bail takes into account irrelevant material of substantial nature and not trivial nature while ignoring relevant material on record.

33.2. Where the Court granting bail overlooks the influential position of the accused in comparison to the victim of abuse or the witnesses especially when there is prima facie misuse of position and power over the victim.

33.3. Where the past criminal record and conduct of the accused is completely ignored while granting bail.

33.4. Where bail has been granted on untenable grounds.

33.5. Where serious discrepancies are found in the order granting bail thereby causing prejudice to justice.

33.6. Where the grant of bail was not appropriate in the first place given the very serious nature of the charges against the accused which disentitles him for bail and thus cannot be justified.

33.7. When the order granting bail is apparently whimsical, capricious and perverse in the facts of the given case.

12. In view of the foregoing discussions, this Court has observed that the opposite party no.2 is facing serious allegation of embezzlement of funds, including siphoning of huge amounts into the companies controlled and operated by opposite party no.2, i.e. (i) M/s Jubilion Infracon Private Limited, (ii) M/s Murlidhar Infostock Realtors Private Limited, (iii) M/s Groot Builders Private Limited, (iv) Sanwary Women Power Private Limited in which the opposite party no.2 is one of the Director either along with his mother or wife or both, besides transfer of Rs.1,30,00,000/- to his personal account between 30.1.2016 to 1.11.2018 from the companies account; (v) the opposite party no.2/accused has filed personal exemption applications fourteen times, all of which were allowed by the trial court in a mechanical manner by passing template orders. No reasons are provided in any of the orders granting the personal exemption attached to the instant application.

13. The co-ordinate Bench of this Court, while enlarging the opposite party no.2 on bail had put the accused to unambiguous terms i*nter-alia;* (i) the applicant will continue to attend and cooperate in trial pending before the Court concerned on the date fixed after release, (ii) he will not tamper with the witnesses, (iii) he will not indulge in any illegal activity during the bail period, (iv) it was also made clear that in case of breach of any above conditions, the trial court will be at liberty to cancel the bail.

14. Upon perusing the orders passed by the trial court, which are part of the supplementary affidavit dated 5.2.2020 filed by the applicant as Annexure No. SA-1, it is observed that the accused/opposite party no.2 has successively filed fourteen exemption applications. Regrettably, these applications were allowed by the trial court without assigning any reasons. This circumstance compelled the complainant/applicant to file the instant application. It demonstrates that the accused/opposite party no.2 deliberately and intentionally violated the bail terms to obstruct the trial court proceedings. Moreover, the trial court failed in its duty to exercise the discretion granted to it, including the authority to cancel bail in case of any breach of the conditions set forth in the impugned order dated 30.9.2019. The routine issuance of such template orders undermines the litigant's confidence in the judicial system and carries significant consequences for upholding the rule of law.

15. In consideration of the prayer made by the applicant and in furtherance of the pursuit of justice, it is hereby directed that the trial court shall (i) ensure the presence of all the accused at each and every hearing to expedite the trial court proceedings, (ii) refrain from routinely granting personal exemption to the accused through template orders, (iii) ensure the presence of opposite party no.2 including all the accused at every hearing unless justifiable and persuasive reasons for non-appearance are provided, which shall be duly recorded in the orders, (iv) pass the order on exemption application while considering the bail conditions imposed by the courts upon granting the bail to the accused, (v) the trail court shall scrupulously and invariably ensure the compliance of bail conditions imposed by the respective Courts in each accused's case, (vi) complete the trial expeditiously.

16. In numerous instances, it has been observed that once bail is granted, the accused fails to cooperate with the trial courts and continuously files successive exemption applications for personal appearances on fictitious grounds. The trial court routinely allows these applications through template orders without providing reasons for their approval. Such orders lack the subjective satisfaction of judges for their allowance, rendering them devoid of legal force and unsustainable in the eyes of the law. Although discretionary power, the granting of such orders should be exercised judiciously and not as a matter of routine. It observed that the trial court routinely issues template orders for personal exemption applications, which contravene the spirit of the bail orders. An example illustrating the nature of such orders is provided hereinafter."

17. In view of the foregoing discussion—particularly in the offences forming part of Chapters XVI, XVII, and XVIII of the Indian Penal Code, besides other offences of the Penal Code comprising offences in special statutes—it is mandatory for trial courts to comply with the terms of the bail order strictly, and the conditions dictated in bail orders shall be followed by the trial courts unfailingly.

18. The disregard of the bail conditions specified in the bail orders by either party to the litigation or the trial courts is detrimental to the criminal justice system and requires scrutiny. Failure to adhere to the terms of the bail order shall be deemed deliberate and may amount to (i) interference or attempted interference with the due administration of justice; (ii) evasion or attempted evasion of the due process of justice, (iii) abuse of the concession granted to the accused in any manner; (iv) the possibility of the accused absconding; (v) the likelihood of or actual misuse of bail; (vi) the likelihood of the accused tampering with evidence or threatening, or otherwise influencing witnesses. Hence, it is imperative for trial courts to accord the utmost importance to personal exemption applications. Such applications should be adjudicated upon by taking into account the conditions outlined in the bail orders. Furthermore, the aforementioned proposition shall be duly considered and kept in mind while deciding the personal exemption application.

19. If the complainant or prosecution finds that the bail conditions are not being adhered to, they may file an appropriate application before the concerned court. The court should decide on such applications within a reasonable time, not exceeding 60 days from the date of filing, and proceed with the trial, utilizing the provisions outlined in Chapter VI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, as well as any other statutory provisions and relevant laws as may be deemed fit and proper by the court in the facts and circumstances of the case.

20. With the aforementioned observations, the instant application is disposed of, granting the applicant the liberty to seek redressal of their grievances from the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate—III, Ghaziabad. The court is directed to adjudicate upon the applicant's application expeditiously in accordance with this order.

21. Criminal Law - Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 – Sections 69, 70, 73, 74 & 132 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 41 & 41A –Economic Offences – Reasons to Believe – Arrest and Detention – Input Tax Credit Fraud

The applicant, Deepanshu Srivastava, sought bail in Case Crime No. 316 of 2024 under Section 132 of the CGST Act, 2017, for allegedly creating 271 shell companies to fraudulently avail and misappropriate input tax credit (ITC) worth Rs. 122.99 crores without supplying goods. Arrested on 02.02.2024, the applicant argued illegal detention, lack of tax assessment under Section 74, vague arrest memo, and no necessity for further custody as no custodial remand was sought. The Union of India opposed, citing the applicant's confession, recovery of incriminating documents, and the serious nature of economic offences. Held: The court, relying on Arnesh Kumar Vs St. of Bihar ((2014) 8 SCC 273), Satender Kumar Antil Vs CBI ((2021) 10 SCC 773), and P.VS Ramana Reddy Vs Union of India (MANU/TL/0064/2019), found that the arrest order lacked specific reasons beyond the offence's gravity, failing to justify continued detention under Section 69 CGST Act. The court noted that prosecution and tax assessment could proceed simultaneously, but the absence of custodial remand, completed investigation, and retracted St.ments supported bail. The applicant was granted bail with stringent conditions, considering the offence's maximum five-year punishment and the need to balance personal liberty with societal interests.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mohd. Faiz Alam Khan, J.)

1. Heard Shri Satish Chandra Mishra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Purnendu Chakravarty and Shri Mukesh Kumar Tewari, learned counsels for the applicant and Shri Dipak Seth, learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India and perused the record.

2. This bail application has been moved by the accused-applicant-Deepanshu Srivastava for grant of bail in Case Crime No. 316 of 2024, under Section 132 of Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, Police Station DGGI, Lucknow Zonal Unit, District Lucknow, during trial.

3. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the accused-applicant while pressing the bail application submits that the applicant has been falsely implicated in this case and without any sufficient reasons and basis and without assessing any tax liability the applicant has been arrested and detained in prison since 02.02.2024.

4. While drawing the attention of this Court on Sections 69, 73, 74 and 79 as well as Section 62 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, it is vehemently submitted that at first the department is required to assess the tax liability to be paid by an assesse and it is only thereafter any proceeding under Section 69 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act with regard to the arrest of the accused person or assesse may be undertaken. It is vehemently submitted that till date no tax liability is shown to have been assessed by the department and without there being any sufficient or cogent reasons he has been placed behind the bars.

5. While drawing the attention of this Court towards the arrest-memo, a copy of which has been placed at Page No.23 of the paper book, it is vehemently submitted that no grounds have been shown in this arrest-memo which may justify the arrest of the applicant and a vague language has been used in the arrest memo in order to show that the provisions of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 have been violated without specifying the alleged act or omission of the applicant.

6. It is also submitted that the applicant was detained in illegal custody for three days from 30.01.2024 till 02.02.2024 by the department and thereafter he has been challaned.

7. It is further submitted that no notice has either been given under Section 74 of the G.S.T. Act and when the applicant was presented before the remand court, the offences were shown as bailable but subsequently without there being any basis many other companies have been shown to be associated with the applicant as shell companies with which the applicant is not having any connection or concern.

8. While drawing the attention of this Court towards the 'panchnama/recovery-memo', with regard to Shalimar Mannat, Barabanki, it is stated that the recovery, as shown by the department from this house is not having any significance in the eye of law as the same has not been made in presence of the applicant and no signature of applicant has been obtained on this recovery-memo and, thus, the same is barred by Section 100 of the Cr.P.C.

9. It is also submitted that no incriminating article has been recovered from the premises of applicant and statement of some persons are shown to have been recorded by the department under duress with regard to the formation of some shell companies by the applicant in order to evade tax liability.

10. It is vehemently submitted that applicant is languishing in jail in this case since 02.02.2024 and while producing the applicant before the Magistrate after his illegal arrest, the department has requested for judicial remand and no custody remand was requested, which primafacie reflect that further detention of the applicant is not required by the investigating agency and despite the investigation is complete, the complaint is not being filed deliberately to deny the facility of bail to the applicant. The alleged offences against the applicant are punishable with maximum imprisonment of five years and as the investigation has almost completed, the detention of the applicant is not required anymore.

11. It is further submitted that the applicant has cooperated in the investigation and has appeared before the investigating officer as and when his presence was required. However, at the very first occasion available to him, he has retracted his statement shown to have been recorded before the investigating officer. Applicant undertakes that he will cooperate with the investigation as well as with the trial.

12. Learned Senior Counsel has relied on the law laid down by the Division Bench of this Court of date 13.07.2023 passed in Writ Tax No. 834 of 2023 (Ashish Kakkar vs. Union of India and another), a single Judge judgment of this Court dated 29.07.2022 passed in 'Paras Jain @ Rohan Jain vs. Union of India', a single Judge judgment of this Court of date 10.07.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 26376 of 2023 (Ravindra Nath Sharma @ Ravubder Sharma vs. Union of India).

13. Shri Dipak Seth, learned counsel appearing on behalf of Union of India vehemently opposes the prayer of bail of the applicant on the ground that the submission, which has been raised before this Court with regard to the fact that in absence of any tax liability, the criminal prosecution is not permissible, is not an argument which may have the support of the law as in all tax matters prosecution and adjudication are connected with each other and may go on simultaneously. In this regard reliance has been placed on the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in 'Radheyshyam Kejriwal vs. State of West Bengal, 2011 (266) E.L.T. 294 (S.C.).

14. It is next submitted that the instant is not a case of under payment of tax liability or evasion of tax but it is a case of fraud where without supplying any goods the input tax has been received and misappropriated.

15. Shri Dipak Seth has drawn the attention of this Court towards the statement of the applicant recorded under Section 70 of the Goods and Services Tax Act in order to show that the applicant has admitted his involvement in the crime.

16. The attention of this Court has also drawn by Shri Dipak Seth on the statement of the applicant recorded on 26.02.2024 while he was confined in prison in order to show that the applicant is not at all cooperating with the investigation.

17. It is further submitted that on 30.01.2024 and 31.01.2024 statement of many persons have been recorded, which reveals that applicant has opened various shell companies in order to receive input tax illegally and none of these persons whose statements have been recorded has retracted his statement.

18. While drawing the attention of this Court towards the C.A.-5 (Page No.116) of the counter affidavit/objections filed by the Union of India, it is submitted that the reasons for arrest have been recorded by the authority concerned before causing the arrest of the applicant.

