THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Revision No. 10 of 2021

Sandeep Kumar ...Revisionist
Versus
The State & Anr. ...Opposite Party

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Ajay Kumar

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A., Abhishek Dwivedi, Anjani Kumar Misra, Jagat Pal Singh, Nadeem Murtaza, Puneet Saxena, Santosh Kumar Tirpathi, Surekha Patel

Criminal Law -Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 – Section 7A, Rule 12(3) of 2007 Rules – Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 – Section 94 – Determination of Juvenility – Priority of Educational Documents – Evidence Act, 1872 – Sections 35 & 114 – Criminal Revision – Section 397/401 Cr.P.C.
The revisionist challenged the orders dated 01.12.2020 (Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge POCSO Act, Lucknow) and 22.12.2020 (Juvenile Justice Board, JJB) determining the opposite party No. 2 as a juvenile in Case Crime No. 2013 of 2015 under Sections 302/120B IPC. The revisionist's FIR alleged that the opposite party No. 2, his uncle, murdered his father. The opposite party No. 2 claimed juvenility, supported by school records initially showing his date of birth as 07.07.2002, later corrected to 12.07.1997 due to an error. The JJB initially ordered a medical examination, which estimated the age as 25 years, suggesting majority on the incident date (18.05.2015). The appellate court set aside the JJB's order, prioritizing educational records under Section 94 of the 2015 Act (or Rule 12(3) of 2007 Rules under the 2000 Act, applicable at the time), and remanded the matter. The JJB then declared the opposite party No. 2 a juvenile based on the corrected date of birth (12.07.1997). Held: The court, citing Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs St. of M.P. ((2012) 9 SCC 750), Abuzar Hossain Vs St. of W.B. ((2012) 10 SCC 489), Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs St. of U.P. ((2022) 8 SCC 602), and Manoj Vs St. of Har. ((2022) 6 SCC 187), upheld the priority of educational records under Rule 12(3)(a) over other evidence like voter lists or medical opinions, unless proven fabricated. The headmistress's correction was credible, and the parivar register's vague entry was insufficient. Sections 35 and 114 of the Evidence Act supported the reliability of school records. The JJB's order, compliant with the appellate remand and Rule 12(3), was lawful.

Revision was dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar, the learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Anurag Verma, the learned AGA-I for the State and Sri Santosh Kumar Tripathi, the learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2.

2. By means of the instant revision filed under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C., the revisionist has challenged validity of an order dated 01.12.2020 passed by the Additional Session Judge/Special Judge POCSO Act, Lucknow in Criminal Appeal No. 251 of 2020 whereby the appeal was allowed, the order dated 09.10.2020 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board in Misc. Case No. 11/2020 arising out of Case Crime No. 2013 of 2015, under Section 302/120B IPC, Police Station Chinhat, Lucknow, was set aside and the matter was remitted to the Juvenile Justice Board to decide the age of the delinquent on the basis of his date of birth mentioned in his educational certificate, unless the same is not believable for any cogent reason, in accordance with the provision contained in Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. The revisionist has also challenged validity of the order dated 22.12.2020 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board in the aforesaid case deciding the claim of juvenility of the accused in furtherance of the remand order dated 01.12.2020 and holding him to be a juvenile.

3. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that the revisionist had filed FIR No. 192/2015 in Police Station Chinhat, Lucknow under Sections 302, 120-B IPC against the respondent no. 2 and his father Awadh Ram, alleging that the opposite party no. 2 is uncle of the revisionist, the revisionist's father had sold away some land for a very meager consideration, due to which the revisionist was annoyed and he came to the complainant's house at about 01:30 p.m. on 18.05.2015 and asked the revisionist's father that the temple's priest was calling him and he took the revisionist's father with him. The revisionist and his brother were also following them and they saw that the opposite party no. 2 assaulted the revisionist's father with a Banka (a sharp edged tool) on his neck. The revisionist alleged that the opposite party no. 2 had killed his father under a conspiracy with the father of the accused.

4. The opposite party no. 2 claimed that he was a juvenile whereas the revisionist opposed this claim. The juvenile justice board decided this issue by means of an order dated 09.10.2020 wherein it is recorded that the headmistress of Primary School Saraisheikh, Chinhat had produced the original admission form, transfer certificate and admission register before the Juvenile Justice Board and had stated that as per the aforesaid documents, the date of birth of the opposite party no. 2 is 07.07.2002. However, the headmistress of the aforesaid school appeared again and stated that the date of birth of the revisionist as entered in the school records is 12.07.1997 and she stated that earlier she had erroneously produced the documents of another student Shahiba Khatoon.

5. The revisionist filed an application for summoning the parivar register of the respondent no. 2. He submitted copies of voter list of Gram Panchayat Saraiksheikh as per which the age of the opposite party no. 2 was 23 years. The revisionist also produced a list of Pradhan Mantri Jan Aryogya beneficiaries which mentioned the age of the opposite party no. 2 to be 26 years.

6. The board allowed the application for summoning of pariwar register and the Gram Panchayat Vikas Adhikari, Gram Panchayat Saraisheikh Block Chinhat Lucknow appeared before the Board and produced pariwar register, in which the date of birth/ age of the revisionist was mentioned as 17 years. However, the said witness stated that he does not know as to when this entry was made in the register.

7. The Juvenile Justice Board took into consideration the discrepancy in the date of birth of the opposite party no. 2 mentioned in various records and found that his date of birth mentioned in the educational documents i.e. 12.09.1997, is not believable and the opposite party no. 2 should be examined by a medical board to ascertain his age.

8. The Medical Board examined the opposite party no. 2 on 16.10.2020 and opined his age to be about 25 years, from which it appears that on the date of the incident, the accused a major.

9. The accused challenged the aforesaid order dated 09.10.2020 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board by filing Criminal Appeal No. 251/2020, which was decided by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/ Special Judge POCSO Act, Lucknow by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 01.12.2020.

10. The appellate court held that the headmistress of the primary school had earlier stated the date of birth of the opposite party no. 2 to be 07.07.2002 but later she clarified that the aforesaid date was mentioned erroneously on the basis of the documents of another student Sahiba Khatoon. She corrected the mistake and said that as per the school records, date of birth of the applicant is 12.07.1997 and the opposite party no. 2 had taken admission to the school on 07.07.2002. The appellate court found the testimony of the headmistress and the documents produced by her to be believable.

11. The appellate court further held that Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 provides that for determination of age of juvenile, the date of birth mentioned in the educational documents will be given priority above other evidences and the Juvenile Justice Board does not have an option to ignore this evidence and to proceed to ascertain the date of birth of the accused on the basis of material which finds place at lower priority in Section 94 of the Act. Accordingly, the appellate court set aside the order dated 09.10.2020 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board and remanded the matter to the Board, for deciding it afresh keeping in view the date of birth of the accused mentioned in his educational documents, unless the same are not believable for any valid reason.

12. In compliance of the aforesaid order dated 01.12.2020, the Juvenile Justice Board passed the impugned order dated 22.12.2020 holding the date of birth of the accused to be 12.07.1997 as mentioned in his educational documents.

13. The learned AGA hs placed reliance on a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Manoj v. State of Haryana: 2022 6 SCC 187.

14. The incident, from which the present case arises, took place on 18.05.2015. The Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 came into force on 15.01.2016 VideS.O. 110(E), dated 12.01.2016. On the date of the incident, Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000was in force and the following provision of the Act are relevant for the present matter: -

(k) "juvenile" or "child" means a person who has not completed eighteenth year of age;

(l) "juvenile in conflict with law" means a juvenile who is alleged to have committed an offence and has not completed eighteenth year of age as on the date of commission of such offence;

7-A. Procedure to be followed when claim of juvenility is raised before any court.—(1) Whenever a claim of juvenility is raised before any court or a court is of the opinion that an accused person was a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence, the court shall make an enquiry, take such evidence as may be necessary (but not an affidavit) so as to determine the age of such person, and shall record a finding whether the person is a juvenile or a child or not, stating his age as nearly as may be:

Provided that a claim of juvenility may be raised before any court and it shall be recognised at any stage, even after final disposal of the case, and such claim shall be determined in terms of the provisions contained in this Act and the rules made thereunder, even if the juvenile has ceased to be so on or before the date of commencement of this Act.

(2) If the court finds a person to be a juvenile on the date of commission of the offence under sub-section (1), it shall forward the juvenile to the Board for passing appropriate order, and the sentence if any, passed by a court shall be deemed to have no effect.

15. From a reading of Section 7A, it becomes obvious is that whenever a claim of juvenility is raised, an inquiry has to be made and such inquiry would take place by receiving evidence which would be necessary, so as to determine the age of such person.

16. The procedure to be followed for the determination of age is provided under Rule 12(3)(b) of the 2007 Rules, which reads as:

"12. Procedure to be followed in determination of age.—(3) In every case concerning a child or juvenile in conflict with law, the age determination inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee by seeking evidence by obtaining—

(a)(i) the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available; and in the absence whereof;

(ii) the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof;

(iii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(b) and only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

while passing orders in such case shall, after taking into consideration such evidence as may be available, or the medical opinion, as the case may be, record a finding in respect of his age and either of the evidence specified in any of the clauses (a)(i), (ii), (iii) or in the absence whereof, clause (b) shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or the juvenile in conflict with law."

17. Sub-clause (3) of the aforesaid Rule clearly mandates that while conducting an inquiry about the juvenility of an accused, the Juvenile Justice Board would seek evidence by obtaining the matriculation or equivalent certificates and in the absence whereof the date of birth certificate from the school first attended and in absence whereof the birth certificate given by a corporation or a Municipal authority or a Panchayat. It is made clear by sub-clause (b) that only in the absence of the aforesaid three documents, medical information would be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. Thus, it is only in the absence of the aforesaid documents that the Juvenile Justice Board can ask for medical information/ossification test.

18. In Ashwani Kumar Saxenav.State of M.P.,(2012) 9 SCC 750, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:—

"32."Age determination inquiry" contemplated under Section 7-A of the Act read with Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules enables the court to seek evidence and in that process, the court can obtain the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available. Only in the absence of any matriculation or equivalent certificates, the court needs to obtain the date of birth certificate from the school first attended other than a play school. Only in the absence of matriculation or equivalent certificate or the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, the court needs to obtain the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat (not an affidavit but certificates or documents). The question of obtaining medical opinion from a duly constituted Medical Board arises only if the abovementioned documents are unavailable. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, then the court, for reasons to be recorded, may, if considered necessary, give the benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his or her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

34.Age determination inquiry contemplated under the JJ Act and the 2007 Rules has nothing to do with an enquiry under other legislations, like entry in service, retirement, promotion, etc. There may be situations where the entry made in the matriculation or equivalent certificates, date of birth certificate from the school first attended and even the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat may not be correct. But court, Juvenile Justice Board or a committee functioning under the JJ Act is not expected to conduct such a roving enquiry and to go behind those certificates to examine the correctness of those documents, kept during the normal course of business. Only in cases where those documents or certificates are found to be fabricated or manipulated, the court, the Juvenile Justice Board or the committee need to go for medical report for age determination.

41.This Court in Babloo Pasiv.State of Jharkhand*(2008) 13 SCC 133held, in a case where the accused had failed to produce evidence/certificate in support of his claim, medical evidence can be called for. The Court held that:*

"22. ... The medical evidence as to the age of a person, though a very useful guiding factor, is not conclusive and has to be considered along with other cogent evidence."

This Court set aside the order of the High Court and remitted the matter to the Chief Judicial Magistrate heading the Board to redetermine the age of the accused."

19. It is also relevant to note of the provisions contained in Sections 35 and 114 of the Evidence Act, which provide as follows:—

"35. Relevancy of entry in public record or an electronic record], made in performance of duty.—An entry in any public or other official book, register or record or an electronic record, stating a fact in issue or relevant fact, and made by a public servant in the discharge of his official duty, or by any other person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by the law of the country in which such book, register or record or an electronic record is kept, is itself a relevant fact.

* * *

114. Court may presume existence of certain facts.—The Court may presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened, regard being had to the common course of natural events, human conduct and public and private business, in their relation to the facts of the particular case.

Illustrations

The Court may presume—

* * *

(e) that judicial and official acts have been regularly performed;

(f) that the common course of business has been followed in particular cases;

But the Court shall also have regard to such facts as the following, in considering whether such maxims do or do not apply to the particular case before it—as to illustration (e)—a judicial act, the regularity of which is in question, was performed under exceptional circumstances;

as to illustration (f)—the question is whether a letter was received. It is shown to have been posted, but the usual course of the post was interrupted by disturbances;

20. Thus the entry made in the School Records of Government Primary School in which the accused has studied, will not only be relevant as per the provision contained in Section 35 of the Evidence Act, it will be presumed to be correct under Section 114 of the Evidence Act. As the date of birth has been certified by the Head Mistress of the primary school in which the accused had studied, which is mentioned in Rule 12 (3) (a) (ii), the Court or the Juvenile Justice Board could not have proceeded to consider the birth certificate given the panchayat or the medical opinion.

21. In Abuzar Hossain v. State of W.B.,(2012) 10 SCC 489, the Hon'ble Supreme Court summarized the legal position in this regard in the following words:—

"39.5.The court where the plea of juvenility is raised for the first time should always be guided by the objectives of the 2000 Act and be alive to the position that the beneficent and salutary provisions contained in the 2000 Act are not defeated by the hypertechnical approach and the persons who are entitled to get benefits of the 2000 Act get such benefits. The courts should not be unnecessarily influenced by any general impression that in schools the parents/guardians understate the age of their wards by one or two years for future benefits or that age determination by medical examination is not very precise. The matter should be considered prima facie on the touchstone of preponderance of probability.

22. Although Rishipal Singh Solankiv.State of U.P.,(2022) 8 SCC 602is a case involving the provisions of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the following general principles of law summarized in that case would serve as guiding principles which would apply to the present case also:—

"33.3.When a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rules 12(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iii) of theJJ Rules, 2007made under theJJ Act, 2000or sub-section (2) of Section94of theJJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

33.4.The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

33.6. It is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

33.7.This Court has observed that a hypertechnical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

33.8.If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

33.9*.That* when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

33.10. Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Evidence Act viz. Section 35 and other provisions.

33.11. Ossification test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section94(2)of theJJ Act, 2015."

23. In Manoj v. State of Haryana: (2022) 6 SCC 187 relied upon by the learned A.G.A., it was held that: -

"41.…the plea of juvenility has to be raised in a bonafide and truthful manner. If the reliance is on a document to seek juvenility which is not reliable or dubious in nature, the appellant cannot be treated to be juvenile keeping in view that the Act is a beneficial legislation. As also held inBabloo Pasi v.State of Jharkhand, (2008) 13 SCC 133, the provisions of the statute are to be interpreted liberally but the benefit cannot be granted to the appellant who has approached the Court with untruthful statement."

24. When we examine the facts of the present case in light of the law laid down in the above mentioned cases, it appears that the Primary School Saraisheikh, Chinhat had produced the original admission form, transfer certificate and admission register before the Juvenile Justice Board and had stated that as per the aforesaid documents, the date of birth of the opposite party no. 2 is 07.07.2002. However, the headmistress of the aforesaid school appeared again and stated that the date of birth of the revisionist as entered in the school records is 12.07.1997 and she stated that earlier she had erroneously produced the documents of another student Shahiba Khatoon.

25. The parivar register mentions the age of the accused as 17 years, without mentioning the date or year in which this entry was made and, therefore, this entry does not prove the age of the accused on the date of the incident.

26. The discrepancy in date of birth mentioned in school records as mentioned in Rule 12 (3) (a) (ii) of the 2007 Rules with the age of the accused as per the Voter List or the List of Pradhan Mantri Jan Aryogya beneficiaries will not invalidate the date of birth, as the later documents do not find place in Rule 12 (3) of the 2007 Rules. The opinion of Medical Board regarding age of the accused could only have been called for in case any documents mentioned in Rule 12 (3) (a) was not available, which is not the case here.

27. The appellate court had held that the headmistress of the primary school had earlier stated the date of birth of the opposite party no. 2 to be 07.07.2002 but later she clarified that the aforesaid date was mentioned erroneously on the basis of the documents of another student Sahiba Khatoon. She corrected the mistake and said that as per the school records, date of birth of the applicant is 12.07.1997 and the opposite party no. 2 had taken admission to the school on 07.07.2002. The appellate court found the testimony of the headmistress and the documents produced by her to be believable. The appellate court had set aside the order dated 09.10.2020 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board and remanded the matter to the Board, for deciding it afresh keeping in view the date of birth of the accused mentioned in his educational documents, unless the same are not believable for any valid reason. This order was not challenged by the revisionist.

28. In compliance of the aforesaid remand order dated 01.12.2020 passed by the appellate Court, the Juvenile Justice Board passed the impugned order dated 22.12.2020 holding the date of birth of the accused to be 12.07.1997 as mentioned in his educational documents, which finding is in accordance with the provisions contained in Rule 12 (3) (a) of the Rules of 2007.

29. Therefore, there is no illegality in the impugned order dated 22.12.2020 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its Revisional Jurisdiction.

30. The revision lacks merits and the same is hereby dismissed.

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Dinesh Kumar Yadav, Sri Atmaram Nadiwal

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:
G.A.

Juvenile Justice – Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 – Section 2(l) – Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 – Rule 12(3) – Age Determination – Revisionist challenged appellate order dated 04.12.2020 setting aside Juvenile Justice Board's order dated 03.04.2015, which declared him juvenile – Held, Juvenile Justice Board correctly relied on High School marksheet (DOB: 24.09.1997) and medical board report (age ~18 years in 2015) to determine revisionist's age as 16 years, 4 months, and 7 days on date of incident (01.02.2014), declaring him juvenile – Rule 12(3) prioritizes matriculation certificate for age determination; only if forged or unavailable can school first attended records or medical opinion be considered – No finding that High School marksheet was forged, rendering appellate court's reliance on primary school records (DOB: 07.02.1995) and revisionist's affidavit in unrelated proceedings erroneous – Parag Bhati Vs St. of U.P. and Meghraj Sharma Vs St. of U.P. followed, emphasizing matriculation certificate's primacy unless proven fabricated – Medical report, consistent with High School marksheet, supports juvenility; benefit of lower age margin (within one year) applies per Rule 12(3)(b) – Appellate court's order set aside, Juvenile Justice Board's order declaring revisionist juvenile affirmed. (Para 19-30)

Criminal revision allowed.

2. None appeared on behalf of respondent No.2.

3. Notice has been served on respondent Nos. 1. Notice has also been served upon respondent No.2, through A.G.A. as well as C.J.M. concerned.

4. The instant Criminal Revision has been preferred by the revisionist/accused against the judgment and order dated 04.12.2020 passed by learned Session

Judge, Maharajganj in Criminal Appeal No.32 of 2019 Smt. Kumari @ Phul Kumari Vs. State of U.P. and another, whereby the order dated 03.04.2015 of Juvenile Justice Board, Maharajganj, District Maharajganj has been set-aside and the application of the revisionist for declaration of his juvenility is rejected. The accused has been declared as major on the date of incident dated 01.02.2014. Ramakant, father of the revisionist is deponent in present revision.

5. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist as well as learned A.G.A. appearing for the State and perused the material available on record.

6. The factual matrix of the case in brief are that First Information Report dated 22.03.2014 was lodged at the instance of mother of the victim against named accused Akhilesh under Section 363, 366 of I.P.C. in Case Crime No.296 of 2014 and after investigation accused has been chargesheeted under Sections 363, 366ka, 376 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act, P.S. Maharajganj with the allegation that accused enticed away his minor daughter aged about 14 years studying in Class IXth, in the night of 01.02.2014 at around 10 PM; both victim and accused belonged to schedule caste. She searched for her daughter for many days, but could not trace her out. Her daughter also took away some ornaments and cash with her. Police submitted chargesheet against the accused under Section 363, 366Ka and 376 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act placing reliance on statement of victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as well as other evidences collected during the investigation.

7. The accused moved an application before the Juvenile Justice Board, Maharajganj, with averment that on the date of alleged incident dated 01.02.2014 he was declared juvenile. As his date of birth is mentioned as 24.09.1997 in his High School Marksheet, the said marksheet has been issued by Janta Uchchatar Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Harpur Pakadi, District Maharajganj. The Juvenile Justice Board placed reliance on date of birth mentioned in the High School Marksheet of the accused which was verified by evidence of the clerk of said school by his sworn testimony before the court. He also produced scholar register of the accused in which his name is mentioned at Serial No.5341, where he received education from class VIth to Xth and his date of birth is mentioned as 24.02.1997 therein. The said clerk also produced High School marksheet, transfer certificate, attendance and fee registers and filed photocopies of the same with his attestation. He was also cross-examined by the counsel for informant in juvenile inquiry proceedings, whereas the stand of the informant was that the accused received his elementary education in Primary School, Harpur Pakadi, Maharajganj, wherein his date of birth is mentioned as 17.02.1995, and to prove that document acting Headmaster Prathmik Vidyalaya, Harpur Pakadi, Sri Manish Kumar was examined as P.W.1. As two different documents were produced with regard to date of birth of the accused, a medical board was constituted on orders of Juvenile Justice Board, wherein the age of accused was ascertained around 18 years in its report dated 25.03.2015.

8. Learned Juvenile Justice Board also observed that on the basis of date of birth mentioned in the High School marksheet of the accused his age comes to 16 years 4 months and 7 days on the date of incident, which has been certified by CW1 and

CW2. The report of Chief Medical Officer dated 25.03.2015 also corroborates the age of the accused which is calculated on the basis of date of birth mentioned in High School marksheet. The Juvenile Justice Board also observed that the age determination report of medical board has been filed after one year of the incident, therefore, in all probability the accused was below 18 years of age on the date of incident and declared him juvenile in conflict of law under Section 2(L) Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 by order dated 03.04.2015.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the age determination report and declaration of the accused as juvenile in conflict of law, the informant filed a Criminal Appeal before Session Judge, Maharajganj which was allowed by impugned order, and the application for declaration of juvenility moved by the revisionist was rejected and accused was declared major.

10. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that the approach of learned appellate court is contrary to settled law, as the date of birth mentioned in High School marksheet of the accused as well as the age determination report of medical board both fairly suggests that accused was below 18 years of age on the date of incident. However, learned appellate court placed reliance on age of the accused as stated by him before this Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.9053 of 2014 (Smt. Radhika and others Vs. State of U.P.), in which he has stated his age as 24 years in affidavit on the basis of his Voter Identity Card as well as his date of birth mentioned in the record of Primary School Harpur Pakadi, Ghivhan as 07.02.1995.

11. He further contended that the impugned order passed by learned court below is not sustainable under law and deserves to be set-aside. He also contended that learned appellate court has failed to consider the provisions of Rule 12(3) of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children), Rules 2007 in which the guidelines for age determination of a juvenile in conflict of law are clearly mentioned. Learned appellate court also placed reliance on the judgment of this Court in Meghraj Sharma vs State Of U.P. And Anr. in Criminal Revision No.3449 of 2019 decided on 14.07.2021, wherein this Court in paragraph No.44 observed as under:-

"44. On the basis of interpretation of law by Apex Court and discussed above, the salient features that can be culled out for determination of age of a juvenile under the 2007 Rules are:

(i) If Matriculation Certificate is available, only the same is to be relied upon for determination of age.

(ii) Matriculation Certificate can be disbelieved only if it is forged or fabricated which has to be adjudicated after enquiry and sufficient evidence to be dealt with in accordance with procedure established to hold a document as forged and fabricated.

(iii) If Matriculation Certificate is not available or in its absence alone can resort be taken to determination on basis of date of birth certificate from school first attended (Rule 3 (a) (ii) of the Rules 2007.)

(iv) If date of birth certificate is not available or is disbelieved if found to be forged and fabricated after the adjudication and considering the evidence and following the procedure for holding the document as forged and fabricated.

(v) Resort can be taken to the birth certificate given by the corporation or a municipal authority.

(vi) If the said birth certificate given by the corporation or a municipal authority is not available or is held to be forged and fabricated and not worthy of reliance after conducting the enquiry on the basis of evidences adduced, resort can be taken to Clause 12 (3) (b) of the Rules 2007."

12. Per contra, learned A.G.A. submitted that there is no infirmity or illegality in the impugned order passed by the learned court below, whereby the accused-revisionist has been declared major and the order passed by Juvenile Justice Board, Maharajganj in regard to his juvenility has been set-aside.

13. He further submitted that the Investigating Officer had not initiated any action to get the accused declared as juvenile by moving appropriate proceedings. The victim was aged about 14 years at relevant time and student of Class IX. The date of birth of the revisionist is mentioned as 07.02.1995 in school records of Primary School, Harpur Pakadi Ghivhan and same has been proved by the informant before Juvenile Justice Board by producing headmaster of said school as court witness at the instance of the first informant who proved this case on the basis of school records and stated that the revisionist studied in his school, where his date of birth is recorded as 07.02.1995. The deponent Ramakant, father of the revisionist appeared as witness before the Juvenile Justice Board and stated that date of birth of his son as 24.09.1997, and in support of this statement he produced High School Marksheet and Transfer Certificate of the revisionist. Inasmuch as in affidavit filed before this court in some other proceedings it is stated by the revisionist in affidavit that he is aged about 22 years. Therefore, the impugned order need no warrant any interference on the basis of his own admission before this Court in other proceedings arising out of said offence and date of birth recorded in school first attended by the revisionist.

14. In chargesheet filed against revisionist for offence under Sections 363,366 and 376 of I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of POCSO Act by the Investigating Officer, his age is mentioned as around 18 years. This chargesheet has been filed on 06.06.2014, whereas the date of offence is mentioned 01.02.2014 in FIR, therefore the chargesheet has been filed after four months of the incident.

15. Learned appellate court has set-aside the order passed by learned Juvenile Justice Board dated 03.04.2015, whereby the revisionist has been declared juvenile on the ground that his date of birth is mentioned as 17.02.1995 in records of school first attended by him and the same has been proved by evidence of the headmaster of the said school, which is a Government Primary School.

16. The accused has also stated his age about 24 years in a Writ Petition filed in the year 2014. Therefore, the date of birth mentioned in High School marksheet of the 2012 becomes perfectly doubtful, and learned appellate court has declared the accused as major on the date of offence i.e. 01.02.2014, and sent back the record to the Juvenile Justice Board for necessary action.

17. Learned appellate court has placed reliance upon a judgment of the Apex Court in Parag Bhati (Juvenile) Through Legal Guardian-Mother Smt. Rajni Bhati Vs. State of U.P. and another (2016) 12 SCC 744, the Hon'ble Apex Court decided an appeal directed against the final judgment and order passed by the leaned Single Judge of this Court, whereby the revision filed by the appellant claimed to be juvenile against the judgments of Juvenile Justice Board and Additional Sessions Judge, Meerut rejecting his claim of juvenility. The accused was charged for the offence under Sections 302, 394, 504 and 506 of IPC, he was arrested and produced before the Juvenile Court and was remanded and kept in juvenile home. The Juvenile Justice Board after considering the evidence on record came to the conclusion that the date of birth as recorded in various schools certificate submitted by the father of the accused-appellant on his behalf, is doubtful and the juvenile was referred to the Medical Board for determination of his age. The Chief Medical Officer, Meerut on 23.08.2011 opined that the age of the appellant-accused is about 19 years.

18. The chargesheet in above case was filed before The Juvenile Justice Board, Meerut. The Board placing reliance on the opinion of the Medical Board, vide order dated 07.09.2011 held that appellant-accused is major and accordingly transferred the case before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gautam Buddha Nagar. Aggrieved by the order dated 07.09.2011 the appellant-accused preferred an appeal before the court of District and Sessions Judge, Meerut. Learned Additional Session Judge, Meerut dismissed that appeal filed by the appellant-accused vide order dated 04.10.2011. Being aggrieved by the orders dated 07.09.2011 and 04.10.2011 passed by the court below the appellant-accused preferred revision before the High Court, however, the same was dismissed vide order dated 24.05.2013, which was under challenged before the Apex Court.

19. The point for determination before the Apex Court was whether on the facts and circumstances of the present case when the date of birth mentioned in the Matriculation Certificate is doubtful, the ossification test can be the last resort of proof of juvenility of the accused. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Parag Bhati Vs. State of U.P. and another (Supra) discussed the statutory provisions of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, (2000) and Rule 12 of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, (2007) and some case laws such as Ashwani Kumar Saxena Vs. State of M.P. (2012) 9 SCC 750, Hari Ram Vs. State of Rajasthan and another (2009) 13 SCC 211, Om Prakash Vs. State of Rajasthan and another (2012) 5 SC 201 and Abuzar Hossain alias Gulab Hossain Vs. State of West Bengal (2012) 10 SCC 489 and held as under:-

"24. While considering a similar question, this Court in Ashwani Kumar (supra) held as under:-

"32. "Age determination inquiry" contemplated under Section 7-A of the Act read with Rule 12 of the 2007 Rules enables the court to seek evidence and in that process, the court can obtain the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available. Only in the absence of any matriculation or equivalent certificates, the court needs to obtain the date of birth certificate from the school first attended other than a play school. Only in the absence of matriculation or equivalent certificate or the date of birth certificate from the school first attended, the court needs to obtain the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat (not an affidavit but certificates or documents). The question of obtaining medical opinion from a duly constituted Medical Board arises only if the abovementioned documents are unavailable. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, then the court, for reasons to be recorded, may, if considered necessary, give the benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his or her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

33. Once the court, following the above mentioned procedures, passes an order, that order shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or juvenile in conflict with law. It has been made clear in sub-rule (5) of Rule 12 that no further inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board after examining and obtaining the certificate or any other documentary proof after referring to sub-rule (3) of Rule 12. Further, Section 49 of the JJ Act also draws a presumption of the age of the juvenility on its determination.

34. Age determination inquiry contemplated under the JJ Act and the 2007 Rules has nothing to do with an enquiry under other legislations, like entry in service, retirement, promotion, etc. There may be situations where the entry made in the matriculation or equivalent certificates, date of birth certificate from the school first attended and even the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat may not be correct. But court, Juvenile Justice Board or a committee functioning under the JJ Act is not expected to conduct such a roving enquiry and to go behind those certificates to examine the correctness of those documents, kept during the normal course of business. Only in cases where those documents or certificates are found to be fabricated or manipulated, the court, the Juvenile Justice Board or the committee need to go for medical report for age determination.

25) In Abuzar Hossain (supra), wherein a three-Judge Bench of this Court has already summarized the position regarding what materials would prima facie satisfy the court and/or are sufficient for discharging the initial burden cannot be catalogued nor can it be laid down as to what weight should be given to a specific piece of evidence which may be sufficient to raise presumption of juvenility but the documents referred to in Rules 12(3)(a)(i) to (iii) shall definitely be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court about the age of the delinquent necessitating further enquiry under Rule 12. The credibility and/or acceptability of the documents would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no hard-and-fast rule can be prescribed that they must be prima facie accepted or rejected and if such documents prima facie inspire confidence of the court, the court may act upon such documents for the purposes of Section 7-A and order an enquiry for determination of the age of the appellant.

26) It is no doubt true that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence at least prima facie proves the same, he would be entitled to the special protection under the JJ Act. But when an accused commits a grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether an accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted as the courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of protecting the confidence of common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice.

27) The benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation attached to the JJ Act would thus apply to only such cases wherein the accused is held to be a juvenile on the basis of at least prima facie evidence regarding his minority as the benefit of the possibilities of two views in regard to the age of the alleged accused who is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed and gave effect to it in a well-planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind rather than innocence indicating that his plea of juvenility is more in the nature of a shield to dodge or dupe the arms of law, cannot be allowed to come to his rescue.

28) It is settled position of law that if the matriculation or equivalent certificates are available and there is no other material to prove the correctness, the date of birth mentioned in the matriculation certificate has to be treated as a conclusive proof of the date of birth of the accused. However, if there is any doubt or a contradictory stand is being taken by the accused which raises a doubt on the correctness of the date of birth then as laid down by this Court in Abuzar Hossain (supra), an enquiry for determination of the age of the accused is permissible which has been done in the present case.

29) In view of the foregoing discussion, we do not find any illegality in the orders passed by the Board and the Court of Sessions and also of the High Court which requires our interference."

20. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajendra Chand Vs. State of Chattisgarh and others (2002) 2 SCC 287 held that while dealing with question of determination of the age of the accused for the purpose of finding out whether he is a juvenile or not, a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted while appreciating the evidence adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile and if two views may be possible on the said evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases.

21. As the matter relates to the year 2014, Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 will be applicable in the case. Model Central Rules i.e. Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007. Rule 12(3) of Rules 2007 reads as under:-

"In every case concerning a child or juvenile in conflict with law, the age determination inquiry shall be conducted by the court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee by seeking evidence by obtaining

(a) (i) the matriculation or equivalent certificates, if available; and in the absence whereof;

(ii) the date of birth certificate from the school (other than a play school) first attended; and in the absence whereof;

(iii) the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

(b) and only in the absence of either (i), (ii) or (iii) of clause (a) above, the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. In case exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the Committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year.

and, while passing orders in such case shall, after taking into consideration such evidence as may be available, or the medical opinion, as the case may be, record a finding in respect of his age and either of the evidence specified in any of the clauses (a)(i), (ii), (iii) or in the absence whereof, clause (b) shall be the conclusive proof of the age as regards such child or Ihe juvenile in conflict with law."

22. In present case there is variation in date of births of the accused/appellant mentioned in school records of Janta Uchchatar Madhyamik Vidyalaya, Harpur Pakdi,District Maharajganj, from where he passed his High School examination in the year 2012 as well as Basic Primary School, Harpur Pakadi Ghivhan where he received primary education. In former his date of birth is mentioned as 24.09.1997, on which reliance has been placed on Juvenile Justice Board, wherein latter is date of birth is mentioned as 07.02.1995, whereon reliance has been placed on by appellate court. However, the parties have not specifically taken stand that the date of birth mentioned in school record relied by other side is fake or forged. The simple issue in this case is that two date of births are mentioned in regard to the revisionist who has claimed to be juvenile on the date of alleged offence. In his two school records, the school from which he passed High School examination as well as the school which is said to be first attended by him. The date of birth mentioned in both the schools although different, yet is proved by evidence of officials of respective schools by producing the relevant records in this regard.

23. In this context the provisions of Rule 12(3) of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 become relevant, which provides that if Matriculation Certificate is available, only the same is to be relied upon for determination of age concerning the child juvenile.

24. This Court in Meghraj Sharma vs State Of U.P. And Anr. (supra) held that Matriculation Certificate can be disbelieved only if it is forged or fabricated which has to be adjudicated after enquiry and sufficient evidence to be dealt with in accordance with procedure established to hold a document as forged and fabricated. If Matriculation Certificate is not available or in its absence alone can resort be taken to determine the age on basis of date of birth certificate from school first attended and in absence of the documents mentioned in Clause (a) of Rule 3 of the Rules 2007, only the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted medical board, which would declare the age of juvenile a child.

25. In the case in hand, according to date of birth mentioned in High School examination record of the revisionist his age was calculated by Juvenile Justice Board as 16 years 4 months and 7 days on the date of alleged offence i.e. 24.09.1997. Whereas on the basis of date of birth mentioned in primary school records of the revisionist, which is 17.02.1995, the appellate court has held that he was more than 18 years of age, and on the basis of said documents as well as his own admission made before the High Court in writ petition has held him major on the date of offence.

26. The learned appellate court has lost sight of the fact that admission of a person claiming himself to be juvenile before any judicial proceedings or collateral proceedings arising out of same offence is not illustrated, as a ground for determination of age of a person claiming himself to be a juvenile neither under the Act of 2000 nor Model Central Rules framed in the year 2007. In absence of any finding of court's below that the date of birth mentioned in High School record of the revisionist are forged, his date of birth recorded in school first attended cannot be resorted to for determination of the age of the revisionist. Inasmuch as, the medical determination of age of the revisionist, learned Chief Medical Officer has opined in his report dated 25.03.2015 that he was around 18 years of age on the basis of physical appearance as well as the ossification test conducted by radiologist.

27. Thus, according to medical age determination report, which has been filed after one year of the incident, the revisionist should be held to be juvenile and below the age of 18 years. In Rule 12(3) of Rules 2007, it is provided that in absence of the documents mentioned in Clause (a) of Medical Board will declare the age of juvenile a child. In case of exact assessment of the age it cannot be done, the Court or the Board or, as the case may be, the committee, for the reasons to be recorded by them, may, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year. Thus, according to this sub-rule, the age of the revisionist can be held as around 17 years, on the date of alleged incident which is in consonance with his date of birth recorded in his High School Examination Marksheet.

28. There is consistency and conformity between the age determination report of the revisionist issued by the Chief Medical Officer and his date of birth is mentioned in his High School records and both of these strongly suggests towards juvenility of the revisionist on the date of alleged incident. According to the above rules, the date of birth of the revisionist mentioned in his High School records will have privacy over his date of birth mentioned in records of school of first attended.

29. On the basis of foregoing discussions, this Court is of the considered opinion that the approach of Juvenile Justice Board while declaring the revisionist as juvenile on the basis of his medical age determination report as well as his date of birth mentioned in High School records of the school concerned is in conformity with the law laid down under statutory Rules of 2007, as well as various judicial pronouncements cited and discussed as above.

30. Learned appellate court has committed legal error while setting-aside the finding and order of Juvenile Justice Board dated 03.04.2015, declaring the revisionist as major on the basis of his date of birth mentioned in the records of school first attended as well as his admission in affidavit filed before this Court in support of Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.9053 of 2014 (Smt. Radhika and others Vs. State of U.P.).

31. Consequently, the impugned judgment and order passed by learned Session Judge is set-aside and the order dated 01.02.2014 passed by Juvenile Justice Board declaring the revisionist as juvenile is affirmed. Revision stands allowed, accordingly.

32. Let the copy of this judgment be certified to Juvenile Justice Board concerned to proceed with the matter accordingly.

10. Asmathunnisa Vs St. of A.P., (2011) 11 SCC 259

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Santosh Srivastava Advocate, the learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Anant Pratap Singh, the learned Additional Government Advocate and Ms. Neetu Shukla, the learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant revision filed under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. the revisionist has assailed the validity of the order dated 01.02.2022 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-1, Lucknow in Sessions Trial No.2567 of 2022 arising out of Case Crime No.79 of 2018 under Section 306 IPC, Police Station Gazipur, Lucknow whereby the application for discharge of the revisionist has been rejected.

3. The aforesaid case has been initiated on the basis of an FIR lodged by opposite party No.2 on 05.02.2018 against the applicant and her sister, stating that the complainant's son was in a relationship with the revisionist. Negotiations for settlement of the marriage of complainant's son with some other girl were going on and upon coming to know about it, the accused persons threatened to defame him in the society, to stop his marriage and to entangle him in a rape case, due to which the complainant's son committed suicide by hanging himself inside his room at 09:30 PM on 30.01.2018.

4. The deceased has left a suicide note stating that the revisionist was responsible for putting the deceased in agony; that he too could have defamed the revisionist, but he would not do so; that the revisionist had compelled him to commit suicide and that the deceased too had some intimate pictures but that would not be seen by any other person. The deceased had recorded a video massage prior to committing suicide wherein he categorically stated that the revisionist alone was responsible for his death and she had ruined his life. She had done extremely bad things against him and had insulted him beyond limits. He too could have defamed the revisionist but he refrained from doing so.

5. A charge-sheet for commission of offence under Section 306 IPC was submitted against the revisionist alone and her sister was exonerated by the investigating officer.

6. The revisionist filed an application for her discharge stating that the deceased and the revisionist were descendents of a common ancestor and they were related as brother and sister and they resided in same village. The deceased was infatuated to the revisionist. On 30.01.2018, he had made a telephone call to the revisionist and had asked about her final decision regarding the marriage. She declined to marry him and thereafter he committed suicide. It was also stated in the application seeking discharge that the deceased was an ambitious person, he was not satisfied with his job, he was disturbed for numerous reasons and he was suffering from depression, due to which he had become habitual of consuming alcohol and sleeping pills. The discharge application further stated that no expert hand-writing opinion has been obtained regarding the suicide note.

7. The trial court rejected the application for discharge by recording that the investigating officer has mentioned in the case diary that from an examination of the Whatsapp Chat in the mobile phone of the deceased, it transpired that the revisionist used to abuse the deceased. Some independent witnesses have stated that she had asked the deceased to commit suicide. From the aforesaid material a prima facie case of trial of the revisionist is made out. Correctness of the allegations can only be ascertained after conclusion of the trial. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case, no case for discharge of the revisionist without her trial is made out.

8. The learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the allegations leveled in the FIR and the material collected during investigation merely indicate that the deceased and the victim were in some kind of relationship and the deceased committed suicide after the revisionist declined to marry him. He has submitted that there is absolutely no evidence to even prima facie establish that the revisionist had incited or abetted the deceased to commit suicide. He has placed reliance on the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Naresh Kumar vs State of Haryana : Criminal Appeal No.1722 of 2010 decided on 22.02.2024, wherein it has been held that: -

"in order to convict a person Under Section 306 of the Indian Penal Code there has to be a clear mens rea to commit the offence. Mere harassment is not sufficient to hold an Accused guilty of abetting the commission of suicide. It also requires an active act or direct act which led the deceased to commit suicide. The ingredient of mens rea cannot be assumed to be ostensibly present but has to be visible and conspicuous."

9. The learned Counsel for the revisionist has also placed reliance on a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kumar @ Shiva Kumar versus State of Karnataka : Criminal Appeal No.1427 of 2011 decided on 01.03.2024, in which it has been held that: -

"31. In India attempt to commit suicide is an offence under Section 309 IPC. This section provides that whoever attempts to commit suicide and does any act towards the commission of such offence, he shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year or with fine or with both. But once the suicide is carried out i.e., the offence is complete, then obviously such a person would be beyond the reach of the law; question of penalising him would not arise. In such a case, whoever abets the commission of such suicide would be penalised under Section 306 IPC. Section 306 IPC reads as under:

306. Abetment of suicide- if any person commits suicide, whoever abets the commission of such suicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.

31.1. Thus, as per Section 306 of IPC, if any person commits suicide, then whoever abets the commission of such suicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine.

32. The crucial word in Section 306 of IPC is 'abets'. 'Abetment' is defined in Section 107 of IPC. Section 107 of IPC reads thus:

107. Abetment of a thing- A person abets the doing of a thing, whoFirst-Instigates any person to do that thing; or

Secondly-Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or Thirdly- Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1.- A person who, by wilful misrepresentation, or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing.

Explanation 2.- Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does 30 anything in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act.

32.1. From a reading of Section 107 IPC what is deducible is that a person would be abetting the doing of a thing if he instigates any person to do that thing or if he encourages with one or more person or persons in any conspiracy for doing that thing or if he intentionally aids by any act or illegal omission doing of that thing. Explanation 1 clarifies that even if a person by way of wilful misrepresentation or concealment of a material fact which he is otherwise bound to disclose voluntarily causes or procures or attempts to cause or procure a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing. Similarly, it is clarified by way of Explanation-2 that whoever does anything in order to facilitate the commission of an act, either prior to or at the time of commission of the act, is said to aid the doing of that act.

47. Human mind is an enigma. It is well neigh impossible to unravel the mystery of the human mind. There can be myriad reasons for a man or a woman to commit or attempt to commit 43 suicide: it may be a case of failure to achieve academic excellence, oppressive environment in college or hostel, particularly for students belonging to the marginalized sections, joblessness, financial difficulties, disappointment in love or marriage, acute or chronic ailments, depression, so on and so forth. Therefore, it may not always be the case that someone has to abet commission of suicide. Circumstances surrounding the deceased in which he finds himself are relevant.

10. Both the aforesaid judgments relied upon by the learned Counsel for the revisionist were passed in Criminal Appeals filed against orders passed by the High Courts affirming the conviction of the accused after a full fledged trial by the High Court and none of those considered the scope of interference at the stage of discharge of an accused without trial. As the impugned order has been passed under Section 227 Cr.P.C., it will be appropriate to have a look at the aforesaid provision before proceeding further. The aforesaid provision reads as follows: -

"227. Discharge.—If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing."

11. In Stree Atyachar Virodhi Parishad v. Dilip Nathumal Chordia, (1989) 1 SCC 715, the Hon'ble Court while examining the scope of Section 227 held as under: -

"14. ... Section 227 itself contains enough guidelines as to the scope of inquiry for the purpose of discharging an accused. It provides that "the Judge shall discharge when he considers that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused". The "ground" in the context is not a ground for conviction, but a ground for putting the accused on trial. It is in the trial, the guilt or the innocence of the accused will be determined and not at the time of framing of charge. The court, therefore, need not undertake an elaborate inquiry in sifting and weighing the material. Nor is it necessary to delve deep into various aspects. All that the court has to consider is whether the evidentiary material on record, if generally accepted, would reasonably connect the accused with the crime.'

12. In Rajbir Singh v. State of U.P., (2006) 4 SCC 51 it was held that in accordance with Section 227, the High Court must ascertain whether there is "sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused" or there is ground for "presuming" that the offence has been committed.

13. In Chitresh Kumar Chopra v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2009) 16 SCC 605, wherein it was held that: -

"25. It is trite that at the stage of framing of charge, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to finding out if the facts emerging therefrom, taken at their face value, disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence or offences. For this limited purpose, the court may sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at the initial stage to accept as gospel truth all that the prosecution states. At this stage, the court has to consider the material only with a view to find out if there is ground for "presuming" that the accused has committed an offence and not for the purpose of arriving at the conclusion that it is not likely to lead to a conviction."

14. The difference between the approach with which the Court should examine the matter in while considering an application for discharge under Section 227 Cr. P.C. and while framing charge under Section 228 of the Code has been explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Amit Kapoor v. Ramesh Chander, (2012) 9 SCC 460, in the following words:—

"17. Framing of a charge is an exercise of jurisdiction by the trial court in terms of Section 228 of the Code, unless the accused is discharged under Section 227 of the Code. Under both these provisions, the court is required to consider the "record of the case" and documents submitted therewith and, after hearing the parties, may either discharge the accused or where it appears to the court and in its opinion there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence, it shall frame the charge. Once the facts and ingredients of the Section exists, then the court would be right in presuming that there is ground to proceed against the accused and frame the charge accordingly. This presumption is not a presumption of law as such. The satisfaction of the court in relation to the existence of constituents of an offence and the facts leading to that offence is a sine qua non for exercise of such jurisdiction. It may even be weaker than a prima facie case. There is a fine distinction between the language of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code. Section 227 is the expression of a definite opinion and judgment of the Court while Section 228 is tentative. Thus, to say that at the stage of framing of charge, the Court should form an opinion that the accused is certainly guilty of committing an offence, is an approach which is impermissible in terms of Section 228 of the Code.

30. We have already noticed that the legislature in its wisdom has used the expression "there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence". This has an inbuilt element of presumption once the ingredients of an offence with reference to the allegations made are satisfied, the Court would not doubt the case of the prosecution unduly and extend its jurisdiction to quash the charge in haste. A Bench of this Court in State of Maharashtra v. Som Nath Thapa (1996) 4 SCC 659 referred to the meaning of the word "presume" while relying upon Black's Law Dictionary. It was defined to mean "to believe or accept upon probable evidence"; "to take as proved until evidence to the contrary is forthcoming". In other words, the truth of the matter has to come out when the prosecution evidence is led, the witnesses are cross-examined by the defence, the incriminating material and evidence is put to the accused in terms of Section 313 of the Code and then the accused is provided an opportunity to lead defence, if any. It is only upon completion of such steps that the trial concludes with the court forming its final opinion and delivering its judgment. Merely because there was a civil transaction between the parties would not by itself alter the status of the allegations constituting the criminal offence."

15. Thus the law regarding the approach to be adopted by the court while considering an application for discharge of the accused persons under Section 227 and approach while framing charges under Section 228 of the Code, is that while considering an application for discharge of the accused under Section 227 of the Code, the Court has to form a definite opinion, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. However, while framing charges, the Court is not required to form a definite opinion that the accused is guilty of committing an offence. The truth of the matter will come out when evidence is led during the trial. Once the facts and ingredients of the Section exist, the court would presume that there is ground to proceed against the accused and frame the charge accordingly and the Court would not doubt the case of the prosecution.

16. The learned A.G.A. has relied upon the judgment in the case of State of M.P. v. Deepak, (2019) 13 SCC 62, which was passed in an appeal against a judgment of the Madhya Pradesh High Court, discharging the respondent from charges framed by the trial Court under Section 306 IPC and Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. The victim had consumed poison at her residence, she was immediately moved to the District Hospital for treatment, where her dying declaration was recorded. The relevant part of the dying declaration is extracted below:

"Question : What has happened to you?

Answer : I have consumed poison.

Question : Why you have consumed poison?

Answer : I am not able to get the job, wherever I go, Deepak Bhamawat R/o Jeeran, gets me sacked out from the job. Earlier he had molested me, on which, I had instituted a case against him, since then, he is harassing me.

Question : Whether you want to say anything else?

Answer : No."

17. While setting aside the order of the High Court discharging the accused, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"10. The High Court did not at all apply the relevant test, namely, whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused or whether there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence. If the answer is in the affirmative an order of discharge cannot be passed and the accused has to face the trial. The High Court after merely observing that 'as the firing was aimed at the other persons and accidentally the deceased Pooja Balmiki was passing through that way and she was hit' and further observing that 'the applicant neither intended to kill the deceased nor was she aimed at because of the reason that she was a Scheduled Caste' set aside the order by which the charges had been framed against Respondent 2. There can be no manner of doubt that the provisions of Section 301 IPC have been completely ignored and the relevant criteria for judging the validity of the order passed by the learned Special Judge directing framing of charges have not been applied. The impugned order is, therefore, clearly erroneous in law and is liable to be set aside."

18. In State of M.P. v. Deepak (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the well established principle of law that: -

"16. It was also noted that at the stage of framing of charges, the Court has to consider the material only with a view to find out if there is a ground for "presuming" that the accused had committed the offence"

19. When we examine the facts of the present case in light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above mentioned cases, it appears that the categorical assertions made by the deceased in his suicide note and in the video message recorded by him immediately before committing suicide, which have been referred to above, a case for trial of the applicant for the offence under Section 306 I.P.C. is made out, as there is no ground for presuming that she has not committed the offence.

20. There is no error in the impugned order which may call for interference by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction.

21. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the revision is dismissed at the admission stage.

1. Heard Shri Ambika Prasad Mishra, learned counsel for the applicant and Shri Abhishek Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the State.

2. By means of this instant revision filed under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. the revisionist has challenged the validity of the order dated 21.12.2023 passed by the Special Judge, POCSO Act/Additional District and Session Judge, Lucknow in Criminal Misc. Case No.1268 of 2023 whereby an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. filed by the revisionist has been rejected. In the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., the revisionist had alleged that younger brother of opposite party No.6 was having a love affair with a girl. However, marriage of that girl was settled with some other person, due to which the younger brother of opposite party No.6 had committed suicide in the month of June' 2023. An FIR was lodged in this regard on 01.07.2023 against the complainant's son Anil Kumar Kanojia. On 03.07.2023, the opposite party Nos.6, 7 & 8 entered the revisionist's house at about 04:30 PM, her 15 years old daughter was alone in the house, the aforesaid persons started searching for the revisionist's son Anil Kumar Kanojia and when her daughter objected against it, the opposite party No.6 molested and raped her and the opposite party Nos.7 & 8 had beaten her and had bitten on her cheeks. A complaint in this regard was given to the police on 03.07.2023 itself and thereafter complaint were sent to various authorities through registered post on 30.08.2023.

3. The trial court took into consideration the facts averred in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and noted that although the revisionist has alleged that she had given information of the incident at the police station on 03.07.2023 but information was given to the police Commissioner through registered post only on 30.08.2023. On 01.07.2023, a case was lodged against the complainant's son for abetting the brother of opposite party Nos.6, 7 & 8 to commit suicide. The allegation of commission of rape merely two days thereafter appears to be wholly unnatural. There are no witnesses of the alleged incident. There is no medico-legal examination report to support the allegation. Relying upon the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Priyanka Srivastava Versus State of U.P.: 2015 (6) SCC 287, the trial Court rejected the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C.

4. While challenging the validity of the order rejecting the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., the learned counsel for the revisionist has placed reliance upon a Constitution Bench judgment in the case of Lalita Kumari Vs. Government of Uttar Pradesh: (2014) 2 SCC Page 1, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held that :-

" Conclusion/Directions

120. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we hold:

120.1. The registration of FIR is mandatory under Section 154 of the Code, if the information discloses commission of a cognizable offence and no preliminary inquiry is permissible in such a situation.

120.2. If the information received does not disclose a cognizable offence but indicates the necessity for an inquiry, a preliminary inquiry may be conducted only to ascertain whether cognizable offence is disclosed or not.

120.3. If the inquiry discloses the commission of a cognizable offence, the FIR must be registered. In cases where preliminary inquiry ends in closing the complaint, a copy of the entry of such closure must be supplied to the first informant forthwith and not later than one week. It must disclose reasons in brief for closing the complaint and not proceeding further.

120.4. The police officer cannot avoid his duty of registering offence if cognizable offence is disclosed. Action must be taken against erring officers who do not register the FIR if information received by him discloses a cognizable offence.

120.5. The scope of preliminary inquiry is not to verify the veracity or otherwise of the information received but only to ascertain whether the information reveals any cognizable offence.

120.6. As to what type and in which cases preliminary inquiry is to be conducted will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The category of cases in which preliminary inquiry may be made are as under:

(a) Matrimonial disputes/family disputes

(b) Commercial offences

(c) Medical negligence cases

(d) Corruption cases

(e) Cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, for example, over 3 months' delay in reporting the matter without satisfactorily explaining the reasons for delay.

The aforesaid are only illustrations and not exhaustive of all conditions which may warrant preliminary inquiry.

120.7. While ensuring and protecting the rights of the accused and the complainant, a preliminary inquiry should be made time-bound and in any case it should not exceed 7 days. The fact of such delay and the causes of it must be reflected in the General Diary entry.

120.8. Since the General Diary/Station Diary/Daily Diary is the record of gall information received in a police station, we direct that all information relating to cognizable offences, whether resulting in registration of FIR or leading to an inquiry, must be mandatorily and meticulously reflected in the said diary and the decision to conduct a preliminary inquiry must also be reflected, as mentioned above."

5. However, the judgment in Lalita Kumari (Supra) was considered and explained in a later decision in Priyanka Srivastava (Supra), and the relevant passage of the judgment is being reproduced below: -

"26. At this stage, we may usefully refer to what the Constitution Bench has to say in Lalita Kumari v. State of U.P. in this regard. The larger Bench had posed the following two questions:

"(i) Whether the immediate non-registration of FIR leads to scope for manipulation by the police which affects the right of the victim/complainant to have a complaint immediately investigated upon allegations being made; and

(ii) Whether in cases where the complaint/information does not clearly disclose the commission of a cognizable offence but the FIR is compulsorily registered then does it infringe the rights of an accused."

Answering the questions posed, the larger Bench opined thus:

"49. Consequently, the condition that is sine qua non for recording an FIR under Section 154 of the Code is that there must be information and that information must disclose a cognizable offence. If any information disclosing a cognizable offence is led before an officer in charge of the police station satisfying the requirement of Section 154(1), the said police officer has no other option except to enter the substance thereof in the prescribed form, that is to say, to register a case on the basis of such information. The provision of Section 154 of the Code is mandatory and the officer concerned is duty-bound to register the case on the basis of information disclosing a cognizable offence. Thus, the plain words of Section 154(1) of the Code have to be given their literal meaning.

72. It is thus unequivocally clear that registration of FIR is mandatory and also that it is to be recorded in the FIR book by giving a unique annual number to each FIR to enable strict tracking of each and every registered FIR by the superior police officers as well as by the competent court to which copies of each FIR are required to be sent.

111. ... the Code gives power to the police to close a matter both before and after investigation. A police officer can foreclose an FIR before an investigation under Section 157 of the Code, if it appears to him that there is no sufficient ground to investigate the same. The section itself states that a police officer can start investigation when he has 'reason to suspect the commission of an offence'. Therefore, the requirements of launching an investigation under Section 157 of the Code are higher than the requirement under Section 154 of the Code. The police officer can also, in a given case, investigate the matter and then file a final report under Section 173 of the Code seeking closure of the matter. Therefore, the police is not liable to launch an investigation in every FIR which is mandatorily registered on receiving information relating to commission of a cognizable offence.

***

115. Although, we, in unequivocal terms, hold that Section 154 of the Code postulates the mandatory registration of FIRs on receipt of all cognizable offences, yet, there may be instances where preliminary inquiry may be required owing to the change in genesis and novelty of crimes with the passage of time. One such instance is in the case of allegations relating to medical negligence on the part of doctors. It will be unfair and inequitable to prosecute a medical professional only on the basis of the allegations in the complaint."

emphasis in original)

After so stating the Constitution Bench proceeded to state that where a preliminary enquiry is necessary, it is not for the purpose for verification or otherwise of the information received but only to ascertain whether the information reveals any cognizable offence. After laying down so, the larger Bench proceeded to state:

"120.6. As to what type and in which cases preliminary inquiry is to be conducted will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The category of cases in which preliminary inquiry may be made are as under:

(a) Matrimonial disputes/family disputes

(b) Commercial offences

(c) Medical negligence cases

(d) Corruption cases

(e) Cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, for example, over 3 months' delay in reporting the matter without satisfactorily explaining the reasons for delay.

The aforesaid are only illustrations and not exhaustive of all conditions which may warrant preliminary inquiry.

120.7. While ensuring and protecting the rights of the accused and the complainant, a preliminary inquiry should be made time-bound and in any case it should not exceed 7 days. The fact of such delay and the causes of it must be reflected in the general diary entry."

We have referred to the aforesaid pronouncement for the purpose that in certain circumstances the police is also required to hold a preliminary enquiry whether any cognizable offence is made out or not."

6. After considering the dictum laid down in Lalita Kumari (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held in Priyanka Srivastava (Supra) that: -

"27. Regard being had to the aforesaid enunciation of law, it needs to be reiterated that the learned Magistrate has to remain vigilant with regard to the allegations made and the nature of allegations and not to issue directions without proper application of mind. He has also to bear in mind that sending the matter would be conducive to justice and then he may pass the requisite order.

* * *

7. When we examine the facts of the present case in light of the law laid down in Priyanka Srivastava (Supra), it appears that the revisionist had alleged in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C., that Amit Kumar Kanaujia, a younger brother of opposite party No.6, was having a love affair with a girl named Manisha. However, marriage of that girl was settled with some other person, due to which reason Amit Kumar Kanaujia had committed suicide and an FIR was lodged in this regard on 01.07.2023 against the complainant's son Anil Kumar Kanojia. On 03.07.2023, the opposite party Nos.6, 7 & 8 entered the revisionist's house at about 04:30 p.m., her 15 years old daughter was alone in the house, the aforesaid persons started searching for the revisionist's son Anil Kumar Kanojia and when her daughter objected against it, the opposite party No.6 molested her and raped her by putting a finger in her vagina and threatened to tear away her vagina and the opposite party Nos.7 & 8 had beaten her and had bitten on her cheeks. It is alleged in the application that a complaint in this regard was given to the police on 03.07.2023, regarding which there is no documentary proof and the complaint to various authorities was sent through registered post only on 30.08.2023, i.e. about two months after the alleged incident.

8. The trial Court has considered the facts stated in the complaint in a judicial manner and has come to a conclusion that it is wholly unnatural that the persons, whose brother had committed suicide merely two days ago, will go to the accused house and commit a sexual offence. There are no witnesses of the alleged incident. There is no medical examination report to support the allegation. There are no witnesses of the incident. In these circumstances, the Magistrate has rightly come to a conclusion that it appears that the complainant has been lodged in order to put pressure on the applicants in the case under Section 306 I.P.C. lodged against the complainant's son by using her minor daughter as a victim in an attempt to protect the complainant's son.

9. There appears to be no illegality in the aforesaid well reasoned order dated 21.12.2013 passed by the Special Judge warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction.

10. The revision lack merit and the same is hereby dismissed at the admission stage.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504 & 409 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 227, 239 & 240 - Revisionist challenged dismissal of discharge application by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate in Criminal Case No. 5289 of 2017 for alleged financial irregularities, forgery, and criminal breach of trust as Head Master of a school. Court held: (1) Allegations of tampering, trespass, abuse, and misplacement of documents lacked specificity; no particular forged document or misappropriated property identified. (2) Signing attendance register during suspension was misconduct, not an offence under IPC. (3) Magistrate's order dismissing discharge application lacked reasoned analysis, failing to address grounds raised or specify material evidence supporting charges, violating principles under Section 239 Cr.P.C. (4) Right to seek discharge is valuable; trial court must provide reasoned order (St. By S.P. Through SPE CBI Vs Uttamchand Bohra, (2021) Criminal Appeal No. 1590; Central Bureau of Investigation Vs K. Narayana Rao, (2012) 9 SCC 512). Revision allowed; impugned order set aside; matter remanded to Magistrate for fresh consideration of discharge application with reasoned order. (Paras 7-8, 15-17)
Revision Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionist, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 as well as learned AGA for the state and perused the material placed on record.

2. By means of instant criminal revision, the accused-revisionist has assailed impugned order dated 12.11.2022, passed by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Second, Gorakhpur, in Criminal Case No.5289 of 2017 (State vs. Brijendra Swaroop Jaiswal), under Section 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504, 409 IPC, Police Station Shahpur, District Gorakhpur, whereby the discharge application moved by the revisionist has been dismissed.

3. The factual matrix of the case in brief, relevant for the present revision are that the informant, who is respondent No.2 before this Court, lodged an FIR on 14.4.2017 against revisionist accused with averment that he is Manager of Kanhaiya Junior High School, Shahpur, Geeta Vatika, Gorakhpur. He had arrayed Brijendra Swaroop Jaisawal, as accused, who was posted as Head Master in said school on 8.11.2016 for committing indiscipline and financial irregularities. However, he appended his signature on attendance Register during period of suspension on 17.3.2017 and trespassed into office and abused the clerk and assistant Head Master. The suspended Head Master Sri Brijendra Swaroop Jaisawal was asked to open Head Master room on many times but he did not made the key of the chamber available. The manager/informant brought this fact to the knowledge of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Gorakhpur and departmental officers. On directions of SDM, Sadar, Sri Shashank Shekhar Rai, Nayab Tehsildar, Gorakhpur visited the office of the school and got the chamber of Head Master unlocked on 22.3.2017. On intensive inquiry of said room, many documents related to school work were not found therein. The suspended Head Master misplaced the files relating to approval of service book of ten employees, scholarship distribution register, records relating to recognition, with malafide intention, which amounts to criminal breach of trust. Many fake and forged documents were found during inspection of Head Master's chamber, which were sealed in the presence of Magistrate. The FIR was lodged against the revisionist under Section 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504, 409 IPC and the police investigated the case and recorded statements of the informant- Acting Head Master, Sri Chandrabhan Singh, Teacher of Kanhaiya Junior High School and Sri Anil Chaudhary, Sri Krishna Kant Sharma, Sri Ram Surat Patel- office clerks, Sri Inarmal Prasad, Sri Rajesh Maurya, office attendants and other witnesses and collected some documents during investigation and after finding the complicity of the accused, submitted chargehseet against him with prayer to prosecute him before the court in said sections.

4. Learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence on 3.6.2017 and issued process to the accused. The accused was enlarged on bail. He assailed the chargesheet and cognizance taking order as well as entire criminal proceeding pursuant to criminal Case No.5289 of 2017, under Section 419, 420, 467, 468, 471, 504, 409 IPC, Police Station Shahpur, District Gorakhpur, before this Court, which was dismissed by this Court with observation that on perusal of FIR and material collected by Investigating Officer, on the basis of which the chargesheet has been submitted, it makes out a prima facie case against the accused at this stage and the Court did not find any justification to quash the chargehseet or the cognizance or the proceeding against the applicant arising out of them. The accused moved an application for discharge before the court below at the stage of commencement of trial on 18.8.2022 on grounds that the informant is real younger brother of the accused-applicant, who has lodged a false FIR against him to grab the property of the school. The Investigating Officer has submitted the chargesheet against the applicant without carrying out proper and fair investigation and in absence of any evidence, the applicant has not committed any false impersonation or he has not derived any unlawful gain by cheating anyone. There is no evidence that he has committed any offence. There is no any document on record which can be termed as a forged document. No document has been placed on record in respect of the alleged forgery, which is said to have been committed or the applicant nor he has used any forged document as genuine. Even there is no specific allegation against the applicant that he abused any particular person and specific works used in abusing have also not been brought on record on the basis of entire record. It is obvious that there is no evidence available against the applicant as to what short of property was entrusted to the applicant and by which act he has committed criminal breach of trust. No offence is made out against the applicant and he deserves to be discharge from said charges.

5. Learned court below by impugned order dismissed the said application for discharge, which is maintainable under Section 239 Cr.P.C., with observation that the applicant is charged for committing trespass in the office of the school after his suspension, abusing the Acting Head Master and causing documents related to school missing as well as committing forgery with respect to certain documents. The matter is of serious nature. Whether the accused is involved in said offence or not, can only be adjudicated on tendering of evidence during trial. On the basis of material available on record, a prima facie case is made out against the applicant, which shows his complicity in the offence and the facts brought against him, prima facie appears to be true. There is sufficient ground to proceed against the accused. Therefore, the application for discharge moved under Section 239 Cr.P.C. is hereby dismissed.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist, while pressing grounds taken in discharge application moved by the revisionist before the court below, further submitted that the revisionist has been Head Master of Kanhaiya Junior High School, Shahpur, Geeta Vatika, Gorakhpur and has retired from his services after obtaining age of superannuation on 31st March, 2021. The school is an institution on grant-in-aid from the State Government, at its Junior High School Level. The opposite party No.2, the complainant, is Manager of the Managing Committee of the institution. The institution is recognized under the provisions of U.P. Basic Education Act and provisions of Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High School)

Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers Rule, 1978, are fully applicable to the institution. In the year 2016, soon after the resuming the charge of the Manager of the Committee of Management, the respondent No.2 started to make attempts to earn money by adopting illegal means and in this direction, he started issuing orders to the revisionist to take admission of girl students in the institution as well as to admit students in the primary classes in the institution. In this respect, an order dated 24.4.2016, issued by respondent No.2 to the revisionist directing him to take admission of girl students in the institution has been filed as Annexure No.1 to the affidavit. The revisionist on getting copy of the order dated 24.4.2016, communicated to respondent No.2, vide his letter dated 2.5.2016 that according to the order of Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur, dated 9.12.1998, the institution is only recognized as an educational institution of boys wherein only boys can be admitted as student. The respondent No.2 did not relished this reply of the revisionist to his order dated 24.4.2016 and started issuing show cause notices on different grounds to the revisionist only to harass him (victimize him). Vide order dated 25.6.2016, directions were issued to the revisionist by respondent No.2to run primary classes in the institution, whereupon the revisionist communicated him that vide directions issued by Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur, dated 20.7.1998, primary classes could not be allowed to run in the institution in view of the fact that recognition to this effect has already been cancelled. The respondent No.2 got annoyed with the replies given by the revisionist to his illegal orders issued from time to time in this context. Ultimately, took a decision vide order dated 8.11.2016 to place the revisionist under suspension and directions was issued to him to handover the charge of his office to Senior Assistant Teacher namely Sri Kapil Dev Singh. The respondent No.2 after placing the revisionist under suspension and giving the charge of Office of Head Master to Senior Assistant Teacher namely Sri Kapil Dev Singh, started running primary classes in the institution and also starting taking the admission of girl students in the institution, illegally and against the mandate of order of Basis Education Officer, Gorakhpur. The revisionist reported all these illegal activities carried out by respondent No.2 to Director of Basic Education vide his application dated 17.8.2017. In response of which, an order dated 6.9.2017 was issued to make appropriate inquiry into the matter and submit a report regarding action action taken into the matter within a week. However, no action in pursuance of order dated 6.9.2017 passed by Director of Basic Education was taken by B.S.A., Gorakhpur. Respondent no.2 filed a frivolous and false complainant against the revisionist before the District Basic Education Officer, Gorakhpur during his period of suspension with allegation that the revisionist is not handing over the charge of his Office to Senior Assistant Teacher, Sri Kapil Dev Singh, after his suspension. Further allegations were also made that the revisionist has locked his Office and was not opening the lock despite several orders passed in this effect and therefore, a request was made by respondent No.2 to District Magistrate to nominate any Magistrate in presence of whom, the lock of the Office of Principal of Insitution could be broken open. Resultantly, the alleged lock was broken open in presence of Nayab Tehsildar, respondent No.2 and his staff. Inventory of items found in the chamber of Head Master was prepared on 22.3.2017, soon after the opening of the lock. The photocopy of the inventory has been filed as Annexure No.9 to the affidavit, in which routine documents/articles are shown. Some material and files belonging to some other institution are also shown to be recovered in the inventory. However, it is not specified therein that any forged document was found therein. The FIR dated 14.4.2017 was lodged by respondent No2 on the basis of alleged recovery, having been made from the office of Head Master on 22.3.2017, after opening the lock of the office. The Investigating Officer carried out the investigation after lodging of the FIR. He recorded statement of PW-2 under Section 161 Cr.P.C., in which he almost repeated the FIR version. The Investigating Officer submitted chargesheet against the revisionist whereupon cognizance was taken by the court below and revisionist was summoned to face trial. He has already been released on bail in said criminal case by learned Sessions Judge. The impugned order passed by learned court below is outcome of non application of mind and non consideration of grounds taken in discharge application

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist placed reliance on a judgement of Hon'ble Apex Cort in The State By S.P. Through SPE CBI vs. Uttamchand Bohra, in Criminal Appeal No.1590 of 2021, dated 9th December, 2021. In this case, Hon'ble Apex Court placed reliance on its previous judgement in Central Bureau of Investigation vs. K. Narayana Rao, (2012) 9 SCC 512, wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court summarized the principles of discharge under Section 227 Cr.P.C. in the following terms:-

"13. Discharge of the accused under Section 227 of the Code was extensively considered by this Court in P. Vijayan [(2010) 2 SCC 398 wherein it was held as under: (SCC pp. 401-02, paras 10-11) 5 (2012) 9 SCC 512 "10. ... If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal. Further, the words 'not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused' clearly show that the Judge is not a mere post office to frame the charge at the behest of the prosecution, but has to exercise his judicial mind to the facts of the case in order to determine whether a case for trial has been made out by the prosecution. In assessing this fact, it is not necessary for the court to enter into the pros and cons of the matter or into a weighing and balancing of evidence and probabilities which is really the function of the court, after the trial starts.

11. At the stage of Section 227, the Judge has merely to sift the evidence in order to find out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. In other words, the sufficiency of ground would take within its fold the nature of the evidence recorded by the police or the documents produced before the court which ex facie disclose that there are suspicious circumstances against the accused so as to frame a charge against him.

12. The first decision in Ramesh Singh [(1977) 4 SCC 39] relates to interpretation of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code for the considerations as to discharge the accused or to proceed with trial."

8. In Uttamchand Bohra's case (supra), Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

"21. On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 CrPC has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

9. Per contra, learned AGA as well as learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 supported the impugned order and submitted that there is no infirmity or illegality in the impugned order passed by the learned court below. The charge can be framed even on the basis of a strong suspicion and meticulous examination of evidence collected during investigation is not required while framing of charge. A clear, prima facie, case is made out on the basis of FIR version and material collected during investigation against the revisionist and learned court below issued summon to him after finding sufficient grounds to proceed against him and discharge application moved by the revisionist has been dismissed on the ground that a, prima facie, case has been made out to frame charges against accused/revisionist. The revisionist was found guilty of various irregularities and misconduct committed by the him while carrying out his duties as Head Master of said institution, who was placed under suspension and an inquiry was instituted against him.

10. Learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 further submitted that he got appointment as Assistant Teacher and thereafter as Head Master without having requisite qualification in violation of the rule 4(2) and 4(2)-Kha of U.P. Recognised Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment And Conditions Of Service Of Teachers) Rules, 1978. The deficiencies in connection with his appointment were found correct in departmental enquiry by Enquiry Committee and his services are terminated by orders of Managing Committee and approved by B.S.A. His termination order was issued on 30.6.2020 by the Authorized Controller.

11. As the offence is in the nature of warrant trial, which is triable by a Magistrate and in case of a prayer for discharge made by the accused, Section 239 Cr.P.C. is applicable, which provides as under:-

"239. When accused shall be discharged. -If, upon considering the police report and the documents sent with it under Section 173 and making such examination, if any, of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary and after giving the prosecution and the accused an opportunity of being heard, the Magistrate considers the charge against the accused to be groundless, he shall discharge the accused, and record his reasons for so doing."

12. Section 240 Cr.P.C. reproduced as under:-

240. Framing of charge. (1) If, upon such consideration, examination, if any, and hearing, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this Chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

(2) The charge shall then be read and explained to the accused, and he shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried.

13. Section 227 Cr.P.C. reproduced as under:-

227. Discharge. - If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing.

14. On perusal of FIR and material on record, it appears that following allegations are made against the revisionist in present matter:-

(1) He committed tempering in records, indiscipline and financial irregularities while posted as Head Master of Kanhaiya Junior High School, Shahpur, Geeta Vatika, Gorakhpur, and for that reason, he was placed under suspension on 8.11.2016;

(2) He trespassed into the office of the School, misbehaved with and insulted the acting Head Master and office clerks and also abused them;

(3) He signed the attendance register in unauthorized manner;

(4) He locked the Head Master's room on being placed under suspension and even after many requests, he abstained from opening the lock and ultimately the matter was reported by the Manager to higher authorities and lock was broken open on 22.3.2017, in presence of a nominated Executive Magistrate (Nayab Tehsildar) and videography was conducted.

(5) Large number of files and other documents were found in the locked office of Head Master, which included files regarding approval of service book of ten employees, files relating to payment, files relating to grant in aid, scholarship distribution recognition, sheets of examination result of students, files relating to correspondence;

(6) The revisionist misplaced certain important documents/records, which were entrusted to him dishonestly and some forged and fake documents were found while conducting search of the office.

14. So far as, appending signature on attendance register by the revisionist during period of suspension is concerned, this is not an offending act but obviously this is an official misconduct. In statement of the informant as well as witnesses, no document has been specified regarding which forgery has been committed by the revisionist. It is also not specified as to what short of documents were stolen or misplaced by the revisionist. Even it, it is accepted that the document found in the Office of the Head Master at the time of conducting search comes within the purview of property and being Head Master, these documents were entrusted to him, are will be presumed to be under constructive entrustment of the revisionist by the institution. It cannot be discerned that the misappropriated these documents only due to the fact that he had locked these documents in his Office room after being placed under suspension and avoided opening the lock on being required to do by the Management.

15. The allegations with regard to fraud, forgery and criminal breach of trust must be specific and not vague. Learned Magistrate while dismissing the application for discharge has not properly addressed the grounds taken in discharge application and only narrating the allegations made against the revisionist in FIR and case diary, he opted to dismiss the discharge application, while observing that the prima facie case is made out against the revisionist for framing charge and his discharge application is liable to be dismissed. No doubt, the meticulous analysis and examination of material collected during investigation is neither called for nor required for framing of charge or adjudicating the issue of question of discharge raised by the accused, yet charge cannot be made only on the baiss of bald allegations and there must be some material in respect of the said allegations. Learned Magistrate failed to specify the material collected during investigation in support of the allegations and charge made against the revisionist. Therefore, the impugned order is not supported with well considered reasons and established principles of law regarding framing of charge and discharge of the accused.

16. In view of foregoing discussions and the case law cited above, this Court is of considered opinion that the learned court below has failed to pass a reasoned and speaking order addressing the grounds taken in discharge application. The right of seeking discharge is a valuable right of the accused and trial court is atleast under obligation to address the grounds taken in discharge application in the light of material collected during investigation. Therefore, the revision is liable to be allowed and the impugned order deserves to be set aside.

17. Accordingly, present revision stands allowed and the impugned order passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Second, Gorakhpur, is hereby set aside and the matter is remanded back to learned Magistrate to hear and decide the application for discharge moved by the revisionist afresh, strictly, in accordance with law as well as in the light of observations made in present revisional order.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 323, 504, 500, 166, 166-A, 409 & 120-B - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 190, 197, 397 & 401 - State challenged order dated 17.02.2021 by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Barabanki, rejecting final report, accepting protest application, and taking cognizance against public servants (C.D.O., S.P., S.H.O., I.O.) under Sections 120-B and 166-A IPC without sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. Court held: (1) Cognizance against public servants (C.D.O., S.P., S.H.O., I.O.) for acts in discharge of official duties invalid without prior government sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. (2) No specific allegations or material evidence supported cognizance under Section 409 IPC for embezzlement; mere discrepancies in reports insufficient. (3) FIR for non-cognizable offences (Sections 323, 504, 500 IPC) wrongly registered under Section 154 Cr.P.C.; trial as St. case illegal. (4) Section 166-A IPC inapplicable as failure to register FIR under Section 409 IPC not covered. (5) Magistrate's order lacked prima facie satisfaction of offence ingredients, rendering it unsustainable (Amod Kumar Kanth Vs Assn. of Victim of Uphaar Tragedy, 2023 SCC Online SC 578; St. of Orissa Vs Ganesh Chandra Jew, (2004) 8 SCC 40; Gauri Shankar Prasad Vs St. of Bihar, (2000) 5 SCC 15; St. of U.P. 6. Revision Allowed; Impugned Order Set Aside.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vinod Kumar Shahi, the learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A.-I appearing on behalf of the State - Revisionist, Sri Krishna Gopal, the learned Counsel for the opposite party no.2 and perused the records.

2. By means of the instant revision filed under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. the State has challenged the validity of an order dated 17.02.2021, passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Barabanki (hereinafter referred to as 'the C.J.M.') in Case No.717 of 2021 - Ram Pratap Versus Anup Kumar Singh and others, whereby while deciding a protest application filed by the opposite party no.2 against a final report submitted by the Investigating Officer the learned trial court has not only accepted the protest application and rejected the final report and taken cognizance of offences under Sections 323, 504, 500 and 166 I.P.C. allegedly committed by the persons named in the F.I.R., but at the same time has taken cognizance of offence under Section 120-B I.P.C. against Megha Roopam - the then Chief Development Officer (hereinafter referred to as 'the C.D.O.'), Sri. Arvind Chaturvedi – the then Superintendent of Police (hereinafter referred to as 'the S.P.') and Sri. Zaid Ahmad - the Investigating Officer/Sub-Inspector of Police (hereinafter referred to as 'the I.O.). Cognizance of offence under Section 166-A I.P.C. has also been taken against Sri. Prakash Chandra Sharma - the then Station House Officer (hereinafter referred to as 'the S.H.O.'). Copies of the order were directed to be sent to the Principal Secretary of Government of U. P. (without specifying the department) and to the District Magistrate for initiating departmental action against the then Chief Development officer, the then S.P. and the then S.H.O., Dewa, Barabanki for submitting a final report in the matter for giving wrongful benefit to the accused persons under a conspiracy and a copy was ordered to be sent to the S.P. for taking action against the S.H.O. for his omission to register a case regarding embezzlement of government money.

3. Briefly stated, the facts of the case are that the opposite party no. 2 had filed an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. against (i) Anup Kumar Singh, Block Development Officer (hereinafter referred to as 'the B.D.O.'), (ii) Beena, Village Panchayat Officer, alleging that the complainant is a former Village Pradhan. The complainant had given a complaint to the District Magistrate alleging that the work of construction of toilets was being carried out in the village against the prescribed standards. Thereupon an enquiry was conducted through the C.D.O., Barabanki and the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Nawabganj, District Barabanki and both the aforesaid officers had submitted reports containing different findings. The complainant on his own got an enquiry conducted by the Village Panchayat Officer and he gave an application to the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Nawabganj, Barabanki. The complainant had gone to some office on 05.08.2019 where the Village Development Officer was also present. Both the accused persons alleged that the complainant was a tout and this was the reason behind his making the complaints. When the complainant objected, the Block Development Officer Anup Kumar Singh slapped him and pushed him out of the office and the other co-accused person stated that she had seen many village pradhans like the complainant and she asked him to go away else the consequence will not be good. The complainant stated that the use of word tout was intended to cause disrespect to the complainant, from which he suffered mental and physical agony.

4. On 04.08.2020 the C.J.M., Barabanki passed an order stating that from the facts, circumstances and documents available, the matter appears to be of embezzlement of public money, which prima facie appears to be a cognizable offence. The C.J.M. directed the S.H.O., Dewa, Barabanki to register a case against appropriate persons in appropriate sections and to submit a compliance report within seven days.

5. In furtherance of the aforesaid order dated 04.08.2020 passed by the C.J.M., F.I.R. No.326 of 2020 was registered in Police Station Dewa, Barabanki against (1) Anup Kumar Singh and (2) Beena, for offences under Sections 323, 504, 500 and 166 I.P.C., all of which are non-cognizable offence and no F.I.R. could have been registered under Section 154 Cr.P.C. in respect of non-cognizable offence(s).

6. After investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a final report on 20.09.2020, stating that from the statement of the complainant, statements of some independent witnesses and from the report submitted by the C.D.O., Barabanki as well as the statement of one of the accused persons no offence was made out.

7. On 08.02.2021, the opposite party no. 2 filed a protest application against the final report, a certified copy whereof has been annexed with the revision. It bears the title – Application for rejecting the Final Report and Summoning the Accused Persons, and thereafter the words and figures 'under sections 409/500/504/166/323 IPC' have been added by hand and this interpolation has not been authenticated by the signature of the applicant or any person. Page 1 of the application does no bear the signature of any person and in this manner the complainant has the liberty to disown the contents of page 1 of the application at his sweet will.

8. It is stated in the application that he had lodged the report for embezzlement in construction of toilets, whereas there is absolutely no whisper of embezzlement in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. The complainant alleged that the Investigating Officer has not recorded the statements of the persons who were present on the spot of occurrence and the offence under Section 409 I.P.C. was also made out against the accused persons. He stated that there were discrepancies in the enquiry report submitted by the C.D.O., Barabanki and Sub Divisional Magistrate, Nawabganj, Barabanki and that the Village Panchayat Officer has stated in her report that 511 toilets had been constructed whereas in the report submitted by the S.D.M. in furtherance of the application dated 24.06.2019 it was stated that 150 toilets were incomplete and 40 toilets had not been constructed.

9. The complainant further alleged that the Block Development Officer had stated in his report dated 22.07.2019 that the complainant was giving repetitive complaints for the reason of him being a tout, has damaged his reputation in the society and has defamed him. He alleged that the accused Anup Kumar Singh has made a wrong entry in lock book (Sic log-book). The complainant alleged that the accused persons had shown construction of 511 toilets on paper and misappropriate the entire amount whereas about 400 toilets had not been constructed in the village of the complainant.

10. While deciding the protest application, the learned C.J.M. held that the matter involved embezzlement of public money but the F.I.R. was registered only for offence of causing hurt, abusing and defaming the complainant. The Magistrate found that the administrative enquiry conducted by the C.D.O.after registration of the F.I.R. was interference in the criminal case after registration of the F.I.R., which was not proper. The court found that from the statement of the complainant recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and other documentary evidence, it was apparent that illegalities were committed in construction of toilets and when the complainant made enquiry regarding it, he was beaten up, abused and disrespected. Therefore, there was sufficient reason for taking cognizance of the offence under Sections 409, 323, 504, 500 I.P.C. against the named accused persons.

11. The learned counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite party no.2 raised a preliminary objection regarding locus standi of the State to file the instant revision when the impugned order has not been passed against the State. He has relied upon the a decision of a Single Judge Bench of the Hon'ble High Court of Madras in the case of P. Ravindran Vs. State: 2010 (3) CTC 73 = 2010 SCC OnLine Mad 1709, wherein it was held that: -

"29. It is a settled preposition of law that a criminal proceeding cannot be used as an instrument of wrecking a private vengeance either on political reason or otherwise by a third party to the criminal proceeding. .... Considering the vital legal aspects, in the light of the various rulings of the Honourable Supreme Court, I am of the view that the petitioner/third party to a criminal proceeding is not legally entitled to maintain criminal revision against discharge or acquittal recorded by the trial court, unless he is also an aggrieved person."

12. The aforesaid decision of a Single Judge Bench of the Madras High Court is not a binding precedent. Moreover, it does not lay down any proposition of law which may apply to the facts of the present case.

13. Per contra, the learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State has submitted that the State has the responsibility to ensure prosecution of accused persons as also to protect its officers from frivolous prosecutions. He has placed reliance on a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. Versus Ram Swaroop: (1974) 4 SCC 764, in which it was held that: -

"37.Thelocus standiof State Governments to file appeals in this Court against judgments or orders rendered in criminal matters, particularly those commenced otherwise than on private complaints, has been recognised over the years and for a valid reason. All crimes raise problems of law and order and some raise issues of public disorder. The effect of crime on the ordered growth of society is deleterious and the State Governments are entrusted with the enforcement and execution of laws directed against prevention and punishment of crimes. They have, therefore, a vital stake in criminal matters which explains why all public prosecutions are initiated in the name of the Government."

14. The allegation of the complainant in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. was against the (i) Anup Kumar Singh, Block Development Officer, (ii) Beena, Village Panchayat Officer, alleging that the complainant is a former Village Pradhan. There was no allegation against the C.D.O., the Superintendent of Police, the S.H.O. or the Investigating Officer. Yet while allowing the protest petition filed against the final report submitted after investigation, the learned C.J.M. has taken cognizance of offences regarding which there was no factual averment and has summoned the C.D.O., the Superintendent of Police, the S.H.O. and the Investigating Officer for being tried without sanction of the State Government. The aforesaid persons summoned by the C.J.M. are public servants and, therefore, the State has an interest in protecting its officers from any frivolous prosecution launched without its sanction.

15. Therefore, I find no merit in the preliminary objection raised by the learned Counsel for the opposite party no. 2 regarding locus standi of the State Government and I hold that the State has the right to assail validity of the impugned order and I proceed to examine the revision on its merits.

16. The learned Additional Advocate General has submitted that the C.J.M. has no authority in law to take cognizance of offences allegedly committed by the C.D.O., the Superintendent of Police, the S.H.O. and the Sub-Inspector / Investigating Officer, all of whom are public servants, without a prior sanction for their prosecution granted by the Government. In support of this submission, he has placed reliance on the decision in the case of Amod Kumar Kanth v. Assn. of Victim of Uphaar Tragedy, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 578.

17. Section 197 Cr.P.C. provides as follows: -

"197. Prosecution of Judges and public servants.—(1) When any person who is or was a Judge or Magistrate or a public servant not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government is accused of any offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, no Court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanctionsave as otherwise provided in theLokpal and Lokayuktas Act, 2013—

(a) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of the Union, of the Central Government;

(b) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of a State, of the State Government:

Provided that where the alleged offence was committed by a person referred to in clause (b) during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of Article356of theConstitutionwas in force in a State, clause (b) will apply as if for the expression "State Government" occurring therein, the expression "Central Government" were substituted.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared that no sanction shall be required in case of a public servant accused of any offence alleged to have been committed under Section166-A, Section166-B, Section354, Section354-A, Section354-B, Section354-C, Section354-D, Section370, Section375, Section376,Section376-A, Section376-AB, Section376-C, Section376-D, Section376-DA, Section376-DB or Section509of theIndian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence alleged to have been committed by any member of the Armed Forces of the Union while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government.

(3) The State Government may, by notification, direct that the provisions of sub-section (2) shall apply to such class or category of the members of the Forces charged with the maintenance of public order as may be specified therein, wherever they may be serving, and thereupon the provisions of that sub-section will apply as if for the expression "Central Government" occurring therein, the expression "State Government" were substituted.

* * *"

18. The C.D.O. and the S.P.are public servants who are not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government and undisputedly they have the protection of Section 197 Cr.P.C.

19. So far as the S.H.O. and the Investigating Officer are concerned it is to be noted that the State Government has issued a Notification No. 1841 (3)/VI-538-71 dated 30.01.1975, which reads as under: -

"Grih Vibhag (Police), Anubhag-9, Notification No. 1841 (3)/VI-538-71, dated January 30, 1975:-

In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (3) of Section 197 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Act No. 2 of 1974), the Governor is pleased to direct that the provisions of sub-section (2) of the aforesaid section shall apply to all members of the following forces of the State, charged with the maintenance of public order wherever they may be serving, namely: (i) U.P. Police Force (ii) U.P. Pradeshik Armed Constabulary"

20. Therefore, there is a specific bar against taking cognizance of offences by any member of U. P. Police Force – including the S.H.O. and the Sub-Inspector - Investigating Officer, without previous sanction of the State Government.

21. The phrase "any offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty" occurring in Section 197 (1) Cr.P.C. have been the subject matter of discussion in various precedents. In Amod Kumar Kanth v. Assn. of Victim of Uphaar Tragedy (Supra) it was held that: -

"32.Here we may notice one aspect. When the question arises as to whether an act or omission which constitutes an offence in law has been done in the discharge of official functions by a public servant and the matter is under a mist and it is not clear whether the act is traceable to the discharge of his official functions, the Court may in a given case tarry and allow the proceedings to go on. Materials will be placed before the Court which will make the position clear and a delayed decision on the question may be justified. However, in a case where the act or the omission is indisputably traceable to the discharge of the official duty by the public servant, then for the Court to not accept the objection against cognizance being taken would clearly defeat the salutary purpose which underlies Section197of theCr. P.C. It all depends on the facts and therefore, would have to be decided on a case to case basis."

22. In Gauri Shankar Prasad v. State of Bihar, (2000) 5 SCC 15, it was held that: -

"7.Section 197 CrPC affords protection to a Judge or a magistrate or a public servant not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government against any offence which is alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty. The protection is provided in the form that no court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or the State Government as the case may be. The object of the section is to save officials from vexatious proceedings against Judges, magistrates and public servants but it is no part of the policy to set an official above the common law. If he commits an offence not connected with his official duty he has no privilege. But if one of his official acts is alleged to be an offence, the State will not allow him to be prosecuted without its sanction. Section 197 embodies one of the exceptions to the general rules laid down in Section 190 CrPC, that any offence may be taken cognizance of by the Magistrates enumerated therein. Before this section can be invoked in the case of a public servant two conditions must be satisfied i.e. (1) that the accused was a public servant who was removable from his office only with the sanction of the State Government or the Central Government; and (2) he must be accused of an offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty.

8.What offences can be held to have been committed by a public servant while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties is a vexed question which has often troubled various courts including this Court. Broadly speaking, it has been indicated in various decisions of this Court that the alleged action constituting the offence said to have been committed by the public servant must have a reasonable and rational nexus with the official duties required to be discharged by such public servant."

23. In State of Orissav.Ganesh Chandra Jew,(2004) 8 SCC 40, the Hon'ble Supreme Court explained the underlying concept of protection under Section 197 and held as follows: -

"9…The section falls in the chapter dealing with conditions requisite for initiation of proceedings. That is, if the conditions mentioned are not made out or are absent then no prosecution can be set in motion. …. So far as public servants are concerned, the cognizance of any offence, by any court, is barred by Section 197 of the Code unless sanction is obtained from the appropriate authority, if the offence, alleged to have been committed, was in discharge of the official duty. The section not only specifies the persons to whom the protection is afforded but it also specifies the conditions and circumstances in which it shall be available and the effect in law if the conditions are satisfied. The mandatory character of the protection afforded to a public servant is brought out by the expression "no court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction". Use of the words "no" and "shall" makes it abundantly clear that the bar on the exercise of power by the court to take cognizance of any offence is absolute and complete. The very cognizance is barred. That is, the complaint cannot be taken notice of. According to Black's Law Dictionary the word "cognizance" means "jurisdiction" or "the exercise of jurisdiction" or "power to try and determine causes". In common parlance it means taking notice of. A court, therefore, is precluded from entertaining a complaint or taking notice of it or exercising jurisdiction if it is in respect of a public servant who is accused of an offence alleged to have been committed during discharge of his official duty."

24. The learned C.J.M. has found that the administrative enquiry conducted by the C.D.O.after registration of the F.I.R. was interference in the criminal case after registration of the F.I.R., which was not proper. However, this administrative enquiry was conducted by the C.D.O. in discharge of his official duty. The C.D.O. had sent the report to the Superintendent of Police, who forwarded the same to the S.H.O. in discharge of his official duty. The investigating officer took into consideration S.H.O. had also acted as per the instructions of his superior officer, i.e. the Superintendent of Police, in discharge of his official duty. Megha Roopam - the then C.D.O., Sri. Arvind Chaturvedi – the then S.P.and Sri. Zaid Ahmad - the Investigating Officer/Sub-Inspector of Police. Cognizance of offence under Section 166-A I.P.C. has also been taken against Sri. Prakash Chandra Sharma - the then S.H.O.

25. Therefore, all the aforesaid persons have acted in discharge of their official duty while committing the alleged offending acts and the cognizance of the act committed by them, even if it amounts to an offence, cannot be taken without previous sanction of the Government.

26. Therefore, the impugned order dated 17.02.2021 passed by the C.J.M. taking cognizance of offence allegedly committed by the C.D.O., the Superintendent of Police, in discharge of their official duty, is unsustainable in law.

27. The C.J.M. found that from the statement of the complainant recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and other documentary evidence, it was apparent that illegalities were committed in construction of toilets and when the complainant made enquiry regarding it, he was beaten up, abused and disrespected and that there was sufficient reason for taking cognizance of the offence under Sections 409, 323, 504, 500 I.P.C. against the named accused persons.

28. Section 409 I.P.C. provides punishment for the offence of Criminal breach of trust by public servant, or by banker, merchant or agent. Criminal breach of trust is defined in Section 405 I.P.C. as follows: -

"405. Criminal breach of trust.— Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits "criminal breach of trust".

29. The C.J.M. has not recorded any prima facie satisfaction regarding the role of the Block Development Officer and the Village Panchayat Officer in construction of toilets. For taking cognizance of the offence under Section 409 I.P.C. or for any other offences there should be a specific allegation of commission of some act which prima facie make out commission of the alleged offence. There appears to be absolutely no factual allegation made in the complaint or in the protest petition and no material to prima facie establish 'entrustment' of any property to any of the accused persons or to the effect that any of them have dishonestly misappropriated or converted to his own use that property, or has dishonestly used or disposed of that property in violation of any direction of law. Merely because the accused persons were holding some office, they cannot be tried for commission of any offence without any specific allegation of commission of any act on their part make out the ingredients of the offence.

30. The C.J.M. has taken cognizance of the offences under Section 190 (1) (b) Cr.P.C., which provides as follows: -

190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.— (1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section (2), may take cognizance of any offence—

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) ...”

31. The police report submitted in this case mentioned that no offence took place and no such fact has been stated in the police report as may make out cognizance of any offence. In absence of the police having reported such facts, as make out commission of any offence, the C.J.M. could not have taken cognizance of any offence under Section 190 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. The order taking cognizance of offence under Section 190 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. is bad in law for this reason.

32. The report dated 20.08.2020 submitted by the C.D.O. to the S.P., which was annexed with the police report, stated that the B.D.O. had submitted a report stating that the complainant claims himself to be a former village pradhan whereas in the letter dated 14.06.2019, the complainant has claimed himself to be the husband of a former village pradhan, which contentions are self contradictory and misleading. Regarding the complaint that toilets had not been constructed, the B.D.O. informed that the complainant’s complaint dated 17.06.2019 was uploaded on IGRS Portal on 18.06.2019 and an enquiry was conducted by the District Panchayat Raj Officer and the enquiry report dated 17.07.2019 was also uploaded on the portal, as per which out of total 511 toilets, 421 had been constructed and the incentive for construction of the remaining private toilets had been paid to the beneficiaries. As per the report of the S.D.M., 150 toilets had not been finished and work had not commenced on 40 toilets, although the date of enquiry conducted by the S.D.M. is not available on record. The Village Panchayat Secretary Ms. Beena had produced the digital diary of each of the toilets alongwith its beneficiary, which established that all the toilets had been completed.

33. Regarding the incident of beating and abusing etc. that allegedly occurred on 05.08.2019, the B.D.O. had produced a copy of the log-block of his official vehicle to prove that he had not gone to Dewa on the date of the alleged incident and he was present in Development Block Harakh. Regarding the report that alleged that the complainant was a tout, it was stated that the said report did not bear the signature of the B.D.O. and it was not issued under his authority.

34. It is significant to note that in the entire application under Section 156 (3)

Cr.P.C., there was no mention of any embezzlement of public money and the only allegation was that there was some discrepancy in two reports submitted by two different officers, but the discrepancy in the reports was not specifically mentioned in the application. The findings of the reports or the discrepancies in the reports were not mentioned in the order. The findings of the report dated 20.08.2020 submitted by the C.D.O. have been mentioned above. The date of the report of the S.D.M. is not available on record and there is a possibility that the two reports mention the situation existing on two different points on time. Besides stating that the matter involves embezzlement of public money, there are no particulars in the order as to who has committed the embezzlement of public money and in what manner.

35. Neither the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. made a mention of any specific offence committed by the accused persons, nor any specific offence were mentioned in the order dated 04.08.2020, passed by the C.J.M., Barabanki.

36. Therefore, there was absolutely no material before the C.J.M. justifying cognizance of any offence under Section 190 (1) (b) Cr.P.C. Criminal prosecution cannot be initiated merely on an assumption that an offence has been committed, but the Magistrate has to arrieve at a prima facie satisfaction from a complaint of facts which constitute such offence or from a police report of such facts or by an information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed. In the present case, no such material was available before the C.J.M. as would warrant taking cognizance of any offence. In case the C.J.M. was not satisfied with the police report, he could only have passed an order for further investigation regarding the allegations.

37. Moreover, the offences punishable under Sections 323, 504 and 500 I.P.C. are non-cognizable offences and a trial in respect of those offences can only be instituted and continued as such and only a complaint can be registered in respect of those offences. The trial Court has acted illegally in directing trial of the accused persons for the aforesaid offences as a state case.

38. It appears that the Magistrate has passed the impugned order having been swayed by the impression created by the complainant that some illegalities had been committed in construction of toilets. However, every dereliction of duty would not make out a case of trial, unless the essential conditions for initiating the trial are fulfilled and the C.J.M. has not taken care to examine whether the essential ingredients of the offence and other prerequisites for taking cognizance are fulfilled or not.

39. The C.J.M. has summoned the S.H.O. to face trial for the offence under Section 166-A I.P.|C. for his failure to register F.I.R. under Section 409 I.P.C. which reads as under: -

"166-A. Public servant disobeying direction under law.— Whoever, being a public servant,—

(a) knowingly disobeys any direction of the law which prohibits him from requiring the attendance at any place of any person for the purpose of investigation into an offence or any other matter, or

(b) knowingly disobeys, to the prejudice of any person, any other direction of the law regulating the manner in which he shall conduct such investigation, or shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months but which may extend to two years, and shall also be liable to fine."

40. The S.H.O. had registered the F.I.R. and had entrusted investigation to the Investigating Officer, who conducted investigation and found that the offences alleged was not made out. The investigation was carried out in compliance of the order passed by the Magistrate, although that order was not in accordance with law as it had directed investigation by the police without recording a prima facie satisfaction that a cognizable offence had been committed warranting investigation by the police. The S.H.O. obeyed the order of the C.J.M. concerned, registered a case and got the same investigated. Merely because the court is not convinced with the findings of the S.H.O. it cannot be said that the S.H.O. has not obeyed direction of the C.J.M., although it was not in accordance with law.

41. Failure to register an F.I.R. is an offence under Section 166-A I.P.C. only if the report was regarding commission of offences under Section 326-A, Section 326-B, Section 354, Section 354-B, Section 370, Section 370-A, Section 376, Section 376-A, Section 376-AB, Section 376-B, Section 376-C, Section 376-D, Section 376-DA, Section 376-DB], Section 376-E or Section 509. Failure to register F.I.R. for offence under Section 409 would not be an offence under Section 166-A, I.P.C.

42. In view of the aforesaid discussions, the impugned order dated 17.10.2021 passed by the C.J.M. suffers from patent illegalities and it is unsustainable in law. The continuance of prosecution on the basis of such an order would clearly be an abuse of the process of law, warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its revisional powers.

43. Accordingly, the revision is allowed. The impugned order dated 17.02.2021, passed by learned C.J.M., Barabanki in Case No.717 of 2021 - Ram Pratap Versus Anup Kumar Singh and others, is hereby set aside.

3. By the impugned order, Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghazipur, dismissed the misc. case filed by applicants/revisionists for maintenance.

4. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionists that the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghazipur, acted mechanically and vide impugned judgement and order dated 06.12.2022 rejected her application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. in a routine manner without considering the facts and circumstances of the case and without perusing the evidence on record. It has also been submitted that the impugned judgement was passed on the basis of forged certificate issued by the President of Maa Sheetla Sanrakshak Pujari Samiti, Sultanpur, Chunar, Mirzapur, wrongly showing that the revisionist no. 1, Pinki Vishwakarma was earlier married with one Raju Vishwakarma, son of Late Uma Vishwakarma. The impugned judgement and order dated 06.12.2022 passed by learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghazipur, is bad, wholly illegal and arbitrary, which is not sustainable in the eyes of law. It has also been submitted that the trial court has passed the impugned judgement and order on the basis of unproved documents produced by opposite party no. 2. It has also been submitted that the learned Family Court wrongly calculated the period of pregnancy of revisionist no. 1 on the basis of forged medical documents produced by the opposite party no. 2 and came to the conclusion that revisionist no. 1 was pregnant before her marriage with opposite party no. 2. The Medical Officer who had prepared the documents was not examined before the Family Court. It has also been submitted that the learned trial court has ignored the fact that the revisionist no. 1 is the legally wedded wife of the opposite party no. 2 and she is unable to maintain herself along with her minor daughter. Therefore, she could have been granted maintenance for herself as well as her daughter. The learned Family Court has committed manifest illegality causing irreparable loss and damage to the revisionists. Therefore, the impugned order should be set-aside by this Court. It has also been submitted that the revisionist no. 1 after her marriage to opposite party no. 2 went to her matrimonial home and stayed there for 1½ months with opposite party no. 2 and his family members. During this period, she got pregnant with her relation with opposite party no. 2. At her matrimonial home, opposite party no. 2 and his family members pressurized her to bring Rs.2,00,000/- cash, her father's truck and plot of 3 biswa land situated in front of Government Hospital on the Ghazipur-Varanasi main road. When revisionist no. 1 and her family members refused to fulfil the demands of dowry of opposite party no. 2 and his family members, they harassed her, beat her and threatened to murder her and at 8 p.m., they turned her out of her matrimonial home after snatching her jewellery, clothes and other items. Since then, revisionist no. 1 is staying in her parental home. In her parental home, revisionist no. 1 gave birth to her daughter. During her stay at her parental home, opposite party no. 2 did not provide any maintenance to revisionist nos. 1 and 2. Therefore, she filed application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. for maintenance.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 while opposing the revision, has submitted that prior to the marriage with opposite party no. 2, revisionist no. 1 had solemnized her marriage with Raju Vishwakarma on 02.05.2004. Without obtaining divorce from her first husband and with a view to grab the property of opposite party no. 2 and extort money in the name of alimony, she married opposite party no. 2. The revisionist no. 1 stayed only for 4 days with opposite party no. 2 and then she left. After that she is living with her first husband. It has also been submitted that after obtaining Rs.1,00,000/- from opposite party no. 2, revisionist no. 1 has taken divorce on 15.03.2008 with him before Panchayat members. The revisionist no. 2, Vaishnavi was not born from her wedlock with opposite party no. 2 but she was born out from the wedlock of first marriage with Raju Vishwakarma. It has also been submitted that revisionist no. 1 married with opposite party no. 2 on 12.12.2006. She got her ultrasound done by Dr. Usha Gupta at Aashirvaad Hospital and Research Centre, Mehmudganj, Varanasi on 09.02.2007. According to the ultrasound, medical paper no. 113(b) in remark 9, it is specifically mentioned that ultrasound gestation age is 10 weeks. It means that the revisionist no.1 had carried a foetus of 70 days at the date of 09.02.2007. Hence, on this basis it can be concluded that on the date of her marriage with opposite party no. 2, i.e., 12.12.2006, the revisionist no.1 had carried a foetus of 11 days. It has also been submitted that the revisionist no. 1 has admitted in her cross-examination that she had filed medical papers annexed to her application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. for registration of case u/s 498-A I.P.C. She has also admitted that before marriage, she had no acquaintance with opposite party no. 2. It has also been submitted that since revisionist no. 1 had admitted the medical paper regarding her ultrasound in her examination-on-oath, thus these papers under the provisions of Section 58 of Evidence Act can be considered as admissible in evidence without being proved. It has also been submitted that opposite party no. 2 had filed application no. 136-b on 25.02.2019 for summoning the doctor for proving the medical paper and application no. 128-b on 27.02.2018 for conduct of DNA test of revisionist no. 1 but his application was rejected by the trial court vide orders dated 25.02.2019 and 17.10.2018 respectively. It has also been submitted that the trial court, after considering the evidence on record as well as the legal provisions applicable thereto, had passed the impugned judgement and order and there is no illegality in it and the revision should be rejected.

6. In its impugned judgement and order dated 06.12.2022, the Principal Judge, Family Court, after discussing the pleadings of the parties and documentary and oral evidence on record, has alluded that the marriage of revisionist no. 1 was solemnized with opposite party no. 2 on 12.12.2006 according to Hindu rites and customs and after the marriage, she came to her matrimonial home and started living with opposite party no. 2.

7. In the impugned judgement and order dated 06.12.2022, the trial court has mentioned that opposite party no. 2 has filed original certificate, paper no. 1, 48-b which shows that revisionist no.1, Pinki Vishwakarma, daughter of Shyam Deo Vishwakarma, resident of Nandganj, Ghazipur was married to Raju Vishwakarma son of late Uma Vishwakarma, village- Varapur, Nandganj, Ghazipur, on 02.05.2004 in the courtyard of Sheetala Dham Mandir, Adalpura, Mirzapur in the presence of priests. It has also been mentioned that opposite party no. 2 who produced the documents in the Court has stated in his evidence that this original document was given to his father, Subhash Vishwakarma, in the year 2018 by Chandrama Vishwakarma, father-in-law of revisionist no. 1's brother, Babulal, whose daughter Sunita was married to Babulal. The trial court has mentioned that since revisionist no. 1 did not file any document in rebuttal of this certificate, the contents of the documents was considered as proved and relied upon.

8. The trial court has also mentioned that the revisionist no. 1, Pinki Vishwakarma had on the advice of Dr. Usha Gupta of Aashirvaad Hospital and Research Centre, Mehmudganj, Varanasi, got her ultrasound done on 09.02.2007 at the Diagnostic Ultrasound unit of aforesaid hospital regarding her pregnancy. In its medical report dated 29.11.2006, it was mentioned that the foetus is 10 weeks old. Therefore, the conceivement had taken place 70 days before from 29.11.2006 i.e. before the date of her marriage 12.12.2006 with opposite party no. 2. The Principal Judge, Family Court, has also mentioned that the revisionist no. 1 admitted in her evidence that she had submitted her medical report with her application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. for registration of first information report. She had also admitted that she obtained the aforesaid medical report from the file of misc. case u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. and she had filed it in the case of maintenance u/s 125 Cr.P.C. On the basis of the aforesaid evidence, the learned Principal Judge, Family Court, concluded that since the ultrasound report has been admitted by the revisionist no.1, it can be considered as proved and can be relied upon against revisionist no. 1. On the basis of the aforesaid evidence, the trial court has concluded that before her marriage with opposite party no. 2, Ashok Kumar Vishwakarma, the revisionist no.1 had illicit relation with some other person from which revisionist no. 1 was conceived. Since revisionist no. 1 has admitted that before her marriage with opposite party no. 2, she did not have any acquaintance with him, the trial court concluded that revisionist no. 1 was not pregnant with her relation with opposite party no. 2 and revisionist no.2 was not born from the wedlock of revisionist no. 1 with opposite party no. 2.

9. After the aforesaid discussions, the trial court has dismissed the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. filed by the revisionist no. 1 on the ground that :-

(i) revision no. 1 had adulterous relationship with some other person before her marriage to opposite party no. 2, and,

(ii) the revisionist no. 2 was not conceived from the wedlock of revisionist no.1 with opposite party no. 2 but from some other person, therefore, she was not entitled to maintenance u/s 125 Cr.P.C.

(iii) the revisionist no. 1 is staying separately from opposite party no. 2 without any reason after staying in her matrimonial home of 1½ month with him.

10. Regarding conceivement of revisionist no. 1 before her marriage to opposite party no. 2, Ashok Kumar Vishwakarma, the trial court has relied on the ultrasound report dated 09.02.2007 regarding the foetus of revisionist no. 1 in which the age of the foetus is shown as 10 weeks which is equal to 70 days. Therefore, on the date of her marriage to opposite party no. 2 i.e. on 12.12.2006, the revisionist no. 1 was bearing the foetus of 11 days. The trial court has mentioned in its judgement that the revisionist no. 1 had admitted the medical papers in her cross-examination. Therefore, it can be presumed as duly proved and can be relied upon as evidence. The alleged ultrasound report dated 09.02.2007 which was prepared on the basis of the ultrasound of revisionist no.1 done at Aashirvaad Hospital and Research Centre, Mehmudganj, Varanasi under the supervision of Dr. Usha Gupta which is mentioned in the judgement as paper no. 113-b has not been proved by the evidence of Dr. Usha Gupta or any other person of the ultrasound centre who was familiar with the handwriting and signature of Dr. Usha Gupta.

11. Since opposite party no. 2 did not file any criminal revision in the Hon'ble High Court against rejection of his aforesaid application, therefore, the aforesaid order of the trial court rejecting his application has become final and the opposite party no. 2 cannot raise any objection against the aforesaid orders at this stage in this revision.

12. Now, it has to be seen whether the ultrasound report dated 09.02.2007 regarding the age of the foetus of revisionist no. 1 can be considered as admitted and proved and can be relied upon by the trial court for passing the impugned order. The trial court has alluded in its judgement that revisionist no. 1 has admitted the genuineness and contents of the ultrasound report in her cross-examination. The above referred cross-examination of P.W.1 Pinki Vishwakarma is filed at page nos. 98 and 99 of Annexure No. 6 to the revision which is reproduced as hereunder :

मेरी बच्ची का नाम वैष्णवी विश्वकर्मा है। मेरी बच्ची दिनांक 16.09.2007 को पैदा हुई। यह बच्ची प्रतिभा मैटरनिटी एण्ड आई रिसर्च सेन्टर मऊ में पैदा हुई। मै अपना इलाज कराने बनारस भी गयी थी। मैने आर्शीवाद रिसर्च सेन्टर में डा० उमा गुप्ता के यहां से मैने अपना ईलाज कराया था। दहेज के रूप में मेरे ससुर व मेरे पति के नाम से पचास हजार के चेक लिये गये। चेक का नम्बर मै नही बता सकती। मेरे दहेज में कोई एन०एस०सी० नही दिया गया था। दोनो अस्पतालो के जांच रिपोर्ट में मेरे गर्भवती होने की जो तिथि बतायी गयी, मुझे याद नही है। मैनें 156(3) सी०आर०पी०सी० के मुकदमें में सारे मेडिकल रिपोर्ट लगाये है।

मैं शादी के पूर्व गर्भवती नही थी। मेरा कोई पूर्व पति नही है। एन०एस०सी० का भुगतान मैने करा लिया है मैं अपने पति अशोक की शादी के पूर्व नही जानती थी।

शादी के बाद मै डेढ माह तक अपने ससुराल में रही थी।

13. From the perusal of the above-mentioned cross-examination dated 06.03.2020 of P.W.1 Pinki Vishwakarma, it transpires that during the cross-examination, the ultrasound report regarding her foetus was neither shown to P.W.1 nor she has proved the aforesaid ultrasound report after its perusal in the Court. She has deposed in her evidence that she had attached all medical papers in her application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. During her cross-examination, her application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. or the medical paper attached to it has not been shown to her. Thus, it cannot be inferred that P.W.1 Pinki Vishwakarma after perusal of the medical report/ultrasound report attached to her application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. admitted its genuineness and ultrasound report was duly proved according to law. The aforesaid ultrasound report has not been exhibited after allegedly being proved by P.W.1 Pinki Vishwakarma.

14. Under these facts and circumstances of the case, it cannot be considered that the ultrasound report dated 09.02.2007 which has shown the age of foetus to be 10 weeks old has been duly proved. Since the ultrasound report has not been duly proved, it cannot be considered as proving the fact of the age of her foetus on the date of ultrasound i.e. 09.02.2007. Thus, it cannot be concluded that revisionist no. 1 was bearing an 11 days foetus at the date of her marriage with opposite party no. 2 i.e. on 12.12.2006.

15. Thus, it cannot be said that revisionist no. 2 was not begotten with revisionist no. 1 relation with opposite party no. 2. Since revisionist no. 2, Vaishnavi, was born on 16.09.2007 i.e. after 9 months 4 days after marriage of revisionist no.1 with opposite party no. 2, she will be considered to have been begotten by revisionist no. 1 with opposite party no. 2 during the continuance of her marriage with him.

16. Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act provides that birth of a child during continuance of valid marriage between his mother and any man or within 280 days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried shall be conclusive proof of legitimacy of the son. Section 112 is as follows :

112. Birth during marriage, conclusive proof of legitimacy – The fact that any person was born during the continuance of a valid marriage between his mother and any man, or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is the legitimate son of that man, unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten.

Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act provides in itself that how this presumption about legitimacy of a child can be rebutted by the opposite party. For its rebuttal, it should be shown that parties to the marriage had no access to each other at the time when the child could have been begotten.

17. From the above discussion, it is proved that revisionist no. 2, Vaishnavi was born after 9 months and 4 days of the marriage of revisionist no.1 with opposite party no. 2 which is less than 280 days. Therefore, the presumption u/s 112 of the Indian Evidence Act is applicable on the birth of revisionist no. 2 and provides legitimacy to her birth and raises a presumption that she is a legitimate child of revisionist no.1 and opposite party no. 2. The opposite party no. 2 has failed to rebut the presumption arising out of Section 112 of Indian Evidence Act by proving that revisionist no.1 was bearing a foetus before her marriage with opposite party no. 2. Therefore, it cannot be considered that revisionist no. 2 was not conceived from the wedlock of revisionist no.1 with opposite party no. 2 but from some other person. Since, revisionist no. 2 is a legitimate child from revisionist no.1 with opposite party no. 2, she is entitled to maintenance u/s 125 Cr.P.C. from opposite party no. 2.

18. The other ground which has been relied upon by the trial court for rejecting the application of revisionist no. 1 u/s 125 Cr.P.C. is that she was residing separately from opposite party no. 2 without any reason. Thus, she is dis-entitled from obtaining maintenance u/s 125 (4) Cr.P.C. from opposite party no. 2. P.W.1 Pinki Vishwakarma has deposed that after her marriage with opposite party no. 2, she resided in her matrimonial home for 1½ months. During this period, opposite party no. 2 and her family members pressurized her to bring Rs.2,00,000/- cash, her father's truck and plot of 3 biswa land situated in front of Government Hospital on the Ghazipur-Varanasi main road. They harassed her, beat her and threatened to murder her and at 8 p.m. turned her out of her matrimonial home after snatching her jewellery. The opposite party no. 2 has deposed that neither any demand of dowry was made from the revisionist no.1 nor she was harassed or beaten by his family members at her matrimonial home. She left her matrimonial home after living there for 4 days only. P.W.1 Pinki Vishwakarma has also deposed in her evidence that her father and brother made efforts for settlement with opposite party no. 2 for 3 times but they did not agree to let her stay at her matrimonial home without fulfilling the dowry demand.

19. D.W.1 Ashok Kumar Vishwakarma has admitted in his evidence that revisionist no. 1 has filed application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. regarding cruelty and harassment for dowry against him as well as his family members. Admittedly, opposite party no. 2 has filed a Hindu Marriage Petition No. 31 of 2008, Ashok Kumar Vishwakarma Vs. Pinki Vishwakarma u/s 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act for divorce against revisionist no. 1. The opposite party no. 2 has entered into second marriage with daughter of Ram Prasad Vishwakarma who is resident of Chandausi. The name of her brothers are Swagat and Pradeep. The revisionist no. 1 could not recall the name of second wife of opposite party no. 2 but did mention that the name of her brothers are Swagat and Pradeep. The revisionist no. 1 also deposed that since opposite party no. 2 had married another woman, she is not prepared to live along with her. From the analysis of the above oral and documentary evidence, it can be concluded that due to harassment and cruelty met by Pinki Vishwakarma from Ashok Kumar Vishwakarma and his family members and his marrying another woman, she is living separately from him. Therefore, it cannot be concluded that she is staying separately from Ashok Kumar Vishwakarma without any reason. Thus, finding in this regard arrived at by the trial court is perverse and cannot be accepted.

20. From the perusal of the impugned judgement and order, it transpires that the trial court has not given any finding on the income of Ashok Kumar Vishwakarma. The trial court has rejected the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. merely on the basis of above-mentioned three grounds that firstly, revisionist no. 1 was pregnant at the time of her marriage to opposite party no. 2, secondly, revisionist no. 2, Vaishnavi is the daughter born from the wedlock of revisionist no. 1 and opposite party no. 2 and thirdly, revisionist no. 1 is living separately from her husband without any reason, therefore, she is entitled for maintenance.

21. From the above discussion of the evidence on record, the Court is of the considered view that illegality has been committed by the trial court by rejecting the misc. case and application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. by the impugned order. The impugned order is liable to be rejected.

22. Accordingly, the criminal revision is allowed. The impugned judgement and order dated 06.12.2022 passed by learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Ghazipur, is hereby set-aside.

23. This Court is of the view that the trial court be directed to order afresh on application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. in the light of the observations made in this judgement and after ascertaining the income of opposite party no. 2, pass order for maintenance allowance in favour of revisionist nos. 1 and 2 according to law. The trial court shall direct both the parties to submit affidavit regarding their income in the light of the directions given by Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajnesh Vs. Neha and Another, (2021) 2 SCC 324 within one month and decide the application u/s 125 Cr.P.C. within a period of 4 months. The parties shall appear in the trial court on 15.03.2024.

24. The copy of the judgement be forthwith sent to the trial court for compliance.

Criminal Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 -

Sections 2(14), 27, 29, 30, 36, 37, 40, 101 & 104 - Revisionist (alleged father-in-law) challenged CWC order (09.02.2023) directing a juvenile victim girl to be kept in a Women Protection Home, Prayagraj, and appellate court's order (08.01.2024) dismissing his appeal under Section 101 at admission stage. Victim, recovered after an FIR under Section 363 IPC, was declared a child in need of care and protection under Section 2(14) as her family refused custody. CWC's order lacked proper inquiry under Section 36 and social investigation report, deemed superficial. Revisionist, not having applied for custody before CWC, was not an aggrieved person but permitted to apply under Section 104 for amendment of CWC's order. Appellate court's dismissal, citing lack of jurisdiction under Section 27(10), was erroneous as Section 101 allows appeals to Children's Court for all CWC orders except those related to foster care or sponsorship aftercare. Appellate order set aside, revisionist granted opportunity to apply to CWC, which must decide within one month, uninfluenced by court observations. CWC's superficial approach criticized, emphasizing principles of best interest, family responsibility, safety, and restoration under Section 3. Revision disposed of with directions for circulation to District Judiciary and CWC for guidance. (Paras 5-18)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nand Lal Yadav, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri L.D. Rajbhar, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. By means of this criminal revision, the revisionist Ram Bahadur Singh has challenged an order passed by the C.W.C. dated 09.02.2023 by which victim girl, a juvenile has been ordered to be kept in a 'woman protection home' and further an order passed by the appellate court dated 08.01.2024, whereby the appeal moved by the instant revisionist under Section 101 of J. J. Act, 2015 was dismissed at the stage of admission.

3. The relevant facts are that an F.I.R. came to be lodged against unknown person as regard missing of 15 year old daughter of the first informant under Section 363 I.P.C. The girl was recovered and was produced before the C.W.C. The C.W.C. enquired into the matter and found that her family members refused to appear before the C.W.C. for her custody and, therefore, with an unanimous opinion, she was directed to be kept in a Women Protection Home at Prayagraj. Ram Bahadur Singh filed an appeal challenging the aforesaid order under Section 101 of the J.J. Act, 2015.

4. The main submissions of the revisionist are:- First that he is father-in-law of the detenue and that because her husband (i.e. his son) has been charge-sheeted and is facing trial in the instant case, therefore, she may be released from protection home into his custody; In the given circumstances he is better entitled to claim her custody and that her welfare can only be looked after by him; and that her own parents never came forward to take her into their custody; and that the girl herself wanted to remain in her in-law's family. It is further submitted that she did not give any evidence against her husband and that she does not face any threats from him and that CWC ignored all the facts and circumstances of the matter and passed an order of sending her to a protection home in an arbitrary manner. It is contended in addition that the appeal filed by her father-in-law Ram Bahadur Singh has been dismissed without taking into account the relevant facts and circumstances and that the appellate court passed the order in a mechanical manner.

5. Before any legal or factual issue is considered in this matter, it is important to notice that the instant revisionist- alleged father-in-law of the detenue, admittedly never moved any application before the C.W.C, for obtaining her custody. Obviously this question arises that when he did not move any application to obtain her custody, how can he be treated as an aggrieved person and therefore, whether any appeal could have been filed by him challenging the impugned order passed by the C.W.C.? At this stage I prefer to leave aside such issues and deal with certain other issues of greater importance arising in this case.

6. The J.J. Act, 2015 is a comprehensive act dealing with two types of juveniles first those who are treated as "child in conflict with law", secondly, those who are treated as "child in need of care and protection".

Certain things are noticeable viz.-:

• Separate chapters deal with two types of children. The Chapter VI of the J.J. Act, 2015 has provisions which specifically apply to latter type i.e. "child in need of care and protection".

• When a child shall be treated as a 'child in need of care and protection' is provided in section 2 (14) of the Act which broadly provides that any child who has parents or guardian and such parents and guardian are found to be unfit to take care for and protect the safety and well being of a child or where a child does not have parents and no one is willing to take care of him/her, or where a child has been or is being or is likely to be abused, tortured or exploited for the purpose of sexual abuse or illegal acts, may also be treated as child in care of need and protection, besides children falling in several other categories.

• The Child Welfare Committees have been constituted for children in need of care and protection under the Act.

• Chapter VI of the J.J. Act, 2015 provides for procedure beginning from production of such child before such a committee and also provides for procedure to hold inquiry under section 36 of the J.J. Act, 2015 and the orders which may be passed with regard to such a child under section 37 of the J.J. Act, 2015.

• Section 37 of the Act importantly provides that the committee, on being satisfied on the basis of inquiry held by it, declare that a child is in need of care and protection.

• The committee has power to place the child in a protection home of the nature as provided in section 37 of the J.J. Act, 2015 and it may also restore the child to parents or guardians or family with or without supervision of Child Welfare Officer. Further the Committee has power to restore the child in need of care and protection to his parents, guardian or fit person as the case may be, after determining suitability of the parents or guardian or fit person and give them suitable directions as provided in section 40 of the Act.

• Another very important provision is under section 104 of the J.J. Act, 2015. Section 104 of the J.J. Act is as below:

Section 104- Power of the Committee or the Board to amend its own orders.

"(1) Without prejudice to the provisions for appeal and revision contained in this Act, the Committee or the Board may, on an application received in this behalf, amend any orders passed by itself, as to the institution to which a child is to be sent or as to the person under whose care or supervision a child is to be placed under this Act:

Provided that during the course of hearing for amending any such orders, there shall be at least two members of the Board of which one shall be the Principal Magistrate and at least three members of the Committee and all persons concerned, or their authorised representatives, whose views shall be heard by the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, before the said orders are amended.

(2) Clerical mistakes in orders passed by the Committee or the Board or errors arising therein from any accidental slip or omission may, at any time, be corrected by the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, either on its own motion or on an application received in this behalf."

7. This is quite significant to note that this provision gives very wide and ample powers to the committee to amend its own order, wherever required, for any good reason which, in my opinion, may include change in circumstances. Section 104 of the J.J. Act, 2015 prescribes a procedure before an order already passed can be amended. It says that "all persons concerned" or their authorised representatives shall be heard by the committee before such an order is amended.

8. A bare look on the relevant provisions of the J.J. Act, 2015, gives an impression that any detention in a protection home, of a child in need of care and protection is purely temporary in nature and rightly so. This fact should not be relegated to the background that the J.J. Act, 2015 has been enacted keeping in mind the general principles, as have been enumerated in Chapter II of the Act itself. The general principles include the principles of best interest, principle of family responsibility, principles of safety, principle of institutionalization, principle of repatriation and restoration. All the aforesaid principles are guiding factors for the Board as well as for the C.W.C. while implementing the provisions of this Act. These principles may act as a becon light while considering and deciding upon the matter of lodging a child, particularly a child in need of care and protection, in a juvenile home or when releasing her/him in care or custody of any suitable person or a family member. In my opinion the committee is expected to take a reasoned decision, after due deliberations as regard where it would be best suited to lodge a "child in need of care and protection" in the facts and circumstances of a case and that where his best interest shall be served and therefore, which institution or which person/family member shall be in better position to take care of his well being. The C.W.C. may also review or revise its own order where circumstances prompt for such an action or where any new development takes place, compelling it to take a different stand/view. Such powers have been vested in C.W.C., notwithstanding the powers of appellate court or the revisional court. I hasten to add that this is not to say that appellate court or the revisional court can not exercise its powers wherever it can and ought to.

9. There are several significant issues involved and mixed up in this matter which need to disentangled for future guidance of all concerned.

• First, the alleged father-in-law– the instant revisionist never moved any application before the C.W.C. either before passing of the impugned order dated 09.02.2023 or after the same, hence, the C.W.C. obviously could not decide the matter in the light of his submissions. In my opinion there is no bar for him to apply to C.W.C., even if he had no opportunity to move such an application, before impugned order was passed. Still, in case, such an application is now moved, the same can be decided in the light of provisions of Section 104 of the J.J. Act, 2015.

• Secondly, I am constrained to notice that the impugned order has been passed by the C.W.C. in a most superficial, cursory and cavalier manner. No proper inquiry has been made as is enjoined upon the C.W.C by law. In my opinion the C.W.C. is enjoined by law to conduct proper enquiry as provided in section 36 and then pass an order under section 37 of the J.J. 2015. It may also be noted that no social investigation report appears to have been submitted before the Committee for passing a final order as is required by section 36 (2) of the J.J. Act, 2015.

• In a number of cases, coming before this Court this is being noted that C.W.C. is passing superficial orders without conducting proper inquiry and disposing of the matters with nonchalance. The custody or detention of victim in a protection home are not trivial matters. The very first requirement is to declare him/her as a child in need of care and protection and second is to conduct a proper enquiry as regard his/her lodgement or care and custody keeping in mind the need and suitability of juvenile home/person to whom he/she is entrusted.

• Next important question which cannot be ignored is as regard the jurisdiction of the appellate court as provided under section 101 of J.J. Act, 2015. In this case the appeal has been dismissed at the stage of admission by passing a cryptic order as below:

" किशोर न्याय (बालकों की देखरेख और संरक्षण) अधिनियम 2015 की धारा 101 के अन्तर्गत पोषण, देखरेख एवं प्रवर्तकता संबंधी निविश्चयों के सिवाय अपील जिला मजिस्ट्रेट को होने का प्राविधान किया गया है। इस संदर्भ में नियम 27 के अन्तर्गत बाल कल्याण समिति के आदेश विनिश्चय के विरूद्ध अपील जिला मजिस्ट्रेट के समक्ष होने का प्राविधान किया गया है।

उपरोक्त तथ्यों के आधार पर आवेदक की ओर से प्रस्तुत प्रकरण को अंगीकरण के स्तर पर निस्तारित किया जाता है।"

10. During my working, I have come across a number of such orders where appeals have been dismissed referring to Section 27 of J.J. Act 2015. A similar question arose before this Court in Smt. Soni Saxena @ Neetu Saxena vs. State of U.P. and 4 other, Criminal Revision No.6033 of 2023. The Court observed in paras 4 and 5 as below-:

"4. The appellate court seems to have passed the order in the light of the provisions of section 27*(10) of the J.J. Act, 2015.* Section 27 deals with the Constitution of the Child Welfare Committee, the qualifications of a person as regard eligibility of the person to be appointed as a member of a Committee, disqualifications, the tenure of the members, the procedure for inquiry as regard termination of the members etc. Section 27(10) of the J.J. Act, 2015 empowers the District Magistrate to entertain any grievance arising out of functioning of a Committee. This section further empowers the affected child or any one connected with the child, as the case may be, to file a complaint before the District Magistrate for the purpose that he may take suitable action as regard the complaints or the grievances which an affected person may have against the Committee. These provisions definitely do not deal with legal challenge to the orders passed by the Committee. An aggrieved person can challenge the order passed by the Child Welfare Committee under section 101 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015.

*"(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, any person aggrieved by an order made by the Committee or the Board under this Act may, within thirty days from the date of such order, prefer an appeal to the "Children's Court", except for decisions by the Committee related to Foster Care and Sponsorship After Care for which the appeal shall lie with the District Magistrate."

11. Faced with a similar case, this Court in Girish Kumar vs. State of U.P. and 3 Others, 2022:AHC:206879 decided on 25.11.2022, with reference to provisions of section 101 of the J.J. Act, 2015, observed in Para no. 6 as below:-

"6. It is quite clear from this provision of law that appeal shall lie to the District Magistrate with respect to decisions by the Child Welfare Committee relating to foster care and sponsorship after care only. The appeal in respect of other orders passed by the Child Welfare Committee shall lie to the 'Children's Court' within 30 days from the date of order. Before analysing this provision, it will be appropriate to peruse the order passed by the Child Welfare Committee to decide upon whether this order falls in the category where the appeal may lie to Children's Court or in the category where appeal shall lie to District Magistrate."

12. In the same case this court further observed in Para nos. 10 and 11 as below:-

"10. I went through the material on record in the light of submissions before this Court. As per scheme of the Juvenile Justice Act, the Child Welfare Committee, irrespective of any other law, has power to deal exclusively with all proceedings relating to 'children in need of care and protection' under Section-29 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. The functions and responsibilities of Committee include taking cognizance of and receiving the child produced before it, conducting inquiry on all issues relating to safety and well being of a child as well as ensuring care, protection, appropriate rehabilitation and most importantly restoration of 'children in need of care and protection' (Section-30 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015). Section-37 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 empowers the Committee, after being satisfied through an inquiry, consideration of social investigation report submitted by Child Welfare Officer and taking into account the child's wishes, in case the child is sufficiently matured, to take a view and pass one or more of following order, namely:-

(a) declaration that a child is in need of care and protection;

(b) restoration of the child to parents or guardian or family with or without supervision of Child Welfare Officer or designated social worker;

(c) placement of the child in Children's Home or fit facility or Specialized Adoption Agency for the purpose of adoption for long term or temporary care, keeping in mind the capacity of the institution for housing such children, either after reaching the conclusion that the family of the child cannot be traced or even if traced, restoration of the child to the family is not in the best interest of the child;

(d) placement of the child with fit person for long term or temporary care;

(e) foster care orders under section 44;

(f) sponsorship orders under section 45;

(g) .....;

(h) .....

10. On perusal of the above provisions of Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, it is demonstrated that Child Welfare Committee is given vast powers on the principles of best interest of a child, a thread which goes through the whole of the scheme of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015. It has been specifically provided by the section-3 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 that Central Government, State Governments, the Board and other agencies, as the case may be, while implementing the provisions of the Act, shall be guided by the fundamental principles which include principles of best interest, principle of family responsibilities, the principle of safety, the principles of repatriation and restoration and several others.

11. The provisions of law as aforesaid are being reproduced here with the twin object; firstly, that when an order is passed of the7 nature as is under challenge before this Court, the appeal shall be entertainable by the Children's Court and not by the District Magistrate; the District Magistrate is empowered to hear appeals only against the decisions of the Committee relating to foster care and sponsorship after care. The order in question does not fall in this category. The appellate court was thus wrong in holding that appeal did not lie before it. Therefore, the impugned order is liable to be set-aside; secondly, it may be noted that when a child in need of care and protection is lodged in any shelter home, it is a measure of temporary nature; the Child Welfare Committee is fully empowered to take a decision where it is found no more necessary to detain her. It may be noted that legally a child in need of care and protection may be detained for a further period even if he/she has attained majority if it is found that it will not be in his/her best interest to release him/her immediately."

13. The learned appellate court instead of deciding the matter on merits, declined to exercise its powers on patently wrong assumptions. It is difficult to understand how such a view has been taken by the appellate court that it had no jurisdiction to hear the challenge to an order of this nature passed by the Child Welfare Committee, in appeal. As is quite obvious, an appeal shall lie to children court against all the orders passed by the Child Welfare Committee except where order has been passed relating to foster care or sponsorship foster care.

14. In view of the legal provisions as mentioned above, the revisionist is granted opportunity to move an application before the C.W.C. In case, such an application is moved, the C.W.C. shall decide the same in accordance with law, preferably within a month of moving such an application. It is made very clear that this Court has not touched upon merit of the claim of the applicant/revisionist in any manner. The C.W.C. shall decide the matter uninfluenced by observations, if any, made on facts, by this Court as regard his claim.

15. As the revisionist has been given opportunity to move a fresh application before the C.W.C. hence, there is no need to set aside the earlier order passed by the C.W.C., however, as far as order passed by the appellate court is concerned, it is patently against law, hence, it is set aside.

16. Accordingly, this revision is finally disposed of.

17. The copy of this order be transmitted to CWC concerned.

18. Let a copy of this order be circulated for the benefit of District Judiciary and also to C.W.C. for necessary guidance.

Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 319 & 397 - Summoning Additional Accused - Revision Against Rejection of Application - Revisionist challenged trial court's order (05.12.2022) rejecting application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon Mohit Mandal, Krishna Mandal, and Sheela Devi in S.T. No. 631/2018 (arising from Case Crime No. 301/2017, Sections 306, 506 IPC) for abetment to suicide of revisionist's son, Manoj Kumar. FIR alleged that co-accused Khudiram and proposed accused extorted money, took free goods from deceased's shop, and defamed him, leading to his suicide by hanging on 22.10.2016. Trial court, after evaluating depositions of P.W.1 (scribe), P.W.2 (doctor), P.W.3 (revisionist-mother), and P.W.4 (father), found insufficient evidence of instigation by proposed accused, noting inconsistencies in claims of financial demands and lack of positive assertion of abetment. Supreme Court rulings in Hardeep Singh Vs St. of Punj. (2014) 3 SCC 92, S. Mohammad Ispahani Vs Yogendra Chandak (2017) 16 SCC 226, Rajesh Vs St. of Har. (2019) 6 SCC 368, and Yashodhan Singh Vs St. of U.P. (2023) 9 SCC 108 clarify that Section 319 Cr.P.C. requires evidence stronger than a prima facie case but short of conviction-level satisfaction, and can be based on examination-in-chief or material collected before trial. Trial court's reasoned order, finding no cogent evidence against proposed accused, upheld as no illegality or irregularity found. Revision dismissed. (Paras 3-17)

Revision Dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

This criminal revision has been filed for challenging the impugned judgement and order dated 05.12.2022 passed by the Sessions Judge, Gautam Buddh Nagar in S.T. No.631 of 2018 (State vs. Khudiram) arising out of Case Crime No. 301 of 2017, under Sections 306 and 506 I.P.C., Police Station-Sector-20, Noida, District-Gautam Buddh Nagar.

2. By the impugned order, the trial Court had rejected the application No.31 Ka filed by the revisionist under Section 319 Cr.P.C. for summoning Mohit Mandal, Krishna Mandal, Arjun Mandal and Sheela Devi in S.T. No.631 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No.301 of 2018, under Sections 306 and 506 I.P.C., Police Station Sector-20, District Noida.

3. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that learned Sessions Judge vide order dated 05.12.2022 has illegally rejected the application filed by the revisionist under Section 319 Cr.P.C. without considering the evidence on record. It has also been submitted that on the basis of deposition of P.W.1-Sachin Kumar, P.W.2-Dr. Sanjeev Kumar, P.W.-3 Smt. Urmila Devi and P.W-4.-Kaleshwar there was sufficient evidence to summon the opposite party Nos.2 to 4, namely, Mohit Mandal, Krishna Mandal and Sheela Devi under Section 319 Cr.P.C. for trial with charge-sheeted accused, namely, Khudiram. It has also been submitted that impugned order is based on surmises and conjectures and is against the perverse and against the evidence on record and same may be set-aside.

4. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submitted that trial Court has passed reasoned order after discussing the deposition of P.W.1 to 4 and considering the other documentary evidence. There is no illegality or irregularity in the impugned order, hence, no interference in the impugned order is warranted.

5. Heard Sri Ankit Agarwal, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri Alok Sharma, learned A.G.A. for the State.

6. The brief facts of the case is that First Information Report was lodged on the application of the revisionist, under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. with the averments that his son, namely, Manoj Kumar, who is aged about 24 years running a grocery shop. Co-accused, namely, Khudiram, who was of criminal nature, used to extract money from Manoj Kumar for running the shop in the area and his relatives, who are brothers-in-law and sister-in-law, namely, Mohit Mandal, Krishna Mandal and Sheela used to take free commodities from the shop of deceased Manoj Kumar and on being asked for payment of the commodities, they threatened him to defame his reputation. On 22.10.2016 at about 5:00 P.M., sister-in-law of co-accused-Khudiram entered into the shop of deceased Manoj Kumar and closed the shutter and thereafter, son of the revisionist was forced to drink intoxicating substance administered by co-accused Khudiram, therefore, he became unconscious. Co-accused- Khudiram started shouting in front of his shop that son of the revisionist has closed his sister-in-law in his shop and trying to outrage her modesty. On being conscious, son of the revisionist somehow came out through drain from behind the shop. Meanwhile, Khudiram, Mohit Mandal, Krishan Mandal with common intention entered into the house of revisionist/informant and made false allegation that his son was making indecent gesture with Sheela Kumari and they started beating him. Upon hearing the noise, Manju, Geeta and some other person of the locality reached there and saved them, then accused persons ran away from the place of occurrence after giving threat. On the same day at about 7:00 P.M., son of the revisionist committed suicide by hanging due to anguish of being falsely defamed by the accused persons. The suicide note was recovered, in which, accused persons were made responsible for his abetment to commit suicide. In this regard, revisionist had given application to the concerned Police Station, but no action was taken.

7. Before examining the merits of the present case, the ambit, scope and power of the Sessions Court under Sections 397 as well as 319 Cr.P.C. should be discussed and ascertained.

"12.Section 397 of the Code vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law. There has to be a well-founded error and it may not be appropriate for the court to scrutinise the orders, which upon the face of it bears a token of careful consideration and appear to be in accordance with law. If one looks into the various judgments of this Court, it emerges that the revisional jurisdiction can be invoked where the decisions under challenge are grossly erroneous, there is no compliance with the provisions of law, the finding recorded is based on no evidence, material evidence is ignored or judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or perversely. These are not exhaustive classes, but are merely indicative. Each case would have to be determined on its own merits.

13.Another well-accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restrictions is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The Court has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction itself should not lead to injustice ex facie. Where the Court is dealing with the question as to whether the charge has been framed properly and in accordance with law in a given case, it may be reluctant to interfere in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction unless the case substantially falls within the categories aforestated. Even framing of charge is a much advanced stage in the proceedings under the CrPC."

9. In paragraph nos.17 and 19 of the aforesaid judgement, the Hon'ble Apex Court has narrated that before framing a charge, what documents should be considered by the trial court. It has also provided about the extent of evidence required for framing of a charge. In paragraph no.20 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has compared the power and extent of jurisdiction of the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. and Section 482 Cr.P.C. which is given hereunder :

"20.The jurisdiction of the court under Section 397 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression "prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice", the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, propriety or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maximquando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potesti.e. when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the court is not permitted to be abused."

10. The Hon'ble Apex Court in para 117.3 and 117.4 in the case of Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab; (2014) 3 SCC 92 has explained the meaning of word 'evidence' as used under Section 319 Cr.P.C.. The relevant paragraphs of the judgement reads as under:-

"117.3. In view of the above position the word "evidence" in Section 319CrPC has to be broadly understood and not literally i.e. as evidence brought during a trial.

Question (ii)—Whether the word "evidence" used in Section 319(1)CrPC could only mean evidence tested by cross-examination or the court can exercise the power under the said provision even on the basis of the statement made in the examination-in-chief of the witness concerned?Answer

117.4. Considering the fact that under Section 319CrPC a person against whom material is disclosed is only summoned to face the trial and in such an event under Section 319(4)CrPC the proceeding against such person is to commence from the stage of taking of cognizance, the court need not wait for the evidence against the accused proposed to be summoned to be tested by cross-examination."

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in para 117.5 of the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) has also explained the nature of satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused. The relevant paragraph of the judgement reads as under:-

"117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b)CrPC the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319CrPC would be the same as for framing a charge.The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different."

12. The scope and ambit of Section 319 Cr.P.C. has been well-settled by the pronouncement of Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and others, (2014) 3 SCC 92 and paras 105 and 106 which are relevant for the purpose are reproduced hereunder :

"105. Power under Section 319 Cr.P.C, 1973 is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court, not necessarily tested on the anvil of cross-examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973. In Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973, the purpose of providing if "it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence" is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused". The words used are not "for which such person could be convicted". There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C., 1973 to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

13. In S. Mohammad Ispahani Vs. Yogendra Chandak (2017) 16 SCC 226, this Court has observed and held as under :

"35. It needs to be highlighted that when a person is named in the FIR by the complainant, but police, after investigation, finds no role of that particular person and files the charge-sheet without implicating him, the Court is not powerless, and at the stage of summoning, if the trial court finds that a particular person should be summoned as accused, even though not named in the charge-sheet, it can do so. At that stage, chance is given to the complainant also to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in the FIR but not implicated in the charge sheet. Once that stage has gone, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 of the Cr.P.C. However, this section gets triggered when during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused."

14. In the case of Rajesh Vs. State of Haryana (2019) 6 SCC 368, after considering the observations made by this Court in Hardeep Singh (supra) referred to hereinabove, this Court has further observed and held that even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in F.I.R. but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 Cr.P.c. and even those persons named in the F.I.R.

but not implicated in charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused.

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Yashodhan Singh and others vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Another; (2023) 9 SCC 108 has explained the law purported by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh (supra) regarding the evidence required the satisfaction of the Court for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The paragraph Nos. 22.6, 22.7 and 22.8 which are relevant for the purpose are reproduced hereunder :

"22.6. It was also observed by this Court in Hardeep Singh [Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92 : (2014) 2 SCC (Cri) 86] that apart from evidence in the strict legal sense recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilised only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319CrPC. Holding that the expression "evidence" must be given a broad meaning, it was observed that material which is not exactly evidence recorded before the court, but is a material collected by the court, can be utilised to corroborate evidence already recorded for the purpose of summoning any other person, other than the accused. Such material would be supportive in nature to facilitate the exposition of any other accomplice whose complicity in the offence may have been suppressed or had escaped the notice of the court. Therefore, any material brought before the court even prior to the trial can be read within the meaning of the expression "evidence" for the purpose of Section 319CrPC. While considering the evidence that emanates during the trial, it was observed by this Court that evidence recorded by way of examination-in-chief and which is untested by cross-examination is nevertheless evidence which can be considered by the court for the exercise of power under Section 319CrPC so long as, it would appear to the court that some other person who is not facing the trial, may also have been involved in the offence.

22.7. Further, Section 319CrPC also uses the words "such person could be tried", which means not to have a mini-trial at the stage of Section 319CrPC by having examination and cross-examination and thereafter coming to a prima facie conclusion on the overt act of such person sought to be added. Such a mini-trial will affect the right of the person sought to be arraigned as an accused rather than not having any cross-examination at all. As under Section 319(4)CrPC, such a person has the right to cross-examine the prosecution witnesses and examine the defence witnesses and advance his arguments. It was further observed that the power under Section 319CrPC can be exercised even after completion of examination-in-chief and the court does not have to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination, for it is the satisfaction of the court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the court, in respect of complicity of some other persons, not facing the trial in the offence.

22.8. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. Therefore, such satisfaction is sine qua non for exercise of power under Section 319CrPC. Ultimately, the exercise of power is for the trial of such persons summoned together with the accused already on trial and not for conviction with the accused. Therefore, at that stage, the court need not form any definite opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

16. The trial Court has discussed the evidence on record and given reasons arriving at the conclusion, which are as follows:-

" The inquest of the dead body was conducted on 22.10.2016 at 21:40 Hrs in presence of Pawan Kumar, Kaleshwar, Rambabu, Suneel Kumar and Satish Kumar, wherein they have opined that the death of Manoj Kumar was due to hanging inside the room.

The postmortem reveals Lacerated Mark 28 cm 4cm below right ear and 7 cm below from chin and 7 cm below from left ear; gap 11 cm. In the opinion, the death was asphyxia due to antemortem hanging.

In the present matter Sachin Kumar the scribe of chik FIR has deposed as P.W.1 that on the basis of order dated 09.03.2017 of Chief Judicial Magistrate on application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. the FIR has been registered on 19.03.2017 on the basis of which the GD has been entered.

P.W.2, Dr. Sanjeev Kumar has stated that he has conducted the postmortem and found that the death has been caused due to hanging. During his cross-examination he has stated that while conducting postmortem he did not found any traces that the deceased was in influence of any intoxicant.

P.W.3, Smt. Urmila Devi, mother of the deceased has stated that Krishna Mondal, Mohit Mondal brothers of Sheela have accused her son of having illicit relations with Sheela and called the police when they found Sheela Devi in the shop with shutter down. It is further stated that the accused came and ask her son to marry Sheela.

P.W.4, Kaleshwar, father of the deceased has stated that he was not at the place of incident and went to AIIMS for his medicine. He further stated that the constable has asked him to call his son otherwise they will register the FIR against him.

P.W.5 Pawan Kumar, brother of the deceased has stated that the accused have falsely targeted the deceased in the garb of free grocery.

The witnesses of fact have not deposed in regard to the positive assertion on instigation against the proposed accused but have only stated that the accused have asked the deceased to marry Sheela for having found from the shop of deceased, who was already married. So far as taking of free grocery is concerned , the same is stated differently, as P.W.3 stated it as of Rs.80,000/- and according to P.W.5, it was Rs.20,000/-"

17. From the perusal of the aforesaid reasons given by the trial Court in the impugned order, the statements of prosecution witnesses on record as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid decisions, it appears that trial Court has not committed any illegality or irregularity in arising at the conclusion that there is no sufficient ground to summon the opposite party Nos.2 to 4 for trial with the co-accused Khudiram. Hence, I do not find any merit in the revision which is liable to be dismissed and is hereby dismissed accordingly.

Criminal Law - Public Gambling Act, 1867 - Section 13 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 397, 401 & 360 - Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 - Sections 4 & 12 - Criminal Revision - Rasheed Ahmed Vs St. of U.P., Criminal Revision No. 1021 of 2023 - Revisionist challenged conviction under Section 13 for gambling, sentenced to Rs.100 fine and custody till court rising, alleging denial of probation benefits and improper conviction. Court held: (1) FIR alleged gambling inside a private hut, not a public place as required under Section 13, rendering offence not made out. (2) Conviction based solely on confession invalid, as it was made due to poverty and inability to contest, not voluntary understanding of charges. (3) Trial court failed to assess if prosecution allegations constituted offence, mechanically taking cognizance on proforma. (4) Sentence of both fine and imprisonment illegal under Section 13 (U.P. amendment), which allows either fine (Rs.50-250) or imprisonment (up to one month) for first offence. (5) Denial of probation under Section 4 of the 1958 Act without reasons violated Section 361 Cr.P.C. Revision allowed; conviction and sentence set aside; revisionist acquitted. (Paras 16-24)

Revision Allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. By means of the instant criminal revision filed under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C. the revisionist has challenged the validity of the judgment and order dated 05.11.2020, passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Faizabad in Criminal Case No.11109 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No.52 of 2018, under Section 13 of the Gambling Act, Police Station Kotwali Rudauli, District Faizabad, whereby the revisionist has been convicted for the aforesaid offence on the basis of his confession and has been sentenced to pay a fine of Rs.100/- and to remain in custody till the rising of the Court, only to the extent that it denies the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 to the revisionist.

2. Sri. Amit Chaudhry, the learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the revisionist has no criminal history and, therefore, he was entitled to be granted benefit of provisions of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act of 1958'). In that case the revisionist would be entitled to the benefit of Section 12 of the Act, 1958, which provides that a person found guilty of the offence and dealt with under the provisions of Section 3/4 of the Act, 1958 shall not suffer disqualification, if any, attaching to a conviction of an offence under such law.

3. The learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that Section 361 Cr.P.C. provides that whether a court could have dealt with an accused person under the provisions of Section 360 Cr.P.C. or provisions of Act, 1958, but it has not done so, it shall record in its judgment the special reasons for not having done so, whereas no reason has been recorded in the impugned order for denial of benefit of Section 4 of the Act, 1958 to the revisionist.

4. Per contra, the learned A.G.A. – I has submitted that Section 4 of the Act of 1958 merely provides for release of the offender on probation of good conduct, but it does not provide for setting aside his conviction.

5. In reply to this submission of the learned A.G.A.-I, the learned Counsel for the revisionist has submitted that Section 12 of the Act of 1958 provides that a person found guilty of an offence and dealt with under the provisions of Section 3 or Section 4 shall not suffer any disqualification attaching to a conviction of an offence under such law. Therefore, he confines his submission for the revisionist being granted the benefit of Section 4 of the Act of 1958, which would result in removal of the disqualification attached with the applicant being guilty of committing an offence.

6. Having heard the submissions of the learned Counsel for the revisionist and the learned A.G.A.-I, I proceeded to peruse the record of the case. In the memo of the revision, the validity of the order of sentence has also been challenged on the ground that the fine imposed by the trial Court exceeds the maximum fine of Rs.50/- permissible under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act.

7. Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 provides as follows: -

"13. Gaming and setting birds and animals to fight in public streets.—A police-officer may apprehend without warrant—any person found playing for money or other valuable thing with cards, dice, counters or other instruments of gaming, used in playing any game not being a game of mere skill in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person setting any birds or animals to fight in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person there present aiding and abetting such public fighting of birds and animals.

Such person when apprehended shall be brought without delay before a Magistrate, and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or to imprisonment, either simple or rigorous, for any term not exceeding one calendar month;

Destruction of instruments of gaming found in public streets*.—Any such police-officer may seize all instruments of gaming found in such public place or on the person of those whom he shall so arrest, and the Magistrate may on conviction of the offender order such instruments to be forthwith destroyed."*

8. The provisions of Section 13 have been amended in their application to the State of U.P. by U. P. Act No. 21 of 1961 and Section 13 of the Gambling Act 1867, as it applies to the State of Uttar Pradesh, provides as follows: -

"13. Gaming and setting birds and animals to fight in public streets.—A police-officer may apprehend without warrant—any person found gaming in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person setting any birds or animals to fight in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid, or any person found in any public street, place or thoroughfare within the limits aforesaid with any instruments of gaming; or;

or any person there present making preparation for or aiding or abetting such gaming orpublic fighting of birds or animals.

Such person when apprehended shall be brought without delay before a Magistrate, and shall be liable - in the case of a first offence to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty rupees nor less than fifty rupees; or to rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month; and in the case of any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees nor less than one hundred rupees and rigorous imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months nor less than one month.

Destruction of instruments of gaming found in public streets.—Any such police-officer may seize all instruments of gaming found in such public place or on the person of those whom he shall so arrest, and the Magistrate may on conviction of the offender order such instruments to be forthwith destroyed."

9. The maximum fine that can be imposed under Section 13 of the Gambling Act for an offence committed in the State of Uttar Pradesh, is Rs.250/-. Therefore, the fine of Rs.100/- imposed on the revisionist does not exceed the maximum permissible limit of fine.

10. However, the conviction and the sentence imposed appear to be illegal for other reasons which are being stated hereinbelow.

11. The impugned judgment does not contain any narration of the prosecution case and it has held the revisionist guilty merely on his admission.

12. The present matter arose from F.I.R. No. 50 of 2018 lodged by a Sub-Inspector of Police in Police Station Kotwali Rudauli, District Barabanki, on 09.02.2018 at 20:30 hours, alleging that upon receiving information from a Mukhbir (informer), that some persons were gambling inside a hut in the grove of one Anjum, a police team reached there and found that four persons, including the revisionist, were playing a game of cards involving gambling. All the four persons were arrested on the spot. Rs.1,400/- were recovered from the revisionist, Rs.1,000/- were recovered from Mohammad Shafeeq, Rs.800/- were recovered from Mohammad Abid and Rs.1,200/- were recovered fro Salauddeen. 52 playing cards and Rs.1,900/- were recovered from a polythene sheet laid there. Although several persons had gathered there, no person witnessed the recovery.

13. As per the entry made in the General Diary of the police station, the accused persons were arrested at 18:30 p.m. on 09.02.2018, they were lodged in the lock-up at 20:29 hours on 09.02.2018. The revisionist was released on bail at 08:17 hours on 10.02.2018.

14. A charge-sheet was submitted on 14.03.2018 stating that from the statement of the complainant, statement of the witnesses, spot inspection and the recovery made, offence under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 is established against all the accused persons. However, no statement recorded by the Investigating Officer has been annexed with the charge-sheet.

15. The trial Court took cognizance of the offence by means of an order dated 15.06.2018 on a printed proforma stating that the Court perused all the prosecution documents and there was sufficient ground to take cognizance of the offence.

16. Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act provides that "A police-officer may apprehend without warrant— any person found gaming in any public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits aforesaid.." The F.I.R. in the present case stated that the accused persons were gamling inside a hut situated in the grove on one Anjum, which was not a public street, place or thoroughfare situated within the limits of any public place. Therefore, from the allegations made in the F.I.R. itself, the offence under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act, 1867 is not made out. The Investigating Officer has not carried out any investigation and he has submitted a charge-sheet in a mechanical manner.

17. The Trial Court also did not apply his mind to record a prima facie satisfaction as to whether the alleged offence was made out even if the F.I.R. allegations were assumed to be true and passed the order taking cognizance of the offence and summoning the accused persons, by filling up the names of the accused persons and other particulars on a printed proforma, which practice has been deprecated by the Superior Courts time and again.

18. The revisionist appeared before the trial Court on 05.11.2020 and he filed an application stating that he is a poor person and he is unable to contest the case. For this reason, he stated that he wanted to get the case disposed off on the basis of his confession and it would be in the interest of justice that the case be disposed off by imposing the minimum fine against him.

19. In the impugned order dated 05.11.2020, the trial Court has recorded the aforesaid fact and has held the revisionist guilty on the basis of his confession. Such a confession made because of the compelling circumstance of the accused being unable to contest the case because of his poverty, is no confession in the eyes of law, particularly when the Court itself had not cared to examine that even if the prosecution allegations were taken to be true, the offence under Section 13 of the Public Gambling Act 1867 was not made out against the revisionist.

20. The sentence order records the submission of the revisionist that he was a poor and destitute person and he was accordingly sentenced to pay a fine of Rs.100/- and to remain in custody till the rising of the Court. The revisionist had already been in custody for a period since 18:30 p.m. on 09.02.2018 till 08:17 hours on 10.02.2018 of about 2 years.

21. An offence under Section 13 committed in the State of Uttar Pradesh carries a maximum punishment of fine of an amount between Rs.50/- and Rs.250/- or imprisonment for a maximum period of one month. The trial Court could not have punished the revisionist with fine and imprisonment both.

22. The Courts are always under an obligation to ensure that no injustice is caused to any person and that no person is denied the Fundamental Right of equal protection of laws When an accused person makes a confession for the reason that he is unable to defend the prosecution case because of his poverty and destituteness, the Court's duty to ensure that no injustice is caused to him and the equal protection of the laws is not denied to him, becomes even more onerous. The Court must consider whether the allegation against the accused make out a case for his conviction and sentence and whether the accused has made the confession after understanding the nature of allegation made against him and after understanding its consequences.

23. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the order of conviction and sentence imposed upon the revisionist on the basis of his confession only, when the offence is not made out even if the prosecution case is accepted to be true, is unsustainable in law and the same deserves to be set aside.

24. Accordingly, the revision is allowed and the judgment and order dated 05.11.2020, passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Faizabad in Criminal Case No.11109 of 2018 arising out of Case Crime No.52 of 2018, under Section 13 of the Gambling Act, Police Station Kotwali Rudauli, District Faizabad, whereby the revisionist has been convicted for the aforesaid offence on the basis of his confession and has been sentenced to pay a fine of Rs.100/- and to remain in custody till the rising of the Court, is hereby set aside and the revisionist is acquitted of the charges.

Criminal Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 - Sections 94, 102 & 18(3) - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 363, 302, 201, 376 & 511 - POCSO Act, 2012 - Sections 7/8 - Juvenile revisionist challenged order dated 07.07.2023 by Children's Court, dismissing appeal against Juvenile Justice Board's order (19.04.2022) to try him as an adult for heinous offences (kidnapping, murder, attempted rape, sexual assault on a 3.5-year-old girl). Court held: (1) Juvenile Justice Board's age determination (16 years, 6 months) based on school certificate (DOB 10.03.2001) under Section 94(2)(i) was final, as unchallenged. (2) Revisionist's claim of being 13 years, 11 months based on High School marks-sheet not substantiated; original certificate's authenticity upheld. (3) Board's decision to try juvenile as adult considered psychiatric report, physical/mental capacity, and gravity of offence, upheld by Children's Court. (4) No evidence of arbitrary or illegal judicial process; revisionist's grounds misconceived. (5) Heinous nature of offence (murder, attempted rape) warranted no leniency (Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs St. of U.P., (2022) 8 SCC 602; Sanjeev Kumar Gupta Vs St. of U.P., (2019) 12 SCC 370; St. (UT of J&K) Vs Shubam Sangra, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1592; Manoj Vs St. of Har., (2022) 6 SCC 187; Jyoti Prakash Rai Vs St. of Bihar, AIR 2008 SC 1696). (Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Abhinav Srivastava, the learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Anurag Verma, the learned A.G.A.-I appearing on behalf of the State and perused the records.

2. By means of the instant revision filed under Section 102 of Juvenile Justice Act, 2015 the revisionist has made following prayers:

"Wherefore it is prayed that the present Criminal Revision may kindly be allowed and the impugned order dated 07.07.2023 a Criminal Appeal 29/2023 Ram Pratap (Changed Name) vs. State of U.P. by the Learned Court of Additional District Judge/Special Judge (POCSO) Ayodhya, in so far as it relates to the present revisionist may kindly be set-aside.

It is further prayed that during the pendency of this Criminal Revision before this Hon'ble Court, the proceedings of the case in the court below may kindly be stayed.

It is further prayed that any other relief which this Hon'ble Court deems fit and proper in the circumstances of the case may also kindly be granted to the revisionists."

3. The impugned order dated 07.07.2023 is an order passed by the Presiding Officer, Children's Court, Faizabad/Ayodhya dismissing the appeal filed by the juvenile-delinquent against an order dated 19.04.2023, passed by Juvenile Justice Board holding that the juvenile-delinquent needs to be tried as an adult and referring the matter to the Children's Court.

4. The aforesaid order dated 19.04.2022 was passed by the Juvenile Justice Board in furtherance of an order dated 18.04.2022 whereby the revisionist was declared to be a juvenile in conflict with law and it was held that on the date of the incident he was about 16 years, 6 months of age.

5. The order dated 18.04.2022, passed by the Juvenile Justice Board was not challenged by the revisionist and it has attained finality. The order dated 19.04.2022, by which the matter was referred to the Children's Court, has also not been challenged in this revision.

6. The revisionist has merely challenged the appellate order dated 07.07.2023 on the grounds that the decision is bad in law, the impugned order has been passed without application of mind to the facts and circumstances of the case and material available on record and it is illegal, arbitrary and without any application of judicial mind. It has further been contended that as per the High School marks-sheet of the revisionist, he was about 13 years, 11 months and 10 days at the time of the incident and that the Sessions Court has not considered the provisions contained in Section 94 (2) (i) Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015.

7. Section 94 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 provides as follows: -

"94. Presumption and determination of age.— (1) Where, it is obvious to the Committee or the Board, based on the appearance of the person* brought before it under any of the provisions of this Act (other than for the purpose of giving evidence) that the said person is a child, the Committee or the Board shall record such observation stating the age of the child as nearly as may be and proceed with the inquiry under Section 14 or Section 36, as the case may be, without waiting for further confirmation of the age.

(2) In case, the Committee or the Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Committee or the Board, as the case may be, shall undertake the process of age determination, by seeking evidence by obtaining—the date of birth certificate from the school, or the matriculation or equivalent certificate from the concerned examination Board, if available; and in the absence thereof;

the birth certificate given by a corporation or a municipal authority or a panchayat;

and only in the absence of (i) and (ii) above, age shall be determined by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board:

Provided such age determination test conducted on the order of the Committee or the Board shall be completed within fifteen days from the date of such order.

(3) The age recorded by the Committee or the Board to be the age of person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to be the true age of that person.

8. A bare reading of Section 94 (2) (i) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 indicates that the date of birth certificate from the school or the matriculation or the equivalent certificate from the concerned examination board, have been given equivalent weight.

9. In the order dated 18.04.2022, the Juvenile Justice Board has mentioned that as per the marks-sheet of the revisionist of the High School examinations held in the year 2018, his date of birth was 12.05.2004 and he has passed the High School examination at the age of less than 13½ years. The date of the incident is 22.04.2018. The prosecution has produced a certificate dated 10.08.2018 issued by Modern School, Poora-1, Faizabad, wherein the date of birth of the juvenile-delinquent is mentioned to be 10.03.2001. Therefore, it was a document mentioned in Section 94 (2) (i) Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act.

10. The learned counsel for the revisionist has relied upon a decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs. State of U.P.: (2022) 8 SCC 602, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to numerous precedents on this point and summarized the law in this regard as follows: -

"33. What emerges on a cumulative consideration of the aforesaid catena of judgments is as follows:

33.1. A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage of a criminal proceeding, even after a final disposal of the case. A delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. It can also be raised for the first time before this Court.

33.2. An application claiming juvenility could be made either before the court or the JJ Board.

33.2.1. When the issue of juvenility arises before a court, it would be under sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015 but when a person is brought before a committee or JJ Board, Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 applies.

33.2.2. If an application is filed before the court claiming juvenility, the provision of sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with sub-section (2) of Section 9 so as to seek evidence for the purpose of recording a finding stating the age of the person as nearly as may be.

33.2.3. When an application claiming juvenility is made under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 before the JJ Board when the matter regarding the alleged commission of offence is pending before a court, then the procedure contemplated under Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would apply. Under the said provision if the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Board shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence and the age recorded by the JJ Board to be the age of the person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the JJ Act, 2015, be deemed to be true age of that person. Hence the degree of proof required in such a proceeding before the JJ Board, when an application is filed seeking a claim of juvenility when the trial is before the criminal court concerned, is higher than when an inquiry is made by a court before which the case regarding the commission of the offence is pending (vide Section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015).

33.3. That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rules 12(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iii) of the JJ Rules, 2007 made under the JJ Act, 2000 or sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

33.4. The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

33.5. That the procedure of an inquiry by a court is not the same thing as declaring the age of the person as a juvenile sought before the JJ Board when the case is pending for trial before the criminal court concerned. In case of an inquiry, the court records a prima facie conclusion but when there is a determination of age as per sub-section (2) of Section 94 of the 2015 Act, a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Also the age recorded by the JJ Board shall be deemed to be the true age of the person brought before it. Thus, the standard of proof in an inquiry is different from that required in a proceeding where the determination and declaration of the age of a person has to be made on the basis of evidence scrutinised and accepted only if worthy of such acceptance.

33.6. That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

33.7. This Court has observed that a hypertechnical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

33.8. If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ

Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

33.9. That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

33.10. Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Evidence Act viz. Section 35 and other provisions.

33.11. Ossification test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015."

11. In Sanjeev Kumar Gupta v. State of U.P., (2019) 12 SCC 370, the High Court had held that the accused was a juvenile on the basis of the date of birth entered in his matriculation certificate. In appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court scrutinized the evidence and found that the date of birth in the matriculation certificate was recorded on the basis of the date of birth recorded in the previous school where the accused was a student from Class V to Class X and it was recorded without any underlying document. On the other hand, there was a clear and unimpeachable evidence in the form of the date of birth recorded in the records of Saket Vidya Sthali School. The Hon'ble Supreme Court reversed the order of this High Court based on the findings recorded on the basis of the matriculation certificate. Thus the legal position is that the date of birth entered in the High School certificate has not to be believed blindly, if the date of birth entered in the records of the school that was first attended by the accused is to the contrary. In such circumstances, the school record has to be considered for ascertaining the date of birth of the accused.

12. In State (UT of J&K) v. Shubam Sangra, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1592, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

73. Thus, it is no doubt true that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence at least prima facie establishes the same, he would be entitled to the special protection under the Juvenile Justice Act. However, when an accused commits a heinous and grave crime like the one on hand and thereafter attempts to take the statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether an accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted as the courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of protecting the confidence of a common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice. As observed by this Court in Parag Bhati [Parag Bhati v. State of U.P., (2016) 12 SCC 744], the benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation attached to the Juvenile Justice Act would thus be extended to only such cases wherein the accused is held to be a juvenile on the basis of at least prima facie evidence inspiring confidence regarding his minority as the benefit of the possibilities of two views in regard to the age of the alleged accused who is involved in grave and serious offence which he is alleged to have committed and gave effect to it in a well-planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind rather than innocence indicating that his plea of juvenility is more in the nature of a shield to dodge or dupe the arms of law, cannot be allowed to come to his rescue.

13. In Manoj v. State of Haryana, (2022) 6 SCC 187, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"41. ... the plea of juvenility has to be raised in a bonafide and truthful manner. If the reliance is on a document to seek juvenility which is not reliable or dubious in nature, the appellant cannot be treated to be juvenile keeping in view that the Act is a beneficial legislation. As also held in Babloo Pasi [Babloo Pasi v. State of Jharkhand, (2008) 13 SCC 133 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 266] , the provisions of the statute are to be interpreted liberally but the benefit cannot be granted to the appellant who has approached the Court with untruthful statement."

14. In Manoj (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has referred to an earlier decision in the case of Jyoti Prakash Rai Vs. State of Bihar: AIR 2008 SC 1696, wherein it was held that though the Act is a beneficial legislation but principles of beneficial legislation are to be applied only for the purpose of interpretation of the statute and not for arriving at a conclusion as to whether a person is juvenile or not.

15. When this court examines the facts of the case in the light of the law explained by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the above mentioned cases, it appears that the opposite party no.2 had lodged the F.I.R. on 22.07.2022 stating that her daughter aged about three and half years had gone missing from her home at about 3.30 p.m. on 22.04.2018. After investigation a charge sheet was submitted on 29.04.2018, stating that the dead body of the missing girl child was recovered on 25.04.2018 and thereafter Section 302 I.P.C. was added. The dead body was hidden in a sack tied with a rope. Pests had developed in the dead body. The charge sheet was submitted against the juvenile-delinquent for commission of offences under Sections 363, 302, 201, 376, 511 I.P.C. and Section 7/8 of POCSO Act and three other co-accused persons namely, father, mother and brother of the juvenile-revisionist were charged for commission of offence under Sections 302 and 201 I.P.C.

16. The learned counsel for the revisionist has contended that the certificate issued by the Modern School was not produced in original but a mere photocopy thereof was filed.

17. The contention raised by the learned counsel for the revisionist cannot be examined by this court at this stage as the order dated 18.04.2022 states that the certificate was issued before the Juvenile Justice Board and not its copy and this order has not been assailed by the revisionist and it has attained finality. There is no material before this Court to establish that the original certificate regarding date of birth was not produced before Juvenile Justice Board. When the Juvenile Justice Board in the order dated 18.04.2022 stated that the certificate dated 10.08.2018 issued by Modern School, Poora-1, Faizabad, wherein the date of birth of the juvenile-delinquent is mentioned to be 10.03.2001, was presented before the Board, in absence of any material to controvert this statement this court cannot presume that the aforesaid narration is incorrect.

18. In furtherance of the aforesaid order dated 18.04.2022 the Juvenile Justice Board passed an order dated 19.04.2022 for transferring the matter to be tried by the Children's Court Section 18 (3) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015. In the impugned order dated 07.07.2023, passed by the Children's Court it has been held that by means of an order dated 18.04.2022 the Juvenile Justice Board has ascertained the age of the juvenile to be 16 years, 6 months and no appeal was filed against the aforesaid order and it has attained finality. Therefore, the Children's Court had no other option except to treat the age of the juvenile to be 16 years, 6 months as ascertained by the order dated 18.04.2022 passed by the Juvenile Justice Board, which has attained finality. The Juvenile Justice Board has passed the order dated 19.04.2022 after taking into consideration the report of the Psychiatrist and assessing the physical and mental capabilities of the juvenile as also his capacity to understand the consequence of the offence allegedly committed by him. The juvenile is an accused of kidnapping a girl child aged about three and half years and killing her by strangulating her. An attempt to rape was made against the victim and sexual assault was made on her. Her dead body was hidden in a sack and three days after the incident it was thrown away from the rooftop. Pests had developed in the dead body. These facts indicate the physical and mental capacity of the juvenile. The appellate court found that all the facts and circumstances of the case had been duly considered by the Juvenile Justice Board and therefore there was no need for any interference in that order.

19. In view of the aforesaid discussions, the grounds taken in the memo of revision that the impugned order has been passed in an illegal and arbitrary manner and without any application of judicial mind, is absolutely misconceived. It appears that the learned counsel for the revisionist has used such heavy words without taking care to understand its implication and without even going through the appellate order. The lack of challenge to the original order dated 19.04.2022 against which the appeal was filed wherein the impugned order dated 07.07.2023 was passed clearly indicates lack of proper professional care and concern while drafting the revision.

20. While deciding the plea of juvenility the courts have to take a just view after taking into consideration all the relevant facts and circumstances of the case and the material available on record, to ensure justice not only to juvenile-delinquent but to the victim of the offence, who in the present case was a girl aged about three and half years and upon whom an attempt to rape was committed who was subjected to sexual assault and who was killed ultimately. The offence committed falls in the category of the most heinous offences that can be committed by any human being.

21. Therefore, keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case no lenient view can be taken favouring the accused - revisionist.

22. The revision lacks merit and the same is accordingly dismissed.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 498A, 323, 504, 506 & 406 - Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 - Sections 3/5 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 245, 397 & 401 - Revisionists, married sisters-in-law of complainant, challenged dismissal of discharge application in Complaint Case No. 221 of 2004 for alleged dowry harassment and matrimonial cruelty. Court held: (1) General and omnibus allegations against revisionists without specific roles attributed; no evidence they resided with complainant or benefited from dowry demands. (2) Revisionists, living in distant cities (Calcutta, Thane), unlikely to be involved in matrimonial discord. (3) Trial court failed to consider lack of specific allegations and probability of false implication, mechanically dismissing discharge application. (4) Supreme Court precedents emphasize caution against roping in distant relatives in matrimonial disputes without prima facie evidence (Kahkashan Kausar @ Sonam Vs St. of Bihar, AIR 2022 SC 820; Geeta Mehrotra Vs St. of U.P., (2012) 10 SCC 741; Preeti Gupta Vs St. of Jharkhand, (2010) 7 SCC 667; Rajesh Sharma Vs St. of U.P., (2018) 10 SCC 472; Arnesh Kumar Vs St. of Bihar, (2014) 8 SCC 273; K. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. By means of instant Criminal Revision the revisionist has assailed the judgment and order dated 23.12.2023 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2 Gorakhpur in Complaint Case No.221 of 2004 (Alka Rani Vs. Rajesh Agarwal and others), whereby application for discharge under Section 245 Cr.P.C. moved by accused persons Rajesh Agarwal, Maya Devi, Lakshmi Poddar @ Shikha Poddar and Sunita Tulsyan has been dismissed by the trial court.

2. Heard Sri Anil Kumar Srivastava, Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Ravi

Yadav, learned counsel for the revisionists, Sri Yogendra Singh Yadav, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record.

3. The facts leading to filing of present revision are that the complainant/respondent No.2 initially moved an application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. before the Court of Judicial Magistrate Ist Gorakhpur on 09.08.2004 which was registered as Misc. Application No.221 of 2004 with averments that her marriage with opposite party No.1 Rajesh Agarwal was solemnized 14.04.2002 according to hindu rites and rituals in arranged manner. She was send off to her matrimonial home after marriage. However just after her arrival at her matrimonial home her mother-in-law, brother-in-law and sisters-in-law began to tease her for not bringing sufficient dowry and when she objected to this, they gave her beating, she suffered this mall treatment and observed her matrimonial obligations after sometime of marriage she came to know that her husband is suffering from illness. He used to suffer lunatic bouts from time to time and his family members were taking advantage of his situation and did not try to treat him. His family members used to provoke him against her and on their provocation her husband used to beat her. She also came to know that her husband was previously married to one Smt. Meena and she was also subjected to matrimonial cruelty for demand of dowry and ultimately the marriage was broken and FIR was lodged by father of Meena against her husband and family members under Section 323, 504, 506, 498A of IPC. The family members of her husband exerted pressure on her to get her third pregnancy aborted and when she did not agree to this, they abused and harassed her. During that period she knew that these people were trying to kill her and they turned her out from their home after sometime, she reached at her parental place any how. She delivered a male child on 01.11.2003 in private hospital at Gorakhpur. Her in-laws and husband visited her, but did not spend any money. Her sisters-in-law Lakshmi Poddar and Sunita Tulsyan and other family members were also exerting pressure on her to get her pregnancy aborted.

4. Learned court below vide order dated 28.08.2004 directed to register the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. as complaint and after recording statement of the complainant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and her witnesses Thakur Prasad Gupta, Ramesh Chandra Sharma under Section 202 Cr.P.C., summoned the accused persons vide order dated 13.05.2005 for charge under Section 498A, 323, 504, 506, 406 of IPC and Section 3/5 of Dowry Prohibition Act. The accused persons challenged the summoning order with prayer to quash the entire proceedings in complaint case No.221 of 2004 by filing petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.4228 of 2006, which was dismissed vide order dated 12.10.2018 passed by this Court.

5. Learned court below recorded the statement of the complainant Alka Rani under Section 244 Cr.P.C., wherein she was also cross examined at length on behalf of the accused persons at precharge stage. Thakur Prasad Gupta, father of the complainant was also examined as PW2 at the stage of Section 244 Cr.P.C., in which they supported complaint version.

6. Accused Rajesh Agarwal and others moved and application under Section 245 Cr.P.C. on 12.10.2022 with a prayer to discharge them with averment that they have been falsely implicated in the case. Accused Rajesh Agarwal, the elder brother of the husband of the complainant is 80% disabled and bedridden. The complainant and her family members themselves misbehaved with the accused persons. Rajesh Agarwal, the husband of the complainant filed a petition under Section 9 of the hindu marriage act for restitution of conjugal rights on 18.02.2004, in which notice was issued to the complainant and said petition was decided on 07.12.2005 exparte, but the complainant has not complied with the decree of court and did not join the husband instead, she file an application for setting aside the decree. On 17.03.2004 the complainant and her family members assaulted the husband Rajesh Agarwal and declined to send the complainant with him. After which he lodged an FIR vide C-6/4 under Section 406, 506 IPC against the complainant and her parents, in which chargesheet has been filed. The present complaint was filed by the complainant with false allegations against the accused persons and the accused persons are liable to be discharged.

7. Learned court below vide impugned order dated 23.12.2022 considered and facts and evidence of the case. The facts of the case as well as the evidence adduced by the complainant at the stage of Section 244 Cr.P.C. in light of documents available on record and dismissed the application under Section 245 Cr.P.C. with finding that there is ample evidence against accused persons at this stage for framing charge against them and putting demand prior.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned order passed by learned Magistrate the present revisionists who are married sisters-in-law (Nanads) of the complainant have preferred present revision with averments that revisionists were already married at the time of marriage of complainant and their brother Rajesh Agarwal. The Omnibus and general allegations are levelled against them in the complaint only with a view to harass them, as they are sisters of the husband of the complainant. However, revisionist No.1 Smt. Lakshmi Poddar alias Shikha Poddar was residing in Calcutta at the time of incident and Smt. Sunita Tulsyan was residing in district Thane, Maharashtra at that time. They are presently residing in Hyderabad and Maharashtra alongwith their husband and family.

9. Learned counsel for the revisionists submitted that no specific allegation has been made against the revisionists in complaint as well as in evidence of PW1 and 2 recorded by the court below, they are not supposed to be beneficiary of any demand of dowry made by the husband or his immediate family as alleged. They have not been attributed any specific role in the offence, learned court below dismissed the discharge application with respect to present revisionists also in mechanical manner without considering the role attributed to accused persons. They are not concerned with matrimonial discord between the complainant and her husband. They have been implicated as accused in complaint only with a view to harass them due to their relationship with the husband of the complainant.

10. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for respondent No.2 submitted that the revisionists although married sisters-in-law of the complainant have played active role in harassment and torture of the complainant. They were also hand in grove with co-accused persons in demand of dowry and subjecting the complainant to matrimonial cruelty. The complainant and her witnesses had given ample evidence regarding complicity of the accused persons including the revisionists in their sworn testimony before the court under Section 244 Cr.P.C. The grounds taken in discharge application are misleading and baseless. The revision deserves to be dismissed.

11. Learned counsel for the revisionists placed reliance on judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kahkashan Kausar @ Sonam and others Vs. State of Bihar and others; AIR 2022 SC 820, this was a case under Sections 341, 323, 379, 354, 498A read with Section 34 of Cr.P.C. The accused persons had challenged the summoning order under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before the High Court, but same was dismissed by High Court. By the impugned order Hon'ble Supreme Court allowed Special Leave to Appeal against order of High Court with observations that " therefore, upon consideration of the relevant circumstances and in the absence of any specific role attributed to the Accused Appellants, it would be unjust if the Appellants are forced to go through the tirbulation of a trial, i.e., general and omnibus allegations cannot manifest in a situation where the relatives of the complainant's husband are forced to undergo trial. It has been highlighted by this Court in varied instances, that a criminal trial leading to an eventual acquittal also inflicts severe scars upon the Accused, and such an exercise must therefore be discouraged.

12. The Hon'ble Supreme Court also observed in aforesaid case as under:-

"12. Before we delve into greater detail on the nature and content of allegations made, it becomes pertinent to mention that incorporation of Section 498A of Indian Penal Code was aimed at preventing cruelty committed upon a woman by her husband and her in- laws, by facilitating rapid state intervention. However, it is equally true, that in recent times, matrimonial litigation in the country has also increased significantly and there is a greater disaffection and friction surrounding the institution of marriage, now, more than ever. This has resulted in an increased tendency to employ provisions such as 498A Indian Penal Code as instruments to settle personal scores against the husband and his relatives.

13. This Court in its judgment in Rajesh Sharma and Ors. v. State of U.P. and Anr. (2018) 10 SCC 472, has observed:

"1 4 . Section 498-A was inserted in the statute with the laudable object of punishing cruelty at the hands of husband or his relatives against a wife particularly when such cruelty had potential to result in suicide or murder of a woman as mentioned in the statement of Objects and Reasons of the Act 46 of 1983. The expression 'cruelty' in Section 498A covers conduct which may drive the woman to commit suicide or cause grave injury (mental or physical) or danger to life or harassment with a view to coerce her to meet unlawful demand. It is a matter of serious concern that large number of cases continue to be filed under already referred to some of the statistics from the Crime Records Bureau. This Court had earlier noticed the fact that most of such complaints are filed in the heat of the moment over trivial issues. Many of such complaints are not bona fide. At the time of filing of the complaint, implications and consequences are not visualized. At times such complaints lead to uncalled for harassment not only to the Accused but also to the complainant. Uncalled for arrest may ruin the chances of settlement."

14. Previously, in the landmark judgment of this Court in Arnesh Kumar v. State of Bihar and Anr.(2014) 8 SCC 273, it was also observed:

"4. There is a phenomenal increase in matrimonial disputes in recent years. The institution of marriage is greatly revered in this country. Section 498-A Indian Penal Code was introduced with avowed object to combat the menace of harassment to a woman at the hands of her husband and his relatives. The fact that Section 498-A Indian Penal Code is a cognizable and non-bailable offence has lent it a dubious place of pride amongst the provisions that are used as weapons rather than shield by disgruntled wives. The simplest way to harass is to get the husband and his relatives arrested under this provision. In a quite number of cases, bed-ridden grandfathers and grand-mothers of the husbands, their sisters living abroad for decades are arrested."

15. Further in Preeti Gupta and Anr. v. State of Jharkhand and Anr. : (2010) 7 SCC 667, it has also been observed:

"32. It is a matter of common experience that most of these complaints Under Section 498A Indian Penal Code are filed in the heat of the moment over trivial issues without proper deliberations. We come across a large number of such complaints which are not even bona fide and are filed with oblique motive. At the same time, rapid increase in the number of genuine cases of dowry harassment are also a matter of serious concern.

33. The learned Members of the Bar have enormous social responsibility and obligation to ensure that the social fiber of family life is not ruined or demolished. They must ensure that exaggerated versions of small incidents should not be reflected in the criminal complaints. Majority of the complaints are filed either on their advice or with their concurrence. The learned Members of the Bar who belong to a noble profession must maintain its noble traditions and should treat every complaint Under Section 498A as a basic human problem and must make serious endeavour to help the parties in arriving at an amicable resolution of that human problem. They must discharge their duties to the best of their abilities to ensure that social fiber, peace and tranquility of the society remains intact. The members of the Bar should also ensure that one complaint should not lead to multiple cases.

34. Unfortunately, at the time of filing of the complaint the implications and consequences are not properly visualized by the complainant that such complaint can lead to insurmountable harassment, agony and pain to the complainant, Accused and his close relations.

35. The ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. To find out the truth is a herculean task in majority of these complaints. The tendency of implicating husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. The courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. The allegations of harassment of husband's close relations who had been living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided would have an entirely different complexion. The allegations of the complaint are required to be scrutinized with great care and circumspection.

36. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. It is also a matter of common knowledge that in cases filed by the complainant if the husband or the husband's relations had to remain in jail even for a few days, it would ruin the chances of amicable settlement altogether. The process of suffering is extremely long and painful."

16. In Geeta Mehrotra and Anr. v. State of U.P. and Anr. : (2012) 10 SCC 741, it was observed:

"21. It would be relevant at this stage to take note of an apt observation of this Court recorded in the matter of G.V. Rao v. L.H.V. Prasad and Ors. reported in (2000) 3 SCC 693 wherein also in a matrimonial dispute, this Court had held that the High Court should have quashed the complaint arising out of a matrimonial dispute wherein all family members had been roped into the matrimonial litigation which was quashed and set aside. Their Lordships observed therein with which we entirely agree that:

"There has been an outburst of matrimonial dispute in recent times. Marriage is a sacred ceremony, main purpose of which is to enable the young couple to settle down in life and live peacefully. But little matrimonial skirmishes suddenly erupt which often assume serious proportions resulting in heinous crimes in which elders of the family are also involved with the result that those who could have counselled and brought about rapprochement are rendered helpless on their being arrayed as Accused in the criminal case. There are many reasons which need not be mentioned here for not encouraging matrimonial litigation so that the parties may ponder over their defaults and terminate the disputes amicably by mutual agreement instead of fighting it out in a court of law where it takes years and years to conclude and in that process the parties lose their "young" days in chasing their cases in different courts." The view taken by the judges in this matter was that the courts would not encourage such disputes."

17. Recently, in K. Subba Rao v. The State of Telangana : (2018) 14 SCC 452, it was also observed that:

"6 . The Courts should be careful in proceeding against the distant relatives in crimes pertaining to matrimonial disputes and dowry deaths. The relatives of the husband should not be roped in on the basis of omnibus allegations unless specific instances of their involvement in the crime are made out."

18. The above-mentioned decisions clearly demonstrate that this Court has at numerous instances expressed concern over the misuse of Section 498A Indian Penal Code and the increased tendency of implicating relatives of the husband in matrimonial disputes, without analysing the long term ramifications of a trial on the complainant as well as the Accused. It is further manifest from the said judgments that false implication by way of general omnibus allegations made in the course of matrimonial dispute, if left unchecked would result in misuse of the process of law. Therefore, this Court by way of its judgments has warned the courts from proceeding against the relatives and in-laws of the husband when no prima facie case is made out against them."

13. Section 245 of Cr.P.C. reads as under:-

245. When accused shall be discharged.

" (1) If, upon taking all the evidence referred to in section 244, the Magistrate considers, for reasons to be recorded, that no case against the accused has been made out which, if unrebutted, would warrant his conviction, the Magistrate shall discharge him.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless."

14. The revisionists are married sisters-in-law (Nanad) of the complainant. The complainant has admitted in her cross examination under Section 244 Cr.P.C. that present revisionists were already married when she came to know after marriage and they were living with there respective spouse, they have taken specific case that they were implicated in the case wrongly in a sense that matter pertains to inter se dispute between Rajesh Agarwal and the complainant.

15. Omnibus and general allegations are levelled against the accused in the complaint as well as in the evidence of the witnesses recorded under Section 244 Cr.P.C. together with co-accused persons, accused Rajesh Agarwal, the husband of the complainant, Maya Devi mother-in-law, Krishna Mohan Agarwal brother-in-law (Jeth) and Suman Agarwal (Jethani). Discharge application under Section 245 Cr.P.C. was filed by four accused persons barring Jeth and Jethani of the complainant, which was dismissed by impugned order dated 23.12.2022 by learned trial court with observations that there is sufficient grounds to put the accused persons on trial for charges levelled against them. Out of four accused persons, whose discharge application has been dismissed, by impugned order, this revision has been preferred only by two accused Smt. Lakshmi Poddar and Smt. Sunita Tulsyan who are married sisters-in-law of the complainant. They are residing at distant places, there is no allegation in the complaint or in statement of the witnesses that revisionists were living together with the complainant and her husband at their parental place.

16. This is admitted fact that they were married prior to the marriage of Rajesh Agarwal and complainant. The complainant has stated in her evidence that her sisters-in-law are greedy people and used to visit her matrimonial home and gave her beating, and all the accused persons got her pregnancy aborted. But there is no medical evidence in support of this version.

17. The case of the revisionists is squarely covered by judgment of Supreme Court in Kahkashan @ Sonam and others Vs State of Bihar and others and in Geeta Mehrotra and another Vs. State of U.P. in which Hon'ble Apex Court has filed the grave situation where all the family members and relatives of husband are roped in complaint under Section 498 of IPC by way of general and omnibus allegation made in course of matrimonial dispute.

18. The court below, while dismissing the discharge application has failed to notice the role of the revisionists and the probability of their false implication, as these are married sisters-in-law of the complainant who are stated to have been living at far away place during the period when offence of matrimonial cruelty and demand of dowry was practised against the complainant. They are not supposed to be beneficiary of any demand of dowry made by co-accused persons.

19. The application for rejection of discharge application requires reconsideration in respect of the present revisionists in light of foregoing discussions and the judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court cited above.

20. The revision stands partly allowed.

21. The impugned order passed by learned court below is partly set-aside, in so far as it relates to present revisionists and learned Magistrate is directed to consider the prayer for discharge made by present revisionists a fresh in accordance with law after giving opportunity of hearing to both the sides.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 227, 228, & 397 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 376 & 120B – Discharge Application – Scope of Revisional Jurisdiction – Prima Facie Case – Consideration of Evidence at Charge Framing Stage

The revisionists, Bantu and Ramveer Singh, challenged the order dated 13.02.2023 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Mainpuri, in Sessions Trial No. 189 of 2022, rejecting their discharge application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. in Case Crime No. 16 of 2022 (Sections 376, 120B IPC). The FIR, lodged by Nema Devi on 23.02.2022, alleged that on 20.02.2022, Bantu lured her to Ramveer Singh's tubewell under the pretext of negotiation, where Ramveer raped her, and co-accused Prem Narayan attempted to outrage her modesty, with Bantu involved in the conspiracy. The revisionists argued that the FIR was false, motivated by a property dispute involving an agreement to sell, and supported by a pen drive allegedly recording the victim's threat to falsely implicate them. They also cited contradictions in the victim's St.ments under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., lack of medical evidence, and delay in FIR lodging. Held: The court, relying on Amit Kapoor Vs Ramesh Chander ((2012) 9 SCC 460), St. of Orissa Vs Debendra Nath Padhi ((2005) 1 SCC 568), and other precedents, held that at the charge-framing stage, the trial court's role is limited to determining if a prima facie case exists based on prosecution materials, without meticulously weighing evidence or considering defense materials like the pen drive. The victim's consistent St.ments under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. established a prima facie case for rape and conspiracy. The alleged motive of a property dispute and the pen drive evidence could not be considered at this stage, as per Debendra Nath Padhi. The trial court's order was neither illegal nor arbitrary, as it correctly applied judicial mind to the prosecution's evidence.

Revision was dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

This criminal revision has been filed against the impugned order dated 13.02.2023 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C. Court No.1, Mainpuri in Sessions Trial No.189 of 2022 (State vs. Bantu and another) arising out of Case Crime No.16 of 2022, under Sections 376 and 120 B I.P.C., Police Station-Orchha, District-Mainpuri.

2. By the impugned order, the trial Court rejected the application of the revisionists under Section 227 Cr.P.C. for discharging them of the offence, under Sections 376 and 120 B I.P.C.

3. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionists that trial Court without considering the facts as well as evidence on record illegally or arbitrarily rejected the discharge application of the revisionists. While rejecting the application of the revisionists, trial Court has not apply its judicial mind or without considering the facts and evidence given in the application. It has also been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionists that informant/opposite party No.2, namely, Nema Devi had lodged First Information Report against the revisionists-Ramveer Singh, Prem Narayan and Bantu on 23.02.2022 at about 7:04 P.M., while the said occurrence has taken place on 20.02.2022 at about 04:30 P.M to 22.02.2022 at about 5:00 A.M. The informant/opposite party No.2 has not given any reason for delay in lodging the FIR. It has also been submitted that victim, who is aged about 40 years having four children. At the time of lodging of FIR, Station House Officer, Police Station Orchha had called the revisionists where in the presence of revisionists the first informant, namely, Nema Devi had stated before the police that the house/plot be given to her by the revisionists, if not given the same, she will falsely implicate the revisionists in a rape case. This statement has been recorded as video by mobile, which has been submitted in pen drive to the trial Court by the revisionists. It has also been submitted that there is a contradiction in the statement of victim recorded under Sections 161 as well as 164 Cr.P.C. It has also been submitted that victim-Nema Devi, after the death of her husband, residing with one Bangali Babu, who left the victim and went to another village. Bangali Babu had entered into an agreement to sale of his house in favour of revisionist No.2-Ramveer Singh and one another person, but victim has pressurised the revisionist No.2 to withdraw from the said agreement of the house and when he denied the same, the false criminal case was registered against the revisionists. It has also been submitted that there is no medical evidence of the alleged incident and revisionists only submitted the pen drive before the trial Court, but trial Court did not consider it and arbitrarily passed the impugned order.

4. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that trial Court has passed the impugned order which is based on the evidence on record and there is no ground to interfere in the same.

5. Heard Sri Anuraj Shukla, learned counsel for the revisionists and Ms. Seema Shukla, learned A.G.A. for the State.

6. The facts relating to the case, in brief, is that victim has lodged FIR on 23.02.2022 alleging that on 20.02.2022 at about 4:30 P.M., accused-Bantu came to her house and told her that revisionist No.2-Ramveer Singh had called for negotiation of the alleged house/plot as she was familiar with Bantu and Ramveer Singh. Thereafter, on the same day at 4:30 p.m. she went with Bantu to the tubewell of Ramveer. On the request of Ramveer, she remained there at night and Ramveer committed rape with her and co-accused Prem Narayan also tried to outrage her modesty. Co-accused-Bantu was also involved in the conspiracy of the alleged occurrence.

7. During the investigation, victim has given following statements recorded under Sections 161 as well as 164 Cr.P.C.:-

8. Before examining the merits of the present case, the ambit, scope and power of the Sessions Court as well as the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. should be discussed and ascertained.

9. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chander and Another, (2012) 9 SCC 460 in paragraph nos. 12 and 13 of its judgement has narrated the ambit and scope of revision by the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which are as follows :

12. Section 397 of the Code vests the court with the power to call for and examine the records of an inferior court for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality and regularity of any proceedings or order made in a case. The object of this provision is to set right a patent defect or an error of jurisdiction or law. There has to be a well-founded error and it may not be appropriate for the court to scrutinise the orders, which upon the face of it bears a token of careful consideration and appear to be in accordance with law. If one looks into the various judgments of this Court, it emerges that the revisional jurisdiction can be invoked where the decisions under challenge are grossly erroneous, there is no compliance with the provisions of law, the finding recorded is based on no evidence, material evidence is ignored or judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily or perversely. These are not exhaustive classes, but are merely indicative. Each case would have to be determined on its own merits.

13. Another well-accepted norm is that the revisional jurisdiction of the higher court is a very limited one and cannot be exercised in a routine manner. One of the inbuilt restrictions is that it should not be against an interim or interlocutory order. The Court has to keep in mind that the exercise of revisional jurisdiction itself should not lead to injustice ex facie. Where the Court is dealing with the question as to whether the charge has been framed properly and in accordance with law in a given case, it may be reluctant to interfere in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction unless the case substantially falls within the categories aforestated. Even framing of charge is a much advanced stage in the proceedings under the CrPC.

10. In paragraph nos. 17 and 19 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has narrated that before framing a charge, what documents should be considered by the trial court. It has also provided about the extent of evidence required for framing of a charge. In paragraph no. 20 of the aforesaid judgement, the Apex Court has compared the power and extent of jurisdiction of the High Court u/s 397 Cr.P.C. which is given hereunder :

20. The jurisdiction of the court under Section 397 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or propriety of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression "prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice", the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, propriety or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maxim quando lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videtur id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest i.e. when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the court is not permitted to be abused.

11. After comprehensive survey and discussion of the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the factors to be considered by the trial court while disposing of application u/s 227 Cr.P.C. and framing charge u/s 228 Cr.P.C., the Apex Court in Amit Kapoor (supra) has given following directions :

27.2. The Court should apply the test as to whether the uncontroverted allegations as made from the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith prima facie establish the offence or not. If the allegations are so patently absurd and inherently improbable that no prudent person can ever reach such a conclusion and where the basic ingredients of a criminal offence are not satisfied then the Court may interfere.

27.3. The High Court should not unduly interfere. No meticulous examination of the evidence is needed for considering whether the case would end in conviction or not at the stage of framing of charge or quashing of charge.

27.9. Another very significant caution that the courts have to observe is that it cannot examine the facts, evidence and materials on record to determine whether there is sufficient material on the basis of which the case would end in a conviction; the court is concerned primarily with the allegations taken as a whole whether they will constitute an offence and, if so, is it an abuse of the process of court leading to injustice.

27.10. It is neither necessary nor is the court called upon to hold a full-fledged enquiry or to appreciate evidence collected by the investigating agencies to find out whether it is a case of acquittal or conviction.

27.11. Where allegations give rise to a civil claim and also amount to an offence, merely because a civil claim is maintainable, does not mean that a criminal complaint cannot be maintained.

27.12. In exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 228 and/or under Section 482, the Court cannot take into consideration external materials given by an accused for reaching the conclusion that no offence was disclosed or that there was possibility of his acquittal. The Court has to consider the record and documents annexed therewith by the prosecution.

12. The statutory provisions regarding consideration of the case with a view to framing of charge or discharging the accused as given in Sections 226, 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. has been laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ghulam Hassan Beigh Vs. Mohammad Maqbool Magrey & Ors. in S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 4599 of 2021 :

15. Section 226 of the CrPC corresponds to sub-section (1) of the old Section 286 with verbal changes owing to the abolition of the jury. Section 286 of the 1898 Code reads as under:-

"286.(1) In a case triable by jury, when the jurors have been in chosen or, in any other case, when the Judge is ready to hear the case, the prosecutor shall open his case by reading from the Indian Penal or other law the description of the offence charged, and stating shortly by what evidence he expects to prove the guilt of the accused. (2) The prosecutor shall then examine his witnesses."

Section 226 of the 1973 Code reads thus:

"226. Opening case for prosecution.— When the accused appears or is brought before the Court in pursuance of a commitment of the case under section 209, the prosecutor shall open his case by describing the charge brought against the accused and stating by what evidence he proposes to prove the guilt of the accused."

Section 226 of the CrPC permits the prosecution to make the first impression regards a case, one which might be difficult to dispel. In not insisting upon its right under Section 226 of the CrPC, the prosecution would be doing itself a disfavour. If the accused is to contend that the case against him has not been explained owing to the non-compliance with Section 226 of the CrPC, the answer would be that the Section 173(2) of the CrPC report in the case would give a fair idea thereof, and that the stage of framing of charges under Section 228 of the CrPC is reached after crossing the stage of Section 227 of the CrPC, which affords both the prosecution and accused a fair opportunity to put forward their rival contentions.

16. Section 227 of the CrPC reads thus:

"227. Discharge.— If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing."

17. Section 228 of the CrPC reads thus:

"228. Framing of charge.- (1) If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid,the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which-

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class and direct the accused to appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or as the case may be, the Judicial Magistrate of the first class, on such date as he deems fit, and thereupon such Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

(2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried."

13. While framing charge, the Court has to ensure that a prima facie case must be made out against the accused. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Union of India Vs. Prafulla Kumar Samal and another, (1979) 3 SCC 4, considered the scope of enquiry a judge is required to make while considering the question of framing of charges. After an exhaustive survey of the case law on the point, in paragraph no. 10 of the judgement, has laid down the following principles :

(1) That the Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under section 227 of the Code has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out.

(2) Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained the Court will be, fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(3) The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down a rule of universal application. By and large however if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his right to discharge the accused.

(4) That in exercising his jurisdiction under section 227 of the Code the Judge which under the present Code is a senior and experienced Judge cannot act merely as a Post office or a mouth-piece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph nos. 15 and 23 of its judgement in Dipakbhai Jagdishchandra Patel Vs. State of Gujarat, (2019) 16 SCC 547, has elaborately discussed the law relating to the framing of charge and discharge of the accused which is as under :

15. We may profitably, in this regard, refer to the judgment of this Court in State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh [State of Bihar v. Ramesh Singh, (1977) 4 SCC 39 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 533 : AIR 1977 SC 2018] wherein this Court has laid down the principles relating to framing of charge and discharge as follows: (SCC pp. 41-42, para 4)

"4. … Reading Sections 227 and 228 together in juxtaposition, as they have got to be, it would be clear that at the beginning and the initial stage of the trial the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously judged. Nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The standard of test and judgment which is to be finally applied before recording a finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at the stage of deciding the matter under Section 227 or Section 228 of the Code. At that stage the court is not to see whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction. Strong suspicion against the accused, if the matter remains in the region of suspicion, cannot take the place of proof of his guilt at the conclusion of the trial. But at the initial stage if there is a strong suspicion which leads the Court to think that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence then it is not open to the Court to say that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The presumption of the guilt of the accused which is to be drawn at the initial stage is not in the sense of the law governing the trial of criminal cases in France where the accused is presumed to be guilty unless the contrary is proved. But it is only for the purpose of deciding prima facie whether the court should proceed with the trial or not. If the evidence which the prosecutor proposes to adduce to prove the guilt of the accused even if fully accepted before it is challenged in cross-examination or rebutted by the defence evidence, if any, cannot show that the accused committed the offence, then there will be no sufficient ground for proceeding with the trial. … If the scales of pan as to the guilt or innocence of the accused are something like even, at the conclusion of the trial, then, on the theory of benefit of doubt the case is to end in his acquittal. But if, on the other hand, it is so at the initial stage of making an order under Section 227 or Section 228, then in such a situation ordinarily and generally the order which will have to be made will be one under Section 228 and not under Section 227."

23. At the stage of framing the charge in accordance with the principles which have been laid down by this Court, what the court is expected to do is, it does not act as a mere post office. The court must indeed sift the material before it. The material to be sifted would be the material which is produced and relied upon by the prosecution. The sifting is not to be meticulous in the sense that the court dons the mantle of the trial Judge hearing arguments after the entire evidence has been adduced after a full-fledged trial and the question is not whether the prosecution has made out the case for the conviction of the accused. All that is required is, the court must be satisfied that with the materials available, a case is made out for the accused to stand trial. A strong suspicion suffices. However, a strong suspicion must be founded on some material. The material must be such as can be translated into evidence at the stage of trial. The strong suspicion cannot be the pure subjective satisfaction based on the moral notions of the Judge that here is a case where it is possible that the accused has committed the offence. Strong suspicion must be the suspicion which is premised on some material which commends itself to the court as sufficient to entertain the prima facie view that the accused has committed the offence.

15. In Sajjan Kumar Vs. C.B.I, (2010) 9 SCC 368, the Hon'ble Apex Court after elaborately discussing the scope of Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. has laid down principles which emerge therefrom in paragraph no. 21 which is as under :

21. On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 CrPC has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal.

16. In the case of State of Karnataka Vs. M.R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515, the Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down principles to be considered by the Magistrate while dealing with discharge application of the accused u/s 239 Cr.P.C. in warrant trial case. The directions given by the Apex Court is equally applicable to the discharge of accused u/s 227 Cr.P.C.

17. In paragraph no. 25 of Ghulam Hassan Beigh (supra), the Apex Court held as under :

25. In the case of Asim Shariff v. National Investigation Agency, (2019) 7 SCC 148, this Court, to which one of us (A.M. Khanwilkar, J.) was a party, in so many words has expressed that the trial court is not expected or supposed to hold a mini trial for the purpose of marshalling the evidence on record. We quote the relevant observations as under:-

"18. Taking note of the exposition of law on the subject laid down by this Court, it is settled that the Judge while considering the question of framing charge under Section 227 CrPC in sessions cases(which is akin to Section 239 CrPC pertaining to warrant cases) has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out; where the material placed before the Court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing the charge; by and large if two views are possible and one of them giving rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion against the accused, 3 2018(13) SCC 455 4 2019(6) SCALE 794 the trial Judge will be justified in discharging him. It is thus clear that while examining the discharge application filed under Section 227 CrPC, it is expected from the trial Judge to exercise its judicial mind to determine as to whether a case for trial has been made out or not. It is true that in such proceedings, the Court is not supposed to hold a mini trial by marshalling the evidence on record.

18. In paragraph nos. 28, 29 and 30 of the judgement in Amit Kapoor (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as hereunder :

28. At this stage, we may also notice that the principle stated by this Court in Madhavrao Jiwajirao Scindia[(1988) 1 SCC 692 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 234] was reconsidered and explained in two subsequent judgments of this Court in State of Bihar v. P.P. Sharma [1992 Supp (1) SCC 222 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 192 : AIR 1991 SC 1260] and M.N. Damani v. S.K. Sinha [(2001) 5 SCC 156 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 823 : AIR 2001 SC 2037] . In the subsequent judgment, the Court held that, that judgment did not declare a law of universal application and what was the principle relating to disputes involving cases of a predominantly civil nature with or without criminal intent.

29. In the light of the above principles, now if we examine the findings recorded by the High Court, then it is evident that what weighed with the High Court was that firstly it was an abuse of the process of court and, secondly, it was a case of civil nature and that the facts, as stated, would not constitute an offence under Section 306 read with Section 107 IPC. Interestingly and as is evident from the findings recorded by the High Court reproduced supra that "this aspect of the matter will get unravelled only after a full-fledged trial", once the High Court itself was of the opinion that clear facts and correctness of the allegations made can be examined only upon full trial, where was the need for the Court to quash the charge under Section 306 at that stage. Framing of charge is a kind of tentative view that the trial court forms in terms of Section 228 which is subject to final culmination of the proceedings.

30. We have already noticed that the legislature in its wisdom has used the expression "there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence". This has an inbuilt element of presumption once the ingredients of an offence with reference to the allegations made are satisfied, the Court would not doubt the case of the prosecution unduly and extend its jurisdiction to quash the charge in haste. A Bench of this Court in State of Maharashtra v. Som Nath Thapa [(1996) 4 SCC 659 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 820] referred to the meaning of the word "presume" while relying upon Black's Law Dictionary. It was defined to mean "to believe or accept upon probable evidence"; "to take as proved until evidence to the contrary is forthcoming". In other words, the truth of the matter has to come out when the prosecution evidence is led, the witnesses are cross-examined by the defence, the incriminating material and evidence is put to the accused in terms of Section 313 of the Code and then the accused is provided an opportunity to lead defence, if any. It is only upon completion of such steps that the trial concludes with the court forming its final opinion and delivering its judgment. Merely because there was a civil transaction between the parties would not by itself alter the status of the allegations constituting the criminal offence.

19. In light of the statutory provision under Section 227 Cr.P.C. interpreted by the Hon'ble Apex Court, the facts given in the case is to be considered. On the date of alleged incident, revisionists persuaded the victim to visit the field of Ramveer on the pretext that Ramveer has called her for negotiation. When she reached there, revisionist No.2 Ramveer Singh asked her to stay at night near the tubewell, which is installed in the field of Ramveer Singh/revisionist no.2. On the same night, Ramveer Singh committed rape with her. The victim has stated the aforesaid facts given in the written report in her statement recorded under Sections 161 as well as 164 Cr.P.C. The averment of revisionists is that the victim has lodged false FIR due to reason that Bangali Babu had not given his property to her and same has been executed in favour of Gaura Devi wife of Ramveer Singh and others, which has been registered on 13.08.2020 in the office of Sub-Registrar, Mainpuri. The revisionists have submitted a copy of agreement to sale, which was registered about two and half years before lodging the FIR. Apart from this alleged motive for lodging the FIR, the same cannot be considered at the stage of deciding the discharge application. The aforesaid averments that the victim lodged the false FIR due to aforesaid reasons cannot prima facie be considered true. The revisionists have not submitted any evidence/documents regarding the agreement to sale to the Investigating Officer during investigation, therefore, this document is not a part of the case diary. The effect of alleged agreement to sale as motive for lodging a false FIR against the revisionists cannot be examined at the stage of considering the discharge application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. The alleged motive for lodging a false FIR can only be considered at the stage of final arguments when evidence of prosecution as well as defence is concluded.

20. In the case of State of Orissa vs. Debendra Nath Padhi: (2005) 1 SCC 568, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that at the time of framing of charge, trial Court can consider only the evidence which has been filed with the charge-sheet. At this stage, accused has no right to produce any document or evidence to rebut the framing of charge against him.

21. Thus, contention of the learned counsel for the revisionists is that victim had threatened the revisionist No.1 before Investigating Officer that if he does not transfer the house/plot in her favour, she will lodge false FIR against him. At the stage of framing of charge, the Court has to observe whether there is a prima facie evidence against the accused regarding the charge-sheet filed against him. The veracity of sufficiency of evidence cannot be weighed at the stage of framing of charge. In such circumstances, trial Court has rightly refused to consider the evidence allegedly recorded in the pen drive at the stage of framing of charge against the revisionists.

22. From the above discussions regarding evidence produced in the case, I do not find any illegality, irregularity or impropriety in the impugned order passed by the trial court.

23. There is no merit in the criminal revision and the same is liable to be dismissed.

24. The criminal revision is dismissed, accordingly.

25. Let a copy of this order be sent to the concerned trial court for necessary action.

Counsel for the Opposite Party:

Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 319, 397, 190 & 193 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 147, 148, 149 & 302 – Summoning of Additional Accused – Scope of Revisional Jurisdiction – Evidence under Section 319 Cr.P.C. – Consideration of Investigation Materials

The revisionists, Sanju and others, challenged the order dated 02.05.2019 passed by the Additional District and Session Judge, Farukhabad, in Sessions Trial No. 192 of 2012, summoning them under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial for offences under Sections 147, 148, 149, and 302 IPC, based on the testimony of PW1 (Munni Devi, informant) and PW9 (Dinesh), despite their exclusion from the chargesheet. The FIR, lodged on 03.02.2012, alleged that the revisionists, linked to Dalganjan Singh, killed the informant's husband, Amar Singh, and his friend, Man Singh, due to prior enmity. The Investigating Officer (IO) found no complicity of the revisionists, citing mobile location data and witness St.ments, and instead chargesheeted seven others. During trial, PW1 and PW9 supported the FIR version, leading to the summoning order. The informant later disowned the Section 319 application via an affidavit dated 17.08.2019, claiming it was filed without her instructions. Held: The court, relying on Hardeep Singh Vs St. of Punj. ((2014) 3 SCC 92) and Brijendra Singh Vs St. of Rajasthan, set aside the summoning order, finding that the trial court erred by ignoring the IO's findings, which exonerated the revisionists based on mobile data and witness St.ments, and failed to establish "much stronger evidence" of complicity as required under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The court emphasized that investigation materials can corroborate trial evidence, and the trial court should have considered these to assess the prima facie case. The revision was allowed, and the matter was remitted for fresh consideration of the Section 319 application, ensuring compliance with legal standards.

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionists, learned counsel for the respondent No.2 as well as Sri Deepak Kapoor learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that report has been filed by trial judge on dated 06.10.2023, pursuant to order dated 19.09.2023 passed by this Court reads as under:-

"Learned counsel for the opposite party referred to the affidavit enclosed in the counter affidavit that on 17.08.2019, an application was moved on behalf of the informant, Munni Devi, before the Court concern in S.T. 192A of 2012 (State of U.P. Vs. Sanju and others) that no such application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., to summon the revisionist to face the trial, was moved by her. This application was supported by the affidavit.

Learned trial court be directed to submit a report with regard to the status of the aforesaid application moved by the informant within three weeks.

List on 11.10.2023.

Interim order, if any, shall continue till the next date of listing".

3. Learned trial judge has reported that informant Smt. Munni Devi has moved an application on 17.08.2019 in S.T. No.192A of 2012 (State of U.P. Vs. Sanju and others), photo copy of which is placed on record. The order is endorsed thereon to the effect that in S.T. No.192 A of 2012 the proceedings remain stayed by the order of Hon'ble High Court. Therefore, the said application cannot be placed on record and same is returned to the applicant.

4. The informant has stated in the said application that she is filing an affidavit with regard to true facts of the case, and said affidavit is placed on record alongwith application. It is stated therein that informant had not instructed her counsel Sri Satyendra Pathak to move this application on 03.04.2019 for summoning Sanju and others, if any application has been moved for summoning Sanju and others, the same is false.

5. Smt. Munni Devi was summoned before the Court in compliance of order dated 19.09.2023 and she has admitted to have filed an application to the effect that application and affidavit filed by her on 17.08.2019 before court below was submitted by her.

6. Instant Criminal Revision has been preferred against the order dated 02.05.2019 passed by Additional District and Session Judge, Court No.7, Farukhabad in Session Trial No.192 of 2012, State Vs. Kashmi Singh, under Section 319 of Cr.P.C. whereby revisionist are summoned to face trial under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 of I.P.C. together with the accused who are already facing trial.

7. The facts leading to filing of present revision are that the informant/defacto complainant Munni Devi had lodged an FIR on the basis of a written report at Police Station Mohammadabad, District Farukhabad with averments that on 03.02.2012 her husband Amar Singh had gone to Mohammadabad market by riding a Hero Honda Motorcycle, bearing Registration No.UP76J8360 alongwith his friend Man Singh who was sitting on pillion of the motorcycle. She also went to market sitting on pillion of the motorcycle ridden by Tejram. Her husband was coming back from the market alongwith Man Singh and she was also coming back from the market on motorcycle ridden by her relative Dinesh. They came near Shekhpur village at around 06:30 PM, suddenly a white four wheeler came from behind of them, in which Sanju, Raju @ Raje, Ramu @ Ahab Pratap, Manjit Singh @ Bablu, Chandra Mohan, Sarvesh @ Pappu, Anil @ Karu were sitting, these persons stepped out from the car having armed with weapons, and stated that they were waiting for them for long period. One Dalganjan Singh had visited at her home one week ago and stated that he would kill her husband to take revenge of the murder of his brother. These persons killed her husband Amar Singh and his friend Man Singh acting under conspiracy on getting opportunity on said date and time in the presence of the informant and said Dinesh. Accused Sanju fired a shot at her husband by country made pistol and Raju alias Raje fired a shot at Man Singh by his fire arm, other persons assaulted the injured by butt of their guns. The injured became unconscious. On hearing the screams, co-villagers Shersingh, son of Ram Krishna, Vipin son of Rameshwar Singh reached there and had seen the incident. The assailants belonged to the same family, they escaped from the place after committing murder towards Mohammadabad . She could not visit the police station in the night, being scared by this incident. FIR was lodged against seven named accused persons under Sections 147, 148, 149 and 302 of IPC. Police investigated the case and recorded the statements of informant Smt. Munni Devi, Shersingh, Vipin Yadav, Dinesh and other witnesses.

8. The informant Munni Devi and Dinesh her said companion/eye witnesses at the time of incident supported the FIR version in their statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The Investigating Officer on 15.03.2012 recorded in Case Diary Parcha No.14 that CDR and tower location of Mobile No. 09554166555 of witness Dinesh has been collected, and on its analysis it is found that on 02.02.2012 at 09:34:25 hours its location was at Phakna and thereafter from 13:50:11 to 15:03:53 hours, it was within area of Mohammadabad tower and between 17:47:06 to 03.:02:12 hours from 17.04.2006 to next day up to 09:57:36 hours its location was detected at Pakhina Sirauli tower. Whereas the place of incident is lying within Mohammadabad tower, as probable time of incident is stated to be 18:30 hours on 02.02.2012.

9. According to Investigating Officer, the location of the witness Dinesh was not found at the place of incident at relevant date and time. Another witness Shersingh, who is named in FIR stated to him that he was not present on relevant time and place of incident, and next day he heard that two dead bodies are lying on the corner of railway line and then he visited the place at of occurrence around 08:00 AM and saw that dead body of co-villager Amar Singh, who was his relative was lying alongwith dead body of Man Singh, resident of Malwa Dhani. He and other villagers informed Smt. Munni Devi about the incident telephonically, who was at that time present at her parental place in village Shankarpur and she was called there, he had not seen any such incident. He could not know as to why his name is shown as witness in FIR, Smt. Munni Devi herself was not present at the time of the incident, as she had gone to her parental place, ten to fifteen days prior to the incident. He is not willing to depose falsely, the other witnesses Vipin Yadav has also not supported the FIR version and nor he was present on the spot at the time of incident, he heard next day on 03.03.2012 that his co-villagers Sanju, Raju @ Raje and others had killed Amar Singh and Man Singh, but he did not see the occurrence. He admitted that he had gone to Mohammadabad market at around 6:30 pm on 02.02.2012 alongwith Shersingh riding a motorcycle; he operates a milk dairy and ice-cream factory at village Nadaura. However, he could not explain as to why Shersingh stated in his statement that he did not visit Mohammadabad on 02.02.2012 and did not hear anything about the occurrence. Witness Vipin Yadav also stated that he neither saw the incident nor firing, he also stated that he visited the place of incident on next day, where the dead body was lying at the corner or railway track. He admitted that there is a old enmity between family members and the witnesses of the accused persons.

10. The Investigating Officer collected further facts during investigation on the basis of evidence of witness Brijesh Yadav, Lekhpal Khateriya, Satyapal Singh Yadav and others. The deceased were shot at the temple by miscreants and informant Munni Devi was present at that time at her parental place village Shankarpur Bishnupur, District Kannauj. There was old family enmity between the deceased Amar Singh and Dalganjan Singh, the head of the family of accused persons. Deceased Amar Singh was accused in murder of Ramchander who was the brother of Dalganjan Singh. Deceased Amar Singh was awarded life imprisonment in said murder case by court and was released on bail during the pendency of appeal five years ago the incident. The mobile phones of deceased were also taken away by the killers; deceased were persons of criminal antecedents.

11. According to the observation of Investigating Officer Dalganjan Singh visited the dead bodies alongwith a nephew after knowing the incident. The FIR was lodged against son and nephews of Dalganjan Singh due to old enmities and litigations. The Investigating Officer came to the conclusion, after investigation that the complicity of named accused persons was not found in double murder case and the informant and her relative Dinesh were not found to have witnessed the incident as their present was found else where on date and time of incident. The informant falsely named the present accused persons in FIR in view of old family dispute with Dalganjan Singh, while the mobile phone of deceased Amar Singh was recovered on 08.04.2012 from possession of one Rajpal @ Manishpal son of Kannaujiapal resident of Khimsepur Police Station Mohammadabad District Farukhabad, robbed by miscreants after committing murder of Amar Singh on 02.02.2012.

12. The complicity of Kashmir Pal, Nagendra Yadav, Kuldeep, Rahis Pal, Shekhar Pal, Rajpal and Sukhveer Yadav was found during investigation in the murder of deceased Man Singh and Amar Singh on account of their mobile phone location, statement of the witnesses and CDR and involvement of present revisionists who were named in the FIR was found false. Nagendra Yadav was inimical to deceased Amar Singh and Sukhvir Singh and wanted to kill Man Singh and all these chargesheeted accused hatched a conspiracy and killed the two to fulfill that.

13. Thus, the Investigating Officer dropped the name of all the seven named accused persons, and instead filed chargesheet against seven other persons whose complicity was found in the offence during investigation.

14. The court below recorded the evidence of as many as nine witnesses at the stage of trial, and thereafter an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was filed by the informant (PW1) in ST No.1927 of 20112 State Vs. Kashmir Pal to summon all the named accused persons in FIR as accused, who faced trial together with the accused persons who are already facing trial. Nine witnesses are examined during trial out of whom PW1 Munni Devi, PW9 Dinesh are witnesses of fact. PW5 Ram Chandra is scriber of written report Ex.Ka.1.

15. Learned trial court after hearing the submissions of both the sides and taking into consideration the evidence on record during trial placed reliance on version of PW1 Munni Devi and PW9 Dinesh summoned the revisionists as accused in exercise of powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The newly added accused persons, being aggrieved by the impugned order dated 02.05.2019, preferred present revision before this Court. Two counter affidavits were filed by respondent No.2 one on 26.08.2019 through Advocate Sri Chandra Prakash Pandey and the other through Advocate Sri Durvijay Singh on 13.11.2019. In first affidavit respondent No.2 has countered the affidavit filed in support of the Revision and the other is supportive of the revisionists version. The respondent No.2 appeared before this Court and disowned first counter affidavit as well as application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. purportedly filed by her before the court below.

16. Learned counsel for the revisionists submitted that though it is true that P.W.1 Smt. Munni Devi, PW 9 Dinesh have testified in support of FIR version, they are only two witnesses examined during trial. The other witnesses of chargesheet have not been examined by prosecution during trial and on the basis of whose statement during investigation the complicity of the revisionists was not found in the offence and instead complicity of accused Kashmir Singh and others have been found, who are facing trial before the court below.

17. Learned counsel for revisionists further submitted that in the present case although strong motive as been attributed to revisionists who belonged to family of Dalganjan Singh in whose brother's murder case deceased Amar Pal was tried and convicted by the court and was on bail during appeal. However, this fact is noticeable that causing fire arm injury to deceased persons is specifically attributed in FIR as well as in statement of witnesses namely Munni Devi and Dinesh Singh to accused Sanju and Raju @ Rajey. The other named accused persons are said to have assaulted the deceased persons by kicks, fists and butts of riffle, according to version of these witnesses. However, in postmortem report both the deceased are found to have suffered incised wound also apart from fire arm and other injuries, and these witnesses have no where stated that the named accused persons were armed with any sharp edged weapon. Their presence was not found by the investigating officer on the place of incident, whereas they have stated in their sworn testimony before the court that they had seen the incident.

18. The trial itself has reached at the advance stage of recording of statements of the accused persons under Section 313

Cr.P.C. Therefore, during trial only those witnesses were produced in support of prosecution case who have testified against the revisionists during investigation as well as during trial. Thus, in the entirety, it is submitted that there can be no strong satisfaction recorded by the learned trial court to summon the revisionists as additional accused to face trial in exercise of powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. alongwith accused persons who are already facing trial. He further submitted that no strong satisfaction has been recorded by the learned court below with regard to prima-facie case against the revisionists as envisaged under Section 319 Cr.P.C. before passing the impugned order. The independent witnesses named in FIR are not examined during trial. PW1 is complainant and PW9 is a partisan and entrusted witnesses and is on inimical terms with accused side long before the incident.

19. Learned counsel for the respondent No.2 made request irrespective of the new stand of the informant Smt. Munni Devi at this stage, the revision may be decided on merits of the case in light of law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in various recent judgments.

20. Learned A.G.A. for the State - respondent submitted that the name of actual assailants who are named in the FIR has been dropped by the Investigating Officer in chargesheet due to allurement and political pressure. The investigation was faulty and partial, it was not fair investigation, otherwise there was no reason that family members of the deceased would have named wrong persons in FIR and concealed the name of actual assailants. It is further submitted that strangely, the names of all seven accused persons were dropped in the chargesheet with a view to screen the actual offenders and new set of accused were chargesheeted. The subsequent application and affidavit of the complainant after passing of impugned order is insignificant. It is her "evidence" and not her affidavit which will be read in the matter in hand.

21. On the cumulative strength of above contentions, learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of respondents vehemently contended that the present criminal revision is liable to be dismissed.

22. In the present case two persons Amar Singh, the husband of the informant and his friend Man Singh were killed on 02.02.2012 at around 06:30 pm, when they were coming from Mohammadabad market riding a motorcycle. In the FIR as many as seven accused persons are named as assailants and specific role of firing a shot at the deceased is attributed to accused Sanju and Raju alias Raje in the FIR as well as in the statements of the informant and her witness Dinesh in the statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and in their sworn testimony before the Court of PW 1 and PW9 respectively.

23. In the FIR it is stated that appellant No.1 Sanju had fired a shot at Amar Singh and Raju @ Raje appellant No.2 fired a shot at Man Singh and remaining persons assaulted the injured persons by butt of their guns badly till arrival of the witnesses. In the statement dated 04.02.2012 made under Section 161 Cr.P.C. the informant i.e. the next day of lodging the FIR has stated that after opening of fire on deceased persons by Sanju and Raju @ Raje the remaining accused persons assaulted these two injured persons by kicks, fits and butts of their guns badly, who died by fatal injuries suffered in their incident. The other two witnesses Sher Singh and Vipin who were named as eyewitness in the FIR have not supported the FIR version in their statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.. However, the witness Dinesh has corroborated the FIR version and statement of the informant in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at belated stage on 29.06.2012 by the Investigating Officer as well as in his sworn testimony before the court as PW9. PW1 and PW9 the witnesses of facts have categorically stated in their evidence during the cross examination that accused persons Nagendra and others who are facing trial at present were not assailants and the accused persons named in the FIR are real assailants. The new set seven accused have been introduced by Investigating Officer during investigation and chargesheeted namely Nagendra Yadav, Kuldeep, Rahish Pal, Shekhar Pal, Raja and Kashmir Pal. The witness Dinesh Singh has already stated in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and before the Court as PW9 that Sanju fired a shot at Amar Singh and Raju @ Raje fired a shot at Man Singh and remaining accused persons named in the FIR assaulted the injured by butts of their guns, kicks and fits. He fled from the place of incident taking Smt. Munni Devi his sister-in-law (bhabi) with him at village Nadaura, the parental place of Munni Devi where they stayed in the night, as stated in his evidence that he identified the accused in the light of their four wheeler and his motorcycle. The witness Dinesh Singh is named as accused in FIR lodged as Crime No.Nil of 2002 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307 and 504 I.P.C. alongwith his father and other accused for attempting to commit murder of the nephew of Dalganjan Singh on 18.02.2002 the present revisionists include sons, nephew and family members of Dalganjan Singh.

24. The postmortem report of deceased Amar Singh and Man Singh dated 03.02.2012 revealed that deceased Amar Singh received fire arm wound of entry on right temporal region. One incised wound 11cm x2.5 cm x bone deep over right side of mandible under-lying bone fractured, abraded contusion 12 cm x 7cm over right side of face, ligature mark 32 cm x 4 cm around the neck, on cut haematoma was present. Tracheal ring depressed, multiple contusion over front of right shoulder and upper part of chest. Linear abrasion 6 cm over right side of upper part buttuck. Thus six entries were found on his person.

25. In postmortem report of injured Man Singh also one fire arm wound of entry 2 cm x 5 cm on right temporal region and one wound on exit over left side of ear was found. Apart from that one lacerated wound 3 cm x 1 cm bonedeep over left eyebrow, one incised wound 3.5 cm x 0.5 cm over the right shear involving lower eyelid and abraded contusion 11 cm x 1 cm on front of neck, middle part were found.

26. Thus, from the postmortem report of Amar Singh it appears that he received fire arm injuries, lacerated and abraded wounds as well as incised wounds. He also received injuries on his neck and on cut tracheal ring was depressed and haematoma was present beneath the injury, this shows that he was attributed to be strangulated. Some what similar nature of wounds were found in postmortem report of deceased Man Singh.

27. It needs to be highlighted that when a person is named in the FIR by the complainant, but police after investigation finds no role of that particular person and files a chargesheet without implicating him, the court is not powerless, and may exercise its jurisdiction to summon any person as accused whose complicity has been found in the offence on the basis of material collected during investigation at pre trial stage in exercise of powers under Sections 190 and 193 Cr.P.C. as recognized by the Apex Court in Dharam Pal and Others Vs. State of Haryana and Another, (2014) 3 SCC 306 (Constitution Bench) and the trial court need not wait for evidence to be recorded so that non chargesheeted accused could be summoned under Section 319 of Cr.P.C. Even on commencement of trial and recording of some evidence the court is empowered to exercise its powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon any other person who has not been chargesheeted by police officer after investigation, yet his complicity in the offence prima facie established during trial, and as such the newly added accused will be tried together with the accused persons who are already facing trial in the case.

28. Section 319 Cr.P.C. is quoted hereunder:-

"319 Cr.P.C. -Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence:-

(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court, he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under sub- section (1), then-

(5) (a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh, and the witnesses re-heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced."

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Constitutional Bench Judgment in Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and Others, (2014) 3 SCC 92 held as under:-

"55. Accordingly, we hold that the court can exercise the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. only after the trial proceeds and commences with the recording of the evidence and also in exceptional circumstances as explained herein above."

85. In view of the discussion made and the conclusion drawn herein above, the answer to the aforesaid question posed is that apart from evidence recorded during trial, any material that has been received by the court after cognizance is taken and before the trial commences, can be utilized only for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The 'evidence' is thus, limited to the evidence recorded during trial.

92. Thus, in view of the above, we hold that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

can be exercised at the stage of completion of examination in chief and court does not need to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination for it is the satisfaction of the court which can be gathered from the reasons recorded by the court, in respect of complicity of some other person(s), not facing the trial in the offence.

95. In Suresh v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2001 SC 1375, this Court after taking note of the earlier judgments in Niranjan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi v. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijjaya, AIR 1990 SC 1962 and State of Maharashtra v. Priya Sharan Maharaj, AIR 1997 SC 2041, held as under:

"9…….at the stage of Sections 227 and 228 the Court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to finding out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. The Court may, for this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case. Therefore, at the stage of framing of the charge the Court has to consider the material with a view to find out if there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed the offence or that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against him and not for the purpose of arriving at the conclusion that it is not likely to lead to a conviction."

105. Power under Section 319 CrPC is a discretionary and an extraordinary power. It is to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrant. It is not to be exercised because the Magistrate or the Sessions Judge is of the opinion that some other person may also be guilty of committing that offence. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the court that such power should be exercised and not in a casual and cavalier manner.

106. Thus, we hold that though only a prima facie case is to be established from the evidence led before the court not necessarily tested on the anvil of Cross-Examination, it requires much stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity. The test that has to be applied is one which is more than prima facie case as exercised at the time of framing of charge, but short of satisfaction to an extent that the evidence, if goes unrebutted, would lead to conviction. In the absence of such satisfaction, the court should refrain from exercising power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. In Section 319 Cr.P.C. the purpose of providing if 'it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence' is clear from the words "for which such person could be tried together with the accused." The words used are not 'for which such person could be convicted'. There is, therefore, no scope for the Court acting under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused.

116. Thus, it is evident that power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised against a person not subjected to investigation, or a person placed in the Column 2 of the Charge-Sheet and against whom cognizance had not been taken, or a person who has been discharged. However, concerning a person who has been discharged, no proceedings can be commenced against him directly under Section 319 Cr.P.C. without taking recourse to provisions of Section 300(5) read with Section 398 Cr.P.C.

117.2. Section 319 Cr.P.C., significantly, uses two expressions that have to be taken note of i.e. (1) Inquiry (2) Trial. As a trial commences after framing of charge, an inquiry can only be understood to be a pre-trial inquiry. Inquiries under Sections 200, 201, 202 Cr.P.C.; and under Section 398 Cr.P.C. are species of the inquiry contemplated by Section 319 Cr.P.C. Materials coming before the Court in course of such enquiries can be used for corroboration of the evidence recorded in the court after the trial commences, for the exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C., and also to add an accused whose name has been shown in Column 2 of the charge-sheet.

The word evidence used in Section 319 of Cr.P.C. has been used in a comprehensive sense respondent does not include the evidence collected during investigation.

30. Inspite of above noted judgment, issue did not come to rest, but again cropped up for consideration in Brijendra Singh (supra) wherein Court considered the observations made in paragraphs 8, 12, 13, 19, 105 and 106 of Constitution Bench judgment in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and applying the ratio as mentioned in aforesaid paragraphs widened the scope of parameters regarding exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. In this case, Court was examining the summoning of a non-charge-sheeted accused in a Sessions Trial under Sections-147, 148, 149, 323, 448, 302/149 I.P.C. and Section- 3 and 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. Court went a step further. Having done so, Court summed up as follows in paragraphs 13, 14, 15:-

"13. In order to answer the question, some of the principles enunciated in Hardeep Singh's case may be recapitulated: power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the trial court at any stage during the trial, i.e., before the conclusion of trial, to summon any person as an accused and face the trial in the ongoing case, once the trial court finds that there is some 'evidence' against such a person on the basis of which evidence it can be gathered that he appears to be guilty of offence. The 'evidence' herein means the material that is brought before the Court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the I.O. at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilised for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. No doubt, such evidence that has surfaced in examination-in-chief, without cross-examination of witnesses, can also be taken into consideration. However, since it is a discretionary power given to the Court under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and is also an extraordinary one, same has to be exercised sparingly and only in those cases where the circumstances of the case so warrants. The degree of satisfaction is more than the degree which is warranted at the time of framing of the charges against others in respect of whom chargesheet was filed. Only where strong and cogent evidence occurs against a person from the evidence led before the Court that such power should be exercised. It is not to be exercised in a casual or a cavalier manner. The prima facie opinion which is to be formed requires stronger evidence than mere probability of his complicity.

14. When we translate the aforesaid principles with their application to the facts of this case, we gather an impression that the trial court acted in a casual and cavalier manner in passing the summoning order against the appellants. The appellants were named in the FIR. Investigation was carried out by the police. On the basis of material collected during investigation, which has been referred to by us above, the IO found that these appellants were in Jaipur city when the incident took place in Kanaur, at a distance of 175 kms. The complainant and others who supported the version in the FIR regarding alleged presence of the appellants at the place of incident had also made statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the same effect. Notwithstanding the same, the police investigation revealed that the statements of these persons regarding the presence of the appellants at the place of occurrence was doubtful and did not inspire confidence, in view of the documentary and other evidence collected during the investigation, which depicted another story and clinchingly showed that appellants plea of alibi was correct.

15. This record was before the trial court. Notwithstanding the same, the trial court went by the deposition of complainant and some other persons in their examination-in-chief, with no other material to support their so- called verbal/ocular version. Thus, the 'evidence' recorded during trial was nothing more than the statements which was already there under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded at the time of investigation of the case. No doubt, the trial court would be competent to exercise its power even on the basis of such statements recorded before it in examination-in-chief. However, in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the IO during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prima facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (i.e. appellants) complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. Even if we presume that the trial court was not apprised of the same at the time when it passed the order (as the appellants were not on the scene at that time), what is more troubling is that even when this material on record was specifically brought to the notice of the High Court in the Revision Petition filed by the appellants, the High Court too blissfully ignored the said material. Except reproducing the discussion contained in the order of the trial court and expressing agreement therewith, nothing more has been done. Such orders cannot stand judicial scrutiny."

31. In Manjeet Singh (Supra), Court was considering the correctness of an order passed by High Court dismissing the revision preferred against an order passed by Sessions Judge allowing the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. filed in a case under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC and Sections 3/4 Protection of Children From Sexual Offences, (POCSO) Act, 2012 Court again examined the issue relating to parameters for exercise of jurisdiction under section 319 Cr.P.C. Court took notice of the constitution Bench judgement in Hardeep Singh (Supra) and S. Mohammed Ispahani (Supra) and on basis of ratio laid down therein evolved the ambit and scope of powers of Court under section 319

Cr.P.C. in paragraphs 34 of judgement. Having done so, Court examined the testimony of P.W.1 Manjeet who is an injured witness and on basis thereof tested the veracity of orders passed by High Court as well as trial court whereby summoning of non charge sheeted accused was declined. Hon'ble Supreme Court upon evaluation of evidence on record disagreed with the view taken by High Court as well as trial court. Following disagreement was expressed by court in paragraphs 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38 of the judgement:

"34. The ratio of the aforesaid decisions on the scope and ambit of the powers of the Court under Section 319 CrPC can be summarized as under:

(i) That while exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC and to summon the persons not charge-sheeted, the entire effort is not to allow the real perpetrator of an offence to get away unpunished;

(ii) for the empowerment of the courts to ensure that the criminal administration of justice works properly;

(iii) the law has been properly codified and modified by the legislature under the CrPC indicating as to how the courts should proceed to ultimately find out the truth so that the innocent does not get punished but at the same time, the guilty are brought to book under the law;

(iv) to discharge duty of the court to find out the real truth and to ensure that the guilty does not go unpunished;

(v) where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial;

(vi) Section 319 CrPC allows the court to proceed against any person who is not an accused in a case before it;

(vii) the court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency;

(viii) Section 319 CrPC is an enabling provision empowering the court to take appropriate steps for proceeding against any person not being an accused for also having committed the offence under trial;

(ix) the power under Section 319(1) CrPC can be exercised at any stage after the charge-sheet is filed and before the pronouncement of judgment, except during the stage of Sections 207/208 CrPC, committal, etc. which is only a pre-trial stage intended to put the process into motion;

(x) the court can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC only after the trial proceeds and commences with the recording of the evidence;

(xi) the word "evidence" in Section 319 CrPC means only such evidence as is made before the court, in relation to statements, and as produced before the court, in relation to documents;

(xii) it is only such evidence that can be taken into account by the Magistrate or the court to decide whether the power under Section 319 CrPC is to be exercised and not on the basis of material collected during the investigation;

(xiii) if the Magistrate/court is convinced, even on the basis of evidence appearing in examination-in-chief, it can exercise the power under Section 319 CrPC and can proceed against such other person(s);

(xiv) If the Magistrate/court is convinced even on the basis of evidence appearing in examination-in-chief, powers under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised;

(xv) that power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised even at the stage of completion of examination-in-chief and the court need not has to wait till the said evidence is tested on cross-examination;

(xvi) even in a case where the stage of giving opportunity to the complainant to file a protest petition urging upon the trial court to summon other persons as well who were named in FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet has gone, in that case also, the Court is still not powerless by virtue of Section 319 CrPC and even those persons named in FIR but not implicated in the charge-sheet can be summoned to face the trial, provided during the trial some evidence surfaces against the proposed accused (may be in the form of examination-in-chief of the prosecution witnesses);

(xvii) while exercising the powers under Section 319 CrPC the Court is not required and/or justified in appreciating the deposition/evidence of the prosecution witnesses on merits which is required to be done during the trial.

32. In the present case PW1 Munni Devi who is informant and wife of deceased Amar Singh. PW1 Munni Devi and PW9 Dinesh Singh were produced as a witnesses of fact, during trial of the present case, the other witnesses of facts are not examined, they have supported the FIR version in their sworn testimony before the Court. After recording the evidence of P.W1 and PW9 an application under Section 319 of Cr.P.C. was moved by the complainant Munni Devi before the trial court for summoning the named accused persons as additional accused to face trial in the case together with the accused persons who are already facing trial, and said application has been allowed by the trial court by the impugned order. The application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was moved at a belated stage after conclusion of prosecution evidence. The leaned trial court by the impugned order has summoned all the named accused persons in FIR, in exercise of powers provided under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The accused persons summoned under Section 319 Cr.P.C. have filed present criminal revision, and this Court has stayed the effect and operation of impugned order dated 02.05.2019, till the next date of listing vide interim order dated 24.05.2019, and said interim order has been extended from time to time.

33. During the pendency of present revision the applicant Munni Devi moved an application on 17.08.2019 before the trial court, wherein she has disowned the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. dated 03.04.2019 and stated on affidavit that she never instructed her counsel Satyendra Kumar Pathak to move an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C., because she came to know that after her evidence before the court on 03.01.2017, the named accused persons Sanju and others were not involved in murder of her husband Amar Singh and his friend Man Singh and for that reason she stopped prosecuting the case after her evidence against Sanju and others. The opponents of Sanju and others misled her and obtained her thumb impression on a pre-written paper. She is an illiterate lady and she was depressed for longtime due to murder of her husband. This application was returned in original by the court below, as operation of the impugned order was stayed by orders of this Court.

34. The complainant Munni Devi, appeared before this Court and admitted to have filed this application dated 17.08.2019 accompanied with an affidavit before the court below. So far as the other facts of this case are concerned, two sets of accused persons have been introduced in this case for committing double murder of Amar Singh and Man Singh on fateful day time and place. One set of accused are named in the FIR lodged at the instance of PW1 Munni Devi who are present revisionists. However, their name was dropped in chargesheet and a new set of accused persons Kashmir Pal, Nagendra Yadav, Kuldeep, Rahis Pal, Shekhar Pal, Rajpal and Sukhveer Yadav surfaced during investigation and their complicity was found in the offences during investigation and they were ultimately chargesheeted and are facing trial at present. Interestingly the witnesses of facts PW1 Munni Devi and PW9 Dinesh Singh have also not implicated the accused persons Nagendra Yadav and others who are already facing trial in their sworn testimony before the court, and have stated that they have not seen them on the scene of crime when it was committed. The complicity of the present revisionist was not found during investigation, instead a new set of accused persons Nagendra and others were chargesheeted on the basis of their mobile location and CDR of their mobile phone as well as on the basis of statement of independent witnesses. The witnesses named in the FIR namely Sher Singh and Vipin as independent witnesses have not been produced during trial and they have not supported the FIR version in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

35. The learned court below has not discussed the course of investigations, evidence collected during investigation, reasons behind exoneration of named accused persons and introduction of a new set of accused persons during investigation by the Investigating Officer.

36. Whereas Hon'ble Supreme Court in Brijendra Singh Meena vs State Of Rajasthan And Ors. (supra) held in paragraph 13 of the judgment that the 'evidence' herein means the material that is brought before the Court during trial. Insofar as the material/evidence collected by the I.O. at the stage of inquiry is concerned, it can be utilized for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

37. Hon'ble Supreme Court also held in Brijendra Singh's case that powers of the Court to proceed under Section 319 Cr.P.C. even against those persons who are not arraigned as accused, cannot be disputed. This provision is meant to achieve the objective that real culprit should not get away unpunished. As Section 319 Cr.P.C. springs out of a legal maxim "judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted" and this doctrine must be used as a beacon light while explaining the ambit and sprit underlying the enactment of Section 319 Cr.P.C. It is the duty of the Court to do justice by punishing the real culprit. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency.

38. The Hon'ble Apex Court observed that in a case like the present where plethora of evidence was collected by the Investigating Officer during investigation which suggested otherwise, the trial court was at least duty bound to look into the same while forming prim-facie opinion and to see as to whether 'much stronger evidence than mere possibility of their (appellants), complicity has come on record. There is no satisfaction of this nature. The police on investigation revealed that the statement of these persons regarding the presence of the appellants at the place of occurrence was doubtful and did no inspire confidence, in view of the documentary and other evidence collected during the investigation, which depicted another story and clinchingly showed that appellants plea of alibi was correct.

39. With foregoing submissions at Bar and discussion, this Court is of the considered opinion that the learned court below has committed legal error while ignoring all together the course of investigation, the reason behind exoneration of the revisionists and filing of chargesheet against a new set of accused persons on the basis of evidence collected during investigation. Although the evidence adduced during inquiry or trial is envisaged as "evidence" under Section 319 Cr.P.C., as settled in constitutional Bench Judgment the Hon'ble Apex Court in Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab and Others (supra), but in subsequent judgment in Brijendra Singh and Others Vs. State of Rajasthan (supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court held that the evidence collected by IO at the stage of investigation should also be looked into as the same may be utilized for corroboration and to support the evidence recorded by the Court to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The impugned order is not sustainable under law and deserves to be set-aside.

40. The revision stands allowed. The impugned order dated 02.05.2019 passed by learned trial court is hereby set-aside and matter is remitted to the court below to hearing the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. afresh and decide the same in accordance with law in the light of observations made in this order, after giving opportunity of hearing to the complainant and prosecution.

41. However, it is clarified that the observations made herein before are only for the purpose of deciding the present revision and have no bearing on the merits of the case for final adjudication.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 227, 228 & 397 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 147, 148, 323, 504, 506, 452 & 354A –

Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 – Section 8 – Discharge Application – Revisional Jurisdiction – Prima Facie Case – Contradictions in St.ments

The revisionists, Rajkumar @ Raju and others, challenged the order dated 17.05.2023 passed by the Special Judge (POCSO Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Bareilly, dismissing their discharge application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. in Case Crime No. 368 of 2019, involving charges under Sections 147, 148, 323, 504, 506, 452, 354A IPC, and Section 8 POCSO Act. The FIR, lodged on 27.07.2019 pursuant to a Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. application, alleged that on 02.06.2019, the accused trespassed into the informant's house, molested her minor daughter, and assaulted the informant due to prior enmity. The Investigating Officer submitted a final report favoring the accused, citing a monetary dispute, but the trial court rejected it based on the victim's and informant's St.ments under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., summoning the accused. The revisionists argued contradictions between the informant's and victim's St.ments, with the victim implicating only Veer Singh and Pappi, not Raju, Guddu, or Darpan. Held: The court, relying on Sheoraj Singh Ahlawat Vs St. of U.P. ((2013) 11 SCC 476), Sajjan Kumar Vs CBI ((2010) 9 SCC 368), and Tarun Jit Tejpal Vs St. of Goa ((2019) SCC OnLine 1053), found that the trial court failed to consider the contradiction in St.ments, where the victim did not implicate Raju, Guddu, or Darpan, rendering their complicity doubtful. The court emphasized that under Section 227 Cr.P.C., the trial court must evaluate material for a prima facie case without conducting a roving inquiry. The revision was allowed, the impugned order was set aside, and the matter was remitted for fresh consideration of the discharge application with reasoned orders.

1. Challenge in this revision is to the order dated 17.5.20223 passed by learned Special Judge (POCSO Act)/ Additional Sessions Judge, Bareilly, in Case Crime No.368 of 2019, under Sections 147, 148, 323, 504, 506, 452, 354-Ka IPC and Section 8 of POCSO Act, Police Station Aonla, District Bareilly, wheeby the discharge application moved by the accused-revisionists in said case under Section 227 Cr.P.C. has been dismissed and case was fixed for framing of charge.

2. Heard learned counsel for the revisionists, learned AGA for the State and perused the material placed on record.

3. Factual matrix of the case in brief are that the FIR was lodged at the instance of respondent No.2 at police station concerned on 27.7.2019, at 16:16 hours on the basis of order passed by learned Special Judge, POCSO Act, Bareilly on application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. filed by the informant on 16.7.2019, with averment that on 4.9.2019, at around 6:20 AM, accused persons namely Raju, Pappi, Guddu, Darpan and Veer Singh, who are resident of her mohalla had mercilessly beaten and threatened him with life. The son and husband of the informant went somewhere else due to fear of accused persons. As informant had made a complaint at police station concerned regarding that incident, the accused-persons were bearing grudge against her. The accused persons appeared at the door of the house of informant at 2.6.2019, at about 11:30 PM due to previous enmity and knocked at her door. The informant opened door in impression that her son and husband would have come to home. The accused persons barged into her house and accused Veer Singh and Pappi grabbed and molested her minor daughter with bad intention. When the informant objected to this, they engaged in maar-peet with her and threatened her that they would compel her to leave the place like her husband and son and will grab her house and take her daughter with them. When the informant and her children shouted for help, the accused persons left the place after hurling threats of life to them. The informant tried to lodge her report at police station concerned but due to influence of accused persons, her report had not been lodged and ultimately she had to take recourse of the court for lodging her FIR, under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

4. The police investigated the case, recorded statements of victim, informant and witnesses, inspected the place of incident and Investigating Officer prepared site plan of the place of occurrence and after investigation submitted a final report in favour of the accused persons with conclusion that matter enquired into by approaching respectable people of locality and daughter-in-law of the informant, who was present on the spot but no such type of incident was found to have occurred. This fact emerged that the informant and her husband had borrowed money from accused persons for marriage of their son but they did not intent to pay back the money and a false case was lodged against accused persons with malafide. The informant appeared before the trial court and filed her protest petition against final report submitted by the Investigating Officer. Learned trial court heard the informant on final report and protest petition and placing reliance on statement of victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. before the Magistrate as well as the statement of informant recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. as well as FIR version rejected the final report and allowed the protest petition vide order dated 6.12.2021 and summon the accused Veer Singh and Pappi for said charges and accused Raju, Guddu and Darpan were also summoned for said charges except charge under Section 8 of POCSO Act.

5. The accused persons assailed the summoning order before this Court by moving an Application U/S 482 No.2702 of 2022, wherein they submitted that in fact, no such incident took place as mentioned in the F.I.R. and due to the personal grudges, entire family of the applicants has been roped in the present matter. It is further submitted that no offence against applicants is disclosed and present prosecution has been instituted with a malafide intention for the purposes of harassment. This Court disposed of the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C., vide order dated 9.2.2022 with observation that the disputed defence of the accused cannot be considered at this stage. The Court did not see any abuse of the court's process either. The summoning court has been vested with sufficient powers to discharge the accused even before the stage to frame the charges comes, if for reasons to be recorded, it considers the charge to be groundless. Moreover, the applicants have got a right of discharge under Section 239 or 227/228 Cr.P.C., as the case may be, through a proper application for the said purpose and he is free to take all the submissions in the said discharge application before the Trial Court. The Court below holds the view that the accused has been rightly summoned and the material brought on record does not indicate the charges to be groundless it shall make an order to that effect and proceed further in the matter, in accordance with law.

6. In the light of observations of this Court on Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. filed by the accused persons, they moved an application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. before the trial court praying for their discharge from alleged charges, wherein, they place reliance on the statements of independent witnesses given through affidavits to S.H.O., concerned, in which they have stated that no such type of incident occurred as alleged in the FIR. The accused persons are respectable people of the locality and they have been falsely implicated in the case with ulterior motive and with a view to grab their money lent to the husband of the informant. They have also stated in the application that they have been released on bail vide order dated 31.3.2022 by the Court. The FIR has been lodged by the informant with a view to blackmail the accused persons and avoid repayment of their money borrowed by him. It was also stated therein that in fact, the informant wanted to get her daughter (victim) married with accused Darpan but her offer was declined by accused persons. Accused Ajay @ Guddu and Rajkumar @ Raju are afflicted with serious ailment and they could not participate in such type of incident. The informant has stated the date of incident as 2.6.2019 whereas the victim, in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C., has stated the incident had occurred on 2.8.2019. The victim has implicated only accused Veer Singh and Pappi in the incident. Learned court below rejected the application for discharge moved by the accused persons with observation that the accused persons were summoned on protest petition, vide order dated 6.12.2021. They filed discharge application at belated stage after order of High Court in this respect. No fresh evidence appeared after summoning of the accused persons on the basis of which accused persons can be discharged. The discharge application has been moved on the basis of same evidence which was available at the time of summoning of the accused. No such type of evidence is found on record on basis of which, the accused persons could be discharged.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned order, the accused persons/revisionists preferred present criminal revision.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionists submitted that learned trial court has wrongly observed in the impugned order that no fresh evidence or material has appeared on record after summoning of the accused-persons, which could form basis for the discharge as this Court while deciding Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 2702 of 2022, vide order dated 9.2.2022, has clearly observed that "If the concerned Court feels persuaded to have the view that accused ought not to have been summoned and charge is groundless it shall not abstain from discharging the accused only on the ground that the material available at the time of summoning was the same which is available on record at the time of hearing the discharge application."

9. Learned counsel for the revisionists further submitted that where informant has implicated all the five accused persons in the FIR as well as in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the victim has made allegations only against two accused namely, Pappi and Veer Singh in the incident. Even, daughter-in-law of the informant has not supported FIR version in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The victim or informant suffered no injury in the incident as no injury report has been brought on record. The affidavits of the witnesses is part of case diary.

10. Per contra, learned AGA submitted that the offence is of serious nature. Learned court below has rightly dismissed the discharge application moved by the applicants/revisionists by impugned order while considering the material on record and submissions of learned counsels appearing for the parties. No case for discharge has been made out in the matter.

11. From perusal of record, it appears that the FIR in the case was lodged on the basis of order of Special Judge, POCSO Act, Bareilly, on 27.7.2019 regarding the incident dated 2.6.2019, time 11:30 PM. It is stated in the FIR that the accused-persons assaulted her and molested her minor daughter on date and time of incident by committing house trespass, due to previous enmity and incident dated 4.5.2019. The informant has supported FIR version against all the accused persons in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., wherein specific allegation of molestation of her minor daughter are attributed to accused namely, Veer Singh and Pappi. The victim in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded on 20.6.2019 has implicated only two accused person namely Pappi and Veer Singh, who knocked at her door in the fateful night, which was opened by her mother and they tried to outrage her modesty. She has also stated that there were no other person at that time except these two people. The victim in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. recorded by the Magistrate on 26.7.2019 has also implicated only two accused namely Pappi and Veer Singh. She has sated nothing about other accused-persons.

12. Reference in this connection can be made to a recent decision of this Court in Sheoraj Singh Ahlawat v. State of U.P. [(2013) 11 SCC 476 : (2012) 4 SCC (Cri) 21 : AIR 2013 SC 52], in which, after analysing various decisions on the point, this Court endorsed the following view taken in Onkar Nath Mishra v. State (NCT of Delhi) [(2008) 2 SCC 561 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 507] : (Sheoraj Singh Ahlawat case [(2013) 11 SCC 476 : (2012) 4 SCC (Cri) 21 : AIR 2013 SC 52] , SCC p. 482, para 15) "15. '11. It is trite that at the stage of framing of charge the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to finding out if the facts emerging therefrom, taken at their face value, disclosed the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. At that stage, the court is not expected to go deep into the probative value of the material on record. What needs to be considered is whether there is a ground for presuming that the offence has been committed and not a ground for convicting the accused has been made out. At that stage, even strong suspicion founded on material which leads the court to form a presumptive opinion as to the existence of the factual ingredients constituting the offence alleged would justify the framing of charge against the accused in respect of the commission of that offence.' (Onkar Nath case [(2008) 2 SCC 561 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 507] , SCC p. 565, para 11)" (emphasis in original)

13. Now reverting to the decisions of this Court in Sajjan Kumar [Sajjan Kumar v. CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1371] and Dilawar Balu Kurane [Dilawar Balu Kurane v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 2 SCC 135 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 310], relied on by the respondents, we are of the opinion that they do not advance their case. The aforesaid decisions consider the provision of Section 227 of the Code and make it clear that at the stage of discharge the court cannot make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if it was conducting a trial. It is worth mentioning that the Code contemplates discharge of the accused by the Court of Session under Section 227 in a case triable by it; cases instituted upon a police report are covered by Section 239 and cases instituted otherwise than on a police report are dealt with in Section 245. From a reading of the aforesaid sections it is evident that they contain somewhat different provisions with regard to discharge of an accused:

1. Under Section 227 of the Code, the trial court is required to discharge the accused if it "considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused". However, discharge under Section 239 can be ordered when "the Magistrate considers the charge against the accused to be groundless". The power to discharge is exercisable under Section 245*(1) when, "the Magistrate considers, for reasons to be recorded that no case against the accused has been made out which, if unrebutted, would warrant his conviction".*

2. Section 227 and 239 provide for discharge before the recording of evidence on the basis of the police report, the documents sent along with it and examination of the accused after giving an opportunity to the parties to be heard. However, the stage of discharge under Section 245*, on the other hand, is reached only after the evidence referred in Section 244 has been taken.*

3. Thus, there is difference in the language employed in these provisions. But, in our opinion, notwithstanding these differences, and whichever provision may be applicable, the court is required at this stage to see that there is a prima facie case for proceeding against the accused. Reference in this connection can be made to a judgment of this Court in R.S. Nayak v. A.R. Antulay [(1986) 2 SCC 716 : 1986 SCC (Cri) 256] . The same reads as follows: (SCC pp. 75556, para 43) "43. ... Notwithstanding this difference in the position there is no scope for doubt that the stage at which the Magistrate is required to consider the question of framing of charge under Section 245*(1) is a preliminary one and the test of 'prima facie' case has to be applied. In spite of the difference in the language of the three sections, the legal position is that if the trial court is satisfied* that a prima facie case is made out, charge has to be framed." 9.2 In the subsequent decision in the case of S. Selvi (Supra) this Court has summarised the principles while framing of the charge at the stage of Section 227/228 of the CrPC. This Court has observed and held in paragraph 6 and 7 as under:

"6. It is well settled by this Court in a catena of judgments including Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal [Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal, (1979) 3 SCC 4 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 609] , Dilawar Balu Kurane v. State of Maharashtra [Dilawar Balu Kurane v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 2 SCC 135 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 310] , Sajjan Kumar v. CBI[Sajjan Kumar v. CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1371] , State v. A. Arun Kumar [State v. A. Arun Kumar, (2015) 2 SCC 417 : (2015) 2 SCC (Cri) 96 : (2015) 1 SCC (L&S) 505] , Sonu Gupta v. Deepak Gupta [Sonu Gupta v. Deepak Gupta, (2015) 3 SCC 424 : (2015) 2 SCC (Cri) 265] , State of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi [State of Orissa v. Debendra Nath Padhi, (2003) 2 SCC 711 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 688] , Niranjan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi v. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijjaya [Niranjan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi v. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijjaya, (1990) 4 SCC 76 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 47] and Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Anil Kumar Bhunja [Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs v. Anil Kumar Bhunja, (1979) 4 SCC 274 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 1038] that the Judge while considering the question of framing charge under Section 227 of the Code in sessions cases (which is akin to Section 239 CrPC pertaining to warrant cases) has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out; where the material placed before the court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing the charge; by and large if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his rights to discharge the accused. The Judge cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution, but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the statements and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities appearing in the case and so on. This however does not mean that the Judge should make a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the materials as if he was conducting a trial.

14. Hon'ble Apex Court in Tarun Jit Tejpal vs. State of Goa, (2019), SCC OnLine 1053, placed reliance on a previous judgement of Apex Court in Sajjan Kumar [Sajjan Kumar v. CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368, wherein Apex Court on consideration of various decision about scope of Section 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. laid following principles:-

"(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 CrPC has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."" In the case of Mauvin Godinho (Supra) this Court had an occasion to consider how to determine prima facie case while framing the charge under Section 227/228 of the CrPC. In the same decision this Court observed and held that while considering the prima facie case at the stage of framing of the charge under Section 227 of the CrPC there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial. At this stage the decision of this Court in the case of Stree Atyachar Virodhi Parishad (Supra) is also required to be referred to. In that aforesaid decision this Court had an occasion to consider the scope of enquiry at the stage of deciding the matter under Section 227/228 of the CrPC. In paragraphs 11 to 14 observations of this Court in the aforesaid decision are as under:-

"11. Section 227 of the Code of Criminal Procedure having bearing on the contentions urged for the parties, provides:

12. Section 228 requires the Judge to frame charge if he considers that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed the offence. The interaction of these two sections has already been the subjectmatter of consideration by this Court. In State of Biharv. Ramesh Singh [(1977) 4 SCC 39 : 1977 SCC (Cri) 533 : (1978) 1 SCR 257] , Untwalia, J., while explaining the scope of the said sections observed: [SCR p. 259 :

SCC pp. 4142 : SCC (Cri) pp. 53536, para 4] Reading the two provisions together in juxtaposition, as they have got to be, it would be clear that at the beginning and the initial stage of the trial the truth, veracity and effect of the evidence which the Prosecutor proposes to adduce are not to be meticulously Judged.

Nor is any weight to be attached to the probable defence of the accused. It is not obligatory for the Judge at that stage of the trial to consider in any detail and weigh in a sensitive balance whether the facts, if proved, would be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or not. The standard of test and judgment which is to be finally applied before recording a finding regarding the guilt or otherwise of the accused is not exactly to be applied at the stage of deciding the matter under Section 227 or Section 228 of the Code. At that stage the court is not to see whether there is sufficient ground for conviction of the accused or whether the trial is sure to end in his conviction. Strong suspicion against the accused, if the matter remains in the region of suspicion, cannot take the place of proof of his guilt at the conclusion of the trial. But at the initial stage if there is a strong suspicion which leads the court to think that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence then it is not open to the court to say that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

13. In Union of India v. Prafulla Kumar Samal [(1979) 3 SCC 4 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 609 : (1979) 2 SCR 229] , Fazal Ali, J., summarised some of the principles: [SCR pp. 23435 : SCC p. 9 : SCC (Cri) pp. 61314, para 10] "(1) That the Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 of the Code has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused had been made out.

(2) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(3) The test to determine a prima facie case would naturally depend upon the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down a rule of universal application. By and large however if two views are equally possible and the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before him while giving rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion against the accused, he will be fully within his right to discharge the accused.

14. In present case, the victim, who is minor daughter of the informant/defacto complainant has stated in her statement under Section 161 as well as 164 Cr.P.C. that only accused Veer Singh and Pappi committed house trespass in the fateful night in presence of her mother and molested her. Even she has not attributed any role to other accused persons namely, Raju, Guddu and Darpan. She has not even stated their presence on the spot. Therefore, there is clear contradiction in stand of the informant and that of victim regarding presence and participation of these three accused namely, Raju, Guddu and Darpan in the incident. There is no reason as to why the victim had not stated anything regarding presence of these three persons on date, time and place of incident. Therefore, the complicity of these three accused persons in the alleged incident appears highly doubtful. Accused persons are said to have belonged to same family and there is allegation of enmity in the FIR itself between informant and accused persons. The offence was not investigated with regard to incident dated 4.5.2019, which allegedly happened with husband and son of the informant and present FIR was lodged only with regard to incident dated 2.6.2019. Therefore, learned court below has rejected the discharge application moved by the accused revisionists without considering the apparent conflict between stand of the victim and the informant in their statements recorded during investigation. The court below while dismissing discharge application has not considered the observations made by this Court while disposing off the Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. as mentioned above. Seeking discharge on cogent grounds is a valuable right of the accused. Therefore, the revision is liable to be allowed and impugned order, whereby the discharge application moved by the revisionists has been dismissed, is liable to be set aside.

15. Accordingly, present criminal revision stands allowed and the impugned order dated 17.5.2022, passed by learned trial court is set aside and the matter is remitted to trial court with direction to hear and decide the discharge applicable moved by the revisionists afresh in the light of observation made in present order, after giving opportunity of hearing to both sides and passed a reasoned and speaking order based on material on record, in accordance with law.

Civil Law - Essential Commodities Act, 1955 – Sections 3, 6A, 6B & 7 – Uttar Pradesh Scheduled Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 – Uttar Pradesh Essential Commodities (Regulation of Sale and Distribution Control) Order, 2016 – Confiscation of Food Grains – Revisional Jurisdiction – Absence of Control Order Violation - The revisionist, Vishnu Kumar Saini, challenged the order dated 29.09.2022 by the Special Judge (E.C. Act)/Additional Sessions Judge, Bulandshahr, dismissing his appeal against the confiscation order dated 21.05.2022 by the Additional District Magistrate (ADM), which seized food grains (180 quintals wheat, 8 quintals rice, 2.5 quintals flour, 12.5 quintals chokar, and 3 quintals wheat in government-stitched sacks) from his flour mill under Section 6A of the Essential Commodities Act, alleging black marketing of Public Distribution System (PDS) and Mid Day Meal grains. The revisionist argued no violation of any control order was specified, the seized grains were not linked to PDS or Mid Day Meal shortages, and a final report favoring him was submitted on 28.04.2023 in the related criminal case (Crime No. 797 of 2021). The District Magistrate's order dated 02.07.2022, pursuant to a prior writ petition, found no control order violation and released the flour mill. Held: The court, relying on the District Magistrate's findings and precedents like 1982 ACC 514 and 1992 (EF), held that the confiscation order was unsustainable due to the lack of evidence connecting the seized grains to PDS or Mid Day Meal schemes and the absence of a specified control order violation. The revision was allowed, setting aside the impugned orders, and the seized grains (except the 3 quintals in government-stitched sacks) were ordered to be released to the revisionist, subject to conditions, or their sale proceeds if already auctioned.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ankit Agarval, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Sameer Shanker, learned AGA-I for the State and perused the material placed on record.

2. Instant criminal revision has been preferred against the impugned judgement and order dated 29.9.2022, passed by Special Judge (E.C.) Act/Additional Session Judge, Court No.14, Bulandshahr in Criminal Appeal No.110 of 2022, Vishnu Kumar Saini vs. State of U.P., whereby the appeal filed against the order dated 21.5.2022, passed by Additional District Magistrate (Administration), Bulandshahr, in Case No.1667 of 2021, State of U.P. vs. M/s Gold Shan Bhog Aata Flour Mill (Proprietor Vishnu Kumar), under Section 6-A of Essential Commodities Act has been dismissed and impugned order passed by A.D.M. (Administration) has been affirmed.

3. The factual matrix of the case in brief are that the action in present case was initiated at the instance of Letter No.1155/Enforcement/2021 dated 23.7.2021 of District Supply Officer, Bulandshahr, in which he informed that on 21.6.2021, he led a raid alongwith Tehsildar (Judicial), Khurja, Sri Rakesh Kumar Sharma, Ashish Srivastava, Supply Inspector and Police Officials on directions of U.P. Zila Adhikhari, Khurja at 4:30 P.M. and found that illegal sell and purchase of food grains of Public Distribution System/Mid Day Meal was being carried out there. The Proprietor of said flour mill, Vishnu Kumar Saini and his brother Narendra Kumar Saini were found there, who produced the license of flour mill and documents relating to G.S.T. As many as 400 sacks were found in disarranged manner on the floor of said flour mill, which included 180 qunital wheat and 3 qunital rice kept in five sacks were also found. These sacks were tied by handmade thread. Apart from that, 6 sacks, the opening thereof was sealed by Government stitches were produced at the flour mill, at that time by Mrs. Neeraj Goswami, a Primary School Teacher, who could not give any plausible explanation for the same and stated that she had come there to return said wheat, as the wheat was allotted by the Government, under Mid Day Meal Scheme in lieu of 'Atta', borrowed by school from said flour mill.

4. Case under Section 3/7 of E.C. Act was registered against proprietor of Goldson Bhog Aata, Flour Mill namely, Vishnu Kumar Saini and his brother, as they failed to give any explanation of storing this huge amount of rice and wheat in the flour mill. As Mid Day Meal does not come within the purview of Public Distribution System, the departmental action was initiated by said school teacher. It was found that the Proprietor of flour mill was converting the nature of food grains of PDS system to earn unlawful gain and this was black marketing of food grains, which belongs to P.D.S. System. All the food grains which included five qunital of flour, 50 sacks of 12.50 quintal chokar, 180 quintal wheat, 3 quintal rice and Government stitched 6 sacks of wheat (3 quintal) brought by said school teacher found in flour mill were kept by Searching Officer in the flour mill and its doors were closed and sealed and security thereof was intrusted to S.H.O., concerned.

5. A notice under Section 6-B of E.C. Act was issued to proprietor of Floor Mill namely, Vishnu Kumar and his brother Naredhra Kumar Saini by Additional District Magistrate, (Administration), Bulandshahr on 28.7.2021. They appeared and filed their reply on 2.8.2021 before ADM (Administration), in which they have stated that they had not violated any control order or regulation issued under E.C. Act. The Supply Inspector has sealed their flour mill in illegal manner and all the food grains which were brought for grinding were kept inside the mill, which was sealed. Some food grains, supplied to school under Mid Day Meal were brought to the mill for grinding, but same was illegally detained and sealed due to which the opposite parties were facing much loss. They have moved an application for opening of the seal of their flour mill and also filed application for release of the food grains seized by District Supply Officer and his team The statement of Supply Inspector and Neeraj Goswami, the Head Master, Primary School No.15 was recorded before ADM. The opposite party/revisionist produced receipt of Mandi Samiti dated 15.6.2021 and bill of firm Kali Charan Sanjiv Kumar dated 15.6.2021, which was sent for verification of Sachiv, Mandi Samiti. Mandi Samiti, in its report informed that agricultural produce wheat amounting Rs.57.60 quintal was sold to M/s God Sambhog Mill, Khurja, at the rate of Rs.22,00/- per quintal. However, online form No.6 and 9 were not issued to firm M/s Kali Charan Sajiv Kumar for entry of wheat. The seized food grains were inspected in presence of opposite party Vishnu Kumar. A Criminal Case under 3/7 of E.C. Act was lodged against Vishnu Kumar and his brother Narendra Kumar Saini for hoarding food grains. However, learned ADM (Administration) vide impugned order dated 21.5.2022, confiscated the case property, which consisted of 2.5 quintal flour (atta), 12.5 quintal chokar, 180 quintal wheat, 8 quintal rice and 6 sacks consisting of 3 quintal wheat brought by said school teacher in favour of Government and District Supply Officer, Bulandshahr was directed to get the seal of flour mill opened and bring the said food grains recovered therefrom to auction. It is also directed that the sale proceeds were deposited in State Exchequer, which will be subject to final order by the competent Court in Case Crime No.797 of 2021.

6. Feeling aggrieved by the said confiscation order, the revisionist, who is proprietor of said flour mill preferred a Criminal Appeal No.110 of 2022 before the Court of Session, which was dismissed vide order dated 29.9.2022 by learned Special Judge (E.C.) Act/Additional Session Judge, Court No.14, Bulandshahr. Learned appellate court has found no factual or legal error in impugned order and affirmed the impugned order.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that the learned courts below have rejected his release application in illegal manner. This fact is not established that the seized food grains from flour mill operated by the revisionist were part of Public Distribution System. Therefore, no case under Section 3/7 of E.C. Act is made out. The revisionist was made accused in criminal case registered under Section 3/7 of E.C. Act, vide Crime No.797 of 2021, wherein he is enlarged on anticipatory bail by orders of this Court dated 4.1.2022, passed in Criminal Misc. Anticipatory Bail Application U/S 433 Cr.P.C. No.13861 of 2021, till submission of police report. In show cause notice issued under Section 6-B of EC Act, learned ADM failed to specify as to which particular provision of U.P. Scheduled Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 and U.P. Essential Commodities (Regulation of sale and distribution control) Order, 2016 has been violated by the revisionist, hence, the case of the revisionist is covered by the decision laid down in 1982 ACC 514 and 1992 (EF), in which this court held that the show cause noticed issued under Section 6-B of EC Act must state the grounds under which the confiscation is intended to be made. The revisionist used to purchase food grains from shop keepers and sell the same to the customers. A true copy of the bill issued in favour of the revisionist has been filed as Anenxure No.7 of the affidavit. Without specifying the breach of particular control order issued by State or Central Government, no proceeding under Section 3/7 of E.C. Act, can be launched against a person. The opposite party has failed to connect the alleged recovered food grains to any ration dealer or any Government godown as nobody can obtain food grains except the ration dealer or godown owners. No ration dealer has reported any case of theft with regard to said food grains. Even, no report has been lodged at the instance of school regarding shortage of grains allotted under Mid Day Meal. There is no evidence against the revisionist in respect of the allegations of black marketing. In fact the alleged food grains belongs to revisionist and same is liable to be released in his favour. He lastly submitted that a copy of final/closure report filed by the Investigating Officer of concerned criminal case registered vide Crime No.797 of 2021, under Section 3/7 registered against the revisionist in which final report has been filed in favour of the revisionist on 28.4.2023 and no offence has been made out in respect of seized food grains. Therefore, due to subsequent developments also, the impugned orders are not sustainable and the seized food grains are liable to be released in favour of the revisionist.

8. Per contra, learned AGA-I submitted that the detailed objections are filed by way of counter affidavit dated 20.4.2023 by Sub Inspector of Police. A huge quantity of food grains were seized from flour mill of the revisionist and he could not give plausible explanation for restoring the same, in the mill in disarranged manner. The impugned confiscation order passed by ADM is just, proper and in accordance with the provisions of law. However, he did not deny the fact that the revisionist is a proprietor of firm registered in the name of M/s Goldson Bhog Aatta and a license and GST was issued to the firm by the Government. He also could not deny the fact that a final report has been filed in favour of the revisionist by the Investigating Agency with finding that during investigation, sufficient evidence could not be found against the accused persons, namely, Vishnu Kumar Saini and Narendra Kumar Saini.

9. From perusal of record, it appears that the revisionist filed a Writ C No.6421 of 2022 (Vishnu Kumar vs. State of U.P. and 2 others), before this court against sealing order of his flour mill by the Government and officials wherein, this court directed the respondent No.3 to file a copy of control order which has been allegedly violated by the petitioners and also to disclose the evidence as to how goods found lying in the petitioner's flour mill have been linked with the food grains under the Mid Day Meal Scheme. In case the goods reserve for Mid Day Meal has been diverted to the revisionist's flour mill, there has to be some complaint or evidence from relevant quarter that the goods which are supplied under Mid Day Meal were short form or have been stolen. This is specific case of the petitioners that neither any ration dealer or other persons has reported shortage of food grains reserved under the Mid Day Meal Scheme. The respondent No.3 was also directed to re-visit the matter, if he finds the said aspects were not considered earlier. In compliance of above order of this Court, the District Magistrate, Bulandshahr revisited the matter and gave a finding that on perusal of record, no control order issued by the Government consisting the present matter was found. The matter does not come within the purview of Uttar Pradesh Essential Commodities (Sale and Distribution Control Regulation) Order, 2016 because this regulation covers only those food grains and essential commodities, which comes within the purview of PDS System and this is issued to maintain proper distribution of food grains amongst eligible rashan card holders. The Supply Inspector has also accepted that the food grains under Mid Day Meal are not covered within the public distribution system under E.C. Act. No evidence was found on record which could suggest that the food grains found in flour mill were same food grains which are allotted to fair price shops or under Mid Day Meal Scheme. This fact has also not emerged during investigation that the food grains seized from the flour mill of the petitioners were found to be stolen from any person or institution or some shortfall was found in food grains supplied to any such person or institution. The learned District Magistrate observed that as no violation of any control order was found on the part of the petitioners, therefore, there is no action to continue sealing of his flour mill and thus, action of Supply Inspector Ashish Srivastava whereby, the flour mill of the petitioner is seized is set aside and said flour mill is released under occupation of the petitioners.

10. In the light of above findings and order of District Magistrate dated 2.7.2022 as well as other material available on record, this is obvious that no violation of any food control order has been found in the matter. The said food grains, although, in large quantity are found in the premises of the revisionist out of which 6 sacks, each weighing 50 kgs, having 3 quintals wheat were found to be brought by a primary school teacher Mrs. Neeraj Goswami, which was stitched by government seal. Many aspects of the case are already clarified in aforesaid order of District Magistrate dated 2.7.2022 whereby the sealing order of the premises of flour mill, owned and operated by the revisionist was set aside and the premises are released in favour fo the revisionist. The documents filed by the revisionist before the courts below in respect of his claim over seized good grains have not been duly considered.

11. I have gone through the Uttar Pradesh Scheduled Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 as well as Uttar Pradesh Essential Commodities (Regulation of Sale and Distribution Control), Order 2016, paragraph No.22 of Uttar Pradesh Scheduled Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 give power of entry, search and seizure etc to the Food Officer, competent authority, Senior Supply Inspector or Supply Inspector to enter, inspect or break open and search any place or premises, vehicle or vessel, in which he has reason to belief that any contravention of the provisions of this order has been or is being or is about to be made. He can seize any scheduled commodities, if he is satisfied that there has been contravention of this order. Learned AGA could not point out any contravention of this distribution order, 2004 and learned District Magistrate in order dated 2.7.2022 has categorically stated that the matter does not comes within the purview of this control order, 2016. Therefore, the confiscation and auction of seized food grains has lost its significance in view of subsequent developments as the Investigating Agency has submitted closure report in criminal case lodged against the revisionist in respect of seized food grains under Section 3/7 of E.C. Act. Therefore, the impugned orders passed by the learned courts below are not sustainable in view of foregoing discussion and the same is liable to be set aside.

12. Accordingly, present criminal revision stands allowed.

13. The competent authority/ADM (Administration), Bulandshahr is directed to release the seized food grains in present matter from flour mill of the revisionist (barring 6 stitched sacks containing 3 quintal wheat allegedly allotted to the Government Primary School and brought by teacher Mrs. Neeraj Goswami at the mill at the time of search and seizure) after taking a personal bond and one surety from the revisionist of the market value of said seized food grains with undertaking to produce the same or its equivalent price before the court as and when required and in case the auction has been already carried out, the sale proceeds will be released in favour of the revisionist, subject to final judgement/order of the court concerned in the matter.

14. Let copy of this order be forwarded to District Magistrate, Bulandshahr for compliance and necessary action.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 156(3) - Application for Investigation - Revisionist challenged the order dated 27.09.2022 by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Firozabad, dismissing her application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. for investigation into the alleged murder of her daughter, Madhuri, by her husband, Yogendra, and in-laws, claiming dowry-related harassment and suspicious death on 21.03.2022. Revisionist alleged injuries on Madhuri's body and coercion by accused to avoid postmortem. Trial court, based on Circle Officer's report, found Madhuri died of illness (asthma), no postmortem was insisted upon by revisionist's family, and accused transferred land to Madhuri's son, Manavaya, with revisionist as guardian. Application dismissed due to three-month delay and lack of objection to the report. Court, applying Anjum Vs St. of U.P., 2008 (3) ADJ 417, and Priyanka Srivastava Vs St. of U.P., (2015) 6 SCC 287, held that Section 156(3) requires judicial discretion, not mandatory investigation, and applications must be supported by affidavit to deter frivolous claims. No cognizable offence disclosed, no supporting documents, and delay unexplained. Impugned order found free of irregularity, illegality, or impropriety. Revision dismissed. (Paras 9-16)

Revision Dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Surendra Singh-I, J.)

Heard Sri Sanjay Kumar Tiwari, Advocate, holding brief of Sri Gireesh Chandra Dwivedi, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Puneet Kumar Verma, learned counsel for the opposite party nos. 2 to 6 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. By means of this instant criminal revision, the revisionist has assailed the judgement and order dated 27.09.2022 passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Firozabad in Misc. Case No. 2128 of 2022 (Smt. Kamlesh Vs. Yogendra and Others) u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C., Police Station- Sirsaganj, District- Firozabad.

3. By the impugned order, the learned Magistrate has dismissed the application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. filed by the revisionist.

4. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that the learned Magistrate passed the impugned order dated 27.09.2022 without considering the evidence on record and without application of his mind. Since the impugned order has been passed against the weight of the evidence on record, it should be set-aside and learned Magistrate may be directed to pass order afresh on the application of the revisionist.

5. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 that the revisionist has filed criminal revision on false and frivolous ground. Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate has rightly rejected the revisionist's application vide order dated 27.09.2022.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionist, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and learned A.G.A. for the State have been heard. Perused the entire evidence present on the revision.

7. In the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the opposite party nos. 2 to 6, it has been averred that the revisionist's daughter, Madhuri, was married to opposite party no. 2, Yogendra Singh s/o Phoolan Singh, resident of village- Bhura Bhartara, Police Station- Sirsaganj, District- Firozabad, as per Hindu rites and rituals on 06.05.2017. It has also been averred that after marriage, the deceased and her husband were peacefully living a married life and one child, namely, Manavaya, was born out of their wedlock. It has also been averred that Madhuri, wife of opposite party no. 2, was suffering from asthma and for that, she was under treatment of doctor. During her treatment in the hospital, she died on 31.03.2022. The opposite party no. 2 and his family members informed about her death to the revisionist and other family members. In the cremation ceremony of Madhuri, revisionist and her family members were present. It has also been averred that after the death of Madhuri, the revisionist pressurized the opposite parties to take his son, Manavaya, but the opposite party no. 2 and his family members agreed to purchase agricultural land in favour of Manavaya for securing his future. It has further been averred that agricultural land was purchased by opposite party no. 3, Phoolan Singh, father of Yogendra.

8. The applicant/revisionist, Smt. Kamlesh, has filed application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. on 20.06.2022 alleging that her daughter, Madhuri, was married on 06.05.2017 to accused, Yogendra according to hindu rites and rituals. The applicant/revisionist has spent about Rs.8,00,000/- in the marriage of her daughter. The husband of revisionist's daughter, Yogendra, her father-in-law, Phoolan Singh, mother-in-law, Smt. Guddi Devi and brother-in-law (devar), Vineet were not satisfied with the dowry and they were asking Madhuri a car from her father. Averment has made in the application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. that after returning from her matrimonial home to her paternal home, applicant/revisionist's daughter used to tell the applicant, her father and her sister, Sonia about her harassment for dowry by her husband and in-laws. She used to tell that they may cause her death in order to get a car. The applicant/revisionist's daughter started doing job as a G.N.M. in Agra where her husband was also working. He used to often taunt her that she did not provide a car from her father while she was staying with her husband at Agra. Her father-in-law, Phoolan Singh, mother-in-law, Smt. Guddi Devi and brother-in-law (devar), Vineet, used to visit her house and secretly prepared plan to kill her but they could not succeed. Fifteen days before her murder, she had visited her paternal home and informed her mother and sister, Sonia that her in-laws could kill her anytime for a car. One Mahima, who was working as G.N.M. at Agra used to visit her daughter's house and she started living with Yogendra and her daughter. On 21.03.2022 at 2:30 o'clock, her son-in-law, Yogendra informed the applicant on phone that Madhuri was not able to speak. Then the applicant with her husband, Pooran Singh and several other villagers reached Krishna Hospital, Agra at 4 p.m. Her daughter, Sonia, informed applicant's husband that Madhuri had died. Yogendra, his parents, his brother Vineet and G.N.M. Mahima was also present there. The applicant/revisionist observed mark of injury on the person of Madhuri and swelling on her neck. The doctor asked for postmortem report and police was summoned but Yogendra and his relatives pressurized the police to get the postmortem of Madhuri done. They threatened the applicant/revisionist that if she tried to complain against them, she will be killed. Since persons on the side of applicant/revisionist were less in number, the accused forcibly carried her deceased daughter's body and her son to their village. The applicant/revisionist submitted written report in the police station about the incident and made several other efforts for 2-4 days but the police did not register the criminal case and took no action. The applicant/revisionist also sent information to S.S.P., Firozabad, but no action was taken.

9. The trial court has given following reasons for rejecting the application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. filed by the applicant/revisionist :

"न्यायालय द्वारा दिनांक 21-07-22 को क्षेत्राधिकारी सिरसागंज से मामले की जांच करायी गई क्षेत्राधिकारी सिरसागंज की आख्या पत्रावली पर संलग्न है उनके द्वारा यह आख्या दी गई है कि माधुरी की तबियत खराब रहती थी और उसका इलाज चल रहा था मृतका का पोस्टमार्टम वादिनी उसके घरवालों की सहमति से नही कराया गया क्योंकि उसकी मृत्यु बीमारी के चलते हुई मृतका की मृत्यु श्री कृष्ण हॉस्पिटल में उपचार के दौरान हुई थी। मृतका का अन्तिम संस्कार दोनो पक्षों की सहमति से हुआ था एवं बाद में आवेदिका की मांग पर विपक्षी फूलन सिंह द्वारा दिनांक 11-04-22 को 2604 वर्ग फीट का प्लाट मानवय उम्र 03 वर्ष के नाम किया था मांग के अनुसार संरक्षिका कमलेश कुमारी को बनाया गया था।

क्षेत्राधिकारी सिरसागंज द्वारा जो आख्या प्रेषित की गई है उस आख्या पर आवेदिका की ओर से कोई भी आपत्ति दाखिल नही की गई है।"

10. From the perusal of the reasons assigned by the trial court, it transpires that the death of the applicant/revisionist's daughter had taken place on 21.03.2022 at 2.30 o'clock but the applicant/revisionist has submitted application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. after a delay of about 3 months and no sufficient reasons have been assigned for the inordinate delay for submitting the revision petition. In the enquiry done by Circle Officer concerned, it was found that Madhuri, deceased daughter of the applicant/revisionist was suffering from illness and her medical treatment was going on. The family members of the applicant/revisionist did not insist on getting the postmortem of the deceased done, therefore, no postmortem of the deceased's body was conducted. The opposite party no. 3, deceased's father-in-law, Phoolan Singh on 11.04.2022 had transferred 2604 sq. ft. of land in favour of deceased's son, Manavaya, aged about 3 years. In the transfer deed, applicant/revisionist was shown as guardian of Manavaya. The applicant/revisionist did not file any objection against the report of the Circle Officer concerned.

11. A coordinate Bench of this Court in paragraph nos. 4 and 7 of its judgement in Anjum Vs. State of U.P. and Ors., 2008 (3) ADJ 417 has held as follows :

"4. …..The word 'may' occurring in Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. is of utmost significance. It gives the magistrate a discretionary power to order or not for an investigation into the cognizable offence disclosed in the petition. This discretionary power ought to have been exercised only on reasons and not on arbitrariness. This discretionary power has been given to magistrates to enable them to deal adequately with both types of the petitions (i) the genuine petitions containing truthful allegations about the commission of the cognizable offence and (2) the petitions having baseless or false allegations. The increasing tendency of the people to file petitions on false allegations cannot be ignored.

7. In other cases the magistrate must apply his own mind and reason while dealing with the powers under Section 156(3)Cr.P.C. The magistrate must always keep it in mind that the passing of an order for investigation in frivolous and vexatious petitions containing false allegations is an abuse of the process of the court. Simultaneously declining to pass the order for an investigation in genuine petitions containing truthfulness allegations, is akin to denial of justice to the needy persons. Both of these situations are dangerous."

12. In the aforesaid judgement of Anjum (supra), this Court has issued following guidelines for passing orders on application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. which are as follows :

i) The investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. cannot be ordered where the petition does not disclose the commission of a cognizable offence.

ii) Magistrates are not under any obligation to order the investigation invariably in all the petitions, which disclose the commission of the cognizable offences.

iii) Where the allegation of the commission of cognizable offence is supported by any such documents which tends to inspire the confidence of the magistrate regarding the commission of a cognizable offence, the magistrate must pass the order for the investigation. Such documents may include the medical report or some other cogent material of the like nature.

iv) Where the allegation, in itself, is of such a nature which naturally inspire the confidence of a reasonable man in its truthfulness the magistrate must pass the order for an investigation. Such allegations include the allegation of rape, outraging the modesty of a woman, sodomy or the offence under Sections 363 and 366 etc, provided the victim is related to the petitioner. Such allegations involve the reputation of the family of the victim and the petitioner both, hence such allegations are generally, not levelled falsely. Hence in such cases also the magistrates must pass the order for an investigation.

v) Where the name of the accused is not known to the petitioner, the chances of false implication are ruled out. Hence in such cases also, the investigation must be ordered, vi) Where the recovery of the victim or the victim's corpse is to be made, the investigation must be ordered. Such as in the case of allegations of the offences under Section 363, 366 and 364 IPC. vii) Where the recovery of any valuable movable property is to be made and where there is cognent document to show the ownership of the petitioner over such moveable property, the investigation may be ordered.

viii) Where there is allegation regarding the commission of a heinous offence, the investigation must be ordered. Such as in the case of murder, culpable homicide not amounting to murder etc.

ix) Where the magistrate is of the opinion that some more facts which are in obscurity but are necessary to be investigated for the just decision of the case, the magistrate may order for the investigation provided the petition discloses the commission of a cognizable offence.

x) where there is nothing to convince the magistrate regarding the truthfulness of the allegation and where there is nothing to rule out the possibilities of the allegation being false, the magistrate must avoid to pass an order for investigation.

13. In the case of Mrs. Priyanka Srivastava and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2015 (6) SCC 287, the Hon'ble Apex Court has given following directions to the Magistrate for passing order u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. for registration of a first information report to the S.O. of the concerned police station :-

29. At this stage it is seemly to state that power under Section 156(3) warrants application of judicial mind. A court of law is involved. It is not the police taking steps at the stage of Section 154 of the Code. A litigant at his own whim cannot invoke the authority of the Magistrate. A principled and really grieved citizen with clean hands must have free access to invoke the said power. It protects the citizens but when pervert litigations takes this route to harass their fellow citizens, efforts are to be made to scuttle and curb the same.

30. In our considered opinion, a stage has come in this country where Section 156(3) CrPC applications are to be supported by an affidavit duly sworn by the applicant who seeks the invocation of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. That apart, in an appropriate case, the learned Magistrate would be well advised to verify the truth and also can verify the veracity of the allegations. This affidavit can make the applicant more responsible. We are compelled to say so as such kind of applications are being filed in a routine manner without taking any responsibility whatsoever only to harass certain persons. That apart, it becomes more disturbing and alarming when one tries to pick up people who are passing orders under a statutory provision which can be challenged under the framework of the said Act or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. But it cannot be done to take undue advantage in a criminal court as if somebody is determined to settle the scores.

31. We have already indicated that there has to be prior applications under Sections 154(1) and 154(3) while filing a petition under Section 156(3). Both the aspects should be clearly spelt out in the application and necessary documents to that effect shall be filed. The warrant for giving a direction that an application under Section 156(3) be supported by an affidavit is so that the person making the application should be conscious and also endeavour to see that no false affidavit is made. It is because once an affidavit is found to be false, he will be liable for prosecution in accordance with law. This will deter him to casually invoke the authority of the Magistrate under Section 156(3). That apart, we have already stated that the veracity of the same can also be verified by the learned Magistrate, regard being had to the nature of allegations of the case. We are compelled to say so as a number of cases pertaining to fiscal sphere, matrimonial dispute/family disputes, commercial offences, medical negligence cases, corruption cases and the cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, as are illustrated in Lalita Kumari [(2014) 2 SCC 1 : (2014) 1 SCC (Cri) 524] are being filed. That apart, the learned Magistrate would also be aware of the delay in lodging of the FIR.

14. Considering the reasons assigned by the trial court in the impugned order for rejecting the application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. in the light of the guidelines issued by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Mrs. Priyanka Srivastava (supra) and the High Court in Anjum (supra), I do not find any irregularity, illegality or impropriety in the impugned order.

15. There is no merit in the criminal revision and the same is liable to be dismissed.

16. Accordingly, the criminal revision is dismissed.

17. Let a copy of this order be sent to the concerned trial court for necessary action.

Criminal Law -Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125 - Maintenance - Revisionists (wife and two minor daughters) challenged the order dated 13.09.2022 by Additional Principal Judge, Family Court No.1, Meerut, granting interim maintenance of Rs.3,000/- to revisionist No.1 (wife) and Rs.2,000/- each to revisionist Nos.2 and 3 (minor daughters) under Section 125 Cr.P.C., seeking enhancement. Revisionists alleged dowry harassment and abandonment by opposite party No.2 (husband), a pump operator earning Rs.30,551/- monthly (net Rs.23,528/-). Trial court's order lacked reasoning and failed to consider husband's income and family status. Relying on Rajnesh Vs Neha, (2021) 2 SCC 324, court held that maintenance should prevent destitution, consider husband's financial capacity, and be awarded from the date of application, up to 25% of monthly income. Opposite party No.2's claim of supporting a heart-patient brother insufficient to reduce obligation. Impugned order set aside as erroneous. Maintenance enhanced to Rs.4,000/- for wife and Rs.3,000/- each for daughters, totaling Rs.10,000/- monthly, payable from date of application, with arrears in four installments. Revision allowed. 10. Reema Salkan Vs Sumer Singh Salkan, (2019) 12 SCC 303 (Para 14)

By means of the instant criminal revision, revisionists have assailed the judgement and order dated 13.09.2022 passed by Additional Principal Judge, Family Judge Court No.1, Meerut in Case No.07 of 2022 (Smt. Alka vs. Sohanpal @ Sonu), under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

2. By the impugned order, the trial Court has granted interim maintenance of Rs.3,000/- to the revisionist No.1 and of Rs.2,000/- to the revisionist Nos.2 and 3 per month each under Section 125 Cr.P.C. The revisionists have prayed in the revision for enhancement of maintenance allowance granted by the trial Court in their favour.

3. It has been submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionists that before calculating the quantum of maintenance, the trial court has not taken into consideration the salary of the opposite party No.2 (husband) and the status of family. It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2 is still neglecting to maintain the revisionists, who are his wife and two minor daughters. The revisionists are not capable to maintain themselves. He next submitted that finding of the trial court regarding the income of the opposite party No.2 is not based on the evidence on record. As per the evidence on record, the monthly salary of the opposite party No.2 is of Rs.30551/-, therefore, revisionists shall be entitled to atleast 1/3rd of salary of opposite party No.2 as maintenance allowance.

4. The revisionist No.1 has filed payslip of opposite party No.2, which was issued on 26.09.2022 by the Executive Engineer, Vidyutkhand-III, U.P. Awas Vikas Parishad, Kalyanpur, District Kanpur. The same has been annexed as Annexure No.1 to the revision. In this statement of salary, the gross income of the opposite party No.2 is shown as Rs. 30,551/- and net amount payable as Rs. 23,528/-.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionists has placed reliance on the following judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as this Court:-

(i) Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another, (2021) 2 SCC 324.

(ii) Smt. Kuldeep Kaur and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Another, (2012) 3 JIC 522 (AII).

6. Per contra, learned counsel for the opposite party No.2 has opposed the prayer of the revisionists and submitted that trial court has passed the impugned order on evidence on record. It has also been submitted that trial court has not given reasons for fixing the amount of maintenance allowance. It has also been submitted that opposite party No.2 having been appointed as pump operator in U.P. Awas Vikas Parishad, Kalyanpur, Kanpur under dying in harness rules and he has liability to maintain 58 years old elder brother, who is suffering from heart disease, therefore, the amount of next salary will be reduced after deducting the amount for maintenance of his brother from his monthly gross salary.

7. Heard Sri Raghuvansh Chandra, learned counsel for the revisionists, learned A.G.A. for the State and Sri Ashok Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for opposite party no.2.

8. Factual matrix of the case, in brief, is that Smt. Alka, who is revisionist No.1 in this revision filed an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. for herself and two minor daughters alleging that revisionist No.1 was married with opposite party No.2- Sohanpal @ Sonu according to Hindu rites and rituals on 29.04.2015 and her parents spent Rs.10 Lakhs on her marriage. After marriage, she started living in her matrimonial home where her husband (opposite party No.2) and her in-laws started harassing her for not bringing sufficient dowry. On 15.03.2016, after her giving birth to a girl child, namely Tavisha, her husband and in-laws started taunting her for the same. On 09.05.2017, her husband (opposite party No.3) and in-laws beaten her and also ousted from her matrimonial home. After so many efforts made by her father and brother, they brought her back and dropped her to House No.78, Shergari Meerut on 17.06.2018. In-spite of that, her husband and in-laws continued harassing and taunting her. Meanwhile, on 11.08.2020, she gave birth to second girl child, namely, Lashika Singh. After the birth of second child, the torture and harassment of her husband and in-law also increased. On 18.12.2021, her husband and in-laws beaten her and tried to evict her from matrimonial home, then, revisionist No.1 called the police. After arrival of the police, her husband and in-laws ran away from that place. On 20.12.2021, opposite party No.2 (husband) left the revisionist No.1 and his daughters at her parental house, and thereafter, opposite party No.2 neither provided any maintenance to the revisionists nor have any contact with her. Revisionist No.1 is a domestic woman and having no source of income to maintain herself and her daughters. Opposite party No.2 is a healthy person. He is working as a Tube-well Operator in U.P. Awas Vikas Parishad, District Muzaffarnagar and earning Rs.30,000/- per month as salary. On 19.04.2021, opposite party No.2 in the presence of his brother and father of the revisionist No.1 entered into compromise with the revisionists and opposite party No.2 agreed to pay per month 50% of his salary to his wife as well as two children as maintenance allowance but opposite party No.2 did not comply the aforesaid settlement agreement arrived between them. The revisionist No.1 requires maintenance allowance of Rs.20,000/- to maintain herself and her children.

9. Even after service of notice, opposite party No.2 did not appear in the trial court. The trial court considering the notice having been sufficiently served on 24.06.2022 ordered for ex-parte proceedings against opposite party No.2. The revisionist No.1 recorded her oral evidence and produced the aadhar card as documentary evidence. The revisionist No.1 also produced affidavit of compliance on the direction by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Rajnesh (supra), in which, she deposed that she has not been granted any maintenance allowance at an earlier stage and opposite party No.2 has not provided any maintenance to her.

10. On the basis of evidence on record, trial Court found that revisionist No.1 is unable to maintain herself and her two minor daughters, whereas her husband-opposite party No.2 has sufficient means and is still neglecting to maintain them. By the impugned order, the trial court granted aforesaid monthly maintenance allowance to them.

11. In the counter affidavit, opposite party No.2 has stated that he has obtained employment/job under dying in harness rules and has liability to maintain her elder brother, who is aged about 58 years and is also suffering from heart disease. He also stated that the revisionist No.1 is highly qualified and running coaching at her house.

12. The provision of Section 125 Cr.P.C. provides for maintenance of wives, children and parents. The Section 125 Cr.P.C. reads as under:-

"125.Order for maintenance of wives, children and parents.—(1) If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain—

(a) his wife, unable to maintain herself, or

(b) his legitimate or illegitimate minor child, whether married or not, unable to maintain itself, or

(c) his legitimate or illegitimate child (not being a married daughter) who has attained majority, where such child is, by reason of any physical or mental abnormality or injury unable to maintain itself, or

(d) his father or mother, unable to maintain himself or herself, a Magistrate of the First Class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, at such monthly rate as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided that the Magistrate may order the father of a minor female child referred to in clause (b) to make such allowance, until she attains her majority, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the husband of such minor female child, if married, is not possessed of sufficient means:

Provided further that the Magistrate may, during the pendency of the proceeding regarding monthly allowance for the maintenance under this sub-section, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the interim maintenance of his wife or such child, father or mother, and the expenses of such proceeding which the Magistrate considers reasonable, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate may from time to time direct:

Provided also that an application for the monthly allowance for the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding under the second proviso shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within sixty days from the date of the service of notice of the application to such person.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this Chapter—

(a) "minor" means a person who, under the provisions of the Indian Majority Act, 1875 (9 of 1875); is deemed not to have attained his majority;

(b) "wife" includes a woman who has been divorced by, or has obtained a divorce from, her husband and has not remarried.

(2) Any such allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding shall be payable from the date of the order, or, if so ordered, from the date of the application for maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be.

(3) If any person so ordered fails without sufficient cause to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in the manner provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for the whole or any part of each month's allowance for the maintenance or the interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be, remaining unpaid after the execution of the warrant, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month or until payment if sooner made:

Provided that no warrant shall be issued for the recovery of any amount due under this section unless application be made to the Court to levy such amount within a period of one year from the date on which it became due : Provided further that if such person offers to maintain his wife on condition of her living with him, and she refuses to live with him, such Magistrate may consider any grounds of refusal stated by her, and may make an order under this section notwithstanding such offer, if he is satisfied that there is just ground for so doing.

Explanation.—If a husband has contracted marriage with another woman or keeps a mistress, it shall be considered to be a just ground for his wife's refusal to live with him.*

(4) No wife shall be entitled to receive an allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be, from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery, or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

(5) On proof that any wife in whose favour an order has been made under this section is living in adultery, or that without sufficient reason she refuses to live with her husband, or that they are living separately by mutual consent, the Magistrate shall cancel the order."

13. In paragraph Nos.37, 38, 39 and 40 of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another: (2021) 2 SCC 324, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as under:-

"37. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai [Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai, (2008) 2 SCC 316 : (2008) 1 SCC (Civ) 547 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 356] this Court held that the object of maintenance proceedings is not to punish a person for his past neglect, but to prevent vagrancy and destitution of a deserted wife by providing her food, clothing and shelter by a speedy remedy. Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice especially enacted to protect women and children, and falls within the constitutional sweep of Article 15(3), reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution.

38. Proceedings under Section 125 CrPC are summary in nature. In Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena [Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena, (2015) 6 SCC 353 : (2015) 3 SCC (Civ) 321 : (2015) 4 SCC (Cri) 200] this Court held that Section 125 CrPC was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish, financial suffering of a woman who had left her matrimonial home, so that some suitable arrangements could be made to enable her to sustain herself and the children. Since it is the sacrosanct duty of the husband to provide financial support to the wife and minor children, the husband was required to earn money even by physical labour, if he is able-bodied, and could not avoid his obligation, except on any legally permissible ground mentioned in the statute.

39. The issue whether presumption of marriage arises when parties are in a live-in relationship for a long period of time, which would give rise to a claim under Section 125 CrPC came up for consideration in Chanmuniya v. Virendra Kumar Singh Kushwaha [Chanmuniya v. Virendra Kumar Singh Kushwaha, (2011) 1 SCC 141 : (2011) 1 SCC (Civ) 53 : (2011) 2 SCC (Cri) 666. This judgment was referred to a larger Bench.] before the Supreme Court. It was held that where a man and a woman have cohabited for a long period of time, in the absence of legal necessities of a valid marriage, such a woman would be entitled to maintenance. A man should not be allowed to benefit from legal loopholes, by enjoying the advantages of a de facto marriage, without undertaking the duties and obligations of such marriage. A broad and expansive interpretation must be given to the term "wife", to include even those cases where a man and woman have been living together as husband and wife for a reasonably long period of time. Strict proof of marriage should not be a precondition for grant of maintenance under Section 125 CrPC. The Court relied on the Malimath Committee Report on Reforms of Criminal Justice System published in 2003, which recommended that evidence regarding a man and woman living together for a reasonably long period, should be sufficient to draw the presumption of marriage.

40.The law presumes in favour of marriage, and against concubinage, when a man and woman cohabit continuously for a number of years. Unlike matrimonial proceedings where strict proof of marriage is essential, in proceedings under Section 125 CrPC such strict standard of proof is not necessary. [Kamala v. M.R. Mohan Kumar, (2019) 11 SCC 491 : (2019) 4 SCC (Civ) 732 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 242]."

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph Nos.77, 78, 79 and 80 of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another (supra) has provided for criteria for determining quantum of maintenance, which reads as under:-

" 77. The objective of granting interim/permanent alimony is to ensure that the dependent spouse is not reduced to destitution or vagrancy on account of the failure of the marriage, and not as a punishment to the other spouse. There is no straitjacket formula for fixing the quantum of maintenance to be awarded.

78. The factors which would weigh with the court inter alia are the status of the parties; reasonable needs of the wife and dependent children; whether the applicant is educated and professionally qualified; whether the applicant has any independent source of income; whether the income is sufficient to enable her to maintain the same standard of living as she was accustomed to in her matrimonial home; whether the applicant was employed prior to her marriage; whether she was working during the subsistence of the marriage; whether the wife was required to sacrifice her employment opportunities for nurturing the family, child rearing, and looking after adult members of the family; reasonable costs of litigation for a non-working wife. [Refer to Jasbir Kaur Sehgal v. District Judge, Dehradun, (1997) 7 SCC 7; Refer to Vinny Parmvir Parmar v. Parmvir Parmar, (2011) 13 SCC 112 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 290]"

79. In Manish Jain v. Akanksha Jain [Manish Jain v. Akanksha Jain, (2017) 15 SCC 801 : (2018) 2 SCC (Civ) 712] this Court held that the financial position of the parents of the applicant wife, would not be material while determining the quantum of maintenance. An order of interim maintenance is conditional on the circumstance that the wife or husband who makes a claim has no independent income, sufficient for her or his support. It is no answer to a claim of maintenance that the wife is educated and could support herself. The court must take into consideration the status of the parties and the capacity of the spouse to pay for her or his support. Maintenance is dependent upon factual situations; the court should mould the claim for maintenance based on various factors brought before it.

80. On the other hand, the financial capacity of the husband, his actual income, reasonable expenses for his own maintenance, and dependent family members whom he is obliged to maintain under the law, liabilities if any, would be required to be taken into consideration, to arrive at the appropriate quantum of maintenance to be paid. The court must have due regard to the standard of living of the husband, as well as the spiralling inflation rates and high costs of living. The plea of the husband that he does not possess any source of income ipso facto does not absolve him of his moral duty to maintain his wife if he is able-bodied and has educational qualifications. [Reema Salkan v. Sumer Singh Salkan, (2019) 12 SCC 303 : (2018) 5 SCC (Civ) 596 : (2019) 4 SCC (Cri) 339]"

15. After thoroughly discussing the numerous judgements of the Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court, the Apex Court in para-109 of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another (supra) held that maintenance should be provided from the date of application not from the date of order. The para-109 of the aforesaid judgement reads as under:-

" 109. The judgments hereinabove reveal the divergent views of different High Courts on the date from which maintenance must be awarded. Even though a judicial discretion is conferred upon the court to grant maintenance either from the date of application or from the date of the order in Section 125(2) CrPC, it would be appropriate to grant maintenance from the date of application in all cases, including Section 125 CrPC. In the practical working of the provisions relating to maintenance, we find that there is significant delay in disposal of the applications for interim maintenance for years on end. It would therefore be in the interests of justice and fair play that maintenance is awarded from the date of the application."

16. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the decision of Rajnesh vs. Neha and Another (supra) has held that the husband is bound to provide maintenance allowance to his wife and children which may be upto 25% of his monthly income.

17. Considering the law propounded by the following decisions and facts and circumstances of the case, there is sufficient ground to allow the present criminal revision and enhance the amount of maintenance allowance to be paid to the revisionist Nos.1, 2 and 3.

18. In view of the aforesaid factual and legal aspect, I am of the view that the order impugned dated 13.09.2022 is erroneous and cannot survive in the eyes of law, therefore, I set aside the impugned order for the aforesaid reasons.

19. The application for enhancement of maintenance allowance filed by revisionist no.1 is allowed and it is observed that she will be entitled for Rs.4,000/- per month as maintenance allowance along with Rs.3000/- per month to revisionist Nos.2 and 3 (minor daughter of the opposite party No.2) each.

20. Thus, opposite party No.2 shall be bound to provide maintenance allowance @ of Rs.4000/- to his wife (revisionist No.1) and Rs.3000/- to his minor daughters each (revisionist Nos.2 and 3) and total Rs.10,000/- per month shall be given to the revisionists from the date of application. The arrears of maintenance allowance shall be paid by the opposite party No.2 in four equal amounts at the gap of four months. The monthly interim maintenance shall be paid regularly till 7th day of each month.

21. The present criminal revision is allowed in terms of above mentioned conditions.

22. The copy of the order be sent to the trial Court concerned for necessary compliance, forthwith.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 156(3), 397, 401 – Forgery and Fraud – Application for Police Investigation – Civil and Criminal Proceedings – Judicial Discretion of Magistrate - The revisionist, Shamshad Ahmad, challenged the order dated 27.06.2022 by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffarnagar, dismissing his application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. for police investigation into an alleged forged Will deed dated 20.10.2005, purportedly executed by his deceased father, Hazi Anwarul Haq, in favor of the opposite party, Ansar Khan. The revisionist alleged that the Will, notarized by Jamiruddin (who died on 17.01.1998, as per a death certificate), was forged to unlawfully claim his father's share in jointly purchased properties. The Magistrate dismissed the application, deeming the matter civil in nature due to a pending civil suit (No. 503 of 2019) and suggesting the revisionist could pursue a complaint case. Previous revisional orders had set aside similar dismissals, directing fresh consideration. Held: The court, relying on Prem Das Vs St. of U.P. (Matter Under Article 227 No. 1328 of 2021) and other precedents, held that the Magistrate erred in dismissing the application without adequately considering the prima facie evidence of forgery, particularly the death certificate of the notary predating the Will's execution. The court emphasized that civil and criminal proceedings can coexist for the same facts if a cognizable offence is disclosed, and police investigation was necessary due to the complexity of the forgery allegations. The revision was allowed, the impugned order was set aside, and the matter was remitted to the Magistrate for fresh consideration with directions to decide in accordance with law.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard Sri S. C. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Manoj Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri M.J. Akhtar, learned counsel for the respondent No.2 as well as learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. By means of instant criminal revision under Section 397/401 Cr.P.C., the revisionist has assailed the impugned order dated 27.6.2022, passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2, Muzaffar Nagar in Misc. Application No.4911/09 of 2020, under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. By the impugned order, learned Magistrate has dismissed the application filed by the applicant, who is revisionist, before this Court.

3. The factual matrix of the case leading to filing of present revision are that the applicant Samshad Ahmad moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzaffar Nagar on 3.1.2020, stating therein that her father late Hazi Anwarul Haq had purchased two properties situated at Kasba Khatauli, District Muzaffar Nagar on 9.7.1982 and 13.9.1993, jointly with Ansar Khan, the opposite party and both of them occupied their respective shares in said properties. On 11.7.2007, Anwarul Haq, the father of the applicant died. The applicant became owner in possession of the share of his father in the said prosperties together with brothers namely Subhan Ali and others. Applicant and his brothers executed two separate sale deeds in the name of Salma Beg, wife of Azhar Beg and Azhar Beg, son of Asgar Beg with regard to their respective share in said property inherited from their father. The purchaser came into possession of said property after sale deed dated 19.9.2019. The applicant received a summon from trial court, from which he came to know that some civil suit has been filed by Ansar Khan against the applicant. The applicant visited the place of Ansar Khan on 24.9.2019, at 6:00 PM where he was present alongwith his two companions. The applicant tried to gather information regarding suit whereupon Ansar Khan became enraged and he abused them and showed him a photocopy of a forged Will deed and stated that he had got a forged Will deed prepared in the name of his father and on the strength of that, he would forcefully took possession of the property. The photocopy of Will deed dated 20.10.2005, is apparently false, forged and fictitious, which has been prepared by the opposite party Ansar Khan with the help of his unknown accomplishes, in which signature of Hazi Anwarul Haq and witness Salimuddin are completely forged. The Will has been prepared by opposite party only with intent to grab the said property. The applicant has filed a report of private handwriting and finger print expert, which reveals that admitted signature of the executant is not appended thereon. The Notary Public Jamiruddin, who is shown to have notarized the disputed Will has died around 6 years ago, the date of alleged Will deed. The said Will deed is a result of fraud committed by opposite party with assistance of his companions. There is no blood relation between late father of the applicant and opposite party. The applicant prayed for issuing direction to SHO concerned to register a case and investigate the same in his application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

4. Learned ACJM, Court No.1, Muzaffar Nagar, vide order dated

14.10.2020, directed the registration of the application as a complaint case in the light of pronouncement of a Division Bench of this Court in Sukhwasi vs. State of U.P., 2007 ACC 739 (DB) and fixed the case for recording of statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. Feeling aggrieved by this order, the applicant filed a Criminal Revision before the court of Session, which was decided by learned Additional Session Judge, Court No.1, Muzaffar Nagar on 19.1.2021 and impugned order dated 14.10.2020 was set aside and the lower court was directed to decide the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. within one month in the light of legal position stated in the revisional order. Learned revisional court observed that the case law cited on behalf of the respondent No.2 i.e. Smt. Sadhana Devi vs. State of UP, 2007 (1) JIC 523 (All), Ram Gopal vs. State of UP, 2011 (2) JIC 314 (All)(LB), Amar Pal Singh vs. State of UP 2002 (I) JcrC (HC) 241, Vinod Natesan vs. State of Kerala, 2019 (1) JcrC 235, Prof. R.K. Vijyasarthy vs. Sudha Seetharam, 2019 (1) J.Cr.C. 728, Rajesh Bhai Muljibhai Patel vs. State of Gujarat, 2020, (1) U.C., 609 are not applicable to the facts of the present case and observed that the disputed facts in the case could only be cleared and verified during investigation and on the facts of the case, the learned lower court has committed jurisdictional error while passing an impugned order and failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in it with regard to prayer made by the applicant.

5. Learned Magistrate, after receiving the certified copy of the order of Revisional Court, heard the applicant's counsel afresh on Original Misc. Application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and by order dated 3.3.2021, observed as under:

"After going through the application, order of revisional court and the documents placed alongwith the application, I do not find any ground to direct the investigation under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Facts and circumstances of the present case although disclose commission of cognizable offence but in this case all the information and details are in the possession of the applicant and his witnesses. The applicant may move an application for the registration of FIR after civil court decision on disputed Will. Furthermore, if at any stage, the court thinks that investigation is required, the same may be referred under Section 202 Cr.P.C. and police assistance may be taken. It seems that the applicant wants to put pressure on the other side by registration of the FIR. This is so on account of the fact that once an FIR is registered, the other side namely, accused persons would be on the run because they will face an imminent threat of arrest and secondly, it becomes convenient for the complainant as well because it becomes a State case where the presence of the complainant is not required on each and every date of hearing. That is the modus operandi, which is invariably adopted and aimed at by the every applicant."

6. With above observation, the learned magistrate, has re-written the order set aside in criminal revision and directed the office clerk to register the case as complaint and complainant was directed to be present before the court on the date fixed for recording of his statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C.

7. The applicant again, feeling aggrieved by the impugned order dated 3.3.2021, passed by the learned Magistrate, preferred a criminal revision before the Court of Session, which was registered as Criminal Revision No.84 of 2021, Samshad Ahmad vs. State of UP and Another, which was decided by the revisional court on 8.3.2022 and the revision was allowed and impugned order 3.3.2021 passed by a subordinate court was quashed. The revisional court directed the court below to hear afresh on application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. in the light of observations made in previous criminal revision No.82 of 2020 on 19.1.2021, after giving opportunity of hearing to both parties and pass a lawful order thereon. Learned Revisional Court observed that the impugned order passed by the learned Magistrate dated 3.3.2021 was clear in violation of the observations of Additional Session Judge, in revisional order dated 19.1.2021, passed in Criminal Revision No.82 of 2020.

8. Present respondent No.2 filed a criminal revision before this Court against said order dated 8.3.2022 passed in Criminal Revision No.84 of 2021, which is cited as Criminal Revision No.1183 of 2022, Ansar Khan and others vs. State of UP and Another. In said criminal revison, an apprehension was raised before this court by the revisionist's counsel that in view of observations made by the court of Session in Criminal Revision No.82 of 2020, decided on 19.1.2021, learned magistrate under circumpressure may pass some unjust judicial order to abrogate his misgivings as the reivsional court in second revision, vide order dated 8.3.2022, has directed the Magistrate for revisiting his order denovo in the light of certain guidance/guidelines given in previous criminal Revision No.82 of 2020, decided on 19.1.2021.

9. This Court decided the Criminal Revision No.1183 of 2022, vide order dated 31.3.2022 with observation that "Learned Magistrate, concerned is hereby directed to apply his own independent judicial mind unaffected by any of the observations given by revisional court while deciding the Criminal Revision No.84 of 2021 as well as earlier Revision No.82 of 2020, and pass a suitable and well reasoned order, strictly adhering to his robust judicial sense and the law laid down in this regard within a period of 8 weeks from the production of certified copy of the order after hearing both the parties.

10. Learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2, Muzaffar Nagar, revisited the issue afresh in the light of observations made by this Court in said Criminal Revision No.1183 of 2022 and dismissed the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. vide impugned order dated 27.6.2022, with observation that keeping in view the order passed by the Hon’ble High Court and considering the facts and circumstances, he is of conclusion that the matter is not liable to be investigated by the Police and it is essentially of civil nature and Original Suit No.503 of 2019 is already pending in the Civil Court. The applicant is in possession of the relevant documents on the basis of which, the validity of the disputed Will can be decided by the civil court and in case of civil court comes to the conclusion that the disputed notarized Will deed is not a genuine document, due to the fact that according to the Notary Public, who is purported to have attested the Will deed, died six years prior to its execution, the applicant will have again an opportunity to register a criminal case. According to the opinion of learned ACJM, the matter is of not such nature that requires registration of a case and investigation by police, at this stage. The applicant has not clarified as to how, he is in possession of the said property covered under disputed Will whereas he has himself stated in the application that property in question has been sold to Azhar Beg and Salma Beg and the purchasers have acquired their possession thereof. The purchasers have not moved any complaint before competent officer in this regard and even the applicant has not moved any application for mutation in his name on property in question as a legal heir of the executant of the Will. Learned Magistrate placed reliance on the judgement of Hon'ble High Court in Prem Das vs. State of UP and 5 Others, Matter Under Article 227 No.1328 of 2021, wherein this Court observed as under:-

"16. It is therefore seen that upon an application received under Section 156(3) of the Code disclosing a cognizable offence, the Magistrate may direct the police to register the F.I.R. and investigate or alternatively the Magistrate can take cognizance of the complaint, register it as complaint case and follow the procedure under Chapter XV of the Code. While exercising this discretion and taking either of the courses, it would be incumbent upon the Magistrate to apply judicial mind and the exercise of discretion would have to be guided by interest of justice, depending upon the facts of the case. In a situation where the investigation required is of a nature which can only be made by a police officer upon whom the statute has conferred the powers of investigation, the Magistrate may be well within his discretion to direct the registration of an F.I.R. and its investigation by the police officer. In a case where the complainant is in possession of the complete details of the case and also the material evidence, such that 'investigation' by the police may not be required, the Magistrate may follow the procedure of a complaint case."

11. Feeling aggrieved by the impugned order dated 27.6.2022, the applicant had filed present revision before this Court.

12. Learned counsel for the revisionist submitted that the approach of learned Magistrate was contrary to the notion of judicial discipline as learned Magistrate has re-written his over ruled order dated 14.10.2020 in Criminal Revision No.82 of 2020 and ignored the observations made by Court of Session in Criminal Revision No.82 of 2020, decided on 19.202021 and by order dated 3.3.2021, this fact was addressed by the Court of Session in Criminal Revision No.84 of 2021, wherein the Court of Session took strong exception to the approach of the court below while deciding the application afresh contrary to the observations made by revisional court. However, this Court in Criminal Revision No.1183 of 2022, directed the Magistrate to decide the application afresh and pass a suitable, well reasoned order according to his judicial sense applying his own independent judicial mind unaffected by any of the observations given by the revisional court.

13. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submitted that the impugned order passed by learned court below is contrary to law and established judicial authority on the subject as civil and criminal proceeding, both can be maintainable in regard to same set of facts, if cognizable offence is clearly made out on the basis of facts of the case. Respondent No.2, Ansar Khan, is owner of the property, which was jointly purchased by him and late Anwarul

Hasan in the year 2007, till then there was co-ownership and there was no occasion of executing the Will in favour of the respondent No.2, who is not related to him in any manner. The court below has twice passed the order to register the application under section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as a complaint case and finally dismissed the same after disposal of Criminal Appeal No.1183 of 2022, by this Court. The Civil Suit No.503 of 2019 has not been filed by the revisionist. This is filed by the opposite party No.2 to fortify his illegal claim over disputed property on the basis of disputed notarized Will deed propounded by him, which is essentially fake and forged document with intent to engulf the parental property of the revisionist. The Notary Public Advocate, Jamiruddin, died on 17.1.1998, as per his death certificate filed by the revisionist in the lower court record. Whereas, the disputed Will deed bears its date of execution as 20.10.2005 and said death certificate cold not be rebutted by the respondent No.2 as yet. Inasmuch as, the signature of Salimuddin as witness of said Will deed is also forged but this aspect has not been considered by the court below in proper perspective. The impugned order is not sustainable and is liable to be set aside by orders of this Court.

14. Per contra, learned AGA as well as learned counsel for the respondent No.2 submitted that the impugned order is well reasoned order, in which all the attendant facts and circumstances are duly considered in the light of authoritative judicial precedents and even after passing of impugned order, whereby the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. moved by the applicant has been dismissed, the applicant is within his right to file a criminal complaint in the matter.

15. Learned counsel for the respondent No.2 further submitted that death certificate of Jamiruddin, Notary Public, who has attested the Will dated 20.10.2005 is not a genuine document as the place of death of Jamiruddin mentioned therein is recorded in the name of Smt. Roshan Ara, wife of Amir Ahmad. Present application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. was filed by the applicant after filing of said civil suit by respondent No.2.

16. This is admitted fact that property in question was purchased by father of the revisionist and respondent No.2 jointly, on 9.7.1982 and 13.9.1993 by two sale-deeds and the purchasers occupied their respective shares in said property. This is the case of the respondent No.2 Ansar Khan that Hazi Anwarul Haq, father of the revisionist and joint purchaser of the said property executed a Will deed in favour of the respondent No.2 on 20.10.2005, which is unregistered but it was notarized by one Jamiruddin, then Notary Public and the father of the revisionist namely, Hazi Anwarul Haq died on 11.4.2007 and there is no dispute regarding date of death of Hazi Anwarul Haq. According to the revisionist, he accompanied with his brothers became owner in possession of this share of said property. Revisionist and his brothers executed two separate sale deed in the name of Salma Beg, wife of Azhar Beg and Azhar Beg, son of Asgar Beg with regard to their respective share in said property inherited from their father. Respondent No.2 has filed a civil suit for injunction on the basis of Will deed dated 20.10.2005 executed by Hazi Anwarul Haq in favour of Ansar Khan, the respondent No.2. The genuineness of will is liable to be adjudicated by the civil court. However, this fact cannot lost sight that the revisionist has filed death certificate of Jamiruddin, the Notary Public, who attested the unregistered Will deed propounded by respondent No.2 in his favour and according to the said death certificate, the date of death of Jamiruddin is mentioned as 17.1.1998, at House No.786/1, Khalapar, whereas the date of execution of said Will date is shown as 20.10.2005, thus, according to the death certificate of said Notary Public, the genuineness of Will deed comes under cloud. This fact is also noticeable that no good ground could be shown by respondent No.2 as to why the father of revisionist namely, Hazi Anwarul Haq, chose to bequeath his share of property in favour of co-sharer of property namely, Ansar Khan, excluding his own sons. There is no legal bar with regard to proceeding of civil and criminal case simultaneously on similar set of facts. The main consideration is that as to whether on facts of the case put forth before the court of first instance by the complainant, a cognizable offence is made out or not. The complaint was initally filed in the year 2020 and after lapse of more than 3 years period, the respondent No.2 could not produce any document in rebuttal of death certificate of Notary Public namely, Jamiruddin, placed on record by the complainant/revisionist. The intricate facts of the case need to be investigated by the police as this is not of such nature that the complainant will be able to produce necessary documentary evidence in the case on his own. This court is not inclined to subscribe the view of the learned Magistrate that the matter is essentially of civil nature, where the allegations of fraud and forgery are made and some material is shown in support of the same, this should not be termed as a matter essentially of civil nature. In my considered opinion, learned court below has committed a legal error and impropriety by dismissing the application moved by the revisionist under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and impugned order is not sustainable under law. On facts of the case, the stand of the revisionist that matter is of such nature that it requires investigation by police under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. appears to be forceful and reasonable and learned court below should have considered the case for issuing a direction to police to register the case and investigate the same.

17. In view of foregoing discussion, the revision stands allowed and the impugned order passed by learned court below is set aside and the matter is remitted to court below with direction to hear the revisionist/complainant afresh on application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. in the light of observation made in this order and decide the same in accordance with law.

(Juvenile) X ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Counsel for the Revisionist:
Sri Atul Kumar Shahi

Counsel for the Opposite Parties:

Criminal Law - Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 – Sections 9, 94 – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Section 397 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 363, 366 &

376(3) – Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 – Sections 3, 4(2) – Determination of Juvenility – Reliability of Documentary Evidence – Radiological Age Assessment - The revisionist, a juvenile, challenged the order dated 06.09.2023 by the Special Judge (POCSO Act), Mainpuri, which set aside the Juvenile Justice Board's (J.J. Board) order dated 13.01.2023 declaring him a juvenile in Case Crime No. 183 of 2021 under Sections 363, 366, 376(3) IPC and Sections 3/4(2) POCSO Act. The J.J. Board, relying on a medical examination estimating the revisionist's age as 20–21 years on 30.09.2022, calculated his age as approximately 17 years, 6 months, and 9 days on the incident date (09.04.2021) by applying a one-year margin. The revisionist claimed a birth date of 15.05.2006 based on a school certificate, while the prosecution relied on a 05.07.2000 birth date from earlier school records. The appellate court rejected the revisionist's certificate as unreliable, citing inconsistencies and lack of supporting evidence for an alleged deceased elder sibling with the same name. Held: The court, referencing Ram Vijay Singh Vs St. of U.P. ((2021) SCC OnLine SC 175), Mukarrab Vs St. of U.P. ((2017) 2 SCC 2010), Arnit Das Vs St. of Bihar ((2000) 5 SCC 428), Parag Bhati Vs St. of U.P. ((2016) 12 SCC 744), and Rishipal Singh Solanki Vs St. of U.P. ((2021) 11 ADJ 489), upheld the appellate court's decision. It found the revisionist's claim of a 2006 birth date implausible due to lack of credible evidence, inconsistencies in school records, and no proof of the elder sibling's death. The radiological age (20–21 years) aligned with the 2000 birth date, and a mechanical two-year deduction was deemed unwarranted. The court emphasized that juvenility claims must be scrutinized to prevent misuse in heinous offences.

Revision dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Atul Kumar Shahi, learned counsel for the revisionist and Sri L.D. Rajbhr, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This criminal revision has been filed with a prayer to quash the order dated 06.09.2023 passed by Special Judge, POCSO Act in Criminal Appeal No. 8 of 2023 arising out of case crime no. 183 of 2021 under sections 363, 366 and 376(3) I.P.C. and 3/4(2) of POCSO Act, P.S. Bewar, District- Mainpuri, whereby the order passed by J.J. Board dated 13.01.2023, by which accused was declared a juvenile, has been set aside and appeal has been allowed.

3. The relevant facts are as below:

In the enquiry no. 34 of 2021 conducted for determination of age by the J.J. Board in crime no.183 of 2021, under sections 363, 366 and 376(3) I.P.C. and under section 3/4(2) of POCSO Act, on behalf of the accused, oral and documentary evidence was produced. The J.J. Board did not rely upon the statement given by father of the juvenile and also did not rely on the certificate as regard date of birth showing name of Kuldeep Kumar son of Harish Chandra, issued by Subedar Pandey Inter College, Pandey Nagar Kusumra, District Mainpuri. The J.J. Board instead relied upon the medical examination done by a panel of doctors constituted by C.M.O. Farrukhabad. It may be noted that the accused was medically examined on 30.09.2022 and as per doctors' opinion, he was between 20 to 21 years of age. The learned J.J. Board calculated the age of juvenile, taking him as minimum 20 years on the date of medical examination and therefore, 18 years 6 months and 9 days on the date of incident (i.e on 09.04.2021). The J.J. Board took a view that the age can be considered on the lower side by giving a margin of maximum one year therefore, declared him as 17 years 6 months and 9 days on the date of incident.

4. This may be noted that the said order by the J.J. Board was passed after the matter of age determination was remanded for adjudication afresh, by the appellate court to the J.J. Board. Notably the J.J. Board had passed a fresh order in compliance of earlier direction by the appellate court in Criminal Appeal No. 5 of 2023. The freshly passed order dated 13.01.2023 declaring him about 17 and half years, was challenged in Criminal Appeal No. 8 of 2023 and appeal stood allowed. Now, the revisionist is before this Court, challenging the order dated 06.09.2023, passed in appeal.

5. The contentions of the revisionist in nutshell are that the appellate court did not consider that his date of birth was recorded as 15.05.2006 in the certificate issued by Subedar Pandey Inter College. The appellate court committed gross illegality in not considering the aforesaid document. Further that medical age was found 20-21 years and as per settled law, a variation of two years is possible on both the sides. Therefore the benefit ought to have been given to the accused by lowering the same by a margin of two years and not by margin of one year. Hence, he was about 17 years even by medical standards. The appellate court has ignored provisions of law and has passed an order which is illegal and improper.

6. Learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the contentions drawing the attention of this Court towards oral and documentary evidence in which date of birth of the revisionist has been mentioned as 05.07.2000.

7. I heard both the sides and perused the material on record. On behalf of juvenile, a High School certificate has been produced, which showed name of Juvenile ‘X’ son of Harish Chandra and Surajmukhi Devi and date of birth as 15.05.2006. This paper was admittedly produced before the appellate court for the first time. Another certificate dated 19.05.2021, issued by the Principal, Subedar Pandey Inter College, has been produced which mentioned his date of birth as 15.05.2006. Admittedly this certificate bears a date of issue as 19.052021 and it said that ‘X’ s/o Harish Chandra took admission in that Inter College in class 9th on 2.7.2019. It does not say that he has been studying there from class 6th. However, the Principal of that college, who was examined, says that he studied from class 6th. At the same time says that no T.C. was given by him at the time of admission. On the other hand the first informant filed a written objection stating therein that in fact, date of birth of juvenile has been shown as 5.7.2000, when he took admission in Class I in Primary School, Saraichak, Govindepur. The first informant also produced an information obtained under Right to Information Act 2005. In this paper, it is clearly mentioned that 'X', son of Harish Chandra, took admission in the academic year 2006-2007 in Primary School, Saraichak, Govindepur and his name was mentioned at serial no. 1021 in the school records. Very interesting explanation with regard to two different dates of birth has come before the courts below that the elder son of Harish Chandra, who took birth on 5.7.2000, had the same name 'X' and that he died. Another son was born to him on 15.05.2006 and he was again named 'X', therefore, two different dates of birth have come on record. The contention is that the instant accused was born on 15.05.2006, therefore, he should have been treated as juvenile. The thing which cannot be ignored is that the revisionist has no explanation as regard the reasons why no details have been given as to how and when did his elder son actually died. Actually no credible evidence as regard fact of death, when and how did he die, has been given. No documentary evidence like death certificate issued by Gram Pradhan or Gram Panchayat has been produced. No copy of pariwar register showing his death, has been produced. The story is that for some reason, the younger one, who was born in 2006 was also named as 'X'. Very interestingly, paper no. 60, copy of information obtained through office of Block Education Officer proves that 'X' son of Harish Chandra had taken admission in 2006-07 in Primary School Saraichak, Govindepur. If the story set up by the revisionist is believed and presuming that this paper pertained to elder son only then it should also be presumed that elder one was alive at least till 2006-07. If that be so, there appears no logic in naming the second son as 'X' again when elder one was still alive. The story of younger son being named 'X' again is nothing but ill conceived and false. This inference is further fortified by another paper produced on behalf of juvenile which is a certificate issued by Principal, Subedar Pandey Inter College. This paper shows that the juvenile (the younger son) took admission on 02.07.2019 in class 9. There is no documentary evidence to demonstrate where did he actually receive education before taking admission in academic session 2019-20. All these facts are too incohesive to be believed. Only conclusion which can be drawn is that academic papers showing his date of birth as 15.05.2006 are not reliable at all. There appears strong probability that his actual date of birth is 05.07.2000. The appellate court committed no mistake in not relying upon the papers produced on his behalf.

8. Another question is whether the appellate court was wrong in determining the age as below 18 on the basis of medical opinion. Undisputedly, the juvenile was examined by the medical board constituted by CMO, and medical opinion said that he was between 20-21 years on the date of medical examination and with that being counted as the base line, his age may be inferred as 18 years 6 months 9 days on the date of incident. Notably date of birth as asserted by the opposite party i.e. 5.7.2000, gives almost same age, which is found by the doctors.

9. There is no strict law as regard lowering the age by two years from the medical age. Undoubtedly, the age determined on the basis of medical tests is merely an opinion. In view of probability of error, a general rule has evolved that there may be error of 2 year on either side. This is not to say that in all the cases, 2 year have to be deducted or added. A mechanical adherence to such law may entail failure of interest of justice. The courts ought to apply the judicial mind when it decides to lower the age by certain margin. The law on probable error in determining age on the basis of medical evidence has evolved and has a general application but the question is whether the Court is expected to go mathematically? or is it mandatory to consider the age of accused 2 years less than the medical age? The answer must be 'No'. Possibility of error cannot be equated with actual error. Definitely in certain cases evidence might be available which may show the margin of error on the higher side rather than on lower side. This is well established that the medical age can act as a guideline only and not as a conclusive proof. This is an accepted fact that radiological age may not give precise or exact age. Other relevant facts and circumstances may assist the Court in arriving at the right conclusion.

10. The Supreme Court in Criminal Appeal No. 175 of 2021 arising out of S.L.P. Criminal No. 2898 of 2020, Ram Vijay Singh Vs. State of U.P., considered the question of reliance upon radiological age of a person. The Supreme Court observed in Para 9, 10, 12 and 14 as below:

"9. The judgment in Abuzar Hossain considered Section 7-A of the Act and Rule 12 of the Rules. A perusal of Rule 12(3)(b) of the Rules shows that in the absence of documents as mentioned in clause (i), (ii) or (iii), the medical opinion will be sought from a duly constituted Medical Board, which will declare the age of the juvenile or child. It was further provided that in case wherein the exact assessment of the age cannot be done, the Court or the Juvenile Justice Board, if considered necessary, give benefit to the child or juvenile by considering his/her age on lower side within the margin of one year. However, it is to be noted that Section 94 of the Act does not have any corresponding provision of giving benefit of margin of age.

10. Admittedly, in the present case, there is no Date of Birth Certificate from the school or matriculation or equivalent certificate or a Birth Certificate given by a Corporation or Municipal Authority or Panchayat. Therefore, clause (iii) of Section 94(2) of the Act to determine the age by an ossification test or any other latest medical age determination test conducted on the orders of the Committee or the Board comes into play.

12. Mr. Goel, on the contrary, argued that procedure as provided under Rule 12(3)(b) of the Rules is not materially different from that contained in the Statute. In fact, the discretion given to the Court to lower the age by one year in the Rules has been omitted. He further relied upon a judgment of this Court in Mukarrab wherein it has been held that the Courts have observed that the evidence afforded by radiological examination is a useful guiding factor for determining the age of a person but the evidence is not of a conclusive and incontrovertible nature and is subject to a margin of error. Medical evidence as to the age of a person though a very useful guiding factor is not conclusive and has to be considered along with other circumstances. It was further held that the ossification test cannot be regarded as conclusive when the appellants have crossed the age of thirty years which is an important factor to be taken into account as age cannot be determined with precision. It was held as under:

"26. Having regard to the circumstances of this case, a blind and mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of the medical opinion by the radiological examination. At p. 31 of Modi's Textbook of Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology, 20th Edn., it has been stated as follows:

"In ascertaining the age of young persons radiograms of any of the main joints of the upper or the lower extremity of both sides of the body should be taken, an opinion should be given according to the following Table, but it must be remembered that too much reliance should not be placed on this Table as it merely indicates an average and is likely to vary in individual cases even of the same province owing to the eccentricities of development." Courts have taken judicial notice of this fact and have always held that the evidence afforded by radiological examination is no doubt a useful guiding factor for determining the age of a person but the evidence is not of a conclusive and incontrovertible nature and it is subject to a margin of error. Medical evidence as to the age of a person though a very useful guiding factor is not conclusive and has to be considered along with other circumstances.

27. In a recent judgment, State of M.P. v. Anoop Singh, (2015) 7 SCC 773 : (2015) 4 SCC (Cri) 208], it was held that the ossification test is not the sole criteria for age determination. Following Babloo Pasi [Babloo Pasi v. State of Jharkhand, (2008) 13 SCC 133 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 266] and Anoop Singh cases [State of M.P. v. Anoop Singh, (2015) 7 SCC 773 : (2015) 4 SCC (Cri) 208], we hold that ossification test cannot be regarded as conclusive when it comes to ascertaining the age of a person. More so, the appellants herein have certainly crossed the age of thirty years which is an important factor to be taken into account as age cannot be determined with precision. In fact in the medical report of the appellants, it is stated that there was no indication for dental x-rays since both the accused were beyond 25 years of age.

28. At this juncture, we may usefully refer to an article "A study of wrist ossification for age estimation in paediatric group in Central Rajasthan", which reads as under:

"There are various criteria for age determination of an individual, of which eruption of teeth and ossification activities of bones are important. Nevertheless age can usually be assessed more accurately in younger age group by dentition and ossification along with epiphyseal fusion. [Ref.: Gray H. Gray's Anatomy, 37th Edn., Churchill Livingstone Edinburgh London Melbourne and New York: 1996; 341-342];

A careful examination of teeth and ossification at wrist joint provide valuable data for age estimation in children.

[Ref.: Parikh C.K. Parikh's Textbook of Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology, 5th Edn., Mumbai Medico-Legal Centre Colaba: 1990; 44-45];

* Variations in the appearance of centre of ossification at wrist joint shows influence of race, climate, diet and regional factors. Ossification centres for the distal ends of radius and ulna consistent with present study vide article "A study of wrist ossification for age estimation in paediatric group in Central Rajasthan " by Dr.*

Ashutosh Srivastav, Senior Demonstrator and a team of other doctors, Journal of Indian Academy of Forensic Medicine (JIAFM), 2004; 26(4). ISSN 0971-0973].

29. In the present case, their physical, dental and radiological examinations were carried out. Radiological examination of skull (AP and lateral view), sternum (AP and lateral view) and sacrum (lateral view) was advised and performed. As per the medical report, there was no indication for dental x-rays since both the accused were much beyond 25 years of age. Therefore, the age determination based on ossification test though may be useful is not conclusive. An x-ray ossification test can by no means be so infallible and accurate a test as to indicate the correct number of years and days of a person's life."

14. We find that the procedure prescribed in Rule 12 is not materially different than the provisions of Section 94 of the Act to determine the age of the person. There are minor variations as the Rule 12(3) (a)(i) and (ii) have been clubbed together with slight change in the language. Section 94 of the Act does not contain the provisions regarding benefit of margin of age to be given to the child or juvenile as was provided in Rule 12(3)(b) of the Rules. The importance of ossification test has not undergone change with the enactment of Section 94 of the Act. The reliability of the ossification test remains vulnerable as was under Rule 12 of the Rules."

11. In Mukarrab Vs. State of U.P. 2017 2SCC 2010, the Supreme Court gave an opinion that the radiological age may not be treated as conclusive proof of age. The Supreme Court observed as below:-

"22. It is well-accepted fact that age determination using ossification test does not yield accurate and precise conclusions after the examinee crosses the age of 30 years, which is true in the present case.

After referring to Bhola Bhagat's case and other decisions, in Babloo Pasi's case, this Court held as under:-

"18. Nevertheless, in Jitendra Ram v. State of Jharkhand (2006) 9 SCC 428 the Court sounded a note of caution that the aforestated observations in Bhola Bhagat (1997) 8 SCC 720 would not mean that a person who is not entitled to the benefit of the said Act would be dealt with leniently only because such a plea is raised. Each plea must be judged on its own merit and each case has to be considered on the basis of the materials brought on record.

22. It is well settled that it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. The date of birth is to be determined on the basis of material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties. The medical evidence as to the age of a person, though a very useful guiding factor, is not conclusive and has to be considered along with other cogent evidence."

12. In Arnit Das vs. State of Bihar; (200) 5 SCC 428, after considering the judicial opinions in many other precedents, the Supreme Court observed as below:-

"while dealing with a question of determination of the age of an accused, for the purpose of finding out whether he is a juvenile or not, a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted while appreciating the evidence adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile and if two views may be possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. We are also not oblivious of the fact that being a welfare legislation, the courts should be zealous to see that a juvenile derives full benefits of the provisions of the Act but at the same time it is also imperative for the courts to ensure that the protection and privileges under the Act are not misused by unscrupulous persons to escape punishments for having committed serious offences."

13. It may be noted that where two views were possible, the Court, though is permitted to lean in favour of the accused, however this is not to be done, where there are definite indicators that benefit of provisions of the Juvenile Justice Act is being claimed to escape from punishment in cases involving heinous offence. The Supreme Court warned against misuse of law by unscrupulous litigant. In line with the above observations in Arnit Das case (supra), the Supreme Court in Parag Bhati vs. State of U.P.; (2016) 12 SCC 744 observed in para nos. 26 and 27 as below:-

"26. It is no doubt true that if there is a clear and unambiguous case in favour of the juvenile accused that he was a minor below the age of 18 years on the date of the incident and the documentary evidence at least prima facie proves the same, he would be entitled to the special protection under the JJ Act. But when an accused commits a grave and heinous offence and thereafter attempts to take statutory shelter under the guise of being a minor, a casual or cavalier approach while recording as to whether an accused is a juvenile or not cannot be permitted as the courts are enjoined upon to perform their duties with the object of protecting the confidence of common man in the institution entrusted with the administration of justice.

27. The benefit of the principle of benevolent legislation attached to the JJ Actwould thus apply to only such cases wherein the accused is held to be a juvenile on the basis of at least prima facie evidence regarding his minority as the benefit of the possibilities of two views in regard to the age of the alleged accused who is involved in grave and serious offence which he committed and gave effect to it in a well-planned manner reflecting his maturity of mind rather than innocence indicating that his plea of juvenility is more in the nature of a shield to dodge or dupe the arms of law, cannot be allowed to come to his rescue." [Emphasis added] From the above decision, it is clear that the purpose of Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 is not to give shelter to the accused of grave and heinous offences."

14. The Apex Court in Rashipal Singh Solanki vs. State of U.P. and Others; 2021 (11) ADJ 489 decided on 18.11.2021, considered the judgments given in Parag Bhati vs. State of U.P.; (2016) 12 SCC 744, Sanjeev Kumar Gupta vs. State of U.P. and Another; (2019) 12 SCC 370 and Abuzar Hossain vs. State of West Bengal; (2012) 10 SCC 489, Ashwani Kumar Saxena vs. State of M.P.; (2012) 9 SCC 750, Babloo Pasi vs. State of Jharkhand; (2008) 13 SCC 133, Arnit Das vs. State of Bihar; (2000) 5 SCC 488, Jitendra Ram vs. State of Jharkhand; (2006) 9 SCC 428 and several others and in essence held that each case may be dealt with in the light of its own peculiar facts and circumstances while keeping certain principles as guiding factor in mind as described in concluding para of the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court.

In para no. 29 the Apex Court in Rishipal Singh Solanki (supra) held as below:-

"29. What emerges on a cumulative consideration of the aforesaid catena of judgments is as follows:

(i) A claim of juvenility may be raised at any stage of a criminal proceeding, even after a final disposal of the case. A delay in raising the claim of juvenility cannot be a ground for rejection of such claim. It can also be raised for the first time before this Court.

(ii) An application claiming juvenility could be made either before the Court or the JJ Board.

(ii-a) When the issue of juvenility arises before a Court, it would be under sub-section (2) and (3) of section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015 but when a person is brought before a Committee or JJ Board, section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 applies.

(ii-b) If an application is filed before the Court claiming juvenility, the provision of sub-section (2) of section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would have to be applied or read along with sub-section (2) of section 9 so as to seek evidence for the purpose of recording a finding stating the age of the person as nearly as may be.

(ii-c) When an application claiming juvenility is made under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 before the JJ Board when the matter regarding the alleged commission of offence is pending before a Court, then the procedure contemplated under section 94 of the JJ Act, 2015 would apply. Under the said provision if the JJ Board has reasonable grounds for doubt regarding whether the person brought before it is a child or not, the Board shall undertake the process of age determination by seeking evidence and the age recorded by the JJ Board to be the age of the person so brought before it shall, for the purpose of the JJ Act, 2015, be deemed to be true age of that person. Hence the degree of proof required in such a proceeding before the JJ Board, when an application is filed seeking a claim of juvenility when the trial is before the concerned criminal court, is higher than when an inquiry is made by a court before which the case regarding the commission of the offence is pending (vide section 9 of the JJ Act, 2015).

(iii) That when a claim for juvenility is raised, the burden is on the person raising the claim to satisfy the Court to discharge the initial burden. However, the documents mentioned in Rule 12(3)(a)(i), (ii), and (iii) of the JJ Rules 2007 made under the JJ Act, 2000 or sub-section (2) of section 94 of JJ Act, 2015, shall be sufficient for prima facie satisfaction of the Court. On the basis of the aforesaid documents a presumption of juvenility may be raised.

(iv) The said presumption is however not conclusive proof of the age of juvenility and the same may be rebutted by contra evidence let in by the opposite side.

(v) That the procedure of an inquiry by a Court is not the same thing as declaring the age of the person as a juvenile sought before the JJ Board when the case is pending for trial before the concerned criminal court. In case of an inquiry, the Court records a prima facie conclusion but when there is a determination of age as per sub-section (2) of section 94of 2015 Act, a declaration is made on the basis of evidence. Also the age recorded by the JJ Board shall be deemed to be the true age of the person brought before it. Thus, the standard of proof in an inquiry is different from that required in a proceeding where the determination and declaration of the age of a person has to be made on the basis of evidence scrutinised and accepted only if worthy of such acceptance.

(vi) That it is neither feasible nor desirable to lay down an abstract formula to determine the age of a person. It has to be on the basis of the material on record and on appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties in each case.

(vii) This Court has observed that a hyper-technical approach should not be adopted when evidence is adduced on behalf of the accused in support of the plea that he was a juvenile.

(viii) If two views are possible on the same evidence, the court should lean in favour of holding the accused to be a juvenile in borderline cases. This is in order to ensure that the benefit of the JJ Act, 2015 is made applicable to the juvenile in conflict with law. At the same time, the Court should ensure that the JJ Act, 2015 is not misused by persons to escape punishment after having committed serious offences.

(ix) That when the determination of age is on the basis of evidence such as school records, it is necessary that the same would have to be considered as per Section 35 of the Indian Evidence Act, inasmuch as any public or official document maintained in the discharge of official duty would have greater credibility than private documents.

(x) Any document which is in consonance with public documents, such as matriculation certificate, could be accepted by the Court or the JJ Board provided such public document is credible and authentic as per the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act viz., section 35 and other provisions.

(xi) Ossification Test cannot be the sole criterion for age determination and a mechanical view regarding the age of a person cannot be adopted solely on the basis of medical opinion by radiological examination. Such evidence is not conclusive evidence but only a very useful guiding factor to be considered in the absence of documents mentioned in Section 94(2) of the JJ Act, 2015."

15. In Sanjeev Kumar Gupta vs. State of U.P. and Another; (2019) 12 SCC 370, the credibility and authenticity of the matriculation certificate was questioned. In the said case, the Juvenile Justice Board had rejected the claim of the juvenility but the High Court reversed the findings of the Juvenile Justice Board, however the Apex Court restored the order of the Juvenile Justice Board. The Apex Court observed that the records maintained by the C.B.S.C. were not dependable because there was no underlying documents to support the date of birth recorded therein. The Apex Court found that there was clear and unimpeachable evidence of date of birth which had been recorded in the records of another school, in which the second respondent therein had attended till Class 4th. The Apex Court held that the date of birth reflected in the matriculation certificate could not be accepted as authentic or credible.

16. In the instant matter, an implausible story has been set by the revisionist, which goes like that the parents gave same name to the younger son, who was born 6 years after the birth of the elder one. Name of the elder son i.e. 'X' was given to younger son as well because elder son had died. The revisionist could not even prima facie satisfy the courts below on this story. As observed earlier, no particular date of death of elder son has been given. No documentary evidence as regard his death has been furnished. On the other hand, if the story given by the revisionist is believed, the admitted document indicates that he was alive till at least 2006 i.e., the year in which the younger son was born. Coupled with this fact are the circumstances that no credible has been furnished to show where did the juvenile (the younger son) studied before be took admission in Subedar Pandey Inter College directly in Class-9th. The story is too imaginative to be a reality. A strong probability appears that the actual date of birth of the juvenile was 05.07.2000, as is shown by the date of birth registered in a school where he had studied initially. Notably the age calculated on the basis of date of birth being 5.7.2000 matches with the radiological age and therefore a whimsical and mechanical approach to deduct two straight years from radiological opinion is nothing but uncalled for. All the evidence dissuade the Court from considering probable age on lower side. This is definitely not a case where age could be or ought to have been considered by lowering it by a margin of 2 years. No two views seem possible, therefore no question arises of leaning in favour of accused. The Juvenile Justice Board clearly committed an error which was corrected by the Appellate Court.

17. On the basis of above discussion, I do not find any good reason to interfere in the order passed by the appellate court. The revision lacks merit and is hereby dismissed.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 – Sections 319, 379 & 401 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 307/419, 436/149 & 323/149 – Application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. – Summoning Additional Accused – Degree of Satisfaction for Summoning – Maintainability of Application - The revisionist, Arunendra @ Dabbu Yadav, challenged the order dated 31.10.2023 by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (MP/MLA Court), Prayagraj, allowing an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to summon him as an additional accused in Complaint Case No. 2390 of 2010 under Sections 307/419, 436/149, and 323/149 IPC. The complainant alleged that on 30.06.2005, the revisionist, along with others, fired rifles, broke into her house, assaulted her family, and set fire to property, following an earlier incident on 29.06.2005. Despite his name appearing in the complaint, the revisionist was not initially summoned. The trial court, based on consistent St.ments of PW-1, PW-2, and PW-3 implicating him, allowed the Section 319 application before judgment delivery. Held: The court, relying on Sukhpal Singh Khaira Vs St. of Punj. ((2023) 1 SCC 289), Hardeep Singh Vs St. of Punj. ((2014) 3 SCC 92), Vikas Vs St. of Rajasthan ((2014) 3 SCC 321), and Brijendra Singh Vs St. of Rajasthan ((2017) 7 SCC 706), upheld the trial court's order. The application was maintainable as it was filed before judgment, and the evidence against the revisionist was sufficient to frame charges, meeting the degree of satisfaction required under Section 319 Cr.P.C.

Revision was dismissed .

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjay Kumar Singh, J.)

1-The instant Criminal Revision under Section 379/401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, hereinafter referred as "Cr.P.C" has been preferred by the revisionist-Arunendra alias Daddu Yadav with a prayer to set aside the impugned order dated 31.10.2023 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge MP/MLA Court, Prayagraj in Complaint Case No. 2390 of 2010 (UPAD01-007721-2010), under Sections 307/419, 436/149, 323/149 I.P.C., Police Station Jhunsi, District Prayagraj, whereby application No. 171 kha dated 17.10.2023 moved by the complainant under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was allowed and revisionist-Arunendra alias Daddu Yadav was summoned to face the trial for the offence punishable under Sections 307/419, 436/149, and 323/149 I.P.C.

2-Heard Mr. V.P. Srivastava, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Mr. Nipun Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist, Mr. J.K. Upadhyay, learned Additional Government Advocate assisted by Ms. Pratiksha Rai, learned Brief Holder for the State of U.P./opposite party No. 1, Mr. Kunjesh Kumar Dubey, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 and perused the materials on record.

3-Brief facts of the case which are required to be stated are as follow:-

3.1-The complainant/opposite party no. 2-Shashi Devi moved an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. dated 08.07.2005 in respect of incidents dated 29.06.2005 and 30.06.2005 against eleven accused persons, namely, Moolchandra Yadav, Smt. Vijma Yadav (MLA), Raju Yadav, Ashok Nishad, Loha Singh, Amar Singh, Gyan Chandra, Lal Chandra, Jabar Singh, Padmakar Rai-Sub-Inspector, Police Station Jhunsi, Allahabad and Raju seeking direction to lodge F.I.R. in the matter for the offence under Sections 395, 397, 436, 323, 504, 506, 364 I.P.C. alleging inter alia that Mohan Lal Yadav of her village was murdered by some unknown persons on 29.06.2005 in the morning. Angered by this murder, deceased's brother Moolchandra Yadav, Smt. Vijma Yadav (MLA), Raju Yadav, Gyan Chandra Yadav, Amar Singh Yadav, Ashok Nishad, Loha Singh, Jabar Singh, Raju, Lal Chand and 10-20 unknown persons barged into her house and started beating women, children and her brother-in-laws Raj Kumar and Awadhesh. Raj Kumar and Awadhesh got scared and ran away from the village. Then on the exhortation of Smt. Vijma Yadav, MLA, Moolchandra and other accused persons looted the ornaments, clothes and licensed rifles and cartridges of her brother-in-law Raj Kumar Yadav and her husband Ashok Kumar Yadav kept in house and set the house on fire, as a result thereof about 140 bags of grains and household items kept in the house were burnt to ashes. The accused persons also burnt the tractor parked in front of her house. It is further alleged in paragraph no. 4 of the application that on the next day, on 30.06.2005 under the leadership of Smt. Vijma Yadav, MLA, again Moolchandra Yadav, Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav (revisionist), Gyan Chandra Yadav, Jabar Singh, Amar Singh, Raju Yadav, Raju son of Tulsiram, Ashok Nishad, Lalchand and 15-20 persons came and opened fire with the rifles which they had looted from her house and weapons they had brought with them and barged into her house by breaking the doors and started beating her and her children. When she protested, then Vijma Yadav, MLA exhorted the persons who had come with her to set the house on fire and she herself by pouring kerosene set the bed on fire and started pushing the children towards fire. When she protested, then Padmakar Rai-Sub-Inspector, Police Station Jhunsi, Allahabad, who was present at the spot after beating and abusing her directed the constables to put her on police vehicle. Thereafter constables took her to the police station. In the police station also she was beaten. Her tent house and home were set on fire. In the application, it is also stated that police of concerned police station is not taking any action against the accused persons under the pressure and in collusion with Smt. Vijma Yadav (local MLA).

3.2-Learned Magistrate, vide order dated 03.08.2005 instead of directing to lodge F.I.R. in the matter treated the said application dated 08.07.2005 as a complaint and after recording statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. of complainant on 12.08.2005 and statements under Section 202 Cr.P.C. of prosecution witnesses namely, Shiv Narayan (PW-1) on 27.09.2005, Awadhesh Yadav (PW-2) on 27.09.2005, Ram Bachcha (PW-3) on 12.04.2006, Shivmurat alias Rajjan (PW-4) on 12.04.2006, Ayodhya Prasad (PW-5) on 21.04.2006, Prakash Giri (PW-6) on 21.04.2006, Pramod Kumar (PW-7) on 21.04.2006 and Ajeet Kumar (PW-8) on 21.04.2006, summoned all the aforesaid accused persons vide order dated 29.06.2006 to face trial except the revisionist-Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav, who is presently "Block Pramukh" from block Bahadurpur, Prayagraj.

3.3-Accused persons had preferred the Criminal Misc. Applications under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Nos. 7761 of 2007, 2469 of 2007, 2667 of 2007 and 38646 of 2017 which were decided by common judgement and order dated 23.02.2018 by the coordinate Bench of this Court, whereby prayer for quashing the criminal proceeding, summoning order and issuance of bailable and non-bailable warrants against the accused persons were refused and trial court was directed to conclude the trial expeditiously, preferably within the period of eight months.

3.4-Thereafter, charges were framed against the accused persons on 13.10.2019 and statement of complainant and witnesses, namely, Shashi Devi, Awadesh Yadav and Shiv Narayan were recorded before the trial court as PW1, PW-2 and PW-3 on 09.12.2019, 29.09.2022 and 29.05.2023 respectively, in which, they have supported the prosecution case and made allegations against the present revisionist-Arunenedra @ Daddu Yadav also along with other accused persons. Relevant part of their statements in respect of role of the revisionist-Arunenedra @

Daddu Yadav regarding the incident dated 30.06.2005 are as under:-

(i) Statement of complainant-Shashi Devi, PW-1.

"दि०30/06/05 को उपरोक्त सभी अभि०गण, व लूटी हुई रायफल अरूणेन्द्र उर्फ डब्बू यादव और मूलचन्द्र यादव लेकर आये और उस्तापुर वाले घर में ट्रैक्टर, इस्टीम कार, टेन्ट हाउस के सामान रजाई, गद्दा, कुर्सी आदि, पर अपने साथ लायें मिट्टी के तेल छिड़ककर आग लगा दियें, मेरी भाभी ने जब विरोध किया तो विजमा यादव बाल पकड़कर उनकों मारने-पीटने लगी। विजमा यादव ने कहा कि सब लोगों को बच्चों सहित आग में डालकर जला दों। मैने जब बचाने को प्रयास किया तो मूलचन्द्र, अरूणेन्द्र उर्फ डब्बू यादव द्वारा बाहर से फायर किया गया। दि०30/06/2005 को विजमा यादव के साथ पदमाकर एस०ओ० झूंसी भी साथ में थे, जब विजय यादव मार-पीट ली, तो भाभी शशि देवी को पदमाकर राय ने अपनी सरकारी जीप में बैठा लिया और 30/06/05 से 06/07/2005 तक भाभी को थाने पर रखे थे, जब हम लोग थाने पर जाते थे तो पदमाकर राय दौड़ाकर मारते थे और गाली-गुप्ता देते थे। जब मेरी भाभी छूटकर दि०06/07/2005 को आई तो उन्होंने बताया कि पदमाकर मारते-पीटते और प्रताड़ित करते थे। विजमा यादव के कहने पर पदमाकर राय थाने पर भाभी को गाली देता था व प्रताड़ित करता था।"

3.5-On 01.09.2023 statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of the accused persons were recorded and after completion of defence evidence and final argument, date was fixed for delivery of judgement on 18.10.2023. In the meantime before delivery of judgement, the complainant /opposite party no. 2 moved an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. dated 17.10.2023 for summoning the revisionist-Arunenedra @ Daddu Yadav to face trial. The said application of the complainant has been allowed by the trial court vide order dated 31.10.2023 and summoned the revisionist Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav as an additional accused to face trial under Section 307/149, 436/149 and 323/149 I.P.C., which is the subject matter of challenge in the present Criminal Revision.

4-The main substratum of argument of learned counsel for the revisionist is that on 29.06.2005 revisionist's father was murdered, regarding which Moolchandra Yadav (uncle of the revisionist) lodged F.I.R. against Ashok Yadav (husband of complainant), Raju Yadav, Chottan Giri and Ramesh Chandra Yadav, therefore a false complaint has been filed by the complainant. Much emphasis has been given by contending that though in paragraph No. 4 of the complaint, allegation against the revisionist Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav has been levelled with regard to the incident dated 30.06.2005, but he was not included as an accused in array of the parties and he was not summoned under Section 204 Cr.P.C. The complainant at that time did not file any petition regarding non summoning of the revisionist along with other accused persons. It is next argued that complainant with ulterior motive has moved an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. at the fag end of the trial on 17.10.203, a day before the delivery of judgement, which was not maintainable. It is also argued that on the basis of statements of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 given before the trial court, revisionist cannot be convicted, hence the same is not sufficient to summon the revisionist under Section 319 of Cr.P.C. The learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge wrongly and illegally entertained the said application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. of the complainant and without applying judicial mind and without giving finding as to whether revisionist can be convicted on the material evidence (statements of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3) or not, allowed the said application and summoned the revisionist in exercise of powers under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial vide impugned order dated vide order dated 31.10.2023, which is liable to be set aside.