19. The attention of this Court has also been drawn towards the statement of Shubham Singh, extract of which, has been placed at Page No.71 of the paper book, in order to show that the applicant has opened many bogus firms and companies in order to claim input tax illegally. The statement of Gaurav Tripathi placed at Page No. 119 of the objections is also highlighted in order to show that the Flat No. B-2 situated at Shalimar Mannat, Barabanki was taken on rent by Shri Gaurav Tripathi on the instigation of the applicant.

20. While drawing the attention of this Court towards the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2013) 7 SCC 439, Nimmagadda Prasad vs. C.B.I. (2013) 7 SCC 466 and Devchand Kalyan Tandel vs. State of Gujarat and another (1996) 6 SCC 255, it is submitted that economic offences are of a class of their own and they have to be taken up at a different pedestal as they are causing irreparable injury to the economic health of the country and are required to be dealt with iron hands. In this regard, the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 07.11.2023 passed in Criminal Appeal No. Nil of 2023, arising out of S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 10810 of 2023, 'The State of Jharkhand vs. Dhananjay Gupta @ Dhananjay Prasad Gupta' has been highlighted, wherein it is opined that at any rate mere claim of innocence or undertaking to participate in the trial or absence of specific allegation cannot be assigned as reasons for grant of bail in case of offences of serious nature. It is requested that having regard to the magnitude of the crime wherein the State has been inflicted loss of crores of rupees of input tax, the applicant is not entitled to be released on bail.

21. In rebuttal, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the applicant has drawn the attention of this Court towards Section 69 of the Central Goods and Services Act and submits that custody remand of the applicant has not been sought at the time of remand of accused by the department and also that the cooperation in the investigation doesn't mean that applicant should confess his guilt as proposed by the department and it should be taken as enough cooperation if the applicant had appeared before the investigating officer in response to the summons issued to him and the applicant in this case has remained present before the investigating officer as and when he was summoned and ultimately arrested illegally. It is again reiterated that the offences is punishable with upto 05 years' of imprisonment and keeping in view the fact that still no assessment of tax has been calculated and no formal complaint or F.I.R. has been lodged, applicant is entitled for bail.

22. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, the case of the prosecution, as is emerging from the record is to the tune that the Director General of G.S.T. Intelligence, Lucknow Zonal Unit is investigating a case of fraudulent availment and passing of input tax credit of G.S.T, by preparing fake invoices without any actual supply of goods by several firms created, managed and run by the applicant and it is found that the applicant has created a number of bogus firms for the purpose of issuing fake invoices to facilitate their clients in availing and utilizing fake input tax credit and allegations are to the tune that applicant is the master mind of the entire racket and input tax credit of high magnitude has been obtained without supplying of any goods.

23. The counter affidavit filed by the Department would further reveal that initially the input tax credit illegally taken by applicant was found to be of Rs. 90 crores and the number of fake firms were about 53 as on 17.02.2024 and on further investigation till 29.02.2024 the number of fake firms created, managed and run by the applicant has reached 271 and the investigation is still going on. The allegations are that without paying a single penny to the government as tax huge amount of input tax credit has been availed. It is also alleged that 09 places belonging to the applicant were searched on 30.01.2024 and consequent to these searches huge number of incriminating documents and electronic devices showing creation of fake firms were found from the premises including the residence of the applicant and his offices.

24. It is further alleged that 18 Laptops, 14 Pen drives, 24 SIM Cards, 44 mobile phones, 74 credit/debit cards, six hard disk drives, 251 stamps of various fake firms, 26 cheque books of various fake firms and more than 500 files, record books of fake firms, bilty books and other fake documents have also been found. The statement of the applicant was recorded under Section 70 of the CGST Act on 30.01.2024, 01.02.2024 and 02.02.2024, wherein he alleged to have confessed his guilt and by creating false/shell companies and without paying any tax, input tax credit to the magnitude of Rs. 14.87 crores is confessed to have been earned and utilized. It is also alleged that during the course of investigation, the statement of one Mohit Singh and Shubham Singh, proprietors of shell firms were recorded, wherein they admitted that these shell firms were established and managed by the applicant. During physical verification, 14 major suppliers and 06 transporters were also found to be non-existent and various Dharmkanta's also accepted that the weighing slips found during preliminary investigation were not issued by them. It is stated in para no.9 of the counter affidavit that till now the amount of fraud found by the investigation has reached Rs. 122.99 crores.

25. Learned Senior counsel appearing for applicant vehemently submits that without adopting the procedure, as provided under Section 74 of the CGST Act, no further proceedings including the arrest of the applicant may be undertaken and also that the alleged offences are punishable with upto 05 years of imprisonment.

Reliance has also been placed on the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Satender Kumar Antil Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and others : (2021) 10 SCC 773, while learned counsel appearing for the Department has placed reliance on the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Radheyshyam Kejriwal (supra) in order to show that the proceedings of prosecution and adjudication may go on simultaneously, it is vehemently submitted by learned counsel appearing for Union of India that it is not a case of paying less tax or any discrepancy in the payment of tax rather it is a case where without supplying any goods the input tax credit has been illegally taken and misappropriated.

26. Learned Senior counsel appearing for the applicant has drawn the attention of this Court towards the memo of arrest of the applicant in order to show that no ground of arrest has been mentioned therein while learned counsel appearing for the Department has drawn the attention of this Court towards C.A.-5 (Page No.116) of their counter affidavit in order to show that the reasons for arrest has been recorded by the appropriate authority and the law provides only of recording of reasons and not of communicating the same. It is also highlighted on behalf of Department that applicant is not cooperating in the investigation and when he was interrogated in jail, he did not cooperate in the investigation and has not given replies.

27. Learned Senior counsel appearing for applicant on the other hand while relying on the law laid down by the Division Bench of this Court of date 13.07.2023 passed in Writ Tax No. 834 of 2023 (Ashish Kakkar vs. Union of India and another), 'Paras Jain @ Rohan Jain vs. Union of India' and in Ravindra Nath Sharma @ Ravubder Sharma (supra), submits that the law leans in favour of bail and when the offence is punishable with upto five years' of imprisonment, the further detention of the applicant would be a futile exercise.

28. Learned counsel appearing for Union of India, however, relied on Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy (supra) and Nimmagadda Prasad (supra) in order to show that the economic offences are of a class of their own and, therefore, are to be dealt with differently and applicant is not entitled for bail.

29. Perusal of the provisions contained under Section 73 and 74 of the CGST Act would reveal that a mechanism has been provided therein with regard to the determination of tax not paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed or utilized by reason of fraud or any wilfull mis-statement or suppression of facts. Section 74 of the CGST Act provides for assessment of tax by the proper officer by issuing a notice to the assesee, however, sub-section 11 of Section 74 of the CGST Act would suggest that if the tax, which has been calculated along with the interest payable or the penalty is deposited, all proceedings in respect of the said notice shall be deemed to be concluded. However, perusal of explanation one attached with Sub-section 11 of Section 74 of the 'Act' would reveal that the expression 'all proceedings' in respect of the said notice emerging under Sub-section 11 shall not include proceedings under Section 132 of the 'Act'. Thus, it may be inferred that even if all the tax liability including penalty, etc. has been deposited, it would be only the 'notice' which would be discharged and the proceedings with regard to Section 132 of the CGST Act shall remain alive. Thus, there seems force in the submissions made by learned counsel for the Department that the process of prosecution and assessment may go on simultaneously.

30. In P.V. Ramana Reddy and Ors. vs. Union of India and Ors., MANU/TL/0064/2019, which has also been approved by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 27.05.2019 passed in Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No. 4430 of 2019 and also in The State of Gujarat Vs. Choodamani Parmeshwaran Iyer and Ors., MANU/SC/0992/2023, a Division Bench of Telangana High Court repelled the similar contention raised by an accused in following words;-

"50. The contention of the petitioners is that the CGST Act, 2017 prescribes a procedure for assessment even in cases where the information furnished in the returns is found to have discrepancies and that unless a summary assessment or special audit is conducted determining the liability, no offence can be made out under the Act. Therefore, it is their contention that even a prosecution cannot be launched without an assessment and that therefore, there is no question of any arrest.

51. It is true that CGST Act, 2017 provides for (i) self assessment, under Section 59, (ii) provisional assessment, under Section 60, (iii) scrutiny of returns, under Section 61, (iv) assessment of persons who do not file returns, under Section 62, (v) assessment of unregistered persons, under Section 63, (vi) summary assessment in special cases, under Section 64 and (vii) audit under Sections 65 and 66.

52. But, to say that a prosecution can be launched only after the completion of the assessment, goes contrary to Section 132 of the CGST Act, 2017. The list of offences included in sub-Section (1) of Section 132 of CGST Act, 2017 have no co-relation to assessment. Issue of invoices or bills without supply of goods and the availing of ITC by using such invoices or bills, are made offences under clauses (b) and (c) of sub-Section (1) of Section 132 of the CGST Act. The prosecutions for these offences do not depend upon the completion of assessment. Therefore, the argument that there cannot be an arrest even before adjudication or assessment, does not appeal to us."

Thus, there appears no substance in the submissions raised by learned senior counsel appearing for the applicant that before proceeding under 74 of the Act the applicant should not have been arrested or prosecuted.

31. Chapter XIV of the CGST Act deals with inspection, search, seizure and arrest. It comprises of sections 67 to 72. Section 70 deals with power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents. As per sub-section (1), the proper officer under the CGST Act shall have the power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary either to give evidence or to produce a document or any other thing in any enquiry in the same manner as provided in the case of a civil court under the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908. Thus what sub-section (1) of section 70 provides is the conferment of power on the proper officer to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary to either tender evidence or to produce documents etc. in any enquiry. Exercise of such a power is akin to power exercised by a civil court under the Civil Procedure Code, 1908. Sub-section (2) clarifies that every enquiry in which summons is issued for tendering evidence or for production of documents is to be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860.

The power to arrest has been provided in section 69 of the Act. As per sub-section (1), where the Commissioner has reasons to believe that the person has committed any offence specified in clause (a) or clause (b) or clause (c) or clause (d) of sub-section (1) of section 132, which is punishable under clause (i) or (ii) of sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of the said section, he may by order authorize any officer of central tax to arrest such person. Therefore, what sub-section (1) provides is that Commissioner may by order authorize any officer of the department to arrest a person if he has reasons to believe that the said person has committed any offence under clauses (a) or (b) or (c) or (d) of sub-section (1) of section 132. The expression 'reasons to believe' as appearing in subsection (1) of section 69 is of crucial importance because the same is the sine qua non for exercise of power to arrest by the Commissioner. It is also to be highlighted that under sub-section (3) of section 69, arrest under sub-section (1) has been made subject to the provisions of Cr.P.C., which would include section 41 and 41-A thereof.

Chapter XIX of the CGST Act deals with offences and penalties. Section 132 is part of Chapter XIX. It provides for punishment for committing certain offences. As per sub-section (1), whoever commits any of the twelve offences mentioned therein shall be punished in the manner provided in clauses (i) to (iv) of sub-section (1). In the instant case, we are concerned with offences under clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (1). As per clause (c), the offence is availing input tax credit using invoice or bill without the supply of goods or services or both in violation of the CGST Act; and as per clause (b), a person who issues any invoice or bill without supply of goods or services or both in violation of the provisions of the CGST Act or the rules made thereunder leading to wrongful availment or utilization of input tax credit or refund of tax. If a person commits the above two offences as per clauses (c) and (b), he shall be punishable under clause (i) if the amount of tax evaded or the amount of input tax credit wrongly availed of or utilized or the amount of refund wrongly taken exceeds five hundred lakh rupees with imprisonment for a term which may extend to five years and with fine. All other penalties are below five years. Therefore, the maximum penalty that can be imposed for committing offences under clauses (c) and (b) of sub-section (1) of section 132 is imprisonment for a term which may extend to five years and with fine.As per sub-section (5), the offences specified in clause (a) or (b) or (c) or (d) of sub-section (1) are punishable under clause (i) of that section are cognizable and non-bailable.