5-On the other hand, learned A.G.A. for the State and learned counsel appearing on behalf of complainant/opposite party no. 2 vehemently opposed the prayer made on behalf of the revisionist by contending that name of the revisionist Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav and allegation against him with regard to the incident dated 30.06.2005 are mentioned in paragraph no. 4 of the complaint itself, but due to omission, his name was not mentioned at first page of the complaint in the list of accused. The complainant and witnesses in their statements under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. have also made allegation against the revisionist. Much emphasis has been given by contending that before the trial court also the complainant and witnesses who have been examined as PW-1, PW-2 and PW3 have made allegation against the revisionist by stating inter-alia that on the next day on 30.06.2005, in morning, they came to their house in Mahmudabad. When accused persons came to know it, they also came there. Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav was armed with rifle of complainant's brother-in-law and Moolchandra was armed with rifle of complainant's husband which were looted by the accused persons on 29.06.2005 and fired on the exhortation of accused Vijama Yadav (the then M.L.A.). Learned A.G.A. for the State referring the statements of PW1, PW2 and PW3, also argued that from their statements active involvement of revisionist in the incident dated 30.6.2005 is apparent on record and as such much more than prima facie case is made out against the revisionist, which is sufficient to frame charge against him.

6-Before adverting to the claim of the parties, it would be useful to quote Section 319 Cr.P.C.

"319. Power to proceed against other persons appearing to be guilty of offence.

(1) Where, in the course of any inquiry into, or trial of, an offence, it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence for which such person could be tried together with the accused, the Court may proceed against such person for the offence which he appears to have committed.

(2) Where such person is not attending the Court, he may be arrested or summoned, as the circumstances of the case may require, for the purpose aforesaid.

(3) Any person attending the Court, although not under arrest or upon a summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of the inquiry into, or trial of, the offence which he appears to have committed.

(4) Where the Court proceeds against any person under sub- section (1), then-

(a) the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced a fresh, and the witnesses re- heard;

(b) subject to the provisions of clause (a), the case may proceed as if such person had been an accused person when the Court took cognizance of the offence upon which the inquiry or trial was commenced."

7-From the perusal of Section 319 Cr.P.C., it is clear that it is the duty of the Court to see that no accused is left unpunished.

8-The moot question involved in the present case is as to whether application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. of the complainant which was filed before delivery of judgement was maintainable or not and what would be degree of satisfaction for invoking the provisions of Section 319 Cr.P.C.

9-So far as the first issue regarding the maintainability of application dated 17.10.2023 under Section 319 Cr.P.C. is concerned, it would be appropriate to refer the Constitutional Bench judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sukhpal Singh Khaira Versus State of Punjab, (2023) 1 SCC 289, in which the Hon'ble Apex Court after wholesome treatment interpreting the word and phrases "Trial", "Conclusion of trial'' and "Trial when concluded" has settled the issue about the stage(s) of the proceeding at which power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. may be invoked. The relevant paragraphs of the said judgement are as follows:-

"Para no. 23- A close perusal of Section 319 of CrPC indicates that the power bestowed on the court to summon any person who is not an accused in the case is, when in the course of the trial it appears from the evidence that such person has a role in committing the offence. Therefore, it would be open for the Court to summon such a person so that he could be tried together with the accused and such power is exclusively of the Court. Obviously, when such power is to summon the additional accused and try such a person with the already charged accused against whom the trial is proceeding, it will have to be exercised before the conclusion of trial. The connotation 'conclusion of trial' in the present case cannot be reckoned as the stage till the evidence is recorded, but, is to be understood as the stage before pronouncement of the judgment as already held in Hardeep Singh (supra) since on judgment being pronounced the trial comes to a conclusion since until such time the accused is being tried by the Court.

Para no. 33- In that view of the matter, if the Court finds from the evidence recorded in the process of trial that any other person is involved, such power to summon the accused under Section 319 of CrPC can be exercised by passing an order to that effect before the sentence is imposed and the judgment is complete in all respects bringing the trial to a conclusion. While arriving at such conclusion what is also to be kept in view is the requirement of sub-section (4) to Section 319 of CrPC. From the said provision it is clear that if the learned Sessions Judge exercises the power to summon the additional accused, the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh and the witnesses will have to be re-examined in the presence of the additional accused. In a case where the learned Sessions Judge exercises the power under Section 319 of CrPC after recording the evidence of the witnesses or after pronouncing the judgement of conviction but before sentence being imposed, the very same evidence which is available on record cannot be used against the newly added accused in view of Section 273 of CrPC. As against the accused who has been summoned subsequently a fresh trial is to be held. However while considering the application under Section 319 of CrPC, if the decision by the learned Sessions Judge is to summon the additional accused before passing the judgement of conviction or passing an order on sentence, the conclusion of the trial by pronouncing the judgement is required to be withheld and the application under Section 319 of CrPC is required to be disposed of and only then the conclusion of the judgement, either to convict the other accused who were before the Court and to sentence them can be proceeded with. This is so since the power under Section 319 of CrPC can be exercised only before the conclusion of the trial by passing the judgement of conviction and sentence.

Para no. 34- Though Section 319 of CrPC provides that such person summoned as per sub-section (1) thereto could be jointly tried together with the other accused, keeping in view the power available to the Court under Section 223 of CrPC to hold a joint trial, it would also be open to the learned Sessions Judge at the point of considering the application under Section 319 of CrPC and deciding to summon the additional accused, to also take a decision as to whether a joint trial is to be held after summoning such accused by deferring the judgement being passed against the tried accused. If a conclusion is reached that the fresh trial to be conducted against the newly added accused could be separately tried, in such event it would be open for the learned Sessions Judge to order so and proceed to pass the judgment and conclude the trial insofar as the accused against whom it had originally proceeded and thereafter proceed in the case of the newly added accused. However, what is important is that the decision to summon an additional accused either suo-moto by the Court or on an application under Section 319 of CrPC shall in all eventuality be considered and disposed of before the judgement of conviction and sentence is pronounced, as otherwise, the trial would get concluded and the Court will get divested of the power under Section 319 of CrPC. Since a power is available to the Court to decide as to whether a joint trial is required to be held or not, this Court was justified in holding the phrase, "could be tried together with the accused" as contained in Section 319(1) of CrPC, to be directory as held in Shashikant Singh (supra) which in our opinion is the correct view.

Para no. 38- For all the reasons stated above, we answer the questions referred as hereunder.

Para no. 39.(I)- Whether the trial court has the power under Section 319 of CrPC for summoning additional accused when the trial with respect to other co-accused has ended and the judgment of conviction rendered on the same date before pronouncing the summoning order?

The power under Section 319 of CrPC is to be invoked and exercised before the pronouncement of the order of sentence where there is a judgment of conviction of the accused. In the case of acquittal, the power should be exercised before the order of acquittal is pronounced. Hence, the summoning order has to precede the conclusion of trial by imposition of sentence in the case of conviction. If the order is passed on the same day, it will have to be examined on the facts and circumstances of each case and if such summoning order is passed either after the order of acquittal or imposing sentence in the case of conviction, the same will not be sustainable.

Para no. 40 (II)- Whether the trial court has the power under Section 319 of the CrPC for summoning additional accused when the trial in respect of certain other absconding accused (whose presence is subsequently secured) is ongoing/pending, having been bifurcated from the main trial?

The trial court has the power to summon additional accused when the trial is proceeded in respect of the absconding accused after securing his presence, subject to the evidence recorded in the split up (bifurcated) trial pointing to the involvement of the accused sought to be summoned. But the evidence recorded in the main concluded trial cannot be the basis of the summoning order if such power has not been exercised in the main trial till its conclusion.

Para no. 41.(III)- What are the guidelines that the competent court must follow while exercising power under Section 319 CrPC?"

Para no. 41.1- If the competent court finds evidence or if application under Section 319 of CrPC is filed regarding involvement of any other person in committing the offence based on evidence recorded at any stage in the trial before passing of the order on acquittal or sentence, it shall pause the trial at that stage.

Para no. 41.2- The Court shall thereupon first decide the need or otherwise to summon the additional accused and pass orders thereon.

Para no. 41.3- If the decision of the court is to exercise the power under Section 319 of CrPC and summon the accused, such summoning order shall be passed before proceeding further with the trial in the main case.

Para no. 41.4- If the summoning order of additional accused is passed, depending on the stage at which it is passed, the Court shall also apply its mind to the fact as to whether such summoned accused is to be tried along with the other accused or separately.

Para no. 41.5- If the decision is for joint trial, the fresh trial shall be commenced only after securing the presence of the summoned accused.

Para no. 41.6- If the decision is that the summoned accused can be tried separately, on such order being made, there will be no impediment for the Court to continue and conclude the trial against the accused who were being proceeded with.

Para no. 41.7- If the proceeding paused as in (i) above is in a case where the accused who were tried are to be acquitted and the decision is that the summoned accused can be tried afresh separately, there will be no impediment to pass the judgment of acquittal in the main case.

Para no. 41.8- If the power is not invoked or exercised in the main trial till its conclusion and if there is a split-up (bifurcated) case, the power under Section 319 of Cr.P.C can be invoked or exercised only if there is evidence to that effect, pointing to the involvement of the additional accused to be summoned in the split up (bifurcated) trial.

Para no. 41.9- If, after arguments are heard and the case is reserved for judgment the occasion arises for the Court to invoke and exercise the power under Section 319 of CrPC, the appropriate course for the court is to set it down for re-hearing.

Para no. 41.10- On setting it down for re-hearing, the above laid down procedure to decide about summoning; holding of joint trial or otherwise shall be decided and proceeded with accordingly.

Para no. 41.11- Even in such a case, at that stage, if the decision is to summon additional accused and hold a joint trial the trial shall be conducted afresh and de novo proceedings be held.

Para no. 41.12- If, in that circumstance, the decision is to hold a separate trial in case of the summoned accused as indicated earlier;

(a) The main case may be decided by pronouncing the conviction and sentence and then proceed afresh against summoned accused.

(b) In the case of acquittal the order shall be passed to that effect in the main case and then proceed afresh against summoned accused."

10-In the case in hand, admittedly the application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. was moved before the judgement was delivered/pronounced by the trial Court, hence in the light of principles laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sukhpal Singh Khaira (Supra), this Court is of the view that application dated 17.10.2023 under Section 319 Cr.P.C. of the complainant was maintainable and same has been rightly entertained and considered by the trial Court.

11-So far as second issue regarding parameters / degree of satisfaction for invoking the provisions of Section 319 Cr.P.C. is concerned, it would be useful to refer following judgements of the Hon'ble Apex Court, wherein this issue has specifically dealt with.

11.1-The Constitutional Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Hardeep Singh Versus State of Punjab,(2014) 3 SCC 92, has framed five questions, out of which question no. IV which is relevant for the purpose of this case is as under:-

Question (iv) What is the nature of the satisfaction required to invoke the power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to arraign an accused?

Whether the power under Section 319 (1) Cr.P.C. can be exercised only if the court is satisfied that the accused summoned will in all likelihood be convicted?

Aforesaid questions have been answered in the following terms:-

Para No. 117.5. Though under Section 319(4)(b) Cr.P.C. the accused subsequently impleaded is to be treated as if he had been an accused when the Court initially took cognizance of the offence, the degree of satisfaction that will be required for summoning a person under Section 319 Cr.P.C. would be the same as for framing a charge. The difference in the degree of satisfaction for summoning the original accused and a subsequent accused is on account of the fact that the trial may have already commenced against the original accused and it is in the course of such trial that materials are disclosed against the newly summoned accused. Fresh summoning of an accused will result in delay of the trial, therefore the degree of satisfaction for summoning the accused (original and subsequent) has to be different."

11.2-The Division Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vikas Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2014) 3 SCC 321, has held that on the objective satisfaction of the court a person may be 'arrested' or 'summoned', as the circumstances of the case may require, if it appears from the evidence that any such person not being the accused has committed an offence for which such person could be tried together with the already arraigned accused persons.

11.3-While dealing with the duty and power of the Court under Section 319 Cr.P.C., Hon'ble Supreme Court in Brijendra Singh and others Vs. State of Rajasthan, 2017(7) SCC 706, has held as under:

"It is the duty of the court to do justice by punishing the real culprit. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The question remains under what circumstances and at what stage should the court exercise its power as contemplated in Section 319 Cr.P.C."

"The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence." It also goes without saying that Section 319 Cr.P.C., which is an enabling provision empowering the Court to take appropriate steps for proceeding against any person, not being an accused, can be exercised at any time after the charge-sheet is filed and before the pronouncement of the judgment, except during the stage of Section 207/208 Cr.P.C., the committal etc., which is only a pre- trial stage intended to put the process into motion."

11.4-The aforesaid principles have further been followed by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the cases of Periyasami and others Vs. S. Nallasamy; 2019 (4) SCC 342, Sugreev Kumar vs. State of Punjab and others; AIR 2019 SC 2903, Shiv Prakash Mishra vs. State of Uttar Pradesh; 2019 (7) SCC 806 and Mani Pushpak Joshi vs. State of Uttrakhand and another; AIR 2019 SC 5263.

12-Here it would also be relevant to mention that each case must be decided on its own facts and merit. Even one additional or different fact may make big difference between the conclusion in two cases, because even a single significant detail may alter the entire aspect.

13-So far as F.I.R. dated 29.06.2005 lodged by Moolchandra (uncle of the revisionist) regarding murder of revisionist's father against Ashok Yadav (husband of complainant), Raju Yadav, Chottan Giri and Ramesh Chandra Yadav is concerned, I find that they have been acquitted by the judgement and order dated 23.09.2010 of the trial court passed in Sessions Trial No. 338/2006, 489/2006 and 340/2006, but Moolchandra who was informant/complainant in that case did not prefer any appeal against the aforesaid judgement of acquittal and order dated 23.09.2010. Smt. Padmavati Devi, who is mother of the revisionist had preferred Criminal Appeal u/s 372 Cr.P.C. along with Criminal Misc. Application Defective U/s 372 Cr.P.C. (Leave to Appeal) No. 58 of 2017 after 2354 days on 27.05.2017, which has been dismissed as time barred by the Division Bench of this Court vide order dated 23.01.2019.

14-Having heard the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and examined the record in its entirety, I find that:-

14.1- The complainant in her application under section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. made allegation that since one of the accused-Vijma Yadav was sitting MLA at the time of incident and co-accused Padmakar Rai, Sub-Inspector at that time was posted in Police Station-Jhunsi, Allahabad, therefore, on the influence of Vijma Yadav, the then local sitting MLA, who is one of the accused in the present case, her FIR was not lodged with regard to incident dated 29.06.2005 and 30.6.2005. Under the circumstances, she filed application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. dated 08.07.2005 seeking direction to lodge F.I.R. in the matter for the offence under Sections 395, 397, 436, 323, 504, 506, 364 I.P.C., but the said application was treated as complaint, as such no police investigation was done in the matter.

14.2-Regarding the second incident dated 30.06.2005, allegation has been levelled against the revisionist-Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav in paragraph no. 4 of the complaint, statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. of the complainant and statements of witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C. alleging inter-alia that on the next day, i.e. 30.06.2005 under the leadership of Smt. Vijma Yadav MLA, again Moolchandra Yadav, Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav (revisionist), Gyan Chandra Yadav, Jabar Singh, Amar Singh, Raju Yadav, Raju son of Tulsiram, Ashok Nishad, Lalchand and 15-20 persons came and opened fire with the rifles which they had looted from her house and the weapons, which they had brought with them and barged into her house by breaking the doors and started beating her as well as her children.

14.3-When statement of complainant (Shashi Devi) and witnesses namely, Shiv Narayan and Awadesh Yadav were recorded before the trial court as PW1, PW-2 and PW-3 they have made same allegation against the revisionist, as noted above in preceding paragraph no. 3.4.

14.4-Considering the facts, materials on record as well as statements of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3, as mentioned above in paragraph no. 3.4, with regard to second incident dated 30.06.2005, I find that the role attributed to the revisionist-

Arunendra @ Daddu Yadav is similar to role of accused Moolchandra Yadav who is already facing trial. Hence, this Court is of the view that the evidence which has come on record against the revisionist are much more than prima facie and are sufficient to proceed against the revisionist in exercise of power under Section 319 Cr.P.C. and for framing of charge.

15-In view of above, it can safely be held that the learned Additional Sessions Judge while passing the impugned order dated 31.10.2023 was fully satisfied that there are strong and cogent evidence against the revisionist which is sufficient for framing of charge and has not passed the order in a casual manner.

16-The order passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge is in consonance with the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sukhpal Singh Khaira and Hardeep Singh (Supra) and it cannot be said that the order of the learned Additional Sessions Judge is in the teeth of the order of Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to above.

17-In view of what has been indicated herein above, I do not find any illegality or irregularity in the order date 31.10.2023 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge MP/MLA Court, Prayagraj summoning the revisionist under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to face the trial under Sections 147, 148, 302/149, 323/149, 504 and 506 IPC along with other accused.

18-The Criminal Revision is bereft of merit. It is accordingly rejected.

Arbitration Law – Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 – Sections 11(6), 11(8) & 12 – Fifth Schedule - Item 24 – Appointment of Arbitrator – Applicant sought appointment of arbitrator under Section 11(6) for disputes arising from three agreements dated 30.06.2017 with respondent – Held, respondent's objection to proposed arbitrator (Hon'ble Mr. Justice VSC. Gupta) based on Item 24 of Fifth Schedule (arbitrator serving in another arbitration involving respondent within past three years) untenable – Item 24 requires the other arbitration to involve a related issue or arbitrator's affiliation with a party, neither established by respondent – HRD Corporation Vs GAIL (India) Limited followed, clarifying that Item 24 disqualification is not absolute and requires specific relationship or involvement, absent here – No evidence of arbitrator's lack of independence or impartiality – Hon'ble Mr. Justice VSC. Gupta appointed as arbitrator, respondent granted liberty to raise objections before arbitrator if legally permissible – Application disposed of. (Para 11-18)

Application disposed of.

List of Cases Cited:

1. HRD Corporation (Marcus Oil and Chemical Division) Vs GAIL (India) Limited; (2018) 12 SCC 471

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Syed Tamjeed Ahmad, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Puneet Chandra, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. This Court, by means of the order dated 07.02.2023, proposed the name of Hon'ble Mr. Justice V.C.Gupta(Former Judge of this Court) as Arbitrator to settle the dispute between the parties. The order dated 07.02.2023, on reproduction, reads as under:-

"Heard Sri Awaneesh Yadav learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Puneet Chandra learned counsel for the respondent.

This Court has passed following order on 12.12.2023:-

"Heard Shri Syed Tamjeet Ahmad, learned counsel for the petitioner. Shri Puneet Chandra, learned counsel has accepted notice on behalf of the respondent.

The instant petition has been preferred under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 for seeking appointment of a sole Arbitrator.

The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that three separate agreements were entered between the parties. All the three agreements between the parties are dated 30.06.2017. Each of the agreement has an identical arbitration clause.

It is further urged that the first agreement relates to supply of equipment and material for construction of 400kV Sub Station at Jaunpur. The second agreement of the same date relates to the erection, testing, commissioning, operation and maintenance for two years of 400kV Sub Station at Jaunpur whereas the third agreement relates to civil works for construction of 400kV Sub Station at Jaunpur. Accordingly, it is submitted that all the three contracts are part of one composite project which was to be completed by the petitioner under the three separate heads.

It is further urged that during the course of subsistence of the agreements, certain disputes arose between the parties and the petitioner by means of its notice dated 27.09.2023 by making a reference to all the three contracts invoked the arbitration clause.

It is further submitted that as per Clause 38 of the agreement which contained an arbitration clause it provided that any dispute arose between the parties was to be referred to the Chairman of the respondent Corporation, however, in light of the provisions contained in Section 12(5) of the Act of 1996 duly amended in the year 2015 it is now not open for the respondent to either arbitrate or nominate an arbitrator.

In the given circumstances, the petitioner had requested the respondent to cooperate in an early constitution of Arbitral Tribunal, however, despite the notice dated 27.09.2023 having been served on the respondent, there was no response, hence, the petition.

Shri Puneet Chandra, learned counsel for the respondent on the other hand submitted that though he requires time to file his response as he wishes to raise a preliminary objection to the effect that since there are three separate agreements which have given rise to three separate cause of action, hence, one single petition raising the disputes as well as one composite notice dated 27.09.2023 both are not valid, apart from the fact that the agreements also provide for the jurisdiction at Allahabad.

Let the response be filed by the respondent within two weeks from today with an advance copy to the learned counsel for the petitioner, who if may so choose, may file his response within one week thereafter.

Since, the respondent Corporation is represented through its counsel, hence, no fresh notice is required.

List this matter on 12.01.2024. "

Learned counsel for the respondent, on the basis of instructions submits that respondent does not want to file any objection and since there is dispute, therefore, Arbitrator may be appointed.

Having considered the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties there appears to be some arbitral dispute between the parties and if the same is resolved through Arbitrator appointed by this Court in terms of Clause 25 of Section 8 of the agreement none of the parties are going to be prejudiced.

Accordingly the Court proposes to appoint Hon'ble Mr.Justice V.C.Gupta, House No.D-862, Omex City, Raebareli Road, Lucknow (U.P.) Mobile No.8004928897 as Arbitrator to settle the dispute between the parties.

Let a copy of the pleadings on record alongwith the relevant provisions of the amending Act 2015 be sent to Hon'ble Mr.Justice V.C.Gupta, House No.D-862, Omex City, Raebareli Road, Lucknow (U.P.) Mobile No.8004928897 for eliciting his disclosure in terms of Section 11(8) read with Section 12(1) of the Act, 1996 and Schedule VI and VII as amended by Act 2015, appended thereto, as also his consent for appointment as an Arbitrator for resolving the dispute.

Learned counsel for the applicant shall supply an additional copy of the application to the office for the said purpose within a week.

List after receipt of reply/consent."

3. In deference to the aforesaid order, Hon'ble Mr. Justice V.C.Gupta(Former Judge of this Court) has sent his consent through letter dated 19.02.2024 in accordance with law.

4. Learned counsel for the respondent submits that since Hon'ble Mr. Justice V.C. Gupta(Former Judge of this Court) is conducting an arbitration between the respondent-U.P. Power Transmission Corporation Ltd. and SEW Infrastructure Ltd. after being appointed as an arbitrator by means of the order dated 27.09.2023 by this Court in Civil Misc. Arbitration Application No.40 of 2023 and he has also issued notices on 11.10.2023,therefore, as per Item 24 of the Fifth Schedule of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act,1996(here-in-after referred to as the Act of 1996), he may not be appointed as an arbitrator as it gives rise to justifiable doubts as to his independence or impartiality. He relies on HRD Corporation (Marcus Oil and Chemical Division) Versus GAIL(India) Limited; (2018)12 SCC 471.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the applicant submits that contention of learned counsel for the respondent is mis-conceived and not tenable for the reason that he has failed to indicate that the proposed arbitrator was or is related in any manner with one of the parties on the issue involved in this case in the other arbitration or he is affiliate of one of the parties. He further submits that he has no objection in appointment of the proposed arbitrator.

6. I considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records.

7. Section 11 of the Act of 1996 provides the appointment of arbitrators. Sub-section (6) of Section 11 of the Act of 1996 provides the appointment of the arbitrator by the High Court, in case the parties fails to act as required under the procedure of appointment agreed upon by the parties. Sub-section (8) of Section 11 provides that the arbitral institution referred to in sub-sections (4), (5) and (6) before appointing the arbitrator, shall seek a disclosure in writing from the prospective arbitrator in terms of sub-section (1) of section 12. Sub-section (8) of Section 11 is extracted hereinbelow:-

(8) The Supreme Court or, as the case may be, the High Court or the person or institution designated by such Court, before appointing an arbitrator, shall seek a disclosure in writing from the prospective arbitrator in terms of sub-section (1) of section 12, and have due regard to—

(a) any qualifications required for the arbitrator by the agreement of the parties; and

(b) the contents of the disclosure and other considerations as are likely to secure the appointment of an independent and impartial arbitrator.]"

8. Section 12 of the Act of 1996 provides that the proposed arbitrator shall disclose in writing any circumstances as disclosed therein with reference to Fifth Schedule of the Act of 1996 in regard to his independence and impartiality etc. Section 12 is extracted herein-below:-

12. Grounds for challenge.

[(1) When a person is approached in connection with his possible appointment as an arbitrator, he shall disclose in writing any circumstances,

(a) such as the existence either direct or indirect, of any past or present relationship with or interest in any of the parties or in relation to the subject-matter in dispute, whether financial, business, professional or other kind, which is likely to give rise to justifiable doubts as to his independence or impartiality;

(b) which are likely to affect his ability to devote sufficient time to the arbitration and in particular his ability to complete the entire arbitration within a period of twelve months.

Explanation 1.—The grounds stated in the Fifth Schedule shall guide in determining whether circumstances exist which give rise to justifiable doubts as to the independence or impartiality of an arbitrator.

Explanation 2.—The disclosure shall be made by such person in the form specified in the Sixth Schedule.]

(3) An arbitrator may be challenged only if—

(a) circumstances exist that give rise to justifiable doubts as to his independence or impartiality, or

(b) he does not possess the qualifications agreed to by the parties.

(4) A party may challenge an arbitrator appointed by him, or in whose appointment he has participated, only for reasons of which he becomes aware after the appointment has been made.

[(5) Notwithstanding any prior agreement to the contrary, any person whose relationship, with the parties or counsel or the subject-matter of the dispute, falls under any of the categories specified in the Seventh Schedule shall be ineligible to be appointed as an arbitrator:

Provided that parties may, subsequent to disputes having arisen between them, waive the applicability of this sub-section by an express agreement in writing.]

9. The Fifth Schedule of the Act of 1996 provides the grounds which give rise to justifiable doubts as to the independence or impartiality of arbitrators.

10. Item No.24 of the Fifth Schedule of the Act of 1996, on the basis of which, objection has been raised by learned counsel for the respondent for appointment of the proposed arbitrator is extracted herein-below;

"24. The arbitrator currently serves, or has served within the past three years, as arbitrator in another arbitration on a related issue involving one of the parties or an affiliate of one of the parties."

11. In view of the aforesaid Item 24 of Fifth Schedule, doubt in regard to the independence or impartiality of an arbitrator can be raised if an arbitrator currently serves or has served within the past three years, as arbitrator in another arbitration on a related issued involving one of the parties or he is an affiliate of one of the parties. Therefore if an arbitrator is currently serving or has served in the past three years as an arbitrator on the related issue involving one of the parties, on which the arbitration is to be held in the present case or if he is affiliate to one of the parties, it may be a ground to give rise to his independence or impartiality. Thus it cannot be conclusive ground of doubt of his independence or impartiality.

12. Item No.1 to14 and 30 and 31 of the Fifth Schedule of the Act of 1996 provides the grounds which may give rise to justifiable doubts of independence or impartiality of arbitrator on the ground of his relationship with the parties or counsel. Item No.15 and 16 of the Fifth Schedule provides that the arbitrator can be said to be related to the dispute if he has given legal advise or provided an expert opinion on the dispute to a party or an affiliate of one of the parties or he has previous involvement in the case. The circumstances have been given in Item No.1 to 14 and 30 and 31 of the Fifth Schedule in which the arbitrator can be said to be affiliate to one of the parties, such as, if he is an employee, consultant, advisor or has any other past or present business relationship with a party or currently he represents or advises one of the parties or an affiliate of one of the parties etc.

13. Learned counsel for the respondent has failed to indicate any such circumstance, in terms of the aforesaid provisions, on account of which it may be said that the proposed arbitrator is serving as an arbitrator on a related issue with one of the parties i.e. the respondent Corporation in the other arbitration or he is his affiliate. It is also very strange that objection has been raised by learned counsel for the respondent on the basis of Item No.24 without disclosing relationship of respondent corporation with the proposed arbitrator except that he is arbitrator in the other arbitration, which may be a disqualification for appointment of the proposed arbitrator in the present matter.

14. In view of above, without disclosing as to how he can say that the arbitrator is related to the issue with one of the parties in the other arbitration, in which the respondent corporation itself is a party, when he fairly admits, on a query being put to him, that the other arbitration is on separate issue or as to how the proposed arbitrator is an affiliate of the respondent-corporation, without disclosing the relationship, in terms of the Fifth Schedule of the Act of 1996, the contention of learned counsel for the respondent is misconceived and not tenable.

"24. On reading the aforesaid guideline and reading the heading which appears with Item 16, namely "Relationship of the arbitrator to the dispute", it is obvious that the arbitrator has to have a previous involvement in the very dispute contained in the present arbitration. Admittedly, Justice Doabia has no such involvement. Further, Item 16 must be read along with Items 22 and 24 of the Fifth Schedule. The disqualification contained in Items 22 and 24 is not absolute, as an arbitrator who has, within the past three years, been appointed as arbitrator on two or more occasions by one of the parties or an affiliate, may yet not be disqualified on his showing that he was independent and impartial on the earlier two occasions. Also, if he currently serves or has served within the past three years as arbitrator in another arbitration on a related issue, he may be disqualified under Item 24, which must then be contrasted with Item 16. Item 16 cannot be read as including previous involvements in another arbitration on a related issue involving one of the parties as otherwise Item 24 will be rendered largely ineffective. It must not be forgotten that Item 16 also appears in the Fifth Schedule and has, therefore, to be harmoniously read with Item 24. It has also been argued by learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent that the expression "the arbitrator" in Item 16 cannot possibly mean "the arbitrator" acting as an arbitrator, but must mean that the proposed arbitrator is a person who has had previous involvement in the case in some other avatar. According to us, this is a sound argument as "the arbitrator" refers to the proposed arbitrator. This becomes clear, when contrasted with Items 22 and 24, where the arbitrator must have served "as arbitrator" before he can be disqualified. Obviously, Item 16 refers to previous involvement in an advisory or other capacity in the very dispute, but not as arbitrator. It 32 was also faintly argued that Justice Doabia was ineligible under Items 1 and 15. Appointment as an arbitrator is not a "business relationship" with the respondent under Item 1. Nor is the delivery of an award providing an expert "opinion" i.e. advice to a party covered by Item 15".

16. In view of above and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the objection raised by learned counsel for the respondent is totally misconceived and not tenable and liable to be repelled, which is accordingly repelled.

17. At this stage, learned counsel for the respondent submits that he may be granted liberty to raise the issue before the arbitrator, for which no liberty is required and if he is entitled to raise objection in accordance with law and advised so, he may raise and the same may be considered by the arbitrator in accordance with law.

18. In view of above, Hon'ble Mr.Justice V.C.Gupta(Former Judge of this Court), House No.D-862, Omex City, Raebareli Road, Lucknow (U.P.) Mobile No.8004928897, is hereby appointed as an Arbitrator to decide the dispute between the parties herein.

19. The application is, accordingly, disposed of.

20. Let a copy of this order be communicated forthwith to Hon'ble Mr.Justice V.C.Gupta, House No.D-862, Omex City, Raebareli Road, Lucknow (U.P.) Mobile No.8004928897.

Arbitration Law – Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 – Sections 9, 2(1)(e), 2(1)(f) – Commercial Courts Act, 2015 – Sections 4 & 10 – Jurisdiction of Commercial Division – Applicant sought interim relief under Section 9 to restrain respondent from breaching a marketing agreement dated 25.07.2018 – Respondent raised preliminary objection on jurisdiction, arguing Allahabad High Court, lacking ordinary original civil jurisdiction, cannot constitute a Commercial Division – Held, dispute qualifies as international commercial arbitration under Section 2(1)(f) as respondent is a Nepal-based company – Section 10(1) of Commercial Courts Act mandates that applications in international commercial arbitration be heard by Commercial Division of High Court, irrespective of ordinary original civil jurisdiction – Section 4's restriction on Commercial Division to High Courts with ordinary original civil jurisdiction does not limit Section 10's mandate for international commercial arbitration – ITI Limited Vs Alphion Corporation followed, affirming Commercial Division's jurisdiction for such matters – Allahabad High Court's Commercial Division, constituted by Chief Justice, has jurisdiction to hear the application – Preliminary objection rejected, case listed for hearing. (Para 9-27)

Application maintainable, listed for hearing.

List of Cases Cited:

1. ITI Ltd. Vs Alphion Corporation; Commercial Appeal No. 22 of 2022, decided on 25.02.2022 (Karnataka High Court)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pritish Kumar, Advocate assisted by Sri Amal Rastogi for the petitioner and Sri Amrendra Nath Tripathi assisted by Sri Akash Mishra for the respondents.

2. The petitioner has invoked the jurisdiction of this court by filing an application under section 9 of the arbitration and conciliation act, 1996 seeking to restrain the respondents from importing, exporting marketing and selling the Beer manufactured by the respondents in violation of the agreement dated 25/07/2018.

3. On notices being issued, the respondents have put in appearance, and raised preliminary objection with regard to the jurisdiction of this Court to entertain the instant application. It is submitted that a Commercial Division can be constituted only in a High Court having ordinary civil jurisdiction and not otherwise, and the Allahabad High Court which does not have original civil jurisdiction, the Commercial Division could not be constituted, and application therefore can be entertained only by a Bench having jurisdiction to hear appeal from degrees of subordinate courts.

4. Counsel the petitioner, on the other hand, has opposed the preliminary objection raised by the respondents and submitted that the present petition pertains to "International Commercial Arbitration" and the same has to be filed in the High Court as per the provisions contained in section 10 (1) of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015. It has further been submitted that the value of the present dispute is about to ₹ 10 crores which is above the threshold limit of ₹ 3 lakhs as per the provisions contained in section 2(1)(i) of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015 it is a "commercial dispute" as per section 12 of the act of 2015. It was further submitted that Commercial Division of the High Court has been duly constituted by the Chief Justice and consequently this Court, exercising jurisdiction of Commercial Division of the High Court would have jurisdiction to consider an application under section 9 of the Arbitration and Conciliation act, 1996.

5. It was further submitted that this aspect of the matter was duly considered by a bench of the Karnataka High Court in the case of ITI Limited vs Alphion Corporation in Commercial Appeal No. 22 of 2022 which was decided on 25/02/2022 and it was held that in terms of section 10 (1) of the Commercial Courts Act challenge to an international commercial arbitral award would have to be considered by the Commercial Division establishing High Court consisting of a Single Judge, and therefore the present dispute similar provisions will apply, and the application would be cognizible before the Commercial Division of this Court.

6. I heard the counsel the parties and perused the record. Learned counsel for the parties have jointly requested that the preliminary issue be decided at the outset before considering the application on merits.

7. The present dispute has his roots in the memorandum of understanding dated 25/07/2018 entered between the petitioner and the respondent whereby the petitioner company was given exclusive rights of marketing, distribution and sale of beer of certain brands as stated therein. According to the petitioners despite grant of exclusive rights for marketing and distribution of beer, the respondent in violation of the aforesaid agreement have entered into new marketing agreement with different companies. It is in the aforesaid circumstances that application under Section 9 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 has been filed by the petitioner seeking to restrain the respondent.

8. The value of the dispute is more than the specified value of ₹ 3 lakhs, and as per the rejoinder affidavit filed by the petitioner is Rs. 10 crores and therefore it will fall within the definition of 'commercial dispute' as per section 2(1) and 2(ix), (xviii) of the Act of 2015.

9. The matter pertains to International Commercial Arbitration in terms of section 2(1)(f) of the arbitration and conciliation act, 1996 which is reproduced hereinunder: -

(f) "international commercial arbitration" means an arbitration relating to disputes arising out of legal relationships, whether contractual or not, considered as commercial under the law in force in India and where at least one of the parties is— (i) an individual who is a national of, or habitually resident in, any country other than India; or (ii) a body corporate which is incorporated in any country other than India; or (iii) 2 an association or a body of individuals whose central management and control is exercised in any country other than India; or (iv) the Government of a foreign country;"

10. The respondent company has registered office at Sukhanagar-10 Butwal, Nepal i.e outside the territory of Republic of India and, therefore, would come within the purview of section 2 (1) (f) (ii) since one of the parties is a body corporate incorporated in the country other than India.

11. According to clause 8 of the memorandum of understanding dated 28/02/2018 it has been provided that in the event of any dispute between both the parties the matter shall be referred for arbitration as per the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 and the proceedings shall be carried at Lucknow. The seat of arbitration is in Lucknow and therefore in terms of section 2(2) of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 the arbitration proceedings between the parties would fall within the scope of part I of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act of 1996, and any application under section 9 would be heard and decided by the "Court" as per section 2(f) of the Act of 1996 which as is as follows:-

(e) "Court" means— (i) in the case of an arbitration other than International Commercial Arbitration, the Principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a district, and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, but does not include any Civil Court of a grade inferior to such principal Civil Court, or any Court of Small Causes;

(ii) In the case of international commercial arbitration, the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, and in other cases, a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of courts subordinate to that High Court;"

12. A perusal of the aforesaid provision would indicate that in case of international commercial arbitration, the High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from degrees of courts subordinate to that court would have jurisdiction to decide the matter, and as per section 10 (1) of the Commercial Courts Act in an international commercial arbitration all applications arising out of such arbitration shall be heard and decided by the commercial division having been constituted in such High Court.

13. The controversy in the present case has arisen on account of the fact that this Court does not exercise of original civil jurisdiction like the presidency Courts of Bombay, Calcutta, Madras and the High Court of Delhi where the application would be cognizible before a Bench having been assigned the jurisdiction to decide the question forming subject matter of the arbitration if the same had been subject matter of a suit, while in all other cases, the Bench of the High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from degrees of court subordinate to the High Court.

14. Chapter 2 of the commercial Courts act deals with the Constitution of the Commercial Court, Commercial Appellate courts, Commercial Divisions and Commercial Appellate Divisions.

15. With regard to the jurisdiction in respect of arbitration matters particularly international commercial arbitration Section 10 of the Commercial Courts Act provides:-

"10. Jurisdiction in respect of arbitration matters.—Where the subject-matter of an arbitration is a commercial dispute of a Specified Value and—

(1) If such arbitration is an international commercial arbitration, all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration under the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) that have been filed in a High Court, shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted in such High Court."

16. Accordingly, in respect of international commercial arbitration all applications that have been filed in the High Court shall be disposed of by Commercial Division of the High Court, and, therefore, the present case has been listed before this Court. There is no dispute that applications pertaining to International Commercial Arbitration shall be cognizible before the High Court, and more particularly before the Commercial Division which has been constituted by the Chief Justice.

17. Section 4 deals with the Constitution of the Commercial Division of the High Court. Section 4 of Commercial Court Act, 2015 is as under:-

"4. Constitution of Commercial Division of High Court.—(1) In all High Courts, having [ordinary original civil jurisdiction], the Chief Justice of the High Court may, by order, constitute Commercial Division having one or more Benches consisting of a single Judge for the purpose of exercising the jurisdiction and powers conferred on it under this Act.

(2) The Chief Justice of the High Court shall nominate such Judges of the High Court who have experience in dealing with commercial disputes to be Judges of the Commercial Division."

18. Therefore, considering the aforesaid provisions, it is borne out that under the Commercial Courts Act Commercial Courts can be constituted at the District Judge level or court below the District Judge level as per provisions of Section 3 of the Commercial Courts Act by the State Government in consultation with the High Court. Section 3A provides for designation of Commercial Appellate Courts in those States which do not have ordinary original civil jurisdiction at the level of the District Judge.

19. According to section 4 of the Commercial Courts Act, all High Courts having ordinary original civil jurisdiction may constitute Commercial Division Courts consisting of a Single Judge. From a bare reading of the aforesaid provision it is clear that a Commercial Division is sought to be constituted only in those High Courts exercising ordinary original civil jurisdiction.

20. Section 5 of the Commercial Courts Act makes provision for constitution of the commercial appellate division which is as follows:-

"5. Constitution of Commercial Appellate Division.—
(1) After issuing notification under subsection (1) of section 3 or order under sub-section (1) of section 4, the Chief Justice of the concerned High Court shall, by order, constitute Commercial Appellate Division having one or more Division Benches for the purpose of exercising the jurisdiction and powers conferred on it by the Act.

(2) The Chief Justice of the High Court shall nominate such Judges of the High Court who have experience in dealing with commercial disputes to be Judges of the Commercial Appellate Division."

21. According to Section 5 of the Commercial Courts Act the Chief Justice has been empowered to constitute the Commercial Appellate Division. A bare perusal of section 5 would indicate that Commercial Appellate Division has been sought to be constituted in all the High Courts irrespective of whether they exercise ordinary original civil jurisdiction or not.

22. The provision for appeal has been made in chapter IV of the Act of 2015, and it provides for appeal against a judgement or order of Commercial Court below the level of District Judge, to the Commercial Appellate Court, and against the judgement of a Commercial Court at the level of District Judge exercising original jurisdiction or by Commercial Division of the High Court the appeal would lie to the Commercial Appellate Division of the High Court. Proviso 2 of Section 13(1A) of the Commercial Courts Act restricts intra Court appeals from the Commercial Division of a High Court to its Commercial Appellate Division, only to those orders of the Commercial Division, which are specifically enumerated under Order 43 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 as amended by the Commercial Courts Act and Section 37 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996.

23. The aforesaid provisions when read with Section 10 of the Commercial Courts Act makes it clear that the special provision has been made with regard to the arbitration matters. According to section 10 (1) if the arbitration is an international commercial arbitration all applications or appeals arising out of such arbitration, that have been filed in the High Court, shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted, as per section 10 (2) in the case of domestic arbitration then the application or appeals would have to be filed on the original site of the High Court and shall be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division where such Commercial Division has been constituted by the High Court, and, lastly, in all cases other than international commercial arbitration, which would lie be before any principal civil court of original jurisdiction, would be heard and disposed of by the Commercial Division bench has Commercial Court where it has been constituted.

24. Even though as per section 4 of the Commercial Courts Act, a provision has been made for constitution of Commercial Division only for the High Courts having ordinary original and civil jurisdiction, but the special provision has been carved in Section 10 with regard to matters pertaining to international commercial arbitration, where all applications and appeals have to be disposed of by the Commercial Division of the High Court. Section 10 does not distinguish between High Courts having ordinary original civil jurisdiction and High Courts which do not have ordinary civil jurisdiction. Therefore, a Commercial Division would have to be created in all the High Courts for disposal of applications pertaining to international commercial arbitrations.

25. The Karnataka High Court in the case of Karnataka High Court in the case of ITI Limited vs Alphion Corporation in commercial appeal No. 22 of 2022 which was decided on 25/02/2022 has also taken a similar view, and the observations are contained in 51 which is quoted as under:-

"51.1 Hence, we answer the questions raised as under:

51.1 A challenge to an award passed in an International Commercial Arbitration can be made before the High Court of Kamataka in view of Section 2 (e)(ii) of the A & C Act, 1996.

51.2 In terms of Section 10 (1) if the CC Act, a challenge to an International Commercial Arbitral Award would have to be considered by a Commercial Division established in the High Court consisting of a Single Judge.

51.3 The Commercial Divisions were constituted as a special Division, the ordinary limitation of the pecuniary Jurisdiction for the exercise of powers of the Single Judge would not apply and the pecuniary jurisdiction would be unlimited.

"51.4 Section 37 of the A & C Act mandates the provision of an Appellate remedy, the Commercial Appellate Division which exercises Jurisdiction under Section 37 of the A & C Act, 1996 would also be the forum for challenging a decision of the Commercial Division of the High Court.

51.5 The classification of cases now existing is not sufficient to cater to the Challenge made to an award in any International Commercial Arbitration. A fresh Classification would have to be made as regards such proceedings. One relating to proceedings under Section 34 as regards the Challenge to an International Commercial Arbitral Award and another relating to the orders of the Commercial Divisions challenging the Order passed under Section 9 of the A& C Act as regards International Commercial Contracts or Arbitral Proceedings.

51.6 Any Proceedings seeking for the execution of an International Commercial Arbitral Award or seeking for interim relief in respect of International Commercial Arbitration would also have to be dealt with by the Commercial Division comprising of a Single Judge.

51.7 All pending proceedings which meet the above criteria pending before the Commercial Appellate Division are directed to be reclassified and transferred to the Single Judge exercising jurisdiction over the Commercial Division."

26. The objects and reasons of Commercial Courts Act, 2015 is to provide for speedy disposal of the commercial disputes to create a positive image to the investor worldwide about the independence and responsive Indian legal system. Applications and appeals in case of international commercial arbitration lies under jurisdictional ambit of commercial division and constitution of such commercial division only in High Courts having ordinary original civil jurisdiction will narrow down commercial divisions only to five States which in turn will defeat the object of Commercial Courts Act, 2015.

27. Therefore, from the above, it is clear that an application in the matters pertaining to international commercial arbitration would lie to the Commercial Division of the High Court where it has been constituted. In the Allahabad High Court, the Chief Justice has constituted a Commercial Division, and the present application having been filed before the Commercial Division is accordingly maintainable before this Court.

28. Accordingly, list this case on 3.4.2024 for hearing.

(A) Criminal Law - appeal against conviction - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 364 - kidnapping or abducting in order to murder, Section 302 - murder, The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 374(2) - Circumstantial Evidence - Last Seen Theory - Extra-Judicial Confession - enmity - unexplained delay in FIR - benefit of doubt - Conviction cannot rest solely on weak circumstantial evidence like last seen theory and extra-judicial confessions - For a finding of guilt, all circumstances must form a complete and unbroken chain - If inconsistencies or doubts arise in witness statements and other circumstantial evidence, benefit of doubt should be extended to the accused - more serious the offence, the stricter the degree of proof or in other words the graver the offence, the stricter is the standard of proof. (Para - 32,33)

(B) Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Circumstantial evidence - where a case rests squarely on circumstantial evidence - the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any other person - Circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn, have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances.(Para - 9)

Appellant was accused of carrying away victim - on pretext of watching Ramleela - later allegedly killing him due to longstanding enmity - Witnesses testified seeing them together and later heard gunshots - deceased's body was found the following morning with gunshot wounds - Trial court convicted appellant based on circumstantial evidence - including last seen theory and extra-judicial confession. (Para 3-5, 15)

HELD: - Evidence of witnesses of last seen as well as PW-10, the witness of extra-judicial confession, are not of such quality that on the basis of their evidence, the conviction of the accused can be recorded for a charge under Section 364 and 302 IPC. Court set aside conviction and acquitted appellant of all charges due to insufficient evidence and inconsistencies in testimonies, granting him benefit of doubt. (Para -32 to 35)

Appeal allowed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard Sri Amit Kumar Srivastava, learned amicus curiae for the appellant and learned AGA for the State and perused the material placed on record.

2. By means of instant criminal appeal, the convict-appellant has assailed the correctness of the judgement and order dated 19.12.1991, passed by learned IV Additional Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar, in S.T. No.121 of 1990, arising out of Case Crime No.122 of 1989, Police Station Khurja Dehat, District Bulandshahar, whereby, the appellant has been convicted for charges under Sections 364, 302 IPC and sentenced to undergo ten years rigorous imprisonment for offence under Section 364 IPC and imprisonment for life for offence under Section 302 IPC.

3. The prosecution case in brief is that on 24.10.1989, at about 6:00 P.M., accused Devendra carried away Rajkumar, son of Budhha, who was nephew of the informant, Pooran Singh (PW-1), on pretext of making him watch Ramleela, from home of the victim, in presence of Devi Singh and Satyaveer Singh. After two hours, at about 8:00 P.M., Chandrapal and Prakash, the co-villagers of the informant told him that they had seen Rajkumar going towards Village Jhumka, in company of Devendra on 'Patri of Bamba', from the plot of Sardar Singh, lying at a distance of 500 paces. They also heard sound of firing. These witnesses apprehended occurrence of some untoward happening. On this information, the informant together with several persons of the village, went in search of his nephew, Rajkumar, but could not get his whereabouts in the night. On next date i.e. 25.10.1989, they again proceeded in search of Rajkumar in the early morning and when they reached near plot of Sardar Singh, the dead body of Rajkumar was found in the water of 'bamba'. The dead body was taken out of the water and placed on patari, firearm injuries were visible on person of the deceased. The accused Devendra had long-standing enmity with Rajkumar but prior to 15 days of the incident, he developed friendship with the victim Rajkumar and made him to accompany him on pretext of watching 'Ram-leela', in a planned manner with intention to kill him. The informant got a written report scribed by Rajpal Singh and went to police station where he lodged the FIR. The FIR was registered vide Case Crime No.122 of 1989, at police station Khurja Dehat, on 25.10.1989, at 8:00 A.M., against named accused Devendra. The S.H.O. concerned took over the investigation of the case herself. She collected plain earth and blood stained earth from the place of recovery of the dead body of the deceased on 25.10.1989, in presence of Gram Pradhan, Jaipal Singh, son of Meva Ram and one Jaipal Singh, sone of Sadhu Singh. She had also taken into possession one pair of socks and shoes from the place of recovery of the dead body and got it sealed. The inquest on dead body of the deceased was conducted by the Investigating Officer, S.I. S.K. Singh (PW-6), between 9:00 AM to 10:00 AM on 25.10.1989, in presence of Panch witnesses, near track of Bamba, at Jungle Village Bagrai, where dead body was found. The postmortem examination on the dead body of the deceased was conducted by Doctor R.K. Lal (PW-5) on 25.10.1989, at about 4:10 PM. The Doctor received the dead body in a sealed cover, brought by two police personnel. He examined the injuries found on person of the deceased and prepared his postmortem examination report in his signature and handwriting, which was proved as Ex.Ka-2 by evidence of Doctor. Following injuries were found on the person of the deceased Rajkumar, according to his postmortem examination report:-

(1) Entry wound of gunshot on middle of chest on inter apple line; margins were inverted, size 1 inch in diameter and there was blackening and tattooing in the area of 1 ½ inches, around the injury. The direction was backwards.

(2) Gunshot wound of exit on the right side back, just by the side of vertebral column at level of thoracic vertebra, size 3/4 inch diameter; margins averted. The direction of the edges were towards forwards.

Age of the deceased as about 18 years. Time of death was about 3/4 days. Rigor mortis was present all over the body. The doctor found that 5th rib was broken in the internal examination of the dead body. The membranes of heart were badly damaged. Blood veins were lacerated near heart. Pericardium was badly lacerated. Internal injuries were caused as a result of injury No.1. In the opinion of Doctor, the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage, as a result of antemortem injuries.

4. The Investigating Officer submitted chargesheet before the Court of Magistrate having jurisdiction, as offence was exclusively triable by Court of Session, the case was committed to Court of Session for trial by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate. The trial judge i.e. IVth Additional Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar framed charges under Sections 302, 364 IPC against accused-appellant Devendra on 5.6.1990, on commencement of trial.

5. The prosecution examined PW-1 Pooran Singh; PW-2 Chandrapal; PW-3 Premvati; PW-4 Satyaveer Singh, as witnesses of fact and PW-10, Rajjan; Dr. R.K. Lal, the author of postmortem report of the deceased as PW-5; PW-6 S.I. S.K. Singh, the author of inquest report; PW-7 Constable of Police Omveer Sharma, who was entrusted dead body of the deceased Rajkumar for postmortem after inquest proceedings; PW-8 Head Constable Yogendra Singh, the scribe of chik FIR and PW-9 S.O. Kumari Mala Rani, the Investigating Officer. The statement of accused Devendra was recorded by the trial court after conclusion of prosecution evidence, in which he has stated that the witnesses have deposed against him due to village partibandi and enmity. He has not committed any offence. The accused Devendra did not adduce any defence evidence. His defence is that of denial. Learned trial judge after appreciating the evidence on record and considering the submissions of both sides, found the accused as guilty of charge under Sections 364 and 302 IPC and convicted him for said charges and sentenced him, as aforesaid, by impugned judgment and order dated 19.12.1991. The accused appellant feeling aggrieved by the impugned judgement and order, preferred present appeal under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C., before this Court. The appellant was enlarged on bail by orders of this Court dated 3.1.1992, during pendency of appeal.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant filed written submissions on behalf of the appellant, which is placed on record. The main plank of the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the appellant are as follows:-

(1) unexplained delay in lodging of First Information Report. The deceased was said to be taken by the appellant on 24.10.1989, at 6:00 PM but the First Information Report was lodged on next day i.e. 25.10.89 at 8.00 p.m., after the recovery of dead body.

(2) P.W.-1 and PW-3 have stated that there was previous enmity with the appellant despite that deceased was permitted to go with the appellant. This does not sound natural.

(3) P.W. 1 does not appear to be witness of last seen as initially he has stated that he was told by Premwati and Satyaveer that the appellant took the deceased with him, but subsequently he himself assumed the role of the witness of aforesaid fact, during trial.

(4) As per the statements of prosecution witnesses of fact they went to place of incident/ recovery of dead body in the night itself but nothing was found, however in the morning the dead body was found at the same place, where they visited in the night of 24.10.89. Thus, the manner and place of incident is highly doubtful.

(5) Conduct of P.W. 2 is highly unnatural as he heard the noise of fire of firearm but he did not even try to enquire about the said fact rather he returned back to home.

(6) P.W. 3, Smt. Premwati, is neither cited as witness in the First Information Report nor in the charge- sheet despite that she was examined during the trial as a witness of last seen.

(7) The time gap between the last seen and recovery of dead body is too long i.e. almost 12 hours and therefore the evidence of last seen is of no consequence.

(8) P.W. 10, before whom the appellant is said to have made extra judicial confession, himself admitted enmity between him and the appellant. Moreover he does not appear to be an influential persons hence there was no occasion for the appellant to make extra judicial confession before him.

(9) Prosecution story is not consistent with the medical evidence available on the record as no bullet or pellet was found in the dead body. No symptom has been found that the body was lying in the water.

(10) Prosecution failed to prove motive for committing the alleged offence, which is most important in cases based on circumstantial evidence.

(11) Links of chain of circumstances are not proved in the manner so as to form a complete chain from which an inference of the guilt of the accused could be drawn, unerringly.

7. Learned counsel for the appellant placed reliance on the judgements of Apex Court in Kanhaiya Lal vs. State of Rajasthan, (2014) 4 SCC 715 and Nizam and Another vs. State of Rajasthan, 2015 (91) ACC 243, Sahdevan vs. State of Tamil Nadu, 2012 (78) ACC 228.

8. On the basis of aforesaid submissions and in the light of case law, cited as above, learned counsel for the appellant prayed that the appeal is liable to be allowed and the appellant may kindly be acquitted of the charges, for which he has been convicted and sentenced by learned trial Judge in impugned judgement and order.

9. In Kanhaiya Lal vs. State of Rajasthan, (supra), Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that "The appellant was convicted by trial court for charge under Sections 302/201 IPC and sentenced to 3 years rigorous imprisonment with fine for charge under Section 201 IPC and imprisonment for life with fine for charge under Section 302 IPC. Co-accused were acquitted of all the charges. Judgement and order of trial court was affirmed by High Court in criminal appeal. The conviction was mainly based on evidence of last seen. The prosecution case was that the accused appellant committed murder of victim by strangulating him and threw the dead body in the well. No body witnessed the occurrence and case was registered on the basis of circumstantial evidence. Hon'ble Apex Court held that It has been consistently laid down by this Court that where a case rests squarely on circumstantial evidence, the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any other person. The circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn, have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances.

10. Learned Apex Court in Kanhaiya Lal vs. State of Rajasthan, (supra) further observed as under:-

"12. The circumstance of last seen together does not by itself and necessarily lead to the inference that it was the accused who committed the crime. There must be something more establishing connectivity between the accused and the crime. Mere non-explanation on the part of the appellant, in our considered opinion, by itself cannot lead to proof of guilt against the appellant. ……..

15. The theory of last seen – the appellant having gone with the deceased in the manner noticed hereinbefore, is the singular piece of circumstantial evidence available against him. The conviction of the appellant cannot be maintained merely on suspicion, however strong it may be, or on his conduct. These facts assume further importance on account of absence of proof of motive particularly when it is proved that there was cordial relationship between the accused and the deceased for a long time. The fact situation bears great similarity to that in Madho Singh vs. State of Rajasthan (2010) 15 SCC 588."

11. In Nizam and Another vs. State of Rajasthan (supra), Hon'ble Apex Court while deciding appeal against judgement of conviction and sentence of appeal for charge under Section 302/201 IPC, observed as under:-

8. Case of the prosecution is entirely based on the circumstantial evidence. In a case based on circumstantial evidence, settled law is that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is drawn should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature. Moreover, all the circumstances should be complete, forming a chain and there should be no gap left in the chain of evidence. Further, the proved circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused totally inconsistent with his evidence.

9. The principle of circumstantial evidence has been reiterated by this Court in a plethora of cases. In Bodhraj @ Bodha And Ors. vs. State of Jammu & Kashmir,(2002) 8 SCC 45, wherein this court quoted number of judgments and held as under:-

"10. It has been consistently laid down by this Court that where a case rests squarely on circumstantial evidence, the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any other person. (See Hukam Singh v. State of Rajasthan (1977) 2 SCC 99, Eradu v. State of Hyderabad AIR 1956 SC 316, Earabhadrappa v. State of Karnataka (1983) 2 SCC 330, State of U.P. v. Sukhbasi (1985) Suppl. SCC 79, Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab (1987) 1 SCC 1 and Ashok Kumar Chatterjee v. State of M.P., 1989 Suppl. (1) SCC 560) The circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances. In Bhagat Ram v. State of Punjab AIR 1954 SC 621 it was laid down that where the case depends upon the conclusion drawn from circumstances the cumulative effect of the circumstances must be such as to negative the innocence of the accused and bring home the offences beyond any reasonable doubt.

11. We may also make a reference to a decision of this Court in C. Chenga Reddy v. State of A.P. (1996) 10 SCC 193, wherein it has been observed thus: (SCC pp. 206-07, para 21) "21. In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the settled law is that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is drawn should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature. Moreover, all the circumstances should be complete and there should be no gap left in the chain of evidence. Further, the proved circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and totally inconsistent with his innocence."

10. In Trimukh Maroti Kirkan vs. State of Maharashtra, (2006) 10 SCC 681, this court held as under:

"12. In the case in hand there is no eyewitness of the occurrence and the case of the prosecution rests on circumstantial evidence. The normal principle in a case based on circumstantial evidence is that the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must be cogently and firmly established; that those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused; that the circumstances taken cumulatively should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and they should be incapable of explanation on any hypothesis other than that of the guilt of the accused and inconsistent with their innocence." The same principles were reiterated in Sunil Clifford Daniel vs. State of Punjab, (2012) 11 SCC 205, Sampath Kumar vs. Inspector of Police, Krishnagiri (2012) 4 SCC 124 and Mohd. Arif @ Ashfaq vs. State (NCT of Delhi), (2011) 13 SCC 621 and a number of other decisions.

14. Courts below convicted the appellants on the evidence of PWs 1 and 2 that deceased was last seen alive with the appellants on 23.01.2001. Undoubtedly, "last seen theory" is an important link in the chain of circumstances that would point towards the guilt of the accused with some certainty. The "last seen theory" holds the courts to shift the burden of proof to the accused and the accused to offer a reasonable explanation as to the cause of death of the deceased. It is well-settled by this Court that it is not prudent to base the conviction solely on "last seen theory". "Last seen theory" should be applied taking into consideration the case of the prosecution in its entirety and keeping in mind the circumstances that precede and follow the point of being so last seen.

15. Elaborating the principle of "last seen alive" in State of Rajasthan vs. Kashi Ram, (2006) 12 SCC 254, this Court held as under:-

"23. It is not necessary to multiply with authorities. The principle is well settled. The provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act itself are unambiguous and categoric in laying down that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of a person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. Thus, if a person is last seen with the deceased, he must offer an explanation as to how and when he parted company. He must furnish an explanation which appears to the court to be probable and satisfactory. If he does so he must be held to have discharged his burden. If he fails to offer an explanation on the basis of facts within his special knowledge, he fails to discharge the burden cast upon him by Section 106 of the Evidence Act. In a case resting on circumstantial evidence if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of the burden placed on him, that itself provides an additional link in the chain of circumstances proved against him. Section 106 does not shift the burden of proof in a criminal trial, which is always upon the prosecution. It lays down the rule that when the accused does not throw any light upon facts which are specially within his knowledge and which could not support any theory or hypothesis compatible with his innocence, the court can consider his failure to adduce any explanation, as an additional link which completes the chain. The principle has been succinctly stated in Naina Mohd., Re. (AIR 1960 Mad 218)" The above judgment was relied upon and reiterated in Kiriti Pal vs. State of West Bengal, (2015) 5 Scale 319."

12. Learned counsel for the appellant also cited a judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court in Sahdevan vs. State of Tamil Nadu, 2012 (78) ACC 228, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court considered and laid down the law relating to evidentiary value of extra judicial confession and its effect on recording the verdict of guilt of an accused and observed as under:-

12. There is no doubt that in the present case, there is no eye-witness. It is a case based upon circumstantial evidence. In case of circumstantial evidence, the onus lies upon the prosecution to prove the complete chain of events which shall undoubtedly point towards the guilt of the accused. Furthermore, in case of circumstantial evidence, where the prosecution relies upon an extra-judicial confession, the court has to examine the same with a greater degree of care and caution. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence. Wherever the Court, upon due appreciation of the entire prosecution evidence, intends to base a conviction on an extra- judicial confession, it must ensure that the same inspires confidence and is corroborated by other prosecution evidence. If, however, the extra- judicial confession suffers from material discrepancies or inherent improbabilities and does not appear to be cogent as per the prosecution version, it may be difficult for the court to base a conviction on such a confession. In such circumstances, the court would be fully justified in ruling such evidence out of consideration.

13. Now, we may examine some judgments of this Court dealing with this aspect.

14. In Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab [1995 Supp. (4) SCC 259], this Court stated the principle that an extra-judicial confession, by its very nature is rather a weak type of evidence and requires appreciation with a great deal of care and caution. Where an extrajudicial confession is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, its credibility becomes doubtful and it loses its importance.

15. In Pakkirisamy v. State of T.N. [(1997) 8 SCC 158], the Court held that it is well settled that it is a rule of caution where the court would generally look for an independent reliable corroboration before placing any reliance upon such extra-judicial confession.

16. Again in Kavita v. State of T.N. [(1998) 6 SCC 108], the Court stated the dictum that there is no doubt that conviction can be based on extrajudicial confession, but it is well settled that in the very nature of things, it is a weak piece of evidence. It is to be proved just like any other fact and the value thereof depends upon veracity of the witnesses to whom it is made.

17. While explaining the dimensions of the principles governing the admissibility and evidentiary value of an extra-judicial confession, this Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Raja Ram [(2003) 8 SCC 180] stated the principle that an extra-judicial confession, if voluntary and true and made in a fit state of mind, can be relied upon by the court. The confession will have to be proved like any other fact. The value of evidence as to confession, like any other evidence, depends upon the veracity of the witness to whom it has been made. The Court, further expressed the view that such a confession can be relied upon and conviction can be founded thereon if the evidence about the confession comes from the mouth of witnesses who appear to be unbiased, not even remotely inimical to the accused and in respect of whom nothing is brought out which may tend to indicate that he may have a motive of attributing an untruthful statement to the accused.

18. In the case of Aloke Nath Dutta v. State of W.B. [(2007) 12 SCC 230], the Court, while holding the placing of reliance on extra-judicial confession by the lower courts in absence of other corroborating material, as unjustified, observed:

"87. Confession ordinarily is admissible in evidence. It is a relevant fact. It can be acted upon. Confession may under certain circumstances and subject to law laid down by the superior judiciary from time to time form the basis for conviction. It is, however, trite that for the said purpose the court has to satisfy itself in regard to: (i) voluntariness of the confession; (ii) truthfulness of the confession; (iii) corroboration.

89. A detailed confession which would otherwise be within the special knowledge of the accused may itself be not sufficient to raise a presumption that confession is a truthful one. Main features of a confession are required to be verified. If it is not done, no conviction can be based only on the sole basis thereof."

19. Accepting the admissibility of the extra-judicial confession, the Court in the case of Sansar Chand v. State of Rajasthan [(2010) 10 SCC 604] held that :-

"29. There is no absolute rule that an extra-judicial confession can never be the basis of a conviction, although ordinarily an extra-judicial confession should be corroborated by some other material. [Vide Thimma and Thimma Raju v. State of Mysore, Mulk Raj v. State of U.P., Sivakumar v. State (SCC paras 40 and 41 : AIR paras 41 & 42), Shiva Karam Payaswami Tewari v. State of Maharashtra and Mohd. Azad v. State of W.B.]

30. In the present case, the extra-judicial confession by Balwan has been referred to in the judgments of the learned Magistrate and the Special Judge, and it has been corroborated by the other material on record. We are satisfied that the confession was voluntary and was not the result of inducement, threat or promise as contemplated by Section 24 of the Evidence Act, 1872."

22. Upon a proper analysis of the above-referred judgments of this Court, it will be appropriate to state the principles which would make an extra- judicial confession an admissible piece of evidence capable of forming the basis of conviction of an accused. These precepts would guide the judicial mind while dealing with the veracity of cases where the prosecution heavily relies upon an extra-judicial confession alleged to have been made by the accused.

The Principles:-

i) The extra-judicial confession is a weak evidence by itself. It has to be examined by the court with greater care and caution.

ii) It should be made voluntarily and should be truthful.

iii) It should inspire confidence.

iv) An extra-judicial confession attains greater credibility and evidentiary value, if it is supported by a chain of cogent circumstances and is further corroborated by other prosecution evidence.

v) For an extra-judicial confession to be the basis of conviction, it should not suffer from any material discrepancies and inherent improbabilities.

vi) Such statement essentially has to be proved like any other fact and in accordance with law.

13. On issue of evidence of 'last seen' Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sahdevan vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (supra), observed as follows:-

31. With the development of law, the theory of last seen has become a definite tool in the hands of the prosecution to establish the guilt of the accused. This concept is also accepted in various judgments of this Court. The Court has taken the consistent view that where the only circumstantial evidence taken resort to by the prosecution is that the accused and deceased were last seen together, it may raise suspicion but it is not independently sufficient to lead to a finding of guilt. In Arjun Marik v. State of Bihar [1994 Supp.(2) SCC 372], this Court took the view that the where the appellant was alleged to have gone to the house of one Sitaram in the evening of 19th July, 1985 and had stayed in the night at the house of deceased Sitaram, the evidence was very shaky and inconclusive. Even if it was accepted that they were there, it would, at best, amount to be the evidence of the appellants having been last seen together with the deceased. The Court further observed that it is settled law that the only circumstance of last seen will not complete the chain of circumstances to record a finding that it is consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt of the accused and, therefore, no conviction, on that basis alone, can be founded.

32. Even in the case of State of Karnataka v. M.V. Mahesh [(2003) 3 SCC 353], this Court held that merely being last seen together is not enough. What has to be established in a case of this nature is definite evidence to indicate that the deceased had been done to death of which the respondent is or must be aware as also proximate to the time of being last seen together. No such clinching evidence is put forth. It is no doubt true that even in the absence corpus delicti it is possible to establish in an appropriate case commission of murder on appropriate material being made available to the Court.

33. In the case of State of U.P. v. Satish [(2005) 3SCC 114], this Court had stated that the principle of last seen comes into play where the time gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible.

34. Undoubtedly, the last seen theory is an important event in the chain of circumstances that would completely establish and/or could point to the guilt of the accused with some certainty. But this theory should be applied while taking into consideration the case of the prosecution in its entirety and keeping in mind the circumstances that precede and follow the point of being so last seen.

14. Per contra, learned AGA appearing for the State submitted that there is no infirmity or any factual or legal error in the impugned judgment and order passed by learned court below, whereby the appellant has been convicted and sentenced for charge under Sections 302, 364 IPC. The case is based on circumstantial evidence but all the links of chain of circumstances are complete in the case and are proved by the prosecution evidence in present case. The complicity of accused is based on evidence of witnesses of last seen as well as extra-judicial confession made by the accused to PW-10, Rajjan. The mode and manner of commission of offence is corroborated by medical evidence also. Motive is also proved by the evidence of witnesses of fact. The delay in lodging of FIR is explained in FIR itself. The appeal deserves to be dismissed.

15. A perusal of evidence and material on record reveals that according to the FIR version and evidence of PW-1, informant, his nephew namely, Rajkumar, son of Buddha, was carried away by accused Devendra Singh on 24.10.1989, at around 6:00 P.M., from his home on pretext of watching Ram-leela, which was organized in Village Jhumka. In FIR, it is stated that the accused carried away the victim from the home. The witness Chandrapal and Prakash (PW-2) told the informant at around 8:00 PM, on same day, that they had seen Rajkumar walking alongwith Devendra towards village Jhumka, at the track of Bamba, near the field of Sardar Singh and just after they walked about 200 paces from the place where they had seen the victim and the accused, they heard sound of firing, due to which they suspected that some untoward happened to the victim Rajkumar. The informant moved to the probable place, placing reliance on the statement of the said witnesses namely, Chandrapal and Prakash, taking alongwith him some co-villagers in search of his nephew, Rajkumar, but could not find him in the night. The accused and victim could not be traced till following morning and, therefore, the informant, Pooran Singh (PW-1) again moved in search of his nephew, at around 6:00 AM, accompanied by 10 to 20 persons including Jaipal, Buddha (father of deceased), Kartar, Prakash, Sardar Singh and others. When he reached near agricultural field of Sardar Singh, at the track of Bamba, he found that wooden bandha was installed in the Bamba and dead body of Rajkumar was stuck therein. There was water also in the vicinity of the dead body. He took out the corpse from Bamba and placed the same on track of Bamba. He went back to his home where he got the report scribed by Suraj Pal, as per his dictation and after going through the contents of the written report, he filed the same at police station. PW-1, proved the written report as Ext. Ka-2 during his evidence before the Court, which is signed by him and scribed by Suraj Pal.

16. PW-1, Pooran Singh, has stated in cross-examination that prior to this incident, accused Devendra had committed mischief by fire in the grove of Rajkumar, due to which some mango trees got burnt. A claim was filed by him in this regard as the grove belong to deceased Rajkumar as well as witness Pooran Singh. He admitted that there was enmity between himself and deceased and on that of the accused Devendra on the other hand. In the case which pertains to mischief by fire, Satyaveer, Jaipal, Devi and Buddha were witnesses but Chandrapal was not witness therein. His brother, Buddha, the father of the deceased, was also present in the village on the fateful day. His sister-in-law (bhabhi), Premwati and Satyaveer had told him at around 7:00 PM, on the date of incident that the accused Devendra had carried away Rajkumar with him. The witness and his brother, Buddha, were residing separately.

17. Learned counsel for the defence pointed out that in cross-examination, PW-1, has taken a new case in contradiction to his prevision statement that his bhabhi, Premwati and Satyaveer had told him that Devendra had carried away the deceased, Rajkumar, with him and prior to this, he himself saw Rajkumar, walking in the company of Devendra, at 6:00 PM and he asked them to stop but they did not stop thereupon, he thought that it would be better if they unite. The witness admitted that he did not get this fact scribed in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that he had stopped Rajkumar and Devendra but stated that he had seen accused and deceased walking together on fateful day. He also told the Court during cross-examination that on being told by Chandrapal, he went towards Bamba but could not find anything due to darkness and they came back empty hand. The dead body was retrieved at 6:30 AM on the next morning. He remained there up to 7:30 AM and thereafter got the report scribed by his son, Surajpal, which took half an hour and place the same at police station. The witness denied the defence suggestion that Chandrapal had stated nothing to him regarding version of last seen together of deceased and accused.

18. PW-2, Chandrapal, is examined as an independent witness as no enmity with the accused has been suggested by defence with regard to him. He in his evidence stated that he had seen victim and accused Devendra walking together towards village Jhumka, at the track of Bamba. His companion Prakash was also with him at that time. He was returning after discharging some agricultural work in his field, they saw the deceased and accused near the field of Sardar. He asked them about their movement whereupon, Devendra stated that they were going to watch Ram-leela. Devendra was having a 'katta' (countrymade pistol) in his hand. They walked towards village Jhumka. He turned to his village alongwith Prakash and when they reached on pitched road, they heard the sound of firing of countrymade pistol, which came from village Jhumka. He went to his home. The witness Buddha and his wife (Premwati) met him and asked him that whether he saw Rajkumar, he stated that Rajkumar and Devendra met him near the field of Sardar. These old persons met him at the threshold of their home. No any other met him and he went straight to his home. He had not met Pooran Singh in that evening.

19. The witness Chandrapal has stated in his statement before Investigating Officer that he had told the fact that he met Rajkumar and accused when they were walking towards village Jhumka, in the evening of fateful day and had told this fact to PW-1 (Pooran Singh), however, he deviated from this fact in his evidence before the Court wherein he stated that he had not met Pooran Singh (PW-1) at that time and was declared hostile at the instance of prosecution and was permitted to be cross-examined by the prosecution, wherein, he has stated that it would be wrong to say that when he went to his home, he saw Pooran sitting in front of his house on a cot and he told him about the factum of seeing Rajkumar and Devendra together. He stated that the Investigating Officer asked about this matter on next day, he had only stated to Investigating Officer that he heard sound of firing. When he interrogated him about the incident and also told him that he had seen the victim and accused moving towards Bamba together but he had not told him that he and Prakash apprised Pooran of this fact on reaching the village when he was found sitting on his cot in front of his home. He had also not told him that mother of Rajkumar was moaning and asking about Rajkumar and thereupon, he stated to her about Rajkumar and Devendra. It is possible that Pooran might have been sitting in his house as the doors of houses of Rajkumar and Pooran are nearby each other. He further stated that on next date, he had seen the dead body of Rajkumar on track of Bamba but it was not retrieved in his presence. He had seen the dead body at 6:00 AM on the track of Bamba. On being cross-examined by defence, this witness stated that when he had seen Rajkumar and Devendra on fateful day, there was darkness and the place from where he saw them was 100 to 150 yards away from pitch road. His field fromwhere he was returning after work was lying eastwards to the track of Bamba. Ram-leeta would begin in day hours and lasted till mid night but he had not went to see Ram-leela. He failed to recollect as to whether at the time of incident, Ram-leela was being organized at village Jhumka or not. This statement of witness was recorded after one year of the incident. He admitted that he had not moved towards the place from where sound of firing came. He had seen the victim and accused around 7:00 PM.

20. PW-3, Smt. Premwati, the mother of the deceased, has stated in her evidence that the accused took her son, Rajkumar, away with him on the fateful day around 6:00 PM by giving him an offer to watch Ram-leela. She stated that she initially objected to this but accused assured her that there is nothing to worry and he would take care of everything. She has also stated that she told about this fact to his brother-in-law (devar), Pooran Singh, who also stated that he had seen them going together. After some time, her co-villagers Chandrapal and Prakash came to her place and told that they had seen Rajkumar and Devendra at the track of Bamba while walking towards village Jhumka and heard the sound of firing. Rajkumar did not turn back and the people went in search of him but failed to find him. The dead body of Rajkumar was found at the track of Bamba just on rising of sun on the next date. In cross-examination, the witness stated that she was not interrogated by Investigating Officer and she was deposing before the Court for the first time. Ram-leela would be closed at 12:00 hours in the night. She waited for her son till 8-9 PM. Ram-leela would start from 9:00 PM. She is unable to state that how Sub-Inspector recorded her statement. There was enmity between her son and accused Devendra as the accused had burnt her mango trees, which jointly belong to her and the informant Pooran. There was litigation between Devendra and Buddha (her husband). The accuse started visiting her place prior to 15 to 15 days of the incident but failed to elaborate as to how her son Rajkumar and accused got associated. When the accused took her son away with him, her husband was not present in her house. The houses of the witness and Pooran are not seprate but one. Chandrapal told her about above victim and accused on his own and without her asking. When Chandrapal told her about the incident, her husband was present in the house and just after getting the information, her family members and others went in search of Rajkumar taking lantern and torch in their hand. Chandrapal had not accompanied the witnesses in the morning.

21. PW-4, Satyaveer is also a witness of last seen, who stated that on fateful day, at around 6:00 PM, he visited the place of Buddha but could not find him. He saw Rajkumar and Devendra at the door of his house and asked about Buddha, Rakumar told him about his father Buddha and stated that he was going to Village Jhumka. He came back after making call to Buddha. A commotion occurred at around 8:00 PM in the village that Rajkumar has become untraceable. Thereafter, he visited the track of Bamba in the company of Pooran and others but could not find Rajkumar there. They again visited the place together with Surajpal and others and found the dead body, which they retrieved from Bamba and kept on track. In cross-examination, the witness stated that he met Buddha on the date of incident at about 8:00 PM, he is his uncle in relation but not real uncle. He re-visited the place of Buddha at 8:00 PM, where villagers had assembled and there he stated that Rajkumar went with Devendra. They made a search for Rajkumar in the night in the nearby places of Bamba but came back. When, he visited the place of recovery of dead body on the next day, the dead body was already taken out from the water and kept on track by Buddha and Devi. They placed dead body on other track of Bamba. The houses of Buddha and Pooran are situated at nearby. He is not having any enmity with Devendra. He is not a witness in the case of mischief by fire against accused Devendra.

22. PW-10, Rajjan Singh, is co-villager of the informant and accused, who has given evidence of extra judicial confession against accused. He has stated before the Court that after three days of the incident of murder of Rajkumar, accused Devendra, who was present before the Court, came and met him outside the home and touched his feet and expressed his regret regarding death of Rajkumar and prayed him to reconcile the matter with Buddha Ram, the father of the deceased. He also made monetary offer in the matter for compromise. He anyhow got rid off Devendra on that day. The witness stated in his cross-examination that a case under Section 307 IPC was registered at the instance of accused Devendra against him, after this incident and the fact that Devendra had confessed to him of having committed this offence, was only disclosed by him to the Investigating Officer and none else, who recorded his statement on 29.10.1989, at the police station. He had not spoken about the offer of accused Devendra to Buddha. Devendra confided to him about this matter separately at this place.

23. So far as the exhibits are concerned, PW-1, Pooran Singh has proved written report dated 25.10.1989 as Ext.Ka-1; PW-5 Dr. R.K. Lal, has proved postmortem examination report of the deceased as Ext.Ka-2; PW-6, S.I. S.K. Singh, has proved inquest report of the deceased as Ext.Ka-3 and papes relating to postmortem of the deceased as Ext.Ka-4 to Ext. Ka-8; PW-8, Head Constable Yogendra Singh, has proved chik FIR as Ext.Ka-9 and extracts of GD of registration of case dated 25.10.1989 as Ext.Ka-10 and PW-9, S.I. Kumari Mala Rani, the Investigating Officer has proved recovery memo of socks and shoe of deceased as Ext.Ka-13, site plan as Ext.Ka-11, recovery memo of plain and blood stained earth as Ext.Ka-12, statement of witness Chandrapal as Ex.-14 and chargesheet as Ext.Ka-15 by her evidence.

24. Learned trial court after appreciating the evidence on record concluded that prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond any doubt. The only conclusion from circumstantial evidence in the case can be drawn regarding guilt of the accused. The chain and link of the circumstantial evidence is very complete, which gives only one conclusion. It is proved by evidence that accused Devendra had abducted the deceased with knowledge to commit murder who succeeded in his plan and carried away Rajkumar with him, thus, the evidence under Section 364 IPC is well proved against accused. In this case, it is well proved by the circumstantial evidence that it was only Devendra and none else who committed murder of Rajkumar. Devendra was having countrymade pistol, thus, the offence of committing murder is also proved against accused Devendra. With these evidence, learned trial court has convicted and sentenced the appellant as aforesaid.

25. The prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence as this is admitted position that there is no eye-witness of the incident. The prosecution case stands on mainly two sort of evidence:- (1) evidence of last seen of deceased together with the accused given by PW-1, Pooran Singh, PW-2 Chandrapal, PW-3 Premwati and PW-4 Satyaveer Singh; (2) extra judicial confession allegedly made by the appellant to PW-10 Rajjan. However, if we meticulously scrutinize the evidence of these witnesses, we find that there are inherent infirmities in their evidence. The prosecution case is that the accused appellant carried the deceased away from his home on pretext of watching Ram-leela with intention to kill him and killed the deceased by firing a shot at him in quick succession, at around 6/7:00 PM, on fateful day. The dead body was found stuck in the bridge lying on water of Bamba on the next day at around 6:00 AM and dead body was retrieved from water by the informant and his co-villagers. Doctor, who conducted postmortem on the dead body of the deceased opined that cause of death was shock and haemorrhage due to antemortem firearm injury. The injuries were sufficient to cause death in ordinary course of nature. In the opinion of Doctor, the death was possible in the evening of 24.10.1989, which is estimated time of death as stated in statement of witnesses of fact. The deceased suffered one wound of entry in his chest and one exit wound on his back, which reveals that deceased suffered one firearm injury. According to the opinion of Doctor, the internal injuries detected on person of the deceased were fall out of injury No.1. In view of wound of exit corresponding to the wound of entry, this is natural that no pieces of bullet or pellets were found inside the dead body.

26. The informant, Pooran Singh, who has been examined as PW-1, stated in FIR itself that there was previous enmity between the deceased and accused and in his evidence as PW-1, he has elaborated that this enmity was due to the fact that the accused caused mischief by fire in mango grove, which was jointly shared by the informant and the deceased, who was his nephew and the informant got a case registered against accused for that misdeed. The informant has also stated in FIR as well as in his evidence that the accused tried to come into close contact with the deceased 15 days prior to the incident and he has nowhere stated in the FIR as well as in his examination-in-chief that the deceased left his home in company of the accused in his presence and he has stated in FIR as well as in his examination-in-chief that at around 6:00 PM, on the date of occurrence, the accused carried away deceased on pretext of watching Ram-leela towards village Jhumka and he had received this information from witness Chandrapal, who had stated that Devendra and Rajkumar were on inimical terms; he had seen them walking towards Jhumka and he heard sound of firing and then he apprehended that something untoward had happened to him. He had clarified in examination-in-chief that prior to this nobody told him about these facts and he immediately rushed to the place alongwith 4 persons to search out Rajkumar but he failed to find him in the night. However, he has stated in cross-examination that in the case filed by him against accused for committing mischief by fire, Satyaveer, Jaipal, Devi and Buddha- his brother, were witnesses. He took a new fact in cross-examination that Premwati (PW-3), the mother of the deceased and Satyaveer (PW-4), had told him that accused Devendra carried away Rajkumar at around 7:00 PM on the date of incident. He took an entirely new case during cross-examination that prior to getting the information about Rajkumar, he had himself seen the deceased going in company of the accused, at around 6:00 PM. However, this fact is neither written in FIR nor in statement of the witness under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded by the Investigating Officer. His statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is wrongly exhibited during evidence of PW-9, S.O. Mala Rani, in violation of proviso to Section 162(1) Cr.P.C.

27. This fact is also not credible that PW-4, Chandrapal, had seen the deceased and accused together in the evening of fateful day and accused was having a countrymade pistol in his hand and even after hearing the sound of firearm, he had not tried to further enquire the fact and came back his home. PW-1 has stated that Chandrapal has stated that he had seen the accused and deceased on the track of Bamba when he was returning home from his field, near the field of Sardar Singh. He has stated that he apprised the parents of the deceased of this fact on way to his home, when they met him and made a query about Rajkumar. These persons were standing at the threshold of their home and thereafter, he went to his home. He did not meet Pooran Singh on that date. For this reason, the witness was declared hostile and cross-examined by the prosecution but even in cross-examination, he did not admit that he had communicated with PW-1, in the fateful evening. He has also admitted that he had not gone in search of Rajkumar, when PW-1 went in search of Rajkumar alongwith co-villagers. He has clarified that he had seen the dead body in the next morning, which was kept on the track of Bamba. The witness failed to state that whether any Ram-leela was organized at Jhumka in the night of said date or not. Even the Investigating Officer (PW-9) has admitted that she did not enquire the fact that whether Ram-leela was organized in village Jhumka or not on the date of incident. Thus, there is material contradiction in the statement of PW-2, who is star witness of the case, from his previous statement recorded by the Investigating Officer that he has told the fact of last seen of deceased and accused together to PW-1, the informant.

28. Another witness of last seen namely, Prakash, who is said to have accompanying PW-2, Chandrapal, when he had seen the accused and deceased together, has not been produced during trial and he was discharged from evidence on application of prosecution on ground that he had been influenced by the accused.

29. PW-3, Premwati, is mother of the deceased, who has stated in her evidence that the accused took away her son Rajkumar from her home on pretext of watching Ram-leela. The deceased had demanded some money from her but she had no money with her and she had informed her brother-in-law (devar), Pooran Singh, in this regard, who had stated that he had also seen them going together. She has taken a new case that Chandrapal and Prakash told her about seeing the accused and deceased together when she was standing with Pooran Singh on her door. This is admitted fact that even after much efforts and getting the location of the place of incident from PW-2, PW-1 and his co-villagers could not trace out the deceased in the night. PW-3 has disowned her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded by the Investigating Officer. She has also stated that deceased and accused were on inimical terms due to litigation, which was still pending. She has stated that her husband, brother-in-law Pooran and others went in search of her son in the night and came back after one and half hours empty handed, thus, on perusal of evidence of PW-3, we find a material improvement in her testimony before the Court from her previous statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., on 29.11.1989 i.e. after more than a month of the occurence and this gave ample time for after thought.

30. PW-4, Satyaveer, has also been examined as witness of last seen but his name does not find mention in FIR whereas he has stated in his evidence that the accused took away the deceased alongwith him from the home of the deceased in his presence as he had come to the place of deceased in search of his father, Buddha. He has stated that he also accompanied PW-1 in the night in search of Rajkumar and again visited the place of incident in the morning, when dead body was found. This witness is collateral of the deceased. His statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded long after the incident on 29.11.1989 and does not inspire confidence for these reasons.

31. PW-10, Rajjan, is witness of extra-judicial confession allegedly made by the accused to him after three days of the incident, in which the accused pleaded with him for extending his support in attaining a compromise with the family of the deceased. However, there is no whisper of the evidence that this witness is an influential person of the locality and was having influence on the family of the deceased. This is also strange that this witness had not told this fact to PW-1, the uncle of the deceased or parents of the deceased prior to his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded by the Investigating Officer on 4.11.1989, i.e. after 10 days of the incident. He has also stated in cross-examination that he had not told this fact of accused making confession to him regarding murder of the deceased to any person prior to he narrated this fact to 'Darogaji'. The defence has given suggestion to this witness that he has deposed this fact on instruction of 'Darogaji' but he denied the same.

32. On perusal of aforesaid judicial authorities, a settled position of law emerges that evidence of last seen as well as extra judicial confession are weak piece of circumstantial evidence and reliance thereon can be placed only when they are of sterling quality and free from doubt. In present case, the evidence of witnesses of last seen as well as PW-10, the witness of extra-judicial confession, are not of such quality that on the basis of their evidence, the conviction of the accused can be recorded for a charge under Section 364 and 302 IPC. This is a principle of jurisprudence that the more serious the offence, the stricter the degree of proof or in other words the graver the offence, the stricter is the standard of proof. The star witness of the case namely PW-2, Chandrapal, resiled from his previous statement on a vital aspect. There is material inconsistencies in statement of witnesses of fact, as enumerated above, which give rise to reasonable doubt in veracity and credibility of their evidence.

33. In view of foregoing discussion, were are of the considered opinion that prosecution has miserable failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and learned trial court has committed legal and factual error in recording the conviction of the deceased, placing reliance on circumstantial evidence given by the witnesses of fact in present case, which do not inspire confidence. The evidence of witnesses of last seen as well as that of PW-10, the witness of extra-judicial confession, are not free from doubt. Consequently, the appeal is liable to be allowed and the accused deserves to be acquitted of all charges by giving him benefit of doubt.

34. According, present appeal stands and the impugned judgement and order dated 19.12.1991, passed by learned IV Additional Sessions Judge, Bulandshahar, in S.T. No.121 of 1990, arising out of Case Crime No.122 of 1989, Police Station Khurja Dehat, District Bulandshahar, whereby, the appellant has been convicted for charges under Sections 364, 302 IPC and sentenced him to undergo ten years rigorous imprisonment for offence under Section 364 IPC and imprisonment for life for offence under Section 302 IPC, is hereby set aside and the accused is acquitted from all charges. He is on bail and he need not to surrender.

35. The appellant is directed to file his bail and surety bonds in compliance of Section 437-A of Cr.P.C., within a period of 10 days from today.

36. Office is directed to return the lower court record alongwith certified copy of this Judgement for necessary information/compliance, to court concerned, within a period of two weeks.

37. Learned Amicus Curiae is entitled to get his professional fee of Rs.15,000/- (Fifteen Thousands), within a period of one month.

Criminal Appeal No. 91 of 2023

Hargovind Ahirwar ...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Devendra Kumar Shukla

Counsel for the Respondents:
G.A., Sri Ramesh Kumar

(A) Criminal Law - Rejection of Application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 156(3) - Discretionary power of court - Court may treat application under Section 156(3) as a complaint.(Para - 6)

Appellant filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. - against 11 named persons and 2 unknown - Application alleged that their family members were assaulted, property was stolen - they were threatened with caste-based abuse - Trial court rejected application, treating it as complaint instead of directing FIR registration. (Para 3-4)

HELD: - Court upheld the trial court's decision to treat the application as a complaint rather than directing the registration of an FIR. Trial court's discretion to treat application as complaint was valid. Court found no illegality, impropriety or irregularity in the order impugned. (Para -6)

Appeal dismissed. (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Jyotsna Sharma, J.)

1. Heard Sri Devendra Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Ramesh Kumar, learned counsel for opposite party nos. 2 to 12 and Sri O.P. Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed on behalf of the appellant challenging the impugned order dated 17.11.2022 passed by learned Special Judge, SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Act/Additional District and Sessions Judge, Lalitpur in Criminal Misc. Case No. 725/2022 rejecting the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

3. The undisputed facts are as below:-

The revisionist/appellant moved an application against 11 named including the incharge S.O. , Police Station Mahrauni and two unknown under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. alleging that they came on a Safari to his house when they had gone to sleep after celebrating the birthday of his son Ankur; they surrounded the house and before the complainant could understand anything, he saw that his daughter in-law Seema has been trying to strangulate her husband Ankur; she snatched golden chain and diamond ring from his person and physically assaulted him causing injuries; when the complainant's wife Meera Devi and daughter Bharti protested to her, she called the police from Police Station Mahrauni; the police of the local police station took away his son; next day at about 11 am in the morning all the accused persons again intruded in his house, broke open the lock of his almirah and removed valuable and cash; they physically assaulted his family members; it is specifically stated in the application that 2 days thereafter on 20.09.2022, when he was sitting on his shop as usual, the incharge of Police Station-Rajesh Kumar Dubey threatened him and abused him using caste driven words.

4. The only contention of the appellant is that there were 2 unknown person who cannot be identified unless the matter is investigated by the police, therefore the order passed by the learned trial court directing the registration of complaint case is not sustainable.

5. The contention is opposed by the other side arguing that the appellant cannot insist upon a particular relief from the court; if the allegations as contained in the application moved under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. are gone through, there are enough of indicators to demonstrate that whole story is false and concocted; it was not even worth grant of relief of registration as complaint, it should have been out-rightly dismissed.

6. I went through all the material on record. The learned trial Judge found it fit to treat the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. as complaint. In my view it was perfectly under his discretionary power to treat it as complaint instead of directing for registration of FIR. I do not find any illegality, impropriety or irregularity in the order impugned. Therefore, this criminal appeal is dismissed.

(A) Criminal Law - Acquittal in Murder Case Based on Circumstantial Evidence - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 302, 201 ,120B - Circumstantial Evidence - motive - illicit relationship - last seen - chain of evidence - acquittal - reasonable doubt - Conviction based solely on circumstantial evidence is not sustainable unless the prosecution establishes a complete chain of evidence proving the guilt beyond reasonable doubt and excludes every other hypothesis. (Para 41-49)

Appellant was convicted of murder and conspiracy – allegation of an illicit relationship with wife of deceased -conspired with her to murder her husband - prosecution's case relied on circumstantial evidence, including motive and last seen evidence - No direct evidence was presented to establish the accused's involvement - Trial court acquitted wife of deceased due to lack of evidence for conspiracy. (Para 1-3, 10, 32-34, 39-40)

HELD: - Appellant cannot be convicted without proof of motive or conspiracy with co-accused (Sanjoo), who was acquitted by trial court. Conviction and sentence under Sections 302 and 201 IPC were set aside due to the prosecution's failure to establish a complete chain of circumstantial evidence. Appellant was acquitted. (Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Singh Sangwan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the appellant and learned AGA for the State.

2. This appeal is preferred against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 04.06.2019 passed by the learned Additional District & Sessions Judge/ Fast Track Court No. 1, Hapur in Sessions Trial No. 145 of 2017(State of U.P. vs. Saleem and another), arising out of Case Crime No. 498 of 2016, Police Station- Garh Mukhteshwar, District- Hapur whereby the appellant was held guilty of offence punishable under Section 302 and 201 of IPC and was sentenced to undergo life imprisonment under Section 302 with a fine of Rs. 5,000/- and in default of non-deposit of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment of one year and further three years simple imprisonment under Section 201 IPC along with a fine of Rs. 2,000/-, in default of payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment of six months.

3. The co-accused of the appellant Smt. Sanjoo was acquitted of the charge. The case as set up by the prosecution, based on the statement of informant- P.W.-1 Seoraj Singh is that he had a son namely Kuldeep (since deceased) who was married with Sanjoo daughter of Vijay Pal in the year 2002. Out of this wedlock, four children were born. Appellant Saleem is resident of Narangpur and used to visit the house of his son. Saleem had developed illicit relationship with Smt. Sanjoo. The informant and his son Kuldeep used to protest in this regard. On 21/22.11.2016, Kuldeep and his wife Sanjoo had exchanged hot words and even had a scuffle with each other. On 25.11.2016, at about 11 AM Kuldeep told the informant that his wife is not mending her ways and therefore, he is going to police station to lodge complaint. On this, Smt. Sanjo and appellant Saleem felt sorry and promised that nothing of such type will happen in future. On next date, i.e. 26.11.2016 at about 2.00 PM, when informant and one Tilakram, Municipal Councillor, who is also resident of the vicinity of appellant were standing near Ambedkar Gate, he saw that his son Kuldeep was going along with appellant Saleem. Informant asked him where he is going along with Saleem, upon this his son told him that they are going for some important work and he will return by the evening. When his son did not return in the evening, he visited house of his daughter-in-law Sanjoo and asked about the whereabouts of Kuldeep. Sanjoo said that he will return back, but thereafter, son of the informant did not return back. He along with other family members started searching for him. When he along with his family members put pressure on Sanjoo, she informed that she is going to police station for lodging a missing report of Kuldeep. In the meantime, informant was searching his son Kuldeep. Thereafter, he came to know through a newspaper that in the intervening night of 26/27.11.2016 body of an unknown man was found by the police on the back side of Rahi Hotel along with the railway line. In this regard, the police of police station Brij Ghat had initiated the proceedings. Informant along with his other son Vijay Pal, Tilakram (Municipal Councillor) and son-in-law Ajeet and some other family members and resident of his area went to Police Station-Brij Ghat. The police informed that a dead body was found on the intervening night of 26/27.11.2016 near the railway line. They opened a parcel and asked them to identify the clothes upon which they identified that these were the clothes of his son Kuldeep. They were also shown the photographs of the deceased and some pamphlets. They had every reason to believe that the deceased was his son Kuldeep. The informant told the police that he has every reason to believe that murder of his son Kuldeep is committed by Saleem and his daughter-in-law Sanjoo and in order to mislead, his dead body was thrown near the railway line. On the basis of the aforesaid complaint, FIR under Section 302, 201, 120 B IPC was registered on 02.12.2016 and the same was entered in the general diary. Thereafter, the investigation was carried out and both Saleem and Sanjoo were arrested and charge-sheet was filed against them. The case was then committed to the court of Sessions where charges under Section 302, 201 IPC were framed against the appellant Saleem and charges under Section 302 read with Section 201 and 120

B were framed against Sanjoo. Both the accused denied the charges and claimed trial.

4. The prosecution examined eight witnesses. P.W.-1- informant Seoraj Singh deposed on the line of facts as per the FIR. He proved the complaint Ex. A4/3 on the basis of which FIR was registered as Ex.Ka-1. This witness also proved the recovery memo of the blood stained stones and earth which is Ex. Ka-2. In cross-examination, this witness stated that he is not an eye-witness. He further stated that Kuldeep and Sanjoo were residing separately for the last ten years. This witness, however, stated that he used to visit the house of Sanjoo and Kuldeep, frequently and in further cross-examination, this witness stated that when he had gone to the police station for recording the FIR, he was accompanied by 15-20 persons and FIR was recorded after due consideration.

5. P.W.-2 Tilakram stated that on 26.11.2016, at about 2.00 p.m., he was standing with Seoraj Singh at Ambedkar Gate for purchasing some articles. In the meantime, Seoraj Singh saw his son Kuldeep and asked him where he is going along with Saleem. Upon this, Kuldeep stated that he is going for some urgent work and will come back by evening. P.W.-2 asked Seroaj Singh who is Saleem, then he informed that Saleem is a man from the side of in-laws of Kuldeep and visits Kuldeep's house. Seoraj Singh also informed that Saleem and his daughter-in-law are having illicit relationship, but they have felt sorry about the same. This witness stated that he has no knowledge whether Kuldeep had taken money from Saleem. Thereafter, Seoraj Singh met him one or two times and told that his son is not traceable. On reading a new item that unclaimed dead body was found near the railway line, many persons along with Seoraj Singh and his family went to Police Station- Brij Ghat where SHO had asked them to identify clothes and photographs. After identifying the same to be of Kuldeep, Seoraj Singh asked him to write a complaint. The complaint was written in his handwriting.

6. In cross-examination, this witness stated that he had no knowledge about the relationship between Sanjoo and Kuldeep. They used to reside in the rented house of one Sunil Kumar Rastogi and he used to visit the house of Sunil Kumar Rastogi. PW-1 told him that Saleem and Sanjoo have illicit relationship. This witness further stated that he has gone to Police Station along with 10-12 persons and after due consideration that the FIR is to be registered in a particular manner it was recorded. He went to police station on 02.12.2016. The script was dictated by Seoraj Singh and written by him thereafter it was signed by Seoraj. This witness pleaded ignorance about the manner in which murder of Kuldeep was committed.

7. PW-3 Ravindra is a witness of Panchayatnama of the dead body dated 27.11.2016.

8. PW-4- Dr. Praveen Kumar Gupta, conducted the post mortem of Kuldeep and has reported the following injuries:

1. Lacerated wound 13cm x 6cm x cavity deep on left side of skull obliquely placed just above left ear cavity empty underlying bone are fractured.

2. Lacerated wound on left side of skull posteriorly 8cm x 4.5 cm x cavity

3. Lacerated wound 15cm x 7cm x bone deep on left forearm posteriorly just below elbow underlying bone fractured.

4. Lacerated wound 5cm x 3cm x muscle deep 9cm below injury no. 3.

5. Abrasion on right arm 3cm x 2cm laterally 6cm below right shoulder.

9. This witness further stated that during the internal investigation both parietal bones of skull towards left side were fractured, there was no brain tissue in the cavity and both the lungs were congested. The cause of death was due to coma on account of sustaining injuries within half of the day.

10. PW-5- Pravesh Kumar, Constable stated that he was posted in the Police Station- Garh Mukhteshwar, where upon receiving a complaint from Seoraj Singh against the accused person, the same was recorded on a computer and he had signed it. Thereafter, Samarjeet Singh, SHO had also signed and vide G.D. No. 22 dated 10:30 PM on 02.12.2016, which is A4/1 and was exhibited as Ka-5. The G.D. was exhibited as Ex-Ka6. In cross-examination, this witness stated that name of the computer operator is not mentioned in the FIR.

11. PW-6- Rajendra Singh, Sub-Inspector, stated that he was posted as Sub-Inspector in Brij Ghat, Police Station- Garh Mukhteshwar and on receiving information about a dead body, at about 01:30 in night, he along with other co-officials went to the spot and with the help of a torch he inspected the dead body which was lying along the side of the railway line towards up down line. He has also broadly given the nature of injuries and as the dead body could not be identified by calling some persons, the Panchayatnama was prepared which was signed by five persons. The Panchayatnama is Ex-Ka-3. The photograph of the dead body is Ex-Ka-7 and the sample seal is Ex-Ka-8. In cross-examination, this witness stated that at the first instance it was opined that the deceased could have died by falling from the train as such type of accidents occur at the place of incident because there is a curve on the railway track. In the personal search of the deceased, nothing was recovered and as the deceased could not be identified the Panchayatnama was done and the blood stained stones and clothes were recovered.

12. PW-7- Harinandan Sharma, S.I. stated that he was posted in Police Station- Garh Mukhteshwar. On receiving the information regarding the FIR, on 10.12.2016 on direction of Samarjeet Singh, S.H.O. on pointing out of Saleem, he had recovered the bamboo stick and the green coloured slipper along with blood stained earth which was exhibited as Ka-9 and prepared the memo which is Ex-Ka-10. During cross-examination this witness stated that he did not arrest the accused person and on the asking of Saleem, the recovery was effected.

13. PW-8- Samarjeet Singh, Inspector, stated that he has verified the statement of witnesses and on 06.12.2016 the statements of witnesses, Vijay Pal Singh, Ajit Singh and Smt. Mayadin were recorded, thereafter, efforts were made to arrest the accused-Saleem on 10.12.2016 and thereafter along with the police force he was taken to the place of occurrence from where he got recovered one slipper of the deceased along with blood stains earth and one Danda was also recovered which was taken in possession vide recovery memo. Thereafter, he arrested co-accused, Sanjoo on 11.12.2016 and recorded confession statement of Saleem. This witness has also stated about recording of statement of the other witnesses including Dr. Praveen Gupta who conducted the post-mortem report. The report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. was submitted before the Ilaka Magistrate which is Ex-Ka-11. This witness stated that Saleem was arrested near the Central Bank, Athsaini. This witness also stated that Saleem was not there in the village and had gone to his native place in Agra and he was arrested on 10.12.2016. The report of the FSL was exhibited as Ka-12 and the report submitted before the Court as Ka-13. During his examination, the parcel made by the police was opened and the slipper of deceased was marked as Ex-2.

14. In cross-examination, this witness stated that he had visited the place of incident after 8-9 days of recovery of the dead body and at that time the Sub-Inspector who prepared the Panchayatnama was not along with him. The statement of the accused was recorded in police station and not at the spot. The witness stated that the blood stains which was found near the dead body, was not sent to the Fingerprint Expert.

15. In further cross-examination, this witness stated that during investigation, in the final report no evidence regarding the illicit relationship of Sanjoo and Saleem had come on record.

16. Thereafter, the trial court recorded the statement of both the accused under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. and put the incriminating evidence against them. Both the accused stated that they are not in illicit relationship with each other. A plea was taken that on the date of incident Saleem was not present at the spot and he was at his house in Agra. Thereafter, the accused were given opportunity to lead their defence evidence.

17. DW-1- Pawan Kumar resident of Dayalbagh, Agra stated that he has done the job of electrician on the house of Saleem from 19.11.2016 to 28.11.2016. On 10.12.2016, when he had gone to take money from Saleem, he found that police from Amar Vihar Police Station has arrested Saleem.

18. DW-2- Zakir Hussain also stated that he was also doing the labour work and had accompanied Saleem from 14.11.2016 to 18.11.2016 to Village- Nithavali to attend the marriage of his cousin and thereafter he returned back to Agra from where the police arrested Saleem.

19. DW-3- Basu, about 14 years' old son of deceased Kuldeep and co-accused Sanjoo, stated that he is the eldest among four brothers and sisters. His father Kuldeep was doing business of finance and has lent loan to many persons. He had exchanged hot words with the borrowers and thereafter on 26.11.2021, he left home. He along with his mother and his grand father Seoraj Singh searched for him and thereafter they got the information about his death. This witness stated that he has never seen Saleem with his mother Sanjoo and Saleem never stayed in his house during night time. His mother has sent a complaint against the borrowers but no action was taken by police.

20. In cross-examination by public prosecutor, this witness stated that he has studied up to Class VII and had not accompanied his grand father when FIR was registered. Saleem is from the side of his maternal grand parents i.e. Village- Narang, Police Station- Parikshitgarh. Saleem has never visited his house. He did not remember the name of persons to whom his father has lent money. This witness denied the suggestion that after he used to go to school, Saleem used to come to his house. He further stated that his father was not murdered by Saleem.

21. The trial court, thereafter, vide impugned judgment of conviction and order of sentence acquitted co-accused Sanjoo, wife of deceased- Kuldeep, whereas convicted the appellant.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the appellant is in continuous custody since the date of his arrest and as on today his custody is 7 years 1 month and 8 days.

23. The trial court record is requisitioned and the paper book is ready and therefore, the arguments in the main appeal is heard and the entire evidence is re-appreciated.

24. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that as per the informant, the marriage of the deceased Kuldeep was performed with co-accused Sanjoo in the year 2002 and four children were born out of this wedlock. Learned counsel argues that though it is stated in the FIR that Saleem and Sanjoo had developed illicit relationship, however, from 2002 till 26.11.2016 when the dead body of Kuldeep was found, no complaint was ever given to police or any Panchayat or any respectable person in this regard.

25. The counsel has further argued that the statement of PW-2 is wholly not trust-worthy and therefore no reliance can be placed. The counsel submits that PW-2 has stated that on 26.11.2016, he along with informant PW-1- Seoraj Singh has seen Kuldeep Singh in company of Saleem and on his asking, Seoraj told him that Saleem has developed illicit relationship with his daughter-in-law. It is submitted that in cross-examination, this witness stated that he knew one Sunil Kumar Rastogi, who is landlord of Kuldeep and where couple was residing for the last 10 years and he used to visit the house of Sunil Kumar Rastogi but this witness has nowhere deposed that ever Sunil Kumar Rastogi told him about any matrimonial discord between Kuldeep and Sanjoo on account of the extra-marital relationship of Sanjoo with appellant Saleem.

26. Counsel next argued that a totally unbelievable version is set up in the FIR where it is stated that on 25.11.2016 i.e. a date prior to the recovery of the dead body of Kuldeep, he had informed his father-PW1 that on account of illicit relationship of Sanjoo and Saleem, he is just fed up and he is going to register a complaint with the police. However, both Sanjoo and Saleem felt sorry and promised not to do any such thing in future and therefore, no action was taken. Counsel submits that on the very next day i.e. 26.11.2016, as per the informant both Kuldeep and Saleem were going together which is a totally unbelievable version that in such a strained relationship they will be going together for some work.

27. Counsel has argued that this version itself shows that Saleem has been falsely implicated as Kuldeep has either committed suicide or has fallen from the train resulting into his death.

28. Learned counsel has also referred to the recovery memo of blood stained stones and earth to submit that on 02.12.2016, the recovery was effected after the five days of the date of incident i.e. only after a complaint was lodged with the police by PW-1. Counsel has also assailed the recovery memo of a three feet long bamboo stick and the blood stained earth at the instance of the appellant Saleem on 10.12.2016 i.e. after about 15 days of the incident by submitting that the same has been framed on the appellant.

29. Counsel has also referred to the inquest report/Pachayatnama, Ex-Ka-3 dated 27.11.2016 prepared by the police in which it is stated that it is a case of train accident.

30. Learned counsel, having referred to the statement of PW-4- Dr. Praveen Kumar Gupta along with post-mortem report while describing the injuries received by the deceased, he submitted that all the injuries are sustained by deceased on the left side of the body which suggests that it is a case of accident.

31. Counsel has also referred to the cross-examination of PW-8 who has admitted that there is a curve on the railway track at the place of occurrence where similar accident usually takes place. It is argued by the counsel for the appellant that the case of accident or suicide has been converted to a case of murder and the appellant has been falsely implicated in the case.

32. Learned counsel has argued that there is absolutely no motive proved on record. The motive attributed in the FIR is that both the accused, Sanjoo and appellant-Saleem, after developing extra-marital physical relationship, committed murder of Kuldeep. A reference is made to cross-examination of the Investigating Officer who has clearly stated that during investigation no evidence has come on record in this regard. Learned counsel further submitted that even no evidence is produced by PW-1- informant that in a 14 year old marriage between deceased-Kuldeep and Sanjoo from which four children were born, any complaint was given to any authority or Panchayat regarding the illicit relationship and therefore, the motive is not proved.

33. The counsel has further submitted that the appellant did not record the statement of the landlord where the couple was residing for the last ten years to the fact that they had any fight or difference of opinion on account of the extra-marital affair of Sanjoo with Saleem. Lastly, heavy reliance is placed on the statement of DW-3 who is 14 years old son of deceased Kuldeep and co-accused Sanjoo wherein he has clearly denied that his mother was having any relationship with appellant Saleem. This witness has stated that Saleem was a friend of his maternal uncle and he has never visited his house in Garh Mukhteshwar and never stayed at night. In cross-examination by the public prosecutor, the testimony of the defence witness could not be shattered. No cross-examination was offered to this witness regarding any strained relationship of his parents, on account of the intimacy of his mother with Saleem or that they used to fight with each other in this regard. Rather this witness has denied the suggestion that after he used to go to school, Saleem used to visit his house or stayed in house at night.

34. This witness has categorically stated that his father had a dispute with the persons to whom he has given money on interest, he further denied that his father was murdered by Saleem.

35. Counsel submits that on the basis of the statement of DW-3.,co-accused Sanjoo was acquitted as the element of conspiracy was not proved and was missing, however, on same set of evidence, the appellant is wrongly convicted.

36. The counsel submits that no State appeal has been filed by the prosecution challenging the acquittal of Sanjoo and on the same set of evidence, the appellant had been convicted, despite there being no evidence of conspiracy.

37. The counsel has lastly argued that trial court has wrongly believed an unbelievable version that despite extra-marital relationship between Sanjoo and Saleem and his strained relationship with them, he was still going with him for some work on date of incident.

38. The counsel has also argued that in the entire investigation, in the recovery memo, except PW-1 and PW-2, who are the informant and witness of fact as stated in the FIR, no other independent witness was there to prove authenticity of recovery. The counsel submits that it has come in the statement of both PW-1 and PW-2 that the FIR was got registered after due deliberation and consideration, therefore, there is every possibility of false implication of the appellant.

39. Counsel has also argued that the appellant Saleem was not present at the spot on the date of incident as it is proved from the statement of DW-1 and DW-2 that he was at his house in Agra and therefore, the plea of Alibi was not appreciated by the trial court.

40. The counsel has lastly argued that the entire case is based on circumstantial evidence or the last seen evidence and the chain is missing.

41. Learned counsel has referred to Laxman Prasad vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2023) 6 SCC 399 wherein the Supreme Court has held in case of circumstantial evidence, prosecution is to establish the motive, last seen and recovery of weapon on the pointing of accused and if the chain is not complete, conviction has to be set aside.

42. The counsel has also relied upon Pritinder Singh vs. State of Punjab (2023) 7 SCC 727 wherein the Supreme Case has relied upon earlier judgment in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116 and has held as under:

"15. Undisputedly, the present case is a case which rests on circumstantial evidence. The law with regard to conviction in the case of circumstantial evidence is very well crystallised in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra.

16. We may gainfully refer to the following observations of this Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda; (SCC p. 185, paras 153-54)

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra where the following observations were made: [SCC para 19, p. 807]

'19.....Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.'

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

(emphasis in original)

17. It can thus be seen that this Court has held that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. It has been held that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. It has been held that there is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved". It has been held that the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty. It has been held that the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one sought to be proved, and that there must be a chain of evidence so complete so as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

18. It is a settled principle of law that however strong a suspicion may be, it cannot take place of a proof beyond reasonable doubt. In the light of these guiding principles, we will have to consider the present case."

43. Reliance is also placed on a recent judgment of Supreme Court Pradeep Kumar vs. State of Haryana (2024) SCC OnLine SC 21 in which similar view has been taken while relying upon 'Pritinder Singh's' case (supra), it is held that when there is a yawning gap between the charge against the appellant and prosecution evidence and the circumstances do not establish the guilt of appellant and the evidence adduced gives rise to improbabilities and inconsistencies, the conviction is not sustainable.

44. Learned A.G.A. for the State, in reply, has however submitted that motive in this case is proved as it has come in the statement of PW-1- informant that both accused, Sanjoo-wife of deceased Kuldeep and appellant-Saleem, have developed extra-marital affair and due to that reason, they in conspiracy with which other have murdered Kuldeep. It is also argued that the dead body was recovered from near the railway line and on the pointing out of appellant, a bamboo stick, slipper as well as blood stained earth was recovered from the spot.

45. Learned State Counsel has submitted that it has also come in evidence that Kuldeep has complained to his father about the extra-marital relationship of accused person, a day prior to the date of incident and therefore, the motive is proved.

46. On a Court query, learned A.G.A. for the State could not dispute that the co-accused-Sanjoo stands acquitted and State has not filed any appeal challenging the judgment of acquittal of Sanjoo.

47. Needless to accord that a period of four years has already lapsed when the judgment of acquittal was passed.

48. After hearing counsel for the parties and on re-appreciation of the entire evidence, with the help of both the learned counsels, and going through the paper-book, we find merits in this appeal for the following reasons:

A. The motive in this case is not proved. As per PW-1- informant, his son and co-accused Sanjoo were residing in a rented accommodation for the last 10 years. This witness has also stated that their marriage was performed in the year 2002 and four children were born who were residing with deceased Kuldeep and his wife Sanjoo.

There is absolutely no evidence on record to suggest in an intervening period of 14 years at any point of time a complaint was given by Kuldeep or PW-1 to police, in this regard. There is no evidence that ever any Panchayat was convened within the family of Sanjoo about the extra-marital affairs of Sanjoo and Saleem or that any respected person was called in this regard.

PW-2 has stated that he knew the landlord of the deceased namely Sunil Kumar Rastogi and he used to visit him at his house. This witness further stated that only a day prior to the incident, PW-1 informed him about the illicit relationship between Sanjoo and Saleem. The police has never recorded the statement of landlord of the couple to find out whether there was any such illicit relationship between the two.

Even PW-8, Investigation Officer has categorically stated that during investigation no evidence has come on record about the illicit relationship between Sanjoo and Saleem. The most important witness i.e. DW-3, Basu, aged about 14 years who is son of deceased Kuldeep and Sanjoo, in clear and unequivocal terms denied that Saleem used to visit his house or he had any intimacy with his mother. In cross-examination by the public prosecutor, this witness clearly stated that Saleem neither visited their house nor stayed at night. This witness has even denied that Saleem has committed murder of his father.

Therefore, the motive attributed to appellant is not proved.

B. Another important aspect is that though the charge of conspiracy under Section 120B was framed against co-accused Sanjoo and Section 302 I.P.C. for committing murder of her husband-Kuldeep on account of her extra-marital affair with appellant Saleem, however, the trial court believing the statement of DW-3, Basu, son of deceased-Kuldeep and Sanjoo, acquitted her of charge under Section 302 and 120B I.P.C. holding that the element of conspiracy is missing. The judgment of acquittal of Sanjoo has attained finality as no State appeal is filed.

Therefore, on the same set of evidence where DW-3 has clearly stated that appellant has not committed murder of her father, even the conspiracy against the appellant is not proved.

C. The complete chain of circumstantial evidence is also not proved in this case. PW-1 has stated that a day prior to the incident on 25.11.2016, his son Kuldeep informed him that he is going to lodge a complaint to police regarding extra-marital affair between Sanjoo and Saleem. However, they felt sorry and promised not to repeat such thing. On the very next day i.e. 26.11.2016, PW-1 has seen both Kuldeep and Saleem going together for some work, which is again an unbelievable version that despite strained relationship between deceased Kuldeep and Saleem who is alleged to having extra-marital affair with his wife Sanjoo, immediately on the next date of some dispute, he would accompany him for some work.

D. At the cost of repetition, PW-2 for the first time came to know about such relationship on 26.11.2016 only when PW-1 informed him, though he stated that he was regularly visiting the house of landlord, Sunil Kumar Rastogi where Kuldeep and Sanjoo were living for the last ten years. The Panchayatnama is Ex-Ka3 in which the police at the first instance reported it a case of accident and similarly in the inquest report, it is recorded to be a train accident. It has come in the statement of PW-8 that the place of occurrence is on the railway line where there is a curve and many accidents used to occur at that place. Moreover, the deceased suffered majority of the injuries on his left side of body which also suggest it to be a case of accident. Therefore, the possibility that the deceased had either fallen from the train or had committed suicide cannot be ruled out.

E. It has come in the cross-examination of the prosecution witness as well as in the statement of DW-3, son of the deceased that his father Kuldeep was doing business of finance and used to lend money to people. This witness has also stated that his father used to have dispute with the person to whom he has lent money. PW-1 has stated that financial condition of his son was not good at time of incident and there was money dealing between Kuldeep and Saleem which is another circumstance against prosecution.

F. There is a delay of about five days in reporting the matter to the police. As per PW-1, Kuldeep did not return back on 26.11.2016 and the FIR was registered on 02.12.2016.

G. It has come in the statement of both PW-1- informant and PW-2 Tilakram that they had gone to police station along with some other persons and after due consideration and discussion about the manner in which the FIR should be registered, the complaint was written by PW-2 on the direction of PW-1. The possibility of false implication of appellant cannot be ruled out specially in the view of fact that co-accused Sanjoo already stand acquitted by the trial court.

H. Another aspect is that marriage of Sanjoo and Kuldeep was performed in the year 2002, as per PW-1 and four children were born out of this wedlock. DW-3, Basu is the eldest son who has categorically stated that there was no illicit relationship between his mother Sanjoo and appellant Saleem. The very fact that in a 14 year old marriage there was no matrimonial litigation or complaint to any authority on account of any matrimonial discord would show that prosecution has failed to prove this aspect of illicit relationship.

I. It has come in the statement of PW-8, Investigation Officer that during investigation he has recorded the statements of one Vishwajeet Singh, the other son of informant, his wife Mayadin and son-in-law Ajeet but none of these witnesses were examined by the prosecution to prove the fact of extra-marital affair of Sanjoo and Saleem, specially when PW-8 has stated that no evidence has come on record in this regard.

49. Therefore, in the absence of prosecution having been able to prove any motive towards the appellant, conspiracy between him and Sanjoo who stands acquitted by the trial court holding that the conspiracy is not proved between them, the conviction of appellant is not sustainable in view of the judgements in Laxman Prasad vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (supra), Pritinder Singh vs. State of Punjab (supra) and Pradeep Kumar vs. State of Haryana (supra) and the fact that prosecution has failed to prove a complete chain of evidence against the appellant.

50. Accordingly, this appeal is allowed. Judgment of conviction and order of sentence dated 04.06.2019 are set aside.

51. The appellant is acquitted of the charge. He be released from the judicial custody forthwith, if not required in any other case.

52. The bail and surety bonds, if any, are discharged. Any pending application is also disposed of as infructuous. Record and proceedings be sent back to the Trial Court forthwith.

Counsel for the Respondent:
G.A., Sri Anand Pratap Singh, Sri Aryan Srivastava, Sri Prakash Chandra Srivastava

(A) Criminal Law - Acquittal from Murder Charges - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 302 – murder, Section 149 – unlawful assembly - Common object - Unlawful assembly - Constructive liability - Vicarious liability - Exhortation - The Code of criminal procedure, 1973 - Section 216 – Court may alter charge , Section 217 - Recall of witnesses when charge altered - Mere presence in an assembly without proof of common object cannot be stretched to such an extent so as to implicate the innocent person - Common object and knowledge of that object by the accused must be proven - witness whose evidence is essential for unfolding the narrative must be produced in evidence. (Para - 18, 19, 23,25)

(B) Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 149 - To convict someone under Section 149, the prosecution must establish (i) There was an unlawful assembly (ii) An offense was committed by a member of the assembly (iii) The offense was committed in prosecution of the common object of the assembly, or the members knew it was likely to be committed.(Para - 20)

(C) Interpretation of Statute - Section 149 I.P.C allows constructive liability to all members of an unlawful assembly, if an offense is committed in the prosecution of the common object or if the assembly knew it was likely to be committed - Prosecution must prove the formation and knowledge of the assembly beyond reasonable doubt, using cogent evidence. (Para - 18,19)

Murder case involving six accused - Allegation of unlawful assembly with common object - Discrepancies in witness statements and evidence - trial court convicted accused under Section 302 read with Section 149 IPC - leading to present appeal. (Para – 4 to 8 ,18,19)

HELD: - Delay in lodging FIR, discrepancies in witness testimonies, non-examination of a crucial witness (wife of the deceased), and lack of direct evidence weakened the prosecution's case. Court finds insufficient evidence to convict all six accused under Section 149. Judgment and order of trial court set aside. Appellants acquitted of charges under Section 302/149 IPC. Bail bonds cancelled and sureties discharged. (Para – 18,24,25,26)

Appeal allowed. (E-7)

1. Heard Shri Ravindra Sharma, Shri N.K. Singh and Shri R.B. Singh, learned counsel for the surviving appellant nos.3,5,and 6; Shri Rishab Srivastava, learned counsel for the informant and Shri Sushil Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.A.-Ist.

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgement and order dated 17.10.2002, passed by Additional Sessions Judge(Fast Track Court No.3), Agra in Sessions Trial No. 471 of 1996, convicting and sentencing the appellants under section 302 read with section 149 I.P.C. to undergo life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 5,000/- against each accused-appellant and in case of non-payment of fine, to undergo one year's R.I.

3. This appeal has already been dismissed as abated against appellant no.1, Amar Singh, appellant no.2, Raghuraj Singh and appellant no.4, Ram Saran by the order of this court dated 12.1.2024.The appeal has been pressed only regarding surviving appellant nos. 3,5 and 6,namely, Devendra Singh, Kehari Singh and Rakesh Kumar.

4. The prosecution case as per First Information Report is that in the night of about 19/20.12.1995, uncle of the informant, Gyan Singh and his aunt, Smt. Urmila were sleeping in their baithak (drawing room) when at about 2.30-3.00 A.M., Gyan Singh heard some noise regarding presence of some persons outside his Baithak. He called from inside, who is there? On this his wife, Urmila, also awoked. An earthen lamp was burning inside the Baithak. Gyan Singh, opened the door to see who is outside when co-villagers, Amar Singh, Raghuraj Singh, Devendra Singh, sons of Ajab Singh; Ram Saran son of Mukut Singh; Kehri Singh son of Mantoo Singh and Rakesh Kumar son of Ramesh Singh Thakur, forced their way inside the Baithak and caught hold of Gyan Singh with common object and started assaulting him. On alarm being raised by the first informant and Gyan Singh, the villagers, Hari Om son of Vishambhar, Rajendra Singh son of Sobha Ram and many others came running,who saw the incident. In the meantime accused persons, after causing murder of Gyan Singh, ran towards the northern side. Informant and other witnesses saw the accused persons well in the light of earthen lamp and torches. Yesterday on 19.12.1995, the Bahu (daughter-in-law) of accused, Raghuraj Singh, was making cow dung cakes, when the deceased, Gyan Singh, was coming from his agricultural field. Daughter-in-law of Raghuraj Singh made complaint at her house that Gyan Singh was abusing her. On account of aforesaid incident all the accused persons caused the murder of Gyan Singh.

5. The case was committed by the C.J.M., Agra to the Sessions Court on 17.6.1996 for trial. The trial court charged the accused persons for committing the offence under section 302 I.P.C. They denied the charges and prayed for trial.

6. Before the trial court informant, Raj Kumar, was examined as P.W.1; eyewitness of the incident, Rajendra Singh was examined as P.W.2; Dr. Anoop Kumar, who conducted the postmortem of the deceased was examined as P.W.3,Head constable Harish Chandra, who proved the Chik First Information Report and entries in General Diary(G.D.) was examined as P.W.4; investigating officer of the case, M.P. Singh, was examined as P.W.5, Inspector Incharge, Hari Nath Sharma, who filed the charge sheet against accused and proved the same was examined as P.W.6.

7. P.W.1, Rajkumar deposed before the court that in the night of 19/20-12.1995 his uncle Gyan Singh and aunt, Urmila Devi, were lying in their baithak and an earthen lamp was burning on the window in the side of the baithak. At about 2:30-3:00 A.M. in the night presence of some persons outside the door was felt by his uncle, Gyan Singh, who waked up and called who is there?On his call his aunt, Urmila, also awoke. His uncle opened the latches of door of the baithak to see the persons outside and he found co-villagers, Raghuraj, Devendra Singh sons of Ajab Singh ; Ram Sharan son of Mukut, Rakesh son of Rajesh Singh standing near the door. All of them with surrounded his uncle Gyan Singh with common object and started beating him. Raghuraj had Ballam ; Ram Saran caught hold of Gyan Singh; Amar Singh and Devendra Singh caught hold of his right and left hands, respectively. Raghuraj attacked Gyan Singh by Ballam and Rakesh was exhorting him to kill Gyan Singh.Kehari was also exhorting alongwith Rakesh. He raised alarm and then neighbours, Hari Om Singh and Rajendra Singh, etc., came. Except accused, Rakesh, other accused belong to his village and he knows them. After causing murder of his uncle, Gyan Singh, they ran away towards northern side. He saw the accused persons in the light of earthen lamp and torch. He knew them well and identified them. Torches were in possession of P.W.1, Hariom and P.W.2, Rajendra Singh. On the same day at about 4 P.M. when Gyan Singh was returning to his house from agricultural field, bahu (daughter-in-law) of accused Raghuraj was making cakes of cow dung. She went to her house and icomplained that Gyan Singh was abusing her, resultantly accused persons developed enmity against Gyan Singh. Due to fear he did not went to the police station in the night to lodge First Information Report, when villagers were willing to accompany him to the police station.

8. In his cross examination, P.W.1 admitted that earthen lamp was burning on the window. In the baithak wherein they were sleeping ,there were two windows and inside main door earthen lamp was burning in the room on window of northern side.He reached the police station at 5-6 A.M. but inspector was not there and had given report at 8 A.M. in the police station when inspector came. He admitted that windows in the baithak were open and there was no door in the windows. In his cross examination, P.W.1 further admitted that his house is situated at about 100 meters from the house of deceased Gyan Singh. His wife had gone to her parents house at the time of alleged incident. At that time Gyan Singh was aged about 35 years and his wife,Urmila was aged 32-33 years. In the room where there was also a 1/1/2 years old child of his aunt , Urmila who was also sleeping. Gyan Singh was occasional drinker but at the time of incident he had not consumed liquor. In the suggestion he stated that he used to sleep in the same room with his uncle and aunt. He used to ply tractor of Gyan Singh and his cultivation. He denied his illicit relationship with his aunt, Urmila and causing murder of his uncle, Gyan Singh, because of such relationship with Urmila. P.W.2, Rajendra, was stated to be grandfather of Gyan Singh, who used to reside in different room. Before the incident accused persons had never abused or beaten Gyan Singh.He could not mention ballam in the First Information Report due to nervousness. He admitted that his aunt, Urmila and P.W2 raised alarm but he could not mention the same in First Information Report. Apart from Rajendra and Hariom number of other villagers came at the time of incident. As soon as his uncle opened the latches of the door accused persons caught hold him and had beaten him. Then he raised alarm and witnesses came within 1-2 minutes and saw the incident. He admitted that he has not mentioned this fact in the First Information Report that witnesses had come inside the room. His uncle was wearing Kurta and Payjama wherein blood stains was there. The accused person had made him naked after beating. Prior to the incident Gyan Singh was implicated in a case but what was that case he could not state before the court.He admitted that there was no enmity with accused person earlier but after incident enmity has cropped up.He finally stated that he gave his torch to the inspector.

9. P.W.2, Rajendra Singh,deposed before the court that at the of incident he was in his house .After hearing the noise his wife who was sleeping with him, said that there noise is coming. He took his torch and went to house of Gyan Singh, where he saw Amar Singh catching hold of one hand of Gyan Singh and other hand of Gyan Singh was caught hold by Devendra. Ram Saran was catching hold of Gyan Singh. He was asking Raghuraj to assault Gyan Singh by ballam. Kehari was standing. Raghuraj caused injury to Gyan Singh by Ballam on his head which hit his neck.This incident took place inside the house of Gyan Singh and Hariom also came at the scene of occurrence. Both raised alarm and then accused persons ran away. Gyan Singh died on the spot. Accused persons belong to his village. He knows them well since before the time of incident. He had seen accused persons in the light of earthen lamp and torch. He had provided torch to the inspector. After preparing memo historch was returned but his signature was not taken on the memo prepared by the investigating officer.

10. In his cross examination P.W.2 admitted that he is residing with Raj Kumar, P.W.1, in the same house. Gyan Singh used to reside in different house. Gyan Singh was his nephew. There are two windows on eastern and southern side of the house of the Gyan Singh. There is no door in the eastern wall in the house of Gyan Singh. There are no doors and windows of his house.The door shown in the eastern wall by the investigating officer in the site plan is wrong.He reached the place of incident first and thereafter Hariom reached there. His wife got him awake after hearing the noise. He recognized voice of wife of the deceased , Urmila and P.W.1, Raj Kumar and hence he went there .There is no wall between the room of Gyan Singh and Khadanja road in front of his house. At the time of alleged incident Gyan Singh was wearing Kurta and underwear. He denied suggestion that he was not there at the time of incident.

11. P.W.3, Dr. Anoop Kumar, stated that deceased suffered one incised wound 3 cm x 1 cm x Cavity deep front of middle neck and two abrasions of 2cmx 2 cm and 4 cm. X 3cm on back of neck and left shoulder respectively. Mud was found on the dead body of the deceased. In internal examination windpipe of the deceased was found ruptured and left artery of the deceased was also found ruptured. Cause of death of deceased was found to be shock and haemorrhage as a result of antemortem injuries.

12. P.W.4, H.C., Harish Chandra, proved the lodging of First Information Report by the informant at 8.10 A.M. on 20.12.1995 and making entry in the general diary.

13. P.W.5, , investigating officer, proved record of his investigation and evidence collected by him during investigation. He denied that at the time of inquest, First Information Report was not lodged. During cross examination he admitted that he had shown the door in the house of the deceased and two windows without doors. He admitted that statement of the wife of the deceased, Urmila, was recorded by subsequent investigating officer after his transfer.He admitted making memo of recovery of torch but not taking the same in possession. He further stated that P.W.2 informed him that when he raised alarm Rajendra and Hariom came there.Rajendra was not eye witness of the incident.

14. P.W.6, Hari Nath Sharma, proved recording of the statement of the wife of deceased, Urmila and statements of other accused persons.

15. Learned counsel for the appellants has advanced following arguments:

(i) That there is unexplained delay in lodging the First Information Report. The incident is alleged to have taken place in the intervening night of 19/20.12.1995 between 2.30-3.00 A.M. but the First Information Report was registered on 20.12.1995 at 8.10 A.M. when the distance of the police station from the place of incident was only six kilometres. He has submitted that the delay in lodging the First Information Report assumed significance when P.W.1 explained that on account of fear, he did not lodged the First Information Report earlier but he admitted in his statement that villagers were ready to accompany him to the police station but on account of fear he did not went to police station at night;

(ii) that in the chik report the distance of police station is 6 kilometres, when according to the inquest report it is 8 kilometres. There is no mention of names of the accused in the inquest report nor there is mention of crime number on the photograph of dead body. P.W.5, investigating officer was cross examined on these points but he could not give satisfactorily reply to the questions put up before him in this regard. All the discrepancies in the police papers indicate that the First Information Report was ante-timed and was not in existence at the time of preparation of these papers. Nobody has seen the incident and First Information Report was lodged only on guess work;

(iii) that as per allegations in the First Information Report deceased heard some noise regarding presence of some people outside and when he opened the door, accused persons forced their way inside and caused his murder;

(iv) that the site plan prepared by the investigating officer, shows that deceased was sleeping in room situated in eastern side of his house which did not had any doors nor windows. P.W.1, Raj Kumar and P.W.2, Rajendra Singh , have admitted this fact in their cross examination that there was no wall between the Khadanja road and the room of deceased, Gyan Singh. Prosecution story is belied by the fact that there was no wall, not to say doors and windows, in the room where the deceased was sleeping with his wife in the night. Therefore prosecution case regarding opening of door by the deceased which allowed the entry of the accused inside the house was absolutely false;

(v) that there is single injury on the neck of the deceased as per doctor, P.W.3. The trachea of the deceased was found lacerated and carotid artery was found ruptured;

(vi) that First Information Report version and eyewitness account of the incident that the incident took place inside the room is doubtful. The autopsy doctor, P.W.3, has stated in his evidence that the dead body of the deceased was stained in mud but this fact was not disclosed in the inquest report. Deceased may have gone out in the field to urinate in the night and was murdered there by some one and thereafter his dead body was brought inside and the case with eyewitness account was set up. The urinary bladder of the deceased was found to be empty by the doctor, which proves that he had gone out to urinate;

(vii) that trial court charged the accused persons under section 302 I.P.C. simpliciter but has convicted them with aid of section 149 I.P.C. without altering or amending the charge under section 216 Cr.P.C. and recalling and re-examining the witnesses as per section 217 Cr.P.c., hence conviction of the appellants under section 302/149 I.P.C. cannot be sustained. The common object of six accused was not proved before the trial court;

(viii) that conviction of the appellant under section 302/149 I.P.C. is erroneous on another count also. None of them were assigned any specific role or overt act and were not alleged to be carrying any weapon. Subsequently P.W. 1, improved the prosecution case in his examination in-chief and stated that it was accused Raghuraj, who pierced Ballam in the neck of the deceased. Co-accused, Rakesh and Kehari Singh, were exhorting him. Co-accused, Amar Singh and Devendra Singh, were assigned the role of catching hold of hands of the deceased. The role of exhortation assigned to Khehari Singh and Rakesh is not convincing since if they had gone in the night to commit alleged offence with common object in planned manner, there was no need of exhortation of other co-accused which was sufficient for enabling the witnesses to wake up and see the incident;

(ix) that P.W.1, Raj Kumar, who was nephew of the deceased, Gyan Singh, has his own Pakka house at the distance of 100 meters from the house of deceased which he admitted in his statement before the trial court. The deceased, Gyan Singh, was 35 years of age and his wife, Urmila, was aged 32 years at the time of incident and why P.W.1, who was nephew of Gyan Singh, was sleeping in their house has not been explained. It has been submitted that presence of P.W.1, in the house of the deceased is not explained;

(x) that wife of the deceased, Urmila, who was admittedly present with the deceased and as per First Information Report version got awake at the time of incident, was not produced as witness before the trial court. P.W.1, Raj Kumar is real nephew of the deceased and P.W.2, Rajendra Singh is grand father of the deceased. P.W.5, M.P. Singh, has stated in his statement that P.W.2, Rajendra Singh, was not an eyewitness of the case. The conviction of the appellants on the basis of testimony of P.W.1, who was an interested and partisan witness, is highly unsafe and not sustainable. Wife of the deceased, Smt. Urmila was examined by the P.W.6, Inspector,Hari Nath Sharma during the investigation and her statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded but her non-examination before the trial court creates doubt about the prosecution case. Smt. Urmila was the best witness of the case, whose testimony was never got recorded before the trial court;

(xi) that the prosecution has failed to prove that there was sufficient light in night to identify the accused persons in the light of earthen lamp. Prosecution story does not inspires confidence. The earthen lamp was stated to be kept on window (Jangala) when it was proved that there is no window or door in the room. The story of seeing the accused persons in the torch light was subsequently cooked up but no torch was recovered by the investigating officer;

(xii) that the time of incident alleged in the First Information Report makes the case doubtful. The autopsy doctor, P.W.3, found watery fluid with small food particles in the stomach of the deceased and his bladder was empty, which proved that incident had taken place at about 11-12 P.M.. In villages people take dinner by 6-7 P.M. The doctor admitted that food takes six hours time to get fully digested but food was not found fully digested in the stomach of the deceased since his stomach was not empty between 2.30-3.00 A.M. ;

(xiii) that accused, Raghuraj, had allegedly pierced Ballam in the neck of the deceased, but the injury found was incised in nature which the doctor admitted cannot be caused by Ballam which causes punctured wound.

(xiv) that P.W.1 stated that deceased was wearing Kurta and Pajama at the time of alleged incident, when as per inquest report, he was found to be wearing only shirt and underwear. P.W. 3, doctor, found that the deceased was found wearing Kurta and Underwear. P.W. 1 stated in his statement that the accused persons disrobed the deceased after beating him but he did not explained why dead body of deceased was not found to be naked and found wearing Kurta and underwear. He has submitted that prosecution story is doubtful;

(xv) that motive of the crime alleged that the daughter-in-law (Bahu) of the co-accused, Raghuraj, had complained that while she was making cakes of cow dung, deceased had abused her and therefore six persons committed murder of the deceased does not sounds credible. There is no evidence that any altercation took place after deceased abused the alleged women. Directly murder of the deceased was caused by six persons. He has further submitted that P.W.1 was aged about 24 years and admitted that his wife had gone to her parental house on the night of the incident, therefore, he was sleeping in the house of deceased and his wife Urmila;

(xvi) that there was illicit relationship of P.W.1, aged about 29 years, with wife of the deceased, who was only aged about 32 years and P.W.1 with the help of wife of deceased may have caused murder of the deceased in the night. This was the reason why the wife of deceased never appeared in the witness box. This was also the reason why First Information Report was not promptly lodged. Number of co-villagers were alleged to have seen the incident but none of them were named and examined before the trial court. Prosecution case has not been proved beyond reasonable doubt. The defence has pointed out sufficient discrepancies in the prosecution case, which is sufficient for acquitting the surviving appellants of all the charges.

16. Learned counsel for the informant and learned A.G.A have vehemently opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellants. They have submitted that hyper-technical arguments have been made. The torch was recovered and exhibited by the investigating officer as exhibit-12. It has further been submitted that all the accused persons had formed unlawful assembly and committed alleged offence with common object.

17. They have further been submitted that non framing of charge under section 149 I.P.C. by the trial court will not be fatal for the prosecution case since section 149 I.P.C. does creates a separate offence but only declares vicarious liability of all the members of unlawful assembly who acted done with common object. Reliance has been placed in the judgement of Apex court in Vinubhai Ranchhodbhai Patel vs Rajivbhai Dudabhai Patel,AIR, 2018 SC. 2472.They have submitted that allegation of illicit relationship of the P.W.1 with wife of deceased, Smt. Urmila, is figment of imagination and no evidence was led to prove the same. P.W.1 has explained why he was present in the house of his uncle and aunt on the fateful night by deposing that his wife had gone to her parental house and therefore he was present in the house of the deceased. They have submitted that deceased was drunkard and has misbehaved with daughter-in-law of the appellant, Raghuraj, hence he was done to death. It has finally been submitted that prosecution has proved the case against the appellants beyond doubt and hence the judgement and order of conviction and sentence deserves to be upheld by this court.

18. After hearing rival contentions this court finds that six persons have been implicated in this case for committing the offence under section 302/149 I.P.C. Even if it is accepted that section 149 I.P.C. does not creates separate offence but only declares vicarious liability of all the accused of unlawful assembly for the act done with common object, implication would not be justified unless the ingredients for constituting the offence under section 149 I.P.C. are established before the court.

19. Section 149 I.P.C provides for constructive liability to every person of an unlawful assembly. If an offence is committed by any member thereof in prosecution of common object of that assembly or such as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of that object. Formation of unlawful assembly having its common object and knowledge of common object are matters of fact which are required to be proved by the prosecution beyond all reasonable doubt for securing conviction of an accused under Section 149 I.P.C. There cannot be any straight jacket formula to arrive at a finding as to who was the member of unlawful assembly and for which object the same was formed. It can be inferred and proved by the cogent evidence only.

20. Section 149 I.P.C has following three essentials (i) there must be unlawful assembly; (ii) commission of offence may be by any member of unlawful assembly; (iii) such offence must have been committed in prosecution of the common object of the assembly, or must be such as member of the assembly knew to be likely to be committed.

21. The concept of constructive liability must not be so stretched as to lead to false implication of innocent person or if general allegations are made against large number of accused, the Court has to be cautious unless reasonable direct and indirect circumstances lend assurance to the prosecution case that all the accused shared common object of unlawful assembly and hence their implication / conviction not be justified, as held by the Apex Court in the case of Subal Ghorai and others Vs. State of West Bengal, 2013(4) SCC 607. Ready reference to paragraph 53 would be relevant :-

53. But this concept of constructive liability must not be so stretched as to lead to false implication of innocent bystanders. Quite often, people gather at the scene of offence out of curiosity. They do not share common object of the unlawful assembly. If a general allegation is made against large number of people, Court has to be cautious. It must guard against the possibility of convicting mere passive onlookers who did not share the common object of the unlawful assembly. Unless reasonable direct or indirect circumstances lend assurance to the prosecution case that they shared common object of the unlawful assembly, they cannot be convicted with the aid of Section 149 of the IPC. It must be proved in each case that the person concerned was not only a member of the unlawful assembly at some stage, but at all the crucial stages and shared the common object of the assembly at all stages. The court must have before it some materials to form an opinion that the accused shared common object. What the common object of the unlawful assembly is at a particular stage has to be determined keeping in view the course of conduct of the members of the unlawful assembly before and at the time of attack, their behaviour at or near the scene of offence, the motive for the crime, the arms carried by them and such other relevant considerations. The criminal court has to conduct this difficult and meticulous exercise of assessing evidence to avoid roping innocent people in the crime. These principles laid down by this Court do not dilute the concept of constructive liability. They embody a rule of caution."

(13) Apex Court has also cautioned that when there is sudden action by one member in the assembly, all are not liable. In the case of Roy Fernandes Vs. State of Goa, 2012(3) SCC 221, it was held that a group attack on the victim is not the only decisive factor to infer common object of the unlawful assembly. It would be useful to refer to paragraph 27 to 33 in this context :-

27. This Court has in a long line of decisions examined the scope of Section 149 of the Indian Penal Code. We remain content by referring to some only of those decisions to support our conclusion that the appellant could not in the facts and circumstances of the case at hand be convicted under Section 302 read with Section 149 of the IPC.

28. In Chikkarange Gowda & Ors. Vs. State of Mysore [AIR 1956 SC 731] this Court was dealing with a case where the common object of the unlawful assembly simply was to chastise the deceased. The deceased was, however, killed by a fatal injury caused by certain member of the unlawful assembly. The court below convicted the other member of the unlawful assembly under Section 302 read with Section 149 IPC. Reversing the conviction, this Court held:

"9. It is quite clear to us that on the finding of the High Court with regard to the common object of the unlawful assembly, the conviction of the appellants for an offence under Section 302 read with Section 149 Indian Penal Code cannot be sustained. The first essential element of Section 149 is the commission of an offence by any member of an unlawful assembly; the second essential part is that the offence must be committed in prosecution of the common object of the unlawful assembly, or must be such as the members of that assembly knew to be likely to be committed in prosecution of the common object.

In the case before us, the learned Judges of the High Court held that the common object of the unlawful assembly was merely to administer a chastisement to Putte Gowda. The learned Judges of the High Court did not hold that though the common object was to chastise Putte Gowda, the members of the unlawful assembly knew that Putte Gowda was likely to be killed in prosecution of that common object. That being the position, the conviction under Section 302 read with Section 149 Indian Penal Code was not justified in law."

*29. In Gajanand & Ors. Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh [AIR 1954 SC 695], this Court approved the following passage from the decision of the Patna High Court in Ram Charan Rai Vs. Emperor [AIR 1946 Pat 242]:

"Under Section 149 the liability of the other members for the offence committed during the continuance of the occurrence rests upon the fact whether the other members knew before hand that the offence actually committed was likely to be committed in prosecution of the common object. Such knowledge may reasonably be collected from the nature of the assembly, arms or behavior, at or before the scene of action. If such knowledge may not reasonably be attributed to the other members of the assembly then their liability for the offence committed during the occurrence does not arise".

30. This Court then reiterated the legal position as under:

"9.....The question is whether such knowledge can be attributed to the appellants who were themselves not armed with sharp edged weapons. The evidence on this point is completely lacking. The appellants had only lathis which may possibly account for Injuries 2 and 3 on Sukkhu's left arm and left hand but they cannot be held liable for murder by invoking the aid of Section 149 IPC. According to the evidence only two persons were armed with deadly weapons. Both of them were acquitted and Sosa, who is alleged to have had a spear, is absconding. We are not prepared therefore to ascribe any knowledge of the existence of deadly weapons to the appellants, much less that they would be used in order to cause death."

31. In Mizaji and Anr. Vs. State of U.P. [AIR 1959 SC 572] this Court was dealing with a case where five persons armed with lethal weapons had gone with the common object of getting forcible possession of the land which was in the cultivating possession of the deceased. Facing resistance from the person in possession, one of the members of the assembly at the exhortation of the other fired and killed the deceased. This Court held that the conduct of the members of the unlawful assembly was such as showed that they were determined to take forcible possession at any cost. Section 149 of IPC was, therefore, attracted and the conviction of the members of the assembly for murder legally justified.

32. This Court analysed Section 149 in the following words:

"6. This section has been the subject matter of interpretation in the various High Court of India, but every case has to be decided on its own facts. The first part of the section means that the offence committed in prosecution of the common object must be one which is committed with a view to accomplish the common object. It is not necessary that there should be a preconcert in the sense of a meeting of the members of the unlawful assembly as to the common object; it is enough if it is adopted by all the members and is shared by all of them. In order that the case may fall under the first part the offence committed must be connected immediately with the common object of the unlawful assembly of which the accused were members. Even if the offence committed is not in direct prosecution of the common object of the assembly, it may yet fall under section 149 if it can be held that the offence was such as the members knew was likely to be committed. The expression 'know' does not mean a mere possibility, such as might or might not happen. For instance, it is a matter of common knowledge that when in a village a body of heavily armed men set out to take a woman by force, someone is likely to be killed and all the members of the unlawful assembly must be aware of that likelihood and would be guilty under the second part of section 149. Similarly, if a body of persons go armed to take forcible possession of the land, it would be equally right to say that they have the knowledge that murder is likely to be committed if the circumstances as to the weapons carried and other conduct of the members of the unlawful assembly clearly point to such knowledge on the part of them all."

33. In Shambhu Nath Singh and Ors. Vs. State of Bihar [AIR 1960 SC 725], this Court held that members of an unlawful assembly may have a community of object upto a certain point beyond which they may differ in their objects and the knowledge possessed by each member of what is likely to be committed in prosecution of their common object may vary not only according to the information at his command but also according to the extent to which he shares the community of object.

As a consequence, the effect of Section 149 of the Indian Penal Code may be different on different members of the same unlawful assembly. Decisions of this Court Gangadhar - Behera and Others Vs. State of Orissa [2002 (8) SCC 381] and Bishna Alias Bhiswadeb Mahato and Others Vs. State of West Bengal [2005 (12) SCC 657] similarly explain and reiterate the legal position on the subject.

22. Common object has to be ascertained from the member-ship, weapon used and the nature of injuries as well as other circumstances as held by the Apex Court in the case of Haramant Laxmappa Kukkadi Vs. State of Karnataka, 1994(1) SCC 736..

23. This court finds from the above discussion that there is allegation that deceased misbehaved with wife/daughter-in-law of Raghuraj Singh, appellant no.2. No evidence was led to prove that other five appellants constituted unlawful assembly with Raghuraj Singh and they also shared common object with Raghuraj Singh.It was required to be proved by the prosecution that the alleged offence was committed by all the members of unlawful assembly in prosecution of common object. Mere presence in an assembly without proof of common object cannot be stretched to such an extent so as to implicate the innocent person as held by the Apex Court in the case of Subal Ghorai and others (Supra).Trial court has not recorded any such finding that all the accused having shared common object with co-accused Raghuraj Singh and had formed unlawful assembly for executing the same.The Apex Court has also held in the case of Haramant Laxmappa Kukkadi (Supra) that common object has to be ascertained from the membership, weapon used and the nature of injuries as well as other circumstances. In the present case only weapon allegedly used was Ballam but injuries on the person of the deceased did not corroborated the use of the aforesaid weapon. The injury on neck of the deceased which proved fatal for his life was incised in nature, when the Ballam can only cause piercing injury. Hence implication of all the appellants for committing offence of murder with aid of section 149 I.P.C. cannot be sustained. The role of catching hold of the deceased was assigned to appellants, Amar Singh and Devendra Singh; role of exhortation was assigned to appellant Rakesh Kumar and Kehari and Raghuraj Singh was assigned the role of causing fatal injury on the neck of the deceased by Ballam by P.W.2. P.W.1 has also assigned them similar roles which may have found favour with the trial court to convict them under section 302/149 I.P.C.Apex court in the case of Balwantbhai B. Patel Vs. State of Gujrat and others reported in 2009-0-Supreme Court (SC)1557, has held that allegation of catching hold or exhortation are invariably made when number of injuries on injured party do not co-relate with number of co-accused or in the alternative in an attempt to rope in as many persons as possible from other side. Apex court acquitted, the accused who was implicated for committing offence under section 302 I.P.C. with the help of section 34 I.P.C.

24. This court further finds that most of the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the appellants have not been replied by the other side such as the weakness of motive, delay in lodging of First Information Report, falacity of arguments regarding the opening of door, when no door was found in the house of the deceased, semi -digested food in the stomach of the deceased , his bladder being empty, non production of wife of the deceased as witness by the trial court; discrepancy in the injury and weapon allegedly used in the crime;difference of cloths founds on the body of the deceased.

25. The Apex court in the case of The State of U.P. and another Vs. Jaggo alias Jagdish and others, AIR 1971, SC 1586 has held that witness whose evidence is essential for unfolding the narrative must be produced in evidence. Non-production of Urmila, the wife of deceased, before the court proves that prosecution case was doubtful. She was the best witness to have proved the manner of incident and the roles of accused therein.

26. In view of the above consideration, the judgement and order of the trial court cannot be sustained and is hereby set aside. The surviving appellant nos. 3, 5, and 6, namely, Devendra Singh, Kehri Singh and Rakesh Kumar, are acquitted of charges under section 302/149 I.P.C. They are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. The amount of fine, if deposited by the surviving appellants, shall be refunded to them.

27. Certify the judgement to the lower court within a week for compliance and making entry of decision in the register. The record of the case be also transmitted to the court below immediately. Compliance of section 437-A shall be ensured by the court below The compliance shall be reported by the court below to this court within four weeks from the date of receipt the copy of this judgement.

28. Criminal Appeal is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arvind Singh Sangwan, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the accused-appellants, Pradeep Kumar Pandey, Kartikey Pandey, and Amrendra Kumar Pandey against the judgment and order dated 16th September, 2022 passed by the Special Judge (SC/ST)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Bhadohi in Sessions Trial No. 108 of 2016 (State Vs. Pradeep Kumar Pandey & Others) arising out of Case Crime No. 282 of 2015, under Sections 272, 120 of I.P.C. read with Sections 60/63 Of U.P. Excise Act, Police Station-Aurai, District-Bhadohi, whereby all three accused-appellants have been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment each under Section 272 of I.P.C. with a fine of Rs. 5,000/- each and in default thereof, they have to further undergo one year additional imprisonment; and one year rigorous imprisonment each under Section 60 of the Excise Act with fine of Rs. 500/- each and in default thereof, they have to further undergo one month additional imprisonment each, with an observation that all the sentences are to run concurrently.

2. We have heard Mr. Dhirendra Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the accused-appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State and also perused the entire materials available on trial court record.

3. The prosecution story is that on 11th July, 2015, the Sub-Inspector Suresh Singh (informant) and other police personnels were on patrol duty for searching the miscreants on the way of Maharajganj and when they reached near the tractor workshop of one Bhola Singh, they found that Anand Kumar Singh, Village Pradhan of Village Tewri along with two persons were chasing two young boys, who were aged around 19 to 20 years and were wearing dark coloured pants and shirt, and were running towards the western side of the tractor workshop. Seeing them, all the police personnels including the informant and other villagers tried to chase both the young boys and made all possible efforts to nab them but they took the advantage of rain and escaped.

4. As per the informant, the Village Pradhan, Anand Kumar told him that at about 09.00 p.m. one vehicle bearing No. U.P. 70 AL-0312 came from the side of Varanasi in a high speed and after losing its balance went down the road and collided with the old thresher kept at the vacant place before the workshop and it got damaged. At that time he was on his way to the tractor workshop for his work. The Village Pradhan further stated that two person quickly came out of the aforesaid vehicle and swiftly started running towards the west side on the road. On suspicion that they might be criminals, he along with other villagers tried to chase them. In the meantime, Police personnels came and information was given that some illicit substance may be kept in the vehicle. Following this, the damaged vehicle bearing No. UP 70 AL-0312 was checked by the Police personnels along with Village Pradhan and from the back side of the vehicle i.e. dicky, two Jerrican (can) in black colour were recovered, out of which, one was broken and empty and the other contained about 40 liters liquor (adulterated). When the cap of the said Jerrican was opened, it emitted strong smell of mixed liquor. Out of the aforesaid 40 litres of liquor (adulterated), one litre was taken out as a sample in a plastic bottle and the same was sealed. The recovered Jerrican containing remaining 39 litres adulterated liquor was also sealed. Recovery memos were prepared. The recovered vehicle was also seized as per Section 207 of the Motor Vehicles Act for carrying/transporting illicit liquors. After that, case under Sections 60/63 of Excise Act and Section 272 of I.P.C. against two unknown persons was registered.

5. Later on, during investigation, the accused-appellant, Pradeep Kumar Pandey was arrested upon obtaining a report from the concerned Regional Transport Officer in which it was stated that the recovered vehicle bearing No. UP 70 AL-0312 belongs to the accused-appellant Pradeep Kumar Pandey.

6. Investigation proceeded and after conducting statutory investigation in terms of Chapter XII of the Cr.P.C. the Investigating Officer submitted the Charge Sheet Nos. 11/2016 and 11A/2016 against the accused-appellants, namely, Pradeep Kumar Pandey, Kartik Kumar Pandey and Amarendra Kumar Pandey under Sections 272, 120B of I.P.C. and Sections 60/63 of Excise Act for trial before the Court concerned. Upon submission of the charge-sheets, cognizance was taken by the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate on 12.02.2016 and the case was committed to the Court of Sessions. The concerned Sessions Court i.e. trial court framed the charges against the accused-appellants, namely, Pradeep Kumar Pandey, Kartik Kumar Pandey and Amarendra Kumar Pandey under Sections 272, 120B of I.P.C. and Sections 60/63 of Excise Act. The accused-appellants denied the charges and requested for trial.

7. The prosecution examined total four witnesses in the following manner:-

i) P.W.-1/Informant, namely, Sub-Inspector Suresh Singh;

ii) P.W.-2, namely, Anil Kumar Gupta, retired Sub-Inspector;

iii) P.W.-3, namely, Hemant Kumar Jaiswal, Head Constable; and

iv) P.W.-4, namely, Anand Kumar Singh, Village Pradhan, who is said to be an eye-witness.

8. In order to prove its case, the prosecution relied upon documentary evidence, which were duly proved and consequently marked as Exhibits. The same are catalogued herein below:-

i) Recovery memos/written report have been marked as Exhibit-Ka-1;

ii) Charge-sheets submitted by the Investigating Officer against the accused-appellants have been marked as Exhibits Ka-2 & 3;

iii) Site plan has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-4;

iv) Letter written to the Regional Transport Officer has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-5;

v). Carbon copy of G.D. entry has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-6; and vi). The first information report has been marked as Exhibit-Ka-7.

9. P.W.-1/informant, namely, Sub-Inspector Suresh Singh, in his statement, has reiterated the same version as unfolded in the first information report. It is stated that the damaged car, which was used for transporting the illicit liquor was seized under Section 207 of the Motor Vehicles Act and the same has been made case property. The recovery memos of the seized car and Jerrican were marked as Exhibit Ka-1 and the same were proved by P.W.1. The recovered car bearing No. UP 70 AL-0312 is lying in the Police Station in a damaged condition and therefore, it could not be produced before the trial court.

10. P.W.-2, Anil Kumar Gupta, retired Sub-Inspector, in his statement has supported the prosecution version as unfolded in the first information report. He has submitted that after the verifying the fact that the owner of the recovered Indica Car No. UP 70 AL-0312 was the accused-appellant Pradeep Kumar Pandey, he was arrested. Later on, other two accused-appellants, namely, Kartik Kumar Pandey and Amarendra Kumar Pandey were also nominated from the disclosure made by the accused-appellant Pradeep Kumar Pandey in his confessional statement before the Police. This witness has also proved the memos of arrest of accused-appellants, namely, Kartik Kumar Pandey and Amarendra Kumar Pandey, which were marked as Exhibits Ka-3A/1 and 3A/2 and also the site plan which was marked as Exhibit-Ka-4. The letter written to the Regional Transport Officer along with report of P.W.2, which were marked as Exhibit-ka-5 has also been proved by this witness.

11. P.W.-3 Head Constable Hemant Kumar Jaiswal has also supported the prosecution version as enumerated in the first information report. He has also stated that he has prepared the recovery memos of seized car, Jerrican containing 39 litres adulterated liquor and the plastic bottles containing one litre adulterated liquor as sample. He has also prepared the report of seizure of the car under Section 207 of the Motor Vehicles Act. He has prepared the chik first information report. He has further stated that his statement has also been recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He has proved the document no. 8A/5, which was prepared by him and was marked as Exhibit-Ka-6. He has also proved the computerized copy bearing no. 4A/1, which was prepared by Sita Ram Yadav and marked as Exhibit-Ka-7.

12. P.W.-4, Anand Kumar Singh, who is said to be an eye-witness has deposed in his statement that at the time of incident, he was village Pradhan of village Tewri and he was present at his house, when at about 09:00 a.m. (in the morning) a car, which was in high speed collided with the thresher parked next to Shambhu Singh's tractor workshop on the east side. On hearing the loud noise, he and some other villagers from the neighbourhood came to the spot. It was seen that a car bearing No. UP 70 AL 0312 had collided with a thresher due to which the rear seat of the car was broken and the front bumper was also broken. Two boys of around 19 to 20 years of age were sitting inside the car. The smell of alcohol was coming from the car. After opening the gate, both the boys were hauled out and after some time, they both began to walk and moved a short distance apart. They thought that they were going for natures' call, but after reaching some distance both of them started running away. This witness and two-three boys tried chasing them. In the meantime, P.W.-1/informant and Assistant Sub-Inspector Vijay Yadav came on the spot and asked why were both boys running, P.W.-4 informed them everything and showed the two boys running. P.W.-1 and Vijay Yadav also started chasing them. But taking advantage of the rain, both boys succeeded in escaping from the spot. Thereafter, the damaged car was checked, two Jerricans of about 40 liters each were found, one of which was filled with adulterated liquor and the other was broken and its thick liquor had flown away. After that one litre liquor was taken out from the jerrican containing 40 litres of adulterated liquor as a sample. This witness has further stated that the Police personnels prepared the recovery memos on which he appended his signatures and proved the same before the trial court. Thereafter the Police took away the damaged car to the Police Station with the help of Crane, He has further stated that he was asked by the Police whether he could identify the said boys at the police station in front of them. Statement of P.W.-4 was also recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He has proved the recovery memos prepared by the Police and were marked as Exhibit-Ka-1.

13. After recording of the prosecution evidence by the trial court, the incriminating evidence were put to the accused-appellants, namely, Pradeep Kumar Pandey, Kartik Kumar Pandey and Amarendra Kumar Pandey for confronting with the same under Section 313 Cr.PC. In their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the accused appellants, denied their involvement in the commissioning of the offence punishable under Sections 272 and 120-B of I.P.C. and Sections 60/63 of Excise Act. The accused-appellants have also not adduced any evidence in support of their case.

14. On the basis of evidence so lead during the course of trial, the court below has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has established its case beyond reasonable doubt against accused-appellants and has convicted them for the offence punishable under Section 272 of I.P.C. and Section 60 of Excise Act and sentenced them to life imprisonment with fine, referred to above.

15. At the very outset, learned counsel for the accused-appellants has submitted that the accused-appellants have undergone more than one and half years of actual sentence as on date.

16. Assailing the impugned judgment of conviction, it is argued by the learned counsel for the accused-appellants that the charge under Section 272 of I.P.C. is not made out against the accused-appellants. In support of his submission, he has referred to Section 272 of I.P.C., which is extracted herein-below:

"272. Adulteration of food or drink intended for sale

Whoever adulterates any article of food or drink, so as to make such article noxious as food or drink, intending to sell such article as food or drink, or knowing it to be likely that the same will be sold as food or drink, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

STATE AMENDMENTS

Uttar Pradesh:

In its application to the State of Uttar Pradesh, in S. 272, for the words "shall be punished with imprisonment of either description, for a term which may extend to six months or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both" substitute the following words. "shall be punished with imprisonment for life and shall also be liable to fine":

Provided that the Court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgement, impose a sentence of imprisonment which is less than imprisonment for life."- U.P. Act 47 of 1975, S. 3 (1) (15-9-1975)."

17. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant submits that from the perusal of the aforesaid Section, it is apparent that in order to prove the charge under Section 272 of I.P.C. the prosecution is required to prove that the recovered article from a person is an adulterated article of food or drink, so as to make such article noxious as food or drink and the intention to sell such article as food or drink.

18. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants submits that there is no evidence on record that the accused-appellants intended to sell the recovered material as an article of food or drink. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants submits that another requirement under Section 272 of I.P.C. is that the accused/persons must have knowledge that it is likely to be sold as noxious drink or food. The intention and mens rea on the part of the accused-appellants is to be proved by the prosecution, which is completely missing in the present case.

19. Then, learned counsel for the accused-appellant has referred to the first information report, which was marked as Exhibit-Ka-7, G.D. entry dated 11th July, 2015 and the recovery memo marked as Exhibit-Ka-1, wherein it is mentioned that at the spot, car make of Alto bearing No. UP 70 AL 0312 was found, whereas in the letter addressed to the Regional Transport Officer by the Investigating Officer dated 15th July, 2015, which was marked as Exhibit Ka-5 for verification of the recovered and seized car, it is mentioned that the said car is of make Indica bearing Registration No. UP 70 AL 0312, Engine No. BTZP 17671, Chassis No. 600136 BTZP 4930.

20. The learned counsel for the accused-appellants has also drawn the attention of the Court to the report submitted by the Regional Transport Officer in response to the letter of the Investigating Officer, which was also marked as Exhibit Ka-5, wherein it has been stated that vehicle No. UP 70 AL 0312 of make "Indica" belongs to accused-appellant Pradeep Kumar son of Panna Lal.

21. Thus, it has been argued by the learned counsel for the accused-appellants that it is the candid case of the prosecution as well as P.W.-4 that from the spot the car of make Alto was recovered and later on during the investigation, it was converted/changed into a car of make "Indica", without there being any explanation in this regard. It is a major inconsistency in the prosecution evidence.

22. Next argument of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant is that there is no evidence on record that after the arrest of the accused-appellants when they were produced before the Magistrate along with the case property, any endorsement was made by the concerned Magistrate as required under Section 457 Cr.P.C. ,when as a matter of fact that it is the specific case of the Investigating Officer and P.W.-1 that the recovered car was never produced, before the trial court, as it was in damaged condition for verifying/establishing the fact that the recovered car from the spot was a car of make "Alto" or "Indica".

23. It is next argued that even the identity of the accused-appellants were not proved by the prosecution. It has come in the statement of P.W.-4 that two boys of around 19 to 20 year of age were seen in the car and that they ran away from the spot.

24. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has next argued that as per the prosecution case, even the seizure of the sample i.e. 1 litre of adulterated liquor taken from the Jerrican containing 40 litres adulterated liquor, was not proved, as no sample slip or recovery memo was prepared at the spot which was sent for chemical examination to Forensic Science Laboratory. Even the remainder of 39 litres was not produced before the trial court, as admitted by P.W.-1/informant.

25. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has referred to the statement of P.W.-4, who is said to be an eye-witness. In the cross-examination, P.W.-4 has stated that he has not signed on the written recovery memos, whereas the Police obtained his signatures on a blank paper, which also creates a doubt in the prosecution case.

26. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants next argued that in order to establish its case under Section 272 of I.P.C. against the accused-appellants beyond reasonable doubt, the prosecution has to prove that the recovered article/material is in fact noxious drink meant for sale. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants has drawn the attention of the Court to the report of the Joint Director, Forensic Science Laboratory, U.P., Ramnagar, Varanasi dated 22nd December, 2015, wherein the result reads as under:

"बोतल का दूरा विश्लेषण द्वारा अवमिश्रित स्प्रिंट पायी गयी। नमूने में एल्कोहल की प्रतिशत मात्रा 87.2 आयतन / आयतन पायी गयी। नमूने में अमोनियम क्लोराईड (नौसादर) के परीक्षण परिणाम सकारात्मक पाये गये तथा डिनेचरेन्ट्स मिथाइल एल्कोहल एवं क्लोरलहाइड्रेट' के परीक्षण परिणाम नकारात्मक पाये गये। भौतिक एवं रासायनिक विधियाँ प्रयोग की गयी।"

27. On perusal of the said report, learned counsel for the accused-appellants submits that on analysis of the bottle, sprint was found in the sample. The percentage of alcohol in the sample was found to be 87.2 %. In the sample, the test results of ammonium chloride salt were found positive, whereas the test results of denatured methyl alcohol and chloro hydrate were found negative. There is no opinion formed that recovered alcohol was unfit for human consumption.

28. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has referred to Section 3 of the U.P. Excise Act, wherein the word "denatured" is defined under Section 3 (9) of the Excise Act. For ready reference the same is quoted hereunder:

"3. Definitions.---

[(9) "denatured" means rendered unfit for human consumption in such manner as may be prescribed by the [State Government] by notification in this behalf. When it is proved that any spirit contains any quantity of any substance prescribed by the '[State Government] for the purpose of denaturation the Court may presume that such spirit is or contains or has been derived from denatured spirit;]"

29. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants submits that even as per the report of the Forensic Science Laboratory, wherein no percentage of ammonium chloride is defined or mentioned and only it is stated that same is found in positive, therefore, is not sufficient to hold that the recovered article in fact is noxious drink.

30. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants has relied upon the judgment of this Court in the case of Ashok Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in 2021 (2) ALJ 259/AIRONLINE 2021 All 13, wherein this Court has held that where the report of the Forensic Science Laboratory does not specify the percentage of the Ammonium Chloride (Nausadar) and only speaks of presence of urea, Ammonium Chloride, it cannot be said to be a legal report in eye of law for bringing a person guilty for offence punishable under Section 272 I.P.C.

31. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants submits that in the report submitted by the Joint Director, Forensic Science Laboratory, U.P., Ramnagar, Varanasi dated 22nd December, 2015, only presence of Ammonium Chloride (Nausadar) is found but there is no percentage of Ammonium Chloride (Nausadar) mentioned in such report and therefore the conviction of the accused-appellants under Section 272 I.P.C. is liable to be set aside.

32. In the case of Ashok (Supra), it has also been observed that the Food Act as per Chapter IX deals with the offences and penalties which provide for punishments for contravention of the provisions of the Act. However, the comparative study of Section 272 of I.P.C. and the relevant provisions of Food Act, which has repealed the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954 do not provide the definition of terms with regard to commission of offence, as in the present case.

33. Perusal of the judgment of this Court in the case of Ashok (Supra) shows that in the said case also recovered article was illicit liquor containing Ammonium Chloride (Nausadar) without specifying any percentage and on the basis of same the Court has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused-appellant and therefore, the conviction of the accused under Section 272 of I.P.C. was set aside. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, therefore, submits that the conviction of the present accused-appellants is also liable to be set aside.

34. However, the learned Additional Government Advocate for the State has opposed the above submission advanced on behalf of the accused-appellants on the ground that it is the accused-appellants to prove that the liquor which was carrying was not meant for human consumption.

35. Learned Additional Government Advocate for the State has further argued that in the report submitted by the Regional Transport Officer, it was mentioned that the recovered car belongs to one of the accused-appellant i.e. Pradeep Kumar Pandey and therefore, wrong mentioning of make of car in the first information report, which was marked as Exhibit-Ka-7, G.D. entry dated 11th July, 2015 and the recovery memo marked as Exhibit-Ka-1, will not demolish the prosecution case to hold that no case is made out against the accused-appellants. He has also argued that P.W.-4, who is an eye-witness has supported the prosecution case in all respect and has proved the recovery memo.

36. Learned Additional Government Advocate could not dispute the fact that no test identification parade which has evidentiary value under Section 9 of the Indian Evidence Act, was done in the present case and even in the statements of the prosecution witnesses, it has not come that two of the accused-appellants were in fact the same persons, who were sitting in the car collided with the thresher as per the prosecution case.

37. On a query made by Court about the criminal antecedents to the credit of the accused-appellants, learned counsel for the accused-appellants has submitted that they were not involved in any criminal case before institution of the present criminal case nor they have been convicted in any other case. One of the accused-appellant i.e. appellant no.1 is said to be 60 years of age. This fact is not denied by the learned A.G.A.

38. After considering the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and after appreciation of the evidence on record with regard to the credibility of and reliability of P.W.-1 and P.W.-4, we do not find the same trustworthy or reliable nor can they be treated as eye witnesses so as to rely upon their testimony. P.W.-1 has neither given make of car nor produced the case property i.e. car and remaining sealed 39 litres of alcohol.

39. In view of the deliberation and discussions, we find that prosecution has not been able to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt, inasmuch as the witnesses of fact produced by the prosecution are also not found reliable. The F.S.L. report does not support the prosecution case. There is no other evidence on the basis of which the conviction and sentence of the accused-appellant could be sustained.

40. In such view of the matter, we find that judgement and order passed by the Court below convicting the accused-appellants cannot be sustained for following reasons:

a). The Court below has not examined the testimony of witnesses and other evidence on record nor have they been carefully scrutinized. There are inherent contradictions in their versions, which have been clearly overlooked by the trial court. The basic and important evidence which is lacking in this case is that nothing has come on record to prove that the recovered article was meant for sale as human consumption. It is also not proved that the recovered item falls within the definition of noxious food, which is harmful for human consumption. In absence of any specific report regarding percentage of Ammonium Chloride (Nausadar), though it is specified in the report of Forensic Science Laboratory that in the sample 87.2 % alcohol was found, the prosecution has even failed to prove that the recovered illicit liquors from the car was meant for sale and for human consumption.

b). Another aspect which makes the prosecution case doubtful is that no accused-appellant/person was arrested on the spot and after their arrest, the prosecution has failed to conduct the test identification parade and therefore, the accused-appellants are entitled to benefit of doubt. Even otherwise, the case property i.e. the seized car has also not been produced before the trial court, so that it may find out as to whether the seized car is make of "Alto" or "Indica" and the same belongs to one of the accused-appellant i.e. Pradeep Kumar Pandey. The FIR reflects make of the car as "Alto", which met with accident from which recovery was made. Moreover, even in the statement of P.W.-1/informant make of the car is not mentioned.

c). The recovery memos of Jerrican containing 40 litres of adulterated liquor as per the case of prosecution and broken Jerrican, prepared by the Police also make the recovery doubtful, as P.W.-4 himself in his cross-examination has stated that he has not signed on the written recovery memos and his signatures were obtained by the Police on a blank paper.

d). In examination-in-chief, P.W.-4 Anand Kumar, who is the sole eye-witness, failed to identify any of the accused-persons and in cross-examination, he admitted that no accused was arrested at spot. This witness stated that his signatures were taken on a blank paper by the Police. Therefore, the identity of none of the accused is proved.

e). The report of the F.S.L. was put to accused persons for the first time during statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. There is nothing on record to prove that it was part of report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. and was provided to accused persons at the time of framing of charge. Both the Investigating Officers i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 have failed to prove and exhibit the report under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C. along with the list of documents. Therefore, the F.S.L. report was never supplied to the accused persons.

It is held by the Supreme Court of India in the case of Tarun Tyagi Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation reported in (2017) 4 SCC 490 that Section 207 Cr.P.C. puts an obligation on prosecution to furnish to the accused copies of documents, free of cost, which are forwarded by the Police to the Magistrate report under Section 173 (5) Cr.P.C.

f) Though the expert, who prepared F.S.L. report, is not examined as witness, yet the trial court in view of Section 293 Cr.P.C. has relied upon and taken into consideration. But once the F.S.L. report is not supplied till the stage of recording statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the right of accused to cross-examine the Investigating Officers on this point was denied.

g). Even the charge made under Sections 60/63 of U.P. Excise Act is not sustainable. Section 60 provides penalty for unlawful import, export, transport, manufacture, possession or sale of intoxicants. The punishment for possession and transportation of intoxicant, as per Section 60 (b) of U.P. Excise Act, which is not covered under Section 63 of the Act, is upto two years and fine, as defined and punishment for transport and possession of unlawfully imported intoxicant is six months to five years with fine.

In the instant case, neither the possession nor transportation is proved as already held that none of the accused was arrested at spot; make of car is different i.e. recovered car was "Alto" and later on changed as "Indica"; neither the case property nor car was produced before the trial court; the sole eye-witness i.e. P.W.4 failed to identify any of the accused; the F.S.L. report was never supplied to the accused in terms of provision of Section 207 Cr.P.C. and F.S.L. report does not specify contents/percentage of Ammonium Chloride and ever does not disclose the sample as unfit for human consumption. Therefore, on all counts prosecution case false flat.

41. In view of the above, the findings returned in the judgement and order passed by the Court below dated 16th September, 2022 passed by the Special Judge (SC/ST)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Bhadohi in Sessions Trial No. 108 of 2016 (State Vs. Pradeep Kumar Pandey & Others) arising out of Case Crime No. 282 of 20105, under Sections 272, 120 of I.P.C. read with Sections 60/63 Of U.P. Excise Act, Police Station-Aurai, District-Bhadohi, convicting and sentencing the accused-appellants are reversed.

42. The present criminal appeal consequently succeeds and is allowed. Judgement and order dated 16th September, 2022 passed by the Special Judge (SC/ST)/Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Bhadohi in Sessions Trial No. 108 of 2016 (State Vs. Pradeep Kumar Pandey & Others) stands set aside.

43. The accused appellants, who are in judicial custody for more than one year and six months, are acquitted of the charges and they shall be released forthwith, unless are wanted in any other case on compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

44. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bhadohi, henceforth, for necessary compliance.

(Order on Sentence Suspension Application)

[1] The aforementioned are the three connected appeals. The respective accused-appellants have filed the three different appeals, invoking the powers of this Court under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C., assailing the legality and validity of the judgment and order dated 31.10.2022/03.11.2022 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.2, Bareilly while deciding the S.T. Nos. 599 of 2016 (State of U.P. Vs. Sanjeev and 6 others) arising out of case crime no. 210 of 2016 under Section 147, 148, 149, 307, 302 IPC, P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly, S.T. No. 600 of 2016 (State Vs. Ranjeet) arising out of case crime no. 220 of 2016, under Section 3/25 Arms Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly, S.T. No. 601 of 2016 (State Vs. Manoj) arising out of case crime no. 321 of 2016, under Section 3/25 Arms Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Bareiily, S.T. No. 602 of 2016 (State Vs. Sanjeev) arising out of case crime no. 222 of 2016, under Section 3/25 Arms Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly and S.T. No. 603 of 2016 (State Vs. Anshu Arya) arising out of case crime no. P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly, by the common impugned judgement. The said judgement is before us for the judicial scrutiny.

In addition to this, learned counsel for the appellants submits that during the pendency of the appeal in exercise of power under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C., the sentence awarded to the respective appellants may be suspended in the interest of justice.

[2] From the judgment it is clear that one of the accused Kapil son of Manoj died during trial and as such the trial against him stood abated.

Today, when the case was called out, Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant in Crl. Appeal No. 9644 of 2022 informs the Court, that one of the accused-appellant- Manoj son of Shyam Swaroop, resident of Nekpur, Gautiya, P.S. Subhash Nagar, District Bareilly in the aforesaid appeal died on 13.01.2023, when he was facing incarceration pursuant to the judgment dated 03.11.2023. We are at loss to accept the contention on its face value as the same is not authenticated, unless we receive a report of confirmation from the responsible authority. As such we direct the C.J.M., Bareilly to enquire about the aforesaid fact and furnish a proper detailed report to this Court within next six weeks.

[3] Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send the copy of this order to concerned C.J.M. to verify the aforesaid fact.

[4] Heard Sri Dileep Kumar, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Rizwan Ahmad, Advocate, Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, Advocate, Sri Manish Tewary, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Atharv Dixit, learned counsel for the appellants named above in three criminal appeals, Sri Sagir Ahmad, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Vikas Tripathi, learned counsel for the informant and Sri Ghanshyam Kumar, learned AGA for the State and perused the records.

[5] Pleadings have been exchanged between the parties and the matter is ripe for disposal of Section 389(1) applications of the respective appeals. Since all the appeals are targetted against the judgement and order dated 31.10.2022/03.11.2022 for the sake of brevity we are proposing to decide all the three applications for suspending the sentence by a common order.

The respective counsel for the appellants have argued the case to extensive length and in its rebuttal by Sri Sagir Ahmad, learned Senior Counsel for the informant as well as learned AGA for the State, have argued the matter upto their satisfaction.

AMBIT & SCOPE OF SEC. 389(1) CR.P.C. :-

[6] Before coming to the merit of the case, it is imperative to spell out the Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. so as to understand its true import/ambit and its reach so that the Court may appreciate the submission advanced by the counsel for the appellants.

"389. Suspension of sentence pending the appeal; release of appellant on bail.

(1) Pending any appeal by a convicted person, the Appellate Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, order that the execution of the sentence or order appealed against be suspended and, also, if he is in confinement, that he be released on bail, or on his own bond.

(2) The power conferred by this section on an Appellate Court may be exercised also by the High Court in the case of an appeal by a convicted person to a Court subordinate thereto.

(3) Where the convicted person satisfies the Court by which he is convicted that he intends to present an appeal, the Court shall,-

(i) where such person, being on bail, is sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or

(ii) where the offence of which such person has been convicted is a bailable one, and he is on bail, order that the convicted person be released on bail, unless there are special reasons for refusing bail, for such period as will afford sufficient time to present the appeal and obtain the orders of the Appellate Court under sub- section (1); and the sentence of imprisonment shall, so long as he is so released on bail, be deemed to be suspended.

(4) When the appellant is ultimately sentenced to imprisonment for a term or to imprisonment for life, the time during which he is so released shall be excluded in computing the term for which he is so sentenced."

[7] Hon'ble Apex Court recently got an opportunity to elucidate and explain the scope & reach of Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. in the judgement of Om Prakash Sahni Vs. Jai Shankar Chaudhary and another etc. in Criminal Appeal No. 1331-1332 of 2023 decided on 02.05.2023 reported in 2023(6) SCC 123 . The relevant extract of the judgment, which is useful for adjudication of the aforesaid application under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. are as under:-

"22. Thus, when we speak of suspension of sentence after conviction, the idea is to defer or postpone the execution of the sentence. The purpose of postponement of sentence cannot be achieved by detaining the convict in jail; hence, as a natural consequence of postponement of execution, the convict may be enlarged on bail till further orders.

23. The principle underlying the theory of criminal jurisprudence in our country is that an accused is presumed to be innocent till he is held guilty by a court of the competent jurisdiction. Once the accused is held guilty, the presumption of innocence gets erased. In the same manner, if the accused is acquitted, then the presumption of innocence gets further fortified."

[8] In continuation of the aforesaid in the judgement of Aas Mohammad Vs. Shiv Raj Singh alias Lalla Babu and another reported in (2012) 9 SCC 446 has observed in para 30, which is as follows :-

"30. We may usefully state that when the citizens are scared to lead a peaceful life and this kind of offences usher in an impediment in establishment of orderly society, the duty of the court becomes more pronounced and the burden is heavy. There should have been proper analysis of the criminal antecedents. Needless to say, imposition of conditions is subsequent to the order admitting an accused to bail. The question should be posed whether the accused deserves to be enlarged on bail or not and only thereafter issue of imposing conditions would arise. We do not deny for a moment that period of custody is a relevant factor but simultaneously the totality of circumstances and the criminal antecedents are also to be weighed. They are to be weighed in the scale of collective cry and desire. The societal concern has to be kept in view in juxtaposition of individual liberty. Regard being had to the said parameter we are inclined to think that the social concern in the case at hand deserves to be given priority over lifting the restriction on liberty of the accused."

[9] In yet another judgement Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Siddharth Vashisht alias Manu Shamra Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) reported in (2008) 5 SCC 230, (properly known as Jessica Lal murder case), after hearing the common submission with regard to the bail prayer of the appellant, it has been held that :-

"19. We are conscious and mindful that the main matter (appeal) is admitted and is pending for final hearing. Observations on merits, one way or the other, therefore, are likely to prejudice one or the other party to the appeal. We are hence not entering into the correctness or otherwise of the evidence on record. It, however, cannot be overlooked that as on today, the applicant has been found guilty and convicted by a competent criminal court. Initial presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, therefore, is no more available to the applicant.

30. ....In the above cases, it has been observed that once a person has been convicted, normally, an appellate court will proceed on the basis that such person is guilty. It is no doubt true that even thereafter, it is open to the appellate court to suspend the sentence in a given case by recording reasons. But it is well settled, as observed in Vijay Kumar [(2002) 9 SCC 364 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1195 : JT 2002 Supp (1) SC 60] that in considering the prayer for bail in a case involving a serious offence like murder punishable under Section 302IPC, the Court should consider all the relevant factors like the nature of accusation made against the accused, the manner in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, the gravity of the offence, the desirability of releasing the accused on bail after he has been convicted for committing serious offence of murder, etc. It has also been observed in some of the cases that normal practice in such cases is not to suspend the sentence and it is only in exceptional cases that the benefit of suspension of sentence can be granted."

[10] In this regard Hon'ble Apex Court after thrashing number of the decisions in Atul Tripathi Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2014 (9) SCC 177, Kishori Lal Vs. Rupa and others reported in 2004(7) SCC 638, Vijay Kumar Vs. Narendra and others reported in (2002) 9 SCC 364. In Vijay Kumar v. Narendra and Others reported in (2002) 9 SCC 364 and Ramji Prasad v. Rattan Kumar Jaiswal and Another reported in (2002) 9 SCC 366, it was held by this Court that in cases involving conviction under Section 302 of the IPC, it is only in exceptional cases that the benefit of suspension of sentence can be granted. In Vijay Kumar (supra), it was held that in considering the prayer for bail in a case involving a serious offence like murder punishable under Section 302 of the IPC, the court should consider the relevant factors like the nature of accusation made against the accused, the manner in which the crime is alleged to have been committed, the gravity of the offence, and the desirability of releasing the accused on bail after they have been convicted for committing the serious offence of murder.

[11] After thrashing & analysing the aforementioned judgements, the essence arrived at by Hon'ble Apex Court has come to the conclusion by providing a guidelines and the true import of Section 389 (1) Cr.P.C., that, pending appeal while deciding the application for suspending the sentence to ascertain whether the convict has fair chance of acquittal, what is to be looked into is something palpable. To put in a other words, something which is very apparent or gross on the face of the records, on the basis of which, the court can arrive at prima facie satisfaction that conviction may not be sustainable. The appellate court should not re-appreciate the evidence at the stage of Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. and try to pick few lacunas or loopholes here or there in the case of prosecution such would not be a correct approach.

[12] In the aforesaid judgement of Om Prakash Sahani (supra) learned Apex Court in so many words have mentioned that High Court has gone the issue like the polital rivalry, delay in lodging the FIR some overwriting in the FIR etc. etc., all these aspect of the issue will have to be looked into at the time of final hearing of the appeals filed by the convict appellants. Upon cursory scanning on the evidence on record, we are unable to agree with the contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the convicts that either there is absolutely no case against the convicts or that the evidence against them are so weak and feeble in nature, that ultimately in all probabilities the proceedings would terminate in their favour.

[13] Thus from taking the help of the aforesaid judgement of Hon'ble Apex Court, it is crystal clear that while deciding the application under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C., the Court is not required to have a meticulous and keen appreciation of the evidence on record. All these aspect of the issue would be well considered only at the time of final hearing of the appeal. At this stage, the microscopic analysis and appreciation would lead to a disastrous results so far as it may affect the final outcome of the appeal.

LEGAL DISCUSSION OF PRESENT APPEALS :-

[14] Now taking the aforesaid analysis as a beacon light, we are proposing to decide all the three applications under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. in their respective appeal.

FACTS OF CASE :-

[15] As per the prosecution case contained in paragraph 3 of the impugned judgement, which could be formulated as under :-

(a) The informant of this case is Raj Kiran son of Kishan Lal, P.S. Qila, Bareilly lodged an FIR at Kotwali Bareilly that his brother Rajiv @ Raju was employed in Nagar Nigam, Bareilly as "Safai Karamchari". As his appointment has become eyesore to his opponent Sanjeev and Hariom, who were opposing his appointment and in this regard in September 2014 near Nagar Nigam, Bareilly, accused-appellants Sanjeev and others have committed maar-peet with him for which the FIR was registered on Kotwali Bareilly on 10.09.2014.

(b) Since then accused-appellants- Sanjeev and others started nurturing an ill feeling towards him and try to eliminate him many times in past but on account of providence he was saved himself.

(c) On 22.04.2016, informant with his brother Rajiv @ Raju (hence deceased) and his father Kishan Lal went to attend the marriage at 'Shehnai Baratghar'. After taking meals at 10.30 in the night, they came out and suddenly hey were surrounded by appellants, namely, (i) Sanjeev son of Ram Prakash, (ii) Ranjit son of Ram Prakash (iii) Hariom son of Om Prakash, (iv) Manoj son of Shyam Swarup, (v) Kapil son of Manoj (vi) Anhsu Arya son of Naresh Arya, all of them were armed,

Hariom was saying that Rajiv @ Raju and his family members are after his service, today we have to eliminate him. Soon thereafter, Hariom fired upon Rajiv alias Raju with intention to kill. After sustaining the gunshot injury over is leg his brother rushed back to 'Baratghar', however, he was overpowered by Manoj son of Shyam Swarup, Kapil son of Manoj, Anshu Arya, Ranjit @ Ram Prakash who fallen down the deceased and caught hold of him. Thereafter Sanjeev, fired upon his brother Rajiv @ Raju. When the informant and his father rushed to save his brother then the assailants fired upon indiscriminately upon them. One Kamal son of unknown also sustained gunshot injury. After this incident there was a turmoil and upheaval among the guests and everybody was started running in order to save their lives. Thereafter the body of the Rajiv @ Raju was taken to the Mission Hospital, where he was declared dead. All the assailants are hard core criminals and while running away they have extended threats that all of them would face same treatment if anyone opens his mouth. The informant after leaving their Polo and Safari Car left on the spot and also the motorcycle. Since the 'Baratghar' was well lit and therefore the informant clearly identified the individual assailants and their respective activities in the light of 'Baratghar'.

[16] The incident is said to have been taken place on 22.04.2016 at 10.30 in the night of which the FIR was registered on 12.30 in the midnight in between 22/23.04.2016 at P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly. The police after concluding the investigation has submitted a charge sheet under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307 and 302 IPC against appellants Sanjeev, Ranjit, Manoj, Hariom, Kapil and Anshu Arya. However, against appellant Ranjit the charge sheet was also submitted under Section 3/25 Arms Act, against appellant Manoj under Section 3/25 Arms Act and against appellant Sanjeev under Section 3/25 Arms Act and against appellant Anshu Arya under Section 3/25 Arms Act. Being the cognizable offence the case was referred to the court of Sessions whereby the appellants were convicted for the offence under Sections 147, 148, 307/149, 302/149 IPC and Section 7 Crl. Law Amendment Act, besides the charges under Section 3/25 Arms Act against appellants, namely, Ranjit, Manoj, Sanjeev and Anshu Arya.

ARGUMENTS ADVANCE BY COUNSEL OF APPELLANT :-

[17] Sri Rajiv Lochan Shukla, learned counsel for the appellants primarily have spear headed the arguments on behalf of all the appellants, supported by Sri Dilip Kumar as well as Manish Tewari, learned Senior Counsel for their respective appellants by adding & elaborating their own submissions. Broadly speaking, the argument advanced by learned counsel for the appellants Sri Shukla, Advocate could be formulated as follows :-

(I) There is inter-se difference among the depositions of 'witnesses of fact' with regard to the individual's role of the assailants which considerably erodes the authenticity of the prosecution case.

(II) Manipulation made by the police with regard to the bullets and weapon of assault used by the assailants.

(III) The alleged injured Kamal was never produced as witness nor his injuries were every exhibited or proved.

(IV) Eye witnesses presence is doubtful, besides they being they are interse in relationship and as such their deposition should be taken with pinch of salt.

(V) Ambulance Driver, who have taken the deceased to the hospital in a precarious condition and he got the injured Rajiv @ Raju admitted to the hospital. The Driver of the Ambulance was never produced as prosecution witnesses.

It is further argued by the counsel, that the informant and his father and the deceased went in their own private car but instead of using their own car for carrying the injured to the hospital, they have summoned the Ambulance for the said purpose, is clearly against the normal human behaviour.

(VI) After visualizing that the deceased have sustained four gunshot wound of injury over his person and more than one weapon have been used, the prosecution witnesses tried to shift their stand just to cover up and made their deposition in such a fashion which would in the consonance with the post mortem report.

(VII) Lastly, the history sheet of appellant-Ranjit H.S. No. 63A and appellant- Sanjeev H.S. No. 61A was brought on record by a written argument and were never exhibited. The criminal antecedents of the accused appellants of eight cases each which have been duly explained in rejoinder affidavits.

[18] Now the arguments advanced by Sri Dilip Kumar, learned Senior Counsel on behalf of appellant Hariom in Criminal Appeal No. 9185 of 2022 are as follows:-

(A) Out of six assailants and the deceased as well as informant on the other hand are belong to same caste, they know each other and probably distinctly related. It is contended that even assailants themselves are interse in the inimical relationship since recent past, they have lodged the various FIRs of maar-peet and kidnapping in which the charge sheet have been submitted against the accused-persons. On this factual narration, it is contended, that where the assailants themselves are in inimical relationship and as such this is highly unlikely that they would join their hands to eliminate Rajiv @ Raju.

(B) The scribe of the FIR was Khursheed Khan, though Raj Karan, the informant himself is a well educated person (M.A. pass) but instead of lodging the FIR, he asked Khursheed Khan to become scribe of the FIR. Khursheed Khan, who was never produced as a prosecution witness.

(C) After reading the FIR, the only role attributed to accused appellant Hariom that he has given a first shot to the deceased over leg. And after sustaining he ran inside about eighty to ninety paces from the original place of sustaining injury. Except this, accused appellant Hariom has not attributed any role in commission of the offence.

(D) There is no criminal history to the credit of accused appellant Hariom. He was on bail during trial. The bail order passed by the coordinate Bench of this Court when challenged before Apex Court by filing the S.L.P. of the informant, but the said S.L.P. was dismissed by the Hon'ble Apex Court after exchange of pleading.

(E) The 161 Cr.P.C. statement of one Kishan Lal, P.W.-2 the father of the deceased was recorded by the police after inordinate delay of 10-12 days on 05.05.2016. No justification coming forward for this delay, in which he has stated that 40-50 rounds were fired during this period, but the police has recovered only five used cartridges from the place of occurrence. After perusing the post mortem report, there is embellishment in the testimony of witnesses of fact.

(F) No recovery of any weapon from the possession of the accused appellant Hariom. The recovery of weapon is shown from Manoj, Ranjit, Sanjeev and Anshu Arya, however, only three weapons were sent for F.S.L. examination. The five cartridges recovered were not matched with three so called weapons recovered.

[19] The argument advanced by Sri Manish Tewari, learned counsel appellant, appellant Anshu Arya in Crl. Appeal No. 9885 of 2022 are formulated herein below:-

(A) Out of six accused person, the role of actual firing were attributed to appellants-Hariom and Sanjeev. However, accused-appellant Kapil died during the trial and accused appellant-Manoj too has taken his last breath on 13.01.2023 during the pendency of the appeal, though, the said fact is yet to be verified by the concerned C.J.M.. The role attributed to appellants Anshu Arya and Ranjit along with two other accused persons/appellants, namely, Manoj and Kapil are of catching hold the deceased and thus it is impossible for him to suggest that he may cause any firearm injury to the deceased.

(B) Presence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 is extremely doubtful as the deceased was brought to the hospital and admitted by the driver of the Ambulance and the other injured Kamal was brought to the hospital by his brother Ravi.

(C) There was a fearced animosity in between appellants-Hariom and Sanjeev. The deceased and appellants Sanjeev & Hariom have got a strong motive to eliminate the deceased.

(D) The said injured Kamal was never produced as prosecution witness.

(E) No direct or indirect motive was assigned to appellant- Anshu Arya.

(F) All the criminal history instituted by either the first informant Raj Karan or his relative.

(G) The scribe of the FIR was never produced as prosecution witnesses.

[20] Per contra, Sri Sagir Ahmad, learned senior counsel assisted by Sri Vikas Tripathi, learned counsel for the informant as well as Sri Ghanshyam Kumar, learned AGA submitted that the opinion of the doctor is only suggestive based on his skill and experience which comes within the category of “may be” and the corroborative in nature and it is not a substantive peace of evidence. It is only a suggestive and cannot be replaced the ocular testimony of the eye witnesses.

[21] The bail order granted to appellant Hariom by the coordinate Bench of this Court in the year 2018, which was lateron confirmed by Hon’ble Apex Court while dismissing the S.L.P. would not come into the way.

[22] The finding recorded in the bail order would not going to replace the finding of the trial judge, who after having the wholistic approach, thrashing all the testimonies of different witnesses and the material on record come to a particular conclusion and condemning the accused-appellants.

There is a vast difference in the import of Section 439 Cr.P.C. and Section 389(1) Cr.P.C.. The cardinal principles of Criminal Jurisprudence persisting in our country that the accused is presumed to be innocent till he has guilty by the court of competent jurisdiction. Once the accused is held guilty the presumption of innocence gets evaporated. In the same manner, if the accused is acquitted then the presumption of innocence gets further fortified.

It is further contended, that the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants that they have venture into the threadbare analysis of the every evidence, tried to magnify the smallest and irrelevant discrepancies in the testimony and material to establish that the judgement and order is per-se bogus and palpably wrong. It is not expected from the appellant court to have microscopic analysis of smallest discrepancies in the testimonies of various PWs and appreciate the same while dealing and deciding the respective 389(1) Cr.P.C. applications. All the submission advanced by the learned counsel may hold good at the final stage of the appeal, but when we are focusing only upon sentence suspension application, all these fine arguments cannot be looked into. It would be rather dangerous to the interest of the appellants to venture in that arena, else it may counter productive.

[23] After the rival submissions advanced by the parties and appreciating the marathon arguments advanced by the counsel, the Court has perused the judgement impugned.

The offence is said to have been committed in three parts, though in the same transaction;

Firstly, appellants Sanjeev and Hariom were nurturing a bad breath and inimical relationship with the deceased Rajiv @ Raju on account of some service/appointment. Appellant Hariom was suspecting that the deceased Rajiv @ Raju was after his service and as such appellants Sanjeev and Hariom were nurturing inimical relation with him. They have got a strong motive to eliminate the deceased. More over, it is the appellant Hariom in order to kill the deceased fired upon him outside the road in front of marriage home for which the deceased has sustained serious injuries over his leg/thigh.

Secondly, after receiving the initial gunshot injury, Rajiv @ Raju (hence deceased) ran away towards marriage home, however, he was over powered by appellants, namey, Manoj, Kapil, Anshu Arya and Ranjit and thereafter appellant Sanjeev has open the fire upon the Rajiv @ Raju, deceased.

Thirdly, after visualizing the gunshot upon the Rajiv @ Raju, deceased, the first informant and his father ran towards the assailants but appellants, namely, Manoj and Kapil open indiscriminate fire upon them and in this transaction Kamal has sustained firearm injury.

[24] It is argued by the counsel that ante mortem injuries of the deceased Rajiv @ Raju, the seat of injury, the nature of injury, size of injury and the surrounding circumstance for committing the offence is most dare devil, ghastly and cold blooded way by the accused-appellants. Broadly speaking, the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 supports the prosecution case, as they were eye witnesses of the incident. The surroundings were well lit and the witnesses of facts have got ample opportunity to identify them and the individual's role. There is no question of false implication or case of mistaken identity of the assailants. The FIR was lodged within two hours of the incident, ruling out any possibility of tutoring or embellishments. They know that the animosity with regard to the service is subsisting between them. In this charged moment, one cannot expect sane and cool and calculated behaviour by the informant or the dependant/close relative of the deceased. It is rather impossible to chalk out the exact human behaviour in that a charged situation.

So far as, motive is concerned, it is clear from the very beginning that Sanjeev and Hariom were dead against the appointment of Rajiv @ Raju, deceased as "Safai Karamchari" in the Nagar Nigam, Bareilly and since then, the deceased has become, their eyesore. This was the cause of genesis of the present offence. More over, where there is eye witness account of the incident, whereby the witnesses of fact have identified the assailants in the light of marriage home and this is not a case of mistaken identity as mentioned above, then in that situation the factor of motive occupies the front seat have of considerable importance.

There is no extra ordinary or exceptional delay in lodging of the FIR as the same was lodged within two hours of the incident, the FIR was got registered by the scribe Khursheed Khan.

[25] After having the panoramic view of the issue and the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses, two persons, namely, Hariom and Sanjeev have actively participated in the process of eliminating the deceased, however, rest of the four accused persons/appellants, namely, Ranjit, Kapil, Manoj and Anshu Arya were active partners of the incident but they have been attributed the role of catching hold only; as they over powered the deceased & facilitated the assailant Sanjeev to give lethal blows over his person.

[26] Learned counsel for the appellants have laid much emphasis upon the post mortem report of the deceased and its dimension of the injuries and the testimonies of Dr. Vijay Pal Singh, P.W.-5. No doubt that out of six injuries, five injuries were of gunshot wound of entry ad-measuring 4 cm x 2 cm right side of the head, wound of entry; 4 cm x 1 cm on the right side below above the pelvic bone, a wound of entry 3 cm x 1 cm containing tattooing inside the injury no.3 and lastly a wound of entry 3 cm x 4 cm inside above the thigh. Interestingly, all the injuries contains a bullet inside it. On this, it has been sharply contended by learned counsel for the appellants that the prosecution story and the individual's role in commission of the offence, do not tally with each other. The Court is consciously deferring to adjudicate these fine arguments advanced by learned counsel for the appellants, else it would amount to deciding the appeal at admission stage itself, which is neither desirable nor it is in the interest of justice, rather it would be detrimental to the interest of the appellants, if any finding recorded against them. We are leaving these arguments wide open, to be argued at the time of final stage of the appeals.

[27] In paragraph 37.5 of the judgement, the learned trial judge after taking the aid of Section 149 IPC have clearly recorded his finding that after hearing the fire from appellant Hariom upon the deceased to kill him, the rest of accused persons/appellants, namely, Manoj, Ranjit, Kapil and Anshu Arya, who were present over the site and have actively participated, so as to achieved the target and appellants, Sanjeev and Hariom have accomplished their mission by giving fire upon the deceased in two different innings.

In paragraph 37.16 of the judgement have negated the submissions that the number of injuries sustained by the deceased is not in consonance with the prosecution story. Even otherwise, if we start appreciating fineries and niceties of the arguments advanced by the learned counsel qua, number of injuries sustained by the deceased; seat & measurement of the injuries, weapon recovered from the appellants, report from the ballistic expert etc. etc.. In this regard it would amount to decide the appeal itself at the stage of Section 389(1) Cr.P.C., which is not desireable.

[28] Even otherwise, it is contended by the counsel for the informant that one cannot give a graphic description of the incident after giving its minutest detail of the incident, namely, number of injuries, weapon used by the individual assailants, recovery of weapons and the cartridges used or empty shell recovered from the site. Under these circumstances, it is not expected from the witnesses that they would count the number of fires, the empty cartridges recovered, the seat of injuries over the deceased. It is settled principles of law, that ocular testimony must be given a preference or edge over the opinion of the expert. There is a consistent stand that these two persons, namely, Hariom and Sanjeev have given a deadly blow over the deceased. It is also true that Hariom fired upon the deceased for making him virtually immobile. Somehow and other, he tried and managed himself to go inside the marriage home just to save himself, but in the midst he was over powered by the rest of the accused persons, paving the path for Sanjeev convenient, so that he may eliminate the deceased Rajiv @ Raju. The argument made by learned counsel for the appellant that initially it was the appellant Sanjeev alone, who are attributed the role of firing, lateron in the testimony of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, the number of assailants were swelled from Sanjeev and another and lateron it was Sanjeev and Hariom. Fact remains, that the appellant Sanjeev was a common thread in all the three permutation and combination and thus, his name is common from the day one. So far as appellant-Hariom is concerned, he has been attributed the role of firing upon the deceased at first stage. But as mentioned above after, churning the deposition and other materials on record, the appellant Hariom was hold guilty by the trial judge. We are at loss to replace our finding, after negating the conclusion of learned trial judge at Section 389(1) Cr.P.C. stage.

[29] So far as criminal antecedent is concerned that the appellants have got a long criminal history and appellant Sanjeev is enjoying HS No. 61 A whereas the appellant Ranjeet is having HS No. 63A, appellant-Anshu Arya is having a criminal history of 10 cases. All these facts were brought to the knowledge in the form of written submission which were never confronted to the defence. It is further submitted that in most of criminal history, the author the FIR is either Raj Karan, the present informant or his relative. Under these circumstance, learned counsel for the appellants submits, that the false implication cannot be ruled out. We cannot take the judicial note of the fact that the accused-appellants were having a long criminal history to their credit, which were never confronted by the counsel for the defense so as to check its authenticity.

[30] Assessing the entirety of the circumstances mentioned above keeping in view the individual's role let the appellant-Anshu Arya and appellant -Ranjit be released on bail as the role attributed to them are of catching hold.

Nos. 599 of 2016 (State of U.P. Vs. Sanjeev and 6 others) arising out of case crime no. 210 of 2016 under Section 147, 148, 149, 307, 302 IPC, P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly, S.T. NO. 600 of 2016 (State Vs. Ranjeet) arising out of case crime no. 220 of 2016, under Section 3/25 Arms Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly and in S.T. No. 603 of 2016 (State Vs. Anshu Arya) arising out of case crime no. P.S. Kotwali, District Bareilly, on their furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each (one of which of their close relatives) in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned.

[32] On acceptance of bail bonds, the lower court shall transmit photostat copies thereof to this Court for being kept on record of this appeal.

[33] 100% of the fine awarded by the Court below under the impugned judgment shall be deposited by the applicant/appellant within a month from their release on bail.

[34] So far as the accused appellants, Sanjeev S/o Prakash and Hariom S/o Late Om Prakash and keeping in view, their active role in the commission of offence as they are main author of the offence, we are not inclined to suspend the sentence under Section 389(1) Cr.P.C., accordingly, their application under Section 389(1)Cr.P.C. stand REJECTED.

(Order on Memo of Appeal)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rakesh Kr. Srivastava, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Pradeep Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for respondent No.7. No one has appeared on behalf of the other respondents, despite service of notice.

2. The present appeal was filed against the order dated 22.5.2013 passed by Additional District Judge-I, Court No. 1, Faizabad in Misc. Non Related Case No. 17 of 2000.

3. The crux of the matter is that one Dr. Ram Nath Verma, after death of his wife Smt. Uma Shashi Verma, executed a trust deed dated 19.12.1995, creating a trust in the name of his wife viz. Smt. Uma Shashi Verma Memorial Charitable Trust, Faizabad. In the said trust deed, it was also mentioned that he would execute a Will for the administration regarding the trust. The above Dr. Ram Nath Verma died on 18.10.1999. Thereafter, an application u/s 276 of Indian Succession Act, 1925 was filed by the appellant-trust through its Chairman, Dr. Brijendra Kumar Saxena @ Basantji for grant of probate of Will dated 9.9.1999 claimed to be executed by Dr. Ram Nath Verma. That application was contested by respondents No. 2, 3, 4 and 5, who filed objections regarding the Will dated 9.9.1999. Therefore, that being a contentious case, the proceeding was continued u/s 295 of Indian Succession Act, in the form of regular suit in accordance with the provisions of the C.P.C. During that proceeding, respondent No.6, being the nephew of Dr. Ram Nath, also filed an application, mentioning therein that the Will dated 9.9.1999 was forged and the correct Will is already lying in the locker of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma. Therefore, learned District Judge by order dated 9.8.2002 directed the bank to open the locker of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma and produce the Will, lying therein. In pursuance of the order dated 9.8.2002, the Will dated 1.1.1996 was produced before the court. As the Will dated 1.1.1996 was not disputed by any of the parties, therefore, an amendment was made in the probate application, by the appellant and in place of Will dated 9.9.1999, the probate was sought regarding the Will dated 1.1.1996.

4. Except respondent No.1, no one filed any objection to the Will dated 1.1.1996. However, respondent No.2 filed an application (Paper No. 38-Ga) wherein though he did not dispute the Will dated 1.1.1996, he contended that the Will dated 9.9.1999, giving certain benefit to him, is subsequent to the Will dated 1.1.1996. Therefore, the probate of the Will dated 9.9.1999 should be granted. In support of his case, the appellant had produced three witnesses of the Will dated 1.1.1996, namely, Ram Kishore Jaiswal (PW-2), Khushi Ram Verma (PW-3) and R.K. Shukla (PW-4). One Indrasen, who was power of attorney holder of the Chairman of the appellant trust, was examined as PW-1 and Ram Ratan Verma, who was a family member of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma was also produced as PW-5. None of the contesting parties have produced any witness in support of their respective Wills. After considering the evidence on record, the learned District Judge, by order dated 22.5.2013, rejected the probate petition of the appellant. Feeling aggrieved by the said order, the present appeal has been filed.

5. Contention of learned counsel for the appellant is that the court below rejected his probate application merely on the ground that there is minor contradiction in the statement of attesting witness Ram Kishore Jaiswal (one of the attesting witnesses) who initially filed the probate petition on behalf of appellant as his counsel. It is further submitted that other witnesses, namely, Khushi Ram Verma and R.K. Shukla, duly proved the Will dated 1.1.1996 as per Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Section 68 of the Evidence Act. It is also submitted that the Will dated 1.1.1996, being a hand written Will of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma, which is termed as Holographic Will, has more evidentiary value if there is no dispute about the signature and writing of the executor. In the present case, none of the parties has disputed the aforesaid facts. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the appellant has also relied upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Joyce Primrose Prestor (Mrs.) (Nee Vas) vs. Vera Marie Vas (Ms) and others; (1996) 9 SCC 324. In that judgement the Apex Court observed that the Holograph Will presumption is of more value than the ordinary Will, if the writing of the Will and the signature of the testator are admitted. It is further submitted that the Will dated 1.1.1996 was produced before the court in pursuance of the order of the District Judge from the locker of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma and that Will was also having reference in the trust deed itself, therefore, that Will cannot be disputed and there is apparent error in the impugned order.

6. Per contra, though the learned counsel for respondent No.7 has not opposed the Will and actually admitted the Will dated 1.1.1996, but submitted that as per the trust deed as well as the Will dated 1.1.1996, there is specific condition that the present Chairman of the appellant trust Will induct any of the family members of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma as trustee, therefore, even if a probate is granted that should be for the limited purpose as required u/s 248 of Indian Succession Act; for the purpose specified in the Will itself.

7. After hearing the parties and on perusal of record, this fact is clear that none of the parties has disputed the writing and signature of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma over the Will dated 1.1.1996. However, during the proceeding before the District Judge, Faizabad, the statement of one of the attesting witnesses of the Will, namely, Ram Kishore Jaiswal, has some minor contradictions. So far as other witnesses of the Will, namely, Khushi Ram Verma and R.K. Shukla, are concerned, they clearly stated that the above Will was written and signed by Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma and this fact was acknowledged by Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma in their presence and also in presence of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma they also witnessed the Will. In the impugned judgement, learned District Judge also observed that the witness of the Will dated 1.1.1996 Sri Ram Kishore Jaiswal had admitted that other witnesses had not signed before him. The main thrust of the District Judge while rejecting the probate application of the appellant, is the contradiction in the statement of Ram Kishore Jaiswal, one of the witnesses of the Will. From the perusal of the statement of attesting witness Ram Kishore Jaiswal, it appears that contradictions are not such which could create suspicious circumstances which are required to be removed by the propounder.

8. Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act provides the execution of unprivileged Wills requires that the testator shall sign or shall affix his mark on the Will so as to give effect to the writing in the Will, and the Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses. However, it is also provided in Section 63(c) of the Indian Succession Act that it shall not be necessary that more than one witness Will be present at the same time. For reference, Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 is being quoted below:-

"63. Execution of unprivileged Wills.- Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, or an airman so employed or engaged, or a mariner at sea, shall execute his Will according to the following rules:?

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the Will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a Will.

(c) The Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has seen some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark, or the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

9. Therefore, from the perusal of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, it is clear that for the signing of the Will by the witnesses, it is not necessary that all the witnesses should be present at the same time. Therefore, view of the District Judge that one of the witnesses Ram Kishore Jaiswal admitted that the other persons had not signed before him, is not a legal requirement of Section 63 of Indian Succession Act. Even Section 68 of the Evidence Act provides that even if the Will is attested by two or more witnesses, it is not necessary for all the attesting witnesses to prove the execution of the Will and same can be proved by calling only one attesting witness. For reference Section 68 of Evidence Act is quoted as under:-

"68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.

If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence :

Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a Will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (XVI of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied."

10. From the reading of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act and Section 68 of the Evidence Act, it is clear that requirement of the law is that at least one attesting witness to come before the court to prove due execution and attestation of Will. It is also clear from Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act that even if the attesting witness has not seen the testator signing the Will, but if he received the personal acknowledgement from the testator about his signature on the Will, then it Will be sufficient for attesting witness to sign the Will in the presence of the testator.

11. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Janki Narayan Bhoir vs. Narayan Namdeo Kadam; AIR 2003 SC 761, while laying down guidelines for proof of execution of the Will, in paragraphs No. 10 and 11, observed as underp:-

"10. Section 68 of the Evidence Act speaks of as to how a document required by law to be attested can be proved. According to the said section, a document required by law to be attested shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the court and capable of giving evidence. It flows from this section that if there be an attesting witness alive capable of giving evidence and subject to the process of the court, has to be necessarily examined before the document required by law to be attested can be used in an evidence. On a combined reading of Section 63 of the Succession Act with Section 68 of the Evidence Act, it appears that a person propounding the will has got to prove that the will was duly and validly executed. That cannot be done by simply proving that the signature on the will was that of the testator but must also prove that attestations were also made properly as required by clause (c) of Section 63 of the Succession Act. It is true that Section 68 of the Evidence Act does not say that both or all the attesting witnesses must be examined. But at least one attesting witness has to be called for proving due execution of the will as envisaged in Section 63. Although Section 63 of the Succession Act requires that a will has to be attested at least by two witnesses, Section 68 of the Evidence Act provides that a document, which is required by law to be attested, shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been examined for the purpose of proving its due execution if such witness is alive and capable of giving evidence and subject to the process of the court. In a way, Section 68 gives a concession to those who want to prove and establish a will in a court of law by examining at least one attesting witness even though the will has to be attested at least by two witnesses mandatorily under Section 63 of the Succession Act. But what is significant and to be noted is that one attesting witness examined should be in a position to prove the execution of a will. To put in other words, if one attesting witness can prove execution of the will in terms of clause (c) of Section 63 viz. attestation by two attesting witnesses in the manner contemplated therein, the examination of the other attesting witness can be dispensed with. The one attesting witness examined, in his evidence has to satisfy the attestation of a will by him and the other attesting witness in order to prove there was due execution of the will. If the attesting witness examined besides his attestation does not, in his evidence, satisfy the requirements of attestation of the will by the other witness also it falls short of attestation of will at least by two witnesses for the simple reason that the execution of the will does not merely mean the signing of it by the testator but it means fulfilling and proof of all the formalities required under Section 63 of the Succession Act. Where one attesting witness examined to prove the will under Section 68 of the Evidence Act fails to prove the due execution of the will then the other available attesting witness has to be called to supplement his evidence to make it complete in all respects. Where one attesting witness is examined and he fails to prove the attestation of the will by the other witness there will be deficiency in meeting the mandatory requirements of Section 68 of the Evidence Act.

11. Section 71 of the Evidence Act is in the nature of a safeguard to the mandatory provisions of Section 68 of the Evidence Act, to meet a situation where it is not possible to prove the execution of the will by calling the attesting witnesses, though alive. This section provides that if an attesting witness denies or does not recollect the execution of the will, its execution may be proved by other evidence. Aid of Section 71 can be taken only when the attesting witnesses, who have been called, deny or fail to recollect the execution of the document to prove it by other evidence. Section 71 has no application to a case where one attesting witness, who alone had been summoned, has failed to prove the execution of the will and other attesting witnesses though are available to prove the execution of the same, for reasons best known, have not been summoned before the court. It is clear from the language of Section 71 that if an attesting witness denies or does not recollect execution of the document, its execution may be proved by other evidence. However, in a case where an attesting witness examined fails to prove the due execution of will as required under clause (c) of Section 63 of the Succession Act, it cannot be said that the will is proved as per Section 68 of the Evidence Act. It cannot be said that if one attesting witness denies or does not recollect the execution of the document, the execution of will can be proved by other evidence dispensing with the evidence of other attesting witnesses though available to be examined to prove the execution of the will. Yet another reason as to why other available attesting witnesses should be called when the one attesting witness examined fails to prove due execution of the will is to avert the claim of drawing adverse inference under Section 114 Illustration (g) of the Evidence Act. Placing the best possible evidence, in the given circumstances, before the Court for consideration, is one of the cardinal principles of the Indian Evidence Act. Section 71 is permissive and an enabling section permitting a party to lead other evidence in certain circumstances. But Section 68 is not merely an enabling section. It lays down the necessary requirements, which the court has to observe before holding that a document is proved. Section 71 is meant to lend assistance and come to the rescue of a party who had done his best, but driven to a state of helplessness and impossibility, cannot be let down without any other means of proving due execution by ?other evidence? as well. At the same time Section 71 cannot be read so as to absolve a party of his obligation under Section 68 read with Section 63 of the Act and liberally allow him, at his will or choice to make available or not a necessary witness otherwise available and amenable to the jurisdiction of the court concerned and confer a premium upon his omission or lapse, to enable him to give a go-by to the mandate of law relating to the proof of execution of a will."

12. Similarly, in the case of Yumnam Ongbi Tampha Ibema Devi vs. Uumnam Joykumar Singh and others; (2009) 4 SCC 780, Hon'ble Apex Court observed that attesting witness should speak not only about testator's signature to the Will but also that each of the witnesses had signed the Will in presence of testator. Paragraphs No. 12 and 13 of the aforesaid judgement are being quoted as under:-

"12. The attestation of the will in the manner stated above is not an empty formality. It means signing a document for the purpose of testifying of the signatures of the executant. The attested (sic attesting) witness should put his signature on the will animo attestandi. It is not necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time and no particular form of attestation is necessary. Since a will is required by law to be attested, its execution has to be proved in the manner laid down in the section and the Evidence Act which requires that at least one attesting witness has to be examined for the purpose of proving the execution of such a document.

13. Therefore, having regard to the provisions of Section 68 of the Evidence Act and Section 63 of the Succession Act, a will to be valid should be attested by two or more witnesses in the manner provided therein and the propounder thereof should examine one attesting witness to prove the will. The attesting witness should speak not only about the testator's signature or affixing his mark to the will but also that each of the witnesses had signed the will in the presence of the testator."

13. In the present case out of four attesting witnesses of the Will dated 1.1.1996, two witnesses, namely, R.K. Shukla and Khushi Ram Verma, clearly stated that the Will had been signed by the testator Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma in their presence and the Will was read over to them and thereafter they have also signed. Therefore, execution of the Will dated 1.1.1996 was duly proved by the witnesses and issuance of probate cannot be denied only on the ground that the third witness, namely, Ram Kishore Jaiswal, had some contradiction in his statement.

14. Once, it is undisputed that the Will was written and signed by the testator Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma and two attesting witnesses very clearly proved that the Will dated 1.1.1996 was signed in their presence and subsequently, they had also signed the same as attesting witnesses, is sufficient to prove the execution of the Will dated 1.1.1996. Hon'ble Apex Court in Joyce Primrose Prestor (supra) has observed that once writing and signature of testator in holograph Will is admitted then it Will be deemed to be properly executed. Paragraphs No. 15 & 16 of the judgement is quoted as underp:-

"15. While the presumption in the case of ordinary Wills is as stated above, in the case of "holograph Wills", the presumption is all the more ? a greater presumption. Ex. P-1 is a "holograph Will". It is one which is wholly in the handwriting of the testator. The Calcutta High Court in Ajit Chandra Majumdar v. Akhil Chandra Majumdar [AIR 1960 Cal 551 : 64 CWN 576] (AIR Cal at p. 552) stated about such a Will, thus:

"The whole of this Will was written in the hand by the testator himself in English. The handwriting is clear and firm. The law makes a great presumption in favour of the genuineness of a holograph Will for the very good reason that the mind of the testator in physically writing out his own Will is more apparent in a holograph Will than where his signature alone appears to either a typed script or to a script written by somebody else."

(emphasis supplied)

The writing of the Will and signature of the testator are admitted. There is also due and proper attestation in accordance with the relevant statutory provisions. No suspicious circumstance appears on the face of the document, Ex. P-1. The Will appears to be moderate and rational. Viewed from the above angle, there is a great presumption ? even bordering on actual proof of the due execution and attestation of the Will.

16. Defendants have urged a few suspicious circumstances and have alleged that the Will was executed by the undue influence exercised by the plaintiff. Notwithstanding the high degree of presumption available in the case of a holograph Will, which on the face of it, appears to be properly and duly executed and attested, have the defendants let in cogent evidence to offset the said presumption and/or have succeeded in proving the special plea set up by them, falls for our consideration. In our considered view, the answer can be only in the negative."

15. So far as the right to receive probate of the Will dated 1.1.1996 is concerned, it is not disputed that in the trust deed dated 19.12.1995, Basantji was appointed as Chairman/Caretaker Trustee and even in the Will dated 1.1.1996, it was clearly mentioned that Basantji, being the Caretaker Trustee would enforce the Will by appointing the trustee from the family of Late Dr. Ram Nath Verma. Therefore, Basantji being Caretaker Trustee as well as Chairman of the trust, has right to seek probate of the Will dated 1.1.1996 for the purpose, specified in the Will dated 1.1.1996 as per Section 248 read with Section 222 of the Indian Succession Act.

16. In view of the above, this Court is of the view that the order dated 22.5.2013 passed by Additional District Judge-I, Court No. 1, Faizabad in Misc. Non-related Case No. 17 of 2000 is erroneous and, therefore, deserves to be set aside.

17. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 22.5.2013 is set aside with further direction to Additional District Judge-I, Court No. 1, Faizabad to issue probate in favour of the appellant as per Sections 248 read with Section 222 of the Indian Succession Act for the purpose specified in the Will dated 1.1.1996.

18. With the aforesaid observation, the appeal is allowed.

19. The office is directed to remit the record of the court below.

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Mohd. Arif

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code, 1908 – Section 151 & O. VII R. 11 – Commercial Courts Act, 2015 – S. 12-A – Commercial dispute – Settlement through Pre-litigation mediation – Significance – Trial Court rejected the application for urgent interim relief holding it imaginary and further on the ground that mandatory provision of pre-litigation mediation could not have been bypassed – Validity challenged – Earlier also the plaintiff filed a suit without seeking any urgent interim reliefs and subsequently withdrew it – Effect – Held, mandatory nature of Section 12-A of the Act underscores the legislative intent to promote alternative dispute resolution mechanisms, particularly mediation, as a preferred method for resolving commercial disputes – The trial court has correctly examined the position and held that mandatory provision of Section 12-A of the Act should have been complied with by the appellant. (Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Sarraf, J.)

1. This is a first appeal against an order dated October 31, 2023, wherein the application filed by the respondents/defendants under Order VII Rule 11 read with Section 151 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 in Original Suit No.15 of 2023 was allowed and the plaint filed by the appellant/plaintiff was rejected.

2. Upon perusal of the impugned order, it appears that the trial court enquired into the earlier factual matrix of the case and indicated that earlier a suit being Original Suit No.4 of 2022 was filed by the appellant without any application made for any urgent interim relief. Subsequently, the applicant sought to withdraw the said suit by way of making an application. The applicant also sought liberty to file a fresh suit. The said suit was allowed to be withdrawn vide order dated January 3, 2023.

3. Thereafter, second suit being Suit No.15 of 2023 was filed by the appellant along with an application seeking urgent interim relief. It was noted by the trial court that in the first suit, no prayer for grant of urgent interim relief was made by the appellant. Therefore, the trial court concluded that the prayer made for urgent interim relief is "imaginary" and Section 12A of the Commercial Courts Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act'), which mandates pre-litigation mediation, could not have been bypassed.

4. Sri Ashish Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant has placed reliance on the judgment of the Calcutta High Court in M/s Odisha Slurry Pipeline Infrastructure Ltd. and Another v. IDBI Bank Ltd. and Others, reported in, 2022 SCC OnLine Cal 3951, the Delhi High Court in Yamini Manohar v. T K D Keerthi, reported in 2022 SCC OnLine Del 2653 which was affirmed by the Supreme Court in Yamini Manohar v. T K D Keerthi, reported in, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1382 to buttress his argument that in a trademark suit, there is always an urgency. Accordingly, the provision of Section 12A of the Act was not needed to be complied with by the appellant.

5. Per contra, Sri Mohd. Arif, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents has submitted that the aforesaid judgments relied upon by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the appellant would not apply to the instant case, as the factual matrix in the instant case is different from those cases insofar is it clear that there was no urgency demonstrated by the appellant in the instant case. This is further evident from the fact that the appellant filed the first suit without any application seeking urgent interim relief. He further submitted that the trial court has, in detail, examined the facts and only thereafter concluded that the urgency contemplated in the present plaint is imaginary in nature.

Analysis and Conclusion

6. I have heard the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties.

7. Before delving into the controversy in the instant case, I feel it pertinent to extract Section 12A of the Act herein as under:

"12A. Pre-litigation Mediation and Settlement.—(1) A suit, which does not contemplate any urgent interim relief under this Act, shall not be instituted unless the plaintiff exhausts the remedy of pre-litigation mediation in accordance with such manner and procedure as may be prescribed by rules made by the Central Government.

(2) For the purposes of pre-litigation mediation, the Central Government may, by notification, authorise—

(i) the Authority, constituted under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 (39 of 1987); or

(ii) a mediation service provider as defined under clause (m) of Section 3 of the Mediation Act, 2023.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 (39 of 1987), the Authority or mediation service provider authorised by the Central Government under sub-section (2) shall complete the process of mediation within a period of one hundred and twenty days from the date of application made by the plaintiff under sub-section (1):

Provided that the period of mediation may be extended for a further period of sixty days with the consent of the parties:

Provided further that, the period during which the parties spent for pre-litigation mediation shall not be computed for the purposes of limitation under the Limitation Act, 1963 (36 of 1963).

(4) If the parties to the commercial dispute arrive at a settlement, the same shall be reduced into writing and shall be signed by the parties and the mediator.

(5) The mediated settlement agreement arrived at under this section shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of Sections 27 and 28 of the Mediation Act, 2023.]"

8. In the landscape of the Indian commercial laws, Section 12A of the Act stands as a pivotal provision, delineating a framework for pre-institution mediation and settlement of commercial disputes. This provisions places emphasis on mediation as a preferred method to resolve commercial disputes before they escalate into protracted legal battles. The significance of Section 12A of the Act lies not only in its attempt to decongest the overburdened judicial system but also in its promotion of efficiency, cost-effectiveness, and party autonomy in dispute resolution. India's courts are inundated with a staggering backlog of cases, including commercial disputes, which often leads to significant delays in the dispensation of justice. By mandating pre-litigation mechanism, Section 12A of the Act acts as a gatekeeper, diverting disputes away from the already congested court dockets and towards a more expeditious resolution process. This not only relieves pressure on the judiciary but also ensures timely redressal for the parties involved, thereby enhancing the overall efficiency of the legal system.

9. Moreover, the mandatory nature of Section 12A of the Act underscores the legislative intent to promote alternative dispute resolution mechanisms, particularly mediation, as a preferred method for resolving commercial disputes. In doing so, it reflects a broader global trend towards embracing consensual and collaborative approaches to conflict resolution, as opposed to the adversarial nature of traditional litigation. By making pre-litigation mediation compulsory, Section 12A of the Act institutionalizes the shift towards a more mediation-friendly legal framework, thereby fostering a culture of dispute resolution that prioritizes amicable settlement over prolonged courtroom battles.

10. In Patil Automation Pvt. Ltd. and Others v. Rakheja Engineers Pvt. Ltd., reported in, (2022) 10 SCC 1, the Supreme Court expounded on the significance of Section 12A of the Act, and its mandatory nature. Relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment is delineated below:

"99.1.The Act did not originally contain Section 12-A. It is by amendment in the year 2018 that Section 12-A was inserted. The Statement of Objects and Reasons are explicit that Section 12-A was contemplated as compulsory. The object of the Act and the Amending Act of 2018, unerringly point to at least partly foisting compulsory mediation on a plaintiff who does not contemplate urgent interim relief. The provision has been contemplated only with reference to plaintiffs who do not contemplate urgent interim relief. The legislature has taken care to expressly exclude the period undergone during mediation for reckoning limitation under the Limitation Act, 1963. The object is clear.

99.2. It is an undeniable reality that courts in India are reeling under an extraordinary docket explosion. Mediation, as an alternative dispute mechanism, has been identified as a workable solution in commercial matters. In other words, the cases under the Act lend themselves to be resolved through mediation. Nobody has an absolute right to file a civil suit. A civil suit can be barred absolutely or the bar may operate unless certain conditions are fulfilled. Cases in point, which amply illustrate this principle, are Section 80CPC and Section 69 of the Partnership Act.

99.3. The language used in Section 12-A, which includes the word "shall", certainly, goes a long way to assist the Court to hold that the provision is mandatory. The entire procedure for carrying out the mediation, has been spelt out in the Rules. The parties are free to engage counsel during mediation. The expenses, as far as the fee payable to the mediator, is concerned, is limited to a one-time fee, which appears to be reasonable, particularly, having regard to the fact that it is to be shared equally. A trained mediator can work wonders.

99.4. Mediation must be perceived as a new mechanism of access to justice. We have already highlighted its benefits. Any reluctance on the part of the Court to give Section 12-A, a mandatory interpretation, would result in defeating the object and intention of Parliament. The fact that the mediation can become a non-starter, cannot be a reason to hold the provision not mandatory. Apparently, the value judgment of the lawgiver is to give the provision, a modicum of voluntariness for the defendant, whereas, the plaintiff, who approaches the court, must, necessarily, resort to it. Section 12-A elevates the settlement under the Act and the Rules to an award within the meaning of Section 30(4) of the Arbitration Act, giving it meaningful enforceability. The period spent in mediation is excluded for the purpose of limitation. The Act confers power to order costs based on conduct of the parties."

11. The Supreme Court in Patil Automation (supra), further reiterated that non-compliance with Section 12A of the Act would lead to rejection of the plaint under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Relevant paragraphs are extracted herein below:

"92. Order 7 Rule 11 declares that the plaint can be rejected on 6 grounds. They include failure to disclose the cause of action, and where the suit appears from the statement in the plaint to be barred. We are concerned in these cases with the latter. Order 7 Rule 12 provides that when a plaint is rejected, an order to that effect with reasons must be recorded. Order 7 Rule 13 provides that rejection of the plaint mentioned in Order 7 Rule 11 does not by itself preclude the plaintiff from presenting a fresh plaint in respect of the same cause of action. Order 7 deals with various aspects about what is to be pleaded in a plaint, the documents that should accompany and other details. Order 4 Rule 1 provides that a suit is instituted by presentation of the plaint to the court or such officer as the court appoints. By virtue of Order 4 Rule 1(3), a plaint is to be deemed as duly instituted only when it complies with the requirements under Order 6 and Order 7. Order 5 Rule 1 declares that when a suit has been duly instituted, a summon may be issued to the defendant to answer the claim on a date specified therein. There are other details in the order with which we are not to be detained. We have referred to these rules to prepare the stage for considering the question as to whether the power under Order 7 Rule 11 is to be exercised only on an application by the defendant and the stage at which it can be exercised.

94.3. Order 7 Rule 11 does not provide that the court is to discharge its duty of rejecting the plaint only on an application. Order 7 Rule 11 is, in fact, silent about any such requirement. Since summon is to be issued in a duly instituted suit, in a case where the plaint is barred under Order 7 Rule 11(d), the stage begins at that time when the court can reject the plaint under Order 7 Rule 11. No doubt it would take a clear case where the court is satisfied. The Court has to hear the plaintiff before it invokes its power besides giving reasons under Order 7 Rule 12. In a clear case, where on allegations in the suit, it is found that the suit is barred by any law, as would be the case, where the plaintiff in a suit under the Act does not plead circumstances to take his case out of the requirement of Section 12-A, the plaint should be rejected without issuing summons. Undoubtedly, on issuing summons it will be always open to the defendant to make an application as well under Order 7 Rule 11. In other words, the power under Order 7 Rule 11 is available to the court to be exercised suo motu. (See in this regard, the judgment of this Court in Madiraju Venkata Ramana Raju [Madiraju Venkata Ramana Raju v. Peddireddigari Ramachandra Reddy, (2018) 14 SCC 1] .)"

12. One may also make reference to the judgment of the Calcutta High Court in Odisha Slurry Pipeline (supra), wherein the Court had outlined that in absence of a prayer for urgent interim reliefs, a suit cannot be instituted without mandatory compliance of Section 12A of the Act. The Calcutta High Court further stated that merely an application for urgent interim reliefs would not be sufficient, and if the court comes to a finding that the urgent interim reliefs contemplated are not justified, it may reject the plaint. Relevant paragraphs have been extracted below:

"The law as it stands today is that the suit which does not contemplate any urgent interim reliefs cannot be instituted unless the plaintiff exhausts the mandatory remedy provided under Section 12A of the Act; however the position would be different when the suit contemplates an urgent interim relief. The language employed in Section 12A of the Act does not conceive the situation that even if the urgent interim reliefs are prayed in the suit instituted by the plaintiff, the leave under Order 12A of the said Act is required from the Court. What can be reasonably deciphered from the said provision that if the suit contemplates any urgent interim relief it served the purposes and cannot be said to be bad defective and/or invalid as the pre- institution mediation has not been exhausted. Does it mean that mere seeking an urgent interim relief suffice the purpose or the Court may apply its mind to find out whether their exits a circumstances for such urgent interim relief? The aforesaid section is silent in this regard simply because one of the reliefs claimed in the plaint uses the expression 'urgent interim reliefs' is sufficient enough to confirm the legislative mandate even if such urgent interim reliefs appears to be farcical and intended to avoid the rigour of Section 12A of the Act. The urgent interim relief is an expression of wide import and difficult to give exhaustive meaning. It varies from a case to a case and, therefore, there is no impediment on the part of the Court at the time of presentation the plaint to apply to its mind to find out whether it involves any urgent interim reliefs. Any other Course adopted by the Court would give a free handle to an unscrupulous plaintiff to override the mandatory provision of Section 12A by incorporating a relief which cannot be said to be an urgent interim reliefs nor the facts and circumstances or the cause of action pleaded in the plaint entitles the plaintiff to such relief on a bare reading of the averments made in the plaint. Often an application for urgent interim reliefs are filed in the suit and ultimately if the Court may not find any justification in passing such interim relief yet it would sub-serve the motive and the purpose of avoiding the pre-institution mediation as mandated under Section 12A of the Code. We do not find any restriction or a fetter in the language employed in the aforesaid section that the Court at the time of presentation of the plaint or even thereafter finds that it does not involve an urgent interim relief to reject the plaint and direct the plaintiff to exhaust the remedy under Section 12A of the Act.

However, the Division Bench of the Delhi High Court in case of Chandra Kishore Chaurasia Vs. R. A. Perfumery Works Pvt. reported in FAO (COMM) 128 of 2021 decided on 27.10.2022 interpreted the expression "contemplated any urgent interim reliefs" used in Section 12A of the Act is relatable to a qualification of the category of the suit and determinant upon the frame of the plaint and the reliefs sought therein."

13. The Delhi High Court in the case of Yamini Manohar (supra), which arose from a suit seeking permanent injunction restraining infringement of trademark and passing off, had come to a finding that the plaint contained averments with regard to urgency and upheld the order of the commercial court with regard to the conclusion that the suit filed by the plaintiff contemplated grant of urgent relief. This matter went up to the Supreme Court in T K D Keerthi's case (supra), wherein the Supreme Court laid down the following ratio:

"7. We are of the opinion that when a plaint is filed under the CC Act, with a prayer for an urgent interim relief, the commercial court should examine the nature and the subject matter of the suit, the cause of action, and the prayer for interim relief. The prayer for urgent interim relief should not be a disguise or mask to wriggle out of and get over Section 12A of the CC Act. The facts and circumstances of the case have to be considered holistically from the standpoint of the plaintiff. Non-grant of interim relief at the ad-interim stage, when the plaint is taken up for registration/admission and examination, will not justify dismissal of the commercial suit under Order VII, Rule 11 of the Code; at times, interim relief is granted after issuance of notice. Nor can the suit be dismissed under Order VII, Rule 11 of the Code, because the interim relief, post the arguments, is denied on merits and on examination of the three principles, namely, (i) prima facie case, (ii) irreparable harm and injury, and (iii) balance of convenience. The fact that the court issued notice and/or granted interim stay may indicate that the court is inclined to entertain the plaint.

8. Having stated so, it is difficult to agree with the proposition that the plaintiff has the absolute choice and right to paralyze Section 12A of the CC Act by making a prayer for urgent interim relief. Camouflage and guise to bypass the statutory mandate of pre-litigation mediation should be checked when deception and falsity is apparent or established. The proposition that the commercial courts do have a role, albeit a limited one, should be accepted, otherwise it would be up to the plaintiff alone to decide whether to resort to the procedure under Section 12A of the CC Act. An 'absolute and unfettered right' approach is not justified if the pre-institution mediation under Section 12A of the CC Act is mandatory, as held by this Court in Patil Automation Private Limited (supra). The words 'contemplate any urgent interim relief' in Section 12A(1) of the CC Act, with reference to the suit, should be read as conferring power on the court to be satisfied. They suggest that the suit must "contemplate", which means the plaint, documents and facts should show and indicate the need for an urgent interim relief. This is the precise and limited exercise that the commercial courts will undertake, the contours of which have been explained in the earlier paragraph(s). This will be sufficient to keep in check and ensure that the legislative object/intent behind the enactment of section 12A of the CC Act is not defeated."

14. Based on the aforementioned judicial pronouncements, it can be conclusively inferred that the invocation of urgent relief should not serve as a pretext to circumvent or evade Section 12A of the Act. It is imperative that the factual matrix and contextual intricacies of each case are comprehensively assessed from the plaintiff's perspective. The Supreme Court, in its wisdom, has expounded that any attempt to cloak or disguise the true intent behind seeking such relief, with the intention of sidestepping the statutory obligation of pre-litigation mediation, warrants scrutiny, particularly in instances where duplicity and falsehood are manifest or substantiated.

15. In the instant case, it is clear that the plaintiff did not show any urgency as he had earlier filed a suit without seeking any urgent interim reliefs and then withdrew the same. Subsequently, he filed a suit along with an application for seeking ex parte urgent interim relief. Under these circumstances, I am of the view that the trial court has correctly examined the position and held that mandatory provision of Section 12(A) of the Act should have been complied with by the appellant.

16. Having considered the facts and circumstances, I am, however, of the view that for the ends of justice the order passed by the trial court rejecting the plaint may be set aside and modified with a direction upon the appellant to approach the mediation centre as per Section 12(A) of the Act.

17. Accordingly, the impugned order dated October 31, 2023, rejecting the plaint of the appellant is set aside and the appellant/plaintiff is directed to approach the mediation centre within a period of seven days from date. After completion of the above mediation process, the plaint should be presented in accordance with law.

18. With the aforesaid directions, the instant appeal is disposed of.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJNISH KUMAR, J.

Second Appeal No. 54 of 2024

Fagoo Ram & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Ram Laut (Died) & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Prabhat Kumar, Rajendra Prasad Verma

Counsel for the Respondent:
Mohan Singh

A. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code, 1908 – Section 100 – Substantial question of law – UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – Ss. 122-C and 123 – Settlement of land – Condition to be fulfilled for claiming right u/s 123 – Consequence of failure – Held, first a person would have to assert that he comes under the categories provided under sub-section (3) of Section 122-C and the land in question is of categories as provided under sub-section (2) of Section 122-C and he has built a house on the same – Further held, the plea taken by the appellants is not sufficient for claiming the benefit of Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950 – The appellants had not constructed any house on land in dispute, prior to 30th June, 1985 or even thereafter, therefore he is not entitled to hold the land in dispute as owner under Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950 – No substantial question of law arises in this case to be adjudicated between the parties. (Para 12, 13 and 19)

B. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code, 1908 – Section 100 – Substantial question of law – Meaning – Any question of law which may affect the final decision in a case is substantial question of law between the parties – S. N. Goyal's case relied upon – 'Substantial questions of law' means not only substantial questions of law of general importance, but also substantial question of law arising in a case as between the parties – A question of law which arises incidentally or collaterally, having no bearing in the final outcome, will not be a substantial question of law. Where there is a clear and settled enunciation on a question of law, by this Court or by the High Court concerned, it cannot be said that the case involves a substantial question of law. It is said that a substantial question of law arises when a question of law, which is not finally settled by this court. (Para 16 and 17)

3. Suresh Lataruji Ramteke Vs Sau. Sumanbai Pandurang Petkar; JT 2003 (9) SC 481

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Prabhat Kumar, learned counsel for the appellants and Shri Mohan Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no.3.

2. This second appeal has been filed for setting aside the judgment and decree dated 25.01.2024 passed by the First Appellate Court i.e.Additional District Judge, Court No.1, Sultanpur in Civil Appeal No.182 of 2001 (Fagoo Ram And Others vs. Ram Laut and Others) and the judgement and decree dated 22.10.2011 passed by Trial Court i.e. Civil Judge (J.D.), Kadipur, Sultanpur in Original Suit No.337 of 1989 (Fagoo Ram and Others Vs. Ram Laut and Others).

3. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that the father of the appellants had filed a suit for permanent injunction and declaration of right on some part of Gata No.105 as an appurtenant land to his house, which is situated on Gata No.106, on the ground that the appellants are in possession of the land in dispute since prior to the promulgation of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act- 1950 (here-in-after referred as the Act of 1950), therefore it stands settled with them under Section 9 of the said Act. He further submits that an alternative plea was also taken that even if the possession of the appellants is not found since prior to promulgation of the Act of 1950, since the appellants are in possession on the land in dispute, since before 1985, therefore the same stands settled with the appellants under Section 123(1) of the Act of 1950. But the learned Trial Court as well as the Appellate Court have dismissed the claim of the appellants on insufficient ground and without considering the evidence adduced before the Trial Court rightly and appropriately. Learned counsel for the appellants also submits that the Appellate Court has failed to record any finding in regard to the possession of the appellants on the land in dispute and the finding recorded in regard to Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950 is not tenable, therefore the appellants are before this Court.

4. On the other hand, learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha submits that judgment and order passed by the Trial Court as well as Appellate Court have rightly been passed in accordance with law after considering the pleadings of the parties and the evidence adduced before the Trial Court as they have failed to prove their possession on the land in dispute. He further submits that the benefit of Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950 is also not available to the appellants because the house of the appellants has not been found on the land in dispute and the benefit of the same is available only in case the house has been built on any such land. Thus the submission is that the appeal is misconceived and liable to be dismissed.

5. Having considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties, I have perused the documents placed on record of this second appeal.

6. The Original Suit No.337 of 1989 was filed by the predecessor-in-interest of the appellants for permanent injunction and declaration on the ground that the land in dispute, which is the part of Gata No.105 and which is on the eastern side of the house of the appellants which is on Gata No.106, is in possession of the appellants and they are using it since prior to the promulgation of the Act of 1950, therefore it stands settled with him under Section 9 of the Said Act. The alternative plea of Settlement of land in dispute with the appellants under Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950 was also taken.

7. The learned Trial Court after affording opportunity of evidence and considering the pleadings and evidence adduced before it, has recorded a categorical finding that the appellants have failed to prove the construction of the house of the appellants prior to promulgation of Act of 1950. Thus, they have failed to prove the possession on the land in dispute. Even otherwise on the western and northern side of the house of the appellants, there is sufficient land for his use. Accordingly dismissed the suit. The Appellate court also, considering the pleadings, evidence and material on record, found that the appellants have failed to prove their case and dismissed the appeal holding that the learned trial court was right and justified in his view and approach and his findings/ order is perfectly valid/ legal and does not call for any interference, therefore the submission of learned counsel for the appellants in regard to possession is misconceived and not tenable.

8. The alternative plea of settlement of land in dispute under Section 123 (1) of the Act 1950, taken by the appellants, was also rejected by trial court on the ground that house of the appellants is not existing on the land in dispute, which is the precondition for settlement under Section 123 (1). The plea of the appellants has also been considered by the Appellate Court and dismissed on the ground that Section 123 (1) lays down the provision as to settlement of certain house sites with existing owner thereof and order of preference for allotment of such land for housing site for members of schedules castes, agricultural labourer etc. shall be observed in the light of Section 122-C (3) of the Act of 1950, but plaintiff did not file any paper pertaining to the allotment of the disputed land by the competent authority. The submission of learned counsel for the appellants in this regard is that there is no requirement of allotment of the site for settlement under Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950, therefore the question arises as to whether it was a precondition or not and if it was not precondition as to whether any substantial question of law arises in this case for adjudication in view of pleadings and material on record.

9. Section 123 (1) as renumbered by U.P. Act No.34 of 1974 is extracted here-in-below:-

"[(1)] Without prejudice to the provisions of Section 9, where any person referred to in sub-section (3) of Section 122-C has built a house on any land referred to in subsection (2) of that section, not being land reserved for any public purpose, and such house exists on [May 13, 2007] the site of such house shall be held by the owner of the house on terms and conditions as may be prescribed."

10. The aforesaid section 123 (1) provides that where any person referred to in sub-section (3) of Section 122-C has built a house on any land referred to in sub-section (2) of that section, not being land reserved for any public purpose, and such house exists on the site of such house shall be held by the owner of the house on terms and conditions as may be prescribed. The date of existence of house was 30th June, 1985 at the time of filing of suit in 1989, which is changing time to time. Thus, if a person referred in Section 122-C (3) of the Act of 1950 has built a house on any land referred in sub-section (2) of Section 122-C, then the site of such house shall be held by the owner of the house on terms and conditions, which may be prescribed.

11. Section 122-C of the Act of 1950 is extracted here-in-below:-

"122C. Allotment of land for housing site for members of Scheduled Castes, agricultural labourers, etc. - (1) The Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division on his own motion or on the resolution, of the Land Management Committee, may earmark any of the following classes of land for the provision of abadi sites for the members of the Scheduled Castes and [the Scheduled Tribes and the Other Backward Classes and the persons of General Category living below poverty line] and agricultural labourers and village artisans-

(a) lands referred to in clause (i) of sub-section (1) of Section 117 and vested in the Gaon Sabha under that section;

(b) lands coming into possession of the Land Management Committee under Section 194 or under any other provisions of this Act;

(c) any other land which is deemed to be or becomes vacant under Section 13, Section 14, Section 163, Section 186, or Section 211;

(d) where the land earmarked for the extension of abadi and reserved as abadi site for Harijans under the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953, is considered by him to be insufficient, and land earmarked for other public purposes under that Act is available, then any part of the land so available.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in Sections 122-A, 195, 196, 197 and 198 of this Act, or in Sections 4, 15, 16, 28-B and 34 of the United Provinces Panchayat Raj Act, 1947, the Land Management Committee may with the previous approval of the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division allot for purposes of building of houses, to persons referred to in sub-section (3)-

(a) any land earmarked under sub-section (1);

(b) any land earmarked for the extension of abadi sites for Harijans under the provisions of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953;

(c) any abadi site referred to in clause (iv) of sub-section (1) of Section 117 and vested in the Gaon Sabha;

(d) any land acquired for the said purposes under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

(3) The following order of preference shall be observed in making allotments under sub-section (2)- [(i) an agricultural labourer or a village artisan residing in Gram Sabha and belonging to any of the following categories in the order of preference:-

(a) persons belonging to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes;

(b) persons belonging to Other Backward Classes;

(c) persons belonging to the general category living below poverty line.];

(ii) any other agricultural labourer or village artisan residing in the village;

[(iii) any other person residing in the Gram Sabha and belonging to any of the following categories in the order of preference:-

(a) persons belonging to the Scheduled Castes or the Scheduled Tribes;

(b) persons belonging to Other Backward Classes;

(c) persons belonging to the general category living below poverty line.];

Provided that no person shall be deemed to be a village artisan whose total income (including income of his or her spouse and minor children) exceeds two thousand four hundred rupees in a year.]

(4) If the Assistant Collector-in-charge of the sub-division is satisfied that the Land Management Committee has failed to discharge its duties or to perform its functions under sub-section (2) or it is otherwise necessary or expedient so to do, he may himself allot such land in accordance with the provisions of subsection (3).

(5) Any land allotted under this section shall be held by the allottee on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed.

(6) The Collector may of his own motion and shall on the application of any person aggrieved by an allotment of land under this section inquire in the manner prescribed into such allotment, and if he is satisfied that the allotment is irregular, he may cancel the allotment, and thereupon the right, title and interest of the allottee and of every other person claiming through him in the land allotted shall cease.

(7) Every order passed by the Assistant Collector under sub-section (4) shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (6) and every order passed by the Collector under sub-section (6) shall be final, and the provisions of [Section 333 and Section 333-A] shall not apply in relation thereto.

(8) [ * ]

[(9) In Rule 115-L of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules, 1952, sub-rule (2) shall be deemed always to have been omitted.]"

12. In view of above, for claiming a right under Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950, first a person would have to assert that he comes under the categories provided under sub-section (3) of Section 122-C and the land in question is of categories as provided under sub-section (2) of Section 122-C and he has built a house on the same, then only may be held by him on the terms and conditions, which may be prescribed, but in the present case the appellants have not taken such plea and failed to show the terms and conditions, which may have been prescribed for holding the same by the appellants. He has only taken plea in paragraph-2(अ) of the plaint that if the possession of the plaintiff is not found prior to abolition of zamindari on the land in dispute, even then his possession is coming on the land in dispute since prior to 1985, therefore he is entitled to benefit of Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950 and under said provision he has become owner of the land in dispute. Paragraph-2(अ) is extracted here-in-below:-

"धारा 2 (अ) - यह कि वादी राम निहोर विवादित भूमि पर अपने पिता के सिलसिले से काबिज है वादी राम निहोर एक गरीब कृषक मजदूर एवं पिछड़ी जाति के अन्तर्गत कुर्मी उपजाति का व्यक्ति है उसका मुख्य पेशा कृषि व कृषि सम्बन्धी मजदूरी ही रहा है। विवादित भूमि पर यदि वादी का कब्जा जमीन्दारी विनाश के पूर्व का न पाया जाय तो भी विवादित भूमि पर वादी का कब्जा सन 1985 ई. के पूर्व से ही बराबर चला आ रहा है। जिससे वादी राम निहोर धारा 123 (1) ज०वि० अधिनियम का लाभ पाने का अधिकारी है और उसके तहत विवादित भूमि का स्वामी हो चुका है।"

13. In view of above, firstly no plea has been taken that the appellants comes in preference as per sub-section (3) of Section 122-C and the land in dispute is among one of the categories as provided under sub-section (2) of Section 122-C and he/they have constructed a house on the said land, therefore this Court is of the view that the plea taken by the appellants is not sufficient for claiming the benefit of Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950. Even otherwise, the appellants had not constructed any house on land in dispute, prior to 30th June, 1985 or even thereafter, therefore he is not entitled to hold the land in dispute as owner under Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950. A co-ordinate bench of this Court, in the case of Satya Veer and Another Vs. State of U.P. an Others; 2015 (4) ADJ 676, has held that this apart they are also not entitled for benefit of Section 123 (1) as it is clearly emerged that they have not built their house prior to 01.05.2002, which was a date amended subsequently.

14. The learned Trial Court has considered the alternative plea of the appellants also and rejected recording a specific finding that DW-1 has given the evidence that the appellants has failed to prove that if he is entitled to benefit of Section 123 (1) and the benefit of Section 123 (1) is available to the housing site, therefore the appellants is not entitled for any benefit of the same on the basis of evidence adduced before this Court.

15. The Appellate Court has also recorded a finding that the appellants are claiming benefit of Section 123 (1), but the plaintiffs did not file any paper pertaining to allotment of disputed land by the competent authority. The contention of learned counsel for the appellants is that there is no such requirement. Section 123 (1) of Act of 1950 makes provision of holding of such housing site on which the house was built and existing on 30th June, 1985 by a person referred to in sub-Section (3) of Section 122-C on any land referred in sub-section (2) of that section, by owner of the house on terms and conditions as may be prescribed, therefore the appellants were required to assert and prove his/ their category, category of land and that the house has been built on the land in dispute and the terms and conditions, which have been prescribed for holding that housing site. Thus, this Court is of the view that even if it may not be a precondition for holding the housing site under Section 123 (1) of the Act of 1950, the house must have been built by the claimant on the land in dispute was required to be proved and the terms and conditions of holding the said site were required to show, which the appellants have failed to do and there is no plea that house has been built on the land in dispute, therefore it can not affect the final outcome of this appeal in view of the pleadings made by the appellants in the plaint and unchallenged findings of the Trial Court in this regard with any cogent evidence, therefore no substantial question of law arises in this case.

16. In the context of Section 100 C.P.C., any question of law which may affect the final decision in a case is substantial question of law between the parties, therefore, even if it may be a question of law, it can not be said to be a substantial question of law to be decided in the present case between the parties.

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State Bank of India & others Vs. S.N. Goyal; 2008 (8) SCC 92, has considered as to what would be the substantial question of law and difference between the question of law and the substantial question of law. Paragraph 13 is extracted here-in-below:-

"13. Second appeals would lie in cases which involve substantial questions of law. The word 'substantial' prefixed to 'question of law' does not refer to the stakes involved in the case, nor intended to refer only to questions of law of general importance, but refers to impact or effect of the question of law on the decision in the lis between the parties. 'Substantial questions of law' means not only substantial questions of law of general importance, but also substantial question of law arising in a case as between the parties. In the context of section 100 CPC, any question of law which affects the final decision in a case is a substantial question of law as between the parties. A question of law which arises incidentally or collaterally, having no bearing in the final outcome, will not be a substantial question of law. Where there is a clear and settled enunciation on a question of law, by this Court or by the High Court concerned, it cannot be said that the case involves a substantial question of law. It is said that a substantial question of law arises when a question of law, which is not finally settled by this court (or by the concerned High Court so far as the State is concerned), arises for consideration in the case. But this statement has to be understood in the correct perspective. Where there is a clear enunciation of law and the lower court has followed or rightly applied such clear enunciation of law, obviously the case will not be considered as giving rise to a substantial question of law, even if the question of law may be one of general importance. On the other hand, if there is a clear enunciation of law by this Court (or by the concerned High Court), but the lower court had ignored or misinterpreted or misapplied the same, and correct application of the law as declared or enunciated by this Court (or the concerned High Court) would have led to a different decision, the appeal would involve a substantial question of law as between the parties. Even where there is an enunciation of law by this court (or the concerned High Court) and the same has been followed by the lower court, if the appellant is able to persuade the High Court that the enunciated legal position needs reconsideration, alteration, modification or clarification or that there is a need to resolve an apparent conflict between two view points, it can be said that a substantial question of law arises for consideration. There cannot, therefore, be a strait-jacket definition as to when a substantial question of law arises in a case. Be that as it may."

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Suresh Lataruji Ramteke Vs. Sau. Sumanbai Pandurang Petkar; JT 2003 (9) SC 481, while retreating the principles for considering a second appeal under Section 100 C.P.C. and its jurisprudence considered the judgment of a three judge Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Santosh Hazari Vs. Purshottam Tiwari; 2001 (3) SCC 179 in regard to what constitutes a substantial question of law and one of them is material bearing on the decision of case. The relevant paragraph 13 containing paragraph 13.03 is extracted here-in-below:-

"13. The jurisprudence on Section 100, CPC is rich and varied. Time and again this Court in numerous judgments has laid down, distilled and further clarified the requirements that must necessarily be met in order for a Second Appeal as laid down therein, to be maintainable, and thereafter be adjudicated upon. Considering the fact that numerous cases are filed before this Court which hinge on the application of this provision, we find it necessary to reiterate the principles.

13.1 The requirement, most fundamental under this section is the presence and framing of a "substantial question of law". In other words, the existence of such a question is sine qua non for exercise of this jurisdiction.9 13.2 The jurisdiction under this section has been described by this Court in Gurdev Kaur v. Kaki10 (TwoJudge Bench) stating that post 1976 amendment, the scope of Section 100 CPC stands drastically curtailed and narrowed down to be 9 Panchugopal Barua v. Umesh Chandra Goswami and Ors. (1997) 4 SCC 713 Two Judge Bench 10 (2007) 1 SCC 546 Two Judge Bench restrictive in nature. The High Court's jurisdiction of interfering under Section 100 CPC is only in a case where substantial questions of law are involved, also clearly formulated/set out in the memorandum of appeal. It has been observed that:

"At the time of admission of the second appeal, it is the bounden duty and obligation of the High Court to formulate substantial questions of law and then only the High Court is permitted to proceed with the case to decide those questions of law. The language used in the amended section specifically incorporates the words as "substantial question of law" which is indicative of the legislative intention. It must be clearly understood that the legislative intention was very clear that legislature never wanted second appeal to become "third trial on facts" or "one more dice in the gamble". The effect of the amendment mainly, according to the amended section, was:

(i) The High Court would be justified in admitting the second appeal only when a substantial question of law is involved;

(ii) The substantial question of law to precisely state such question;

(iii) A duty has been cast on the High Court to formulate substantial question of law before hearing the appeal;

(iv) Another part of the section is that the appeal shall be heard only on that question."

Gurdev Kaur (supra) was referred to and relied upon in Randhir Kaur v. Prithvi Pal Singh & Ors. (2019) 17 SCC 71; Two Judge Bench

13.3 In Santosh Hazari v. Purushottam Tiwari12 a Bench of three Judges, held as under in regard to what constitutes a substantial question of law:

a) Not previously settled by law of land or a binding precedent.

b) Material bearing on the decision of case; and (c) New point raised for the first time before the High Court is not a question involved in the case unless it goes to the root of the matter. Therefore, it will depend on facts of each case.

Such principles stand followed in Government of Kerala v. Joseph [2023 SCC OnLine SC 961] (Two Judge Benh) and Chanddrabhan Vs. Saraswati [2022 SCC OnLine SC1273] (Two Judge Bench).

13.4 Nonformulation of substantial question(s) of law renders proceedings "patently illegal". This Court's decisions in Umerkhan v. Bimillabi15 and Shiv Cotex v. Tirgun Auto Plast Pvt Ltd. & Ors.16 indicate this position. ."

19. In view of above and considering the over all facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that this second appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds and no substantial question of law arises in this case to be adjudicated between the parties here-in. Thus, the appeal lacks merit.

20. The second appeal is, accordingly, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Adnan Ahmad, learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Sabul Khan, learned counsel holding brief of Sri Mohd. Wajid Irfan, learned counsel for respondent nos.1 to 5 and Sri Amar Nath Mishra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent no.6.

2. Present appeal has been filed against the judgment and decree dated 18.1.2016 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No. 15, Lucknow in Regular Civil Appeal No. 142 of 2015 (Smt. Raeesa Bano Vs. Smt. Tabassum Jahan & Others) confirming the judgment and decree dated 31.8.2015 passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mohanlalganj, Lucknow in Regular Suit No. 128 of 2015 (Smt. Raeesa Bano Vs. Smt. Tabassum Jahan & others).

3. This appeal was admitted on 27.02.204 on the following substantial question of law "whether a suit for declaration of civil death of a person on the ground that he is missing for more than 7 years, is barred under Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act".

4. The crux of the matter is that the appellant had filed a suit bearing Suit No.128 of 2015 for the relief that her husband is missing for more than 13 years; therefore, he may be declared dead in view of presumption under Section 108 of the Evidence Act. In her plaint, she specifically stated that she had lodged an FIR dated 31.05.2009, the publication in the newspaper and required format as well as notice u/s 80 CPC to the District Magistrate, Lucknow regarding missing her husband (Akhtar Ali) for more than 13 years. It was also pleaded in the complaint that her husband was working in the Electricity Department, but he did not attend his duty for more than 13 years, and unless he is declared dead, she will not be able to get his service benefit. Though none of the respondents contested the above suit, even the State has supported the claim of the plaintiff appellant.

5. After hearing the parties and on perusal of the record, the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) Mohanlalganj, Lucknow, vide judgement and order dated 31.08.2015, dismissed the suit on the ground that the suit for mere declaration of civil death without further relief is barred by Section 34 of Specific Relief Act, 1963 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 1963'). Against the order of the learned Civil Judge, the plaintiff-appellant had also preferred an appeal before the District Judge, Lucknow, which was registered as Civil Appeal No.142 of 2015, and the same was heard by learned Additional District Judge, Court No.15, Lucknow, who, after hearing the parties, rejected the appeal of the appellant on the same reasoning as of the learned Civil Judge.

6. Contention of learned counsel for the appellant is that under Section 34 of the 'Act, 1963' the legal heirs of the person who is missing for more than seven years can file a suit for declaration of his civil death, as this legal character will make him entitled to receive benefits in the missing person's property. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the appellant has relied upon the judgement of the Bombay High Court in Sou. Swati & Ors. Vs. Shri Abhay & Anr reported in 2016 Legal Eagle (BOM) 10130; judgement of the Apex Court in L.I.C. of India Vs. Anuradha reported in 2004 (10) SCC 131; judgement of Calcutta High Court in Saroj Gupta Vs. Sanjay Kumar Gupta reported in 2023 AIR CC 1214; judgement of this Court in Gokul Pandey and Others Vs. Gram Pradhan Gram Sabha Vill. Bhabnauli Pandey and Others reported in 2022 (6) ADJ 375.

7. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has stated that though in the complaint, the appellant has mentioned that because of the non-declaration of death of her husband, who has been missing for more than 13 years, she could not get the service benefits of her husband from the Electricity Department as he was an employee of the Electricity Department, but the appellant has not impleaded Electricity Department as a party and also no consequential relief was sought, and the suit is only for a mere declaration, which is not maintainable under Section 34 of the Act, 1963.

8. Respondents nos.1 to 5 did not oppose the appeal and virtually supported the case of the appellant.

9. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and on perusal of the record, it appears that the suit in question was filed for the declaration of the death of Akhtar Ali (husband of the appellant) who was missing for more than 13 years, and because of this the plaintiff-appellant could not get the service benefit of Akhtar Ali, who was working as a Lineman in Electricity Department. Therefore, the suit in question is not only a declaration of civil death but also to get service benefits for Akhtar Ali. In the judgement of Bombay High Court in Sou. Swati & Ors. (supra) as well as the judgement of Allahabad High Court in Gokul Pandey and Others (supra) relied upon by learned counsel for the appellant, Hon'ble Court observed that a suit for declaration of civil death of another person on the part of a legal heir is virtually a declaration of legal character as mentioned in Section 34 of the Act, 1963. Therefore, such a suit is maintainable as the plaintiff is not a stranger to the dead person. It was also observed in the above judgement of Allahabad High Court that the suit at the instance of the legal heir for declaration of death of a person is maintainable if he can stand the test that he is entitled to any legal character, even though, he cannot lay to immediate claim to any property. Paragraph no.7 of Sou. Swati & Ors. (supra) of Bombay High Court is being quoted as under:

"7. In the light of the dictum laid down by the Apex Court as above, I am of the firm opinion that the Civil Court acting under Section 9, has inherent powers in its plenary jurisdiction de hors with reference to Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act to grant relief qua Section 108 of the Evidence Act. Therefore, the reason that Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act was required to be called in aid does not appear to be sound."

10. Similarly, paragraphs nos. 11 and 12 of the judgement of Allahabad High Court in Gokul Pandey and Others (supra) are being quoted as under:

"11. From the bare perusal of the above provision, it is clear that a suit for declaration could be filed by any person for the following objects: (a) for his or her legal character, (b) for any right as to any property. Thus, it is clear that a suit for a declaration may be instituted for declaring a status or legal character to which a person/party may be entitled. However, in a suit for declaration of a civil death of another person, the plaintiff is not entitled to such legal character under section 34 of the Act. It is because a suit has been brought for a legal character of another person and not of the plaintiff.

12. Section 34 provides that any legal character may be declared for which a plaintiff is entitled. Besides this, he should not be a stranger to a dead person, but he must be interested in such legal character, maybe as his legal heirs. The suit filed at the instance of plaintiff can be contested by anyone denying or interested in denying his title to such character or right. Section 34 of the Act further bars any such declaration where the plaintiff can seek further relief. Legal character is a position recognised by law. A person's legal character is the attribute that the law attaches to him. After the death of a person, his heirs, having an interest in such legal character, have the title to seek a declaration of such legal character as to the person's death. The suit at the instance of any such person for a declaration is maintainable if he can stand the test that he is entitled to any legal character, even though he cannot lay to immediate claim to any property."

11. From the above mentioned judgements, it is clear that though there is no bar under Section 34 of the Act, 1963, for filing a suit for declaration of a civil death of another person, if the plaintiff is a legal heir and such legal character of civil death is for his benefit and the same is attributed to such legal character. Section 9 of CPC permits all suits of a civil nature except the suits which are expressly or impliedly barred. Section 9 of CPC is quoted as under;

"9. Courts to try all civil suits unless barred- The courts shall (subject to the provisions herein contained) have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature excepting suits of which their cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred."

12. Therefore, it is clear from Section 9 of the C.P.C that all suits, which are of a civil nature, are maintainable before the civil Court except specifically barred, but the suit for declaration of any legal character (civil death of a person) is not specially barred by Section 34 of the Act, 1963. Section 34 of the Specific Relief Act 1963 is being reproduced as under.

"34. Discretion of Court as to declaration of status or right.?Any person entitled to any legal character, or to any right as to any property, may institute a suit against any person denying, or interested to deny, his title to such character or right, and the court may in its discretion make therein a declaration that he is so entitled, and the plaintiff need not in such suit ask for any further relief:"

13. From the perusal of Section 34 of the Act, 1963 and its proviso, it is clear that it does not bar the suit for declaration of civil death of a person, but it simply regulates the suit which is in the nature of mere declaration without seeking further relief, which the plaintiff is able to seek, but when there is no requirement for further relief, then seeking further relief is not necessary. The declaration seeks to clear what is doubtful, and it prevents future litigation by removing existing causes of controversy. It gives a remedy to a person against all persons who not only claim adverse interest to his own but against all those who may do so, and it is intended that all such claims may once and for all be determined in one suit. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Anathula Sudhakar vs P. Buchi Reddy; 2008 (4) SCC 594 observed that object of Section 34 of 'Act 1963' is to provide a perpetual bulwark against adverse attacks on the title of the plaintiff, where a cloud is cast upon it, and to prevent further litigation by removing the existing cause of controversy.

14. Declaring a person's civil death is a substantial relief and has an immediate consequential effect. On the declaration of the death of a person, benefits are accrued on the legal heirs of the person declared as dead, therefore relief of all such benefits cannot be sought vaguely in the garb of further relief. Even Section 34 of 'Act, 1963' itself permits seeking declaration without further relief except in those cases where without seeking relief, mere declaration has no effect and such is not a position in the declaration of civil death of a person by a legal heir. Therefore, this Court holds that suit for mere declaration of civil death is very well maintainable and is not barred by Section 34 of the 'Act, 1963' merely because further relief was not claimed.

15. Though it is true that Section 108 of the Evidence Act 1872 provides a presumption of civil death of a person who has been missing for more than seven years, but, if any person gets affected by the missing of such person either by express or implied denial by any of the person, than he can very well file suit for a declaration of the death of the person being his legal heir. Though, proviso of Section 34 of the 'Act, 1963' provides that a suit for mere declaration is not maintainable if the plaintiff being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so. But in the present case, the basis of the suit itself was to get the service benefit of the late Akhtar Ali from the Electricity Department and for that declaration of the death of Late Akhtar Ali is necessary. For another reason, no further relief is required in the present case regarding seeking the death benefit of Late Akhtar Ali because on the declaration of civil death of Late Akhtar Ali, the Government Department will respect the same. In the present case, there is no averment in the plaint that the Electricity Department had denied to pay service benefits or there is apprehension of none payment despite the decree of the civil Court for the declaration of the civil death of Late Akhtar Ali. On declaration of civil death of late Akhtar Ali, the consequence will be that his wife, along with other legal heirs, would be entitled to the property and service benefit of the late Akhtar Ali as per the law. Relief of the same is not required to be pleaded as the same will automatically flow to them after the declaration of his civil death. Therefore, even if no specific relief is sought against the Electricity Department even then the suit for the declaration of the death of the husband of the appellant cannot be dismissed as not maintainable under Section 34 of the Act, 1963.

16. From the material available on record, it is undisputed that Late Akhtar Ali was missing for more than 13 years, and the appellant has completed all required formalities, including the lodging of FIR. Therefore, there is sufficient material to declare the civil death of Late Akhtar Ali at the instance of the appellant, who is his wife.

17. In view of the above analysis, this Court finds that the order of the learned Civil Judge and the first appellate Court suffers from illegality, which is apparent on the face of the record. Therefore, the judgement dated 18.1.2016 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No. 15, Lucknow in Regular Civil Appeal No. 142 of 2015 (Smt. Raeesa Bano Vs. Smt. Tabassum Jahan & Others) and judgment and decree dated 31.8.2015 passed by Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mohanlalganj, Lucknow, in Suit No. 128 of 2015 (Smt.Raeesa Bano Vs. Smt. Tabassum Jahan & others) are hereby set aside.

18. The matter is remanded back to the learned Civil Judge, Senior Division, Mohanlalganj, Lucknow to pass a fresh order in light of the above observations.

19. Considering the peculiar facts and circumstances that the suit itself was filed in the year 2015, and all evidence has been adduced before the learned Civil Judge and the suit was itself uncontested; therefore, learned Civil Judge, Senior Division, Mohanlalganj, Lucknow is further directed to complete the proceedings of passing a fresh order in Suit No.128 of 2015, within a period of three months from the date of receiving a copy of this order, in accordance with the law.

20. With the observations above, the appeal is allowed.

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sajid Raza Rizvi, Satendra Nath Rai

A. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code, 1908 – Section 100 – Substantial question of law – Significance of its formulation – Similar second appeal was dismissed – Relevance – Held, once the substantial questions of law have been formulated in this second appeal by the court after considering the rival contentions, it cannot be dismissed merely because the similar second appeals have been dismissed by this Court, particularly, when the said orders have been passed without considering the issues raised in this appeal. (Para 13 and 14)

B. Civil Law – Indian Forest Act, 1927 – Sections 4 & 20 – UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – S. 229-B – After issuance of notification u/s 4 and 20 of Act, 1927, the suit u/s 229-B was filed and allowed, and based on this order passed u/s 229-B, the civil suit was decreed – Permissibility – Held, once the notification has been issued u/s 4 of the Act of 1927, all claims can be raised before the Forest Settlement Officer, who can consider the same and decide the claim after affording opportunity of evidence exercising the powers of a civil court – No authority or court had power to entertain any dispute in regard to the land declared as reserve forest u/s 20 in view of Section 27(A) as added by U.P. Act No. 23 of 1965, therefore, the suit under Section 229-B of the Act of 1950, that too without impleading the Forest department or concerned Officer of the forest department, was not maintainable. (Para 15, 22 and 40)

C. Civil Law – Declaratory suit u/s 229-B of the Act, 1950 – Non-joinder of party –

Maintainability – Suit was filed after issuance of notification u/s 4 and 20 of Act, 1927 – Though the St. Government was made party, but the Forest Department was not impleaded as party – Effect – Held, even if the St. was impleaded no effective order could have been passed without impleadment of the forest department or the concerned officer of the forest department – In view of S. 27-A of the Act of 1927, the said suit was not maintainable, therefore the exparte judgment and decree dated 30.09.1973, against the St. also, is void. (Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vimal Srivastava, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri S.K. Khare, learned Standing Counsel for the appellant and Sri Satendra Nath Rai, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This second appeal, under Section 100 of Civil Procedure Code(hereinafter referred to as CPC), has been filed against the judgment and decree dated 16.04.1982 passed by the 1st Additional District Judge Kheri in Civil Appeal No.152/1980, by means of which the appeal has been dismissed upholding the judgment and decree dated 09.09.1980 passed by the VIth Additional Munsif, Lakhimpur Kheri in Regular Suit No.154/1977(Surjan Singh & 3 Ors. Versus Divisional Forest Officer, North Kheri).

3. The following substantial questions of law have been formulated in this appeal:-

"(a) Whether the suit filed by the plaintiff bearing No.154/1977 seeking a decree of permanent injunction was maintainable on the facts as pleaded giving rise to any subsisting cause of action?

(b) Whether the suit of the plaintiff for permanent injunction was maintainable especially when the notification under Sections 4 and 20 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 was issued in the year 1966 and 1970 respectively?

(c) Whether the decree passed in a suit filed by the plaintiff under Section 229-B of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 without impleading the Forest Department as a party instituted in the year 1973 whereas the notification under Section 4 and 20 of the Indian Forest Act, 1927 has already been issued in the year 1966 and 1970 respectively and in view thereof the suit was maintainable and the effect of a decree passed in such proceedings under

4. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the notification under Section 4 of the Indian Forest Act,1927(hereinafter referred to as the Act of 1927) was issued in regard to land, which includes the land in dispute, having area 31.60 acre on 05.01.1966 and published in the Gazette on 12.03.1966 and notification under Section 20 of the said Act was issued in regard to land having area 174.31 acre on 27.12.1970 and published in the Gazette on 11.04.1970, therefore the respondents had no right and title on the said land after the said date. He further submitted that the respondents had filed the suit for permanent injunction in the year 1977 claiming their rights on the land in dispute on the basis of the order passed in their favour under Section 229 B of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1950(hereinafter referred to as the Act of 1950), which was filed and allowed after the aforesaid notifications, therefore the same was without jurisdiction, and no right or title could have been conferred on the respondents as the same was barred by Section 27 A of the Act of 1927 as per the State amendment of U.P. But without considering the aforesaid, the suit for permanent injunction was decreed, therefore the appellant had filed Civil Appeal, which has also been dismissed upholding the judgment and decree passed by the trial court without considering the aforesaid facts and legal position.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the details of the boundaries of the land of the respondents was not given in the suit and the suit was filed by four persons but their shares were not mentioned,therefore the suit itself was not maintainable. Thus, the submission is that the judgment and decree passed by the trial court as well the first appellate court are not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be set aside.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant relied on State of U.P. versus Kamaljeet Singh;MANU/UP/2821/2017, State of U.P. Versus DDC & Ors.;MANU/SC/0612/1996; (1996)5 SCC 194, State of U.P. & Ors. 7. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that similar Second Appeal No.383 of 1979 has been dismissed by means of the order dated 21.12.1995 and Second Appeal No.351 of 1980 and 350 of 1980 having identical facts have also been dismissed by this Court, therefore this appeal is also liable to be dismissed accordingly.

8. He further submitted that the name of the respondents was recorded on the basis of the order passed in the case filed by the respondents under Section 229 B of the Act of 1950 in the khatauni of the 1384 Fasli (1977). The State was a party in the said case, therefore even if the forest department was not party, it will not make any difference and the appellant is not entitled for any benefit of the same. He further submitted that the only photocopy of the notification under Section 4 of the Act of 1927 was produced and the publication whereof also could not be proved, therefore the judgment and decree passed by the trial court as well as the first appellate court have rightly been passed in accordance with law, which does not suffer from any illegality or error. Thus, the submission is that the substantial questions of law formulated by this Court does not arise and the appeal is misconceived and the grounds taken therein are not sustainable in the eyes of law, therefore it is liable to be dismissed.

9. I have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

10. Before considering the rival contentions of learned counsel for the parties in regard to the substantial questions of law formulated by this Court, since a plea has been taken that the appeal is liable to be dismissed in view of the orders passed by this Court in similar second appeals, this Court has to see first as to whether this appeal can be dismissed on this ground or not.

11. Second Appeal No.383 of 1979(State of U.P. versus Sri Prem Singh and others), was dismissed by means of the order dated 21.11.1995 on the ground that no substantial question of law is involved in the said case, whereas the said appeal was already admitted. However the said order does not disclose that the legal questions raised in this appeal, on the basis of which the aforesaid substantial questions of law have been framed appears either to had not been raised in the said appeal or not pressed. Be that as it may, the same have not been considered in the said order. So far as the Second Appeal Nos.350 of 1980 and 351 of 1980 are concerned, on perusal of the order dated 22.11.2023 passed in Second Appeal No.350 of 1980, it is apparent that Second Appeal No.351 of 1980 was decided by a coordinate Bench of this Court by means of the judgment and order dated 14.08.2001. The State had filed review of the said order, which was dismissed as abated and considering the same, the Second Appeal No.350 of 1980 has been dismissed. Thus the substantial questions of law formulated in this appeal have neither been considered nor decided in the said appeals.

12. Section 100 of CPC provides that the appeal shall lie to the High Court from every decree passed in appeal by any Court subordinate to the High Court, if the High Court is satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law. Sub-section 4 of Section 100 of CPC provides that Where the High Court is satisfied that a substantial question of law is involved in any case, it shall formulate that question and as per sub-section 5, the appeal shall be heard on the question so formulated and the respondent shall, at the hearing of the appeal, be allowed to argue that the case does not involve such question. Section 100 of CPC is extracted hereinbelow:

"1[100. Second appeal.--(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in the body of this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie to the High Court from every decree passed in appeal by any Court subordinate to the High Court, if the High Court is satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law.

(2) An appeal may lie under this section from an appellate decree passed ex parte.

(3) In an appeal under this section, the memorandum of appeal shall precisely state the substantial question of law involved in the appeal.

(4) Where the High Court is satisfied that a substantial question of law is involved in any case, it shall formulate that question.

(5) The appeal shall be heard on the question so formulated and the respondent shall, at the hearing of the appeal, be allowed to argue that the case does not involve such question:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to take away or abridge the power of the Court to hear, for reasons to be recorded, the appeal on any other substantial question of law, not formulated by it, if it is satisfied that the case involves such question.]"

13. In view of above, in case the Court finds that any substantial question of law is involved in the second appeal, it can be formulated and the appeal shall be heard on the question so formulated and the respondent can argue that the case does not involve such question. However at the time of hearing the Court, for the reasons to be recorded, can hear on any other substantial question of law on being satisfied that it is involved in the case. In the present case, after hearing learned counsel for the appellant as well as the respondents and on being satisfied that the aforesaid substantial questions of law are involved in the instant appeal, the same have been formulated by this Court. Therefore this appeal is to be decided after considering the rival contentions of learned counsel for the parties in regard to the substantial questions of law formulated in this appeal. However learned counsel for the respondent can argue that this case does not involve the said questions. But once the substantial questions of law have been formulated by this Court, this appeal cannot be decided without hearing on the said questions and without recording any finding on those questions. Even otherwise even if a similar appeal has been dismissed as discussed above, it can be considered in view of distinguishing features of substantial questions of law involved in this appeal as formulated by this Court after hearing learned counsel for the parties in view of judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Smt. Shanta Rani versus Nasib Kaur; JT 2023(10) 103, the relevant paragraph 13 of which is extracted here-in-below:-

13. At the outset, it may be noticed that the Civil Appeal has been admitted by referring to a few similar petitions/appeals pending in this Court. The similarity of an issue with a pending matter has been raised as one of the grounds for granting Special Leave, and the Civil Appeal is numbered. With the dismissal of the connected matters, the natural result is that the instant Appeal must follow.

Since a distinguishing feature is raised by the Learned Counsel for the Appellant, we would consider the maintainability of the Civil Appeal. We notice that the Appellant confined the challenge to the Order of Eviction only to three grounds before the High Court. Either by choice or for any reason, the Appellant before the High Court did not press any other ground available against the Order of Eviction or the Order refusing to grant leave to the Appellant. Having done so, in the Civil Appeal, contentions do not expand more than the scope of consideration either by the High Court or the Rent Controller.

14. In view of above, this Court is of the view that once the substantial questions of law have been formulated in this second appeal by the court after considering the rival contentions, it cannot be dismissed merely because the similar second appeals have been dismissed by this Court, particularly, when the said orders have been passed without considering the issues raised in this appeal. Therefore the contention of learned counsel for the appellant is misconceived and not tenable and liable to be repelled and accordingly repelled.

15. Adverting to the rival contentions of learned counsel for the parties on the substantial questions of law formulated in the present appeal, the main issue to be considered in this second appeal is as to whether the suit filed by the respondents under Section 229 B of the Act of 1950 could have been filed by the respondents and allowed in favour of the respondents after issuance of the notification under Section 4 and Section 20 of the Act of 1927 and based on the order passed in the said suit,the suit for permanent injunction could have been filed by the respondents and decreed by the civil court. To consider the issue, it would be apt to consider the relevant provisions of the Act of 1927 and Act of 1950 first.

16. The Act of 1927 was enacted to consolidate the law relating to forests, the transit of forest-produce and the duty leviable on timber and other forest-produce. Chapter XII of the Act of 1927 relates to reserve forest. Section 3 of the Act of 1927 provides the power to reserve forests, which provides that the State Government may constitute any forest-land or waste-land which is the property of Government, or over which the Government has proprietary rights,a reserve forest. Section 3 is reproduced below:-

3. Power to reserve forests.–The State Government may constitute any forest-land or waste-land which is the property of Government, or over which the Government has proprietary rights, or to the whole or any part of the forest-produce of which the Government is entitled, a reserved forest in the manner hereinafter provided.

17. Section 3 in its application to the State of Uttar Pradesh, has been substituted by U.P. Act No.XXIII of 1965 with effect from 23.11.1965 in the following manner:-

3. Power to reserve forests.–The State Government may constitute any forest-land or waste-land which is the property of Government, or over which the Government has proprietary rights, or to the whole or any part of the forest-produce of which the Government is entitled, a reserved forest in the manner hereinafter provided.

Explanation The expression holding shall have the meaning assigned to it in the U.P. Tenancy Act 1939 the expression village abadi shall have meaning assinged to it in the U.P. Village Abadi Act 1947.

18. Section 4 provides that whenever it has been decided to constitute any land a reserved forest, the State Government shall issue a notification in the Official Gazette. Section 4 is reproduced below:- :

"Section 4 : Notification by State Government---(1) Whenever it has been decided to constitute any land a reserved forest, the State Government shall issue a notification in the Official Gazette :

(a) declaring that it has been decided to constitute such land a reserved forest ;

(b) specifying as nearly as possible, the situation and limits of such land ; and

(c) appointing an officer (hereinafter called "the forest settlement officer") to inquire into and determine the existence, nature and extent of any rights alleged to exist in favour of any person in or over any land comprised within such limits, or in or over any forest produce, and to deal with the same as provided in this Chapter.

Explanation---For the purpose of Clause (b), it shall be sufficient to describe the limits of the forest by roads, rivers, ridges or other well-known or readily intelligible boundaries.

(2) The officer appointed under Clause (c) of Sub-section (1) shall ordinarily be a person not holding any forest office except that of forest settlement officer.

(3) Nothing in this Section shall prevent the State Government from appointing any number of officers not exceeding three, not more than one of whom shall be a person holding any forest office except as aforesaid, to perform the duties of a forest settlement officer under this Act."

19. Section 5 provides that after the issue of a notification under section 4, no right shall be acquired in or over the land comprised in such notification, except by succession or under a grant or contract in writing made or entered into by or on behalf of the Government or some person in whom such right was vested when the notification was issued; and no fresh clearings for cultivation or for any other purpose shall be made in such land except in accordance with such rules as may be made by the State Government in this behalf. Section 6 inter alia gives power to Forest Settlement Officer to issue a proclamation and requiring every person claiming any right mentioned in Section 4 or 5 within such period as prescribed by him to submit his objection claiming his right or appear before him and state his right or the amount of compensation, if any, claimed by him. Section 7 gives power to Forest Settlement Officer to investigate the objections.

20. Section 8 deals with the power of the Forest Settlement Officer, which provides that the forest settlement officer will have all the powers of the civil court in the trial of the suit. Section 9 is with regard to extinction of rights, if no claim is preferred after notification under Section 4 of the Act of 1927 under Section 6 and failed to satisfy that no knowledge could be acquired before publication of notification under Section 20. Sections 8 and 9 are extracted below :

"Section 8--Power of forest settlement officer.--For the purpose of such inquiry, the forest settlement officer may exercise the following powers, that is to say :

(a) power to enter, by himself or any officer authorised by him for the purpose, upon any land, and to survey, demarcate and make a map of the same : and

(b) the powers of a civil court in the trial of the suit."

"Section 9--Extinction of rights,--Rights in respect of which no claim has been preferred under Section 6, and of the existence of which no knowledge has been acquired by inquiry under Section 7, shall be extinguished, unless before the notification under Section 20 is published, the person claiming them satisfies the forest settlement officer that he had sufficient cause for not preferring such claim within the period fixed under Section 6."

21. Section 11 of the Act of 1927 provides that the forest settlement officer shall pass an order admitting or rejecting the claim to a right in or over any land. The appeal against the order passed by the Forest Settlement Officer is provided under Section 17.

22. In view of above, once the notification has been issued under Section 4 of the Act of 1927, all claims can be raised before the Forest Settlement Officer, who can consider the same and decide the claim after affording opportunity of evidence exercising the powers of a civil court in the trial of the suit. After finalization of the proceedings, the notification under Section 20 is issued declaring the land as reserved forest. Section 20 of the Act of 1927 is extracted here-in-below:

"20-Notification declaring forest reserved.-(1) When the following events have occurred, namely:-

(a) the period fixed under section 6 for preferring claims have elapsed and all claims (if any) made under that section or section 9 have been disposed of by the Forest Settlement-officer;

(b) if any such claims have been made, the period limited by section 17 for appealing from the orders passed on such claims has elapsed, and all appeals (if any) presented within such period have been disposed of by the appellate officer or Court; and

(c) all lands (if any) to be included in the proposed forest, which the Forest Settlement-officer has, under section 11, elected to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (1 of 1894), have become vested in the Government under section 16 of that Act,the State Government shall publish a notification in the Official Gazette, specifying definitely, according to boundary-marks erected or otherwise, the limits of the forest which is to be reserved, and declaring the same to be reserved from a date fixed by the notification.

(2) From the date so fixed such forest shall be deemed to be a reserved forest.

State Amendments

Uttar Pradesh*- In section 20,in sub-section (1), for clause (b), substitute the following clause namely,*

(b) if any such claims have been made, the period limited bySection 17 for appealing from the orders passed on such claims has clasped and all appeal(if any) persented within such period have been disposed by the District Judge; and

[Vide Uttar Pradesh Act 23 of 1965,sec.8 (w.e.f. 23.11.1965]"

23. Section 23 of the Act of 1927 provides that no right of any description shall be acquired in or over a reserved forest except by succession or under a grant or contract in writing made by or on behalf of the Government or some person in whom such right was vested when the notification under section 20 was issued.

24. Section 27 A has been added by U.P. Act No.23 of 1965 which provides for finality of orders, which cannot be called in question in any court of law. Section 27 A on reproduction reads as under:-

'Section 27A--Finality of orders, etc.--No act done, order made or certificate issued in exercise of any power conferred by or under this Chapter shall, except as herein before provided, be called in question in any Court."

25. In view of above, it is evident that as per scheme of the Act, in the proceeding beginning with notification under Section 4, all claims regarding land included in the notification are adjudicated by an authorised officer i.e. Forest Settlement Officer, who exercises all the powers of the civil court in trial of the suits as per Section 8, the appeal of which can be preferred under Section 17. Section 5 of the Act of 1927 provides that after issue of a notification under section 4, no right shall be acquired in or over the land comprised in such notification, except by succession or under a grant or contract in writing made or entered into by or on behalf of the Government or some person in whom such right was vested when the notification was issued. The said notifications published in the official gazettes are public documents which need not be proved and they shall be deemed to have been issued in accordance with law after following the due procedure of law.

26. The Act of 1950 was promulgated for abolition of the zamindari system which involves intermediaries between the tiller of the soil and the State in Uttar Pradesh and for acquisition of their rights, title and interest and to reform the law relating to land tenure consequent on such abolition and acquisition and to make provision for other matters connected therewith. As per Section 4 of the said Act, after the notification issued by the State Government, all the estates vested in the State. However, certain buildings and appurtenant thereto, wells, tress etc. have been settled in favour of the owners and occupiers thereof under Section 9. Therefore, all the estates in State of U.P. after notification under the said Act vested in State and unless anybody acquired any right or title under the said Act, he is not entitled to claim any right over any land.

27. Adverting to the facts of the present case, the respondents had filed suit under section 229 B of the Act of 1950 after 11.04.1970 i.e. after issuance of the notification not only under Section 4 but Section 20 of the Act of 1927 without impleading the forest department as respondent as admitted by the respondents. However, it has been stated that the State of U.P. was impleaded in the said suit but it has not been disclosed as to through whom State of U.P. was impleaded. However since the land in dispute was already declared as forest land, therefore the forest department was a necessary party to the suit because it could have only given the correct facts and clarified the position. Even otherwise, even if the State was impleaded no effective order could have been passed without impleadment of the forest department or the concerned officer of the forest department. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Moreshar Yadaorao Mahajan versus Vyankatesh Sitaram Bhedi(supra), has held that no effective decree could have been passed in absence of necessary party and if a necessary party is not impleaded, the suit itself is liable to be dismissed. The twin test to be satisfied for being a necessary party is that there must be right to some relief against such party in respect of the controversies involved in the proceedings and no effective decree can be passed in the absence of such a party. Similar view was taken by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Poonam vs State of Uttar Pradesh and others; (2016) 2 SCC 779. Even otherwise, in view of Section 27 A of the Act of 1927, as inserted by the State amendment of U.P., the said suit was not maintainable, therefore the exparte judgment and decree dated 30.09.1973, against the State also, is void.

28. The respondents, claiming right and title over the land in dispute i.e. Plot No.1 minjumla/50 acres situated in Village Madanpur, Pragana/Tehsil Palia, District Kheri on the basis of aforesaid judgment and decree dated 03.09.1973 passed in suit under Section 229 B of the Act of 1950, filed suit for permanent injunction against the appellant on 05.07.1977 bearing Regular Suit No.154 of 1977. The suit was decided in favour of the respondents. The claim of the respondents is that they are in possession on the land in dispute for the last 30 years and are Sirdar of the land in dispute and they have been declared as such by the Divisional Officer, Kheri in the suit filed under Section 229 B of the Act of 1950 and the forest department had no concern with the land in dispute. Even if it is assumed that the suit u/s 229 B of the Act of 1950 could have been filed and decreed, though it could not have been, the respondents were declared Sirdar of the land in dispute by the said order and decree. The Sirdar has no right or title on the land. The Sirdar is not a proprietor but merely the tenure holder and the propriety right of any such land vested with the State. Thus, even if the respondents were in possession on the land in dispute as Sirdar, they have no right or title over the land in dispute and it could have been declared the forest land by the Government under Section 3 of Act of 1927 and State amendment of U.P. by Act No.XXIII of 1965, as it has propriety rights over the said land. Hence, the State was justified in declaring and notifying the land in dispute as reserve forest.

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of U.P. versus Deputy Director of Consolidation and others (supra), has held that the person who was holding the land as Sirdar was not vested with propriety rights and he was tenure holder and the propriety rights vested with the State. It has further been held that after notification under Section 4of the Forest Act, the objections could not have been raised qua the said notification before the consolidation authorities and the consolidation authorities were bound by the notification which had attained finality as per scheme of the Act of 1927. The relevant paragraphs 7 to 10 are extracted hereinbelow:-

"7.It is thus obvious that a person who was holding the land as Sirdar was not vested with proprietary rights under the Abolition Act. He was a tenure holder and the proprietary rights vested with the State. The High Court, therefore, fell into patent error in assuming that by virtue of their status as Sirdars the respondents were proprietors of the land. The State being the proprietor of the land under the Abolition Act it was justified in issuing the notification under Section 4 of the Act.

8. The nature of the land - whether covered by Section 3 of the Act or not - could only be determined on the date of the notification under Section 4 of the Act which was issued on March 29, 1954. Neither the Consolidation Authorities nor the High Court have gone into the question as to what was the nature of the land on the relevant date. The Consolidation Authorities recorded their findings in the year 1968-69. They were wholly oblivious of the nature of the land 14-15 years back in the year 1954.

9. The crucial question for consideration, however, is whether the Consolidation Authorities have the jurisdiction to go behind the notification under Section 20 of the Act and deal with the land which has been declared and notified as a reserve forest under the Act. It is necessary, therefore, to examine the scheme of Chapter II of the Act. Section 3 provides that the State Government may constitute any forest land or waste land which is the property of the Government or over which the Government has proprietary rights or to the whole or any part of the forest produce to which the Government is entitled a reserved forest. Section 4 provides for the issue of a notification declaring the intention of the Government to constitute a reserved forest. Section 5 bars accrual of forest rights in the area covered by the notification under Section 4 after the issue of the notification. Section 6, inter alia, gives power to the Forest Settlement Officer to issue a proclamation fixing a period of not less than three months from the date of such proclamation and requiring every person claiming any right mentioned in Section 4 or Section 5 within such period, either to present to the Forest Settlement Officer a written notice specifying or to appear before him, and state the nature of such right and the amount and particulars of the Compensation (if any) claimed in respect thereof. Section 7 gives power to the Forest Settlement Officer to investigate the objections. Section 8 prescribes that the Forest Settlement Officer shall have the same powers as a civil court has in the trial of a suit. Section 9, inter alia, provides for the extinction of rights where no claim is made under Section 6. Section 11(1) lays down that in the case of a claim to a right in or over any land, other than a right of way or right of pasture, or a right to forest produce or water course, the Forest Settlement Officer shall pass an order admitting or rejecting the same in whole or in part. In the event of admitting the right of any person to the land, the Forest Settlement Officer, under Section 11(2), can either exclude such land from the limits of the proposed forest or come to an agreement with the owner thereof for the surrender of his rights or proceed to acquire such land in the manner provided by the Land Acquisition Act, 1884. Section 17 provides for appeal from various order under the Act and Section 18(4) for revision before the State Government. When all the proceedings provided under Section 3 to 19 are over the State Government has to publish a notification under Section 20 specifying definitely the limits of the forest which is to be reserved and declaring the same to be reserved from the date fixed by the notification.

10. It is thus obvious that the Forest Settlement Officer has the powers of a civil court and his order is subject to appeal and finally revision before the State Government. The Act is a complete code in itself and contains elaborate procedure for declaring and notifying a reserve forest. Once a notification under Section 20 of the Act declaring a land as reserve forest is published, then all the rights in the said land claimed by any person come to an end and are no longer available. The notification is binding on the Consolidation Authorities in the same way as a decree of the civil court. The respondents could very well file objections and claims including objection regarding the nature of the land before the Forest Settlement Officer. They did not file any objection or claim before the authorities in the proceedings under the Act. After the notification under Section 20 of the Act, the respondents could not have raised any objections qua the said notification before the Consolidation Authorities. The Consolidation Authorities were bound by the notification which had achieved finality."

30. In the case of State of U.P. versus Kamal Jeet Singh(supra), the Division Bench of this Court considered the scheme of the Indian Forest Act and has held that the Forest Settlement Officer has the powers of a civil court and once the notification under Section 4 and Section 20 of the Forest Act has been issued, it attains finality and except revision before the State no authority has jurisdiction to determine the rights as contained in Section 27-A of the Forest Act. Thus, the revenue authorities could not have determined the rights under Section 229 B of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act 1950.

31. A coordinate Bench of this Court, in the case of State of U.P. versus Sone Lal and others(supra), has held that once notification is issued under Section 4 of the Forest Act, no right could have been acquired in or over the land declared as forest land.

32. It is also noticed that though the claim was set up by the respondents in the plaint that they are in possession on the land in dispute for the last 30 years, however in the oral evidence of P.W. 1 Surjan Singh i.e respondent no.1, he admitted in his cross examination that he had not got it from anybody and got it vacant and he also admitted that he has not deposited the land revenue for the last 30 years. He also admitted that he had filed the suit without impleading the forest department but the State was impleaded, however it has not been disclosed as to through whom the State was impleaded in the suit, whereas the State can be impleaded in the suit only through the department concerned in accordance with law.

33. It is also noticed that the commission was issued during the trial, which was conducted on 17.12.1979. The report of commission i.e. GA 2 / 30/1 and Ga 2 30/2 indicates that during the commission, the respondents stated that they have got the patta of the land in dispute in the year 1969 and since then they are in possession of the land in dispute, therefore the respondents could have in possession for the last eight years in view of this. This report has not been challenged by the respondents and nothing has been brought before this Court to show that that this report was challenged and rejected. Therefore a contrary stand has been taken and no patta has been brought on record. Therefore it cannot be said that the respondents have perfected their rights under the Act of 1950 and they are in lawful possession of the land in dispute, even if they may be in possession and such persons are not entitled for any relief in a suit for permanent injunction.

34. In view of above, this Court is of the view that the respondents are not entitled for any benefit of the orders passed in a suit under Section 229 B of the Act of 1950 filed by the respondents and the suit for permanent injunction filed before the civil court. It is settled law that injunction cannot be granted against the true owner. In the present case true owner of the land in dispute is State after enforcement of Act of 1950 and after notification under Section 20 of the Act of 1927, the forest department of the State is the true owner of the land in dispute.

35. A coordinate Bench of the High Court of Punjab & Haryana, in the case of Sukhwant Singh versus Divisional Forest Officer and others(supra), has held that the trespasser cannot seek injunction against the true owner. Therefore no injunction could have been granted in favour of the respondents.

36. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Padhyar Prahladji Chenaji(Deceased) through L.Rs versus Maniben Jagmalbhai (deceased) through L.Rs. And others(supra), has held that the plaintiff who is not in lawful possession of the land in dispute is not entitled for any permanent injunction against the true owner.

37. It is also noticed that the trial court examined the legality and validity of the notification issued under Section 4 and Section 20 of the Act of 1927 without being challenged, whereas the same could not have been done because the same could even not have been challenged in suit for permanent injunction. The notification issued under the statutory provision could not be held illlegal without being challenged. Even otherwise, the trial court has held that it is not completely legal, meaning thereby it's legality has not been disputed but it has been held only on the ground that the appellant has failed to prove as to when notice of the notification was given to the respondents and when it's munadi was done, whereas once notification under Section 4 and Section 20 of the Act of 1927 were issued and published in official gazette, it will be deemed that they have been issued in accordance with law after following due procedure of law and it could not have been held illegal or inoperative without challenge to the notifications in appropriate proceedings but not in a suit for permanent injunction.

38. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Dhanraj versus Vikram Singh and others(supra), has held that in absence of any challenge to the validity of the statutory provisions, the High Court ought not to have undertaken the exercise of going into the question of repugnancy. Thus, once the provisions of the Indian Forest Act have not been challenged and are valid, the operation of the same cannot be ignored. Consequently, once the notification was issued under Section 4 followed by Section 20 of the Act of 1927, the natural consequence would be that the land in dispute has been declared as forest land and nobody has right on the said land. Any objection in this regard could have been raised only before the Forest Settlement Officer after issuance of the notification under Section 4 of the Act, which admittedly has not been raised. Therefore it had become final after declaration of reserve forest under Section 20 and under Section 27(A) of the Act of 1927 and the order under Section 229 B of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act was passed in a suit filed after issuance of the notification under Section 20 of the Indian Forest Act, which could not have been done. Similarly the injunction could not have been granted by the civil court.

39. A coordinate Bench of this Court, in the case of Daya Shankar and others versus Deputy Director of Consolidation Kheri and others(supra), has held that if any order is passed by the incompetent authority, de horse the statutory prescriptions, that order would be nullity in the eyes of law and would be void-ab-initio.

40. In view of the aforesaid discussion, it is apparent that after issuance of the notification under Section 4 and Section 20 of the Act of 1927 in the year 1966 and 1970 respectively, no authority or court had power to entertain any dispute in regard to the land declared as reserve forest under Section 20 in view of Section 27(A) as added by U.P. Act No.23 of 1965, therefore, the suit under Section 229-B of the Act of 1950, that too without impleading the Forest department or concerned Officer of the forest department, was not maintainable and in any case, no effective relief could have been granted without its impleadment and the orders passed on the back of him cannot be applicable on it. Thus, the suit for permanent injunction, claiming right and title on the said basis was not maintainable and could not have been decreed. Even otherwise, the respondents have failed to prove their case. Thus, the substantial questions of law, formulated by this Court, are answered accordingly.

41. In view of above, this Court is of the view that the judgment and order passed by the trial court as well as the first appellate court are not sustainable in the eyes of law. Thus, the appeal is liable to be allowed.

42. The second appeal is, accordingly, allowed. The judgment and decree dated 16.04.1982 passed by the 1st Additional District Judge Kheri in Civil Appeal No.152/1980, by means of which the appeal has been dismissed upholding the judgment and decree passed by the trial court and judgment and decree dated 09.09.1980 passed by the VIth Additional Munsif, Lakhimpur Kheri in Regular Suit No.154/1977(Surjan Singh & 3 Ors. Versus Divisional Forest Officer, North Kheri) are hereby set aside. No order as to costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.

First Appeal No. 819 of 2019

Col. Manoj Kumar Gupta ...Appellant
Versus
Smt. Sangeeta ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Pankaj Agarwal, Sri Tarun Agarwal

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. Family Law – Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 – S. 13(1) (ia) and (ib) – Divorce – Desertion – Irretrievable break down – It's recognition as ground of divorce – Wife-respondent is staying away from the husband-appellant for six years before divorce petition filed in the year 2015 – Effect – Long period of separation, when constitute mental cruelty – Held, when the period of separation should be sufficiently long, and it is relevant factor to consider under mental cruelty continued long separation with dead emotions used to be construed as a case of irretrievable break down of marriage, which is also a facet of mental cruelty – Desertion necessarily includes separate living of the husband and wife and therefore, in other words, two years continuous separation, can be taken as a ground for divorce and has been statutorily provided – The marriage has irretrievably been broken down. Hence, as held by the Apex Court, certainly this case has to be construed as a case of 'mental cruelty' on the appellant as the marriage is totally unworkable and emotionally dead. (Para 15, 28, 32, 33 and 39)

B. Family Law – Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 – S. 13(1) (ia) and (ib) – Desertion – Meaning – Held, desertion means intentional abandonment of one spouse by the other without the consent of the other and without a reasonable cause. (Para 15)

1. Heard Sri Tarun Agarwal, holding brief of Sri Pankaj Agarwal, learned counsel for the appellant.

2. Present appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 18.10.2019 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Moradabad in Case No. 492 of 2015.

3. The plaintiff is the appellant herein. He filed an application under Section 13 (1) (ia) (ib) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 before the court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Moradabad, numbered as Complaint Case No. 492 of 2015. The said petition was dismissed vide order dated 18.10.2019. Aggrieved by the same, present appeal has been filed.

4. The plaintiff-appellant solemnized first marriage with Anuradha on 15.11.1989 as per Hindu Customs and Rites. The said marriage was dissolved on 31.05.2007. After that plaintiff solemnized his second marriage on 21.11.2007 with the respondent herein. The first husband of the respondent herein had died and she has two children out of the wedlock with the first husband. During the marriage, the first husband has adopted one girl child namely, Astha, she is living with the plaintiff-appellant. Both the appellant and the respondents were doctors and they lived in District Budaun and the appellant has served in the Indian Army about 30 years. The defendant-respondent is also a senior doctor and she is presently posted at Ghaziabad and she is also running a private nursing home at Buddhi Vihar in Moradabad.

5. After marriage, the defendant-respondent has deserted the appellant and lived separately at Moradabad, that she deserted the appellant for six years before filing the suit and has stated that no physical relationship has been established between the appellant and the respondent. Further, she is accusing plaintiff as well as the adopted daughter and subjected to mental cruelty and misbehaved with the appellant and there is no cordial relationship with the adopted daughter of the appellant and she called Astha as a orphan and illegitimate child and she should be thrown out of the house. Due to the above said behaviour of the defendant-respondent, mental condition of the appellant's daughter Astha started deteriorating. The respondent behaved indecently and insulted the appellant in front of his friends and relatives, which caused great embarrassment to him. She used to quarrel with the appellant's daughter over small issues and hates her. More so, she assassinated the character of the appellant without any proper reason and also alleged that he was involved in illegal activities in his house at Greater Noida.

6. The respondent has filed her objections to the above said allegations by denying the statements and allegations and she has stated that she married the appellant by knowing the former wife had adopted a girl child Astha as the defendant-respondent is also having two children namely, Pallavi Swaroop and Rijul Swaroop from her former husband. The respondent was a doctor in Central Police Hospital, Moradabad, but is currently working in the District Hospital, Ghaziabad. Eight years have passed since her marriage with the appellant. Whenever the respondent got leave she kept visiting the appellant and the appellant also keep coming to her from time to time. She has denied that she never misbehaved with the appellant and she always had good relations with the appellant and adopted daughter Astha as well. In fact, the marriage of the respondent's sister's daughter took place on 20.02.2015, in which the adopted daughter Astha was also present and had good relationship with the respondent.

7. Based on the above averments, the court below has framed following issues:

"1- क्या प्रत्यर्थी के द्वारा याची के साथ क्रूरता पूर्वक व्यवहार किया गया ?

2- क्या प्रत्यर्थी के द्वारा याचिका प्रस्तुत किये जाने के दो वर्ष पूर्व से याची का परित्याग किया हुआ है ?

3- याची किस अनुतोष को प्राप्त करने का अधिकारी है ?"

8. In response to the above issues, the court below has answered that the plaintiff-appellant has stated regarding his adopted daughter Astha for having cruely treated by the defendant-respondent. As per plaintiff, defendant used to call Astha as orphan/illicit child and used to say to throw her in dustbin. It has also been stated by plaintiff that defendant used to treat Astha cruely and used to quarrel with her for minor issues. The defendant has denied the said allegations in her defence as the plaintiff and defendant both are doctors by profession and it is an admitted fact that adopted daughter Astha, who is adult and eligible for marriage and Astha is an intelligent girl, but Astha has not got examined by the plaintiff during recording of statements, who is corroborating the misbehaviour done and filthy language used by defendant towards her and no statement has been given by the Astha in the corroboration of statements of plaintiff by appearing in court and the plaintiff had not proved the statement from his evidence. No such evidences have been produced by the appellant which confirms ill-treatment, insulting behaviour and filthy words used by the respondent to his adopted daughter Astha.

9. In view of the said circumstances, appellant filed the petition against the respondent for dissolution of marriage on the ground of cruelty, but the appellant could not prove the cruelty, hence, this issue is disposed of negatively.

10. As far as issue no. 2 is concerned, both the appellant and respondent got married on 21.11.2007 with consent and admitted that both the parties were already married before this marriage and at the time of marriage, the respondent being lady doctor was working as Medical Officer in Central Hospital, Moradabad. The statement of the appellant that the respondent has deserted the appellant for more than six years before the date of filing the petition i.e. on 19.05.2015. As per the statement of the respondent, on 10.02.2015, her daughter Pallavi's marriage was solemnized in Mumbai and the appellant attended the pre-marriage rituals in Moradabad and also attended the wedding in Mumbai. The statement of the appellant that the respondent has deserted him has not been proved by the appellant. Hence, the issue is disposed of negatively.

11. The said appeal was admitted by this Court vide order dated 3.12.2019. As per the office report dated 23.01.2020, notices issued to the sole respondent through ordinary post fixing 24.01.2020 were not returned and nobody has put in appearance. Subsequent office report dated 4.9.2021 reflects that the sole respondent has been served by ordinary post personally. This fact was noticed by this Court in its order dated 6.9.2021. Apparently in the interest of justice, vide order dated 1.10.2021 fresh notices were issued to the respondent by way of publication in the newspaper. After publication, the appellant has filed affidavit of service dated 1.11.2021 and annexed therewith original copy of newspapers 'Times Nation', 'Hindustan', 'Hindu' and 'Times of India' dated 16.10.2021. In such view of the matter, the Court find that the service on sole respondent is deemed to be sufficient.

12. Based on the above findings of the court below, Sri Tarun Agarwal, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the court below has not appreciated the facts in perspective manner, in fact, the respondent has made allegations against the appellant in her written statement and the cruelty made by the appellant was not specifically controverted in the defence statement filed by the respondent, and in fact, in paragraph 40 and 41 of the said reply, she has made character assassination of the appellant, the said aspect has not been considered by the court below while deciding the application filed by the appellant under Section 13 (1) (ia) (ib) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. The court below while giving finding with regard to issue no. 1 has travelled beyond the pleadings of the parties and totally ignored the relevant statements as well as cross-examination of DW-1.

13. He further submitted that despite service of notice, the respondent has not chosen to appear before this Court and in fact, admittedly even after the date of filing of the suit till today, she is living separately, that itself shows that the respondent is not interested to live with the appellant, even on this ground alone, the suit filed by the appellant has to be decreed by granting divorce. He further submitted that it is well accepted proposition that 'cruelty' is a course or conduct of one party, which adversely affects the others. The 'cruelty' may be mental or physical, intentional or unintentional.

14. In the instant case, admittedly the respondent is staying away from the appellant since long, that comes under mental cruelty as held by the Apex Court in catena of judgments. The cruelty has to be construed and interpreted considering the type of life the parties are accustomed to or their economic and social conditions and their culture and human values to which they attach importance. In the instant case, both the appellant and respondent are doctors and they are living a high profile life. She is not interested to live with the appellant and she is living separately.

15. As decided by the Apex Court consistently in various judgments that the desertion means intentional abandonment of one spouse by the other without the consent of the other and without a reasonable cause. In the instant case, that could be taken into consideration that the wife deserted the husband or treated him with cruelty. When the period of separation should be sufficiently long, and it is relevant factor to consider under mental cruelty continued long separation with dead emotions used to be construed as a case of irretrievable break down of marriage, which is also a facet of mental cruelty.

16. In support of his contentions, learned counsel for the appellant relied on the judgments of the Apex Court in Sukhendu Das Vs. Rita Mukherjee, AIR 2017 SC 5092, Dr. Nirmal Singh Panesar Vs. Mrs. Paramjit Kaur Panesar @ Ajinder Kaur Panesar, 2023 (3) ARC 244, Shilpa Shailesh Vs. Varun Sreenivasan, Transfer Petition (Civil) No. 1118 of 2014. He also relied upon the judgment of this Court passed in Shashi Bala Vs. Rajendrapal Singh, 2020(2)ADJ 745.

17. Relevant paragraph of Sukhendu Das (supra) is as under:

"8. This court in a series of judgments has exercised its inherent powers under Article 142 of the Constitution for dissolution of a marriage where the Court finds that the marriage is totally unworkable, emotionally dead, beyond salvage and has broken down irretrievably, even if the facts of the case do not provide a ground in law on which the divorce could be granted [Manish Goel v. Rohini Goel. Admittedly, the Appellant and the Respondent have been living separately for more than 17 years and it will not be possible for the parties to live together and there is no purpose in compelling the parties to live together in matrimony [Rishikesh Sharma v. Saroj Sharma]. The daughter of the Appellant and the Respondent is aged about 24 years and her custody is not in issue before us. In the peculiar facts of this case and in order to do complete justice between the parties, we allow the Appeal in exercise of our power under Article 142 of the Constitution of India, 1950."

18. Relevant paragraphs of Dr. Nirmal Singh Panesar (supra) is as under:

"2. The appellant is a qualified doctor, and was Commissioned Air Force Officer. He retired on 30.04.1990 as Wing Commander. The respondent is also a qualified teacher, who was working in a Central School, and has retired now. The appellant had filed the Divorce proceedings on 12.03.1996 before the District Court, Chandigarh on two grounds, namely 'cruelty' and 'desertion' as contemplated in Section 13(1)(ia) and 13(1)(ib) respectively of the Hindu Marriage Act 1955 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act)."

8. Per contra, the learned advocate Ms. Madhurima Tatia for the respondent submitted that the respondent being an aged lady does not want to die with the stigma of a "Divorcee." According to her, the respondent had made all efforts to respect the sacred relationship between the parties all through out and is still ready to look after the appellant with the assistance of her son. Mere long period of separation could not tantamount to irretrievable break down of the marriage. She lastly submitted that the appellant having failed to make out any ground either of cruelty or desertion, the Court may not interfere with the concurrent findings recorded by the Single Bench and the Division Bench of the High Court in this regard.

9. We have given anxious thought and consideration to the submissions made by the learned advocates for the parties in the light of the evidence on record. There could not be any disagreement with the proposition of law canvassed by the learned counsel for the appellant that the allegations of 'cruelty' and 'desertion' are legitimate grounds for seeking a decree of divorce under Section 13(1) of the said Act. It is well accepted proposition that "cruelty" is a course or conduct of one party which adversely affects the other. The "cruelty" may be mental or physical, intentional, or unintentional. This court in Naveen Kohli (supra) has summarised the principles of law on "cruelty" as under: -

"46. The principles of law which have been crystallised by a series of judgments of this Court are recapitulated as under:

In Sirajmohmedkhan Janmohamadkhan v. Hafizunnisa Yasinkhan [(1981) 4 SCC 250 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 829] this Court stated that the concept of legal cruelty changes according to the changes and advancement of social concept and standards of living. With the advancement of our social conceptions, this feature has obtained legislative recognition, that a second marriage is a sufficient ground for separate residence and maintenance. Moreover, to establish legal cruelty, it is not necessary that physical violence should be used. Continuous ill-treatment, cessation of marital intercourse, studied neglect, indifference on the part of the husband, and an assertion on the part of the husband that the wife is unchaste are all factors which lead to mental or legal cruelty.

47. In Shobha Rani v. Madhukar Reddi [(1988) 1 SCC 105 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 60] this Court had an occasion to examine the concept of cruelty. The word "cruelty" has not been defined in the Hindu Marriage Act. It has been used in Section 13(1)(i-a) of the Act in the context of human conduct or behaviour in relation to or in respect of matrimonial duties or obligations. It is a course of conduct of one which is adversely affecting the other. The cruelty may be mental or physical, intentional or unintentional. If it is physical, it is a question of fact and degree. If it is mental, the enquiry must begin as to the nature of the cruel treatment and then as to the impact of such treatment on the mind of the spouse. Whether it caused reasonable apprehension that it would be harmful or injurious to live with the other, ultimately, is a matter of inference to be drawn by taking into account the nature of the conduct and its effect on the complaining spouse. There may, however, be cases where the conduct complained of itself is bad enough and per se unlawful or illegal. Then the impact or the injurious effect on the other spouse need not be enquired into or considered. In such cases, the cruelty will be established if the conduct itself is proved or admitted. The absence of intention should not make any difference in the case, if by ordinary sense in human affairs, the act complained of could otherwise be regarded as cruelty. Intention is not a necessary element in cruelty. The relief to the party cannot be denied on the ground that there has been no deliberate or wilful ill-treatment.

48. The cruelty alleged may largely depend upon the type of life the parties are accustomed to or their economic and social conditions and their culture and human values to which they attach importance. Each case has to be decided on its own merits.

49. ……..

52. This Court in Savitri Pandey v. Prem Chandra Pandey [(2002) 2 SCC 73] stated that mental cruelty is the conduct of other spouse which causes mental suffering or fear to the matrimonial life of the other. "Cruelty", therefore, postulates a treatment of the petitioner with such cruelty as to cause a reasonable apprehension in his or her mind that it would be harmful or injurious for the petitioner to live with the other party. Cruelty, however, has to be distinguished from the ordinary wear and tear of family life. It cannot be decided on the basis of the sensitivity of the petitioner and has to be adjudged on the basis of the course of conduct which would, in general, be dangerous for a spouse to live with the other."

10. The crux of the various decisions of this Court on the interpretation of the word "cruelty" is that it has to be construed and interpreted considering the type of life the parties are accustomed to; or their economic and social conditions and their culture and human values to which they attach importance. Each case has to be decided on its own merits.

11. Similarly, the law is also well settled as to what could be said to be "Desertion" in the divorce proceedings filed under Section 13 of the said Act. The expression "Desertion" had come up under the judicial scrutiny of this Court in Bipin Chandra Jai Singh Bai Shah vs. Prabhavati AIR 1957 SC 176, which was again considered in case of Lachman Utam Chand Kirpalani vs. Meena alias Mota, AIR 1964 SC 40. This Court collating the observations made in the earlier decisions, stated its view as under: -

"Collating the aforesaid observations, the view of this Court may be stated thus: Heavy burden lies upon a petitioner who seeks divorce on the ground of desertion to prove four essential conditions, namely, (1) the factum of separation; (2) animus deserendi; (3) absence of his or her consent; and (4) absence of his or her conduct giving reasonable cause to the deserting spouse to leave the matrimonial home."

13. Coming back to the facts of the present case, the Single Bench of the High Court holding that the appellant-petitioner had failed to prove the grounds of "cruelty" and "desertion" as contemplated in Section 13(1) of the said Act, had reversed the decree of divorce passed by the Trial Court. The Division Bench vide the impugned order confirmed the order passed by the Single Bench and observed by holding as under: -

"16. Coming now to the facts of the present case, it is undisputed that the wife continued to live with the husband without any grievance for 21 years and gave birth to three children. She looked after the children. One daughter was married in the year 1984 before separation. The grievance put-forward by the husband for the first time was that the wife did not join him when he was transferred to Madras. The parties were settled at Amritsar and lived there for 21 years where children and parents of the appellant were also living. Case of the wife is that the husband got himself transferred of his own volition. At this stage of life when there were three grown up children and the wife had been living with the husband for 21 years, if unilateral decision was taken by the husband and the wife expressed her opposition, could it be held that the wife deserted the husband or treated him with cruelty. We have already referred to the settled principles on the subject. If the wife did not agree to have herself transferred to Madras, in the given situation, it could not be held that the wife wanted to bring cohabitation permanently to an end without reasonable cause. This did not show any animus deserendi nor it could be held that the wife was cruel to the husband. Taking an overall view of the matter, it cannot be held that the view taken by the learned Single Judge is not a possible view so as to call for interference in an appeal under Letters Patent. The fact remains that the wife continued to look after the children and arrange their marriages. There is nothing to show that the husband made any effort to join the wife, who was living in the matrimonial home or to look after any of the children. The burden of proof is on the appellant to prove desertion and cruelty."

"17. Learned counsel for the appellant refers to Exh.A-8, which is a letter addressed to the wife, in response to her representation for maintenance. The contents of the letter are as under: -

"2. lt is informed that we have tried our best to help you both to reconcile in the long-term interest of the welfare of the family and children. Accordingly, it is learnt that Wg Cdr. N.S. Panesar, in good faith and on our counsel signed for 15 reconciliation. But it seems that you are not ready to reconcile even in the interest of children. Under the circumstances, there is no other alternative for this HQ except to advice you to redress your grievance, if any, in the Court of law. However, on moral and humanitarian grounds we have counselled your husband to continue remitting Rs.800/- p.m. till the matter is settled to mutual satisfaction."

He also refers to Exh.A-17, which is letter written by the son of the appellant, asking the appellant to send money to the Court."

"18. Next contention raised is that the jewellery should not be given to the wife. Learned counsel for the appellant suggested that a grand-daughter of the appellant should visit the appellant, in which case, the appellant will have no objection to the jewellery being given to the grand daughter. Learned counsel for the wife states that the grand-daughters will visit the appellant as often as possible and also depending on desire and attitude of the appellant but not as a condition for finding of learned Single Judge to be upheld. Finding of learned Single Judge in this regard is as under: -

" ... This is a fit case to hand over the jewellery which was given to appellant (wife) at the time of marriage and thus, I direct the Manager, Bank of Baroda, Sector 22, Chandigarh to hand over all the jewellery to the appellant lying in the locker ... "

19. Relevant paragraph of Shilpa Shailesh (supra) is as under:

"33. Having said so, we wish to clearly state that grant of divorce on the ground of irretrievable breakdown of marriage by this Court is not a matter of right, but a discretion which is to be exercised with great care and caution, keeping in mind several factors ensuring that 'complete justice' is done to both parties. It is obvious that this Court should be fully convinced and satisfied that the marriage is totally unworkable, emotionally dead and beyond salvation and, therefore, dissolution of marriage is the right solution and the only way forward. That the marriage has irretrievably broken down is to be factually determined and firmly established. For this, several factors are to be considered such as the period of time the parties had cohabited after marriage; when the parties had last cohabited; the nature of allegations made by the parties against each other and their family members; the orders passed in the legal proceedings from time to time, cumulative impact on the personal relationship; whether, and how many attempts were made to settle the disputes by intervention of the court or through mediation, and when the last attempt was made, etc. The period of separation should be sufficiently long, and anything above six years or more will be a relevant factor. But these facts have to be evaluated keeping in view the economic and social status of the parties, including their educational qualifications, whether the parties have any children, their age, educational qualification, and whether the other spouse and children are dependent, in which event how and in what manner the party seeking divorce intends to take care and provide for the spouse or the children. Question of custody and welfare of minor children, provision for fair and adequate alimony for the wife, and economic rights of the children and other pending matters, if any, are relevant considerations. We would not like to codify the factors so as to curtail exercise of jurisdiction under Article 142(1) of the Constitution of India, which is situation specific. Some of the factors mentioned can be taken as illustrative, and worthy of consideration."

20. Relevant paragraphs of Shashi Bala (supra) is as under:

7. Court below upon consideration of pleadings, oral and documentary evidence on record decided issues framed by it. In respect of Issue no.1, Court below concluded that Plaintiff is clearly entitled to grant of decree of divorce in terms of Section 13 (1) (1b) of Act 1955 i.e. on the ground of 'desertion'. Court below however concluded that Plaintiff has failed to establish commission of any physical or mental 'cruelty' upon him by Appellant. In the opinion of Court below, from material filed by Plaintiff it is apparent that it is Plaintiff, who has committed mental cruelty upon Appellant. However, since it is an admitted position that Appellant has 'deserted' Plaintiff for the last 11 years and aforesaid fact, is an admitted fact therefore same is not required to be proved under Indian Evidence Act. Consequently, suit for divorce filed by Plaintiff was decreed by Court below on the ground of 'desertion' vide judgement dated 13.03.2015 and decree dated 27.03.2015.

18. Section 13(I) (ib) of Act 1955 is a mandatory provision and therefore, if a suit for divorce is filed on the ground of 'desertion', the precondition provided in above Section for grant of decree of divorce on the ground of desertion must be fulfilled on the date of presentation of suit. Admittedly, date of desertion by Appellant, pleaded in plaint is 28.02.2004 whereas plaint was presented on 07.03.2005. Evidently, period of two years of desertion on the part of Appellant had not expired on the date of presentation of plaint. Therefore, precondition provided in Section 13(I) (i-b) of Act 1955 was not fulfilled on the date of presentation of suit. Subsequent events which have taken place after the institution of suit are irrelevant as same cannot be taken into consideration under scheme of Act 1955. Therefore, we have no hesitation to hold that decree passed by Court below decreeing suit for divorce filed by Plaintiff on ground of 'desertion' is manifestly illegal.

21. Similarly this Court in First Appeal No. 792 of 2008 (Ashwani Kumar Kohli Vs. Smt. Anita) decided on 17.11.2016 has also considered this question and observed as follows in paragraphs 7, 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13:-

"7. Therefore, point for adjudication in this appeal is "whether a decree of reversal can be passed by granting divorce to the appellant on the ground which was not subject matter of adjudication before the Court below and is being raised for the first time in appeal".

8. Under the provisions of Act, 1955 there is no ground like any "irretrievable breakdown of marriage", justifying divorce. It is a doctrine laid down by judicial precedents, in particular, Supreme Court in exercise of powers under Article 142 of the Constitution has granted decree of divorce on the ground of irretrievable breakdown of marriage.

10. This aspect has been considered by this Court in Ram Babu Babeley Vs. Smt. Sandhya AIR 2006 (All) 12 = 2006 AWC 183 and it has laid down certain inferences from various authorities of Supreme Court, which read as under:-

"(i) The irretrievable break down of marriage is not a ground for divorce by itself. But while scrutinizing the evidence on record to determine whether the grounds on which divorce is sought are made out, this circumstance can be taken into consideration as laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Savitri Pandey v. prem Chand Pandey, (2002) 2 SCC 73 and V. Bhagat versus D. Bhagat, AIR 1994 SC 710.

(ii) No divorce can be granted on the ground of irretrievable break down of marriage if the party seeking divorce on this ground is himself or herself at fault for the above break down as laid down in the case of Chetan Dass Versus Kamla Devi, AIR 2001 SC 1709, Savitri Pandey v. prem Chand Pandey, (2002) 2 SCC 73 and Shyam Sunder Kohli v. Sushma Kohli, (2004) 7 SCC 747.

(iii) The decree of divorce on the ground that the marriage had been irretrievably broken down can be granted in those cases where both the parties have levelled such allegations against each other that the marriage appears to be practically dead and the parties can not live together as laid down in Chandra Kala Trivedi versus Dr. SP Trivedi, (1993) 4 SCC 232.

(iv)The decree of divorce on the ground that the marriage had been irretrievably broken down can be granted in those cases also where the conduct or averments of one party have been so much painful for the other party (who is not at fault) that he cannot be expected to live with the offending party as laid down in the cases of V. Bhagat versus D. Bhagat, (supra), Ramesh Chander versus Savitri, (1995) 2 SCC 7, Ashok Hurra versus Rupa Bipin Zaveri, 1997(3) AWC 1843 (SC), 1997(3) A.W.C. 1843(SC) and A. Jayachandra versus Aneel Kaur, (2005) 2 SCC 22.

(v) The power to grant divorce on the ground of irretrievable break down of marriage should be exercised with much care and caution in exceptional circumstances only in the interest of both the parties, as observed by Hon'ble Apex Court at paragraph No. 21 of the judgment in the case of V. Bhagat and Mrs. D. Bhagat, AIR (supra) and at para 12 in the case of Shyam Sunder Kohli versus Sushma Kohli, (supra)."

11. The above authorities have been followed by this Court in "Pradeep Kumar Vs. Smt. Vijay Lakshmi' in 2015 (4) ALJ

667 wherein one of us (Hon'ble Sudhir Agarwal,J.) was a member of the Bench.

12. In Vishnu Dutt Sharma Vs. Manju Sharma, (2009) 6 SCC 379, it was held that under Section 13 of Act 1955 there is no ground of irretrievable breakdown of marriage for granting decree of divorce. Court said that it cannot add such a ground to Section 13, as that would amount to amendment of Act, which is the function of legislature. It also referred to some judgments of Supreme Court in which dissolution of marriage was allowed on the ground of irretrievable breakdown but held that those judgments do not lay down any precedent. Supreme Court very categorically observed as under:-

"If we grant divorce on the ground of irretrievable breakdown, then we shall by judicial verdict be adding a clause to Section 13 of the Act to the effect that irretrievable breakdown of marriage is also a ground for divorce. In our opinion, this can only be done by the legislature and not by the Court. It is for the Parliament to enact or amend the law and not for the Court. Hence, we do not find force in the submission of learned counsel for the appellant."

13. The above view has been followed in Darshan Gupta Vs. Radhika Gupta (2013) 9 SCC 1. Similar view was expressed in "Gurubux Singh Vs. Harminder Kaur' (2010) 14 SCC 301. This Court also has followed the above view in Shailesh Kumari Vs. Amod Kumar Sachan 2016 (115) ALR 689."

21. We would also like to make reference to some old landmark judgments and some latest judgments on the issue involved.

22. Reference may be made to the judgments of Naveen Kohli Vs. Neelu Kohli, AIR 2006 Supreme Court 1675, Samar Ghosh Vs. Jaya Ghosh, 2007 (4) SCC 511, Rajib Kumar Roy Vs. Sushmita Saha, 2023 SCC Online SC 1221, Rakesh Raman Vs. Kavita, AIR 2023 SC 2144 and Prakashchandra Joshi Vs. Kuntal Prakashchandra Joshi alias Kuntal Visanji, 2024 SCC Online SC 68.

23. Relevant paragraphs of Naveen Kohli (supra) are as under:

"78. We have been principally impressed by the consideration that once the marriage has broken down beyond repair, it would be unrealistic for the law not to take notice of that fact, and it would be harmful to society and injurious to the interests of the parties. Where there has been a long period of continuous separation, it may fairly be surmised that the matrimonial bond is beyond repair. The marriage becomes a fiction, though supported by a legal tie. By refusing to sever that tie the law in such cases do not serve the sanctity of marriage; on the contrary, it shows scant regard for the feelings and emotions of the parties.

79. Public interest demands not only that the married status should, as far as possible, as long as possible, and whenever possible, be maintained, but where a marriage has been wrecked beyond the hope of salvage, public interest lies in the recognition of that fact.

80. Since there is no acceptable way in which a spouse can be compelled to resume life with the consort, nothing is gained by trying to keep the parties tied for ever to a marriage that in fact has ceased to exist.

81. Some jurists have also expressed their apprehension for introduction of irretrievable breakdown of marriage as a ground for grant of the decree of divorce. In their opinion, such an amendment in the Act would put human ingenuity at a premium and throw wide open the doors to litigation, and will create more problems then are sought to be solved.

82. The other majority view, which is shared by most jurists, according to the Law Commission Report, is that human life has a short span and situations causing misery cannot be allowed to continue indefinitely. A halt has to be called at some stage. Law cannot turn a blind eye to such situations, nor can it decline to give adequate response to the necessities arising therefrom.

83. When we carefully evaluate the judgment of the High Court and scrutinize its findings in the background of the facts and circumstances of this case, then it becomes obvious that the approach adopted by the High Court in deciding this matter is far from satisfactory.

90. Undoubtedly, it is the obligation of the Court and all concerned that the marriage status should, as far as possible, as long as possible and whenever possible, be maintained, but when the marriage is totally dead, in that event, nothing is gained by trying to keep the parties tied forever to a marriage which in fact has ceased to exist. In the instant case, there has been total disappearance of emotional substratum in the marriage. The course which has been adopted by the High Court would encourage continuous bickering, perpetual bitterness and may lead to immorality.

91. In view of the fact that the parties have been living separately for more than 10 years and a very large number of aforementioned criminal and civil proceedings have been initiated by the respondent against the appellant and some proceedings have been initiated by the appellant against the respondent, the matrimonial bond between the parties is beyond repair. A marriage between the parties is only in name. The marriage has been wrecked beyond the hope of salvage, public interest and interest of all concerned lies in the recognition of the fact and to declare defunct de jure what is already defunct de facto. To keep the sham is obviously conducive to immorality and potentially more prejudicial to the public interest than a dissolution of the marriage bond.

92. The High Court ought to have visualized that preservation of such a marriage is totally unworkable which has ceased to be effective and would be greater source of misery for the parties.

93. The High Court ought to have considered that a human problem can be properly resolved by adopting a human approach. In the instant case, not to grant a decree of divorce would be disastrous for the parties. Otherwise, there may be a ray of hope for the parties that after a passage of time (after obtaining a decree of divorce) the parties may psychologically and emotionally settle down and start a new chapter in life.

94. In our considered view, looking to the peculiar facts of the case, the High Court was not justified in setting aside the order of the Trial Court. In our opinion, wisdom lies in accepting the pragmatic reality of life and take a decision which would ultimately be conducive in the interest of both the parties."

24. Relevant paragraph of Samar Ghosh (supra) is as under:

"101. No uniform standard can ever be laid down for guidance, yet we deem it appropriate to enumerate some instances of human behaviour which may be relevant in dealing with the cases of 'mental cruelty'. The instances indicated in the succeeding paragraphs are only illustrative and not exhaustive.

(i) On consideration of complete matrimonial life of the parties, acute mental pain, agony and suffering as would not make possible for the parties to live with each other could come within the broad parameters of mental cruelty.

(ii) On comprehensive appraisal of the entire matrimonial life of the parties, it becomes abundantly clear that situation is such that the wronged party cannot reasonably be asked to put up with such conduct and continue to live with other party.

(iii) Mere coldness or lack of affection cannot amount to cruelty, frequent rudeness of language, petulance of manner, indifference and neglect may reach such a degree that it makes the married life for the other spouse absolutely intolerable.

(iv) Mental cruelty is a state of mind. The feeling of deep anguish, disappointment, frustration in one spouse caused by the conduct of other for a long time may lead to mental cruelty.

(v) A sustained course of abusive and humiliating treatment calculated to torture, discommode or render miserable life of the spouse.

(vi) Sustained unjustifiable conduct and behaviour of one spouse actually affecting physical and mental health of the other spouse. The treatment complained of and the resultant danger or apprehension must be very grave, substantial and weighty.

(vii) Sustained reprehensible conduct, studied neglect, indifference or total departure from the normal standard of conjugal kindness causing injury to mental health or deriving sadistic pleasure can also amount to mental cruelty.

(viii) The conduct must be much more than jealousy, selfishness, possessiveness, which causes unhappiness and dissatisfaction and emotional upset may not be a ground for grant of divorce on the ground of mental cruelty.

(ix) Mere trivial irritations, quarrels, normal wear and tear of the married life which happens in day to day life would not be adequate for grant of divorce on the ground of mental cruelty.

(x) The married life should be reviewed as a whole and a few isolated instances over a period of years will not amount to cruelty. The ill-conduct must be persistent for a fairly lengthy period, where the relationship has deteriorated to an extent that because of the acts and behaviour of a spouse, the wronged party finds it extremely difficult to live with the other party any longer, may amount to mental cruelty.

(xi) If a husband submits himself for an operation of sterilization without medical reasons and without the consent or knowledge of his wife and similarly if the wife undergoes vasectomy or abortion without medical reason or without the consent or knowledge of her husband, such an act of the spouse may lead to mental cruelty.

(xii) Unilateral decision of refusal to have intercourse for considerable period without there being any physical incapacity or valid reason may amount to mental cruelty.

(xiii) Unilateral decision of either husband or wife after marriage not to have child from the marriage may amount to cruelty.

(xiv) Where there has been a long period of continuous separation, it may fairly be concluded that the matrimonial bond is beyond repair. The marriage becomes a fiction though supported by a legal tie. By refusing to sever that tie, the law in such cases, does not serve the sanctity of marriage; on the contrary, it shows scant regard for the feelings and emotions of the parties. In such like situations, it may lead to mental cruelty."

25. Relevant paragraph of Rajib Roy (supra) is as under:

"7. We have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as the learned counsel for the respondent (wife) at length. Today, the parties are also before us through virtual mode, and we had a chance to interact with both. Considering the entire gamut of facts which are there before us, we have absolutely no doubt in our mind that this is a case of irretrievable breakdown of marriage.

8. The husband and wife have been living separately, the wife is at Udaipur (district Gomati), Tripura and husband at Agartala, Tripura for the last 12 years. Nothing would give us more satisfaction if the two could work out their differences and decide to live together, if only for the sake of their child. But under the circumstances, with the rigid attitude of both the parties, who have failed to appreciate the beauty of compromise, we have been forced to convince ourselves, albeit regrettably, that the two cannot now live together. Twelve years of separation, is a sufficiently long period of time to have sapped all emotions which the two perhaps may have had once for each other. We therefore cannot take the 11 same hopeful view as that of the High Court, which still believes that the matrimonial bond between the two has not ruptured beyond repair or that the two cannot still give a new lease of life to their relation. Frankly, no matter how much we would have liked this to happen but in reality, this is a possibility, which under the facts and circumstances of the case, can only be called wishful.

9. Continued bitterness, dead emotions and long separation, in the given facts and circumstances of a case, can be construed as a case of "irretrievable breakdown of marriage", which is also a facet of "cruelty". In Rakesh Raman v. Kavita reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 497, this is precisely what was held, that though in a given case cruelty as a fault, may not be attributable to one party alone and hence despite irretrievable breakdown of marriage keeping the parties together amounts to cruelty on both sides. Which is precisely the case at hand.

10. Whatever may be the justification for the two living separately, with so much of time gone by, any marital love or affection, which may have been between the parties, seems to have dried up. This is a classic case of irretrievable breakdown of marriage. In view of the Constitution Bench Judgment of this court in Shilpa Sailesh v. Varun Sreenivasan, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 544 which has held that in such cases where there is irretrievable breakdown of marriage then dissolution of marriage is the only solution and this Court can grant a decree of divorce in exercise of its power under Article 142 of the Constitution of India.

11. We therefore declare the marriage to have broken down irretrievably and therefore in exercise of our jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution of India we are of the considered opinion that this being a case of irretrievable breakdown of marriage must now be dissolved by grant of decree of divorce."

26. Paragraph 18 of Rakesh Raman (supra) is as under:

"18. We have a married couple before us who have barely stayed together as a couple for four years and who have now been living separately for the last 25 years. There is no child out of the wedlock. The matrimonial bond is completely broken and is beyond repair. We have no doubt that this relationship must end as its continuation is causing cruelty on both the sides. The long separation and absence of cohabitation and the complete breakdown of all meaningful bonds and the existing bitterness between the two, has to be read as cruelty under Section 13(1) (ia) of the 1955 Act. We therefore hold that in a given case, such as the one at hand, where the marital relationship has broken down irretrievably, where there is a long separation and absence of cohabitation (as in the present case for the last 25 years), with multiple Court cases between the parties; then continuation of such a 'marriage' would only mean giving sanction to cruelty which each is inflicting on the other. We are also conscious of the fact that a dissolution of this marriage would affect only the two parties as there is no child out of the wedlock."

27. Relevant paragraphs of Prakashchandra Joshi (supra) is as under:

"5. The petition proceeded ex parte as, despite due service, the respondent remained unrepresented. After considering the pleadings and evidence, the learned Family Court dismissed the petition of the appellant, inter alia, observing that no case had 4 been made from the alleged cruelty caused to the appellant by the respondent.

6. Being aggrieved with and dissatisfied by the dismissal of the petition by the learned Family Court, the appellant moved a Family Court Appeal before the High Court. The High Court dismissed the appeal by holding that no case has been made out by the appellant for seeking a decree of divorce on the ground of either cruelty or desertion. Hence, this appeal.

7. Considering the facts and circumstances, a short question arises for our consideration as to whether a decree for divorce can be granted for the reason that the marriage has irretrievably broken down.

8. Notice was issued to the sole respondent/wife on 21.01.2022, which was duly served upon the respondent. The respondent once again did not put in appearance either inperson or through an advocate.

12. It is also to be seen that in the proceedings initiated by the appellant for restitution of conjugal rights under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, the respondent did not appear despite receiving the summons. Similarly, in the present divorce proceedings also the respondent failed to enter appearance despite service of notice in the Trial Court, High Court and Supreme Court as well. Thus, it is apparent that the respondent does not wish to continue the marital chord and is 7 not responding to court summons much less the request made by the appellant.

15. Reverting back to the case in hand, to accord satisfaction as to whether the present is a fit case for exercise of power under Article 142 (1) of the Constitution of India to dissolve the marriage on the ground of irretrievable breakdown, we see that the parties are residing separately since February, 2011 and there have been no contact whatsoever between them during this long period of almost 13 years. The respondent-wife is not even responding to the summons issued by the courts. It seems she is no longer interested in continuing the marital 10 relations with the appellant. Therefore, we have no hesitation in holding that the present is a case of irretrievable breakdown of marriage as there is no possibility of the couple staying together."

28. The above discussion would clearly reflect that the ground of irretrievable break down is being consistently recognized for ground of divorce by the Hon'ble Apex Court since long.

29. Even the need of amending the Act by including ground of irretrievable break down for grant of divorce was felt and expressed as back as in the year 2006 by Hon'ble Apex Court in Naveen Kohli (supra).

30. Needless to point out that the case as referred to above clearly reflects that in exercise of power under Article 142 of the Constitution of India, decree of divorce is being consistently granted on the ground of irretrievable break down by the Hon'ble Apex Court.

31. The Apex Court, realising the absence of this ground in the statute, ultimately realised that under such circumstances this amounts to mental cruelty on both parties as continuation of matrimonial ties in normal circumstances, is not possible.

32. Considering the submissions made by learned counsel for the appellant and also the law laid down by the Apex Court as noted above, admittedly, the respondent is staying away from the appellant for six years before divorce petition filed in the year 2015 and despite receipt of the notice, she is not inclined to appear before this Court to defend her case, which shows that she is not interested to live with the appellant and she is not interested to continue the matrimonial life with the appellant and the marriage has become totally unworkable and emotionally dead.

33. Apart from the facts and circumstances of the present case, generally speaking, the Hindu Marriage Act is of the year 1955. Section 13 of the Act provides for grounds of divorce. Needless to point out that several amendments have been carried out in the aforesaid section in the grounds so provided under the section originally. The ground of desertion for a continuous period of not less than two years, immediately preceding the presentation of the petition is also one of the ground. Needless to highlight that this desertion necessarily includes separate living of the husband and wife and therefore, in other words, two years continuous separation, can be taken as a ground for divorce and has been statutorily provided. The law must keep pace with the time. When the Hindu Marriage Act was enacted in the year 1955, the manner in which the marriages were taking place and the sentiments and respect attached to such matrimonial ties were different and the manner in which marriages are taking place in the present days were unheard of in those days. For a fairly long period, the term 'cruelty' came to be interpreted as physical cruelty only but now it is settled that the cruelty need not be physical only but can be mental as well.

34. We, however, have no intention to make an impression that we have anything negative about the same. It is because of education, financial independence, breaking of caste barriers, modernization, effect of western culture. The time is changing and the society is becoming more and more open and individualistic in nature, leading to lesser need of emotional support as well. Whether it is a love marriage or is an arranged marriage, all such factors do affect the relationship between the two. However, needless to say that to every action, there is equal reaction. Easily entered marriages like love marriages are also easily resulting in matrimonial dispute between the two. No matter, who is responsible for the same. The parties are not willing to continue such relationship or atleast one party starts living separately. These facts are clearly emerging from our experience, while dealing with the such disputes. There may be so many reasons for living separately, however, on the other hand, there may be or there are several reasons for opposing the divorce petition as well. Hence, when the parties mutually agree for divorce, petition is filed under Section 13B of the Hindu Marriage Act.

35. In view of this changing time and experience, the Courts cannot remain mute spectators to such ground realities of life. The Courts are answerable to the litigant seeking justice. Needless to say that the law must keep pace with the time.

36. In Naveen Kohli (supra) in the year 2006 itself, Union of India was strongly recommended by the Hon'ble Apex Court to seriously consider bringing an amendment in the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 to incorporate irretrievable breakdown of marriage as a ground for the grant of divorce and copy of the judgment was sent to Secretary, Ministry of Law and Justice, Department of Legal Affairs, Government of India for taking appropriate steps. Paragraph 96 of the aforementioned judgment is as under:

"96. Before we part with this case, on the consideration of the totality of facts, this Court would like to recommend the Union of India to seriously consider bringing an amendment in the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 to incorporate irretrievable breakdown of marriage as a ground for the grant of divorce. A copy of this judgment be sent to the Secretary, Ministry of Law and Justice, Department of Legal Affairs, Government of India for taking appropriate steps."

37. It is known to all concerned with the subject that even after expiry of about 18 years, nothing has been done in this regard. On one hand, the law recognises desertion of a petitioner for a continuous period of not less than two years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition as one of the grounds for grant of divorce, whereas on the other hand, it is not understandable as to why the ground of irretrievable break down is not being recognized as one of the grounds, when the parties are living separately for so many years and in some cases, for decades together.

38. In so many cases, the matrimonial life between the parties is only for the namesake, whereas factually the marriage has become totally unworkable and emotionally dead, even if respondent is insisting upon carrying on with such emotionally dead relationship. It is only for this reason recognizing ground realities of such dead relationship, it is being consistently felt by the Hon'ble Apex Court that continuance of such unworkable matrimonial ties is nothing but mental cruelty on the parties and atleast on the petitioner, even when the divorce petition is being opposed by the other side. To our mind, irretrievable break down is an assessment of circumstances prevailing in lives of the parties to the marriage and if proved, would amount to mental cruelty.

39. Reverting back to the facts of the case and the discussion made hereinabove, we find that the marriage has irretrievably been broken down. Hence, as held by the Apex Court, certainly this case has to be construed as a case of 'mental cruelty' on the appellant as the marriage is totally unworkable and emotionally dead. On that note, divorce can be granted.

40. Accordingly, the judgment, order and decree dated 18.10.2019 passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Moradabad in Case No. 492 of 2015 is set aside. The appeal is allowed.

41. We hereby grant a decree of divorce in favour of the appellant-husband Col. Manoj Kumar Gupta against Smt. Sangeeta, the respondent-wife herein.

42. We direct the Registrar (Compliance) to send a copy of this judgment to Secretary, Ministry of Law and Justice, Department of Legal Affairs, Government of India and Law Commission to consider the matter in view of the observations of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Naveen Kohli (supra) and other judgments.

43. Learned A.S.G.I. is also directed to forward a copy of this judgment to the authorities noted above for serious consideration.

(2024) 3 ILRA 308
APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE VIVEK KUMAR BIRLA, J.

First Appeal No. 1391 of 2023

Km Ankita Devi ...Appellant
Versus
Shri Jagdependra Singh @ Kanhaiya ...Respondent

Counsel for the Appellant:
Sri Vinay Mishra, Sri Mata Achal Mishra

Counsel for the Respondent:

A. Family Law – Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 – Sections 5 (i), (iv) & (v), & 11 – Void marriage – Non-existence of any ground – Effect – Ground of non-performance of Saptapadi ceremony and the registration of marriage, being consequential in nature, was taken by the plaintiff-appellant – Permissibility – Held, appellant-plaintiff herein was working as Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, Manjhanpur, District Kaushambi and she is, thus, a well-educated service class lady holding important post and, therefore, presumably, she must be having sufficient financial means as well. Therefore, it is unbelievable that any kind of fraud or use of force could have been used on her for making signatures for the registration of marriage – Therefore, a bald oral assertion in absence of any cogent evidence cannot be accepted and, therefore, in our opinion, has rightly been rejected by the Family Court. (Para 7 and 12)

B. Family Law – Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 – Ss. 11 and 12 – Void marriage and voidable marriage – Distinction – A void marriage is regarded as non-existent or as never having taken place and such declaration that the marriage is void ab initio can be sought under Section 11 of the Act on the grounds as provided therein whereas a voidable marriage is regarded as valid and subsisting unless a competent Court annuls it until the decree of nullity is obtained in accordance with the Hindu Marriage Act. (Para 11)
Appeal dismissed. (E-1)

List of cases cited :-
1. MAT. APP. (F.C.) 204 of 2023 (Delhi High Court)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.
Hon'ble Donadi Ramesh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mata Achal Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and perused the record.

2. The appellant-plaintiff (wife) has come forward to challenge the impugned judgement and order dated 22.11.2023 passed by the Family Court in Matrimonial Suit No. 272 of 2018 (Km. Ankita Devi vs. Shri Jagdependra Singh @ Kanhaiya), whereby petition filed under Section 11 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 was dismissed.

3. Submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the dismissal of the petition under Section 11 of the Act is patently illegal. He submits that the appellant-plaintiff (wife) had initially filed a Matrimonial Petition No. 272 of 2018 on 10.2.2018 under Section 12 of the Act wherein an amendment application dated 30.3.2019 was filed, which was allowed by the Family Court vide order dated 22.2.2021 on payment of cost and Section 12 of the Hindu Marriage Act (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act') was deleted and in place thereof, Section 11 of the Act was incorporated. It is pointed out that the respondent-husband (defendant) challenged the said order by filing First Appeal No. 649 of 2021 (Jagdeevendra Singh @ Kannahaiya vs. Km. Ankita Devi) before this Court, which was dismissed vide order dated 1.3.2023 and the proceedings of the divorce petition were directed to be decided expeditiously. It is further submitted that thereafter vide order dated 25.5.2023 the matter was directed to be proceeded exparte against the husband, who although appeared before the Court below and filed his written statement but absented himself. The appellant-wife (plaintiff) appeared as PW-1 and examined herself and filed the marriage registration certificate, Allahabad Bank passbook and Aadhar Card of the appellant. It is submitted that she was working as Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, Manjhanpur, District Kaushambi and the marriage was got registered under duress as mother of the appellant-wife was a heart patient and her treatment in AIIMS was required and she was not in a position to get her treated in AIIMS because of financial constraints. It was submitted that therefore the marriage was an outcome of fraud and thus, the impugned judgement is liable to be set aside and the petition filed under Section 11 of the Act is liable to be allowed.

4. It is also submitted that admitted fact of the case is that initially petition was filed before the Family Court under Section 12 of the Act, which was deleted and Section 11 of the Act was incorporated, therefore, any other relief in the facts and circumstances was also liable to be considered and granted. Submission, therefore, is that even by ignoring the grounds of Section 11 of the Act, the relief should have been granted to the appellant-plaintiff herein and the marriage was liable to be declared void.

5. We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant and perused the record.

6. Before proceeding further, it would be appropriate to take notice of Sections 5, 11 and 12 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, which are quoted as under:

"5. Conditions for a Hindu marriage- A marriage may be solemnized between any two Hindus, if the following conditions are fulfilled, namely:-

(i) neither party has a spouse living at the time of the marriage;

(ii) at the time of marriage, neither party-

(a) is incapable of giving a valid consent to it in consequence of unsoundness of mind; or

(b) though capable of giving a valid consent, has been suffering from mental disorder or such a kind or to such an extent as to be unfit for marriage and the procreation of children; or

(c) has been subject to recurrent attacks of insanity;

(iii) the bridegroom has completed the age of twenty-one years and the bride, the age of eighteen years at the time of the marriage;

(iv) the parties are not within the degrees of prohibited relationship, unless the custom or usage governing each of them permits of a marriage between the two;

(v) the parties are not sapindas of each other, unless the custom or usage governing each of them permits of a marriage between the two;

11. Void marriages- Any marriage solemnized after the commencement of this Act shall be null and void any may, on a petition presented by either party thereto, against the other party, be so declared by a decree of nullity if it contravenes any one of the conditions specified in clauses (i), (iv) and (v) of section 5.

12. Voidable marriages- (1) Any marriage solemnized, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be voidable and may be annulled by a decree of nullity on any of the following grounds, namely:-

(a) that the marriage has not been consummated owing to the impotence of the respondent; or

(b) that the marriage is in contravention of the condition specified in clause (ii) of section 5; or

(c) that the consent of the petitioner, or where the consent of the guardian in marriage of the petitioner was required under Section 5, as it stood immediately before the commencement of the Child Marriage Restraint (Amendment) Act, 1978, the consent of such guardian was obtained by force or by fraud as to the nature of the ceremony or as to any material fact or circumstances concerning the respondent; or

(d) that the respondent was at the time of the marriage pregnant by some person other than the petitioner.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), no petition for annulling a marriage-

(a) on the ground specified in clause (c) of sub-section (1), shall be entertained if-

(i) the petition is presented more than one year after the force had ceased to operate or, as the case may be, the fraud had been discovered; or

(ii) the petitioner has, with his or her full consent, lived with the other party to the marriage as husband and wife after the force had ceased to operate or, as the case may be, the fraud had been discovered;

(b) on the ground specified in clause (d) of sub-section (1), shall be entertained unless the Court is satisfied-

(i) that the petitioner was at the time of the marriage ignorant of the facts alleged;

(ii) that the proceedings have been instituted in the case of a marriage solemnized before the commencement of this Act within one year of such commencement and in the case of marriages solemnized after such commencement within one year from the date of the marriage; and

(iii) that marital intercourse with the consent of the petitioner has not taken place since the discovery by the petitioner of the existence of the said ground."

7. We find that the Court below has considered the provisions of Sections 5 and 11 of the Act and found that none of the grounds as given in Section 11 of the Act are existing in the present case and therefore, the petition was dismissed on merits. During course of arguments, on a pointed query, learned counsel for the appellant fairly conceded that no ground as provided in Section 11 of the Act is available in the present case and the petition should have been considered on the other grounds and also on the grounds as available in Section 12 of the Act. It was pointed out that the ceremony of Saptapadi (Sat Fera) was not performed and no marriage ceremony had taken place, therefore, the marriage was not valid and therefore, registration of marriage was inconsequential in nature.

8. On perusal of the record, we find that in the written statement, it has been categorically stated by the respondent-husband that the marriage had taken place in a simple ceremony on 14.2.2017 and thereafter the marriage was got registered on 25.3.2017 by appellant herself appearing and admitting factum of marriage before the Sub Registrar, Kanpur Nagar as stated in para 18 of the written statement, therefore, there is no question of any fraud having been played by the respondent-husband. In paragraph 23 of the written statement, it has been categorically stated that as the petition under Section 12 of the Act should have been filed within a year after the knowledge of the alleged fraud, which is not available in the present case. Therefore, it appears that for this reason, subsequently an amendment application for changing the provision from Section 12 of the Act to Section 11 of the Act had been filed, which was allowed. Therefore, changing the provision of law under which the petition was filed before the Family Court was clearly a conscious decision of the appellant herself. During course of arguments, learned counsel for the appellant has admitted that none of the grounds as available in Section 11 of the Act are made out, therefore, we find that the argument of learned counsel for the appellant that even though the provisions of Section 12 of the Act has been changed to Section 11 of the Act, petition should have been considered as per the provisions of Section 12 of the Act, is patently misconceived. We find that ultimately no fruitful purpose would be served by keeping this litigation pending in view of the admitted legal position. A bare reading of Sections 5, 11 and 12 as quoted above would clearly disclose that the grounds of Section 12 of the Act are different from the grounds as given in Section 11 of the Act and therefore, specific assertion as made in the petition must have been proved by the appellant (plaintiff), which she failed to prove.

9. In the present case, it is being asserted by the appellant-plaintiff that she met the respondent-defendant in an office and thereafter he along with so-called mother (Ex. Cadre Minister, Revenue Adviser) used to visit the house of the appellant-plaintiff. The mother of the appellant-plaintiff was a heart patient and she needed money for her treatment. The respondent-defendant persuaded her for her treatment at AIIMS, New Delhi and kept the proposal of marriage, which was not accepted by her, however, she was influenced to go to Kanpur from Agra and the respondent-defendant prepared some documents for registration of marriage by misleading, however, he persuaded her to make signature and so that the marriage can be performed subsequently. It is further asserted that under such compelling circumstances, when treatment of her mother was required, she made signatures for solemnization of marriage with the respondent-defendant. Therefore, the claim of the appellant-plaintiff is that a fraud was played by respondent-defendant (husband) and hence, she filed a petition under Section 12 of the Hindu Marriage Act wherein admittedly, the provision was got amended on her own application from Section 12 to Section 11 of the Act.

10. The Delhi High Court in MAT. APP. (F.C.) 204 of 2023 (wherein names of the parties have not been given) filed for annulment of marriage on the ground of fraud under Section 12 (1)(c) of the Hindu Marriage Act considered the various aspects of the matter and noticed that the term "fraud" has not been defined in the Act and observed that 'not every kind of misrepresentation or concealment of fact' can be termed as "fraud" as envisaged under Section 12 of the Act. Several judgements of other High Courts have also been considered, paragraphs 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 whereof are quoted as under:

12. The term "fraud" has not been defined in the Act. Under the Hindu Marriage Act not every kind of misrepresentation or concealment of fact can be termed as fraud as envisaged under Section 12 of the Act. Clause 'c' of Section 12(1) of HMJ thus provides that the marriage may be annulled by a decree of nullity if:

(i) the consent of the petitioner is obtained by force or by fraud;

(ii)such force or fraud must be to "the nature of the ceremony" or as to "any material fact or circumstance concerning the respondent".

13. Mulla, in Principles of Hindu law, 11th Edition, deals with this aspect at page 739 and observes that by way of illustration, the concealment of a fact that the wife had been in a "naikin" by profession and even in the keeping of more than one person prior to the marriage was not a fraud if there was consent to the marriage. So long as the person "freely consents" to solemnization of the marriage in accordance with customary ceremonies, understanding the nature and having an intention to marry, objection as to the validity of marriage on the ground of fraudulent representation or concealment cannot be taken subsequently. The marriage cannot be avoided by showing that the petitioner was induced to marriage by fraudulent statements relating to family or fortune, caste or religion or age or character of the respondent. Where, however, a party is kept under the impression that what is being performed is only a betrothal or there is a deception as to the identity of the other person, then it would amount to fraud giving a cause for annulment of marriage.

14. In Anath Nath De vs. Smt. Lajjabati Devi, AIR 1959 Cal. 778, the Calcutta High Court explained that the question of consent of the parties to the marriage arise at two stages ; firstly at the time when the parties consent to solemnize the marriage and secondly, at the time when the marriage itself is solemnized. The Hindu Marriage not being a contract, the consent at the first stage though obtained by fraud, cannot affect the validity of the marriage. The consent at the time of solemnization of marriage is the material consent and if it is obtained by fraud, it affects the validity of the marriage.

15. Similar view was expressed by Punjab & Haryana High Court in the case of Harbhajan Singh vs. Smt. Briji Balab, AIR 1964 Punjab 339, wherein it was further observed that in case of a marriage under Hindu law fraud is not used in a general way and the marriage cannot be dissolved by on every misrepresentation or concealment. If the term "fraud" was to be interpreted in accordance with Indian Contract Act, then it would become impossible to maintain the sanctity of marriage. By way of illustration, it was stated that if a respondent is a person of Bad Character before the solemnization of marriage, it cannot be termed as a fraud. The legislature did not intent that the past conduct of the respondent except what is mentioned in Section 12 of the HMA, should become a ground for dissolution of marriage.

16. Similarly, Bombay High Court in Raghunath vs. Vijaya, AIR 1972 Bom. 132 observed that term „fraud" used in Section 12(1)(c) of the HMA does not speak of fraud in any general way, nor does it mean every concealment or misrepresentation may be considered as fraudulent. If the consent is given to the solemnization of marriage, the same cannot be avoided on the ground of fraud.