32. Reverting to the facts of the present case, it appears to be not disputed that summons were issued to the petitioner under section 70 of the CGST Act and responding to the summons, applicant had appeared before the investigating officer where after his statements were recorded on 31.01.2024,01.02.2024 and on 02.02.2024. I have perused the statements of the applicant which have been produced with the counter affidavit filed by Union Of India. It may also be noticed that on 02.02.2024 the applicant was arrested and produced before the Magistrate on 03.02.2024 and no custody remand was requested by union of India and the applicant was remanded to judicial custody for 14 days. It is admitted in para no. 17 of the counter affidavit filed by the respondent that the custody remand of the applicant was not sought as the same was not required. It is also evident that thereafter permission was taken by the department for further interrogation of the applicant in jail on 23.02.2024 and the applicant was further interrogated in jail on 26.02.2024. It is not evident as to why the applicant was not interrogated prior to 26.02.2024 when his statements have already been recorded on three days when he had appeared before the department and when according to the department he was not cooperating why his custody remand was not sought. This primafacie suggests that perhaps the department was not requiring the further interrogation of the applicant as his statements have already been recorded. It is alleged by the department that On 26.02.2024 applicant has not cooperated and when his statement was recorded in Jail he stated that he will not tender his statement without consulting his counsel.

33. Recently, Hon'ble Supreme Court in order dated March 06, 2024 passed in Bijender Vs State Of Haryana passed in Criminal Appeal No. Nil OF 2024, (Arising from SLP(Crl.)No(s). 1079/2024), while considering the plea of prosecution pertaining to the non cooperation of accused applicant who was granted Anticipatory Bail subject to the condition of cooperation in the investigation, has opined as under :-

"The learned counsel for the State opposed his plea for pre-arrest bail by filing a counter affidavit. In our order passed on 05.02.2024 giving the appellant interim protection, it was directed that the said protection was subject to the appellant's cooperation with the investigating agency. It is not in dispute that the appellant has joined the investigation but the main reason for opposing the prayer of the appellant for pre-arrest bail has been disclosed in paragraph 13 of the counter affidavit, which we quote below:-

"13. That the petitioner/accused had though joined investigation on dated 10.02.2024, as per order passed by this Hon'ble Court but the petitioner did not cooperate with the police nor got recovered the amount of bribe received by him nor disclosed the other facts of this case properly. Therefore, the custodial interrogation of petitioner/accused is required in the present case for thorough investigation."

34. We cannot treat the behavior attributed to the appellant to be instances of non-cooperation justifying dismissal of his appeal for pre-arrest bail. An accused, while joining investigation as a condition for remaining enlarged on bail, is not expected to make self-incriminating statements under the threat that the State shall seek withdrawal of such interim protection."

35. Thus the cooperation in the investigation may not be taken that accused applicant while under interrogation must make statements in favour of the department or make statements which are self incriminatory.

36. In order to canvass the necessity of the further detention of the applicant in prison the Department has relied on the statements of the applicant in order to show that there is clear admission on the part of the applicant to the wrong doing and thus committing offences under section 132(1)(c) and (b) of the CGST Act and, therefore, his arrest has been justified. Though section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is not attracted to recording of statements by revenue officers under the CGST Act, nonetheless at this stage section 136 of the CGST Act may be recalled which , in the considered opinion of this Court may have a bearing on this aspect. Section 136 of the CGST Act says that a statement made and signed by a person on appearance in response to any summons issued under section 70 of the CGST Act shall be relevant for the purpose of proving in any prosecution, an offence under the CGST Act, the truth of the facts which it contains when a person who made the statement is examined as a witness in the case before the court and the court is of the opinion that having regard to the circumstances of the case, the statement should be admitted in evidence in the interest of justice. Section 136 of the CGST Act will only come into play at the time where the trial commences and thus the admission made by a person before the revenue officials under the CGST Act would not be per se admissible in evidence unless it receives the approval of the Court.

37. Section 69 of the CGST Act provides that the Commissioner may authorize arrest of a person only if he has reasons to believe that such a person has committed any offence under the clauses mentioned therein. The expression 'reasons to believe' is an expression of considerable import and in the context of the CGST Act, confers jurisdiction upon the Commissioner to authorize any officer to arrest a person, thus the expression 'reasons to belief' postulates belief and the existence of reasons for that belief. The belief must be held in good faith and it cannot be merely a assumption and the same must be based on reasons. It contemplates existence of reasons on which the belief is founded and such belief must not be based on mere suspicion rather the same must be founded upon information and sound reasons. Such reasons to believe can be formed on the basis of material/evidence but not on mere suspicion or rumour. It is open for a court to examine whether the reasons for the formation of such belief have a rational connection with the arrest. There must be a direct connection or nexus or live link between the material coming to the notice of the officer and the formation of his belief.

35. In this regard the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Arnesh Kumar Vs. State of Bihar, MANU/SC/0559/2014 : (2014) 8 SCC 273, is also important where the Supreme Court having referred to section 41 Cr.P.C. held that a person accused of an offence punishable with imprisonment for a term which may be less than seven years or which may extend to seven years, with or without fine, cannot be arrested by a police officer only on his satisfaction that such person has committed the offence punishable as aforesaid. A police officer before arrest in such cases has to be further satisfied that such arrest is necessary to prevent such person from committing any further offence or for proper investigation of the case or to prevent the accused from causing the evidence of the offence to disappear or tampering with such evidence in any manner or to prevent such person from making any inducement, threat or promise to a witness so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the court or to the police officer or unless such accused person is arrested, his presence in the court whenever required cannot be ensured. These are the conclusions, which one may reach based on facts. In this context, Supreme Court also referred to section 41-A Cr.P.C. particularly sub-section (3) thereof which says that where such person complies and continues to comply with the notice, he shall not be arrested in respect of the offence referred to in the notice unless for reasons to be recorded, the police officer is of the opinion that he ought to be arrested. Supreme Court emphasized that the practice of mechanically reproducing in the case diary all or most of the reasons contained in Section 41 Cr.P.C. for effecting arrest be discouraged and discontinued.Relevant portion of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Arnesh Kumar (supra) is extracted hereunder:-

"5. Arrest brings humiliation, curtails freedom and cast scars forever. Law makers know it so also the police. There is a battle between the law makers and the police and it seems that police has not learnt its lesson; the lesson implicit and embodied in the Cr.P.C. It has not come out of its colonial image despite six decades of independence, it is largely considered as a tool of harassment, oppression and surely not considered a friend of public. The need for caution in exercising the drastic power of arrest has been emphasized time and again by Courts but has not yielded desired result. Power to arrest greatly contributes to its arrogance so also the failure of the Magistracy to check it. Not only this, the power of arrest is one of the lucrative sources of police corruption. The attitude to arrest first and then proceed with the rest is despicable. It has become a handy tool to the police officers who lack sensitivity or act with oblique motive."

39. Honble Supreme Court in The State of Gujarat Vs. Choodamani Parmeshwaran Iyer and Ors., MANU/SC/0992/2023 observed as under:-

"18. In the aforesaid context, we may refer to a Division Bench decision of the High Court of Telangana which ultimately came to be affirmed by this Court in the Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No. 4430 of 2019 order dated 27.05.2019. We are referring to a decision in the case of P.V. Ramana Reddy v. Union of India Writ Petition Nos. 4764 of 2019 and allied petitions decided on 18th April, 2019. There are few important observations made by the High Court and we are in complete agreement with the said observations. The observations of the High Court fell in the context of certain incongruities noticed in Section 69(1) and Section 132 reply of the CGST Act, 2017. We quote the relevant observations hereunder:

39. It is important to note that Under Sub-section (4) of Section 132 of the CGST Act, 2017, all offences under the Act except those under Clauses (a) to (d) of Section 132(1), are made non-cognizable and bailable, not-withstanding anything contained in Code of Criminal Procedure In addition, Section 67(10) of the CGST Act, 2017 makes the provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure relating to search and seizure, apply to searches and seizures under this Act, subject to the modification that the word "Commissioner" shall substitute the word "Magistrate" appearing in Section 165(5) of Code of Criminal Procedure, in its application to CGST Act, 2017.

40. Therefore, (1) in the light of the fact that Section 69(1) of the CGST Act, 2017 authorizes the arrest only of persons who are believed to have committed cognizable and non-bailable offences, but Section 69(3) of the CGST Act, 2017 deals with the grant of bail and the procedure for grant of bail even to persons who are arrested in connection with non-cognizable and bailable offences and (2) in the light of the fact that the Commissioner of GST is conferred with the powers of search and seizure Under Section 67(10) of the CGST Act, 2017, in the same manner as provided in Section 165 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, the contention of the Additional Solicitor General that the Petitioners cannot take umbrage Under Sections 41 and 41A of Code of Criminal Procedure may not be correct.

41. Though for the purpose of summoning of witnesses and for summoning the production of documents, the Proper Officer holding the enquiry under the CGST Act, 2017 is treated like a Civil Court, there are four other places in the Act, where a reference is made, directly or indirectly, to the Code of Criminal Procedure They are (1) the reference to Code of Criminal Procedure in relation to search and seizure Under Section 67(10) of CGST Act, 2017, (2) the reference to Code of Criminal Procedure Under Sub-section (3) of Section 69 in relation to the grant of bail for a person arrested in connection to a non-cognizable and bailable offence, (3) the reference to Code of Criminal Procedure in Section 132(4) while making all offences under the CGST Act, 2017 except those specified in Clauses (a) to (d) of Section 132(1) of CGST Act, 2017 as non-cognizable and bailable and (4) the reference to Sections 193 and 228 of Indian Penal Code in Section 70(2) of the CGST Act, 2017. Therefore, the contention of learned Additional Solicitor General that in view of Section 69(3) of the CGST Act, 2017, the Petitioners cannot fall back upon the limited protection against arrest, found in Sections 41 and 41A of Code of Criminal Procedure, may not be correct. As pointed out earlier, Section 41-A was inserted in Code of Criminal Procedure by Section 6 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2008. Under Sub-section (3) of Section 41A Code of Criminal Procedure, a person who complies with a notice for appearance and who continues to comply with the notice for appearance before the Summoning Officer, shall not be arrested. In fact, the duty imposed upon a Police Officer Under Section 41A(1) Code of Criminal Procedure, to summon a person for enquiry in relation to a cognizable offence, is what is substantially ingrained in Section 70(1) of the CGST Act. Though Section 69(1) which confers powers upon the Commissioner to order the arrest of a person does not contain the safeguards that are incorporated in Section 41 and 41A of Code of Criminal Procedure, we think Section 70(1) of the CGST Act takes care of the contingency.

42. In any case, the moment the Commissioner has reasons to believe that a person has committed a cognizable and non-bailable offence warranting his arrest, then we think that the safeguards before arresting a person, as provided in Sections 41 and 41A of Code of Criminal Procedure, may have to be kept in mind.

43. But, it may be remembered that Section 41A(3) of Code of Criminal Procedure, does not provide an absolute irrevocable guarantee against arrest. Despite the compliance with the notices of appearance, a Police Officer himself is entitled Under Section 41A(3) Code of Criminal Procedure, for reasons to be recorded, arrest a person. At this stage, we may notice the difference in language between Section 41A(3) of Code of Criminal Procedure and 69(1) of CGST Act, 2017. Under Section 41A(3) of Code of Criminal Procedure, "reasons are to be recorded", once the Police Officer is of the opinion that the persons concerned ought to be arrested. In contrast, Section 69(1) uses the phrase "reasons to believe". There is a vast difference between "reasons to be recorded" and "reasons to believe."

40. The department in its Counter Affidavit has enclosed the copy of the order of arrest passed by the Principal Additional Director General authorizing the intelligence officer to arrest the applicant the reasons recorded by the Principal Additional Director General while authorizing arrest of the applicant are placed as CA5 to the Counter Affidavit. Perusal of this order will reveal that what has weighed with the Principal Additional Director General is only and only the gravity of the offence as it has been stated that applicant is the master mind of the racket and is required to be arrested immediately. Thus the arrest of the applicant has not been done for his non cooperation in the investigation or for further investigation. Nowhere it is stated that the applicant while at liberty may hinder the smooth progress of investigation and in this order it has also not been mentioned as to why the applicant is being arrested, which was required to be stated.