17. In Sujatha vs. Hariharan, 1995 (II) M.L.J 327 DB of Madras High Court observed that to constitute a "fraud" under Section 12(1)(c) of the HMA there must be an abuse of confidential position, some intentional imposition or some deliberate concealment of material facts which are the fundamental basis of the marriage contract.

18. The meaning of material fact or circumstances concerning the respondent was examined in the case of Pradeep s/o Namdeorao Ambhore vs. Pallavi Pradeep Ambhore 2017 (6) Mh.L.J., where the moot question was whether the concealment of the wife suffering from sickle cell anemia, amounted to material fact or circumstance. It was observed that while it is difficult to define with certainty what amounts to a material fact, it is safe to say that a fact or circumstance which is of such a nature that was likely to interfere with the marital life of the parties, then it is material fact or circumstance. Such a material fact or circumstance must be in respect of a person or the character of the person and it is immaterial whether it is curable or not. Further, a fact crucial to the extent that if disclosed would result in either of the parties not consenting to the marriage, would also be termed as a material fact."

11. In our opinion, the Family Court, under such circumstances, ultimately after change of provision from Section 12 of the Act to Section 11 of the Act, has rightly proceeded to consider the grounds of declaration of marriage as void as provided in Section 11 of the Act in the light of Section 5 (i), (iv) and (v) of the Act. It cannot be disputed that there is a difference between void marriage and voidable marriage. Needless to point out that a void marriage is regarded as non-existent or as never having taken place and such declaration that the marriage is void ab initio can be sought under Section 11 of the Act on the grounds as provided therein whereas a voidable marriage is regarded as valid and subsisting unless a competent Court annuls it until the decree of nullity is obtained in accordance with the Hindu Marriage Act. Unless the decree is granted, the lis remains binding and continues to subsist. The marriage performed in contravention of Clauses (i), (iv) and (v) of Section 5 of the Act is void and incapable of being cured or ratified whereas in a case of voidable marriage, a declaration is necessary, otherwise the marriage continues to remain is regarded as marriage and continues to subsist.

12. In the present case, we have noticed the fact that the appellant-plaintiff herein was working as Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, Manjhanpur, District Kaushambi and she is, thus, a well-educated service class lady holding important post and, therefore, presumably, she must be having sufficient financial means as well. Therefore, it is unbelievable that any kind of fraud or use of force could have been used on her for making signatures for the registration of marriage and that too when signatures were admittedly made by her and are reflected from the certificate of registration of marriage at page 25 of the paper book. Therefore, a bald oral assertion in absence of any cogent evidence cannot be accepted and, therefore, in our opinion, has rightly been rejected by the Family Court. The Family Court has also rightly taken into account Section 8 of the Act, which provides for registration of marriages. The certificate of registration duly signed by the appellant herein clearly carries a declaration that marriage was solemnized on 14.2.2017 at Kamleshwaram Guest House, Chhapeda Pulia, Kakadev, Kanpur, Kanpur Nagar, Uttar Pradesh. There is no reason to disbelieve this documentary evidence of marriage and clear-cut declaration therein. In this background, even though no final finding is being recorded but we have reservation if the petition even if filed under Section 12 of the Act could have succeeded.

13. In such view of the matter, we do not find any legal infirmity in the order impugned herein. As only legal question about availability of grounds under Section 11 is involved, which, as conceded by the learned counsel for the appellant are not available, therefore, we are not inclined to admit the present appeal.

14. Therefore, we do not find an merit in the present appeal and no fruitful purpose would be served by admitting the appeal or even keeping this appeal pending.

15. Present appeal is, accordingly, dismissed at the admission stage itself.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Second Appeal No. 1623 of 1992

Mahesh Chand ...Appellant
Versus
Brijesh Kumar & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Mr. Kunal Shah, Advocate

Counsel for the Respondents:
Mr. Ravi Kant, Sr. Advocate assisted by Mr. I.N. Singh, Mr. Gajendra Pratap, Sr. Advocate assisted by Mr. Abhishek Kumar, Advocate

A. Civil Law – Civil Procedure Code, 1908 – Section 100 – Substantial question of law

– UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – S. 229-B – Non concurrent finding – Suit for ejectment, recovery of arrears of rent and mesne profits – Suit property was earlier situated in a Gram Sabha, but subsequently included within the local limits of the town area – Applicability of Act of 1950 – Held, the provisions of the Act of 1950 would apply to agricultural land located in an area that has fallen within the limits of a town area upon extension of its boundaries after the date of vesting; more specifically, after 07.07.1949. (Para 31 and 32)

B. Civil Law – UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – Ss. 3(14) and 143 – Land was let out for running a petrol pump, a non-agricultural activity – Applicability of Act of 1950 – Consequence of declaration u/s 143 – Held, a declaration under Section 143(1) does not place the land, otherwise governed by the Act of 1950, completely out of its regime. It continues to be governed by the provisions of the Act of 1950 except that the provisions of Chapter VIII of the said Act become inapplicable in relation thereto – Its devolution is then governed by personal laws and not the Act of 1950. (Para 50 and 51)

C. Civil Law – UP Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – S. 143 – No declaration of suit property u/s 143 could be made – Effect – How far, Civil Court has jurisdiction – Held, we endorse the Lower Appellate Court's opinion that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit for eviction. A fortiori, it had to be filed before the Revenue Court of competent jurisdiction as Chapter VIII of the Act of 1950 would apply – High Court directed return of the plaint to the plaintiff for presentation to the Court of competent jurisdiction under Order VII Rule 10 of the Code. (Para 60, 61 and 68)
Appeal allowed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is a plaintiff's second appeal. It arises out of a suit for eviction, recovery of arrears of rent and mesne profits.

2. The plaintiff's suit aforesaid, being O.S. No.250 of 1974 was decreed by the Trial Court for eviction, recovery of arrears of rent from 01.07.1972 to 15.05.1974 and mesne profits from the date of determination of tenancy at the rate of Rs.10/- per day.

3. The defendant-respondent appealed to the District Judge of Bulandshahr from the Trial Court's decree, which was numbered as Civil Appeal No.409 of 1981. The plaintiff filed a separate appeal from the Trial Court's decree, seeking enhancement of the mesne profits awarded. This appeal was numbered as Civil Appeal No.20 of 1982. Both the appeals were consolidated, heard together and decided by a common judgment, but separate decrees passed by the learned Special Judge/ Additional District Judge, Bulandshahr dated 27.07.1992. The defendant's appeal was allowed whereas that by the plaintiff dismissed.

4. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed in Civil Appeal No.409 of 1981, the present second appeal has been preferred. The plaintiff appealed to this Court from the judgment and decree passed in Civil Appeal No.20 of 1982 as well, which was dismissed in default by an order dated 24.08.2011. Until time that this appeal was heard by this Court, none of the parties said that the plaintiff's appeal, bearing No.1694 of 1992 had been restored to file. The present appeal alone was, therefore, heard.

5. The facts giving rise to this appeal are:

Mahesh Chandra and Ramesh Chandra, two brothers instituted Original Suit No.250 of 1974 against Shyam Sundar Sharma with a case that they are owners of a part of Plot Nos.2135 and 2136, admeasuring 0-16-6 and 0-8-2 respectively, that abut the wall of the police station on the Jewar side, situate at Jewar, within the limits of the Town Area Jewar, District Bulandshahr (it now falls in District Gautam Buddh Nagar). On the 1st of January, 1970, Mahesh Chandra and Ramesh Chandra, the plaintiff-appellants (for short, 'the plaintiffs') granted lease of a part out of their holdings in Plot Nos.2135 and 2136 in favour of Shyam Sundar Sharma, admeasuring 100' along the road and about 100' on the western side, abutting the wall of Police Station Jewar. The demise was made on a rent of Rs.150/- per month for the purpose of enabling Shyam Sundar Sharma to establish and carry on the business of his petrol retail outlet, being an agency of the Indian Oil Corporation. A rent note dated 31.07.1970 was executed between parties and presented for registration on the same day. It was registered on 08.09.1970 as Document No.2740 in Book No.1, Volume 832 at Pages 62-67 by the Sub-Registrar. Something described as a 'hand note', carrying a map of the plot let out to Shyam Sundar Sharma, also signed by him, was duly executed by parties.

6. Shyam Sundar Sharma died pending suit and was substituted by his heirs and LRs, to wit, Smt. Nirmala Devi, his widow, Brijesh Kumar, a minor aged 3 years and Rajesh Kumar, a minor aged one year, both sons of Shyam Sundar Sharma through their next friend Jayanti Prasad Sharma, their grandfather. These LRs continued to represent the interest of the late Shyam Sundar Sharma in the suit and in appeal before the Lower Appellate Court. Here also, all the three heirs and LRs were made parties, but at a subsequent stage, under orders of this Court dated 06.01.2004, the name of Smt. Nirmla Devi, Shyam Sundar Sharma's widow was deleted and in this appeal, Shyam Sundar Sharma's interest is represented by Brijesh Kumar and Rajesh Kumar, his sons. Hereinafter, the original defendant Shyam Sundar Sharma, represented by his heirs and LRs Brijesh Kumar and Rajesh Kumar, shall be referred to as 'the defendant'. The Indian Oil Corporation was impleaded in the suit as defendant No.2 and to this appeal as defendant-respondent No.2. No relief has been claimed against the Indian Oil Corporation and they are admittedly what is called a proforma defendant.

7. To revert to facts, it is the plaintiffs' case that the defendant fell in arrears of rent w.e.f. 01.07.1972. This led the plaintiffs to serve a notice dated 08.04.1974 upon the defendant to quit and pay arrears of rent. By the said notice, the defendant's tenancy was determined and he was asked to deliver vacant possession of the suit property on 15.04.1974. It is the plaintiffs' further case that the defendant is in arrears of rent from 01.07.1972 to 15.05.1974, that worked out to a figure of Rs.3375/-. It is pleaded that the suit property can easily fetch a sum of Rs.25/- per day in damages for use and occupation and the plaintiffs have been deprived of the said damages, amounting to Rs.325/-. The cause of action was said to arise on everyday that the defendant remained in possession of the suit property after the period of notice expired on 16.05.1974. A decree for ejectment against the defendant and also against the proforma defendant, if they object, was claimed, besides one for recovery of a sum of Rs.3375/- as mesne profits at the rate of Rs.25/- per day with pendente lite and future interest. A further decree for mesne profits was sought pending suit until delivery of possession to the plaintiffs at the rate of Rs.25/- day, upon payment of court-fees in the Execution Department.

8. The defendant filed a written statement generally denying the plaint allegations. In the additional pleas, the defendant came up with a case that the plaintiffs were not the exclusive owners of Plot Nos.1235/1 and 1236/2. These plots were held in the share of one-third each by the plaintiffs, one Fakira and another Krishna. The plaintiffs, representing themselves to be the exclusive owners, demised the suit property for a year, executing the registered rent note. The plaintiffs have realized from the defendant rent up to 30.06.1973. It is the defendant's case that the two other co-owners Fakira and Krishna insisted that the plaintiffs alone did not have right to let out the suit property nor do they have the exclusive right to realize rent. After the said insistence by Fakira and Krishna, it was decided amongst the three of them, to wit, the defendant, Fakira and Krishna that the defendant would pay rent to Fakira and Krishna and none of it would be paid to the plaintiffs until such time that their share of the rent was evenly received with the plaintiffs. The defendant paid rent from 01.07.1972 to 30.06.1973 to Fakira and secured a receipt. Likewise, the defendant paid rent from 01.07.1973 to February, 1974 to Krishna and obtained a receipt thereof from him as well. Later on, Krishna and Fakira executed sale deeds of their share in the two plots in favour of the defendant on 16.03.1974 and 26.03.1974, respectively. The defendant is, in consequence, the owner of a two-third share in the suit property. The suit property and the remainder part of the two plots in question is a bhumidhari, which has not yet been partitioned by any Court. The defendant's petrol pump is located in a one-third part of the land comprising the two plots, but the plaintiffs are beneficially holding more than a one-third share therein. Therefore, the plaintiffs have no right to claim anything against the defendant, including rent or mesne profits. In addition, the defendant is co-sharer and in possession in his own right. He is not the tenant. The notice to quit etc. served upon the defendant is against the law and it has been already answered detailing correct facts. There cannot be any determination of the defendant's tenancy since he is not a tenant. He is co-sharer. The plaintiffs are not entitled to any mesne profits. The rent note is against the law and, therefore, it does not entitle the plaintiffs to recover any damages etc. Through an amended plea carried in Paragraph No.16-A of the written statement, introduced vide order dated 15.02.1986, it is pleaded that since the rent note is illegal and void under Section 156 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, the defendant by virtue of Section 165 of the Act last mentioned has acquired sirdari rights, and, later on, a bhumidhari, because combining the area of the suit property to that already available with him and his family members, the total does not exceed twelve and a half acres. The defendant is, therefore, not liable to eviction. The further plea raised is that no cause of action has arisen to the plaintiff to institute the present suit, which is not maintainable. The plaintiffs have no right to sue. The Civil Court has no jurisdiction to try the suit. The suit is also pleaded to be barred by estoppel and acquiescence.

9. Upon the pleadings of parties, the following issues were struck:

"(1) Whether the defendant No.1 took the land in suit from the plaintiff on a rent of Rs.150/- per mensum on 1.1.70?

(2) Whether a sum of Rs.3375/- on account of arrears of rent for the period from 1.7.72 to 15.5.74 was due against the defendant no.1?

(3) Whether the defendant no.1 has purchased 2/3rd share of other co-sharers of the plaintiff in the land in suit. If so, its effect?

(4) Whether the court has no jurisdiction to try the suit?

(5) Whether the tenancy of the defendant was illegal?

(6) Whether the plaintiffs have got no right to sue?

(7) Whether the suit is barred by principles of waiver, estoppel and acquiescence?

(8) Whether the defendant is estopped from denying the title of the plaintiff?

(9) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to recover any mesne profits? If so, its amount?

(10) Whether the notice to quit is invalid?

(11) Whether the suit as framed is not maintainable?

(12) Whether the relationship of the landlord and tenant subsisted between the parties after the expiry the period of lease stipulated in the original lease deed?

(13) To what relief if any, the plaintiff entitled?"

10. The plaintiffs, in support of their case, examined Mahesh Chand as PW-1, Shaukat Ali, PW-2 and a Handwriting Expert, who testified as PW-3.

11. The defendant examined Jayanti Prasad, DW-1, Shankar Lal, DW-2, Prabhu Dayal, DW-3 and B.S. Chaudhary, Handwriting Expert, DW-4. Documentary evidence was also produced by both parties. So much of this evidence, documentary or oral, would alone be referred to as relevant to the substantial questions of law, that fall for consideration in this appeal.

12. The Trial Court answered Issue No.1 in the plaintiffs' favour and against the defendant, after the defendant admitted in his statement under Order X Rule 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (for short, 'the Code') that he had been demised the suit property on a monthly rent of Rs.150/-, in terms of the rent note executed in the defendant's favour.

13. Issue Nos.2 and 3 were decided together. The learned Trial Judge held that on a perusal of the judgment passed by the Assistant Collector, Bulandshahr dated 06.10.1970 in a suit titled, Chhiddan v. Missi, it is evident that co-sharer Krishna had a share of 1/24 in the suit property, which Krishna sold to a man called Ram Chandra on 11.11.1963. The relative sale deed was noticed to be on record, bearing Paper No.64-A. This document was produced by the plaintiffs. Ram Chandra's name was mutated in the revenue records on the basis of the sale deed, Paper No.64-A, and to this end, Khatauni for the year 1371 fasli, bearing Paper No.118-C has been taken note of. It was, therefore, concluded that Krishna had no share in the suit property, which he could transfer to the defendant by way of sale. So far as the other co-sharer Fakira is concerned, the plaintiffs' case was that they had purchased Fakira's share. In support, the plaintiffs produced a sale deed dated 09.07.1965. This sale deed was executed much earlier than the sale deed said to be executed in the defendant's favour by Fakira. It was, therefore, concluded by the learned Trial Judge that Fakira had nothing to transfer in the defendant's favour as his share in the suit property. The Trial Court has also remarked that if for some reason, Fakira's name had continued to be recorded in the revenue records, the inference cannot be that Fakira continued to be owner of his share, which he could again transfer to another. The Trial Court has also noticed Paper No.65-C, a Khatauni, which shows that on 10.07.1974, the revenue record, that was inaccurate about mentioning Fakira's name, too was corrected. The learned Trial Judge has also remarked that neither Fakira nor Krishna were produced by the defendant in the witness box, depriving the plaintiffs of the opportunity of cross-examining them about their right to transfer. The case, therefore, set up by the defendant that from 01.07.1972 to 30.06.1973, he paid rent to Fakira and from 01.03.1973 to February, 1974 to Krishna, regarding which he had produced rent receipts, is of no consequence. The defendant's case that there was an agreement between him, Fakira and Krishna, when those two had obstructed the use of the suit property, to pay them rent, was discarded by the Trial Court, because no document to establish the fact could be produced by the defendant. To the contrary, the lease deed executed by the plaintiffs was a registered document and according to it, the defendant was obliged to pay the plaintiffs due rent. It was also observed by the Trial Court that if there had to be any change of the terms of tenancy, it had to be done through a registered instrument. Thus, Issue No.2 was answered in the manner that the defendant was in arrears of rent payable to the plaintiffs for the period 01.07.1972 to 15.05.1974 to the tune of Rs.3375/-. Issue No.3 was answered in the manner that the defendant was not a co-sharer with the plaintiffs to the extent of a two-third share in the suit property.

14. Issue No.4 was decided against the defendant as a preliminary on 14.05.1976, holding that the Civil Court had jurisdiction. The said issue appears to have been re-agitated when the suit was finally heard, but the Trial Court did not disturb the earlier determination of the issue with the remark that there was no such change in circumstances, warranting a review of the finding on Issue No.4.

15. In deciding Issue No.5, the Trial Court reasoned that the suit property was not leased out for agricultural purposes. The documentary evidence showed that the suit property was situate in Town Area Jewar within the local limits of Nagar Palika. It has been declared to be an abadi. In the circumstances, it was opined that on the execution and registration of the lease deed, there has been no violation of the law and the defendant's tenancy was not unlawful.

16. Issue No.7 was decided in the plaintiffs' favour and against the defendant holding that the suit was not barred by estoppel or acquiescence.

17. Issues Nos.6, 8 and 11 were dealt with together, where Issue No.6 was answered in the negative and in the plaintiffs' favour, holding that looking to the terms of the lease deed, it could not be said that the plaintiffs had no right to institute the suit. Issue No.8 was decided in the affirmative and in the plaintiffs' favour, holding that going by the terms of the lease deed, there was relationship of ‘landlord’ and ‘tenant’ between the plaintiffs and the defendant, on account of which he could not deny the plaintiffs' title. Issue No.11 was decided in the negative holding the suit maintainable.

18. Issue No.10 was also decided in the negative and in the plaintiffs' favour holding that the notice to quit was valid. The next that was determined by the Trial Court was Issue No.12. This issue was answered again in the plaintiffs' favour, holding that there was relationship of landlord and tenant, post expiry of the term of the lease. Issue No.13 was also answered in the plaintiffs' favour and against the defendant, which was an issue about the relief to which the plaintiffs were entitled.

19. The suit was decreed with costs for eviction and recovery of rent from 01.07.1972 to 15.05.1974, being a sum of Rs.3375/-. The said decree of the Trial Court was passed on 30.11.1981. It was further decreed that post determination of the lease, the plaintiffs would be entitled to mesne profits at the rate of Rs.10/- per day.

20. The Trial Court's decree was appealed by the defendant to the District Judge of Bulandshahr. The defendant's appeal was registered on the file of the District Judge as Civil Appeal No.409 of 1981. The appeal aforesaid came up for hearing before the learned Special Judge/ Additional District Judge, Bulandshahr on 27th July, 1992, when it was allowed, the decree of the Trial Court reversed and the plaintiffs' suit for ejectment, recovery of arrears of rent and mesne profits dismissed.

21. Aggrieved, the present second appeal has been preferred by the plaintiffs.

22. This appeal was admitted to hearing on 04.12.1992. The substantial questions of law involved were those carried in Ground Nos.1 to 9. No substantial questions of law were formulated by the Court. When this matter came up before this Court for hearing on 20.02.2020, the following substantial questions of law were formulated:

"1. Whether the provisions of U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act, 1950 would apply to the (sic) land let out for non agricultural purposes?

2. Whether the provisions of U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act, 1950 would apply to the (sic) agricultural land located in an area that has fallen within the limits of a town area upon extension of boundaries after the date of vesting?

3. Whether the land situate in an urban area utilized for to (sic) a non agricultural purposes would still be deemed to an agricultural land in the absence of a declaration under Section 143 U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act?

4. Whether a tenant is estopped from disputing the nature of the land demised after utilizing the same for non agricultural purposes?

5. Whether the provisions of Section 165 U.P.Z.A.&L.R. Act would be attracted either in its amended form or un-amended, to land that has been found to be utilized for non agricultural purposes post letting?"

23. Heard Mr. Kunal Shah, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs, Mr. Ravi Kant, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. I.N. Singh and Mr. Gajendra Pratap, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Abhishek Kumar, learned Counsel appearing for the defendant.

24. It would be convenient in the logical sequence of things to answer substantial questions breaking seriatim and determining the questions in an order that eschews examining matters, without going into which the appeal can still be effectively decided.

25. This Court proposes to examine Substantial Question of Law No.2 for a first.

26. It was urged on behalf of the plaintiffs on the second substantial question that the suit property falls within the Town Area Jewar and the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (for short, 'the Act of 1950') do not apply to it at all. It is pointed out that in Paragraph No.1 of the plaint, it is pleaded that the suit property is located within the town area aforesaid. The remark in the judgment of the Lower Appellate Court that Chapter VIII of the Act of 1950 applies to land falling within a town area is erroneous. The remark of the Lower Appellate Court is said to be erroneous because under the provisions of Section 64 of the U.P. Urban Areas Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1956 (for short, 'the Act of 1956'), a land falling within the limits of a town area becomes amenable to the Act of 1950 if the land is an agricultural area, acquired and notified as such by the State Government. The term 'agricultural area' has been defined under Section 2(1) of the Act of 1956. It is said that a perusal of the provisions of the Act of 1956 shows that facts are to be proved for showing an area to be an agricultural area within the limits ZamindariZamindariZamindarizamindariz amindariZamindarizamindarizamindariZa mindariZamindarizamindariZamindari of a town by virtue of the Act of 1956. It is pointed out on behalf of the plaintiffs that the defendant in his written statement has not alleged that the suit property was ever included in an agricultural area under the Act of 1956, to which a fortiori the provisions of the Act of 1950 became applicable under Section 64 of the Act of 1956. There was much contention on behalf of the plaintiffs as to the manner of notification and demarcation of agricultural area under the Act of 1956, within the limits of a town, in order to make it amenable to the Act of 1950.

27. The learned Counsel appearing for the defendant, Mr. Ravi Kant submitted that it is not the position of the law that if agricultural land is included within the limits of a municipality or town area, it is ipso facto excluded from the purview of the Act of 1950. It is argued by the learned Senior Advocate that under Section 1(2) of the Act of 1950, any area which is included within the limits of a municipality or a town area on 07.07.1949, is excluded from the operation of the last mentioned Act. It is emphasized that the date of vesting under the Act of 1950, which is 01.07.1952, has no relevance to the applicability of the said Act to land located within the local limits of a town area or municipality. It is, particularly, emphasized that there is no pleading on behalf of the plaintiffs that the suit property was included in the town area on or before 07.07.1949. There is no evidence produced by the plaintiffs either that it was so included, on or before the date aforesaid. It is, therefore, submitted that the provisions of the Act of 1950 would continue to apply to the suit property. It is further on submitted that it is the plaintiffs' admission in their dock evidence that the suit property is bhumidhari. The learned Senior Advocate for the defendant has drawn this Court's attention to the following testimony of the plaintiff recorded on 10.04.1979, when he appeared in the dock as PW-1:

"…..... इन खेतों पर काश्तकारी 1968-1969 से नहीं हो रही है। इन खेतों के बावत गजट नही दाखिल किया है। यह खेत भूमिधरी के थे। अब 2-3 साल से भूमिधरी नही हैं।"

28. It is also pointed that the plaintiff further said in his testimony on 21.07.1987:

"…..... यह बात सही है और अब भी विवादित जमीन को खेतिहर जमीन ही मानता हूँ। .....विवादित भूमि से पश्चिम व दक्षिण तरफ जो भूमि है उसकी बेदखली का मुकदमा माल की अदालत में किया है जिसका खसरा नम्बर 2135 व 2136 है। और विवादित जमीन का भी नम्बर 2135 व 2136 है।"

29. It is argued that the suit property is, therefore, bhumidhari as the fact is admitted to the plaintiffs. It is urged that admission is the best piece of evidence unless it is withdrawn or proved erroneous. In support of this contention of his, the learned Senior Advocate has placed reliance upon the authority of the Supreme Court in Narayan Bhagwantrao Gosavi Balajiwale v. Gopal Vinayak Gosavi, AIR 1960 SC 100. The learned Senior Advocate for the defendant, in particular, drew the attention of the Court to the following remarks in Narayan Bhagwantrao Gosavi Balajiwale (supra):

"11. In the present case, the burden of proof need not detain us for another reason. It has been proved that the appellant and his predecessors in the title which he claims, had admitted on numerous occasions that the public had a right to worship the deity, and that the properties were held as Devasthan inams. To the same effect are the records of the revenue authorities, where these grants have been described as Devasthan, except in a few cases, to which reference will be made subsequently. In view of all these admissions and the revenue records, it was necessary for the appellant to prove that the admissions were erroneous, and did not bind him. An admission is the best evidence that an opposing party can rely upon, and though not conclusive, is decisive of the matter, unless successfully withdrawn or proved erroneous. We shall now examine these admissions in brief and the extent to which they went and the number of times they were repeated."

30. We do not think that admission on a question, such as the one present, can be of much use to the other side, because it is essentially a matter of the law, going by the date of inclusion of the suit property within the town area if the Act of 1950 would apply to it. There is on record a copy of the notification issued under Section 3 of the U.P. Town Areas Act, 1914, which shows that a portion of the Gaon Sabha Jewar, which includes the suit property, came to be notified and included within the town area with effect from the said date. Section 1 of the Act of 1950 reads:

"1. Short title, extent and commencement.- (1) This Act may be called the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950.

(2) It extends to the whole of the Uttar Pradesh except the areas which, on the 7th day of July, 1949, were included in a municipality or a notified area under the provisions of the United Provinces Municipalities Act, 1916 or a Cantonment under the provisions of the Cantonment Act, 1924 or a town area under the provisions of the United Provinces Town Areas Act, 1914:

Provided that in relation to areas included in the Rampur Municipality, this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words and figures '7th day of July, 1949' the words and figures '3lst day of July, 1949', were substituted therein:

Provided further that where any area which on July 7, 1949 was included in a Municipality, Notified Area, Cantonment or Town Area, cease to be so included therein at any time after that date and no notification has been made in respect thereof under Section 8 of the Uttar Pradesh Urban Areas Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1956-

(i) in case it has ceased to be so included at any time before June 29, 1971, this Act shall extend to such area from June 29, 1971; and

(ii) in any other case, this Act shall extend to such area from the date on which the area ceases to be so included.

(3) It shall come into force at once except in the areas mentioned in Clauses (a) to (f) of sub-section (1) of Section 2 where it shall, subject to any exception or modification under sub-section (1) of Section 2, come into force on such date as the State Government may by notification in the Gazette appoint and different dates may be appointed for different areas and different provisions of this Act."

(emphasis by Court)

31. A perusal of the said provision makes it explicit that the Act of 1950 applies to the whole of Uttar Pradesh, save for areas which on the 7th day of July, 1949 were included in a municipality, a notified area, a cantonment or a town area under the specified statutes. It is, therefore, trite to say that the date for the purpose of excluding an area from the operation of the Act on account of that area being situate within the local limits of a municipality or a town area etc. is quite distinct and different from the date of vesting to be notified under Section 4 of the Act of 1950 by the State Government and published under Section 5 thereof. The date of vesting is 01.07.1952 and the relevant date for any area to be excluded from the operation of the Act on account of it being included in the local limits of a municipality, town area etc. is 07.07.1949. Here, admittedly, the area which includes the suit property was a part of Gaon Sabha Jewar on 07.07.1949 and came to be included in the Town Area Jewar by a notification, as already mentioned, issued under Section 3 of the Uttar Pradesh Town Areas Act, 1914 w.e.f. 31.12.1956. For the said reason, the Act of 1950 would continue to apply to the suit property, notwithstanding its inclusion within the local limits of the town area.

32. This question is answered in the terms that the provisions of the Act of 1950 would apply to agricultural land located in an area that has fallen within the limits of a town area upon extension of its boundaries after the date of vesting; more specifically, after 07.07.1949.

33. This would take us to answering Substantial Question of Law No.1. This question is cast in the terms, whether the provisions of the Act of 1950 would apply to land let out for non-agricultural purposes.

34. It would be convenient to answer Substantial Question of Law No.1 together with Substantial Question of Law No.3 because the issue, subject matter of these questions, is overlapping, if not the same.

35. Mr. Kunal Shah, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs submits that the provisions of the Act of 1950, in particular, Chapter VIII of the said Act, stand excluded in their application to such land, which was let out and is being used for purposes not connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry etc. He has drawn the Court's attention to the definition of land in Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950, which reads:

"3. Definitions.- (1)-(13) x x x

(14) "Land" except in Sections 109, 143 and 144 and Chapter VII means land held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry which includes pisciculture and poultry farming;"

36. The submission proceeds that a bare perusal of Section 3(14) makes it evident that the legislature in plain and unambiguous words has provided that except where the expression 'land' is used in Sections 109, 143 and 144 and Chapter VII of the Act of 1950, it has to be ascribed a uniform meaning throughout the Act, which is 'land' held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture etc. A fortiori for construing the expression 'land', occurring in the various provisions under Chapter VIII of the Act of 1950, the meaning ascribed to 'land' in Section 3(14) would apply, inasmuch as Chapter VIII has not been excluded from the ambit of Section 3(14). Upon a perusal of Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950, the conclusion is inescapable that the provisions of Chapter VIII, dealing with the land, would apply to such parcels of lands alone, which are 'held' or 'occupied' for agricultural purposes.

37. The learned Counsel for the plaintiffs, in order to understand the expression 'held' employed in Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950, has drawn on extrinsic aid in construing it. He has relied on P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Law Lexicon 5th Edition, which defines 'held' and 'occupied' thus:

""Held" or "occupied". The words "held" or "occupied" carry the same meaning and there is no manner of doubt that if the land is in the lawful possession of the factory and was being used for the purpose of the factory, the land vested in the Government as per Section 3 of the 1971 Act. [Gaurav Aseem Avtej v. Sugar Corporation Limited, (2018) 6 SCC 518, para 19] [U.P. Undertaking (Acquisition) Act (23 of 1971), S. 3]."

38. It is mooted that the words 'held' or 'occupied', occurring in Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950 have to be understood according to the dictionary meaning, which imply land, which is kept in possession or one that is owned for using it for agricultural purposes. It is argued by Mr. Shah that the reason or the purpose for which land is owned or possessed is then the determinative factor. On 1st of January, 1970, the plaintiffs were holding and occupying the suit property not for the purpose of carrying out any agricultural activity, but for the purpose of letting it out to the defendant in order to undertake non-agricultural activity thereon in consideration of the plaintiffs enjoying rent payable by the defendant. The purpose of holding the suit property on 01.01.1970 was to let it out to the defendant for a non-agricultural activity, to wit, for the installation and running of a petrol retail outlet. The suit property was leased out for one year w.e.f. 01.01.1970 to 31.12.1970. The purpose of letting it out on 01.01.1970 was not to enable or permit the lessee to do agricultural activity. It was decidedly let out for the lessee to undertake or accomplish his commercial pursuits. To support his submission in this regard, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs has called in aid an unreported decision of this Court in M/s. Mahabir Jute Mills Ltd. v. Gauri Shanker Das and others, Second Appeal No.302 of 1953, decided on 7th January, 1964. In M/s. Mahabir Jute Mills Ltd. (supra), it is pointed out that land, let out for manufacturing purposes, that is, for putting up a mill or factory, was held not to qualify as 'land' within the meaning of the pari materia provision in the Uttar Pradesh Agricultural Tenants (Acquisition of Privileges) Act, 1949. It was held not to qualify as land within the meaning of the last mentioned Act as it had been let out for a non-agricultural purpose. In M/s. Mahabir Jute Mills Ltd., it was observed by S.K. Verma, J. (as the learned Chief Justice then was):

"The trial court decreed the suit for recovery of Rs.1800/-. On appeal the learned Additional Civil Judge of Gorakhpur affirmed the decree of the trial court. The two grounds urged in the courts below have been urged before me in second appeal. Before the defendant-appellant can claim any benefit by virtue of the certificate under section 7 of the U.P. Agricultural Tenants Acquisition of Privileges Act (U.P. Act VII of 1950) the land has to be "land" as defined in the Act. The definition of the land in the Act is the same as in the U.P. Tenancy Act which is as follows-

"'land' means land which is let or held for growing of crops, or as groveland or for pasturage. It includes land covered by water used for the purpose of growing singhara or other produce, but does not include land for the time being occupied by buildings or appurtenant thereto other than building which are improvements:"

The land was leased out for manufacturing purposes. The Certificate granted to the defendant appellant under section 7 of the U.P. Act VII of 1950 was, therefore, without jurisdiction and it cannot be of any help to him. It was contended that the plaintiffs should have got the certificate cancelled under section 12 of the U.P. Act VII of 1950. If the granting of the certificate was without jurisdiction the plaintiffs-respondents were at perfect liberty to treat it as non-existent. If they chose to file a suit to recovery the money due under the lease instead of first getting the certificate cancelled under section 12 of U.P. Act VII of 1950 it does not mean that the suit was not maintainable."

39. It is next submitted that Section 142 of the Act of 1950 confers a right upon a bhumidhar with transferable rights, like the plaintiff to use his land for any purpose and, as such, there is no embargo upon a bhumidhar to convert his land to a non-agricultural one before letting it out. It is submitted that this is precisely what has happened in this case. If the suit property was converted to a non-agricultural purpose before it was let out to the defendant, it would no longer be land within the meaning of Section 3(14), to which Chapter VIII applies. In aid of this submission of his, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs has placed reliance upon the decision in Smt. Gomti Devi v. District Judge, Unnao and others, Review Petition No.624 of 2014 (arising out Misc. Single No.4227 of 2014), decided on 10.09.2014. In Smt. Gomti Devi (supra), it was held:

"12. Section 142 of U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951 confers a right upon bhumidhar to use his land for any purpose, which means that there is no restriction for a bhumidhar to convert his land as non-agricultural land. Section 143 (1) confers a privilege upon bhumidhar, who has converted his land as non-agricultural land get a declaration in this respect. Section 143 (3) of U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951 provides that where a bhumidhar has been granted loan by Uttar Pradesh Financial Corporation on security of any land held by such bhumidhar, provisions of Chapter VIII will cease to apply. Judge, Small Causes Court by order dated 18.03.2005 held that the predecessors of the plaintiffs had taken loan from Uttar Pradesh Financial Corporation mortgaging the land in dispute as such provisions of Chapter VIII of U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951 will cease to apply.

13. Now the question arises as to whether a declaration under Section 143 of U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951 is only mode for treating a land as non-agricultural land. Had the intention of legislature been such and making Section 143 exhaustive, there would have been no other provision under the Act. Insertion of Section 331-A in the Act, by U.P. Act No. 37 of 1958 makes it clear that Section 143 is not the only provision under which nature of the land can be decided. Suppose while deciding the issue referred under Section 331-A, Deputy Collector comes to the conclusion that on the date of letting land, was not land within the meaning of Section 3 (14) of the Act, then same consequences as given under Section 143 (2) will follow. Under the lease deed, it was admitted between the parties that the land in question was appurtenant land to the factory premises, which was let out to the petitioner for industrial purpose. The agreement, being admitted, is binding and in view of Section 92 of Evidence Act, 1872 no contrary plea can be raised by the petitioner as such in this case there is no issue in this respect between the parties, which require reference under Section 331-A."

40. It is next submitted on the strength of the authority of the Supreme Court in Commissioner of Income Tax, Madras v. Gemini Pictures Circuit Pvt. Ltd., (1996) 4 SCC 216 that the manner in which the parties visualized the transaction, the purposes for which the land is sold or let out, are determinative of the fact if the land is to be treated as agricultural land or otherwise. In Gemini Pictures Circuit Pvt. Ltd. (supra), it has been held by the Supreme Court:

"4. The land is situated within the limits of the Madras Municipal Corporation. It is located on the Mount Road which is the main artery of the city and its business centre. Even when the assessee purchased it in 1950, there was a hotel building located in the said land. In the municipal records, the property was registered as urban land and urban land tax was being levied thereon. It bore the Municipal door number "151-Mount Road, Madras". After purchasing the land, the assessee put up two more buildings thereon in the northern portion which together occupied an extent of 20 grounds which means that they were substantially large buildings. One of them was occupied by the assessee for its own business purposes and the other was occupied by its sister concern. After laying a road and reserving certain portion to serve as frontage for the buildings, an area of about 39 grounds was remaining open. The assessee was raising bananas thereon until 1962 and thereafter vegetables until the year 1966-67 when it was sold to three parties as aforestated. It is significant to notice that even when the assessee purchased an extent of about 4 acres of land with a hotel building in 1950, for a consideration of Rs 5.53 lakhs, it could not have been for the purpose of raising banana plantation or vegetables. And when it was sold in 1966-67 (which is the relevant point of time for our purposes) it was sold at the rate of about Rs 260 per sq. yard. Neither the sale deed under which the assessee purchased the said land nor the sale deeds executed by it in 1966-67 describe the land as an agricultural land. It could not be so described for the simple reason that it was registered in the municipal records as an urban land and urban land tax was levied thereon. After purchasing the land, the assessee itself constructed two large buildings thereon. Indeed, the buildings were being used for non-residential purposes. The land is situated on Mount Road, Madras which is the most important and the busiest thoroughfare in the city. The land is surrounded on all sides by industrial and commercial buildings. No agricultural operations were being carried on any land nearby. In the face of the above circumstances, the mere fact that vegetables were being raised thereon at the time of the sale or for some years prior thereto does not change the nature and character of the land. Obviously, it was only a stop-gap activity. It was not a true reflection of the nature and character of the land. It is a matter of common knowledge that in the heart of New Delhi, there are houses with large compounds wherein a portion of the open land is used for raising vegetables. That does not make those portions agricultural lands. In the case of the assessee too, the raising of vegetables was a stop-gap activity until the assessee found a better use for it, whether construction of buildings or sale. It is well to remember that the question whether a particular land is an agricultural land has to be decided on a totality of the relevant facts and circumstances. There may be circumstances for and against. They have to be weighed together and a reasonable decision arrived at. One has to take a realistic view and see how were the persons selling and purchasing it understood it. Is it believable that in 1966-67, the assessee and the aforesaid purchasers were under the impression that they were selling and purchasing agricultural land? Did they consider and treat the land as agricultural land? The answer is too evident to call for an elucidation.

5. Certain decisions have been cited before us by counsel for both the parties in support of their respective stands.

It must, however, be remembered that facts of no two cases will be identical. The tests evolved by the courts are in the nature of guidelines. No hard and fast rules can be laid down in the matter, for the reason that it is essentially a question of fact. Even so, a brief reference to the cases cited would be in order. Strong reliance was placed by Shri Aruneshwar Gupta upon two decisions of the Gujarat High Court in Gordhanbhai Kahandas Dalwadi v. CIT [(1981) 127 ITR 664 (Guj)] and Motibhai D. Patel (Dr) v. CIT [(1981) 127 ITR 671 (Guj)] . In the first case, the land was registered as agricultural land in the revenue records and land revenue was being paid thereon. No permission was taken for converting it to non-agricultural use before the date of sale. Potential non-agricultural use or the fact that development had taken place in the vicinity of the land, it was held, do not militate against the fact that it was an agricultural land. In the next case too the land was registered as an agricultural land and permission to convert it into non-agricultural land was not obtained before the date of sale. In the circumstances, it was held that mere fact that it was sold at a high price only indicates its potentiality for non-agricultural use. On a consideration of entirety of the circumstances, it was held that it was an agricultural land.

6. A recent decision of this Court in Sarifabibi Mohmed Ibrahim v. CIT [1993 Supp (4) SCC 707 : (1993) 204 ITR 631] , rendered by a Bench comprising one of us (B.P. Jeevan Reddy, J.) is relied upon by the learned counsel for Revenue. The Bench observed: (SCC p. 712, para 12)

"Whether a land is an agricultural land or not is essentially a question of fact. Several tests have been evolved in the decisions of this Court and the High Courts, but all of them are more in the nature of guidelines. The question has to be answered in each case having regard to the facts and circumstances of that case. There may be factors both for and against a particular point of view. The Court has to answer the question on a consideration of all of them — a process of evaluation. The inference has to be drawn on a cumulative consideration of all the relevant facts."

Several judgments of this Court and the High Courts were referred to including a judgment of the Bombay High Court in CIT v. V.A. Trivedi [(1988) 172 ITR 95 : 1988 Tax LR 373 (Bom)] . On a consideration of the factors for and against, the Bombay High Court observed in V.A. Trivedi [(1988) 172 ITR 95 : 1988 Tax LR 373 (Bom)] that for ascertaining the true character and nature of the land, it must be seen whether it has been put to use for agricultural purposes for a reasonable span of time prior to the date of sale and further whether on the date of sale the land was intended to be put to use for agricultural purposes for a reasonable span of time in future. Examining the case from the said point of view, the High Court held that the fact that the agreement of sale was entered into by the assessee with a housing society is of crucial relevance since it showed that the assessee had agreed to sell the land for admittedly non-agricultural purposes. The ratio of the said decision was approved in Sarifabibi [1993 Supp (4) SCC 707 : (1993) 204 ITR 631]."

41. The Court may now consider briefly the submission of the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs on Substantial Question of Law No.3 and decide both the questions, to wit, Substantial Questions of Law Nos.1 and 3 together.

42. It is argued that there is no issue on facts between parties that the suit property was let out and being used for a non-agricultural purpose, to wit, to establish and run a petrol retail outlet. If that is the purpose for which the suit property was let out and then used, the fact that there was no declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950, would have no bearing upon its nature or on the issue, if it was still 'land' within the meaning of Section 3(14) of the Act, last mentioned. In the submission of the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs, it would not be land as defined under Section 3(14). To further substantiate his submission, learned Counsel for the plaintiffs has placed reliance upon the authority of this Court in Ajaz Carpets and others v. Birla International Pvt. Ltd., 2013 (4) AWC 4286. In Ajaz Carpets (supra), it was held:

"17. If a land is not being used for agricultural purposes then it is not necessary that in every situation certificate under Section 143 of U.P.Z.A.L. & R. Act must be obtained otherwise that land will continue to be governed by U.P.Z.A.L. & R. Act. …….

18. From the above it is quite clear that if a suit relating to land held by bhoomidhar is instituted in a court other than revenue record (Assistant Collector/S.D.O.) and a question arises whether the land in question is or is not used for purposes connected with agricultural then matter has to be referred to the Assistant Collector. However if in any such suit filed before the Civil Court or J.S.C.C., there is no dispute that the land is actually being used for purposes not connected with agricultural and it is admitted that the land is having constructed portion and is being used for residential, commercial or industrial purposes then there will be absolutely no necessity to refer the matter to the Assistant Collector. The necessary corollary which follows is that if plaintiff claims and defendant admits that on an agricultural land constructions have been made and the same is being used for residential, commercial or industrial purposes then there will be no necessity of a certificate under Section 143 of U.P.Z.A.L. & R. Act and the Civil Court or J.S.C.C. or any other Court other than revenue court will have full jurisdiction to decide the matter."

43. The submission, therefore, is that the grant of a declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950 is not a sine qua non for what was otherwise land under Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950, but ceased to be so being regarded as one used for a non-agricultural purpose. It would all depend upon the actual user.

44. Mr. Ravi Kant and Mr. Gajendra Pratap, learned Senior Advocates, on the other hand, have submitted that the position of the law is completely different as regards whatever has been mooted on behalf of the plaintiffs in their submissions on Substantial Questions of Law Nos.1 and 3. It is argued that there is consistent authority on the issue if the provisions of the Act of 1950 would apply to land let out for non-agricultural purpose. All that authority, it is urged, says that land as defined under Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950, if used for non-agricultural purposes, would continue to be 'land' governed by the Act last mentioned, unless there is a declaration of change of its user to abadi granted under Section 143 of the Act of 1950. In support of this contention of theirs, learned Senior Counsel have placed reliance upon the decision of this Court in Alauddin alias Makki v. Hamid Khan, 1971 RD 160; Bhagwati Devi v. Radhey Shyam and others, (1976) 2 RD 178; Magnu Ahir and others v. Mahabir, 1987 RJ 146; and,

U.P. State Sugar Corporation Ltd., Lucknow and another v. Vinod Chand Gupta and another, 2007 (3) AWC 3058. These authorities and how they bear on the point involved, would be shortly dealt with during the course of this judgment. The essence of both Substantial Questions of Law Nos.1 and 3 is whether 'land' held by a bhumidhar, if let out for a non-agricultural purpose without a declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950 and used for a non-agricultural purpose ceases to be land within the meaning of Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950. The corollary is if 'land' utilized for a non-agricultural purpose, would still be regarded as 'land', unless a declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950 in regard thereto is issued.

45. So far as the decision relied on behalf of the plaintiffs in M/s. Mahabir Jute Mills Ltd. is concerned, the point decided there is in the context of the Uttar Pradesh Agricultural Tenants (Acquisition of Privileges) Act, 1949 (for short, 'the UP AT Act'), as amended by the Uttar Pradesh Agricultural Tenants (Acquisition of Privileges) (Amendment) and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1950 (U.P. Act VII of 1950). No doubt, it has been held that in the event of land as defined in that Act, which broadly would mean agricultural land held by a tenant thereof, whose rights were enlarged under that Act, being leased for a manufacturing purpose, in a suit brought for ejectment of the lessee from such land, the provisions of the UP AT Act, as amended by UP Act VII of 1950, would not apply. This is so because the land was leased out to put up a mill or factory. There was in that case a declaration issued under Section 6 of the UP AT Act, referred to in the decision as a certificate, obtained by the tenant, who was sued for eviction by his landlord. The certificate would have entitled the tenant to reduction of rent and protection from ejectment, which was a defence urged to resist the suit. The other defence was that the suit being one for ejectment of a tenant from land, the Civil Court had no jurisdiction as a suit for ejectment from land would lie in the Revenue Court. The suit was decreed by the Trial Judge and the Lower Appellate Court, and before this Court, it was mooted that since the land was leased to the tenant for a manufacturing purpose, the declaration, called a certificate under Section 6, would be of no help to the tenant-defendant.

46. It appears that there is a reference in the decision regarding the certificate being issued under Section 7 of the UP AT Act, which in fact is a reference to a declaration under Section 6, entitling the tenant to privilege under Section 7. It was precisely these privileges that the tenant had pleaded to resist his eviction. The moot point was, if the lease, that was one for a manufacturing purpose, would entitle the tenant to a benefit of the declaration under Section 6 as envisaged under Section 7, without the certificate being cancelled under Section 12 of the UP AT Act. It was held that the lease being one for a manufacturing purpose, the certificate granted was without jurisdiction and non est. The suit for ejectment and recovery of rent could not be defended on the basis of a declaration or certificate under Section 6 of the UP AT Act. No doubt, the decision of this Court in M/s. Mahabir Jute Mills Ltd. comes close in point to the one involved here, because, after all, the UP AT Act was held excluded, and the certificate issued to the tenant thereunder, without jurisdiction as the lease was not for an agricultural purpose, rendering the demised property, not 'land' as envisaged under the

UP AT Act. But, the principle there would be of little assistance to the plaintiffs because the UP AT Act was a statute that had a completely different object than the Act of 1950, though it may have been enacted in aid of the Act of 1950.

47. The UP AT Act did not abolish zamindari by itself or create new estates in land. Rather, it was an appendage in the enterprise of abolition of zamindari and principal purpose was to provide for reduction of rent for existing tenants, who were holding on tenures created under the U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 and to protect them from ejectment. The object of the UP AT Act, as amended by UP Act VII of 1950, and its enacting clause read:

"An Act to provide for payment by tenants with a view to facilitate the abolition of Zamindari and to provide for reduction of rent and protection from ejectment and for certain other matters.

Whereas it is expedient to provide for payment by tenants with a view to facilitate the abolition of zamindari and to provide for reduction of rent and protection from ejectment and for certain other matters connected therewith."

48. Therefore, while interpreting the UP AT Act, it would always be the endeavour of the Court to extend privileges under Section 7 given by virtue of the said Act to an agricultural tenant, who had obtained a declaration under Section 6 after making an application under Section 3 and depositing the requisite rent payable. A fortiori a person, who had taken agricultural land on lease for a manufacturing purpose, would not be granted benefit of the UP AT Act. The mere purpose of the lease being to manufacture and its user as such, would be enough to deprive the tenant of the privileges of the last mentioned Act, even if he had a declaration under Section 6. Those privileges were meant for a tenant, who was utilizing the tenanted land or holding for agriculture or other purposes, as defined under Section 3(10) of the United Provinces Tenancy Act, 1939 (for short, 'the Tenancy Act'), on payment of rent to his landlord. By contrast, the Act of 1950 is the principal Act and the engine of law, by which not only zamindari was abolished, but also a new order of agricultural tenures introduced. The Act of 1950, after abolishing all existing estates of zamindar and their tenants, created new ones, until then unknown. It was a constitutive Act; not a mere appendage to another statute enacted to aid that other, as was the case with the UP AT Act. The object and the enacting clause of the Act of 1950 read:

"An Act to provide for the abolition of the Zamindari system which involves intermediaries between the tiller of the soil and the State in Uttar Pradesh and for the acquisition of their rights, title and interest and to reform the law relating to land tenure consequent upon such abolition and acquisition and to make provision for other matters connected therewith.

Whereas it is expedient to provide for the abolition of the Zamindari system which involves intermediaries between the tiller of the soil and the State in Uttar Pradesh and for the acquisition of their rights, title and interest and to reform the law relating to land tenure consequent on such abolition and acquisition and to make provision for other matters connected therewith."

49. In interpreting the provisions of the Act of 1950, the approach would be slightly different than that in case of the provisions of the UP AT Act. Here, as already remarked, after abolishing the zamindari system and acquisition of rights, title and interest of the zamindar and the various tenancy estates created by them, all lands were vested in the State in the first instance and then settled with different bodies and individuals on completely new terms. It just needs to be mentioned in the passing that under the Act of 1950, while the estates of zamindar and intermediaries were abolished, except certain classes of land held by them, the tenants of different classes under the Tenancy Act became holders of different kinds of tenancies, such as bhumidhar, sirdar, asami, with some, of course, being made hereditary tenants as envisaged under Section 16. It is in the context of the wholesome scope of the Act of 1950 that the provisions of Section 143 have to be understood. Section 143 of the Act of 1950 is part of Chapter VIII, falling under Part II of the Act of 1950. Chapter VIII deals with tenure and includes subjects, like classes of tenure; acquisition of bhumidhari rights; transfers; prevention of fragmentation; devolution; division; surrender, abandonment, extinction and acquisition; ejectment; and, rent. It also envisages the various classes of suits that can be brought in respect of tenures by the holders of bhumidhari estates against others, or those claiming rights to such estates under the Act of 1950, including suits for declaration, partition, ejectment etc. Section 143 of the Act of 1950 reads:

"143. Use of holding for industrial or residential purposes.—(1) Where a bhumidhar with transferable rights uses his holding or part thereof for a purpose not connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry which includes pisciculture and poultry farming, the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-division may, suo motu or on an application, after making such enquiry as may be prescribed, make a declaration to that effect.

(1-A) Where a declaration under sub-section (1) has to be made in respect of a part of the holding the Assistant Collector in charge of the sub-divisions may in the manner prescribed demarcate such part for the purposes of such declaration.

(2) Upon the grant of the declaration mentioned in sub-section (1) the provisions of this chapter (other than this section) shall cease to apply to the bhumidhar with transferable rights with respect to such land and he shall thereupon be governed in the matter of devolution of the land by personal law to which he is subject.

(3) Where a bhumidhar with transferable rights has been granted, before or after the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Land Laws (Amendment) Act, 1978, any loan by the Uttar Pradesh Financial Corporation or by any other Corporation owned or controlled by the State Government, on the security of any land held by such bhumidhar, the provisions of this chapter (other than this section) shall cease to apply to such bhumidhar with respect to such land and he shall thereupon be governed in the matter of devolution of the land by personal law to which he is subject."

50. A bhumidhar with transferable rights like the plaintiff, no doubt, has the right to use his holding or any part thereof for a purpose other than agriculture, horticulture etc. and in that event, the Assistant Collector, in charge of the sub-division, either suo motu or on an application made to him for the purpose, after undertaking necessary inquiry, has the power to declare the bhumidhar's holding or a part not used for agriculture etc., to be land no longer used for the purposes envisaged under Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950. It is upon a declaration made under sub-Section (1) of Section 143 that the consequences in sub-Section (2) of Section 143 ensue. The effect of the declaration under sub-Section (2) of Section 143 of the Act of 1950 is that the provisions of Chapter VIII of the last mentioned Act, other than Section 143, become inapplicable to the land put to a different user. Amongst other things, its devolution is then governed by personal laws and not the Act of 1950. It is for this reason that a declaration under Section 143(1) is often referred to as a 'declaration of the land as abadi by the SDO'.

51. What is of importance, to be understood, is that a declaration under Section 143(1) does not place the land, otherwise governed by the Act of 1950, completely out of its regime. It continues to be governed by the provisions of the Act of 1950 except that the provisions of Chapter VIII of the said Act become inapplicable in relation thereto. Thus, the regulatory regime about use, transfer etc. relating to land as defined under Section 3(14), that would otherwise be governed by Chapter VIII is no longer governed by the said Chapter. The other provisions of the Act of 1950 continue to apply. This point was particularly made during the hearing by Mr. Ravi Kant, learned Senior Advocate and we agree with that submission. This apart, from a plain reading of the terms of Section 143, the submission appears to be well-founded. It is particularly so when one looks to Section 144 of the Act of 1950. Section 144(1) says that wherever any land held by a bhumidhar, which is not used for purposes connected with agriculture etc., comes to be used as land for purposes of agriculture etc., the Assistant Collector, in-charge of the Sub-Division, may suo motu or on an application after necessary inquiry, make a declaration that land would be subject to provisions of Chapter VIII. Thus, land, as defined under Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950, which is governed by the said Act, upon the making of a declaration under Section 143, does not essentially cease to be land within the meaning of Section 3(14). It is only that until time that the declaration under Section 143(1) is not superseded by another declaration under Section 144(1), the provisions of Chapter VIII of the Act of 1950 become inapplicable to such land. All other provisions of the Act of 1950 would continue to apply to a land held by a bhumidhar, in relation to which a declaration under Section 143(1) has been made.

52. Now, this scheme of the Act of 1950 is essentially different from the UP AT Act, where the effect of a declaration under Section 6 and the consequences under Section 7 cannot at all be regarded as pari materia to Section 143 of the Act of 1950. Whereas in the nature and scheme of the UP AT Act, a land not used for purposes of agriculture etc., that has the protection of a declaration under Section 6 granted to it in accordance with law upon deposit of prescribed rent etc., would lose that benefit, stipulated under Section 7 by virtue of user of the land for a purpose not connected with agriculture etc., this is not the case if land governed by the Act is not used for purpose of agriculture, pisciculture etc. In the former case, in the scheme of things, a land leased to a tenant for the purpose of agriculture etc., in regard whereto, a declaration under Section 6 has been issued, would protect the tenant from eviction and entitle him to reduction of rent. Inherent in that kind of a scheme is the existence of a declaration granted by the Authority under Section 6 regarding land used for agriculture etc. If the tenant then leases out the land for a manufacturing purpose or himself undertakes activity thereon, which is not in accordance with Section 3(1) of the Tenancy Act, the benefit of protection from eviction and reduction of rent envisaged under Section 7 of the UP AT Act, would automatically disappear. The reason is that the privilege upon the issue of a declaration under Section 6 is one meant to benefit the tenant of agricultural land, engaged in the specified kind of agricultural activities. If an activity not connected with agriculture or one defined under Section 3(10) of the Tenancy Act is undertaken, the protection notwithstanding the existence of the declaration under Section 6 would vanish. It is in this sense that this Court in M/s. Mahabir Jute Mills Ltd. has held that there is no need to seek a cancellation of the declaration granted under Section 6 of the UP AT Act, if the land is leased out for a manufacturing purpose or used for manufacturing purposes.

53. By contrast, again in the nature of things, if land envisaged under Section 3(14) of the Act of 1950 is put to a different user or leased out by the bhumidhar to another for a purpose not connected with agriculture, pisciculture, poultry farming etc., there is no automatic exclusion of the provisions of Chapter VIII. It is quite another matter that the SDO, upon taking cognizance suo motu of the fact that the land is no longer used for purposes envisaged under Section 3(14), may grant a declaration under sub-Section (1) of Section 143, or may do that on the application of a party. But, there is no scope to contend that until a declaration of that kind, which has to be preceded by an inquiry by the SDO into the actual user of the land, is granted, Chapter VIII of the Act of 1950 is excluded from its application to land held by a bhumidhar. The exemption from application of Chapter VIII comes from the issue of a declaration issued under Section 143(1). It is almost impossible to think that a mere change of user of 'land' held by a bhumidhar for purposes not connected with agriculture, pisciculture, poultry farming etc., would lead to an automatic exclusion of Chapter VIII. This is not simply in the state of things under the Act of 1950 or the scheme of the said statute and, particularly, what a plain reading of the provisions of section 143 together with Section 144 would show.

54. Here, this Court must notice the contrary opinion of a learned Single Judge of this Court in Smt. Gomti Devi. We have referred to the holding in Smt. Gomti Devi while noticing the submissions made by the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs. The remarks in Paragraph No.13 of the judgment in Smt. Gomti Devi that Section 143 is not exhaustive and not the only provision under which 'nature of the land' can be decided, appear to be contrary to the law in point laid down by the Supreme Court, to which allusion would shortly be made.

55. There is another decision that has been laid much emphasis on by the learned Counsel for the plaintiffs to say that a declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950 granted by the SDO is not a sine qua non for a change in the nature of land from agricultural to one not covered by Section 3(14) of the last mentioned Act or abadi. This authority is Ajaz Carpets, to which too allusion has been made while noticing the plaintiffs' submission. The relevant part of the holding in Ajaz Carpets has been quoted while noticing the submissions of the plaintffs on the point. The principle in Ajaz Carpets also seems to run contrary to the holding of the Supreme Court on the issue.

56. In Additional Commissioner, Revenue and others v. Akhalaq Hussain and another, (2020) 4 SCC 507, the issue arose before the Supreme Court in the context of proceedings of exchange under Section 161 of the Act of 1950. It was a case, where one Akhalaq Hussain and another, Saqir Hussain exchanged their land with one Mangal Singh, a member of a Scheduled Tribe, by a registered deed of exchange, exchanging their respective bhumidhari. Mutation in terms of the deed of exchange was granted by the Tehsildar. Akhalaq Hussain and Saqir Hussain constructed a hotel on the bhumidhari that they received in exchange. The Sub-Divisional Officer issued a notice to the two hotel owners saying that the exchange violated the provisions of sub-Section (1) of Section 161, inasmuch as the deed of exchange had been executed without obtaining prior permission of the Assistant Collector. It was held that the exchange being in violation of Section 167 of the Act of 1950, the transaction was void and land subject matter of dispute stood vested in the Government of Uttar Pradesh from the date of its transfer. The order was upheld in appeal and revision, but all orders of the statutory Authorities were quashed by the High Court. There are other issues relating to validity of exchange involved, but those are not relevant to the issue in hand. One of the contentions that was raised was that the land is not an agricultural land to which Chapter VIII of the Act of 1950 applies. The issue was dealt with and answered by their Lordships in Akhalaq Hussain (supra), thus:

"14. Re. Contention — Land is not an agricultural land : on behalf of the respondents, it was contended that the land in question is not an "agricultural land" and that it does not fall within the definition of "land" under Section 3(14) of the Act and therefore, provisions of Chapter VIII of the Act are not applicable. The question as to whether a particular land is "land" as defined under Section 3(14) of the Act to which the provisions of the U.P. ZA and LR Act are applicable would require determination. The question, whether such land is held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry has to be determined in accordance with the provisions of Sections 143 and 144 of the Act. Section 3(14) of the Act defines "land" as under:

"3. Definitions.— …

(14) "Land" except in Sections 109, 143 and 144 and Chapter VIII means land held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry which includes pisciculture and poultry farming."

15. The respondents have placed reliance upon the recitals in the exchange deed in which it is mentioned that the land in question is not an "agricultural land" and also the counter-affidavit of the State filed before the High Court, wherein it is mentioned that the hotel in the disputed land is situated in the market area of Munsiari township. In this regard, it is pertinent to note that for changing the nature of land from "agricultural" to "abadi", declaration as stipulated in Sections 143 and 144 is required. The provisions under Section 143 of the Act are initiated suo motu or on an application moved by a bhumidhar with transferable rights and an enquiry is required to be conducted by the Assistant Collector as

"143. Use of holding for industrial or residential purposes.—(1) Where a bhumidhar with transferable rights uses his holding or part thereof for a purpose not connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry which includes pisciculture and poultry farming, the Assistant Collector-in-charge of the sub-division may, suo motu or on an application, after making such enquiry as may be prescribed, make a declaration to that effect.

(2) Upon the grant of the declaration mentioned in sub-section (1) the provisions of this chapter (other than this section) shall cease to apply to the bhumidhar with transferable rights with respect to such land and he shall thereupon be governed in the matter of devolution of the land by personal law to which he is subject.

(3) Where a bhumidhar with transferable rights has been granted, before or after the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Land Laws (Amendment) Act, 1978, any loan by the Uttar Pradesh Financial Corporation or by any other Corporation owned or controlled by the State Government, on the security of any land held by such bhumidhar, the provisions of this Chapter (other than this section) shall cease to apply to such bhumidhar with respect to such land and he shall thereupon be governed in the matter of devolution of the land by personal law to which he is subject."

Where such a declaration is made under Section 143 of the Act, the provisions of Chapter VIII of the U.P. ZA and LR Act (except Section 143) ceased to apply to the bhumidhar with transferable rights with respect to such land.

16. It has been held in Chandrika Singh v. Vishwanath Pratap Singh [Chandrika Singh v. Vishwanath Pratap Singh, (1992) 3 SCC 90] that in order to exclude the applicability of provisions of the U.P. ZA and LR Act on the ground that the land is abadi land, it is necessary to determine that it is in accordance with the provisions of Sections 143 and 144 of the Act and whether such a declaration under Sections 143 and 144 of the Act has been made in accordance with the provisions of the Act. In paras 9 and 15, it was held as under : (SCC pp. 97 & 99)

"9. The aforesaid provisions show that under Section 331(1) exclusive jurisdiction in respect of suits, applications and proceedings referred to in Schedule II to the Act has been conferred on the courts specified in the said schedule and the said proceedings, suits and applications cannot be entertained by the civil courts. The proviso to Section 331(1) lifts the said bar in relation to any holding or part thereof where a declaration has been made under Section 143. Section 143 empowers the Assistant Collector after making enquiry as may be prescribed, to make a declaration that a holding or part thereof is being used or held by a bhumidar for purposes not connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry. Where such a declaration is made in respect of a part of the holding, the Assistant Collector is required to demarcate the said part. The effect of the grant of such a declaration is that the provisions of Chapter VIII (except Section 143) cease to apply to the bhumidar with transferable rights with respect to such land.

15. … In our opinion, the question as to whether a particular land is "land" under Section 2(14) to which the provisions of the Act are applicable would require determination of the question whether the land is held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry and that is a matter which has to be determined either in accordance with the provisions of Sections 143 and 144 and if such a determination has not been made and such a question arises or is raised in a suit before a court, the procedure laid down in Section 331-A must be followed by the court. This would be so even in a case where a building exists on the land and the land is claimed to be appurtenant to the building because in such a case it will be necessary to determine the extent of the land that is appurtenant to the building i.e. whether the entire land or only a part of it is so appurtenant to the building and for that reason is not held or occupied for purposes connected with agriculture, horticulture or animal husbandry. This determination has to be made in accordance with the provisions of Sections 143 and 144 or Section 331-A of the Act."

17. In the present case, the respondents have not produced any such document which shows that declaration required under Section 143 of the Act has been made, much less registered. In the absence of such declaration, the land is deemed to be an "agricultural land" as per the provisions of Section 3(14) of the Act.

18. The respondents placed reliance upon the recitals in the exchange deed to show that the land is not an "agricultural land". The recitals in the exchange deed can be of no help to the respondents as the said document is a self-serving document and cannot operate as a document to prove that the land is an "abadi land". Likewise, the respondents sought to place reliance upon the counter-affidavit filed by the appellants where it is averred that the suit property is situated in the market area of Munsiari township. The averments in the counter-affidavit filed by the State can be of no assistance to the respondents. For claiming the nature of the land as "abadi land", a declaration as stipulated in Section 143 is required and the said declaration is also required to be registered. As pointed out earlier, the respondents have not produced any document which shows that the declaration as required under Section 143 of the Act has been made. In the absence of such declaration, the land cannot be said to be "abadi land". Since the land is an "agricultural land", the provisions of the U.P. ZA and LR Act are applicable to the land in question."

57. Apparently, the learned Single Judges of this Court, who decided Smt. Gomti Devi and Ajaz Carpets, did not notice the decision of the Supreme Court in Chandrika Singh and others v. Raja Vishwanath Pratap Singh and another, (1992) 3 SCC 90, which has been followed in Akhalaq Hussain by a three Judge Bench of their Lordships.

58. Now, in this case, the Lower Appellate Court, about the status of declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950, has recorded the following finding:

"4.....

In the instant case a suit was filed under section 143 Z.A. Act. The S.D.O. Khurja by its order dated 10.12.1975 paper no.39-C declared both the plots 2135 and 2136 as Abadi land. The order dated 10.12.1975 was ex-parte. An application for restoration was moved, whose copy of order 112-C is on record whereby the ex-parte order dated 10.12.1975 was set aside on 13.9.1979. There are other two paper no.31-C and 33-C on record which show that the suit under section 143 U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act was dismissed and its appeal was also dismissed. It means that no declaration under section 143 Z.A. Act could be made so far. The position is obvious that in absence of any declaration under section 143, the property in question shall be deemed Bhumidhari land."

59. The Lower Appellate Court, upon the finding that there is no declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950 with regard to the suit property, proceeded to hold that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit in terms of the following remarks:

"14. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that civil court has no jurisdiction to try the suit. I have carefully gone through the record. It has already been observed that the disputed property falls within the definition of land, besides no declaration under section 143 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act has been made so far. Therefore, the suit for eviction shall lie before the Revenue Court. Civil Court has no jurisdiction to evict a Sirdar or Bhumidhar or a person from the land. It is, therefore, held that Civil Court has no jurisdiction to try the suit."

60. The Lower Appellate Court, based on the status of proceedings under Section 143 and the outcome thereof, has reached a conclusion about the Civil Court not being possessed of jurisdiction to try the suit and rightly so. The said opinion expressed by the Lower Appellate Court on the state of proceedings under Section 143 accords with the legal position noticed by this Court hereinabove.

61. For the reasons indicated hereinabove, we endorse the Lower Appellate Court's opinion that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit for eviction. A fortiori, it had to be filed before the Revenue Court of competent jurisdiction as Chapter VIII of the Act of 1950 would apply.

62. In view of what has been said above, Substantial Question of Law No.1 is answered in the affirmative and in terms that the provisions of the Act of 1950 would apply to land let out for non-agricultural purposes and Substantial Question of Law No.3 is also answered in the affirmative in terms that land situate in an urban area, if one to which the Act of 1950 applies, would be deemed to be an agricultural land, unless a declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950 is made.

63. This Court has held on Substantial Questions of Law Nos.1 and 3 that in the absence of a declaration under Section 143 of the Act of 1950, the suit property continues to be land within the meaning of the said Act, to which Chapter VIII applies. The Lower Appellate Court has also taken the same view and opined that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit. Thereafter, the Lower Appellate Court has considered the plaintiffs' plea that the defendant could not have denied the plaintiffs' right to bring a suit to evict him, because he had accepted the plaintiffs to be his landlord. The pleas of estoppel and acquiescence urged by the plaintiffs were rejected on the principle that there is no estoppel against statute. This finding is based on a different finding elsewhere recorded by the Lower Appellate Court on the merits of the parties' case, where the Lower Appellate Court has held that the plaintiffs having let out the suit property in violation of Section 156 of the Act of 1950, the consequences under Section 165 would attach and the defendant would become a bhumidhar thereof with non-trasferable rights. This Court assumes that this finding has been recorded because either it was admitted or it was nobody's case that the defendant or any member of his family had land with them in excess of twelve and a half acres together with the area of the suit property. Now, to judge the validity of these findings, Substantial Questions of Law Nos.4 and 5 have been formulated.

64. Considering the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the defendant (respondent here), this Court is of opinion that both those substantial questions of law do not really arise in this appeal because once the Lower Appellate Court held that the suit property being land governed by the Act of 1950 the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit, there was no occasion for the Lower Appellate Court to have recorded findings about the merits of the parties' case. It was on account of the remarks of the Lower Appellate Court on the merits of the parties' case that the defendant would become the bhumidhar with non-transferable rights vis-a-vis the suit property under Section 156 read with Section 165 of the Act of 1950 that Substantial Questions of Law Nos.4 and 5 were formulated.

65. This Court, therefore, holds that Substantial Questions of Law Nos.4 and 5 are not involved in the present appeal and refrains from deciding the same.

66. The Lower Appellate Court has dismissed the suit on merits while holding that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try it. We have affirmed those conclusions in answering Substantial Questions of Law Nos.1 and 3.

67. The only order, in the opinion of this Court, that could have been made by the Lower Appellate Court, once it came to the conclusion that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit, was a direction to return the plaint. That is the order, which we think that this Court ought to make, because, after all, what the Lower Appellate Court and this Court have held, is inherent lack of jurisdiction with the Civil Court to try the suit.

68. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed in part. The impugned decree passed by the Lower Appellate Court shall stand set aside and substituted by an order, under Order VII Rule 10 of the Code, directing a return of the plaint to the plaintiff for presentation to the Court of competent jurisdiction. The Trial Court shall carry out the aforesaid order and ensure return of the plaint within 15 days of receipt of the lower court records.

69. Costs easy.

70. Let the lower court records be sent down to the Trial Court concerned through the learned District Judge, Bulandshahr.

71. Let an order be drawn up accordingly.

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Ifran Chaudhary, Sri Gaurav Tripathi

Public Interest Litigation - Abuse of Process - Suppression of Material Facts - Petitioner sought removal of alleged illegal constructions and unauthorized occupation by private respondents (Nos. 7, 8, 9) on land (Khata No. 24, 2.2940 hectares, Village Kairana, Shamli) declared as 'enemy property' under Enemy Property Act, 1968, and decision on his representation (02.11.2023). Petitioner, claiming to be a social worker with no vested interest, concealed ongoing litigation with private respondents, including partnership deeds (2015, 2019), a pending suit (Original Suit No. 73 of 2019), injunction orders (04.12.2021, 11.12.2023), and pending petitions (Article 227 Nos. 648/2024, 7848/2023). Non-disclosure violated Chapter XXII, Rule 1(3-A) and Rule 1(3)(ii) of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, mandating disclosure of petitioner's credentials and related proceedings. Supreme Court rulings, including St. of Uttaranchal Vs Balwant Singh Chaufal (2010 AIR SCW 1029), Janata Dal Vs H.S. Chowdhary (1992) 4 SCC 305, and K.D. Sharma Vs Steel Authority of India (2008) 12 SCC 481, emphasize that PILs filed with ulterior motives or suppression of facts constitute abuse of process, warranting dismissal with costs. Petition dismissed as a gross misuse of process, with Rs. 50,000/- cost imposed, to be deposited with Registrar General within three weeks for transfer to Tara Sansthan's old age home in Prayagraj for welfare of underprivileged elderly. Non-compliance to trigger recovery as land revenue arrears. (Paras 6-35)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Short counter affidavit filed by Shri Gaurav Tripathi on behalf of respondent Nos.7 and 8 is taken on record.

2. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Rajiv Gupta, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondent Nos.1 to 4 and Shri Gaurav Tripathi for the contesting-respondent Nos.7 and 8. Shri Irfan Chaudhary has accepted notice on behalf of respondent No.5-Nagar Palika Parishad.

3. This petition has been filed purportedly in public interest by the petitioner-Akbar Abbass Zaidi against nine respondents, out of whom, respondent

Nos.7, 8 and 9 are private respondents. The prayer made in this petition is that respondent No.2-District Magistrate, Shamli be directed to remove illegal constructions and unauthorized occupation from the land covered by Khata No.24, area 2.2940 hectare, situated at Village Kairana Under Hadud, Tehsil Kairana, District Shamli, in view of the report submitted by the respondent-Authorities dated 16.09.2023, terming the property as 'enemy property'. The petitioner further seeks a direction to the respondent-Authorities to decide the petitioner's representation dated 02.11.2023 within stipulated period of time.

4. Although, it has not been mentioned in the first relief as to who is in unauthorized occupation of the said property, from the pleadings contained in the writ petition as well as from the representation dated 02.11.2023 and other identical representations annexed to the petition, it is apparently clear that the petitioner has termed the respondent Nos.7, 8 and 9 as land mafias in unauthorized possession over the aforesaid property.

5. When the matter was taken up, learned counsel for the respondent Nos.7 and 8, by referring to the short counter affidavit, contended that the present petition is a gross misuse and abuse of the process of law as the same has been filed by concealing various proceedings held between the petitioners and the private respondents. This Court, accordingly, proceeded to consider the record of petition and the short counter affidavit.

6. As per the pleadings contained in the petition, the petitioner claims to be a permanent resident in House No.24, Mohalla Kalalan, Tehsil Kairana, District Shamli and states his aim to eradicate the evils persistent in the society and irregularities committed by the Authorities. He claims to be a social worker stating that he has no vested interest in the property. It is further stated that the property covered by Khata No.24 was declared as 'enemy property' under the order passed by the Collector, Muzaffarnagar on 27.03.1974 under the provisions of Enemy Property Act,1968 and is recorded as such in the revenue records. Details of various Khasras covered by Khata No.24 have been mentioned in paragraph No.7 of the petition and in paragraph Nos.7A, 7B, 7C and 7D of the petition, meaning of the words "Public Interest" with reference to certain Authorities and dictionaries has been sought to be explained.

7. The case of the petitioner is that father of respondent Nos.7, 8 and 9 claimed ownership over the land in dispute but his claim was rejected by the Assistant Collector, First Class, Muzaffarnagar on 09.11.1981, against which, an appeal was filed before the Additional Commissioner, Meeurt, Division, Meerut which was allowed on 15.04.1982 accepting the claim of respondent Nos. 7 to 9 over 1/5th property of land in dispute. It is stated that against order dated 15.04.1982, the father of the said respondents filed Second Appeal No.201 of 1982 before the Board of Revenue, U.P., Allahabad which remanded the matter to the Competent Authority on 20.04.1999, against which order, Writ B No.21897 of 1997 has been filed before this Court which is pending and, despite that, Bhumafias of the Mohalla concerned have started plotting work over the land and several houses and shops have been constructed thereon, as a result whereof, public at large is suffering but the authorities, despite submission of various representations by the petitioner, are sitting tight over the matter. Specific allegations of making encroachments have been levelled against respondent Nos.7 to 9 and, in pith and substance, the reliefs claimed in the writ petition are to the effect that the persons in possession over the aforesaid property, i.e. respondent Nos.7 to 9, be removed therefrom.

8. On the other hand, Shri Gaurav Tripathi, learned counsel for respondent Nos.7 and 8, by referring to the record of short counter affidavit, submits that the petitioner has deliberately concealed various proceedings held in between the petitioner and private respondents and has not approached this Court with clean hands. He further submits that there is gross violation of provisions of Chapter XXII, Rule 1 (3-A) of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules') as the petitioner has not disclosed his credentials in the petition.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, before referring to the amended Rule incorporated in the High Court Rules pursuant to the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Uttranchal vs. Balwant Singh Chaufal and others, 2010 AIR SCW 1029, it is necessary to refer to the litigation in between the petitioner and the private respondents, as stands reflected from the documents annexed to the short counter affidavit.

10. A partnership deed was executed on 16.08.2015 (registered on 19.12.2015), in which, the petitioner-Akbar Abbass Zaidi was shown as one of the partners in relation to business of Egg, Layer Farming etc. in the name and style of M/S ROSY LAYERS FARM, at Ramda Road, Kairana, Shamli. Respondent No.7 (Shamsuddin) was one of the witnesses to execution of the deed. Another partnership deed was executed on 07.01.2019 (registered on 10.01.2019) which shows that one of the partners namely Mohd. Aashif retired from the partnership w.e.f. 07.01.2019 and Shamsuddin (respondent No.5) was inducted as a partner to act alongwith the remaining two partners. Third partnership deed dated 07.01.2019 (registered on 10.01.2019) is also on record which discloses names of five partners including the petitioner and respondent No.7 alongwith other persons.

11. A plaint of Original Suit No.73 of 2019 (M/S Amirbano and others vs. Akbar Abbas Zaidi and another) is on record whereby the plaintiffs have claimed a decree for declaring them as owners of property covered by Khata No.647 and also a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction based upon stipulations contained in the aforesaid partnership deeds. Apparently, the petitioner herein is defendant No.1 in the said suit and has filed his written statement therein. The record further reveals that the Civil Judge, Senior Division, Kairana, Shamli passed an order dated 04.12.2021 restraining the defendants from interferring in the business being carried out by the plaintiffs of the suit as well as their possession over the property while allowing injunction application (paper No.6-C). The defendants, including the petitioner, filed Misc. Appeal No.10 of 2021 against the injunction order and the same was dismissed by the District Judge, Shamli by order dated 11.12.2023 confirming injunction order. Another order dated 19.04.2023 passed by the Additional District Judge, Kairana, Shamli in the same suit is on record which shows that the petitioner alongwith co-defendant in the same suit had challenged order dated 16.11.2021 passed by the Trial Court on an application under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, by means of Civil Revision No.2 of 2022, however, the same was also dismissed. It appears that two petitions being Matter Under Article 227 Nos. 648 of 2024 (Akbar Abbas Zaidi and another vs. M/S Ameer Bano and 5 others) and 7848 of 2023 (Akbar Abbas Zaidi and another vs. M/S Ameer Bano and 5 others) at the instance of the petitioner are pending before this Court arising out of the aforesaid orders. Certain First Information Reports lodged in between the parties raising a dispute regarding partnership business are also annexed to the short counter affidavit.

12. From perusal of the aforesaid documents, it is apparently clear that the petitioner is in continuous litigation with the private respondents, especially respondent No.7 and, as of now, there are judicial orders passed against him and in favour of respondent No.7 who is plaintiff No.5 in Original Suit No.73 of 2019 and was inducted as a partner in the partnership business alongwith the petitioner. There is absolutely no disclosure of any of the aforesaid proceedings in the entire petition. Apparently, the present petition in the nature of Public Interest Litigation has been prepared on 20.12.2023 and filed on 25.01.2024 i.e. immediately after the Misc. Appeal filed by the petitioner against the injunction order was dismissed by the District Judge and even before the Matter Under Article 227 No.648 of 2024, arising out of the order of District Judge was filed before this Court. Hence, it is clear that the petitioner is guilty of supressing material facts and proceedings from this Court and deserves to be dealt with as per law settled in this regard.

13. As regards the public interest litigation, the Apex Court in State of Uttaranchal vs. Balwant Singh Chaufal (supra) placing reliance on various previous judicial pronouncements, in order to ensure that Writ Jurisdication may not be misused and abused by the unscruplous litigants, issued various directions. It is necessary to refer to the directions contained in paragraph 198 of the judgment as under:-

"198. In order to preserve the purity and sanctity of the PIL, it has become imperative to issue the following directions:-

(1) The courts must encourage genuine and bona fide PIL and effectively discourage and curb the PIL filed for extraneous considerations.

(2) Instead of every individual judge devising his own procedure for dealing with the public interest litigation, it would be appropriate for each High Court to properly formulate rules for encouraging the genuine PIL and discouraging the PIL filed with oblique motives. Consequently, we request that the High Courts who have not yet framed the rules, should frame the rules within three months. The Registrar General of each High Court is directed to ensure that a copy of the Rules prepared by the High Court is sent to the Secretary General of this court immediately thereafter.

(3) The courts should prima facie verify the credentials of the petitioner before entertaining a P.I.L.

(4) The court should be prima facie satisfied regarding the correctness of the contents of the petition before entertaining a PIL.

. (5) The court should be fully satisfied that substantial public interest is involved before entertaining the petition.

(6) The court should ensure that the petition which involves larger public interest, gravity and urgency must be given priority over other petitions.

(7) The courts before entertaining the PIL should ensure that the PIL is aimed at redressal of genuine public harm or public injury. The court should also ensure that there is no personal gain, private motive or oblique motive behind filing the public interest litigation.

(8) The court should also ensure that the petitions filed by busybodies for extraneous and ulterior motives must be discouraged by imposing exemplary costs or by adopting similar novel methods to curb frivolous petitions and the petitions filed for extraneous considerations. "

14. Our High Court, in furtherance of the directions issued by the Apex Court, incorporated amendment in Rule 1 of Chapter XXII of the Rules and added sub-rule (3-A) in Rule 1, which reads as follows:-

"(3-A) In addition to satisfying the requirements of the other rules in this chapter, the petitioner seeking to file a Public Interest Litigation, should precisely and specifically state, in the affidavit to be sworn by him giving his credentials, the public cause he is seeking to espouse; that he has no personal or private interest in the matter; that there is no authoritative pronouncement by the Supreme Court or High Court on the question raised; and that the result of the litigation will not lead to any undue gain to himself or anyone associated with him, or any undue loss to any person, body of persons or the State."

15. The newly incorporated Rule clearly mandates that the petitioner seeking to file Public Interest Litigation petition should precisely and specifically disclose his credentials and the public cause he is seeking to espouse with clear mention that he has no personal or private interest in the matter. Significantly, requirements incorporated under sub-rule (3-A) are "in addition to specifying the requirements of other Rules in the Chapter." Therefore, this Court feels it appropriate to refer to sub-rule 3(ii) of Rule 1 of Chapter XXII which reads as follows:-

"3(ii). If there is any related proceedings pending elsewhere, the full details thereof shall be mentioned."

(emphasis supplied by Court).

16. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid Rules/sub-rules makes it apparently clear that, in case, the said requirements are not fulfilled by the petitioner filing a petition in the nature of a Public Interest Litigation, the High Court would be obliged to deal with such non-compliance as per the judicial pronouncements made by the Apex Court from time to time with regard to abuse and misuse of process of law by filing Public Interest Litigation petitions.

17. In Janata Dal vs. H.S. Chowdhary, (1992) 4 SCC 305, the Supreme Court, apart from making various observations, observed in paragraph No.109 that only a person acting bonafide and having sufficient interest in the proceedings of Public Interest Litigation will alone have a locus standi and can approach the Court to wipe out the tears of the poor and needy, suffering from violation of their fundamental rights, but not a person for personal gain or private profit or political motive or any oblique consideration. It further observed that vexatious petition under the colour of PIL brought before the Court for vindicating any personal grievances, deserves rejection at the threshold. (emphasis supplied by Court)

18. In Dr. B. Singh vs. Union of India and others, (2004) 3 SCC 363, the Supreme Court placed reliance on various previous judgments on the issue as to how genuine and ingenuine PIL petitions should be dealt with by the Courts. It clearly laid down that it would be desirable for the courts to filter out the frivolous petitions and dismiss them with cost so that the message goes in the right direction that petitions filed with oblique motive do not have the approval of the Courts. It also observed that when there is material to show that a petition styled as a Public Interest Litigation is nothing but a camouflage to foster personal disputes or vendatta to bring to terms a person, not of ones liking, or gain publicity or a facade for blackmail, said petition has to be thrown out. (emphasis suppled by Court).

19. In Chandra Shashi Vs. Anil Kumar Verma, (1995) 1 SCC 21, the Apex Court has observed that to enable the courts to ward off unjustified interference in their working, those who indulge in immoral acts like perjury, prevarication and motivated falsehoods have to be appropriately dealt with, without which it would not be possible for any court to administer justice in the true sense and to the satisfaction of those who approach it in the hope that truth would ultimately prevail. People would have faith in courts when they would find that "truth alone triumphs" is an achievable aim there.

20. In Buddhi Kota Subbarai (Dr.) Vs. K. Parasaran, (1996) 5 SCC 530), the Supreme Court has held that no litigant has a right to unlimited drought on the court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner as he wishes. Easy access to justice should not be misused as a licence to file misconceived or frivolous petitions.

21. In Arunima Baruah Vs. Union of India (2007) 6 SCC 120, Supreme Court held that it is trite law that to enable the Court to refuse to exercise its discretionary jurisdiction when material facts are suppressed. It was further held that a person invoking the discretionary jurisdiction of the court cannot be allowed to approach it with a pair of dirty hands.

22. In Prestige Lights Limited Vs. State Bank of India, (2007) 8 SCC 449, the Supreme Court observed that it is well settled that a prerogative remedy is not a matter of course. In exercising extraordinary power, a Writ Court will indeed bear in mind the conduct of the party who is invoking such jurisdiction. If the applicant does not disclose full facts or suppresses relevant materials or is otherwise guilty of misleading the Court, the Court may dismiss the action without adjudicating the matter. The rule has been evolved in larger public interest to deter unscrupulous litigants from abusing the process of Court by deceiving it. The very basis of the writ jurisdiction rests in disclosure of true, complete and correct facts. If the material facts are not candidly stated or are suppressed or are distorted, the very functioning of the writ courts would become impossible.

(emphasis supplied by Court)

23. In K.D Sharma Vs. Steel Authority of India Limited and others, (2008) 12 SCC 481, Supreme Court held that no litigant can play "hide and seek" with the courts or adopt "pick and choose" and one should come with candid facts and clean breast. Suppression or concealment of material facts is forbidden to a litigant or even as a technique of advocacy. In such cases the Court is duty bound to discharge rule nisi and such applicant is required to be dealt with for contempt of Court for abusing the process of the court.

(emphasis supplied by Court)

24. Supreme Court in Dalip Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2010) 2 SCC 114 came down heavily on unscrupulous litigants and after noticing the progressive decline in the values of life, it observed as follows:

"For many centuries Indian society cherished two basic values of life i.e. "satya" (truth) and "ahimsa" (non-violence). Mahavir, Gautam Buddha and Mahatma Gandhi guided the people to ingrain these values in their daily life. Truth constituted an integral part of the justice-delivery system which was in vogue in the pre-Independence era and the people used to feel proud to tell truth in the courts irrespective of the consequences. However, post-Independence period has seen drastic changes in our value system. The materialism has overshadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings."

"In the last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belong to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the courts have, from time to time, evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final."

25. In Amar Singh Vs. Union of India (2011)7 SCC 69, Supreme Court held that Courts have, over the centuries, frowned upon litigants who, with intent to deceive and mislead the courts, initiated proceedings without full disclosure of facts. Courts held that such litigants who come with "unclean hands", are not entitled to be heard on the merits of their case.

26. In Kishore Samrite Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2012 (10) SCALE 330, The Supreme Court held that the entire journey of a Judge is to discern the truth from the pleadings, documents and arguments of the parties, as truth is the basis of the Justice Delivery System.....With the passage of time, it has been realized that people used to feel proud to tell the truth in the Courts, irrespective of the consequences but that practice no longer proves true, in all cases. The Apex Court further observed that the Court does not sit simply as an umpire in a contest between two parties and declare at the end of the combat as to who has won and who has lost but it has a legal duty of its own, independent of parties, to take active role in the proceedings and reach at the truth, which is the foundation of administration of justice. Therefore, the truth should become the ideal to inspire the courts to pursue. This can be achieved by statutorily mandating the Courts to become active seekers of truth..... It is the bounden duty of the Court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to surpass the legal process must be effectively curbed and the Court must ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorized or unjust gain to anyone as a result of abuse of the process of the Court.

One way to curb this tendency is to impose realistic or punitive costs.

27. In ABCD Vs. Union of India and others, (2020) 2 SCC 52, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter where material facts had been concealed, while issuing notice to the petitioner therein and while exercising its suo-motu contempt power, observed that making a false statement on oath is an offence punishable under Section 181 of the IPC while furnishing false information with intent to cause public servant to use his lawful power to the injury of another person is punishable under Section 182 of the IPC. These offences by virtue of Section 195(1)(a)(i) of the Code can be taken cognizance of by any court only upon a proper complaint in writing as stated in said Section.

28. In Dhananjay Sharma Vs. State of Haryana and others (1995) 3 SCC 757, it has been observed that filing of a false affidavit was the basis for initiation of action in contempt jurisdiction and the concerned persons were punished.

29. In view of the aforesaid judicial pronouncements, now it is well settled that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final. Suppression of material facts from the court of law, is actually playing fraud with the court. The maxim supressio veri, expression falsi, i.e. suppression of truth is equivalent to the expression of falsehood, gets attracted in such cases including the present one. (emphasis supplied by Court)

30. In view of the above discussion, we are fully convinced that the instant petition is a gross misuse and abuse of process of law and deserves dismissal with heavy cost so that it may set a deterrent example to discard unscruplous persons from invoking Writ Jurisdiction for their vested interest under the camouflage of PIL.

31. The instant PIL petition is dismissed with cost of Rs.50,000/-.

32. We may note that "Tara Sansthan", a Government registered charity organisation, conducts varous charitable activities throughout India which include running of eye hospitals for free check-ups and treatment, old age homes, widow monthly pension scheme, food donation scheme etc. etc. One of such old age homes is named as Rabindra Nath Gaur Anand Old Age Home, located at 25/39, LIC Colony, Tagore Town, Prayagraj (U.P.), where many old people, either having no family members or, though have family members, but have been thrown out from their homes, are passing last stages of their lives in distress. Such organizations including the Old Age Home, Prayagraj is mainly dependant upon the donations made by the general public or some organizations. Since the Public Interest Litigation petitions are meant to wipe out the tears of poor and needy, suffering from violation of their fundamental rights, the Court feels it appropriate that the cost imposed upon the petitioner should also be utilized for those who are in need of money, i.e. to say that it must go for the welfare of the society, particularly, those who are under-privileged or downtrodden for any reason.

33. Therefore, the petitioner is directed to deposit the cost before the Registrar General of this Court within three weeks from the date of this judgment, failing which, the Registrar General shall send a copy of this order alongwith letter to the District Magistrate, Shamli (respondent No.2) to issue a recovery citation against the petitioner for recovering the said sum as arrears of land revenue within one month from the date of receipt of copy of the instant order from the Registrar General.

34. On receipt of aforesaid amount, Registrar General of this Court shall credit the same to the account of Tara Sansthan, SBI Account No. 31840870750, IFSC Code SBIN0011406, after due verification of the particulars of the said account in consultation with the Head/ Incharge of the said Sansthan. The amount, so remitted, shall be used exclusively for the welfare of the old-age people staying in Rabindra Nath Gaur Anand Old Age Home, located at 25/39, LIC Colony Tagore Town, Prayagraj (U.P.). A copy of this order shall also be served upon the Head/Incharge of the said old age home for necessary compliance of this order.

35. The Head/Incharge of said Sansthan shall submit statement(s) of account before Registrar General of this Court disclosing the manner of utilization of cost till the amount is spent for the above welfare purpose, failing which, the Head/Incharge of the said old age home shall be answerable.

Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 - Sections 2(a), 2(f), 2(q), 2(s), 12 & 20 - Constitution of India,1950 - Article 227 - Maintenance for Major Unmarried Daughters - - Petitioners (father and stepmother) challenged trial court's order (30.05.2022) granting interim maintenance of Rs. 3,000/- per month to each of three major daughters (aged 25, 22, 20) under Section 12 of DV Act, and appellate court's affirmation (08.12.2022). Daughters alleged domestic violence (physical assault, denial of education) by father and stepmother after their mother's death. Petitioners contended daughters, being major, were not entitled to maintenance, were earning independently, and application was instigated by maternal uncle. Court held that DV Act provides a broader, quicker remedy for women subjected to domestic violence, including monetary relief under Section 20, which encompasses maintenance under Section 20(1)(d) in addition to or under Section 125 Cr.P.C. or other laws. Supreme Court and High Court precedents (Noor Saba Khatoon Vs Mohd. Quasim, (1997) 6 SCC 233; Jagdish Jugtawat Vs Manju Lata, (2002) 5 SCC 422; Ajay Kumar Vs Lata @ Sharuti, 2019 Supreme (SC) 612; Menti Trinadha Venkata Ramana Vs Menti Lakshmi, 2021 SCC Online AP 2860; Mustakim Vs St. of U.P., 2015 (3) ADJ 693) confirm that major unmarried daughters, Hindu or Muslim, can claim maintenance under personal law or DV Act if subjected to domestic violence in a domestic relationship. Section 20(1) also recognizes independent monetary relief for expenses/losses due to domestic violence, irrespective of age or dependency. No illegality found in impugned orders; petition dismissed under Article 227. (Paras 4-15)

Petition Dismissed.

3. The facts relevant for the purpose of this petition are as below:-

(i) Km. Hina, Km. Tabassum and Km. Tarannum filed a case under section 12 of the DV Act, claiming maintenance with the submissions in brief that their real mother Naseema Khatun died in February 2015 and that their father married another woman during the life time of their deceased mother and that now their father and step-mother have been mistreating, physically assaulting them and have also stopped them from pursuing their education;

(ii) The applicants filed an application for grant of interim maintenance. The opposite side gave written objection, in which in essence, it was submitted that the O.Ps has been facing financial difficulties and that his daughters are healthy and have been earning independently and that they have been staying with him also and he has been bearing all their expenses;

(iii) The learned trial court heard both the sides and directed the O.Ps to pay Rs. 3,000/- per head, every month as interim maintenance allowance;

(iv) Aggrieved by the aforesaid order, O.Ps preferred an appeal in which, besides other averments, it was submitted that his daughters are major, aged about 25 years, 22 years and 20 years respectively and this fact was completely ignored by the trial court, while granting interim maintenance;

(v) The appellate court passed a detailed order, dismissing the appeal.

4. It is submitted on behalf of the petitioners that the learned court below failed to consider the fact that their father is an old and infirm person, having no source of income and that he has already been maintaining the respondents and that the application for grant of maintenance under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, was filed at the behest of their maternal uncle. Since the death of his wife, his daughters were staying with him and the expenses were being borne by him only and that they are educated and have been earning by taking tuitions. The most important contention from the petitioners is that his daughters are major and therefore they cannot claim any maintenance.

5. The Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 has been enacted with an object to provide for 'more effective protection to women', guaranteed under the Constitution, who are the victims of violence of any kind occurring within the family and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. The use of the word 'more' before the phrase 'effective protection of rights of woman' is not an insignificant addition. The matter shall be further elaborated at appropriate places in the judgment.

6. Under the aforesaid Act of 2005, any aggrieved person may apply to the Magistrate for seeking one or more relief under the Act. Broadly the reliefs available under the Act are titled as "Right to reside in a shared household under section 17, Protection orders under section 18, Residence orders under section 19, Monetary reliefs under section 20, Custody orders under section 21 and Compensation orders under section 22."

Section 20 under which monetary relief may be granted to an aggrieved person has been worded as below:-

(1) While disposing of an application under sub-section (1) of section 12, the Magistrate may direct the respondent to pay monetary relief to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by the aggrieved person and any child of the aggrieved person as a result of the domestic violence and such relief may include but is not limited to—

(a)the loss of earnings;

(b) the medical expenses;

(c)the loss caused due to the destruction, damage or removal of any property from the control of the aggrieved person; and

(d) the maintenance for the aggrieved person as well as her children, if any, including an order under or in addition to an order of maintenance under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force.

(2) The monetary relief granted under this section shall be adequate, fair and reasonable and consistent with the standard of living to which the aggrieved person is accustomed

(3) The Magistrate shall have the power to order an appropriate lump sum payment or monthly payments of maintenance, as the nature and circumstances of the case may require.

(4) The Magistrate shall send a copy of the order for monetary relief made under sub-section (1) to the parties to the application and to the in-charge of the police station within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the respondent resides.

(5) The respondent shall pay the monetary relief granted to the aggrieved person within the period specified in the order under sub-section (1).

(6) Upon the failure on the part of the respondent to make payment in terms of the order under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may direct the employer or a debtor of the respondent, to directly pay to the aggrieved person or to deposit with the court a portion of the wages or salaries or debt due to or accrued to the credit of the respondent, which amount may be adjusted towards the monetary relief payable by the respondent."

7. Perusal of the above provision demonstrates that any aggrieved person including any child of the aggrieved person, who has been subjected to domestic violence, may claim monetary relief to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered as a result of domestic violence and also monetary relief for such incidental matters like monetary relief for loss of earnings, medical expenses, loss of any property and also for maintenance. This provision of law further provides that such reliefs of monetary nature can also be claimed which do not fall under the categories enumerated above as the provisions clearly lay down that reliefs need not be limited to reliefs as described under section 20(1), 20(1)(a), 20(1)(b), 20(1)(c) and 20(1)(d). Section 20(1)(d) of the DV Act further expands the scope of monetary relief for maintenance. For better understanding I am reproducing section 20(1)(d) again as below:-

"(d) the maintenance for the aggrieved person as well as her children, if any, including an order under or in addition to an order of maintenance under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force."

This part of the provision of law says that not only the aggrieved persons but also her children, if any, may claim maintenance 'under' and 'in addition' to order of maintenance under section 125 Cr.P.C. And further that the maintenance can be claimed under or in addition to any other law for the time being in force. The way provision has been worded, gives a clear indication that section 12 of the DV Act is essentially a procedural law, which can be resorted to by any aggrieved person, who draws a substantive right for maintenance from any other law, whether under section 125 Cr.P.C. or personal law applicable to the parties or any other law for the time being in force. Thus law is quite clear to the extent that maintenance can be claimed under any law which provides for the same. Further that even if maintenance has already been granted under one law, the aggrieved person can ask for monetary relief for maintenance under any other law in addition, under the provisions of the DV Act. Thus this law seeks to avoid multiplicity of proceedings. Now a question may arise that when rights have been provided for elsewhere, why such enactment was needed at all? In my opinion the legislature has, keeping up with the objective of this enactment, has cut down the procedural formalities and facilitated grant of quicker reliefs.

Section 20(2) of the DV Act says that the monetary relief granted under this section shall be adequate, fair, reasonable and consistent with the standard of living to which the aggrieved person is accustomed. The scope for grant of particular kind of monetary relief that is "maintenance" is further widened in section 20(3) of the DV Act which says that an appropriate lump-sum may be ordered to be paid as maintenance in the nature of circumstances of a particular case. In my opinion, if the provisions of section 20(1)(d) of the DV Act are interpreted in harmony with rights given to an aggrieved person under any other law, it appears that the substantive right to receive maintenance may emanate from other laws, however quick and shorter procedure to obtain the same, has been provided in the the DV Act, 2005. The rights which the parties may have under other laws whether civil or criminal, have been given a cutting edge by the Act. In my view, this explains the use of words "more effective protection to women" in the foreword which described the reasons behind this enactment.

8. Having said that, now I come to some other provisions in the DV Act which strengthen and fortify the above view regarding giving more effective protection to women. Section 2(a) of the DV Act defines "aggrieved person" as any woman who is, or has been, in a domestic relationship with the respondent and who alleges to have been subjected to any act of domestic violence by the respondent. The woman who has been in domestic relationship with the respondent and who has been subjected to any domestic violence, is entitled for relief under the Act, irrespective of her minority or majority. The rights of an aggrieved person flow from the fact that she has been subjected to violence which may be of physical, mental, sexual, verbal and emotional nature and may even in the nature of the economic abuse. The other essential requirement is that the aggrieved person has been living in a shared household or had, at any point of time lived together in a shared household with the respondent, who is related to her by marriage, adoption, consanguinity or living together, in a joint family as a family member.

9. Now an important question is whether an independent substantive right for monetary relief flows from section 20 of the DV Act or whether section 20 read with section 12 of the DV Act, 2005 merely provides for procedure and no more?

10. I examined the provisions as given under section 20 of the DV Act. Section 20(1) of the DV Act (first part) speaks of expenses incurred and losses suffered consequent upon domestic violence. From reading this part, this impression gains ground that irrespective of other factors like dependency, age or marital status etc (which may be relevant in or under any other law) the aggrieved person has an independent right to obtain monetary relief for expenses incurred and losses suffered because of domestic violence. In my view principles of law of torts have found a statutory recognition here. All monetary reliefs under section 20 of the DV Act are in the nature of expenses or losses suffered as a result of domestic violence. However, the grant of maintenance forms altogether a different branch of law though domestic violence remains the triggering factor here as well. The law as regard grant of maintenance even, if it is to be granted under the DV Act has to be seen in a different perspective.

11. With the above perspective in mind, lets go through some of the judgments of the Supreme Court and the High Court as below:-

In Noor Saba Khatoon vs. Mohd. Quasim; (1997) 6 SCC 233, before the Supreme Court, a Muslim woman claimed maintenance from her husband for herself and her three minor children under section 125 Cr.P.C. The trial court allowed the application and directed the OP (her husband) to pay maintenance to his wife as well as his children till attaining the age of majority. The respondent divorced her wife and thereafter filed an application seeking modification of the order dated 19.01.1993 in view of the provisions of the Muslim Women (protection of Rights on Divorce) Act, 1986 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act of 1986'). The trial court modified the order on the ground that after divorce, she was entitled for maintenance for 3 months only i.e. period of 'iddat', as per the provisions of the aforesaid Act of 1986, while maintaining the maintenance order for children. The respondent thereupon filed a petition before the High Court and the High Court, accepting his plea held that the Muslim woman was entitled to claim maintenance from her previous husband, for her minor children only up to the period of 2 years. However the Supreme Court held that the children of Muslim parents have an independent right to claim maintenance under section 125 Cr.P.C. and that the right cannot be allowed to be defeated except through clear provisions of a statutes. The Muslim father's obligation, like a Hindu father to maintain his minor children, as contained in section 125 Cr.P.C. is absolute and is not at all affected by section 3(1)(b) of the Act of 1986.

In para no. 10, it was held as below:-

"10. Thus, both under the personal law and the statutory law (Sec. 125 Cr. P. C.) the obligation of a muslim father, having sufficient means, to maintain his minor children, unable to maintain themselves, till they attain majority and in case of females till they get married, is absolute, notwithstanding the fact that the minor children are living with the divorced wife."

In Jagdish Jugtawat vs. Manju Lata and Others; (2002) 5 SCC 422, the Supreme Court applied the law laid down in Noor Saba Khatoon vs. Mohd. Quasim (supra) and drawing force from the aforesaid judgments held that the right of a minor girl to obtain maintenance from the appellants even after attaining majority till her marriage, is recognized in Section 20(3) in the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 and therefore the order for granting maintenance was right.

The relevant portion is as below:-

"3. In view of the finding recorded and the observations made by the learned Single Judge of the High Court, the only question that arises for consideration is whether the order calls for interference. A similar question came up for consideration by this Court in the case of Noor Saba Khatoon v. Mohd. Quasim , AIR 1997 SC 3280 : 1997 (6) SCC 233 : 1997 SCC (Cri) 924 relating to the claim of a Muslim divorced woman for maintenance from her husband for herself and her minor children. This Court while accepting the position that Section 125, CrPC does not fix liability of parents to maintain children beyond attainment of majority, read the said provision and Section 3(l)(b) of the Muslim Women (Protection of Rights on Divorce) Act together and held that under the latter statutory provision liability of providing maintenance extends beyond attainment of majority of a dependent girl.

4. Applying the principle to the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, it is manifest that the right of a minor girl for maintenance from parents after attaining majority till her marriage is recognized in Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act. Therefore, no exception can be taken to the judgment/order passed by the learned Single Judge for maintaining the order passed by the Family Court which is based on a combined reading of Section 125 CrPC and Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act. For the reasons aforesated we are of the view that on facts and in the circumstances of the case no interference with the impugned judgment/order of the High Court is called for."

The High Court of Andhra Pradesh in Menti Trinadha Venkata Ramana vs. Menti Lakshmi and Others; 2021 SCC Online AP 2860, observed in para nos. 4 and 5 as below:-

"4. While dealing with a similar issue in Jagdish Jugtawat v. Manju Lata and others1, a three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court held though a girl, on attaining majority, may not be entitled to maintenance from her parents under Section 125 of Cr.P.C., such right can be traced to Section 20(3) of the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act, 1956 (for short, 'the Act of 1956') and on a combined reading of the two provisions, the Family Court is entitled to grant maintenance to an un-married daughter even after attaining majority, provided she is unable to maintain herself. However, the aforesaid observations in Jagdish Jugtawat (supra) were recently clarified by another three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Abhilasha v. Parkash and others2, wherein the Bench inter alia observed though a Family Court is entitled to grant maintenance to a major un-married girl by combining the liabilities under Section 125 Cr.P.C. and Section 20(3) of the Act of 1956, a Magistrate exercising powers under Section 125 of Cr.P.C. is not authorized to do so.

5. However, it may be apposite to note that the Magistrate is entitled to entertain an application under the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 (for short, 'the DV Act') and grant monetary relief i.e., to meet the expenses incurred and losses suffered by an aggrieved person under Section 20 of the DV Act, in the event of domestic violence by way of economic abuse is established. A conjoint reading of Section 2(a) and 2(f) of the DV Act would show that a daughter, who is or was living with her father in a domestic relationship by way of consanguinity, is entitled to seek reliefs including monetary relief on her own right as an aggrieved person under Section 2(a) of the DV Act irrespective of the fact whether she is a minor or major. In the present case, the relationship between the parties as father and daughter is admitted and they had stayed together in a shared household. In view of the fact that the petitioner neglected to maintain the 1st respondent-wife and 2nd respondent-daughter, proceedings under section 125 Cr.P.C. came to be instituted and maintenance was awarded to respondents including to the 2nd respondent. As the award was not paid, the learned Magistrate issued the impugned order, dated 14.03.2012, directing recovery of maintenance to the tune of Rs. 22,000/- for a period of 11 months from 17.12.2009 to 16.11.2010. In the aforesaid facts, the order of learned Magistrate may be traced to his powers to grant monetary relief under the DV Act and by a combined reading of the provisions of Section 125 of Cr.P.C. and Section 20 of the DV Act, the said order cannot be said to be illegal on the mere ground that the 2nd respondent had become a major. I am further fortified to arrive at such finding as the relief under the DV Act can be granted in addition to other reliefs available to the aggrieved person as envisaged under Section 26(2) of the DV Act."

The Allahabad High Court in Mustakim vs. State of U.P. and Another; 2015 (3) ADJ 693, has observed in para nos. 10, 11 and 12 as below:-

"10. Now a look at the judgment of this Court in the case of Amod Kumar Srivastava v. State of U.P. and others, 2008 (62) ACC 591. This judgment takes a view that upon attaining majority an illegitimate/legitimate child including an unmarried daughter, is not entitled to claim maintenance, but it does not take into consideration the judgments of the Apex Court in the cases of Noor Saba Khatoon and Jagdish Jugtawat (both supra), wherein it has been held that notwithstanding the ineligibility of a major unmarried daughter to claim maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C, yet an order granting maintenance to such a daughter is not liable to be interfered with a view to avoid multiplicity of proceedings provided she has a right to claim maintenance from her father under the personal law.

11. The Apex Court in the case of Noor Saba Khatoon (supra), after examining the personal law of muslims, has already held that a muslim father is liable to maintain his major daughter till such time she is not married. It is not disputed that O.P. No.2 is major and that she is not yet married.

12. It is held that notwithstanding the ineligibility of a muslim major unmarried daughter to claim maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C, yet an order granting maintenance to her is not liable to be interfered, with a view to avoid the multiplicity of proceedings, as such a daughter, who is unable to maintain herself can claim maintenance from her father under the personal law."

The Supreme Court in Ajay Kumar vs. Lata @ Sharuti & Others; 2019 0 Supreme (SC) 612, in the light of the provisions of section 12 and section 20(1) of the DV Act held that the monetary relief may include but is not limited to an order of maintenance of the aggrieved persons as well as his children, if any, including an order under or in addition to order of maintenance under section 125 Cr.P.C. or any other law for the time being in force. The Supreme Court thereafter alluded to the definition of 'respondent' as given in section 2(q) of the DV Act, definition of 'domestic relationship' as given in section 2(f) of the DV Act and definition of 'shared household' as given in section 2(s) of the DV Act and went on to observe in para no. 15 as below:-

"15. All these definitions indicate the width and amplitude of the intent of Parliament in creating both an obligation and a remedy in the terms of the enactment."

12. In my opinion, in the above words, the Supreme Court has recognized that the scope of DV Act, 2005 is quite wide. The statement of object and reasons which finds place at the top of any particular enactment may be of utility while interpreting the provisions of law. The objective of enacting this Act has been worded as below:-

"An Act to provide for more effective protection of the rights of women guaranteed under the Constitution who are victims of violence of any kind occurring within the family and for matter connected therewith or incidental thereto."

13. In my view the legislature, while enacting this Act had this realisation in mind that though existing provision of law provide for rights of maintenance to eligible persons, however the procedural delays defeat the very purpose. The enactment seeks to grant a quicker relief where the aggrieved woman has been subjected to domestic violence and was in a domestic relationship with the respondent. This explains the use of words "more effective protection to women", hence it is being held that where a sufferer has a right to obtain maintenance as provided in criminal law or in civil law or personal law and that she has been subjected to domestic violence from a person who stood in domestic relationship, she may resort to quicker method of obtaining reliefs under section 12 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005.

14. From perusal of the judgments as have been referred to earlier, there remains no doubt that unmarried daughter, whether Hindu or Muslim has a right to obtain maintenance, irrespective of her age. This is made clear again that the courts have to look for other laws applicable when the question pertains to right to be maintained. However, where issue does not pertain to mere maintenance, the independent rights are available to an aggrieved under section 20 of the DV Act itself.

15. Hence, I do not find any good ground to interfere in the impugned orders in exercise of powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, therefore, this revision is dismissed.

16. Let a copy of the order be immediately transmitted to the court concerned.

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 243 - Constitution of India,1950 - Article 227 - Defence Witnesses - - Petitioner challenged the order dated 18.01.2023 by Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi, rejecting applications (dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021) to summon retired police officers (Bua Singh, Atul, Vijay Kumar Agrawal) as defence witnesses in a trial under Sections 392, 218, 467, 468, 120-B IPC. Petitioner, a former Sub-Inspector, was charged for fabricating a false loot incident after lodging an FIR (Case Crime No. 444/2000). Applications sought to summon documents, case property, recall prosecution witnesses, and call retired officers to verify departmental enquiry records. Revisional court partly allowed earlier revision (26.04.2022), directing reconsideration only for summoning defence witnesses. Trial court's subsequent order (20.09.2022) allowing summoning was set aside by revisional court (22.12.2022) for lack of reasoning. Fresh order (18.01.2023) rejected applications, finding no material relevance of witnesses, deeming the request vexatious and dilatory. Court upheld the order, noting Section 243(2) Cr.P.C. allows refusal if summoning is for vexation or delay, and the proviso restricts recalling witnesses unless essential for justice. Petitioner failed to demonstrate witnesses' relevance to disprove prosecution or prove innocence. No miscarriage of justice or violation of law found. Petition dismissed under Article 227. (Paras 8-15)

Petition Dismissed.

1. Heard Sri Utkarsh Birla, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Ram Kumar Verma, learned AGA for the State.

2. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution has been filed by the petitioner-Diwakar Singh with a prayer to set aside the order dated 18.01.2023 passed by the Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 5, Varanasi in criminal case no. 3272 of 2019, by which the applications dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021 were rejected, with a further prayer to issue an appropriate direction to the Judicial Magistrate/ the court concerned to comply with the interim order passed by this court in criminal misc. petition no. 2160 of 2023 dated 27.04.2023.

3. Relevant facts are as below:-

(i) The petitioner Diwakar Singh was posted as Sub-Inspector of police and he lodged an FIR, case crime no. 444 of 2000 under sections 307 and 392 IPC and section 3 of FEMA Act against Durga Prasad Agarwal and few others;

(ii) The police investigated the matter and filed a chargesheet, not against the persons named therein but against the petitioner the first informant Diwakar Singh himself, under sections 392, 218, 467, 468, 120-B IPC on 25.07.2003, stating therein that Sub-Inspector Diwakar Singh, with his unknown associates hatched a conspiracy showing a fake incident of loot and he also prepared false papers to show a false incident as genuine one. Durga Prasad Agarwal and number of others were made witness against Sub-Inspector Diwakar Singh;

(iii) During the course of proceedings of the trial, the accused Diwakar Singh moved an application on 13.10.2020, requesting the trial court concerned to summon the files of departmental proceedings and to summon/direct the police officers to remain present on the dates of hearing.

(iv) The trial court wrote a letter dated 20.10.2020 to Additional Director General of Police, Anti-Corruption for production of original record. The department concerned sent the original record by a covering letter dated 29.10.2020;

(v) The prosecution examined its witnesses and the prosecution evidence stood closed on 04.05.2021. Thereafter the statement the accused were recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C.;

(vi) At the stage of defence evidence, the accused moved an application dated 19.07.2021 with following prayers:-

" …….to pass order directing the prosecution to provide copy of DFR dated 05.06.2022, Interrogation Report dated 15.09.2000 and Statements of PW-5 Shri Shashank Agrawal and Pw-6 Shri Durga Prasad Agrawal which were recorded by the SIT, summon the case property Rs. 2,47,500/- and re-call PW-1 Shri Babu Chand and PW-6 Shri Durga Prasad Agrawal and summon Shri Bua Singh (Retd. DGP) and Shri Atul (Retd. DGP) as defense witnesses to meet the ends of justice."

(vii) He moved another application dated 02.08.2021 with following prayer:-

"……. to pass order directing to the prosecution to re-call the PW-1 Shri Babu Chand and PW-6 Shri Durga Prasad Agrawal. It is further prayed that Shri Bua Singh (Retd. DGP), Shri Atul (Retd. DGP) and Shri Vijay Kumar Agrawal (Retd. IGP) may also be summoned as defense witnesses for verifying letters, approval orders and DFRs and exhibiting them as Exhibit-Kha to meet the ends of justice."

(viii) The learned Magistrate dismissed his both the applications (dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021) by a detailed order passed on 16.09.2021*;*

(ix) The accused preferred a criminal revision no. 242 of 2021. The revisional court partly allowed the revision and passed an order on 26.04.2022 as below:-

"निगरानीकर्ता द्वारा प्रस्तुत निगरानी आंशिक रूप से स्वीकार किया जाता है। अवर न्यायालय द्वारा श्री बुआ सिंह, श्री अतुल, श्री विजय कुमार अग्रवाल को तलब न किये जाने के बिन्दु पर पारित आदेश दिनांकित 16.09.2021 निरस्त किया जाता है। दिनांक 16.09.2021 के पारित आदेश के द्वारा प्रार्थनापत्र दिनांकित 02.0702021, 02.08.2021 व 19.07.2021 के परिप्रेक्ष्य में अन्य बिन्दुओं पर पारित आदेश को पुष्ट किया जाता है। अवर न्यायालय को निर्देशित किया जाता है कि साक्षीगण के तलबी के बिन्दु पर निगरानीकर्ता को पुनः सुनकर विधिनुसार आदेश पारित किया जाना सुनिश्चित करें। निगरानीकर्ता को निर्देशित किया जाता है कि दिनांक 12.05.2022 को अवर न्यायालय में उपस्थित हों।"

(x) The order dated 26.04.2022 of revisional court was challenged in misc. petition no. 3972 of 2022 before the High Court, which is still pending;

(xi) During the pendency of aforesaid misc. petition, the trial court proceeded and passed a fresh order dated 20.09.2022 allowing the applications of the accused dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021 to the extent that Bua Singh (Retd. DGP), Atul (Retd. DGP) and Vijay Kumar Agrawal (Retd. IGP) may be produced as defence witnesses. This order dated 20.09.2022 was passed in the light of the order of the revisional court dated 26.04.2022 and the case was posted for defence evidence;

(xii) This order passed by the trial court for summoning the defence witness, was challenged in criminal revision no. 393 of 2022 by the State, which was decided by order dated 22.12.2022 by the District Judge, Varanasi. By this order, the revision was allowed and the order of summoning the police officers, as defence witnesses was set-aside and the trial court was directed to pass a fresh order, mentioning therein the reasons and the grounds for summoning those persons as defence witnesses;

(xiii) In the light of the aforesaid order of the revisional court, the Judicial Magistrate, Court no. 5, Varanasi passed a fresh order dated 18.01.2023 and the applications dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021 were rejected by the court concerned, on the basis of discussions and reasons disclosed in the order;

(xiv) The aforesaid order dated 18.01.2023 is now under challenge in this petition.

4. The submissions of the petitioner are that in his applications dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021, he has given detailed reasons for the purpose of summoning Bua Singh (Retd. DGP), Atul (Retd. DGP) and Vijay Kumar Agrawal (Retd. IGP), as defence witnesses; further submission is that adducing evidence in support of defence is a valuable right, denial whereof is equivalent to denial of fair trial. Further that the court below did not cite any good reason for rejecting the applications. The petitioner relied on the judgment of the Supreme Court given in Criminal Appeal No. 1293 of 2006 (Mrs. Kalyani Baskar vs. M.S. Sampoornam) decided on 11.12.2006. Further on Suo Moto Writ (Crl.) No. 1 of 2017 (In Re: To Issue Certain Guidlines Regarding Inadequacies and Deficiencies in Criminal Trials vs. The State of Andhra Pradesh and Others) decided on 20.04.2021 and also on the judgment of the Delhi High Court in Criminal Revision No. 1169 of 2018 (Shyam Manohar Saxena vs. C.B.I. and others) decided on 01.07.2019.

5. The accused made following prayer in his application dated 19.07.2021:-

" It is, therefore, respectfully prayed to this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to pass order directing to the prosecution to provide copy of DFR dated 05.06.2022, Interrogation Report dated 15.09.2000 and Statements of PW-5 Shri Shashank Agrawal and Pw-6 Shri Durga Prasad Agrawal which were recorded by the SIT, summon the case property Rs. 2,47,500/- and re-call PW-1 Shri Babu Chand and PW-6 Shri Durga Prasad Agrawal and summon Shri Bua Singh (Retd. DGP) and Shri Atul (Retd. DGP) as defense witnesses to meet the ends of justice."

In continuation of this application dated 19.07.2021, the accused moved another application dated 02.08.2021 to supplement the earlier one with following prayer as below:-

"It is, therefore, respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may be please to pass order directing to the prosecution to re-call the PW-1 Shri Babu Chand and PW-6 Shri Durga Prasad Agrawal. It is further prayed that Shri Bua Singh (Retd. DGP), Shri Atul (Retd. DGP) and Shri Vijay Kumar Agrawal (Retd. IGP) may also be summoned as defense witnesses for verifying letters, approval orders and DFRs and exhibiting them as Exhibit-Kha to meet the ends of justice."

Broadly, four kinds of prayers were made:-

(i) summoning certain papers;

(ii) summoning the case property;

(iii) recall of certain prosecution witnesses who were already examined/cross-examined;

(iv) calling certain persons as defence witnesses.

6. The matter has gone into several rounds of litigation. In the first round, the trial court heard the matter of summoning/recall/re-examination of the witness/papers/case property and dismissed the same by an order dated 16.09.2021. The court of revision partly allowed the same and directed the trial court to re-hear only the matter of summoning three persons as defence witnesses namely, Bua Singh, Atul and Vijay Kumar Agrawal, all retired police officers. The revisional court at the same time affirmed the rest of the order passed by the trial court. The learned trial court, therefore, passed a fresh order on 20.09.2022 and summoned the aforesaid persons, as defence witnesses. The State started a second round of litigation by filing a criminal revision no. 393 of 2022, which was allowed by order dated 22.12.2022. The trial court was directed to hear the matter again and pass a speaking order, mentioning therein the reasons, in case the trial court found the witnesses fit to be summoned, as defence witnesses, therefore, the trial court passed an order for the third time on 18.01.2023 and this time rejected the prayer for summoning the aforesaid persons, as defence witnesses.

7. Admittedly the interim stay orders were passed by the High Court in Misc. Petition No. 2160 of 2023 after a fresh order was already passed by the trial court, hence is of no consequence.

8. This is significant to note that the accused made several prayers in his applications but the point in issue has narrowed down to the question of summoning three persons as defence witness. This may be noted that none of the orders passed in revision i.e., Criminal Revision no. 242 of 2021 passed on 26.04.2022 and in Criminal Revision no. 393 of 2022 passed on 22.12.2022, are under challenge in this petition. In the former criminal revision, part of the order passed by the trial court was affirmed meaning thereby that the order of trial court rejecting the prayer to summon the witnesses PW1 and PW6, who stood already examined and a further prayer to summon Rs. 2,47,500/-, seized in the incident as case property were not interfered at by the court of revision. The findings on those points have become final and cannot be re-agitated in the present petition for the simple reason that those orders have not been challenged. It may be reiterated that the petitioner has challenged only the third order passed by the trial court, by which the matter of summoning three persons was rejected. In these circumstances, the matter has boiled down to above issue only i.e., whether to summon retired police officers namely, Shri Bua Singh (Retd. DGP), Shri Atul (Retd. DGP) and Shri Vijay Kumar Agrawal (Retd. IGP), as defence witnesses or not.

9. Now the question which arises is whether the trial court was correct in rejecting the prayer on the grounds that it was made for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice. For this purpose, it will be appropriate to reproduce the provisions of section 243 Cr.P.C. as below:-

"243. Evidence for defence.

(1) The accused shall then be called upon to enter upon his defence and produce his evidence; and if the accused puts in any written statement, the Magistrate shall file it with the record.

(2) If the accused, after he has entered upon his defence, applies to the Magistrate to issue any process for compelling the attendance of any witness for the purpose of examination or cross-examination, or the production of any document or other thing, the Magistrate shall issue such. process unless he considers that such application should be refused on the ground that it is made for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice and such ground shall be recorded by him in writing: Provided that, when the accused has cross-examined or had the opportunity of cross- examining any witness before entering on his defence, the attendance of such witness shall not be compelled under this section, unless the Magistrate is satisfied that it is necessary for the ends of justice.

(3) The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on an application under sub- section (2), require that the reasonable expenses incurred by the witness in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court. B.- Cases instituted otherwise than on police report."

10. From bare perusal of section 243 Cr.P.C., it occurs that a clear distinction has been maintained between the persons who are sought to be produced by the defence before the court for the first time with the persons who have been already produced as witnesses. The law provides two kinds of parameters, first one which shall apply to the witnesses for the purpose of fresh examination and the second when some witness who has already been examined and cross-examined or the accused had an opportunity to cross-examine them before he entered on his defence. The law provides that in the first case ordinarily the Magistrate may issue process unless he considered that such application should be refused on the ground that it is made for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice. In the second case (i.e., when a person who has already been cross-examined by the defence or the defence had an opportunity of cross-examining him), the attendance of such witness shall not be compelled unless the Magistrate is satisfied that it is necessary for the ends of justice. The first part of section 243(2) Cr.P.C. has been worded in a positive manner while the proviso to section 243(2) Cr.P.C which applies in a latter case, has been worded giving only a little scope to the defence. The law imposes obligation on the Magistrate not to compel the attendance of any such witnesses unless it is satisfied that it is necessary for the ends of justice. The aforesaid distinction should be kept in mind while dealing the matter under section 243 Cr.P.C.

11. From here, I find it necessary to relate the matter to the submissions as contained in the applications moved by the accused before the trial court. The accused has submitted in his application that the proposed D.F.R. i.e., draft final report was approved by Bua Singh, the then HOD, Anti-Corruption Organization, UP. Except the above averments, there is no other material fact brought before the court as regard summoning of Bua Singh, as defence witness. As regard the second witness namely, Shri Atul, the then ADG, Police is concerned, the defence seeks to examine him for verification of inquiry closure report and no more. This is all which is contained in the application dated 19.07.2021 seeking Shri Bua Singh and Shri Atul to be produced as defence witnesses. A second application, which was moved on 02.08.2021 to supplement the previous application, there is mention of name of Vijay Kumar Agrawal, the then SP, Anti-Corruption Organization, UP in para no. 2(c) of the application. In the aforesaid portion of the application, there is a plain statement suggesting that there was close nexus between the investigating agency and Vijay Kumar Agrawal, the then SP, Anti-Corruption Organization, UP. From bare perusal of the statements, as mentioned in the original applications dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021, it can fairly be inferred that the defence has not been able to demonstrate that how and why examination of these witnesses is important for his defence and that why and how their evidence may prove helpful to disprove the prosecution case or to prove his innocence or even to create cracks or doubts in the prosecution story.

12. In the background of above facts, the learned trial court rightly observed as below:-

"On the perusal of record and the observation made in the order dated 22.12.2022, the Court is of the view that through application dated 19.07.2021 and 02.08.2021, the accused summoning Shri Bua Singh, Shri Atul & Shri Vijay Kumar as defence witnesses because they have sanctioned the permission to conduct departmental enquiry on the basis of documents and certain evidences. Accused has mentioned in detail the lacunae in those departmental & privileged documents & proceedings which has been conducted in the departmental enquiry. For this purpose, the accused has presented application dated 19.07.2021 & 02.08.2021 in order to summon the defence witnesses which are mentioned above.

It is found that, on perusal of records and hearing both the parties, Shri Bua Singh, Shri Atul & Shri Vijay Kumar are retried senior officers who have been sought to be summoned as defence witnesses by accused/applicant are neither eye witnesses, nor circumstantial witnesses. They have neither been questioned by investigating officer during investigation nor their statements have been recorded. On the perusal of record, it is found that Shri Bua Singh, Shri Atul & Shri Vijay Kumar have sanctioned the departmental enquiry to conduct against the applicant. It is on the because of this act which these officers have done in discharge of their official duty, the accused through application dated 19.07.2021 & 02.08.2021 seek permission under section 243 Cr.P.C. to summon them as defence witnesses. In the light of above, facts & circumstances, the court is of the view that the accused has failed to show as to how the evidences of these persons are material in the present case."

After mentioning the above facts and circumstances, the learned trial court has taken a view that the defence seeks to summon these retired officers as witness for the purpose of vexation or delay and to defeat the ends of justice. In the light of the material as disclosed in the applications moved by the defence, the observations made by the trial court appear to be cogent and pertinent. And the opinion formed that defence in fact seeks to summon the retired police officers as witness for the purpose of vexation or causing delay do not appear to be far-fetched or unfounded.

13. As a matter of caution, I went through all the averments made in the applications as well as in the petition and all the material on record, to find out some good ground the accused may have taken. There are long winding statements and descriptions all weaved together to give a false impression of having a good case, but a discerning judicial eye can see through the web created by a legal mind. Outwardly the contentions are appealing but they do not have any substance. The case laws cannot help when there is no substance in the submissions.

14. The power under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is definitely supervisory in nature, but it should be exercised sparingly and in appropriate cases, only to prevent miscarriage of justice or flagrant violation of law.

Exercise of this power and interfering with the orders of the courts or tribunals is restricted to cases of serious dereliction of duty and flagrant violation of fundamental principles of law or justice, where if the High Court does not interfere, a grave injustice remains uncorrected.

15. I do not find any good reason to interfere in the order impugned in exercise of powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, hence the petition is dismissed.

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Section 504 - Constitution India,1950 - Article 227 - Petitioner challenged the summoning order dated 24.09.2021 by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Varanasi, under Section 504 IPC in Complaint Case No. 8564/2018, and its affirmation by revisional court on 31.05.2023. Complainant, an advocate and RTI activist, alleged that petitioner, Executive Director of Kiran Society, insulted him by calling him "mad" during an inquiry on 19.05.2017, initiated due to his complaint against the society's misuse of funds. St.ments under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. alleged insult and abusive words in public. Petitioner argued no offence under Section 504 IPC was made out, as the remark lacked intent to provoke breach of public peace, and the complaint was filed after a 16-month delay, barred by Section 468 Cr.P.C. Relying on Vikram Johar Vs St. of U.P., AIR 2019 SC 297, and Fiona Shrikhande Vs St. of Maharashtra, (2013) 14 SCC 44, court held that Section 504 requires intentional insult of a degree to provoke breach of peace or commission of an offence. The stray remark, made in the context of an inquiry, was inappropriate but lacked criminal intent. Courts below failed to apply judicial mind under Sections 203 and 204 Cr.P.C., as the evidence did not establish a prima facie case. Summoning order and revisional order set aside; proceedings quashed. Petition allowed. (Paras 9-20)

Petition Allowed.

1. Heard Sri Manoj Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Surendra Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This petition under Article 227 has been filed challenging the order dated 24.09.2021 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate in Complaint Case No. 8564 of 2018 (Dashrath Kumar Dixit Vs. Sangeeta J.K) summoning the accused under section 504 I.P.C. and further to set aside order dated 31.05.2023 passed in Criminal Revision No. 280 of 2021 by which the summoning order was affirmed. A further relief of quashing the entire proceedings of the complaint case has also been sought by means of this petition.

3. The relevant facts are as below.

Dashrath Kumar Dixit (the respondent herein) filed a complaint case against Sangeeta J.K., Executive Director, Kiran Society and ten others under section 500 I.P.C. with the allegations in brief as below:-

That the complainant is an Advocate and has been working for the welfare of handicapped weaker sections and for human rights and is also a R.T.I. activist. Kiran Society has been obtaining funds from foreign countries in the name of welfare of handicapped people, but they have been misusing those funds and exploiting them;

That the complainant therefore complained to the District Magistrate, Varanasi by an application dated 15.05.2017. The District Magistrate, Varanasi instituted an inquiry and Rajesh Kumar Mishra, District Divyangjan Sashaktikaran Adhikari, was deputed as the Inquiry Officer;

That the Inquiry Officer called parties to H.R.T.C. Auditorium on 19.05.2017 in connection with the Inquiry and in the presence of the parties, the complainant was insulted. The production of evidence during the inquiry was recorded by opposite party no.11 - Divyangjan Sashaktikaran Adhikari that is Rajesh Kumar Mishra. The video can be obtained officially;

That during the inquiry, on 19.05.2017, in the presence of all the persons in the Auditorium, the O.P. No. 1, Sangeeta J.K. addressed the complainant in following words "this person is mad". The complainant, who is an Advocate and has been practising for last many years, objected and asked the O.P. No. 11 to include this fact in the inquiry report, but he paid no heed;

That one Raju Kumar Kanaujiya, was threatened by Sangeeta J.K. in front of all the others;

That the Inquiry conducted by O.P. No.11 is doubtful as he never considered the important aspects of the matter;

That the O.P. Nos. 2 -10, under the patronage of O.P. No.11, and the O.P. No.1-Sangeeta J.K. regularly keep threatening the complainant through letters in the office and outside the office in various ways. They regularly mislead the officers of the department;

And that the complainant was deliberately insulted and was put to mental trauma, therefore, a case be registered against them and the passport and visa of Sangeeta J.K. be seized so that she cannot escape to foreign country.

4. On the basis of above allegations, the court proceeded to record the statements of Dashrath Kumar Dixit under section 200 Cr.P.C. and of Vinod Kumar Goswami, Anil Kumar Gupta and Santosh Kumar Pandey under section 202 Cr.P.C. A number of documents were produced at that stage.

5. The C.J.M. proceeded to hear the complainant and passed summoning order on 24.09.2021. By this summoning order, only O.P. No.1 -Sangeeta J.K,, Executive Director, Kiran Society,was summoned under section 504 I.P.C.

6. The accused Sangeeta J.K. preferred a revision before District Judge, Varanasi, assailing the summoning order. Both the sides were heard, the revisional court affirmed the order of summoning by passing an order on 31.05.2023.

7. Now, the accused is before this Court assailing both the orders.

8. The submissions of the petitioner are that the O.P. No. 2 filed a false and frivolous case. The incident allegedly happened on 19.05.2017. And the complaint has been filed more than a year therafter i.e. on 24.09.2017. Further that the complainant in his statement under section 200 Cr.P.C. did not show anything which could have been considered as constituting an offence under section 504 I.P.C. And even the witnesses examined under section 202 Cr.P.C. did not state any material fact which can be taken as coming within the definition of section 504 I.P.C. It is further submitted that the complainant had filed the complaint under section 500 I.P.C., and from the evidence produced by him, no offence under section 504 I.P.C. or any other is made out. It is next contended that there is nothing to suggest that the complainant was intentionally insulted or provoked intending and knowing that such act will cause him to break the public peace. The complaint has been filed after lapse of one year and four months from the date of incident with a view to harass him. Another contention is that the Magistrate took cognizance by summoning the accused-petitioner on 24.09.2021 under section 504 I.P.C. Therefore, the proceeding against him is barred by provisions of section 468 Cr.P.C., further that the witnesses Vinod Goswami, Santosh Kumar Pandey, Anil Kumar Gupta are ex-employees of the Kiran Society and therefore are interested in harassing her. They cannot be relied upon and that they have colluded with the petitioner for initiating this malicious prosecution.

9. The petitioner relies upon a judgment of Supreme Court given in Vikram Johar Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh Aironline 2019 SC 297 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 759 of 2019, decided on 26.04.2019. In the aforesaid case before the Supreme Court, the facts were that the accused came with 2 -3 unknown persons, one of whom was holding revolver and he abused him in filthy language. The complainant was rescued by a neighbour when the accused persons were about to assault him. The accused was summoned. Summoning order was challenged. In the aforesaid judgment, the Supreme Court referred to a judgment given in Fiona Shrikhande Vs. State of Maharashtra and Another 2013 14 SCC 44 passed in Criminal Appeal No. 1231 of 2013 (arising out of S.L.P. (Cri). No. 382 of 2013), decided on 22.08.2013, wherein it was held that the Magistrate is merely concerned with the allegations made in the complaint and has only to prima facie satisfy whether there are sufficient ground to proceed against the accused. In paragraph 13 of the judgment in Fiona Shrikhande (supra), the Supreme Court had noticed the ingredients of section 504 I.P.C. in following words:

"13. Section 504 IPC comprises of following ingredients, viz., (a) intentional insult, (b) the insult must be such as to give provocation to the person insulted, and (c) the accused must intend or know that such provocation would cause another to break the public peace or to commit any other offence. The intentional insult must be of such a degree that should provoke a person to break the public peace or to commit any other offence. The person who intentionally insults intending or knowing it to be likely that it will give provocation to any other person and such provocation will cause to break the public peace or to commit any other offence, in such a situation, the ingredients of Section 504 are satisfied. One of the essential elements constituting the offence is that there should have been an act or conduct amounting to intentional insult and the mere fact that the accused abused the complainant, as such, is not sufficient by itself to warrant a conviction under Section 504 IPC."

10. The Supreme Court in Vikram Johar (supra) case observed in para-26 as below:

"26. Now, we revert back to the allegations in the complaint against the appellant. The allegation is that appellant with two or three other unknown persons, one of whom was holding a revolver, came to the complainant's house and abused him in filthy language and attempted to assault him and when some neighbours arrived there the appellant and the other persons accompanying him fled the spot. The above allegation taking on its face value does not satisfy the ingredients of Sections 504 and 506 as has been enumerated by this Court in the above two judgments. The intentional insult must be of such a degree that should provoke a person to break the public peace or to commit any other offence. The mere allegation that appellant came and abused the complainant does not satisfy the ingredients as laid down in paragraph No.13 of the judgment of this Court in Fiona Shrikhande (Supra)."

The Court allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment given by High Court as well as by the trial court.

11. I went through the material on record including the copy of the statements given by the complainant under section 200 Cr.P.C. and the statements given by his witnesses under section 202 Cr.P.C. It is important to keep in mind that main contention of the petitioner is that no offence under section 504 I.P.C. is made out as there has not been any intentional insult which may be construed as provocation for breaking public peace or to commit an offence.

12. The petitioner has attracted attention of this Court to relevant portions of statements of the complainant as below:-

"मैं ज्यों ही कुछ कहने जा रहा था कि कुछ उल्टा सीधा करने लगे माँ-बहन की भद्दी-भद्दी गालियाँ देने लगे, मेरे द्वारा मिश्रा जी से कहने पर उन्होंने कहा कि मैंने कुछ नहीं सुना। मुझे पागल बोला गया था।"

His witness P.W.1- Vinod Kumar Goswami stated as below:-

"अधिवक्ता दशरथ कुमार दीक्षित को भरी सभा में पागल व अपशब्दों का प्रयोग किया।"

PW2-Anil Kumar Gupta stated as below:-

"दिनाँक 19.05.2017 को N.R.T.C. आडिटोरियम में किरण सोसायटी के पक्षों को बुलाया गया जिसमें विकलांग अधिकारी, सोसायटी के सदस्य तथा मेरे अधिवक्ता दशरथ कुमार दीक्षित उपस्थित थे। जहाँ सबके समक्ष मुझे तथा मेरे अधिवक्ता दशरथ कुमार दीक्षित को अपशब्द कहा गया तथा पागल कहा गया। "

Another witness Santosh Kumar Pandey stated as below:-

"जाँच के दौरान हमारे अधिवक्ता श्री दशरथ दीक्षित जी को संगीता जे० के० द्वारा पागल बोला गया तथा बेइज्जत किया गया। "

13. There is no dispute that on the basis of above statements the learned trial court gave an opinion that prima facie offence under section 504 IPC is made out and ordered for summoning of the accused Sangeeta J.K., Executive Director of Kiran Society.

14. Before the revisional court, the contention of the accused revisionist was that mere use of insulting words without intention to make the person addressed to commit breach of peace will not attract section 504 IPC and that even if the allegations made are taken as true, no offence is made out. Further, one of the contentions is that besides her, a number of other persons have been arrayed as accused and the complainant has not imputed any specific role to any of them and that the trial court passed the order without application of judicial mind. Perusal of impugned order demonstrates that after noting down all the averments of the revisionist, the learned court of revision, briefly dealt with the main issue i.e., whether offence under section 504 IPC was made out or not. The revisional court gave an opinion that as in front of a number of persons, the accused Sangeeta J.K. said that this person (the complainant) is mad, therefore, the offence under section 504 IPC is made out and refused to interfere in the order of summoning passed by the trial court.

15. In my opinion, two main issues are involved in this matter. Firstly, from the statements given by the complainant and his witnesses, if presumed as truthful, whether offence under section 504 IPC is made out? Secondly, whether the learned Magistrate applied its judicial mind to arrive at requisite satisfaction before he decided to take cognizance.

The phrase 'sufficient ground to proceed' has been treated at par with the word 'satisfaction' which the Court/the Magistrate is expected to arrive at, before issuance of process in the background of provisions of law under section 204 Cr.P.C. Section 204 Cr.P.C. is a very first section in Chapter XVI under the title "commencing of proceedings before the Magistrates". From this stage the Magistrate has to tread very cautiously before jumping to take cognizance and proceed against the accused. On one hand, there is law which says that the Magistrate has to find out whether commission of an offence is disclosed from the material before him and that he has to go through the evidence and apply his judicial mind for this limited purpose, on the other hand the law says that he has to avoid meticulous analysis of the evidence and has not to hold a mini trial. There cannot be two opinions that a Magistrate shall not proceed in a casual and cursory manner. He is, of course expected to apply its judicial mind and the application of judicial mind suggests that he is well within his powers to go through the evidence for the purpose of ascertaining the credibility, truthfulness, inherent improbabilities, if any, although he has to refrain from threadbare analysis of evidence or splitting of hairs. A Magistrate ought to be prudent, a discerner and realistic. A fine balance has to be maintained in order to decide whether or not to proceed any further. Section 203 Cr.P.C and Section 204 Cr.P.C. are two sides of the same coin and here lies the real test of a judicial mind.

16. This Court in Criminal Appeal No. 9188 of 2022 (Dr. Divya Nand Yadav and Another vs. State of U.P. and Another) decided on 20.04.2023, equated the word 'prima facie satisfaction' with the sufficient ground to proceed on the basis of the judgment of the Supreme Court passed in Fiona Shrikhande vs. State of Maharashtra and Another; (2013) 14 SCC 44. Further the relative scope of Sections 203 and 204 Cr.P.C. were noted and considered by the Supreme Court in Pepsi Food Limited and another vs. Special Judicial Magistrate and others; (1998) 5 SCC 749, which said:-

"Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

The Supreme Court emphasized the need that the Magistrate should not sit like a silent spectator.

In para no. 14 of the judgment of Dr. Divya Nand Yadav and Another (supra), this court has held as below:-

"14. The fact of the matter is that the court shall not proceed in a mechanical or a routine manner. It shall apply its mind, which is called a judicial mind and discretion as well. The court/the Magistrate, though shall not go deep into the evidence given and shall not weigh the evidentiary value in a meticulous manner. Except this rider, there is no other obstacles before the court below for arriving at the "prima facie satisfaction" a word which can be equated with the word "prima facie case".

17. In the aforesaid judgment in Dr. Divya Nand Yadav and Another (supra), this legal position has been reiterated that at the time of summoing, the trial court has to confine itself to the evidence produced on behalf of the complainant, however when the accused has been summoned and he prefers a revision, the revisional court is at an advantageous position in the sense that it has opportunity to hear both the sides i.e., the complainant as well as the accused, therefore the revisional court is in a better position to take an independent view on the basis of material before itself. Further this court emphasised the need for conducting of the inquiry as envisaged in section 202 Cr.P.C. by the Magistrate himself and the pitfalls when the Magistrate does not play the expected role and therefore is faced with a situation where he may have to take a one sided view on the basis of plain statements given by the complainant and his witnesses. The Allahabad High Court's meaningful observations in para nos. 6 and 9 of the judgment in Dr. Divya Nand (supra) are worth mention in this respect.

The para nos. 6 and 9 of the aforesaid judgment are being reproduced here.

"6. There is certain purpose behind enacting this provision in this manner. When a Magistrate who is trained in law, himself asks the questions he may elicit the facts which are nearer to truth. Obviously then there are much better chance to check the veracity of allegations, the evaluation of evidence before him and thereby come to the right conclusion for summoning the real culprits and at the same time putting his foot down that no innocent person is summoned unnecessarily. The purpose is lost when this power is not utilized.

9. The phrase occurring in Section 202 Cr.P.C. "inquire into the case himself" enjoins the Magistrate that he actually plays its part by examining the witnesses himself, rather than depending upon the statements which might be clouded, cryptic, obscure or ambiguous and sometime very direct and bald. The experience in courts strengthens the impression that more often then not unsupervised, one sided statement may have more to conceal than to reveal. It is said that law is a living being. It grows and develops according to the exigencies of the times. It will not be out of context to mention that the superior courts have observed in a number of cases that the trial courts ought to be quite alert when they decide to take cognizance or summon the accused persons, may be at the stage of Section 204 Cr.P.C. or otherwise. The superior courts have consistently kept on cautioning the courts to be quite circumspect, careful, alert and wakeful while putting the legal machinery in motion. The vicissitudes of cases, peculiar facts and situations do impact the interpretations of law and contribute towards the developments and progress of legal arena."

18. Now I come to the question whether an offence under section 504 IPC is made out. In Fiona Shirkhande Vs. State of Maharashtra and Another (supra), the Supreme Court emphasised that intentional insult must be such as to give provocation to the person insulted to break the public peace or to commit any other offence. As alluded to earlier, the only allegation is that in front of several others, participating in the meeting, the accused said that this person (the complainant) is mad. This may be noted that these words were uttered when both the sides were called in connection with an inquiry which was initiated on the basis of a number of allegations made by the complainant against the accused and her society.

19. From all the facts and circumstances, it appears that it was a stray statement made in a careless manner, not intending that it may provoke a person to break the public peace or commit any other offence. Even if, for the sake of argument, uttering of such words are taken as intentional insult however in my opinion the same cannot be construed as of such degree so as to provoke any person to cause breach of peace. Circumstances suggest that uttering of such words could be an unintended spontaneous remark made in the prevailing atmosphere in the backdrop of number of allegations, which were flown at the accused and her society. More often than not, in informal atmosphere such remarks may be carelessly thrown and may even form part of casual conversation having no criminal element for intentional causing of breach of peace. Any such stray statements made by any person, may be inappropriate, improper and rude, however, in my view, they do not bring the Act within the four corners of section 504 as defined in Indian Penal Code. Definitely what may be the impact of spoken words, can only be inferred from the peculiar facts and circumstances of a case. In the case in hand, the remark was inappropriate or even rude but circumstances prima facie do not establish that it was intended to provoke the person to cause breach of peace. The courts concerned failed to apply law in correct perspective.

20. In my opinion, prima facie no offence under section 504 IPC is made out and therefore this is a case where this court, in exercise of powers under Article 227 of the Constitution, should interfere to prevent and nip in the bud misuse of law, hence the impugned orders are set-aside and this petition is allowed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

This application under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'the Code') seeks to quash the proceedings of Case No. 3558 of 2018, State v. Raghvendra Kumar Yadav (arising out of Case Crime No. 2264 of 2016), under Section 3/7 of the State Emblem of India (Prohibition of Improper Use) Act, 2005, Police Station – Khalilabad, District – Sant Kabir Nagar pending on the file of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar.

2. Heard Mr. Ravindra Prakash Srivastava, learned Counsel for the applicant, Mr. Jagdev Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 and Mr. D.K. Srivastava, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State.

3. A First Information Report was lodged on 12.11.2016 by one J.N. Tripathi, Sub-Inspector of Police at Police Station – Khalilabad, District – Sant Kabir Nagar, alleging in his recovery memo of a bullet motorcycle that on 12.11.2016, the informant along with Constable, Umesh Mishra, was on security duty at the Punjab National Bank, Main Branch - Khalilabad and had just reached there when he noticed a man move close to the Bank on his motorcycle, which he parked there.

4. A look at the rear side of the motorcycle showed that it bore no registration number. Instead, the number plate had the national emblem of Ashok Stambh on it. Upon inquiring about the rider's name and address, he revealed it as Raghvendra Kumar Yadav, son of Ram Achal Yadav, a resident of Kuikol colony, Police Station – Kotwali, Khalilabad, District – Sant Kabir Nagar. Upon the rider being asked why he had placed the national emblem on the number plate, he allegedly said that it was affixed there for status. He produced his Driving License that was valid up to 07.07.2023.

5. The First Information Report goes on to allege that Raghvendra Kumar Yadav aforesaid was found misusing the Ashok Stambh, the national emblem by affixing it to the number plate of his motorcycle, which constitutes an offence under Section 3/9 of the State Emblem of India (Prohibition of Improper use) Act, 2005. He did not produce any papers relating to the motorcycle which is an offence under the Motor Vehicles Act. The applicant was, accordingly, informed of the offence committed by him and at 4.00 O' Clock in the evening, the motorcycle was taken into custody by the Police. A number of persons were moving on the spot where the applicant was apprehended but despite request, none of those asked to witness the recovery agreed, citing their business with the Bank as pre-occupying.

6. The First Information Report further shows that a report under the Motor Vehicles Act is being separately presented. The recovery memo had been drawn up on the spot, read over and explained. A copy of the recovery memo was handed over to Raghvendra Kumar Yadav, the applicant. The case was investigated by the Police where statements of the first informant and Constable, Umesh Mishra were taken down. After investigation, the Police submitted the impugned charge-sheet on 10.02.2018 whereon the learned Magistrate took cognizance on 17.09.2018.

7. Learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Ravindra Prakash Srivastava points out that the Registration Certificate of the motorcycle is on record as Annexure No. 3.

8. This Court may say straightaway that we do not wish to comment about those matters because there is nothing related to the prosecution under the Motor Vehicles Act impugned here. The Registration Certificate, of whatever worth it is, might be of relevance in the other case said to have been instituted against the applicant by the Police on account of riding the motorcycle, without the necessary documents or the number plate bearing the registration number, but not here.

9. This prosecution is limited to the offence under Section 3/7 of the Emblems and Names (Prevention of Improper use) Act, 1950. About this issue also, it may remarked at the outset, that the First Information Report was registered by the Police for an offence under Section 3/9 of the State Emblem of India (Prohibition of Improper Use) Act, 2005 (for short, 'the Act of 2005'). The offence under the Act of 2005 would be one under Section 3/7 and not under 3/9 of the Act, aforesaid.

10. During investigation, the Police have submitted a charge-sheet under Section 3/7 of the Emblems and Names (Prevention of Improper Use) Act, 1950 (for short, 'the Act of 1950'). Here the Section appears to be correctly described but the statute mentioned in error. The Act of 1950 was enacted in that year by the Parliament in exercise of its legislative power traceable to Entry 49 List 1. The power was held traceable to Entry 97 of the said list, as well in Sable Waghire and Co. & others v. Union of India & others, (1975) 1 SCC 763 but that is not the point here. On the same subject, the Act of 2005 is a subsequent legislation enacted by the Parliament.

11. It is no doubt true that the Act of 2005 does not repeal the Act of 1950, but vide Section 10 it gives overriding effect to itself or any Rule made thereunder vis-a-vis any other Act to the extent that it is inconsistent with the Act of 2005.

12. Be it as it may, the question in this application does not squarely arise as to which of the two enactments would apply, and if the Act of 1950 has indeed been repealed. Learned Counsel for the parties, have not shed much light on the issue, perhaps since it did not arise as the point for consideration in this application.

13. Nevertheless, it appears that looking to the First Information Report, the case has been registered under the Act of 2005, correctly mentioning the provisions as Section 3/7 but in the check First Information Report, the statute has been incorrectly mentioned as the Act of 1950, a mistake that has been mechanically carried forward to the impugned charge-sheet.

14. This Court, therefore, proceeds to decide this application as one seeking to quash the prosecution under Section 3/7 of the Act of 2005.

15. It is on the merits of the matter submitted by the learned Counsel for the applicant that the Investigating Officer has without perusing the material in the case diary and collecting credible e*vide*nce, charge-sheeted the applicant under Section 3/7 of the Act of 2005.

16. It is urged that the charge-sheet has been filed in a routine and mechanical manner, without application of mind. It is also urged that under Section 8 of the Act of 2005, the institution of a prosecution is prohibited without the previous sanction of the Central Government or any Officer authorised in this behalf by a general or special order of the said Government.

17. The learned Counsel for the applicant has drawn the Court's attention to the averments in paragraph no. 8 of the affidavit to say that the Police in this case, without obtaining sanction of the competent Authority, have unlawfully submitted a charge-sheet against the applicant, whereof cognizance has been taken by the learned Magistrate, not noticing the absence of sanction.

18. According to the learned Counsel for the applicant, this renders the prosecution not maintainable. He has placed reliance upon the decision of the Karnataka High Court in Criminal Petition No. 4270 of 2016, G.B. Athri v. Smt. Mangla Gauri, decided on 15.02.2017, where the order of cognizance passed by the learned Magistrate was quashed for want of sanction under the statute.

19. It is also urged by the learned Counsel for the applicant, inviting the Court's attention to paragraph no. 10 of the affidavit filed in support of the application, that the prosecution is mala fide because it all happened in the manner that the applicant had gone to the Punjab National Bank, Main Branch, where the informant-Sub-Inspector illegally demanded money of the applicant which he refused. This annoyed the informant so much that he lodged a First Information Report to harass the applicant with no truth whatsoever to the allegations carried therein.

20. It is urged on the strength of the averments in paragraph no. 11 of the affidavit that the applicant never had the Ashok Stambh on the number plate of his motorcycle. He was falsely implicated on account of malice.

21. This Court does not propose to go into the question of malice and, therefore, vide order dated 16.03.2023, while notice was issued to the complainant-opposite party, the order discloses in ample measure that the Court took note of the submission alone that the prosecution was not maintainable prima facie in view of the bar to its institution without the sanction of the Central Government though, it must be said that the reference in that order is made to the Act of 1950 and the bar to a prosecution that is mentioned there is one under Section 6 of the aforementioned statute. But, this does not make any material difference because under both the statutes the provisions about necessity of a prior sanction by the Central Government are pari materia. Section 6 of the Act of 1950 is pari materia to Section 8 of the Act of 2005.

22. This Court, while passing an interim order dated 16.08.2023, did call for an affidavit in answer from the Superintendent of Police, Sant Kabir Nagar showing cause how the Supervising Officers of the Police permitted a charge-sheet to be filed without the necessary sanction under Section 6 the Act of 1950.

23. A report was also called from the Judicial Magistrate, asking him to indicate the circumstances under which the absence of the mandatory sanction was not taken note of by him, while passing the order taking cognizance and summoning the applicant to stand his trial.

24. A personal affidavit was filed on behalf of the Superintendent of Police, Sant Kabir Nagar, who seems to have acknowledged the mistake at the level of the Supervisory Officers of the Police, and said in his affidavit that a preliminary inquiry has been ordered in the matter.

25. The counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State by Pawan Kumar, Sub-Inspector of Police, Police Station – Kotwali, Khalilabad, District - Sant Kabir Nagar asserts in paragraph no. 7 that sanction against the applicant was granted and the Investigating Officer, after collecting credible e*vide*nce, filed the impugned charge-sheet. However, all that the papers annexed to the counter affidavit show is the correspondence between the District Magistrate and the Secretary (Home), Government of U.P. or the Deputy Secretary to the Government and the Superintendent of Police, Sant Kabir Nagar regarding grant of sanction to prosecute or papers being called from the Police to consider it.

26. It does not appear from any document annexed to the counter affidavit dated 29.03.2023 that sanction was granted to this prosecution, even by the State Government. The question whether the State Government were the competent Government to grant a sanction envisaged by the Act of 2005 is quite another matter. The fact that it was not granted until time the charge-sheet was filed is e*vide*nt from C.D. No. 4 dated 10.12.2016 annexed as C.A. 5 to the charge-sheet. Towards the tail end of this parcha, it is recorded as follows by the Investigating Officer:

"अतः अब तक की तमामी तफ्तीश, वयान वादी, वयान गवाह, निरीक्षण घटना स्थल से अभियुक्त राघवेन्द्र कुमार यादव एस/ओ० श्री रामअचल यादव आर/ओ० कुईकोल पीएस० को० खलीलावाद, जनपद-संतकबीरनगर के विरूद्ध जुर्म धारा-3/7 द स्टेट इम्बलेम आफ इण्डिया (प्रोहिबिशन आफ इमप्रापर यूज) एक्ट-2005 का अपराध वाखूवी सावित है। आरोप-पत्र प्रेषित करने हेतु अभियोजन स्वीकृति आवश्यक है। अभियोजन स्वीकृति प्रदान करने हेतु अलग से रिपोर्ट दी जा रही है।"

27. To the counter affidavit and the supplementary counter affidavit, the applicant has filed a rejoinder affidavit dated 23.04.2023. Along with this rejoinder affidavit, a Registration Certificate relating to the motorcycle has been filed. A supplementary counter affidavit dated 26.04.2023 was later on filed wherein a copy of a Government Order dated 09.06.2017 has been annexed purporting to be the sanction for the applicant's prosecution that is impugned here. The order is one made on behalf of the Governor duly signed by a Secretary to the Government, granting a sanction under Section 196 of the Code, permitting the applicant's prosecution in the present crime for the offence punishable under Section 3/7 of the Act of 2005.

28. Mr. D.K. Srivastava, learned Additional Government Advocate and Mr. Jagdev Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the informant/opposite party no. 2 have submitted that now that a sanction has been granted, there is absolutely no impediment to the taking of cognizance by the Magistrate on 17.09.2018.

29. It is emphasized that the order of sanction is one dated 09.06.2017 whereas the order of cognizance has been passed on 17.09.2018. The mere fact that there is no reference to the order of sanction in the order of cognizance, or even in the formal part of the charge-sheet, would at best be a curable regularity. It does not oust the jurisdiction of the Court to take cognizance and try the applicant in accordance with law.

30. This Court has carefully considered the submissions advanced on behalf of both sides and perused the record. In order to clarify matters further, which have already been mentioned hereinabove, we must say that this prosecution is indeed one under Section 3/7 the Act of 2005 and the mention Act of 1950, is no more than a clerical error. It is, particularly, clear from the formal part of the charge-sheet where the applicant has been challaned under Section 3/7 of the Act of 2005 and the fact that the order of sanction upon which reliance is placed by the respondents is an order passed by the State Government on 09.06.2017, sanctioning prosecution under Section 3/7 of the Act of 2005; not the Act of 1950.

31. Provisions of Section 3 and 7 of the Act of 2005 read:

"3. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, no person shall use the emblem or any colourable imitation thereof in any manner which tends to create an impression that it relates to the Government or that it is an official document of the Central Government, or as the case may be, the State Government, without the previous permission of the Central Government or of such officer of that Government as may be authorised by it in this behalf.

Explanation.- For the purposes of this section, "person" includes a former functionary of the Central Government or the State Governments.

7(1) Any person who contravenes the provisions of section 3 shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees, or with both or, if having been previously convicted of an offence under this section, is again convicted of any such offence, he shall be punishable for the second and for every subsequent offence with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months, which may extend to two years and with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees.

(2) Any person who contravenes the provisions of section 4 for any wrongful gain shall be punishable for such offence with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months, which may extend to two years and with fine which may extend to five thousand rupees."

32. Section 8 of the aforesaid statute pro*vide*s:

"8. No prosecution for any offence punishable under this Act shall be instituted, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or of any officer authorized in this behalf by general or special order of the Central Government."

33. A plain reading of the provisions of Section 3/7 together with Section 8 of the Act of 2005 leads one to the irresistible conclusion that a prosecution under the said Act cannot be instituted except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or an Officer authorized in this behalf by a general or special order of the said Government.

34. The prohibition carried in Section 8 of the Act of 2005 envisages a bar to the institution of a prosecution under the Act, without the previous sanction of the Central Government, or an Officer authorized in this behalf by a general or special order. The bar envisaged under Section 8 is not about the Court's jurisdiction to take cognizance without an order of the Central Government granting previous sanction; it forbids the institution of proceedings without a previous sanction. If one were to compare the language employed by the legislature in Section 8 of the Act of 2005 with that in Section 197 of the Code, there is an essential difference.

35. Section 197 of the Code in the material part reads:

"Prosecution of Judges and public servants.- (1) When any person who is or was a judge or Magistrate or a public servant not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government is accused of any offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, no Court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction save as otherwise pro*vide*d in the Lokpal and Lokayuktas Act, 2013-

(a) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of the Union; of the Central Government;

(b) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of a State, of the State Government.

Pro*vide*d that where the alleged offence was committed by a person referred to in clause (b) during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of Article 356 of the Constitution was in force in a State, clause (b) will apply as if for the expression "State Government" occurring therein, the expression "Central Government were substituted;

Explanation.-For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared that no sanction shall be required in case of public servant accused of any offence alleged to have been committed under section 166A, section 166B, section 354, section 354A, section 354B, section 354C, section 354D, section 370, section 375, section 376, section 376A, section 376AB, section 376C, section 376D, section 376DA, section 376DB or section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence alleged to have been committed by any member of the Armed Forces of the Union while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government"

36. While under Section 197, the bar is against the Court taking cognizance without the previous sanction of the appropriate Government, the bar in Section 10 the Act of 2005 forbids the institution of a prosecution without the previous sanction of the Central Government. This is a cardinal distinction between the nature of the bar created under the statute here, and the chief provisions of the Code carrying a similar provision about sanction in certain class of cases. There is no further need to delve into the consequence of the difference here because the point does not arise.

37. What is of relevance here is the fact that the charge-sheet has been presented against the applicant, alleging commission of an offence under Section 3/7 the Act of 2005 and the Magistrate has proceeded to take cognizance vide order dated 17.09.2018, without adverting to the order of sanction, or the terms thereof, or the authority by which it was issued.

38. This Court is inclined to think that the order of sanction that has been placed on record before this Court, as part of Annexure No. S.C.A. 1 annexed to the supplementary counter affidavit dated 26.04.2023, was not at all brought to the Magistrate's notice. May be, it was never included in the charge-sheet. This is what the order of cognizance suggests. The order of cognizance passed by the magistrate on 17.09.2018 reads:

दृष्टया सा० आधार पर धारा 3/7 समप्रतिक एवम अनुचित प्रयोग नि० अधि0 1950 में प्रसज्ञान लिया जाता है। अपराधिक वाद दर्ज रजिस्टर हो । दि० 5-11-18 के लिए अभि0 समन द्वारा तलब हो ।

39. The moot question that arises for consideration in this case is, if the order of sanction that has been passed by the State Government on 09.06.2017, qualifies for a valid sanction under Section 8 of the Act of 2005 so as to entitle the Police to institute the impugned proceedings?

40. To the face of the order of sanction passed by the State Government, it is an order purporting to be made in exercise of powers by his Excellency, the Governor under Section 196 of the Code.

41. Now, Section 196 of the Code relates to something that is quite foreign to and different from the offence punishable under Section 3/7 of the Act of 2005. Section 196 of the Code relates to sanction of prosecution as regards certain offences mentioned therein, all of which are punishable under the Indian Penal Code. The various Authorities competent to grant sanction for the specified offences have been enumerated in Section 196.

42. The provisions of Section 196 of the Code read:

"Prosecution for offences against the State and for criminal conspiracy to commit such offence-

(1) No Court shall take cognizance of-

(a) any offence punishable under Chapter VI or under section 153A, section 295A or sub- section (1) of section 505 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or

(b) a criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, or

(c) any such abetment, as is described in section 108A of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or of the State Government.

(1A)No Court shall take cognizance of-

(a) any offence punishable under section 153B or sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) of section 505 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), or

(b) a criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or of the State Government or of the District Magistrate.

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of the offence of any criminal conspiracy punishable under section 120B of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), other than a criminal conspiracy to commit an offence punishable with death, imprisonment for life or rigorous imprisonment for a term of two years or upwards, unless the State Government or the District Magistrate has consented in writing to the initiation of the proceedings:

Pro*vide*d that where the criminal conspiracy is one to which the provisions of section 195 apply, no such consent shall be necessary

(3) The Central Government or the State Government may, before according sanction under sub-section (1) or sub-section (1A) and the District Magistrate may, before according sanction under sub-section (1A) and the State Government or the District Magistrate may, before giving consent under sub-section (2), order a preliminary investigation by a police officer not being below the rank of Inspector, in which case such police officer shall have the powers referred to in sub-section (3) of section 155."

43. There is nothing discernible across the length and breadth of Section 196 of the Code that may give rise to an inference that the Central Government or the State Government, or in certain matters the District Magistrate, empowered to grant sanction in respect of particular offences mentioned therein and punishable under the Indian Penal Code, have anything to do with the power to grant a sanction to prosecute for an offence punishable under the Act of 2005. The said power is exclusively conferred upon the Central Government by Section 8 of the Act of 2005 or upon such other Officer as the Central Government may specify by a general or special order. It is not the case of the State that any Officer of the State Government has been authorized by the Central Government, in accordance with the provisions of Section 8 of the Act of 2005, to grant sanction for a prosecution under the Act.

44. Apparently, the State Government have no authority to grant sanction envisaged under Section 8 of the Act of 2005. It is exclusively the Central Government or any Officer authorized by them in this behalf, who can grant sanction for a prosecution regarding an offence punishable under the Act of 2005.

45. A perusal of the order dated 09.06.2017, passed by the State Government granting sanction under Section 196 of the Code, shows that the order has been passed mechanically without application of mind about the Government's jurisdiction or their Authority under the law in the exercise of which sanction was required in the present case. If the matter had been considered by the State Government, this Court has no reason to believe that they would ever invoke a non existent power under Section 196 of the Code to grant sanction for a prosecution under the Act of 2005.

46. It needs be pointed out that the order of sanction in this case passed by the State Government in exercise of power under Section 196 of the Code is not merely one that mentions a wrong provision of the law. It is an order of sanction passed without jurisdiction for reasons already indicated hereinabove. Interpreting the para materia provisions of Section 6 of the Act of 1950 in a slightly different context on facts, the exclusivity of power to grant sanction inhering in the Central Government or the Officer authorized by them, was emphasized by the Madras High Court in Dr. R.K. Balasubramaniam v. Inspector of Police, 2013 (3) MWN (Cr.) 96. In Dr. R.K. Balasubramaniam (supra) it was observed:

"4. In the Petition, it was stated that no sanction was obtained for the prosecution as contemplated under the Emblem Act and therefore, he must be discharged. The Petition was dismissed on the ground that the direction issued by the Senior Economic Adviser for Government of India to the Chief Secretary of Government of Tamil Nadu to investigate the matter and to take action, would amount to sanction. This Order is under challenge in this Revision Petition.

5. Under Section 6 of the Emblems and Names (Prevention of Improper Use) Act, 1950, no prosecution for any offence punishable under this Act shall be instituted, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or of any Officer authorized in this behalf by General or Special Order of the Central Government. Therefore, in order to maintain prosecution, it must be shown that sanction to prosecute was obtained from the Central Government or from any Officer authorized by the Central Government.

5.1. It is the contention of the Accused that it is only the Secretary, Department of Consumer Affairs, New Delhi, is the Competent Authority to grant sanction and not the Senior Economic Adviser, Ministry of Consumer Affairs. Even assuming that the Senior Economic Adviser is the Sanctioning Authority, the Order issued directing the Government of Tamil Nadu to take action would not amount to sanction to prosecute is the second contention.

5.2. The records produced on the side of the Accused, procured using the provisions of Right to Information Act, go to show positively that it is only the Secretary, Department of Consumer Affairs, New Delhi, who has been designated to issue sanction for prosecution and that the Senior Economic Adviser, Ministry of Consumer Affairs, is not the Sanctioning Authority. Therefore, it is clear that sanction for prosecution has not been given by the Competent Authority.

6. The next question is whether the alleged communication issued by Senior Economic Adviser to Government of India would amount to sanction. The communication issued by the Senior Economic Adviser is only a direction to take action and not a sanction to prosecute. Therefore, the contention that this communication itself would amount to grant of sanction is not correct. When the Senior Economic Adviser is not competent to issue sanction, the proceedings issued by him is not valid."

47. In Abdul Faqir v. State of Rajasthan and another, S.B. Criminal Misc. (Pet.) No. 2755 of 2015, decided on 14.09.2017, it was held by Rajasthan High Court:

"10. It is clear that as per the Section 8 of the Act of 2005, no prosecution for any offence punishable under this Act shall be instituted without sanction of the Central Government or any authorized officer and it is an admitted case that no such sanction is there. In light of the clear legislative intention, without prosecution under the Section 8 of the Act of 2005, the offence under Section 3, 4 & 5 cannot be carried on."

48. In G.B. Athri v. Smt. Mangala Gowri, Criminal Misc. Petition No. 4270 of 2016, decided on 15.02.2017, it was held by the Karnataka High Court:

"In the instant case, the accusations pertain to the improper use of emblem in contravention of the provisions of Section 3 of The Emblems and Names (Prevention of Improper Use) Act, 1950. It has nothing to do with the performance of the official acts. The offences under this Act are not restricted to public servants. The Act is applicable to all and sundry and as applicable to the whole of India. Section 8 of the Act, 2005 specifically pro*vide*s that "no prosecution for any offence punishable under this Act shall be instituted, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government or of any officer authorized in this behalf by general or special order of the Central Government." Section 10 of the Act, 2005 has over-riding effect over all other provisions of law. Section 10 reads as under:-

"The provisions of this Act or any Rule made thereunder shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other enactment or instrument having effect by virtue of such enactment."

8. In view of the above provisions the prior sanction of the Central Government is a sine qua non for institution of prosecution of the petitioner for the alleged offence under section 7 of the Act. As the prosecution has been initiated without compliance of the said mandatory requirement, the cognizance taken by the learned Magistrate and the consequent proceedings therefore cannot be sustained in the eye of law and as a result, the petition deserves to be allowed."

49. The conclusion in this case, on the facts noticed and the provisions of the law applicable is, therefore, inescapable and, that is, that the order of cognizance dated 17.09.2018 and the impugned proceedings pending on the file of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar cannot be permitted to continue and have to be quashed.

50. It is, however, clarified that what this Court proposes to quash are the order of cognizance and the proceedings before the learned Magistrate. We do not propose to quash the charge-sheet. It will be open to the State to proceed against the applicant in accordance with law, should they so elect.

51. Before parting with the matter, this Court wishes to place on record our concern about the fact that neither the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned, who took cognizance, nor the Superintendent of Police or other Supervisory Officer, who approved the charge-sheet, took note of the provisions regarding sanction carried in the Act of 2005. What is all the more concerning is that the State Government granted sanction vide order dated 09.06.2017, blissfully ignorant of the fact that the power to grant sanction for an offence punishable under the Act of 2005 is vested in the Central Government; not the state government. This is not expected to happen where there is a department of law to assist the Government.

52. In the circumstances, this application succeeds and is allowed. The impugned proceedings of Criminal Case No. 3558 of 2018, State v. Raghvendra Kumar Yadav (arising out of Case Crime No. 2264 of 2016) under Section 3/7 of the State Emblem of India (Prohibition of Improper Use) Act, 2005, Police Station – Khalilabad, District – Sant Kabir Nagar pending before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sant Kabir Nagar, including the order of summoning dated 17.09.2018, are hereby quashed.

53. It is made clear that the charge-sheet has not been quashed and it will be open to the respondents to proceed afresh, in accordance with law, after complying with the provisions of Section 8 of the Act of 2005.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 197 & 482 – Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 21, 323, 354, 504 & 506 - Wakf Act, 1995 – Sections 64 & 101 - Application under Section 482 of Cr.P.C. - seeking to quash criminal proceedings, including charge-sheet as well as the summoning order – FIR – Charge-sheet – investigation - cognizance taken by the court - Applicants argue that since the mutawalli is deemed a public servant under Section 101 of the Wakf Act, prosecution without prior government sanction under Section 197 Cr.P.C. is invalid - the court held that, although Section 101 of the Wakf Act, 1995 deems mutawallis and managing committee members of a wakf as public servants under Section 21 IPC, they are not entitled to protection under Section 197 Cr.P.C. because they can be removed by the Wakf Board without requiring sanction from the Central or St. Government, thus failing to meet the second essential condition for the application of Section 197 Cr.P.C. - consequently, the application seeking quashing of proceedings is rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Kumar Singh Deshwal, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashfaq Ahmad Ansari, learned counsel for the applicants and learned AGA for the State.

2. The present 482 Cr.P.C. application has been filed to quash the the entire proceedings of Case No.1618 of 2022, State Vs. Abu Talib Husain including chargesheet no.190/22 dated 09.08.2022 arising out of Case Crime No.163 of 2022, under Sections-323, 504, 506, 354 I.P.C., Police Station-Kotwali Nagar, District-Saharanpur as well as summoning order dated 3.9.2022 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Saharanpur and (Case No.1740 of 2022) is pending before the learned Ist Additional Civil Judge (Jr. Div)/Judicial Magistrate, Saharanpur.

3. Contention of learned counsel for the applicants is that the impugned FIR was lodged and charge-sheet was filed after conducting investigation on which cognizance was also taken by the Court but as per Section-101 of Wakf Act, 1995 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act, 1995'), mutawalli of wakf would be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of Section-21 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as the 'IPC'). Applicant no.1 is mutawalli of wakf Karbala, Nai Basti, Behat Road, Saharanpur, therefore, as per Section-197 Cr.P.C., cognizance is bad by the Court because no sanction from appropriate Government was taken before taking such cognizance. It is further submitted that applicant no.2 is father of applicant no.1 and also assisted the applicant no.1 in discharge of public duty. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the applicants also relied upon the judgement dated 07.09.1993 of Punjab and Haryana High Court reported in 1994 CRI.L.J.

1465 (Tara Singh Retd. Sub-Registrar Vs. The Saggal Co-operative Agricultural Service Society Ltd.) in which it was observed that prosecution of Sub-Registrar is illegal without sanction from Government as he is public servant.

4. On the other hand, learned AGA has opposed the above submission and submitted that Section-101 of the Act, 1995 is a deeming provision for the discharge of duty and Section-197 Cr.P.C. is applicable only on public servant who cannot be removed without sanction of the State Government whereas for the removal of applicant no.1, sanction of State Government is not required and Section-197 Cr.P.C. is not applicable in the present case.

5. Considering the submission of learned counsel for the applicant as well as learned AGA for the State, the sole question arises if the mutawalli was deemed to be public servant under Section-101 of the Act, 1995, then merely because he is deemed to be public servant is also entitled to protection under Section-197 Cr.P.C. For detailed analysis of this issue, Section-101 of the Act, 1995 is being quoted as below:

"101. Survey Commissioner, members and officers of the Board deemed to be public servants.- (1) The Survey Commissioner, members of the Board, every officer, every auditor of the Board and every other person duly appointed to discharge any duties imposed on him by this Act or any rule or order made thereunder, shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

(2) Every mutawalli of a wakf, every member of managing committee, whether constituted by the Board or under any deed of wakf, every Executive Officer and every person holding any office in a wakf shall also be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)."

6. From perusal of the above section of the Act, 1995, it appears that not only mutawalli of wakf but every member of Managing Committee of wakf are also deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of Section-21 IPC. But despite the above deeming provision mutawalli can be removed by the wakf board as per Section-64 of the Act, 1995. Section 64 of the Act, 1995 is quoted as below:

"64. Removal of mutawalli.- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law or the deed of wakf, the Board may remove a mutawalli from his office if such mutawalli?

(a) has been convicted more than once of an offence punishable under section 61; or

(c) is of unsound mind or is suffering from other mental or physical defect or infirmity which would render him unfit to perform the functions and discharge the duties of a mutawalli; or

"64. Removal of mutawalli.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law or the deed of wakf, the Board may remove a mutawalli from his office if such mutawalli?*

(a) has been convicted more than once of an offence punishable under section 61; or

(i) continuously neglects his duties or commits any misfeasance, malfeasance, misapplication of funds or breach of trust in relation to the wakf or in respect of any money or other wakf property; or

(j) wilfully and persistently disobeys the lawful orders made by the Central Government, State Government, Board under any provision of this Act or rule or order made thereunder;

(k) misappropriates or fraudulently deals with the property of the wakf.(2) The removal of a person from the office of the mutawalli shall not affect his personal rights, if any, in respect of the wakf property either as a beneficiary or in any other capacity or his right, if any, as a sajjadanashin.

(3) No action shall be taken by the Board under sub-section (1), unless it has held an inquiry into the matter in a prescribed manner and the decision has been taken by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the members of the Board.

(4) A mutawalli who is aggrieved by an order passed under any of the clauses (c) to (i) of sub-section (1), may, within one month from the date of the receipt by him of the order, appeal against the order to the Tribunal and the decision of the Tribunal on such appeal shall be final.

(5) Where any inquiry under sub-section (3) is proposed, or commenced, against any mutawalli, the Board may, if it is of opinion that it is necessary so to do in the interest of the wakf, by an order suspend such mutawalli until the conclusion of the inquiry:

Provided that no suspension for a period exceeding ten days shall be made except after giving the mutawalli a reasonable opportunity of being heard against the proposed action.

(6) Where any appeal is filed by the mutawalli to the Tribunal under sub-section (4), the Board may make an application to the Tribunal for the appointment of a receiver to manage the wakf pending the decision of the appeal, and where such an application is made, the Tribunal shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), appoint a suitable person as receiver to manage the wakf and direct the receiver so appointed to ensure that the customary or religious rights of the mutawalli and of the wakf are safeguarded.

(7) Where a mutawalli has been removed from his office under sub-section (1), the Board may, by order, direct the mutawalli to deliver possession of the wakf property to the Board or any officer duly authorised in this behalf or to any person or committee appointed to act as the mutawalli of the wakf property.

(8) A mutawalli of a wakf removed from his office under this section shall not be eligible for re-appointment as a mutawalli of that wakf for a period of five years from the date of such removal."

7. For applicability of Section-197 Cr.P.C., following three conditions must be satisfied:

(a) accused is a public servant;

(b) that the public servant can be removed from the post by or with the sanction either of Central or the State Government as the case may be;

(c) the act giving rise to the alleged offence had been committed by the public servant in the actual or purported discharge of his duty.

8. Section-197 Cr.P.C. is being quoted as below:

"197. Prosecution of Judges and public servants.--(1) When any person who is or was a Judge or Magistrate or a public servant not removable from his office save by or with the sanction of the Government is accused of any offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, no Court shall take cognizance of such offence except with the previous sanction save as otherwise provided in the Lokpal and Lokayuktas Act, 2013.

(a) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of the Union, of the Central Government; (b) in the case of a person who is employed or, as the case may be, was at the time of commission of the alleged offence employed, in connection with the affairs of a State, of the State Government:

Provided that where the alleged offence was committed by a person referred to in clause (b) during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of article 356 of the Constitution was in force in a State, clause (b) will apply as if for the expression "State Government" occurring therein, the expression "Central Government" were substituted.

Explanation.?For the removal of doubts it is hereby declared that no sanction shall be required in case of a public servant accused of any offence alleged to have been committed under section 166A, section 166B, section 354, section 354A, section 354B, section 354C, section 354D, section 370, section 375, section 376, section 376A, section 376AB, section 376C, section 376D, section 376DA, section 376DB or section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)

(2) No Court shall take cognizance of any offence alleged to have been committed by any member of the Armed Forces of the Union while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government.