41. At this stage the following observations of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Arnesh Kumar (supra) are also required to be recalled:-

"6. Law Commissions, Police Commissions and this Court in a large number of judgments emphasized the need to maintain a balance between individual liberty and societal order while exercising the power of arrest. Police officers make arrest as they believe that they possess the power to do so. As the arrest curtails freedom, brings humiliation and casts scars forever, we feel differently. We believe that no arrest should be made only because the offence is non-bailable and cognizable and therefore, lawful for the police officers to do so. The existence of the power to arrest is one thing, the justification for the exercise of it is quite another. Apart from power to arrest, the police officers must be able to justify the reasons thereof. No arrest can be made in a routine manner on a mere allegation of commission of an offence made against a person. It would be prudent and wise for a police officer that no arrest is made without a reasonable satisfaction reached after some investigation as to the genuineness of the allegation. Despite this legal position, the Legislature did not find any improvement. Numbers of arrest have not decreased. Ultimately, the Parliament had to intervene and on the recommendation of the 177th Report of the Law Commission submitted in the year 2001, Section 41 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short 'Cr.P.C.), in the present form came to be enacted. It is interesting to note that such a recommendation was made by the Law Commission in its 152nd and 154th Report submitted as back in the year 1994. The value of the proportionality permeates the amendment relating to arrest.

* * * * *

7.1. From a plain reading of the aforesaid provision, it is evident that a person accused of offence punishable with imprisonment for a term which may be less than seven years or which may extend to seven years with or without fine, cannot be arrested by the police officer only on his satisfaction that such person had committed the offence punishable as aforesaid. Police officer before arrest, in such cases has to be further satisfied that such arrest is necessary to prevent such person from committing any further offence; or for proper investigation of the case; or to prevent the accused from causing the evidence of the offence to disappear; or tampering with such evidence in any manner; or to prevent such person from making any inducement, threat or promise to a witness so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or the police officer; or unless such accused person is arrested, his presence in the court whenever required cannot be ensured. These are the conclusions, which one may reach based on facts.

* * * * *

7.3. In pith and core, the police officer before arrest must put a question to himself, why arrest? Is it really required? What purpose it will serve? What object it will achieve? It is only after these questions are a ddressed and one or the other conditions as enumerated above is satisfied, the power of arrest needs to be exercised. In fine, before arrest first the police officers should have reason to believe on the basis of information and material that the accused has committed the offence. Apart from this, the police officer has to be satisfied further that the arrest is necessary for one or the more purposes envisaged by sub-clauses (a) to (e) of clause (1) of Section 41 of Cr.P.C."

42. Thus the requirement under sub-section (1) of section 69 of CGST Act is reasons to believe that not only a person has committed any offence as specified but also as to why such person needs to be arrested. From a perusal of the reasons recorded by the Principal Additional Director General, it is reflected that no incident has been mentioned therein recording any act of the applicant or his conduct of threatening any witnessor even of not co-operating with the investigation or of fleeing from investigation. It is true that economic offences constitute a class apart and need to be visited with a different approach in the matter of bail, because such offences pose serious threat to the financial health of the country, but there has to be a sound reason or belief for curtailing the liberty of a person, specially in the offences punishable with up to seven years of imprisonment.

43. In the case of Satender Kumar Antil versus Central Bureau of Investigation, MANU/SC/0851/2022, the Hon'ble Supreme Court opined as under:-

"66. What is left for us now to discuss are the economic offences. The question for consideration is whether it should be treated as a class of its own or otherwise. This issue has already been dealt with by this Court in the case of P. Chidambaram v. Directorate of Enforcement, MANU/SC/1670/2019 : (2020) 13 SCC 791*, after taking note of the earlier decisions governing the field. The gravity of the offence, the object of the Special Act, and the attending circumstances are a few of the factors to be taken note of, along with the period of sentence. After all, an economic offence cannot be classified as such, as it may involve various activities and may differ from one case to another. Therefore, it is not advisable on the part of the court to categorise all the offences into one group and deny bail on that basis. Suffice it to state that law, as laid down in the following judgments, will govern the field:-*

Precedents

• P. Chidambaram v. Directorate of Enforcement, MANU/SC/1670/2019 : (2020) 13 SCC 791:

23. Thus, from cumulative perusal of the judgments cited on either side including the one rendered by the Constitution Bench of this Court, it could be deduced that the basic jurisprudence relating to bail remains the same inasmuch as the grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception so as to ensure that the accused has the opportunity of securing fair trial. However, while considering the same the gravity of the offence is an aspect which is required to be kept in view by the Court. The gravity for the said purpose will have to be gathered from the facts and circumstances arising in each case. Keeping in view the consequences that would befall on the society in cases of financial irregularities, it has been held that even economic offences would fall under the category of "grave offence" and in such circumstance while considering the application for bail in such matters, the Court will have to deal with the same, being sensitive to the nature of allegation made against the accused. One of the circumstances to consider the gravity of the offence is also the term of sentence that is prescribed for the offence the accused is alleged to have committed. Such consideration with regard to the gravity of offence is a factor which is in addition to the triple test or the tripod test that would be normally applied. In that regard what is also to be kept in perspective is that even if the allegation is one of grave economic offence, it is not a rule that bail should be denied in every case since there is no such bar created in the relevant enactment passed by the legislature nor does the bail jurisprudence provide so. Therefore, the underlining conclusion is that irrespective of the nature and gravity of charge, the precedent of another case alone will not be the basis for either grant or refusal of bail though it may have a bearing on principle. But ultimately the consideration will have to be on case-to-case basis on the facts involved therein and securing the presence of the accused to stand trial.

• Sanjay Chandra v. CBI, MANU/SC/1375/2011 : (2012) 1 SCC 40:

"39. Coming back to the facts of the present case, both the courts have refused the request for grant of bail on two grounds : the primary ground is that the offence alleged against the accused persons is very serious involving deep-rooted planning in which, huge financial loss is caused to the State exchequer; the secondary ground is that of the possibility of the accused persons tampering with the witnesses. In the present case, the charge is that of cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property and forgery for the purpose of cheating using as genuine a forged document. The punishment for the offence is imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years. It is, no doubt, true that the nature of the charge may be relevant, but at the same time, the punishment to which the party may be liable, if convicted, also bears upon the issue. Therefore, in determining whether to grant bail, both the seriousness of the charge and the severity of the punishment should be taken into consideration.

40. The grant or refusal to grant bail lies within the discretion of the court. The grant or denial is regulated, to a large extent, by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. But at the same time, right to bail is not to be denied merely because of the sentiments of the community against the accused. The primary purposes of bail in a criminal case are to relieve the accused of imprisonment, to relieve the State of the burden of keeping him, pending the trial, and at the same time, to keep the accused constructively in the custody of the court, whether before or after conviction, to assure that he will submit to the jurisdiction of the court and be in attendance thereon whenever his presence is required.

Xxxxxxxxx

46. We are conscious of the fact that the accused are charged with economic offences of huge magnitude. We are also conscious of the fact that the offences alleged, if proved, may jeopardise the economy of the country. At the same time, we cannot lose sight of the fact that the investigating agency has already completed investigation and the charge-sheet is already filed before the Special Judge, CBI, New Delhi. Therefore, their presence in the custody may not be necessary for further investigation. We are of the view that the appellants are entitled to the grant of bail pending trial on stringent conditions in order to ally the apprehension expressed by CBI."

44. Thus, keeping in view the fact that applicant has appeared before the department on 30, 31 January 2024 and on 01st February and his statements have been recorded on these days and he was arrested on 2nd February, 2024 and produced before the magistrate and no custody remand was sought by the department and it was after many days i.e. on 26.02.2024 the department has taken the permission from the Court concerned for interrogation of the applicant in jail and also that applicant has retracted his confessional statements and in the orders of arrest no reason has been mentioned as to why after recording of the statements of the applicant for many days his arrest is required and also keeping view that applicant is in jail in this case since 02.02.2024 and investigation appears to have reached an advanced statge and nothing has been shown before this Court which mey justify the further detention of the applicant in prison and also considering that the alleged offence is punishable with up to 5 years maximum punishment and still no formal accusation in the form of FIR or complaint has been filed by the department and also keeping in view that in such circumstances continuing the detention of the petitioner may not at all be justified and it appears justified for this court to strike a fine balance between the need for further detention of the applicant when even custodial interrogation has not been claimed at all by the Department and considering the right of an accused to personal liberty, applicant may be released on bail, however subject to certain conditions.

45. In result, the instant bail application moved by the applicant is, hereby, allowed.

46. Let the accused/applicant-Deepanshu Srivastava involved in above-mentioned case, be released on bail on his furnishing a personal bond with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned subject to following conditions:-

(i) The applicant shall deposit his passport before the Trial Court.

(ii) The applicant shall not sell any property of himself or of any of the companies in which he has a substantial interest and which are under investigation.

(iii) The applicant shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence by intimidating/pressurizing the witnesses, during the investigation or trial.

(iv) The applicant shall cooperate in the trial sincerely without seeking any adjournment.

(v) The applicant shall not indulge in any criminal activity or commission of any crime after being released on bail.

47. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, it shall be a ground for cancellation of bail.

48. Identity, status and residence proof of the applicant and sureties be verified by the Court concerned before the bonds are accepted.

49. Observations made herein-above by this court are only for the purpose of disposal of this bail application and shall not be construed as an expression on the merits of the case.

Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 439 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Section 302 – Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 – Sections 2(bd), 14 – Bail Application – Jurisdiction of Special Court – Applicability of Cr.P.C. Provisions

The applicant, Pramod, sought bail in Case Crime No. 363 of 2023 under Section 302 IPC, lodged at Police Station Raya, District Mathura, where he was in jail since 06.10.2023. The bail application was rejected by the trial court on 01.12.2023. Although the case was being tried by an Exclusive Special Court under the SC/ST Act, the applicant was not chargesheeted under the SC/ST Act, but only under Section 302 IPC. The applicant argued no direct evidence, delay in FIR lodgement, absence of incriminating recovery, and no criminal history. The prosecution could not refute these claims. Held: The court, relying on Sections 2(bd) and 14 of the SC/ST Act, clarified that the Special Court's jurisdiction is limited to offences under the SC/ST Act, and since no such charges were framed, the bail provisions of the Cr.P.C. applied. The court found the delay in FIR, lack of direct evidence, incomplete chain of circumstances, and the applicant's cooperation and clean record justified bail. The bail application was allowed with conditions to ensure trial participation and non-interference with evidence.

Case Law Cited:

1. Pramod Vs St. of U.P., (2024) 3 ILRA, Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 2447 of 2024, decided on 01.03.2024 (All. HC)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajay Bhanot, J.)

1. Matter is taken up in the revised call.

2. By means of this bail application the applicant has prayed to be enlarged on bail in Case Crime No. 363 of 2023 at Police Station- Raya, District- Mathura, under Section 302 IPC. The applicant is in jail since 06.10.2023.

3. The bail application of the applicant was rejected by the learned trial court on 01.12.2023.

4. The applicant was charge sheeted under Section 302 IPC. Clearly the applicant has not been charge sheeted for any offence under the SC/ST Act (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). The case is being tried by the exclusive special court established under the SC/ST Act.

5. The offences under the SC/ST Act are liable to be tried by the exclusive special court defined under Section 2 (bd) of the Act. The provision is extracted hereunder:

"Section 2 (bd) Exclusive Special Court means the Exclusive Special Court established under sub-section (1) of section 14 exclusively to try the offences under this Act."

6. The Special Courts are constituted under Section 14 of the Act. The provision is extracted hereunder:

"Section 14. Special Court and Exclusive Special Court.--(1) For the purpose of providing for speedy trial, the State Government shall, with the concurrence of the Chief Justice of the High Court, by notification in the Official Gazette, establish an Exclusive Special Court for one or more Districts:

Provided that in Districts where less number of cases under this Act is recorded, the State Government shall, with the concurrence of the Chief Justice of the High Court, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify for such Districts, the Court of Session to be a Special Court to try the offences under this Act:

Provided further that the Courts so established or specified shall have power to directly take cognizance of offences under this Act.

(2) It shall be the duty of the State Government to establish adequate number of Courts to ensure that cases under this Act are disposed of within a period of two months, as far as possible.

(3) In every trial in the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court, the proceedings shall be continued from day-to-day until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court finds the adjournment of the same beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded in writing:]

Provided that when the trial relates to an offence under this Act, the trial shall, as far as possible, be completed within a period of two months from the date of filing of the charge sheet."

7. The legislative intent to establish Exclusive Courts was to ensure that trials for offences under the SC/ST Act are expeditiously concluded and the special procedures under the said Act are duly adhered to. The protective provisions of SC/ST Act was created for safeguarding the interests of a defined section of the citizenry. Apposite to extract the statement of object and reasons which guided the legislature while framing the enactment are extracted hereunder:

"STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Despite various measures to improve the socio-economic conditions of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, they remain vulnerable. They are denied number of civil rights. They are subjected to various offences, indignities, humiliations and harassment. They have, in several brutal incidents, been deprived of their life and property. Serious crimes are committed against them for various historical, social and economic reasons.

2. Because of the awareness created amongst the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes through spread of education, etc., they are trying to assert their rights and this is not being taken very kindly by the others. When they assert their rights and resist practices of untouchability against them or demand statutory minimum wages or refuse to do any bonded and forced labour, the vested interests try to cow them down and terrorise them. When the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes try to preserve their self-respect or honour of their women, they become irritants for the dominant and the mighty. Occupation and cultivation of even the Government allotted land by the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes is resented and more often these people become victims of attacks by the vested interests. Of late, there has been an increase in the disturbing trend of commission of certain atrocities like making the Scheduled Caste persons eat inedible substances like human excreta and attacks on and mass killings of helpless Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes and rape of women belonging to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes. Under the circumstances, the existing laws like the Protection of Civil Rights Act,1955 and the normal provisions of the Indian Penal Code have been found to be inadequate to check these crimes. A special Legislation to check and deter crimes against them committed by non-Scheduled Castes and non-Scheduled Tribes has, therefore, become necessary.

3. The term 'atrocity' has not been defined so far. It is considered necessary that not only the term 'atrocity' should be defined but stringent measures should be introduced to provide for higher punishments for committing such atrocities. It is also proposed to enjoining on the States and the Union Territories to take specific preventive and punitive measures to protect the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes from being victimised and where atrocities are committed, to provide adequate relief and assistance to rehabilitate them.

4. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects."

8. The Act also lays down certain special procedures for protection of the victims, and for prosecution of the accused. The provisions of grant of bail for accused under the SC/ST Act are distinct from provisions of bail under the Cr.P.C. However, the SC/ST Act is a criminal enactment. The legislation has to be construed strictly, and cannot be applied to offences which do not fall within the ambit of the SC/ST Act. The Special Courts draw their jurisdiction to try offences from Section 2(bd) of the Act. Section 2(bd) of the Act clearly confines the jurisdiction of the Courts to the offences under the SC/ST Act. Since the applicant has not been charge sheeted under the SC/ST Act, the provisions pertaining to the SC/ST Act in regard to the bail shall not be applied to the case of the applicant.

9. Criminal cases in which the accused are not chargesheeted under the SC/ST Act are liable to be processed under the provisions of Cr.P.C., even if the offence is being tried by the special court established under the SC/ST Act.

10. The following arguments made by Shri Rajeev Kumar, learned counsel on behalf of the applicant, which could not be satisfactorily refuted by Shri Kamlesh Kumar, learned counsel holding brief of Shri Mrityunjay Singh, learned counsel on behalf of the informant and Shri Paritosh Kumar Malviya, learned AGA-I from the record, entitle the applicant for grant of bail:

1. The applicant has not been chargesheeted under the SC/ST Act.

2. The incident occurred on 28.09.2023. The wife of the deceased who is the first informant was informed by one Manvendra Singh that the body of the deceased was lying at a public place/ animal fare market.

3. The inquest was conducted on 29.09.2023 at about 10.30 AM. The postmortem report was drawn up on 29.09.2023 at about 5.35 PM.

4. The FIR was got lodged on 02.10.2023 by the wife of the deceased.

5. Delay in lodgement of the FIR in the facts of this case is fatal to the prosecution case.

6. The FIR has been lodged after due deliberation and at the instigation of inimical parties in the village.

7. There is no direct evidence or eye witness of the incident.

8. The chain of incriminating circumstances against the applicant is not complete.

9. The applicant was not last seen in the company of the deceased at a time proximate to the death of the latter.

10. No incriminating article has been recovered from the applicant.

11. Prosecution evidence does not connect the applicant with the offence.

12. The applicant does not have any criminal history apart from this case.

13. The applicant is not a flight risk. The applicant being a law abiding citizen has always cooperated with the investigation and undertakes to join the trial proceedings. There is no possibility of his influencing witnesses, tampering with the evidence or reoffending.

11. In the light of the preceding discussion and without making any observations on the merits of the case, the bail application is allowed.

12. Let the applicant- Pramod be released on bail in the aforesaid case crime number, on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court below. The following conditions be imposed in the interest of justice:-

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence or influence any witness during the trial.

(ii) The applicant will appear before the trial court on the date fixed, unless personal presence is exempted.

Sri Arunesh Kumar Singh, G.A.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 439 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 406, 420, 467, 468 & 471 – Bail Application – Cheating and Forgery – Fake Job Scam – Societal Impact of White-Collar Crimes - The applicant, Himanshu Kanaujiya, sought bail in Case Crime No. 369 of 2023 under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, and 471 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Jaunpur, for allegedly cheating the informant by promising a job, taking Rs.1,60,000 via bank transfer and Rs.4,00,000 in cash, and providing a forged appointment letter. The applicant, in jail since 01.12.2023, claimed false implication, asserting the money was a repayment to his mother and denying any job promise or forged document. The prosecution highlighted the forged appointment letter in the case diary, the Investigating Officer's findings of fraud, and an additional similar case (Case Crime No. 72 of 2024). Held: The court rejected the bail application, emphasizing the gravity of the offense, the applicant's involvement, and the societal harm caused by fake job scams exploiting unemployed youth. The court noted that such white-collar crimes, which jeopardize the future of victims, require severe punishment. Considering the evidence, the applicant's criminal history, and the risk of further offenses, no grounds for bail were found. The court directed communication of the order to the Additional Chief Secretary (Home) and Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh, for further action.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit filed by learned counsel for the applicant today in the Court, is taken on record. Office is directed to register the same.

2. Heard Mr. Vijai Prakash Yadav, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Arunesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the informant and Mr. D.P. Singh, learned AGA for the State.

3. The instant bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant, Himanshu Kanaujiya with a prayer to release him on bail in Case Crime No. 369 of 2023, under Sections 406, 420, 467, 468, 471 I.P.C., Police Station-Kotwali, District-Jaunpur, during pendency of trial.

4. As per the allegation in the FIR, the applicant, promising to provide job to the informant, has taken Rs.1,60,000/- in his account and about Rs.4,00,000/- in cash and has given an appointment letter, which was found to be forged.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the present case due to mala fide intentions. He further submits that Rs.1,60,000/-, which has received in his account, is the money which the informant had taken from the applicant's mother and returned the same. He further submits that in order to save himself from returning the money, which he had taken from the applicant's mother, the informant placing forged documents has falsely implicated the applicant in the present case. He had never promised for providing any job nor has given any forged appointment letter to the informant. He further submits that the criminal history of the applicant has been explained in para 4&5 of the supplementary affidavit. He is languishing in jail since 01.12.2023. In case he is released on bail, he will not misuse the liberty of bail and will cooperate in the trial by all means. Lastly, it is submitted that there is no chance of applicant fleeing away from judicial process or tampering with the witnesses.

6. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has opposed the bail prayer of the applicant by contending that the applicant has been cheated by taking amount of Rs.1,60,000/- in his account and Rs.4,00,000/- has been paid in cash and a forged appointment letter has been given. The forged appointment letter, which has been given by the applicant to the informant, is the part of case dairy and the Investigating Officer has found that the fraud and cheating has been done by the applicant. He further submits that apart from the cases explained by learned counsel for the applicant in para 4&5 of the supplementary affidavit, there is one more case, i.e. case crime no.72 of 2024, which is similar in nature. Therefore, there is sufficient evidence available on record against the applicant, hence the applicant is not entitled for bail at this stage.

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

8. Perusal of the records goes to show that the applicant on the assurance of providing job, has been cheated by taking amount from the informant and a forged appointment letter has been given to him. The forged appointment letter, which has been given by the applicant to the informant, is the part of case dairy and the Investigating Officer has found that the fraud and cheating has been done by the applicant, therefore, it would be appropriate to refer to the relevant statutory provisions in this regard:-

"406. Punishment for criminal breach of trust.?

Whoever commits criminal breach of trust shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

415. Cheating.?

Whoever, by deceiving any person, fraudulently or dishonestly induces the person so deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to consent that any person shall retain any property, or intentionally induces the person so deceived to do or omit to do anything which he would not do or omit if he were not so deceived, and which act or omission causes or is likely to cause damage or harm to that person in body, mind, reputation or property, is said to "cheat".

Explanation.? A dishonest concealment of facts is a deception within the meaning of this section.

417. Punishment for cheating.?

Whoever cheats shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

420. Cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property.?

Whoever cheats and thereby dishonestly induces the person deceived to deliver any property to any person, or to make, alter or destroy the whole or any part of a valuable security, or anything which is signed or sealed, and which is capable of being converted into a valuable security, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine."

9. While analyzing the above provisions, the ingredients therein to the present case, wherein, the complaint was lodged by the complainant, alleging that the informant was cheated by the accused under the guise of providing the job, this Court is of the view that a cognizable offence is made out to proceed against the accused person.

10. It is the specific allegation of the complainant that the accused person having received the money by making a promise that he would provide job, however, later committed breach of trust and thereby, fraudulently and dishonestly induced him since he did not provide any job nor returned the money.

11. The very term "unemployment" will sound the death knell for the future of the youth of this nation. Every individual would like to stand on his own legs to avert the reverberations of the said word "unemployment". Such untiring pursuit for employment by the youth is taken advantage of by certain sections/persons.

12. It is unfortunate that, now-a-days, everywhere in the country, bogus manpower consultant agencies and fake recruitment agencies are mushrooming with the main illegal object of luring the unemployed youth with employment in government sectors as well as in foreign countries. The youth too, without knowing the hidden agenda, are falling prey to such temptations of lucrative jobs and paying huge amounts even by selling the properties held by their families or availing loans from financial institutions with high rate of interest. While in some cases, the consultancies or agencies would disappear overnight with the amount collected from the victims, in some other cases, they used to issue fake appointment letters to the victims, who would know about the fraud played on them only at the time of joining the post. If ultimately, he is cheated, his entire future will be in peril and it is not easy to restore normalcy in life by overcoming from the situation. In my firm view, these white-collar crimes, which have drastic effects, should be dealt with iron hands and severe punishment should be awarded to the culprits.

13. Taking into account the gravity of the offense, the evidence presented, the involvement of the accused, the severity of the punishment, and the arguments put forth by the learned counsel for both parties, I discern no compelling reason to exercise my discretion in favor of the accused applicant.

14. Accordingly, the bail application stands rejected.

15. It is clarified that the observations, if any, made in this order are strictly confined to the disposal of the bail application and must not be construed to have any reflection on the ultimate merits of the case.

16. Let a copy of this order be communicated to the Additional Chief Secretary (Home) as well as Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow.

17. Registrar Compliance shall send copy of this order to all concerned forthwith.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 439 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 419, 420, 406, 467, 468, 471, 120-B, 504, 506 – Bail Application – Fraudulent Employment Scheme – Organized Crime – Societal Implications - The applicant, Chandrashekhar Prasad, sought bail in Case Crime No. 122 of 2022 under Sections 419, 420, 406, 467, 468, 471, 120-B, 504, and 506 IPC, Police Station Bhatni, District Deoria, for allegedly defrauding the informant and his brother-in-law by promising jobs in the FCI Department for Rs. 3,50,000 per person. The applicant sent forged appointment letters, collected Rs. 3,50,000, and took the victims' children to Chapra (Bihar), where no appointments materialized. The applicant argued false implication, delay in FIR, and transfer of funds to another's account, claiming he was also a victim. The prosecution countered that the applicant played an active role in the organized fraud, and the delay in FIR was due to false assurances of verification. Held: The court, emphasizing the gravity of the organized crime and its societal impact, particularly on vulnerable job seekers, rejected the bail application. The applicant's transfer of funds did not absolve him, and the risk of tampering with evidence or re-offending was significant. The court underscored the need for public awareness to prevent such frauds and directed the trial court to expedite proceedings.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Upendra Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the applicant as well as Mr. Rizwan Ahmed, learned AGA for the State and perused the material on record.