(3) The State Government may, by notification, direct that the provisions of sub-section (2) shall apply to such class or category of the members of the Forces charged with the maintenance of public order as may be specified therein, wherever they may be serving, and thereupon the provisions of that sub-section will apply as if for the expression "Central Government" occurring therein, the expression "State Government" were substituted.

(3A) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (3), no court shall take cognizance of any offence, alleged to have been committed by any member of the Forces charged with the maintenance of public order in a State while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duty during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of article 356 of the Constitution was in force therein, except with the previous sanction of the Central Government.

(3B) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Code or any other law, it is hereby declared that any sanction accorded by the State Government or any cognizance taken by a court upon such sanction, during the period commencing on the 20th day of August, 1991 and ending with the date immediately preceding the date on which the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1991 (43 of 1991), receives the assent of the President, with respect to an offence alleged to have been committed during the period while a Proclamation issued under clause (1) of article 356 of the Constitution was in force in the State, shall be invalid and it shall be competent for the Central Government in such matter to accord sanction and for the court to take cognizance thereon.

(4) The Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, may determine the person by whom, the manner in which, and the offence or offences for which, the prosecution of such Judge, Magistrate or public servant is to be conducted, and may specify the Court before which the trial is to be held."

9. Therefore, for applicability of Section-197 Cr.P.C. even for the person who are deemed to be servant under any statute other than IPC, he must be removable by or with the sanction of Central or the State Government. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Manish Trivedi Vs. State of Rajasthan reported in (2014)

14 SCC 420 observed that if any act creates a legal fiction to a particular category of employee by adopting the condition of Section-197 Cr.P.C. then those employees are entitled to get the protection of Section-197 Cr.P.C. In the above mentioned judgement, Section-87 of Rajasthan Municipalities Act, 1959 created legal fiction that members of municipal board will be deemed to be public servant as per Section-21 IPC but the word 'Government' mentioned in Section-197 Cr.P.C. was deemed to be substituted by municipal board and for that reason member of municipal board Rajasthan was declared as public servant for the purpose of Section-197 Cr.P.C. Paragraph no.14 of the Manish Trivedi Vs. State of Rajasthan (supra) is being reproduced as under:

"14. Section 87 of the Rajasthan Municipalities Act, 1959 makes every Member to be public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 and the same reads as follows:

"87. Members etc., to be deemed public servants.-(1) Every member, officer or servant, and every lessee of the levy of any municipal tax, and every servant or other employee of any such lessee shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (Central Act 45 of 1860).

(2) The word "Government" in the definition of "legal remuneration" in Section 161 of that Code shall, for the purposes of sub-section (1) of this section, be deemed to include a municipal board."

From a plain reading of the aforesaid provision it is evident that by the aforesaid section the legislature has created a fiction that every Member shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code. It is well settled that the legislature is competent to create a legal fiction. A deeming provision is enacted for the purpose of assuming the existence of a fact which does not really exist. When the legislature creates a legal fiction, the court has to ascertain for what purpose the fiction is created and after ascertaining this, to assume all those facts and consequences which are incidental or inevitable corollaries for giving effect to the fiction. In our opinion, the legislature, while enacting Section 87 has, thus, created a legal fiction for the purpose of assuming that the Members, otherwise, may not be public servants within the meaning of Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code but shall be assumed to be so in view of the legal fiction so created. In view of the aforesaid, there is no escape from the conclusion that the appellant is a public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of the Indian Penal Code."

10. In the present case, though by a deeming provision of Section-101 of the Act, 1995 mutawalli was declared as public servant but to satisfy the second condition of Section-197 Cr.P.C., the word 'Government' was not replaced by wakf board, therefore, despite the fact that mutawalli was declared to be public servant by Section-101 of the Act, 1995. All condition for applicability of Section-197 Cr.P.C. are not fulfilled, therefore mutawalli of wakf board despite being deemed to be a public servant are not entitled to protection under Section-197 Cr.P.C.

11. With the aforesaid observations, the present application is rejected.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar, Advocate holding brief of Sri Akhilesh Chandra Shukla, learned counsel for the applicants, Sri Vidya Prakash Singh, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and Sri Pankaj Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed seeking quashing of summoning order dated 02.05.2015 passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.3, Ghaziabad in Complaint Case No.2953 of 2014, under Section 406 I.P.C., Police Station - Sihani Gate, District Ghaziabad.

3. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the instant criminal complaint filed by opposite party no.2 is a counter blast to the Application under Section 9 of Hindu Marriage Act, filed by applicant no.1 herein as the opposite party no.2 had left the company of applicant no.1 without any reasonable cause, therefore, the instant complaint has been filed on false and fabricated facts. The opposite no.2 had sent a notice on 02.07.2017 and asked the applicants to return the articles. The said legal notice was duly replied by applicant no.1 and it was stated that no such articles as has been mentioned in the list annexed with the notice, have ever been received by the applicants, therefore, there is no question of returning the same. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that no dowry was given by opposite party no.2 or her family members as the marriage between the parties has taken place through their interaction on the Facebook etc. Learned counsel for the applicants further argued that as per Section 202 Cr.P.C., since the applicants herein were residing outside the jurisdiction of learned Magistrate then the enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is mandatory and no such enquiry has been conducted. Learned counsel for the applicants further submits that the impugned summoning order dated 02.05.2015 is illegal, which has been passed without conducting any enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the applicants has relied upon the paragraph no.34 of the judgment of Apex Court in Birla Corporation Limited Vs. Adventz Investments and Holdings Limited and others : AIR 2019 SC (Criminal) 1025, which reads as follows:

"34. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. The application of mind has to be indicated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction....."

4. On a query made to learned counsel for the applicants that whether even if it is accepted that the enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is mandatory and if learned Magistrate in terms of Section 202 Cr.P.C. decides to conduct an enquiry himself, as the discretion is given to the Magistrate, then what type of enquiry the Magistrate is required to conduct in the matter when a complaint and the statement under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. are available before the Magistrate, the learned counsel for the applicant has relied upon the observations made by the Apex Court in Mahmood Ul Rehman Vs. Khazir Mohammad Tunda & others : AIR (2015) SC 2195, which reads as follows:

"..... There must be sufficient indication in the order passed by the Magistrate that he is satisfied that the allegations in the complaint constitute an offence and when considered along with the statements recorded and the result of inquiry or report of investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C., if any, the accused is answerable before the criminal court, there is ground for proceeding against the accused under Section 204 Cr.P.C., by issuing process for appearance. The application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction....."

5. In view of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the applicants submits that such enquiry has been conducted without issuing any notice to the applicants.

6. Per contra, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has relied upon paragraph no.61 of the said judgment of Apex Court in Birla Corporation Limited (supra), which reads as follows:

"61. The object of investigation under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is "for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding". The enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is to ascertain the fact whether the complaint has any valid foundation calling for issuance of process to the person complained against or whether it is a baseless one on which no action need be taken. The law imposes a serious responsibility on the Magistrate to decide if there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. The issuance of process should not be mechanical nor should be made as an instrument of harassment to the accused. As discussed earlier, issuance of process to the accused calling upon them to appear in the criminal case is a serious matter and lack of material particulars and non-application of mind as to the materials cannot be brushed aside on the ground that it is only a procedural irregularity…."

7. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 submits that before summoning the applicants, learned Magistrate, after perusal of the allegations made in the complaint, decided to conduct an enquiry into the allegations made in the complainant before issuing the summons to the accused persons and after recording the statement of the complainant under section 200 Cr.P.C. also recorded the statement of witnesses produced by the complainant under section 202 Cr.P.C. to complete the enquiry as contemplated under section 202 Cr.P.C. and after considering the entire material including the statement of witnesses, the Magistrate has recorded his satisfaction that there is a prima facie case against the applicants herein, and thereafter, has summoned the applicants for trial in the said complaint filed by the Opposite Party No. 2. Therefore, the summoning order dated 02.05.2015 is not mechanical, but was passed by the learned Magistrate after conducting the enquiry as contemplated under section 202 Cr.P.C. and recording his satisfaction that a prima case is made out against the applicants herein, as if the averments made in the complaint and in the statements under section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., goes unrebutted during the trial, this material is sufficient to convict the accused for which they are summoned.

8. Having heard the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully perused the record of the case.

9. For the proper adjudication of the instant application, it is relevant to quote the provisions of Section 200, 202 and 204 Cr.P.C.

"200. Examination of complainant - A magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall, examine upon oath the complainant and witnesses present, if any and the substance of such examination shall be reduced into writing and shall be signed by the complainant and witnesses and also by the magistrate:

Provided that, when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses -

(a) if a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a court has made the complaint; or

(b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under Section 192:

Provided further that if the Magistrate makes over the case to another Magistrate under Section 192 after examining the complainant and the witnesses, the latter Magistrate need not re-examine them."

202. Postponement of issue of process: 1. Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 192, may, if he thinks fit and shall in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction, postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding;

Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made—

(a) where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions; or

(b) where the complaint has not been made by a Court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under section 200.

2. In an inquiry under Sub-Section (1), the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take evidence of witness on oath;

Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath.

3. If an investigation under Sub-Section (1) is made by a person not being a police officer, he shall have for that investigation all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a police station except the power to arrest without warrant.

204. Issue of process – (1) If in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence there is sufficient ground for proceeding, and the case appears to be -

(a) a summons-case, he shall issue his summons for the attendance of the accuse, or

(b) a warrant-case, he may issue a warrant, of, if he thinks fit, a summons, for causing the accused to be brought or to appear at a certain time before such Magistrate or (if he has no jurisdiction himself) some other Magistrate having jurisdiction.

(2) No summons or warrant shall be issued against the accused under sub-section (1) until a list of the prosecution witnesses has been filed.

(3) In a proceeding instituted upon a complaint made in writing, every summons or warrant issued under sub-section (1) shall be accompanied by a copy of such complaint.

(4) When by any law for the time being in force any process-fees or other fees are payable, no process shall be issued until the fees are paid an, if such fees are not paid within a reasonable time, the Magistrate mayu dismiss the complaint.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of Section 87.

10. From reading of the provisions of Section 200 and 204 Cr.P.C. it is clear that on presentation of the complaint filed under section 200 Cr.P.C. by an individual, the Magistrate is required to examine the complainant and the witnesses present, if any. Thereafter, on perusal of the allegations made in the complaint, the statement of the complainant on solemn affirmation and the witnesses examined, the Magistrate has to get himself satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused and on such satisfaction, the Magistrate may direct for issuance of process as contemplated under section 204 Cr.P.C. The purpose of the enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is to determine whether a prima facie case is made out and whether there is sufficient ground for proceedings against the accused.

11. Under the amended sub-section (1) to Section 202 Cr.P.C. (as amended by Cr.P.C. (Amendment) Act, 2005, with effect from 23.6.2006), it is obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning an accused, who is residing beyond its jurisdiction, to conduct an enquiry, However, the Magistrate has discretion to opt any of the three options available to him to conduct such enquiry. a) he may enquire into the case himself or; b) direct the investigation to be made by a police officer or; c) by such other person as he thinks fit. The object of such enquiry is to find out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceedings against the accused. The need for such amendment was felt by the legislature, as false complaints were filed against persons residing at far off places in order to harass them. The object of the amendment is to ensure that persons residing at far off places are not harassed by filing false complaints making it obligatory for the Magistrate to enquire.

12. The Apex Court in the case of Vijay Dhanuka and Others v. Najima Mamtaj and Others (2014) 14 SCC 638, considering the scope of amendment to Section 202 Cr.P.C., has held as under:-

"12. ….The use of the expression "shall" prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate."

Since the amendment is aimed to prevent persons residing outside the jurisdiction of the court from being harassed, it was reiterated that holding of enquiry is mandatory. The purpose or objective behind the amendment was also considered by this Court in Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar and Another (2017) 3 SCC 528 and National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz and Another (2013) 2 SCC 488."

13.. In Jagdish Ram v. State of Rajasthan and Another (2004) 4 SCC 432, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"10. ….The taking of cognizance of the offence is an area exclusively within the domain of a Magistrate. At this stage, the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction, can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of inquiry. At the stage of issuing the process to the accused, the Magistrate is not required to record reasons."

14. In Union of India Vs. Ashok Kumar Sharma (2021) 12 SCC 674, the Supreme Court in paragraph 50 held as under:

"50. The learned Amicus Curiae, when queried about the procedure to be adopted when a complaint is lodged by persons falling in Section 32(C) and (d), viz., the aggrieved person or a voluntary association, it was submitted that the Magistrate can, under Section 202 of the CrPC, order an investigation by the Police Officer or any other person. A perusal of Section 202 would show that in regard to an offence falling under Chapter IV of the Act, being exclusively triable, by a Court of Sessions, the proviso to sub-Section (1) to Section 202 prohibits the direction for investigation under Section 202. The proviso to sub-Section (2) of Section 202 contemplates that when an offence is exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, and the Magistrate proceeds under Section 202 of the CrPC, he is duty bound to call upon the complainant to produce all its witnesses and examine them on oath. Thus, the effect of the two provisions in sub-Sections (1) and (2), respectively, is as follows: a Magistrate proceeding under Section 202 of the CrPC, is subjected to two conditions:

(a) Unlike in an ordinary case, meaning thereby, an offence which is not exclusively triable by a Court of Sessions, in a case where it is an offence exclusively triable by a Court of Sessions, the inquiry can be conducted only by a Magistrate himself. It is not open to him to cause an investigation be it by a Police Officer or any other person.

(b) In regard to the inquiry so conducted by him, he must call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and they must be examined not on the basis of any affidavit, and not without the support of an oath but the examination must be under an oath. It is to be remembered that under the provisions existing under the previous Code, an elaborate preliminary inquiry where even an accused had right of cross-examination of witnesses, was contemplated at the hands of the Magistrate before the committal order was passed. This no longer survives after the amendment."

15. The Supreme Court relying upon the judgement in the case of Birla Corporation Limited (supra), in the case of Deepak Gaba Vs. State of U.P. (2023) (3) SCC 423 has held in paragraphs 31 and 32 as under:

"30. Even though at the stage of issuing process to the accused the Magistrate is not required to record detailed reasons, there should be adequate evidence on record to set the criminal proceedings into motion. The requirement of Section 204 of the Code is that the Magistrate should carefully scrutinize the evidence brought on record. He/she may even put questions to complainant and his/her witnesses when examined under Section 200 of the Code to elicit answers to find out the truth about the allegations. Only upon being satisfied that there is sufficient ground for summoning the accused to stand the trial, summons should be issued.

31. Summoning order is to be passed when the complainant discloses the offence, and when there is material that supports and constitutes essential ingredients of the offence. It should not be passed lightly or as a matter of course. When the violation of law alleged is clearly debatable and doubtful, either on account of paucity and lack of clarity of facts, or on application of law to the facts, the Magistrate must ensure clarification of the ambiguities. Summoning without appreciation of the legal provisions and their application to the facts may result in an innocent being summoned to stand the prosecution/trial. Initiation of prosecution and summoning of the accused to stand trial, apart from monetary loss, sacrifice of time, and effort to prepare a defence, also causes humiliation and disrepute in the society. It results in anxiety of uncertain times."

16. The Supreme Court in the case of Chandra Deo Singh v. Prokash Chandra Bose alias Chabi Bose and Another AIR 1963 SC 1430 and in a series of judgments has held that the object of an enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. is for the Magistrate to scrutinize the material produced by the complainant to satisfy himself that the complaint is not frivolous and that there is evidence/material which forms sufficient ground for the Magistrate to proceed to issue process under Section 204 Cr.P.C. It is the duty of the Magistrate to elicit every fact that would establish the bona fides of the complaint and the complainant.

17. Reference to the judgments of the Supreme Court, would clearly show that the allegations in the complaint and complainant's statement and other materials must show that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused. In the light of the above principles, the court proceeded to consider the instant case whether the allegations in the complaint and the statement of the complainant and other materials before the Magistrate were sufficient enough to constitute prima-facie case to justify the Magistrate's satisfaction that there were sufficient grounds for proceeding against the accused and whether there was application of mind by the learned Magistrate in taking cognizance of the offences and issuing process to the accused.

18. The enquiry under section 202 Cr.P.C. is to ascertain the fact that the complaint has any valid foundation calling for issuance of process to the persons complained against or whether it is a baseless case on which no action need be taken. It is the serious responsibility of the Magistrate to decide as to whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused and process should not be mechanical nor should be made as an instrument of harassment to the accused.

19. As pointed out earlier, the object behind the amendment to Section 202 Cr.P.C. is to ensure that innocent persons who are residing at far off places are not harassed by unscrupulous persons. The amendment therefore, makes it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond the jurisdiction, the Magistrate has to enquire the case either himself or direct investigation to be made by the police officer or any other person, so authorised. When in exercise of the obligation as mandated under section 202 Cr.P.C., when the accused is the resident of beyond the jurisdiction of such Magistrate, the Magistrate applying his discretion decides to conduct such enquiry himself, then the scope and method of enquiry is provided in section 202(2) Cr.P.C., which mandates that the Magistrate shall call upon the Complainant to examine the witnesses on oath in support of his complaint and after such statement under section 202 (2) Cr.P.C. are recorded, that is the sufficient compliance of mandatory enquiry to be conducted under Section 202(1) Cr.P.C. Thus, if on perusal of such material i.e. the Complaint, the documents placed in support of the complaint and the Statement of complainant under section 200 and Statement of witnesses under section 202, the Magistrate after applying his mind, is satisfied that a prima facie case is made out against the accused, the he is justified in summoning the accused under section 204 Cr.P.C.

20. In the present case the learned Magistrate has opted to hold the enquiry as contemplated under section 202(1) Cr.P.C. himself and called upon the Complainant to produce her witnesses. After recording the statements of witnesses under section 202(2), the Magistrate considered the entire material including the complaint, Statement of complainant under section 200 and the statements of witnesses under section 202 Cr.P.C., who had supported the averments made in the complaint and thereupon the Magistrate has recorded his satisfaction that a prima facie case is made out against the applicants herein, therefore, the Magistrate vide order dated 02.05.2015 has summoned the applicants herein. The impugned summoning order dated 2.5.2015 passed by the Magistrate reads as under:

21. From the above, it is amply clear that the Magistrate adopted to hold enquiry himself and thereafter after considering the statements of the complainant and the witnesses, namely, Mahendra Pal and Umesh Agarwal under sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. arrived at a conclusion that prima facie a case is made out against the applicants herein, thereafter summoned the applicants herein. In the present case perusal of the impugned summoning order clearly shows that the Magistrate has recorded his satisfaction and applied his mind and after considering the statements of the complainant and the witnesses has passed the impugned summoning order, which requires no interference by this Court.

22. From perusal of complaint as well as the statement under Section 200 and 202 Cr.P.C., recorded by the Magistrate in terms of Section 202 Cr.P.C. the court is of the considered opinion that prima facie a case is made out against the applicants under Section 406 I.P.C. Section 202 Cr.P.C. does not mandate that the Magistrate should conduct any enquiry to collect the material which was not before him. On the basis of material available before him a prima facie satisfaction has been recorded and a prima facie case is made out against the applicants herein which is sufficient for compliance of an enquiry under Section 202 Cr.P.C. What is prohibited in terms of the judgment of Apex Court in Birla Corporation Limited (supra) that the Magistrate could not pass any order mechanically and he has to apply his mind to the material available before him and on the basis of scrutiny of the material he should record his satisfaction, which has been categorically recorded in the instant case. So for as the submissions of learned counsel for the applicants with regard to his claim that no dowry etc. was given by opposite party no.2 and her family members and the marriage between the parties had taken place out of their interaction through Facebook, that is defence of the applicants, which has to be established during trial of the applicants.

23. In view of the above, the instant application is devoid of merit and is hereby dismissed.

Criminal Law – Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - Sections 161, 156(3), 173(2), 190 & 482 - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 279 & 304-A - Application u/s 482 – challenging the summoning order – accident – complaint - FIR registered – informant alleged that his brother died due to a motorcycle accident caused by the rash driving of accused applicant – investigation – police submitted final report – mention that deceased was driving carelessly with two pillion riders and accidentally struck a gas cylinder tied to accused's motorcycle, finding no evidence against accused and recommending his exoneration - Protest petition – FR was rejected - summon order – challenges this order, accused applicant argued that the Magistrate erred in law by not following the procedure under Chapter XV Cr.P.C. and cites precedent to support setting aside the impugned order and accepting the final report – court finds that, the impugned order was based solely on investigation material, not on any additional documents from the complainant, making the precedent cited by the applicant inapplicable - held - under Section 190 Cr.P.C., a Magistrate has broad powers to take cognizance of offences based on the material in the police report and is not bound by the Investigating Officer's conclusions – hence, despite the final report exonerating accused the Magistrate rightly took cognizance based on witness St.ments and medical evidence suggesting his involvement - Consequently, Court does not find any merit, therefore, the application fails and stands dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1. Applicant being accused has approached this Court through this application under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure seeking quashing of the impugned summoning order dated 20.7.2023 passed by Civil Judge (J.D.)/ Judicial Magistrate, Konch, District Jalaun by disagreeing with the final report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. filed in Criminal Case No. 925 of 2023, titled Rinku Jatav Vs. Dinesh Jatav, arising out of Case Crime No. 57 of 2019, under Sections 279, 304-A I.P.C., Police Station Kotwali Konch, District Jalaun.

2. The facts leading to the application are as under:-

3. The above F.I.R. was registered on the basis of the complaint given by complainant Rinku Jatav, who alleged that he is a resident of village Unchagaon, District Jalaun and on 1.2.2019, the date of incident, at around 8:00 AM complainant's brother Mansingh Jatav s/o Sri Panna Lal was going from his house at Unchagaon to village Bhed, Police Station Konch, District Jalaun on his motorcycle bearing registration no. CG 085 6288. Mansingh Jatav was accompanied by pillion riders namely, Churaman Jatav and Parshuram Jatav both sons of Mohan Lal r/o village Unchagaon. At around 11:00 AM, when his brother's motorcycle reached near village Gurawati, Police Station Konch, District Jalaun near a turn, then the motorcycle bearing registration no. U.P. 92 R 7650 driven carelessly by Dinesh Jatav s/o Ramsiya r/o village Unchagaon, Police Station Kailiya, struck the motorcycle of complainant's brother and it resulted in serious injuries leading to death of his brother. Complainant prayed that lawful action be taken against the accused persons. On these broad allegations, the above F.I.R. was registered against the accused, for the alleged commission of offences punishable under Sections 279 and 304-A I.P.C.

4. After registration of the case, the investigation was carried out and through the final report dated 8.8.2019 (Annexure No.3), the Investigating Officer concluded that the victim was driving the vehicle rashly and carelessly with two pillion riders and in order to cross the vehicle driven by Dinesh Jatav, he struck against the gas cylinder tied with the motorcycle of Dinesh Jatav and died accidentaly. As per the final report, the adequate evidence against Dinesh Jatav was not found, therefore, it was requested that the report exonerating the accused-Dinesh Jatav be accepted.

5. Being dissatisfied with the final report bearing No. 64/2021 dated 8.8.2019 filed under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., the complainant filed protest petition dated 12.7.2023 (Annexure No.4) and requested for rejecting the final report and made a prayer for taking cognizance against accused-Dinesh Jatav. The Judicial Magistrate, Konch, Distcit Jalaun vide impugned order dated 20.7.2023 rejected the conclusion of the investigator and summoned the accused for alleged commission of offences punishable under Section 279, 304-A I.P.C. and further directed to register the case as a State case. Hence, this application.

6. Learned counsel for applicant has argued that allegations made by the complainant were thoroughly looked into by the Investigating Officer after registration of the case and a just conclusion was drawn that the applicant was not responsible for causing the death of victim Mansingh, much less by driving his two wheeler rashly and negligently. He submits that trial court while considering the final report as well as the protest petition has committed a serious error of law in taking cognizance against the applicant by further directing to register the case as a State case as once the cognizance is based on the protest petition, the procedure contained in Chapter XV Cr.P.C. has to be followed. Learned counsel for applicant has further drawn the attention of the Court to the statement of eye witness namely, Churaman recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to contend that according to the statement of this witness, it was not a collision of two wheelers, but the handle of the motorcycle of Mansingh had touched the gas cylinder tied with the other two wheeler, which resulted in accident, and complainant lodged the false F.I.R.

7. Learned counsel for applicant in support of his submissions has placed reliance upon the decision of this court vide order dated 6.3.2020 passed in Application U/S 482 No. 14314 of 2006, titled Wakil Ahmad and others Vs. State of U.P. and another, and submitted that in the cited case as well, the Magistrate had on one hand rejected the final report submitted by police under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., but at the same time, had proceeded to take cognizance against the accused as a police case, and the said order was set aside by this Court with a direction to proceed from the stage of consideration of final report submitted by police, and protest petition by complainant for passing appropriate orders in accordance with law. Learned counsel for applicant submits that case in hand is squarely covered by the said decision, therefore, interference is warranted by this Court and the impugned order dated 20.7.2023 be set aside and the final report dated 8.8.2019 submitted by the police be accepted.

8. Learned counsel for the applicant has been heard and with his assistance, the case file has been perused carefully.

9. Before adverting to the merits of the case, this Court deems it appropriate to have a glance at Section 190 Cr.P.*(a)*C., which contemplates the cognizance of offences by Magistrate. The Section 190 Cr.P.C. reads as under:-

190. Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub- section (2), may take cognizance of any offence-

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub- section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try.

10. A careful reading of the above would show that this provision empowers the Magistrate to take cognizance of offences allegedly committed, and though the expression cognizance has not been defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure, but it would certainly mean the application of judicial mind. At this stage, the Magistrate is required to satisfy, if, the material on record i.e. private complaint/ police report/ information received from the third person, as the case may be, discloses commission of a cognizable offence. Thus, it becomes clear that wide powers have been vested with the Magistrate through this provision, in order to commence the criminal proceedings against the accused.

11. By now, it is well settled law that at this stage, where the Magistrate is seized of the police report, he is not bound to follow the conclusion drawn by the Investigating Officer, and, if, the material collected during investigation suggests commission of cognizable offence, the Magistrate would be well within his powers to disagree with the police report exonerating the accused, and further may proceed to issue process against the accused based on the police report itself. The above provision was analysed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Abhinandan Jha and others Vs. Dinesh Mishra, AIR 1968 SC 117, and the relevant observations made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the said decision read as under:-

15. Then the question is, what is the position, when the Magistrate is dealing with a report submitted by the police, under section 173, that no case is made out for sending up an accused for trial, which report, as we have already indicated, is called, in the area in question, as a 'final report'? Even in those cases, if the Magistrate agrees with the said report, he may accept the final report and close the proceedings. But there may be instances when the Magistrate may take the view, on a consideration of the final report, that the opinion formed by the police is not based on a full and complete investigation, in which case in our opinion the Magistrate will have ample jurisdiction to give directions to the police, under section 156 (3), to make a further investigation. That is, if the Magistrate feels, after considering the final report, that the investigation is unsatisfactory, or incomplete, or that there is scope for further investigation, it will be open to the Magistrate to decline to accept the final report and direct the police to make further investigation, under section 156 (3). The police, after such further investigation, may submit a charge-sheet, or,, again submit a final report, depending upon the further investigation made by them. If, ultimately, the Magistrate forms the opinion that the facts, set out in the final report, constitute an offence, he, can take cognizance of the offence under section 190(1) (c), notwithstanding the contrary opinion of the police, expressed in the final report.

16. In this connection, the provisions of section 169 of the Code, are relevant. They specifically provide that even though, on investigation, a police officer, or other investigating officer, is of the opinion that there is no case for proceeding against the accused, he is bound, While releasing the accused,, to take a bond from him to appear, 'If and. when required, before a Magistrate. This provision is obviously to meet a contingency of the Magistrate, when he considers the report of the investigating officer, and judicially takes a view different from the police.

17. We have to approach the, question, arising for consideration in this case, in the light of the circumstances pointed out above. We have, already referred to the scheme of Chapter XXIV, as well as the observations of this Court in Rishbud and Inder Singh's Case(1) that the formation of the opinion as to whether or not there is a case to place the accused on trial before a Magistrate, is 'left to the officer in-charge of the police station. There is no express power, so far as we can see, which gives jurisdiction to pass an order of the nature under attack; nor can any such powers be implied. There is certainly no obligation, on the Magistrate, to accept the report, if he does not agree with the opinion formed by the police. Under those circumstances, if he still suspects that an offence has been committed, he is entitled, notwithstanding the opinion of tile police, to take cognizance, under section 190(1)(c) of the Code. That provision, in our opinion, is obviously intended to secure that offences may not go unpunished and justice may be invoked even where persons individually aggrieved are unwilling or unable to prosecute. or the police, either wantonly or through bona fide error, fail to submit a report, setting out the facts constituting the offence. Therefore, a very wide power is conferred on the Magistrate to take cognizance of an offence. not only when he receives information about the commission of an offence from a third person, but also where he has knowledge or even suspicion that the offence has been committed. It is open to the Magistrate to take cognizance of the offence, under section 190(1) (c), on the ground that, after having due regard to the final report and the police records placed before him, be has reason to suspect that an offence has been committed. Therefore, these circumstances will also clearly negative the power of a Magistrate to call for a charge-sheet from the police, when they have submitted a final report. The entire scheme of Chapter XIV clearly indicates that the formation of the opinion, as to whether or not there is a case to, place the accused for trial, is that of the officer in-charge of the police station and that opinion determines whether the report is to be under section 170, being a 'charge-sheet', or under section 169 'a final report'. It is no doubt open to the Magistrate, as we have already pointed out, to accept or disagree with the opinion of the police and, if he disagrees, he is entitled to adopt any one of the courses indicated by us.

12. The above judgment was further followed by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Minu Kumari and another Vs. The State of Bihar and others, (2006) 4 SCC 359, the relevant observations read as under:-

In Abhinandan Jha and another v. Dinesh Mishra (AIR 1968 SC 117), this Court while considering the provisions of Sections 156(3), 169, 178 and 190 of the Code held that there is no power, expressly or impliedly conferred, under the Code, on a Magistrate to call upon the police to submit a charge sheet, when they have sent a report under Section 169 of the Code, that there is no case made out for sending up an accused for trial. The functions of the Magistracy and the police are entirely different, and the Magistrate cannot impinge upon the jurisdiction of the police, by compelling them to change their opinion so as to accord with his view. However, he is not deprived of the power to proceed with the matter. There is no obligation on the Magistrate to accept the report if he does not agree with the opinion formed by the police. The power to take cognizance notwithstanding formation of the opinion by the police which is the final stage in the investigation has been provided for in Section 190(1)(c).

When a report forwarded by the police to the Magistrate under Section 173(2)(i) is placed before him several situations arise. The report may conclude that an offence appears to have been committed by a particular person or persons and in such a case, the Magistrate may either (1) accept the report and take cognizance of the offence and issue process, or (2) may disagree with the report and drop the proceeding, or (3) may direct further investigation under Section 156(3) and require the police to make a further report. The report may on the other hand state that according to the police, no offence appears to have been committed. When such a report is placed before the Magistrate he has again option of adopting one of the three courses open i.e., (1) he may accept the report and drop the proceeding; or (2) he may disagree with the report and take the view that there is sufficient ground for further proceeding, take congnizance of the offence and issue process; or (3) he may direct further investigation to be made by the police under Section 156(3). The position is, therefore, now well-settled that upon receipt of a police report under Section 173(2) a Magistrate is entitled to take cognizance of an offence under Section 190(1)(b) of the Code even if the police report is to the effect that no case is made out against the accused. The Magistrate can take into account the statements of the witnesses examined by the police during the investigation and take cognizance of the offence complained of and order the issue of process to the accused. Section 190(1)(b) does not lay down that a Magistrate can take cognizance of an offence only if the Investigating Officer gives an opinion that the investigation has made out a case against the accused. The Magistrate can ignore the conclusion arrived at by the Investigating officer and independently apply his mind to the facts emerging from the investigation and take cognizance of the case, if he thinks fit, exercise of his powers under Section 190(1)(b) and direct the issue of process to the accused. The Magistrate is not bound in such a situation to follow the procedure laid down in Sections 200 and 202 of the Code for taking cognizance of a case under Section 190(1)(a) though it is open to him to act under Section 200 or Section 202 also. [See M/s. India Carat Pvt. Ltd. v. State of Karnataka and another (AIR 1989 SC 885)].

13. In view of the above decisions by Hon'ble Apex Court, it emerges that the final report submitted by the police under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. does not bind the Magistrate and in case, if, the material on record suggests commission of offence, the Magistrate would be justified in taking cognizance of the same.

14. Now, while reverting to the merits of the case in hand, this Court finds that as per the prosecution, the victim was the driver of two wheeler, whereas prosecution witnesses namely, Churaman and Parshuram both sons of Late Mohan Lal were the pillion riders. The statement of these two witnesses recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. suggests the involvement of the motorcycle driven by accused Dinesh Jatav and case of the prosecution is further supported by medical evidence as well. Thus, the argument that applicant has been falsely implicate is misconceived at least at the stage of cognizance by Magistrate under Section 190 Cr.P.C. Apart from this, a careful reading of the impugned order would show that the Magistrate has minutely examined the final report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. while, refusing to accept the conclusion and rightly proceeded to take cognizance of the offences. The impugned order is based upon the material collected by the Investigating Officer during investigation and is not based upon any other material, much less filed by complainant along with his complaint/ protest petition.

15. Therefore, in these circumstances, the decision in Wakil Ahmad's case (Supra) relied upon by the applicant would not be applicable, as in the said case, the Magistrate not only rejected the final report submitted by police, but also placed reliance upon two affidavits, which were filed by complainant along with his protest petition. It was in this background, this Court observed that once the cognizance is based upon the other material, which is not part of the final report submitted under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C., therefore, the Magistrate ought to have followed the procedure contained under Chapter XV Cr.P.C. In this case, no doubt the Magistrate used the expression that the final report is rejected, but it only means that the Magistrate has shown his disagreement to the conclusion drawn by the Investigating Officer, because in the end the Magistrate has directed that the case be registered as the case based on the police report.

16. Resultantly, in view of the above discussion, this Court does not find any merit in this case, therefore, the application fails and is hereby dismissed.

THE HON'BLE ARUN BHANSALI, C.J.
HON'BLE ATTAU RAHMAN MASOODI, J.

Special Appeal No. 36 of 2024

Karmesh Pratap Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellant:
Ajay Singh, Sakshi Singh, Sameer Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
Abhinav Trivedi, Lalta Prasad Misra

A. Service Law – Constitution of India – Article 14 – Public Recruitment – Basic principles governing it – Open competition – Significance – Held, recruitment in the matter of public employment is founded on two basic principles. Firstly that the recruitment agency must have credibility of the highest order in executing the principle of open competition and secondly, the implementation of rules applicable insofar as the process is concerned must equally stand the tests of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. (Para 26)

B. Service law – UP Legislative Assembly Secretariat (Recruitment and Conditions of Service) Rules, 1974 – Rule 6 (ii), 49 and 50 – Post of Information Officer – Recruitment – Academic qualification –

Appointment was made making relaxation dehors the rules – Permissibility – Held, the manner in which the relaxation of academic qualification for appointment was granted by the competent authority, the same was clearly indicative of nothing but nepotism besides it being in blatant disregard of the well settled principles of recruitment. The appointment of an ineligible person that too without declaration of result, was clearly dehors the rules. (Para 31)

C. Service law – Constitution of India – Article 14 and 16 – Appointment was made dehors the rules – Worked for more than six years, how far accrue right to hold the post – Held, the appointment of the appellant dehors the Rules, who is not at all eligible to be considered for appointment, is illegal and has rightly been set aside. (Para 32 and 36)

(1) The appellant herein feeling aggrieved against the judgment dated 25.01.2024 passed by the learned Single Judge in Writ-A No. 20207 of 2016 has filed the present intra-Court appeal questioning the legality of the same.

(2) Briefly stated the facts of the case are that a post of Information Officer fell vacant in the Secretariat of Legislative Assembly, Uttar Pradesh in the year 2015. An advertisement was issued for filling up the said post on 27.05.2015, which, for ready reference, to the extent of prescription of essential academic qualification and preferential, is extracted hereunder:-

"2. शैक्षिक योग्यता एवं अन्य अर्हतायें।

यदि कोई अभ्यर्थी अपने उम्मीदवारों के लिए प्रत्यक्ष या अप्रत्यक्ष रूप से अथवा अन्य साधनों द्वारा अपने पक्ष में समर्थन प्राप्त करने का प्रयत्न करेगा तो वह अनर्ह कर दिया जायेगा।"

The process of selection was by way of interview, besides some other norms.

(3) The period for submission of application forms against the advertisement was specified from 27.05.2015 to 17.06.2015. The appellant's application itself came to be filed under surreptitious circumstances. As per the material placed on record that too at the appellate stage, an application is said to have been presented before the Hon'ble Speaker, Legislative Assembly, U.P. on 15.06.2015 which was registered vide Sl. No. 716 and on the same very application, Hon'ble the Speaker made an endorsement to the effect of granting permission to participate in the selection. The application seeking permission to participate in the process of selection on the post of Information Officer did not mention the rule under which the same was presented. The advertisement, on the other hand, required the eligible candidates to submit their application forms in the prescribed format. There is no explanation in the counter affidavit filed by the appellant as to when the application form alongwith the permission was filed by the appellant.

(4) It appears that the process of selection i.e., interview took place on 28.12.2015 and the appellant as well as respondent No. 4 alongwith other candidates participated in the selection. The result of the selection remained undeclared although some complaints raising sense of doubt regarding induction of the appellant alone came to be made which went unnoticed. The counter affidavits filed by the appellant as well as Vidhan Sabha nowhere have disclosed as to when the result of the selection was declared. There is also a contradiction in paras – 8 and 11 of the counter affidavit filed by the Vidhan Sabha. In the process of scrutiny only 23 candidates were found eligible which shows that the appellant was not inclusive. In para – 11, it is stated that 24 candidates were called for interview.

(5) The record reveals that an order of appointment was issued in favour of the appellant on 14.07.2016, whereafter, the respondent No.4/petitioner feeling aggrieved approached this Court by means of Writ Petition No. 20207 (SB) of 2016. The writ petition was dismissed by means of judgment and order dated 27.02.2018 on the ground that after participation in the selection, the respondent No.4 (petitioner in the writ petition) could not turn around and challenge the selection.

(6) The judgment rendered by the Writ Court was assailed by the respondent No.4/petitioner by filing a Review Application No. 64707 of 2018 and the same, on being heard with due opportunity to the parties, was allowed vide judgment dated 31.08.2022. After allowing of the review application, the writ proceedings revived and during the interregnum period, jurisdiction of service matters cognizable before a division bench was reclassified. After reclassification of the jurisdiction under the orders of Hon'ble the Chief Justice, the matter became cognizable by a learned Single Judge. It is in this manner that the matter came up before the learned Single Judge, who in turn has decided the same.

(7) It would be apt for this Court to take note of the fact that while dealing with the application for review, the issue as to the locus of the respondent No.4/petitioner was dealt with on the premise of settled principles of law and the judgment so rendered was not questioned by the present appellant or the Vidhan Sabha, therefore, the same attained finality.

(8) It is in pursuance of the above judgment that the Writ Court proceeded with the matter afresh and has rendered the judgment impugned here in this appeal. Although the arguments have been advanced on the aspect as to the locus of respondent No.4/petitioner to institute the proceedings before the Writ Court, but such a ground urged before us was open to be raised in the review application or even before the Writ Court, therefore, such an argument at the first blush did not impress us for any consideration.

(9) We may also take note of the fact that no material whatsoever as regards the possession of essential eligibility of academic qualification, filing of the application in prescribed form or disclosure of result declaration was placed before the Writ Court in the counter affidavit filed by the appellant, as such, to question the locus of respondent No.4/petitioner on the ground that he does not have a consequential right of appointment based on the declaration of result, in our humble view, is afterthought, misconceived and short of a legal ground. The only stand taken before the Writ Court in para 20 of the counter affidavit filed by the appellant was that the appellant was permitted to appear by the Hon'ble Speaker who was vested with the power to relax the rule and the appellant having obtained more marks was stated to have been appointed. It was on this much of premise set-out by the appellant before the Writ Court that he contested the matter inclusive of the review application. The Vidhan Sabha or the appellant never challenged the order passed on the review application questioning the locus of the respondent No.4/petitioner. The case laws cited by the learned counsel for the appellant in absence of any challenge to the judgment dated 31.08.2022 passed on the review application are wholly misplaced and misconceived.

(10) Sri Sandeep Dixit, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Ajay Singh, learned counsel for the appellant laid emphasis on the following case laws in particular:-

(i) Md. Zamil Ahmed v. State of Bihar and others [(2016) 12 SCC 342]

(ii) Ayaaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan v. State of Maharasthra and others [(2013) 4 SCC 465]

(iii) State of Uttar Pradesh v. Karunesh Kumar and others [2022 SCC OnLine SC 1706]

(iv) Dr. Pragya Shukla v. Union of India and another [2022 SCC OnLine Del 3522]

(11) Having heard learned counsel for the appellant at length, we are not convinced that the respondent No.4/petitioner did not have a locus for the reason that the said question between the parties had attained finality in terms of the judgment rendered in the review application. Further, for want of declaration of result, any participant in the selection held on 28.12.2015 was an aggrieved party inclusive of the respondent No.4/petitioner. We may emphasize that every selection held for filling up the posts in public employment is bound to be concluded in accordance with law before it is acted upon. Therefore, while rejecting the arguments advanced on the issue of locus, we find ourselves in agreement with the judgment rendered on 31.08.2022 which has attained finality.

CONSIDERATION ON MERIT

(12) Coming to the merits of the case, it is to be noticed that the post of Information Officer having fallen vacant became open for being filled up in the Secretariat of Legislative Assembly, U.P.. Any post in the Secretariat of Legislative Assembly is to be filled up as per the Act or Rules framed under Article 187 of the Constitution, which, for ready reference, is reproduced below:-

"Article 187. Secretariat of State Legislature -- (1) The House or each House of the Legislature of a State shall have a separate secretarial staff:

Provided that nothing in this clause shall, in the case of the Legislature of a State having a Legislative Council, be construed as preventing the creation of posts common to both Houses of such Legislature.

(2) The Legislature of a State may by law regulate the recruitment, and the conditions of service of persons appointed, to the secretarial staff of the House or Houses of the Legislature of the State.

(3) Until provision is made by the Legislature of the State under clause (2), the Governor may, after consultation with the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly or the Chairman of the Legislative Council, as the case may be, make rules regulating the recruitment, and the conditions of service of persons appointed, to the secretarial staff of the Assembly or the Council, and any rules so made shall have effect subject to the provisions of any law made under the said clause."

(13) The Governor in exercise of the powers conferred under sub-Article (3) of Article 187 had framed the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Assembly Secretariat (Recruitment and Conditions of Service) Rules, 1974 [in brevity, it is referred to as 'Rules, 1974'] for the purpose of appointment on the posts in the Vidhan Sabha Secretariat, whereas the post in question was not enumerated in the said Rules.

(14) Undisputedly, the post in question was advertised for being filled up as per the essential academic qualification mentioned in the advertisement and open competition was based on the marks obtained in the interview. The essential qualification in the advertisement, as noted above, clearly prescribes that a candidate must possess a degree of graduation with Hindi as a subject. Prescription for such a qualification was in consonance with the Rules applicable by reference under Rule 50 of Rules, 1974.

(15) The case set-up by the respondent No.4 (petitioner) before the Writ Court was to the effect that as per the advertisement issued on 28.05.2015, the essential qualification for Information Officer is Graduation with one subject as Hindi alongwith Diploma in Journalism or 5 years experience in the field of Journalism. The preferential qualifications were also prescribed. The respondent No.4/petitioner possessed the requisite qualification of B.A. and was rather M.A. in Hindi with Post-Graduate Diploma in Journalism and Mass Communication. The appellant on the other hand was stated not to have the requisite qualification of Graduation with one subject as Hindi, yet he participated in the interview held on 28.12.2015 and without declaration of result, the post of Information Officer was filled up by the appellant. Such an appointment became known from the website of Vidhan Sabha, U.P. It was also pleaded that when the result for the post of Information Officer was not declared, the respondent No.4/petitioner had moved an application under Right to Information Act, but of no avail. Again he had moved applications dated 05.08.2016 and 16.08.2016 under Right to Information Act for providing the appointment letter of appellant which evoked no response. A complaint was moved on 23.12.2015 by a public spirited person to His Excellency the Governor of of U.P. stating therein that the entire selection procedure has been influenced just to accommodate the appellant/respondent No.3 who did not possess the essential qualification required for the post in question. Further, it was averred in the writ petition that though Hon'ble the Speaker was not vested with any power to relax the essential educational qualification, but even then on relaxing the essential qualification for the appellant, the solitary post of Information Officer which fell vacant in the Vidhan Sabha Secretariat was filled up without declaration of the result of the selection held on 28.12.2015. In these circumstances, the respondent No.4/petitioner prayed for quashing of the selection/ appointment of the appellant/opposite party No.3 and for declaration of the result of selection held on 28.12.2015.

(16) In the counter affidavit filed by the Vidhan Sabha before the Writ Court, it was stated that under relevant Rules, neither there is any prescription or mode of recruitment nor the source of recruitment for the post of Information Officer in the Secretariat of Legislative Assembly, U.P. Accordingly, an advertisement dated 25.05.2015 was said to have been issued inviting applications from the eligible candidates for filling up the post of Information Officer. In response to the advertisement issued by the Legislative Assembly, 254 applications were received, however, 23 applicants were found eligible and rest of 231 applications were rejected being ineligible. Further, it has been averred in the counter affidavit that on the application moved by the appellant/opposite party No.3 to the Hon'ble Speaker, he was granted permission to appear in the interview. It has been emphasized in the counter affidavit that in terms of the provisions contained in Rule 49 of the Rules, 1974, the Hon'ble Speaker is vested with the power to relax rules.

(17) It is further averred in the counter affidavit that in terms of the provisions contained in Rule 6 (ii) of 1974 Rules, the selection committee was constituted and 24 incumbents including appellant/opposite party No.3 were intimated about the date of interview as 28.12.2015. Out of 24, 20 candidates appeared in the interview on 28.12.2015 and after considering the academic qualifications, experience and performance of the candidates, appellant/opposite praty No.3 was awarded 35 marks, whereas respondent No.4/petitioner was awarded 27 marks. On this basis, appellant/opposite party No.3 was issued appointment order dated 14.07.2016. It has been stated in the counter affidavit that since the appellant/opposite party No.3 was permitted to participate in the interview on the basis of the application moved by him before the Hon'ble Speaker, who is vested with the power to relax rules and the post of Information Officer is an important post, the discretion of Hon'ble Speaker has to be given due weightage. Lastly, it has been stated in the counter affidavit that requisite reply was sent to the application dated 08.08.2016 preferred by the writ petitioner under Right to Information Act through post on 11.08.2016, but it was returned undelivered with the noting that the applicant does not reside at the given address.

(18) In the counter affidavit filed by appellant/opposite party No.3 before the Writ Court, it has been stated that he is a Graduate and he was engaged as Assistant Review Officer (Sessional) in 2004-05, 2005-06 and 2006-07. Thereafter, he performed on the post of Review Officer on contract basis since 13.04.2012 and he continued to work on the said post till 14.07.2016, as he was appointed on the post of Information Officer in the month of July, 2016. Since he had worked in the field of journalism from 01.01.2007 to 31.03.2012 in a Hindi Daily newspaper Tarun Mitra and he became a Member of the Press Club from the year 2011 to 2016, he has vast experience in writing news in vernacular language and during this period, he discharged his duties for covering the proceedings of Legislative Assembly.

(19) Sri Sandeep Dixit, learned Senior Advocate for the appellant has argued that once a candidate has participated in the selection and found unsuccessful, he has no right to question the selection proceedings of a successful candidate. The argument on locus we have already dealt with in the first part.

(20) Besides this, all the arguments made on behalf of the appellant and employer are more or less the same with the distinguishing feature that U.P. Vidhan Sabha has not filed any intra-Court appeal against the impugned judgment.

(21) In the light of the factual position narrated above, the submission putforth on merit by the learned counsel for the appellant is to the effect that once relaxation/concession as to the essential academic qualification was granted by the competent authority, his selection based on the merit ought not to have been interfered with at the instance of respondent No.4/petitioner who, even in the event of writ petition having been allowed, does not reap the consequences of the declaration of result, if any.

(22) In order to make out a case for interference, some additional documents have come to be filed before us at the appellate stage which deserve a deeper scrutiny. The selection based on the interview took place on 28.12.2015 and interestingly, the material placed on record indicates that the office noting in relation thereto was only prepared on 05.06.2016 and was placed before the Hon'ble Speaker on 14.07.2016.

(23) Prior to the approval of competent authority, the office note does not indicate as to when the result of the selection was declared. The only fact which the office note indicates is regarding the merit of the 20 candidates that too without mention of their application numbers. Holding of the interview on 28.12.2015 is mentioned. The office note evidently shows that the same is silent about the declaration of the result of selection held on 28.12.2015. Surprisingly, even without declaration of the result until 14.07.2016, no appointments could be made. The order of appointment issued in favour of the appellant was itself issued on 14.07.2016 vide letter No. 1231/fi0l0/vf/k0/94/97. Not only that the permission to participate in the selection was highly objectionable and beyond the scope of Rules but the very appointment of the appellant benefiting the result in a clandestine manner brought the controversy before this Court through Writ Petition No. 20207 (SB) of 2016 which has finally been allowed by means of the judgment dated 25.01.2024 for the reasons recorded therein.

(24) The counter affidavits filed before the Writ Court by the Vidhan Sabha as well as by the appellant for the purposes of relaxation of essential academic qualification have banked upon Rule 49 of 1974 Rules, which for ready reference is extracted below:-

"49. Power of the Speaker to relax Rules – The Speaker may, in exceptional circumstances, relax the age limit and other qualifications, other than educational qualification, prescribed for any post in these rules."

(25) Having heard the arguments putforth by learned counsel for the parties, the first question that arises for consideration is as to whether the competent authority was well within his jurisdiction to have relaxed the essential conditions of recruitment or the same as per the Rules applicable in this behalf was permissible or not; and secondly, as to whether appointment of an ineligible candidate dehors the rules has a right to continue in blatant disregard of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India read with the Rules applicable.

DISCUSSION ON FINDINGS

(26) Recruitment in the matter of public employment is founded on two basic principles. Firstly that the recruitment agency must have credibility of the highest order in executing the principle of open competition and secondly, the implementation of rules applicable insofar as the process is concerned must equally stand the tests of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. It is a foundational principle of recruitment as laid down in Syed Khalid Rizvi & Ors. vs. Union of India & Ors. [1993 Supp.(3) SCC 576] that the essential conditions of recruitment cannot be relaxed. In the context of principle as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, we may profitably refer to Rule – 49 of the Rules, 1974 as has been placed reliance upon. It is true that in exceptional circumstances, Hon'ble the Speaker can relax Rules pertaining to age limit and other qualifications, but not educational qualifications, prescribed for any post mentioned in the Rules, 1974. Undisputedly, the Rules framed under Article 187 of the Constitution of India, i.e., 1974 Rules did not enumerate the post of Information Officer. It is strange that against the advertised post of Information Officer, which is not enumerated in the Rules, 1974, on the application of appellant/opposite party No.3, the Hon'ble Speaker has relaxed the educational qualification, which is not at all permissible. Thus, the appointing authority under these circumstances for the purpose of recruitment was firstly bound by the terms of the advertisement and secondly the power of relaxation available, if any, could not be exercised beyond the scope of rules as applicable to the service in question.

(27) Learned counsel for the appellant in order to defend the appointment made has argued that once the permission to participate in the selection was granted by the competent authority, it clearly would signify that an exemption pertaining to the possession of essential academic qualification was implied to have been granted by the competent authority. The submission putforth before us is unconvincing and does not impress us for the reason that the permission as available on record was firstly not weighed in the light of the academic qualifications possessed by the appellant and secondly, there was no exercise. The reference to Rule 49 of the 1974 Rules as has been placed reliance upon in the counter affidavit filed by the Vidhan Sabha is merely an eyewash. The appellant's further contention that the appointment made by the competent authority in view of the relaxation having been granted was fully in consonance with law and the appellant having rendered more than 7 years and at this stage having become overage, would face uncertainty in his career is again an argument which essentially is, more an emotional argument than legal. Legally in absence of declaration of result of a selection, it cannot be said to have been done culminating into the rights of appointment in favour of a meritorious candidate and in the present case, no stand was adopted in the counter affidavits filed before the Writ Court that the result of selection, prior to the date of appointment of the appellant, was ever declared by the competent authority. Even the office note based on the selection held on 28.12.2015 was drawn nearly six months later. There is no reference to the declaration of result prior or after the approval of such a selection by the competent authority. In these circumstances, the appointment termed to have been made validly though based on an unauthorized relaxation is a far-fetched argument which has no sanctity in the eyes of law.

(28) Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the respondent No.4/petitioner taking us through the material available on record has, at the first instance, argued that the question of relaxation in the present case, when analyzed from the plain reading of application made on 15.06.2015 is purposely silent on the academic qualification possessed by the appellant and secondly, even if there was a disclosure on the part of appellant for not being possessed with the subject of Hindi at the level of graduation as required in the advertisement, yet the exercise of power within the scope of Rule 49 of 1974 Rules firstly not being applicable in the present case was wrongly availed of by the competent authority and secondly, even if the said Rule was available, yet the same does not permit relaxation of the essential academic qualification as is evident from the plain reading of the Rule itself. Once the rule itself forbids the relaxation of essential academic qualification, no question of relaxation in the present case could arise. There did not exist any special circumstances too as has rightly been observed by the learned Single Judge.

(29) The argument putforth by the learned counsel for the respondent No.4/petitioner is sought to be fortified on the strength of case laws for which ready reference, we may refer to, as under:-

(i) Management of Narendra & Company Private Limited vs. Workmen of Narendra & Company [(2016) 3 SCC 340];

(ii) Judgment dated 04.04.2019 passed in Special Appeal No. 562 of 2005, Devendra Singh vs. District Administrative Committee

(iii) Kishorilal Charmakar and another v. Distt. Education Officer and another [(1998) 9 SCC 395]

(iv) State of Madhya Pradesh & another v. Dharam Bir [JT 1998 (4) SC 363]

(v) State of Karnataka and others v. Gadilingappa and others [(2010) 2 SCC 728]

(vi) Basawaraj and another v. Special Land Acquisition Officer [(2013) 14 SCC 81]

(30) Dr. Misra, learned counsel has heavily come down on the aspect of non-declaration of result. It is argued that no stand whatsoever was adopted before the Writ Court, therefore, all the factual pleas taken at the appellate stage are of no consequence.

(31) Having regard to the arguments and observations made above, even if the documents which are additionally filed alongwith the appeal are taken into consideration, the same lead us to a strong conviction that the manner in which the relaxation of academic qualification for appointment was granted by the competent authority, the same was clearly indicative of nothing but nepotism besides it being in blatant disregard of the well-settled principles of recruitment. The appointment of an ineligible person that too without declaration of result, was clearly dehors the rules and has rightly been set aside as held by the learned Writ Court. The modus operandi of the competent authority being writ large on the face of record was rightly interfered by the learned Single Judge. In the interest of justice, we caution the Recruitment Agencies and competent authorities not to practice nepotism and favouritism in the matter of public employment as it would shake the very confidence and foundation of public faith in the rule of law.

(32) Now coming to the ground of equity as raised on the basis of working for about more than six years, learned counsel for the respondent No.4/petitioner has relied upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in State of Madhya Pradesh and another v. Dharam Bir (supra), wherein it has been observed that the plea that a person appointed illegally is working on the post for more than a decade, his appointment should not be disturbed, cannot be accepted. Relevant paragraph Nos. 32 and 33 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

"32. "Experience" gained by the respondent on account of his working on the post in question for over a decade cannot be equated with Educational Qualifications required to be possessed by a candidate as a condition of eligibility for promotion to higher posts. If the Government, in exercise of its executive power, has created certain posts, it is for it to prescribe the mode of appointment or the qualifications which have to be possessed by the candidates before they are appointed on those posts. The qualifications would naturally vary with the nature of posts or the service created by the Government.

33. The post in question is the post of Principal of the Industrial Training Institute. The Government has prescribed a Degree or Diploma in Engineering as the essential qualification of this post. No one who does not possess this qualification can be appointed on this post. The educational qualification has direct nexus with the nature of the post. The principal may also have an occasion to take classes and teach the students. A person who does not hold either a Degree or Diploma in Engineering cannot possibly teach the students of Industrial Training Institute the technicalities of the subject of Engineering and its various branches."

(33) The appointment of persons who do not possess the minimum prescribed qualification, are illegal. In State of Karnataka v. Gadilingappa & others (supra), the Apex Court in paragraph Nos. 6 and 7 observed as under:-

6. Admittedly, the respondents herein were working as Primary School Teachers for a long period of time and they had rendered service as such continuously without any break. However, after perusing the relevant documents on record what comes to light is the fact that none of the respondents had undergone the T.C.H. course, which was the minimum prescribed qualification at the relevant time for being appointed to the post of a teacher. Since the respondents did not possess the minimum prescribed qualification and because of which their appointment was in contravention of the Cadre and recruitment Rules, we are of the considered view that their appointments were illegal appointments.

7. Furthermore, neither has it been brought to our notice nor was it specifically stated before the High Court by the respondents in the Writ Petition Nos. 45859-891 of 2003 that the respondents belonged to the Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes category, which was the case of the petitioners in Writ Petitions Nos. 33173-33220 of 2003 (S-KAT) as well the main factor taken into consideration by the High Court of Karnataka while allowing the claims of the petitioners therein for regularization of their services. Besides, the Constitutional Bench had, in Secretary, State of Karnataka and Others v. Umadevi(3) and Others reported in (2006) 4 SCC 1, clarified in explicit terms that the decisions which run counter to the principles settled and the directions given in the Uma Devi's (supra) case will stand denuded of their status as precedents. Here, we also wish to point out that it is a well settled principle of law that even if a wrong committed in an earlier case, the same cannot be allowed to be perpetuated."

(34) In the cases of State of Madhya Pradesh and another v. Dharam Bir (supra) and State of Karnataka v. Gadilingappa & others (supra), the facts of both cases are more or less similar. In the former case, the minimum essential qualification prescribed for the the post of Principal of Industrial Training Institute is Diploma in Engineering, whereas in the later case, the minim prescribed qualification is T.C.H. and they had worked for a long period of time. In both cases, since they were not having the minimum prescribed qualification, the Apex Court opined that their appointments were illegal appointments. Here in this case, since the appellant did not possess the minimum qualification prescribed for appointment on the post of Information Officer, the appointment offered to him on the basis of invalid relaxation is dehors the Rules and illegal.

(35) Having considered the arguments putforth by learned counsel for the parties as well as the observations made by the Writ Court in its judgment, there is no escape to conclude that the opinion recorded by the learned Single Judge is the only view possible in the facts and circumstances of the case which deserves to be affirmed for all the more reasons recorded above.

(36) For the aforesaid reasons, the answer to both questions is in negative as the power does not vest in the Hon'ble Speaker to relax the essential qualification and consequently, the appointment of the appellant de hors the Rules who is not at all eligible to be considered for appointment is illegal and has rightly been set aside.

(37) In the result, the Special Appeal filed by the appellant fails and is dismissed accordingly.

Counsel for the Appellant:

Counsel for the Respondents:

A. Service Law – Constitution of India – Article 14 & 15 – Hostile discrimination – U.P. Government Servants (Disciplinary & Appeal) Rules, 1999 – Rule 14 – Disciplinary proceeding – Punishment – Charge of allotting marks to the candidate whimsically, while acting as the Subject expert member in the Selection Committee – Chairman of Committee was exonerated from the charges – Effect – Held, since the allegations have been levelled mainly against the Chairman, against whom exoneration order has been passed by the Central Government, as to how and under what circumstances, the respondent No.1/ petitioner being a Member of Selection Committee, that too in the capacity of Subject Expert can be penalized – The Chairman who is responsible for all misdeeds has been exonerated by the Government of India, but a person who has been nominated as subject expert has been punished for the mistake committed by the Chairman which amounts to hostile discrimination and violation of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution – Since there is no role of the respondent No.1/petitioner to appoint the candidates and the inquiry conducted by the department is wholly unfounded, we are of the firm opinion that setting aside of the impugned punishment order by the learned Single Judge is wholly in consonance with law. (Para 63, 64 and 69)

B. Service Law – UP Government Servant Criterion for Recruitment by Promotion Rules, 1994 – Rule 4 – Promotion – Additional Cane Officer – Criteria of promotion – Principle of merit – Applicability – How far seniority has significance – Writ court directed for holding review Departmental Promotion Committee (D.P.C.) – Validity challenged – Held, direction issued by the learned Single Judge for holding review DPC is not an emerging necessity and would offend the principle of merit as prescribed under Rule 4 of the Rules, 1994 – Any procedure giving precedence to seniority as contemplated under para 11 of the Government Order would clearly stand contrary to the essence of merit wherever it is deciphered on the scale of marks – High Court rejected the argument of the respondent/petitioner that seniority would assume the decisive role calling it fallacious. (2) Learned Counsel appearing for the respondents submits that he has no objection, if the application for condonation of delay is allowed.

(3) In view of above, the application for condonation of delay (C. M. Application No.1 of 2023 moved in Special Appeal No. 930 (Defective) of 2023 is allowed and the delay in filing the special appeal is hereby condoned. Office is directed to allot regular number to the appeal.

On the memo of appeals

(4) Heard learned counsel for the respective parties in both the Special Appeals.

(5) Special Appeal No. 537 of 2023 is directed against the judgment and order dated 31.10.2023 passed in Writ-A No. 4705 of 2023, Dr. Ram Chandra Pathak v. State of U.P. and others, whereby the writ petition filed by the respondent No.1/petitioner, challenging the inquiry report dated 05.04.2021 and punishment order dated 31.05.2023, has been allowed with a direction to the State-authorities to hold a review Departmental Promotion Committee (D.P.C.) for consideration for promotion of petitioner/respondent No.1 along with appellant/opposite party No.4/in Special Appeal No. 537 of 2023 on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner, Department of Sugar Industries and Cane Development ignoring the impugned punishment order dated 31.05.2023.

(6) The State has also filed its Special Appeal No. 930 (D) of 2023 assailing the judgment and order dated 31.10.2023 passed in Writ-A No. 4705 of 2023, Dr. Ram Chandra Pathak v. State of U.P. and others.

(7) Since both the Special Appeals are directed against the judgment and order dated 31.10.2023 passed in Writ-A No. 4705 of 2023, they are being decided by a common judgment and for the purpose of disposal, the contents made in Special Appeal No. 537 of 2023 are being considered.

BRIEF FACTS

(8) The case has chequered history. The respondent No.1/petitioner (Dr. Ram Chandra Pathak) in Special Appeal No. 537 of 2023 had joined the services on the post of District Cane Officer on 01.01.1999 and later on he was promoted on the post of Deputy Cane Commissioner in the year 2012 and on the post of Joint Cane Commissioner in the year 2015.

(9) While he was discharging his duties on the post of Joint Cane Commissioner, vide order dated 20.09.2015, respondent No.1/ petitioner was sent on deputation as Chief Cane Development Officer to the U.P. Co-operative Sugar Mills Federation Limited, Lucknow for five years, whose term came to an end on 27.09.2020. Thereafter, he was attached in the aforesaid Office vide order dated 19.11.2020 till closure of crushing season 2020-2021 or till issuance of Government Order, whichever was earlier.

(10) While he was on deputation, the respondent/petitioner was required to be a Member of Selection Committee as an expert alongwith four other members for selection on the post of Cane Officer. On the complaints moved by thirteen different persons alleging irregularities, the State Government constituted three member committee for conducting a fact finding inquiry and the said Committee submitted its report on 31.07.2017. In the meantime, in compliance of the order dated 19.08.2018 sent by the Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare, the Special Secretary sent his Examination/Audit report on 20.01.2020.

(11) Thereafter, a departmental/disciplinary proceeding was initiated against the respondent No.1/petitioner vide Office Memorandum dated 04.06.2020. While serving a copy of the office memorandum on the respondent No.1/petitioner on 23.06.2020, a copy of the charge sheet containing six charges, on the basis of the alleged fact finding/preliminary inquiry report dated 31.07.2017 and the Audit Report dated 20.01.2020 submitted by the Special Secretary/Vigilance Officer, Sugar Industries and Cane Development Department, Government of U.P., were enclosed requiring him to file his reply within fifteen days from the date of service of charge sheet. Consequently, the respondent No.1/petitioner requested the General Manager (Complainant/Personnel) of Sugar Federation to permit him to peruse the original documents related to selection of the post of Cane Officer and provide him the photocopies of the same. Since the General Manager (Complainant/Personnel) did not accede to his request, he had again requested him by way of a reminder dated 21.09.2020 to provide him the requisite documents expeditiously in order to file a reply to the charge sheet. In the meantime, pursuant to the transfer of Inquiry Officer, Sri Bachchu Lal, Joint Secretary, Sugar Industries and Cane Development Department was appointed as Inquiry Officer on 13.11.2020. Since nothing was provided to the respondent No.1/petitioner, he submitted an inconclusive reply denying all charges levelled against him to the Inquiry Officer.

(12) On receipt of reply from the respondent No.1/petitioner the Inquiry Officer had directed the respondent No.1/petitioner to appear before him on 25.02.2021 at 3.00 P.M. in his chamber for providing evidence in support of the charges levelled against him. It was also mentioned in the said letter that since the respondent No.1/petitioner denied all the charges, the proceedings will be held in accordance with U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 and the Government Order dated 22.04.2015 issued in this regard. Thereafter, the Inquiry Officer submitted his report on 05.04.2021.

(13) After receipt of letter dated 01.07.2022 alongwith inquiry report dated 05.04.2021, the respondent No.1/petitioner preferred a letter dated 25.07.2022 to provide the requisite documents for submission of effective reply to the inquiry report. The same very request was done by him thrice. Since no heed was paid towards his request, the respondent No.1/petitioner while replying to the inquiry report pointed out the irregularities committed in conducting the inquiry denying all the charges levelled against him. At last, the disciplinary authority culminated the proceedings with the passing of order dated 31.05.2023 by withholding five annual increments with cumulative effect along with censure entry in his character roll.

(14) Challenging the order dated 31.05.2023, the respondent No.1/petitioner preferred his representation dated 08.06.2023 that no further meeting of Departmental Promotion Committee (D.P.C.) be held.

(15) In these circumstances, the respondent No.1/petitioner filed Writ-A No. 4705 of 2023 which was allowed with certain directions.

(16) Sri Gaurav Mehrotra, learned Counsel for the appellant/respondent No.4 has submitted that for promotion to the post of Additional Commissioner, Department of Sugar Industries and Cane Development, the Uttar Pradesh Government Servant Criterion for Recruitment by Promotion Rules, 1994 [for the sake of brevity, it is referred to as 'Rules, 1994'] as amended from time to time. Rule 4 of the Rules, 1994 provides the criterion for recruitment by promotion to the post one rank below the Head of Department, shall be made on the basis of merit. For ready reference, the same is reproduced as under:-

"4. Criterion for recruitment by promotion – Recruitment by promotion to the post of Head of Department to post just one rank below the Heads of Department and to a post in any service carrying the pay scale the maximum of which is Rs.18,300/- or above shall be made on the basis of merit, and to the rest of the posts in all services to be filled by promotion including a post where promotion is made from a non-gazetted post to a gazetted post or from one service to another service, shall be made on the basis of seniority subject to the rejection of the unfit."

(17) On 24.06.2023, a Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) was convened for consideration of promotion of the candidates for the post of Additional Cane Commissioner. Since the criteria for promotion on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner, being the post one rank below the Head of Department, was merit as per Rule 4 of the Rules, 1994, the Annual Confidential Reports (ACRs) of all such candidates falling within the zone of eligibility was considered by the DPC on 24.06.2023.

(18) Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently submitted that the marks of the appellant are more than that of the respondent No.1/petitioner on the basis of ACRs for the last 10 years. Since the appellant having scored more marks than the respondent No.1/petitioner was, therefore, rightly recommended by the DPC for promotion on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner.

(19) Since the post of Additional Cane Commissioner is just below the post of Cane Commissioner, the provisions of Rule 4 of Rules, 1994 would be applicable and the sole criteria is merit. Thus seniority has no role and it would come into play when the appellant/respondent No.4 and respondent No.1/petitioner were awarded equal marks in merit.

(20) In support of his submissions that the criterion for promotion on the post in question was merit and it is only when two candidates have equal marks, the role of seniority comes into play, he has relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Premlata Joshi v. Chief Secretary, State of Uttarakhand and others [(2013) 16 SCC 482]. Accordingly, in light of the recommendations made by the DPC and relying upon the aforesaid judgment, the appellant/respondent No.4 was promoted vide Office Order dated 12.09.2023.

(21) Learned counsel for the appellant/respondent No.4 has further submitted that in the writ proceedings, by way of an amendment application, the writ petitioner assailed the entire proceedings of the Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) held on 24.06.2023 which was allowed vide order dated 06.07.2023, but the learned Single Judge did not interfere with the recommendation of DPC convened on 24.06.2023. Since the learned Single Judge did not interfere with the aforesaid recommendations, no occasion arises for issuance of a direction for holding a review DPC, which was not prayed by the writ petitioner and as such, the direction given by the learned Single Judge was beyond the relief sought by the writ petitioner.

(22) When a party does not pray for a specific relief, the Courts ought not to have granted relief. In support of this, he has relied upon the judgments passed by the Apex Court in the cases of Manohar Lal (Dead) by LRs. v. Ugrasen (Dead) by LRs and others [(2010) 11 SCC 557], Bharat Amratlal Kothari v. Dosukhan Samadkhan Sindhi [(2010) 1 SCC 234] and Akella Lalitha v. Konda Hanumantha Rao and another [2022 SCC OnLine SC 928].

(23) Further submission of learned counsel for the appellant is that since the impugned judgment is based upon the findings which are beyond the pleadings pleaded in the writ petition, the judgment rendered by the learned Single Judge is unsustainable on this count alone. More over, the learned Single Judge has not returned any finding as to why a direction for holding review DPC was warranted when the proceedings of DPC convened on 24.06.2023 were not quashed. Thus, no direction to hold DPC could have been issued by the learned Single Judge for considering the case of the appellant/respondent No.4 and respondent No.1/petitioner.

(24) In the facts and circumstances of the instant case, the judgment of the Apex Court in Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited v. Ayodhya Prasad Mishra and another [(2008) 10 SCC 139] relied upon by the writ petitioner is not applicable for the reason that equals cannot be treated unequally. But it is equally well settled that unequals cannot be treated equally. Treating of unequals as equals would as well offend the doctrine of equality enshrined in Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. The High Court was, therefore, right in holding that Executive Engineers placed in Category I must get priority and preference for promotion to the post of Superintendent Engineer over Executive Engineers found in Category II. Here in this case, both the appellant and respondent No.1 were holding the post of Joint Cane Commissioner and were eligible for promotion to the post of Additional Cane Commissioner. Thus, there are no two categories for applying the observations made by the Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment.

(25) Further submission of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 which was relied upon by the writ petitioner to negate the provisions of Rule 4 of Rules, 1994 was neither produced before the learned Single Judge nor any specific pleadings were made in the writ petition in this respect.

(26) In paragraphs 20 to 24 of the counter affidavit dated 12.07.2023 before the writ court, the appellant/respondent No.4 has asserted that since the criteria for promotion on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner being the post one rank below the Head of Department was merit as per Rule 4 of Rules, 1994, the highest marks secured by the candidates are eligible for promotion to the post of Additional Cane Commissioner. Since the appellant/respondent No.4 had secured more marks than the respondent No.1/writ petitioner, he was rightly recommended by the DPC for promotion on the said post.

(27) Learned counsel for the appellant has further submitted that in response to the aforesaid specific contention of the appellant/respondent No.4, the respondent No.1/petitioner instead of denying the provisions of Rule 4 of Rules, 1994 has stated that he was covered by the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 without substantiating the averments. In absence of any pleading by the respondent No.1/petitioner with regard to the applicability of the Government Order dated 27.09.2019, no cognizance shall be taken for the first time at the appellate stage.

(28) The contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant is that it is trite law that the arguments of a litigant as also findings cannot traverse beyond the pleadings and have to be in consonance with the judgments passed by the Apex Court as well as by this Court.

(29) Further, he contends that in the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 nowhere merit has been defined. Thus, the said Government Order is not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the instant matter as it supplants the same instead of supplementing the Rules, 1994.

(30) Elaborating his submissions, he has emphasized the contents of para – 11 of the Government Order wherein it has been provided that on the basis of the provisions contained in paragraph Nos. 7 (1) to (10) of the aforesaid Government Order, those applicants/employees who secure 80 or above out of 100 marks, would be placed in the eligible list and to the extent of posts available, on the basis of their seniority, such employees would be promoted. Further such employees who are placed in the eligibility list would not be discriminated on the basis of merit. For ready reference, contents of paragraph No.7(11) of the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 are reproduced hereunder:-

"(11) उपर्युक्त उप प्रस्तर-1 से 10 के आधार पर 100 अंकों मे से 80 अंक का बेन्चमार्क निर्धारित करते हुए 80 या 80 से अधिक अंक पाने वाले अभ्यर्थी/कार्मिक को "उपयुक्त" श्रेणी में वर्गीकृत करते हुए, वास्तविक रिक्तियों की उपलब्धता की सीमा तक, उनकी पोषक संवर्ग की वरिष्ठता के क्रम में, चयन सूची में शामिल किया जायेगा तथा उनकी पोषक संवर्ग की ज्येष्ठता के आधार पर उनके पदोन्नति के आदेश निर्गत किये जायेंगे। ज्ञातव्य हो कि 'उपयुक्त' श्रेणी में वर्गीकृत अधिकारियों के मध्य मेरिट के आधार पर कोई विभेद नहीं होगा। अर्थात् चयनित अधिकारियों का अधिक्रमण (Surpersession) नहीं होगा। 80 अंक से कम पाने वाले अभ्यर्थियों को अनुपयुक्त श्रेणी में वर्गीकृत किया जायेगा।

उपर्युक्त के अतिरिक्त यदि 80 अंक के बेन्चमार्क के आधार पर रिक्तियों की संख्या के अनुरूप 'उपयुक्त' श्रेणी में वर्गीकृत कार्मिक उपलब्ध नहीं हो पाते है,तो चयन समिति उक्त 80 अंक के बेन्चमार्क को घटाने हेतु सक्षम होगी।"

(31) He further contends that on perusal of the aforesaid Government Order dated 27.09.2019 and more particularly paragraph No. 7(11), it is evident that instead of supplementing the Rules, 1994, it tries to supplant the statutory provisions that for grant of promotion to the employees placed in the eligibility list, 'merit would not be decisive factor'.

(32) Further contention of the learned counsel for the appellant is that since the contents of paragraph No.7(11) of the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 are in the teeth and derogative of the statutory provisions contained in Rule 4 of the Rules, 1994, the statutory rules cannot be amended or superseded merely by issuance of an executive order. In support of this, he has relied upon the judgments of the Apex Court in State of U.P. and others v. Babu Ram Upadhyaya [AIR 1961 SC 751], P.D. Agrawal and others v. State of U.P. and others [(1987) 3 SCC 622], Naga People's Movement of Human Rights v. Union of India and others [AIR 1998 SC 431] and C. Rangaswamaeah and others v. Karnataka Lokayukta and others [AIR 1998 SC 96].

(33) In the case of Union of India and another v. Ashok Kumar Aggarwal [(2013) 16 SCC 147], the Apex Court held as under:-

"It is settled proposition of law that an authority cannot issue orders/office memorandum/executive instructions in contravention of the statutory Rules. However, instructions can be issued only to supplement the statutory rules but not to supplant it."

(34) The Apex Court in the case of Government of Andhra Pradesh and others v. P. Laxmi Devi [(2008) 4 SCC 720] has explained the 'Grundnorm' in the Indian Constitution and the hierarchy as under:-

"34. In India the Grundnorm is the Indian Constitution, and the hierarchy is as follows :

(i) The Constitution of India;

(ii) Statutory law, which may be either law made by Parliament or by the State Legislature;

(iii) Delegated legislation, which may be in the form of Rules made under the Statute, Regulations made under the Statute, etc.;

(iv) Purely executive orders not made under any Statute;

35. If a law (norm) in a higher layer in the above hierarchy clashes with a law in a lower layer, the former will prevail. Hence a constitutional provision will prevail over all other laws, whether in a statute or in delegated legislation or in an executive order. The Constitution is the highest law of the land, and no law which is in conflict with it can survive. Since the law made by the legislature is in the second layer of the hierarchy, obviously it will be invalid if it is in conflict with a provision in the Constitution (except the Directive Principles which, by Article 37, have been expressly made non enforceable).

(35) In a Constitution Bench judgment of the Apex Court in B. N. Nagarajan and others v. State of Mysore and others [AIR 1996 SC 1942] it was held that if there is a statutory rule or an act on the matter, the executive must abide by that act or rule and it cannot, in exercise of executive power under Article 162 of the Constitution of India, ignore or act contrary to that rule or act. Thus, the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 relied upon by the writ petitioner do not supplement the Rules, 1994.

(36) Next he has contended that since the writ petition filed by the writ petitioner was allowed by the learned Single Judge on the ground of fallacies in the inquiry report and not following the procedure for holding disciplinary proceedings, the matter should have been remanded to the concerned authority so that the inquiry could be conducted afresh from the stage of furnishing reply to the charge sheet.

(37) Further submission of the learned Counsel for the appellant is that in the event of the matter being remitted to the Disciplinary Authority for holding fresh inquiry from the point it stood vitiated, the provisions of Government Order dated 28.05.1997 issued by the Department of Personnel, Government of Uttar Pradesh would come into play and the recommendations of the DPC would be kept in a sealed envelope as the disciplinary proceedings against the writ petitioner would still be pending.

(38) The next contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant is that while setting aside the punishment order dated 31.05.2023, liberty was not granted to the State authorities for proceeding against the writ petitioner afresh from the point the inquiry stood vitiated. In support of this submission, he has relied upon the cases of The Inspector of Panchayats and District Collector, Salem v. S. Arichandran and others [2022 SCC Online SC 1282], The State of Uttar Pradesh and others v.

Rajit Singh [2022 SCC Online SC 341] and Chairman, Life Insurance Corporation of India and others v. A. Masilamani [(2013) 6 SCC 530].

(39) Lastly, he has submitted that in the event of the matter being remitted for holding inquiry afresh from the point it stood vitiated, the writ petitioner would still not be entitled for being considered for promotion on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner as the disciplinary proceedings against him would be pending.

(40) Sri Vimal Kumar Srivastava, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Praful Kumar Yadav, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State authorities has raised a preliminary objection before the Writ Court that the respondent No.1/petitioner was having statutory alternative remedy to prefer review under Rule 14 of U.P. Government Servants (Disciplinary & Appeal) Rules, 1999 and further he was having an efficacious remedy of filing a claim petition before the Tribunal under U.P. Public Services Tribunal Act, 1976, but the same has not been considered by the learned Single Judge.

(41) The grounds of challenge are that the learned Single Judge has apparently exercised his jurisdiction beyond the scope of judicial review in respect of the punishment order, which is major in nature and the learned Single Judge has acted as an appellate authority over the decision taken by the disciplinary authority inasmuch as the learned Single Judge has substituted his own findings to the findings recorded by the Disciplinary Authority by appreciating the evidence afresh which is not permissible so far as judicial review of matters related to disciplinary proceedings is concerned.

(42) Further ground taken by the learned Additional Government Advocate is that once the evidence on record has been accepted by the Disciplinary Authority and the findings returned by the Disciplinary Authority in respect of misconduct are supported by evidence available on record, setting aside the order of punishment cannot be justified as the allegations were such amounting to misconduct in terms of the provisions of U.P. Government Servants Conduct Rules, 1956. Lastly, he has submitted that if there is any flaw in the procedure followed during the course of conduct of the inquiry, the punishment order could not have been set aside; rather, it should have remanded to the authority concerned for conducting the inquiry from the stage it stood vitiated.

(43) Per contra, Sri S. C. Mishra, Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Raj Kumar Pandey, learned Counsel appearing for the writ petitioner submits that complaints were filed by 13 persons against Sri B. K. Yadav, the then Managing Director and Chairman of Selection Committee and appointing authority for the post of Cane Officers. On the basis of the complaints, a preliminary inquiry was held by the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow. In the said inquiry, the respondent No.1/petitioner was not found guilty, however, Sri B. K. Yadav was found guilty of five charges. None of the 13 complainants were ever examined or produced in the inquiry to press and verify their status.

(44) Elaborating the above submissions, he asserted that vide Office Memorandum dated 29.11.2016, a selection committee consisting of five members was nominated for the post of Cane Officer wherein the writ petitioner was nominated as a Subject Specialist and Sri B. K. Yadav was a Chairman of the Selection Committee. Sri B. K. Yadav was exonerated by the competent authority on the ground that none of the complaints were filed in consonance with the guidelines framed in the Government Orders dated 09.05.1997 and 06.08.2018, whereas the writ petitioner was served with a copy of Office Memorandum/charge sheet dated 04.06.2020 issued by the Principal Secretary, Sugar Industries and Cane Development, U.P. for initiation of disciplinary proceedings against him. In support of the charge sheet only two evidences were relied upon - one is the report dated 31.07.2017 of the Commissioner, Lucknow and the other report is dated 20.01.2020 of the Special Secretary/Vigilance Officer of Sugar Industries and Cane Development Department. No list of witnesses was given nor anyone was examined, meaning thereby both the reports were never got proved. A perusal of the head note and Para – 1 (source) column and para – 2 (gist of allegations) of the said report dated 20.01.2020 itself shows that it was prepared under the directions of order dated 19.08.2018 of Government of India which required the State Government to submit a report in the case of Sri B. K. Yadav as per the prescribed proforma of Central Vigilance Commission, New Delhi for holding disciplinary inquiry against him as per the request of Government of India.

(45) He went on submitting that on the basis of the report of the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow dated 31.07.2017, whereby five charges levelled against the Chairman of the Selection Committee were found proved, the State requested the Government of India to hold disciplinary inquiry against Sri B. K. Yadav. It is clear from the report that no finding was given against the writ petitioner as all the allegations were made against Sri B. K. Yadav. Consequently, vide letter dated 14.12.2017 sent by the Principal Secretary, Sugar Industries to Department of Agriculture and Farmer's Welfare (Administrative Vigilance Unit), Government of India, New Delhi seeking disciplinary action against the then Managing Director Sri B. K. Yadav who was the Chairman of the Selection Committee as also the Appointing Authority of Cane Officers. It is made clear that both the inquires were held against Sri B. K. Yadav and not against the writ petitioner.

(46) In sequence, he has urged that the writ petitioner was never associated either in the inquiry conducted by the Commissioner or in the inquiry of Special Secretary, Vigilance whose reports have been relied as evidence. Both the inquiry officers of inquiry reports were never produced as witnesses in the inquiry proceedings to authenticate and prove their inquiry reports nor named as witnesses. In the second inquiry held by the Vigilance Officer of Sugar Industries and Cane Development Department, objection No.12 refers to the appointment of Cane Officers, but the allegations were made against the Chini Mill Sangh Committee for appointment of less number of Scheduled Caste candidates as per the prescribed quota. Further, it reveals from the report of Vigilance Officer that the entire inquiry is based upon some ex parte audit report conducted by Sri Vishisth Lekha Prativedan 2016-17 Sahkari Evam Lekha Pariksha Sangathan, but the said report was never made available to the writ petitioner.

(47) He has pointed out that one Shri Tulsi Ram, Finance Controller was inducted as subject specialist in the Selection Committee for appointment of Accounts Officer. When the disciplinary proceedings were initiated against him, he was found guilty of charge of backward class candidates being appointed against Scheduled Caste quota posts and the Disciplinary Authority has passed the punishment order dated 13.04.2022 awarding stoppage of one increment and censure entry in his character roll. When he approached this Court by filing Writ-A No. 3074 of 2022, vide judgment and order dated 30.03.2023 the writ petition was allowed setting aside the order dated 13.04.2022 on the ground of vague charges having been levelled against him in the charge sheet. The said order has become final as it has not been challenged by the State Government. Since the case of the writ petitioner is identical to Shri Tulsi Ram, he should be treated on similar terms.

(48) Further discrimination pointed out by the learned counsel for the respondent No.1/petitioner is that there were nine committees for different posts and Sri B. K. Yadav was Chairman of all nine Selection Committees. After obtaining report from the Central Vigilance Commission and no complaints have been authenticated, Sri B. K. Yadav has been exonerated by the Government of India on 24.08.2022.

(49) Learned Counsel for the respondent No.1/petitioner submits that the selection committee has only recommended the names of the suitable candidates in order of their merit in respective categories to the appointing authority, who is Sri B. K. Yadav, Managing Director of the Corporation and it is the appointing authority to approve the list and issue appointment orders following the Rules, Reservation Quota and Regulations prescribed in this matter.

(50) Elaborating his submissions, learned Counsel has submitted that as per The Uttar Pradesh Co-operative Factories Federation Limited, Employees Service Regulations, 1988, the role of the selection committee is to select the candidates on the basis of their merit after which list of selected candidates including the list containing wait-listed candidates has to be forwarded to the appointing authority for appointment and it is the duty of appointing authority to take the final decision of appointment by following the Rules applicable for selection and appointment. In the present case, the appointing authority, Sri B. K. Yadav, has issued all appointment letters to the selected candidates. More over, mere selection does not give any vested right of appointment unless he has given appointment letter by the appointing authority who alone has to follow the Reservation Rules and other Rules applicable in this regard and therefore, the charge that the respondent No.1/petitioner has violated the reservation rules and appointed less number of Scheduled Caste Candidates is perverse.

(51) He further submitted that the punishment order dated 31.05.2023 has been passed without application of mind and no independent findings agreeing/disagreeing with the inquiry officer have been recorded by the punishing authority while passing the order.

(52) Next, he has contended that even though the inquiry officer has proved only one charge pertaining to reservation rules (charge No.1 and partly charge No.2) against the respondent No.1/writ petitioner but the punishing authority has held that charge No.6 is also proved against the respondent No.1/petitioner without giving any reason as to why he is differing from the view of the inquiry officer because the punishing authority was to retire on 30.06.2023. Therefore, he hurriedly passed the order dated 31.05.2023 and thereafter, he directed for holding Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) on 24.06.2023.

(53) It was then submitted that the promotion of the respondent No.1/petitioner was due from the post of Joint Cane Commissioner to the post of Additional Cane Commissioner for which Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) was constituted earlier which had held its meeting on 04.08.2022 and the result of outcome of the Committee was kept in a sealed cover but on account of impugned order of punishment dated 31.05.2023, his promotion could not be issued and the recommendation lapsed.

(54) His next leg of submission is that the Special Appeal filed by Shri Vishwash Kanaujiya, who was impleaded as opposite party No.4 before the writ proceedings after his application for impleadment was allowed in Writ-A No. 4705 of 2023 on the ground that the writ petitioner has sought for quashing of proceedings of Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) held on 24.06.2023 and no order has been passed against the appellant in the impugned judgment dated 31.10.2023. During pendency of writ petition, the appellant had been promoted on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner vide order dated 12.09.2023.

(55) Elaborating submissions on the maintainability of Special Appeal, learned counsel appearing for the writ petitioner has submitted that the learned Single Judge has only directed to hold a review Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner considering the candidature of the writ petitioner for the same alongwith respondent No.4/appellant ignoring the punishment order dated 31.05.2023 which has been quashed by the learned Writ Court. The said direction of review DPC has been given as the recommendation for promotion of the petitioner was kept in sealed cover in earlier DPC held on 04.08.2022 and while holding the subsequent DPC on 24.06.2023 the candidature of the writ petitioner for promotion has been rejected only on account of the punishment order dated 31.05.2023.

(56) The contention of the appellant/opposite party No.4 is that the criteria of promotion is merit which cannot be ground of challenge of the impugned judgment inasmuch as in the review DPC which will be held both the incumbents will be considered as per the relevant Rules and prevailing guidelines on the basis of which promotions are made in all Government Services throughout Uttar Pradesh and which were followed while holding the earlier DPC dated 04.08.2022 and 24.06.2023. Therefore, there is no occasion for the appellant/opposite party No.4 to file special appeal. More over, the appellant/opposite party No.4 has no concern with the inquiry initiated against the writ petitioner or punishment order as also the impugned judgment and order dated 31.10.2023. Thus, he has no locus standi to challenge the impugned judgment and order. Further, he has submitted that whosoever will be suitable for the promotion as per the prevailing procedure in review DPC will be promoted and the criteria of promotion was not the subject matter of the writ petition. The direction for holding review DPC is as a consequence of quashing of the order of punishment passed against the writ petitioner. The review DPC will obviously be held in accordance with law and prevailing rules and guidelines framed by the competent authority in this regard.

(57) Lastly, he has submitted that after filing of the writ petition, the DPC was held on 24.06.2023 and on 26.06.2023, an interim order was passed to the effect that the result of the DPC be not finalized. However, the said interim order was modified vide order dated 06.07.2023 to the effect that the result of DPC held on 24.06.2023 shall be subject to final outcome of the writ petition. Subsequently, on 12.09.2023, the appellant/respondent No.4 was given promotion with the condition that the said promotion shall subject to the final order of Writ-A No.4705 of 2023. In these circumstances, the Special Appeals filed by the State and appellant/respondent No.4 are liable to be dismissed.

(58) After hearing learned counsel for the parties extensively at length and perusing the material on record, we find it necessary to reproduce the relevant directions given by the learned Single Judge in the impugned judgment and order dated 31.10.2023 as under:-

"36. As per material on record, it is also evident that a departmental promotion committee has in the meantime been held on 24th June, 2023 whereafter the opposite party No.4 has been promoted on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner with non consideration of petitioner due to impugned order. Considering the fact that this Court has found not only the inquiry report but also the punishment order to be vitiated in law the impugned order dated 31st May, 2023 is consequently quashed by issuance of writ in the nature of Certiorari. A writ in the nature of Mandamus is issued to the opposite parties to hold a review D.P.C. for consideration for promotion on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner, Department of Sugar Industries and Cane Development considering the petitioner for the same along with opposite party No.4, ignoring the impugned order dated 31st May, 2023.

37. In view of aforesaid directions, there is no occasion for this Court to quash the Departmental Promotion Committee proceedings held on 24.06.2023 which even otherwise would be subject to the Review Departmental Promotion Committee recommendations."

(59) The aforesaid directions contained in the impugned judgment can be categorized into two parts. One part is relating to the inquiry proceedings and the other part is relating to the competent authority for holding review Departmental Promotion of Committee (DPC) of both the persons, i.e., appellant/respondent No.4 and respondent No.1/petitioner. We first deal with the inquiry proceedings, which are as under:-

(60) Before delving into the merits of inquiry proceedings, we would go through the charge No.1, charge No.2 and charge No.6 which are relevant for consideration as under, as the impugned punishment order has been passed on the aforesaid three charges:-

"(a) Charge No.1 – In the selection for the post of Cane Officer (vacancies-General/Unreserved 07, OBC 05 and SC 03) in the Uttar Pradesh Sugar Factories Federation Ltd., the Selection Committee, in violation of the constitutional provision, had only 02 candidates selected under the SC category while 06 candidates were selected under the OBC category against a vacancy of 05 posts. Thus, instead of carrying forward 01 vacancy under the SC category in case of unavailability of suitable candidates, to the next selection, the same was filled from amongst OBC category candidates.

(b) Charge No.2 – For selection on the post of Cane Officer, the name of an Applicant namely Shri Pradeep Kumar son of Shri Tilak Ram, who had participated in the interview was shown to have been absent from the aforesaid interview, and against which a Writ Petition was filed before this Hon'ble Court which is still pending consideration. More over, the documents including experience certificate of the aforesaid candidate namely Shri Pradeep Kumar was verified, however, till date, the documents including educational as well as experience certificate of selected candidates have not been verified. Thus, by showing the aforesaid SC candidate namely Shri Pradeep Kumar as absent from the interview, 06 candidates under the OBC category were declared to be selected against a vacancy of 05 posts.

(c) Charge No. 6 – The Selection Committee, on its own accord, whimsically, had allotted marks to the selected candidates, which were at variance with the marks allotted by the interview board. The merit list was not prepared on the basis of the actual marks obtained by the candidates. On 30.11.2016 alongwith selection for the post of Cane Officer, selection of A.E.D.P., was also held and the Petitioner along with the Managing Director and Shri Lalta Prasad were members of both the Selection Committees. Thus, it is not possible that the Petitioner was part of two selection board at the same time."

(61) Admittedly, the respondent No.1/petitioner was nominated as a Subject Specialist to interview the candidates for the post of Cane Officer alongwith four members. The respondent No.1/petitioner being member of the Committee had joined with other Members including Chairman of the Selection Committee, namely, (1) Sri B.K. Yadav, Managing Director/Chairman, Selection Committee; (2) Shri Anil Kumar Singhal, General Manager (Personnel)/Member; (3) Shri R.C. Pathak, Chief Cane Development Adviser, Expert Member/Subject Matter Specialist (respondent No.1/petitioner); (4) Sri Ram Avatar Singh, General Manager, Expert Member/Subject Matter Specialist/Member and (5) Sri Lalta Prasad, Chief Engineer (representative of Scheduled Caste)/Member to interview the candidates.

(62) When thirteen complaints were filed against the Selection Committee, they were thoroughly probed and disciplinary proceedings were initiated against the Chairman of the Committee initially. Though the allegations made in the complaints were relating to the Chairman, but later on the respondent No.1/petitioner has been dragged to the disciplinary proceedings.

(63) It is strange thing that Chairman of the Selection Committee being Managing Director is the appointing authority. When the matter reached the Central Government to take action, he has been exonerated from the charges levelled against him on the ground that none of the complaints were got authenticated in terms of the guidelines framed in the Government Orders dated 09.05.1997 and 06.08.2018. Since the allegations have been levelled mainly against the Chairman, against whom exoneration order has been passed by the Central Government, as to how and under what circumstances, the respondent No.1/petitioner being a Member of Selection Committee, that too in the capacity of Subject Expert can be penalized.

(64) Further, it is to be noted that even if the respondent No.1/petitioner has selected any candidate, mere selection does not confer any right of appointment unless and until the selection proceedings are approved by the competent authority. The Chairman who is responsible for all misdeeds has been exonerated by the Government of India, but a person who has been nominated as subject expert has been punished for the mistake committed by the Chairman which amounts to hostile discrimination and violation of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution. Here in this case, the competent authority is Managing Director/Chairman of the Selection Committee. Thus, he is solely responsible against whom the Central Government has exonerated him.

(65) In support of above submissions, the case laws of 'M. Ramesh v. Union of India [(2018) 16 SCC 195], Dinesh Kumar Kashyap v. South East Central Railway [(2019) 12 SCC 798], State of U.P. v. Rajkumar Sharma [(2006) 3 SCC 330], Jatinder Kumar v. State of Punjab [(1985) 1 SCC 122] and UPSC v. M. Sathiya Priya [(2018) 15 SCC 796] relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondent No.1/petitioner are applicable.

(66) More over, one Sri Tulsi Ram, who is a similarly situated person like respondent No.1/petitioner, has been nominated as Subject Expert to interview the candidates for the post of Accounts Officer. When the similar allegations have been levelled against him and on initiation of disciplinary proceedings, it had culminated into passing of stoppage of one increment and censure entry in his character rolls, he filed Writ-A No. 3074 of 2022 which was allowed vide judgment and order dated 20.03.2023 and quashed the impugned punishment order dated 13.04.2022 on the ground that the charge-sheet should not contain any vague charge and the charge should be specified so that employee may be put to notice that what is charge against him for giving reply to the same. As per reading of the charge-sheet, in respect of charge no. 1, it is evidently clear that the same is vague and, the inquiry report is also vague.

(67) The aforesaid order has not been challenged by the State till date which indicates that it attains finality.

(68) At this stage, it is necessary to reproduce the relevant paragraphs of the impugned judgment dated 31.10.2023 as under:-

"32. It is the case of opposite parties that petitioner made recommendations regarding selection on the post of Cane Officer, which were contrary to Article 338 of Constitution of India. It is not a case of opposite parties that petitioner had any role in issuance of appointment letters to the selected candidates. Even otherwise the only major charge levelled against petitioner regarding violation of Article 338 of Constitution of India is of a single recommendation being made over and above the vacancy pertaining to OBC quota. In the considered opinion of this Court, only a recommendation had been made by the selection committee of which petitioner was one of the members. A recommendation even against law may not be construed to be a misconduct, unless specifically indicated in the service rules, particularly since such recommendations are not binding in nature and it is for the appointing authority to adhere to or reject the same. The opposite parties have not been able to indicate any service regulation pertaining to petitioner whereby such a recommendation, even if assumed to be against law, can be held to be a misconduct requiring imposition of such punishment.

33. Learned State Counsel has adverted to judgment rendered by Supreme Court in the case of State of U.P. versus Rajit Singh, 2022 SCC Online SC 341 to submit that doctrine of equality would not be applicable where other officers involved in an incident have been exonerated since misconduct is required to be considered as per role of each individual officer in the light of their duties of office and where charges against individual concerned are held to be proved in a departmental inquiry since there can not be any claim of negative equality.

34. So far as aforesaid judgment is concerned, it is quite evident that opposite parties have failed to make out the distinguishing feature as indicated in the said judgment of Rajit Singh (supra). Neither the inquiry report nor the impugned punishment order have adverted to any individual role of petitioner regarding allegations levelled against him and his role even with respect to same misconduct in the light of his duties of office have also not been distinguished. As has been indicated herein above, the conduct of inquiry itself indicates that the inquiry officer himself was unable to reach any subjective satisfaction regarding involvement of petitioner in the allegations levelled against him. With due respect, in the considered opinion of this Court, the aforesaid judgment would be inapplicable in the present facts and circumstances of the case."

(69) Since there is no role of the respondent No.1/petitioner to appoint the candidates and the inquiry conducted by the department is wholly unfounded, we are of the firm opinion that setting aside of the impugned punishment order by the learned Single Judge is wholly in consonance with law and the same is hereby affirmed. The matter, even if not remitted to the competent authority for being dealt with afresh, does not suffer from any illegality.

(70) Consequent upon the setting aside of the punishment order, the next direction issued by the learned Single Judge for holding review DPC will come into play. In this regard, it is necessary to mention that in the writ proceedings, when the punishment order dated 31.05.2023 passed against the respondent No.1/petitioner was set aside, as to whether the Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) held on 24.06.2023 would consequently require to be reviewed or the emerging position of law is different is the next question that would crop up. The relevant orders which were passed by the learned Single Judge during pendency of writ petition are as under:-

"As per the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner, the Additional Chief Secretary has passed the order against the petitioner against which this petition has been filed. Learned C.S.C. contended that there is provision of filing revision against the aforesaid order as per the Rule 13 of U.P. Government Servant (Disciplinary and Appeal) Rules, 1999 and this writ petition cannot be entertained. On which learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the punishing authority itself is the State, therefore, revision cannot be a remedy for the petitioner.

In view of the above, learned C.S.C. is directed to seek instructions in this regard as to who will decide the revision filed against the order in question in this writ petition.

At the request of learned C.S.C., list this case on 28.06.2023 as fresh.

Supplementary affidavit filed by learned counsel for the petitioner today is taken on record in which he has made a prayer that a D.P.C. was held on 24.06.2023 in hurriedly manner to harm the petitioner, therefore, instructions in this regard be also called from the learned C.S.C. and the result of the D.P.C. be not finalized in the meantime/till the next date of listing."

This application seeks impleadment in the array of parties.

Application is allowed.

Let Mr. Vishwash Kanaujia be impleaded as opposite party no.4 in the array of parties during the course of the day.

Since S/Sri Gaurav Mehrotra and Utsav Misra have appeared on behalf of the newly impleaded opposite party no.4, therefore, no notice is required to be issued to opposite party no.4.

On Memo of Writ Petition

The State is directed to file its response/counter affidavit before the next date of listing of this petition.

Counter affidavit shall be served on the learned counsel for the petitioner at least one day before the next date of listing of this petition.

List this petition on 13.7.2023 peremptorily.

Interim order dated 26.6.2023 is modified to that the result of the Departmental Promotion Committee held on 24.6.2023 shall be subject to the final outcome of this petition.

It is made clear that no adjournment shall be granted on the next date to either of the parties on any ground.

When the case is listed next, names of S/Sri Gaurav Mehrotra and Utsav Misra shall be shown in the cause list as counsels for opposite party no.4."

(71) While granting the interim order dated 26.06.2023, it was provided that the result of the DPC be not finalized in the meantime/till the next date of listing. The said interim order was modified on 06.07.2023 to the extent of DPC held on 24.06.2023 shall be subject to final outcome of the petition. It is on this basis, the appellant/respondent No.4 has been promoted vide order dated 12.09.2023. Since the promotion of the appellant in Special Appeal No. 537 of 2023 has been made on the basis of recommendations of DPC based on the sole criteria of merit, number of arguments have been putforth by the learned counsel for the appellant/respondent that the criteria of merit as postulated under Rule 4 of the Rules, 1994 cannot be overriden by the administrative instructions.

(72) The consequence for issuing a direction for review DPC may or may not be a natural concomitant particularly where the criteria of selection is merit, the selection proceedings have to be viewed from a different perspective altogether and the stipulations of the interim order would ipso facto not give legitimacy to the direction for review of the selection proceedings held on 24.06.2023, unless the same were faulty in the eye of law.

(73) We have already narrated above that the criteria of selection in the case at hand is 'merit' alone, therefore, it is desirable to have a look at the second part of controversy, i.e., whether the direction for holding review DPC was at all desirable to be issued in the facts and circumstances of this case where the recommendations of the DPC were acted upon though under the interlocutory orders passed by this Court. In order to test the operation of Rule – 4 of the abovementioned Rules, 1994 and the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 placed reliance upon, there is no dispute on the point that the aforesaid Rules, 1994 are applicable to the post in question and have an overriding effect.

(74) Insofar as the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 is concerned, it has more significant facets than one. The Government Order in paragraph Nos.7(1) to 7(10) elaborates as to how the candidates in the zone of consideration have to be assessed by the Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC). Marks are specified for each category of ACRs of which the sum becomes relevant both for touching the benchmark and merit.

(75) Learned counsel for the appellant would contend that the marks once provided to be the criteria of merit for touching the benchmark and once scored above 80 marks would equally be relevant for the assessment of merit, therefore, a candidate, whose marks on the prescribed scale of assessment are higher, must reap the benefit of recommendations made by the DPC.

(76) It is further argued that merit of a candidate and punishment are compartmentalized. A candidate, even if higher in merit, would loose his opportunity of promotion, if he is punished in the disciplinary or judicial proceedings. The record produced before this Court demonstrates that the comparative merit of the eligible candidates touching the benchmark is assessed as per the norms prescribed in paragraph Nos.7(1) to 7(10) of the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 and the appellant has scored 96 marks (rounding off), whereas the respondent No.1/petitioner has scored 86 marks (rounding off).

(77) On account of the implications of punishment order, such an assessment did not become redundant but for the higher marks the other candidate, viz., the appellant/respondent No.4 has scored. Two situations arise out of the assessment made by the DPC. Firstly, if a candidate obtains higher marks in the zone of eligibility but is punished and the other situation would be that the eligible candidate who is punished scores lower marks as compared to the one who is offered promotion.

(78) In Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited v. Ayodhya Prasad Mishra and another (supra), the Apex Court has observed that the Executive Engineers having 90% marks i.e. 180 or more out of 200 are to be placed in Category I, while Executive Engineers having 60% or more i.e. 120 or more (up to 179) are to be found in Category II. Such classification, in the considered opinion of the Apex Court, is perfectly reasonable and wholly rational. The classification neither offends Article 14 nor Article 16 nor is otherwise unreasonable infringing Article 19 of the Constitution. Therefore, the conclusion arrived by the Apex Court is that Executive Engineers placed in Category I and Category II are `unequals'. Further, it has been held that once an Executive Engineer is considered eligible and fit for promotion and placed in a particular category (Category I or Category II) he will retain his inter se seniority in the said category. Relevant paragraphs are reproduced as under:-

"39. An Executive Engineer having 90% marks i.e. 180 or more out of 200 are to be placed in Category I, while Executive Engineer having 60% or more i.e. 120 or more (up to 179) are to be found in Category II. Such classification, in our considered opinion, is perfectly reasonable and wholly rational. The classification neither offends Article 14, nor Article 16 nor is otherwise unreasonable infringing Article 19 of the Constitution. We have, therefore, no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that Executive Engineers placed in Category I and Category II are `unequals'.

43. In our opinion, however, the above principle does not help the appellant- Corporation in the present case. As observed by us, under the Scheme of Regulations, 1970, promotion to the post of Superintending Engineer, Chief Engineer II and Chief Engineer I is based on `merit'. If it is so, consideration of merit alone is relevant and material. It is, therefore, provided that once an Executive Engineer is considered eligible and fit for promotion and placed in a particular category (Category I or Category II), he will retain his inter se seniority in the said Category. But that will apply only to those Executive Engineers who are placed in one and the same Category and not in a different Category. An Executive Engineer of Category II cannot, under the scheme of regulations, claim promotion over an Executive Engineer placed in Category I. Such interpretation may possibly result in regulations being declared ultra vires. The High Court, in our opinion, rightly not accepted such interpretation and we see no infirmity therein.

44. There cannot be two opinions that a concession of law cannot bind a party. [Vide B.S. Bajwa & Anr. v. State of Punjab & Ors.(1998) 2 SCC 523; Union of India v. Mohanlal Likumal Punjabi, (2004) 3 SCC 628; Union of India & Anr. v. S.C. Parashar, (2006) 3 SCC 167]. The learned counsel appearing for the writ petitioner also did not dispute this proposition. In our opinion, however, the so called `concession' was not against law. On the contrary, it was in consonance with the scheme of statutory regulations as also consistent with the Constitution. We have, therefore, kept aside the `so called' concession and have considered the question in the light of statutory regulations referred to above. Under the regulations, only one view is possible which has been taken by the High Court and to us, the said view is correct."

(79) If the above analogy is applied in this case, at the relevant time, both the appellant/respondent No.4 and respondent No.1/petitioner were Joint Cane Commissioners and they were eligible for promotion on the post of Additional Cane Commissioner and though both had crossed the benchmark, but on account of the punishment order having been passed against the respondent No.1/petitioner and besides his marks being low, he was not to be promoted. Although setting aside of the punishment order of the respondent No.1/petitioner has brought them on an equal footing but they stand classified on the yardstick of marks as have been derived by applying the procedure mentioned in paragraph Nos. 7(1) to 7(10) of the Government Order dated 27.09.2019. There is no other classification prescribed in the Government Order according to which Rule – 4 of the Rules, 1994 may operate, therefore, any deviation from the actual value of marks as has been suggested based on seniority in paragraph No.11 of the Government Order dated 27.09.2019 is nothing but a breach of the statutory Rules, which is impermissible. On comparison of both cases, i.e., the case at hand and the judgment of Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited v. Ayodhya Prasad Mishra and another (supra), the only difference is that in matter of Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, if the candidature of category – I is not suitable for promotion on the higher post, then the candidature of category – II can be considered, whereas in the instant case, the benchmark of 80 marks testing the suitability of candidates is merely an eligibility for determination of merit and it is for this reason that the same is not to be rigidly observed in the eventuality of non-availability of candidates touching the same. Considering all these facts of the matter, we are of the firm opinion that the above case law is not fully applicable in the facts and circumstances of the present case because allowing the Court to form an opinion on the strength of actual marks obtained by a candidate is the only classification.

(80) It may also be noted that the records of Annual Confidential Remarks (ACRs) have undergone a drastic change in the matter of official secrecy and the manner in which they are maintained. An entry in the confidential record used to be exposed only when there was an adverse remark. Now, as per law, all entries, irrespective of adverse or not, are being made known to all employees well-in-time. Since there is no grievance raised before us in the matter of assessment of marks, as such, the application of Government Order dated 27.09.2019 for assessment of marks as per paragraphs Nos. 7(1) to 7(10) being unquestionable leads us to no other conclusion except that the merit derived in the selection proceedings is binding upon the eligible/suitable candidates having qualified the benchmark. The assessment of marks being a well guided procedure leaves no scope for interference in the matter of assessment which is binding on the eligible candidates.

(81) In view of above, the direction issued by the learned Single Judge for holding review DPC is not an emerging necessity and would offend the principle of merit as prescribed under Rule – 4 of the Rules, 1994. We may also observe that any procedure giving precedence to seniority as contemplated under para – 11 of the Government Order would clearly stand contrary to the essence of merit wherever it is deciphered on the scale of marks. Therefore, the argument putforth by the respondent/ petitioner herein that seniority would assume the decisive role on a candidate obtaining the benchmark is fallacious and deserves to be rejected, inasmuch as the real classification is based on the actual marks obtained above the benchmark.

(82) This Court may further note that the respondent/petitioner at no point of time has assailed the proceedings of selection committee or the assessment of merit to be affected on account of punishment order, which on setting aside, may automatically lead to the consequence of review selection. The assessment of merit being an independent process would only lead to the consequence of review when the marks awarded to a candidate are higher as compared to his counterpart in the zone of consideration chosen to have been appointed. The classification of candidates in the zone of consideration being on the scale of marks above the benchmark, therefore, would not constitute a single category giving precedence to the rule of seniority contrary to the mandate of Rule 4 of Rules, 1994.

(83) For all the reasons stated above, we hereby allow the Special Appeals in part and set aside the direction issued by the learned Single Judge to the extent of holding the review DPC. Insofar as setting aside of the punishment order is concerned, we affirm the impugned judgment/order dated 31.10.2023. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Sandeep Dixit learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Nagendra Bahadur Singh, learned counsel for petitioner, learned State Counsel for opposite party nos. 1 & 4, Mr. Afzal Ahmad Siddiqui, learned counsel for opposite party nos. 2 & 3 and Mr. A.M. Tripathi, learned counsel for opposite party no. 5.

2. Petition has been filed challenging order dated 20.05.2023 so far as it relates to petitioner, 09.11.2023 and 01.01.2024. Further prayer for a direction to opposite parties not to interfere in the peaceful functioning of petitioner in administrating in the institution in question has also been sought.

3. Vide impugned order dated 20.05.2023, the Registrar has stayed earlier approval granted to petitioner's scheme of administration, vide order dated 09.11.2023 the order passed by petitioner terminating services of opposite party no. 5 have been held to be without jurisdiction and vide order dated 01.01.2024, the District Minority Welfare Officer has imposed single hand operation in the institution in question since petitioner was not including the name of opposite party no. 5 in the salary bills.

4. It has been submitted that the opposite party no. 5 was initially appointed as Assistant Teacher in the institution in question on probation vide order dated 31.07.2021 for a period of one year which was thereafter extended on 30.07.2022 for a further period of one year. The services and conduct of opposite party no. 5 not having been found satisfactory, his services were thereafter terminated vide order dated 30.07.2023 by petitioner whereafter the impugned orders have been passed.

5. It has been submitted that since opposite party no. 5 was continuing only on probationary basis, his termination would be referable to Rule 11 of the U.P Non Governmental Arabic and Persian Madarsa Recognition, Administration and Services Regulation, 2016 whereunder petitioner was only under an obligation to afford an opportunity of hearing to the probationer, which has been done in the present case whereafter finding his services dissatisfactory, his services have been terminated.

6. It is submitted that Rule 11 does not provide any power or jurisdiction to the Registrar to interfere with an order of termination or discontinuance of a probationary teacher once issued by the management of the institution.

7. It is further submitted that earlier petitioner institution had submitted its scheme of administration which was forwarded vide letter 07.08.2021. The State Government had passed order dated 07.01.2022 stipulating that in cases where scheme of administration is pending approval before the U.P. Madarsa Shiksha Board, all proceedings undertaken by the Management of institutions concerned pertaining to disciplinary proceedings and subsequent dismissals would be without jurisdiction. It is submitted that thereafter the Registrar vide order dated 28.04.2022 approved the scheme of administration of petitioner institution which has thereafter been stayed by means of the impugned order dated 20.05.2023 purportedly in exercise of power under Section 22 (5) of the U.P. Board of Madarsa Education Act, 2004. It is submitted that once approval has been accorded to the scheme of administration of an institution, there is no provision under law whereby such approval can be stayed by the Registrar. It is therefore submitted that the order dated 20.05.2023 has been passed without jurisdiction.

8. Similarly it has been submitted that since the services of opposite party no. 5 had been terminated in terms of Regulation 11 of the Regulation of 2016, the same were beyond purview of being interfered with by the Registrar and therefore the said order also is without jurisdiction.

9. It has been further submitted that even if assuming that the power exercised by the Registrar by means of order dated 09.11.2023 was under Section 16 of the Regulations, a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of C/M Madarsa Muhammdiya Faiz-E Rasool And Another versus State Of U.P. And 3 Others the said Writ-A No. 13753 of 2020 has already held that the Registrar is not conferred any power either under the statute or regulation to interfere with an order passed by the Management under Regulation 16. Therefore, it has been submitted that the power exercised by petitioner terminating services of opposite party no. 5 whether under Regulation 11 or under Regulation 16 could not have been interfered with by the Registrar.

10. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the opposite party no. 2 has refuted submissions advanced by learned counsel for petitioner with the submission that in terms of Regulation 15 of the Regulations of 2016, it is only the Board which is empowered to approve the scheme of administration of any institution and since in the present case, there is no resolution of the Board approving the scheme of administration of petitioner institution, recourse has rightly been placed upon the Government Order dated 07.01.2022 whereunder it has been specifically provided that till approval of the scheme of administration, no management of any institution shall have any powers to initiate any disciplinary proceedings or pass any dismissal order pertaining to an employee of the institution. It is further submitted that the order dated 28.04.2022 issued by the Registrar purportedly approving scheme of administration of petitioner institution is meaningless since it was only the Board which could have passed such an order and realizing this mistake, the impugned order dated 20.05.2023 has been passed staying the operation of earlier order.

11. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 5 has also refuted submission advanced by learned counsel for petitioner with the submission that earlier during the first year of probation, petitioner institution had issued a show cause notice on 17.06.2022, which was followed up by another show cause notice and was replied to by the said answering opposite parties on 01.07.2022 whereafter he was granted an extension of a further period of one year on 30.07.2022. It is submitted that during the second year of probation, petitioner was issued a show cause notice dated 13.05.2023 followed up by another notice dated 26.05.2023 whereafter another notice dated 07.06.2023 was issued indicating seven charges levelled against petitioner. It is submitted that thereafter an inquiry committee was constituted which submitted its report on 25.07.2023 whereafter the termination order dated 30.07.2023 has been passed on the basis of the aforesaid inquiry report. It is therefore submitted that the aforesaid facts clearly indicate that termination order has been passed not only looking to the satisfactory service of petitioner of the answering opposite parties but in fact alluded to misconduct as well and therefore it would fall within the conditions indicated in Regulation of 16 and not Regulation 11 of the Regulations of 2016. Learned counsel has placed reliance on the following judgments to indicate that once stigmatic charges are levelled against even a probationer, the notice is required to be specific which it is not in the present case and therefore the termination order dated 30.07.2023 is bad in law. It is further submitted that even otherwise the charges levelled against petitioner clearly indicate that termination order has been passed as a measure of misconduct and not merely as an endeavour to judge his suitability for continuance in service. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 5 has placed reliance on certain judgments rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court i.e. Gorkha Security Services versus Govt. of NCT of Delhi reported in MANU/SC/0657/2014; 2014(9) SCC 105, State of Odisha & Ors. versus M/s Panda Infraproject Limited passed in Civil Appeal No. 1083 of 1084 of 2022 reported in 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 206, Dr. Vijayakumaran C.P.V. versus Central University of Kerala & Ors. passed in Civil Appeal No. 777 of 2020, Kotak Mahindra Bank Limited versus A. Balakrishnan & Anr. passed in Civil Appeal No. 689 of 2021, Ardhendu Kumar Das versus State of Odisha and Ors. reported in 2022 Live Law (SC) 539.

12. Upon consideration of submission advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of material on record, the following questions arise for consideration in this petition:-

I. Whether approval to scheme of Administration of Madarsa can be deemed upon expiry of six months of its receipt by the Board in terms of Regulation 15, Part II of the Regulations of 2016?

II. Whether the Committee of Management of a Madarsa has any jurisdiction to initiate disciplinary proceedings against teaching/non-teaching staff during pendency of approval of scheme of administration?

III. Whether the Registrar has any jurisdiction to approve or disapprove punishment orders by the Committee of Management of a Madarsa inflicted after disciplinary proceedings?

13. Question No. 1. So far as the first question is concerned, Section 20 of the Act 2004 provides for making of regulations by the Board for carrying out the purposes of the Act. Section 21 stipulates that all regulations made shall be only with the previous approval of the State Government and published in the gazette. In pursuance of aforesaid powers, the regulations were framed and notified in 2016.

14. Regulation 15 of the regulations provides that the Board shall either approve the scheme of administration within a period of six months of its receipt or shall return it with suggestions pertaining to amendment thereto. There does not appear to be any deeming clause whereby the scheme of administration of a Madarsa can be said to be automatically approved upon expiry of six months. At the same time, some sanctity is required to be attached to the time period of six months stipulated in the regulations and the Board cannot be permitted to act in an arbitrary and whimsical manner ignoring the aforesaid time period so stipulated in the statutory regulations.

15. Regulation 15 of the regulations is as follows:-

"15. परिषद को प्रशासन की योजना प्राप्त होने के मास की प्रथम तिथि से छः मास की अवधि दी जायेगी जिसमें वे या तो उसे स्वीकार कर लेगी अथवा उसको परिवर्तनों अथवा संशोधनों के सुझावों के साथ लौटा देगी।"

16. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of X versus Principal Secretary, Health and Family Welfare Department, Government of NCT of Delhi and another reported in (2023) 9 SCC 433 has held that the wordings indicated in statutory provisions or even in sub-ordinate legislations are required to be implemented in order to give effect to its purpose. The relevant paragraph nos. 31 & 35 are as follows:-

"31. The cardinal principle of the construction of statutes is to identify the intention of the legislature and the true legal meaning of the enactment. The intention of the legislature is derived by considering the meaning of the words used in the statute, with a view to understanding the purpose or object of the enactment, the mischief, and its corresponding remedy that the enactment is designed to actualise. Ordinarily, the language used by the legislature is indicative of legislative intent. In Kanai Lal Sur v. Paramnidhi Sadhukhan, Gajendragadkar, J. (as the learned Chief Justice then was) opined that "the first and primary rule of construction is that the intention of the legislature must be found in the words used by the legislature itself". But when the words are capable of bearing two or more constructions, they should be construed in light of the object and purpose of the enactment. The purposive construction of the provision must be "illumined by the goal, though guided by the word". Aharon Barak opines that in certain circumstances this may indicate giving "an unusual and exceptional meaning" to the language and words used.

"35. The rule of purposive interpretation was first articulated in Heydon case in the following terms: (ER p. 638)

"... for the sure and true interpretation of all statutes in general (be they penal or beneficial, restrictive or enlarging of the common law), four things are to be discerned and considered: .

1st. What was the common law before the making of the Act.

2nd. What was the mischief and defect for which the common law did not provide.

3rd. What remedy Parliament hath resolved and appointed to cure the disease of the commonwealth.

And, 4th. The true reason of the remedy; and then the office of all the Judges is always to make such construction as shall suppress the mischief, and advance the remedy, and to suppress subtle inventions and evasions for continuance of the mischief, and pro privato commodo, and to add force and life to the cure and remedy, according to the true intent of the makers of the Act, pro bono publico."

17. A perusal of the statement of objects and reasons for promulgation of the Act of 2004 has been indicated to the effect that the Arbi Farsi Madarsas were being administered earlier under the Rules of 1987, which having not been made under provisions of any Act, gave arise to various complications in smooth functioning of Madarsas. Therefore, the Act was promulgated with a view to removing the difficulties arisen in running the Madarsas for improving merit therein and making available the best facility of study.

18. It is therefore quite evident that the Act of 2004 and consequently the Regulations framed thereunder have been promulgated and notified for the smooth functioning of the Madarsas since the earlier Rules of 1987 were leading to complications and difficulties.

19. In view of aforesaid, the mischief sought to be controlled by the Act of 2004 is clearly evident with the purpose of establishment of the Board of Madarsa Education under Section 3 of the Act of 2004. Section 22 of the Act of 2004 provides for a scheme of administration for every institution, whether recognized before or after the commencement of the Act and is required to provide for the Constitution of a Committee of Management vested with the authority to manage and conduct affairs of the institution. The said section also provides that the powers, duties and functions of the head of the institution and Committee of Management is required to be specified in the scheme of administration.

20. It is thus evident that the primary purpose of the scheme of administration pertaining to every Madarsa is to effectuate its smooth functioning and delineation of powers of the authorities of a Madarsa. The aforesaid scheme of administration therefore is a necessary requirement for smooth functioning of a Madarsa and it is probably for this purpose that a time limit of six months has been indicated in Regulation 15 of the Regulations of 2016 providing a window to the Board either to approve the scheme of administration or to indicate any amendments required therein.

21. It is also evident that in case the Board does neither of the acts indicated in Regulation 15 pertaining to approval of a scheme of administration, it frustrates the very purpose of the Act and the Regulations framed thereunder. In view of aforesaid, the Board thus is enjoined to adhere to the time limit indicated in Regulation 15 of the Regulations of 2016. From the discussion made hereinabove, it is clear that the Committee of Management of a Madarsa is required to be governed in terms of statutory provisions of the Act of 2004 and the regulations made hereinunder which are binding not only upon the Madarsa and its authorities but upon State authorities as well and the Board of Madarsa.

22. In such circumstances when a statutory duty has been cast upon authorities concerned, it definitely lends a legitimate expectation in favour of the persons concerned that the statutory conditions indicated in the Act and the regulations framed thereunder would be adhered to.

23. With regard to the principles of legitimate expectation, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Jharkhand and others versus Brahmputra Metallics Limited, Ranchi and another reported in (2023) 10 SCC 634 has held as follows:-

"46. As regards the relationship between Article 14 and the doctrine of legitimate expectation, a three-Judge Bench in Food Corpn. of India v. Kamdhenu Cattle Feed Industries45, speaking through J.S. Verma, J., held thus: (SCC p. 76, paras 7-8)

"7. In contractual sphere as in all other State actions, the State and all its instrumentalities have to conform to Article 14 of the Constitution of which non-arbitrariness is a significant facet. There is no unfettered discretion in public law: A public authority possesses powers only to use them for public good. This imposes the duty to act fairly and to adopt a procedure which is 'fairplay in action'. Due observance of this obligation as a part of good administration raises a reasonable or legitimate expectation in every citizen to be treated fairly in his interaction with the State and its instrumentalities, with this element forming a necessary component of the decision-making process in all State actions. To satisfy this requirement of non-arbitrariness in a State action, it is, therefore, necessary to consider and give due weight to the reasonable or legitimate expectations of the persons likely to be affected by the decision or else that unfairness in the exercise of the power may amount to an abuse or excess of power apart from affecting the bona fides of the decision in a given case. The decision so made would be exposed to challenge on the ground of arbitrariness. Rule of law does not completely eliminate discretion in the exercise of power, as it is unrealistic, but provides for control of its exercise by judicial review.

8. The mere reasonable or legitimate expectation of a citizen, in such a situation, may not by itself be a distinct enforceable right, but failure to consider and give due weight to it may render the decision arbitrary, and this is how the requirement of due consideration of a legitimate expectation forms part of the principle of non-arbitrariness, a necessary concomitant of the rule of law. Every legitimate expectation is a relevant factor requiring due consideration in a fair decision-making process. Whether the expectation of the claimant is reasonable or legitimate in the context is a question of fact in each case. Whenever the question arises, it is to be determined not according to the claimant's perception but in larger public interest wherein other more important considerations may outweigh what would otherwise have been the legitimate expectation of the claimant. A bona fide decision of the public authority reached in this manner would satisfy the requirement of non-arbitrariness and withstand judicial scrutiny. The doctrine of legitimate expectation gets assimilated in the rule of law and operates in our legal system in this manner and to this extent." (emphasis supplied)

47. More recently, in Noida Entrepreneurs Assn. v. Noida, a two-Judge Bench of this Court, speaking through B.S. Chauhan, J., elaborated on this relationship in the following terms: (SCC pp. 524-25, paras 39 & 41)

"39. State actions are required to be non-arbitrary and justified on the touchstone of Article 14 of the Constitution. Action of the State or its instrumentality must be in conformity with some principle which meets the test of reason and relevance. Functioning of a 'democratic form of Government demands equality and absence of arbitrariness and discrimination'. The rule of law prohibits arbitrary action and commands the authority concerned to act in accordance with law. Every action of the State or its instrumentalities should neither be suggestive of discrimination, nor even apparently give an impression of bias, favouritism and nepotism. If a decision is taken without any principle or without any rule, it is unpredictable and such a decision is antithesis to the decision taken in accordance with the rule of law.

41. Power vested by the State in a public authority should be viewed as a trust coupled with duty to be exercised in larger public and social interest. Power is to be exercised strictly adhering to the statutory provisions and fact situation of a case. 'Public authorities cannot play fast and loose with the powers vested in them.' A decision taken in an arbitrary manner contradicts the principle of legitimate expectation. An authority is under a legal obligation to exercise the power reasonably and in good faith to effectuate the purpose for which power stood conferred. In this context, "in good faith" means "for legitimate reasons". It must be exercised bona fide for the purpose and for none other." (emphasis supplied)

As such, we can see that the doctrine of substantive legitimate expectation is one of the ways in which the guarantee of non-arbitrariness enshrined under Article 14 finds concrete expression."

24. Upon applicability of the aforesaid principle of statutory interpretation read with Regulation 15 of the Regulations of 2016, it is evident that the Board of Madarsa has been provided a window of only six months from the date of receipt of the draft scheme of administration either to approve the same or to return it with suggestions.

25. In the case of All Kerala Parents' Association of Hearing impaired and another versus State of Kerala and others reported in (2018) 2 SCC 410 has held as follows:-

"5. It is well settled that when the language of any statutory provisions is clear and unambiguous, it is not necessary to look for any extrinsic aid to find out the meaning of the statute inasmuch as the language used by the legislature is the indication of the legislative intent."

26. It is also settled law that provisions of statute are either mandatory or directory in nature but the language alone employed in the statutory provision is not the sole determinative of such a factor and has to be considered in the light of effect of such a statutory provision and the consequences which would follow in case it is held not to be mandatory.

27. In three judge bench decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Mysore and others versus versus V.K. Kangan and others reported in (1976) 2 SCC 895 the proposition has been enunciated as follows:-

"10. In determining the question whether a provision is mandatory or directory, one must look into the subject-matter and consider the importance of the provision disregarded and the relation of that provision to the general object intended to be secured. No doubt, all laws are mandatory in the sense they impose the duty to obey on those who come within its purview. But it does not follow that every departure from it shall taint the proceedings with a fatal blemish. The determination of the question whether a provision is mandatory or directory would, in the ultimate analysis, depend upon the intent of the law-maker. And that has to be gathered not only from the phraseology of the provision but also by considering its nature, its design and the consequences which would follow from construing it in one way or the other. We see no reason why the rule should receive a permissible interpretation instead of a pre-emptory construction. As we said, the rule was enacted for the purpose of enabling the Deputy Commissioner (Land Acquisition Collector) to have all the relevant materials before him for coming to a conclusion to be incorporated in the report to be sent to the Government in order to enable the Government to make the proper decision. In Lonappan v. Sub-Collector of Palghat the Kerala High Court took the view that the requirement of the rule regarding the giving of notice to the department concerned was mandatory. The view of the Madras High Court in K. V. Krishria Iyer v. State of Madras is also much the same."

28. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Amardeep Singh versus Harveen

Kaur reported in (2017) 8 SCC 746 has held as follows:-

"18. In determining the question whether provision is mandatory or directory, language alone is not always decisive. The court has to have the regard to the context, the subject-matter and the object of the provision. This principle, as formulated in Justice G.P. Singh's Principles of Statutory Interpretation (9th Edn., 2004), has been cited with approval in Kailash v. Nanhku reported in (2005) 4 SCC 480 as follows: (SCC pp. 496-97, para 34)

"34. ... 'The study of numerous cases on this topic does not lead to formulation of any universal rule except this that language alone most often is not decisive, and regard must be had to the context, subject- matter and object of the statutory provision in question, in determining whether the same is mandatory or directory. In an oftquoted passage Lord Campbell said: "No universal rule can be laid down as to whether mandatory enactments shall be considered directory only or obligatory with an implied nullification for disobedience. It is the duty of courts of justice to try to get at the real intention of the legislature by carefully attending to the whole scope of the statute to be considered." ' " (p. 338)

" 'For ascertaining the real intention of the legislature', points out Subbarao, J. 'the court may consider inter alia, the nature and design of the statute, and the consequences which would follow from construing it the one way or the other; the impact of other provisions whereby the necessity of complying with the provisions in question is avoided; the circumstances, namely, that the statute provides for a contingency of the non-compliance with the provisions; the fact that the non-compliance with the provisions is or is not visited by some penalty; the serious or the trivial consequences, that flow therefrom; and above all, whether the object of the legislation will be defeated or furthered'. If object of the enactment will be defeated by holding the same directory, it will be construed as mandatory, whereas if by holding it mandatory serious general inconvenience will be created to innocent persons without very much furthering the object of enactment, the same will be construed as directory." (pp. 339-40)"

29. In the case of Devinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and others reported in (2008) 1 SCC 728, Hon'ble Supreme Court has interpreted statutory clauses in terms of being mandatory or directory in nature. The relevant paragraph no. 55 is as follows:-

"55. The approach of the High Court in this behalf, in our opinion, is totally erroneous. A provision of a statute is either mandatory or directory. Even if a provision is directory, the same should be substantially complied with. It cannot be ignored in its entirety only because the provision is held to be directory and not an imperative one."

30. In view of aforesaid, the time window of six months provided to the Board of Madarsa for approving the draft scheme of administration has to be strictly adhered to. Attaching any other meaning or providing extension of the time limit of six months to the Board of Madarsa would eviscerate the specific statutory provision by undesirable lapses on the part of Board.

31. The only conclusion which can be drawn therefore is that the time window of six months provided to the Board of Madarsa has to be construed strictly as a mandatory condition failing which it would impair the smooth functioning of the institutions concerned and would defeat the very purpose for which the Act of 2004 was promulgated. In such circumstances, there is no other option but to hold that in case the Board of Madarsa does not return the draft scheme of administration with its suggestions for amendment within the stipulated time limit of six months, approval of the draft scheme of administration would be deemed.

32. This is all the more evident since under Regulation 15 of the Regulations of 2016, no power has been given to the Board of Madarsa to disapprove of a draft scheme of administration. The silences of the statutory provision cannot be a ground to provide the Board of Madarsa untrammeled power to Act arbitrarily by withholding approval to the draft scheme of administration for all times to come.

33. In the present case, it is evident that the scheme of administration of the Madarsa concerned had been forwarded to the Board on 07.08.2021 which was received on 08.08.2021 whereafter it is still pending consideration despite passing of more than two and half years.

34. In the aforesaid circumstance and particularly since there is no disapproval indicated by the Board of Madarsa with regard to draft scheme of administration of the petitioner institution, the approval to draft scheme of administration is deemed to have been accorded.

35. Question No. 2. The said question pertains to whether the Committee of Management has any jurisdiction to initiate disciplinary proceedings during the pendency of approval of the scheme of administration.

36. The aforesaid question can clearly be divided into two parts pertaining to Regulations 11 and 16 of the Regulations of 2016. While Regulation 11 of Part III of the Regulations of 2016 pertain to probation and confirmation, Regulation 16 of the aforesaid part pertains to disciplinary proceedings against the Headmaster, teaching and non-teaching staff of a Madarsa. Aforesaid two regulations are as follows:-

"11. परिवीक्षण तथा स्थायीकरण- समस्त नवनियुक्त व्यक्तियों को एक वर्ष की परिवीक्षा पर रखा जायेगा, जिसे आगे एक वर्ष के लिए कारण उल्लिखित करते हुये प्रबन्ध समिति द्वारा बढ़ाया जा सकता है। यदि परिवीक्षण अवधि में सम्बन्धित कर्मचारी का कार्य एवं व्यवहार असन्तोषजनक पाया जाता है, तो प्रबन्ध समिति द्वारा कारण बताओं नोटिस देने एवं स्पष्टीकरण प्राप्त करने के पश्चात् परिवीक्षित सेवा समाप्त की जा सकती है। यदि परिवीक्षण अवधि में कोई नोटिस परिवीक्षण अवधि बढ़ाने का नहीं दिया जाता है तो परिवीक्षण काल पूर्ण होने पर सम्बन्धित कर्मचारी अपने पद पर स्थायी किया हुआ समझा जायेगा।

16. अनुशासनिक कार्यवाही (दण्ड, जाँच तथा निलम्बन) - मदरसों के प्रधानाचार्य, शिक्षक एवं शिक्षणेत्तर कर्मचारियों के सम्बन्ध में अनुशासनिक कार्यवाही, निलम्बन एवं दण्ड तथा नैतिक अधमता से अर्न्तग्रस्त किसी अपराध के लिए किसी दण्डिक मामले मेंअन्वेषण या विचारण की कार्यवाही मदरसा शिक्षा परिषद द्वारा अनुमोदित सेवा एवं प्रशासन योजना के अन्तर्गत की जायेगी।"

37. Regulation 11 indicates that a person can be engaged in service for a period of one year on probation which is extendable to a further period of one year. In case the work and conduct of the probationer is found to be dis-satisfactory, his services can be dispensed with after issuing a show cause notice to him and providing opportunity to rebut the same. The provision also indicates automatic confirmation of a probationer upon satisfactory completion of the probation period.

38. The aforesaid regulation is clearly an independent provision pertaining to services of a person engaged on probation by a Madarsa. Quite evidently, the said provision is independent of the scheme of administration applicable upon a Madarsa.

39. In stark contrast, Regulation 16 which pertains to disciplinary proceedings is completely dependent on the approved scheme of administration and the conditions of service which would be indicated therein.

40. In such circumstances the only result of such an examination is that the Committee of Management of a Madarsa is fully competent to take action with regard to dispensing with services of a probationer upon expiry of the probation term but subject to fulfillment of conditions indicated in Regulation 11 whereas action against substantively appointed teaching and non-teaching staff of a Madarsa is completely dependent upon the approved scheme of administration.

41. It is thus evident that while provisions regarding probation have been clearly delineated in the Regulations of 2016, those regarding disciplinary proceedings against substantive employees of the Madarsa have been indicated to be subservient to the scheme of administration. Therefore, the provisions of Regulation 11 being a part of sub-ordinate legislation would definitely have precedence over the scheme of administration.

42. The aspect of precedence of delegated legislation has been enunciated by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of St Johns Teachers Training Institute versus Regional Director, National Council for Teacher Education and another reported in (2003) 3 SCC 321 in the following terms:-

"10. A Regulation is a rule or order prescribed by a superior for the management of some business and implies a rule for general course of action. Rules and Regulations are all comprised in delegated legislations. The power to make subordinate legislation is derived from the enabling Act and it is fundamental that the delegate on whom such a power is conferred has to act within the limits of authority conferred by the Act. Rules cannot be made to supplant the provisions of the enabling Act but to supplement it. What is permitted is the delegation of ancillary or subordinate legislative functions, or, what is fictionally called, a power to fill up details. The legislature may, after laying down the legislative policy confer discretion on an administrative agency as to the execution of the policy and leave it to the agency to work out the details within the frame work of policy. The need for delegated legislation is that they are framed with care and minuteness when the statutory authority making the Rule, after coming into force of the Act, is in a better position to adapt the Act to special circumstances. Delegated legislation permits utilisation of experience and consultation with interests affected by the practical operation of statutes. Rules and Regulations made by reason of the specific power conferred by the Statutes to make Rules and Regulations establish the pattern of conduct to be followed. Regulations are in aid of enforcement of the provisions of the Statute. The process of legislation by departmental Regulations saves time and is intended to deal with local variations and the power to legislate by statutory instrument in the form of Rules and Regulations is conferred by Parliament. The main justification for delegated legislation is that the legislature being over burdened and the needs of the modern day society being complex it can not possibly foresee every administrative difficulty that may arise after the Statute has begun to operate. Delegated legislation fills those needs. The Regulations made under power conferred by the Statute are supporting legislation and have the force and effect, if validly made, as an Act passed by the competent legislature. (See Sukhdev Singh v. Bhagatram Sardar Singh Raghuvanshi.)"

43. In the considered opinion of this Court, it would be appropriate to hold that the Committee of Management of a Madarsa is fully empowered to take action as prescribed under Regulation 11 of Part III of the Regulations of 2016 regarding a probationer irrespective of pendency of approval to the proposed scheme of administration but cannot initiate any disciplinary action against substantively appointed teaching and non-teaching staff of a Madarsa pending approval of the scheme of administration.

44. The aforesaid fact is also evident from the Government order dated 07.01.2022 which also prohibits initiation of any disciplinary proceedings against substantively appointed teaching and non-teaching staff of a Madarsa in terms of Regulation 16 of Part III of the Regulations.

45. Question No. 3. The answer to question whether Registrar has any jurisdiction to approve or disapprove punishment order by the Committee of Management of Madarsa either in terms of Regulation 11 or Regulation 16 of Part III of the Regulations is required to be considered in terms of the aforesaid regulations themselves.

46. It has been submitted by learned counsel for opposite parties that the Registrar exercises power of superintendence in terms of Section 16 of the Act of 2004 and therefore he is empowered to approve or disapprove of action taken by the Committee of Management of a Madarsa pertaining either to Regulation 11 or 16 of the Regulations. Section 16 of the Act of 2004 is as follows:-

"16. (1) The Registrar of the Board shall be the Chief Executive Officer of the Board and shall, subject to the superintendence, control and directions of the Board, be responsible for the execution of its decisions. He shall exercise such other powers and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by regulations, and in particulars :-

(a) be responsible to prepare and present the annual estimates and statement of accounts;

(b) be responsible to ensure that all moneys are spent for the purpose for which they are granted or allotted;

(c) be responsible for keeping the minutes of the meeting of the Board;

(d) shall exercise such powers as are necessary for the conduct of the examinations; and

(e) shall exercise such other powers as may be prescribed by the regulations."

47. A perusal of the aforesaid provision clearly indicates that the powers of Registrar is limited for the exercise of powers and performing duties which may be prescribed by regulations which are indicated in Clauses (a) (b) (c) (d) & (e). The provision does not indicate any power to approve or disapprove of disciplinary action taken by the Committee of Management of a Madarsa. The only exception is Clause 16 (1) (e) with regard to exercise of power as prescribed by the regulations.

48. However, a perusal of both the regulations whether pertaining to services of probationer employee or substantively appointed employee of a Madarsa reveal that there is no provision under the statutory regulations whereby Registrar has been conferred any power to approve or disapprove of action taken by the Committee of Management of a Madarsa under the aforesaid regulations.

49. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Adani Gas Limited versus Union of India and others reported in (2022) 5 SCC 210 has clearly held that the rule or regulation making authority cannot travel beyond the scope of the enabling parent Act. The relevant paragraph nos. 106 & 114 are as follows:-

"106. In State of U.P. v. Renusagar Power Co.61 this Court held that: (SCC pp. 100-01, para 79)

"79. If the exercise of power is in the nature of subordinate legislation, the exercise must conform to the provisions of the statute."

114. It is a well-established principle that the rule or regulation-making authority cannot travel beyond the scope of the enabling parent Act. (State of Karnataka v. H. Ganesh Kamath; St. Johns Teachers Training Institute v. NCTE; Tata Power Co. Ltd. v. Reliance Energy Ltd.). In the decision in Indramani Pyarelal Gupta v. W.R. Natu this Court observed that the proper test applicable would be to consider whether the rule or subordinate legislation is "incompatible" with the purpose for which the body was created or the particular power is contra-indicated by a specific provision: (W.R. Natu case70, AIR p. 281, para 14)

"14.... the proper rule of interpretation would be that unless the nature of the power is such as to be incompatible with the purpose for which the body is created, or unless the particular power is contra-indicated by any specific provision of the enactment bringing the body into existence, any power which would further the provisions of the Act could be legally conferred on it.""

50. A Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of C/M Madarsa Muhammdiya Faiz-E Rasool And Another versus State Of U.P. And 3 Others, Writ-A No. 13753 of 2020 after perusal of Regulations 2016 has also held that neither the statute nor the regulations provide for conferring any power on the Registrar either disapproving or approving of any suspension or termination of any teaching/non teaching staff.

51. Considering the wordings of Regulations 11 and 16 of Part III of Regulations of 2016, this Court is in respectful agreement with the aforesaid judgment and order and therefore holds that the Registrar does not have any power whatsoever under the aforesaid Regulations 11 and 16 of Part III of the Regulations of 2016 either to approve or disapprove action taken by Committee of Management against its employees with a probationary or substantively appointed.

52. However, a rider to the aforesaid observation is required in the sense that since regulation 16 empowering the Committee of Management to initiate disciplinary action against substantively appointed employees is dependent on the approved scheme of administration, the aforesaid powers of the Registrar would be subject to any such provision in case it is indicated in the scheme of administration. However, the Registrar even otherwise would not derive any power to approve or disapprove of action taken by the Committee of Management of a Madarsa under Regulation 11 of Part III of the Regulations of 2016.

53. In view of what has been held hereinabove, it is evident that the opposite parties have sought to take benefit of their own wrong. On one hand the Board has kept the proposed scheme of administration sent by petitioner in limbo for the past two and half years but on the other hand it seeks to derive benefit from the same by striking down action taken by the Committee of Management against the probationary employee on the pretext that the scheme of administration has not been approved. Such a situation cannot be permitted and would in fact amount to an arbitrary action on the part of opposite parties which would therefore be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

54. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 5 has strenuously submitted that since the services of the answering opposite parties, even though on probation, were dispensed with on stigmatic grounds and after following procedure for inquiry, the same would be covered under provisions of Regulation 16 and not Regulation 11 of Part III of the Regulations.

55. However, upon careful examination of not only the show cause notices but also the termination order, it is evident that petitioner has followed the provisions of Regulation 11 which clearly provides that prior to dispensing with the services of a probationary employee on grounds of dissatisfactory work or conduct, a show cause notice and opportunity to rebut the allegations is required to be given, has been followed.

56. Even if it is assumed that services of opposite party no. 5 have been dispensed with on stigmatic grounds, only an opportunity of hearing is required which by any stretch of imagination cannot be said to be in terms of Regulation 16 of the Regulations which clearly is applicable only in case of substantively appointed teaching and non-teaching staff whereas the opposite party no. 5 being only on probation, is covered by the provisions of Regulation 11 of Part III of the Regulations.

57. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 5 has placed reliance on a number of judgments to buttress his submissions. However, a perusal of the aforesaid judgments clearly indicates that they are inapplicable in the present facts and circumstances primarily for the reason that the judgments pertain only to the procedure required to be followed in case of a probationary employee in case his services are dispensed with on stigmatic grounds.

58. At the cost of repetition, it is relevant to state that even if the aforesaid propositions of law are implemented, the nature of petitioner's engagement as a probationary employee and not a substantively appointed employee cannot be countenanced.

59. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 5 has also adverted to judgment and order dated 05.08.2022 passed by this Court in Writ-A No. 10967 of 2022, Arshad Javed Khan versus State of U.P and others. However, a perusal of aforesaid judgment also makes it evident that the same pertained to a substantively appointed teaching staff of a Madarsa and action against him had been taken in terms of Regulation 16 of the Regulations and not under Regulation 11.

60. It is also a relevant fact that the aspect of whether procedure indicated under Regulation 11 of Part III of the Regulations was followed or not is not an aspect to be considered in this petition since the termination order dated 30.07.2023 is not under challenge at the behest of opposite party no. 5.

61. In view of what has been held hereinabove, it is evident that the Registrar had absolutely no jurisdiction whatsoever to interfere with the order dated 30.07.2023 passed by petitioner institution terminating services of opposite party no. 5.

62. It is also evident that the order dated 01.01.2024 imposing single hand operation has been issued by the Registrar only on account of the fact that name of opposite party no. 5 was not being included by the management in salary bills.

63. In view of what has been held hereinabove, the impugned orders dated 09.11.2023 and 01.01.2024 are hereby quashed by issuance of a writ in the nature of certiorari.

64. In view of Regulation 15 of Part II of the Regulations of 2016, there is no occasion for this Court to interfere with the impugned order dated 20.05.2023. However, in view of specific provisions of Regulation 15 of the regulations of 2016 it is held that the draft scheme of administration submitted by the institution in question received by the Board on 08.08.2021 shall hereby stand approved.

65. An application for impleadment was filed on behalf of one Mohd. Mazhar Khan indicating himself to be an Assistant Teacher in the Institution. He is neither a necessary nor a proper party. The application is therefore rejected.

66. Resultantly, the petition succeeds and is allowed. Parties to bear their own cost.

THE HON'BLE ASHWANI KUMAR MISHRA, J.
HON'BLE SYED QAMAR HASAN RIZVI, J.

Special Appeal Defective No. 742 of 2023

The State of U.P. & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Sunny Yadav & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Appellants:
C.S.C.

Counsel for the Respondents:
Sri Om Prakash Tripathi, Sri Ashok Khare (Sr. Advocate)

A. Service Law – UP Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 – Departmental enquiry – No oral or documentary evidence was produced or taken note of – No date was fixed in the enquiry – Effect – Held, the enquiry officer acts as a quasi-judicial authority and has to independently decide the issue of misconduct upon consideration of evidence led by either side. It is in this context that the procedure laid down in the Rules of 1999 has to be followed. In the event, enquiry officer is not satisfied with the reply submitted by the delinquent officer, the enquiry officer will have to proceed with the enquiry by fixing a date, time and place and conduct the enquiry. (Para 7)

B. Service Law – Departmental enquiry – Writ court issued direction to hold fresh enquiry and release of arrears of salary as well – Permissibility – Held, while extending the liberty to the employer to conduct a fresh enquiry, a direction is simultaneously issued to release the arrears of salary also, which was clearly impermissible – In the event, charges were found serious, it would have to be left to the discretion of the employer either to take work from the employee concerned or to place him under suspension. (Para 10 and 11)

Appeal disposed of. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.

Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

In Ref: Delay Condonation Application.

1. Reasons for delay in filing the special appeal have been satisfactorily explained. Delay Condonation Application is consequently allowed.

2. Office is directed to treat the appeal as having been filed within time. Regular Number would be allotted to the appeal.

Order on Appeal

1. Heard Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, learned Additional Advocate General for the State and Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Om Prakash Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondents

2. This appeal is directed against the judgment and order passed by the learned Single Judge dated 22.3.2023 as corrected on 11.04.2023, whereby the punishment order dated 13.07.2020 against the petitioner has been set aside. Learned Single Judge has returned a finding that the procedure required to be followed for conduct of departmental enquiry i.e. U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 has not been adhered to. The enquiry report has been perused by learned Single Judge and it is recorded that after considering petitioner's reply no oral or documentary evidence has been produced or taken note of, nor any such evidence has been proved. Learned Single Judge therefore has arrived at the conclusion that order of dismissal based upon such defective enquiry held in violation of the Rules of 1999 cannot be sustained. An opportunity has been given to the appellants to proceed against the petitioner, by holding a fresh enquiry, in accordance with applicable Rules. A further direction has been issued to pay subsistence allowance to the petitioner. The judgment has been corrected later and the petitioner has been held entitled to arrears of salary also in addition to the subsistence amount.

3. Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, learned Additional Advocate General for the State contends that the finding of the Writ Court with regard to non adherence to the procedure stipulated in Rule 7 of 1999

Rules is unsustainable inasmuch as enquiry has been conducted strictly as per law. It is also argued that since the Writ Court has granted liberty to the employer to hold a fresh enquiry. Therefore, the direction to release arrears of salary is impermissble.

4. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad & others Vs. B. Karunakar & others, reported in (1993) 4 SCC 727. It is urged that in the event punishment order was interfered with on the ground that procedure for enquiry has not been followed, the limited relief that could have been granted was to allow reinstatement for the purposes of holding of enquiry and option ought to have been given to place the employee under suspension for the purposes of holding of enquiry. Submission is that the course suggested by the Writ Court is completely at variance with the law laid down in Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad (supra), and therefore, the judgment of the learned Single Judge cannot be sustained.

5. Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Om Prakash Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondents, on the other hand submits that the liberty granted by the Writ Court vide order dated 22.3.2023 has not been availed by the employer and in such circumstances this Court ought not to interfere in the order. It is further submitted that period of three months was sufficient to hold a fresh enquiry. It is also contended that the direction to release financial benefits is in accordance with law. It is also argued that the charges against the respondent petitioner are otherwise not serious enough so as to warrant any major punishment.

6. We have heard Sri Ajit Kumar Singh, learned Additional Advocate General for the State and Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Om Prakash Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondents and perused the material available on record.

7. So far as the holding of departmental enquiry against the respondents is concerned, we find from a perusal of the enquiry report that after noticing the charges levelled against the employee concerned and his reply he has proceeded to return his findings. There is no reference in the enquiry report to any oral or documentary evidence furnished before the enquiry officer. The enquiry officer acts as a quasi-judicial authority and has to independently decide the issue of misconduct upon consideration of evidence led by either side. It is in this context that the procedure laid down in the Rules of 1999 has to be followed. In the event, enquiry officer is not satisfied with the reply submitted by the delinquent officer, the enquiry officer will have to proceed with the enquiry by fixing a date, time and place and conduct the enquiry. There is nothing on record to show that any date was fixed in the enquiry or any evidence was led, oral or documentary, before returning a finding of guilt against the delinquent employee. Whether the charges were serious enough so as to warrant any major punishment has also not been dealt with.

8. In such view of the matter, we find no error in the view taken by the learned Single Judge in allowing the writ petition on the ground of failure to adhere to the provision of the enquiry Rules. Challenge to the judgment of learned Single Judge on this ground fails.

9. The other part of appellants' submission is with regard to course of action which ought to have been made open for the appellants when the punishment order was interfered with on the ground that the enquiry has not been conducted in accordance with the procedure specified in the Rules. The issue with regard to the course available to the employer in the above circumstances has been elaborately laid down in para 31 of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad & others Vs. B. Karunakar & others, which is reproduced hereinbelow:

"Hence, in all cases where the Inquiry Officer's report is not furnished to the delinquent employee in the disciplinary proceedings, the courts and Tribunals should cause the copy of the report to be furnished to the aggrieved employee if he has not already secured it before coming to the Court! Tribunal, and give the employee an opportunity to show how his or her case was prejudiced because of the non-supply of the report. If after hearing the parties, the Court. Tribunal comes to the conclusion that the non-supply of the report would have made no difference to the ultimate findings and the punishment given, the Court/Tribunal should not interfere with the order of punishment.

The Court/Tribunal should not mechanically set aside the order of punishment on the ground that the report was not furnished as is regrettably being done at present. The courts should avoid resorting to short-cuts. Since it is the Courts/ Tribunals which will apply their judicial mind to the question and give their reasons for setting aside or not setting aside the order of punishment, (and not any internal appellate or revisional authority), there would be neither a breach of the principles of natural justice nor a denial of the reasonable opportunity. It is only if the Courts/ Tribunals find that the furnishing of the report would have made a: difference to the result in the case that should set aside the order of punishment Where after following the above procedure the Courts/Tribunals sets aside the order of punishment, the proper relief that should be granted is to direct reinstatement of the employee with liberty to the authority, management to proceed with the inquiry, by placing the employee under suspension and continuing the inquiry from the stage of furnishing him with the report. The question whether the employee would be entitled to the back-wages and other benefits from the date of his dismissal to the date of his reinstatement if ultimately ordered should invariably be left to be decided by the authority concerned according to law, after the culmination of the proceedings and depending on the final outcome. If the employee succeeds in the fresh inquiry and is directed to be reinstated, the authority should be at liberty to decide according to law how it will treat the period from the date of dismissal till the reinstatement and to what benefits, if any and the extent of the benefits, he will be entitled. The reinstatement made as a result of the setting aside of the inquiry for failure to furnish the report should be treated as a reinstatement for the purpose of holding the fresh inquiry from the stage of furnishing the report and no more, where such fresh inquiry is held. That will also be the correct position in law."

10. The judgment of the learned Single Judge would reveal that while extending the liberty to the employer to conduct a fresh enquiry a direction is simultaneously issued to release the arrears of salary also which was clearly impermissible in view of the observations made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Managing Director, ECIL, Hyderabad (supra).

11. We are of the considered opinion that for the limited purposes of enabling the employer to conduct proper enquiry a direction ought to have been issued to reinstate the respondent-petitioner for the purposes of conduct of enquiry. In the event, charges were found serious, it would have to be left to the discretion of the employer either to take work from the employee concerned or to place him under suspension. The proceedings of enquiry would have to be restored to the stage from where it had gone bad. Question of paying arrears of salary ought to have been deferred to be decided on the basis of the fresh enquiry. Since such course has not been followed by the learned Single Judge, therefore to that extent, we are inclined to interfere in the judgment of the learned Single Judge and consequently the direction issued by the Writ Court stands modified to such extent. We are informed that subsistence allowance has already been paid to the respondent petitioner. We, therefore, provide that till conclusion of fresh enquiry in Rule 7, the appellant employer shall continue to pay subsistence allowance in case they opt to place the respondent petitioner under suspension. We also provide that the enquiry proceedings would be undertaken expeditiously and concluded within a period of four months from today. The respondent undertakes to co-operate in the enquiry.

12. In light of the above observations and subject to the modification made in the judgment of learned Single Judge, this special appeal stands disposed of.

13. Lastly we are informed that contempt proceedings have been initiated by the respondent for enforcement of the judgement of the Writ Court in which 4th March of 2024 is the date fixed for personal appearance of officers. Since we have modified the judgment of the learned Singe Judge it shall be open for the appellants to inform the contempt court about the order passed today and seek appropriate protection.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashwani Kumar Mishra, J.

Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. This appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 31.10.2018, passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.5050 of 2001, whereby the claim of appellant-petitioner of appointment as Assistant Teacher is turned down primarily on the ground that the procedure prescribed in Clause 2(3)(ii)&(iii) of Uttar Pradesh Secondary education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Second Order, 1981 (hereinafter referred to as 'Second Order of 1981') was not followed and consequently the appointment of appellant-petitioner was nullity.

2. There exists an educational institution known as Krishak Inter College, Kashauta, Allahabad (Prayagraj) [hereinafter referred to as 'Institution'], which is duly recognized under the provisions of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act of 1921') and provisions of U.P. High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and other Employees) Act, 1971 are applicable upon it. The provisions of U.P. Secondary Education Service Selection Boards Act, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act of 1982') regulated the appointment of Teachers in the Institution.

3. Vide letter/order dated 13.11.1991, which was effective from 01.04.1991, one post of Principal; two post of L.T. Grade Teacher; and four post of C.T. Grade Teacher were sanctioned by the competent authority in the Institution. The senior most teacher in the Institution, namely Surendra Prasad Tripathi, was appointed as ad-hoc Principal. Resultantly, a short-term vacancy on the post of Assistant Teacher (L.T. Grade) came into existence against which the appellant-petitioner claims to have been appointed on 05.08.1992 under the Second Order of 1981.

4. Though the appellant-petitioner claimed to have been validly appointed but his salary was not paid. Consequently, he filed a Writ Petition No.31694 of 1994, which was dismissed on 31.10.1995, observing that the procedure laid down by the Full Bench in the case of Radha Raijada vs. State of U.P. and others, 1994 UPLBEC 1551 regarding publication of vacancy in two newspapers etc. has not been followed. This order of learned Single Judge has been reversed in Special Appeal No.948 of 1995 vide judgment dated 18.08.1998. The Division Bench held that the procedural requirement made applicable in case of short-term vacancy in Radha Raijada's case (supra) was to apply prospectively and since the appointment of appellant-petitioner was made prior to such judgment, therefore, the rigours of procedure laid down in Radha Raijada's case (supra) would not be attracted. It was thereafter that the matter was again considered and rejected by the District Inspector of Schools, Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as 'Inspector') vide his order dated 17.11.1998. Appellant-petitioner then filed Writ Petition No.40140 of 1998 challenging the order dated 17.11.1998, which was allowed relying upon the previous adjudication made in the special appeal. The authorities, however, again reiterated their stand while rejecting the claim of appellant's appointment, which came to be challenged by the appellant-petitioner in Writ-A No.5050 of 2001.

5. Writ Petition No.5050 of 2001 was entertained and an interim protection was granted. The appellant-petitioner continued to work under the interim order and also received salary. We are informed that he has attained the age of superannuation on 31.03.2020. The writ petition, however, came to be dismissed by the learned Single Judge vide impugned judgment and order 31.10.2018, wherein the facts relating to appointment and creation of vacancy etc. have been elaborately noticed. In para 17 of the judgment learned Single Judge has crystallized following three issues that required examination in the writ petition:-

"(1) Whether ban imposed by Government Order dated 29.06.1991 could be extended to short term vacancies?

(2) Whether ad hoc appointment of petitioner was validly made by following relevant Removal of Difficulties Order i.e. 'Second Order'?

(3) Whether vacancy in question could have been treated to be a substantive vacancy or short term vacancy? "

6. So far as the issue no.1 is concerned, learned Single Judge has categorically held that the ban imposed vide Government Order dated 29.06.1991 could not have been extended to short-term vacancy. The first issue, therefore, stands adjudicated in favour of the appellant-petitioner. The other two issues have been dealt with in para 19 of the judgment. Clause 2 of the Second Order of 1981 is relied upon which is quoted hereinafter:-

"2. Procedure for filling up short-term vacancies.-(1) If short-term vacancy in the post of a teacher caused by grant of leave to him or on account of his suspension duly approved by the District Inspector of Schools or otherwise, shall be filled by the Management of the Institution by promotion of the permanent senior-most teacher of the institution, in the next lower grade. The Management shall immediately inform the District Inspector of Schools of such promotion along with the particulars of the teacher so promoted.

(2) Where any vacancy referred to in Clause (1) cannot be filled by promotion, due to non-availability of a teacher in the next lower grade in the institution, possessing the prescribed minimum qualifications, it shall be filled by direct recruitment in the manner laid down in Clause (3).

(3) (i) The management shall intimate the vacancies to the District Inspector of Schools and shall also immediately notify the same on the notice board of the institution, requiring the candidates to apply to the Manager of the Institution along with the particulars given in Appendix "B" to this Order. The selection shall be made on the basis of quality point marks specified in the Appendix to the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981, issued with Notification No. Ma-1993/XV-7(79)-1981, dated July 31, 1981, hereinafter to be referred to as the First Removal of Difficulties Order, 1981. The compilation of quality point marks shall be done under the personal supervision of the Head of Institution.

(ii) The names and particulars of the candidate selected and also of other candidates and the quality point marks allotted to them shall be forwarded by the Manager to the District Inspector of Schools for his prior approval.

(iii) The District Inspector of Schools shall communicate his decision within seven days of the date of receipt of particulars by him failing which the Inspector will be deemed to have given his approval.

(iv) On receipt of the approval of the District Inspector of Schools or, as the case may be, on his failure, to communicate his decision within seven days of the receipt of papers by him from the Manager, the Management shall appoint the selected candidate and an order of appointment shall be issued under the signature of the Manager.

Explanation-For the purpose of this Paragraph-

(i) the expression "senior-most teacher" means the teacher having longest continuous service in the institution in the Lecturer's grade or the Trained prabhatgraduate (L.T.) grade or Trained under-graduate (C.T.) grade or J.T.C. or B.T.C. grade as the case may be;

(ii) in relation to institution imparting instructions to women, the expression "District Inspector of Schools' shall mean the Regional Inspectress of Girls' Schools;

(iii) short-term vacancy which is not substantive and is of a limited duration." (emphasis added) ”

7. Learned Single Judge after referring to the series of judgments delivered by this Court has ultimately opined in para 33 that since appointment letter to the appellant-petitioner was issued on the date of selection itself i.e. 05.08.1992 and he was actually joined on the next day i.e. 06.08.1992, therefore, there was no compliance of the procedure laid down in Clause 2(3)(ii) of the Second Order of 1981. Learned Single Judge has noticed that the appointment was not approved by the educational authority and occasion had not arisen even for deemed approval of short-term appointment of the appellant-petitioner.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant-petitioner has invited our attention to the previous judgment delivered in the case of appellant-petitioner reported in 1998 (3) UPLBEC 1722, wherein import of non-approval to appointment against short-term vacancy was examined. In para 15 and 16 of the judgment the Division Bench observed as under:-

“15. The next question that falls for consideration is whether the appointment of the petitioner-appellant could still stand invalidated on the ground that it was made without prior approval of the District Inspector of Schools. Sri Yatindra Singh placed reliance on a Division Bench decision of this Court in A. K. Pathshala v. Smt. M. D. Agnihotri, 1971 All LJ 983, wherein it was held, on construction of Section 16F (1) of the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, that appointment without prior approval by the Competent Authority would, in the eye of law, be no appointment. The ratio of the said decision as held by a subsequent Division Bench in Lalit Mohan Misra v. District Inspector of Schools. 1979 All LJ 1025, is that a "person gets the status of a teacher when requisite formality is completed." The relevant observations are as under :

"Without approval the person does not get the status of a teacher even though the approval is to be followed by formal letter but in the absence of formal letter the person gets the status of a teacher after approval to the appointment is given by the District Inspector of Schools. The appointment of a person as a teacher becomes effective only from the date approval is given and even if a person is allowed to work before that the same has no recognition under the U. P. Intermediate Education Act."

16. Paragraph 2 (3) (iv) of the Second Removal of Difficulties Order is not phrased in a prohibitory language as was the language used in Section 16F (1) of the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921. The words 'prior approval' have been used in sub-clause (ii) of paragraph 2 (3) of the Second Removal of Difficulties Order and a conjoint reading of sub-clauses (it), (Hi) and (iv) of clause (3) of paragraph 2. no doubt, leads to an inescapable conclusion that the appointment would be issued under the signature of the Manager only on the approval having been communicated by the District Inspector of Schools within seven days of the receipt of the papers or where the approval is deemed to have been accorded as visualised by sub-clause (Hi) of clause (3) of paragraph 2 of the Second Removal of Difficulties Order. However, appointment, if made prior to approval or deemed approval, would become effective from the date of approval or deemed approval as held by the Division Bench of this Court in Lalit Mohan Misra (supra). There is nothing on the record to connote that prerequisite conditions attracting deemed approval were not satisfied in the instant case. The learned single Judge has also not addressed himself to this facet of the matter and the Judgment under appeal on this score too cannot be sustained."

9. The Division Bench has noticed the language employed in Clause 2(3)(ii)&(iii) of the Second Order of 1981 as per which selection on a short-term vacancy could be made on the basis of quality point marks specified in the appendix to the Second Order of 1981. As per Clause 2(3)(ii), the names and particulars of selected candidates and other candidates alongwith quality point marks allotted to them shall be forwarded by the Manager to the Inspector, who shall communicate his decision within seven days as per Clause 2(3)(iii) and in the event no decision is intimated by the Inspector, within seven days of the receipt of particulars by him, the approval shall be deemed to have been granted.

10. In the facts of the present case, the papers relating to selection proceedings alongwith quality point marks and other details were sent by the Manager to the Inspector on 12.08.1992 in terms of Clause 2(3)(ii) of the Second Order of 1981. It is also admitted that within a period of seven days or even after expiry of seven days no decision was intimated to the management regarding appointment of appellant-petitioner. It is therefore to be seen as to whether the appointment made even before expiry of seven days period could be treated as legal or not.

11. In the previous round of litigation inter se between the parties the Division

Bench of this Court had relied upon the judgment of this Court in A. K. Pathshala vs. Smt. M.D. Agnihotri, 1971 Alld.LJ 983, which recognized the principle that appointment of a teacher would become effective only from the date approval is given to it. In law any working prior to the date of approval or deemed approval cannot be counted or relied upon. In the facts of the present case, papers relating to selection had been sent to the Inspector for his approval on 12.08.1992 and since for a period of one week no decision was intimated as such the approval would be deemed to have been given in law to the selection for appointment on the expiry of one week. It is only with the deemed approval granted to the appellant's appointment that legality would be attached to the appointment offered to him.

12. The mere fact that appointment letter was issued even before deemed approval was accorded to the appellant-petitioner would not mean that appointment offered to the appellant-petitioner would become invalid. In the previous round of litigation, inter-se between the parties, this Court had relied upon the judgment of this Court in Lalit Mohan Misra vs. D.I.O.S., 1979 All. 1075, which held the approval to be the date when recognition is granted to the teacher. This Court also held that appointment made prior to approval or deemed approval would become effective only from the date of approval. A finding was also returned that deemed approval had occurred. Similar view has also been taken by the Division Bench of this Court in Pramod Kumar Pandey vs. D.I.O.S., 2019 (11) ADJ 127. In paragraph 17, this Court held as under:-

"17. In the present case, it is admitted fact that the papers relating to selection and appointments of the appellant-petitioners were sent to DIOS by the Management on 17.10.1997 for his grant of approval after having issued letters of appointment to the appellant-petitioners. It is also not in dispute that the DIOS did not bestow his consideration on these papers within statutory specified period of seven days. As such the appointment of appellant-petitioners stood approved by deemed fiction of law and in view of the law settled by this court in above authoritative pronouncements (Lalit Mohan Misra and Another (supra), and Abhay Pal Singh (supra)]."

13. In that view that matter, we find that the learned Single Judge is not justified in dismissing the writ petition only on the ground that appointment was offered to the appellant-petitioner even before deemed approval could be granted to such appointment. The appointment of appellant-petitioner made on 05.081992 become effective only from the date of deemed approval i.e. upon expiry of one week from 12.08.1992. The authorities, therefore, were not justified in non-suiting the appointment of appellant-petitioner for such reason.

14. Consequently, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. Judgment and order dated 31.10.2018, passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-A No.5050 of 2001, is hereby set aside. Respondents shall treat the appointment of appellant-petitioner to be validly made in terms of Clause 2(3)(ii)&(iii) of the Second Order of 1981 upon expiry of seven days period from the date when particulars of selected candidates alongwith quality point marks were sent to the Inspector i.e. 12.08.1992, treating it to be a case of deemed approval. The respondents shall also accord consideration to the appellant's case for regularization in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Act of 1982, within a period of two months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order. Since the appellant-petitioner has superannuated on 31.03.2020, his claim for superannuation benefits as per his entitlement shall be dealt with, in accordance with law, within a further period of six weeks, thereafter.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anand Tiwari, learned counsel for petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondent-State.

2. The petitioner has preferred the present writ petition inter-alia with the following prayer:-

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned termination order dated 30.12.2023 passed by the respondent no. 3.

Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the authority concern to pay the subsistence allowances to the petitioner for his suspension period i.e. 14.10.2022 to 30.12.2023."

3. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that the petitioner was initially appointed as a 'Dresser' in Animal Husbandary Department on 28.07.2004 and subsequently, promoted on the post of Pashudhan Prasar Adhikari' on 3.1.2017. After 18 years of service, one stranger made a compliant against the petitioner with regard to the qualification and certificates of High School submitted by the petitioner at the time of his joining. On the basis of the alleged compliant, a preliminary inquiry was initiated against the petitioner. The petitioner was suspended on 14.10.2022 and the charge-sheet has been served on 03.4.2023 upon the petitioner. The petitioner was also served second charge sheet on 05.08.2023 and thereafter the petitioner was terminated from services on 30.12.2023 by the respondent No.3/Additional Director II, Animal Husbandry Department Meerut Mandal Meerut.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that only on the basis of the preliminary inquiry, the service of the permanent Government Employee cannot be terminated and while terminating the services of the petitioner, the procedure prescribed under U.P. Government Servant (Disciplinary and Appeal) Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred as "Rules 1999") were not followed. It is argued that no oral evidence has been taken produced and the petitioner has neither given any opportunity to cross examine the witness nor he was permitted to produce his defence, although an ex-parte enquiry was initiated, the Inquiry Officer is duty bound to record the evidence and follow all the procedure prescribed under the Rules. It is argued that the documents relied upon by the inquiry Officer was never supplied to the petitioner nor the list of the witnesses has been given to the petitioner. It is argued that no show cause notice has been issued to the petitioner. It is argued that the respondents are duty bound to follow the provisions of Rules, 3, 7, 8 and 9 of Rules, 1999 in exercise of powers conferred by the provisions of Article 309 of the Constitution of India. It is argued that the aforesaid order is arbitrary and passed in violation of the principles of natural justice and Rules, 1999, and prays that the same be quashed and the petitioner is entitled for subsistence allowance during the suspension period, i.e., 14.10.2022 to 30.12.2023.

5. On the other hand learned Standing counsel argued that a complete procedure as prescribed under the Rules, 1999 was complied with by the respondents before passing the order of termination, hence the same does not call for any interference by this Court.

6. When a query raised by this Court that while passing the impugned order, the procedure prescribed under Rule 7(iv) and 7(x) of the Rules, 1999 has been complied by the authorities or not. it is argued by learned Standing counsel that the procedure prescribed in the aforesaid rules were not followed by the authorities but the order was passed after taking legal opinion from the District Government counsel.

7. In order to examine the issue as to whether the procedure prescribed under the Rules for holding departmental inquiry in respect of imposition of major penalty have been followed or not, it is necessary to reproduce Rules 7,8 and 9 of the Rules, 1999, which read as follows:

"7. Procedure for imposing major penalties.--Before imposing any major penalty on a Government Servant, an inquiry shall be held in the following manner:

(i) The Disciplinary Authority may himself inquire into the charges or appoint an Authority subordinate to him as Inquiry Officer to inquire into the charges.

(ii)

(iii)

(iv)

(vi)

(vii) Where the charged Government servant denies the charges the inquiry officer shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge-sheet and record their oral evidence in presence of the charged Government servant who shall be given opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses. After recording the aforesaid evidence, the Inquiry Officer shall call and record the oral evidence which the charged Government servant desired in his written statement to be produced in his defence:

Provided that the Inquiry Officer may for reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness.

(viii) The Inquiry Officer may summon any witness to given evidence or require any person to produce documents before him in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Departmental Inquiries (Enforcement of Attendance of Witness and Production of Documents) Act, 1976.

(ix) The Inquiry Officer may ask any question he pleases, at any time of any witness or from person charged with a view to discover the truth or to obtain proper proof of facts relevant to charges.

(x) Where the charged Government servant does not appear on the date fixed in the inquiry or at any stage of the proceeding in spite of the service of the notice on him or having knowledge of the date, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed with the inquiry ex parte. In such a case, the Inquiry Officer shall record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet in absence of the charged Government servant.

8. Submission of inquiry report.--When the inquiry is complete, the Inquiry Officer shall submit its inquiry report to the Disciplinary Authority along with all the record of the inquiry. The Inquiry Report shall contain a sufficient record of brief facts, the evidence and statement of the findings on each charge and the reasons thereof. The Inquiry Officer shall not make any recommendation about the penalty.

9. Action on Inquiry Report.-- (1) The Disciplinary Authority may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, remit the case for re-inquiry to the same or any other Inquiry Officer under intimation tot he charged Government servant. The Inquiry Officer shall thereupon proceed to hold the inquiry from such stage as directed by the Disciplinary Authority, according to the provisions of Rule 7.

(4) If the Disciplinary Authority, having regard to its findings on all or any of charges is of the opinion that any penalty specified in Rule 3 should be imposed on the charged Government servant, he shall give a copy of the inquiry report and his findings recorded under sub-rule (2) to the charged Government servant and require him to submit his representation if he so desires, within a reasonable specified time. The Disciplinary Authority shall, having regard to all the relevant records relating to the inquiry and representation of the charged Government servant, if any, and subject to the provisions of Rule 16 of these rules, pass a reasoned speaking order imposing one or more penalties mentioned in Rule 3 of these rules and communicate the same to the charged Government servant."

8. From the aforesaid rules, it is apparently clear that if the charged employee denies the charges levelled against him, the Inquiry Officer appointed by the Disciplinary Authority, shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge-sheet and record their oral evidence in presence of the charged employee and shall give an opportunity to the charged employee to cross-examine such witnesses. After recording the aforesaid evidence, the Inquiry Officer shall call and record the oral evidence, which the charged employee desired in his written statement to be produced in support of his case. Rule-7 further contemplates that the Inquiry officer may examine any witness to give evidence or require any person to produce documents before him in accordance with the Rules, 1999. The procedure as detailed in the aforesaid Rules is in conformity with the requirement of principles of natural justice and is therefore, necessary to be adhered to in letter and in spirit.

9. From perusal of the above it transpires that complete procedure has been prescribed under the aforesaid Rules, the manner in which the inquiry could be conducted. From the perusal of the order impugned it is clear that no such procedure whatsoever has been followed by the respondent authority. It also reveals that the decision has been taken against the petitioner only after making illegal opinion.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court again in the case of State of U.P. and others Vs. Saroj Kumar Sinha reported in (2010) 2 SCC 772 has held that the Inquiry Officer has been held to be in the position of an independent adjudicator and acting in a quasi-judicial authority with a duty enjoined upon him that even in the absence of the delinquent, he is to see whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. It was also observed that in a case where no oral evidence was examined and the documents have not been proved, the charges could not be held to have been proved against the delinquent employee.

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Ministry of Finance and Another vs. S.B. Ramesh, reported in AIR 1998 Supreme Court 853, has held that even in ex-parte disciplinary proceedings, wherein the employee is not participating in the departmental Inquiry, it is necessary for the Inquiry Officer to fix a date for recording evidence in support of the charges and intimation of the date so fixed must be communicated to the employee concerned so that the employee concerned may cross-examine the witnesses. It has further been clarified that no documents can be received in evidence unless proved by some competent person, who has come-forward in evidence, un-proved documents cannot be relied upon for brining home the charges against the said employee.

12. The Inquiry Officer has been held to be in the position of an independent adjudicator and acting in a quasi-judicial authority with a duty enjoined upon him that even in the absence of the delinquent, he is to see whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. It was also observed that in a case where no oral evidence was examined and the documents have not been proved, the charges could not be held to have been proved against the delinquent employee.

13. A Division Bench of this Court in the case of Radhey Kant Khare vs. U.P. Cooperative Sugar Factories Federation Ltd. reported in 2003 (1) AWC 704, has held that after a charge sheet is given to the employee, an oral inquiry is must whether the employee requests for it or not. Further, it is mandatory to give a notice to him indicating the date, time and place of the enquiry, the principle being that charge-sheeted employee should not only know the charges against him but should also know the evidence against him so that he can properly reply to the same.

14. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Kaptan Singh Vs. State of U.P. and another reported in 2014 0 SCC (All) 868 held that Rules of 1999 also require the Inquiry Officer to hold an enquiry into the charges except where the delinquent admits the charges (Rule 7vi), in such an eventuality, he can submit a report straight away. As per Sub Rule (iv) and (x) of Rule 7 if the delinquent does not file his written statement or does not appear, the Investigating officer shall proceed ex parte. Where he files the written statement and denies the charges, as in the instant case, it shall proceed as per Rule 7(vii) and the following sub rules. The relevant paragraphs of the judgement is reproduced hereinbelow:-

12. The Rules of 1999 also require the Inquiry Officer to hold an enquiry into the charges except where the delinquent admits the charges (Rule 7vi), in such an eventuality, he can submit a report straight away. AS per Sub Rule (iv) and (x) of Rule 7 if the delinquent does not file his written statement or does not appear, the Investigating officer shall proceed ex parte. Where he files the written statement and denies the charges, as in the instant case, it shall proceed as per Rule 7(vii) and the following sub rules.

13. The reference to ?documentary evidence? in Rule 7(iii) and (v) clearly indicates that the same have to be examined, as aforesaid, on the date to be fixed for enquiry, whether in the presence of the delinquent or in absentia (ex parte). This requirement though not express is implicit in the aforesaid rules, as is the requirement of holding an oral enquiry,as it is a sine qua non for providing reasonable opportunity to defend and is part of the principles of natural justice under Article 311 and 14 of the Constitution. Reference may be made in this regard to the judgments of the Apex Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank, 2009 2S 570, State of U.P. v. T.P. Lal Srivastava, 1996 10 SCC 742, and The Imperial Tobacco Company of India Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348, and the judgements of this Court in R.K. Singh v. Director/Appointing Authority, Govind Ballabh Pant Social Science Institute, Jnunsi, Allahabad and another, 2001 2 UPLBEC 1282 and Subhash Chandra Sharma v. U.P. Co-operative Spinning Mills and others, (2001) 2 EC 1475. The aforesaid requirement of law has not been followed in the instant case.

14. Rule 10 deals with the procedure for imposing minor penalty. Rule 8 and 9 deals with the submission of the enquiry report and action to be taken based thereon.

15. In spite of the aforesaid rules we find tht in the instant case, a major punishment has been imposed without following due procedure under Rule 7.

15. Similar view has already been taken by the coordiante Bench of this Court in case of Brijesh Kumar Tripathi Versus State of U.P. And others, passed in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No (Writ-A) No. 71261 of 2005 on 21.11.2005 as well as by the Division Bench of this Court in case of State of U.P. Through Secretary Revenue and 4 Others vs. State Public Service Tribunal and 4 Others, passed in Writ-A No. 3786 of 2022 on 25.3.2022.

16. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

17. It is well settled law that during enquiry proceeding the principle of natural justice must be followed i.e. the documents relied upon be provided to the charged employee, opportunity to adduce the evidence be provided, statement of witnesses for establishing the charges be recorded and opportunity to cross examine the witnesses be provided, whereas in the present case no such procedure has been followed. The petitioner has not been given opportunity to adduce the evidence and cross examine the witnesses and no witnesses has been examined by the enquiry officer in support of the charges levelled against the petitioner.

18. In this view of the matter, this Court is satisfied that the procedure prescribed under Rule-7 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, has not been followed by the Inquiry Officer. Further, the enquiry is not made in accordance with the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ministry of Finance and another (Supra)

19. Thus, in view of the aforesaid fact, the impugned order dated 30.12.2023 passed by respondent no.3- Additional Director-II, Animal Husbandry Department, Meerut Mandal, Meerut, is set aside.

20. The writ petition is allowed. No order as to costs

21. The concerned respondent authority is at liberty to pass afresh order after giving notice and opportunity of hearing to the petitioner after following the provisions as provided under the Rules, 1999.

A. Service Law – Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – Ch. II, Reg. 3(1) – Seniority – U.P. Hindi Sansthan Employees Service Rules No. 1983 – Rule 3 and 5 – Both contesting parties were appointed on the same date and taken joining on the same date also – Inter-se seniority – Determination – Applicability of Hindi Sansthan Rule – Time of joining – Relevancy – Held, Rule 3 and 5 of Rules, 1983 as applicable to U.P. Hindi Sansthan relates to recruitment and appointment and has nothing to do with seniority – Once statutory rule provide date of substantive appointment to be guiding factor, it mean that date and not the joining time. The rule qua substantive appointment would, therefore, include both forenoon and afternoon joining – The petitioner, being senior in age, is held senior to 5th respondent in view of provision as contained under Reg. 3(1) (a) and (b). (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Petitioner who is working as Assistant Teacher in attached primary section of an intermediate college, namely, Mangatram Kanya Higher Secondary School, Patla, district Ghaziabad, is aggrieved by decision of the District Inspector of Schools dated 30.12.2016 holding respondent no. 5, namely, Ms. Anupama Tyagi as a senior to the petitioner. Both Assistant Teachers were appointed with approval order issued by the District Inspector of Schools, Ghaziabad on 30.12.2016. Since petitioner and 5th respondent were simultaneously appointed in the institution and their substantive appointment is with effect from the same date, an issue arose as to the inter se seniority.

2. Petitioner is while claiming his seniority on the basis of her date of birth recorded as 5th June, 1981, the 5th respondent claims seniority on the basis of her joining in the forenoon of 30.12.2016. It is admitted to both the parties that petitioner joined in the afternoon of 30.12.2016 whereas 5th respondent joined in the forenoon of 30.12.2016. Upon the matter being remitted under the order of this Court dated 21.6.2021 passed in Writ A No. 4244 of 2021, the Regional Joint Director of Education proceeded to decide seniority taking as an admitted position that both the petitioners were appointed on the same date and the petitioner was senior in age to the respondent no. 5. The Regional Joint Director of Education found that rules applicable to U.P. Hindi Sansthan, namely, U.P. Hindi Sansthan Employees Service Rules No. 1983 to be applicable as according to the order of the Regional Joint Director of Education, the relevant regulations contained under Rule 3(1)(b) of Chapter II of Intermediate Education Act, 1921 do not contemplate a situation where two teachers join the same date but had different point of time that is forenoon and afternoon.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that law is well settled that special law will override the general law if any. He has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Commercial Tax Officer, Rajasthan v. Binai Cements Limited and Another (2014) 8 SCC 319 and accordingly submits that Intermediate Education Act, 1921 being especially enacted for governing service conditions like seniority etc. and other incidental matters relating to teacher and employees of a recognized and aided institution under the Act, and the regulations provide for determination of seniority, the Regional Joint Director of Education was not justified in borrowing Hindi Sansthan Employees Service Rules, 1983 in determining intere se seniority. He submits that 1921 Act is a special Act whereas general rule of seniority is applicable to various other institutions. He submits that even 1983 rules of Hindi Sansthan have been especially framed for employees of Hindi Sansthan and unless and until adopted under the Act, 1921, they cannot be applied directly or even on principles.

4. Per contra, it is argued by learned counsel appearing for the 5th respondents that since Intermediate Education Act, 1921 does not contemplate a situation of dispute of seniority between two teachers in the event one has joined in forenoon and the other joined in afternoon, it could have been taken out of general provisions and for this purpose he has taken the Court to the relevant part i.e paragraph 5 (the finding part) of the order dated 21.12.2021 passed by Regional Joint Director of Education.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the records, three admitted position emerge out :

i) both petitioner and 5th respondent were appointed on the same date with approval of the District Inspector of Schools on 30.12.2016 which is their date of substantive appointment;

ii) petitioner and 5th respondents joined on the same date in the institution, however, 5th respondent in the forenoon and petitioner joined in the afternoon;

iii) both the petitioner and 5th respondent agree that their service conditions are governed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and regulations framed thereunder.

6. In view of admitted above factual position, now I proceed to examine relevant regulations of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921. Regulation 3(1) (as amended on date) of Chapter II of Intermediate Education Act, 1921 deals with seniority) and same is reproduced as under:

"3(1) The Committee of Management of every institution shall cause a seniority list of teachers to be prepared in accordance with the following provisions-

(a) The seniority list shall be prepared separately for each grade of teachers whether permanent or temporary, on any substantive post;

(b) Seniority of teachers in a grade shall be determined on the basis of their substantive appointment in that grade. If two or more teachers were so appointed on the same date, seniority shall be determined on the basis of age;

(bb) Whether two or more teachers working in a grade are promoted to the next higher grade on the same date, their seniority inter se shall be determined on the basis of the length of their service to be reckoned from the date of their substantive appointment in the grade from which they are promoted:

Provided that if such length of service is equal, seniority shall be determined on the basis of age.

(c) A teacher in a higher grade shall be deemed to be senior to a teacher in the lower grade irrespective of the length of service."

7. A bare reading of the aforesaid provisions makes it absolutely clear that seniority is determined grade-wise, on the basis of substantive appointment in the grade concerned and then in the event two teachers or more teachers are appointed on the same date, seniority shall be determined on the basis of age. Sub-Regulation (a) and (b) of Regulations 3(1) are attracted to the controversy in hand and I do not see any classification of teachers by the seniority rule on the basis of joining time, instead, what is relevant is date of substantive appointment.

8. One of the arguments was advanced by learned counsel appearing for 5th respondent that she received salary for the day she joined because she had joined in the forenoon whereas petitioner did not get salary for the day as she joined in the afternoon of the same date, but I do not see any classification there to be in the relevant rules of the seniority. Payment of salary is not the criterion if otherwise teacher has been working on temporary basis and getting salary. Such temporary period could have been taken into consideration for the purposes of determination of seniority may be the date of substantive appointment as subsequent one .Thus argument advanced by respondents, therefore, is highly misplaced in view of sub regulation (b) of the Regulation 3(1) of Chapter II of Intermediate Education Act, 1921.

9. Inter se seniority amongst promotee teachers is also provided on the basis of length of service to be reckoned again from the date of their substantive appointment or vacancies in the grade from which they have been promoted and these teachers being promoted on the same date shall have benefit of their seniority from the date of substantive appointment in the lower grade. Regulation also provides that teacher in higher grade shall be entitled to seniority over the teacher of lower grade. Subregulation (d) further provides that teacher who has been placed under suspension if is reinstated on his original post in the grade, his seniority shall not be affected, meaning thereby where a teacher has been getting salary even upon his suspension being revoked and he stands reinstated, his seniority will also stand protected.

One must take example of cases of selection by State Public Service Commission, where seniority is batch-wise and not dependent upon joining. Still further payment of salary cannot be nor is under the regulations a criterion to determine seniority.

10. The argument advanced by learned counsel for 5th respondent that she did get salary and petitioner did not get salary of the day of joining and so she is seniority is not tenable.

11. In Suresh Dubey v. District Inspector of Schools and Others (2004) 2 UPLBEC 1876, this Court has already relied upon the judgment of the Court in the Bahadur Singh Gaur v. D. I.O.S., Kanpur and Others 1995 All LJ 1292, in holding it is date of substantive appointment which is relevant date and approval would be the date of substantive appointment. The joining since is dependent upon mood and discretion of the Committee of Management and discretion that by itself cannot be a ground to place a person above the seniority to the person who has been given joining late by the Committee of Management vide paragraph 5 of the judgment, the Court has held thus:

"In Bahadur Singh Gaur v. D.I.O.S., Kanpur and Others 1995 All LJ

1292, where earlier two judgments were referred and relied upon and similar view was reiterated indicating that the approval was given by the D.I.O.S. determining seniority, issuance of appointment letter or joining date by the claimant teacher and the approval date of the appointment to the substantive post is to be taken seniority if the approval date is the same then the seniority is to be determined on the basis of age irrespective of the fact that particular teacher was allowed and started working as lecturer before joining such persons whose date of birth approved on substantive post is elder in age. The relevant paragraphs 4,8,9,10,11 and 15 are reproduced below:

"4. There is no dispute that the seniority shall be determined on basis of the grant of approval of the selection by the District Inspector of Schools. The limited question remains to be decided as to whether a teacher who is issued appointment letter subsequently and joined later on and another teacher who is permitted to function on the date of approval even without issuing any appointment letter, will be treated senior to the person who Joins the institution later on. It is relevant to refer to Clause (b) of Sub-section (1) of Section 16F of U.P. Intermediate Education Act (prior to the amendment in the year 1975) which reads as under :

"16F. (1) Subject to the provisions hereinafter specified, no person shall be appointed as a Principal, Headmaster or the teacher in a recognised institution unless he:

(a) possesses the prescribed qualifications or has been exempted under Sub-section (1) of Section 16E.

(b) h a s been recommended by selection committee constituted under Sub-section (2) or (3), as the case may be of the said section and approved, in the case of Principal or Headmaster by the Regional Deputy Director, Education, and in the case of a teacher by the Inspector....."

8. The date of birth of the petitioner is 1.1.1937 and date of birth of respondent No. 3 is 26.9.1945. Admitted, the petitioner is senior to respondent No. 3. The relevant date is the date of approval of appointment by the District Inspector of Schools. The date of Joining is not the determining factor for deciding the seniority unless it is shown that the candidate did not join the institution within the time prescribed for joining as given in the appointment letter. The committee of management under Regulation 16 is bound to issue appointment letter within two weeks of the receipt of approval to selected candidates for appointment.

9. In case the date of joining is relevant date it will be on the discretion of the committee of management to issue an appointment letter to some candidate earlier and to some other candidate later on with the result, to whom the appointment letter has been issued earlier will start functioning and the other may join later on and will become junior to the other candidate though the date of selection and the date of approval is the same. So far as the time prescribed under Regulation 16 is concerned, the candidate who is living in nearest place may come and join the institution earlier but the candidate who is living at distant place may not come and join the institution immediately.

10. Learned counsel for the respondent urged that he has started functioning on 14th August, 1973, i.e., the date on which approval was granted and, therefore, he was entitled to function from the said date even though the letter of appointment was issued to him subsequently, i.e., on 22nd August, 1973, as the same was ministerial act. It may be that the appointment letter was issued subsequently and the candidate before issuance of the appointment letter himself presents before the committee of management on coming to know that the approval has been granted and the committee of management permits him to function from the date, the approval has been granted but it will not deprive the right of another candidate merely because the other candidate was not Issued appointment letter or joined subsequently within the prescribed time. The mere fact that respondent No. 3 joined the institution on 22nd August, 1973, will not confer any right of seniority against the petitioner.

11. In Prabhu Narain Singh v. Deputy Director of Education, Varanasi 1977 ALR 391, it has been held that a person does not acquire the status of a teacher unless the approval of his appointment is granted by the District Inspector of Schools and the mere fact that he was working in the institution will not confer the status of a teacher.

15. In view of the discussions made above, the Writ Petition No. 318 of 1993 is hereby allowed. The order passed by the District Inspector of Schools dated 30th October, 1992, is quashed.

(emphasis added)

12. Now coming to the argument raised by learned counsel for 5th respondent, since rules were silent, therefore, Regional Joint Director of Education was justified in applying the principle of U.P. Hindi Sansthan Employees Service Rules, 1983, I find that, what has been given in the rules has been completely misinterpreted by Regional Joint Director of Education. It says that vide Rule 5 of 1983 Rules of the said rules provides in the event there is no other rule prescribed for otherwise than service of employees would start from the date they submit their joining. In the first instance to appreciate the relevant paragraph 5 is reproduced hereinbelow:

"5. इण्टरमीडिएट शिक्षा अधिनियम-1921 (यथा संशोधित) के भाग-2 अध्याय-2 के विनियिम- 3(1) ख के अनुसार किसी श्रेणी में अध्यापको की ज्येष्ठता उनकी मौलिक नियुक्ति के आधार पर अवधारित की जायेगी। यदि एक ही दिनांक को दो या दो से अधिक अध्यापक इस प्रकार नियुक्ति किये गये थे, तो ज्येष्ठता आयु के आधार पर अवधारित की जायेगी। किन्तु सन्दर्भगत प्रकरण उक्त प्रक्रिया से भिन्न प्रकार का है। श्रीमती संगीता रानी एवं श्रीमती अनुपमा त्यागी द्वारा एक ही तिथि को कार्यभार ग्रहण किया गया है किन्तु श्रीमती अनुपमा त्यागी द्वारा पूर्वाहन्न में कार्यभार ग्रहण किया गया है एवं श्रीमती संगीता रानी द्वारा अपरान्ह में कार्यभार ग्रहण किया गया है, जिसके कारण श्रीमती अनुपमा त्यागी का वेतन दिनांक 06.01.2017 से आहरित हुआ एवं श्रीमती संगीता रानी का वेतन दिनांक 07.01.2017 से आहरित हुआ। उ० प्र० हिन्दी संस्थान कर्मचारी सेवा नियमावली 1983 के अध्याय 3 भर्ती एवं नियुक्ति की धारा 5 में यह प्रक्रिया विहित की गई है कि यदि नियमों में कोई अन्य प्राविधान न हो तो संस्थान के कर्मचारियों की सेवाये उस दिन से आरम्भ होगी जिस दिन वह कार्यभार ग्रहण करेगा। यदि वह अपरान्ह में सेवा प्रारम्भ करता है तो उसकी सेवाये अगले दिन के पूर्वान्ह से आरम्भ होगी। इस प्रकार श्रीमती अनुपमा त्यागी की अनुदानित सेवा दिनांक 06.01.2017 से मान्य की जायेगी, जबकि श्रीमती संगीता रानी की सेवा दिनांक 07.01.2017 से मान्य होगी तथा सेवावधि की गणना वेतन भुगतान की तिथि से किया जाना उचित होगा। इस प्रकार श्रीमती अनुपमा त्यागी श्रीमती संगीता रानी से वरिष्ठ होगी।"

13. From a bare reading of the aforesaid paragraph, I find Rule 3 and 5 of 1983 rules as applicable to U.P. Hindi Sansthan relates to recruitment and appointment and has nothing to do with seniority. All that it prescribes is that person who shall be taken to have joined the date, he resumes his duties . This is not the issue in the present case. Here it is not from joining which is relevant but it is the substantive date of substantive appointment, which is relevant. The second argument, therefore, advanced by learned counsel appearing for the 5th respondent is rejected.

14. The controversy qua forenoon and afternoon joining was dealt with by the Supreme court in the case of Banolat Mohapatra v. State of Orissa and Others (1999) 4 SCC 618. In the said case issue had arisen for seniority claim for the post of lecturer in a college, the appellant therein claimed before the Supreme Court that both he and respondent no. 4 joined the institution on the same day while appellant joined in the forenoon and respondent no. 4 joined in the afternoon and further letter of appointment to the appellant was sent earlier than respondent no. 4. The Supreme Court rejected the argument and held that these issues of seniority will not depend upon the joining time in the forenoon and afternoon or that who got appointment order earlier. The Court while examining the records found that appellant was placing reliance upon as annexure A dated 15.12.1979 which showed appellant was appointed against first post of Lecturer, Economic whereas respondent no. 4 was appointed against second post but in the counter affidavit, the copy of resolution that was filed which showed that appellant was appointed against second post and respondent no. 4 was against first post of lecturer. The Supreme Court further examined that original records were produced before the High Court and High Court found that Minister of Education accepted the resolution of Governing Body holding that appellant was shown senior to respondent no. 4 was post of lectures, the Court therefore found no reason to found ratio of judgment of High Court in holding fourth respondent senior to appellant. Vide paragraphs 5 and 6 the Court held thus:

"5.It has been urged that though both the appellant and Respondent 4 joined on the same day but the appellant joined in the forenoon and Respondent 4 in the afternoon and further the letter of appointment to the appellant was sent earlier. We are of the opinion that these are not at all relevant for the purpose of examining the question of seniority.

6.The appellant placed reliance on a copy of the resolution of the Governing Body dated 15-12-1979 vide Annexure A to the petition. In the said resolution the name of the appellant had been shown against the first post in Economics in the College and the name of Respondent 4 against the second post. In the counter filed on behalf of the College namely Respondents 3 and 4, a copy of the resolution has been annexed as Annexure 2 and from the said resolution we find that the appellant was shown against the second post and Respondent 4 against the first post of Lecturer. As resolutions of the Governing Body are kept by the College and the above resolution has been duly produced by the College, it has to be accepted and not the copy of the resolution annexed by the appellant. We find from the judgment of the High Court in OJC No. 867 of 1990 that the Court called for the relevant file and on perusing the record it was found that the Minister of Education accepted the resolution of the Governing Body holding that Respondent 4 was senior to the appellant. The Court also noted that the enquiry report of the Director, which was available on record, also indicated the same position. The Court also perused the resolution of the Governing Body and came to the finding that the Governing Body also decided the seniority as claimed by Respondent 4. In view of the above finding of the High Court we are not at all inclined to accept the submission made on behalf of the appellant that as per the resolution of the Governing Body the appellant was shown senior to Respondent 4."

(emphasis added)

15. Coming to the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner, I find it to settled law that special law would override the general and so when special provisions are there, no principle of general law even can be renowned. Once statutory rule provide date of substantive appointment to be guiding factor, it mean that date and not the joining time. The rule qua substantive appointment would, therefore, include both forenoon and afternoon joining. Vide paragraph 33,34,35 and 36 Supreme Court in the case of Commercial Tax Officer, Rajasthan. (supra) has observed thus:

33. We are mindful of the principle that the Court should examine every word of a statute in its context and must use context in its widest sense. We are also in acquaintance with observations of this Court inReserve Bank of India v. Peerless General Finance and Investment Co. Ltd., 1987 SCR (2) 1 where Chinnappa Reddy, J. noting the importance of the context in which every word is used in the matter of interpretation of statutes held thus:

"Interpretation must depend on the text and the context. They are the basis of interpretation. One may well say if the text is the texture, context is what gives the colour. Neither can be ignored. Both are important. That interpretation is best which makes the textual interpretation match the contextual. A statute is best interpreted when we know why it was enacted. With this knowledge, the statute must be read, first as a whole and then section by section, clause by clause, phrase by phrase and word by word. If a statute is looked at, in the context of its enactment, with the glasses of the statute- maker, provided by such context, its scheme, the sections, clauses, phrases and words may take colour and appear different than when the statute is looked at without the glasses provided by the context. With these glasses we must look at the Act as a whole and discover what each section, each clause, each phrase and each word is meant and designed to say as to fit into the scheme of the entire Act. No part of a statute and no word of a statute can be construed in isolation. Statutes have to be construed so that every word has a place and everything is in its place."

34. It is well established that when a general law and a special law dealing with some aspect dealt with by the general law are in question, the rule adopted and applied is one of harmonious construction whereby the general law, to the extent dealt with by the special law, is impliedly repealed. This principle finds its origins in the latin maxim of generalia specialibus non derogant, i.e., general law yields to special law should they operate in the same field on same subject. (Vepa P. Sarathi, Interpretation of Statutes, 5th Ed., Eastern Book Company; N. S. Bindra's Interpretation of Statutes, 8th Ed., The Law Book Company; Craies on Statute Law, S.G.G.Edkar, 7th Ed., Sweet & Maxwell; Justice G.P. Singh, Principles of Statutory Interpretation, 13th Ed., LexisNexis; Craies on Legislation, Daniel Greenberg, 9th Ed., Thomson Sweet & Maxwell, Maxwell on Interpretation of Statutes, 12th Ed., Lexis Nexis)

35. Generally, the principle has found vast application in cases of there being two statutes: general or specific with the latter treating the common subject matter more specifically or minutely than the former. Corpus Juris Secundum, 82 C.J.S. Statutes § 482 states that when construing a general and a specific statute pertaining to the same topic, it is necessary to consider the statutes as consistent with one another and such statutes therefore should be harmonized, if possible, with the objective of giving effect to a consistent legislative policy. On the other hand, where a general statute and a specific statute relating to the same subject matter cannot be reconciled, the special or specific statute ordinarily will control. The provision more specifically directed to the matter at issue prevails as an exception to or qualification of the provision which is more general in nature, provided that the specific or special statute clearly includes the matter in controversy. (Edmond v. U.S., 520 U.S. 651, Warden, Lewisburg Penitentiary v. Marrero).

36. The maximgeneralia specialibus non derogant is dealt with in Volume 44 (1) of the 4th ed. of Halsbury's Laws of England at paragraph 1300 as follows:

"The principle descends clearly fromdecisionsof theHouse of LordsinSeward v. Owner of "TheVera Cruz", (1884) 10 App Cas 59and the Privy Council inBarker v Edger,[1898] AC 748 and has been affirmed and put into effect on many occasions....If Parliament has considered all the circumstances of, and made special provision for, a particular case, the presumption is that a subsequent enactment of apurelygeneral character would not have been intended to interfere with that provision; and therefore, if such an enactment, although inconsistent insubstance, is capable of reasonable andsensible application without extending to the case in question, it is prima facie to be construed as not so extending. The special provision stands as an exceptional proviso upon the general. If, however, it appears from a consideration of the general enactment in the light of admissible circumstances that Parliament's true intention was to establish thereby a rule of universal application, then the special provision must give way to the general."

16. In view of above, the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education dated 21.12.2021 is hereby quashed. Petitioner and 5th respondent having given substantive appointment on 30.12.2016 and they having joined on the same day as they were issued appointment order, it will be taken that they have been substantively appointed together on 30th December, 2016 and the petitioner being senior in age is held senior to 5th respondent in view of provision as contained under Regulation 3(1) (a) and (b) of the Chapter III of Intermediate Education Act, 1921. The Committee of Management shall accordingly pass consequential orders regarding inter se seniority between petitioner and 5th respondent for all purposes.

17. Thus writ petition is accordingly allowed with no order as to cost.

A. Service Law – Finance Hand Book – Part III, Ch. XI A, Rule 146 A (2) – UP Fundamental Rules – Rule 84 – Study leave – Petitioner's application was rejected as he has less than five years of service and he is on probation for a period of two years from the date of her joining – Validity challenged – Held, whole Chapter XI A deals with study leave and it is to be read conjointly and not separately – Chapter XI-A clearly leads to the conclusion that restriction of 5 years completed service would be applicable to the initial study leave as well. Otherwise, it would mean that if initial leave granted and requires extension for any reason then there has to be a gap of certain period before completing of 5 years service for extra leave. This would not be intention of the provision nor it seems to be practicable. (Para 12 and 14)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. Heard.

2. Present petition has been preferred for quashing of the impugned order dated 30.01.2024 passed by the respondent no. 2-Director Ayurvedic Services, U.P. , Lucknow whereby the application for grant of study leave for a period of 12 months for pursuing P.G. Course has been rejected and with a further prayer to direct the respondents to grant the petitioner study leave of 12 months in accordance with the provisions laid down in Chapter XI A of the Financial Hand Book.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that petitioner was selected and appointed vide appointment letter dated 01.09.2023 on the post of Medical Officer, Community Health Center (Ayurvedic and Unani), Ayush Department, Govt of U.P..

4. It is further submitted that at the time of appointment of the petitioner, she was in the midst of her P.G. Course and to complete the same, she had moved an application for grant of study leave as provided under Part III of Financial Hand Book Volume II Part II to III.

5. The said application of the petitioner has been rejected by the respondent no. 2 by placing reliance on Rule 146 A (2) on the ground that the petitioner has less than five years of service and as the petitioner is on probation for a period of two years from the date of her joining.

6. It is further contended that the application of the petitioner has been rejected by the respondent no. 2 by wrongly placing reliance on the provision which is not applicable as far as it is related to the grant of extra leave. The case of the petitioner is covered under Rule 146 A (3) which deals with study leave and the said provision does not provide any such restriction that a Government Servant of less than five years of services is not entitled for the study leave.

7. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the petitioner since the date of appointment/joining is on two years probation period during which the leave cannot be granted and there is no illegality in the impugned order passed by the respondent no. 2.

8. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and going through the record of the case, the position which emerges out in the present case is that under Part III, Chapter XI A comes and these are ancillary Rules made by the Governor while exercising its power under Rule 84 of the U.P. Fundamental Rules. For convenience Rule 84 is quoted hereinbelow:-

"84. Leave may be granted to Government servants, on such terms as the Governor may by rule or order prescribe, to enable them to study scientific, technical or similar problems or to undergo special courses of instructions. Such leave is not debited against the leave account."

9. Chapter XI A of Part III of the Financial Hand Book deals with study leave. The Rule 146 A (2) provides that study leave should not be ordinarily granted to a Government Servant of less than five years of service. For convenience, the same is quoted hereinbelow:-

" 146 A (2):- Extra leave on half average pay for the purpose of study leave may be taken either in or outside India. It may be granted to Government Servant of any of the department named above by the Government Servant, provided that when a Government Servant borne permanently of the cadre of one department is serving temporarily in another department the grant of leave is subject to the condition (a) that local arrangements can be made to carry on his work in his absence, and (b) that the recommendation of the department to which he is permanently attached is obtained before leave is given. Study leave should not ordinarily be granted to Government Servant of less than five years' service or to Government Servants within three years of the date at which they have the option of retiring."

10. Rule 146 A (3) provides the period of leave which could be granted and for convenience, the same is quoted hereinbelow:-

" 146 A (3):- Study leave shall be granted with due regard to the exigencies of the public service. In no case the grant of this leave, in combination with leave other than extraordinary leave or leave on medical certificate, shall involve an absence of over 28 months from a Government Servant's regular duties, or exceed two years in the whole period of a Government Servant service; nor shall it be granted with such frequency as to remove him from contact with his regular work or to cause cadre difficulties owing to his absence on leave. A period of twelve months at one time will ordinarily be regarded as a suitable maximum, and shall not be exceeded save for exceptional reasons"

11. Reading of Rule 146 A (2) which is general provision of the Financial Hand Book is applicable upon all the Government Servant who applies for the study leave whereas Rule 146 A (3) provides for not granting any study leave by combining with any other leave. It determines the maximum period for grant of study leave. Rule 146 A (3) is restrictive in nature which puts restriction for maximum period of study leave.

12. If the submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is accepted that for study leave there is no condition that it would not be granted before 5 years of service, if that is to be accepted then it would lead to absurd result. The whole Chapter XI A deals with study leave and it is to be read conjointly and not separately.

13. In case, the Government Servant having less than 5 years of service has been granted the study leave, suppose for a period of 12 months and the duration of the course has been extended by 6 months or one year or more, in that case if the application for extra leave is moved by a Government Servant then the competent authority cannot reject the same on the ground that the Government Servant has not completed five years of service so the extra leave could not be granted. The period of service is to be seen initially at the time of grant of study leave not at the time of granting extra leave beyond 12 months which could normally be given as per Rule 146 A (3).

14. There is no force in the submission that condition of completion of 5 years of service before grant of leave applies only for grant of extra study leave and not in a case where leave is initially applied for. The whole reading of the provision under Chapter XI-A clearly leads to the conclusion that restriction of 5 years completed service would be applicable to the initial study leave as well. Otherwise, it would mean that if initial leave granted and requires extension for any reason then there has to be a gap of certain period before completing of 5 years service for extra leave. This would not be intention of the provision nor it seems to be practicable. The restriction of 5 years completion of service would more relevant for a fresher as in the present case who has joined the service a few months back and is still on probation. It cannot be said that for grant of initial study leave condition of completion of 5 years of service would not apply but it will applicable for extra study leave. This argument does not appeal to reason. The whole Chapter XI-A has to be read harmoniously to achieve the purpose of the provisions.

15. In view of the facts, circumstances and discussion made hereinabove and as the petitioner has completed only six months of services that too on probation her application has rightly been rejected by the respondent no. 2 by placing reliance on Rule 146 A (2) of the Chapter XI A of the Financial Hand Book Volume 2 Part 3.

16. Writ petition is devoid of merit, hence dismissed.

List of cases cited :-

1. SCC Revision No. 158 of 2022; Amit Gupta Vs Gulab Chandra Kanodia decided on 15.5.2023

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ashutosh Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Rama Goel "Bansal" and Ms. Shalini Goel, learned counsel for the petitioner.

2. The challenge in this petition is to the order dated 29.03.2023 passed by the Rent Authority/Additional District Magistrate, Agra as also the order dated 15.12.2023 passed by the Rent Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No. 13, Agra whereby and whereunder the preliminary objections of the tenant/petitioner about the maintainability of the proceedings under Section 21 (2) have been rejected and time for filing written statement has been granted by the Rent Authority.

3. The issue raised in this writ petition is purely legal and the Court proceeds to decide the petition on the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner and the materials available on record without calling upon the respondent.

4. This Court vide order dated 27.2.2024 after hearing Ms. Shalini Goel, learned counsel for the petitioner and recording her submissions had required her to bring on record the reply filed by the landlord/respondent to the objection taken by the tenant/petitioner to the maintainability of the application under Section 21 (2) of the U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021.

5. Learned counsel for the tenant/petitioner has filed supplementary application bringing on record the objections of the landlord/respondent dated 10.2.2023.

6. From the perusal of the legal objections taken by the tenant/petitioner which have been brought on record as Annexure-7 to the petition, it is borne out that neither the applicant or the opposite party had been allotted the unique number and no digital platform was created by the State Government under the Act of 2021 and the application was thus premature, the tenancy had been terminated vide registered Notice dated 8.2.2022 and hence, only the Civil Court had jurisdiction to try the case, the jurisdiction of the Rent Authority under the Act is confined to the tenancy agreement submitted to it. The tenant/petitioner was ready to execute the Tenancy Agreement, but the opposite party deliberately and mala fide failed to supply the proforma of the Tenancy Agreement and further that the Notice dated 8.2.2022 was invalid as single notice in respect of two independent tenancies had been given.

7. The reply to the legal objections taken by the tenant/petitioner brought on record along with the supplementary affidavit submitted by the landlord/respondent reveals that request to execute the Tenancy Agreement and provide all information through the Notice dated 8.2.2022 was sought but the tenant/petitioner failed to comply and violated the provision of Section 4 (3) of the Act and an application for eviction of the tenant/petitioner under Section 21 (2) of the Act of 2021 was maintainable.

8. From the perusal of the legal objection taken by the tenant/petitioner and the reply of the landlord/respondent, the legal position as regards whether information to the Rent Authority in the form specified in the First Schedule by the landlord is a sine quo non for maintaining an application under Section 21 (2) of the Act of 2021, is not clear.

9. A perusal of the provisions contained in Section 4 of the Act, which relates to Tenancy Agreement reveals that sub-section (1) of Section 4 commences with a non obstinate clause and as such, has an overriding effect over the other provisions under the Act. It provides that no person after the commencement of the Act of 2021 shall let or take on rent any premises except by an agreement in writing which shall be informed to the Rent Authority jointly by the landlord and tenant in the form specified in the First Schedule provided the tenancy is not residential for a period of less than 12 months in which case no such information is required to be informed to the Rent Authority. Sub-section (2) relates to a situation when both the landlord and tenant jointly fail to inform the execution of the Tenancy Agreement in which case the landlord and tenant shall separately inform the Rent Authority about execution of the Tenancy Agreement within a specified time.

10. Sub-section (3) relates to a tenancy created before the commencement of the Act. Sub-clause (a) thereof deals with a situation where an agreement in writing was entered between the landlord and tenant in which case they shall jointly present a copy thereof to the Rent Authority within three months of the commencement of the Act. Sub-clause (b) on the other hand deals with a situation where no agreement in writing was entered into between landlord and tenant in which case they shall enter into an agreement in writing with regard to that tenancy and present the case to the Rent Authority within three months of the commencement of the Act. The proviso takes into consideration a situation where the landlord or the tenant fail to present jointly a copy of the Tenancy Agreement or fail to reach agreement within specified period such landlord and tenant shall separately file the particulars about such tenancy with the Rent Authority within one month from the date of expiry of the period mentioned in Clause (b) of sub-section 3 of Section 4 in the Form specified in First Schedule. If the landlord has submitted his particulars within the time specified but the tenant fails to submit such particulars, the landlord may file an application for eviction of the tenant on that ground alone. Though the provision visualizes a situation where a tenant fails to comply with provisions of submitting particulars giving the landlord a ground to seek eviction of the tenant on the ground of default in submitting the particulars but the provision is silent about the outcome of a default at the instance of the landlord. The intention of the legislature is obvious that it would not affect the rights of the landlord to file eviction of the tenant. Sub-section 4 deals with providing the digital platform in Hindi and English enabling submission of the documents in such form and manner prescribed. The Sub-section (5) of Section 4 provides that the Rent Authority after receiving information about the execution of Tenancy Agreement along with the documents specified in the First Schedule shall provide a Unique Identification Number to the parties. The Sub-section (6) of Section 4 provides that the terms of authorization of the Property Manager, if any, by the landlord to deal with the tenant shall be as agreed to by the landlord and tenant in the Tenancy Agreement. Sub-section (7) of Section 4 provides that the information provided under Sub-sections (1), (2) and (3) shall be conclusive proof of the facts relating to tenancy and matters connected therewith and in absence of any statement of information, the landlord may file an application for eviction on this ground alone.

11. A conjoint reading of the various sub-sections of Section 4 of the Act reveals that the intention of legislature for requiring both the landlord and the tenant to inform to the Rent Authority in the form specified in the First Schedule within a certain time frame is to treat the information as conclusive proof of the facts relating to the tenancy and matters connected with it. It does not appear to be the sine qua non for maintaining an application under Section 21 (2) of the Act. Where the tenancy is admitted, in the opinion of the Court, no such information as contemplated under Section 4 of the Act is warranted. Where the tenancy or its terms are disputed, it is always open for the parties to adduce evidence in support of their respective cases before the respective authorities.

12. Ms. Shalini Goel, learned counsel has placed reliance upon a decision of a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Amit Gupta versus Gulab Chandra Kanodia, SCC Revision No. 158 of 2022 decided on 15.5.2023 to submit that the Court in Para 96 of the said decision has observed that the jurisdiction of the Rent Authority under the 2021 Act is limited to dispute relating to Tenancy Agreement submitted to it as specified in the First Schedule. If no agreement in writing as per Section 4 (3) has been submitted, then the tenant can be evicted only in one condition that is where landlord has submitted details as per First Schedule, but the tenant has failed to discharge his obligation vide proviso to Section 4 (3) of the 2021, Act. However, if the landlord also fails and so also the tenant to comply with Section 4 (3), no eviction of the tenant has been provided for. The observation is being quoted hereunder:-

"96. In earlier part of this judgment, I have already referred to scope and ambit of the provisions of the new Tenancy Act, 2021 with reference to individual sections therein and I have also discussed the tenancy agreement referrable to Section 4 of the new Act. During discussion in respect of point no. (a) above, I found, while 11 months unwritten agreement tenancy was conceived under the new Act but the remedial aspects so as to enable land lord to seek eviction of tenant had not been touched by the legislature. Section 38(2) defines jurisdiction of Rent Authority and limits it to dispute relating to tenancy agreement submitted to it as specified in the first schedule. First schedule agreements are there that create tenancy after new Tenancy Act has come into existence and also the written tenancy agreements that were in existence when the new Act came into force, provided such agreements were submitted to the Rent Authority as per Section 4(3) of the new Act. The word "tenant" though includes old tenant at the time of enforcement of the new Act vide Section 2(j) but only for agreement in writing as per Rule 4 (3) and if there is no agreement in writing as per Rule 4(3), such tenant can be evicted only in one condition that is where land lord has submitted details as per first schedule but tenant has failed to discharge his part of obligation vide proviso to Section 4(3) of the new Tenancy Act. However, if land lord also fails and so also the tenant to comply with Section 4(3), no eviction of tenant has been provided for."

13. I have gone through the observation made by the co-ordinate Bench in the decision cited by Ms. Shalini Goel. In the case cited, the issue before the Court were:-

"(a). Whether a Small Cause Suit already instituted, since prior to coming into force of the new Tenancy Act, 2021 and so also such SCC revision arising therefrom would stand saved or the SCC suit and SCC Revision being not mentioned in the repeal and saving clause of Section 46, the proceedings of such suit and revision would stand abated; and

(b). Whether the bar created under Section 38 of the Tenancy Act is not an absolute one and so Small Cause Suit for arrears of recovery of Rent and Eviction (SCC Suit) and SCC Revision arising therefrom would still be maintainable even after the enforcement of the New Tenancy Act, 2021 qua the of tenancies not covered by tenancy agreements provided for under Tenancy Act, 2021."

14. The issued urged in this petition is as to whether information to the Rent Authority in form specified in the First Schedule by the landlord is a sine qua non for maintaining an application under Section 21 (2) of the Act. The observation made by the co-ordinate Bench reproduced hereinabove does not help the petitioner inasmuch as, it ignores the import of Section 4 (7) of the Act. The import of the Section 4 has been explained in the preceding paras of this order.

15. The present proceedings are at a stage where the preliminary objections of the tenant/petitioner about the maintainability of the proceedings under Section 21 (2) have been rejected and time for filing written statement has been granted by the Rent Authority. A challenge to it before the Rent Tribunal has failed.

16. In view of the discussion made hereinabove, the Court is not inclined to entertain the petition. It is devoid of merits and is accordingly dismissed. The interim order granted earlier is discharged.

17. No order as to costs.

1. Issue before this Court for consideration are -:

(i) "Whether in pursuance of 103rd Amendment in Constitution of India dated 12.01.2019, whereby provision for 10% reservation to Economically Weaker Sections (for short "EWS") and adopted by State of Uttar Pradesh through Office Memorandum dated 18.02.2019) would be applicable to a Notification dated 16.05.2020 issued by State Government in regard to selection on 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers?"

(ii) "Whether selection process would consider to be commenced when on 01.12.2018 (i.e. before Constitutional Amendment), when State Government issued a Government Order for conducting Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination-2019 (for short "ATRE-2019"), a qualifying examination to participate in above referred selection process? and;

(iii) "What would be effect of Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for Economically Weaker Section) Act, 2020?"

2. It is case of petitioners that on 01.12.2018, the State Government issued a Government Order for conducting "ATRE-2019", which was conducted on 06.01.2019. The petitioners have participated in said examination under Unreserved (General) category and result thereof was issued on 12.05.2020, wherein all petitioners were qualified i.e. have scored more than minimum qualifying marks.

3. It is further case of petitioners that on 16.05.2020, the State Government initiated further process of selection of 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers for appointment in primary education in State of U.P. Meanwhile, in pursuance of 103rd Amendment in Constitution, petitioners have got their EWS certificate issued by competent Authority and they have represented before concerned respondents to provide 10% reservation of EWS.

4. The petitioners approached this Court in June, 2023. During pendency of their writ petition, process of selection was completed and petitioners were not selected since they were placed lower in merit.

5. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by S/Sri Seemant Singh, Anurag Tripathi, Irshad Ali and Rahul Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for petitioners in all writ petitions have vehemently submitted that State was under obligation to provide 10% EWS reservation in examination in question since it was held after above referred 103rd Constitutional Amendment was notified as well as subsequent to Office Memorandum dated 18.02.2019, whereby in principal EWS reservation was adopted by the State of Uttar Pradesh.

6. In order to substantiate his arguments, learned Senior Advocate for petitioners has referred a notification issued by State of U.P. dated 13.08.2019, whereby in pursuance of O.M. dated 18.02.2019, a roster system was published.

7. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioners in order to further substantiate his argument has vehemently placed reliance on a judgment passed by the Full Bench of this Court in Prashant Kumar vs. State of U.P. and others, 2005 (4) ESC (All) 2395, wherein following question was referred for consideration -:

"At what stage the caste of a candidate should be entered in the Schedule I of the U.P. Public Services (Reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes) Act, 1994 for him to get benefit as an OBC candidate; should it be before the notification/advertisement of the selections, or the written test, or the oral test (in case of oral test only), or the declaration of the result."

8. Above referred question was answered by the Full Bench in following terms -:

"The benefit of reservation to Other Backward Class' candidates in selection in Public Services by direct recruitment as provided by U.P. Public Service (Reservation for Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Class) Act, 1994, is applicable, to only those categories or castes which are notified as Other Backward Classes entered in Schedule I of the Act, upto the last date of filling up of the application form for such selections, provided there is no contrary provision in the Service Rules, the terms and conditions of recruitment, or in the advertisement."

9. Further argument of learned counsel for petitioners are summarized in written submissions and relevant being are extracted hereinbelow -:

"1. That, bare perusal of the result declared on 13.05.2019 it is clear that result of Assistant Teachers Recruitments Examination has not been declare as per the reservation schedule i.e. for S.C./S.T., OBC/General Category, rather declaration has been made that candidates has been declared as a whole without disclosing their category, who have qualified as per the percentage fix by the Government of U.P.

2. That, the advertisement begins only when the post are advertised as per District wise and that has been made only by the notification dated 16.05.2020, wherein it has also been mention that the reservation Rule will be apply as per the Act and G.O. implemented in State of U.P. on that day i.e. 16.05.2020 (Clause- 3 of Guideline issued along with G.O. dated 16.05.2019).

3. That, since the EWS reservation in U.P. has been adopted on 18.02.2019 itself, so the EWS reservation is apply in the vacancy in question."

10. Per contra, Ms. Shruti Malviya, S/Sri L.M. Singh, Manvendra Dixit, Suresh Srivastava and Ritesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for respondents has referred following paragraphs of counter affidavit -:

"5. That, in reply to the contents of paragraph nos. 13 and 14 of the writ petition, it is stated that, pursuant to the Government Order dated 01.12.2018, process for selection on the post of 69000 vacancies of Assistant Teacher was started by initiating the Assistant Teachers Recruitment Examination 2019. At that point of time, there was no provision for granting horizontal reservation to economically weaker section, as such there was no provision for categorization of EWS candidates in the Assistant Teacher Recruitment Examination- 2019. As the process for recruitment on the vacancies of 69000 Assistant Teacher had started on 01.12.2018, the provision of providing 10% reservation to EWS candidates, was not provided when the Government Order dated 13.05.2020 and 16.05.2020 was issued. The averments to the contrary are denied.

6. That, in reply to the contents of paragraph nos. 15 and 16 of the writ petition, it is stated that when the Government Order dated 13.08.2019, providing 10% reservation to the persons belonging to EWS was issued, the process for recruitment on 69000 vacancies of Assistant Teacher had already commenced. In view of the aforesaid fact any change in the reservation Policy subsequent to the start of recruitment process could not be introduced at any intermediate stage of the proceedings. The averments to the contrary are denied.

7. That, in reply to the contents of paragraph nos. 17, 18 and 19, of the writ petition, it is stated that in the selection of Assistant Teachers for appointment in Basic Schools run by the Parisahd, manual interference has been completely done away with, as the entire process of selection right from the submission of application form, declaration of result and allocation of Districts according to merit, is carried out through a Software developed by the National Informatics Centre. At the time of Development of the Software, inviting application for recruitment of Assistant Teacher 2019, pursuant to the Government Order dated 01.12.2018, there was no provision providing reservation in favour of candidates from EWS category. The process of selection was delayed due to unavoidable circumstances, in the meantime the Government Order dated 13.08.2019 was issued providing 10% reservation to the EWS. The Government Order dated 13.08.2019 has no retrospective effect, it could not be applied in the present selection of 69000 vacancies of Assistant Teachers. The averments to the contrary are denied.

8. That, in reply to the contents of paragraph nos. 20 and 21 of the writ petition, it is stated that the provision of providing 10% reservation to the candidates belonging to the EWS category was introduced in the State of Uttar Pradesh by the Government Order dated 13.08.2019. As the recruitment process for filling up 69000 vacancies of Assistant Teachers had already started by the Government Order dated 01.12.2018, hence the benefit of the Government Order dated 13.08.2019 could not be introduced at the intermediate stage. The averments to the contrary are denied."

11. Learned counsel for respondents have also placed reliance upon a judgment passed by the coordinate Bench of this Court in case of Mahendra Pal and others vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ A No. 13156 of 2020 decided on 13.03.2023.

12. In rejoinder, learned Senior Advocate for petitioners has placed reliance upon a judgment of Division Bench of this Court in case of Raghvendra Pratap Singh and others vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Basic Education, U.P., Lucknow, Special Appeal No. 156 of 2019 decided on 06.05.2020 that ATRE-2019 examination was only a qualifying examination which could not be considered to be part of selection process and selection process was initiated only by the Notification dated 16.05.2020 i.e. subsequent to aforesaid 103rd Constitutional Amendment.

13. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioners has also submitted that law is well established that the reservation would apply from the date of issuance of the advertisement dated 16.05.2020 issued by the Secretary, U.P. Basic Education Board, Prayagraj for making recruitment of 69,000 posts of Assistant Teacher inviting online application from the eligible candidates having all the essential qualifications including the qualification of having qualified ATRE-2019 also.

14. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused record.

15. In present case, I have heard counsel for parties at length, however, they have not placed on record that State of U.P. has enacted an Act for implementation of EWS reservation by way of enactment of Uttar Pradesh Public Services (Reservation for EWS) Act, 2020 (U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020) published in Gazette on 31.08.2020. The said Act being relevant for consideration of rival submissions is reproduced hereinafter in its entirety -:

"THE UTTAR PRADESH PUBLIC SERVICES (RESERVATION FOR ECONOMICALLY WEAKER SECTIONS) ACT, 2020

(U.P. Act No. 10 OF 2020)

Laying of Order etc.

12. Every order made under sub-sections (4) of section 3 and section 4 and 8 shall be laid as soon as may be, before each House of the State Legislature and the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 23-A of the Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act, 1904 shall apply as they apply in respect of rules made by the State Government under any Uttar Pradesh Act.

Savings

13. The provisions of this Act shall not apply to cases in which selection process has been initiated before commencement of this Act and such cases shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of law and Government order as they stood before the commencement.

Explanation: For the purposes of this section the selection process shall be deemed to have been initiated where, under the relevant service rules, recruitment is to be made on the basis of -

(i) written test or interview only, the written test or the interview, as the case may be, has started, or

(ii) both written test and interview, the written test has started.

(2) The provisions of this Act shall not apply to appointment, to be made under the Uttar Pradesh Recruitment of Dependent of Government Servant Dying in Harness Rules, 1974."

16. To decide issue involved in present case, Sections 1, 2(c), 3, 7 and 13 would be relevant which have already been emphasized hereinabove.

17. U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020 was published in Gazette on August 31, 2020. According to Section 1(2), this Act shall be deemed to have come into force on February 01, 2019. Section 13 provides savings that "the provision of this Act shall not apply to cases in which selection process has been initiated before commencement of this Act and such cases shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of law and Government Order as they stood before commencement. The O.M. dated 18.02.2019 and 13.08.2019 shall be deemed to have been issued under this Act.

18. In the present case, ATRE Examination (a qualifying examination) was held on 06.01.2019 i.e. prior to 103rd Constitutional Amendment. Further selection process of appointment of 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers was commenced from 16.05.2020 i.e. after 103rd Constitutional Amendment but before enactment of U.P. Act No.10 of 2020 i.e. on 31.08.2020, therefore, as per savings clause (Section 13), provisions of U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020 would not be applicable and it would be governed by provisions of law and Government Order as they stood before the commencement of U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020.

19. Now I proceed to consider effect of Office Memorandum dated 18.02.2019 issued by State of U.P. and effect that U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020 deemed to have come into force on 01.02.2019. I have carefully perused the said O.M. It notes that Social Welfare Department of State of U.P. has decided to provide 10% reservation to EWS in all State services as well as in Educational Institutions and also determine factors for granting benefits to EWS which are as follows -:

"4. The Constitution (One hundred and Third Amendment) Act, 2019 के क्रम में भारत सरकार द्वारा सरकारी सेवाओं में नियुक्ति के सम्बन्ध में आर्थिक रूप से कमजोर वर्गों के लिये की गयी आरक्षण की व्यवस्था के अनुसार ही, आर्थिक रूप से कमजोर वर्गों के ऐसे व्यक्तियों, जो अनुसूचित जाति, अनुसूचित जनजाति तथा अन्य पिछडे वर्गों के लिए आरक्षण की वर्तमान व्यवस्था से आच्छादित नहीं है तथा उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य के ही मूल निवासी है, को राज्याधीन लोग सेवाओं और पदों पर आरक्षण प्रदान करने हेतु निम्नवत् व्यवस्था/मानक निर्धारित किये जाने का निर्णय लिया गया हैः-

(क) आर्थिक रूप से कमजोर वर्गों के ऐसे व्यक्तियों जो अनुसूचित जाति, अनुसूचित दनजाति तथा अन्य पिछडे वर्गों के लिए आरक्षण की वर्तमान व्यवस्था से आच्छादित नहीं है, को उत्तर प्रदेश सरकार की लोक सेवाओं और पदों की सभी श्रेणियों में सीधी भर्ती के प्रक्रम पर 10 प्रतिशत का आरक्षण प्रदान किया जाय।

(ख) उत्तर प्रदेश सरकार की लोक सेवाओं और पदों की सभी श्रेणियों में सीधी भर्ती के प्रक्रम पर आर्थिक रूप से कमजोर वर्गों के लिये अनुमन्य किये गये 10 प्रतिशत आरक्षण का लाभ प्राप्त करने हेतु ऐसे व्यक्ति, पात्र/आर्ह होंगेः-

(i) जिनके परिवार की समस्त स्त्रोतो से प्राप्त होने वाली कुल वार्षिक आय रू०-8.00 लाख से कम होगी। समस्त स्त्रोंतो से आय में वेतन, कृषि, व्यापार, व्यवसाय आदि से प्राप्त आय सम्मिलित होंगी और यह आय आरक्षण हेतु आवेदन करने के वर्ष के पूर्व वर्ष की होंगी। इस उद्देश्य के लिये लाभ प्राप्त करने वाले व्यक्ति के परिवार में उसके/उसकी माता-पिता व 18 वर्ष से कम आयु के भाई-बहन के साथ-साथ उसका/उसकी, पति/पत्नी और 18 वर्ष से कम आयु के उसके बच्चे सम्मिलित होंगे। परन्तुः

(ii) एेसे व्यक्ति, आर्थिक रूप से कमजोर वर्ग की श्रेणी में पात्र नहीं होंगेः-

(अ) जिनके परिवार के स्वामित्व अथवा कब्जे में 05 एकड़ या इससे अधिक कृषि भूमि हो, या

(ब) 1000 वर्ग फीट या इससे अधिक क्षेत्र का आवासीय फ्लैट हो, या

(स) अधिसूचित नगर पालिकाओं में 100 वर्ग गज या अधिक क्षेत्र का आवासीय भू-खण्ड हो, या

(द) अधिसूचित नगर पालिकाओं के क्षेत्र से भिन्न क्षेत्रों में 200 वर्ग गज या अधिक क्षेत्र का आवासीय भू-खण्ड हो।

(iii) परिवार की आय और परिसम्पत्ति का प्रमाण पत्र सम्बन्धित क्षेत्र के तहसीलदार से अनिम्न अधिकारी द्वारा जारी/प्रमाणित किया जायेगा।

(iv) उत्तर प्रदेश सरकार की लोक सेवाओं और पदों की सभी श्रेणियों में सीधी भर्ती के प्रक्रम पर आर्थिक रूप से कमजोर वर्गों के लिये नियुक्तियों में आरक्षण की व्यवस्था दिनांक 01.02.2019 या इसके उपरान्त अधिसूचित/विज्ञापित होने वाली रिक्तियों पर प्रभावी होंगी।"

20. At this stage, it would be apposite to refer Section 7 of U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020 that -:

"For the purpose of reservation provided under this Act, income and assets certificate shall be issued by such authority or officer not below the rank of Tehsildar in the State and in such manner and in such form as the State Government may, by order, provide.

The office memorandum no.1/2019/4/1/2002/ka-2/ 19T.C.II, dated 18 February 2019 shall be deemed to have been issued under this section.".

21. Now, I have to consider scope of above referred clause 4 (IV) of O.M. dated 18.02.2019 that since selection process for recruitment of 69000 Assistant Teachers was commenced (if the argument of petitioner is deemed to be accepted) with a G.O. dated 16.05.2019 i.e. after 18.02.2019, whether State of U.P. was under a legal obligation to provide reservation for EWS or not?

22. The above referred part of O.M. states that arrangement of reservation to EWS will be applicable on notification issued after 01.02.2019 for recruitment of State services, however, at that stage, no Act was enacted in State of U.P. and above arrangement was provided by an Office Memorandum. Later on, it was validated by way of enactment of U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020.

23. As referred above, later on U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020 was enacted on 31.08.2020 with a specific saving clause that provisions of this Act shall not apply to cases which were initiated before commencement of Act and admittedly in present case, process of selection was initiated prior to 31.08.2020 (as per stand of both parties). An Act has always more legal value in compare to any Office Memorandum, therefore in case of any ambiguity, provisions of Act No. 10 of 2020 would prevail. Section 7 of U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020 provides that O.M. dated 18.02.2019 shall be deemed to have issued under said scheme and O.M. was provided legal sanctity only after aforesaid Act was come into force and not before it and since procedure for selection for 69000 posts of Assistant Teachers was commenced prior to 31.08.2020, therefore, State of U.P. was not legally bound to provide EWS reservation in said recruitment process.

24. By validating O.M. dated 18.02.2019, the Act has validated if any reservation was provided to EWS on basis of said O.M. prior to enactment of U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020, but it could not be correct to hold that on basis of said O.M., State was bound to provide reservation to EWS in all selection process, even prior to commencement of U.P. Act No. 10 of 2020 and it was only after enactment of said Act, the State is under a legal obligation to provide reservation to EWS and not before it.

25. In aforesaid circumstances, this Court is not entering to the dispute whether ATRE Examination is a starting point of recruitment process of Assistant Teacher or not as in view of above discussion, it does not require as well as in view of above discussion, other argument of petitioners' side has no legal basis as well as judgments cited are distinguishable on facts as well as on law.

26. The outcome of above discussion is that relief sought could not be granted, accordingly, all writ petitions are dismissed.

वर्ष 2009 में केन्द्रीय भर्ती एवं पदोन्नति विभाग (Central Recruitment and Promotion Department), भारतीय स्टेट बैंक, कारपोरेट केंद्र मुंबई ने विभिन्न समाचार पत्रों में भारतीय स्टेट बैंक में लिपिकों की भर्ती के लिए आवेदन आमंत्रित करने हेतु विज्ञापन दिया था।

भारतीय स्टेट बैंक लिपिकों की भर्ती हेतु आपके आवेदन के आधार पर केन्द्रीय भर्ती एवं पदोन्नति विभाग ने आपको कॉल लेटर भेजा जिसमें सूचना दी गयी थी कि आप लिखित परीक्षा में सम्मिलित होने हेतु ज्वाला देवी विद्या मन्दिर पोस्ट ग्रेजुएट कालेज, आनन्द बाग, कानपुर में दिनांक 15.11.2009 (समय 9.15 AM) को उपस्थित हो ।

आप पर आरोप है कि आपने बैंक में लिपिक के रूप में नियुक्ति पाने के लिए जानबूझकर धोखाधड़ी/अनुचित तरीका अपनाया। अतः निम्नलिखित आरोपों के लिए आपके विरुद्ध अनुशासनात्मक कार्यवाही शुरू करने का निर्णय लिया गया है।

आरोप सं. आपकी नियुक्ति के संबंध में, बैंक द्वारा दिनांक 15.11.2009 (समय: 09.15AM) को ज्वाला देवी विद्या मन्दिर पोस्ट ग्रेजुएट कॉलेज, आनन्द बाग, कानपुर में आयोजित लिखित प्रवेश परीक्षा के दारान Attendance Sheet और Call Letter पर किए गए हस्ताक्षर एवं अंगूठे के निशान तथा बैंक द्वारा दिनांक 27.04.2010 को सम्पन्न कराये गए इंटरलव्यू और दिनांक 15.12.2010 को आपकी बैंक में नियुक्ति के संदर्भ में आपके द्वारा किए गए हस्ताक्षर एवं अंगूठे के निशान तथा दिनांकित 24.04.2010 के आपके द्वारा दिये गए आत्मकथ्य एवं सत्यापन फार्म के संदर्भ में किये गये हस्ताक्षर एवं अगूठे के निशान दो अलग अलग व्यक्तियों के द्वारा किए गए। अतः आपने ऊपर वर्णित लिखित परीक्षा दिनांक 15.11.2009 में अपने स्थान पर किसी अन्य व्यक्ति (साल्वर solver) को धोखाधड़ी से सम्मिलित कराकर परीक्षा पास की।

आरोप सं.2. आपने धोखाधड़ी एवं अनुचित प्रक्रिया का प्रयोग बैंक में Assistant के रूप में भर्ती होने के लिए किया।

2- आपके विरुद्ध यदि उपरोक्त आरोप प्रमाणित होते है तो यह भारतीय बैंक संघ एवं कर्मचारी संगठनों के मध्य द्विपक्षीय समझौता दिनांक 10.04.2002 के 5(एन) और 5(ओ) के अंतर्गत "घोर कदाचार" माना जाएगा एवं समझौता दिनांक 10.04.2002 के पैरा 6 के अंतर्गत दंडनीय है (The above charges, if established, would amount to "Gross Misconduct in terms of Para 5(n) and 5(o) of Memorandum of Settlement dated 10.04.2002 entered Into between IBA

आरोपों से संबन्धित अभिलेखो की सूची :-

1. प्रवेश परीक्षा के संदर्भ में जारी किया गया काल लेटा ।

2. प्रवेश परीक्षा से संबन्धित attendance sheet ।

3. साक्षात्कार एवं नियुक्ति से संबन्धित कागजात ।

4. उक्त अभिलेखो के :तिरिक्त यदि आवश्यक हुआ तो बैंक आरोपी को साबित करने के लिए अन्य साक्ष्य श्री प्रस्तुत कर सकता है।

5. Against the said charge, the petitioner has submitted his explanation on 09.09.2015 whereas the respondents were not satisfied with the explanation, therefore, the respondents conducted an enquiry and based on the report of incompetent hand writing expert Sri R. Krishna, declared charges to be proved against the petitioner. Based on the said inquiry report, the third respondent without application of mind passed an order on 04.05.2016 by dismissing the petitioner from service, as against the petitioner filed an appeal before the respondent no. 4 bringing the relevant facts to the notice of the Appellate Authority with prayer to set aside the punishment order. The appeal was rejected by the fourth respondent vide order dated 12.08.2016 in routine manner.

6. Aggrieved by the above action of the respondents, the petitioner preferred writ petition being Writ-A No. 48511 of 2016 (Rabindra Kumar vs. State of U.P. and 5 others) and after exchange of counter and rejoinder affidavits, the said writ petition was disposed of vide order dated 24.04.2018 with the following direction, which reads as under :-

"Whether there was any photo mixing or not, was a matter which could have been examined by the enquiry officer at least during the course of the enquiry. Even though it may not have been possible in the invigilation /examination centre itself but nothing of the kind was done and the enquiry report was based entirely upon the report of R. Krishna, the hand writing expert who was not even a registered handwriting expert. There is nothing on record to show that the petitioner had declined that R. Krishna be produced in the enquiry to prove his report or that he has declined to cross-examine R. Krishna and that he has accepted the report of the handwriting expert. The statement of the petitioner given during the enquiry has not been filed by the respondents to show that the petitioner at any time had declined to summon Sri R. Krishna or that he had accepted the report of the handwriting expert R.Krishna. The fact of the matter remains that R. Krishna on whose report the entire enquiry report has been based and which has been accepted by the disciplinary authority and the appellate authority was never produced in the enquiry to prove his report which was a duty cast upon the respondents holding the enquiry. The disciplinary authority and the appellate authority have also not considered these various aspects of the matter. Therefore, I find that there has been gross infraction of principles of natural justice and the petitioner has not been given reasonable and adequate opportunity to meet the report of the handwriting expert. Such an enquiry cannot be said to be a reasonable or fair enquiry. The order of the disciplinary authority as well as the appellate authority which are based on such an enquiry report are therefore, vitiated and are accordingly, set aside.

The writ petition is allowed.

However, it will be open for the respondents to proceed against the petitioner afresh after giving him an opportunity of examination and cross examination of Sri R. Krishna during the enquiry and lead whatever evidence he may want, to contradict the report of the handwriting expert Sri R. Krishna."

7. Despite the above directions, the respondents have not reinstated the petitioner into service nor paid the salaries. Hence the petitioner has pressed Contempt Application (Civil) No.3685 of 2018. This Court issued notice to the respondent on 03.08.2018. Thereafter, this Court further passed an order on 30.12.2018 regarding quantum of sentence. Based on the order of this Court, passed in the contempt application, the petitioner was reinstated at Salempur Main Branch, State Bank of India, Deoria vide order dated 30.08.2018.

8. Again respondent no. 3 by order dated 01.10.2018 placed the petitioner under suspension and appointed one Sri Ritesh Sagar as Inquiry Officer, directing the petitioner to participate in the inquiry. Thereafter, the Regional Manager S.B.I., Gorakhpur had issued letter on 05.04.2021 annexing the inquiry report dated 21.07.2021 prepared by the Inquiry Officer and Assistant General Manager. To the said inquiry report, the petitioner has submitted his objections before the Assistant General Manager, S.B.I., Gorakhur through registered post dated 12.04.2021 and without considering the objections filed by the petitioner, a tentative punishment order was issued on 13.09.2021 by asking the petitioner to appear on 20.09.2021. Again the petitioner submitted his objection on 16.10.2021 and without taking into consideration, the respondent no.1 has passed the impugned punishment order on 29.11.2021, dismissing the petitioner from service.

9. Aggrieved by the above said order, the petitioner has preferred an appeal before the second respondent by bringing the facts and also raising several grounds prayed for setting aside the tentative and final orders and reinstate the petitioner into service but without considering the grounds raised by the petitioner, the appeal has been rejected in mechanical manner.

10. Assailing the same order, the present writ petition has been filed.

11. After notice, one Sri Sunil Kumar Maharaj, Chief Manager, State Bank of India, Salempur Branch, District Deoria has filed counter affidavit on behalf of the respondents wherein he has stated that as per 11th Bipartite Settlement dated 11.11.2020, the employee who has been awarded the punishment of dismissal, compulsory discharge or removal from service by the Disciplinary Authority and subsequently where the punishment is confirmed by the Appellate Authority, shall be given an opportunity to seek reconsideration by an authority higher than the Appellate Authority. Therefore, after rejection of the appeal by the Appellate Authority, the petitioner could have availed an alternative remedy for reconsideration before the competent authority of the Bank rather than filing the instant petition, hence the same should be dismissed on the ground of availability of an alternative remedy to the petitioner. Further, as per the Bipartite Settlement between the State Bank of India and Employees' Union as such the petitioner is a "workman" within the definition of workman as provided under the Industrial Disputes Act and the petitioner's dismissal is deemed to be an Industrial Dispute within the provisions of Section 2A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. Even on this ground, the writ petition has to be dismissed.

12. The petitioner appeared in the written examination by impersonation, when the same was verified then it was found that the thumb impression of the person who appeared in the written examination on 15.11.2009 at Jwala Devi Vdya Mandir Post Graduate College, Anand Bagh, Kanpur and the person who joined the Bank on 15.12.2010, are different. Photograph available on call letter at the time of appearing for written examination was also not matching as such he was suspended and disciplinary proceedings were initiated against him. On the basis of material evidence on record, the respondents have held that the charges levelled against the petitioner have been proved and it has been found that signature and thumb impression of the person who appeared in the written examination on 15.11.2009 and the person who joined in the Bank on 15.12.2010 are different. In fact, the petitioner was given an opportunity by Inquiry Officer to cross examine the handwriting expert but he refused to do so, inasmuch as the Appellate Authority has recorded a finding that the report submitted by Sri R. Krishna, on the basis of evidence and facts, cannot be sidelined on the basis of non-government and non registered entity. Neither the inquiry conducted is vitiated nor it is illegal inasmuch as after scrutinizing the entire material on record as well as after giving full opportunity to the petitioner, the orders have been passed by the respondents. As the petitioner has played fraud upon the Bank in getting the appointment by falsification / impersonation, service of the petitioner has rightly been terminated after holding proper inquiry and after giving full opportunity to the petitioner. There is no violation of principles of natural justice or any procedure contemplated under Rules. Hence the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

13. Based on the above pleadings, the learned counsel for the petitioner has emphasise his arguments that the respondents have issued charge sheet for extraneous considerations as the petitioner has appeared to the written examination conducted by the respondents and at the time of written examination, two invigilators are present and they have verified the petitioner and also taken photographs, thumb impressions and signature. Accordingly, on the basis of the result, the petitioner was selected and appointed and based on his performance in the duties, the petitioner has been awarded best employee awards for continuous three years.

14. Though the above charges have been framed but no proper inquiry has been conducted by the respondents before giving punishment order. The same was taken into consideration by this Court in Writ-A No. 48511 of 2016. The said writ petition was disposed of by making a remark that there was no photograph mixing though it may not have been possible in the invisilative / examination centre itself and nothing of kind was done and the inquiry report was entirely based on the report of R. Krishna, the handwriting expert who was not even a registered handwriting expert and further it has been noted that Disciplinary Authority and Appellate Authority have also not considered the various aspects of the matter and recorded the gross infraction of principles of natural justice and accordingly the impugned orders were set aside but liberty was granted to the respondents to proceed against the petitioner afresh after giving him an opportunity of examination and cross-examination of Sri R. Krishna during the inquiry who may lead whatever evidence he wanted to produce regarding report of the handwriting expert.

15. Based on the above observations for conducting a re-inquiry the respondents have issued notice and directed the petitioner to cross-examine Sri R.Krishna. When the petitioner denied the opportunity and took specific stand that the said R. Krishna is not a registered handwriting expert nor is attached to any government pharmaceutical laboratory nor he possess any technical degree to qualify him as handwriting expert but before considering the said objection taken by the petitioner, the respondents proceeded only on the ground that this Court has given an opportunity to the petitioner to cross-examine the R. Krishna during the inquiry. When the petitioner has taken specific stand regarding incompetence of the handwriting expert, inquiry Officer has submitted his report with the following observation :

"I, therefore, is of the opinion that the inquiry has been conducted for third time (13.01.2020, 27.07.2020 and 27.01.2021) and enough opportunity have been provided to the CSE to re-examine Shi R Krishna report as per Hon'ble High Court order dated 24.04.2018. The DR and CSE appear purposely not cross verifying he Handwriting Expert report and were trying to question the degree and qualification of Sh R Krishna repeatedly. This seems to be delaying of the process of Inquiry of Inquiry. The cross-examination opportunity was given by Hon'ble High Court, which they were not ready to carry out."

16. The petitioner has submitted his reply on 12.04.2021, which reads as follows : -

"सेवा में,
सहायक महाप्रबन्धक
भारतीय स्टेट बैंक
गोरखपुर दक्षिण
प्रशासनिक कार्यालय गोरखपुर
गोरखपुर (उ०प्र०)
महोदय,

मुझे आपके द्वारा प्रेषित पत्र संख्या-गोरखपुर (दक्षिण) शि० एवं धो०/08 05.04.2021का जो कि दिनांक 09.04.2021 को प्राप्त हुआ जिसमें विभागीय जाँच अधिकारी श्री रितेष सागर का पुनः जाँच के संबंध में दिनांक 27.01.2021 की रिपोर्ट संलग्न है जिसमें मुझे पुनः निम्न निवेदन करना है कि बैंक की जाँच कार्यवाही में हम और हमारे बचाव प्रतिनिधि (DR) ने जाँच कार्यवाही में उपस्थिति R Krishna से संबंधित आरोपों के बारे में पूछ-ताछ करने के लिये कहा था। परन्तु माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश संख्या 48511/016 दिनांक 24.04.2018 के आधार पर जिसमें यह कहा गया है कि Hand Writing Exp. R Krishna किसी भी सरकारी

फारेन्सिक लैब से जुड़े हुए नहीं हैं। Government Signature Exp. नहीं है इसलिए इनकी रिपोर्ट मान्य नहीं है इसलिये इनकी रिपोर्ट आधारहीन तथ्यहीन विश्वास योग्य नहीं है इसलिये हम लोगों ने R Krishna का Cross Examina नहीं किया है।

अगर बैंक किसी ऐसे Signature Expert को प्रस्तुत करती है जिसका रजिस्ट्रेशन किसी भी सरकारी फारेन्सिक लैब से जुड़ा हुआ हो और माननीय उच्च न्यायालय विश्वास करती है ऐसे हस्ताक्षर विशेषज्ञ को Cross Examina करने के लिये तैयार है।

यह भी कहना चाहते हैं कि जिस परीक्षा कक्ष में मेरी परीक्षा हुई थी उसके कक्ष निरीक्षक के रूप में बैंक के अधिकारी जिन्होंने हमारा फोटोग्राफ हस्ताक्षर की जाँच किया था। और हमको परीक्षा में बैठने की अनुमति दी थी उसके उपरान्त बैंक की परीक्षा दी और उत्तीर्ण होने में सफल हुए।

तद् उपरान्त हमारा साक्षात्कार (Interview) लिया गया और Interview Board के पैनल के सभी सदस्यों ने हस्ताक्षर, अंगूठे के निशान एवं फोटो मिलान करने के बाद सही पाया। और Interview Pannel के द्वारा Interview लिया गया और सफल होने के बाद मुझे भारतीय स्टेट बैंक शाखा इण्डस्ट्रियल खलीलाबाद संत कबीर नगर (08231) में 16.12.2010 को नियुक्ति दे दिया।

तद् उपरान्त मुझे माननीय उच्च न्यायालय की शरण लेनी पड़ी। माननीय उच्च न्यायालय हमारे ऊपर लगाये गये आरोपों को आधारहीन बताते हुए निरस्त कर दिया। और पुनः निलम्बन आदेश को निरस्त करते हुए दिनांक 01.09.2018 को मुझे ज्वाइन करने का आदेश दिया।

हाई कोर्ट के आदेश के अनुसार जिसमें यह कहा गया था कि बैंक चाहे तो Cross Examina करा सकती है बैंक ने हमारे खिलाफ पुनः जाँच कार्यवाही प्रारम्भ कर दी।

लगभग तीन चार तारीखों में जाँच कार्यवाही प्रारम्भ की गई परन्तु किसी भी जाँच कार्यवाही में परीक्षा निरीक्षकों एवं साक्षात्कार लेने वाले अधिकारियों तथा नियुक्ति देने वाले अधिकारियों को किसी भी जाँच कार्यवाही में प्रस्तुत नहीं किय गया जबकि दिनांक 30.12.2018 को हमारे बचाव प्रतिनिधि ने सम्बन्धित परीक्षा निरीक्षकों साक्षात्कार करने वाले अधिकारियों को प्रस्तुत कर पूछ-ताछ करने की आवश्यकता महसूस की थी जिसको P.O. ने इन महत्वपूर्ण साक्ष्यों को जाँच कार्यवाही में न बुलाकर स्वाभाविक न्याय की प्रक्रिया का उल्लंघन किया तथा निर्दोष कर्मचारी के हितों पर आघात किया है। उपरोक्त सभी तथ्यों एवं प्रमाणों को ध्यान में रखते हुए आधारहीन एवं बेबुनियाद आरोपों को प्रमाणित मानते हुए CSE कर्मचारी के विरुद्ध लिया गया निर्णय एक साजिश ही प्रतीत होगी।

एक जाँच कार्यवाही जो दिनाँक 30.12.2018 को की गई थी जिसमें जाँच अधिकारी ने आदेश देते हुए लिखा कि आज की जाँच की कार्यवाही सम्पन्न की जाती है। कार्यवाही से सम्बन्धित रिपोर्ट सभी पक्षों को दिनाँक 10 जनवरी 2021 तक सभी पक्षों को उपलब्ध करा दी जायेगी और न तो जाँच कार्यवाही के आधार पर कोई निर्णय लिया गया और न ही कोई आज तक किसी पक्ष को 31.12.2018 की सम्पन्न जाँच कार्यवाही की रिपोर्ट किसी भी पक्ष को इनके द्वारा नहीं उपलब्ध कराई गई परन्तु बिना कोई आरोप पत्र के (चार्जशीट) दिये पुनः कार्यवाही प्रारम्भ कर दी गई यह मेरे खिलाफ साजिश नहीं तो क्या है।

मैं आजीवन आपका आभारी रहूँगा।

17. Surprisingly without considering the specific objection taken by the petitioner, the respondents have passed the tentative punishment order on 13.09.2021 by giving an opportunity once again and the same orders have been confirmed and final order has been issued by the respondent vide order dated 29.11.2021, which reads as follows :-

"FINAL ORDER
STAFF:AWARD

DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS – NON VIGILANCE-GROSS MISCONDUCT

SHRI RABINDRA KUMAR, ASSOCIATE (U/S) (PF No 6599540)

BRANCH :SALEMPUR (CODE – 01146)

PERSONIFIED HIMSELF BY SOMEONE ELSE (as solver) WHILE APPEARING IN WRITTEN EXMINATION

During the Banks written examintion process, Shri Rabindra Kumar, Associate (u/s) PF -6599540, had personified himself by someone else (as solver) while appearing in written examination held on 15.11.2009 at Jwala Devi Vidya Mandi Post Gaduate College, Anand Bagh, Kanpur and as per Forensic Expert report, the thumb impression and signature obtained during written examination do not match with the thumb impression and signature obtained at the time of interview / joining in the Bank.

Disciplinary Penalty Proceedings under "Gross Misconduct" under clause 5(n) and 5(o) of Memorandum of Settlement dated 10.04.2002 between IBA & Workmen Unions and Bank Level Settlement dated 07.04.2016 as amended / modified by Bipartite Settlement dated 11.11.2020 between IBA & Workmen Unions, were initiated against Shri Rabindra Kumar Associate PF ID 6599540 vide charge sheet dated 03.09.2015 served upon Shri Rabindra Kumar Associate, on 04.09.2015 for following lapses committed by Shri Rabindra Kumar Associate :

"i. आपकी नियुक्ति के संबंध में, बैंक द्वारा दिनांक 15.11.2009 (समयः09.15AM) को ज्वाला देवी विद्या मन्दिर पोस्ट ग्रेजुएट कालेज, आनन्द बाग, कानपुर में आयोजित लिखित प्रवेश परीक्षा के दौरान Attendance Sheet और Call Letter पर किए गए हस्ताक्षर एवं अंगूठे के निशान तथा बैंक द्वारा दिनांक 27.04.2010 को सम्पन्न कराये गए इंटरव्यू और दिनांक 15.12.2010 को आपकी बैंक में नियुक्ति के संदर्भ में आपके द्वारा किए गए हस्ताक्षर एवं अंगूठे के निशान तथा दिनांकित 24.04.2010 के आपके द्वारा दिये गए आत्मकथ्य एवं सत्यापन फार्म के संदर्भ में किये गये हस्ताक्षर एवं अंगूठे के निशान दो अलग अलग व्यक्तियों के द्वारा किए गए। अतः आपने ऊपर वर्णित लिखित परीक्षा दिनांक 15.11.2009 में अपने स्थान पर किसी अन्य व्यक्ति ('साल्वर' Solver) को धोखाधड़ी से सम्मिलित कराकर परीक्षा पास की।

ii. आपने धोखाधड़ी एवं अनुचित प्रक्रिया का प्रयोग बैंक में Assistant के रूप में भर्ती होने के लिए किया।"

2. Tentative Order dated 13.09.2021, forwarded vide Letter No. BCDM/1251 dated 13.09.2021, was served upon the CSE, Shri Rabindra Kumar, Associate, PF ID 6599540 which, he acknowledged on 16.10.2021 and also Shri Rabindra Kumar, Associate, appeared personally for personal hearing with undersigned on 23.11.2021.

I have once again considered all the papers of the above case and personal hearing with Shri Rabindra Kumar on 23.11.2021, I do not find any reason to change my tentative order. I, therefore, confirm the tentative order dated 13.09.2021 and finally decide that Shri Rabindra Kumar (PF ID 6599540), Associate (u/s), be served upon the penalty of "Be Dismissed from Bank Service without notice" under Clause 6(a) of Memorandum of Settlement dated 10.04.2002 between IBA & Workmen Unions and Bank Level Settlement dated 07.04.2016 as amended / modified by Bipartite Settlement dated 11.11.2020 between IBA & Workmen Unions.

3. A copy of the Final order is to be placed in the CSE's service file. If Shri Rabindra Kumar, Associate, desires to prefere an appeal against my Final order of date, Shri Rabindra Kumar, Associate may do so within 45 days from the date of receipt of the Final Order under the provision of Clause 14 of Memorandum of settlement dated 10.04.2002 between IBA & Workmen Unions and Bank Level Settlement dated 07.04.2016 as amended / modified by Bipartite Settlement dated 11.11.2020 between IBA & Workmen Union."

18. As against the petitioner has filed an appeal before the second respondent wherein he has taken specific grounds that inquiry officer in his inquiry report dated 27.01.2021 has not himself examined any documents and material and without any basis as well as without recording any independent finding held charge to be proved against the petitioner herein and submitted his report solely based on the opinion of the handwriting expert Sri R. Krishna which is unsustainable. Further, Sri R.Krishna cannot be said to be a handwriting expert as he is simply B.Sc., LLB, MA (Criminology and Forensic Science) and he was not appointed an Assistant Professor, Criminology and Forensic Science in Sagar University, Madhya Pradesh.

19. The said R. Krishna has never been recognized and appointed as handwriting expert in any government forensic labs or institutions. Hence the alleged handwriting expert report is not a conclusive written and the same cannot be made as basis to dismiss the appeal.

20. It was incumbent upon the inquiry officer to call the two invigilators who were present at the time of examination and summoning the original attendance register, call letter, admit card and the documents which were prepared at the time of interview containing signatures, photographs of the appellant to compare the same in presence of the appellant which was not followed by the inquiry officer. Even it is an obligation on the part of the Bank to summon all interview board members and the original registers containing the signature and thumb impressions obtained during the interview for verification.

21. In fact, the appellant had appeared before the Inquiry Officer on 03.11.2021 before the Disciplinary Authority and pressed the facts and also requested to consider his representation dated 16.10.2021. He has also raised specific ground that the Inquiry Officer has not made any inquiry or recorded any independent findings against the charges except relying on the report of alleged handwriting expert of Sri R. Krishna and the appeal has been dismissed by the second respondent vide order dated 27.01.2022 with the following observations, which reads as follows :-

"4. I have carefully examined the ground raised by Shri Rabindra Kumar in his appeal in the light of relevant records of the case and may observations are as under :

The appellant has not brought out any new facts to rebut the allegations. In compliance to Hon'ble High Court order, ample opportunity give to him to cross examine report and certificates submitted by hand writing expert, but he refused to do so and doubt the legality of certificates and report. Therefore, Bank have take his action tantamount to the Gross Misconduct.

5. I have gone through the appeal preferred by Shri Rabindra Kumar, Associate and the related case papers in its entirety. I do not find any worthwhile grounds in the appeal that would warrant interference with the order of the Disciplinary Authority. The quantum of penalty imposed is considered equitable and commensurate with the nature of allegations held as established. The appeal is turned down and the order is passed accordingly."

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that on perusal of the entire inquiry report, it clearly shows that the Inquiry Officer has not conducted any independent inquiry with regard to the charges framed against the petitioner except relying on the report submitted by Sri R. Krishna in which he has stated that enough opportunity has been provided to the CSE to re-examine the Sri R.Krishna which he has refused to cross-examine the R. Krishna report and certificate has been submitted that legality of petitioner is doubtful, therefore, the Bank may take against him as it may deem fit. Based on the above inquiry report without application of mind the Disciplinary Authority has passed an order stating that after examining the matter carefully, going through the case and taking consideration of the gravity of lapses, the dismissal order was passed against the petitioner. Even the Appellate Authority has not at all considered the facts and also ground raised by the petitioner and simply extracted the entire appeal in the impugned order and dismissed appeal accordingly.

23. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the Inquiry Officer, Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority have not applied their mind while deciding the issue. The petitioner has taken specific objection with regard to the appointment of Sri R. Krishna as handwriting expert as he has not a qualified or government handwriting expert. However, he has not having any specific qualifications for handwriting expert. So report which was submitted cannot be taken into consideration. No specific averments or assertions made either by the Inquiry Officer or by the Disciplinary Authority in this regard. Hence, on this ground, alone the punishment order imposed by the Disciplinary Authority has to go. Further, the learned counsel emphasised his arguments that while dealing with the matter of such nature, it is incumbent upon the Inquiry Officer to call for the entire record pertaining to examination centre, interview Board's record and finally to send both documents to the forensic laboratory to get a clear report but in the instant case no such procedure has been followed by the Inquiry Officer. Further he has not taken any care to call for the record pertaining to examination centre records as well as interview Board's record.

24. Despite the petitioner has made a specific request to look into those aspects before taking into consideration of the report submitted by Sri R. Krishna, who is an ineligible person but surprisingly Inquiry Officer has submitted inquiry report solely based on the report submitted by the handwriting expert Sri R. Krishna and Disciplinary Authority has also taken into consideration of the report submitted by the Inquiry Officer and passed the impugned order.

25. Perusal of both the orders Disciplinary Authority as well as Appellate Authority, it appears that they have not even cared to refer the objections raised by the petitioner and no finding has been given to that effect. Surprisingly, the Appellate Authority also has not given any reasons except stating that record has been perused.

26. To support his contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the decision of this Hon'ble Court in the case of Ran Vijay Singh v. Union of India reported in 2018 (4) AWC 3581. particularly Paragraphs 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27, which reads thus :

22. A learned Single Judge of this Court in Rajesh Kumar (supra) had examined a similar controversy, where services of a probationer was dispensed with by the Bank, on the ground that he had cleared recruitment exam on the basis of impersonation. This Court observed that handwriting expert's opinion is at best an expert opinion, which is not conclusive. Observation of the learned Single Judge is apposite for our purposes and is reproduced hereinafter:-

"Expert opinion is only an opinion and has been considered to be of a very weak nature. The decision of the bank is based on the expert opinion alone to establish the guilt of impersonation.

In Gulzar Ali Vs. Sate of Himachal Pradesh the Supreme Court observed that the observation of the High Court that there is a natural tendency on the part of an expert witness to support the view of the party who called him, could not be downgraded. Many so-called experts have been shown to be remunerated witnesses making themselves available on hire to pledge their oath in favour of the party paying them.

This Court considering large number of judgments in Tika Ram vs. Daulat Ram7 held as follows:-

"9. Evidence of an expert is only an opinion. Expert evidence is only a piece of evidence and external evidence. It has to be considered along with other pieces of evidence. Which would be the main evidence and which is the corroborative one depends upon the facts of each case. An expert's opinion is admissible to furnish the Court a scientific opinion which is likely to be outside the experience and knowledge of a Judge. This kind of testimony, however, has been considered to be of very weak nature and expert is usually required to speak, not to facts, but to opinions. It is quite often surprising to see with what facility, and to what extent, their views would be made to correspond with the wishes and interests of the parties who call them. They do not, indeed, wilfully misrepresent what they think, but their judgment becomes so warped by regarding the subject in one point of view, that, when conscientiously deposed, they are incapable of expressing a candid opinion."

The Court has made the observation in trial, treating handwriting expert evidence as being opinion evidence. In service jurisprudence allegation has to be proved on preponderance and not beyond reasonable doubt. But the delinquent employee has to be confronted with the evidence as it is rebuttable.

Applying the law on the facts of the case, a perusal of the report dated 5.7.2011 submitted by one R. Krishna (B.Sc., L.L.B., M.A. (Criminology & Forensic Science) Consulting Forensic Expert formerly Assistant Professor of Criminology & Forensic Science (Sagar University) rendered the following opinion which is extracted below:

On a very careful examination of the signatures, thumb impressions and photographs of the above referred person, I am of the following opinion:-

(a) The signatures made on Call Letter at the time of examination does not match with the other standard signatures of Sri Rajesh Kumar. The reasons of my opinion are in Annexure No. 1.

(b) The thumb impression on the Call Letter, which is expected to be of Right Thumb do not match with the specimen thumb of Right Thumb of Sri Rajesh Kumar. The reasons of my opinion are given in Annexure No. 2.

(c) The photographs on the Call Letter of the person who appeared in the examination does not match with the photographs of the person who is joining the Bank. The reasons of my opinion are given in Annexure No. 3.

Opinion: On very careful examination of the above referred signatures and writing written as 'Rajesh Kumar' as in A-2, I am of the opinion, that the signature D-1 is not made by the same person, who has made the signatures and writing S-1 to S-3 and A-1 to A-3.

Reference of Photographs:

(A)= Standard photograph of Sri. Rajesh Kumar Submitted at the time of joining of the Bank.

(B)= Photograph of the Call Letter of the person who appeared in the examination.

Opinion: On very careful examination of the two above referred photographs marked (A) and (B), I am of the opinion, the photograph (A) differs with that of (B) and both the photographs are not of the same person.

The reasons of my opinion are follows:

1. .....

2.The length of face of photograph(A) is more than that of (B).

3.The width of the face of photograph (A) should have been more than that of the face of photograph (B) in the same proportion, but it is not. The width of the face of photograph(A) is lesser than of the face of the photograph (B) as marked by the red line of the photographic enlargement.

It is contended on behalf of the respondents that the principles of natural justice would not apply in the facts of the present case, as the petitioner has obtained appointment on the basis of fraud and misrepresentation and in any case, the petitioner was on probation hence, the petitioner's service could be terminated without assigning any reason.

The contention is not accepted for the simple reason that the bank instead of simply terminating the services on the ground of unsuitability or poor performance during the probation, conducted an enquiry regarding the conduct of the petitioner for impersonation, fraud and misrepresentation, and after a full fledged enquiry conducted behind his back, evidence was collected by inviting expert opinion to prove the guilt. The motive is not termination simpliciter, the foundation being as to whether the petitioner impersonated in the written examination or not and the bank has acted upon the opinion of an expert taken behind the back of the petitioner without confronting the petitioner, the findings of the handwriting expert.

The contention of learned counsel for the respondent that the fact of impersonation is not rebuttable, even after giving opportunity, the petitioner shall not be able to rebut the findings of the expert opinion, cannot be accepted for the simple reason that the expert opinion can always be questioned by the petitioner. It is not a case where the petitioner had obtained appointment by filling forged verification documents or caste certificate, but is a case of impersonation i.e. act of fraud and misrepresentation which is being sought to be proved on evidences to justify the action and suspicion of the Bank. Fraud and misrepresentation is a question of fact, which has to be pleaded and proved after opportunity to the aggrieved party.

A perusal of the impugned order dated 13.9.2011, addressed to the petitioner, the subject is 'cancellation of appointment'. After giving background of the examination conducted, the petitioner appearing in the examination the impugned order records as follows:

Cancellation of Appointment.

"1. With reference to above, we advise that the written test for the captioned recruitment exercise was conducted on 8th, 15th and 22nd November, 2009 and you were required to appear in the written test at Bal Vidya Mandir, Station Road, Charbag, Lucknow on 8th November, 2009 at 9:15 A.M. However, you did not appear in the written test at the scheduled date, time and venue but some body else appeared in the above said test impersonating to be yourself.

2. .....

3. .....

4. Therefore you suppressed this material fact that you did not appear in the written test held on 8th November, 2009 at 9:15 A.M. On Roll No. 2601001887 allotted to you at Bal Vidya Mandir, Station Road, Charbagh, Lucknow and allowed some one else to appear in the written test in your place, as such your so called selection in Bank is void ab-initio. Accordingly, there is no service contract between you and the Bank and any engagement thereto in pursuance to the referred appointment letter is invalid and void ab-initio. However, for the record sake you are informed by this letter that your selection on the referred ground is calcelled in express terms by virtue of this letter which please note. Accordingly, your name has been struck off from the employee's roll/list of the Bank.

5. Please acknowledge receipt of this letter."

The discharge order is not order simpliciter, it in clear terms states that the foundation for termination is that the petitioner "did not appear in the written test and somebody else appeared.....impersonating to be yourself" is stigmatic and punitive and reflects upon the character/reputation of a person, it is blemish, imputation, label indicating deviation from a norm.

In the case of State of Punjab Vs. Balbir Singh8. The order of discharge mention the words "unlikely to prove an efficient police officer." Further before passing the aforesaid order of discharge it appears that Shri Balbir Singh, who was found to have consumed liquor and misbehaved with a lady constable was medically examined and thereafter discharge order was passed. The appeal, which was filed before the Deputy Inspector General of Police, was rejected and while rejecting the appeal, he referred to the aforesaid facts and stated that the discharge order was correct. Shri Balbir Singh challenged the order of discharge on the basis of the averments contained therein as well as in the order of the Deputy Inspector General of Police. The Hon'ble Apex Court upholding the aforesaid order of discharge held as under;-

"In the present case, order of termination cannot be held to be punitive in nature. The misconduct on behalf of the respondent was not the inducing factor for the termination of the respondent. The preliminary enquiry was not done with the object of finding out any misconduct on the part of the respondent, it was done only with a view to determine the suitability of the respondent within the meaning of Punjab Police Rule 12.21. The termination was not founded on the misconduct but the misbehaviour with a lady constable and consumption of liquor in office were considered to determine the suitability of the respondent for the job, in the light of the standards of discipline expected from police personnel."

The term 'stigma' has to be understood in its plain meaning as something that is detraction from the character or reputation of a person. It is blemish, imputation, a mark or label indicating a deviation from a norm The assessment of work and performance and recording of satisfaction of the authority concerned that he is not satisfied with the work and performance regarding fitness of the employee concerned would not make the order stigmatic since it is not a blemish on the character and reputation of the person concerned but it reflects on the capacity and efficiency of the incumbent with respect to the work for which he/she was employed.

It has been held in various judgments rendered by the Supreme Court that reasons assigned in the termination order, at times may not be punitive or stigmatic, the following words/phrases mentioned in the order have been held to be not punitive.

i.)"want of application' ii.)"lack of potential" iii.)"found not dependable" iv.)"under suspension"
v.)"work is unsatisfactory" vi.)"unlikely to prove an efficient officer"

(Refer: Dipti Prakash Banerjee vs. Saytendra Nath Bose National Centre for Basic Sciences, Calcutta and others (1999) 3 SCC 60, Paras Nath Pandey vs. Director, North Central Zone, Cultural Centre, Nyay Marg, Allahabad (2009) 1 UPlBEC 274)

Considering the facts of the case, in the light of the legal principles, discussed herein above, I am of the view that the impugned order of termination is nothing but punitive and stigmatic, therefore, cannot be sustained.

In the result, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 27.8.2011 passed by Regional Manager, State Bank of India is quashed. The petitioner shall be entitled for reinstatement with all consequential benefits but with respect to arrears of salary, he will be paid 50% of the backwages for the period he remained out of employment pursuant to impugned order of termination. It goes without saying that this judgment shall not prevent to the respondents from proceedings afresh against the petitioner and pass a fresh order in accordance with law."

23. In the facts of the present case, despite allegation made in the notice dated 5.8.2015 about thumb impression, signatures and handwriting having not tallied, the respondents have confined their conclusion to the opinion of the handwriting expert. Such opinion cannot be construed as being conclusive.

24. In the present case not only the petitioners have been denied appointment but they are also debarred from appearing in any examination conducted by the Commission for three years. Such order of Commission is clearly stigmatic in nature. The order under challenge carries civil consequences also. Such order cannot be sustained merely on the strength of handwriting report, nature of which remains that of an opinion, and cannot be construed as conclusive.

25. The report of CFSL based upon handwriting expert's opinion, moreover, has not been furnished to the petitioners. Petitioners consequently had no opportunity to controvert it. Attention of the Court has been invited to pages 252, 253, 273, 274, 333 and 334, which contain identical expressions. Report at pages 513, 594 and 554 also contain identical language. In case an opportunity was afforded to the petitioners then all such materials could have been highlighted.

26. The respondents were expected to confront the petitioners with material relied upon against them. A show cause containing such materials was required to have been issued, particularly when petitioners were being debarred from appearing in any other exam conducted by Commission for three years. The notice dated 5.8.2015 cannot be construed as a show cause notice. It only called upon the petitioners to give their specimen signatures, handwriting and thumb impression in view of Commission's opinion that they do not match. After the CFSL report was received neither the petitioners were put to any notice, nor the content of report was made known to them.

27. The opinion of handwriting expert was required to have been viewed with other materials available on record. Admittedly the petitioners had carried their identity cards, which had been verified at all stages of examination by the Commission and their officers. There cannot be a presumption that all the staffs/employees of Commission had failed to correctly identified the petitioner despite existence of identity card. The presumption that petitioners had identified themselves with reference to specified identity cards could not be lightly brushed aside. The fact that respondents had admitted thumb impressions and specimen thumb impressions with them, which have not been tallied also, is a factor to be kept in mind. There apparently was no reason for the respondents not to have verified the identity of petitioners with reference to their thumb impression, which is an evidence superior to the report of handwriting expert. The nature of expert's opinion otherwise not being conclusive, could not solely be relied upon to cancel petitioners' provisional selection, ignoring other materials, particularly when the order itself was stigmatic.

27. Further, he has relied upon the Division Bench judgement of this Court in Writ-A No. 21096 of 2018 (Vijay pal and 22 other vs. Union of India and 3 others). Paragraph 9, 22, 23, 25, 30, 33 and 34, which reads as under :-

9. The notice alleged that the petitioners had resorted to impersonation, further, it was alleged that there was mismatch in the handwriting, and/or, thumb impression of the candidates. In other words, allegation against the petitioners was that they have resorted, by securing the services of someone else, in the written test on their behalf. The allegation levelled in the two memorandums of the same date is extracted:

"I. As confirmed by the Government Examiner of Questioned Documents, Hand writing on the Application Form and that on answer sheet (OMR)/verification sheets are of different person (s). It has been established that the candidate did not appear himself in the written examination or PET examination and rather somebody else appeared in the same on his behalf, which is a case of impersonation, a malpractice and an offence.

II. As you are aware bio-metrics attendance were obtained during each phase of examination. It is to bring into your notice that your thumb impression during document verification did not match with written and PET examination. It means someone else had appeared in written and PET examination impersonating your candidature."

22. The question that requires consideration is as to whether the respondents were justified on the available materials on record to hold petitioners guilty of impersonation, and/or, mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression on various documents.

23. In Rajesh Kumar vs. Union of India and others1, this Court observed that handwriting expert opinion is at best an opinion, which is not conclusive proof of mismatch of handwriting or impersonation. Expert opinion has been considered to be of very weak nature, which requires corroboration from other material facts pertaining to the allegation.

24. . . . . .

25. The decision of the respondent is based on the expert opinion alone to establish guilt of impersonation, and/or, mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression without affording opportunity or confronting the petitioners with the material/opinion. Had it been so, the petitioners in their defence could also have obtained an opinion of the expert to confront the Railways. The impugned order of cancellation of the candidature of the petitioners could not have been sustained on the opinion of handwriting expert.

26. . . . . .

27. . . . . .

28. . . . . .

29. . . . . .

30. The opinion of the expert was required to have been viewed and considered with other materials available on record. The learned Tribunal has discarded the theory of impersonation setup by the respondent-Railways, then in that event, mismatch of handwriting/thumb impression of the petitioners becomes unsustainable, unless supported by any other material or evidence that petitioners have not appeared in the examination or have not filled the application form in their handwriting.

31. . . . . .

32. . . . . .

33. In the circumstances, it cannot be said in absence of any other material available with the Railways, that it is a case of mismatch in handwriting/thumb impression. The inference of the Railways is based on an opinion without being supported by any other material, i.e., the petitioners had not appeared at different stages of the selection process.

34. In service jurisprudence, though Evidence Act is not applicable, the charge is not required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt, but on the principle of preponderance of probability, based on some material evidence against the petitioners. It is not a case of disciplinary proceedings, neither, it is a case set up by the Railways, that there was large scale irregularities in the examination process, only few candidates have been picked-up and their selections cancelled merely on an opinion obtained behind the back of the petitioners without confronting the petitioners with the incriminating material.

28. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that in the above said matters, the issue is identical to that of issue involved in the present writ petition.

29. Even in the above said matters, the respondents have not been able to establish the allegations of impersonation against the petitioner and based on the opinion of an expert, punishment order was passed against the petitioner which was set aside only on the ground that opinion of the handwriting expert was required to have been viewed and considered along with other materials available on record. Unless it is supported by any other material or evidence, that the petitioner has not been appeared in the examination, only based on the opinion of expert, he cannot be dismissed from service as reasonable opportunity has to be given to the delinquent and accordingly, the impugned orders are contrary to procedure.

30. Per contra, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents has vehemently opposed the writ petition and submitted that the petitioner cannot take such plea in the present petition as the respondents have implemented the order passed by the Hon'ble Court in Writ-A No. 48511 of 2016, wherein liberty has been granted to the respondents to proceed against the petitioner afresh after giving him an opportunity of examination and cross-examination of Sri R. Krishna during the inquiry and lead whatever evidence he may want to contradict the report of handwriting expert Sri R.Krishna. The said directions have became final and as per orders passed by this Court, respondents have given several opportunities to the petitioner to cross-examine the said R. Krishna.

31. Despite giving opportunity on several occasion i.e. 13.01.2020, 27.07.2020 and 27.01.2021, petitioner has not chosen to cross-examine Sri R. Krishna, left with no option the inquiry Officer has submitted his report. Hence, the inquiry report submitted by the inquiry officer on 27.01.2021 was in accordance with directions issued by this court in Writ-A No. 48511 of 2016. In the said circumstances, the petitioner cannot take contrary stand and raised objection with regard to the handwriting expert of Sri R. Krishna. The said ground is not available to the petitioner in view of the direction issued by this Court in the above said writ petition.

32. Further, the respondents have considered the entire documents while passing the final orders and as per the observations made in the final order, it clearly discloses that before passing the orders, the respondents have verified the entire records which includes both records pertaining to the examination centre as well as interview Board. He further submits that the Appellate Authority has considered the appeal filed by the petitioner and has taken the each and every ground for consideration and after verifying the documents, the Appellate Authority has also came to the conclusion that there are no ground raised by the petitioner, hence the same has been dismissed.

33. In view of the above, there is no ground to interfere in this matter as authorities have followed procedure contemplated under the procedure and also ample opportunity has been given to the petitioner before passing the orders, hence the writ petition may be dismissed.

34. Considering the submissions made by both the counsels and also perusal of the records, though liberty was granted to the respondents in Writ-A No. 48511 of 2016 vide order dated 24.04.2018 but the respondents could not follow observations made by this Court in the said judgement where this Court had specifically observed that whether there was any photo of missing or not, was a matter which could have been examined by the Inquiry Officer at least during the course of inquiry.

35. On perusal of the inquiry report submitted by the Inquiry Officer on 27.01.2021, it appears that this aspect was not at all considered. Further, it is observed that though it may not have been possible in the invisilative / examination centre itself but nothing of its kind was done and inquiry report was based entirely upon the report of R. Krishna, the handwriting expert who was not even a registered handwriting expert. These, observations were also not considered by the Inquiry Officer while conducting the re-inquiry. Further, it is observed that the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority have also not considered the various aspects of the matter which indicates that Disciplinary Authority and Appellate Authority also required to consider the other aspects not only the inquiry report and the report submitted by the expert while imposing penalty but in the instant case, perusal of the impugned order dated 29.11.2021 clearly shows that the Disciplinary Authority has not at all considered any other relevant material while imposing the penalty except giving the opportunity to the petitioner to cross-examine the R. Krishna who is so-called handwriting expert. Neither Disciplinary Authority nor Appellate Authority has considered the other aspects while imposing the punishment vide order dated 29.11.2021.

36. Further, as observed by the Division Bench of this Court in Vijay Pal and 22 others v. Union of India and 3 others (supra) that opinion of the expert was required to have been viewed and considered along with the other materials available on record. In the event of impersonation mismatch of handwriting / thumb impression of the petitioner became unsustainable unless supported by any other material or evidence that the petitioner had not appear in the examination or had not filled the application form.

37. Even in the instant case, the respondents have failed to corroborate the expert report along with the other material available on record and it clearly discloses that the respondents have not even chosen to verify or to substantiate that the petitioner had not participated in the examination centre except having an expert opinion that too from non-registered expert.

38. In view of the said circumstances, the respondents have passed the impugned orders solely depending on the report submitted by one R. Krishna, who is handwriting expert, without verifying the other material and without establishing that the petitioner has not appeared in the examination.

39. In view of the same, the impugned orders dated 29.11.2021 and also the Appellate Authority order dated 27.01.2022 are set aside, remanding the matter to afresh inquiry by sending all the relevant documents to the forensic laboratory and also conducting a detailed inquiry by calling all the relevant records and examining the concerned persons and take a proper action, accordingly.

40. In the result, the writ petition is disposed of.

A. Service Law – UP Secondary Education Service Commission Act, 1982 – S. 33-B – Cancellation of regularisation – No notice was given – No averment of fraud or misrepresentation, except petitioner being son in law of the then Principal, was made – Effect – How far the authority had power to recall earlier order – Held, once the Regional Selection Committee had acted in the manner regularising the services of the petitioner, it was not open for the Regional Joint Director of Education to have reopened the controversy after almost 15 years on his own without even referring the matter to the Regional Selection Committee. (Para 9 and 15)

B. Service Law – UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921 – Section 16-GG (3) – Appointment – Prohibited degree of relation – Violation alleged to be occurred during appointment – Petitioner discharged 15 years services since after regiularisation – No enquiry was conducted – Effect – Held, once the regularisation of appointment has already taken place, such teacher becomes a permanent member of service and no such teacher's service can be dispensed with on the ground that there were some inherent lack of qualification at the time of initial appointment. The question could have been gone into by issuing a show cause notice holding an inquiry into the matter and so that option was open but this was not opted for – Regional Joint Director of Education was certainly not an authority as defined under Section 33-B (2) to have reopened the issue. (Para 17)

C. Service Law – Constitution of India – Article 14 – Principle of natural justice – audi alteram partem – No notice was given before cancelling the regularization order – Effect – Held, nobody can be condemned unheard. Such order that cannot be sustained on the touchstone of the principle of maxim of audi alteram partem cannot be sustained in law and authority which passes order has to assess and evaluate whether order which it is going to pass would have any adverse civil consequences upon the person against whom the order is being passed and if such civil consequences are perceivable, then such authority is liable to give at last notice to the concerned person so as to get his/her reply – High Court held the order dated 31.12.2020 bad for non compliance of principles of natural justice. (Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Y.S. Bohra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Pradeep Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for respondent No.4 and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. Petitioner before this Court is aggrieved by the order dated 31.12.2020 whereby the Regional Joint Director of Education recalled the earlier regularisation order granted to the petitioner on 12.12.1995 under Section 33-B of the UP Secondary Education Service Commission Act, 1982 (for short, "Commission Act, 1982").

3. Twin arguments have been advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner: (a) once the regional selection Committee had accorded regularisation to the petitioner under its resolution /decision dated 12.12.1995, the Regional Joint Director of Education (I) Region Meerut himself was not authorised to recall such regularisation order and cancel the same. Thus, according to learned counsel for the petitioner, the order impugned is bad for coram non judice; and (b) the order had been passed recalling the order of regularisation without giving any notice much less a show cause notice to the petitioner even though the order impugned was to have adverse civil consequences.

4. It is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that he was initially appointed on ad-hoc basis under Section 18 of Commission Act, 1982 on 09.07.1985 on account of then incumbent Pawan Verma, Lecturer in the subject of Mathematics proceeding on leave without pay. The approval of appointment of the petitioner on ad-hoc basis was granted by the District Inspector of Schools (DIOS) on 02.09.1985. Petitioner continued as such, according to him, until the vacancy fell substantively vacant on account of resignation of said Ram Singh on 19.06.1987. Resultantly, the committee of management proceeded to continue him by means of an order dated 12.07.1987. This according to him, was a kind of fresh appointment but it was in continuation of his earlier appointment as he was initially appointed in the year 1985 filling up the place of said Ram Singh who had earlier proceeded on leave but ultimately came to resign at later point of time. The approval of appointment of petitioner to the substantive vacancy came to be granted on 16.01.1990.

5. It is argued on behalf of the petitioner that petitioner's marriage with the daughter of the then principal of the institution took place on 01.03.1987, so it was much after the initial appointment of the petitioner in the institution against a short term vacancy which later on became a substantive vacancy. It is submitted that petitioner has now attained the age of superannuation on 31st March, 2023.

6. Per contra, argument advanced on behalf of the State-respondents is that the appointment of petitioner made on 12.07.1987 is to be taken as a fresh appointment and admittedly on that date, petitioner had already been married to the daughter of then sitting principal of the institution. However, he could not deny the fact that petitioner had been initially appointed in the year 1985 against a short term vacancy on account of the said Lecturer Ram Singh proceeding on leave without pay. This has been so specifically stated in para 5, 6 & 8 of the counter affidavit.

7. On the legal question being raised on behalf of the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel could not dispute that decision impugned in the writ petition dated 31.12.2020 was exclusively taken by the Regional Joint Director of Education without there being any approval in that regard by the Regional Selection Committee. He also could not dispute that there is no averment in the entire counter affidavit that any notice much less a show cause notice was given to the petitioner before the order impugned came to be passed.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties, having perused the record and the arguments advanced on behalf of respective parties, two points emerge for consideration before this Court: (i) whether the order of Regional Joint Director of Education dated 31.12.2020 is bad for want of non compliance of principles of natural justice; and (ii) whether the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education dated 31.12.2020 is sustainable for want of lawful authority.

9. Coming to the first point, I find that the entire order dated 31.12.2020 is couched in a language as if the petitioner mislead the authority in obtaining regularisation in the year 1995. In such circumstances, therefore, it could have been said that petitioner mislead or misrepresented the matter in connivance with the committee of management but there is no averment of fraud as such discernible except the fact that the petitioner happened to be son in law of the then sitting principal of the institution. The petitioner in this petition has filed Lagan Patrika relating to marriage with the daughter of the sitting principal of the institution and had he been given proper opportunity of hearing before the Regional Joint Director of Education, he would have led all these evidence before the authority.

10. Legal principle is well stated in law that nobody can be condemned unheard. Such order that cannot be sustained on the touchstone of the principle of maxim of audi alteram partem cannot be sustained in law and authority which passes order has to assess and evaluate whether order which it is going to pass would have any adverse civil consequences upon the person against whom the order is being passed and if such civil consequences are perceivable, then such authority is liable to give at last notice to the concerned person so as to get his/her reply. In the present case admittedly petitioner was discharging his duties as Lecturer in the subject of Mathematics with the approval of the DIOS and his services had been regularised on 12.12.1995 taking aid to section 33-B of the UP Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982. In such circumstances, the order recalling the order dated 31.12.2020, would certainly be resulting into denial of petitioner's right to draw salary and his continuance in the institution also gets prejudiced. This, as matter of fact and also in law has to be taken to have resulted in adverse civil consequences.

11. In the circumstances, therefore, the Regional Joint Director of Education was bound in law to give at least a notice to the petitioner which I do not see to be reflected from any of the recitals made in the order impugned. Counter affidavit is also silent regarding opportunity of hearing being ever afforded to the petitioner before passing the order impugned in the present petition.

12. In such circumstances, first point, (i) is decided in favor of petitioner and against the respondents and the order dated 31.12.2020 is held bad for non compliance of principles of natural justice.

13. Coming to the second point, (ii) with regard to the authority of the Regional Director of Education to pass order recalling the order cancelling the regularisation dated 12.12.1995 under his order dated 31.12.2020, I find it more appropriate to first look into the provisions as contained under Section 33-B of the Commission Act, 1982. Section 33-B (2) of the Commission Act refers to Regional Selection Committee for the purposes of consideration of regularisation of such ad-hoc teachers working against the substantive vacancy. The relevant provision is reproduced hereinunder:

"2) (a) For each region, there shall be a Selection Committee comprising?

(i) Regional Deputy Director of Education of that region, who shall be the Chairman,

(ii) One officer holding a Group 'A' post (specified as such by the State Government from time to time) in any department other than Education department, to be nominated by the State Government,

(iii) Regional Inspectors of Girls School of that region;

Provided that the Inspector of the district shall be co-opted as a member while considering the cases for regularization of that district.

(b) The Selection Committee constituted under clauses (a) shall consider the case of every such teacher and on being satisfied about his eligibility and suitability in view of the provisions of sub-section (1) shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (3) recommend his name to the Management for appointment under sub-section (1) in a substantive vacancy."

14. From bare reading of the aforesaid provision, it is clear that it is the Regional Joint Director of Education who shall be the Chairman and officer holding a post as specified by the State Government, of any department other than the education department was to be a nominated member of the State Government and DIOS of the concerned district shall be co-opted member to such committee. Thus, selection committee would consist of four members, three regular members to be appointed and one co-opted member.

15. In the circumstances, therefore, the regularisation dated 12.12.1995 must have been accorded to the petitioner under a decision taken by such a duly constituted Regional Selection Committee. Once the Regional Selection Committee had acted in the manner regularising the services of the petitioner, it was not open for the Regional Joint Director of Education to have reopened the controversy after almost 15 years on his own without even referring the matter to the Regional Selection Committee.

16. From the recitals made in the operative portion of the order, I do not find any whisper about any reference being even made to the Regional Selection Committee instead, all that had been was that, since petitioner fell within the category of prohibited degree of relation for the purposes of appointment under Section 16-GG(3) of the UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921, the appointment of the petitioner was held to be void ab initio.

17. In my considered view, once the regularisation of appointment has already taken place, such teacher becomes a permanent member of service and no such teacher's service can be dispensed with on the ground that there were some inherent lack of qualification at the time of initial appointment. The question could have been gone into by issuing a show cause notice holding an inquiry into the matter and so that option was open but this was not opted for. Therefore, in my considered view, the Regional Joint Director of Education was certainly not an authority as defined under Section 33-B (2) to have reopened the issue and reviewed the decision taken by the Regional Selection Committee. This power is not vested with the Regional Joint Director of Education. Therefore, on the second point also, the order dated 31.12.2020 passed by the Regional Joint Director of education is held unsustainable.

18. On the principle of coram non judice also the order passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education cannot be sustained. A court or an authority which is not vested with the power to deal with the matter if deals with such matter, then the resultant action is liable to be held as void ab initio. In the case of Pandurang & ors v. State of Maharasthra; 1986 (4) SCC 436, the Court has in quite unequivocal terms held that "even a 'right' decision by a 'wrong' forum is no decision. It is non-existent in the eye of law. And hence a nullity." Relying upon said judgement, Andhra Pradesh High Court in the matter D. Satyanarayana Rao v. Vasudev Asrani & anr; 2001 (3) ALD 510; 2001 SCC OnLine AP 325 held that an authority or Court if does not have the jurisdiction then such order would be a nullity. It was held therein that a defect of jurisdiction, goes to the root and strikes at the very authority that passes such order. Further, in the case of Rama Tyagi v. Delhi Development Authority; 2000 (4) L.L.N. 1103, the Delhi High Court set aside the order of removal from service for the reason that authority that had passed the order, was not empowered to do so.

19. Petitioner has already retired on 31.03.2023. In the circumstances, there is no point now in remitting the matter for any decision afresh by the Regional Selection Committee. In the case of Chandra Singh v State of Rajasthan & anr JT 2003 (6) SC 20, the Supreme Court thus:

"37. .....A departmental proceeding can continue so long as the employee is in service. In the event, a disciplinary proceeding is kept pending by the employer the employee cannot be made to retire. There must exist specific provision in the pension rules in terms whereof, whole or a part of the pension can be withheld or withdrawn wherefor a proceeding has to be initiated. Furthermore, no rule has also been brought to our notice providing for continuation of such proceeding despite permitting the employee concerned to retire. In absence of such a proceeding, the High Court or the State cannot contend that the departmental proceedings against the appellant Mata Deen Garg could continue."

20. It is well settled law that after a long gap of time, the old appointment orders cannot be reopened on the ground of initial lack of inherent qualification or eligibility. At least there is no such case here that petitioner was not eligible to be appointed except falling within a prohibited degree of relation and that too has been questioned by the petitioner because when initial appointment was made in the year 1985, he was not a married person.

21. I also find that petitioner has continued in employment since 1985 whereas marriage had taken place in the year 1987. In the circumstances, therefore, it cannot be said that petitioner while was given initial appointment, he was within the prohibited degree of

22. In view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 31.12.2020 passed by the Regional Joint Director of Education is hereby quashed. Consequences to follow.

23. Petitioner shall be paid entire arrears of salary. He shall also be given benefit of all retirement dues within two months' time from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ A No. 8845 of 2014

Vishnu Swaroop Sharma ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri V.K. Singh, Sri D.K. Singh, Sri Sankalp Narayan

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

A. Service Law – Constitution of India – Article 354-A – Disciplinary proceeding – Prior sanction of Governor – Proceeding was initiated before retirement and continuing after retirement – How far sanction is necessary – Held, if these proceedings were continued beyond his retirement on 21.05.2007 and culminated in the order impugned passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar on 22.06.2011, there was no necessity to obtain the Governor's sanction under Article 351-A of the Service Regulations – Necessity would have arisen only if the proceedings have been initiated post retirement; not otherwise. (Para 17)

B. Service Law – Disciplinary proceeding – Punishment – Award of adverse entry and withholding two increments with cumulative effect – Inordinate delay was occurred in concluding the proceeding – Effect – Seriousness of charges, how play as determining factor – Held, a charge, that is profoundly serious and widely impacts clean administration in the service, must not be allowed to die or wither away with time – However, if the charge(s) is (are) not very serious in the sense that these do not inevitably attract the imposition of a major penalty if proved, or by the nature of the acts, are not widely destructive of clean administration in service, an inordinate delay that features if the order of punishment were quashed on some other grounds and the proceedings revived, may be a good ground to import the principle about giving quietus to the disciplinary proceedings – Held further, the inordinate delay in the conclusion of disciplinary proceedings in the background of the nature and gravity of charges against the petitioner and the manner in which the respondents have acted, including the manifestly illegal order imposing penalty upon the petitioner, in our opinion, would require a quietus to be now given to these proceedings, resting it in the petitioner's favour. (Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This case has got a long and chequered history, where delay in conclusion of disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner has led to much suffering for him. But, as the course of proceedings would show, the petitioner himself is responsible in substantial measure for the delay that came about in consequence of an interim order passed by this Court, when he challenged his provisional reinstatement in service, revoking his suspension. At the centre stage of challenge in this writ petition is the order dated 22.06.2011 passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar, awarding the petitioner the punishment of withholding two increments with cumulative effect and awarding him an adverse entry, deciding the pending disciplinary proceedings by the said order. The other order impugned is the one dated 07.06.2012, fixing for the petitioner his salary by the District Supply Officer, Kanpur Nagar. The last under challenge is the order dated 25.04.2013 passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar.

2. The petitioner was appointed a Clerk in the office of the District Supply Officer, Kanpur. He was transferred from Kanpur Head Office to Akbarpur, situate in Kanpur Dehat in the year 1981. He was again transferred from Akbarpur to Kanpur in the year 1982 by an order of 9th December, 1992 passed by the District Supply Officer. The petitioner was transferred from Kanpur Nagar to Farrukhabad. He was placed under suspension pending inquiry and vide order dated 16.12.1983 passed by the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad. A charge-sheet was served upon the petitioner after a lapse of a year and a half on 19.06.1985. The petitioner submitted his reply to the charge-sheet aforesaid on 22.06.1987.

3. Some five years later, the suspension order dated 16.12.1983 was revoked by the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad vide order dated 27.05.1990 and the petitioner reinstated on a provisional basis. The District Magistrate, Farrukhabad by a memo dated 14.05.1991 issued a notice to the petitioner asking him to show cause why his services may not be terminated. The petitioner submitted his reply to the show cause on 24.06.1991. It is averred that after suspension from service on 16.12.1985, followed by the order dated 22.05.1985, disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner lingered on, which adversely affected the petitioner's right to be considered for promotion. It is also averred that no inquiry was undertaken, though the petitioner had submitted his reply to the charge-sheet way back on 22.06.1987, as already said.

4. It appears that inquiry into the charge-sheet dated 22.05.1985 was not at all undertaken and without concluding it, the petitioner was issued with the show cause notice dated 14.12.1991, already spoken of, where the District Magistrate asked him to show cause why his services may not be terminated. The basis of the show cause notice was a different charge altogether, that was not part of the charge-sheet dated 22.05.1985, as the petitioner asserts. In the circumstances, the petitioner instituted Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.22002 of 1991 before this Court, seeking to quash the pending disciplinary proceedings, presumably on the ground of inordinate delay. A further relief was sought by way of a mandamus commanding the respondents to transfer the petitioner from Kanpur to Farrukhabad and pay him his due salary for the period of suspension. In the said writ petition, an order was passed on 02.08.1991, directing the State to file a return within four weeks, and vide interim order, it was pro*vide*d that departmental proceedings against the petitioner may continue, but final orders shall not be pronounced until further orders of this Court.

5. The interim order dated 02.08.1991 was vacated vide order dated 09.04.2004. It appears that the order dated 09.04.2004 was not communicated to the respondents, and, therefore, no final orders were made in the pending disciplinary proceedings. Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.22002 of 1991 came up for hearing before this Court on 25.04.2007. By a judgment and order of that date, the writ petition was allowed on the ground of inordinate delay in concluding the inquiry, but limited to the relief of quashing the order of suspension. The petitioner made a further application, being Civil Misc. Modification Application No.162640 of 2007 before the learned Judge, who had allowed Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.22002 of 1991, seeking modification of the judgment and order dated 25.04.2007 to the extent that the pending disciplinary proceedings may also be quashed. This application was rejected by the learned Judge vide order dated 01.09.2007. Both the orders dated 25.04.2007 and 01.09.2007 were served by the petitioner upon the respondents through an application dated 13.09.2007.

6. There is slew of allegations in the writ petition that these orders were not complied with and a contempt application, bearing No.4360 of 2007 against Alok Kumar, the then District Magistrate and another contemnor was also filed. What the petitioner appears to say that the two orders passed in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.22002 of 1991 were not complied with, is that he was not given his consequential benefits, like increments and bonus, that was paid to other employees like him consequent upon his order of suspension being quashed. Also, the petitioner's grievance was that he was not considered for promotion like his juniors, who were considered and promoted during this period. The contempt application was dismissed with a remark that in case the petitioner has any grievance, it would be open to him to seek its redressal before the appropriate forum. It is noteworthy that while all this was happening, the petitioner attained the age of superannuation and retired from service on 31.05.2007. The complexion of the relief that the petitioner could secure, therefore, changed. The petitioner also says that apart from being denied his promotional avenues, pensionery benefits, gratuity, group insurance, bonus, due increment while in service and arrears on that account were never paid to the petitioner merely on the ground that he had suffered a suspension while in service. The petitioner in this case asserts the right that consequent upon quashing of the order of suspension, he is entitled to all those benefits that were his but for the suspension.

7. The respondents addressed two letters dated 16.10.2008 followed by another dated 10th August, 2009, requiring the petitioner to fill up his pension papers, and furnish necessary documents. Both the letters were replied to by the petitioner saying that he had fulfilled all the required formalities, duly applied and furnished all documents. The District Supply Officer, who had issued the last letter dated 10th August, 2009, was also informed to the above effect by the petitioner vide his letter dated 16.08.2009.

8. Since, the pensionery benefits worked out for the petitioner were far below his entitlement, he filed Writ-A

No.44729 of 2009 before this Court, seeking a direction to the respondents to pay him all his due service benefits, including pensionery benefits, appropriately revised, adding thereto increments and extending the benefits of pay revisions. The said writ petition was decided by this Court by a short order relegating the petitioner to the respondents, who were directed to consider the petitioner's case and pass appropriate orders in terms of the following order passed on 07.01.2013 in Writ-A No.44729 of 2009:

"The petitioner had filed the present writ petition praying for writ of mandamus commanding the respondents to pay and grant promotional benefit, pensionary benefit, gratuity, insurance, bonus, increment including arrears. During the pendency of the writ petition the relief claimed by the petitioner has been granted to a large extent.

The learned counsel for the petitioner, however contended that the calculation has wrongly been made, namely, that the calculation has been made on the basic salary whereas the calculation should have been made on the basis of basic salary revised from time to time.

In this regard, the petitioner may make an appropriate representation before the authority concerned. If such a representation is made, the authority concerned will consider and decide the matter by a reasoned and speaking order within three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

The writ petition is disposed of."

9. A certified copy of the aforesaid order was served by the petitioner upon the respondents along with a calculation charge of his due emoluments, which persons junior to him have received. The order was served along with representation dated 24.01.2023 in order to effectuate the order of this Court dated 07.01.2013 passed in the writ petition last mentioned. Nothing was communicated to the petitioner, and, therefore, he sought information under the Right to Information Act. It was thereupon that he received copies of two orders, one dated 07.06.2012 passed by the District Supply Officer, Kanpur Nagar and another dated 25.04.2013 passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar. The order of the District Supply Officer fixes the petitioner's pension and other emoluments, much below entitlement as the petitioner says. The other order, that is to say, the one passed by the District Magistrate on 25.04.2013, where it is noticeable that there is reference to another order passed by the District Magistrate, bearing No.2247 dated 22.06.2011, deciding the disciplinary proceedings, punishing the petitioner by withholding two increments with cumulative effect and awarding an adverse entry. This order for some reason had not been challenged by the petitioner, which in fact is the substantive order, deciding the disciplinary proceedings. It was challenged by making an amendment application after the remarks of this Court carried in the order dated 28.11.2017 passed in the present writ petition.

10. Now, therefore, what is under challenge is the order of the District Magistrate dated 22.06.2011 deciding the disciplinary proceedings and punishing the petitioner as aforesaid. The order of the District Supply Officer dated 07.06.2012 working out the petitioner's emoluments and post retiral benefits in terms of the District Magistrate's order of June, 2011 and the order dated 25.04.2013 passed by the District Magistrate, deciding the petitioner's representation and declining it in compliance with this Court's order dated 07.01.2013 passed in Writ-A No.44729 of 2009.

11. Heard Mr. Sankalp Narayan, Advocate holding brief of Mr. D.K. Singh, learned Counsel for the petitioner and Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the State.

12. It is argued by Mr. Sankalp Narayan, learned Counsel for the petitioner that no punishment could have been inflicted upon the petitioner after his retirement, without invoking Article 351-A of the Civil Service Regulations (for short, 'the Service Regulations'), which exclusively empowers the Governor to pass appropriate orders sanctioning proceedings against a retired employee and the imposition of punishment. It is submitted that the petitioner retired from service on 31.05.2007, but the order of punishment impugned was passed by the District Magistrate on 22.06.2011, without obtaining the Governor's sanction under Article 351-A. Reliance in support of his contention is placed by the learned Counsel for the petitioner upon a Bench decision of this Court in Gaya Prasad Yadav v. State of U.P. and others, 2022 (11) ADJ 287 (DB) (LB); an unreported decision of the learned Single Judge in Sharda Prasad Verma v. State of U.P. and others, Writ-A No.9826 of 2013, decided on 03.04.2023 and the authority of the Supreme Court in Dev Prakash Tewari v. Uttar Pradesh Cooperative Institutional Service Board, Lucknow and others, (2014) 7 SCC 260.

13. Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has refuted the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the petitioner. He submits that the petitioner is a government servant and it is common ground that the Service Regulations, including Article 351-A apply to him. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that there is no embargo upon the government to continue inquiry proceedings initiated against an employee before his retirement, after he retires from service. No sanction by the Governor is required in such a case.

14. I have keenly considered the aforesaid submission and found that there is no cavil that the petitioner is a government servant, to whom the Service Regulations apply. Article 351-A of the Service Regulations pro*vide*s:

"351–A The Governor reserves to himself the right of withholding or withdrawing a pension or any part of it, whether permanently or for a specified period and the right of ordering the recovery from a pension of the whole or part of any pecuniary loss caused to Government, if the pensioner is found in departmental or judicial proceedings to have been guilty of grave misconduct, or to have caused. Pecuniary loss to government by misconduct or Negligence, during his service, including service rendered on re-employment after retirement;

Pro*vide*d that—

(a) such departmental proceedings, if not instituted while the officer was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment—

(i) shall not be instituted save with the sanction of the Governor,

(ii) shall be in respect of an event which took place not more than four years before the institution of such proceedings, and

(iii) shall be conducted by such authority and in such place or places as the Governor may direct and in accordance with the procedure applicable to proceedings on which an order of dismissal from service may be made.

(b) judicial proceedings, if not instituted while the officer was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment, shall have been instituted in accordance with sub-clause (ii) of clause (a), and

(c) the Public Service Commission, U.P., shall be consulted before final orders are passed.

Explanation—For the purposes of this article—

(a) departmental proceedings shall be deemed to have been instituted when the charges framed against the pensioner are issued to him, or, if the officer has been placed under suspension from an earlier date, on such date; and

(b) judicial proceedings shall be deemed to have been instituted :

(i) in the case of criminal proceedings, on the date on which a complaint is made, or a charge-sheet is submitted, to a criminal court; and

(ii) in the case of civil proceedings, on the date on which the plaint is presented or, as the case may be, an application is made, to a civil court.

NOTE—As soon as proceedings of the nature referred to in this article are instituted the authority which institutes such proceedings shall without delay intimate the fact to the Audit Officer concerned."

15. Apparently, there is embargo on the power of the Disciplinary Authority from initiating departmental proceeding against an officer, who has retired from service, except with the sanction of the Governor. This is the clear mandate of clause (I) of proviso (a) to Article 351-A of the Service Regulations. The embargo is upon institution of proceedings after an officer's retirement from service without the Governor's sanction. There is absolutely no prohibition on the continuance of departmental proceedings that have already been instituted while the Officer was in service and before his retirement or during re-employment. The question fell for consideration of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. and others v. Harihar Bholenath, (2006) 13 SCC 460. In Harihar Bholenath (supra), it was observed by their Lordships:

"12. It is not in dispute that the respondent was placed under suspension before he reached his age of superannuation. A departmental proceeding was not only initiated against him, but an enquiry officer was also appointed. The order of suspension, however, remained stayed by a judicial order. But the same paled into insignificance once the employee reached the age of superannuation. By reason of the same, however, the legal fiction created in regard to the point of time when the enquiry proceeding would be deemed to have commenced was not effaced.

13. Thus, only because the enquiry proceeding was actually started after superannuation of the respondent, the same would not mean that the enquiry proceeding had not been initiated. The right to initiate proceedings which would include a right to continue the proceedings was with the Governor. Sanction of the Governor is required to be obtained when proceedings are initiated by an authority other than the Governor.

14. The proceedings for recovery of the amount from a government servant can be passed in the event he is held to be guilty of grave misconduct or caused pecuniary loss to the Government by his misconduct or negligence during his service. Some procedural safeguards, however, have been laid down in terms of proviso appended thereto, including the requirement to obtain an order of sanction of the Governor. Such order of sanction, however, would not be necessary if the departmental proceedings have been initiated while the delinquent was on duty. Proviso appended to Regulation 351-A merely controls the main proceedings. The same would apply in the exigencies of the situation envisaged therein, namely, even (sic when) the proceedings were initiated after retirement and not prior thereto."

16. This principle was followed in a Bench decision of this Court in Gaya Prasad Yadav (supra), where it was held:

"18. It is, thus, clear that after retirement, withholding or withdrawing a pension and ordering the recovery from pension is permissible to be caused only by the Governor e. the State Government in terms of the Rules of Business, not only in case such employee is found causing pecuniary loss to the Government by his misconduct or negligence but also in a cases when the employee concerned is found guilty of grave misconduct.

19. The provision of first proviso appended to Article 351-A of the CSR clearly prohibits Institution of departmental proceedings except with the sanction of Governor if such proceedings were not instituted while the employee was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment. Thus, Article 351-A of CSR puts a prohibition of nitiating the departmental proceedings in a case of retired government servant, however, such proceedings are permissible to be instituted with the sanction of Governor, that too, in respect of an event which took place not more than four years before institution of such proceedings. The provision further pro*vide*s that departmental enquiry in such an event shall be conducted by such authority and at such place as the Governor may direct and in accordance with the procedure applicable.

20. Accordingly, we are of the considered opinion that in the instant case, since the departmental proceedings were already instituted against the appellant-petitioner prior to his retirement on attaining the age of superannuation, no sanction under Article 351- A of the CSR was required to be taken from the Governor. This view is fully supported by the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Harihar Bholenath (supra). To this extent we do not find any error in the judgment of learned Single Judge which is under appeal herein."

17. In the present case, disciplinary proceedings were initiated way back on 16.12.1983, when the petitioner was placed under suspension. A charge-sheet was issued to him on 19.06.1985. Therefore, if these proceedings were continued beyond his retirement on 21.05.2007 and culminated in the order impugned passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar on 22.06.2011, there was no necessity to obtain the Governor's sanction under Article 351-A of the Service Regulations. That necessity would have arisen only if the proceedings have been initiated post retirement; not otherwise.

18. In this view of the matter, the first submission advanced by the learned Counsel for the petitioner cannot be accepted.

19. The next submission, that is canvassed by the learned Counsel for the petitioner, is that in the absence of a specific Rules, authorizing infliction of punishment after retirement, no punishment can be imposed. Reliance in support of this proposition is placed by the learned Counsel on Dev Prakash Tewari (supra) and upon the authority of the Supreme Court in Anant R. Kulkarni v. Y.P. Education Society and others, (2013) 6 SCC 515. The principle in both these authorities, relevant to the submission, turns on the fact if in the establishment where the employee serves, there are any Rules authorizing continuance of disciplinary proceedings against a retired employee. In Dev Prakash Tewari, it was held by the Supreme Court:

"5. We have carefully considered the rival submissions. The facts are not in dispute. The High Court while quashing the earlier disciplinary proceedings on the ground of violation of principles of natural justice in its order dated 10-1-2006 [D.P. Tewari v. U.P. Coop. Institutional Service Board, Writ Petition (S/B) No. 4328 of 1988, order dated 10-1-2006 (All)] granted liberty to initiate the fresh inquiry in accordance with the Regulations. The appellant who was reinstated in service on 26-4-2006 and fresh disciplinary proceeding was initiated on 7-7-2006 and while that was pending, the appellant attained the age of superannuation and retired on 31-3-2009. There is no provision in the Uttar Pradesh Cooperative Societies Employees' Service Regulations, 1975, for initiation or continuation of disciplinary proceeding after retirement of the appellant nor is there any provision stating that in case misconduct is established a deduction could be made from his retiral benefits."

(emphasis by Court)

20. Dev Prakash Tewari was a case, which turned on the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Cooperative Societies Employees' Service Regulations, 1975 and the said Regulations did not pro*vide* for initiation or continuance of disciplinary proceedings after retirement of an employee. The Regulations aforesaid also did not pro*vide* for deduction from the employee's post retiral benefits, in case the misconduct was established after his retirement. It is in those circumstances that their Lordships held that proceedings after the employee's retirement could not be continued in the absence of a provision in the Rules authorizing that course of action. In the present case, the relevant Services Rules applicable are Service the Service Regulations. It has already been held that Article 351-A of the Service Regulations does not at all forbid the continuance of disciplinary proceedings commenced before retirement of an employ, post retirement. It does not require any sanction by the Governor. Therefore, the contention of the learned Counsel for the petitioner on this score deserves to be rejected.

21. The next submission that has been pressed in aid by the learned Counsel for the petitioner is that on account of the inordinate and explained delay, that has occurred in concluding the disciplinary proceedings, the impugned order deserves to be quashed. It is pointed out that proceedings against the petitioner commenced with his suspension from service vide order dated 16.12.1983 and concluded with the impugned order dated 22.06.2011 passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar, that was passed four years after his retirement on 31.05.2007 in the interregnum. There is absolutely no reason, according to the learned Counsel for the petitioner, why these proceedings should have lingered on for son long. He submits that this kind of an inordinate and oppressive delay is prejudice in itself and a good ground to quash the impugned order passed much after the petitioner's retirement from service.

22. On the other hand, Mr. Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, has refuted the above submission and says that the delay in conclusion of the disciplinary proceedings has been contributed much to by the petitioner himself. In support of this submission of his, Mr. Tripathi points out that the departmental proceedings remained withheld under interim orders passed by this Court on 02.08.1991 on the petitioner's behest in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.22002 of 1991 until 09.04.2004, when the said order was vacated at an interlocutory stage of the said petition and before judgment. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, therefore, submits that the petitioner has contributed a period of time little shy of 14 years to the delay that has been occasioned in the conclusion of the disciplinary proceedings.

23. This Court has carefully considered this most vital submission advanced by learned Counsel for the parties.

24. The delay in the conclusion of disciplinary proceedings is regarded with considerable reservation as a ground to quash a charge-sheet or pending disciplinary proceedings. The principles in that regard, with some modification, will apply to a plea, where an order made at the conclusion of disciplinary proceedings, inflicting penalty, is assailed. This question arose for consideration before the Supreme Court in Anant R. Kulkarni (supra), where it was observed:

"Enquiry at belated stage

14. The court/tribunal should not generally set aside the departmental enquiry, and quash the charges on the ground of delay in initiation of disciplinary proceedings, as such a power is dehors the limits of judicial review. In the event that the court/tribunal exercises such power, it exceeds its power of judicial review at the very threshold. Therefore, a charge-sheet or show-cause notice, issued in the course of disciplinary proceedings, cannot ordinarily be quashed by the court. The same principle is applicable in relation to there being a delay in conclusion of disciplinary proceedings. The facts and circumstances of the case in question must be carefully examined taking into consideration the gravity/magnitude of the charges involved therein. The court has to consider the seriousness and magnitude of the charges and while doing so the court must weigh all the facts, both for and against the delinquent officers and come to the conclusion which is just and proper considering the circumstances involved. The essence of the matter is that the court must take into consideration all relevant facts, and balance and weigh the same, so as to determine, if it is in fact in the interest of clean and honest administration that the said proceedings are allowed to be terminated only on the ground of delay in their conclusion. 25. For one, the principle appears to have been laid down in the context of plea seeking premature termination of disciplinary proceedings on the ground of delay. There would be some inherent lack of wisdom to quash proceedings on the ground of delay after they have reached a terminus, where the conclusions and the result with whatever delay is already there. Perhaps, the only exception in a situation after the Disciplinary Authority has passed final orders even with an inordinate delay, would be if the order of the Disciplinary Authority is found otherwise vitiated, requiring a remand, and, a fortiori a further continuance of ancient proceedings.

26. This Court is mindful of the fact that in applying any principle that has the effect of preventing disciplinary proceedings to reach their logical terminus, must always be informed by the consideration of the seriousness of charges involved in the matter. A charge, that is profoundly serious and widely impacts clean administration in the service, must not be allowed to die or wither away with time. However, if the charge(s) is (are) not very serious in the sense that these do not inevitably attract the imposition of a major penalty if proved, or by the nature of the acts, are not widely destructive of clean administration in service, an inordinate delay that features if the order of punishment were quashed on some other grounds and the proceedings revived, may be a good ground to import the principle about giving quietus to the disciplinary proceedings.

27. Here, what has to be noticed is that the petitioner was suspended pending inquiry on 16.12.1983 and the charge-sheet issued to him a year and a half later on 19.06.1985. This charge-sheet carried three charges, to which allusion would be made shortly. A fourth charge was added to the existing charge-sheet dated 22.05.1985 by the Disciplinary Authority, the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad by an endorsement dated 09.12.1985. While these proceedings were pending, the petitioner was served with a most illegal order by the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad dated 14th May, 1991.

28. It was a show cause notice, which takes note of the fact that disciplinary proceedings are pending against the petitioner after his suspension from service vide order dated 16.12.1983 and his provisional reinstatement done on 27.05.1990. The show cause notice dated 14th May, 1991 says that there has been no improvement in his work and conduct and the petitioner does not take interest in government work, but obstructs the public distribution system, which is against the Service Rules. He was, therefore, required to show cause why his services be not terminated. This show cause was not based on the report of an inquiry into the charge, but dehors those proceedings. It carried vague allegations. This show cause notice dated 14th May, 1991, issued by the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad, was ex facie the most illegal thing to do.

29. The District Magistrate could not apparently proceed to terminate the services of a permanent employee by merely issuing him a show cause notice, without holding disciplinary proceedings, that independent of this show cause notice were already pending on the said date. After all, the show cause notice was not traceable to the District Magistrate's authority to dismiss or remove the petitioner under Clause (b) of the Second Proviso to Article 311 (2) of the Constitution, or any Service Rule similarly empowering the Disciplinary Authority to dispense with an inquiry after recording reasons in writing that it was not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry. This show cause notice was a great diversion and a contributor delay in the already highly delayed course of the pending disciplinary proceedings, that were then in progress on the basis of the charge-sheet dated 22.05.1985. This show cause notice apparently led the petitioner to challenge the departmental proceedings pending against him, seeking these to be quashed, besides the issue of a mandamus directing the respondents to transfer him from Kanpur to Farrukhabad by means of a writ petition, being Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.22002 of 1991. He also added by amendment some relief to the said petition, seeking promotion and the grant of annual increments, besides other service benefits like seniority etc.

30. This Court, perhaps noticing the show cause notice issued to the petitioner, passed an interim order dated 02.08.1991, while issuing notice, directing that the departmental proceedings against the petitioner may continue, but final orders shall not be made until further orders. Apparently, there was no interference with the show cause notice and the pending disciplinary proceedings were not interdicted either by this Court. All that was done was that the respondents were forbidden from passing final orders in the disciplinary proceedings. The inquiry could nevertheless be held and everything done, but the recording of final orders disposing of the disciplinary matter.

31. A perusal of the record shows that an inquiry of whatever kind into the charges against the petitioner was held and the inquiry report submitted to the Disciplinary Authority on 02.05.1997, but no orders could be made thereon, considering of course the interim order, that was passed on 02.08.1991. The interim order aforesaid was vacated on 09.04.2004. After the interim order was vacated, given the fact that an inquiry report dated 02.05.1997 had already been submitted to the Disciplinary Authority, the disciplinary proceedings were not carried forward to their logical conclusion and decided until the petitioner's retirement from service upon attaining the age of superannuation on 31.05.2007. There is absolutely no reason shown why these proceedings were not disposed of after this Court vacated the interim order dated 09.04.2004 and before the petitioner's retirement on 31.05.2007. The proceedings instead continued after the petitioner's retirement until 22.06.2011, when the impugned order of that date was passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar, punishing the petitioner on three of the four charges found proved with imposition of the major penalty of permanent withholding of two increments together with the award of an adverse entry.

32. The calendar of events from the petitioner's suspension from service pending inquiry on 16.12.1983 to the final orders, disposing of the disciplinary proceedings, passed by the District Magistrate dated 22.06.2011, would show that it took in all a period of 28 years for the respondents to conclude the proceedings. In this period of time, if one were to examine the first lap of these proceedings, where nothing prevented the respondents from deciding them, it would appear that from 16.12.1983 to 02.08.1991, there was no interim order forbidding the respondents from concluding the proceedings. Post suspension, the charge-sheet was issued on 19.06.1985, as already said, after a year and a half of the petitioner's suspension. The petitioner submitted his reply to the charge-sheet on 22.06.1987, which seems to be a rather delayed act on the petitioner's part. But, given the fact that the petitioner's reply was there before the respondents to the charges by June of 1987, a defisce understanding what took them all this while in not going ahead in concluding the disciplinary proceedings, until the District Magistrate committed the misadventure of issuing a show cause notice to the petitioner dated 14th May, 1991, asking him to show cause for reasons mentioned there why his services may not be terminated dehors the pending disciplinary proceedings, as already noticed.

33. No doubt, after this Court passed the order dated 02.08.1991, the respondents could not proceed to decide the disciplinary proceedings until that order was vacated on 09.04.2004, but again, as already noticed, nothing prevented them from concluding the inquiry and keeping matters at a stage that just awaited recording of final orders. We have already said that final orders could be passed immediately after the interim order dated 02.08.1991 was vacated on 09.04.2004. This never happened and all the rest of the culpable delay that was caused by the respondents' laxity has been noticed for every detail of it. The petitioner retired on 31.05.2007 and the disciplinary proceedings were concluded by the District Magistrate's order dated 22.06.2011. What took the District Magistrate all this time between 09.04.2004 when the interim order was vacated and 22.06.2011 when he passed final orders, is inexplicable. It is just irresponsible delay on the respondents' part, particularly, the District Magistrate; nothing else.

34. This Court must say that the course of disciplinary proceedings in the present case, which includes the misconceived show cause notice issued by the District Magistrate on 14.05.1991 exhibits extreme lethargy on the respondents' part in responding to their duties. The officials of the State in discharging their public functions have to act with a missionary zeal, but the present case shows just the opposite of it. It discloses a typical official non-concern about the duties and responsibilities, with which officers concerned at the relevant time, were charged. It shows nonchalance to say the least.

35. This Court must also remark that the time schedule of disciplinary proceedings in any case, including the present one is something that rests in the hands of the establishment. If an employee does not cooperate with the proceedings, the establishment always have the liberty to proceed ex parte in accordance with law. Of course, they have to prove the charges by e*vide*nce and not hold them proved by default. Nothing of that kind was done in this case for the two long spells from 16.12.1983 to 02.08.1991 and from 09.04.2004 until culmination of proceedings on 22.06.2011. This Court, therefore, has no hesitation in holding that the proceedings in this case were indeed unduly delayed beyond permissible limits, causing gross prejudice to the petitioner. Still, that is not a ground in itself to quash the order of punishment that has ultimately come to be made. If one looks to the impugned order dated 22.06.2011 passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar, there is no cavil there that the Inquiry Officer, out of the four charges, has held Charge No.2 proved and Charges Nos.1 and 4 partly proved. Charge No.3 has been held not proved for want of e*vide*nce.

36. A reading of the impugned order dated 22.06.2011 passed by the District Magistrate shows it to be ex facie illegal and vitiated. It betrays utter lack of application of mind and does nothing more than to refer to the various events during the course of proceedings. There is no meaningful consideration of the three charges, the petitioner's defence, the findings of the Inquiry Officer recorded in his inquiry report dated 02.05.1997 and reasons for the District Magistrate's conclusions, howsoever brief to agree with the Inquiry Officer on the three charges found proved and partly proved. At the end of a reference to the proceedings, there is a cryptic remark that the charges are serious, followed by an abrupt conclusion to punish the petitioner, imposing upon him the penalty of withholding two increments with cumulative effect etc. It is also noteworthy to mention that though in the impugned order, there is a reference to the inquiry report dated 02.05.1997, a copy of this report has not appeared on the record along with the respondents' return. There is not even the slightest discussion in the impugned order about the findings of the Inquiry Officer carried in his report, the e*vide*nce considered by him to reach his conclusions, and if at all the petitioner was given opportunity to show cause against those findings. This kind of an utterly opaque decision making without the slightest reason indicated for the conclusions reached, cannot qualify for a valid order made in disciplinary proceedings, adversely affecting the petitioner's right. For the said reason, the impugned order dated 22.06.2011 passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar cannot be sustained and has to be quashed.

37. It is at this stage that the question arises: Should this Court permit the respondents to resume the proceedings against the petitioner, a retired man, who has been subjected to the most prolix departmental proceedings throughout his career, not for a commensurate fault on his part? It is here that the gravity of the charges against the petitioner would become relevant. For if the charges found proved are grave, the mere factum of inordinate delay in concluding the departmental proceedings, may ultimately be outweighed by larger public interest. It, therefore, becomes imperative to see what were precisely the charges that were found proved against the petitioner. This takes us to the charge-sheet dated 22.05.1985 issued by the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad. This charge-sheet is in two parts. The charge-sheet that was issued on 22.05.1985 carried three charges. To this, a fourth was added by the District Magistrate, Farrukhabad by his note dated 19.06.1985. The charges against the petitioner, the three originally framed and the fourth added on 19.06.1985, read:

"1- आयुक्त इलाहाबाद मण्डल, इलाहाबाद के आदेश सं० 216 (Sic) 40.84.81 दिनांक 16.10.82 द्वारा जनपद कानपुर नगर से आपका स्थानान्तरण इस जनपद फर्रूखाबाद में श्री सुरेश कुमार पाठक पूर्ति लिपि के स्थान पर हुआ था। तद्नुसार आपको जिला पूर्ति कार्यालय कानपुर नगर ने दिनांक 9.12.82

38. The first charge as aforesaid relates to the petitioner's act in not joining the station of transfer at Farrukhabad upon being transferred from Kanpur Nagar vide order dated 16.10.1982. The petitioner has been charged with unauthorized absence from duty for a period of about 16 months from 06.09.1982 to 26.04.1984. The second charge is about the petitioner canvassing his case through his wife for the cancellation of his transfer with the Commissioner, Food and Civil Supplies, Lucknow, that is said to be in violation of Rule 27 of the relevant Service Rules. The third charge is about the issue of forged permits relating to cement and selling cement in the black market. The fourth charge is based on facts that after his transfer from Kanpur Nagar to Farrukhabad in compliance with an order of the Commissioner, Allahabad Division, Allahabad dated 16.10.1982, there was information from the Assistant Commissioner, Food and Civil Supplies that the petitioner was making efforts to ensure his transfer back to Kanpur Nagar or his attachment there, which amounts to exertion of undue influence upon officials in violation of the relevant Service Rules.

39. A reading of these charges would show that while the third charge about forging permits relating to cement and selling cement in the black-market is most serious of them all. It has not been proved at all for want of e*vide*nce. The first and the fourth charges have been found partly proved. The first is somewhat serious, being a case about unauthorized absence for a long period of time, but considering that much of the absence could be adjusted against leave, if any due, or otherwise held to be leave without pay. There is not much of public interest relevant involved in the said charge under the peculiar facts obtaining in this case. These peculiar facts include the inordinate delay in disposing of the disciplinary proceedings. Also, since the first charge has been found partly proved and a copy of the inquiry report has not been placed before the Court before the Court, it is not known how much of the case of unauthorized absence has in fact been found proved by the Inquiry Officer. This feature of the extent of proof of the charge has also not at all been discussed by the Disciplinary Authority in the order impugned, which we have already held to be utterly cryptic.

40. So far as the second and the fourth charges are concerned, these are about the petitioner canvassing his case to secure his transfer back to Kanpur Nagar. This kind of a charge may make the employee an undisciplined hand, but the charges in essence are not very serious. It can invite a frown and some punishment, but certainly not major penalty. Also, out of these two Charges Nos.2 and 4, relating to unauthorized canvassing for a transfer back to Kanpur Nagar, Charge No.2 has been found proved while the fourth has been found partly proved. It is not known how much of it, has been found proved for reason that neither the inquiry report has been placed before the Court by the respondents nor the findings in the said report discussed by the Disciplinary Authority in the order impugned dated 22.06.2011. This then being the profile about the gravity of the charges found proved against the petitioner, in the considered opinion of this Court, it would not at all be condign to the misconduct alleged against him, to throw open the matter again before the respondents to pass orders afresh in the disciplinary proceedings. The inordinate delay in the conclusion of disciplinary proceedings in the background of the nature and gravity of charges against the petitioner and the manner in which the respondents have acted, including the manifestly illegal order imposing penalty upon the petitioner, in our opinion, would require a quietus to be now given to these proceedings, resting it in the petitioner's favour.

41. So far as the two other impugned orders are concerned, that is to say, the order dated 07.06.2012 passed by the District Supply Officer, Kanpur Nagar fixing the petitioner's salary and post retiral benefits and the further order passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar dated 25.04.2013 are concerned, the same would have to be quashed because these have been made in consequence of the impugned order dated 22.06.2011, imposing penalty upon the petitioner. Of course, it will be open to the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar and the District Supply Officer, Kanpur Nagar to determine the petitioner's salary and post retiral benefits afresh after purging their earlier determination of the effect of the order dated 22.06.2011, ordering withholding of the two increments and the adverse entry.

42. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned orders dated 22.06.2011 and 25.04.2013 passed by the District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar and the order dated 07.06.2012 passed by the District Supply Officer, Kanpur Nagar are hereby quashed. The District Magistrate, Kanpur Nagar and the District Supply Officer, Kanpur Nagar are ordered to revise and redetermine the petitioner's emoluments during the period of his service as also his post retiral benefits, free from the effect of the impugned order dated 22.06.2011, since quashed by this judgment.

43. There shall be no order as to costs.

Versus
The State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Sri Shivendu Ojha, Sri S.R.K. Ojha, Sri Niyodit Tripathi, Sri Radha Kant Ojha (Sr. Advocate)

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C., Sri Bhupendra Nath Singh, ,Sri Prabhakar Awasthi, Sri Pramendra Pratap Singh, Sri Manoj Kumar Singh

A. Service Law – Post of Assistant Professor – Qualification – Rejection of candidature – Ground of not securing second division marks in the concern subject was taken – Though the petitioner has secured 45% marks, but the Rajasthan University does not provide Second Division at that percentage of marks – Rejection challenged – Held, the prescribed qualification cannot be held to be arbitrary and if the employer asks for a relevant degree in a particular division then a candidate must possess that. The candidate cannot question the eligibility conditions led in the advertisement only because his university prescribes Second Division at a higher percentage marks than other universities. (Para 10 and 12)

B. Interpretation of statute – Meaningful interpretation – Use of word 'or' – Disjunctive word, how far can be read as conjunctive – Held, rule of interpretation is to find a provision meaningful and sensible and whatever leads to absurdity is to be shunned – Normal rule is that a disjunctive word cannot be read conjunctively as it may lead to an extreme interpretation to give meaning to a sentence or provision contrary to or in access of what rule making authority or legislature might have intended. However, at times if disjunctive word is read as conjunctive, it would make a provision more meaningful and will lead to understand real import of the provision. (Para 14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Nityodit Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Manoj Kumar Singh, learned Advocate appearing for the UP Higher Education Service Commission, Sri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned counsel appearing for 5th respondent and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution, petitioner has prayed for quashing of order by which his candidature came to be cancelled holding him not eligible for appointment as Assistant Professor in a postgraduate college for he having not secured Second Division marks in the relevant subject in which he has an undergraduate degree.

3. Basic argument advanced by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is that earlier qualification was degree in the relevant subject with 50% marks which subsequently came to be amended as degree in the relevant subject or degree in Second Division.

4. Two fold arguments have been advanced: firstly, the word 'or' being disjunctive, it means there should be undergraduate degree in the relevant subject or degree with second division marks as per the earlier rule and, therefore, it could either be a case of having a degree of relevant subject or having a degree with second division marks; and secondly, the Second Division marks which is required now to be obtained by a candidate which would be considered as per the marks that are generally to be assigned to form a Second Division degree upon a general standard scale which is 45.5% by some universities.

5. Sri Ojha, however, admits that as far as Rajasthan University is concerned, it does not provide a Second Division below to 48% marks and on that count, the petitioner would not be having Second Division degree as he has degree from that university.

6. Per contra, it is argued by learned counsel for respondent- UP Higher Education Service Commission as well as learned Standing Counsel that even by amendment, the Rules stand on the same footing with an adjustment on the second division which would have lower side marks than fifty percent (50%), but a candidate is to have necessarily a Second Division degree and that too in the relevant subject.

7. In support of the above argument, it is submitted that the word 'or' is to be read as 'and' in conjunction to two preceding and succeeding words as it will give an effective meaning to what the rule making authority had intended and, therefore, applying the rule of interpretation, it is argued that if the word 'or' is read as 'and' then the candidate should have a degree in the relevant subject with second division marks.

8. It is further argued on behalf of Commission as also the State respondents that a candidate is required to produce a Second Division degree in the relevant subject and, therefore, it hardly matters whether there is 50% or 48% marks and if the University does not confer upon a candidate with a second division degree, such a candidate would definitely not be eligible for appointment as Assistant Professor as he was not possessing the requisite qualification.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the records, I find that advertisement issued by the UP Higher Education Service Commission very categorically prescribed the essential qualification for a candidate to have Second Division degree in the relevant subject. The relevant clause of advertisement 6.1.4 is reproduced hereunder:

*शासन के पत्रांक 1129/सत्तर-1-2013-15(14)/32/टी.सी./दिनांक 04 दिसंबर, 2013 द्वार उत्तम शैक्षिक अभिलेख को "सुसंगत स्नातक उपाधि या उपाधियों में न्युनतम द्वितीय श्रेणी प्राप्तांक" निर्धारित किया गया है।

10. The word and expression '?????? ??????' means that a candidate of-course should be graduate in the relevant subject in which the post is required to be filled and then he should be having a Second Division degree. Petitioner though of-course has secured 45% marks, but the Rajasthan University from where he has obtained degree does not provide Second Division at that percentage of marks. Merely because some other universities prescribe for 45.5% or above as Second Division, in my considered view, it will not make any difference.

11. This aspect has previously traveled to this Court and the Division Bench in Shailendra Kumar Bharati vs. State of UP & ors in Writ-A No.97 of 2015, dated 12.01.2015 dismissed the writ petition wherein similar plea was taken as is raised in this petition. The relevant part of the judgment dated 12.01.2015 is reproduced hereinunder:

"We have considered the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties. The advertisement issued by the Commission specifically requires that candidates should have obtained a second division at the Graduate level.The petitioner admittedly passed the Graduation examination with a third division. The petitioner cannot be permitted to contend that since some of the Universities grant a second division on obtaining 45% marks, the University from where the petitioner did his graduation should also grant a second division to the petitioner. It is for each University to decide this academic matter relating to grant of a division in the examination conducted by it. Likewise, the petitioner cannot also be permitted to contend that a relaxation of 5% marks should be given to him because he belongs to Scheduled Castes candidate, as the Rules/Regulations do not provide for grant of such a benefit."

12. The prescribed qualification cannot be held to be arbitrary and if the employer asks for a relevant degree in a particular division then a candidate must possess that. The candidate cannot question the eligibility conditions led in the advertisement only because his university prescribes Second Division at a higher percentage marks than other universities. This issue is open for the petitioner to raise with the university as discrimination can be attributable to the statute of that university. The Commission cannot be held to be responsible in any manner for laying down such conditions, nor such conditions appear to be arbitrary and discriminatory. Earlier, 50% marks for teaching post prescribed for, was even held to be not bad by this Court in Writ-A No.70918 of 2009 (Sushil Kumar Gupta vs. State of UP & ors) decided on 23.12.2009. Similarly, the advertisement came to be challenged before this Court in the case of Vinay Kumar vs. State of UP & ors in Writ-A No.26287 of 2018, dated 12.12.2018, wherein the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court followed the judgment of Shailendra Kumar Bharati (supra) and dismissed the petition vide order dated 12.12.2018.

14. Even otherwise, rule of interpretation is to find a provision meaningful and sensible and whatever leads to absurdity is to be shunned. Normal rule is that a disjunctive word cannot be read conjunctively as it may lead to an extreme interpretation to give meaning to a sentence or provision contrary to or in access of what rule making authority or legislature might have intended. However, at times if disjunctive word is read as conjunctive, it would make a provision more meaningful and will lead to understand real import of the provision. Lord Halsbury L.C. observed in Mersey Docks & Harbour Board vs. Henderson; LR (1888) 13 AC 603 that the reading of 'or' as 'and' is not to be resorted to "unless some other part of the same statue or the clear intention of it requires that to be done." Thus, there has to be reasons genuine to use a disjunctive word as conjunctive to have meaningful interpretation. Here in the case in hand the disjunctive word 'or' if not used as conjunctive word 'and', no meaningful purpose is going to be served. A candidate if is said to possess a degree in concerned subject/discipline or a degree in Second Division, it would mean either to have degree in the concerned subject or discipline or otherwise any degree with second division marks. This, interpretation if accepted it will make first part of possession to have degree in relevant subject absolutely irrelevant as one would be then required to have second division degree in any subject. This is neither the intention behind the condition, nor the purpose. The authority could have provided that a candidate should have second Division Degree and relevant subject degree as preferential qualification or vise versa. Thus, in my considered view here the disjunctive 'or' is to read as conjunctive word 'and' it makes not only sense but gives a meaningful interpretation to the entire provision.

15. In the case of Indore Development Authority v. Manoharlal & ors; 2020 (8) SCC 129, the Constitution Bench observed that if there were two prohibitions used, the word 'or' is to be read as 'and or as 'nor'. The Court was interpreting provision as contained under Section 24(2) of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation Act, 2013. The issue was as to interpretation of sentence 'either possession taken or compensation paid". The Court held so to bring an end to proceedings under the old Act as it would be taken to have lapsed in the event both the conditions were attained. The Court vide paragraph 352 observed thus:

"352. There is a plethora of decisions where, owing to delay of 6 months or more, this Court has repelled the challenge to the acquisition proceedings. In our opinion, Section 24 does not revive the right to challenge those proceedings which have been concluded. The legality of those judgments and orders cannot which be reopened or questioned under the guise of the provisions of Section 24(2). By reason of our reasoning in respect of that provision [which we have held But under Section 24(2) that word "or" is to be read as "and" or as "nor", even if one of the requirements has been fulfilled i.e. either possession taken or compensation paid], there is no lapse unless both conditions are fulfilled i.e compensation has not been paid nor has possession been taken; the legality of the concluded proceedings cannot be questioned. It is only in the case where steps have not been taken by the authorities. The lapse or higher compensation is provided under Section 24(2) and its proviso under the 2013 Act."

16. Thus, in view of the exposition of law and rule of interpretation, I do not find any merit in the submissions of learned Senior Advocate, Mr. R.K. Ojha. Writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

17. There will be no order as to cost.

A. Service Law – Disciplinary proceeding – Removal from service – Earlier proceeding was quashed by the High Court giving liberty to proceed afresh – Even during fresh proceeding, no charge-sheet was served – There was no postal remark of refusal – No time was fixed to conclude inquiry – No evidence was led by establishment – Effect – Held, the proceeding are again held to have been done ex parte – Assuming that the petitioner was served with the charge-sheet and he did not participate in the inquiry, it did not mean that the respondents could just hold the charges proved by looking into the charge-sheet and the papers filed with it – At the said inquiry, the establishment have to prove the charges by leading their evidence, both documentary and oral. Witnesses have to be examined – Held further, the Inquiry Officer far from adherence to the salutary principle, where the Inquiry Officer, sitting like an impartial arbiter, would have before him evidence both documentary and oral led to prove the charges by the establishment has done nothing of the kind. (Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order of removal from service dated 30.05.2023 passed against the petitioner by the Managing Director, U.P. State Handloom Corporation Limited, Kanpur Nagar.

2. It would be profitable to refer to facts giving rise to this writ petition. The petitioner was appointed to the post a Salesman in the year 1994 by an order passed by the Managing Director, U.P. State Handloom Corporation Limited, Kanpur Nagar (for short, 'the Corporation'). The petitioner says that he has been working ever since and until orders depriving him of his employment were passed. The petitioner says that he has had an unblemished career with no complaint, punishment or adverse entry awarded to him. Prior to the present proceedings, he was never subjected to any disciplinary proceedings. About the Corporation, the petitioner says that it was established in the year 1973 by the State Government as a Government Company registered under Section 67 of the Companies Act, 1956. The State Government has a share holding to the extent of 77.42% with the balance 22.58% being owned by the Central Government. Thus, the Corporation is fully owned and controlled by the two Governments. The Chairman, the Managing Director and the entire Board of Directors are appointed by the State Government.

3. According to the petitioner, because of poor management by officials of the State Government, the financial condition of the Corporation became pitiable, as the petitioner has chosen to describe it. The Corporation is not in a position to pay salary to its employees, who were, therefore, frequently transferred from one place to another without any rhyme or reason. It is pointed out that raising this issue, a writ petition being Writ Petition No.3442(S/S) of 1999, U.P. Rajya Hathkargha Nigam Ltd. Kshetriya Karamchari Sangathan and others v. State of U.P. and others, was filed before the Lucknow Bench of this Court, where an interim order dated 06.08.1999 was passed to the effect that if salary to the members of the petitioner association is not paid, they will not be able to leave their place of posting, which would be in violation of Article 21 of the Constitution. The said petition is represented to be still pending before the Lucknow Bench, where further orders dated 07.01.2013, 12.03.2013 and 22.04.2013 have been passed.

4. The petitioner says that because of the poor financial condition of the Corporation, a state of anarchy became order of the day with the Managing Director of the Corporation asking employees to work in the field in order to raise revenues to pay off rent for the building occupied by the Sale Centres of the Corporation. The income from the sale of handloom goods, because of poor quality, fell drastically, leading to effacement of revenues. Several salesmen could not garner resources to pay off rent of the buildings, where Sale Centres of the Corporation were functioning.

5. The Managing Director placed the petitioner under suspension, as the petitioner says, on bogus, false and vague allegations that the petitioner could not make payment of rent for the Sale Centre premises and did not comply with the directions of the Head Office. A charge-sheet was issued to him on 06.02.2013 with a direction to submit a reply within 21 days. The petitioner put in his reply dated 12.08.2013, denying the charges. The Managing Director of the Corporation without considering the petitioner's reply in the proper perspective, concluded the proceedings initiated against the petitioner and revoked his order of suspension, reinstating him in service with a warning. This order was passed on 11.09.2013, which attached the petitioner with the office of the Corporation at the Lindsey Street, Kolkata. The petitioner says that prior to the order dated 11.09.2013, he was posted at the Sale Centre, Jamshedpur in the State of Jharkhand and all his family were residing with him there. The petitioner's children were reading at Jamshedpur.

6. It is also averred that the petitioner is a permanent resident of Village and Post Pandeypur, P.S. Bairia, District Ballia, which is in the vicinity of Jamshedpur. Prior to his suspension from service, the petitioner's salary was Rs.5,612/-. However, during the period of suspension, he was not paid his subsistence allowance. The Managing Director of the Corporation did not pay the petitioner's salary for preceding 24 months, antedating his suspension on 25th January, 2012, due to which the petitioner and his family were on the verge of starvation. It was not possible for him to make his ends meet.

7. It is the petitioner's case that without paying him salary and subsistence allowance for a period, as long as two years or more, to ask him to go over and serve at the Corporation's office at Kolkata, was totally illegal and in violation of Article 21 of the Constitution. It is the petitioner's case that the order dated 11.09.2013 was passed without any opportunity of hearing or issuing him with any charge-sheet. The order was also castigated as bad in law because prior to the said order, for two years and more, he was neither paid his salary nor the subsistence allowance. The petitioner, in the circumstances, made a number of representations immediately after reinstatement in service and moved an application dated 28.10.2013 before the Managing Director requesting that out of the twenty-four months' unpaid salary, at least ten months' salary be paid, so that he may submit his joining report at the station of transfer, to wit, Kolkata. When the said application evinced no action, the petitioner made another application on 10th November, 2013 to the same effect, but the latter application also led to no result. This was followed by two other applications dated 25.11.2013 and 24.12.2013.

8. Aggrieved by the order punishing the petitioner dated 11.09.2013 and the Corporation's inaction, the petitioner filed Writ-A No.15589 of 2014, seeking the following material reliefs:

(a) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari calling for the record of the case and quashing the impugned order dated 11.09.2013 passed by the respondent No.2.

(b) issue a writ, order of direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent No.2 to make payment of entire arrears of salary to the petitioner along with 10% simple interest."

9. The petition was entertained and the learned Standing Counsel directed to seek instructions from the respondents by an order of this Court dated 12.03.2014. No sooner was the writ petition last mentioned filed by the petitioner and instructions called, the Managing Director of the Corporation, as a measure of reprisal, directed a notice to be served upon the petitioner, asking him to show cause within 15 days, why his services may not be terminated. When Writ-A No.15589 of 2014 next came up before this Court on 24.03.2014, an interim order was passed to the effect that the petitioner would join at the station of transfer within three weeks and further that in view of the undertaking given on behalf of the Managing Director, the arrears of salary due to the petitioner would be paid within two weeks of his joining the station of transfer.

10. In compliance with the order dated 11.09.2013 passed by the Managing Director and the interim order dated 24.03.2014 passed by this Court, the petitioner went over to submit his joining report to the In-charge of the Corporation's office, Lindsey Street, Kolkata. Reaching there on 31.03.2014, the petitioner was surprised to find that the building, where the office of the Corporation earlier existed, there was a showroom of another establishment by the name 'M-Fie'. At the specified address, neither the showroom of the Corporation was in existence nor any employee of theirs present. There was not even a board installed at the gate of the showroom, showing it to be the Corporation's establishment.

11. It is asserted in Paragraph No.28 of the writ petition, amongst other things, that the building where earlier the showroom of the Corporation was running at Kolkata, was handed over by the officials of the Corporation to private persons in some kind of a Public Private Partnership. There is annexed on record copy of a communication dated 31.03.2014, sent by the petitioner through fax to the Managing Director of the Corporation, indicating that in the premises, where the showroom of the Corporation used to be located at the Lindsey Street, Kolkata, there was no showroom in existence. Instead, another showroom belonging to 'M-Fie' was running there. Accordingly, the petitioner said that he was informing the Managing Director of the said fact and returning from Kolkata.

12. The petitioner then made another application dated 31.03.2014 to the Managing Director of the Corporation for further directions, but nothing was done. The petitioner submitted still another application dated 07.04.2014, requesting the Managing Director to issue appropriate directions to the petitioner to join. The Managing Director instead of issuing any directions for the petitioner to join or pay his salary, removed him from service vide an order dated 12.05.2014.

13. This Court notices that in Paragraph No.32 of the writ petition, there is an averment to the effect that the Managing Director has incorrectly recorded in his order dated 12.05.2014 that the petitioner did not contact the In-charge Marketing, Kolkata, Mohd. Sayeed Ansari or any competent officer in the Head Office. It is said that the petitioner in his letters dated 31.03.2014 and 07.04.2014 categorically stated that no officer of the Corporation was in existence at the Lindsey Street, Kolkata. Under these circumstances, there was no question of contacting any official of the Corporation. Nevertheless, it is averred that the Managing Director in order to cover his own misdeeds, removed the petitioner from service. It is averred in Paragraph No.33 of the writ petition that the petitioner along with the letter dated 31.03.2014 sent photographs of the building, located at the Lindsey Street, Kolkata that used to house the Corporation's showroom. The photographs show that the site is now occupied by the showroom of an apparel store by the name 'Hyphon'.

14. It is averred in Paragraph No.35 of the writ petition that regarding the illegal possession and transfer to private parties of several showrooms of the Corporation, complaints were filed to the higher officials in the matter. The Managing Director by his memo dated 23.07.2013 sought an explanation of Mr. R.N. Gupta, Senior Manager (Production). A copy of the said letter is annexed as Annexure No.16 to the writ petition. The Managing Director is also said to have directed the Assistant Manager (Marketing) to conduct an inquiry regarding showrooms of the Corporation being illegally occupied by private persons. The Assistant Manager (Marketing) by his report dated 26.08.2013 informed the status of showrooms of the Corporation saying there that certain officials of the Corporation in collusion with private persons have illegally handed over possession of the Corporation's showrooms to third parties. The Managing Director concurred with the report and directed initiation of legal proceedings. A copy of the report dated 26.08.2013 submitted by the Assistant Manager (Marketing), addressed to the Managing Director, is on record as Annexure No.17 to the writ petition.

15. It was in the background of these facts, according to the petitioner, that he could not join his station of posting at Kolkata, where there was no office in existence. Nevertheless, the petitioner was removed from service by the Managing Director, as already said, by the order dated 12.05.2014. The petitioner challenged this order, moving an amendment application in Writ-A No.15589 of 2014, which was allowed and the petitioner permitted to amend the writ petition. The Corporation was granted time to file a counter affidavit, but none was filed.

16. This Court by an order dated 11.04.2023 held that the order dated 12.05.2014, removing the petitioner from service, was one passed without serving any charge-sheet or holding an inquiry. It was, accordingly, set aside, leaving it open to the respondents to hold an inquiry afresh in accordance with law against the petitioner and pass appropriate orders. There is a remark in the order of this Court dated 11.04.2023 to the effect that in case an inquiry is held, the petitioner will fully cooperate with the same, without causing any unnecessary delay. The petitioner, together with an application dated 25.04.2023, served a certified copy of the order dated 11.04.2023 passed in the writ petition last mentioned in the office of the Managing Director of the Corporation, personally.

17. The copy of the application was marked by the Managing Director to the In-charge Manager Inquiry. It is the petitioner's case that nothing happened, in consequence. The petitioner then received a notice dated 19.05.2023 on 22.05.2023, requiring him to submit his reply by 26.05.2023 to the inquiry report submitted by the Inquiry Officer. It is the petitioner's case that he is residing at Jamshedpur, Jharkhand. But, in the notice dated 19.05.2023, three addresses of the petitioner are mentioned. The petitioner further on says that out of the three addresses mentioned, he lives at the second of these. It is also the petitioner's specific case that from the tenor of the notice dated 19.05.2023, it is evident that the Managing Director of the Corporation was predetermined to remove the petitioner from service, and, as such, without the provision of a reasonable opportunity, notice to show cause was issued.

18. According to the petitioner, he has furnished his reply dated 26.05.2023 to the show cause notice dated 19.05.2023 with a prayer that the inquiry report may be set aside and a copy of the charge-sheet provided to him with a month's time to answer it. The petitioner has also averred in Paragraph No.42 that he said in his reply dated 26.05.2023 that he wants to personally examine Mohd. Sayeed Ansari, and, as such, opportunity of a personal hearing may be extended to him. The Managing Director by his memo dated 12.06.2023 rejected the petitioner's reply dated 26.05.2023, holding that the petitioner was not cooperating with the inquiry, despite the orders passed by this Court. It is on the foot of the aforesaid allegations that the Managing Director passed the order impugned dated 30.05.2023, as the petitioner says, in utter violation of principles of natural justice, removing the petitioner from service. The petitioner has pleaded in Paragraph No.44 of the writ petition that he was earlier removed from service without conducting an inquiry and the said order was quashed by this Court by our order dated 11.04.2023, passed in Writ-A No.15589 of 2014.

19. The petitioner received the notice dated 19.05.2023 on 22.05.2023, asking him to show cause, along with a copy of the inquiry report. The petitioner furnished his reply by means of his representation dated 26.05.2023, which was received in the office of the Managing Director on 03.06.2023. However, prior to receipt of the petitioner's reply, the Managing Director passed his order dated 30.05.2023, removing the petitioner from service. It is the petitioner's case that the entire proceedings have been carried out in undue haste, arbitrarily and unfairly, all in violation of principles of natural justice.

20. In Paragraph Nos.46 and 47 of the writ petition, it is averred:

"46. That, in the present case, as per the impugned order it appears that the inquiry has been initiated on 20.04.2023 but no Charge-Sheet was served upon the petitioner no opportunity to rebut the allegations made in the Charge-Sheet were provided to the petitioner and it is incorrectly stated in the impugned order that the petitioner did not receive the Charge-Sheet. It appears that the Charge-Sheet was sent at the wrong address of the petitioner, as the petitioner received the notice dated 19.05.2023 and the impugned order dated 30.05.2023 but why the petitioner could not receive the Charge-Sheet and alleged communication made by the respondent no.3 because the respondent no.2 was determined to remove the petitioner from service and that is why Charge-Sheet and other communication made by the respondent no.3 were on wrong address.

47. That, it is surprising that on the same address the petitioner received the notice dated 19.05.2023 and the impugned order dated 30.05.2023 passed by respondent No.2 but the copy of Charge-Sheet or any communication with the Inquiry Officer was never received by the petitioner. In fact, the petitioner inquired from the concerned post office that any postal letter was returned by the postman on the ground of non-availability of the petitioner the postman after inspecting the records stated that no postal letter in the name of the petitioner was ever returned by him."

21. It is the petitioner's further case in Paragraph No.52 of the writ petition that no charge-sheet was served upon him and no notice for a personal hearing was issued to the petitioner by the Inquiry Officer. No date, time and place was fixed by the Inquiry Officer asking the petitioner to appear for personal hearing.

22. The petitioner also says that in consequence of the order dated 11.04.2023 passed by this Court, where the order of removal from service earlier passed dated 12.05.2014 was quashed, there was a direction in terms: 'Consequences to follow.' It was, therefore, imperative for the Managing Director of the Corporation to reinstate the petitioner in the first instance and pay all his arrears of salary. That, however, was not done. He was neither paid salary nor subsistence allowance for the period that he remained under suspension pending proceedings that led to the earlier order of removal. It is next pleaded on behalf of the petitioner that the only charge now levelled against the petitioner is that he did not join the place of posting. The petitioner says that despite the petitioner properly and satisfactorily explaining the reason for not so joining, the petitioner was punished with a major penalty again.

23. It is averred in Paragraph No.58 of the writ petition that if the petitioner did not participate in the inquiry, the Inquiry Officer was under an obligation to require the establishment to examine the record available before them, but they did not do so. Both the Inquiry Officer and the Disciplinary Authority have recorded perverse finding based on non-existing materials. In Paragraph Nos.61 and 62 of the writ petition, it is averred:

"61. That, from the own documents of the respondent corporation, it is clear that no showroom of U.P. State Handloom Corporation Ltd. is in existence at Lindsey Street Kolkata, even then the petitioner was attached with a non-existent showroom only to prepare a background to remove the petitioner from his service.

62. That, entire exercise of transfer and attachment of the petitioner without payment of arrears of salary suffers from vice of malafide and the impugned order is totally malafide, illegal, arbitrary and colourable exercise of power."

24. The petitioner has also averred in Paragraph No.68 of the writ petition that the entire inquiry was done ex parte and at no stage, the petitioner was invited to participate, as no charge-sheet was ever served upon the petitioner and no Inquiry Officer appointed. The punishment has been castigated as shockingly disproportionate. The impugned order is also alleged to be mala fide.

25. A counter affidavit on behalf of respondent No.3 and a personal affidavit on behalf of respondent No.3, that is to say, the Inquiry Officer, Suhaib Anwar Ansari, Manager Production of the Corporation, have been filed.

26. Heard Mr. Nikhil Kumar, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Baibhav Tripathi, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent Nos.2 and 3 and Mr. Akhilesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel appearing for respondent No.1.

27. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, this Court must say that there are many things about the validity of proceedings against the petitioner that could be gone into and decided. But, considering that there is a serious procedural lapse going to the root of the matter, this Court is not minded to examine the many other issues involved. It is noticed that the petitioner had earlier faced disciplinary proceedings, based on a charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013, which culminated in an order of removal from service dated 12.05.2014, since quashed by this Court vide order dated 11.04.2023 passed in Writ-A No.15589 of 2014. Liberty was given to the respondents to proceed afresh against the petitioner, giving him due opportunity. The ground to quash the earlier order was non-holding of an inquiry into the charges. Liberty was, therefore, given to the respondents to proceed afresh in accordance with law. Of course, the petitioner was directed to cooperate with the inquiry. If one were to look at the charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013, it was one on a completely different set of charges than those that are the subject matter of the present proceedings. The charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013 issued by the Managing Director of the Corporation carried three charges, which read:

"आरोप सं. 1- यह कि मुख्यालय के पत्रांक संख्या 1082-84 दिनांक 26.05.2010, पत्रांक 2702-3 दिनांक 27.08.2010 एवं पत्र संख्या 4980-83/ नजारत दिनांक 18.01.2011 के माध्यम से बिक्री केन्द्र के अवशेष किराये के भुगतान हेतु आपको निर्देशित किया गया, किन्तु आप द्वारा मुख्यालय के आदेशों की अवहेलना करते हुए बिक्री केन्द्र का किराया मकान मालिक को भुगतान नही किया गया जिससे निगम पर वाद की स्थिति उत्पन्न हो गयी जिसके लिए आप दोषी है।

अस्तु निगम के आदेशों की अवहेलना करने, स्वैच्छाचारी ढंग से कार्य करने हेतु आरोपित।

आरोप सं0-2 - यह कि मुख्यालय के आदेशांक 2895-2901/ स्था0 -2 / 11-12 दिनांक 19.09.2011 द्वारा आपका स्थानान्तरण बिक्री केन्द्र जमशेदपर से बिक्री केन्द्र हल्दिया किया गया किन्तु आप द्वारा नये तैनाती स्थल पर योगदान नही किया गया जो कि आपकी अनुशासनहीनता का द्योतक है और जिसके आप दोषी है।

अस्तु निगम के आदेशों की अवेहलना करने मनमाने ढंग से कार्य करने एवं निगम सेवा नियमावली के विरुद्ध आचरण करने हेतु आरोपित।

आरोप सं0-3- यह कि मुख्यालय के पत्रांक 4071-79 दिनांक 25.01.2012 द्वारा सेवा से निलम्बित करते हुए बिक्री केन्द्र के एक अन्य कार्मिक श्री मनीलाल बिक्रेता को प्रभार हस्तानान्तरण हेतु आपको आदेशित किया गया था जिसके अनुक्रम में प्रभारी परिक्षेत्र कोलकाता द्वारा भी पत्रांक 404-06 दिनांक 13.02.2012 के माध्यम से प्रभार हस्तान्तरण हेतु निर्देशित किया गया किन्तु आप द्वारा जानबूझ कर प्रभार हस्तान्तरण न कर अवकाश पर चले गये जिसके लिए आप पूर्ण रूप से दोषी हैं।

अस्तु बिक्री केन्द्र का किराया भुगतान न करने, स्वेच्छाचारी ढंग से कार्य करने, अनावश्यक विधिक वाद उत्पन्न करने, निगम का पक्ष कमज़ोर करने तथा प्रभार स्थानान्तरण न करने हेतु आरोपित।"

28. The order of termination from service dated 12.05.2014 since quashed by this Court vide order dated 11.04.2023, passed in the writ petition above referred, was founded on the three charges, above indicated. This Court while quashing the order of termination on ground that the no inquiry was held, granted liberty to proceed afresh. Normally, this means that the respondents would have liberty to proceed on the basis of the same charge-sheet, that was subject matter of earlier proceedings. Here, something else happened. After the order of this Court dated 11.04.2023 was passed, a fresh charge-sheet dated 20.04.2023 was issued to the petitioner, a copy of which is annexed as part of Annexure No. CA-3 to the counter affidavit filed by respondent Nos.2 and 3. This charge-sheet carries two charges, that are entirely distinct and different from the charges carried in the charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013, on the basis of which the earlier order of removal from service dated 12.05.2014 was passed. The charge-sheet dated 20.04.2023, about which the respondents say now that they attempted to serve a copy by dispatching it to three different addresses of the petitioner available with them, relates to charges for things that happened in the year 2013.