2. The instant bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant, Chandrashekhar Prasad with a prayer to release him on bail in Case Crime No.122 of 2022, under Sections 419, 420, 406, 467, 468, 471, 120-B, 504 and 506 I.P.C., Police Station ? Bhatni, District ? Deoria, during pendency of trial.

3. As per the allegations in the FIR, on 04.06.2021 when the informant went to his sister's place, he met one Sanjay. He was told by Sanjay that his nephew Chandra Shekhar Prasad is working in FCI Department and other persons are also required there in the department as employees. On the aforesaid, informant's brother-in-law namely Ram Kishan requested Sanjay to talk to Chandra Shekhar Prasad (nephew of Sanjay) to get few family members appointed in the same. On his request, when Sanjay managed a conversation of the informant with Chandra Shekhar Prasad, he was informed that Rs.3,50,000/- per person will be required for the appointment in the FCI Department. The informant's brother-in-law requested for getting his son and nephew appointed and the informant requested for appointment of his son. Appointment letters were sent on the mobile of the aforesaid persons, seeing which the informant and his brother-in-law were asked to deposit some amount in the account no.38445012703. The informant Santosh Kumar deposited Rs.1,50,000/- in the aforesaid account on 25.06.2021.

4. Afterwards, the informant came to know that the aforesaid account was in the name of one Abhishek Kumar. Coming to know about the aforesaid account being of Abhishek Kumar, he had a talk with Chandra Shekhar Prasad who gave his PNB account no.2147000100191886 and requested the informant to deposit the amount in the aforesaid PNB account, after which Rs.2,00,000/- were deposited by the informant on 02.07.2021. He was asked to take the print out of the appointment letters as sent on the mobile and come alongwith the applicant Chandra Shekhar Prasad for further steps to be taken for the appointment of the children. Chandra Shekhar Prasad came alongwith co-accused Pankaj Kumar Rajbhar and took alongwith them the son of the informant and the son and nephew of the informant's brother-in-law in a four wheeler vehicle and went to Chapra (Bihar) for their appointment in the FCI Department. Only three persons i.e. the son of the informant and the nephew and son of the informant's brother-in-law were kept in private room. They stayed in the said room till 25 days but neither they were given appointment nor were taken to any government office. On having a conversation with the applicant Chandra Shekhar Prasad, they were told to go back to their residence and as soon as verification of the appointment is done, they will be informed about the same. On the aforesaid assurance, the children came back to their house. Till date neither they have been appointed in the department nor the money has been returned, therefore, the present FIR has been lodged against the applicant and two named accused i.e. Pankaj Kumar Rajbhar and Abhishek Kumar.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the present case due to ulterior motive. He further submits that there is delay in lodging the FIR without giving any plausible explanation for the same. Though, he received the amount on 02.07.2021 but the same has been deposited in the account of one Om Prakash Pandey at the instance of Pankaj Kumar Rajbhar and upon the direction of the informant. He has placed the statement of account on page no.57 of the bail application from where it is evident that on 02.07.2021, Rs.5,50,000/- have been transferred to the account of Om Prakash Pandey. He further submits that even he is a victim of the fraud as played by the other co-accused persons. No recovery of any amount has been made from the applicant. Nothing incriminating has been recovered from the possession of the applicant which could prove that the forged appointment letters have been prepared by the applicant. He further submits that informant's son was never examined during the examination.

6. Mr. Rizwan Ahmed, learned AGA for the State on the other hand submits that it is an organized crime in which applicant alongwith other co-accused persons have cheated the informant as well as his brother-in-law by accepting the money under the garb of providing job. From the version of the FIR itself, it is clear that the forged appointment letters have been sent from the mobile phone of the applicant to that of the informant's. The statement of account as placed by learned counsel for the applicant showing that the amount as received by the applicant has been transferred in the account of one Om Prakash Pandey at the insistance of informant and the co-accused Pankaj Kumar Rajbhar cannot prove the innocence of the applicant, as in the statement of account the name of Om Prakash Pandey has been written by pen, so it cannot be said as to whether the amount has actually been transferred in the account of Om Prakash Pandey or not, as usually in the present scenario, when the computerized statement of account is being given, the name of the account holder from whom the money is debited or credited to is mentioned and the account number is also mentioned in the same. He further submits that there is no delay in the FIR as the incident started from the year 2021 and as assurance was given that after verification of the appointment, the informant shall be communicated about the same. Believing the assurance given by the accused persons, the informant waited for the appointment and when no appointment letter was given nor the money was returned, the present FIR was lodged.

7. This court has meticulously examined the contentions put forth by both learned counsels and has perused the material on record. The instant bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant, Chandrashekhar Prasad, seeking his release on bail in Case Crime No.122 of 2022, under Sections 419, 420, 406, 467, 468, 471, 120-B, 504, and 506 I.P.C., Police Station ? Bhatni, District ? Deoria, during the pendency of trial.

8. The allegations in the FIR paint a picture of calculated deception and manipulation perpetrated by the applicant along with his co-accused. It is alleged that they exploited the trust of the informant and his brother-in-law by promising employment opportunities in the FCI Department in exchange for substantial sums of money. Despite receiving significant sums, the promised appointments never materialized, leaving the victims both financially and emotionally aggrieved.

9. The learned counsel for the applicant contends that the applicant is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the case. However, the court notes that the allegations against the applicant are not unsubstantiated. The FIR alleges a well-coordinated scheme involving the applicant and his co-accused to defraud the victims. Moreover, the contention regarding the delay in lodging the FIR is unpersuasive, as the delay can be reasonably explained by the victims' belief in the false assurances given by the accused regarding the pending verification process.

10. The defense further argues that the applicant did not directly get benefit from the fraudulent transactions and that the money received was subsequently transferred to another individual. However, this assertion fails to exonerate the applicant from his alleged involvement in the scam. The mere transfer of funds does not absolve him of responsibility, especially considering the organized nature of the crime and the active role attributed to him in facilitating the deceitful transactions.

11. Additionally, the contention regarding the absence of incriminating evidence directly linking the applicant to the fabrication of appointment letters is not conclusive at this stage of the proceedings. The investigation is ongoing, and further evidence may yet come to light.

12. In addition to the foregoing considerations, it is imperative to underscore the broader societal implications inherent in cases of fraudulent promises of employment. The court wishes to emphasize the importance of sensitizing individuals, particularly students and job seekers, to the fundamental principle that legitimate employment opportunities are attained solely through merit and diligent effort. It is incumbent upon the state to uphold the integrity of the recruitment process and to take stringent measures against those who seek to exploit the aspirations of innocent individuals through fraudulent means.

13. Furthermore, it is essential to recognize that the consequences of falling prey to such fraudulent schemes extend far beyond mere financial loss. Individuals who are misled into parting with their hard-earned money in exchange for false promises of employment often endure profound emotional distress, shattered hopes, and a sense of betrayal. Moreover, the societal repercussions can be equally damaging, as victims may find themselves ostracized and stigmatized, their reputations tarnished, and their social standing compromised.

14. Therefore, it is incumbent upon all stakeholders, including educational institutions, government agencies, civil society organizations, and the media, to collaborate in disseminating accurate information and fostering a culture of integrity and resilience. Comprehensive education and awareness campaigns must be developed to empower individuals with the knowledge and critical thinking skills necessary to recognize and resist fraudulent schemes. Moreover, efforts should be made to provide alternative avenues for career development and skill enhancement, thereby reducing the vulnerability of individuals to exploitation.

15. Ultimately, the goal must be to create an environment where the pursuit of professional opportunities is guided by principles of fairness, transparency, and ethical conduct. By instilling these values in future generations and holding accountable those who seek to subvert them, we can uphold the dignity and aspirations of all individuals and ensure the integrity of our institutions and society as a whole.

16. Upon careful consideration of the facts and circumstances of the case, this court is of the opinion that releasing the applicant on bail at this juncture would not be in the interest of justice. The gravity of the offenses, the likelihood of the applicant tampering with evidence or influencing witnesses, and the potential risk of re-offending militate against granting bail.

17. Therefore, the bail application filed on behalf of the applicant, Chandrashekhar Prasad, is hereby denied/rejected.

18. It is clarified that the observations, if any, made in this order are strictly confined to the disposal of the present bail application and must not be construed to have any reflection on the ultimate merits of the case.

19. The trial court is directed to expedite the proceedings in accordance with law.

20. Order passed accordingly.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 438 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 & 120-B – Anticipatory Bail – Property Dispute – Alleged Fraudulent Sale Deeds – Civil and Criminal Proceedings - The applicant, Smt. Vinita Mehrotra, sought anticipatory bail in Case Crime No. 894 of 2022 under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, and 120-B IPC, Police Station Kotwali City, District Bijnor, for allegedly executing ten sale deeds of a disputed property, 'Dharm Bhawan,' without valid title. The informant, her brother Rakesh Sharma, claimed the property was his through a 1974 partition decree and a 2012 Will, alleging the applicant colluded with land mafias to fraudulently sell parts of it. The applicant argued she believed the property was her inheritance, had initiated civil suits for partition and cancellation of the 1974 decree and 2012 Will, and had no dishonest intent. Held: The court, relying on Mohd. Ibrahim Vs St. of Bihar ((2009) 8 SCC 751), Mitesh Kumar J. Sha Vs St. of Karnataka ((2021) SCC OnLine SC 976), Hira Lal Vs St. of U.P. ((2009) 11 SCC 89), Ram Biraji Devi Vs Umesh Kumar Singh ((2006) 6 SCC 669), and Sushila Aggarwal Vs St. (NCT of Delhi) ((2020) 5 SCC 1), granted anticipatory bail. The court found the dispute primarily civil, with pending suits, and noted the applicant's bona fide belief in her property rights, her lack of criminal antecedents, and her status as a 74-year-old woman. The court distinguished her case from co-accused with criminal records and emphasized that civil and criminal proceedings could coexist, as per Pratibha Vs Rameshwari Devi ((2007) 12 SCC 369), Mahesh Chaudhary Vs St. of Rajasthan ((2009) 4 SCC 439), and Priti Saraf Vs St. (NCT of Delhi) ((2021) 16 SCC 142).

2. Heard Sri Bhuvnesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Amit Daga, learned counsel for the informant and Sri Sunil Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State as well as perused the material placed on record.

3. The present anticipatory bail application has been filed on behalf of the applicant in Case Crime No.894 of 2022 registered under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 and 120-B IPC at Police Station-Kotwali City, District Bijnor with a prayer to enlarge her on anticipatory bail.

PROSECUTION STORY:

4. The FIR was instituted by the informant Rakesh Sharma that he and his wife have a property in Civil Lines, Bijnor which has residence, shops and open land surrounded by boundary wall which is being used by them for the last 50 years. The said property was inherited by the informant after a family partition in the year 1974 after an order was taken from the Court. The two persons namely, Mohammed Talib and Shankar Lal, are land mafias of the area and have garnered huge black money out of it. They want to illegally grab his property. The informant had sold a certain part of the said property on 14.11.2022. It is learnt that the said land mafias have got executed ten sale deeds of certain parts of the land on 25.11.2022 in the names of their siblings in collusion with Vinita Mehrotra w/o Shri PK Mehrotra. The land grabber had got the said sale deeds executed, despite knowing the fact that Smt. Vinita Mehrotra (applicant) does not have any title to the said land.

5. It is further stated in the FIR that the informant had contested several petitions up to the Supreme Court for getting certain shops vacated by filing petitions under the Rent Control Act. The said sale deed have been executed for a consideration of Rs.3,25,00,000,/- although the real value in the open market is much more than the amount shown in the sale deeds.

RIVAL CONTENTIONS:
(Arguments on behalf of applicant)

6. The instant dispute relates to the property under the name of 'Dharm Bhawan' having an approximate area of 2400 square yards situated in the city of Bijnor, U.P.

7. The original owner of the said property was Sahdev Sharma whose wife was Smt. Kusum Rani Sharma and the couple had three siblings, namely, Vinita Mehrotra (applicant), Rakesh Sharma and Sangeeta Narang. The said Sahdev Sharma, father of the applicant, expired on 20.06.2012 and thereafter his wife Kusum Rani Sharma expired on 20.06.2012. It is placed on record that the informant Rakesh Sharma is a practising advocate at the District Court, Bijnor and so was his father Sahdev Sharma and was even a Government Counsel (ADGC) at the District Court, Bijnor.

8. The informant is stated to have filed a collusive suit bearing O.S. No.28 of 1974 before the Civil Judge, Bijnor for partition and permanent injunction under the name of his mother and his father Sahdev Sharma was made a defendant in it during the life time of Dharmveer Sharma (father of Sahdev Sharma, who died on 1.1.1975). In the said original suit, a compromise was filed by the parties on 15.04.1974 and the same was decided on the basis of the said compromise the same day i.e. 15.04.1974 itself and a decree was passed.

9. It is pertinent to mention that the applicant- Vinita Mehrotra, who was already married off in the year 1967, was not a party in the said original suit, as such had no inkling of the said collusive suit and decree obtained by the informant. It is also stated that just 18 days before the death of Smt. Kusum Rani Sharma (mother of the applicant and the informant), a forged Will deed is stated to have been prepared in favour of first informant on 02.06.2012, which has not been signed by her. The deceased is stated to be 86 years old on 2.6.2012.

10. The instant dispute arose when the applicant sent a legal notice to the first informant for partition of the property in question and getting her one third share of the said property on 23.09.2022 and the applicant was forced to file a civil suit as O.S. No.760 of 2022 (Smt. Vinita Mehrotra vs. Rakesh Sharma and Others) on 3.10.2022 before the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Bijnor for partition of the property in question between the legal heirs of deceased Sahdev Sharma. A copy of the said civil suit has been annexed as Annexure No.4 to the anticipatory bail application.

11. The first informant filed an application Under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC on 25.11.2022 in the said original suit and only then the applicant came to know of the said collusive decree dated 15.04.1974. A copy of the said application has been annexed as Annexure No.5 to the anticipatory bail application. Subsequent to it, the applicant is stated to have filed O.S. No.967 of 2022 on 18.12.2022 for cancellation of the judgment and decree dated 15.04.1974, obtained ex-parte. The said suit is still pending and the matter is being contested before the Civil Court.

12. The applicant had also filed O.S. No.960 of 2022 before the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Bijnor for cancellation of the fake Will deed dated 2.6.2012 purported to have been executed by Late Smt. Kusum Rani Sharma, before her death on 20.06.2012. The applicant had even filed information in the local newspaper 'Chingari' on 3.10.2022 indicating that she holds one third share in the said property.

13. The applicant had executed ten sale deeds of the parts of the said property measuring 647 square yards for a consideration of Rs.3,25,00,000/-. The instant FIR has been instituted subsequent to the said sale deed on 6.12.2022. The applicant was granted arrest stay by this Court till the conclusion investigation vide order dated 1.2.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.1383 of 2023.

14. The informant had even forged an unregistered Will deed of his father dated 10.02.1979 and had even forged the signatures of the applicant on it. The Investigating Officer has not acted fairly and has submitted the final report (charge-sheet) mechanically in collusion with the informant, who is an advocate, and the cognizance order dated 29.03.2023 is without application of mind.

15. The application filed Under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC was allowed by the Learned Civil Judge ex-parte on 8.2.2023 without hearing the applicant that too on the date when there was a resolution of the Bar to abstain from work on account of condolence of the death of an advocate. The applicant has filed Appeal No.33 of 2023 against the said order dated 9.1.2023 of the Civil Judge before the District Judge, Bijnor, which is still pending.

16. Reliance has been placed on paragraph No.14 of the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in Mohammad Ibrahim and Others vs. State of Bihar and Another1, which reads-as-under:

"14. An analysis of Section 464 of the Penal Code shows that it divides false documents into three categories:

1. The first is where a person dishonestly or fraudulently makes or executes a document with the intention of causing it to be believed that such document was made or executed by some other person, or by the authority of some other person, by whom or by whose authority he knows it was not made or executed.

2. The second is where a person dishonestly or fraudulently, by cancellation or otherwise, alters a document in any material part, without lawful authority, after it has been made or executed by either himself or any other person.

3. The third is where a person dishonestly or fraudulently causes any person to sign, execute or alter a document knowing that such person could not by reason of (a) unsoundness of mind; or (b) intoxication; or (c) deception practised upon him, know the contents of the document or the nature of the alteration.

In short, a person is said to have made a "false document", if (i) he made or executed a document claiming to be someone else or authorised by someone else; or (ii) he altered or tampered a document; or (iii) he obtained a document by practising deception, or from a person not in control of his senses."

17. The case of the applicant is squarely covered by the judgment of Mohd. Ibrahim (supra), whereby the applicant has not dishonestly or fraudulently executed the sale deed and has not altered any document or any material part in it.

18. Reliance has also been placed on paragraph Nos.35 and 37 of the judgment of Supreme Court passed in Mitesh Kumar J. Sha vs. The State of Karnataka and Others2, which reads-as-under:

"35. The dispute between the parties, could at best be termed as one involving a mere breach of contract. Now, whether and what, is the difference between a mere breach of contract and an offence of cheating has been discussed in the ensuing paragraphs.

37. Applying this dictum to the instant factual matrix where the key ingredient of having a dishonest or fraudulent intent under Sections 405, 419 and 420 is not made out, the case at hand, in our considered opinion is a suitable case necessitating intervention of this Court."

19. Reliance has also been placed on paragraph Nos.12 and 13 of the judgment of Supreme Court passed in Hira Lal and Other vs. State of U.P. And Others3, which reads-as-under:

"12. The parameters of interference with a criminal proceeding by the High Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code are well known. One of the grounds on which such interference is permissible is that the allegations contained in the complaint petition even if given face value and taken to be correct in their entirety, commission of an offence is not disclosed. The High Court may also interfere where the action on the part of the complainant is mala fide.

13. The dispute between the parties is essentially civil in nature. The will in question is a registered will. Whether it is surrounded by suspicious circumstances or not is a matter which may appropriately fall for determination in a testamentary proceeding. Prima facie, a civil court has found the said will to be genuine. A complaint petition filed by the third respondent has been rejected. A revision application filed thereagainst has also been dismissed."

20. Reliance has also been placed on paragraph Nos.10 and 11 of the judgment of Supreme Court passed in Ram Biraji Devi & Another vs. Umesh Kumar Singh & Another4, which reads-as-under:

"10. The learned Magistrate in his order has categorically stated that the perusal of the complaint would make it clear that there was a dispute in respect of sale and purchase of land between the parties. In our view even if the allegations made in the complaint are accepted to be true and correct, the appellants cannot be said to have committed any offence of cheating or criminal breach of trust. Neither can any guilty intention be attributed to them nor can there possibly be any intention on their part to deceive the complainant. No criminal case is made out by the complainant against the appellants in his complaint and in the statements of the complainant and his witnesses recorded by the Magistrate before taking of the cognizance of the alleged offences. The averments of the complaint and the statements of the complainant and his witnesses recorded by the Magistrate would amount to civil liability inter se the parties and no criminal liability can be attributed to the appellants on the basis of the material on record. In Trisuns Chemical Industry case [(1999) 8 SCC 686 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 47] relied upon by the complainant, this Court held as under: (SCC p. 687)

"Quashing of FIR or a complaint in exercise of the inherent powers of the High Court should be limited to very extreme exceptions. Merely because an act has a civil profile is not sufficient to denude it of its criminal outfit. The provision incorporated in the agreement for referring the disputes to arbitration is not an effective substitute for a criminal prosecution when the disputed act is an offence. Arbitration is a remedy for affording reliefs to the party affected by breach of the agreement but the arbitrator cannot conduct a trial of any act which amounted to an offence albeit the same act may be connected with the discharge of any function under the agreement. Hence, those are not good reasons for the High Court to axe down the complaint at the threshold itself. The investigating agency should have had the freedom to go into the whole gamut of the allegations and to reach a conclusion of its own. Pre-emption of such investigation would be justified only in very extreme cases."

11. There cannot be any disagreement to the well-settled proposition of law that the High Court should exercise its inherent powers in extreme exceptions to quash an FIR or a complaint. The ratio as laid down in Trisuns Chemical Industry case [(1999) 8 SCC 686 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 47] is of no help and assistance to the complainant in the facts and circumstances of the present case. The complaint instituted does not disclose that an offence under Section 420 is made out. Cognizance taken by the Magistrate thereon against the appellants for offences under Sections 406/419/420 and 120-B IPC is clearly an abuse of the process of court and interference by this Court is expedient in the interest of justice. This is a case of extreme exception where the High Court ought to have exercised its inherent jurisdiction and power to set aside the unwarranted and unjustified order of the Magistrate impugned before it by the appellants."

21. The instant case is of civil in nature and the dispute is between the informant and the applicant regarding the share in the land. The said partition deed dated 15.4.1974 is under challenge before the Civil Court, Bijnor.

22. The bona-fide purchasers were granted bail by this Court vide order dated 19.7.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail U/S 438 Cr.P.C. No.5334 of 2023. This Court was pleased to dismiss the anticipatory bail application of co-accused persons, namely, Shankar Lal and Mohd. Talib, vide order dated 19.07.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail U/S 438 Cr.P.C. No.5822 of 2023, but the bail of co-accused Shankar Lal has been allowed by the Supreme Court while that of the co-accused person Mohd. Talib has been rejected on account of his criminal antecedents.

23. The case of the applicant is at a different footing as she is a bona-fide seller of the property she inherited from her father. The applicant has sold the property much less than her share of 800 square yards. The applicant has no criminal antecedents to her credit and being a lady of 74 years of age, is entitled for anticipatory bail. The applicant undertakes that she has co-operated in the investigation and is ready to do so in trial also failing which the State can move appropriate application for cancellation of anticipatory bail.

(Arguments on behalf of informant/State)

24. The dispute is regarding the residential land/house known as 'Dharm Bhawan' having an area of 2400 square yards located in front of Gayatri Nursing Home, Bijnor. The informant and his parents had got the marriage of the applicant solemnized in the year 1967 to a well off family and had spent money beyond their capacity, which was more than her share in the property. The husband of the applicant is a retired IAS officer. The order and decree dated 15.4.1974 is final and has not been set-aside by any Court of Law and the said act was bona-fide act of the parents of the applicant. As a result of the said decree, the deceased parents and the applicant were accorded one third share of the said property. The deceased Sahdev

Sharma had executed an unregistered Will deed in favour of the informant. The copy of the said Will deed has been appended as Annexure No.CA-2 to the counter affidavit filed with the anticipatory bail application.

25. After the death of the father of the informant Sahdev Sharma on 31.01.1980, the informant became the owner of two third share of the property in dispute. The informant, being the allottee of one super deluxe flat being House No.602, located at Nanda Apartment, Kaushambi under Apartment Yojna Series 650, gifted the said flat alongwith the amount of the remaining instalments proposed to be deposited in Ghaziabad Development Authority to the applicant Vinita Mehrotra. The applicant had even acknowledged the factum of partition of the ancestral property between her parents and brother Rakesh Sharma in the year 1974 in it. The copy of the said receipt dated 10.03.1993 has been annexed as Annexure No.CA-3 to the counter affidavit filed with the anticipatory bail application.

26. The mother of the informant Smt. Kusum Rani Sharma had executed a registered Will in favour of the informant where she gave her entire share in property in dispute to the informant on 2.6.2012. The copy of the registered Will has been annexed as Annexure No.CA-5 to the counter affidavit filed with the anticipatory bail application. The mother of the informant and the applicant, Smt. Kusum Rani Sharma, expired on 20.06.2012, as such the informant became the sole title holder of the property in dispute. The applicant has no share in the said property and has illegally sold the said land. The applicant is a greedy lady and under ill advice, in order to extort money from the informant and his family members, had filed civil suit and the notice in the local newspaper.