29. The charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013, on which the earlier proceedings, of whatever kind, since quashed, were held related to the years 2010, 2011 and 2012. Thus, both the charge-sheets relate to acts of omission and commission attributed to the petitioner, more or less contemporaneous in time. Since by the order of this Court dated 11.04.2023 passed in Writ-A No.15589 of 2014, the respondents were given liberty to proceed afresh after quashing the order of removal from service, the logical consequence would be that fresh proceedings taken, would rest on the same charges as the one culminating in the earlier order of removal. Nevertheless, the respondents have proceeded on the basis of a fresh charge-sheet, carrying completely different charges, detailed in the charge-sheet dated 20.04.2023.

30. There is no prohibition in doing that, but perhaps it would not be a continuation of the earlier proceedings, founded on the original charge-sheet. This may be regarded as fresh proceedings with the earlier proceedings either given or kept back by the respondents in their pocket to be utilized at some subsequent point of time. If the respondents do not wish to proceed with the charges afresh carried in the charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013, there is nothing in the order dated 11.04.2023, that would govern the fresh inquiry that was undertaken. The reason is that it is on a completely different set of charges carried in a different charge-sheet, the respondents have now proceeded.

31. This Court thinks that if the respondents intended to proceed on the basis of a fresh charge-sheet and not the one they were given liberty to proceed with afresh, they either ought to have issued both charge-sheets to the petitioner afresh or put in him to that notice, or combined the charges into a single charge-sheet. It would indeed be an abuse of process of disciplinary proceedings, in circumstances such as these, and not as a universal rule to issue successive and different charge-sheets to the petitioner, forcing him to face multiple inquiries while all the charges could be determined at the same inquiry, whether carried in a single charge-sheet or two charge-sheets, dealt with together. Since, the respondents have not chosen to proceed afresh with the charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013, a liberty given to them by this Court by our order dated 11.04.2023 passed in Writ-A No.15589 of 2014, it must be held that the respondents have given up those charges and brought fresh ones carried in the charge-sheet dated 20.04.2023.

32. This case has its own distinct features making it one that may not fit the standard mould. The pleadings of parties and the evidence on record reflect that the Corporation is not in a very sound state of financial health. There is some case and evidence to show that there is difficulty in paying off rent for the Sale Centres housed in rented buildings. The attention of this Court in this connection has been drawn to a letter dated 23.07.2013, addressed by the Managing Director of the Corporation to its Senior Manager (Production). The letter shows that there was some kind of a scheme for sharing the premises of Sale Centres with other partners, taking a part of the premises to carry on business. This was perhaps to raise revenue for the rent payable to the landlords of the premises. This letter further shows that one of the Sale Centres at Kolkata was shared with a partner M/s. Priya Gopal Bishoji Marketing Pvt. Ltd., Kolkata. For the purpose, the Senior Manager (Production) of the Corporation at Kanpur issued a letter dated 19.08.2010 to the Officer In-charge at Kolkata to transfer two counters on the backside of the Centre to the partner. It transpires that the partner in order to unauthorizedly occupy the premises of the Sale Centre got it renovated, without annexing any sketch or lay out plan. It is this kind of evidence which shows that the Corporation has been gasping for finances to run its Centres and pay off its employees. It is in the backdrop of this state of affairs that the charges against the petitioner have to be viewed.

33. There are some further facts, which are relevant. It has already been noticed that the petitioner has not been paid twenty-four months of his salary prior to his suspension dated 25.01.2012 and no subsistence allowance for the period of suspension. After this Court allowed the petitioner's earlier writ petition and quashed the order of termination from service, the petitioner was again not paid salary. The justification now offered not to pay salary appears to be that he did not join the Kolkata office, and it is for this reason that a different charge-sheet has been issued to him, accusing him of completely different charges than those on which he was earlier removed from service.

34. In these circumstances, if the petitioner has said that he was not served with the charge-sheet dated 20.04.2023, it is possible to infer that he was not. There is no postal remark to show that in fact he refused to accept any of the registered covers carrying the charge-sheet. The impugned order 30.05.2023, again removing the petitioner from service, was passed with unsavory haste, the charge-sheet being one dated 20.04.2023. The justification for this haste is that this Court had directed fresh inquiry to be held. There was no such direction, but only an option given to the respondents. There was no time fixed to conclude the inquiry, as may have impelled the respondents to hurriedly infer service upon the petitioner. In any case, the charge-sheet being one that was different from that, that was the subject matter of proceedings leading to the earlier order of removal dated 12.05.2014, directions of whatever kind carried in the orders of this Court dated 11.04.2023 did not apply to proceedings now initiated based on a different charge-sheet. This Court is not satisfied on the state of affairs that the petitioner was indeed served with the charge-sheet. The proceedings, therefore, are again held to have been done ex parte.

35. Assuming that the petitioner was served with the charge-sheet and he did not participate in the inquiry, it did not mean that the respondents could just hold the charges proved by looking into the charge-sheet and the papers filed with it. If an employee does not appear to answer the charges against him, it is imperative for the Inquiry Officer, holding a domestic inquiry, which may lead to the imposition of a major penalty, to convene a formal inquiry. At the said inquiry, the establishment have to prove the charges by leading their evidence, both documentary and oral. Witnesses have to be examined. The mere fact that the delinquent employee is ex parte would not absolve the establishment of their responsibility to prove the charges by leading evidence before the Inquiry Officer through a Presenting Officer. Rule 64 of the Service Rules applicable to the Corporation, quoted in Paragraph No.64 of the writ petition, specifically supports the said salutary procedure.

36. A reading of the inquiry report dated 19.05.2023 submitted in this case by Suhaib Anwar Ansari, respondent No.3, shows that he just quoted the charge and noted the fact that the petitioner though attempted to be served, intimating him of the date, did not file a reply. It is then recorded that this Court had ordered the petitioner to cooperate with the inquiry, which he was disobeying. The findings, that are then recorded, are based on idle record in the Inquiry Officer's hands, that is nothing more than the charge-sheet. The inquiry report does not show that any Presenting Officer led evidence on behalf of the establishment, both oral and documentary, to prove the charge. The report also shows that the first charge alone has been held proved in terms of the following findings:

"मा० उच्च न्यायालय के उक्त आदेश में श्री ओझा को तैनाती स्थल पर योगदान करने हेतु मा० उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा आदेशित किया गया है, जिसके क्रम में श्री ओझा ने अपने पत्र दिनांक 07.04.2014 द्वारा यह अवगत कराया है कि वह दिनांक 31.03.2014 को बिकी केन्द्र लिण्डसे स्ट्रीट कोलकाता गये थे लेकिन वहाँ न तो बिक्री केन्द्र है और न कोई स्टाफ है, मैं अपना योगदान कहाँ और किसको दूँ। श्री दिनेश कुमार ओझा द्वारा अपने नियंत्रक अधिकारी, श्री मो० सईद अंसारी, प्रभारी विपणन परिक्षेत्र, कोलकाता को भी कोई सूचना नहीं दी गई न ही नियंत्रक अधिकारी के माध्यम से कोई अवकाश आदि का आवेदन ही मुख्यालय अग्रसारित कराया गया। इससे स्पष्ट है कि श्री ओझा द्वारा अनुशासनहीनता तथा प्रबन्ध निदेशक के आदेशों की अवहेलना की गई।"

37. The crux of the findings is that the petitioner did not report at the Sales Centre located at Lindsey Street, Kolkata, and as he says not finding it there, he did not contact his Controlling Officer, Mohd. Sayeed Ansari, In-charge Distribution, Kolkata Region, giving him that information or submitting a leave application etc. through him. The charge of indiscipline and disobedience to the Managing Director's order has been held proved. Now, the petitioner has clearly alleged in Paragraph No.32 of the writ petition that to say that he did not contact the In-charge Marketing, Kolkata, Mr. Mohd. Sayeed Ansari, is incorrect. The petitioner in his letters dated 31.03.2014 and 07.04.2014 has said that at the Lindsey Street, Kolkata, the office of the Corporation was not in existence. There was, thus, no question of contacting any official of the Corporation.

38. It is not possible for this Court to go into the issue if in fact the Lindsey Street Sale Centre of the Corporation no longer exists or the petitioner did not find Mohd. Sayeed Ansari there to contact as he says, there being no office of the Corporation around. But, the Inquiry Officer, in order to probe the said issue and return a valid finding, had to examine not only idle papers, but witnesses as well. This is a case where in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent Nos.2 and 3, it is averred in Paragraph Nos.61 and 62:

"61. That the contents of the paragraph no. 32 of the writ petition are wrong and denied, in reply it is stated that the petitioner has never contacted any officer of the Corporation he had only written letter to the officers. It is pertinent to mention here that Sri Mohd. Sayeed Ansari himself had written a letter to the Head Quarters on dated 05.11.2011 explaining about the irregularities found by him while he inspected the showroom. A copy of the letter dated 05.11.2011 is being annexed herewith and marked as ANNEXURE NO. CA 09 to the affidavit.

62. That it is pertinent to mention here that the Inquiry Officer Sri Sohaib Anwar Ansari called through cell phone to Sri Ansari on his number 7753977122 on dated 06.05.2023 for his statement he refused to participate in the inquiry having no option left the inquiry officer wrote a letter to Sri Mohd. Sayeed Ansari for his statement in the proceedings of the inquiry through letter dated 09.05.2023 which was return to the Corporation undelivered. A copy of the letter dated 09.05.2023 alongwith Postal Receipt and envelop are annexed herewith and marked as ANNEURE NO. CA 10 to this affidavit."

39. The above averments show that Mohd. Sayeed Ansari, who would be the best person to show, if in fact the Lindsey Street Office was in existence when the petitioner went there to join, and, more particularly, if he was around, where he could be contacted by the petitioner, has refused to testify on behalf of the Corporation before the Inquiry Officer. The findings of the Inquiry Officer in the absence of Mohd. Sayeed Ansari's testimony, which he himself called, but was not successful in securing, would make the charge fail utterly. The finding returned by the Inquiry Officer, on the foot of which the impugned order has been passed, would be sans any material.

40. The principle that in an inquiry likely to lead to the imposition of a major penalty, it is imperative for a salutary principle that the establishment lead evidence, both documentary and oral, before the Inquiry Officer, first in order to prove the charge, is far too well settled to brook doubt. In this connection, reference may be made to the holding of the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, where it is observed:

"27. A bare perusal of the aforesaid sub-rule shows that when the respondent had failed to submit the explanation to the charge-sheet it was incumbent upon the inquiry officer to fix a date for his appearance in the inquiry. It is only in a case when the government servant despite notice of the date fixed failed to appear that the inquiry officer can proceed with the inquiry ex parte. Even in such circumstances it is incumbent on the inquiry officer to record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet. Since the government servant is absent, he would clearly lose the benefit of cross-examination of the witnesses. But nonetheless in order to establish the charges the Department is required to produce the necessary evidence before the inquiry officer. This is so as to avoid the charge that the inquiry officer has acted as a prosecutor as well as a judge.

28. An inquiry officer acting in a quasi-judicial authority is in the position of an independent adjudicator. He is not supposed to be a representative of the department/disciplinary authority/Government. His function is to examine the evidence presented by the Department, even in the absence of the delinquent official to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to hold that the charges are proved. In the present case the aforesaid procedure has not been observed. Since no oral evidence has been examined the documents have not been proved, and could not have been taken into consideration to conclude that the charges have been proved against the respondents."

41. Guidance in this regard is to be found in the holding of the Supreme Court in Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others, (2009) 2 SCC 570, where it has been held:

"14. Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding.

The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence."

42. A Division Bench of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another, 2018 (9) ADJ 397 (DB)(LB), dealing with the same issue, observed:

"14. Now coming to the question, what is the effect of non-holding of domestic/oral inquiry, in a case where the inquiry officer is appointed, oral inquiry is mandatory. The charges are not deemed to be proved suo motu merely on account of levelling them by means of the charge-sheet unless the same are proved by the department before the inquiry officer and only thereafter it is the turn of delinquent employee to place his defence. Holding oral enquiry is mandatory before imposing a major penalty, as held by Apex Court in State of U.P. and another v. T.P. Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subhash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541."

15. In another case in Subhash Chandra Gupta v. State of U.P., 2012(4) ADJ 4 (NOC), the Division Bench of this Court after survey of law on this issue observed as under:

"It is well-settled that when the statute provides to do a thing in a particular manner that thing has to be done in that very manner. We are of the considered opinion that any punishment awarded on the basis of an enquiry not conducted in accordance with the enquiry rules meant for that very purposes is unsustainable in the eye of law. We are further of the view that the procedure prescribed under the inquiry rules for imposing major penalty is mandatory in nature and unless those procedures are followed, any out come inferred thereon will be of no avail unless the charges are so glaring and unrefutable which does not require any proof. The view taken by us find support from the judgement of the Apex Court in State of U.P. and another v. T.P.Lal Srivastava, 1997 (1) LLJ 831, as well as by a Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541."

16. A Division Bench decision of this Court in the case of Salahuddin Ansari v. State of U.P. and others, 2008(3) ESC 1667, held that non holding of oral inquiry is a serious flaw which can vitiate the order of disciplinary proceeding including the order of punishment has observed as under:

" 10..... Non holding of oral inquiry in such a case, is a serious matter and goes to the root of the case.

11. A Division Bench of this Court in Subash Chandra Sharma v. Managing Director and another, 2000 (1) UPLBEC 541, considering the question as to whether holding of an oral inquiry is necessary or not, held that if no oral inquiry is held, it amounts to denial of principles of natural justice to the delinquent employee. The aforesaid view was reiterated in Subash Chandra Sharma v. U.P.Cooperative Spinning Mills and others, 2001 (2) UPLBEC 1475 and Laturi Singh v. U.P.Public Service Tribunal and others, Writ Petition No. 12939 of 2001, decided on 6.5.2005."

17. Even if the employee refuses to participate in the enquiry the employer cannot straightaway dismiss him, but he must hold and ex parte enquiry where evidence must be led vide Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd. v. Its Workmen, AIR 1962 SC 1348, Uma Shankar v. Registrar, 1992 (65) FLR 674 (All).

18. The Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mahesh Narain Gupta v. State of U.P. and others, (2011) 2 ILR 570, had also occasion to deal with the same issue. It held:

"At this stage, we are to observe that in the disciplinary proceedings against a delinquent, the department is just like a plaintiff and initial burden lies on the department to prove the charges which can certainly be proved only by collecting some oral evidence or documentary evidence, in presence and notice charged employee. Even if the department is to rely its own record/document which are already available, then also the enquiry officer by looking into them and by assigning his own reason after analysis, will have to record a finding that hose documents are sufficient enough to prove the charges.

In no case, approach of the Enquiry Officer that as no reply has been submitted, the charge will have to be automatically proved can be approved. This will be erroneous. It has been repeatedly said that disciplinary authority has a right to proceed against delinquent employee in ex parte manner but some evidence will have to be collected and justification to sustain the charges will have to be stated in detail. The approach of the enquiry officer of automatic prove of charges on account of non filing of reply is clearly misconceived and erroneous. This is against the principle of natural justice, fair play, fair hearing and, thus, enquiry officer has to be cautioned in this respect."

19. The principal of law which emanates from the above judgments are that initial burden is on the department to prove the charges. In case of procedure adopted for inflicting major penalty, the department must prove the charges by oral evidence also.

20. From perusal of enquiry report it is demonstrably proved that no oral evidence has been led by the department. When a major punishment is proposed to be passed the department has to prove the charges against the delinquent/employee by examining the witnesses and by documentary evidence. In the present case no witness was examined by the department neither any officer has been examined to prove the documents on the basis of which charges are levelled on the claimant in the proceedings.

21. It is trite law that the departmental proceedings are quasi judicial proceedings. The Inquiry Officer functions as quasi judicial officer. He is not merely a representative of the department. He has to act as an independent and impartial officer to find out the truth. The major punishment awarded to an employee visit serious civil consequences and as such the departmental proceedings ought to be in conformity with the principles of natural justice.

22. Even if, an employee prefers not to participate in enquiry the department has to establish the charges against the employee by adducing oral as well as documentary evidence. In case charges warrant major punishment then the oral evidence by producing the witnesses is necessary."

43. The same principle has been reiterated by the Division Bench of our Court in Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P., 2018 (9) ADJ 107 (DB) (LB), where it is observed:

"15. The law in this regard is very well-settled and does not need a reiteration, however, we may refer to a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, wherein it has clearly been held that Enquiry Officer acts as a quasi judicial authority and his position is that of an independent adjudicator and further that he cannot act as a representative of the department or disciplinary authority and further that he cannot act as a prosecutor neither he should act as a judge; his function is to examine the evidence presented by the department and even in the absence of the delinquent officer, has to see as to whether the unrebutted evidence is sufficient to bring home the charges.

16. Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held in the said judgment of Saroj Kumar Sinha (supra) that it is only in case when the Government servant, despite notice, fails to appear during the course of enquiry that Enquiry Officer can proceed ex parte and even in such circumstances it is incumbent upon the Enquiry Officer to record the statement of witness.

17. In the instant case, no oral enquiry was held, neither the petitioner was given any notice to participate in any oral enquiry by fixing date, time and place for oral enquiry. It is only that the Enquiry Officer after noticing that despite sufficient time having been given to the petitioner, she did not furnish her reply to the charge-sheet, he proceeded to submit ex parte report without conducting any oral enquiry by fixing date, time and place for such an oral enquiry. Accordingly, the Enquiry Officer, in this case, has violated the aforesaid principles, which clearly vitiates the enquiry proceedings and any punishment order based on such a vitiated enquiry, is clearly not sustainable."

44. In State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB)(LB), again a Bench decision of this Court, it was held:

"14. Recently the entire law on the subject has been reviewed and reiterated in Chamoli District Co-operative Bank Ltd. v. Raghunath Singh Rana and others, AIR 2016 SC 2510 and Court has culled out certain principles as under:

"(i) The enquiries must be conducted bona fide and care must be taken to see that the enquiries do not become empty formalities.

(ii) If an officer is a witness to any of the incidents which is the subject-matter of the enquiry or if the enquiry was initiated on a report of an officer, then in all fairness he should not be the Enquiry Officer. If the said position becomes known after the appointment of the Enquiry Officer, during the enquiry, steps should be taken to see that the task of holding an enquiry is assigned to some other officer.

(iii) In an enquiry, the employer/department should take steps first to lead evidence against the workman/delinquent charged and give an opportunity to him to cross-examine the witnesses of the employer. Only thereafter, the workman/delinquent be asked whether he wants to lead any evidence and asked to give any explanation about the evidence led against him.

(iv) On receipt of the enquiry report, before proceeding further, it is incumbent on the part of the disciplinary/punishing authority to supply a copy of the enquiry report and all connected materials relied on by the enquiry officer to enable him to offer his views, if any."

15. The principal of law emanates from the above judgments is that initial burden is on the department to prove the charges. In case where inquiry is initiated with a view to inflict major penalty, department must prove charges by adducing evidence by holding oral inquiry.

17. It is trite law that the departmental proceedings are quasi judicial proceedings. The Inquiry Officer functions as quasi judicial officer. He is not merely a representative of the department. He has to act as an independent and impartial officer to find out the truth. The major punishment awarded to an employee visit serious civil consequences and as such the departmental proceedings ought to be in conformity with the principles of natural justice. Even if, an employee prefers not to participate in enquiry the department has to establish the charges against the employee by adducing oral as well as documentary evidence. In case charges warrant major punishment then the oral evidence by producing the witnesses is necessary."

45. As would be seen, the Inquiry Officer far from adherence to the salutary principle, where the Inquiry Officer, sitting like an impartial arbiter, would have before him evidence both documentary and oral led to prove the charges by the establishment has done nothing of the kind. The Inquiry Officer in this case, as already remarked, has gleaned through the charge-sheet of his own and the papers annexed to it, and returned findings that have been recorded sans any evidence whatsoever. To add to it, is the fact that the efforts made by the Inquiry Officer to secure the attendance of the witness Mohd. Sayeed Ansari, an official of their own establishment at Kolkata, have failed. This kind of a situation has perhaps arisen because of the chaos in the Corporation's organization and lack of control, arising from poor finances. In any case, this could not be a ground on which the illegality vitiating the impugned order can be ignored.

46. It goes without saying that this Court would not close the doors for holding fresh proceedings from the stage of the charge-sheet founded on the one dated 20.04.2023, and not the charge-sheet dated 06.02.2013, which the respondents have tacitly elected out of pursuing. It is also imperative in this case given the fact that the petitioner, who has not been paid his salary for two years antedating his suspension way back on 25.01.2012, is paid his arrears of salary for the period of twenty-four months, that it was in arrears prior to his suspension and subsistence allowance for the period of his suspension, before any fresh proceedings are taken. It is also imperative that the petitioner be reinstated in service forthwith and posted at a convenient station. In case fresh proceedings against the petitioner are elected to be taken by the respondents, he would be entitled to his current salary from the date of this judgment. However, in the event of fresh proceedings being taken, arrears of salary apart from that directed to be paid hereinabove, would abide by the result of fresh proceeding. In the event, no fresh proceedings are taken, the petitioner would be entitled to 50% of his entire salary due for the period of time he has remained out of employment, forthwith. These arrears would be payable in addition to the arrears of salary for twenty-four months and the arrears of subsistence allowance directed to be paid hereinabove, unconditionally.

47. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is allowed in part. The impugned order dated 30.05.2023 passed by the Managing Director of the Corporation is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued in the terms indicated hereinabove.

48. There shall be no order as to costs.

A. Service Law – Post of Executive Officers – Appointment on deputation – Entitlement to continue beyond the term of appointment – How far deputation appointment confers right – Principle of legitimate expectation – Applicability – Held, the principle of legitimate expectation was held not to apply, because the right to receive foreign allowance was governed by policy decision of the President, in the absence of any right based on contract or otherwise. The legitimate expectation was held to have been displaced by policy decision – The writ petitioners in the leading writ petition, notwithstanding the fact that their's is a case of appointment on deputation, as distinguished from a transfer on deputation, have no right to continue beyond their term of appointment, which they have accepted with open eyes. (Para 25 and 39)

B. Service Law – 'Appointment on Deputation' and 'Transfer on Deputation' – Distinction – Held, an 'appointment on deputation' is essentially different from a 'transfer on deputation'. The former confers a right to hold the post as it comes after a selection in accordance with Rules. The right is limited to the tenure mentioned in the appointment and subject to its own nature about the period of time etc. However, it is certainly different from a 'transfer on deputation', where there is no right to the post or a lien held with the consequence that a deputationist may be called back by the lending employer, the parent department, or repatriated by the borrowing employer. (Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This judgment will decide the present writ petition and connected Writ-A

No.11275 of 2023. There are common questions of fact and law involved in both the writ petitions, and, therefore, the two have been heard together, with Writ-A No.11275 of 2023 being treated the leading case. The facts, therefore, will be noticed from the record of Writ-A No.11275 of 2023, where affidavits have been exchanged.

2. An advertisement was issued by the Director, Local Bodies, U.P., Lucknow dated 20th December, 2018, acting on a letter of the Government, bearing No. 3591/9-4-18-50ज/ 17टी0सी0 dated 05.11.2018, advertising posts of Assistant Commissioner/ Executive Engineer Class-1/ Deputy Secretary, Development Authority, Executive Engineer Class-2, Executive Engineer Class-3, besides Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, being 22, 13, 16 and 107 posts, in that order. The advertisement said that in public interest, the aforesaid posts would be filled up from amongst officials working under the Government on the basis of deputation against each of the four categories of posts. The pay-scale and the relative essential qualifications for a direct recruit were indicated. The advertisement indicated further eligibility qualifications that a government servant working in one or the other department, must possess in order to be appointed on deputation to one or the other of the posts advertised. It was also stipulated that the appointment would be valid till a regular arrangement was made or for a period of one year, whichever is earlier. The other matters mentioned in the advertisement may not be of much consequence.

3. The petitioners, who are fourteen in number in the leading writ petition, have come up with a case that each of them are holding permanent substantive posts under the Government in one department or the other, and that all of them are eligible. The petitioners, accordingly, applied in response to the advertisement for consideration of their candidature for the posts of Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat on deputation. Each of the petitioners, being eligible, were called to interview and they faced the selection committee appointed for the purpose. Each of them were selected for appointment.

4. It is common ground that the petitioners selected for the positions of Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat were granted appointment by means of appointment orders dated 31.01.2019, 26.02.2019 and 09.03.2019. The orders of appointment granted appointment on deputation for a period of one year till a regular arrangement was made. Pursuant to the orders of appointment, each of the petitioners joined immediately and have been working as Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat at different places. The dates of joining of each of the petitioners are indicated in Paragraph No.17 of the writ petition, which all lie in the months of January to March, 2019. The petitioners say that subsequent to their joining on the post of Executive officer, Nagar Panchayat on deputation, they have been transferred from one place to another and served also at stations of transfer, different from the Local Body to which they were appointed or, so to speak, initially posted. The current places of posting of each of the fourteen petitioners are pleaded in Paragraph No.19 of the writ petition, but no gainful purpose would be served by enumerating all those details.

5. It is the petitioners' case that their work and conduct is satisfactory. There is no cause for complaint to the Local Bodies concerned, wherever they have served. The case of the petitioners further is that there is large vacancy in the cadre of the Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat in the State. It is averred in Paragraph No.21 that apart from the posts, against which officers appointed pursuant to the advertisement dated 20th December, 2018, are working on deputation, there is a vacancy of 200 posts of Executive Officers in different Nagar Panchayat of the State, which continue to be substantially vacant, and wherefor no regular selection has been held as yet. There is said to be an extreme shortage of regularly selected Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat. Regular selection to the post of Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat is made by the U.P. Subordinate Service Selection Commission (for short, 'the Commission'). No regularly selected candidate from the aforesaid Commission is available or appointed.

6. It is also the petitioners' case that though they were initially appointed for a period of one year, but the said period of time has been extended from time to time, in consequence of which, the petitioners have been in continuous engagement. The extension has been granted beyond the period of one year vide order dated 24th August, 2021 issued by the Additional Chief Secretary to the Government of U.P. in the Department of Local Bodies. Now, the State Government have issued a Government Order, directing the services of these Executive Officers appointed on deputation to be discontinued. The Government Order of 5th July, 2023 refers to an earlier Government Order dated 16.03.2019, which in turn purports to give effect a still older Government Order of 16th March, 1999. Acting in deference to the Government Order dated 05.07.2023, the Director, Local Bodies has issued a consequential order dated 07.07.2023. There is another order passed by the State Government on 9th July, 2023, directing that the charge of the vacant post of the Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat, including those held by the petitioners on deputation, shall be given as additional charge to the Executive Officers of different Nagar Panchayat. The effect of the Government Order dated 05.07.2023 and that of the Director, Local Bodies dated 07.07.2023, is that the petitioners' appointment on deputation in the Nagar Panchayat would come to an end and the petitioners would go back to their respective parent Departments.

7. Aggrieved by the order dated 05.07.2023 passed by the Government and the order dated 07.07.2023 passed by the Director, Local Bodies, putting an end to the appointment on deputation for the petitioners on positions of the Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat, this writ petition has been instituted under Article 226 of the Constitution.

8. A supplementary affidavit has been filed on behalf of the petitioners. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the Uttar Pradesh Nagar Palika Adhishashi Adhikari Seva Sangh through its General Secretary, Kunwar Gaurav Singh. The affidavit has been filed by one Chaitanya Kumar Tiwari, the Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat, Handia, District Prayagraj. This association has not been formally impleaded as a party-respondent to the petition, but heard nevertheless under Chapter XXII Rule 5-A of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952, as the decision in this petition is likely to affect the interest of other members of the association.

9. A counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the State Government, respondent No.1, which is a personal affidavit of the Principal Secretary, Urban Development, Government of U.P., Lucknow.

10. Heard Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Siddharth Khare, learned Counsel for the petitioners and Mr. Dinesh Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of the State. Mr. S.K. Singh, Advocate, appearing for the non-parties, has been heard under Chapter XXII Rule 5-A of Rules of the Court, 1952.

11. In the connected writ petition, Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Siddharth Khare, learned Counsel has been heard on behalf of the petitioners and Mr. Dinesh Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

12. Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate has argued that the State Government and the Director, Local Bodies have, in passing the orders impugned dated 05.07.2023 and 07.07.2023, committed a manifest illegality, inasmuch as they have not borne in mind the seminal distinction between a 'transfer on deputation' and an 'appointment on deputation'. Whilst a transfer on deputation does not confer any right on the deputationist to continue on the post, an appointment on deputation does confer some rights. It is argued that a transfer on deputation is no recruitment to the post where the deputationist is working. But, an appointment on deputation, by contrast, is indeed a recruitment to the post. Therefore, according to Mr. Khare, an appointment on deputation cannot be disturbed at the sweet will of the employer. The rights of an appointee on deputation have to be judged in accordance with the terms of appointment and the ancillary rights arising therefrom, including equities. In support of this distinction, in the nature of appointment by way of deputation and a mere transfer on deputation, Mr. Khare has placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Ashok Kumar Ratilal Patel v. Union of India and another, (2012) 7 SCC 757 and Union of India and another v. S.N. Maity and another, (2015) 4 SCC 164.

13. Elaborating his submissions, the learned Senior Advocate argues that the petitioners' appointments are tenure appointment, where each of them were entitled to continue until a regularly selected candidate. He has invited the Court's attention to the appointment orders dated 31.01.2019, 26.02.2019 and 09.03.2019, which say that the appointment would continue till permanent arrangement is made or for one year, whichever is earlier. It is urged that this nature of the tenure demonstrates the intention of the Appointing Authority, which is to the effect as indicated hereinabove. In support of this submission, the learned Senior Advocate has called attention to Paragaph Nos.4 and 15 of the report in S.N. Maity (supra), which read:

"4. The High Court after posing the questions took note of the fact that the Union of India had issued an advertisement in Employment News dated 20-10-2001/26-10-2001 calling for applications from eligible candidates for appointment to the post of Cgpdtm and the Ministry had proposed to fill up the post by transfer on deputation, including short-term contract. The first respondent, being eligible, applied through his parent department i.e. Central Mining Research Institute, Dhanbad and his selection was made by the Union Public Service Commission (for short "UPSC") which held interview on 4-6-2002 and finding him suitable, recommended his name for appointment. The competent authority approved the appointment of the first respondent, the petitioner before the High Court, for the post of Cgpdtm in the pay scale of Rs 18,400-500-22,400 on deputation basis for a period of five years or until further orders, whichever was earlier from the date of assumption of the charge of the post. The said order was communicated vide Letter No. 8/52/2001-PP&C (Vol. II) dated 23-6-2003 issued by the Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion. Thereafter, a letter of appointment dated 11-8-2003 was issued to the first respondent in the name of the President, appointing him on deputation basis for a period of five years or until further orders, whichever was earlier.

15. The controversy that has emerged in the instant case is to be decided on the touchstone of the aforesaid principles of law. We have already opined that it is not a case of simple transfer. It is not a situation where one can say that it is a transfer on deputation as against an equivalent post from one cadre to another or one department to another. It is not a deputation from a government department to a government corporation or one Government to the other. There is no cavil over the fact that the post falls in a different category and the first respondent had gone through the whole gamut of selection. On a studied scrutiny, the notification of appointment makes it absolutely clear that it is a tenure posting and the fixed tenure is five years unless it is curtailed. But, a pregnant one, this curtailment cannot be done in an arbitrary or capricious manner. There has to have some rationale. Merely because the words "until further orders" are used, it would not confer allowance on the employer to act with caprice."

14. It is next submitted by the learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner that there does not exist any reason to issue the order dated 05.07.2023 cancelling appointment of all the deputationists on the post of Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat. This action is without reason and in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution. It is argued that the State Government could not have removed without cause all the Executive Officers appointed on deputation by one stroke of pen, without consideration of individual cases, the circumstances in each Nagar Panchayat and the individual performance. In support of this contention of his, Mr. Ashok Khare has placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in Kumari Shrilekha Vidyarthi and others v. State of U.P. and others, (1991) 1 SCC 212. In this regard, attention has been drawn by the learned Senior Advocate to Paragraph No.12 of the counter affidavit, which claims, according to him, unfettered rights in the State Government to remove all the deputation appointees at will and by fiat.

15. The next submission advanced by the learned Senior Advocate is that the impugned order dated 07.07.2023 issued by the Director, Local Bodies, Lucknow has not been passed upon an individual application of mind to each case and the exercise of his discretion, but is one made on the dictate and command of the State Government. It is urged that an order, where the Authority, possessed of jurisdiction to pass it, does not do so in the exercise of its own discretion, but on the dictate and command of a superior or another, renders the order non est. Reliance in this connection is placed by the learned

Senior Advocate on the decision of the Supreme Court in Anirudhsinhji Karansinhji Jadeja and another v. State of Gujarat, (1995) 5 SCC 302. Learned Senior Counsel has drawn the attention of this Court to Anirudhsinhji Karansinhji Jadeja (supra), where it is observed:

"11. ..... This is a case of power conferred upon one authority being really exercised by another. If a statutory authority has been vested with jurisdiction, he has to exercise it according to its own discretion. If the discretion is exercised under the direction or in compliance with some higher authority's instruction, then it will be a case of failure to exercise discretion altogether. In other words, the discretion vested in the DSP in this case by Section 20-A(1) was not exercised by the DSP at all.

12. Reference may be made in this connection to Commr. of Police v. Gordhandas Bhanji [1951 SCC 1088 : 1952 SCR 135 : AIR 1952 SC 16] , in which the action of Commissioner of Police in cancelling the permission granted to the respondent for construction of cinema in Greater Bombay at the behest of the State Government was not upheld, as the rules concerned had conferred this power on the Commissioner, because of which it was stated that the Commissioner was bound to bear his own independent and unfettered judgment and decide the matter for himself, instead of forwarding an order which another authority had purported to pass.

13. It has been stated by Wade and Forsyth in Administrative Law, 7th Edn. at pp. 358-59 under the heading "Surrender, Abdication, Dictation" and sub-heading "Power in the wrong hands" as below:

"Closely akin to delegation, and scarcely distinguishable from it in some cases, is any arrangement by which a power conferred upon one authority is in substance exercised by another. The proper authority may share its power with someone else, or may allow someone else to dictate to it by declining to act without their consent or by submitting to their wishes or instructions. The effect then is that the discretion conferred by Parliament is exercised, at least in part, by the wrong authority, and the resulting decision is ultra vires and void. So strict are the courts in applying this principle that they condemn some administrative arrangements which must seem quite natural and proper to those who make them….

Ministers and their departments have several times fallen foul of the same rule, no doubt equally to their surprise…."

14. The present was thus a clear case of exercise of power on the basis of external dictation. That the dictation came on the prayer of the DSP will not make any difference to the principle. The DSP did not exercise the jurisdiction vested in him by the statute and did not grant approval to the recording of information under TADA in exercise of his discretion."

16. In the connected writ petition, Mr. Khare has submitted that an additional feature on facts that requires consideration is that the petitioner in that case was appointed on deputation pursuant to the order of appointment dated 12.07.2022 on 28.07.2022 and has been removed by the orders impugned, short of completing a year of service on the deputation appointment.

17. Mr. Dinesh Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Mr. S.K. Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the parties heard under Chapter XXII Rule 5-A of the Rules of Court, are unanimous in refuting the submissions of Mr. Khare. It is argued by them that deputation, whether by transfer or appointment, does not confer any right upon the deputationist. It does not give rise even to a legitimate expectation in favour of the appointee. It is next submitted that in any case, so far as the petitioners of Writ-A No.11275 of 2023 are concerned, they have completed three years of their tenure on deputation, which is the usual period for a deputation appointment in accordance with the Government Order dated 16.03.1999. It can be extended up to five years with the concurrence of the Finance Department, but that does not confer a right upon the deputation appointee to ask for a tenure for the maximum permissible of five years. Learned Counsel for the respondents have placed reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in National Buildings Construction Corporation v. S. Raghunathan and others, (1998) 7 SCC 66 and Kunal Nanda v. Union of India and another, (2000) 5 SCC 362. They have further placed reliance upon a Bench decision of this Court in Dr. O.P. Singh v. State of U.P. and others, 2002 (4) AWC 3067 (LB), where S. Raghunathan (supra) and Kunal Nanda (supra) were followed to hold about the right of a deputationist to continue on deputation:

"24. Applying the above principles, we are of the view that it is the prerogative of an employer to call back its employee from deputation or to post any other officer of higher rank in his place. Petitioner can have legitimate expectation where he has permanent lien but he has no right or lien on the deputation post even if he has been sent to the borrowing department for a specific period. We are further of view that the period of deputation can be curtailed by the employer at any point of time on administrative ground or in public interest. The policy pointed out by the petitioner is equivalent to the policy of transfer which does provide for minimum stay of a Government, employee on a particular station for three years but the State Government or for that matter, the authority competent, may transfer the employee prior to three years period on administrative ground or in administrative exigencies. Policies are merely guidelines and have no statutory force of law."

18. We have considered the submissions advanced on behalf of both sides by learned Counsel for the parties.

19. The question that falls for determination in this case is: Whether the deputation appointment in the petitioners' favour confers some kind of a right upon them, which cannot be curtailed by the orders impugned, relieving them of their position as Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat and asking them to join their substantive posts in the parent department?

20. All the law relating to deputation, which says that the deputationist has no right to the post, bears no lien on it and can be required by the lending or the borrowing employers to go back to his parent department, is said to have no application here, because there is a seminal distinction between a 'transfer on deputation' and an 'appointment on deputation'. There is no cavil about the legal position, where a deputationist is sent by the lending department or the employer to the borrowing employer, as a purely temporary arrangement, on deputation, which has been described as transfer on deputation.

21. In Kunal Nanda, the issue arose in the context of a claim for permanent absorption in the Central Bureau of Investigation by an Assistant Sub-Inspector of Police belonging to the CRPF, who had been sent there on deputation, apparently a transfer to the borrowing employer, without any kind of selection in accordance with Rules by the borrowing department. The facts in Kunal Nanda may best be described in the words of their Lordships:

"2. ..... The appellant, a member of CRPF and serving as an Assistant Sub-Inspector in the said parent Department w.e.f. 1-1-1987, joined the service of CBI on deputation in the same capacity as ASI on 1-8-1991. He continued to work as ASI on the deputation terms for the initial period, which came to be extended from time to time with the mutual consent of the lending and borrowing Department. In the year 1994, no doubt, the borrowing Department expressed an inclination for permanent absorption in CBI and sought for the concurrence of CRPF to which, it appears, the lending Department also conveyed its clearance.

3. It may be noticed at this stage that while on such deputation in CBI, the appellant was also appointed as Sub-Inspector on 1-6-1995 and in his parent Department also he was promoted as such. There are no specific statutory rules as such governing the question of absorption of a deputationist. On the other hand, the said subject is governed by departmental instructions and circular orders as per which the qualification and experience of the officers to be selected should be comparable to those prescribed for direct recruits to such posts where direct recruitment has also been prescribed as one of the methods of the appointment in the Recruitment Rules. In consonance with such procedure, the appellant was asked to undertake a written test. He made a formal application disclosing his credentials and on the basis of his performance in the written test, the record relating to the last five years' ACRs (Part I — Personal Data) for the period 1993-94 to 1997-98 in which the appellant mentioned about his basic educational qualification as BA and his performance in the interview, the Screening Committee constituted for the purpose recommended the absorption of the appellant in CBI as Sub-Inspector. But when the appellant was asked to produce the documents in original in support of his educational qualifications etc., the appellant started explaining that for a person of his standing in service the basic educational qualification of passing the senior secondary examination is enough and passing of the degree examination, may not be insisted upon. This was not only contrary to his earlier representation that he was a graduate but the Screening Committee's recommendation for absorption in CBI was also on the basis that the appellant was a graduate, as disclosed by him. This seems to have been taken also as proof of his doubtful integrity in furnishing wrong information about his educational qualification to be graduation to somehow gain absorption. Since, in terms of the relevant Rules the total period of deputation in the rank of ASI/SI including that of deputation in any other cadre/cadre post cannot be for more than five years, the appellant was repatriated to his parent Department and also relieved with effect from 31-1-1999 (AN) with a direction to report for duty to the parent Department. ....."

22. The appellant in Kunal Nanda, having concurrently failed in his challenge to the order of repatriation before the Central Administrative Tribunal and the High Court, appealed by special leave to their Lordships of the Supreme Court. Negativing the deputationist's claim, it was held:

"6. On the legal submissions also made there are no merits whatsoever. It is well settled that unless the claim of the deputationist for a permanent absorption in the department where he works on deputation is based upon any statutory rule, regulation or order having the force of law, a deputationist cannot assert and succeed in any such claim for absorption. The basic principle underlying deputation itself is that the person concerned can always and at any time be repatriated to his parent department to serve in his substantive position therein at the instance of either of the departments and there is no vested right in such a person to continue for long on deputation or get absorbed in the department to which he had gone on deputation. The reference to the decision reported in Rameshwar Prasad v. M.D., U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Ltd. [(1999) 8 SCC 381 : 2000 SCC (L&S) 60] is inappropriate since the consideration therein was in the light of the statutory Rules for absorption and the scope of those Rules. The claim that he need not be a graduate for absorption and being a service candidate, on completing service of 10 years he is exempt from the requirement of possessing a degree needs mention, only to be rejected. The stand of the respondent Department that the absorption of a deputationist being one against the direct quota, the possession of basic educational qualification prescribed for direct recruitment i.e. a degree is a must and essential and that there could be no comparison of the claim of such a person with one to be dealt with on promotion of a candidate who is already in service in that Department is well merited and deserves to be sustained and we see no infirmity whatsoever in the said claim."

23. No doubt, the decision in Kunal Nanda is about the right of a deputationist to be absorbed in the service of the borrowing department and the essence of that decision turns on the principle that a deputationist does not have a right to absorption in the borrowing department's service, unless his right is founded on a 'statutory Rule, Regulation or Order having the force of law', to borrow the words of their Lordships. But, this principle is about the right to seek absorption in the borrowing department's service, which is not involved here at all. Behind the holding in Kunal Nanda is also the underlying principle spoken of by their Lordships in clear words, that there is no right of the deputationist to continue in the service of the borrowing employer and he can be repatriated to his parent department at the instance of either of them. This principle, in turn, is apparently founded on the premise that a deputation arising in whatever manner and of whatever nature, to wit, a 'transfer on deputation' or an 'appointment on deputation', is after all not the conferment of a substantive right to hold a post or a lien as it is called.

24. S. Raghunathan was a case where the deputationists were Executive Engineers (Civil), employed with the Central Public Works Department, whose services had been placed at the disposal of the National Buildings Construction Corporation, New Delhi (for short, 'the NBCC') for appointment as Resident Engineer (Civil) on projects of the NBCC in Iraq for a period of two years initially, in public interest, as per terms and conditions of appointment shown in the office order appointing them issued by the NBCC. It was a case, no doubt, of a 'transfer on deputation', but never involved the rights of the deputationists to continue in service of the borrowing employer or a question of lien. The question involved was about the entitlement of the deputationists to a component of their pay, called 'foreign allowance', which, by the terms of their appointment, they were entitled to receive at the rate of 125% of their Basic Pay. The basic pay had been revised in terms of the Fourth Pay Commission, which the deputationists were held entitled to. However, the foreign allowance was paid at the rate of 125% (pre-revised) and not on the revised basic pay as per recommendations of the Fourth Pay Commission. The deputationists had claimed a revision of the foreign allowance in the revised basic pay as per the Fourth Pay Commission and invoked the principle of legitimate expectation to support their claim.

25. This claim of the deputationists, founded as it was on the doctrine of legitimate expectation, was repelled relying on Fundamental Rule 51, by holding foreign allowance not a component of the salary, but something akin to deputation (duty allowance), which was in the nature of a residuary perquisite. Sub-Rule (2) of Rule 51 of the Fundamental Rules was held to invest the Government with a discretion to pay the government servant on deputation in a foreign country such compensatory allowance as thought fit by the President. The payment of foreign allowance as well as its quantum was found to be left to the absolute discretion of the President, as it was not one of the conditions of agreement of deputation. The principle of legitimate expectation was held not to apply, because the right to receive foreign allowance was governed by policy decision of the President, in the absence of any right based on contract or otherwise. The legitimate expectation was held to have been displaced by policy decision.

26. The policy decision was noted to be based on an objective assessment of the prevailing circumstances, including the financial stringency forthcoming in Iraq. Also, the right based on a legitimate expectation was rejected in S. Raghunathan by their Lordships, because there were no pleadings in the writ petition to support that right. The policy decision was held not to suffer from any kind of arbitrariness. The decision in S. Raghunathan, though rendered in the context of a claim by a deputationist, but does not lay down any principle governing the right of a deputationist, whether transferred on deputation or appointed on deputation, to hold the post for a particular period of time. The principle of legitimate expectation has, no doubt, been expounded copiously by their Lordships, but again, in the context of the deputationists' right to receive the foreign allowance at the specified rate of their revised salary. It is not in the context of their right to hold the post on deputation. This decision, therefore, may not have much bearing on the point, except about the principle of legitimate expectation generally expounded there.

27. The Bench decision of this Court in Dr. O.P. Singh (supra) says it to be a case where members of the Agricultural Services, as it is described in the report, including the petitioner, were sent on deputation to different departments. The petitioner was sent on deputation as the Chief General Manager (Marketing) to the U.P. State Agro Industrial Corporation Limited. The facts show that the arrangement was purely interim or temporary. The petitioner was sent on deputation as aforesaid by an order dated 22nd June, 2001 and he took charge on the 26th June, 2001. By an order of the 29th June, 2002, the State Government posted another officer as the Chief General Manager (Marketing), U.P. State Agro Industrial Corporation Ltd., apparently ousting the petitioner in that case. In Dr. O.P. Singh, the ousted deputationist challenged his repatriation on ground that though initially the deputation was temporary and no terms and conditions were framed, but on 25th May, 2002, the terms and conditions of his deputation with the Corporation had come to be settled. One of the conditions framed was that the petitioner, who was described as a person engaged in something called 'outer services' and working on deputation on the position of the Chief General Manager (Marketing), would have a term of three years.

28. By the order of 29th June, 2002, the deputationist being repatriated to his parent department and another deputationist being brought in to substitute him, it was argued that without amending, altering or cancelling the order dated 25th May, 2002, carrying the terms and conditions of the petitioner's deputation, the order dated 29th June, 2002 was illegal and arbitrary. It was also urged that there was nothing against the petitioner in that case, who had been successfully working on his deputation. It was in the context of the aforesaid facts that their Lordships of the Division Bench, after noticing the decisions of the Supreme Court in S. Raghunathan as well as Kunal Nanda, observed:

"19. It is important to mention at this place that the learned standing counsel appearing for the State Government produced before us an order, a perusal whereof Indicates that State Government on 23rd January, 2002 took a policy decision of filling the posts in different corporations including the post of Chief General Manager (Marketing) in U. P. State Agro Industrial Corporation by an officer of the rank of Additional Director Agriculture, as such, the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that without upgrading the post, an officer of the rank of Additional Director Agriculture has been posted instead of posting Deputy Director Agriculture as Chief General Manager (Marketing) is not correct and has no force.

24. Applying the above principles, we are of the view that it is the prerogative of an employer to call back its employee from deputation or to post any other officer of higher rank in his place. Petitioner can have legitimate expectation where he has permanent lien but he has no right or lien on the deputation post even if he has been sent to the borrowing department for a specific period. We are further of view that the period of deputation can be curtailed by the employer at any point of time on administrative ground or in public interest. The policy pointed out by the petitioner is equivalent to the policy of transfer which does provide for minimum stay of a Government, employee on a particular station for three years but the State Government or for that matter, the authority competent, may transfer the employee prior to three years period on administrative ground or in administrative exigencies. Policies are merely guidelines and have no statutory force of law."

29. Mr. Khare, however, seeks to distinguish these decisions by submitting that a case of 'appointment on deputation' is materially different from a 'transfer on deputation', which we have already noted to this end. The facts in S.N. Maity leading to the appeal by special leave may best be recounted in the words of their Lordships:

"2. Shorn of the unnecessary details, the facts which are requisite to be stated are that the first respondent was working as a Scientist E-II in Central Mining Research Institute (Council of Scientific and Industrial Research). On 29-7-2003, he was appointed on deputation to the post of Controller General of Patents, Designs and Trade Marks (for short "Cgpdtm"). After serving there for one year, by Order F No. 8/52/2001-PP&C dated 31-8-2004, he was repatriated to his parent department. The said order was challenged before the Tribunal contending, inter alia, that he could not have been prematurely repatriated to his parent department and there had been a violation of the principle of audi alteram partem. The said stand of the first respondent was contested by the authorities of the Union of India proponing, inter alia, that he had no right to continue in the post as he was on deputation. Be it stated, some reliefs were claimed with regard to the TA bills and salary for certain period. The Tribunal accepted the stance put forth by the Union of India and dismissed the original application. However, as far as payment regarding TA and salary for certain period is concerned, the Tribunal directed that the same should be decided by the respondents after due verification in accordance with law.

3. Being dissatisfied with the aforesaid decision of the Tribunal, the first respondent invoked the jurisdiction of the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India. The High Court posed two questions, namely, whether Order F No. 8/52/2001-PP&C dated 31-8-2004 issued by Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion repatriating the petitioner to his parent department was illegal?; and whether the petitioner had the right to continue as the Controller General of Patents, Designs and Trade Marks?

4. The High Court after posing the questions took note of the fact that the Union of India had issued an advertisement in Employment News dated 20-10-2001/26-10-2001 calling for applications from eligible candidates for appointment to the post of Cgpdtm and the Ministry had proposed to fill up the post by transfer on deputation, including short-term contract. The first respondent, being eligible, applied through his parent department i.e. Central Mining Research Institute, Dhanbad and his selection was made by the Union Public Service Commission (for short "UPSC") which held interview on 4-6-2002 and finding him suitable, recommended his name for appointment. The competent authority approved the appointment of the first respondent, the petitioner before the High Court, for the post of Cgpdtm in the pay scale of Rs 18,400-500-22,400 on deputation basis for a period of five years or until further orders, whichever was earlier from the date of assumption of the charge of the post. The said order was communicated vide Letter No. 8/52/2001-PP&C (Vol. II) dated 23-6-2003 issued by the Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion. Thereafter, a letter of appointment dated 11-8-2003 was issued to the first respondent in the name of the President, appointing him on deputation basis for a period of five years or until further orders, whichever was earlier.

5. In pursuance of the aforesaid order of appointment, the first respondent joined the said post and continued to function, but after eleven months, the Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion, issued Order F No. 8/52/2001-

PP&C dated 31-8-2004 repatriating him to his parent department. The High Court, taking note of the factual backdrop, and the nature of the appointment of the first respondent, came to hold that his appointment was not a case of simpliciter deputation; that the employer did not have the prerogative to get him repatriated to his parent department as the controversy fundamentally related to appointment and the source of appointment i.e. deputation on transfer; that the principles inhered under Articles 14 and 16 were violated, for the authorities did not disclose the ground for which such appointment had been disturbed by repatriating him to the parent department; that in the absence of any reasonable or valid ground, the order was bound to be treated as arbitrary thereby inviting the frown of Article 14 of the Constitution of India; and that the Under-Secretary to the Government of India could not have passed the order of repatriation as the order of appointment was issued by the President of India. Being of this view, the High Court set aside the impugned order of repatriation and directed the writ petitioner to be reinstated in the post of Cgpdtm on similar terms and conditions with all consequential benefits."

30. We have already noticed the holding in this context in Paragraph No.15 of the report in S.N. Maity. The Court made a distinction between a 'transfer on deputation' on the one hand and an 'appointment on deputation' on the other. The hallmark of an appointment on deputation appears to be that it comes to the deputationist after going through a selection process for the deputation post, and if that is the nature of deputation, it is an appointment. It has also been laid down that if the appointment on deputation is made for a fixed tenure, a curtailment of it cannot be done in an arbitrary exercise of power. The curtailment must be informed by some rationale. The term in S.N. Maity was five years or until further orders. It was held that the words 'until orders' did not empower the employer to prematurely curtail the deputationist's term by a capricious act. Their Lordships then went on to look into the order of repatriation, which did not say for a reason, by as much as a word, why the deputationist was repatriated. Nevertheless, the deputationist's tenure in that case, which was for five years or until further orders, was prematurely curtailed at the end of eleven months. The High Court quashed the order and their Lordships approved of it in principle, upholding the distinction between a 'transfer on deputation' and an 'appointment on deputation'.

31. It is quite another matter that in S.N. Maity by time the appeal came up, the deputationist had already been repatriated and a long period of time had elapsed. Bearing that fact in mind and some principles noticed in that regard, the direction to reinstate was substituted by a direction to pay the entire salary to Maity, to which he was entitled serving on the deputation post for the entire period of five years minus the period that he had worked and drawn salary. That feature has no bearing on the principle here. It, therefore, has to be accepted for a principle that an appointment on deputation is essentially different from a transfer on deputation. The former confers a right to hold the post as it comes after a selection in accordance with Rules. The right is limited to the tenure mentioned in the appointment and subject to its own nature about the period of time etc. However, it is certainly different from a 'transfer on deputation', where there is no right to the post or a lien held with the consequence that a deputationist may be called back by the lending employer, the parent department, or repatriated by the borrowing employer. There is no concept of that kind in the context of an appointment on deputation. There is a right, which the employee may enforce, if infringed. The same distinction has been laid down by the Supreme Court between an 'appointment on deputation' on one hand and a 'transfer on deputation' on the other in Ashok Kumar Ratilal Patel (supra).

32. Now, it is to be seen if the right that the petitioners in this case have acquired has indeed been infringed. There is hardly an issue on facts that each of the petitioners here were selected in accordance with rules for the post of an Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat after the issue of an advertisement. They applied for the post, because they were eligible by virtue of being government servants, possessed of qualifications mentioned in the advertisement. They faced the selection committee for the purpose and were selected. Subsequently, the petitioners in the leading writ petition were appointed through appointment-cum-posting orders dated 31.01.2019, 26.02.2019 and 09.03.2019. The terms of appointment are carried in the orders dated 31.01.2019 and 26.02.2019. The relevant parts of these orders read:

"The order dated 31st January, 2019

(emphasis by Court)

33. A perusal of the terms of appointment as carried in the orders dated 31.01.2019 and 26.02.2019 would show that the appointments to the post of Executive Officers in various Nagar Palika Parishad and the Nagar Panchayat, in this case Nagar Panchayat alone, were made as protem appointments on deputation till such time that regular arrangement, which is to be understood as regular appointments, were made to the vacant posts. A perusal of the advertisement would show vide Note-2 that the appointment on deputation would be made for a period of one year or until regular arrangement was made, whichever be earlier.

34. The petitioners' case is that though the appointment was one made initially for a period of one year, the period of appointment has been extended and remained a constant engagement. Reference in this connection has been made to a Government Order dated 24th August, 2021, to which allusion has already been made, which extends the period for the petitioners on deputation by one year or until regularly selected candidates are posted. The petitioners say that there is a very large number of vacancies in the cadre of Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat and no substantive appointments have been made. Instead, the State Government have issued the impugned Government Order dated 05.07.2023, directing cancellation of these deputation appointments relying on older Government Orders of 16th March, 1999 and 16th March, 2019, which limit deputation to a period of three years and in special circumstances, make it five years. The submission is that the Government Order dated 16th March, 1999, which is the raison d'être for the Government to pass the impugned order dated 05.07.2023, cancelling the deputation appointments, is concerned with transfers on deputation and not appointments on deputation done in accordance with Rules after following the procedure prescribed. It is, therefore, submitted that the Government Order dated 05.07.2023 proceeds on manifestly illegal ground and a basis for the decision, that is not really attracted here. The basis for the decision carried in the impugned Government Order dated 05.07.2023 is, therefore, extraneous and irrelevant.

35. The other submission is that the impugned order dated 07.07.2023 passed by the Director of Local Bodies, already noticed, is that it is illegal, because he is the competent Authority to take a decision in the matter, but has chosen to act on the dictate and command of the Government. The last limb of the submission, again already noticed, is that the Government has taken a decision to remove all the Executive Officers appointed on deputation in accordance with Rules by one stroke of pen and have fallen foul of the principle in Shrilekha Vidyarthi (supra), which eschews such a course of action holding it an arbitrary exercise of power.

36. A perusal of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State shows that the stand of the State, on the other hand, is that at the time the petitioners were selected, pursuant to the advertisement dated 20.12.2018, to fill up the posts of Executive Officers of various categories as an arrangement to manage the shortage of hands, a letter of requisition dated 05.11.2018 was issued to the Commission to select candidates for posts of these Executive Officers. The Commission have recommended 107 names by a letter dated 16.01.2023. It is the respondents' case that of these 107 recommendees, all 107 have been appointed. Out of those appointed, 85 have joined services as Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat.

37. There is another requisition letter dated 01.01.2020 to the Commission, requiring them to select for another 97 posts and still another dated 24.07.2021 for the filling up 27 posts. A total of 107 posts of Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat are said to be in the process of selection and appointment. It is the Government's stand that bearing in mind the appointments already made and those to be shortly made, the appointments on deputation have been brought to an end and the officers repatriated, because their appointments were effective until time that regular appointments were made or the period specified.

38. Considering the matter on all possible vantage, the respondents are not right in saying that the principle of the normal deputation period for three years, as laid down in the Government Order dated 16.03.1999 being over, the petitioners would, in any case, have to be repatriated. They are also not right in saying that permitting a deputationist to continue up to five years, requires the approval of the Finance Department. These principles regarding the upper limit of the tenure of three years and the maximum of five years with the Finance Department's approval, appear to govern cases of 'transfer on deputation'; not 'appointments on deputation' made in accordance with Rules. Nevertheless, the advertisement relating to the post of Executive Officers, against which the petitioners applied, selected and appointed, shows that it is unequivocal about the terms and the tenure. It is a protem arrangement till regular selections and appointments are made. The term is one year or until a regular appointment is made, whichever is earlier.

39. The fact that it has been extended does not confer any kind of a right on the appointee on deputation to function beyond the term or the contingency of a regular arrangement being made. In this case, both contingencies have fallen. In the case of all the writ petitioners in the leading writ petition, they have served for more than a year on extended terms and the extended terms too have ended with efflux of time. Also, regular arrangements have been made with the selection of Executive Officers, Nagar Panchayat by the Commission. Hundred and seven Executive Officers have already been appointed, out of whom, 85 have joined. The appointments of others are said to be underway. In these circumstances, the writ petitioners in the leading writ petition, notwithstanding the fact that their's is a case of appointment on deputation, as distinguished from a transfer on deputation, have no right to continue beyond their term of appointment, which they have accepted with open eyes. They have, in any case, no right to continue in either contingency, both of which have fallen bringing to end their respective appointments.

40. So far as the writ petitioner of Writ-A No.11172 of 2023 is concerned, it was particularly emphasized by the learned Senior Counsel that the petitioner has not completed one year in office as an Executive Officer, since he joined much later after he had to enforce his rights through a writ petition before this Court and also contempt action. The petitioner in the connected writ petition aforesaid actually joined on 12.07.2022 and his services on deputation came to an end on 05.07.2023 in terms of the State Government's order to the Director, Local Bodies.

41. It cannot be lost sight of that the term of the appointment in this case also was one year or till regular arrangement was made. This fact is evident from a perusal of a memo dated 8th March, 2018 issued by the Director, Local Bodies to advertise the posts for deputation appointment. Thus, regular appointments, that have now been undertaken, would make the second contingency fall, curtailing the deputation appointment in its term. Also, in any event, now the term of one year is over, and, for the said reason, no relief on account of the curtailment of the petitioner's term, a few days before one year, can be a realistic basis to grant the relief of reinstatement. In the above conspectus of facts, the principle about the distinction between an 'appointment on deputation' and a 'transfer on deputation' laid down in Ashok Kumar Ratilal Patel and S.N. Maity would not come to the petitioners' aid.

42. There is still the other submission by the learned Senior Counsel to be answered, common in both matters, and that is, that the order dated 07.07.2023, determining the petitioners' deputation appointment has been passed on the dictate and command of the State Government. The repatriation, no doubt, has been directed on the command of the State Government carried in the Government Order dated 05.07.2023. There is no serious dispute raised that the competent Authority to order repatriation is the Director of Local Bodies and not the Government. The principle, therefore, in Anirudhsinhji Karansinhji Jadeja certainly applies and would have vitiated the order passed by the Director, but for the fact, that on an overall conspectus of the petitioners' rights and the manner and for the reasons that these have been determined, repatriating them, quashing the orders of the Director, would not make any material difference to the petitioners' right to relief. The reason again is that the term of appointment for each of the petitioners, that is limited to one year or until a regularly selected candidate joins, is a self-determining term with the passage of time. There is no quarrel about the fact that the petitioners' term of one year, last extended in each case, has expired. Also, regular arrangements have either been already made or in the process. Since this is the undisputed position, quashing the order dated 07.07.2023 passed by the Director, Local Bodies, would not entitle the petitioners to be reinstated in service or to any other relief, whatsoever. It is for the said reasons that there is no force in the contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners on this premise.

43. This takes us to the last limb of the submission advanced by Mr. Khare that the impugned order passed by the State Government is a 'one stroke action' of terminating all appointments on deputation for these Executive Officers on deputation, bringing in arbitrariness. The submission, as already noticed, is founded on the principle that individual cases ought to have been appraised and not a general direction, setting at naught all appointments on deputation made. In this connection, Mr. Khare has drawn the Court's attention to the following observations of the Supreme Court in Shrilekha Vidyarthi:

"33. No doubt, it is true, as indicated by us earlier, that there is a presumption of validity of the State action and the burden is on the person who alleges violation of Article 14 to prove the assertion. However, where no plausible reason or principle is indicated nor is it discernible and the impugned State action, therefore, appears to be ex facie arbitrary, the initial burden to prove the arbitrariness is discharged shifting onus on the State to justify its action as fair and reasonable. If the State is unable to produce material to justify its action as fair and reasonable, the burden on the person alleging arbitrariness must be held to be discharged. The scope of judicial review is limited as indicated in Dwarkadas Marfatia case [(1989) 3 SCC 293] to oversee the State action for the purpose of satisfying that it is not vitiated by the vice of arbitrariness and no more. The wisdom of the policy or the lack of it or the desirability of a better alternative is not within the permissible scope of judicial review in such cases. It is not for the courts to recast the policy or to substitute it with another which is considered to be more appropriate, once the attack on the ground of arbitrariness is successfully repelled by showing that the act which was done, was fair and reasonable in the facts and circumstances of the case. As indicated by Diplock, L.J., in Council of Civil Service Unions v. Minister for the Civil Service [(1984) 3 All ER 935] the power of judicial review is limited to the grounds of illegality, irrationality and procedural impropriety. In the case of arbitrariness, the defect of irrationality is obvious.

34. In our opinion, the wide sweep of Article 14 undoubtedly takes within its fold the impugned circular issued by the State of U.P. in exercise of its executive power, irrespective of the precise nature of appointment of the Government Counsel in the districts and the other rights, contractual or statutory, which the appointees may have. It is for this reason that we base our decision on the ground that independent of any statutory right, available to the appointees, and assuming for the purpose of this case that the rights flow only from the contract of appointment, the impugned circular, issued in exercise of the executive power of the State, must satisfy Article 14 of the Constitution and if it is shown to be arbitrary, it must be struck down. However, we have referred to certain provisions relating to initial appointment, termination or renewal of tenure to indicate that the action is controlled at least by settled guidelines, followed by the State of U.P., for a long time. This too is relevant for deciding the question of arbitrariness alleged in the present case.

35. It is now too well settled that every State action, in order to survive, must not be susceptible to the vice of arbitrariness which is the crux of Article 14 of the Constitution and basic to the rule of law, the system which governs us. Arbitrariness is the very negation of the rule of law. Satisfaction of this basic test in every State action is sine qua non to its validity and in this respect, the State cannot claim comparison with a private individual even in the field of contract. This distinction between the State and a private individual in the field of contract has to be borne in the mind.

36. The meaning and true import of arbitrariness is more easily visualized than precisely stated or defined. The question, whether an impugned act is arbitrary or not, is ultimately to be answered on the facts and in the circumstances of a given case. An obvious test to apply is to see whether there is any discernible principle emerging from the impugned act and if so, does it satisfy the test of reasonableness. Where a mode is prescribed for doing an act and there is no impediment in following that procedure, performance of the act otherwise and in a manner which does not disclose any discernible principle which is reasonable, may itself attract the vice of arbitrariness. Every State action must be informed by reason and it follows that an act uninformed by reason, is arbitrary. Rule of law contemplates governance by laws and not by humour, whims or caprices of the men to whom the governance is entrusted for the time being. It is trite that ‘be you ever so high, the laws are above you’. This is what men in power must remember, always.

43. Non-application of the mind to individual cases before issuing a general circular terminating all such appointments throughout the State of U.P. is itself eloquent of the arbitrariness writ large on the face of the circular. It is obvious that issuance of the impugned circular was not governed by any rule but by the whim or fancy of someone totally unaware of the requirements of rule of law, neatly spelled out in the case of John Wilkes [(1984) 3 All ER 935] more than two centuries back and quoted with approval by this Court almost a quarter century earlier in Jaisinghani case [(1967) 2 SCR 703, 718-19 : AIR 1967 SC 1427 : (1967) 65 ITR 34] . We have considered it necessary to re-emphasize this aspect and reiterate what has been said so often by this Court only because we find that some persons entrusted with the task of governance appear to be unaware of the fact that the exercise of discretion they have must be governed by rule, not by humour, whim, caprice or fancy or personal predilections. It also disturbs us to find that the Legal Remembrancer's Department of the State of U.P. which has the duty to correctly advise the State Government in such matters, overlooked the obvious and failed to discharge its bounden duty of correctly advising the State Government in matters of law. We would like to believe that the impugned circular was issued for want of proper legal advice in this behalf instead of any ulterior motive suggested by the petitioners/appellants."

44. Shrilekha Vidyarthi was a case that had emerged out of very different and unusual facts. By a circular letter dated 06.02.1990 issued by the Legal Remembrancer to the Government of Uttar Pradesh, the Government terminated, by a general order, the appointments of all Government Counsel (Civil/ Criminal and Revenue) in all the districts of the State w.e.f. 28th February, 1990 and directed the preparation of fresh panels of names for appointment in place of the incumbents. This was done irrespective of the fact if the incumbents had their term left to serve. There was no individual evaluation of cases. Apparently, the decision impugned in Shrilekha Vidyarthi came in the exercise of sudden and arbitrary exercise of power to determine the tenure of all State Counsel working in the districts by one stroke of pen, as it was described. The observations, to which Mr. Khare has drawn our attention, came in the background of that extraordinary situation of abuse of authority. Here, that is not remotely the case, as noticed much in detail. The appointment of the petitioners was, to begin with, an arrangement for such time that regular appointments were made to the posts of Executive Officers of the Nagar Panchayat. The appointments were limited to a year or until regular arrangements were made. If the Government have taken a decision upon regular selections being made not to continue with the appointments on deputation, which, in any case, would require an extension after every year, the same cannot be said to be in the teeth of the principle eschewing arbitrariness, as laid down in Shrilekha Vidyarthi. The submission, therefore, on that score is rejected.

45. In the result, this Court does not find any force in the writ petitions, both of which fail and are dismissed.

46. There shall be no order as to costs.

CIVIL SIDE
BEFORE THE HON'BLE AJIT KUMAR, J.

Writ A No. 11461 of 2019

C/M, Handia Post Graduate College, Prayagraj ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:

Sri Satyendra Nath Srivastava, Sri K.R. Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

U.P. Higher Education – Appointment to Class III & IV posts – Ban imposed by G.O. dated 15.03.2012 – Lifting vide G.O. dated 11.07.2013 – Scope.
Once ban stood lifted on 11.07.2013, no restriction remained operative on filling vacancies arising thereafter – Director's stand that ban continued for vacancies occurring after 11.07.2013 is misconceived – Lifting of ban is absolute, without any rider. (Paras 8–11, 14)

Appointment – Approval by Director of Higher Education – Refusal on ground of ban – Validity.Committee of Management was permitted on 07.01.2016 to proceed with selection for two posts of Junior Clerk and one post of Lab Assistant – Despite such conscious permission, Director disapproved selection of one Junior Clerk and Lab Assistant citing ban – Held, order unsustainable in law. (Paras 6, 8, 13, 15)

Ban on recruitment – Nature.
Ban orders are temporary executive measures, not absolute or perpetual – Once lifted, they cannot override statutory rules governing recruitment – To construe otherwise would permit executive fiat to supersede statutory scheme. (Para 14)

Held :Order dated 05.11.2018 insofar as it disapproves appointments of Arvind Kumar Singh (Junior Clerk) and Vineet Kumar Yadav (Lab Assistant) quashed – Director directed to accord necessary approval after verification of records within two weeks. (Paras 13, 15, 17)

Writ Petition Allowed.

CASE LAW DISCUSSED-

1. Committee of Management, Mahatma Gandhi Shanti Smarak Degree College, Ghazipur Vs St. of U.P. & ors. (Writ - A No. 26271 of 2018, decided on 09.01.2019)

2. Vipin Vs St. of U.P. & ors., 2013 (7) ADJ 274

3. St. of U.P. Vs Committee of Management, Mahatma Gandhi Shanti Smarak Degree College (Special Appeal No. 198 of 2020 and connected appeals) – dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri K.R. Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. By means of this petition, petitioner has questioned the order passed by the Director of Higher Education, Prayagraj dated 5th November, 2018, whereby, against one post of Junior Clerk, the selection of Krishna Yadav has been approved, whereas the selection of Arvind Kumar Singh on the another post of Junior Clerk and Sri Vineet Kumar Yadav on the post of Lab Assistant has been disapproved.

3. It is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that the reasons assigned in the order is unsustainable as the particular ban imposed in the year 2012 on the appointments against class III and class IV positions of such institutions came to be lifted on 11th July, 2013.

4. It is submitted that merely because the ban has come to be lifted on 11th July, 2013, does not mean that the post which had fallen vacant after 11th July, 2013, the managements were denuded of their power to make selections and appointments.

5. In support of his argument learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of a coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Committee of Management of Mahatma Gandhi

Shanti Smarak Degree College, Ghazipur and another v. State of U.P. and others (Writ ? A No.- 26271 of 2018) decided on 9th January, 2019. He submits that both the Government orders dated 11th July, 2013 and 15th March, 2012 were taken into consideration and the Court ultimately came to conclude that such approach of the authorities in taking as if there was still a ban in respect of the vacancy falling after 11th July, 2013 was incorrect. The Court in that case has set aside the order and Director was directed to pass order afresh in the light of the observations made in the judgment.

6. He further submits that it is after the lifting of the ban on 11th July, 2013 a conscious decision was taken by the authority in granting permission to the Committee of Management on 7th January, 2016 to proceed ahead with the selection of candidates upon the two posts of Junior Clerk and one post of Lab Assistant and, therefore, it cannot be said that the Committee of Management was not having the power or authority to make selection and appointment.

7. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel though sought to argue in support of the decision impugned in this case but could not dispute that a conscious decision had been taken to accord permission to fill up vacancy. He submits that in order to clear confusion on facts Director may be directed to reconsider the matter in the light of the judgment passed by this Court.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the record, what I find is that the permission to make selection upon the post in question (two posts of Junior Clerk and one post of Lab Assistant) was consciously taken by Joint Director of Higher Education for Director of Higher Education on 7th January, 2016 much after the ban was lifted. The authority was fully conscious about one post of Junior Clerk and one post of Lab Assistant that had fallen vacant after the ban got lifted, nonetheless the Director proceeded to disapprove the selection of one post of Junior Clerk and one post of Lab Assistant on the ground of ban.

9. I have gone through the judgment of a coordinate Bench of this Court and I find that in paragraph 5 of the judgment this very legal plea specifically taken by learned Standing Counsel was considered. Paragraph 5 of the judgment is reproduced hereunder:

"5. Learned Standing Counsel has obtain instructions, according to which the State Government vide Government Order dated 11.7.2013 has lifted the ban only in respect of posts which had fallen vacant till 11.7.2013, and that the vacancy, in the present case, since has arisen after 11.7.2013, therefore, ban imposed earlier vide order dated 15.3.2012 would continue to remain invoked."

10. Now after referring to both the Government orders in paragraph 6 & 7 of the judgment, learned Judge arrived at ratio in paragraph 9 that this view of lifting ban and make 11th July, 2013 as a cut off date, not to permit the selection and appointment upon the vacancy fallen thereafter was absolutely misplaced one.

11. It is held that the said Government order was general in nature and its applicability upon the institutions had stood lifted with the Government order dated 11th July, 2013. The Court concluded that lifting of ban was absolute ban and there was no rider whatsoever to draw an inference that the Government decided not to permit filling up the vacancies that were to fall vacant after 11th July, 2013. Paragraph 9 of the judgment is reproduced hereunder:

"9. There is absolutely no justification for any such distinction to be drawn based upon the date specified i.e. 11.7.2013. Such a categorization/ classification can not be construed as a reasonable classification inasmuch as it would have no intelligible differentia or object which is sought to be achieved. The same Government Order dated 15.3.2012was pressed as being the ground for denial of permission for filling up vacancies in Intermediate institution also. The Government Order on 15.3.2012, was also followed by subsequent Government Order dated 23.5.2013. After taking note of both the Government Orders, this Court in Vipin Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2013 (7) ADJ 274, has been pleased to hold that ban would not be available for the purposes of denying institution to fill up the post itself. No specific provision has otherwise been shown to the Court under the applicable statutory scheme which could have been invoked for the purposes of issuance of Government Order dated 15.3.2012. The said Government Order, otherwise, is general in nature and its applicability upon the institutions of higher leaving stands lifted under the Government Order dated 11.7.2013. In that view of the matter, the order passed by the Director of Education dated 4.9.2018 cannot be sustained and is accordingly quashed."

12. Again, I further find that against the judgment of the coordinate Bench of this Court cited above, the State of Uttar Pradesh unsuccessfully preferred a appeal being Special Appeal No.- 198 of 2020 and other connected special appeals, in which Division Bench also considered all these aspects of the matter and finally affirmed the decision taken by learned Single Judge. Vide paragraphs 12, 13 and 14 of the judgment of special appeal, the Court held thus:

"12. It is otherwise an admitted fact that no ban on the appointment of teachers was imposed. If that is so then how an Institution can run without Class III and Class IV staff is another issue to be debated but we are deliberately not touching this issue as the order dated 15.03.2012 is not under Section 66A of the Act of 1973.

13. Taking aforesaid into consideration, we supply additional reasons to cause interference the order dated 04.09.2018.

14. In view of above, we don't find any reason to cause interference the judgment dated 09.01.2019 and accordingly direction given in the operative para of the judgment would be carried by the respondents within a month if it has not been carried till date."

13. In view of the above legal proposition, I do not find any justification to sustain the order dated 5th November, 2018 insofar as it denies approval to the selection of one Arvind Kumar Singh and Vineet Kumar Yadav on the post of Junior Clerk and Lab Assistant respectively.

14. Besides the above, a ban on recruitment process is never absolute and has certain exception which order putting a ban itself may provide. Every ban is imposed for a certain period taking into consideration certain facts and circumstances. It cannot be for all time to come when recruitment process is governed by statutory rules. An executive order to impose ban is also to be subject to certain conditions and for a certain period otherwise, the Act and statutory rules would get superseded by executive acts/ fiats at its whims. Once such a ban is lifted, it should, therefore, be taken to have been lifted absolutely.

15. The order dated 5th November, 2018, accordingly, to that extent is hereby quashed.

16. The writ petition is allowed.

17. The Director of Higher Education, U.P., Prayagraj is directed to accord necessary approval after verification of the records in the selection procedure place before him and if otherwise there is no legal impediment, within a period of two weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 – Section 33-G(1) & (8) – Regularisation – Appointment against short-term vacancy – Payment of salary under Court's interim order – Effect.
Regional Selection Committee rejected claim for regularisation holding petitioner ineligible as he was drawing salary only under Court's order – Held, misconceived – Section 33-G(8) to be read conjunctively: both conditions i.e. invalid appointment and salary only under Court's order must exist – If appointment otherwise validly made under Removal of Difficulties Order/Section 18, claim for regularisation cannot be denied merely because salary was released pursuant to Court's interim order. (Paras 8, 16, 19)
Appointment – Validity – Evidence of short-term vacancy.

Promotion of incumbent (Saryu Yadav) as Head Master in 1996 created short-term vacancy – Petitioner appointed in 1997 with due procedure – District Inspector of Schools later confirmed his working and ordered salary – Continuous discharge of duties and assignment of examination duties from 1999 onwards establish valid appointment – Plea of management denying vacancy unsustainable. (Paras 2–4, 9, 14–15)
Regularisation – Equitable considerations.

Service of more than two decades cannot be nullified only on ground of technicalities – Supreme Court in Radhey Shyam Yadav Vs St. of U.P., AIR 2024 SC 260 held beneficiaries of management's irregularities cannot be penalised absent their complicity – Same principle applied. (Paras 20–21)

Held : Orders dated 25.04.2023 (Joint Director of Education) and 14.07.2023 (DIOS, Azamgarh) quashed – Matter remitted for fresh decision in light of Court's observations – To be completed within 30 days. (Paras 22–23)

Writ Petition Allowed.

4. Chief Engineer, M.S.E.B. Vs Suresh Raghunath Bhokare, (2005) 10 SCC 465

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri H.N.Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Ms. Manisha Chaturvedi, learned counsel for the Committee of Management and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. The petitioner before this Court is working as Assistant Teacher in LT Grade in a recognized and aided institution being run and managed by 6th respondent and claims that he has been working ever since he submitted his joining in the institution on 5.12.1997 pursuant to his initial appointment on 3.12.1997 taking recourse to provisions as contained under Second Removal of Difficulties Order, 1981 and read with Section 18 of the U.P. Secondary Education Service Commission Act, 1982. He claims to have been appointed against short term vacancy on account of one Saryu Yadav, the then Assistant Teacher in LT Grade upon getting promoted as head master in the institution in October, 1996.

3. He also claims to have possessed requisite qualification to be appointed as Assistant Teacher in LT Grade as per provision Appendix-A of the Intermediate Education Act, 1921, and therefore, Committee of Management rightly proceeded to adopt resolution accepting recommendation of the selection committee offering him appointment. The papers, according to the petitioner were forwarded by the Committee of Management on 8.12.1997 to the District Inspector of schools but the District Inspector of Schools refused to accord approval to the appointment of the petitioner and so also consequently he was not paid salary. It was when despite several representations made by him, no heed was paid by the District Inspector of Schools, petitioner approached the Lucknow bench of this Court by filing writ petition (SS) No. 4740 of 2009, in which a detail interim order was passed on 30th October, 2010 with the rider that in the event petitioner has been working upon being appointed against short-term vacancy and discharging duties as such then it will be equitable to pay him salary, accordingly he is entitled to salary.

4. The order dated 10th May, 2002 negating the claim of the salary of the petitioner was stayed, of-course the Court also ordered that in the event selected candidate joined the institution, automatically petitioner's appointment against post in question would come to end. After the interim order was passed as above by this Court on 30th August, 2010, the District Inspector of Schools, it appears enquired from the Principal of the institution regarding appointment and working of the petitioner as Assistant Teacher in LT Grade on ad hoc basis and upon furnishing of requisite information and documents by the then Principal of the institution that District Inspector of Schools proceeded to pass order for payment of salary. Thus petitioner has been drawing salary.

5. In the meanwhile, petitioner also filed writ petition being Service Single No. 13361 of 2001 seeking consideration of his claim for regularization in view of Section 33-G of the Act No. 5 of 1982 while disposing of the said petition under the order dated 27.7.2021, the Court also disposed of earlier petition of the petitioner being no. 47040 of 2009 on 27.7.2021 with a direction that petitioner would be continued in employment and shall be paid salary in terms of an interim order passed earlier by this Court on 30th August, 2010 till such time a final decision is taken by respondents in the matter of regularization as directed by this Court in the other writ petition no. 13361 of 2001.

6. It is in this above view of the matter that claim for regularization come to be decided by the Regional Selection Committee under the order impugned after hearing all the respective parties including Committee of Management and in its final resolution adopted by the Committee it negated the claim of the petitioner for regularization holding him not eligible as such for regularization not falling within the criterion laid down under Section 33-G(8) of Act No. 5 of 1982 as he was only getting salary under the orders of the High Court. It is this order which is under challenge before this Court.

7. In view of decision taken by Regional Selection Committee, the District Inspector of Schools came to pass consequential order on 14.7.2023. The Committee of Management though is an appointing authority but has not passed any order dispensing with services of petitioner as a consequence to the decision taken by the Regional Selection Committee as well as District Inspector of Schools. Thus, these two orders of Regional Selection Committee as well as District Inspector of Schools are under challenge before this Court.

8. The basic ground of attack is that Regional Selection Committee is not justified in returning a finding that petitioner was not entitled to regularization only for the reason that petitioner was getting salary under the orders of this Court whereas twin conditions as forwarded under Clause 8 of sub-section 33 G of invalid appointment coupled with payment of salary have to be fulfilled. In absence of finding qua appointment of the petitioner against short-term vacancy, Regional Level Selection Committee was not justified in passing such order.

9. It is also argued on behalf of the petitioner that petitioner falls in zone of consideration for regularization in view of Section 33G(1) of U.P. Act No. 5 of 1982. Besides above, it is argued on behalf of the petitioner that interim order was passed by this Court in Writ Petition SS No. 4740 of 2009 was not blanket stay order as it was subject to condition that petitioner had been appointed and had also been working and since District Inspector of Schools certified that petitioner was duly appointed and discharging his duties as Assistant Teacher in LT Grade in the institution, the payment of salary came to be made. Still further, it is submitted by learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, petitioner was continuously assigned duty of invigilator in board examinations regarding which several documents have been brought on record by means of rejoinder affidavit as annexure 4 from the period running from 1999 onwards.

10. Learned Standing Counsel has sought to justify the order for the reasons assigned therein and has submitted that the case of the petitioner would stand covered as held by Regional Selection Committee under Section 33-G (8).

11. Ms. Chaturvedi, learned counsel appearing for the Committee of Management has seriously contested the matter and submitted that neither there was any short term vacancy of Assistant Teacher in LT Grade available in the institution on the date petitioner claims to have been appointed nor, petitioner ever discharged his duties as such prior to the year 2010 when the District Inspector of Schools passed order for payment of salary. It is argued by learned counsel for the Committee of Management that if the teacher had not been lawfully appointed for want of requisite vacancy on the date of selection and appointment and he was discharging his duties as such, merely because petitioner produced the document on the date between cutt-of date prescribed as under Section 33 G (1) such teacher would not be entitled to payment of salary. It is next argued that District Inspector of Schools had, therefore, was not offering approval to the appointment of the petitioner and it was under interim order of the Court dated 30.08.2010 that District Inspector was compelled to pass order for payment of salary to the petitioner.

12. It is argued on behalf of the Committee of Management that it is just because petitioner has been getting salary on account of orders passed by this Court and consequential order by the education authority, this would not validate otherwise invalid appointment of the petitioner.

13. Yet another plea taken by learned counsel for the Committee of Management is that on the date of selection of appointment of petitioner, there was no Committee of Management with Anoop Singh, Manager of the Institution, and therefore, entire selection proceeding was at farce. According to her, it is all cooked up story set up by the petitioner and otherwise there is no such document available on record. Thus, she justifies the order passed by the Regional Selection Committee. However, she submits that regarding invalid appointment of the petitioner Manager had submitted a number of documents, which though has been referred to but not deliberated and discussed by Regional Selection Committee, and therefore, this lacuna was on the part of the Regional Selection Committee, otherwise findings would have been more in support of the management than what has come in the order impugned.

14. Meeting the argument of learned counsel appearing for the Committee of Management Mr. Khare has submitted that very specific pleading has come to be raised in Writ Petition vide paragraph 7,8 and 9 that it is on account of promotion of Saryu Yadav, the then Assistant Teacher as head master that a short term vacancy arose in October, 1996 in LT grade which Manager proceeded to fill up. He submits that paragraph 7,8 and 9 of writ petition has been very casually replied to in paragraph 13 of the counter affidavit. There is no specific denial according to him of the factum of promotion of Saryu Yadav as according to him the document that has been brought on record by way of attendance register as annexure 4 to the counter affidavit by Manager itself shows that Saryu Yadav was working in 2004-05 and onwards also as Head Master until he retired. He submits that when the Manager made a deposition regarding retirement of Saryu Yadav in the year 2010, he deliberately avoided refer to the post of head master and simply stated that he retired as Assistant Teacher. Besides above, he submits that nowhere in the entire counter affidavit, it has come to be referred as to why appointment otherwise would be bad except the averments that there was no effective Committee of Management on the date of selection and appointment.

15. To this above point, Mr. Khare has drawn attention of this Court to the attested signatures of Anoop Singh on 20th May, 1996 prior to appointment of the petitioner . He further submits that present Manager has taken over in the year 2017, and therefore, he cannot have any personal knowledge of the events that have taken place in the year 1997. Regarding existence of short-term vacancy, procedure was duly followed and selection was held. It is also argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that 33-G(8) as sought to be not interpreted by learned counsel for the Committee of Management is not not tenable because provision requires both conditions illegal appointment and then payment of salary under the order of a Court to be part to attract the provision. He has placed reliance upon the order of this Court in Pramod Kumar v. State of U.P. and Others in Writ A 1981 of 2021,

16. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the records, I find merit in the submission so advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner that merely because there was payment of of salary under the order of the Court, the claim for regularisation of the petitioner cannot be rejected treating his appointment to be invalid. Every appointment has to be decided on its own facts and is to be seen where minimum required procedure was followed or not under the relevant rules while making selection and appointment of the candidate against short-term/substantive appointment as the case may be. It so happens that many times authority do not pass orders for approval or even after approval for payment of salary. In such circumstances, therefore, such candidates are left with no other option but to have taken justice of the court of law and in the event, the Court entertain the petition and passes interim order, this mean a prima facie case made out for payment of salary in the eyes of the Court. Now while considering the claim for regularization since such candidates are obtaining payment of salary within their claim cannot be rejected salary on this ground. Each case is required to be tested on its own merits where order of court or no order if the appointment is valid in law then regularisation cannot be refused, however, where the approval is in the teeth of the Court then authority can take plea that regularisation will be subject to the final order that may be passed in the writ petition.

17. In Pramod Kumar's case (supra) relied upon by the counsel for the petitioner, the Court has observed thus:

A plain reading of Section 33-G of the U.P. Secondary Education (Services Selection Board) Act, 1982 makes it clear that the benefit of regularization to a Teacher other than the Principal or Head Master can be extended subject to the said candidate fulfilling the conditions as specified in Section 33-G (1) of the said provision. A plain reading whereof shows that no such condition exists to the effect that on account of non-payment of the salary for a particular period, the consideration of regularization can be denied to a person.

The submission of the learned Standing Counsel that the initial appointment of the petitioner was an improper exercise of power cannot be accepted as the same is not the basis for denying the benefit of consideration for regularization to the petitioner in the order impugned dated 25.1.2020. It is well settled that the reasoning cannot be supplemented by means of a counter affidavit or by means of argument and the validity of the order is to be seen only on the basis of the reasoning contained in the order impugned before the Court concerned. See Mohinder Singh Gill v. The Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi; (1978) 1 SCC 405.

That being the case, the order dated 25.1.2020 is quashed with further direction to consider the case of the petitioner for regularization afresh under Section 33-G of the U.P. Secondary Education (Services Selection Board) Act, 1982 and in the light of the judgment of this Court dated 14.9.2018 passed in Writ Petition No. 13181 of 1997. The said exercise shall be completed within a period of four months from the date of filing of a copy of this order before the Regional Level Committee.

Considering the fact that I have allowed the Writ-A No. 8234 of 2020 and have set aside the order impugned therein being the order dated 25.1.2020, accordingly the Writ-A No. 1981 of 2021 also deserves to be allowed as the sole reason for passing the termination order dated 6.1.2021 is the rejection of the claim of the petitioner for regularization vide order dated 25.1.2020.

Accordingly, the Writ-A No. 1981 of 2021 is also allowed. The order dated 6.1.2021 is set aside.

18. Now coming to the provisions contained under Section 33G (8) decision relied upon in Pramod Kumar's case (supra) conditions are required to be fulfilled and payment under the interim order/ final order of the Court. The relevant provisions as contained under Section 33-G 8 are reproduced hereunder:

33-G (8) Ad hoc teachers, who have not been appointed either in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Commission (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 1981 or in accordance with Section 18 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 and are otherwise getting salary only on the basis of Interim/Final orders of the court shall not be entitled for regularisation.

19. From the bare reading of the aforesaid provisions, it is clearly stipulated that one should be validly appointed and should be getting salary under the orders of the Court and now, therefore, if the candidate has been validly appointed and yet approval was not granted and has been therefore getting salary under the orders of this Court, claim for regularisation cannot be rejected, The word 'and' is to be read as conjunctive word 'and' here and not for disjunctive word 'or' because two negative conditions are to be read together to have purposive interpretation of sentence and impart of the provision.

20. In a very recent judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Radhey Shyam Yadav v. State of U.P. in Special Leave Petition (Civil) Nos. 3877-3878, AIR, 2024 SC 260 decided on 03.01.2024 Supreme Court has observed that for any unfair practise at the end of the officials of Board, a selecting body as in this case would be Committee of Management of the institution where incumbent has been discharging duties for more than two and half decades, beneficiaries cannot be penalized as such candidates were selected from open market and thus they were entitled to all service benefits like salary etc. and if department was of the view that it was all because of mischief of the officials of Board, it would be open for them to take action against them for recovery. Vide paragraphs 22 and 23 Supreme Court has held thus:

"22. Assuming the case of the State to be true and taking it at its highest, the factual position would come to this, namely, that while the State sanctioned two vacancies, the school went ahead and recruited three. The State has no proof of commission of any malpractice by the appellants. The State approved their appointments, and the approval order till date has not been cancelled. The appointments have not been terminated. No action has been taken against the school and the school continues to receive the aid.

23. Chief Engineer, M.S.E.B. and Another vs. Suresh Raghunath Bhokare, (2005) 10 SCC 465 is a case which, on facts, has a striking resemblance to the case at hand. The respondent therein had been recommended by the department and was selected as line-helper in the appellant-Board. On the ground that the recommendation was allegedly made fraudulently, the respondent was dismissed from service. The complaint preferred by the respondent had been dismissed by the Labour Court. The Industrial Court reversing the findings of the Labour Court, quashed the termination of the respondent therein and directed reinstatement. Writ Petition filed by the appellant therein was dismissed by the High Court. This Court, while observing that in the absence of any overt act being attributed to the respondent, held that it could not be inferred that the respondent had a role in sending fraudulent list, solely on the basis of the presumption that he got the job. Para 5 of the judgment which is crucial for the decision of the present case is extracted herein below:-

5. The entire basis of the dismissal of the appellant depends upon the factum of the alleged misrepresentation attributed to the respondent. The Industrial Court in its impugned order has noticed the fact that the respondent was appointed in April 1994 pursuant to the selection procedure followed by the competent authority and that he was selected by the panel of Selection Committee consisting of 6 members which included the very same Social Welfare Officer who had sent the proposal including the name of the respondent for appointment. It also noticed the fact that the selection in question was made after an oral interview and the required test as also the medical examination. The Industrial Court also noticed the fact that the appointment of the respondent was confirmed after one-year period and thereafter the respondent has been working without any complaint. The said Industrial Court also noticed the fact that the termination of the respondent was based on a show- cause notice issued on 5-7-1999 which was replied to by the respondent on 17-7-1999 and the termination was made in a summary procedure permissible under Rule 90(b) of the Service Regulations. The Industrial Court after perusing the pleadings and the notice issued to the respondent came to the conclusion that the alleged misrepresentation which is now said to be a fraud was not specifically pleaded or proved. In the show-cause notice, no basis was laid to show what is the nature of fraud that was being attributed to the appellant. No particulars of the alleged fraud were given and the said pleadings did not even contain any allegation as to how the appellant was responsible for sending the so-called fraudulent proposal or what role he had to play in such proposal being sent. It also noticed from the evidence of Mr

Waghmare, Social Welfare Officer who sent the proposal before the Labour Court that he did not utter a single word as to whether the said supplementary list was ever called for by the department concerned or not. Thus applying the basic principle of rule of evidence which requires a party alleging fraud to give particulars of the fraud and having found no such particulars, the Industrial Court came to the conclusion that the respondent could not be held guilty of fraud. The said finding of the Industrial Court has been accepted by the High Court*. Mr. Bhasme though contended that the fraud in question was played in collusion with the Social Welfare Officer and 2 other employees of the Board and action against the said 2 employees of the Board has been taken, but by that itself we are unable to accept the argument of Mr. Bhasme that there is material to support the contention of the Board that the appellant had also contributed to making the misrepresentation at the time of applying for the job with the Board.* In the absence of any such particulars being mentioned in the show- cause notice or at the trial, attributing some overt act to the respondent, we do not think the Board can infer that the respondent had a role to play in sending a fraudulent list solely on the basis of the presumption that since the respondent got a job by the said proposal, the said list is a fraudulent one. It was the duty of the Board to have specifically produced the material to prove that the respondent himself had the knowledge of such a fraud and he knowingly or in collusion with other officials indulged in this fraud. Since there is no such material on record, on the facts of the instant case, the Industrial Court and the High Court have come to the right conclusion that the alleged fraud has not been established by the appellants, hence, this is not a fit case in which interference is called for. This appeal, therefore, fails and the same is dismissed."

(emphasis supplied)

21. In view of above the only exception in matters of such appointment is where incumbent himself is found guilty or part of conspiracy as may be alleged by the department in getting selection and appointment however, where it is all done by management and beneficiary of selection has not been responsible, such harsh action should not be taken after more than ten years of regular service.

22. In view of above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 25.4.2023 passed by Joint Director of Education (Secondary Education) Azamgarh Region, Azamgarh as well as order dated 14.7.2023 passed by District Inspector of Schools, Azamgarh are hereby quashed. Respondents are directed to pass order afresh in the light of observations made hereinabove. Appropriate order shall be passed within thirty days from the date of certified copy of this order.

23. Thus this petition stands allowed in above terms with no order as to cost.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Birla, J.)

1. Heard Shri Gulab Chandra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Krishna Kumar Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner is seeking quashing of the order dated 10.08.1989 passed by Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut as well as the order dated 24.12.1994 passed by the Deputy Inspector General of Police and the order dated 25.04.1997 passed by the Inspector General of Police and the order dated 22.10.2003 passed by the Tribunal in Claim Petition No.709 of 2003.

3. Stamp reporter has reported laches of 7 years and 29 days in filing present petition on the date of reporting on 18.02.2011.

4. To explain the delay learned counsel for the petitioner has drawn our attention to paragraph nos. 2 and 14 to 37. The grounds for explaining the laches of 7 years and 29 days is that after decision of the Tribunal dated 22.10.2003, petitioner reached Allahabad on 01.01.2004 where some imposter met him at Allahabad Railway Station and took him to Advocate Shri Suresh Swaroop Saxena, who ultimately promised to file a petition and take all relevant papers along with expenses and get his signature on Vakalatnama and some other watermark papers on 01.01.2004 and Shri Suresh Swaroop Saxena also gave his landline number. The petitioner thereafter waited for six months. Thereafter on 04.08.2004 he was informed that a counter affidavit was called for. Subsequently, on 06.12.2004 it was informed that no counter affidavit was filed. Thereafter, the petitioner came to Allahabad on 08.07.2005 for filing rejoinder affidavit and expenses were also given. It is stated that the petitioner was in continuous touch with Shri Saxena and he always assured him that he need not to worry about the case and the case would come on his turn for hearing. Thereafter after waiting long time on 18.12.2010 he tried to contact with Shri Saxena, then some lady in the house of Shri Saxena took the phone and said that Shri Saxena is no more. Thereafter, petitioner came to Allahabad on 20.12.2010 and contacted the family of Shri Saxena and tried to find out records of his case, but the same cannot be found. Thereafter, he contacted the present counsel, who made enquiries and found that no such petition was filed in the name of the petitioner, namely, Noor Mohammad either in the Allahabad High Court or in the Lucknow Bench of the Allahabad. The petitioner, therefore, engaged the present counsel and handed over all the relevant papers after obtaining fresh certified copy of the order dated 22.10.2003 and thereafter the present petition was filed by Shri Gulab Chandra, learned counsel.

5. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that there is no deliberate delay on the part of the petitioner and such huge delay is liable to be condoned.

6. Although, the explanation so submitted seems to be faultless, however, we are not impressed as the petitioner, who was working as Constable in civil police was dismissed from service is undisputedly a literate person and in case the alleged petition was filed by the earlier counsel, he neither tried to take copy of the petition, nor copy of the counter affidavit or copy of the rejoinder affidavit filed in such petition for long seven years. Further, he not even cared to ask the number of the writ petition allegedly filed at his instance from the counsel for all such long more than 7 years, therefore, we are not convinced with the explanation so submitted.

7. We have also noticed that Claim Petition no.709 of 2003 filed by the petitioner before the Tribunal was also not within one year of limitation as against the order dated 25.04.1997 the claim petition was filed after six years on 13.08.2003.

8. However, in view of the fact that present petition is pending for the last 13 years and affidavits have also been exchanged, we proceed to consider the case on merits.

9. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that charge against the petitioner was that on 05.12.1986 he was found lying in police uniform in a drunken state at Hapur Bus Stand and was taken to the police station and thereafter his medical examination was conducted. As per medical report, he was in a drunken state. Thereafter, a preliminary enquiry was conducted; witnesses were examined and in the preliminary enquiry the charges were found to be proved that he was found lying in a drunken state in police uniform at Hapur Bus Stand and he tarnished the image of the Police Department, therefore, inquiry was directed to be conducted.

10. It is submitted that in the regular inquiry, the petitioner filed an application dated 14.11.1998 for examining the doctor concerned, who alleged to have issued the medical certificate, but his application was not considered. Thereafter, the petitioner moved another application dated 28.11.1988 before the Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut for deputing another Presiding Officer but this application was also not considered. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that Enquiry Officer has not afforded proper opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, nor he appreciated the explanation submitted by him; he also did not record any cogent finding of facts and submitted final enquiry report dated 05.06.1989 before Disciplinary Authority. On the aforesaid report, a show cause notice was issued to him on 19.06.1989, to which petitioner submitted his explanation on 19.07.1989 through Reserve Inspector (R.I.) but the said explanation was ignored. Thereafter, the Senior Superintendent of Police without giving any notice for oral evidence, dismissed the petitioner from service by the impugned order dated 10.08.1989, which is in contravention of Service Rules. Against the said order dated 10.08.1989, the petitioner preferred an appeal before the Deputy Inspector General of Police, which was rejected in a most mechanical manner without application of mind on 24.12.1994. Thereafter, the petitioner preferred a Revision before the Inspector General of Police, which was rejected on 25.04.1997. Thereafter, the petitioner approached the Tribunal by filing Claim Petition No.709 of 2003, which was rejected by the Tribunal vide order dated 22.10.2003 on the ground of latches.

11. Further submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that prescribed procedure has not been followed in the proceedings against the petitioner and the petitioner has been illegally dismissed from service. He submits that the alleged misconduct does not warrant any major penalty under the provision of U.P. Police Subordinate Officer (Punishment and Appeals) Rules, 1991. Submission, therefore, is that the impugned orders are liable to be quashed.

12. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel for the State-Respondent submitted that due procedure as applicable for conducting enquiry was conducted and the petitioner was afforded full opportunity of hearing and it is a case of gross misconduct where the petitioner was found lying at Hapur Bus Stand in a drunken state in police uniform. The petitioner being a Constable is a member of disciplined force has committed gross misconduct and has rightly been dismissed from service. Learned Standing Counsel further submitted that there are huge laches in approaching the Tribunal, therefore, Tribunal has rightly dismissed the Claim Petition filed by the petitioner being time barred and orders of Disciplinary Authority are also in accordance with law warranting no interference. Submission, therefore, is that the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

13. We have considered the rival submissions and perused the records.

14. Before proceeding further it would be appropriate to take note of the law as settled by Hon'ble Apex Court in respect of judicial review in disciplinary proceedings particularly in a case where member of disciplined force was found intoxicated. One of us (Vivek Kumar Birla, J.) has considered the law in almost identical facts of the case in Mahipal vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2018 (4) ADJ 258 relating to U.P. Police Officers of Subordinate Rank (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991, where the petitioner was found to have consumed liquor; his medical examination was conducted and thereafter, he was dismissed from service. Paragraph 10 whereof is quoted as under:-

"10. I have considered identical submissions in another matter being Writ-A No. 61116 of 2011 (Satya Prakash Singh vs. State of UP and others). Relevant paragraphs whereof are quoted as under:

"The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner was not medically examined and his blood and urine test was not carried out to ascertain that he had taken liquor or not. He submits that the punishment of dismissal from service is excessive. He further submits that there was no eye witness of the incident.

A perusal of record clearly indicates that a finding of fact has been recorded that an incident had taken place and the petitioner had indulged in scuffle, while he was under intoxication. All these findings of fact cannot be looked into under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. However, even a glance over the enquiry report clearly demonstrates that the incident that had taken place is not in dispute and the petitioner had tried to certify the question of intoxication by saying that he was under treatment of a Homoeopathic doctor and was having medicines containing alcohol and that he had consumed medicine in a little excessive quantity. The medical examination of the petitioner was carried out at the Primary Health Centre, Gangapur, Varanasi and the doctor had certified that foul smelling was coming from the petitioner and he was also injured. Dr. B.N. Shukla who was treating the petitioner and was produced by the petitioner had stated that smell of alcohol exists about 10 -15 minutes after consumption of medicines. Undisputedly, it cannot be said that such medicine was taken by the petitioner on the spot of the incident whereas he was also taken to the Primary Health Centre and in between considerable time must have expired but still foul smell was coming from the mouth of the petitioner, which according to his own witness Dr. B.N. Shukla, Homoeopath, smell should not come after 10 -15 minutes, even if the version of the petitioner is taken to be correct that he had consumed homoeopathic medicine and was smelling foul for this reason.

Under any circumstances, I do not find that the findings recorded by the enquiry officer are so perverse in nature which may warrant interference by this Court. The petitioner is a member of disciplined force and as such for such misconduct I do not find that any interference to the quantum of punishment is required by this Court. Reference may be made in this regard to a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Samar Bahadur Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others 2011 (9) SCC 94 wherein a constable was found guilty of consuming liquor, the Hon'ble Apex Court refused to interfere. A reference may also be made to a judgment in the case of Union of India Vs. P. Gunasekaran 2015 (2) SCC 610. Paragraphs 19, 20 and 21 of the judgment in the case of P. Gunasekaran supra are quoted as under:

"19. The disciplinary authority, on scanning the inquiry report and having accepted it, after discussing the available and admissible evidence on the charge, and the Central Administrative Tribunal having endorsed the view of the disciplinary authority, it was not at all open to the High Court to reappreciate the evidence in exercise of its jurisdiction under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution of India.

20. Equally, it was not open to the High Court, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, to go into the proportionality of punishment so long as the punishment does not shock the conscience of the court. In the instant case, the disciplinary authority has come to the conclusion that the respondent lacked integrity. No doubt, there are no measurable standards as to what is integrity in service jurisprudence but certainly there are indicators for such assessment. Integrity according to Oxford dictionary is "moral uprightness; honesty". It takes in its sweep, probity, innocence, trustfulness, openness, sincerity, blamelessness, immaculacy, rectitude, uprightness, virtuousness, righteousness, goodness, cleanness, decency, honour, reputation, nobility, irreproachability, purity, respectability, genuineness, moral excellence etc. In short, it depicts sterling character with firm adherence to a code of moral values.

21. The impugned conduct of the respondent working as Deputy Office Superintendent in a sensitive department of Central Excise, according to the disciplinary authority, reflected lack of integrity warranting discontinuance in service. That view has been endorsed by the Central Administrative Tribunal also. Thereafter, it is not open to the High Court to go into the proportionality of punishment or substitute the same with a lesser or different punishment. These aspects have been discussed at quite length by this Court in several decisions including B.C. Chaturvedi v. Union of India and others, 1995 (6) SCC 749, Union of India and another v. G. Ganayutham, 1997 (7) SCC 463, Om Kumar and others v. Union of India, 2001 (2) SCC 386, Coimbatore District Central Cooperative Bank v. Coimbatore District Central Cooperative Bank Employees Association and another, 2007 (4) SCC 669, Coal India Limited and another v. Mukul Kumar Choudhuri and others, 2009 (15) SCC 620 and the recent one in Chennai Metropolitan Water Supply (supra)."

Relevant paragraphs 5, 6 and 8 of the judgement in Samar Bahadur Singh (supra) are quoted as under:

"5. Counsel appearing for the Appellant has submitted before us that a criminal case was also instituted for the aforesaid incident in which he was acquitted and therefore, in the departmental proceeding also which was initiated he should also have been acquitted and the same should have been allowed to be ended in his favour. He further submits that in any case it has come in evidence that the Appellant was advised to take medicine which he had taken and, therefore, there was some smell of liquor from the medicine when a medical check-up was done. Relying on the same, counsel submits that the entire charge is concocted and therefore, he is required to be held not guilty of the charge. The next submission of the counsel appearing for the Appellant is that the punishment given to the Appellant is disproportionate to the charges levelled against him.

6. We have considered all the aforesaid submissions in the light of the records that are available with us. The medical report which is placed on record indicates that the Appellant had consumed alcohol, but he was not intoxicated. The Appellant was missing from the headquarters on 27.10.1991 from the morning and he was caught in the case registered under Section 392I.P.C. in the evening. The Appellant wishes to make a defence that he was advised to take medicine but the prescription which is placed in the departmental proceedings does not indicate that any medicine was prescribed in that prescription. The Appellant was arrested in the criminal case in connection with stealing of a bottle of foreign liquor and even during that time he had consumed alcohol prior to the incident. These facts have been brought out in the inquiry proceedings initiated against him in which the Appellant did not participate. Therefore, whatever allegations have been brought against him, have been proved by placing cogent materials on record, which go unrebutted due to his absence in the proceedings. We also find that the Appellant has been charged on the ground of negligence, dereliction of duty and consuming liquor. The aforesaid facts are found proved in the departmental proceedings.

8. Now, the issue is whether punishment awarded to the Appellant is disproportionate to the offence alleged. The Appellant belongs to a disciplinary force and the members of such a force is required to maintain discipline and to act in a befitting manner in public. Instead of that, he was found under the influence of liquor and then indulged himself in an offence. Be that as it may, we are not inclined to interfere with the satisfaction arrived at by the disciplinary authority that in the present case punishment of dismissal from service is called for. The punishment awarded, in our considered opinion, cannot be said to be shocking to our conscience and, therefore, the aforesaid punishment awarded does not call for any interference."

15. In Union of India and Others vs. Constable Sunil Kumar, AIR 2023 SC 554 wherein the C.R.P.F. personnel was found to have consumed liquor while on government duty and threatened the senior officer. While upholding the dismissal and considering the argument that penalty of dismissal was disproportionate to wrong/misconduct committed, order of dismissal was found to be justified and it was held that such penalty of dismissal cannot be said to be disproportionate and/or strikingly disproportionately to the gravity of the wrong and under the circumstances of the case order of Division Bench interfering in the order of penalty of dismissal imposed and ordering reinstatement of the respondent. Paragraphs 6.1, 6.2, 6.3 whereof are quoted as under:-

"6.1 While holding that the penalty of dismissal can be said to be disproportionate to the gravity of the wrong, what is weighed with the Division Bench of the High Court is that as the respondent was found to be in a state of intoxication when not on duty and considering Section 10, he is deemed to have committed a less heinous offence. Whether a member of the force has committed a heinous offence or a less heinous offence as per Sections 9 and 10 of the CRPF Act, 1949 would have bearing on inflicting the punishment as provided under Sections 9 and 10 but has no relevance on the disciplinary proceedings/departmental enquiry for the act of indiscipline and/or insubordination. In the case of Surinder Kumar (supra), it is observed that even in a case when a CRPF personnel was awarded imprisonment under Section 10(n) for an offence which though less heinous, he can be dismissed from service, if it is found to be prejudicial to good order and discipline of CRPF. Under the circumstances, the reasoning given by the High Court that as the respondent is deemed to have committed a less heinous offence, the order of penalty of dismissal can be said to be disproportionate is not required to be accepted.

6.2 Even otherwise, the Division Bench of the High Court has materially erred in interfering with the order of penalty of dismissal passed on proved charges and misconduct of indiscipline and insubordination and giving threats to the superior of dire consequences on the ground that the same is disproportionate to the gravity of the wrong. In the case of Surinder Kumar (supra) while considering the power of judicial review of the High Court in interfering with the punishment of dismissal, it is observed and held by this Court after considering the earlier decision in the case of Union of India Vs. R.K. Sharma; (2001) 9 SCC 592 that in exercise of powers of judicial review interfering with the punishment of dismissal on the ground that it was disproportionate, the punishment should not be merely disproportionate but should be strikingly disproportionate. As observed and held that only in an extreme case, where on the face of it there is perversity or irrationality, there can be judicial review under Article 226 or 227 or under Article 32 of the Constitution.

6.3 Applying the law laid down by this Court in the aforesaid decision(s) to the facts of the case on hand, it cannot be said that the punishment of dismissal can be said to be strikingly disproportionate warranting the interference of the High Court in exercise of powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In the facts and circumstances of the case and on the charges and misconduct of indiscipline and insubordination proved, the CRPF being a disciplined force, the order of penalty of dismissal was justified and it cannot be said to be disproportionate and/or strikingly disproportionate to the gravity of the wrong. Under the circumstances also, the Division Bench of the High Court has committed a very serious error in interfering with the order of penalty of dismissal imposed and ordering reinstatement of the respondent."

16. Relying upon the aforesaid judgments Honourable Division Bench of the Delhi High Court in Writ Petition C) No.1883 of 2010 (Ex CT/GD Om Prakash vs. Union of India and Others) under similar charges upheld the punishment of dismissal observing that the member of police force is expected to be highly disciplined and cannot be permitted to do away with such like activities.

17. A reference may also be made to the judgment of Hon'ble apex Court in Ex-Constable/Dvr Mukesh Kumar Raigar vs. Union of India and Others, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 27. Paragraphs 12 and 13 whereof reads as under:-

"12. Again, a three-judge Bench in case of Deputy General Manager (Appellate Authority) & Ors. vs. Ajai Kumar Srivastava, circumscribing the power of judicial review by the constitutional courts held as under:

"24. It is thus settled that the power of judicial review, of the constitutional courts, is an evaluation of the decision-making process and not the merits of the decision itself. It is to ensure fairness in treatment and not to ensure fairness of conclusion. The court/tribunal may interfere in the proceedings held against the delinquent if it is, in any manner, inconsistent with the rules of natural justice or in violation of the statutory rules prescribing the mode of enquiry or where the conclusion or finding reached by the disciplinary authority is based on no evidence. If the conclusion or finding be such as no reasonable person would have ever reached or where the conclusions upon consideration of the evidence reached by the disciplinary authority are perverse or suffer from patent error on the face of record or based on no evidence at all, a writ of certiorari could be issued. To sum up, the scope of judicial review cannot be extended to the examination of correctness or reasonableness of a decision of authority as a matter of fact.

25. xxxxxxx

26. xxxxxxx

27.xxxxxxxx

28. The constitutional court while exercising its jurisdiction of judicial review under Article 226 or Article 136 of the Constitution would not interfere with the findings of fact arrived at in the departmental enquiry proceedings except in a case of mala fides or perversity i.e. where there is no evidence to support a finding or where a finding is such that no man acting reasonably and with objectivity could have arrived at those findings and so long as there is some evidence to support the conclusion arrived at by the departmental authority, the same has to be sustained."

13. In view of the afore-stated legal position, we are of the opinion that the Division Bench of the High Court had rightly set aside the order passed by the Single Bench, which had wrongly interfered with the order of removal passed by the respondent authorities against the petitioner. The petitioner having been found to have committed gross misconduct right at the threshold of entering into disciplined force like CISF, and the respondent authorities having passed the order of his removal from service after following due process of law and without actuated by malafides, the court is not inclined to exercise its limited jurisdiction under Article 136 of the Constitution."

18. The law regarding the scope of judicial review by the constitutional courts was again considered in the case of Indian Oil Corporation and Ors. Vs. Ajit Kumar Singh and Anr., AIR 2023 SC 2388. Relevant extract whereof reads as under:-

".....The views expressed by this Court on the scope of judicial review in Deputy General Manager (Appellate Authority) vs. Ajai Kumar Srivastava 1 , are extracted below:

"24. It is thus settled that the power of judicial review, of the constitutional courts, is evaluation of the decision-making process and not the merits of the decision itself. It is to ensure fairness in treatment and not to ensure fairness of conclusion. The court/tribunal may interfere in the proceedings held against the delinquent if it is, in any manner, inconsistent with the rules of natural justice or in violation of the statutory rules prescribing the mode of enquiry or where the conclusion or finding reached by the disciplinary authority is based on no evidence.

If the conclusion or finding be such as no reasonable person would have ever reached or where the conclusions upon consideration of the evidence reached by the disciplinary authority are perverse or suffer from patent error on the face of record or based on no evidence at all, a writ of certiorari could be issued. To sum up, the scope of judicial review cannot be extended to the examination of correctness or reasonableness of a decision of authority as a matter of fact.

25-27 xx xx xx

28. The constitutional court while exercising its jurisdiction of judicial review under Article 226 or Article 136 of the Constitution would not interfere with the findings of fact arrived at in the departmental enquiry proceedings except in a case of mala fides or perversity i.e. where there is no evidence to support a finding or where a finding is such that no man acting reasonably and with objectivity could have arrived at those findings and so long as there is some evidence to support the conclusion arrived at by the departmental authority, the same has to be sustained ."

(emphasis supplied)

19. Reference may also be made to the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India and Others vs. P. Gunasekaran, (2015) 2 SCC 610 wherein it was held that once the finding of fact recorded by the disciplinary authority has been affirmed by the Tribunal, it was not open to the High Court, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, to go into the proportionality of punishment so long as the punishment does not shock the conscience of the Court. Paragraphs 12, 13, 20, 21 and 24 of the judgment are quoted as under:-

"12. Despite the well-settled position, it is painfully disturbing to note that the High Court has acted as an appellate authority in the disciplinary proceedings, re-appreciating even the evidence before the enquiry officer. The finding on Charge no. I was accepted by the disciplinary authority and was also endorsed by the Central Administrative Tribunal. In disciplinary proceedings, the High Court is not and cannot act as a second court of first appeal. The High Court, in exercise of its powers under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, shall not venture into reappreciation of the evidence.

The High Court can only see whether:

a. the enquiry is held by a competent authority;

b. the enquiry is held according to the procedure prescribed in that behalf;

c. there is violation of the principles of natural justice in conducting the proceedings;

d. the authorities have disabled themselves from reaching a fair conclusion by some considerations extraneous to the evidence and merits of the case;

e. the authorities have allowed themselves to be influenced by irrelevant or extraneous considerations;

f. the conclusion, on the very face of it, is so wholly arbitrary and capricious that no reasonable person could ever have arrived at such conclusion;

g. the disciplinary authority had erroneously failed to admit the admissible and material evidence;

h. the disciplinary authority had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which influenced the finding;

i. the finding of fact is based on no evidence.

Under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, the High Court shall not:

(i). re-appreciate the evidence;

(ii). interfere with the conclusions in the enquiry, in case the same has been conducted in accordance with law;

(iii). go into the adequacy of the evidence;

(iv). go into the reliability of the evidence;

(v). interfere, if there be some legal evidence on which findings can be based.

(vi). correct the error of fact however grave it may appear to be; (vii). go into the proportionality of punishment unless it shocks its conscience."

20. On perusal of the above quoted law it is, therefore, now well settled position that the High Court shall only look into the aspect as to whether the enquiry was conducted as per procedure; the High Court shall not reappreciated the evidence; the High Court shall not interfere with the conclusion in the enquiry, in case the same has been conducted in accordance with law; the High Court shall not go into the adequacy of the evidence; the High Court shall not go into the reliability of the evidence; the High Court shall not interfere, if there be some legal evidence on which the findings can be based; the High Court shall not correct the error of facts, however grave it may appear to be; the High Court shall not go into the proportionality of punishment unless it shocks its conscience.

21. We need not burden our judgment by making reference to other case law wherein such settled principles of law have been reiterated.

22. Now, reverting back to to the facts of the present case we may recollect that charge on the petitioner was that on 05.12.1986 at about 3:40 pm he was found lying in police uniform in a drunken state at Hapur Bus Stand near Tanga Stand. Perusal of inquiry report would clearly reflect that he was granted full opportunity of hearing by fixing dates for the purpose of submitting his reply for producing evidence and witnesses in his favour. It has also clearly come on record that when he was found in a drunken state he was immediately taken to the police station and immediately thereafter his medical examination was conducted. Dr. S.N. Sharma in his report has clearly written that he has consumed alcohol and is under deep intoxication. This report was supplied to him. The witnesses on behalf of the Department were examined. The petitioner was not present on several dates. It has further been mentioned in the enquiry report that after conclusion of the evident of the prosecution side on 29.04.1989 special messenger was sent to the resident of the delinquent employee that statement of prosecution witnesses are over and he may produce any witness or submit statement in his defence. This communication was duly served upon him, however, he did not appear before the Disciplinary Authority thereafter impugned order of dismissal from service dated 10.08.1989 was passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Meerut. Representation filed by the petitioner against the said order was also rejected by the Deputy Inspector General of Police on 24.12.1994. Thereafter, petitioner filed revision which was also rejected vide impugned order dated 25.04.1997 passed by the Inspector General of Police. Subsequently, the petitioner approached the State Public Services Tribunal challenging the aforesaid orders. The Tribunal recorded that no claim petition was filed before the Tribunal within one year and there was delay of about six years in filing the claim petition, therefore, the same was dismissed on the ground of delay at the admission stage itself. So far as the present petition is concerned, the Stamp Reporter has reported laches of 7 years and 29 days in filing the present petition on the date of reporting on 18.02.2011. The explanation submitted by the petitioner has already been considered by the Court on the sole ground that the petiton was pending for last about 13 years.

23. In this background of the case we find that there was no procedural defect in conducting the enquiry; finding of facts have been recorded that the petitioner was found lying in police uniform in a drunken state at Hapur Bus Stand near Tanga Stand and Doctor has also certifying the same. The petitioner in spite of sufficient notice has not come forward during enquiry proceeding to dislodge the prosecution case. He was also given opportunity of hearing by the disciplinary authority, however, he did not come forward to show cause written or oral. We, therefore, do not find any legal infirmity in the entire procedure.

CIVIL SIDE
BEFORE THE HON'BLE MANISH KUMAR, J.

Writ A No. 12479 of 2021

Gulab Dutt Dubey ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Counsel for the Petitioner:
Amarendra Pratap Singh

Counsel for the Respondents:
C.S.C.

Service Law – Constitution of India,1950 – Article 311(2)(a) –Dismissal on conviction in criminal case – Requirement of considering conduct.

Dismissal of petitioner, a Lekhpal, solely on ground of conviction under Sections 302 and 506(2) IPC – Disciplinary authority failed to consider conduct leading to conviction – Mere conviction not sufficient to impose major penalty – Order of dismissal unsustainable. (Paras 10–13)

Service Law – Retirement during pendency of writ petition – Effect on power of disciplinary authority.
Petitioner attained superannuation on 31.10.2021 – After retirement, no employer–employee relationship subsists – Disciplinary authority cannot be given liberty to reconsider punishment – Court itself to mould relief. (Paras 14, 15)

Service Law – Post retiral dues – Principle of "no work, no pay."

Petitioner entitled to all post-retiral dues with continuity of service – Salary for period between dismissal (13.08.2010) and retirement (31.10.2021) denied on principle of "no work, no pay" – Period, however, to be counted for retiral benefits. (Para 15)

Held : Dismissal, appellate and revisional orders quashed – Petitioner entitled to post-retiral benefits with continuity, but without back wages. (Paras 15–18)

Writ Petition Allowed.

Orders dated 13.10.2010, 28.02.2020 and 19.03.2021 quashed. Respondents directed to ensure payment of all post-retiral dues within two months.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manish Kumar, J.)

1. The present writ petition has been preferred for quashing of the impugned dismissal order dated 13.10.2010, for quashing of the appellate order dated 28.02.2020 and for quashing of the impugned revisional order dated 19.03.2021.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the petitioner was initially appointed on the post of Untrained Lekhpal in the year 1980 and after passing the Lekhpal School Examination, the petitioner was appointed to the post of Lekhpal regularly in the year 1984.

3. During the service period, the petitioner has been convicted under Sections 302 and 506 (2) IPC. After the conviction, the impugned dismissal order has been passed under Article 311(2)(a) of the Constitution of India merely on the basis that the petitioner has been convicted in a criminal case.

4. It is submitted that the impugned order of dismissal has been passed by the disciplinary authority without applying its mind whereas as per the law settled by catena of judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as this High Court that the disciplinary authority has to consider whether the conduct of the concerned government servant is such as justifies the penalty of dismissal, removal or reduction in grade which is not considered while dismissing the services of the petitioner. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgments of Hon'ble Apex Court passed in the cases of Union of India and another vs. Tulsiram Patel : AIR 1985 SCC 1416, State of Jharkhand and others vs. Jitendra Kumar Srivastava and another reported in AIR 2013 SC 3383 as well as the judgments of this Court in the cases of Shyam Narian Shukla vs. State of U.P., 1988 6 LCD 530, Ratan Singh v. 5. It is further submitted that during pendency of the present writ petition, the petitioner after attaining the age of superannuation has retired from service on 31.10.2021 and due to the dismissal order, the petitioner has not been paid any post retiral dues.

6. It is further submitted that the petitioner is entitled for the post retiral dues and in support of his submission, the learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Jharkhand and others vs. Jitendra Kumar Srivastava and another reported in AIR 2013 SC 3383, the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Civil Appeal No.1804 of 2020 : Life Insurance Corporation of India vs. Mukesh Poonamchand Shah and lastly relied upon the judgment dated 18.09.2023 passed by this Court in Writ-A No.4422 of 2015 in the case of Vishwanath Vishwakarma vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary, Revenue and others wherein a judgment has been passed after considering all the aspects as argued and submitted before this Court and the case of the petitioner is squarely covered by the judgment of Vishwanath Vishwakarma (supra).

7. It is further submitted that appellate and revisional orders confirming the impugned order of dismissal has been passed without application of mind and against the law.

8. On the other hand, learned State counsel has submitted that the parity of the judgment dated 18.09.2023 in the case of Vishwanath Vishwakarma (supra) prayed by the petitioner is not applicable in the present case to the extent that petitioner in that writ petition was 70 years of age whereas in the present case, the petitioner is only about 63 years of age but unable to distinguish the applicability of the judgment otherwise.

9. After hearing learned counsel for the parties, going through the record and the judgments cited above by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

10. As per the law settled by the Hon'ble Apex Court and this Court relied by the learned counsel for the petitioner wherein it has been held that the disciplinary authority/competent authority are bound to consider the conduct of the petitioner, which has led to his conviction in the sessions trial. This was the condition precedent for the competent authority to acquire jurisdiction to impose punishment of removal from service. However, in the present case, the impugned order is silent and does not show consideration of conduct of the petitioner which has led to his conviction and then to decide what punishment is to be inflicted upon him, therefore, the impugned order cannot be sustained. In the matter of Rajesh Dwivedi (Supra), issue before the Court was same as in the present controversy and the petitioner in said case was convicted under Sections 147, 148 and 302 IPC. The Court after considering many judgments has taken the very same view. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are quoted hereinbelow:

"10. In view of the settled proposition of law, as discussed above, a government employee cannot be dismissed, removed or reduced in rank merely on the ground that he has been convicted by a Court of law. Thus, conviction alone is not enough to punish a government employee, but it is conduct of the employee concerned, which had led to is conviction on the basis of which, the government employee can be punished. Hence, it is necessary for disciplinary authorities to consider the conduct of convict government servant, which had led to his conviction. In the absence of the same, the order of the punishment would be bad. Further the consideration by the disciplinary authority is required to be recorded in writing.

11. The learned Standing Counsel has argued that proviso-2 to the Article 311 of the Constitution of India provides that where a person is dismissed on the ground of conduct, which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge or where the appointing authority is satisfied that it is not reasonably practicable to hold such an enquiry, there is no requirement of the observance of the principles of natural justice. He has further argued that this provision is akin to Rule-7 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules 1999 which also provides that where any major penalty is imposed on a person on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge or where the disciplinary authority is satisfied, that for the reason to be recorded in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold an enquiry as per the Rules the order becomes final. He has also argued that an employee who has been in Jail for more than 48 hours, his services are terminated in accordance with the rules.

12. The argument of the learned Standing Counsel is patently illegal since Article 311 of the Constitution of India and also Rule-7 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules, 1999 clearly provide that the authority passing the order of the major punishment, on the ground of conviction of the employee on a criminal charge, will have to record his satisfaction in writing that he is satisfied, after consideration of the conduct of the employee which has led to conviction on the ground of criminal charge, that he deserves major penalty. Further argument of the learned Standing Counsel that mere imprisonment exceeding 48 hours, an employee becomes liable for termination of his services as per the Rules is absurd. As per Rule-4(3) of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) 1999, such a Government deemed to be placed under suspension w.e.f., the date of his detention.

13. Therefore, it is clear from the above decisions and the relevant provisions of law that it is incumbent upon the authorities to consider the conduct of the employee which has led to his conviction in the criminal charge before imposing any punishment. In the present case, the impugned order passed by the respondent No. 2 only states that since the petitioner has been convicted in the criminal case, he should be dismissed from service from the date of the order of conviction. The respondent No. 2 was required to examine the conduct of the petitioner which led to his conviction before imposing the major punishment upon him. The order suffers from non application of mind and shows arbitrary exercise of discretion vested in the respondent No. 2 by law."

11. Again a similar issue came up before this Court in the matter of Ram Kishan (Supra), in which an employee was convicted under Sections 302 and 134 I.P.C. and this Court after considering many judgments has taken the very same view. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:

"12. In Shankar Das v. Union of India, 1985 (2) SCR 358, Hon'ble Supreme Court while referring to power under Clause (a) of second proviso of Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India, has observed as under:-

"Be that power like every other power has to be exercised fairly, justly and reasonably."?

13. Proviso (a) to Article 311 of the Constitution of India, is an exception to clause (2) of Article 311, which is applicable where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge. In case of Divisional Personnel Officer, Southern Railway Vs. T.R. Chellappan, 1976 (3) SCC 190 (para-21), Hon'ble Supreme Court considered Article 311(2), Proviso (a) and held that this provision confers power upon the disciplinary authority to decide whether in the facts of a particular case, what penalty, if at all, should be imposed on the delinquent employee, after taking into account the entire conduct of the delinquent employee, the gravity of the misconduct committed by him, the impact which his misconduct is likely to have on the administration and other extenuating circumstances or redeeming features, if any, present in the case and so on and so forth. The conviction of the delinquent employee would be taken as sufficient proof of misconduct and then the authority will have to embark upon a summary inquiry as to the nature and extent of the penalty to be imposed on the delinquent employee and in the course of the inquiry, if the authority is of the opinion that the offence is too trivial or of a technical nature it may refuse to impose any penalty in spite of the conviction. The disciplinary authority has the undoubted power after hearing the delinquent employee and considering the circumstances of the case to inflict any major penalty on the delinquent employee without any further departmental inquiry, if the authority is of the opinion that the employee has been guilty of a serious offence involving moral turpitude and, therefore, it is not desirable or conducive in the interests of administration to retain such a person in service. In Sushil Kumar Singhal vs. Regional Manager, Punjab National Bank, 2010 (8) SCC 573 (Paras-24 and 25), Hon'ble Supreme Court explained the meaning of the words 'moral turpitude' to mean anything contrary to honesty, modesty or good morals.

14. Thus, in view of the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Tulsiram Patel (supra), T.R. Chellapan (supra) and Shankar Das (supra), and two Division Bench judgments of this court in Shyam Narain Shukla (supra) and Sadanand Mishra (supra), it can safely be concluded that while removing the petitioner from service, the respondents were bound to consider the conduct of the petitioner, which has led to his conviction in the session trial. This was the condition precedent for the competent authority to acquire jurisdiction to impose punishment of removal from service. However, the impugned order is unfortunately silent and does not show consideration of conduct of the petitioner which has led to his conviction in the S.T. No. 178 of 2005. It was necessary for the respondents, while passing the impugned order, to consider the conduct of the petitioner leading to his conviction and then to decide what punishment is to be inflicted upon him. This has not been done by the respondent No. 2 while removing the petitioner from service. Therefore, the impugned order cannot be sustained and is hereby quashed."

12. Again one more similar issue was before this Court in the matter of Murari Lal Rathore (Supra) in which conviction was made under Section 302, 120 B and 149 IPC and petitioner was dismissed from the service on the very same ground. This Court after considering in detail has taken the very same view. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgment are being quoted hereinbelow:

"10. The order of dismissal merely records that petitioner has been convicted to imprisonment of life in S.T. No. 455 of 208 and is incarcerated in jail therefore in view of the Government Order dated 12.10.1979, the petitioner is being dismissed from service from the date of his incarceration in jail i.e. 31.10.2015.

14. The authoritative pronouncement of law by Supreme Court in Tulsi Ram Patel (supra) is consistently followed and it is by now well settled that mere conviction in a criminal case would not lead to automatic dismissal from service of the government servant. Since clause (a) to the second proviso to Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India as also first proviso to rule-7(xii) of the Rules of 1991 are exception to the normal rule of holding inquiry against the government servant and even opportunity of hearing is not required to be given to him, therefore, the disciplinary authority has to scrupulously examine the conduct of the government servant which led to his conviction before exercising such jurisdiction. The nature of guilt established as also the possible defence available to the government servant are aspects which requires consideration at the level of the disciplinary authority. In the event these aspects are omitted from consideration, the order of dismissal itself would be rendered without jurisdiction.

18. Since the conduct of the petitioner leading to his conviction has not been examined by the disciplinary authority within the laid down parameter as such the order of dismissal, as affirmed in appeal and revision cannot be sustained. Orders impugned dated 1.12.2016, 21.12.2016 and 18.3.2016 accordingly are liable to be quashed."

13. In the present case also the impugned order of dismissal has been passed only on the ground that the petitioner has been convicted in a criminal case but there is no opinion recorded by the disciplinary authority that the employee has been guilty of serious offence involving moral turpitude, therefore, it is not desirable or conducive in the interest of administration to retain such person in service.

14. As far as the parity of payment of post retiral dues as per the judgment in the case of Vishwanath Vishwakarma (supra) which was granted to the petitioner in that writ petition by this Court and refused to grant liberty to the disciplinary authority to pass a fresh order on the ground that now there is no relation of employer and employee between the petitioner and the respondents after the retirement of the petitioner cannot pass or hold any enquiry by placing reliance on the judgment in the case of Murari Lal Rathore (supra) the Court after considering this issue has also held as under:

"19. Ordinarily, when such orders are quashed a liberty ought to be granted to the disciplinary authority to pass a fresh order while considering relevant factors i.e. conduct of the employee, gravity of charges and the materials available against him etc. This course, however, would not be desirable or even permissible in the facts of the present case since the petitioner has attained the age of superannuation on 31.12.2018 and the contract of employment has come to an end.

24. A conspectus of above observations made by the Supreme Court would clearly reveal that unless there exists an enabling provision either in the applicable service rules or any other provision of law it would not be open for the disciplinary authority to pass an order in respect of contract of service after the employee has attained the age of superannuation.

25. This Court in Bhagirathi Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2018 (8) ADJ 538 has also observed as under in Para-18:-

"18. It is settled legal position that the employer and employee relationship is dependant only upon the contract of employment. The moment, the contract comes to end as the person is retired from service on attaining certain age under the rules, the relationship comes to an end. In the event of employer of employee relationship coming to an end, the rules have to specifically provide for continuation of proceedings in the first instance and that too with the sanction of higher authorities in the second instance because it will be seen as exceptional circumstance where disciplinary authority would record that for reasons genuine and convincing the disciplinary proceedings could not be concluded and, therefore, it is required that the proceedings be continued even after retirement, but there is no such provision under the rules governing the disciplinary proceedings. In this context, learned counsel for the respondent could not point out any rule, circular or executive instructions even, which may provide for continuance of disciplinary proceedings even after the retirement of the petitioner or any other employee of the corporation. Then again, the question will be that how a punishment is to be imposed as the punishment is awarded only against an employee unless and until employer and employee relationship exists, the order of punishment upon a retired employee cannot be imposed except otherwise provided under the rules. Even in matters of recovery, it is not open for the department to deduct any amount from retiral dues in absence of any rules giving any such authorization.

26. From the above discussions, it is apparent that since the petitioner has attained the age of superannuation and no provision in law is shown which permits the disciplinary authority to examine the conduct of an employee, now, so as to pass an order of punishment, there would be no purpose in remitting back the matter to the disciplinary authority for a fresh consideration of petitioner's conduct leading to his conviction. Such a course would be legally impermissible.

27. The relief to be granted to the petitioner in such circumstances will have to be determined by this Court in view of what has been observed in para-127 of the Constitution Bench judgment in Tulsiram Patel (supra). The Court will have the jurisdiction to pass necessary order in respect of the penalty, which in its opinion would be just and proper in the circumstances of the case.

28. In the facts of the present case the petitioner has been dismissed from service on 18.03.2016 and has attained the age of superannuation on 31.12.2018. He has admittedly not worked during this period. The proceedings against the petitioner, consequent upon his conviction in an offence under Section 307 I.P.C. cannot be said to be without jurisdiction or arbitrary, on facts. The order of dismissal has been found wanting on account of non-consideration of petitioner's conduct leading to his conviction and has been set aside, for such reasons. The petitioner would be entitled to all service and retiral benefits including continuity excluding salary between 18.3.2016 to 31.12.2018 by applying the principles of 'no work no pay'. It is however reiterated that the period between 18.3.2016 to 31.12.2018 shall be counted for payment of retiral benefits.

15. In the facts of the present case the petitioner has been dismissed from service on 13.08.2010 and has attained the age of superannuation on 31.10.2021. The petitioner had admittedly not worked during this period. The order of dismissal has been found wanting on account of non-consideration of petitioner's conduct leading to his conviction and has been set aside for such reasons. The petitioner shall be entitled to all the post retiral benefits including continuity excluding salary between the period from 13.08.2010 to 31.10.2021 by applying principle of "no work, no pay".

16. In view of the facts, circumstances and discussion made hereinabove, the writ petition is allowed.

17. The impugned orders dated 13.10.2010, 28.02.2020 and 19.03.2021 are quashed and set aside.

18. The respondents are directed to ensure the payment of all post retiral dues to the petitioner within a period of two months from the date a certified copy of this order is served.

Service Law – U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board – TGT Recruitment 2021 – Preparation of waiting list – Adjustment against unfilled vacancies.
Once the main select list exhausted, vacancies remaining unfilled to be offered strictly on merit from the waiting list – Open category is "open to all" – Reserved category candidates having higher marks cannot be denied adjustment merely because the vacancy is of general category – Migration permissible from reserved to open, not vice-versa. (Paras 11–16)

Reservation – Principle of migration – Vertical reservations.
Law well-settled that reserved category candidates securing higher marks than last cut-off of general category migrate to open category – No migration from general to reserved category – Respondents' action in adjusting lower-merit general candidates over higher-merit OBC candidates held impermissible. (Paras 12–15)

Public Employment – Illegality in selection – Rectification.
No one can be appointed against rules in public employment – If a wrong has been done by misapplication of reservation principle, it must be undone – Fresh panel to be prepared from waiting list after notice to already allotted candidates. (Para 17)
Held : Notification dated 01.09.2023 whereby lower-merit general category candidates were adjusted against open vacancies quashed – Respondents directed to prepare fresh panel from waiting list in accordance with law. (Paras 16–18)

CASE LAW DISCUSSED-

1. Indra Sawhney Vs U.O.I., 1992 Supp (3) SCC 217

2. R.K. Sabharwal Vs St. of Punjab, (1995) 2 SCC 745

3. Saurabh Yadav Vs St. of U.P., (2021) 4 SCC 542

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Utkarsh Birla, learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Neeraj Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri J.N Maurya, learned Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and Sri A.K.S. Parihar, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-Board.

2. Petitioners before this Court have been applicants against the post of Assistant Teachers in Trained Graduate Teacher (TGT) by the UP Secondary Education Service Selection Board, Prayagraj vide advertisement No.1/2001 dated 15.03.2021.

3. The examination for selection namely the TGT Examination, 2021 was to be held in respect of 12,603 vacancies that were notified out of which 1742 vacancies were in the subject of Hindi and boys category. Out of 1742 vacancies, (Hindi Subject) 1054 were published for general category and 405 were published for OBC category (boys). Petitioners being eligible their candidature was considered. They duly participated in the selection process. However, they could not make it successful for having secured below 307.38 marks to find place in the final select list that formed panel of selected candidates in the OBC category.

4. Besides the final select list that was prepared and notified as per rules, the Selection Board also prepared a waiting list of 25% as a combined panel of waiting list candidates. This combined waiting list prepared was notified on 28.12.2021 and has been annexed as Annexure-5 to the writ petition and this document is admitted to the respondent-Board as well as State-respondents.

5. This petition came to be filed with the plea that in respect of those vacancies where the candidates of the main panel list did not turn up to join and thus having remained vacant, respondents be directed to prepare a list out of the waiting list in order of preference considering merits for the purposes of recommendations and appointments against such vacancies.

6. It transpires that during pendency of this writ petition, the respondent proceeded to prepare a panel from the waiting list for the purposes of allotment of schools qua vacancies where the candidates originally placed in the merit list did not turn up to join.

7. It is argued by learned counsel appearing for the petitioners that in the notification of panel dated 01.09.2023, a large number of candidates of open category have been recommended for the allotment of college for the purposes of appointment as Assistant Teacher (TGT) though they were below in merit to the petitioners. For example, one Mr. Atul Singh s/o Ram Hriday Singh (general cateogry) placed at Serial No.56 of the notification dated 01.09.2023 had secured 307.38 marks but is below in merit to Nisha

Devi, she being senior in age vide Rule 12 of 1978 Rules as she is at serial No.150 of the waiting list whereas Atul Singh is at Serial No.158 (both have equal marks). Again, Ms. Jyotsana Pandey who is there in the notification dated 01.09.2023 at Serial No.67 is at Serial No.209 of the waiting list, is also below to petitioner No.2, namely Nisha Devi and also petitioner no.4 namely Ms. Vandana Yadav who is at Serial No.208 of the waiting list. The other candidates below to Ms. Jyotsana Pandey who have been given allotment vide notification dated 01.09.2023, are all lower in merit in the waiting list, to the petitioners.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners, thus, has argued that respondents are not justified in giving appointments against the vacant situations from the waiting list of those general category candidates who are lower in merit than OBC/reserved category candidates. The arguments is based on the principle that in open category, all other category candidates can get entry if they are having higher merit to a candidate of open category candidate.

9. It is argued further that the 'Samekit' means consolidated list of selectees and in that case as and when the vacancy occurs on account of non joining of the selected candidates from the main panel and if there is no other candidate available in the main panel, the waiting list candidate shall be offered appointment in the order of merit. A candidate of open category having higher marks than the reserved category candidate will of-course be given preference if the vacancy is of open category, but in the event, reserved category candidates with higher marks are available then they will be taken to be of open category to be adjusted against the vacancy of general category, if it is still vacant.

10. Countering the submission so advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners, Sri Neeraj Tripathi, learned Additional Advocate General has contended that the Board has proceeded to make recommendations to make appointment from the waiting list on the basis of category of vacancy that has remained vacant. He argued vehemently that since the vacancies were of open category, the respondents in their wisdom rightly recommended the name of only those candidates who belonged to general category. He accordingly, tried to justify that once the reservation has been applied and vacancy becomes available, then there will be no further migration from one category to another category.

11. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and the arguments raised across the bar, the only point that emerges out for consideration of this Court is as to whether while making adjustment against the available vacancies already notified from the waiting list, the respondents are justified in making allotment in favour of those candidates who belong to that category of which the vacancy has been assigned. In other words, once the rule of reservation has been applied then the vacancy would stand assigned and no further migration from one category to another category will be permissible.

12. In matters of rule of reservation, the law is very clear. While preparing a merit list, the selecting body has to see what is the last cut-off marks of each category in respect of vertical reservation. There is no migration from general to reserved category but there is migration from reserved category to general category so there is only one way traffic and this is why general category is called 'open category'. In other words, on the principle that merit is to be reckoned with in public employment and the candidates having merit have to be given preference despite the categories to which they belong to. So, in such event when merit of general category is higher and a reserved category candidate is able to score higher than the last cut off of the general category then such reserved category candidate would be migrated to open category. But in the matter of reserved category if a candidate has applied as an general category candidate may be he belongs to reserved category he would be taken to be general category candidate only. So there is no migration from general to reserved category. Similarly once the post has stood assigned to a particular category of reservation then for all purposes that category would continue to belong to that reserved category even while a candidate is taken from the waiting list.

13. For instance, if a post for reserved category is assigned and post assigned to reserved category remains vacant for the reserved category person not turning up, then a candidate of that reserved category will be taken from that merit list may be lower than the candidate of a general category available in the waiting list. But in the event a post assigned to general category remain vacant for a selected candidate not turning up to join and the main panel has got exhausted then the candidate who is higher in merit, may be of reserved category would stand migrated to open category than a candidate of general candidate having lesser marks. This migration is absolutely permissible and is in tune with the principles of reservation so discussed from time to time by this Court and the Supreme Court.

14. In my above view, I find support from the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Indra Sawhney Etc. Etc v. Union of India; 1992 (3) SCC (SUPP) 217, applying test of merit on the touchstone of Article 14 of the Constitution vis-a-vis the reservation in public employment under Article 16(4) of the Constitution, the Court justified migration of reserved category candidates from their reserved category to the open category upon scoring above or matching the last cut off/merit of the open category which is otherwise also known as general category. Vide paragraph 811 of the judgment, the Court has observed "it is well to remeber that the reservations under Article 16(4) do not operate like a communal reservation. It may well happen that some members belonging, to say Scheduled Castes get selected in the open competition field on the basis of their own merit; they will not be counted against the quota reserved for Scheduled Castes; they will be treated as open competition candidates." This above principle by the Constitution Bench was further more elaborated and precisely too in the case of Saurabh Yadav and ors vs. State of UP & ors; 2021 (4) SCC 542. The Court though in that case was also dealing with horizontal reservation more especially in the matter of female reservation, but supplementing the view of majority, Ravindra Bhatt, J. observed that open category is not a quota but is available to all men and women alike to vertical and horizontal reservations. The Bench referring to judgment of another Constitution Bench in case of R.K. Sabharwal v. State of Punjab; 1995 (2) SCC 745 vide its paragraph 15 held thus:

15. In R.K. Sabharwal v. State of Punjab15 the Constitution Bench of this Court considered the question of appointment and promotion and roster points vis--vis reservation and held thus:

When a percentage of reservation is fixed in respect of a particular cadre and the roster indicates the reserve points, it has to be taken that the posts shown at the reserve points are to be filled from amongst the members of reserve categories and the candidates belonging to the general category are not entitled to be considered for the reserved posts. On the other hand the reserve category candidates can compete for the non-reserve posts and in the event of their appointment to the said posts their number cannot be added and taken into consideration for working out the percentage of reservation. Article 16(4) of the Constitution of India permits the State Government to make any provision for the reservation of appointments or posts in favour of any Backward Class of citizens which, in the opinion of the State is not adequately represented in the Services under the State. It is, therefore, incumbent on the State Government to reach a conclusion that the Backward Class/Classes for which the reservation is made is not adequately represented in the State Services. While doing so the State Government may take the total population of a particular Backward Class and its representation in the State Services. When the State Government after doing the necessary exercise makes the reservation and provides the extent of percentage of posts to be reserved for the said Backward Class then the percentage has to be followed strictly. The prescribed percentage cannot be varied or changed simply because some of the members of the Backward Class have already been appointed/promoted against the general seats. As mentioned above the roster point which is reserved for a Backward Class has to be filled by way of appointment/promotion of the member of the said class. No general category candidate can be appointed against a slot in the roster which is reserved for the Backward Class. The fact that considerable number of members of a Backward Class have been appointed/promoted against general seats in the State Services may be a relevant factor for the State Government to review the question of continuing reservation for the said class but so long as the instructions/rules providing certain percentage of reservations for the Backward Classes are operative the same have to be followed. Despite any number of appointees/promotees belonging to the Backward Classes against the general category posts the given percentage has to be provided in addition.?

(emphasis added)

15. In the case in hand, it is clear that the merit list was finally prepared and the cut-off of the open category was much more than the OBC and SC/ST category and so there was no question of any migration of a reserved category candidate to open category but once merit panel got exhausted and there arose question of getting candidates from the waiting list against unfilled vacancies then in that waiting list, an open category candidate whose merit was less than the reserved category candidate could not have marched ahead of such reserved category candidate to occupy the post only on the ground that the post had fallen vacant in the open category. This upon the above principles of law discussed was absolutely impermissible. Concluding on the principles of migration from reserved category to open category and the concept of reservation, supplementing the judgment (delivered by Justice U.U. Lalit, J. as His Lordship then was), Justice Ravindra Bhatt observed that "reservations, both vertical and horizontal, are method of ensuring representation in public services. These are not to be seen as rigid ?slots?, where a candidate?s merit, which otherwise entitles her to be shown in the open general category, is foreclosed, as the consequence would be, if the state?s argument is accepted. Doing so, would result in a communal reservation, where each social category is confined within the extent of their reservation, thus negating merit. The open category is open to all, and the only condition for a candidate to be shown in it is merit, regardless of whether reservation benefit of either type is available to her or him."

16. In such above view of the matter and legal proposition conceived and applied as law of reservation, since the respondents have admitted that they have adjusted the general category candidate against the vacancy that remained vacant even after the main merit panel got exhausted, despite their marks being lesser to the OBC category candidate, in my considered view, it was a wrong that needed to be rectified by offering appointment to OBC category candidate or those having higher marks than the general category candidates in the waiting list.

17. The stand taken by the selection board and the state respondents, thus, cannot be sustained in law. No one can be appointed against rules in public employment, may be interpreting it wrongly or mistakenly and if a wrong has been done it must be undone. Accordingly, respondents are directed to prepare panel afresh in the light of law discussed above and the observations made to make adjustments of waiting list candidates against available vacancies that got wrongly allotted vide notification dated 01.09.2023. The respondents shall be issuing notices to the candidates who have been notified for the purposes of allotment on 01.09.2023, if already joined inviting their objections and thereafter fresh panel shall be prepared from the waiting list. The notification dated 01.09.2023 shall abide by the fresh notification.

18. This petition stands disposed of in above terms.

Service Law – U.P. Nagar Palika Non-Centralized Services Retirement Benefit Regulation, 1984 – Regulation 7(1) – Family Pension – Employee died in harness after 9 years, 10 months, 7 days service – Whether shortfall of 1 month 23 days disentitles widow.
Held: Article 468, U.P. Civil Service Regulations mandates rounding of fractions of three months and above to a completed half year – Thus, deceased's service period to be reckoned as 10 years – Family entitled to consideration for pension under Note (1) to Regulation 7(1), even prior to 2016 amendment. (Paras 14–17)

Pension – Circular dated 18.04.2016 – Nature.

Circular clarifying Article 468 is declaratory, not constitutive – It only affirms existing law, not prospective in operation – Authorities erred in denying benefit on ground that husband died before 2016 amendment/circular. (Paras 16–17)

Public Authority – Duty to exercise discretion.

Once 10 years' qualifying service reckoned under Article 468, Pension Sanctioning Authority bound to consider widow's case under Note (1) to Regulation 7(1) of unamended 1984 Regulations – Discretion must be exercised on objective parameters. (Paras 7, 17)

Held : Writ petition allowed – Mandamus issued to Commissioner, Varanasi Division, to consider and sanction petitioner's family pension under Note (1) to Regulation 7(1) of 1984 Regulations (unamended) within one month. (Para 18)

Writ Petition Allowed – Mandamus Issued.

CASE LAW DISCUSSED-

1. Karta Ram Vs St. of U.P. & ors., 2016 (3) AWC 3076 (LB)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition has been instituted by the petitioner praying that a mandamus be issued commanding the respondents to grant family pension to her along with arrears with effect from 09.11.2012, besides due interest.

2. The facts of the case are that the petitioner's husband, the late Mustafa, was appointed a Safai Karmchari on 31.12.2002 with the Nagar Panchayat, Machhlishahr, District Jaunpur. He was a compassionate appointee and died in harness. He rendered good services to the Nagar Panchayat. The petitioner's husband died on 08.11.2012, leaving behind him his widow, three sons and a daughter as his heirs and legal representatives.

3. It is the petitioner's case that the deceased employee's heirs and legal representatives are his dependent family members. The death-cum-retirement benefits payable were paid to the petitioner in installments which include gratuity and dues on account of leave encashment. It is pleaded that gratuity paid was a sum of Rs. 38,800/- and leave encashment a sum of Rs. 1,47,000/-. The petitioner says that the family pension, however, was not paid to her and when she asked for it, the same was denied verbally by the respondents saying that the petitioner's husband had not put in qualifying service to earn a retirement pension for himself and a fortiori, family pension for the family after his demise. It is the petitioner's case that the service conditions of the petitioner who was a class IV employee are governed by the U.P. Nagar Palika Non-Centralized Services Retirement Benefit Regulation, 1984 (for short, 'the Regulation of 1984').

4. Learned Counsel for the petitioner has drawn the attention of the Court to the Circular dated 18.04.2016, which says that in compliance with the order dated 28.01.2016 passed by the Lucknow Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No. 1685 (S/S) of 2016, the benefit of Article 468 of the U.P. Civil Service Regulations is to be extended to employees for the purpose of reckoning their qualifying service. It is mentioned in the said circular that in calculating the length of service, fractions of a half year equal to three months and above shall be treated as a completed half year and reckoned as qualifying service.

5. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that under Regulation 7(1) of the Regulations of 1984, an employee, who has completed 20 years qualifying service before retirement or has completed 20 years of such service and dies while in service, would entitle his family to family pension. It is further pointed out that vide Note (1) appended to Regulation 7(1) of the aforesaid Regulations, the Pension Sanctioning Authority may, in exceptional circumstances in his discretion, award family pension to the family of an official, who dies before completing 20 years qualifying service, but after completing not less than ten years.

6. It is argued by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that applying the provisions of Article 468 of the U.P. Civil Service Regulations, which have been adopted uniformly for application in all cases of reckoning 10 years qualifying service for purposes of pension in all departments of the Government and Offices, the petitioner would be entitled to reckon the deceased's services of 9 years, 10 months and 7 days as a completed half year, and, therefore, 10 years.

7. The further submission advanced by the learned Counsel for the petitioner is that once the deceased's service is regarded as 10 years, the Pension Sanctioning Authority, under Regulation 7(1) of the Regulations of 1984 in accordance with Note (1), must exercise his discretion reasonably on objective parameters.

8. In the personal affidavit filed on behalf of the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi, which is being treated as a counter affidavit, the stand taken is that the U.P. Nagar Palika Centralized Service Retirement Benefit (5th Amendment) Regulations came into force in the year 2016 and the petitioner cannot claim benefit of the amendment made to the Regulations of 1984 by the 5th Amendment, inasmuch as the petitioner's husband, the deceased employee here, died on 08.11.2012 much before the enforcement of the amended Regulations. It is urged that the petitioner's rights would be governed by the pre-amended Regulations of 1984, that is to say, without reference to the 5th Amendment, 2016.

9. It is pleaded that under Regulations 7(1) of the Regulations of 1984, the Pension Sanctioning Authority is entitled to sanction in exceptional circumstances, in his discretion, pension upon completion of a minimum service of 10 years, in a case where the employee died before completing 20 years. It is said in paragraph no. 5 of the Commissioner's affidavit that since the total length of service of the petitioner's husband was less than 10 years at the time of his demise, family pension cannot be sanctioned for him. It is averred in paragraph no. 6 of the affidavit filed on behalf of the Commissioner that by notification dated 16.12.2016 issued by the Department of Urban Development, Regulations 6 and 7 of the Regulations of 1984 were amended and under the Amended Regulation vide Note (1) to paragraph 7(1), provision is made to extend the benefit of family pension after completion of less than 10 years service in case of a deceased employee, but that would not apply to the petitioner's case because her husband died prior to notification of the Amended Regulations on 16.12.2016. In paragraph no. 1(2) of the notification through which the amendment to the Regulations have been enforced, it is stipulated that the amendment would come into force with effect from the date of its publication in the gazette. It is urged that the notification was published in gazette on 16.12.2016, and, therefore, the amended Regulations of 2016 would not apply to the petitioner, whose husband died way back on 08.11.2012. In paragraph no. 7 of the affidavit filed by the Commissioner, it is said that the Circular dated 18.04.2016 issued by the Government regarding Article 468 of the U.P. Civil Service Regulations, which provides for reckoning of fractions of half a year equal to three months and above to be a completed half year for the purpose of qualifying service, would also not apply to the petitioner's case since the clarification about Article 468 was issued by the Government on 18.04.2016, whereas the petitioner's husband died on 08.11.2012.

10. There is, a further personal affidavit filed on behalf of the Deputy Director, Local Fund Audit Department, Varanasi Division, Varanasi. The Deputy Director has taken the same stand as the Divisional Commissioner. The Commissioner is the competent Pension Sanctioning Authority.

11. Mr. S.K. Srivastava, learned Counsel for the Nagar Panchayat, Machhlishahr, District Jaunpur, who are arrayed as respondent nos. 3 and 4, has waived opportunity to file a counter affidavit on behalf of the said respondents. Thus, the petitioner's case as against respondent nos. 3 and 4 is unrebutted.

12. Upon hearing the learned Counsel for the parties, this Court finds that it would be apposite to quote verbatim the provisions of Regulation 7(1) of the Regulations of 1984, including the amendments brought about by the amended Regulations of 2016 with effect from 16.12.2016. Regulation 7(1) pre and post amendment reads:

"विनियम-7का संशोधन	5- उक्त विनियमावली में, विनियम-7 में, नीचे स्तम्भ-1 में दिये गये उपविनियम (1) के स्थान पर स्तम्भ-2 में दिया गया उपविनियम रख दिया जायेगा, अर्थात

स्तम्भ-1 विद्यमान उपविनियम	स्तम्भ-2 एतद्द्वारा प्रतिस्थापित उपविनियम
7(1) ऐसे पदधारी के, जिसकी चाहे सेवानिवृत्त के पश्चात या कम से कम बीस वर्ष की अर्हकारी सेवा पूरी करने के पश्चात सेवा में रहते हुए मृत्यु हो जाय, परिवार को दस वर्ष की अवधि के लिए पारिवारिक पेंशन दी जा सकती है, जिसकी धनराशि उपविनियम(2) में विनिर्दिष्ट धनराशि से अधिक न होगी। टिप्पणीः- (1) पेंशन- स्वीकृति प्राधिकारी, आपवादिक परिस्थितियों में, स्वविवेकानुसार किसी ऐसे पदधारी के परिवार को, जिनकी मृत्यु बीस वर्ष की अर्हकारी सेवा पूरी करने के पूर्व किन्तु कम से कम दस वर्ष की अर्हकारी सेवा पूरी करने के पश्चात हो जाय, पारिवारिक पेंशन दिये जाने पर विचार कर सकता है। (2) ऐसे मामलोंं में, जहां अर्हकारी सेवा विहित न्यूनतम से कम हो, वहां इस कमी को माफ नहीं किया जाना चाहिए	7(1) पारिवारिक पेंशन ऐसे पदधारियों के परिवारों को अनुमन्य होगी, जिनकी मृत्यु सेवाकाल में अथवा सेवानिवृत्ति के पश्चात हुयी हो, बशर्ते कि मृतक पदधारी इस विनियमावली के अधीन प्रतिकार, अशक्त, सेवानिवृत्ति या अधिवर्षिता पेंशन प्राप्त कर रहा हो अथवा प्राप्त किये जाने का हकदार था। ऐसे पदधारकों के परिवार भी जिनकी इस विनियमावली के अधीन पेंशन का हकदार होने के पूर्व सेवाकाल में मृत्यु हो गयी हो, पारिवारिक पेंशन के हकदार होंगे, बशर्ते कि मृतक पदधारण की नियुक्ति नियमानुसार की गयी हो।

13. This Court must notice at once that the stand taken by the Divisional Commissioner in paragraph no. 6 of the personal affidavit that his discretion to extend the benefit of family pension, upon the deceased employee completing 10 years service but less than 20 years, has been brought in through the 5th Amendment to the Regulations of 1984 with effect from 16.12.2016, which would not apply to the petitioner's case her husband having died before the date of this amendment is not at all tenable. The reason is that a perusal of the Regulation 7(1) of the Regulations of 1984 in its pre-amended form would show that discretion to sanction family pension after 10 years of qualifying service, but before completion of 20 years is a provision that is there vide Note (1) to Regulation 7(1); post amendment, a different provision has been introduced and the petitioner does not seek benefit thereof at all.

14. The only issue is that the petitioner's husband never completed ten years service and died shy by a month and 23 days of completing ten years service. The issue therefore is, if the petitioner's husband's services rendered for a period of 9 years, 10 months and 7 days can be regarded as 10 years, squaring of the fraction to a unit. In this regard, reference may be made to the provisions of Article 468 of the U.P. Civil Service Regulations that find place in Chapter IX relating to 'Amount of Pensions'. Article 468 of the U.P. Civil Service Regulations reads:

"468. The amount of pension that may be granted is determined by length of service. In calculating the length of qualifying service, factions of a half year equal to three month and above shall be treated as a completed one half year and reckoned as qualifying service."

15. This issue fell for consideration before a learned Single Judge of this Court in Karta Ram vs. State of U.P. and others, 2016 (3) AWC 3076 (LB) . In Karta Ram (supra), it was held:

"4. The concerned authority while passing the impugned order dated 05.07.2014 has rightly stated that the services rendered on work charged basis can not be counted for the purposes of calculation of qualifying services, but has omitted to consider the provisions of Regulation 468 of the Civil Service Regulations which provides that the amount of pension that may be granted is determined by length of service. In calculating the length of qualifying service, fractions of a half year equal to three month and above shall be treated as a complete one-half year and reckoned as qualifying service.

5. In the light of the said provision, as the petitioner had put in 9 years 10 months and 5 days in service, fraction of a half year above three months is four months and 5 days, therefore, the case appears to be covered by Regulation 468 and the said period is liable to be treated as complete one-half year, which, if the facts as stated by the petitioner are correct, entitle the petitioner to ten years qualifying service for pension, but this aspect of the matter has not been considered while passing the impugned order."

16. It is acting on the aforesaid remarks of this Court that the circular dated 18.04.2016 was issued by a Secretary to the Government in the Department of Finance, addressed to all Principal Secretaries and Secretaries of various departments in the Government, besides Head of Departments and Heads of Offices in Government Establishments of the State. This circular, a copy of which is annexed as Annexure No. 4 to the writ petition and also relied upon by the Commissioner, appending it to his affidavit, is not constitutive in nature; it is declaratory. It declares the existing position of the law that has always been and does not bring about a change to the law, unlike the 5th Amendment to the Regulations of 1984, about which no issue is involved here. The 5th amendment is, no doubt, amendatory, and, therefore, constitutive. It would apply prospectively from the date of its enforcement and that is the date of its publication. The Commissioner is absolutely wrong in thinking that the Government's circular clarifying the position of the law about how Article 468 of the Civil service Regulations would work to reckon the fraction of less than three months for the purpose of qualifying service, is prospective in nature. The said circular does not bring about any change, as already remarked.

17. This Court, particularly, notices that it is not at all the Commissioner's stand or that of the Deputy Director, Local Fund and Audit Department, Varanasi that Article 468 of Civil Service Regulations does not apply to the Nagar Panchayat Establishment. Rather, the Commissioner says that it does apply in view of the circular dated 18.04.2016, but prospectively. That position of the law, we have already held to be utterly misunderstood by the Commissioner. The result would be that in accordance with Article 468 of the Civil Service Regulation, the petitioner's husband's period of service which is just short by a month and 23 days of 10 years, would have to be reckoned as a completed one half year because it is more than three months, short of a half year. It would, therefore, have to be reckoned as 10 years. Once it is held that the petitioner has completed 10 years of service, the Commissioner is obliged to consider the petitioner's case for grant of family pension in accordance with Note (1) appended to the unamended Regulation 7(1) of the Regulations of 1984.

18. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. A mandamus is issued to the Divisional Commissioner of Varanasi, ordering him to consider the petitioner's case for sanction of family pension in accordance with Note(1) to Regulation 7(1) of the Regulations of 1984 (unamended) within a month of the receipt of a copy of this judgment in accordance with law and the guidance here.

19. There shall be no order as to costs.

20. Let this order be communicated to the Commissioner, Varanasi Division, Varanasi by the Registrar (Compliance).

Service Law – Disciplinary Proceedings – Procedural Fairness – Petitioner, an Office Assistant with U.P. Power Corporation, challenged his dismissal from service for possessing disproportionate assets, alleging violation of procedural fairness under the U.P. Power Corporation Limited Employees (Discipline and Appeal) Regulations, 2020 – Held, the Inquiry Committee failed to conduct an oral inquiry or produce witnesses to prove the charge, relying solely on police investigation reports without independent evidence – This violated the salutary principle that the establishment must prove charges through oral and documentary evidence in quasi-judicial proceedings, rendering the inquiry fundamentally flawed – Orders dated 04.09.2021 and 07.06.2023 quashed. (Paras 6, 31, 33, 34, 41, 42, 43, 44)

Service Law – Revisional Jurisdiction – Interference with Pending Appeal – The Chairman of the Corporation enhanced the petitioner's penalty to dismissal under Regulation 13(c) while his appeal against the Disciplinary Authority's order was pending before the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation – Held, the Managing Director's failure to decide the appeal for 17 months or transmit it to the competent Appellate Authority (Managing Director of the Corporation) upon determining his own incompetence was arbitrary and violated procedural fairness – The Chairman's exercise of revisional powers, foreclosing the petitioner's statutory right to appeal, was unlawful – Uncommunicated order dated 08.02.2023 rejecting the appeal held arbitrary and discriminatory under Article 14. (Paras 9, 10, 20, 21, 22, 23, 27, 28)

Service Law – Burden of Proof in Disciplinary Inquiries – The Inquiry Committee's reliance on police reports without requiring the establishment to produce oral or documentary evidence before them breached the principle that the burden lies on the establishment to prove charges in disciplinary proceedings – Held, the Inquiry Committee acted as a representative of the establishment rather than an impartial quasi-judicial authority, failing to adhere to principles of natural justice as laid down in St. of U.P. Vs Saroj Kumar Sinha and Roop Singh Negi Vs Punjab National Bank – Disciplinary proceedings vitiated for lack of independent evidence and procedural fairness. (Paras 33, 34, 35, 41, 42)

Writ Petition Allowed .

Orders Dated 04.09.2021 and 07.06.2023 Quashed – Petitioner ReinSt.d with Conditions for Fresh Inquiry.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Manu Mishra, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Ms. Akanksha Sharma, learned Standing Counsel on behalf of respondent No.6 and Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent Nos.1 and 2.

2. The petitioner, Rakesh Kumar Sharma, was an Office Assistant in the employ of the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited. Long ago, he had entered service of the late Uttar Pradesh State Electricity Board, now represented by the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited (for short, 'the Corporation') and the many other Distribution Corporations that have since come up as successors of the erstwhile Board. The petitioner was posted at the Electricity Distribution Division, Kasganj from 20.10.1994 to 31.08.2017, which falls under the administrative control of the Dakshinanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited, Agra (for short, 'the Distribution Corporation'), represented by its Managing Director, besides the overall control of the Corporation.

3. A First Information Report was lodged against the petitioner on 11.04.2018 by one Satya Dev, an Executive Engineer with the Electricity Distribution Division, Kasganj, giving rise to Case Crime No.230 of 2018, under Section 7/13 (1)(e) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, Police Station Kasganj, District Kasganj. The FIR said no more than this that the information was being laid against the petitioner on the basis of a letter dated 27.03.2018 from the Additional Director General of Police (Vigilance), U.P. Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow and another letter dated 04.04.2018 from the Superintending Engineer, Electricity Distribution Division, Kasganj, directing the informant to lodge an FIR against the petitioner, then posted at the Electricity Distribution Division, Etah, for an offence of acquiring assets disproportionate to his known sources of income. A copy of the letters was annexed to the FIR, with the FIR not of itself disclosing any allegation constituting the offence. The written report, on the basis of which the check FIR was registered, virtually says nothing except to convey to the Police that the informant had been asked to get the FIR registered on the basis of letters that he had received from the Additional Director of Police and the Superintending Engineer, last mentioned.

4. It appears that a complaint was laid against the petitioner by one Ashok Kumar, alleging that the petitioner had amassed wealth beyond the known sources of his income. The complaint was addressed to the Vigilance Department of the U.P. Power Corporation and led to a preliminary inquiry report dated 05.04.2014, being submitted by the Vigilance Department to the official competent. The petitioner was never informed of this report or its contents. This was followed by a detailed inquiry report dated 29.08.2018, as the petitioner says, which was submitted to the Chairman of the Corporation. This report, according to the petitioner, said that the petitioner had amassed wealth disproportionate to his known sources of income during the period 20.05.1992 to 31.03.2010. The report said that during the relevant period of time, the petitioner's income was Rs.21,69,055/- whereas he spent a sum of Rs.33,98,427/-. Apparently, the inquiry report submitted by the Vigilance Department to the Chairman opined that the petitioner had with him Rs.12,29,372/- during the relevant period of time in excess of his known sources of income. The excess was a percentage equivalent of 56.68.

5. Pending investigation into the FIR lodged against the petitioner, he was served with a charge-sheet dated 18.07.2019 issued by the Chief Engineer (HR-cum-Disciplinary Proceedings), Distribution Corporation, carrying a solitary charge relating to his income for the check period from 20.05.1992 to 31.03.2010, that was in excess of his known sources. The petitioner answered the charge-sheet vide his reply dated 25.09.2019 submitted to the Inquiry Committee through registered post. The petitioner says that the Inquiry Committee, making a short shrift of the matter and without following the procedure prescribed under the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited Employees (Discipline and Appeal) Regulations, 2020 (for short, 'the Regulations') for the imposition of a major penalty under Regulation 7, submitted an inquiry report dated 26.07.2021.

6. It is the petitioner's case that no oral inquiry was conducted nor any witness produced on behalf of the establishment to prove the charge before the Inquiry Committee. A fortiori, the petitioner had no opportunity to cross-examine witnesses, who were never produced by the establishment. It is, particularly, pleaded that the Superintendent of Police (Vigilance), U.P. Power Corporation Limited, who was the author of the preliminary inquiry report and the one who had collected materials/ documents, on the foot of which the criminal prosecution as well as the departmental proceedings, subject matter of inquiry before the Departmental Inquiry Committee, was never produced as a witness by the establishment to prove the solitary charge.

7. On the basis of the inquiry report dated 26.07.2021, the petitioner was issued with a show cause notice dated 02.08.2021 under Regulation 9 of the Regulations asking him to put in his reply/ objections against the findings in the inquiry report. Upon receipt of the show cause notice, the petitioner requested a month's time to file his reply/ objections to the findings of the Inquiry Committee. The petitioner's application made for the purpose was sent by registered post on 16.08.2021. The Disciplinary Authority, however, without considering the petitioner's request last mentioned proceeded to pass the impugned order of penalty. The Disciplinary Authority, who in this case is the Chief Engineer (HR-cum-Disciplinary Proceedings) of the Distribution Corporation, proceeded to punish the petitioner by an order dated 04.09.2021, imposing the following punishments, to wit, a censure entry, secondly, withholding of five increments with cumulative effect, and, thirdly, posting on an insensitive position.

8. Aggrieved by the order of punishment, the petitioner preferred an appeal dated 18.10.2021 to the Appellate Authority, that is to say, the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation under Regulation 11 of the Regulations. One of the grounds raised in the appeal was that Rule 7 of the Regulations had not been followed by the Inquiry Committee while holding the inquiry nor the Disciplinary Authority had gone into this issue. Faced with the non-decision of his appeal, the petitioner submitted a reminder dated 07.05.2022 addressed to the Disciplinary Authority, but in vain.

9. The petitioner says that it came as a surprise to him when more than a year and a half later from the date of the order passed by the Disciplinary Authority, punishing him as last mentioned, a show cause notice dated 10.03.2023 was served upon him under Regulation 13(c) of the Regulations by the Chairman of the Corporation, asking him to show cause against enhancement of the punishment awarded within 15 days. The petitioner challenged the show cause notice dated 10.03.2023 before this Court by means of Writ-A No.9330 of 2023, amongst others, on ground of the Chairman's lack of jurisdiction to issue such a notice in the exercise of powers under Regulation 13(c) of the Regulations. Pending the said petition, the Chairman proceeded to pass the order impugned dated 07.06.2023, enhancing the petitioner's penalty to one of dismissal from service. In consequence, Writ-A No.9330 of 2023 was dismissed as infructuous by this Court on 3rd of July, 2023.

10. The petitioner questioned the jurisdiction of the Chairman to act and enhance the penalty while submitting his reply to the show cause notice. The jurisdiction was questioned on ground that the petitioner was a Class-III employee, who was appointed to the erstwhile U.P. State Electricity Board and the service regulations applicable to him were the U.P. Electricity Board (Office of Chief Engineer and Subordinate Office) Regulations, 1970. Under the aforesaid Regulations of 1970, it was the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, who could exercise powers of the kind exercised by the Chairman in relation to a Class-III employee. The legality of the Chairman's decision to issue a notice for enhancement was also challenged on the ground that the petitioner's departmental appeal against the order of punishment passed by the Disciplinary Authority was pending before the Managing Director of the Distribution Corporation, and yet, the Chairman of the Corporation assumed jurisdiction , in the exercise of his revisional powers, to punish the petitioner, foreclosing the petitioner's right to the decision of his pending appeal.

11. Apart from this, there are detailed defences raised on the merits of the charge to show on a balance of his sources of income during the relevant period of time that he could never be held guilty of possessing assets or spending money beyond his known sources of income. This Court is not minded much to go into the merits of the charge against the petitioner, which after all, in the first instance, has to be determined by the competent Authorities in the Distribution Corporation or the Corporation.

12. On 07.08.2023, when this matter came up for admission before this Court, this Court took note of the fact that the establishment had not examined any witness in support of their case, though the charge against the petitioner was serious, which could have led to the imposition of a major penalty. The Inquiry Committee had proceeded to record a finding of guilt in the absence of any witness or oral evidence being produced by the establishment. To add to it was the feature that the then Chairman of the Corporation, M. Devraj took cognizance of the matter in the exercise of his power under Regulation 13(c) of the Regulations, proceeded to issue a show cause notice to the petitioner for enhancement of the penalty imposed by the Disciplinary Authority and enhanced it to one of dismissal from service. Prima facie, this appeared to be very exceptionable to the Court, because in a matter where the inquiry was held by the Committee in a slipshod manner without the establishment proving the charge in accordance with the salutary principles, which require witnesses to be examined by the establishment apart from leading documentary evidence, the Chairman acted to enhance the penalty. Noticing these features, this Court on 07.08.2023 passed the following order:

"Let M. Devraj, former Chairman Uttar Pradesh Power

Corporation Limited, Shakti Bhawan, 14-Ashok Marg, Lucknow be impleaded as a party respondent during the course of the day.

M. Devraj, the then Chairman Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Lucknow in an order passed by the Disciplinary Authority whereagainst an appeal was pending, intervened and exercised his revisional jurisdiction under Regulation 13 of the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited Employees (Discipline and Appeal) Regulations, 2020 and enhanced the punishment awarded to the petitioner to one of dismissal from service. It appears upon a reading of the inquiry report submitted in the matter that though the charges against the petitioner were very serious, and, if proved, would in all likelihood lead to the imposition of a major penalty, yet the establishment did not examine any witness or lead oral evidence to prove the charges.

The Chairman, who passed the impugned order pending the appeal seeking to exercise his revisional orders prima facie seems to have scant knowledge of the law and apparently is not legally trained. He did not notice prima facie this flaw in proceedings of the inquiry, which goes to the root of the matter and proceeded to enhance the punishment after a show cause notice on the basis of an inquiry report where the establishment had to establish the charges by leading oral evidence.

Let M. Devraj, former Chairman Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, wherever he is posted currently, explain the circumstances in which he failed to notice the aforesaid gaping flaw in the proceedings before the Inquiry Officer while passing the impugned order.

Let the incumbent Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Shakti Bhawan, 14-Ashok Marg, Lucknow file his affidavit indicating his stand in the matter on or before 18.08.2023.

The incumbent Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Shakti Bhawan, 14-Ashok Marg, Lucknow shall cause notice of this petition and the order made today to be served upon M. Devraj, former Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Shakti Bhawan, 14-Ashok Marg, Lucknow, wherever he is currently posted.

Lay this petition as fresh on 18.08.2023.

Let this order be communicated to M. Devraj, former Chairman Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited through the Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Shakti Bhawan, 14-Ashok Marg, Lucknow and to the Chairman, Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited, Shakti Bhawan, 14-Ashok Marg, Lucknow by the Registrar (Compliance) within 24 hours."

13. By the orders passed on 07.08.2023, all that the Court wanted to know was what made the then Chairman of the Corporation, M. Devraj suddenly swoop into action and without waiting for the petitioner to avail his remedy of appeal before the competent Authority under the Regulations and without having the benefit of the Appellate Authority's opinion, proceed to enhance the punishment to one of dismissal from service. This was, particularly, thought by the Court to be prima facie a very exceptionable course, because the entire proceedings of the inquiry were founded on a fundamentally flawed procedure, as already pointed out. Instead of availing the opportunity of explaining himself by filing a personal affidavit, M. Devraj, former Chairman of the Corporation, now posted elsewhere, took exception to the order dated

07.08.2023, considering the prima facie and very tentative remarks in that order an affront to his office. Therefore, instead of filing his personal affidavit, explaining his position about the fundamentally flawed procedure noticed by this Court on a tentative opinion, he preferred a special appeal to the Division Bench against the order dated 07.08.2023. The Division Bench by its judgment and order dated 17.08.2023 declined to interfere with the order dated 07.08.2023 and remarked as follows:

"24. Once the learned single judge was seriously considering if the Revising Authority had exceeded his jurisdiction, it fell within his discretion to seek impleadment of the Revising Authority. Without forming any opinion as to that, since the matter is pending before the learned single judge, we only observe that the discretion exercised by the learned single judge does not call for interference, at this preliminary stage. What may follow, after the explanation called for is submitted, is not for us to foresee, at present. In so far as neither personal attendance has been enforced nor any harsh consequence has arisen, there is no serious injustice seen to have been caused to the Revising Authority.

27. Therefore, we find no good grounds to interfere in the discretion exercised by the learned single judge requiring the impleadment of the present respondent-appellant, in the facts noted by him. Yet, no issue has been decided and, in any case, no vital right has been adjudicated or altered, less so to the prejudice of the Revising Authority, before us.

28. Here it may be noted, even before this Court, it has not been urged, let alone admitted, that there was any inadvertent error committed by the respondent-petitioner, in appreciating the basic facts that had led to the major penalty being imposed by the Revising Authority upon a exercise of his jurisdiction, in a case where no oral evidence may have been led during the domestic enquiry proceedings.

29. Though, no conclusion is being drawn as to that, in face of the writ proceedings being pending before the learned single judge, and also since the current Chairman of the U.P. Power Corporation has expressed his desire to furnish his explanation, we observe, the interests of justice may be better served, if the present respondentappellant were to comply with the impugned order, at this stage.