27. The informant had executed two sale deeds on 17.10.2022 subsequent to the said civil suit instituted by the applicant of the land measuring 323.66 square meters. The applicant has executed the said sale deeds subsequent to the sale deed executed by the informant on 23.11.2022 and 25.11.2022. The applicant has executed the said ten sale deeds as a stress sale much below the market price. Even the applicant has executed a power of attorney in favour of land mafias namely, Mohd. Talib and Shankar Lal, on 03.12.2022 to take care of the civil proceedings pending as O.S. No.760 of 2022 subsequent to the FIR instituted by the informant on 6.12.2022. The factum of other civil suits pending between the parties is not disputed by the informant. The final report (charge-sheet) has been submitted against the applicant after thorough investigation by the Investigating Officer and cognizance was taken by the Magistrate concerned on 29.03.2023.

28. The co-accused person Shankar Lal has been granted anticipatory bail by the Supreme Court on 09.11.2023 and that of Mohd. Talib has been rejected vide order dated 14.12.2023 on account of his criminal antecedents.

29. The bail application of the co-accused person was allowed by this Court vide order dated 19.7.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/S 438 Cr.P.C. No.5334 of 2023, whereby the case of the applicant and other co-accused persons, namely, Mohd. Talib and Shankar Lal, was distinguished. The relevant paragraph of the said order is being reproduced below:

"10. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties as well as the judgements referred above by them and also the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Sushila Aggarwal Vs. State (NCT of Delhi), 2020 SCC OnLine SC 98, the applicants are entitled to be granted anticipatory bail in this case. However, it is made clear that the case of the applicants is at a different footing to the case of co-accused Vineeta Mehrotra, Mohd. Talib and Shanker Lal."

30. As such, the applicant is also not entitled for anticipatory bail on the ground of parity with the co-accused persons whose anticipatory bail application has been rejected by this Court vide order dated 19.7.2023 passed in Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/S 438 Cr.P.C. No.5822 of 2023.

31. Reliance has been placed on paragraph Nos.9 to 16 of the judgment of this Court dated 16.1.2024 passed in Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No.11379 of 2023, which reads as under:

"9. After mentioning the aforesaid categories, the Hon'ble Supreme Court added a note of caution to the effect that: -

"the power of quashing a criminal proceeding should be exercised very sparingly and with circumspection and that too in the rarest of rare cases; that the court will not be justified in embarking upon an enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness or otherwise of the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint and that the extraordinary or inherent powers do not confer an arbitrary jurisdiction on the court to act according to its whim or caprice."

10. In CBI versus Aryan Singh, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 379, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"10. From the impugned common judgment and order passed by the High Court, it appears that the High Court has dealt with the proceedings before it, as if, the High Court was conducting a mini trial and/or the High Court was considering the applications against the judgment and order passed by the learned Trial Court on conclusion of trial. As per the cardinal principle of law, at the stage of discharge and/or quashing of the criminal proceedings, while exercising the powers under Section 482 Cr. P.C., the Court is not required to conduct the mini trial. The High Court in the common impugned judgment and order has observed that the charges against the accused are not proved. This is not the stage where the prosecution/investigating agency is/are required to prove the charges. The charges are required to be proved during the trial on the basis of the evidence led by the prosecution/investigating agency. Therefore, the High Court has materially erred in going in detail in the allegations and the material collected during the course of the investigation against the accused, at this stage. At the stage of discharge and/or while exercising the powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the Court has a very limited jurisdiction and is required to consider "whether any sufficient material is available to proceed further against the accused for which the accused is required to be tried or not".

11. Therefore, the submission of the learned Counsel for the applicant that the allegations leveled in the FIR are false, cannot be examined by this Court while deciding an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

12. So far as the next submission of the earned Counsel for the applicant, that the dispute between the parties is purely civil in nature, the allegations in the FIR are that the applicant has committed the offences of criminal breach of trust and cheating against the informant.

13. In Pratibha v. Rameshwari Devi, (2007) 12 SCC 369, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "it is well settled that criminal and civil proceedings are separate and independent and the pendency of a civil proceeding cannot bring to an end a criminal proceeding even if they arise out of the same set of facts."

14. In Mahesh Chaudhary v. State of Rajasthan, (2009) 4 SCC 439, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

11. The principle providing for exercise of the power by a High Court under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure to quash a criminal proceeding is well known. The Court shall ordinarily exercise the said jurisdiction, inter alia, in the event the allegations contained in the FIR or the complaint petition even if on face value are taken to be correct in their entirety, does not disclose commission of an offence.

12. It is also well settled that save and except in very exceptional circumstances, the Court would not look to any document relied upon by the accused in support of his defence. Although allegations contained in the complaint petition may disclose a civil dispute, the same by itself may not be a ground to hold that the criminal proceedings should not be allowed to continue. For the purpose of exercising its jurisdiction, the superior courts are also required to consider as to whether the allegations made in the FIR or the complaint petition fulfil the ingredients of the offences alleged against the accused. (Emphasis supplied)

15. In Priti Saraf v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2021) 16 SCC 142, it was held that: -

31. In the instant case, on a careful reading of the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet, in our view, it cannot be said that the complaint does not disclose the commission of an offence. The ingredients of the offences under Sections 406 and 420IPC cannot be said to be absent on the basis of the allegations in the complaint/FIR/charge-sheet. We would like to add that whether the allegations in the complaint are otherwise correct or not, has to be decided on the basis of the evidence to be led during the course of trial. Simply because there is a remedy provided for breach of contract or arbitral proceedings initiated at the instance of the appellants, that does not by itself clothe the court to come to a conclusion that civil remedy is the only remedy, and the initiation of criminal proceedings, in any manner, will be an abuse of the process of the court for exercising inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482CrPC for quashing such proceedings."

16. As besides the civil dispute between the parties, the allegations in the FIR make out commission of cognizable offences of criminal breach of trust and cheating by the applicant, which allegations have been established by the material collected during investigation and, accordingly, a charge-sheet has been filed against the applicant, I am of the considered view that as per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pratibha, Mahesh Chaudhary and Priti Saraf (Supra), the charge-sheet and the criminal proceedings against the applicant cannot be quashed merely because the allegations may also disclose a civil dispute between the parties."

32. If there is civil litigation pending between the parties, there is no bar in continuing with the criminal prosecution as has been settled in the judgment of Keshav (supra).

33. Learned A.G.A. has reiterated the arguments tendered at bar by learned counsel for the informant and has also opposed the anticipatory bail application of the applicant, but has not disputed the facts that the applicant has no criminal antecedents to her credit and also the pendency of civil suits between the parties.

CONCLUSION:

34. The important factor to be taken into consideration is that when a person executes a document conveying a property describing it as 'his' or 'hers', there are two possibilities. The first is that he/she, as a bona-fide act, believes that the property actually belongs to him/her. The second is that he/she may be dishonestly or fraudulently claiming it to be his/her even-though he/she knows that it is not his/her property.

35. As propounded in Mohd. Ibrahim (supra), to fall under the first category of false documents, it is not sufficient that a document has to be made or executed dishonestly or fraudulently. In the case herein, the applicant has executed the sale deed conveying it to be her's and has not misrepresented anyone. It is also admitted fact that prior to the institution of the FIR and even the said sale deeds, there were civil suits pending before the Civil Court, Bijnor. Thus, the exception can be drawn in favour of the applicant being a lady of 74 years of age. It is to be noted at the time of arguments in the bail application of co-accused, the facts relating to the applicant were not argued or brought forward as she was not an applicant there.

36. The argument of the counsel for the informant claiming parity of rejection of bail of co-accused does not hold good as it is settled law of the Court that parity can be claimed for grant of bail and not for its rejection. It is also to be taken into account that one of the very same accused person Shankar Lal has been enlarged on anticipatory bail by the Supreme Court vide its' order dated 09.11.2023. The case of the applicant is at a better footing to Shankar Lal as she has no criminal antecedents.

37. It is very unfortunate when familial relationships are strained by greed. Open communication and understanding can be key to resolving such issues. Sorry to see that rapacity can create conflicts and damage blood relationships. The FIR and the litigations between the parties is a fallout of depleting family relations due to avidity. The litigation can further complicate the already depleting family dynamics.

38. On due consideration to the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the applicant, learned counsel for the informant as well as learned A.G.A., taking into consideration the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in Mohd. Ibrahim (supra) and the fact that the bail application of the co-accused person Shankar Lal has been allowed by the Supreme Court vide its' order dated 9.11.2023 coupled with the fact that the applicant has no criminal antecedents to her credit, and considering the nature of accusations, the applicant is liable to be enlarged on anticipatory bail in view of the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of "Sushila Aggarwal Vs. State (NCT of Delhi), (2020) 5 SCC 1". The future contingencies regarding the anticipatory bail being granted to applicant shall also be taken care of as per the aforesaid judgment of the Apex Court.

39. In view of the above, the anticipatory bail application of the applicant is allowed. Let the accused-applicant- Smt. Vinita Mehrotra be released forthwith in the aforesaid case crime (supra) on anticipatory bail till the conclusion of trial on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned with the following conditions:-

(i). that the applicant shall make herself available for interrogation by a police officer as and when required;

(ii). that the applicant shall not, directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade her from disclosing such facts to the court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence;

(iii). that the applicant shall not leave India without the previous permission of the court;

(iv). that in case charge-sheet is submitted the applicant shall not tamper with the evidence during the trial;

(v). that the applicant shall not pressurize/ intimidate the prosecution witness;

(vi). that the applicant shall appear before the trial court on each date fixed unless personal presence is exempted;

(vii). that in case of breach of any of the above conditions the court concerned shall have the liberty to cancel the bail.

40. It is made clear that observations made hereinabove are exclusively for deciding the instant anticipatory bail application and shall not affect the trial.

The applicant, Yogendra Kumar Mishra, filed a second bail application in Case Crime No. 324 of 2021 under Sections 376, 328, 506 IPC, Sections 3/4 POCSO Act, and Section 67 IT Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Prayagraj, alleging false implication in a case involving rape, poisoning, criminal intimidation, and digital offenses against the complainant and her daughter. The applicant argued delayed FIR, lack of specific details, enmity due to a prior dispute, inconsistencies in St.ments under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., no medical evidence of rape, the complainant's daughter being a major (19 years), and no evidence of video recording or blackmail. The prosecution countered that the first bail rejection order implied consideration of all arguments, and a second bail application required new grounds, which were absent. Held: The court, relying on Mahipal Vs Rajesh Kumar ((2020) 2 SCC 118), St. of Maharashtra Vs Buddhikota Subha Rao (1989 Supp (2) SCC 605), Satyapal Vs St. of U.P. (1998 SCC OnLine All 1224), St. of M.P. Vs Kajad ((2001) 7 SCC 673), Kalyan Chandra Sarkar Vs Rajesh Ranjan ((2005) 2 SCC 42), and Hari Singh Mann Vs Harbhajan Singh Bajwa ((2001) 1 SCC 169), rejected the second bail application. The court held that successive bail applications require substantial new grounds, and reviewing the first rejection order without new facts would amount to impermissible review under criminal law. The applicant's failure to challenge the first rejection in the Supreme Court and reliance on the same grounds rendered the application unsustainable.

"1. Heard Sri Anil Tiwri, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Dharmendra Shukla, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Subhash Chandra Tiwari, learned counsel for the complainant and Sri Sanjay Singh, learned A.G.A. for State.

2. The present bail application has been filed by the applicant with a prayer to enlarge him on bail in Case Crime No. 324 of 2021, under Sections 376, 506, 328 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act and Section 67 I.T. Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Prayagraj.

3. After hearing the learned counsel for the applicant and learned counsel for the complainant and learned A.G.A., and after perusing the averments made in the present bail application as well as rejection order, this Court is of the opinion, that learned counsel for the applicant could not point out any good ground for grant of bail to the applicant.

4. Accordingly, the bail application filed on behalf of the applicant is hereby rejected.

5. However, it is directed that the trial of the aforesaid case pending before the concerned court below be concluded expeditiously, preferably within eight months in accordance with Section 309 Cr.P.C. and in view of principle as has been laid down in the recent judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Vinod Kumar v. State of Punjab reported in 2015 (3) SCC 220 and Hussain and Another v. Union of India; 2017 (5) SCC 702, if there is no legal impediment."
